

Do We Want New People?

Most assuredly Glendale's gates are open to new residents. We want them; we need them; they are necessary to our consistent growth.

But just as surely we must provide homes for them if we expect them to locate among us.

A few years ago it was the custom for a wide-awake city to send out enticing literature in an effort to bring in new people. It is no longer necessary for Glendale to do this for new residents are coming here by the scores. Our problem today is to provide places for them to live.

Apartment houses, bungalow courts, bungalows and houses are the crying need just now and as the fall and winter advances and more eastern people come, hundreds of dwelling places will be needed.

If you build now you will be doing your community a real service and the investment will be worth your while.

We are organized to do a large part of the building necessary to meet the demand for homes in Glendale this fall and winter.

Architects, engineers and a complete line of craftsmen of every kind at your service. We make good.

DOES WEATHER AFFECT BIRTH RATE?

Now comes Dr. A. Magelssen, eminent French physician, with the announcement that he has discovered the cause—although not the remedy—for the decline in the French birth rate. He says it's the weather. For three decades, he points out, the temperature of western Europe has been falling, and for the same period the birth rate has been steadily dropping.

The explanation, he says, is that the lower temperature affects the human biological organism unfavorably, to support which he cites the universally known fact that the birth rate is higher in tropical and semi-tropical climes than in zones far to the north.

The Paris biologist's case would look much stronger if he had proof in statistics that the temperature has steadily dropped in its annular distribution only in France, since that is the only country which has expressed alarm over a diminished birth rate.

But it is worth listening to as a relaxation from political discussions growing out of the war.

These are the days when the harvest hand is willing to trade his place in the sun for a cool shade tree.

That Soviet offer of 2,000,000 rubles for the capture of a man claiming to be Czar Nicholas has strings attached. It is payable in Bolshevik money.

GERMAN EVASIVENESS

To the average person who has not followed the meetings of the Spa conference more closely than the headlines, their real significance cannot be as clear as importance warrants.

The way in which Germany is placing all sorts of obstacles in the way of meeting the terms of the peace treaty was perhaps most strikingly brought out by Premier Lloyd George, who said there are at present 3,000,000 rifles in Germany, instead of the 200,000 allowed by the peace terms, and there are six times as many machine guns as the treaty permits. This is a wide difference between promise and performance.

The Allies, the British premier said, not only insist on the strict enforcement of this clause of the treaty because they recognize difficulties Germany has encountered, but because forbearance seems to have been mistaken by the Germans for weakness. The Germans still understand force, and force only, and when force is not applied are prone to regard the non-application as an evidence of cowardice. It was therefore necessary to tell the German representatives, and tell them emphatically, that "if on October 1 the German army is not reduced to 150,000 men the Allies will proceed to occupy German territory and will not evacuate it until all the conditions of the peace treaty have been fulfilled."

The intention of the German government to keep as many men under arms as possible was apparent, as well as to keep available as much war material as they could induce the Allies to let them have. How much of this machination is due to efforts of those who would, if they could, place the Hohenzollern dynasty back in power is an interesting conjecture. The former emperor is said to have been very impatient when discussing the Spa conference with a visitor, a man formerly connected with the German navy, and to have used emphatic language in telling how he would handle that conference.

No doubt is felt in any quarter as to how Wilhelm would handle the situation in case the positions of the nations were reversed. There would be no mitigation of the terms of the treaty he would have imposed on the defeated countries, and no forbearance based on consideration of difficulties encountered in carrying out the terms.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS IMPROVE

Banking conditions show a marked improvement. Money is tight, but not nearly so much so as a few months ago. The rate of interest is again slowly receding. That, in itself, is one of the most hopeful signs.

It is announced that the government is finding a market for its certificates of indebtedness at a lower rate than a few weeks back, and there is nothing on the horizon to indicate a reversal of present tendencies.

That we have been able to weather so easily the strain that began to make itself felt early last spring is a good sign. There were those then who talked of a financial panic. There is little likelihood now of such a contingency.

There has been much healthful deflation and some suffering, but withal the readjustment period through which we are passing, and which promises a return to something more nearly like normal, with the business of the country sound and money in sufficiency to meet actual needs, has been highly beneficial regardless of the anxiety it has caused thousands of business men.

There was no doubt in the mind of anyone all along that war prices would have to come down sooner or later. There was a wide difference of opinion as to how the descent would be made. If it can be brought about without more serious results to business and industry than have followed price reductions so far made, the country should consider itself fortunate.

HIGH PRICE PEAK PASSED

The peak of high prices for foodstuffs has been passed, according to a report just issued by the department of agriculture. This is encouraging, but as the peak was thought to have been passed several times in the recent past, only to discover that a nominal reaction was followed by a fresh advance, there will be no great and premature rejoicing.

The "level of prices paid to farmers for their principal crops," says the report, fell "about 1.7 per cent in the month of June."

Less than two per cent of a reduction, although there is the promise of plenty of grain and fruit as a result of improvement in climatic and labor conditions in the great food producing states, isn't anything to boast of. It is still less encouraging when it is taken in connection with comparisons which go farther back than 30 days. The same report destroys all the joy which might be felt over any reduction in the cost of existence by saying that the index figure of such prices is still 20 per cent higher than it was a year ago and 37 per cent higher than it was two years ago.

