OF INTEREST TO TAXPAYERS.

The public has already been informed that Glendale has a public library established by city ordinance passed in August and henceforth to be supported by taxation. The amount thus raised for this year's expenses will necessarily be small and the board of library trustees are figuring closely how to pay for rent, librarian's salary, fuel, lights and some other running expenses and have something left with which to purchase books. On the matter of the selection of these the book committee has spent some thought, taking into consideration the fact that the High and Grammar schools both have very excellent libraries, either of them being much larger than the Glendale library now is and containing some good books of reference, and that the general demand at the public library is for late fiction. In the matter of selection the committee is desirous of pleasing the community, including pupils of the schools, who constitute a goodly number of borrowers, and if persons wishing to read any book not in the library, or parties desiring to have included in the list for the coming year any magazines, will leave the names of such with the librarian or with any member of the library board it will receive consideration when selections are made and aid the committee in learning the taste of the public which they desire to serve satisfactorily. As the members of the library board receive no recompense whatever for their services they will regard as a favor any suggestions on the subjects mentioned.

The following choice selection of late books has just been received at the library and will be reviewed from week to week: "Four Corners," by Amy E. Blanchard; "American Indian Fairy Tales," by Margaret Compton; "Captain June," by Alice Hegan Rice; "A Daughter of the Rich," by M. E. Waller; "Truthful Jane," by Florence Morse Kingsley; "The Cuban and Porto Rican Campaign," by Richard Harding Davis; "Ray and Ray in Mexico," by Mary Wright Plummer; "A Lost Leader," by Oppenheim; "The Wizard's Daughter," by Margaret Collier Graham; "The Fruit of the Tree," by Edith Wharton; "The Weavers," by Gilbert Parker; "Ancestors," by Gertrude Atherton.

A brief review of two of the above books follows:

"Captain June,"

By ALICE HEGAN RICE.

Those who know "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," will be delighted to learn that the latest of this keenly human and original writer's books can be had at the library. "Captain June" is the story of a small American boy left by his mother in the home of his Japanese nurse and of the interesting things which he saw in the new land and of the brave little soldier that he proved himself to be. The quaint Japanese manner of speech is true to life and while this book is essentially a child's book and does not possess the sparkling vivac-ity and originality of the story which made this author's literary reputation, it is nevertheless entertaining in its delineations of Japanese life in many interesting phases.

"American Indian Fairy Tales,"

By MARGARET COMPTON.

This is a distinctly new contribution to American literature, the quaint and curious Indian fairy tales being founded upon government reports of Indian life, in the Smithsonian Institute, to which the writer had access and upon the standard works of various writers upon Indian subjects. Dainty conventional flower designs embellish each page and odd, weird drawings illustrate the tales. This is 'old of the coyote:

"The coyote must forever go hungry, for, when the animals were let loose upon the earth and each sprang upon its prey, the mountain sheep, which was given the coyote, dodged him and ever since all coyotes blunder in the chase."

As Indian life and love are receiving so much public attention, both children and older readers will doubtless be charmed with the book and the anthropologist will find somewhat of interest in it.

The following persons constitute the library board of trustees:

E. D. Goode, president; Ella C. Witham, Eleanor R. Blackburn, A. L. Bryant, Lillian S. Wells, secretary.

THE TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The Tuesday Afternoon Club met this week for the first time since the holiday intermission of five weeks.

Mrs. Robert Morris, as president, occupied the chair. Among the important questions coming up for discussion was that of changing the date of election of officers from June 23 to May 23, in order to facilitate the matter of getting the list of new officers before the secretary of the General Federation of Woman's clubs in time for use in the year book.

The original statement for pension written in January, 1812, by General Jacob Morris, was read by Mrs. Charles E. Stanley, a direct descendant of the famous old fighter.

Mrs. F. L. Church presented a paper sent to the club by her friend, Mrs. Starr Barnum, of Danbury, Conn., who wrote the paper "Colonial Times" for her chapter, the Mary Wooster D. A. R., of which the writer is a prominent member.

Mrs. Ezra F. Parker gave a bright talk on colonial times, telling in a graphic manner of how people lived in those stirring times without the everyday comforts which we enjoy, stating that the Father of his Country never even saw such a simple thing as an ordinary gas jet, a lamp, a stove, telephone, a twelve-foot pane of glass, or even such little things as a steam launch or an automobile, not to mention a wireless message or an airship. The meeting adjourned to meet again on February 30th, when Washington's Birthday will be celebrated with a colonial tea, in the Odd Fellows' hall.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

Ladies of M. E. Church Societies Surprise Mrs. Thomas Hezmalhalch.

Last Wednesday afternoon amid bowers of floral bloom, happy speeches and kind words, occurred at the home of Mrs. Dana Fiske on Jackson street, one of the most charming farewell receptions ever tendered in Glendale. The recipient was Mrs. Thomas Hezmalhalch who has been a resident of this vicinity for twenty-three years. The affair was given in the nature of a surprise, the first knowledge Mrs. Hezmalhalch had of the event being as she entered the door in response to called business meeting of one of the societies of which she is a member.

