MINES OUTPUT JUMPS 25 PER CENT. IN YEAR; MINERS NOW MAKE MONEY

Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines, Completes Final Figures Showing Production From This Province Reached Total of Over $35,000,000; Increase Taken As Forerunner of New High Record This Year.

British Columbia mining production for the last year with a total output valued at $35,158,843 shows an increase of 25 per cent. over the previous year, according to the report of the Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines, completed to-day.

The actual increase was $7,092,202. If the rate of production which was reached at the end of last year and so far this year continues, 1923 will set a new high record. At the rate of acceleration mining is now making the total will run over $40,000,000 and perhaps up near the $50,000,000 mark, it is estimated here.

The final returns for the year bear out the prediction of Mr. Sloan some time ago that the mining tide had turned and everything pointed to greater and more permanent development than ever before, with a large increase in the number of properties worked.

Conditions in British Columbia are now such, Mr. Sloan says, that they have reached a point "where a margin of profit for the miner is visible."

"It is extremely gratifying to note that the output for the year has only been exceeded three times in the history of mining in the Province, and that was in 1916, when production reached $42,290,462; in 1918, when the figure of $41,782,474 was attained; and in 1920, when the value was $35,542,684," Mr. Sloan said. "In the first two years the production was the result of the war-time stimulus of output and war-time prices of the metals.

"In the face of the explanation of the causes of these higher years, the output of 1922 is very creditable and indicates that normal conditions are returning, and may be expected to remain.

"As noted in last year's report, and equally true as yet, Europe is the world's metal market, to which practically all export metals find their way. As Europe is the consumer, the industrial conditions of Europe regulate the consumption of and demand for the metals.

"That Europe is still in a decidedly unsettled condition at the present time cannot be questioned, but, for all that, the consumption of the metals does seem to have increased, and the greatly overstocked metal market on this continent, which accounted for the tremendous drop in the metal prices in 1921, have been somewhat relieved, with the result that metal prices in 1922 have been materially higher than in 1920.

THETFORD, QUE., MINERS ARE TO RESUME WORK

Sherbrooke, Que., April 28.—The conference between the men and officials of the Asbestos Corporation concluded at an early hour this morning, a satisfactory understanding on the men's grievances, and on the points in dispute being arrived at. The men will return to work on Monday.

NEW JUDGE.

Ottawa, April 28.—The Canada Gazette announces that Walter H. Trueman, of Winnipeg, has been appointed a judge of the Manitoba Court of Appeal and ex-officio judge of the Court of King's Bench of Manitoba.

Criminal Code Amendments Approved by Commons

Ottawa, April 28.—The amendments to the Criminal Code in respect to gambling, which were given third reading in the House of Commons last night, prohibit the advertising, printing, posting, selling or supplying or offering to sell or supply: "Other than on the premises of an association lawfully conducting race meetings in Canada, and during the actual progress of a race meeting thereon, any tips, selections, odds, winning money prices, pari-mutuel payments or any similar intelligences with respect to or applicable to any horse race, whether such race be held within or without the Dominion of Canada and whether at the time such race has or has not taken place."

LABOR DECLINES MEDIATORY EFFORTS OF R. MACDONALD

London, April 28.—Ramsay MacDonald's efforts in the dispute between certain unions in the shipbuilding industry and the Federation of the Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades have been rebuffed by the Federation. The latter has declined to meet the leader of the Labor Party on grounds that if collective bargaining is to be maintained, the constituent members of the Federation must honor agreements concluded between the parent organization and the employers.

ITALIAN CABINET CHANGE PLANNED

London, April 28.—A Rome dispatch to The London Times says the Government has decided to abolish the Ministry of Labor. Its functions will be transferred to the Ministry of Industry and Commerce.

HAD TRIED TO RETAIN FREIGHT RATE CONTROL

Installation of the new officers and an address by Hon. John Oliver on the freight rates question were the features of the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last night. The new president, C. T. Cross, and the new vice-president, C. P. W. Schwengers, were formally introduced by the retiring president, J. W. Spencer, who said that during his own term of office he had received the hearty support of the members of the Chamber, and he was sure that similar harmony and unity would mark the course of the current year. The new officials spoke briefly. The treasurer's report showed receipts for the year $16,720 and expenditure $14,879.

The address of Premier Oliver on freight rates was not lengthy, but covered all the salient points. He utilized the occasion to pay tribute to the memory of Sir Richard McBride. It appears that Sir Richard was never a party to the abrogation of the agreement by which the Province was to control rates on the lines for which the Province guaranteed the bonds. On the contrary, when the Dominion took over the obligation, Sir Richard had endeavored to have a new arrangement by which the Province would retain control, but Sir Robert Borden had refused. The Premier also remarked that Mr. Mackenzie King had "seen the light" and had come to the conclusion that it was wrong for the Dominion to impose Customs duty on Canadian goods sent from one part of Canada to another, no matter by what route.

10,000 BOYS TO COME TO CANADA

Salvation Army Plans Migration From Britain

Commissioner Lamb About to Visit Ottawa

New York, April 28.—Social and economic conditions in Great Britain are such that boys leaving school each year can not be absorbed into the industrial life, Commissioner David Lamb, International Social Secretary of the Salvation Army, said on his arrival here yesterday. He estimated that 200,000 boys leave British schools each year and the great number of these that can not find employment are adding to the increasing army of unskilled labor. Commissioner Lamb will leave tonight for Ottawa, where he will confer with the Canadian Minister of Immigration the details of a plan whereby the Army expects to bring 10,000 of these boys to Canada. The Commissioner, who is making his third trip to Canada in connection with the scheme, said the cause of the situation in Great Britain was traceable to the fact that trade was bad and that partly disabled ex-service men were retained to do boys' work.

COMMISSION REVOKED.

Ottawa, April 28.—The Canada Gazette announces that the commission of Barney W. Collison, appointed commissioner of police within the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta and the Northwest Territories on December 7, 1918, is revoked as from May 1, 1923.

U.S. Fleet Probably Will Operate Off Atlantic Coast

Washington, April 28.—A plan to use the United States navy against the rum smuggling fleet off the Atlantic coast has been worked out by the administration, it was said at the White House to-day, and will be put into effect if United States is found to have the necessary legal authority. The Department of Justice has been asked for an opinion as to whether the President has power to declare an emergency and use the armed forces of the Government to curtail the operations of the rum smugglers. The announcement of the plan was made after it had become known that the State Department had again requested the co-operation of Great Britain in checking rum-running. The co-operation of the Canadian authorities also has been requested.

DOMINION INCOME TAX

For the convenience of the public the local Dominion Taxation office, 409 Post Office Building, will be open till 5 o'clock to-day, and from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Monday, April 30 which is the last day for making income tax returns to avoid penalties.

"My Dear Scouts and Cubs of B.C.: I am so glad to have been able to see so many of you during my short visit to the Province, but am also very sorry that I was not able to spend more time here and so to go about and see more of you.

"If you are all like those that I have seen, then you are a jolly lot of boys and have the makings of first rate Scouts.

"I hope you will do your best to keep up the good name that Scouts have now won for themselves all over the Empire, and will show people that you are smart and husky fellows ready to help or defend any person or animal needing your help, and ready to work hard for the good of Canada.

"I shall wish your doings in the future with the greatest possible interest, and I wish you all success, the best of luck, and good camping."

BOLTON WANDERERS WON ENGLISH CUP

Defeated West Ham Footballers Two to Nothing

200,000 Saw Play; Crowd Swarmed on Field; Number Slightly Injured

London, April 28.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Bolton Wanderers to-day won the English Football Association Cup by defeating West Ham at Wembley Park in the final of the series by 2 to 0.

At half-time the score was Bolton Wanderers 1 and West Ham 0. Jack scored first for Bolton, three minutes from the start of the game. J. R. Smith added the other point for Bolton after the interval.

The West Ham team was made up of the same players who beat Derby in the semi-final—Houfton, Henderson, Young, Bishop, Kay, Trossard, Richardson, Brown, Watson, Moore and Ruffell.

The Wanderers lined up: Pym, Howarth, Finney, Nuttall, Seddon Jennings, Butler, Jack, J. R. Smith, John Smith and Vizard.

Record Crowd. Wembley Park, Eng., April 28.—(Canadian Press Cable)—In the presence of an enormous and record-breaking crowd, Bolton Wanderers won the English Football Association Cup to-day here this afternoon from West Ham by a score of 2 to 0. No accurate count could be made of the exact number of people present because many stormed the fences around the ground and enjoyed the game without payment. The game was not a good exhibition of cup-tie playing because the crowd impinged on the playing field and cramped the outside wings. The goals were scored by Jack and J. R. Smith of the Bolton forward line. The game was witnessed by King, George, who presented the cup and medals for individual players to the winning team.

With a gate estimated at 200,000, waiting outside, the gates to the great stadium, being used for the first time, were opened at 11.30 this morning. By noon the ground was full except the covered stands were filled and people were crowded through the turnstiles, a queue of half-a-mile extending to the entrance. By 1.30 the popular priced sections of the stand and the standing room were jammed full. Hundreds then jumped the railings and spread over the playing field to avoid being crushed. The mounted police drove the people off the field to the running track and the spectators and the reserved sections had not filled up. The police were quite unable to handle the throngs.

The crowd, getting entirely out of hand with good reason, however, and there was no deliberate roughness.

Cheers for King. Shortly before 6 o'clock King George and his party arrived, and this complicated matters still more for the police. The crowd gave His Majesty an enthusiastic reception, singing the National Anthem after giving him a deafening welcome of cheers.

The Bolton team came on the field shortly after three, and the hour scheduled for the start, and was closely followed by the West Ham eleven. The players joined with the police in attempting to keep the spectators to get off the field and there was a general withdrawal to the running track. The police had to crush a passage through the crowd so the players could make their way to the royal box and be presented to the King.

U.S. WARSHIP TO ARRIVE HERE FOR MAYTIME FROLIC

The American scout cruiser Omaha, one of the newest warships in the United States Navy, will arrive here May 24 to represent the United States at Victoria's Maytime Frolic. Word that the Omaha would come here for the Frolic was received by Mayor Reginald Hayward at noon to-day in a telegram from the Navy Department at Washington, D.C. The vessel will remain here from May 24 to 26 so that her crew can join in the whole celebration, the Mayor was informed. The Omaha was built at Tacoma and launched early this year. She is one of the fastest fighting craft in the American Pacific fleet.

1,846,293 GERMANS KILLED IN THE WAR

Number of Dependents Left by Them 1,945,000

Berlin, April 28.—Germany lost 1,846,293 dead in the Great War, according to official statistics just brought up to date.

The number of dependents left by those who lost their lives is fixed at 1,945,000.

Of those killed, 58,123 were officers and officials, 212,669 non-commissioned and warrant officers, 1,572,523 enlisted men and 5,668 men whose ranks were not reported.

The dependents comprise 533,000 widows, 1,134,000 children who were left partially orphaned, 58,000 parental couples and 162,000 parents who were already widows or widowers.

The statistics have been submitted to the Reichstag by the Minister of Labor.

Miss Gilpin explained that her school takes in children of both sexes from six years of age to fourteen or fifteen, though the boys go away earlier than the girls. She explained the system of teaching adopted, placing special stress on the use made of the drama. She also pointed out the advantage of having the children teach each other, as they seem to learn most readily from those who are just a little older than themselves.

Miss Gilpin, in conversation, said she had never taken the stage in England but since coming to Canada she had made twenty speeches. "I don't like it very much," said she. "I am a teacher, not a speaker."

Sir Michael Sadler confirmed to The Times the cable report that he is about to leave Leeds, to accept an appointment as Master of University College, Oxford. He intimates that the news of the appointment was not a surprise to him.

Famous British Educationist In Victoria To-day: Sir Michael Sadler

Sir Michael Ernest Sadler, Vice-Chancellor of Leeds University, England, made a very favorable impression on those who were privileged to hear him speak at Victoria High School this morning. He is a gentleman with the indefinable quality usually described as "charm," a vigorous man somewhat past middle age, and a fluent speaker with a gift of humor always employed in just the right place. His address this morning was devoted to a description of educational and social conditions in England, with a brief account of the changes that have been going on during the past few years. The chair was occupied by Hon. J. D. MacLean, M.D. With Sir Michael was Miss Gilpin, "a distinguished family name," as he smilingly remarked. She is the head of Hull School, Weybridge, Surrey, England, an institution devoted to the education of young children, who also addressed the meeting of teachers and other educationists assembled in the auditorium of the High School.

Sir Michael Sadler Delivers Address at High School; Celebrated Educationist Confirms News of Transfer to Oxford University.

The Geddes Report. Sir Michael, who is touring Canada under the auspices of the National Council of Education, in his remarks was rather severe on the committee of which Sir Eric Geddes was the head and among its other sins, had recommended a considerable curtailment of the expenditure in England on education. The only thing this committee had been afraid of in coming to the same conclusions, was that the elementary teachers might make their influence felt in by-elections if the retrenchment went too deep. It was found, however, that the masses of the people were resolved to have education, and some blunted the razor that Geddes had sharpened. Even at that Sir Michael intimated that a certain amount of harm had been done.

WORLD GETS LESS HEAT FROM SUN

Declaration Made by Dr. G. C. Abbott, U.S. Scientist

New York, April 28.—A Washington dispatch published by The New York World to-day asserts that United States Government scientists have been "thoroughly startled" by results of examinations of the sun's world heating capacity made by Dr. G. C. Abbott, home secretary of the National Academy of Sciences. According to Dr. Abbott, as reported by The World, the heat of the sun on the earth has lessened by from three to four per cent. during the last fifteen months.

The paper says this unusual action on the part of the sun is assumed in Washington to be responsible for the present late Spring and scientists see in the present situation a possible duplication of the disastrous Summer of 1815, when frosts occurred throughout the continent during June and July, causing wholesale loss of crops and reducing food production to a minimum.

J. H. THOMAS URGES INDUSTRIAL PEACE British Railwaymen's Leader Denounces Class Warfare Neville Chamberlain Foresees Period of Strife

London, April 28 (Canadian Press Cable)—The union leader who wants a strike is not fit for his job," declared J. H. Thomas, M.P., the railwaymen's leader, at a meeting in Birmingham last night, "although employees and employers frequently have been driven into a state of war which they have had no control. Talk of class warfare can lead only to hell."

Neville Chamberlain, Minister of Health, who also addressed the meeting, remarked that last year was a comparatively peaceful year in industry in this country, but once again Great Britain appeared to be coming within sight of a season of industrial strife.

ONTARIO MEDICAL ACT CHANGED Definition of Practice of Medicine Given

Toronto, April 28.—A bill making an important amendment to the Medical Act passed by the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon setting forth that "every person shall be deemed to practice medicine with- in the meaning of this act who holds himself out as being able to diagnose, treat, operate or prescribe for any human disease, pain, injury, or disability of physical condition, or who shall either offer or undertake by any means or method to diagnose, treat, operate or prescribe for any human disease, pain, injury, disability or special condition."

Nothing in the act applies to dentistry. It also provides that a person not being a legally qualified medical practitioner who, before January 1, 1923, was practising as an osteopath, chiropractor or drug dealer, who files his name and particulars of himself with the Provincial Secretary within sixty days of the coming into effect of the act, is not deemed to be a practitioner.

The act is to come into force July 1, 1923.

GIRL GUIDES HAS ANNUAL MEETING Toronto, April 28.—At the annual meeting of the Canadian Council of the Girl Guides Association, which opened here yesterday, the secretary reported there had been an approximate enrollment of 4,807 Guides and 1,315 Brownies this year.

Nellie Dwyer, Guide of Bridge-water, N. S., for saving a younger girl from drowning.

Annie Wireman, Mount Dennis, Ont., for saving a man from drowning.

Ethel Twigg, Kingston, Ont., for rescuing a child from drowning.

Provincial representatives of the West coast are Mrs. W. C. Nichol, Victoria, B. C.; Mrs. Burford Hooker, Regina, and Lady Alkins, Winnipeg.

Immediately after the presentation the crowd invaded the playing field again. In the meantime a hurry up stadium of the supporters of the Wanderers for the police, and when they arrived a cordon completely round the field was formed and the crowd of humanity surging behind the officers, singing songs and the northern supporters of Bolton yelling good humored defiance at the Londoners cheering for West Ham, the game began.

Bolton won the toss. 200,000 There

An official statement issued after the game said that by 1:45 p. m. the stadium was completely filled and the gates were closed. This information was telephoned throughout London, but thousands of persons still continued to arrive at the stadium.

Mr. W. J. G. was asked to furnish a large force of mounted police. The statement estimated that the total number of persons who paid admission to the match exceeded 200,000, of whom probably 150,000 had a good view of the match. While the newspapers report several casualties during the riot, it was stated that no one was seriously hurt, the injuries consisting mostly of minor bruises.

With the attendance estimated at 200,000, it was stated that the world record had been set. The previous best record was 127,000, at Hampden Park, Glasgow, when the England-Scotland international game was played in 1912.

Number Injured. London, April 28.—Disorders in which a number of persons were injured, marked the Association Football Cup final between Bolton Wanderers and West Ham United in the new stadium at Wembley Hill this afternoon. The trouble was attributed largely to the intense feeling between the supporters of the two contestants, crowds of Bolton adherents coming to London on special trains for the game.

Just before play was scheduled to begin the supporters of the Wanderers at a football game in Great Britain, swarmed over the field and defied the police to remove them. When King George arrived at the stadium, he sang the National Anthem, but those on the field held their ground in the face of efforts by mounted police to move them.

Gates Closed. The stadium, with a capacity of 150,000, was nearly if not entirely filled while another big crowd was kept outside by closing the gates. The invasion of the field was apparently instigated by the desire of some of the crowd to get better positions from which to see the game.

After nearly an hour of anxious work the police closed the field and the game started. It had been in progress only thirteen minutes, however, when the spectators broke through the cordon of police about the field and the game was stopped. It was a quarter of an hour before the police could again clear the field sufficiently for the game to be resumed.

Broke Through Gates. Evidence of the riotous nature of the crowd was seen at 2 o'clock, when the gates were closed after the stadium had been virtually filled. The thousands waiting at the entrance threw themselves against the gates and broke them down, many women fainting and fifteen minutes after the doors had been stormed forty casualties were reported.

Trains Brought Through. Representative crowds came to London on all trains from all parts of the country to see the big match. London was asleep when the first Lancashire legionary train, Overy 800, reached Euston station on the first special train, which came in at three o'clock this morning. When day broke the station was crowded with visitors, nearly all of them wearing the blue and white colors of the Wanderers.

Coffee stalls in the neighborhood of the stadium were a lucrative trade, and the vendors of the club favors and anything else connected with the match did a fine business. The party of visitors were doing the sight of London, which in the sparkling sunshine they saw at its best. Last night a little band of West Ham enthusiasts kept vigil outside the stadium at Wembley Park, the scene of the great contest. By midnight the crowd had grown to large proportions. Later 100 West Ham supporters who had marched from Tower Bridge reached the southwest entrance. The procure a big brazer and soon were warming themselves around a blazing fire.

The magnificent turf enclosure at Wembley is in perfect condition for the match.

MANY NEWSPAPERS PRINT BIBLE VERSE Over Two Thousand Times Verses From Great Book

Cincinnati, April 28.—More than 2,000 newspapers published in America are using passages from the Bible in their editions, according to a report compiled by the Back to the Bible society, which has headquarters here.

The number of newspapers served with these verses from the Bible by the bureau has increased from 871 in 1922, to 2035 in 1923. The report continues:

"The papers which the bureau is serving have a combined circulation of 14,223,254, and reliable authorities on newspapers state that if the matter is well displayed and occupies a preferred position in the paper it will be read by at least two persons for each copy in circulation."

"The newspapers now being furnished these verses without cost include 1946 in the United States and its territories; 87 in Newfoundland; two in the West Indies, and one in Korea."

The report points out that the Bureau's work shows approximately 26,000,000 Protestants and 18,000,000 Roman Catholics in this country, making a total of 44,000,000 church members, 40 per cent of 14,223,254, and reliable authorities on population of 110,000,000. Thus, the report shows, 60 per cent are without any kind of church membership.

"On the other hand," the report continues, "nearly every American citizen reads some newspaper and the only immediate and available means of giving the word of God to the masses is through the press."

LOCOMOTIVE MAN KILLED IN TRAIN SMASH IN ONTARIO Port Arthur, Ont., April 28.—One of the engine crew was killed and a second was injured in the plunge of a freight engine through a bridge at 14,223,254, and reliable authorities on population of 110,000,000. Thus, the report shows, 60 per cent are without any kind of church membership.

DEATH CALLS MRS. NOAH SHAKESPEARE Pioneer Victoria Woman Passed Away in Vancouver This Morning

Mrs. Eliza Jane Shakespeare, relict of the late Noah Shakespeare, a prominent Victoria pioneer, died at Kerrisdale, Vancouver, early this morning, after a short illness. Immediately after her husband's death the late Mrs. Shakespeare removed to Vancouver and resided with her daughter, Mrs. Fred Berryman, where she passed away.

She was of English parentage, born in New York State, and her family returned to England whilst she was very young.

She arrived in British Columbia early in 1864, and proceeded to Nanaimo, where her husband was then employed by the Vancouver Coal Company. After a short residence in the Coal City Mr. and Mrs. Shakespeare came to Victoria, where they continued to reside until her husband's death in May, 1921.

The late Mrs. Shakespeare was a prominent member of the Methodist Church, and actively identified with all its activities. For many years she was a member of the Matropolitan Church, but of later years associated with the Centennial Church. She has been actively engaged in temperance and social reform work, and for years took an active interest in the Protestant Orphan's Home.

Interment will be made in Ross Bay Cemetery, and funeral arrangements will be made later.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Fred Berryman, she leaves three sons, Fred N. Shakespeare and Percy S. Shakespeare, of this city, and William H. Shakespeare, of Vancouver, and a number of grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Death of Enoch Shakespeare. The family in Victoria are also mourning the death of their uncle, Enoch Shakespeare, J. P., who passed away in Nanaimo on Thursday evening. The late Mr. Shakespeare was a native of Briery Hill, Staffordshire, England, and came to Nanaimo in 1881, where he first took up farming in the Wellington district, and not being satisfied with the venture, moved to Nanaimo shortly afterwards.

OBITUARY The remains of the late Hannah Jane Green will be laid to rest Tuesday afternoon. Service will be held at the Thomson Funeral Home, 1625 Quadra Street, at 2:30 o'clock. The late Miss Green was a native of Leeds County, Ontario, where she was born forty-nine years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss three sisters, Mrs. W. Niblock, of 1122 Church Street, Mrs. Isaac Nuttall, of Pense, Sask., and Mrs. John Sly, of Elgin, Ont., and three brothers, Richard and William of Lyndhurst, Ont., and Robert, of the late Mrs. Shakespeare's household. The Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick will conduct the service. Interment will be made in Ross Bay Cemetery.

The funeral of the late Gustav Albin Nelson has been arranged to take place on Monday afternoon. Service will be held at the Thomson Funeral Home, 1625 Quadra Street, at two o'clock, when the Rev. P. E. Easler, of the Lutheran Church, will officiate. The remains will be laid to rest in Ross Bay Cemetery.

The funeral of the late Henry A. Davie will be held from the B. C. Funeral Chapel on Monday at 2:30 p. m., preceding to St. John's Church, where the Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick will conduct the services at 2:30.

The death took place this morning of Keith Brethour, Slater, eight-months-old twin son of Captain and Mrs. Arthur Slater, of 1324 Johnson Street. The remains are resting at the Sands Funeral Chapel and the funeral arrangements will be announced pending the arrival of Captain Slater.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CO-OPERATION IN CANADA PRAISED Toronto, April 28.—Canada is blessing a trail in inter-denominational Sunday School co-operation and is still a long way ahead of the United States in this matter," declared Dr. Hugh S. Magill, of Chicago, at a banquet of the Religious Educational Council of Canada here last night.

NEW COMPANY Ottawa, April 28.—The only Western company granted a Federal incorporation this week is the Dominion Electric Company, of Edmonton, Alberta, with a capital stock of $500,000.

