A Year-Round Necessity

Some people think a safe deposit box is only necessary to house their paper and valuables, while they are away for the summer. This is a mistake. Burglars work the year round. Fires occur in fall and winter, too. The only absolute protection all the time is a safe deposit box in the vaults of this bank, doubly protected by automatic alarm system.

Evelyn Henry went to San Francisco Saturday to enjoy a two weeks' vacation with her aunt, Miss Florence Brown.

Carroll and Lois Wilson were here this week the guests of Lucile Allison. Yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson took the three children to Pacific Grove for a three week's vacation at the seaside.

Mrs. Paul Darling and little son, Paul, arrived Wednesday from Los Angeles to spend the summer visiting Grandpa and Grandma Arnott. They will live in the house recently vacated by Mrs. Thomson.

Paul Hinde arrived last week from Columbus, Georgia, to assist his grandmother, Mrs. Jane Hinde, in packing her goods for shipment East. They expect to be able to start back within two weeks.

Miss Edith Flanders of San Jose has been engaged as one of the new teachers at the Grammar school. Miss Flanders for several years has been in the Morgan Hill schools and was re-elected there so comes well recommended.

In a letter from Geo. Davis at Vancouver to his folks here, he states that he has enlisted under the British flag at that place, joining the engineering corps. This line of work has always been George's long suite and we know he'll make good with "Cousin John".

Miss Mary Fablinger and her brother, James, who for the past year have made their home in San Jose, have recently returned to reside permanently with their father on North Central avenue. Miss Fablinger will spend part of her summer vacation at Berkeley taking special work at U. C. summer school.

Miss Alice Snow finished her school duties at Mountain View last week and left Saturday for Berkeley where she will attend summer school. Mrs. Snow accompanied her daughter and will keep house for her. During their absence Mr. Snow will do his "bit" at batching and is studying "Goodhousekeeping" very earnestly.

Last Sunday marked the seventy-sixth birthday of Mrs. C. N. Cooper. Chas. Cooper and wife and Will of Oakland, Mr. and Mrs. Cutting and children of Los Gatos were all present making a very pleasant dinner gathering. Mrs. Cooper received a number of presents and letters which with the presence of her children and grandchildren made the day a very happy one for her.

The members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union meet every Tuesday at 2:00 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. A. M. Hall, 67 N. 1st. street, to do hospital work for the sailors and soldiers. This work is in addition to that done by the Red Cross and passes thru their hands. On warm days the work is done on the shady porch and lawn. All ladies interested in the work are cordially invited to attend these meetings, bringing thimble and scissors.

Legislation Explained

At the open Grange Tuesday evening Dr. W. H. Crothers, chairman of the legislative committee, in a few remarks on his work in this line introduced Hon. Frank H. Benson who gave a very interesting talk on the state legislature and bills of special interest to this community.

He gave some very good arguments in favor of the bifurcated session and why some are opposed to it. The legislature is a very fair representation of the will of the people as shown in the recent close fights on bills introduced.

The number of bills introduced in 1917 session did not exceed those of 1905 but the cry of too many bills was started as ever by those opposed to the administration. Hundreds of the bills and their companions in the other house are only the necessary biennial appropriations but are numbered in the list as others.

He spoke very favorably of the excellent work of the Board of Control and its voluntary budget which so greatly aided the legislators in their appropriation bills.

At the suggestion of Lecturer Mrs. Clendenning a rising vote of thanks was extended Mr. Benson for his instructive talk.

Class of Twenty Graduated

The seventeenth annual commencement exercises of the Campbell Union High school were held at the new auditorium Friday evening. The program opened with an invocation by the Rev. W. H. Lloyd followed by a selection by the high school orchestra.

Under the direction of Miss Elsie Wood, the girls' glee club sang "With Pipe and Song", which was greatly appreciated. The girls may well be proud of their choral organization and with their efficient director should continue to entertain Campbell with their music.

Hon. Herbert C. Jones, the speaker of the occasion, took as his subject the "Rise of Democracy", giving some very graphic illustrations of its progress. He compared the great achievement of ancient times, the building of the pyramids with slave labor under despotic rule, and the building of the Panama Canal under democracy where all gladly labored for the common good. The one is a useless production, the other's usefulness can never be measured.

Democracy is the politics of the people and altho some cry "keep out of politics", the fact of peoples' interest in their government makes it what it is. Everybody should keep in politics which is a duty as well as privilege and every man and woman should bear his or her portion of the burden and responsibility of a democratic form of government. Be a part of this greatest government on earth.

Miss Ruth Lloyd gave a very pretty violin solo, the "Serenade" by Franz Drda, accompanied by Miss Bozena Kalas.

Principal Snow spoke of the growth of the school which during its existence has graduated 251 students, 117 boys and 134 girls which is considered a very good showing for in many instances the number of girls far exceeds the number of boys. During the last six years there have been more boys completing than girls which is a pleasing record. Mr. Snow presented the following with diplomas: Roy E. Blabon, Fern Grace Brundage, Edith Merle Cutting, Ernest Dow Downing, Mary Jane Eisentraut, Herbert C. Gardner, Wilbur Burdick Howes, James Edward Huntley, Ernest Edward Jensen, Mark Edgar Kennedy, Oliver Settle Price, Vivian Harold Priestley, Vera Winona Sawyer, Everitt Burnham Scott, Lorin M. Scott, Charles Graham Thompson, Alice Toll, Gladys May Townsend, Edward John Vandergon and Delpha Elizabeth Wiesendanger.

The Rev. W. E. Eckles pronounced the benediction.

Of this class several will attend the Universities and normal the coming year.

Red Cross Canvass a Success

C. H. Whitman, captain of the local Red Cross team reports subscriptions to the amount of $1500.00 which is an average of about $1.00 for every man, woman and child in the section canvassed. This seems to be the amount the National Red Cross leaders estimated should be raised throughout the states—100,000,000 for the United States or 1.00 for each person. The following were members of the team: Wm. C. Bogan, L. Genasci, Dr. W. I. Merrill, Warren Shelly, Ben Rodeck, E. G. Lanz, Will Coupland and Geo. Robson.