The surprise was planned and carried out by the Ladies' Aid Society, Foreign and Home Missionary Societies, of the M. E. church. Mrs. Hezmalhalch has been treasurer of the Aid Society since the church was organized and has ever been faithful in service and had cheering and kind words for all, and has won a wide circle of friends during her long residence here.

As Mrs. Hezmalhalch entered the door the assemblage of about fifty friends rising greeted her with "Blest Be the tie that binds." Following conversation, a short presentation speech was made by Rev. Burton, who gave to the honored guest from the Aid Society a silken ribbon on which was printed the names of the ladies of the societies entertaining.

With appropriate words Mrs. Ellen B. Newcomb presented for the Foreign Missionary Society a gold pin and for the Ladies' Aid Society a gold thimble. Mrs. Newcomb then read the following verse:

Dear Friend:
We meet with you to say good-bye.

How sadly we shall miss your face,
When we are met and you are gone,
From out your old accustomed place.
Our kindest thoughts will follow you
Where you may choose to make your home—

We pray that He who loveth all
Will keep you safe where'er you roam.

With loving thoughts we give to you
This little farewell token,
And trust our friendship will remain
Through all our years unbroken.

The charming repast that had been prepared by the ladies was then served from the midst of a beautiful arrangement of smilax, carnations and roses. Following the service of the bounteous supply of good things, good wishes were exchanged, good-byes were said and the pleasant affair passed into memory.

Mrs. Hezmalhalch leaves soon for Chicago where she will make her future residence. Her kind acts, faithful service and smiling face will never be forgotten and Glendale has suffered a great loss by her departure.

INFORMAL MUSICALE.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Susemihl on Wednesday evening at the Vermont Hotel entertained at dinner a company of friends in honor of Miss Esther May Plumb, a distinguished contralto concert singer of Davenport, Iowa, the former home of the Susemihls. The Vermont guests and visitors had the pleasure of hearing Miss Plumb's magnificent contralto, in addition to enjoying vocal contributions from our own well known musicians, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Susemihl. Miss Plumb will appear in concert in the important coast cities before returning to the East.

GLENDALE, CAL., JANUARY 18, 1908

In the columns of our patent inside contemporaries we find that "Japan's fighting men are called home," "Japanese are rushing shipments of powder from Chile," etc., and that in France the papers are speculating on the relative strength of the two nations. All of which shows that the paper war between the two powers is still being waged merrily. The casualties as yet are slight, but that will be remedied as soon as the reports of the yellow press have time to think about it.

Wild Beasts at Sierra Madre

Sierra Madre people are complaining that the coyotes come into town too frequently and carry on business without a license. Even wildcats stray over the city boundary occasionally regardless of the ordinances.

The next report of escapes from Noah's ark that are infesting our sister city will probably be the tiger and the blind pig, and then as she attains to the importance of a metropolis, the bulls and bears will take possession.

But even when all this comes to pass in its evolution toward the ideal, Sierra Madre will keep ahead of the hounds and the whole menagerie.

Hollywood Liquor Ordinance

Hollywood has a liquor ordinance framed after the one that made Long Beach famous. P. J. Beveridge, one of the city trustees, gave a dinner at the Hotel Hollywood to the highway commission and wine was served. We do not know how many guests turned down their glasses, but at least one other member of the board of trustees sampled the beverage sufficiently to convince him that there was a break being made in the city ordinance and complaint was made accordingly.

Mr. Beveridge resigned his position as trustee and stood trial. His defense was that the hotel was his home and he was therefore entitled to serve strong drink to his guests there if he wanted to do so. The court sustained him and peace once more broods over the sylvan scene.

Antelope Valley

We congratulate Antelope Valley upon having such an able exponent of its merits as the Antelope Valley Ledger, which issues a review number of recent date that would be creditable to a much more populous town than Lancaster.

We have not visited the valley for several years and are glad to have the evidence of its growth and prosperity which is presented in the columns of the Ledger.

We note that there have been shipped from Lancaster during the past season, 23,800 pounds of honey, 120,000 pounds of pears (from the Little Rock district), thousands of boxes of apples, and several thousand sacks of wheat; all of which shows that the desert is not only blossoming, but yielding an abundant harvest.

For the Public Good

Under this heading we wish to maintain a column or more of our space weekly to be devoted to communications from our subscribers and others upon matters of common interest. It may in course of time come to be known as the "kickers' column," for we expect the bulk of the matter composing it to be in the nature of complaints.

There are many things in this, as in every community, that are not as they should be; there are many people who have ideas for the betterment of things, some of them valuable and some otherwise, and it is for the ventilation of these ideas that this department will be maintained. There are many good citizens who conceive and maintain ideas as to public affairs which are entirely erroneous and which would be changed by free discussion. The very fact of putting their erroneous ideas into cold print is sufficient sometimes to remove them from the minds of the persons who conceive them.