NAVY CHOOSES QUEEN FOR MAYTIME FROLIC Miss Annie Davies, Niece of Late Capt. Fryatt, New Candidate

The Navy at the eleventh hour has decided to enter a Queen in the May-time Frolic contest. This morning the choice of the "lads in blue" fell upon Miss Annie Davies, niece of the late Capt. Fryatt of "Brussels" fame. She is employed at the P. R. Burns Co., Ltd., and this morning received a rousing welcome and every promise of support from the crew of H.M.C.S. Patrician. The ship and dockyard is solidly behind Miss Davies and despite the late hour of her entry, the Navy is confident that she will be the Queen.

WILSON WILL S ADMITTED PROBATE Estates at Nearly $1,000,000 Passed Through Courts in This Week

Estates valued at approximately $1,000,000 were admitted to probate in the Victoria Court Registry this week. The estate of William Wilson, who died in Victoria on October 27, 1922, was admitted to provisional valuation at $913,378, on which succession and probate dues of $136,165 are paid.

Under the will four sons, Joseph E. Wilson, 811 St. Charles Street; Herbert G. Wilson, 608 St. Charles Street; Biggestaff Wilson, 1770 Rockland Avenue; and Charles E. Wilson, York Road, are left each one quarter of the residue of the estate. William E. Wilson, a son, is left $10,000 and $200 a month for life. Mrs. Emily E. Church, 46 Douglas Street, a daughter, is left $75,000 in income bearing securities.

In addition the will bequeaths $500 each to the St. Joseph's Hospital, the Protestant Orphan's Home, and four employees, John Cathcart, 1325 Birch Street; James A. McIntosh, 1426 Elfric Street; C. W. Geiger, 298 Moss Street; and Robert E. Burns, 472 Niagara Street. Not mentioned in the will, but executed through the sanction of the executors, Joseph E. Wilson and Charles E. Wilson, addition bequests made in an unsigned codicil are honored.

The will comprised one of the most orderly documents that has been admitted to probate in long time. The property without exception were in gilt edged and reputable securities, testifying to the business acumen of the testator. Many securities were in financing, charitable, and public service institutions in bond issues. Only one enterprise failed to show enhancement at the time of the death of the testator, and that was a small holding in stock which proved later valueless. Even in this case the agreement to purchase had not been completed, though the liability was covered by a special reference in the accounts setting aside that amount should the affairs of the stock company be liquidated, and outstanding subscription called.

Other estates included that of Edward De Laceri Grierson, died at Victoria on March 4, 1922, with a limited value of $17,550; Mrs. Catherine Munis, died at Victoria on February 14, 1923, estate $15,368; George Thomas Boulding, died at Victoria on February 15, 1923, estate $10,221; George Frooks Ellery, died at Esquimalt, on January 29, 1923, estate $9,504; and Douglas Lawrie, died at Victoria on December 21, 1922, estate $775.

SWEDISH QUEEN OPENS BEST HOME Invests $45,000 Gift in Haven for Women at Oland

Stockholm, April 28.—Queen Victoria of Sweden has just begun the establishment of a rest cure for women as her investment of the $45,000 which she received on her 64th birthday, last year, was a gift subscribed by the women of her country, and her popularity has been enhanced more than ever by this act.

The site of the new rest cure is the picturesque island of Oland, in the Baltic, just off the southwest coast of Sweden, where the Queen's favorite summer villa, "Solisten," is situated. She has purchased three houses, which will be reconstructed for the new institution.

There will be fifty comfortably equipped rooms, together with the surrounding dining room and assembly hall. Swedish women who are in need of vacations, but have limited means, will be received for periods of varying length.

The whole island of Oland is a charming health and pleasure resort, and not the least of its attractions is the romantic atmosphere about the ruined Borgholm Castle, which was built some 700 years ago, and has been taken and retaken time and again during the Swedish wars.

The local drug clerks anticipate a merry time at their informal dance to be held in the K. of C. Hall on Monday next. All available invitations for the affair have been applied for and those who have been fortunate in securing invitations will undoubtedly have a jolly time. The music is in the hands of Ray King's dance orchestra, while the band consists of the Victoria Hotel orchestra. The affair will start at nine and continue until the small hours of the morning. Many novel and interesting innovations have been included in the unique programme.

IN DEATH COMA. BROUGHT BACK BY INSULIN She Is First Human Being to Return to Life

She Describes Sensation of Dying and Then Coming Around

London, Ont., April 28.—Brought back from the brink of the grave after she had entered a state of coma from which no one ever returned before the discovery of Banting's famous insulin remedy for diabetes, Mrs. Andrew McLellan, of Port Huron, four miles from the village of Dublin, Ontario, sat at a window in Victoria Hospital yesterday, and told of the first successful treatment of a diabetic patient since the use of the new discovery was inaugurated two weeks ago.

"I first learned four years ago that I had diabetes," Mrs. McLellan said. "It is a subtle thing that creeps upon you without warning. I probably had it for some time before I knew of it, but I continued at my work as usual and even up until recently I went along without much change in my daily routine."

"I had become somewhat weaker, but it appears that with diabetes the end comes suddenly. It is a very good thing for me that I suffered a slight cut on my thumb."

"That occurred a few weeks ago, and because I had diabetes the wound would not heal, and when the doctor lanced it, it continued to grow worse, and the pain was most agonizing. Finally the doctor learned that the insulin treatments were to be given at Victoria Hospital here, and he advised me to come to London. My purpose in coming, however, was really to have the infected thumb treated."

"But my case was further advanced than was thought. The night after my arrival a couple of weeks ago I gradually lost consciousness and fell into the state of coma from which no one was able to recover."

"As far as my own feelings were concerned, I was just sleeping, but when I awakened after I had been given insulin I found myself in a room. They had been called to my death-bed and I did not know that until a few days ago."

"Dr. Banting has done a wonderful thing for humanity, but the only pity is that it is not yet widely distributed so that all of the people who are suffering from diabetes may have the benefit of it."

Mrs. McLellan stated that when she came to London she was committed to the care of Dr. W. J. Stevenson, of the Insulin Institute, and of Dr. W. J. Tillman, specialist in medicine. These physicians have since had charge of her case, and have been responsible for the successful use of the Banting insulin treatment.

"The infection of her thumb is being gradually overcome, and so effective has been the insulin treatment that her healing qualities have been restored to her body, and it is believed that in a short time her hand will again be well."

Dr. Tillman stated that he had never before in his long experience in medicine known a case in which the patient was brought back from the state of coma that in diabetes has been the inevitable prelude to death.

To-day Mrs. McLellan sat at the hospital window, and appeared quite well. She said that she was somewhat weak, but this she attributed to the fact that she is still on a strict diabetic diet.

FIRST VISITORS AT MOTOR CAMP First visitors to Victoria's new motor tourist camp at Curtis Point arrived here to-day. They are Captain George Bain and his family, of Ladysmith. They are delighted with the accommodation provided for tourists at the motor camp. From now on, it is expected, a steady stream of tourists will arrive at the camp.

MANITOBA TO HAVE NO WHEAT BOARD

Bill Falls by the Way; Farmer M.P.P.'s Held Caucus

Winnipeg, April 28.—Defeat of the Wheat Board bill has been taken stoically by supporters of the measure, it was revealed at a caucus of the Government party last night. No recriminations were indulged in and the party is said to be as solid as ever. One member on leaving complained about the city ruling the country, but other members declared that a fine spirit had prevailed at the caucus and that the majority of the supporters of the bill were resigned to their fate, while no exultation was indulged in by those members of the party who had helped to kill the bill.

It was stated that the caucus had been called to see what could be done to get the House prorogued next week. It was claimed there was nothing to prevent the House closing by Thursday or Friday at the latest. The announcement was unofficially made that Attorney-General Craig's suggestion that an enabling bill with the credit of the province behind it by way of guarantee should be introduced with the object of giving all who wished to do so the privilege of dealing with the Wheat Board that may be established by Saskatchewan and Alberta, was not discussed.

ANZAC DAY WAS COMMEMORATED

Cape Helles, Greece, April 28 (Canadian Press cable via Reuter).—The presence of the British garrison, including a few of the participants in the original landing of the Australian and New Zealand army corps in Gallipoli April 25, 1915, lent emphasis to the commemoration of Anzac Day in Gallipoli. A number of commemorative services were held in various parts of the Gallipoli Peninsula.

The main service in memory of the Anzacs was held on a plateau above Cape Helles, where a monument to the heroic dead will be erected.

WOULD NOT REMOVE RIGHT OF APPEAL

Senators Object to Clause in Narcotic Drugs Act

Ottawa, April 28.—A bill to prohibit the improper use of opium and other narcotic drugs was severely criticized in the Senate yesterday by Senator McMeans and others on the ground that it deprived convicted persons of their right of appeal.

It was urged by Senator Dandurand, Government Leader in the Senate, that this was necessary in many cases to prevent vendors escaping punishment. In a similar bill last year the Senate eliminated this clause and notice was given that when this bill was in committee amendments would be moved to the same effect.

Senator Dandurand explained the purpose of the Canadian National Railway Act which would permit the Government to carry the Government railway insurance, instead of placing it with insurance companies as heretofore. The insurance plan, he said, would not cover the Merchant Marine.

TRADE TREATY AGAIN DISCUSSED

Commons Makes Progress With French Pact

Ottawa, April 28.—To critics of the trade treaty with France, Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, in the Commons yesterday emphasized the point that if this treaty were not adopted, Canada would come under the French general tariff, which was much higher than the old arrangement and with which Mr. Meighen, Conservative leader, should compare the present agreement. Mr. Fielding said Mr. Meighen was making an unfair and unwarranted comparison in discussing the treaty. What had been done was to trade the corpse of the old agreement for the living body of this one. Mr. Meighen knew that France would have given notice of determination to end the old treaty. She had asked for the opening of negotiations.

Meighen's View

Mr. Meighen repeated his argument that Canada should have increased her tariff on luxuries before going to France. Then Canada could have secured lower tariffs on agricultural products without having to sacrifice anything. This was one of the products of wrong pre-electoral commitments, Mr. Meighen asserted. The harvest had been sacrificed.

Robert Forke, Progressive leader, asked Mr. Meighen what weapon he was referring to when Mr. Meighen said the Finance Minister did not have the necessary weapon to negotiate a treaty.

"To put the tariff upon goods France sent into Canada," was the reply. Mr. Meighen added that Fielding could not do such a thing because the French people knew his political history and the record of his party.

Sir Henry Drayton argued that under the treaty Japan and Switzerland would obtain the most benefit, although it was supposedly to benefit France. He also insisted that the United States secured for nothing concessions from France for which Canada was making definite sacrifices.

Progress was reported when the House in committee adjourned for dinner.

ALLEN THEATRES CONTINUE UNDER TRUSTEE'S CONTROL

Toronto, April 28.—The Allen Theatres in Canada are to be continued under the direction of Trustee G. T. Clarkson.

Tenders for the interests were opened yesterday by inspectors and Mr. Clarkson, and while there were bids for individual amusement houses here and elsewhere there were no bulk offers. It was decided not to divide the assets and arrangements were made to continue the operation of the houses under Mr. Clarkson and the inspectors.

Pacific Milk Is Popular At Home

The Dominion Government, some time ago, made the interesting discovery that the herds and pasture of our own Fraser Valley, the home of Pacific Milk, are unrivalled. It is human nature to see values afar, unless when near. But in the case of Pacific Milk, so much of it is consumed by our own people it would seem that one little human tendency is somewhat reversed.

A new trial for the condemned couple, who were jointly convicted and sentenced to death at Calgary, has been refused by both the Appeal Court of Alberta and the Supreme Court of Canada.

VETERAN LOST BOTH FOOT AND PENSION

Case of Hardship Under Army Regulations in Scotland

Aberdeen, Scotland, April 28.—The inexorable logic of "red tape" has played a trick on an Aberdeen veteran.

The man was incapacitated during the war through an injury to his foot and when a large bunion appeared on the affected member he was given a small pension. However, the bunion in time developed into a more serious disability, and a few weeks ago it was found necessary to amputate the foot at the ankle. The former soldier has been notified by the military authorities that his grant has been withdrawn because the original disability has passed away.

Vancouver Island TREAT IS GIVEN MUSIC LOVERS

Duncan People Are Entertained by Amateur Society

Special to The Times

Duncan—Music lovers of Duncan were again given a great treat when the Cowichan Amateur Orchestral Society held its ninth concert in the Opera House on Wednesday evening. This orchestra has grown since last season, and now numbers thirty. The honorary conductor, W. A. Willett, is again to be congratulated on the excellent programme arranged, and Mr. Ruscombe-Poole, the president of the Society, paid a fitting tribute. Assisting the Society was Mrs. Jessie Longfield, of Victoria. S. Wright, A. S. M., and his Scouts gave valuable assistance on the floor. The orchestra and its new friends were entertained to supper afterwards by Mrs. W. A. Willett, who was presented with two gold safety pins, as a token of the appreciation of her kindness at all times.

opened every day, as they had too few workers on their committee, and the president of the Institute called for volunteers to go on a committee to meet the library committee and arrange about this. Mrs. W. Patterson, Mrs. Neel, Mrs. Whidden, Mrs. G. Henderson, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. H. A. Patterson kindly offered their services.

It was decided to hold a bridge and five hundred evening, Mrs. W. Patterson, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Storey and Miss Wilson being the committee in charge.

The question of the Friendly Help was discussed, and this will now be definitely taken up as Institute work. Mrs. Pitt, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Whidden, convenor, are the committee. It was pointed out that as the Patriotic Fund will cease at the end of April, there is likely to be more need of the Friendly Help than ever, and it was thought that other societies would probably lend a hand. A resolution along these lines will be brought forward at the next meeting.

The orchestra consisted of: First violin—H. A. Norie (leader), Mrs. A. C. Johnston, Mrs. H. C. Martin, Mrs. Talbot, Miss Geoghegan, Miss Macfarlan, E. J. E. Ryan, E. Ryan, Second violins—Mrs. R. E. Macbean, Mrs. J. G. Somerville, Mrs. H. N. Watson, Mrs. L. Quenne, Miss Stead, Miss Cowie, Miss A. Kier, Miss Stephens, Mr. Clements and Mr. McIntyre.

Violas—Miss Lonsdale, F. J. Norie Flute—H. J. Ruscombe-Poole Cellos—Mrs. Morten, M. Kier, M. C. Bell, Clarinet—M. C. F. Davie Bass—M. Bell

Drum—V. Day Trumpet—F. J. Norie Trombone—J. Welker Horn—W. Kier Hon. conductor—Wilfred A. Willett.

Sidney—At the dance held in Berquist Hall on Thursday evening under the auspices of the Junior Branch of St. Andrew's L. A. almost one hundred were present. The music was supplied by Mrs. Gleason, of Victoria, and H. Robinson, of Elk Lake. Supper was served at 11 o'clock, the tables were Spring-like with vases of flowers.

The sacred concert in the Union Church on Thursday evening was very much enjoyed by the large number of people present. Rev. T. Griffith was in the chair. J. Longfield was at the organ and C. Spencer at the piano. An excellent programme was rendered.

At the Sidney Social Club the winners of the first prizes were Mrs. Veitch, Miss Gilman, Mr. Gilman and Mr. Watson. Consolation prizes were won by Mrs. Hamby, Mrs. Gilman, G. Cochran, and Mr. Crossley. Ladies' highest bid was won by Mrs. Veitch and gentlemen's highest bid by Mr. Tralick. G. Cochran and Mr. Crossley were the hosts for the evening.

At the evening service at the Union Church on Sunday there is to be a May-day flower service. The children will march in procession, bringing flowers which will be given to the sick. There will be special music by Miss Kathryn Davis and Mr. Handley Wells, of Victoria.

SOME HINTS ON SPRAYING

When to Spray—How to Spray—What an Effective Spray Should Contain

With Springtime here, every reader will be interested in spraying. The following hints are given by the Vancouver Drug Co., the largest dealers in spraying materials in the West.

Spraying should be done just as soon as Spring breaks. The first warmth hatches the eggs of insect pests. The larvae are voracious eaters, develop amazingly and are mature by the time the bloom appears. This they sting with the inevitable result of imperfect fruit and spoiled blooms. Spray early is sound advice. Keep spraying from time to time through the season is wise counsel for the gardener.

For orchards a spraying equipment is necessary, whether machine or hand, depending on the number of trees. For the garden spraying may be done either with a sprayer or a whisk, care being taken to get the solution on the under side of the leaves.

Use Kero Spray for spraying. It is a spray that has no equal either for orchard or garden. It contains Black Leaf Forty, Arsenate of Lead, Whale Oil Soap, Kerosene and emulsifying ingredients. It is sure death to every form of insect life. While it is poisonous it does not injure the tree or plant. On the contrary it makes them strong and able to resist disease and fungoid attacks.

Kero Spray is put up in concentrated form, one gallon making 50 gallons of spraying solution. It is sold at $2 per gallon, in 5 gallon tins at $1.75 per gallon and in barrels at $1.50 per gallon. These prices being container free. For garden use it is offered in bottles (making 5 gallons) at 40c. and half gallon tins at $1.25.

The reader can obtain Kero Spray at Vancouver Drug Co. stores, Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster, or from the head office, 456 Broadway West, Vancouver.

Parties desiring spraying materials in quantities should write the firm for special prices. They are the largest dealers in the West in Arsenate of Lead, Lime Sulphur, Blue Stone, etc. State your quantity requirements when writing. (Adv.)

Why do Men Fraternalize?

MAN has ever feared his inability to cope with life's problems ALONE—he has ever realized the advantages of Fraternity. Through the centuries brotherly fellowship has brightened lives, it has lightened burdens—until today, as never before, Fraternity is recognized as a vital and essential factor in the common weal.

The spirit of Fraternity has not changed.

The Fraternal Society of yesterday afforded pleasant companionship and much service. Affliction or death brought an abundant measure of human sympathy and support—financial distress a helping hand.

And it continues and expands. The Fraternal Society of today has the same basis and fundamental principles as of old—but the Life Insurance Department of the Fraternal Society of today must be conducted with strict attention to actuarial science and the proper provision for reserves as demanded by the various Governments and such a Society is the Independent Order of Foresters.

That Fraternity is the outgrowth of deep seated needs of Humanity is evidenced by the fact that in North America alone there are over two hundred societies with over ten million members.

First Court organized June Sixteenth, 1874. Over 2000 Courts organized to date.

If you are interested in the benefits of Fraternal Insurance, write for particulars—Head Office, Independent Order of Foresters, Toronto.

SIR MICHAEL SADLER.

It is particularly interesting to the people of Victoria that Sir Michael Sadler's arrival in this city should synchronize with the announcement that he will shortly be leaving Leeds University for even more important duties at Oxford—a transfer from one of the newest to the oldest seat of learning in Britain.

DE VALERA'S CAPITULATION?

Until Eamonn de Valera comes out of his hole and puts up a fairly reasonable imitation of a sensible man it will be difficult to judge the sincerity of his order for a cessation of republican hostilities.

PLAIN NONSENSE.

From time to time during the last twenty years letters and articles have appeared in Old Country newspapers that have naturally made every industrious Canadian boil over with indignation.

If the City Council pays in American funds interest due in July on £134,000 of city bonds floated for repayment only in Canada and Britain it will commit a "criminal act" and be liable for prosecution, Alderman W. J. Sargent, former Finance Committee Chairman, warned his colleagues in an impassioned speech yesterday afternoon.

The bill which Sir Lomer Gouin is sponsoring will undoubtedly go through the House of Commons as easily as it did on a former occasion. Surely the Senate will not quibble over the unimportant technicality which influenced it last time.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Things got quite lively in the Ontario Legislature. Colonel Carmichael called Colonel Currie a "dirty scoundrel." Is this a way they have in the army?

A former harbor master from Shanghai says Victoria is about the most attractive place he has seen. This gentleman has good judgment and if he were to make a few inquiries about the world he would discover that he is a member of a very large company sharing similar views.

The Duc D'Orleans is claiming the Throne of France. If he really wants to leave his pleasant sanctuary in England he might put in an application for the Kingship of Greece, Italy, Roumania, or Spain—one or two of these jobs may be going begging before long.

If the individual who wrote that letter to Lloyd's Weekly News is living in Victoria at the present time, if he really believes that this city is fast becoming a "deserted village," if unemployment conditions are so bad in this Province and in Canada generally as he makes out, why on earth does he hesitate in consulting a map of the world? He would be assured of plenty of excitement in Moscow and he might get a thrill in Patagonia.

Fear Expensive Law Suits; People Will Reject Move, Andros Tells Colleagues

If the City Council pays in American funds interest due in July on £134,000 of city bonds floated for repayment only in Canada and Britain it will commit a "criminal act" and be liable for prosecution, Alderman W. J. Sargent, former Finance Committee Chairman, warned his colleagues in an impassioned speech yesterday afternoon.

In spite of Alderman Sargent's solemn warning, the Council decided to ask the Provincial Government to legalize old interest payments in American funds and to allow the city to continue these payments. This was done because City Comptroller J. L. Raymur gave the Dominion Securities Corporation a letter bearing the city's seal and guaranteeing payments in New York funds.

A majority of the Council fears, however, that if it does not continue to make payments in American money it will find itself involved in expensive lawsuits that will cost more than the difference between Canadian and New York funds.

Alderman Sargent pointed out that there was no record on the minutes of the Council of the letter written by City Comptroller J. L. Raymur guaranteeing that interest would be paid in the United States.

"It looks as if it were an illegal act," he declared. "The only time it did not want to get behind and so put it on the shoulders of an official," he declared. "The only people who were benefited by this transaction were the bond buyers, not the citizens or the bond buyers."

"I believe," Alderman Sargent went on, "that this letter was got for the purpose of bond men making money out of the city, nothing more and nothing less. To say we are going to injure our credit by repudiating that letter is very short-sighted."

Alderman Sargent added that members of the Council should have been informed long ago of the whole situation. During all the years he had been on the Council, he said, he had never been told by officials that the interest difficulty nor, so far as he knew, had other Council members.

"It's stretching the point too far to say that the bond houses put something on the city," Alderman R. H. B. Ker protested. "The company concerned in this is a reputable house. I want it understood that I am not in any way prejudiced in favor of the bond companies."

"I reply to that by asking if it is true that that letter, guaranteeing payment in New York, was attached to bonds issued in 1908, five years before the letter was written?" Alderman Sargent retorted. "I am informed that this is so."

Alderman Sargent emphasized, however, that he was not referring to any British Columbia bond company. Alderman Andros strongly supported Alderman Sargent's view and laughed at the statement that the city's credit would suffer from a repudiation of the Raymur letter.

"We issued these bonds on certain conditions," he said. "The people who bought them knew on what conditions they were issued and where they were payable. Then one of our officials writes a letter and says we will do something else. If that had been done before we sold the bonds there might be some room for argument but in my estimation we will not be able to convince the people of Victoria that they should pay for something no one seems to know who authorized."

"How can we go to people and ask them to vote away their own money when they don't have to? The people won't do it. They know the legal position of the matter. Why the people would laugh at the idea. As far as this hurting our credit is concerned I predict that the bond dealers as usual will be pressing their noses against the glass doors when we are selling our bonds wondering who was successful in getting them. It is absurd to say that they won't buy our bonds. They will be clamoring for them."

Alderman E. S. Woodward warned the Council that if it did not continue to pay interest in New York it would find itself involved in expensive law suits. "The bond holders can collect because they have a letter under the city's seal," he declared. "That is not worth five cents after the people passed a by-law guaranteeing the payment in New York."

do not know what is the law until each court has had its guess and the question goes to the Privy Council at great cost. It will be cheaper to pay the interest now."

Alderman Andros charged that in many cases buyers of city bonds did not secure the advantage of interest payments in New York. Bond companies, he said, did not hand a copy of the Raymur letter to the buyers unless they were forced to do so.

The buyers were only given the advantage of New York payments when the bond companies were forced to give it to them to make a sale, he asserted.

City Benefited. Alderman Leeming stated that the Dominion Securities Corporation, the firm to which the Raymur letter was sent, had claimed to be the city's fiscal agents at the time the letter was written and that the city got the benefit of selling its bonds in New York.

"Well, we cannot get these American payments validated by July, when the next interest installment is due," Alderman Sargent declared. "We must repudiate the letter. If we pay this interest in American funds we are committing a criminal act and will be liable to prosecution."

