New York, Sept. 2.—There seemed to be less chance at dawn to-day for a race between Reliance and Shamrock HI, than on any day since the vachts first met off Sandy Hook, two weeks age first met off Sandy Hook, two weeks age to-morrow. The air was absolutely without life, and the fog so thick that objects 20 feet away could not be seen. When the verew tumbled out of their bunks it was to find themselves enveloped in a shroud of masty, heavy mist that set-eld in thick moisture over deck and spars. Nevertheless they began to prepare the boats for a race, should a breeze for racing spring up. Both crews put their foresults in stops. Shamrock's crew raised the big mainsail, while Reliance men stripped over the cover of theirs and made it ready-for hoisting.

OF HOTEL BY-LAW

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN IS TO BE CONDUCTED

A Representative Gathering of Business Men Held Last Night-Public Meeting Will Be Called.

The hotel by-law is to be submitted to, the ratepayers a week from next Tuesday. That it will be passed there is little reason to doubt, but nevertheless it is important that a campaign in the interest of the project should be started without delay. This is fully recognized by prominent citizens, headed by Mayor McCandless, who are desirous of thoroughly impressing upon the projectly owners the benefits which will inevitably result from the establishment of such a hotel as the one contemplated. A public meeting will be called by Mayor McCandless on Tuesday evening next, when the whole matter will be fully dealt with.

New Albany, Ind., Sept. 1.—As a result of his efforts in the capacity of an amateur detective, to run down a bill-raiser, Chas. Marshall, of Rego, Ind., was so hadly beaten by his prospective captive that he will die. Marshall is a young countryman, who, shortly effer joining an amateur detective association received a letter from a man in Chicago offering to sell $500 in genuine currency for $500. The letter was so worded as to give the idea that the bills were raised. Marshall opened the correspondence and arranged to meet the man, who gave his name as "Hite," in a secluded spot near New Albany. The anateur detective borrowed $200, and when the negotiations with Hite reached the point where the meney was to be exchanged he told Lifte he was under arrost. Hite knoclad Marshall down with changed he told lifte he was under ar-rest. Hite knocked Marshall down with a large stone and started to batter his victim's head into a pulp. When Mar-shall was found, horribly beaten, several hours later, the $200 he had taken to the spot were gone. Physicians at Stewards say there is no chance for his recovery.

ITALY'S KING

Takes Great Interest in the Annual Army Manoeuvres.

Rome, Sept, 1.—Some alarm was caus-d here to-day by a rumor of an accident of the royal motor car at the manocu-vres around Undine. It was stated that vres around Undine. It was stated that the King had been thrown out. It trans-pired, however, that the report was in-securate and that it was an automobile occupied by three staff officers which had occupants, direct state of the occupants, Capt. Gaultieris, suffered a broken arm, but the other two, Admiral Deldbro and Capt. Asogodro, escaped mahurt. The King is showing extraordinhurt. The King is showing extraordin-ary interest at the utilitary manoeuvres. He is the first sovereign to use a motor car in inspecting and directing the move-ments of traops. He is out every morn-ing at 5 o'clock and travels from point oint, now in the automobile, no the saddle, with a rapidity that has greatly impressed the troops. The new Marconi apparatus for wireless telegraphic communications is being used with excellent results.

He reports that as, far as can be judged from outward appearances, the spawning is going on just as well as last year, but the roe is from 10 to 12 days later in developing, and the salmon are not yet ready to ascend the creeks.

"The majority of the canneries have closed down, but a few are still being operated on the Fraser. The catches in all parts of the river were small Monday and on Sunday night, four or five fish being the average, and cohoes were more plentiful than sockeyes.

"There is likely to be some further trouble with the Puger Sound canners over the purchase of fish from British Columbia fishermen," says the News. Advertiser. "Three steamers were off Steveston on Monday, and the Fraser river fishermen were being offered 17 cents per fish, at which figure the Americans obtained quite a number of fish as the canners on the Fraser are only maxing. He canners on the Fraser are only paying the canners on the Fraser are only canners on the Fraser are only as the canners on the Fraser are only paying 14 cents for sockeyes and 12 of Trade to agree upon some arrangements for coloes. Secretary Morley, after the minutes had been read and adopted, submitted a communication from the C. P. R. relative to cheap rates from the East during the summer months. It follows: Vancouver, B. C., August 29th, 1903.