We care not who may be hit in this column if the hit is palpably fair, and the space for a denial or a brief argument on the other side will be accorded freely. In some cases we shall be able to investigate and explain things not generally understood, and so aid in bringing about a better understanding in the community.

The arena is clear; the bugle has sounded; go to it!

The President and His Critics

President Roosevelt has explained why he appointed a physician to command a hospital ship; his correspondence with the governor of Nevada explains satisfactorily his action in regard to the soldiers at Goldfield. In both cases the president was right, and in regard to other actions which he has taken that have been sharply criticised, it has almost invariably been found that the president had the best of reasons for his actions.

In this connection we recall the fact that the "Appeal to Reason" has lately been attempting to make capital out of the alleged fact that while governor of New York, Mr. Roosevelt approved a certain act which favored the railroad interests of Mr. Harriman. It even goes to the expense and trouble of dedicating pages of its more or less valuable(?) space to correspondence, etc., on the subject.

The thought might occur to any fair-minded reader that one may safely assume that Gov. Roosevelt did approve a law which worked for the interest of the railroad rather than that of the public, and the fact detract nothing from the high estimation in which he is held by the American people. It is not claimed by those who believe in him that Theodore Roosevelt is infallible in his judgment, altho his average in this direction is remarkably high. It is claimed, however, and the entire history of his public life is submitted as evidence to support the assertion, that he is inspired by a desire to work for the benefit of the whole of the people; and if in one or two particular instances he approved of acts which did not in the actual working out accomplish the results he hoped for, it merely proves that he is a human being and is therefore liable to occasional errors of judgment.

There never was or ever will be any man occupying a high position who escaped criticism, but the fault-finding that is clearly inspired by malice and a desire to play upon the passions of the ignorant should find no defender among people of intelligence and patriotism.

Two Men of Honor

Every now and then something happens in the world that makes us feel more than usually glad that we live in it. But yesterday we were told by a man who seemed to really believe his own assertion, that there is no honesty in public life, and today we are made cognizant of the following facts. Both of these incidents occurred in Portland, Ore.: W. H. Moore, president of the Oregon Trust Co., voluntarily made over to the creditors of that bank when it went into a receiver's hands, altho not legally required to do so, his entire private fortune amounting to a million dollars. By this act he reduced himself from affluence to poverty.

The second instance relates to the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. of the same city, which closed its doors last November. For many years Mr. Wm. Ladd had been a director of the concern, but had withdrawn some months previous to the failure. The liabilities of the bank were two and a half millions. Mr. Ladd was one of the pioneer bankers of Portland and had a high reputation in the north-west, and to this reputation much of the large patronage given the bank was due. Creditors claimed that he was morally responsible and Mr. Ladd accepted the responsibility and entered into an agreement to pay the whole indebtedness of the institution within a period of three years. He takes over the assets of the bank and will not be a loser to the full extent of the liabilities; but his action is none the less commendable and shows that his reputation as a man of honor has not been exaggerated, but is backed up by a character deserving of all praise.

While there have recently been many exposures of fraud in high places and of crooked methods in the business world, we believe it to be a fact capable of demonstration that public men are fairly representative of their constituents and of even more than average honesty, while the seeker for an honest man will stand a better chance of finding him quickly in the ranks of business men than elsewhere.

COMPOSITION OF THE STARS.

III.

The Spectroscope.

In concluding our consideration of the distance of the stars from us, let us clearly understand the difference between stars and planets. The planets are those bodies which revolve around the sun, and are, therefore, comparatively near to us, and which, with the satellites which circle around them, form what is called the solar system. What we call the stars are orbs similar to our sun, but situated at such remote distances that Jupiter or Venus, two of the brightest planets of the solar system, may under favorable circumstances, easily outshine Sirius, the brightest star in the sky. The following striking illustration, of Sir Oliver Lodge, will serve to fix in our minds the relative distances of the stars and planets, and to emphasize the distinction between the two. Suppose you could, by some means, travel at the rate of 2000 miles in one-tenth of a second of time, that is to say, 20,000 miles a second; in 12 seconds you could reach the moon, and the sun in about an hour and a quarter. Travelling continually at this rate, you would, in 24 hours, leave the remotest member of the solar system behind, and begin your plunge into the depths of space. How long would it be before you encountered another object? A month, would you guess? No, indeed, not in a month; but twenty years must you journey at that enormous speed, before you reach the nearest star, and then another twenty years before you reach another! At these awful distances the stars are scattered in space, and were they not of immense size and brilliantly self-luminous and glowing like our sun, they would be quite invisible to us.

But, although so far away, we can tell with moderate certainty that they are composed for the most part of the same substances as we are familiar with in the sun, the earth and the other planets of the solar system. The instrument revealing this amazing fact is the spectroscope, one of the marvels of the latter half of the nineteenth century. And in order that the reader may understand the method of investigation, it will be necessary to describe, in part, the principles of this extraordinary apparatus.