"It will not be paid in American funds over my signature until the Legislature validates it," Mayor Hayward announced.

Between Devil and the Deep Sea. "If we don't pay the money in American funds we shall be sued," Alderman Ker warned. "And if we do pay it, some bone-headed rate-payer might sue us."

Alderman Leeming, Sangster, Dewar, Ker, Todd and the Mayor voted in favor of the move to validate the American interest payments and Alderman Andros, Sargent, Woodward and Harvey opposed it.

FINAL SESSION OF MOTHERS' WELCOME

The most interesting for the season of the Mothers' Welcome Society of Esquimalt at the parish hall of St. Paul's on Thursday took the form of a social tea and sale of home cooking. At the suggestion of the president, Mrs. Booth, the proceedings opened with the National Anthem in honor of the royal marriage.

Mrs. McCullum presented the prizes as follows:
 For the prettiest woolen garments—First, Mrs. Elton, sweater and bonnet; second, Mrs. McGivern, baby's sweater.
 For the most practical woolen garments—First, Mrs. Tom Scott, baby's vest; second, Mrs. Clark, baby's sweater.
 For the most economical sweater—Special prizes were given to Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. Hansen, the former's garment costing only 75c, the latter's $1.
 Prizes were given to Mrs. McGivern for the most artistic dress; to Mrs. G. Fea for dress made at least cost, 55c; to Mrs. Appleby for the most practical dress with knickers, and to Mrs. F. Lock for dress for baby under one year.
 In the essay competition prizes were awarded to Mrs. Clark and Mrs. G. Fea.
 A special prize was given to Velma Jaekin in recognition of her services as patient in the bandaging demonstrations.
 A vote of thanks was accorded to Mrs. Chapman for her conscientious judging of the garments and to Mrs. McCullum for presenting the prizes.
 The home cooking stall was presided over by Mrs. J. Nicol and Mrs. Tom Scott, and the sum of $29 was realized.
 Tea was served, the committee in charge being Mesdames Brooker, Kelly, Davies, Wise, Sanders, Booth and Wallace. The meeting was well attended, about fifty mothers and twenty-six children being present.

MRS. DE PENCIER AGAIN HEAD OF PROVINCIAL I.O.D.E.

Sir Michael Sadler Addressed Final Session in Vancouver Yesterday

By Times Staff Representative
 Vancouver, April 27.—Mrs. A. U. de Pencier, of Vancouver, was re-elected by acclamation to a second term as president of the Provincial Chapter, I. O. D. E., at this afternoon's final session. Other officers are as follows: First vice-president, Miss Milliecent Wright, Vancouver; second vice-president, Mrs. A. F. Griffiths, Victoria; third vice-president, Mrs. C. G. Penhock, Vancouver; fourth vice-president, Mrs. McCulloch, Nelson; secretary, Mrs. Dallas Perry, Vancouver; treasurer, Mrs. Edgar Lee, Vancouver; educational secretary, Mrs. Boynton, Vancouver; organizing secretary, Mrs. R. J. Spott, Vancouver; Echoes secretary, Mrs. David Miller, Victoria.

Provincial Councilors.
 Other members elected to the executive as councilors are as follows: Mrs. A. Anatey, New Westminster; Mrs. A. E. Beck, Vancouver; Mrs. W. H. Belson, Victoria; Mrs. R. C. Boyle, Vancouver; Mrs. A. F. Brown, New Westminster; Mrs. A. F. McCree, Creery, Vancouver; Miss Dobson, Nanaimo; Mrs. W. H. Hawkshaw, Chilliwack; Mrs. H. P. Hodges, Victoria; Mrs. C. M. Kingston, Grand Forks; Mrs. F. J. Peers, Burnaby; Mrs. Raley, Chilliwack; Mrs. Curtis Sampson, Victoria; Mrs. A. B. Tritek, Fernie; Mrs. S. Cook, Alert Bay; Mrs. J. W. Ringway, Trail; Miss J. Crease, Victoria; Mrs. Haslam, Harrison Hot Springs; Mrs. W. W. Lewis, Nanaimo.
 Mrs. A. U. de Pencier will represent the Provincial Chapter at the national meeting in Quebec next month. Vancouver will be the headquarters of the Provincial Chapter for the ensuing year. The September quarterly meeting will be held at Chilliwack, and the next annual meeting in Victoria.

Immigration.
 Mrs. R. C. Boyle gave a splendid report on provincial convener on "Immigration," the tenor of which was British Columbia's need for settlers of British birth and agricultural leanings. Miss Arnold, the national convener of this committee, had suggested the bringing to the Canadian West of women farmers with a small capital to settle on the land. This suggestion had been discouraged by the provincial sub-committee, and to-day's meeting endorsed the stand against any such unpractical and ill-advised proposal.
 A report in which the I. O. D. E., especially in the rural communities, could do valuable work, said Mrs. Boyle, was in follow-up work among immigrants—helping the newcomers to settle down and to become Canadianized. In the meantime the Order still awaits a definite policy on the part of the Federal Government before it will be able to shape its own work along these lines.

Re Ex-Enemy Aliens.
 A resolution from the Chilliwack Municipal Chapter protesting against the alleged lifting of the ban on the entry of ex-enemy aliens into Canada, will be presented to the National Chapter for investigation and action.
 Encouraging reports were given by Mrs. C. W. Craig on work in India, the Navy League by Mrs. A. M. Harrison, Major Hyndman and Miss Beryl Hyndman, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Turner, Hilliard, Joan Spurgin, Mildred Clarke, Audrey and Geraldine Payne, Marjorie Gillatt, Mabel Allan, Helen and Katharine Smith, Constance Code, Gertrude Scott, Beatrice Dick Peggy and Grace Turner, Dorothy Spencer, Ruby and Evelyn Wilkin, Captain Ogilvy-Willis, Messrs. Whitney-Griffiths, Sykes, Newcombe, A. Gray, R. Turner, Jack and Ted Curtis, Keith Price, Donald McLean, Harry Holland, Jack Bowker, Hector Goodacre, Cecil May, Ed. Cooper, Douglas Carter, Ted Moore, Blair Dickson, Jeff Bothwell, Donald and Clifford Adams, Bert Lee, T. Hanna, Tom Hagar and many others.

Sir Michael Sadler.
 The business of the session was suspended to permit of an address by Sir Michael Sadler, of Leeds University, England. The distinguished guest all too briefly reviewed the part of literature in cementing the bonds of Empire, enlarging upon this theme to show the unity of British literature despite the "quarrels and wranglings" of some of its most brilliant men. He cited Shakespeare and his antagonism to the austere Puritan, Calvin, as exemplified in his creation of Malvolio; Isaac Walton the good fisherman and his disciples; Richard Baxter, the reformer; George Bernard Shaw and Kipling. Each of these contemporaries were theoretical opposites, yet each had much to give to the Empire, and had assisted in unifying the Empire.

Y.W.C.A. Guest Tea—The guest tea which is to be given next Tuesday at the association building, Yates Street, gives promise of being a novelty. There will be twelve hostesses in charge of as many tables, and each guest on arriving will be shown to the table of her hostess, where, over a cup of tea a delightful musical programme as well. Mrs. Mitchell, of Gordon Head, is convening the tea. The musical programme will be rendered between 3.30 and 5.30 and is being provided by the Ladies' Musical Club. The proceeds are to aid the social department of the Y.W.C.A. to carry on the service side of its work.

RED CROSS ANNUAL MEETING Meeting Adjourned Until May 11 for Election of Officers

The annual meeting of the Victoria and District branch of the Red Cross Society was held yesterday afternoon in the Board room of the Belmont Building, with Mrs. Harold Fleming in the chair.

Owing to the small attendance at the meeting it was decided to postpone the election of officers, and to call a general meeting for that purpose on Friday, May 11, at 2.30.

The following general committee was appointed: D. J. Angus, Bishop of Columbia; Mrs. H. H. Webster, Mrs. C. W. Bradshaw, P. F. Curtis, Mrs. D. E. Campbell, Mrs. E. Cameron, Mrs. A. J. Dallain, Mrs. Harold Fleming, Mrs. Gillingham, Mrs. Harlin, Mrs. G. H. Hasell, Mrs. H. G. Heisterman, F. W. Jones, Mrs. Lammann, Fred. Landsberg, Geo. McGregor, Miss Jessie McKenzie, Miss Odette Murray, Mrs. S. Rathorn, Mrs. Schofield, Mrs. Curtis Sampson, Mrs. Thomas Todd, Mrs. S. F. Tolmie, Miss M. F. Tolmie and Mrs. Wilbers.

Mr. W. H. Monteith was elected honorary auditor.

Resolutions Passed.
 The following resolutions were passed:
 That a vote of thanks be tendered to A. H. Griffiths for his great generosity in auditing the books of this society without charge for the last eight years. His kindness in continuing this service during recent years, in spite of the sacrifice involved, is especially appreciated.
 That a vote of thanks be tendered to the owners of the Belmont House for accommodation furnished for headquarters free of charge, with special thanks to Mrs. Gross for his kindness and courtesy.
 That a vote of thanks be tendered to the press for the very great assistance they have rendered the cause of the Red Cross during the year. The publicity which has always been so generously extended to all the operations of the society has been of the greatest possible help, and without it many of the results achieved would have been impossible.

Bishop Schofield moved a resolution of sympathy to Mrs. Hasell in her recent bereavement in the death of Dr. E. F. Hasell.
 The annual report was in part as follows:
 In presenting the eighth annual report of the Victoria City and District Branch, Canadian Red Cross Society, it will be noticed that the period covered is fifteen months. This is accounted for by the fact that the end of the fiscal year has been changed from September 30th to December 31st.
 "The work in the hospitals has been carried on by the S.C.R. patients in the Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals have been visited, and comforts provided, including four canaries and cages donated through this Society to the S. C. R. tubercular patients. These birds are a great joy to the men. Cars have been provided weekly to take home and bring back to hospital patients who were allowed home for week-ends but were unfit to go otherwise than by motor car. Cars have also been supplied to take these men to and from the theatres. At Christmas time, 1921, thirty-two well filled stockings were sent to the patients in hospital, and twenty-three hampers were provided for the families of the married patients. This last Christmas fifty-two parcels were distributed to the men in hospital, including seven for the S. C. R. mental patients at the Colquhoun Mental Home. A box containing eighty-five books was sent to the Royal Inland Hospital, which was very much appreciated, and also The Daily Colonist to the Work Point Barracks Hospital.
 "At the request of the Provincial Division, your chairman visited Merville to investigate conditions of possible distress among the result, seventy-five children attending school were supplied with hot cocon during the winter months. This was very much appreciated, his most of (concluded on page 12.)

Charming in every detail was the dance given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. O. Cameron in their spacious home on Moss Street, to celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of their wedding day. As befitting the happy occasion, the Wedding March preliminary to the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Cameron by Dr. R. L. Miller of a handsome silver-encrusted, suitably engraved gift by the assembled guests. In bestowing this offering Dr. Miller voiced the sentiment of all present that Mr. and Mrs. Cameron were a great asset to the community, and expressed the wish that they might live to celebrate many more such anniversaries. All joined in singing "For They're Jolly Good Fellows" followed by three cheers and a tiger. On the request of Mr. Cameron all present inscribed their signatures in a guest book, which already had many of those who had been present on a similar occasion ten years ago. Ophelia roses and calla lilies were effectively arranged in the various rooms, and the supper table centered with a large silver-basket filled with pink snapdragons and carnations. Dancing continued to a late hour, and the happy event was brought to a close by the families of the married patients. Among those invited were Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Griffith, Mrs. Jamie Cameron, Mrs. W. Cameron, Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Miller, Dr. and Mrs. McMillen, Dr. and Mrs. H. Leroy Burgess, Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Griffiths, Dr. and Mrs. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. The Daily Colonist to the Work Point Barracks Hospital.

CHARMING PLAYLET BY I.O.D.E. CHILDREN
 "Contrary Mary's Garden" at Playhouse to Aid Girl Guide Funds

The youthful members of the Royal Bride Chapter, I. O. D. E., were seen at the Playhouse Theatre last night in a charming dramatization of the popular nursery rhyme, "Jack and the Beanstalk," and "Mary, Mary Quite Contrary," were produced in costume amid scenic effects that bespoke of hard work on the part of those responsible for the entertainment. The affair is in aid of the funds of the Girl Guide movement, and will be repeated this afternoon in a final matinee.

The youthful participants were wholly charming last night, their efforts receiving merited commendation from a large gathering. Wholly delightful was the opening scene showing Contrary Mary's garden with its gaily-decked Maypole, and in which the flower came to life with charming grace. This scene closed with a tableau in which all the young performers appeared, the unfolding of a flag by one of the children being accompanied by a brief speech pointing out the significance of the Union Jack as the emblem of Empire.

The series of living pictures and fairy tales elicited warm admiration from the enthusiastic audience, as the child actors posed statue-like and with wonderful fidelity.

Excellent support was given by the orchestra with Miss Margaret Campbell at the piano and Drury Pryce, first violin, conducting.

YOUR HOME AND YOU The Light Touch

By HELEN KENDALL

The usual plaint of the housewife was heard in the land.
 "I simply cannot keep my hands looking respectable when I have to do housework all the time! They are always red and rough from dish-water, and I generally have a burn or a cut somewhere on them. There just isn't any use trying, when you have to peel vegetables and open tin cans and handle hot dishes and sharp knives. I'm ashamed of my hands, but I can't help it, and that's all there is to it."
 The four women were sitting at a bridge table, and three of them were bemoaning the condition of their hands. Said the fourth, quietly:
 "You'll have to cultivate what my sister calls 'the light touch.' I have learned from her how to keep my hands dainty even though I do have rough tasks to do. I think most of us go at things so hastily, so carelessly. We grab a can and thrust the can-opener into it, or plunge recklessly into the dishwasher or hot oven, and then wonder why our hands suffer. Now, with a cotton dish-mop for slightly soiled dishes and a metal-cloth dish-mop for dishes that need scouring, there is really no reason for putting our hands into dish-water at all. And if we will use soft, gentle soap-chips or pellets of strong yellow soap, it will not do us any harm if we do get our hands into the dish-water—it will be like a manicure soap."
 "This sister of mine never touches the hot stove or hot cooking utensils without a cloth pad over her entire hand, she makes her cloth 'lifters' something like a bath mat. Then, if her hand touches the hot oven rack, she isn't burned. She uses her fingers daintily, in opening cans or peeling fruits and vegetables. It is a pleasure to watch her take the paper cap out of a milk bottle—gently, slowly. I always dig madly at it, so I get it out with my nail or finger-tip."
 "She wears big loose gloves while sweeping, dusting, or taking care of porch chairs, and of course she always wears them in her garden. Her hands are as soft, white, and smooth as if she never saw the inside of a kitchen. It's because she wears gloves when she can and touches things lightly when she can't."

CIVIL SERVICE BALL SUCCESS Association Winds Up Season With a Delightful Affair

Queen Candidate Is Introduced to Guests

The Alexandra ballroom last night was the venue of the final ball to be held this season under the auspices of the Provincial Civil Service Association. Over two hundred dancers comfortably filled the dancing floor and a most enjoyable time was spent by the participants in the affair which proved to be one of the most delightful functions of its kind that has been put on during the 1922-23 season.

A charming incident marked the evening when Miss Doris Rolfe, the candidate of the Provincial Civil Service Association in the May-Time Frolic-Queen contest, was introduced to the assembled guests. The lady's campaign manager, A. M. D. Fairbairn, halted the dancing for a sufficient length of time to permit Arthur Manson, P. Maynard, P. F. executive, to introduce the candidate, who was graciously bowed and acknowledged.

A particularly attractive programme of dance numbers were contributed by Professor Ozard's seven-piece orchestra.

A delightful supper was served in the ground-floor dining-room of the Alexandra Club. The success of the evening must be attributed to the energy of the members of the social committee composed of F. O. Morris, chairman; Miss Steele, Miss Holmes, Miss Hill, Miss Carter, Miss Service, Oswald Burton, P. Maynard, Arthur Manson and J. McCready.

CHARMING PLAYLET BY I.O.D.E. CHILDREN

"Contrary Mary's Garden" at Playhouse to Aid Girl Guide Funds

The youthful members of the Royal Bride Chapter, I. O. D. E., were seen at the Playhouse Theatre last night in a charming dramatization of the popular nursery rhyme, "Jack and the Beanstalk," and "Mary, Mary Quite Contrary," were produced in costume amid scenic effects that bespoke of hard work on the part of those responsible for the entertainment. The affair is in aid of the funds of the Girl Guide movement, and will be repeated this afternoon in a final matinee.

The youthful participants were wholly charming last night, their efforts receiving merited commendation from a large gathering. Wholly delightful was the opening scene showing Contrary Mary's garden with its gaily-decked Maypole, and in which the flower came to life with charming grace. This scene closed with a tableau in which all the young performers appeared, the unfolding of a flag by one of the children being accompanied by a brief speech pointing out the significance of the Union Jack as the emblem of Empire.

The series of living pictures and fairy tales elicited warm admiration from the enthusiastic audience, as the child actors posed statue-like and with wonderful fidelity.

Excellent support was given by the orchestra with Miss Margaret Campbell at the piano and Drury Pryce, first violin, conducting.

DOMINION

If, a few years ago, a casting director had handed in a cast such as that supplied Gloria Swanson in her latest Paramount picture, "Prodigal Daughters," which is displayed at the Dominion this week, the chances are the studio management would collapse. But Paramount is determined that casts of the highest possible calibre shall grace each of its pictures, and no expense to that end was spared. Here is the line-up for the picture in question:

Gloria Swanson, star; Ralph Graves, leading man; Vera Reynolds, Charles Clary, Theodore Roberts, George Fawcett, Robert Agnew, Louise Dresser, Maude Wayne and Julia Faye.

In the list are at least three who have had remarkable stage careers. Several more have been leading figures of the silent drama for years. The star is one of the screen's most beautiful and best dressed women. And yet every player is picked because of suitability as well as ability.

AMUSEMENTS TO-DAY

Royal—"Me and My Gal,"
Dominion—"Prodigal Daughters,"
Capitol—"Robin Hood,"
Columbia—"The Young Rajah."

ROYAL VICTORIA

To-day for the last time the great English comedy success, "Me and My Gal," featuring Betty Balfour, will be presented at the Royal Theatre. There is no doubt that the management of the above theatre did not make any mistake in booking this English feature, as crowded houses have been the rule at nearly all performances. It is the jolliest bit of old London humor we have had here for some time. The piece which deals with the love of the little flower girl, Squibs, for the London "Bobby," has mostly sly scenes, but there are also scenes of Piccadilly just like it really is, the Tower, and the Zoo, that are such well-known spots of London that the average person who knows that part of the country will be transported back to the Old Land.

CAPITOL

If the high cost of dressing, in this present day and age, has you gasping for air, and grasping for "coin of the realm," you can thank your stars that you didn't live eight hundred years ago. In this year of our Lord, a man can step into his tailor's shop and order for himself a business suit that will not cost him back anywhere from $18 to $20, according to the quality of the suit. Even a millionaire must be satisfied with only paying $10, for "they don't make 'em much higher." If you wish to step out of an evening with your best girl you must needs purchase for yourself either a dress suit or tuxedo, which, if you are extravagantly inclined, and can afford it, will depict the exchequer to the tune of approximately $250.

You would not get off so easily back in the time of Richard, the Lion-Hearted, as is strikingly impressed in "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood," Mr. Fairbanks' newest screen sensation, and a United Artists release, now being shown at the Capitol Theatre. In those days a business suit would succeed in separating you from what, nowadays, would amount to about $80, in order to make a hit with your sweetheart it wasn't necessary to "dollar up" in evening clothes and take her in a taxi or limousine to the theatre with supper afterwards. But it was essential, and also compulsory, that you best your rival in a titling contest, with the object of your affections an interested on-looker. You didn't manage it in a dress-suit, either. Not much. You purchased for yourself from the local smithy a resplendent suit of chain-mail that weighed in the neighborhood of a hundred pounds and at a cost that today would in all likelihood have a tendency to wipe out your bank balance, namely, the equivalent of the tidy little sum of $4,000.

COLUMBIA

Suppose that you were madly in love and soon to be married, yet by means of envy realized that you might not live to enjoy conjugal bliss—wouldn't that be a fearful predicament? That is the situation in which Amos Judd, in "The Young Rajah," finds himself. Rodolph Valentino plays the role in this Paramount picture, adapted by June Mathis from the book by John Ames Mitchell, and the play by Althea Luce, which will be shown at the Columbia Theatre today. Wanda Hawley plays the American-sweetheart opposite Mr. Valentino in the picture.

MISS BEATRICE FORDHAM JOHNSON

She plays an important part in G. B. Shaw's comedy, "You Never Can Tell" at the Royal Monday night.

"OLD DUMB BELLS" TO BE SHOWN AT THE ROYAL

The theatregoers of this city will look forward to a feast of first-class entertainment, May 7, 8, 9, when the world-famous Old Dumbbells will offer their new revue, "Full O' Pep" at the Royal Victoria, with fifteen of the original-seventeen favorites.

The old stars who have become famous from coast to coast the last three years with previous Dumbbell shows are managing and operating their own production this season, and are meeting with bigger success than ever. The cast is headed by the inimitable "Red" Newman, whose song number, "Oh, It's a Lovely War," created a sensation

DOMINION NEXT WEEK

All your dreams of fair women excited; all your memories of other love-dreams forgotten. Here is warm, pulsing loveliness in its ideal setting. Not a costume picture, but a strictly modern love story of a modern woman of fashion and her colorful adventures with men. Not a programme picture, but a big, sumptuously produced special that will amaze and delight you. No wonder it is Pola Negri's most stupendous screen triumph.

Supported by Conrad Nagel and Conway Tearle everywhere throughout Canada for two years. This season he has several numbers which surpass anything offered in the past.

The boys have been meeting with tremendous success everywhere, and judging by the popular enthusiasm already aroused over their 1923 show, they will meet with the same success here. On account of the unusual demand for tickets everywhere they have played, patrons are advised to make their reservations early. The seat sale opens next Friday. Mail orders will be accepted now.

ROYAL WILL PRESENT "THE GAME OF LIFE"

A part of "The Game of Life" centres around the Crimean war of 1854. And so we seen on the screen, Inkerman, Sebastopol and the Charge of the Light Brigade at Balaclava. We see the break-down of the medical service at Scutari and the advent of Florence Nightingale, The Lady of the Lamp.

Critics in England claim that for historic and dramatic interest the Crimean scenes in "The Game of Life" surpass any battles ever before staged in pictures. Absolute historic authenticity was obtained by the producer at a tremendous expense of time and money, and the result is a dramatic intensity that will thrill and delight every spectator.

"The Crimean war is but one of the big features in "The Game of Life." The story includes the coronation of Queen Victoria, which is reproduced in every detail and acted by living characters. This incident was produced not as a cold spectacle with a few distant scenes of the procession, but intimately and in detail so that the spectator is himself on the streets of London, eighty-five years ago with Travers, and Cobles, and Walker, and the other principal players in the story.

"The Game of Life" has smashed all cinema records in Great Britain, eclipsing "The Birth of a Nation," "Hearts of the World," and all other big pictures, and is now coming to Canada, opening at the Royal Victoria Theatre next Tuesday.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS COMING TO ROYAL MONDAY NIGHT

The bulk of Bernard Shaw's productions are thesis plays or sermons, little disguised by their dramatic cloak. However, in "You Never Can Tell," the dramatist seems to have taken a little relaxation from his more serious work, and given us a really "pleasant play." Although "You Never Can Tell" is a comedy—a delightful, clever comedy, meant solely to amuse—one nevertheless can see many of the author's own pet little grievances against things as they are, being aired by the opinionated characters of this play. He shows us the ultra modern mother writing books on the correct up-bringing of children, surrounded by a family of big scientific little, if any, credit to the scientific management. Through William, the perfect waiter, Shaw scores the social cleavage in English society. William humbly apologizes for unintentionally being the unworthy father of his illustrious lawyer son. He assures the company that the relationship was an unavoidable "accident" of birth, and perhaps the most outstanding Shawian theory is that about which the plot hinges, namely, the return of a father after eighteen years' absence from his family. Shaw denies that family ties are sacred unless they are treated sacredly. If a man does not play a father's part he cannot come to be respected as a father by his children. Such is the interesting situation in "You Never Can Tell," which the University Players are staging in the Royal Victoria Theatre under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club in aid of the Royal Jubilee Hospital Building Fund.