Whatever may be the average price, it is a fact that some important articles of food are showing no sign whatever of coming down, and this is especially true of meat. In New York City there has been an increase of 12 cents a pound in the wholesale cost of the best cuts of beef in the last five weeks. Wholesalers attribute this rise to the refusal of consumers to buy any but the best cuts, and the demand for these cuts from summer resort hotels. It was explained at the packing houses the demand is so tremendous for the superior grades that the wholesalers are forced to dispose of the coarser meat at whatever prices they can to prevent it from spoiling on their hands.

Undoubtedly a popular mania for insisting upon the very best of everything is partly responsible for high prices of foodstuffs, as of everything else.

GOLD

Nine-tenths of man's efforts from cradle to grave are put forth for one thing—possession of gold.

Yet it is announced that production of new gold in the United States during 1920 will be less than $50,000,000, which amounts to less than one-tenth of one per cent of the value of products produced by the worker whose one incentive is the gold his work will bring.

WHY HELD ON COAST

HERE WERE VITAL REASONS FOR TRACTOR SHOW LOCATION

More and more it becomes apparent that the choice of Los Angeles vicinity as the strategic location for the 1920 National Tractor Show was not because of consuming love for the people of this coast, but for the soundest of business reasons. This is evident when one reads a survey of the west coast territory, prepared by George H. Woolley, Jr., after spending more than three months in investigation "which is of special interest for it vividly portrays the trade and sales possibilities for exhibitors in the National Tractor & Implement Show of the West to be held in Glendale, Cal., September 20th to 26th. The show is endorsed by the National Implement and Vehicle Association and is held under the supervision of the Tractor and Implement Dealers' Association of Southern California, with the co-operation of California Tractor and Implement Association, San Francisco; Portland Tractor Association, Portland, Ore., and Northern Tractor and Farm Power Association, Spokane, Wash., and under the management of Guy H. Hall."

The words above within the quotation marks appear at the head of a circular headed "The Field of the National Tractor and Implement Show of the West," sent out to tractor and implement dealers of the coast and the portion of this circular quoted below show that the greatest field for the development of the industry is right here in California. The extracts from this circular are as follows:

In the evolution of California agriculture, the tractor has played an important role. Confronted with wide expanses of prairie lands, unusual climatic conditions and varying soil textures, the limitations of animal power were early recognized. Tractors have been in use on the farms of California for more than fifteen years. In no other section of the country has the farm tractor gained a stronger foothold. In no other section is it more closely dovetailed into the routine of farm work.

In California the use of tractors is by no means limited to plowing and harvesting. They are used more extensively for belt work than in other sections. Furthermore, their use is not confined to conventional farm operations. Many machines are sold for building roads, levees and ditches. The logging camps of Northern California offer a big market for the larger machines.

The original California farms were extremely large. In many cases the fields were measured in square miles rather than acres. The large track-driven tractor was first developed to handle these wide expanses of rough virgin land. The successful operations of this type of machine gained for it a strong foothold, and for a number of years the track-driven tractor has dominated power farming on the Coast.

Following the pioneer days, farms became smaller and were more intensively cultivated. Small tractors of the track-driven type have been developed to meet these new conditions and, as the acreage per farm becomes less, the wheel tractor is coming into more general favor.

There always will be a big demand for the large track-driven type. Many thousands of acres are controlled by syndicates who use this kind of machine for all heavy work, such as plowing, harrowing, discing, harvesting, etc. An excellent example of the large scale operations in practice on the Coast is afforded by the mammoth combined harvester. With this outfit one acre of wheat is cut, threshed, cleaned and bagged, ready for the market, every six minutes. However, even the largest operators use wheel machines, especially for seeding and light hauling around the farm.

Many kinds of soil are found in California. In fact there are from six to ten distinctly different soils on the average farm. In a half mile furrow, I had the opportunity of observing soil variations including white ash, blow sand, red clay, adobe, chocolate dry bog and Bermuda sod. Obviously, with such frequent soil variations, it is practically impossible to get an even job of plowing with horses. On the other hand, with a farm tractor of sufficient power, the furrow may be turned at an even depth through the hard spots without readjusting the plow.

In former days wheat was the one big staple crop. Today it is hard to name anything that is not grown in California, and in no other state are the marketing channels so highly and effectively organized. Diversified crops are the direct result of power farming, and they, in turn, have created a demand for all kinds and types of farm machinery. The farm tractor, in some form or another, has a sphere of usefulness in connection with each of these crops. Perhaps the crops that lend themselves most successfully to tractor operations are grains of all kinds, fruits, beets, hay and cotton.

Cotton is becoming one of the most important crops of Southern California. Fifteen years ago the yield was nothing. In 1920, the value of the crop will run something over sixty million dollars. Last year there were under cultivation 250,000 acres. This year the acreage will be materially increased. It is quite essential that cotton be cultivated several times during the season, and for this work the motor cultivator is coming into extensive use.