All of the subscription cards, both cash and time payments, have been turned in to the Treasurer of the American Red Cross War Fund at the County Court House, together with the cash payments. Mr. Simonsen will also keep a complete list of all subscribers.

It Pays to Advertise

The Press has been advertising for old newspapers. In answer to this ad, C. C. Brady, one of the young Missourians of our village, who believes in being shown, brought in two old papers from his native state. One of these curios was published by O. Clemens, the brother of "Mark Twain" at Hannibal in 1852 and contains some very interesting news. In the San Francisco news letter dated April 15, 1852, eggs are quoted at $1.50 to $3 per dozen, chickens at $3, pork 40c, mutton 55c.

Another one published in 1840 contained some interesting items.

The "Athletics" will cross bats with the Mutual Biscuit Club at Santa Clara Varsity grounds Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

Grieb will be on the mound for Campbell while "Smoky" Joe Ganshirt will leave the pill for the Biscuit shooters. The Mutuals are considered the fastest Semi-pro Club in San Jose and some battle is expected.

Food--Economy and Health

Current literature contains much well-meant advice on the subject of food-economy. Before attempting to follow such advice to the extent of radical changes in diet, however, every housewife should understand certain fundamental nutrition principles. One of the most important of these principles relates to the basic reactions of foods.

In the process of digestion and assimilation the majority of foods form a basic ash which is either acid or alkaline in its nature. The use of too large a proportion of acid forming foods is injurious to health; but there is no danger from over-supply of alkaline bases. Examples of foods according to the reactions of their ash are as follows:

Acid forming foods	Neutral	Alkaline bases
Cereals	Sugar	Vegetables
Meats	Vegetable Oils	Milk
Eggs	Animal Fats	Fruits

A most remarkable fact in connection with this subject, of particular interest at this season, is that the natural acids of our common fruits are inverted in the process of digestion to form alkaline bases. Bearing in mind that safety demands that nutriment with acid ash must be balanced by alkaline-base foods, the alkaline reaction of fruits is seen to be a splendid stabilizer in diet. In her food-economy plans the careful housewife will wisely give a large place to fruits of all kinds—they will be a safeguard of the family health. Begin by preserving the earliest fruits; take advantage of each variety in its season. Fill every jelly-glass, jar, and can—buy more of these and fill them, too. Needless to say, an excellent place to purchase preserving equipment, together with the necessary sugar, is at "Blaine's".

FRENCH IN ALGERIA

Have More Troops in Oran Than Any Town in France.

Streets Are Full of Soldiers in Picturesque Costumes, Including Arabs in Their Flowing White Garments.

There are more French soldiers to be seen in Oran than in any town in France. Those in France are at the front or in the points of concentration near the front. They are there right enough, but one does not see them—at the front—because they are in the trenches. But in Algeria it is different. The streets are full of soldiers; so the cafes, the street cars, the stores, the docks, the public gardens. The official figures give the population of Oran at 130,000. To the casual visitor there seem to be at least half as many soldiers besides.

And they are all French—French or French colonial, not allied troops. Besides, the casual, familiar army types, there is every kind of exotic fighting man, including native troops from Indo-China, looking more like Japanese than anything else, and uniformed as ordinary French colonials of the line. There are the zouaves, with their baggy red breeches and khaki puttees now a days, instead of the white gaiters of the old parade days before the war. Their short, black-braided jackets, sashes and blouses, however, are unchanged. There are the Chasseurs d'Afrique—the African light cavalry—with sky-blue uniforms and red fezes, the most elegant of French military horsemen.

More gorgeous, however, are the "tirailleurs," the sharpshooters, equally in sky-blue uniforms, faced with yellow, and also wearers of fezes. On active service this magnificence is supplanted by khaki and khaki fezes upon which a star and crescent indicate that the wearer is a follower of the prophet. More characteristic of the country are the "spahis"—Mohammedan troops, officered by Frenchmen. They wear flowing scarlet cloaks and the soldiers wear turbans and native costumes; the officers, unequal to coping with the turban, content themselves with fezes, but sacrifice nothing of the resplendent scarlet cloak. The most picturesque, and the most numerous, are the "zoums," the Arab cavalry regiments raised by the Arabs themselves. They wear the flowing white garments, the "bourous" of the desert.

At ten time any sunny afternoon the Boulevard Seguin, the principal street of Oran, is crowded with these uniforms, and more besides. The terrace of the Cafe Continental hasn't a vacant table, and the tables cover the sidewalk almost to the curb. There are no regulations about the hours at which drinks may be served in Algeria, for the war is far away and the garden of Africa is for those who are sent to rest, to forget the war for a while, for the convalescents and for those who stop a few days or a few weeks between service in Macedonia or Egypt or wherever else the world of war may send them.

There are French sailors in Oran, too, for Oran is France's nearest naval port to the Straits of Gibraltar, and the great amphitheater harbor so full of ships of commerce, whose enlarged wharves are piled with stacks of grain and acres of wine casks, is also an important naval base.

Two Billion Bricks a Year.

At the annual meeting of the American Ceramic society, J. B. Shaw of Alfred, N. Y., told of some very successful tests he had made in making paving brick from blast furnace slag. These bricks were worth about $35 per thousand in 1915. They may be successfully made of almost any blast-furnace slag at a cost of $5 to $7 per thousand. He figures that there is at present available about 16,000,000 tons of slag annually in the United States, after leaving 2,000,000 tons for cement manufacture. This would provide 2,000,000,000 bricks for permanent good roads every year—say, for 1,000 miles annually of 50-foot road.

Time and again failure has been encountered in the effort to make paving brick in this manner, but the problem seems to be fairly well worked out now. The slag must be treated hot as it comes from the furnace, and the brick must be heated out of contact with air or steam lest it become brittle Ellwood Hendrick.

Signboards in Japan.

It is not known when the signboards first came into use in Japan, but presumably it was not long after the introduction of writing, though that would not be necessary among a people where pictures and designs preceded ideographs representing them. Indeed, Japanese writing, like Chinese, consists of signs rather than expressions of sound, says T. Nakayama, M. Colling writes in the Cincinnati Enquirer. The national ideographs are for the eye rather than the ear; to be seen rather than to be heard.

