NOTICE.

THE owner of the present valuable library, having been selected by the trustees of the Peabody Educational Fund, as their agent, the collection of books selected by him with such especial care, is now offered to public competition, and in presenting it for sale, the subscribers deem it their duty to ask attention to its special features and general character.

The whole collection has been selected with unusual care. Most of the purchases were made from lists recommended by German professors, eminent in their several departments—many of the books from their own collections. In general, they are the best works extant on the several subjects of which they treat. It is rather a professional than popular library, although the range of subjects is quite extensive, and is in every respect such a collection as a German scholar or professor might well use, comprising, as it does, more of the German than all others combined.

The Library embraces the best works on doctrinal theology, Roman, Lutheran, and Reformed. It is very full in general and church history; still more in special history, ecclesiastical and civil. Biography, literary history, and history of learned institutions are each well represented, with many of the best editions of the Greek and Latin classics.

Of the larger works, attention may be called to the very valuable Encyclopedia of Ersch and Gruber, the largest and best in the world, worth its whole cost for its historical and literary articles alone. The works of Luther, Melanthon, and Zwinglius; Schlichlegrott's Nekrolog der Deutschen; Schroch's Kirchengeschichte, the great work of Carl Ritter on the Geography of Asia; the Benedictine History of Early French Literature; the Biographie Universelle; the works of the German and Swiss Reformers; Suicer's Thesaurus of the Church Fathers; Encyclopedia of Greek and Roman literature; Dueange, Facciolaetus et Forcellinus' Lexicon; many works of smaller compass, but much special interest, which the scholar or student will readily recognize; Luther's minor treatises, discourses and controversial sermons, the original editions, many of which are extremely rare, with the curious bordered titles; works relating to his history, histories of the towns and institutions where he was educated, where he lived at different periods; biographies of his friends and contemporaries, works on his life and character, local histories, etc. A rare collection of portraits of the Theologians of the Universities of Leipsic and Wittemberg, taken from many rare volumes. There is probably no other such collection in existence. Historical Atlases and Maps of various countries, illustrating the geography of the 17th and 18th centuries; Guide and Hand-Books of special historical interest, etc., the whole forming one of the most valuable, interesting and learned collections ever offered for sale in this country.

- “Cette Encyclopædie qui se recommande par l'exactitude et le profondeur des recherches sera fort entendue. Pour accelerer l'entreprise, on l'a portagée en trois sections; la première redigée par Ersch, Gruber et autres, la seconde par G. Hassel, W. Miller et A.
 G. Hoffmann; le troisième par H. H. E. Meier et L. F. Kamtz. La première partie, on le voit est fort avancée, mais les deux autres le sont beaucoup moins.”—Brunet.
- “This Encyclopedia surpasses all others in the extent and profound learning of its researches.”
- “This is the greatest and most learned Encyclopedia ever published.
 It differs from all others in being very full and exact on all branches of history and literature, relating to every nation, ancient and modern. Its articles, written by the best representatives of each branch of learning, are of the highest authority. The rarest erudition is found therein.”—Prof. B. S.