The vast irrigation system which is spreading through the state is transforming unproductive land into truck gardens. Many of these farms are large enough to well afford a medium size tractor of either the track-driven or the wheel type. Even the smallest truck farms offer a ready market for garden tractors, which are becoming very popular.

Tractors are used extensively in orchard work. This is a strong argument in favor of power farming economy. No farmers keep more accurate cost accounts than do the California orchardists, nor is there any other class of producers who use more tractors to the acres cultivated.

To secure and hold farm labor the living conditions must be attractive. The farmers operating on a large scale are giving this subject much consideration. Besides motorizing their farms, they are building modern houses fitted with running water, shower baths, electric lights and other conveniences of the city. The floating farm laborer of yesterday, the man who carried his bed roll on his back, is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. He finds it more profitable to settle down than to move from place to place.

The aggressiveness of the Pacific Coast farmer, the increasing shortage of farm labor, the improved irrigation systems and the tendency toward a still further diversification of crops, make this field one of the most attractive markets in the world for the sale of modern power farming equipment. The dealer who is alive to the potential possibilities, and who is keeping abreast of the rapid strides of power farming is dominating tractor distribution in California. The farmer wants the very best equipment and he is willing to pay the price.

HOW MUCH GAS ACROSS THE CONTINENT

To determine for the automobile industry and the motor-buying public the comparative merits of the light-weight car as regards its stamina and economy in a continued run of 3,200 miles with a relay of 25 drivers at the wheel, a trans-continental economy run started from New York at midnight, Sunday, July 18th.

The car will travel day and night continuously until at the end of the journey it noses its way down Market street in San Francisco. Eleven states will be spanned. Throughout the journey a careful and constantly checked tally will be kept of the oil and gasoline used to determine a national measure of economy and stamina for the light-weight motor car.

For this unusual cross-country demonstration, a stock Overland on Triplex Springs will be used. W. D. Stewart, manager of the New York branch of Willys-Overland, will start the car on its westward way. Observers will trail the standard-setting Overland in another car.

The Overland will then be relayed across the United States, a different driver taking the wheel in each Overland distributor's territory traversed.

This relay driving is a new feature in automobile runs. The territory of at least 25 Overland distributors will be crossed. This will provide at least 25 different drivers for the car. None of these men will ever before have sat at the wheel of this Overland. No two men drive alike. The importance of the test, therefore, will be a demonstration of what the average driver could expect to get in low-cost operation in a 3,200-mile drive, taking him through all conditions of weather and over roads that vary from the asphalt of city streets to treacherous mountain trails.

THE THIRD PARTY FIASCO

The Farmer-Labor party organized at Chicago a few days ago by the ill-fated "third party" convention of the "Forty-eighters" gives voters with grousches an opportunity to relieve their minds by throwing away their ballots.

Sane analysis of the entire bickering, muckraking proceeding reveals no other result of the efforts of the malcontents who composed the gathering, many of whom were of doubtful loyalty and all of whom were of doubtful mental clarity. It was, perhaps, just as well that the convention ended as a did, with one faction dominating the farce and wielding it to its purposes so thoroughly that more than one-half of the delegates quit the "party" before it was born and christened.

In permitting women to serve as jurors, England bars them from serving on juries with their husbands. Evidently she has had enough trouble with dead-locked juries.

Evidently the French are not so skillful in dodging taxes. Receipts exceed estimates.

HAS THE HONOR SYSTEM FAILED?

A dream of idealists and humanitarians that failed. So Warden Murphy of Joliet penitentiary brands the honor system in state prisons. There is not a prison in the country in which the honor system has fulfilled expectations aroused by claims made for it, he says.

But there is a point in the failure of the honor system—if it has really failed—which needs to be cleared up before it is condemned. No system is likely to work as the originators proposed if the administration is placed in the hands of men who are either hostile or tolerantly skeptical of success.

Probably the warden of Joliet prison who sneers at the dream of idealists and humanitarians embodied in the honor system did not intend to betray one of the chief underlying causes of the failure he discusses. But the "I-told-you-so" attitude is so plain that he unwittingly does. The world is moving forward, and those who dream of ideals and follow humanitarian impulses are helping it to move upward, too.

The honor system cannot be a success unless specific and easily recognizable differences between the convict and the citizen at liberty are wiped out. The honor system recognizes that the difference that distinguishes them most is directly traceable to prison environment, and it seeks to remedy it. And before setting down the final conclusion it is just as well to considerately weigh all the elements that enter into big prison discipline. To expect men, convicts or otherwise, to complacently compose their minds to acceptance of any program of discipline and maintain cheerfulness under it is expecting too much.

WONDERS OF YELLOWSTONE

Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan and Miss Ida Waite are evidently enjoying their vacation in Yellowstone Park judging from cards their Glendale friends are receiving. Mrs. Ryan writes that she is having a week in the most wonderful place in the world. The geysers are beautiful and the canyon is grand beyond description. "It seems that every day we see something more beautiful than the day before," she writes. Miss Waite writes: "I am just ending a wonderful seven days in Yellowstone Park. The Terrace, Hot Springs, Geysers and Yellowstone Canyon have afforded widely different awe-inspiring touches of nature to say nothing of the vivid carpet of wild flowers everywhere."