There is no mention in Japanese history of the fact that in the reign of Emperor Godaigo (1319-1339) each government official set up a door plate signifying his name and occupation, which may be regarded as the first mention of signs in Japan.

AEROS SPUR RECRUITING FOR UNCLE SAM

The airplane is the latest instrument adopted by the officers of Uncle Sam's navy to aid them in their recruiting work. Daily in some sections of the country an airplane has been seen speeding over the outlying districts, occasionally dropping to earth where groups of farmer folk are seen. Here pamphlets and other literature are scattered. Follow the machine and you will see it drop gently to earth in some small town or village. The officer alights and gathering his audience about him, he talks of the navy and the duty of his hearers to their country.

PHTHISIS LABOR'S FOE

Causes Large Percentage of Deaths Among Male Workers.

Uncle Sam's Statistics Show Most Fatalities Among Women Due to Organic Diseases of Heart.

Based upon 94,269 deaths of male and 102,467 deaths of female industrial polycholders, fifteen years of age and over, as recorded in 1911, 1912 and 1913 by one life insurance company, tuberculosis caused the death of 20.5 per cent of the former and 14.4 per cent of the latter, while organic diseases of the heart were responsible for 12 per cent of the deaths of males and 14.8 per cent of the deaths of females. The average age of men dying from tuberculosis was 37.1 years and of women, 34.1 years. Of males the lowest average age at death, 31.1 years, was among those who died from typhoid fever, and of females the lowest average age at death, 29 years, was among those who died at childbirth. By occupation, the lowest average age at death was 36.5 years among bookkeepers and office assistants and the highest average age was 58.5 years among farmers and farm laborers.

These facts are brought out in a bulletin entitled "Cause of Death, by Occupation," a study made by Louis I. Dublin, and recently issued by Uncle Sam's bureau of labor statistics.

Tuberculosis was responsible for the largest number of deaths among clerks, bookkeepers and office assistants, 35 per cent; compositors and printers, 34.1 per cent; gas fitters and steam fitters, 31.6 per cent; longshoremen and stevedores, 29.2 per cent; teamsters, drivers and chauffeurs, 28.2 per cent; saloonkeepers and bartenders, 26 per cent; machinists, 25 per cent; cigar makers and tobacco workers, 24.1 per cent; textile mill workers, 22 per cent; iron molders, 21.9 per cent; painters, paperhangers and varnishers, 21.9 per cent; masons and bricklayers, 19 per cent; bakers, 18.8 per cent; laborers, 16.4 per cent; blacksmiths, 14 per cent. Accidental violence was responsible for the largest number of deaths among railway engineers and trainmen, 42.3 per cent; railway track and yard workers, 20.8 per cent; and coal miners, 20.4 per cent; while the largest number of farmers and farm laborers, 16.4 per cent died from organic diseases of the heart, due to the facts that the prevalence of these diseases increases with age and that the average age at death of those in this group is higher than any other group.

Similarly, among women the largest number of housewives and housekeepers, 15.2 per cent, died from organic diseases of the heart for the same reason stated above, while tuberculosis took the largest proportion of clerks, bookkeepers and office assistants, 42.4 per cent; clerks and saleswomen, 38.7 per cent; textile mill workers, 35.5 per cent; dressmakers and garment workers, 27.8 per cent; and domestic servants, 15.9 per cent. The average age at death was 26.1 years among clerks, bookkeepers and office assistants, and 53.3 years among housewives and housekeepers.

The statistics indicate that respiratory diseases are prominent where the industrial worker is exposed to colds, drafts and dampness, as among masons and bricklayers, or to violent changes of temperature, as among teamsters, drivers and chauffeurs. Organic diseases of the heart have a high proportional frequency in cases where the work is heavy and the cardiac powers are overtaxed as among iron molders. Suicide is frequent where depressing influences are present as among bakers and cigar makers. Typhoid fever is high where questionable water supplies are used, as among engineers and trainmen, farmers, iron molders and laborers.

Of 2,386 automobiles imported into Java in 1916, 2,251 came from the United States, says Uncle Sam.

POULTRY PRODUCTS COULD BE DOUBLED

Lowly Hen Can Do Much to Relieve Food Shortage, Say Uncle Sam's Experts.

SYSTEMATIC PLANS NEEDED

Six Hundred Million Dollars' Worth of Eatables Could Be Added to Nation's Supply in Year, It Is Declared.

The statement that has been made by those in a position to know that the poultry products of the United States could be doubled within a year means that if everybody in a position to help did their part six hundred million dollars' worth of food would be added to our supply this year, say Uncle Sam's experts in the department of agriculture.

This includes both meat for the table and eggs. Very few farmers practice a systematic plan of disposing of their fowls after they have ceased to be productive, these experts say, although it is well known that fowls of the heavier breeds, such as the Plymouth Rocks, cease to produce a profitable number of eggs at the end of their second laying year, and that this holds true of the lighter breeds, such as the Leghorns, at the end of their third laying year. Consequently, if efforts were made to dispose of all females when their best laying days were over a large quantity of poultry meat would be placed on the market. All poorly developed chickens should likewise be culled out and used as meat. This way of disposing of unprofitable fowls would allow the farmer to feed his grain to younger and more productive fowls.

Fattening Chickens for Market.

Caponizing the cockerels that are not intended for breeding purposes will not only increase their size but will place a more desirable poultry meat on the market. Another practice that should be adopted more widely, it is declared, is that of fattening all chickens that are to be marketed before they leave the farm. This can be done easily by confining the birds for a week or ten days and feeding them a good fattening ration. They will come to market then in better condition and the farmer will receive a profit for their added weight.

The greater production of turkeys, ducks, geese and guineas, all of which can be profitably raised and a ready market found in most sections, would increase the supply of poultry meat considerably. The production of ducks especially should be emphasized at this time it is urged, because of the rapidity with which they grow. Ducks of most of the meat breeds, properly fed and managed, frequently weigh from five to six pounds at ten weeks of age. It is estimated by poultrymen making a specialty of growing ducks that the feed cost per pound of producing duck meat ranges from eight to twelve cents.

Increasing Supply of Eggs.