We are all familiar with the fact that a glass prism will separate the rays of white light into rays of different colors. The colors are not distinct one from the other, but each runs into the other by insensible gradations, from deep crimson through red, scarlet, orange, yellow, green and blue to a faint violet. Such a spreading out of the elementary colors in the form of a visible band is called a spectrum, and when the light comes from the sun, it is called the solar spectrum. The spectroscope is an extended arrangement of prisms in which the light from the incandescent body is separated into its component parts, and each part again further separated and analyzed. This constitutes what is called spectrum analysis. Different kinds of light, that is to say, light from different sources, give different kinds of spectra, and herein lies the great interest and value of the study of spectra. As different bodies in a state of incandescence, give different spectra, according to constitution and temperature, it is possible to reach certain inferences respecting their constitution. Every element is found to give a certain characteristic spectrum, unlike that of any other substance, when its incandescent light is analyzed in the spectroscope. And the spectrum of every substance on the earth having been carefully noted and mapped out, when we see the same spectra in the sun, we may be quite sure they are formed by the same substances as on the earth.

For more than fifty years astronomers have been studying the solar spectrum, and the spectra of the stars, and so fine and elaborate have their observations become that the stars, though so distant, have yielded many of their secrets as to composition, constitution and relative temperature.

When the spectra of many thousands of stars had been recorded for study, a definite relation was observed to exist between the color of a star and the general character of its spectrum. Three types of stars were thus recognized: 1. white or slightly blue stars, like Sirius, Altair, Vega and Rigel, which all show strong hydrogen lines. 2. the somewhat yellowish stars, like Capella, Arcturus, Pollux and Procyon, which are chiefly interesting to us from the great resemblance of their spectra to that of our sun, from which we may infer that our sun belongs to this class, and that they are at the present time similarly constituted. The third type comprises mostly the red stars. Since this classification was made in the early days of the history of this science, many variations and elaborations have been introduced, and there are now many subdivisions of each type. We shall refer to these types in another paper, but the main conclusions of the early investigators remain unchanged, which indicate the interesting fact that the stars are for the most part composed of the same elements as are found in the sun, and as the latter contains most of the elements found on the earth and few or no others, we may conclude that the earth and the stars are made out of like matter.

This unity of nature and the all-pervading extension of substances with which we are familiar, is one of the grandest generalizations of modern science. These distant suns are thus seen to be of the same nature with our own sun, formed of the same substances, subject to the same law of gravitation and the intelligent imagination will inevitably carry on the analogy and picture each sun surrounded by circling planets forming the abode of intelligent and happy existences, suited by adaptation to the planets on which they dwell. And as it appears to be the supreme object of nature to produce life, which everywhere makes its appearance under suitable conditions, such inferences rise to a high degree of probability.

X-RAY.

IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Some of the difficulties that confront builders in their effort to reconstruct San Francisco are exemplified in the operations on the site of the new Palace hotel. The enormity of the work necessary to put the site in condition to begin construction work may be understood when it is remembered that it took six months time, and the expenditure of $90,000 to remove the debris and ruined walls after the fire had destroyed the magnificent structure.

The excavation has been made ready for the steel framework after months of additional work in which hundreds of piles have been driven through the sand to firm ground. On these piles have been laid heavy foundations of steel bars and concrete for the support of the immense superstructure which will be nine stories high and cover a ground area of 275 by 344 feet, an entire city block.

It is expected to have the hotel completed about the fourth anniversary of the fire which destroyed the old one and that occasion will be marked by one of the most magnificent dinners ever given in the country, to be given by The California Promotion committee, and to which will be invited the president of the United States and his cabinet, the rulers of foreign countries, and all the diplomatic officers at Washington, all the governors of the various States of the Union, and representative financial and commercial leaders of all parts of the world. No expense will be spared to make this dinner, which will commemorate San Francisco's reconstruction, the most notable in modern history, and it will be the culmination of a week of festivities marking the most wonderful recovery from disaster ever recorded.

The J. O. C. club met at the home of Pearl Goode on Cedar street on Tuesday evening. After the usual hour of business there was a taffy-pull.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith have moved into the Wiedenfeller house on Glendale avenue with the idea of purchasing the place if they are pleased with our town.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Barnard and daughter, who arrived in Glendale on Friday evening, are house-guests of Dr. A. L. Bryant. They will spend several months in Glendale among relatives.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church will meet at the home of Mrs. B. F. Patterson, at 2:30 p. m., Tuesday, January 21st. Attention will be given to plans for the coming year.

Mrs. Asa Fansett has for some days past been confined to her bed with a very severe case of rheumatism. She is attended by her daughter, Miss May, who is thus necessarily absent from her duties at the postoffice.

Mrs. Greenwood, who, with her family, is spending the winter in the Hardy cottage in Sycamore Canon, has for the week past been very ill with the grip. Her son Fred has also been absent from school a number of days, while suffering from the same disease.