J. Morley, Esq., Secretary Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Victoria, B. C.: Dear Sir:-I beg to acknowledge receipt being too high.

being too high.

It does not seem to me that the stand taken by the Strathcona Board of Trade in this matter is a fair one, and which, 1
think, you will admit on consideration of the case as presented by them. In connection with the Westminster and Victoria tion with the Westminster and Victoria exhibitions, we make a very obeap rate for inland visitors to the Coast. It is the policy of the company to foster these exhibitions, and to that end we put in a very cheap rate to New Westminster and return for their exhibition, and inas as Victoria exhibition last year was neld you will admit no transportation company would do. The arguments advanced by this board is simply an illustration of the difficulty we experience when we put in ter was received and filed.

President Carter then announced that the executive had held a meeting during the week and had come to an impurposes last year. Such a state of affairs could not possibly be in the interests of the community. As the chamber was inaugurated with the intention of advancing the interests of the city. It had been thought a wise plan to suggest the appointment of a committee to complete a similar committee of the Board. gest the appointment of a committee to meet a similar committee of the Board

That a commerce of the trained of commerce stands prepared to meet a like committee of, the board of trade for the urpose of considering how the two bodies an best combine action in furthering the commercial interests of our city.

After some consideration the resolu-nace, recently appointed president of the ancet of ministers, has been appointed a mber of the council of the Empire.

After some consideration the resolu-tion was put and carried without any opposition. The executive was empow-ered to form a committee by adding to its number to meet a committee from the Board of Trade, as outlined in the above resolution.

As there was no further business of importance, J. L. Beckwith moved that the session adjourn in order to allow the members to attend a meeting being held for the putpose of organizing in preparation for the vote on the C. P. R. hotel by-law. This was seconded and carried, and on the suggestion of A, B. Fraser, jr., members of the chamber attended in a body.

TWO LINERS COLLIDE WITH TERRIFIC FORCE

Considerable Damage General Hutton's Recommendations Regarding Australia Militia.

A collision in Sydney harbor on the night of August 1st is described in a copy of the Sydney Sun, which arrived

On the starboard two plates have been badly holed,

"The stiftan of Johore, who was a passuager on the Argus, was interviewed some time after the collision. He said he was in his cabin when the steamers struck. The force of the impact almost threw him down. He ram into the salloof, and was advised to go on, deck. He assisted in attempting to calm the fears of the passengers. Children were accomming, and women were almost frantic with excitement. The noise was deafening, and he was surprised that the captain and officers could make them understand their orders. Finding that the women could not be pacified, he went forward to see how his horses had fared. He had 35 raceborses on deck, and was also looking after several belonging to a friend. There were fall over 160 horses on board, and they were plunging and kicking wildly. On moving about the deek he was surprised at the way the terrified Lascars were behaving, and called to them to act calmly. Even when the turgs and other small steamers had arrived the panic had not subsided.

"The Mildura is a steamer of 2,217 tons. She is 300 ft. 4 in, long, with a breadth of 42 ft. 1 im, and a depth of 21 ft. 5 in. She was built at Jarrow, in 1888, for A. Curriè & Co. She has a tonnage of 2,782 tons. Her dimensions are: Length, 225 ft.; breadth, 40 ft. 4 in, and depth, 24 ft.

Major-General Sir Edward Hutton's final report on the military forces of the Commonwealth of Australia takes exception to the efficiency of the feld force, and would postpone the organization of what he considers an assential, and been reported to him—would work to the deriment, the says, of the service, and would postpone the organization of what he considers an assential, and been reported to him—would work to the deriment, the says, of the service, and would postpone the organization of what he considers an assential, and the province of this her refers to F. ly becoming useful for some particular ly becoming useful for some particular service."

To effect efficiency he recommends the establishment of a military college, and trusts that at no distant date it may be undertaken. It has been recommended that, as part of such college, there should be a special department which would further undertake the training of Australian officers in the higher branches of their staff duties. A military college organized, on the lines of that at West Point, U. S. A., the Royal Military College of Canada, and the great public schools of England, would provide a system of education combining practical and technical subjects with those of a military character. A recommendation, which the G. O. C. hopes will receive favorable consideration, is that officers of the Royal Australian, Artillery Regiment should be permitted to exchange with the officers of the Royal Artillery should be allowed to exchange with officers of the Royal Artillery Regiment.