The number of marketable eggs can be increased by following a few practical suggestions. Among the most important of these are the production of the infertile egg after the breeding season is over, and the proper handling of eggs by the farmer before sending them to market. The infertile egg is obtained when all male birds are removed from the flock. This does not decrease the number of eggs produced, but it does increase greatly their keeping qualities. The production of the infertile egg and the proper handling and marketing of eggs by the producer would increase tremendously the number of marketable eggs each year by diminishing the quantity that are rendered unfit for food.

Urges All Citizens to Peruse the Great Declaration of Independence

(By GAILLARD HUNT, LL. D., Chief of the Division of Manuscript, Library of Congress.)

EVERY citizen of the United States should read the Declaration of Independence once every year. It is a thoroughly American document, and the principles it embodies cannot be too firmly impressed upon our minds.

Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence, and he alone is its literal author, but there were a number of men who expressed the sentiments, almost in the words he uses, before they appeared in his great document, and Jefferson never laid claim to originality in the ideas expressed.

Thomas Jefferson.

There were several men who, year before, had expressed themselves publicly as to American Independence. They were all good men, many of masterful intellect and men without fear, but the mass of manuscripts this library owns which came from the hand of George Mason make it plain that no man could be called the father of the Declaration of Independence more justly than he.

As early as 1769 a prolonged and serious correspondence—kept up for many years—was going on between George Washington and George Mason the one in his official position as member of the house of burgesses, the other the unseen but no less potential ally of his friend and of his country.

George Mason was from early life a friend of George Washington, and their intimacy, both as fellow workers and as congenial neighbors, remained unbroken until Mason's death in 1792. He also knew Jefferson well and was old enough to give him the benefit of his broader knowledge and fuller experience in the early days of their friendship.

Born in 1725, he was seven years older than his neighbor at Mount Vernon, and he was eighteen years the senior of the brilliant young Jefferson, and both of these men looked upon the sage of Gunston Hall as a statesman of the first order, a man of clear vision and of absolute disinterestedness in his desire for the best for his country.

UNCLE SAM'S SOLDIERS OF SEA IN ACTION

This is a photograph of a painting made by Sidney H. Riesenberg for the United States marine corps, which is not only, according to its slogan, the "First to Fight," but is the first branch of Uncle Sam's fighting forces to be recruited to full war strength following the declaration of hostilities between the United States and Germany.

WOMEN IN HOMES CAN AID NATION

Not Necessary for Them to Abandon Domestic Duties, Says U. S. Official.

URGES THRIFT AS WATCHWORD

Secretary of Agriculture Houston Declares Housewife Should See That Nothing Nutritious Is Thrown Away.

How every woman, without leaving her home, can aid the nation in the direction of producing and conserving agricultural products, is told from the viewpoint of Uncle Sam in a statement of Secretary of Agriculture Houston. Secretary Houston says:

"Every woman can render important service to the nation in its present emergency. She need not leave her home or abandon her home duties to help the armed forces. She can help to feed and clothe our armies and help to supply food to those beyond the seas by practicing effective thrift in her own household.

"Every ounce of food the housewife saves from being wasted in her home—all food which she or her children produce in the garden and can or preserve—every garment which care and skillful repair make it unnecessary to replace—all less than household's draft on the already insufficient world supplies.

"To save food the housewife must earn to plan economical and properly balanced meals which, while nourishing, do not encourage overeating or offer excessive and wasteful variety. It is her duty to use all effective methods to protect food from spoilage by heat, dirt, mice, or insects. She must require the culinary ability to utilize every bit of edible food that comes into her home. She must learn to use such foods as vegetables, beans, peas, and milk products as partial substitutes for meat. She must make it her business to see that nothing nutritious is thrown away or allowed to be wasted.

No Waste Insignificant.

"Waste in any individual household may seem to be insignificant, but if only a single ounce of edible food, on the average, is allowed to spoil or be thrown away in each of our 20,000,000 homes, over 1,300,000 pounds of material would be wasted each day. It takes the fruit of many acres and the work of many people to raise, prepare, and distribute 464,000,000 pounds of food a year. Every ounce of food thrown away, therefore, tends also to waste the labor of an army of busy citizens.

"Clothing is largely an agricultural product and represents the results of labor on the sheep ranges, in cotton fields, and in mills and factories. Whenever a useful garment is needlessly discarded material needed to keep some one warm or dry may be consumed merely to gratify a passing fancy. Women would do well to look upon clothing at this time more particularly from the utilitarian point of view.

"Employed women, especially those engaged in the manufacture of food or clothing, also directly serve their country and should put into their tasks the enthusiasm and energy the importance of their product warrants.

Housewife's Apron a Uniform.

"While all honor is due to the women who leave their homes to nurse and care for those wounded in battle, no woman should feel that, because she does not wear a nurse's uniform, she is absolved from patriotic service. The home women of the country, if they will give their minds fully to this vital subject of food conservation and train themselves in household thrift, can make of the housewife's apron a uniform of national significance.

"Demonstrate thrift in your homes and encourage thrift among your neighbors.

"Make saving rather than spending your social standard. "Make economy fashionable lest it become obligatory."

FROM FARM TO TABLE

Better Methods of Using the Parcel Post Are Sought.

Uncle Sam's Experts Trying to Work Out New Ways of Transporting Agricultural Products.

Officials of Uncle Sam's department of agriculture, who have striven long to bring the producer and consumer together for the sale of farm products, are now trying to work out better methods of transportation.

Although the marketing of farm produce by parcel post is relatively new in the United States, it is, in fact, only a special case of direct dealing between producer and consumer, which was the very earliest type of marketing. Only the transportation medium is new in parcel-post trading. This is to a certain extent paralleled by express, which has been available and has been utilized by some farmers for many years. Even with the older forms of direct dealing, in which sales are made from house to house or through farmers' markets, parcel-post marketing has points in common in that the actual producer of the goods is known to the consumer of them, and the satisfaction or dissatisfaction of the latter has a direct and potent effect on the success of the former's business.

Quite naturally, in spite of these general similarities many new problems in the marketing of farm produce were created when the mail system was made available for transportation of relatively bulky commodities, all post offices and rural routes thereby being made shipping agencies. This was in striking contrast to the facilities furnished by the older transportation systems, which the farmer could use only by making a trip to a railroad or express office. Many of the problems, a great many of which still exist, have been attacked by the office of markets of the department, which has made its work hundreds of experimental shipments of various commodities over varying distances under different seasonal and other conditions and has studied methods of grading and packing and of transacting business.

