

MAY 4, 1905 Obituary.

The sad news of the death of Mrs. G. R. McGaha reached our community on the morning of the 30th, and saddened the hearts of her many friends here.

Mrs. Anise Brown McGaha was born Sept. 9, 1876 and died April 29, 1905 at Sharpe, Ga. She was a loving, obedient child. At the age of fourteen she made a profession of religion and joined the Resaca Baptist church, but afterwards removed her membership to Damascus where her name rested when God, in His wisdom, called her from earth to heaven.

Most of her childhood days were spent here. She was an obedient daughter, a loving sister, a fond mother, an affectionate wife and a true Christian woman. None knew her but to love her.

She leaves a broken-hearted husband, a loving little son, four brothers and four sisters to mourn her loss. Weep not for Anise, she is now sweetly resting on the other bright shore.

She lived a consistent christian life from the time of her conversion and attended public services in humble devotion.

A few days before her spirit passed away, she consolingly said to her husband, "I am not afraid to die." She was submissive to God's will. She is now across the river of death with the two children who had gone on before and is now waiting and watching for the other child and loved ones to cross over—and be with them in that bright realm above.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. J. Pendley and her remains were laid to rest in the Damascus cemetery Saturday afternoon.

Friends laid many beautiful flowers on the mound above her, in token of love and respect. All these must wither and decay. But one flower that will live forever was placed o'er her grave. It was:
