

of California Regional Facility

<EEL4CLA@MVS.DAC.UCLA.EDU>

(1991)

D 375 240 9

5145 B71A1 1629

on Boys.

-1625

יהוה

THE WORKES OF JOHN BOYS
Doctor in Diuinitie and Deane of Canterburie .

Imprinted for William Aspley
Anno 1629

Scriba doctus in regno caelorum

Consiliary Mei

Opportune Importune

*BX 5145
B71A1
1629

TO THE MOST HIGH AND MIGHTY
PRINCE, JAMES, BY THE Grate of God, King of Great BRITAINE, FRANCE, and IRELAND, Defender of the Faith,
&c.

Most gracious and dread Soueraigne,

Heodorus Gaza, the Beau-clerk of his age, professed ingenuously, that if he might use but one volume, he would chuse the labours of Plutarch: S. Cyprian, a blessed Martyr, honoured the writings of Tertullian so much, as that he stiled him vsually Master: Erasmus, a man of incomparable reading, was addicted so farre to the workes of S. Augustine, that he said, the perfections of all other Doctors were found in this one Prelate: Other haue had their likings, haply lusts, in this kinde. But for my part auow to the world, that from my youth vp vnto my gray

The Epistle Dedicatory.

gray haire, I did euer esteeme, as a second Bible, the booke of Common Prayer, in which (as I haue here prooued) euery tittle is grounded vpon the Scripture, euery Scripture well applied, euery good application agreeable to the most ancient and best reformed Liturgies in all ages.

These treatises heretofore scattered in parts, are now brought together and bound together in one entire body, which I present in all humility to your Highnesse, as being the defender of the faith, and as it were the common Atlas of the reformed heauen on earth: hating schisme with a perfect hatred, and embracing vnitie with a loue surpassing the loue of women: and to your Highnesse, as being not onely the schollers King, but also the King of schollers: and to your Highnesse, as a pledge of my true deuotion and unfained thanks for that eminent place which I possesse by your royall gift in the Church of Canterburie. The Lord of Hosts and God of peace be with your Maiestie to the end and in the end, that as you haue now receiued in a measure pressed downe from the riches of his mercy grace for grace; so you may hereafter in a measure running ouer obtaine glory for glory; for this earthly scepter which is transitorie, that heauenly crowne which is immortall and immarcesible.

Your Maiesties most obliged subiect and seruant,

JOHN BOYS.

1823.

THE MINISTERS INVITATORIE.

At what time soeuer a sinner doth repent, &c.

ALL these Texts of holy writ premised, are (as it were the bells of Aaron) to stirre vp deuotion, and to toll all-in to Gods house.

The whole ring consists of Mans miserie. of two notes especially: } Gods mercy.

The which are 2. chiefe motives vnto prayer, as we finde, precept Matth. 6. 9. Pray ye after this manner; Our Father which art in heauen <sup>b</sup> Admonens adoptionis diuinæ, Pater Noster; & peregrinationis terrenæ, Qui es in caelis; vt simul intelligamus egere nos auxilio, quia peregrini: & fiduciam petendi concipia- mus, quia filij Dei.

And patterne, Luke 15. want and woe in the lewd sonne, pitie and plenty in the good father, occasioned repentance, neuer repented. Of the one it is commonly said, <sup>c</sup> Oratio sine malis, est quasi avis sine alis. Of the other, I will come into thine house euen upon the multitude of thy mercy, Psal. m. 5. 7. To thee will I sing, because thou art my refuge, and mercifull God, Psal. 59 17. In the vulgar Latine; Deus meus misericordia mea. Whereupon <sup>d</sup> Augustine; O nomen sub quo nemini desperandum est.

Wherefore the Minister out of a due consideration of both, exhorteth his people in an Apostolicall stile, to confesse their sinnes humbly to the Lord, who is able to heare, because Almightie; and willing to helpe, because most mercifull.

The Confession of sinnes.

THE matter and manner of which Confession all other Liturgies approue, both ancient (as the Liturgies of <sup>e</sup> S. James, of <sup>f</sup> S. Basil, of the <sup>g</sup> Syrians, of the <sup>h</sup> Aethiopians) and moderne (as the Scottish, Geneuan, <sup>i</sup> English admonitioners set forme of common prayer, <sup>k</sup> Italian, Spanish, Dutch) all which allot Confession of sinnes a place, and this place principally. The reason hereof is taken out of Gods owne booke, Pron. 18. 17. Iustus in exordio sermonis accusator est sui:

<sup>a</sup> *Luther. loc. cõ
tit. de Inuocat.*

<sup>b</sup> Bernard. ser. de nat. B. Mariae qui in scriptur. de aqua dicitur.

<sup>c</sup> *Nathan Chy-traeus in viatico.
d In locum, tom.
8. fol. 414 lege
plura.*

Dearely beloued Almightie and most mercifull Father.

<sup>e</sup> *Margarinus, Bibliothec. pat.
tom. 4. col. 21.*

<sup>f</sup> Ibidem col. 37.

<sup>g</sup> Col. 65.

<sup>h</sup> Col. 1. 10.

<sup>i</sup> Imprinted at Middleburgh, 1585.

<sup>k</sup> *Discourse of the troubles of Frankford,
pag. 7.*

The iust man in the beginning of his speech is an accuser of himselfe: for so read S. Ambros. ser. 4. vpon the 118. Psalme. S. Hierom. lib. 1. contra Pelagian. Melanct. in loc. and from the practise of Gods owne people the Iewes; as that noble Gentleman Philip Mornai notes in lib. 1. de Missa, cap. 3.

The Novelists onely mislike the Ministers Absolution, and therefore in the Conference at Hampton Court, Jan. 14. 1603. they gained so much as to haue it in a more milde terme called, Remission of finnes. Herein resembling the people of Bengala, who are so much afraid of Tygres, as that they dare not call them Tygres, but giue them other gentle names. Ne si propriam nomenclaturam tribuant, continuo dilacerentur. Concerning absolution, see the Gospell Dom. 19. post Trinit.

<sup>1</sup> Pimenta de staturei Christian. in India Orient.

The Pater Noster.

THis Prayer excels all other in <sup>m</sup> many respects, as being the <sup>n</sup> Gospels Epitome, compiled by Wisdome it selfe, so <sup>o</sup> large for matter, so short for phrase, so sweet for order, as that it deserueth worthily to haue both the Best and the Most place in our Liturgie. The <sup>p</sup> First, as guide to the rest: the Most, as a necessarie <sup>q</sup> complement to supply whatsoeuer is wanting in other: and therefore it is vsed at the end of the Letanie, at the end of the Communion, at the end of Baptisme, at the end of other sacred actions: (as <sup>r</sup> one fitly) Tanquam sal omnium diuinorum officiorum.

<sup>m</sup> Bellarmin. de bonis operibus in particular. lib. 1. cap. 4.
<sup>n</sup> Tertul. lib. de orat cap. 1.
<sup>o</sup> Cyp. ser. de orat Dom.
<sup>p</sup> Tertull ubi supra.
<sup>q</sup> Hucker Eccles. polit. lib 5 § 35.
<sup>r</sup> Durandus rational. diuin. offic. lib. 5. cap. 5 § 17

- It hath three parts: {
- 1. A proeme, Our Father, &c.
  - 2. A petition, Hallowed be thy name, &c.
  - 3. A conclusion, For thine is the kingdome, &c.
- {
- 1. Will, because he is ours: for euery one wisheth well vnto his owne, and he that doth not, is worse than an Infidell, 1 Tim. 5. 8.
  - 2. Skill, because a father: Your Father knoweth whereof you stand in need, Matth. 6. 8.
  - 3. Power, because in Heauen: Strength commeth from heauen, 1 Macchab. 3. 19.

In the first note these three things required in an absolute agent:

So that if we aske, we shall haue; if seeke, we shall finde; if knocke, it shall be opened vnto vs, because God is a Father, Our Father, our Father in heauen.

Our] Admonisheth vs of <sup>t</sup> mutuall loue, for without loue, there is no true faith, and without true faith, no true prayer, Rom. 14. 23. As the Serpent doth cast vp all his poyson before he drinke, so we must degorge our malice before we pray.

Father] Vsed here rather <sup>v</sup> essentially, than personally. So, God is a Father in creation, Dent. 32. 6.

In education, Efai. 1. 2. καὶ ὡς πατήρ ἡμεῶν ὡς πατήρ ἡμεῶν; happily more fitly, καὶ ὡς πατήρ ἡμεῶν.

In instruction, {
Inwardly by his Spirit, Rom. 8. 26.
Outwardly by his Preachers, Matth. 10 20.

In compassion, Pfalm. 103. 13.

In correction, Heb. 12. 6. <sup>x</sup> Qui excipitur è numero flagellatorum, excipitur è numero filiorum.

In yeeres, Dan. 7. 9.

But a father in respect of his adoption <sup>y</sup> more principally, Rom. 8. 15, 16.

In heauen, {
Mysticall, as <sup>z</sup> Augustine and <sup>a</sup> Ambrose construe it; in holy men of heauenly conuersation, who are his proper <sup>b</sup> temples and <sup>c</sup> house, in whom he will dwell, Ioh. 14. 23.

{
Materiall, as other generally: for albeit he bee present euery where, yet he doth manifest himselfe to blessed soules and Angels in heauen, and to vs in glory from heauen especially, Pfal. 19. 1. Gen. 19. 24. 1 Theff. 4. 16.

Petition.

<sup>t</sup> Cyp. ubi supra. & Ambros. lib. 5 cap. 4. de sacramentis.
<sup>v</sup> Vrsinus Cat. tit. de peccat. & Magdeburg. cent. 1. col. 139.
<sup>w</sup> Germanus Patriarc. Constant. exposit. orat. Dō.
<sup>x</sup> Glossa in loc.
<sup>y</sup> Cyp. August. Ambros. &c.
<sup>z</sup> Lib 2. de ser. Dom. in monte, tom. 4. fol 812.
<sup>a</sup> Vbi sup caelum est ibi ubi cessat culpa.
<sup>b</sup> 1 Cor. 3. 16.
<sup>c</sup> Heb 3 6.

Petition.

The petition, in the iudgements of <sup>d</sup> neotericall Authors, hath six branches; whereof three concerne our loue, wherewith we loue God in himselfe, and three wherewith we loue our selues in God: in <sup>e</sup> signe whereof the pronoune Thy, is affixed to the three first, thy name, thy kingdome, thy will: but the pronounes Us, and Ours, to the rest, Our bread, our respases, lead vs not, &c.

Or (as <sup>f</sup> other diuide) the petition is,  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Precatio bonorum.} \\ \text{Deprecatio malorum.} \end{array} \right.$

A request for good things, whercof the  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{First concernes Gods glory, } \textit{Hallowed be thy name.} \\ \text{Glory; } \textit{Thy kingdome, \&c.} \\ \text{Grace; } \textit{Thy will, \&c.} \\ \text{Rest our good, \& of } \left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Nature; } \textit{Gine vs this day our daily} \\ \text{bread.} \end{array} \right. \end{array} \right.$

A deprecation of euill, which is of <sup>h</sup> two sorts:  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \textit{Malum culpa, an euill} \\ \text{which is sinne} \end{array} \right\} \left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Past, } \textit{Forgiue vs our trespasses, \&c.} \\ \text{To come, } \textit{Lead vs not into tempta-} \\ \text{tion.} \end{array} \right.$

$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \textit{Malum poena, an euill which} \\ \text{is a punishment for sinne,} \\ \textit{Deliuer vs from } \textsuperscript{i} \textit{euill} \end{array} \right\} \left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Internall, an hellish consci-} \\ \text{ence.} \\ \text{Externall, bodily dangers.} \\ \text{Eternall, enerlasting death.} \end{array} \right.$

In one word, from all that thou seest euill for vs, <sup>k</sup> be it prosperitie, or aduersitie: so we pray in the Letanie; Good Lord deliuer vs in all time of our tribulation, in all time of our wealth, &c. <sup>l</sup> Nondum enim sumus in eo bono, ubi nullum patiemur malum.

<sup>m</sup> Other affirme that the first three petitions are concerning the life to come: the last three concerning the life present: that which is in the middle, Gine vs this day our daily bread, concerning both.

These seuen (if we make so many petitions) are <sup>n</sup> correspondent to the seuen gifts of the blessed Spirit, Esa. 11.2. and seuen beatitudes, Matth. 5. <sup>o</sup> against the seuen capitall finnes: <sup>p</sup> Ramus hath obserued that this prayer answereth the Decalogue.

God is our Father, Ergo, we must haue no other gods.

In beauen, Ergo, no grauen Image, &c.

Hallowed be thy name, Ergo, not take his name in vaine.

Thy kingdome come, thy will be done, Ergo, we must sanctifie the Sabbath, and worship him according to his word.

Gine vs this day our daily bread, that hauing sufficient, we may be rather helpfull, Honour thy father, &c. than hurtfull, by wronging our neighbour; in deed, Thou shalt not kill, not commit adulterie, not steale: in word, Thou shalt not beare false witness, &c.

Lead vs not into temptation, Ergo, not couet our neighbours house, nor his wife &c. Forgiue vs our trespasses, Ergo, bound to keepe the whole Law: which occasioned <sup>q</sup> Luther to say, Docet oratio dominica nos esse quotidianos peccatores, & totam vitam esse poenitentiam: all our life to be nothing else but a <sup>r</sup> Lent, to prepare our selues against the Sabbath of our death, and Easter of our resurrection.

Conclusion.

Some caull at our Service Booke for omitting this clause, yet <sup>s</sup> Caluin doth sacknowledge that it is not extant in any Latine copies: of which <sup>t</sup> Erasmus and <sup>u</sup> other Diuines haue sundry coniectures. Howfoeuer, the Church is blame-

<sup>d</sup> Caluin Instit l. 3. c. 10 § 35. Maldonat. & Iansen in loc.
<sup>e</sup> Caietan com in 2. 2e Thom quest. 83 art 9.
<sup>f</sup> Albertus & Gorran. in Matth. 6.

<sup>g</sup> Gorran Guido mampul curat vel ut alij, sum mun medium; infirmum.

<sup>h</sup> Tertul. lib. 2. contra Marcion. cap 14.

<sup>i</sup> Agreeable to the Churches exposition in the common Catechisme: & Atlanctibon loc. com. tit. In- uocat.

<sup>k</sup> Beilarm. cat. cap 4.

<sup>l</sup> Augustin epist. 121. cap. 11.

<sup>m</sup> Durandus ra- tional diuin. lib 3 cap. 47. §. 8.

<sup>n</sup> Beaux am. har. Euang. tom. 2.

<sup>o</sup> Durandus vlt supra §. 9.

<sup>p</sup> De religione Christian lib. 3.

cap. 3.

<sup>q</sup> Loc. com. tit d- inuocat.

<sup>r</sup> Bernard ser 3 d: leuauo qua- drages.

<sup>s</sup> Institut. lib. 3. cap 20. §. 47.

<sup>t</sup> Arnot. in loc.

<sup>u</sup> Iansen & Maldonat. in loc

D Fulke answer to Rhem. presat. sect 38.

<sup>2</sup> Matth. 6. 10.

lesse, seeing our <sup>x</sup> Bible, which is Index quo, receiueh it, and the Minister, which is Index qui, the speaking booke, doth vsually repeat it, and so saying it in their opinion we doe well: and not saying it, according to the patterne of all the Latine, and some of the Greeke Fathers, and of S. Luke himselve, uot ill.

It containes } A reason of our prayer, for thine is kingdome, &c.
 } A testification of our assurance that God will heare our prayer,
Amen.

Thine is] Earthly Princes haue kingdome, power, and glory from God, Dan. 2. 37. but God hath all these from, and in himselfe, 1 Chron. 29. 11. Seeing he hath interst in all things, it is our dutie to come vnto him for euery thing: and as he hath right to all, so power to dispose of all: and therefore we cannot doe any thing we desire, but by power receiued of him. And if his be power and kingdome, then it followeth necessarily, that his is all glory. Therefore we must inuocate his holy name, that hereby we may giue him his due. This one dutie is Alpha and Omega, the first thing we must beg, hallowed be thy name: and the last we must performe, Thine is glory.

For euer] <sup>y</sup> It is a Rabbinicall conceit, that the last Psalme hath thirteene Halleluiahs, answering thirteene properties in God, specified, Exod. 34. 6, 7. Now in that the Prophet doth begin and end with Halleluiahs, stirring vs vp in euery verse of that Psalme, and in euery sentence of euery verse, to praise the Lord, he doth insinuate, that this one is our onely seruice: for whereas after twelue Halleluiahs a thirteenth is added, it doth signifie, that when we haue done all, we must begin againe with Gods praise; that as his mercy is from euerlasting, to euerlasting; * from euerlasting predestination, to euerlasting glorification; so our praise for euer and euer; here we must begin the Psalme of glory, but because God hath appointed in this short life, that we should not sing in Longs, but (as Musicians speake) in briefes and semibriefes, it must be continued in the quier of heaven hereafter, or in this world for euer and euer * intentionally, though not actually. For as the wicked <sup>a</sup> if he could liue for euer, would sinne for euer; so the good man, if God should suffer him to breath on earth for euer and euer, he would not cease to serue him euer and euer.

Amen.] The which word is the <sup>b</sup> seale of all our petitions, to make them authentick: importing <sup>c</sup> both assent, and assurance that our requests shall be granted. and therefore (as <sup>d</sup> one notes aptly) this Amen, is of more value than all the rest, by how much our faith is more excellent than our desire: for it is a testification of our faith, whereas all the petitions are onely testifications of our desire. <sup>e</sup> Ludolphus hath comprised all in this short Paraphrase.

Pater Noster; Exeelsus in creatione, suavis in amore, diues in hæreditate. Qui in cælis: speculum æternitatis, corona iucunditatis, thesaurus fælicitatis. Sanctificetur nomen tuum: vt nobis sit mel in ore, melos in aure, iubilum in corde. Adueniat regnum tuum: non illud modò potentia; quod nunquam euertitur, sed istud gratia, quod sapius auertitur: adueniat ergo iucundum sine permixtione, tranquillum sine perturbatione, securum sine amissione. Fiat voluntas, non nostra, sed tua sicut in Cælis ab Angelis, sic etiam in terra ab hominibus: vt omnia quæ non amas, odio habeamus; quæ diligis, diligamus; quæ tibi placent, impleamus. Panem, doctrinalem, sacramentalem, victualem, nostrum: sed ne putetur à nobis, dicimus da nobis: quotidianum, qui sufficiat, nobis. Et demitte nobis debita nostra; Quæcunque contra te commisimus, aut contra proximos, aut contra nosmet ipsos. Sicut & nos dimittimus debitoribus nostris, qui nos offenderunt, vel in verbis, vel in personis, vel in rebus. Et ne nos inducas in tentationem; mundi, carnis, Diaboli. Sed libera nos à malo, præsentis præterito, futuro. Hæc potes, quia tuum est regnum & potentia; hæc vis, quia tua gloria, nunc & in secula, Amen.

PSALM.

<sup>y</sup> Genebrardus in vlt. Psalm.

* Bern. ser. 2. in Ascens. Dom.

<sup>2</sup> Thomas 2. 26.
qu. 83. art. 14.
<sup>a</sup> Ioan. de com-bis, Theolog. com-pend. lib. 7. c. 21.

<sup>b</sup> Hieron. in 6.
Matth.
<sup>c</sup> Chureb Cat.
Musculus, Vrsimus, &c.

<sup>d</sup> Perkins vpon
the Lords prayer.

<sup>e</sup> De vita Christi, part. 1. cap. 37

PSALM. 51. 15.

Lord open thou my lips, and my mouth shall shew forth thy praise

AS man is a little world in the great, fo the tongue a great world in the little. Nihil habet medium; aut grande malum est, aut grande bonum. If good (as Eunapius said of that famous Rhetorician) a walking Library, a whole Vniuersity of edifying knowledg: but if bad (as S. James doth tell vs) a world of wickednesse. No<sup>h</sup> better dish for Gods<sup>i</sup> publike seruice, when it is well seasoned: againe, none worse, when ill handled.

So that if we desire to be doore-keepers in Gods house, let vs intreat God first to be a doore-keeper in our house, that he would shut the wicket of our mouth against vsfauourie speeches, and open the doore of our lips, that our mouth may shew forth his praise. This was Dauids prayer, and ought to bee thy practise, wherein obserue three points especially:

Who, the Lord.

What, open my lips.

Why, that my mouth may shew thy praise.

For the first, man of himselfe cannot vntie the strings of his owne stammering tongue, but it is God onely which openeth a<sup>k</sup> doore of vtterance. When we haue a good thought, it is (as the Schoole doth speake) gratia infusa; when a good word, gratia effusa; when a good worke, gratia diffusa. Man is as a locke, the Spirit of God as a key, <sup>l</sup> which openeth and no man shutteth; againe, shutteth, and no man openeth. He did open the heart of Lydia to conceiue well, Act. 16. the cares of the Prophet to heare well, Esay 50. the eyes of Elisba's ieruant to see well, 2 King. 6. and here the lips of Dauid to speake well. And therefore, whereas in the former verse he might seeme too peremptory, saying, my tongue shall sing of thy righteousness; he doth, as it were, correct himselfe by this latter edition, and second speech: O Lord, I finde my selfe, of my selfe, most vnable to sing or say, but open thou my lips, and touch thou my tongue, and then I am sure my mouth shall shew thy praise.

This doctrine sheweth in generall our dependance on God, in<sup>m</sup> whom we liue, and moue, and haue our being; from whom onely commeth<sup>n</sup> euerie good and perfect gift.

Man is Gods image: Gen. 1. 26. Some<sup>o</sup> Translators vse the word which signifieth a shadow. Now, as an image or a shadow doth only moue, as the bodie whereof it is a likenesse; when the bodie doth stretch forth an arme; the shadow presently hath an arme; when the body doth put forth a legge, the shadow hath a legge: so man in all his actions, as a shadow depends on God, as the sole foundation of all his being.

In more particular, this ouerthroweth all<sup>q</sup> worke-mongers, and (if I may so speake) babling word mongers. If a man cannot open his owne lips to praise God, much lesse direct his owne heart to please God; if not able to tune his tongue, let him not presume to turne his soule.

And if a man cannot open his mouth aright, let him not picke it with a false key, but rather pray with Dauid in the 141. Psalme: Set awatch, O Lord, before my mouth, and keepe the doores of my lips. As it is absurd in building, to make the porch bigger then the house: so, monstrous in nature, when we commit burglarie, breaking the doores, and pulling downe the<sup>r</sup> barres of our mouth, that the narrow passage may bee made wide for our bigge words, and high conceits. A foule fault, when our words are either too many; or too mightie: Ecclesiastes 5. 1.

2. Point what, Open my lips.

Dauid elsewhere thinkes our mouth too much open, and<sup>t</sup> S. James, that our tongue is too glib and vnruilie. Lingua facile volat, & ideo facile violat (saith<sup>u</sup> Bernard.) In old age, when all other members are dull and stiffe, the

<sup>f</sup> Hierom. poster expetit in Psalm 119
<sup>g</sup> Cap. 3. 6.
<sup>h</sup> Plutarch.
<sup>i</sup> Ætop.
<sup>j</sup> Pars optima digna que sit hujus Prudent. hyn de Roman. martye.

<sup>k</sup> Coloff. 4. 3.

<sup>l</sup> Apocal 3. 7.

<sup>m</sup> Acts 17. 28.

<sup>n</sup> James 1. 17.

<sup>o</sup> Didacus de la Vega. con 7. (super Psalm. 4. parueniential & Oleaster in cap. 1. Gen. 1. Dan. 5. 23.

<sup>q</sup> Locus contra Pelagianos, ut Genebradus in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Ecclesiasticus 28. 24.

<sup>s</sup> Psalm 145.

<sup>t</sup> Cap. 3. 8.

<sup>u</sup> Sermon de Triplici custodia manus, lingua, cordis.

<sup>2</sup> Erasmus com. de lingua, & August lib 10 Confess cap 37. quotidiana fornax est humana lingua.

<sup>1</sup> In locum.

<sup>2</sup> Pulchra non est laus in ore peccatoris.

Hieron. in loc. a Genebrardus in locum.

<sup>b</sup> Mat. 12 34. c Musculus in locum.

<sup>d</sup> Lucas Loffius in locum.

<sup>o</sup> Ecclesiasticus 21. 26.

<sup>f</sup> Verse 10.

<sup>g</sup> Mat. 12. 36.

<sup>h</sup> Pfal 150. 5.

<sup>i</sup> Pfal 103. 1.

<sup>k</sup> Pfal. 45. 2.

<sup>l</sup> Thom. 2. 26. quest. 83. art. 12.

<sup>m</sup> Rom. 11. 36.

<sup>n</sup> August. in Pfal 134. Non augetur benedictione, nec minuitur maledictione nostra. Idem in Pfal. 66

x tongue notwithstanding is quicke and nimble. What need any then pray for opening their lips? I answer with the Prophet Jeremy, chap. 4. vers. 22. They are wise to doe euill, but to doe well they haue no knowledge. Men haue tongue enough to speake ill, an open mouth to blaspheme God, and slander their neighbour; but like Plinies Astomi, no mouth, no lips, no tongue, possessed with a dumbe detuill when they should speake well.

Hierome, y Basil, Euthymius, and other ancient Doctors obserue, that naturall corruptions, and actuall sins, are the very rampiers which stop this free passage. So Dauid himselfe doth expound himselfe, vers 14. Deliuer mee from bloudguiltinesse. O God, and my tongue shall sing of thy righteousnesse. His vnthankfulnesse did cry, his adutery cry, his murther cry vnto the Lord for reuenge: but alas, himselfe was mute, till God in exceeding great mercy did stop the mouths of his clamorous aduersaries, and gaue him leaue to speake.

Here we note the great wisdom of the Church, assigning this place to this vertice in this booke: namely, before the Psalmes, Lessons, and Colleets: and yet after the Confession and Absolution of our finnes, insinuating that our mouths are silenced only by transgression, and opened only by God: and therefore when we meet together in the Temple, to be thankfull vnto him, and to speake good of his name, we must craue first, that according to the multitude of his rich mercies, he would pardon all our old finnes, and then put into our mouth a new song: that, as the seruice is holy, the time holy; the place holy; so we likewise the persons holy, who sing, Holy, holy, holy, &c. Deus faciat tam commodum, quam Ecclesia fecit accomodum.

Our fathers, in this, imitated the learned Hebrew Doctors, enioyning that this verte should be said at the beginning of euery prayer, in <sup>a</sup> tractatu Berachoth; that is, their Liturgie, being the first part of the Talmud, as Petrus Galatinus lib. 1. cap. 5. de Arcanis, & Sixtus Senensis Bibliothec. lib. 2. pag. 121.

My lips] A part for the whole, sufficient abilitie to praise God: Ex abundantia cordis loquitur. He doth entreat God then, as before, for a cleane heart, and a right spirit, that his <sup>c</sup> old ioyes of conscience may be renewed, and all the whole man throughly repaired, a good <sup>d</sup> desire to begin, a ready will to continue, a constant resolution to end in Gods holy seruice.

The key of the mouth ought not to stand in the doore of the lips, but to bee kept in the cabinet of the minde. For <sup>e</sup> the heart of fooles is in their mouth, but the mouth of the wise is in their heart. Dauid therefore doth desire first a new <sup>f</sup> soule, then a new song. The tongue is ambassaour of the minde; as often as we speake without meditation before, so often the messenger runneth without his errand. And idle words are not little finnes, of which one day we shall giue great <sup>g</sup> account.

The minde then and the mouth must goe together: in ciuill communication, he that will not speake idly, must thinke what he speakes; and he that will not speake falsely, must speake what he thinkes. In holy deuotion, God must be praised vpon well<sup>h</sup> tuned Cymbals, and loud Cymbals, in his Quire there must be first tune well, a prepared <sup>i</sup> heart, then sound well, a cheerefull tongue, like the <sup>k</sup> pen of a ready writer. Albeit mentall prayer at sometime, and in some place be sufficient: yet <sup>l</sup> vocall, in Gods publike worship, is necessarie to stirre vp, and blow the coales of zeale, both in our selues and others. Open lips in open seruice.

Why: 2. Part.

That my mouth may shew thy praise.] That as of <sup>m</sup> thee, and through thee and for thee are all things; so to thee may be praise for euermore. See Pater Noster.

God is of himselfe, and in himselfe so great, so good, as that we cannot any way detract or adde to his glorie. Nec<sup>h</sup> melior si laudaueris, nec deterior si vituperaueris. I answer, though we cannot make Gods praise greater in it selfe, yet we may make it seeme greater vnto other; it is our duty to shew forth his praise in all our words and actions too: for albeit we cannot make a new God, and a new Christ (as the Papists doe) yet our good example, and gracious speech, may may make little Christ a great Christ; occasion all those with whom we conuerſe to magnifie the Lord now, who little regarded him before. See the Magnificat.

This annunciation of praise conſiſts of often repetition and particular ename- ration of Gods eſpeciall goodneſſe towards vs. ° Auguſtine therefore doth glotie the text thus: Laudem tuam, quia creatus ſum. Laudem tuam, quia vt conſiterer iam monitus ſum. Laudem tuam, quia peccans non derelictus ſum. Laudem tuam, quia vt ſecurus eſſem mundatus ſum.

P Hugo comprehends all, which concernes vs all, in foure words: God is to be praised, quia Creator ad eſſe, Conſeruator in eſſe, Recreator in bene eſſe, Glorificator in optimo eſſe: qui non reddit Deo faciendo quod debet, reddet ei, patiendo quod debet.

The whole text doth teach all men generally the language of Canaan,<sup>u</sup> that is, what and how to ſpeake, that their mouth may glorifie God, and edifie their brethren. Eſpecially Paſtors to x miniſter a word in time to the wearie; ſo to tune their notes, as that they may be like apples of gold with pictures of ſiluer. In all their ſermons to preach Jeſus for Jeſus, hunting not after their owne, but his glorie. Lord open my lips that my mouth may ſhew not My praise, but Thy praise, ſaith Dauid.

Gloria Patri.

THis Hymne is of good credit, and great antiquity. 2 Ramus acknowledgeth ingenuouſly both. It is a paraphraſticall expoſition of that excellent ſpeech, Romanes, 11. 36. 2 Of him, and through him, and for him are all things, to him bee glorie for ever, Amen: vſed in the Church to manifeſt our ſound iudgement in matter of doctrine concerning the ſacred Trinitie. We muſt (ſaith b Baſil) as we haue receiued, enen ſo baptize; and as we baptize, enen ſo beleue, and as we beleue, enen ſo giue glorie. Baptizing we uſe the name of the Father, of the Sonne, of the holy Ghoſt: Confeſſing the Chriſtian faith, we declare our beleefe in the Father, and in the Sonne, and in the holy Ghoſt: aſcribing glorie to God; we giue it to the Father, and to the Sonne, and to the holy Ghoſt. And howſoeuer Anabaptiſticall Antipodes, out of their ambitious humor to contradict all other, and heare themſelues onely ſpeake, would haue thruſt out of the Church all ſo- lenne ſet formes of holy ſeruice: yet Gloria Patri ſtands ſtill, and like a true Martyr doth ſhew the greateſt countenance in loweſt eſtate.

For antiquitie, ſuch as looke loweſt affirme that it was ordained firſt by c Damaſus, ann. Dom. 4376. Others, that it was enacted in that famous Councell of Nice, conſiſting of 318. Biſhops vnder Conſtantine the Great, ann. 320.

Febadius in lib. aduerſus Arrian. inſinuates, that it was vſed in the Church long before. The curious in this point may further examine i Bellarmino, and that Oxenford of learning, Maſter Richard & Hooker.

Venite exultemus Domino.

IT is euidēt, not onely by b Church hiſtory, but alſo by the Scripture, that Pſalmes haue alwaies taken vp a great roome in diuine ſeruice. i Mat. 25. 30. 1 Cor. 14. 25. When you come together, as enery one of you hath a Pſalme.

Let not any then wonder at our often Pſalmody both after, and before the word expounded, and read: and ſometime interlaced betweene both. A cuſtome continued in all other reformed Churches of Scotland, France, Flanders, &c.

Above all other Pſalmes, k our Church hath fitly choſen this, as a wheſtone to ſet an edge vpon our deuotions at the very beginning of publike praier in the Temple: teaching plainly for what matter, and after what manner, it beho- ueth vs to ſerue God in his Sanctuarie. For it conſiſts of two parts:

° In locum tom. 8 fol. 339.

P Hugo Cardi- nal in Luc cap. 10. 27.

9 Auguſt. de lib. arbutio lib. 3. cap. 15.

° Eſay 19. 18.

° Eſay 50. 4.

7 Prou. 25. 11.

2 De religione Chriſtian lib. 1. cap. 19.

2 Ex nota pa- trem: per ſum- in ſpiri ſanct.

Lombard lib. 1. ſent. diſt. 36 & Auguſtin. c. 8

Tria lib. 6. cap. 10.

b Epistol. 78. & Melanct. ex p. ſi. ſymbol. 2. Niccn. tom. 1. fol. 403.

c Alcuinus lib. de offi diuin.

d Florilegus fol. 104.

e Mazdeburg. Cent. 4. col. 617.

f De Miſſa lib. 2. cap. 16.

g Eccleſiaſt. polit. lib. 5 § 47.

h Auguſt. lib. 10. cōſiſſ. cap. 33.

& proem. in Pſal 118.

7 erulian lib. de Velandis

virginib. cap. 7.

i Scaliger de emendat temp

lib. 6. pag. 273. dit. 1593

k Maſter Dec- ring. 1. cēt. 5

vpon the Ep- ſtle to the He- brewes.

1. An exhortation to praise God, in the 1. 2. 6. verses,

2. An allegation of causes why we should doe this, and they be taken either from his Mercies, } In general, for creating and ruling the whole world : 3. 4. 5. }
 Judgements, } In particular, for electing his Church. 7 } in the } 8. 9. 10. 11. setting before their eyes a fearefull example. and that in their owne fathers, for omitting this excellent dutie.

In the first part two points are remarkable : } Who must praise ; Let vs sing, let vs come, let vs worship.

How } Where, Before his presence.
 } Whereto, Sing to the Lord.
 } Wherewith, with our voyce.

Let vs sing : with our heart, heartily : with hands and knees, O come let vs worship and fall downe and kneele before the Lord our maker.

For the first : <sup>1</sup> David is not content alone to praise God ; but exciteth all other about him to doe the same : O come let vs sing.

Now David may be considered as a } Priuate man.
 } Publike person, } Prince.
 } Prophet.

Here then is a threefold patterne in one : An example for Masters to stir vp their familie : an example for Preachers to exhort their people ; an example for Princes to prouoke their Subiects vnto the publike worship of the Lord. It becometh great men, especially to be good men : as being <sup>m</sup> unprinted statutes, and <sup>n</sup> speaking lawes vnto the rest. This affection was in <sup>o</sup> Abraham, <sup>p</sup> Paul, <sup>q</sup> Iosua, and ought to be in all, <sup>r</sup> exhorting one another while it is called to day.

You hold it a good rule in worldly businesse, not to say to your seruants, Come ye, goe ye, arise ye ; but, let vs come, let vs goe, let vs arise. Now shall the children of this world be wiser in their generation, then the children of light ? Doe we commend this course in mundane affaires, and neglect it in religious offices ? Assuredly, if our zeale were so great to religion, as our loue is towards the world ; Masters would not come to Church (as many doe) without their Seruants, and Seruants without their Masters ; Parents without their Children, and Children without their Parents ; Husbands without their Wiues, and Wiues without their Husbands : but, all of vs would call one to another, as <sup>s</sup> Esay prophecied ; O come let vs goe vp to the mountaine of the Lord, to the house of the God of Iacob, he will teach vs his wayes, and we will walke in his paths. And as David here practised, O come let vs sing to the Lord, let vs heartily reioyce in the strength of our saluation.

How ] First where ; before the Lord, before his presence, vers. 2. 6. God is euery where ; <sup>t</sup> Whither shall I goe from thy spirit ? or whither shall I goe from thy presence ?

True : God is a circle, whose Center is no where, Circumference euery where ; yet is he said in holy Scripture to dwell in <sup>u</sup> heauen, and to be present in his Sanctuarie more specially ; manifesting his glory from heauen, his grace in the Church principally. For he said in the <sup>x</sup> Law, In all places where I shall put the remembrance of my name, I will come vnto thee : and in the <sup>y</sup> Gospell, Where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them. Albeit euery day be a Sabbath, and euery place a Sanctuarie for our priuate deuotions, according to the particular exigence of our occasions ; yet God hath allotted certaine times, and certaine places for his publike seruice, Leuit. 19. 30. Ye shall sanctifie my Sabbaths, and reuerence my Sanctuary.

God is to be worshipped euery where. Yet the seuenth of our time, and the tenth of our liuing, must more specially be consecrated to that honor which he requires in the Temple. And therefore <sup>z</sup> Caluin is of opinion that David vttered this speech vpon the Sabbath : as if he should say, Come let vs sing to the Lord, not in priuate only, but let vs come before his presence with thanksgiving.

As

<sup>1</sup> For he made this Psalmc. Heb. 4. 7.

<sup>m</sup> Greg. Nazian.
<sup>n</sup> Arist.
<sup>o</sup> Gen. 18. 19.
<sup>p</sup> 1 Cor. 9. 22.
<sup>q</sup> Iosua 24. 15.
<sup>r</sup> Heb 3. 13.

<sup>s</sup> Esay 2. 3.

Where.
<sup>t</sup> Psal. 139. 7.

<sup>u</sup> Matth 6. 9.

<sup>x</sup> Exod 20. 24.
<sup>y</sup> Matth. 18. 20.

<sup>z</sup> Comment. in locum.

As in the 100 Psalme: Goe your way into his gates, and into his Courts with praise.

The consideration of this one point, that God is in euery place by his generall presence, in this holy place by his especiall presidence, may teach all men to pray not hypocritically for fashion, but heartily for conscience; not onely formally to satisfie the law, but also sincerely to certifie our loue to the Lord our maker, giuing vnto <sup>a</sup> Cesar the things which appertaine to Cesar, and vnto God the things which belong to God. That we may not only praise where we should, but, as it followeth in the diuision Whereto: Let vs sing to the Lord, let vs reioyce in the strength of our saluation, let vs shew our selues glad in him.

Euery one in his merrie mood will say; Come let vs sing, let vs heartily reioyce: But as good neuer a wit as neuer the better. Silence is a sweeter note then a loud, if a lewd sonnet. If we will needs reioyce, let vs (saith <sup>b</sup> Paul) reioyce in the Lord: if sing, saith Dauid, let vs sing to the Lord.

Vaine toyes are songs sung to the world, lasciuious ballads are songs sung to the flesh, Saryricall libels are songs sung to the Deuill; only Psalmes and Hymnes, and spirituall songs are <sup>c</sup> melody for the Lord. Pie debes Domino exultare si vis securus mundo insultare, saith <sup>d</sup> Augustine vpon this text: we may not exalt but insult ouer the world, the flesh, the deuill; our exaltations and exultations are due to God only.

Venite exultemus Domino.

Let vs worship and fall downe, and kneele before the Lord our maker: not before a Crucifix, not before a rotten Image, not before a faire picture of a foule Saint: these are not our makers, we made them, they made not vs. Our God, vnto whom we must sing, in whom we must reioyce, before whom we must worship, is a great King above all gods: he is no god of lead, no god of bread, no brazen god, no wooden god; we must not fall downe and worship our Ladie, but our Lord; not any Martyr, but our Maker; not any Saint, but our Sauour: O come let vs sing vnto the Lord, let vs heartily reioyce in the strength of our saluation.

Wherewith: with voice, Let vs sing; with soule, let vs heartily reioyce; with hands and knees, let vs fall downe and kneele, with all that is within vs, with all that is without vs; he that made all must be worshipped with all, especially when we come before his presence.

Here let vs make a stand, and behold the wise choice of the Church, assigning this place to this Psalme, which exciteth vs to come to the Temple quietly and ioyntly, Come let vs sing; and when we are come, to demeane our selues in this holy place cheerfully, heartily, reuerently. I would faine know of those who despise our Canons, as not agreeable to the Canon of holy Bible, whether their vnmanly sitting in the time of diuine seruice be this kneeling; whether their standing be this falling downe; whether they giue God their heart, when as they will not afford him so much as their hat; whether their lowring vpon their brethren, be singing to the Lord; whether their dutie required here, be to come in, to goe out, to stay in the Temple, without any respect of persons, or reuerence to place.

I would such as doe imitate the Turks in <sup>e</sup> habit, would likewise follow them in humble comportment while they pray: <sup>f</sup> Magna cum Ceremonia, & attentione sacris suis intersunt Turca: nam si vel digito scalpant caput, perisse sibi precationis fructum arbitrantur: quid enim si cum Bassis sermo tibi habendus, ergo multo magis si cum Deo. Thinke of this ye that forget God, he will not be mocked, his truth is eternall, heauen and earth shall passe, but not one iot of his word shall passe: if an Angell from heauen, or Deuill on earth, if any priuate spirit shall deliuer vnto you rules of behauiour in the Church, contrary to this Canon of Gods owne spirit, let him be accursed, Anathema. Let vs sing, let vs worship, let vs, who feare God & honour the King, fall downe & kneele before the Lord our maker

Thus

<sup>a</sup> Mat. 22. 21.
Si Cesar in Numero querit imaginem suam, Deus non querit in homine imaginem suam?
Augustin. nar.
busus Psal. ni.
Whereto
<sup>b</sup> Philip. 4. 4.

<sup>c</sup> Coloss. 3. 16.
<sup>d</sup> Tom. 8. fol.
730.

Wherewith.

Comely gestures in the Church.

<sup>e</sup> Sura. confer.
pag. 27.
<sup>f</sup> Angerius Busiequius legat.
Tuncica epist. 30.

Thus much of Dauids exhortation to praise God. The reasons why we should praise, follow. Set downe

First briefly, God is our Creator, therefore let vs worship and fall downe and kneele before the Lord our maker, vers. 6 He is our Redeemer, therefore let vs sing unto the Lord, let vs heartily reioyce in the strength of our saluation, verse 1.

Secondly, more at large from his } Mercies in generall, verse 3, 4, 5.
} Iudgements.

For the Lord is a great God: ] Most mighty, almighty, able to doe whatsoever he will, and more then he will too. See the Creed.

In himselfe so great, that the heauen of heauens cannot containe him, much lesse any barren braine inwombe him: and therefore Dauid here being not able to set downe the least peece of his greatnesse in the positive degree, comes to the comparative, shewing what he is in comparison of other: A great king above all Gods. As being more excellent and mightie then any thing, or all things that haue the name of God,

Whether they } Title, } Angels in heauen.
} h Princes on ear h.
be Gods in } Opinion, } As <sup>i</sup>gold is the couetous mans god, <sup>k</sup> bellycheere the Epicures god, an <sup>l</sup> idoll the superstitious mans god.

Now the Lord is the King of all gods in title, for he made them: of all gods in opinion, for he can destroy them. <sup>m</sup> Angels are his messengers, and <sup>n</sup> Princes his ministers, all <sup>o</sup> power is of the Lord. The manner of getting kingdomes is not alwaies of God, because it is sometime by wicked meanes; yet the power it selfe is euer from God, and therefore stile in <sup>p</sup> Scripture, the God of gods, as the <sup>q</sup> Wise man saith, higher then the highest: for religion and reason tell vs, that of all creatures in heauen an Angell is the greatest, of all things on earth, an <sup>r</sup> Emperor is the greatest: but the Lord (as you see) is greater then the greatest as being absolute Creator of the one, and maker of the other: Quantus Deus est qui Deos facit! How great a God is he that makes gods, yea and marres them too at his pleasure! surely this is a great God, and a great king above all gods. And therefore in what estate soeuer thou be, possesse thy soule with patience, reioyce in God, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might, feare no man, no deuill, no other God, he that is greater then all these shall be thy defence; he will performe what soeuer in his word he did promise concerning this life & the next.

In his hand are all the corners of the earth] A reason to proue that God is a great King above all gods: he is a great God, because a King of gods: and he is a King of gods, because in his hand are all the corners of the world, subiect to his power and prouidence.

The most mighty Monarch on earth is king as it were but of a mole-hill, a Lord of some one angle: but in gods hand are all the corners of the earth, and the strength of the hills. i. of most puissant potentates, in comparison of whom all other are low valleyes; say the strength and height of the hills are his.

Antichrist doth extoll himselfe <sup>t</sup> above all that is called God. and the Pope doth make himselfe Lord of Lords, vsurping the <sup>u</sup> whole world for his Diocesse: yea he hath a triple kingdome, according to his triple crowne; Supernall, cxtended to heauen, in canonizing Saints; Infernall, extended to hell, in freeing soules out of Purgatorie; Terrestriall, extended ouer the whole earth, as being vniuersall Bishop of the Catholike Church. But alas, vaine man, he is but a Fox in an hole, many corners of the earth are not his; England (God be praised) is not his, Scotland, Holland, Denmarke not his, a great part of France, the greatest part of Germanie, none of his, many thousands in Portugall, Italie, Spaine, none of his; the great Cham, the Persian, the Turke, the least whereof is greater than himselfe, none of his. And albeit all the Kings of the earth should bee drunken with his abomination, yet should he be Pastor vniuersall of the Church, but as the deuill is * prince of the world; not by his owne might, but by others weaknesse,

<sup>e</sup> Klobin.

<sup>f</sup> Psal 8. 5.

<sup>h</sup> Psal 82. 6.

<sup>i</sup> Coloff 3. 5.

<sup>k</sup> Philip. 2 19.

<sup>l</sup> Psal. 96. 5.

<sup>m</sup> Heb. 1. 14.

<sup>n</sup> Prou 8 15.

<sup>o</sup> Rom 13 1.

<sup>p</sup> Psal. 50 1.

<sup>q</sup> Ecclesiast 5. 7

<sup>r</sup> Tertullian ad Scapulam: Omnibus maior dum solo Deo minor.

<sup>s</sup> Augustin in locum.

<sup>e</sup> 2 Theff. 2. 4.

<sup>u</sup> Harding con- fus: of law-Is A- poleg. part. 2. cap. 3.

* Iohn 12. 32.

weaknesse, as <sup>y</sup> S. Paul said, He is our master to whom we give our selves as servants to obey.

<sup>y</sup> Rom. 6. 16.

So likewise the gods of the superstitious Heathen haue not all the corners of the world: for, as themselves ingenuously confesse, some were gods of the water only, some of the winde, some of corne, some of fruit, <sup>z</sup> Nec omnia commemoro, quia me piget quod illos non pudet. As Heretikes haue so many Creeds, as heads: so the Gentiles (as <sup>a</sup> Prudentius obserued) had so many things for their god, as there were things that were good.

<sup>z</sup> Aug. l. de Ci-uit. lib. 4. cap. 8.
<sup>a</sup> Lib. 1. aduersus Synacbum.

*Quicquid humus, pelagus, cœlum, mirabile gignunt:
Id duxere Deos, colles, freta, flumina, flammis.*

So that their god is not as our God, <sup>b</sup> euē our enemies being Iudges. Other hold some parcels of the earth vnder him, and some lay claime to the whole by vsurpation. But all the corners of the world are his by right of creation, as it followeth in the next verse.

<sup>b</sup> Deut. 32. 31.

The Sea is his, for he made it] An argument demonstratiue, to shew that all the world is subiect to his power: and therefore in the Creed, after Almightie, followeth instantly, Maker of heauen and earth.

If any shall demand why Dauid nameth here first and principally the Sea, before all other creatures: answer may be giuen out of <sup>c</sup> Plinie; God, who is wonderfull in all things, is most wonderfully wonderfull in the Sea.

<sup>c</sup> Lib. 32. nat.
hist. in proœm.
Ipsa se natura vincit numerosis modis.

Whether we consider (as <sup>d</sup> Dauid elsewhere) the

1. Situation of it.
2. Motion.
3. Innumerable creatures in it.
4. Wonderfull Art of sayling on it.

<sup>d</sup> Psal. 104.

Yet God in the beginning <sup>e</sup> made this vnruly foaming fuming beast, and euer since ruled it at his becke: for he stilleth the raging of the Sea, and the noyse of his wanes; & he shutteth up this barking curre in the channell, as in a kennell: he layeth up the deepe, as in a treasure house, saying to the waters, i Hitherto shalt thou come, but no further, and here shall it stay thy proud wanes.

<sup>e</sup> Gen. 1. 9.
<sup>f</sup> Psal. 65. 7.
<sup>g</sup> Ioh. 3. 8.
<sup>h</sup> Psal. 33. 7.
<sup>i</sup> Iob. 38. 11.

Hitherto concerning the greatnesse, and goodnesse of God in generall. Now Dauid in the seuenth verse proceeds, intimating that the Lord of all in common, is our God in speciall. He is the Lord our God, as being the people of his pasture, and the sheepe of his hands: that is, himselfe doth feed and fauour the Church in a more particular sort, committing this charge to none other. See Preface of the Decalogue.

The last reason is from iudgement; for God vseth all meanes to winne men vnto him. The summe whereof is, that we must not harden our hearts, and obstinately settle our selves in sinne, as our forefathers in the wildernesse: but rather heare the voyce of the Lord speaking vnto vs out of his Word all the day long, the whole time of our life generally, but on the Sabbath day more spectally, least in his anger he sweare that we shall not enter into his rest. Read this historie, Numb. 14. Exod. 17. for, as <sup>k</sup> Paul doth teach, these things are written for our ensample, vpon whom the ends of the world are come. Lege historiam, ne sis, historia. The iudgements of God are like thunder-claps, pœna ad vnum, terror ad omnes. As in a Common-weale, places of execution are publike, ad terrorem populi. because (as Plato said) Nemo prudens punit quia peccatum est, sed ne peccetur. And another ancient Philosopher to the same purpose: Malefici non pereunt ut pereant, sed ut pereundo alios deterreant. That the <sup>l</sup> State which had no benefit by their life, should make vse of their death. In like manner, Almighty God in this huge Theater of the world, doth make some spectacles vnto other, all of vs being either actors, or spectators: and so by consequence must take example by other, or else make example to other. See Epist. Dom. 9. post. Trinit.

<sup>k</sup> 1 Cor. 10. 11.

<sup>l</sup> Seneca lib. 1.
de Ira cap. 6.

Te Deum.

THAT Hymnes accurately framed by deuout men according to the word, may be sung in the Church with the Psalmes of Dauid, and other spirituall songs taken out of the word, we can alleage precept; and example: Precept, Colossians 3.16. Admonish your selues in Psalmes and Hymnes, &c. <sup>m</sup> Martorat doth construe this of singing in the Church: and Haymo, that Hymnes were godly songs, inuented by the Christians of that age. For Gods holy Church hath vsed this custome from the <sup>n</sup> Primitiue times, euen vnto this present day.

Concerning Te Deum in particular: it is approued by <sup>o</sup> Luther, and held by our <sup>p</sup> Martyrs a good Creed: (as it is thought generally) composed by those two great lights of the Church, Ambrose <sup>q</sup> who was the most resolute Bishop, and Augustine <sup>r</sup> who was the most iudicious Doctor of all the Fathers.

It is reported by Dacius, a reuerend Bishop of Milane, <sup>tl</sup> at in his time, who liued vnder <sup>f</sup> Iustinian <sup>t</sup> anno 538. this Hymne was receiued and vsed in the Church: which argueth it of greater antiquity, then vpsstart Poperie. The Nonelists (as <sup>n</sup> Augustine writes of Fausus the Manichee) Vel non intelligendo reprehendit, vel reprehendendo non intelligit. Either too much passion, or else too little knowledge.

Benedicite omnia opera.

THIS Canticle is a rapsodie gathered here and there from diuers Psalmes of Dauid, as the <sup>x</sup> marginall notes indigitate: cited often by the learned and ancient <sup>y</sup> Fathers, and not censured for it by the Lutheran Historiographers. Cent. 5. colum. 219.

Imprinted at Midleburgh with the Dauidicall Psalmes in English meeter: an honour denied vnto the Church-Psalter in prose. In a word, I find this Hymne lesse martyred then the rest, and therefore dimisse it, as Christ did the woman, John 8. Where be thine accusers? Hath no man condemned thee? no more doe I: goe thy way.

Benedictus. L V K B I. 68.

THE Benedictus, Magnificat, and Nunc dimittis, are said in the Church daily<sup>s</sup> whereas other Psalmes of Dauid, Asaph, Moses, are read but monethly. The reasons hereof are manifest, and manifold, I will only name two.

First, these most excellent Hymnes (as <sup>x</sup> gratulations wherewith our Lord and Sauour was ioyfully receiued at his entrance into the world) concerne vs so much more then the Psalmes of Dauid, as the Gospell more then the Law, and the new Testament more then the old. For the one are but prophecies of Christ to come, whereas the other are plaine discoveries of Christ already present.

Secondly, these songs are proper only to Christianity, whereas other Psalmes are common to the Iewes, as well as to the Christians, wherewith they praise God in their Synagogue, so well as we praise God in our Church. A Iew will sing with Asaph and Dauid, that the Messias of the world shall come, but he cannot, he will not acknowledge with Zacharias and Simeon that he is come. So that the Nonelists herein misliking the Churches custome, doth seeme to play the Iew; which I rather ascribe to the lightnesse of his folly, then to the waight of his mallice. Sententiam Ecclesia non intelligit, sed amat suam, non quia vera est, sed quia sua est.

It is fitly placed after the second Lesson, as an Hymne of praise to magnifie God for the comfort we receive by the sweet tidings of the Gospell; Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for visiting and redeeming his people.

<sup>m</sup> In loc. & Calvin. Instit. lib. 3. cap. 20. § 32.

<sup>n</sup> Eusebius hist. lib. 2. cap 7

Dionysius de diuin. nom. c. 4. Concilium Tolent. 4. can. 12.

<sup>o</sup> Bellar. de bonis operibus in particulari lib. 1. cap. 12. & 14.

<sup>p</sup> Fox Mart. gr. fol. 799.

<sup>q</sup> Vigner answ. to Baronus pag. 17.

<sup>r</sup> Per. Treat. Conscience, c. 2

<sup>t</sup> Greg. lib. 3. Dialog. cap. 4.

Magdeburg. Cent. 6. col. 702.

<sup>tl</sup> Baron tom. 7. fol. 294.

<sup>n</sup> Con. Faustum lib. 22. cap. 34.

<sup>x</sup> Of the Church-Bible.

<sup>y</sup> Cyp. serm. de lapsis & orat. Dom.

August. de Ciuit. lib. 11 cap. 9.

& de natura boni. cap. 16.

Chrysost. hom. 4. ad pop.

<sup>x</sup> Hooker Ecclesiast. polit. lib. 5. §. 40.

<sup>a</sup> August. confess. lib. 12. cap. 25.

It hath two principall parts: } 1. Concerning Christ and his kingdome.
 } 2. Touching John the Baptist and his office, verse 76. &c.

It is very remarkable, that Zacharias who was dumbe, vers. 20. doth now not onely speake, but also prophetic. He was made speechlesse, because he was faithlesse: but now beleeuing, his lips are opened, and his mouth doth shew forth Gods praise: saying, Blessed be the Lord.

Let no man in his affliction despaire: for (as <sup>b</sup> Ambrose notes) if we change our manners, Almighty God will alter his minde. Nec solum ablata restituit, sed etiam in sperata concedit: He will not only restore that which was taken away, but also giue more than we can expect. <sup>c</sup> So he blessed the last dayes of Iob more than the first: for whereas <sup>d</sup> he had but 7000 sheepe, 3000 camels, 500 yoke of oxen, and 500 shee-asses: afterward the Lord gaue him 14000 sheepe, 6000 camels, 1000 yoke of oxen, and 1000 asses. In the second of Iocel; If you will turne to me (saith the Lord) with all your heart, with fasting, weeping, and mourning, I will render vnto you the yeeres which the Grasshopper hath eaten, the Cankerworme, and the Caterpillar. And moreouer, I will powre out my Spirit vpon all flesh, and your sonnes and your daughters shall prophetic. &c. In the 9. of Matthew, when Christ saw the faith of the palfie man, he did not only cure the sores of his bodie, but also the finnes of his soule; Sonne, be of good cheere, thy finnes are forgiven thee.

In the first part two points } 1. Who to be blessed; The Lord God of Israel.
 are to be considered especially: } 2. Why; first for promising, then for performing redemption vnto the world.

Blessed] That is, praised, as Psal. 18. 47. Matth. 23. 39. So that Zacharias here remembering a great benefit, begins his Hymne with thankes, Benedictus Dominus. Hereby signifying, that it is our first and chiefe dutie to be thankfull, to blesse God, who doth so wonderfully blesse vs in all the changes and chances of this mortall life, to say with <sup>e</sup> Iob, The Lord giueth, and the Lord taketh, blessed be the name of the Lord. God be praised, and the Lord be blessed, is the language of Canaan: whereas vnthankfulnesse is the Devils text, and the blasphemies of wicked men are commentaries vpon it.

The Lord] For, as <sup>f</sup> Aristotle said; Praise is only vertues due: but none is good, & except God. Other are to be praised in him, so farre forth as they haue receiued any gift or good from him, only the Lord is worthy to be praised in and for himselfe.

God of Israel] So called in <sup>h</sup> two respects: first, in regard of his loue towards them, as being his peculiar inclosure out of the Commons of the whole world, Deut. 7. 6. Psal. 76. Esay 5.

Secondly, in regard of their seruice to him, he <sup>i</sup> is God of other, will they will they. Psal. 99. 1. The Lord is King, be the people neuer so impatient; he sitteth betwene the Cherubins, be the earth neuer so vnquiet: but Israel willingly submitted her selfe to serue him cheerefully with all her heart. The deuill is prince of the world, because the wicked of the world be ready to giue place to his suggestions: but the Lord is God of Israel; that is, of all good men, because they resist Satan, and yeeld to his government, desiring daily that his kingdome may come, and his will be done in earth as it is in heauen.

He doth vse this title, <sup>k</sup> rather than another, in generall, to describe the true God, and to distinguish him from the gods of the Gentiles, who were not gods, but <sup>l</sup> Idols: that is, deuils (as <sup>m</sup> Euthymius obserues.) In particular, this title did best fit his occasion, because Christ the Redeemer of the world, was promised vnto the <sup>n</sup> Iewes, Abraham and his seed for euer: and therefore blessed be the Lord God of Israel.

Why? First for promising: then for performing.

The promises of God touching the Messias, are <sup>o</sup> twofold.

1. Made by himselfe, to Adam, Abraham, Isaac, vers. 72, 73.

<sup>b</sup> Lib. 2. in Luc. cap. de prophetatione Zacharie.

<sup>c</sup> Iob 42. 12.

<sup>d</sup> Iob 1. 3.

<sup>e</sup> Iob 1. 21.

<sup>f</sup> Lib. 1. Ethic. cap. 12.

<sup>g</sup> Mark 10. 18.

<sup>h</sup> Deauxamis in loc.

<sup>i</sup> Euthymius.

<sup>k</sup> Maldonat. in locum.

<sup>l</sup> Psal. 96. 5.

<sup>m</sup> In Psalmum predic.

<sup>n</sup> Rom 2. 4. 5.

<sup>o</sup> Tar. sinus concord. cap. 5.

2. Made by his seruants: As he spake by the mouth of his holy Prophets, which haue beene since the world began, verſ. 70.

He spake] The Prophet is but the voyce: God himſelfe is the ſpeaker, as Iohn Baptist ſaid; I am the voice of him that cryeth in the wilderneſſe.

By the mouth] In the ſingular number; for albeit they were many, yet they ſpake but one thing, from one ſpirit, as it were with one mouth.

Which haue beene ſince the world began] For all the Prophets haue ſeretold of theſe dayes. In the tranſfiguration, Mofes and Elias are ſaid to talke with Chriſt: ſignifying hereby; (ſaith Origen) that the Law and the Prophets, and the Goſpell agree all in one. And therefore Peter was vnwiſe to make three Tabernacles for one.

{ Place, <sup>u</sup> ſeparated from the prophane vulgar, and conſecrated to this high calling.

{ Grace, for being hallowed and elected to this office, they ſpake by the <sup>x</sup> Holy Ghoſt: endued alſo with gifts of ſanctification; in ſo much that Prophets, and holy men, heretofore were voces conuerſibiles, as it is <sup>y</sup> obſerued out of the old Teſtament, Gen. 20. 7. and new, Luk. 7. 16. Ioh. 9. 17.

Holy Prophets: holy by

This may teach the Prophets in our time to be walking Sermons, Epistles and holy Goſpels in all their cariage toward the people. Predicat viua voce, qui predicat vita, & voce. He doth preach moſt, that doth liue beſt.

As it is ſaid of Iohn the Baptist, Cum miraculum nullum fecerit, perpetuum ſau ipſe miraculum: So a good man doth alway preach, though he neuer comes in Pulpit. Whereas ſuch a Miniſter, as is no where a Miniſter but in the Church, is like <sup>a</sup> Achitophel, who ſet his houſe in order, and then hanged himſelfe. The word preached is as Aarons rod; if in the Preachers hand, it is comely: but if he caſt it from him, it will happily proue a Serpent. That which God hath ioyned together, let no man put aſunder, Holineſſe, and Prophecie. O Lord indue thy Miniſters with righteousneſſe, that thy choſen people may be ioyfull.

As God is mercifull in making, ſo faithfull in keeping his promiſe: for he viſited and redeemed his people.

Viſited] In the better part, for viſitation in mercy, not in iudgement, as Pſal. 8. 4. Gen. 21. 1.

If Chriſt did viſit vs in our perſon, let vs viſit him in <sup>b</sup> his members. All of vs are his <sup>c</sup> ſtewards, and the good things he hath lent vs are not our owne, but his; either the goods of the Church, and ſo we may not make them Impropropriations: or elſe the goods of the Common-wealth, and we may not inchoſe them. He is the beſt ſubiect that is higheſt in the Subſidie booke; ſo the beſt Chriſtian that is moſt forward in ſubſidys, in helping his brethren with ſuch gifts as God hath beſtowed vpon him.

The whole world (ſaith <sup>d</sup> S. Iohn) lieth in wickedneſſe, ſicke, very ſicke vnto <sup>e</sup> death. All wickedneſſe is weakneſſe, euery ſinne is a ſore; Couetouſneſſe an inſatiable dropſie; Pride a ſwelling tympanie; Laſineſſe the Gentlemans gout: Chriſt therefore the <sup>f</sup> great Phyſitian of the world, came to viſit vs in this extremitie: we did not fend for him, he came of his owne loue to ſeek and ſaue that which was loſt. It is a great kindneſſe for one neighbour to viſit another in ſickneſſe, but a greater kindneſſe to watch and pray with the comfortleſſe: yet the greateſt kindneſſe of all is to helpe and heale him. Even ſo, and much more than ſo Chriſt loued the world; he came not onely to ſee it, but to ſaue it; not onely to liue among men, but alſo to die for men: as to viſit, ſo to redeeme. The Lord did endure the croſſe, that the ſeruaſt might enioy the crowne: the Captaine deſcended into hell, that the ſouldier might aſcend into heauen: the Phyſitian did die, that the Patient might liue. <sup>h</sup> Bernard pithily: Triplici morbo laborat genus humanum, principio, medio, fine: id eſt, natiuitate, vita & morte. Venit Chriſtus, & contra triplicem hunc morbum, attulit triplex remedium. Natus eſt, vixit,

<sup>p</sup> Ioh. 1. 23.

<sup>q</sup> Gorran. & Beaunans in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Acts 3. 24.

<sup>s</sup> Matth 17. 3.

<sup>t</sup> Hom. 6 in cap.

<sup>u</sup> Leuit.

<sup>v</sup> Caluin in loc.

<sup>x</sup> 2 Pet. 2. 21.

<sup>y</sup> Cyillus & Maldou. in Ioh. 9.

<sup>z</sup> Maldouat in cap. 11. Matth.

<sup>a</sup> 2 Sam. 17. 23.

<sup>b</sup> Matth 23. 36.

<sup>c</sup> Luke 16. 1.

<sup>d</sup> 1 Epist. 5. 19

<sup>e</sup> Rom. 6. 13.

<sup>f</sup> Gorran. in loc. ex Auguſtino.

<sup>g</sup> 1 Tim. 1. 15.

<sup>h</sup> Liber. de Sententys.

mortuus est: eius natiuitas purgauit nostram, mors eius destruxit nostram, vita eius instruxit nostram. As <sup>i</sup> S. Paul in two words; He died for our sinnes, and rose againe for our iustification: that is, (saith <sup>k</sup> Aquinas) he died to remoue from vs all that which was euill, and rose againe to giue vs all that which was good. All is infolded in the word Redeeme, the which (as Interpreters obserue generally) doth imply that we are deliuered from the hands of all our enemies, and they bee principally foure:

The { World.
Flesh.
Deuill.
Death.

Christ ouercame the world on earth, the flesh on the Crosse, the deuill in hell, death in the graue; now being the Churches head, and husband, he tooke her dowrie, which was sinne (for shee had nothing else of her owne) and indowed her with all his goods. <sup>m</sup> I am my welbeloueds, and my welbeloued is mine. So that Christ was borne for vs, and liued for vs, and died for vs, and rose againe for vs: and therefore though the deuill cry, ego decipiam; the world cry, ego desiciam; the flesh cry, ego inficiam; death cry, ego interficiam: it makes no matter in that Christ cryeth, <sup>n</sup> ego reficiam, I will eate you, I will comfort you, I will visit and redeeme you. See Gospell on Whitsunday.

His people] The Iewes, as sent to them <sup>o</sup> first, and principally, whom hee did visit in his owne person, whereas all other Diocesses of the world were visited by Commissaries: I say first, for afterward all people were his people: Uisitauit omnes gentes, quoniam omnes egentes. In him we are all one, there is neither Iew nor Grecian, neither bond nor free, neither male nor female, Gal. 3.28.

<sup>p</sup> Augustine sweetly; The beleeuing Gentiles are more Israel, than Israel it selfe; for the Iewes are the children of Abraham according to the flesh only but we are the children of Abraham after the spirit: they be the 9 sonnes of Abraham, who doe the workes of Abraham. But what was Abrahams chiefe worke? The <sup>r</sup> Scripture tells vs, Abraham belesed and it was imputed unto him for righteousnesse. So that as <sup>s</sup> Paul concludes, all beleeuers are true Israelites, Abrahams seed and heyres by promise. See Nunc dimittis.

But shall we now sinne becaufe grace doth abound? God forbid. He hath deliuered vs from the hands of all our enemies, that we might serue him without feare, in holinesse and righteousnesse all the daies of our life. <sup>t</sup> Sine timore inimici, non sine timore Domini. Behauiug our selues in this present <sup>u</sup> world religiously towards God, righteously towards our neighbour, soberly towards our selues.

- Examine these five circumstances exactly:
1. Who did redeeme; The Lord God of Israel, <sup>x</sup> factor terre, factus in terra, yea. fractus in terra.
  2. Whom Such as sate in darknesse and in the shadow of death. His <sup>y</sup> enemies, <sup>z</sup> aliants from his Commonwealth, and open traytors to his kingdome.
  3. From what: From the hands of all our enemies.
  4. With what: With his owne <sup>a</sup> precious blood, the least drop whereof had bene meriti infiniti, yet his death only, was meriti definiti.
  5. For what: <sup>b</sup> That being deliuered from sinne, we should liue in righteousnesse.

Consider these points, and thinke not this Hymne too much vsed in our Liturgie: but sing with Zacharias daily, Benedictus Dominus: and say with <sup>c</sup> Dauid, Quid retribuam Domino pro omnibus que tribuit mihi? <sup>d</sup> Primo nihil eram, & fecit me: perieram, quasiuit me: querens inuenit me, captiuum redemit me, emptum liberauit me, de seruo fratrem fecit me. We owe our soules, our selues to God for creating vs, more than our selues for redeeming vs.

Concerning Iohn Baptist, and his office, which is the second generall part of this excellent song; see the Gospell Dom. 3. & 4. Aduent.

<sup>i</sup> Rom. 4.25.
<sup>k</sup> Sum. 3 part. quæst. 53. art. 1.

<sup>l</sup> 1 Cor. 16.26.

<sup>m</sup> Cant 6.2.

<sup>n</sup> Matth. 11.28

<sup>o</sup> Marth. 15.24
Acts 13.46.

<sup>p</sup> In Psal. 148.

<sup>q</sup> Ioh 8.39.
<sup>r</sup> Gen. 15.6.

<sup>s</sup> Galat 3.29.

<sup>t</sup> Gorran in loc.
<sup>u</sup> Tit. 2.12.

<sup>x</sup> August ser. 27. de temp.

<sup>y</sup> Rom. 5.10.
<sup>z</sup> Ephes. 2.12.

<sup>a</sup> 1 Pet. 1.19.

<sup>b</sup> 1 Pet. 24.

<sup>c</sup> Psal. 116.11.
<sup>d</sup> August serm. 151. de temp.

Iubilare Deo. PSAL. 100.

THE Church doth adioyne this Psalm to the Benedictus, as a paralell: and that not vnfitly, for as the one, so the other, is a thanksgiving vnto God, enforced with the same reasons and arguments: in so much as Zacharias is nothing else but an expounder of Dauid, or Moses. As Augustine wittily, The new Testament lieth hidden in the old, and the old is unclasp'd in the new.

Lex antiqua nouam firmat, veterem noua complet:
In veteri spes est, in nouitate fides.

O be ioyfull in the Lord, (saith the Prophet) Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, (saith our Euangelist) Why? because the Lord hath made vs, and not we our selues, we are his people and the sheepe of his pasture. That is, he hath visited and redeemed his people. For Augustine, Hierome, Caluin, Turcrematensis, and other old and new Writers interpret this of our Regeneration, rather than of our Creation. According to that of S. Paul, We are his workmanship, created in Christ Iesus vnto good workes, &c.

The Lord is gracious, his mercy is euerlasting] That is, he promised euermore by the mouth of all his holy Prophets since the world began, that we should be faued from our enemies, and from the hands of all that hate vs.

His truth endureth from generation to generation] That is, he did in due time performe the mercy promised to our forefathers, he remembered his holy covenant, and kept that oath which he swore to our father Abraham, and his seed for euer.

To what end? That we might serue God with gladnesse, as Dauid in his text: that is, serue him all the dayes, of our life without feare, as Zacharias in his glosse.

God <sup>i</sup> insinuated himselfe to the Iewes, as a Lord, Exod. 20. 2. but to the Christians, as a father, Matth. 6. 9. And therefore seeing we are translated from the <sup>k</sup> bondage of seruants, vnto the libertie of sonnes; <sup>l</sup> hauing in stead of the Law, which was exceeding <sup>m</sup> grieuous, a burthen which is <sup>n</sup> light, and a yoke which is easie, Let vs serue the Lord with gladnesse, and come before his presence with a song: Non in amaritudine murmuratiouis, sed in iocunditate dilectionis, as Augustine vpon the place.

The whole Psalm doth afford many profitable doctrines and vses: in that the Prophet doth double and treble his exhortation: O be ioyfull in the Lord, serue him with gladnesse, with a song, Goe into his gates with thanksgiving, into his courts with praise, be thankfull speake good of his name; he doth insinuate our sloth and dulnesse in that behalfe: and therefore it behoueth all men, especially teachers of men, in season and out of season to presse this dutie.

It teacheth all people to praise God with a good heart cheerefully, verse 1.

Not in priuate only, but in the publike assembly also for publike benefits receiued of the Lord, verse 3.

Our bodily generation, and ghostly regeneration, are not of our selues, but onely from God, verse 2. See Epist. Dom. post Pasce.

Who is alway the same in his truth and goodnesse towards vs: albeit we be variable in our loues and promises one to another, vers. 4. See Nunc dimittis.

The Creed.

THIS Apostolicall Creed is pronounced after the Lessons, and the Nicene Confession after the Gospel and Epistle: because faith (as Paul teacheth) is by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God. We must first heare, then confesse: for which cause the Church, of Scotland also doth vsually repeat the Creed after the Sermon.

* Quest. 73. sup. per Exod.

† Paulinus in 1. Leuit. vsi Magdeburg. Cent. 5. col. 90.

‡ In locum.

§ Ephes. 1. 10.

¶ August. lib. 2. de serm. Dom. in mont. tom 4. fol. 812.

‡ Galat. 4. & 5. cap.

§ Hierom. in loc.

¶ Acts 15. 10

‡ Matth. 10. 30

* Rom. 10. 17.

† Scot. Liturgie prayers after Sermon.

I beleene in God, &c.

Albeit the Creed be not protocanonical Scripture, yet (as <sup>9</sup> Ambrose speaks) it is the key of the Scriptures: and (as <sup>r</sup> Augustine) aplaine, short, absolute summe of all holy faith. <sup>c</sup> Other Confessions, as the Nicene and Athanasian, are receiued of the Church not as new, but rather as expositions of this old. <sup>t</sup> For as the foure Gospels are indeed but one Gospel; so the three Creeds are in substance but one Creed. And therefore I thought good in my passage thorow the whole Seruice-booke to touch vpon it a little, giuing you rather a brieue resolution, than a full absolution thereof.

Obserue then in it the } Title: The Creed of the Apostles.
 } Text: I beleene in God, &c.

In the title note the } Worke: Creed.
 } Authors: Apostles.

It is called in English, Creed, of the first word Credo; as the Pater Noster is of the two formost words, Our Father: in other languages, Symbolum; the which hath three significations:

1. A shot.
2. A badge.
3. A ring.

A <sup>u</sup> shot, because euery particular Apostle conferred his particular article to this spirituall banquet, at least the whole doth arise out of their <sup>z</sup> common writings.

2. A <sup>y</sup> badge, for as a souldier is knowne in the field by his colours and coat to what Captaine hee doth belong: so the Christian is distinguished by this Creed from all vnbeleeners, and misbeleeuers. In token hereof, by good order of the Church, we stand up at the Creed, openly to manifest our faith and alleageance to Christ Iesus our Generall.

3. A <sup>r</sup> ring, the <sup>m</sup> tall whereof is digged out of the rich mines of the Bible, refined with the fire of Gods holy Spirit, and accurately framed by the blessed Apostles.

It is the very wedding ring wherewith the Minister in our Baptisme maried vs vnto Christ, when as in the publike Congregation Christ for his part solemnly protested by the mouth of his Minister that he would be our God: and we likewise vowed for our part, by Godfathers and Godmothers, that we would be his people. The Creed then ought to be respected as the signet on our right hand, and as the marriage Ring on our Loues finger.

Now for the Authors, it is said to be the Apostles, (as some thinke) made by <sup>b</sup> themselves after they had receiued the Holy Ghost, and that before they departed out of Ierusalem to Preach the Gospel vnto all Nations: <sup>c</sup> Anno Christi 44. Imperatoris Claudij 2. Iuly 15.

<sup>d</sup> Other, that it is the Apostles, as being consonant to their doctrine; theirs for the matter, but not for the manner.

All agree that it is the Gospels abridgment, which Christ taught his Apostles, the Apostles the Church, and the Church hath deliuered vnto vs in all ages: and therefore though it be not the Scripture of God, yet it is the word and truth of God: of greater authoritie than other Ecclesiasticall traditions, whether they be Confessions of particular Churches, or writings of priuate men.

The Text.

The text hath two parts: } Articles.
 } Assent: Amen. 3

<sup>e</sup> Articulus ab arctando, } Passiue, quia quiddam est arctatum in se.
 } Actiue, quia alios arctat ad credendum.

In the profession, or whole bodie of articles, two points are remarkable:

<sup>9</sup> Serm. 38.
<sup>c</sup> Serm. 215 de temp. Breuiter complexa regula fidei ut mentem instruat, nec oneret memoriam. Idem serm. 119. de temp.
<sup>t</sup> 1 hom. 1. 2. a. quest. 1 art. 9.
<sup>e</sup> Bellarm. de Instruct. lib. 1. cap. 9.

<sup>u</sup> Ruffin. exposi. Symbol. & August. ser. 115 & 181. de temp.
<sup>y</sup> Euseb. Emis. sen. bom. 1 de Symbol.
<sup>r</sup> Ruffin. vlt. supra, & Erasmus explan Symb.
<sup>z</sup> Plin nat. hist. lib. 33. cap. 1.
<sup>m</sup> Angelus del Prae pamb. ad Symb. cap. 4.

<sup>b</sup> Hieron epist. ad Pammachiu. tom. 2 fol 173. & Magdeburg. cent. 1. lib. 2. col. 66.
<sup>c</sup> Baronius annal tom. 1 fol. 317.
<sup>d</sup> Anglican Confess art 8 & Calam. Instit lib. 2. c. 16-§ 18
<sup>e</sup> Perkins exposi. Symbol.

<sup>e</sup> Lexicon Theolog. Alenstarg. in verb. Articulus.

The  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Act} \\ \text{Object} \end{array} \right\}$  of faith.

Act: I beleene. Where note the  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Personality, I.} \\ \text{Formality of faith: } \textit{Beleene in.} \end{array} \right\}$

Howsoever one must pray for another, saying Our Father; yet every one must beleene for himselfe, I beleene: Habacuck 2.4. See Gospell on S. Thomas day.

Formality, Beleene in. For (as  $\text{\textcircled{a}}$  Augustine and  $\text{\textcircled{b}}$  Lombard teach) there is great difference betweene.  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \textit{Credere Deum}$ , to beleene there is a God.  $\textit{Credere Deo}$ , to beleene God.  $\textit{Credere in Deum}$ , to beleene in God.

$\text{\textcircled{c}}$  Ser. 181. de $\text{\textcircled{d}}$  Lib. 3. sent.
dist 23.

James 2. 19.
 $\text{\textcircled{e}}$  Rom 6. 29.
 $\text{\textcircled{f}}$  A gull. tract.
29 in Iohan.
rom. 9 fol. 67.
 $\text{\textcircled{g}}$  Iam. 2. 18.
 $\text{\textcircled{h}}$  Lib. 4. cap. 14.

Multi & mali, many bad men, yea the  $\text{\textcircled{i}}$  Deuill himselfe doth beleene that there is a God: but a Christian ought to beleene in  $\text{\textcircled{k}}$  God: that is,  $\text{\textcircled{l}}$  Credendo amare, credendo in eum ire, credendo ei adhaerere Confessing God to be his God, in whom he puts all his trust and confidence, manifesting his faith in  $\text{\textcircled{m}}$  deeds, as well as in words: according to that of  $\text{\textcircled{n}}$  Irenaus; To beleene, is to doe as God will.

The matter or object of the Creed concerneth  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{God} \\ \text{Church.} \end{array} \right.$   $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Essentially in} \\ \text{Personally,} \end{array} \right.$   $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Name, God.} \\ \text{Attributes,} \\ \text{Father.} \\ \text{Sonne.} \\ \text{Holy Ghost.} \end{array} \right.$   $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \textit{Almighty.} \\ \textit{Maker of heauen and earth.} \end{array} \right.$

$\text{\textcircled{o}}$  De doctrin.
Christ. lib. 1.
cap. 6
 $\text{\textcircled{p}}$  Disputus de nominis nom.
cap 1.
 $\text{\textcircled{q}}$  Granat. dux peccat. cap. 1.
 $\text{\textcircled{r}}$  Hilar. de Pat.
& Filij unitate.

Concerning the name,  $\text{\textcircled{o}}$  Augustine saith it is impossible that foure letters and two syllables, Deus, should containe him, whom the heauen of heauens could not containe,  $\text{\textcircled{p}}$  Dei nomen mirabile nomen, super omne nomen sed sine nomine.

For if all the land were paper, and all the water inke, euery plant a pen, and euery other creature a ready writer: yet they could not set downe the least peece of his great greatnesse.  $\text{\textcircled{q}}$  De Deo cum dicitur, non potest dici. No man can expresse his nature fully: yet he doth vouchsafe to be praised in our words, and by our mouthes, or rather indeed by his owne words, and owne spirit; for he must be called and called vpon, as he hath revealed himselfe in Scripture, where hee is knowne by the name  $\text{\textcircled{r}}$  Iehouah, or God: and therefore this name is not properly communicable to any creature, though  $\text{\textcircled{s}}$  analogically giuen to many.

$\text{\textcircled{t}}$  Exod 1. 3.
 $\text{\textcircled{u}}$  1 Cor 8. 5.
 $\text{\textcircled{v}}$  Lib. 5 Considere
rat. ad Eugenium.
 $\text{\textcircled{w}}$  Tertul. lib. 1. aduersus Marcion.
cap. 3.

In God] Not Gods, as the Nicene Creed, in one God. For God (as  $\text{\textcircled{x}}$  Bernard said) is unissimus, the most one:  $\text{\textcircled{y}}$  si non est vnus, non est, either one or none.

Attributes:  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \textit{Almightie.} \\ \textit{Maker of} \\ \textit{Heauen.} \\ \textit{Earth.} \end{array} \right.$

$\text{\textcircled{z}}$  Thom. 1. part.
quest 15. art. 5.

God is able to doe whatsoeuer he will, and  $\text{\textcircled{z}}$  more then he will too: more by his absolute power, then he will by his actual: Matth. 3. 9. 26. 53.

$\text{\textcircled{a}}$  August. de ciuit Dei. lib. 5.
cap. 20.

He can neither lie, nor die: Dicitur enim  $\text{\textcircled{b}}$  omnipotens faciendo quod vult, non patiendū quod non vult.

Creator] His almightinesse doth prouethat he is God, and the creation of the world that he is almightie, Ierem. 10. 11. Let any make a world (saith Augustine) and he shall be God. Angels. men, and deuils can make and vnmake some things: but they cannot make them, otherwise then of some kinde of matter which was before: neither can they vnmake them, but by changing them into some other thing which remaineth after. Only God made all things of nothing, and can at his good pleasure bring them againe to nothing.

$\text{\textcircled{c}}$  De Bartas
1 day. 1. weeke
fol. 8.

$\text{\textcircled{d}}$  Nothing, but nothing, had this Lord Almighty, Whereof, wherewith, whereby, to build this Citty.

Of heauen and earth.] And all that therein is: Exod. 20. 11.

* Heauen is threefold, where { Soules are, the glorious, or heauen of heauens : 1 King.

18.2.7.
Fowles are, the airy heauen : Gen.1.30.
Starres are, the firmament : Gen.1.17.

<sup>a</sup> 2 Cor.12.2.

Earth containeth land and sea, Psalm.24.1. Nam omnipotens manus Dei creauit in caelo angelos, & in terra vermiculos: non superior in illis, non inferior in istis.

<sup>b</sup> Augus. Saliloqui cap 9.

Thus (as <sup>c</sup> one said) almighty God is knowne, ex postico tergo, licet non ex antica facie: by his effects, ad extra, though not in his essence, ad intra. Seculus est speculum, the creation of the world is a glasse, wherein (saith <sup>d</sup> S. Paul) we may behold Gods eternall power and Maestie: which the diuine <sup>e</sup> Poet paraphrastically:

<sup>c</sup> Ramus de religion. Christi. lib. 1
cap 9.

<sup>d</sup> Rom. 1.20.
<sup>e</sup> Diu. Bartol. ubi supra, fol. 6.7.58

The world's a schoole, where in a generall storie, God alway reads dumbe Lectures of his glorie.

<sup>f</sup> Plato called it Gods epistle: the renowned Hermite <sup>g</sup> Antonius, a booke, wherein euery simple man who cannot reade, may notwithstanding spell that there is a God. It is the Shepheards Kalender, and the Ploughmans Alphabet.

<sup>f</sup> In Timon.
<sup>g</sup> Tripart. lib. 8.
lib 8. cap. 1.

This appertaineth essentially, and generally to the whole Trinitie: for the Father is not onely Creator, and Almighty, but the Sonne, and the holy Ghost.

The creation in the masse of the matter, is attributed to God the Father: in the disposition of the forme, to God the Sonne: in the preseruatiō of both, to God the holy Ghost.

It is said of God personally: {
Father.
Sonne.
Holy Ghost.

The Father is the first, not in any priority of nature, or honour; or time, but <sup>h</sup> order: or (as the <sup>i</sup> schoole) Prioritate originis: according to that of Athanasius in his Creed, *The Father is of none, the Sonne is of the Father alone, the holy Ghost of both. I will send (saith <sup>k</sup> Christ) from the Father, euen the Spirit of truth. Ego mittam à Patre spiritum, <sup>l</sup> Ostendens quod pater est totius diuinitatu, vel si melius dicitur, deitatis principium. Adore simply, rather then explore subtilly, this inef-fable mystery. Scrutari temeritas est, credere pietas esse, nosse vita est. Bernard. *de considerat. ad Eugenium, lib 5.

<sup>b</sup> Perkins vpon
the Creed.

<sup>l</sup> Pater est prin-cipium, non de principio: filius principium à princip. Thom 1.
part sum. quest.
33. art. 4

<sup>k</sup> Iohn 15 26.

<sup>l</sup> Aug. de Trinit
lib. 4. cap. 20.

<sup>m</sup> Durandus rationali diuor-uum lib. 4. cap.
48. § 2.

<sup>n</sup> Omnipater,
vt Prædientius,
Hym. de Enlalia
Virgine.

He <sup>m</sup> is Father of { Christ by nature, singulariter.
Good men, by adoption, specialiter.
All men, and all <sup>n</sup> things, by creation, generaliter; as that worke is appropriated vnto him in regard of his power.

And in Iesus Christ his onely Sonne our Lord.

That which concerneth the second person is more largely set downe then all the rest, teaching vs hereby, that as we should respect other doctrine; so this in more speciall sort, as being the center of all the Creed and Scriptures circumference, 1 Cor. 2.2.

This person is described by his { Titles: {

1. Iesus.
2. Christ.
3. His onely Sonne.
4. Our Lord.

{ Estate of { Humiliation. { Incarnation.
Exaltation. { Passion.

<sup>o</sup> Tertul lib. aduers Prax & Thom 2. part.
quest 27. art 2.

<sup>p</sup> Luke 1.31.

<sup>q</sup> Cor. sude Pet.

Galatin de Arcanis li 3. ca. 20.

Jansen. concord.
cap 7. Pagnin interp. nom. He braic.

1. Iesus is his <sup>o</sup> proper name, giuen him by the <sup>p</sup> Angell. Other, if any haue the <sup>q</sup> very name, were typicall Sauours only. Iesus Nane, the figure of Christ as a King: Iesus Sydracke, the figure of Christ as a Prophet: Iesus Iosedecke, the figure

<sup>e</sup> Contra Faullū. lib. 12. cap. 36.
<sup>f</sup> Lib. 1. de demōstration. Euang. cap. 29.

<sup>g</sup> Caietan & Aretius in 1. Mat. Calu. Catibij.

<sup>h</sup> Ruffis in Symbol.

<sup>i</sup> Matth. 1. 25.

<sup>j</sup> Ioh. 3. 15.

<sup>k</sup> Melanct. expo. st. Symbol. Nicē. tom. 1. fol. 403.

<sup>l</sup> August. de ciuit. lib. 1. ca. 10 & Lombard. 1. sent. dist. 25.

<sup>m</sup> In vita eius. lib. 6. cap. 22. uti Platina in vita Christi. Incarnat.

<sup>n</sup> Luke 2. 25.

<sup>o</sup> Tertul. lib. 2. contra Marc. <sup>p</sup> Cyp. ser. de E-leemosynis.

<sup>q</sup> Maldonat. in 1. Mat. & August. Enchirid. cap. 37.

<sup>r</sup> Calvin. in loc. <sup>s</sup> Ides matris, non libidinis conceperat. Enchirid. cap. 34.

<sup>t</sup> Bernard. ser. 1. in natal. Dom.

<sup>u</sup> August. ser. 5. de temp. Lambit ubera regens sidera, tacet, & verbum est. Ide. de sym. li. 4. ca. 4.

<sup>v</sup> Idem ser. 20. de temp. <sup>w</sup> Baronius annal. tom. 1. fol. 45 & Epiphanius Hæres. 78.

figure of Christ as a Priest. <sup>x</sup> Augustine, <sup>y</sup> Eusebius, and generally all expositors vpon the 3. of Zachary.

This sweet name contains in it a thousand treasuries of good things, in delight whereof S. Paul vseth it five hundred times in his Epistles, as Genobradus obserueth. Idem Sedulius apologet. S. Francisci lib. 1. cap. 13.

2. Christ] His appellatiue <sup>z</sup> title of office and dignitie. Concerning these two titles, Iesus and Christ, see the Gospell Dom. 1. post Natinit.

3. His only Sonne; which <sup>aa</sup> God, Iohn 1. 1. implieth that he is <sup>bb</sup> A distinct person from the Father, Mat. 28. 19.

God, because he is a Sonne, not as other by fauour, but <sup>cc</sup> by nature: whatfoeuer the Sonne receiueth of the Father, he receiucth it by nature, not by grace, and he receiucth not as other, a part, but all that the Father hath, sauing the personall propriety.

Onely Sonne] Called the <sup>dd</sup> first begotten, in respect of his mother and humane nature: <sup>ee</sup> only begotten in respect of his Father, and diuine nature. For the holy Spirit is not begotten, but proceeds (as the Scripture doth distinguish) <sup>ff</sup> Nasci est à potentia intelligente, quia filius cogitatione nascitur, & est Imago patris: at procedere est à voluntate, quia spiritus sanctus est amor, &c. I beleue: Lord helpe mine vbeleefe.

The coniunction, And, proueth that the Sonne is equall with the Father, as concerning his Godhead: and yet a distinct person. <sup>gg</sup> Alius personaliter, non aliud essentialiter. I beleue in God the Father, And in Iesu Christ.

Our Lord, as our <sup>hh</sup> Creator.
<sup>ii</sup> Redeemer.
<sup>kk</sup> Governor, as head of the Church, Ephes. 4. 5.

<sup>ll</sup> Suetonius obserueth that Augustus refused the name of Lord. <sup>mm</sup> Orosius notes that it was at that time when Christ was borne, that all Lordship might be giuen vnto him. See Epistle Dom. 17. post Trinit.

*Christ*s incarnation is Israels <sup>nn</sup> consolation, for all sound comfort stands in happinesse, all happinesse in fellowship with God, all fellowship with God is by Christ: who for this cause being very God, became very man, that he might reconcile God to man, and man to God: he became <sup>oo</sup> little, that we might be great; the Sonne of man, that we might be the <sup>pp</sup> f sonnes of God.

His incarnation hath two parts: <sup>qq</sup> Conception.
<sup>rr</sup> Birth.

Conceined by the Holy Ghost.] Works of power are attributed to the Father, of wisdom to the Sonne, of loue to the holy Ghost. Wherefore <sup>ss</sup> because this was a worke of highest loue in God toward mankinde, it is ascribed especially to the holy Spirit, Luk. 1. 35. The Holy Ghost shall come vpon thee, and the power of the most high shall ouer-shadow thee. <sup>tt</sup> Signifying hereby that this mysterie cannot be seene cleerely, therefore not to be examined curiously. <sup>uu</sup> S. Augustine calls it a sweet coniunction, where speech is Husband, and care Wife. Meaning, that assoone as the blessed Virgin assented to the Angels message, she conceived.

Birth] I make *Christ*s incarnation a part of his <sup>vv</sup> humiliation, because there can be no greater abasement, then that he, who thundred in the clouds, should crie in the cradle, <sup>ww</sup> swaddled in a few raggs, whom the heauen of heauens could not containe; that the eternall Word should become an <sup>xx</sup> infant; that he who was the Father of Mary, should be now the Sonne of Mary.

The Scripture tels vs how man comes foure <sup>yy</sup> waies into the world.

1. By the helpe of man and woman, as all are vsually borne.
2. Without any man or woman, and so the first man was created.
3. Of a man without a woman, and so was Eua made.
4. Of a woman without a man, and so was Christ borne.

Of the Virgin Mary.] Where the <sup>zz</sup> Name, Mary.
mother of Christ is described by her <sup>aa</sup> Surname, <sup>bb</sup> Virgin.

The new Iesuites, and old Friers, haue many wonderfull extrauagant conceits of

of this ° name : let it suffice, that it is added in the Gospell, and Creed, to shew that Christ came of the lineage of David : and that therefore he was the true Messias, as God had promised and prophesied by the mouthes of all his holy seruants.

Virgin] A P perpetuall Virgin } In } Before } } After } Christs birth.

Before his birth against }
 1. Iewes.
 2. Gentiles.
 3. Cerinthians.

Vnto the first we say with ¶ Cyrril : Pariet Aaronis virga sine semine, & non pariet virgo sine semine ? aut utrumq; negate, aut utrumque concedite.

Against the se- } cond, we haue }
 Facta : ¶ Qui enim e Iouis cerebro Minervam, & ex eiusdem femore Bacchum, falso prognatum esse fabulamini : quomodo ex utero virginali Christum nasci dicitis impossibile ?
 Facta : Quoniam animalia multa sine commistione generantur.
 And Plutarch in the life of Numa spake like au ¶ Angell : Incredibile non est, vt spiritus Dei cum muliere cocat, cique sobolis quedam principia ingeneret.

3. The ¶ Cerinthians, × Ebionites, and ¶ Carpocratian Heretikes held that Christ was the naturall sonne of Ioseph ; & verus & merus homo. Contrary to Text, Mat. 1. 25. Luk. 3. 23. See the Gospell Dom. 1. post Epipan.

In his birth against } 1. Iouianian.
 2. Durandus.

Vnto these that of Esay 7. is opposed : Ecce virgo concipiet, & pariet filium. The which words are to be construed in sensu composito, non diuiso : scilicet integra permanens, & conceptura, & paritura : nam quale signum vel prodigium esset, vt qua fuit virgo conciperet, & corrupta, pareret ? ¶ Hic s'ratio queritur, non erit mirabile. Si poscitur exemplum, non erit singulare. Demus Deum aliquid posse, quod nos fateamur inuestigare non posse. ° Fides adsit, & nulla questio remanebit. See the Gospell of the Purification.

After his birth against the } } Old <sup>d</sup> Heluidians.
 } New Antidicomarianits, holding it a point of zeale to disgrace this holy Virgin : whereas it is our dutie ° rather highly to reuerence her, as being the Mother of our Lord ; a Prophetesse on earth, a Saint in Heauen, (as the ¶ Fathers vsually) the window of Heauen, through which it pleased the light of the world to illuminate such as sit in darknesse, and in the shadow of death. Of such estimation in the Church, that whereas the ¶ first generall Councell was assembled against Arrius, to maintaine the honour of the Sonne, and so by consequence of the Father : The <sup>h</sup> second against Macedonius, to maintaine the honour of the Holy Ghost : The <sup>i</sup> third was assembled against Nestorius, to <sup>k</sup> maintaine the dignity of the blessed Virgin. And therefore let not vs giue her too little, though the Papists haue giuen her too much. See Gospell on the Annuntiation.

Passion.

Christ passion } is set downe }
 } First summarily, } Suffered vnder Pontius Pilate.
 } Then particularly, } } Crucified.
 } Dead.
 } Buried.

All which our Sauiour did not endure for himselfe, but for vs. He <sup>l</sup> was wounded for our transgressions, and broken for our iniquity. In <sup>m</sup> me, & pro me doluit, qui pro se nihil habuit quod doleret. O Domine Iesu doles non tua, sed vulnera mea. He ¶ suffered for vs, leauing vs an example, ° that his passion might deliner vs from sinne, and his actions direct vs to vertue; teaching patience, humility, obedience, charity. Greater patience cannot be found, then for the Author of life, to suffer

¶ Lexicon Theolog verb. Maria.
¶ Peikins re- for. Catholic. Tit traditiou. & Beza confess. cap 3. art. 23.
¶ Cyrril Hiero- sol. cat. 12. Au- gustin. lib. 3. de Symbol. cap. 4.
¶ Ruffin & Cy- ril. vbi supra.
¶ Lactan. instit. lib. 4. cap. 12.
¶ Augustin. de mirabil. script. lib 3. cap. 2.
¶ Ambros. Hexam. lib. 5. cap. 20.
¶ Luke 1. 35.
¶ Iren li 1. c. 25.
¶ Clemens Rom. instit. li. 6. cap. 6.
¶ Iren li. 1. c. 24.
¶ Augustin. de Herejib. cap. 82. & contra Iul- ian. lib 1. cap 2.
¶ Suarez tom. 2. in 3. Thom. disput. 5. sect 2.
¶ August. epist. 13.
¶ Idem epist. 140 & Euclid. cap. 34 Si vel per nascentem corrumpetur eius integritas, non iam ille de virgine nascetur, sicut tota con- sistentur Ecclesia.
¶ Hieron. lib. aduers. Heluid. & Augustin. herej 84.
¶ Maister Per- kins vpon this article.
¶ August. ser. 15. de temp. Fulgent. ser. de laudib. Maria. § Nicen. § Constantinop. i. Epist. §.
¶ Suarez pres. disput. tom. 2. in 3. Tom. Magdeburg. cent 5. col. 889.
¶ Esay 53. 5.
¶ Ambros. de fide ad Gratian. lib. 2. cap. 3.
¶ 1 Pet. 2. 21.
¶ August. ser. 8. de temp.

suffer an ignominious death iniustly; no greater humility, then for the Lord of all Lords to submit himselfe to be crucified among theues; nor greater obedience, then to be willing rather to die, then not to fulfill the commandement of his Father; nor greater charity, then to lose his life to saue his enemies. For loue is more shewed in deeds, then in words, and more in suffering then in doing. See Gospell on Sunday before Easter, and Epistle 2. Sunday after Easter.

r Augustin. de doctrin. Christ. lib. 1. cap. 4.

p Nos immortalitate male vsi sumus, ut moreremur: Christus mortalitate bene vsus, ut viueremus.

Exaltation.

9 Luke 24. 26.

Note the Creeds order answerable to the Scripture. For Christ 9 first suffered, and then entred into glory. Teaching vs hereby, that we must first beare with him the Crosse, before we can weare with him the Crowne. Christianus, as Luther said, is Crucianus. As a lillie among the thornes: so is my loue among the daughters: Cant. 2. 2.

r Loc. com. tit. calamit.

Christ's exaltation hath foure parts: his } 1. Triumph in hell.
} 2. Resurrection.
} 3. Ascension.
} 4. Session.

r Art. 3.

I make Christs descending into hell a part of his aduancement, rather then abatement, because this generall Creed, of the whole Church, and the particular confession of our Church, make it a distinct article following Christs Suffering, Death, Buriall: and therefore cannot aptly be construed of his agonie in the garden before his death, nor of his tortures on the Crosse at his death, nor yet of his buriall after his death: Ergo, Credendum est Christum ad inferos in genere: credibile ad inferos damnatorum in specie, triumphandi gratia secundum animam realiter, & localiter descendisse. That as he did ouercome the world on earth, and death in the graue: so likewise he did triumph ouer Satan in the courts of hell his owne kingdome. For my owne part, I rest my selfe in the iudgement of the Church wherein I liue, and hold it enough to beleue that Christ did so much, and suffered so much, as was sufficient for all; efficiens for me: praying with the Greeke Fathers in their Liturgie; By thine vnkowne sorrowes and sufferings felt by thee: but not distinctly manifest to vs: haue mercie on vs, and saue vs. O gracelesse peniushesse, we scantly follow Christ to heauen: albeit we beleue that he went for vs into hell.

u Bonauent. dieta salutis, cap. 26.
* Church Hom. for Easter day.

Christs resurrection is the * locke and key of all Christian religion and faith: on which all other articles hang. See the Gospell on S. Thomas and Easter day.

In Christs ascension 3. } Place, Mount Olinet. points obseruable: } Time, when he had taught his Disciples, and while they beheld him.
} Manner, A cloud tooke him vp out of their sight: Act. 1. 9. See the Epistle for Ascension day.

r Ephes 4. 10. Acts 7. 56.

Christs Session is } Place, Heauen: that is, y Heauen of heauen.
set forth by the } Effect, Comming to Iudgement.

z August. in Enchirid. cap. 55.

To z Iudge the quicke } Spiritually, The good which liue with the spirituall and the dead } Sinne. The bad, which are spirituall } Corporally, Because at that day most shall be dead, and many shall be found aline, who in the twinkling of an eye shall suddenly be changed, as a S. Paul tels vs.

a 1 Cor 15. 51.
b 1 Cor. 2. 9.
c August. de Symb. ad Catec. lib. 3. cap. 11.

Origen thinketh that the Priest had bells in the lower part of his roabe, to put vs in mind of the end of the world. Our good God hath prepared such b things for vs, as eye hath not seene, neither eare hath heard, neither came into mans heart. c Si in cor hominis non ascendit, cor hominis illuc ascendat. Seeing the Iudge shall shall come from heauen, let vs before send thither our hearts to meet him: and in the meane while thence to looke for him, Philip. 3. 20. He hath said it, who is Truth it seife: Surely I come quickly, Amen, euen so come Lord Iesus.

I beleene in the holy Ghost. ] The d Godhead of the Father is especially manifested in the Law: the Godhead of the Sonne especiall manifested in the Gospell; the Godhead of the Holy Ghost especially manifested in the Creed: intimating so much in foure words, as the whole Bible containes of this argument; namely, first, that the Holy Ghost is e God, otherwise we might not beleene in him. Secondly, that he is a f distinct person from the Father, and the Sonne: I beleene in the Father: in the Sonne: in the Holy Ghost. And thirdly, that he proceedeth from the g Father, and the Sonne, infolded in the Title, Holy Ghost. For albeit the Father is holy, the Sonne holy; the Father a spirit, and the Sonne a spirit, in respect of their nature; yet onely the third person is the Holy Spirit, in regard of his office. The holy, becaute beside the holinesse of nature, his speciall office is to make the Church holy. The Father sanctifieth by the Sonne and by the Holy Ghost: the Sonne sanctifieth from the Father by the Holy Ghost: the Holy Ghost sanctifieth from the Father and the Sonne by himselfe immediatly. As we beleene that the Father is our Creator, the Sonne our Redeemer: so likewise that the Holy Ghost is our Sanctifier.

Againe, the third person is termed the Spirit, not only in regard of his nature, which is spirituall; but becaufe he is spired, or breathed from the Father and the Sonne: in that he proceeds from them both. How, I cannot say, you need not search, onely beleene. For as the h Prophet said of the Sonne, Who shall declare his generation? so the most iudicious Doctor i Augustine, of the holy Ghost, Who shall declare his procession? Inter illam generationem, & hanc processionem, distinguere nescio, non valeo, non sufficio. Quia & illa, & ista est ineffabilis. And therefore as the k same Father in the like case: Dum sibi hac dicit humana cogitatio, conetur eam vel nosse ignorando, vel ignorare noscendo. See the Gospell Dom. post. Ascension.

The holy Catholike Church. ] The second part of the Creed concernes the Church: for as l Augustine obserueth, the right order of a Confession did require, that after the Trinitie, should be ioyned the Church, as the house for the owner and citie for the founder. m Againe, the Creed doth end with the Church as it did begin with God; to put vs in mind that except we haue the Church for our mother, we neuer shall haue God for our father.

The Church is described here by properties, and prerogatiues.

Her properties are three: } 1. Holy.
} 2. Catholike.
} 3. Knit in a communion.

Her prerogatiues are likewise three: } 1. In the soule, remission of sinnes.
} 2. In the body, resurrection of the flesh.
} 3. Both in body and soule, life euerlasting.

The word, Credo, must be repeated in this article: but the preposition n (in) omitted, by which the Creator is distinguished from the creatures, and things pertaining to God from things pertaining to men. It is said, I beleene in God, in the Sonne, in the holy Ghost: but in all the rest, where the speech is not of the Godhead, (in) is not added. I beleene there is an holy Church, as a company gathered to God, not in the Church as God. So the best copies and the o worst too, read.

Ciwill, for an ordinary assembly: Acts 19. 32. 39.

Church is vsed in a sense Ecclesiastical for Holy places, 1 Cor. 14. 34.
Holy persons, } Senerally, for euery faithfull person in the Church of God, 1 Cor. 3. 16.
} Ioynly, gathered together in } One house: Rom. 16. 5.
} One citie or cuntry, the Church of Sardi, Ephesus, Apocal. 3.
} The whole world, as in this article.
All men and Angels elected to life euerlasting, and made one in Christ. It d Ramus de Religion. Christ. lib. 1. cap. 19.

e Acts 5. 3. 4.
f Matth. 28. 19

g John 15. 26.

h Esay 53 6.

i Coni. Maxim lib 3. cap. 14. tom. 6 fol. 507.

k Confess. lib. 12. cap. 5.

l Euchirid. cap. 56.

m Idem lib 4. de symbol. ad Catech. cap. 10

n Ruffin & Thomas 2. 2. e. quæst. 1. art. 9.

o Catechif. Concil Trident. Bellarm. l. 1. c. 1. de ma.

<sup>p</sup> Ecclesia Ais-qu<sup>sin</sup>. exp<sup>ist</sup>.
epist. ad Rom.
com. 4. fol. 833.
<sup>q</sup> 1 Pet. 2. 9.
<sup>r</sup> Bucan. loc.
com. tit. eccl<sup>es</sup>.
& Melchior.
Caus. loc. com.
lib. 4. cap. 2.
<sup>s</sup> Cant. 6. 8.
<sup>t</sup> Ephes. 4. 5.
<sup>u</sup> B. Iew. 1. 6.
part. defence of Apolog. fol. 610.
<sup>x</sup> Lib. 7. cap. 2.
Nat. hist.
<sup>y</sup> Plautus in Trinum act. 4.
se. 2.
<sup>z</sup> Loc. com. tit.
ecclesia.

<sup>a</sup> Psal. 45. 14.
<sup>b</sup> Ephes. 1. 23.

<sup>c</sup> Rom. 12. 5.
Ephes. 5. 26.

<sup>d</sup> Psal. 19. 7.

<sup>e</sup> Rom. 1. 16.

<sup>f</sup> Calvin. Cate-chis.
<sup>g</sup> 1 Epist. Ioh. 3.
<sup>9</sup> Renatus non facit peccatum, quia patitur potius, ut Bernard

<sup>h</sup> Rom. 8. 23.
<sup>i</sup> Vbi supra.
<sup>k</sup> Idem ibidem
tit. de profectu in Christianismo.
<sup>l</sup> Church of Scot. in exposit.
of the Creed.

<sup>m</sup> Calvin. aducrsus Anabaptist.
art. 2.

<sup>n</sup> Baronius an-
nal. tom. 1.
fol. 310.

It hath the name both in Greeke and Latine of <sup>p</sup> calling out and seuering from other, as being indeed a <sup>q</sup> chosen and peculiar people: <sup>r</sup> κλητοι, quasi <sup>κλητοι</sup>.

Not Churches, but Church.] Because all the congregations of the faithfull in the whole world make but <sup>s</sup> one onely Church. For as a Kingdome diuided into many Shires, and more Townes, is called one, because it hath one and the same King, one and the same law: so the Church is one, <sup>t</sup> because it liueth by one and the same Spirit, and is ruled by one and the same Lord, and professeth one and the same faith: not one as tyed to one place, much lesse vnto one person; as the Papists inuiously confine it: for as all of them make the Catholike Church to be nothing else but the Romane Church; so some of them haue made the Romane Church nothing else but the Pope. Papa virtualiter est tota eccl<sup>es</sup>ia, faith <sup>u</sup> Harn<sup>e</sup>us in lib. de potestate Pape cap. 23. As the tumultuous Anabaptists had framed a Church like <sup>x</sup> Plinies Acephali, all body and no head: so the Romish parasites haue built a Church like the <sup>y</sup> Toadstoole, all head and no body. See Epistle Dom. 17. post Trinit.

Holy.] There are many wicked in the Church; and the best men haue some faults; how then is it holy? <sup>z</sup> Luther answereth in a word: If I looke vpon my selfe, or my neighbour, I cannot perceiue that the Church is holy: but if I looke vpon Christ, who tooke away the sinnes of the world, then I see it all holy. It is said well, I beleue; for we cannot see this holinesse, ouershadowed with manifold infirmities outwardly, though the Kings <sup>a</sup> daughter is all glorious inwardly.

<sup>b</sup> Sanctified by the washing of water through the word, that is, made cleane from all sinne by the precious blood of Christ, which is daily presented vnto vs both in the Word, and in the Sacraments.

The Church then is holy three wayes:
in respect

1. Of her <sup>c</sup> head: which is most holy; like as one that hath a faire face is said to be a faire man, albeit he haue some crooked finger, or goutie toe.
2. Of her faith: which is holy, formaliter & effectiue: an <sup>d</sup> vndefiled law conuerting the soule, in it selfe holy: which forbids nothing but that which is euill, and doth not enioyne any thing but that which is good, and making other holy: being the <sup>e</sup> power of God vnto saluation.
3. In regard of her life: which is holy, <sup>f</sup> free from sinne & reigning and condemning: euen in this world made holy by sanctification partially: by imputation of righteousnesse perfectly.

This must be construed of the Church inuisible, the triumphant part whereof is most holy, the militant more holy then Infidels, Iewes, Turkes, Hereticques, and other out of the Church, who cannot enioy the gift of sanctification: I say more holy, because in this life we receiue (faith <sup>g</sup> Paul) but the first fruits of the spirit; not the tenths of the spirit, faith <sup>h</sup> Luther: and therefore <sup>k</sup> Christianus non est in facto, sed in fieri; not <sup>i</sup> so perfect, but that he need to stoope vnder mercy.

Now for the Church visible that is a field wherein are Tares as well as Wheat, and both must grow together vntill the great haruest, Matth. 13. Compared to the Moone, Reuel. 12. 1. sometime decreasing, sometime increasing: but when it is in the full, it hath some spots: and therefore Brownists and Anabaptists obtrade more perfection vpon the Church then God requires.

Heauen hath none but good, Hell none but bad, Earth both good and bad. <sup>m</sup> Cum sub specie study perfectionis, imperfectionem nullam tolerare possumus, aut in corpore, aut in membris Ecclesia; tunc diabolus nos tumefacere (superbia, & hypocrisi) seducere moneamur.

Catholike.] This word is vsed sometime for Orthodoxall; in which sense <sup>n</sup> Pacianus said, Christian is my name, Catholike my surname. So Rome was, England is, a Catholike Church. But it properly signifieth uniuersall, as here: because o extended

o extended to all places, and all times, and all persons, not onely those who are now living, but also those who haue been from the beginning, and shall be to the end of the world. So that to say, the Roman Catholike Church, is like the by-word of Kent and Chrystendome: all one as to say, the particular, or the speciall generall Church.

From this naturall exception ariseth that other borrowed, as in the Creed of Athanasius: haec est fides Catholica: that is, quod ubique, quod semper, quod ab omnibus creditum est. The Catholike faith is that which is taught ¶ all men: Mat. 28.19. Mark. 16. 15. in all places, Rom. 10.18 at all times, 2 Cor. 1.19. And Psal. 119. 80. Thy word, O Lord, endureth for euer; and thy truth also from generation to generation.

¶ Fides est vides in ijs qua non vides, an l evidence of things not eident. So that the Church we must beleue is Catholike; not sensible, subiect to view: but inuisible, an object of faith.

Communion of Saints.] The Churches third property, which l expoundeth the two former: I beleue the Catholike Church,<sup>u</sup> to wit, the Communion of Saints, If a Communion, then Catholike; if Saints, then holy.

This communion hath two parts: fellowship	}	Of the members with the head , because euery Christian hath interest in all the benefits of Christ, who is not a garden-flower priuate for a few, but x the Rose of the field common to all: and therefore S. Iude calls his grace, the Commonsaluation .
		Of the members one with an other: and it is either of the } Liuing with the liuing. Dead, with the liuing.

As in the naturall body: so in the Church, Christs mysticall bodie, there is a perpetuall sympathie betweene the parts. ¶ if one member suffer, ail suffer with it; if one be had in honour, all reioyce with it.

z Martin Luther said well and wittily, that a Christian is a freeman, and bound vnto none. And againe, that he is a diligent seruant and vassall vnto all. Verè vir omnium horarum, omnium operum, omnium personarum: becomming all things vnto all men, that he may win them vnto Christ. As that Antichristian in stile, so the Christian is in deed, Seruus seruorum Dei.

There isa knot of fellowship betweene the dead Saints and the liuing. They pray to God for our good in a generall: and wee praise God for their good in particular. I say, we praise God in his b Saints particularly, for giuing Marie, Peter, Paul, such eminent graces on earth: and now such vnspeakable glory in Heauen. In affection and heart we c conuerse with them, alway desiring to be dissolved, and to be with Christ.

Remission of finnes] All of vs are borne in sinne, prius damnati, quam nati (saith \ Bernard*) and after increasing, wee grow from euill to worse, vntill our finnes are remitted by Gods grace, conueyed vnto vs in the Church by his holy Word and Sacraments: it is a remission, not a satisfaction; a worke not of our merit, but of Gods mercie, who beholding vs in Christ, reputes our finnes as no finnes.

d I haue put away thy transgressions, as a cloud, and thy finnes as a mist so remitted as if they neuer were committed. Agnus Dei qui tollit peccata mundi, e dimittendo quo facta sunt, & adiuuando ne fiant, & perducendo ad vitam ubi omnino fieri non possunt.

Sinnes in the plurall, be they neuer so many for quantitie: neuer so grieuous for qualitie. Say not with Cain, l My sinne is greater then can bee pardoned; but with Paul, All things worke for the best vnto them who loue God. Remember (saith h Luther) the speech of God to Rebecca: Maior seruiet minori: The greater shall serue the lesser. Our spirituall enemies are stronger, and our finnes are greater then we; yet they shall serue for our good: the greater shall serue the lesser, I beleue the remission of sins. A very great benefit, because this pardon is our soules life.

o Chrysoit in 4. ad i. pbes.

¶ Vincentius Livincasis contra heres. cap. 3.

¶ Melchior Canus loc. com. lib. 4 cap. ult.

¶ August. tract. 40 in Ioan.

¶ Heb 11. 1

¶ Erasmus in Symb.

¶ Church of Scotland exposition of the Creed.

¶ Cant 2. 1.

¶ 1 Cor. 12.

z Loc. com. tit. de Christiano.

a Apoc. 6. 10.

b Laudate Deum in sanctis. Psal 150. 1. vi Augustin Hieron. &c.

c Phil. 3. 20. The Churches first prerogative

* Ser. 2. de penit. est.

d Esay 44. 22.

e 1 om. serm. lib. 4 d. st. 18.

f Gen 4. 15.

g Rom 8. 28.

h Loc. com. tit. de vulneribus conscient.

i Rom. 6. 23.
 k Rom 5. 12.
 l 1 Tim. 5. 6.
 m Ezeck. 33. 11

Whereas the <sup>i</sup> wages of sinne is death of }	<sup>k</sup> Body, which is the temporall	} death.

	<sup>l</sup> Soule, which is the spirituall <sup>m</sup> Body and soule, which is eternall n In symbol.

See the Epistle Dom. 7. post. Trinit.

 o Athenagoras
 lib. de resurrect.
 mortuorum.
 The second prerogative.
 p 1 Ioh. epist.
 3. 8.

Resurrection of the body.] The whole Creed in grosse, and every parcell argueth a resurrection, as <sup>n</sup> Erasmus aptly. This one article is the basis of all the rest, ° for if there be a God Almighty, then he is iust: and if iust, then another reckoning in another world, where good men shall be rewarded, and euill condignly punished. If a Iesus Christ who is our Saviour, then he must <sup>p</sup> dissolue the works of Sathan, which are sinne and death: if an Holy Ghost, then all is hallowed temples, who did glorifie him heere, shall bee glorified of him hereafter. If a Church which is holy, then a remission of sins, a resurrection of the body, a life euerlasting, that all such as haue bene subiects in his kingdome of grace, may likewise be Saints in his kingdome of glorie: ¶ for as God is principium effectuum in creatione, refectuum in redemptione: so, perfectuum in retributione.

q Io. Combis compend Theol.
 lib. 4. cap. 1.
 The third prerogative.

Life euerlasting.] The chiefe good, and last end, which we gaine by being in the Church. All men on earth haue life, but not euerlasting: the damned in hell endure that which is euerlasting, yet not a life, but an eternal death, as being perpetually tyed vnto torments, enforced euer to suffer that they would not, neither can they doe any thing that they would: only the Church elected by the Father, redeemed by the Sonne, sanctified by the Holy Ghost, shall enjoy life euerlasting; not by purchase or inheritance, but by <sup>r</sup> donation and franke almaine. The spirituall hand which apprehends this deed of gift is faith: and therefore begin well with I beleue in God, and continue well in being a member of his Holy Catholike Church, and thou shalt be sure to end well with euerlasting life.

r Luke 12. 32

Amen.] Our assent to the Creed, signifying hereby that all which wee haue said is <sup>s</sup> true and certaine.

s 2 Cor. 1. 10.

O Lord increase our faith.

RUTH 2. 4.

t T. C. lib. 1.
 pag. 138. & lib.
 3. pag. 210.
 u Luke 18 13.
 x Matth. 15. 22
 y Mark. 10. 48.

THE Novelists haue censured this, and other like Suffrages, as <sup>t</sup> short cuts or shreadings, rather wishes, then prayers. A rude speech, which fauoureth of the shop, more then of the schoole: for our Church imitated herein the meeke <sup>u</sup> Publican, O God, be mercifull to me a sinner: and the good woman of <sup>x</sup> Canaan, Haue mercy on me, O Lord: and deuout <sup>y</sup> Bartimaeus, O sonne of David, take pittie on me. These short shreadings and lists are of more value then their Northerne broad-cloth: the which (as we see) shrinks in the wetting: whereas our ancient custome hath continued in the Church about 1200 yeeres; for Augustine writes, <sup>z</sup> Epist. 121. that the Christians of Aegypt vsed in their Liturgie many prayers, every one of them being very short, raptim quodammodo <sup>z</sup> eiuculatas, as if they were darts throwne out with a kinde of sudden quicknesse, lest that vigilant and erect attention of minde, which in deuotion is very requisite, should bee wasted and dulled through continuance, if their prayers were few, and long. Nam plerumq; hoc negotium plus gemitibus quam sermonibus agitur, plus fletu quam afflatu, saith the same Father in the same place. Peruse that learned Epistle, for it is a sufficient Apologie, both for the length of our whole seruice, as also for the shortnesse of our feuerall prayers. If Augustine now liued, and were made Vmpire betweene the Novelists and vs, he would rather approve many short prayers in England, then those two long prayers, one before, and the other after Sermon, in Scotland and Genoua.

z Cap. 10. eiusdem.

a Huiusmodi quia Bernardus etiam serm. 16. in Psalm. Qui habitat.

For this particular Dominus vobiscum, it is taken out of the second Chapter of Ruth: 2n vsuall saluation among Gods people: Iudg. 6. 12. Luke 1. 28.

And therefore the like among vs, as God saue you: God blesse you: God speed, &c. are not idle complements, or taking Gods holy name in vaine: but Christian and commendable duties. See Gospell Dom. 6. post Trinit. and Gospell on the Annuntiation.

This and the like salutations or benedictions in the time of Diuine Seruice, betweene the Priest and people, are of great antiquitie, and good vse. For in the Liturgies of S. Iames, Basil, Chrysostome, and that of the <sup>b</sup> Ethiopians, I finde that the Priest was wont to say, Pax vobis: and the people replied, Et cum spiritu tuo. In that old Liturgie of Spaine, called <sup>c</sup> Mozarabe, because the Chrittians were mingled with Arabians, it is inioyned that the Priest should say, Dominus vobiscum, as in our booke; and the people, as ours, answered, Et cum spiritu tuo. Againe, Adiuuate me fraires in orationibus vestris; and the whole company replied, Adiuuet te Pater, Filius, Spiritus Sanctus. It is reported by <sup>d</sup> Bellarmino, and <sup>e</sup> Tritembemius, that one Petrus Damianus hath written an whole booke of this argument, intituled, Dominus vobiscum: in which (as it should seeme) sundry needlesse questions are discussed; he lined in the daies of William the Conquerour, therefore thought probable that it was vsed in the Latine Church, euer sincetheir Liturgie was composed by Damasus, about the yeere 376. deduced out of the Greeke Churches into the Romane, as <sup>f</sup> Beatus Rhenanus, and Master s Fox coniecture.

Cum spiritu tuo.

THe peoples answer, Cum spiritu tuo, is taken out of the second <sup>h</sup> Epistle of Paul to Timothie: The Lord Iesus Christ be with thy spirit. It answereth the reapers answer to Boaz; The Lord blesse thee. These mutuall salutation <sup>i</sup> insinuate sweet agreement and loue betweene the Pastor and Parishioners: it is the Ministers office to beginne, and the peoples dutie to correspond in good affection and kindnesse: for loue is the adamant of loue. When the Minister is a Paul, the people muil be Galatians, if it were <sup>k</sup> possible, willing to pull out their eyes, and to giue them for his good: <sup>l</sup> not only to reuerence his place, but also to loue his person.

A Pastor cannot vse to the people a better wish then, The Lord be with you. For <sup>m</sup> if God be with them, who can be against them? and the people cannot make a fitter reply, then with thy spirit. For (as Plato diuinely said) euery mans soule is himselfe.

Againe, forasmuch as God is a spirit, <sup>n</sup> and ought to be worshipped in spirit; it is meet we should performe this spirituall seruice with all earnest contention and intention of spirit. See Magnificat.

Christ promised, Matth. 18. to be with vs in our deuotion, in the midst of vs, when we meet to pray. But, as <sup>o</sup> Eusebius Emisenus obserueth, how shall God be in the midst of thee, when as thou art not in the midst of thy selfe? Quomodo erit Deus in medio tui, si tecum ipse non fueris? If the Aduocate sleepe, how shall the Iudge awake? No maruell if thou lose thy suit, when as in praying thou losest thy selfe.

Prayer is the Christians gun-shot (saith <sup>p</sup> Luther) Oratio, bombarde Christianorum. As then a bullet out of a gunne: so prayers out of our mouth, can goe no further then the spirit doth carrie them: if they be <sup>q</sup> Timide, they cannot flee farre: if Tumida, not pierce much: onely feruent and humble deuotion hitteth the marke, penetrating the walls of heauen, albeit they were brasse, and the gates iron.

The Church hath placed these mutuall responseries at the very beginning of our prayers, after the Lessons and Confession of faith: because <sup>r</sup> Christ said, without me ye can doe nothing. Wherefore the Church, as I haue shewed, begins her prayers at the first, with, O Lord open thou our lips: and here praying a fresh, The Lord be with you; begins, I say, with, the Lord be with you. and ends with, through Iesus Christ our Lord. Signifying hereby that Christ is <sup>s</sup> Alpha and Omega, the first and the last, without whom we can neither beginne well, nor end

<sup>b</sup> Bibliothec. part. tom. 4. col. 111.
<sup>c</sup> Ibid. col. 1 c 8.

<sup>d</sup> Lib 2 de Mis. sa. cap. 16.
<sup>e</sup> Lib. de scriptor. Ecclesiast. fol 51.

<sup>f</sup> Annot. in Tertul. de Corona militis.
<sup>g</sup> Acts and Monuments. fol. 1274. 1275.

<sup>h</sup> Cap. 4. ver 22

<sup>i</sup> Durandus rational. diuin. lib. 4. c. 14. §. 5.

<sup>k</sup> Galat. 4. 15.
<sup>l</sup> Calvin. in loc. ad Galat.

<sup>m</sup> Rom. 8. 31.

<sup>n</sup> Iohn 4. 24.

<sup>o</sup> Scr. de eo, ubi duo aut tres.

<sup>p</sup> Loc. com. tit. inuocat.

<sup>q</sup> Bernard ser. 4. de Ieiunio & ora.

<sup>r</sup> Iohn 15. 5.

<sup>s</sup> Apoc. 1. 8.

well. And this is the reason why the Church after this interchangeable salutation enioynes vs to pray, Lord haue mercy vpon vs: Christ haue mercy vpon vs: Lord, &c. vsing an earnest repetition (as I coniecture) rather to presse this one point, then (as<sup>c</sup> other write) to notific three diuine persons.

And it is worth obseruing, that we conclude these short Suffrages as we began: for as in the first we desire the Lord to be wish vs and our spirit; so likewise in the last, that he would not take his holy spirit from vs, but accompany the whole Church vnto the end, and in the end.

I am occasioned in this place iustly to defend the peoples answering the Minister aloud in the Church. The beginning of which interlocutory passages, is ascribed by <sup>u</sup> Platina to Damasius Bishop of Rome, by <sup>x</sup> Theodoret to Diodorus Bishop of Antioch, by <sup>y</sup> Walafridus Strabo to S. Ambrose Bishop of Millane: all which liued 1100. yeeres before the Church was acquainted with any French fashions: and yet Basil epist. 63. alleageth that the Churches of Egypt, Libya, Thebes, Palestina, Phœnicians, Syrians, Mesopotamians, vsed it long before. <sup>z</sup> Socrates and <sup>2</sup> Strabo write, that Ignatius, a Scholler vnto <sup>b</sup> Christs own Schollers, is thought to be the first author hereof. If any shall expect greater antiquity and authority, we can fetch this order euen from the quier of heauen: I saw the Lord (said <sup>c</sup> Esay) set on an high Throne, the Seraphims stood vpon it, and one cried to another, saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of hosts, all the world is full of his glory.

Blessed spirits in praising God answer one another interchangeably: though vnhappy scornfull spirits vnmanly terme this custome, <sup>d</sup> Tossing of seruice. But it may be said of them, as <sup>e</sup> Hierome wrote of Heluidius, Exillimant loquacitatem esse facundiam, & maledicere omnibus bona conscientia signum arbitrantur.

The Magnificat.

LUKE I. 46. My soule doth magnifie the Lord.

THis Hymne is nothing else, but a grace, for grace: great thanks, for great things receiued of the Lord. Wherein obserue the * manner and matter of the Virgins exultation: or a thanksgiuing in the two former verses: and a reason in the rest, For he hath regarded, &c.

I purpose to sift euery word of the former part seuerally: and because there is (as * Luther saith) great Diuinitie in pronounes, I will first examine the pronoun My: my soule, my spirit, my Sauiour. It is not enough that other pray for vs, except our selues praise God for our selues. He that goeth to Church by an attorney, shall goe to Heauen also by a proxie.

There is an old legend <sup>f</sup> of a Merchant, who neuer would go to masse: but euer when he heard the Saints bell, he said to his wife, Pray thou for thee and mee. Vpon a time he dreamed that he and his wife were dead, and that they knocked at heauen gate for entrance: S. Peter the porter (for so goeth the tale) suffered his wife to enter in, but thrust him out, saying, Ille intrauit pro se & te: as thy wife went to Church for thee, so likewise she must goe to heauen for thee. The morail is good, howsoeuer the story be bad: insinuating that euery one must haue both a personality of faith, my Sauiour: and a personality of deuotion, my soule, my spirit. <sup>g</sup> Officium is efficium, it is not enough that the Master enioyne his family to pray, or the Father heare his childe pray, or the Teacher exhort his people to pray: but as euery one hath tasted of Gods bounty, so euery one must performe this dutie, hauing oyle of his <sup>h</sup> owne in his owne lampe, saying, and praying with the blessed Virgin, My soule, my spirit.

<sup>c</sup> Bel ethus lib. de Diuinis officijs, cap. 36.

<sup>u</sup> In vita Damasi. lib. 2. hist. cap. 24. Magdeburg. cent. 4. col. 897.

<sup>y</sup> Lib. de rebus Eccles. cap. 25. alludens forsitan ad Hexam. Am brof. lib. 3. cap. 5. z Ecclesiast. hist. lib. 6. cap. 8.

<sup>a</sup> Vbi supra.
<sup>b</sup> Hieron catalog. script. Eccl. in vita Ignat. Muscul. in Mat. 2630. thinks that Christ & his Apostles vsed it.

<sup>c</sup> Cap. 6. 3.

<sup>d</sup> T. C. lib. 1. pag. 203.

<sup>e</sup> Lib. contra Heluidium in initio.

* Modus & causa. Gorran. in locum.

* Com. in 1. Galat. verse 4. My.

<sup>f</sup> Mensa philo. sophica Sab. de Mercator.

<sup>g</sup> Ambros. lib. 1. de officijs, cap. 8.

<sup>h</sup> Matth. 25. 4.

Soule] As if she should thus speake, Thy benefits O Lord are so good, so great, so manifest, so manifold, <sup>i</sup> that I cannot accord them with my tongue, but onely record them in my heart. It is truly said, he leues but little who tels how much he loues: and so surely he praiseth God but little, who makes it a tongue-toile and a lip-labour only, Mark 7 6. This people honoureth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me. God who gaue all, will haue all, and yet about all requireth the soule. <sup>k</sup> Sonne give me thy heart; for that alone commands all other members, as the <sup>l</sup> Centurion did his souldiers. It saith to the foot, goe, and it goeth; vnto the hand, come, and it commeth; vnto the rest, doe this, and they doe it. It doth bend the knees, and ioyne the hands; and lift vp the eye, composeth the countenance, disposeth of the whole man: and therefore as that other <sup>m</sup> Mary chose the better part, so this Mary bestowed vpon God her best part, her soule did magnifie, her spirit reioyced.

Some Diuines expound these words ioyntly, some feuerally. The word spirit is vsed in the holy Scripture sometime for the whole soule, 1 Cor. 7. 34. The woman vnmarried careth for the things of the Lord, that she may be holy both in body and in spirit, that is <sup>n</sup> in soule.

So Saint Augustine in his exposition of this hymne, thinkes that these two words here signifieth the same, because the latter phrase my spirit reioyceth in God my Saviour, is nothing else but an Exegefsis of the former, my soule doth magnifie the Lord: insinuating by this repetition, my soule, my spirit, that her deuotion was not hypocritical, but cordiall and vnfaigned. It is obserued in nature, that the Fox doth nip the necke, the Mastine the throat, the Ferret the liner, but God especially careth for the heart: being (as Ambrose speaks excellently) Non corticis, sed cordis Deus.

And therefore Mary was not content to praise the Lord from the rine of her lips onely, but also from the root of her heart. So <sup>o</sup> Dauid did pray, Praise the Lord O my soule, and all that is within me praise his holy name. So <sup>p</sup> Paul would haue vs pray: Sing to the Lord with a grace in your hearts. And so the Church doth desire that the Priest (who is the mouth of the people) should pray, The Lord be with you, saith the Minister, and the whole Congregation answereth, And with thy spirit. <sup>q</sup> Hereby signifying, that this holy businesse ought to be performed with all attention and intention of spirit.

Diuines interpreting these two feuerally, distinguish betweene soule and spirit: and so doth the Scripture, 1 Cor. 15. 45. The first man Adam was made a lining soule, the last Adam a quickening spirit. Soule is that by which we liue naturally: spirit is that, by which we liue through grace supernaturally. Or (as other) soule signifieth the will, and spirit the vnderstanding: as Heb. 4. 12. The Word of God is lively and mighty in operation, and sharper then any two edged sword, and entereth thorow, euery vnto the diuiding asunder of the soule and spirit: that is, of the will and vnderstanding.

So that Mary saying here, my soule and my spirit, doth intimate that she did praise the Lord with attention in her vnderstanding, and deuotion in her affection. They praise God, with halfe an heart, who either hauing deuotion, want vnderstanding: or else endued with vnderstanding, want deuotion: and so while men pray with the soule without a spirit, or with the spirit, without a soule, their heart is diuided (as the Prophet <sup>r</sup> Ose: Diuisum est cor eorum:) and God hath but one part, happily the least peece.

The line then to bee drawne from this example, is, first, that wee pray with our heart: secondly, with our whole heart, with all our soule, with all our spirit.

Doth] In the present. For as a gift to man, so glory to God, is most acceptable when it is seasonable: not deferred, but conferred in time. <sup>u</sup> Gratia que tarda est, ingrata est gratia. <sup>x</sup> Proprium est libenter facientis, cito facere.

Magnific] The word signifieth highly to commend, and extoll: Magnum facere, to make great. Now God is optimus maximus, already most great, and Soule.

<sup>a</sup> Beda in loc.<sup>k</sup> Prou. 23. 26.<sup>l</sup> Maath 8 9.<sup>m</sup> Luke 10. 42.<sup>n</sup> Ambros. com. in loc.<sup>o</sup> Psal 103. 1.<sup>p</sup> Colosif. 3. 16.<sup>q</sup> Carolus Magnus fragment. de ritibus eccles. veteris, Cassander Liturgica, cap 21.<sup>r</sup> Calu. in loc.<sup>s</sup> Beza in loc.<sup>t</sup> Ose 10. cap 2.

Doth.

<sup>u</sup> Ausonius epigram. 84.<sup>x</sup> Seneca lib. 2.

de beneficijs.

cap. 5.

Magnific.

therefore cannot be made more great in regard of himselfe : but all our vilifying and magnifying the Lord, is in respect of others onely.

When we blaspheme the most holy name of God, as much as in vs lieth, we lessen his greatnesse : when we blesse his name, so much as in vs is, we magnifie his glory, making that which is great in it selfe, to be reputed great of other. As 7 one fitly, Magnificare nihil aliud est nisi magnum significare.

This magnifying consists in our conuersation especially. Noli (saith <sup>2</sup> Augustine) gloriarī quia lingua benedicit, si vna maledicit. <sup>2</sup> Haue your conuersation honest among the Gentiles, that they which speake euill of you, may by your good workes, which they shall see, glorifie God in the day of the visitation.

God is magnified of vs (as <sup>b</sup> Ambrose and Origen note) when as his Image is repaired in vs. <sup>c</sup> He created man according to his likenesse : that is, as <sup>c</sup> Paul doth interpret it, in righteousness and holinesse. So that the more grace we, the more glory God : he doth appeare greater in vs, albeit he cannot be made greater by vs. He doth not encrease, but we grow from grace to grace, from vertue to vertue : the which ought principally to stirre vs vp vnto this duty, for that our selues are magnified, in magnifying him : as Mary sheweth here, My soule doth magnifie the Lord, vers. 46. And The Lord hath magnified me, vers. 49.

<sup>f</sup> Qui maledicit Domino, ipse minuitur ; qui benedicit, augetur : prior est in nobis benedictio Domini, & consequens est, & ut nos benedicamus Domino : illa plura, iste fructus.

The Lord] Lord is a name of might, Sauour, of mercy. Mary then (as Augustine and <sup>h</sup> other obserue) praiseth him alone, who is able to helpe, because the Lord ; and willing, because a Sauour.

And my spirit] <sup>1</sup> Such as distinguish betweene soule and spirit, make this a reason of the former verse : My spirit hath reioyced in God my Sauour, and therefore my soule doth magnifie the Lord : according to that of <sup>k</sup> S. James ; Is any merry? let him sing. So that this exultation of Mary, caused her exaltation of God.

Inward reioycing in spirit, is a great signe of a good conscience, <sup>1</sup> which is a continuall feast. The wicked are often merrie, sometime mad-merry: but all is but from the teeth outward. For (as <sup>m</sup> Salomon speaks) even in laughing the heart is sorrowfull, and the end of mirth is heauinesse. But the good man (as the Virgin here) reioyceth in spirit : all worldly meriments are more talked of then felt, but inward spirituall reioycing is more felt then vttered.

It is (as the <sup>n</sup> Scripture calls it) a Iubilation, an exceeding great ioy, which a man can neither suppress, nor expresse sufficiently. <sup>o</sup> Nec reticere, nec recitare : for how soeuer in the Court of Conscience there be some pleading euery day ; yet The godly make it Hilary Terme all the yeere. See Gospell Dom. 1. Aduent. & Dom. 9. post. Trinit.

In God] Happily the spirit of the most wicked at sometime doth reioyce, yet not in God, nor in good, but in villany, and vanitie. Prou. 2. 14. They reioyce in doing euill, and delight in frowardnes : whereas in the good man the ioyes object is alwaies good, goodnesse it selfe, God himselfe. Dauid delights in the Lord. Mary reioyceth in God. And this is so good a ioy, that <sup>p</sup> Paul saith, Reioyce in the Lord alwaies, and againe, Isay reioyce. We may reioyce in our friends, in our health, in our preferment, in our honest recreation, in many other things, prater Deum, beside God : yet in all, propter Deum, for God, so farre forth as they shall encrease our spirituall reioycing in the Lord. God forbid (saith <sup>q</sup> Paul) that I should reioyce in any thing but in the crosse of Christ. In any thing in comparison of this, in any thing which might hinder this, and yet in all things for this. See the Epistle Dom. 4. Aduent.

Sauour] To consider God as a seuered Iudge, would make our heart to tremble : but to consider him in Christ, in whom he is well pleased, is of all ghostly comfort the greatest. And therefore if we desire to reioyce in spirit, let vs not behold God in the glasse of the Law, which makes him a dreadfull Iudge : but in the glasse of the Gospell, which shewes him a mercifull Sauour.

<sup>v</sup> Lexic. Theol.
 verb. magnifica-<sup>z</sup> in Psal. 133.
<sup>a</sup> 1 Pet. 2. 12.

<sup>b</sup> Com. in Luc.
 lib. 2. cap. de Mariae benedictione.
<sup>c</sup> Gen. 1. 26.
<sup>e</sup> Ephes. 4. 24.

<sup>f</sup> August. in
Psal. 66.

The Lord.
<sup>g</sup> 1 Cor. 8. 6.
<sup>h</sup> Maldonat. in
loc.
Spirit.
<sup>l</sup> Caluin. &
Marlorat. in loc.
<sup>k</sup> James 5. 13.

<sup>l</sup> Prou. 15. 15.

<sup>m</sup> Prou. 14. 13.

<sup>n</sup> Zach. 9. 9.
<sup>o</sup> Anonymus in
Psal. 46.

In God.

<sup>p</sup> Phil. 4. 4.

<sup>q</sup> Galat. 6. 14.

Sauour.

In every Christian there are two contrary natures, the flesh, and the spirit : and that he may be a perfect man in Christ, he must subdue the one, & strengthen the other : the Law is the ministrie of death, and serueth fitly for the taming of our rebellious flesh: the Gospell is the power of God vnto life, containing the bountifull promises of God in Christ, and serueth fitly for the strengthening of the spirit. It is poyle to powre in our wounds, and water of life to quench our thirlic foules. As in name, so in nature, the Goodspell, or the Ghostspell, that is, the word and ioy for the spirit. Mary then had good cause to <sup>1</sup> adde this epithete Sauieur, vnto God: My spirit reioyceth in God my Sauieur.

My Sauieur ] We notetwo conclusions out of this pronoune : the first against some Papists; the second against all Papists. <sup>2</sup> Some popish writers affirme, that Mary was conceiued and borne without originall sinne, and that she liued and died without actuall sinne : contrary to the Scripture, Rom. 3.9. Gal. 3.22. So <sup>3</sup> that in honouring the feast of her conception and natiuity, with the singular priuiledge of Christ, they worship an Idoll, and not her. For an Idoll (as <sup>4</sup> Paul disputes) is nothing in the world: and so is that man or woman conceiued without sinne, except Christ, who was conceiued by the holy Ghost; as none other euer was, or shall be.

<sup>5</sup> They ground this assertion vpon a place of Augustine : * Excepta sancta virgine Maria, de qua propter honorem Domini, nullam prorsus cum de peccatis agitur, habere volo questionem. Answer is made, that Augustine elsewhere concludes all vnder sinne (though he did in that place forbear to rip vp the faults of the mother in honour of her sonne) for in lib. 5. 7 cap. 9. against Iulian the Pelagian, he doth intimate that Maries body was sinfull flesh, concluding peremptorily, <sup>6</sup> Nullus est hominum prater Christum, qui peccatum non habuerit grandioris aetatis accessu: quia nullus est hominum prater Christum, qui peccatum non habuerit infantis aetatis exortu. So likewise, <sup>7</sup> lib. de sancta virginitate, cap. 3. Beatior Maria percipiendo fidem Christi, quam concipiendo carnem Christi: nihil enim ei materna propinquitas profuisset, nisi feliciter Christum corde, quam carne gestasset. And in this <sup>8</sup> Treatise, De fide ad Petrum, (for the Papists admit that booke) Firmissime crede, & nullatenus dubites, omnem hominem qui per concubitum viri & mulieris concipitur, cum peccato originali nasci, & ob hoc natura filium ire. Thus Augustine expounds, and answers Augustine.

Now for holy Scriptures, if there were no more texts in the Bible, this one is omni sufficient, to accuse Mary of some faults, and the Papists of much folly : My spirit reioyceth in God my Sauieur. He that hath no sinne, wants not a Sauieur : but Mary reioyced in a Sauieur, therefore shee was forrie for her sinne. The whole need not a Physician, saith <sup>9</sup> Christ : but Mary calls for a salue, therefore surely shee had some sore : and if any sinne, then she cannot be our Mediatrix, or Advocate. Si peccatrix, non deprecatrix. <sup>10</sup> Our Advocate is our propitiation for sin : <sup>11</sup> but the propitiation for sin, knew no sin. Ergo, que egebat, non agebat addecatum. And therefore Mary, who needed a Sauieur her selfe, could not be a Sauieur of other.

Againe, we gather out of this pronoune my, Maries particular apprehension and application of Christs merits, against all Papists, who <sup>12</sup> teach that a generall confuted implicite faith, is enough without any further examination of Scriptures, or distinct beleefe. Contrarie to the practise of Christ, who prayed in our nature and name.

<sup>13</sup> Deus meus, Deus meus. Of <sup>14</sup> Dauid, Thou art my God: of <sup>15</sup> Thomas, My Lord: of Mary, My Sauieur.

The second part of this Hymne containeth a reason why she did magnifie the Lord, namely for his goodnesse, Toward } Her selfe. He hath regarded the lowlinesse of his handmaid; he hath magnified me. From henceforth, all generations shall call me blessed.

 } Other.

Regarded]

<sup>1</sup> Luke 10. 34. The Law as wine to search, the Gospell as oyle to supple.

<sup>2</sup> Caluin, in loc. <sup>3</sup> Suarez tom. 2. in tertia Thom. disput. 3. & 4.

<sup>4</sup> D. Fulke annot in Mat. 1. <sup>5</sup> 1 Cor. 8. 4.

<sup>6</sup> Lonbard 3. sent. 4. l. 3. Bellar. de amissione gratiae, lib. 4. cap. 15. <sup>7</sup> De nat. & gratia contra Pelagianos, cap. 36. tom. 7. fol. 506.

<sup>8</sup> Tom. 7. fol. 742

<sup>9</sup> fol. 743.

<sup>10</sup> Tom. 6. fo. 561.

<sup>11</sup> Tom. 3. fol. 164

<sup>12</sup> Matth. 9. 13.

<sup>13</sup> 1 Epist. Iohn 2. cap

<sup>14</sup> 2 Cor. 5. 21.

<sup>15</sup> Bellar. lib. 1. de iustific cap. 7.

<sup>16</sup> Matth. 27. 16

<sup>17</sup> Psal. 118. 28.

<sup>18</sup> Ioh 20. 28.

Regarded.

Regarded] God is said in Scripture to regard three } Cognitionem, waies, (as Augustine notes vpon this place) secundum } Gratiam, } Iudicium.

1. His eye of knowledge regardeth all things, Hebrewes 4. 13. There is not any creature, which is not manifest in his sight, but all things are naked and open vnto him.

k Psal. 33. 18.

2. His favourable countenance and gracious eye is vpon them <sup>k</sup> who feare him, and vpon them who trust in his mercie.

l Matth 25. 13

3. God in iudgement will onely regard his elect. For hee will say to the reprobate, <sup>l</sup> Verily I know yee not. God regarded here Mary with his gracious eye, vouchsafing to make her both his childe, and his mother. The one is a benefit obtained of very <sup>m</sup> few; the other denied vnto all. It was onely granted to Mary to be the mother of Christ, <sup>n</sup> whereas it was demed vnto all men, to be the father of Christ.

m Matth 7. 14.

<sup>n</sup> Hugo Lincolnienfis, vti Surrius in eius vita.

This was so great a grace to Mary, that as in this Hymne her selfe doth prophcie: From henceforth all generations shall account her blessed.

o Luke 1. 28.

An Angell of heauen said that she was <sup>o</sup> full of grace: Gratia plena in se, non à se; in her selfe, but not of her selfe. And therefore her soule did magnifie the Lord, and her spirit reioyced in God her Saviour; not in regard of her owne greatnesse, but in respect of his goodnesse. For so the faith, He hath regarded.

Lowlinesse.

p Maylor, in loc.

q Psal. 113. 5. 6

The lowlinesse] <sup>p</sup> God cannot lookee about himselfe, because he hath no superiour; nor about himselfe, for that he hath no equal: he regards onely such as are below him; and therefore the lower a man is, the nearer vnto God, the more exposed to his sight who lookes from aboue. Who is like vnto the Lord our God that hath his dwelling so high, and yet humbleth himselfe to behold the things in heauen and earth? He taketh up the simple out of the dust, and lifteth the poore out of the mire. And Psal. 138. verse 6. Though the Lord be high, yet hath he respect vnto the lowly; but as for the proud, he beholdeth them a farre off. The most high then hath especiall respect to such as are most low.

Now lowlinesse in holy } Actively, for humility.
 Scripture is vsed both } Passively, for humiliation, basenesse, and affliction.

r *Aladonat in locum.*s *Com. in cap 2. Abdiam.*t Hom 27.

Origen, Bede, Bernard, construe this of Maries humility: but I thinke with most, and best, that she meant by lowlinesse, her base degree: <sup>r</sup> For Humilitas dum proditur perditur. He that brags of his humility, loofeth it. It is (saith <sup>s</sup> Hierome) the Christians Jewell. Now, saith <sup>t</sup> Alacarius, he is a foolish begger who when he finds a Jewell, instantly proclaimes it, inueni, inueni: for by this meanes he that hath lost it, will demand it againe: so likewise when wee boast of any good gift, the Lord who lent, will resume it.

u *Inuenius,*v *Beauxamit,*w *Maldonat. in locum.*x *1 Cor 15 26.*y *Innocentius de contemptu mundi, l. b. 2. cap 31.*z *Epist 56.*aa Pet Chrysostom 103. ser. 7.

It is improbable then that Mary spake this of her humility: for (as some <sup>u</sup> Popish writers obserue) she did in this song ascribe all her happinesse to Gods mercy, and nothing to her owne merit.

It is true, that as death is the last <sup>x</sup> enemie: so pride the last sinne that shall be destroyed in vs. Inter omnia vitia in semper es prima, semper es ultima: nam omne peccatum te accedente committitur: & te recedente dimittitur. <sup>y</sup> Augustine told Discortus, Vitia cetera in peccatis, superbia verò etiam in benefactis timenda. When other finnes die, secret pride gets strength in vs: ex <sup>z</sup> remedys generat morbos, euen vertue is the matter of this vice: in such sort, that a man will be proud, because he is not proud. But this was not Maries mind to boast, in that she did not boast: but, as the word and coherence more then insinuate, she did vnderstand by lowlinesse, her meane estate and qualitie.

bb *Inuenius, lib*cc 1 Euang. l. 11.

bb Quod me dignatus in altum, erigere ex humili, celsum.

So doth her selfe construe the word, verse 52. He hath put downe the mighty from from their seat, and hath exalted the humble and meeke: where humble is opposite to mightie, as in this verse, the lowliness of Marie to Gods highnesse. I presse this point, because some Papists (as <sup>c</sup> Erasmus affirms) haue gathered out of this place, that Marie through her modest carriage, worthily deterued to be the mother of Christ. Whereas (besides the reasons alleaged) the words of this verse, and the drift of the whole Song, confute them abundantly.

For ταπεινωσις, vsed by Luke, signifieth properly batnesse: whereas humilitie is called ταπεινοτης: and albeit the vulgar Latine read, respexit humilitatem, yet in the text, is aspexit, as in our English Bibles, he looked on the poore degree of his handmaid. And this is not onely the criticall Annotation of Erasmus, but their owne Iansenius, and Maldonatus obserue the same: for her intent was not to magnifie her selfe, but to magnifie the Lord.

Here then we may behold Maries exceeding great miserie, and Gods exceeding great mercy; the good Ladies infelicite, who descended of a noble house, yea royall blood, was notwithstanding a distressed fillie maiden, so poore, that, as we reade, Luke 2.24. she was not able to buy a young Lambe for an offering. See the Gospell on the Purification.

Let <sup>d</sup> not the wise man glory in his wisdom, nor the strong man glory in his strength, neither the rich man glory in his riches, nor the Nobleman of his parentage, for one generation passeth, and another commeth: and <sup>e</sup> as we haue heard, so haue we seene, some who came from the Scepter, to hold the plough; and other who came from the plough, to manage the Scepter. And the reason is rendred in this Hymne; The Lord hath put downe the mightie from their seat, and exalted the humble and meeke: he hath filled the hungry with good things, and the rich hee hath sent empty away. This was his exceeding great goodnesse toward Marie, to raise her out of the dust, so to magnifie her, as that all generations account her blessed.

For from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed] In the verse before Magnificat, Elizabeth called her blessed: now the Virgin opposeth all men to Elizabeth, and all times to the present, saying, (as <sup>f</sup> Theophylact doth note) that not Elizabeth onely, but all men, and women, as at this time, so for euer also shall account me blessed. All generations, that is, all men in all generations, (as the Schoole doth vsually distinguish) genera singulorum, albeit not singuli generum, (or as <sup>g</sup> Euthymius) all people who beleue aright in the Sonne, shall blesse the mother; not all liuing, but all beloning: for Iewes, and Gentiles, and Heretikes, in stead of this honour, reuile her. <sup>h</sup> Augustine mentioneth Antidicomarianites, Heluidius in Hieromes age was (as <sup>i</sup> Roffensis termes him) a Mariamastix; and in our time some are content to giue her lesse, because the Papists haue giuen her more than is due. Let vs not make the Spirit of truth a lye, which saith, All generations shall call her blessed. This shall, is officij, not necessitatis: all ought, howfoeuer all doe not blesse this blessed Virgin.

For he that is mightie hath magnified me] Magna mihi fecit, hath done maruellous things to me. For it is wonderfully singular, and singularly wonderfull, that Mary should be both a Virgin, and a mother: of such a sonne a mother, as was Christ: he that is mightie, and none but the Almighty could thus magnifie Mary: shee was blessed in bearing the <sup>k</sup> most blessed, in whom <sup>l</sup> all nations of the earth are blessed. Vnto this purpose <sup>m</sup> Bernard excellently, Non quia tu benedixisti deo benedictus fructus ventris tui: sed quia ille te prauenit in benedictionibus dulcedinis, ideo tu benedixisti.

Hitherto concerning the goodnesse of God toward her selfe: now shee remembreth his mercy toward other.

<sup>c</sup> Annot. in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Jerem. 9. 23.

<sup>e</sup> 1 Sam. 2. 7.

<sup>f</sup> In loc.

<sup>g</sup> In loc.

<sup>h</sup> Lib. de heresibus 56. heres.
<sup>i</sup> Lib. contra Eutherum, fol. 8. in margine.

<sup>k</sup> Rom. 9. 5.

<sup>l</sup> Gen 12. 3.

<sup>m</sup> Hom 3. super Missus est Angelus Gabriel.

His mercy is on them that feare him, &c.

Generally,

- { 1. In helping and comforting them: He exalteth the humble and meeke, filling them with all good things.
2. In scattering and confounding their enemies: He hath scattered the proud, put downe the mightie from their seat, and sent the rich emptie away.

More specially,

- { 1. In promising.
2. In performing his gracious promise touching the Messias of the world: Remembring his mercy hath holpen his seruant Israel, as he promised to our forefathers Abraham, and his seed for euer.

ⁱ Cant 2. 5.

° Genes. 3: 15.

These points are ⁱ flagons of wine to comfort the distressed soule. For if God, who promised in the beginning that the ° seed of the woman should bruise the Serpents head, deferred his promise almost 4000 years, and yet at length accomplished the same to the very full: then no doubt, God hauing promised the resurrection of the dead, and euerlasting life, will in his good time bring them to passe. That which is past, may confirme our hope touching things to come: For he remembreth his mercy towards his seruant Israel, and it is on them that feare him throughout all generations.

Cantate Domino. P S A L. 98.

ⁱ August. Hieron. Euthym. Calvin. Genebrard. in loc.

ⁱ John 4. 23.

ⁱ Tim. 3. 16.

THE Church hath done well in ioyning to the Magnificat, Psalm 98. for the one is a perfect eccho to the other, (all ⁱ Interpreters agreeing, that Dauids myserie, and Maries historie, are all one) Whatsoeuer is obscurely foretold in his Psalm, is plainly told in her Song: as he prophesied, Osing unto the Lord a new song, shew your selues ioyfull: So she practised, My soule doth magnifie the Lord, and my spirit reioyceth in God my Saviour. And this (ⁱ as Christ teacheth) is a new song: The houre commeth, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and truth. The voice doth say, Magna fecit, He hath done maruellous things: and the Eccho, Magna mihi fecit, He hath magnified, or done maruellous things in me For it is an exceeding wonder, (as ⁱ Paul speaks) a great myserie, that God should be manifested in the flesh, that the father of all, should be the sonne of Marie. Voice: With his owne right hand, and with his holy arme hath he gotten himselfe the victorie. Eccho: He hath shewed strength with his arme, he hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts. Voice: The Lord declared his saluation, his righteousnesse hath he openly shewed in the sight of the Heathen. Eccho: His mercy is on them that feare him, throughout all generations: hee hath filled the hungry with good things, and the rich he hath sent empty away. Gentiles esurientes, Iudeos disuites, as Theophylact expounds it. Voice: He hath remembred his mercy and truth towards the house of Israel. Eccho: Hee remembring his mercy, hath holpen his seruant Israel.

In the whole Psalm five circumstances are to bee considered especially:

{ Who.
{ What.
{ Whereto.
{ Wherefore.
{ Wherewith.

1. Who must sing: All men, all things. For the Prophet in the latter end of the Psalm doth incite sensible men, by directing his speech vnto insensible creatures:

creatures: Let the sea make a noyse, let the foulds clap their hands, and let the hills be ioyfull. All which sing Psalmes and Hymnes in their kinde, onely man, for whom all these were made, is vnkinde. <sup>c</sup> The ox knoweth his owner, and the dull asse his masters crib: but Israel hath not knowne, my people hath not vnderstood.

2. What: Sing a new song. This is mans end, to seeke God in this life, to see God in the next: to be a subiect in the kingdome of grace, and Saint in the kingdome of glory. Whatsoener in this world befalleth vs, we must sing: be thankfull for weale, for woe; songs ought alwayes to be in our mouth, and sometimes a new song: for so Dauid here, sing a new song: that is, <sup>r</sup> let vs put off the old man, and become new men, <sup>u</sup> new creatures in Christ: for the old man sings old songs: only the new man sings a new song; he speaketh with a * new tongue, and walks in <sup>y</sup> new wayes, and therefore doth new things, and sings new songs; his language is not of Babylon, or Egypt, but of Canaan; his communication doth edifie men, his song glorifie God.

Or a new song, that is, a fresh song, <sup>r</sup> nouares, nouum canticum, new for a new benefit. Ephes. 5.20. Give thanks alway for all things. It is very grosse to thanke God only in grosse, and not in parcell. Hast thou beene sicke and now made whole? praise God with the Leper, Luke 17. sing a new song, for this new salue.

Doest thou hunger and thirst after righteousnesse, whereas heretofore thou couldest not endure the words of exhortation and doctrine? sing a new song for this new grace. Doth Almighty God giue thee a true sense of thy sinne, whereas heretofore thou diddest draw iniquitie with cords of vanitie, and sinne as it were with cart-ropes, and wast giuen ouer to worke all yncleannesse, euen with greedinesse? O sing, sing, sing a new song for this new mercy.

Or new, that is, <sup>a</sup> no common or ordinarie song, but as Gods mercy toward vs is exceeding maruclous and extraordinarie, so our thanks ought to be most exquisite, and more than ordinarie; not new in regard of the matter, for we may not pray to God, or praise God, otherwise than hee hath prescribed in his word, which is the old way, but new in respect of the manner and making, that as occasion is offered, we may beare our wits after the best fashion to be thankful.

Or, because this Psalm is propheticall, a new song, that is, <sup>b</sup> the song of the glorious Angels at Christs birth, <sup>c</sup> Glory to God on high, peace in earth, towards men good will, a song which the world neuer heard before; that the seed of the woman should bruiſe the Serpents head is an old song, the first that euer was sung: but this was no plaine song, till Christ did manifest himselfe in the flesh. In the Old Testament there were many old songs, but in the New Testament a new song.

That vnto vs is borne a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord, in many respects a new song: for whereas Christ was but shadowed in the Law, he is shewed in the Gospell; and new, because sung of new men, of all men. <sup>d</sup> For the sound of the Gospell is gone through all the earth, vnto the ends of the world: whereas in old time Gods old songs were sung in Iurie, his name great in Israel, at Salem his Tabernacle, and dwelling in Zion, Psalm 76.

3. Whereto] To the Lord. See before Psalm 95.

4. Wherefore] For he hath done maruclous things: hee hath opened his greatnesse and goodnesse to the whole world, in his creation, and preseruation, in his redemption especially, being a worke of greater might and mercy than all the rest: for in the creation he made man like himselfe; but in the redemption he made himselfe like man. <sup>e</sup> Illic participes nos fecit bonorum suorum: hic participes est factus malorum nostrorum. In making the world, he spake the word only and it was done: but to redeeme the world, dixit multa, & fecit mira, saith the Text: Passus est dura verba, duriora verbera. The creation of the world was a worke as it were of his fingers: Psalm. 8. 3. When I consider the heauen, euen
the

<sup>c</sup> Esay 1. 3.

<sup>c</sup> Augustin. in loc.

<sup>u</sup> 2. Cor 5. 17.

* Maik. 16. 17.

<sup>y</sup> Matth. 2. 11.

* Hieron. in loc.

<sup>a</sup> Caluin in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Augustin. & Turrecremat. in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Luke 2. 14.

<sup>d</sup> Rom. 10. 18.

<sup>e</sup> Granatenfis Con. 2. Dom. 1. Aduent.

fondly desire; so that whether God grant them, or not, we must submit our selues vnto his good pleasure, Now and euer ready to depart in peace, when hee doth call, taking vnto vs the resolution of Iob, The Lord giueth, and the Lord taketh, blessed be the name of the Lord.

Lettest thou] We may not our selues loose our soules, but let God let them out of prison. We must seeke to mortifie the flesh, and to cast the world out of vs:

But to cast our selues out of the } God.
 world, is an offence against } Our neighbour.
 } Our selues.

Against God: who saith, Thou shalt not kill: if not another, much lesse thy selfe. For thou must loue thy neighbour as thy selfe: first thy selfe, then thy neighbour as thy selfe. The ncerer, the decrer. ¶ I kill, and giue life, saith the Lord: we are not masters of our life, but only stewards: and therefore may not spend it, or end it as we please: but as God, who bestowed it, will.

Against our neighbours: because men are not borne for themselves alone, but for other also: being all members of one common-weale and politike bodie: so that (as Paul saith) If one member suffer, all suffer with it. ¶ Homo quilibet est pars communitatis: Euery particular person is part of the whole State. This is the true reason, why the King doth take so precise an account of the death euen of his basest subiect, because himselfe and the whole kingdome had interest in him.

Against our selues: Because by naturall instinct euery creature labours to preferue it selfe; the fire striueth with the water, the water fighteth with the fire, the most sillie worme doth contend with the most strong man to preferue it selfe: and therefore we may not butcher our selues, but expect Gods leasure and pleasure to let vs depart in peace.

Thy seruant] It is not a seruile seruice, but a perfect freedome to serue the Lord. And therefore as the good Emperour Theodosius held it more noble to bee membrum Ecclesie, quam caput Imperij: so may we resolute that it is better to be a seruant of God, than Lord of all the world. For while we serue him, all other creatures on earth and in heauen too serue vs, Heb. 1. 14.

In chusing a master, euery man will } his } Enemie.
 shun principally three sorts of men: } } Fellow.
 } } Seruant.

Hee serueth his greatest enimie, who serueth the deuill: his fellow, who serueth the lust of his flesh: his seruant, who serueth the world. It is a base seruice to serue the world: for that is to become a vassall vnto our seruants. It is an vncertaine seruice to serue the flesh: this master is so cholericke, so weake, so sickly, so fickle, that we may looke euery day to be turned out of his doores: and that which is worst of all, he is least contented, when he is most satisfied. Like to the Spaniard, a bad seruant, but a worse master. It is an vnchristie seruice to serue the deuill, all his wages is death: the more seruice we doe him, the worse is our estate. But he that serues God, hath the greatest Lord, who is most able: and the best Lord, who is most willing to preferre his followers: and therefore let vs say with Simeon, and boast with Dauid: O Lord I am thy seruant, I am thy seruant. See the Epistle on Simon and Indes day.

Depart] Here first note the soules immortalitie: Death is not exitus, but transitus; not obitus, but abitus; not a dying, but a departing, a trasmigration and exodus out of our earthly pilgrimage, vnto our heauenly home. * Fratres mortui, non sunt amissi, sed premissi: ¶ profectio est, quam putas mortem: A passage from the valley of death, vnto the land of the liuing.

¶ Dauid said of his dead childe, I shall goe to him, but he shall not returne to mee. ¶ Christ confirms this: Haue you not read what is spoken of God, saying, I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Iacob? Now God, saith Christ, is not the God of the dead, but of the liuing. Abraham then is aliue, Isaac aliue, Iacob aliue; they cannot be said truly dead, but (as Simeon here departed.

The two receptacles of all soules after this life, Hell and Heauen, infallibly demonstrate Lettest thou.

° Thomas 2. 28.
 quæst. 64. art. 5.

¶ Luke 10. 27
 ¶ Deut. 32. 39.

¶ 1 Cor. 12. 26.
 ¶ Arst. Ethic.
 lib. 5. cap. ult.

Thy seruant.

° Psal. 116. 14.

Depart: ° Cyprian, serm.
de mortalitate.
 * Ibidem &
August epist. 6.
 ¶ Tertull lib. de
patientia.
 ° 2 Sam 12. 23.
 ° Matth. 22. 32

<sup>b</sup> Luk. 16. 22.

demonstrate this point. <sup>b</sup> Lazarus dieth, and his soule is presently conueyed by blessed Angels vnto the bosome of Abraham: vnhappy Dives dieth, and his soule is fetcht and snatcht away by foule fiends vnto the bottomlesse pit of hell.

As Gods eternall decrees haue an end without a beginning: so the soules of men haue a beginning without an end. The soule and bodie part for a time, but they shall meet againe to receiue an irrecouerable doome, either of, Come ye blessed, or Goe ye cursed.

<sup>c</sup> Theophylact.

<sup>d</sup> Plato in Cratyl.

<sup>e</sup> Petrachæ de remedijs, lib. 1. in log. 5.

<sup>f</sup> Ficinus in vita Platonis.

Secondly, note that dying is the <sup>c</sup> loosing of our soule from her bonds and fetters: our flesh is a sinke of sinne, the prison of the minde, <sup>d</sup> ὡμὰ quasi σῖμα. <sup>e</sup> Qui gloriatur in viribus corporis, gloriatur in viribus carceris. And therefore when <sup>f</sup> Plato saw one of his schoole was a little too curious in pampering his bodie, said wittily: What doe you meane to make your prison so strong? So that a soule departed is set at libertie, like a bird that is escaped out of a cage. Among all other prisoners visit your owne soule, for it is enclosed in a perilous prison, said a blessed Martyr, apud Fox. pag. 1544.

<sup>g</sup> Petrarca præfat. in lib. de re medijs vniuersique fortune.

Hieron. Epist. Paulino, tom. 1. pag. 102.

<sup>i</sup> Plato in Axiocho.

<sup>k</sup> 1 Tim. 5. 6.

<sup>l</sup> Altercatio cum Hadriano Imperatore.

The world is so full of euils, as that to write them all, would require another world so great as it selfe. Innitium vita cecitas & obliuio possidet, progressum labor, dolor exitum, error omnia: Childhood is a foolish simplicitie, youth a rash heat, manhood a carking carefulnesse, old age a noysome languishing. Diu h̄ viuendo portant funera sua, & quasi sepulchra dealbata plena sunt ossibus mortuorum. It may be said of an old man, as <sup>i</sup> Bias of the Mariner; Nec inter viuos, nec inter mortuos: and (as Plutarch of Sardanapalus, and <sup>k</sup> S. Paul of a widow lining in pleasure) that he is dead and buried euen while he liueth: and so passing from age to age, we passe from euill to euill; it is but one waue drining another, vntill we arrive at the haue of death <sup>l</sup> Epicetus spake more like a Diuine than a Philosopher: Homo calamitatis fabula, infelicitatis tabula. Though a King by warre or wile should conquer all the proud earth, yet hee gets but a needels point, a mote, a mite, a nit, a nothing. So that while we strue for things of this world, we fight as it were like children, for pins and points. And therefore <sup>m</sup> Paul desired to bee loosed, and to be with Christ: and Simeon (as some Diuines obserue) prayeth here to be dismissed, as <sup>n</sup> Ambrose doth read Dimitte: Lord let loole. <sup>o</sup> Cyprian and Origen, dimittes, in the future: as if he should say, Now Lord I hope thou wilt suffer me to depart. How soeuer the word in the present, imports that death is a <sup>q</sup> goale-delinerie: Nunc dimittis seruum; Now Lord thou settest free thy seruant: as <sup>r</sup> Mattheu is vsed, Act. 16. 35. Luk. 23. 17.

<sup>m</sup> Phil. 1. 23.

<sup>n</sup> Com. in Lucam lib. 2. cap. de Simeone.

<sup>o</sup> Ser. de mort.

<sup>p</sup> Hom. 15. in Lucam.

<sup>q</sup> Beauxamis in locum.

<sup>r</sup> Mantuan. in 1. parthenic. Marian.

<sup>s</sup> In peace.

<sup>t</sup> Lexicon, Theolog. verb. Pax.

<sup>u</sup> In peace.

<sup>v</sup> Lexicon, Theolog. verb. Pax.

<sup>w</sup> Lexicon, Theolog. verb. Pax.

<sup>x</sup> Lexicon, Theolog. verb. Pax.

<sup>y</sup> Lexicon, Theolog. verb. Pax.

<sup>r</sup> Nam quid longa dies nobis, nisi longa dolorum Colluues? longi patientia carceris atas.

In peace ] There are three kinds of peace: { Externall, } Peace of { World. } { Internall, } { Minde. } { Eternall, } { God. }

Or more plainly, peace betweene { Man and man. } { God and man. } { Man and himselfe. }

The last kinde is meant here, though assuredly Simeon had all three: for our peace with God, and so farre as is possible, loue toward all men, breeds in vs a third peace, the which is the contentation of our minde and peace of conscience: for which euery man ought to labour all his life; but at his death especially, that comfortably departing he may sing with old Simeon, Lord now lettest &c.

I know many men haue died discontent and raving, without any sentiment of this comfortable peace, to mans imagination, and yet notwithstanding were doubtlesse Gods elect children. For, as <sup>t</sup> Augustine, many workes of God concerning our saluation are done in, and by their contraries. In the creation, all things were made, not of something, but of nothing, cleare contrary to the course of nature. In the worke of redemption, he doth giue life, not by life, but by death, and that a most accursed death. Optimum fecit instrumentum vita, quod erat pessimum mortis genus. In our effectuall vocation; he calls vs by the Gospell, <sup>a</sup> vnto the Iewes a stumbling block, vnto the world meere foolishnesse, in reason more likely to driue men from God, than to winne and wooe men to God. And when it his pleasure that any should depend vpon his goodnesse and prouidence, he makes them feele his anger, and to be nothing in themselves, that they may relie altogether vpon him. And thus happily the child of God, through <sup>x</sup> many tribulations, and, to our thinking, through the gulfe of desperation, enters into the kingdome of heauen. The loue of God is like a Sea, into which when a man is cast, he neither seeth banke, nor feeleth bottome;

<sup>z</sup> De doctrina Christiana, lib. 1. cap. 14.

For there is a two-fold presence of God in his children: } 1. Felt and perceiued.
} 2. Secret and vnknowne.

Sometime God is not only present with his elect, but also makes them sensibly perceiue it, as Simeon here did: and therefore his mourning was turned into mirth, and his sobs into songs.

Againe, sometime God is present but not felt: and this secret presence sustaines vs in all our troubles and temptations: it entertaineth life in our soules, when as to our iudgement we are altogether dead, as there is life in trees when they haue cast their leaues. And therefore let no man bee dismayed, howsoeuer dismayed: for God doth neuer leaue those, whom he doth loue: but his comfortable Spirit is a secret friend, and often doth vs most good, when we least perceiue it, Esay 41. 10. &c. 47. 2.

According to thy word] If God promise, we may presume, γ for he is not like man, that he should lie: neither as the sonne of man, that he should repent. This should teach vs to be holy, <sup>z</sup> as God our Father is holy, <sup>a</sup> being followers of him as deare children. As he doth euer keepe his word with vs; so let vs euer keepe our oathes and promises one with another. It is well obserued; that equivocation and lying is a kinde of unchastitie: for the mouth and minde are coupled together in holy marriage: Mat h. 12. 34. Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. And therefore when the tongue doth speake that which the heart neuer thought, our speech is conceiued in adulterie, and he that breeds such bastard children, offends not onely against charitie, but also against chastitie.

Men say they must lie sometime for aduantage; but it is a good conclusion both in religion, and common experience, that Honestie is the best policie, and Truth the onely durable armour of prooffe. The shortest way commonly, the foulest, the fairer way not much about. <sup>b</sup> Lord who shall dwell in thy Tabernacle? or who shall rest vpon thine holy Hill? Euen he that speaketh the truth from his heart, hee that useth no deceit in his tongue, he that sweareth vnto his neighbour, and disappointeth him not.

For mine eyes haue seene thy saluation] I haue seene the Messias, in whom, and by whom thy saluation is wrought and brought vnto vs. As Simeon saw Christs humanitie with the eyes of his bodie: so he saw Christs diuinitie long before with the piercing eye of faith. He knew that the little babe which hee lulled in his armes was the great God, whom the heauen of heauens could not containe: and therefore beleeuing in the Lord of life, he was not afraid of death: but instantly breaks forth into this sweet song, Lord now lettest thou thy seruant depart in peace, for mine eyes haue, &c.

Death is vnwelcome to carnall men, as <sup>c</sup> Aristotle said, Of all terribles the most terrible. <sup>d</sup> They cry out vpon the miseries of life, and yet when death cometh, they doe as little children, who all the day complaine, but when the medicine is brought them, are nothing sicke: as they who all the weeke runne vp and downe the house with paine of the teeth, and seeing the Barber come to pull them out, feele no more torment: as tender bodies in a pricking Plurisse call, and cannot stay for a Surgeon, and yet when they see him whetting his lancer to cut the throat of the disease, pull in their armes and hide them in the bed.

<sup>a</sup> 1 Cor. 2. 23.

<sup>x</sup> Acts 14. 22.

According to thy word.

<sup>γ</sup> Num. 23. 19.

<sup>z</sup> Leuit. 19. 2.

<sup>a</sup> Ephes. 5. 1.

<sup>b</sup> Psal 15.

The reason why Simeon was willing to die.

<sup>c</sup> Arist. Ethic. lib. 3. cap 9.

<sup>d</sup> Philip Morney Treat. of life and death.

° Ephes 4. 8.
 † 1 Cor 15. 54.
 § Luke 23. 43.
 h Acts 7. 56.

And the true reason hereof is want of faith, because they doe not vnfaignedly beleue that Christ Iesus ° hath led captiuitie captiue, † that he hath swallowed up death in victorie by his death, and opened vnto vs the gates of eternall life. § The blessed theefe vpon the Crosse died ioyfully, because he saw Christ, and beleued also that he should passe from a place of paine to a paradise of pleasure. h Saint Stephen died ioyfully, because he saw the heauens open, and Christ standing at the right hand of the Father. Here Simeon departed ioyfully, because his eyes saw the saluation of the Lord.

As there are two degrees of faith, so two sorts of Christians; one weake, another strong. The weake Christian is willing to liue, and patient to die: but the strong patient to liue, and willing to die.

That a man may depart in peace, two things are requisite:

1. Preparation before death.
2. A right disposition at death.

i 1 Cor. 15. 56.

k Psal. 32. 1.

Both which are procured only by faith in Christ. If a man were to fight hand to hand with a mightie Dragon, in such wise that either he must kill or be killed, his best course were to bereaue him of his poyson and sting. Death is a Serpent, and the sting, wherewith he woundeth vs, is sinne: so saith i S. Paul, The sting of death is sinne. Now the true beleuer vnderstands and knowes assuredly that Christ Iesus hath satisfied the law, and then if no law, no sinne: and if no sinne, death hath no sting: well may death hisse, but it cannot hurt: k when our vnrighteousnesse is forgouen, and sinne coured, Christ both in life and death is aduantage, Philip. 1. 21.

l Numb. 21. 9.

m 1 Cor. 11. 30

n Job 19. 25.

o 1 Cor. 15. 54.

Faith also procureth a right disposition and behaiour at death: for euen as when the children of Israell in the wilderness were stung with fierie Serpents, and lay at the point of death, l they looked vp to the Brasen Serpent, erected by Moses according to Gods appointment, and were presently cured: so when any feeble death draw neere with his fierie sting, to pierce the heart, they must fixe the eye of a true faith vpon Christ exalted on the Crosse, beholding death not in the glasse of the Law, which giueth death an vglie face: but in the Gospels glasse, setting forth death, not as death, but as a m sleepe only. Faith is the speare which killeth our last enemie: for when a man is sure that his n redeemer liueth, and that this ° corruptible shall put on incorruption, and this mortall immortalitie; well may he sing with old Simeon, Lord now lettest thou thy seruant depart in peace: and triumph over the graue with Paul, O death where is thy sting! O hell where is thy victorie! The sting of death is sinne, the strength of sinne is the law, but thanks be giuen vnto God, which giueth vs victorie through our Lord Iesus Christ. And thus much of the reason, why Simeon was not afraid of death; namely, for that he did hold in his armes, and behold with his eyes, the Lord Christ, p who is the resurrection and the life; he could say with a true heart vnto God, q thou art my God: and his soule did heare God saying vnto him by his word, r I am thy saluation.

p Iohn 11. 25.

q Psalm. 31. 16

r Psal. 55. 3.

Which thou hast prepared before the face of all people] The second part of this Hymne, concerning the generall good our Sauour brought to the whole world.

Wherein two points are to be noted especially: { 1. What are his benefits.
 2. To whom they belong.

† Acts 4. 12.

‡ Ioh. 1. 9. &
 8. 12.

§ Baruch. 1. 15.

¶ Psal. 111. 4.

The benefits are saluation, light, and glory. So that the world without Christ, lieth in damnation, darknesse, and shame. Iesus is a Sauour, † neither is there saluation in any other: he is the ‡ light of the world, and sunne of righteousnesse, without whom all men sit in darknesse, and in the shadow of death, as Zacharias in his song: he is our glory, without whom nothing belongs vnto vs but ¶ confusion and shame. These benefits are so great, that they ought to be had in a § perpetuall remembrance. Christ himselfe commanded his last Supper to be reiterated often, and the Church enioyneth this Hymne to be sung daily, in a thankfull memoriall hereof.

But vnto whom appertaine these benefits? Vnto all. So saith the text, which thou hast prepared before the face of all people. y The Lord hath made bare his holy arme in the fight of all the Gentiles, and all the ends of the earth shall see the saluation of our God. Christ is set vp as a <sup>z</sup> signe to the people, and happily for this cause, among other, he was borne in a <sup>a</sup> common Inne, frequented by men of all sorts: and the first newes of the Gospell was preached in open fields, Luk. 2. as prepared before the face of all people.

y Esay 52.10.

z Esay 11.10.

a Luke 2.7.

But here we must obserue, that albeit saluation pertaines to all, yet all pertaine not to it: none pertaine to it, but such as take benefit by it: and none take benefit by it, no more than by the brazen Serpent, but they who fixet their eyes on it. If we desire saluation, light, and glory, we must (as old Simeon) embrace Christ ioyfully, and hold him in our armes of faith stedfastly.

To be a light to lighten the Gentiles. ] If any shall demand why Simeon here calls Christ the light of the Gentiles, and glory of the Iewes, rather than the glory of the Gentiles, and light of the Iewes:

Answer is made that there is a two-fold darknesse: } Sinne.
 } Ignorance.

Sinne is called in holy Scriptures a worke of darknesse, for diuers respects:

1. Because it is committed against God, <sup>b</sup> who is light, through the suggestion of Satan, <sup>c</sup> who is the prince of darknesse.

b 1 Epist. Ioh. 1.5.

c Ephes. 6.12.

e 1 Thess. 5.7.

2. Because sinne for the most part is committed in the darke: <sup>e</sup> They that sleepe, sleepe in the night, and they that are drunken, are drunken in the night.

3. Because sinne deserueth eternall darknesse: <sup>f</sup> Cast that unprofitable seruant into viter darknesse.

f Matth. 25.30.

4. Because sinne is committed especially through the darknesse of vnderstanding: for Satan vsually blindeth our eyes of reason, and religion, and makes sinne appeare not in it owne name and nature, but vnder the name and habit of vertue.

Now in regard of this kinde of darknes, Christ was a light to the Iewes, as well as to the Gentiles: Esay 60.1. Arise O Ierusalem, be bright, for thy light is come. Ioh. 1.9. Christ doth lighten euery man that commeth into the world.

The second kinde of darknesse is Ignorance: the light of the bodie is the eye, so the eye of the soule is the vnderstanding: and therefore as Christ saith, if the light that is in thee be darknesse, how great is that darknesse? The Iewes in this respect were not in such darknesse as the Gentiles; hauing the Law, the Prophets, the sacrifices and exercises of holy religion: In Iurie was God knowne, his name great in Israel, at Salem was his Tabernacle, his dwelling in Zion: whereas the <sup>g</sup> Gentiles were strangers and aliens from the covenants of promise, without hope, without God in the world: but now Christ <sup>h</sup> the light of the Gentiles, yea of the whole world, hath broken downe the partition wall, and made of <sup>i</sup> both, one; all people, Gods people. For as the <sup>k</sup> naturali Sunne shineth indifferently vpon the good and euill: so the <sup>l</sup> Sunne of righteousness sheweth his glorious fauing light before the face of all people; to lighten and open our eyes, that we may turne from darknesse to light, from the power of Satan vnto God, Acts 26.18 g Ephes. 2.12.

h Esay 42.6.

i Ephes. 2.14.

k Matth. 5.45.

l Malach. 4.2.

Howsoeuer Christ be the light of all people, yet (as it followeth) he is The glory of his people Israel, vnto whom pertained the <sup>m</sup> adoption, and the glory, and the covenants. He was promised vnto them, borne of them, bred vp with them, he liued, preached, acted his great wonders among them: in all which respects, he may be fitly called Israels glory.

m Rom. 9.4.

Hence we may learne, first, that the Gospell is the greatest honour of a State.

Secondly, that all our glory depends on Christ our head, who is the King of glory.

Thirdly, that a good man, especially a good Preacher, is a great ornament to the Country wherein he liueth: Athanasius is <sup>n</sup> called the eye of his times; <sup>o</sup> Albinus, Englands Librarie; <sup>p</sup> Melancthon, the Phenix of Germanie; Christ, the glory of Israel.

n Nazianzen ad Hevonen.

o Baronius An. tom. 9. fol. 338.

p Bucanus praefat. loc. com.

Deus misereatur.

<sup>q</sup> Augustin. Hieron. Hilar. Euthym. &c.
<sup>r</sup> Hieron. Euthym. laterlincarus gloss.
<sup>s</sup> Bellarm. Cat. cap. 3.

<sup>e</sup> Euthymius in locum.

THE paralell of Nunc dimittis is the 67. Psalm, being a <sup>q</sup> prophetic of Christ, who is the <sup>r</sup> countenance of God, Heb. 1. 3. Coloss. 1. 15. For, <sup>e</sup> even as when one lookes in a glasse, presently he produceth an image of himselfe, so like, as no difference can be found, in so much as it is not onely like in shape, but in mouing also, yet made without instruments in a moment, with one looke only: so God the Father beholding himselfe in the glasse of his Diuinitie, doth produce a countenance most like himselfe. And because hee hath giuen vnto this Image all his owne being, (which we cannot in beholding our selues in a glasse) therefore that image is the true Sonne of God, very God of very God. Whereas the Psalmist therefore; Shew the light of thy countenance: Simeon, Mine eyes haue seene thy saluation. The Psalmist; That thy waies may be knowne vpon earth, thy saning health among all nations: Simeon, Thou hast prepared saluation before the face of all people. The Psalmist; Let the people praise thee, that is, the <sup>r</sup> Iewes, let all the people, that is, the Gentiles: O let the nations reioyce and be glad, &c. Simeon, A light to lighten the Gentiles, and to be the glory of thy people Israel.

In the whole Psalm two } Affectus: A request of the Church in the 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. verses. points are specially regardable, } Effectus: A grant of God in the 6, 7. verses.

Our selues } Generally, God be mercifull vnto vs and blesse vs.
 in the 1. } Specially, Shew vs the light of thy countenance.
 Other, in the 2, 3, 4.
 Petitions for } Repetitions, God be mercifull vnto vs. And againe, Be mercifull vnto vs: let the people, &c. And againe, Let the people, let all the people praise thee.

<sup>a</sup> 2 Cor. 1. 3.
<sup>x</sup> Augustin. in Psal. 58.

<sup>v</sup> Hilar. & Felinus in loc.

<sup>z</sup> Musculus in locum.

<sup>a</sup> Augustin. in locum.
<sup>b</sup> Gloss. ordinar. in locum.

<sup>c</sup> Philip. 2. 8.
<sup>d</sup> John 17. 3.

God be mercifull] He is the <sup>u</sup> Father of mercies: Ergo, we must flie to him for mercy. Deus meus misericordia mea, saith Dauid in the 59. Psalm. <sup>x</sup> Si dicas salus mea, intelligo quia dat salutem: si dicas refugium meum, intelligo quia confugio ad eum: si dicas fortitudo mea, intelligo quia dat fortitudinem. Misericordia mea, quid est? totum quicquid sum, de misericordia tua est. And therefore seeing Gods mercy is the fountaine of all goodnesse, we must first desire him to be mercifull, and then to blesse vs, hee that hath enough mercy, shall neuer want any blessing. <sup>z</sup> The word originall signifieth rather fauour than pitie; because pitie is shewed onely in aduersitie, not in prosperitie: whereas fauour in both. And therefore the vulgar Latine, Deus misereatur, happily not so sufficient, as Deus faueat: Be fauourable O Lord, and so mercifull as to blesse vs: that is, not onely to deliuer vs from euill, but also to giue whatsoeuer is good. In more particular, Shew vs the light of thy countenance] <sup>a</sup> Euery man doth desire blessing, but the good man only this blessing: <sup>b</sup> all other are blessings of the left hand, common to the wicked with the godly; but this is a blessing of the right hand, which only belongs vnto Gods elect.

God lookes on the reprobate like an angry Iudge with a cloudie countenance: but beholds all his adopted children in Christ as a mercifull Father, with a gracious aspect. Shew vs thy countenance, that is, indue vs with true knowledge of thy word, and a liuely faith in thy Sonne, which is thine owne image and countenance, where we may learne to confesse with <sup>c</sup> Paul, that all other things are but losse, in comparison of the superexcellēt knowledge of Christ Iesus: <sup>d</sup> for it is eternall life to know God, and whom he hath sent Iesus Christ.

That thy way may be knowne] As light, so the participation of Gods light is communicatiue: we must not pray for our selues alone, but for all other, that Gods

Gods way may be knowne vpon earth, and his sauing health among all nations, Thy way, that is, thy will, thy word, thy workes. <sup>c</sup> Gods will must bee knowne on earth, that it may be done on earth, as it is in heauen. Except we know our Masters will, how shall we doe it? Ergo, first pray with Dauid here: Let thy way be knowne vpon earth: and then, let all the people praise thee. Gods will is reuealed in his word, and his word is his <sup>f</sup> way wherein wee must walke, turning neither to the right hand nor to the left. Or thy way, & that is, thy workes, as Dauid elsew here, Psalme. 25. 9. All the waies of the Lord are mercy and truth.<sup>h</sup> Or as other most fitly, Thy way, that is, thy Christ, Thy sauing health, that is, thy Iesus: for I am the way, saith our Sauiour: John 14. 6. No man cometh to the Father but by me: wherefore let thy Sonne be knowne vpon earth, thy Iesus among all nations.

At this time God was knowne in Inrie, but (saith Hierome) Gods way was vnknowne, his Sonne was not as yet manifested in the flesh: this (as <sup>i</sup> Paul speakes) was his wisdom: but now reuealed, as S. Iohn in his first <sup>k</sup> epistle, We haue heard, we haue seene with our eyes, and our hands haue handled of the word of life. Blessed eyes, happy eares: for <sup>l</sup> I tell you many Prophets and Kings haue desired to see the things which you see, and haue not seene them, and to heare the things which you heare, and haue not heard them.

Let the people praise thee. <sup>m</sup> Marke the sweet order of the blessed spirit: first mercy, then knowledge; last of all praising of God. We cannot see his countenance, except he be mercifull vnto vs: and wee cannot praise him, except his way be knowne vpon earth: his mercy breeds knowledge, his knowledge praise. We must praise God, alway for all things, Ephes. 5. 20. but especially for his sauing health among all nations. And this is the true reason why the Church in her Liturgie doth vse so many Hymnes, and giue so much thanks vnto God for the redemption of the world. Wherein assuredly she did imitate the blessed Apostles in composing the Creed, the greatest part whereof (as hath beene noted) is spent in the doctrine which concerneth our Sauiour Christ.

Let all the people. <sup>n</sup> Some mislike the Let any, for that it bath a petition for all men and all people: yet we haue both a precept, and a precedent out of Gods owne booke, the Commandement is, 1. Tim 2. I exhort that first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giuing of thanks be made for all men. The practise of Gods Church is apparant in this place, let the people, let all the people, which the Psalmographer vttered from the spirit of God, as the mouth of God, and therefore let men construe the Church, as the Scripture, when as the Church doth speake Scripture, lest they wipe out of the Bible many good lessons, (as <sup>o</sup> Tertullian said of Marcion) if not with a sponge, yet with a peeuish and ouerthwart interpretation. And here let the Nonelist also remember, that both our <sup>o</sup> English reformers, and the Churches of Scotland, vse the same petition for all men in their prayers after the Sermon.

O let the nations reioyce and be glad. <sup>p</sup> It is obserued to good purpose, that this clause is inserted fitly betweene that doubled exclamation, Let the people praise thee: because none can praise God well except they do it heartily with ioy and gladnesse. For as the Lord loues a <sup>q</sup> cheerefull giuer, so likewise a cheerefull <sup>r</sup> thanksgiuer. <sup>r</sup> God is terrible to the wicked, but a God of gladnesse to such as haue seene the light of his countenance: for being reconciled vnto God, they haue such inward ioy and peace, <sup>t</sup> that it passeth all vnderstanding.

For Ihsu shalt iudge the folke righteously. <sup>u</sup> The Psalmist heere may seeme to contradict himselfe: for if mercy make men reioyce, then iudgement occasioneth men to tremble. Answer is made, that all such as haue knowne the waies of the Lord, and reioyce in the strength of his saluation, all such as haue the pardon of their sinnes assured, and sealed, feare not that dreadfull assise, because they know the Iudge is their aduocate. Or, (as Hierome) let all nations reioyce, because God doth iudge righteously, being the God of the

<sup>c</sup> Hieron. in luc

<sup>f</sup> Deut. 5. 32, 33

<sup>g</sup> Felinus in loc.

<sup>h</sup> August. H. e. son. Hilar.

<sup>i</sup> 1 Cor. 2. 7.

<sup>k</sup> Chap. 4. ver. 1.

<sup>l</sup> Luke 10. 24.

<sup>m</sup> Musculus in lucan.

The reason why the Church doth vse so many Euangelicall Hymnes in our Liturgie

<sup>n</sup> Lib. 5. aduers. Marcion. Si non sponsia, lingua tamen & per uersa interpretatione.

<sup>o</sup> Booke of the forme of common prayer, imprinted at Mrdaleburg.

1586.

<sup>p</sup> Caluin. in loc.

<sup>q</sup> 2 Cor. 9. 7.

<sup>r</sup> Psal 81. 1.

<sup>s</sup> Musculus in locum.

<sup>t</sup> Philip 4. 7.

<sup>a</sup> Hieron. Calu. Felinus.

<sup>x</sup> Acts 14. 16.

<sup>r</sup> Cicero de naturâ deorum lib. 2.

<sup>z</sup> Psal. 94. 8.

<sup>a</sup> Au. ust ep. 111

<sup>b</sup> Epist. 41.

Lucilio.

<sup>c</sup> Master Perkins Treat how to apply Gods Word, Secl. 10.

<sup>d</sup> Psal. 56. 14.

<sup>e</sup> Psal. 144. 13.

<sup>f</sup> Joel 1. 12.

<sup>g</sup> Psal. 129. 7.

<sup>b</sup> Euthymius & Genebrard. in locum.

<sup>i</sup> Augustin. in locum.

<sup>k</sup> Musculus in locum.

<sup>l</sup> Hieron. Euthymius, &c.

<sup>m</sup> Lyra Genebrard. Tittelman, &c.

* Galatin de arcanis lib. 2. cap 1

<sup>n</sup> Esay 53. 4.

<sup>o</sup> 1 Pet. 2. 24.

<sup>p</sup> 1 EP. Ioh. 2. 2

<sup>q</sup> Ephes. 2. 14.

the Gentiles, as well as of the Jewes, Acts 10. 34. <sup>u</sup> Or, let all nations reioyce, because God doth governe all nations; that whereas <sup>x</sup> heretofore they wandred in the fond imaginations of their owne hearts, in wry waies, in by-waies; now they are directed by the Spirit of truth to walke in Gods high way which leads vnto the celestiall Ierusalem: now they shall know Christ the way, the truth, and the life. For iudging, is vsed often for ruling: 1 Sam. 7. 15. 2 Cor. 1. 10. So Dauid here doth expound himselfe, thou shalt iudge: that is, thou shalt governe the nations.

Vpon earth.] Not excluding things aboue, but openly meeting with their impiety, who thinke God careth not for the things below: for <sup>y</sup> Epicurus in old time so taught, and Epicures in our time so liue, as if Almighty God did not marke what were done well or ill vpon earth. <sup>o</sup> O ye fooles when will ye understand? Hee that planted the care, shall he not heare? or he that made the eye, shall he not see? <sup>a</sup> Totus oculus est, quia omnia videt: totus manus est, quia omnia operatur: totus pes est, quia vbique est, as <sup>b</sup> Seneca like a Diuine: Propè à te est Deus, tecum est, intus est. Ita dico Lucili, sacer intra nos spiritus sedet, malorum bonorumque obseruator & custos.

Let the people.] This, and other manifest repetitions in this Psalm, may serue for a warrant to iustifie the repetitions in our Liturgie: but I will answer the Novelist in the words of Paul, Rom. 2. In that thou blamest another, thou condemnest thyselfe, for thou that iudgest, doest the same thing.

The reformers in one of their praies after the Sermon, vse repetition, and that of the Lords prayer, and in such sort, that within a very narrow roome it is first expounded paraphrastically, then againe reiterated euery word particularly. So likewise the Scottish Church in the ministracion of Baptisme doth inioyne that the Creed be repeated twice. First the father, or in his absence the Godfather proponds it, and then instantly the Minister expounds it. Wherefore that worthy <sup>c</sup> Diuine most truly, there is in England a schismaticall and vndiscreet company, that would sceme to crie out for discipline, their whole talke is of it, and yet they neither know it, nor will be reformed by it.

Then shall the earth.] Literally, the earth which was cursed for mans sinne, shall through Gods blessing giue her increase: <sup>d</sup> The walkes shall stand thicke with corne, and our <sup>e</sup> garners shall be full with all manner of store. So that if the <sup>f</sup> vine be dried vp, or the figge tree decayed, if our corne be blasted, or graine so thin, that the <sup>g</sup> mower cannot fill his hands, nor he that bindeth vp the sheaves, his besome: we must remember it is for our vnthankfulnesse and sinne. For if all the people praise the Lord, then shall the earth bring forth her increase. See the two first Chapters of Joel.

In a mysticall sense: Mary <sup>h</sup> shall bring forth Christ; <sup>i</sup> or, the blessed Apostles by preaching in all corners of the world shall bring forth increase to God, a great haruest. This prophecie was fulfilled, Acts 2. when S. Peter in one sermon conuerted about three thousand soules. <sup>k</sup> Or, earth, that is, all men on earth shall bring forth fruit vnto God, when as they shall know him, and praise him. Let the people &c. let all the people praise, then shall the earth bring forth increase.

God euen our owne God.] Out of this sentence the <sup>l</sup> Fathers, and <sup>m</sup> other Interpreters obserue generally the Trinitie and Vnitie of God: the Trinitie in the threefold repetition of the word God, Vnitie in the pronoune him, all the ends of the world shall feare him, in the singular: not them, in the plurall. It is very remarkable, that Christ the second person is called <sup>n</sup> our God: God, euen our God, as being ours in many respects, as hauing taken vpon him our flesh, liuing among vs, and at length alsq dying for vs. Immanuel, God with vs, Esay 7. 14. Matth. 1. 23. He bare <sup>n</sup> our infirmities, and answered for our <sup>o</sup> iniquities, our <sup>p</sup> reconciliation, and our <sup>q</sup> peace, through whom and in whom God is ours, and we are his: Can. 6. 2.

All the ends of the world shall feare him.] In the 4. vers. Dauid desired earnestly that that all Nations might be glad; and reioyce : now that they may feare : teaching vs hereby to serue the Lord in feare, and to reioyce vnto him with reuerence: Pſ. 2. 11. So to feare him, as to serue him with gladnesse : and so to reioyce in him, as to worke out our saluation in feare and trembling : without ioy we shall despaire, without feare pretume.

The feare of God (as Salomon speakes) is the beginning of wisdome, not only principium, but præcipuum: not only primum, but primarium: and therefore as it is called the beginning of wisdome, Prou. 1. 7. so likewise the end of all: Ecclesiastes 12. 13. Let vs heare the end of all, feare God, and keepe his commandements.

This feare is not slavish, a distractiue and destructiue feare, which ouerthroweth our assurance of faith, and spirituall comfort : for such a feare God forbids, Esay 35. 4. Luke 12. 34. but it is a small and awfull regarding feare, Terrens à malo, tenens in bono: being an inseparable companion of a liuely faith, and therefore commanded in Gods Word, and commended in his seruants : old Simeon a iust man, and one that feared God : Cornelius a deuout man, and one that feared God : Job a iust man, and one that feared God : and here God is said to blesse the Church, in that all the ends of the world shall feare him.

Pſal. 100. 1.

Philip. 2. 12.

Luke 2. 25.

Acts 10. 2.

Job 1. 1.

Quicumque vult.

THE learned Athanasian Creed consists of two speciall parts, vnfolding fully the two chiefe secrets of holy beleefe : namely,

The { Vnitie and Trinitie of God.
Inearnation and passion of Christ.

The which are called the principall mysteries of our faith, because in the former is contained the first beginning and last end of man : in the second, the onely and most effectuall meane to know the first beginning, and how to attaine vnto the last end. So that Athanasius hath comprehended in a very narrow roome both the beginning, and middle, and end of all our felicitie. For this happily called, the worlds eye, because he did see so much, and pierce so farre into these vnsearchable and ineffable mysteries.

And as this excellent Confession is a key of beleefe ; so the Letanie following, is as a common treasure house of all good deuotion. It may be said of the Church in composing that exquisite prayer, as it was of Origen, writing vpon the Canticles: In ceteris alios omnes vicit, in hoc seipsum. In other parts of our Liturgie she surpasseth all other : but in this her selfe.

Letanie.

These points (I confesse) come not now within the compasse of my walke : but I purpose pro nosse & posse to iustifie them, and all other portions of our Communion booke in my larger expositions vpon the Gospels and Epistles, as the text shall occasion me iustly. The next eminent Scripture to be considered in this Tract, is the Decalogue, recorded Exod. 20. 1.

The Decalogue.

Then God spake all these words, and said, I am the Lord thy God, &c.

THE Law was imprinted at the first in mans heart, the which is acknowledged euen by prophane Poets, as well as diuine Prophets in generall,

Exemplo quodcumq; malo committitur, ipsi

Displicet auctori : prima est hac vltio, quod se

Iudice, nemo nocens absoluitur, improba quamuis

Gratia fallacis pratoris vicerit urnam.

And Seneca notably, Prima & maxima peccantium pœna peccasse : Sinne is the greatest punishment of sinne in particular, (as Melancthon obserues) Heathen authors

Rom. 2. 15.

Inuenal. Satyr. 13.

Epist. 57.

Loc. com. tit. de leg. nature, tom. 1. fol. 186.

authors haue a paterne for euery precept, according to that of Paul, Rom. 2. 14. The Gentiles hauing not the law, are a law vnto themselues.

But when the <sup>c</sup>light of it through custome of sinne began to weare away, it was openly proclaimed vnto the world, engrauen in stone, written in a booke, kept for record in the Church, as a perfect abridgement of all law, setting downe the duties of all men, in all things, for all times.

In it obserue	} Prefaces,	} One, of the Law-writer : God spake all these words, &c.
In the former preface note the	} Matter, all these words.	} First table, concerning our loue to God.

The matter is : these words, that is, these sentences and all these : for almighty God spake not the first Commandement only, nor the second, or third, and left there ; but he spake them all, and therefore the Pope proues himselfe Antigod in leauing out one, and dispensing with many. God gaue so strict a charge to keepe euery one, as any one : but the Vicar of God abounding with vnlmited authority, doth first publish what he list, and then expound them as he list. To leaue them, who thus leaue God, it is our dutie, because God spake them all, to begge of him obedience, and make conscience to keepe them all, as one wirtily, Totus, Tota, Totum : The whole man, The whole law, The whole time of his life.

In the manner, I note first the circumstance of time, when God spake : namely, when all the people were gathered together and sanctified : as appeareth in the former Chapter, then God spake. Whereupon it is well obserued that all men ought to take notice of the law, whether they be Commoners, or Commanders, high or low, none so mighty that is greater, or so meane that is lesse, then a subiect to God and his ordinances : and therefore <sup>d</sup> Martin Luther hath worthily reprehended Antinomian Preachers, who teach that the Law need not be taught in the time of the Gospell. Indeed Christ is the <sup>e</sup>end of the Law : but, as <sup>f</sup> Augustine construes it, finis perficiens, non interficiens : an end not consuming, but consummating ; for, as himselfe said, I came not to destroy the Law, but to teach it, and doe it.

Secondly, we may learne by this circumstance, due preparation when wee come before God either to speake or heare his word. Auzoar vsed to say, that hee neuer gaue purgation, but his heart did shake many dayes before. Let the Physitian of the soule then tremble, to thinke what hurt bad physicke may doe, when it is ministred abruptly, corruptly, without either paines in reading, or reuerence in speaking. Vnto the <sup>h</sup> vngodly said God, Why dost thou preach my Lawes, and takest my Couenant in thy mouth, when as thou hatest to be reformed, and hast cast my words behinde thee ? If hearers of the Law, much more Preachers of the Gospell ought to be thoroughly sanctified. In the Millers hand we lose but our meale : in the Farriers hand but our Mule : in the Lawyers hand but our goods : in the Physitians hand but our life ; but in the hands of a bad Diuine we may lose that which surpasseth all, our soule.

Hearers also being of vncircumcised <sup>i</sup> hearts and eares, ought to fit and prepare themselues, as <sup>k</sup> Moses and <sup>l</sup> Iosua were commanded, in disburdening their minde, when they come to Gods house to heare God speake, not onely from vn-lawfull, but also from all lawfull worldly businesse ; presenting themselues and their soules in the righteousnesse of Christ, a <sup>m</sup> liuing, holy, acceptable sacrifice to God : and it is the dutie both of speaker and hearer to desire the Lord that he would

<sup>c</sup> Albinus quæst. in Genesis, & Tbom. 1. 22. quæst. 94. art. 5.

<sup>d</sup> Loc. com. tit. Antinomi.

<sup>e</sup> Rom. 10. 4.

<sup>f</sup> Contra aduers. legis lib. 2. cap. 7.

<sup>g</sup> Matth. 5. 17.

<sup>h</sup> Psal. 50. 16.

<sup>i</sup> Act. 7. 51.

<sup>k</sup> Exod. 3. 5.

<sup>l</sup> Iosua 5. 15.

<sup>m</sup> Rom. 12. 1.

would forgive our want of preparation, and so to assist vs with his holy Spirit in handling of his holy Word, as that the whole businesse may be transacted for our good, and his glory.

The second circumstance noted in the manner is the person, and that is God: Then God spake these words, in his owne person, attended vpon with millions of glorious Angels, in a flame of fire: so that there is neuer an idle word, but all full of wonderful wisdom: so perfect a law, that it proues it selfe to be Gods law. For the lawes of men, albeit they fill many large volumes, are imperfect; some statutes are added daily, which were not thought vpon before; many repealed, which after experience taught not to be so profitable; but this law continueth the same for euer, comprehending in a few words all perfection of duty to God and man, inioyning whatsoeuer is good, and forbidding whatsoeuer is euill.

God is author of all holy Scripture, but the ten Commandements are his, after a more peculiar sort: first, because himselfe spake them, and said in a sound of words, and a distinct voice, that the people both heard, and vnderstood them: in which sense S. Stephen happily calleth them oracula viua, liuely oracles: not that they did giue life, for Paul sheweth that the Law was the ministration of death; but liuely words, as vttered by liuely voice, not of men or Angels, as other Scripture, but immediately thundred out by God himselfe.

Secondly, because God himselfe wrote them after a more speciall manner: he did vse men and meanes in penning the Gospels and Epistles, and other parts of sacred writ: for holy men of God wrote as they were moued by the spirit of God: (as the Fathers obserue) they were the pens of Gods owne finger: but in setting downe the Decalogue, Gods owne finger was the pen, he made the Tables also wherein they were first written, that there might be nothing in them but onely Gods immediate worke. Since then God had such speciall regard in deliuering the Law, we must hence learne with all humble reuerence to receiue the same. If King Eglon a barbarous tyrant respected Ehud a man of meane qualitie, when he brought a message from the Lord; how much more should we with awfull respect embrace the Decalogue, which God in his owne person vttered? and it should make vs exceeding zealous also (notwithstanding the scoffes of Atheists and carelesse worldlings) in obseruing and maintaining the same. For, what need any feare to defend that which God himselfe spake: and whereof Christ said He that is ashamed of mee, and my words in this world, I will be ashamed of him before my Father in the world to come? As a liuely faith is the best glosse vpon the Gospel: so dutifull obedience is the best Commentary vpon the Law. To conclude with Augustine, Faciemus iubente Imperatore, & non faciemus iubente Creatore?

Yes Lord, speake: for thy seruants heare.

Thus much concerning the first preface. The second is of the Law-giuer: I am the Lord, &c. Containing two sorts of arguments, to proue that he may giue a law; and that his people are bound to keepe it. The first kinde of reason is taken from his essence and greatnesse in himselfe: I am Iehoua. The second from his effects and goodnesse towards Israel,

In { Generall: Thy God.
More speciall: which haue brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.

Now whatsoeuer is said vnto them, is said vnto all. Almighty God is euer the same, which is, which was, and which is to come: who being Iehouah the Lord, made vs of nothing: and therefore we being his creatures, owe obedience to his commands in euery thing; especially seeing he doth not only presse vs with his greatnesse, but allure vs also with his goodnesse: being our God by couenant in holy Baptisme, wherein he took vs for his adopted children, and we tooke him for our heauenly Father: He took vs for his Spouse, we tooke him for our Husband: He took vs for his people, we took him for our God: A sonne therefore

<sup>n</sup> Chron. 2. 30.
18. 19.

<sup>o</sup> Acts 7. 53.
Gal 3. 9.
<sup>r</sup> Exod. 19. 18

<sup>q</sup> Deut. 5. 24.

<sup>r</sup> Acts 7. 38.
<sup>r</sup> 2 Cor 3. 7.

<sup>r</sup> 1 Pet. 1. 21.
<sup>a</sup> Theodoret.
prefat. in Psal.
& Greg. prefat.
in Iob.

<sup>x</sup> Iudges 3. 20.

<sup>r</sup> Mark. 8. 38.

<sup>z</sup> 1 Sam. 3. 10.

* Facit auditores attentos, dociles & beneuolos. Alstedius system. Theolog. lib. 2. cap. 3. sect. 1.

<sup>a</sup> Heb. 13. 8.

<sup>b</sup> Apocal. 4.

<sup>c</sup> Calvin. Instit. li. 2. ca. 8 § 14.

<sup>d</sup> Malac 1. 6.

therefore must honour his father, and a seruant his master. If he be curs and we his, as he doth prouoke vs in bountie, so we must answer him in dutie.

In more speciall, as God brought the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage: so hath hee deliuered vs from the seruitude of Sathan, and sinne, <sup>e</sup> prefigured by that bondage of Egypt, and T' haraoh: that being deliuered out of the hands of all our enemies, wee might serue him in holinesse and righteousnesse all the daies of our life.

<sup>a</sup> Caluin. ubi supra. §. 15.

<sup>f</sup> Ezech. 20. 7.

<sup>f</sup> Egypt was a country giuen exceedingly to superstition and idolatry, worshipping the most base creatures, as Rats, Onions, and Garlike: so that to liue in such a place was very dangerous to the soule: and bondage to natures ingenuous, is an estate of all other most grieuous to the bodie. Deliuerance then out of both, as benefits in their owne nature very great, and in memory most fresh, were good motiues vnto regardfull obedience.

The Lord hath done so, and more then so for vs, he hath freed vs from the Romish Egypt, and Spanish bondage, with lesse difficultie and more ease: for we are translated out of Babel and Egypt, without any trauell or iourney. Rome is swept away from England, and Ierusalem is brought home to our doores. If arguments drawne either from Gods infinite might or mercy ought to preuaile; let England shew the greatest obedience: for England hath had the greatest deliuerance.

The Precepts.

Loue is the complement of the Law. <sup>h</sup> Christ therefore reduced all the ten Commandements vnto these two: Thou shalt loue the Lord thy God with all thy heart: and thy neighbour as thy selfe. The which (as <sup>i</sup> Tertullian obserues) is not dispensium, but compendium legis: not a curtalling, but a full abridgement of the whole law. Yet I finde three sundry partitions of the seuerals.

<sup>k</sup> Iosephus and <sup>l</sup> Philo part them equally, making five Commandements in each Table: the curious and learned may peruse Sixtus Senensis Bibliothec. sanct. lib. 2. pag. & Gallasius annot. in Ireni lib. 2. cap. 59.

Lombard out of <sup>m</sup> Augustine, and generally the Schoole-men out of <sup>n</sup> Lombard, in honour of the Trinitie, diuide the first Table into three Commandements, and the second into seuen.

But all our new writers, and most of the old Doctors, ascribe foure to the first, sixe to the second: among the Hebrewes, <sup>o</sup> Aben Esra: the Greekes, <sup>p</sup> Athanasius, <sup>q</sup> Origen, <sup>r</sup> Chrysostome: the Latines, Hierome, Ambrose in epist. ad Ephesios, cap. 6.

Wherefore being compassed about with such a cloud of witnesses, I follow the Churches order, assigning foure concerning our dutie to God, and sixe touching our duty to man.

The first table then is a lanthorne to guide vs in the worship of God: as <sup>s</sup> some write. The two first commandements concerne God the Father as our Creator: the third, God the Sonne as our Redeemer: the fourth, God the holy Ghost as our Sanctifier. Yet so that we worship the Trinitie in Vnitie, and Vnitie in Trinitie, neither confounding the persons, nor diuiding the substance.

Or as <sup>t</sup> other: the two first Commandements intimate how we must worship God in our heart: the third, how we must worship God in our tongue: the fourth, how we must worship God with both in sanctifying the Sabbath.

Or the first table doth set downe two points especially:
 1. The hauing of the true God for our God, in the first, Thou shalt haue no other Gods but me.
 2. The worshipping of this one God, in the other three.

The first Commandement is obserued in exercising the three theologicall vertues, Faith.
 Hope.
 Charitie.

<sup>b</sup> Rom. 13. 10.

<sup>c</sup> Mat 22. 37.

39.

<sup>d</sup> Lib. 5 contra Marcion.

<sup>k</sup> Antiquit. lib.

3. cap. 6.

<sup>l</sup> Lib de Decalogo.

<sup>m</sup> Quæst. 71. in Exod. & Epist.

119. cap 11.

<sup>n</sup> Lib 3. sent.

dist. 37.

<sup>o</sup> Ramus de religion lib. 2. c. 3.

<sup>p</sup> In Synopsi.

<sup>q</sup> Hom. 8. in

xod.

<sup>r</sup> Hom 48. in

Matth.

<sup>s</sup> Io de Combis compend lib. 5.

cap. 59.

<sup>t</sup> Herman. Colou. Archiepisc. explicat. decalog. vide Alsted. system. Theolog. pag. 123.

He that vnfaignedly belceueth in God, hath God for his God: because he taketh God for the chiefe veritie: and in this vnbeleuers and misbeleuers offend. He that hopeth in God, hath God for his God, in that he takes him for most faithfull, most pittifull, and also most potent; as being assuredly perswaded that hee can, and will helpe him in all his necessitie. And in this they sinne who despaire of the mercies of God, or doe trust more in men, then in God: or so much in men, as in God. He that loueth God aboue all things, hath God for his God, in holding him for the chiefe good: and in this they trespasse who loue any creature more then God, or equall with God, and much more they that hate God: for it is a sound conclusion in Diuinitie; That is our God which wee loue best, and esteeme most.

Concerning the worship of God, note the } Manner: in the 2. Commandement.
 End: in the 3. Commandement.
 Time and place: in the 4. Commandement.

The second doth describe the manner of his worship: Thou shalt not make to thy selfe any graven image, &c. forbiding all strange worship, and inioyning pure worship according to his word: " for to deuise fantasies of God, is as horrible as to say there is no God. And therefore though we should grant, that Images and pictures of God are as it were the Lay-mans Alphabet, and the peoples Almanack: yet forasmuch as these bookes are not imprinted Cum priuilegio, but on the contrary prohibited; it is vnlawfull to learne what God is by them, or to worship God in, or vnder them. And lest any should presume, God hath fenced in this commandement with a very strong reason, I am the Lord, and therefore can punish; aicalous God, and therefore will punish grieuouly such, as giue that honour to another which onely belongs vnto me.

<sup>a</sup> Hilarius in Psalmm 1.

The end of Gods worship is his glory, prouided for in the third Commandement: Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vaine.

The which is done two waies, in our } Workes.
 Words.

In our conuersation: when as our lewd life doth occasion enemies of religion to reuile the Gospell, and * blaspheme God. It is to take Christs name in vaine, when we play the Gentiles vnder the name of Christians; as Paul to <sup>y</sup> Titus: professing God in word, but denying him in our workes. <sup>2</sup> Hoc ipso Christiani deteriores quò meliores esse deberent: <sup>a</sup> Hee that calls on the name of Christ, must depart from iniquitie.

<sup>x</sup> Rom. 2.24.

<sup>y</sup> 1 Titus 16.

<sup>z</sup> Saluianus de gubernatione Dei. lib 4.

<sup>a</sup> 2 Tim. 2.19.

Secondly, we take Gods name in vaine by speech, and that without an oath, or with an oath: without an oath, when we talke of himselfe, his essence, titles, attributes, holy word, wonderfull works, irreuerently and vnworthily without any deuotion, or awfull regard of his excellent Maiestie.

We blaspheme God with an oath, by swearing either } Idlely.
 Falsly.

Weaknesse: when in our ordinary talke, through a <sup>b</sup> custome in sinne, we fill vp our periods with <sup>c</sup> vnecessary oathes.

Wickednesse: as when a wretch in his discontented humour shall binde himselfe with an oath to doe some notable mischiefe. So certaine Iewes, Acts 23. sware that they would neither eat nor drinke till they had killed Paul: or when he shall despightfully swears to vex the good Spirit of God, and to trample the blood of Christ vnder his feet: if cards, or bowels, or dice, runne against him, he will make his tongue to runne so fast against God: or when he doth swears by heauen, or earth, or any other creature, <sup>d</sup> in stead of the Creator.

Idlely out of

<sup>b</sup> Basilicon Doron, lib. 1. pag 17

<sup>c</sup> Matth. 5. 37.

<sup>d</sup> Deut. 6. 13.
 Matth. 5. 34.

An oath is an inuocating of God: he therefore that swears by the light, makes light his god: he that swears by the Masse, doth make that Idoll his god.

<sup>c</sup> 1 ib. 3. sent. dist. 30.
<sup>f</sup> D. verbi A. polloti. serm. 28. tom. 10 fol. 204.

<sup>g</sup> Aulus Gellius lib. 11. cap. 11. & Augustin de mendat. ad Conseri. cap. 11.

<sup>h</sup> Jerem. 4. 2.
<sup>i</sup> August. epist. 154.

A man may forswear himselfe } 1. That which is false, and hee knowes it three waies, as <sup>c</sup> Lombard out of } false.
<sup>f</sup> Augustine: when he doth swear } 2. That which is true, but hee thought it false.
 } 3. That which is false, but he held it true.

The two first kinds are abominable: namely, when a man sweares either that he knowes to be false, or thinks to be false: but the third in the Court of Conscience is no sinne; because it is with forswearing as with lying: Periurie is nothing else but a lie bound with an oath. <sup>g</sup> As then a man may tell an vntruth, and yet not lie: so likewise sweare that which is false, and yet not sweare falsly. <sup>h</sup> Thou shalt sweare in truth, that is, as thou shalt in thy conscience and science thinke to bee true: <sup>i</sup> for doubtlesse it is a lesser offence to sweare by a false God truly, then to sweare by the true God falsly: it is a sinne to lie, but a double sinne to sweare and lie.

The 4. Commandement.

THE fourth Commandement doth set downe the time and place of Gods holy worship: the time expressly, Remember thou keepe holy the Sabbath day: the which insinuates also the place; for God was publicly worshipped in his Sanctuarie, in his Tabernacle, in his Temple. Leuiticus 19 30. Ye shall keepe my Sabbaths, and reuerence my Sanctuaries. The Sabbath (as <sup>k</sup> one calls it) is Gods schoole-day; the Preachers are his Ushers, and the Church is his open schoole-house.

<sup>k</sup> Ramus de re. lig. lib. 2. cap. 6.

This Commandement is hedged in on euery side, lest wee should breake out from obseruing it: with a caueat before, Remember: and two reason. after, one drawne from the equitie of the law: Six daies shalt thou labour. As if God should speake thus, If I permit thee six whole daies to follow thine owne businesse, thou mayest well afford one onely for my seruice: but six daies shalt thou labour and doe all thine owne worke: therefore hallow the seuenth in doing my worke. Six daies shalt thou labour. <sup>l</sup> A permission, or a remission of Gods right, who might challenge all; rather then an absolute commandement. <sup>m</sup> For the Church vpon iust occasion may separate some weeke-daies also, to the seruice of the Lord and rest from labour, Iuel 2. 15. Blow the trumpet in Sion, sanctifie a fast, call a solemn assembly. Daies of publike fasting, for some great iudgement; daies of publique reioycing for some great benefit, are not vnlawfull, but exceeding commendable, yea necessarie. Yet this permission is a <sup>n</sup> commission against idlenes, because euery man must liue by the <sup>o</sup> sweat of his browes, or sweat of his braines: hauing some profession, or occupation, or <sup>p</sup> vocation, wherein he must labour faithfully.

<sup>i</sup> B. Babington & Cal. Cat. Perkins aurca Cat. cap. 23.

<sup>r</sup> Perkins treat. of callings. Gen 3. 19. P 1 Cor. 7. 20

Another argument is taken from the Law-givers example: For in six daies the Lord made heauen and earth, and rested the seuenth day. God requires no more then himselfe performed, his owne practise is a Commentary vpon his law. This may teach all Magistrates, all masters, all superiours who prescribe lawes vnto other, to beccome first an vnprinted law themselves. If the Prince will haue his Court religious, himselfe must be forward in deuotion: if the father will haue his children possesse their <sup>q</sup> vessels in chastitie, then himselfe must not <sup>r</sup> neigh after his neighbours wife. When Sabbath-breakers are rebuked, all their answer is, other, and that the most doe so. If they will follow fashion and example, let them follow the best: Fashion not your selues like the world: but be ye followers of God: who framed the whole world in six daies, and rested the seuenth: hee rested from creating, not governing: from making of new kindes of creatures, not singular things: he is not (as Epicurus imagined) idle, but alway working: Iohn 5. 17. My father worketh hitherto, and I worke.

<sup>q</sup> 1 Sam 21. 5.
<sup>r</sup> Jerem. 5. 8.

<sup>s</sup> Rom. 12. 2.
<sup>t</sup> Ephel 5. 1.

Yet this Commandement is morall in the generall. As for example, wee must keepe one day in the seuen holy to the Lord : wherein wee must doe no manner of worke, which may let the ministerie of Gods Word, and other exercises of pietie. We must leaue to doe our worke, that the Lord may bring forth in vs his worke.

The duties then required on the Lords day be principally two : { Rest.

{ And a sanctification of this rest.

1. Such as will not rest from their ordinary labour, but drine and carry, row and ferry on Sunday.

2. Such as will rest in vngodlinesse, idly spending this holy day in pampering, positing, painting themselves. So that God is more dishonoured, and the deuill better serued vpon Sunday, then on all the daies of the weeke beside.

A double Sabbath, rest from labour, and rest from sinne : for as our Church doth determine, two sorts of people transgresse this Commandement especially :

<sup>k</sup> Vbi supra.

Thou shalt do no manner of work. ] That is, no seruile worke of thine ordinary calling, which may be done the day before, or left well vndone till the day after. But some works are lawfull, namely, such as appertaine to the publique worship of God : as painfull preaching of the sacred word, reading of diuine prayers, administering of the blessed Sacraments, and euery worke subordinate to these: as ringing of bells, and traouelling to Church, Acts 1.12. 2 Kings 4.23.

And workes of } Our selues, as prouision of meat and drinke, Matth. 2.1. mercy toward } Other } Men, our Sauour healed the man with the dried hand on the Sabbath, Mark. 3.5.
} Beasts, in watering, cattle, and helping them out of pound and pit : Luke 14.5.

<sup>l</sup> Perkins vbi supra.

<sup>m</sup> 1 Mac. 2.41.
<sup>n</sup> Eday on the 4. Commandement.

Workes of present necessitie : <sup>1</sup> Physitians on the Lords day may visit their patients, Midwiues helpe women with childe, Shephcards attend their flocke, Mariners their voiage, <sup>m</sup> Souldiers may fight, and <sup>n</sup> messengers ride post for the great good of the Common-wealth.

Workes of honest recreations also, so farre as they may rather helpe then hinder our cheerefull seruing of the Lod. And the reason of all this is giuen by Christ, Mar. 2.27. The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.

Thou ] Thy wife is not named, because she is presumed to be thy selfe : that whatsoeuer is forbidden thy selfe, must also be knowne to be forbidden thy second selfe.

<sup>o</sup> Ester 1.21.

<sup>p</sup> Augustine.

Thy same and thy daughter. ] Euery man is a <sup>o</sup> gouernour in his owne house, and therefore must take charge of such as are vnder him : P Adduc eos ad domum Dei tecum, qui sunt in domo tua tecum ; mater Eccl. sia aliquos à te petit, aliquos repetit ; petit eos quos apud te inuenit, repetit quos per te perdidit.

Thy man seruant. ] This is for { Thy good.
{ Their good.
{ The common good.

Thy good : For he that on Sunday shall learne his dutie, will bee more fit all the weeke to doe his dutie : such as obey God with a good conscience, will serue their master with an vpriight heart, as <sup>q</sup> Iacob serued Laban, and <sup>r</sup> Ioseph Pharaoh.

<sup>q</sup> Gen. 30.27.

<sup>r</sup> Gen 39.5.

<sup>s</sup> Deut. 5.15.

Againe, it is for thy good often to remember with thankfulnessse, that God hath made thee master, and him seruant : whereas he might hane made thee seruant, and him master.

<sup>t</sup> John 17.3.

<sup>u</sup> Ioh. 14.6.

<sup>x</sup> Macrob. saturnal. lib. 1. cap 11. & Ambrosius serm. 33.

For their good : that they may know God, and whom he hath sent Christ Iesus, the way, the truth, and the life. Thy seruants are men of the same mold with thee : Isidem & constant & nutriuntur elementis, eundem spiritum ab eodem principio carpunt, eodem fruuntur caelo, aquè viuunt, aquè moriuntur, serui sunt, imo conserui.

That

That is, in the words of Scripture, Thy seruants are all one with thee in Christ: made of the same God, redeemed with the same price, subiect to the same law, belonging to the same master: Ephes.6.9. Pity then and piety require that thou see them obserue the Lords day, for the good as well of their bodies as soules.

Gal.3. 28.

For the common good: <sup>2</sup> For every man hath iust cause to be ready willing y to labour all the weeke, when as he is assured he shall rest on Sunday.

Caluin.Cat.

Thy cattle.] Hence we may gather much comfort: for if God in his mercy provide for the welfare euen of our brute beasts, of which he hath made vs Lords; he will assuredly much more respect vs his seruants and children: he cannot be carelesse for men, who is so carefull for oxen.

The Commandements are so well knowne, and often expounded, that as <sup>2</sup> Augustine speaks in the like case: Desiderant auditorem magis quam expofitorem. I passe therefore from the first table, containing all dutie to God, vnto the second, teaching all dutie to man: I say to man as the proper immediate object of them. Otherwise these Commandements are done vnto God also: for he that clotheth the naked, and visiteth the sicke, doth it vnto Christ: Matth. 25 40.

Tract. 50. in Iohannem.

The law then concerning our neighbour is partly  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \textit{Affirmatiue}, \textit{ teaching vs to doe him all good:} \\ \textit{Honour thy father and mother, \&c.} \\ \textit{Negatiue}, \textit{ teaching vs to doe him no hurt: Thou} \\ \textit{shalt not kill, \&c.} \end{array} \right.$

This table begins with honour of our father, <sup>b</sup> First, because next vnto God we must honour those who are in the place of God.

Herman expicat. decalog.

Secondly, because the neglect of this one Commandement occasioneth all disorder against the rest: for if superiors gouerne well, and inferiors obey well; how can any man be wronged in word or deed?

<sup>c</sup> Thirdly, because of all neighbours our parents are most neere to vs, as being most bound to them of whom we haue receiued our life. Thy parent is Gods instrument for thy naturall being: thy Prince Gods instrument for thy ciuill being: thy Pastor Gods instrument for thy spiri uall being. Wherefore as thou art a man, thou must honour thy naturall father; as a citizen, honour thy ciuill father; as a Christian, honour thy ecclesiasticall father.

Beilarm. Cat.

Honour imports especially 3. things:  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \textit{Obedience.} \\ \textit{Reuerence.} \\ \textit{Maintenance.} \end{array} \right.$

Obedience, Children obey your parents in all things: Coloss. 3. 20. that is, as Paul doth interpret himselfe, Ephe. 6. 1. in the Lord. In all things agreeable to the will of God: otherwise for Christs loue we must hate father and mother, Luke 14. 26. <sup>d</sup> Hierom notably: Li'et sparsa crine & scissis vestibus vbera quibus te nutruerat mater ostendar, licet in limine pater iaceat, per calcatum perge patrem, sicis oculis ad vexillum crucis euola. The most eminent patternes of obedience to father and mother are the <sup>e</sup> Reckabits, <sup>f</sup> Isaack, <sup>g</sup> Christ: <sup>h</sup> Venerabatur matrem, cuius ipse erat pater, col-bat nutritium quem nutruerat.

De vita Eremi ad Herodorum, tom. 1 fol. 1.

Jerem. 35.

Gen. 22.

Luke 2, 51.

Hieron. epist. de vitando suspecto contubernio tom. 1. fol. 224

Hieron. ubi supra

Seneca de beneficijs lib. 3. 3.

cap. p.

Gen 46 47. 48

cap

1 King 3. 19

Stapleton in eius vita, cap 1.

Iab 29 15.

Tobit. 5. 17.

Reuerence, Bearing them respect in words, and outward behauiour, though they be neuer so meane, and we neuer so mightie. Prouerbs 23. 22. Honour thy father that begat thee, and thy mother that bare thee. As if he should say, Be dutifull vnto thy parents: not because they be rich and in great place, but because they be thy parents, how base soeuer they be. <sup>i</sup> Matrius angustam domum iuricas, cuius tibi non fuit venter angustus? <sup>k</sup> parentes non amare impietas est, non agnoscere insania est. Examples of this vertue, recorded in holy Scriptures are <sup>l</sup> Ioseph and <sup>m</sup> Salomon and in our English Chronicles, Sir <sup>n</sup> Thomas More, who being Lord Chancellor of England, vsually did aske his father blessing in Westminster Hall publicly: the which custome of our nation is good and godly.

Maintenance.] If the parent bee blinde, the childe must bee his <sup>o</sup> eye: if lame, the childe must be his foot; if in any want, the <sup>p</sup> staffe of his decayed age.

¶ John 19. 27.
 * Arist. Ethic.
 lib 9 cap. 2.
 † Lib. 5 cap. 4.

† Aristophanes in aurihus.

¶ Hieron. ubi
 supra.

¶ Thom 1. 24.
 quæst. 26. art.
 12. & Aristot.
 Ethic. lib. 9. c. 7.

So ¶ Christ tooke care for his mother at his death: for it is great reason that children hauing receiued life of their father & mother, should procure to preserue vnto them the same life. Nature doth read this lesson. ¶ Valerius Maximus hath a memorable historie of a young woman who gaue sucke to her mother in prison, and so kept her alieue, who otherwise was adiudged to bee famished. A pious office, so well accepted of the Iudge, that he did both pardon the mother, and prefer the daughter ¶ Aristophanes affirms also, that the young Storke doth feed the old.

There is a dutie required of the parent toward the childe, as well as of the childe toward the parents: yet the law speaketh expressly to the one, and not to the other. That the father being in order of nature and in wisdome superiour, might suspect his dutie to be written in himselfe; father and mother are nomina pietatis, officiorum vocabula, natura vincula. The duty then of superiors is infolded in the word father: a Minister is a father, a Master a father, a Magistrate a father: teaching them to be so well affected to their inferiours, as parents are to their children.

Again: the loue of parents towards their children is so naturall and ordinarie, that there is lesse need to put parents in minde of their dutie. But contrariwise children are not vually so dutifull to their parents (as the * Schoole speakes) Amor descendit, non ascendit, benefactor plus diligit quàm beneficiarius; and therefor it was necessary to admonish them of their loue: neither is God content with a bare precept, but hath adioyned a promise, That thy daies may be long, for there is no reason he should inioy long life, who dishonoureth those of whom he receiued life: but if God shorten the dayes of dutifull children, and in stead of long life giue them euerlasting life; he doth not breake, but keepe his promise: for he doth promise long life, not absolutely, but so farre forth as it is a blessing; that it may be well with thee: and that thou mayest liue long on earth, Ephes. 6. 3.

¶ Io. Combis lib.
 5. cap. 19.
 Aquinas in 13.
 ad Rom. lect. 2.

¶ Rom. 13. 4.
 ¶ Matth. 26. 52.
 ¶ August. cont.
 Fastum. lib. 22.
 cap. 70.

The 6. Commandement.

THE negatine part forbiddeth all euill, and that is committed against our neighbour three waies: In } Thought.
} Word.
} Deed.

But because bad deeds are worse then bad words, and bad words worse then bad thoughts, it pleased the God of order first to forbid bad deeds: Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not commit adulterie, Thou shalt not steale. Then bad words: Thou shalt not beare false witnesse. Last of all, bad thoughts: Thou shalt not couet thy neighbours house, &c.

All our bad deeds against our neighbours concerne his } Life, Thou shalt not kill.
} Honor, Thou shalt not commit adulterie.
} Goods, Thou shalt not steale.

Thou shalt not kill.] To wit, a man: for to kill other liuing things is not forbidden: and the reason is plaine, because they were created for man, and so man is master of their life. But one man was not created for another man, but for God: and therefore not man, but only God is master of our life: for a Magistrate doth not put malefactors to death as master of their life, but as a <sup>2</sup> Minister of God: and so by consequence not murther, but an act of iustice, Such as strike with the sword, shall perish with the sword: <sup>b</sup> that is, such as take the sword vpon their owne authoritie: Dominus iusserat, ut ferrum discipuli ferrent, non ut ferrent. But if God put a sword into their hand, then they may, then they must strike. In a word, killing is vniust, when either it is done without authoritie, or by publike authoritie vpon priuate grudge; non amore iustitie, sed libidine vindictæ. Concerning inward rancour and outward disdain, in deed, word, or gesture, see the Gospell Dom. 6. post Trin.

The seventh Commandement.

IN this Commandent are forbidden <sup>c</sup> all vncchaste lusts, as well burning <sup>d</sup> within, as breaking forth,

Into { Allurements, } Ribald talke : Ephes. 4. 29.
 { Acts of vncleanness. } Wanton lookes : Gen. 6. 2. 39. 7.
 { } Lasciuious attire : Esay 3. 16.

Acts of vnclean- } Committing fil- } A man of the same sex : Rom. 1. 27.
 nesse, vnnaturall : as } chinesse with } A beast : Leuit. 18. 23.
 { } A Denill : as Witches doe by their owne confession.

Naturall, { Adulterie : when both, or one of the parties are married : Deut. 22. 22.
 { Fornication : betweene } Deflouring 'of virgins : Deut. 22. 28.
 { single persons : as } Hunting of common whores : 1 Cor. 10. 8.
 { Incest : with such as be within the degrees of consanguinitie or affinity prohibited in law : Leuit. 18. 6.

Sinne in this kinde is more dangerous, then in another, because a man can hardly repent heartily for it. The murtherer, and swearer, and theefe become many times exceeding sorrowfull after the fact : but the wanton (as <sup>f</sup> Hierome notes) euen in the middelt of his repentance sinneth afresh : the very conceit of his old pleasure doth occasion a new fault : so that when his deuotion ends, hee presently begins to repent that he did repent. Example hereof Augustine, who being in the heat of his youth (as himselfe <sup>g</sup> writes of himselfe) begged of God earnestly the gift of continencie : but, saith he, to tell the truth, I was afraid lest he should heare me too soone : Malebam enim expleri concupiscentiam quam extingui. See the Gospell. Dom. 15. post. Trin.

<sup>c</sup> Lombard, 3. sent. dist. 37. Church hom. against adulteric, part. 1. <sup>d</sup> Matth. 5. 28. 1 Cor. 7. 9.

<sup>e</sup> Paracelsus, in cubi, succubi. Vide Wierum de prestigys demonum lib. 2. cap. 34.

<sup>f</sup> Epist. Amando tom. 3. fol. 135.

<sup>g</sup> Confess. lib. 8. cap. 7.

The eighth Commandement.

THIS ouerthroweth <sup>h</sup> Anabaptisticall and Platonick communitie; for if all things thought to be common, and nothing proper in possession, how can one man steale from another? All lawes of giuing, buying, selling, leasing, letting, lending, are vaine, si teneant omnes omnia, nemo suum.

A man may transgresse this Com- } Too much.
 mandement in being a theefe } Too little.
 { To himselfe, in spending } { To other. }

Too much { Wasting more then he should in gameing, diet, brauery; such are arrant cutpurses vnto themselues.
 { Getting lesse then he should: Ignari & prodigi sunt fures, saith <sup>i</sup> Melancthon.

As a spend-all, so a get-nothing is a theefe to his estate : Pouertie comes vpon him as an armed man : Prouerbs 24. 34. An idle person is pouerties prisoner, if he liue without a calling, pouertie hath a calling to arrest him.

He that spends too little on himselfe, as the conetous wretch, is a robber of himselfe also, <sup>k</sup> Corpus extenuat, vt lucrum extendat : He keeps his belly thin, that his purse may be full, he <sup>l</sup> cannot afford himselfe so much as an egge, lest he should kill a chicke whereas a poore man doth want many things, a rich miser wants euery thing : like Tantalus vp to the chin in water, and yet thirllie. The which (as Salomon calls it) is an euill sicknesse : Eccles. 6. 2.

<sup>h</sup> Melancthon Catechis. tom. 1. fol. 17. & tom. 2 fol. 369.

<sup>i</sup> Tom. 1. fol. 185

<sup>k</sup> Innocentius de vilis. condit. human. lib. 2. cap. 13. <sup>l</sup> Ambros. lib. de Naboth. cap. 4.

▫ Lamberts Perambulatio of Kent, p. 27.

▫ Aeteramii
hist. Belgic. lib.
13 p. 420.
▫ 2 Pet. 2. 14.
▫ In 1. Theff.
ap. 5. hom. 10.
▫ Termes of the Law, p. 97.

▫ B. Babington.
▫ 2 Sam. 15. 6.
▫ 2 Sam. 16.

Openly, which is plaine robbery: so little practised, or so much punished in King <sup>n</sup> Alfreds raigne, that if a man had let fall his purse in the high way, he might with great leisure, and good assurance haue come backe and taken it vp againe.

To other }
Secretly, which is properly called stealing. And this offence is manifold, for there is not only theft of the hand, but of the heart, and tongue.

Couetous greedinesse is theft in heart: for howsoeuer it be a maxime in our Law, <sup>n</sup> Voluntas non reputabitur pro facto, nisi in causa proditiōis: sed exitus in maleficus spectatur, & non voluntas duntaxat; yet it is a breach of this Law, couetously to desire that which is not ours, albeit we seeke not to get it wrongfully. Their hearts, saith <sup>o</sup> Peter, are exercised in couctousnesse: and <sup>p</sup> Chrysostom plainly, The couctous man is a very theefe: fur & latro. The <sup>9</sup> fathers of the law write that theeuers are called felones, of our antient word fell or fierce; because they commit this sinne with a cruell, fell, and mischieuous minde: teaching vs hereby that a felonious intent is a principall in theeuery.

There is also theft of the tongue, by <sup>r</sup> lying, flatterie, smothering, &c. So wee reade that <sup>s</sup> Absalon stole the hearts of the men of Israel, and so false Ziba stole the goods of his master Mephiboseth.

So flatterers and parasites are great theeuers in Court and Countrie: not onely dominorum suorum arrisores, sed etiam arrosores: and therefore let a flatterer be in your Pater noster, but not in your Creed: pray for him, but trust him no more then a theefe.

Frauds in buying and selling are reduced to stealing, because he that vseth such deceits, secretly taketh of his neighbour more then his due: but oppressions and vniust extortions are reduced by Diuines vnto robbérie, because the cruell tyrant exacteth more then his owne manifestly: not to pay debts, is reduced vnto both: vnto robbery, when a man to the great hinderance of his neighbour can and will not: vnto stealing, when he partly will and cannot: I say will partly; for if he desire wholly with all his heart to pay the vtmost farthing, God assuredly will accept of votall restitution, as well as of a stull: and it is not a sinne, though it be a fore.

The ninth Commandement.

Next the prohibition of iniuries in deed, follow the wrongs against our neighbour in word: Thou shalt not beare false witness: and that firstly, because, <sup>n</sup> lying is cofen germane to stealing. <sup>x</sup> Da mihi mendacem, & ego ostendam tibi furem: If thou wilt shew me a liar, I will shew thee a theefe.

This precept condemnes all manner of lying; for albeit one worse then another, yet all are naught. The mouth that speaketh lyes slayeth the soule: Wis. 1. 11. And Psal. 56. Thou shalt destroy them that speake leasing. See Gospell Dom. 15. post Trinit.

Beside lies: euery thing whereby the credit of our neighbour is impaired, especially those three sinnes of the tongue: } Contumely.
Detraction.
Cursing.

A contumely is an iniurious word, spoen with an iniurious minde, to the dishonour of our neighbour: I say with an iniurious intent, otherwise when it is vttered by way of aduice to direct or correct, as a father sometime speaketh to his childe, or a master to his scholler, or a Pastor to his people, as Paul: <sup>2</sup> Ye foolish Galathians: out of some heat, but yet not out of any hate, then it is no contumely or sinne.

Or in merriment, not in malice: (There is a time to a laugh) and so by consequence a time to iest: when a wittie conceit may profit and administer grace to the hearer. He that said the Duke of Guise was the greatest vsurer in France, because ▫ Herman explicit hains precept.

▫ Erasmus com. d. lingua.
▫ Augustin in Psalm 5.

▫ Gal. 3. 1.

▫ Eccles. 3. 4.

cause he turned all his estate into obligations, hereby gaue this honest aduice, that if he should leaue himselfe nothing, but onely haue many followers bound to him for his large gifts, in conclusion he should finde a number of bad debtors. He that called his friend theefe, because he had stolen away his loue, did not wrong, but commend him.

It is lawfull also to iest at the vanities of irreligious men, enemies to God and his Gospell: as <sup>b</sup> Elish did at the foppish idolatry of Baal's Priests. A friend of mine said of an vpstart gallant in Court with a gingling spur, that he had a Church on his backe, and the bells on his heeles.

Euery lay-Papist must beleuee as the Church beleuees, albeit he know not what the Church beleueth: he must also worship the consecrated bread, and yet knoweth not whether it be consecrated or no: <sup>c</sup> for to the consecration of the host, the Priests intention is required, which no man knowes but God, and himselfe. So that if a man tell his dopish acquaintance that he is a blinde buffe, to worship and beleuee he knowes not what, it were no contumelie; because it did proceed out of zeale to God, and loue to him; onely to rectifie his error, and not to vilifie his person.

The second fault reduced to false witness is detraction, in speaking euill of our neighbour: and it is done by reporting that which is false, and sometime by telling that which is true, but secret: whereby the credit of our neighbour is lessened with those, to whom his sinne was not knowne before: for as a man may flatter in absence, namely when either the vertue is absent, or the occasion, and so the praise is not kindly, but forced either in truth, or in time: so likewise a man may slander his neighbour in speaking the truth vnseasonably, without discretion out of time and place. A tale tossed from mouth to mouth increaseth as a snow-ball, which being little at the first, groweth to a great quantitie.

Now the backbiter is bound in reason and religion to restore the good name of his neighbour, which he by detraction hath taken away; and that is exceeding hard, for a mans honest fame is like the Merchants wealth, got in many yeeres, and lost in an hour: Wherefore speake well of all men alwaies, if it may be done with truth: and when it cannot, then be silent: or else interrupt euill detraction with other meet and merry communication, as <sup>d</sup> Sampson at his marriage feast propounded a riddle to his friends, <sup>e</sup> hereby to stop the mouthes of backbiters, and to occupie their wits another way. Bernard excellently, The tale-bearer hath the deuill in his tongue, the receiuer in his eare.

The theefe doth send one onely to the deuill, the adulterer two: but the slanderer burthens three; himselfe, the partie to whom and the partie of whom he telleth the tale. Ter homicida (saith <sup>f</sup> Luther) uno iclu tres occidit: & vnus est qui loquitur, & vnum tantum verbum profert, & tamen illud vnum verbum vno in momento, multitudinis audientium dum aures insicit, animas interficit.

The third fault is malediction: a grieuous <sup>h</sup> offence, when it is spoken with hatred and a desire that such euill come vpon our neighbour: but when it is vttered vpon some suddaine disdain, without regard to that we speake, it is lesse euill, yet for all that alwayes euill: because from the mouth of a Christian, who is the childe of God by adoption, nothing ought to passe but <sup>i</sup> benediction.

<sup>b</sup> 1 King. 18. 27

<sup>c</sup> Con Trident.
sess 7. can. 11.
Bellarmin. de sa- cramentis in ge- neris, cap. 27.

<sup>d</sup> Judges 14. 12
<sup>e</sup> Ambros epist. lib. 9. epist. 70.

<sup>f</sup> Loc. com. tit.
Lingua.
<sup>g</sup> Bernard ser.
24. in Cant.
<sup>h</sup> Coloss. 3. 8.

<sup>i</sup> 1 Pet 3. 9.

The tenth Commandment.

THe former precepts intend thoughts and desires, as well as act and practise: for the Law-giuer is a spirit, and therefore must be worshipped in spirit: yet lest we should pretend ignorance, God in this Commandment giueth especiall order for them. Or as <sup>k</sup> other; The former precept did condemne the settled thought to do mischief: but this, euen the first inclination and motion to sinne, though a man neuer consent, but snib it in the beginning: Rom. 7. 7. Thou shalt not lust or desire.

<sup>k</sup> Melan Ethon,
& Caluin. Cal.

Now we sinne three ways in this kinde :

{	1. By coueting the goods of our neighbour,	} Immoveable : as his land and house. Moueable : as his ox and asse, &c.
	2. By coueting his wife.
	3. By plotting treason, and murther.

To couet his goods is against his profit, which is deare to him : to couet his wife is against his honour, which ought to be more deare : to couet his blood is against his life, which of all worldly things is most deare.

Whereas it is objected, that desire of murther is not forbidden in particular, as the desire of theft and adulterie : for the Commadement saith, Thou shalt not couet thy neighbours house, thou shalt not couet thy neighbour wife : but it is not said, Thou shalt not couet thy neighbours blood. Answer is made, that a man doth not desire any thing principally, but that which bringeth him some <sup>1</sup> good, at least in appearance. And so he desireth adulterie, because it bringeth delight : he desireth theft, for that it bringeth profit : but murther bringeth no good at all : and therefore it is not desired for it selfe, but onely to attaine to theft, or adultery, or some such desigment.

So that God hauing forbidden expressly the disordinat desires of delectation & gaine, consequently forbade desires of murther, which is not coueted but for vnlawfull profit and pleasure. Thus perfect righteoufnesse is fulfilled when wee wrong not our neighbour either in deed, or in word, or desire : but contrariwise doe good vnto all, speake well and thinke charitably of all.

Now the reason why the Church appoints the Decalogue to be read at the Communion, is euident : namely, because the Law is a <sup>m</sup> schoolemaster vnto Christ ; teaching vs to <sup>n</sup> know sin, and by knowing of sinne to know our felues, and knowing our felues to renounce our felues, as of our felues vnable to doe any <sup>o</sup> thing, and so come to Christ, who doth strengthen vs to doe all <sup>p</sup> things. (Almightie God (saith <sup>q</sup> Luther) hath written his Law not so much to forbid offences to come, as to make men acknowledge their sinnes already past, and now present : that beholding themselves in the Lawes glasse, they may discern their owne imperfections, and so flie to Christ, who hath fulfilled the Law, and taken away the sinnes of the whole world.) For (as the <sup>r</sup> reformed Churches of Scotland and Geneva speake) the end of our comming to the Lords Table, is not to make protestation that we are iust, and vpright in our liues : but contrariwise we come to seeke our life and perfection in Iesus Christ : being assuredly perswaded that the Lord requireth on our part no other worthinesse, but vnfaignedly to confesse our vnworthinesse. So that (our enemies being Iudges) it is well ordered that the Commandements are rehearsed in the ministracion of this holy Sacrament. Let the Nonelists here blush, who <sup>t</sup> calumniously censure our Church for omitting in the <sup>t</sup> proeme of the Decalogue one halfe line : when as themselves in their owne Communion Bookes haue left out all the whole Law. This indeed occasioned me to remember an obseruation of <sup>u</sup> Comminicus vpon the battell of Montlechery, that some lost their offices for running away, which were bestowed vpon other that fled ten leagues further. Hypocrite, first cast out the beame out of thine owne eye ; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy bro-te rs eye.

MATTH. 5. 16.

Let your light so shine before men, &c.

THE Lords Supper is called a sacrifice by the learned ancient Doctors in foure respects :

First, because it is a representation and memoriall of Christs sacrifice on the Crosse : 1 Cor. 11. 26. As often as yee shall eat this bread, and drinke this cup, yee

show

<sup>1</sup> Arist Ethic. lib. 1. cap. 1.

<sup>m</sup> Galat. 3. 24.

<sup>n</sup> Rom. 3. 20.

<sup>o</sup> Iohn 15. 5.

<sup>p</sup> Philip. 4. 13.

<sup>q</sup> Tom. 1. fol 1.

<sup>r</sup> Com. Prayer Bookes, tit. Lords Supper.

<sup>t</sup> For it is inserted else where both in the mon Catechis and in the BB. Bible. Exodus 20. 1. Deut 5. 6. <sup>u</sup> Ministers of Deuon. and Cornwall reasons part 1. cap. 26.

<sup>v</sup> Lib. 1. cap. 4.

shew the Lords death vntill he come. So <sup>x</sup> S. Ambrose, Christ is daily sacrificed in the mindes of beleeuers, as vpon an altar: Semel in cruce, quotidie in sacramento, faith y Lombard.

Secondly, because in this action we offer praise and thankes giuing vnto God, for the redemption of the world; and this is the sacrifice of our lips, Heb. 13. 15.

Thirdly, because every Communicant doth offer and present himselfe bodie and soule, a liuing, holy, acceptable sacrifice to the Lord, Rom. 12. 1. The which excels the sacrifices of the Priests in old time; for they did offer dead sacrifices, but we present our selues a <sup>2</sup> liuely sacrifice to God.

Fourthly, because it was a <sup>a</sup> custome in the Primitiue Church at the receiuing of this blessed Sacrament: to giue large contribution vnto the poore, a sacrifice well accepted of God, Heb. 13. 16. Now the Church allowing and following this good old custome, stirres vp the people to giue cheerefully by repeating some one or two choice sentences of Scripture best fitting this occasion, as Matth. 6. 19. Matth. 7. 12. &c.

These kinds of oblation are our Churches offertorie, and vnbloodie sacrifices <sup>b</sup> offered by the whole Congregation vnto the Lord: so farre differing from popish sacrificing, as S. Pauls in London, is from S. Peters in Rome.

<sup>2</sup> Lib. 2. de virgin.
<sup>3</sup> Lib. 4. sent. dist. 12.

<sup>2</sup> 1. Collect after the receiuing of the bread & wine.
<sup>a</sup> Iustin. Martyr. Apolog. 2.

<sup>b</sup> Collect for the whole estate of Christs Church.

I COR. II. 28.

THE summe of the Ministers exhortation before the Communion, is contained in these words of Paul: Let a man therefore examine himselfe, and so let him eat of this bread, and drinke of this cup.

Wherein obserue two points:  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{A preparation, } \textit{Let a man examine, \&c.} \\ \text{A participation, } \textit{and so let him eat, \&c.} \end{array} \right.$

In the first note the  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Parties.} \\ \text{Parts.} \end{array} \right. \left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Examining, a man, that is, euery man.} \\ \text{Examined, himselfe.} \end{array} \right.$

Beza translates, and <sup>c</sup> Erasmus expounds αἰσχροῦ, quisque: so the word is vsed, Iohn 3. 27. A man can receiue nothing except it be giuen him from heauen: and Ioh. 7. 46. Nener man spake like this. A man then in this place signifieth euery man, subiect, Soueraigne, Priest, people. The which obseruation ouerthroweth vtterly <sup>d</sup> Romish implicite faith. Euery lay-man ought to turne Confessor, and examiner, endued with sufficient knowledge for this heauenly businesse: he must looke not onely thorow the spectacles of the Priest, but also see with his owne eyes, able to try himselfe.

Himselfe] For that is the dutie; not another, for that is a fault. We must not be <sup>e</sup> busie Bishops in other mens Diocesses, but meddle with our <sup>f</sup> owne businesse: we must not breake our neighbours head with the Pharisee, but smite our owne breast with the Publican.

<sup>g</sup> S. Augustine complained of men in his time, that they were Curiosi ad cognoscendum vitam alienam, desidiosi ad corrigendam suam: and reuerend <sup>h</sup> Hooker, of men in our time, that their vertue is nothing but to heare gladly the reproofe of others vice: like Taylors, who measure; like Barbars, who cut all other except themselves. But <sup>i</sup> our Sauiour Christ would not haue vs to gaze on the mote in our brothers eye; but rather to pull out the beame in our owne sight. And his Apostle here not to prie into other, but to try our selues; not but that others according to their seuerall charge, must examine other, as Parents must examine their children, Exod. 12. 26, 27. and Masters must examine their household, Gen. 18. 19. and Pastors must examine their Parishioners, as here Paul corrected and directed the Corinthians: and for this cause the names of all Communicants are to bee sent vnto the Minister, that there may bee made tryall of all: yet if Parents,

<sup>c</sup> Paraphras. in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Beza annot. in loc.

<sup>e</sup> 1 Pet 4. 7. 5.
<sup>f</sup> 1 Thess 4. 21.

<sup>g</sup> Confess. lib. 10. cap 3.
<sup>h</sup> Lib. 5. p. 263.

<sup>i</sup> Matth 7. 5. 5.

- Parents, and Masters, and Ministers omit this examination, every one must bee both able and willing to proue himselfe.

The parts of examination are concerning the  $\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Manner.} \\ \text{Matter.} \end{array} \right\}$

For the manner a tryall is to be made  $\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Vprightly.} \\ \text{Necessarily.} \end{array} \right\}$

The former is implied in the word Examine: which notes a diligent and exact enquire, such as Lapidaries and Goldsmiths vse to finde out true mettall from counterfeit, good from bad. As the <sup>k</sup> Shunamite sought for Elisba, <sup>l</sup> Maries for Christ, the woman for her <sup>m</sup> lost groat: so we must search as if we would finde, search vntill we finde. Many men examine their bad manners, as they doe their bad money; seeke as if they would not see, search as if they would not vnderstand. They decline sinne through all the cases (as <sup>n</sup> one notes) In Nominatio per superbiam, in Genitio per luxuriam, in Datio per simoniam, in Accusatio per detractationem, in Vocatio per adulationem, in Ablatio per rapinam: and yet they will not a knowledge their finnes in any case. When other mens examination hath found them out, excuses are ready: <sup>o</sup> Non feci: si feci, non male feci: si male feci, non multum male: si multum male, non mala intentione, aut si mala intentione, tamen aliena persuasione. Wherefore as the <sup>p</sup> Prophet said, If ye will aske a question, aske it indeed: so if yee will examine your selues, examine earnestly, throughtly, vprightly. For examination must bee made necessarily. This we may gather out of the word therefore: whofoeuer shall eat this bread, and drinke the cup of the Lord vnworthily, shall be guilty of the bodie and blood of the Lord: Let a man therefore, &c.

Tryall of our selues then is necessary, both in respect of our  $\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Dutie.} \\ \text{Danger, if we neglect this dutie.} \end{array} \right\}$

In respect of our dutie: for Christ in his first institution vsed a commanding terme, Doe this. <sup>9</sup> Doe this in remembrance of me: to that it is not in our choice to doe it, or not to doe it. If any be not fit, hee must endeavour to make himselfe fit: and the way to make fit, is examination: Let a man examine himselfe therefore, &c.

Secondly, triall is necessary in regard of the danger, if we receive the Lords Supper vnworthily.

Danger in respect of  $\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{The sinne: verse 27.} \\ \text{The punishment for this sinne in} \end{array} \right\} \left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Generall: verse 29.} \\ \text{Particular: verse 30.} \end{array} \right\}$

Now the matters in which every Communicant must be examined, are summarily two:  $\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Faith.} \\ \text{Repentance.} \end{array} \right\}$

These two (like Hippocrates twins) must goe together hand in hand. For there is no true repentance without faith, nor lively faith without repentance. <sup>r</sup> B. Latimer said well, Lady Faith is a great state, having a Gentleman vs her going before her, called agnitio peccatorum, and a great traine following after her, which are the good workes of our calling. He that faith he doth repent, when as he doth not beleeue, receiues the Sacrament ignorantly: and he that faith hee doth beleeue, when as he doth not repent, receiues the Sacrament irreuerently: both vnworthily.

The parts of Faith are  $\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Knowledge.} \\ \text{Application.} \end{array} \right\}$

Every Communicant ought to know the three generall points of holy Religion: namely, mans  $\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Generation, how he was created according to Gods image in holinesse and righteousness.} \\ \text{Degeneration, how he fell from that estate, and all his posteritie with him.} \\ \text{Regeneration, how hee was againe restored and recreated by Christs passion, of which this Sacrament is a signe and seale.} \end{array} \right\}$

<sup>k</sup> 2 King 4.

<sup>l</sup> Luke 2.

<sup>m</sup> Luke 15.

<sup>o</sup> Biga salutis, Dom. 8. post Pentecost.

<sup>p</sup> Bernard. tract. de gradibus humilitat. rad 8
<sup>r</sup> Esay 21 12. Si queritis quere.

<sup>9</sup> Luke 22. 19.

<sup>r</sup> Serm 4. before King Edward.

<sup>f</sup> Gen. 1 26.

<sup>c</sup> Ephes 4. 24.

<sup>a</sup> Rom 5. 12.

<sup>x</sup> Ephes 2. 5.

In more particular, every Communicant must vnderstand the nature and nature of the Sacraments. Our Saviour Christ ordained in his Church onely two Sacraments, as <sup>y</sup> generally necessarie to saluation, that is to say, Baptisme, and the Supper of the Lord. Baptisme is a Sacrament of initiation and insition, assuring the first receiuing into the couenant of grace: whereby men are matriculated and <sup>z</sup> admitted into the congregation, and made members of Christ. For this cause the sacred Font is placed at the very doore and entrance into the Church: but the Communion is a Sacrament of confirmation, to strengthen our faith, and cherish grace receiued: and therefore the Lords Table by good order is placed in the best and highest room of the Church. <sup>a</sup> Baptisme must be receiued of one but once, because we cannot be borne twice, one beginning in Christianitie is enough: but the Lords Supper often, because we need daily to be nourished in the faith of Christ: once borne, fed alway.

The nature of this Sacrament is made knowne by the names in holy writ giuen vnto it:

Whereof I note principally two: the <sup>b</sup> Lords Supper. <sup>c</sup> Communion.

A Supper in regard of the <sup>d</sup> Time, being instituted in the night that Christ was betrayed, as his farewell token. <sup>e</sup> Things, because it is a holy feast (as Augustine said) Non dentis, sed mentis: not so toothsome, as wholesome: not corporall meat, but spirituall Manna.

The Lords Supper in three respects:
 1. Because it was ordained by the Lord: 1. Cor. 11. 23.
 2. Because it was instituted in remembrance of the Lord: Luke 22. 19.
 3. Because it was in the Primitiue Church vsually receiued on the Lords day: Acts 20. 7.

It is called a Communion in respect of the common vnion among our selues, hauing at that time more specially perfect peace with all men: or a Communion in respect of the <sup>e</sup> publike participation, as being a common messe, not a private Masse proper to one, as the Popish Priests vse it; or a Communion, as being a signe and teale of our communion with Christ: for his graces are conueyed vnto vs by the preaching of the Word, and administration of the Sacraments.

Hence the Sacraments (as <sup>f</sup> Paschasius obserues) haue their name. Sacramenta dicuntur à secreto, eò quòd in re visibili diuinitas intus aliquid ultra secretius efficit. In the words of our <sup>g</sup> Church: Sacraments are visible signes of inuisible grace, ordained of God as badges and sure witnesses of his good will towards vs. It is meet every Christian should vnderstand these and the like plaine principles of holy faith: but <sup>h</sup> exact knowledge to discusse controuerted points about the Sacraments is not required: according to that of Chrysostome, The table of the Lord is not prepared for chattering layes: but for high-towring Eagles, who flie thither where the dead body lyeth. It is not for subtle Sophisters, but for simple beleeuers ascending vp to Christ vpon the wings of faith, and therefore the Communicant must not onely know, but apply that in particular, which he beleueth in generall: as that Christs body was crucified for him, and his blood shed for him. He that vnderstands, and beleues, and applies these things, examineth his faith as he should.

In our repentance we must examine <sup>i</sup> Contrition for sinne past.
 two points especially: to wit, our <sup>j</sup> Resolution to preuent, so farre as wee can, all sinne to come.

For the first, Pœnitentia est quasi i punientia. Pœnitere (saith <sup>k</sup> Augustine) is pœnam tenere.

We must therefore weepe with Peter, and water our couch with Dauid, and put on sackcloth with Nimueh: nay, we must <sup>l</sup> rent our heart. For a broken <sup>m</sup> spirit is an acceptable sacrifice to the Lord. O <sup>n</sup> magnum donum, quod in pœnam dedit,

<sup>y</sup> Com. Catechiz

<sup>z</sup> Com. booke tit. Publique Bap. §. We receiue this child

<sup>a</sup> Ram. de relig. lib. 4. cap. 8.

<sup>b</sup> 1. Cor. 11. 20.

<sup>c</sup> 1. Cor. 10. 16.

<sup>d</sup> Matt. 26. 20.

<sup>e</sup> 1. Cor. 11. 20. 21.

λειτουργία, quasi λειτόν ἕρπον.

<sup>f</sup> Lib. de corpore & sanguine Dom. cap. 3. apud Bibliothec. Par. Tom. 4. fol. 162. & Art. 25.

<sup>h</sup> Church Hom. concerning the Sacrament, part. 1

<sup>i</sup> Reusnerus class. 3. symbol. pag. 155.

<sup>k</sup> De vera & fal pœnitent. cap. 19.

<sup>l</sup> Ioel 2. 13.

<sup>m</sup> Psal 51. 17.

<sup>n</sup> Chrysost hom.

<sup>o</sup> De pœnitent.

in salutem vertit : peccatum tristitiam peperit, tristitia peccatum contriuit. As the worne bred in the tree deuoures the tree : so sorrow brought into the world by sinne, doth ouerthrow sinne : so good is God to turne curses into blessings, and grieue into grace. If thy heart be not thoroughly touched for sinne, become torrie because thou art no more sorrie : resolute to be more resolute. For (as one wittily) factum infectum, si non sit cor affectum. If Ioseph of Arimathea wrapped the body of Christ in ° cleane linnen, how darest thou receiue it with an vnclane soule? P If thou wilt not kisse a Princes hand with a foule mouth, eat not the Lords body with a foule minde. Let a man therefore examine himselfe, &c. And so let him eat of this bread, and drinke of this cup. Hauing thus examined examination, I come now to the participation.

And so let him eat, &c.] Of which words I purpose to speake first ioyntly, then severally. Considered ioyntly, they confute three popish conclusions, as first, the reseruatiō, eleuation, circungestation, adoration of the bread. Our Apostle saith here plainly, that the bread must be taken and eaten : ¶ Ergo, not to be reserued, nor carried about, nor lifted vp, nor kept in a boxe to bee worshipped.

Secondly, to take, to eat, to taste, to drinke, to doe this in remembrance of Christ, are actions of the liuing, onely pertaining to the liuing : and therefore the Papiſts are deceived, holding the Masse to bee a propitiatory sacrifice both for the quicke and the dead. How can the dead eat or drinke, taste or take? ¶ Ergo, neither the dutie nor the benefit belongs vnto them, but onely to those aliuie ; who first examine themselues, and after eat of this bread, and drinke of this cup.

Thirdly, the coniunction of these two : Let him eat of this bread and drinke of this cup, abundantly proues, that both parts of the Lords Supper ought to be ministred vnto all : Ergo, the Papiſts in denying the cup vnto the Laitie, wrong both God and his people, by defrauding them of this comfort. As euery one must examine, so euery one both eat, and drinke : not onely drinke, and not eat ; or eat, and not drinke : but both eat, and drinke. Christ foreseeing this Papiſticall error, said in his first institution, Drinke ye all of it : he tooke the bread and vniuerſally, take, eat, indefinitely : ° but when he tooke the cup, hee did adde an vniuerſall note, Bibite omnes, Drinke ye, drinke all ye.

We conclude therefore with ° Cyprian, Adulterum est, impium est, sacrilegum est, quodcumq; humano furore instituitur, vt dispositio diuina violetur. Christ is the truth, and the way to the truth : Ergo, ° non aliud fiat à nobis, quàm quod pro nobis prior fecit. Thus much of the words ioyntly. Now of euery one severally.

¶ And so ] Let there be first preparation, and then participation : when a man is thus examined, let him thus eat. Let him eat : The which are not words of permission, onely leauing it to his choice, whether he will eat or not eat : but they are words of Pauls commission, insinuating that he must eat necessarily, not vpon custome, but vpon conscience. For it is not said here, let him, if he haue no let at home, or occasion of absence abroad : if he be neither displeas'd with his Pastor, nor angry with the people : but let him (without all let) examine, and then let him (without all let) eat of this bread. Eat : ¶ Christ in his first institution hath, take and eat. First take, then eate : take not onely into your mouthes, but into your hands : ° hereby representing the soule and faith : for the taking of the bread and wine into our hand, sealeth our apprehension of Christ by the finger of faith : John 1.12. As many as receiued him, to them he gaue power to be the sonnes of God : euen to them that beleueed in his name. Eating of the bread, and drinking of the wine, sealeth our application of Christ incorporated into vs mystically, 1. Cor. 10.16. For by the strength of Faith we chew the cud, as it were, and make Christ our tvnc. Yet herein obserue a great difference betweene corporall food and this heavenly bread : for the one digested is made like vs, but the other receiued into our soule maketh vs ° like it. This action then of taking is very significant, and therefore I see no reason why the Priest altering Christs ordinance, o Matt. 27. 59

p Church Hom concerning the Sacraments.
part. 2.

q Confess. Anglican. art. 28.

r Melanct. in confess. Eccle.
Saxon. Tom. 1.
fol 135.

c Matt 26. 27.

e Caluin. &
Marlorat. in loc.
Mat.

a Epist. lib. 1.
epist. 8.

x Cyp. Epist. lib. 2
epist. 3.

y Matt. 16. 26.

z Bucan. loc.
com. Tit cana.
Dom. quest. 34.
35.

2 Rom. 8. 29.
Philip. 3. 10.

ordinance, should give the bread into the peoples mouth onely, not into their hand. First, the word labat signifieth properly to take with the hand. Secondly, it is against the rules of common civilitie, that men of discretion, such as Communicants ought to be, should be fed like children, having their meat put into their mouth. Thirdly, if this taking be not construed of the hand, but of the mouth, there is an idle repetition and plaine Tautologie in the words of Christ: for eating notes orall receiving, and therefore taking must imply manuall receiving. Fourthly, it was the custome of the Primitiue Church, as we read in <sup>b</sup> Eusebii and <sup>c</sup> Cyrii. How wilt thou (saith <sup>d</sup> Ambrose to Theodosius) receive the Lords body with a bloody hand?

The <sup>e</sup> Papists answer, that the Church altered this custome, because some reserved the bread for Magicall spels, and superstitious vses. A silly shift, for no abuse can take away the vse of that which is simply good. The Bible must be read, albeit some <sup>f</sup> pervert it to their destruction: the Word of God must be preached, howsoever it be vnto some the sauer of & death vnto death: and so the bread according to Christs institution must be taken, albeit haply some keepe it to wicked and idolatrous purposes.

This Bread] The nice distinguishing of the Schoole is like the pilling of an onyon; they pull off so many skinnes, vntill at last there is no skinne. They turne and toss the words of Christs institution, Hoc est corpus meum, so long, till they bring all that Christ said & did at his last Supper vnto nothing. For so we read in their <sup>h</sup> Glosse, that hoc doth signifie nothing. Omnipotent creatures! who make of something nothing: and againe of this nothing something; yea Christ, who made all things: for by pronouncing of these words, hoc est corpus meum, they make their Maker, a dozen gods at once whith one sentence. This, is a Pronoune demonstratiue, non in diuiduum vagum, any thing, or a nothing.

<sup>i</sup> Stephen Gardiner herein forgat his Grammar and Logicke too. For hoc, doth determine, and must, as Paul teacheth, and the circumstances of the Gospell import, be restrained vnto the bread. Iesus tooke the bread, and when he had giuen thanks, he brake (no doubt the bread) that he tooke, and gaue to the Disciples the seife-same that he brake, saying, Take ye, eat ye this that I giue you, this is my Body. What This could our Sauiour meane, but This that he gaue, This that he brake, This that he tooke? which by the witnesse of truth it selfe was bread. If the Papists imagine that he tooke bread, but brake it not: or brake it, but gaue it not: they make the Lords Supper a <sup>k</sup> merry iest, where the latter end starteth from the beginning, and the middle from them both. Either they must dissent manifestly from the proposition of Christ, and exposition of Paul, from all the Fathers. and some of their owne <sup>l</sup> followers: or else admit our interpretation, This bread is my body: and if we resolve the words of Christ so, they cannot be proper, but figuratiue; This bread is the signe and seale of my body.

Bread.] It pleased our Sauiour to make bread the outward element in this holy Sacrament, for the manifold analogies betweene it and his body. First, as bread is the <sup>m</sup> strength and state of our naturall life: so Christ is for our spirituall, being <sup>n</sup> all in all.

Secondly, as bread is loathed of the full stomacke, but most acceptable to the hungry soule; so Christ is most welcome vnto such as <sup>o</sup> hunger and thirst after righteousness.

Thirdly, as bread is vsuall and daily; so Christ should be to the Christian, feeding on that bread which came downe from <sup>p</sup> heauen, the soules ordinary refection.

Fourthly, as bread is made one loafe of many graines; so <sup>q</sup> we that are many are one bread, and one body, because we are all partakers of one bread.

<sup>r</sup> Unus ubique calix Domini: cibus vnus, & vna Mensa, domusque Dei.

Lastly, as corne is cut downe with the sithe, threshed in the barne with many stripes, torne in the mill with much violence, then bouted and sifted, last of all

<sup>b</sup> Sixtus Senensis, ubi infra.
<sup>c</sup> Hierosol. at. 5 myslagog.
<sup>d</sup> Theodor. hist. lib. 5. cap. 18.
<sup>e</sup> Sixtus Senensis Bibliothec. lib. 6. an. at. 152.
<sup>f</sup> 2 Pet. 3. 16.
<sup>g</sup> 2 Cor. 2. 16.

<sup>h</sup> De consec. dist. 2 § immorem. Glosa ibidem.

<sup>i</sup> In his Marc. Anton. Constant.

<sup>k</sup> D. Bilson answer to the lawsuit. apolog. pag. 331.
<sup>l</sup> Gerson contra Floret. lib. 4. & Gardiner. cont. diabolic. sophist. 2. li. Bilson ubi supra pag. 733.
<sup>m</sup> Psal. 104. 15.
<sup>n</sup> 1 Cor. 12. 6.

<sup>o</sup> Matt. 5. 6.

<sup>p</sup> Ioh. 6. 33. 35

<sup>q</sup> 1 Cor. 10. 17

<sup>r</sup> Paulinus vii Magdeburg. cent. 5. col. 339.

baked with extreme heat in the oven, and all this, that it may be fit meat for our body; so Christ in his ripe age was cut downe by cruell death, his body was whipped, his flesh rent aunder, his soule was as it were melted in the fiery furnace of Gods anger: and all this, that he might becomme food for our soule; that we might eat of this bread, and drinke of this cup. The like resemblances are betwene the wine and his blood: For as wine doth make glad the heart of man, Psalm. 104. 15. so the precious blood of Christ, as flagons of wine, comforts the sicke soule. <sup>u</sup> Paulinus sweetly:

In cruce fixa caro est qua pascor, de cruce sanguis Ille fuit, vitam quo bibo, corda lauo.

In this exhortation hauing S. Paul for our leader, and the Church of Scotland for our follower: I hope we need not any further examine, why the Church doth vse this S ripture for this purpose. <sup>x</sup> Augustines obseruation is good, Insolentissime in sanie est, disputare, an id faciendum sit, quod tota facit Ecclesia.

Sursum Corda.

Sursum Corda seems to be taken out of the Lamentations of Ieremy: Cap. 3. Ver. 14. Lueuimus cerda nostra cum manibus ad Dominum in caelos: vsed in the Church at least 300. yeares before Popery was knowne in the world. For Augustine who liued within <sup>2</sup> 400. yeares after Christ, and the blessed Martyr Cyprian, who died <sup>2</sup> an. 259. make mention of it in their writings often: Cyprian in <sup>b</sup> ser. de orat dominic. Augustine de vera religione, cap. 3. and epist: 156. and (as <sup>d</sup> Cassander obserues) epist. ad Dardan, & lib. de bono perseverantia. Sursum corda then is no rag of Rome, no peece of Popery, but vsed in <sup>c</sup> all Liturgies of the ancient Church; and that which may content the Novelists most, it was borrowed (as Master Fox thinkes) not from the Latine, but from the Greeke Churches. Howsoever, it is exceeding fit: for Almighty God in his holy seruice requires our heart principally, <sup>8</sup> Son giue me thy heart: so that when we come to his Temple, specially to his table, enery one must say with <sup>h</sup> David, I lift vp my soule to thee. For as the Church of Scotland truly the only way to receiue worthily the Lords Supper, is to lift vp our minds by faith aboue all things worldly and sensible, and thereby to enter into heauen, that we may finde and receiue Christ, where he dwelieth, a point well vrged also by our Church: Hom. concerning the worthy receiuing of the Sacrament: part the first.

The Papists entertaine this clause still in the Roman Missale, but it makes against their reall presence. For if Christs body, <sup>k</sup> so large in quantitie, as it was on the Crosse, be present in the Sacrament; what need any man lift vp his heart, when as he holds it in his hand Totum hoc (saith <sup>l</sup> Augustine) fide tenemus, oculis cordis intuemur; Dominus ascendit in caelum, ascendat cum illo cor nostrum. His body <sup>m</sup> must be contained in heauen vntill the time that all things are restored: it cannot descend downe to vs, we must ascend vp to it. So Nicolaus Cabasilis writes in his exposition of the <sup>n</sup> Liturgie; the Priest after some speech to the people doth erect their minds, and lift vp their thoughts, and saith, Sursum corda: let vs thinke on things aboue, not on things below. They consent and say, that they lift vp their hearts thither, where their treasure is, euen to heauen, where Christ sits at the right hand of his Father.

Luke 2.14. Glory be to God on high.

The Lords Supper is called an Eucharist, because it is a thanksgiuing to God, for giuing his Sonne to die for vs: and therefore this Hymne is so fitly sung by men on earth at the commemoration of his death, as it was by the Quier of Heauen at the celebration of his birth: for our reconciliation and peace with God, <sup>f</sup> Lament. 1c. m. 1. 12.

<sup>e</sup> Cont. 2. 5.

<sup>b</sup> Mag. burg. ann. 5. col. 393.

<sup>x</sup> Epist. 118. cap. 5.

<sup>r</sup> Cassander liturgic. ap. 21.

<sup>c</sup> Baron annal. tom. 5. fol. 13. & flores bist. pag. 745.

<sup>a</sup> Magdeburg. ent. 3. col. 249. fol. 165.

<sup>o</sup> Tom. 1. fol. 491.

<sup>o</sup> Vbi supra.

<sup>o</sup> Perkins Reform. Cal. tit.

<sup>o</sup> call. presence.

<sup>f</sup> Acts & mon.

<sup>f</sup> fol. 125.

<sup>8</sup> Prou. 23. 26.

<sup>h</sup> Psal. 25. 7.

<sup>i</sup> Ministers

<sup>i</sup> exhort. before

<sup>i</sup> the Com.

<sup>k</sup> Io. Combis

<sup>k</sup> compen. Theolog.

<sup>k</sup> lib. 6. cap. 14.

<sup>l</sup> Serm. de temp.

<sup>l</sup> 174.

<sup>m</sup> Acts 3. 21.

<sup>n</sup> Cap. 26. apud

<sup>n</sup> Bibliothec. cat.

<sup>n</sup> tom. 4. fol. 496.

God, is ascribed in holy Scripture to Christs passion especially : Rom. 5. 10. Heb. 9. 12. 15.

Some make ° three parts of this } Treble, Glory to God on high.
 song, which (if you please) call the } Basse, Peace on earth.
 } P Meane, Good will toward men.
 Other haue diuided it into two : } The first, concerning Gods glory.
 } The second, touching our good.

¶ For peace on earth, and good will toward men are both one : because our peace with God is not from our good will toward him : but altogether from his good will toward vs. It is God (saith Paul) that maketh in you both the will and the worke : and therefore the Rhemish translation In earth peace, to men of good will : and the Romish Glosse, that Christ brings no peace, but to such as be of good will, are insufficient, and condemned euen by their owne mouth : as we may reade in the Commentaries of Arboreu, Caietan, Iansenius, Maldonatus vpon the place. Concerning other scholiall, or scholasticall obseruations vpon the Text, I referre the Reader vnto Beauxamis, Erasmus, Caluin, and other learned expositors ; especially to Iacobus Perez de Valentia, who compiled a whole treatise on this Hymne.

It was first vsed in the Communion (as it is thought) by Thelesphorus a good man, and a glorious Martyr, anno 254. Ianuar. 5. That which followeth in our Comunion Booke, We praise thee, we blesse thee, was added by that famous Bishop Hilary : singing it first in his owne Church, anno 340. and after brought into the Churches by Pope Symmachus, anno 510. the Churches of Scotland vse the like forme of thanks at their Communion. And therefore the  Nouelists can mislike nothing in this Hymne, but that which all other like most, Antiquitie.

2. Cor. 13. 13.

The grace of our Lord Iesus Christ, &c.

THE two fiends that torment vs, are sinne, and a bad conscience : grace releaseth sinne : peace doth quiet the conscience. Paul therefore begins his Epistles with grace and peace : and the Church ends her deuotions either with the grace of our Lord Iesus Christ, &c. or with the peace of God which passeth all vnderstanding, &c. But because there can be no peace with God, except we haue the grace of Christ : first and chiefly Paul desireth grace, then peace : Rom. 1. 7. Grace be with you and peace. Because (I say) grace comprehends in it euery good and perfect gift, by which onely, we are whatsoeuer we are : Paul doth not only begin, but end his writings also with this one clause specially, Grace be with you, &c. But about the rest, the conclusion of this excellent Epistle is most full : and therefore worthily receiued of our and other Churches, as the fittest close, to shut vp our publike prayers. In it obserue Pauls affection towards the Corinthians, amplified,

With { Extention : in regard of the } Thing : The grace of Christ, the loue of God the communion of the holy Ghost.
 { Intention : Amen. } Persons : With you all.

The worke of our saluation is ascribed in our { Election, to the loue of the Father.
 { Redemption, to the Grace of the Sonne.
 { Sanctification, to the communion of the holy Ghost.

So S. Ambrose doth expound this text pithily : Dilectio Dei misit nobis Saluatorem Iesum, cuius gratia saluati sumus : ut possideamus hanc gratiam communicatione facit spiritus sanctus : God the Father so c loued the world, that he sent his onely begotten Sonne d to dye for our sinnes, and to rise againe for our iustification : and e God the Sonne, from God the Father, sent God the Holy Ghost which ° Caietan. in locum.

 ¶ Eras annot. in loc.

¶ Caluin Ian. sen Arboreus in loc.
 ¶ Philip. 2. 13.

¶ Walafridus lib. de rebus Eccl. cap. 22.
 ¶ Marian Scot. lib. 1. pag. 260.

¶ Irenaeus. lib. 3 cap. 3.

¶ Baron annal. tom 2. fol. 120.

¶ Callander liturgic. cap. 21.

¶ Fox, Acts and Mon. fol. 1274
 ¶ Durand. rationally. lib. 4. cap. 13. § 4. 5.

¶ Luther. comment. in Galat. cap. 1. vers. 3.

¶ 1 Cor. 13. 10

¶ Comment. in loc

¶ Ioh. 3. 16.

¶ Rom. 4. 25.

¶ Iohn 15. 26.

which cryeth in our hearts Abba Father : applying to our comfort both the loue of God, and the grace of our Lord Iesus Christ.

The word, God, is vsed here personally, not essentially : for the <sup>f</sup> Fathers on this text note the blessed Trinitie, that God is <sup>g</sup> Trinus in numero, vnus in numine. S. Hierome thinks that Paul foreseeing the blasphemous Arrian heresie, placed the second Person in the first roome, God the Sonne before God the Father. <sup>h</sup> Other affirme, that the grace of Christ is named first, because it concernes vs most. For albeit the loue of God in it owne nature goe before the grace of our Lord Iesus Christ, chusing vs before the foundation of the world, Ephes. 1.4. yet in our view the grace of our Lord Iesus Christ goeth before the loue of God : Rom. 5.10. We are reconciled to God, by the death of his Sonne ; we feele the mercies of the one in the merits of the other.

It is a fruitfull obseruation of <sup>i</sup> Martin. Lutber, that Christian religion beginneth not at the highest, as other religions doe, but at the lowest : it will haue vs to climbe vp to heauen by Iacobs ladder, whose feet touch the very earth. And therefore when thou art occupied in the matter of thy sauation, setting aside all curious speculations of Gods vnsearchable counsels, all cogitations of workes, of traditions, of Philosophie, yea and of Gods law too, runne straight to the manger, embrace the little babe Christ in thine armes, and behold him as hee was borne, sucking, growing vp, conuersant among men, teaching, dying, rising againe, ascending aboue the heauens, and hauing power aboue all things. This sight will make thee shake off all terrors and errors, as the Sunne driueth away the clouds. In a disputation with a Iew, Turke, Papisst, Hereticke, concerning Gods infinite wisdom, maiestie, power ; imploy all thy wit and industrie to be so profound and subtile as thou canst : but in the matter of Iustification, wherein thou doest wrestle with the law, sinne, death, and other spirituall enemies ; it is the best course to looke vpon no God, but Christ incarnate, and clothed with thine owne nature : to fixe thine eyes vpon the man Iesus onely ; who setteth himselfe forth vnto thee, to be a Mediator, and saith, <sup>k</sup> Come vnto mee all yee that labour, and are heavy laden, and I will refresh you. To behold the Lambe of God, who taketh away the sinnes of the world : and so by the grace of Christ thou shalt vnderstand the loue of God, thou shalt perceiue his wisdom, power, maiestie, sweetned and tempered to thy capacitie : thou shalt finde the saying of <sup>l</sup> Paul to be most true, that in Christ are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge : that Christ in our iustification is all in all ; and therefore good reason he should haue the first, and most place in this argument, that his grace should be named first and last.

The loue of God, is the fountaine of all goodnesse (as Diuines speake) gratiarum gratia : from which originally proceeds euery perfect gift and grace. For Almighty God hath not elected vs in regard of our workes, or other worth : but contrariwise, because God loued vs, we doe that which is acceptable in his sight. I obtained mercy of the Lord (saith <sup>m</sup> Paul) to be faithfull ; Ut fidelis essem, non quia fidelis eram, as <sup>n</sup> Lombard aptly.

The nature of this short Treatise will not endure, that I should wade farre into this Abyssus. I remember <sup>o</sup> Pauls exclamation, O the deepnesse of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God, how vnsearchable are his iudgments, and his waies past finding out ! And the Glosse of <sup>p</sup> Augustine, Volentes disputare de Dei profundo, merisunt : Or, (as <sup>q</sup> other) Verisunt in profundum. I come therefore to the Communion of the Holy Ghost : a point more comfortable, than ordinarily felt, and yet more felt than can be disputed. It is said, Galat. 4.6. God hath sent the Spirit of his Sonne crying in our hearts Abba Father : he said not calling, but crying : and Rom. 8.26. he calleth this crying unspeakable groaning. When a man is tempted and afflicted, he feeleth the strength of his enemies, and the weaknesse of his flesh : he feeleth the fierie darts of Satan, the terrors of death, the wrath of God, all these cry out against him horribly : so that the perplexed soule sees nothing but sinne threatning, heauen thundering, the denill roaring, the earth trembling, hell mouth open and ready to swallow him vp. But yet in the midst of all these, <sup>h</sup> sent. dist. 19.

Gods

<sup>f</sup> Ambros. Hieron. Theophylact.

<sup>g</sup> Non triplex. Augustin. de Trin. lib 6 cap. 7 & Lombard. 1.

<sup>i</sup> Caluin. & Martorat. in loc.

<sup>j</sup> Vbi supra.

<sup>k</sup> Matt. 11.28.

<sup>l</sup> Coloss. 2.3.

<sup>m</sup> 1 Cor. 7.27.

<sup>n</sup> Sent. lib. 1. dist.

<sup>o</sup> 41.

<sup>p</sup> Rom. 11.33.

<sup>q</sup> De verbis Apost. serm. 7.

tom 10 fol. 194.

<sup>r</sup> Lomb. vbi supra.

Gods holy Spirit cryeth in our hearts, <sup>r</sup> and this cry doth outcry the clamors of the Law, the bellowes of hell, and howlings of infernall fiends: it pierceth the clouds, and ascends vp to the eares of God, insomuch that the blessed Angels seeme to heare nothing else but this cry: The Spirit helpeth our infirmities, and the strength of Christ is made perfect through our weaknesse. For Christ is most powerfull, when as we are most fearfull; euen when we can scarcely groane: marke the words of Paul; The Spirit maketh intercession for vs in our temptation; not with many words, or long prayers, he cryeth not aloud with teares, haue mercy on me O God: but onely giues a little found, and a feeble groaning, as, ab father: this is but one word, yet notwithstanding comprehends all things. Indeed the mouth speaketh not, but the good affection of the soule cryeth aloud after this manner: O Lord God of compassion and Father of mercies, although I am grieuously vexed on euery side with affliction and anguish; yet am I thy childe, and thou art my father in Christ. This little word, or rather no word, but a poore thought, conceived aright, passeth all the flowing eloquence of Demoſthenes and Tullie, yea Tertullian and all the Orators that euer were in the world: for this matter is not expressed with words, but with groanings, and these groanings are from the blessed Spirit. Thus you see the large extent of Pauls affection, in regard of the thing wished vnto the Corinthians: The grace of Christ, the loue of God, the communion of the Holy Ghost.

<sup>r</sup> Luther.com.in Galath.4.6.

<sup>r</sup> 1. Cor. 12.9.

The second extension is in regard of the person, be with you all: for the Pastor must wish well, not onely to the best, or to the worst, but this prayer ought to be made for euery one as well as for any one. There is none so bad, but hath receiued some grace: none so good, but hath need to receiue more grace. Wherefore pray we still, that the grace of Christ may be with vs all.

The Church of England adds a third extension in regard of the time, for euermore: the which is implied in the Text also, for the Corinthians (as wee read in the <sup>r</sup> former Epistle) were Saints by calling, and so doubtlesse had receiued already the grace of Christ, and had tasted of the loue of God, through the fellowship of the Holy Ghost. He doth therefore now desire <sup>a</sup> that the good worke begun in them, may be perfect: <sup>x</sup> that the grace receiued may continue with them, and increase daily vnto the end, and in the end: that the loue of God which cannot be greater secundum essentiam, may be greater secundum efficientiam, appearing, growing, abounding in them more and more for euermore.

<sup>r</sup> Cop. 1. vers. 2.

<sup>a</sup> Philip. 1.6.
<sup>x</sup> Nicolaus Casabita exposit. Liturg. cap. 26.

A M E N.

Amen is vsed in holy Scripture three } Nominaliter.
waies (as <sup>y</sup> Gabriel and Gerson speake } Aduerbialiter.
} Verbaliter.

<sup>y</sup> Lexicon Theolog. verb. Amen.

As a Noun, for truth: Apoc. 3. 14. These things saith Amen, the faithfull and true witness: and so it is added in the conclusion of euery Gospell, and of the whole Bible, as a seale to confirme that which is written.

In the beginning, is the first, Amen the last word of holy writ: a stately beginning, a strange ending. For what is more stately than antiquitie? what more strange than truth? Hereby teaching vs that the Scriptures haue uetera and uera, which are not together in any other writing. For in humane learning many things are vncertainly true, and more certainly vntrue: onely the Word of God is sealed with Amen.

Secondly, as an Adverb, for verily: so Christ often in the Gospell, Amen, Amen, dico vobis.

Thirdly, as a Verb, signifying, so be it: Deut. 27. 15. Dicit omnis populus, Amen: and so it is vsed in Pauls prayer expounded before, and in all our Collects: insinuating our earnest desire, that those things which we haue faithfully asked, asked, may be effectually obtained. And this custome of answering the Minister in the Church Amen, is ancient, as it appeareth in the 1. Cor. 14. 16. Iustin Martyr Apolog. 2. Hieron. prolog. lib. 2. in epist. ad Galat. Augustin. epist. 107. Vsum respondendi Amen antiquissimum esse patet, saith Bellarmin. lib. 2. de Missa, cap 15. Here is open Confession, I would the Church of Rome would make open restitution a.fo. For if the people must answer the Priest Amen, then the Priest must pray to the peoples vnderstanding: and how shall they vnderstand, except Common Prayer be said in a common tongue? A conclusion agreeable not onely to the Scriptures, as Bellarmin acknowledgeth, and to the practise of the Primitive Church, (as <sup>2</sup> Iustin Martyr and <sup>a</sup> Lyra report) and to the paternes of other Liturgies in <sup>b</sup> South India, <sup>c</sup> Moscousa, <sup>d</sup> Armenia, but euen to their owne constitutions, and Masse-booke: for their owne <sup>e</sup> Clement, and their owne Missale giue order that the people should answer the Priest in many things: and how this can be done well, if the vulgar Liturgie be not in a language vulgar, I cannot tell, Paul cannot tell.

All may see (sauiug such as the prince of darknesse hath blinded) that their owne pens haue condemned their owne prayers: euen the phrases extant yet in their Seruice-booke: Let vs pray, let vs giue thanks, we beseech, we offer, we praise, we blesse, we adore, specially the peoples answering Amen, euidently demonstrate that the publike deuotions at the first institution were common to Pastor and people: not mumbled in a corner alone by the Priest, or chaunted onely by Clerke and Priest.

Thus I haue briefly surueied all our English Communion booke, the which (as <sup>f</sup> Hierome said of Iohns Apocalyps) Tot habet sacramenta, quot verba: every ¶ title is grounded vpon Scripture, euery Scripture well applied, euery good application agreeable to the most ancient and best reformed Liturgies in all ages.

I beseech thee therefore (good Reader) <sup>h</sup> marke them diligently, which cause diuision and offences contrary to the doctrine which you haue learned, and auoid them. For they that are such, serue not the Lord Iesus Christ, but their owne bellies; and with faire speech and flattering deceiue the hearts of the simple. So the God of peace shall shortly tread downe Satan vnder our feet, and in sine translate vs from this iarring on earth, vnto the well agreeing Quier of Heauen, where all sing in vnitie and vniformitie; Blessing, and glory, and wisedome, and thanks, and honour, and power, and might, be vnto our God for euermore.

A M E N.

<sup>2</sup> Apolog. 2.
<sup>a</sup> In 2. Cor. 14.
 & Aquin. in eadem loc.
<sup>b</sup> Eekius loc. com. iii 37.
<sup>c</sup> Cassiander Liturgic. cap. 15.
<sup>d</sup> Petrus Bellon. de moribus Armen. lib. 3. ca. 12.
<sup>e</sup> Apost. constit. lib. 8 cap. 12. ex emendat. Francisci Turriani. Orcmus. Gratias agamus. Quisumus. Offerimus. Laudamus. Benedicamus. Aooremus.
<sup>f</sup> Epist Paulin. 10m 3 fol. 9.
 B Master Deering answer of Hardings epist. to Iewel fol. 5.
<sup>h</sup> Rom. 16, 17.

Lege & age: vine & vale.

AN EXPOSITION OF THE DOMINICALL
EPISTLES AND GOSPELS

vsed in our English Liturgie, throughout the whole yeere.

TOGETHER VVITH A REASON WHY THE Church did chuse the same.

---

By I O H N B O Y S, Doct̃or in Diuinitie, and Deane of Canterburie.

---

R O M. I. 16.

I am not ashamed of the Gospell.

---

Bernard. super Cant. ser. 65.

Euangelium appellasti? ad Euangelium ibis. Hast thou appealed vnto the Gospell? vnto the Gospell shalt thou goe.

---

L O N D O N

Printed by George Miller for William Aspley at the signe of the Parot in Pauls-Churchyard. 1630.

M<sup>s</sup> Lloyd Boston

1823.

[Faint, illegible signature]

Charles Rinalds Floyd, June 1823.

TO THE VERTV-OVS AND WORTHY KNIGHT, SIR I O H N B O Y S OF CANTERBVRIE, MY VERY GOOD VNCLE,
GRACE AND PEACE.

SIR,

*OV did first plant my studies,
Archbishop W H I T E G I F T, that president of pietie, watered them, and God gaue increase: to God, as to the fountaine of all goodnesse, I consecrate all that I haue: to your happy memories, as to the conduits of much good, I dedicate this ensuing Postill, especially to your selfe suruiuing, as to my best Patron in Cambridge, where the foundation of this worke was laid: vnto your selfe, as to the chiefe procurer of that small Benefice, where the frame was raised: vnto your selfe, as to the liuely patterne of that doctrine, which is here deliuered.*

Accept

The Epistle Dedicatorie.

*Accept it as your owne, for it beares your name, and resembling you much, endeouours to honour you long:
so you shall incourage me daily to lessen my debt to the Church, and increase mine obligations vnto your selfe, that liuing and dying I may continue*

Your most bounden Nephew,

JOHN BOYS.

THE FIRST SUNDAY IN ADVENT.

The Epistle. R o m. 13. 8.

Owe nothing to any man but this, that yee loue one another, &c.

Tis a good obseruation of <sup>a</sup> Tertullian, that heretikes are wont first to perswade, then to teach : on the contrary, that Orthodoxes vse first to teach, and then to perswade : the which is Saint Pauls ordinarie method, first monere, then mouere. This Epistle then allotted for this day being sutable to the rest of his writing, offereth vnto your consideration two principall points.

1. An admonition : Owe nothing to any man but this, &c.

1. From the worthinesse of the thing : He that loueth, hath fulfilled the law.

2. A double reason of the same : } 2. From the fitnessse of the time : Considering the season, that it is now time, &c.

In his admonition obserue two things : } 1. A precept : Owe nothing, &c.
 The <sup>b</sup> first doth insinuate, that we must pay } 2. An except : But to loue one another.
 really : for we may not owe.
 fully : owe nothing.
 generally : to any man.

<sup>c</sup> Some Diuines haue stretched this vnto all manner of duties as well of <sup>d</sup> loue as law : making it a conclusion of the former doctrine ; Giue to all men their due : tribute to whom tribute : custome to whom custome, &c. Estote debitores omnibus vt nemini, debeatis : (as <sup>e</sup> Luther obserues) a strange, yet a true saying : and it hath a parallel, 1. Corinth. 3. 18. If any man among you seeme to bee wise in the world, let him be a foole that he may be wise. In like manner, hee that will liue out of debt in the world, let him owe so much vnto euery one, that hee owe nothing vnto any one : so Paul <sup>f</sup> who kept nothing from any man, was not withstanding through his loue & debter to many, <sup>h</sup> seruant to all } Other restraints this vnto pecuniary debts, arising <sup>k</sup> ex promisso, & commissio. Our promises are due debt. Psalm 15. The man that will rest vpon Gods holy kill, must not sweare to his neighbour and disappoint him, though it bee to his owne hinderance.

<sup>a</sup> Lib. contra Valentin. cap. 1.

<sup>b</sup> Gorran. in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Meiland. & Tilman. in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Debitum morale, legale. Thomas 12a. quest. 99. art. 5 & Pet. Aragon in 22a. quest. 58. art. 5.

<sup>e</sup> Posit maior. Dom. 4. ab Epiphany.

<sup>f</sup> A. Et. 20. 27.

<sup>g</sup> Rom. 1. 14.

<sup>h</sup> 1 Cor. 9. 19.

<sup>i</sup> Gorran. in loc.

<sup>k</sup> Lexicon Theolog. Altenstaig.

in verb. de buur.

<sup>1</sup> Luther in
<sup>2</sup> Galat. 1.6.
<sup>m</sup> Julius Scaliger, viri doctissimi Scaliger in eius vita.

<sup>n</sup> Citing his authoritie for the lawfulness of usurie when they would borrow, but alleaging the text, nihil inde sperantis, when they should pay.

<sup>o</sup> Serm. Gosp.
 Dom. 2. Advent.
<sup>p</sup> Last Sermon before King
 Edw. the sixth.
<sup>q</sup> Augustin.

Epist. 54
<sup>r</sup> Iustin instit.

lib. 4. tit. 1.
 &c lib. 6. tit. 2.

<sup>f</sup> Luk. 19. 8.

<sup>g</sup> In locum.

<sup>h</sup> Loc. de furtis in explicat.

epist. ad Ephes.
 cap 4

<sup>x</sup> Tract nat of repent cap. 11.

<sup>y</sup> See Church
 hom. of repentance. part. 2.

<sup>z</sup> Ephes. 4. 23.

<sup>a</sup> Prov. 2. 14.

<sup>b</sup> Vbi supra.

<sup>c</sup> Instit. lib 4.
 cap. 22.

<sup>d</sup> Latimers sermon on the Gosp. Dom 2.
 Advent

<sup>e</sup> 2. Cor 8. 12.

<sup>f</sup> Bernard ep. 77.

<sup>g</sup> Perkins vbi
 supra.

<sup>h</sup> 2. 2. e. 9. 62.

<sup>i</sup> In loc. Thom

<sup>k</sup> Comment. in loc Thom.

<sup>l</sup> Apborism in verb. debitum

& restituit.

hinderance. The word of an honest man ought to bee so currant as his coyne. <sup>1</sup> Pomponius an heathen man is reported to haue bene so constant, as he neuer made lye himfelse, ner could suffer a lye in other: euery Christian, and a <sup>m</sup> gentleman, albeit not a Christian, ought to bee iust in all his words, as well as righteous in all his wayes. It is found counsell in affaires of the world; Fast binde, fast finde: Plus enim creditur annulis quam animis: as Seneca wittily: For the scales of men are more regarded then their soules; and yet ipse dixit of a Christian Pythagoras, is so sufficient, as Quod scripsi scripsi, of a Iewish Pilate.

Debts ex commisso bee manifold: some by borrowing, some by buying, some by secret fraud, some by violent oppression. It is not a fault simply to borrow, for then there could be no letting, no lending, no trading in the world: then onely debt is deadly sinne, when a man hath neither means nor meaning to repay. Psal. 37. 12. The wicked borroweth and payeth not againe.

Some men held restitution a point of Peperie: <sup>n</sup> borrowing by Calvin, and paying by the Bible: but Bishop <sup>o</sup> Latimer anoweth vpon his credit, that in this all writers agree both old and new, that restitution is necessary to saluation: p either restitution open or secret, or else hell: It is easie to shew that in a particular account, which he deliuered in a grosse summe: first it was a receiued opinion among the Fathers in the dayes of Augustine. <sup>q</sup> Non remittitur peccatum nisi restitatur ablatum: after entertained of the best <sup>r</sup> Ciuilians: and all the Canonists and Schoolemen without exception: and still embraced of our learned Protestant Diuines; Illyricus, Brentius, Aretius; in the exposition of the words of <sup>s</sup> Zachens, If I haue taken from any man by forged cauillation, I restore him foure fold: <sup>t</sup> Melancton, <sup>u</sup> Zanchius, <sup>x</sup> Perkins: and all that vnderstand any thing at all. For no man except a new man is saued, hee must repent and bee borne againe: Now where there is vnfaigned repentance, there is contrition for sinne; where contrition for sinne, there detestation of sinne; where detestation of sinne, there followeth <sup>y</sup> amendment of life.

Zache, renewed in mind was altered in manners: <sup>z</sup> he that stole must steale no more: such then as detaine the goods of other vniustly without satisfaction or restitution, are not sorry, but <sup>a</sup> reioyce rather in doing of euill. As <sup>b</sup> Augustine sweetly, Penitentia non agitur, sed fingitur. I conclude therefore this argument in the words of <sup>c</sup> Lactantius: Apud bonos iudices, satis habent firmitatis, vel testimonia sine argumentis, vel argumenta sine testimonijs; nos tamen non alterutro contenti, cum suppetat nobis utrumque, ne cui peruersè ingenioso, aut non intelligendi, aut contra differendi locum relinquamus.

2. We must pay fully: owe nothing. Many men are willing to pay some part of their debts, but they cannot endure to restore all: they will not compound, except the creditor will take ten shillings in the pound: a common, but not a commendable course, for a mite is debt so well as a million; tam, albeit not tantum; so good a debt, how so euernot so great a debt: if we must owe nothing, then ther<sup>e</sup> must be full payment of euery thing. If we cannot pay, God assuredly will accept of votall restitution as well as of actuall: of that which is in <sup>d</sup> affect, as if it had bene in effect. As <sup>e</sup> Paul sheweth in the like case: For if there bee first a willing minde, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not: <sup>f</sup> Iluxa profacto reputat Deus, quod homo quidem verè voluit, sed non valuit adimplere.

3. We must pay generally: owe nothing to any: whether he be friend or foe, rich or poore, stranger or neightour: restore all to all. If any man corrupting or corrupted in secular offices, hath iniured many whom hee doth not know; <sup>g</sup> then his best course is to restore to God, that is, to the Church and to the poore. Touching these and the like questions of debt, the learned may further examine <sup>h</sup> Thomas, <sup>i</sup> Caietan, <sup>k</sup> Aragon, <sup>l</sup> Emanuel Sa, with many more: but the best Schooleman in this argument is thine owne conscience:

ence: For <sup>m</sup> whatsoever is not of faith is sinne. <sup>n</sup> That is, all thou condemnest in thine heart for sinne, to thee is sinne: satisfie then all other so farre, that thou mayest satisfie thy selfe, owe nothing to any.

Yet this precept hath his except; But this, that yee loue one another: here then obserue first a difference <sup>o</sup> betweene ciuill debts and religious. A ciuill debt once paid is no more due: but charity being paycd is still due, p debetur etiam reddita; when a man dischargeth other debts, q accedit ad eum cui datur, sed ab eo recedit à quo datur. But in paying the debt of loue, the more we giue, the more we haue; Reddendo multiplicatur: habendo enim redditur, non carendo; & cum reddi non possit nisi habeatur, nec haberi potest nisi reddatur. Imò etiam cum redditur ab homine, crescit in homine. Et tanto maior acquiritur qui tanto pluribus redditur: As Augustine doth excellently glosse this Text: peruse the cited Epistle, for it is short and sweet: of wordly wealth it may be said truely, bonum quò communius eò minus: but in spirituall riches it is quite contrary, bonum quò communius eò maius: or as the <sup>r</sup> Philosopher, eò melius, in the word of <sup>t</sup> Salomon, He that scattereth, increaseth: in this except then, I note with <sup>c</sup> Gorran,

The } Matter, }
 } Manner, } in the word } } Priuiledge, } } diligatis.
 } } } in uicem.
 } } } nisi.

The matter is to loue: the manner mutually to loue: the priuiledge continually to loue, Owe nothing but loue: for he that loueth another fulfilleth the law. This is the first reason inforcing the former exhortation; and it is taken from the worthinesse of the thing. Loue is the fulfilling of all the law; which hee proues by this induction: Thou shalt not commit adultery, thou shalt not kill, thou shalt not steale, thou shalt not beare false witness, thou shalt not lust: and if there bee any other Commandement, it is all comprehended in this saying: namely, Loue thy neighbour as thy selfe. Loue doth no euill vnto his neighbour: in deed, forbidden in the sixth, seventh and eighth Commandements: in word, forbidden in the ninth: in thought, forbidden in the tenth. Loue then is the complement of the whole law concerning our dutie to God and man.

<sup>u</sup> For our loue to man ariseth originally from our loue to God: <sup>x</sup> Amicum in Domino, inimicum pro Domino: Wee loue our friend in the Lord: our foe for the Lord. This (saith <sup>y</sup> Luther) is the shortest and longest Diuinity: the shortest as touching the words and sentence: but as touching the vse and practise it is more large, more long, more profound, and more high then the whole world. I shall often handle this common place, especially Epistle on Quinquagesima Sunday.

I come now to the second argument, from the fitnessse of the time: verse 11. This also we know the season, how that it is time, that we should awake out of sleepe: for now is our saluation neerer, &c. The summe of it is, <sup>z</sup> that wee must be more studious in performing our dutie now than heretofore when wee did first beleue: for wee must goe forward and grow vpward: from grace to grace, from vertue to vertue, <sup>a</sup> till we be of full growth in Christ Iesus: or as it is here, till we haue put on the Lord Iesus. A <sup>b</sup> violent motion is quicke in the beginning, but slow in the end: a stone cast vpward, is then most weake when it is most high; but a naturall motion is slow in the beginning, but quicker in the end: for if a man from a Tower cast a stone downward, the neerer to the Center, the quicker is the motion: and therefore <sup>c</sup> when a man at his first conuersion is exceeding quicke, but afterward waxeth euery day slower and slower in the wayes of the Lord, his motion is not naturall and kinde, but forged and forced: otherwise the longer hee liueth, and the neerer he comes to the marke, the more swiftly would hee run, the more vehemently contend for that <sup>d</sup> euerlasting Crowne, which hee shall obtaine at his <sup>e</sup> races end.

The night is passed, and the day is come.] <sup>f</sup> Some by night vnderstand the life

<sup>m</sup> Rom. 14. 23.
<sup>o</sup> Lombard. sent. lib. 4. dist. 39.

<sup>o</sup> Melancthon in locum.

<sup>p</sup> August. ep. 67.

<sup>q</sup> Anselmus, in loc. ex Augustini no. ubi supra.

<sup>r</sup> Aristot.

<sup>t</sup> Pro. 11. 24.

<sup>c</sup> In loc.

<sup>u</sup> Calvin & Martyr. in loc.

<sup>x</sup> August. confess. lib. 4. cap. 9.

<sup>y</sup> In Gal. 5. 14.

<sup>z</sup> Martyr. in loc.

<sup>a</sup> Ephes. 4. 13.

<sup>b</sup> Aristot.

<sup>c</sup> Chrysost. in epist. ad Rom. bom. 24.

<sup>d</sup> 1. Cor. 9. 25.

<sup>e</sup> 2. Tim. 4. 7.

<sup>f</sup> Theophylact. in locum.

life present; and by day the world to come: in this life many things are hidden as in the darke, but at the last and dreadfull day, the bookes and registers of all our actions shall be laid open, and all things appeare naked as they are, to God, men, Angels, diuels. If we make but twelue houres in our night, and six ages in the world, as vsually Diuines account; then fise thousand yeeres, that is, ten houres of the night were past, when Paul wrote this: and since that almost sixteene hundred yeeres, that is, an houre and a halfe and a quarter; so that now there can remaine but some few minutes, and then the terrible day of the Lord will come, When the heauens shall passe away with a noyse, and the elements shall melt with heat, and the earth with the workes therein shall be burnt vp. Wherefore seeing the end of this night, and beginning of that day is at hand, let vs cast away the workes of darknesse, &c.

8 2.Pet.3 10.

<sup>h</sup> Ambros. Hieron. Aquin. in locum.

<sup>i</sup> Melancthon. in locum.

<sup>k</sup> Sarcenius in locum.

<sup>l</sup> Luther. Postil. maior. in epist.

Dom. 1. Advent.

<sup>m</sup> Pro 14.9.

<sup>n</sup> 2.Sam.2.14.

<sup>o</sup> Theophylast. in locum.

<sup>h</sup> Other more fitly by night vnderstand the time of ignorance; by day, the time of knowledge: by night, the law wherein our Saviour Christ was onely shadowed; by day, the Gospell wherein he is openly shewed: and so saluation is neerer <sup>i</sup> because clearer. Our Apostles argument then is <sup>k</sup> like that of John the Baptist: Repent, for the kingdome of God is at hand. Mat. 3. 2.

The <sup>l</sup> Gospell is the day, Christ is the light: faith is the eye which apprehends this light: and therefore seeing the day is come, let vs cast away the workes of darknesse, and put on the armour of light.

Sinnes are called the workes of darknesse: The <sup>m</sup> foole maketh a mocke of sin: as <sup>n</sup> Abner called fighting a sport: Let the young men arise and play before vs: so many men make sinne their ordinary pastime: <sup>o</sup> but our Apostle termes it a worke, and the wise man a weary worke too: Wisd. 5.7: We haue wearied our selues in the waies of wickednesse: a worke it is, but blacke worke: a deede of darknesse; in that it doth begin from Satan, who is the prince of darknesse, and end in hell, which is vtter darknesse. See before the song of Simeon: and Aquin. lect. 3. vpon this Chapter.

Holy vertues are called armour of light: armour, because with them a Christian must fight against his enemies: Ephes. 6. See Epist. Dom. 21. post Trin. Light in three <sup>p</sup> respects.

1. As proceeding from God, who is the Father of lights: James 1.17.

2. Shining before men, as lights in the world, Mat. 5.16.

3. Enduring the light: John 3.20.21. He that doth euill, hateth the light: but he that doth truth, commeth to the light.

Let vs walke honestly, &c.] That is, comely: night-walkers are negligent in their habits, an old gowne will serue their turne, without ruff or cuff, or other handsome trimme. But in the day men are ashamed, except they bee in some good fashion according to their quality. Seeing then the night is past, and the day is come, let vs put off our night clothes, and put on our apparell for the day, so walking as we care not who seeth vs in all comelineffe and honesty. The drunkard is in his night gowne: the fornicator in his night gowne; the factious schismaticke full of strife in his night gowne too: for he loues no comelineffe in the Church.

Not in eating and drinking, neither in chambering and wantonnesse, neither in strife and enuying.] Here the <sup>q</sup> Novelists except against our translation. For wee should reade surfetting and drunkennesse. I answere, first in particular, that as the Scripture must be construed by Scripture, so the Church by the Church: it being an axiome in our law, that euery man must interpret himselfe. And another rule: Sententia benignior in verbis generalibus seu dubijs est preferenda. Now the Church elsewhere <sup>r</sup> translates and <sup>s</sup> expounds it, as they would haue it. Ergo: their cauill is causelesse.

In generall, concerning mis-translation, I referre them vnto those whom it more properly concernes; I know, they know we can easily finde faults in the Geneua translation of the Psalmes in English meeter vsed most, and preferred best of all Scriptures in their priuate and publike deuotions. If a Salamandry spirit spirit should traduce that godly labour, as the silenced Ministers haue wronged our Communion Booke, he would obiect peradventure that sometime there wants in it reason, as well as rythme. <sup>a</sup> Lactantius reports of Arcefilas, that hauing throughly considered the contradictions and oppositions of Philosophers one against another, in fine contemned them all: Et constituit novam non philosophandi philosophiam; euen so wordlings and Atheists expending the differences of Christians in matters of religion, haue resolved to be of no religion. And vnderstanding the violent contentions about formes of prayer, and translations of Scriptures, vse no prayer, no Bible, but make Lucian their old Testament, and Machianell their new.

<sup>q</sup> Defence for not subscrib. chap. 8.

<sup>r</sup> BB. Bible.

<sup>s</sup> Hom. against gluttonie and drunkennesse.

The Church, as Paul, meanes too much eating and drinking, for it is lawfull to eat all manner of meat, whether it bee flesh or fish. <sup>u</sup> But there bee certaine hedges ouer which wee may not leape: The first hedge is Leuit. 19. 26. Thou shalt not eat the flesh with the bloud: that is to say, raw flesh: for if we should ordinarily deuoure raw flesh, it would ingender in vs a certaine cruelty, so that at length wee should eat one another, as <sup>x</sup> Diuines expound that place. We may not be Canibals or man-eaters, against this sinne God hath set an high hedge, Thou shalt not kill: extreame famine made <sup>y</sup> mothers murderers, and turned the sanctuary of life into the shambles of death: extreame necessity breakes all hedges of nurture and nature: but in ordinary course, man is no meat for man: but as <sup>z</sup> Ignatius said, onely manchet for God, a seruice and sacrifice for his maker. Happily some will say, well then, if I deuoure not mans flesh, I may eat whatsoeuer I list, howsoeuer I get it. No, God hath set a second hedge; Thou shalt not steale: thou mayest not take thy neighbours ox out of his stall, nor his sheepe out of his fold, nor his fish out of his poole, but thou must feed on thine owne meat bought into thine owne house, or brought vp in thine house, on that onely which is giuen or gotten honestly.

Neither mayest thou commit gluttony with thine owne; for there is a third hedge, Luke 21. 34. Take heede to your selues, lest at any time your hearts be oppressed with surfeiting and drunkenesse. The gut is a gulfe, vita Charybdis, as <sup>a</sup> Diogenes aptly: for some man <sup>b</sup> draweth all his patrimony thorow his throat. As the Babylonians vsed daily to sacrifice to their Bel; so the glutton to his belly; making it his God, Philip. 3. 19. Eat therefore moderately meat that is meet, not too much, but so much as doth neither <sup>c</sup> pracidere nor excidere necessitatem.

It is lawfull sometime to feast, and to prouide delicates as well as cates; vsing dainty bread in stead of daily bread: but we may not with the rich <sup>d</sup> Epicure fare deliciously every day, for this is dissipare, non dispensare bona Domini, prodigally to waste, not frugally to spend the gifts of our Lord bestowed vpon vs: neither mayest thou take measurably what and when thou list, for there is a fourth hedge, Rom. 14. 15. Destroy not him with thy meat for whom Christ died. Haue respect to thine owne and others conscience: first, thou must instruct thy brother in the truth, and then if he continue still in his old Mumpsimus, and will not beleue, but is offended out of obstinate wickednesse rather than any weaknesse, eate, not regarding his frowardnesse, especially where the Princes law command thee to eat, for that is another hedge, Rom. 13. 1. Let every soule submit himselfe vnto the authority of the higher power. Obseruing of Lent and fish-dayes is a policie of the State for the maintenance of fisher-townes, and encrease of fisher-men, and therefore this Statute must be obeyed not onely for feare of punishment, but also for conscience, saith <sup>e</sup> Paul: <sup>f</sup> I say conscience, not of the thing, which of it owne nature is indifferent, but of our obedience, which by the law of God we owe to the Magistrate. The <sup>g</sup> particular lawes of Princes grounded vpon the generall lawes of God, euen in things indifferent, makes our obedience not indifferent but necessary. Thus thou mayst eat food of thine owne moderately, without offence to thy brother, or disobedience to thy gouernour.

<sup>a</sup> Iasit. lib. 3. cap. 4.

<sup>u</sup> B. Latimers Sermon vpon this Epistle,

<sup>x</sup> Calain. in Leuit. 19. Caribuzian. in Leu 17. B Babington in Gen. 9. 4, 5. y Lament. 4. 10 Et Iosephus de bello iudaico l. 7. c. 8

<sup>z</sup> Hieron. catal. in vita Ignat.

<sup>a</sup> Laertius in vita Diogenis.
<sup>b</sup> Church hom. against gluttonie, &c

<sup>c</sup> Bernard. de considerat. lib 1.

<sup>d</sup> Luk. 16. 19.

<sup>e</sup> Rom. 13. 5.

<sup>f</sup> 2 Part. hom. of fasting.

<sup>g</sup> Macianell. loc. com tit. de ceremoniis Christi. lib Beza epist. 24 Perkins Treatise of conscience, chap. 2.

Concerning drunkennesse and the rest, often elsewhere. Yet by the way note the craftinesse of the Deuill, and vnhappinesse of sinne, which seldome or neuer commeth alone; it is vnlike the Raile, which flieth solitary, and in this respect most like the Partridge, who calles one another till they make a couey. First, Paul brings in sinne by the brace, gluttony and drunkennesse, chambering and wantonnesse, strife and enuying; then as it were by the whole couey, for all these birds of a feather flie together; immoderate diet begets chambering, chambering wantonnesse, wantonnesse strife, strife enuying; thus sinne doth first couple, then increafe. This text ought to be regarded of vs the more because it was the very place to which Augustine that renowned Doctor by a voice from heauen was directed at his first conuersion, as himselfe witnesseth, Lib. 8. confess. cap. 12.

Put yee on the Lord Iesus Christ.] As we must put off the old man, so put on the new man, and that is done <sup>h</sup> two waies, either by putting on his merits, or by putting on his manners. Our Sauour Christ in his life, but in his death especially wrought for vs <sup>i</sup> a garment of saluation, and <sup>k</sup> a long white robe of righteousness: now the spirituall hand of faith must apprehend and fit this <sup>l</sup> wedding apparell on vs in such sort, that all our <sup>m</sup> vnrightheousnesse may be forgiven, and all our sinne covered.

Secondly, wee must put on the manners and excellent vertnes of Christ, in whom was no worke of darknesse, but all armour of light; so the phrase is vied, Iob. 29. 14. I put on iustice and it covered me, my iudgement was a robe and a crowne. This apparell is the true Perpetuan; neuer the worse, but the better for wearing.

The Gospell. MATTH. 21. I.

And when they drew nigh vnto Hierusalem, &c.

CH R I S T is <sup>n</sup> Alpha and Omega, the first and the last, the beginning and ending, wherefore the Church allotting a feuerall Scripture for euery feuerall Sunday throughout the whole yeere, <sup>o</sup> beginnes and ends with the coming of Christ: for the conclusion of the last Gospell appointed for the last Sunday, is, Of a truth, this is the same Prophet that should come into the world; and the first sentence in the first Gospell for the first Sunday, Behold, thy King commeth vnto thee. Wherein the Church imitated the method of Gods owne Spirit: for as the first propheticie mentioned in the old Testament, is, The seed of the woman shall bruiſe the Serpents head: and the first historie deliuered in the new Testament is, The booke of the generation of Iesus Christ; so the first Gospell on the first Dominicall, according to the Churches account is Aduentnall, a Scripture describing Christ and his kingdome, fitting the Text vnto the time: teaching vs hereby two things especially: first, what manner of person the Messias is who doth come, secondly, what manner of persons wee should be now he is come.

In the former part } Preface, All this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of by the Prophet: vers 4.
 obserue two points, a } Prophecic, taken out of Zach. 9. 9. Tell the daughter of Sion, &c.

All this was done that it might be fulfilled] An vsuall phrase with our Euangelist, as Cap. 1. 22. Cap. 8. 17. Cap. 27. 35. It doth insinuate the sweet harmonie betweene the Prophets and Apostles, as <sup>p</sup> Numenius said Plato was nothing else but Moses translated out of Hebrew into Greeke, and Aescham, that Virgil is nothing else but Homer turned out of Greeke into Latine, and

as

<sup>h</sup> Luther. & Melancthon. in locum.

<sup>k</sup> Esa. 61. 10.

<sup>l</sup> Apocal. 7. 9.

<sup>m</sup> Matt. 22. 11.

<sup>n</sup> Psal. 32. 1.

<sup>o</sup> Apocal. 1. 8.

<sup>p</sup> Ferus ser. 1. Dom. 1. Aduent.

<sup>p</sup> Theodoret. de curat. Graec. af. fect. lib. 2.

as the Neuelists affirme, that our Communion booke is nothing else but the Romane Missale and Portuis thrust out of Latine into English, and as Diuines haue censured Cyprian to be nothing else but Tertullian in a more familiar and elegant stile: so the new Testament is nothing else as it were, but an exposition of the old. That difference which Zeno put betweene Logicke and Rhetoricke, Diuines vsually make betweene the Law and the Gospell, the Law like the fist shut, the Gospell like the hand open. Evangelium reuelata Lex, Lex occultum Evangelium: The Gospell a reuealed Law, the Law a hidden Gospell.

This harmoniacall consent may serue to confound our aduersaries, and to comfort our selues. It doth abundantly confute obstinate Iewes, who expect another Messias to come, conceiting as yet all things not to be done in the Gospell, which was said of him in the Law, so that whereas the great question of the world is, Who is that Christ? and the great question of the Church, Who is that Antichrist? the Iewish Rabbins are ignorant in both.

Secondly, this harmony conuinceth all such <sup>r</sup> Heretikes, as hold, two sundry disagreeing Gods to be the authors of the two Testaments, one of the Law, another of the Gospell.

It affordeth also comfort, first in generall it may perswade the conscience that the Bible is the booke of God. For if Ptolomee was astonished at the 72. Interpreters, because being placed in sundry roomes, and neuer conferring nor seeing one another, did notwithstanding write the same not onely for sense of matter, but in sound of words vpon the selfe-same Text, as <sup>r</sup> Iustin Martyr, and <sup>u</sup> Augustine report; then how should wee bee moued with the most admirable diuine concordance betweene the Prophets and Apostles, who writing the Word of God in diuers places, at diuers times, vpon diuers occasions, doe notwithstanding agree so generall, <sup>x</sup> that they seeme not diuers pen-men, but rather indeede onely diuers pens, of one and the same writer?

In more particular, it may strengthen our faith in the gracious promises of Almighty God, hee speaks the word, and it is done: commands, and it is effected: Heauen and earth shall passe, but not one iot of his word shall perish: he promised by Zacharie that the Messias of the world should come, and he tels vs here by Matthew that he is come: All this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Prophet: Behold thy King commeth vnto thee. Thus much of the Preface generally, now to sift the words feuerally.

That, is taken here, non y causaliter, sed consecutiuè, not for an efficient cause, but rather for a consequence and euent. Christ did not thus ride into Hierusalem because Zachary foretold it, but Zachary foretold it because Christ would thus ride: Christ being the complement of the Prophets, and end of the Law, yet the word That, insinuates (as <sup>z</sup> Chrysostome notes) the finall cause why Christ did thus ride, namely, to certifie the Iewes how that himselfe onely, was that King, of whom their Prophet Zachary did thus speake, that none but he was the King of the Iewes, and Messias of the world.

Fulfilled] A prophetic may be said to be fulfilled <sup>2</sup> foure waies especially: 1. When the selfe-same thing comes to passe which was literally deliuered in the prophetic. So S. Matth. cap. 1. 22. saith, <sup>b</sup> Esayes prophetic, Behold a virgin shall conceine, &c. was fulfilled by Mary, who brought forth a Sonne, &c.

2. When the thing allegorically signified is fulfilled, as Exod. 12. 46. it is said of the Paschall Lambes, Ye shall not breake a bone thereof: yet S. Iohn, cap. 19. 36. affirms this to be fulfilled in Christ: The souldiers brake not his legs, that the Scripture should be fulfilled, Not a bone of him shall be broken.

3. When as neither the thing literally nor allegorically meant, but some other like is done: so Christ, Matth. 15. tels the people in his time, that the words of Esay, This people draweth neere to me with their mouthes, &c. were fulfilled

<sup>q</sup> Cic. ad Marc. Brutum orat. <sup>r</sup> August. quæst. 73. super Leuit. In veteri nouum latet: in nouo veteris patet.

<sup>r</sup> Tertul. lib. 4. contra Marcion & Augustin. Hæres. 21.

<sup>c</sup> In admonitorio. <sup>u</sup> De ciuit Dei lib. 18. cap. 42. Idem Galatin de arconis. l. 1. c. 3. <sup>x</sup> Bellarm. de verbo Dei lib. 1. cap. 2.

<sup>y</sup> Posit. Cathol. con. 2. Dor. 1. Adu. & Maldonat, in locum.

<sup>z</sup> Hom. 37. in Matth.

<sup>2</sup> Maldonat. in 2. Matth. 15.

<sup>b</sup> Esay 7. 14.

fulfilled in him: O hypocrites, Esay prophesied well of you, that is, of such as are like to you.

4. When as it is daily more and more fulfilled, as James 2.23. the Scripture was fulfilled which saith, Abraham beleueed God. Abraham assuredly beleueed God before, but his offering vp of Isaac was a greater probate of his faith: then the Scripture was fulfilled, that is, more and more fulfilled, when Abraham thus farre trusted in God. Now Christ fulfilled Zacharies saying in a literall and plaine sense, for he sent for an Ass and rode thereon into Hierusalem, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Prophet, Reioyce o daughter of Sion, for behold thy King commeth, &c.

S. Iohn and S. Matthew relate not the precise text of Zachary, but keeping the sense, they somewhat alter the words. On the contrary, blasphemous Heretikes and Atheists vse to keepe the words of Scripture, but altogether to change the sense. Children full fed often play with their meat: so Lucianists of our time play with the food of their soule, making the Bible their babble. The Lord who will not suffer his name to be taken in vaine, mend or end them.

As for Heretikes, it is alway their custome to make the Scriptures a shipmans hose, wreathing and wresting them euery way to serue their turne. Non ad materiam scripturas, sed materiam ad scripturas excogitant: First they make their Sermon, and then they looke for a text.

Herein the Papists of latter time most offend, who doe not onely faine <sup>d</sup> new Fathers, and falsifie the old <sup>e</sup> Doctors, putting out, putting in, chopping and changing as shall best fit their purpose; so that the Fathers (as Reuerend<sup>f</sup> Jewel said) are no Fathers, but their children, no Doctors, but their schollers, vntering not their owne minde, but what the Papists inforce them to speake: they doe not, I say, wrong humane authors onely, but also presume to censure and construe Gods owne bookes as they list, as S. Augustine said of Faustus the Manichee; Legant qui volum, & inuenient aut falli imprudenter, aut fallere impudenter. Hence <sup>h</sup> kill and eat to Peter, is a <sup>i</sup> warrant for the Pope to depose Princes. It is written, <sup>k</sup> Thou shalt goe vpon the Lion and the Adder, the yong Lion and the Dragon shalt thou tread vnder thy feete <sup>l</sup> therefore the Pope may tread vpon the Emperors necke.

<sup>m</sup> God made two great lights in the firmament, that is, two great dignities in the Church, the Priest, and the Prince: but that which ruleth the day, to wit, spirituall things, is the greater; that which ruleth carnall things is the lesser: as Innocentius the third disputes in the <sup>n</sup> Decretals: and their <sup>o</sup> Glosse further addes out of Ptolomie, that the Sunne contains the bignesse of the Moone seuen thousand seuen hundred fortie foure times, and so many degrees iumpe is euery Prelate about euery Prince. Sometime they cite the beginning without the end, sometime the end without the beginning, sometime they take the words against the meaning, sometime they make a meaning against the words, and so they doe not receiue, but giue the Gospell, as P. Maldonate fitly: not admit the old Scripture, but vpon the point coine a new: for in controuerted places, either they suppress the words, or else not expresse the sense: as if a man should picke away the corne, and giue vs the chaffe, or conuey away the icwels, and throw vs the bag. The blessed Euangelists had warrant from God, and we warrant from them to quote Scripture, sometime more fully for explication, and sometime more shortly for breuitie, yet without alteration of the sense, though there be some little alteration of the sentence. <sup>q</sup> Marlorats annotation is good, that our Euangelist and other doe not alway repeat the very words in the Prophets and the Law, that wee might hereby take occasion to peruse the Text and to conferre place with place. Let vs then examine the words in Zachary, which are these; Reioyce greatly o daughter Sion, shout for ioy o daughter Hierusalem: Behold thy King commeth vnto thee.

They

<sup>c</sup> Tertul. lib. de prescrip. heretic.

<sup>d</sup> Abilias. Amphiloebius. Hippolitus. &c.
<sup>e</sup> In iudic. expurgat.

<sup>f</sup> Answer to Mr Hardings conclusion.

<sup>g</sup> Contra Faust. lib. 22. cap. 32.

<sup>h</sup> Act. 10. 13.

<sup>i</sup> Baronius orat. ad Paul 5. de Venit. excom.

<sup>k</sup> Psal. 91. 13.

<sup>l</sup> Naucleus Gen. 40. an. 1177.

<sup>m</sup> Genes. 1. 16.

<sup>n</sup> Lib. iii. 33. de maior. & obedi. ent. cap. 6.

<sup>o</sup> Ibidem in verb. inter solem & lunam.

<sup>p</sup> Prafat. commeat. in 4. Euag. cap. 2.

<sup>q</sup> In loc.

They containe two remarkable points : an Exultation : Reioyce greatly, &c.
 Exultation, or commendation of Christ, as a reason of this exceeding ioy : Behold, thy King commeth unto thee, iust, meeke, &c.

In the former ob- Exhorting } Principall, God : for the word of ferue the } Persons } the Lord came to Zacharie, Cap.
 } } 1. vers. 1. this then is not the } } word of man, but the voice of } } God.
 } } Instrumentall : Zacharie.
 } } Exhorted, Hierusalem.
 } Act, Reioyce.

In that Zacharie was Gods organ, marke the worthinesse of holy Prophets, as being the very tongues and pens of the blessed Spirit : and this dignitie belongeth also to their successors, Apostles, and other Preachers of the Word ; for S. Matthew speaks in the plural number, dicite, tell yee ; † concluding the Prophets and Preachers, whose office is to tell Hierusalem that her King and Saviour is come into the world to secke and saue that which is lost.

† Calvin & Martoras in loc.

Almighty God hath had in all ages, either Patriarkes, or Prophets, or Apostles, or Preachers, a Moses, or an Elias, a Zacharie, or a Paul, or an Athanasius, or an Augustine, or a Luther, or a Iewel, by whom hee spake to his beloued Spouse comfortably, Reioyce greatly daughter Sion : especially the Lord vseth to chuse Zacharies, that is, such as are mindfull of God, such as delight in the Law of the Lord, and exercise themselues therein day and night.

The persons exhorted are, daughter Sion, and daughter Hierusalem, that is, according to the vulgar Hebraisme, Sion and Hierusalem, as the Sonne of man, for man, and Sonne of floore, for floore, Esay 21. 10. and Psal. 72. 4. the children of the poore, for the poore, as Augustine vpon that place ; † daughter Sion, daughter Babylon, daughter Hierusalem, for Sion, Babylon, and Hierusalem ; a phrase not strange to the † Poet, who called the Grecians † Ribera in Hoseam cap. 10. Num. 28.

† Homer. Iliad. 7

—ἡ δὲ Ἀχαιοί.
 Now Hierusalem was the Metropolis of the Iewes, and Sion an eminent Mount adioyning to Hierusalem, and at this time the Iewes were the † people of God, and Hierusalem the † Citie of God. † At Salem was his Tabernacle, and his dwelling in Sion. Whereas therefore Saint Matthew, Tell yee the daughter of Sion, he meaneth, † vsing a synecdoche, Hierusalem. And whereas Zacharie names Hierusalem, hee † meaneth, the Church of God over the face of the whole earth, of which Hierusalem is a figure, and so the Text is to bee construed typically, not topically ; for this ioy concernes the Gentile so well as the Iew, the one as the roote, the other as the branch, as Paul sheweth in his Epistle to the Rom. chap. 11. Indeed Christ is the glory of his people Israel, but hee is the light of the Gentiles, illuminating all such as sit in darknesse, and in the shadow of death.

† Leuit 26. 12.

† Psal. 37. 2.

† Psal. 76. 2.

† Maldonat in loc.

† Iamseu in loc.

Here then obserue, that Christ is the Churches ioy, and only the Churches ioy : dumbe Idols are the Gentiles ioy : Mahumet is the Turkes ioy : Circumcision is the Iewes ioy : Antichrist is the Babylonians ioy : the Deuill Calicutes ioy : but onely Christ is our ioy : We † will reioyce and be glad in thee : † I am my beloueds, and my beloued is mine : Christ is so much the Churches, as that he is none others ioy : for as † Cyprian and other Catholike Doctors ; He that hath not the Church for his Mother, hath not God for his Father : and hee that hath not God for his Father, hath not Christ for his Saviour. † Per portam Ecclesie intramus in portam Paradisi : No Church, no Christ ; no Christ, no ioy.

† Cantic. 1 3.

† Cant. 6 2.

† Tract. de simplicitate prelatorum.

† Augustin. ser. 136. de temp.

This exultation appertaines onely to the Church : He that is not a sonne of Sion, a citizen of Hierusalem, is in the † gall of birternesse, and hath no part nor portion in this happinesse.

† Act. 8 23.

Now concerning the act; the matter is, to reioyce.

The manner, greatly to reioyce, with inbilation and shouting.

It is a received opinion in the world, that religion doth dull our wits, and daunt our spirits, as if mirth and mischief went alway together: but it is taught and felt in Christs schoole, that none can be so ioyfull as the faithfull, that there is not so merry a land as the holy land, and therefore Zacharie doth double his exhortation, Reioyce greatly, shout for ioy: and Zophony doth triple it, Reioyce O daughter Sion, be yee ioyfull O Israel, be glad with all thine heart, O daughter Hierusalem: Exulta, latere, iubila.

Now iubilation, as the <sup>h</sup> Fathers obserue, is so great a ioy, that it can neither bee smothered nor vttered: <sup>i</sup> Hilaris cum pondere virtus. In the words of Christ, <sup>k</sup> My yoke is ease, my burden is light. A new yoke is heauy, but when it is worne and dryed it waxeth ealie: Christ therefore did first weare and beare this yoke, that it might bee seasoned and made light for vs: hee commanded vs to fast, and himselfe did fast: hee commanded vs to pray, and himselfe did often pray: he commanded vs to forgiue one another, and himselfe pardoned. Againe, when he saith, My yoke is sweet, and my burthen is light, he doth insinuate, that the yokes of other are bitter, and their burdens heauy: that it is a forie seruice to be Satans vassall, or the worlds hireling, so that the good man takes more delight in performing his dutie, than the wicked can in all his villanies and vanities. I was glad, saith <sup>l</sup> David, when they said vnto me, wee will goe into the house of the Lord. And Psal. 84.2. My soule hath a longing desire to enter into the Courts of the Lord. And Psal. 81. Sing we merrily to God, &c.

An vpright Christian is a Musician, a Physitian, a Lawyer, a Diuine to himselfe: for what is sweeter Musicke than the witness of a <sup>m</sup> good conscience? What is better Physicke than <sup>n</sup> abstinere & sustinere: good diet and good quiet? what deeper counsell in Law, <sup>o</sup> than in hauing nothing to possesse all things? and what sounder Diuinitie, <sup>p</sup> than to know God, and whom he hath sent, Iesus Christ? On the contrary, the wicked is <sup>q</sup> wearied in his wayes, and discontented in his courses. A malicious man is a murtherer of himselfe, the prodigall man a theefe to himselfe, the voluptuous man a witch to himselfe, the couetous man a deuill to himselfe, the drunkard all these to himselfe, a murtherer to his bodie, a theefe to his purse, a witch to his wit, a deuill to his soule. The blinde <sup>r</sup> Poet saw so much:

— Semita certè

Tranquilla per virtutem patet unica vita.

<sup>s</sup> Saluianus hath pithily comprehended all in a few words; Nemo aliorum sensu miser est sed suo: & ideo non possunt cuiusquam falso iudicio esse miseri, qui sunt verè sua conscientia beati: hoc cunctis beatiore sunt religiosi, quia & habent quæ volunt, & meliora quàm quæ habent omninò habere non possunt. Fidei presentis oblectamenta capiunt, & beatitudinis futura premia consequentur.

Hitherto concerning the Prophets exultation: his exaltation followeth, Ecce Rex tuus, &c. The word Behold in the Bible is like John the Baptist, alway the fore-runner of some excellent thing: and indeed all our comfort consists in this one sweet sentence, Behold thy King commeth vnto thee.

Behold] Looke no more for him, but now looke on him: <sup>t</sup> Happy are the eyes which see the things yee see.

King] A reall and a royall Prince.

Reall, in regard of his <sup>u</sup> threefold title: <sup>v</sup> siure creationis.
<sup>w</sup> merito redemptionis.
<sup>x</sup> donopatris.

might, as being the Lord, verse 3. who commands, and it is done, verse 6. for he can doe whatsoeuer he will, and more than he will. A royall Prince, both in his affections and actions.

<sup>s</sup> Cap. 3. 14.
<sup>h</sup> Augustin. in
Psal. 65. & 94.
Gregor. moral.
lib. 28. cap. 14.
<sup>i</sup> Statius.
<sup>k</sup> Mat. 11. 30.

<sup>l</sup> Psal. 122. 1.

<sup>m</sup> Prou. 15. 15.
<sup>n</sup> Epictetus.

<sup>o</sup> 2. Cor. 6. 10.

<sup>p</sup> Ioh. 17. 3.

<sup>q</sup> Wisd. 5. 7.

<sup>r</sup> Iuuenal.

<sup>s</sup> De gubernatione Dei, lib. 1.

<sup>t</sup> Luk. 10. 23.

<sup>u</sup> Bern. lib. 3. de considerat.

A tyrant doth rob and spoyle the people, but the Messias is Iesus, a Saviour of his people, Matth. I. 21.

A tyrant is a wolfe to scatter and destroy the sheepe; but Christ is the good shepherd, who gaue his life for the sheepe Ioh. 10. 11.

Thy <sup>x</sup> Promited vnto thee, borne of thee, bred vp with thee, flesh of thy flesh, and bone of thy bone: not euery ones King, for Satan is Prince of the world; but thy King, for he is God of y Israel: his coming was sufficient for the whole world, but efficient onely for Sion: or thy King, because it is not enough to confesse in generall, that Christ is a King; for the Deuill himselfe beleeueth the <sup>z</sup> Maïor of the Gospell: but the daughter of Sion must assume and beleue the Minor, that Christ is her King, Esay 9. 6. To vs a Childe is borne, to vs a Sonne is giuen. There is great diuinitie, saith <sup>a</sup> Luther, in pronounes: a great emphasis in nobis and noster, as <sup>b</sup> Bullinger and Caluin note.

Commeth <sup>c</sup> Christ is the way, we <sup>d</sup> wanderers out of the way: <sup>e</sup> so that if the way had not found vs, we neuer should or could haue found the way, <sup>f</sup> nec opibus, nec operibus, nec opera.

Vnto thee <sup>g</sup> Tibi si credis, contra te si non credis: if incredulous, against thee: but if beleeuing, for thee: for thy, not his good, he <sup>h</sup> gaue himselfe for thee: <sup>i</sup> Nascens se dedit in socium, conuescens in cibum, moriens in pretium, regnans in premium. See Epist. Dom. 3. Quadrages.

What could haue beene said lesse, and yet what canst thou wish for more? For if Christ be a King, then he is able: if thine, then willing: if he come, hee respects not his paine: if hee come vnto thee, he regards not his profit: and therefore reioyce daughter Sion, shout for ioy daughter Hierusalem. These Glosses are common in the Fathers and Friers, and I shall often touch vpon them, especially Epistle and Gospell on Christmas day.

The second part of this Gospell insinuates } Thoughts.
how we must entertaine Christ in our } Words.
} Deeds.

For the first: we must beleue Christ to be that Iesus, verse 11. that great Prophet, who is the Messias and Saviour of the world.

For the second: we must professe and confesse this faith, hauing Hosanna in our mouths, and crying, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord, Hosanna in the highest, vers 9.

For the third: we must spread our garments in the way, cut downe branches from the trees, and straw them in the passage, verse 8. <sup>k</sup> that is, forsake all and follow Christ, profering and offering our selues wholly to his seruice: or, as the Epistle doth expound the Gospell, seeing our saluation is neere, the night past, and the day come, let vs cast away the workes of darknesse, and put on the armour of light, &c.

I am occasioned here iustly to dire their ignorance who doe not vnderstand, and correct their obstinacie who will not vnderstand the wisdom of the Church, so fitly disposing of the Gospels and Epistles, as that often the one may serue for a Commentarie to the other. As here Saint Matthew, Behold thy King commeth: And S. Paul, Our saluation is nigh, and the day is come. S. Paul doth aduise, not to make prouision for the flesh: and S. Matthew reports, how the people accompanying Christ, spread their garments in the way.

S. Paul commands loue in all men, S. Matthew commends loue in these men, who gaue such entertainment vnto Christ.

The whole Gospell is a <sup>l</sup> liuely picture of the Church, in which are foure sorts of persons especially:

1. Christ, who is King and head, verse 5. and 12.
2. Prophets, who loose men from their sinnes, and bring them vnto Christ, verse 2. and 7.
3. Auditors, who beleue that Christ is the Messias, openly professing this faith, Hosanna to the sonne of David, verse 9. and manifesting this faith also by their

<sup>x</sup> Rom. 9. 4.

<sup>y</sup> Luk. 1. 68.

<sup>z</sup> Bucer.

<sup>a</sup> Com. in 1. Gal. vers. 4.

<sup>b</sup> in Esai c. 9. 6.

<sup>c</sup> Iohn 14. 6.

<sup>d</sup> Esay 53. 6

<sup>e</sup> Aug. tracl. de Epicur. & Stoicus, cap. vlt.

<sup>f</sup> Pelican. in loc

<sup>g</sup> Glossa ex Christ.

<sup>h</sup> Ephes. 5. 2.

<sup>i</sup> Posit. cathol. con. 2. Dom. 1. Advent.

<sup>k</sup> Melanct. & Culman. in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Melanct. Posit. in loc.

their workes in obeying the Ministers of Christ, verse 3. and performing the best seruice they can, verse 8.

4. Aduersaries, who much ennie Christs kingdome, saying, Who is this? verse 10.

Concerning Christs feuerity toward those who plaid the Merchants in the Temple, see Gospell Dom. 10. post Trinit.

The Epistle. Rom. 15. 4.

Whatsoeuer things are written aforetime, they are written for our learning; &c.

THis Scripture containes in it three things concerning the Scripture :

What	} Shewing the	} authoritie.
When			} Scriptures	} antiquitie.
Why
	it is written. aforetime.
	for our learning.

For the first: things onely told, passing thorow many mouths, are easily mildred: it is long ere we get them, and we soone forget them. Almighty God therefore commanded that his Law should be written in bookes, and ingrauen in stone, that the syllables thereof might alway be in our eyes, so well as the found in oureares, and that for two causes especially :

1. That the godly man might <sup>m</sup> exercise himselfe therein day and night.
2. That the wicked might neither <sup>n</sup> adde to it, nor detract from it.

In like manner, albeit the <sup>o</sup> found of the thundring Apostles went out thorow all the earth, and their words vnto the ends of the world: yet the Spirit of wisdom thought it meet that there should be a treatise written of <sup>p</sup> all that Christ did and said: and that <sup>q</sup> from point to point: entituled, <sup>r</sup> The booke of the generation of Iesus Christ. The Scripture then is a Bible, because written: and the Bible <sup>s</sup> κατ' εἶδος, in many respects excelling all other bookes, especially for the maker and matter, in so much that Saint Paul saith, <sup>t</sup> If an Angell from heauen preach otherwise, let him be accursed. And <sup>v</sup> Iustin Martyr goes yet further: If Christ himselfe should preach another God, or another Gospell, I would not beleue him: Ipsē non crederem Domino Iesu.

This doctrine makes against vnwritten verities of Papists, and fond reuelations of <sup>u</sup> Anabaptists, and factious interpretations of Schismatickes, and impudent conceits of <sup>x</sup> Libertines; all which equal their own fantasies with the Scriptures authority.

The Papists and Schismatickes are all for a speaking Scripture: the Libertines and Anabaptists are all for an infused Scripture: the true Catholikes onely for the written Scripture; <sup>y</sup> to the Law and to the Testimonie. <sup>z</sup> Thy word is a lantern vnto my feet, and a light vnto my pathes.

The second point to bee considered is, that <sup>aa</sup> γραφαί are <sup>bb</sup> συναγραφαί, Scriptures written aforetime, being the first booke so well as the best booke: for as <sup>cc</sup> Tertullian was wont to call Praxeas, hefternum Praxean: so wee may terme the most ancient Poets and Philosophers, in comparison of Moses, vpstart writers. <sup>dd</sup> Omnia Graecorum sunt noua & heri. As Galaton painted Homer vomiting, Reliquos vero poetas ea quae ipse euomisset haurientes: to signifie, saith <sup>ee</sup> Alian, that he was the first Poet, and all other, as well Greeke as Latine, but his apes. In like manner Moses is called by <sup>ff</sup> Theodoret, Oceanus Theologia, the sea of Diuinitie, from whom all other writers as riuers are deriued. The which point as it is excellently confirmed by Theodoret, <sup>gg</sup> Clemens, <sup>hh</sup> Iosephus, and others, so it is ingenuously confessed euen by the heathen Historiographers: <sup>ii</sup> Eupolemus lib. de Iudaea regibus, auoweth Moses to bee the first wise man: <sup>jj</sup> Plato, that a barbarous Egyptian was the first inuenter of Arts; <sup>kk</sup> Appion, Pro-lomey, Palamon, haue granted the same: and vpon the point, Strabo, Plinie, Cornelius

<sup>m</sup> Psal. 1. 2.
<sup>n</sup> Ioshua 1. 8.
<sup>o</sup> Deut. 4. 2.

<sup>p</sup> Rom. 10. 18.
<sup>q</sup> Acts 1. 1.
<sup>r</sup> Luke 1. 2.
<sup>s</sup> Matth. 1. 1.

<sup>t</sup> Galath. 1. 8.
<sup>u</sup> Irenaeus cont. haes. lib. 4. cap. 14. & Euseb. hist. lib. 4. cap. 18.
<sup>v</sup> Melancton in locum.
<sup>x</sup> Martyr. in loc.

<sup>y</sup> Esay 8. 20.
<sup>z</sup> Psal. 119. 105.

<sup>aa</sup> Lib. contra Praxcom.
<sup>bb</sup> Iosephus lib. 1. contra Appion.
<sup>cc</sup> De varia hist. lib. 23.
<sup>dd</sup> De curat. Graec. affect. lib. 2.
<sup>ee</sup> In Protrept. Appion.
<sup>ff</sup> Clem. 1. Strom. In Epinonide.
<sup>gg</sup> Iustina. Mart. in aamonorio.

Cornelius Tacitus, and others, as Ficinus reports, lib. de religione Christiana, cap. 26. To demonstrate this more particularly; The Troian warre is the most ancient subiect of humane historie: but Troy was taken in the dayes of <sup>k</sup> Daniid, about the yeere of the world, <sup>l</sup> 2788. and Homer flourished <sup>m</sup> anno 3000. whereas Moses was borne <sup>n</sup> anno 2373.

Secondly, this <sup>o</sup> confutes the Marcionites and Manichees, and all such as reiect the old Testament. For the place, to which the text hath reference, is taken out of the 69. Psalme, verse 9. That the Scriptures of Moses and the Prophets are written for our instruction, it is plaine by Christs inunction, <sup>p</sup> Search the Scriptures: as also by that of our Apostle, 1. Cor. 10. These things hapned unto them for ensamples: and were written to admonish vs, upon whom the ends of the world are come. If all litle histories, then much more the great mysteries are our schoolemasters vnto Christ: Let vs examine therefore the third obseruable point, concerning the Scriptures vtilitie; Whatsoever things are written aforetime, they are written for our learning. The Scripture (saith Paul) is the peoples instruction: the Scripture, say the <sup>q</sup> Papists, in the vulgar tongue, is the peoples destruction. The Scripture, saith <sup>r</sup> Paul, doth make the man of God absolute: the Scripture, say the Papists, in a knowne language, makes men hereticall and dissolute; but the Bible makes men herctickes, as the Sunne makes men blind: and therefore <sup>s</sup> Wickliffe truly; To condemne the Word of God, translated in any language for heresie, is to make God an hereticke.

Not to presse this place nor vrge any other Scripture, wee may beate the Rhemish and Romish in this controuersie with their owne weapons, Antiquity and Custom. For it is <sup>t</sup> acknowledged that the Christians in old time read the Bible to their great edification and increase of faith, in their mother tongue. The <sup>u</sup> Armenians had the Psalter, and some other pieces of Scripture translated by Saint Chrysostome: The Sclauonians by Saint Hierome: the Goths by Vulpilas, and that before hee was an Arrian: The Italians three hundred yeeres since by James Archbishop of Genua: and the Bible was in French also two hundred yeeres agoe. Besides these, the <sup>x</sup> Syrians, Arabians, Ethiopiens, had of ancient time the Scriptures in their severall languages; as it is manifest by those portions of them, which are at this day brought from their countries into this part of the world.

To speake of our owne Countrey: venerable Beda did translate the whole Bible into the Saxon tongue, and the Gospell of Saint Iohn into English. King <sup>z</sup> Alfred also considering the great ignorance that was in his Kingdome, translated both the Testaments into his native language. Queene Anne, wife to Richard the second, had Scriptures translated in the vulgar, as Thomas Arundel, then Archbishop of Yorke, and Chancellor of England, mentioned at her funerall Sermon, Anno <sup>a</sup> 1394.

Moreouer, in a Parliament of this King Richard, there was a bill put in to disannull the Bible translated into English, vnto which Iohn Duke of Lancaster answered, and said; Wee will not be the refuse of all men: other nations haue Gods lawes in their owne language. Thomas Arundell, as we read in the constitutions of <sup>b</sup> Linwood, being translated vnto the See of Canterburie, made strait promission in a Councell holden at Oxford, that no version set out by Wickliffe or his adherents should bee suffered, being not approued by the Diocesan.

It is apparant then out of our owne Chronicles, that the Bible was turned into the mother tongue before and after the Conquest, before and after the time of Wickliffe, before and after the daies of Luther: and all this paine was vnderaken by good and holy men, that the people of God reading and vnderstanding the Scripture, through patience and comfort of the same, might haue certaine hope of another life.

As then I condemne the malice of Papists in forbidding, so likewise the

<sup>k</sup> Clem. r. Strö.
<sup>l</sup> Eucholcer in Chron. ad ann. 2788.
<sup>m</sup> Idem ad ann. 3000.
<sup>n</sup> Idem ad ann. 2373.
<sup>o</sup> Wickliffe in loc.
<sup>p</sup> Iohn 5. 39.

<sup>q</sup> B. Barmin. de verbo Dei lib. 2 cap. 15.
<sup>r</sup> 2. Tim 3. 17.
<sup>s</sup> In his Wicket.

<sup>t</sup> Sixtus Senen bib. lib. 6. annot. 152.
<sup>u</sup> Rhem. preface sect. 4.

<sup>x</sup> D Fulke answer to Rhemish preface, 2 bis supra.

<sup>y</sup> Fox Preface before the 4. Euang in the Saxon.
<sup>z</sup> H. flor. Eli. lib 1. cap 37.
<sup>a</sup> Polyd. Virg. hist. Anglican. lib. 20. fol. 420.

<sup>b</sup> Tit. de magistris.

negligence of carnall Gospellers, in forbearing to read those things aforesaid written for our learning. Our Forefathers heretofore spared neither cost nor paine: they ventured their crownes and their heads too for the new Testament in English, translated by Master Tyndall: and when they could not heare the Gospell in the Church publikely, they receiued much comfort by reading in their houses priuately: the very children became fathers vnto their parents, and begat them in Christ, euen by reading a few plaine Chapters vnto them in a corner: but in our time, when euery shop hath Bibles of diuers translations, editions, volumes, annotations, the number of those who can read is but small, the number of those who doe read is lesse, the number of those who read as they should, least of all. If a learned Clerke should pen a treatise for thy particular instruction, thou wouldest instantly with all diligence peruse it. If a Nobleman should send thee gracious letters concerning thy preferment, thou wouldest instantly with all diligence peruse it. If a Nobleman should send thee gracious letters concerning thy preferment, thou wouldest with all dutifull respect entertaine them. If thy father, or some other friend, taking a journey into a farre Countrey, should pen his Will, and leaue it in thine hands and custodie, thou wouldest hold it as a great token of his loue. Behold, the Bible is written by Wisdome it selfe for our learning, that we may bee perfect vnto all good workes. It is Gods e Epistle, and Letters Patent, wherein are granted vnto vs many gracious immunities and priuiledges: it is his Testament wherein all his will is reuealed, whatsoeuer he would haue done or vndone: and therefore let vs pray with the Church, that we may in such wise read holly Scriptures, heare, marke, learne, and inwardly digest them, that by patience and comfort of Gods holly Word, we may embrace and euer hold fast the hope of euerlasting life, through Iesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

c Chryso. in 2 Theff. 2. &
Rom. 2. in Gen.

The Gospell. L v k. 21. 25.

There shall be signes in the Sunne, &c. d Mal. 4. 2.

THe d Sunne of righteousnesse appeareth in three signes: } Leo.
} Virgo.
} Libra.

e Exod. 10. 19.

f Matth. 1. 25.

g Dan. 5. 27.

First roaring as a Lion in the Law: e so that the people could not endure his voice: Then in Virgo, borne of a f Virgin, in the Gospell: in Libra, weying our workes in his g ballance at the last and dreadfull audit. Or there is a three-fold comming of Christ, according to the three-fold difference of time } Past.

} Present.
} Future.

h Serm. 3. de aduentu Dem.

i Iohn 1. 14.

Which h Bernard hath vttered elegantly: Venit } ad homines.
} in homines.
} contra homines.

He came among men in time past, when as the Word was made i flesh and dwelt among vs: hee comes into men in the present by his grace and holly Spirit, Apoc. 3. 20. Behold I stand at the doore and knocke. He shall in the future come against men, to iudge both the quicke and the dead: but the Sonne of Man hath but two commings in the forme of man: his first comming in great meeknesse, his second in exceeding maiestie. At his first comming he rode vpon an Ass: in his second (as it is here said) he shall ride vpon the clouds. In his first comming hee came to be iudged: in his second he comes to iudge. In his first comming the people did triumph and reioyce, crying Hosanna: but in his second comming the people shall bee at their wits end for feare, and for looking after those things which shall come on the world.

In that therefore the Church hath adioyned this Gospell of his second comming vnto that other of his first comming, it doth teach all Teachers this lesson, that their song bee like Dauids, of <sup>k</sup> iudgement and mercy; that in all their Sermons they mingle faith and feare; <sup>l</sup> that they preach Christ to bee a Iudge so well as an Aduocate. This method Christ himselfe did vse, who did as well expound the Law, as propound the Gospell; who denounced woe to the proud Pharisees, and pronounced blessednesse to the poore in spirit; <sup>m</sup> who powred wine and oyle into the wounds of him that was halfe dead: oyle which is supple, wine which is sharpe: and when hee departed he gaue to the host two pence, <sup>n</sup> that is, to the Preachers who take charge of him, the two Testaments, and willed them to temper and apply these two till hee come againe, that thinking on the Gospell wee might neuer despaire, and thinking on the Law we might neuer presume: that looking vpon Christs first comming, we might reioyce; and expecting his second comming, we might feare, because there shall be signes in the Sunne and in the Moone, &c.

In handling whercof I will not trouble you with idle curiosities: onely note two plaine points especially,

To wit, the  $\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Certaintie} \\ \text{Vncertaintie} \end{array} \right\}$  of Christs second comming.

The certaintie, that he shall come: the vncertaintie, when he shall come.

The certaintie is declared here by

$\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Words:} \\ \text{Wonders,} \end{array} \right\}$   $\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Affirmed barely, verse 27. They shall see the} \\ \text{Sonne of man come in a cloud, \&c.} \\ \text{Enforced with an asseueration, vers. 22. Verily} \\ \text{I say vnto you, \&c. adding further a pe-} \\ \text{remptorie conclusion, verse 33. Heauen} \\ \text{and earth shall passe away, but my words shall} \\ \text{not passe away.} \\ \text{verse 27. There shall be signes, \&c.} \end{array} \right\}$

The words are spoken by Christ, as it is apparent, verse 8. Now Christ is truth: Ergo, this prophecie cannot bee false. That which hee foretold touching Hierusalem in this Capter, is in euery particular come to passe: why then should this prophecie bee thought vntrue concerning the worlds destruction, when as that other was true concerning Hierusalems desolation?

Zacharie foretold that the Messias in his first comming should in meeknesse ride vpon an Asse, and, as <sup>o</sup> Saint Matthew reports, all that was done: behold here a greater than Zacharie, tels vs that the Messias in his second comming shall ride vpon the clouds: and shall we doubt of his word, who is that eternal Word? Shall wee beleuee Zacharie, who was but one of the small Prophets, and shall we distrust him who is that great Prophet? Ioh 6. 14.

But because men will not beleuee him vpon his bare word, who made all the world with his word, Psal. 33. 9. He spake, and it was done: hee doth vse an oath and earnest asseueration in the 32. verse, Verily I say vnto you, &c. Because there is none greater than himselfe, hee doth sweare by himselfe, Truth doth protest by Truth, This generation shall not passe, till all be fulfilled.

The word generation hath perplexed as well old as new writers exceedingly. Sometime generation in Scripture signifieth an age: As P one generation passeth, and another commeth: and q the truth of the Lord endureth from generation to generation, that is, euer, from age to age. Now r generation in this acception is an hundred yeeres. So Nestor is said to liue trepe stades, three ages, that is, three hundred yeeres: and therefore some Diuines haue referred this vnto the destruction of Hierusalem onely, which hapned within an hundred yeeres after this prophecie: so learned <sup>s</sup> Erasmus and Beza construe the place, both of them, interpreting the word, atq; and the Translators of Geneva following them in our lesser English Bible, This age shall not passe: but

<sup>k</sup> Psal. 101 1.
<sup>l</sup> Ferus scrm. 1.
in Euangelium
Dom 2. Advent.
Et Acosta con. 1
Dom. 1. Advent.
<sup>m</sup> Luk 10 34

<sup>n</sup> Theophylact. in 10. Luk.

<sup>o</sup> Cap. 21. 4.

<sup>p</sup> Eccles 1 4.
<sup>q</sup> Psal. 100 5.
<sup>r</sup> Iansenius con- cord. cap. 124.

<sup>s</sup> Anno. in
Matth. 24. 34.

but as well the translation as obseruation is defectiue, because Christ saith here, This generation shall not passe, till all these things be done, ταυτα ποιητα, not onely those which concerne the desolation of Hierusalem, but all those likewise which concerne the worlds end.

Other by this generation vnderstand the nation of the Iewes, as Luke 17.25. The Sonne of man must be reprobued of this generation: and Matth. 23.36. All these things shall come upon this generation: that is, this nation.

S. <sup>u</sup> Hierom by generation vnderstands all mankind, as if Christ should say, the generation of men shall continue till all be fulfilled, and then in fine they shall acknowledge that I spake the truth.

x Chrysostome, y Theophylact, Euthymius, expound this of that generation onely z which seeke God; of Gods elect and faithfull people, as if Christ should speake thus; Albeit there be signes in heaven, and troubles on earth, yet a hell gates shall not preuaile against the Church: b I am with you alway, saith Christ, vnill the end of the world. The generation of such as beleue in mee shall not passe, till ail this be fulfilled: and therefore let none of my followers bee discouraged, but rather lift vp their heads, in that their redemption is so neere. This exposition I take to bee both pertinent and profitable, because Christ in this Chapter had foretold, that his Disciples should be persecuted and brought before Kings and Princes for professing his Gospell: verse 12. Yet this generation shall not passe, but there shall bee a Church alway to confesse the faith in despite of the deuill, c The Church one day shall passe too, but not till these things be done, then in the end it shall inherit a better possession in Gods own kingdome without end.

d Other by generation vnderstand all that time betweene Christs first coming and his last; for the whole world being diuided into three generations, a time before the Law, a time vnder the Law, a time after the Law: the time of the Gospell is Hora nouissima, the last houre: 1. Epist. Iohn 2. 18. and, We are they vpon whom the ends of the world are come: 1. Cor. 10. 11. so that ye shall not looke for another Gospell or another change; for the preaching of this Gospell and the world shall end together.

e Other by generation vnderstand not onely the Iewes or the Christians, or all men onely, but the whole vniuersall world, termed elsewhere the Creature. This generation, that is, this world, in which all things are generated, shall not end till these signes, forerunners of it ruine, shall come to passe. So Christ interprets himselfe in the verse following, Heauen and earth shall passe, but my words shall not passe away. That is, howloeuver the earth bee moueable, and the powers of heauen shake: though both waxe old as doth a garment, and all things in them are subiect to mutation and change, yet f Christ is yesterday, and to day, the same also for euer: so that if you will credit Christ, either vpon your owne reason and experience, or vpon his word and oath, beleue this also, that he shall come riding on the clouds with great power and glory to iudge both the quicke and dead.

Secondly, Christs coming to iudgment is shewed heere by wonders in heauen, in earth, and in the sea, which shall bee like harbingers of that dreadful and terrible day: There shall be signes in the Sunne, and in the Moone, and in the earth: the people shall be at their wits end through despaire: the sea and the waters shall roare, &c.

Euery man is desirous to buy the Kalender, that at the beginning of the yeere hee may know what will happen in the end: Merchants and Husbandmen especially, that they may see this yeere what dearth, or death, or other accidents are likely to ensue the next yeere. g Behold here Christs Prognostication, foretelling by signes in the Sunne, and in the Moone, and in the Stars, what shall come to passe in the end of our yeeres, as also what shall betide vs in the new yeere, the world to come. The h Mathematicians of the world neuer mentioned or dreamed of an vniuersall eclipse of the Sunne and Moone together, <sup>c</sup> Abulensis in loc. vii postil. cathol. con. 4. Dom. 2. Aduent. & Iansenius ubi supra.

<sup>u</sup> Com. in Mat.

24. 34.

<sup>x</sup> Aquin. caten.

in Matth. 24.

<sup>y</sup> In loc. Mat.

ubi supra.

<sup>z</sup> Psal. 24. 6.

<sup>a</sup> Matt. 16. 18.

<sup>b</sup> Matt. 28. 20.

<sup>c</sup> Origen & Aquin. caten. in Matth. 24.

<sup>d</sup> Postil. cathol.

ubi supra.

<sup>e</sup> Maldonat. in Matth. 24. 34.

<sup>f</sup> Heb. 13. 8.

<sup>g</sup> Barheleus Pontanus bibliothec. concionum Dom. 2. Aduent.

<sup>h</sup> Thomas supplement. quest. 73. artic. 2.

ther, onely Christs Almanacke reports this. I purpose not in particular to discusse any curious question, but onely to note in generall, that these wonders in heauen, and extraordinary troubles on earth, are manifest forerunners of the worlds ruine, that as we know Summer is neere when the trees bud, so when we see these things come to passe, we may be sure that the kingdome of God is nigh: for as a man that is dying hath many fantasies, euen so, saith Chrysostome, the world declining shall haue manifold errors, in so much if it were possible Gods elect should be deceiued, Matth. 24. 24.

Aristotle could not conceine the world should haue an end, because he thought and taught it had no beginning: but diuine Plato who liued in Egypt, and read (as it is <sup>i</sup> supposed) the bookes of Moses, acknowledged the worlds creation, and so subscribed to the worlds destruction, holding this axiome, Quod oritur, moritur, That which hath a beginning, hath an end, whatsoever hath an end, hath a beginning; the which is to be construed of compounded elementary substances, subiect to generation and corruption, as all things in this world are. For as we read in Scripture, Some things haue a beginning, but no end, as Angels, and the soules of men.

Some things haue no beginning, but yet haue an end, as Gods eternall decrees.

One thing, to wit, Ens Entium, Almighty God, hath neither beginning nor end: <sup>k</sup> who onely hath immortality of all other things: the <sup>l</sup> first and the last: and yet in himselfe there is neither first nor last.

Some things haue both a beginning and end, as the world, which had a creation, and is subiect to corruption. <sup>m</sup> The world passeth away, and the glory thereof, and then when as the powers of heauen shall be shaken, and the <sup>n</sup> element shall melt with heat, and the earth with the workes that are therein shall be burnt vp, then the Sonne of man shall come in a cloud with power and great glory.

Now this certainty of Christs comming to iudgement affordeth abundant matter of }	Comfort to the godly.

	Terror to the wicked.
	Instruction to both.

Comfort to Gods elect: for when these things come to passe, then, saith Christ in 28. verse, Lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth neere. Now you are profecuted and persecuted, deliuered vp to the Synagogues, and cast into prison, but at that great assise there shall be a generall goale deliuey, and you that haue done good, shall goe into euerlasting ioy, and your enemies who haue done euill, into cuerlasting fire. Here yee mourne, but hereafter all teares shall be wiped from your eyes: here yee sow in hope, but then ye shall reape with ioy: when as yee shall see the Sonne of man comming in the clouds, &c. As God is the God of comfort, so his booke is the booke of comfort: Whatsoever things are written aforetime, they are written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the Scriptures might haue hope.

The very soule of all the Bible is the Gospell: and the summe of all the Gospell is the Creed: and the maine point of all the Creed is that article concerning our resarreccion and hope of eternall glory, when Christ shall appeare. The Church then hath well annexed that Epistle to this Gospell, as a consolation against desolation. By the booke of comfort, we know that our Redeemer liueth, and that he will come againe to iudge and reuenge our cause.

We beleue that an eternall kingdome was secretly granted vnto vs in our election, openly promised in our vocation, sealed in our iustification, and that possession shall be giuen in our glorification: when as the iudge of the world shall say, Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit ye the kingdome prepared for you from the foundations of the world. <sup>o</sup> When the Lord, himselfe shall descend from brauen with a shout, and with the voice of the Archangell, and with the Trumpet of God; we shall be caught vp in the clouds to meet him, and so shall ener bee with him.

<sup>i</sup> Iustin. Martyr in admemorio.

<sup>k</sup> 1. Tim 6 16
<sup>l</sup> Apocal 1. 8.

<sup>m</sup> 1. Ioh. 2. 17

<sup>n</sup> 2. Pet 3. 10.

<sup>o</sup> 1. Thess. 4 16

And therefore pray we daily, Thy kingdome come : Come Lord Iesus, come quickly. Amen.

<sup>p</sup> Apoc. 9. 6.

Now as this is comfortable to good men, so most terrible to the wicked: as Christ, verse 26. Their hearts shall faile them for feare. They shall seeke death in those daies and shall not find it. And, as it is Apoc. 6. 16. They shall say to the mountaines and rockes, fall on vs, and hide vs from the presence of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lambe. This hath beene their day, wherein so farre as they could they haue done their will; the next is the Lords day, wherein they must suffer his will; <sup>9</sup> a day of anger, a day of trouble and heavinesse; a day of destruction and desolation; a day of obscuritie and darknesse; a day of clouds and blacknesse. The reprobate shall see the sonne of man in the clouds aboue, to condemne them: beneath, hell mouth open ready to deuoure them: before, the deuils hailing them: behind, the Saints and all their dearest friends forsaking them: on the left hand, their finnes accusing them: on the right, iustice threatning them: on all sides, the whole world made a bone-fire terrifying them; to goe forward, insupportable; to goe backe, impossible; to turne aside, vnauaileable: no maruell then if at the worlds end, men be at their wits end.

<sup>9</sup> Zeph 1. 15.

Thirdly, this administred instruction vnto all: for as it is in the Epistle, Whatsoeuer things are written aforetime, are written for our instruction. And this is so good a lesson, that if wee could obserue it well, wee should neede no more teaching: so saith the Wiseman, Remember the last things, and thou shalt neuer doe amisse.

<sup>c</sup> Eccles. 7. 36.

The last things are foure :
 { Death.
 { Iudgement.
 { Heauen.
 { Hell.

But the chiefe is iudgement: for all the rest attend it. Death is vs her to iudgement going before; Heauen and Hell executioners following after. Death would not be so fearefull, if iudgement did not follow: Hell would not be so painfull, if iudgement went not before: without it Heauen would not bee desired, nor Hell feared. He then that remembers the last day, remembers in it all the last things: and hee that remembers the last things, cannot doe amisse. Wherefore let vs euer embrace that godly meditation of S. Hierome: Whether I eat or drinke, or whatsoeuer I doe else, I thinke I heare the last trumpe: Arise yee dead and come vnto iudgment. The consideration of the worlds destruction is a sufficient instruction to keepe good men in honest courses, and to terrifie bad men from euill waies. Italians, in a great thunder, vse to ring their bells, and discharge their cannon shot, that the roing of the one, may lessen the terror of the other. <sup>c</sup> In like sort Satan hangs tinckling cymbals on our eares; and delights vs with the vanities and musicke of the world, that we may forget the sound of the last trumpe, and so that <sup>c</sup> day bee seene, before foreseene of most.

<sup>c</sup> Dier con. 1.
Dom. 1. aduent.
<sup>c</sup> Eu Bartas
 1. day, 1. week.
 fol. 15.
<sup>u</sup> Matt. 24. 36.
<sup>x</sup> Cap. 6. 2.
<sup>y</sup> Hieron. com.
 in loc. Isaie sup.
Præterita ante
mundum, & futu- tura post mun-
dum scire non possimus: sed media tantum
contemplamur.
<sup>z</sup> Ambrosius & Marlorat in
Matt. 24. 36.
<sup>a</sup> De gubernat.
Dei, lib. 3.

As it is certaine that Christ shall come; so most vncertaine when hee shall come: for he speaks of the time not definitely, but indefinitely: verse 25. Then there shall bee signes: verse 27. Then shall they see the sonne of man comming in a cloud: verse 28. When these things come to passe, then looke up, for your redemption draweth neere. But how neere now? <sup>u</sup> no man or Angell can tell. <sup>x</sup> Esay saw God in his throne, and the Seraphims stood vpon it, covering his face with two wings, and his feet with two wings: his face, <sup>y</sup> keeping vs from the secrets of Gods eternall predestination in the beginning: his feet, not disclofing when he will come to iudge the world in the end.

The certainty then of this vncertainty, may teach vs not to be <sup>z</sup> curious or carelesse; not curious, for why should wee presume to know more then other men? more then all men? more then Angels? more then Christ himselfe? It is a kinde of sacriledge, saith <sup>a</sup> Saluianus, to breake into Gods holy holy place, and pise into his secret Sanctuary, and to know more then hee would haue vs to know.

Christ's Apostles were his Secretaries, his especiall fauourites and followers, from whom hee kept nothing which was for their good, and yet hee said vnto them, <sup>b</sup> It is not for you to know the times of the seasons, which the Father hath put in his owne power. The glorious Angels abound with much knowledge, naturally, experimentall, reuealed, hauing faire better meanes of knowledge then wee: for as much as we know the Creator by the creatures; whereas they know the creatures by the Creator. <sup>c</sup> Opus habet humana anima, quasi quodam vehiculo Creaturae, ut ad cognitionem Creatoris assurgat. Cum è contrà longè perfectius angelica natura in Creatore notitiam habet creaturae: Angels alway <sup>d</sup> behold the face of God in heauen, which as in a glasse they see much more then is possible for vs on earth to discern. Let not then an heauy lump of clay presume to know more then heauens heralds: and yet Christ, to satisfie further our curiosity, saith in the thirteenth of Marke, that himselfe knowes not that day and houre. Now <sup>e</sup> the disciple is not aboue his master, nor the seruant aboue his Lord: It is enough for the disciple to be as his master is, and the seruant as his Lord. He is a foole that will be wiser then Wisedome it selfe: but Christ as man was either ignorant of it, or else had no commission to reueale it: or as <sup>f</sup> Aquine, Dicitur nescire, quia non facit scire: Hee is said himselfe not to know, because he <sup>g</sup> would not haue vs to know. Such as will enquire more touching that text, may see Sixt. Senen. Bib. sent. lib. 6. annot. 105. Suarez Combricen. tract. 3. in Matth. Bellarm. lib. de anima Christi, cap. 5. sect. Item de quarto. Iansen. concord. cap. 124. Maldonat. in Matth. 24. 36. Wesselus Groning. lib. de causis incarnationis Christi, cap. 16. I will end with the saying of <sup>h</sup> Augustine: Ne nos addamus inquirere, quod ille non addidit dicere. <sup>i</sup> Let vs not seeke the things that are too hard for vs: but that which God hath commanded let vs thinke vpon with reuerence. <sup>k</sup> Secret things belong to the Lord; reuealed things vnto vs.

Secondly, this vncertainty of Christ's second coming, may teach vs not to be carelesse: Nam idcolatet vltimus dies, ut obseruetur omnis dies: God would haue vs ignorant of the last day, that we might bee vigilant euery day. This vs Christ makes in the words immediatly following my text: and Matth. 24. 42. and Mark. 13. 33. It behoueth vs, vpon whom the ends of the world are come, to be more watchfull, because Satan is growne more wrathfull, Apocal. 12. 12.

<sup>1</sup> as Lysards cut in peeces.

*Threat with more malice, though with lesser might:
And euen in dying shew their liuing spight.*

The Father of mercies and God of compassion increase our faith, and fill our lamps with oyle, that when the Bridegroom shall come, we may meet him, and enter with him into the wedding; <sup>m</sup> where there is ioy beyond all ioy, pleasure without paine, life without death, euery thing that is good, without any thing that is euill. Amen.

The Epistle. 1. COR. 4. 1.

Let a man this wise esteeme vs, euen as the Ministers of Christ, &c.

THe people of <sup>n</sup> Corinth in Pauls age, like the people of <sup>o</sup> England in our time, were very factious and humorous, extolling some Preachers, and despising other indiscreetly, without either iudgement or loue. Saint Paul therefore rebukes sharply this insolent rashnes, and sheweth in this Scripture, 1. What euery man should iudge, verse 1. Let a man, &c.

<sup>b</sup> Act. 17.

<sup>c</sup> Bernard. ser. in vltis Psalmi: Audiam quid loquatur in me Deus. fol. 245.

<sup>d</sup> Matt. 18. 10.

<sup>e</sup> Matt. 10. 24. 25.

<sup>f</sup> Part 2. q. 10. art. 2. ex August. no. 2. lib. 83. questionum, quest. 10.

<sup>g</sup> R. Sponsum nescendi non nature, sed voluntatis, ut Hil. lar de Trin. lib. 6.

<sup>h</sup> Epist. 146.

<sup>i</sup> Eccl. 1. 3. 22.

<sup>k</sup> Deut. 29. 29.

<sup>l</sup> Du Bartas: 1. day, 1. week.

<sup>m</sup> Aug. soliloq. cap. 35.

<sup>n</sup> 1. Cor. 3. 3.
<sup>o</sup> Suruey of he pretended holy disc. 29.

2. What

2. What he should not iudge of the } 1. Report, verse 2.
Preachers : in which point hee doth } 2. Reproue their fault, and that two waies :

1. ΕΠΙΧΡΙΣΙΣ, by way of correction, I passe very little to be iudged of you, &c. verse 3. 4.

2 ΔΟΥΛΕΥΣΙΣ, by way of direction, He that iudgeth is the Lord, and therefore iudge nothing before the time, verse 5.

Let a man ] Whereas the Corinthians ascribed either too much or too little to their Teachers, our Apostle shewes a p meane, Let a man this wise, &c. neither magnifying them as Christ, for they are not Masters but Ministers, and yet not vilifying them as ordinary seruants in Gods house, for they are stewards, and that of Gods owne secrets.

Albeit Paul p plant, and Apollos water, onely God giueth increase. Paul r planted in preaching, Apollos watered in baptising : some plant by their words, other water by their workes ; some plant by doctrine, other water by their exhortation : some plant by speaking, other water by writing, but in all God is all.

He that planteth is nothing, he that watereth is nothing, f that is, no great thing, no principall agent, but a subordinate instrument : wherefore let not a man boast in men, whether it be Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death ; whether they bee things present, or things to come, euen all are yours, and ye Christs, and Christ Gods. If then the Preachers are yours, and you are Christs, and Christ Gods, r as of him, and through him, and for him are all things, so vnto him, and not vnto men, giue all the praise and glory.

Let a man esteeme vs not as Christ, but as the Ministers of Christ, not as Lords, but as stewards in Gods house : now stewards administer not their owne goods but their masters, and one day must account for them, and therefore ye must haue, and we behaue our selues as accountants. m Antichrist then is not the Vicar of God, but a factor of Satan, in preaching his owne Decrees, and equalling them with the diuine Law.

But albeit Preachers are seruants, yet are they not meane, but high stewards : and this is an exceeding great dignity to bee Christs mouth, Christs voyce, Christs messengers, Christs Angels, in so much as x he that receiveth them, receiveth him, and he that despiseth them, despiseth him, as ambassadors speaking from him, and for him, as our Apostle y elsewhere. They be not only common ambassadors, but legati à latere, stewards of his hidden secrets : not onely dispensatores ministeriorum, as in the vulgar Latine ; but z according to the original, mysteriorum, administers of his Sacraments, which are mysteries, and Preachers of his faith, which is a deepe secret, 1. Tim. 3. 16. of all other the greatest : and yet it is the a Ministers proper office, with Iohn Baptist to shew the Lambe of God, which taketh away the sinnes of the world.

They are the mouth of God in preaching to the people, and againe the peoples mouth in praying to God ; euen mediators as it were betweene God and man : as Moses said of himselfe, Deut. 5. I stood betweene the Lord and you, to declare vnto you the word of the Lord. This doth intimate how we should teach, and you should heare. First, how we should preach : If any man speake let him talke as the words of God. 1. Pet. 4. 11.

It is a good obseruation, that the Lawyer ought to begin with reason, and so descend to common experience and authority. The Physician he must begin with experience, and so come to reason and authority : but the Diuine must begin with authority, and so procede to reason and experience.

2. This may teach you to heare our voice ; b not as the word of men, but as it is indeed the Word of God. Christ said of the wicked Pharises in the 23. of Saint Matthew, Qua dicunt, facite : Doe as they say, but not as they dee : c Dicunt enim quæ Deisunt, faciunt quæ suasunt : They doe their owne works, but speake the Lords word. And therefore so long as the Preachers deliuer the p Martyr. &

Ca. viii. in loc.

q 1. Cor. 3. 6.
r Augustin contra Iueros Petil.
lib. 3. cap. 55.

t Aquin. in loc.

u Rom. 11. 36.

v Luther postil.
maior. in loc.

x Matt. 10. 40

y 2. Cor. 5. 20.

z Erasmus in
locum.

a Luther. loc.
com. iii. de ministerio verbi.

b 1. Theff. 2. 13

c Aug contra Iueros Petil.
lib. 2. cap. 6.

the wholesome words of our Lord Iesus, <sup>d</sup> or doctrine which is according to his words, you must entertaine them as Angels of God, euen as Christ Iesus; honouring their place, and reuerencing their persons. And this I take to be the pith of the first part.

In the second, Saint Paul teacheth how we must not iudge: first hee reports, then reprocues their fault His report is in these words: <sup>e</sup> Hic iam queritur, &c. <sup>f</sup> Et non est: <sup>g</sup> Here among you Corinthians it is discussed and disputed who is a faithful Minister, and who is vnfaithfull.

And herein they wrong both God, his Word, and his Ministers: God, to whom onely iudgement belongs in this case. Some peraduenture may iudge of the Ministers eloquence; many of his industrie, but none of his faithfulness: which is the <sup>h</sup> chiefe thing required in a steward. A man may bee fruitfull and yet not faithfull; an instrument to saue other, and yet bee condemned himselfe: for hee may preach Christ, not for Christ, but happily for other respects: as the fornicator makes delectation his end, not generation; so the Preacher, <sup>i</sup> adulterans verbum, as it is in the vulgar, intends not to get children in Christ vnto God, but gaine or glory to himselfe. Yee know the men, yee know not their mind: yee see their fact, not their faith; onely God knowes the secrets of all hearts.

Secondly, it is an iniury to Gods Word, in hauing the faith of our glorious Lord Iesus Christ in respect of persons, Iames 2 1. It is not any who, who may either priuledge any error, or preiudice a truth: if another Gospell, hold him accursed, although the Minister bee an Angell: if a truth, doe as they say, though the teacher bee a deuill: poison in a golden cup is as hurtfull as in an earthen pot: wine in a siluer bewle no better then in a wooden dish. When one saith, I am Pauls, and another, I am Apollos, are yee not <sup>k</sup> carnall? Is not this grosse carnality, to set vp Idols in the Church, and to worship them in stead of God?

Thirdly, this is an indignitie to the Preachers, in that artlesse men will take vpon them to iudge of Art. By the <sup>l</sup> lawes of the land, a person occupying the craft of a Butcher, may not vse the occupation of a Tanner; and a Brewer may not deale in the occipation of a Cooper: Quod medicorum est promittunt medici, traſtiam fabrilia fabri. None prescribe physicke but such as are Doctors, at least practitioners in the facultie: none plead at the common barre, but such as are learned in the law: yet euery one, as Hierome complaines in an Epistle to Paulinus, takes vpon him exact knowledge in Theologie, and will teach both Clerke and Priest what they should say, what they should doe. So that often it fareth with Preachers, as it doth auiway with fish, none so welcome as new come: If a stranger happily come among vs, albeit hee bee neuer so weake for his learning, neuer so wicked for his lining; yet all the country must gad after him, and neglect their owne Pastors: <sup>m</sup> as Christ in the Gospell, A Prophet is not honoured in his owne citie, and in his owne house. This was a foule fault in Corinth: Apollos and Cephias and Paul were despised, while false teachers were deified. Indeed Paul writes in the third Chapter of this Epistle, as if some followed him, and other Apollos: himselfe for his plaine doctrine, and Apollos for his excellenr eloquence. But in the sixth verse of this Chapter he saith, hee applied those things vnto himselfe, and Apollos figuratiuely; <sup>n</sup> meaning that Peter and Apollos and himselfe were neglected, and other vpstart seducers onely regarded: he did vse the names of Gods Apostles in his censure for the benefit of the Corinthians: For your sake, that ye might learne by vs that no man presume about that which is written, and that one swell not against another for any mans cause.

So men in our dayes are too partiall in hearing and censuring their Teachers: as one said, Auditorics are like Faires; the Pedler and the Ballad-monger hath more company then the graue rich Merchant: Children and fooles hang vpon them who sell toyes, and neglect those who haue their shops stuf with good

<sup>d</sup> 1.Tim.6.3.

<sup>e</sup> Hier.in loc.

<sup>f</sup> Erasmus in locum.

<sup>g</sup> Aquin & Gorran, in loc.

<sup>h</sup> Matt.24.45.

<sup>i</sup> 2.Cor.4.2.

<sup>k</sup> 1.Cor.3.4.

<sup>l</sup> Poultons Abridgment, tirc, Brewer, and Butcher.

<sup>m</sup> Matt.13.57.

<sup>n</sup> Aquin. in loc.

good commodities : and this assuredly doth discourage many Pastors learned and profitable. For every man hath not a magnanimous spirit, spernere se sperni, to tell his auditory with Paul, I passe very little to be iudged of you. For so this fault is reproned in the third verse.

The false teachers had extolled themselves and disgraced him ; affirming that his bodily presence was weak, and his speech of no value, Saint Paul therefore having the testimonie of a good conscience, resolutely tells the Corinthians, I little passe to be iudged of them, or you, or any man : Hee Paul faith not, I esteeme not at all ; but I little regard : that is, not so much respect your iudgement, as that I should be discouraged in doing my duty. The witnessse of conscience is more comfortable then the vulgar breath : in comparison of the one, I little prize the other. Or as 9 Gorran : It were a great thing to be iudged of such as are spirituall ; but it is a very small thing to bee iudged of you, who are thus carnall. As Seneca : Male de me loquuntur, sed mali ; mouerit si de me Marcus Cato, si Lilius sapiens, si duo Scipiones ista loquerentur : nunc malis displicere laudari est.

Either of mans iudgement.] Our Apostle wils vs to rebuke with all long suffering and doctrine. Now himselfe is a patterne of his owne precept : for lest he should seeme too bitter in chiding the Corinthians, and despising their iudgement ; he doth in this clause somewhat qualifie his speech, insinuating that hee doth except against all others iudgement, so well as theirs. Happily some will object, it is vnciuill and vnchristian, not to regard what men speake of vs : As we must haue care of our conscience, so likewise of our credit :

Qua semel amissa postea nullus eris.

It is good in our courses to gaine the fore-game ; for it is exceeding hard to play an after-game of reputation. Answer is made, that albeit Paul esteemed little their iudgement in regard of himselfe, as expecting the praise of God, and hauing a good certificat from his owne conscience ; yet in respect of other who might hereby be scandalized, and so the Gospell hindred, hee was assuredly grieued, and therefore reprocues here their fault boldly, that they might repent heartily : To me it is little, but vnto other it is a great scandall, that I should be thus abused and neglected of you.

I iudge not mine owne selfe.] I know more by my selfe then you or any man else : and yet I cannot iudge my selfe, therefore much lesse ought ye to iudge me. This seemes contradictory to that of Paul : If we would iudge our selues we should not be iudged, I answer with Aquine, that there is a threefold iudgement :  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} 1. \text{Discussionis.} \\ 2. \text{Condemnationis.} \\ 3. \text{Absolutionis.} \end{array} \right.$

Every man may, ye must iudge himselfe with the two former ; hee must examine himselfe, and vpon examination altogether condemne himselfe. Every man ought daily to commune with his owne heart, and to search out his spirit, Psal. 77. 6. Scopbam spiritum, I did as it were sweepe my soule : 7 Diligenter attende, quantum proficias vel quantum deficias : Examine thy selfe whether thou hast gone forward or backward in the waies of the Lord. Summon thy selfe, as it were before another, and so sift the whole course of thy life, wherein thou hast offended in thought, word, deed ; by sinnes of omission, or commission, against God, thy neighbour, and thy selfe. Iudge thine owne selfe in secret before thy selfe, and thou shalt not bee condemned at the last day before all the world. Doe this, faith 2 Bernard, Si non semper, aut saepe, saltem interdum : If not alwaies, or often, at least sometime : especially, faith our Apostle, when yee come to receiue the blessed Sacrament of our Lords Supper : Let a man examine himselfe, and so let him eat of this bread, and drinke of this cup.

The second kinde of iudgement is of condemnation. So 2 Iob : I will reprocue my waies in his sight. b If I would iustifie my selfe, mine owne mouth shall condemne

o 2. Cor. 10. 10

p Martorat. ex Martyr. in loc.

q In locum.

r De remedijs fortuitorum ad Galionem.

s Ouid.

t 1. Theff. 2. 6.

u 1. Cor. 11. 31
x In locum.

y Bernard. meditat. cap. 5.

z Vbi supra.

a Cap. 13. 15.

b Cap. 9. 20.

condemne me. So <sup>c</sup> David: Enter not into iudgement with thy seruant, for in thy sight shall no man liuing be iustified. And Saint <sup>d</sup> Iohn: If we say we haue no sinne, we deceiue our selues, and the truth of God is not in vs.

A Christian in this world is <sup>e</sup> mundus et mundandus: cleane in part, and in part to be made cleane: <sup>f</sup> all his perfection consists in acknowledging his imperfection; all his righteoussesse in <sup>g</sup> forgiuenesse of sinnes, rather then in perfection of vertue. Yea but, say the Pelagians, and after them the Papiests, Elizabeth and Zacharie were iust, obseruing all the Commandements and ordinances of the Lord, Luk. 1. 6. Iob an upright man departing from euill, and preserving his innocency, Iob 2. 3. In David no wickednesse, Psalm. 17. 3. and heere Paul, I know nothing by my selfe.

I answer to the first: If Zacharie was a Priest, then a sinner: for as we read, Heb. 7. 27. the Priests manner was first to offer sacrifice for his owne sinnes, and then for the peoples. If then Zacharie did sacrifice, he had sinne, and sinne is a transgression of the Law: so that he did not exactly keepe the whole Law, but himselfe and his wife so farre obserued the Commandements, as that they were blamelesse in the worlds eie: <sup>h</sup> no man could iustly condemne them for doing vniustly.

But as <sup>i</sup> Augustine said, Va etiam laudabili vita hominum, si remota misericordia, discutitur carnis: Woe to the commendable life of man, if God set mercy aside in iudging of it.

Euen their owne <sup>k</sup> Bernard confesseth ingenuously, that if the Lord should take a strait account of vs<sup>h</sup> his stewards, it were impossible that any should answer the thousandth, yea the least part of his debt, nec millesime nec minime parti.

For the commendation of Iob, it is not simple, but comparatiue: There was none like him on the earth; at least none so righteous in that part of the earth in the land of Vz. <sup>l</sup> It was a great praise to be so good among that people, who were so bad. According to the measure of humane perfection Almighty God hath giuen him so great testimony of righteoussesse, saith <sup>m</sup> Augustine: Hast thou not considered my seruant Iob? how none is like him in the earth, an upright and iust man, one that feareth God, and eschueeth euill. But himselfe is afraid of himselfe: Verebar omnia opera mea: So the Romish translation hath it: I was afraid of all my workes, Iob 9. 28. And in the second verse of the same Chapter: How shall a man be iustified before God? and in the third verse: If I contend with him, I shall not be able to answer him one for a thousand.

Now for David, his praise was not generall, but particular and partiall. There was no wickednesse found in him, <sup>n</sup> that is, no plot or practise against Saul; whereof hee was accused vniustly: but otherwise in other things, his sinnes were so many, and those so heauy, that hee crieth out in the 38. Psalme, Put me not to rebuke, O Lord, in thine anger, &c. David was no traytor, but David was an adulterer, and a cruell murtherer: He turned from nothing the Lord commanded him all the daies of his life, saue only in the matter of Uriah the Hittite, 1. Kings 15. 5.

What, had David no fault else, but onely that against Uriah? Yes surely, David was <sup>o</sup> conceiued in sinne, and shapen in wickednesse. As hee was the sonne of many yeares, so the father of many sinnes. In his priuate conuersation he did so much offend, as that hee saith in the 130. Psalme, If thou O Lord be extreame to marke what is done amisse, oh Lord who may abide it? That text then is to bee construed of his publike government, as the circumstances import; as hee was a King, the Scripture giueth him this commendation, that, excepting the matter of Uriah, hee gaue no publike scandall in the whole time of his raigne. David was in many things a bad man, but in most things a good King.

So likewise this speech of Paul, I know nothing by my selfe, is not <sup>p</sup> generall, extended to the whole course of his life, but particular touching his Apottleship.

<sup>c</sup> Psal. 143. 2.
<sup>d</sup> 1. Epist. 1. 10.

<sup>e</sup> Aug. tract. 80. in Ioan. alluding to that of Saint Iohn,
chap. 15. 2. 3.
<sup>f</sup> Hieron. epist.
ad Ctesiphort.
tom. 2 fol. 254.
<sup>g</sup> Augustin. de ciuit. Dei li. 19.
cap. 27.

<sup>h</sup> Bascr. & Be-za in locum.
<sup>i</sup> Confess. lib. 9.
cap. 13.

<sup>k</sup> Ser. de qua duplici debito.

<sup>l</sup> Gregor. Mora.
lib. 1. cap. 1.
<sup>m</sup> De peccato-rum meritis &
remissione, lib. 2.
cap. 12. tom. 7.
fol. 472.

<sup>n</sup> Euthymius in
locum.

<sup>o</sup> Psal 51. 5.

<sup>p</sup> Calvin in loc.

¶ Sermon 3.
before King Edward the sixth.

† Rom 7.24.
† Ephes. 3.8.
† 1. Tim. 1.15.

¶ In locum.
* Psal. 19.12.

† Prou. 21.2.
† Prou. 20.9.
* D. Fulk in loc.
D Abbot contra
Bishop, pag. 574.
Caluin institut.
lib. 2. cap. 14.
Sect. 18. & cap.
17. sect. 14.

Apostleship. No Bishop <sup>a</sup> Latimer said : As for sedition, for ought that I know, me thinks I should not need Christ : if I might so say. Paul knew nothing, that is no vnfaithfulness in exercising his ministry ; which hee did vtter here, not to iustifie himselfe, as it is apparent in the next claue, but to glorifie God. As we find in the fifteenth chapter of this Epistle, verse 9. I am the least of the Apostles, not worthy to be called an Apostle, because I persecuted the Church of God : but by the grace of God I am that I am, and his grace was not in vaine, for I laboured more abundantly then them all ; yet not I, but the grace of God which is with me. Saint Paul then, assisted with Gods especiall grace, found nothing in himselfe to condemne himselfe, for his vnfaithfulness in preaching : but in other actions hee was so buffered with Satan, and ouerladen as it were with his infirmities, as that he grieuouly <sup>r</sup> complaineth : O wretched man that I am, who shall deliuer me from the body of this death ? Hee that calls himselfe in <sup>c</sup> one place the least Saint, in <sup>e</sup> another acknowlegeth himselfe the greatest sinner. But what neede we looke any further ? He that here saith, I know nothing by my selfe, saith also, yet herein am I not iustified : as I doe not condemne, so not absolue my selfe. The Papist then in citing this text, hath lost a pound to gaine a penie : For although a man doe all that hee can, hee is still an vnprofitable seruant. I know no vnfaithfulness in mee, yet I am not hereby iustified : for, as <sup>m</sup> Gorran and Aquine note, Paul might haue many secret sinnes vnknowne to himselfe : according to that of <sup>x</sup> David ; Who can tell how often hee offendeth ? O cleanse thou me from my secret faults. Every way of a man (saith <sup>y</sup> Salomon) is right in his owne eie : but the Lord pondereth the heart : and who can say, <sup>z</sup> I haue made mine heart cleane ? Or, as <sup>a</sup> our Diuines expound it, howfoeuer Paul was faithfull in his office, yet his and all our good workes are stained with some blemish.

There was iniquity in the holy sacrifices of the children of Israel : but their high Priest did beare their iniquity to make the offering acceptable before the Lord : Exod. 28.38. There is vnholinesse in our holiest actions, but Christ our high Priest hath borne the iniquity : and they are accepted of God in him not by themselves or their owne perfection, but as perfumed with the sweet incense of Christs obedience : who to make both vs and them acceptable, gaue himselfe an offering and a sacrifice of a sweet smelling fauour to God : Ephes. 5.2. See Epist. Dom. 3. Quad ages.

The Gospell. M A T T H. II. 2.

When Iohn in prison heard the workes of Christ.

THis Gospell hath two principall parts : } A question moued by Saint Iohn Baptist, in the 2. 3. verses.
} An answer made by our Sauour Christ in the rest.

In the question foure things are regarded : } 1. The place where : in prison.
} 2. The time when, he heard the workes of Christ.
} 3. The messengers : he sent two of his Disciples.
} 4. The message : Art thou he that shall come, &c.

Christs answer concerneth either the } Message } of Iohn.
} or } } Person }

That which concerned the message of Iohn, he deliuered vnto the messengers : verse 4, 5, 6. Goe and shew Iohn what ye haue heard and seene.

That which concerned the person of Iohn, hee deliuered vnto the multitude when the disciples of Iohn were departed : verse 7, 8, 9, 10.

Wherein

Wherem obserue these three circumstances: } 1. When: After Iohns disciples were gone, auoiding hereby all flatterie.
 } 2. To whom: To the multitude, confirming in them a reuerend opinion of Iohn.
 } 3. What: his speech altogether tended vnto the praise of Iohn.

And it is partly } Negatiue, shewing what he was not for his life, verse 7 8.
 } Affirmatiue, shewing what he was for his office, verse 9. 10.

This I take to be this Gospels anatome and epitome.

When Iohn, in prison. ]<sup>b</sup> Many are the troubles of the righteous. If they were many, and not troubles, then as it is in the prouerbe, the more the merrier: or if they were troubles, and not many, then the fewer the better cheere. But it hath pleased Almighty God to couple them both together, in nature troubles, in number many, that thorow many tribulations wee might enter into the kingdome of God, Act. 14. 22.

<sup>b</sup> Psal 34. 18.

Some therefore are touched in their reputation, as Susanna; some crossed in their children, as Ely; some persecuted by their enemies, as Dauid; some wronged by their friends, as Ioseph; some tormented in their body, as Lazarus; some suffer losse of goods, as Iob; some restrained of their libertie, as here Iohn in prison. As Naples is called in <sup>c</sup> historie, the butt, and Millaine the bale of fortune; so the good man is the butt of the wicked, whereat he shoots his sharpest head arrowes: and therefore we must put on Gods armour, following S. Iohns example. When we are in prison, or in any other affliction, we must not flie to witches, or relie too much on men, but immediatly send to Christ; I say send two messengers vnto God, our almes and our praies: for they will doe our errand for vs, as they did for Cornelius, Act. 10 4.

<sup>c</sup> Ortelius.

Not to follow the common postils in this argument, I note out of these two circumstances, of place and time. two commendable vertues in Iohn, to wit, his discretion and humilitie. The disciples of Iohn held their master a greater Prophet then Christ: albeit he told them plainly, that he was not worthy to vntie the latchet of Christs shooe, Matth. 3. 17. Behold then his exceeding wisdome, who sent his disciples vnto Christ, when himselfe was most abaied in regard of his present imprisonment, and imminent death, and when Christ on the other side was most famous for his wondrous workes and strange miracles: When Iohn being in prison, heard the workes of Christ, he sent two of his disciples vnto him.

The Disciples of Iohn had three faults, as wee finde in the Gospel: } Enuie: <sup>d</sup> Behold, he that was with thee beyond Iordan baptizeth, and all men follow him.
 } Ignorance: supposing <sup>e</sup> Iohn to be Christ.
 } Incredulitie: ioyning with the Pharises against Christ, saying, <sup>f</sup> Why doe we and the Pharises fast oft, and thy disciples fast not?

<sup>d</sup> Iohn 3. 26.

<sup>e</sup> Iohn 3. 28.

<sup>f</sup> Matth 9 14

Now in <sup>g</sup> Christs schoole there were three perfections opposite to these three defects: Examples of humilitie against enuie: words of wisdome against ignorance: works of wonder against incredulitie. Iohn therefore sent his disciples vnto Christ, that seeing his humilitie, their enuie might be lessened; that hearing his wisdome, their ignorance might be rectified; that wondring at his workes, their incredulitie might be confounded: and because <sup>h</sup> faith is the mother of all vertues, and infidelitie the nurse of all wickednesse, the Baptist then sent his disciples, when he heard of the great workes of Christ; that going, they might see; seeing, wonder; wondring, beleue; beleueing, be faued.

<sup>g</sup> Iacob. de uorag ser. 1. Dom.
3. Advent.

<sup>h</sup> Clem. Strom. 2.

A good example for all <sup>i</sup> Preachers to follow; that they take their hint, and best opportunitie to benefit their auditor's. Euery Pastor is a steward in Gods house; and a steward must not only provide meat enough, but also prepare it in due season: otherwise, faith <sup>k</sup> Bernard, it is not dispensatio, but dissipatio.

<sup>i</sup> Marlorat ex
Caluia. in loc.

<sup>k</sup> De Consid. li. 3.

<sup>1</sup> Ludolphus de vita Christi, part.
1. cap. 56. &
Zepperus con. 1.
Dom. 3. Advent.
<sup>m</sup> Diez con. 2.
<sup>n</sup> 1. Tim. 5. 8.

This ought to be their first and last <sup>1</sup> care : for Iohn in prison euen at death's doore was most carefull to commend his schollers vnto the best Tutor : and this patterne fits all Parents, as well as Preachers. In a word, all <sup>m</sup> superiours that they bee watchfull, for the good of such as are vnder them. <sup>n</sup> If: here be any that provideth not for his owne, and namely for them of his house hold, he denieth the faith, and is worse then an Infidell. If such as neglect their families in temporall things, bee worse then Infidels; how bad are they who neglect them in spirituall things, vsing no paines in their life, nor care at their death; that their seruants and children after their departure, may be brought vp in instruction and information of the Lord?

But that which is especially noted out of those circumstances, is Iohns humility, who was not vaine-glorious, or factious, or any way desirous to draw Disciples after him, but rather to send them vnto other, who could better instruct them. If all our Preachers were like Iohn, there would be much lesse diuision, and much more deuotion in the Church. An itching Shepheard must necessarily make a scabby Sheepe.

He sent.] When the Pastor is restrained of his liberty, let him not cease to prouide for his Flock : when the Master of the family cannot come to Church himselfe, let him send his seruants vnto Christ.

Two.] For mutuall society, because <sup>o</sup> two are better then one : if one fall, the other may lift him vp ; if one forget, the other may remember : and yet not moe then two, lest turba should proue surbulenta, lest many heads should make many Creeds. <sup>p</sup> As Iosuah sent two to spie the promised Land; so Iohn sent two to spie the promised Lord.

Art thou hee that shall come.] At the first sight hereof some may suppose that Iohn did doubt, whether Christ was the true Messias or no : for otherwise he would neuer haue sent his Disciples with this question; Art thou hee that shalt come, &c. But if you call to minde that which is written before; that Iohn baptized Christ in Iordan, and how he saw the holy Ghost descending vpon him, and how he pointed him out with the finger, This is the Lambe of God. Or if you shall aduisedly consider what followeth after this question of Iohn in this present Chapter, what honorable testimony Christ gaue of him, that he was not a reed shaken with the winde; that is, an inconstant man, one that preached Christ to be come, and now to make question of his coming: that he was a Prophet, yea more then a Prophet : if, I say, we note the Text either precedent or consequent, it will appeare more manifest then light at noon, that Iohn himselfe did no way doubt of Christ : and therefore to let passe all other expositions, I follow with the whole streame of <sup>q</sup> late writers, that old interpretation of S. <sup>r</sup> Hierome, <sup>s</sup> Chrysostome, <sup>t</sup> Theophylast, <sup>u</sup> Enthyminus, <sup>v</sup> Hilary, <sup>w</sup> Rupertus, all which are of this opinion, that Iohn Baptist made not this doubt in regard of himselfe, but in the behalfe of his doubting Disciples, as yet not throughly perswaded that Christ was the Sauour of the world : and therefore did he send them vnto Christ, that by occasion of Christs answer, hearing his words, and seeing his wonders, they might be fully satisfied, and in fine saued.

A candle being put in a close roome, will shew forth it selfe thorow the little crannies of the wais, and chinkes of the window. Iohn was a <sup>x</sup> burning and shining lampe : and therefore though he was shut vp in prison, yet notwithstanding shined in his humility, wisdome, loue, zeale before men, euen like the Sunne giuing the greatest glimpse at his going downe.

Go and tell Iohn.] Why tell Iohn? He knew before that Christ was the Messias : he might haue said rather; I tell you; nor, Goe you and shew Iohn : <sup>y</sup> but Christ would take no notice of their vnbeleefe, lest he should shame and discourage them too much.

What you haue heard and seene.] What you haue heard of others, and seene your selues : for as S. <sup>z</sup> Luke reports at that very time before their eyes, for our Sauour cured many of their sicknesses and plagues, and of euill spirits, and vnto

many

• Eccles. 4. 2.

<sup>p</sup> Beauxamis
bar. Euang. tom.
2. fol. 355.

<sup>q</sup> Tansen, concord. cap. 47
Beauxamis 2 bi supra, Culman.
con. 1. Dom. 3.
Aduent.
Musculus, Mal-
dou &c. in loc.
<sup>r</sup> Com. in loc.
<sup>s</sup> Hom. 27. in Mat.
<sup>t</sup> In locum.
<sup>u</sup> Lib. 9. in Mat.
fol. 80.
<sup>v</sup> Iohn 5. 35.

<sup>w</sup> Maldonat, in
locum.

<sup>z</sup> Chap. 7. 21.

many blinde men he gaue sight : as if he should reason thus ; I haue made the premises ; it remaineth only that ye gather the conclusion : <sup>a</sup> hee that enlightneth the eyes of the blinde, and openeth the eares of the deafe, and <sup>b</sup> bindeth vp the broken hearted, and preacheth good tidings vnto the poore, &c. hee is assuredly the Messias of the world : But I doe all these ; therefore goe tell John what yee haue heard and seene, the blinde receiue their sight, the lame walke, &c. Ye know the tree by his fruit. <sup>c</sup> Non ex folijs, non ex floribus, sed ex fructibus. Here then we may learne to teach ignorant people with our workes as well as our words, that all men may see, so well as heare what we are.

Yea, but why did he not shew them in plaine termes, but demonstrate by miracle, that he was the Messias? He told the woman of <sup>e</sup> Samaria before she did aske : why then did he not tell them when they did aske? Chrysostome giues this reason ; because Christ knew the woman of Samaria would easily beleene, therefore he vsed a bare word onely : but the Disciples of John were hard of beleefe, and therefore hee thought it best to teach them by workes, and not by words : <sup>f</sup> I haue greater witnesse then the witnesse of John ; for the workes which the Father hath giuen me to finish, the same workes that I doe, beare witnesse of mee, that the Father hath sent mee. Wherefore, & though yee beleene not me, yet beleene the workes : Goe shew what ye haue seene ; the blinde receiue their sight, the lame walke, the leapers are cleansed, and the deafe heare, the dead are raised vp, &c. These <sup>h</sup> workes which I haue done, the like whereof were neuer done, testifie that I am hee who should come : and so will your master John, that hee looke for no other. This answer was thought sufficient by Christ, which is wisdom in selfe : Goe and shew John the things that yee haue heard and seene. But if Christ now will finde any faith among our Atheists, hee had need to come with new miracles, I might haue said with more then miracles, lest our searching wits finde the reason of them : or otherwise conclude them to be but our ignorance of the cause. Men and gods, as it is in the fable of the golden chaine, were not able to draw Jupiter downe to the earth, and yet Jupiter was able to draw them vp to heauen : so wee must submit our reason vnto faith, and not faith vnto reason.

And as they departed, Iesus began to say vnto the people. ] This part of our Saviours answer concernes the commendation of John : if <sup>i</sup> Alexander the great accounted Achilles happy for that hee had so good a trumpeter of his honor as Homer, what an exceeding glory was it for the Baptist to bee thus extolled by Christ, who being truth it selfe would not flatter, and could not lie?

<sup>k</sup> Diuines out of these circumstances of persons and time, note Christs wisdom and sinceritie ; wisdom, who did not magnifie John before those who did already praise him too much : his sinceritie, that would not flatter him before his owne Disciples, albeit hee did extoll him before the people, when they were gone. It is an old saying of <sup>l</sup> Gregorie : Plus nocet lingua adulatoris, quam gladius persecutoris ; The word of the flatterer hurts more then the sword of the persecuter.

A malicious enemy doth often good by telling vs of our vices, but a fawning friend wrongs vs in telling vs of our vertues : either commending that which we haue not, or too much extolling that which we haue : the which is termed in the Canon law, simonia linguae, verball simonie. <sup>m</sup> Salt was vsed in the legall sacrifices, but not honie, that our lips may offer vp acceptable sacrifice to God. Wee must haue salt in our <sup>n</sup> speech, and not honie complements, as being more desirous to correct our acquaintance wisely, then to flatter them basely.

<sup>o</sup> *Si dona non sunt dona, qua dant hostium:
Nec verba que dant verba, sed sunt verbera.*

The Parasite, saith the <sup>p</sup> Poet, hath bread in one hand, and a stone in the other ; vsing as the Jewes did Christ ; carrie vs vp to the top of an hill, and then cast vs downe headlong. <sup>q</sup> Christ therefore rebuked the Pharisies before their

<sup>a</sup> Esay 35.5.<sup>b</sup> Esay 61.1.<sup>c</sup> Bern. epist.

107.

<sup>d</sup> Ludolph ubi
supra, & Acolia
Con. 3. Dom. 2.
Aduent.<sup>e</sup> Ioh. 4. 26.<sup>f</sup> Ioh. 5. 36.<sup>g</sup> Ioh. 10. 38.<sup>h</sup> Ioh. 15. 24.<sup>i</sup> Cicero orat. pro Archia poe.O fortunate, qui lue virtutis Homerum pra-conem inueneris.<sup>k</sup> Ludolphus : Beauxamus :
laesen: Marlo
rat: Bucer: &c.
in loc.<sup>l</sup> In Ezkiel.<sup>m</sup> Leuit. 2. 13.<sup>n</sup> Colof. 4. 6.<sup>o</sup> Reusner. class.

1. Symbol. p. 145

<sup>p</sup> Plautus.<sup>q</sup> Luk. 4. 29.

face, but commended John behind his backe, not to his owne, but to the people, lest they should entertaine an ill conceit of him who was a Preacher and a Prophet: and here by the way note, that the difference betweene the Disciples of Christ and John in matter of ceremonies, as fasting and washing of hands, made no schisme in the Church; but John gaue this testimonie of Christ, that hee was not worthie to loose the latchet of his shooe: and Christ here commends highly both the carriage and calling of John; affirming of the one, that hee was not an inconstant or vaine main; of the other, that he was a Prophet and more then a Prophet. There are three kinds of Prophets, according to the three-fold distinction of time: some write of things past, as Moses: In the beginning God created, &c. penning an hexameron many yeares after the world was made: some of things to come, so Christ was foretold by the mouth of all his holy Prophets euer since the world began: some of things present, as Zacharias in his song; Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for hee hath visited and redeemed his people: Christ being then conceived had begun his visitation. And such a Prophet was old Simeon at Christs Circumcision: Mine eyes haue seene thy saluation. Now John is more then any of these, because hee is all these; prophecyng of things past, I am the voice of him that cryeth in the wildernesse, opening an old text of Esay: prophecyng of things present, Behold the Lambe of God, that taketh away the sinnes of the world: prophecyng of things to come, Repent, for the kingdome of God is at hand.

Secondly, John is more then a Prophet; for whereas other prophecied onely in their life, John was a Prophet in his mothers belly before hee was borne: for when Elizabeth heard the salutation of Mary, the babe sprang in her wombe; the which was so sensible a prophecie, that Elizabeth instantly called Mary the mother of our Lord.

Thirdly, John was greater then the Prophets vnder the Law, because they prophecied of Christ to come, but John bare record that hee was come, being, as Diuines haue termed him, a midling, betweene a Prophet and an Apostle: a Propheticall Apostle, and an Apostolicall Prophet: u Limes inter utrumque constitutus, in quo desinerent vetera, & noua inciperent: The Baptist then is more then a Prophet, in pointing him out with the finger, who is the very center of all the Prophets aime.

Fourthly, greater then a Prophet, x in that hee baptised the Lord of the Prophets.

But what need wee looke any further, when as our Sanior in the very next verte giues a sufficient reason of this assertion out of the Prophet Malachie: This is hee of whom it is written, Behold I send my messenger before thy face, &c.

z Other Prophets are sent to men, but John to God, from God the Father to God the Sonne: Behold, saith God the Father, I send mine Angel before thee, &c.

Christ in all his Sermons vsually cited text for the prooffe of his doctrine: so John the Baptist; I am the voice of a cryer, as saith the Prophet Esay: So Saint Peter, This is that which was spoken by the Prophet Ioel: so Saint Paul buildeth all his exhortations and conclusions vpon euidence of holy writ; teaching vs hereby, that howsoeuer the descant bee fetched out of the schoole, yet the grounds of all our preaching must be taken out of Gods owne Booke. Beleeue this, for it is written: do this, for it is written. a Audi, dicit Dominus, non dicit Donatus, aut Rogatus, aut Vincentius, aut Hilarius, aut Augustinus, sed dicit Dominus. Expound one text by comparing it with another; for the Prophets are b commentaries vpon Moses, and the Gospell is a short exposition of both: and that you may the better performe this, examine the questions, harmonies, concordances, anpotations, glosses of the learned Doctors in Christs Church from time to time: for it was an impudent speech of Abelardus, Omnes sic, sed ego non sic: and worthily censured by Bernard: Os talia loquens sustibus in istius sunderetur, quam rationibus refelleretur. For as the Word of God

Cap. 40. 3.

Luk. 1. 41.

Beauxamis Harmon. tom. 2. fol 258. & Albert. in loc. & Calvin Instit. lib. 2. cap. 9. Sect. 5.

Tertullian. lib. 4. contra Marcion.

Hieron. in loc.

Cap 3. 1.

Maldonat. in locum.

Augustin. epist. 48.

Doron Bapst. con lib. 1. pag. 8.

Epist. 19c.

was not penned in old time, so likewise not to bee construed in our time by any priuate spirit, 2. Pet. 1. 20, 21.

Behold I send my messenger.] Our Euangelist reports this as spoken by God the Father, but the Prophet as spoken by the Sonne: Behold, I will send my messenger, and hee shall prepare the way before mee. This altering of the persons hath troubled Interpreters a little: <sup>d</sup> some therefore thus, I send my messenger before my face; that is, before my Son, Heb. 1. 3. This obseruation is true, but not pertinent: <sup>e</sup> for to send a messenger before a mans face, is nothing else but to send a messenger before him, as Hab. 3. 5. Before him went the Pestilence: and Ieremie Lament. 1. 5. Her children are gone into captiuitie before theemie: Ante faciem tribulantis; and so Christ expounds it here, before thy face, that is, before thee.

Now for the changing of the persons, it is vsuall in the Bible: Saint <sup>f</sup> Peter affirms that the Word of God was written by the holy Ghost; but Saint Paul saith, Heb. 1. 1. that God the Father in old time spake by the Prophets. <sup>g</sup> Esay doth ascribe this vnto the Sonne; My people shall know my name, in that day they shall know that I am he who sent to them: and the reason hereof is plaine; because all the workes of the sacred Trinitie, quoad extra, bee common vnto all the three persons, and so God the Father, and God the Sonne, and God the Holy Ghost send. The persons diuersitie then alters not the sacred Identitie: but as <sup>h</sup> Interpreters obserue, that text of Malachie compared with this of Matthew, proue notably that God the Father and God the Sonne are all one, their power equall, their Maiestie coeternall.

My messenger.] In the vulgar Latine, Angelum meum: <sup>i</sup> Origen therefore thought Iohn was an Angell; but other Expositors more fitly, that the Baptist was Angelus officio, non natura; so Malachie calls other Prophets, Angels, in his 2. chap. 7. The Priests lips shall preserve knowledge, and they shall seeke the Law at his mouth, for he is the messenger of the Lord of hosts: Angelus Domini: so Preachers are called <sup>k</sup> Angels in the New Testament, that is, messengers and ambassadors of God; and here the Gospell agrees with the Epistle. This is a patterne of Saint Pauls precept: Preachers are to bee respected as the Ministers of Christ, and stewards of God, for God saith of Iohn the Baptist, Behold I send my messenger, &c.

Happily some will obiect, if ordinarie Prophets are called Angels, how doth this testimonie proue Iohn to bee more then a Prophet? Answer is made by Zacharie, <sup>l</sup> that Iohn is ναρ' ἰσοχλω, the Prophet, and here by Matthew, that Angell, as it were bedell or gentleman vsher vnto Christ. As then in a solemne triumph they be most honoured, who goe next before the King; so Iohn being next vnto Christ, euen before his face, is greater then they who went farre off: hee was the voice, Christ the word: now the word and the voice are so neere, that Iohn was taken for Christ. Againe, Iohn may be called that Angell, in <sup>m</sup> regard of his carriage so well as his calling; for albeit hee did no miracle, yet, as <sup>n</sup> one said, his whole life was a perpetuall miracle: first his conception was wonderfull; begotten, saith <sup>o</sup> Ambrose, with praier: Non tam complexibus quam orationibus: An Angell from Heauen auoucheth as much in the first of Luke, vers. 13. Feare not Zacharie, for thy praier is heard, and thy wife Elizabeth shall beare thee a sonne, and thou shalt call his name Iohn. It was another miracle, that a babe which could not speake, yea, that was vnborne, began to execute his angelicall office, and to shew that Christ was necre: that dumbe Zacharie should prophesie, was a third wonder at his circumcision; and so the whole life of Iohn was very strange, liuing in the wildernesse more like an Angell then a man: and in a word, those things which are commendable in other severally, were found in him all iointly, being a Prophet, Euangelist, Confessor, Virgin, Martyr; liuing and dying in the truth and for the truth. I know not (as <sup>p</sup> Ambrose speaks) whether his birth, or death, or life was more wonderfull.

<sup>d</sup> Pet. Galat. de arcant. li. 3. ca 12. & Iansen concord. cap. 13.
<sup>e</sup> Ribera in Malach. 3. num. 4. 5.

<sup>f</sup> 2. Pet. 1. 21.

<sup>g</sup> Cap. 52. 6.

<sup>h</sup> Hieron Iansen. Maldonat. in locum.

<sup>i</sup> Vt Beda in cop. 1. Marc.

<sup>k</sup> Apoc. 2. 1. 8. 12.

<sup>l</sup> Luke 1. 76.

<sup>m</sup> Theophylact. in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Maldonat. in locum.

<sup>o</sup> Serm. 63.

<sup>p</sup> Vbi supra.

How John doth prepare the way before Christ, is shewed in the Gospell on next Sunday ; yet obserue thus much in generall, that it is the Ministers office to shew men the right way to saluation, and to bring them vnto God : our Sauiour hath promised to come vnto men ; it is our duty therefore to knocke at the doores of your heart, by preaching faith and repentance, to prepare the way for our master, that when himselfe knocks he may be let in, and so sup with you, and dwell with you, and you with him euermore. Amen.

The Epistle. PHIL. 4. 4.

Reioyce in the Lord alwayes : againe, I say reioyce.

A Text of reioycing against the time of reioycing : whereby the Church intimates how we should spend our Christmas ensuing ; not in gluttonie and drunkenesse, in chambering and wantonnesse, doing the deuill more seruice in the twelue dayes, then in all the twelue moneths : but rather <sup>9</sup> in Psalmes, and hymnes, and spirituall songs, making melody in our hearts vnto the Lord : I say the Church allotting this Scripture for this Sunday, teacheth vs how this holy time should bee well employed, not in vnholinesse and mad merriments among lords of misrule, but in good offices of religion, as it becomes the seruants of him who is the God of order : obseruing this Festiuall in honour of Iesum, not Iacobus ; alway praising our heauenly Father, in louing vs so well as to send his Sonne to saue his seruants : and lest wee should erre in our spirituall reuels, obserue in this Epistle both

The  $\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Matter} \\ \text{Manner} \end{array} \right\}$  of our ioy.

The matter and object of our ioy : reioyce in the Lord.

The manner : how  $\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Long} ; \text{ alway reioyce.} \\ \text{Much} ; \text{ againe and againe reioyce.} \end{array} \right\}$

It is an old rule in <sup>r</sup> Philosophie, and it is true in Diuinitie, that affections of the minde, as, anger, feare, delight, &c. are in their owne nature neither absolutely good, nor simply euill, but either good or bad, as their object is good or bad. As for example, to bee angry or not angry, is indifferent : Bee angry, and sinne not, faith <sup>t</sup> Paul ; there is a good anger. Whosoever is angry with his brother vnadvisedly (faith <sup>c</sup> Christ) is in danger of iudgement ; there is a bad anger. So Matt. 10. 28. Feare not them that kill the body, and are not able to kill the soule : but rather feare him which is able to destroy both soule and body in hell. So likewise to reioyce, or not to reioyce, in it selfe is neither absolutely disgracefull, nor altogether commendable : we may not reioyce in the toys of the world, in frowardnesse, or doing euill : faith <sup>u</sup> Salomon : Non in vitijs, non in diuitijs, faith <sup>x</sup> Bernard : y Woe be to you that thus laugh, for ye shall weile and weepe : but we may delight in the Lord, faith Dauid. Reioyce in Christ, faith Marie : then our ioy is good, when as our ioyes object is good, yea God ; as Paul here ; Reioyce in the Lord.

As sorrow is a straitning of the heart, for some ill : so ioy the dilating of the heart for some good, either in possession or expectation. Now Christ is our chiefe good ; as being author of all grace in this life, and all glory in the next : and <sup>z</sup> therefore wee must chiefly reioyce in him, and in other things onely for him : in him, as the donor of euery good and perfect gift : for him, that is, according to his will : as the phrase is vsed, 1 Cor. 7. 39. If her husband be dead, seee is at libertie to marrie with whom shee will, onely in the Lord.

So then we may reioyce in other things ; for the Lord as in the Lord : wee may reioyce in our selues, as being the Lords ; and in other, because they reioyce in the Lord, Psal. 16. 3. All my delight is vpon the Saints that are in the earth, and vpon such as excell in vertue : So likewise wee may reioyce with the

<sup>9</sup> Colof. 3. 16.

<sup>r</sup> Arist. Ethic. lib. 2. cap. 5.

<sup>c</sup> Ephes. 4. 26.
<sup>t</sup> Mat. 5. 22.

<sup>u</sup> Prou. 2. 14.
<sup>x</sup> Ser. de nimia fallacia presentis vite, fol. 329.
<sup>y</sup> Luke 6. 26.

<sup>z</sup> Zanchius in Philip. 3. 1. ex Grecorum sol. 0. lys.

the <sup>a</sup> wife of our youth, and disport our selues in good company : we may make Christmaspies, and Haruest dinners : in a word, reioyce in euery thing which may further our spirituall reioycing in the Lord. But <sup>b</sup> whether we eat, or drinke, or whatsoeuer we doe else, all must be done to the honor and glory of God. Reioyce in the Lord alwaies : and againe I say reioyce.

Yea but Christ, Mat. 5. 4. Blessed are they that mourne : Luk. 6. 21. Blessed are they that weepe. <sup>c</sup> This reioycing is not contrary to that mourning : for such as mourne are blessed in being comforted : and comforted by reioycing in the Lord. Reioyce, saith <sup>d</sup> Christ, in that day and be glad, when any shall hate you for my sake : the which his Apostles accordingly fulfilled, Acts 5. 41. They departed from the Councell reioycing, that they were counted worthy to suffer rebuke for his Name : that Christ would vse them as his <sup>e</sup> buckler : and Rom. 5. 2. We reioyce in tribulations. The Father of mercies and God of all consolation comforteth vs in all our afflictions : <sup>f</sup> As the sufferings of Christ abound in vs, so our consolation aboundeth through Christ. <sup>g</sup> He doth appoint comfort to such as mourne in Sion : hee doth giue beauty for ashes, oyle of ioy for sorrow, the garment of gladnesse for the spirit of heauinesse : so that a martyr when hee is most mournfull, is mirthfull : hee speaks of his tormentor, as <sup>h</sup> Socrates of Anitus ; and <sup>i</sup> Petus of Nero the tyrant, Occidere me potest, ledere vero non potest : He may well kill me, but hee shall neuer ill me. Nihil cruc sentit in neruo, cum manus est in caelo, saith <sup>k</sup> Tertullian : Euery cut is a wide mouth to praise Christ, as the Martyr <sup>l</sup> Romanus sweetly :

*Tot ecce laudant ora quot sunt vulnera.
Grates tibi o preserte magnas debeo, Quo multa pandens ora, iam Christum loquor.*

Blessed are they that die for the Lord, because they reioyce in the Lord. No losse, no crosse can interrupt our spirituall ioy : for as it followeth in the text to be considered, it must be continuall, alway reioyce. The Christian must keepe Christmas all his life, though not in his hall, yet in his heart : alwaies in his minde, albeit not alway with his mouth.

It is a true rule deliuered in the schoole, that Gods affirmatiue lawes <sup>m</sup> obligant semper, sed non ad semper : ad semper velle, but not ad semper agere ; requiring disposition perpetuall, and practise so often as occasion is offered. Holy, iust, valiant men are they who can whensoever they will, and will whensoever they ought, execute what their seuerall imperfections import. There is a time for all things, and therefore seuerall duties ought to bee discharged in seuerall seasons. He that saith here, reioyce alway, saith in another place, <sup>n</sup> pray continually, and in all things giue thanks : and therefore wee need not alwaies actually pray, nor actually giue thanks, nor actually reioyce, in word and outward gesture, but as opportunity shall require. If then as time, neuer a better time, then this holy time : neuer greater cause to <sup>o</sup> shout out for ioy, then now, for that our King comes vnto vs : it is our bounden duty alwaies intentionally ; but at this time with Psalmes and songs actually. No sin, no sorrow must hinder our spirituall reioycing. For in all our aduersity God is euen at hand ; <sup>p</sup> not onely nigh in his Maiestie. <sup>q</sup> though doubtlesse hee bee not farre from euery one of vs, but also nigh in his mercy, Psalme 145. 18. The Lord is nigh vnto all them that call vpon him. <sup>r</sup> A very present helpe in trouble. Yea the Lords second comming is at <sup>s</sup> hand, when as he shall iudge and reuenge our cause ; rewarding vs with eternall happinesse, and punishing our aduersaries with euermourning fire : and therefore reioyce alwaies in all things : I say, reioyce in the Lord, for we cannot alway reioyce in the things of this life. <sup>t</sup> The world passeth away, and the lust thereof, but Christ is euermore the same : the beginning and end of all other things, himselfe without either beginning or end ; if then our ioyes object bee God, it may bee continuall : but if fixed on earthly things, exposed to manifold changes and chances, it must necessarily bee mutable. <sup>u</sup> Gaudium in materia conuertibili mutari necesse sit re mutata. So that as

the

<sup>a</sup> Eccle. 9. 9.

<sup>b</sup> 1. Cor. 10. 31.

<sup>c</sup> Theophylact.
& Marlorat.
ex Beom. in lo.
<sup>d</sup> Luk 6. 23.

<sup>e</sup> Bernard. de considerat. lib. 2.

<sup>f</sup> 2. Cor. 1. 5.
<sup>g</sup> Esay 61. 3.

<sup>h</sup> Plato in Apo-log. Socratis, & Epicle: Enchi-rid. cap. ult.

<sup>i</sup> Xi. b. lxx. in vita Neronis,
<sup>k</sup> in lib. ad
Martyr.

<sup>l</sup> Prudentius Per Stephan.
hymn. 10.

<sup>m</sup> Thomas 120.
quest. 71. 5. 5.
ad. 3. n.

<sup>n</sup> 1. Thess. 5. 17

<sup>o</sup> Zachar. 9. 9.

<sup>p</sup> Aquin. in loc.
<sup>q</sup> Acts 17. 27.

<sup>r</sup> Psal. 46. 1.
<sup>s</sup> 1. P. ct. 4. 7.

<sup>t</sup> 1. Joh. 2. 17.

<sup>u</sup> Bernard. serm de nimia fallacia preuentis viti.

<sup>a</sup> Quid de pomis,

<sup>110</sup> 4

<sup>y</sup> Prou. 14. 15.

<sup>z</sup> Bullinger com.

<sup>4</sup> Apocal.

<sup>a</sup> Psal. 125. 1.

<sup>b</sup> Theophylact.

<sup>1110c.</sup>

<sup>c</sup> Marlorat.

<sup>in locum.</sup>

the <sup>x</sup> Poet truly Gaudia principium nostri sunt sæpè doloris. <sup>y</sup> Euen in laughing the heart is sorrowfull, and the end of mirth is heauinesse. The world is a sea of glasse, Apocal. 4. 6. <sup>z</sup> brittle as glasse, tumultuous as the sea : but hee that reioycesth in the Lord, is like <sup>a</sup> mount Sion which standeth fast for euer. If then any desire to reioyce alway, let him reioyce in the Lord.

And againe I say, reioyce. ] The <sup>b</sup> troubles of this life are so great, and our patience so little, that Paul doubleth his exhortation <sup>c</sup> to presse the duty, and expresse our dulnesse : and indeed our reioycing cannot bee continued, except it be multiplied againe and againe : reioyce therefore for mercies already receiued, and againe, reioyce for mercies hereafter promised. For receiued grace : first, for thy creation : Almighty God might haue made thee a dull Ass, a venemous Serpent, an vglie Toade ; whereas he created thee according to his owne Image and similitude, as it were diuinitatis epitome. For the world is Gods booke, and man is Index of that booke, or a commentary vpon that text : reioyce therefore in the Lord, and say with <sup>d</sup> Dauid ; What is man that thou art so mindfull of him, or the Son of man, that thou shouldest visit him ? Thou hast crowne d him with worship and glory : thou makest him to haue dominion of the workes of thy hands, and thou hast put all things in subiection vnder his feet, as a ladder whereby men might ascend to the consideration of thy greatnesse and goodnesse.

<sup>d</sup> Psal. 8.

For thy preferuation, he might haue denied thee sight, as hee did to Bari. mens, or made thee deafe or dumbe, or a cripple, as wee read of many in the Gospell, and daily see many crying and dying in our streets. If the Lord of hostes had not beene thy guard, all other creatures his souldiers would haue banded themselues against thee ; fire would haue deuoured thee, water would haue drowned thee, mother earth would open and swallow thee quicke ; <sup>e</sup> the stone out of the wall, the beame out of the timber would fight against thee : but <sup>f</sup> hee hath giuen his Angels charge ouer thee, to keepe thee in all thy waies : he doth defend thee vnder his wings, and <sup>g</sup> blesse thy going forth, and thy comming home ; blesse the fruit of thy body, the fruit of thy ground, the fruit of thy cattell ; euery way so blesse thee, that thou maist alway reioyce in the Lord.

<sup>e</sup> Habac. 2. 11.

<sup>f</sup> Psal. 91. 11.

<sup>g</sup> Deut. 28. 6.

For thy redemption, at this festiuall especially ; consider with <sup>h</sup> Bernard, Quis est qui venit, unde, quò, ad quid, quando, quà : meditate on Gods vnspeakeable loue, who sent his Sonne, his first begotten, onely begotten Sonne, whom hee loued as himselfe. The very <sup>i</sup> character and brightnesse of his glory to deliuer vs his seruants, vndutifull as vnprofitable, from the hands of all our enemies. If thou hast any feeling of these mysteries, any faith, be it so small as a graine of mustard seed, euermore reioyce in the Lord.

<sup>h</sup> Serm. 1. de Adventu.

<sup>i</sup> Heb. 1. 3.

For thy sanctification also : many men in a reprobate sense doe not call vpon God ; cannot call vpon God. Whereas hee hath giuen thee grace to pray with the congregation publikely, with thine owne familie priuately, with thy selfe secretly ; giuing thee grace to feele thy finnes, and to be sorry for the same : reioyce for these good benefits in possession ; and againe reioyce for those mercies of God in expectation ; for that <sup>k</sup> most excellent and eternall weight of glory, which he hath <sup>l</sup> laid vp, and in that day will giue to such as loue his appearing. Let vs euermore reioyce in this <sup>m</sup> hope, saying with <sup>n</sup> Habacuk, I will reioyce in the Lord, I will ioy in the God of my saluation.

<sup>k</sup> 2. Cor. 4. 17.

<sup>l</sup> 2. Tim. 4. 8.

<sup>m</sup> Rom. 12. 12.

<sup>n</sup> Cap. 3. 18.

Faith is the mother of our reioycing in the Lord : for Christ dwelleth in our hearts by <sup>o</sup> faith, and faith is by <sup>p</sup> hearing of the word : spirituall ioy then is increased by reading, hearing, meditating on holy Scriptures. <sup>q</sup> I haue spoken vnto you these things, that my ioy might remaine in you : Luk. 24. 32. Did not our hearts burne within vs, while hee talked with vs, and opened vnto vs the Scriptures ?

<sup>o</sup> Ephes. 3. 17.

<sup>p</sup> Rom. 10. 17.

<sup>q</sup> Ioh. 15. 11.

It is increased also by good life. For as sin doth <sup>r</sup> grieue the spirit, so good workes on the contrary cheere the soule, Proverbs 21. 15. It is ioy to the iust to doe iudgement. Here the Gospell and Epistle parallell; for the way of the Lord is prepared especially by faith and repentance. Now pœnitens de peccato dolet; & de dolore gaudet: Hee that is a good man sorroweth in his sins, and reioyceth in his sorrow; and that he may do this, he must reioyce in the Lord: wherefore bee not carefull for that which is worldly, but make your patient mind knowne vnto men, and let your petitions be manifest vnto God. And the peace of God which passeth all vnderstanding, keepe your hearts and minds through Christ, giuing you many ioyes in this life, to the end; and in the next, his eternall ioy, without end. Amen.

<sup>r</sup> Ephes. 4. 30.

Postil. maioris cum glossis & figuris in epist. Dom. 3. Advent.

The Gospell. IOHN I. 19.

This is the record of Iohn, When the Iewes sent Priests and Leuites from Ierusalem to aske him; What art thou?

This Gospell is a dialogue betweene certaine Priests and Iohn the Baptift. The Priests inquire after his person and place, cariage and calling. Their interrogatories are five: the which are answered by Saint Iohn seuerally; shewing, and that directly, both what hee was not, as also what hee was; not Christ, not Elias, not the Prophet; but the voyce of a Crier in the wilderness.

The first question is, Who art thou? Quis ego sum? is the question of a good man; Tu quis es? of an enuious. Hee that hath a bad house gads abroad. The wicked are <sup>u</sup> busie Bishops in other mens diocesses. A true saying in it selfe, but vpon this text a false glosse: for it belonged vnto the * Priests office to manage the businesse of the Church, and exactly to know what euery Prophet was. And albeit Euthymius is of opinion, that the Iewes herein maliciously disabled their knowledge: yet it is more probable that they made this question to see whether he was Christ. For as wee read, Luk. 3. 15. All men mused in their hearts of Iohn, if he were not the Christ: and our <sup>γ</sup> Sauiour told the Iewes plainly, that they for a time reioyced more in Iohn, who was but a candle, then in him selfe who was the Sun of righteousnesse, and light of the world: and albeit these messengers vttered not so much in word, yet assuredly they harboured such a conceit in their hearts, therefore Iohn answering their <sup>z</sup> intention, rather then their question acknowledged ingenuously, that he was not the Christ.

In which answer, obserue the matter and the manner. In the matter hee confesseth the truth, denying him selfe, where note his <sup>a</sup> modesty; and acknowledging Christ to be the Messias; where note his <sup>b</sup> constancie. Fortè (saith <sup>c</sup> Gregorie) grauè non est gloriam & honorem non petere, sed valde graue est non eum suscipere cum offertur. It was then great humility to refuse this honor, which not onely the people, but also the Priests, as it should seeme, were ready to cast vpon him: hereby teaching vs, in all our actions, to seeke, not our owne, but Gods glory, saying with this holy Baptift, <sup>d</sup> He must increase, but wee must decrease. The constant resolution of Iohn is also remarkeable, confessing Christ freely, not onely before the multitude, but also before the Leuites and Pharisies, men of great learning, and no lesse place in the Church, and such as hee might well suspect would call his preaching into question.

But the manner of his confession exceeds far the matter: hee confessed and denied not, and sayd plainly, I am not Christ. The which words are not superfluous and idle, for euery title of the Scriptures hath his worth and weight. Such repetitions are vsuall in the Bible, to set out things more fully, as <sup>e</sup> vanitie of vanities, vanitie of vanities, and all is vanitie. <sup>f</sup> Returne, returne, O Shulamite returne, returne. <sup>g</sup> O earth, earth, earth, heare the word of the Lord. By this iteration then of one and the same thing, S. Iohn shewed how vnwilling he was

Di. 2. conc. 1. Dom. 3. Advent. 1. Pet. 4. 15. Melanct. Calvin & Marlorat. in loc.

Ioh. 5. 35.

Theophylact. & Caietan in locum. a Culman in loc. con. 1. b Zeppern in locum. c Hom. 7. in Euang.

Ioh. 3. 30.

Eccles. 1. 2. Cant. 6. 12. Jer. 22. 29.

<sup>b</sup> Acts 10. 26.

<sup>i</sup> Acts 14. 15.

<sup>k</sup> Apocal. 22. 9.

<sup>l</sup> Thom. in 3. sent. dist. 2. &
part 3. quest. 25.
art. 4.

to rob Christ of that honour, which onely belonged vnto him. When <sup>h</sup> Cornelius fell downe at Peters feete, and would haue worshipped him, Peter instantly tooke him vp, saying; Stand vp, for euen I my selfe am a man. When the men of <sup>i</sup> Lystra would haue sacrificed vnto Paul and Barnabas, they rent their clothes, and ran in among the people, crying, Wee are euen men, subiect to the like passions that yee be. When that other John would haue worshipped the glorious Angell, who shewed him his reuelation, hee said vnto John, <sup>k</sup> See thou doe it not, for I am thy fellow-servant: so carefull are Gods children in all ages to giue God the things appertaining to God; honour to whom honour, feare to whom feare, diuine worship to whom diuine worship belongeth. Here wee may iustly condemne the Papists, in giuing that kinde of <sup>l</sup> worship to the crosse, which is onely due to Christ. If a man should aske them whether the crucifix were Christ, I hope they would answer with John, and denie, and confesse plainly that it is not the Christ. Giue then to the crucifix, the respect due to the crucifix, reseruing to the crucified that honour which onely belongs to the crucified.

If a man should aske the bread in the Sacrament, what art thou? it would answer plainly with John, in such language as it can, I am not the Christ; approuing it selfe to our sight and taste, that it is a morcell of bread, a creature, not a Creator, and therefore not to be worshipped and adored as God. If good men on earth, and glorious Angels in heauen, haue refused alway to bee reputed Christ; what shamelesse Idolaters are they, who say, here is Christ, and there is Christ; this is Christ, and that is Christ?

<sup>m</sup> Matt. 11. 14.

<sup>n</sup> Aug. tract.

4. in Ioan. &

Greg. hom. 7.

in Euang.

<sup>o</sup> Malac. 4. 5.

The second question is, Art thou Elias? To which John answers, No. Yet <sup>m</sup> Christ saith, he is that Elias. An <sup>n</sup> Angell from heauen hath answered this obiection, Luk. 1. 17. John Baptist is Elias in power, not in person, indued with the like temperance, like wisdome, like courage. Now the Pharisies imagined that Elias <sup>o</sup> himselfe should come, not another in the spirit of Elias; and therefore John according to their meaning, answered truly, that hee was not Elias. How John and Elias parallel, see Beauxamis Harmon. Euangel. Tom. 1. fol. 101. Ludolphus de vita Christi, part. 1. cap. 19. Postil. Catholic. Con. 2. Dom. 4. Advent. Whether Elias shall come before the great day of the Lords second comming, see Luther. postil. maior. in loc. and his Maiesties Premonition, from the 62. page to the 80.

The third question is, Art thou a Prophet? To which John answered also negatiuely. Christ said, he was more then a Prophet: himselfe that hee was lesse then a Prophet.

There are three degrees of humilitie:  $\left. \begin{array}{l} 1. \text{ To submit our selues vnto our betters.} \\ 2. \text{ To giue place to equals.} \\ 3. \text{ To yeeld vnto inferiours.} \end{array} \right\}$

All these were found in John: he submitted himselfe to superiors, affirming that he was not Christ: he gaue place to equals, answering that hee was not Elias: he did yeeld to his inferiours, in saying he was not a Prophet. ¶ Yea but John out of his humilitie must not tell an vtruth: his father Zacharius in the Benedictus, calls him the Prophet of the most high; and Christ, more then a Prophet. ¶ Chrysostome, <sup>r</sup> Theophylact, Euthymius, and other Greeke Fathers are of opinion, that the Pharisies imagined John to bee that Prophet spoken of by Moses, Deut. 18. 15. The Lord thy God will raise up vnto thee a Prophet like vnto me from among you, euen of thy brethren, vnto him ye shall hearken. ¶ The which text must be construed either of the whole Colledge of Prophets, or else of Christ, the chiefe of the Prophets: and therefore John answered directly, that hee was not that Prophet, κατ' ἴσχυρα, the Prophet. ¶ Rupertus and other Latine Doctors affirme, that the Pharisies in this interrogatorie desired to know whether his office were like that of Esay, Ieremius, Amos, and the olde Proplets: vnto which John might answer well, that he was not such a Prophet; for their office was to foreshew Christ by some workes.

<sup>p</sup> Maldonat.
in locum.

<sup>q</sup> Hom. 15. in Ioan.

<sup>r</sup> In locum.

<sup>s</sup> Beza in Ioan.
1. 21.

<sup>t</sup> Lib. 1. comment. in Ioan.

workes, or foretell him by some words; vel dictis prefigurare, vel factis prefigurare, saith Rupertus. But Iohns ambassage was not to foretell that Christ should come, but plainly to tell that Christ was come. Thou shalt be called the Prophet of the most high: not as to prefigure, but to goe before the face of the Lord. A Prophet is a Preacher of the Gospell, not as a Priest of the Law.

Hitherto Iohn Baptist answers negatively, shewing what hee was not, neither Christ, nor Elias, nor a Prophet. Wherein hee did not satisfie the messengers of the Iewes fully. That therefore they might returne a more perfect answer, they further importune and presse him, to know what he was; What saiest thou of thy selfe? The which is the fourth interrogatorie. To this Iohn affirmatiuely, declaring what he was: I am the voice of a Crier, &c.

There were two chiefe prophecies of him: one, that he should be that Angell of the Lord; and this, that hee should be the voice of a Crier in the wilderness. Here then <sup>u</sup> Interpreters obserue Iohns humilitie, giuing himselfe the meanest title; not Christ, not an Angell, not a Prophet, but onely vox clamantis, &c. <sup>x</sup> Wherein he liuely describerh a good Preacher of the Gospel: he must be the voice of a Crier in the wilderness, to make strait the way for the Lord.

The Word of God is a Proclamation in writing, common to all, and the Minister is the voice of the Crier to giue notice to the people, that the matter of the proclamation concerneth them and euery one of them: Acts 13. 26 Men and brethren, and whosoeur among you seareth God, to you is the word of this saluation sent: To y you God raised up his Sonne Iesus, and hath sent him to blesse you by turning euery one of you from your iniquities.

Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh: A Preacher therefore must crie from the bottome of his heart; the which is prefigured, Ezekiel 3. 1. Sonne of man, eat this roll, and goe and speake vnto the house of Israel Vtter nothing to the people, but that which thou hast first digested thy selfe.

The voice.] A word is first conceiued in the heart, then vttered by the voice; yet we heare the voice before we know the word: so Christ the eternall Word was before Iohn and all other Preachers. In the beginning was the Word, and that beginning was before all beginning: yet the world knew not the Word, till it was preached by the voice of men and Angels: albeit the word in it selfe bee before the voice, yet vnto vs the voice goeth before the Word: <sup>z</sup> He that commeth after me was before mee. Christ then is the Word; and euery Preacher of Christ is a voice; the which one word confounds all such as being called thereunto, doe neglect their dutie of preaching. In euery voyce, especially a Church voyce, three commendable qualities are required; that it be cleere, sweet, and high.

Cleere: for as Hierome said, Omnia in sacerdote debent esse vocalia: All things in a Diuine should preach: his apparell preach, his diet preach, his whole life preach: <sup>a</sup> An example in word, in conuersation, in spirit, in faith, in purenesse. Such a voice was the Baptist; his preaching was of repentance, and hee liued as a penitent: as he did boldly speake the truth, so constantly suffer for the truth: on the contrary, bad manners and false doctrine make harsh and hoarse the loud voyce.

Couetous Iudas had a hearse voyce: filthy Nicholas an hoarse voyce: Simon Magus an hoarse voyce: Peter in denying his Master, through extreame coldnesse of feare, had an hoarse voyce too for a time. Manichaus, Arius, Pelagius, all Hereticall, Schismaticall, Atheisticall teachers are hoarse voyces in Gods quier.

Ille solus predicat vna voce, qui predicat vita & voce.

Secondly, the Church voyce must be sweet: euery seed is not to bee sowne at euery season, in euery ground: and so it is in Gods husbandrie: The voyce therefore must <sup>b</sup> right diuide the word which it sings and sayes; obseruing time,

<sup>u</sup> Dier. con. 1. Dom. 3. Advent & Malcoln in loc.
<sup>x</sup> Culman. con 2 Dom. 4. Advent.

<sup>y</sup> Acts 13. 26.

<sup>z</sup> Ioh. 1. 15.

<sup>a</sup> 1. Tim. 4. 12.

<sup>b</sup> 2. Tim. 3. 15.

<sup>c</sup> Exod. 38. 33.

<sup>d</sup> Luke 3. 19.

<sup>e</sup> Matth. 7. 3.

<sup>f</sup> Psal. 58. 5.

time, and keeping it selfe in tune, speaking to the proud boldly, to the meek mildly, to all wisely. The bells hung on <sup>c</sup> Aarons garment were of pure gold, hereby signifying that Aarons voyce should be no sounding brasse, nor iarring cymball; but a sweet ring, proouing sweetly, reproouing sweetly, confuting error sweetly, confirming the truth sweetly; running ouer all the changes of Gods ring, mentioned, 2. Tim. 4. without any iarre or false stroke sweetly. Such a voyce was John the Baptist, rebuking <sup>d</sup> Herod, hardened in his wickednesse, ruffly: taking vp the dissembling <sup>e</sup> Pharisses bitterly; speaking to his owne disciples gently, singing to euery one the true note fitly: and this, as <sup>f</sup> Dauid speakes, is to charme wisely.

Thirdly, the Church voyce must be high, and that in regard of the } Matter, of which } he speakes.
Men, to which }

And such a voice was the Baptist also. First for the matter, he reached many streines neuer sung before: Repent, saith he, for the kingdome of heauen is at hand. This note was neuer heard of the people, nor sung by the Priests in old time. John being more then a Prophet, exalted his voice aboue the Prophets. and in a plaine song, without any crotchets, preached him who is higher then the highest.

Secondly, in regard of the men, to whom he spake: For, as it followeth in the next word, he was the voyce of a Cryer. Now men vse to crie aloud;

When they speake to men which are a farre off.
 3 Either } When they speake to men which are deafe.
 } When they are angry.

Sinners are farre off from God, and exceeding deafe: and therefore we must be angry crying aloud, and lifting vp our voyce like a <sup>h</sup> Trumpet, shewing the people their transgressions, and to the house of Iacob their finnes.

First, sinners are farre off, as it is said of the <sup>i</sup> prodigall childe gone into a farre countrie, like <sup>k</sup> lost sheepe, strayed out of Gods pastures into Satans inclosures: and therefore it is our office not onely to whistle, but also to crie: Returne, returne, ô Shulamite, returne, returne.

God doth not go from man, but man from God. He that faileth nigh a rock, thinketh the rocke runs from the ship, when as indeed the ship rides, and the rocke stands still: euen so wee leaue the wayes of the Lord, and runne our owne courses, and then we complaine that God is farre from vs, and that our crie comes not nigh him. It is true that God is <sup>l</sup> farre off from the wicked, not because he is moueable, for he is euer the same, but because they be wandring: yet they cannot flie from his <sup>m</sup> presence. The further from East, the neerer vnto the West: the more they go from Gods grace, the neerer his iustice: <sup>n</sup> saluation is farre from the wicked, but in iudgement hangs ouer their heads. It is our dutie therefore to recall men, à Deo irato ad Deum placatum, from God as an angrie Iudge, to God as a mercifull Father. If we draw neere to God, <sup>o</sup> hee will draw neere to vs: as the good Father of the prodigall sonne, when he perceiued him a farre off, he had compassion, and ran, and fell on his necke, and kissed him. It is said in the text, that the sonne did go to his father; but the father ran to meet his sonne. The fathers compassion and mercy, was greater then the sonnes passion and misery.

Secondly, sinners are deafe, and therefore we neede to cry aloud. Some will heare, but with one eare, like <sup>p</sup> Malchus in the Gospell, hauing their right eare cut off, and only bringing their left eare to the sermon, misconstruing all things sinisterly: Some stop both their eares; like the deafe adder, refusing to heare the voice of the charmer, charme he neuer so wisely: Psalme 58. 5. <sup>q</sup> S. Augustine writing vpon those words, hath reported out of naturall Historiographers, that the Serpent delighting in the darknesse, wherewithall he hath enclosed himselfe, claspeth one of his eares hard to the ground, and with his taile stoppeth the other, lest hearing the

Marfus

<sup>s</sup> Thom. caten.

in 3. Matth. ex

Ryban. &

Beauxamis

Har. Tom. 1.

fol. 100

<sup>h</sup> Esay 58. 1.

<sup>i</sup> Luke 15. 13.

<sup>k</sup> Esay 53. 6.

Non tellus cymbam, tellurem
cymba relinquit.

<sup>l</sup> Pro. 15. 29.

<sup>m</sup> Psal. 139. 6.

Vbi non est per

gratiam, adest

per vindictam.

August. medita

cap. 29.

<sup>n</sup> Psal. 119. 155.

<sup>o</sup> lam 4. 8.

<sup>p</sup> Pitney to B.

Tonhal, vii

Fox Ad. and

Mon. fol. 917.

<sup>q</sup> In Psal. 57.

Tom. 8. fol. 392.

Marſus hee ſhould bee brought forth into the light: ſo worldly men ſtop one care with earth, that is, with couetouſneſſe; and the other with their taile, that is, hope of long life. <sup>r</sup> Jeremy therefore crieth: O earth, earth, earth. O vnhappy caitiue, thou that haſt nothing but earth in thy mouth, euer talking of worldly wealth: thou haſt nothing but earth in thy minde, euer plotting how to ioyne houſe to houſe, and field to field; nothing but earth in thine hands, euer buſied about the trifles of this life; heare the word of the Lord, which <sup>f</sup> chargeth thee not to truſt in vncertaine riches, but in the liuing God: and that thou bee rich in good workes, euermore ready to diſtribute while thou haſt time; ſtop nor thine care from the crie of the poore with hope of long life, but remember what Iob ſaith in his 21. Chapter, verſe. 13. They ſpend their dayes in wealth, and ſuddenly they goe downe to hell. <sup>r</sup> O foole this night will they ferch away thy ſoule from thee, then whoſe ſhall thoſe things be which thou haſt prouided?

Thirdly, men ſpeake aloud, when as they be angry: ſo the Preacher ought to be zealous in the cauſe of God, euermore diſpleaſed with the ſinnes of his people, ſaying with <sup>u</sup> Dauid; Doe not I hate them, O Lord, who hate thee? and am not I grieued with thoſe that riſe vp againſt thee? Such a crier was Saint Peter, telling Simon the Sorcerer that he was in the <sup>x</sup> gall of bitterneſſe and bond of iniquity. Such a crier was Paul, taking vp Elymas; <sup>y</sup> O full of miſchiefe, the childe of the deuill, and enemy of all righteouſneſſe, &c. Such a crier was <sup>z</sup> Polycarpus, who told Marcion that he was the deuils darling. And ſuch a crier euery Diuine ſhould bee, as a Simon helping to beare the croſſe of the diſtreſſed; and a <sup>a</sup> Barnabas which is the ſonne of conſolation: ſo like Iames and Iohn, ſtiled in <sup>b</sup> Scripture Bonarges, which is ſonnes of thunder: as <sup>c</sup> Ambroſe fitly, vox and clamor muſt goe together, the voyce preach faith, the cry repentance; the voyce comfort, the cry threaten; the voyce ſing mercy, the cry ſound iudgement: ſo moſt <sup>d</sup> Interpreters expound vox clamantis, according to the vulgar Hebraiſme, vox clamans. Yet it is a good obſeruation of <sup>e</sup> other, that Iohn is not the crier, but the voyce of the crier: for it is Chriſt who cryeth in Preachers, he ſpeakes by the <sup>f</sup> mouth of all his holy Prophets: he cryeth, O ye & fooliſh, how long will ye loue fooliſhneſſe? he cryeth, Repent for the kingdom of God is at hand: he cryeth, Come vnto me all ye that are wearied and laden, and I will reſreſh you. To day then if ye will heare his voyce harden not your hearts, but ſuffer the words of exhortation and doctrine: be moued at his cry, leſt he deſpiſe your call. As he ſaith in the firſt of the Prouerbs: Becauſe I haue called, and yee haue reſuſed, I haue ſtretched out mine hand, and none would regard: therefore they ſhall call vpon me, but I will not anſwer: they ſhall ſeeke me earely, but they ſhall not finde me. Thinke on this all yee that forget God, yee that ſuffer Chriſt to ſtand and knock, and cry at the doore of your hearts, and yet you will not let him in.

In the wilderneſſe] That is, in the world a deſert of goodneſſe, wherein the Preacher muſt fight with beaſts, as <sup>h</sup> Paul at Ephelus in the ſhapes of men, crying vnto rauening wolues, couetous foxes, roaring lyons, &c. Heere is the place where he muſt cry: for in heauen there is no crying, but all ſinging, and in hell there is no crying, to take heed of woe; but howling and crying for woe; while then you are in the <sup>i</sup> way, while it is called to <sup>k</sup> day, giue eare to the voyce of the Crier.

Or in the wilderneſſe.] That is, <sup>l</sup> Jeruſalem; out of order as a deſert: or in the wilderneſſe: that is, among the <sup>m</sup> Gentiles and deſolate people, ſtrangers from the common-wealth of Iſrael, and aliants from the covenants of promiſe before Chriſts coming. but now the <sup>n</sup> deſolate hath more children then the married wife. The Gentyles heretofore were without an husband, and the ſynagogue of the Jewes had God for her loue; but now contrariwiſe the Church conuerted to the faith, beares moe children vnto God then euer the ſynagogue did. The voyce of the Cryer ſhall gather and call ſo many ſheepe

<sup>r</sup> Cap. 22. 29.

<sup>f</sup> 1. Tim. 6. 17. 18.

<sup>r</sup> Luke 12. 20.

<sup>u</sup> Pſal. 139. 21.

<sup>x</sup> Acts 8. 23.

<sup>y</sup> Acts 13. 10.

<sup>z</sup> Ireneus lib. 3 cap. 3.

<sup>a</sup> Acts 4. 36.

<sup>b</sup> Marke 3. 17.

<sup>c</sup> Serm. 64.

<sup>d</sup> Muſculus & Maldona. in Matt. 3. 3. Ianſen concer. cap. 134 Diez. con. 1. Dom. 3. Aduent. e Aquin. calen. Mat. 3. Rupertus com. in Matt. lib. 2 fol. 77 f Luk 1. 70. g Prou. 1. 23.

<sup>h</sup> 1. Cor. 15. 32.

<sup>i</sup> Matt. 5. 25.

<sup>k</sup> Heb. 3. 13.

<sup>l</sup> Calu. & Marlorat. in Mat. 3. ex Hilario & Gregorio.

<sup>m</sup> ex Hieronymo & Ambroſio. Pontanus in teatro Dom. 4. Aduent.

<sup>n</sup> Eſay 54. 4.

<sup>o</sup> Esay 49. 21.

to Christs fold, that the wildernesse shall say in her heart, <sup>o</sup> Who hath begotten me these children, seeing I am barren and desolate?

<sup>p</sup> Coſter. con. 3.
Dom. 3. Advent.

Or in the wildernesse.] <sup>p</sup> Literally, because that is the most fit place for the Preacher of repentance, wherein there is least tumult: and againe, to signifie that the People should follow the Pastor; not the Pastor humour the people. The Preacher is the voice of a Crier in the wildernesse, not a carpet diuine for table Gospellers in a corner. I will not any further examine the place, the end is all, and that is to make strait the way of the Lord.

<sup>q</sup> Psal. 12. 6.

The wicked walke either in circles, or else in ouerthwart wayes. Impij ambulans in circuitu, saith <sup>q</sup> Danid, wearying themſelues in the labyrinth of their vnruely desires: or if they walke not circularly, they walke in wrie wayes and by-wayes opposite to the Lords way: for example; The vaine-glorious doe all their good workes to be <sup>r</sup> seene of men, and so they crosse Gods way tending to another end; only the children of God walke in the straight way, in a right line beginning and ending in God; as euery good gift is from him, so it is by them referred vnto him; as his is the power, so his is the praise.

<sup>r</sup> Matt. 37. 1. 5.

The end of our preaching is not to make way for our selues and our owne preferment, but for our Master and his glory: Make straight the way of the Lord, as saith the Prophet Esay. Wherefore leauing all other expositions, I come to the Prophets interpretation, as it is recorded in his 40. Chapter, at the 3. and 4. verses. A voyce crieth in the wildernesse, prepare yee the way of the Lord: make straight in the desert a path for our God. Euery valley shall be exalted, and euery mountaine and hill shall be made low: and the crooked shall be straight, and the rough place, plaine.

<sup>s</sup> Hyperius in
loc. Esaiæ.

<sup>t</sup> Thomas caten.
in 3. Matth. ex Chryſoſt.

Now theſe things are to be construed in a <sup>f</sup> spirituall sence. For <sup>t</sup> as kings in their solemne progresses haue their wayes leuelled and straightned against their comming into the country: so the Preachers as harbingers and sumners of Christ, ought to prepare the people, that he may come vnto them, as about this time hee came vnto them. Presumption and pride make mountaines and hills in Christs way; desperation holes in Christs way; vaine glory makes crooked the way: couetous cares are briers and bushes in the way: noisome lusts makes foule the way: wherefore the voice of the Crier in the wildernesse must digge downe the mountaines, exalt the valleys, stub vp the briers, make smooth the rough, rectifie the crooked. Behold, saith God to the <sup>u</sup> Prophet, I haue set thee ouer the nations, and ouer the kingdomes, to plucke vp, and to roote out, and to destroy and ouerbrow, to build and to plant. The which <sup>x</sup> Text is wrested by the Papiſts exceedingly, to proue that the Pope hath authority to depose Princes, and dispose of their crownes at his pleasure. But God expounds himſelfe in the words immediately before: I haue made thee a Prophet, and put my words into thy mouth: a Preacher with words in his mouth, not a Magistrate with a sword in his hand: and therefore their owne <sup>y</sup> glossographer interprets it thus: I haue appointed thee to roote vp; that is, to roote vp vices, to beate downe heresies, and to build vp vertues. And <sup>z</sup> Theodoret; To roote vp kingdomes is nothing else but to denounce Gods heauy iudgements against them: As Hierome; To cast them downe by the word of Almighty God. Ut facias opus prophete, sarculo, non sceptro, opus est tibi, saith <sup>a</sup> Bernard; That thou maist do the worke of a Prophet, thou must haue a weeding hooke, not a scepter: And as <sup>b</sup> Gregory notes aptly, the Prophet is willed here first to roote vp and after to plant; because the foundation of truth is neuer well laid, except, the frame of errour bee first subuerted: at the first wee must cast downe the mountaines by the preaching of the Law; then exalt the valleys by the preaching of the Gospel. Sych a voyce was the Prophet <sup>c</sup> Nathan: at the first he did cast downe the mountaine, the presumptuous hypocrisie of King Dauid, rebuking him for his sinnes, and thundring out iudgements for the same: but when hee saw this huge mountaine cast downe, when Dauid was vnder foote, delected in spirit, crying out, I haue sinned against the Lord; Nathan <sup>u</sup> Ierem. 1. 10.

<sup>x</sup> See B. Bilson against the le-sutes, fol. 160.
161.

<sup>y</sup> Lira in Ier. 1.

<sup>z</sup> In loc Ier.

<sup>a</sup> De Confid.
lib. 2.

<sup>b</sup> Pastoral. part.
3. admonit. 35.

<sup>c</sup> 2. Sam. 12.

presently presently raiseth vp this valley, saying, The Lord hath taken away thy sinne. This course <sup>d</sup> S. Peter vsed in his first Sermon, in the beginning whereof he charged the Iewes with their sinnes: but so soone as they were pricked in their hearts, and said, Men and brethren what shall we doe? S. Peter presently lifeth them vp againe by preaching Christ for the remission of sinnes. And well might John call himselfe such a voyce, for all his preaching flood vpon two leggs, repentance and faith, <sup>e</sup> digging downe the mountaines by the one, and <sup>f</sup> raising vp the vallies by the other.

<sup>d</sup> Acts 2.

<sup>e</sup> Matt. 3. 10.

<sup>f</sup> Ioh. 1. 29.

The great Doctor hauing heauen for his chaire, earth for his Schoole, the whole Bible for his Text, and the whole world for his audience, began this method in the first Sermon that euer was made, Genes. 3 Adam by following his new Schoolemaster the deuill, waxed proud, and began to grow so big as a mountaine: God therefore doth first cast him downe, shewing the greatnesse of his fault, and then he raiseth him vp againe, by promising that thee seed of the woman should bruisse the Serpents head. Seeing then we haue both precept and patterne from God himselfe, let vs bee followers of him as deare children, pulling downe the mighty from their seats, and exalting the humble and meek. To begin with the first:

There are two sorts } One assuming too much vnto themselves, out of their of mountaines: } owne merit.

} The other presuming too much vpon Gods mercy.

Every man is naturally like Simon the Sorcerer, Act. 8. conceiting himselfe to be some great man: as Martin & Luther said, All of vs haue a Pope bred in vs; an opinion of our owne workes: albeit there bee in vs no reall vertue, no true substance; yet, Narcissus-like, wee are inamour'd with our owne shadowes: and this is the <sup>h</sup> Serpents head, the beginning of all euill. Omnium iniustiarum est serè sola causa iustitia. Wherefore wee must labour euery day to digge downe this high mountaine: we must descend that we may <sup>i</sup> ascend: as we fell by ascending, so we must be raised by descending. Beda wrote of the Publicane: Appropinquare noluit ad Deum, ut appropinquaret ad illum. He that will not be a mountaine in Christs way, must not bee a mount-banke of his owne vertue, but leuell himselfe euen with the ground, <sup>k</sup> working his saluation in feare and trembling.

<sup>g</sup> Loc. con. tit. de profect. in Christianism.

<sup>h</sup> Luther. vbi sup. tit. de presumption.

<sup>i</sup> Aug. confess. lib. 4. cap. 12.

Descendite ut ascendatis ad Deum: cecidistis enim ascendendo contra eum.

<sup>k</sup> Phil. 2. 12.

The second kinde of mountaines are such as raise themselves vpon meere presumption of mercy, boasting of a shorter cut to heauen then either the good workes of Papiests, or good words of Puritans, abusing that sweet Text of <sup>l</sup> Paul; where sinne aboundeth, there grace super-aboundeth. Indeed where sinne is <sup>m</sup> felt and griued for, there Gods grace is greater then our sinne, <sup>n</sup> both in imputation and effect: for our sinnes are finite, whereas his goodness is infinite, the salve is greater then the sore. <sup>o</sup> Non peccantis merito, sed superuenientis auxilio. But when we draw iniquity with cords of vanity, and sin as with cart-ropes; when we speake good of euill, and euill of good; when as without any remorse wee sinne presumptuously; when as wee fall not forward as Abraham and Ezekiel, but backward as old P Eli, and the 9 Iewes who tooke Christ; then assuredly the more sinne, the lesse grace. Shall wee continue still in sinne that grace may abound? God forbid. Yea God hath forbidden it, enioyning vs to be holy as he is holy, that being deliuered out of the hands of all our enemies, we might serue him in holinesse and righteousnesse all the dayes of our life.

<sup>l</sup> Rom. 5. 20.

<sup>m</sup> Calvin. & Aquin. in loc. Paul.

<sup>n</sup> Melancthon. in loc. Paul.

tom. 4 fol. 124.

<sup>o</sup> August. de Spiritu & lite.

ascap. 6.

<sup>p</sup> 1. Sam. 4. 18.

<sup>q</sup> Ioh. 18. 6.

A man is deiected and made a valley } Great faults.
two wayes: in regard of his } Little faith.

The voyce of the Crier must pronounce Gods Proclamation and generall pardon for the one, and apply it in particular for the strengthening of the other.

The fifth and last question of the Pharisees is: Why baptizest thou then, if thou be not the Christ, neither Elias, nor the Prophet? Vnto which Iohn answered; I baptize with water, &c.

This last interrogatorie was the first in their intention: for the Pharisees had a tradition, that none might baptize but Christ, or some great Prophet, and therefore they did first aske craftily whether hee were Christ, or a Prophet: and then hauing vndermined him thorowly, with what authority doest thou baptize? being neither Christ, nor Elias, nor a Prophet? S. Iohns answere is opposite, but apposite. I am a Minister, but not a Messias; I giue the outward signe, but Christ is hee who doth giue the inward grace: I baptize you with water, but he that commeth after mee shall baptize you with the holy Ghost and fire. In which hee compareth the ministry of man with the power of God; the outward baptisme with the spiritual baptisme: whereof the first is done by the hand of man, the other is peculiar onely to Christ. The comparison is not as the Papists imagine, betweene the baptisme of Iohn and Christ, but betweene the person of Iohn and Christ: for the baptisme of Iohn and Christ are one, both in effect and authority: for Iohns baptisme was not of his owne deuising, but of Gods institution: as hee sheweth his commission in the first of Ioh. 33. Hee that sent mee to baptize with water, &c. a Text which hath made Bellarmino contradict himselfe twice in one page. For whereas he first had set downe peremptorily that Iohn instituted his owne baptisme; now he confesseth honestly that God was author of it for the matter in generall, but not for the mannere in particular: and yet after long search hee cannot finde in what rite Iohns baptisme differs from Christs.

It is an axiome deliuered in their owne schoole, that there are but two things essentiall in Baptisme, verbum & elementum, the outward element of water, and inuocation of the blessed Trinitie. So S. Aug. Accedit verbum ad elementum & fit sacramentum: Other things are required in a Sacrament circumstantially, not substantially. Now Bellarmino out of this Text grants that Iohn vsed the right element: for hee saith, I baptize you with water: and out of Ambrose cites against himselfe, that Iohn inuocated the sacred Trinitie, Father, Sonne and holy Ghost: Ergo, the baptisme of Iohn and Christ are one for essence: so likewise one in effect, for Iohn preached the baptisme of repentance for the remission of sins: Ergo, forgiuencesse of sinnes is by the baptisme of Iohn, so well as by the baptisme of the blessed Apostles: as Augustine, Basil, & Gregory Nyssen: cut of that Text obserue: neither doth the Cardinal disauow their glosse, though the Councell of Trent hath denounced anathema to such as hold baptismum iohannis habuisse eandem vim cum baptismo Christi: let Matthaus Tortus, if hee can vnloose this wedge for his Master. I feare that ouerthwart Diuine so little that I say with Luther; Hunc nodum neq; soluunt, neq; soluent unquam omnes papicole in vnum Chaos confusi. The Scripture makes no difference betweene Iohns and our baptisme: but this only; that we baptize in Christum passum & resuscitatum; whereas Iohn baptised in Christum passurum & resurrectorum. See Epist. Dom. 17. post Trin.

The Epistle. GALAT. 4. I.

I say, that the heire so long as hee is a child differeth not from a seruant, &c.

Ignorant people behold rather an Image well painted, then a booke well written, and are sooner perswaded with plaine similitudes and familiar examples, then with subtill reasons and accurate discourfes. Our Apostle therefore after hee had vsed for his purpose (namely, to prooue that iustification is not, by the Law, but by faith in Christ) the comparison of a mans

<sup>r</sup> Ammonius in caten. Grac. citat.

<sup>f</sup> Maldon. in loc. ex Chrysof.

<sup>e</sup> Melancthon. loc. com. tit. de bapuf Ioan. & Christi.

<sup>u</sup> Matt. 3. 11.

<sup>x</sup> Dobl. Fulke in Matt. 3. 11.

<sup>y</sup> Caluin &

Marlorat in 3.

Matt. 11 &

Melanct. vbi

supra.

<sup>z</sup> De Sacramento Baptism. lib. 1.

cap. 20.

<sup>a</sup> Lombard. sent.

lib. 4. distinct. 3.

<sup>b</sup> Tract. 30. in Ioan. Tem. 9.

fol. 503.

<sup>c</sup> De Spirit.

Sant. lib. 1. c. 3.

<sup>d</sup> Marke 1. 4.

<sup>e</sup> Lib. 5. de

Baptism. cap. 10.

<sup>f</sup> De Baptism.

lib 1 cap. 2.

<sup>g</sup> Orat. de laudibus Baslij.

<sup>h</sup> Vbi supra

cap. 21.

<sup>i</sup> Scff 7. con. 1.

<sup>k</sup> Melanct. in 3.

Matt. com. 3.

fol. 256.

<sup>l</sup> Acts 9. 14.

<sup>m</sup> Greg. Nyssen

grat. de laude

Theodor. solet

pictura sacens in pariete loqui.

The Papist

calls it the lay mans Gospel.

a mans will, of the prison, of the Schoolemaster in the former Chapter, addes also this of an heire; wherein as in every similitude two points are remarkeable: the { Proposition: verse 12.

 { Reddition in the rest.

In which our twofold estate must be considered, of { Thraldome, vnder Moses.

 { Freedom, by Christ, when the Lawes tyrannical government ends: and that is,

Two manner of wayes, as <sup>a</sup> Interpreters out of the Text:

{ 1. By the comming of Christ in the flesh once at the fulnesse of time; verse 4. 5.
 { 2. By the comming of Christ in the spirit daily: verse 6. 7.

<sup>a</sup> Lutber. in loc.

{ Fact: verse 4.
 { and in it the

In his first comming note the { Giuer: God, whose good will appears in bestowing on vs his Sonne: { Fitly: when the time was full come.

 { Freely: for hee was not bought or stolne, but sent.
 { Gift: Christ described here by his { Diuinity: his Sonne.
 { Humanity: made of a woman.
 { Humility: bond to the Law.

{ Effect: verse 5. to redeeme them which were bound vnto the law, &c.

The heire as long as he is a child.] This comparison is taken out of the Roman law, by which it is ordeined that a pupill, albeit he be Lord of all his fathers inheritance, should bee kept vnder tutors and gouernours, vntill hee come to full age; to wit, vnder tutors till <sup>o</sup> fourteene yeeres, vnder Curators vntill <sup>p</sup> siue and twenty. <sup>q</sup> Tutores dantur impuberibus, Curatores puberibus. Tutors are guardians of the pupils <sup>r</sup> person principally: so called, <sup>t</sup> Quasi tutores atq; defensores; but <sup>z</sup> Curators are factors especially for his goods and estate.

<sup>o</sup> Iustinian. instit. l. 1. tit. 22.

<sup>p</sup> Idem eodem tit. 23.

<sup>q</sup> Idem eodem tit. 20.

<sup>r</sup> Idem eodem tit. 14.

<sup>s</sup> L. 1. D. de Tutela.

<sup>t</sup> L. in copulandis 8. c. de nuptijs.

<sup>u</sup> Gorran. in loc.

<sup>x</sup> Termes of the law, pag. 103.

<sup>y</sup> L. quod attinet 32. D. de reg. iuris.

<sup>z</sup> Lib. 2. ad legem Aquileam.

<sup>a</sup> Serm. at Pauls Crosse.

<sup>b</sup> Gen. 12. 3.

<sup>c</sup> Gen. 12. 3.

<sup>d</sup> Gal 3. 24.

<sup>e</sup> Lutber. in loc.

Now the Ward, during the time of his minoritie, suffers much bondage; differing saith Paul, nothing from a seruant; nothing in respect of any present possession, or actual administration of his owne estate, but very much in respect of his right and property, being <sup>u</sup> dominus habitus non vsu: as hauing <sup>x</sup> free hold in law, though as yet not free hold in deed: and so the Ward doth differ from the slaue; who was in old time no <sup>y</sup> person in law, but a meere chattell, and as it were of the nature of <sup>z</sup> cattell.

It was in Pauls age then a great slavery to bee a pupill. And <sup>a</sup> Bishop Lactimer complained of late, that there was not a schoole for the Wards, so well as a Court: a schoole for their learning, so well as a Court for their lands. It should seeme Guardians in his dayes vsed yong Noble men not as Lords, but as seruants; as Paul here, &c.

In like manner, when we were little children in our nonage we were heires hauing the promise of an eternall inheritance to come, which should bee giuen vnto vs by the seed of <sup>b</sup> Abraham: that is to say, by Christ, in whom all nations should be blessed; but because the fulnesse of time was not yet come, Moses our tutor and gouernor held vs in bondage. The law doth threaten, accuse, condemne, so long as we be children in vnderstanding, dwarfes in faith, ignorant of Christ. Saint Paul calls the law rudiments of the world; not only <sup>c</sup> because it is our first <sup>d</sup> schoolemaster, and A, B, C, to Christ, but <sup>e</sup> because it leaues a man in the world, and prepares not a way for him to heauen. I kill not, I steale not, I commit not adultery: this outward honest conuersation is not the kingdom of Christ, but the righteousnesse of the world.

<sup>o</sup> Gorran. & Aquin. in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Gal 3. 24.

<sup>e</sup> Lutber. in loc.

The law when it is in his principall vse, cannot iustifie, but accuse, terrifie, condemne.

condemne. Now these are things of the world, which because it is the kingdom of the devill, is nothing else but a puddle of sinne, death, hell, and of all euill: and so the whole Law, especially the ceremoniall, are <sup>f</sup> beggerly rudiments of the world.

I speake not this to disgrace the Law, neither doth Paul so meane; for it is holy, righteous, spirituall, diuine: but because Paul is in the matter of iustification, it is, as <sup>g</sup> Luther obserues, exceeding necessary, that he should speake of the Law as of a very contemptible thing. Wherefore, when Satan assaults thee with the terrors of the Law, banish that stutting and stammering Moses farre from thee: let him vtterly be suspected as an heretick, or as an excommunicate person, worse then the Pope, worse then the devill himselfe, quoth Luther: but out of the matter of iustification, and conflict of conscience, reuerence Moses as a great Prophet, as a man of God, euen as God.

In the ciuill life Moses and Christ agree: for our Saviour said, hee came not to destroy, but to fulfill the law; but in the spirituall life, the one cannot abide the other: for <sup>i</sup> no man is iustified by the law; but the iust shall liue by faith. And therefore when Christ is present, the Law must depart out of the conscience, and leaue the bed, which is so <sup>k</sup> strait that it cannot hold two, to Christ alone. Let him onely raigne in righteousnesse, in peace, ioy, life, that the soule may sleepe and repose it selfe in the multitude of his mercies sweetly without any terror of the law, sinne, death, hell. And thus you see the law tyrannizeth ouer our consciences, as the cruell Tutor doth ouer his vnfortunate Ward, till God in fulnesse of time giueth vs freedome by Christ.

When the time was full come.] Not by fatall necessitie, but by Gods appointment. For there is a time for all things, and Almighty God doth all things in his due time; he created and redeemed vs in his due time, preserueth, iustifieth sanctifieth in his due time, and he will also glorifie vs in his due time.

Now the comming of Christ in the flesh, is called the fulnesse of time for many respects: as,

1. For the <sup>l</sup> fulnesse of grace received by his comming.
2. Because Christ is the fulfilling of the <sup>m</sup> promises of God, as being in him, yea and amen.
3. Because the <sup>n</sup> Law and the <sup>o</sup> Prophets are fulfilled in him.
4. Because the times from Christ are the <sup>p</sup> ends of the world, and it was fit hee should come so late, when the time was full, for <sup>q</sup> two reasons especially:

1. Because Christ is a Lord, yea the Lord, and therefore most meet there should be great preparation, and long expectation of so puissant a person.

2. Because Christ is the grand Physitian of the world, and therefore very requisite all sinners, his patients, should thorowly * feele their sicknesse and misery, before he came to visit and redeeme them; vt conuincerentur homines de morbo vt quantum ad defectum scientia in lege natura. & quantum ad defectum virtutis in lege scripta.

His Sonne ] God } All men, and all things, by creation generally. is Father of } His elect, by adoption specially.
 } Christ, by nature, singularly. See before, the Creed: Art.
His onely Sonne.

Made of a woman.] In expounding this clause, we must take heede of sundry wicked heresies, on the left hand, and on the right. On the left; first, of <sup>r</sup> Paulus Samosatenus, and <sup>s</sup> Photinus, affirming that Christ had his being and beginning from his mother Mary: whereas the Scripture reacheth plainly, that Christ was made of the seed of Dauid according to the flesh: not according to his person, for that is eternall. In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and that Word was God. Againe, we must take heed of <sup>u</sup> Cerinthus holding that Christ was not conceived of the Holy Ghost, but begot

<sup>f</sup> Gal. 4. 9.

<sup>g</sup> Vbi supra.

<sup>h</sup> Matt. 5. 17.

<sup>i</sup> Gal. 3. 11.

<sup>k</sup> Esay 28. 20.

<sup>l</sup> Ioh. 1. 16.

<sup>m</sup> 2. Cor. 1. 20.

<sup>n</sup> Rom. 10. 4.

<sup>o</sup> Luk 1. 70.

<sup>p</sup> 1. Cor. 10. 11.

<sup>q</sup> Aquin. in loc.

* Matt 9. 12.

The whole need not a Physitian.

<sup>r</sup> August he- ref. 4.

<sup>s</sup> Idem her. 45.

<sup>t</sup> Rom. 1. 2.

<sup>u</sup> Irenaeus lib. 1. cap. 25.

begot of Ioseph: Mary is called a woman, not a virgin. * Our answer is, that a woman in Scripture doth not alway signifie the married, or one that hath knowne a man: but sometime it doth onely denotate the sex, as Gen. 3. 12. The woman which thou gauest to be with me, she gaue me of the tree, and I did eat. Eua must needs be a virgin, because so soone as she was made, she was married: and yet the Text calls her woman at that time, when there could be no time for man to corrupt her.

On the right hand we must shun the rockes of Valentinus and Nestorius: of Valentinus who taught, Christ had not his body from Mary, but that hee brought it with him from heauen, and passed thorow the wombe of the Virgin, as water through a conduit pipe: contrary to the Text here; made of a woman. <sup>2</sup> Ex muliere, non in muliere: not in a woman, but of a woman. And the proposition <sup>2</sup> ex, notes the matter, as an house is made of timber and stone; bread is made of wheat; wine of grapes: and therefore Christ had the materials of his body from Mary: so some copies haue it here, <sup>b</sup> ἠνωματισμῶν not γεννησῶν. Yet Christ had not his formale principium of Mary, for the holy Ghost was agent in his wonderfull conception: and therefore fitly said here, to be borne, or as we read, to be made; not begotten of a woman.

By this also we may shun Nestorius his rocke, who thought Mary might not be called the mother of the Sonne of God: for the Text is plaine; God sent his Sonne made of a woman: Ergo, the Sonne of God was the sonne of Mary. For the confutation of this error, the famous Councill of Ephesus, was assembled, wherein it was <sup>c</sup> concluded, and that in the first Canon, that Mary should be called the mother of God. See before, the Creed; Art. Borne of the Virgin Mary.

Bond to the Law.] Though hee were Lord of the Law, yet made hee himselfe subject to the Law, circumcised according to the Law, and presented in the Temple; according to the law; yea, it executed vpon him all the iurisdiction it had ouer vs. It doth by good right accuse, conuince, condemne vs. For alas, all of vs are <sup>d</sup> sinners, and by nature the children of <sup>e</sup> wrath: but Christ did no sinne, neither was there <sup>f</sup> guile found in his mouth: yet notwithstanding the Law was no lesse cruell against this innocent and blessed lambe, then it was against vs cursed and damnable sinners: yea much more rigorous. For it made him guiltie before God of all the sinnes of the whole world. It terrified and oppressed him with such an heauinesse of spirit, that hee sweat blood; and in fine, condemned him to death, euen the death of the Crosse. Thus Christ was made bond vnto the law, to redeeme them which were bound vnto the law: for he died for our sinnes, and endured all this for our sakes; and to being vnder the law, conquered the law by a <sup>g</sup> double right: first, as the Sonne of God, and Lord of the law: secondly, in our person, which is as much as if our selues had ouercome the law; for his victory is ours.

And therefore remember alway this sweet and comfortable Text in the midst of all dangers, all assaults of tyrants; all temptations of Satan, in the houre of death especially, saying to the law; Thou hast no power ouer me; for God the Father hath sent his Sonne to redeeme me from thy bondage; thou doest accuse, terrifie, condemne in vaine: for I will <sup>h</sup> creepe into the hole which bloody Longinus made with his speare in my Sauiours side. There will I hide my selfe from all my foes; I will plunge my conscience in his wounds, death, victorious resurrection, glorious ascension, besides him I will see nothing, I will heare nothing. <sup>i</sup> The sting of death is sinne, and the strength of sinne is the law. But thanks be vnto God, which hath giuen vs victory through our Lord Iesus Christ.

<sup>k</sup> The Nouelists exception against our translating naturall sonnes, is idle: for our Communion booke doth not call vs naturall sonnes, as Christ is Gods naturall Sonne by eternall generation: but as it were naturalized by spirituall regeneration, adopted through election and grace: so Paul elsewhere termeth

<sup>x</sup> Gloss. & August. contr. Faustum, lib. 23. cap. 7. & Thom. 3. p. quest. 28. ar. 1. ad 3. m.

<sup>y</sup> Aug. ser. 11.

<sup>z</sup> Gorran. in loc.

<sup>a</sup> Aquin. in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Erasmus annot. in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Magdeburg. Cent. 5. Col. 889.

<sup>d</sup> Psal. 14. 4.

<sup>e</sup> Ephes. 2. 3.

<sup>f</sup> 1. Pet. 2. 22.

<sup>g</sup> Luther. in loc.

<sup>h</sup> August. manual. cap. 23.

<sup>i</sup> 1. Cor. 15. 56.

<sup>k</sup> Defence for not subscribing, part. 1. cap. 9.

accepi fidelissimè reddam. <sup>v</sup> Ut Æschylum Poetam dicere solitum fuisse narrat Athanens, tragediæ suæ esse particulas de magni cænis Homeri: sic omni studio contendit ex instructissimis optimorum authorum mensis selectiores portiunculas decerpere. Vos spectatissimi conuina prospicientia vestra gustate, sed edentuli; fercula siquidem istiusmodi more candido deuoranda, non ore canino laceranda.

<sup>v</sup> Bucan. prof. loc. com.

Inprimis occurrit libri consideratio, <sup>Bucan. prof. loc. com.</sup> causæ verò quæ sanctissimos Euangelistas ad scribendum impulere, partim communes, partim speciales.

Communes erant duæ: } Prima, vt credamus Christum.
} Secunda, vt credamus in Christum.

1. Vt credamus Christum; & hæc dicitur historica fides: ita Lucas in prologo: Visum est mihi (præstantissime Theophile) omnia altè repetita ordine ad te scribere, vt cognoscas eorum verborum de quibus eruditus es historicam veritatem.

2. Vt credamus in Christum: & hæc nisi Satanae tentationibus <sup>z</sup> cedat & cadat, saluificafides est. Ita Ioannes Euangelij cap. 20. versè 31. Hæc scripta sunt vt credatis Iesum esse Christum illum, & vt credentes vitam habeatis in nomine eius. Has rationes (etsi non habeantur apud Matthæum & Marcum) omnibus Euangelistis fuisse communes apparet, quia mens omnium eadem, idem spiritus, cor vnum, via vna.

<sup>z</sup> Aug. epist. 80.

Speciales autem, quæ singulis occasionem Euan- } Scriptura.
gelium scribendi dedere, partim colliguntur è } Coniectura.

E scriptura: Lucas enim, cap. 1. vers. 1. significat se ad historiam componendam impulsus, quòd intellexerat conatos esse multos Euangelium texere, qui parùm fideliter id præstitissent. <sup>πρωτοι εμαρτυρησαν. πρωτοι, non</sup> <sup>a</sup> Matthæus, non <sup>b</sup> Marcus; <sup>c</sup> sed Appelles, vt Beda; Basilides, vt Ambrosius: Merinthus, vt memorat Epiphanius: alia ferebantur etiam eo tempore euangelia <sup>c</sup> Nazaraorum, <sup>d</sup> Mattheia, <sup>e</sup> Nicodemi, <sup>f</sup> Thomæ, quæ postea velut apochrypha reiecit Ecclesia, <sup>g</sup> imxupρωτων, conati sunt, sed quòd conati minimè perfecerunt: vt <sup>d</sup> Origenes, <sup>e</sup> Ambrosius, <sup>f</sup> Augustinus annotarant.

<sup>a</sup> Stella in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Maldonat in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Erasmus in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Hom. 1. in Luc.

<sup>e</sup> In cap. 1. Luc.

<sup>f</sup> De consensu Euangelistarum, lib. 4. cap. 8.

E coniectura: Ioannes ab Episcopis Asiae rogatus, Euangelicam narrationem aduersus Hereticos exarauit. Cum enim Ebionæi, Cerinthiani, Nicolaitæ diuinitatem Christi iamiam negarent, videratque ceteros Euangelistas in ea confirmandam minus olei posuisse; ad eam potissimum probandam Euangelium sibi scribendum existimauit: vt Irenæus lib. 3. cap. 11. Epiphanius heresi 31. Hieronymus in 8 catalogo: nec non Augustinus in præmio expositionis in Ioannem, & reliqui fere omnes theologici tractatores.

<sup>g</sup> In vita Ioan. Euangelij.

Reddit alteram <sup>h</sup> Eusebius causam, quòd visis Euangelij Matthæi, Marci, Lucae, probarit equidem omnia vixisse vera; sed quedam esse prætermissa quæ præcesserant ante baptista captiuitatem, & hæc adiicienda curauit.

<sup>h</sup> Hist. lib. 3. cap. 26.

Refertur apud <sup>i</sup> Magdeburgenses etiam tertia, nempe quòd animaduertent Euangelistas reliquos historie magis studiosos, admodum paucas Christi conciones recitare, quibus eum abundare cernimus.

<sup>i</sup> Cent. 1. lib. 2. col. 569.

Matthæus autem iste noster <sup>k</sup> Hebraeorum causam suam contexitur historiam. Cum enim illis diu prædicasset, & iam ad Æthiopes transiturus erat, Hebraico sermone descripsit Euangelium, vt haberent certam non modo narrationem, sed quasi <sup>l</sup> methodum vniuersæ religionis Christianæ. Sic Irenæus lib. 3. cap. 1. sic Athanasius in synopsis: sic Eusebius histor. lib. 5. cap. 8. sic Augustinus lib. 1. de consensu Euangelistarum, cap. 2. sic Theophylactus & alij quamplurimi doctores, quasi ex maiorum traditione docuerunt.

<sup>k</sup> Hieron. præm. in Mat. & Sixt. Senen. Biblioth. lib. 1. fol. 17.

<sup>l</sup> Magdeburg. cent. 1. lib. 2. col. 576.

<sup>m</sup> Maldonat. præm. in Mat. cap. 5.

<sup>n</sup> Præm. in Mat.

<sup>o</sup> Præfat. in Mat. quæst. 25.

<sup>p</sup> In vita Matthæi.

<sup>q</sup> Annot. in Mat. 10.

At quis ex Hebraico in Græcum verterit, pauci dicunt, & qui dicunt, contradicunt. <sup>m</sup> Athanasius Iacobum, <sup>n</sup> Theophylactus Ioannem: <sup>o</sup> Abulensis ipsum Matthæum transtulisse putat. Augustinus dicit incertissimū, cuius ego iudiciū credo certissimū: <sup>p</sup> Hieronymus Hebraicè se vidisse testatur, in bibliotheca Cæsariensi, quam Pamphylus Martyr extruxerat: hodie inter Iudeos reperitur, & typis etiam excusū prodijt. quòd an idem illud sit quòd Hieronymus viderat, ipse non discepto, constare clamitant nonnulli; verum ego cum <sup>q</sup> Erasmo malim extare quàm constare.

<sup>r</sup> Vbi supra.

<sup>f</sup> Marloratus argument. in Euang. Matt. <sup>c</sup> Maldonat. presat. in Euang. cap. 6. <sup>u</sup> 1. Epist. c. 4. 6.

<sup>s</sup> Lib. de Christo mediatore, cap. 2.

<sup>v</sup> Epist. 9.

<sup>n</sup> Epist. prefix. Tom. 4. oper. Hieronymi.

<sup>a</sup> Pbillip Morneus presat. lib. de Missa.

<sup>b</sup> Abulensis.

<sup>c</sup> Maldonat. in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Lib. 2. fol. 75.

<sup>e</sup> Abulensis in Matt. 1.

<sup>f</sup> In clau. script. verb. generatio.

Si quis adhuc desiderat plura de rationibus Matthæi, quare scripserit, de loco ubi scripserit, de tempore quando scripserit, adeat ille bibliothecam Sixti Senen. & hac omnia disceptantes copiosissime Magdeburgenses, cent. 1. lib. 2. in vita Matt. Cæsarem Baronium, Ecclesiast. annalium, Tom. 1. fol. 288. Alphons. Tostatium, in prolog. Matth. quest. 2. Atque sic accepistis (amplissimi viri) quo consilio Matthæus <sup>f</sup> predicandi munere non contentus, etiam scriptis ad posteros transmittere voluerit hunc librum de generatione Iesu Christi; omnem scilicet monebat lapidem ut non modo viuus, sed etiam <sup>r</sup> mortuus edificet Hierosolyman sanctam Dei ciuitatem, ut quemadmodum ad mortuos (testante <sup>u</sup> Petro) predicatum erat euangelium, ita etiam per mortuos annunciaretur. Hec ego explicatè, vos ut placherit applicate: vel ipsum biblij nomen apud Academicos excitas attentionem; cui magis arridet biber quàm liber, indignus nomine Academici, cui magis alius quis quàm iste liber, indignus nomine Christiani.

Inepè Stancarum apud <sup>x</sup> Bellarminum; Plus valet vnus Petrus Lombardus quàm centum Lutheri, ducenti Melancthones, tercenti Bullingeri quadringenti Petri Martyres, quingenti Caluini, Rectius ego, Plus est in vna sententia aurei huius enchiridij, quàm in omnibus Liniij, Platonis, Plutarchi, Demosthenis, addo Tullij, Aristotelis, Theophrasti spaciosis voluminibus. Incomparabiliter pulchrior est hec Margarita Christianorum, quàm Helena Græcorum, ut olim <sup>v</sup> Augustinus Hieronymo.

Quemadmodum per se sacundi si cum Cicerone conferantur protinus obtumescunt: ita ceteri doctores cum Hieronymo compositi vix sapere, vix loqui vix viuere videantur, ut <sup>z</sup> Erasmus scripsit egregius ille profopolatra: verum si comparentur vni Matthæo, sancti spiritus Amanuensi, separatim singuli, coniuictim vniuersi, vel ipsi Patres velut infantali conticescunt, ut aliquando Lutherus, Ego non cito mille Augustinos, mille Cyprianos, mille Ecclesias.

Imò fatentur, è pontificijs nonnulli, <sup>a</sup> Gerson scilicet doctissimus ille cancellarius Parisiensis, & illustrissimus Ioannes Picus Mirandulanus, amplecti se magis opinionem hominis laici, Idiota, infantuli scripturam adferentis, quàm ipsius summi Pontificis iudicium aut vniuersalis concilij decretum, quod nullum habeat in verbo Dei fundamentum. Hec veriora sunt quàm ut negari possint, notiora quàm ut tractari debeant. Ad reliqua pergo.

[Biblos <sup>u</sup> uitas.] Ista vox generatio mirè doctorum exercuit ingenia: quidam enim existimant hunc non esse titulum libri sed initium tantummodò genealogie Christi: Alij putant esse titulum, sed vniuerso libri argumento non conuenire: Alij & titulum, & totius titulum, & totam Euangelij summam in se complecti.

Negantes titulum interpretantur <sup>b</sup> biblos, narrationem, catalogum siue recensio- nem, ut Gen. 5. 1. Hic est liber generationis Adam: id est, hæc est narratio genealogiæ ab Adam ductæ. Sic in harmonia Caluinus, in annotationibus Beza, in expositione ecclesiastica super Matthæum Augustinus Marloratus. Alij concedunt esse titulum libri, sed ad totum non extendi: nam ut Moses inscripsit pentateuchi volumen, Librum geneleos, cum agat de rerum generatione solo capite primo; vel, ut rectius Alij, <sup>b</sup> Beresith, quia primum erat illius libri verbum: Ita Matthæus Hebraicè scribens, Hebræorum more nomen imposuit libro ex eo quod refertur in exordio, scilicet ex genealogia, <sup>b</sup> biblos <sup>u</sup> uitas appellauit: <sup>c</sup> huic expositioni fauet authorum pars & maior & melior.

Nonnulli tamen affirmant hunc & esse titulum, & non vnâ modo partem, sed integrum Euangelij argumentum declarare. Nam ut <sup>d</sup> Sixtus Senensis colligit è Rabinis, Hebræa vox qua Matthæus vitur hoc in loco significat non solum generationem, sed etiam totum vitæ cursum; ut Genes. 6. 9. Noe dicitur pefectus in generationibus suis: id est, in omnibus vitæ partibus; <sup>e</sup> ut perinde liber sit generationis Iesu Christi, ac si diceret liber de vita Christi, omnia illius gesta ab incarnatione vsque ad ascensionem. Vti Lucas Euangelium suum nominauit historiam eorum omnium que cepit Iesus & facere & docere: Actorum 1. verse 1. Quæ quidem interpretatio, fateor ingenè mihi maximè placet, & quia plenior, & quia planior; in quo non tam Maldonatium, aut Alphonsum Tostatium quàm <sup>f</sup> Illyricum sequor.

sequor. Faustus itaque, qui negabat hoc Euangelium esse, quia non Euangelium, sed liber generationis inscriberetur, & impius erat, & imperitus, non intelligens omnem Christi vitam generationem appellari: verum ego mittam infestum hunc Manicheum, cuius ineptas caussationes aduersus Matthæi titulum abunde satis doctissimus pater & Augustinus exagitauit. Tom. 6. editionis Frobenianæ. fol. 147.

Cur autem generationis in singulari, non generationum Euangelista dixerit, à nonnullis queritur; quorum alij respondent causam esse, quòd cum duas Christus generationes habuerit, humanam & diuinam, de sola humana Matthæus ageret, ut qui de diuinâ sciebat esse dictum Etaiæ 53. generationem eius quis enarrabit? Alij cum Hieronymo dicunt Euangelistam enumerare generationes certè multas: at <sup>h</sup> unam tamen querere Iesu Christi filij Dauid, filij Abrahæ. Sic enim describitur Christus ex nomine & genere.

Ex nomine } Proprio: Iesus.
                  } Appellatiuo: Christus.

Iesus nomen proprium, Christus appellatiuum: Iesus nomen natura, Christus persona, siue nomen dignitatis & officij, ut theologi loquuntur. Ita Tertullianus aduersus Praxeam disputat Christum non esse nomen, sed appellationem.

At obijci solet, inconuenienter hoc dici proprium, & singulare nomen illud de quo Propheta, Vocabitur nouum nomen, cum in veteri Testamento pluribus fuerit impositum.

Respondet <sup>i</sup> Aquinas appositè, nomen Iesu alijs conuenire secundum aliquam particularem & temporalem salutem: sed secundum vniuersalem & spiritualem hoc nomen esse proprium Christo, qui saluum facit populum suum à peccatis eorum, ut Matthæus interpretatur, huius capituli vers. 21.

Iesus enim Naue, Iesus Sydrach, Iesus Iosedech, Typi tantummodo fuerunt huius nostri Iesu. In Iesu Naue celebratur potentia: in Iesu Sydrach scientia: In Iesu Iosedech bonitas: Iesus ergo Naue figura Christi regis: Iesus Sydrach figura Christi propheta: Iesus Iosedech, figura Christi sacerdotis: Vt explicatissime doctores in tertium Zachariæ, nec non Eusebius in lib. 4. de demonstratione Euangelica, cap. 29. & Augustinus lib. 12. contra Faustum Manichæum, cap. 36. contendunt alij, nomen hoc etiam <sup>k</sup> materialiter acceptum, aptissime Christo vni, soli, semper conuenire: ita tradidit Petrus Galat. lib. 3. de arcanis, cap. 20. & Sanctus Pagninus in interpretatione nominum Hebraicorum: & Iansenius concordia cap. 7. Qui quidem omnes arte tenent, accuratèque defendunt, nomen Iesu Naue, Iesu Sydrach, Iesu Iosedech, non fuisse conscriptum iisdem omnino literis: nomen enim eorum Ieholua, Christi vero Iesua: Iehosua autem significat, Deus saluabit; & Iesus in presenti saluatorem; atque sic vni Christo, soli Christo, semper Christo congruit hoc saluificum nomen, excogitatum à Deo, vocatum ab Angelo, inditum à Maria & Iosepho.

Vrgent adhuc Iudei; quòd Messia nomen est Emmanuel, secundum illud Isaie vaticinium, Ecce virgo concipiet & pariet filium, & vocabitur nomen eius Emmanuel.

Huic obiectioni uincula Matthæus occurrit in presenti capitulo, Vocabis nomen eius Iesum, & ut ita vocari debuisse <sup>l</sup> probet, Esaia locum citat: ut impleretur, inquit, quod Dominus per prophetam, vocabis nomen eius Emmanuel, id est, nobiscum Deus. Emmanuel igitur & Iesus (ut argutè <sup>m</sup> Tertullianus) idem sensu, utcumque non idem sono. Idem enim est, Deum nobiscum, & esse Deum seruatorem nostrum, ut scitè Paulus ad Romanos octauo; Si Deus nobiscum, quis contra nos? Accepimus plura bona Deo regenerante, quàm mala Adamo degenerante. Maior enim dignitas Euangelica quàm Angelica.

Intellexerat hoc qui non vidit omnia sanctus Bernardus; Alia nomina (inquit) sunt Maiestatis; at Iesus est nomen misericordie. Nam esse Dei verbum esse filium, esse Dei Christum, ad eius præcipue gloriam pertinet. At nomen Iesu saluatorem sonat: quo quidem & illius gloria & salus nostra continetur. Ideoque merito quidem ex Ecclesia instituto ad hoc salutare nomen assurgimus, & genua flectimus; at hoc non ad syllabicam compositionem, sed ad saluificam expositionem, diuini

<sup>g</sup> Lib. 2. contra Faustum Manicheum, cap. 6.

<sup>h</sup> Quia propter Christi generationem inducuntur catere. The. caten. in loc.

<sup>i</sup> Part. 3. quest. 37. art. 2.

<sup>k</sup> Suarez tom. 2. in 3. Thom. disputat. 15. scit. 2.

<sup>l</sup> Maldonat. in Matt. 1. 21.

<sup>m</sup> Lib. 3. cont. Martia.

Act 4.12.

divini numinis maiestatem reuerentes & pro salute nobis per sacrum illud <sup>n</sup> nomen impensa gratis exhibentes : Hoc siquidem nomen est super omne nomen, ad quod omne genu flectatur caelestium, terrestrium, infernorum. Ad Philippen- ses 2. vers. 10.

o Lucanus ut
Erasmus in Epi.
Hieron. ad Ge-
rontiam.
P Hieron. Epist.
ad Eustachium.
q Augustin.

Elegantissimè o poeta: Quid fati est, si Roma parum? Ita quidem ego, Quid fati erit illi, cui non sufficiant ista?

Si p cuncta corporis verterentur in linguas, & omnes artus humanà voce resona- rent, nihil hercle dignum hoc nomine, hoc numine proferrem. Istud enim orationibus potius innuocandum quàm rationibus illustrandum, q O bone Iesu! esto mihi Iesus. Noli Domine, noli sic attendere malum meum, vt obliuiscaris bonum tuum: etsi ego admisi vnde me damnare possis, tu non amisti vnde me saluare soles: es Iesus, ergo volens; es Christus, ergo potens: est enim vox χριστός appellatio dignita- tis & officij (sicut ante monui: ) In veteri siquidem lege reges & sacerdotes vñti sive Christi dicebantur: Vt Esaia 45. v. Hæc dicit Dominus Christo suo Cyro. Et Psalmo 105. Nolite tangere Christos meos. Iesus autem vñtus oleo latitæ pra consortibus (vt <sup>r</sup> Psalmista loquitur: ) <sup>r</sup> ὁ χριστός, καὶ ἱερέως, non modo Chri- stus Domini, sed etiam Christus, Dominus, vñtus & rex & sacerdos: <sup>r</sup> Regis mu- nera tria, indicare, regere, tueri suos: sacerdotes item tria; docere, orare, sacrificare. Quæ quidem omnia nunc in cælis; olim in terris agebat Iesus rex & sacerdos noster; rex, vt pote qui filius Dauid; sacerdos vt pote qui filius Abraham: vbi quatuor occurrunt examinanda.

r Psal. 45 8.
f Ioan. 20 31. t Illyricus in clas. script. verb.
Christus.

Primum est, cur hos potissimum duos ex tam longa parentum Christi serie Euan- gelista nominauerit? Cuius (vt <sup>n</sup> Aquinas explicat) est ratio multiplex.

a Caten. in Mat.
1. & part. 3. qu.
31. art. 2.

Prima, quod his potissimum promissio venturi Messie facta fuerit: Abrahamo, Gen. 22. vers. 18. In lumine tuo benedicentur omnes Gentes terræ; quod Apo- stolus intelligendum esse de Christo clarè docet ad Galatas 3. 16. Abrahamo dictæ sunt promissiones, & semini eius; non dicit & feminibus, quasi in multis, sed quasi in vno, & semini tuo, qui est Christus.

Dauidi verò iuravit Dominus: De fructu ventris tui ponam super sedem tuam, Psal. 132. 11. Vnde populus Indæorum vt regem honorificè suscipientes undique clamabat, acclamabat; Hofanna filio Dauid. Acquiescunt in hac expositione Chryostomus, Hieronymus, Ambrosius, Irenæus.

Secunda ratio, quia Christus erat rex, sacerdos, & Propheta. Dauid autem rex & Propheta sacerdos Abraham, vt pote cui dixerat Dominus, Sume mihi vaccam triennem, & arietem annorum trium: turturæ quoque & columbam, Gen 15 9.

r Act. 13. 22.

Tertiatio; quoniam in Abrahamo primo incepit circumcisio: in Dauid autem maximè manifesta Dei electio: Secundum illud, <sup>r</sup> Elegi virum iuxta cor meum. Vtriusque proinde filius specialissimè dicitur à Mattheo Christus, vt ostendatur esse in salutem & circumcisioni & electioni Gentilium: Ita Patres, ita scholastici docuere: verum si liceret vestra bona cum venia meam hæc interponere sententiam; ego fortasse dicerens Abrahamum & Dauidem specialiter in hoc Euangelicæ stru- cturæ frontispicio collocari, quia due sunt principales Euangelij partes, fides & pæ- nitentia. Eminebat in Abrahamo fides, in Dauidæ penitentia: quemadmodum itaque Christus secundum carnalem generationem; ita Christianus secundum spi- ritualem regenerationem habendus est filius Dauid, filius Abraham.

— Si quid tu rectius istis

Candidus imperti; si non, his vttere mecum.

Quod attinet ad secundum problema: <sup>r</sup> quadruplex est causa quare Mattheus Abrahamo Dauidem ante posuerit.

y Hugo Cardinal. in loc.
z Lib. ad Scapu-lam.

1. Quia Dauid erat regno clarior: eleganter enim <sup>r</sup> Tertullianus; Imperator omnibus maior est, dum solo Deo minor est.

a Astra deo nil maius habent, nil Cæsare terra.

2. Ne series genealogiæ turbaretur: Hebræorum enim mos est, vbi multa re- censent, illud vnde volunt incipere ultimo loco ponere: vt Gen. 2. 1. In principio creauit Deus cælum & terram, terra autem erat inanis: Ita liber generationis Iesu Christi, filij Dauid, filij Abraham. Abraham autem genuit Isaac.

z Scriptum in Curiæ Wormatiensi: sicut
Manlius loc. com.

3. Quia Iesus in mundum venit, non <sup>b</sup> iustos vocare, sed peccatores: Euangelij proinde prologo David peccator Abraham iusto preponitur. Et hoc solamen miseris & Euangelium verè: nam quomodo Iesus potest esse non Iesus peccatori, cum ipse fuerit peccatoris summi filius, adulteri, homicida, blasphemus David? Qui non adhuc natus liberavit parentes à peccatis, quomodo iam glorificatus non liberabit filios?

Animadvertere licet omnes ferè qui petebant à Christo beneficia, solere prius eum Davidis filium appellare: Ita mulier Cananea, Miserere mei Domine fili David: Ita Bartimæus, Marci 10. Iesu fili David miserere mei. Ad hunc etiam modum unusquisque confidenter ad gratiæ thronum accedere potest & debet; O Domine Iesu Davidis fili, miserere mei. Sum ego fateor homo peccator. at tu 'e'iu non hominis modo filius, sed hominis peccatissimi, filius David. Audacius adhuc <sup>c</sup> Lutherus: Ignoscite queso; Christus omnium maximus latro, fur, sacrilegus, homicida, scilicet reputatùe coram hominibus, imputatùe coram Deo: quoniam existens hostia pro peccatis totius mundi portavit in corpore suo; peccata Noe, qui fuit ebrius; peccata Pauli, qui fuit blasphemus; peccata David, qui fuit homicida: non miseranda necessitate, sed miserante potius voluntate, sicut optimè distinxit Augustinus ad Laurentium encliridij cap. 49.

Portavit siquidum omnia omnium peccata, qui nullam ne min' man' habuit labe- culam de proprio. Mihi compatitur, mihi iustus, mihi dolet, inquit <sup>d</sup> Ambrosius, in me & pro me doluit, qui pro se nihil habuit quod doleret.

Ita mihi verbum caro factum est; verbum; quid potentius? in initio enim erat verbum: caro factum est, quid impotentius? Omnis enim caro fœnum. Attamen qui fecit hominem factus est filius hominis, imp'j hominis, filius David. <sup>e</sup> Magna miseria superbus homo; sed maior misericordia humilis Deus. Quid rependam ei pro omnibus quæ tribuit mihi? <sup>f</sup> Primò nihil eram, & fecit me: perieram, quaesivit me; querens invenit me; inuentum redemit me; redemptum liberavit me; de hoste fecit servum, de seruo fratrem, de fratre coheredem: Ille qui non novit peccatum, pro me factus est peccatum, & filius nequissimi peccatoris David.

4. David Abrahamo iunior seniori presertur; quia licet utriusque Messia dicta fuerit promissio, tamen ea quæ Davidi facta, & recentior & specialior, & honorificentior; ideoque Iudeis gratior, & omnium ore magis celebrata. Nam interrogati à Iudeis Pharisei; Quid vobis videtur de Christo? incunctanter respondent, filius David; & ipsa & popularis turba visis admirabilibus Christi, dicebat illicò, nunquid hic est filius David? hæc scilicet opinio tenaciter hæcebat omnium animis, oportere Messiam esse filium David; inter Iudeos præcipuè (quorum gratiâ præsens hoc opus excogitatum) adeò manifestam erat, <sup>h</sup> ut nulla doctorum paucitas, nulla indoctorum turba dissentiret.

Hanc rationem afferre video, Chrysostomum, Euthymium, Theophylactum, aliosque tractatores quàm plures; & hanc ego longè clarissimam, eloquioque sacro convenientissimam esse determino.

De tertia verò questione: <sup>i</sup> Secundus g'nitivus filij convenienter & ad Davidem & ad Christum referri potest: ad Davidem; erat enim ille filius Abraham; ac si diceret Euangelista: Liber generationis Iesu Christi filij David, qui David fuit filius Abraham. Ad Christum etiam; erat enim ille utriusque filius, ac si Mattheus ad hunc modum enucleatus, hic est liber generationis Iesu Christi filij David & Abraham Sed quo modo iam ultimo quaritur, & ipse brevius fortasse enarra- bo, quàm res tanta dici debeat.

Isaias sacrorum vatum Homerus (ut eum appellat <sup>k</sup> Budæus) admiranda canit, sed credenda, Cap 9. versè 6. Parvulus natus est nobis, filius datus est nobis: in quem locum <sup>l</sup> Eusebius Emisenus appositè, Datus ex divinitate, natus ex virgine; natus qui sentiret occalum, datus qui rescriberet exordium; natus qui & matre esset iunior, datus quo nec pater esset antiquior; & sic qui erat, datus est; qui non erat, natus est; in mundum nempe venit qui mundum condidit: ad terrena descendit, & celestia non dereliquit; & affuit, & inde non defuit, ut <sup>m</sup> Augustinus olim Volusiano: humana natura accessit, divina non recessit: illa fuit

<sup>b</sup> Matt. 9. 13.

<sup>c</sup> Loc. com. tit. de Christi passione.

<sup>d</sup> De fide. lib. 2. cap 3.

<sup>e</sup> Augustin de civitate Dei, cap. 4.
<sup>f</sup> Aug. serm. 115 de temp.

<sup>g</sup> Matt. 12. 23.

<sup>h</sup> Aug. de vera Religione.

<sup>i</sup> Erasmus & Maldonat. in loc.

<sup>k</sup> Lib. 3. de assè.

<sup>l</sup> Hom. 1. de nativitate Christi.

<sup>m</sup> Epist. 3.

The Epistle. ROM. 12. 1.

I beseech you brethren by the mercifulnesse of God, that you make your bodies a quicke sacrifice, &c.

IT is well obserued by <sup>1</sup> Chrysostome, that all the sacred Epistles of this Apostle stand vpon two legs especially;

To wit, } Explications: or doctrines of holy faith.
 } Applications: or exhortations to godly life.

The former Chapters are spent in dogmaticall conclusions appertaining to beleefe. The <sup>m</sup> residue containe morall instructions of honest conuersation and loue: wherein our Apostle teacheth, how wee should behaue our selues to God and man; and that by <sup>n</sup> precept and patterne. By precept, in the 12. 13. 14. 15. Chapters: by patterne, in the 16. Chapter.

This Scripture shewes how we must demean our selues to <sup>o</sup> God, in } Body: vers. 1. Make your bodies a quicke sacrifice, &c.
 } Soule: vers. 2. Fashion not your selues like vnto this world, but be yee changed by the renewing of your minde.

I beseech you brethren. ] Two things induce men especially to suffer the words of exhortation: opportunitie, and importunitie: The worth of the matter, and zealous affection of the speaker. Saint Paul makes his louing affection manifest in these sweet termes; I beseech you brethren by the mercifulnesse of God. He might haue commanded, as he told <sup>p</sup> Philemon; but for loues sake, he doth rather intreat.

God the Father appeared in a <sup>q</sup> still and soft voice; God the Sonne was not a tiger, but a <sup>r</sup> lambe: God the holy Ghost came downe, not in the forme of a vulture, but in the shape of a <sup>s</sup> doue: signifying hereby, that Preachers ought to vse gentle meanes in winning men vnto God; herein resembling the good mother which hath <sup>t</sup> ubera and verbera, a teat so well as a rod: a dug to restore such as feele their sinne with the spirit of meekenesse: Gal. 6. 1. but a rod to whip the carelesse and senselesse, lest they grow too wanton. And therefore Saint Paul, who doth here beseech the Romans out of his loue; doth adiure them also by the mercifulnesse of God: that is, as <sup>u</sup> some construe it, I beseech you by mine Apostolicall authoritie, committed vnto me by Gods especiall mercy, 1. Cor. 7. 25. as himselfe expounds himselfe in the third verse of this Chapter: I say through the grace that is giuen to me: where the Greeke verbe <sup>x</sup> μαρτα, may be translated, I command: or, By the mercifulnesse of God shewed vnto you: for as God is more bountifull, so you must bee more dutifull. Wee may not sinne, that grace may abound; but on the contrary, because the grace of God, that bringeth saluation vnto all men, hath appeared, it teacheth vs to denie vngodlinesse and worldly lusts, and that we should liue soberly and righteously and godly in this present world.

The mercies of God to me, the mercies of God to you, be many and manifest. I beseech you therefore by the riches of his abundant mercy, make your bodies a quicke sacrifice, &c.

Thus you see the zealous earnestnesse of the speaker: I come now to the worthinesse of the matter, concerning the Romans, and in them our selues, as much as the saluation of our soules. I beseech you therefore marke what the Spirit writeth, and first obserue Pauls order: y After iustification hee speakes of sanctification: herein intimating that good workes, as <sup>z</sup> Augustine said; Non procedunt iustificandum, sed sequuntur iustificatum: Not goe before, but after iustification. <sup>a</sup> As the wheele turneth round, not to the end that it may bee made round, but because it is first made round, therefore it turneth round: so men are sanctified, because first iustified; not iustified, because first sanctified. As Aulus Fulvius when hee tooke his sonne in the

<sup>1</sup> In 6. ad Rom.

<sup>m</sup> Ambros. Theophylact. Melancthon in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Gorran. in loc.

<sup>o</sup> Aquin. in loc.

<sup>p</sup> Philem. 8 9.

<sup>q</sup> 1. King. 19. 12

<sup>r</sup> Ioh. 1. 29.

<sup>s</sup> Luk. 3. 22.

<sup>t</sup> Bernard.

<sup>u</sup> Aquin. in loc.

<sup>x</sup> Erasmus annot. in loc.

<sup>y</sup> Martyr in loc.

<sup>z</sup> Lib. de fide & operibus.

<sup>a</sup> Church Homilie of good workes.

conspiracie with Cataline, said: Egote non Catiline genui, sed patria. So God hath not begotten vs in Christ, that we should follow that arcl-traitor Satan; but serue him in holinesse and righteounesse all the daies of our life: making our selues a quicke sacrifice, &c.

There are two } Expiatorie, for sinne; which we cannot offer. See Epist.
Dom. 3. Quadragesima.
 kindes of sacrifices: } Gratulatorie, of thanks and praise, which we can and must offer:

<sup>b</sup> Aquin. in loc.

And hereof there are <sup>b</sup> three kindes, according } World.
 to the three sorts of goods; of the } Minde.
 } Body.

<sup>c</sup> Prou. 19. 17.

1. We must offer our goods of the world, Heb 13. 16 To doe good and distribute forget not; for with such sacrifices is God pleased. <sup>c</sup> Hee that hath mercie vpon the poore, lendeth vnto the Lord.

2. We must offer to the Lord the goods of our minde, by deuotion and contrition, Psal 51. 17. The sacrifice of God is a troubled spirit; a broken and contrite heart, O God, shalt thou not despise. When by diuine meditation and deuote prayer, we beat downe the proud conceits of our rebellious hearts, we kill, and offer vp as it were our sonne Isaac; that which is most neere, most deere vnto vs.

3. We must offer to the Lord the goods of our body; which are done } Patiendo, by dying for the Lord.
 } Faciendo, by doing that which is acceptable to the Lord.

Martyrdome is such a pleasing sacrifice, that as Ambrose said of his sister; Appellabo martyrem, & predicabo satis: I will call her Martyr, and then I shall be sure to commend her enough. See Epist. on S. Stevens day.

<sup>d</sup> Rom. 6. 13.

S. Paul here meanes a sacrifice by doing; <sup>d</sup> Giue your members as weapons of righteounesse to God. For as Christ offered vp himselfe for vs; so wee made conformable, should offer vp our selues vnto him. <sup>e</sup> Interpreters obserue a great emphasis in the word hostia, deriued, as Ouid noteth, ab hostibus.

<sup>e</sup> Martin. in loc.

Vitima que dextra cecidit vistrice, vocatur;
Hostibus à domitis hostia nomen habet.

And therefore seeing Christ hath deliuered vs from the hands of all our enemies, it is our dutie to sacrifice perpetually to him, our selues and our soules, and so liue to him who died for vs.

Left we should erre in our offering, } Efficient: our selues.
S. Paul shewes all the <sup>f</sup> causes: } Materiall: our bodies.
 } Formall: quicke and holy.
 } Finall: acceptable to God.

<sup>f</sup> Gorran. in loc.

Or (as <sup>g</sup> other obserue) S. Paul sets } 1. Sound and quicke. downe foure properties of a sacrifice: } 2. Sanctified and holy.
 } 3. Pleasing.
 } 4. Reasonable.

<sup>g</sup> Aquin. & Martyr.

First, our sacrifice must be sound and quicke; not blinde, not lame, not feeble, Malach. 1. 8. Wee must not offer to the deuill our youthfull yeeres, and lay our old bones vpon Gods altar: his sacrifice must bee the fattest, and the fairest; he must haue both head and hinder parts: hereby signifying that we must remember our Creator in the daies of our nonage, so well as in the daies of our dotage: for if we deferre our offering till the last houre, when sicknesse the bailiffe of death hath arrested vs, and paine, sicknesse attendant dulled our senses, it cannot be called a quicke, but a sicke; not aliuing, but a dead offering. That our sacrifice therefore may be quicke, let vs, I beseech you, begin quickly to dedicate our selues vnto God.

<sup>h</sup> Martyr. in loc.

Or quicke.] That is, <sup>h</sup> willing: for those things are said to be quicke, which moue of themselues; and those dead, which doe not moue, but by some outward violence: wee may not then bee stockes and blockes in Gods holy seruice, service, doing no good but vpon constraint of law, and penaltie of statute: such oblations are not acceptable, because they be not quicke. The Lord loueth a cheerefull giuer and thanksgiuer. Nothing is done well, but that only which is done with our will, freely, readily, liuely.

Or quicke.] That is, quickned through faith: for as the soule is the life of the body, so faith is the life of the soule; without which hee that liueth is dead; <sup>i</sup> for the iust doth liue by faith, Hic situs est Vacia (said Seneca, when he passed by the ground of that voluptuous Epicure) Vacia lieth here dead and buried: and <sup>k</sup> so Paul of a widow liuing in pleasure; Shee is dead euen while she doth liue. That our sacrifice therefore may be liuing, it must proceed from a faith that is liuely.

Or liuing.] That is, a <sup>l</sup> continuall sacrifice. The sacrifices of the Iewes haue now their end; but the sacrifices of Christians are without end. We must alway <sup>m</sup> give thanks, and <sup>n</sup> alwaies pray. The fire on our altar must neuer goe out, our sacrifice neuer die.

In the Law beasts appointed for sacrifice were first slaine, and then offered; and that for two causes especially: first, (as <sup>o</sup> Ambrose notes) to put the sacrificer in minde what he deserued by sinne; namely, death: and secondly, because thote bloody sacrifices were Types of Christs death on the Crosse, which is the propitiation for our finnes. In like manner euery Christian sacrifice must be dead to the world, that he may liue to God; <sup>p</sup> mortifying his earthly members, and <sup>q</sup> crucifying his carnall affections, that he may become a <sup>r</sup> new creature in Christ.

As death deprives a man of naturall life, so mortification destroyes the body of sinne, which is the sensuall life: Moriatur ergo ne moriatur, mutetur homo ne damnetur (quoth <sup>t</sup> Augustine;) Wee must die for a time in this life, lest we die for euer in the next life. We must rise againe with Christ, saith <sup>v</sup> Paul. Now a man must be dead before he can rise againe: first, <sup>u</sup> grafted with Christ to the similitude of his death, and after to the similitude of his resurrection. He that liued ill, and now demeanes himselfe well, is risen againe from the death of sinne, to the life of grace; mortified, and yet a liuing sacrifice: the <sup>x</sup> more mortified, the more liuing. Rom. 8.13. If ye mortifie the deeds of the body by the spirit, ye shall liue.

This killing of our beastly desires is very } Men.
fit, whether we consider our selues, y as } Ciuill men.
} Christian men.
} Eminent men.

As men; that we may lead our life not according to sense, but according to reason: otherwise wee should bee rather sensuall beasts, then reasonable men.

As ciuill men; that wee may not liue according to lust, but according to law; though not according to conscience, yet according to custome, that we breake not the statutes, and disturbe not the Common-wealth wherein wee liue. The Philosophers in old time comprehended all points of mortification in these two words, sustine & abstine.

As Christian men; <sup>z</sup> for he that will be Christs Disciple, must denie himselfe: abnegare suos, sua, se. <sup>a</sup> The kingdome of heauen suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force: that is, by mortification and daily fighting against the lusts of the flesh; as <sup>b</sup> Basil, Chrysostome, Augustine, Hierome, Gregorie, Theophylact, Euthymius expound it.

Last of all, yet most of all, mortification is necessary for eminent persons, either in the Ministerie or Magistracie. For great ones ought especially to bee good. Their sacrifice must be most quicke, that they may bee paternes vnto other; as it were walking statutes, and talking lawes to the people.

Holy.] The second thing required in our sacrifice: so we read, Leuit. 22. that unhallowed and vnclane persons ought not to touch the things

<sup>i</sup> Abacuc. 2. 4.

<sup>k</sup> 1. Tim. 5. 6.

<sup>l</sup> Meland. in loc.

<sup>m</sup> Ephes. 5. 20.

<sup>n</sup> Ephes. 6. 1. 3.

<sup>o</sup> In loc.

<sup>p</sup> Coloss. 3. 5.

<sup>q</sup> Galat. 5. 24.

<sup>r</sup> Gal. 6. 15.

<sup>t</sup> Serm. 141. de temp.

<sup>v</sup> Coloss. 3. 1.

<sup>u</sup> Rom. 6. 5.

<sup>x</sup> Luther. post. maior. in loc.

<sup>y</sup> Fatius de mortificat. cap. 4.

<sup>z</sup> Luk. 9. 23.

<sup>a</sup> Matt. 11. 12.

<sup>b</sup> Consule Maldonal. in Mat. 11. 12. & Fatium ubi supra.

<sup>c</sup> Leuit. 20. 26.

<sup>d</sup> 1. Theff. 4. 3.

<sup>e</sup> In Cratyle.

<sup>f</sup> Leuit. 22. 20.

23.

<sup>g</sup> Vulpian de verborum significat.

<sup>h</sup> Aeneid. 12.

<sup>i</sup> Melanct. in
loc.

<sup>k</sup> 1. Sam. 15. 22

<sup>l</sup> Hilarius in
Psal. 1.

<sup>m</sup> Perkins Treatise of Callings.

<sup>n</sup> In Eutyphron.

<sup>o</sup> Aquin. & Gloss. in loc.

<sup>p</sup> Melanct. &
Caluin. in loc.

<sup>q</sup> 1. Pet. 2. 5.

<sup>r</sup> Church hom.
of good works
part. 1.

of the Lord. <sup>c</sup> Yce shall be holy, for I the Lord am holy; <sup>d</sup> this is the will of God, euen our sanctification.

The word αγια is deriued, as <sup>e</sup> Plato notes, of the priuatiue particle α and για, signifying that holy things are not infected with the corruptions and filth of the world; when our throat is an open sepulchre, when our mouth is full of cursing and bitternesse, when our feet are swift to shed blood, when our bodies are sinkes of sinne, we cannot be an holy sacrifice: for the Law is plaine, <sup>f</sup> Yce shall not offer any thing that hath a blemish, not a beast that is scabbed, not a bullocke nor a sheepe that hath a member lacking. The drunkard then, that is ακεφαλος, without his head (as Clemens Alexandrinus termed him) and the coward who wants an heart, and the rotten adulterer, whose body is neither holy nor whole, is no sacrifice for the Lord.

The Latines haue deduced the word sanctum of sancire, & quasi sancitum; hereby teaching vs that our sacrifice must be constant and continuall. That by-word, A young Saint, an old Deuill, is a wry-word; for we must be good in our youth, better in our manhood, best of all in our old age: we must grow from grace to grace, till we be of full growth in Christ; dedicating all that is within vs, all that is without vs, all that is about vs, vnto the seruice of God.

Seruius expounding the words of <sup>h</sup> Virgil; Qui fœdera numine sancit, affirms that sanctum is sanguine consecratum: and so must our sacrifice be consecrated and dipped in Christs blood, in whom onely God is well pleased: and therefore, as it followeth in the Text, if holy, then acceptable.

Now that it may bee well accepted of God, <sup>i</sup> two things are required especially: <sup>1</sup> That it be grounded vpon his word.

<sup>2</sup> That it be performed in faith.

<sup>k</sup> Obedience is better than sacrifice: no sacrifice then is pleasing to God, except it be done according to his will: inuocation of Saints, adoration of the consecrated host, administration of the Sacraments vnder one kinde, diuine seruice in an vnknowne tongue; praying to the dead, mumbling of Masses, mumbling of beads, worshipping of Images, and other like trash; which are the very Diana of the Romish Religion, haue no foundation in holy Scripture; not built vpon the Rocke Christ, but vpon the sands of humane braines, and therefore not acceptable, but abominable to the Lord. A new religion is no religion: <sup>l</sup> to deuise phantasies of God, is as bad as to say, there is no God.

Againe, courses of life not warranted by Gods owne booke, such as are rather <sup>m</sup> auocations from God and goodnesse, than vocations, as ordinarie cheating, brotheldrie, coniuring, and all other vnlawfull occupations or professions, are not a sweet fauour to God, but altogether stinking in his nostrils: If wee will haue our sacrifice acceptable, they must be first holy. So diuine <sup>n</sup> Plato, Whatsoeuer is good and holy, that is accepted of God.

Secondly, sacrifice must be performed in faith, otherwise though it bee warranted by Gods owne word, it is not acceptable: prayer, receiuing of the Sacraments, hearing of the Scriptures, &c. are holy sacrifices, and yet not pleasing God, if done without faith. As our Apostle, Rom. 14. 23. Whatsoeuer is not of faith, is sinne; that is, whatsoeuer is against our <sup>o</sup> conscience: so when the Recusant comes to Church against his conscience, to satisfie the law of man, not to certifie his loue to God, it is not an acceptable sacrifice. If a man be a Lawyer, a Physitian, a Merchant, a Souldier, against his conscience, though his calling be neuer so good, yet his oblation is bad.

Or as <sup>p</sup> other expound that Text more fitly: whatsoeuer is not done in a good assurance, that God for Christs sake will accept of it and vs, it is sinne. Christians are <sup>q</sup> Priests offering spirituall sacrifices acceptable to God by Iesus Christ. <sup>r</sup> All good workes without faith in him, are like the course of an horse that runneth out of the way which taketh great labour but to no purpose. For vnbeleuing Gentiles and r̄isbeleuing heretikes, albeit they be neuer so witty, neuer so vertuous, are no sweet fauour to the Lord.

Reasonable.] We reade in the <sup>1</sup> Law, that euery sacrifice was seasoned with salt: now salt mystically notes discretion; as Coloss. 4.6. Let your speech be gracious alwayes and powdered with salt: that is, with wisdom and sobriety. When Paul then exhorteth vs to giue our bodies a reasonable sacrifice, <sup>c</sup> his meaning is, that all things must be done in order, comely, discretely. The Prouerbe is good, An ounce of discretion is worth a pound of learning: for as zeale without knowledg is blinde, quo uehementius irruit eo grauius corruit: so knowledge without discretion is lame, like a sword in a mad mans hand, able to do much, apt to doe nothing: <sup>u</sup> Tolle hanc, & virtus vitium erit. Hee that will fast, must fast with discretion, <sup>x</sup> hee must so mortifie that he doe not kill his owne flesh. He that giueth almes to the poore, must doe it with discretion; omni petenti, non omnia petenti, quoth <sup>y</sup> Augustine; to euery one that doth aske, but not euery thing that hee doth aske: so likewise pray with discretion, obseruing place and time; <sup>z</sup> place, lest thou bee reputed an hypocrite; time, lest accounted an heretike; like the <sup>a</sup> Psallianists and Euchitai.

<sup>b</sup> Other expound the word reasonable as opposite to the Iewes oblations. As if Paul should speake thus: In the Law dead beasts; but in the Gospel reasonable liuing men are to be sacrificed vnto God. Euery Christian is a sacrificer, euery lay man a priest, but the pastor is a priest of priests, one that sacrificeth his people by teaching, and exhorting them to giue vp their bodies, a quicke and holy sacrifice to the Lord. I am (saith <sup>c</sup> Paul) the minister of Iesus Christ toward the Gentiles ministring the Gospel of God, that the offering vp of the Gentiles might bee acceptable, being sanctified by the holy Ghost.

Hitherto concerning the first generall branch of S. Pauls exhortation. Now as Musicians doe not onely teach their schollers what they shall sing, but also what they shall not sing, that they may follow that which is good, and eschue that which is euill: so Paul doth not onely shew what wee must doe, but also what we must not doe: Fashion not your selues like vnto this world.

World vsed in the worse sense signifieth either the wicked men of the world; or else the vaine things of the world; the wicked men, as John 12. 31. the deuill is termed the Prince of the world, that is, of the wicked in the world; who make themselves his vassals, by yeelding to his temptations, according to that of <sup>d</sup> Paul: He is our master to whom wee submit our selues as seruants. It is not Satans power that he doth thus dominere in the Church: for he was <sup>e</sup> bound and <sup>f</sup> cast out of the Church; but it is the weaknesse and wickednesse of men, who loofe him and open the gate when he was shut out; admitting him as a Lord of misrule, ruling and ouerruling those who are children of disobedience: Ephes. 2.2.

Secondly, the word World taken in a bad and more strict sense, signifies the pomps and vanities of the world. As 1. Epist. Ioh. 2. 15. Loue not the world, neither the things of the world: that is, as himselfe construeth himselfe, the lust of the flesh and pride of life.

According to both acceptions it may be well expounded in this Text; as if S. Paul should say, Brethren I beseech you by the tender mercies of God, that yee fashion not your selues, either according to the wicked men, or according to the vaine things of this world.

For the first: Two things occasion fashion in the world

Multitude: for as Cyprian said; Incipit esse licitum, quod solet esse publicum. Custome is not only another nurture, but as it were another nature. And, as the Lawyers speake: Quod est consuetum presumitur esse iustum: That which is done by many, is thought at length lawfull in any.

Greatnesse: for as <sup>g</sup> Paterculus writes; Imperio maximus exemplo maior: he that is highest, hath alway most followers. Augustus, a learned Prince, filled the Empire with schollers: Tiberius, with dissemblers: Constantine, with Christians: Julian, with Atheists.

<sup>1</sup> Leuit. 2. 13.

<sup>c</sup> Aquin in loc.

<sup>a</sup> Bernard ser. 49. in Cantic.

<sup>z</sup> Gortan. in loc.

<sup>y</sup> Lib. 1. de ser Dom. in Mont.

<sup>u</sup> Matt. 6. 5.

<sup>x</sup> August. l. 2. res. 57.

<sup>b</sup> Luther. Melancthon. Erasmus, &c. in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Rom. 15. 16.

<sup>d</sup> Rom. 6. 16.

<sup>e</sup> Apoc. 20. 2.

<sup>f</sup> Apoc. 12. 9.

<sup>g</sup> Lib. 1.

So that Paul vnderstanding how prone men are to follow fashions, aduiseeth vs here, not to conformance our selues according to the world.

In complement of courtesies and common ciuilities, it is not amisse to follow either the most or the best.

In matter of Church orders and ceremonies, it is <sup>h</sup> insolent singularity not to fashion our selues according to that which is enioyed by the best, and vsed by the most; yea euen in the maine points of holy religion; If the great bee good, and the most, best, we may follow both.

But Saint Pauls meaning is, that wee may not follow wicked men in their wickednesse, nor worldly men in their worldlinesse, nor good men but in that they are good: as he saith elsewhere, <sup>i</sup> Be yee followers of mee, as I am of Christ: for as in imitation oratorie, there are two sorts of examples; one necessary to be followed alwayes in all things; as Demosthenes among the Grecians, and Tully among the Latines; another to bee followed in some things, and at some times, as Poets and Historiographers: Euen so there are two sorts of examples in Christian imitation: the one necessary, which is Christ the way, the truth, and the life: <sup>k</sup> Via in exemplo, veritas in promisso, vita in premio: The truth in his learning, the way for his lining; as the <sup>l</sup> Fathers usually glosse that place. The other are to bee followed in some things, and at some time; as Paul, Peter, Augustine, Chrysostome, Nazianzen, and other blessed Saints of God; whose liues and lines are so farre forth to be followed, as they swarue not from our chiefe copy Christ. In sinne we may not follow the good; much lesse the wicked of the world, be they neuer so many, neuer so mighty: we may not bee drunken, because it is the fashion among the most; nor liue lasciuiously, because commonly great ones are wantons. In this poynt the Scriptures are plaine and peremptory. <sup>m</sup> The gate is wide, and way broad, that leadeth to destruction, and many goe in thereat: Ergo, wee must not follow the most. <sup>n</sup> Dec any of the Rulers belecue in Christ? Ergo, wee must not fashion our selues according to the greatest.

In the old world many were drowned, onely <sup>o</sup> Noah and his family saued: in Sodome many wicked beasts destroyed, onely <sup>p</sup> Lot and his house deliuered: there were two malefactors hanged, one Christ crucified; two extremes, one vertue; many thornes, one lillie; Cant. 2:2. Like a lillie among the thornes, so is my loue among the daughters.

It is said, Apoc 20:12. that at the last day the bookes shall bee opened, and another booke which is the booke of life. Where some note, that the booke wherein Gods elect are registred, is but one; but the bookes of the reprobate are many. The number of fooles is infinite; but Gods people, which are truly wise, a <sup>q</sup> little flocke. Christendome is the least part of the world: they that professe Christ aright, are the least part of Christendome; and of this little part, many bee called, but few chosen; <sup>r</sup> professing they know God in their words, but denying him in their workes: arrant hereticks, as one wittily, not disputing against religion, but liuing contrary to religion; marching vnder *Christ*s colours, and yet fashioning themselves according to the world.

Here some will obiect: If I fashion not my selfe like the world, I shall bee played vpon, and made a very <sup>s</sup> Tabret: I shall become the by-word and song of the people:

First, according to the rules of reason, hee is base that dependeth on vulgar breath.

<sup>t</sup> Qui pendet ab errore & opinione vulgi, Pendet magis atq; arbore qui pendet ab alta.

Augustine, who reckoned out of Varro, <sup>u</sup> 288. diuers opinions concerning the chiefe good, <sup>v</sup> affirms notwithstanding, that no man euer was so mad, as to place his happinesse in common fame, because that is but winde, and of winde it is said in the <sup>v</sup> Scripture, that no man knoweth whence it commeth,

and <sup>a</sup> August. epist.

118. cap. 5.

<sup>i</sup> 1. Cor. 11. 1.

<sup>k</sup> Bernard. ser. 2.
in ascens. Dom.
<sup>l</sup> Basil. de spirit.
sanct. cap. 8. Leo
serm. 2. de resur- rect. Cyril. in loc.

<sup>m</sup> Matt. 7. 13.

<sup>n</sup> Ioh. 7. 48.

<sup>o</sup> Gen. 7.

<sup>p</sup> Gen. 19.

<sup>q</sup> Luke 12. 32.

<sup>r</sup> Tit. 1. 16.

<sup>s</sup> Iob. 17. 6.

<sup>t</sup> Scaliger.

<sup>u</sup> Decius. lib.

19 cap. 1.

<sup>v</sup> Epist. 56.

<sup>w</sup> Ioh. 3. 8.

and whither it goeth. As the childes lone, so the peoples commendation is gotten, and forgotten in an houre. <sup>z</sup> Socrates in Plato suspected euermore that to be bad, which the vulgar extolled for good. And Plinie gaue this rule in the Schoole; That he declamed worst, who was applauded most.

Secondly, it is an axiome in the <sup>a</sup> Bible, that amity with the world is enmitie with God. <sup>b</sup> Hee that is a parasite to men, is not the seruant of Christ, It is an unhappie thing to conuerse with vngodly wretches in the tents <sup>c</sup> of Kedar; <sup>d</sup> to bee brother vnto the Dragons, and companions to the Ostriches. Yet Noah must not follow the fashions of the old world: Lot must not follow the fashions of Sodome: Iob must not follow the fashions of Vz: we must not follow the fashions of our corrupt age; but as <sup>e</sup> Paul exhorteth, in the midst of a crooked and naughty generation, wee must be pure and blamelesse, shining euen as lights in the world, strining euermore to walke in the narrow path, and enter in at the strait gate.

Againe, we may not conforme our selues according to the greatest: Ego & rex meus, is no good plea, when God shall reckon with vs at the last and dreadfull day. Some men are so much at other mens seruice, that they neglect altogether Gods seruice. That thou didst follow such a Lord, and humour such a Gentleman; that there were better men in the company when thou didst this villany; that vanity will not goe for a currant excuse: when Almighty God shall come to iudgement, then scepters and sepulchers shall be all one; Princes and pesants shall be fellowes.

As in Chess-play, so long as the game is in playing, all the men stand in their order, and are respected according to their place: first, the King; then, the Queene; then, the Bishops; after them, the Knights; and last of all, the common Souldier: but when once the game is ended, and the table taken away, then all are confusedly tumbled into a bag, and happily the King is lowest, and the pawne vpmost. Euen so is it with vs in this life; the world is a huge theater or stage, wherein some play the parts of Kings; other, of Bishops; some, Lords; many, Knights; other, Yeomen: but when our Lord shall come with his Angels to iudge the world, all are alike. For if great men and meane persons are in the same sinne, they shall be bound together, and cast as a fagot into hell fire. And therefore let vs not fashion our selues according to the wicked, whether Prince or people.

Secondly, we must not fashion our selues according to the vanities of the world, and that for two causes especially.

1. Because they be transitory: where note the worlds mortality.
2. Because they be not satisfactory: where note the soules immortality.

For the first, all the things of this world are of such a fashion, as that either they will leaue vs, or else wee must leaue them. They leaue vs; All riches haue their <sup>f</sup> wings, and make their flight like an Eagle. We leaue them; As the <sup>g</sup> Partridge gathereth the yong, which shee hath not brought forth: so hee that getteth riches, and not by right, shall leaue them in the midst of his dayes, and at his end shall be a foole.

The Partridge, as Ambrose writes in his 48. Epistle, maketh a nest of eggs, which shee laied not; but so soone as the birds are hatched, the true mother calts them all away from the stepmother. So it is, saith Jeremy, with the couetous man, incubat auro, like a brood goose, or as a hen that sits; incubo (for so the Latines terme him) he keepes his nest and sits as it were brooding, but when his chickens are hatched, he heares a voice from heauen; O foole, this night will they fetch away thy soule from thee: and then, whose shall these things bee which thou hast provided? Indeed many men reputed him wise while hee lined; but at his end, when by the finger of God, wee see that his goods are otherwise disposed, either excheated to the King, or restored to the true masters; or else by some small error in his will, caried away by those whom hee neuer loued: at his end, when euery Partridge shall call his yong, then

<sup>z</sup> Erasm. epist. praefix tom. 4. oper. Hieron.

<sup>a</sup> James 4. 4.

<sup>b</sup> Galat. 1. 10.

<sup>c</sup> Psal. 120. 4.

<sup>d</sup> Iob 30. 29.

<sup>e</sup> Philip. 2. 15.

<sup>f</sup> Pro. 23. 5.

<sup>g</sup> Ier. 17. 11.

<sup>h</sup> Pſal. 52. 8.

then thoſe that are wiſe, ſhall account him a very foole : <sup>h</sup> Loe, this is the man that tooke not God for his ſtrength, but truſted in the multitude of his vncertaine riches, and ſtrengthened himſelfe in his wickedneſſe. And therefore loue not the world, neither the things of the world; for the world paſſeth away, and the luſt thereof, being onely certaine in being vncertaine.

<sup>i</sup> Eccleſ. 1. 8.

Secondly, things of this world are not ſatisfactory, they doe not fill and content the mind of man. <sup>i</sup> The eye cannot be ſatisfied with ſeeing, nor the eare filled with hearing : all things haue an emptineſſe and extreame vanitie, purchaſing vnto the poſſeſſors nothing but anguiſh and vexation of ſpirit : and the reaſon hereof, as <sup>k</sup> Vinaldus obſerues, is, becauſe the heart of man is made like a triangle, and the world round as a circle. Now a circle cannot fill a triangle, but there will be ſome corner empty.

<sup>k</sup> Ludouicus Vwaldus de veritate contritionis. fol. 87.

There is nothing can fill the mind of man, but the bleſſed Trinity, when God the Father, the moſt ancient of daies, ſhall fill our memory ; God the Son, who is wiſedome it ſelfe, ſhall fill our vnderſtanding ; God the holy Ghoſt, who is contentation and loue, ſhall ſit in our will ; then all the powers of our mind will beat reſt, when as they ſhall inioy him who made them. But the things of this world afford no perfect and abſolute contentment ; and therefore, ne vos configure ſeculo iſti, ſit not your ſelues according to the worlds figure, which is a circle ; but be ye renewed in your minde, which is a triangle, repreſenting the ſacred Trinitie.

<sup>l</sup> Plutarch.

Take a view with the Wiſeman of all worldly things : in briefe, doth any pleaſure ſatiſſie ? No : pleaſure is like lightning : <sup>l</sup> Simul oritur & moritur ; it is ſweet but ſhort ; like hauking, much coſt and care for a little ſport.

<sup>m</sup> Luk. 15. 16.

The prodigall childe waſted both goods and body, yet could not haue enough, at the laſt not enough <sup>m</sup> hogs meat.

<sup>n</sup> Hæc acc.

— <sup>n</sup> Virgo formoſa ſupernè

Deſinit in turpem piſcem maleſuada voluptas.

Doth learning, that incomparable treaſure of the mind, ſatiſſie ? No : The more a man knoweth, the more hee knoweth that he doth not know : ſo that as <sup>o</sup> Salomon ſaid ; He that increaſeth knowledge, doth increaſe ſorrow.

<sup>o</sup> Eccleſ. 1. 18.

Doth honour content a man ? No : The poore labourer would be written Yeoman ; the Yeoman after a few deare yeeres is a Gentleman ; the Gentleman muſt be a Knight ; the Knight, a Lord ; the Baron, an Earle ; the Count, a Duke ; the Duke, a King ; the King would Cæſar be ; and what then, is the worlds Emperor content ? No.

<sup>p</sup> Inuenal.

<sup>p</sup> Vnus Pellao iuueni non ſufficit orbis, Æſtuat infelix anguſto limine mundi.

One world is not enough for Alexander, and therefore he weeps, and is <sup>q</sup> diſcontent : as if he wanted elbow roome.

<sup>q</sup> *Valerius
Max. 1. 8. c. 15.*

In the ſtate Eccleſiaſtical, the begging Frier would be Prior ; the Prior, an Abbat ; the Lord Abbat, a Biſhop ; the Biſhop, an Archbiſhop ; the Metropolitan, a Cardinall ; the Cardinall, Pope ; the Pope, a God : nay that is not enough, aboue all that is called God : 2. Theſſ. 2. 4. This made <sup>r</sup> Bernard wonder, O ambitio ambientium crux : how doſt thou paine, yet pleaſure all men !

<sup>r</sup> Lib. 3. de conſiderat.

Doe riches content ? No : the more men haue, the more men craue ; and that which is worſt of all, they are the greateſt beggers, when they haue moſt of all. <sup>s</sup> Hee that loueth ſiluer, ſhall not bee ſatisfied with ſiluer. As the poore man crieth out, Quid faciam quia non habeo ? ſo <sup>t</sup> the conetous wretch as faſt complaineth, Quid faciam quia habeo ? Luk. 12. 17.

<sup>s</sup> Eccleſ. 5. 9.

<sup>t</sup> *Theophylaſt.
in 12. Luc.*

Thoſe drinckes are beſt that ſoonest extinguiſh thirſt ; and thoſe meates, which in leaſt quantitie doe longeſt reſiſt hunger : but here the more a man doth drinke, the more thirſtie ; ſo ſtrange in ſome is this thirſt, that it maketh them digge the pits, and painfully draw the water, and after, will not ſuffer them to drinke. This, ſaith <sup>u</sup> Salomon, is an euill ſickeſſe, and a great great vanitie, when a man shall haue riches, and treasure, and honour, and want power and grace to ioy in them.

<sup>u</sup> Eccleſ. 6. 2.

Thus you see, the world is like a butterflie with painted wings; vel sequend labimur, vel assequendo ledimur; either we faile in pursuing it, or else when we haue caught it, it is so vaine, that it giueth no contentment. * Herein is the true difference betweene earthly things and heauenly things: the one are desired much, but being obtained, they content little: the other are desired little, but once gained, satisfie much: and therefore, Lay not up treasure upon earth, where the moth and canker corrupt, and where thoeues dig thorow and steal, &c. if these things are neither vera nor vestra; but lay vp treasure for you selfe in heauen. If ye will not heare the words of Scripture, behold the workes of nature: mans heart is broad aboue, narrow beneath; open at the top, close below: to signifie that we should enlarge and spread our affections toward heauen and heauenly things, and draw them to as narrow a point as possibly we can, concerning earth and earthly things: and so by the fashion of our heart, we may learne not to follow the fashion of the world.

Be ye changed by the renewing of your minde.] Wee are formed by God, deformed by Satan, transformed by grace;

1. Sacramentally, by baptisme.

2. Morally, by newnesse of life; which our Apostle meanes in this place. That which followes in the Text, is expounded Epist. for the next Sunday.

The Gospell. LVKE 2. 42.

The father and mother of Iesus went to Hierusalem after the custome of the feast day &c.

THIS Gospell is a direction how Parents ought to carry themselves toward their children, and how children also should demean themselves toward their parents: the one, by the practise of Ioseph and Mary: the other, by the pattern of our Sauour Iesus Christ.

Parents care touching their children concernes their } Soule.
} Bodie.

Their soule: that they be brought up in a instruction and information of the Lord; <sup>b</sup> that is, in godinesse and ciuilitie: by the one they shall keepe a good conscience before God: by the other they shall obtaine a good report among men: the which two, conscience and credit, must chiefly bee sought after in this life.

For the body: Parents ought to <sup>c</sup> prouide competent sustenance and maintenance: guarding their persons, and regarding their estates: all which is performed hereby Ioseph and Mary toward Christ.

First, for the soules institution; they did instruct him by precept and example: precept, bringing him to the Temple, that he might be taught; and that not onely this once, but often, as often as law did require. So <sup>d</sup> Iuuenius expressly:

Ad Templum latis puerum perducere festis, Omnibus annorum vicibus de more solebant.

This should <sup>e</sup> teach all Parents, how to teach their children; especially, that they send them vnto the publike Catechising in the Church, and that according to <sup>f</sup> Canon and custome: for the common Catechisme, which Authoritie commands, is fit and full, as containing all the vertues necessarie to saluation, and the meanes whereby those vertues are receiued and conserued.

The principall vertues of a Christian, are } Faith.
} Hope.
} Charitie.

* Aug de doct. (brill lib. 1. cap 38.

y Bernard.

z Iarson. Con cord. cap. 12.

a Ephes. 5. 4
b H. Augustinus in sil. Dom. 1. ost Epiphani.

c 1. Tim. 5. 8.

d Hist. Franc. lib. 1. vi. Mat. donas. in loc.

e Culman. con. 1.
Z. scriptus con. 2.
loc.
f an. 59.

The Creed is necessary for faith; as teaching vs what we haue to beleue. The Pater noster is necessary for hope; teaching vs what we are to desire. The ten Commandments are necessary for charitie, teaching vs what we haue to doe. The Sacraments are instruments of grace, by which those vertues are conueyed vnto vs, and continued in vs. As to build an house, it is requisite, first to place the foundation, then to raise the walls, and last of all to couer it with the rooffe: so saith Augustine, to make in our soules the building of eternall saluation, wee need the foundation of faith, the walls of hope, the rooffe of charitie. The tooles as it were wherewithall these be wrought, are the sacred Word and blessed Sacraments; our Catechisme then in brieft. comprehending all these matters and all these meanes; and standing vpon the same leggs especially, with the <sup>b</sup> Geneuian and <sup>i</sup> Romane Catechisme, cannot bee distasted either of Accusant or Recusant out of deuotion and pietie, but out of faction and malice: well, or rather ill, each may say with the <sup>k</sup> Poet.

Non amo te Sabidi, nec possum dicere quare:

Hoc tantum possum dicere, non amo te.

The father and mother.] Ioseph was not the naturall father, of Christ, but father,

In } Opinion: Luk. 3.23. Iesus, as men supposed, was the sonne of Ioseph.
 } Care: being his nursing father appointed of God: for nurses are called mothers, and patrons fathers.
 } Law: <sup>m</sup> being husband to Mary, and nigh of kin to Christ.

But Mary was the mother of Christ; not onely in opinion and care, but in truth and indeed. Mater à materia, the very matter of *Christ*s body was of the Virgin Mary, Gal. 4.4. God sent his Sonne made of a woman: See epist. Sunday after Christmas.

Secondly, these Parents instruct their childe by their owne example; for they doe not send, but bring him vp to Hierusalem, after the custome of the feast day. The which is the shortest cut of teaching Longum iter per precepta, breue per exempla: The parents <sup>n</sup> good life preuailes more with his childe, then a good lesson.

Their deuotion is seene in } Going vp to Hierusalem, after the custome of the feast.
 } Tarrying there, fulfilling the daies.

S. Paul exhorts vs to pray at all <sup>o</sup> times, and in all <sup>p</sup> places: for the whole world is Gods vniuersall, and as it were Cathedrall Church; and euery particular Christian is as it were his private Chappell, and Temple: Daniel prayed in the Lions denne, Jonas in the Whales belly, Job on the dunghill, and the theefe on the Crosse; yet the Lord heard their prayers, and granted their requests. It is lawfull then in private to pray when and where we shall iudge most meete: but God for his publike worship hath in all ages assigned certaine times, and certaine places. The most speciall time is his Sabbath, and the most speciall place the Temple: so we finde precept and practise. Precept, <sup>q</sup> My house shall bee called the house of prayer; the which is repeated by Christ in three Euangelists.

Practise: The Publican and the Pharisee went vp into the Temple to pray, Luke 18. Anna prayed in the Temp'le, Luk. 2. Peter and John went vp into the Temple at the houre of prayer, Act. 3. Christ himselfe daily teaching in the Temple, Luk. 19.

After Christ, by reason of the great persecution, the Christians assembled not in the fittest, but in the safest places: in proesse of time they did erect Oratories; not in any sumptuous or stately manner, <sup>r</sup> which neither was possible by reason of the Churches pcurtie, nor plausible in regard of the worlds enuie: but at length when Almighty God stirred vp religious Kings and Queenes, as <sup>s</sup> nursing fathers and nursing mothers of the Church, that which

<sup>e</sup> Vii Bellarm. præfat. tom. 1. contr. hers.

<sup>b</sup> Cat. caluina vsed in the French and Scottish Churches

<sup>i</sup> Bellarmin Cat. written in Italian, englished by R. Hadaoc.

<sup>k</sup> Matth. lib.

<sup>l</sup> Epiqr 33

<sup>m</sup> Theophylact. in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Augustin. de consensu Euangelist. lib. 2. c. 1.

<sup>o</sup> Hieron. Epist. ad Leiam. tom. 1. fol 75.

<sup>p</sup> 1. Thess 5. 17
<sup>q</sup> 1. Tim 2. 8.

<sup>r</sup> Esay 56. 7.

<sup>s</sup> Hooker, lib. 5. sect. 11.

<sup>t</sup> Esay 49. 23.

which the Christians before either could not, or durst not doe, was with all alacritie performed; in all places Temples were built; no cost spared, nothing too deare which that way should be spent: sacrilegious wretches are not now more desirous to pull downe, then those deuout professors were to set vp Churches.

Now one chiefe cause why God in all ages would bee serued in publike Temples, is, that his Church might be distinguished from the Conuenticles of Heretikes and Schismatikes, that as all of vs acknowledge one God, and one Christ, so all of vs might haue one<sup>r</sup> faith, and one baptisme, and vniformity in doctrine, and a conformitie in outward ceremonies, for the better deliuering of this doctrine. The parents of Christ did therefore well in<sup>u</sup> ioyning themselues vnto the congregation, and obseruing the publike ceremonies of the Church. At that time the Temple was made a den of theeues; and yet Ioseph and Mary ioyne with the Church in the publike worship of God: * whose example doth exceedingly crosse the practise of Brownists and all other recusants, who refuse to communicate with vs in our Temples; because some things, as they pretend, are amisse. Ioseph and Mary tooke part with Gods Priests and people in that which was good, and as for the rest, they did not meddle further then their place required. They went this long iourney to satisfie the law; as also by their good example to stirr vp other, to reuerence the publike ceremonies and ministrie.

<sup>r</sup> Ephes. 4. 5.

<sup>u</sup> Melanct possill. in loc.

* Caluin. & Marlorat. in loc. Beauxamis harm Tom. 1. fol. 76.

By the law, men only were bound to keepe the generall solemne feasts, as wee read, Exod. 23. and Deut. 16. 16. Three times in the yeere shall all the males appeare before the Lord thy God in the place where hee shall chuse: so that Mary went not vp to Hierusalem as compelled by the law, but only carried with pure devotion to God, and vnfaigned loue to her husband and child.

Here then is a notable relique for women to behold; Mary free by the letter of the law, by the custome of the countrey, dwelling at Nazareth, a great way from Hierusalem, did notwithstanding euery yeere goe with her husband vnto the feast of the Passeouer. In our time many women vnlike this good Lady, will be content euen on the Lords day, to toyle at home about their own businesse, and gad abroad to meddle with others businesse, rather then they will accompany their good husband Ioseph, and their towardly sonne Iesus vnto Gods house.

And when they had fulfilled the daies.] That is, whole y<sup>e</sup> seuen daies, according to the custome. They came with the first, and went home with the last. Worldly men for their honour, will ride post to the Court, to be knighted with the first; for their profit at mill and market first; for their pleasure, at the play first; at hunting first; first at any merry meeting: but as for the Church, they thinke they come too soone, and stay too long: winter daies are too short for hunting, sommer daies too short for hawking; yet one houre of seuen daies is thought long that is spent in Gods holy worship: as<sup>z</sup> one wittily; Long Sermons, and short Sermons please best: and yet if we looke not with the spectacles of the world, but with the eyes of faith discerning all things aright, wee shall finde that there is no such honour, as to be Gods seruant, no such gaine as godlinesse, no such pleasure as a good conscience.

<sup>y</sup> Exod. 23. 15.

<sup>z</sup> Anton. Guenara, epist.

The congregation vnder the Law, was not dismissed without the Priests<sup>a</sup> benediction and<sup>b</sup> valediction; the which custome is retained in the Christian Church, that no man depart out of the Temple, before the diuine praiers and sermon end: so the<sup>c</sup> 4. Councill of Carthage, decreed, excommunicating all such as offend in this kinde.

<sup>a</sup> Num. 6. 23.

<sup>b</sup> Zepperus, con. 1. in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Canon. 24. & Concil Agathen cap. 47.

Thus you see Christ was instructed by good<sup>d</sup> actions and life: so that if Iesus had not benee Iesus, to bee saued, and not a Sauiour; hee might haue sayd of his mother Mary, which<sup>d</sup> Augustine writes of his mother Monica: Maiori sollicitudine me parturiebat spiritu, quam carne pepererat; e parturivit carne, ut in hanc temporalem nascerer; corde, ut in aeternam lucem renascerer.

<sup>d</sup> Confess. lib. 5. cap. 9.

<sup>e</sup> Idem confess. lib. 9. cap. 8.

Now for his body; when he was missing, Ioseph and Mary sought him instantly with all diligence till hee was found: Behold thy father and I have sought thee weeping. Where literally note Maries humble carriage toward her husband Ioseph, and the care of them both ouer Christ their child. The dutifull respect of Mary toward Ioseph is obserued Ex ordine verborum; in that shee saith, thy father and I, not, I and thy father. As Cardinal Woolfies stile, Ego & Rex meus, I and my king, is insupportable in the Politikes; so, I and my husband insufferable in the Oeconomicks. It was Assuernus his edict, and it is Gods law, that all women both great and small shall giue their husbands honour, and that euery man shall beare rule in his owne house: for the man is the wiuers head, and the wife is her husbands subiect: Subdita eris sub potestate viri: Thou shalt be subiect to thine husband, and he shall rule ouer thee, Gen. 3. 16. So that a woman murthring her husband, is accounted by the Ciuill lawes a paricide, by the statutes of our land a traitor.

The next remarkable point is the ioynt care of them both ouer Iesus: Thy father and I have sought thee weeping. As Paul said to Timothie, so wee to euery father, serua depositum, keepe that which is committed to thee. Haue a tender eye ouer thy child, which is a pledge of Gods goodnesse, and that happily which may moue the more, flesh of thy flesh, and bone of thy bone; not onely a lively picture, but a liuing and a walking image of thy selfe. Barren Sara was so glad of a child, that shee called her only sonne, Isacke, that is, laughter. How wicked then is that parent, who neglecteth his owne flesh, his owne child, which is a token from heauen, and ordinarily the best monument of himselfe after death on earth?

As this example concernes the naturall father, so like wise the ciuill and ecclesiasticall: for, incuria prapostii, iniuria depositi, detrimentum pecoris, ignominia pastoris, &c. Pastor and Prince must seeke the good of such as are vnder them, as Ioseph and Marie did Christ, with carefull hearts, &c. In a mytticall sence these words insinuate, when, where, and how Christ is to be found of vs.

1. When? On the third day.

2. Where? In the Temple.

3. How? Socialiter; in vnitie; thy father and I.

Desiderabiliter; with an earnest desire to finde.

Lachrymabiliter; with teares: haue sought thee sorrowing.

First, Christ is to be found on the third day: uerb. 46. It came to passe three daies after, that they found him in the Temple. The first day was the time before the law, in which, as Christ told his Apostles, all the Patriarks and holy fathers desired to see the things which they saw, and could not see them; and to heare the things which they heard and could not heare them.

The second day was the time vnder the law, when also the Priests and Prophets expected Christ, but they could not finde him: therefore the Prophet Esay crieth out in his 64. Chapter, Oh that thou wouldest breake the heauens and come downe.

The third day is the present time; this acceptable time of grace; wherein Christ is to be found: hora est nunc; the houre is now. Therefore to day, while it is to day seeke the Lord euen while he may be found; call vpon him while hee is neere; for the next day, which is the fourth day, is the time after death, and then he cannot be found or sought.

Ioseph and Mary could not finde Christ among their kinsfolke, &c. Non humana cognatione, nec cognitione comprehenditur: Hee that will finde Christ, must forsake friends, forsake his owne people, and his fathers house. They found him in Ierusalem, that is, in the Church among the faithfull: not among barbarous Heathens, or blasphemous heretikes; his dwelling is at Sion, there you may finde him among the Doctors in the Temple: not in the

<sup>f</sup> Ex Augustino. Maldonat. in loc. & Iansen. concord cap. 12. & Ester. 1. 20.

<sup>h</sup> Ephes. 5. 23.

<sup>i</sup> L. 1. D ad legem Pompeianam de paricidijs.

<sup>k</sup> Rastal. collect. stat. tit. treason.

<sup>l</sup> 1. Tim. 6. 20

<sup>m</sup> Gen. 21. 3.

<sup>n</sup> Hieron. epist. ad suriam. tom. 1. fol. 30. <sup>o</sup> Iacob. de Vovag. ser. 3. Dom. infra octa. Epiphani.

<sup>p</sup> Luke. 10. 24.

<sup>q</sup> Iohn 4. 23.

<sup>r</sup> Psal. 6. 5.

<sup>s</sup> Iansen. ubi supra.

<sup>t</sup> Psal. 45. 11.

<sup>u</sup> Beauxamis. har. tom. 1. fol.

77.

<sup>x</sup> Thom. in loc. ex Origen.

Erasmus annot. in Mat. 13. 51 & Zepperus con. 1. in loc. La dialog. cum Tryphon.

Zepperus ubi supra. Idem Bishop Latymer in l.c.

Mat. 25. 33. D ex con 4. Rom 1. post. Epiphaz.

Ferus ser. 1. & 6 Dom. 1. post Epiphaz.

Postill cum glossis & figuris Epist. Dom. infra octa. Epiphaz.

abluantur: ita postremo ejciuntur ut ne ad saxa quidem mortui conquiescant.

It is probable, that Christ submitting himselfe to Joseph, vsed his occupation, but what it was, I cannot shew: you need not know. Saint Hilary thinks he was a Smith; Hugo, that he was a Mason: most Diuines, that hee was a Carpenter. So Justin Martyr, and other ancient Doctors haue gathered out of Matth, 13. 55. Marke 6. 3. See Sixt. senens. bibliothec. lib. 6. annot. 62. Baron. annual. Tom. 1. ann. 12. Iansen. concord. cap. 54. Maldonat. & Rhemis. in Matth 13. 55.

Now then in that Christ exercised a mechanicall trade, we may learne that a poore man may serue God, and often doe much good in an honest occupation: the text saith, Jesus prospered in wisdom and in fauour with God and men. Hee was a lambe, and therefore the bigger the better: but the wicked are goats and therefore the longer they liue, the worse they are.

Mary kept all these sayings together in her heart.] It was well shee layd them vp, better th. at shee kept them, best of all that shee kept them all. Let vs also lay these things vp in our secret treasure, that being inwardly grafted in our hearts, they may bring forth in vs the fruit of good liuing.

This Gospell is well fitted to the day: for after the celebration of Christs birth, circumcision, Epiphany; what should follow but his first manifestation in the Temple, and then on the text dominicall his first miracle wrought in Canna of Galile.

The Gospell and Epistle concord: y for what Christ doth in the one, is a patterne of that Paul saith in the other. Paul doth require; first, that we should offer our selues a quicke sacrifice to God; and then, according to the measure of grace, that we should become seruiceable to men, euery one among our selues one anothers members: euen so Christ here did first dedicate himselfe to God, in celebrating the Passouer; in hearing the Doctors, in disputing about religion, in neglecting his acquaintance, to doe the businesse of his Father in heauen: and then, he went with his parents, and came to Nazareth, and was obedient to them.

Or (as another obserue) the Gospell and Epistle both insinuate, that two things are requisite to saluation, humilitas mentis, munditia Carnis.

For the first, Pauls precept is, that no man stand high in his owne conceit, but so iudge of himselfe, that hee bee gentle and sober, as a member helping other. And Christs patterne is; he became subiect to Joseph, and Mary, though he was Lord of all.

For the second, Pauls precept is; Offer your bodies a quicke sacrifice, holy and acceptable to God. And Christs patterne is; he did the businesse of God in the Temple, neglecting the pleasures of the flesh among his friends and acquaintance. Sweet Iesus indow vs plentifully with thy grace, that wee may thus preach and practise; that following thee, who art the way, wee may come to thee which art the life. Amen.

The Epistle. Rom. 12. 6.

Seeing that we haue diuerse gifts according to the grace that is giuen vnto vs, &c.

Luther is of opinion, that this Epistle should be capite breuior, & fine prolixior; shorter in the beginning, longer at the end. For the beginning appertaines vnto the conclusion of the Epistle for Sunday before; and the end to be the beginning of the Epistle for Sunday following: yet so, that it may be both read and expounded as a text absolute in it selfe. The summe whereof is, that we must in ploy and improve the manifold gifts of God vnto the glory of his name, and good of his people.

Postill. maior dom. 2. ab Epiphaz.

This exhortation is inferred vpon a familiar comparifon vsed in the words immediatly before: for as we haue many members in one body, and all members haue not one office; so we being many, are one body in Christ, and every man among our selues one anothers members. In which obserue soure instructions.

First, as the members are not made by their owne vertue, but created by Gods almighty power, before they could execute any function in the body; not members because working, but on the contrary; working because members: in like sort, Christians are not members of Christ through their owne good workes, but they doe good workes, because they be members, and inserted into Christ: as the tree brings forth the fruit, and not the fruit the tree. The Papists then in their works of congruities, run too much vpon the figure called ὑποκρίματα, setting the cart before the horse, merit before mercie. Potes arte defecere (saith Augustine) sed teipsum reficere non potes; ille reficit, qui te fecit.