Success in parcel-post marketing, experts of the office have found during their studies, demands that the farmer continue to give thought to details after proper preparation of his goods for shipment. The mere placing of the packages in the mails at any time is not sufficient, they say. Mail schedules should be carefully looked into and the commodities should be started on their journey, if possible, so that they will travel chiefly at night and reach their destination early the following day. Such methods, it is said, have been worked out by the farmers who are carrying on the most successful businesses with the city people. Commodities traveling at night thus utilize natural refrigeration, since the nights are usually colder than the days. It is especially important, it is pointed out, that such precautions be taken in the shipments of products like butter or lard, which may be liquified by heat, and dressed fowls and other meats, which may spoil if they become warm.

JEWELERS TO SAVE PLATINUM

Agree to Use Gold in Its Place Wherever Possible to Conserve Supply for Government.

In order to conserve the supply of platinum, for which Uncle Sam may have great need in prosecution of war, the jewelers' vigilance committee issued an appeal to the jewelry trade of the country to discontinue the use of the metal wherever possible. The committee asked all manufacturing and retail jewelers in the country to discourage the manufacture and sale of platinum in all bulky and heavy pieces of jewelry and its use in all parts of jewelry where it is not essential, and where gold will serve satisfactorily.

The committee urged the jewelry trade to encourage the use of gold in combination with platinum wherever artistic results may be obtained by such a combination.

THOSE AWFUL CRAMPS

Suggestions that may save Much Suffering

Marysville, Pa.—“For twelve years I suffered with terrible cramps. I would have to stay in bed several days every month. I tried all kinds of remedies and was treated by doctors, but my trouble continued until one day I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for others. I tried it and now I am never troubled with cramps and feel like a different woman. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly and I am recommending it to my friends who suffer as I did.”—Mrs. GEORGE R. NAYLOR, Box 72, Marysville, Pa.

Young women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands have been restored to health by this root and herb remedy.

How Eating Affects Health.

What we eat has far more to do with our health than anything else. To be sure, regular exercise, good air and a vacation in the country will improve the physical condition. But beyond them and above them the best setting-up exercise is the exercise of clean, juicy, sun-cooked fruits and vegetables in the blood stream. Richer and fuller life will leap in the veins when the circulation has been freed from the favorite poisons. Then there will be a zest in every hour. Desire for hard work and an ability to concentrate the mind on the most arduous problems and pressing duties, pleasant or unpleasant, will be faced with a poise and mental clarity hardly known in the days of the stimulating poisons with their false fire and their subtle evils mining and undermining the blood stream. For the blood is the life.

Friends and acquaintances armed with a knowledge of food values will no doubt launch them at your head with much concern when they hear that you are giving the diet a trial-Exchange.

Did that itching keep you awake last night?

And how can you expect to sleep tonight unless you do something to relieve the trouble? Eczema and other itching skin troubles don't often heal themselves. But it is surprising how quickly Resinol Ointment heals sick skins.

Almost daily we hear from a skin sufferer who says “Resinol Ointment stopped my itching at once and I got the first good night's sleep I had had in weeks. Now my skin is well.” Resinol Ointment is sold by all druggists.—Adv.

To Live.

We live by desire to live; we live by choice, by will, by thought, by the vivacity of the laws which we obey, and obeying share their life, or we by sloth, by disobedience, by losing hold of life, which ebbs out of us. But whilst I find the signatures, the hints and suggestions, noble and wholesome, whilst I find that all the ways of virtuous living lead upward and not downward, yet it is not my duty to prove to myself the immortality of the soul. That knowledge is hidden very cunningly. Perhaps the archangel cannot find the secret of their existence as the eye cannot see itself; but, ending or endless, to live whilst I live.—Emerson.

“She's upstairs washing her face.”

Cultivation.

“Father, what do they mean by gentlemen farmers?”
“Gentlemen farmers, my son, are farmers who seldom raise anything except their hats.”

Granite Block Marks Spot Ever Sacred to Lovers of Liberty

WITHIN the compass of a small territory in James City county, Virginia, where Jamestown and all that the name stands for—the landing of the English colonists, the first colonial council, the presidency, leadership and explorations of Capt. John Smith; the period of Powhatan, the romance of Pocahontas and Rolfe; the royal governors, Gates, West, Dale, Argall, Yeardley, Wyatt, Harvey and Berkeley; the starving time, plague, massacres and conflagrations and nearly a century of life in the first permanent English colony in the United States.

Here also was the country of Bacon's rebellion—the first armed and bloody protest against the arrogance and inefficiency of royal governors. In Williamsburg sat the house of burgesses, in which Patrick Henry and his brilliant company took the lead in demanding and compelling the independence of the colonies, and a few miles away is Yorktown, where the independence of the United States was won.

Near the east edge of Williamsburg and at one end of a broad street the name of which is Duke of Gloucester street—so called in honor of Queen Ann's eldest son—stands a simple granite marker, bearing bronze tablets on the east and west faces. Around the marker are the foundation walls, now protected by a covering of cement, of a building. An American cannot stand at this monument with those ancient foundation walls around it, without a sense of reverence. The bronze tablets briefly tell the story of the building whose site the block of granite marks.

The Old Capitol Building.
(From an Early Print.)

The inscription of the west tablet follows:
The Old Capitol:
Here Patrick Henry first kindled the flames of revolution by his resolutions and speech against the stamp act, May 29, 1775.

Here March 12, 1773, Dabney Carr offered and the house of burgesses of Virginia unanimously adopted the resolution to appoint a committee to correspond with similar committees in the other colonies—the first step taken toward the union of the states.
Here May 15, 1776, the convention of Virginia, through resolutions drafted by Edmund Pendleton, offered by Thomas Nelson, Jr., advocated by Patrick Henry, unanimously called on congress to declare the colonies free and independent states.
Here June 12, 1776, was adopted by the convention the immortal work of George Mason—the declaration of rights—and June 29, 1776, the first written constitution of a free and independent state ever framed.