POLA NEGRI AT DOMINION NEXT WEEK

Pola Negri played every scene of "Bella Donna" before a mirror in the privacy of her own apartment! Following her arrival in America, the famous Polish star enjoyed a ten-day vacation before starting on her first picture. Both Conway Tearle and Conrad Nagel, who play the leading masculine roles in this Paramount picture, which will be shown at the Dominion Theatre next week, were still engaged in other productions.

Miss Negri utilized this time to stage a dress rehearsal of the entire story before her own mirror.

Working from a copy of the scenario which she obtained from Ouida Berner, scenarist of this George Fitzmaurice production, she played each scene for an audience of friends and herself. She studied her own expressions, the mood and tempo of the scenes and what she calls the "dramatic key" of each sequence of scenes.

Local Teams Out to Even Hoop Series

Victoria Hoop Champions Hope to Pick Off Two B.C. Titles To-night

All is now in readiness for the big programme of B. C. championship basketball matches to be played at the Y. M. C. A. to-night.

After securing two out of three championships last Saturday night the Mainlanders are hoping to repeat their success to-night.

Two wins for Victoria to-night would even the series, each city securing three B. C. titles. To secure any advantage over the Vancouverites the local teams would have to win all three games to-night.

The big game of the programme will be between the First Presbyterians and Crescents, of Mt. Pleasant for the B. C. Senior Men's title. These same teams met last year with the locals winning by 39-21.

Webster and Cal. Little were with the Firsts then, however, and their absence to-night may balance the teams up considerably, giving the Crescents a fighting chance to win. Some good fast basketball should be seen when these teams meet.

Fidella Meet St. Mark's. The Fidella girls and St. Mark's of Vancouver, should have a hard battle for the Senior Girls S.S. League championship of the Province. This should be a very exciting game.

Metropolitan Methodist Intermediate Girls are hoping to secure the Jim Bryant Silver Cup. Their opponents will be the Mount Pleasant Presbyterian Girls, winners of the Vancouver Intermediate Girls' League.

To-night's programme is as follows: 7.30 p. m.—Intermediate Girls' Championship, Metropolitan (Victoria) vs. Mt. Pleasant (Vancouver). Referee—Bill Erickson.

8.15 p. m.—Senior Girls' Championship, Fidella (Victoria) vs. St. Mark's (Vancouver). For the David Spencer Silver Cup. Referee—Vernot Jones.

8.15 p. m.—Senior Men's Championship, First Presbyterian (Victoria) vs. Crescents (Vancouver). Referee—Tommy DeMacedo.

LACROSSE TEAM WILL PRACTISE ON TUESDAY. The first practise of the Victoria Lacrosse Club will be held on Tuesday evening at 8.15 o'clock at the Stadium. All players in town are invited to attend the work-out.

CANADIAN NET TITLES AWARDED TO TORONTO. Toronto, April 28.—The Canadian lawn tennis championships will be held here beginning July 9, and continuing to July 14. After this event has been played simultaneously in Toronto and Vancouver, the selection of the Davis Cup team will be held, providing the committee is in doubt as to which players are entitled to be selected.

Advices have been received from the Japanese Lawn Tennis Association that it is prepared to play the preliminary Davis Cup tie in Canada. The venue has not yet been decided.

NATIONAL LEAGUE UMPES DIES AFTER OPERATION. Cincinnati, April 28.—Paul Santelle, aged forty-five, National League umpire, died in a hospital here from appendicitis.

Santelle was operated on here last Sunday by H. C. Chapman, M.D., physician of the Cincinnati National League club. It was found the patient had suffered from a ruptured appendix which made his condition precarious. He rallied after the operation and appeared to be recovering until yesterday, when he suffered a relapse.

Santelle was appointed an umpire in the National League two years ago by President John Heydler. He was considered one of the most accurate arbiters in the league.

BARKER IS VICTOR IN CHESS TOURNEY. A "lightning" chess tournament was played on Thursday evening in the club rooms of the Victoria Chess Club and the conditions of the bell sounded every ten seconds, when moves had to be made. Those taking part were Messrs. Partington, Turner, Gonnason, Barker, Boyd, Harlow, Sanders, Bredin, Marchant, Miller and Mrs. Friedlander and Beaver. The winners in the first round were Partington, Barker, Bredin, Gonnason, Turner and Sanders, in the second round Barker, Partington and Bredin. Partington, the city champion, and Barker played in the final with the latter winning.

WIFE'S COACHING IS DENOUNCED IN EAST. Muskegon, Mich., April 28.—Mrs. Joe Lohman has been forbidden by the State Athletic Association to attend any more boxing exhibitions in which her husband, the Toledo heavyweight, participates. The alleged coaching tactics employed by Mrs. Lohman last night while her husband was engaging Ted Jamieson in the ring was given as the reason for the ruling.

AMERICAN GOLFERS BEGIN PLAY IN U.K. Rye, Sussex, Eng., April 28.—The visiting United States golf players in quest of amateur honors open their campaign to-day in two series of matches over the seaside links of the Rye Golf Club with top-notch players of the Oxford and Cambridge Golfing Society as their opponents.

The Metropolitan Methodist girls, who won the Intermediate Division of the Sunday School Basketball League, will meet the Mount Pleasant Presbyterians of Vancouver at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium to-night. The Mets have an exceptionally smart team, including several girls who have played in Senior basketball. They, however, were all under the age limit at the start of the season and are eligible to play. It is expected that the Mets will win to-night. The players in the above picture are as follows: Front row, left to right: Blossom Barnett, Marjorie Bell and Muriel Barbaric. Back row, Ella Lewis and Edwina Archibald.

Sarazen Makes Over His Game For Abroad

Finds It Necessary to Discard All Ribbed Clubs in Order to Play in British Open Golf Championship—Jock Hutchison Helps Gene Over His Difficulties

BY GENE SARAZEN World's Champion Golfer

Having achieved my ambition of winning the National Open golf champion, my aim now is to duplicate the triumph of Jock Hutchison in this important tournament to this country the British Open trophy. With that end in view I am now engaged in the task of shaping my game for this important tournament which will be held at Troon, Scotland, in June.

I have been told that this is a wonderful course, a rigid test with fine length and a snappy lay-out filled with yawning traps, but that it is, nevertheless, one where a man who is hitting the ball properly can score well.

The many hints and tips which that merry old soul, Jock Hutchison (than whom there is no wiser golfer living to-day) gave me on our recent tour will help me greatly, I know. In fact if I am able to take advantage of Jock's good counsel, I feel I shall be fighting for the prize.

"The Hutch" has cautioned me about the winds and the slippery conditions on the greens on the other side. Consequently the first thing I did on my return to my club at Bredin Lodge was to get an entire new set of clubs.

My wooden clubs, now, are all of the straight-faced type. It is harder to control the ball with this kind of club, but a straight-faced driver is a big help in getting a drive with low trajectory, the kind that gains momentum with distance. Hagen's driving, I might mention, has never been better since he began using the straight-faced wooden clubs.

"Why not use them all of the time?" the reader may ask. "As I have stated it is harder to control the shot with this type of club than it is with a club that has the face laid back a little. And you can get quite as much distance with the latter, although you cannot keep the ball down so well. Hence the change.

I shall have to discard all my ribbed clubs of course. That I have done already, inasmuch as they are prohibited in British tournaments. I shall miss them, of course, but not as much probably as Hutchison would, I believe, and the opinion is general that had Jock been allowed to use his favorite spade-mashie and mashie-niblick last year he would have won the championship a second time by several strokes.

Most of the heads of my new iron clubs are quite heavy. A light iron club of little use in the wind except for a run-up shot. I have not as yet decided whether I shall stick to my aluminum putter or use a steel putter. I will carry one of each and decide which to use after I arrive in Britain and see how the greens are.

Now, of course, a good straight drive with a low trajectory is going to start me off right on each hole, provided I can get that kind of drive. That shot is, of course, used anywhere, but more so abroad. In my daily practices thus far I find the straight-faced driver is helping me. Keep the ball low, so I have not had to change my swing in any way.

If I find the wind does hinder, I may have to choke the swing somewhat and play a sort of push shot.

LOCAL PAIR TO PLAY VANCOUVER GOLFERS TO-MORROW

The second half of the 72-hole match between Phil Taylor, pro at the Victoria Golf Club, and Hon. John Hart and Alex. Duthie, pro of the Vancouver Golf Club, and A. Bull will be played to-morrow at the Oak Bay course.

The first half of the match was played at Vancouver early in the month and the Mainlanders obtained a slight lead, which the McGill team when it won the Dominion championship from the Toronto-Yorkshiremen, is calculated to create a great deal of additional interest in that city and adjacent district.

Ottawa too, is seeing more cricket these days than formerly, and some of the best cricket in the country may be found in the clubs comprising the Ottawa Valley League. The game has been boosted at the Capital because of the presence of the general, is himself a cricket player, and last season he placed his own eleven in the field, his team comprising members of his staff who had acquired a knowledge of the game on the English cricket fields.

But Ontario takes the lead in cricket in Canada. Not that she possesses a superior class of cricketers, but because of the large number of clubs which have come into existence in all parts of the province during the past few years. In Toronto, where cricket is governed by a council, there are twenty-seven senior and seven junior clubs. Each year of late has seen a superior class of cricketers in the field, the character of which would be still further improved but for the indifferent grounds upon which the cricket is contested.

A Popular League. Western Ontario possesses a cricket league which is gradually popularizing the game in that part of the province. It is comprised of clubs from Chatham, Watford, Paris, Galt, Stratford and Brantford, and has on more than one occasion furnished representatives on the international team which has toured the United States. This year Southwestern Ontario has got into the game more seriously. A league, with clubs at Woodstock, London, Stratford, St. Thomas and Mitchell, has been formed, and a lengthy schedule of games will afford the district plenty of good cricket this year.

The reorganization of the old Hamilton league will result in the cricket league of the district being much strengthened, and more and better games may be looked for this season. Cricket, too, is taking a strong hold at the Soo. Last year nine clubs were in action there and a good future card promises more games this season.

The preparatory colleges are practically the Canadian cricket nurseries. These colleges—namely Ridley at St. Catharines, St. Andrew's Upper Canada and Trinity College School, Port Hope—put capable elevens in the field each year, and keenly contested games are especially in competition for the school championship, which last year, as on several previous seasons, was won by the Ridley XI.

More than ordinary interest will attach to the game this Summer because of the proposed visit of a strong team of English cricketers to Canada. Their visit will be in recognition of the enterprise shown by Norman Seagram last year when he took a team of Canadians to England. The tourists will play at Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton and possibly in Western Ontario, but being unable to reach Canada before September they will be unable to visit Western Canada, where they would be given an opportunity of meeting some of the best cricket clubs in this country.

JAKE FOURNIER SIGNS TO PLAY IN BROOKLYN. New York, April 28.—The Brooklyn National League club yesterday announced that First-Baseman Fournier, a holdout, who was traded by the St. Louis Nationals to Brooklyn for Outfielder Myers last Fall, will join the Brooklyn club on a two-year contract.

Cricket Boom Is Expected in Eastern Canada

Expect to See Game Take Its Place Among Summer Sports

By Captain E. S. Jackson. Toronto, April 28.—Cricket, England's time-honored national Summer pastime, is making headway in Eastern Canada and enthusiasts in the name predict that presently it will take its place among the foremost sports played in the Dominion. Until recent years the playing of cricket was confined to a few clubs in the country, foremost among which was the Toronto Hockey Club, both of whom, until the war depleted their ranks to such an extent that they were practically put out of business, in conclusions annual for an unbroken period of fifty years. To-day, however, cricketers may be found in every city from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and each season sees the formation of new clubs. This is not alone due to the fact that Old Countrymen coming to Canada are naturally anxious to participate in a game to which they have been accustomed from boyhood, but also to the interest which has been taken in it by sport lovers who admire the clean, sportsmanlike athletic character of the game, and by reason of the fact, too, that, emulating the example of the English public schools, cricket is now being taught in nearly all the preparatory colleges in the Dominion, in some of which, as a matter of fact, other games which hold sway among the community are absolutely barred because of the principals' bias of the rowdiness which they engender.

Is Popular in Quebec. Cricket in Nova Scotia has long been a more or less popular game. When Imperial troops were quartered at Halifax that city boasted the best cricket to be seen in the country. The game is also played to some extent in Quebec City and district, but the French-Canadian does not appear to take to it with the same enthusiasm. In Montreal, however, the past few years has witnessed the formation of several strong clubs, and the McGill team which won the Dominion championship from the Toronto-Yorkshiremen, is calculated to create a great deal of additional interest in that city and adjacent district.

Ottawa too, is seeing more cricket these days than formerly, and some of the best cricket in the country may be found in the clubs comprising the Ottawa Valley League. Giants' Catcher Is Claimed by Jawn McGraw To Be Perfect and Equal of Any in History

Another Long Shot Played by New York Manager Paid Well—Frank Snyder Discarded by St. Louis Nationals Develops Into Great Backstop

By Billy Evans. John McGraw calls Frank Snyder, clever backstop of the New York Giants, "the perfect catcher."

In discussing the great catchers of the National League McGraw says: "Frank Snyder is the ideal catcher. He is the equal of any backstop the National League has developed since the days of the great catchers of the past."

"In paying that compliment to Snyder I am not unmindful of the fact that in Roger Bresnahan, George Gibson, Charley Doolin, Johnny Kling and Jimmy Archer, the National League boasts some great receivers."

In referring to Snyder as the ideal catcher, McGraw has in mind his physical make-up, his fearless nature, his mechanical excellence and his ability to think.

Has Had Unusual Career. Snyder's career is indeed unusual. He was considered a brilliant catcher during his term with the St. Louis Cardinals. Something happened to his right arm, rheumatism, or something that took the smoke out of it and in 1918 he was put on the trade block.

Snyder offered for trade was a shock in National League headquarters. The year before, Miller Huggins, as manager of the Cardinals, had refused a cash offer of $50,000 from the Pittsburgh Pirates. Nevertheless, Snyder had a lame arm and Rickey did not want him.

McGraw, always admiring the pluck and the courage of the husky Texan, played a long shot and won. He traded Ferdinand Schupp for Snyder. Schupp had a bum, left arm and a fatal right arm.

Starred Against Yankees. Snyder came back last season, with an average of .343, he was the hardest-hitting catcher in the National League. He was barely able to finish sixth in the batting averages, but behind his put is shown by the work of the Giants in the last two world series with the Yankees. Snyder has caught ten of the thirteen games.

Earl Smith was regarded as a young phenom until Snyder recovered his form and Smith has been forced to play second fiddle to Snyder. The work of the Giants' pitchers featured the last two world series. McGraw has been given most of the credit by the experts. Here is what McGraw says: "Snyder's catching in the two series with the Yankees was perfect. That means everything to a pitcher."

British Win Four Matches From Yankees

Touring Amateurs Won Only Two Four-ball Matches at Rye This Morning

FRANK SNYDER

Rye, Eng., April 28.—America's amateur golfers won only two out of six four-ball matches against players of the Oxford and Cambridge Golfing Society this morning over the Seaside Links of the Rye Golf Club. Six two-ball foursomes are scheduled for this afternoon.

The matches were at 18 holes. Jess Sweetser, of New York, national amateur champion, and Francis Outmet, of Boston, defeated L. W. E. Holderness, British amateur champion, and E. H. Gillies, former winner of the Royal St. George's challenge cup, four and three.

S. Davidson Herron, of Chicago, and Harrison R. Johnston, of St. Paul, were defeated by Cyril Tooley, former British amateur champion, and R. W. Demontmorency, two and one.

George V. Rotan, Houston, Tex., and Jack Neville, San Francisco, defeated G. L. Mellin and M. A. Powell, four and two.

Roger Wethered and Bernard Darwin defeated Fred Wright, Jr., of Los Angeles, and Dr. O. P. Willing, of Portland, Ore., four and three.

A. J. Evans and D. E. Landale defeated Max Marston, Philadelphia, and Reginald M. Lewis, Greenwich, Conn., two and one.

C. M. Croome and I. F. Storey defeated J. F. Byers, of Pittsburgh, and Robert A. Gardiner, captain of the American Walker Cup team, three and two.

M'MILLAN INCREASES LEAD OVER CHAMPION

B.C. Billiard King Looks As If He Will Capture Dominion Honors

Vancouver, April 28.—Outplaying A. P. Woodward, Canadian billiard champion, at every stage of last night's session, Jack McMillan, British Columbia titleholder, increased his lead in his 5,000 point match from 417 to 632, with only 1,250 still to go.

McMillan was in splendid form and ran the 625 points that formed the night's block in quick order, maintaining an average of better than 21. His best efforts were 121, 94 and 78, while Woodward only once made a break of more than 50, when he broke 61 at the start of the session.

A Real Red Break. The performance that appealed most to the spectators was McMillan's 94, although it was not his highest break. After making a cannon, Jack found himself badly placed for the red. He potted the white and then worked the red for 30 consecutive winners and losers, bringing his break to 94, 90 off the red.

McMillan's performance was exceedingly smooth throughout. He controlled the balls in mastery style and his position play was a treat. Instead of sticking to the top of the table in his usual style, he played all round billiards and scored freely from all positions. Woodward looked bad by comparison, and showed little ability to manoeuvre the baulklines for the shot ahead.

Scores at adjournment were: McMillan (in play), 3,750; Woodward, 3,118.

The final sessions will be played to-night.

VANCOUVER REGATTA. Vancouver, April 28.—The annual Spring Regatta of the Vancouver Rowing Club will be held here May 12.

SCHULTZ RELEASED. St. Louis, April 28.—Joe Schultz, outfielder, was released on option to Houston by the St. Louis Nationals to-day.

YESTERDAY'S GAMES

AMERICAN LEAGUE. Chicago, April 28.—Chicago's defence went to pieces when Cygnus Blyskal, Cleveland pitcher, bowled the locals' lead, tied the score and then went out in the seventh by bunting hits off Leverett.

Philadelphia, April 28.—Oxford University scored a brilliant victory in the college sprint medley championship, the second international event of the first day's programme for the Pennsylvania relay carnival yesterday afternoon.

The Englishmen, except for brief intervals, set the pace from the start. Captain Milligan's well-timed sprint in the last 150 yards distanced his nearest American rival, Navy and Georgetown. His time for the half-mile was 1:55 1/2.

Columbia Runner Wins. Walter Higgins, of Columbia, inter-collegiate cross country champion, paced to a spectacular win in the two-mile individual event. C. B. E. Morgan, Oxford, after setting the pace for nearly a mile, weakened and was barely able to finish sixth in an international relay of track and field stars gathered for the carnival, including a crack team from Oxford and several Canadian stars.

The pentathlon, emblematic of the all-round individual championship, was won by C. W. West, negro star of Washington and Jefferson. The inter-scholastic medley relay championship furnished keen international competition with Phillips Exeter Academy's last year's winner, barely nosing Hamilton, Coleridge Institute of Canada.

UPLANDS GOLFERS TO PLAY AT ESQUIMALT. The Uplands and Macaulay Golf Clubs will engage in their first game to-morrow. Play will start at 9 o'clock in the morning. Players may choose their own starting time. Singles will be played in the morning and foursomes in the afternoon. The draw, made last night, is as follows, with the Uplands players named first:

J. H. Edmunds vs. J. P. Florence. J. B. Henderson vs. J. A. Davidson. A. Fairbairn vs. W. Brynjolfsson. V. G. Leith vs. R. H. Pooley. H. Collings vs. G. M. Lynes. A. M. Thomas vs. F. Colwell. A. Laurie vs. J. Clark. J. McCallan vs. Gen. Ross. A. Youngman vs. W. B. Christopher.

G. Wilkinson vs. M. H. Hurley. G. Frently vs. G. Jones. A. Muir vs. G. Sisman. A. H. Marriot vs. Capt. Warder. E. Austin vs. R. E. Webb. J. E. Wade vs. J. Burns. A. C. Futcher vs. Lieut. Stevens.

Brooklyn Takes Another. Philadelphia, April 28.—Brooklyn made it two straight from Philadelphia yesterday, 4 to 2. Timely hitting by the visitors and a circuit drive by Tom Griffith featured.

Pittsburgh Won in Ninth. Pittsburgh, April 28.—Held scoreless for eight innings, Pittsburgh staged a rally in the ninth against the Cubs yesterday and won, 2 to 1.

Chicago. Chicago, April 28.—Batteries—Alexander and O'Farrell. St. Louis-Cincinnati game postponed, rain.

Pacific Coast League. At Seattle—R. H. E. San Francisco 4 3 2. At Portland—R. H. E. Batteries—McWeeny, Mitchell and Yelle; Williams and Tobin.

At Vancouver—R. H. E. Sacramento 4 10 3. Batteries—Cochran and Cook; Doyle, Miller, Dell and Hannah.

At Los Angeles—R. H. E. At Portland—R. H. E. Salt Lake City 5 9 0. At Oakland—R. H. E. San Francisco 7 10 2. Batteries—Kallio, Buchalsky and Peters; Ariett and Reed.

SAME TWO TEAMS TO PLAY FOR MINTO CUP

Vancouver, April 28.—Ex-Mayor Harry Gale, of Vancouver, was last night elected president of the British Columbia Professional Lacrosse Association, at its annual meeting here.

Retiring President Nels Nelson was made honorary vice-president, and His Honor, the Lieutenant-Governor, honorary president; Norman Rattray, New Westminster, is the new president, and W. B. McDonald, Vancouver, the secretary.

A two-club league including Vancouver and New Westminster was tentatively settled upon, with the understanding that several games would be played during the season at Nanaimo and Seattle.

The R. C. G. A. ball nine handed the P. P. C. L. I. (right) a surprise package yesterday afternoon when they defeated them 17-11 in the Garrison Indoor Baseball League. By their win yesterday the artillery men have drawn up onto even terms with their rivals. They have also the honor of handing the Princess Pats their first defeat of the season.

The winners secured a nearly lead which they were able to hold throughout.

ROPER DRAWS WITH HERMAN. Omaha, Neb., April 28.—Captain Bob Roper, of Roanoke, Va., and James ("Tiny") Herman, Omaha heavyweight, fought to a ten-round draw here last night in the main event of the American Legion's boxing show. The bout was slow.

SCHULTZ RELEASED. St. Louis, April 28.—Joe Schultz, outfielder, was released on option to Houston by the St. Louis Nationals to-day.

RED CROSS ANNUAL MEETING

 the children had a long distance to walk and had to leave very early in the morning, consequently being many hours without warm food. Warm clothing, etc., was also sent.

Merville Fire.
 At the time of the disastrous Merville fire in July last, prompt aid was sent, six large packing cases of supplies leaving here next morning, followed by many others. At a tag day held for the fire sufferers the sum realized was $1,626.21, to which was added $372.15 sent in by sympathizers.

Two men have been returned to their families during the year, one to England and one to Saskatchewan. The number of families helped was 238. An outdoor sleeping porch was provided for two children threatened with tuberculosis, and a workshop was built for a badly disabled man so as to enable him to work at home.

Other Aids.
 During the year six bedside rugs were supplied to the Saanich Health Centre, and forty-two triangular bandages to the V. O. N., Esquimalt Rural District. A table and sewing machine have been loaned to the City Branch of the V. O. N. A donation of table linen was made to the Amputation Club, which was very gratefully acknowledged.

In October, 1921, the nurse sent by the Provincial Division to visit the lighthouses was provided with the following supplies, which were distributed where necessary:

Carron Oil ten ounces; Carron Oil eight ounces; Lysol four ounces; Boracic Powder four ounces; Iodine Tinct. two ounces; Adhesive Plaster two ounces; Gaiize six yards; Sorbent Cotton four ounces; Aspirin Tablets twenty-five; Bandages four; Tooth Drops.

A layette was also supplied for the wife of a lighthouse keeper.

The Victoria Branch has continued to carry on its Red Cross Workshop for disabled soldiers, and it is a source of great satisfaction that the inauguration of this activity in Victoria at the beginning of 1921 resulted, in August, 1922, in an agreement with the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment for the long-expected Government financial support. As a result of this assistance, the Red Cross Branches concerned will be able to carry on and enlarge their splendid undertaking.

The Workshops.
 During the fifteen months covered by this report, the Victoria Branch expended on this work, in addition to all receipts, the sum of $19,742.88. Of this amount there should be recovered from the Department approximately $2,500, as the Government proportion of the capital expended and of the loss from August to December.

Thirty-two men altogether have been employed, all of whom were unemployable in ordinary industry even by a considerate employer. Of these men twenty had pensions of fifty per cent. and over, seven of them being 100 per cent. cases; six had pensionless unemployment per cent., and four had forty per cent.

Twenty-seven men are now at work and no one is employed, even in an administrative capacity who is not an ex-soldier with a pensionable disability. The average time worked by these men is a little over four hours per day. Three heavy disability cases are working on a piece-work basis in the shop and one at home.

Carpenter work of all kinds, furniture making and reconditioning, picture framing, basket work, and chair caning are being carried on, and a start is about to be made in weaving homespun goods.

New premises have been arranged for and additional machinery purchased to increase the efficiency of the shop and to enable more men to be taken on as fast as work can be found for them.

The Workshop Committee desires to express its appreciation of the patronage it has received, and trusts it will be continued and increased. Particularly, orders are required for basket work, which provides work for the most seriously disabled men.

Treasurer's Report.
 The cash on hand September 30, 1921, was $7,965.74. Of the receipts totalling $21,115.72, the largest item of revenue, $9,155.39, was derived from the Red Cross Workshop, according to the report of George McGregor, the treasurer. The total in disbursements amounted to $25,788. The receipts and disbursements were spread over the period from October 1, 1921, to December 31, 1922.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Miss Ethyl Ackerman entertained at a farewell party last night at her home, 20 Lewis Street, in honor of Miss Olive Salmon, who is leaving to-day for Vancouver.

For True Blue Orphanage.—To furnish much-needed accommodation at the True Blue and Orange Orphanage in New Westminster, Mrs. Hoey will be the hostess at a whist drive in the Orange Hall on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30, to which all hoped all friends of the orphanage will give their support. The orphanage is a purely provincial undertaking and there are fifty children awaiting admission. The proceeds of Wednesday's affair will go to the fund to provide an addition to the building.

Dr. J. W. Warren, radiologist of the Calgary General Hospital, arrived in this city yesterday and will return to his home this evening. The object of the visit was to get in personal touch with the Jubilee Hospital director and see the equipment of the department of radiology there. Dr. Warren has been offered, and has accepted the post of radiologist at the institution. Private affairs in Calgary will hold him in that city until the middle of May, it is learned, but after that date Dr. Warren will reside here and take up his work for the Royal Provincial Jubilee Hospital, succeeding Dr. L. K. Poyntz.

ASK RATEPAYERS TO VOTE $175,000 MORE FOR BRIDGE

Of This $90,000 Will Be for Bridge Itself and $85,000 for Paving

Victoria ratepayers will be asked early in May to vote $175,000 more to finish the new Johnson Street Bridge and pave Johnson Street from the Bridge westward.

This sum, which is far larger than originally planned, was fixed by the City Council yesterday afternoon. It includes $90,000 for completing the bridge itself, and $85,000 for the paving work. The $90,000 vote for the bridge will bring the total cost of the viaduct to the people of Victoria up to $620,000. The original estimate of cost to the citizens was $420,000, so that the actual cost over the estimated cost is an increase of nearly fifty per cent.

The Council yesterday awarded a contract for the Johnson Street paving at $52,000, but the electors will be asked to provide $85,000 in case of contingencies. Some of the extra money will be needed for filling up hollows on the route of the new road and for other similar purposes.

Ample Funds Urged.
 Alderman E. S. Woodward and A. E. Todd urged the Council yesterday to fix $100,000 as the sum, for finishing the bridge. They said that the Council should provide ample money and take no chance of having to go to the ratepayers for the fourth time to ask for bridge money. The Council finally decided that $90,000 would be sufficient.

Alderman Todd also urged the Council to vote $90,000 to cover the paving work. "It is much better to err in voting too much than too little," he warned. "In any case we do not have to spend the money if we do not need it."

The Council, however, voted $85,000 for this work.

Adopt New Bonds.
 Bonds to pay for the bridge work will be issued for thirty years on the sinking fund system and for the paving for twenty years on the sinking fund system. The Council debated at length the advisability of issuing serial bonds as has been the city's policy for some years. Against the strong advice of Alderman David Leeming, chairman of the Finance Committee, a majority voted to scrap the serial bond policy and re-institute the sinking fund system under which the principal of the bonds is not repaid until a certain date. Under the serial plan a portion of the principal, as well as interest, is paid each year.

Serial Plan Cheaper.
 Alderman Leeming said that it was much cheaper to repay loans by serial bonds, but a majority ruled against him, holding that the burden should be spread equally over a long period of years.

A long argument centred around the place at which bonds will be repayable. One section led by Alderman Leeming, urged that the bonds be repayable in Canada, England or the United States, so that they could be floated now on the favorable American market. This was at first rejected and then the Council compromised by leaving the matter open. The place of repayment will not be decided until the electors have passed the loans and until experts have investigated the matter.

Rev. A. S. Ellis, of Victoria, has built himself a miniature church on wheels. He has converted his car into a small chapel and as soon as the ferries are opened he will cross to the Mainland and preach the gospel. It is his plan to travel under the auspices of the Shantymen's organization, and visit some of the lumber camps.

Never too late to Mend!

An ounce of repairing is worth a pound of a new commodity. The work of these repair experts will save you a great deal of money. Too many people throw an article away—or fail to get its maximum value—when it is simply in need of repair.

Why buy new merchandise—or be inconvenienced by using a commodity which is not "in good working order"—when a few minutes efficient repairing by the men whose advertisements appear below will make that commodity as good as new?

You will find their prices satisfactory, too—and their work may be depended upon to give only the greatest satisfaction. A telephone call will bring any one of these repair experts to you—and they will prove that it is profitable as well as "Never too late"—to mend.

In the truly Bohemian setting as shown on the upper left, Paul Peel, the famous Canadian artist, first practised his art in the home of his father in London, Ont. On the left of this picture stands Peel, the father. Just at the right of the stovepipe is Mildred Peel, who afterwards became Mrs. W. G. Ross, and incidentally the model of the famous statue. Just behind the stovepipe, and showing slightly, is the actual statue that now stands in the public library, proving, if such were necessary, the authenticity of the work. It was in this studio that Peel's father taught his few art pupils. On the right is the famous Peel painting, "After the Bath," which has just returned to London, Ont., its native city. It is valued at from $50,000 to $100,000. In 1890 it was hung in the Paris salon, where it won the coveted gold medal for its author, this being the first time this distinction was conferred on a foreigner. On the lower left are James Colerick, and Henry Pocock, right, who purchased this art treasure from the Hungarian government, in whose possession it has been for 70 years.

TRAGEDY SHOWS W. J. LOCKE AS LIVING BOOK PLOT

Father of Beautiful Girl Adopted Ends Life When Renounced

She Abandons Use of Own Name and Takes That of Foster-Parent

London, April 28.—Eighteen years ago William J. Locke wrote a best seller, "The Morals of Marcus Ordeyne," describing the adoption of a girl by a middle aged bachelor. The novelist today is living almost the same story, except that he is already married.

The culmination of the real life story came recently—a tragedy instead of a comedy. The father of a beautiful seventeen-year-old girl, Miss Sheila Rosemary Bains, put his head in the gas oven in the kitchen of his home at Notting Hill and suffocated himself.

The only motive suggested for the deed is the father's grief over his inability to persuade his daughter to leave the Lockes and return to his home. In January the young woman had inserted this advertisement in the personal columns of London newspapers: "I, Sheila Rosemary Locke, formerly called and known as Sheila Rosemary Bains, younger daughter of Alfred Sandells Bains and Alice Bains, hereby give notice that I have renounced and abandoned the use of my said surname Bains."

Her parents replied to this with another "personal," saying they had lodged an objection with the Enrollment Department of the High Court of Justice against the change of name. Their advertisement, dated Jan. 12, added:

"The ground for our objection being that the said Sheila Rosemary Bains as an infant and such change of name was without our consent and contrary to our wishes."

Bains appeared three weeks ago to a Westminster magistrate for assistance to make the girl return home. The magistrate declared he had no authority to make such an order in the case of a child over sixteen. Meanwhile the girl remains with Mr. and Mrs. Locke at their winter home, Villa Des Isles, Cannes. A telegram telling of her father's suicide has been sent there.

A friend of the Locke family said today the Lockes and Bains once had been great friends. When Sheila was about three she stayed for a time with the Lockes at Notting Hill. There she was taken ill and it was while fighting for her life that the friendship between the child and the novelist began.

Afterward the girl spent many holidays with the Lockes and lived with them during most of the war as their home was outside the danger zone of air raids. After the war she went to school for two years at Leatherhead. The announcement of the change of name was made after she had gone with the writer to Cannes for the winter holidays.

Deeply grieved at your bad news. Deeply sympathize with you in your great sorrow.

"This was the cablegram the daughter sent her mother on learning of the suicide."

"Not a word in it to show she felt any sorrow on her own account, nothing to show she is coming home," exclaimed Mrs. Bains, adding:

"I do not care now whether my daughter ever returns; it is too late. I am certain my husband's suicide is the direct result of Sheila's action."

"If only we had intervened and weaned Sheila away two years ago when we first began to realize how things were going. But the Lockes had been our friends and had been so kind to her we hated to do anything rude. However, my husband and I finally made up our minds we must get her back for several years and keep her either at school or with us for the time being."

"By doing that we had hoped she would really want to stay at home thereafter and then we would not have minded her visiting the Lockes occasionally. So we told her she could go to the Lockes at Cannes for three weeks, for what we wanted to be a farewell visit for a long time."

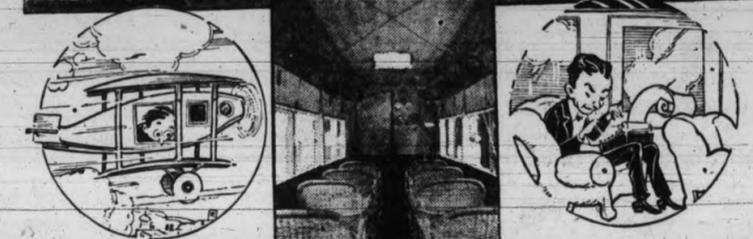

"She went and the next thing we knew was the notice in the paper about her change of name. It was a terrible shock. My husband never forgot those awful words, "abandon and renounce use of my said surname of Bains."

"And then the next day we got a letter from Sheila, telling us of her decision—but nothing more either then or since until tonight's cable. Nor did we hear anything from the Lockes since she joined them this last time."

According to Mrs. Bains, Sheila is the original girl in the novelist's "Stella Marie." While reproaching her daughter, the mother would not comment on the Lockes' side of the affair, except to say:

"Of course the Lockes are wealthy and they gave Sheila such a good time."

WRITES AS HE FLIES ABOVE CLOUDS! CORRESPONDENT TELLS OF JOURNEY ACROSS ENGLISH CHANNEL BY AEROPLANE

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS Aboard an Airplane Over the English Channel, April 27.—Sitting in a comfortable armchair, I am pounding out this story on a typewriter perched on my knees.

Three-quarters of a mile below me I can see the English Channel. Rather rough, for quite a gale is blowing. To right and left, the great silvery-blue wings of the Handley-Page.

And on either side a roaring Rolls-Royce twin-six, throttled down to carry us on schedule time, about 80 miles an hour according to the speedometer in front of me.

Cotton-wool is in my ears to drown the noise. Yet that is not disagreeable, for we are inside a sort of "parlor car" with seven chairs on either side of an aisle, and there are glass windows.

Schedule is exact. Overhead, on the ceiling, is a map of our route—London to Paris, via Ashford, Hythe, Boulogne, Montreuil (Sir Douglas Haig's old headquarters), Amiens and Beauvais. The time of our arrival at each of these places is printed opposite the name.

For, you see, this is just the new way to travel. I have only two large suitcases with me, but in the baggage compartment to the rear there are several trunks belonging to another passenger.

Over the window at my elbow is a notice. It says:

- 1. Smoking strictly prohibited. 2. It is prohibited to throw objects from the window. 3. Pure water is carried "on board the plane." 4. In case of emergency put on the lifebelt like a waistcoat and fasten buckles. A sharp blow on the lever will inflate the lifebelt. 5. There is a lavatory at the back of the saloon. 6. Passengers may move about freely as the slight shift in weight has no effect on the stability of the machine.

ing, through a woman friend who has been with her since the tragedy: "I do not care now whether my daughter ever returns; it is too late. I am certain my husband's suicide is the direct result of Sheila's action."

"If only we had intervened and weaned Sheila away two years ago when we first began to realize how things were going. But the Lockes had been our friends and had been so kind to her we hated to do anything rude. However, my husband and I finally made up our minds we must get her back for several years and keep her either at school or with us for the time being."

"By doing that we had hoped she would really want to stay at home thereafter and then we would not have minded her visiting the Lockes occasionally. So we told her she could go to the Lockes at Cannes for three weeks, for what we wanted to be a farewell visit for a long time."

BLACKSTONE, JURIST, TO HAVE STATUE

London, April 28.—The American Bar Association has just appointed a committee to arrange for a statue to Sir William Blackstone, the great lawyer, to be presented to the Middle Temple. There are no statues at present in the Temple, Thackeray and Goldsmith lived in Brick Court, as did Blackstone, and the fact that they had rooms there is commemorated by a tablet.

The rooms where the lawyer wrote his famous "Commentaries on the Laws of England" still are much as they were in his days, as are those on the floor above, where Goldsmith held his parties, often disturbing Blackstone's work.

ANCIENT CLOISTER IS FOUND UNDER LONDON STABLE

Part of St. Bartholomew-the-Great Covered by City's Debris for Centuries

Once Magnificent Norman Church; Restoration Now a Big Task

London, April 28.—After being lost for four centuries part of the cloisters attached to St. Bartholomew-the-Great, the finest Norman church in London, have been discovered hidden under buildings used for stabling purposes.

The 800th anniversary of the founding of this wonderful Smithfield church has just been celebrated. Tradition has given a romantic history to its founder, Rahere. He is supposed to have been a young minstrel and favorite at the court of King Henry I, who made him his jester. Then Rahere founded this priory, and for twenty years was Augustine Prior of St. Bartholomew-the-Great. He died and was buried within its walls, the tomb to-day being on the north side of the altar.

Changes Affect Cloister.—Then the world began to change outside the priory walls, Smithfield itself changing from a village to a great market. During the Reformation the priory crumbled, but the church survived. It was unharmed by the Great Fire, and bombs that fell in the neighborhood from a Zeppelin in 1915 did a great deal of damage all about it, but the church was untouched.

It has taken thirty-eight years of steady work to restore the church. One after another, beautiful parts have been reclaimed, and it now can be seen outside in a way that has not been possible for hundreds of years.

In the course of time houses had been built literally on to the church, and some of the building itself had been used until a few years ago for very different purposes than intended. The lady chapel was a fringe factory, the north transept a blacksmith's forge, while boys' and girls' schools had been utilized parts of the choir as a schoolhouse. The north side of the lady chapel was discovered quite recently, concealed under mounds of earth.

Old Stone Coffin Found.—The latest discovery is three bays of the east cloister. The arches evidently were bricked up when the priory was despoiled by Henry VIII, and have remained invisible during the 400 years which have elapsed since his reign. The stonework is excellently preserved, some of it looking as fresh as it must have done soon after the masons left it.

In the flooring is part of the original tiling of the cloisters, and the stone coffin of an unknown monk or priest, possibly one of the original priors, has been unearthed immediately beneath the surface. These bays, entirely bricked up and with seven feet of earth above the ancient flooring, were occupied by cart horses until after Christmas.

International Race On.—Here comes the tag. Britain is leaving America "way behind in this flying game—a game which America began."

Britain cut down her navy estimates, thanks to the Washington conference. But she boosted her air force estimates by more than $5,000,000, and I have reason to believe still more will be spent to keep France from leaving her in the shade.

For Britain knows and France knows that in the future nations will win or lose their wars—in the air.

It was to put this tag on paper that I took my typewriter from the rack—not to write a novel story while flying above the clouds. No novelty in that.

WHO'S NEXT? Three in Running for Bonar Law's Job

BY MILTON BRONNER London, April 28.—With the going becoming harder and harder for the Bonar Law government, speculation is rife as to who will be next in line for the premiership.

Three men stand out: Earl Curzon of Kedleston, the Earl of Derby and Austen Chamberlain.

Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer and strongest member of the present cabinet, seems to have been dropped from consideration since the defeat of the government by a snap majority on Tuesday, April 10. He was temporarily taking the place of the prime minister, who had lost his voice, when the Laborites forced the vote while the Tories were still struggling in from dinner. For his untactful handling of the situation, Baldwin has come in for considerable criticism.

Although the Laborites are riding their high horse now, it is not expected that they will be able to get the ministry. Only in the last analysis would Ramsay MacDonald be asked to form a Labor government, unless the old property-owning parties thought this the best way of forcing an election and badly defeating Labor.

The chief handicaps which Lord Curzon or Lord Derby would have to face would be the growing prejudice against having a peer as premier. The likeliest figure on the horizon is Chamberlain if he can be induced to come back into the party and unite all wings of the conservatives under him. Even then there would be a strong likelihood that he would insist on having Lloyd George as his chancellor of the exchequer and Lord Birkenhead in an equally important job.

If the Conservatives failed to form a cabinet under these circumstances there is a possibility that Lloyd George or Asquith might be asked to step in.

FIERY-EYE SPECTRE STALKS OVER HILLS TO THE GRAVEYARD

Leamington, April 28.—Warwickshire people are worried. For several weeks now a ghost has been haunting the Burton Dassett Hills, flitting about the fields and lanes of the villages of Penny Compton and Northfield, and all efforts to "lay" him (if it is a "him") have failed. Ghost hunting has become the sport of the more daring dwellers in the county. His very first sight of it was when passing an old churchyard. A bright light seemed to hover over the tombstones and then float away over a delirious farmhouse.

Then more people saw the vision. A youth espied it hovering around a lonely pool on his return from Northfield after delivering a coffin, and was so terrified that he hasn't been out after dark since. The doubting Thomas of Penny Compton took out his field glasses one night, but he had not been in the hills long before he saw a "reddy blue light of a creepy complexion." Two friends were with him at the time, and they all said they felt the ghost pass over them.

"I did not believe before," said George White, the former skeptic, "but now I have never seen anything like it."

The vicar's wife and sister have also seen the ghostly form and are greatly distressed, but the vicar himself is preserving a discreet silence on the subject. The first theory that the phenomenon was caused by gaseous properties in the soil has been discredited. Burton Dassett hills are rich in legend and historic associations.

M.P.'S DEMAND SKILLING MEALS

London, April 28.—Twenty-five cent dinners for members of the British Parliament in the House of Commons dining-rooms are demanded by the Labor members. Parliamentarians express widely different views about improvements that should be conducive to improved legislation. One has raised the question in Commons whether, in view of the fact that potatoes of the finest quality can be purchased for 1s a ton, the kitchen committee could not serve better ones than it does.

The same member also demanded Welsh mutton instead of Canterbury lamb as a standing dish on the bill of fare.

The Labor plea for the twenty-five cent dinner is based on the fact that dinner was served at that price (one shilling) before the war. The Labor members have resented the statement that they are gradually becoming testotaters, because they are not drinking their drinks in the Commons restaurant.

EARL HUNTINGDON SAYS ROBIN HOOD WAS HIS ANCESTOR

Famous Forest Outlaw Is Claimed by Noble English Family

London, April 28.—The Earl of Huntingdon, head of a line which dates back to the Norman Conquest, boldly claims Robin Hood, the famous outlaw, as his direct ancestor.

"It has always been accepted in my family," he writes, "that the relationship with Robin existed, and that his body lies in Sherwood Forest not far from Clumber. Several members of my family have been named according to the Robin Hood tradition, including, at the present time one of my brothers, one of my daughters and a nephew. There are further facts for publication, but the books that refer to them are in Ireland, and difficult of access."

This interesting statement is the outcome of a dispute over the authenticity of the story told in the film, "Robin Hood," which claims that Robin was the second Earl of Huntingdon, who was outlawed by Prince John during Richard's absence in Palestine, and reversed modern methods of piracy by robbing the rich and handing the proceeds to the poor.

The Earl of Huntingdon's letter is a "face" to historians, most of whom seem to doubt if such a person as Robin ever existed. He is an international myth, they say, whose like can be traced in the folklore of nearly every European country.

Some authorities go beyond this and say that Hood simply means "Hod," the god of wind; that Friar Tuck is "Toki," the spirit of frost and snow; and that Maid Marian is "Morgen," the dawn maiden.

So they dissolve the whole story into thin air. It is enough to make Robin turn in his grave, which, by the way, bears an epitaph definitely stating that he was Earl of Huntingdon and that he died in 1247.

Some corroboration is given to the Huntingdon tradition by a writer in the Encyclopaedia Britannica, who accepts Robin Hood as the third Randle or Ranulph, i. e., Randolph one of the earls of Chester, who were connected with the Huntingdon family by marriage.

The old countrywoman wanted to go to Balam. A policeman on the Embankment told her to take the first Tooting tram and get off at Balam station.

Returning in half an hour the policeman found her still waiting. She was very indignant with the L. C. C. system.

"But there has been plenty of Tooting trams pass," said the constable.

"Not one," said the old lady; "they all had songs or bells. Not one of 'em tooted."—Tit-Bits.

Countess Tells Why She Gave Castle to British Laborites

London, April 28.—Imagine the wife of one of the Vanderbilts or Rockefeller's joining an American Labor Party whose leaders preached nationalization of land, mines and railways, and a capital levy upon big fortunes in order to wipe out war debts.

And you can get some idea of the beautiful Countess of Warwick becoming one of the most ardent supporters of the British Labor Party. To help the party she offered her splendid home "Easton Lodge," in Sussex, as a place where the parliamentary leaders of the Laborites may spend week-ends to recuperate and to confer.

The granddaughter of Viscount Maynard, she is the wife of the Earl of Warwick, who holds some of the oldest and proudest of British titles of nobility. He is the owner of the famous Warwick Castle, which for some years has been leased to an American. The countess owns 23,000 acres of land in her own name.

I was curious to learn at first why a woman who by birth and wealth belonged to the most exclusive of British aristocracy, had become an active member of the party whose rank and file is made up of the British toilers.

She replied quite simply and unaffectedly: "I have belonged to the Labor Party for as many years as it has existed, so that the discovery of my views is hardly new. I am glad to be working with those who are treating with serious consideration and more adequate grasping the pressing problems of our time. With such a combination of talent and earnestness they have shamed other political parties."

"Those who have direct knowledge of the sufferings, mental, moral and physical, to which millions of our fellow countrymen are subjected in our present social and industrial conditions, are holding out welcoming hands to this great Labor movement which will assuredly make for the spiritual and economic emancipation of the people. This we are working and trust that are long the movement will be in these able hands."

"I have never seen anything like it."

The vicar's wife and sister have also seen the ghostly form and are greatly distressed, but the vicar himself is preserving a discreet silence on the subject. When the Queen-Mother arrived in England from Denmark in 1853, the corporation and Mayor of Margate were the first English people to greet her as their coming Queen. A few days ago, she celebrated the 60th anniversary of her arrival, and sent a message of thanks to the whole country by radio and expressed her pleasure at congratulations which she had just received from Margate. Above is a reproduction of an old engraving showing her welcome in 1853.

London, April 28.—Sixty years ago in a Paddington hospital she asked a tiny sufferer where she lived. "I lived in a big department store," was the child's reply. "And where do you live?" she asked the Queen in turn. "In the Buckingham Palace Road, opposite Goringes (another department store)," said Queen Alexandra.