Secondly, the members are well content with their seuerall offices and place; the foote is not grieved at the heads supremacy neither doth the nose maligne the eye, nor eye couet to be tongue, but every one performs his function without any faction: euen so wee which are members of Christs mysticall body, must be content with our vocation and calling, neither enuying such as are aboue, nor despising such as are vnder vs. Although there be diuersities of gifts, yet but one spirit: diuersities of administrations, yet but one Lord: diuersities of operations, yet but one God, who worketh all in all.

Are all Apostles? are all teachers? are all workers of miracles? haue all the gift of healing? doe all speake with tongues? doe all interpret? It is God who worketh all in all; communicating indifferently spirituall life to all his members; in so much as the least is a member of his body so well as the greatest. In this respect all parts are peeres.

Albeit (I say) there be diuerse gifts, and diuerse measures of gifts, and so by consequence for fashion and function an imparity; yet because they be donations, grants, and graces, as it is said heere, the mighty may not scorne the meane, nor the meane enuy the mighty, no part must be pert. For what hast thou that thou hast not receiued? He that appointed thee mouth or eye, might haue made thee foot or hand. Againe, no member ought to mutter against head or fellow; for the mysticall body of Christ is all faire: Tota pulchra es amica mea: now beauty consists in variety of colours, and in a conuincie disposition of sundry different parts. If the whole body were an eye, where were the hearing? If the whole were hearing, where were the smelling? But God hath in a most sweet order, disposed the members every one of them in the body: first, Apostles; secondly, Prophets; thirdly, teachers; then, workers of miracles; after that, the gift of healing; helpers, gouernours, diuersities of tongues.

He then that affects in the Church an hotch potch parity, martyrs, and marres Christs body, which is, σῶμα συναρμοζόμενον, &c. a body fitly knit together by every ioynt: Ephesians 4.16.

Thirdly, there is a sympathy betweene the members of the naturall body; for if one suffer, all suffer with it, if one member be had in honour, all the members reioice with it. So Paul in this Scripture: Be merry with them that be merry, weepe with them that weepe. Paine is often lessened by pity; passion is releued in one by compassion of many. Minus fit quod patitur vnum membrum, si compariantur alia membra: nec ipsa mali reuelatio fit per communionem cladis, sed per solationem charitatis; ut quamuis alij ferendo patiuntur, alij cognoscendo compatiuntur: Communis fit tamen tribulatio, quibus probatio, spes, delectio, spiritusque communis est. He that hath next his fellow-feeling, may suspect worthily that he is not a liuely member of Christ; for his body is coupled, and knit together throughout every ioynt, wherewith one ministrereth to another. If then wee doe not beare one anothers burthen, and feele

<sup>b</sup> In Psal. 94.

<sup>c</sup> Zanchius in Ephes. 4. 16

<sup>d</sup> 1. Cor. 7. 20.

<sup>e</sup> 1. Cor. 12. 4.

<sup>f</sup> Sarcenius in loc

<sup>g</sup> 1. Cor. 4. 7.

<sup>h</sup> Cant. 4. 7.

<sup>i</sup> 1. Cor. 12:17

<sup>k</sup> 1. Cor. 12. 26

<sup>l</sup> Augustin. Epist. 133.

<sup>m</sup> Galat. 6. 2.

one anothers misery, we are not knit together by the sinewes of lcuē : and if not knit to the body, no part of the body.

Fourthly, there is no dead or idle member in the body, but euery one helpes another, and is seruiceable for the good of the whole : the eye doth direct the head, and the hand guard the eye; the nose smells for all, tongue speakes for all, hand workes for all. <sup>n</sup> The eye cannot say to the hand, I haue no need of thee; nor the hand againe to the feet, I haue no need of you : but euery part seekes anothers, and not his owne good.

<sup>a</sup> 1. Cor. 12. 21
25.

<sup>o</sup> Trittenhem. de Scriptor. in vita Ockbam.

In like sort, the wise Counsellor must see for all; the tall Sculdier fight for all: the iudicious clerke write for all: as <sup>o</sup> Occam said vnto the Emperour Lewis; If you will defend me with your Sword, I will defend you with my pen. Seeing we haue diuerse gifts, according to the grace giuen vnto vs; if a man haue the gift of prophecy, let him haue it, &c.

<sup>p</sup> Luther in loc.

The duties here mentioned, are <sup>p</sup> partly { Publike; If a man haue the gift of prophecy, &c.

{ Priuate; If a mans shew mercie, let him doe it with cheerefulnesse.

The publike } Spirituall, for } Theorically; as prophesying and concerne things } } Doctrine } teaching.
} } Discipline; Let him that ruleth doe it with } } } diligence. } { Temporall; If any man giue, let him doe it with singleness.

If any man haue the gift of prophecy, let him haue it agreeing to the faith. A Prophet in old time foretold things to come: but vnder the Gospell a Prophet is he that interprets the Prophets; he that shewes Christ is come, spoken of by the mouth of all his holy Prophets euer since the world began. A Preacher is a Prophet, as the word is vsed, 1. Cor. 14. 1. and 1. Cor. 13. we know in part, we prophecy in part. A Preacher then must teach agreeing to the faith; that is, according to the Scripture, which is a rule of faith; or according to the <sup>f</sup> Creede, which is an abridgement of that rule; for <sup>r</sup> other foundation can no man lay, then that which is layd, Christ Iesus.

<sup>a</sup> Aquin in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Luther. &c.
Caluin in loc.

<sup>f</sup> D. Fulke in loc.

<sup>r</sup> 1. Cor. 3. 11.

<sup>u</sup> 1. Pet. 4. 11.

<sup>x</sup> Prafat in exposit. N. Testament.

<sup>y</sup> De domo interrior. cap. 28.

He that will edifie Gods house, must build vpon Christ, and square all his doctrines according to the rule of truth. <sup>v</sup> If any man speake, let him talke as the words of God. It is not said here, that a Prophet ought to vse no booke but the Bible; no Commentarie but the Creed; for that is too spirituall (as * Marlorate notes.) He that will preach agreeing to the Scripture, must reade the best expositors of the Scripture: for, as <sup>y</sup> Bernard said, all bookes are written for the bettering of the conscience, which is the booke of the soule: so we must examine all bookes, especially treatises of Diuinity, for the better vnderstanding of this one booke, which is κατ' ἑξῆς the booke.

<sup>z</sup> 1. Tim. 6. 3.

Neither is it said heere, that the Prophet in the pulpit must speake nothing beside plaine text, but only that he must exercise his gift according to faiths analogie, κατα τῶν ἀγαθῶν τῆς πίστεως, teaching the wholesome words of Christ, and consenting to the doctrine which is agreeable to godlinesse: for whatsoeuer is deduced out of Gods booke by necessarie consequence, must be receiued as his word; let him that hath the gift of prophesie, haue it agreeing to the faith.

<sup>o</sup> Aquin. in loc.

Or <sup>a</sup> as other interpret; to beget and confirme faith in vs euerimore. For, if a Prophet rise among you, saying, Let vs goe after other Gods and serue them, &c. thou shalt not harken vnto the words of the Prophet, Deut. 13. 1. The true Prophet is he, Cuius in ore verbum vita, cuius in more vita verbi.

<sup>b</sup> In loc.

<sup>c</sup> D. Fulke in loc.

Or, as <sup>b</sup> Melanct. and <sup>c</sup> most of the most ancient fathers, according to the proportion of faith and grace giuen. As if he should say, Who soeuer is called by the Church lawfully to preach the word, let him abide therein according to the measure of his gift: for God hath giuen to some more, to some lesse, and often blesseth him that hath lesse more then him that hath more. Let euery man man therefore exercise his talent with faith and diligence, to the best edification of Gods people committed to his charge: so likewise, let him that hath an office, waite on his office; let him that teacheth, take heed to his doctrine; let him that exhorteth giue attendance to his exhortation, according to the proportion of grace. Let not any suffer his <sup>d</sup>talents to rust, but imploy them, and so multiply them vnto the Donors glory; <sup>e</sup>who gaue some to bee Apostles, and some Prophets, and some Euangelists, and some Pastors and Teachers for the gathering together of the Saints, for the worke of the ministrie, and for the edification of the body of Christ.

<sup>d</sup> Mat 25 18,
<sup>e</sup> Ephes. 4. 21.

If any giue, let him doe it with singleness. With an <sup>f</sup>vpright intention, not to be secue of men, & or to gaine much by giuing a litle; for that is not simplicity but duplicity.

<sup>f</sup> Gorran. in loc.
<sup>g</sup> Aquin. in loc.

Or because Paul speakes of Deacons, publike guardians of the poore, such as wee call Almoners and cuerseers; <sup>h</sup>he would not haue them deale subtilly for their owne benefit, but simply for the common good, distributing the Churches beneuolence committed vnto their charge, without respect of persons, according to the seuerall necessities of the Saints.

<sup>h</sup> Martyr. in loc.

Let him that ruleth, doe it with diligence. The slothfull and idle person is the deuils shop; there hee workes, euer busie when men are lasie. Wherefore <sup>i</sup>doe that which is in thine hand with all thy power; especially, take heed that thou doe not the worke of the <sup>k</sup>Lord negligently. That which Christ said of our redemption, every Christian must say of his particular vocation: It is meat and drinke for me to doe my fathers will. Vnto diligence there are two maine motiues.

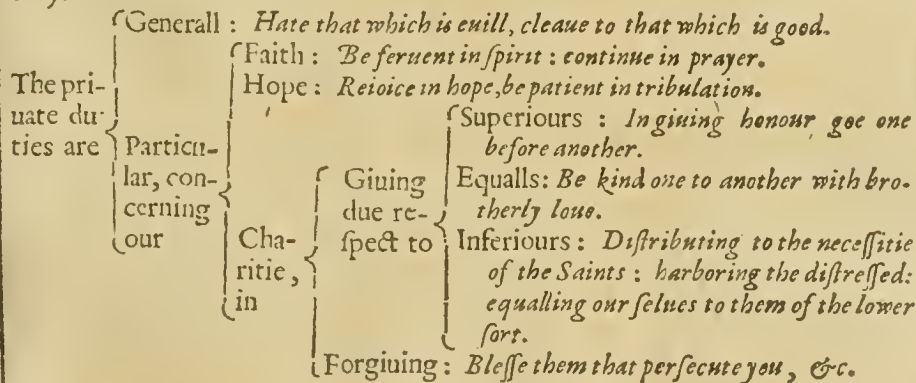

<sup>i</sup> Eccles. 9: 10.

<sup>k</sup> Ier. 48. 10.

1. In regard of God, who bestowes his gifts for this end, that they may be well imployed in his holy seruice.

2. In respect of our selues: for <sup>l</sup>vnto every one that hath, it shall be giuen, and he shall haue abundance; and from him that hath not, euen that he hath shall be taken away.

<sup>l</sup> Mat. 25. 29.

All which offices are to be performed } } Freely.
 } Fully.
 } Fitly.

Freely, with cheerfulness and compassion: Bee merry with the merry; Weepe with such as weepe.

Fully, without sloth or dissimulation; Let loue be without dissimulation.

Fitly: Apply your selues to the time: for there is a time for all things; and <sup>m</sup>καρπὸν δαλλῶντας, doth <sup>n</sup>fit the place better, then <sup>o</sup>καρπὸν δαλλῶντας. See Luther. postil. Erasm. Martyr. in loc.

<sup>m</sup> Ambros. in loc.

His meaning is not, that wee should alter our manners and religion according to the time; like the Polypus and Camelion: for in the beginning of this chapter he doth aduise the contrarie; Fashion not your selues according to the world. But that we should apprehend the best time, doe good in the Church, euermore redeeming the time: Ephes. 5. 16. so that we be sure to serue God in obseruing the time.

The Gospell. I O H N. 2. 1.

There was a mariage in Cana, &c.

<sup>n</sup> Heb. 13. 4.

Mariage is honourable (saith<sup>n</sup> Paul.) } Father.
Honoured of God the. } Sonne.
Holy Ghost.

<sup>o</sup> Gen. 2. 28.

Father, instituting it at the purest time, in the best place: for it was his first ordinance in paradise, when man was innocent.

Honoured of God the Sonne by his presence and first miracle, wrought (as the text saith) at a wedding.

Honoured of God the Holy Ghost, who did ouershadrow the betrothed virgin Marie Christs mother.

Deede: for in the worlds vniuersall deluge, married persons and couples only were deliue-red: Gen. 7.

Honoured of the whole } Word: comparing it to the kingdome of heauen ; blessed Triinitie, both in } and holinesse to a wedding garment : calling it a great myserie, representing the spirituall vnion betweene Christ and his Church.

<sup>p</sup> Mat. 22. 12.

<sup>q</sup> Ephes. 5. 32.

Honoured by the primitive Fathers as a fruitfull seminary, which fills earth with men, and heauen with Saints. Honoured of Iewes, honoured of Gentiles; honoured of all, except heretikes and Papiests: herein appearing rather like deuills, then Diuines, as Paul tells vs, 1. Tim. 4.

<sup>c</sup> Taciani: Augustin her. 25.
Saturnini: Iren.
lib. 1. cap. 12.

The Papiests in making mariage a sacrament, seeme to commend it more then we: but in affirming, that holy Priesthood is prophaned by this holy sacrament, is to honour it as the Iewes honoured Christ, in clothing him with a Purple robe.

<sup>d</sup> Doctor Fulke, in Heb. 13. 4.

<sup>e</sup> Oras habit.

Rom. Tom. 3. controuers. in fine.

Mariage is a sacrament, and yet a sacrilege. So <sup>t</sup> Bellarmine plainly, Coniugia post solennia vota, non connubia, sed sacrilegia: so the rest of that vnchast generation generally, such as vow, first chastitie, then marry; begin in the spirit, and end in the flesh: mad men (saith <sup>u</sup> Luther) not vnderstanding what is the spirit, or what is the flesh. For in single life to burne with lust, and when one concubine will not serue, to commit villanic with many strumpets, are manifest workes of the flesh: on the contrary, for a man to loue his owne wite to gouerne his familie, to bring vp his children in instruction and information of the Lord, are fruits of the spirit.

<sup>u</sup> Com. in Gal.
3. 3.

<sup>x</sup> Couless. lib. 2
cap. 3.

We might rather say, that in heat of youth (as <sup>x</sup> Augustine speakes) inquiet à adolescencia, to vow single life, were a sinne: for whatsoener is not of faith is sinne. <sup>y</sup> Sed de talibus perpetua virginitatis votis fides nulla, nulla in sacris literis est litera.

<sup>y</sup> Ram. de relig.
lib. 2 cap. 9.

<sup>z</sup> In 2. Cor. 12.

<sup>a</sup> Pentax. bibliothec. con. Tom. 1 folio. 217. D: 67.
con. 1. Colter.
con. 2 in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Dormisecure in loc. Anton.
Berontiu. quast.
17. super Euan-dominical.

<sup>z</sup> Saint Ambrose writes peremptorily, that all the twelue Apostles had wiues, except Saint Iohn: and almost all the Romish Possils obserue, that Iohn was the bridegroom at this wedding. If this annotation be true why doe they condemne mariage in Priests? If false, why doe they suffer it for currant, as well in their accurate new writers, as in their old fustie b Friers.

If any desire to be further satisfied in this curiositie, let him read Maldonat vpon the first of Saint Nicholas, in the preamble; and Cardinall Barromus an-nal. Tom. 1. fol. 94.

In this history foure things are regardable.

- 1. The occasion of the miracle; want of wine at a wedding, described by circumstances of
- 2. Certaine passages of speech vpon this occasion, betweene Christ and his mother: verse 3. 4.
- 3. The miracle it selfe: verse 6. 7. 8. 9.
- 4. The consequent and effect of the miracle: vers. 11.

Time: the third day.
 Place: in Cana a towne of Galile.
 Persons: } Guests, invited, as Christ and his disciples.
 } Gossips, comming of their owne accord, to further and helpe the businesse.

c Luther. maior possit. in loc. & Ludolphus de vita Christi. parti. 1. cap. 23.

And the third day.] These circumstances of time, place, persons, are set downe to confirme the truth of the miracle. The time was the third day: <sup>d</sup> mystically there are three dayes of the world: the first, before the law: the second, vnder the law: the third, after the law. The world was instructed before the law by the Patriarches example: by the writings of the Prophets vnder the law: but in the third day, which is the Gospels acceptable time, by Christ and his miracles. Or literally, the third day from his being in the wildernesse, as Euthymius; or, the third day after his conference with Nathaniel, as c Epiphanius; or, the third day after he came into Galile, as Iansenius. I like the conceit of <sup>f</sup> Rupertus, affirming, that the Coniunction [and] doth send the reader to that which is said before, to wit, in the first Chapter, vers. 35. The next day Iohn stood, and two of his disciples, &c. This is the first day. The second day is mentioned in the 43. verse, The day following Iesus would goe into Galile. Now the third day this mariage was in Cana. So soone then as Christ had called his disciples, he presently begins to manifest himselfe, both in his words, and in his workes: and because this was his first miracle, wee <sup>h</sup> should giue the greater attention to it.

d 7 bern. ex Be. da in loc.

c Flavell. 51. f Com in Iohan. lib. 2.

g Iansen.

h Calvin.

There was a mariage.] <sup>1</sup> This insinuates, it was a solemne meeting, not a clandestine mariage; done not in a corner secretly, but after a publike fashion, with consent of parents and friends openly. Such was the custome in old time: Tobith 7. Iudges 14. where Samsons mariage feast is said to continue seven daies: and it is well retained in our age; the <sup>k</sup> Church appoynting that all mariages ought to be performed with the good will of friends in the most publike place, at the most publike time, betweene eight and twelue in the forenoone; the which is a renewed old canon of the Councell of <sup>l</sup> Arles, and of <sup>m</sup> Euaristus, Bishop of Rome, writing thus vnto the Prelates of Africa: Non fieri legitima matrimonia, nisi ab his qui super ipsam faminam dominationem habent; & à quibus custoditur, petatur; à parentibus autem sponsetur, legibus dotetur suo tempore, sacerdotaliter cum precibus benedicatur: aliter presumpta non coniugia, sed adulteria, &c. i Beauxamis in loc. k Canon. 62.

l Ca 6 ut Pet. Crabbe, Tom 1 concill fol 622. m Cauf. 3 que 5. ut Crabbe ubi supra fol. 66.

In Cana a Ciitie of Galile.] There were <sup>n</sup> two Canaes, one called Cana the greater, neere the coasts of Tyrus and Sidon, Iosua 19. 28. from whence the good Cananite woman came: Mat. 15. 22. This other was Cana the lesser, neere Nazareth, from whence Simon the Cananite: Mat. 10. 4.

n Hier. in loc. Hebraic. Tom. 3. fol. 278.

Cana signifieth zeale; Galile, transmigration. <sup>o</sup> Hereby signifying typically, that Christ delights in their company, who be feruent in deuotion, and are willing to passe from things earthly, to things heauenly: or insinuating, that matrimoniall loue shall only continue but in this our pilgrimage; for in heauen, we shall neither marie wiues, neither haue wiues bestowed in mariage: Matth. 22. 30.

o Beda ubi supra

Some note that Galile signifieth rotation: intimating the mutable changes and chances in this estate. Concerning this, and the like, I send the reader to Bibliothec. conrion. Tom. 1. fol. 217.

If I durst venture vpon any mysticall exposition, it shou'd be this; A mariage ought to be made in Cana of Galile: that is, in an honest desire to flee flee fornication, and to possesse our vessels in chastity, to passe from Sodome to Cana.

The mother of Iesus.] Not as other writers vsually, the virgin: or as other Euangelists, Mary; but the mother of Iesus. Because the seeds of Apollinarists, Valentinians and other heretikes, denying Christs humanity, were sowed in S. Johns age.

Was there.] Cana was nere Nazareth, and it is thought probable by most interpreters as well old as new, that either the bridegroom, or the bride, was cosen to Marie; so that vpon neighbourhood and affinity shee came to this wedding, as a fauourer, and furtherer of the businesse: & otherwise Mary was no busy body, nor prating idle gossip & gadding from houte to houte. We read only that shee visited her cosen Elizabeth, and here was present at the mariage feast of another especiall friend, who was deare in blood, and neere in place.

And Iesus was called also and his disciples.] This example may teach all inuiters, especially parents, to bid such guests vnto their childrens mariage dinner, as are modest and religious. At such meetings vsually wild wantons are best welcome. Graue persons are for a funerall, mad merry people for a wedding: if Christ preach, or sober Mary be present, all the sport is spilt. These are spots in your loue-feasts, as S. Iude speaks: innite such men as Christ, such women as Marie, who may be paternes vnto the new married of lowly and louely carriage.

Secondly, this example of Christ, of the Virgin, of the Disciples, is a sufficient v warrant for men to call, and for men to come vnto neighbourly meetings, and friendly feasts, as occasion is offered. It is written of Philip & Melancthon that great Diuine, that he was exceeding courteous in this kind; often inuited, often inuiting. Reioice with them that reioice, saith Taul: We may be merry (saith Luther) at a feast, and recreate our selues with pleasant talke; which may feede the minde, as meate doth the maw. See Luther. postil. maior. in loc.

But wee must auoyd in our merriments all drunkenesse and surfetting: <sup>z</sup> There was so little wine prepared for this feast, that the pots were empty, before the pates were full: such a necessaric want, as that Christ miraculously supplied it.

<sup>a</sup> Ecclesiastes hath pronounced a woe to that land whose Princes eat in the morning: <sup>b</sup> that is, by surfetting and riot deuoure their estate so soone as it comes into their hands; euen in the morne of their youth, and afterward liue by base courses in their afternoone. What a woe then hangs ouer that countrey, where both Princes and people too, rise vp early to follow drunkenesse? when a man of meane quality will waste so much vpon his wedding dinner, as might haue fed him and his all the yeere; and so much vpon his wedding garment, as happily might haue clothed him all his life. Surely the deuill danceth at such a marriage, Christ is not present.

Christ is inuited vnto a Prayer.
wedding <sup>c</sup> two waies: by Good intentions in that enterprise.

First by prayer, as yong Tobith and Sara, who being together in the bride-chamber, and, as the <sup>d</sup> story saith, in the bride-bed, rose againe to begge a blessing of God after this sort: Blessed art thou O God of our fathers, &c, and shee said with him, Amen.

Euery regenerate man is <sup>e</sup> Gods house; and Gods house is called the house of prayer. I know that text is expounded by <sup>f</sup> Christ of the Temple materiall; yet it may not vnfitly be construed of the Temple <sup>h</sup> mysticall. If then euery good man be a priest, as <sup>g</sup> S. Peter calls him; a Church, as <sup>k</sup> S. Paul termes him, it is meet he should vnder take no businesse, especially such a maine matter as marriage, without often and hearty prayer.

Secondly,

<sup>r</sup> Chrysoft. hom 20 super Ioh. & Buccr. apud Marlorat, in loc. <sup>q</sup> Frequentius videns in publico displicebat. Ambrosius in Luc lib. 2 <sup>r</sup> 1. Tim. 5. 13. <sup>s</sup> Luke. 1. 40. <sup>t</sup> Ferus ser. 7. in loc.

<sup>u</sup> Musculus & Marlorat in loc. <sup>x</sup> Caspararius in eius vita, pa. 37.

<sup>y</sup> Loc. com. tit. de pjs coniugijs.

<sup>z</sup> Acofta con. 2. in loc.

<sup>a</sup> Cap. 10. 16.

<sup>b</sup> Diet. con. 1. in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Coster. con. 2. in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Tobith 8.

<sup>e</sup> Heb. 3. 6.

<sup>f</sup> Esay 56. 7.

<sup>g</sup> Mat. 21. 13.

<sup>h</sup> Bellarmine. de bonis operibus in particular. lib. 1

cap. 10.

<sup>i</sup> 1. Epist. 2. 9.

<sup>k</sup> 1. Cor. 3. 16.

Secondly, Christ is called to our wedding by good intentions, in this enterprize; which are principally three:

1. Auoyding of fornication: 1. Cor. 7. 2.
2. Procreation of children: Gen. 1. 28. to bee brought up in instruction, and information of the Lord: Ephes. 4. 6.
3. Mutuall consolation and comfort: Gen. 2. 18

If a man in the feare of God, vnder take this honourable estate, for these good ends, he calls as it were Christ and God to his wedding: but he that marrieth vnaduisedly, lightly, wantonly, like brut beasts hauing no vnderstanding, doth inuite Satan and his reuellers, and then no maruell if that which was ordained for his helpe, turne to his hurt. For in this the philosopher truly: Corruptio optimi pessima:

And his Disciples.] Christ was inuited for his mothers sake, the Disciples for Christ. They went but inuited.

Here I might remember <sup>m</sup> S. Hieromes aduice to Nepotian: Conuiuia tibi sunt vitanda secularium; & maxime eorum qui honoribus tument. Facile contententur clericus qui sepe vocatus ad prandium, ire non recusat: nunquam petentes raro accipimus rogati.

<sup>n</sup> Epiphanius is of opinion that Ioseph was dead before this time, because there is no mention made of him in the Gospell, after his going vp to Hierusalem at the Passeouer, Luke 2. therefore no maruell if he were not bid with Christ and his Disciples.

Diuines haue rendred sundry reasons, why Christ and his company being inuited came to this wedding.

First (as our Church doth speake) to beautifie with his presence this holy calling: Confirmare voluit, quod ipse fecit, nuptias: 9 and it was exceeding fit that Christ should worke his miracle, for the confirmation of Gods first ordinance.

Secondly, to manifest his humility, vouchsafing to visit the meanest.

Thirdly, to certifie the spirituall mariage betweene the Church and himselfe: Seuerus Antiochenus orat. 161. ut citatur in Grec. caten. & a Maldonat. in loc.

Fourthly, that he might act this miracle at this solemne celebratie: Miraculi potius quod acturus erat, quam conuiuij gratia profectus.

Wee cannot now feast Christ in his person; but wee may feede him in his ministers, in his members. Inuite therefore the good man, and the poore man, as <sup>r</sup> Job saith, If I haue eaten my morsels alone, and the fatherlesse haue not eaten thereof. As <sup>v</sup> Amos complained of the rich giuttons in his time, deuouring the Lambes of the flocke, and calues out of the stall; drinking wine in bowls, and anointing themselues with the chiefest ointments, and singing to the viole: but no man (saith the Prophet) is sorry for the affliction of Ioseph. If thou wilt feast Christ, inuite the Disciples, inuite Mary, the fatherlesse, the widdow: for he protests openly; \ whatsoeuer is done vnto the least of my brethren, is done vnto mee.*

And when the wine failed.] Want at a wedding v<sup>d</sup>eth intimate the discontentment and vanitie of earthly pleasure, that euen in laughing the heart is sorrowfull, and the end of mirth is heauinesse: Prouerbs 4. 13. Ecclesiastes 2. 1.

We need not dispute curiously <sup>z</sup> whether this want was occasioned either by the pouertie of the parties inuiting, or by the riotous intemperance of the guests inuited, or by the lauish negligence of the seruitors, or by the multitude of acquaintance, who came, not called, as it is vsuall at such meetings: it is enough for vs to know that it came to passe by Gods all-seeing prouidence, that our Saviour might manifest his glorie. For, as it is sayd of him that was borne blinde, John 9. Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents, but that the workes of God should be shewed on him: so neither the manner of the featt, nor the guests, nor the seruants offended in that the wine failed; only this happened for our good, and Christs glory.

They

<sup>1</sup> Maldonat. in loc.
<sup>2</sup> Epist. de vita clericorum tom. 1. fol. 15.

<sup>3</sup> Hieros. 78.

<sup>4</sup> Com. Booke, tit. Matrimony.
<sup>5</sup> Aug. traſt. 9. in Ioan.

<sup>6</sup> Collet. ubi sup.
<sup>7</sup> Iheophylact in loc. & Aug. ser. 41. de tempor.

<sup>8</sup> Cyril. in loc.

<sup>9</sup> Job. 21. 17.
<sup>10</sup> Amos. 6.

<sup>11</sup> Mat. 25. 4.

<sup>12</sup> Acon. con. 2. n. loc.

<sup>13</sup> Marlorat. ex Musculo in loc.

<sup>a</sup> Iansen. concord. cap. 18.

<sup>b</sup> Zepper. con. 1.
in loc.

<sup>c</sup> 1. Cor. 12. 26

<sup>d</sup> Calum. in loc.

<sup>e</sup> Bernard. serm.
1. Dom. 1. post
Octau. Epiphan.

<sup>f</sup> Acts 3. 6.

<sup>g</sup> Hieron. epist.
ad Eustochium :
tom. 1. fol. 146.

<sup>h</sup> Augustin.
epist. 5.

<sup>i</sup> Cucuera. epist.

<sup>k</sup> Mar. 10. 21.

<sup>l</sup> In the life of Tyndal before his workes.

<sup>m</sup> Orat. de obitu Theodosij.

<sup>n</sup> Maldonat. in
loc.

<sup>o</sup> Luke 1. 32.

<sup>p</sup> Theophylact.
in loc.

<sup>q</sup> Rhemists &
Maldonat in loc.
Tract. 8. in Ioan. ac. de fide & symb. cap. 4.

They haue no wine.] <sup>a</sup> This speech is grounded vpon faith, hope and charitie. Faith, in that shee beleued Christ was able: hope, being throughly perswaded Christ was willing miraculously to supply this want: Her words are but three vinum non habent: an indicatiue short narration; not an optatiue long oration. Hereby teaching vs, that albeit in regard of our miserie, nothing can be sayd too much; yet in respect of Christs mercie, one word is enough, as being more willing to releue then we to request.

Lastly, this is a demonstration of her charitie; <sup>b</sup> being solicitous for her good friends, accounting their want her woe. <sup>c</sup> For if one member of Christs mysticall body suffer, all suffer with it: and therefore the good Virgin out of <sup>d</sup> sympathy, perceiuing the wine would faile, cried vnto her sonne, they haue no wine.

Shee could not but be full of pittie, who carried in her wombe nine moneths the God of compassion. If a man hold an apple in his hand all the forenoone, he will smell of it all the afternoone. Mary did inwombe the father of mercies: her bowels therefore must needs be very compassionate. <sup>e</sup> Nam & ante mentem repleuit quam ventrem, & cum processit ex utero, non recessit ab animo. As Mary to Christ, they haue no wine; so I to you, the poore haue no corne. For their supply (God be thanked) as yet we need no miracle, but only your mercie. <sup>f</sup> S. Peter said to the begging cripple: Siluer and gold haue I none but such as I haue that giue I thee. In the Name of Iesus Christ rise vp and walke. But our <sup>g</sup> liues if not our lips, vtter the contrary; compassion and pittie haue wee none, but goods and corne which we haue giue we not.

<sup>h</sup> Iulius Caesar gloried in nothing so much as in pardoning his enemies, and gratifying his friends. Hee did beleue as a Pagan, but worke as a Christian: but I feare <sup>i</sup> many beleue like Christians, but liue like Pagans.

The subtill disputant presseth his aduersarie with two premisses, that hee may bring him to an absurd conclusion. Satan is the most cunning sophister, hee doth pramittere duo, delicias & diuitias. Now we must denie the first proposition flatly, and distinguish of the second. And this distinction must be a diuision, and this diuision Christs diuision: <sup>k</sup> Diuide pauperibus, Giue to the poore.

Master <sup>l</sup> Tyndall being a diligent Preacher, and a great student, allotted two dayes in euery weeke, monday, and saturday, to visit the sicke and to releue the poore, which he termed his owne dayes of pastime; a sweet recreation (as <sup>m</sup> Ambrose speakes) in alieno remedio vulnera sua curare: To benefit our selues in helping other. In our time we want such women as Mary, such men as Tyndall, &c.

If any shall demand how Mary came by this faith, hope, charitie? how shee beleued Christ to be God, and able to doe wonders? Answere is made, first, that shee might vnderstand this by <sup>n</sup> diuine reuelation: for Gabriel an harbinger of heauen told so much vnto her: <sup>o</sup> He shall be great, and shall be called the Sonne of the most high: and he shall raigne over the house of Iacob for euer, and of his kingdome shall be no end.

Secondly, <sup>p</sup> by the preaching of Iohn the Baptist, openly proclaiming Christ to be the Lambe of God who takes away the finnes of the world.

Thirdly, by the diligent obseruation of Christs doctrine both abroad and at home: for the text saith in the second of S. Luke, that Mary kept all those sayings and pondered them in her heart. Where by the way note, what an excellent thing it is to marke the words of the Preacher, and safely to lay them vp in our heart as in a treasure house, that as occasion is offered at any time, they may be ready for our vse.

What haue I doe with this?] <sup>q</sup> There is some difference betweene the Protestants and Papists about this answer, which seemes exceeding hard and harsh. I will therefore follow S. Augustines exposition, as an indifferent Iudge betweene both: Operaturus facta diuina non agnoscit viscera humana.

What

What haue I to doe with thee?] To wit, in this businesse. I had mine humane weakenesse from thee: but to worke miracles is a diuine power; and therefore why should I respect my mother in matters appertaining to the commission of my Father? as it is in this daies Epistle; Let him that hath an office wait on his office. Hence we may learne, that respect of kindred ought not to bee the principall motion in doing our dutie, but Gods glory; neglecting father and mother, wife and children, brethren and sisters, and our owne life, to doe the will of our heavenly father. <sup>c</sup> Pietatis genus est impium esse pro domino.

Secondly, this doth shew that God defers our suits vntill his good houre.

Thirdly, Christ answered roughly, lest we should account his mother our mediatrix and aduocate. For hee foresaw the superstition of popery, making Mary the Queene of heauen, and assigning greater dignity to the mother, then to the Sonne. For whereas Gods kingdome consists of his iustice and mercie the Papists attribute the greatest part, which is mercie, to Mary, making her high Chancellor, and Christ, as it were chiefe Iustice: so that a poore client may well appeale from the tribunall of God, to the court of our Lady. The whole Church doth sing.

<sup>a</sup> *Inbe filio
O fœlix puerpura nostra pians scelera:
iure matris impera
redemptori.*

Behold their new Pater noster, answerable to Bonauentures Psalter. It is their owne for the matter, albeit as yet they are in my debt for the forme.

<sup>b</sup> Mater nostra quæ est in cœli [ <sup>c</sup> O veram matrem, qua semper monstrat se, esse matrem: melior quam decem matres, itaque te matrem laudamus; vti Bonauentura in psalterio virginis ad hymnam Ambrosij.

Sanctificetur nomen tuum] Nomen ante virtutis (inquit <sup>d</sup> Idiotus) vt ad eius inuocationem cælum rideat, infernus conturbetur: ineffabile suo modo nomen, vt in nomine tuo floctatur omne gens, cæl-stium, terrestrium, & infernorum.

Adueniat regnum tuum] Es enim, quia cæli, & domina mundi sicut in eo doctorum paucitas, & indoctorum turba consentit.

Fiat voluntas tua] Nam tu potes iubere filium, qui potest omnia; sicut Bonauentura dicit, & Ecclesia docet: beati, qui timent dominam nostram, & beati omnes, qui sciunt facere voluntatem suam. Panem nostrum quotidianum da nobis hodiè.) <sup>e</sup> Nam ab vnâ matre petuntur omnia, quasi filius Christus semper infans esset. <sup>h</sup> Oculi nostri sperant in te domina, mitem nobis cibum & escam.

Demitte nobis debira nostra] Es enim mater gratiæ & misericordiæ; regina misericordiæ, &c. Bonauentura ter. 2. de Maria.

Et ne nos inducas in tentationem] Es enim exordium salutis nostra, quapropter in omnibus pressuris respice stellam maris: voca & clama Mariam. Ipsa enim est anchora quâ naui in mari firmatur, & est naui quâ homo à tentationum fluctibus liberatur.

Sed libera nos a malo] Tu nos ab hoste protege, ac horâ mortis suscipe; vt habet ecclesia cantus. <sup>n</sup> Ad eam venite omnes qui laboratis, & tribulati estis, & refrigerium dabit animabus vestris. Te precor mitissimam virginum gemmam, vt in tremendo & terribili iudicio mæliberes & protegas à pœnis inferni.

Quia tuum est regnum, potentia, & gloria] Laus Deo virginique matri; sicut communiter in librorum Epilogo, papicola, virginicela.

Cum adulatoriè quidam scripsisset de Papa Adriano: Traiectum plantauit, Louanium rigauit. Cælar autem incrementum dedit: alter homo lepidus sub scripsit, Deus interim nihil fecit. Ita quidem ego, si Maria mater nostra, domina nostra, regina nostra, mediatrix nostra, patrona nostra, saluatix nostra, Christus interim vnicus mediator Dei & hominum nihil præ nobis fecit. Ille mediator est mediatix, mediator dimidiatus; in illius locum Maria successit; illa, illa vocata; inuocata velut aduocata.

<sup>f</sup> Luke 14. 26.
<sup>g</sup> Hieron. epist.
Marcel. tom. 1.
fol. 155.
<sup>h</sup> Melanct in loc.
<sup>i</sup> Zepper, in loc.

<sup>v</sup> Biel. exposit.
can. misse lect.
80. vt D. Reynold. idolat. lib.
1. cap. 1. & Cas-sander. consuls.
art. 21.

<sup>z</sup> Bernardin. in Mariali.

<sup>a</sup> Cassander vbi
supra.

<sup>b</sup> Postil. cathol.
con. 2. Dam. 3.

post natiuit.
<sup>c</sup> Ribera com.

in 6. Michæ.
Num. 15.

<sup>d</sup> D. Morton.
apolog. lib. 1.

cap. 67. ex Vega.
com. in Apoca-
lyp. 12.

<sup>e</sup> D. Fulke in
1. Tim. 2.

<sup>f</sup> Psalter. virgin.
Plat. 127.

<sup>g</sup> Erasmus col.
de peregrinat.

religionis ergo
<sup>h</sup> Psalter. virgin.

<sup>i</sup> Bellarmus de beatitudin. sarcl.
cap. 17.

<sup>k</sup> Lexicon. theo-log. Altenstog.
in verb. Maria

<sup>l</sup> Bonauent. tom.
3. pag. 390.

<sup>m</sup> Bellamin.
vbi supra.

<sup>n</sup> Bonauent: sicut Chemnitius.
3. parti. examini.
pag. 149.

<sup>o</sup> Hortulus anime. pag. 103.

<sup>p</sup> Consule Melanctibon. apolog.
confess. Augustan.
Tit. de sancti:
inuocat.

O woman.] Hence the Montanists and Valentinians absurdly gather, that Christ was not the Sonne of Mary: yet (as <sup>q</sup> Augustine notes) even the same Euangelist in the same place, calls her againe and againe, the mother of Iesus. Our Sauour happily called her woman, not mother, <sup>r</sup> to signifie that hee was greater then her child; that his elect people might acknowledge him to bee the Sonne of God; as they knew he was the sonne of Mary: or <sup>s</sup> woman, because then a widow.

Mine houre is not yet come.] <sup>t</sup> Some read this clause with an interrogation; Is not mine houre yet come? Am I not yet of sufficient yeeres and discretion, to manage my businesse without your direction? The houre is now come wherein you must obey my commands, as I haue submitted my selfe heretofore to yours.

<sup>v</sup> Other interpret this of his passion, according to that of our euangelist, chapter 7. 30. No man layd hands on him, because his houre was not yet come. As if Christs meaning were this: In miracles acted by the finger of God, I haue nothing to doe with thee: but when my weake flesh which I tooke from thee, shall be crucified, in that houre I will acknowledge you to be my mother. And so we read, Iohn 19. 25. Then stood by the crosse of Iesus, his mother: and when Iesus saw his mother, and the disciple standing by, whom he loued, he said vnto his mother; woman, behold thy Sonne.

But it is expounded most aptly, that it was not as yet an <sup>x</sup> opportune time to worke the miracle, <sup>y</sup> because the want of wine was not generally perceiued and manifested. It is Gods houre when wee most need. <sup>z</sup> Cum omne carnale concilium & auxilium cessauerint: when all men and meanes are wanting, <sup>a</sup> God is a present helpe in trouble.

This one clause then <sup>b</sup> insinuates our Sauours }	Power.

	Providence.
	Wisedome.
	Pitie.
	Pietie.

Power.] For no man hath an houre. <sup>c</sup> Times and seasons are put in Gods owne power onely. Whereas therefore Christ saith; Mine houre; he doth evidently demonstrate, that he is creator of yeeres, and eternall <sup>d</sup> clock-keeper of time.

Providence.] For it came not to passe by fate or fortune, but by disposition diuine; <sup>e</sup> determining from all eternitie, both what, when, and where Christ should suffer and doe.

Wisedome.] Performing this act of wonder in the right quando, when it might procure the greatest good to men, and glory to God.

Pitie.] For hereby the new married conceiued hope, that he would releue their want in his good houre.

Pietie.] Toward his mother, not absolutely denying, but only deferring her suit for a time. Nondum venit: It shall come, though as yet not come.

His mother said vnto the ministers, Whatsoever hee saith vnto you doe it.] Shee was not offended or discouraged with Christs answere, but beleueed his word, and submitted her selfe to his will: a notable president of <sup>f</sup> faith and <sup>g</sup> obedience; teaching vs in all afflictions of body and soule, wholly to stay our selues vpon his gracious promises. In a word, it is <sup>h</sup> a good rule to be followed in all things; heare him; in all the workes of thy calling, whatsoever he saith vnto thee, doe it; not onely beleuee, <sup>i</sup> but doe.

And there were standing there six water-potts of stone.] The relation of the miracle it selfe containes in it a most lively <sup>k</sup> picture of the Church militant, subiect euen in her greatest happinesse to much want and woe: but Christ that keeps Israel doth neither slumber nor sleepe; he knowes her workes, and in the midst of her wants, euen when shee thinks her selfe forsaken, heares her prayers and turnes her water into wine, giuing her a garment of gladnesse for the spirit of heauinesse.

<sup>q</sup> Tract. 8. in Ioan.
<sup>c</sup> Marlor. in loc.

<sup>e</sup> Maldonat in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Greg. Niss. hom in Apost. verba, Tunc ipse filius subiicietur ei, &c.

<sup>u</sup> August. vbi supra. & Rupertus in loc.

<sup>x</sup> Theophylact. in loc.

<sup>y</sup> Chrysost. hom. 21. in Ioan.

<sup>z</sup> Marlorat ex Brent. in loc.

<sup>a</sup> Psal. 46. 1.

<sup>b</sup> Pontanus in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Acts 1. 7.

<sup>d</sup> Dubartas 1. day. 1. weeke.

<sup>e</sup> Acts 4. 28.

<sup>f</sup> Bullinger. 5. Capit. in.

<sup>h</sup> Zepperus.

<sup>i</sup> Pontanus.

<sup>k</sup> Melanct. po. (ii). in loc.

The Fathers and Friers abound with other allegories. He that list may read August. tracl. 9. in Ioan. Bernard. ser. 2. post octau. Epiphan. Rupert. comment. in Ioan lib. 2. Luther postil. maior. Dom. 2. ab Epiphan. Ferus ser. 9. Dom. 2. post Epiph. Pontanus bibliothec. con. tom. 1. fol. 222. 223. &c.

I did alway thinke of glosse, as <sup>1</sup> Augustine of graces: Alter aliquando fructuosus est donis paucioribus, sed potioribus, alter inferioribus sed pluribus: One man edifieth his hearers with many, though meane notes; another with few, but fit; short, but sweet. I passe theretore from the miracle, to the consequent and effect.

<sup>1</sup> De sancta virginiat. cap. 46.

The which is twofold: } 1. The manifestation of Christs glory.
 } 2. The confirmation of his Disciples faith.

Christ in his morals instructed vs to liue well; in his miracles to belecue well. And therefore this fact increasing the Disciples faith, and illustrating his honor, Omne tulit punctum, quia miscuit vile dulci.

The Epistle Ro m. 12. 6.

Be not wise in your owne opinion, &c.

Saint Paul exhorts vs in this Epistle; not to hurt, but rather helpe our Enemies.

Not to hurt by } Concealing that which is good; as } Wisedome: Be not wise in your owne opinion.
 } } Sanct mony: Provide things honest in the sight of all men.
 } Rendring that which is euill: verse. 17. Recompence no man euill for euill: and vers. 19 Avenge not your selues, &c.

But to helpe by preferuing } Peace: vers. 18. If it be possible, liue peaceably with all men. vers. 20. If thine enemy hunger; feed him.
 } Patience: vers. 21. Be not overcome of euill, but ouercome euill with good.

Be not wise.] Not in your selues, nor onely wise to your selues: not in your selues and <sup>m</sup> oure conceit <sup>n</sup> If any man among you seeme to be wise, let him be a fool, that he may bee wise. <sup>o</sup> Seest thou a man hastie in his matters and haughty; there is more hope of a foole, then of him. It is P recorded as a great fault in Charles, Duke of Burgundie, that hee seldome asked, neuer followed the counsell of other. On the contrary, Moses, a man <sup>q</sup> learned in all wisdome of the Egyptians, and mighty both in words and deeds, obeyed the voyce of his father in law Iethro, doing according to his aduise: Excd. 18. 24. Saul harkned vnto the counsell of his seruant: 1. Sam. 9. Agamemnon in Homer, wished for ten Nestors. <sup>r</sup> Alexander seuerus neuer detemined any thing of moment, without twelue or twenty iudicious Lawyers. It is a great part of wisdome, yea the first entrie to knowledge, <sup>s</sup> scire quod nescias; not to bee too wise, or in our opinion so wise, that we neglect others helpe. The Pope in this respect (as <sup>t</sup> Roderigo, Bishop of Zamora well obserues) is most vnfortunate. For though hee hath all things at command, yet euermore stands in need of one thing, to wit, a faithfull counsellor.

The Romans at this time being Lords of the world, were puffed vp exceedingly with the greatnesse of their gifts, and largenesse of their Empire: Paul therefore did often (as Chrysostome notes) inculcate this exhortation, in this Chapter twice, that it might be remembered once.

The men of England, yea the women of England, abusing the great light of the Gospell, and long peace, are growne so wise, that many will take vpon them to teach euen their most learned teachers; and therefore we must againe and againe preach and presse this one lesson: Be not wise in your owne opinion. Let no man presume to know more then is meet for him to know; but so

<sup>m</sup> Prou. 3. 7.
<sup>n</sup> Esay. 5. 21.
<sup>o</sup> 1. Cor. 3. 18.
<sup>q</sup> Prou. 29. 20.
<sup>r</sup> See the life of Cominaus before his workes in English
<sup>s</sup> Acts 7. 22.
<sup>t</sup> Reusner in Symbat. s.
<sup>u</sup> Fulgentius lib. 1. mytholog.
<sup>v</sup> Is specul. vita human. lib. 2 cap 3 & Virgier answereto Baron. pag. 39.

judge of himselfe that he be gentle and sober, according as God hath dealt to euery man the measure of faith

Or as <sup>u</sup> other expound it; Be not wise to your selues: but as <sup>x</sup> Salomon speaks Let thy fountaines flow forth, and the risers of waters in the streets: according to the measure of grace, proceeding from the fountaine of goodnesse, communicate thy wisdome to other, hid not thy talent.

To one is giuen by the Spirit the word of wisdome, et tanquam luminare maius; vnto another the word of knowledge, tanquam luminare minus; vnto another prophetic, vnto another faith, vnto another diuersitie of language, tanquam stella, as starres in the firmament of the Church. Our light then must shine before men, and we must wast our selues for the good of such as are in Gods house. The candle must not be put vnder a bushell, but on a candlesticke. Scire tuum nihil est, nisi te scire hoc sciat alter. If thou wilt be onely wise to thy selfe, thou shalt at last turne foole. For as water standing still is soone puddle: <sup>a</sup> so the gifts of the minde not imployed are impaired. <sup>b</sup> Africanus said truly, that vs begat wisdome:

Vsus me genuit, mater peperit memoria.

Let vs not then inclose truth and the knowledge thereof, it is common. If wee make it priuate, we shall bee deprived of it. As <sup>c</sup> Augustine sweetly: Non licet habere priuatam, ne priuemur ea. <sup>d</sup> When Christ ascended vp on high, hee gaue gifts to men, among other the gift of <sup>e</sup> wisdome, for the gathering together of the Saints, for the worke of the ministrie, for the building vp of his mysticall body. Wisdome then is not giuen only for thy selfe, but for other, among the rest <sup>f</sup> euen for thine enemies, that the Lord God might dwell among them.

Secondly, we may not conceale our sanctimonie. Provide things honest in the sight of all men. ] as Paul expounds Paul. <sup>g</sup> Give none offence neither to the Jewes nor to the Grecians, nor to the Church of God. <sup>h</sup> For as a man must haue care of his conscience before God; so likewise of his credit before men.

Before men, but not before God, as the vaine-glorious hypocrites, Herod within, John without, painted tombes, as Christ aptly: Sepulchra quasi semipulchra, exterius nitida, interius foetida.

Before God, but not before men; as the malecôtet, & vn discreet professor, by whose euill exâple the name of God is often <sup>i</sup> blasphemed. Neither before God nor men: as the shamelesse ruffins and Atheists of the world, whose <sup>k</sup> glory is their shame, <sup>l</sup> delighting in doing euill, and boasting of iniquitie; reputing dishonestie no dishonour, but the top of their gallantry. So Saint <sup>m</sup> Augustine writes of himselfe before he was Saint: Vbi non superat quò admissò equarer perditis, fingebam me fecisse, quod non feceram, ne viderer abiectionis, quò eram innocentior.

Some
prouide things honest

Both before God and men; as <sup>n</sup> Elizabeth and Zacharie, who were iust before God, and vnreproueable before men: so must euery Christian abstaine, so farr as he can, <sup>o</sup> from all appearance of euill: <sup>p</sup> yet this honest care of our carriage must not be to please men, but only to praise God. As S. <sup>q</sup> Peter interprets S. Paul: Haue your conuersation honest, that they which sprake euill of you, as of euill doers, may by your good workes, which they shall see, glorifie God in the day of the visitatio. Let your light (saith Christ) shine before men; not only that they may see your good workes, but also that seeing, they may glorifie your father which is in heauen. <sup>r</sup> Vt hoc ipsum quod homo per bona opera placet hominibus, non ibi sine cõstituat ut hominibus placeat, sed referat hoc ad laudem Dei, & propterea placeat hominibus, ut in illo glorificetur Deus.

As we may not conceale from our enimie wisdome and knowledge which are good: so much lesse render euill. Recompence to no man euill for euill. A Magistrate may punish a malefactor, and so pro malo culpa, render malũ pœne.

But

<sup>a</sup> Ambrosius, &
Gorranus, in loc.
<sup>x</sup> Prou. 5. 16.

<sup>y</sup> Augustinus, confess lib. 13.
cap. 18.

<sup>z</sup> Mat. 5. 15.

<sup>a</sup> Plutarchus, de non latendo.
<sup>b</sup> Aul. Gel. lib.
13. cap. 8.

<sup>c</sup> Confess. lib. 12.
cap. 25.
<sup>d</sup> Ephes. 4. 8
1. Cor. 12. 8.

<sup>e</sup> Psal. 68. 18.

<sup>f</sup> 1. Cor. 10. 32
<sup>g</sup> Marlorat. ex
Catlin. in loc.

<sup>h</sup> Rom. 2. 24.

<sup>k</sup> Philip. 3. 19.
<sup>l</sup> Prou. 2. 14.
<sup>m</sup> Confess. lib. 2.
cap. 3.

<sup>n</sup> Luke. 1. 6.

<sup>o</sup> 1. Thes. 5. 12 <sup>p</sup> Theophylact. in
loc.
<sup>q</sup> 1 Epist. 2. 22.

<sup>r</sup> August. lib. 1.
de ser. dom. in monte

<sup>s</sup> But this is not to recompence euill for euill, but good for euill : becaufe corrections are directions, as well to the teer as sufferer : the flesh is destroyed, that the spirit may be saued. A Magistrate then may render euill for euill: but a priuate man out of a priuate grudge, may not auenge himselfe, but rather giue place to wrath.

The which may be construed of  $\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Our owne wrath.} \\ \text{Aduersaries anger.} \\ \text{Gods iudgement.} \end{array} \right\}$

Of our owne wrath, as <sup>u</sup> Ambrose: resiste ira, si potes; cede si non potes. An haſtie * colerick man is like one that dwelles in a thatched house, who being rich in the morne, through sudden fire is a begger ere night. It is extreame folly to doe any thing in furie; but wisdom to giue place and space to wrath. It was an excellent decree of <sup>v</sup> Theodosius, enacted by the counsell of S. Ambrose, that execution after a ſeuere sentence should be deferred thirty daies: ut ira decocta, durior emendari possit sententia, that all heat of contention allaid, if need require, the feueritie of the censure might be qualified and moderated.

Secondly, this may be construed of our <sup>z</sup> aduersaries anger: for as <sup>a</sup> thunder and gunnes hurt not any thing which yeelds vnto their furie, but onely that which is hard and stiffe; so the raging and roaring of our foes are best quelled by patience. Turne to the brauling curre, and he will be more fierce; but ride on neglecting him, and he will soone be quiet. You may turne the prouerbe:

Veterem iniuriam ferendo vitas nouam.

Thirdly, this may be construed of Gods iudgement, and that <sup>b</sup> most fitly: for to God onely vengeance belongs, and he will auenge our cause. The malicious man in reuiling thee, doth <sup>c</sup> treasure vp wrath against the day of wrath, and therefore giue place to Gods wrath: <sup>d</sup> Cast all your care on him for hee careth for you.

Yea, but may wee not complaine to the Magistrate for redresse of iniuries? Yes surely, for he is Gods liuerenant on earth, and therefore, the vulgar Latine, vosmet ipsos defendentes, is insufficient, <sup>e</sup> as our Diuines haue well obserued: and the Rhemists haue well mended it, reading as wee doe, revenge, or, auenge not your selues. For wee may be so wise as serpents in defending our selues, howsoeuer so innocent as doves in offending other. <sup>f</sup> He that commits his cause to the Magistrate, giues place to diuine iudgement: for all superiour powers are <sup>g</sup> Gods ordinance: but whosoever auengeth his owne quarrell, steps into the Princes chair of estate, yea Gods owne seate, dethroning both, and so disturbs heauen and earth.

Here then is no place for duell; a fault (as it is vsed in England, the Low-Countries, especially <sup>h</sup> France, for euery punctilio of honour falsely so called) against not only the rules of reason and religion (as <sup>i</sup> Bernard notably: Quis hic tam stupendus error, quis furor hic tam non ferendus, nullis stipendijs militare nisi aut mortis aut criminis? Nam occisor lethaliter peccat, & occisus ateraliter perit) but euen against the principles of that art.

As a Christian may warre in <sup>k</sup> loue, so a Christian must iarre in loue; so contend with his aduersary before the lawfull Iudge, that the partie cast in the suit may be bettered, if not in his money, yet in his manners, and Satan only conquered: <sup>l</sup> Ut qui vincitur, simul vincat; & vnus tantummodo vincatur Diabolus. <sup>m</sup> Otherwise when we sue for our right out of rancor and malice, wee commit not our case to God and his deputie the Prince, but make them both our deputies, our instruments of reuenge; the which is such an horrible crime, that Paul calls it a mysterie of iniquitie, 2. Theſſ. 2. 7. I say, this secret exalting of our selues aboute all that is called God, vsing Soueraignes as seruants in our priuate quarrels, is to play the Deuill and the Pope.

Wee may not then dissemblingly, but simply, giue place to wrath. An hard saying, and therefore Paul doth <sup>n</sup> sweeten it with a mourning tearme, ἀγαπᾶται, dearily beloued: as if he should speake thus, It is my loue, that I write so much against malice:

<sup>r</sup> Aquin. in loc.
<sup>s</sup> 1. Cor. 5. 5.

<sup>u</sup> Offic. l. i. c. 21
<sup>x</sup> Bonauen. dieta saluis, ca. 5.

<sup>y</sup> Reusner. in Symbolis, & Tileman. in loc.

<sup>z</sup> Aut fugiendo, aut permittendo. Hieron. in loc.
<sup>a</sup> Mart. in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Theophylact. Aquin. Luther. in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Rom. 2. 5.
<sup>d</sup> 1. Pet. 5. 7.

<sup>e</sup> Whitaker against Reynolds the papist.

<sup>f</sup> Aquin. & Tileman in loc.
<sup>g</sup> Rom. 13. 1.

<sup>h</sup> Where within tenne yeers fixe thousand gentlemen haue beene slaine, as it appeares by the Kings pardons vide les ombres des desfunctz sieurs de Videmar & de Fontaines pag. 46.

<sup>i</sup> Exhortat. ad Milites Templi cap. 2. fol. 401.

<sup>k</sup> Augustin. epist. 5.
<sup>l</sup> Baron annal. Tom. 2. fol. 5.

<sup>m</sup> Marlowat. ex Caluia in loc.
<sup>n</sup> Erasmus & Martyr in loc.

° Deut. 32. 35.
Heb. 10. 30.

malice; not for your hurt, but for your eternall good. If you will not beleue me, beleue God himselfe, who saith in his holy ° word, Vengeance is mine I will repay saith the Lord.

God doth reuenge the quarrell of his children vpon the wicked in this, and in the world to come. In this life, to the children who mocked his Prophet Elisba, were rent in peeces with beares, 2. King. 2. So when Hiernsalem had killed the Prophets, and stoned such as preached vnto her, Almighty God was wroth, and sent for his warriors, and destroyed those murtherers, and burnt vp their city: Matth. 22. 7.

¶ Euseb. Histor.
lib. 6. cap. 8.

¶ Three shamelesse ruffins accused Narcysus, a reuerend and holy Bishop, of a most hainous crime, confirming their accusation with imprecation: the first wished if it were not so, that he were burnt: the second, that he might die of the iaudise: the third, that he might lose his eyes. And afterward in proceffe of time, the first had his house set on fire in the night, and he with all his family was burnt: the second had the iaudise from the crowne of his head, to the sole of his foote, whereof he died vncomfortably: the third, seeing what was befallen these twaine, repented, and confessed the conspiracy; yet for all that hee lost his eyes.

¶ Lanquet. ebr.
fol. 196.
Idem Malmes-
bur. de gestis regum Anglorum.
lib. 2. cap. 13.

¶ Earle Godwin swearing at table before the King, that hee did not murther Alfred, after many words in excusing himselfe, said; to mought I safely swallow this morsell of bread, as I am guiltlesse of the deed. But so soone as he had receiued the bread, forthwith he was choaked.

What need we looke so farr? The confounding of the Spanish Armado, the defeating of so many cruell treasons against our late Queene of blessed memorie; the frustrating of that hellish Gunpowder treason, are plaine demonstrations that vengeance is Gods, and he will repay; that he doth plead the cause of his seruants, against such as strue with them, and fight against such as fight against them.

¶ Psal. 35. 1.

Againe, God rewards the wicked in the world to come; Depart from me yee cursed into euerlasting fire, prepared for the deuill and his Angels. For I was an hungred, and yee gaue me no meat; I thirsted, and yee gaue me no drinke, &c. ¶ If they shall be punished who did no good, how shall they be tormented who render euill to the members of Christ; If negligent Dines bee tortured in hell, for omitting only the workes of mercie, what shall become of violent Dines, for committing the workes of cruelty?

¶ Augustin de fide & operibus
cap. 15.

¶ Some sinners are punished only in this life, as poore Lazarus, and that incestuous Corinthian. Other onely in the life to come, As the rich Glutton, who while he liued, had the world at will. Other are both tortured in this life and tormented in the next; as the filthy Sodomites, who for their burning lust, had here sulphureum ignem, and shall haue there, gehennalem ignem. Or as Saluanus, lib. 1. de gubernat. Dei, God sent vpon them in this life, Gehennam è celo.

¶ Theophilact. in
Matth. 12.

Wherefore seeing Almighty God doth reuenge our quarrell, either immediatly by himselfe, or mediatly by his ministers and warriors, euen all his creatures in heauen and earth; it is both faithlesse and fruitlesse for our selues to right our selues. It is faithlesse not to beleue that the Lord will deale with vs according to his word, who promised by the mouth of his holy x Prophet: With thine eyes shalt thou behold and see the reward of the vngodly. Fruitlesse, for as much as it is a y fearefull thing to fall into the hands of the liuing God, whose little finger is heauier then our whole hand.

¶ Luke 2. 29.

¶ Psal. 91. 8.

¶ Heb. 10. 31.

If it be possible, so much as in you is, liue peaceably with all men.] We must seeke peace, yet vnder these conditions; If it be possible, and as much as in vs is. For wee cannot haue peace with some men; and wee may not haue peace in some matters. See ser. on the first lesson for the next Sunday, ioyned to the Gospell and Epistle.

¶ Galat. 6. 10.

If thine enemy hunger, feed him.] There are degrees of loue; Do good to all men, especially to them which are of the household of faith. Among the faithfull, the neereft neerest ought to be dearest vnto vs; a wife, father, child allie, neighbour, friend, is to be respected more (ceteris paribus) then a stranger or an enemy: yet in case of necessity, thou must feede thy foe, blessing him that did curse thee. By the ciuill lawes, he that bequeathes a man nourishment, intends he should haue bed and boord, apparell and dwelling. <sup>a</sup> Alimentis legatis, cibaria & vestitus & habitatio debentur. <sup>b</sup> In like sort, God inioyning vs in his Testament and last will to feed our enemies, includes also, that we must harbour them, and cloath them, and according to their seuerall necessities, euery way releue them.

In so doing thou shalt heape coales of fire vpon his head. ] I finde <sup>c</sup> two constructions of these words; one bad, another good. It is a senselesse sense, to say by well doing, thine enemy not deseruing it, thou shalt heape coales of fire vpon his head; encrease Gods heauy iudgements against him. Our Apostles intent is to moue men vnto charitable workes euen toward their enemies: hereby to doe them good and to purpose the same. But if that were the meaning, Paul should teach vs how to be reuenged; and in shew of doing kindnesse, to worke mischief, pretending good, intending euill.

The better construction is; In so doing thou shalt either confound, or conuert thine aduersary. <sup>d</sup> Confound him in his conscience, making him acknowledge, that thou art more religious, and more nobly minded then himselfe. So when Saul vnderstood of Dauids honest and honourable carriage toward him, instantly brake forth into this ingenuous confession; <sup>e</sup> thou art more righteous then I, for thou hast rendred mee good, and I haue rendred thee euill. Or else thou shalt <sup>f</sup> conuert him to thy selfe. For <sup>g</sup> loue is strong as death, the coales thereof are fiery coales and a vehement flame. There is no greater prouocation to loue, then preuention in loue. <sup>h</sup> Nimis enim durus animus, qui delectationem, etsi nolebat impendere, nolit rependere. Kinde respect to thy foe, shall blow the coales of his affection, and inflame his loue toward thee.

Be not overcome of euill ] Wee must haue patience, when wee cannot haue peace; so we shall be <sup>i</sup> more then conquerours, overcoming without resistance, which is the <sup>k</sup> most noble kind of victory: or overcome euill with goodnesse; that is make the wicked good by thy good example. <sup>l</sup> Probum ex improbo redde. For as <sup>m</sup> Augustine from Seneca, diligendi sunt mali, ut non sint mali. We must manifest our loue to the wicked, in winning them to God, not in fostering or flattering them in their folly.

<sup>a</sup> Leges, quos nos huius 224 de verb. signific.
<sup>b</sup> Martyr in loc.
<sup>c</sup> Theophylact. Aquin. & Tilmann in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Caluin in loc.
<sup>e</sup> 1. Sam. 24. 18.
<sup>f</sup> Hieron. in loc.
<sup>g</sup> Cant. 8. 6.
<sup>h</sup> Aquin. ex August. in loc.

<sup>i</sup> Rom. 8. 37.
<sup>k</sup> Martyr in loc.
<sup>l</sup> Theophylact. in loc.
<sup>m</sup> Epist. 54.

The Gospell. MATTH. 8. 1.

When he was come downe from the Mountaine, &c.

Downe from the Mountaine ] <sup>n</sup> From the mount of heauen, into this valley of earth; as a Physitian to cure our leprosy. <sup>o</sup> Or from the mount of the law, to the plaine of the Gospell. <sup>p</sup> Or from the mount of contemplation, vnto the field of action. <sup>q</sup> Or he came downe from the mountaine, first instructing his disciples, and after, descending to the capacities of the people. <sup>r</sup> Teaching all teachers hereby, to deliuer high points vnto the learned, and plaine principles to the simple. Doctores ascendunt in montem, ubi perfectioribus excellentia praecepta; descendunt autem, cum inferioribus leniora demonstrant.

Behold a leper. ] In Christ, preaching and practise meet together. So soone as he had said well, <sup>s</sup> he proceeds for the confirmation of his doctrine to do well; acting good workes and great workes; good workes of mercy, great workes of miracle; of mercy in helping, of mercy in healing a leprous man present, and a palse man absent. Intimating hereby, that it is not enough to talke of Gods wayes, except we walke in his paths, and manifesting himselfe to the world, that hee was the Messias of the world. As if he should argue thus; If you beleue not my words, <sup>t</sup> yet credit me for my wonders. <sup>v</sup> I make the blind to see, the

<sup>n</sup> Haymo apud Thom. in loc.
<sup>o</sup> Coller. con. 3. in loc.
<sup>p</sup> Ferus ser. 4. in loc.
<sup>q</sup> Origen. hom. 5. in Mauth.
<sup>r</sup> Haymo ubi sup & Acolia. con. 2. in loc.
<sup>s</sup> Chrysoast & Hieron. in loc.

<sup>t</sup> Ioh. 5. 36.
<sup>v</sup> Matt. 11 9

deafe

deafe to heare, the lame to goe. I cure all kinde of diseases, euen with the least touch of my finger, and least breath of my mouth. I heale the Leper, I heare the Centurion.

The leper was a Jew, the Centurion a Gentile; the leper poore, the Centurion rich; the leper a man of peace, the Centurion a man of warr. * Insinuating hereby, that God is no y acceptor of persons; but that his benefits indifferently belong to men of all nations and all fashions.

In <sup>2</sup> Christ there is neither Jew nor Grecian, neither bond nor free. ] Yet Christ did first cure the Jew, then the Gentile. For saluation was offered, <sup>a</sup> first, to the Iewes; he touched the Jew, but cured the Gentile with his word. <sup>b</sup> Hee visited Jerusalem in his owne person, but healed other nations by the Preachers of his Gospell.

In the leper } Weaknesse of his body : sicke, and sicke of a leprosie.
2. things are re- } Faith.
markable : the } Adoration.
} Vertues of his minde : } Wisdome.
} } Patience.
} } Confession.

In Christ also two things } Mercy ; that would so readily.
are to bee considered : his } Might ; that could so easily cure this distressed } lazer.

A leper. ] All weaknesse originally proceeds from <sup>c</sup> wickednesse; <sup>d</sup> either from some defect in our conception, or disorder in our conuersation : as Mepphiboseth had <sup>e</sup> his lamnesse by falling from his nurse; so euey man his sicknesse by falling from the Lord. Christ, who was free from sinne, was also free from sicknesse : but vnto men, carying about them bodies of sinne, diseases are as it were a <sup>f</sup> sermon from heauen, wherein Almighty God accuseth of sinnes, and shewes his wrath against sinners.

But the condition of a leper, as we reade in the <sup>g</sup> law, was of all other sicke, most insupportable. First he must liue alone, separated from the fellowship of Gods people, as vnworthy to come into cleane company. Secondly, he did weare foure markes to be knowne by; his garments torne, his head bare, his mouth couered, and he must cry; I am vncleane, I am vncleane. For grieue whereof, assuredly some pined away; being forlorne in their sorrow, destitute of all good comfort and company. Yet this leper indued with a liuely faith, is not hopelesse, howsoeuer haplesse. For he comes, and saith vnto the great Phisitian of the world; Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane: though hee knew that his sicknesse in the worlds eye was incurable, yet he did beleue that vnto God nothing is impossible. He felt his owne miserie to be great, yet hoped Christs mercy was more great : and therefore comes vnto him (as <sup>h</sup> Ludolphus aptly) Non tam passibus corporis quam fide cordis: If thou wilt, thou canst. A strong faith in a weake body.

Faith comes by <sup>i</sup> hearing: and the reason why this leper extraordinarily desired to heare Christ, and heare of Christ, was his vncleane disease: <sup>k</sup> so that the weaknesse of his body, brought him vnto the Phisitian of his soule. Note then here with <sup>l</sup> Paul, that all things happen for the good of such as are good. It was good for Dauid that he was in trouble; good for <sup>m</sup> Naaman that he was a leper; for his vncleannesse brought him vnto the Prophet, and the Prophet brought him vnto the sauing knowledge of the true God. It was good for Paul that hee was buffeted by Satan, for otherwise peradventure through abundance of reuelations he would haue buffeted God.

Of all herbes in the garden (as one wittily) Rew is the herbe of grace. Many times our woe doth occasion our weale: for as pride doth breed sores of falues, so faith on the contrary doth often make falues of sores, altogether renouncing her owne merit, and wholly relying vpon Christs mercy. Tanto desiderantius ad Christum contendit, quod suam indignitatem & immunditiam probè sentiret:

<sup>x</sup> Culman. & Hemingius in loc.

<sup>y</sup> Acts 10. 34.

<sup>z</sup> Gal. 3. 28.

<sup>a</sup> Acts. 13. 46

<sup>b</sup> Rupertus in loc

<sup>c</sup> John 5. 14.

<sup>d</sup> Thom. 3. part.

quæst. 14. art. 4.

<sup>e</sup> 2. Sam. 4.

<sup>f</sup> Hemingius in loc.

<sup>g</sup> Leuit. 13.

<sup>h</sup> De vita Christi, part. 1. Cap. 41.

<sup>i</sup> Rom. 10. 17.

<sup>k</sup> Ferusserm. 4. in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Rom. 28,

<sup>m</sup> 2 Kings 5.

sentiret: as<sup>n</sup> Luther and<sup>o</sup> Ferus accord in this; and that so truly, that as a Papist said; if Bonaventura had not beene a Romish Saint, hee would haue beene reputed an asse: so the Protestant, if Ferus had not beene a Romish asse, hee might haue proued in the Church a renowned Saint.

The second vertue to bee considered as a fruit of his faith, is adoration; p a spirituall fee for a spirituall physitian: as the bodily Doctor must be payed, so the ghostly prayed. He therefore worships Christ, and that with all humbleness of } Thought.

 } Word.
 } Deed.

He comes to Christ as a vassall to his Lord: Domine non tanquam ad dominum titulare, sed tanquam ad dominum tutelarem: If thou wilt thou canst. Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh: and therefore beleeuing in his heart that Christ was the Lord, willing and able to helpe, confesseth it also with his mouth: If it be for my good, I am sure thou wilt: and I beleue thou canst; attributing all to Christs might and mercie, nothing to his owne either worth or woe.

Vttering this also with humble gesture. For, as S. 9 Marke reports, hee kneeled, and as Saint<sup>r</sup> Luke, he fell on his face: teaching vs in prayer to fall downe and kneele before the Lord our maker. Hee that worships God irreuerently, shewes himselfe not a Christian, but a<sup>r</sup> Manichee: who thought God made the soule, but not the body.

Thirdly, note the lepers } * Place: not pressing to Christ on the mount but } expecting him in the valley.
 } Time: not interrupting Christ in his sermon, or } disturbing his auditory.
 } Person: speaking in a succinct stile.

Lord if thou wilt thou canst make me cleane. Giuing vs to vnderstand, that in suing vnto men which are wise, and in praying God who is wisdome, wee need not vse many, but pithy words. See Gospell, Dom. 2 quadrages.

The fourth vertue is liis patience, who was content notwithstanding his extreame misery, to stay Gods leisure, and Christs pleasure: <sup>a</sup> First, seeking the kingdome of God, and then desiring that other things might be cast vpon him. <sup>x</sup> In the first place giuing God glory, Lord if thou wilt, thou canst. In the second, praying for his owne good: Make me cleane; not as I will, but as thou wilt O Lord: prescribing neither the time when, nor place where, nor manner how, but referring all to Christ, possessing his soule with patience.

The last vertue to be regarded in this leper, is confession. He knew the Pharisees hated and persecuted all such as confessed Christ: yet hee calls him Lord, and worships him as a Lord, and proclaimes him in the presence of much people to be the Lord. It is well v<sup>r</sup> obserued, that Gods omnipotent power and infinite mercies are the two wings of our deuotion, whereby faith in the midst of all trouble mounts into heauen. Here the leper acknowledgeth openly Christs omnipotency: <sup>a</sup> for he saith not, intreat God to make me cleane, but, if thou wilt, thou thy selfe canst; and therefore thou art the very Christ: neither doth hee <sup>a</sup> doubt of his mercie, <sup>b</sup> for he saith not make me cleane, but, if thou wilt, make me cleane. <sup>c</sup> It is enough to shew my need, I commit the rest to thy cure, to thy care. Thou canst doe whatsoeuer thou wilt, and thou wilt doe that which shall be most for my good and thy glory.

This may teach vs how to confesse our wickednesse to God, as also to professe his goodnesse vnto men. Our wickednesse vnto God: for as Seneca truly, Prima sanitatis pars est velle sanari: The first step vnto health is to bee desirous of helpe. <sup>d</sup> Ipse sibi denegat curam, qui suam medico non publicat causam Our sinnes are a spirituall vncleanesse and leprosie, defiling the whole body, making our eies to lust, our mouth to curse, our tongue to lie, our throat an open sepulchre, our hands nimble to steale, our feet swift to shed bloud. It is therefore necessary

<sup>n</sup> Posil. maior in loc.

<sup>o</sup> Vbi supra.

<sup>p</sup> Thomas ex Chrysof. in loc.

<sup>q</sup> Cap. 1. 40.

<sup>r</sup> Cap. 5. 12.

<sup>s</sup> Diex. con. 1. in loc.

<sup>t</sup> Augustin. hares. 46.

<sup>u</sup> Chrysof. & Theophylact. in loc.

<sup>v</sup> Mat. 6. 33.

<sup>x</sup> Ferus. ser. 5. in loc.

<sup>y</sup> zepper. in loc.

<sup>z</sup> Chrysof. & Theophylact. in loc.

<sup>a</sup> Ambros. lib. 5. in Luc.

<sup>b</sup> Ludolpus vbi supra.

<sup>c</sup> Coster explicat. in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Augustin. epist. 122.

necessarie we should manifest vnto Christ our sores, that he may see them, and search them, and salue them.

Againe, by this example we may learne to professe the faith of Christ openly, though <sup>c</sup> the Kings of the earth stand vp, and the rulers take counsell against the Lord, and against his anointed. Other happily thinke so, but dare not say so. Some peradventure say so, though they thinke not so: but I beleeue as I speake, and speake as I beleeue: Lord if thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane.

Hitherto concerning the Patient: I come now to the Physitian, in whom two things are obseruable:

1. His mercy, who would so readily.

2. His might, who could so easily cure such an incurable leprosie.

And Iesus put forth his hand.] He granted that cheerfully, which the leper desired earnestly. The leper said, If thou wilt, and Christ answered, I will; and as I will, I say, be thou cleane; and as I say, I doe; his leprosie was immediatly cleansed: he spake the word, and it was done; he commanded and it was effected, euen with little mouing of his lips, and touch of his finger.

Here then is comfort for the distressed soule: The leper calls, and Christ heales him; the Centurion comes and Christ helps him. Other Physitians are deceiued often themselues, and often deceiue others; and therefore we venture much, when we trust them a little. The best physick (as one said) is to take no physicke: but if we commit our cause to this heauenly Doctor, our venture is without all peradventure: for he cureth all that <sup>f</sup> calleth vpon him, and <sup>e</sup> caseth all that come vnto him.

Iesus put forth his hand and touched him.] <sup>b</sup> Extendens manum suam] quod fuit liberalitatis contra auaros: tetigit eum] quod fuit humilitatis contra superbos: dicens volo] quod fuit pietatis contra inuidos: mundare] quod fuit potestatis contra incredulos

It was vnlawfull to touch a leper, as we finde, Leuit. 14 In that therefore Christ touched here this leper, he shewes himselfe to be greater then Moses, aboute the law. When Elisha cured Naaman, he did not put his hand on the place because he was subiect vnto the law; but Christ touched this leper as being Soueraigne of the law. So Chrysostome, Ambrose, Theophylact Ludolphus, and almost all other vpon the place.

Secondly, note with <sup>i</sup> Melancthon, that morall duties are to be preferred before ceremoniall offices; and therefore Christ neglects a ceremonie to saue his brother, and that according to Gods owne commandement, <sup>k</sup> I will haue mercie not sacrifice. The best glosse vpon the Gospell is faith, & the best exposition of the law is loue. <sup>l</sup> Christ therefore did offend the sound of the law, but not the sence.

Thirdly, this intimates that Christ was homo verus, and yet not homo merus; a very man in touching, but more then a meere man in healing with a touch. <sup>m</sup> Ambrose pithily: Volo dicit propter Pōtinum imperat propter Arium, tangit propter Manichæum. He did touch the leper to confute Manichæus; denying him to be the very man; hee did vse the imperatiue moode, be thou cleane, to confound Arius, denying him to be very God.

Fourthly, obserue with <sup>n</sup> Cyrius of Alexandria, the preciousnesse of Christs humanity, the which vnited to the Godhead, is the sole salue of all our sores; his rags are our robes, his crying our reioicing, his death our life, his incarnation our saluation

Fifthly, with <sup>o</sup> Aquine, to demonstrate that himselfe and none other cured him, because him eise and none other touched him.

Sixthly, with <sup>p</sup> Caluin and Marlorat, Christs humilitie, who did vouchsafe not onely to talke with the leper, but also to touch the leper. <sup>q</sup> According to this example, wee must learne not to loath any Lazarus, as the rich Glutton in the Gospell, but rather (as it is reported of <sup>r</sup> Elizabeth, the Kings daughter of Hungary) to make medecines for his maladies, and plaisters for his wounds: in humanity to releue the distressed, in humilitie to kisse the very feet of the poore.

As

<sup>c</sup> Psal. 2. 2.

<sup>f</sup> Psal. 50. 15.
<sup>g</sup> Mat. 11. 28.

<sup>b</sup> Ludolph. ubi supra.

<sup>i</sup> Postil. in loc.

<sup>k</sup> Osee 6. 6.

<sup>l</sup> Thomas ex Chrysost. in loc.

<sup>m</sup> Lib. c. in Luc. cap. 1

<sup>n</sup> Maldonat. in loc.

<sup>o</sup> Ex Chrysost. & Iansen. concor. cap. 44.

<sup>p</sup> In loc.

<sup>q</sup> Origen.

<sup>r</sup> Postil. cathol. con. 1. in loc.

As Christ stretched out his hand to the leper, <sup>f</sup> so we should put forth our hand to the needy. Let not thine hand (saith the <sup>e</sup> wife man) be stretched out to receiue and shut when thou shouldest giue.

Lastly, with <sup>u</sup> Tertullian and <sup>x</sup> other, how Christ in this action respected not the letter but the meaning, which is the soule of the law. The Scriptures are not <sup>y</sup> in superficie, sed in medulla; non in verborum folijs, sed in radice rationis.

Now the reason of the law forbidding the cleane to touch the vncleane, was, lest hereby they should be polluted. But Christ could not be thus infected; he therefore touched the leper, not to receiue hurt, but to giue helpe: so the text of <sup>z</sup> Paul is to be construed; hos deuita.

The Nouice may not be familiar with an old subtill fox; but a iudicious Diuine may conferr with an heretike, not to peruert himselfe, but to conuert his aduersary: Christ may touch a leper, if it be to heale him; and the Minister of Christ may teach an heretike, if it be to win him, and not to wound the truth.

I will be thou cleane.] I will. (<sup>a</sup> If God will) is the stile of man: our will being subordinate to Gods eternall decrees, in <sup>b</sup> whom we liue, and moue, and haue our being. But, I will, is the stile of God onely, who doth whatsoever pleaseth him, in heauen, in carth, in sea: Psal. 135. 6. The commanding terme then, I will, and imperatiue moode, be thou cleane, (except we read the text with the spectacles of Arius) <sup>c</sup> evidently proue, that Christ is God Almighty.

And immediately his leprosie was cleansed.] This amplifieth exceedingly Christs greatnesse and goodnesse: first, in that he cured this vncleane person thorowly, then in that he cured him quickly; for in all our suits vnto men, wee desire two things especially, that they deale soundly and roundly. Christ dealt so soundly with this leper, as that he did expose his cure to the censures euen of his aduersaries the Priests, of all, most ready to cauill at his cariage, and mocke his miracle: so roundly, so speedily, that whereas ordinary physicke must haue time for operation, his extraordinary medicine wrought, as the text saith, immediatly, instantly.

Iesus said vnto him, tell no man.] <sup>d</sup> Marke reports, that this leper instantly published the matter, & that in such sort, that Iesus could not openly enter into the citie, but was without in desert places, and yet people came to him from euery quarter. Here then a question is made, whether it was a fault in the leper or no, thus to divulge the miracle? For <sup>e</sup> Esay would haue men declare Gods works among the people. <sup>f</sup> Dauid wished often, O that men would therefore praise the Lord for his goodnesse. And Christ himselfe said vnto another, whom he cured in the 5. of S. Marke; Go thy way home to thy friends, and shew them what great things the Lord hath done to thee. <sup>g</sup> Ludolphus answers by distinction, affirming that there is triplex preceptum,  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Cautela.} \\ \text{Probationis.} \\ \text{Obedientia.} \\ \text{Obligationis.} \end{array} \right.$

Or, as <sup>h</sup> other,  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Tentationis.} \\ \text{Instructionis.} \end{array} \right.$

All the positieue lawes of God are obligatory; the commandements affirmatiue binde semper, and the negatiue semper, & ad semper. The probatory precepts are to trie vs only. So God <sup>i</sup> commands Abraham to kill Isaac, intending hereby not to destroy the sonne, but to trie the father. Admonitory precepts; as here Christ commanded the leper to tell no man: hereby teaching vs in him to shun vaine-glory; for so most Interpreters expound it.

This distinction is insufficient; as hauing no firme ground in the Bible. For when Almighty God inioynes a particular command, for the triall of his people, contrary to the generall scope of his law, he doth at that instant <sup>k</sup> dispense with the generall, and the particular only binds: as in the sacrificing of Isaac, Offer thy Sonne, was an exemption at that time from the law, Thou shalt not kill.

And as for admonitory precepts, how did this leper infallibly know, that Christs

<sup>f</sup> Prou. 31. 20.
<sup>e</sup> Ecclef. 4. 31.

<sup>u</sup> Lib. 4. contra Marcion.

<sup>z</sup> Thomas & Chryso. in loc. & Ludolphus ubi supra.

<sup>y</sup> Hieron. expo. sit. prior. inc. 1. ad Galatas.

<sup>z</sup> 2. Tim. 3. 5.

<sup>a</sup> James 4. 15.

<sup>b</sup> Acts 17. 18.

<sup>c</sup> Iust. Martyr. Athanas. & reliqui seue Patres, uti Maldonat. in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Cap. 1. 45.

<sup>e</sup> Cap. 12. 4.
<sup>f</sup> Psal. 107.

<sup>g</sup> Vbi supra.

<sup>h</sup> Heluetius in loc.

<sup>i</sup> Gen. 22.

<sup>k</sup> Perkins treat. of cons. cap. 2.

Christ's command, tell no man, was rather an instruction for other, then a prohibition vnto himselfe? Wherefore seeing all Christ's iniunctions binde, I subscribe vnto their opinion, 'who thinke this leper offended in publishing abroad Christ's benefit, notwithstanding he did it affectionately, and zealously. For we must giue thanks vnto God, not as wee will, but as hee will: Deuteronomie 4. 1. John 2. 5.

Hence wee may learne to temper our zeale with knowledge and obedience: for <sup>m</sup>obedience is better then sacrifice.

If any demand, why Christ would haue this miracle concealed: I answer with <sup>n</sup> Paul; O man, who art thou which disputes against God? <sup>o</sup>If thou dispute with him, thou canst not answer one thing of a thousand: but he can render a thousand answers vnto this frivolous obiection. As first, that there is a time for all things; a time wherein, Christ would be thorowly knowne, and a time wherein he would not be knowne, because his houre was not yet come.

Secondly, <sup>p</sup> Non erat necesse, vt sermone iactaret, quod corpore praeferbat: It was needlesse to publish the miracle, seeing his whole body made cleane, was as it were tuned all tongue to tell it.

Thirdly, it was absurd, that the leper should boast he was cleane, before hee was iudged to bee cleane. Therefore Christ saith in the next clause, Goe and shew thy selfe vnto the Priest: and then being adiudged cleane, tell whom thou wilt.

Shew thy selfe vnto the Priest.] Interpreters obserue diuerse reasons of this command. First, to <sup>q</sup> confirme the truth of the miracle, when as the leper according to law shall be iudged cleane.

Secondly, that the leper might enjoy the <sup>r</sup> benefit of his cure: for he might not enter into the Citie, <sup>t</sup> before the Priest had pronounced him cleane.

Thirdly, to <sup>u</sup> condemne the Priests, who taught, that Christ was not an obseruer, but rather a transgressor of the Law.

Fourthly, that <sup>v</sup> the law doth witness of Christ, and all the sacrifices are types of Christ: <sup>w</sup> to likewise the Priests, expounders of the law, might also witness, that Christ is the true Messias of the world; that seeing this miracle, they might beleue; or in not beleeuing, bee left inexcusable.

Fifthly, to <sup>x</sup> magnifie the calling and office of the Priests, howsoeuer they were wicked wretches. Hereby teaching vs, not to vilifie that holy profession for the faults and infirmities of some Judas crept in among the twelue.

Lastly, by this example, instructing vs to doe the greatest right vnto those who doe vs the most wrong. Goe to the Priests, albeit they bee my mortall enemies, and doe that respect, which is incident to their places and persons.

Here the Gospell and Epistle meet. Christ did not render euill for euill, but ouercome euill with goodnesse: providing things honest, not onely before God, but also in the sight of all men; auenging not himselfe, but giuing place to wrath, hauing peace so farr as might be with all men.

The <sup>y</sup> Papiests vpon this clause build auricular particular confession vnto the Priest. The leper ought to shew himselfe vnto the Priest of the old Testament: Ergo, the sinner infected with spirituall leprosie must confesse himselfe vnto the Priest of the new Testament.

Answer is made, that an argument drawne from allegories and similitudes is of little or no force, except it be seconded by some other euident text, whose naturall and proper sense is agreeable therevnto: but there is no such place, which either expresseth or implieth auricular popish confession, and therefore quod non lo-go, non credo.

<sup>z</sup> M. Harding saith, that auricular confession is Gods ordinance: but when he comes vnto the point, his onely confirmation is his owne bare affirmation: Wee tell them that confession is an institution of God, and not of man: as if his tale should stand for Gospell, in whom are found so many legends, and legions of lies.

<sup>1</sup> Calvin, & Marlor. in loc.

<sup>m</sup> 1. Sam. 15. 22

<sup>n</sup> Rom 9. 20.

<sup>o</sup> Job. 9. 3.

<sup>p</sup> Hieron. in loc.

<sup>q</sup> Marlorat, in loc

<sup>r</sup> Theophylact. in loc.

<sup>t</sup> Leuit. 14.

<sup>u</sup> Hieron. in loc.

<sup>v</sup> Idem Ibidem.

<sup>w</sup> Melancthon. in loc. & Ludolph. ubi supr.

<sup>y</sup> Coler. com. 3. Acolt. con. 2. in loc. &c.

<sup>z</sup> Jewel defence of Apol. fol. 151.

<sup>a</sup> Panormitan confesseth honestly, that it is not a diuine constitution, but an humane tradition: and <sup>b</sup> Maldonate writes plainly, that many Catholickes are of the same opinion, as namely Scorus among the Schoolemen, and the expounders of Gratian among the Canonists.

If then a tradition, of what antiquitie? Beatus Rhenanus a popish Doctor auoweth in his <sup>c</sup> nores vpon Tertullians booke de Pœnitentiâ, that this kinde of confessing was vnknowne in the daies of Tertullian, who liued about three hundred yeeres after Christ: and it is noted in the glosse vpon the <sup>d</sup> Decrees, and by <sup>e</sup> Peter Lombard, that it was not vsed in Saint Ambrose time, who liued foure hundred yeeres after Christ. <sup>f</sup> Erasmus an indifferent man, affirmes peremptorily, that this manner of confessing to the Priest secretly, was not as yet ordained in Hieromes age. The Greeke Church, as <sup>g</sup> Theodorus writes, hath no such custome. <sup>h</sup> M. Harding himselfe is constrained against his will, to confesse that the termes of auricular and secret confession are seldome mentioned in the Fathers. <sup>i</sup> A greater clerke then he, saith neuer in old time.

Wee may then iustifie Caluins challenge, lib. 3. institut. cap. 4. sect. 7. that auricular Popish confession was not practised in the Church vntill twelue hundred yeeres after Christ, instituted first in the Lateran Councell, vnder Innocentius the third.

Wee read that there was in the <sup>k</sup> Primitiue Church, a godly discipline, that such persons as were notorious sinners, were put to open penance, and that by the direction of the Bishop or Pastor: <sup>l</sup> and such as voluntarily desired to make publike satisfaction for their offences, vsed to come vnto the Bishops and Priests, as vnto the mouth of the congregation. But this confession was not constrained, but voluntarie; not priuate, but publike: yet hence the Priests abusing the peoples weakenesse, tooke their hint, to bring in auricular confession vpon perill of damnation. A cunning inuention to discover the mysteries of all states, and all men, and to enrich that couetous and ambitious sea: for confessions enen more make worke for Indulgences, and Indulgences are a great supporter of the triple crowne.

The Papiſts in this case flie from the Scriptures vnto the Councells, from the Councells vnto the Fathers, and from the Fathers vnto their last starting hole, in racles. Auricular Confession is Gods ordinance (saith <sup>m</sup> Bellarmino) because God hath wrought many miracles at auricular Confession. It is answered aptly, that David saith not, thy wonder, but thy word is a lanterne. Scripture without miracles are a good warrant; but miracles without text, are insufficient: for they were wrought by false Prophets in <sup>n</sup> old time, by false Teachers in <sup>o</sup> our dayes.

It is obserued by Tully, that bad Orators in stead of reasons vse exclamations: and so Bellarmino, for want of arguments, is faine to tell a tale or two related by Bonaventura, Antoninus, and our good Countriman Alanus Copius; all which is no more, but aske my fellow whether I be a theefe.

That priuate confession, as it is vsed among the Papiſts, is neither necessary nor <sup>p</sup> possible; see Caluin. Institut. lib. 3. cap. 4. Jewel defence Apolog. part. 2. cap. 7. diuision 2. D. Morton, Apolog. catholic. part. 1. cap. 64. Master White, way to the true Church, pag. 157. 226. 227.

Offer the gift. For the <sup>q</sup> labourer is worthy of his hire. This is a witnesse to the Priests, <sup>r</sup> that is, their right and due by law. Yea though the Priest doe not labour, yet we must giue vnto Cæsar the things which belong vnto Cæsar, and vnto God the things which appertaine to God: the publike Ministrie must bee maintained, although the Ministers be neuer so weake, neuer so wicked.

And when Iesus was entred into Capernaum, there came vnto him a Centurion. ] This miracle doth second the first.

<sup>a</sup> Melancthon
10 n. 2 fol. 161
<sup>b</sup> Sum. 1. 2. 18
art. 4. Vide Anton. Apolog.
part. 1. cap. 64
idem ser. 2. Peresus de tradit.
part. 3. cor. fol. 3.
<sup>c</sup> Iamſen concord. cap. 147.
<sup>d</sup> Argument in libel. Tertull. de pœnitent.

<sup>e</sup> De pœnit. distinct. 1.
<sup>f</sup> Petr. in glossa.
Iewel vbi supra
fol. 155

<sup>g</sup> Serm. lib. 4. distinct. 17. cap.
cum ergo.
<sup>h</sup> Schol. in Enſil Hieron ad Oec.
nem. le obitu.
Zabole. tom. 1.
fol. 201.

<sup>i</sup> Melancthon &
Iewel vbi supra
<sup>k</sup> Idem ibid. fol.
148.

<sup>l</sup> Rhenanus vbi supra, & Erasmus annot. in
Act. 10. vsq.
<sup>m</sup> Bellarm. factur de pœnit. lib. 3.
cap. 1.

<sup>n</sup> Communion book e, tit.
Cōmination.
<sup>o</sup> Rhenanus &
Iewel, vbi supra.
<sup>p</sup> De pœnitent.
lib. 3. cap. 12.
<sup>q</sup> Deut. 13. 1.
<sup>r</sup> Matt. 24. 24.

<sup>s</sup> Qued sine numero est, quorū-do numerabo?
Bernard serm.
de quadruplici debito.
<sup>t</sup> Luke 10. 7.
<sup>u</sup> Melancthon.
cem. in loc.

In it obserue the Fact of Christ :	}	Performing that fully, which the Centurion desired faithfully; his seruant was healed in the same house: ver. 13.

		Promising further also, that other Gentiles, euen from all the quarters of the world, shall come vnto him, and rest with Abraham, Isaac, and Iacob in the kingdome of heauen: vers. 11.
Faith of the Centurion :	}	Perswading Christ to cure his seruant: verse. 5. 6.
		Diswading Christ to come into Synfir. his house, because it was vnnecessary.

<sup>c</sup> Luke 7. 5.

Vnfit: I am not worthy that thou shouldst come vnder my roose. Surely this Captaine was a man of great worth, a deuout man, <sup>f</sup> for hee builded a Synagogue; a good man to the Common-weale wherein hee liued, one that loued the nation of the Iewes, a man of such a faith, as that Christ found none so great in all Israel, vers. 10. a louing master to his seruants, as this act declares a man of command and authority, vers. 9 yet this great Worthy confesseth himselfe vnworthy; like the wheate eare which hangs it head downe lowest, when it hath most corne. By this example learne lowlinesse of minde. When the Sun is right ouer our heads, our shadowes are most short; euen so when wee haue the greatest grace, wee must make the least shew.

<sup>c</sup> Maldonat. in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Zepper. in loc.

<sup>x</sup> Theophylact. in loc.

Vnnecessarie; because Christ can helpe the distressed onely with his word, <sup>e</sup> euen one word, which he proues à minori ad maius: "I am a man vnder the authority of another, &c. I am a man, but thou art God; I am vnder another, but thou art Lord of all; I haue souldiers obedient to me. For albeit vtuall men of that profession are rude, yet, I say to one goe and hee goeth; vnto another come, and hee commeth; and therefore Sicknesse, which is thy <sup>x</sup> souldier, if thou speake the word onely, will depart: say to the falsie goe, and it will goe; say to thy seruant, Health, come and, it will come.

I haue not found so great faith.] He might haue remembred in this noble Capraine, bounty, lone, deuotion, humilitie; but he commends faith most of all, as being indeed the ground of all; without which one vertue the rest are sinne: Rom. 14. 23. Heb. 11. 6.

The Epistle. ROM. 13. 1.

Let every soule submit himselfe, &c.

This Epistle consists of three parts; a }	Proposition: Let every soule submit himselfe to the authority of the higher powers.

	Reason: for there is no power but of God, &amp;c.
	Conclusion: wherefore yee must needs obey, giuing to every man his dutie; tribute to whom tribute, &amp;c.

The proposition is peremptory, deliuered not narratiuely, reporting what other hold meet; but positiuely, importing what God would haue done, not aduised only by Paul, but deuised euen by Christ, as a command, in imperatiue termes expresly; Let every soule be subiect. In which,

obserue the

}	Quality of this	}	To submit our selues.
			Equality

First of the last, according to the words order in the text.

Let every soule.] <sup>v</sup> That is, every man: putting the principall part for the whole. So Gen. 46. 27. All the soules of the house of Iacob, which came into Egypt, are seuentie: that is, as Moses expounds himselfe, Deut. 10. 22. seuentie persons. If any demand, why Paul said not; Let every body, but every soule; <sup>2</sup> Diuines answer fitly, fitly, to signifie, that wee must obey, not in outward shewes onely, but in truth and in deed: Omnis anima quoniam ex animo: <sup>a</sup> Not with eye seruice, but in singleness of heart.

<sup>v</sup> Aquin. & Goran in loc.

<sup>2</sup> Gualter. in loc.

This vniuersall note confutes as well the seditious Papist, as the tumultuous Anabaptist. The Papist exempting Clergie men from this obedience to secular powers: a doctrine not heard in the Church a <sup>b</sup> thousand yeeres after Christ.

<sup>c</sup> Bernard out of this place reasoneth thus with an Archbishop of France: Let euery soule be subiect: if euery, then yours: I pray, who doth except you Bishops? Si quis tentat excipere, conatur decipere. So Chrysostome, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylact, vpon this Text expressly: Clergie men are not excepted; Ergo, not exempted.

<sup>d</sup> Gregorie the Great, one of the most learned Popes, alleageth this glosse; Power (saith hee) ouer all men is giuen to my Lord Mauritius the Emperour, from heauen: and lest any should imagine Priests exempted, hee saith in the same place, to the same Prince; Sacerdotes meos tuae manui commisi: and epist. lib. 2, epist. 103. Christ hath appointed Mauritius to be ruler, not ouer souldiers onely, but ouer Priests also.

<sup>e</sup> Iustitian, who fauoured the Church, and of all other Emperours enlarged most the priuiledges of Churchmen, enacted this law; Let no Bishop be brought, or presented against his will, before the Captaine or ciuill Iudge, vnlesse the Prince shall so command.

Our Saviour Christ, the best Interpreter of Gods law, doth shew both by precept and practise, that Clergie men owe subiection and loyaltie to the ciuill Magistrate: so <sup>f</sup> Bernard writes; Howsoeuer you Bishops hold your selues free, yet Christ aliter iussit, aliter gessit. He taught otherwise, Luke 20. 25. speaking vnto priests; Giue to Caesar the things which are Caesars. He wrought otherwise: for being a Priest and a Prophet, he submitteth himselfe to the Roman Magistrate, & confessing the Presidents power to be from heauen.

His Apostles did tread in their Masters steps: Act. 25. Paul appealed vnto Cesar, and appeared before Cesar, as his lawfull gouernour. Saint Iude detested them for false Prophets, who despised gouernement, and spake ill of those that are in authority. <sup>h</sup> Saint Peter exhorted all men to submit themselves vnto Gods ordinance, whether it be to the King, as to the superiour, or vnto the gouernours, as vnto them that are sent of him for the punishment of euill doers, and for the praise of them that doe well.

I will not write Iliads after Homer, nor dispute this point after those reuerend Fathers of incomparable iudgement and industry, Iewel, Bilson, Andrewes; in dispari genere par laus. Each of them haue fought the battle of the Lord valiantly: the first with a sword; the two latter haue stabbed the Popes supremacy with a dagger, euen to death.

Secondly, Libertines and Anabaptists are confounded by this vniuersalitie, <sup>i</sup> who thinke themselves free from all lawes. In Germany they would haue framed a Politike body, like the body of Poliphemus, without his eye; or like the confused Chaos in old time, when height and depth light and darknesse were mingled together. Our Apostle teacheth here, that some must bee subiect, other soueraigne; some low, some high: some rule, some obey popular equality is the greatest inequality, voyd of all name, nurture, and nature, of a common weale.

The ground on <sup>k</sup> which Anabaptists haue framed their anarchie, is Iam. 2. 1. My brethren, haue not the faith of our Lord Iesus in respect of persons. If no respect of persons, no distinction; if no distinction, why should there bee difference betweene bond and free, Prince and people? Answer is made, that S. Iames saith not; haue no respect of persons; but, haue not the faith of Christ in respect of persons; as he doth interpret himselfe in the verse following; he speaks of grace, not of place. All men are fellowes in regard of the common faith, and

<sup>a</sup> Coloss. 3. 22.<sup>b</sup> B Bilson. against the Ie-suites, pag. 128.
<sup>c</sup> Epist. 42. ad
archiepisc. Seno.<sup>d</sup> Epist. lib. 2.
Epist. 100.<sup>e</sup> Cod. li. 1. tit. 3.
§. Nullus. Et in authent. de sancti.
Episc. §. Sed
neq; pro quali-bet.<sup>f</sup> Vbi supra.<sup>h</sup> Ioh. 19. 11.<sup>i</sup> Bullinger aduersus Anabaptist. fol. 95.<sup>k</sup> Rhemists annot. in Iam. 2. 1

spirituall grace : but all men are not fellowes in respect of authority and place; for some be parents, other children; some masters, other seruants; some commoners, other commanders.

Beasts and Deuills obserue order. <sup>1</sup> Rex vnus est apibus, & dux vnus in gregibus. Among Bees there is one master; among flocks of sheepe, one Bellwether. The Cranes haue their Captaine; <sup>m</sup> Quem ordine literato sequuntur Albeit the Grashopper hath no king, <sup>n</sup> yet goe they forth all by bands. In hell, which is the kingdome of confusion, there is a distinction of persons and order; otherwise <sup>o</sup> Belzebub could not be chiefe of deuills.

The Libertines haue wrested also that text of Paul, 1. Tim. 1. 9. The law is not giuen vnto the iust or righteous man: Ergo, good men are exempted from obedience to lawes. <sup>p</sup> It is answered aptly, that the iust man doth well not for feare of punishment, as compelled by law, but of grace and meere loue toward God and goodnesse: virtutis amore. Iusto lex non est posita, & neque ad condemnationem neque ad coercionem: Albeit there were no King, nor law to command him, he would be a King and a law to himselfe, obeying higher powers of his owne accord, with all his heart and soule. Thus euery person, as well Christian as Heathen, Ecclesiasticall as Laicke, must submit himselfe to superior powers.

Submit himselfe] To be subiect, is to suffer the Princes will to be done, aut á nobis, aut de nobis, either of vs, or on vs: of vs, when he commands for truth; on vs, when he commands against the truth: either we must be patients, or agents: agents, when he is good and Godly; patients, when he is tyrannous and wicked. Wee must vse not a sword, but a buckler against a bad Prince. Saint Paul here doth not say; let euery soule be subiect to Christian and vertuous gouernors, but <sup>r</sup> indefinitely to Potentates, in that they be Potentates; as Saint <sup>s</sup> Peter expressly: not onely to the good and courteous, but also to the froward.

If Peter and Paul enioyned all men in their time, to submit themselues vnto gouernors, albeit they were worshippers of deuills, and cruell persecutors of Christians; how much more should we now respect and honor religious Kings, which are defenders of the faith, and nursing Fathers vnto the Church? as <sup>t</sup> Cesar Baronius hath well obserued against the bloody practises of turbulent statizing Iesuits.

I haue read and heard, that the Iesuits are desirous to purge Saint Pauls Epistles, especially this to the Romans, as being herein more Lutheran then Catholicke. This text of all other, Omnis anima potestatibus sublimioribus subdita sit, is much against their humor and honor. How Pope <sup>u</sup> Boniface the eight, and <sup>x</sup> other Papiests haue wronged this Scripture, both in their precepts and practises, is scene of all Christian people, felt of all Protestant Princes.

Higher powers] <sup>y</sup> not highest onely, for wee must obey the <sup>z</sup> subordinate Magistrate so well as the supreme. So that that this proposition hath three large extensions; euery soule, in euery thing, must subiect himselfe to euery superiour. Be wise now therefore o yee Kings: understand yee that are Iudges of the earth, how the Church of Rome doth lessen all this extent.

Clergie men are exempted; Ergo, not euery soule. Causes ecclesiasticall are excepted; Ergo, not in euery thing. The Pope may depose what higher powers he list; Ergo, not to euery superior, but only to those whom his holinesse doth not curse. Thus some Princes onely may command some men onely, in some matters onely: whereas Paul here; Let euery soule submit himselfe to the authority of the higher powers, &c.

For there is no power.] The reason is threefold, drawne from the threefold good:

<sup>1</sup> Cyprian. de uanitat. idol.

<sup>m</sup> 4ter. Epist. ad Rusticum.

<sup>o</sup> Pro. 30. 27.

<sup>o</sup> Luke 11. 15.

<sup>p</sup> Theophylact.

in 1. Tim. 1.

<sup>q</sup> melanct. in

1. Tim. 1.

<sup>r</sup> Aquin. in loc.

<sup>s</sup> 1. Epist. 2. 18.

<sup>t</sup> Prefat tom.

11. animal.

<sup>u</sup> In extrauagani. unam san. flam.

<sup>x</sup> See Peter Martyr. in loc.

<sup>y</sup> Marlorat. ex Hyp. rio in loc.

<sup>z</sup> 1. Pet. 2. 14.

honesto, which Paul shewes a Bonitate } ordinantis; there is no power but of God.

resist, is euill: } culpe; who soeuer resisteth the power resisteth the ordinance of God.

malum } pœne; they that resist, shall receiue to themselves damnation.

Ab } utili, for, } submit our selues is good, because the Magistrate is the Minister of God for our good, for the good of peace, protection, iustice, religion, and the like. For this cause we pay tribute, quia ministri Dei sunt in hoc ipsum seruientes.

incundo, we must obey for conscience: the which vnto the disobedient, is a perpetuall hell; but vnto such as obey Gods ordinance, is a continuall feast.

No power but of God.] An argument from the Author of authority; all higher powers are from the highest power, vnto whom all creatures must be subiect. It happeneth often that potens, the ruler, is not of God: Ipsi regnauerunt & non per me: They haue set vp Kings, but not by me; they haue made Princes, and I knew it not. c And the manner of getting kingdomes is not alwaies of God. d Alexander 6. obtained the Popedome by giuing himselfe to the deuill. e Phocas by sedition got his Empire. f Richard 3. came to the Crowne of England by burchering his Nephewes, and other of the blood Royall; yet the power it selfe is euer from God: g By mee Kings raigne. h Thou couldst haue no power (saith Christ to Pilate) except it were giuen thee from aboue.

The powers that be, are ordained of God. i Insinuating that the Magistrate is not from God, after any common manner as all things are, but after a more speciall fashion ordained. The Lord is the God of order, and order is the good of euery creature, with whom it is better not to be, then to be out of order.

Who soeuer therefore resisteth.] If there be no power but of God, and nothing done by God but in order; he that resisteth authority, resisteth Gods ordinance. So the Lord himselfe sayd to k Samuel: They haue not cast thee away, but they haue cast me away, that I should not raigne ouer them. And hee might haue sayd of Princes as he doth of Preachers, l hee that despiseth you, despiseth me. For he sayd of both; m Ego dixi, dij estis. As God is a great King, so a King is as it were a little God. He therefore that resisteth the Prince, resisteth him that sent him, almighty God the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords: 1. Tim. 6 15.

There are n two binders of the conscience: } 1. Proper, Gods law.
} 2. Improper, mans law.

Gods holy word hath absolute and soueraigne power to binde the conscience, For God is Lord of conscience, creating it, and gouerning it, and onely knowing it.

The lawes of men improperly binde conscience, not by their owne vertue, but by the power of Gods law which here and elsewhere commands obedience to Princes. He therefore that willingly with a disloyall minde breakes any wholsome lawes of men, is guilty of sinne before God: o Non enim habenda sunt pro traditionibus humanis, quandoquidem fundata sunt in generali mandato & liquidam habent approbationem, quasi ex ore Christi. So Saint p Augustine notably: Hoc iubent Imperatores, quod iubet & Christus, quia cum bonum iubent, per illos non iubet, nisi Christus.

They that resist shall receiue to themselves damnation.] It may be construed q either of temporall punishment, or eternall iudgement, of temporall, r for the wrath of a King is like the roaring of a Lion: he that prouoketh him vnto anger sinneth against his owne soule.

By the s lawes of England a traitor convicted and attainted, hath his iudgement to be drawne from his prison to the place of execution, as being vnworthy to tread any more vpon mother earth; and that backward with his a Gorran. in loc.

b Ose. 8. 4.

c Aquin. in loc.

d Baluz in vita Alex. 6.

e Tite-man in locum.

f Polydor Virgil. lib. Anglie. lib. 25.

g Pro. 8 15.

h Ioh 19 11.

i Mar'urat. in locum.

k 1. Sam 8. 7.

l Luke 10. 16.

m Psal. 82. 6.

n Perkins Treatise of conscience. cap. 2.

o Calvin in 1. Cor 14 & Institut lib. 4. cap. 10 §. 30. p 2 pist. 1. 56.

q Aquin & Gorran. in loc.

r Pio. 20. 2.

s Starford pleas of the Crowne lib. 3 cap. 12.

head downward, for that he hath been retrograde to naturall courfes; after hanged vp by the necke betweene heauen and earth, as deemed vnworthy of both: his priue parts are cut off, as being vnprofitably begetten, and vnfit to leaue any generation after him; his bowels and entrals burned, which inwardly had conceiued and concealed such horrible treason; then his head cut off, which imagined the mischief: last of all, his whole body quartered, and made a prey for the birds of the aire, as one sayd of a Romish treacherous Iesuite:

Sic bene pascit aues, qui male panit oues.

How Rebels haue ruinated vtterly themselues, and their families, all Histories are full of tragickall examples: acquirunt sibi damnationem, as it is in the vulgar; they doe not onely receiue, but pull vpon themselues heavy iudgements.

Again this may be construed of eternall damnation, as is manifest in Chore Dathan, and the rest of that conspiracy, who went downe quicke to hell. If murder be fitly termed a crying sin, then treason may well be called a roaring sinne.

For as he that robs a Scholler is sayd to rob many; so the traitor that murders a Prince, kills many, sometime the whole State; the which assuredly cries aloud to the Lord, in such fort, that it awaketh him, and often calls him to speedie iudgement.

He is the Minister of God for thy wealth] * If he be a good Prince, causa est, he is the cause of thy good, temporall and eternall; if an euill Prince, he is an occasion of thine eternall good, by thy temporall euill. Si bonus, nutritor est tuus; si malus, tentator tuus est: If a good King, he is thy nurse, receiue thy nourishment with obedience; if euill, he is thy tempter, receiue thy tryall with patience. So there is no resistance, either thou must obey good Gouvernors, willingly, or endure bad tyrants patiently.

Magistrates are Gods Ministers: ergo, subordinate to God. If then higher Powers enioyne things against him, qui who is higher than the highest, It is better a to obey God than men. Hic (saith Augustine) contemne potestatem, timendo potestatem: In that thou fearest Gods power, feare not mans power: as Iulians souldiers would not worship Idols at his command, yet when he led them against an enemy, they obeyed most readily: * Distinguebant Dominum temporalem a domino aeterno, & tamen subditi erant propter dominum aeternum. As all power is from God, so for God: and therefore when the Prince commands against truth, it is our duty to be patient, and not agent.

For this cause pay yee tribute.] Subsidies are the Kings stipend or pay: for he is the minister of God, and great seruant of the State. So S. Paul expressly, Seruimus for the same purpose; not to take his owne ease, but to wake when other sleep; taking such care, that all men else may lue without care. Magna seruius est magna fortuna: nam ipsi Casari cui omnia licent, propter hoc ipsum multa non licent. Erasmus wittily: Miseros esse Principes, si intelligant sua mala, miseros esse si non intelligant. A Prince must be like Job, eyes to the blind, & feete to the lame. Be yee wisef therefore, yee Kings, Intelligite Reges. Intelligere est inuis legere; they must not altogether hang vpon the almes-basket of their Councell, but vnderstand of themselues in some measure those things which concerne their places: Erudimini qui, quia iudicatis.

