PRICE FIVE CENTS

Following Are a Few of the Items Which Appeared in the Gazette Years Ago This Week.

FORTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO.
Arrangements have been made by the Weymouth Grant club for a Grand Rally of the Republicans on Friday evening, September 11th, to ratify the nominations of the Chicago and Worcester conventions. Judge Russell and E. Atkinson, Esq., of Boston, will be the speakers. The Weymouth band has been engaged.

A Grant and Colfax flag will be thrown to the breeze by the Republicans and Veterans of the late war in the First School District, North Weymouth, this week. Also one near B. F. Shaw's, corner of Middle and Broad streets.

Let us have a little more of the spirit which pervades some of our neighboring towns, North Bridgewater for instance, where enterprise is appreciated. In conversation with a gentleman, in the cars while passing through that town, he remarked that South Bridgewater furnished the money and North Bridgewater the enterprise, and the latter did all the business.

That is the way Brockton, the Great Shoe Center of the east was made.—Ed.

THIRTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO.
The Greenback and Labor Reform movement has made considerable progress in this town. Much interest has been manifested in the "cause" and a large Butler vote will no doubt be polled. It is reported that a Greenback club has been organized.

The Actives took their engine Tuesday night to the reservoir on Sea street and played a stream two hundred and sixteen feet and one inch. The night was very hot and sultry, and men did not feel like laboring very hard, otherwise, no doubt, many more feet would have been played.

One of the many pleasant items which befalls us to note, is the increased attendance at the Sunday evening prayer meetings of the Union church. The usual room for meetings is completely filled, and many extra settees have to be brought in.

At the annual communication of Delta Lodge, F. & A. M., the following officers were elected:

John M. Walsh, W. M.
Joseph W. White, S. W.
Milton H. Reed, J. W.
Amos S. White, Treasurer.
Charles G. Thompson, Secretary.
Trustees: Thomas B. Porter, Willard K. Richards, Josephus Shaw.

TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS AGO.
Young's coach line to Nantasket Beach will be discontinued after next Sunday.

The East Weymouths play the Whitmans next Monday at the park for a purse of $75; two-thirds to go to the winning club and one-third to defeated club.

In the contest of engines at the grand firemen's muster at Lynn, Friday, the Butcher Boy of South Braintree captured the second prize of $150. The distance played was 213 feet, 3 1/2 inches.

The old school-houses in Commercial square and on Pleasant street will be sold at auction by Joseph Totman, Saturday, September 10, at 2:30 o'clock. The new school-house, the Washington, will be opened to the public for inspection next Monday afternoon.

With this issue of the paper, Mr. Charles G. Easterbrook who established the Gazette twenty years ago, and who has since that time successfully conducted it, will retire from the active management of the business, which will be conducted by M. W. Marden.

NINETEEN YEARS AGO.
If any democrat wants a third ticket, why, let him have it, but really what need is there of another ticket when the one all-controlling issue is squarely joined in the two tickets already nominated? Are you for an honest dollar and an honest country?

We think that any great amount of our space devoted to anti-slavery editorials from now on will be space and powder wasted. Our town, county and state are safe for tremendous republican pluralities. And even in the West the silver craze is becoming weaker day by day. Free silver coinage at 16 to 1 is not appealing to our sober thinking citizens as a relief from hard times.

A meeting of the republican town committees of this town and Braintree was held at Arcanum Hall, Tuesday evening, Judge James H. Flint presided. The first business was to see what arrangement would be made in regard to the proportion of the ten years each town should be represented in the legislature. After considerable discussion it was voted that Braintree should have seven and Weymouth thirteen of the twenty representatives and also that each town should nominate a representative this year.

Why Men Don't Wed.
Our fair young friend Chlorinda says the failure of some women to get married may be attributed to the fact that they don't stop talking long enough to give a man a chance to propose.—New Orleans States.

HISTORICAL NOTES.

Sketches of Sterling Men and Women of Weymouth.

The connection between the Tufts and Fifield families was always a close one not only between the men in early professional and town affairs but later with the women, the sisters Mercy and Susan Tufts, and Mrs. Hannah Fifield, who with the brilliant women of the Weston family and the Cowings were the leading Weymouth workers in the anti-slavery struggle.

It has been sometimes asked if Weymouth fully appreciated what a great citizen and man it had in Dr. Cotton Tufts. Dr. Tufts was one of the foremost men in his profession and although his practice was in Weymouth and the surrounding towns he was active in the larger aspects of the medical world among the Boston doctors. He was the real founder of the Massachusetts Medical Society, whose committee room in the Fifield Memorial, and the rough draft of its constitution, discussed before presenting to the Legislature, in his own hand, is preserved upon the walls of the Fifield room at the Medical Library in Boston. Other relics there of Dr. Tufts are a letter from his kinswoman Abigail Adams asking his professional help for "sundry panes" etc.; also his mortar and pestle, his cane and numerous letters, besides a very fine oil portrait in perfect preservation.

Dr. Noah Fifield studied medicine under the direction of his uncle Dr. Wm. Sanborn of Portland, Me, and the famous Dr. Nathan McKinstry of Vermont finishing at the Harvard Medical School 1804-06. His ability attracted the attention of Dr. Tufts who induced him to come to Weymouth to act as colleague or assistant.

Dr. Fifield settled in Weymouth in January 1806, Dr. Tufts being then about seventy years. For nine years the trust and friendship and mutual assistance continued strong and unclouded, till Dr. Tufts' death in 1815, the year of Waterloo. Relics of Dr. Tufts very naturally passed into Dr. Fifield's hands, and were carefully preserved. It is to be deeply regretted that a considerable collection of Dr. Tufts' personal letters to his beloved son then in Cambridge, and from his wife, going an invaluable picture of life in Weymouth about 1780 should have passed to a dealer within a year or more, which will be expensive to rescue for the Library, where they should rest. A certificate from the government for Cotton Tufts as Postmaster of the town of Weymouth is probably hopelessly lost in this way. (This may have been the son.)

Those interested in relics of old Weymouth will surely be especially anxious that any papers of Dr. Tufts should either be given to the Library for preservation or the Library notified that they are for sale.

Dr. Tufts' home was not the beautiful old Tufts House on the river now owned by Mr. Wm. E. Thayer, the late home of Major Elliott Pierce, but it is here his grandchildren lived in quiet comfort and with fine hospitality in their early days. With their love for the old house and veneration for its history it is safe to say that neither Mrs. Piercer nor Mr. and Mrs. Thayer will ever see it fall into decay. The Tufts house, the stately and wonderfully fine architectural treasure of the Cowings, the English enclosed manor house of the Westons, and the modest New England homestead of the Fifields remain interesting sights in Weymouth today, though the last, in its change to across the street is not always recognized. Of the Cowings more will be written.

To "dear Mrs. Fifield" (Mrs. H. C. Fifield) were given many books and other little remembrances by the Tufts sisters, which are now in the Library, including a curious brooch, with Miss Mercy's hair, mourning rings etc. A little red workbox could speak of more than a hundred years' experiences. Upon the young Mary Fifield the Tufts lavished their generous regard, and her early death was as one of their own family. Such little objects, valueless in themselves are now being treasured more and more for their historic and sentimental interest, and are eagerly sort by descendants of old families.

As Dr. Noah Fifield treasured anything connected with Dr. Tufts, so Dr. William Fifield cared for things belonging to Colonel Sylvanus Thayer of South Braintree, his most distinguished patient, material which will eventually go to West Point, where it is eagerly desired.

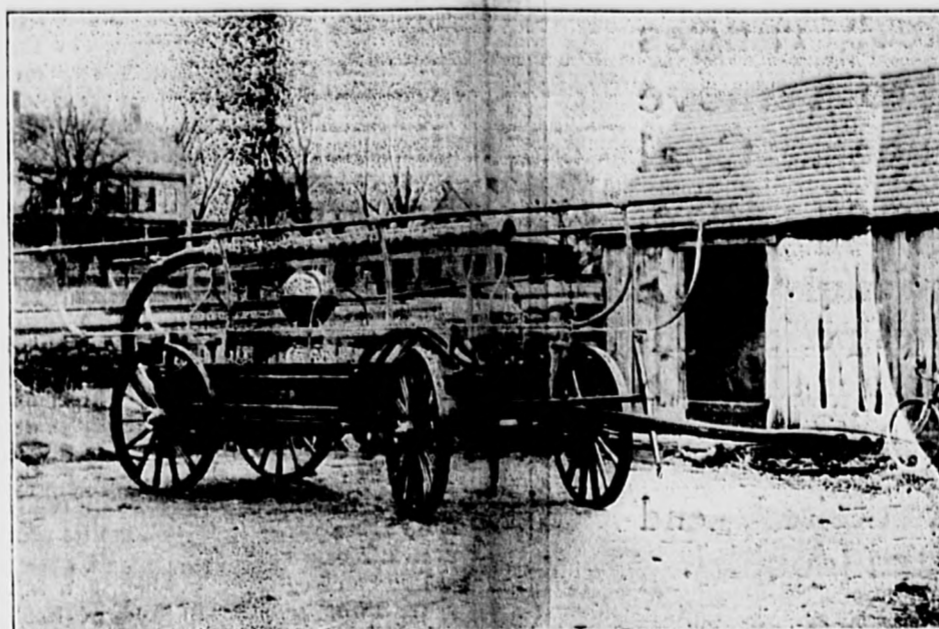

The question "How did the Fifields have so great a collection of interesting things?" is readily answered. That there was plenty for the Medical Library, the beautiful Fifield Memorial in the Dorchester church, crowded with matters of educational and religious history, with some for Weymouth, for West Point, for libraries and churches everywhere is nothing uncommon among families who have. It was because things were saved. Little gifts were saved. People had fewer belongings in those days, and they were cared for. Interesting books, letters, sermons, curious papers were saved. The almanacs that hung near the fire were filed and saved, a century later to be looked upon with amazement. The newspapers, both the News Letter and the Columbian Centinel were saved, to fetch more than three figures from the Boston Library. The Revolutionary child's doll was saved, not thrown away; the sampler of 1812 saved, not given to moth; the boys arithmetic and the girl's catechism in wooden covers did not end in the ash barrel.

These families of Weymouth lived in stirring times, and were a part of them, in touch with all the great or interesting movements. They knew and discussed books and politics, music and pictures, travel and liberal religious thought as it unfolded, they knew history, while yet they were making it, and saved the records of their learning. They kept abreast of the times, not behind it.

Every family has these things, such relics, simple or great, and now that posterity is awaking to appreciation, it

MUSTER FANS, AHOY!

Everybody Wake Up, Attend the Defender Meeting at Ward 2 Engine House To-morrow Night. Get Up Your Enthusiasm for the Fall Musters.

All persons interested in the hand engine Defender, are requested to meet at the Engine-house in Ward 2, at 7:30 o'clock, Saturday evening, for the purpose of getting together a crew to take the engine to musters this Fall. It is the intention of the promoters to go to the musters at Braintree and Brockton, if enough enthusiasm can be created. Come on all you muster fans and take hold of this idea and make it a success. Don't forget the date, Saturday night, September 4th.

In connection with the hoped for revival of interest in musters throughout this section, we print the poem, which was read at the big celebration in H. K. Cushing's new barn in October of 1903, when the Defender landed the world's championship, with a stream of 285 ft. 6 in. Let's get together everybody and put the Defender where she belongs in muster circles. The poem:

THE DEFENDER.

The Defender went up to the Weymouth fair
To clean out the rest of the engines there,
The way she did it made the people stare,
That's the Defender.

The Hancock then played the longest stream yet,
That they wouldn't be beaten, they had money to bet,
But the pride of East Weymouth hadn't played yet,
That's the Defender.

When this tub went out on the stand to play,
How far she could throw none were willing to say,
But she put the record where it will be liable to stay,
That's the Defender.

When the result was announced such a scene there was there,
Hats were taken from heads and waved in the air,
For the Defender had put it all over them for fair,
That's the Defender.

Now, the former champion, the Gardner Four,
Can take that sign and put it in store,
For the Defender has the record for ever more,
That's the Defender.

TOWN BUSINESS.

At the Monday meeting of the Selectmen Frank Twist was appointed special police until Jan. 1, 1916.

David F. Kearns, Roy C. Beals and Hugh Martin were drawn as Jurors to Supreme Court of Norfolk County.

There being no remonstrances the petition of the Bay State Street Railway Co. to locate five poles on Pleasant street was granted.

The petition of the Bay State Street Railway Co. to relocate tracks on Pleasant street which was scheduled for a hearing on the 7th of Sept was postponed to the 20th.

Voted to authorize the Town Treasurer to issue $40,000 of serial notes for the Ward 3 school house. Said notes to bear date of Oct. 1, and interest to be 4 per cent and the advertising and sale to be placed in the hands of the First National Bank of Boston.

Vender to Enter New England Conservatory

Frank L. Vender is the young man who a short time ago, made his name and fame by composing and publishing a two-step, dedicated to the Weymouth High school, and entitled the "W. H. S."

This month in pursuance of his musical career he will enter the conservatory of music in Boston, and already he has made arrangements to the end. The honor of the institution, seldom accorded to any entering student, was given Vender last week after the doctor had read his compositions.

Frank was a popular member of this year's graduating class at the high school, where he was on the baseball team three years, manager of football, a track man, member of the orchestra and composer of the music to his class ode. He is also the leading soloist of the Stetson School band, and a member of Nash's orchestra.

Annual Meeting Weymouth Visiting Nurse Association.

The annual meeting of the Visiting Nurse Association will be held Wednesday evening, September 8th, at 7:30 p. m. in G. A. R. hall, East Weymouth. All members of the association are most earnestly invited to attend.

A speaker has been provided for the evening.

Annual dues are payable at this meeting.

It is hoped that in our towns fewer of them will be lost. These too are stirring times, such as were never seen before, and even a newspaper clipping of the Great War today will be of deepest interest to a generation hence.

M. F. K.

IN OUR TOWN.

By Observer.

Have a good time at the Marshfield Fair?

Weymouth police have been on the jump the last two weeks.

Get that younster's shoes tapped, he's got to go to school on the 13th.

The Shore Resort column has begun to shrink.

Don't forget—Weymouth Fair comes next week, September 9, 10 and 11. Everybody go!

Remember, pupils and teachers, school opens on September 13th. Aren't you glad?

After reading our genial Clerk of the Selectmen's letter published last week, I guess Mr. Hawes is thoroughly enjoying his well-earned vacation.

Selectman Ralph Burrell, as well as President Burrell of the Weymouth A. and J. Society, tells me the Weymouth Fair this year bids fair to be better, bigger and busier than ever before. Hope it is friend Burrell; you and your mates have labored hard to make the 51st celebration a success; big crowds should be your reward.

The Rhode Island boys had a great time at the C. M. A. last Saturday. That was some band the sailor lads had with them.

I am told that John Gannon, the veteran and very popular motorman on the East Weymouth and Braintree line, who was severely injured by being struck by a street car the latter part of June, is able to be around his home and yard with the aid of crutches, but it will be some time yet before we shall see "Jack" at the front end of his car again.

Speaking of Weymouth Fair have you noticed the smile on the faces of the school children in town? The school committee has decreed that school shall not open until September 13, thus giving the pupils another full week of vacation. Hence the smiles.

The summer people at North Weymouth are packing up to return to their homes next Monday. From the talk of most of the people, Mr. Weatherman is a decidedly unpopular gent with them, after his treatment this summer. At that he has been rather to profuse with his "poor" weather the past three months.

I see the supporters of the world's champ, the Defender, are out again trying to get up some of the old-time enthusiasm for musters this Fall. And why not? The Hancock of Brockton and other tubs are on the boards year after year, and I'll venture the opinion that with the proper crowd the good old world champion can beat them all. Wake up friends, you who like musters especially! Let's go back to the days of 1903, when the Defender cleaned up everything. Attend the meeting tomorrow night, and boom the Defender and East Weymouth.

I see the proof-reader made an error in this paper last week. As he is a good-natured fellow he won't mind having me call attention to it either. In the article regarding the opening of schools on September 13, the story reads: "the vacation will not open until September 13," when instead of "open" it should have been "close." Look and see if he slipped up this week. I bet he didn't, not in that item anyway.

That representative fight in Rockland, between my friends Bill Barry and Alger, promises to be "some lively." They are both fine men and sure do stir things up when they get started.

St. Jerome's Church Dedicated.

On Sunday morning, August 29th, the mission of the Immaculate Church at North Weymouth was dedicated. The mission, which is known as St. Jerome's on the corner of Bridge and Sea streets.

The dedication was performed by the Rev. Cornelius J. Riordan, of the Immaculate Conception, East Weymouth. Solemn high mass was celebrated by the Rev. Wm. J. Dwyer of Gloucester. Edward Conroy of East Weymouth, a student at St. John's Seminary, Brighton, was deacon and Rev. Miles Kiley, Roxbury, was sub-deacon. Rev. F. J. Dannehy of Newton preached the sermon, and Karman's mass was sung by a chorus of 30 voices. Mrs. Wm. Fitzgerald and F. J. Fennell were soloists. Other dignitaries present were Rev. Dr. J. V. Tracey of Brighton; Rev. Maurice Lynch of Framingham and Rev. Robert J. Johnson of Boston.

Gas Lighting At The Big Fair.

Gas lighting predominates at the Panama-Pacific "Zone" or Exposition playground which is lighted by a row of seventy-two tall posts supporting 600-candle power mantles.

It is evident to every visitor that gas for lighting is far from being a back number. This source of lighting has been utilized to the greatest extent in fact, in portions of the grounds, entirely depended upon.

The Collective Gas Exhibit at the Exposition comprises 10,000 sq. ft. of floor space in the Palace of Manufactures. There is much of interest in this Collective Gas Exhibit, but the first thing that attracts is the beautiful and artistic lighting effect.

In full recognition of the splendid exhibit made of gas appliances, the Jury of Awards has given the Collective Gas exhibit the Grand Prize.

The Welshbach Street Lighting Company of America has also received a gold medal for its wonderful street lighting exhibit.

Powerful Hammer.

A compressed air hammer has been invented for breaking up pavements.

Wonderful Modern Surgery.
A French surgeon claims to have invented a method for planting eyebrows and eyelashes.

LABOR DAY CELEBRATIONS.

All-Day Affairs at Wessagusset and Fort Point A. A. Listed.

The 14th annual Field Day of the Fort Point A. A. will be held next Monday, when a program of 20 events will be enjoyed. The first event will be the quilt contest, followed by the race of Cape cat boats, class D. Then comes the races for 18-footers, class I; the Hingham one-design boats and the power boats.

There will be a water carnival, an auto parade, field sports and a ball game between the married and single men.

The general committee is W. A. Arnold, C. A. Randall, I. S. Barr, George Cary, C. C. Caldwell, R. Gladwin, R. H. Thayer, W. Cherrington, W. Miner and E. J. Tirrell.

The Wessagusset Yacht club will also entertain friends and members with a field-day. On the program there are motor boat races, athletic sports and dancing.

There will be a special program of races at the matinees, including the Colony club, and a baseball game in the enclosure. A program of special music is promised.

Shaw—Bates.

Miss Marguerite Elizabeth Bates, daughter of Mrs. Fannie M. Bates of Weymouth became the bride of Leon B. Shaw, son of Mrs. Marie S. Shaw of East Braintree, last Saturday. The ceremony was performed by Chester J. Underhill of the First Baptist church.

The only attendant was Miss Marjorie Worcester, a cousin of the bride. The bride was gowned in white silk with chiffon and lace trimming. At the reception which followed there was orchestral music.

The wedding trip was made to Narragansett Pier, R. I. After September 6, the couple will reside at 22 Commercial street.

Franklin's Birthplace.

A remarkably realistic model of the old Benjamin Franklin House, the birthplace of the famous inventor, is on exhibition in the office of the Bay State Street Railway Company, at 15 Milk street, on the sight of the original building. The model, which is the work of C. H. French of Dorchester, measures three feet seven inches at the base by two feet six inches. The house itself stands three feet high, and is an excellent reproduction of pictures of Franklin's birthplace.

One of the most interesting features of this model, which is of pine wood, is the manner in which Mr. French has contrived to simulate the appearance of age, the miniature looking as if it were actually some 250 years old, having a rough and worn appearance and a number of the shingles in the roof being loosened, as if by the elements. Mr. French has made some excellent models of the Peter Bent Brigham and Canton Hospitals.

Baseball Series.

Here is the bill:

Editor Weymouth Times:

Early in the season the Midways of East Weymouth asked the White Sox for a game, at this time the White Sox playing the Wessagussets. The Midways remarked at the time that they (Midway A. C.) wanted to play the "weakest" team. Since then the Wessagussets have beaten the Midways twice and the White Sox have defeated the Wessagussets twice, therefore the White Sox do not consider the Midways a worthy claimant for the championship of the town but would as soon as they (the Midway A. C.) strengthen up and make a reputation for themselves by defeating a few good teams a game will be gladly given. As the Midways want the challenge we consider it only customary and proper that they furnish the grounds, which they are unwilling to do.

Manager White Sox.

And here is the answer:
Editor Weymouth Gazette:

In reply to a challenge sent us recently by the manager of the White Sox, we would say that we accept it. It has been impossible for us to arrange a game with the White Sox because it seems that every man on the team is either a captain or a manager. In view of the fact that they claim that we have not beaten any "good" teams, I would like to ask them if they consider the South Weymouth All-Stars a "good" team. Any time that they are willing to put up their guarantee before the game, we will play them.

A suggestion—why not fix it up for the Weymouth Fair?

Midways Defeat Conquerers of White Sox.

By defeating the All-Stars, who in turn, whitewashed the White Sox, several weeks ago, the Midways take the lead in the race for the championship of the town. McCarthy's home run 15 feet back of first base was a feature. The score:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
All Stars	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	1	2

Runs made, by Mauro 3, Humphrey, Hawes, Clark, McCarthy, E. McDonald, J. Madden. Two-base hit, E. McDonald. Home run, McCarthy. Stolen bases, Cass 2, Mauro. Base on balls, by Sautry, E. McDonald 10. Sacrifice hits, Clark, James Madden. Double play, James Madden, Joseph Madden and McCarthy. Hit by pitched ball, Hawes, Humphrey. Time, 1 hr. 50m. Umpire, Deane.

Present Day Tastes.

Tobacco Production.

India, second only to this country in the production of tobacco, consumes most of its own product and imports very little. Russia is third and raises practically all her supply, importing and exporting only a small quantity. Austria-Hungary is the fourth producing country, importing more than a fourth as much as it raises and exports one-eighth of its own crop. Germany is an extensive grower of tobacco, but imports two and a half times as much as it cultivates and does not export any. France raises considerable tobacco under government supervision and imports great quantities of the milder Virginia tobaccos to keep up the quality of the cigarettes and other products made under the state monopoly. Both France and Spain keep buyers in this market.

Not For Strangers.

"What in the world does that mean?" asked the traveler through a sparsely settled region on the Cape. "There's no such place on my road map."
The man whom he addressed first took a leisurely survey of the traveler and his horse and then turned his eyes toward the weatherbeaten sign, which bore the single word "Tolpom."
"That ain't a name," he said, with dignity; "it's just an indication. It means 'To Long pond one mile.' It's plain enough to folks from nearby that's hunting for the pond, and we don't reckon on strangers taking much interest."—Youth's Companion.

A Master of One Art.

"Have you ever loved any other girls?" breathed the maiden tremulously.
"Well, I have attempted a few kindergarten, prep school and college courses in affection," responded the man in the case, "but this represents a real purpose to get rid of my bachelor's degree."
Whereupon he took a little firmer hold.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Professional Reticence.

"Did that man quote you correctly in that interview?"
"I can't tell," replied Senator Sorghum.
"Don't you know?"
"Yes, I know, but I can't tell until I have learned how my constituents like the article."—Washington Star.

Hard Water.

The streams of water used in hydraulic mining are said to be so swift that if one tried to hack into them with a sword the weapon would fly to pieces. The water is moving so rapidly that it has no time to yield beneath the stroke and in consequence is like a bar of iron.

A small bag cannot be made to contain what is large. A short rope cannot be used to draw water from a deep well.—Chinese Proverb.

Daily Thought.

Sleep, riches and health are only truly enjoyed after they have been interrupted.—Richter.

Give Child Responsibility.

Your child will never take a great position among its fellows in life if in childhood it is not given responsibility. Let the child care for the flowers. The child will come to consider the blossoms as so many sweet, lovely children, who will wilt and die if not given water and sunshine each day.

SIGNS OF RAIN.

Simple Things That Tell Us When a Storm is Brewing.

On the subject of predicting rain, Rollin Lynde Hart in the Woman's Home Companion writes in part as follows:

"There are plenty of soundly scientific weather signs that are right before our eyes and vouched for by the best meteorologists. For instance, the 'ring around the moon,' which is produced by a thin, filmy cloud made up of minute particles of ice—a state of things not built to last. Either some unlooked for commotion will put a stop to it in a different manner, or it will pour 'cats and dogs' within three days at most. In eighty-six cases out of a hundred the rule holds good. A still better sign is the 'ring around the sun.'"

"This is science, pure and simple, and so is the old maxim: 'The farther the sight the nearer the rain.' It is not pessimism that makes people along the coast predict a downpour when they can pick out the separate houses on a faraway island, or people in mountainous regions call it 'too good to last,' when a distant peak, generally invisible, comes into view. They are shrewd meteorologists in making these predictions, and also in declaring that sounds carry better when a rainstorm is brewing."