A return compiled by the department of the great should be the same and that, inversely, officers of the Royal Artillery Regiment.

night of August 1st is described in a copy of the Sydney Sun, which arrived on the steamer Moana yesterday. The paper, in its report, says:

"The weather was wet and bad, and the sky was overcast and gloomy. Suddenly, in the gloom and darkness, it a spot where handreds have expected a dreadful catastrophe to happen, two vessels of considerable size, the Argus and the Andura, crashed into each other. The seriousness of the situation was at once realized by the captains of the Corpessonding period last year. THE HOTEL BY-LAW

The meeting of citizens last evening was so representative and so unanimous public opinion strongly approves of the hotel project. A committee is taking the matter in hand and intends to make as surance doubly sure by stimulating interest in the matter. It would be unfornate if those who desire to see the hotel erected, should neglect to exercise the franchise on the supposition that there would be no opposition, and that the scheme should fail, through over-

The Times, has expressed itself already in strong support of the project-and can only endorse heartily the course of the city council in submitting this by-law to the people. The C.P.R, is receiving a valuable site for their hotel, but they are not getting more than half what it was suggested they should receive last year, when the proposition was up. It was then proposed that they should take the whole of the flats. By the agreement which is the outcome of the negotiations carried on by His Worship Mayor Mc The whole effect would be to degrade one Candless, and Messrs, Mara and Cuthbert with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, only a portion of the flats are aliented, and the remainder is so largely enhanced in value as to compensate the city for what Necessarily the concessions are from the corporation, but indirectly the city received advantages the value of which scarcely be estimated. Already the C.P.R. is interesting itself in advertising development of the city of Vancouver and its growing commercial importance, but the C.P.R. is catering not to commercial trade alone, but to the tourist facts know we'l, from C.P.R. officials themselves, that the big Canadian road has been disappointed in its efforts to retain tourists at the Hotel Vancouver. These travellers have seen, it is true, bustling young city, but they complain of the lack of scenic attractions. It is to meet this want that the C.P.R. is to Victoria, which with two hundred miles of the finest woodland, country alle sea front drives, its fortificafleet and drydock, its. parliaall its climate fills the very want which central staff, who act as the nation But the agent asked him if he did not exercise, there for the same money as his ticket warm praise which the co to Vancouver would cost, and su in inducing him to do so. That gentleman has been in Victoria nearly a week now, and so charmed is he with it that he is likely to become a resident of the

This is but an illustration of what the C.P.R. can do, not out of Benevolence for Victoria, but from motives of selfinterest. Their enormous trans Pacific trade by the Empresses is not now checked at the Coast for any length of time but drifts on to the mountains, where it congress accommodation to such an extent as to render extensive additions to chalcis and hotels necessary. With a house in this city accommodating half a thousand people, this trade can be regu lated and the coffers of the company further enriched. And by the way, there is no more lucrative enstoner to the mor-

The advertising of this hotel will constitute in itself the very best literatur this city can obtain, and will be a valu able auxiliary to the work of the Tourist Association. We believe it is the day of every citizen to inside the passage of the by-law by every means in his power.

THE WAR COMMISSION.

The report of the Royal Comm inquire into the conduct of the South African war revives a painful episode in the history of British arms. The prolongation of that struggle for the number of years it occupied could scarcely be explained as due to ordinary cause and the document which the commistae suspicion of the public that gross nismanagement was responsible for the disasters which befel our forces in the earlier stages of the campaign.

brunt of blame, as expected, is carried by the war office. General Wofseley in his evidence, attributed the trouble to the subordinate position held by the commander-in-chief to the Secretary of State for War, and declared that We notice in a number of papers that held office. He fights all his election this statement has been taken up, and a the open. His friends say he will be demand made that the commander-in chief be made all but absolute at least uring active service. It is pointed out that it is military chiefs who, knowing the game of war, should be given the paramount authority when hostilities commence. But some of these writer perhaps overlook that to do this would be to render the government of the day responsible for enormous expenditures The Briton wants to win in the field, but he is extremely jealous of tion commence at this end. All of which his constitutional privileges, and one of these, through the representatives in parliament is theoretical, if not absolute control and sovereignty in all matters af-