Reverend and Mrs. George Eley recently entertained in a very delightful way for Miss Emma Williams of Germany, who is spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Menzo Williams of North Glendale. Also for Miss Nellie Williams of Santa Monica and Mrs. Menzo Williams and daughters. Quite a number of charming events have of late been given to honor Miss Williams in Glendale and Los Angeles.

Miss Mary Doyle, of Covina, spent the week-end in visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Doyle, Verdugo Road. Miss Doyle is teaching in Covina, and being much interested in church and other work there, does not often have the opportunity of spending her Saturdays and Sundays in her own home. Last year Miss Doyle taught the primary department in the Tropico Grammar school.

Mrs. Anson Pitcher at her home in Los Angeles gave a delightful luncheon on Thursday last which was attended by the following Glendale people: Mrs. F. H. Vesper, Mrs. Naudain and Mrs. Eugene Pitcher. The table was beautifully decorated and supplied with most appetizing viands. After the luncheon there was music, both instrumental and vocal, which was greatly enjoyed by the guests.

Mrs. Archie Kelley and daughters, of Lynn, Mass., arrived very unexpectedly Saturday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. George G. Ward, Third street, and expects to spend the remainder of the winter in Glendale and vicinity, as the majority of her relatives are here, either to live or to spend several months. Mrs. Kelley expected to come later, and her many local relatives were delighted as they were surprised over her arrival late Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Hasselman and son, James, of Chicago, relatives of Miss Ida M. Waite, and Madame Hasselman, are domiciled at Wood's hotel and the Vert Mont, intending to spend several months in Glendale, with which they express themselves as "more than delighted." James has already entered the Union High school. They intend to go to light housekeeping as soon as possible and will be a welcome addition to local society, as Mrs. Hasselman made numerous friends here during a previous visit.

A very quiet wedding took place on Wednesday evening last when Miss Emma Rose of Eureka, California, was married to Mr. Martin Fulton of Eureka by the Rev. Dr. Ward of Glendale.

Miss Rose is the sister of Mrs. Shafer, whose husband purchased the grocery in the Watson block a short time ago. The marriage took place at her home, at the corner of Fifth and C streets, and Miss Elizabeth Rose and Mr. Shaver were the official witnesses of the event.

The bridal party left at once for Los Angeles where they will remain some time before going north.

Plans have been completed for the informal reception and tea to be given on Wednesday, January 22d, at the home of Mrs. C. F. Parker, Central avenue, and it promises to be one of the finest of the social events of the season. Invitations have been issued to various fraternities and societies and the ladies of the Presbyterian church have been busy for days inviting not only their friends, but as far as possible, strangers and visitors to our beautiful little city. Receiving hours will be from two until five. There will be no overcrowding, as the rooms are spacious and airy, and also if the day is fine, the roof will be utilized in a charming way according to plans made by those having the matter in charge.

MICHIGANDERS PICNIC.

On Saturday, Jan. 25, the former Michigan people residing in Southern California will hold their Third Annual Picnic at Eastlake Park, Los Angeles. A registration book for each Michigan county will give room for all. No membership fee charged. Full privilege to those buying 10c badge. Four kinds of badges: Yellow for native born; blue for citizen; white for residence 40 years ago; pink a friend. A cordial welcome to all Mich'anders, visiting or resident, to bring their families and friends as admission is free to the park. If weather should be too inclement, picnic will be postponed for one week. Those attending are instructed to bring their lunches: cups, coffee, cream and sugar free to badge wearers. A sufficient supply of the best of hot coffee assured. Badges can be secured at headquarters in the park on picnic day.

INSTRUCTIVE GATHERING OF P. E. O's.

On Monday evening Chapter L. P. E. O., held a regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Best and Miss Helen Best, Fifth street. The feature of the evening was an address given by Miss Martha Winans the state president of P. E. O., to which close attention was given. Miss Winan's sister, Mrs. Stella Carver of Los Angeles, also gave a bright talk along the lines of general P. E. O. work. Mrs. R. D. Goss, in charge of the literary program, gave her paper on the "Life of Sir Walter Scott" after which Mrs. Dr. A. I. Bryant sang beautiful "Loch Lamond" accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Geo. U. Meyse. The social hour, during the discussion of tea and light refreshments, was thoroughly enjoyed.

CHANGE OF RECTORS AT ST. MARKS.

Many friends of Rev. George Eley, regret to notice his transfer to another field, but his new duties will not call him far away and it is to be hoped that he will still maintain his home among us.

Mr. Eley has been rector of St. Marks church for several years and during that time has achieved a local reputation for the clear-cut common-sense Christianity of his sermons, characterized by simplicity and brevity which is the soul of other things than wit.

The Rev. Tackenthal, who succeeds Mr. Eley, is said to be a speaker of much force and eloquence.