"Of all nice, convincing weather signs, however, a 'sickening sky' is pretty nearly the most reliable. When the deep warm blue grows paler, and then whitish, and your spirits drop, and shadows fray at the edges and disappear, then you have a sickening sky. Rain is not being brought up ready-made from afar, it is being manufactured directly overhead."

"The color of the sky, then, is a fairly trustworthy sign in and of itself, and so is the color of the clouds. Intensely white clouds against an intensely blue sky mean bright weather ahead. Grayish clouds on a lightish blue foretell rain."

A FAMOUS SUEMARINE.

In Its Day Le Diable Marin Was Considered a Marvel.

Le Diable Marin (the Sea Devil) was one of the most famous of the nineteenth century submarines. It was the invention of Wilhelm Bauer, who launched it in 1866.

This vessel was built of iron. She was fifty-two feet long, twelve feet wide and eleven feet deep and shaped somewhat like a dolphin. Her sides were six-tenths of an inch thick and could resist the pressure of a 150 foot column of water.

The motive power was provided by a screw, which was operated by a treadmill, and the up or down motion was achieved by shifting water in longitudinal tanks by means of pistons.

At the bow was a bomb or torpedo containing fifty pounds of powder, and near it were two heavy india rubber gloves, by means of which a man inside the vessel could reach out and fasten the bomb to the bottom or side of a ship. To purify the air Bauer arranged long pipes, which were quite effective in revivifying the stale air for a short time.

The Russian government supplied him with a crew of eighteen men, who were to make a trial trip with him, but on his first descent they were so alarmed as to be useless, and when the Diable Marin rose again to the surface they cried, "Praise be to God!"
When his men were more accustomed to the work Bauer executed many wonderful maneuvers and on one occasion stayed under water while he wrote letters to his mother, King Maximilian of Bavaria and the Grand Duke Constantine.—Boston Globe.

The Knight of Snowdon.

A Cambridge High school boy figured out the character of James Fitz James in "The Lady of the Lake." He did it on a piece of paper which his teacher took away from him. Here is what he calls the "Knight of Snowdon":

"A bow legged, knock kneed, pigeon toed, cock eyed, broken nosed, donkey eared, bone headed, wiggley, crippled nut."

"As if that were not clear enough, he accompanied the epithets with drawings, evidently of the noble knight with the sun laughing at him from the skies.—Boston Record.

Constitutional Government.

By "constitutional government" is meant the government that has checks imposed upon it by a written or unwritten constitution or charter. The United States and England and France and various other countries are "constitutional" in this sense, whereas Russia and one or two other countries are nonconstitutional because of the absence of the above mentioned checks, the will of the czar, etc., being practically supreme.—New York American.

His Meaning.

Little George—I met Miss Smith in the street this morning, mother, and as she recognized me her countenance fell. Mamma—What do you mean, dear? Little George—There was a piece of orange peel on the pavement. The rest of her fell too.—Pittsburgh Press.

Common Phenomena.

"Father," said the small boy, "what are delusions of grandeur?"

"My son, they are what would cause almost any man to be considered insane if he were so indiscreet as to own up to them in public."—Washington Star.

The Wrong Thing.

"I can give you a few wrinkles about keeping young."
"That's where wrinkles won't do."—Baltimore American.

CRETONNE MUCH IN FAVOR
 Almost Everything Can Now Be Obtained in Material That Has Become So Popular.

There is a rage for things made of cretonne—cushions and slippers to cover the chairs and curtains, but things to wear.

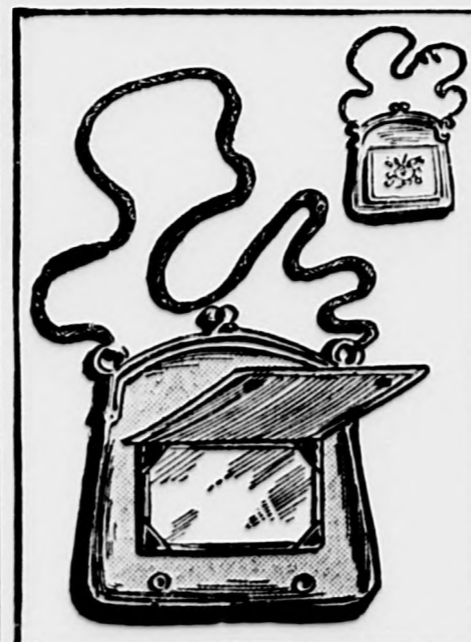

One of the latest cretonne novelties is the cretonne handbag. It is not necessarily cheap, as the fabric from which it is made might make one think it is. For it is made and mounted in an expensive, as well as in a cheap, way. The expensive mount shows a silk lining and a substantial metal frame of good quality, and this sort of handbag can be appropriately carried with the most elaborate lingerie frock. The cheaper cretonne handbag is also pretty with lingerie frocks, especially at the seashore or in the country.

USEFUL LITTLE WRIST BAG
 May Be Made From Remnants of Silk or Satin That Are Left on the Work Table.

Our sketch shows a wrist bag of a very useful shape, and bags of this kind can be easily made at home from any dainty remnant of silk or satin, and they should be lined with saten. A metal clasp for the bag can be purchased for a trifle at almost any fancy work shop.

The novel feature about the bag illustrated is, however, the little mirror that is "let" into one side. Any small square piece of looking glass can be used for this purpose. It is held in place by four "corners" made of kid, under which the corners of the glass are slipped.

Above the glass is sewed a flap made of the same material as the bag, lined with soft wash-leather and bound at the edges with narrow ribbon. This flap folds over the glass and fastens down just beneath it with two push tacks. This is shown accomplished in the small sketch on the right of the illustration, and some pretty little floral design can be embroidered upon the front of the flap.

An old glove will supply the kid for the corners. This little suggestion could, of course, be carried out with many bags already in existence, and the wash-leather lining of the flap will keep the glass in a nice, bright condition.

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have it delivered at your house with something new every week for a full year by sending $2.00 to this office now.

All roots that have come to maturity and are placed away for winter use, are better for having the light excluded.

Green food is necessary for all ages of poultry, but doubly so for the little chicks. Water and green food are cheap and very important.

If any fruits or vegetables are marketed see that they are put up in clean, neat and well-graded packages. They will sell quicker and at a better price.

If your breeding pens were properly bred and mated you need not be surprised to find some of the chickens developing into finer specimens than their parents.

In many sections sawdust can be purchased at a price that makes it valuable in farm operations. It should not be used on light or sandy soils, but on clay land or on land inclined to be wet it will loosen the soil as well as enrich it.

An excellent method of keeping pears is to place them on shelves in a dark room, opening the door for ventilation occasionally. They should be carefully examined before being stored away, all injured or diseased fruit being removed.

When borers have made their way into trees, some hot water at a temperature of 140 to 160 degrees or as hot as can well be borne by the hand, injected into the holes they have made will destroy them. Such a temperature will not injure the tree.

As a table fowl, the Rouen duck is highly esteemed. The meat is finely flavored, surpassing that of most other breeds; but because the Rouen does not grow as fast as the Pekin, the latter breed is preferred by those who grow ducks for market.

To preserve sound shoulders with horses and mules, good collars must be used. The collar must fit the shoulders snugly, neither tight nor loose about the neck. It must not work too far back on the shoulder. The cheap collar is dear at any price.

Purchase costly fertilizers, as you would purchase valuable jewels, only of dealers, whose known character places them above suspicion of fraud. The different results of experiments with specific manures arise probably, as often from differences in the substances used, as in the soil itself.

Peaches and muskmelons may be considered luxuries, yet they are wholesome and healthful food, the right kind in warm weather to make a balanced ration with heavier foods. But we could have a dozen or more luxuries in the food line if we only would take the trouble to grow them.

Under no circumstances should a man leave a steady position to engage in a business he knows nothing about. Here is where poultry keeping offers an advantage. Stick to the job while the plant is gradually building itself up. Learn the lesson with a few fowls. A man should test himself before he invests much money, for he may discover that he is not adapted to the work.

Clean up the stable and disinfect it with a 5 per cent solution of coal tar disinfectant, then give it a coat of fresh made lime wash having an addition of one pound of chloride of lime to three gallons of wash. Include floors and ceiling. Similarly treat all objects upon which the cattle rub. The stable should be light and perfectly ventilated.

Overpasturing during the fall is a fruitful cause of failure with the clover crop. Many farmers who have succeeded in getting a good growth of young clover cannot resist the temptation to turn their stock on to it after harvest, allowing the animals to eat it down as close as they can. This is a great mistake, as the young plants need all their leaves at that time to gain strength for the next season's growth, and to protect them from being winter killed.

Summer pruning if judicious will make the year's apple crop better. There is a surplus wood growth this season, forced by wet weather. This if it remains on the tree will shade the fruit, make it colorless and hurt its flavor by shutting out the sunlight. When a tree's forced to maintain an excessive growth the fruit falls to get the proper nourishment.

Potato breeding may be said to involve the raising of seedlings from hand-pollinated or self-fertilized seeds. It becomes intelligent breeding only when it deals with seedlings produced from hand cross-pollinated flowers protected from insects and borne on plants possessing certain characteristics which it seems desirable to combine in the resultant production.

geny. In other words, intelligent plant breeding requires the same careful consideration of the parent plants that is given to the selection of the male and female by the progressive up-to-date animal breeder.

Sources of Rivers.
 The great majority of the first-class rivers commence from chains of mountains, because springs are there most abundant, perpetually fed by the melting of the snows and glaciers. They have almost invariably an easterly direction, the westward bound streams being few in number, and of very subordinate rank. Of rivers flowing east, we have grand examples in the St. Lawrence, Orinoco, Amazon, Danube, Ganges, Amour, Yangtse-Kiang and Hoang Ho.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts Land Court.
 To the East Weymouth Savings Bank, a duly existing corporation having its principal place of business at Weymouth, in the County of Norfolk, and said Commonwealth; Johanna Lonergan, Gaetano Pecoraro, Annie Labriolo, Rocco Labriolo and John E. McCarthy, of said Weymouth; Roger Lakin, of Braintree, in said County of Norfolk; any heirs, devisees, or legal representatives of Increase Robinson, late of Boston, in the County of Suffolk, and said Commonwealth, deceased; and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by James Mauro, of said Weymouth, to register and confirm his title in the following described land:
 A certain parcel of land situate in said Weymouth, bounded and described as follows:
 Beginning at the Northwest corner of the land hereinafter described, on Lake Street at the Northeast corner of land of Gaetano Pecoraro; thence in a Southerly direction along said Pecoraro's land two hundred and fifteen (215) feet more or less to land of John E. McCarthy; thence in a Northerly direction in a straight line by an angle, and thence in an Easterly direction, all on line of said McCarthy to a point one hundred and eighty-six (186) feet distant from said Pecoraro's line at a right angle; thence in a Northerly direction by land now or formerly of Lonergan in a straight line to a point on said Lake Street, one hundred and eighty-six (186) feet from land of said Pecoraro; thence in a Westerly direction by said Lake Street one hundred and eighty-six (186) feet to the point of beginning.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.
 You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the twentieth day of September, A. D. 1915, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.
 Witness, CHARLES THORNTON DAVIS, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-third day of August, in the year nineteen hundred and fifteen.

Weymouth Gazette
AND TRANSCRIPT
FRIDAY, SEPT. 3, 1915

Boom the Weymouth Fair

There'll be some home coming the next few days.

According to the Berlin Vossisch Zeitung, Germany laments the loss of the friendship of the world. Why didn't she think of that a year ago.

Ex-Gov. Cole L. Blaise is finding little sympathy to his fervid defense of the lynch law. The governors probably felt that an "ex" need not have spoken out so strenuously in meeting.

Georgia has now barred all negroes from entering Forsyth County on account of race troubles existing there. Georgia's reputation for odd performances seems to be growing each day.

Although it is a little too early to pick the World's Series contenders, the "all-stars" are making up. Of course, Johnny Evers is one of the first nominations, and there seems to be no competitors against him.

Even after the Massachusetts Highway Commission get the headlights on the motor cars regulated, there will still be considerable need of regulating the automobilists who persist in getting "all lit up".

During these days of preparedness Norwich University up in Vermont is getting its just due. It has been severely condemned by the Carnegie foundation for devoting too much time to military drill, but now it is held up as a model.

Labor Day this year falls on the anniversary of Lafayette's birth and labor will surely not begrudge a little attention on the part of the public to the memory of the young Frenchman who did us a good turn in our hour of need.

It is peach year and this most delectable fruit of early autumn has made its appearance in not only generous supply and in perfect form but also at a price within the reach of all who hunger for the fruit. The complaint comes from Delaware that the crop is "too big", that peaches are "rotting on the trees." We are getting "Jersey peaches" in a very desirable condition and even here in Massachusetts, where the trees were threatened with a blast, they hang full and already are yielding their crop. The West may boast of its stupendous yield of corn and wheat but the East has its peaches.

In the death of John D. Long not only Massachusetts lost one of her most widely respected citizens, but humanity in general lost one of its best friends. He was a man who began early in life to do things, and his many years were filled with services that had a right motive. Although not active in public life during the past few years his influence was felt in most matters of public importance. His life was blessed with a temperament that made him a congenial companion and a persuasive public officer, and although he no longer moves among the living, the good he has done will survive him for the betterment of all worthy motives.

The Conemaugh division of the Pennsylvania railroad is now trying a very interesting experiment. Instead of the usual "black list" it is substituting a "white list". A list of all those whose service and conduct have been meritorious, instead of the names of delinquent employees, is published every month. The percent of those requiring discipline, and suspension of employees, decreased greatly during the first six months of this year. The "black list" creates resentment, a feeling that defects are published while excellences go unrecognized. The "white list" stimulates to better endeavor. Every man appreciates a little deserved praise and will do his work better for having had it.

The week opened up with renewed energy in the political line and the prospects are that the interest will not wane until the votes are in on Tuesday the 21st. McCall, Cushing and Foss are avowed Republican candidates for Governor with but little show for Mr. Foss to lead the van but he declares he will stand by the man who does and that is good republicanism.

Mr. Walsh is the Democratic nominee without a rival and consequently one vote at the primary is as good as thousands and his battle will be fought after the primary and that is also true of the Prohibition, Progressive and Socialist candidates for Governor.

Passing from Governor to the end of the list there are and will be contests all along the line and in many instances no doubt close rivalry, enough to bring out a much larger primary vote this year than that of 1914.

POLICE NOTES.

Inspector Fitzgerald Recovers Stolen Property.

Early this week, Inspector Fitzgerald resumed his search among the pawnshops of Boston for the articles stolen from R. C. Polson's, Columbian street, last week. His efforts were rewarded Tuesday, when he found the gold watch, inscribed "R. R. P." It had been pawned by a man giving his name as Roy Burke, but left no address. The Inspector learned that it had been pawned at 11 45 on the morning of the robbery. This fact sustains his opinion that the job was done by experienced second-story men.

Francis R. Lowell, Married.

The wedding of Miss Blanche Harriet Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Chapman, to Francis R. Lowell, formerly of this town, took place at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning in Olean, N. Y., at the home of the bride. The affair was very quiet, owing to the recent death of the bridegroom's brother, Sherman Lowell. After a small reception Mr. and Mrs. Lowell left for Buffalo, the Thousand Islands, Montreal, Quebec Lake Champlain and Lake George.

A THOROUGH TEST

One To Convince the Most Skeptical Weymouth Reader.

The test of time is the test that counts. Doan's Kidney Pills have made their reputation by effective action. The following case is typical. Weymouth residents should be convinced.

The testimony is confirmed—the proof complete. Testimony like this cannot be ignored. Mrs. Thomas Fryer, 56 Phillip St., Weymouth, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are fine for backache and kidney trouble. I had pains in my back across my kidneys. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and was relieved." (Statement given May 5th, 1913.)

A LATER ENDORSEMENT.

On May 21st, 1913, Mrs. Fryer said: "Recently I had a cold and it settled in my kidneys, making my back so sore and lame that I couldn't stoop over. I could hardly do my work. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me again. I can say that I am always benefited every time I have occasion to use this fine kidney medicine."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Fryer had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

To the Honorable Board of Selectmen of the Town of Weymouth:—

Respectfully represents the Bay State Street Railway Company. That it owns and operates street railway tracks in the town of Weymouth, and that public necessity and convenience require a certain alteration of location and relocation thereof.

Wherefore, your petitioner, as such Street Railway Company, prays for an alteration of location and relocation of its track in Pleasant Street, from a point near house No. 726 to house No. 734 in said Weymouth, together with such switches, curves and cross connections as may be necessary or convenient for the operation of the cars of said Company, and to make all necessary changes in existing poles, wires and other appliances connected therewith, all substantially as shown on plans filed with this petition, and that it be granted the right to operate said track with electricity as the motive power.

BAY STATE STREET RAILWAY CO.,
By P. F. Sullivan, President.

Weymouth, Mass., August 10, 1915.

OFFICE OF THE SELECTMEN OF WEYMOUTH.

East Weymouth, Mass., August 30, 1915.

Upon consideration of the foregoing petition, at a meeting of the board of Selectmen of Weymouth, held at their office on this date, it was ordered: That a hearing be held at the office of the Selectmen on Monday, the 20th day of September, 1915, at two o'clock P. M., and that notice thereof be given to all persons interested by publishing said petition and this order thereon in the Weymouth Gazette and the Weymouth Times, newspapers published in said Weymouth, on September 3rd and 10th, 1915, and by serving the same by copy upon the clerk of said Bay State Street Railway Company fourteen days at least before the time of said hearing. Given at the office of the Selectmen of Weymouth, August 30th, 1915.
RALPH P. BURRELL, Acting Clerk.

What is the difference between a HOUSE and a HOME?

A house is a place where the lady exists from day to day for the sole purpose of waiting upon a coal range--hot, dirty, and inconvenient.

A home is the abiding place of a happy lady, whose servant is a cool, comfortable, cleanly, and convenient Gas Range.

Explains Flow of Rivers.

The easterly direction of the great rivers of America is obviously due to the position of the Andes, which runs north and south, on the western side of the continent, while the chain of mountains which traverses Europe and Asia from west to east cause the great number of rivers which flow north and south.

Find Roosts in Chimneys.

Swallows, after a day spent in skimming the air and catching insects, will seek a roosting place at night. The chimney swift soars about until after sunset and then suddenly darts into some chimney. These birds have very sharp-pointed claws and cling on the sides of the sooty flues.

Chalmers Six-40

$1350 Seven Passenger

Drive This Car Yourself!

Arrange for a Labor Day Demonstration and Take the Ladies of Your Family Along

The Chalmers Six-40 seven-passenger touring car has the wonderful valve-in-head motor with overhead camshaft which is taking the public by storm just as the same type of motor swept everything before it at this year's speedway races.

The Labor Day holiday offers you the opportunity to drive this car yourself.

Arrange with us for demonstration on that day and take the ladies of your family along.

After all, they are the real judges of style, beauty and comfort in a motor car and will be interested in its artistic "coach" finish, aristocratic fenders and smart wheels.

You're the best judge of its mechanical features.

Step on the Accelerator

Notice the "trigger quick" response.

Feel the thrill as it leaps away with the strength of its 20% more power.

You will realize that you have a real power plant at your command.

Listen to the Motor

It has a healthy purr.

When you get behind the wheel of this car you experience a sensation of having surplus power.

You will gain a genuine affection for both the sound and feel of this motor.

There is nothing like it in any other American stock car.

Ask the Ladies About Comfort

We believe that this is the easiest riding motor car ever built but we are willing to abide by the decision of the ladies after they sit in it, or better still, ride in it.

We already have many demonstrations booked ahead. See us today or telephone for a demonstration appointment.

Then you will understand why the Chalmers Company shipped more cars in July and August than in any two previous months in its history.

New Service to Owners

Every Chalmers dealer now gives to every buyer of a Chalmers car a Service Coupon Book, each coupon redeemable for a definite amount of service at any Chalmers dealer.

The only comparisons ever made with Chalmers cars are made with higher priced cars—either foreign or American. And this is especially true of the Chalmers Six-40 at $1350—the lowest price at which Chalmers Quality has ever been sold.

The Chalmers Club

Every Chalmers owner is invited to join the Chalmers Club. Every member receives regularly without charge "The Chalmers Clubman" and a membership card commending the owner to the courtesies of Chalmers representatives everywhere.

LEARN HOW TO RELAX.

Nervous Women in Particular Should Be Kind to Themselves.

One of the important things to know in life, especially if you are a woman, is how to let yourself alone. The ability to relax, the art of being judiciously lazy, the tact to let herself alone, has saved many a woman from a nervous breakdown. We all know the housewife who nags herself into such a state of conscientiousness that she cannot rest. If she lies down she is continually worrying herself with thoughts of the work that she is neglecting.

Much of the blame for this state of affairs lies at the doors of the mother. The mistake is in their training of their children, especially their daughters. They are taught from earliest infancy to be kind to others, to bear with them, to forgive them, to help them, but from birth to death no one ever tells them to be kind, also, to themselves.

The woman who nags herself can make herself more miserable than any one else possibly could. She can make her life more of a nightmare than any misfortune could possibly make it. If such women could learn to be kinder to themselves there is no doubt that their own lives would be lengthened, and not only that, but the lives of those with whom they come in close contact would be made far more pleasant.—Mary Carolyn Davies in Mother's Magazine.

Her Vague Views.

"I asked for alimony of $50 a week. I see women are getting that right along."

"But, madam," expostulated the lawyer, "your husband is earning only $12."

"What's that got to do with it? I thought the government provided the alimony."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"He has a standing order with an employment agency to send me a cook."—Judge.

CHEERED BY HIS FOES.

An Incident in the Career of the Duke of Wellington.

While the Iron Duke was still Marquis of Wellington he went from Paris to Toulouse, where he had fought and won the last battle of the Peninsular war. He attended the opera that first evening, and, though he wore plain clothes and sat in the back of the box, he was almost immediately recognized by some one in the orchestra chairs, who called out, "Wellington!"

The name was taken up by others, and at last the entire house rose, turned to the box and called, "Vive Wellington!"

Nor would the people be satisfied until he had stood up and bowed to them, when he was cheered and applauded again. At the conclusion of the performance the passage from the box was found to be crowded with people. The women of the party drew back nervously, but the duke said "Come along!" in his brusque way and conducted them on. While they were still in the corridor a man in the crowd was heard to say to his companion:

"But why are you applauding so much? He has always beaten us!"

This was very true, and the question seemed a natural one, but the answer was charming:

"Yes, but he has always beaten us like a gentleman."—Washington Star.

Your "Funny Bone."

When you bump your nose or chin you bump the flesh and bone and not a nerve. Consequently you feel a sensation of pain just where the blow was struck. If you strike the point of your elbow it will be just the same. It's only when you strike that little hollow between the big central bone of the elbow and the little inside bone that the tickling, tingling sensation is felt. In the little hollow you strike one of the large trunk nerves that spring between the vertebra at the base of the neck and run through the arm to the wrist. In the hollow of the elbow the nerve lies over a bone. When you strike that spot you feel a tingling sensation which isn't exactly funny, but because it tickles the bone is called the "funny bone."—Milwaukee Journal.

QUEST OF THE RED FLOWER

Romance of Two Americans Among Mexican Bandits.

By CLARISSA MACKIE

The handsome young captain of the little band of Mexican revolutionists stared insolently across the table at his captive.

Ned Hallett, the captive, glared angrily back at Fernando Perez. "You will pay dearly for attacking the mine and dispersing my men," said the American savagely.

"Americanos must stay at home if they wish to avoid trouble," he purred. The young mine owner controlled his anger and brought himself to discuss terms with Captain Perez.

"I suppose it is a matter of money," he sneered. "How much will you buy my release from your ruffianly band?"

Captain Perez twisted the ends of his silky black mustache and regarded the broad shouldered prisoner with thoughtful black eyes.

Money was a very desirable thing. He had never possessed enough of the commodity to satisfy his tastes. After this war was over the country would be too hot to hold him. Paris would be his choice, and it took money to live in Paris. He did not want to go to Paris alone either. Still he might be able to use the Americano in two ways. He would waive the money question now. He could kill the young mine owner afterward, and there would be money enough derived from those very valuable diamonds in Hallett's ring and scarfpin.

"How much?" repeated Hallett. Captain Perez waved his slim brown hand.

"It is not a question of money, señor," he lied quietly. "If you will do me a service you will earn your freedom."

"What is it you want?" "Bring me the Red Flower."

"The Red Flower?" repeated Hallett vaguely. "I'm sure I don't know what you mean."

"There is a Red Flower in the Zamora valley that I desire to wear next to my heart," said Perez, his dark face flushing warmly and his black eyes sparkling with pleasure. "I offer you your freedom in exchange for the Red Flower, señor."

"But why don't you go and get it yourself?" questioned Hallett. Perez regarded his questioner from under level black brows. "I cannot go, and my men would not be successful in the quest. Go, señor, and when you return with the Red Flower your freedom will be your reward."

"Shall I go alone?" asked Hallett. "Yes. To all outward appearances you will be quite free from espionage, but remember, señor, my wolves will be on your trail. If you are faithless to the trust I am imposing on you you will die like a dog. Bring the Red Flower to me at sunset tomorrow and you go forth free and unharmed."

"What sort of a flower is it?" asked Hallett curiously. "How shall I recognize it? Is it a cactus flower?"

Captain Perez laughed bitterly. "Si, señor; it is a cactus flower, beautiful as the morning, cruel as the thorns that beset it. You will not fail to recognize it. But, Señor Americano—and here the Mexican leaned across the table and hissed sharply—"dare not to wear the Red Flower when you find it. Hold it aloft; treasure it carefully. It is for me alone. I have watched it bud and blossom for me alone." He sank back in his chair and hung his head with sudden dejection.