NEW INSTITUTION

SCHOOL OF CHRISTIANITY TO OPEN FOR WORK IN SEPTEMBER

For a number of years members of the Christian churches of Southern California have been working toward the establishment of an educational institution of their own to teach the Bible in its purity and simplicity. The way was opened some months ago when C. C. Chapman, millionaire citrus grower and oil magnate of Fullerton, offered to give $400,000 toward founding and endowing such an institution if the churches would do the rest. The challenge was accepted and a strenuous campaign was put on to secure the amount in pledges, the time limit being July 15th. The money was raised, the Glendale church contributing over $4,000, and the new "School of Christianity," as it was decided to name it, will open for work in September, in rented quarters until the buildings can be erected. The site chosen is diagonally across Vermont avenue, Los Angeles, from the University of California, Southern Branch, and the school will be run in partial connection with the University. The grounds, 5 acres in extent, have been purchased, plans drawn, and work on the buildings will commence soon.

The school work will be launched early in September, following the annual convention, which is usually held at Long Beach, but which this year will meet in Los Angeles September 1st to 5th, inclusive.

L. E. Sheverson, who occupies the Chair of Religious Education in Eureka, Illinois, College has been called to accept a similar position in the new School of Christianity. He was to make one of the leading addresses at the state convention on Saturday forenoon, Sept. 4th, but has been unexpectedly prevented from attending, so he wrote Rev. Clifford A. Cole, of the Glendale Christian Church, to take his topic, "Relation of the Sunday School to Religious Education," saying he was the only man in the state who could do it successfully. Rev. Cole is to preside at the Saturday afternoon session, also, which has been set apart for Christian Endeavorers.

OPPORTUNITIES IN BURGLARY

Light-fingered gentry of elastic conscience have discovered a new way to make a living without working. An epidemic of robberies has greatly increased the number of fake burglaries where insurance is held, burglary insurance companies report.

An automobile, a fur coat or costly jewels are stolen, the owner reports to the police. The insurance company is notified, and usually the claim is paid. If the investigation becomes too thorough however, the "stolen" article often mysteriously reappears.

The business would seem to offer great opportunities for the ambitious. If the fake "theft" is successful, the owner not only gets his insurance money but has his property as well. Over arson, for instance, this plan has great advantages, since in the former the owner loses the building.

SPANISH WARSHIP VISITS CUBA

A Spanish warship is again in Cuban waters, the first to visit Havana since Spanish-American war days.

The vessel, instead of being greeted by shells, was given a cordial reception, and a long list of entertainments has been arranged for the officers and crew. Attention is called to the change that has occurred in Spain by the friendly feeling thus shown for the Spaniards by the people who only a little more than two decades ago hated them with such good reason.

Freed from the difficulties that surrounded her attempt to govern rebellious colonial subjects, Spain has given more thought to the condition of her people at home, with the result that much progress has been made toward the advancement of their happiness. Her colonial empire destroyed, Spain has given her attention to home affairs and ceased to disturb her neighbors. So the defeat the Spaniards suffered at our hands in 1898 was a blessing not only for the colonies that were liberated—Cuba, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Guam—but for Spain herself.

LIBRARY REPORT

MRS. DANFORD MAKES STATEMENT TO BOARD AT CLOSE OF FISCAL YEAR

To the Honorable Trustees of the Glendale Public Library: It is my esteemed privilege to present the Thirteenth Annual Report of the Glendale Public Library, said report containing a general summary of the Library's most important activities and a concise financial statement. The past fiscal year has been most gratifying and the current year opens with promising conditions.

Improvements

The finishing of the basement quarters provided a spacious, sunny, and well-ventilated juvenile room, an enlarged and more sanitary work room, adequate store room and a public rest room, which is equipped for the guests of Glendale and for the staff when off duty during the lunch and dinner hours. The cornice on the building was replaced and a shed was built for fuel, etc.

General Library Activities

It has been the Library's privilege to act as hostess to the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle, the contact with this class of mothers being an opportunity to establish greater understanding, and cementing harmonious co-operation. We trust this service has opened the door to a larger field of usefulness. Book Reviews were held as a means of acquainting our patrons with the new and the better books—a class in psychology was conducted, also a class in literary training for the staff. A student class was organized, the students giving their time for training in library methods and clerical work.

Increased Activities

This year's work has not shown the mere usual gain, but has surpassed other years to a marked degree.

Juvenile Activities

The Librarian will give the juvenile department more time and personal supervision during the summer vacation, the object being to preserve a closer relation to the children and give the assistant in charge more detailed training and support. A Story Hour is held every Tuesday at 10:00 a. m.

Branch Activities

The Branch Library, under the supervision of Charles H. Cushing, has shared its proportion of the flourishing conditions and prosperity. Sunday opening, which was instituted as an experiment, proved to be of such important interest, it was decided to continue it. Book Reviews were conducted during the winter season. A Story Hour is held for the children, as a means of stimulating good reading, and new adult books were added for summer reading. All activities have tended toward greater co-operation with the main Library, this being of mutual inspiration,—and especial benefit to the Branch, which is free to resort to the full resources of the main Library.