Sale of Residence

John A. Eppinger has sold for Thos. O. Pierce, the latter's fine residence on Everett street below Fourth to Mr. W. Vannatta of River Falls, Wis., who will occupy the property as soon as Mr. Pierce vacates.

FOR SALE—This is your opportunity to buy thoroughbred Rhode Island Red hens; am selling out. L. Small, Second and Adams streets.

FOR THE PUBLIC GOOD.

A PUBLIC PARK.

Editor The News:

The suggestion has been made more than once that Glendale should be about securing a public park, but I have not heard that anything has yet been done about it. This is one of the important things that we cannot afford to defer. Land is cheaper now than it will be again and the city ought to secure a few acres at once for park purposes. It need not be very large, but should be as much as a full block, if possible. There ought to be some public-spirited citizen who would be willing to donate, or at least sell at a fair price, a block of land for this purpose. I believe that if a suitable piece could be obtained at a fair price, the people would be willing to vote a bond issue to pay for the same, and to make gradual improvements on it. These things can always be done best by beginning in time, and I hope you will agitate the matter and see if we cannot do something toward obtaining for Glendale that which every citizen, in even of very modest pretensions, has to have—public park.

PACIFIC ELECTRIC CAR SERVICE.

To the Editor:

I am one of the unfortunates who sometimes have to ride out on the Pacific Electric cars in the evening at the time when they run a trailer and it seems to me that the service is not as good as the people of Glendale should receive, although I do not want to be put down as a kicker. There was a time not long ago when the railroad people seemed to have a real desire to accommodate its patrons out this way, and they ran the cars every fifteen minutes for an hour or two at each end of the day. Then everybody was satisfied and we had quick service and but few people had to stand. It is certainly very different now. A great many people have to stand up, the cars run very slowly and the lights are so variable as to cause great annoyance. I presume that the railroad company saves a little in the expense of running the cars, but it seems to me that the patronage they receive in Glendale is such as to entitle the people to a little better service than we are getting by the two-car plan.

Glendale, Jan. 14, 1908.

OUR STREET LIGHTS.

Editor of News:

Can you tell me (and I have no doubt that that others would like to know) why we have such poor lights on our streets at night? I notice by the report of the trustees' meetings that the electric light company puts in a bill every month for fifty dollars or so. It does not seem to me that the taxpayers are getting the worth of their money. It is very noticeable also that the light on Brand boulevard is very much better than those we have on Glendale avenue. Why this is so is also something I would like to know and I hope you will give this matter some attention.

Yours truly,
TAXPAYER.

[We learn that the bills of the light company are always shaved down by the trustees, in some cases nearly fifty per cent. As to the difference in lights the company claims that they cannot secure the proper lamps.—Ed.]

The New Electric Road

The air has been so full of rumors in regard to this project recently that the following facts are stated to clear the atmosphere:

Our last reference to the subject was a statement to the effect that all details had been arranged and it only remained to have the final agreement signed. This is still the status. The seven cent commutation rate to Sycamore Hills on Verdugo Road has been granted. There are now no differences between the parties. Mr. Peyton and Mr. Hawes have agreed to sign the papers today (Saturday). The delay has been caused by the absence of Mr. Peyton, who has been absent in the east and whose signature is necessary on the papers.

HOTELS AND BOARDING HOUSES.

At the Vermont on Fourth street, Mrs. Marsh reports a full house and is compelled to turn applicants away who apply for accommodations. Additional rooms are being fitted up in the third story for patrons who have already engaged them. Mrs. Easton and Miss Shaw make a similar report as to their houses. Woods hotel is well patronized and the following are among late arrivals at that caravan-sary: Dr. W. B. Taylor and wife, Miss Zelma Sands, Wm. O. Morgan and wife, E. P. Welmen and lackey, Miss Grace McCoy, Los Angeles; W. J. Hasselman, J. B. Hasselman, Indiana; M. T. Fulton, Eureka; Cal.; L. R. McKenney, Garvanza; C. R. Kelsey, Newport, Cal.; Mrs. Nettie Cheney, Hollywood.

ATTEND JOINT INSTALLATION.

Last Friday evening Glendale sent a delegation consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Stine, Mrs. H. L. Bulkeley, Miss Laura Bulkeley, Mrs. J. E. Andrews and Miss Ida M. Waite, into Los Angeles to attend the ceremonies of a joint installation of the officers of the Acme and the Reba lodges of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs respectively, and they found the occasion a very enjoyable one, being hospitably and agreeably entertained by the members of the Los Angeles lodges.

A NEW OIL BURNER.

The Glendale Hardware Company has on hand and is giving practical exhibits of the workings of a new and very simple style of distillate oil burner which can be attached to the ordinary sheet iron stove. The cost is said to be about five cents for a run of ten hours. The arrangement is perfectly safe and gives promise of superseding any other heating arrangement now in use for heating small rooms, on account of economy and results obtained.

A PRETTY LUNCHEON.

One of the recent pretty events in local society was the dainty luncheon given on Tuesday by Mrs. Herbert Reed, a charming November bride, who entertained a number of friends and relatives from Glendale and Los Angeles in her home on Sycamore avenue. The affair proved Mrs. Reed a very competent hostess and her guests very thoroughly enjoyed the original and charming manner in which she entertained them.

A BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

To honor the birthday of their niece, Miss Winnie Filkins, of Belmont, Mich., who is their houseguest for the winter, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Bulls on Monday entertained about twenty-five jolly young people in their home on Everett street.

Rev. Mr. Davenport of Glendale will occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian church on Sabbath morning, the 19th inst. The topic of the pastor's sermon in the evening will be: "The Present-day Value of Godliness." Rev. Theodore Hopping will begin a series of Bible readings in connection with the Christian Endeavor at 6:30 Sabbath evening.

TO LET—A nice home on Sycamore Canyon Road. Five-room house and bathroom. Barn; room for several hundred chickens; apricots and plums; one acre of asparagus; plenty of good water; rent by the year. Inquire R. A. Blackburn.

H. M. Merrill will take care of your laundry and give the promptest and best service that can be had. Call up Sunset 721

ASTROLOGY UP TO DATE.

We congratulate the readers of the News upon our having secured the services of Signor Lombroso Spaghetti, the eminent astrologer, who will write exclusively for this paper during the current year. Prof. Spaghetti is a fellow of the Astrological College of Dublin and comes to us with recommendations of a most laudatory nature. His English, during spasms of inspiration, occasionally wobbles, but in other matters he will be found trustworthy. If our readers will follow the professor's advice during the present season, we have no doubt but that the effect upon the community will be marked. The opening number which appears below, should have appeared in our issue of New Year's day, but we have arranged to have the prophecies hold good for another moon.

JANUARY 1st, 1908.

This is the first day of the year; tomorrow will be the second. The moon is in the fifth quarter with the horns pointing upward, which signifies that there will be no rain unless an unexpected precipitation should occur in which event dampness should be guarded against. Persons born during this aspect of the moon should be on their guard against cold feet. It is a good time to plan root-crops; potatoes planted in this moon may be slow about coming, but will come high. The eyes should be carefully removed before planting so as to avoid overcrowding, as the tubers will not grow large unless they have plenty of elbow room, and removal of the eyes in planting has been known to be the means of avoiding this.

This is a bad day for business. Collect debts but don't pay any. It is quite proper to swear off at this season, but people who have no bad habits should cultivate a few so as to be able to give them up when struck hard by the reform wave. Jupiter is in the ascendant at present, Juno and the other members of his family being members of his family being in retirement. The influence of Sagittarius upon people having red hair will probably be of a baneful nature. They should be careful not to work between meals and to avoid all rushes of information to the head. Babies born during this moon are likely to be without teeth and short on hair, but will possess vigorous lung power. They should not be fed on pickles during the first twenty-four hours. It is a good time to set hens; eggs are a good thing to set them on and have been known to produce chickens during the same moon. Chickens born at this time will require watching; this task can often be turned over to the family cat whose fondness for young chicks unless unnaturally curbed will induce it to see that none get away. Saturn is in the twelfth house and exerts a malign influence upon men, women and children; other members of the human family are measurably exempt, but should not go out of doors nights.

A Good Investment

To be good, must be safe. A savings account in the Bank of Glendale offers you absolute security, not only because all loans are made to responsible people of Glendale or on Glendale real estate, but because its board of directors who approve all loans are from our best and most conservative business men, and whose judgment may be depended on to protect the interest of its depositors. 37tf

TROPICO M. E. CHURCH NOTES.

Attendance at Sunday School and church service last Sunday was not as large as usual, but Rev. J. H. Henry preached two excellent sermons morning and evening. The morning services are now evangelistic. Our pastor expects to begin a series of evangelistic meetings in the early part of February.

Rev. Francis Ireland, president of the Sunday Rest league, will speak in the M. E. church Tuesday evening, January 21st. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present.

The Epworth league held a called business meeting Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. C. Carmack, at which arrangements were made for literary and musical entertainment to be given in G. A. R. hall, Friday evening, January 24th, at 8 o'clock, sharp. The program will consist of musical and literary numbers and an old-fashioned spelling bee.

The official board of the church held its regular monthly meeting January 13th. The next meeting will be the first Wednesday of February, instead of on Monday, as heretofore.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL NOTES.

Girls' basket ball team defeated San Pedro team 17 to 16 on Saturday, January 10. Hard, rough game, very warm, no good team work. Team composed of Pearl Goode, Winifred Sadler, Pearl Cotteral, Lorrain Mitchell, Alma Stone, Emily Ellias. Miss Wood of Compton referee. Emily Ellias was the star player.

Girls basket ball team was defeated by Girls Collegiate team at Girls' Collegiate school, Los Angeles, Monday afternoon, January 13, by a score of 25 to 12. Very good team work on both sides. Defeat due to inefficiency of forwards, otherwise evenly matched.