The east tablet contains this:
Members of the house of burgesses who at the Raleigh Tavern May 18, 1773, and May 27, 1774, and August, 1774, entered into association against the importation or purchase of British manufactures. Peyton Randolph, speaker, and Robert Carter Nichols, treasurer.

Then follow on the bronze the names of 149 of the Virginia patriots, and from that long and closely cast list of names a visitor jotted down these:

The plot of ground in which the monument stands and in which the foundation walls are exposed is still called, as it has been called for 216 years, Capitol square. The grass there is quite long. A few wild flowers, including those of the catnip, are blooming. Close by is a stunted paper-mulberry tree, and a few yards in rear of where the capitol stood grows a fine old locust tree.

Last White House Celebration.
The last great Fourth of July celebration given at the White House took place on the final Fourth of President Lincoln, in 1864, when it was the scene of a mammoth Sunday school festival of colored people, during which the president's guests presented him with a large gold-mounted Bible bound in purple velvet.

The Drum of Lexington

But yesterday I saw the historic drum
Which William Dimon beat,
Upon that fateful April morn,
Along each winding street,
And on the memorable Green of Lexington,
Bidding the patriots come
And face the banded hosts of tyranny.

At the reveille was a nation born
Pledged to the sacred rights of Liberty.
Now 'neath the rays of the same vernal sun
Peace broods about the Green,
But it remembers yet,
Girdled with stately elms memorial,
The hurtle of the deadly musket ball,
And how its sod was wet
With sacrificial blood—the whole
Sad, ruthless scene

Would that the drum of Lexington again
Might sound its summoning call,
Sound from the rocky coast of Maine,
Where Agimenticus, inland, fronts the seas,
To where the long trades sweep and swell and fall
Round the Floridian quays!
Ay, sound from Puget, on which Shasta's crown
Majestically looks down,
E'en to the borders of that stricken land
Beyond the brown coils of the Rio Grande!

Have we grown sleek with sloth?
Sloughed off the old virile spirit,
Taken on
Abasement for a garment? Are we loath
To rouse us, and to don
The rapt, heroic valor once again
That girdled us when men indeed were men?
Caution and doubt and fear seem subtly crept
Upon us, and inept
We stumble, falter, palter, and we need
Not the smooth word, but the swift, searching deed.
If bleed we must, then rather let us bleed
Than sit inglorious, rich in all the things
Save those which honor brings!

Now every slope of our dear land is fair
Beneath the azure of the April air;
The impatient loam is ready for the seed.
But we? Take heed, take heed,
My brothers! And O you, brave wraith
Of dauntlessness and faith,
You, William Dimon, come!
Come, sound the old reveille on your drum,
The drum of Lexington,
And make us all, in steadfast purpose, one!

—CLINTON SCOLLARD.

Not a Signer of Declaration.
A portrait in Independence hall, recognized for 20 years as that of William Whipple, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, has turned out to be in reality a picture of Joseph Whipple, a brother of the signer. As the latter personage had no historical association, the painting has been removed from its place in gallery No. 1. The discovery was made by a Portsmouth (N. H.) woman who is a descendant of the Whipple family. The original portrait, of which the one that hung in Independence hall is a copy, was handed down in her family as that of Joseph Whipple.

Freedom's Inspiration.

True patriotism is not a sentiment, but a life. Understood in any other way it is a delusion. If all Americans were to live easy, luxurious and self-centered lives, without a thought of their duty to country, our liberties would not last over night. Fortunately that is not the case. There is an inspiration in the freedom that we inherit that for the most part keeps Americans true to their ideals and faithful to duty.

Fourth of July

By HEZEKIAH BUTTERWORTH

TODAY the birthright of her hopes the marching nation sings,
And o'er the arms of laughing forts the banner lifts her wings:
Today in honor of the flag the myriad labors cease,
And breathe the silver bugles low the mellowed notes of peace,
Ho, bugles, ho! Ho, glimmering bands!
Ho, veterans old and true!
Ho, children marching for the States, 'mid roses wined with dew!
Behind ye thrice a hundred years, before, a thousand grand,
What says the Past to you today, O children of the land?
What are thy legends, O thou flag, that gladdenest land and sea?
What is thy meaning in the air amid the jubilee?

Flag of the sun that glows for all,
Flag of the breeze that blows for all,
Flag of the sea that flows for all—
The silver bugles blow and blow across the silver sea,
What is thy meaning in the air? O banner, answer me!

No azure pavon old art thou, borne on the palmer's spear;
No oriflamme of Red Cross Knight, or couffured cavalier;
No gold pomegranates of the sun burn on thy silken cloud,
Nor shamrock green, nor thistle red, nor couchant lion proud;
No golden bees of purpled isles on red taffeta wrought,
Nor eagle poisoning in the sky above the ocelot.

No gaping dragons haunt thy folds as in the white sun's spray,
When westerling Vikings turned their prows from noolness Norrway;
No double crosses beneath the cross are in thy hues unfurled,
Such as the Prophet Pilot led toward the sunset world;
No Golden Virgin, circlet-crowned, such as with knightly pride
Old Balboa threw upon the air o'er the Pacific tide.

Not e'en St. George's Cross is there that led the Mayflower on,
Nor old St. Andrew's Cross of faith—the Double Cross is gone,
The silver bugles blew and blow across the silver sea,
What is thy meaning, O thou flag! this day of jubilee?

O children of the States! yon flag more happy lusters deck
Than oriflammes of old Navarre, or Cressy, or Rosebeg,
The Covenanters' field of blue, caught from the clear sky, see,
And Lyra's burning stars of peace and endless unity.
The morning beams across it stream in roses red and white,
As though 'twere outward rolled from heaven by angels of the light.
All hail to thee, celestial flag, on this prophetic morn,
That mingled with the light of heaven-hall, flag of heaven born!

The silver bugles blow and blow across the silver sea,
And speakest thou to every soul this day of jubilee!
Flag of the battlefields with pride beneath thy folds I stand,
While gyveless Freedom lifts to thee her choral trumpets grand,
Thou standest for Monmouth's march of fire, for Trenton's lines of flame,
For ripping Eutaw's field of blood, for Yorktown's endless fame;
For Cape de Gatt, and fierce Algiers, and Perry's blood-red deck,
For Vera Cruz, and Monterey, and white Chapultepec;

Thou standest for Sumter's broken wall, as high above Tybe
The shouting forts uplift again the Stars of Unity;
For Chattanooga's rain of fire and that grand echelon
The deep drums led at Gettysburg beneath the smoky sun;
Thou standest for Progress and the years all golden-orbed to be,
For earth's new Rome upon the land, and Greece upon the sea,
Thou standest that all the rights of men may every people bless,
And God's own kingdom walk the world in peace and righteousness!

O my America! whose flag we throne amid the sky,
Beneath whose folds 'tis life to live and noblest death to die,
I hear the silver bugles blow across the silver sea,
And bless my God my palace stands a cottage home in thee—

So speak the voices of the Past, ye children of the land,
Behind us thrice a hundred years, before a thousand grand,
Such are the legends of yon flag that gladdens land and sea,
Such is the Hand that scrolls the air this day of jubilee.

Flag of the sun that shines for all,
Flag of the breeze that blows for all,
Flag of the sea that flows for all,
Hail! flag of Liberty! all hail!
'Tis the Fesal Day has come!

Thought for Nation's Birthday.
That there are many of our people who hold their blessings cheap, or at least take them as a matter of course, cannot be doubted. It is well, therefore, that we should all be reminded that they were won at great cost, and have been preserved by men and women who counted no sacrifice too painful if it were made in the cause of liberty. The comforts and luxuries that we enjoy, the peace and security that are ours, and the liberty of which we are so proud we owe to those who were willing to suffer and die in order to win them for their posterity.

Worthily Celebrate Independence.
If you will be your best you will help others to be theirs. The sum of the individuals is the nation. Let us make July Four a glorious holiday.

CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK, UGH!

“Dodson's Liver Tone” better than calomel and can not salivate.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quick-silver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel just remember that your druggist sells for 50 cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

Not a Golf-Course Plow.
Recently a golf architect was measuring off a course in the South. At one end of the steel tape was a dilapidated specimen, known in the parts as a “pore white trash,” one of the uncomplaining sort whom, somehow or other, everybody picks on. It was his duty to mark with his heel a spot on the ground at the end of every measurement in order that the man at the other end of the tape might find it readily.

His shoes were of the hand-me-down variety, and they no longer boasted of heels. The Carolina clay was just beginning to soften after a light morning's frost.

“I wish you would make those marks so I can see them,” growled the man at the other end of the tape from time to time.

Finally a smoldering ember of spirit burst into flame:
“I'm doin' de bes' I kin wid dis yere heel o' mine; but I yain't no plow.”—Golf Illustrated.

Hurrah! How's This

Cincinnati authority says corns dry up and lift out with fingers.

Ouch! ! ! ! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezone when applied to a tender, aching corn or hardened callus stops soreness at once, and soon the corn or callus dries up and lifts right off without pain.

He says freezone dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any drug store, but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels. If your druggist doesn't have freezone tell him to order a small bottle for you.—Adv.

Mystical Slav Temperament.
A deep religious instinct seems to be inborn with the Slav peasants, both Russian and Pole, according to the Christian Herald. The only difference is the form of his religion, for practically all the Poles are adherents of the Church of Rome. With both races religion and patriotism are closely intertwined. The Slav temperament seems to be particularly susceptible to religious impressions and devotion to the church reaches a degree for which it is difficult to find analogies in any other part of modern Europe. In the daily life of the Polish peasant the name Christ and the Virgin will be heard repeatedly. He would not think of living in a house that had not been blessed by a priest. A manufacturer would find it difficult to keep his hands if the factory had not been blessed. A theater would die from lack of patronage if the priestly blessing had been denied the building. The Pole is probably the most faithful of all the adherents of the Church of Rome.

Building Wooden Ships Again.
The present unusual shipping conditions have resulted in the return of the wooden ship to prominence in the merchant marine. Wooden ships can be built in a small fraction of the time required for building a steel or iron ship. They are not so expensive, and not so much skilled labor is required in the construction. As a result of the demand for ships in a hurry more wooden ships have been contracted for and are under construction in America today than for the last 30 years. Sixty-eight wooden ships are being built now on the Pacific coast of the United States. Fifty-six are under construction in Canada and the Canadian government has guaranteed a return of 15 per cent on the investment for ten years to builders of wooden ships in the Dominion.

Too Familiar.

Soon after four-year-old John had been put to bed the rumbling of the first thunderstorm of the season was heard in the distance, says the New York Post. He called his mother in great excitement. “Muvver! Muvver! Come here. What is that noise?”
“That is thunder, dear. We are going to have a storm. Just go to sleep and pay no attention to it.”
“Who makes the thunder?”
“God makes the thunder when he sends the nice, cool rain. Now go to sleep, dear, and don't call again.”

An hour later, when the storm had passed, John's mother went to see that he was covered up, and found him across the foot of the bed, as securely rolled in blankets as a mummy in its wrappings. In the process of unwinding he awoke.
“Why did you wrap yourself up like that?” he was asked.
“God made his lightning wink at me an' I was scared,” said John.

Nothing.

A Northerner, riding through the West Virginia mountains, came up with a mountaineer leisurely driving a herd of pigs.
“Where are you driving the pigs to?” asked the rider.
“Out to pasture 'em a bit.”
“Isn't it pretty slow work to fatten 'em on grass? Up where I came from we pen them up and feed them on corn. It saves lots of time.”
“Yaas, I s'pose so,” drawled the mountaineer. “But what's time to a hawg?”—Chicago Herald.

The Bloody Fang of the Tropics.

I am never conscious of the bloody fang, the poison tooth, of the wilderness. The peace of this jungle at night was the same peace as that of the trees in our city parks. I knew that well within my horizon, jaguars and pumas were stalking their prey, while here and there on the forest floor bush-masters lay coiled like mats of death. But quite as vividly could I picture the stray cats pouncing on sleeping sparrows in the shrubbery of Washington square, or the screech owls working havoc in the glades of Central park where the glare of the electric lights is less violent. And I have forgotten the two-score gulls and swans with torn throats—a single night's work of wild mink in the Bronx. Nature is the same everywhere; only here in Guiana the sparrows are not alien immigrants, and the light is not measured in kilowatts, and the hackn tigers are not so sated that they kill for pleasure.—William Beebe, in Atlantic.

Have You Looked into the Good Cheer Club?

A great many people of San Jose and vicinity do not realize the value and scope of the work of the Good Cheer Club. A visit to the offices of this organization would prove an eye opener to many people. There is a reception room, an office, a clinic room and dispensary. Here a visiting nurse renews supplies for her work. Sheets, night garments and sick room supplies—bandages and medicines are ready for immediate use. There is a closet containing a supply of baby clothes, and another for jellies, grape juice, etc.

One interesting thing that a visitor will see is a collection of wheel chairs for loaning or renting at a very nominal fee. It makes one feel that altruism really exists when he sees these things.

Every Saturday morning the rooms are crowded with little ones. This is the much talked of medical clinic. Each child is thoroughly examined and careful treatment prescribed. The nurse follows up these cases in the homes. For many years there has been a great need of a dental clinic. A large percent of these children have defective teeth. The numerous and far-reaching discoveries so lately made, of the extensive influences of decayed or neglected teeth, on the general health, would if the real facts could be put before the public arouse them to immediate action. Suffice it is to say that beside the known facts of the immediate disfigurement caused by aching, decayed and loosened teeth, medical men are now in possession of facts, showing that bad mouth conditions often cause rheumatism, serious heart, arterial and kidney diseases not infrequently resulting in death.

The realization of the hopelessness of doctoring many cases without dental aid has led the Good Cheer club to start their campaign for $3000 to furnish equipping and maintenance of a clinic and support of their present work.

Children from outside districts should have the recommendation of some responsible person when applying to the free clinics.

You are earnestly urged to contribute to the support of this worthy institution. We hope the outside districts will do their parts generously.

Mr. Subscriber if you can get your check to the Good Cheer club without being solicited from you will aid materially and encourage the campaigners in no small way. Talk it up. Let your friends know about it.

Donations will be received in Campbell at the Press office or by Miss Emma Wood on N. 2nd St. Checks can be mailed or delivered to the Good Cheer Club, 16 Letitia Building, 68 S. 1st St., San Jose.

Mabel Pardee

Mabel Pardee, whose illness was noted last week, died Monday, from spinal meningitis, following pneumonia. The little girl, who had just passed her twelfth birthday, was a bright, sweet dispositioned child, much loved by her schoolmates.

The best care of a nurse and several physicians was given her, but all help was futile. Funeral services were held from the Methodist church Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. W. H. Lloyd being assisted by Rev. J. O. Duncan of Santa Clara, a personal friend of the family.

To her bereaved parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Pardee, brother, John, and sister, Margaret, the sincere sympathy of the entire community is extended.

Puditas Banquet

Sixty guests were seated at the banquet given by Pudita Circle at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Curry in Parr avenue. The affair was a success in every detail. Mrs. I. P. Beal and Mrs. D. Toles had decorated the rooms with artistic bouquets, and Mrs. H. A. Watrous had used a patriotic scheme in adorning the four large tables which were placed on the spacious east porch where the banquet was served.

Mrs. C. W. Toles, Sr. presided in the kitchen and was very ably assisted by Mrs. C. D. Gill, Mrs. B. O. Curry, Mrs. J. H. Stubbe and Mrs. C. E. Day, the latter, assisted by the Misses Ethel and Elva Curry, served the courses. Table hostesses were: Mrs. James Turner, Mrs. H. W. Williams, and Mrs. Corning.

At the close of the feast, the guests sang the "Star-Spangled Banner," and the air was full of patriotic sentiment, inspired by the red, white and blue decorations. Later, everyone adjourned to the parlors where the time was pleasantly spent playing the games that had been arranged by Mrs. C. H. Davidson, and listening to an excellent musical program by Professors Kalas and Hal amicek, Miss Bozena Kalas, Miss Myrtle Curry, and Mr. and Mrs. Carboni. Mrs. H. W. Williams surprised the club by singing an original song which extolled the merits of Pudita Circle.

One of the most delightful features of the evening, was the outcome of a happy forethought. A special table, gayly decorated, had been placed in the dining-room especially for the children. The fifteen present were served to all the good things to eat by Miss Myrtle Curry, and the Misses Bozena and Helen Kalas.

This neighborhood gathering was like a good old family reunion, and was greatly appreciated and enjoyed by all present.

For A Sane Fourth

A petition, signed by some fifty or more of the women of the community, requesting the business men of Campbell not to sell fireworks was presented to the business men last week and signed by all of them.

Every year there are serious accidents, deaths, and disastrous fires resulting from fireworks of various kinds, some of the latter even occurring in the business blocks where they are on sale, and certainly they are not worth the grief caused. One resident of Campbell suffered the loss of property from that source in years gone by, and maybe others.

Children should be given something to make the day memorable, but it surely is no kindness to put in their hands a means of causing injury to themselves or others.

Mr. Clarke is one of our very fine men and I bespeak for him your presence and help.

Pres. Wilson has asked all Sunday Schools to help the Red Cross so we are planning for a big collection Sunday. Miss Farley will lead E. L. at 6:30. Official Board meeting Wednesday at the usual hour.

In Honor of Mrs. W. W. Powell

The regular meeting of Campbell W. C. T. U. held at the hospitable home of Mrs. Esther Ferguson, was made the event of a farewell party in honor of its loved President, Mrs. W. W. Powell.

After the transaction of business, reports of work done, a talk upon the object and influence of the Flower Mission department, Mrs. Eunice Briggs of San Jose, gave a delightful talk upon the topic of the day. This was followed by charming songs by Maryd and Emma Powell and the recitation of a bright, patriotic poem by Master Baldwin, written for the occasion by his mother, Mrs. Clara B. Baldwin.

There was also the presentation of a guest book to Mrs. Powell, in which all present wrote their names, with many assurances of appreciation and love. Mrs. Powell responded most feelingly.

Many kind wishes go with this beautiful family to their new home, at Durham, California. Here's hoping it may prove to their advantage to return soon to Campbell where they shall remain "for good."

Miss Catherine Cooper went to Pacific Grove Monday for a two weeks' visit.