"I will go," said Ned Hallett quietly. Perez lifted his head and called sharply.

Two of his men, dressed in a ragged conglomeration of garments that included American made shirts, military trousers much the worse for wear, faded cavalry caps and broken visored caps, padded in on tattered feet.

They saluted and eyed their leader with furtive glances. Perez spoke rapidly in Spanish and, finding that Hallett understood the language, changed to the miserable patois of the district. Hallett picked out a familiar word here and there and gleaned enough to understand that he was to be followed to the hiding place of the Red Flower and if he failed to bring the desired blossom to Perez he was to be assassinated in cold blood.

He smiled bitterly as he awaited the completion of their plans. Unarmed he would stand little chance of coming out alive after gaining possession of the mysterious Red Flower of which Perez raved. He guessed that he was to be lured to some lonely spot and murdered.

He shrugged his shoulders. "Quiet sale?" he muttered as the two men appeared to start him on his journey.

A package of food was thrust into his hands, and he was started on his way by a prick from a machete which was afterward tossed toward him.

"Take it, Señor Americano," called one of his tormentors. "You will need it to cut the Red Flower!"

Rude laughter followed his going. He had picked up the machete because he knew that he would need it to cut his way through the undergrowth. Perez had pointed out the way to the valley of the Zamora—it lay to the south and followed the muddy little river fringed with willows.

By nightfall Ned Hallett had reached the entrance to the tiny valley. He looked down on well tilled fields of cane and cotton, on red roofed adobe houses and barns and all the homely sights and sounds of farm life.

What place was this to which Perez had sent him in quest of the mysterious Red Flower?

He looked again and noted that the houses were closely shuttered, the cattle lingered disconsolately about the closed barns, the chickens had wandered unheeded among the fields and were devastating the crops, the place looked deserted.

He decided to wait until night had fallen before he investigated further. In this valley of the Red Flower, he would sleep there and pluck the flower by daylight.

The night fell softly like a gray mantle over the valley. Stars pricked out in the deep blue of the sky and there was no sound save the distant flow of the little river, the murmuring discontent of the neglected cattle and the shrill cry of a night bird.

After Hallett had eaten sparingly he went hastily in search of a spring, for the peppery food had augmented his thirst. He followed a well defined trail down to the valley and presently found himself standing outside the principal door of the largest house. At his approach the denizens of the barnyard broke into a clamor of greeting.

While he hesitated on the doorstep the door was flung open, and the cold muzzle of a revolver was pressed against his temple.

"Quiet!" asked a girl's voice sharp with fear. "Amigo," returned Ned Hallett quickly, for a weapon in the hands of a woman always inspired him with respect. "A friend," she gasped. "I wonder if it is true?"

"You speak English?" he asked eagerly. "Perhaps you are not Mexican?"

"Of course I am an American," returned the girl, peering down at him. "And you—you do not speak like a native."

"I am an American—owner of the El Monte mine—captured by a roving band of insurgents. I am earning my release by fulfilling a mission for Captain Perez of?"

"Perez? The little snake! Can I trust you?" she asked in an anguished tone.

"As you would yourself," returned Ned sincerely. "I am all alone here," she announced. "Captain Perez and his band of scoundrels kidnaped me from my father's plantation and brought me here, where he left me in charge of some women who are related to him. I have imprisoned those of the women in a cellar of the house, and the fourth one has just eluded me and I know has gone to report my insubordination to Perez. I dare not go alone into this unfriendly country. So far I have protected myself and won my way with my guns. I am a dead shot at long range, and the women were cowards. Tell me, amigo," she cried piteously, "what am I to do?"

Hallett took her trembling hand in his, and she did not withdraw it, but with feminine inconsistency she still held the revolver against his temple. "Cheer up," said Ned practically. "We will take horses and get away from here at once. Pack up some food, enough for a couple of days, and I will get the horses ready."

"Thank God for your help!" cried the girl brokenly, as she lowered the weapon and turned away. "But, Mr. Hallett, how about your mission for Captain Perez? Your life will be in danger if you fail to accomplish it."

Hallett laughed carelessly. "I'll take a chance on that with a horse under me and a gun in my hand and some one to protect," he said grimly. "All he sent me for was some miserable red flower he was possessed after."

"Red Flower?" echoed the girl faintly. Did you come here for the Red Flower?"

"Yes; he told me it was a cactus flower. Seems he wanted to wear it against his heart. Rather sentimental of the gallant captain," he ended sardonically.

"Don't jest," protested the girl. "Don't you understand, sir, that he meant me—he called me the Red Flower! You will know why he called me that when daylight comes and you see that my hair is red. I understand him now. He thought he could lure me out of the valley through the means of an American. Once out in the open he would shoot you and capture me. I cannot go with you, Mr. Hallett."

Ned Hallett swore roundly. "You must come," he said shortly. "Of course, now that I understand the situation you must know that my pact with Perez is ended. I will see that you get safely across the border, and I will notify your people of your safety. You can trust me, Miss."

"Alice Latham," she supplied; then she bent her head and looked closely at him in the semidarkness of the doorway. "I will trust you," she said quickly. "I will get ready while you find the horses. The two blacks are the strongest and the best for hard traveling. I will be ready in ten minutes. Take these pistols. There are more here and plenty of ammunition."

Fifteen minutes later they rode quietly out of the valley, both of them strongly armed and with food and water packed on Hallett's saddle. Before they left Alice let down the fence rails so that the neglected cattle could rove around and find food and water.

For several hours they rode along the river bank in silence, and it was not until Ned made the turn that would take them to the border of the states and thus made clear his intention to play false to Perez that the wolves of the Mexican captain were loosed.

They fired at Hallett from ambush and missed. His black horse, accustomed to guerrilla warfare, carried him into the thicket so quickly that he surprised the two spies of Perez. He shot one in the shoulder, and as the man sank to the ground the other one received a shot that disabled him.

Then the two Americans fled rapidly through the night toward the land of their birth. And when another midday sun glared down on the parched earth it found Alice Latham and Ned Hallett safe in the little Texas town of Speedwell, where they were sending a messenger to the Latham plantation with good news of her safety.

When Ned Hallett got his first good look at Alice Latham he drew a long breath and exclaimed:

"Now, I understand why Perez called you the Red Flower! I never knew a red haired girl could be so beautiful!" he added involuntarily.

Alice Latham laughed and shook back the beautiful red fleece of hair that framed her perfect face. Her red brown eyes held magic for Ned Hallett, and it is not strange that he determined to win and wear the Red Flower for his own.

"As you appear to have saved my girl's life, I rather think it belongs to you, Hallett," was Mr. Latham's decision some months later when Ned put the momentous question to him. So Ned wore the Red Flower after all, and Captain Perez went to Paris alone.

Valuable Vocabulary. The employer who was willing to pay $3 a week for an office boy advertised for a boy. About 100 replied. To the most likely looking lad he said:

"You look all right, but I must test your vocabulary. You know what 'vocabulary' means?"

"Yes, sir."

"Very well, I want a boy with a vocabulary. My customers are well bred, educated people, and I must have a boy who can answer them with something more intelligent than 'Uh-huh,' 'Yep' and 'I guess so.'"

He put several questions to the boy, and received satisfactory replies.

"You will do," he said. "You may go to work now."

"I beg your pardon," said that amazing boy, "but there is one example of my vocabulary that you have not heard."

"Well, what is it?"

"I am sorry, sir, but I could not think of using this kind of language for $3 a week. It is worth $5."

The employer concluded that it was and paid it—New York Times.

Wait Paint.

There are painters and waiters. Which am I going to do? Paint or wait?
Which is better?
How much am I worth with my property waiting? How much if I paint? Will my house be worth more or less if I paint?
Say it costs $2 a gallon Devore—I wouldn't paint any other—and $3 or $4 more for putting it on. That's $50 or $60 a 10-gallon job.
The money is gone. Is it in the house? Is it all in the house?
Suppose I were selling; what should I get for that house fresh-painted and what should I get for it needing-paint?
I wonder why men paint before selling!

DEVORE
Everett Loud, East Weymouth; M. R. Loud & Co., South Weymouth, and A. J. Sidelinger, North Weymouth sell it. Adv't.

TELLS STORY OF SHOOTING.

William Green, Midget Street Car Conductor Gives Exciting Tale of Catching Bandits at Hingham Last Friday.

"I guess people won't forget what Chief James did last Friday for one long time." Thus remarked William Green, the midget conductor on the local street car division, when interviewed by a Gazette reporter the first of the week. Although "Billy" has been pretty nearly "interviewed out," as he said, he readily gave our correspondent his story of how he, with Charlie Pratt, released Chief James from the cell in the Hingham Police station last Friday morning, and then started in pursuit of the bandits in Dr. Charles Whelan's auto, the details of which are already known to the public. Here is Billy's own story, and it shows the ready nerve and grit of East Weymouth's smallest street car man, of his motorman, Charlie Pratt, and of another Weymouth boy, Dr. Charles Whelan, well known football coach and an all-round athlete in his school-days.

"Charlie Pratt and I were coming along the street by the Hingham Police station last Friday morning about five minutes of eight, after our run to Crow Point, and as my young fellows would we spoke of the auto thieves who tried to break into Huntley's garage on Wednesday. I was crowding over my pal Charlie because I had seen them and he hadn't, when I saw the very men we were talking about cross the street. They appeared to be cool, in fact cooler than I felt for a minute. I told Charlie that those two men were ringers for the bandits, thieves, if not the very same ones I had seen the day before. Just then we came within hearing of the police station, and we heard Wash yelling at the top of his voice for help.

"Charlie and I made good time getting inside of the police station and there we found the Chief in cell one. 'Got a key?' I asked him. 'You'll have to smash it,' replied James, 'they took my keys and all.'

"Charlie had his iron switchstick with him and in about two smashes, he had the cell door open. Believe me, the chief was a sight. His face was all cut and bruised, and he was very weak from the beating he had received. 'He was not a quitter though. I'll get them yet,' Charlie phoned around for an auto, and just then Dr. Whelan showed up in his car. I tell you what, the Weymouth boys were on the job all right. The chief grabbed a gun that was in the station and he and I jumped into Dr. Whelan's car and away we sped up the street, in the direction the thieves disappeared. On the way we picked up a Hingham fellow named Connell and a few minutes later we came upon the two thieves hiking along as fast they could towards Boston. We came upon them at the corner where Miles road and Lincoln streets come together.

"Dr. Whelan stopped the auto, and the chief climbed out and started after the two runaways. I was so rattled at this time I can't remember what the Chief said to them, but Harman, who had Chief James' own gun, let drive, the bullet going between the Doctor and Connell. You just bet we ducked and ducked quick. We all did but the Chief, he kept right after them and when they went around the bushes on the Plympton place, Harman fired again. Believe me I am glad he wasn't a crack shot. Then Wash decided he would take a hand in the firing and fired twice. The second shot caught Harman just above the eyes, and down he went in his tracks. It was some shot. Then we came back to the square. It was some sensation, now I tell you. Was I scared, no. I was too excited to be scared, but I'm not fussy about getting mixed up with any more bandits, they might shoot straighter next time."

Machine That Makes Colors.
The matching of colors has been brought down to an exact science by the invention of a machine for the purpose.

Newspaper Holders.
A simple newspaper holder can be made by cutting away a portion of one side of an ordinary clothespin, drilling a hole through the thick end for a screw or nail, and fastening it in place where desired. Another way is to split off one side of a clothespin and cut the bottom of the remaining part, tapering as shown; then drill a hole to avoid splitting the piece and fasten in a convenient place.

TOWN BUSINESS.

On petition of the Weymouth Light & Power Co. for a location for four poles on Main street and six poles on Canterbury street a hearing was set for September 20th at 3:00 p. m.

A land court citation of James Mauro was received and referred to Town Council.

Harry B. Lovell resigned as deputy inspector in Ward One.

A letter was received from the Terminal Commission regarding terminal facilities of Metropolitan Boston asking for suggestions as to how conditions could be made better.

Louis Bates of 9 Pearl street was granted a permit to dig clams.

Charles V. Winship of 46 Pearl street, Stoughton was granted a license to carry on a moving picture business in Music hall South Weymouth.

The Columbian Contract Co. which has the contract for construction of a state road over the Washington street route from the junction of Main street to the Hingham line began work at the latter point on Monday and found hard digging at that point but will come into a good level stretch as they approach Lovell's Corner.

Woman's Loyal Moose Circle.

Installation of two new members at the last meeting, which means that the order has nearly doubled in membership since it started in April.

The secretary, Miss Auld, enjoyed a trip to Providence, Labor Day.

This week's mystery went to Miss MacDonal.

Don't forget the jitney dance next Wednesday. Members please bring cake.

Mrs. Berkhart and Mrs. Hoobrook, with their families, spent the week end and Labor Day at the Linden, Houghs Neck.

The Defender Is Coming.

A second meeting in the interest of the Defender was held at the Engine house Wednesday evening. There was a larger attendance than on Saturday night and much renewed interest.

The engine will be taken out for a play to-night on Middle street near Strong's factory, and plans are being made to enter the Defender at Braintree next week and later at Brockton.

Waste of Public Funds.

One minor waste of the public funds is called to mind by the way a man who once belonged to congress or the legislature uses official stationery for the rest of his natural life.—Ohio State Journal.

Innocent.

"The car was going at least forty miles an hour," testified the constable. "It was all I could do to get out of the way." "Your honor," objected the defendant, "that is a lie on the face of it. If my car had been going as fast as he says it was I'd have got him, no matter how quick he jumped."

"Talk" Kitten Understood.

The girl was making cookies. Little Mary was toddling round the kitchen. The big house cat bothered the little one. "Tell Kitten to go out," she demanded to the cook. The latter was busy, so spoke rather perfunctorily. "Kitten, go out! Go out, Kitten!" A disgusted look came over the toddler's face as she said: "Kitten don't understand that talk. Speak to her with the broom."

A THOROUGH TEST

One To Convince the Most Skeptical Weymouth Reader.
The test of time is the test that counts. Doan's Kidney Pills have made their reputation by effective action. The following case is typical. Weymouth residents should be convinced. The testimony is confirmed—the proof complete.

Testimony like this cannot be ignored. Mrs. Thomas Fryer, 56 Phillip St., Weymouth, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are fine for backache and kidney trouble. I had pains in my back across my kidneys. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and was relieved." (Statement given May 5th, 1913.)

A LATER ENDORSEMENT.
On May 21st, 1913, Mrs. Fryer said: "Recently I had a cold and it settled in my kidneys, making my back so sore and lame that I couldn't stoop over. I could hardly do my work. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me again. I can say that I am always benefited every time I have occasion to use this fine kidney medicine."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Fryer had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Gala Holiday in Town

Baseball, Field Days, Horse Trotting, Etc., Among Events on Attractive Labor Day Program

Fort Point A. A. Field Day.

Good weather conditions and a very attractive program attracted a very large number to Fort Point, North Weymouth, on the holiday morning, to witness the annual field day of the Fort Point A. A.

In the morning the water sports were held and in the afternoon the "boys" had a gala time on shore.

The committee in charge consisted of W. W. Arnold, A. L. Barr, George Carey, C. C. Caldwell, C. A. Randall, E. J. Tirrell, R. Gladwin, R. H. Baker, W. H. Thayer, W. W. Cherrington and W. Miner.

The morning program went off without a hitch and the results were as follows:

Swimming Race for Boys and Men—Won by Webster Cherrington, Bennie Gaudet second.

Diving Contest—Won by Philip Jeffrey, David Tirrell second.

Umbrella Race—Won by Bennie Gaudet, Alice Caldwell second.

Four-Oared Race—Won by David Tirrell and Horace Tirrell, in spite of the fact that each boy broke an oar and finished the race with one oar each.

Power Boat Race—Won by the Mary, Capt. Lake Mullen's boat; Idlewood, Capt. A. L. Barr's boat, second; Gypsy, Capt. A. L. Gladwin's boat, third; Yo Yo, Capt. C. A. Baker's boat, fourth.

Yacht Race—Won by Usona II, Capt. A. L. Lincoln; Mischieff, second, Capt. C. A. Randall; Marwindor, third, Capt. C. M. Seudder; Ineze, fourth, Capt. F. C. Rivinius.

After dinner a parade of Summer cottagers, 200 in number, was held, each one carrying an American flag, and headed by the Brockton band, with Rupert A. Carven as chief marshal. Following this parade an auto parade of thirty autos was held, all the cars being decorated. The prize went to R. A. Gladwin.

Summary of land sports:
Quoit Contest—Won by Wallace Arnold, Herbert E. Perry second.

Parnell-st Girls' Race—Won by Marion Tyne, Sadie McNamara second.

Parnell-st Boys' Race—Won by Patrick Tyne, Patrick Dwyer second.

Relay Race—Won by David Tirrell, John Mutty, Bennie Gaudet and Frank Fenwick.

30-Yard Dash, Small Girls—Won by Muriel Dean.

30-Yard Dash, Large Girls—Won by Helen Mullen.

30-Yard Dash, Small Boys—Won by Teddy O'Shea.

30-Yard Dash, Large Boys—Won by John Carven.

50-Yard Dash, Boys Under 15—Won by Thomas Mullen.

100-Yard Dash, Boys Over 15—Won by John Mutty.

Potato Race, Boys—Won by Herbert Donovan.

Three-Legged Race—Won by Arnold Carey and Lawrence Mutty.

Sack Race, Girls—Won by Muriel Gladwin.

Sack Race, Boys—Won by Lawrence Mutty.

Pipe Race, Men—Won by F. L. McNulty, C. A. Randall, second.

Fat Men's Race—Won by F. H. Baldwin, E. J. Tirrell and D. Edward Ahearn tied for second place.

In the fancy costume Earl Gaudet, accompanied by the band, gave an exhibition of fancy dances.

In the ball game the team of married men beat the nine of single fellows 6 to 5. A. L. Barr and George Carey were the battery for the winners and David Tirrell and John Mutty for the losers.

Veteran Soldiers Meet.

At its annual meeting in 1914 the Massachusetts Heavy Artillery Association elected David Dunbar of East Weymouth president, and chose Labor Day 1915 as the time for holding its 24th annual reunion, and Grand Army Hall, East Weymouth, as the place for the meeting.

The membership of this association is from all parts of the state and some of the veterans have in their old age found homes in other states, but strong ties bind them together and long distances were travelled by some of them, to look once more into the faces of those who stood shoulder to shoulder with them along the Baltimore and Alexander Turnpike manning the heavy guns which protected the National Capitol.

Of course a dinner is one feature of all such gatherings and at 12:30 President Dunbar formed his line and marched to the banquet room which was in charge of the Daughters of Veterans. Mrs. Mary Brassill was in charge and the menu was in quantity, quality, variety and service up to the high standard already established by the W. R. C., D. of V. and L. A. to S. of V.

After a season of general greetings and smoke talk President Dunbar called the members to order for the business of the day. First, however, he introduced Commander Culley of Post 58 G. A. R. who welcomed the members and guests to Weymouth.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer were of interest, there being a balance in the treasury. We say of interest, but there must of necessity have come in a tinge of sadness when the report cited the deaths of more than twenty of the members since a year ago. And there were also many letters from those at a distance and among those who reported by proxy was a report by Elery C. Croker, a native of Weymouth who brought greetings for the oldest member of the association, who is now 96 years old.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were: C. A. Chesley, President; W. L. Brown Vice-President; David A. Abbott, Secretary and Treasurer; S. A. Lawrence Assistant Secretary; and it was voted to hold the 1916 reunion at Revere Beach.

Old Colony Driving Club Matinee.

At the Fair Grounds in South Weymouth, there was a card of eleven horse races, a ball game and a concert of popular music to entertain the large crowd which assembled on the holiday.

J. O. Reay's Ruth D. furnished the sensation of the afternoon when she turned a half in 1:03 3-4, which came within a quarter of a second of the track pacing record and was the fastest time of the afternoon.

H. A. Baker just failed to defeat Anderson's Benjamin after driving Damon from behind in two spirited halves. Blue ribbon winners:—Ruth D., Higgins, Willie J., Tommy Wilkes, Patriot, Benjamin, Jack Bingen, Porter Oil Filter, Bessie Patchen, Jefferson McKerron and Harry F.

All Stars 9, White Sox 3.

Anyone who thinks that baseball spirit died in Weymouth when the Norfolk and Deweys passed away, should have witnessed the game which was pulled off at the Fair Grounds Monday, when the South Weymouth All Stars trounced the White Sox 9 to 3. There were quite a few frenzied fans, but they were all for one team, the All-Stars, and before the game, there was a little frenzied finance. "Sam" Langford pitched a great game for the winners, while the stick work of Ahlstedt was good. McCarthy on first and Ahlstedt behind the bat contributed the fielding features.

Clapp Wins.

At the Plymouth Cordage grounds Monday, Clapp Memorial won from the home team 4 to 3. The feature of the game was the home run of Silva. The line up: Clapp—Horgan, ss; Condrick, lf; Wall, c; Drinkwater, 2b; Sherman, p; DeYoung, 3b; Creswell, 1b; Drigoli, cf; Dvisch, rf; Plymouth—Marini, lf; Cole, 2b; Gray, 1b; Reinhart, rf; Donahue, lf; Stass, 3b; Silva, c; Sadon, ss; McGovern pitcher.

Runs made by Marini 2, Silva, Horgan, Condrick, Wall, Drinkwater. Two base hits by Marini, Silva. Three base hits by Cole. Home run, Silva. Stolen bases, McGovern, Cash. Umpire Wood.

Stolen Thunder.

"Stealing another man's thunder dates back to Queen Anne's time in England. John Dennis, a minor man of letters whom Pope satirized, wrote a tragedy entitled "Appius and Virginia." The piece is now recollectable only by the circumstance that the author invented some new thunder for the performance, and by his piteous complaint against the actors for afterward "stealing his thunder," an expression which became proverbial.

MALLEY-RYAN

St. Louis Girl, formerly of East Weymouth, Married in Immaculate Conception Church.

Miss Charlotte Agatha Ryan, daughter of Mrs. Alice Ryan of St. Louis, Missouri, for years a resident of East Weymouth, and Joseph Grover Malley, son of Mrs. Ellen Malley of Quincy, were married at 10:15 o'clock last Saturday morning in the Immaculate Conception Church, East Weymouth, by Rev. Cornelius I. Riordan.

The maid of honor was Miss Gertrude L. Moran of Center street, East Weymouth, a life-long friend of the bride, and Louis Smith of Quincy was best man. Miss Nellie F. Noonan played the organ.

The bride wore a blue traveling gown and a white satin hat.

Important Appointment.

Walter V. Reed of South Weymouth has been named student adviser to the Freshmen who are to enter the Massachusetts Institute of Technology this fall. The appointment of a group of these young men who are already familiar with the Institute and the city of Boston is in accordance with a plan that has been developed by the Technology Christian Association, which is a very active organization at the Institute. Each of the student advisers has a number of Freshmen under his care at the beginning of the year, and he will see that they are properly registered, suitable homes found for them and familiarity acquired as quickly as possible with the city in which they are to live for a few years.

Kink in Humanity.

"Humanity is hard to convince," said Uncle Eben. "You's never even satisfied dat you's done had a good time on a trip till you's had a photograph took so's you kin see foh yobself."

Less Than Human.

Tom, the country six-year-old, presenting himself one day in even more than his usual state of dust and disorder, was asked by his mother if he would not like to be a little city boy, and always be nice and clean in white suits and shoes and stockings. Tom answered scornfully: "They're not children; they're pets."—Harper's Monthly.

WEYMOUTH FAIR OPENS

51st Exhibition Attracts Large Crowd on Opening Day. Fine Program for Today and Tomorrow.

The fifty-first annual Weymouth Fair is on in full blast and with good weather conditions the attendance figures should be the largest in the history of the Weymouth Agricultural and Industrial Society.

The fair opened yesterday and a large crowd put in their appearance and remained until dark, to enjoy the fine program arranged.

The hall this year contains a little larger exhibit than in previous years and the poultry show under the grandstand is a decided feature.

Fakirs row is about the same size as last year, and all sorts of schemes to catch the dimes, are in evidence.

Yesterday the program included an exhibition of horses, colts etc., children's sports, stage show, baseball and matinee racing, with the Stetson Shoe band furnishing music.

Today the card calls for a grand auto and trades parade, horse racing in the 2:35 and 2:21 classes, motor cycle racing, 2 mile time trials and 10-mile open race baseball, Clapp Memorial vs Braintree White Sox and Martland's Military Band fresh from a summer's playing at Nantasket.

Tomorrow the committee has listed racing in the 2:28, 2:23 and 2:18 classes, motor cycle races, unlimited pursuit and 15 mile handicap races; baseball, Fore River vs Whitman A. A., for South Shore Championship and the grand drawing for the Ford automobile which is to be presented to the holder of the lucky ticket.

Next week's Gazette will contain a detailed account of the big fair. Be sure to get your Gazette next Friday.

Loses Bicycle at Nantasket.

Walter Sweet and Arthur Anderson went to Nantasket beach on their bicycles Sunday and leaving their cycles near the Nantasket hotel they proceeded to take in the sights. Toward night they thought they would return home and when they went to get their bicycles, Anderson's wheel was missing. The Hull and Metropolitan police were notified and the boys stayed around the beach until after midnight, but the police could get no tidings of the missing wheel so the boys started for home. They were to take turns riding Sweet's wheel but just after leaving the beach the wheel gave out and they had to walk the whole distance.

Stetson Shoe Company Flag Raising.
Before three hundred employees in the factory yard at Stetson's, yesterday afternoon, a musical program and flag raising were held.