When King Edward died, in 1910, the Queen-Mother sought retirement at Sandringham and Marlborough House. Though she still is frequently to be seen driving almost unattended through the streets of London, she has lived in later years a somewhat secluded life, devoting herself largely to the royal family. Rarely a day passes when both are in London that the King does not visit his mother at Marlborough House, where another constant visitor is the Prince of Wales.

The hold on the affections of the British people which she won as a fair young princess, little more than eighteen years old, Queen Alexandra never has lost in sixty years. Always regal in her manner, she still has reigned in the hearts of the public more as a woman than a queen, and the gentleness of her nature has been

MAKES HIS ANNUAL REPORT TO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Work of Past Year Is Reviewed by Retiring President; Mr. Spencer Shows Chamber Has Been Active Along Many Lines.

In making his second annual report to the Chamber of Commerce last night, J. W. Spencer, the retiring president, pointed out that the disastrous fire which occurred on May 10 of last year had destroyed not only their quarters but also many of the records of the organization, and as a result the Chamber had been considerably handicapped during the year. He added that thanks were especially due to H. N. Fynn, Harold Palmer and Bruce Hutchison for their efforts in entering the burning building and saving many valuable documents. Through the kindness of the Publicity Bureau the staff installed at their quarters in the Belmont Building and managed to carry on the business of the Chamber in a satisfactory manner. Mr. Spencer expressed the thanks of the Chamber to the owners of the Belmont Building, the Conservative Club and P. R. Brown & Sons for offering the use of what facilities they had. The President's report then went on to say:

Six Vacancies During Year

During the year six vacancies occurred on the Board of Directors, and these vacancies were filled by the appointment of Messrs. H. C. Hall, E. W. Schwenkers, H. C. Hall, E. W. Schwenkers, Mark Graham and E. H. Wilson. The Directors held forty-three meetings, and the average attendance was seventy-two per cent, averaging 12 Directors out of 18 at each meeting. Many distinguished visitors have attended our directors' meetings at different times during the year, some of whom were: Mr. E. W. Beatty, President Canadian Pacific; Mr. F. C. Coleman, Vice-President C.P.R.; Mr. J. L. Maclean, President Associated Boards of Trade of British Columbia; Messrs. W. C. Woodward, A. Ker-Hougate, W. H. Beveridge, J. B. Thompson, W. E. Payne, secretary, Vancouver Board of Trade; Mr. A. H. Lilley, of Mexico City; W. E. Spaulding, of Portland, Councilor Till of Lancaster, Mr. Alcott, of the Liverpool Journal of Commerce; Mr. Cuthbertson, of the Glasgow Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Ross, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Shanghai; R. S. O'Meara, Canadian Trade Commissioner from Ottawa; Mr. R. N. Bell, City Commissioner at Saskatchewan; J. B. Adams and Captain Payne, of Seattle; Mr. Vorst, of P. P. of Baines, of Victoria; Baird, Inspector of Municipalities, and many others, including members of the Provincial Legislature and representatives of the different municipalities of the Island.

Our activities during the year were many, and a number of important and difficult questions were given consideration. A committee consisting of the Honorable John Hart, H. C. Hall, William Ivel and P. B. Booth, were selected as a delegation to visit Ottawa with a view of impressing upon the Dominion Government the importance of continuing work on the new drydock at Esquimalt. This committee, with the assistance of the surrounding municipalities and the different service organizations, succeeded in their undertaking, and the Dominion Government decided to immediately continue work on the drydock site, which had been temporarily stopped.

Excursion to Tulp Festival.

An excursion to Bellingham to attend the Tulp Festival was organized, and many of our members attended that celebration. Bellingham reciprocated by chartering a steamer and sending a large contingent to our May 24 celebration last year.

A committee from the Chamber was successful in having the different gulls which had been donated to the city by the War Department authorities, suitably marked.

An excursion to Anacortes was organized, and on June 21 a large number of members of the Chamber were given a fine reception upon their arrival at Anacortes.

At the suggestion of our Retail Merchants Section, the Custom authorities were requested to make a more rigid examination of hand baggage brought to the city by persons returning from Seattle. The Custom authorities also removed certain restrictions which caused considerable inconvenience to motorists driving their cars to the city from American points.

The Chamber was successful in having the mail service to Cowichan Lake improved, and the residents in that district are now enjoying much better facilities in the matter of receiving and sending their mail.

The Chamber of Commerce assisted financially in the establishment of the Freight Traffic Bureau, which is located in Vancouver, and C. P. W. Schwenkers,

TRAFFIC RULES FOR BICYCLES

Riders Everywhere are Advised to Read, Mark, Learn and Inwardly Digest Code of Popular Regulations.

A code of universal traffic rules for bicycle riders in all cities has been framed. The special rules are timely and appropriate for present-day conditions and they serve to emphasize the point that the cyclist not only enjoys the privileges of streets and highways but also that he has responsibilities as well. The rules follow:

When riding a bicycle never take anything for granted. The other fellow may be deaf.

Do not believe that you own the whole road. Room for your elbows is all that you require.

The good rider is one who follows a straight line.

Never attempt to pass on the right side of an automobile when you are overtaking it. The vehicle may turn suddenly toward the curb.

Do not try to show speed in crossing an intersection. You never can tell what will come next.

Riding along the wrong side of the road is "foul." If you do so, you are liable to be bumped over to the proper side.

The traffic policeman is not in the centre of the street for an ornament. Watch him or he will watch you.

Do not annoy those unfortunate people who still continue to use street cars by riding through them as they struggle to get into a car. Remember, you are in a bad state of mind anyway.

Handbrakes are made for steering purposes. The stage is the place for fancy riders.

Come to a complete stop if you see a pedestrian dancing in front of you. Use your brains with your bell and people will thank you.

Remember, you are riding a noiseless vehicle.

Many pedestrians suddenly become blind when they are crossing a street. Give them lots of room.

The bicycle rider enjoys more freedom on the streets than the owner of any other vehicle. Do not abuse the privileges which you enjoy.

Cutting a corner is the shortest way to the police court. Make it a wide swing and stay healthy.

It is not advisable for a bicyclist to ride closely behind an automobile. Bear in mind that the bicycle has no reverse gear.

A safe rule to follow is to ride only as fast as existing conditions would warrant. The cyclist can slip through traffic easily and can beat both the street car and automobile to a destination any old time, so take your time.

The bicycle with a slow gear is more easily controlled than a high-geared machine. The low gear also saves energy in the long run.

Elsewhere in to-day's issue appears a cut of Sir Robert Baden-Powell, addressing the Boy Scouts, made from a photograph by the Rother Studio.

Get Information for Retailers

The retailers' section, under the chairmanship of J. D. O'Connell, has been very active in matters affecting the section. The advertising committee from that section has been appointed as a result of requests regarding advertising by retailers, which has resulted in the retailers securing definite lines of advertising.

The Chamber through the assistance of the Honorable P. A. Pauline, M.P.P., secured the assistance of the Provincial Government that an amount would be set aside for the paving of the West Saanich Road, provided the Municipality of Saanich met the necessary qualifications for Government assistance.

A special committee of the Chamber has received a favorable reply from the Dominion Government that the desired improvements in the way of an office building at the Dominion Observatory on the Little Saanich Mountain, would be made this year.

Half-Holiday Change Opposed

The Chamber, as an organization, opposed the change of the half-holiday from Wednesday afternoon to Saturday afternoon, and the electors and ratepayers, at a special election, decided the proposal to make the change to Saturday.

During the year the Chamber of Commerce, in conjunction with the British Empire Trade Delegation, a delegation from the House of Commons and members of Parliament, three hundred travelling railway passenger agents and

Entertaining Prairie Visitors

This section also arranged for the entertainment of prairie visitors during the winter, and with the cooperation and assistance of the Rotary, Gyro, Klondike Club, and other entertainers, provided for all our city visitors, and for those who attended the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, which was held at the Hotel Vancouver, and was a most successful one.

Frank Waring, chairman of the group, has been very active in his efforts to secure results from the group's activities.

The Industrial Development Group

The Industrial Development group, under the chairmanship of John Wood, has renewed its activities and a women's forum meeting was held on April 17, at which the purpose of informing the women of the city of the benefits that the city on the whole will derive from the industrial development of local products. This group is now active in the industrial development of the community.

The Agricultural Development group, under the chairmanship of J. A. Girdle, held a marketing convention on June 3, at which many of the growers from the adjacent municipalities attended. This group, during the last month, has increased its activities and has been successful in bringing together head fruit growers and the Keatings growers together with the group, with a view of the Chamber assisting in solving their difficult problems in connection with the marketing of their produce.

The Transportation Section

The transportation section, under the chairmanship of Mr. C. P. W. Schwenkers, has secured assurance from the Canadian Pacific officials that additional service will be provided for the service between Victoria and northern British Columbia points served by that company.

The wholesalers' section, under the chairmanship of H. G. Wilson, succeeded in securing favorable action from the railway officials in connection with the shipment of certain wholesale commodities.

Delegates from the Chamber

Delegates from the Chamber were sent to the annual meeting of the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association of Tacoma, and to a general luncheon meeting of the Bellingham Chamber of Commerce, which was held in connection with the proposed Bellingham-Sidney service.

As above mentioned, a disastrous fire destroyed our quarters, and through the efforts of a special committee new quarters in the old location were secured. Joseph Patrick and R. A. Playfair put up their furniture and equipment in a secure and satisfactory manner. Every indication points towards early improvement in general business conditions in the community. The lumber mills on the Island are working to capacity and each member should avail himself of the opportunity of using the reading room and dining room of the new quarters, and future meetings of the members' forum or of the organization should be well attended.

At the beginning of the year, finances were not in as healthy a state as we would have hoped. With the additional burden imposed upon us through loss in the fire we were obliged to make a special appeal to certain members of the Chamber, and a sustaining fund was organized. The Chamber is indebted to the following subscribers to this sustaining fund: Yarrows Ltd., Cameron Lumber Co. Ltd., Richey Consolidated Ltd., Canadian Fugate Sound Lumber Co., Hudson's Bay Co., B.C. Cement Co. Ltd., Wilson Bros., E.A. Paint Co., W. J. Wilson, Canadian Collieries, B.C. Electric, Bankers, E. G. Prior & Co., Simon Leiser & Co. Ltd., A. P. Sides & Co., E. H. Stewart & Co. Ltd., Weiler Bros. Ltd., Brackman-Ker Milling Co., Sidney Roofing & Paper Co., Whittington Lumber Co., Sidney Mills Ltd., Pemberton & Son, J. Beckwith, Angus Campbell & Co., Victoria Steam Laundry Co., Victoria Tug Co. Ltd., Smith & Champion Ltd., Diggon Printing Co., P. Burns & Co. Ltd., David Spencer Ltd.

Finances Now in Good Shape

Our finances are now in good shape, and we have every reason to believe that at the end of the present year the Chamber will have a surplus, although it is to be hoped that every member will promptly pay his dues when receiving notice from the office that the dues are payable.

Owing to the fire, only three general membership or forum meetings were held. On May 23 a general membership luncheon was held, at which C. P. W. Schwenkers spoke on "Victoria's Transportation Problems and Their Solution." C. B. Jones, a former member of the Chamber, spoke on his recent trip to New Zealand. On June 1 a forum meeting was held, at which E. E. Burleson spoke on the Community Chest, and on June 22 V. H. Haymaker addressed the forum on "Financing Community Projects Through Building and Loan Associations." A special committee was appointed on this matter, and on April 4 a general public meeting was held at which a preliminary organization of a Co-operative Building and Loan Association was effected.

During the year considerable interest in industrial development has been shown by the citizens of our community, and an industrial investigating committee, consisting of Fred Moore, Capt. S. Halson, John Harvey, H. J. Scott and G. M. Tripp, has been very active in investigating possible lines of development of new industries. This committee has been very thorough in its work, and has volunteered and is prepared to act as an intermediary between those interested in industries seeking financial support, and those people with money to invest who are desirous of assisting towards the industrial development of the city.

On the opening of our new quarters on January 3, a general membership meeting took place, at which meeting we were honored with addresses from the Lieutenant-Governor, the Honorable W. C. Nichol, the Premier, the Honorable John Oliver, the Honorable W. J. Bowser and Mayor Hayward.

Held Four General Meetings

Since the opening we have held four general meetings: January 3, a membership forum meeting on industrial development; February 23, a quarterly meeting, a luncheon tendered to the Sir Henry Thornton party; on February 6, the regular quarterly meeting, at which

BICYCLE WEEK BECOMES POPULAR

Annual Spring Celebration Next Month

In all cities and towns throughout Canada a National Bicycle Week is conducted by cycling enthusiasts each spring for the purpose of celebrating the benefits and advantages to be gained through the use of the ever-popular bicycle. The special week has been an annual feature since 1918, and this year's "Spring cycling festival" is, therefore, the eighth celebration.

The idea of holding a special bicycle week each year originated in Canada, but the feature has now spread to the United States, England and other countries. England is to have a Bicycle Week this year for the first time in spite of the fact that the Mother Country has no less than 10,000,000 bicycles, according to official records.

Bicycle Week is scheduled to be held at the time of year when all active and energetic men and women, boys and girls are seeking the great outdoors once again in search of health-giving life. Throughout Canada, with the exception of British Columbia, Bicycle Week is being observed from Saturday, May 12, to Sunday, May 20, an earlier celebration because of different climatic conditions.

Bicycle Week is a time when all Canadian people are urged to get out their bicycles to obtain the fine which are offered in the exercise and the general utility regular use of the simple and reliable wheel. The bicycle has many practical uses and its great economy is a pronounced feature. In these days of high street car fares, there are thousands of people who rely upon the bicycle for cheap, speedy and efficient transportation. The bicycle is no longer considered a toy for the "bug" or "faddist." It has earned a permanent place in the daily life of the people and it will always give dependable service.

GOLFING AND CYCLING.

Miss Glenna Collett, winner of the National Women's Golf championship last year, captured this coveted title when she was only nineteen years of age. There is a reason for this, however, and that is that her father was a great bicycle rider, having been world's amateur cycling champion some years ago. One of the early athletic activities of Miss Collett herself was bicycle riding and she could swim when very young, too. As a result, she has stamina, grace, poise, strong nerves and other physical capabilities.

It has always been said that the poetry of motion obtainable in bicycle riding affords the most effective exercise known.

The silent two-wheeler is being used, day in and day out, by thousands of young and old men, girls and women to take them to and from daily employment quickly, cheaply and conveniently.

Get The Wheeling Habit.

A practical solution of the exercise is to get a bicycle and get the wheeling habit. The handy bicycle can be used for riding to and from work or to school and, with a wheel, one need never worry about being late. With the bicycle, a rider can get out into the open country and the trips will cost practically nothing, because economy is one of the big advantages to be gained through cycling. Rides into the rural districts will prove to be both beneficial to health and enjoyable to the mind. The ambitious man may walk to his office in the midsummer days but when he arrives he will find himself fatigued, perhaps late and possibly out-of-sorts. The lazy man rides in a street car and becomes fat, unfit and still more lazy. The wise man rides a bicycle—he is never late because there are no mechanical troubles to delay him, he saves money and he is keeping fit. The cyclist retains his pep.

The bicycle is without doubt one of the most useful of all inventions handed down during recent decades. It is the poor man's horse, as well as the millionaire's. Both need it and both use it. The bicycle—the two-wheeled steed—will always be used. No one can really afford to be without a bicycle. The price of the average wheel today is one-third of the amount that early enthusiasts paid for a bicycle. The bicycle is one of the very few commodities of everyday life that is much cheaper than what it was twenty-five or thirty years ago.

The steady improvements of the roads all over Canada offer wonderful opportunities for long-distance outings and the use of the bicycle for this purpose is fast coming into favor again. It is ideal for vacation tours when one wants to see the country, go where one wants to go, stop when desired and stay as long as you want.

A good bicycle for that boy or girl will develop straight, clean limbs and it will unconsciously encourage the fresh-air habit.

Cycling is recognized as the easiest and cheapest way of renewing health

"REAL SCOUTING" NOW SAYS CHIEF SCOUT

Now I can see that you are really Scouting." Speaking to leaders of the Boy Scout movement here this week Sir Robert Baden-Powell, the Chief Scout and founder of the world-wide movement, in these words conveyed his impressions after reviewing the Victoria and Island units in the rally.

Quietly those close in touch with him during the stay in this city the Chief Scout confided his pleasure in the growth of the Scouting movement here, since his visit of 1911. He was very pleased with the appearance made by all ranks at the Beacon Hill rally, he intimated.

The fact that up-Island and Gulf Island points had sent seventy boys in to the gathering did not escape his attention, and pointing week. Numerically this rally was not much larger than the one twelve years ago, but that he noted a vast improvement was his first remark.

One point that was emphasized by the Chief Scout was that the need of leaders was as urgent to-day as ever. Young men, he said, should not only find the time to take up the training of a scouting unit, but should make it their business to see that the boys under their guidance were real scouts. There was to-day, he said, a great deal more need for the spirit of scouting than ever before in the world's history.

It was the spirit of scouting and not the book lore of the movement that was of the highest value. Imbued with the spirit which called forth the best in one, boys would grow to manhood to take their part in the affairs of the world, equipped as in no other way, with the implements of success.

The Chief Scout referred, briefly to the Five hundred Scouts and Cubs rally around Sir Robert Baden-Powell in second visit to this Island.

to the Sidney troop the Chief Scout commented on the stalwart appearance of the lads. It was the keenness, however, shown in every movement they made that caused the Chief Scout to say, "Now I can see that you are really Scouting."

Presenting camping trophies won by Wolf Cub packs and Scouts during the past season, the great "B. P." paid a tribute to the boys. To live in camp and properly maintain the rules of an outing was one of the finest tests of Scouting, he said. Troops and packs should go into camp in every way and at every opportunity.

Summing up his impressions of the local tour the Chief Scout expressed great pleasure at the progress made by all units and repeated again and again to the leaders of the local association that the spirit of Scouting had come to stay.

It was in the year 1911 that Sir Robert Baden-Powell reviewed the Scouts of Victoria and district on the same site of the rally this Grand Rally to be held during the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley, England, in 1924, and urged that B. C. and all Canada should be well represented there. The interchange of ideas would be a fillip to the growth and progress of the movement that could not come in any other way, he intimated.

The effect of the visit of the founders of the Boy Scout and Girl Guide movements is already beginning to make its presence felt. It is hoped, say the local leaders, that the words of the Chief Scout will be followed by an influx of new life into the whole organization, and that leaders will be forthcoming more readily to take care of districts which are now waiting but a scoutmaster to form a troop or pack.

All up-Island points visited, no less than in this city, Sir Robert Baden-Powell was met with the sight of the trim khaki uniform with the colored scarf, which stands the world over for honest and willing service for the worthwhile things of life.

Aircraft May Find Missing Ships

To the manifold uses of aircraft in peace time will be added that of "spotting" the wrecks of ships stranded on the sea coast after a gale, it is suggested. While the storms rage the dots and dashes of the radio broadcast the danger in which the good ship Such-and-Such is standing. Those on shore hear and are nearly powerless to help. Later when the wind has died down and the sea abated boats are put off to the approximate scene of the mishap and then begins the long hunt for the exact location of the wrecked vessel. Often it happens that the lifeboats reach the spot too late to be of service to the ill-fated crew and loss of life occurs.

It is now suggested that aircraft be used to answer an "S.O.S." distress signal at once by flying to the position given by that craft. The aviators with a fast machine and an extremely long range of vision would be able to pick up sight of the wreck while many miles off and would hasten back to give the exact location to the life boats, or by means of radio. In this manner many precious hours would be saved and it might lead to the saving of life otherwise forfeited to the rage of the storm.

What a flying boat could accomplish in two hours at a cost of $50 often takes three days steaming about by large vessels at a cost of many thousands of dollars, in the location of the wreck.

"Be Kind To Animals Week"

Do not forget the contest now in operation under the auspices of the Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. "Be kind to Animals Week" will open early in next month and there will be seven days in which all are to be asked to remember the part played by the dumb animals in our daily lives. To some, dogs and horses are pets, to others, they are helpers, but to all they are friends. The same may be said of all the domestic animals. Often it is that we are apt to forget what a fund of faithful service our dumb friends give to us.

Naval Brigade To Hold Church Parade

Headed by their new mascot, a thoroughbred bull dog of commanding presence, the local Division of the Boys' Naval Brigade will join the Odd Fellows in a joint Church Parade to the Centennial Methodist Church to-morrow. The Brigade will parade in uniform, with their own brass band, under the command of P. W. Tribe, their commanding officer.

The mascot was presented to the Brigade by Captain Harbor, and has now become a great pet with the boys. The bull dog will be taken on all public parades, and has already shown an aptitude for taking his place at the head of the procession.

The Local Division is busy this week fitting up the cutter and gig for boat pulling practice, which will start next week. Through the kindness of the B. C. Coast Service the boats were lifted from the water and are now in the Menzies Street Drill Hall, used by the Brigade as a training headquarters. Last year the boys captured most of the laurels in boat pulling events against crews of their own age and this year hope to repeat the triumph by a similar chain of victories.

Camping plans are not yet known, but it is certain that there will be a camp this year in which it is expected all the Naval Brigade units of B. C. will take part. The arrangements are under the care of the cadet wing of the Militia authorities.

Indians Pursue Odd Industry

There are many reservations of Indians on this Island, and the sight of these dwellers on the streets of our cities and towns is a familiar one to all. Long before our day the Indians fished and hunted here for a living. To this day these older inhabitants fish for a great deal of their food. Salmon, herring and other fishing occupy them for a large portion of the year.

Many Indians go every Summer to pick blackberries and hops both here and across the Straits on the American coast.

Perhaps the most interesting industry, though it is small in comparison to others participated in by the Indians, is that of edible seaweed collecting. There is a red and white seaweed found in abundance on the rocks of Gulf Island, which is edible and much used by the Chinese and others for the making of soups and like delicacies. It is very much like the edible seaweeds to be found around the coasts of Great Britain and Ireland. At this time of the year many reservations put out canoe parties to gather this seaweed which has a ready market with the Chinese in the cities and towns on this coast.

The harvest is found growing on rocks near the shore, and is gathered at low tide. It is a small dainty looking seaweed, and one that provides work for many Indians during the season.

Lilies Abound

The wild lily that grows in our woods is now blooming in abundance. Many little readers have found stalks with no less than five blossoms on them, and a multitude of those with three and four blooms apiece have been reported. Has anyone found a stalk with more than five blossoms? In picking lilies be careful not to tear up the leaves or to mutilate the plant, for it seems to grow best in the wild state and once destroyed disappears from that district forever.

FOR THE CHILDREN The Sandman Story For To-night

MRS. YOUNG FOX'S WAY

Mrs. Young Fox was beginning to see that her husband Reddy was getting lazy. At first he had brought home a chicken or a duck every day for their dinner, but after they had been married a while she noticed that he was very willing to stay at home and let her do the hunting.

Mrs. Young Fox was feeling sad, but she was not foolish, and she determined to try to break her husband of his laziness before it became a habit and broke up their home.

One day when Reddy was sitting back of the house smoking his pipe and there wasn't a thing in the house for dinner, Mrs. Old Fox stopped at the door to chat a minute.

"We are going to have a big fat turkey for dinner," boasted Mrs. Old Fox. "There isn't a fox around here that can beat Mr. Old Fox hunting, if I do say it. He can get into any poultry house I ever saw, and always brings home the plumpest bird."

"Mr. Young Fox is a good hunter," said Mrs. Young Fox.

"Had a turkey yet for your dinner?" inquired Mrs. Old Fox.

"No, it is a little early, I think," said Mrs. Young Fox, "but Reddy gets such fat ducks and chickens I do not think much about turkeys."

"You have no idea how brave and fearless Reddy is," bragged Mrs. Young Fox. "Why he jumped right over Mr. Dog's head the other day the fattest chicken in the yard and never day from the top of a wall and carried off lost a hair of his tail."

"You don't tell me!" exclaimed Mrs. Old Fox. "I did not know he was such a good hunter. To tell the truth, Mrs. Young Fox, I kinder thought your husband was a teeny bit lazy and that you had to do most of the hunting."

I have seen you several times lately leaping the stone wall on the side of the road where the farm is."