The girls' team has bought a fine ten-foot banner for use in athletic contests, showing the school colors, red and white. They made the purchase out of the ten dollars presented to them by Mr. Brand and others recently.

Richard Stine, Roy Wolf, Luella Moore and Lester Adams are at their horses suffering with the measles.

Mr. Cobler, of the McMillan company, and Mr. Atkinson, of the firm of Atkinson, Mentzer & Grover, Chicago, visited the school this week.

M. J. Phillips, of Los Angeles, assistant county superintendent, of schools visited the school Tuesday. He was a very welcome visitor.

Miss Magowan has returned to school. Is almost recovered from her accident and illness.

Girls' basket ball team will play with Compton High school on Saturday at 2 p. m., on the Glendale court. It should be a good game, as neither have been defeated in a league game so far this season. Come!

The tennis team of the Law School of the U. S. C. will play the Glendale tennis team on Saturday morning at ten o'clock on the High School court.

How it Works

The people of Gardena are fast becoming a unit in denouncing what they are inclined to regard as neglect on the part of Los Angeles city authorities in dealing with their local interests, and in the unnecessarily strict enforcement of city ordinances which were intended to meet metropolitan conditions rather than those which are suburban or even in some degree rural.

A resident of the "shoestring" strip which embraces territory here cannot erect a barn or a chicken coop, or dig a cesspool without a permit for which money must be paid, the expense of two or three trips to Los Angeles met and finally the cost of a visit from one of the numerous corps of inspectors, whose headquarters are in the city hall. In return for these and other municipal regulations, they are inclined to ask, what advantages do they enjoy? It is said that with the exception of a small sum left over from the 1906 road fund, spent in the year 1907, their roads and streets have not had a dollar's worth of work done on them since they became a part of the city of Los Angeles. In this respect they say they are in a far worse condition than they would be if their streets were county highways. The wet weather is coming on, yet attention is called to the fact that not a single culvert within the territory of this community of a thousand people or more is in a proper condition to take off the storm water that is sure to come.—Los Angeles Times.

The Weather

The present winter is certainly dear to the heart of the tourist, or at least it should be so, for every day is a delight. The farmer particularly wishes for the rain which has as yet come in very limited quantity, and the rest of us who are to such a great extent depending upon him to keep us in food stuff, join our prayers to his and with him will be jubilant, when the down-pour comes.

The rainfall of last Monday night was sufficiently vigorous for a few minutes to give promise of an abundance of moisture, but soon spent its force in an exhibition of thunder and lightning, which was suggestive of "back east."

Around Glendale the fall measured from a half to three-quarters of an inch. In the mountains it was very much heavier. For twenty-four hours afterwards there was a stream flowing down Verdugo Canyon, the drainage of the mountains beyond. It was sufficient to start the plow in some places, but not enough to guarantee crops. There is before us, however, that portion of the winter which usually gives us the greatest quantity of rain, and there is no occasion for the prophets of dry seasons to sing as yet their song of dole.

The frost has kept off remarkably, the slight touches of it which have been visible on a few mornings during this week and previously having scarcely marked the most tender foliage.

Products of Los Angeles County

County Statistician W. H. Wright has filed his annual report with the supervisors, showing last year's products of this county in the different lines:

- Manufactured products, $30,000,000.
- Green, dried and canned fruits, $8,000,000.
- Petroleum, $1,300,000.
- Wheat, corn and barley, $1,500,000.

- The hens laid 27,000,000 eggs.
- Meat products, $4,000,000.
- Flouring mills, $3,500,000.
- Of the county's 2,483,000 acres, 66,000 are reported under irrigation.
- The total assessed valuation of the county is $375,719,358.
- There are 635 miles of steam railroads, and 949 miles of electric lines.
- The value of county buildings is $4,000,000.
- Public roads have a length of 4090 miles.
- Live stock of all kinds is valued at $4,699,520.
- The county's population is estimated at 400,000.

Dealings in Realty

The Overton Realty Co. reports the following sales:

- Six-room house and one-half acre owned by Miss Rachel Sherer, sold to J. Klum, of Iowa, for $3000.
- Five acres in oranges, formerly owned by Henry Bulkeley on East Third street, sold to A. D. Thatcher, of Oxnard, for $5000. Mr. Thatcher has lived in California for twenty years and has acquired considerable prominence in Pomona as an olive shipper. He will improve with a fine residence.
- Six-room house and lot on I street, owned by Mrs. Potter, sold to J. J. Wesels, the new manager of the Sanitarium, who will improve the property.
- House and lot J street owned by A. R. Hurt, sold to eastern parties who intend to make Glendale their home.

There are many inquires for Glendale acreage. The eastern tourists have heard of our beautiful valley and are coming out to see for themselves. The small acreage home is an attraction to them and they all like Glendale. The real estate outlook for our beautiful valley we believe to be brighter than usual.

W. C. T. U. meets the first and third Fridays of every month, at the M. E. church at 2:30 p. m.