After a few selections by the Stetson Shoe band, George White leader, A. C. Heald of the firm, introduced John W. Finn, head of the Stetson stores in New York. Mr. Finn described the part which a salesman does in carrying forward the Stetson business, and then presented an American flag and a Stetson Diamond flag in behalf of the salesman.

It was accepted by E. J. Gardner and given by him to the custodian, A. P. Poole.

At the unfurling of the banner above the factory, military bombs were exploded in salute and small flags thrown among the employees. Waldo Turner led a cheer and a Chatanqua salute to the flag and Miss Flora MacDonald sang "The Star Spangled Banner." Waldo Turner followed with a story of the war, "The Old Man and Jim." Miss MacDonald, Miss Drew, Frank Holbrook and Myron Ford, the Stetson quartet, then sang "Our Flag is There" and selections from the band completed the ceremonies. A banquet was held in the shipping room later for employees and guests.

Masonic Visitations.

R. W., Gardner R. P. Barker, District Deputy Grand Master of the 26th Masonic District has selected Wor. Charlie W. Dunbar as District Deputy Grand Marshal and the visitations for the year will be as follows:

Delta, Braintree, Walter J. Harrison, W. M., Tuesday, September 28.

Rural, Quincy, H. Everett Crane, W. M., Monday, October 11.

Norfolk Union, Randolph, Ernest S. Rogers, W. M., Wednesday, October 27, Wollaston, Wollaston, Carroll E. Bates, W. M., Tuesday, November 2.

Orphans Hope, East Weymouth, George F. Farrar, W. M., Friday, November 5.

The After Effect.

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have it delivered at your house with something new every week for a full year by sending $2.00 to this office now.

Don't put out an orchard and then allow the stock to browse the trees

Don't let the stock "fodder" themselves at the haystack or fodder pen.

Don't pound the cow with the milk stool, sit on it.

Keep the hens supplied with a dust bath, and a little insect powder mixed with the dust will have its good effect.

Select a good place and plant a few small fruit trees this month and next. Fruit is always a good thing to have for the family or market.

There are two crops which cannot as a rule be grown in the same parish, sheep and dogs. Sheep are most profitable but dogs are the favorite with too many farmers.

Autumn pruning strengthens growth and invigorates old trees, if properly done. Cut back decaying branches, thin out the others and the fruit will be much larger and of fine flavor. This is particularly true of peach trees.

Avoid frightening the birds. Know the best individuals and be constantly on lookout for sick or injured fowls. Take one or two good poultry papers and keep up to date. Improve the flock by rigid selection of males and females.

If there is no appearance of frost, corn should remain until it has become thoroughly glazed; but it is far better to cut it up, even while it is quite soft, than to have it struck with the frost; for by this means the fodder is saved, and perhaps a fair crop of corn.

Lawn clippings may be cured and stored away for winter feeding in the poultry yard. After it is thoroughly cured, pack in bags, barrels or boxes. In feeding it is made a part of a bran mash, scalding water bringing out all its greenness and natural flavor, which promote egg production in winter.

The apples that are to be kept over winter must be carefully picked from the trees by hand, as every apple that falls to the ground will be bruised and rendered unfit for the barrel, any injury hastening decay. Should decay begin with one apple, all the others in the barrel are liable to become diseased also. They must be stored in a cool place.

Many poultry raisers have blamed the incubator, the brooder, the hen, the express company, feeds and weather conditions, all of which are not perfect, and, in many cases, can be called to account for poor chicks. In the majority of cases, however, the breeding pen is the place to find the real fault.

When the germ of life dies, either in the incubator or under the hen, at all stages of incubation—providing the incubator is a first-class one, and the hen likewise, and that the machine has been properly run, the hen properly setting—then fertility is weak, and the fault, as is the case in many instances, with the breeding stock.

When properly handled there is no other kind of live stock which will return so large a profit to the successful producer as poultry, and no other kind of poultry is so profitable as turkeys. Turkeys pick up much of their food on the range from the time they are six weeks old until winter sets in and during this period are kept at little or no cost to the grower.

It is true there are large poultry farms that are yielding their owners large profits; but do not forget that when they took up poultry raising they did not commence in the business in nearly as large a manner as they now conduct it. They probably had one or two small houses, and a few choice fowls. They cared for them the best they knew how, and they gained knowledge of the wants and requirements of poultry from their own experience.

The farmer is a warrior and he is constantly engaged in warfare, for farming in a sense may be called a fight against weeds. Some farmers emerge from the struggle victorious, while others go down to defeat. So powerful are weed enemies in reducing crop yields, while at the same time multiplying labor, that the farmer should at every turn strengthen his position against them. He should bear these invaders in mind in planning the crops he will grow and in deciding on the fields where he will grow crops, in choosing the implements he will use, in buying his seed, and in many other farm activities.

Ominous.
"What did the chief of the cannibal tribe say when the pretty girl missionaries were brought into his presence?" "Smacked his lips and said: 'Some chickens.'"—Baltimore American.

Following Are a Few of the Items Which Appeared in the Gazette Years Ago This Week.

Forty-seven years ago. A mass meeting of the Republicans of East Weymouth will be held at Shaw's Corner, Middle and Broad streets, Saturday evening, when the large flag will be suspended across Broad street, from Shaw's store to Rogers' factory. Speeches will be made by Col. J. L. Bates, Elias Beals, Esq. and others. The Weymouth band will furnish music.

Post 40, G. A. R. of North Weymouth has been in camp at Nantasket the past week. Their valiant charges on the dens of the water and the sand and bloodless victories over clam chowders and fish fries have gained for the members a rotundity of physique quite aldermanic.

Thirty-seven years ago. The Conqueror Engine Co. held a meeting last Wednesday evening, and voted to attend the Fireman's Muster at Fall River, next Thursday.

The Gen. Bates engine boys, learning that the companies must play through 250 feet of hose at the Weymouth muster, are practicing through that length, and have thrown a stream of 208 ft. 2 inches.

The Active Engine played a stream of 190 feet last Tuesday evening, through 250 feet of hose. At a meeting of the Company on Tuesday evening, it was voted to attend the Fireman's Muster at Fall River.

The Gen. Putnam Engine Co. had one of Mr. Button's men out here last week, to look at the Engine, and found one of plungers in very bad order, which he repaired, and it works now in a most satisfactory manner.

We understand that the Rocket will be drawn to the muster at South Weymouth by four oxen of the W. I. Co. The Hayseeds will practice on Saturday evening, and as they have got a full company of strong, hardy men, they are well able to pool their issues.

Seventeen years ago. Officer Oliver Houghton has been distributing the tax bills this week. The rate is $18.70 on a thousand.

Mr. Easton's collection of geological specimens which he so generously contributed to the town has been put in place at the High school and it is well worth the trip to the school to see it.

The Fogg Public Library building will be dedicated September 14th, 1898. The Library will be open during the day for the inspection of visitors and the dedication exercises will be held in Fogg's Opera House in the evening, beginning at 7.45.

The new High School building is now open and the pupils are beginning to appreciate the difference between the old and the new. The school is unusually large, there being 36 in the senior, 62 in the junior, 77 in the sophomore, and 95 in the freshman class, making a total of 270.

Enjoy the holiday?

Atyway, the pesky mosquitoes are gone.

It is time now to get ready to form the church habit.

This summer's drowning accidents must be nearly over. Now for the football fatalities.

It is said that the American theatre is run for women but at that it is a safe bet that more than half the tickets are paid for by men.

All sympathy is felt for the terrible accident at Glen Falls, N. Y., where a train killed a car full of people—but why should anyone think so little of their life as to trust it with a deaf man as chauffeur?

The Cobb County grand jury of Georgia said: "We have done our best," after it announced that it had insufficient evidence to bring about any indictments. From all reports their "best" was decidedly poor.

A Ford Motor official is said to have stated that the daily output next year could be increased from the 2500 of this year to a full 4000. It has been suggested that the cars be painted yellow so that they may be sold in bunches like bananas.

The labor expended this spring by the firemen on the plot of land in front of the engine-house in ward two seems to have gone for naught. A fine lawn and a little flower bed was started, but there is a fine path across one plot of grass now, and there will be a crop of good hay soon. What's the matter, boys, haven't you any pride in your house and surroundings? Combination 2 deserves a decent looking home and it wouldn't take a great deal of time either.

It is a fact that Judge Knowles was shot from ambush, near his summer home, and it is said that he had feared just such an attack. From this must we accept the conclusion that if a man incurs the enmity of the lawless, he places himself utterly at their mercy? Our country boasts freely of its law, and the substitution of that force for the primitive methods of defense and personal safety of a former generation. Yet there are places, even in thickly populated Massachusetts, where each man is, under provocation of events, the law for himself, and must watch out himself to save his own property or life.

Chief Washington I. James of our neighboring town of Hingham has again covered himself with glory in the performance of his duties. The town of Hingham is to be congratulated upon having such an efficient and relentless officer to maintain peace in the town on our border. Battered by auto bandits, Chief James paid no attention to his own injuries, which would have stopped any ordinary man, but immediately gave chase and shot one of the desperate young men dead when he refused to give himself up. We voice the sentiment of the people throughout this section who have heard of his valiant deeds, when we sincerely hope for a speedy recovery from his serious injuries sustained while on duty.

A New York police court judge fined a woman for reckless driving then remarked: "In my opinion, no woman should be allowed to operate an automobile. In the first place she hasn't the strength, and, in the second place, she is very apt to lose her head." It seems that the judge must have lost his head when making that remark. A woman can get down on her knees and wipe up the floor and stairways of the judge's office building; a woman can bend over a wash tub or ironing board all day; a woman can bear and rear a family of children; make mend, cook and housekeep year after year, yet she isn't strong enough to run an auto. That judge ought to be compelled to take a woman's place for awhile. Sex prejudice that makes the possession of enough strength to run an automobile

Kelley Out For Senator.

The senatorial campaign in this district is now on and William P. Kelley of East Braintree, is in line for this office of the people. Mr. Kelley does not believe that the senator now in office from Quincy should be given a third term, as it will establish a precedent unfavorable to candidates from small towns in this district. With a square honest record as an able lawyer in Braintree, Quincy and Boston behind him, and his reputation as a sterling citizen and a brilliant business man, Mr. Kelley's friends say he merits the office for which he is now running, and there is no reason, in their estimation, why he should not be victorious at the polls.

depend on whether the individual wears a petticoat or trousers, indicates a mind almost too narrow to offer any surface for attack. It is not the race or sex that counts but the individual.

Every effort possible is being made by the Secretary of State to reduce the wasted ballots at the primary election, or rather nominations, to the lowest possible limit, but it is expected to be large.

Town and city clerks have been instructed to make returns to the Secretary's office of the number of ballots made void by erroneous marking.

"The law provides," says a statement from the Secretary's office, "that if a voter marks his ballot for candidates of more than one political party, the ballot shall be set aside and not counted."

"On the day of the primary, on opening the ballot, the voter will be confronted with three distinct ballots, Republican, Progressive and Democratic. The voter may mark only under one head. Should he make a single mark on more than one party ballot, the entire ballot will be thrown out and not counted. It is believed that a very large number of voters will lose their votes in this way.

"The voters are warned to be careful in folding their ballots after marking, they being so large that, wrongly folded, they will not go into the ballot box."

World's Important Rivers.

The chief western streams are the Columbia, Tagus, Garonne, Loire and Neva. The rivers running south, as the Mississippi, La Plata, Rhone, Volga and Indus, are more important, as well as those which proceed to the north, as the Rhine, Vistula, Nile, Irish, Lena and Tennessee.

They Always Do.

"Does anyone think your son has a future?" "Yes; the life insurance companies."—Life.

"Golden Number."

The "Golden Number," held of so high importance by scientists and soothsayers of olden times, dates back to Meton, an Athenian astrologer, about 430 years B. C. To find the golden number, add one to the date and divide by 19, the number of years in the moon's cycle. The quotient is the number of cycles since the Christian era and the remainder is the golden number.

Not Just What He Meant.

The possessor of unflinching tact is a fortunate being. Sometimes even a person of great experience will, however, in distress, say the wrong thing. A certain clergyman was officiating at a funeral of a wealthy parishioner. He was particularly anxious to show his good feeling and sympathy; so at a critical moment during the funeral services, he turned to the congregation and said: "Dearly beloved, may a time I have dandied this corpse upon my knee."

ACCIDENTS OF FORTUNE.

Incidents That Led to the Rise of Two Famous Dramatic Stars.

More than 200 years ago a dramatist, sitting in the bar of a London tavern, overheard a girl in the next room reading aloud from a play book, and he was so much pleased by the sound of her voice and the fluency and sprightliness of her delivery that he sought acquaintance with her, obtained her confidence and opened for her the way to a successful dramatic career. That girl, a dramatic genius thus accidentally discovered, was Anne Oldfield, who adorned the English stage for twenty-five years, whose ashes rest in the cloister of Westminster abbey and whose name is one of historic renown.

A theatrical manager in Cincinnati in the seventies, having planned to produce a popular comic opera with a chorus composed of pupils from the public schools, selected Sarah Frost, then a girl about twelve, perceived her theatrical aptitude and provided the opportunity for its development. The manager was Robert E. J. Miles, and under his direction she made her first appearance on the stage and passed her juvenile novitiate.

Her stage name at first was Fanny Brough. Later she adopted that of Julia Marlowe.—William Winter in Century Magazine.

BENEFITS FROM BOOKS.

Traveling Along the Roads That Lead Us Into Other Worlds.

The benefit of literature can hardly be overestimated. Books enlarge a man's horizon. They raise a shrug of water brooks and date palm to travelers in the desert. They are "the sick man's health, the prisoner's release." Shut within a narrow routine of dull necessity, sad at heart in a world where wrong triumphs, where beauty has no assurance of respect, where humanity toils terribly merely for its daily bread or the satisfaction of trivial appetites, the earthly pilgrim need do no more than pick up a book and, lo, he steps into another world.

Here he is free from sorrow and care, free from the burden of his body, from envy, jealousy, contempt, self-satisfaction, from vain regrets, from wishes that can never wear the livery of hope, from narrowness of soul and hardness of heart.

He may mingle in the society of the good and great; he may listen to the wise man and the prophet; he may see all the conditions of human happiness and misery; he may watch the human spirit in its strife with circumstances nobly conquer or basely succumb; he may go down through the "gate of a hundred sorrows" or accompany Dante and Beatrice through the spheres of paradise.—Atlantic Monthly.

Idea Comparatively Old.

That a patent for a screw-propelled steam vessel had been issued as far back as 1803 recently was discovered in the French patent office.

Mr. Peeter Explains.

"When I am downtown and see a presumably intelligent young woman making a fool of herself over a measly runt of a dog, I fret and fume all the way home," said P. G. Peeter. "Then I look in the mirror and think that, after all, she might have done worse!"—Kansas City Star.

 To the Honorable Board of Selectmen of the Town of Weymouth:—
 Respectfully represents the Bay State Street Railway Company, that it owns and operates street railway tracks in the town of Weymouth, and that public necessity and convenience require a certain alteration of location and relocation thereof.
 Wherefore, your petitioner, as such Street Railway Company, prays for an alteration of location and relocation of its track in Pleasant Street, from a point near house No. 726 to house No. 754 in said Weymouth, together with such switches, curves and cross connections as may be necessary or convenient for the operation of the cars of said Company, and to make all necessary changes in existing poles, wires and other appliances connected therewith, all substantially as shown on plans filed with this petition and that it be granted the right to operate said track with electricity as the motive power.

Boom the Weymouth Fair.
 Well, we had a good Labor Day, anyway.

Don't forget you youngsters, school opens next Monday.

Weymouth Fair today and tomorrow!
 Get your ticket and win that auto.

Charlie Pratt, Billy Green and Doctor
 Whalen, all helped to put Weymouth grit and nerve on the map, last Friday. However I'll wager the doctor would have rather made a flying tackle on one of the bandits, the kind he used to make in his college days. Seven shooters are not just in the genial Doc's line.

Get your summer home closed up preperly last Monday, or are you going to take a chance on having some good beach weather this month?

The Fort Point A. A. had a gala day last Monday. The all day program went off without a hitch.

Just a few autos down on the state road to the South Shore last Sunday and Monday. Only a few minor mishaps occurred too, which is very good, considering the large number of autos that passed through the town.

The Old Colony Driving club held a grand matinee at the fair grounds last Monday. Good weather, a large crowd and a fine track made the card particularly attractive.

Speaking of racing, the cards today and tomorrow at the Fair are worthy of your attention. The racing this year is among the best ever listed.

I had a fine, long letter the first of the week from my friend, J. E. (Doc) Fabyan formerly physical director at the C. M. A.
 in East Weymouth. Doc is now secretary and physical director of the Rumford Mechanics Institute in Rumford, Maine, and from reports from that hustling city,
 "J. E." is making good in his new position. He informed me that he had seen several of his local friends in his new home. Basil Warren and his father have been down to see Doc, Leo "Dad" O'Dowd and Lou Callahan have been in Rumford playing ball and "Toby" Fraher now with Lewiston gets over to see Doc quite often. Leo Fraher is to be Mr.
 Fabyan's assistant the coming year, until the baseball season opens up next spring.

Not Paint

With linseed oil at 50c to $1, what sort of oil do you think they use in "paint" at $1.50 and $1.25?

That stuff is counterfeit paint. You can cheat yourself; you can't cheat Time or Weather.

Paint is a rubbery coat over wood and iron to keep-out water.
 Counterfeit paint may look like it;
 counterfeit money looks like money.

What are all counterfeits for? They are all alike.

Carter—Waterman.

Many East Weymouth friends of Louis
 Haywood Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs.
 Eugene M. Carter of Middle street, attended the wedding ceremony of Mr.
 Carter to Charlotte Jane Waterman of 56
 Professors Row, Somerville, last Friday evening.

There was a double ceremony performed, as Grace Carpenter Waterman, another daughter of Mrs. Waterman, became the bride of Collin Armstrong, 2d.
 The ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock, by Ex-president Dr. Hamilton of Tufts college and took place in Goddard chapel, Tufts college.

Arthur J. Anderson of Waltham was best man and Mrs. Helen Martin Olsen of Somerville maid of honor.

Mr. Carter graduated from Weymouth
 High in 1908, and both Mr. and Mrs. Carter were graduates in the 1912 class at Tufts college. After a year teaching in the Weymouth High school, Mr. Carter accepted a position with the American Agricultural Chemical Company, and is employed by that concern at the present time.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, and they left for a wedding trip through the White Mountains.
 They are expected back in Weymouth about the middle of this month.

FAMOUS BUSINESS SCHOOL

Opened September 7

With the largest enrollment in its history, the Bryant & Stratton Commercial School began its year's work Tuesday, September 7. The success of this school, which is one of the best known in the United States, is a striking testimony to the value of efficient methods in business education. In the first place, the school building is especially adapted to its needs.
 In fact it was constructed especially for the school with every needed facility, excellent light from high, wide windows and plenty of fresh air. It is located in the most convenient section of the city, between Arlington, Boylston and Providence Streets.

The Bryant & Stratton teaching plan is the individual system, based on the particular requirements of each pupil.
 Actual practice is combined with study.
 The different courses fit students not only for general business but for secretarial and stenographic positions, civil service examinations, accounting, auditing and teaching of commercial branches in high schools. Graduates from this school are always in demand in the business world.
 The Bryant & Stratton School has day sessions only, from 9 to 2, with no classes on Saturdays or evenings. A tribute to the high standing of the school is the fact that all patronage comes unsolicited—no canvassing or other methods—in common practice by business "colleges"—being used to obtain pupils.

A DREAM THAT CAME TRUE
 How the House Where Nobody Lived Found an Owner.
 By AGNES G. BROGAN

She came upon the house during one of her solitary walks. So unexpectedly did she find it at a sudden bend of the road that the girl gave a gasp of surprise.

The little house cuddled against a low bending hill, as though seeking protection, while its bright red roof gleamed cautiously through the evergreens. It was the undisturbed snow of each pathway which told Nan that it was a "house where nobody lived"—or had lived—through the dreary winter. Here in this shaded spot the snow seemed to have determined not to give place to the violets, for spring breathed everywhere.

Curiously Nan explored the untrodden paths, as white and crusty, bearing marks of no footfall, the snow lay at each doorway. With precise regularity curtains were drawn across wide, shining windows. The house was empty. In a spirit of sudden longing Nancy Bell sank down upon the door stone, her stocking capped head resting against a white pillar.

"Oh, little home," she breathed wistfully, "how I wish that you were mine!" For Nancy Bell in all the days of her girlhood had never known a home. Far back among the memories of years was a cherished picture of a tangled home garden where the childish Nan had walked with her gentle mother. But that picture faded so quickly—Nan seated stiffly before a desk in a graded boarding school, while the dormitory bedroom of the girls' seminary became the only home which Nan had known.

Her education finished, it had been necessary to continue within the gray walls as French teacher. But after a year's conscientious work the French verbs began to twist themselves perplexedly about in the French teacher's brain, and she hid her away to the country.

It had been an alluring advertisement to "companion an old lady" which had led the girl to this isolated village, where upon acquaintance the old lady proved to be not as alluring as her advertisement. Still, one might endure endless hours of reading aloud when one might enjoy undisturbed two afternoon hours of each day, golden hours in which to tramp about unconfined, to dream of the good things the future would bring, for surely in the justice of things Nan's future must be bright to compensate for the loss of all that had gone before.

Seated upon her bed in the dormitory room the girl had dreamed upon many a moonlit night of the home that would be hers—when that home should come. And so exactly was her vision realized in the little house around the corner of the world that Nan had gasped in surprise. How could the inmates have so suddenly closed the hospitable doors and gone away? Why, if the home were hers she would have been watching this minute for the crocuses poking their heads above ground, and when summer time came she would swing her hammock out there beneath the trees. Then Nan caught her breath at a wildly daring thought. Why not—why not indulge in the old childish game of "pretend"? Why might a little house not be for a time at least, in fancy, her own?

For two hours of each day she might care for the flowers so heartlessly deserted—might read or play or sing in the garden. Slugging about a young ladies' seminary is unbecoming of a French teacher, "levity" an undesirable trait in a companion. Nancy Bell felt that her youth was slowly congealed. Here, in this hidden garden, she might be as young and as gay and as free as she chose. The girl jumped to her feet and went running up the hill.

"Who," she asked of an astonished old lady, "who owns the bungalow on the hill, the house where nobody lives?"

"Reckon you mean Dobbs' place," the old lady replied. "Miss Dobbs goes south every winter."

"And she's coming back?" The girl's voice fell despondently. But the old lady shook her head. "Not this summer," she said.

So the crocuses thrived in their new tender care, and the violets burst into bloom. Slugging merrily, Nan climbed high to fasten the vines to their trellises, and before the apple trees had quite decided to bloom her hammock hung in their shade.

"Oh, the glory of it!" she murmured luxuriously, arms folded beneath her head while the spring sunshine brought roses of their own to bloom in her cheeks.

"It is my own home," she insisted. But the two hours had flown, and, tossing her hammock into a convenient porch corner, the girl started up the path. At the gateway a great dog came to meet her.

"Wherever did you come from?" she cried. In friendly fashion the dog trotted on at her side, standing still to follow her with his eyes as she went up the hill. Thereafter he waited each day, seeming instinctively to know the time of her coming.

Friend she named him and allowed him to enter at will her cherished garden. Devotedly Friend rested during the two hours of her stay beneath the swaying hammock and carried in his great jaws flowers with which Nan decorated the old lady's rooms.

For so real had the game of pretend become that the flowers were Nan's very own flowers, grown in her own home garden. One afternoon, mingling with the falling apple blossoms, came a sudden, drenching shower. Breathlessly the girl scampered, followed by the dog to the shelter of the porch. Idly her hand rested upon the door-knob. "If," she murmured faintly, "the house were a real pretend house, presto, the door would fly open at my touch." And, presto, that is exactly what the door did.

Even as Nan stood for one astounded moment gazing at the shining knob she understood. It was one of a kind which locks itself with forcible closing, and when Miss Dobbs had left regretfully, as she must, she had no doubt drawn the door too softly behind her. But now, now that one was so close to one's dream would it be wrong to step inside, just to see for a moment if the fireplace was where the fireplace should be, if there was a piano with two tall candles upon it? With easy assurance Friend settled the question, vaguely inviting her to follow. Yes, there was the fireplace, the very logs near for the burning, and over there, as it should be, in the light of the window stood the grand piano. But dust lay shockingly everywhere, and Nan, recklessly taking the scuff from her shoulders, went to work to remove it. The call of those gleaming keys was too great to be resisted, so she seated herself before the piano, and through the room echoed a song of home. When she raised her eyes, tear blinded, a man stood looking down upon her, a man whose brown eyes shone with a strangely sweet and steady light. Meeting that questioning gaze, Nan tried to speak, tried to arise, and failed.

In embarrassed silence she reached for the dog's protecting head—Friend had joyously gone over to the enemy.

"I beg your pardon," said the young man, and Nan now realized that he had twice begged her pardon. "I had no idea that the house was occupied. It was your song which brought me downstairs."

"But how," wildly asked Nan, "did you get in?"

The man calmly exhibited a string of keys. "The agent in the city gave me these," he explained. "The house being offered to rent furnished, I wished to look it over." He paused. "The agent assured me," he finished meaningly, "that the house was unoccupied."

Nan studied her boot. How explain her childish foolishness to a stranger—a frank faced manly stranger—with a disapproving chin? No, it was not to be thought of. Flight was—upon Nan's part—the only course to pursue. When she could hide her shamed, humiliated face in that bare room upon the hill, house owners and house renters might search for her in vain.