Library Schedules

The main department of the Library is open twelve hours (9:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m.) and the juvenile department 9:00 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. (with the exception of the lunch hour)—this schedule being an infringement upon the mechanical process of the Library, but affording ample library privileges for our patrons and a haven of rest for guests of Glendale, people of leisure, and convalescents. The Branch is open from 12:00 m. to 9:00 p. m. (Continued on page 5)

SUGAR BECOMES PLENTIFUL

The fact that there is now plenty of sugar, if one is willing to pay the price, is proof that there was never a real sugar shortage. It was necessary to stage what appeared to be a scarcity for a time to move prices to present levels, but now that profiteers are fearful the top-notch mark may have been reached, they are permitting the product to move from storage houses in generous quantities.

All of which does not mean, however, that the price will not perform new aerial feats. Growers and refiners seem to have had their appetites whetted by exorbitant prices they have been able to obtain. Cuban growers, it is announced, are forming a combination to hold the new crop for 24 cents. What that would mean to the American consumer would depend, of course, upon what would satisfy the American profiteer,

One of the worst effects will probably be a new excuse for higher food prices next winter. The price of sugar of necessity is diminishing home canning, and shortage of canned goods will shift a greater burden on other food products.

I wish to thank the Mayor, Mr. Hartley Shaw, and the City Council for their hearty co-operation and excellent support.

I wish to thank Mr. Spencer, the Chairman of the Library Board, and too much cannot be said of the entire Board for their understanding, never-failing interest and valuable advice and I wish to recognize the loyal help given me by the staff which has at all times manifested a magnificent spirit of service and untiring zeal.

We cannot be too grateful to the papers of Glendale for the generous treatment given, and in closing, I wish to thank the patrons of the Library for their appreciation of the service given, which they have shown by their unceasing interest.

Respectfully submitted,
ALMA J. DANFORD,
Librarian.

BROADWAY BAKERY

PRODUCTS MAKE HAPPY HOMES

Many wide-awake Glendale women have learned that it is the part of wisdom to buy all of their bakery goods from the Broadway Bakery.

The time and strength necessary to provide breads, pastries and cakes for the household needs can be so much more profitably employed and when these necessary articles of the daily diet can be purchased as reasonably as they can be made in the home kitchen and the housewife knows they are made of the best materials (the same she would use herself) in a sanitary bakery as clean as her own kitchen, very little reasoning is necessary for her to come to the conclusion that there are better ways to spend her time than in a hot kitchen.

The man of the house and the children like Broadway Bakery pies, cakes, bread and rolls, too, so what's the use to bake?

RY. MAIL SERVICE

ELIGIBLE LIST DESIRED TO RECRUIT CLERKS FROM THIS FALL

A civil service examination is to be held in the Los Angeles postoffice on August 11th to fill the ranks of the Railway Mail Clerks and to establish a reserve list to draw from before winter comes and the heavy mails commence to move. Recent acts of Congress have made employment in the Railway Mail Service much more attractive than formerly. As these facts are not generally known, the Evening News joins with other newspapers of the country in giving publicity to the following points in this connection:

Salary: Entrance salary $1600 per annum; on the more important lines the maximum salary is $2300 per annum.

Expenses: Within reasonable limitations all clerks employed on trains are reimbursed for their traveling expenses.

Pension: At the age of 62, or earlier if necessitated by ill-health, railway postal clerks may retire on a substantial pension.

Tenure: Permanency of employment is assured under the statutes for the protection of employes in the Civil Service.

Eligibility: Age, 18 to 35; height, at least 5 ft. 5 in.; weight, at least 130 lbs., except that these limitations are waived if applicant has Army or Navy record.

Qualifications: Common school knowledge of reading, spelling, writing, arithmetic and geography.

Applications: Blank forms for making application to take the Civil Service examination may be obtained by addressing the Secretary of U. S. Civil Service Board, Los Angeles.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH LUXURIES

One of the oddities of efforts by France to restore things to their normal condition by frowning upon luxuries and encouraging the production of necessities, is the official announcement that artificial teeth are luxuries, and therefore the French people will not be permitted to spend their money on them when made in foreign countries.

France has never been noted as a producer of these articles but has imported practically all those used, depending mainly on the United States and Great Britain for her supply. Now Frenchmen and Frenchwomen are not to be allowed to purchase artificial teeth made in these or any other countries.

This country has for several years been the world's largest manufacturer of artificial teeth, and has turned out probably $50,000,000 worth of teeth in the last decade. The value of the exports are now running at the rate of nearly $500,000 a year, and they go to every part of the world.

France has prohibited importations of artificial teeth on the ground that they are luxuries. Few octogenarians will dispute the classification.

Bolivia deports ex-presidents, which is not quite so drastic as Mexico's disposition of them.

GONE TO REWARD

LOVED CHAPLAIN OF 104TH GIVES LIFE FOR THE FLAG

Editor Glendale Evening News:—

May I ask you to publish the following tribute to a dear departed confreere of mine?