"Oh, dear me, I do that to exercise," replied Mrs. Young Fox. "You see, my husband is such a good provider that I was getting pretty fat, so I just had to do some hunting to get off weight."

"No, indeed, Reddy is not a bit lazy. Sometimes he does not feel well, but that, I am sure, will wear off when he gets rested; he worked so hard all Summer."

"Well, I must be trotting along and see to fixing my turkey for dinner," said Mrs. Old Fox. "Wish you were going to have a big fat turkey, too."

Now Mrs. Young Fox knew perfectly well where her husband was, but she did not let him know this, so the minute Old Mrs. Fox had gone she ran out of the door and down the path. Finding a nice hidden spot under the

VOYAGE OF DISCOVERY AWAITS ADVENTURER

That servant does the work for you when you press a button in your home and a vacuum cleaner scoops up the dust wherever it is trundled? Electricity, you will say, but could you tell how the mysterious force is made and by what means it travels to your home.

Yet thousands of tons weight are moved every day by this useful, uncomplaining servant; light is shed long after the sun has retired to bed; heat is provided for us merely at the turn of a button.

The wireless concert you listen to on the radio set are transmitted by means of this same servant. The car that takes you to and from school is propelled by the same genii. Elevators which carry you from the street level to the top stories of buildings do so by virtue of the ever-present help of this silent, unobtrusive, aid to mankind.

Perhaps because of its very retiring nature you have not noticed how much electricity has done for you. In the course of a single day it will be at your hand from the time you get up until you go to bed by its useful light. Do you know how it is made?

This is but one of the interesting discoveries that is open to your hand in connection with the "Made-in-Victoria" contest. Details of the contest were printed in these columns last week, and entries are already beginning to arrive.

The contest is open to all of sixteen years of age and under and, briefly, is divided into two parts: the compiling of a list of as many "Made-in-Victoria" articles as you can discover; and a short story of how one of these articles is made. The contest will close on the last day in May. There is no limit to the number of entries each may make.

At first "Made-in-Victoria" articles may not come very readily to your mind; but look around. In your garden, and in every room of the home about many things made in this city or in the vicinity. To discover just how many things are made locally you will have to talk it over with all your friends. They will know of manufacturers here that you may not be acquainted with now. Your parents will be able to suggest many things to your mind—and the very best method of finding out is to make a study of the subject yourself at first hand.

Keep your eyes open on the street, in the city, and everywhere. Watch for advertisements, and take a note of the different things you make use of in the course of a day. From every hand suggestions will come to you. The contest is not confined to articles actually manufactured here from the raw product alone, but includes all that is turned out in its finished form.

The contest is limited to things actually now being made—many different articles were made here at one time but their manufacture has been abandoned. For instance at one time here during the war potash was made from the pulp to be found growing in the water all around our beaches. The potash was extracted cheaper then than it could be imported and the industry thrived. Then came the cessation of hostilities and the potash deposits of Europe again were worked with the result that the chemical could be imported more cheaply than produced.

While that industry lasted it was a very interesting one. The body of the pulp was ground up and made excellent soil fertilizer. Portions of it, it was found, could be used for the making of candied peel that we find in fruit cakes. Other portions, it was discovered, could be treated and used as a filler in the making of jam products. Besides this the pulp had many properties which could be used otherwise.

Apart entirely from the contest, the study of what is "Made-in-Victoria" and the vicinity is one that will interest you at every step. Nothing is changed from its raw state to the finished article we buy in the stores without going through processes which are in themselves interesting. In many cases the manufacture of these articles is intensely interesting and the search will reveal a new pleasure for you. As an occupation for your spare time perhaps no hobby could be of more value. Commence your entry today. If you meet with any difficulties write about it at once, for others may have been held up by the same trouble and may seek just what you wish to know also.

bushes, Mrs. Young Fox curled up and went to sleep to give her plan time to work, which meant, of course, to see if Reddy would go hunting for their dinner.

By and by she awoke and ran back home. On the table in the kitchen was a fat turkey, and Reddy was poking the fire to make it burn.

"Oh, what a beautiful bird!" exclaimed Mrs. Young Fox.

"Biggest of the lot," replied her husband.

"Oh, how I wish Mrs. Old Fox could see this bird," said Mrs. Young Fox. "She stopped here this morning and said her husband had brought home a big fat turkey for their dinner. She thinks her husband is the best hunter in the woods, but I don't, I know you are."

"Huh," replied Reddy, "if I could not beat that old fox hunting I would be ashamed of my skill."

Mrs. Young Fox hummed a tune as she made the dinner ready. She was thinking that molasses was much better for catching flies than vinegar.

If she had scolded Reddy and found fault and called him lazy he probably would not have brought home the dinner, but saying such nice things about him made him feel that he must live up to the good things she thought. And after that Mrs. Young Fox always had a full pantry.

Forest Fires May Be Easily Caused

Throughout the length and breadth of Canada this week is being celebrated as "Save the Forest Week." Year by year forest fires wipe out many millions of feet of valuable timber; timber that would be of great use to the citizens of this country in the years ahead. These fires spring up early in the year and some continue intermittently all through the hot weather until at last the Fall rains make the woods too damp to support the conflagrations.

Forestry experts have found out that some of these fires are caused by natural causes, but say also that many of them are occasioned by the carelessness of campers in the woods. The careless dropping of a match that is not completely out; the glowing stub of a cigarette; or a fire abandoned without first having been extinguished are some of the more common causes of forest fires.

Now that the warm weather has returned many will be taking to the forests for picnics and rambles, and there is no more beautiful scene in the world for a picnic than the island woods at this season of the year. Picnics are of little fun without a fire, many think. There is no harm in a fire, forestry men tell us, if care is taken. First clear a space well apart from all trees and undergrowth. Then surround the scene of your fire with stones. Clear the dried moss and twigs away from the scene near the fire.

The Indians when they used the woods as a home, would build a very tiny fire for all their purposes. The white man builds usually a very large fire, much larger than he needs, for he likes to look at the blazing logs and hear them crackle. After taking every precaution to see that your fire is burning does remember is to see that it is thoroughly out before you leave.

An instance of how easy a forest fire may start can be seen from the following incident which happened to three hunters recently. They cooked a meal on a fire in the woods and then threw boulders on it before leaving. The wind came and fanned the embers until the fire rekindled. Presently a spark flew up and was carried by the wind to some broken nearby, and there was the making not set fire to the woods, the next point to of a forest fire that might have destroyed property and life.

Fortunately for the three hunters, in this case one of them returned to find something that had been left behind—and there found the blaze. Hastily he summoned his companions and they put the fire out. When you take to the woods this year be careful of fire, and remember that the slightest omission on your part might well lead to the loss of life and untold millions in timber wealth.

His Grammar Notorious, But He Heads the Poll

"Joe" Harwood Heard Call of Canada—
Heads B. C. School Trustees
Association.

LEAVING his Hertford home when but a boy in his teens, a shilling in his pocket, his clothes in a bundle under his arm and a railway ticket clutched tightly in one hand, "Joe" Harwood set out for London, like Dick Whittington, to make his fortune. "Joe" heard no Bow Bells, but he did hear the call of Canada, and after working in that great city for a time, managed to get his passage across the Atlantic. Then he got his start.

To-day "Joe" Harwood is president of the British Columbia School Trustees' Association, with a membership of more than 700 boards. And yet, as he declares himself, "My grammar is the despair of my friends and my bad breaks are notorious, but my heart is with the children, whose right it is to receive an education." And there you have the reason why this big-hearted man of the West was enthusiastically chosen to be president of the Pacific Coast organization.

His home is at Vernon, the beautiful Okanagan city known as the headquarters of the British Columbia apple business. Here he came thirty years ago after deciding that the prairies held no prizes for him. His capital was small but his ambition was great.

Soon after his arrival "Joe" secured a push cart, and on this two-wheeled man-power vehicle made a living for himself and his ever-increasing family by carrying travelers' trunks to and from the hotels. Business was good, and it wasn't long before he had gathered together enough money to buy a cayuse and a light wagon.

He is still in the dray and transfer business, but he has many wagons, teams and motor trucks to do the work which comes to him now.

There you have the history of this interesting man who started out in life without money, education or advantage—but he had ambition, horse sense and a love for children; and he realized what it meant to be without even a very meagre schooling.

His interest in education affairs dates back many years. He sought a place on the Vernon School Board and was elected. He has never been defeated since, always heading the poll by a most substantial majority.

"Joe" Harwood is a short, stocky man, nearly sixty years of age, grey-haired and ruddy-faced, with a merry twinkle in his eye. He is the last man in the world one would expect to see at the head of a trustees' association.

When he is at home rustling business to keep all his teams and trucks busy, he goes about wearing a broad-brimmed hat, without a coat in summer, his braces—that's what he calls 'em—having a big contract to hold up his trousers over a patch that wasn't developed pitching hay.

He is Vernon's best known and most popular citizen. The whole Okanagan Valley proclaims him as her own. There isn't a traveler that has ever "done" Vernon that doesn't know him, while the big railway officials treat him as an honored guest whenever they meet him—for "Joe" can tell stories with the best. Incidentally, he is a modernist.

What he might have been had he had an education no one knows, but there's one thing sure—he wouldn't be "Joe" Harwood.

In his public addresses on school affairs he becomes so enthused with his subject that he forgets what he set out to say and then he forgets the King's English. A little slip like that doesn't matter, however, because everyone knows what he means.

A big heart, sincerity of purpose, love for children and what they are entitled to has put this happy round-faced man at the head of such a body. He has ideas and common sense. At the recent annual convention at Penticton, when some of the teachers were deploring the fact that school teachers nowadays were paying more attention to cosmetics, fashions and bobbed hair than they were to their duties, "Joe" rose to the occasion and said he cared not a rap for such nonsensical ideas but rather he would judge a teacher on what she accomplished and whether she really was in earnest at her business of school teaching, and if she were he didn't mind "if she were bob-tailed or not!"

And on another discussion on accepting "tainted money"—as some of the trustees characterized the liquor profits (which in British Columbia are distributed to municipalities) used for school purposes—President "Joe" reminded the convention that only a few years ago the police would raid gambling dives, dens of vice, and then next day the money received from the fines paid by the owners and inmates would be handed over by the city treasurer to the school boards.

"What difference is there, I ask? To day's check you know about, and the other you didn't, so there you are," was his retort.

It is on such occasions—as those that his real philosophy comes out and that is what has made him great—for "Joe" Harwood is great in more ways than one, and the people of Vernon look upon him as their "very own Joe."

Miner Poet and M. P.

It is years since the British House of Commons listened to such a brilliant maiden speech as that delivered by Mr. James Welsh.

It captured the House from the start, and it was generally admitted that Mr. Welsh is one of the greatest "finds" of the present parliament.

The Labor member for Costridge has already won fame as a novelist and poet, and his book, "The Underworld," caused something like a sensation two or three years ago.

Mr. Welsh was born in a little Scots mining village, and was one of a family of twelve. At the age of eleven he went to work at the pithead, and was paid at the rate of a shilling a day. A year later he went down the pit, where he worked twelve hours for one shilling and three pence.

Mr. Welsh lived in a one-room cottage with the rest of his family. He was still a boy when he started to write verses.

"My mother was my first critic," he said, "and she has been my chief critic ever since. There are few things that I have written which she has not said were better than the outside world."

MACRAE CLAN MEMORIAL ON LONE HIGHLAND CRAG

Clan Macrae War Memorial on Cnoc-a-Clachan, Kintail, Ross-shire.

SURMOUNTING a monumental cairn near the top of Cnoc-a-Clachan, the life-size figure of a Highland private, with arms reversed and head bowed, brooding beside the open grave of a comrade, stands out in full relief, as if cut from the irregular slab of living stone behind him.

In this figure is expressed the tribute of the Clan Macrae to the 500 and more of its members the world-over who gave up their lives in the Great War. Almost feature for feature, the lineaments of the statue are those of the late Lieut.-Col. John McCrea, whose poem, "In Flanders Fields," is treasured by all English-speaking people, especially by Canadians, as one of the greatest expressions of the spirit of the men who stemmed the German hordes. This striking resemblance between the Macraes surprises even members of the clan.

To Cnoc-a-Clachan, Kintail, Ross-shire, the homeland of the clan, gathered 1,600 of the clansmen last July to unveil the war memorial of the Macraes. And among them from Canada was Lieut.-Col. Thomas McCrea, brother of the dead poet of "In Flanders Fields."

"If Edinburgh is the most suitable place to erect a Scottish national memorial to the fallen of Scotland's brave sons, what more fitting spot to set up a monument to immortalize the Clan Macrae who made the supreme sacrifice on many, many fields of battle than Cnoc-a-Clachan, the homeland of the clan," asked Rev. A. Fraser, Glenshiel, who gave one of the addresses.

"Cnoc-a-Clachan commands a scene of sublime beauty, facing the Five Sisters of Kintail, Sgur Uran, its most prominent peak, penetrating the clouds. Beneath Cnoc-a-Clachan is Clachan Duich, the burial place of the clan, where they buried their dead for over 1,000 years. Every ben, every glen, every boulder is reminiscent of the achievements of the clan in the brave days of old.

Six Seaforth Highlanders, in charge of Sergeant Balfour, formed the guard of honor, which was inspected by Lieut.-Col. Thomas McCrea. Therefore Sir Colin, the chief, took the salute.

"To one like myself who comes here for the first time—the occasion and surroundings," said Col. McCrea, "arose deep feelings—of the many in whose memory this monument is placed. One was my brother and best friend. Each of you have some like association. They proved worthy of their traditions, and this monument commemorates deeds and sacrifices worthy of our ancestors who lie in these nearby 'grey recumbent tombs.'

"Men of many shades of tartan bearing the honored name of our clan," said Sir Colin, the chief, "hurried to enroll themselves under the British flag, and went forth in a great crusade for God, their king, and their country. Foremost among the gallant lads who swelled the Highland and other regiments were the Macraes of Kintail, either born among us or claiming kindred by descent. True to the significance of their Gaelic name, they were 'sons of grace.'"

It was from Peter Macrae, honorable secretary of the clan, Glasgow, that a letter and war memorial booklet of the Clan Macrae was received this week which in part said: I have pleasure in enclosing a copy of booklet dealing with the clan war memorial, which you may reproduce in your valuable paper, and say that I shall be pleased to forward a copy to any Macrae or persons who have any relative to the clan, if they make application for the same to me at 8 Sandfield Street, Maryhill, Glasgow. I need hardly say that we are all proud of Col. D. McCrea and his family, of Guelph, and the many others in your country for the keen interest they have taken in their clan.

The erection of the cairn and memorial on the top of Cnoc-a-Clachan was not an easy task, but funds finally poured in from all parts of the world—Canada, New Zealand, Australia, India, and the United States. Many willing men at the head of Loch Duich accomplished the actual work of this perpetual memorial to the Clan Macrae.

LORD HIGH EXECUTIONER OF HOUSE OF COMMONS

Lord High Keeper of the Furniture Book, Lord High Keeper of the Jams, Preserves and Canned Tomatoes, Lord High Chastiser, Lord High Father Confessor of the Commons Is Gallant Col. H. W. Bowie, Sergeant-at-Arms.

By GENEVIEVE LIPSETT-SKINNER.

"A Gentleman of the Old School," is Lieut.-Colonel H. W. Bowie, the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Canadian House of Commons. That is a distinction in itself seldom achieved by Canadians in these days when election of a noisy Boosters' luncheon club is the ambition of many of our brightest minds. In Colonel Bowie the good manners and reserved courtesy of an earlier day are preserved.

Colonel Bowie is practically the only man born in Ottawa who has risen by merit to a position of consequence in the government service. It is a strange fact that while Ottawa exists on account of and lives by reason of the civil service, that almost every position of responsibility is held by a man from some other part of the dominion. The old story is repeated of the prominent positions in Toronto being adorned by men who were born in the rural parts of Ontario.

One of the most important historical posts in connection with the House of Commons is that of Sergeant-at-Arms. The incumbent of the office is directly under Mr. Speaker and is an executive officer in every particular. The safety and protection of the House, and the comfort of the members are Colonel Bowie's chief concern. He is responsible in himself, apart from the Speaker, for all the furniture and fittings of the rooms in the House of Commons area. Furniture is received by the cartload and to the untold it would appear that it had been swallowed up. But in Colonel Bowie's office there is a huge book like a loose leaf ledger which shows where every item of furniture is located down to the humblest waste paper basket. If a member decides that he would like his oak filing cabinet replaced by a fire-proof contraption—the transfer is duly recorded in the big book.

Housewives will be surprised to learn that men can be farseeing and efficient housekeepers when duty demands. For instance, during the recess between sessions, Colonel Bowie has the chef of the parliamentary restaurant make the jams and preserves and can the tomatoes, peas and other vegetables that will be needed for sustenance when the lawmakers return to their tasks at Ottawa.

It stands to reason that one man could not possibly do all that the Sergeant-at-Arms has to see to—so Colonel Bowie has a splendid staff. There is, for instance, the inside police, known as the protective service, under the popular chief, Hewitt, another fine old soldier. There are forty messengers—confidential and otherwise, male cleaners, female cleaners, barbers, a chef, a restaurant manager, seventeen pages and two captains, and a housekeeper, who must look to the Colonel for their discipline and pay.

In the days when the Ottawa River was like the Mississippi for traffic, when one went from Ottawa to Montreal by steamboat, Colonel Bowie's father, the late Capt. Alexander Bowie, was one of the transportation magnates. Both his father and uncle were old Hudson's Bay men and all the statesmen connected with the early history of the dominion were their friends. By marriage also the colonel is connected with one of the best old families, Mrs. Bowie was Helene Leguise Gouin, daughter of James A. Gouin, long time postmaster of Ottawa. One of their sons, Capt. Guy Bowie, served with distinction overseas.

A record of thirty-three years of service in the House of Commons is Colonel Bowie's, interrupted only by his service overseas. Although past the age limit, it was natural that a man of his patriotic disposition, who had enjoyed the advantages of attending the Royal Military College in youth, should want to participate in the great war.

He went overseas as major of the 77th Battalion, and was attached to the 60th Battalion, C. E. F., in France. In 1917, while serving as staff officer under the Administrative Commandant III. Army Railheads, Colonel Bowie met Sir John Colborne, whose grandfather, at one time military governor of Canada, had been a friend of Colonel Bowie's father and uncle. The younger generation used to have most interesting chats about Canada now and then. Colonel Bowie was recalled to Canada in 1918 to become Sergeant-at-Arms.

One of Colonel Bowie's duties before each session of parliament is to employ the seasonal workmen. When one notes the mob that clamor for these jobs as cleaners and messengers at three and four dollars a day—one wonders how they have managed to live the other seven or eight months of the year. Sometimes there are so many job hunters lying in wait, that the gallant Colonel is forced to abandon the front door as a way of approach to his office.

The Mace, the symbol of power, is the special care of the Sergeant-at-Arms. Wearing his three-cornered hat, with the Mace on his shoulder, Colonel Bowie leads Mr. Speaker's official parade every afternoon from his apartments to the Green Chamber. When the Mace is laid on the table, and the Commons is in session, the Sergeant-at-Arms retires to his desk near the Bar of the House. If any member should become obstreperous, Mr. Speaker might give him into the custody of Colonel Bowie.

The colonel is a disciplinarian, but not a taskmaster. Overseas he established his reputation in that respect and was regarded as a father confessor by the troops. However, like a sensible parent, he believes that rules are made to be observed, and when they are broken, the offender must be chastised.

Lieut.-Colonel Bowie is the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Commons, not because of any political pull, not because he is a Liberal or Conservative, but because he was fitted for the position, and entitled to it on the service rendered to the country before and during the war.

Fair Warning

Members of the faculty of one of our universities tell a story of the days when a certain distinguished educator was a tutor in charge of student discipline at a New England college—a sort of proctor, apparently. On one occasion he was called out of his room by some midnight escapade. He was obliged as a matter of duty to pursue the disturbers, and with his long legs he soon found himself gaining rapidly upon them. Then his solemn voice rang out suddenly into the night: "Gentlemen, gentlemen, if you don't run a little faster, I shall be obliged to overtake you!"—Argonaut.

Engineer's Daring Act Saves Nanaimo Girl

Hanging on to the Cowcatcher, Fagan
Brushed Child Off the Track
With Bare Hand.

Mathew Fagan, engineer on the E. and N. train, running between Wellington and Victoria, by his presence of mind recently saved Violet Evans, a Nanaimo child, from death under the wheels of his engine.

As the train approached Nanaimo he noticed the child on the track, and realized that the engine could not be stopped in time. With his bare fists he broke the glass window of his cab, forced himself through, and running along the side of the engine was able to hang onto the cowcatcher with one hand while he brushed the child off the track with the other. Later the girl was taken to the Nanaimo hospital, where it was found that it was suffering from shock and bruises about the head.

Mr. Fagan came to Canada from Ireland thirty-three years ago and went to work in the E. and N. shops at the age of fifteen years. Seventeen years ago he qualified as an engineer, and has been on the same run ever since. Fagan lives at Parson's Bridge, Esquimalt District.

Conservative Leader's Wee Drap o' Scotch

The opening guns were fired in South Waterloo in the coming provincial campaign when the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, leader of the Conservative opposition, addressed the electors in the city of Galt recently.

Mr. Ferguson opened his speech as follows: "I accepted with a great deal of pleasure the invitation to come to Galt. It is my first of the kind to this city, but I am familiar with Galt through its reputation as a manufacturing city and it is well known for the many able men it has sent out. We all know, of course, that Scotch prevails to a large extent and I, too, have a drop of Scotch in me."

A voice: "Where did you get it?"
Mr. Ferguson: "Oh, I did not mean the kind you mean" (Laughter).

Judet's Black Book Raises French Alarm

Condemned Traitor and Exile Returns
From Switzerland and Demands a Fresh Trial.

The trial for treason of Ernest Judet threatens to plunge France into another international scandal such as the Panama disclosures, the Dreyfus affair and the Caillaux trial.

Judet, former editor of The Eclair of Paris, who fled to Switzerland from Clemenceau's traitor-hunt during the war and was sentenced to imprisonment for life, has now returned to France to claim a fresh trial as his right. Tall, grim, vindictive, violent, an old man of seventy-one, Judet has returned with his black book. In all France, perhaps, there is no man who knows so many political secrets. Few people living to-day have as consistently saved up secret documents and information for offensive protection as Judet.

He threatens to summon as many as two hundred witnesses. He himself has declared that he is certain of his acquittal. His enemies hint that M. Poincaré, in return for his revelations of Clemenceau's regime and the identity of the Ministers who approached him to buy The Eclair, will see that he is immune from prosecution.

Judet is one of the few journalists accused of treason who escaped the busy court martials during 1918 and 1919. Papers of high standing, such as Le Journal, had actually fallen into German control. Notorious among the more disreputable was The Bonnet Rouge, which Caillaux admitted subsidizing. And all the time the French armies were mysteriously hampered by secret, sinister defeatist influences, by a newspaper campaign advocating peace, and a union with Germany to replace the British alliance.

Judet fled while others were struck down. Lenoir, who acted as the agent in the sale of the Journal to the German Government, was shot at the traitor's stake at Vincennes. Duval and the editorial staff of The Bonnet Rouge met their deserts. Malvy, Minister of the Interior, was banished for five years. Caillaux, ex-premier, in addition to exile for five years, lost his civic rights for ten. General Sarrail, apparently connected with the intrigues of Malvy and Caillaux, but later cleared, was recalled. Bolo Paaha went to his death wearing a pair of white gloves.

Throughout the whole period of the formation of the Entente Cordiale, Judet's paper, The Eclair, more than any other, was identified with the advocacy of German interests. He made his mark in international affairs by the violence of his anti-British opinions. Especially for Clemenceau his hatred was intense. Letters upon which he based his accusation during the Panama scandals that Clemenceau was an agent in the pay of the Kaiser, were proved to be mere forgeries. But Judet pursued him to his constituency. There, in the most passionate election in the history of the Third Republic, he drove the Tiger from political life for years.

It was to the quiet haven of Swiss neutrality, however, that he fled when the Tiger, in his turn, was on his trail. His close associate, Paul Meinier, a deputy, was arrested after an exciting midnight chase across snow-covered plowed fields. The once lovely Mme. Bernadine de Ravil, was also gathered in. At their trials, after the armistice, they were acquitted.