"The house is unoccupied," she murmured confusedly. "I—I was only dusting." The man nodded in quick understanding.

"Oh, I see," he said. "You are a friend, perhaps, of the owner. I have watched you at work in the garden." "Watched me?" Her tone was horrified. The man laughed. "Why, yes," he confessed. "I've been stopping here in the house, with meals at the hotel for a couple of weeks."

who sought her out in her gloomy meditation, and she looked up to find Friend's master again regarding her with gravely searching eyes.

"We've had a time of it finding you," he said boyishly. "We want to ask a favor. Since renting the house I find that I must for a time return to the city. Won't you please go on caring for the flowers? You were good enough to do it before, though I'm sure I don't know why."

Then Nancy Bell took him, sparing herself no humiliation. She went back in self contempt to her empty dreams of the dormitory room, farther back to the childish dream of a tangled garden, and as the man listened his eyes grew more kindly, his firm mouth softened into tenderness.

"We all have our dreams," he said gently. "You will come?" So she went back again to her beloved tasks. But the charm of "pretend" had flown. She wondered, bending over the poppy beds, if the wife he would bring from the city would care for the poppies next year when she, Nancy Bell, was

"IT SHALL BE," SHE SAID SOFTLY, struggling with the French verbs. And so real in her thought had the wife become that Nan's eyes widened in surprise when the man again stood before her.

"Alone?" she exclaimed.

"Why, yes," said the man. "I am a 'lonely' book writing person. Whom did you expect to see with me?"

"Your wife," Nan replied and then laughed. "I've been bestowing an imaginary wife upon you," she told him. "Seriously the man's eyes met hers. 'Another dream?' he questioned, then suddenly he bent toward her. 'Al-ways,' he said rapidly, 'I've had a cherished dream of my wife who was to be, conscious that somewhere in this world she, too, waited, and then one glorious, all fulfilling day I saw her, recognized her as my own as truly as you, little Nan, had realized the vision of your home.' Tensely he bent to ward her. 'Dear girl,' he said, 'it was you whom I loved, you whom I found here in the garden. Oh, won't you make my dream come true?'"

Silence deep eloquently lingered over the flowers in a sort of solemn wonder. Nan placed her hands in his, then, smiling, she looked back at the little white house. "It shall be," she said softly, "no longer the house where nobody lives, but the 'home of dreams come true.'"

A Soldier Who Feared Reptiles.
 Lord Wolseley, familiar with the carnage of the battlefield, was yet so sensitive that he could not pass a butcher's shop without horror, and in his "Story of a Soldier's Life," in which he confesses the weakness, he also relates an occasion when he bent an undignified retreat owing to a loathing horror of reptiles which he could never overcome.

He was refreshing himself after a dusty march in India by bathing in one of the shady "tanks" provided by the charitable for the wayfarer when a yellow snake put his head up over the surface of the water close to his face and shook his tongue. He knew the snake to be harmless, but his terror was so great that he struck out for the side of the tank as though "pursued by a whole zoological garden full of hostile and man devouring beasts and reptiles." To the end of his life he never overcame this horror of reptiles and would, he recorded, "fly even from the harmless toad."

Still Available.
 "Ah, Miss Joise," said the caller, "I remember meeting you when you were six years old. That was twelve years ago, and I was a young man of twenty-one and a candidate for office. Yes, I remember the incident well, for I kissed you, and your papa voted for me."

She Knew Him.
 Mrs. Goodoldson was waiting tea for her husband, who was expected home from the city every minute. Suddenly out in the road a donkey brayed. The dear old lady, who was a little deaf, beamed.

A MAN STOOD LOOKING DOWN UPON HER.

would be hers—when that home should come. And so exactly was her vision realized in the little house around the corner of the world that Nan had gasped in surprise. How could the inmates have so suddenly closed the hospitable doors and gone away? Why, if the home were hers she would have been watching this minute for the crocuses poking their heads above ground, and when summer time came she would swing her hammock out there beneath the trees. Then Nan caught her breath at a wildly daring thought. Why not—why not indulge in the old childish game of "pretend"? Why might a little house not be for a time at least, in fancy, her own?

For two hours of each day she might care for the flowers so heartlessly deserted—might read or play or sing in the garden. Slugging about a young ladies' seminary is unbecoming of a French teacher, "levity" an undesirable trait in a companion. Nancy Bell felt that her youth was slowly congealed. Here, in this hidden garden, she might be as young and as gay and as free as she chose. The girl jumped to her feet and went running up the hill.

PRICE FIVE CENTS

BAY STATE R. R. ASKS SIX CENT FARE.

Petition and Changes Desired Filed at Public Service Commission's Office. Dates for Hearing Not Set Yet. Changes Affecting Weymouth Given Below With Petition.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts, To the Honorable, The Public Service Commission:

The Bay State Street Railway pursuant to the provisions of section 20, of chapter 784 of the acts of 1913, hereby gives notice that it proposes to make certain changes in fares and fare limits, and in transfer privileges upon its railway, which, subject to such action as may be taken by your Honorable Commission, are to go into effect on the first day of November 1915.

The changes proposed cover a general increase from five to six cents the single cash fare over all lines; the sale for fifty cents of nine tickets which shall be receivable for fare in Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Salem, Lynn, Saugus, Revere, Chelsea, Malden, Everett, Melrose, Swampscott, Boston, Quincy, Brockton and Fall River; the modification of certain existing and introduction of certain new fare zones; the modification of transfer privileges; and the withdrawal of reduced fare tickets other than those to be received from transportation of school children; all as appears in the schedule hereto annexed and made part of this notice.

Bay State Street Railway Company, by P. F. Sullivan, President.

Boston, September 2, 1915, Filed September 7, 1915.

The above petition is accompanied by a long document giving the changes proposed on the different divisions on each and every route. All the divisions are subject to considerable changes and we present for the townspeople's perusal, the changes that will affect Weymouth and its people, if all the proposed changes are granted. The changes:

General Changes.

Five cent cash fare raised to six cents over entire system.

Sale of nine tickets for fifty cents, good any place in Quincy town limits. Withdrawal of all the various reduced rate tickets, with the exception of the school children tickets, on all lines extending beyond the Quincy town limits.

On East Weymouth and Braintree Route.

Transfer privileges at Braintree depot changed from Braintree and Holbrook line and Braintree and Randolph line to South Braintree Square. Transfer privileges at Lincoln Square changed from Weymouth-Rockland line and Weymouth and Braintree line and Jackson Square, to Columbian Square to local passengers.

Transfer privileges at Central Square East Weymouth to and from North Weymouth Post Office at Thomas' Corner instead of New Downer Landing and Back River bridge, also Fort Point, to Weymouth and Braintree line, to transfer and local passengers.

Transfer privileges at Jackson Square on this route, now to and from South Weymouth depot and the Hingham Weymouth line to the Weymouth-Braintree line, are limited to Lovell's Corner, to transfer and local passengers.

East Weymouth and South Weymouth Depot Route.

Transfer privileges at Jackson Square to and from Weymouth Center and Weymouth-Hingham line, instead of Fort Point, New Downer Landing, Back River Bridge and Weymouth-Braintree line to South Weymouth depot, to local passengers.

Transfer privileges from North Weymouth Post office and Weymouth-Braintree line to Lovell's Corner, to local passengers.

Transfer privileges at Columbian Square on this line to and from Nash's Corner, Weymouth-Rockland line instead of to Weymouth-Braintree line to Weymouth Center instead of Jackson Square, to local passengers.

Transfer privileges at Jackson Square to and from Columbian Square South Weymouth depot, Weymouth-Braintree line, instead of Weymouth-Rockland line, Front Street Weymouth line, New Downer Landing, Fort Point, Back River bridge to the Weymouth-Hingham line, to transfer and local passengers.

Transfer privileges at Hingham square on the above line are withdrawn from Queen Anne's Corner, Crow Point, Back River bridge and Hingham-Hull line, to the Hingham-Weymouth line, to transfer and local passengers.

FORT POINT ROUTE.

Transfer privileges at Thomas' Corner to and from Weymouth Center, instead of Weymouth-Braintree line; Weymouth-Rockland line, Weymouth-Hingham line and South Weymouth depot to Fort Point, to transfer and local passengers.

Transfer privileges to and from South Weymouth Depot to the Weymouth-Rockland line instead of to Rockland depot, to local passengers.

South Braintree and Randolph Route.

Only one case of affecting Weymouthites is voted on this line. Transfer privileges are withdrawn from Braintree-Weymouth line and Newcomb Square to Braintree-Randolph line, to transfer and local passengers.

Changes in Fare Collection Points.

The following few changes in fare collection points are noted in petition filed: On the East Weymouth to Quincy route there is an additional fare collection point added at Thomas' Corner, making two zones between Quincy and Jackson Square. On Rockland-Braintree route a new fare collection point is established at Nash's Corner and at the Rockland-Weymouth line.

A six cent fare will prevail on all lines instead of five cents. The through fare between Braintree Depot and Nash's Corner is raised to six cents; Braintree depot and Columbian Square to 8 cents; Braintree depot and Rockland-Weymouth line from 10 to 12 cents; Braintree depot

SCHOOL OPENS IN TOWN

Over 2,600 Pupils Enrolled for 1915-1916. New Teachers in Some Buildings. High School Has Total of 358.

School opened full blast in town last Monday and at present the enrollment all over town is well over 2,600 with a few more scholars expected to enter during the next few days.

At the High School, two new teachers are listed. Fred A. Bartlett takes Mr. Whittemore's place and Miss Bertha Cunningham is succeeded by Miss Grace Woodward. There are 358 pupils enrolled this year at Weymouth's highest institute of learning.

At the Jefferson there are no new teachers. The total enrollment is 148. At the James Humphrey in East Weymouth Miss Alice Bentley takes Miss Gertrude Moran's place and Mr. Crowell announces that he has 300 scholars in his building. At the Franklin Miss Gertrude Reid is a new comer among the teachers. The total at this school is listed at 106. At the Washington School there are 218 youngsters to look after.

In Ward 3 at the Tufts building there are 170 pupils and Miss Dorothy S. Harnden is the new teacher.

At the Hunt, Anna Lowe is the new member of the teaching force and the number enrolled 222.

At the Lincoln there are 64 pupils, with the teaching staff the same as in other years.

In Ward 1 at the Adams School there are 22 pupils, at the Athens 402 and one new teacher, Miss Ethel M. Hiatt.

In Wards 4 and 5 there are 130 pupils at the Pratt building; 144 at the Bates, with Miss Elizabeth L. Halloran added to the teaching force, 91 at the Shaw, with Miss Margaret Pettigell as a new instructor and 30 at the Hollis and 29 at the Pond building. Miss Alice Pratt is a new member of the faculty at the Pond and Miss Louise U'ardel at the Hollis.

From all indications Superintendent P. T. Pearson and his corps of assistants should have a very successful regime during the school terms of 1915 and 16.

ARE POLICEMEN LABORERS?

Arbitration Committee Have a Hearing and Render Decision.

Chief Patrick Butler was killed in May last while in the line of duty near his home on Pleasant street.

The workmen's compensation act provides for compensation to laborers, workmen and mechanics, or in case of death, to their families, should they receive injuries or suffer death while in public employ. After Chief Butler's death his family entered a plea before the state industrial accident board asking for compensation under the terms of this act. The sole point in dispute was whether Butler could be classed as a "laborer."

The town took the ground that a policeman can not be classed as a laborer, workman or mechanic and the accident board was unable to render a decision, hence a board of arbitration was appointed. Otis B. Torrey, representing the town; William Fitzsimmons, the Butler family; and Joseph Parks, a member of the state industrial board.

The board of arbitration gave a hearing on the case at the selectmen's room Wednesday. Carmine Garofalo appeared as counsel for the Butler family and A. P. Worthen for the town. Mr. Garofalo had as witnesses Chief A. H. Pratt, ex-Chief Thomas Fitzgerald and patrolmen Schofield and Butler, the latter a son of the dead chief, whose dying statement was also put in as evidence.

Mr. Garofalo argued that a policeman could not do his duty without laboring and Mr. Worthen that the law was not explicit enough to fit the case in question.

The board of arbitration, after considering the case, announced that it had reached a decision unanimously in favor of the Butler family, and the case will now probably go to the supreme court for a classification of policemen as to their relation to the employers' liability law.

G. A. R. Notes.

The 30th Regiment Association, M. V. I. is holding its 50th annual reunion in the Fort building, Boston, today. Waldo Turner of the local post is secretary-treasurer of the association.

Congressman Richard Olney, 2d, has extended Post 58 an invitation to make his office in Washington its headquarters during the Grand Army encampment the last of this month.

to Rockland depot, 10 to 18 cents; Nash's Corner to Weymouth-Rockland line 5 to 6 cents; Nash's Corner to Rockland depot, 10 to 12 cents; Columbian Square to Rockland Depot 5 to 8 cents and local fare between Weymouth limits 5 to 8 cents.

51st WEYMOUTH FAIR

Large Crowd Swepters in Extreme Heat. Attractive Program on all Three Days.

With three perfect days as far as the weatherman was concerned, with extra large crowds and a fine list of events, the fifty-first annual fair of the Weymouth Agricultural and Industrial society came to a close last Saturday night, and this year's exhibition will go down in the history of the society as one of the most successful ever held.

The widely advertised and long worked event opened on Thursday, with grand weather and every condition ideal for the start of the fifty-first annual.

The first event of interest was the exhibition on the track in front of the grandstand of horses, colts and ponies for prizes of blue, red and white ribbons. The results follow:

Gentlemen's Driving Horses—Won by Willie J. chg. John Dwyer; Warren H., bg. W. H. Foss, second; Queen, MacGregor, bm. Joseph Frank, third.

At two-thirty the automobile parade was held with twenty odd autos, some decorated profusely, in line. The line was led by Mrs. Gertrude Crocker and Mrs. Joseph Burdett on a beautifully decorated motorcycle. Next came the Chiefs of the local fire department, Messrs. Pratt, Dowd, Hunt, Bicknell and Nadell. They were followed by Combination 5, with Ralph Bacon at the wheel and a crew consisting of several members of the Ward 5 company. Next came the Combination 2 boys with Harold Hawes as pilot and the following members aboard: George Hunt, Jos. Sherman, Everett Richards and John C. Hunt. Number 5 in line was Combination 1 with Charlie Marr as driver. He had with him as a crew: Stanley Cushing, Roy Cushing, John Nelson, William Macomber, William Woodworth, Hiram Nadell, Herman Colyer, Frank Miller, Chester Keene, Harold Pratt and A. Smith. Next in line was the "Ever-ready" Combination 3 with the following aboard: Joseph Sewell, Russell Deheimer, who also drove the little machine, Arthur Lohnes, Edwin Hoffes, Clement Bates and W. S. Our.

Next came seven G. A. R. veterans in Charles Hollis' machine with Otis Hollis at the wheel. The veterans were James Pease, Oliver Houghton, C. H. Burrell, J. J. Higgins, David Dunbar and Addison Belcher. The vets were cheered to the echo when they passed the judges' stand.

The Womans Relief Corps followed the veterans. The members in the auto which was driven by Lloyd Morse, were Mrs. Ida Keene, Mrs. Mary Mahoney, Mrs. Junie Morrill, Mrs. Margaret Culley, Mrs. Stella Richards and Mrs. Charlotte B. Stoddard.

The auto float of the Weymouth Campfire girls was next. The float was decorated to represent an Indian camp and all girls were in costume. The members who occupied places in the float were: Agnes Spillane, Hazel Hollis, Diantha Killman, Gladys Vining, Helen Pray, Mabel McGibbon, Helen Bates, Lillian Gross, Olive Gernym and Miss Crane.

The Bates Opera House auto was next with Louis F. Bates driver and the following young ladies as passengers: Miss Marion Bullock, Miss Mae Allen, Miss Barbara Harris, Bertha Johnson, Miss Nellie Howe and Mrs. L. F. Bates.

Charlie Hollis with his limousine "Taxi-Service" came in next. Charlie had a party of friends and relatives aboard and was followed by Philip Berger driving Hollis' Ford taxi all decorated with various college pennants.

Numbers 12, 13 and 14 were cars filled with women devoted to the suffrage cause. They carried a banner which was once carried by Julia Ward Howe. The members in the three autos included, Mrs. May Fiske Hoffman, Mrs. Hortense Mason, Mrs. Elsie Chisholm, Mrs. Gertrude B. Newell, Miss Helen Goodnow, the local organizer, Mrs. Katherine Barrett, Mrs. E. J. Sirovitch and Mrs. C. Kicker.

Following the "Votes for women" cars came Joseph Taylor in his Trumbull, next the Moxie company's big truck, then Bob Steel, Miss M. M. Kroepsch and Arnold Kroepsch in Chevrolet cars, and last four Jeffrey cars from the Wollaston Central garage.

The parade passed the grandstand three times and the prizes were awarded the best decorated autos and for several other features of the parade. The prize of an elegant set of dishes given by the Moxie company was captured by the Reynolds W. R. C. much to the pleasure of the ladies.

At three-thirty on the ball field the Clapp Memorial Association nine took the measure of the Braintree White Sox in an easy fashion by the score of 4 to 1. The score:

Motor cycle races were a feature of the afternoon and resulted thusly:

In the two-mile time trials for motorcycles, Earl Gove went in 2:32, Leon Crocker in 2:45, Arthur Frink and Dusty Duckworth in 2:47 1/2 each. The five-mile motorcycle race, open, was won by Earl Gove of Brockton in 6m 29s; Leon Crocker of Brockton, second, in 6m 49s; Dusty Duckworth of New Bedford, third, in 7m 12s.

The final day of the fair recorded the largest crowd of the entire three days over 10,000 being in attendance.

There were three classes of racing and Henry L. Titer of Readville took all three in straight heats with seeming ease. In the 2:38 class, the only contest was for second money which was finally won by Mary Metal with a second and two fourths. Blue Jay McGregor, who finished third in every heat, was marked fifth. The crowd rooted for Dammon in the 2:18 class, but Baker's horse wasn't there at the final show-down.

Fred Bellows' Chato ran a wonderful race in the 2:23 class, and in every instance came from behind to second or third place. Once Bellows allowed himself to be pocketed and once he was jockeyed out of winning. The summary:

The "Single Damper" in Crawford Ranges is the greatest improvement ever made in stoves. By one motion it regulates fire and oven—push the knob to "Kindle", "Bake", or "Check"—the range does the rest. Better than two or more dampers. Have you seen it? This Single Damper is patented—no other range has it.

The deep Ash Hod—instead of the old clumsy ash pan—with Coal Hod beside it (patented) is easy to remove—doesn't spill ashes.

Gas ovens if desired; end [single] or elevated [double].

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have it delivered at your house with something new every week for a full year by sending $2.00 to this office now.

Don't plant fruit trees in the garden. You can't cultivate where the roads are, nor grow crops in the shade.

Of all things known farmers agree that a mortgage is easiest to plant and hardest to raise.

Let every one that can, plant a fruit tree and a shade tree on the wayside, and another on any spare spot for future use.

Return to the soil again as much of the same crop as you can, in order to make another one.

Don't forget to protect those young grape vines you set out last spring.

Like produces like. If tubers from unproductive or weak plants are used, a similar harvest will be reaped.

One of the most widely distributed and valuable of all our pasture grasses is that known as June or spear grass in the east and blue grass in the west and south.

Pullets are the best layers. Old hens bring down the egg record. Sell off the old hens to make room for the maturing pullets.

Every one that plants a tree invests its value in a bank which never breaks, and which pays good interest; while it lives it is grateful to the eye, and if cut down will always bring more than the original cost.

The roadsides of this country are the most neglected of any of the civilized globe. They are, as a rule, merely seed beds for all the pestiferous weeds that grow in the country. Every farmer should keep his own share of the roads free from weeds as a matter of policy.

"When there's a will there's a way," as the pig said when it broke out of its pen and upset the slop barrel. "When there's a weigh," as the farmer said, three months afterward, when he sold his pork.

Two very important points in cherry growing should be studied closely before going into the business. The first is the location of the orchard. The cherry should be planted on high, rolling, well drained soil, for the trees will not thrive on wet, soggy land.

It appears that thinning increases the size of orchard fruit, gives it more color and a better flavor. It diminishes the amount of worthless fruit and windfalls, lessens the amount of rot and tends to keep injurious insects in check, as care is taken to remove the infested fruits.

If farmers would copy methods of big corporations they would make more money. Our methods all around are primitive and faulty. We do not make the most out of our conditions. Many of us buy peaches when we could just as well grow a full home supply and have some to market every fruitful year.

There is a loss of vigor and stamina when immature animals are used for breeding stock. Dams that are growing will cease to grow when nourishing their young. Experiments made show that the strongest and most vigorous animals are produced from parents that are well advanced in life, but not aged.

Every good poultry house has a concrete foundation wall extending all the way around. Concrete is the only satisfactory underpinning for a poultry house for the reasons that it is permanent and it is a positive protection against rodents and vermin.

Training the Child.

A child's mind and spirit will be sweeter and more sympathetic for a knowledge of music. It is as natural for a child to sing as it is for the child to talk. Given the knowledge of music's rhythm the child will easily slip into dancing, one of the best arts for giving grace and poise of carriage.

Glass Poles.

A European concern is now building telegraph and telephone poles of glass. The glass is molded over a thick framework of woven wire, which adds to the strength of the pole. These poles will neither rot nor rust and insects will not attack them. Unless broken by an unusual accident, they will last forever, and now that timber is so expensive in Europe they are little more costly than wooden poles.—The American Boy.

Testing Water.

Following is a simple way to test the purity of water: Put half a pint in a perfectly clean bottle and add a few grains of lump or loaf sugar. Make tight—a glass stopper preferred. Place the bottle in a warm, well lighted room. If it remains clear after an exposure of eight or ten days it is safe to use, but if it becomes turbid it is certainly impure and unsafe to drink.

Chalmers Six-40

20% More Power

The Chalmers valve-in-head motor with overhead camshaft is as far in advance of the old types of motors as the self-starter is ahead of the starting crank.

It is generally recognized in the trade and among owners as the 20% more power motor.

THE Chalmers Six-40 is the new motor car at a lower price, equipped with this wonderful new type of motor which has made it necessary for the Chalmers Company to so tremendously increase its production for 1916.

The Season's Motor Sensation

On the hills and country roads where going is hard, this $1350 car will do all for you that it did for A. E. Walden when he established a record at the recent Uniontown Hill Climb, driving a Chalmers Six-40, that was eight seconds better than the previous record for the class.

Within the limits of touring car service its wonderful valve-in-head overhead camshaft motor will give you all the efficiency and "trigger-quick" getaway that this type gave De Palma and Resta when they averaged 90, 98 and 102 miles an hour for 300 and 500 miles at Indianapolis and Chicago.

Comfortable as a Rocking Chair

The new Chalmers Six-40 is as comfortable as a big library rocking-chair.

The leather upholstered seats are deep and luxurious; the sides of the tonneau are built on the "armchair" principle. You ride in the car—not on it.

The leg-room is ample; the rear springs are 57 inches long—longer than any other car in this class—and the result is that the car glides over rough spots with an easy motion that makes motoring a pleasure under every condition.

Made in Chalmers Shops

Chalmers cars are made in Chalmers shops under the most exacting standards. They are quality cars throughout in style, beauty, comfort and performance.

See us to-day. We will give you a ride over the hills and country roads in this $1350 car that will prove its 20% greater power.

New Service to Owners
Every Chalmers dealer gives to every buyer of a Chalmers car a Service Coupon Book, each coupon being redeemable for a definite amount of inspection service at any Chalmers dealer's anywhere.

Chalmers Club and Clubman
Every Chalmers owner is entitled to a membership card in the Chalmers Club commending him to the courtesies of Chalmers representatives everywhere, and to receive "The Chalmers Clubman" regularly without charge.

MILK AS A TISSUE-FORMING FOOD.

Few people realize how much nourishment there is in milk, particularly how much tissue-forming material there is in it. They realize that it is rich in fat because they see cream rise upon it and know that it is made into butter, but of the fact that it is an important tissue former they often lose sight. It happens that by far the greater part of the tissue-forming materials remain in the milk after it is skimmed or after the butter is removed from it, so for the purpose of building up the body skim milk counts for as much as an equal volume of whole milk and buttermilk is not far behind.

Milk does not appear to be very nourishing, probably because it is a liquid, while most other foods are solids. As a matter of fact, it is not a concentrated food, and if a person should try to substitute it for meat and to take only as much by weight as he does of the meat he would get very little nourishment. But think! It takes only two glasses of milk to weigh a pound, and many a person takes as much as this at a meal, while he would never eat a pound of meat. So, while milk has a small percentage of protein, as the tissue-builders of the food are sometimes called, it counts up in the long run because of the large quantities of it which a person naturally takes.

If you want to get an idea of how much protein there is in milk as compared with some other common foods, set aside by side a glass of milk (one-fourth of a quart), a medium-sized egg (two ounces), a small ball of chopped meat (one and a quarter ounces of boneless, medium fat beef, mutton, pork, or other meat. Make 13 balls of equal size out of a pound of meat and you will get about the right amount), a piece of cheese half the size of an egg, and a scant quarter of a cupful of uncooked, or a half cupful of cooked navy beans or cowpeas. (The amounts of beans and peas make allowance for the part which remains undigested. See Farmers' Bulletin 559, page 9.) These samples of food will, of course, not represent exactly equal amounts of protein, for all foods vary in composition, and besides round numbers have been selected for convenience. They will, however, serve to give an idea of what a glass of milk is equivalent to as a tissue former.