It will recall memories to some of our Glendale boys who were "Over There."

JAMES STEPHEN O'NEILL.

July 22, 1920.

The spirit of the late Rev. John B. De Valles, chaplain of the 104th U. S. Infantry, and an honorary member of Bunker Hill Council, K. of C., will live forever in the hearts of those who knew him and his comrades who served with him in the late war.

Fr. De Valles was a man of wonderful personality and noble character. He was loved by the men who served with him regardless of their race or creed. He was one of the first chaplains the Knights of Columbus sent to France and was assigned to the 104th Regiment, November, 1917. He mingled with the boys of the regiment as no chaplain of any creed ever did. They loved him and were willing to risk their lives to protect him on any occasion and at any time.

When he celebrated Mass his congregation was composed of soldiers of all creeds, who, although they did not profess the Catholic faith, they loved to hear him talk. His sermons were always broad and he never hesitated to speak his mind freely and frankly and he made us better Catholics and men of other faith better men.

When we were in "the lines" he was always at the front. Although exhausted while in the Chemin de Dames sector he refused to be relieved by the Protestant chaplain unless he could give absolution to the Catholic boys and receiving a reply in the negative said: "What good would you be in here to my boys? I can take care of your boys but you cannot take care of mine. My place is here and I will stay as long as they do." And he did.

Later on, at Apremont, where he was gassed, he was ordered out of the lines by Colonel Sheldon, but he refused to leave, although he was threatened with court-martial. He "stood by" during one of the most terrific bombardments and attended the wounded. He served the wounded with hot coffee and comforted them with cigarettes, words of encouragement and prayers. The third night of the battle he crawled out into No Man's Land and rescued a wounded boy named Pike who had been badly wounded and carried him back safe within the American lines, but before doing so, although under heavy shellfire, he administered first aid treatment to him. For this courageous act Fr. De Valles was awarded the Croix de Guerre by the French government.

When we were behind the lines he always started something to keep the boys in good humor. He was a big hearted, generous, sympathetic man and many a time he gave the boys his last franc when they needed it. Money or advice was always cheerfully given by him. Although stout-hearted in action he was tender-hearted when officiating at burial services for the lads who paid the supreme sacrifice and he always manifested his emotions no matter how he tried to master them.

Before going "over the top" at St. Mihiel he gave absolution to the entire regiment and every man, Catholic and Protestant alike, knelt on the battlefield to receive it. It was during this drive that the gassing he received at Apremont came back on him and he was taken to the hospital unconscious. Following an operation and greatly against the wishes of the surgeons, he returned to his regiment. He told the doctors that if he was to die he wanted to die among his boys.

When he arrived home he was made Assistant Port Chaplain of New York. Later he was sent to Georgia with the 61st Infantry. It was there he was taken seriously sick with cancer, the result of the gassing at the battlefield.

On Sunday, May 9th, I visited him at St. Luke's Hospital, New Bedford, where he joked with me as on many previous occasions, although on his death bed. The end came the following Wednesday, and on the day of the military funeral in that city which was attended by an outpouring of 40,000 people, the Distinguished Service Cross, awarded by Congress, was pinned on his breast by his old Commander General Clarence R. Edwards of the 26th Division.

When the 104th Regiment was decorated in France in April, 1918, on which occasion Fr. De Valles was decorated for bravery, General Edwards paid the following tribute to Fr. De Valles: "Typical of these fighting chaplains is this holy man, Fr. De Valles. He literally lived in No Man's Land for four days and when his hands could no longer carry the litter to bring in the wounded, he tied wires to his wrist until they cut deep into the flesh. Fr. De Valles headed the list for distinguished bravery, and I take pride in pointing to him as a splendid example of the are splendid examples of industry but few people take much pleasure in studying the habits of these little pests when they are working in the lawn or garden or worse still, in the kitchen or pantry.

EXTERMINATE THEM

It isn't necessary to have ants running over the pantry shelves or to keep all kinds of food in air tight receptacles so they will not be contaminated by these little pests. For exterminating ants we highly recommend:

TALBOT'S ANT POWDER
—AND—
KELLOGG'S ANT PASTE

Many Glendale people are having excellent results in clearing their lawns and gardens of ants by a method recommended by the United States government.

This process calls for a small quantity of a solution made of sodium arsenate, tartaric acid, sugar, honey, and water in tin cans with the lids only partially cut out, which prevents access other than by insects, and place a number of these cans so prepared around your lot and gardens.

This mixture as recommended by the Government is a weak poison, and while not causing ants to die at once, it is carried to the larvae and in time exterminates the whole colony.

Another effective manner to use is by preparing small cloth bags, dipping them in melted paraffine and puncturing several holes with a hat pin, filling with the mixture and hanging in trees.

We prepare this formula, both in a concentrated solution to be added to sugar and water, also finished ready to use.

