The `<maplink>` tag may contain the same geojson as `<mapframe>`.

`<maplink>` and auto-counters [\[edit\]](#)

`<maplink>` creates a link that shows a full screen map when clicked. The link text can be set with the `text` attribute. Without this attribute, the coordinates will be shown (example: `12°18′0″N 45°36′0″E`). If a map uses GeoJSON, the `marker-symbol` is set to the magic `-number` or `-letter` value. In this case each `-number` will be replaced with an incremental counter `1, 2, 3...`, and `-letter` with `A...Z` values.

If GeoJSON has more than one counter, the value of the first one will be shown as the link text. Optionally, editors may add a suffix to have multiple counters on the page at the same time. This way `-number-museum` will have different counter from `-number-bar`.

It would make sense to use a distinct color for each counting group. All data added via `<maplink>` will also be shown in all maps inserted with `<mapframe>`, unless the `group` attribute is used.

The screenshot shows a web browser window displaying a multimedia viewer for the painting 'Meisje met de parel' by Johannes Vermeer. The browser's address bar shows the URL https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Girl\_with\_a\_Pearl\_E. The viewer interface includes a search bar with the text 'Zoeken' and a navigation menu with icons for back, forward, home, and search. The painting itself is centered, showing a young girl with a blue headscarf and a large pearl earring. On the right side of the viewer, there are several interactive icons: a close button (X), a share button, a settings gear, a right arrow, and a download button. Below the painting, the title 'Meisje met de parel' is displayed. To the right of the title is a blue button with a flame icon and the text 'More details'. At the bottom of the viewer, there is a footer with the artist's name 'Johannes Vermeer', a link to the museum page <http://www.mauritshuis.nl>, and the text 'Museum page Info'. On the far right of the footer, there is a copyright icon, the text 'Public Domain', and a 'view' button.