Since milk is so valuable a source of nourishment, people naturally desire to know a large number of ways of using it. One good way to use milk, and skim milk in particular, is in making milk soup. This is good for the children and not difficult to prepare. Milk soups, too, are a good way of using up small amounts of vegetables which happen to be left over, for, of course, they are improved by being flavored. There is almost no vegetable which cannot be used for this purpose; tomatoes, asparagus, peas, corn, potatoes, squash, turnips, carrots, all are good, and if the amount available is small add a little onion to piece out with or onion alone can be used. Some people simply combine the vegetable, after they have put it through a sieve, with hot milk and season with salt or with salt and pepper. (Note: Wash the sieve at once or put it to soak and save much trouble.) Others thicken the soup with a little flour, which makes it seem more substantial, and still others add a little butter or cheaper fat, which they work into the soup more or less carefully. Here is a recipe for a soup made of cowpeas and milk taken from Farmers' Bulletin 559. Any other peas may be used.

Cream of Cowpea Soup.—One tablespoonful of butter (all measurements are level), one tablespoonful flour, two cups milk, one teaspoonful sugar, one cupful cooked cowpeas (green or dried), a few drops of onion juice, salt.

Melt the butter, add the flour and cook thoroughly, being careful not to brown it. Add the milk and bring the mixture to the boiling point. Put the peas through a sieve; add peas and seasonings to the milk and reheat. If too thick add milk or water.

Baker milk pudding, which is another good way of using skim milk, is too often kept for dessert. Few people realize how truly nourishing it is, and that if it is not made too sweet or is not too highly flavored it can be used as the chief dish at a meal, providing the family likes it. Make it moist by using only a little of the starchy substance, rice, corn meal or farina, with which the milk is usually combined, and cook it in a very slow oven. Farmers' Bulletin 413 speaks of these puddings and of their nutritive value and gives many other valuable suggestions about keeping and using milk.

Poor Man's Rice Pudding.—One quart of milk, half cup of rice, or less, half cup of sugar, or less, half teaspoon of salt, half teaspoon of powdered cinnamon.

Put all the ingredients together in an earthen baking dish and cook in a very slow oven for three hours, stirring occasionally during the first hour.

This pudding has approximately as much tissue-forming material in it as the soup for which the recipe is given above. Scalloped potatoes can be made in which the same way except that a little butter would be used in place of the sugar and a larger amount of potato can be used than of rice.

In this article milk has been referred to chiefly in connection with its value as a tissue former. Nothing has been said of the fat and mineral matter it contains. When these are taken into consideration, it makes an even better showing. See Farmers' Bulletin 413, page 14. There you will find that all the food in a cup of milk is equal to that in three ounces of beef or in two eggs.

SEASONING FOR COTTAGE CHEESE, SOUPS AND SALADS.

The favorites of the diet, the highly flavored substances, like herbs and spices, which we use in small amounts only, seldom have much food value, but they are often the means of making the lower-priced food materials attractive and thus they may serve to keep down the cost of living. Americans are not much given to the use of these substances and might well take a lesson from some of the European nations. There is a vegetable of European origin, belonging, like the onion, to the lily family and known as the chive, which has so good a flavor and is so easy to raise and to use, and is besides so ornamental as it grows, that it seems strange that American housekeepers do not make more use of it. The chive is a perennial which puts forth long, slender, hollow leaves and has small delicate purplish flowers. It can not easily be grown from the seed, but a bunch of chives can be separated and the parts replanted. They make an ornamental border for a flower or vegetable bed and can be grown in a pot or window box in the house. Some people put them into their fern dishes and consider them very decorative.

The advantage of using the chive, which resembles but is not exactly like the onion in taste and odor, besides the fact that it gives variety to the diet, is that it can be obtained in suitable form for use in cooking without the danger of getting any of it on the hands. The leaves can be cut off and snipped into small pieces by means of a pair of scissors, and, unless the hands touch the cut surfaces (and this is avoidable), no trace of the odor remains upon them. If one is sure the leaves of the plant are clean a paper or dish can be held under them and the leaves snipped directly on to it in pieces small enough for use. The cutting of the leaves does not injure the plant in any way; it seems rather to stimulate its growth and to make it more vigorous and thrifty.

The uses of the chive as a flavoring material are as numerous as those of the more familiar member of the same family—the onion; wherever chopped onion is used chopped chives may be substituted. A few special uses may, however, be mentioned. In very finely chopped condition it is an attractive addition to cottage cheese (see Farmers' Bulletin 387, Cheese and Its Economical Use in the Diet, and Farmers' Bulletin 413, The Care of Milk and Its Use in the Home), or other soft cream cheese and such mixtures may be used as sandwich fillings. It can be added to omelets and to milk sauces and soups. As an addition to plain lettuce salad it has almost no equal, the amount to be used depending, of course, upon the favor with which onion-like seasonings are held in the family.

Still another advantage may be mentioned. The chive is dark green in color and offers a pleasing contrast to the white of milk sauce or cottage cheese or to the yellow of salad dressing, thus attracting the eye as well as the palate.

A Ballad of Vegetables.
 (Philadelphia Record.)
 A potato went out on a mash,
 And sought an onion bed.
 "That's pit for me," observed the squash,
 And all the beets turned red.
 "Go 'way," the onion weeping cried;
 "Your love I cannot be."
 The pumpkin be your lawful bride—
 You cantaloupe with me."

But onward still the tuber came,
 And lay down at her feet;
 "You cauliflower a flower by any name
 And it would smell as wheat;
 And I, too, am an early rose,
 And you I've come to see;
 So don't turnip your lovely nose,
 But spinachat with me."

"I do not carrot at all to wed;
 So go, sir, if you please."
 The modest onion meekly said,
 "And lettuce, pray, have peas!
 Go, think that you have never seen
 Myself or smelled my sigh;
 Too long a maiden I have been
 For favors in your rye."

"Ah, spare a cuss," the tuber prayed;
 "My cherryed bride you'll be;
 You are the only weeping maid
 That currant now for me."
 And as the wily tuber spoke,
 He caught her by surprise,
 And giving her an artichoke,
 Devoured her with his eyes.

Exchange.
 "Does your son take after you?"
 "No. I'm afraid we're a little at odds in our ideas. He wants to wear a high hat and evening clothes, while I have a fancy for going hunting and looking like a boy scout."

Fall—Next Tuesday

Brockton Fair next

Rather hot last week for Weymouth Fair.

Now school children, get right down to business.

We wonder if the burning of over 300 canoes at the boathouse of the Waltham Canoe club last week, will reduce the number of canoeing accidents next summer.

Didn't know the gun was loaded. Lexington is the latest town to be saddened by accidental shooting because somebody left a loaded gun where an eleven-year-old boy could get it and in a spirit of play point it at a seventeen-year-old girl. Result, the boy pulled the trigger and another young life was gone, the young girl's face being literally torn off. It is about time that the people who must have loaded shot guns about the house kept them out of the way of youngsters. Such accidents, due from the cause of "didn't know it was loaded" are getting too common in this section.

TOWN BUSINESS.

The contractor for sidewalk building is behind in his work, and the Monday meeting of the Selectmen took action to bring him up to time.

Complaint is made that the Contractor for the State road is not properly safeguarding against accident by lighting and other necessary work for night safety.

Miss B. Torres has been appointed on the committee of arbitration in the matter of award to heirs of P. Butler for his death while in the discharge of his duties as a policeman.

Albert J. Osgood, who has just returned from a three months' vacation in New Hampshire was appointed as special police to March next.

With Bradford Hawes, clerk of the board, home from his extended trip to the Interior and Pacific Coast and once more at his desk, the Monday meeting of the Selectmen had quite a natural appearance, and following are some of the business features.

It was voted that no fee shall be charged fraternal organizations for license to hold public entertainments.

License was granted the Mut. Circle, Loyal Order of Moose, to hold public entertainments in their hall until May next.

The State Board of Education notified the Selectmen that Weymouth can send pupils to the Quincy Co-operative Day school or the Quincy Full Time Day school.

The Terminal Commission call the attention of the town to a hearing to be held in October, when the Weymouth Fore River and Back as well as the Shore front will be discussed as to their desirability and feasibility for a railroad terminal station and shipping point.

GRIDIRON SEASON OPENS THIS WEEK

Captain Charlie Palmer said last night after the first football meeting of the season that the prospects for a championship eleven this season were very good. Forty men have reported for the daily signal drill, and there seem to be some good stuff amongst the green material. Coach Bartlett, of Dartmouth, has already been out with the squad, putting the candidates through the preliminary stunts. Until the fellows get hardened, he intends to give them only light practice, such as falling on the ball, lining up, and the grass-drill. The success of this year's team depends on the old experienced men and the new candidates. At present, no one can get a line on the new men but they look promising. There are nine veterans.

Of course "Stall" Whittle is lost and he was 40% of the team last year. A new quarter must be developed to take his place, and Wallace Whittle seems to be the logical man. He has brains, keeps cool, and he knows the game. If Bortolighi returns, he and Rand will form the nucleus for a backfield that will be very fast and strong. Newton, Tirrell and Clarke are lost to the line, but Zwecker, Cope and Reis ought to make up for that deficiency. Zwecker is agile and well-built and Reis is very fast and a fierce tackler. Haviland, Reilly and Green will fight it out for the other end position and the winner ought to make a good man. Captain Palmer, of course, will be at tackle and with his increased weight should make a whale of a line man. Last year he looked pretty good out there.

Manager McCray thinks that this year's team will put up a better record than in last years. But to do it, the squad will have to get out and get down and practice, so that a team can be built from the ground up. Last seasons team lost one game in a schedule of eleven. The list of games for this fall:

- Sept. 24 Abington at Weymouth
- Oct. 1 High School of Commerce at Weymouth
- " 8 Hingham at Weymouth
- " 12 Quincy at Quincy

OLD FOLKS MEET AGAIN.

Union Church Scene of Enjoyable Gathering on Wednesday. Dr. Waldron Unable to be Present. Delicious Dinner, Reunion and Entertainment, Features.

A day which is long looked for and fondly remembered by the older generation is the annual reunion of the Old Folks association held in South Weymouth.

This year the reunion came on Wednesday, Sept. 15th in the Union church, South Weymouth.

Although the weather sultry and the day humid and hot, over ninety people attended the banquet and exercises held in the afternoon.

The guests were cordially received by a reception committee.

Owing to the intense heat, it was thought advisable to bring the guests by automobile, so the transportation committee, of which M. R. Loud was chairman, arranged for conveyances which would bring a large number of guests in a short time.

An informal reception was held from 10:30 to 12 o'clock and many were the old times that were reviewed and many were the laughs that went up over the recollection of former good times.

The banquet was served at 12:30. The ladies in charge were Mrs. T. Forrest Torrey, chairman; Mrs. Charles Grooley, Mrs. Alice Gardner, Mrs. William Wagner, Mrs. Nathaniel Nash, Mrs. Fred Blanchard, Mrs. Hiram Chase, Mrs. George Torrey, Mrs. Howard Locke, Mrs. Arthur Tates and Miss Emily Loud.

The only disappointment of the entire affair was in the non-appearance of Rev. Daniel W. Waldron, whose kind face and cheery manner has always been evident at reunions in the past. Dr. Waldron was travelling in Maine, but sent his greetings.

The guests, at the conclusion of the repast, gathered in the church which was decorated with hydrangeas, salvia, wild asters, ferns, palms and pines.

Cello solos by Miss Edith Selden; vocal selections by Mr. Yates-Kells and an address by Dr. Wilfred L. Scott were on the afternoon's program. Miss Helen Richards and Mrs. Yates-Kells were accompanists.

The election of officers resulted in the following staff: president, Frank E. Loud; vice president, Rev. Ora A. Price; secretary-treasurer, Miss Florence K. Howe; musical director, Miss Helen F. Richards. The new executive committee is A. B. Raymond, Mrs. T. Forest Torrey, Mrs. T. F. Prescott, Mrs. Walter Field, Mrs. Gordon Willis, Miss Emma Cady and Mrs. Fred Tribou.

The oldest woman present was Mrs. Eliza Carter, 90 and the oldest man, William Raymond, 92.

JONES—WILLIAMS.

Popular North Weymouth Girl, Member of Class of 1910, Weymouth High School, Weds Brockton Man. To Reside In Shoe City.

About 150 guests from Brockton, Quincy, Winthrop, New London, Conn., and the Weymouths, witnessed one of the prettiest weddings of the season last Saturday evening, September 11th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Williams of Lincoln street, North Weymouth, when their daughter, Miss Maude Eleanor Williams became the bride of Alton Winfield Jones, son of William Jones of Campello. The house was very prettily decorated with palms and cut flowers and the bridal party stood beneath a bower of green and white. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles Clark of the Pilgrim Congregational church, the doubling service being used. The wedding march was played by Miss Bertha Estes. Miss Rita Clarke Page, of North Weymouth, was the maid of honor and Edward Callahan of Campello was the best man. The ushers were Norman A. Walker and Carleton Litchfield of East Weymouth, cousins of the bride.

The bride was beautifully gowned in French embroidered voile. She wore a tulle veil and carried bride's roses. The maid of honor was attired in pale blue chiffon tulle and carried pink roses. She also wore a pendant, which was a gift from the bride. From 8 o'clock until 10, the bride and groom, assisted by the maid of honor and best man, parents of the bride, father and brother of the groom, received the guests. A wedding luncheon of salads, ices and cakes was served, and an orchestra furnished music.

A great many gifts of silver, cut glass and china, and other beautiful gifts were received.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones left on a short wedding trip after which they will reside at Brockton, where they will be a home after November 1st.

Mary W. Wood, Dead.

After several years of ill health and at times intense suffering Mary W. Wood passed away at her home on Shawmut street in East Weymouth, Sunday afternoon. Miss Wood was a daughter of Mr. Nelson and Mary W. Wood of Middleboro and was born in that town December 8th, 1843. The family moved to Holliston in her early days and she graduated from the High school of that town and at once became a teacher in its public schools. In 1864 the family moved to East Weymouth and Miss Wood with her older sister (Mrs. M. E. Hawes) became a teacher in the Tufts building, but after a few years resigned and opened a private school at her home on Shawmut street which she conducted until failing health compelled a retirement. Many years of failing health and suffering followed and relief came on Sunday last.

Funeral services were held at her home on Wednesday and were conducted by Rev. Edward T. Ford, D. D., of the Congregational church of which deceased was a member. The burial was at Fairmount cemetery and the bearers were: Bela P. French, H. Austin Tirrell, Frank H. Holmes and Sidney Bowker.

The deceased leaves as immediate relatives, a sister, Mrs. Hawes, and two nieces, daughters of her brother, Preston W. Wood, now dead.

White Woodwork.

Use whiting and water and a soft cloth. This does not destroy the paint as a more vigorous cleanser does. But if there are outside white window sills to be cleaned, and they are very much soiled by exposure to the weather, use ammonia and water. Be careful in using it, as it removes some of the paint as well as the dirt.

POND PLAIN PEOPLE MAKE PLANS.

Interesting Doings By People Beyond the South Weymouth Depot. Every Week Something Doing Among Hustling Residents. Improvement Society and Ladies' Auxiliary Live Wires.

The first fall meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Pond Plain Improvement Association was held in the Pond Plain hall last Tuesday night, and in spite of the heat a good sized number was present.

A very cheerful report of the highly successful supper, band concert and fair midway, held on August 28th, was read and the affair netted $49.49 for the ladies to add to their fund to build a sizable hall for their hustling community.

The ladies are now preparing for a series of whist parties and concerts to be held the coming months.

Among the interesting services held in this community is the regular Sunday evening services in the Pond Plain Christian chapel. These services are held at 7 o'clock each Sunday night, and it would do our townspeople a world of good to attend some of these meetings and witness some of the enthusiasm and interest the Pond Plain people take in their section of the town. The services are led by Mr. Sells Kelley, and Mrs. Alfred Flowers presides at the piano.

W. R. C. Notes.

Notwithstanding the extreme heat a large number of Corps members met in G. A. R. hall on Tuesday. The president, Mrs. Annie E. Jordan, who is very ill, was unable to be present. She was reported as resting comfortably.

The executive committee have out tickets for the bazaar to be given Oct. 13th and 14th and may be obtained from Corps members.

The Good of the Order circle will hold a quilting party in G. A. R. hall, Sept. 23rd.

Dinner from 12:30 A. M. to 1:30 P. M. supplied by members of the order.

Reynolds Women's Relief Corps was well represented at the Norfolk County association held at Hyde Park on Thursday of this week.

Reynolds Women's Relief Corps has the honor of securing the dinner set as first prize, for the best showing in the parade at the Weymouth Fair on Friday of last week.

The first annual report of the Weymouth Visiting Nurse Association is the beginning of growth and good work. The Board of Management has held twelve regular meetings, with an average attendance of seventeen members.

The association extends its hearty thanks to all who have in any way assisted us by contributions, to the members for their annual donation, and to the community for their hearty response on "Tag Day."

We wish also to express our thanks to the physicians for their loyal support and the press for the publicity they have so kindly given the work.

Last year we had a membership of five hundred and thirty-three, and the association hopes this year to double the number and so place the work on a sound financial basis.

We ask a continuance of your help and co-operation as we enter upon another year.

North Weymouth Men in Smash Up.

J. H. Pitts of 180 Bridge street, North Weymouth, while going along Washington street, near Mill, Quincy, Sunday afternoon, collided with a two-passenger motorcycle. The motorcycle was the property of Daniel Winfield, Quincy.

In turning aside Mr. Pitts struck the curbstone so forcibly that the rear left wheel of his car buckled and collapsed. The motorcycle was also damaged. Fortunately, Mr. Pitts was not injured and Winfield received but a slight shaking up.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts PROBATE COURT TO THE HEIRS-AT-LAW, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of LUCY A. HUMPHREY late of Weymouth in said County, deceased.

WILLIAM JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court. This seventh day of September, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fifteen. J. R. M'COOLE, Register.

Following Are a Few of the Items Which Appeared in the Gazette Years Ago This Week.

THIRTY-NINE YEARS AGO. "By their fruits ye shall know them" says the Scripture and if the basket of the grapes presented us by Mr. E. S. Hunt of the Lanling is an index of character, our friend must be a very nice man.

The Republicans of Weymouth Landing have procured a large American flag which they propose to elevate at the corner of Front and Summer streets some evening next week. Due notice will be given of the time of raising.

The scarcity of water has caused a brisk demand for well-diggers, new wells being dug and old ones being deepened by blasting out ledges which underlies a large number of wells at the Landing. Probably nine-tenths of the old wells are dry and the drain upon the public wells has lowered them to such an extent that the water is badly riled. Water, in some cases, is carted to supply cattle on farms.

THIRTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO. Mr. J. Austin Deane will erect a two story building near the depot, for which the foundation is laid.

We were surprised to observe two of our residents gathering hay on the salt marshes Sunday week, within full view of three church spires.—Times have changed.—Ed.

The family of Winslow Blanchard have been in a state of great anxiety for some time, Mr. B. and son being in New Orleans, where the yellow fever is raging.

A collection will be taken up in the M. E. church, East Weymouth, Sunday, in aid of the yellow fever sufferers in the South, and it is hoped that the contribution will be liberal.

At Fall River, yesterday, five steamers and nine land engines were entered for a firemen's muster, among them being the Conqueror and Active of this town—the Active Company taking the second prize of $75, and the Conqueror the third prize of $50.

Stetson's Weymouth Band have generously volunteered their services in aid of the yellow fever sufferers in the South, by giving a grand benefit concert of vocal and instrumental music at the Town Hall, Weymouth, next Monday evening, on which occasion a large number of our resident artists will also render voluntary assistance.

THIRTY-TWO YEARS AGO. A few more nights without frost and a few more days of ripening sun will enable Nathan Pratt to regale his friends with a second crop of strawberries gathered from the same patch this season.

The South High school begins the year under pleasant auspices and it is expected that a high standard of scholarship will result under the new management which has been created after much care on the part of the school board.

The surveyors for the Rockland and Abington Street Railway have been measuring the streets from the Rockland line to the South Weymouth depot this week and it is said cars will be running by December.

Dr. Drake has been heard from at Rangely Lakes, Me., where he captured a six-pound trout with a fly. It requires a very skillful angler to secure these gamey fish after being hooked.

It seemed like old times at the Pilgrim church last Sunday to hear the tramp of feet on the bare floors, as the carpets had been taken up for the repairs which are being made. The interior of the church will be painted, frescoed and receive a new carpet and other improvements.

Not Paint. With linseed oil at 50c to $1, what sort of oil do you think they use in "paint" at $1.50 and $1.25?

That stuff is counterfeit paint. You can cheat yourself; you can't cheat Time or Weather. Paint is a rubbery coat over wood and iron to keep-out water. Counterfeit paint may look like it; counterfeit money looks like money. What are all counterfeits for? They are all alike DEVOE.

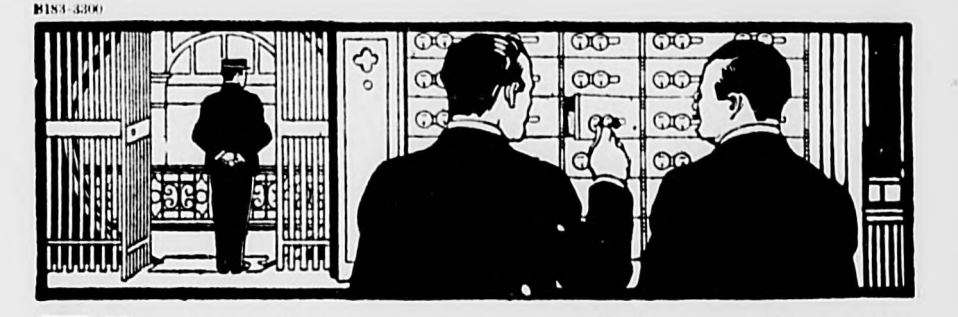

Frequently Its That Way. "Woman's place is at home. As I was telling my wife—" "By the way, Bill, what's your wife doin' now?" "Workin' in the cannery."—Buffalo Courier.

Oh, Really! No doubt the ancient Romans, who were nevertheless a sound artistic race (in slaves) of their aqueducts, and would have been puzzled could they have seen us staring at the imperfect remains of the said aqueducts as interesting works of art.

Young Brusso

Charlie Cotter, the former prominent polo player of East Weymouth, is now the regular pilot of Young Brusso of Revere, one of the cleverest of the simon-pures. Under Charles's management, Brusso has blossomed into a full-fledged headliner and recently he cleaned up everything in the state of Maine rings.

Brusso has won over a dozen bouts in the ring lately, and Cotter says that he is out to win more. His last fight was at Rumford, Me., where he fought "Kid" Thobideaux. Cotter will now start him in the "spot" ranks, and expects him to make a good showing there.

STOREHOUSE OF THE MIND.

There is Nothing Occult or Mystical in the Subconscious.

Stated as briefly as possible, the subconscious may be described as that region of the human mind in which are stored the memories acquired by previous experience, education and observation.

This includes memories of sights and sounds which were perceived without our being aware of them at the time we perceived them.

Let them come within range of eye and ear, even when we are paying attention to something else, and the delicate mechanism of these sense organs registers a definite memory image of them in our minds.

Such images, together with all our other memory images, no matter how acquired, remain our permanent possession.

We are able to recall by voluntary effort only a comparatively few of our innumerable memory images. But repeated experiments as well as facts of common knowledge seem to indicate that under certain conditions any experience that we have ever had can be recalled by us. As one psychologist puts it:

"Whatever has gone into the mind can come out of the mind."

Obviously there must be a region of the mind wherein are stored these multitudinous memory images. It is to this region that psychologists refer when they use the term, "the subconscious."

But the subconscious is not only a reservoir for the storage of memory images. It is also a workshop for their manipulation, so that on occasion they may emerge, not simply as they went in, but in pleasing and often remarkable combinations.

This function of the subconscious is exemplified in many ways, from the picturesque and vivid dreams of sleep to the "inspirations" of men of genius.

In its hidden depths, it would seem, the mind is perpetually active. It is not content to hold its memory images in inert form. It must fuse and collate them, choosing for its purpose those memories in especial that are most closely linked together in a network of associated ideas.

That is why one man's subconscious is more serviceable to him than another's.

Through conscious study and reflection he has packed the secret chambers of his mind with a mass of memory images relating to one specific subject or subjects, hence naturally linked by association of ideas.

And just because he consciously focuses his attention in this direction he sets his subconscious working for the same end with the special material his conscious thinking has accumulated for it.

In a word, there is really nothing occult or mystical in the subconscious. It is simply a convenient term to designate one phase of our mental life.—H. Addington Bruce in Kansas City Star.

In Mexican Houses.

There are rarely fireplaces or stoves in Mexican houses. Of course, in the tropics these are not required, but in the cities of the uplands it is often bitterly cold. There is a popular belief that warming the air of a room by artificial heat in the rarefied air of the uplands induces pneumonia, but it is doubtful if this has any real foundation. And the Mexican prefers to shiver under cover of a poncho rather than to sit in comfort and warmth after the European or American fashion.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Weymouth People Know How to Save It.

Many Weymouth people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Weymouth citizen's recommendation.

Asa K. Binney, 112 Broad street, Weymouth, says: "I had severe backaches and the action of my kidneys was irregular. After using three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, I was greatly relieved. The pains in my back left and the action of my kidneys was regulated. Others of the family have also used Doan's Kidney Pills with great benefit."

The above statement was given on May 5th, 1912 and over three years later, Mr. Binney said: "My faith in Doan's Kidney Pills is just the same as it was after I first used them. I still get the same good results, whenever I have occasion to take a box or so of Doan's Kidney Pills and recommend them as highly as in the past."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Binney had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Legend of the Phoenix.