Wherefore yee must needs obey] Because all powers are of God; because they bring with them the good of order; because it is a sin to disobey; because iudgement temporall and eternall accompany this sinne; because gouernement is the meane of our weale, because Kings are hired by tribute to serue their seruants, and care for their subiects. It is necessary we should obey, both ex necessitate finis & precepti; for hereby we shall doe that which is acceptable to God, and profitable to our selues: acceptable to God, enioyning obedience; profitable to our selues: enioyning the good of gouernment, that wee may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all Godlinesse and honestie.

Not onely for feare of vengeance, but also because of conscience] Thus all must obey, bad men for feare, good men for loue. The Kings Bench compels the one,

<sup>c</sup> Consulte Tileman & Martyr. in Idium.

<sup>u</sup> Num. 16. 32.

<sup>*D.</sup> Buckeridge Sermon vpon the fift verse of this Chap. <sup>7</sup> August. (ser. 6. de verbis Dom. secundum Mat.

<sup>z</sup> Eccles. 5. 7.

<sup>a</sup> Acts. 4. 19.

<sup>b</sup> Vbi supra.

* Augustin. in Psalm. 124.

<sup>c</sup> Plutar. com. ad Principem indoctum.

<sup>d</sup> Seneca consol. ad Polybium

<sup>e</sup> Manlius in loc. com.

<sup>f</sup> Job. 29. 15.

<sup>g</sup> Psalm. 2. 10.

<sup>h</sup> 1. Tim. 3. 2.

one, for hee beareth not the sword in vaine; but the Chancery moues the other: and therefore the Papiſts and Schiſmatikes are not good men, in pretending conſcience for their diſobedience to the Ciuill magiſtrate. For as a learned Father of our Church obſerues excellently: Tuta conſcientia preſtari poſſunt, que propter conſcientiam preſtanda ſunt: A man may doe that with a ſafe conſcience, which he muſt doe for conſcience.

Tribute to whom tribute] Soueraigne Sublimities on earth are Gods among men, in reſpect of their attributes and tributes. <sup>k</sup> Almighty God himſelfe expects and receiues at our hands his immediate rents, as prayer and thankſgiving; the reſt as tithes and tributes hee doth accept, being faithfully payed vnto his Stewards and Vice-greents. It is very remarkable that our Sauicur neuer did any miracle about honour or money, <sup>l</sup> except that one for giuing tribute to Caſar. <sup>m</sup> For, we muſt giue to Caſar, the things which appertaine to Caſar, honor to whom honor, tribute to whom tribute: but how much, is not defined by Chriſt or Paul. They leaue that (as <sup>n</sup> Biſhop Latimer obſerues) to Caſars Councell for to determine. Wherefore let all ſuch as are in commiſſion for the ſubſidie, remember that excellent ſpeech of <sup>o</sup> Saluianus: Illud indignius & pœnalius, quod omnium onus non omnes ſuſtinet, imò quod pauperculos homines tributa diuitem premunt, et infirmiores ferunt ſarcinas fortiorum, res diuerſiſſimas diſſimiliſſimãſq; patiuntur inſidiam & egeſtatem; inuidia eſt enim in ſolutione; egeſtas in ſacultate.

<sup>i</sup> Tortura Torti. pag. 70.

<sup>k</sup> Customers Alphabet by M. Thomas Milles.

<sup>l</sup> Mat. 17. 27.

<sup>m</sup> Mat. 22. 21.

<sup>n</sup> Ser. at Stanford.

<sup>o</sup> Lib 5. de gubernat. Dei.

The Goſpell. MATTH. 8. 23.

And when hee entred into a ſhip, his diſciples followed him, &c.

Saint Matthew reports in this Scripture two miracles, one wrought by Chriſt in the water, another on the land.

The firſt is both an }	Historic.

	Mysterie.

The word of God is a <sup>p</sup> two edged ſword; hauing one edge, ſaith <sup>q</sup> Tertullian in the ſenſe of the matter; and another in the ſound of the words; or (as <sup>r</sup> Ludouicus Vives obſerueth) being ſharpe in a literall expoſition, and ſharpe in an allegoricall ſenſe. Moſt Interpreters therefore note that the ſhip here mentioned, is a type of the <sup>t</sup> Church militant, toſſed in the world, which is moſt like the ſea, with ſtormes of perfecution, vntill Chriſt the Maſter of the ſhip, (who ſeemes to ſleepe for a time) doth awake by the prayers of paſſengers, and makes a calme.

In the ſtory two things are to be conſidered eſpecially: the }	shipping	}	of Chriſt.

	tailing

In his ſhipping two points obſervable:

}	1. That he entred himſelfe.
	2. That his diſciples followed him.

In ſailing two principall occurrences are to be noted alſo: the }	raging	}	of a tempeſt.

	ſtilling

The tempeſt is }	Sudden; Behold there aroſe.

	Great: ſo that the ſhip was covered with waues: and Chriſt (who was to comfort and helpe all) was aſleepe.

 ſayd here to be

- In the ſtilling of the tempeſt foure things are regardable:

}	1. Chriſt awaketh: his diſciples came, and awoke him, ſaying, Maſter ſaue vs, &amp;c.
	2. The Diſciples are rebuked: Why are yee fearefull, O yee of little faith?
	3. The tempeſt calmed: He rebuked the windes and the ſea.
	4. The beholders of this miracle wondred, ſaying, What manner of man is this, &amp;c.

Ieſus entred into a ſhip.] As the ſuperſtitious <sup>u</sup> Papiſts in latter dayes aſſigned ſenerall Saints for ſeuerall ſeruices; as Apollonia for the tooth-ach; for hogs, Saint Anthony; for horſes, Saint Loy; for Souldiers, Saint Maurice; for Seamen, Saint <sup>p</sup> Hebr. 4. 12.

<sup>q</sup> Lib. contra Praxeam.

<sup>r</sup> In Auguſtin. lib. 14. de ciuit. cap. 12.

<sup>t</sup> Conſule Lutheo. Melantli. Latimer Culman. in locum.

<sup>u</sup> Vide Pontan. in locum.

<sup>v</sup> D. Fulke in 1. Tim. 2. 5.

Saint Nicholas, &c. So the grosse idolatrous Heathen in old time, marshalled their Gods into feuerall ranks, allotting Heauen for Iupiter, Hell for Pluto, the Sea for Neptune.

Christ therefore to shew their <sup>x</sup> vanitie, and to manifest himselfe to be the sole Commander of the world; so soone as he had wrought miracles on the land in healing the leper, vers. 3. in curing the Centurions seruant, vers. 13. in casting out Deuills, vers. 16. in helping all that were sicke, vers. 17. he comes now (saith <sup>y</sup> Origen) to shew wonders on the Sea.

We need not then exhibit supplications either vnto the noe Gods of the Gentiles, or moe Gods of the Papiests, importuning the Virgin Mary for euery thing, <sup>z</sup> as if her sonne Iesus were still a babe, not able to helpe. For if we be Schollers, he is our Saint Gregorie, the God of a wisdome; if Souldiers, he is our Mars, the God of b Hosts; if wee desire to liue in quietnesse, he is the God of c peace; if Mariners, he is our Nicholas & Neptune, that enters into the ship, & calmes the tēpest. <sup>d</sup> If we ascend vp into heauen, he is there; if we descend downe into hell he is there also; if we take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the vitermost part of the Sea yet thither shall his hand lead vs, and his right hand hold vs: hauing all power ouer all things in all places, & doing what soeuer he will in heauen, earth, sea, Psal. 135. 6.

S. Matthew vers. 18. of this chapter, and S. Marke, chap. 4. vers. 36. intimate another reason why Christ entred into the ship: namely, to shun the multitudes of people: for as the Sun, though a most glorious creature, <sup>e</sup> oculus mundi, the worldseye, is regarded little, because it shineth euery day; so Ministers, the <sup>f</sup> light of the world, are eclipsed much by the grosse interposition of earth. It is true that familiaritie breeds contempt, and as true, <sup>g</sup> cuius persona despicitur, eius predicatio contemnitur; and therefore, <sup>h</sup> Clergie-men, as Christ here, must vpon occasions often withdraw themselues à turbâ turbulentiâ.

<sup>i</sup> Bartholomæus Anglicus mentioneth a Lake in Ireland, in which if a staffe be pight, and tarrieth any long time therein, the part that is in the earth, is turned to iron, and the part in the water stone, onely the part about the water remains in his owne kinde. So it is with Aarons rod, and with the Crozier staffe; if it sticke long in the common puddle, it will not diuide the waters aright, but become so rusty as iron, so stony, as flint; onely that rod is like it selfe, which is about the waters, about the streame, about the people. The vulgar is like Tapestrie, the further, the fairer, but the neerer you come, the worse they are. He that is pinned as a cognisance to the towne-coat, and depends vpon the common fleue, <sup>k</sup> pendet magis arbore quàm qui pendet ab altâ, is as base as a signe that hangs on a painted may-pole. Paul then had a good cause to desire that he might be deliuered from <sup>l</sup> vnreasonable men; and Christ here, to decline troublesome troopes, entring into a ship with his Disciples.

Our Sauiour Christ could haue walked on the water, as he did, Matth. 14. or elsedrie vp the water, as he did for the children of Israell, Exod. 14. but he did neither; for if he should haue vfed his omnipotent power in euery thing as God, no body would haue beleued him to be man; he did therefore take this course in the whole course of his life, to manifest both. If he were not God, whom did <sup>m</sup> Gabriel call Lord? If not man, whom did Mary beare in her wombe? If not God, whom did the <sup>n</sup> wisemen worship? If a man, whom did <sup>o</sup> Ioseph circumcise? If not God, who promised <sup>p</sup> Paradise to the theefe? If not man, who hanged on the Crosse? <sup>q</sup> If not God who rebuked the windes and the Seas? If not man, who slept in the ship? If not God, who raised the tempest? If not man, who went into this barke.

His Disciples followed him. A ship, as <sup>r</sup> Hilarie notes, doth fitly resemble the Church of Christ: for as a ship is small in the foredecke, broad in the middle, little in the sterne: so the Church in her beginning and infancy, was very little; in her middle age flourishing, but in her old age, her company shall be so small and her beleefe so weake, that when the Sonne of God shall come to iudge the sonnes of men, he shall scarce finde any faith on earth, Luk. 18. 8.

<sup>x</sup> Granat Dom.
<sup>3</sup> post Octu.
Epiphani. con. 2.

<sup>y</sup> Am. 6. in di- uers. script. loc.

<sup>z</sup> Erasmus Col-
loq. de peregrin.
Religionis et. ō.

<sup>2</sup> Dan. 2. 20.

<sup>b</sup> Esay 3. 1.

<sup>c</sup> H. b. 13. 20.

<sup>d</sup> Psal. 139. 7.

<sup>e</sup> Ouid.

<sup>f</sup> Matth 5. 14.

<sup>g</sup> Bernard. ser. 2.
de resurrectione Domini.

<sup>h</sup> Saarez. tract.
3. in 8. Matth.
<sup>i</sup> De proprietati- buz rerum lib.
15. cap. 80.

<sup>k</sup> Scaliger.

<sup>l</sup> Thes. 3. 2. ἀνοήτων ἀνθρώπων.

<sup>m</sup> Luke 1.

<sup>n</sup> Matth. 2.

<sup>o</sup> Luke 2.

<sup>p</sup> Luke 23.

<sup>q</sup> Origen. ubi supra, & Ludol- phus de vita
Christi. part. 1.
cap. 46.

<sup>r</sup> In Matth. cap.
13 & Possil. Ca- tholic. Dom. 5. post nat. con. 1.

It is observable, that Christ and his Disciples sailed all in one ship: he did enter in first, and his Disciples followed. Vnus mundus docet unum esse Deum: The world being but one, teacheth vs that there is but one God; one God, that there is but one Church; one Church, one truth: and therefore as the Church is called by Paul, Columna veritatis; so by Salomon, Columna unitatis. Cant. 6. 8. My Dove is alone.

Noahs Arke represents the Church: all in the Arke were saved, all out of the Arke perished. All that continue with Christ, in his ship are secure, though the Sea make a noise, and the stormes arise: but he that utterly forsakes the ship, and swims either in the cockboat of Heretickes, or vpon the windy bladders of his owne conceits, shall neuer touch the land of the liuing. As in Salomons Temple there were three roomes, the porch, the body, the sanctum sanctorum; so likewise in Christianity, we cannot enter into the holiest of holy, but by the Church, nor into the Church, but by the porch of Baptisme. First there must be shipping; then, sailing; last of all, arriuing. First, we must be shipt with Christ in baptisme; after, saile with him in the Pinnesse of the Church, or else we shall neuer anchor in the haven of happinesse.

S. Matthew doth vse the word follow, signanter; insinuating, that all Christs Disciples ought to follow him, as himselfe saith: ¶ If any will be my Disciple let him forsake himselfe, and take vp his crosse, and follow me.

Some in their high-towring thoughts and immoderate zeale, runne before Christ, as James and John: other goe cheeke by iole with him, as Pelugiens, and all such as mingle their merit with Christs mercy, making him but halfe a Mediator, mediatum, dimidiatum mediatorum. Other follow Christ, but a far off, as Peter, Mat. 26. 58. Other follow Christ neere, but not for Christ, not for loue but for leaues, as the people, Ioh. 6. 26. Few follow him in a troublesome sea, as the Disciples here.

The people followed him in the plaine, not vp to the mountaine, nor into, the Sea: but Christ leauing the multitude, would haue his company tossed in the waues of affliction, lest they should be puffed vp with presumption and pride.

Apollonius writes of certain people that could see nothing in the day, but all in the night. In like manner many men are so blinded with the sun-shine of prosperity, that they see nothing belonging vnto their good; but in the winter night of miserie, schola crucis, schola lucis: no such schoole-house as the crosse-house. The Palsitanian lying in his bed, desired to be brought vnto Christ. Ptolomæus Philadelphus, being so sickly, that he could not follow worldly delights as he was wont, gaue himselfe to reading, and builded that his renowned Library. The Disciples here seeing the wonders of the deepe, and dangers of the sea, were humbled in feare, and raised vp in faith.

And behold there arose a great tempest. Vntill Christ was in the ship, there was noe storme. While men haue pillowes sowed vnder their elbowes, all is peace; & but so soone as Christ rebukes the world of sinne, The wicked are like the raging Sea, that cannot rest, whose waters cast vp dirt and mire.

John Baptist raised such a storme by preaching against Herod, that it cost him his head. When Paul preached at Athens, Corinth, Ephesus, &c. there followed alway tumults and vprores among the people. When Luther first preached the Gospell, instantly there was great thundring from Rome, a great tempest in Germanie, France, England, Scotland, and in the whole Christian world, which all the Popes Bulls and Calnes too, could not appease.

This storme was not by chance, but raised by Gods providence, who brings the windes out of his treasures, Psal. 135. 7. and the tempest was great, that the miracle might be great: the greater the tempest, the greater was the tryal of the Disciples faith.

In so much that the ship was covered with waues. The Church is often in danger, but it cannot be drowned; hell gates cannot overcome it. Robur fidei concussum, non excussum. Albeit Satan goe about daily like a roaring Lion seeking

<sup>f</sup> Pontan. in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Arrian. goras
o. ar. præ Christi anis.

<sup>a</sup> 1 Tim. 3. 15.

<sup>x</sup> Ambros. ser.
11 & Cyprian.
Epist. lib. 1 Ep. 6.

<sup>y</sup> Mat 16. 14.

<sup>z</sup> Luke 9. 54.

<sup>a</sup> Dirz. con. 1. in
locum.

<sup>b</sup> Thom ex Chry-sost in loc.
<sup>c</sup> In mi. ab. lib. 1
lib. 1.

<sup>d</sup> Zupper in loc.
<sup>e</sup> Matth 9
<sup>f</sup> Alexander ab
Alexandre, lib. 1.
cap. 2.

<sup>g</sup> Luther. post. l.
<sup>h</sup> Culm in con.
1. in locum
<sup>i</sup> Elay 57. 20.

<sup>i</sup> Aquin Ludolphus, Beauxamis
in locum

<sup>k</sup> Origen. in Cal.
tom in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Ludolphus & Pontan in loc.

<sup>m</sup> Mat. 16. 18.

<sup>n</sup> Terullian

seeking whom he may deuoure, yet there shall be some still, whom he shall not deuoure.

He was asleepe.] ° Hee that keepeth Israel doth neither slumber nor sleepe. Hee did sleepe as man, but watch as God. ¶ I sleepe, but mine heart waketh. ¶ He seemes only to sleepe, that wee might wake: ⁱ nobis dormit Iesus, nobis surgit a somno. ¶ Christus videtur non attendere, patientiam bonorum, patientiam impiorum expectans. He doth as it were neglect vs for a t. me, for the greater manifestation of his ⁱ power, and our patience.

His disciples came to him and awoke him. Almighty God likes in our necessitie this importunitie: Psal. 50. 15. Call vpon me in the time of trouble. Psal. 91. 15. He shall call vpon me, and I will heare him. And therefore learne by this example, ⁱ to come to Christ, to cry to Christ in all extremity, renouncing your selues, and relying vpon him only: Master saue vs, or else we perish.

He sayd vnto them why are yee fearefull, o yee of little faith?] * It was great faith in that they followed Christ into the ship; but little faith in that they feared.

ⁱ He saith not, O yee of faith, but O yee of little faith. It was impossible to come vnto God, and call vpon Christ without faith; in saying, wee perish, they shewed infidelitie; but in praying, saue vs, they manifested faith.

Againe, hee doth not say: ⁱ yee of little courage, or yee of little charity: but yee of little faith: because faith is the ground of all other vertues, and in ⁱ aduersity most vsfull. If we belcene that Christ is our Captaine in the ship with vs, who can be against vs? And therefore Paul, Ephes. 6. 16. Above all, put on the shield of faith, wherewith ye may quench all the fiery darts of the Deuill.

Then hee arose and rebuked the winds and the Sea.] Christ reprehends the disciples a little, but instantly grants their requests: his reprehensions had not so much sting as ⁱ honie, for a great calme followed a little chiding: ⁱ at his word the stormy winde ariseth, which listeth vp the waues of the sea: They are carried vp to heauen, and downe againe to the deepe: their soule melteth away because of the trouble. They reele to and fro, and stagger like a drunken man, and are at their wits end. But when they cry to the Lord in their trouble, he deliuereth them out of their distresse: for he maketh the storme to cease, so that the waues thereof are still.

A great calme followed a great tempest: ⁱ Decet enim magnum magna facere Christ spake but one word to the violent windes and unruly seas, and they both obeyed his command. ° He doth at sundry times and in diuers manners speake to vs, and yet wee will not harken vnto his voice. ¶ The spectators of this act might therefore wonder to see the senselesse water and weather obey more then man, indued with reason and religion.

The men marueiled.] § Ideo premantur iusti, vt pressi clament, clamantes exaudiantur, exauditi glorificent Deum; A great storme caused in the disciples a great feare: great feare, great deuotion: great deuotion occasioned Christ to worke this great miracle, this great miracle moued this great admiration: What is this man that commands as a God.

And when he was come to the other side.] Two points are to be considered in this miracle principally: the Gratioufnesse of Christ, in curing two possessed of deuills. Vngratioufnesse of the Gergesites, preferring a peece of bacon before the Gospell, hoggs before Christ. Such as respect their tithe pigge, more then their Pastor, are Gergesites and deserue that Christ should depart out of their coasts.

I will not in particular examine these, but in stead thereof, insert a few notes vpon the last verse of the first Chapter, appointed to be read at morning prayer this Sunday: preached at Pauls Crosse. Ian. 29. 1608.

° Psal. 121. 4.

¶ Cant. 5. 2.

ⁱ Thomas ex

Origen. in loc.

° Emiffenus

hom. in locum.

ⁱ Ludolphus in

locum.

ⁱ Zepperus in

locum.

ⁱ Luther. postil.

maior in loc.

ⁱ Cushman. con.

1. in locum.

ⁱ Theophylact.

in locum.

See B. Latymer

serm. in locum.

ⁱ Pontanus in

locum.

ⁱ Meland in

locum.

ⁱ Zepperus in

locum.

° Psal. 107. 25.

ⁱ Thom. in loc.

° Hebr. 1. 1.

ⁱ Origen hom.

6. in diuersos

scripture locos.

ⁱ Ludolphus ex

Augustin.

ESAY. 57. 21.

There is no peace to the wicked, saith my God.

THis text is a proclamation of warre against the wicked, enemies to God and his Gospell, wherein obserue the { Thing proclaimed: No peace to the wicked. An heauy doome, whether we consider the time, the matter, or the men: for there is no time, no peace, no wicked, (if impenitent) excepted.

{ Prophet, as Herald.
 { Person proclaiming: the } Lord, as chiefe } Able to make this warre, because God.
 { Commander, } Willing to maintaine this warre, because my God.

This sentence would not be so grieuous, if it were not so generall, if any wicked man at any time could enioy any kinde of peace: but the proposition is an vniuersall negatiue; Non est pax impijs.

Our and other translations haue it not in the time past, non erat, there was no peace; nor in the future, non erit, there shall be no peace; but in the present, there is no peace. Or as it is in the originall indefinitely without a verbe, naming no time, that we might feare this iudgement at all times: <sup>h</sup> Cognatum, imo innatum omni sceleri sceleris supplicium. In the words of S. i Paul, the wages of sinne is death; as the worke is ready, so the pay present, nec aufertur, nec deseritur; if impietie, no impunitie; When sinne is <sup>k</sup> finished, it hath his hire; <sup>l</sup> scelus aliquis tutum, nemo securum tulit.

If we consider a wicked man out of <sup>m</sup> Christ, he hath neither here peace of grace, nor hereafter peace of glory; but as he passeth from sinne to sinne, hee goeth as it were from deuil to deuil, euen from hell to hell, from the flashes to the flame, from hell internall, to hell eternall.

As this includes all time, so likewise excludes all peace. For albeit <sup>n</sup> Harding found a great difference betweene no bread, and not bread; yet Interpreters here make no difference betweene not peace, and no peace. For the wicked haue no peace with man, no peace with God, no peace with themselves. None with man: for it is sayd in the verse before my text, The wicked are like the raging sea, whose waters cast up dirt and mire. They are of their owne nature turbulent; but if wee stirre them a little, then they fume and foame like the sea, both actiue (saith <sup>o</sup> Musculus) and passive, being neither peace-makers nor peace-takers.

For nature and Scripture tell vs plainly, that righteousnesse is elder sister to peace. So sayd <sup>p</sup> Aristotle Natures chiefe Secretarie, that agreement in euill is not loue, but conspiracy. So Dauid, a man after Gods owne heart, and a penner of Gods owne will, <sup>q</sup> institia & pax osculata sunt; righteousnesse and peace haue kissed each other. As Augustine vpon the place, fiat institia & habebis pacem, if thou wilt haue peace, worke righteousnesse; first eschew euill, and doe good, then seeke peace, and insue it: Psal. 34. 13. Nay, you need not seeke it, for it will finde you; peace will come of it selfe to kisse righteousnesse. On the contrary, no truth no mercy; where there is no loue of good, there can bee no good of loue; no true friendship; except it be <sup>r</sup> Christi glutino copulata, glewed together in Christ; a man can hardly be a true friend to any, that is not first truly friend to truth it selfe.

It was an excellent speech of <sup>s</sup> Constantinus. How can they bee faithfull vnto their Prince, who are perfidious and vnfaithfull vnto their God? I tell thee faith <sup>t</sup> Augustine to Martianns, albeit you were mine old acquaintance, yet neuer my friend vntill you were my louer in Christ.

And therefore when <sup>u</sup> Iehoram sayd vnto Iehu. Is it peace, Iehu replied; what peace, while the whoredomes of thy mother Iezabel, and her witchcrafts, are yet in great number? What <sup>v</sup> fellowship hath righteousnesse with vnrighteousnesse; what <sup>h</sup> Lipsius de constantia, lib. 2. cap. 13.

<sup>i</sup> Rom. 6. 23
<sup>k</sup> Iam 1. 15.
<sup>l</sup> Seneca in Hippolito
<sup>m</sup> Hugo Cardinal. in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Reioynder. pag. 163.

<sup>o</sup> In loc.

<sup>p</sup> Ethic lib. 8. ap. 4. 8.
<sup>q</sup> Psal. 35. 10.

<sup>r</sup> Hieron. Epist Paul. tom. 3. fol. 1.
<sup>s</sup> Euseb. de vita Constant. lib. 1. cap. 11.
<sup>t</sup> Epist. 155.

<sup>u</sup> 2. Kings 9.

<sup>v</sup> 2. Cor. 6. 14

<sup>a</sup> Apoc. 13. 7.

what communion hath light with darknesse? what concord hath Christ with Beliall? as Ismael that was borne after the flesh, persecuted Isaac that was borne after the spirit, euen so it is now, saith Paul, Galat. 4. 29. The <sup>x</sup> Dragon and his Armie, will fight against Michael and his Angells.

It is then an idle phantasie to dreame of an vnity with the Papists, of an vniformity with the Schismatickes: for so long as the one is an enemy to truth, and the other an enemy to peace; so long as both are set on mischief, combined in faction, howsoeuer different in faith, I must tell you from Esay, and Esay from the Lord, There is no peace to the wicked.

<sup>7</sup> Lib. ad Hierogres.
<sup>2</sup> Luther, loc. com. Tu de consiliatoribus.

Pax nostrabellum contra Satanum (saith <sup>7</sup> Tertullian) our peace is a continuall warfare against Satan and his complices. As Christ, so the <sup>2</sup> Church must suffer and overcome in medio inimicorum, in the midst of of all our enemies. Psal. 110. 2

The builder of Gods house must haue a trowell in one hand, and a sword in another, Nehem. 4. 17.

<sup>a</sup> Thomas 2. 2. quæst. 29. a. 1. 1

And here let not the carnall Gospeller hold himselfe exempted, in being of no side: for pax, (as the <sup>a</sup> Schoole speakes) is tranquillitas ordinata: Goodnesse is ωταξία, wickednesse: αταξία: where there is no order, there can be no peace, but a Babel of confusion: howsoeuer worldlings account the drunkard a good-fellow, the fornicator a kinde man, the flaterer a louing soule; yet the truth is, there is no peace in things that are wicked, and therefore no peace with men that are wicked. And as they can haue no peace with the godly, so but little agreement among themselues: <sup>b</sup> Ephraim is against Manasses, and Manasses against Ephraim, and both against Juda. The Pharisees against the Sadduces, and the Sadduces against the Pharisees; both against Christ. The Pelagians against the Manichees, add the Manichees against the Pelagians; both against the Catholikes. The Pope against the Turke, the Turke against the Pope, and both against the truth.

<sup>c</sup> Esa. 12. 2.

<sup>d</sup> Esa. 21. 3.

All the vices are iarring in extremity, couetousnesse fighting against prodigality, basenesse against pride, rashnesse against dastardy; nay, many times, <sup>c</sup> Egyptians are set against Egyptians; and birds of a feather doe not alway flie together; for the <sup>d</sup> transgressor is against the transgressor, and the destroyer against the destroyer: a drunkard will stab a drunkard, a theefe rob a theefe, a traitor proue false to a traitor, proditoris proditor, one wicked wretch is executioner of another.

<sup>e</sup>

They be so far from the peace betweene man and man, as that they want the loue which is betweene beast and beast: for if one sheepe be faint, the rest will stand betweene it and the Sunne, till it be comforted; if one hog hunted, the whole herd will muster together to reuenge it: of Bees it is reported, agrotante unâ, lamentantur omnes, if one sicke, all sorry: yea some beasts are more kinde to man, than mankinde. In humanie story we read of gratefull Lions, of kinde Eagles, of trusty Dogs, qui mori pro dominis, & commori cum dominis parati; saith Ambrose, in his <sup>e</sup> Hexameron.

<sup>f</sup> Lib 6. cap. 4.
<sup>f</sup> 1 King. 17.
<sup>g</sup> Dan 6. 22.
<sup>h</sup> Cyprian. ser de orat. dominic.

In holy Bible, wee finde that <sup>f</sup> Eliah was fed by Rauens; and <sup>g</sup> Daniel not hurt among hungry Lyons. <sup>h</sup> O detestandum humanae malitiæ crudelitatem! aues pascunt; fere parcunt; homines sciunt. O hatefull cruelty! the birds feed, the beasts fauour; but one man is a wolfe, yea a deuill to another. In this the wicked resemble <sup>i</sup> God, that they neither slumber nor sleepe, but like the <sup>k</sup> deuill, in that they watch as the theefe to spoyle and destroy, seeking whom they may deuoure, <sup>i</sup> Pet. 5. 8. For to render good for euill is the part of a Saint: to render good for good, the part of a man: to render euill for euill, the part of a beast; but to render euill for good, only the part of a deuill. And yet such is the fashion of the wicked, imagining mischief in their hearts, and stirring up strife all the day long: Their throat is an open sepulchre; the poison of Aspes is under their lips: Their mouth is full of cursing and bitterness, their feete are swift to shed blood, their teeth are speares and arrowes, and their tongue a sharpe sword. More sharpe (quoth <sup>m</sup> Bernard) than the speare which pierced our Sauiours sweet side. For this doth not onely

<sup>i</sup> Psa 121. 4.
<sup>k</sup> Iohn, 10. 10.

<sup>l</sup> Psa. 20. 20

Ser de triplici custodia.

onely wound Christs mysticall body, but also disinember it, in the Common-weale making so many factions, as there are functions; in the Church, so many Creeds, as heads: as the same Father sweetly; Non iam exanime fodit, sed facit exanime fodiendo: Longinus thrust thorow a body that was dead, but the wicked a body that is quicke. <sup>n</sup> Destruction and unhappinesse is in all their wayes, and the way of peace haue they not knowne: in their bed appointed for rest, they plot how to be turbulent (as the <sup>o</sup> Prophet speakes) they travell with mischief, and bring forth vngodlinesse. In a word, these are the troublers of Israel, thornes in our eyes, pricks in our sides, bellowes and brands of sedition, hating the good, not louing the bad; crossing themselves, at warre with all. There is no peace to the wicked, saith my God.

n Psal. 14. 7.

o Psal. 7. 15.

The second kinde of peace is betweene God and man, our reconciliation to God by the mediation of Christ, who is our peace. So the Glosse interlineall, and other Expositors generally, there is no peace, that is, no Christ to the wicked. The Scripture tels vs, how that we were the sonnes of wrath, enemies of God, fire-brands of hell, aliants from the Common-wealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise. But Christ God and man, and therefore most fit to be the Mediator <sup>q</sup> betweene the mortall sinner and immortall Iudge, dying for our sinnes, and rising againe for our justification, is peace to them that are farre off, and peace to them that are neere, saith the Lord in this Chapter. That is, as the Fathers <sup>r</sup> expound it, peace to the Gentiles as farre off, and peace to the Iewes that are neere.

p Ephes. 2. 14

q August. in conf. lib. 10. c. 43

r Hieron. in loc. ex Paul. Ephes 2. 17.

This one blessed Peace-maker hath made attonement for both, and appeareth in the sight of God daily, to plead our pardon as a faithfull Intercessour and Aduocate, in whom only God is well pleased, and without whom God is no hearing God, no helping God, no sauing God, no louing God to vs at all.

And without faith, the Gospell is no Gospell, the Sacraments are no Sacraments, Christ is no Christ. Faith is <sup>s</sup> Iohn the Baptist, shewing the Lambe of God, which taketh away the sinnes of the world: yea Saint Thomas, first handling, then applying the wounds of Christ, even the spirituall hand that putts on Christs robe of righteounesse.

s Church hom. of salvation, part 2.

The wicked then hauing no true faith, haue no true Christ; and hauing no true Christ, they can haue no true peace with God: the grace of our Lord in redeming, the loue of God in electing, the fellowship of the holy Ghost in comforting, is farre from them: so long as they continue in their sinnes and vnbellefe, so long they be traitours, enemies, rebels vnto the King of all Kings: he proclaimes warre, and they can haue no peace.

t Esay. 5.

Thinke on this, yee that forgett God. <sup>u</sup> Yee that joine house to house, and lay field to field, till there be no place for other in the land: yee that rise up early to follow drunkennesse, and are mighty to powre in strong drinke. Yee that speake good of euill, and euill of good; which put light for darkenesse, and darkenesse for light, &c. <sup>v</sup> Agree with your aduersarie quickly, while you are in the way: <sup>w</sup> seeke the Lord while he may be found, and call upon him while he is nigh. <sup>x</sup> O Ierusalem, Ierusalem, thou that killest the Prophets, and stonest them that are sent vnto thee. <sup>y</sup> Suffer the words of exhortation: <sup>z</sup> harden not your heart, but <sup>a</sup> euen in this day heare the voice of the <sup>b</sup> Crier; confesse thy rebellion, and come in to the Lord thy God; <sup>c</sup> for he is gentle, patient, and of much mercie: desire of him to create in thee a new heart, and to giue thee one drop of a lively faith, on dram of holy deuotion, a desire to <sup>d</sup> hunger and thirst after righteounesse. Suffer not thine eyes to sleepe, nor thine eye lids to take any rest, untill thine <sup>e</sup> vnrighteousnesse is forgiven, and sinne couered, vntill thy peace be made with God, and thy pardon sealed. O pray, pray, that thou maist haue this peace. O pray, pray, that thou maist feele this peace: for it is the third kinde, the peace of conscience betweene man and himselfe.

u Mat 5. 25.

x Esai 55. 6.

y Mat. 23. 37.

z Heb. 13. 22

a Psal. 95. 8.

b Luc. 19. 42.

c Iohn 1. 23.

d Ioel 2. 13.

e Psal. 51. 10.

f Mat. 5. 6.

g Psal. 23. 1.

<sup>h</sup> Lib de conscientiâ, sect. 2.
fol. 1784.

There are foure kinds of conscience, as <sup>h</sup> Bernard hath well obserued :

1. A good, but not a quiet.
2. A quiet, but not a good.
3. Both good and quiet.
4. Neither good nor quiet.

The two good belong properly to the godly ; the two bad vnto the wicked, whose conscience is either too too quiet, or else too too much vnquiet; in neither peace: Non est gaudium impijs, as the Translators of the Septuagintz read, Non est i gaudere impijs, There is no ioy to the wicked. Sometime their conscience is too too quiet, as <sup>k</sup> Paul speakes, euen seared with a hot iron, when habit of sinne takes away the sense of sinne, when as men are past feeling, in a reprobate sense, giuen ouer to worke all vncleanness euen with greedinesse: Ephes. 4. 19.

<sup>i</sup> Em, Sa. notat.
in loc.
<sup>k</sup> 1. Tim. 4. 2.

This is no peace, but numnesse of, yea a dumnesse of conscience. For at the first euery mans conscience speakes vnto him, as <sup>l</sup> Peter to Christ; Master looke to thy selfe: Her prick-arrows, as the shafts of <sup>m</sup> Ionathan, forwarne David of the great Kings displeasure: but if we neglect her call, and will not lend our eares while she doth spend her tongue, this good Cassandra will crie no more.

<sup>i</sup> Mat. 16. 22.
<sup>n</sup> 1. Sam. 20.

Now it fareth with the maladies of the minde, as it is with the sicknesse of the body. When the pulse doth not beat, the body is in a most dangerous estate: so if conscience never prick vs for sinne, it is a manifest signe our soules are lulled in a deadly sleepe. That Schoole will soone decay, where the mouitor doth not complaine; that armie must necessarily be subiect to surprize, where watches and alarums are not exactly kept; that towne is dissolute, where no clocks are vsed: so likewise our little citie is in great perill, when our conscience is still and sleepe, quiet but not good; tunc maxime oppugnaris, si nescis oppugnari: saith <sup>n</sup> Hierome to Helidore: None so desperately sicke, as they who feele not their disease. Saint <sup>o</sup> Augustine notably: Quid miserius misero non miserante seipsuno? and <sup>p</sup> Bernard; Ideo dolet charitas mea, quod cum sis dolendus, non doleas; & inde magis miseretur, quod cum miser sis, miserabilis tamen non es: and <sup>q</sup> Hierome to Sabinian; Hoc plango, quod te non plangis.

<sup>n</sup> Tom. 1. fol. 2.
<sup>o</sup> Confess. lib. 1.
cap. 13.
<sup>p</sup> Epist. 2.
<sup>q</sup> Tom. 1. fol. 233

<sup>r</sup> Luke 11. 21.

<sup>r</sup> When the strong man armed keepes his hold, the things that are possessed are in peace. Where Diuines obserue, that vngodly men already possessed with Satan, are not a whit disquieted with his temptations. As God is at open war, so the deuill is at secret peace with the wicked: but yet, saith <sup>t</sup> Hierome, tranquillitas ista tempestas est: This calme of conscience will one day proue a storme. For as God said vnto <sup>c</sup> Cain; If thou doest ill, sinne lieth at the doore. Where wickednesse is compared to a wild beast, which dogs a man wheresoener he goeth in this wildernesse. And albeit for a time it may seeme harmles, for that it lieth asleepe, yet at length, except men vnfaignedly repent, it will rise vp and rent out the very throat of their soules. A guilty conscience being once roused and awaked thorowly, will make them like those who lye on a bed that is too strait, and the couering too short, who would with all their heart sleepe, but cannot; they seeke for peace of mind, but there is no peace to the wicked, saith my God.

<sup>t</sup> Ad Heliodor.
de vita eremit.
<sup>c</sup> Gen. 4. 7.

As the conscience was heretofore too too quiet, so now too too much vnquiet. As godly men haue the first fruits of the Spirit, and certaine tastes of heauenly ioyes in this life; so the wicked on the contrarie feele certaine flashings of hell flames on earth. As there is heauen on earth, and heauen in heauen; so hell on earth, and hell in hell: an <sup>u</sup> outward hell, and an inward; outward, in outward darknesse mentioned in holy Scripture, where there shall be <sup>x</sup> weeping and gnashing of teeth; at this feast (as Bishop <sup>y</sup> Latimer wittily) there can be no mirth where weeping is serued in for the first course, gnashing of teeth for the second.

<sup>u</sup> Carthusian in
3. sent. dist. 22.
<sup>x</sup> Mat. 25. 30.
<sup>y</sup> Ser. ad clericum to the Conuoca-tion.

Inward hell is an infernall tormenting of the soule, voyd of hope, faith and loue: this hell the deuills haue alwaies in them, and reprobate forlorne people carry about them, inso much that they can neither disport themselues abroad, nor please themselves at home; neither comforted in company, nor quieted alone, but in all places and times, Erymis conscientie, (so <sup>2</sup> Melancthon calls it) hellish hags and infernal furies affright them.

<sup>a</sup> Augustine in his enarration of the 45. Psal. thus lively describes the wofull estate of a despairing sinner: Fugiet ab agro ad ciuitatem, à publico ad domum, à domo in cubiculum: He runs as a mad-man out of the field into the citie, out of the citie into his house; from the common roomes in his house to his chamber, from his chamber into his studie, from his studie to the secret closet of his owne heart: & ecce hostem suum inuenit, quo confugerat, seipsum quo fugiturus est: and then last of all, he is content least of all, himselfe being greatest enemy to himselfe.

The blinde man in the <sup>b</sup> Gospell newly recouering his sight, imagined trees to be men; and the Burgundians (as <sup>c</sup> Comineus reports) expecting a battell, supposed long thistles to be launces: so the wicked in the darke, conceit every thistle to be a tree, every tree a man, every man a deuill, afraid of euery thing they see; yea, many times of that they doe not see.

<sup>d</sup> Polydore Virgil writes that Richard the 3. had a most terrible dreame, the night before Bosworth field, in which he was slaine: he thought all the deuills in hell halled and pulled him in hideous and vgly shapes. Id credo non fuit somnium, sed conscientia scelerum; I suppose (saith Polydore) that was not a fained dreame, but a true torture of his conscience, presaging a bloody day both to himselfe, and all his followers.

The penner of the Latine Chronicle, de vitis Archiepiscoporum Cantuariensium, in the life of Archbishop Hubert, records a will of a couetous oppressor in this forme: Lego omnia bona mea domino Regi, corpus sepultura, animam a tabole. The godly mans will alway runnes in this stile:

Terram terra tegat, demon peccata resumat, Mundus res habeat, spiritus astra petit.

I bequeath my body that is earthly to the earth, my sinnes which are deuilish vnto the deuill, my goods that are worldly, to the world, my soule that is heauenly to heauen: but this vnhappy wretch in great dispaire yeldded vp his coine to the King, whom he had deceiued and his soule to the deuill whom he had serued.

It is written by <sup>e</sup> Procopius, that Theodoricus, as he was at supper, imagined he saw in a fishes head the visage of Symmachus a Noble man, whom he had vniustly slaine; with which imagination he conceiued such terrour, as that he neuer after enjoyed one good houre, but pining away ended his vnforgotten daies.

Cardinall <sup>f</sup> Crescentius, the Popes Vicegerent in the Chapter of Trent, on a time writing long letters vnto Rome; full of mischief against the Protestants and cause of Religion, had a sudden conceit that the deuill in the likenesse of a huge dogge, walked in his chamber, and couched vnder his table, the which affrighted him so much, as that notwithstanding the counsell and comfort both of friends and Physitians, he died a disconsolate death.

To conclude this argument, the deuill Indas out of the hell of his conscience, was Bailiffe, Jailor, Witnesse, Iurie, Iudge, Sheriffe, Deaths-man in his owne execution.

Thus as you see, the wicked haue no peace with man, no peace with God, no peace with themselves. The very name of peace betweene man and man is sweet, it selfe more sweet, <sup>h</sup> like the pretious ointment vpon the head of Aaron, that ranne downe vnto his beard, and from his beard to the skirts of his clothing. Yet the peace of conscience is farr sweeter, a <sup>i</sup> continuall feast, a daily Christmas vnto the good man; as the rich Epicure, Luke 16. so the godly fareth deliciouly every day. The man that trusteth in the Lord is fat, saith <sup>k</sup> Salomon, he feeds himselfe on the mercies of God, and merits of Christ. And so the peace of God passeth all these: for it passeth all vnderstanding, without which one gift all other are rather curses then blessings vnto vs. As <sup>l</sup> Cyrril excellently,

<sup>2</sup> Comment. in
1. Cor. 11.

<sup>a</sup> Tom. 8. fol.
286.

<sup>b</sup> Marke 8. 24.
<sup>c</sup> Lib. 1. cap. 11.

<sup>d</sup> Anglican. hi.
flor. lib. 25.

<sup>e</sup> Lanquet.
Chron. fol. 146.

<sup>f</sup> Slidan com. lib. 23. in fine.

<sup>g</sup> Cic.
<sup>h</sup> Psal. 133.

<sup>i</sup> Prou. 15. 15.

<sup>k</sup> Prou. 2. 8. 25.

<sup>l</sup> Cyrril. Alex. and
in loc.

<sup>a</sup> Luke 2. 25.

<sup>a</sup> Zachar. 9. 9.

Domino primario suo gaudio, quod esse potest gaudium? It is the <sup>m</sup> consolation of Israel and solace of the Church: <sup>n</sup> Reioice greatly ô daughter Sion, shout for ioy ô daughter Hierusalem, for behold thy King commeth vnto thee. That God is our God, that Christ is our Christ, that the King of al Kings is our King, that he is reconciled vnto vs, and we to him, is a ioy surpassing all ioyes, a iubilation as the Scripture terms it, which can neither be suppressed, nor yet expressed sufficiently.

How wretched then are the wicked in being debarred of all this sweet<sup>e</sup> of all this exultation, of all these iubilees of ioy? for if they can haue no peace abroad, no peace at home, no peace with themselues, no peace with other, no peace with man, no peace with God; assuredly the proposition is most true, There is no peace to the wicked.

<sup>o</sup> Mark. 10. 18

Yea but you will say, there is none good except God; all of vs are gone astray: if we say we haue no sinne, the truth of God is not in vs. Of what kind of wicked is this then vnderstood? Answer is made, that this only concernes incorrigible, malicious, impenitent, senselesse sinners. For when once men feele their sinnes, and repent for their sinnes, greewing much because they can greewe no more; then in such as <sup>p</sup> sinne aboundeth, grace superaboundeth, <sup>q</sup> all things worke for their good; euen sinne which is damnable to other, is profitable to them, occasioning <sup>r</sup> repentance, neuer to be repented. Remember the speech of God to Rebecca; The greater shall serue the lesser. Albeit our spirituall enemies are stronger, and our sins greater then we, yet they shall serue for our good, the greater shall serue the lesse. God who can bring sweet out of sowre, and light out of darkenesse, shall likewise bring good out of euill.

<sup>p</sup> Rom. 5. 20.

<sup>q</sup> Rom. 8. 18.

<sup>r</sup> 2. Cor. 7. 10.

<sup>s</sup> Luther. loc. com. tit. de vult. neribus conscientie.

<sup>t</sup> Rom. 12. 18.

<sup>u</sup> Ephes. 4. 3.

Such offenders haue peace with men, so far<sup>t</sup> as is possible with all men, v endeavouring to keepe the vnitie of the spirit in the bond of peace.

Secondly, being iustified by faith, they haue peace toward God in Christ Rom. 5. 1.

Lastly, Christ dwelling in their heart, they want not peace of conscience, but abound with ioy in the holy Ghost: Rom. 14. 17.

When sinners are rather passiue then actiue in sinne, when it is rather done on them, then of them, albeit their conscience accuse them of the fact, yet it doth not condemne them of the fault: and so there is all kinde of peace to the penitent, no kinde of peace to the wicked impenitent, faith my God.

Hitherto concerning the thing proclaimed: I come now to the person proclaiming, in these words, faith my God. The subordinate proclaimer is Esai; the principall God himselfe.

<sup>x</sup> Iohn 1. 23.

As heertofore the Prophet, so now the Preacher is not only the mouth of God as Luther calls him; but as Iohn Baptist said of himselfe, The very voice of God. For albeit we speake, yet it is Christ who by vs and in vs calleth vnto you: 2. Cor. 5. 20. See Epist. Dom. 3. and Gospell, Dom. 1. and 4. in aduent.

<sup>y</sup> Bullenger in loc.

If then the Lord hath said it, y let no man doubt of it: Heauen and earth shall passe, but not a iot of his word shall passe: he is not like man, that he should lie, or like the Sonne of man, that he should deceiue. Yea, that we might the better obserue it, Almighty God hath spoken once and twise, as it is in the 62. Psalme. For the Lord hath made this proclamation once before in the 48. chapter, at the last verse. So that as <sup>z</sup> Augustine in the like case, Verba toties inculcata, vera sunt, viuua sunt, sana sunt, plana sunt. One text repeated twise, pressed againe and againe, must needs be plaine and peremptorie: And assuredly (beloued) if we further examine the person of this Chiefe, we shall finde him able to make this warre, because God; and willing to maintaine this warre because my God. Hee is stiled elswhere the Lord of hosts, and therefore all creatures as his warriors, are ready pressed to reuenge his quarrels, and to fight his bartels. His souldiers against the wicked, are either celestiall, or terrestriall, all the creatures in heauen and on earth. In the beginning God created the heauen and the earth, Gen. 1. and all that therein is, Exod. 23. And in this acception, according to the Bible, which is a lanterne vnto our feete, and a guide vnto our our paths, I finde three heavens, as Paul saith, he was taken vp into the a third heaven :

<sup>z</sup> De adulterinis coniugijs ad Polentium, lib. 2. cap. 4.

The { 1. Airie.
 2. Starrie.
 3. Glorious.

Airie heaven is all the space from vs vnto the firmament : so the birds which flie betweene vs and the starres are called in holy writ, the fowles of <sup>b</sup> heauen.
 In this heauen are meteors, haile, winde, raine, snow, thunder, lightning, all which are at Gods absolute command, to serue such as serue him, and to fight against them that fight against him. As when the wicked old world was filled with crueltie, The windowes of <sup>c</sup> heauen were opened, and the raine was upon the earth fortie daies and fortie nights; insomuch, that this one souldier of the Lord destroyed all his enemies, euery thing that was vpon the earth from man to beast :
 onely Noah, Gods holy seruant, remained, and they that were with him in the Arke, whom the raine did not hurt, but rather helpe : for the deeper the flood, the safer the ship : the water had peace with Noah and his company, but open warre with all the rest of that old world.

So likewise the Lord out of heauen rained fire and brimstone vpon the <sup>d</sup> Sodomites ; and hailestones out of heauen vpon the cursed Amorites at Behoron, and they were moe, saith the <sup>e</sup> text, that died with the haile, then they whom the children of Israel slew with the sword.

But what need we looke so farre ? The great winde <sup>f</sup> this yeere, the <sup>g</sup> great frost the last yeere, sensibly demonstrate this point. What a wracke on the sea, what a worke on the earth occasioned by the one ? What a dearth, and so by consequence, what a death ensued vpon the other ? if God cast forth his ice like morsels, who is able to abide his frost ? Psal. 147. 17.

To step higher, the second heauen is the firmament, caelum quasi coelatum, because it is ingrauen, and as it were enameled with glorious lights, as Moses in the first of Genesis, God made two great lights, the greater to rule the day, the lesse to gouerne the night : he made also the starres, and placed them in the firmament of heauen.

Now this heauen <sup>h</sup> declares the glory of God, and the firmament shewes his handy worke : though they want vnderstanding and are dumbe, yet they trumpet forth his worthy praises in such sort, that there is neither speech nor language, but their voice is heard among them. And as they speake for God as schollers, so they fight also for God as souldiers ; for the starres in their course fought against Sisera : Iudges 5. 20. and when Duke Iosua fought against the wicked Amorites, he said in the sight of Israel ; Sunne, stay thou in Gibeon and thou Moone in the ualley of Aialon ; and the Sunne abode, and the Moone stood still, vntill the people of God auenged themselues vpon their enemies ; the Sun abode, and hastened not to goe downe for a whole day : Iosua 10. 13.

<sup>i</sup> O Lord our gouernour, how excellent is thy name in all the world ! When I consider the heauens, euen the workes of thy hands, the Sunne and the Moone which thou hast ordeined, what is man, that thou art so mindfull of him ? or the sonne of man that thou shouldst thus regard and guard him ? The third heauen is called by Philosophers, empyreum : by Diuines, the glorious heauen : by <sup>k</sup> Scriptures, heauen of heauens, or heauen about the visible heauens. In this heauen Al- mighty God hath two sorts of tall warriours : { Angels.

 Saints.

Angels are <sup>l</sup> heauenly souldiers, ministring spirits of God, instruments of his mercie toward the good ; executioners of his iudgements vpon the bad.
 When Iosua was about to sacke Iericho, an <sup>m</sup> Angell appeared vnto him as a Captaine with a drawne sword to fight for his people. When Zenacherib and his innumerable host came against Israel, the Angell of the Lord in one night slew one hundred, eighty and five thousand : 2. Kings 19. The first borne of Egypt, slaine by an Angell : Exod. 12. blasphemous Herod smitten with an Angell :

<sup>a</sup> 2. Cor. 12. 2.

<sup>b</sup> Gen. 1. 28.

<sup>c</sup> Gen. 7.

<sup>d</sup> Gen. 19.

<sup>e</sup> Iosua 10.

<sup>f</sup> December 20 <sup>g</sup> From 21 Dec-cember, to Ian 15.

<sup>h</sup> Psal. 19. 1.

<sup>i</sup> Psal. 8. 1.

<sup>k</sup> 1. King. 8. 27

<sup>l</sup> Luke 2. 13.

<sup>m</sup> Iosua 5.

Acts 12. 23.. To conclude this argument, Angels at the last and dreadfull day shall bind the <sup>n</sup>tares, that is, make taggotts of the wicked, and cast them into hellfire. As they pitch their tents about Gods elect; being the Saints guard and nurses, as it were, to <sup>o</sup> carry them in their armes, lest at any time they hurt their foot against a stone: so contrariwise, speedy messengers and ministers of Gods anger to the reprobate.

Now for Saints, albeit they be militēs emeriti (as the <sup>r</sup> Romans speake) souldiers discharged the field, past fighting, past fighting, for all teares are wiped from their eyes; euen so saith the Spirit, they rest from their labours, and their good workes follow them: Apocalyp. 14. 13. They be past warfare, and now liue in æternall welfare, crowned as conquerors in heauen, where there is neither militia nor malitia.

Though, I say, their fight be ended, and they rewarded with an immortall crowne of glory, yet for as much as there is a communion of Saints, a fellowship betweene the triumphant Saints in heauen, and the militant Saints on earth; the blessed soules departed and deliuered out of the miseries of this sinfull world, howsoeuer they be secure for themselues, yet are they carefull for vs: as <sup>q</sup> our Churches in their Harmonie speake, de felicitate sua securi, de nostrâ salute solliciti: they wish well vnto vs, and pray (till for vs in generall, albeit they know not our wants in particular. Howsoeuer they fight not any longer against Gods enemies with pen or pike, with paper or powder, yet they continually fight against them with push of prayer, as Saint <sup>r</sup> John expressly; The soules of them that were killed for the word, cryed with a loud voice, saying; How long Lord, holy and true? doest not thou iudge and reuenge our bloud on them that dwell on the earth? Albeit they contend not with earthly weapons, yet they maintaine Gods quarrell with heauenly wishes in generall against Satan and his kingdome, out of zeale and heat to Gods cause, not out of any spleene or hate to any of the wicked in particular; I dare not say so: for where the spirit hath not a pen to write, the Pastor must not haue a tongue to speake, nor the people an eare to heare; but that the blessed soules in heauen pray for vs, against our enemies in generall, is an article of faith, and an euident truth of the Bible.

I come from Gods selected band in heauen, to the common band, the host of his creatures on earth, the which containes both sea and land, and all that is therein, euermore willing to fight in this quarrell.

The <sup>s</sup> red sea did ouerwhelme proud Pharao, and all his hoast, euen all his horses, his chariots, and horsmen. Anno 1588. the sea and fish in the sea fought against the superstitious Spaniard, enemie to God and his true religion: a wonderfull worke, which ought to be had in perpetuall remembrance. I say wind and water ouercame that inuincible armie, prepared for our destruction; in such sort, that the <sup>t</sup> popish Relator hereof confessed ingenuously, that God in that sea-fight, shewed himselfe a very Lutheran, and meere Protestant.

The floods and inuadations which happened in diuerse parts of this kingdome within these few yeeres, here should not be passed ouer with drie eies. If the Lord had not according to his infinite greatnesse and goodnesse, fettered the waters of our seas, as <sup>v</sup> Xerxes did the waters of Hellespontus. If God had not gathered the waters together on an heape, and layd them vp in the deepe, as in a treasure house: Psalme 33. 7. If he had not spoken to the flood, <sup>x</sup> Hitherto shalt thou goe, but no further, and here shall it stay thy proud waues, assuredly there had followed a great doomesday to this Island. <sup>y</sup> The waters saw thee, O Lord the waters saw thee and were afraid; <sup>z</sup> Blessed be the Lord God, euen the God of Israel, which only doth wondrous things; and blessed be the name of his Maiestie for euer, and let all the people say, Amen, Amen.

I passe to the shore to drie land, <sup>a</sup> which opened and swallowed vp quicke, Corath, Dathan and Abiram.

In this one Prouince are sundry rankes of fighting souldiers, armies of fell dragons, of hissing serpents, of roaring lions, of deuouring wolues, of other wilde

<sup>a</sup> Math. 13.

<sup>o</sup> Psal. 91. 12.

<sup>p</sup> Consule com. Godes. Stewchij ad veget. lib. 2 cap. 3.

<sup>q</sup> D. Reynold. de Idolat. lib. 1. cap. 1.

<sup>r</sup> Apoc. 6. 10.

<sup>s</sup> Exod. 14.

<sup>t</sup> Treat. 10 Mendoxa.

<sup>v</sup> Herodot.

<sup>x</sup> Iob. 38. 11.

<sup>y</sup> Psalm 77. 16

<sup>z</sup> Psalm. 72. 18

<sup>a</sup> Numb. 16. 30

wilde beasts in the Forrest, and cattle vpon a thousand hills; all which named, and all other not named, are ready with force and furie to crush the wicked, and at Gods alarum to breake them in peeces like a Potters vessell.

Euen the least of these creatures is strong enough, if God set them to fight; an host of frogs, an armie of grasshoppers, a swarme of flies, able to dismay Pharaoh and all his people; a few rats troubled all the Citizens of <sup>b</sup> Hamel; a few worms deuoured <sup>c</sup> Herod; a little gnat choked a great man, yea the greatest Monarch in his owne conceit, Adrian the Pope.

The very senseless creatures haue sense and feeling of the wrong done to God. In Siloam (as we read in the <sup>d</sup> Gospell) a Tower fell vpon eightene persons and slew them. In <sup>e</sup> Rome fifty thousand men were hurt and slaine with the fall of a Theater, as they were beholding the games of the Sword-players. <sup>f</sup> Anno 25. Reg. Elizab. the scaffold about Paris garden vpon a Sunday in the afternoone fell downe, which instantly killed eight persons, and hurt many more. A faire warning to such as prophane the Sabbath, and delight more in the crueltie of beasts, than in the workes of mercie, which are exercises of the Lords day. The time will not suffer me to name, much lesse to muster all the rest of Gods warriors on earth I will only remember one, whom, I thinke you feare most, namely, the plague, fitly called by the Canonists, Bellum Dei contra homines, the warre of God against men, and by the Scripture, the sword of God, and <sup>h</sup> arrow of his anger.

In the yeere 1006. there was such an vniuersall plague throughout the whole world, that the lining were not able to bury the dead; as Sigibertus, and <sup>i</sup> other report. Anno 1342. there was in <sup>k</sup> Venice such a pestilence, that the hundredth person was scarcely left aliue, inso much that the State made a law, that whosoever would come and dwell at Venice two yeeres, he should instantly be made free.

About the yeere 1522. there died of the plague in <sup>l</sup> Millanie fiftie thousand within the space of foure monethes. In <sup>m</sup> Norwich from the first of Ianuary to the first of Iuly, 57104. In <sup>n</sup> Yarmouth within the space of one yeere, 7052. In London and the Liberties thereof, from the 23. of December 1602. vnto the 22. of December 1603. there died of all diseases, as was accounted weekly, 38244. whereof the plague, 30578. and from that time to this day, the Citie not yet free. This last yeere past, as appeares in your owne bills, there died 2262. Lay this heauy iudgement to your heart, heare this proclamation againe and againe, There is no peace to the wicked.

As the <sup>o</sup> stones of the field are in league with the righteous, and the beasts at peace with the godly, they may dwell safe in the wildernesse, and sleepe in the woods, Ezech 34. 25. so contrariwise, the stone shall crie out of the wall, and the beame out of the timber against the wicked, Habacuc. 2. 11.

Their sinne begets their sorrow, their faults increase their foes, euen their tables are made snares, and their iuory beds accusers, and their seled houses witnesses against them; all things which were giuen for blessings are become curses vnto them: and that which is most strange, besides these two great bands of souldiers, one common in earth, another select in heauen; there is yet a third of rebels, euen of the very deuills in hell; for albeit they be preserued in euerlasting chaines vntill the iudgement of the great day; yet God in his infinite power and wisdom, who brings light out of darknesse, doth make good vse of these bad instruments.

It is said in the first of Sam. chap. 16. that the euill spirit of the Lord vexed Saul; it was Gods spirit which came vpon Dauid, but it was a malignant spirit which was on Saul; and yet this spirit is called spiritus Domini the spirit of the Lord, because the Lord sent that euill spirit, and suffered it to torment Saul, as <sup>r</sup> Augustine and <sup>s</sup> Lombard haue well expounded the place. So likewise we read in the Gospell, that the foule spirits made some deafe, some dumbe, casting one into the water, another into the fire; all which actions, as they were actions, proceeded from God, for the Scripture tells vs plainly, <sup>t</sup> there is no power but of God.

Happily some will say, the deuills assault the good so well as the bad. We wrestle

<sup>b</sup> Munster.
<sup>c</sup> Acts 12. 23.

<sup>d</sup> Luke 13. 4.
<sup>e</sup> Languet. chro.
fol. 95.
<sup>f</sup> Stow.

<sup>g</sup> Chro 21. 30
<sup>h</sup> Psal. 11. 5.
<sup>i</sup> Zuinger. in Theatr. o. volum.
2. lib 7 pa. 544
<sup>k</sup> Sabellicus lib.
8. AEncad. 9.
<sup>l</sup> Languet. Chro.
fol. 280
<sup>m</sup> Stowes abridgement.
<sup>n</sup> Idem.

<sup>o</sup> Job. 5. 23.

<sup>p</sup> Iude epi. v. 6

<sup>q</sup> Immissus seu permissus a Domino
Epi. Sa. not. in
loc.
<sup>r</sup> Ad Simplician
lib. 2. qu. 1.
<sup>s</sup> Sent. dist 44
<sup>t</sup> Rom. 13. 1.

<sup>u</sup> Ephes. 6. 12.

* Esai. 5. 18.
 y Rom. 2. 5.

* Dionysius Hal.
 lib. 1.
<sup>z</sup> Lib. 2 de remilitari cap. 2.
 See the view of certaine militarie matters annexed to Tacitus in English

<sup>a</sup> De gubernat. Dei, lib. 5.

<sup>b</sup> Cedren. hist. pag. 542.
<sup>c</sup> Ser. 87.

<sup>d</sup> Gen. 12. 3.

wrestle (saith <sup>v</sup> Paul) against principalities, against powers, against the prince of darkenesse: for Satan goes about like a roaring Lyon, seeking whom he may deuoure. Answer is made, that God suffers Satan to tempt his children only to try them, but suffers him to tempt the reprobate, so far, as to destroy them: the temptations of the good are instruction; of the bad, destruction, vtter ruine of body and soule. In what a miserable case then is euery wretch irrepentant? * drawing iniquitie with cords of vanitie, and sinne as it were with cart-ropes; heaping vp wrath against the day of wrath. For the number of his enemies is without number; the number of the blessed Saints is innumerable: Apocal 7. 9. After these things, I beheld, and loe a great multitude which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lambe, clothed with long white robes, and palmes in their hands. The number of Angels is infinite: Thinkest thou (said Christ to Peter, in the 26. of S. Matthew) that I cannot now p ay to my Father, and he will giue me moe than twelue Legions of Angels?

A Legion is <sup>4</sup> 3000. footmen, and 300 horsemen; or as Caluin vpon the place, 5000 foot, 500 horsemen; as <sup>2</sup> Vegetius, 6000 in all; and euery particular Angell able in one night, to kill, as is recorded in the storie of Sennacherib, one hundred, eighty and five thousand. The number of starres in the skie, of fowles in the ayre, of fish in the sea, of beasts in the field, of deuills in hell, are without number: How infinitely infinite then is the number of all his enemies? in what a fearfull estate doth he stand, when as God and man, Angels and Deuills, Saints and sinners, heauen and earth, fish and fowle, beasts and birds, other and himselve; in a word, all that is within him, all that is without him, all that is about him, combine themselues together to maintaine Gods holy warre against him?

I know there are degrees of sinners, as there are degrees in sinne; some be factores, some actores, a third sort authores. Of the first, Seneca wittily, Nihil interest faueas ne sceleri an illud facias: It is in a manner all one to commit and commend a villanic. Non caret scrupulo occulte societatis, qui manifesto discrimini non occurrit, saith Gregorie: He is suspected to be an abetter of euill, who doth not endeuour to better the euill. A commoner then that flattereth, a Commander that fauoureth vngodly wretches in a Citie, lets in so many strong foes, to cut your throates, and ruine your estate.

Yet actors on the stage be worse then idle spectators; for howsoeuer sinne be commendable, because common, as <sup>2</sup> Saluianus complained in his time; In hoc scelus res deuoluta, ut nisi quis malus fuerit, saluus esse non possit: In plaine English, except a man be first bad, he cannot be reputed a good fellow: Yet horrible blasphemers, incorrigible drunkards, shamelesse whoremongers, makebate pettifoggers, malecontent accusants on the one side, recusants on the other, are the very men and meanes, which bring and keepe the dearth and plague so long among you.

But authors of euill and plotters of mischief are worst of all; as it appeares euen by Gods owne censure giuen of the first sinne in Paradise, where the Serpent had three punishments inflicted vpon him, as the originall contriuer; the woman two, being the mediate procurer; and Adam but one, as the party seduced. Apply, for I can no further amplifie.

When <sup>b</sup> Phocas had built a mighty wall about his Palace, for his securitie, in the night he heard a voice: O King, though thou build as high as the clouds, yet the Citie might easily be taken, the sinne within will marre all: as <sup>c</sup> Ambrose notably; Graviores sunt inimici, mores prauis, quam hostes infesti: Wicked manners are stronger than armed men. If God be with vs, who can be against vs? if we stand against God, who can withstand him?

And as God is able, because God, so willing to maintaine this warre, because my God; that is, the God of his people, whom the wicked persecute: for his Grant is faire in Letters Patent to <sup>d</sup> Abraham and his seed for euer: I will blesse them that blesse thee, and curse them that curse thee. Or, my God, that is, the God by whom I speake, who dealeth alway with his seruants according to his word.

The

The Gods of the Gentiles are lying gods, and dying Gods; but my God is the truth, and the life, who can neither deceiue nor be deceiued. Or, my God, because we must not only beleue the Maior of the Gospell, but the <sup>c</sup> Minor also, saying with Thomas, my Lord; with Mary, my Sauour; with Esay, my God. If we can gaine this assumption, it will bring vs to the most happy conclusion; enjoying peace of conscience, which is an heauen on earth, and peace of glory, which is heauen in heauen. Vnto which, he bring vs that hath made peace for vs, euen Christ Iesus the righteous: to whom with the Father, and the Holy Ghost, as we are bound, so let vs heartily yeeld all honour, &c. Amen.

The Epistle, Coloss. 3. 12.

Put vpon you as the elect of God, tender mercie &c.

This Epistle consists of two parts: In the first S. Paul exhorts the Colossians, vnto many speciall vertues, as tender mercie, kindnesse, humbleness of minde, meekenesse, long-suffering, &c. In the second, because it is infinite to insift in euery particular, he drawes them, and all other duties, vnto two <sup>f</sup> general admonitions in grosse: whereof,

The  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} 1. \text{ concernes our theory; } \textit{Let the word of Christ dwell in you plenteously, \&c.} \\ 2. \text{ our practise; } \textit{whatsoever yee doe in word or deed, doe all in the name of the Lord, \&c.} \end{array} \right.$

Put vpon you] Christ had two sorts of garments, (as we read in the <sup>s</sup> Gospell:) one without seame, not diuided at his death; and that was a <sup>h</sup> figure of faith, which, maugre the <sup>i</sup> rents of all heretikes and schismatikes in the Church, is <sup>k</sup> but one.

Another with seames, parted among the souldiers, and that was a type of loue; <sup>l</sup> which seekes not her owne, but communicates it selfe to many.

<sup>m</sup> So the Christian must haue two coats: one of faith indiuisible, by which he putts on Christ: another of loue, parted among many, by which one Christian <sup>n</sup> puts on another; <sup>o</sup> reioicing with them that reioice, weeping with them that weep.

Vpon the point, these two coats are but one; faith being inside, and loue outside; faith in respect of God, and loue toward the world. This Epistle speaks of the outside, put on tender mercie] <sup>p</sup> quoad affectum: kindnesse] <sup>q</sup> quoad effectum: meekenesse] <sup>r</sup> bene vtendo prosperis: long-suffering] <sup>s</sup> bene se habendo in aduersis. &c.

These vertues are both ornamenta, and munimenta, clothes and corslets. Ephes. 6. 11. Put on the whole armour of God, that yee may be able to stand against the assaults of the deuill. Seeing we must euery day fight, and euery day be seene, let vs as well for armour as honour, put on tender mercie, kindnesse, &c. that we may <sup>t</sup> walke vprightly and confidently. See epist. Dom. 21. post Trinit. How loue is said to be the bond of perfectnesse, and choise vertue; See Epist. Dom. Quinquages.

As the elect of God] S. Paul builds all these good exhortations vpon an argument, drawne ab <sup>v</sup> honesto seu debito: you are the elect of God, holy and beloued; chosen and beloued of God before the world, through baptrisme consecrated solemnly to God in the world: wherefore being thus, electi selecti, dilecti, <sup>w</sup> Gods owne workmanship created in Christ Iesus vnto good works; it is most meete, new men should vse new manners; in stead of the works of darkenesse, put on tender mercy, kindnesse, humbleness of minde, which are weapons of light. It is due debt that you should be followers of God, forbearing one another, and forgiuing one another, as Christ forgau you. See epist. Dom. 3. Quadrages.

The <sup>x</sup> Nouelists except against our Seruice Booke, for omitting here two titles; holy and beloued. Our answer is, that the word, elect, implies the rest; for if elect, then beloued and holy. The Church omits not the greater, and inferrs the lesser, as the Churches of Scotland and middleburge, call Gods heavy iudgements vpon the wicked, a little rap, Psalm. 74. 12. and bread of affliction, browne bread,

<sup>c</sup> Bucr.

<sup>f</sup> Zanchius in loc.

<sup>g</sup> Ioh. 19. 23
<sup>h</sup> Luther. postil. maior in epist.

<sup>i</sup> Dom. 5. ab Epiph.
<sup>j</sup> Rupert. com in roan lib. 13.

<sup>k</sup> Ephes. 4. 5.
<sup>l</sup> 1. Cor. 13. 5.
<sup>m</sup> Luther. ubi supra.

<sup>n</sup> Idem postil. in Epist. Fest. Cir. council.

<sup>o</sup> Rom. 10. 12.
<sup>p</sup> Postille maio rei cum glossis et figuris.

<sup>q</sup> Prou 10. 9.

<sup>r</sup> Zanchius in loc.
<sup>s</sup> Sacerius in loc
<sup>t</sup> Ephes. 2. 10.

<sup>x</sup> Defence for nor subscript. part. 1. cap. vlt

Pfal. 117.2. contrary not only to the Geneva Bible, but euen Caluins exposition of the place. If these friuillous obiections be their aqua caelestis, to keepe life in their fainting cause, we may toll the passing bell, and ere long ring out to the funerall

Let the word of Christ] That is, the Scripture, the Gospell, especially so called,

<sup>a</sup> Esay 52.6.

Efficient: for he speaks in the Prophets and Apostles: I am he that doth speake; Behold it is I.

<sup>r</sup> August. in Psal. 49.

Materiall: for he is the contents of all the Bible shadowed in the Law, shewed in the Gospell: vnam vocem habent duo Testamenta. The word of the Lord containes nothing, but the word, which is the Lord.

<sup>z</sup> Rom. 10. 14:
<sup>a</sup> Lukes. 70.

in respect of
3. causes:

Final: as being the end of the whole Law, and scope of all the Prophets euer since the world began. Wherefore, seeing the Scriptures haue Christ for their author, Christ for their obiekt, Christ for their end, well may they be called the word of Christ.

<sup>b</sup> Caluin. in loc.

Dwell] we must not entertaine the word as a stranger, giuing it a cold complement, and so take our leaue; but because it is Gods best friend, the Kings best friend, and our best friend, we must vse it as a <sup>b</sup> familiar and domesticke; receiuing it into the parlor of our heart, making it our chamber-fellow, study-fellow, bed-fellow. Things of lesse moment are without doore, the staffe behind the doore, sed quae pretiosa sunt, non uno seruantur ostio: things of worth are kept vnder many lockes and keys. It is fit then that the word, being more pretious <sup>d</sup> than gold, yea the most fine gold, <sup>e</sup> a peerlesse pearle, should not be layd vp in the Porters lodge, only the outward eare, but euen in the cabinet of the minde: Deut. 11. 28. Thou shalt lay up these my words in your heart and in your soule: so the word that now doth plenteously dwell among you, may dwell plenteously in you.

<sup>c</sup> Erasmus.

<sup>d</sup> Psal. 119. 127.
<sup>e</sup> Math. 13 46

Plenteously] Read, heare, meditate, with all attention exactly, with all intention deuotly, with all diligence throughly. Iohn 5. 39. Search the Scriptures. Esay 8. 20. to the law, to the testimonie. Apocalyps 1. 3. Blessed is he that reads, and heares, and keepes the word of this prophesie: not only read, nor only heare, nor only meditate; but all: sometime read to rectifie meditation, and somtime meditate to profit by reading. Lectio sine meditatione arida, meditatio sine lectione erronea.

<sup>f</sup> Prolog. in lib. 1. de doctrina Christiana.

It is reported of Alphonso King of Spaine, that he read ouer all the Bible with Lyraes postil, fourteene times. And <sup>f</sup> Augustine writes of Antonius an Egyptian Monke, that hauing no learning, he did by hearing the Scriptures often read, get them without booke, and after by serious and godly meditation vnderstand them.

<sup>g</sup> Augustinus.

<sup>b</sup> Neh. 13. 10.
<sup>i</sup> Luther. postil. & Zanchius in loc.
<sup>k</sup> Rossensis art. 18. contra Lutherum. & Alphonfus de hereticibus.
<sup>l</sup> Polydor. de inuent. lib. 8. cap. 1.

This one word, plenteously, confutes plenteously, first ignorant people, who cannot: secondly, negligent people, who will not read and heare: thirdly, delicate people, who loath the Scriptures as vnpleasant, preferring the Poets before the Prophets, admitting into their house the writings of men before the word of God: fourthly, perfunctorie students in the Bible, turning ouer not the whole, but some part, and that so coldly, that as it is said of the Delphicke Oracle, 3 quoties legitur, toties negligitur, a lesson is no sooner got, but it is forgot: fifthly, couetous people, who will not giue to their pastor plenteously, that the word may dwell in them plenteously. <sup>h</sup> Nehemia complained in his time, that the Leuites, for want of maintenance, were faine to leaue the Temple and follow the plow. And S. Augustine made the like complaint in his age: <sup>i</sup> whereupon in processe of time, Clergie-men inuented such points of superstition, as were most aduantageous vnto them. Hence they raked Hell, and found out Purgatorie, to make the Popes kitchin smoke: an inuention not knowne vnto the Greeke Church for the space of <sup>k</sup> 1500 yeres after Christ; and but of <sup>l</sup> late knowne to the Latine. Hence prayer for the dead, indulgences, and other new tricks of poperie, which are more for the Priests belly, than the peoples benefit.

God

God of his infinite goodnesse forgie Britaines ingratitude in this kinde, and grant that the burning lamps in our Temple, may be supplied with sufficient oyle, that the light of Israel goe not out. Sixtly, this condemnes Enthusiasts, despising the word and ministerie. Seuenthly, the Marcionites and Manichees, rejecting Moses and the prophets. Last of all, and most of all, the Papiſts, in denying the vulgar translations of Scripture to the common people. Let the word of God dwell in you: <sup>m</sup> that is, in all you, Priest and people; Non in nobis modo, sed in vobis: as <sup>n</sup> S. Hierome peremptorily; Hic ostenditur verbum Christi, non sufficienter, sed abundanter etiam laicos habere debere, & docere se invicem vel monere: The word must dwell in us: Ergo, the Bible must be in our house. It must dwell plenteously: Ergo, we must read dayly; but, as it followes in the Text.

With all wisdom] The <sup>o</sup> Papiſts as well in the Church as in the street, chant Scripture plenteously; but because their hymnes are not in a knowne tongue, it is without vnderstanding. The Brownists in their <sup>p</sup> Bookes and Sermons often cite Scripture plenteously, but it is not in wisdom. Learned <sup>q</sup> Origen notes well, (and where he doth well, none better) that Heretikes are Scripturarum fures, great lurchers of holy writt: but they so wrest it, that (as <sup>r</sup> Hierome speakes) Euangelium Christi, fit euangelium hominis, aut quod peius est, diaboli.

Table Gospellers are full of Text. It is ordinarie to discusse diuinitie problemes euen at Ordinaries; a custome very common, but by the censure of our Church, no way commendable. For the <sup>37<sup>t</sup></sup> Iniunction forbids all men to reason of diuine Scripture rashly; and the greatest part of Archbishop Crammers Preface before the Church Bible, is spent against idle brabling and brawling in matters of Theologie. And a <sup>t</sup> graue Diuine, much esteemed in our dayes, held it better for venturous discourses of predestination, and sinne against the Holy Ghost, that they had neither tongues in their heads, nor hearts in their breasts, then that they should continue in this irreuerend vsage.

<sup>u</sup> Mantius reports, how two meeting at a Tauerne, contended much to little purpose about their faith: One said he was of Doctor Martins religion; and the other sware he was of Doctor Lushers opinion; whereas Martin, and Luther, were but one. So many men moue many doubts in many matters, hauing neither will to heare, nor skill to conceiue the state of a controuersie, and then, as <sup>x</sup> Augustine said of Petilian the Donatist: Multa dicendo nihil dicunt: aut potius, nihil dicendum multa dicunt.

The word of Christ must dwell in us plenteously, but in all wisdom, we must heare it in all wisdom, read it in all wisdom, meditate on it in all wisdom, speake of it in all wisdom, preach it in all wisdom; not only in some, but in all wisdom; for all is little enough, considering the Lord will not hold him guiltlesse, who taketh his name in vaine.

Teaching and exhorting] This clause may be referred either to that which went before, or to that which followes after: to that which went before; Let the word of Christ dwell in you so plenteously with all wisdom, <sup>y</sup> that ye may both instruct and exhort your selues vnto every good worke, for doctrine and exhortation are two principall vses of the Scripture, 2. Tim. 3. 16. For doctrine, the <sup>z</sup> Law shewes every man in his vocation, what actions are acceptable to God; and the Gospell teacheth how they be acceptable, namely, by faith in Christ. Let the word of Christ therefore dwell in you so plenteously with all wisdom, that it may be a lanterne to your feet, and alight to your paths; a direction how to serue God in holinesse and righteoufnesse all the daies of your life.

For exhortation; the word must so dwell in vs, as that we may stirr vp one another to godlinesse: Esay 2. 3. Heb. 3. 13. <sup>a</sup> ῥεθετεῖν ἐστὶν ἐν νοῦν τιδέρας; so to put it. and print it in our minde, that it may not only be profitable to our selues, but vsfull also to other; <sup>b</sup> in publike, which is the Pastors office; in priuate, which is every Christians duety.

This also may be referred vnto the words following, as according to <sup>c</sup> most Expositors our Church here; Teach and exhort your owne selues in Psalmes, <sup>m</sup> Zanchius in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Hieron. in loc.

<sup>o</sup> Luther. postil. in loc.

<sup>p</sup> For articles 25. in their confession, they quoted about 2000 Texts.

<sup>q</sup> In Rom. 2.

<sup>r</sup> Expositio prior in cap. 1. ad Galatas.

<sup>s</sup> Injunctions of Queene Elizabeth.

Master Dearing Lect. 27. vpon the Heb.

<sup>u</sup> in loc. com.

<sup>x</sup> Contra literas Petilian lib. 3. cap. 25.

<sup>y</sup> Marlovat. & Aquin. in loc.

<sup>z</sup> Melanct. in loc.

<sup>a</sup> Zanchius in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Luther. postil. in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Ad sequentia plerique referunt vti Zanchius in loc.

Psalmes, &c. Where Saint Paul describes the Christians musicke, both for the
 the { matter; Psalmes, bylines, spirituall songs.
 manner; singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord.

Psalmes and hymnes] Some distinguish these by their object, affirming that hymnes are laudatorie: <sup>d</sup> for the glorious Angels in heauen sing not Psalmes, but hymnes: <sup>e</sup> Hominum est psallere, Deum hymnis efferre Angelorum. Spirituall odes are peculiar songs accurately framed by the Church, according to her seuerall exigence: Psalmes are of sundry matters and arguments, exhortatory, consolatory, precatory, deprecatory. But I follow that other distinction of <sup>f</sup> Hierome and Luther, vnderstanding by the first, the Dauidicall Psalmes; by the second, the songs of Moses, Debora, Zacharius, Marie, Simson, mentioned in the Bible; by the third, godly hymnes inuented by the Christians of that age, called spirituall, respectu {

stermini á quo, as proceeding from Gods spirit.
stermini ad quem, as edifying our spirit: containing spirituall matter and melodie for the comfort of our soule, not any carnall or wanton ditty, to nourish the lust of our flesh. And therefore the Papistical hymnes in an unknowne language are not spirituall, respectu termini ad quem; in that they neither instruct, nor exhort; much lesse ribald ballads, instructing in vanitie, exhorting to villany.

<sup>g</sup> Luther, <sup>h</sup> Zanchius, <sup>i</sup> Marlorat construe this of singing in the Church, as well as in priuate: for Gods holy people haue vsed in <sup>k</sup> all ages, euen from the primitiue times, vntill this day, to sing in the publike congregation the psalmes of David; hymnes of Zacharius, Simson, Marie, spirituall songs composed by deuout Doctors, according to the seuerall occasions of the Church: and therefore Come holy Ghost, sung at the consecration of our Bishops: Te Deum of Saint Ambrose, the Creed of Athanasius, vsed in our Liturgie, are warranted both by Gods precept, and his peoples practise.

With grace] I finde three constructions of this one clause: { for grace.
 by grace.
 with grace.

Sing to the Lord for grace receined; as Paul Ephes. 5. Speak to your selues in Psalmes and hymnes, and spirituall songs, making melodie to the Lord, giuing thanks alway for all things. And in the next verse following heer: Whatsoeuer yee doe in word or deed, doe all in the name of the Lord Iesu, giuing thanks to God the Father by him. Every good and perfect gift is from aboue, comming downe from the father of lights. Ipsum <sup>l</sup>minus munus est; the least gift is a grace; the meanes to get and preferue grace, proceeds altogether from grace: for if God withdraw his mercie, we presently fall. As a staffe, which if a man take and set vpright vpon the ground, so long as he holds it with his hand, it stands vpright; but so soone as he withdrawes his helpe, though he neuer push it downe, it will fall of it selfe. Ascendat ergo gratia, vt descendat gratia: Let your thanks ascend vp vnto God, that his grace may descend downe to vs.

<sup>m</sup> By grace] man is not only the Temple of God, as Paul speaks; but as Clemens Alexandrinus, the timbrell of God. Now the timbrell annot sound, except it be touched. It is then the <sup>n</sup> spirit of God that makes our pipes to go. God, faith <sup>o</sup> Athenagoras, is the bellowes, and we the organs. A man may sing to the devill, to the world, to the flesh, without this grace; but he cannot sing to the Lord, but by the Lord. Our musique may be songs, but not spirituall songs, except they be guided by the spirit. This should teach vs in our Psalmes and hymnes to praise God for his grace when we feele it, and often to pray God for it, when we feele it not.

With grace] <sup>p</sup> That is, with a gratiouse dexterity, with delight and profit, both vnto our selues and other. Vnto our selues: for as it is a ioy to the iust to doe iustice, Prouerbs 21. 15. so a grace to the godly to be ioyfull in the Lord: to serue the Lord with gladnesse, and to come before his presence with a song: to sing the Psalmes of David with the spirit of David: the song of Mary with d Chrysol. & Græc. scholia e Theophylact.

Hymnus extollit,
Psalms laudat.
Ambros. in loc.
 f In loc.

g Vbi supra.
 h In Ephes. cap.
 5. 19.
 i In loc. k Con. Toletan.
 4. Can. 12.

l Audax apud
August. epist.
 139.

m Chrysol. The.
ophylact. &
schol. in loc.
 n Macarius.
 bom. 47.
 o Orat. pro Christi-
aniz.

p Theophylact.
Luther. calum.
 in loc.

with the spirit of Mary; Te Deum of S. Ambrose, with the spirit of S. Ambrose.

Againe, with grace to other : Ephes. 4. 29. Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which may minister grace, <sup>a</sup> that is, instruction and consolation to the hearer, vttered in such manner and method, that it may be well accepted euen of the most vntoward. We must not sing our owne crotchets out of tune, without rule, witlesse and senselesse songs ; All that we sing, all that we say, must be gracefull :

Et prodesse volunt, & delectare poeta.

And if Poets, how much more Prophets ? He that doth preach and pray without a grace, doth the worke of the Lord negligently, though hee preach euery day, and pray euery houre.

In your hearts ] As your mouth must shew forth his praise, so our soule must magnifie the Lord, and our spirit must reioyce in God our Sauiour. It is not enough that wee come neere to God with our lips, in chanting hymnes and psalmes, except wee make melody to the Lord with the member that wee haue. <sup>r</sup> Plus valet consonantia voluntatum quam uocum. How we neglect this precept in singing, when our hearts are on our haruest, and our mindes on our meat, I need not say ; your domesticall Chaplaine doth daily tell you.

To the Lord ] <sup>r</sup> That as of him, and through him, and for him are all things, so vnto him may be glory for euermore.

Whatsoever yee doe in word or deed ] A generall rule extended to all men, and all actions, in all places, at all times, uno cumulo cuncta complectitur, as Luther vpon the place.

Doe all ] Not say ye, but doe. <sup>r</sup> Celsus and Antiphon writing against the truth, intituled their treatise, the booke of truth : and the Papists vnder the name of the Church, ouerthrow the Church, * Ecclesia nomine armamini, & contra ecclesiam dimicatis ; Anabaptists are most carnall, and yet they boast of the spirit. Vnconscionable men in our time ; seeme to be all for conscience : Iustice and conscience are the greatest martyrs in the world. For a great man in doing mischief pretends iustice, and a meane man alway conscience : so that as it is in the Proverbe, <sup>u</sup> In nomine Domini incipit omne malum. So soone as the malicious man had sown his tares, he went his way. See the Gospell for this day.

In the Name of the Lord Iesu ] Not in our owne name, for there is no good in vs : of our selues we cannot thinke so much as a good thought, much lesse speake a good word, or doe a good deed : nor in <sup>x</sup> Angels name, nor in any Saints name, for that is to mingle the bloud of Thomas with Christs bloud, as <sup>y</sup> Pilate did the bloud of the Galileans with their owne sacrifice. Christ is our onely Sauiour, and Redeemer, our only Mediator and Aduocate, This (saith the <sup>z</sup> Wife-man) is the summe of all, that he is all ; yea <sup>a</sup> all in all ; and therefore good reason all should be said, all should be done in his name : that is, as our Church in the Collect, begun, continued and ended in him : he is Alpha, therefore we must beginne euery worke, <sup>b</sup> by calling vpon his name, and squaring it according to his word : he is Omega, therefore all must bee referred vnto him, and end in him : 1. Cor. 10. 31.

To God the Father ] <sup>c</sup> Because God, and because a father : God for his greatness, Father for his goodnesse.

By him ] Otherwise, our spirituall sacrifices are not acceptable to God, 1. Pet. 2. 5

<sup>a</sup> Caluin. & Marlorat. in Ephes 4.

<sup>r</sup> Bern serm. super salue regina.

<sup>r</sup> Rom. 11. 36.

<sup>r</sup> Origen. contra Celsum. lib. 3.

* Leo Epist. 83.

<sup>u</sup> Luther in loc.

<sup>x</sup> Theophylact. in loc.

<sup>y</sup> Luk 13. 1.

<sup>z</sup> Eccles. 43 27.

<sup>a</sup> 1. Cor. 15. 28.

<sup>b</sup> Zanch in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Erasmus annot. in loc.

The Gospell. MATTH. 13. 24.

The kingdom of heaue is like vnto a man which sowed good seed in his field, &c

THis parable being explained by Christ, verse 37. needs not any further exposition, but our good disposition onely to practise that he taught ; it requires application rather then explication.

For application then vnderstand, that it makes } Carnall Gospellers. against foure principall enemies of the Church: } Brownists.
 } Papists.
 } Atheists.

Against carnall Gospellers, in that they neither watch ouer the Church, nor pray for the Church as they should. Satan is here called our enemy, both ab affectu, & effectu: for his malice <sup>d</sup> going about daily like a roaring lion, seeking whom he may deuoure. For his successe, ouercomming many; for this caute called a man in 28. verse. Εχθρὸς ἀνθρώπου, <sup>e</sup> as Scipio was called Africane, for that he conquered Africa: or as <sup>f</sup> other obserue, there is such affinity betweene Satan and the wicked, as that mutually they be called one by anothers name. The wicked man is called a deuill: <sup>g</sup> Hanc not I chosen you twelve, and one of you is a deuill? and the deuill is here termed a wicked man.

This enuious aduersary soweth alway tares among the wheat; where God hath his Church, he hath his chappell. The deuill hath not any ground of his owne, but he soweth in Gods field, vpon Gods seed; and so the corruption of the good is the generation of the bad; heresie being nothing else but an ouer-sowing, <sup>h</sup> ἰνὸς ἰδουαρχίας, an after teaching, or another teaching.

Almighty God hath <sup>i</sup> foure principall fields: } Heauen.
 } Paradise.
 } The Church.
 } Mans heart.

In heauen Lucifer ouer-sowed pride, by which himselfe and his angels fell: in Paradise Satan ouer-sowed disobedience, by which hee deceiued Adam and Eue: <sup>k</sup> God said, in the day that thou eatest of the tree of knowledge, thou shalt die the death: <sup>l</sup> Eua being corrupted by the Serpent, said, lest ye die; Satan himselfe, ye shall not die: to Gods good seed, moriemini, was turned first to ne moriamini, then vnto non moriemini: <sup>m</sup> Deus affirmat, mulier dubitat, diabolus negat.

In the Church (as it is here shewed) he doth ouersow schismes and heresies in such sort that the tares ouertop the wheat, at least they bee so mingled together, as that the one cannot be rooted vp without hurt to the other.

In mans heart (which is Gods especiall enclosure) when the good seed is sowed, Satan enters, and endeouours to <sup>n</sup> catch it away, planting in stead thereof vnlawfull lust, pride of life, couetous desires. He doth labour to blast our good workes, <sup>o</sup> either in the act, or else in the end: and all this is done, saith the text, while men sleepe. The which I finde construed of <sup>p</sup> Priests especially, called in holy Bible, the <sup>q</sup> Watchmen of Israel: but not onely; for the Prince being a Pastor of his people, must watch also the flocke; yea the shepherds, ouerseeing the Seers, and watching the Watchmen that they doe not sleepe.

This also concerns the people: for every master hath charge of his house, every man of his soule. The <sup>r</sup> master doth sleepe when hee doth not gouerne well his familie; <sup>s</sup> every man doth sleepe, when he neglects Gods seed sowed in his heart. That therefore which our Sauiour said vnto his Disciples, he said vnto all, <sup>t</sup> Watch: and so the <sup>u</sup> Church expounds it of all idle persons, insinuating, that it is the best time for the deuill to worke his feat, when men are negligent in their calling.

It is not Gods fault then that tares are mingled among wheat; for he sowed none but good seed: <sup>x</sup> All that he made was good, yea very good. Neither can we iustly condemne the deuill, for he doth but his part, being a <sup>y</sup> murderer from the beginning; <sup>z</sup> all the blame belongs vnto our selues, in that we sleepe when we should watch.

Here the Gospell and Epistle parallel: If the Word of God dwell in vs plentifully with all wisdome, then Satan cannot sow tares in our soule. If Ministers, Magistrates, and Masters, as Gods elect, put on tender mercy, kindnesse, humblenesse of minde, loue toward their charge, their compassionate bowels, assuredly will pitie the dangerous estate of such as are tares vnder their government, endeouering

<sup>d</sup> 1. Pet. 5. 8.

<sup>e</sup> Ludolphus de vita Christi, part. 1. cap. 64.
<sup>f</sup> Coffer. in loc.
<sup>g</sup> Ioh 6. 70. &c
 1. Tim. 4. 1.

<sup>h</sup> 1. Tim. 1. 3.

<sup>i</sup> Pontans. in loc.

<sup>k</sup> Gen 2. 17.
<sup>l</sup> Gen. 3. 3.

<sup>m</sup> Bernar. ser. de quadruplici debito.

<sup>n</sup> Matt. 13. 19.

<sup>o</sup> Greg. moral. in Ioh. lib. 1. cap 38.

<sup>p</sup> Thomas ex Augustin. & Hieron. in loc.

<sup>q</sup> Ezek. 3. 17.

<sup>r</sup> Ferus ser. 1. in locum.

<sup>s</sup> Hemingius in locum.

<sup>t</sup> Mark 13. 37.

<sup>u</sup> Hom against idleness.

<sup>x</sup> Gen. 1. 31.

<sup>y</sup> Ioh. 8. 44.

<sup>z</sup> Ferus ubi supra.

endeavouring to make them wheat against the great haruest. For the seruants here teach vs by their example to be <sup>a</sup> solicitous for the good of the corne, to come to Christ, and to pray that <sup>b</sup> faithfull labourers may bee sent into Gods haruest.

<sup>c</sup> Paul was grieued because some cockle grew in <sup>e</sup> Philippi: <sup>d</sup> David was grieued because the Heathen had broken into Gods inheritance: Christ was grieued because Gods house was made a <sup>e</sup> den of theeues; and to Christians in our time should be grieued, because Satan hath sowed such offences and scandalls among the professors of the Gospell.

Secondly, this parable makes } criticall doctrine.
against the Brownists in their } hypocriticall conuersation.

It condemnes their doctrine; for there was, is, and euer shall be darnell in Gods field, tares among wheat, bad among good in the visible Church. I confesse, the Church militant may be called the <sup>f</sup> suburbs of heauen; our Sauour here termes it the kingdome of heauen, because the King of heauen doth heauenly gouerne it with his holy Word, and blessed Spirit: but it is not heauen in heauen, it is but heauen on earth: and therefore in this heauen are many fire-brands of hell, the children of the <sup>g</sup> wicked, whose <sup>h</sup> end is damnation, and vtter confusion in vnquenchable fire.

We may not therefore leaue Gods floore, because there is some chaffe, neither breake Gods net, because there are some baggage fish; neither depart out of his house, because there be some vessels of wrath; neither runne out of his field, because there growes some cockle: but, as <sup>i</sup> Augustine determined against the Donatists accurately: Non propter malos boni deserendi, sed propter bonos mali tolerandi: We must not forsake the good for the bad, but rather tolerate the bad for the good. Almighty God would haue spared a whole Citie for ten <sup>k</sup> good mens sake; let vs not then condemne a whole Church for ten wicked mens companie.

<sup>l</sup> Ecclesiam teneo plenam tritico & palea, emendo quos possum, tolero quos emendare non possum; fugio paleam, ne hoc sim; non arcem, ne nihil sim: In <sup>m</sup> Gods House there are not only vessels of gold, and vessels of silver, but also of wood, and of earth, and some to honour, and some to dishonour. <sup>n</sup> It is our dutie to strine that we may be golden vessels, and as for earthen, we must leaue them to God, in whose hand is a rod of iron, to <sup>o</sup> breake them in peeces like a potters vessell.

I will say to the Brownist, as <sup>p</sup> Augustine to the Donatist: Accusa quantis viribus potes; si innocentes fuerint, nihil eis tanquam frumentis oberit ventositas tua; si nocentes, non debent propter zizania frumenta dari: accusa quantum potes; vinco, si non probas; vinco, si probas; si non probas, vinco iudice teipso; si probas, teste Cypriano, qui docuit horreum non esse deserendum ob paleas. He might haue said, teste Christo, commanding here, Let both grow together untill the haruest. We may not <sup>q</sup> iudge before the time, calling (out of our immoderate zeale) for fire from heauen to consume the tares, but expect hell fire to burne them up; and that for two reasons especially, that the bad may be conuerted, and the good exercised.

<sup>r</sup> Omnis malus aut ideo vinit, ut corrigatur; aut ideo, ut per illum bonus exercetur: <sup>s</sup> He that is now cockle, may proue by Gods especiall grace, corne: weed not the field therefore presently, lest while yee gather the tares, yee plucke up also the wheat.

Saint Peter was an Apostate, S. Matthew a Publican, Zacheus an oppressor, Paul & Saul: Inslin Martyr was a Gentile, S. Augustine a Manichee, Martin Luther a Monke, Tremelius a Iew, Leo Africanus a Mahumetan: if all cockle had then bene rooted vp at the first, Gods field would haue wanted much good wheat, the Church many good men, yea <sup>t</sup> all men; for Adam in Paradise was a rare, when he disobeyed. Here the Gospell and Epistle meet againe. For if we may not root up the tares, it is very requisite that wee put on tender mercy, <sup>a</sup> Ferus serm. 2. in locum.

<sup>b</sup> Matth. 9. 38.

<sup>c</sup> Philip 3. 18.
<sup>d</sup> Psalm 79.

<sup>e</sup> Matt 21. 53.

<sup>f</sup> Coster. in loc.

<sup>g</sup> Matt. 13. 38.
<sup>h</sup> Philip 3. 19.

<sup>i</sup> Epist. 48.

<sup>k</sup> Gen. 18. 23.

<sup>l</sup> August. lib. 3. contra Crescon. cap 35.
<sup>m</sup> 2. Tim. 2. 20.
<sup>n</sup> Cyp. epist. lib. 3. epist. 3.
<sup>o</sup> Psal 2. 9.

<sup>p</sup> Lib. 2. contra Crescon cap. 36. Vide Tom 7. Psalm contra partem Donat. lib. contra epist. Parmenian. contra literas Peilian. & Cyprian. ubi supra.
<sup>q</sup> 1. Cor 4. 5.
<sup>r</sup> Augustin in Psalmum 54.
<sup>s</sup> Thomas ex Hieron. & Augustin in loc.

<sup>t</sup> Pont. in loc.

kindnesse, humblenesse of minde, meeknesse, long-sufferance, forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, &c.

<sup>a</sup> 1. Cor. 11. 19.

<sup>x</sup> Thom. 1. part. quest. 31. art. 2.

Againe, the cockle must grow for the cornes exercise: <sup>a</sup> There must be heresies among you, that they which are approued among you might be knowne. If Arius had not bene borne, <sup>x</sup> qui posuit cum Trinitate personarum Trinitatem substantiarum; and Sabellius on the contrary, qui posuit unitatem persone cum unitate essentie; the questions about the blessed Trinitie would neuer haue been determined so sufficiently by those great lights of the Church, Athanasius, Augustine, Hilary, &c.

If superstition had not along time growne in Gods field among the wheat, principles of the true Religion, especially the point of iustification by faith onely, would neuer haue bene so well vnderstood.

<sup>z</sup> Li. 3. de Civit. Dei, cap. 21.

<sup>z</sup> Consule Plutarch cora de capiendâ ab hostibus utilitate.

If Anabaptists and Brownists had not contended against the Church, it would haue gone worse with the Church; as <sup>z</sup> Augustine said of Rome: Magis nocuit Romanis Carthago tam citò euersa, quam prius nocuerat tam diu aduersa. The counsell is good; <sup>a</sup> Sic vine tanquam inimici semper te videant: for the Church, as Christ, must suffer and ouercome, in medio inimicorum, in the middest among all her enemies: Psal. 116. 2.

<sup>b</sup> Hemingius in locum.

<sup>c</sup> 2. Cor. 11. 14.

<sup>d</sup> In Galat. 1.

<sup>e</sup> Matth. 7. 15.

Secondly, this makes against the Brownists in their hypocriticall conuersation. It is said here, that so soone as the malicious man had sowed tares among the wheat, he went his way. <sup>b</sup> Not that he departs from hypocrites and heretickes, but he putteth on another face: when he doth a worke of darknesse, he transformes himselfe into an <sup>c</sup> Angell of light. He is no more blacke, nor browne, but a white deuill, saith <sup>d</sup> Luther. And therefore when it is objected against the conformable Clergie, that Heretikes and Schismatiks are graue men, and good men: our answer may be; that the deuill is now gone: <sup>e</sup> rauening Wolves are in sheepes clothing. Tares are so like good corne, that they cannot be discerned until the blade spring up and bring forth fruit. Fitches haue many fetches: hypocrites are like Goodwin sands, in dubio pelagi terraeq;, neither of both, and either of both, as occasion shall serue: <sup>f</sup> Gentilem agunt vitam sub nomine Christiano: They play the Turkes vnder the names of Christians, oues visu, vulpes estus: there is no more deuill appearing, but all is now the Spirit of God, and secret reuelations enen from heauen.

<sup>f</sup> Hieron. ad Celant. tom. 1. fol. 109.

Thirdly, this parable makes against the Papiſts, in the question of } Their religious antiquity.
} Putting to death of Heretikes.
} Purgatory.

<sup>g</sup> D. Bishops epistle to the King, Sect. 13.

We protest, and that vnfaignedly, that no Church ought further to depart from the Church of Rome, then she is departed from her selfe in her flourishing estate. Shew then, say the <sup>g</sup> Papiſts, in what age the tares were sowed among the wheat: When and where purgatory, prayer for the dead, indulgences, auricular confession, and other new trickes of Poperie crept into the Church. Answer is made for vs here by Christ; While men slept, the malicious enemy sowed tares among the wheat. And it was not discerned until the blade was sprung up, and had brought forth fruit.

<sup>b</sup> Apoc. 17. 5.

<sup>i</sup> 2. Theſſ. 2. 7.

When I see the finger of the diall remoued from one or two, shall I be so mad as to thinke it standeth still where it was, because I could not perceiue the stirring of it? In the <sup>h</sup> forehead of the whore of Babylon, is written a mysterie: so Paul <sup>i</sup> calls the working of Antichrist, a mysterie of iniquitie; because the man of sinne doth couertly and cunningly winde his abominations into the Church of Christ.

<sup>k</sup> Decad. 1. lib. 1.

<sup>l</sup> D. Abbots answer to Bishops epistle to the King, p. 111.

Politicians obserue, that corruptions are bred in ciuill bodies, as diseases in naturall bodies: at the first they be not discerned easily, but in their growth: insensibly they proceed often, till it come to passe, which <sup>k</sup> Linus said of the Roman State; Nec vitia nostra, nec remedia ferre possumus; We can neither endure the malady, nor the medicine. <sup>l</sup> Was it so in the Empire of Rome, and might it not be so in the Church of Rome?

The <sup>m</sup> Rhemists acknowledge many barbarismes and incongruities in the vulgar Latine Text. Cardinall Caietan, Sanctus Pagnius, Franciscus Forerius, Hieronymus Oleastrius, <sup>n</sup> Sixtus Senensis, all learned Papists, ingenuously confesse, that beside solecismes in the vulgar translation of Rome, there are many grosse faults, additions, transpositions, omissions. <sup>o</sup> Isidorus Clarius a Spanish Monke, professed that he found in it 8000. errors. It is plaine they were so manifest and so manifold, as that the Councell of <sup>p</sup> Trent, and after it Pope Sixtus Quintus, and Clement 8. tooke order for the correcting of it. I would know then of a Papist, how this cockle was sown among Gods seed? in what yeere this and that absurditie first crept into their Text? as Luke 15. 8. domum euertit, for domum euertit: and Exod 34. 29. Moses in stead of a bright countenance, is said to haue cornutum faciem, a face of horne, whereupon the common Painters among the Papists, vually paint Moses with two hørnes, as a cuckold, to the great scandall of Christian Religion, as <sup>q</sup> Augustinus Steuchus, and <sup>r</sup> Sixtus Senensis obserue.

The whole Rhemish Colledge cannot tell in what age confusus est, in stead of confessus est, entred in, Marke 8. 33. Pope Sixtus Quintus hath sundry coniectures, in the preface prefixed to his Bible, vel ex inuiriâ temporum, vel ex librariorum incuriâ, vel ex impressorum imperitiâ, vel ex temerè emendantium licentiâ, vel ex recentiorum interpretum audaciâ, vel ex hereticorum scholiis ad marginem. If the Pope cannot tell, in whose head and hands is all the Churches treasure, both for wit and wealth; it is enough for the Disciple to be as his Master is, and the seruant as his Lord.

The late Pope Clement 8. corrected the correction of his predecessor Sixtus Quintus, setting forth another Bible, which one called unhappily, The new Transgression. In these reformed editions of Rome, there is such <sup>t</sup> difference, that we may say with the <sup>t</sup> Prophet; Egyptians are set against Egyptians, and the <sup>u</sup> destroyer against the destroyer, one against another, and all against the truth.

In the <sup>x</sup> Roman Missals and Breuiaries, there were so many damnable blasphemies, and superstitious errors, that the late Popes euen for shame reformed them; and yet they cannot tell in what yeere these corruptions first grew: and therefore what need we tell them at what time this and that Popish nouelty was first townen? Is it not enough that we now discern the tares among the wheat: and prone to the proudest of their side, that there was no such darnell in Gods field for the space of <sup>y</sup> six hundred yeeres after Christ? I say, no such stinking weeds, as the single communion of the Priest, halfe communion of the people, worshipping of the bread, creeping to the Crosse, supremacie of the Pope, which are the most essentiall points of all the Romish religion.

Secondly, this parable makes against the <sup>z</sup> Papists in the question of putting Heretikes to death. I confesse the words, finite utraque simul crescere; teach not the Magistrates duty, but rather shew Gods bounty towards Heretikes. It is the <sup>a</sup> Princes office to banish, imprison, mulct, and by all meanes possible, to suppress them, and in no sort to suffer them, as being so pestilent as the plague. For as the plague doth instantly strike the heart, and by poysoning one infects many; <sup>b</sup> sic heresis cor ipsum animâ petit, & cum vnum interficit, centum alios inficit: Heresie strikes at faith, and so takes away the life of the Christian; for the iust doth liue by faith, and then it fretteth as a <sup>c</sup> canker or gangren, corrupting all other members of Christs mysticall body; we may cry mors in illâ; as the children of the Prophets, <sup>d</sup> mors in ollâ; such cockle then ought to be cropt and topt, but not vtterly rooted vp and burnt vntill the great harvest. A murderer and a traytor indued with faith and repentance, may passe from the crosse to the crowne; as the blessed theefe in the Goipell was instantly translated from his paine to Paradise: but an Heretike dying in his heresie, cannot be saued. He therefore that puts an Heretike to death, is a double murderer, as <sup>e</sup> Luther thinks, in destroying his body with death temporall, in slaying his soule with death eternal. Excommunication, exile, losse of goods, imprisonment, deprivation, haue

<sup>m</sup> Preface to the Reader. Sect 22.
<sup>n</sup> Bibliothec. lib. 8 fol. ult.
<sup>o</sup> Epist. Isidori. prefat. Bib. Vener. An. 1557. Sec D. Fulke defence Eng. Trans pag 00. <sup>p</sup> Sess. 4.

<sup>q</sup> Annot. in Exod. <sup>r</sup> Bibliothec. lib. 5. annot. 116.

<sup>t</sup> Consule bellum papale per Thom. James <sup>u</sup> Essay 19. 2.
<sup>v</sup> Essay 21. 2.
<sup>w</sup> Consue pref. Pij. & Clem. 8 Breuiar. nuper reformat.

<sup>y</sup> Melancthon, Jewel, and all other learned protestants.

<sup>z</sup> Eekus & v. librid. tit de omburend heret. & Russen. contra Luther. art. 33.

<sup>a</sup> Chrysost. hom. 47. in Matth. <sup>b</sup> Bellarm. prefat. Tom. 1. controuers.

<sup>c</sup> 2. Tim. 2. 17. <sup>d</sup> 2. King. 4. 40.

<sup>e</sup> Possil. maior. in locum.

<sup>f</sup> Bullinger de councils lib. 2.
cap. 12.

<sup>g</sup> The bones of Fagus and Bucer.
<sup>h</sup> M. Fox. A. & S. and Mon. fol.
1765.

<sup>i</sup> In 4. sent. dist.
11. quest. 3.
<sup>k</sup> Chemnitius exam. in con.
Tridat. de Transubstant.
<sup>l</sup> Andradus vs Chem: ubi
supra
<sup>m</sup> De Sacramēt.
Eucharist. lib. 3
cap. 23. Sect. 5e
cundo dicit <sup>n</sup> Compendium theolog. lib. 6.
cap. 14.
<sup>o</sup> Whitaker.
respon. ad. epist.
Campian.
<sup>p</sup> Execution of English Justice.
<sup>q</sup> Loc. com. tit.
de zelo.
<sup>r</sup> August. in Psalme 39.

<sup>s</sup> Sir Edward Hoby to T. H.
S. 5. & Sulliu.
de purgat. cap. 4.
§. 6. & c.
<sup>t</sup> In Timeo.
<sup>u</sup> Æncid. 6.
<sup>v</sup> De purgatorio
lib. 2. cap. 6.
<sup>y</sup> Contra Luther.
See B. Iewel, disc. Apolog.
part. 2. cap. 16.
& Sulliu. de
Purgat. cap. 2.
<sup>z</sup> Contra Luther.
art. 37.
<sup>a</sup> Consule Iewel.
ubi supra diuis.
sion 2.
<sup>b</sup> In 4. sentent.
dist. 20. quest. 2.
Consule Sulliu.
ubi supra.

beene reputed euermore fit punishments for heretikes: but fire and fagot is not Gods law, but cannon shot, <sup>f</sup> enacted first by Pope Lucius the third, Anno 1184. and confirmed after ward by Innocentius the third, and Gregorie the ninth, as it appeares in the Decretals: and it was executed against the Waldenses, and in latter times against the Protestants especially, martyring the s dead with the living, the wife with the husband, the new borne, yea <sup>h</sup> not borne infant with the mother, (whom they should haue cherished by all lawes, and christned by their owne lawes) and that not for the denying of any article of the Creed, but only for not beleeuing Transubstantiation, and other new quirkes of the Schoole, which the most iudicious among them, as y et cannot explicate: for as one wittily,

Corpore de Christi lis est, de sanguine lis est, De q, modo lis est, non habitura modum.

<sup>i</sup> Scotus, <sup>k</sup> Cameracensis, and <sup>l</sup> other Papists of great note, confesse planely, that Transubstantiation cannot be enforced by the Gospell, nor by any testimonies of the ancient Church. And <sup>m</sup> Bellarmino, Romes oracle, doth acknowledge, that it may bee well doubted whether there be any place of Scripture clearly to proue Transubstantiation, otherwise then that the Church hath declared it so to be, because many learned and acute men hold the contrary. What hellish cruelty then was it in the Bonnors of Queene Marie, to make bon-fires of silly women, for not vnderstanding this their ineffable mysterie, wherein are nine miracles at the least, as <sup>n</sup> Ioannes de Combis affirms? If these gun-powder Priests, and fagot Diuines are Saints, I wonder who are Scythians? if these be Catholikes, who are Canibals?

In this question, as in all other, I submit my seife to the iudgement of our Church, and practise of our Country. Which, as <sup>o</sup> Diuines, and <sup>p</sup> Statesmen auow, neuer put any to death mcerely for the cause of Religion. I conclude with the glosse of <sup>q</sup> Luther; Hoc verbum, Sinite, non est confirmationis, aut approbationis hereticorum, sed consolationis & exhortationis nostri ad patientiam: Aperte se aut pe. secutor paganus, ut leo; hereticus insidiatur, ut draco; ille cogit negare Christum, iste docet: aduersus illum opus patientia, aduersus hunc opus vigilantia. Consulas Augustinum epist. 48. 50. 61. 127. 158. 159. 160. Diligite homines, interficite errores, sine superbiâ de veritate presumite, sine sanitiâ pro veritate certate, contra literas Petilian. lib. 1. cap. 29. All which, I desire you, to construe not of blasphemous wretches, obstinately denying the great mysteries of holy faith, as namely, Christis incarnation, and the blessed Trinitie; but of such Hereticks as erre in other Articles of our Creed, concerning the Catholike Church, the Communion of Saints, the forgiuensse of sinnes, in which howsoeuer the Papists in our iudgement offend, yet none of them are put to death in our State, religionis causa mera sed mixta, mixta cum mala mente & fide in principem, as that learned Father, in Tortura Torti pag. 123.

Thirdly, this makes against popish Purgatory, prouing it to be superfluous and idle: for whatsoeuer is in the Lords field, is either corne or cockle: a barne is prouided for the one, and vnquenchable fire for the other. A third place for a third sort of persons, is that <sup>t</sup> which neither God made, nor Christ mentioned, nor the Apostles beleued, nor the Primitiue Church imbraced. It is an heathenish fantasie founded by the Poets, and not by the Prophets, by <sup>u</sup> Plato and <sup>v</sup> Virgil, not by Peter and Paul, and that vpon so tickle ground, that the most learned Papists can neither tell vs, where it is, nor what it is.