THE JAP MENACE

NOT THEIR VICES BUT THEIR INDUSTRY MENACES WHITE SUPREMACY

The congressional committee appointed to investigate the Japanese question on the Pacific coast closed its hearings in San Francisco Wednesday and went to Portland, and will go thence to Seattle to continue the investigation. Many facts and some non-facts have been deduced and a consignment of picture brides viewed. One does not need to go away from Glendale to get at the true inwardness of this Japanese bugbear. It is not their vices that make their rapid increase dangerous to white supremacy, for they are a very quiet, peaceable people and seem to know nothing but work. A visit to the strawberry fields along West Doran or the melon patches up along Sixth street and Kenneth Road will convince the observer that it is their great industry that is the menace. After a week's continuous irrigation of the strawberry rows a rank growth of weeds springs up, some of them close to the vines. These are pulled up by the patient workers, whose backs seem to be of iron. From before sunrise to complete darkness they labor tirelessly, men, women and older children, down on their knees or bending over to pull up the weeds, searching out those that are very close to the vines. When the melon harvest begins, the whole family turns out, with sacks on shoulders, to go over the entire field daily, picking the ripe ones and carrying them by the sackful to the crates. Few white men can stand this back-breaking toil and none of them will work such long hours, hence the Japs can undersell their white competitors and still make a good profit. And everything grows for the little brown men. They painstakingly work out the best methods of irrigation and cultivation and they make three melons grow where one grew before. They have invaded all lines of agriculture and fruit raising and are fast crowding out the white men. While large families are not the rule in this vi-

GROWING BUSINESS

R. LENTZ OF THE BROADWAY BAKERY IS PLEASED WITH PATRONAGE

R. Lentz, who purchased the Broadway Bakery a few months ago, is more than pleased with the outcome of his venture. Mr. Lentz is a baker of long experience and is entirely familiar with all phases of his business. His determination when he came to Glendale was to put out the very highest quality of bakery products knowing from previous experience that that is one sure way of getting and keeping patronage. He was right, too, if one can judge from the immense quantities of all kinds of baked goods that come from the Broadway ovens daily and the constant stream of people who are carrying these products away.

MISS BREHM FIRST NATIONAL CHAIRMAN

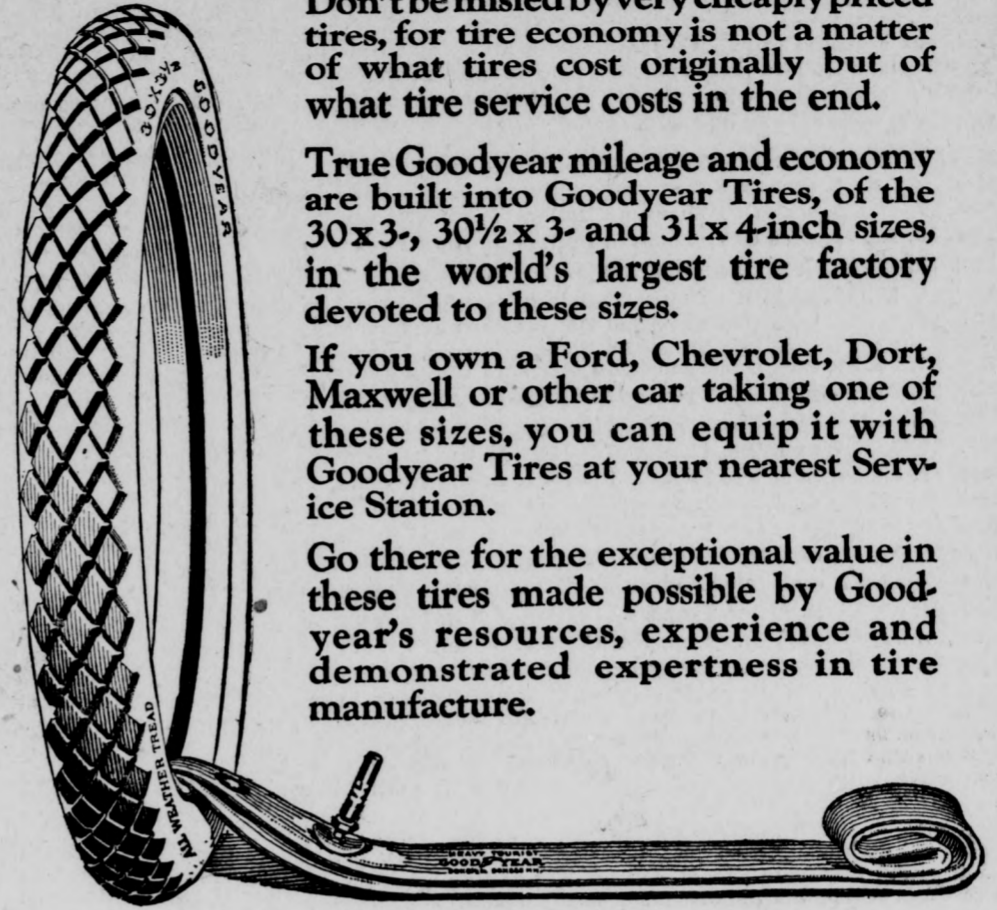

Miss Marie Brehm of Long Beach who has frequently spoken on Prohibition to Glendale audiences was made permanent chairman of the Prohibition National convention, which has been meeting in Chicago this week. She is the first woman to be thus honored by a national political party. Miss Brehm has been working in the W. C. T. U. and in the Prohibition party for nearly 40 years. She was state chairman for Illinois away back in the '80s, when she lived in Olney, that state.