The story of the phoenix is a common superstition in several countries. According to the ancient and best accepted legend, the world has but one phoenix. This animal, at the end of 999 years, burns itself to death in a funeral pyre of its own erection and as soon as it expires another phoenix with wings outstretched rises from the flames.

Mrs. Sarah Augusta Burgoyne. One more was called to the great beyond when Sarah Augusta Burgoyne, wife of Thomas Burgoyne, passed away at her home on Charles street last Friday morning after a prolonged illness.

Mrs. Burgoyne was born in Quincy, Mass., in 1842, the daughter of Stephen and Sarah (Rice) Cain, but the greater part of her life was spent in East Weymouth. She was a member of the Methodist church of this place and in her younger days was a talented singer, a member of the Wesleyan Singing society for twenty-five years and during a greater part of this time was head alto of the choir.

Funeral services were held at her late residence on Sunday afternoon, Rev. William M. Newton of the Methodist church, officiating. Burial was in the Old North cemetery and George Burgoyne, Stephen C. Burgoyne, Charles H. Chubbuck Jr., G. Ralph Young, Roger M. Burgoyne and Harold Burgoyne were the bearers.

Besides a husband, Mrs. Burgoyne leaves four children, George Burgoyne, Stephen C. Burgoyne, Mrs. George W. Young and Mrs. Charles H. Chubbuck, Jr., all of East Weymouth.

BOY SCOUT NOTES.

Troop 2, East Weymouth. At the troop meeting last Thursday night, the resignation of John A. MacFau as scoutmaster was presented, and in view of the reasons expressed in the resignation, it was accepted by the troop, although they are all sorry to lose such a able and faithful leader.

Allen Perrow was given his initiation much to the amusement of the other boys. John Blackney and Paul Batchelder have successfully passed their mile at scouts' pace test and Nelson Maynard and Norman Bates have each received another service stripe.

The base ball game was between Fore River, champions in the Manufacturers League, and the Whitman A. A., and on paper it was for the championship of the section. Plausse for Whitman was wild, but Knight pitched a masterly game of ball, striking out 12 and passing but one. Gorman's fielding was a feature, this scrappy little player putting up a great exhibition at second. The score:

MRS. FRANCIS B. PRATT AT REST.

Lifelong Resident of East Weymouth Passes To The Great Beyond. Funeral services on Sunday.

Mrs. Levina A. Pratt, widow of Captain Francis B. Pratt passed away at her home on Middle street, East Weymouth, last Thursday night at the age of 81 years. The deceased was a life long resident of East Weymouth, a member of the M. E. Church and until she became unable to get out during the latter part of her life, was a faithful worker in all church work as well as in the Reynolds Woman's Relief Corps, an organization she was particularly interested in. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. Lincoln Pratt and Mrs. A. Dennison, both of East Weymouth and two grandsons, Norton F. Pratt of East Braintree and Francis Dennison of East Weymouth.

Funeral services were held at her home 147 Middle street on Sunday afternoon and were largely attended by relatives and friends.

The service was conducted by Rev. William M. Newton of the Methodist church, Reynolds W. R. C. attended and the Relief Corps burial service was read by its officers. "Rock of Ages," "Gone to Her Rest" and "Abide With Me" were sung by Mrs. Franklin P. Whittem, Miss Ethel F. Raymond, Mrs. William A. Hodges and Miss Susie E. Raymond. The bearers were Weston H. Cushing, Fred N. Bates, Arthur Cunningham and Minot Poole. The burial was in Old North cemetery, North Weymouth.

Police Notes.

Chief Pratt has been at Dedham every day this week attending court cases of which he has an unusual large number.

Patrolman Baker of Weymouth was accosted by a bare headed boy Sunday night who had an air rifle in his possession his pockets full of candy and enough chewing gum to stock a penny in the slot machine. Officer Baker took him in charge and brought him to Station 2 where he was detained over night. Chief Pratt communicated with the Quincy police and found they wanted the boy for breaking into a store at Norfolk Downs. Monday he was taken to the Quincy court and held for the juvenile court which meets on Thursday. The boy who was only 10 years old had ran away from the State minor ward. His home is at No. 144 Derby street Salem.

Patrolman Butler arrested a man for drunkenness Monday night and in court Wednesday was fined $15.00.

Hearing that the Boston police had a house breaker in custody, Chief Pratt, who has been looking for the party who entered a house in South Weymouth last Sept. sent Officer Fitzgerald to Boston Monday to look him over, when questioned by the officer he denied knowing anything about the break but the Chief was positive he was the man wanted. A witness to the break was secured and Wednesday accompanied by officers Fitzgerald and Schofield went to Boston and identified the man as the same one seen going into the house. After Boston and several other city authorities are through with him he will be turned over to the local police. Chief Pratt surely has an eye out for business in his office.

Post 58 at National Encampment.

Kincaide Theatre.

As is always the custom the show at the Kincaide Theatre next week will be right up to the usual high standard maintained by the management of this popular play house.

The program on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week includes the photo play "The Vampire", as the feature. This is a realistic five reel story of Woman's power over man, with Mine Petrova in the leading role. Other photo plays include the Diamond from the Sky, 20th episode; Pathe Weekly, while the vaudeville card has in its list "Four Kneeling Girls", classic musicians and pleasing songsters; "The Kanes" in a new comedy act. Held Sisters, comedy dancers and Jack Strauss, a new character comedian. Of particular interest to Weymouth people is the coming on September 30, October 1 and 2 of Toby Collins, with Fannie Stetson the East Weymouth girl and their Zars girls. Friday night October 1 will be Weymouth night and remember this act is surrounded by the usual fine show. Reserve your seats by phoning Quincy 1710.

K. OF C. ELECTS OFFICERS.

William H. Doyle New Grand Knight of Weymouth Council 729.

Weymouth council K. of C. held its annual meeting last Sunday afternoon and elected the following officers: William H. Doyle, G. K.; Edward P. O'Brien, D. G. K.; Joseph A. Fern, R. S.; William A. Brice, F. S.; Andrew Fahey, T.; George A. McGowan, I. G.; Joseph W. McDonald, O. G.; Bartholomew J. Smith, W.; John W. Cronin, A.; Emanuel J. Goulat, C.; Archie F. Heffernan, trustee for three years. W. H. Doyle and E. T. Butler, delegates to State convention with C. B. Mitchell and F. M. McCarthy alternates.

Winter Change of Time, N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., September 26, 1915.

Important changes of passenger train time schedules on all divisions of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad will go into effect Sunday, September 26th.

The usual seasonal curtailment of service will be effected and several adjustments made to afford connections.

Timetables giving detailed information regarding the new arrangement will be in the hands of agents prior to the date on which these schedules go into effect.

Bates Opera House.

Next Monday night the Knickerbocker Stock Company will open a two nights engagement at Bates Opera House. The company comes here direct from a ten week engagement at Mayflower Grove. Standard plays will be produced with feature vaudeville between the acts at popular prices.

Suffrage Position Stated.

Suffrage Headquarters, Boston, Mass., Week of September 13, 1915.

The Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association has authorized the following statement regarding the Massachusetts Liquor League's activity in the Anti-Suffrage Campaign.

Our opponents are trying to make it appear that we are identified with two elements in the political life of our state that are irreconcilably opposed to each other—the prohibition element and the liquor element.

Mr. Frank Foxcroft, official advocate of the Anti-Suffrage Association, is trying to link up Woman Suffrage with the so called "liquor interests."

The Massachusetts Liquor League, on the other hand, is busily attacking Woman Suffrage and working officially in the interests of the Anti-Suffrage Association. The Liquor League takes an opposite view from that of Mr. Foxcroft and contends that we are the enemies of liquor. They are soliciting funds from liquor dealers to defeat the Suffrage Amendment.

How Mr. Foxcroft can reconcile himself to his Anti-Suffrage and Prohibition attitude when the Massachusetts Liquor League is so closely identified with Anti-Suffrage is hard to understand. It may be that Mr. Foxcroft doesn't know of the Anti-Suffrage Liquor League combination. If so, we give him this public notice that such a combination exists and we offer him an opportunity to retract his recent statements that our Association is opposed to Prohibition. Our Association does not take a stand against Prohibition neither does it take a stand for Prohibition. We have only one plank in our platform and that is "Votes for Women." We are non-partisan and must remain so.

There is a Prohibition party ticket before the voters of Massachusetts this Fall, that will handle the Prohibition question as a party question. While we welcome the vote of every Prohibitionist in the state, we have thousands of loyal friends in every other party and look to them for votes. We want all the votes that we can honestly get, and we propose to get them by adhering strictly to our 65-year old attitude as a non-partisan organization. No fair minded man in the state will ask us to do otherwise.

Why has the Massachusetts Liquor League officially identified itself with the Anti-Suffrage Campaign?

We think the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the Catholic Total Abstinence Society, the Massachusetts Total Abstinence Society, the Anti-Saloon League, the Prohibitionists, in fact every voter in Massachusetts, would like to know the truth about the Anti-Suffrage Association's most active friend, the Massachusetts Liquor League.

110TH QUARTERLY MEETING.

Society of the First Congregational Church, East Weymouth, Entertains the Clark Christian Endeavor Union.

On last Friday evening in the Congregational church, East Weymouth, the Clark Christian Endeavor union, Alan Munroe of South Weymouth, president, held one of the most pleasing and inspiring meeting the organization has ever known throughout its twenty-seven years of service.

The entire arrangements were in the hands of the local society and every detail of the occasion was so planned that there was never a hitch in the program. The interior of the church was handsomely decorated with the C. E. colors of red and white, palms and large bouquets of cut flowers. The motto of the meeting "I Will" was painted in large letters on cloth and occupied a conspicuous place across the front of the auditorium.

Following the reception a banquet was served at 6.30 to over two hundred and twenty-five persons by the Golden Rule Circle of King's Daughters. The banquet being in charge of a committee with Miss Mildred W. Newcomb, chairman. The Keith Trio, Miss Marjorie W. Keith, pianist; Miss Theodora T. Keith, cornetist and Miss Mary J. Keith, violinist was a pleasing feature at the banquet.

The evening session began at 7.45 with societies present from North Abington, Rockland, Scituate, North Scituate, Cohasset, Hingham, South Weymouth, Weymouth, North Weymouth and East Weymouth, who with guests made about 300 people. President Munroe had charge of this session and opened it with a praise service. Words of welcome were spoken by John A. McFann, president of the entertaining society and greetings given by Miss Mary J. Marden of the local Epworth league and by Theodore E. Stevenson of the Boston Union, Rev. Edward T. Ford, D. D. pastor conducted the devotional exercises. The C. E. vested choir of eighteen female voices sang two selections and Miss Elizabeth I. Taylor, soprano and Miss Grace N. Taylor, alto, sang the duet "The Lord is My Shepherd." Reports of the Sagamore Institute were given by the Union delegates, Miss Alice Nason of North Weymouth and Edward F. Stoddard of North Abington. A. J. Shurtle, treasurer and publication manager of the United Society of Christian Endeavor gave an extremely interesting address on "Christian Endeavor Work, Principles of Christian Endeavor and those things that make for true Christian Endeavor." In his address Mr. Shurtle spoke of the value of a personal touch in C. E. work and urged that loyalty to the C. E. principles be ever before us.

The Clark Union banner was awarded to the Scituate C. E. Society, H. Willard Knights, president with a percentage of 92. The Old South Society of South Weymouth ranked next with 82 percent.

The general committee in charge consisted of John A. McFann, Miss Mildred W. Newcomb, Miss Helen J. Murray, Miss Susie A. Humphrey, Miss Elizabeth Humphrey, Miss Evelyn Nash, Miss Helen M. Lewis, Miss Elizabeth I. Taylor, Miss Helen Lincoln, Charles L. Gibson, Norman E. Dizer and Emerson R. Dizer.

South Shore Commandery, K. T.

At the annual meeting of South Shore Commandery, Knights Templar, held in Masonic Building, East Weymouth, last night, the following list of officers was elected for the ensuing year: E. C. Sir Charles G. Jordan; Genl, Sir J. Burton Reed; C. G., Sir Edward B. Pratt; S. W., Sir Henry J. Beck; J. W., Sir Henry P. Tilden; Treas., Sir W. Edward Gutterston; Recorder, Em. Sir Eben H. Cain; Prelate, Em. Sir G. R. P. Barker; Asst. Prelate, Sir Joseph Chase, Jr.; Trustee for three years, Sir William J. Wallace; Representative South Shore Masonic Association, Em. Sir G. R. P. Barker.

Mrs. Delia Knight.

Mrs. Delia Knight passed away at the home of her sister Mrs. A. Spencer Marsh in South Weymouth last Tuesday morning after a long illness.

The deceased was forty-seven years of age and was born in Pembroke. Besides her sister with whom she lived she leaves two brothers, Abel Sampson of this town and Arthur Sampson of South Hason.

Services were held from her late home on Thursday at 10.30 and further services were held from the Pembroke church at 1.30.

Rev. H. C. Alvord of the Old South Church conducting both services. Burial was in the family lot at Pembroke Center cemetery. The pall bearers were her four nephews. There were many floral offerings.

J. J. Kelley drowned in Fore River.

John J. Kelley aged 28 and son of John and Bridget Kelley employed as assistant gas maker at the Old Colony Gas plant on Quincy avenue was drowned in the river in the rear of the plant Friday afternoon. He complained of the excessive heat and clad in his overalls he jumped off the gas wharf into the water. On coming to the surface he shouted for help. A number of the employees rushed to his aid only to see him go down for the third time.

After diving for ten minutes the body was located by George Whitmarsh and later recovered with the aid of grappling irons.

The company's pulmotor was brought into service and Drs. J. H. Cook and N. V. Mullin worked for two hours but failed to resuscitate him although at one time there was a slight response in heart action but this soon ceased. The physicians said that Kelley's drowning was due to an attack of cramps brought on by his over heated condition when entering the water. After being veiled by medical examiner John C. Fraser the body was removed to the residence of his brother Patrick Kelley where he had resided since coming to Weymouth.

The funeral was held from the church of the Sacred Heart Sunday afternoon and was attended by delegations from Quincy division A. O. H. and Independent National Foresters Branch 601 also of Quincy of which organization deceased had been a member for several years. The delegations escorted the remains to St. Francis Xavier cemetery where the interment took place.

Brockton Fair.

There has been so much said in reference to the work of the Dirigible War Planes in the European war that the public will be greatly interested in the War Plane to be shown at the Brockton Fair, October 5, 6, 7, 8. Aviator Frank Goodale, the leading dirigible pilot of this country, will give exhibitions daily, including military maneuvering and bomb dropping in a Dirigible War Plane, 65 feet in length, built on the regular air scout lines.

The first Auto Show ever held in Massachusetts outside of Boston, with the sanction of the Boston Auto Dealer's Association, will be held at the Fair this year, with a large display of cars of the 1916 model, and with many features of interest to motorists.

The usual Brockton Fair programme will be bigger than ever, and the Fair will keep up its reputation for giving the biggest and best outdoor show in New England.

Suffrage Meeting.

Upwards of 200 persons interested in the Woman's Suffrage movement by invitation of Peter J. Healey met at his residence 7 Randolph street South Weymouth last Sunday afternoon. The exercises were held out of doors and the balcony, from which the addresses were delivered as well as the front of the house was profusely decorated with American flags and tri colored bunting. Mr. Healey extended a welcome to the people assembled and introduced Mrs. William Fottler of South Weymouth as presiding officer. Miss Theodora Keith rendered several cornet solos as well as leading the patriotic singing. Addresses were made by Mrs. Gertrude B. Newall of Brookline, chairman of the Norfolk County Woman's League and Mrs. Helen S. Goodnough of Brookline.

An Appreciation.

In the passing of Miss Mary W. Wood to the land beyond, a glad release has come to her, but an aching void is left in many hearts. Never physically strong, she grew up with severe illnesses which greatly depleted her strength, and as the years went on health continued to fail often attended with great suffering. In spite of all this she went cheerfully and patiently on day after day, always looking hopefully forward to the future. Hers was a brave, noble and generous spirit, and her kindness and thoughtfulness for others were especially shown in her love and devotion to her parents. Prevented for a long while from doing much active work, she yet took a keen interest in the every day affairs of the world and of the church of which she was a member, regretting her inability to attend the services.

Thus her home became very dear to her. She was a delightful hostess and possessed an attractive personality to which all with whom she came in contact will testify. Her work along educational lines is gratefully remembered by her pupils, and "Many will rise up and call her blessed."

After being closely associated with her eleven years, I am glad to pay this tribute to her memory.

WEYMOUTH PRIMARY.

Democrats Feared the Weather But Republicans Got There.

Tuesday the much discussed primary election or nominating meeting for state offices came off as per schedule, and Weymouth result is now on file at the State House with that of other towns and cities of the state.

Weather conditions may have interfered somewhat with the size of the vote, and undoubtedly did for the Democratic party as comparatively few members ventured abroad under the threatening conditions as will be shown by the following results:

The polls were opened at 4 o'clock, p. m. and until the Warden's gavel fell at 8.30 there was no rush but a little doing all the time. The first move was to discard the erroneous ballots, of which there were fewer than was expected, and then the count went on, but the last of the six boxes did not reach the Town Clerk until the midnight bell had tolled and the morning sun gilded the east before John A. Raymond, town clerk, and his all-night companion, C. Will Bailey, left the building in which was stored the following results of the labor of nine Progressives, 67 Democrats, and 886 newly organized Republicans of Weymouth.

TOWN BUSINESS.

A hearing was given the Bay State R. R. on Monday, in relation to relocating track at the widening of Pleasant street, and the request was granted.

The Light & Power Co. was given a hearing on petition to erect 6 poles on Canterbury street, in East Weymouth, and 4 poles on Main street, both of which were granted as their was no remonstrance.

It was voted to allow Mr. Geo. H. Lond for the Faith mission a permit to erect a tent on the Town House sight for holding Gospel meetings and also to hold open evening meetings on the southerly side of Jackson square.

Voted, That the windows on the south side of Old Fellows Opera House must be closed during moving picture shows on account of the disturbance to neighbors.

Agent of the National Alliance Co. was given a hearing in regard to a "Tufts Lecture" course the coming season, but no arrangements were made and a course of entertainments is as yet uncertain.

Mr. Merritt was instructed to remove two trees on Pleasant street, and there are other trees about which there is much discussion as to what is the court of "last appeal" or who can decide on question involved such as what is a "Public Shade Tree?" Who has authority to cut, trim or remove, and the matter is referred to Town Council Worthen.

The Planning Board had a well attended meeting on Tuesday night, and while it may not be an executive board, it has the opportunity to plan many things in regard to streets, parks, play grounds, vacant land, etc.

At a special meeting of the Selectmen, Tuesday, the following were drawn as jurors for the Superior Court at Dedham, James R. South, Charles Q. Clapp and George L. Crawford.

Bradford Hawes, of the board of selectmen, and Superintendent Eldridge of the Town Farm, were in Brighton, Wednesday, hunting for cows in order to relieve the milk situation which is becoming quite serious, but cows were scarce and the few in evidence not desirable and no additions were made to the town herd.

Correction.

In our report last week of the annual meeting of the Breezy Hill Neighborhood club the list of officers elected should have read as follows: Mrs. E. C. Kellan, president; Mrs. E. E. Richards, vice president; Mrs. S. N. Crosby Jr. secretary and Mrs. Walter Richards, treasurer.

—There will be a meeting of the official board held after the prayer meeting this evening.

—Mrs. Walfred Hayden of Rockland was in town Thursday visiting friends.

—Master Norman Marten of Somerville is making his home with his aunt, Mrs. George Moore.

Many Weymouth people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Weymouth citizen's recommendation.

Asa K. Binney, 112 Broad street, Weymouth, says: "I had severe backaches and the action of my kidneys was irregular. After using three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, I was greatly relieved. The pains in my back left and the action of my kidneys was regulated. Others of the family have also used Doan's Kidney Pills with great benefit."

The above statement was given on May 5th, 1912 and over three years later, Mr. Binney said: "My faith in Doan's Kidney Pills is just the same as it was after I first used them. I still get the same good results, whenever I have occasion to take a box or so of Doan's Kidney Pills and recommend them as highly as in the past."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Binney had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

An Anecdote of Genius.

The following anecdote of Leigh Hunt was once related by "Orion" Horne. Horne on a bitterly cold day in winter went to see Hunt and found him in a large room with a wide, old fashioned fireplace. He had dragged his piano on to the hearth, close to a large fire, leaving only room for himself and his chair, and was playing with the greatest enjoyment.

"My dear fellow," cried Horne, "are you aware that you are ruining your piano forever and ever in that heat?" "I know, I know," murmured Hunt, "but it is delicious."

Tomb of Ezra.

Doubt has often been expressed as to whether the tomb of Ezra, on the Tigris, now in British possession, really holds the remains of the great Hebrew prophet, for Josephus says he was buried in Jerusalem. The Talmud, however, states that Ezra died at Zamzura, a town on the Tigris, when on his way from Jerusalem to Susa to plead the cause of the captive Hebrews; so the authenticity of the tomb is not improbable.—Fall Mail Gazette.

97 PERCENT OF WOMEN WANT THE BALLOT.

The Anti-Suffrage platform contains as many planks as there are Anti-Suffragists. They could all be summed up, however, in the one expression, "Anything to defeat the Suffrage Amendment." They have recently issued a new book called, "The case against Woman Suffrage," which disproves its own assertions on every page.

On page 9 they tell us that 250,491 women voted in Chicago last April. Then on page 28 they tell us that "Only a small minority of women demand the ballot." With over a quarter of a million women voting in one city on the very first occasion after they are given the privilege, the Anti-Suffragists still persist that "only a small minority of the women want the ballot."

The real facts of the case are that only a negligible number of the women of Massachusetts have ever expressed themselves as opposed to Suffrage. After 20 years of expensive and thorough canvassing all over the state, the Anti-Suffragists claim only 30,000 names on their lists. Out of over 1,000,000 women in Massachusetts over 21 years of age only 30,000, or 3 percent, have ever expressed themselves as "not wanting to vote," leaving 97 percent who do want the ballot.

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have it delivered at your house with something new every week for a full year by sending $2.00 to this office now.

Don't buy what you do not need because it comes cheap.

In sowing grass seed for pastures it is far better to use a mixture of various kinds as this makes a denser herbage and affords a better succession of fresh feed, than when only one kind is grown by itself.

Wear a straw hat, if you like, as long as the weather is hot without regard to arbitrary edicts. A fool and his straw hat are soon parted.

Soapsuds—Don't waste your soap-suds but apply it to your rose-bushes and grape-vines. There is no application in the world equal to it. Indeed, vines generally are beautified by it.

Altogether more than 124,000 animals have been killed because of foot and mouth epidemic. The loss is between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. This expense has been shared by the federal and the several state governments.

The soil for alfalfa should have plenty of humus. A deep, rich, sandy loam will grow alfalfa to perfection. The land should be well drained, for alfalfa will not be a success on swamp land.

Many successful farmers in recent years have been following the plan of feeding out in the fields when the weather is dry, thus letting the stock attend to the manure hauling themselves and doing it when none of the goodness has washed or wasted away.

So great is the utility of cutting fodder for stock, that it can only be appreciated by those who have had experience in the business. We know of many who have seen such great advantage in this mode of preparing fodder, that they buy a cutter when they have only one animal, a horse or cows, for instance to feed.

Perhaps many will think that the fall of the year is not the proper time to water trees, but the fact is it is much more important that orchard land should be thoroughly flooded during autumn than at any other season, especially if the latter part of the summer and early autumn has been extremely dry.

Pullets properly hatched from good stock and well grown, housed well and fed well are the ones that shell out the eggs when the prices are highest. The first essential for any poultry farm is well-bred stock, and the next is well-fed stock.

If you are just starting in the fancy poultry business and have a chance to enter your birds in some local show near home, by all means do so. The entries in the small shows are not large and you will be more than repaid, even if you fail to get in on the ribbons, by being able to compare your stock with that of older breeders who know how to produce prize-winners.

We are just beginning to realize the value of stable manure. While the market gardener has for years depended upon it for success, the general farmer is just beginning to see its value, and to give it a place in his farming scheme. With its more general use is also coming more care in saving, without a loss of the ingredients.

The sooner potatoes are dug, after they are ripe, when the weather is fair, and the ground is dry, the less liable they are to rot. After digging, let them lie on the surface till thoroughly dry, then secure them in cellars, sheds or barns, as may be deemed best; put them in broad shallow bins that they may be exposed to the air to prevent heating, and convenient for inspection.

The first point to consider in selecting seed corn is maturity. As corn must be acclimated to a region before best results can be obtained, it is not wise to use seed from another locality, even that grown in another section of the state. It is better to secure seed from a neighbor producing the best corn in the community.

In deciding the time to plow the advantages and disadvantages of both spring plowing and fall plowing must be taken into consideration. Heavy rains in August indicate that fall plowing should be done, as the gain of moisture during the winter by the stubble land probably would not equal the loss of moisture taken by the weeds in the fall. If only light rains occur, however, the moisture in the soil produced by these rains probably would be more than offset by the greater quantity of snow held by the stubble during the winter and the reduction of the weeds in the crop. Spring plowing would then be better.

Chalmers Six-40

$1350 Seven Passenger

You ride in the Chalmers Six-40—not on it

THERE may be those who take "with a grain of salt" the statement that a $1350 car can be made to ride as easily and be as comfortable as a car selling for $6000 or more.