A few months ago Lord Rosebery in speech in which he attacked the war office, offered the suggestion that the commander-in-chief should hold a portfolio in the cabinet, thus becoming a responsible minister, and meeting the objection to giving larger powers to a man who has no mandate from the people and is in no way responsible to them. But (we think Mr. Chamberlain), the weak ness of such a plan would lie in the fact nation would become a political one, and that its occupant, being a member of the cabinet must necessarily be changed with every change of administration. The inmen would be divided into two political. camps, and promotion, if the experience of other lands be accepted as a guide, would not follow the rules of seniority or of rank, but of political profession, result of a change in the father? middle of a campaign would be, we do not care to outline.

As a matter of fact there may be much truth in what the Marquis of Lansdowne said in reply to Lord Wolsley, that that officer while commander-inchief failed to make use of the powers placed at his disposal. This seems to war. When Lords Roberts and Kitchener took the field, nothing seems to have been done to hamper their move ments. Where the military head is an efficient officer, it is not likely that a war secretary is going to cripple his ef forts; but where he is inefficient it is very necessary that the people through the war secretary should have the power of regulating him.

Even some of the United States papers | feet, express surprise that the British com mander-in-chief has not larger powers Yet we fail to understand the real diff ference between the British system and that obtaining at Washington. For is stance, the new act of congress which ment · luildings, its beaches and above has just gone into force creates a large the C.P.R. experiences in catering to militant executive, with General Young the C.P.R. experiences in catering to this great and growing frade. There are public meetings called for less liftportant matters than this, so there ought to be one called for this special purpose. The people certainly want a competitive railways line, but if a momentous question like this is to be opposed by gepresentatives of the province what are we to do? Although it is some time since anything has been said about the proposal of the different LO.O.F. lodges to establish a home for the old members of the order, every ledge of the province is active in the work of raising the necessary funds. It will be remembered that at the last meeting of the Grand Lodge $600 was granted to assist in carrying through the proposal. This, togetherwith some $1.500 which had been raised previously, made the total fund about $2.100, and since then a per capita tax of 10 cents has been in force. However, there is not yet by any means enough modey to go ahead with the scheme. The LO.O.F. 40dge at Rossland is progress-1.0.0.F. doige at Rossland is progressing wonderfully in its membership. Tug Pilot, Capt. Searf, which returned hulk John C. Potter, had an ex perience in northern waters from which few steamers escape so fortunately. The tug, left Ladysmith with the Richard III, on August Sth. The Richard III. was left at Juneau and the Pilot, prowas left at Juneau and the Pilot, proceeding to Treadwell, gigked up the Potter, which was loaded for Tacoma. She had proceeded about sixty miles on the down voyage when her shaft eracked.

The accident was serious, and in rough water the steamer might have found herself in a very akward predicament, but under the circumstances the tug was not rendered helpless. She put about and started for Taku Arm, when the American steam schooner, Ella Rolifs came along and offered a tow. Negotiations were soon completed between the two skippers and the Pilot and her tow tions were soon completed between the two skippers and the Pilot and her tow were taken on to Taku, where the Pot-ter was anchored while the tug pro-ceeded to Tredadwell for repairs. A steel ting was here tightly fitted over the some days' delay the steamer was able to resume her trip south. Arriving here yesterday afternoon the tug left the Potter in Esquimalt and came into the inner harbor. The Potter is loaded with 1300 tons of concentrates a band at 277.

1,300 tons of concentrates values at 70,000.

NO SEIZURES,

The San Francisco Examiner says; "Sealskins valued at $500,000 were brought into port by the steamer W. H. Kruger. The hold of the steamer conbrought into port by the steamer W. H. Kruger. The hold of the steamer contained 20,000 skins, which were consigned to the North American Commercial Company. The shipment comprises the season's catch from the northern seal islands. The W. H. Kruger touched at St. Paul island, St. George island and Dutch, Harbor, and brought down a quantity of valuable furs, in addition to the sealskins. The season's sealing catch, is considered an average one, and the catch would have been larger had not a number of pelagic sealers hunted in the grounds. J. C. Redpath, the agent for the North American Commercial Company, arrived here on the W. H. Kruger from St. Paul island. He states that a number of sealing schooners were sighted off St. Paul and several were boarded by the revenue officers, but no seizures were made.