NEWS FROM SYNOD

News comes to us from Rev. W. E. Edmonds, who, with others from Glendale, is spending several days at the California Presbyterian Synod Meeting in Santa Barbara, that they are having a great time. W. J. Clendenin has been appointed chairman of the Finance and Mileage Committee and R. A. Peterson, chairman of Church Records Committee. Both of these offices require the attention of careful, prayerful and thoughtful business men and those mentioned were chosen from many others. It might also be of interest to know that Dr. Robert Freeman, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Pasadena, has been elected Moderator of the Synod, which is a great honor and a responsible position.

Announcement by a chemist that buttermilk contains three per cent alcohol appears like a clever publicity stunt to boost consumption of that product.

Get Goodyear Value in Tires for Small Cars

Don't be misled by very cheaply priced tires, for tire economy is not a matter of what tires cost originally but of what tire service costs in the end.

True Goodyear mileage and economy are built into Goodyear Tires, of the 30x3-, 30½x3- and 31x4-inch sizes, in the world's largest tire factory devoted to these sizes.

If you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell or other car taking one of these sizes, you can equip it with Goodyear Tires at your nearest Service Station.

Go there for the exceptional value in these tires made possible by Goodyear's resources, experience and demonstrated expertness in tire manufacture.

THE GLENDALE SPIRIT

Glendale is certainly getting organized along all lines, except at the very top, but that is coming soon, from all indications. We have our own branch of the Automobile Club of Southern California, the auto and accessory dealers have theirs, the insurance men are organized and now come the realtors. All these get-together efforts bear out the wise saying that "in union there is strength." When we have one strong, united enthusiastic civic body, whether it be called Chamber of Commerce, Commercial Club or what not, Glendale's continued growth along conservative lines will be assured. There never was a more loyal set of citizens, business men and all, than Glendale can boast, and that means much to the prosperity of our beloved city of homes.

THE notable quality of our professional efforts is their dignified character. Our unflinching politeness is at all times favorably commented upon. Our services are faithfully performed.

TRUSTEES' MEETING

ferred to the Committee of the Whole.

The matter of improving Sycamore Canyon Road came up and the engineer asked for one week additional time to complete his work.

Public Service Engineer reported that he had attended the hearing of the Railroad Commission relative to increase in fares on Pacific Electric Railroad and that the hearing had been continued to August 12th.

He also reported on water works construction progress, relative to testing the well. No bids had been received and the matter was left to rest at this point.

He also reported that no bids had been received for installing pipes, etc., on Sycamore Canyon Road, Colorado street, Windsor Road and Adams street. This matter held open for further consideration.

He reported on the amounts expended and material constructed for use of combined water and light bond issue, showing that a balance of approximately $20,500 was still available out of the sale of $104,000 worth of bonds sold up to this time. That the cost of the reservoirs not as yet ascertained, owing to the likelihood of condemnation proceedings being necessary to secure the reservoir sites. The City Engineer reported that he was making surveys of two different sites, but as yet incomplete.

The City Manager reported that it was necessary to advertise for brass goods and fittings for use in Public Service Department. Moved by Trustee Bartlett that the clerk be instructed to advertise for bids for this material, to be opened on August 12th, at 8:00 o'clock p. m. Motion duly carried.

The City Manager also presented the matter of deed to the east 20 feet of the west 70 feet of the north 340 feet of Block No. 57, Town of Glendale, dated in December, 1909, covering part of Brand boulevard. Through some oversight a dedication of this strip for street purposes was not formally accepted by the Trustees, and in order to get the matter straightened on the county records, it was moved by Trustee Stephenson that the deed to the 20-foot strip be accepted and dedicated for street purposes and that a certified copy of this resolution be sent to the county surveyor so that the records can be cleared up. Motion duly carried and clerk instructed to see that certified copy be sent to county surveyor as above outlined.

It was moved by Trustee Henry and carried that the city employes be granted Saturday half-holiday to continue from present time to the end of September of this year with the exception that enough men be kept in the Police and Fire Depts. and Public Service Department to keep matters on a safe basis.

Trustee Stephenson introduced salary ordinance amending former salary ordinance. On motion same was adopted.

RESOLUTE WINS FOURTH RACE

ABOARD THE U. S. DESTROYER, GOLDSBOROUGH. By Wireless to United Press) July 23.—The Resolute made it fifty fifth when it took the fourth race of the series for America's cup. With the series standing two each the fifth and deciding race will probably be held tomorrow. Today's race was the fastest of the series. The Resolute led for the first four miles when the Shamrock came up and passed her. The Resolute's time allowance gave her the victory.

That Mexican leader who was reported to have Villa bottled up evidently forgot the stopper.

The Reds will probably discover that something happened if Foch takes command of the Polish forces.

Will Debs take the cue from Harding and conduct a "front cell" campaign?