But Judet still stayed in Switzerland. Now he has returned. And France seems doomed again to another periodical washing of dirty linen in public.

Sir Robert Missed Chance of Salvation

Drowy Prime Minister at a Revival Meeting Determined at Least on Good Company.

Strange things happen when men go for a succession of nights without regulation hours of sleep. Even the brains of legislators at Ottawa skip a cog or two, as a story about Sir Robert Borden shows.

For nights the premier had not slept. Walking along the streets at last he felt like a ghostly somnambulist.

Homeward bound one evening, he could scarcely keep his eyelids from closing tight. Jerking them open, he spied a Church.

Revival meetings were being held. The premier hurried in and sat down. In a minute or two, in spite of the excitement of the service he was fast asleep. Suddenly there was a surge of movement.

The minister had just asked all present who wished to go to heaven to stand up. Sir Robert, dosing on, was the only one who still sat in his seat.

There was a more violent racket. The minister had just asked all those who wished to go to hell to stand up. The sense of the sentence had not been caught by the premier as he awakened, startled, and stood up to explain.

"Not knowing the discussion, whatever it may be," said Sir Robert, affably, mollifying the preacher, "I presume this man and myself are greatly in the minority."

Easier Said Than Done

Police Magistrate J. Edmund Jones, of Toronto, has qualified as a life member of the Society for the Propagation of Irish Bulls. In court recently, he was starting wearing a wreath of the probable consequences of his habit of choosing companions of doubtful character. He wound up his address with this beautiful thought, "If any more men of this sort come inside your house, throw them out before they reach the doorstep."

What G. K. Chesterton Saw in America

The Eminent English Essayist Declares That While in the U. S. He Fairly Longed to See a Sulky Woman; Elderly American Women More Beautiful and More Dignified Than Their Daughters; American Sports Not Sportive.

By Professor W. T. Allison

America has been a Klondike for many English men-of-letters. A long string of them have come across the sea to capitalize their literary reputation on the lecture platform in the United States. Dickens, Phoebe, Matthew Arnold, Huxley, and dozens of authors in more recent times have reaped golden harvests in the new world. Dickens made two triumphal tours in the United States and was received with lavish hospitality which he failed to appreciate, for in his "American Notes" he made fun of his hosts. Matthew Arnold was a dismal failure as a lecturer but he received the same generous treatment as his brethren. He had the hard grace to go home and write that America was utterly lacking in beauty; he asserted that the only picturesque thing that he saw during his travels was a sleigh half turned about on a frozen pond. He also tried to make a little extra money by publishing in book form the lectures he delivered in American cities. The majority of English lecturers who have visited America, however, have imitated Dickens by registering their impressions of Uncle Sam's Country. So many books of this sort have been published that it would require a special almanac to hold them. Some of them are worth while, but as a general rule they are lacking in good taste and betray the insular prejudice and downright ignorance of their makers. And the latest volume to be added to this English-across-the-sea library of snap-judgments is "What I Saw in America" by G. K. Chesterton (Hodder and Stoughton, London and Toronto). As a lecturer, Chesterton is a success; his lectures are more interesting than those of any other trans-Atlantic lecturer that Matthew Arnold, but his book, while monumental in verbiage, is somewhat better than the usual rapid-fire performance of the visiting English author. In this fat book by England's literary jumbo there is some very clever ratiocination and, best of all, Americans will be able to read it without reviling this author as an ingrate and a snob.

All American Hotels Look Alike to Him.
Chesterton follows his countrymen who have written books on America by making fun of the hotels which gave him shelter. He tells people back home that in the new world there are "hotels toppling to the stars, hotels covering the acreage of villages, hotels in multitudinous number like a mob of Babylonian or Assyrian monuments," but he complains that there are no inns in the United States or Canada. Evidently, in his hurried visit to Toronto, one told him about the Inn at Grimsby, Ontario, a resort de luxe for Hamiltonians. All American hotels look alike to Chesterton, a sure sign that he did not remain very long in the country or depart from the main railway lines during his lecture tour. "Broadly speaking," he says, "there is only one hotel in America. The pattern of it, which is a very rational pattern, is repeated in cities as remote from each other as the capitals of European empires. You may find that hotel rising among the red blooms of the warm spring woods of Nebraska, or wined with Canadian snows near the eternal noise of Niagara." He was surprised to find that the hotel rotunda was thronged by people who were not necessarily guests. The ground floors, he points out, are used almost as public streets, or rather public squares. "My first impression was that I was in some remote sort of a high street or market-place during seemed to me an agreeable break in the monotony; but as a characterist of a people engaged in practical business, it struck me as curious and interesting. I have grown accustomed to being the most unbusinesslike person in any given company; and it gave me a sort of dizzy exaltation to find I was not the most unpunctual in that company." And what was the impression Chesterton formed of the American business man? Was it unfavorable? Not at all! He declares with an indignant smile that the American is too busy to have business habits, too earnest to have business rules. Business to the American is the romance of life. Even a meat salesman of Chicago sells his commodity with a fine poetic enthusiasm. And this fervor commends itself to G.K.C. In fact he sees behind and beneath the frantic rush after the dollar the idealism of the American business man who is more interested in the game of grabbing it than in the money grabbed. "We shall admire or deplore this spirit," says Mr. Chesterton in a subtle paragraph, "accordingly as we are glad to see trade irradiated with so much poetry or sorry to see so much poetry wasted on trade. But it does make many people happy, like any other hobby; and one is disposed to add that it does fill their imaginations with other delusions. For the true criticism of all this commercial romance would involve a criticism of this historic phase of commerce. These people are building on the sand, though it shines like gold, and they claim like fairy gold; but the world will remember the legend about fairy gold. Half the financial operations they follow deal with things that do not even exist; for in that sense all finance is a fairy tale. Many of them are buying and selling things that do nothing but harm; but it does them good to buy and sell them. The chief aim of the romantic salesman is better justified than he realizes. Business really is romance; for it is not reality."

He Longed to See a Sulky Woman.
During his travels in the United States, Mr. Chesterton was often asked by interviewers to give his opinion of the American woman. He always confessed a distaste for generalizations, for he says that it is difficult to generalize about the young women of America seemed to him to be too much a creature of laughter and light, too genial, too kind. He says he often longed to see a sulky woman. The older women, however, pleased him better, not because they were good-looking and dignified. He thinks they dress better than the young women who are more beautiful. In his opinion the United States is a country where a man might almost fall in love with his mother-in-law. Just the same, while G.K.C. admits that elderly American women are much to be preferred to the eccentric spinsters and incorrigible grandmothers of England, he does not hesitate to say that he believes that feminism is too strong in the Republic, that it is largely responsible for various Puritan fads. As every reader of his works knows full well, Chesterton smashes his teeth whenever he runs across the trail of a Puritan. He devotes a long chapter to prohibition, which he hates most cordially, but in his talk about women he notes with disapproval that their influence in politics has

Our Ferns

Where They Grow and How to Know Them
By Robert Connel

Woodwardia Spiculosa
It has not been my good fortune to find either this or the next fern in either the West or the East. Woodwardia well. On the slopes of the Santa Cruz Mountains, California, it is a well-known object and two plants, which were brought from there grew beautifully indoors for several years, reaching a height of over three feet before they died. Woodwardia is a fern of the island of its northern limit of growth and it has been found in the neighborhood of Saanich Arm. I believe it is much to be distinguished as a genus, although the species Spiculosa is a Pacific Coast form.

The appearance of Woodwardia is sufficiently indicative to attract the attention of the observer. There are both sterile and fertile fronds, but their form is alike, the only difference being the presence or absence of the Sorz. These are long and narrow, and are arranged parallel to the midrib and covered by a leathery indurated sheath which opens on the side next the midrib to allow the escape of the contents of the ripened sporangia. The long sorz are very distinctive of the genus. The fronds have well-spaced pinnae, which are deeply cut into sharp-pointed lobes with serrated or spiny edges. From the last characteristic of this fern, the name Spiculosa is derived. The generic name is not descriptive, but simply the Latinized form of a botanical name. It is much to be known that should one find a specimen it is not disturbed as it is a very rare fern in this part of the world.

The Lace Fern Cheilanthes
As I said before, I have not been fortunate enough to find this fern, although I went up the South rock face of Mt. Pinakson a few weeks ago in expectant search. It grows in the crevices of the cliffs, where it is moistened by the trickling streamlets. However, I have had the pleasure of seeing Mr. J. R. Anderson's specimens in the Provincial Herbarium, under Mr. Carter's care.

How to know it.
The Lace Fern is easily recognized. It has a lance-shaped frond, four to eight inches long. The pinnae are set close together and have each a number (generally nine) of little pinules. The backs of the pinules are covered with matted hairs of a reddish brown. The sorz are covered by a leathery indurated sheath. The stipes are dark brown and the fern has a well-marked tufted growth. The specific name gracillima refers to the gracefulness of the fern, which is expressed in the English name Lace Fern. The peculiar effect of the closely arranged pinules suggests the resemblance. The generic name Cheilanthes is from the Greek Cheilos, a lip. It describes the way in which the margin of the pinule is turned over.

STEPHEN LEACOCK

HOW TO MAKE A MILLION DOLLARS

And Millionaires With Whom I Have Mixed.

I MIX a good deal with the Millionaires. I like them. I like their faces. I like the way they live. I like the things they eat. The more we mix together the better I like the things we mix.

Especially I like the way they dress, their grey check trousers, their white check waistcoats, their heavy gold chains, and the signet-rings that they sign their cheques with. My! they look nice. Get six or seven of them sitting together in a hot crib and it's a treat to see them. And if they get the least dust on them, men come and brush it off. Yes, and are glad to do it. I'd like to take some of the dust off them myself.

Even more than what they eat I like their intellectual grasp. It is wonderful. Just watch them read. They simply read all the time. Go into the club at any hour and you'll see three or four of them at it. And the things they can read! You'd think that a man who'd been driving hard in the office from eleven o'clock until three, with only an hour and a half for lunch, would be too fagged to read a bit. These men can sit down after office hours and read the "Sketch" and the "Police Gazette" and the "Pink Un," and understand the jokes just as well as I can.

What I love to do is to walk up and down among them and catch the little scraps of conversation. The other day, I heard one lean forward and say, "Well, I offered him a million, and a half and said I wouldn't give a cent more, he could either take it or leave it. Do try me once; I know I can; or here, make it a plain million and let's call it done."

Their Anxiety Over Little Money

Not that these men are careless over money. No, sir. Don't think it. Of course they don't take much account of big money, a hundred thousand dollars at a hundred thousand dollars. But little money. You've no idea till you know them how anxious they get about a cent or half a cent, or less than a cent. Why, two of them came into the club the other night just frantic with delight; they said wheat had risen and they'd cleaned up four cents each in less than half an hour. They bought a dinner for sixteen on the strength of it. I don't understand it. I've often made twice as much as that writing for the papers and never felt like boasting about it.

You'd think that a man who'd been driving hard at the office from eleven o'clock until three, with only an hour and a half for lunch, would be too fagged to read.

One night I heard one man say, "Well, let's call up New York and offer them a quarter of a cent." Great heavens! Imagine paying the cost of calling up New York, nearly five million people, late at night and offering them a quarter of a cent! And yet—did New York get mad? No, they took it. Of course it's high finance. I don't pretend to understand it. I tried after that to call up Chicago and offer it a cent and a half, and to call up Hamilton, Ontario, and offer it half a dollar, and the operator only rang for a keeper from the asylum.

All this shows, of course, that I've been studying how the millionaires do it. I have. For years. I thought it might be helpful to young men just beginning to work and anxious to stop.

Some Solemn Thoughts.

You know, many a man realizes late in life that if when he was a boy he had known what he knows now, instead of being what he is he might be what he won't; but how few boys stop to think that if they knew what they don't know, instead of being what they will be, they wouldn't be? These are awful thoughts.

At any rate, I've been gathering hints on how they do it.

One thing I'm sure about. If a young man wants to make a million dollars he's got to be mighty careful about his diet and his living. These may seem hard. But success is only achieved with pains.

There is no use in a young man who hopes to make a million dollars thinking he's entitled to get up at 7.30, eat Force and poached eggs, drink cold water at lunch, and go to bed at 10 p.m. You can't do it. I've seen too many millionaires for that.

If you want to be a millionaire you mustn't get up until ten in the morning. I've seen some of these millionaires who get up at 7.30, and it would be as much as their business is worth if they were seen on the street at half-past nine.

Resolutions by the Pint.

And the old idea of abstemiousness is all wrong. To be a millionaire, especially since Prohibition, you need champagne. Lots of it and all the time. That and Scotch whisky and soda; you have to sit up nearly all night and drink buckets of it. This is what clears the brain for business next day. I've seen some of these millionaires who get up at 7.30, and it would be as much as their business is worth if they were seen on the street at half-past nine.

To live like this required, of course, resolution. But you can buy that by the pint.

Therefore, my dear young man, if you want to get moved on from your present status in life, change your life. When your landlady brings you your bacon and eggs for breakfast, throw them out of the window to the dogs and tell her to bring you some chilled asparagus and smudge you in a pint of Moselle. Then telephone to your employer that you'll be down about eleven o'clock. You will get moved on. Yes, very quickly.

Just how the millionaires make the money is a difficult question. But one way is this. Strike the town with five cents in your pocket. They change nearly all do this; they've told me again and again (men with millions and millions) that the first time they struck towns they had only five cents. That seems to have given them their start. Of course, it's not easy to do. I've tried it several times. I nearly did it once in the fever of my youth. I borrowed five cents, carried it away out of town, and then turned and came back at the town with an awful rush. If I hadn't spent the five cents I might have been rich to-day.

The Easiest Way.

Another good plan is to start something. Something on a huge scale; something nobody ever thought of. For instance, one man I know told me that once he was down in Mexico without a cent (he'd lost his five in striking Central America) and he noticed that they had no power plants. So he started some and made a mint of money. Another man that I know was once stranded in New York, absolutely without a nickel. Well, it occurred to him that what was needed were buildings ten stories higher than any that had been put up. So he built two and sold them right away. Ever so many millionaires begin in some such simple way as that.

There is, of course, a much easier way than any of these. I almost hate to tell this, because I want to do it myself.

I learned of it just by chance one night at the club. There is one old man there, extremely rich, with one of the best faces of the lot, just like a woman. I never used to know how he had got so rich. So one evening I asked one of the millionaires how old Blodgs had made all his money.

"How he made it?" he answered with a sneer. "Why, he made it taking it out of widows and orphans."

Widows and orphans! I thought, what an excellent idea. But who would have suspected that they had it?

"And how," I asked pretty cautiously, "did he go at it to get it out of them?"

"Why," the man answered, "he just ground them under his heels; that was how."

Now isn't that simple? I've thought of that conversation often since and I mean to try it. If I can get hold of them, I'll grind them quick enough. But how to get them. Most of the widows I know look pretty solid for that sort of thing, and as for orphans, it must take an awful lot of them.

Sometimes, I am walking, and if I ever get a large bunch of orphans all together, I'll stamp on them and see.

HAD FIGHT TO RETAIN FREIGHT RATE CONTROL... In introducing Premier Oliver to speak on the question of freight rates, Mr. Spencer remarked that he felt justified in saying a few words of commendation on what the Premier had done... The Premier in his action had the endorsement of all the people of B. C. a few months ago when the Montreal Board of Trade was here the Premier had let members know the views of B. C. It had proved a great advertisement for the province, and the Premier was doing all in his power to have the matter set straight.

THE BEST SERVICE... Premier Oliver said he had been trying in this matter to give the people of B. C. the best service he knew how. If he devoted himself to discussing rates in connection with the C. P. R. this was because of the principle laid down by the Railway Commission that the National Railways should be prevented as far as possible from operating at a loss, and the two roads must meet the same rates. Moreover, in the discussion of the question it was the C. P. R. that was active.

CONFEDERATION PACT... The C. P. R. had received from the Dominion lines costing $35,000,000, besides $25,000,000 in cash and $5,000,000 of picked land. This was the compensation for the loss of the disabilities of its position, and they should not now unload the extra cost on the people of Alberta and B. C. Moreover, under the agreement which B. C. entered into with the C. P. R. it was provided that if she joined, she would be treated with an exact degree of equality with the rest of Canada, and in this case the rates until last August were fifty per cent higher than on the prairie. The people of B. C. and Western Alberta are responsible for the progress of the province of the continent. He asserted that this implied equality and not that the people on this Coast should be taxed fifty to one hundred per cent more for the use of the railway than were the other parts of the Dominion.

ACTUATED BY "VENOM"... Premier Oliver referred to the speech of Mr. Carvell of Edmonton, in which he hinted at the necessity of removing Premier Oliver from public life, for fear the C. P. R. might be hampered. The Premier declared that this hinted at the necessity of removing Premier Oliver from public life, for fear the C. P. R. might be hampered. The Premier declared that this hinted at the necessity of removing Premier Oliver from public life, for fear the C. P. R. might be hampered.

APPEAL TO CABINET... In 1924 the Dominion Government demanded from B. C. not only the twenty-mile railway belt, but also 3,500,000 acres in the Peace River district. The Provincial Legislature agreed to this, so said B. C. contributed in 1914 $50,000 of land. Why after this, should she also be compelled to pay heavier freight rates than other parts of Canada? The C. P. R. clearly undertook the obligations of the Dominion to B. C., and was therefore bound in equity to give the same rate of service as over any part of their system. They have broken this position, that they pay no consideration whatever to the subsidies given by the Dominion, in fixing their rates.

FUNERAL NOTICE... Members of Victoria Columbia Lodge, No. 1, A. F. & A. M., are requested to meet at the Masonic Temple, Fisgard street, on Monday, April 30, at 8 p. m. sharp, to attend the funeral of our late Wm. Bro. Henry Angus Davis. Members of the other Lodges in good standing are invited to attend. By order of the Wm. Bro. J. R. SAUNDERS, P. M., Secretary.

SARAZEN MAKES OVER HIS GAME FOR ABROAD... finishing with the club well out in front. That would mean I would have to cut out my follow-through to speak of, which would mean to me a loss of distance. But far better to have your drives straight than long and off the line. I may even have to resort to a cut shot, playing the ball more off the left foot and fading it to the right by cutting across the ball, which is what Hutchison is doing now in practice. I think I am doing some good scores. In playing this kind of shot you keep the hands always ahead of the club and cut across the ball slightly. This shot is having a reputation in some good scores. You don't have to press the shot of this type with a spoon and playing off the left foot as mentioned above one can cut it so that the ball will fade into the green and come practically to a dead stop. In place of using my spade or any of my ribbed clubs as mentioned in the previous column, I shall play a drag shot mostly, as we call it, using a rather straight-faced iron of some sort such as a No. 3 or No. 4 iron.

SHADE IS KNOCKED OUT... Youngstown, Ohio, April 25.—Byron Downey, Cleveland, knocked out George Shade, California middleweight, in the second round of a scheduled twelve-round bout here last night. Shade was substituting for Tommy Robson.

IS THERE A BABY IN YOUR HOME?... Is there a baby or young children in your home? If there is you should not be without a box of Baby's Own Tablets. Childhood ailments come quickly and means should always be at hand to promptly fight them. Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal home remedy. They regulate the bowels; sweeten the stomach; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers—in fact, they relieve all the minor ills of little ones. Concerning them Mrs. Moise Cadotte, Makamik, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best remedy in the world for little ones. My baby suffered terribly from indigestion and vomiting, but the Tablets soon set her right and now she is in perfect health." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brookville, Ont. (Adv.)

SEALS GET NEW PLAYER... San Francisco, April 28.—Eddie Mulligan, the San Francisco Seals' new third-sacker, arrived here yesterday, and it was said that he would likely play with the Seals in their home series against Los Angeles next week. Mulligan will have daily workouts at Recreation Park until the Seals arrive from their road trip. Emergency paper should never be used for cleaning moving parts of a car.

A GREENHOUSE PROPOSITION... ONE of the most desirable revenue producing greenhouse properties in the vicinity of Victoria going at a sacrifice price. The features include: Commodious 6-roomed dwelling, 5 UP-TO-DATE GREENHOUSES covering an area of over 15,000 sq. ft. and heated by two complete hot water heating plants; large barn, garage, chicken houses, boiler house, etc.; all buildings in first-class condition. The greenhouses are fully stocked with a large variety of hothouse plants and vegetables with an estimated value of over $1,000; 2 1/2 acres of excellent land, garden, and all kinds of full bearing fruit trees. Wonderfully sheltered location, high and dry and with nice westerly aspect. Very low taxes. This is a going concern, but owner's poor health makes it impossible to carry on. A snap at $7,500. ONLY TERMS. SWINERTON & MUSGRAVE, 610 Fort Street.

Kinks-o' the Links... In drawing from the tee directly into the sun, the player loses sight of his ball entirely. Not having the slightest idea where his ball went he drives a second ball from the tee. The player has a mark of identification on his golf balls. The second ball went far into the woods. In going after his second ball the player discovers the first ball in a good lie on the fairway. What ball should he play? Under the rules the player was within his rights in playing a second ball. Finding his first ball, he must abandon the second. There is no penalty attached, and merely being continued with the first ball as though nothing had happened. A player's ball is on the green above three feet from the hole. A large-size worm is lying on the green on direct line between the ball and hole. The worm creates the old mental hazard. The player in order to remove the actual hazard as well as the mental one brushes the worm aside with his ball, well prior to making the putt. Has he such a right? The player has a perfect right to remove the worm, under the rules it being considered a loose impediment. However, to remove it and escape penalty he must pick it up. Berkeley, Cal., April 28.—Charles E. Foley, Sam Conlan, Johnny McHugh and George Ritchie won their way into the semi-finals of the Northern California golf championship over the Berkeley Country Club course here yesterday. Foley eliminated Stanford Haigh, McHugh defeated Francis Utton, Conlan won over Dr. J. H. Stinson and Ritchie downed Johnny Levison.

"MAN TO MAN"... By JACKSON GREGORY Author of "Judith of Blue Lake Ranch" Instalment No. 19... A girl's voice screaming—Old man Packard turned sharply and stared in wonderment. Terry's voice—Steve swung about, his anger suddenly quenched in alarm, his eyes seeking everywhere for her. Then he saw Blenheim and Terry struggling upon the iron side of the mountain. Terry striking and striking at him frantically, Blenheim with his arms about her, dragging her back toward a wide fissure in the rocks, his sun bright above them. Terry, watching the parley of Steve and his grandfather, had heard the shots. They were fired from a point within a few feet of her. She saw Blenheim there. To her his object was obvious—he was trying to precipitate bloody fighting between the Packards. Steve and Barbee sped toward them, but both Blenheim and Terry suddenly disappeared. "They're in a cave," shouted Barbee, and heedless of Steve's warning, went forward. Blenheim was in a little rock-rimmed hollow. He fired from the hip and Barbee fell. Now Steve understood. Terry and Blenheim were in a cave, and a door and he called to her as he approached. He heard her gasp in reply and went dead white. For he visualized Blenheim's hands upon her. Then old Packard came up and called out commanding—"Blenheim, come out of that!" Blenheim jerked at him. "And be shot down like a dog!" There's a girl in here, Packard. An unless you an' him give your word to let me go, I'm going to jam a gun at her head an' blow her brains out. An' I'll get him as I come out; an' I'll get you." "Let him go!" called Terry faintly. "Let him go, Steve! Oh, dear God, if you love me—!" "Come out, Blenheim!" shouted Steve. "I give you my word, so help me God, to let you go scot-free. Come out!" Old Packard made the same promise. Blenheim stepped out of the crevice (The End)

By GEORGE McMANUS... Nerves So Bad That She Would Sit and Cry... Mrs. Mary Hocking, Madoc, Ont., writes—"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a wonderful lot of good. I suffered from general weakness and was so run down and my heart and nerves were in such bad shape that I would sit down and cry and not know what I was crying about. I also used to have weak spells. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am real well now. I shall always keep a box of the Nerve Food in the house, and recommend them to my friends; they are a wonderful medicine." (Mr. J. W. Vince, Druggist of Madoc, Ont., says: "I have sold Mrs. Hocking your Nerve Food, and the medicine has done her such good.") DR.