"The steamer brought down a curio in the shape of a bureau which was formerly the property of Admiral Pribyloff. The plees of furniture was landed on St. Paul island in 1,784 when the Russians first set foot on the soil. It is now the property of H. H. Taylor.

THE COAL MARKET,

The report for Angust 27th, issued by Harrison, the San Francisco coal broker, states that 36,873 tons of coal have been received from Anstralia since the Ventura sailed. There are at present on the chartered list from Newcastle and Sydney, with coal for that port, 52 vessels with a carrying capacity of over 150,000 tons. With this amount and the liberal shipments now being forwarded from British Columbia and Washington there is no probability of a shortage in fuel requirements for some time. The 27 vessels arriving from Australia during the last six weeks have reduced the colonial list from that port very considerably, as new names are not being added to replace the names being taken off. Furthermore, the port is not desirable to seek for outward business with 54 disengaged vessels seeking charters. Then again foreign coals will be dropped from the free list, and become again dutiable on January 15th, 1904.

It is generally, believed that the administration will not modify the present situation, yet importers will naturally be very chary about purchasing freely until they are better informed as to the future; no action is being taken by the local importers to insure coal remaining andutiable, their laxity may prove costly to them, as over 80 per cent, of the coal is derived, from foreign sources, large consumers become heavy contributors to a change of tariff.

The sword play of Galif Sahib, however, is the most remarkable of all the feats performed. Galif Sahib is chief instructor of the army of the Nyzar of Hyderabad, and when he comes out to do his "turn" he carries in his arms a big bundle of swords of a kind quite unlike those to which western folk are accustomed. They consist of long daggers of various kinds and a particularly long, double-edged sword that bends and smakes like a whip in his hands. On the point of one of these swords he places a pinch of powder and then with a vicinal thrust he jabs the point into his eye, frypoing the powder there without bucking the ball, so sure and certain is his control of the blade.

Without disturbing the water in the least he whirls one of the long swords over his head, bringing it down on the leaves and cutting them in two without scratching the men's breasts. Again, one of the men balances a banana on his neck and Galif cleaves it in twain, just as he does a potato held on the top of a man's head. answer as a sitting room for them.

The young foreigner, however, had made different plans, and insisted upon them. There was a wing at the left of the house which two hundred years ago had suffered severely in the great fire that had burút néarly hair the manor house to the ground. What was left having been sufficient for the needs of the humbler people who had come afterwards to turn the place into a farm, the partially-destroyed wing had never been rebuilt, and had grown more ruinous with the passage of years.

Half the roof had fallen in, and the more rooms were unimbabitable; but.

Walted in hone. Then, on the third day after the new-comer had been installed as an inmate of New-Take Farmhouse, an old woman, who dooked like a gipsy, appeared in the farmyard, where Elizabeth Truro was feeding a calf.

"Lady, will you give a tired wanderer a drink of milk," she asked, "and have your fortune told in payment?"

upper 'rooms were uninhabitable; but, save toat the windows were unglazed, several rooms on the ground floor were practically intact. Wood and coals were piled in one. In another were potatoes; in a third old packing cases were stored

Nothing could well have been more des olate than the appearance inside and out | the of this north wing, which, to make it still more unattractive, had the reputation of being haunted. A lady and her baby had been stifled by the smoke in one of the upper rooms on the night of the great fire, and had perished their in agony. Ever since, it was said, a woman's shrieks and a child's pitiful crying could be heard in the north wing on wild nights, when the wind was high agit had been during the burning of the manor house with its mistress and the heir of two centuries ago.

Nevertheless it was in the north wing where young Mr. Dupont obstinately in the great copper corner, the collapse of which shook to its foundations the French financial world.

Nevertheless it was in the north wing where young Mr. Dupont obstinately insisted that his eccentric relative should be lodged. The lady's bedchamber must also be there, as she would not wish to be too far away from the invalid at night: but she might have a bouldir other own in a more cheerful situation. Then she could go and come as she chose. And there must also be a room somewhere in the hoose where Mr. Dupont himself could sleep when he came down from town to visit his relatives, as he intended to do sometimes.