Nevertheless, it is absolutely true that no car, at any price, rides any easier or is more comfortable than this $1350 Chalmers Six-40, and a ride in it will thoroughly convince you of this fact.

Comfort must be built into a car, but it is not difficult if you know how.

The seat backs and side walls of the Six-40 are built for comfort—according to scientific principles that years of experience have taught us.

The seats and side walls are deep and roomy, the upholstery is luxurious and is of full leather. The leg-room is ample.

Truly, you ride in this car—not on it.

The rear springs are 57 inches long—the longest on any car in the world at the price. Aside from the great comfort they give you will find that their resilient action will save you tire bills.

And, finally, there is always in the Six-40 the comfort of steady power—the quick acceleration—the easy, vibrationless pull of the marvelous valve-in-head overhead camshaft motor.

Let us show you some real motor car comfort. Let us do it to-day.

Central Square East Weymouth

THIRTY-NINE YEARS AGO.
Joint action has been taken by the sub-committee of the Town Committee of Weymouth and Quincy in the matter of representative nominations for the two towns, and they have agreed that Weymouth shall have two of the representatives and Quincy one, the arrangement to apply to this year alone.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.
The Conference Committee on the part of the Democrats of Weymouth to confer with the Quincy committee on the question of Representatives to the General Court, consists of Henry Newton, Z. L. Bicknell, Frank W. Lewis, Alanson A. Holbrook and Alvah Raymond Jr.

A meeting of the Republicans of Weymouth was held in Amazon Hall last Saturday evening. Aug. A. Linton was chairman and Wm. S. Wallace, secretary. It was voted to form a Hays & Wheeler club and the following officers were chosen: Aug. J. Richards, president; Wm. S. Wallace, C. E. Bicknell, Dana Smith, vice presidents; Arthur L. Hobart, recording secretary; George E. Porter, corresponding secretary; Hon. E. A. Hunt, treasurer.

A call for a meeting of citizens, in Engine hall, East Weymouth, last Saturday night to get an expression of opinion in regard to location of the Engine house and lockup brought out a good number of people who were interested in the matter.

The extremely hot weather which continued for three days was unexpected at this season of the year, and the sudden change nearly prostrated many people, a few being made quite ill. The thermometer stood higher than at any time during the summer and the electric cars did a thriving business all day and evening Sunday.

Extensive improvements are being made on the exterior of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. The trees in front, which were so near the building as to make it damp and mouldy, have been cut down and the edifice will receive an artistic coat of paint as well as other improvements.

The funeral of Thomas B. Porter, formerly of Weymouth, took place at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Emily A. Field, of Dorchester, on Friday afternoon. The Rev. Eugene R. Shippen, of the First Parish Unitarian church officiated. The casket was completely massed with ivy, with a beautiful ivy wreath encircling the plate. A large number of prominent people were present. The interment was in the family lot in the old Village cemetery at Weymouth.

Lost and Found.
Personal—Will the young lady who opened an umbrella in front of the theater the other night please look on the end of the umbrella for a man's eye?

Velvet for Cleaning.
A small piece of velvet is a fine cleaner for brass, and for polishing silverware it is better than chamois. It quickly removes the dust from woodwork, and if used to rub the stove after it has been blacked will produce a high polish. There is nothing better to dust a felt hat. Silk dresses and other silk articles should always be dusted with it, for it cleans perfectly without cutting or otherwise injuring the silk.

GAS COMPANY SERVICE.

One of the most important features of National Gas Lighting Week, which will be celebrated by practically every gas company in the country, during the week of Sept. 27th to Oct. 2d., is the invitation of the local gas company to all consumers to make full and free use of its service in insuring the satisfactory operation of gas lights.

This free service is not new, nor is it for one week only, but Lighting Week is believed to be a good time to bring it more forcibly to the attention of the public.

The gas company is desirous that every gas light in this locality shall be always in good condition, because if it is not, it will not be used to the maximum extent, nor will the owner feel so kindly toward gas as he ought, all of which would mean a loss to the company. Therefore when the offer is made to clean and adjust lights free of charge it is not a case of giving something for nothing, but merely a good business move which in the end makes money for the gas company.

This form of service applies to all lights in residences and is thus somewhat different from the service given to the stores and factories, where for a small payment each month the company sends men at regular intervals to overhaul and adjust the lights, supply new mantles and broken glass-ware and make other needed repairs.

In the case of service to residences, which is known as request maintenance no charge is made unless new parts are required, in which case the parts only are charged for at the regular retail prices and the time of the men who do the work is free.

Many persons have hesitated to avail themselves of this gas company service, perhaps from modesty or uncertainty. The gas company wishes it known, however, that there is no string to its offer, but that the calls of representatives to inspect and adjust appliances are absolutely free and that if any new parts are needed the representative will give an estimate of the cost and will await the consumer's decision as to whether the work shall be done.

With these facts kept clearly in mind, it is hoped that the consumers during Lighting Week, will notify the company if their gas lights are in need of attention, but with the understanding that at any time in the year this same service is available.

In some cases a gas light does not burn properly, because a little dirt in the burner interferes with the proper flow of gas. In other cases the burner has become carbonized and the same result is found. Again there may be some slight fault in the adjustment which interferes with securing a good light.

To one unfamiliar with the gas light these troubles may seem difficult to overcome, but to the trained employees of the company it is only a question of a few minutes to set everything in order and insure perfect illumination in the home.

Another feature of this free service is the delivering and installing without extra charge of mantles, glass-ware and other parts of lights bought at the gas office. When this is done a perfect result is always secured, whereas if the consumer himself attempted to place these parts on the lamps there would be danger of improper installation, whereby the consumer would lose in the efficiency of the light and the gas company, of course, would lose in patronage through having an imperfectly operating appliance in use.

This free service does not apply to gas lamps alone; it is maintained and followed out in the entire operation of delivering gas whether to the lamp or any other burner. It is the effort of the company to keep everything in perfect condition from the time the gas leaves the holder until it emerges in the form of flame from the range, water heater or gas iron, or from one of the various types of gas lamps.

Real Life.
In Russia, because the peasants have no books to read, they are all forced to read the book of nature. They do not hear the imitation of the nightingale, therefore they listen to the nightingale itself. They do not look at "real life," as depicted in novels, therefore they look at real life without the novels.

Odd Phrases.
"To sleep like a top" seems a very absurd phrase. It is a corruption of the French proverb, "dormir comme une taupe," to sleep like a mole. "Just the cheese" is an Oriental phrase. The word "cheese," from cheez, Hia doostance, means "thing."

Keep a Memorandum.
Keep a little notebook on your library shelf if you are in the habit of lending your books to your friends. Have it alphabetically arranged and every time you lend a book put down the name of the friend to whom you gave it, together with the title of the book. It is only a matter of a minute to do this and saves lots of time and worry over trying to locate missing books.

Getting Full Value From Your Telephone?

Remember:—There will be no charge on a particular party call if you are not connected with the person whose name you have given to the toll operator.

(Two-number calls cannot be made for a specified person, and such calls will be charged for if there is any answer by the station which has been called.)

You can obtain rates to any place by asking for the toll rate operator. There will be no charge for such a call.

If you want the toll operator to report to you the actual cost of the call, when the message is completed, please ask her to do so when you give the order for the call.

If the person wanted has no telephone, we will try to arrange, for a small additional message charge, to have him called to a pay station.

When you leave your office or home, tell someone where you are going. Then your toll calls may follow you.

Weymouth Gazette

FRIDAY, SEPT. 24, 1915

The enrollment of 1,900 freshmen, and a total of 3,800 students in all, at the opening of the Y. M. C. A. evening school of Boston, proves that the young men of Boston and vicinity are alive to their opportunities to get a college grade education.

If any one doubts that the children of Weymouth are not taking advantage of our splendid school system, let him get around town some morning about 8 o'clock and see our squares full of scholars, waiting to be taken by cars to school, he will have his doubt dispelled.

The Boston Herald and Traveler passed into new hands last week and claims that the change adds to the financial standing and uplift morally. We congratulate the new administration, but add that morally we have considered the Herald one of the cleanest papers on morals which we read, and nothing appears in it which may not be placed in the most fastidious and critical home.

With Thomas A. Edison at the head, the Naval Advisory board has been given out for the public to peruse. The country expects great things from this board. It will not be disputed for a moment that we have in this country, the inventive genius and resources to place our navy on an equal footing with that of any other nation in the world. What we have needed in the past is not greater ability, but greater concentration and thought at points where it will do us the most good. For years, we have been making submarine and other designs for our nations, but for ourselves, a toy navy and a few exhibiting aviators and aeroplanes has been considered sufficient by the majority. War is now, more than a matter of men and willingness to fight. To cope with other nations in times of peace as well as war, we must be prepared all along the line.

Putting suffrage and prohibition together is rather a poor policy in our opinion and the Massachusetts Suffrage Association acted wisely in repudiating the program, by coming out with an official statement of non-partisanship. The suffragists are fighting for "votes for women" and they cannot possibly be massed on the prohibition issue, any more than on any other issue wherein political profit and loss are figured. Some people say that, as prohibition is a moral issue, the women should join themselves with it. Not at all. Many clean minded, upright persons do not believe in prohibition, and at the present there is no question that this same subject of prohibition is one of the very live issues before the voters through avowed candidates. Women who want the vote must stand clear of such issues. We believe, from all we can learn, that our women are inclined towards prohibition and certainly it looks as though the large liquor interests have put heart and soul into the fight against the extension of suffrage. The above fact is a great testimony to the developing prominence of women suffrage. Not a great many years ago, few would have asked whether women favored prohibition or open saloons. The excellent judgment by their refusal to be hoodwinked into a political tangle, is certainly praise worthy.

Not Paint.

The worst mistake in painting is not putting-off. That costs about 10 percent; you keep your money a year and pay 10 percent for it.

Paint would have to come-down 25 percent to make 10 percent on the job, for wages do not go-down.

The worst mistake is "cheap" paint. It costs from 50 percent to 100, first cost, and another in wear.

What a liar "cheap" is! "Put-off" is bad-enough; "cheap" is ten times worse. DEVOE.

There is a man living in Langhorne, Pa., who amuses himself by grafting all sorts of plants upon other plants. He has invented the "table d'hote" tree, formerly a peach tree that did its full duty in bearing peaches but that now bears apples, plums and cherries as well, besides supporting grafts of cedar, rose, hemlock, blackberry and lilac. With what curiosity the peach tree's relatives must look upon it!

Geraldine Farrar in Photoplay "Carmen" Boston Symphony Hall.

Boston is the first city in the United States selected by Geraldine Farrar for her debut as a motion picture star. Announcement comes from Symphony Hall that for a limited engagement beginning October 1, there will be shown there to the accompaniment of an orchestra of fifty and at popular prices, the Paramount Picture "Carmen," produced by the Lasky Feature Play Company and in which the noted prima donna appears as the star in the title role.

Miss Farrar made the request that Boston be selected for the first city in which her motion picture, "Carmen," will be seen because it is her native city and because, in Symphony Hall, dedicated to the cause of musical art, the auspices of the premiere will be in keeping with prima donna's serious purpose in entering this new field of animated pictures. Symphony Hall has a seating capacity of 2,500 and through the medium of the screen Miss Farrar anticipates she will reach an entirely new audience of Americans only a few of whom have seen her in opera or heard her on the concert stage.

"In opera, conditions are such that I appear only in New York for a few months and in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago a few weeks out of the year," said Miss Farrar recently. "But through the medium of motion pictures I will reach a new audience, a mighty population of millions before whom it has long been my desire as an artist that I should act. I believe motion pictures will make thousands of new friends for me."

It is probable that the manner of the presentation of "Carmen" in Symphony Hall will mark a new era in motion picture exhibiting. C. A. Ellis, of Symphony Hall and Morris Gest completed the arrangements for the use of the magnificent building and Samuel Goldfish, executive head of the Lasky Feature Play Company has engaged S. M. Rothapel to personally supervise the projection of the photoplay. Mr. Rothapel started New York a year and a half ago when he opened the Strand theatre, that city, said to be the finest and largest motion picture theatre in the world. Paramount Pictures are shown at the Strand. Hugo Reisenfeld will conduct the operatic orchestra.

Miss Farrar herself took a keen interest in the musical arrangements for her photoplay, "Carmen," and the Lasky musical staff at Hollywood, Cal., had the benefit of her advice and extraordinary knowledge of music, when she was at the studios all this summer acting before the camera. A complete operatic score for the picture has been arranged and the orchestra will synchronize with every scene and action of the picture.

"Motion pictures are wonderful," said Miss Farrar recently. "Before the camera one does not feel the limitation of the operatic stage. The proscenium of the photoplay is the horizon: the sun supplies the light, and nature's own hills, streams and trees furnish the scenic settings. It is wonderful."

Miss Farrar will attend the first showing in Boston.

Rivers' Sources Differ.
The springs of the Missouri, which proceed southeast to the Gulf of Mexico, and those of the Columbia, which flow northwest to the Pacific ocean, are only a mile apart, while those of some of the tributaries of the Amazon, flowing north, and of the La Plata, flowing south, are closely contiguous.

Good Advice.
"I suffer terribly from indigestion doctor. What shall I take for it?" "It isn't so much what you take," replied the physician. "It's what you stop taking." Whereupon he proceeded to make out a long list of the things his patient must not eat.

TOP NOTCHERS IN MAJOR BASEBALL LEAGUES

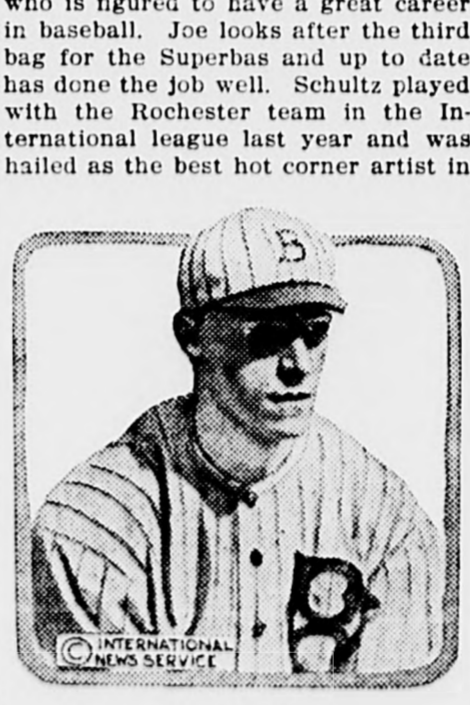

Who is the greatest ball player in the game today? This question has been asked thousands of times and has caused innumerable arguments and yet remains unsettled. It is almost certain to remain undecided, as experts, newspaper writers and baseball men are unable to agree, writes Oscar C. Rechow in Chicago News. National league men think that certain players in their organization surpass those in the American league, while men in the latter body believe they possess the best in the game. Hans Wagner, Johnny Evers, Mordecai Brown, Frank Chance, Ty Cobb, Joe Jackson, Tris Speaker, Ed Walsh, Eddie Collins and Hal Chase have been referred to at some time or other as being the star of all ball players. Fans, and men connected with the game, who admire one of these men still are of the opinion that he is the leader of the lot. Wagner, Cobb, Speaker, Collins and Jackson have probably the strongest right to the reputation owing to their ability to hit, field and run bases. Roger Bresnahan of the Chicago Cubs, who is regarded as one of the smartest ball players in the National league, paid Hans Wagner a big compliment when he declared that the Pittsburgh shortstop is the greatest ball player the game has ever had and ever will have. Bresnahan does not think baseball ever had a man of Wagner's ability, and does not think there will ever be a player who will play the game as he has played it for 17 years. The Cub manager is so strong in his belief that he declared he would not give Wagner for five Cobs, Jacksons or Speakers. "I have watched Wagner for 17 years and in that time have never seen him make a mistake and no one else has. He started to play the same year I did and because of his natural ability I took an interest in him and watched his work closely. I must say in all truthfulness that I have never seen him do the wrong thing. That may be putting it rather strong, but it is the truth. I have talked with men who have been with him for years and they have told me the same. Tommy Leach was on the Louisville club with Wagner and also at Pittsburgh, and he will confirm what I say. Fred Clarke and Gibson will say the same. They have yet to see him blunder in a play."

BASEBALL STORIES

Wallie Schang of the Athletics is to be married soon. Baseball teams at the bottoms of the various percentage columns are in danger of wet feet. The National league race cannot get much closer without causing some sort of a combustion. Al Manaux, the star youngster of the Pirates' staff, has made good as a singer of Irish songs. Reports have been circulated around the circuit this summer that Ty Cobb's throwing arm is getting weak. Manager Bresnahan declares it is outrageous that the Cardinals let Arnold Hauser get out of the league. Manager Robinson is not as boisterous as some commanders, but he has his athletes hustling all the time. John Collins has recovered his batting eye, and expects to demonstrate that fact for the balance of the season. Pittsburgh has secured Garry Fortune, pitcher, from Asheville, N. C. Several other clubs would like to get a fortune. President Ebbets of the Dodgers is pleased with his boys and thinks that his team has as much chance to win the pennant as any club. The Cleveland team will be composed of youngsters next year, for Terry Turner is the only veteran Lee Fohl now has on his pay roll. How can you dope out anything like this? The Cincinnati Reds, last in the National league standing, are leading the league in batting and fielding. Johnny Evers denies that he is quarrelsome. Umpires of the National league are now entitled to be heard on the subject, but not all at once.

Refuses to Go Back. Harry Coveleskie, southpaw of the Detroit Tigers, refuses to be a has-been. He has come back, and that means the Tigers will be hard to defeat in the American league. They will have four good hurlers to finish the season—Coveleskie, Dubuc, Dauss and James. Bill Brennan Travels Much. Umpire-in-Chief Bill Brennan is doing more traveling this year than in any of the many seasons he spent on the diamond. He keeps moving about continually in order to see that his co-workers handle their games in the right manner.

A NATIONAL LIGHTING WEEK.

Next week will be National Gas Lighting week. From Monday, September 27 to Saturday, October 2.

For months the gas people have been getting ready for Lighting Week. It is felt by the leaders of the industry that enough really big, revolutionizing things have happened in their world in the past few years to warrant the setting apart of a week for telling the public about them. Practically unknown even to many who have used gas all their lives, there are yet wonderful new ways of lighting, new types of lights, new methods of control—all of them the result of the recent work of the man in the laboratory, and all of them full of interest to the man on the street.

If you should happen into the offices of the local company next week, you would get a glimpse of some of the devices which get such transforming effects from the ordinary gas you are wont to see burning in an open flame from an ordinary tip; mantles not much larger than the tip of your thumb, giving out a light that reaches to every corner of the room; the great, luminous bowls of the semi-indirect system diffusing their soft and very perfect light; exact and easy systems of control, masterpieces of their kind; and everywhere you would notice the elimination of chimneys, gauges and stacks—the triumph of simplicity.

This was a triumph won only after long and almost heart-breaking struggles. In a little New Jersey Laboratory, Howard Lyon, one of the leading experimenters in gas, set to work to devise a better gas light than any then known. He worked for several years, and at the end of that time he had a tube, not so long as a pencil and tapering curiously in the middle, and a mantle the size of a thimble. That doesn't sound impressive, but Dr. Lyon had what he went after, and his case is typical of the labors of his fellow scientists of the gas industry all over the country. They worked to cut down, to eliminate, to simplify, and they made a tremendous scrap-heap. But they got what they were after.

There was a long period in the history of gas lighting when the scientists believed that for purposes of illumination the art was well-nigh perfected. That was the time when open flame burners were regarded as next to miraculous, and elaborate fixtures were devised to set off the garish yellow blaze.

This was just after gas began really to be used for lighting. It had been known to exist as early as the seventeenth century, when the Belgian chemist Van Helmont coined the words "gas" because it appeared to be a "ghost," the Dutch word for ghost. However, he paid the penalty for talking about ghosts, for his superstitious neighbors hounded him into obscurity. At first the seventeenth century public was afraid of the new "geest." To the popular mind the burning of a gas jet was a strange phenomenon. People thought that gas pipes were filled with fire and that the jets were only openings through which the flames escaped. They would touch the pipes fearfully, expecting to find them hot. When the early installations were made, the pipe-layers actually had to set the pipes several feet from the wall—for fear it would burn!

Gas lighting was really launched on its career in England in 1819, by a man named Winsor. However, not until 1850 did the modern scientist become dissatisfied with the crude open flame, and set about to transform it into a thing of convenience and beauty. First, by means of the now famous Bunsen burner, the spreading flame was concentrated into a small space; then rare earths, reduced to a fluid form, were made into mantles to surround this flame, increasing the light twenty-fold. It is for the scientific descendants of these very mantles that millions of dollars are spent today; and it is by them that over 75,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas are burned in this country every year.

Then came a burner in which gas was sent through a small tube at high velocity, sucking the needed air with it; and on the heels of this came the inverted type of incandescent gas mantle, the forerunner of the best in modern lighting.

At first this new unit had a most unusual fault—it was over-efficient. It gave an intolerable amount of light for the gas burned. It was in toning down and perfecting this light in the interests of the exacting human eye that Dr. Lyon's work was done.

Today the scientists can take a gas stream, hurl it at great speed through a tapering tube that constricts it so that there is an almost perfect mixture of gas and air, and fire the combination to make a light so perfectly toned as almost to cheat you into the belief that it is the daylight coming in through a window. They can conceal the source of this light in bowls of the new, heavy, luminous glassware so that the fixtures will harmonize with any modern scheme of decoration. They can turn on this light, as you can turn it on, by simply touching a chain or pushing a button in the wall.

IN SUMMER COLORS
LIGHT MATERIALS EMPLOYED BY PARISIAN MODISTES.

Lemon-Yellow Taffeta Selected by Worth for His Artistic Triumphs—Turban Toque That Has Called Forth Admiration.

Lemon-yellow taffeta is an ideal material for dinner dresses or for the short, loose coatees which are now so much worn over muslin robes. Heliotrope is another popular color. This shade looks best in charmeuse or crepe de chine; in taffeta it is rather cold. Worth recently created a delightful afternoon gown for a matron, which was composed of heliotrope charmeuse and fine black chantilly lace, writes Idalla de Villiers in the Boston Globe.

There were five lace flounces on the satin skirt, a plain space being left between them. The flounces were headed by prim ruffings of satin and a lace coatee fell over a picturesque blouse made of heliotrope chiffon. This blouse had long bishop sleeves and it opened over a finely tucked chemisette made of ivory white organdie muslin.

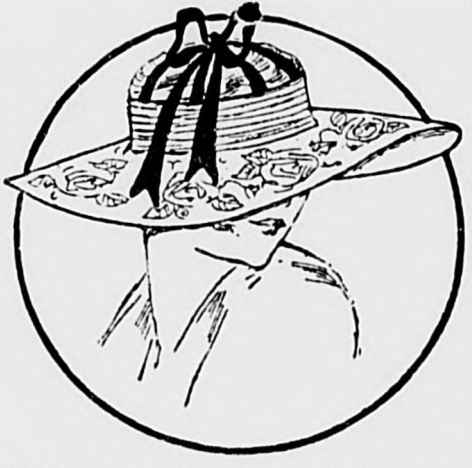

This gown was accompanied by a flat-brimmed hat in tuscany straw, which had for trimming a length of black velvet ribbon and a cluster of American Beauty roses mingled with sprays of heliotrope.

The little turban toque I have sketched this week is one of the most popular models of the season. It is close-fitting and the trimming is exceedingly simple, just one beautiful rose placed on the brim near the front and then a floating veil.

Toques of this order look well when worn in conjunction with tailored suits in white linen or fine serge.

The second head shows an uncommon shape in tuscany straw which is trimmed with a single, very long, heron feather, hem with a narrow band of lace. The two veils of the season are the short, nose length, models, and the picturesque floating veils which were brought into fashion by clever American women.

The short veils are undoubtedly practical and convenient. To some women they are very becoming, but others find the soft, folded veil of last year more flattering to the throat.

It is certain that floating veils will be all the rage when the seaside season opens. We shall then see them in chiffon, lace, tulle and coarse net.

STYLES IN HAIR DRESSING
 Castle Coiffure Is at Present Enjoying a Quite Unusual Amount of Popularity.

To produce the Castle bob coiffure, which is so popular among young girls, the hair may be drawn back loosely from the forehead and dressed low in the neck. The device or hair which gives the bobbed effect is then arranged on a narrow black velvet ribbon band. The ribbon is placed rather low on the forehead, encircling the head, which allows the bobbed hair to cover the neck and ears.

The cluster curl is a style of coiffure used either high or low. For both styles a softly constructed wire foundation covered with silk net is employed. This insures perfect symmetry to the head, and as it can be placed on any part of the head the coiffure can always be arranged in a becoming style.

For high hair dressing a round wire foundation covered with silk net is placed high on the head. The hair is drawn loosely over it and is tied securely. It then may be either coiled or tucked beneath. The curls are arranged in a cluster at the top with two or three arranged becomingly at the nape of the neck. The hair about the forehead is softly arranged and is drawn back to the curled coiffure.

Embroidered Sunshades.
 The very latest sunshade is a modified pagoda shape with an abnormally long handle and touches of rich embroidery in Japanese fashion. Genuine pagoda shapes also are very fashionable, but these are a little too remarkable for women of quiet taste; the modified pagoda is donned by the sticks are bent in the ordinary way and it is, as a rule, rather large.

Women who are clever with their needles are working silk flowers and other designs on white or black silk parasols. The more Japanese or Chinese these embroideries can be made the better, and the silks should be as soft and loose as possible.

Black Net Sleeves.
 Collar and bishop sleeves of black net are effective in a blouse of white satin. The wrists are finished with flaring picot edged frills.