All, the Truros objections to making use of the rooms in the north wing were met with counter arguments. Yes, it was, true that the windows and floors must be repaired. But, if money were forthconling, could not Mr. Truro himself do the work necessary to make the place habitable by the end of a fortuight? As for the ghost stories, Mr. Dupont shrugged incredulous shoulders. He was a singularly determined young man, with a passionate way of talking when he was in carnest, which Thomas Truro supposed to be characteristic of foreigners; therefore, he had his own way, with windows curtained on the outside with ivy which the Truros had been especially requested not to remove.

Strangely enough this picture did no give place to another later on, though months passed, and Mr. and Miss Dupont still remained at New-Pake Farm than it would have been in most houses.

JAPAN'S FOREIGN POLICY.

Big Mass Meeting Held at Yokohama vigorous foreign policy was held. A lengthy manifesto and a resolution were submitted and passed.

The manifesto stated that the maintenance of the peace of Eastern Asia was the mission as well as to the interest of Japan, and all her doings in Korea and China, as wel as the conclusion of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, were to that end. On the other hand, recent Russian policy apparently tended to dis-turb the peace of the Far East. After the repeated disregard on the part of Japan of the rather intolerable aggres-sion of Russia in China and Korea, they naturally expected that Russia would fulfil her treaty obligation by effecting the evacuation of Manchuria. Contrary to their expectations; however, Russia had completely ignored her obligations and had pressed China to conclude a se-

Smaller, but more speedy, was the Kasagi, of 4,760 tons, and with her were two torpedo boat destroyers. The speed of the battleships was 18 to 18½ knots with Welsh coal, or 16 to 16½ with Japanese. The large cruisers have speeds of 21 to 22 knots with Welsh and 18 to 19 knots with Japanese coal. The Kasagi has a speed of 23 knots and the destroyers of 32 knots. The whole fleet, even when burn-ing Japanese conl, had thus a speed of 16 to 165 knots.

All of the ships, save the Kasagi, were English built. The Japanese authorities are quite determined that

The Japanese war vessels are very similar in appearance to British ships; indeed, the captain of the Russian gunboat at Chemulpo told me that, when this fleet arrived one morning, he thought it was a British fleet come for some mysterious diplomatic purpose. Once at sea, the effect of the Japanese coul when used with Belleville boilers was apparent. On all the vessels, save the Asama and the Tokiwa, which have cylindrical Scotch boilers, torrents of smoke paned from the funnels. Later on the Kasagi was burning a patent fuel, which gave no smoke at all. It is composed of pitch and coal dust, and costs only half as much as Welsh coal. As both soft coal dust and pitch are found in quantities in Japan, the fuel is likely to play a great part in the future.

In support of his statements he drew the other day from one of the pigeomboles of his desk a loose handful of clippings. Form the classical ads of the log good to be true. At work the bluejackets wear white, a red band being worn on the left or right arm to signify starboard or port watch. They wear straw hats or caps, almost identical with those in use in the British navy. Many of the men wear boots, aithough this is not encouraged on board ship. They cat rice mixed with barley, canned meat and vegetables, and biscuits. It is not permissible for the men to take rice alone, as this has been found to bring on dropsy. The men are all armed with Murata rifles, invented and manufactured in Japan, and short bayonets. For over an hour the work of aiming, loading and cleaning the guns in the turrets, casemates and batteries was carried on seriously. Many of the commands contain English words, and it is very curious to them. Special attention was paid to the cleaning and repairing of the guns, as also to the protection of the guns, as also to the

The fleet with which was the large armored cruiser Asama, on which I was placed, was in itself a striking demonstration of Japan's naval strength. All the ships were new, homogeneous and speedy. To cause them in review, There was the Shikishima, the dagship, buttlesship of 14,800 tohs; the Asahi, newly come from England, of 15,200 tons, also of the line of battle. Of first-ciass crui-

The former are in the shape of a blue sash, worn diagonally over the left shoulder, and contain biscuit ratious and spare cartridges. At a bugie call, all are in their places in the boats, and remain at attention until the dismiss is sounded.

To see the crew assembled to listen to the explanation of new orders by the captain was to be impressed by the wonderful intelligence and interest of wonderful intelligence and interest of the men, as well as by their discipline.

The whole of the personnel of the Japanese navy are filled with pride in their traditions and their ships, and will do well should ever the occasion arise.—Alfred Stead in London Mail.