<sup>x</sup> Bellarmino reports eight sundry different opinions about the place, confessing honestly, that the Church as yet hath not defined, ubi sit purgatorium; it is in so many places, as that it can be in no place, quod ubiq, nullibi. Sir <sup>y</sup> Thomas More said, that in all Purgatorie there is no water, and that he would proue by the words of Zach. 9. 11. I haue loosed thy prisoners out of the pit, wherein is no water. On the contrary <sup>z</sup> Roffensis affirmed, that there is great store of water, and this he proued by Dauid, Psal. 66. 11. We went thorow fire and water. <sup>a</sup> Albertus and Roffensis are of opinion, that purgatories executioners are good Angels. Other, as <sup>b</sup> Dionysius Carthusianus, and Sir Thomas More make no doubt, but that that they be deuils. Cardinall Bellarmino is of both sides, and no side concluding this point ; <sup>c</sup> Maneat hoc inter secreta, quæ suò tempore nobis aperientur. Happily this vncertaintie is a great certaintie to the Pope, being Lord of Purgatorie ; for he can <sup>d</sup> when he please make goale deliuerie, and auoid all the soules in Purgatorie, being his peculiar ; the Pope may * command Gods Angels to fetch away from thence whom he list : and therefore this imaginarie fire may make his kitchin smoke, but it is altogether needlesse for the people ; because Christ (saith <sup>e</sup> Paul) hath purged our sinnes : all our sinnes, saith S. <sup>f</sup> Iohn : as <sup>g</sup> Augustine sweetly, Gods pitie is mans purgatorie.

Lastly, this makes against Atheists, imagining that either eternall iudgement shall haue an end : or else that the world shall haue no end : our Sauour confutes both in his exposition of this parable: verse 39. The harvest is the end of the world, and the reapers be the Angels, who shall gather the tares, &c. but the wheat shall be gathered into Gods barne.

The glorious Angels at the great harvest, shall first gather the tares, <sup>h</sup> separating them from the wheat, which is pæna damni, priuation of God, and all that is good ; Angels, Saints, friends ; and then they shall bind them in sheaves to be burnt, which is pæna sensus, a possession of hell and all that is euill ; <sup>i</sup> they shall not be bound all in one, but in many fagots ; an aduiterer with an aduiteresse shall make one fagot, a drunkard with a drunkard another fagot, a traytor with a traytor another fagot : as there be feuerall sinnes, so feuerall sheaves ; all shall not be punished in the same degree, though in the same fire : all shall be burnt, yet none consumed. In that vnquenchable flame, <sup>k</sup> pæna gehennales torquent, non extorquent: puniunt, non finiunt corpora: mors sine morte, finis sine fine, defectus sine defectu.

Dauid said of his enemies in the 55. Psalme ; Let them goe downe quicke into hell : in another sence we may wish so much vnto our best friends, euen our owne selues, (as <sup>m</sup> one fitly) Let vs often goe to hell while we liue, that we come not thither when we be dead ; let vs euery day descend into hell by meditation, that in the last day we may not descend by condemnation.

Gather the wheat into my barne. ] In Gods field tares are among wheat, but in Gods barne no tare, no care shall molest vs : in the kingdome of grace bad are mingled with the good, but in the kingdome of glory there shall be none but good, enjoying nothing but good, good Angels, good Saints ; aboue all, our good God, in whose <sup>n</sup> light we shall see such light, <sup>o</sup> as the eye of man hath not seene, neither eare heard, neither heart sufficiently can conceiue, &c.

The Epistle. I. COR. 9. 24.

Perceiue ye not, how that they which runne in a course, runne all, but one receiue the reward ?

Here are <sup>p</sup> two waies of teaching ; one by precept, and another by paterne. S. Paul vseth here both : a precept, so runne that ye may obtaine : a paterne, I therefore so runne, &c.

The precept, is pref- } 1. From runners, in the 24. verse.
sed by two similitudes : } 2. From wraстlers, in the 25.

The summe of both is ; if such as runne for a wager, <sup>q</sup> and contend for a corruptible crowne, suffer great paines, and abstaine from many pleasures to win the gole ; what should we doe, what should we not doe to gaine the crowne of glory, proposed and promised onely to such as run, trauell and endeuour for it ? So runne therefore that ye may obtaine.

In which exhortation foure } points are regardable : the } Men, yee.
Matter, runne.
Manner, so runne.
Marke, that ye may obtaine.

<sup>c</sup> Lib. 2. de Purgat. cap. 13.
<sup>d</sup> Ioannes Angelus ubi (scilicet) ubi supra diuis. 2.
* Clem. 6. in bullâ.
<sup>e</sup> Heb. 1. 3.
<sup>f</sup> 1. Epist. 1.
<sup>g</sup> Lib. 2. de a. l. i. sum Felice. cap. 21. tom 5 fol. 362.

<sup>h</sup> Matt. 25. 32.

<sup>i</sup> Ludolphus in locum.

<sup>k</sup> Prosper.
<sup>l</sup> Augustin. de Spiritu & Anima, cap. 56.

<sup>m</sup> Gucuarâ epi.

<sup>n</sup> Psalm. 36. 9.
<sup>o</sup> 1. Cor. 2. 9.

<sup>p</sup> Melancthon. orat. de argument. bibl. præfix. tom. 5.

<sup>q</sup> Rhem. annot. in locum.

Runne ye.] That is, all ye; for that is taken as granted here; Perceine ye not? All men are viatores in this valley of teares before they can be comprehensores, ascended vp to heauen, and resting on Gods holy hill, the blessed Virgin not excepted, the most blessed of all the sons of men Christ Iesus himselve not exempted, he first <sup>r</sup> suffered, and after entred into glory; first he did runne, then obtaine. God hath three houses, Heauen for ioy, Hell for paine, Earth for labour: Man is borne to trauell, as the sparkes flie vpward: Ioh. 5. 7.

The matter then in the next place to be considered, is, that we must runne, Runne yee.

Wherein obserue <sup>r</sup> two things especially:

} 1. The labour	} of our life.
} 2. The shortnes

The labour, in that we must runne; the shortnesse, in that it is but a race. <sup>r</sup> Man that is borne of a woman, is of short continuance, and full of trouble: <sup>u</sup> Animal ani breuissimi, sollicitudinis infinita: Mans life is not short and sweet, but sharpe and short. Running is a violent exercise, therefore sharpe; a stage is but a little ground, therefore short.

God is good vnto vs in tempering these so fitly, that thinking on the shortnesse of our life we may be content, because full of miseries; and againe, considering the miseries of our life we may be comforted, because it is but of small continuance, not a long journey, but a short tie.

The word originall is ἄθλον, a race of men or horse, whereof I finde in <sup>x</sup> antiquitie three kinds:

} Italicum.
} Olympicum.
} Pythicum.

One of Italie, containing 625. feet, that is, 125. paces. The second of Olympus, containing 600. feet, that is, 120. paces. The third, containing 1000. feet, that is, 200. paces. It is probable that Paul writing this vnto the Corinthians, alluded to the Olympiacke course, which is the shortest, much like the ties in Kent, some 30. or 40. rods. And as experience shewes daily, some giue ouer at the first setting out, in the very cradle; some perish when they haue run two or three paces in their youth; other about the middest of their race; most are out of breath before they can reach the staied paces of threescore yeeres; if any liue till eightie, we repute him exceeding old. Why doe I name rods or paces? Our life is as it were a <sup>z</sup> span long, a very <sup>a</sup> nothing in respect of eternitie: seeing then our course is small, and reward great, a little paine, but an inestimable price; seeing our <sup>b</sup> light affliction, which is but for a moment, causeth vnto vs a farre most excellent and an eternall waight of glory; let vs not faint in our course, but so runne that we may obtaine.

Sorruone.] Noting the manner and the meanes, <sup>c</sup> a generall rule necessarie for the course of our whole life, teaching vs in all we say or doe to foresee the right end, and to vse the meanes for obtaining that end.

Some looke to the right end, but vse not the right meanes, as Caroloſtadius in Luthers age, who desired the Gospell might flourish, but hee failed in the meanes; he despised authoritie, neglected humane lawes, and was altogether transported with his owne priuate humors of ambition and couetousnesse. And so the Schismatikes in our time, especially those of the separation, embrace the Gospell (as it should seeme) so much as we, but they faile in their Sic, in their so running; for they runne out of the Church, without which none can be safe, none can be saued, and so the more they runne, the further are they from the prize.

Some vse the right meanes, but not for the right end, as <sup>d</sup> hypocrites vse to fast and giue to the poore, not for Gods glory, but for their own praise. So vaine-glorious Preachers and people seeke the truth, but not for the truth, & <sup>e</sup> dum quarunt eam, non quarunt ipsam.

Some neither vse the right meanes, nor aime at the right end, as Atheists, who prefer their five senses before the foure Euangeliſts, and panem nostrum in the Pater noster, before sanctificetur nomen tuum.

Some

<sup>r</sup> Luk. 24. 26.

<sup>r</sup> Aquin. & Gorran, in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Iob. 14. 1.

<sup>r</sup> Petrarcha.

<sup>x</sup> Consule Cornu cop. pa. 196. 197.

<sup>z</sup> Psal. 39. 6.

<sup>a</sup> Psal. 144. 4.

<sup>b</sup> 2. Cor. 4. 17.

<sup>c</sup> Melancthon. in loc. tom. 4. fol. 236.

<sup>d</sup> Matt. 7.

<sup>e</sup> Augustin.

Some looke to the right end, and vse the right meanes, as the holy Prophets and Apostles, all their preaching tended to the glory of God, and they run the right way, to propagate that his glory: So run therefore that yee may obtaine.

Now that we may run well, two  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{due preparation before} \\ \text{things are required especially: a } \left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{right disposition in} \\ \text{the race.} \end{array} \right. \end{array} \right.$

He that vndertakes to run a tye, will first, if he be wise, <sup>f</sup> diet himselfe, and not spend his time in drunkennesse and gluttonie; the Text saith, hee will abstaine from all things, euen those meates and pleasures which he doth most affect, onely to make his bodie swift and fit for the race. So if we will happily run our course in Gods way, we must not walke in surfetting and drunkennesse, in chambering and wantonnesse, but as Paul here, we must tame our bodies, and bring them into subiection: We must not be filled with  $\text{\&}$  wine, but with the holy Spirit: for fasting and voluntarie chastising of our bodies, as occasion is offered, are not workes <sup>h</sup> either superfluous or superstitious. A full panch and beaury head is fitter to lie than to goe, to stand still than to run a swift race. The Gentiles liue to eat, but <sup>i</sup> Christians eat to liue, and life consists in <sup>k</sup> health and strength, and both are maintained especially by moderate fare.

Secondly, the runner vscth to strip himselfe of all about him, except some white garment to couer his nakednesse: and so we must put off the workes of darknesse, and euery thing that <sup>l</sup> presseth downe: we must cast away the cares of this life, <sup>m</sup> vsing the world as if we vsed it not; hauing wiues and children, as if we had neither wiues nor children, accounting all things losse to winne Christ. We must strip our selues of all that might hinder vs in our course, leauing nothing on vs but the <sup>n</sup> long robe of Christs righteousnesse to couer our nakednesse, to <sup>o</sup> couer our wickednesse, as our Apostle, Rom. 13. 14. Put yee on the Lord Iesus Christ, and take no thought for the flesh to fulfill the lusts of it.

And as the runner must haue due preparation before his race; so likewise a right disposition in his course, that he begin well, continue well, and end well.

First, he must be carefull to begin well, to set out in the right and direct passages: otherwise if he run in wrie-ways and by-ways, the more his labour, the greater is his losse. We must take heed, lest meta be p transposita: such as will obtaine Gods prize, must walke in Gods path, turning neither to the right hand nor to the left, Deut. 5. 32, 33. for there is danger in both; and, as <sup>q</sup> Luther obserues, often the greatest perill is on the right hand. For Schismatikes hurt more vnder a colour of reforming and building vp the Church, than Heretikes and open Tyrants can doe by persecuting and pulling downe the Church. Omnes amici omnes inimici (quoth Bernard.) 'On the contrary, by the Martyrs blood, the Church is not destroyed, but watered: <sup>r</sup> Ante fuit in operibus fratrum candida, nunc in martyrum crumore purpurea. Euerie man must be sure to set forth aright, in the true profession of the Catholike faith; otherwise when we runne without Christ, who is the way, <sup>s</sup> then our wisdome is double foolishnesse, our righteousnesse double sinne; when we are best, then are we worst. Againe, we must walke in an honest vocation warranted by Gods Word, otherwise we shall not run to, but from the prize.

Secondly, we must continue well; for many run, but one receiveth the crowne: we must therefore take heed that we doe not slip; or if we slip, that we doe not fall; or if we fall, that we fall not backward, but forward, so that we may with speed rise againe. The most iust <sup>t</sup> often slip, and sometime fall, but they fall not backward as <sup>u</sup> Eli, and the <sup>x</sup> Iewes who tooke Christ, but forward as <sup>y</sup> Abraham in the valley of Mambre, and <sup>z</sup> Ezechiel by the riuer Chebar.

Lastly, we must end well; Death is our last enemy, which must be destroyed, and therefore we must run well vnto the end, and in the end. As good not to run at all, as to run neere the end, and then to lose the prize: to suffer Satan at the last houre to snatch our reward from vs. A runner will be sure to stretch out his hands at the races end to take the marke: so when death approacheth, a Christian must stretch out the hand of faith apprehending Christ and his righteousnesse.

Obserue

<sup>f</sup> English glos. in locum.

<sup>g</sup> Ephes. 5. 18.

<sup>h</sup> D Fulke in locum.
<sup>i</sup> Clem. Alex. pe-dagog lib. 2. cap. 1.

<sup>k</sup> Vita non est viuere, sed ualere.
<sup>l</sup> Heb. 12. 1.
<sup>m</sup> 1. Cor. 7. 31.

<sup>n</sup> Apocal. 7. 9.
<sup>o</sup> Psal. 32. 1.

<sup>p</sup> Luther. post. in loc.
<sup>q</sup> Con. in Gal. 1. verse 6.

<sup>r</sup> Cyprian. epist. lib. 2. epist. 6.

<sup>s</sup> Luther. in Gal. 1. 4.

<sup>t</sup> Prou. 24. 16.
<sup>u</sup> 1 Sam. 4.
<sup>x</sup> Ioh. 18. 6.
<sup>y</sup> Genes. 13.
<sup>z</sup> Ezech. 1.

<sup>a</sup> Ambros. in loc.

Obserue yet a great difference betweene the Christian and other races. In the games of other runners, as it is here said, one onely doth win the goale; <sup>a</sup> but in the Christian course, many receiue the prize, so many as continue stedfast vnto the end, though they doe not run so fast, though they doe not run from so far as other. So Christ shewes in the parable of the vineyard, allotted for the Gospell on this day: Such as came to worke at the eleventh houre had a penny, so well as they that came into the vineyard at the third houre.

<sup>b</sup> Marlorat. ex Coluin. in loc.

Secondly, in other races one hinders another; <sup>b</sup> but in our iourney to heauen one helps another. The more the merrier, the greater company the better encouragement, euery good man being a spur to his neighbour. As when Peter and Iohn ran to Christs sepulcher, Iohn ouer-run <sup>c</sup> Peter vnto the graue, Peter out-went Iohn into the graue.

<sup>c</sup> Ioh. 20.

Thirdly, runners and wraflers contend for a crowne that shall perish, but we runne to obtaine an euerlasting crowne: They runne for a little prize, for a little praise; but we strue for no lesse than a kingdome that is at stake, that is the marke, which being <sup>d</sup> infinitely above the value of all mens workes, it cannot be deserued by merit, but only giuen by grace: to propound a garland for the runner, and a crowne for the wrafler, proceeds altogether from Gods owne meere mercy: to run, and not to fall, to fall, and not finally to be cast downe, comes also from his especiall grace. So that it is <sup>e</sup> neither in him that willet, nor in him that runneth, but in God that shewes mercy. Yet we must so run, that we may obtaine. We must worke well in respect of the reward, as also for feare of punishment, due to such as worke not well, albeit not onely, nor chiefly for these considerations, as slaues for feare, or hirelings for reward; but principally out of louing obedience to God, as becomes children vnto so good a father. Holy conuersation is a signe and seale of our iustification, by which our election is made <sup>f</sup> sure. ¶ Feramus ergo fidei fructum ab ipsa pueritiâ, augeamus in adolescentiâ, coloremus in iuuentute, compleamus in senectute.

<sup>d</sup> D. Fulq. in loc.

<sup>e</sup> Rom. 9. 16.

<sup>f</sup> 2. Pet. 1. 1.

<sup>g</sup> Ambros. de Abraham. lib. 2. cap. 8.

<sup>h</sup> Bucholzer. in Chro. An. 1500.

<sup>i</sup> Ludolphus de vitâ Christi, part. 2. cap. 13.

<sup>k</sup> Luk. 10. 37.

<sup>l</sup> Melancthon. in locum.

<sup>m</sup> Gyrard Cambren. in speculo Ecclesie.

I therefore so run] <sup>h</sup> One said of Erasmus his Enchiridion, that there was more deuotion in the booke, than in the writer. But here Saint Pauls life doth preach so much as his letter; I so run, so fight I. Preachers, as it is well obserued vpon the Gospell for this day, must be not only <sup>i</sup> verbarij, but operarij: so that as Christ said to the <sup>k</sup> Lawyer, I say to thee, Goe and do thou likewise.

Not as one that beateth the aire] <sup>i</sup> Such as contend in the Church about things vncertaine and vnnecessarie, beat the aire.

I tame my bodie] The <sup>m</sup> Monkes of S. Swithin in Winchester, complained to Henry the second, that their Bishop had taken away three of their dishes, and left them but ten: to whom the King answered, that the Bishop should do well to take away ten, and to leaue them but three; for they were so many as he had in his Court. In England Monkes so tamed their bodie, that among vs as yet, Frier and fat are <sup>n</sup> voces conuertibiles: and the new bastard Monke, though his habit resemble loue, conering a multitude of sinnes; yet himselte is the picture of enuie. No treason in old time without a Priest, no treason in our time without a Iesuite: so that I may say with the <sup>o</sup> Poet.

In vestimentis non est contritio mentis.

Ni mens sit pura, nil confert regula dura.

<sup>p</sup> Bodily exercise profiteth little; but godlinesse is profitable to all things. As <sup>q</sup> to shew the behauiour of a Prophet in the robes of a Cawilere, is louely: so contrariwise, to do the workes of a ruffian in the weeds of a Priest, is no better than hypocrisie.

Left by any meanes] Our Apostle was assured of his saluation, as is eident, Ro. 8.

<sup>r</sup> This then is to be construed of reproofe before men, not of reprobation before God. Or if it be referred to damnation eternall, his <sup>s</sup> meaning is, that we may not presume of the end, without the meanes and waies, by which Almighty God brings vs vnto it. And so we <sup>t</sup> lambes may tremble, seeing the bell-wether of the flocke must so labour and subiect his flesh, lest perhaps he misse the marke.

<sup>u</sup> Christ

<sup>n</sup> Lubbers are heires apparēt of Abbeyes.

<sup>o</sup> Poem. de corrupto statu Ecclesie. per Illyricū.

<sup>p</sup> 1. Tim. 4. 8.

<sup>q</sup> Hieron. ad Exuperant. tom. 1. pag. 210.

<sup>r</sup> Marlorat. & Beza in loc.

<sup>s</sup> D. Fulq. in loc.

<sup>t</sup> August. apud Pet. Lombard. in locum.

“ Christ doth assure that a little faith, euen little as a graine of mustard seed, is strong enough to cast all mountaines into the sea, that shall rise up to diuide betweene God and vs. It is true, that the x shield of faith is able to repell all the fiery darts of the wicked: but this our faith is made y fat by good workes. And if we will make our calling and election sure, we must with all diligence z ioyne vertue with faith, and with vertue knowledge, and with knowledge temperance, and with temperance patience, and with patience godlinesse, and with godlinesse brotherly kindnesse, and with brotherly kindnesse loue, &c.

<sup>a</sup> Matt. 17. 20.

<sup>x</sup> Ephes. 6. 16.
<sup>y</sup> Luther.

<sup>z</sup> 2. Pet. 1. 5.

The Gospell, MATTH. 20. I.

The kingdome of heauen is like vnto a man that is an housholder, &c.

O Vr Saniour was delighted exceedingly with certaine prouerbiall speeches; as, <sup>a</sup> Euery man that exalteth himselfe, shall be brought low; and he that humbleth himselfe, shall be exalted. <sup>b</sup> Vnto euery man that bath, it shall be giuen, but from him that bath not, euen that which he hath shall be taken away. Many that are first shall be last, and the last shall be first. The which saying is hard, and (as <sup>c</sup> Bishop Latymer speakes) it is no meat for mowers and ignorant people. Christ therefore propounds here this parable for <sup>d</sup> explanation thereof, as it is apparent by the 16. verse of this present Chapter, as also by the last words of the former. Many that are first shall be last, and the last shall be first: for the kingdome of heauen, &c.

<sup>a</sup> Luk. 18. 14.

<sup>b</sup> Matt 25. 29.

<sup>c</sup> Sermon on the Gospell for Septuages.

<sup>d</sup> Ludolphus de vita Christi part. 2. cap. 13. last sent. con. cap. 101.

Marlorat, ex Bullinger. in loc. & reliquis ferè oens.

<sup>e</sup> Augustin. de sanctâ uirginie. cap. 31.

<sup>f</sup> Luther. postil. maior. in loc.

In which, a lecture of meeknesse is read by the great <sup>e</sup> Doctor of humilitie; <sup>f</sup> teaching all such as are forward in religion, not to be proud, because the first may be last; and all such as are called late, not to despair, because the last may be first.

In the whole parable, three points are to be noted: our }	calling.

}	worke.
}	reward.

Author of our calling; God. In our calling,

}	diuersitie of our calling, in respect of	time, called at houre, 3. 6. 9. 11.
}		place. some called in the market, and other else where.

 obserue the

God is termed here pater-familias, in respect of his s fatherly loue and care, disposing of all things in the Catholike Church, with greater prouidence and wisdom, than any discreet housholder can manage the priuate businesse of his particular familie. So that all Atheists and Epicures holding that either there is no God, or that he cares not for the things on earth, are confuted by this oue word, that God is an housholder, a Father of his Church.

<sup>g</sup> Culman. con. 2. in locum.

Went out] Whither can he goe, that is euery where? <sup>h</sup> Liceat dicere, exijt a se, ut intret in te, imo ut te conuertet in se. God went out from his maiestie, which is vnknowne, vnto his mercy which is manifested in all his workes, in gouerning the Church especially, sending labourers into his haruest, and workmen into his vinyard.

<sup>h</sup> Pont. in ioc.

If then all labourers in the vinyard are called by God, <sup>i</sup> such as are busied in vnlawfull professions and occupations, not allowed by his word, are not seruants of the Lord, but hirelings of Satan.

<sup>i</sup> Marlorat, ex Caluin. in loc.

The second point obseruable in our calling, is the diuersitie thereof in respect of time and place. God calls in diuers houres of the day; <sup>k</sup> that is, in diuers ages of the world, and in diuers yeeres of our age. In the time before the Law, God called Abel, Enoch, Noah, Abraham, and such like. In the time vnder the Law, Moses, Dauid, Esay, together with other Kings and Prophets: in the time after the Law, the blessed Apostles, Martyrs, Confessors. Or as <sup>l</sup> other, God called

<sup>k</sup> Ludolphus & Iansen. ubi supra ex Chrysost.

<sup>l</sup> Hieron. in loc. & August. de ueris Dom. ser 59.

some

some in the first houre, as Adam and the Patriarkes vntill Noah: some in the third houre, as all Noahs posteritie to Abraham: some in the sixt houre, as all his seruants, who liued betweene Abraham and Moses: some in the ninth houre, as Moses and the Prophets: some in the eleuent houre, as Peter and Paul; and all other who liued siuce Christs time, which is hora nouissima, the last houre, Ioh. 1. Epist. 2. 18. 1. Cor. 10. 11. But I thinke with S. Hierome, that this difference is meant of our age, rather than of the worlds age. For our great Master calls some to labour in his vineyard at the first houre of the day, that is, in their childhood, as Samuel, Jeremie, John the Baptist; each whereof might say with the <sup>m</sup> Psalmographer, O Lord, thou wast mine hope when I hanged yet vpon my mothers breasts: Thou art my God euen from my mothers wombe. Other he calls in the third houre, that is, in their youth, as Daniel the Prophet, and John the Euangelist; of whom <sup>n</sup> S. Hierome, Discipulum minimum Iesus amauit plurimum. Other in the sixt houre, that is, in their middle age, as Peter and Andrew. Other in the eleuent houre, that is, in their old age, as Gamalsel and Ioseph of Arimathea; some not only in the last houre of the day, but euen in the last minute of the houre, as the theefe vpon the Crosse, Luk. 23.

Again this our calling is diuers in respect of the place: for God calls some from their <sup>o</sup> ships, and some from their <sup>p</sup> shops, and some from vnder the <sup>q</sup> hedges, and some from the market, as it is here, verse 3.

Now this diuers calling at diuers times, <sup>z</sup> caueat, for such as are called. and in diuers places, intimates a <sup>z</sup> comfort, for such as are not called.

A caueat for such as are called, that they neither magnifie themselves, nor vilifie other. It proceeds not from our good works, but from Gods good will, that we be called; and he being infinitely rich in mercy, can call the most wicked ruffian, euen though he haue denied Christ with Peter, or sold Christ with Iudas, or crucified Christ with Pilate. <sup>r</sup> Iudge not therefore, that ye be not iudge: iudge not maliciously, iudge not curiously. The counsell of Gods election is secret: <sup>s</sup> whom he did predestinate, them also he calleth; and whom he calleth, he iustifieth; and whom he iustifieth, he sanctifieth in his good time: and therefore iudge not before the time.

This also may <sup>t</sup> comfort such as feele not themselves as yet sufficiently called. Our Good Lord calls at all times, in all places: he called Paul in the midst of his furie, <sup>u</sup> breathing out threatnings and slaughter against the professors of the faith. He called Cardinall <sup>x</sup> Vergerius as he was running away: for being suspected in the Court of Rome, to fauour the Gospellers, and purposing to cleare himselfe of that suspition, intended to write a booke against them; and for that purpose reading their workes, and examining their arguments exactly, was fully resolu'd that their doctrine was good, and also perswaded his brother, the Bishop of Pola, to receiue the same. He called Henry 8. Wicklif, Luther, in their discontent. Henry 8. of famous memorie, displeas'd with the Pope for denying his diuorce, banished all forraine iurisdiction, and immediatly made publike profession of the Gospell <sup>y</sup> John Wicklif, with other, being thrust out of Canterbury Colledge in Oxford, and Monkes placed in their roome by the Popes edict, and Simon Langham Archbishop of Canterburys power, at the last grew so discontent, that hee misliked Pope, Bishop, Monkes and all; and afterward it pleased God to shew him the bright beames of his truth, in so much that Wicklif was a wicket and a doore of entrance to many who liued in that time of ignorance.

Martin Luther at the first distasted in all Poperie but one point onely, to wit, the base prostitution of Indulgences in Germanie: but herein receiuing no satisfaction, he grew to be so great labourer in the Lords vineyard, that it might haue bene written on his Tombe:

z Pestis eram vivens, moriens ero mors tua Papa.

<sup>m</sup> Psal. 22. 9.

<sup>n</sup> Ad Heliodorū, 10m. 1 fol. 4.

<sup>o</sup> Matt. 4. 19.

<sup>p</sup> Matth. 9. 9.

<sup>q</sup> Luk. 14. 23.

<sup>r</sup> Matth. 7. 1.

<sup>s</sup> Rom. 8. 30.

<sup>t</sup> Ferus ser. 5.
in locum.

<sup>u</sup> Acts 9. 1.

<sup>x</sup> Petrus Paulus
Vergerius, vti
Languet. Chron.
fol. 343.

<sup>y</sup> D. Goodwin in the life of Simō Langham.

<sup>z</sup> Seapleton. de
magnitudine Ro.
Ecclesi. 1. c. 7.

Or as <sup>a</sup> learned Beza worthily and wittily:
Roma orbem domuit, Romam sibi Papa subegit,
Viribus illa suis, fraudibus iste suis.
Quanto isto maior Lutherus, maior est illa,
Istum illamque vno qui domuit calamo?

<sup>a</sup> In Epitaphi

Hitherto concerning our calling into the vineyard. The next observable point is our working. This vineyard, as the <sup>b</sup> Prophet tells vs, is the Church. Surely, the vineyard of the Lord is the house of Israel, and the men of Iudah are his pleasant plant. All men are either loyterers in the market of the world, or else labourers in the vineyard of the Church.

<sup>b</sup> Eley. 5. 7.

Of such as stand in the market } idle there be foure sorts : some } } some } } lose }
 } giue } their soules.

Some sell : for as it is said of the Lawyer, that he hath linguam venalem, a tongue to be bought and sold; so it may be said of the couetous man, that hee hath animam venalem, a soule to be <sup>c</sup> sold; so the <sup>d</sup> voluptuous man doth sell his soule for pleasures, as Esau did his birth-right for a messe of portage; so the proud man doth sell his soule for advancement, as Alexander the sixth is said to haue done for his Popedome. The Lord saith, Thou shalt haue no other Gods but me, neither in heauen aboue, nor in earth beneath, nor in the water vnder the earth; and yet as the Scripture doth intimate, the proud man makes honour his god, the couetous man gold his god, the voluptuous man his belly his god. The first hath his Idoll as it were in the aire; the second his Idoll in the earth; and the third his Idoll in the water, as <sup>e</sup> one pithily notes vpon the second commandment.

<sup>c</sup> Eccles. 10. 9
<sup>d</sup> Lu. 11. 12
 locum.

<sup>e</sup> Ioannes de Combis dispend
 lib. 5. cap. 60.

Secondly, some pawne their soules: albeit they be not so desperate, so giuen ouer to commit sinne with greedinesse, as to sell their soules right out, yet for their profit and pleasure they will be content to pawne their soules vnto the deuill for a time: so Dauid in committing adulterie did as it were pawne his soule; Noah when he was drunke did pawne his soule; Peter in denying Christ did also pawne his soule: but these being all labourers in Gods vineyard redeemed their soules againe, with vnfeined and hearty repentance. But let vs take heed how we play the merchant-venturers in this case: for our soule is our best iewel, of greater value then the whole world, and the deuill is the craftiest vsurer and greatest oppressor that euer was; if he can get neuer so little advantage, if we keepe not day with him, he will be sure at the iudgement day to call for iustice, and to claime his owne, speaking vnto God, as the King of Sodome did vnto Abraham; <sup>f</sup> Da mihi animas, cetera tolle tibi: Giue me the soules which haue bene pawned and forfeited vnto me, the rest take to thy selfe.

<sup>f</sup> Genes. 14. 2

There is another kinde of pawning of soules, and that is vnto God; for Princes and Prelates, Ministers and Matters are bound to God as it were in goods and body for all such as are vnder them: as the Prophet said vnto King <sup>g</sup> Ahab: Kepe this man; if he be lost, and want, thy life shall goe for his life. But if thou doest thy best endeouour, though the wicked incorrigible sinner die for his iniquitie, thou shalt <sup>h</sup> deliuer thy soule, redeeme thy pawne, and when cuning is come, the Lord of the vineyard shall giue thee thy reward.

<sup>g</sup> Kin. 20. 39

<sup>h</sup> Ezech. 33. 6

Thirdly, some lose their soules; as carnall and carelesse Gospellers, ignorant negligent people, who though they come to Church either for fashion or feare, yet, alas, they seldome or neuer thinke of their poore soule, from whence it came, or wither it shall goe, trifling away the time in the market, neither buying, nor selling, nor giuing, but idly gaping and gazing vpon other, a fit prey for the cut-purse; betraying themselues and their soules vnto that old cunnicatcher Satan, who goes about daily seeking whom he may deceiue, cunningly snatching and stealing such soules as are vnguarded, vnregarded. O blockish stupiditie! will you keepe your Chicken from the Kite, your Lambe from the Wolfe, your Faune from the hound, your Conies and Pigeons from the vermine; and will not you keepe your Soule from the Deuill, but idly lose it without any chopping or changing in the market?

Fourthly, some giue their soules, as first the malitious and eniuous person: for where as an ambitious man hat a little honour for his soule, a couetous man a little profit for his soule, a voluptuous man a little pleasure for his soule; the spightfull wretch hath nothing for his soule, but fretting and heart-griefe, like Cain, who said of himselfe, <sup>1</sup> whofoeuer findeth me shall slay me.

Secondly, such as finally dispaire, giue their soules away; for the deuill bestoweth nothing in lieu thereof, but horror and hell of conscience. The <sup>k</sup> distressed soule may comfort himselfe with the conclusion of this parable: The first shall be last, and the last shall be first. The <sup>1</sup> last in their owne iudgment, the first in Gods eye.

Thirdly, such as destroy their body, that the deuill may haue their soule, giue them selues away for nothing: in one word, this is the case of all such as stand idle in the market, they serue the deuils turne for nothing: for the wages of sinne (saith <sup>m</sup> Paul) is death; and death is none of Gods workes, a nothing in nature. Why therefore doe you stand idle in the market all the day? Goe into the vineyard, saith the Lord and whatsoeuer is right I will giue you.

Now there be diuerse labourers in the vineyard, as there be diuerse loyterers in the world; one plants, another waters, some digge, some dung: the <sup>n</sup> householder giues vnto one man a sheddung hooke, to another a spade, to a third an hatcher: so there be * sundry vocations and offices in the Church, diuersities of gifts, and diuersities of administrations, and diuersities of operations, 1. Cor. 12. But about the trimming of the materiall vine, there be <sup>o</sup> three sorts of labourers especially: the first, to proyne; the second, to lay abroad, and vnderprop it; the third, to digge away the old mould, and to lay new to the roote: all which are so necessarie, that if any of them faile, the vine will soone decay.

No lesse needfull in Christs } Clergie.
Church are these three estates } Magistracie.
} Commonaltie.

It belongs to the Priest to cut away superfluous branches with the sword of the Spirit. The Magistrate must protect, vnderfer, and hedge in the vine, lest the wilde <sup>p</sup> Bore of the wood roote it vp, and the wilde beasts of the field deuoure it. The common labourer must digge and till the ground, that he may get sustenance for himselfe and other. If no Priest, what would become of our spirituall life? If no Prince, what would become of our ciuill life? If no common people, what would become of our naturall life? We must all be labourers, and that painfull and profitable; painfull, called in this our parable thrice, workemen: Non otiaandum in via, sed laborandum in viscâ: There is no roome in the vineyard for sluggishnesse. <sup>q</sup> Cursed is he that doth the worke of the Lord negligently.

But because Satan is the most <sup>r</sup> diligent Preacher in the world, and Heretikes <sup>r</sup> compasse sea and land to make profelytes, and to draw disciples after them; it is not enough that labourers in the vineyard be painfull, except they be profitable: for as one sayd of the Schoolemen; A man may magno conatu nihil agere, take great paine to little purpose; toyle much, and yet not helpe, but rather hurt the vineyard. The by-word, Euery man for himselfe, and God for vs all, is wicked, impugning directly the end of euery vocation and honest kinde of life. That our paine might be profitable, we must labour in a lawfull calling lawfully, for the good of the vineyard, and then, as it followeth in the last point of the parable, we shall receiue Gods penny for our paine.

When euen was come, the Lord of the vineyard said vnto his steward, [Call the labourers, and giue them their hire, beginning at the last vntill the first.]

Wherein obseruetwo things especially: { When? at euening.
} What? giue them their hire:

<sup>i</sup> Gen. 4. 14.

<sup>k</sup> Ferus serm. 5. in locum.

<sup>l</sup> Ludolphus in locum.

<sup>m</sup> Rom. 6. 23.

<sup>n</sup> Hemingius in locum.

* Miles equis, piscator aquis, & clericus hymnis: Nauta fretis, pugiles Marte, poeta metris.
<sup>o</sup> Elay 5. 2.

<sup>p</sup> Psal. 80. 13.

<sup>q</sup> Jerem. 48. 10.

<sup>r</sup> B. Latymer Sermon at Pauls.

<sup>r</sup> Matt. 23. 15.

The which is not a reward of merit, but of mercie; not of debt, but of fauour, as it appears here by the persons,

Of whom, God the Father.
Through whom, the steward, God the Sonne.
To whom, to the labourers; yet so, that the last be payed first, and the first last.

When euen.] All our time of labouring in the vineyard is termed in this and other places of holy writ, a day: <sup>1</sup> Behold now the day of saluation. <sup>2</sup> Exhort one another while it is called to day.

Now our whole pilgrimage on earth is called a day, in two respects especially:

1. For the shortnesse of our life.
2. For that after this our day is spent we shall no longer worke.

All our time is but a day, and that a short day, a winters day; for our eternall night is infinitely longer than our temporall day: and alas! it is but a little part of this little day that we worke. <sup>x</sup> Multum tempus eripitur nobis, plus subducitur, plurimum effluit: exigua pars est vite quam nos viuimus. It is the least part of our life that wee truly liue; for we spend our youth, which is our morning, in toys and vanities; and our old age; which is our afternoone, for the most part is lost in carking and caring for things of this life; so that there remaineth only the noone of our day. As Epaminondas aptly, we must salute young men with good morrow, or welcome into the world; old men with good night, because they be leauing the world; only those of middle age, with good day.

Let vs examine then how we spend our noone. Though haruest men vse not to sleepe at noon, yet all we being labourers in Gods haruest and vineyard ordinarily sleepe almost halfe our time. Other houres we waste in eating, other in playing, and that which is worst of all, most of all in sinning: all which time, we cannot properly be said to liue: for as the Scripture teacheth vs plainly, bad workes are not the workes of light, but of night and darkenesse: a day mis-spent is lost. <sup>y</sup> Amici, diem perdidit.

Similis, Captaine of the Guard to the Emperour Adrian, after he had retired himselfe, and liued priuately seuen yeeres in the Countrey, confessed that he had liued only seuen yeeres, and caused to be written vpon his Tombe:

<sup>z</sup> *Hic iacet Similis, cuius atas
Multorum annorum fuit, ipse Septem duntaxat annos vixit.*

So, many religious men haue numbred their yeeres, not from the day of their birth, but of their new birth, from the beginning of their regeneration and repentance, reputed all that time lost, which was idly mis-pent in the market of the world: so that whether wee consider our life of nature, or life of grace, our whole time may well be called a short day.

Secondly, a day in regard of our eternall night, in which wee cannot worke; for there is no grace in the graue, nor health in hell. I must worke the workes of him that sent me, (saith <sup>a</sup> Christ) while it is day; the night commeth when no man can worke. When euen is come, the Lord of the vineyard shall say to his steward call the laborers, & giue them their hire. This euen is either <sup>b</sup> euery mans end, or else the <sup>c</sup> worlds end; the particular houre of our death, or the gēerall day of iudgment: at <sup>d</sup> both which as well the loyterer as the laborer shall receiue his reward.

The next point to be discussed, is, what? Giue them their hire.] The word hire doth exceedingly trouble the papists; for they cannot, or at least, will not vnderstand, how eternall life may be both a reward and a gift: whereas it is demonstrated in holy Scripture, that the immortall crowne of glory is called a reward secundūm quid onely, but a gift simpliciter. If we compare life cuerlasting to the worke, and looke no further, it is called a reward, Matth. 5. 12. Great is your reward in heauen: but examine the first originall from whence the worke it selfe also proceeds, and all is merely and wholly gift; Eternall life is the gift of God through Iesus Christ our Lord: whereas the blessed Apostle said, the wages

<sup>1</sup> 2. Cor. 6. 2.
<sup>2</sup> Heb. 3. 13.

<sup>x</sup> Seneca Ep. 1.
Multos annos transigi, paucos vixi. Cael. Calcag-ninus.

<sup>y</sup> Titus Vesp. vti Sueton. in eius vita.

<sup>z</sup> Xiphilinus in vita Adriani.

<sup>a</sup> Ioh. 9. 4.

<sup>b</sup> Suarez tract. 2
in Matt. 70.
<sup>c</sup> Theophylact. in
locum.
<sup>d</sup> Culman & Maldonat. in
locum.

° Perkins reformed Catho-like tit. meritis.
f Rom. 11. 6.
s August contra Pelag. & Celestium lib. 2. cap.
24. tom. 7.
fol. 5. 1.
b Exod. 20. 6.

i Luke 12. 32.
k Rom. 8. 18.

l Enarrat. Psal.
102 & Epist.
105.
m Psal. 103. 4.
n August. Epist.
105.

o Idem Epist.
120. cap. 19.
p In Rom. cap. 4.

q De his qui putante se ex operi-
bus iustificari.
r De vocat.
Gen lib. 1. cap.
17. Non labori
pretium solvunt;
sed diuitias bonitatis suae in eos quos sine
operibus elegit,
effundens.
s Fol. 106.

t Serm. 61. in Cant.
u In Luc. cap. 7.

x Serm. 8. Dom.
Septuages.
y Pars. 1. quest.
17. art. 2. fol.
77. 78.

z De iustificat.
lib. 5. cap. 7.
§. si verius propositio.

of sinne is death. If there were any merits in our workes, the sequell of his speech ° should haue beene. The wages of righteousnesse is eternall life; he saith not so, but the gift of God is eternall life; and so by that which he doth not say, as also by that which he doth say, sheweth that there is no place for merit. f If then it be of grace, it is no more of workes; otherwise grace is no grace: s Gratia non erit gratia villo modo, nisi sit gratuita omni modo: Grace is not grace in any sort, if it be not free in euery sort.

In this controuersie, the Scriptures, and Fathers, and many learned Papists are on our side. God saith in the <sup>b</sup> law, that hee will shew mercy to such as keepe his Commandements: Ergo, reward is giuen of mercy to them that fulfill the law. Christ saith in the <sup>i</sup> Gospell; It is your Fathers pleasure to giue you a kingdome.
And <sup>k</sup> Paul; The sufferings of this life are not worthy of the glory in the life to come.

The most iudicious and the most indifferent for both parties among the Fathers is Augustine, who repeats in his <sup>l</sup> workes often this one golden sentence; Deus coronat dona sua, non merita nostra: God crowneth his owne gifts, not our merits: according to that of <sup>m</sup> Dauid; He crowneth vs with compassion and louing kindnes. <sup>n</sup> Eternall life should be rendred as due vnto thee, if of thy selfe thou hadst the righteousnesse to which it is due. But of his fulnesse wee receiue, not onely grace, now to liue iustly in our labours vnto the end, but also grace for this grace, that afterward we may liue in rest without end; <sup>o</sup> Hac est gratia gratis data, non meritis operantis, sed miseratione donantis. <sup>p</sup> Origen saith, he can hardly be perswaded that there can be any worke, which by debt may require reward at Gods hand, inasmuch as it is by his gift, that we are able to doe, or thinke, or speake any thing that is good. Marke, <sup>q</sup> the Hermite, saith; he that doth good seeking reward thereby, serueth not God, but his owne will.

<sup>r</sup> Prosper vpon the words of my text: The Lord of the vineyard gaue the same hire, not as paying a price to their labour, but powring forth the riches of his goodnesse to them whom he chose without workes, that euen they also who haue sweat with much labour, and haue receiued no more then the last, may vn-derstand that they haue receiued a gift of grace, not wages for their worke. So, Saint Hierome and Oecumenius in Rom. 8. Greg. Magnus in Psal. 7. penit- ent. Ambros. lib. 1. de interpell. cap. 1. & in Luc. lib. 8. cap. 17. Fulgentius ad Monimum, lib. 1. Many learned Papists agree with vs also both in their positions and practise. <sup>s</sup> Bernard in his sermon vpon the Annunciation, said, that the merits of men are not such as that life eternall by right is owing for them:
his reason is this; Omnia merita, Dei dona sunt, & ita homo magis propter ipsa Deo debitor est, quam Deus homini. For, saith he, all our merits are the gifts of God: and so man is rather a debtor to God for them, then God to man. And in another place; Meritum meū miseratio Domini, &c. My merit is Gods mercy, &c.

<sup>u</sup> Stella: God my protector looke not vpon me; but first looke vpon thine only sonne: place betweene me and thee, his crosse, his blood, his passion, his merit; that so thy iustice passing thorow his blood, when it commeth at the last to me, it may be gentle and full of mercy.

Frier Ferus in his commentaries vpon this place, saith, that the parable of the vineard teacheth, that whatsoeuer God giueth vs, is of grace: not of debt.
And in his <sup>x</sup> Postill he professeth openly, that if it were not for pride, this question would soone be at an end.

<sup>y</sup> Gregorius Ariminensis vpon Peter Lombard, defends at large, that no worke done by man, though comming from the greatest charity, meriteth of condignity, either eternall life, or any other reward temporall: because euery such worke is the gift of God. His owne words are; Ex hoc infero, quod ne dū vita aeterna, sed nec alius alterius praemij aeterni vel temporalis aliquis actus hominis ex quāta cūq; chari-tate elicitus est de condigno meritorius apud Deum, quin quilibet talis est donum dei.

Cardinall <sup>z</sup> Bellarmino s. after hee had a long time travelled and wearied himselſe in the questions of iustification, at the last holds it the safest course to repose our whole trust in the onely mercies of God: propter incertitudinem propria

Proprie iustitie & periculum inanis glorie, tutissimum est fiduciam totam in solâ Dei misericordiâ & benignitate reponere.

Thus, as you see, Papists of the best note for learning, accord with vs in the pulpit and schoole. Now for their practise, that learned Clerke <sup>a</sup> Chemnitius hath obserued long since, the most of them in the question of iustification by workes haue said one thing thing in their disputations, and another in their meditations, otherwise behauing themselues at their death, then in their life. For when once they see that they must appeare before the barre of Gods iustice, they plead for the most part, guilty, craving a Psalm of mercy: Miserere mei Deus, & secundum multitudinem miserationum tuarum, dele iniquitatem meam.

Pope <sup>b</sup> Gregory counselleth vs, ut resâ, que agimus, sciendo nesciamus, in plaine English, to take no further notice of our good workes, but to renounce them.

<sup>c</sup> Anselmus, Archbishop of Canterbury, confesseth often in his meditations: that all his life was either vnpromisable or damnable. Whereupon he concludes at last: * Quid ergo restat ô peccator, nisi ut in totâ vitâ tuâ deploras totam vitam tuam? What remaines to be done in our whole life, but to lament for the finnes of our whole life?

Abbot <sup>d</sup> Bernard hath this sweet saying: Sufficit ad meritum scire quod non sufficiant merita. Penury of merit is a dangerous pouerty, presumption, deceitful riches. I will therefore (saith he) pray with <sup>e</sup> Salomon, O Lord, giue me neither pouerty nor riches; neither want of merit, neither abundance of presumption.

Sherwin, a Seminary Priest, <sup>f</sup> executed for treason with Edmund Champion at Tiborne, when he was in the cart, ready to dye, though he held himselfe a Martyr for the Catholike faith, acknowledged notwithstanding ingenuously, the miseries, imperfections, and corruptions of his owne vile nature, relying wholly vpon Christ, and inuocating no Saint but his Sauour, ending his life with these words; O Iesus, Iesus, Iesus, be to me a Iesus.

But the truth of this doctrine doth appeare more plainly by the consideration of the persons here mentioned, of whom, through whom, to whom. First of whom, the Lord of the vineyard, that is, God the Father, who saith in the 15. verse, that the eternall pennie is his owne, and that he may doe with it what he list. If it were debt, then not his owne, neither could he dispose of it as he will. In execution, the worke goeth before the reward; as here the labour before the hire: but in Gods intention the reward is before the worke. God therefore giueth vs grace to worke well, because formerly by his election he giueth vs eternall life: § Whom he doth predestinate, them he calleth; and whom he calleth, he iustificieth; and whom he iustificieth, them he glorifieth. And so his mercy is <sup>h</sup> from euerlasting to euerlasting, from euerlasting predestination, to euerlasting glorification.

Happily some will say; promise is debt: but God promised and conenanted with the labourers in the second verse, to giue them a pennie. Answer is made that this very promise is mercy on Gods part, not merit on our part: by promise he bindeth himselfe, but by merit we binde him vnto vs. It is in his owne power to promise, and without promise he should be tied vnto nothing: but whether there be promise or not, he is tied in iustice to reward desert. If a man deserue a penny, he must haue a pennie; for God infinitely rich in mercy, doth highly scorne to owe any labourer a farthing: but if this pennie be due not by any performance of man, but only by the promise of God, it cannot truly be called a reward of debt, but of fauour; not purchase, but inheritance. <sup>i</sup> Come ye blessed of my Father inherit the kingdome prepared for you, &c.

Inheritance is a matter of birth, and not of industrie. The younger brother often is of better desert then the elder; yet that cannot make him his fathers heire. When therefore the Scripture sets forth vnto vs eternall life, vnder the condition of inheritance; it teacheth vs plainly, that we cannot obtaine it by merit; but that God electing vs his children, before any worke, giueth vs freely the state and prerogatiue thereof.

<sup>a</sup> Loc. com. iij. iustificat.

<sup>b</sup> Moral. lib. 9. cap. 17

<sup>c</sup> Ch. inuicis ubi supra, iij. de peccat. ori. ginal

<sup>d</sup> Lib. de n. iheria. hominis

<sup>e</sup> Ser. 68. in Cant.

<sup>f</sup> Prou. 30. 8.

<sup>g</sup> Anno 1581.

<sup>h</sup> Rom. 8. 30.

<sup>i</sup> Psal. 103. 17.

<sup>j</sup> Matt. 25. 34.

° John, 1. 17.

Christ is the Steward, by whom every labourer hath his hire : for we receive nothing from God the Father but by God the Sonne ; ° grace by Iesus Christ.

° Epist. 105.

The persons vnto whom regard is giuen, are the first and the last labourers in Gods vineyard, and the last hath equall pay with the first. If then in our spirituall warfare, any good worke chance to leape ouer the wall, and challenge to it selfe any prerogatiue of merit, and so the deuill by his seeming retreat, infect it with the bane of pride, as hauing obtained victory; we must vie it as Torquatus did his ouer-venturous sonne, cut it off with the vnpartiall sword of the spirit, for daring beyond his Commission. I conclude with ° Augustine; It is true righteoufnesse vnto which eternall life is due; but if it be true, it is not of thy selfe. It is from aboue, descending downe from the father of lights, that thou mightest haue it : if at least thou haue it, verily thou hast receiued it : for p what hast thou that thou hast not receiued ? Wherefore, O man, if thou be to receive eternall life, it is indeed the wages of righteoufnesse; but to thee it is grace, to whom righteoufnesse it selfe is also grace.

p 1. Cor. 4. 7.

That God calls, it is his mercy; that thou comest at his call, it is his mercy; that thou dost labour when thou art come, it is his mercy: that thou art rewarded for thy labour, it is his mercy. ¶ By the grace of God I am that I am, and his grace which is in me, was not in vaine; but I laboured more abundantly then them all; yet not I, but the grace of God which is with me.

° Cor. 15. 10.

The Epistle 2. COR. II. 19.

I see suffer fooles gladly, &amp;c

° Luther & Sarcenus in loc.
° Aquin. in loc.

Saint Paul was so modest in his owne cause, that he calls himselfe the greatest sinner, and the least Saint; but in Gods cause, perceiuing that his personall disgrace might tend to the generall hurt of the Church, and scandall of the Gospell, he doth boast with the proudest; In whatsoeuer any man is bold, I am bold also. Not out of vaine-glory, to commend himselfe, but out of a iust necessity, to stop the mouthes of other; especially to confound the false teachers. He doth therefore, first confer, then prefer himselfe before them all.

He compares himselfe with them in that which is lesse commendable, namely, for his birth and ancientrie. They are Hebrewes, euen so am I: they are Israelites, euen so am I: they are the seed of Abraham, euen so am I: whereas they reioyce after the flesh, I will reioyce also: vers. 18.

° Rom. 1. 1.

° Galat. 1. 1.

As he doth equall himselfe with them in things carnall; so prefer himselfe before them in things spirituall, in that which is more worthy praise, to wit, in his Apostleship. First in generall: They are the Ministers of Christ, (I speake as a foole) I am more: I put apart to preach the Gospell of God. not by man but by Iesus Christ

In a more particular, he doth extoll himselfe about them all, in 2, points especially: } 1. For that he suffered moe troubles. as he sheweth in this Scripture; } 2. For that he receiued moe graces; as he declareth in the next Chap.

° Acts 16. 22,

23.

° Aquin.

° Rom. 8. 36.

° Acts 14. 19.

His troubles here mentioned, are partly, such as other imposed on him. In <sup>x</sup> Stripes above measure. y <sup>supra</sup> modum virtutis humana, supra modum consuetudinis humana. In prison more plenteously; in <sup>z</sup> death oft: of the Iewes five times I receiued fortie stripes sane one. Thrice was I beaten with rods: I was once <sup>a</sup> Stoned I suffered thrice shipwracke: night and day haue I bene in the deepe sea: in perill of waters, in perill of robbers; in ieopardie of mine owne nation, in ieopardie among the heathen: in perils in the <sup>b</sup> City, in perils in wilder nesse, in perils among false brethren, &c.

° Act. 18. &amp; 19.

such as himselfe assumed of his owne accord:

Outward: Labour, watching, hunger, thirst, fasting, cold, nakednesse. Inward: I am cumbered daily, and take care for all the congregations, &c.

The

The naturall man is comforted in three things especially: } Quiet rest.
 } Liberall diet.
 } Good apparell.

For rest, Paul did labour much, <sup>c</sup> euen with his owne hands, <sup>d</sup> night and day, watching often, preaching sometime till midnight: Acts 24. 7. For diet, hee sometime was in hunger and thirst, vpon want: 1. Cor. 4. 11. and often he did fast for the taming of his body: 1. Cor. 9. 27. For apparell, he was in cold and <sup>e</sup> nakednesse: the one hurtfull to himselfe, the other hatefull to the world: For his inward affliction; he tooke care for the whole Church, exceeding solicitous for their spirituall and temporall good: spirituall; who is weake in faith or good workes, and I am not grieved? <sup>f</sup> infirmis factus sum infirmus: I became weake to the weake, that I may winne the weake. So the g Prophet, O that mine head were full of water, and mine eyes a fountaine of teares, that I might weepe day and night for the flaine of the daughter of my people!

Concerning defects in temporall good, he saith: Who is offended, that is, afflicted and I burne not, in heat of compassion? All this Saint Paul doth hedge in with a preface before: Yee suffer fooles, &c. And a protestation after ver. 31. The God; euen the Father of our Lord Iesus Christ, which is blessed for euermore, knoweth that I lye not.

In the preface, Saint Paul doth <sup>h</sup> tax the Corinthians folly, for that they suffered, and that gladly, the false teachers to tyrannize oer their persons and purses, either <sup>i</sup> secretly defrauding, or openly deuouring their estate; whereas the good Apostles in the meane while, (who preached liberty of conscience, and fought not their owne, but that which is Iesus Christs) were neglected and despised.

As it was in Corinth, it is in England; the crafty Iesuit and dissembling Schismatike, preuaile more with the people then the true Protestant Preacher. Our popish Ladies are so wise, that they suffer the Iesuit to bring forth their credits and consciences into bondage, to deuoure their husbands estate, to take what they list, enioyning penance to other, while they pamper themselves, and exalt their order aboue all, either Priest or people.

So the Schismatike gains by losse: as in familiar letters, it is the best rhetorike to vse no rhetorike: <sup>k</sup> carere figuris figurat epistolam. And as <sup>l</sup> Scipio said hee was neuer lesse alone, then when he was alone: so the factious haue neuer so much liuing, as when they haue nothing. But the Protestant Pastor is kept often from his owne (which all lawes of God and men hold his due) by prohibitions and vniust vexations; or else paied with insupportable grudging and enuy. Some will happily complaine with <sup>m</sup> Innocentius; Iustitia nisi uenit, non prouenit, neq; datur nisi vendatur. So that (as <sup>n</sup> trauellers obserue) Diuines are lesse regarded in England, then in any nation of the world, either Christian or heathen.

Saint Paul in his protestation, <sup>o</sup> calls to witnesse the most mercifull and most mighty, that he speaks nothing but the truth. He that knoweth all, knoweth I doe not lye.

The <sup>p</sup> Lord is to be feared, because God; to be loued, because the Father of our Lord Iesus Christ; to be praised, because blessed for euermore. By this great, good, glorious Lord, whom I dare not abuse, because great: will not, because good; may not, because glorious, I protest that all is true, which I haue sayd, or shall say.

It appears then in his preface, that he dealt wisely, in his protestation, that he dealt truly. Some commend themselves truly, but not wisely, moe commend themselves wisely, but not truly. Paul here doth both, approuing himselfe before God and men: before God, in speaking so truly: before men, in speaking so wisely.

<sup>c</sup> Acts 20. 24.
<sup>d</sup> 2. Thess 3. 8.

<sup>e</sup> 1. Cor. 4. 11.

<sup>f</sup> 1. Cor. 9. 22.
<sup>g</sup> 1st. 9. 1.

<sup>h</sup> Luther. Calu. Sacer. in loc.
<sup>i</sup> Gorran. in loc.

<sup>k</sup> politian. epist. lib. 11. Epist. Pet. Medici.
<sup>l</sup> Cic. offic. lib. 3.

<sup>m</sup> De uilitate condit. human. lib. 2. c. 5.
<sup>n</sup> See trauellers of Englishme into far countries P. 62. 63.
<sup>o</sup> Ambros. in loc.
<sup>p</sup> Aquin in loc.

The Gospell. L V K E 8. 4.

When much people were gathered together, and were come to him out of all Cities, he spake by a similitude: The sower went out to sow, &c.

O V R Sauiour Christ in this Scripture } propoundeth } a parable:
 } expoundeth }

<sup>r</sup> Marlorat. ex
 Calu in Mat. 13
<sup>t</sup> Culman. in loc

In the propounding, three } Occasion: When much people, &c. ver. 4. points are regardable: the } Parable: The sower went out to sow: ver. 5. 6. &c.
 } Conclusion: He that hath eares to heare, let him } heare: ver. 8.

The peoples pressing <sup>r</sup> occasioned Christ to deliuer this parable: wherein obserue, <sup>t</sup> the } diligence of the people in hearing.
 } care of Christ in instructing.

The peoples earnest desire to heare doth appeare, in that they were a multitude: οὐλοὶ ἕλαθον, a very great multitude; as it is in our vulgar English, much people, gathered together; many from many cities; in zeale so good, in number so great, that pressing vpon Christ by the sea side, he was faine to leape into a ship, and make that his Pulpit, as S. Matthew reports in his <sup>r</sup> Gospell.

<sup>c</sup> Mat. 13. 2.

This peoples patterne condemnes our peoples practise, who will not runne out of the citie into the country, nor out of the country into the city to heare Christ, except it be vpon hatred or curiositie, faction or affection.

<sup>u</sup> Euseb.

Vnder the cruell persecution of <sup>v</sup> Dioclesian twenty thousand Christians in Nicomedia were burned in the Temple, being all assembled to celebrate the birth of Christ. And <sup>x</sup> Hierome makes mention, how that at Mentz in Germanie, the city being taken, many thousands were slaine in the Church. And what massacres haue lately beene in England, France, Flanders, is not vnknowne vnto such as haue had either open eies or eares. Happy then are the eyes which see the things that we may see: for we liuing vnder the peaceable gouernment of a most religious Prince, may come to Church in peace, heare in peace, depart in peace: we may come in our slippers and sit on our cushions. If then Christ doe not hold vs by the eares, as <sup>y</sup> Socrates did Alcibiades, if we doe not presse to heare him, as the people did here, he will one day speake of vs, as he did of Hierusalem: <sup>z</sup> How often would I haue gathered you together, as the henne doth her chickens vnder her wings, and yee would not? <sup>a</sup> I haue called, and yee refused, I haue stretched out mine hand, and none would regard: But because yee despised all my counsell, and would none of my correction; I will also laugh at your destruction, and mocke when your feare commeth, &c.

<sup>x</sup> Epist. ad Geroni

<sup>y</sup> Plutarch. in vita Alcib.

<sup>z</sup> Matt. 23. 37.

<sup>a</sup> Prou. 1. 24.

<sup>b</sup> Ludolphus ex Hieron. & Dierz
 in loc.

Happily some will obiect: All the people whom yee commend came not vnto Christ with a good minde and honest heart to be taught: it may be some came in malice to carp at him; other in curiositie to wonder at his miracles; other vpon conetoufnesse, to reape some temporall benefit by him, <sup>b</sup> according to <sup>w</sup> which seuerall humours, our Sauiour was occasioned to propound this parable of the sower sowing his seed in diuerse lands increasing diuersly.

<sup>c</sup> Aug. confess.
 lib. 5. cap. 14.

<sup>d</sup> Ser. 6. before King Edwar. 6.
<sup>e</sup> Psalm. 19. 7.

Well howsoever yee come, yet come vnto Christ: if ye come with an intent to carpe, come: for happily while ye thinke to catch the Preacher, he may catch you, as <sup>c</sup> Ambrose did Augustine: if ye come with a minde to sleepe at the Temple, yet come; for it may be (saith <sup>d</sup> B. Latimer) Almighty God will take you napping: if you come with a resolution to steale, yet come; for peradventure the first word that yee heare, will be, Thou shalt not steale: or, Let him that hath stollen, steale no more. <sup>e</sup> The word of God is pure, and conuerteth the soule: perfect and pure, formaliter and effectiue, both in it selfe pure, and making other pure; Come then howsoever yee stand affected, euermore presse to Christ, out of all cities and villages.

The care of Christ in instructing, is seene

1. In that he went out of his house (saith <sup>f</sup> Matthew) to a more publike, large, fit place for teaching.
2. For that he spake by a similitude.

<sup>f</sup> Matth. 13. 1.

By the former all 3 Preachers may learne to take their best hint and opportunity for the propagating of the Gospell, and instructing of Gods people, leaving sometime their owne little cures, and vpon good occasion to preach vnto much people, sowing their seed in a more large field, and profiting euen so many as they can.

<sup>g</sup> Musculus in Matth. 13. & Beauvaisis Hay. tom. 2. fol. 282.

For the second point, Diuines haue rendred sundry reasons, why Christ vsed to speake by parables: as first, <sup>h</sup> that the Scripture might be fulfilled: I will open my mouth in a parable, Psal. 78. 2.

<sup>h</sup> Hiero Euthymius: Genesbrard. in Psal. 77.

Secondly, <sup>i</sup> that we might know that Christ spake with the same spirit, by which all Gods holy Prophets in old time spake, whose writings are full of parables.

<sup>i</sup> Beauvaisis ubi sup. & Hemingius in locum.

Thirdly, <sup>k</sup> that he might descend vnto the capacitic of the most simple, who best vnderstand and remember homely comparisons; as the <sup>l</sup> Poet truly:

<sup>k</sup> Ferus ser. m. 2. in loc.

Sequius irritant animos demissa per aures.

Quam quae sunt oculis subiecta fidelibus.

<sup>l</sup> Hora. art. poet.

Fourthly, <sup>m</sup> that his auditors might hereby take occasion to moue doubts, and aske questions, as the Disciples in the 9. verse: What manner of similitude is this.

<sup>m</sup> Marlorat. ex Bucer. in loc.

Fifthly, that the mysteries of Gods heavenly kingdome might not be reuealed vnto the scornfull; as Christ himselfe teacheth in the tenth verse: To you it is giuen to know the Secrets of the kingdome; but to other in parables, that when they see, they should not see &c.

<sup>n</sup> Ferus ubi sup.

Sixthly, that euery man in his occupation and ordinary vocation, might be taught those things which concerne his soules health: as this parable may be termed the ploughmans Gospell, The seed is the word of God, &c. He that meditates on it, when he plougheth his ground, may haue a <sup>n</sup> sermon alway before him, euery furrow being a line, euery graine of corne a lesson bringing forth some fruite.

<sup>n</sup> In Psal. 77.

The sower went out to sow his seed] S. <sup>o</sup> Augustine writeth vpon the words, Aperiam in parabola os meum, eloquar propositiones ab initio, witheth; utinam qui dixit aperiam os meum in parabolis, ita aperiret etiam ipsas parabolis; & sicut cloquitur propositiones, ita etiam eloqueretur earum expositiones. Here S. Augustines prayer is heard. For Christ giues an exposition of his proposition; and therefore we must <sup>p</sup> take heed, that we neither detract nor adde any thing to it: Opus q habet lectore non interprete.

<sup>p</sup> Hieron. in Mat. 13.

<sup>q</sup> Culman. in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Hemingius in loc.

And as he said these things he cried, he that hath eares.] <sup>t</sup> He cried to manifest his affection and our diuinesse: excepting this occasion he did not crie aboue three or foure times in all his life. He cried as he taught in the Temple, Iohn 7. 38. He cried when he raised vp Lazarus from the dead, Ioh. 11. 43. He cried, Ioh. 12. 44. He cried on the Crosse, Matth. 27. at all which times he deliuered matter of great consequence. This sentence then, He that hath eares to heare let him heare, being vttered vpon a cry, must not lightly be respected of vs. All men for the most part haue both their eares, but not to heare. The <sup>t</sup> man sicke of the gout, hath both his feet, but not to walke: He that is purblind, hath both his eyes, but not to see cleerly: he that is manicled by the Magistrate for some fault, hath both his hands; but so long as they are bound they cannot doe their office. So most men haue eares, but few men haue eares to heare, namely, to heare that which is good, and to heare that which is good, well. <sup>u</sup> Aures audiendi sunt aures mentis, scilicet intelligendi, & faciendi quae iussa sunt.

<sup>t</sup> Stapleton. promp. nar. moral ser. dom. sexages.

<sup>u</sup> Remigius apud Tho in Mat. 13.

<sup>v</sup> Eccles. 3 31.

A good eare, saith the <sup>v</sup> Wiseman, will gladly harken vnto wisdom: where note two lessons as concerning hearing: first, that we hearken vnto nothing but that which is good, vnto wisdom. Secondly, that wee hearken vnto it gladly; with a great desire to learne: for in Scripture phrase, obaudire is obedire:

<sup>x</sup> Luke 10. 16.
<sup>z</sup> Matt. 18. 15.

obedire: so Christ in the Gospell, <sup>x</sup> He that heareth you; heareth mee: that is, he that obeyeth you, obeyeth me: and he that despiseth you, despiseth me. <sup>z</sup> If thy brother heare thee, thou hast wonne thy brother: that is, if thy brother follow thy counsell, and will be content to be ruled by thee.

<sup>a</sup> Exod. 21. 6.
Deut. 15. 17.

We read in the <sup>a</sup> law, that if a bond seruant will not be made free, but stay still with his master, he shall be brought before the Iudges, and set to the doore or the post, and his master shall boare his eare thorow with an aule, and so hee shall serue him for euer. Eueery sinner is the deuills vassall: and therefore if he refuse to be free, when liberty and free grace of the Gospell is offered, ere it be long the deuill will so boare his eares, as that they shall be made vnfit to heare, and then he shall serue his old master for euer. He may peraduenture come to Church and heare the sermon; but he shall be like the man, <sup>b</sup> that beholds his face in a glasse: for when he hath considered himselfe, he goeth his way, and forgetts immediatly what manner of one he was.

<sup>b</sup> James 1. 23.

Wherefore, when ye come to Christ, bring your eares with you, eares to heare so to heare, that ye may vnderstand; so vnderstand, that ye may remember; so remember, that ye may practise; so practise, that ye may continue; so Gods seed shall be sown in good ground, and bring forth fruit, in some thirty, in some sixtie, in some an hundred fold, &c.

The Parables exposition is occasioned by the Disciples question, vers. 9. What manner of similitude is this?

Where note } their carefulnesse in asking.
                  } Christs readinesse in answering.

<sup>c</sup> Ramus de Relig. lib. 2. cap. 6.

For the first, the Sabbath is aptly termed a <sup>c</sup> schoole-day, wherein all Gods people must come to the Temple, which is the schoole, to learne his word their lesson. In this leminary Christ is the chiefe seed-man, stiled in the beginning of this parable, <sup>xxx</sup> ὁ σάββατος, The sower. In this vniuersitie Christ is the prime Doctor: <sup>d</sup> Vnus est doctor vester; e cuius scholain terris, cathedra in caelis. His Apostles sowed as vnder-hailifles in his field: and his Preachers in our time teach as vnder-vshers in his schoole.

<sup>d</sup> Matt. 23. 8.
<sup>e</sup> Aug. ser. 4. in Fest. Ioan. Bapt

As then in the schooles of humane knowledge, so soone as the lecture is read, it is the schollers dutie to question among themselues how to parse and construe it, and when they doubt, to haue recourse to their Grammer rules, by which all construction is examined: and when they doe not vnderstand an hard rule, to come for a resolution vnto their Master, who is as it were a liuing Grammer and a walking bocke.

<sup>f</sup> Act. 17. 11.

So likewise in Gods Academy in the Diuinitie schoole when either the lecture of the Law is read, or sermon on the Gospell ended, it is your part to reason among your selues as you walke abroad in the fields, or talke at home in your house; how this and that may be construed; and when you cannot resolue one another, with the men of <sup>f</sup> Bercea, to search the Scripture daily, whether those things are so, to trie the spirits of men by the spirit of God: for the Bible is our Diuinitie Grammer, according to which all our lessons ought to be parsed and construed. And if yee meete with a difficult place, repaire to Gods vsher the Priest, <sup>g</sup> whose lips should preferue knowledge: Demand of your Pastor, as the Disciples of Christ here; What manner of parable is this?

<sup>g</sup> Malac. 2. 7.

It is apparent in the Gospell that the disciples euer tooke this course: when Christ had deliuered any deepe point, first they disputed among themselues, and and then after came to him, and asked his resolution: <sup>h</sup> Why say the Scribes, that Elias must first come? How can these things be? <sup>k</sup> Declare vnto vs the parable of the tares.

<sup>h</sup> Mark 9. 11.
<sup>i</sup> Ioh. 3. 9.
<sup>k</sup> Matt. 13. 36.

In our dayes if the Pastor be learned in lawes of the land, and well acquainted with businesse of the world, his house shall be reputed oraculum totius ciuitatis (as <sup>l</sup> Tully speaks) all his neighbors wil haste vnto him for aduise in law, but few for counsell in religion. Indeed they come to schoole, but like truants only for feare of punishment, and when they come, they care not how little learning they they haue for their money. But let me tell them of another schoole-tricke; at the worlds end there is a blacke-friday, a generall examination; at which time Conscience the monitor shall <sup>m</sup> open her bookes and bills of all our faults, and our great Schoolemaster in his owne person shall reward euery man according to his worke. It behooueth euery one therefore to be diligent in comming to schoole, to be carefull in hearing, painfull in examining, fruitfull in practising.

<sup>l</sup> Lib. 1. de orat.

And he said] Christs readinesse in answering, teacheth all Preachers, his Vshers and Curates, not onely to preach in publike, but also to catechise their Auditors, as occasion is offered, in priuate: especially such as hunger and thirst after righteousnesse; for vnto them it is giuen to know the secrets of Gods kingdome. The which words containe Gods donation vnto his elect, and it is cum priuilegiò & gratiâ; with priuiledge to you, but vnto other in paraboles: cum gratiâ, it is giuen. Consulas Augustin. de predestinat. Sanctorum, cap. 8. lib. de bono perseuerantie, cap. 8. 9. 11. lib. de correp. & gratiâ, cap. 4. 6. 7. 8.

Sauing knowledge of God is a gift and grace: for the <sup>n</sup> naturall man vnderstands not the things of God; he beleues oculò magis quàm oraculo, trusting his five senses more then the foure Gospells. It is a mysterie reuealed vnto you, but hidden vnto many, whose eyes the <sup>o</sup> god of this world hath darkned, that seeing they should not discern, and hearing they should not vnderstand. O Father, saith Christ, <sup>p</sup> thou hast hid these things from the wise, and hast opened them vnto babes. It is so, because thy good pleasure was such. As it is our Fathers will alone to giue vs a kingdome; so likewise his good will alone to make vs know the secrets of his kingdome.

There are mysteria regis, which may not be knowne; and there are mysteria regni, which must be knowne: many mysteries of our heavenly King are knowne only to himselfe. Canst thou (saith <sup>q</sup> Iob) finde out God, & canst thou finde out the Almighty to his perfection? The heauens are high, what canst thou doe? It is deeper then the hell, how canst thou know it? The measure thereof is longer then the earth, and it is broader then the sea. God therefore requires rather we should remember what he hath beene to vs, then curiously to seeke what he is in himselfe.

But as for the secrets of his kingdome, he reueales them vnto the heires of his kingdome; these mysteries may, yea must be knowne: and therefore Christ cried, He that hath eares, let him heare. Teaching hereby that in making our election sure, we must not begin à priori, but à posteriori: such as with a good heart heare the word and keepe it, and bring forth fruit through patience, shall inherit the kingdome of God; <sup>r</sup> but the kingdome of God shall be taken away from such as are fruitlesse, from such as are faithlesse.

This is the parable.] Bare reading without vnderstanding, is bare feeding: the true meaning of the Scripture is the true Manna: <sup>s</sup> for as a man, so the Bible consists of a body and a soule. The sound of the letter is the body, but the <sup>t</sup> sense is the soule: this indeed is the Scripture, this is the parable.

The seed is the word of God.] The sower is Christ, who went out, <sup>u</sup> ab occultò Patris in mundum, à Iudæa in gentes, à profundò sapientie in publicum doctrine. The Preacher is not properly the sower, <sup>a</sup> but the seedcod, at the most an vnderfeedman.

The sower went out to sow] Not to reape. <sup>y</sup> Now many goe out into Gods field only to gather in haruest, tangam Stratocles & dromoclidas, ad auream messem, intending to reape things carnall, more then sowing things spirituall.

The sower sowed his seed; for the seed is the word of God, <sup>a</sup> not of an Angell or man: and this seed hath in it generatiue power in it selfe, it is <sup>b</sup> liuely, yea the word of <sup>c</sup> life. So that if it bring not forth fruit, the fault is not in the seed, but in the ground, being either vnplowed, or stonie, or thornie. The seed is the word of God. And therefore such as corrupt it, as heretikes; or choke it, as hypocrits; or keep it downe from growing by force, as tyrants; or thrust other seed into it, as Papiists doe, shall one day feele the iust wrath of God: for as he gaue pure seed, so will he require pure corne.

<sup>m</sup> Dan 7. 10.<sup>n</sup> 1. Cor. 2. 14.<sup>o</sup> 2. Cor. 4. 4.<sup>p</sup> Matt. 11. 25.<sup>q</sup> Iob. 11. 7.<sup>r</sup> Matt 21. 43.<sup>s</sup> Orig. periarchon. lib. 4. 6. 2.
<sup>t</sup> Cyril.<sup>u</sup> Thomas ex patribus in Mat. 13. & Beaxamus, ubi supra.<sup>x</sup> Ludolphus ubi supra.<sup>y</sup> Pontan. in loc.<sup>z</sup> Plutarch.<sup>a</sup> Hemingius & Beaxamus, &c.<sup>b</sup> Heb. 4. 12.<sup>c</sup> Phil. 2. 16.

Hee left this in the Church, euen in the garner of the Prophets and Apostles and therefore whosoeuer adulterate it before it be sowed, or nip it when it doth spring, or cut it downe before the Lords haruest; are not Gods husbandmen, but Satans hierlings; and you may know them, saith <sup>d</sup> Christ, by their fruit, <sup>e</sup> that is, by their doctrine. For Gods husbandmen sow Gods seede, but the deuils factor, as Saint <sup>f</sup> Paul plainly, the doctrines of deuils. As for example, this is pure seed; Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serue. But to worship Angels and Saints, and to giue the same kind of worship to the crucifix, which is due to Christ, is sophisticate seed. This was not at the first sowed by the sower; but ouersowed after by the malicious enemie, while men slept.

<sup>d</sup> Matth. 7. 16.
<sup>e</sup> Melanct. in Matth. 7.
<sup>f</sup> 1. Tim. 4. 1.

<sup>g</sup> Throphylact. in Mar. 13.
<sup>h</sup> Luther. in loc.
<sup>i</sup> Mat. 7. 13.

<sup>k</sup> Ludolphus.

<sup>l</sup> Dietz in loc.

<sup>m</sup> De vita christi. part. 1. cap. 64. in fine.

Those that are beside the way.] <sup>g</sup> Three parts of foure are bad; <sup>h</sup> yea, the most of such as heare the word, and confesse Christ, are vnprofitable. <sup>i</sup> Striue then to enter in at the strait gate. Remember that couetous cares and voluptuous liuing, are the thornes which vsually choke Gods seed in our hearts: riches vnto the couetous are thornes, in this and the next life; their pricks are threefold in this life;

Namely, <sup>k</sup> punctura } Laboris in acquisitione.
 } Timoris in possessione.
 } Doloris in amissione.

The true reason why so many men are delighted with them, is, because they put on wants or tiewing gloues, and so their hearts and hands being hardened, they feele not their pricking: but in the next world they will be thornes againe, when Christ shall say to the couetous; Hence from mee yee will be cursed, into euerlasting fire: for I was an hungred, and yee gaue me no meat; I thirsted, and yee gaue me no drinke, &c. Here pause good Reader, and pray with <sup>m</sup> Ludolphus.

O Domine Iesu fac me de veteri vita exire, ne semen verbi tui quod in meo intellectu boni propositi, quod in meo affectu boni operis, quod in meo actu seminasti, comedatur a volucris inanis gloriae, ne conculcetur in via assiduitatis, ne areat in petra dura obstinationis, & ne suffocetur in spinis sollicitudinis, sed potius in terra bona cordis humillimi centesimum fructum edat in patientia: fac etiam me haec omnia intelligere & facere, ac verbo vel saltem exemplò alios docere, Amen.

The Epistle. I. COR. 13.

Though I speake with tongues of men and Angels, &c.

THE Bible is the body of all holy religion; and this little Chapter is as it were, an abridgement of all the Bible: for it is a tract of loue, which is the <sup>n</sup> complement of the Law, and <sup>o</sup> supplement of the Gospell. All the Scripture teaching nothing else (saith <sup>p</sup> Augustine) but that we must loue our neighbour for God, and God for himselfe. <sup>q</sup> Nihil praecipit nisi charitatem, nec culpatur nisi cupiditatem: it forbids nothing but lust, and enioynes nothing but loue: for without <sup>r</sup> loue, there is no true faith; and without faith, <sup>s</sup> all our righteousnesse is sinne.

<sup>n</sup> Rom. 13. 10.
<sup>o</sup> Iohn 13. 34.
<sup>p</sup> De doct Christi lib. 2. cap. 7.
<sup>q</sup> Ibidem. lib. 3. cap. 10.
<sup>r</sup> Galat. 5. 6.
<sup>s</sup> Rom. 14. 23.

S. Paul therefore doth extoll in this Chapter above all other, this one vertue:

1. Largely, shewing that it surpasseth all other graces in <sup>t</sup> two things: } Use: verse 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7.
 } Continuance: ver. 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13.
 2. Briefly, by way of <sup>v</sup> recapitulation in the last verse: Now abideth faith, hope, and loue, euen these three: but the cheife is loue.

<sup>u</sup> Gorran. & Beza in loc.
<sup>v</sup> Calu. Institut. lib. 3. c. 18. §. 8.

Charitie doth excell in use for all other gifts without it are nothing auailable to saluation, as Paul proues by this induction; If I speake with tongues of men and Angels, &c.

All vertues are either } Intellectuall : in } Accurate speech : vers. 1.
 } } Other knowledge : vers. 2.
 } Doing: vers. 3. Though I feed the poore } Morall : in } with all my goods.
 } } Suffering : Though I giue my body to be } } burned, &c.

Though I speake with the tongues of men.] * That is, of all men. If I had vnderstanding in all languages, and Art to parte in them all : If a man could speake so many tongues as our late Soueraigne of blessed memory Queene Elizabeth, of whom the diuine y Poet, as a Diuine truly; not as a Poet flateringly :

That Rome, Rheine, Rhone, Greece, Spaine and Italie, Plead all for right in her natiuitie.

If a man could discourse in so many languages as Mythridates, of whom <sup>2</sup> Volaterane reports, that he well vnderstood 22. sundry tongues; or as <sup>2</sup> other 25. If a man could thunder in an Oration, as Aristophanes sayd of Pericles; or tune his note so sweetly, that he could moue mountraines and stony rockes with Orpheus; or fetch soules out of hell, as fabulous antiquitie fained of Mercurie. Though a man could hold the people by the eares, and carry them vp and downe the country like pitchers : as <sup>b</sup> Socrates did Alcibiades; and steale away their hearts, as <sup>c</sup> Absalon did in Israel. If a man were so bewitching an Orator, that he could <sup>d</sup> pro arbitrio tollere, extollere, amplificare, extenuare magicis quasi viribus eloquentis in quam velit faciem habitumq; transformare : so subtilia disputer, as that he could make quidlibet ex quolibet, euery thing of any thing, yet without loue, were he nothing.

Yea, though a man could speake with the tongues of Angels, <sup>e</sup> that is, of the learned Priests and Prophets, who were Gods <sup>f</sup> Angels and messengers. If a man had the silver & trumpet of Hilarie; or the golden mouth of Chrysostome; or the mellifluous speech of Origen, <sup>h</sup> cuius ex ore non tam verba quam mella fluere videntur. If a man were so painfull in preaching, that, as <sup>i</sup> Saint Peter, he could adde to the Church with one Sermon, about three thousand soules: or as it is <sup>k</sup> recorded of venerable Beda, fondly and falsly, that he could make the very stones applaud his notes, and say, Amen.

Or as <sup>l</sup> other expound it, hyperbolically : though a man should speake like the glorious Angels, as Paul, Gal. 1. 8. Though an Angell from heauen should preach vnto you : <sup>m</sup> si que sint Angelorum lingue. Giue me leaue to adde one thing more to this hyperbolical supposition. If a man could speake like God, as antiquitie reports of <sup>n</sup> Plato; that if Iupiter himselfe should speake Greeke, he would vse no other phrase but his. And of <sup>o</sup> Chrysippus, that if the gods should speake logicke, they would haue none but his. Or as the people blasphemously of Herod, Act. 12. The voice of God, and not of man. Though, I say, we could speake with tongues of men, of Angels, of God, if it were possible, and haue not loue, wee were but as a sounding brasse, or as a tinkling cymball: <sup>p</sup> we might happily pleasure other, but not profit our selues vnto saluation. Herein <sup>q</sup> resembling Balaams Assle, who by speaking, bettered her Master, not her selfe.

A plaine peece of brasse makes but a plaine noyse, Tinkers musicke; but a tinkling cymball, in regard of the concanitie, yeelds a various sound, a more pleasant stroke. So rude speakers are like sounding brasse; <sup>r</sup> but the curious and iudicious, adorned with multiplicity of distinctions, and varietie of good learning, are as a tinkling cymball, or more tickling delight to their hearers; and yet if they preach without loue, their sound is without life. Qui non diligit fratrem, manet in morte, saith <sup>s</sup> S. Iohn. Such fitly resemble the sermon-bell, which calls other to the Church, but heares nothing it selfe; it weares out to his owne hurt, though others good.

Nay, when Auditors are perswaded thorowly, that their Pastors instruct not out of charitic, their plaine doctrines are but as sounding brasse, tedious as the Tinkers note; their accurate sermons as a tinkling cymball, which onely pierce

* Aquin. in loc.

y De Bartas in his Babylon.

z Comment. lib.

17. pag. 522.

a Aul. Gellius lib. 17. cap. 17.

b Plutarch. in vita Aleib.

c 2. Sam. 15. 6.

d Picus Miran. Epist. Barbaro.

e Aquin. & Gorran in loc.

f Mal 2. 7.

g Hieron. aduersus Rufin. tom. 2. fol. 221.

h Vincentius. vii Magdeburg. cent. 3. col. 269.

i Act 2. 41.

k Magdeburg. cent. 8. col. 852.

l Caluin. & Bez in loc.

m Hieron. in loc.

n Ficinus in vita Platonis

o Laert. in vita Chryssip.

p Gorran. in loc.

q Marlorat. in loc.

r Aquin in loc.

s 1. Epist. 3. 14.

<sup>c</sup> Ezck. 33. 32.

<sup>a</sup> Dier. con. 4.
<sup>dom.</sup> 3. aduent.

<sup>x</sup> Ambr. in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Luc. 11. 52.

<sup>z</sup> Claudius Ver- derius censon. in Authores pag.
174.

<sup>a</sup> Ibid p. 173.

<sup>b</sup> Tom. 9. fol.
338.

<sup>c</sup> Epist. 84.

pierce the eares, and enter not into their hearts: as the <sup>r</sup> Prophet aptly; Their admonitions are vnto them as a iesting song of one that hath a pleasant voyce, and can sing well; for they heare their words, but they doe them not. <sup>u</sup> As one that heares excellent musicke from out of the streets in the night, will instantly leape out of his bed, and lend his care for a time; but when the musitians are gone, presently returns to sleepe againe: so many delight to heare the sweete songs of Sion, but when the Sermon it at an end, they sleepe in their old sinnes againe, forgetting immediatly the good lesson, as if it were but the drumming on a pan, or scraping on a kettle.

And though I could prophetic.] Prophecic then is nothing without loue. <sup>x</sup> For Balaam, Caiphus, and Saul propheticd. Vnderstanding of mysteries is nothing without loue; for Iudas, and Nicholas, and Arius, were well acquainted with the Scriptures. All knowledge is nothing: for the Scribes had the <sup>y</sup> key of knowledge, yet entred not in themselves.

And all knowledge.] Though a man were an Ocean of learning, as Plutarch is called; in so much that <sup>z</sup> Theodorus Gaza sayd, if he could read but one mans bookes, he would make choise of him. Or if a man were so full as Plinie, whose workes are <sup>a</sup> instar mille voluminum: if a man were a treasure house of letters, as Picus Mirandula writes of Hermolaus Barbarus: a library for a whole nation, as <sup>b</sup> Baronius of Albinus: as <sup>c</sup> Erasmus of Bishop Tonstal, a world of learning,

Imponere Pelion
Offe.

<sup>c</sup> Gorran. in loc.

<sup>e</sup> Aquin in loc.

<sup>e</sup> Prudentius
perissephan. hym. 13.

<sup>b</sup> 1. Cor. 8. 1.

<sup>i</sup> Aduancemēt of Learning,

l. i. p. 5. & Greg.
in Euangel.

hon. 7. quod
virtus scientie congregat, ven-
tus elationis
spargit.

If a man vnderstand all mysteries in Scripture, all secrets in nature: if he had all faith, that he could remoue mountaines, in a literall sense, moue that which cannot be moued, high hills, Imponere Pelion Offe: <sup>e</sup> in an allegoricall exposition, cast out deuills. If a man had all parts of all knowledge, prophecy, sapience, prudence, and had not loue, he were nothing. Nothing <sup>f</sup> in esse gratia, though something in esse natura: dead spiritually, though something, some great thing in the naturall and ciuill life. For great Clerkes haue long life on earth. Albeit, Aquinas, Jewel, Picus Mirandula, Whitaker, died in the principall strength of their age: yet in respect of honour and fame, they liue with the longest.

<sup>g</sup> Dum liber vllus erit, dum scrinea sacra literarum,
Te leget omnis amans Christum, tua Cypriane discet.

Knowledge is a good stirrop also to get aloft, the high way to much honour and preferment in this world; but without loue, nothing auailable to glorie eternall in the world to come. Knowledge <sup>h</sup> bloweth vp, but charity buildeth vp.

<sup>i</sup> If learning bee taken without the true correctiue thereof, it hath in it some nature nature of poison, and some effects of that malignity, which is a swelling. If I speake with the tongues of men and Angels, and had not charitie, it were but as a tinckling cymball. Not but that it is an excellent thing to speake with tongues of men and Angels, and a farre more noble treasure to possesse all knowledge. For Christ sayd of his Apostles: that they were the light of the world, and the worthy Doctors succeeding, were <sup>k</sup> luminaria magna, great starres in the firmament of the Church, by whose light, descending from the father of lights, we finde out the truth hidden in many darke places of the scripture. But the meaning of Paul is, if our knowledge be seuered from loue, and not referred to the good of men, and g'lo.y of God; it hath rather a sounding glory, then a meriting vertue; through it seeme to be neuer so much, it is a very nothing.

The <sup>l</sup> Papists out of these words; If I haue all faith, so that I can remoue mountaines, and haue not charitie, I am nothing; gather two conclusions against vs: The first is, that true faith, may be without loue: the second, that faith alone without good workes is nothing worth in the businesse of our iustification.

To the first, answer is made, that the speech of Paul is not a categoricalall proposition, but an hypotheticall supposition; <sup>m</sup> if it were possible that all faith should be without good workes, it were nothing.

Secondly, Paul here <sup>n</sup> speakes not of a iustifying faith, of that faith of beleeuers which is common and generall, but of the speciall gift of faith to worke miracles, of which our Saviour in the <sup>o</sup> Gospeli; If he had faith as much as a graine of mustard seed, and should say vnto this mulberry tree, Plucke thy selfe up by the roots, and plant thy selfe in the sea, it should euen obey you. This he said vnto the beleeuing Apostles; and therefore cannot be construed of a sauing faith, but of a miraculous faith: and so Saint Ambrose notes vpon this text, to doe wonders, and to cast out deuils by faith is nothing worth, except a man be an earnest follower of good conuersation.

Our Diuines acknowledge that euery kinde of faith is not ioyned with loue: for there is a <sup>p</sup> dead faith, and there is a <sup>q</sup> liuely, whereby Christ liueth in vs, and we in Christ. There is a faith of <sup>r</sup> Duels, and a faith of <sup>s</sup> Gods elect. There is a faith whereby the beleuer shall neuer <sup>t</sup> perish; and there is a faith, whereby some <sup>u</sup> beleue for a time, and in the day of temptatiou fall away. There is a faith, which the world <sup>x</sup> destroyeth, and a faith which is our <sup>y</sup> victory, by which a Christian ouercomes the world. There is a faith, whereby wee beleue there is <sup>z</sup> a God; and there is a faith, whereby wee beleue <sup>a</sup> in a God according to these differences of faith in Scripture, there is a faith without <sup>b</sup> workes, and there is a faith which worketh by <sup>c</sup> loue.

We say then of the faith of Gods elect, whereby we beleue in God, to which the promise of Iustification and eternall saluation is made, that is a faith which cannot be separated from charitie, but wherefocuer it is, there is loue ioyned with it, <sup>d</sup> bringing forth the fruits of righteousness, which are by Iesus Christ vnto the glory and praise of God. Inseparabilis est bona vita à fide, que per dilectionem operatur, imó verò ea ipsa est bona vita, faith <sup>e</sup> Augustine; according to that of <sup>f</sup> Irenæus, to beleue is to doe as God will: and therefore Beza translates here, <sup>g</sup> ὅτι οὐκ ἔστιν, not omnem fidem, but totam fidem; implying not all kind of faith, but all faith of this kinde to worke miracles; as if Paul should argue thus: If a man could worke neuer so many miracles, and faile in his morals, hee should bee nequam, and nequam, is nequicquam, as our Apostle speakes, a nothing.

The second conclusion gathered out of these words against vs, is, that faith alone without charitie, nothing auaieth to iustification. Our answer is, that albeit faith is not solitaria, yet in our iustification it is sola; & euen as the eye in regard of being is neuer alone from the head, yet in respect of seeing it is alone, for it is the eye onely that doth see, So faith subsists not without other graces of God, as hope, loue, &c. Yet in regard of the act of iustification it is alone without them all. For the further opening of this hard point, you must

<sup>k</sup> Baron. Epist. C. em. 8. p. prefix. tom. 4. annal.

<sup>l</sup> Rem. in loc.

<sup>m</sup> Luther. postil. maior in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Gennadius apud O. cumen. in locum.

<sup>o</sup> Luke 17. 6.

<sup>p</sup> James 2. 20.

<sup>q</sup> Galat. 2. 20.

<sup>r</sup> James 2. 19.

<sup>s</sup> 1 Tit. 1.

<sup>t</sup> Ioh. 3. 15.

<sup>u</sup> Luke 8. 13.

<sup>x</sup> 2. Tim. 2. 18.

<sup>y</sup> 1. Iohn 5. 4.

<sup>z</sup> James 2. 19.

<sup>a</sup> Iohn 14. 1.

<sup>b</sup> James 2. 14.

<sup>c</sup> Galat. 5. 5.

<sup>d</sup> Phil. 1. 11.

<sup>e</sup> De fide & operibus, cap. 23.

<sup>f</sup> Lib. 4. cap. 14.

<sup>g</sup> Perkins reformed Catholike, tit. I. iustifical.

<sup>b</sup> See D. Abbot against Bishop, pag. 482.
<sup>i</sup> De Iustificat. lib. 4. cap. 1.
Ac primum §. confessio, &c.

vnderstand, that separating of things one from another, is either <sup>b</sup> reall in the subiect, or mentall in the vnderstanding: reall separation of faith and charity we wholly deny. For <sup>i</sup> Bellarmino confesseth expressly, that Luther, Melancthon, Chemnitius, Calvin, and other learned Protestants haue taught, that good workes in some sort be necessary to saluation, and that there is no true faith, vnlesse it bring forth good workes, and be conioyned with charitie.

Separation mentall in vnderstanding and consideration is either negatiue or priuatiue. Negatiue, when in the vnderstanding there is an affirming of one, and denying of another. Priuatiue, when of things that cannot be separated indeed, yet a man vnderstands the one, and omitteth to vnderstand the other. As for example, though light and heate cannot bee separated in the fire, yet a man may consider the light, and not the heate: so then in our iustification, we doe not negatiuely separate other graces from faith, as if faith existed alone without hope and loue, but priuatiuely making them effects and consequents, not concurring causes of our iustification. Our assertion is: Faith considered without hope and charity, that is, hope and charity not considered with it, doth iustifie.

<sup>k</sup> Luther in 2. Gal. 16.

<sup>l</sup> 2. Pet. 1. 5.

<sup>m</sup> Bellarmino, de iustificat. lib. 2. cap. 4. & Rhem. in. Galat. 5. 6.
<sup>n</sup> Vbi supra §. Distinctio verò. See Tindal obedience of a Christian, pag. 130.

<sup>o</sup> De predestinatione sanctorum, cap. 7.
<sup>p</sup> fol. 102.

<sup>q</sup> Catechis. ca. 1. & prafat. v. m. 1. controvers. & de Rom. pont. lib. 1. cap. 10. S. deinde fides.

<sup>r</sup> Luther in Gal. 2. 5.
<sup>s</sup> D. Fulke in Galat. 5. 6.

<sup>t</sup> Luther in Gal. 5. 6. & Perkins reform. Cathol. tit. Iustific.

Christ Iesus is our husband, and we are his spouse: now the <sup>k</sup> Bridegroom must be alone with the Bride in his secret chamber, all the seruants and the family being put apart; afterward when the doore is opened, and hee commeth forth into the waiting roome, then let all the seruants and handmaids attend, then let hope doe her office, let loue doe the duties of loue; then, as S. Peter exhorts, ioyne vertue with faith, and with vertue knowledge, and with knowledge temperance, &c. The <sup>m</sup> Papists object that loue is the life of faith. All faiths actiuiuity proceeds only from charity, and without which our faith is dead. So the Scripture plainly, that in Christ neither is circumcision any thing, neither uncircumcision: but faith which worketh by loue. Cardinall Bellarmino reads inopertit, passiue, wrought by loue: disagreeing herein from all the Fathers, and that which becomes him worse, from the vulgar Latine, to which all Papists are tied by the Counsell of Trent, as also from the Rhemish translation in English, which hath as our Testament: worketh, actiue: for they foresaw this absurdity, that if they should haue translated faith worketh by loue, then it would haue followed that loue must needs be before faith, whereas all of them acknowledge faith to be before loue; according to that of <sup>o</sup> Augustine; Faith is giuen first, by which we obtaine the rest: and <sup>p</sup> Altidorensis in his golden Summe faith, that faith hope and charity, are a created trinity, resembling the three diuine persons vncreate. For the Sonne is begotten of the Father, and the holy Ghost proceeds from both: so stedfast hope is bred of faith, and loue doth issue from them both.

And <sup>q</sup> Bellarmino cites often in his workes out of Augustine: Domus Dei credendo fundatur, sperando erigitur, diligendo perficitur: The foundation of Gods house in our soules is faith, the walles hope, the roofoe charity. The Prophet in a vision saw the transgressour against the transgressour, and the destroyer against the destroyer. So the Schoolemen oppose the Schoolemen, and their Champion Bellarmino fights against Bellarmino. For if faith be the foundation of all other vertues, as himselfe writes, lib. 1. de Rom. pont. cap. 10. then it is not as he disputes in lib. 2. de iustificat cap. 4. wrought by charity: but contrariwise charity doth arise from faith.

It is then an idle dreame to suppose that charity is inclosed in faith, as a Diamond is in a ring; for <sup>r</sup> Christ is the pretious pearle, which giues life and lustre to the ring. The iust line not by loue, but by faith in him. It is an improper speech (as <sup>s</sup> our Diuines obserue) to say that faith worketh by loue, as the body by the soule, the matter by the forme; for the soule rather worketh by the body, then the body by the soule. The matter is passiue, the forme actiue.

Secondly, we <sup>t</sup> say, that Paul in that text, faith which worketh by loue doth not intend iustification, but the whole course of a Christian after his iustification: he shuts out of Gods kingdome nullifidians and merit-mongers on the left hand, nudifidian and carnall Gospellers on the right. In Christ neuer circumcision availeth any thing, neither uncircumcision, that is to say, no merit, nor worshipping. No religious order in the world, but faith alone without any trust in workes, availeth before God. On the right hand he doth exclude slothfull and idle persons, affirming that if faith only doe iustifie, then let vs worke nothing, but barely beleue. Not so yee carelesse generation, enemies of grace: for faith is operative working by loue. Paul therefore sets forth in that excellent sentence the whole perfection of a Christian in this life, namely, that inwardly it consists in faith toward God, and outwardly in good workes, and loue toward our neighbours: so that a man is a perfit Christian inwardly through faith before God, who hath no need of our workes; and outwardly before men, (whom our faith profiteth nothing) by loue.

Faith is the Christians hand. Now an hand hath a property to reach out it selfe, and to receive a gift, but it cannot cut a peece of wood without an hatchet or saw, or some such like instrument, yet by helpe of them it can either cut or diuide. Such is the nature of faith, it doth receiue Christ into the heart; but as for the duties of the first and second table, faith cannot of it selfe bring them forth, no more than the hand can cut off it selfe; yet ioyne loue to faith, and then (as our Apostle) faith worketh through loue, performing all duties so well to man as God.

The property of true faith is, to receiue into it selfe. The nature of true loue is to lay out it selfe vnto other: faith then alone iustifieth, apprehending and applying *Christ*s merits vnto it selfe; but it cannot manifest it selfe to other, except it be ioyned with loue: * Show me thy faith out of thy workes. And thus as you see, that inward worke of iustification is ascribed in holy Scripture to faith only; but outward workes of Sanctification, holinesse and righteousnesse, to faith and loue jointly.

I refer the distressed soule to the comfortable Commentaries of Martin Luther vpon the Galathians; and the curious Diuine to Doctor Abbot his Apologie for the reformed Catholike, Tit. Iustification. For I will ingenuously confesse, that my conscience was neuer quieted more then in reading the one; and my curiosity neuer satisfied more than in examining the other.

Though I bestow all my goods to feede the poore] Mercifull workes are pro sacrificijs, imò presacrificijs, accepted of God as sacrifice, Heb. 13. 16. yea more then sacrifice: Hosea: 6. 6. I will haue mercy not sacrifice. To be mercifull is the sole worke common to man with God.

It is then an higher step of perfection, to distribute goods vnto the poore, then to speake with the tongues of men and Angels, or to be furnished with all variety of knowledge: yet Paul saith, If I bestow my goods, all my goods, not vpon the rich, but vpon the poore, to feed, not to feast them, and had not loue, it profits me nothing. Where note five degrees of this amplification: the first is to giue; for most men, as in the proverbe, are better at the rake, then at the pitchforke, readier to pull in, then to giue out. The second is to giue, not another mans, but our owne goods. If I bestow my goods. According to that of Salomon, Ecclesiastes 11. 1 Cast thy bread vpon the waters: Panis, si tuus, quit tuus. The third, is all our goods, not some small portion, or great summe, but all; according to that of a Christ; If thou wilt be perfect, sell all that thou hast, and giue it to the poore. The fourth is, to giue not to the rich, but to the poore: Frange panem esurienti, saith the b Prophet, Deale thy bread to the hungry. The last is to giue to the poore, not superfluously to feast, but necessarily to feed them. If a man performe this and more then this out of vaine glorious ostentation, or idle prodigality, not out of loue to Christ, and compassion of his members, it were but so much as nothing.

Though I gaue my body to be burned] Loue is seene more in deeds then in words,

° Psal. 16. 2.

* James 2. 16.

γ Augustin. de Ciuit lib. 10. c. 1
z Synesius epist. 31.

a Matth 19. 21

b Esay. 58. 7.

words, and in suffering more then in doing : and of all suffering, death is most terrible; and of all kinds of death, burning is most fearefull. Here then are many degrees in this one speech (as <sup>c</sup> Interpreters obserue :) first, Si tradidero, not if I be forced, but if of mine owne accord, I giue my body to be burned, as it is sayd of Christ, <sup>d</sup> he gaue himselfe for vs a sacrifice. Secondly, Si tradidero corpus, if I suffer losse not of goods only, though that be very commendable, Heb. 10. 34. Ye suffered with Ioy the spoyling of your goods; but affliction in body, which is far dearer than our wealth, as the father of lyes in this truly; <sup>e</sup> skin for skin, and all that euer a Man hath, will he giue for his life. Thirdly, Si tradidero corpus meum; if I giue not only the body of my child, (though a woman is highly magnified for such an act in the 2. Maccabees 7.) but my body; not only flesh of my flesh, but flesh which is my flesh; not only to suffer a naturall death, but a violent, and of all violent, the most terrible, to be roasted, yea consumed in the fire.

If any suffer all this, and want charity to particular persons, especially toward the common body of the church, it is no better, or rather indeed worse then nothing. I beseech you therefore by the mercifulnesse of God, whatsoeuer you speake, whatsoeuer you study, whatsoeuer you doe, whatsoeuer you suffer, <sup>f</sup> let all be done in loue.

Vniuersa, inuilitèr habet, qui unum illud, quò uniuersis utatur non habet: Vnprofitably (quoths Augustine) hath he all, who wants that one whereby he should vse all. As the <sup>h</sup> same Father in another place: Quanta est charitas que si desit, frustra habentur cetera, si adsit, rectè habentur omnia? How great is loue? for if it be wanting, all other graces lose their grace; but if present all are profitable. So the text here; Loue suffereth long, it is bountifull &c.

<sup>c</sup> Aquin. in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Ephes. 5. 2.

<sup>e</sup> Iob. 2. 4.

<sup>f</sup> 1. Cor. 16. 14.

<sup>g</sup> De verbis Dom. ser. 18. tom. 10. fol. 57.
<sup>h</sup> Tract. 9. in Ioan.

<sup>i</sup> Aquin. in loc.

<sup>k</sup> Gorran. in loc.

In this encomiastical passage, S. Paul sets downe loues operation in <sup>k</sup> 3. points:

Embracing that which is good :	}	Internall : it is patient.
		Externall : it is courteous.
Eschewing that which is euill, against our	}	thought: it enuieth not.
		deed : loue doth not frowardly.
neighbour, in	}	passion: it swelleth not, dealeth not dishonestly, seeketh not her owne: it is not prouoked to anger.
		selues, either out of }	}	election: it thinketh no euill; it reioyceth not in iniquitie.
		Perseuering in both : suffering, beleeuing, hoping, enduring all things.

Loue suffereth long.] S. Paul doth begin with patience, <sup>l</sup> because desire to reuenge is a vice most opposite to charity. Malitious impatient men are like the toad, no sooner moued, but they swell : or like gun-powder; no sooner touched with an hot word, but instantly they are in your face. Which occasioned <sup>m</sup> Bion the Philosopher to say; Magnum est malum ferre non posse malum. For if thine enemy belittle, <sup>n</sup> parce illi, the best course is to spare him, if great, parce tibi, the best counsell is to spare thy selfe. Si turbet, non perturbet, as <sup>o</sup> Bernard in the like case: Though he moue thee let him not remove thee from that which is good, from that which is thy good. The <sup>p</sup> discretion of a man deferreth his anger, and his glory is to passe by an offence. Better it is to suffer much and long, than by courses of impatience, to runne thy selfe out of all honest breath. It is reported of the Philosophers, <sup>q</sup> that they had a sword, and wanted a buckler : but a buckler becomes a Christian better than a sword. We must not beat euery dog that barks at vs in the way, but run with patience the race that is set before vs, Heb. 12. 1.

Loue is courteous: or as other read, bountifull] \ Amor si est, operatur : si non operatur, non est*. As loue is patient in wrong, so actiue in kindnesse, doing good vnto all, alway performing liberall and courteous offices, euen to the greatest enemy. So S. Steuen abounding with loue, <sup>r</sup> respected his accusers as brethren and

* B Latymer Ser. 4. before K. Edward.
<sup>k</sup> Greg. Nyssen. orat. de Steph.

<sup>l</sup> Melanct. in loc.

<sup>m</sup> Laert. in vita Bion.

<sup>n</sup> Seneca.
<sup>o</sup> Epist. 25.

<sup>p</sup> Pro. 19 11.

<sup>q</sup> Lactantius de falsis sapient. cap. 4.

and saluted them as fathers, Acts 7.2. So <sup>c</sup> Ioseph vsed his brethren nobly, who sold him for a slaue basely.

Loue enuieth not.] There are <sup>t</sup> two parents of enuy, } Highnesse.
 } Nighnesse.

For it is nothing else but a repining griefe for our neighbours happinesse. An enuious man, saith <sup>u</sup> Saluianus, esteemes anothers good, his hurt; parum est si ipse sit scelix, nisi alter fuerit infelix. And therefore when <sup>x</sup> Bion saw such an one verry sorrowfull asked him; I pray thee whether hath some euill hapned to thee, or good to thy neighbour? <sup>y</sup> as high hills are most exposed to thunder, feriunt summos fulmina montes; and <sup>z</sup> as the fairest flowers are soonest nipt by the venomous Cantharides; euen so the most eminent gifts in neighbours, are the greatest griefes of enuious wretches.

In neighbours, I say; for as the Basiliske doth kill none, but such as lie doth see; so the malecontent enuious eye malignes none that are farr off. And this I take to be the true reason, why the schismaticall Brownist, and other of the like malicious humor, hate the conformable Protestant more than either Turke or Pope, because that which eye seeth not, heart grieneth not. But it hath beene their hell to behold their neighbour Bishops, and fellow Ministers in better fashion, and among the rest of greater account for iudicious preaching and writing than themselves.

It is wittily noted by <sup>a</sup> Bonauentura, that an enuious man is like Cain, who sayd of himselfe, Gen. 4. 14. Whosoever findeth me shall slay me. For either he seeth in a man that which is good, and then he repineth; or else, that which is euill, and so reioiceth: and both these slay the soule.

Things amisse in our Church, are the Schismatickes may-game; but her glory, their griefe; her weale, their woe. Let them read this Chapter often, and marke this word especially. Loue enuieth not, Loue doth not fromardly] Not ouerthwartly, not insidiously, <sup>b</sup> quod est arte alios pellere aut tollere, by cunning to thrust men out of their preferments and others loue: so <sup>c</sup> Maximus expelled Gregorie Nazianzene, Aeschines wronged Demosthenes, and Martin Makebate the Whitegifts of our Church.

Loue swelleth not] As loue doth not abuse good things in other, <sup>d</sup> so it makes men vse well their owne graces. It swelleth not in any preferment it hath; it is not ambitious for any which it hath not; it is not querulous for any which it once had, and is now lost; it seeketh not her owne, <sup>e</sup> that is, with others hinderance, so <sup>f</sup> to ioyne house to house, and field to field, till there be no place for other in the land. It doth not desire that <sup>g</sup> oxen should labour, and asses feede; that one should take the paines, and another reape the profit; but is content that preferment be conferred vpon men of worth, according to merit, with <sup>h</sup> equall proportion.

Or it seekes not her owne principally, but so farr forth as shall be for the Churches good, and Gods glory. So saith our Apostle, 1. Cor. 10. I seeke not mine owne profit, but the profit of many, that they might be saued. And Phil. 1.27. he rebukes all such as seeke their owne, and not that which is Iesus Christs. Or it seekes not her owne, <sup>i</sup> that is, to recouer her owne by law, when it shall bee to the scandall of the Gospell, as he sheweth in the sixth Chapter of this Epistle.

It is not provoked to anger] That is, not rash and inconsiderate anger; otherwise a man may be angry and sinne not, as our Apostle <sup>k</sup> elsew here; irasci hominis, iniuriam non facere Christiani: It is the part of a man to be angry, but the duty of a Christian to doe no wrong in anger. A louing man will chide his friend sweetly: and a good man punish sinne according to his place seuerely: <sup>m</sup> Quid te appellem amor? nescio: bonum an malum? amor quippe nos facit nostros amare, amor interdum cogit offendere. Sic vigilet tolerantia, saith <sup>n</sup> Augustine, ut non dormiat disciplina. Saint Pauls meaning then is, that we must not be transported with heat, so that we forget our friends, and lose our selues; in such sort, that the ending of our anger proue the beginning of our sorrow.

[ Genes. 45.

<sup>c</sup> Petrarcha.

<sup>a</sup> Lib. 5. de gubernat. Dei.

<sup>x</sup> Laertius in vita Bion.

<sup>y</sup> Hieron. ad Eusebium.

<sup>z</sup> Plut. com. de odio & inuidia.

<sup>a</sup> Dieta salutis cap. 4.

<sup>b</sup> Melan. in loc.
<sup>c</sup> Basinius, tom. 4. fol. 355.

<sup>d</sup> Gorran. in loc.

<sup>e</sup> Aquin. in loc.
<sup>f</sup> Esa. 5. 8.
<sup>g</sup> Iob. 1. 14.

<sup>h</sup> Melanct. in loc.

<sup>i</sup> Aquin. in loc.

<sup>k</sup> Ephes. 4. 26.
<sup>l</sup> Hieron. epist. ad Antonium tom. 1. fol. 219.

<sup>m</sup> Saluian. Epist. 1.

<sup>n</sup> Serm. 22. de verbis Apost.

<sup>c</sup> Melan. in loc.

<sup>p</sup> Pſal. 7. 15.

<sup>q</sup> Eſay 57. 23.

<sup>r</sup> Pſal. 140. 2.

<sup>f</sup> Rom. 7. 19.

<sup>c</sup> Tom. 1. fol.

231.

<sup>a</sup> Epist. 145.

<sup>x</sup> English glosse
in loc.

<sup>y</sup> Luther. in Galat. 2. 6.

<sup>z</sup> Melancthon. in
loc.

<sup>a</sup> Martyr, apud
Marlorat. in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Iohn. 17. 3.

<sup>c</sup> 1. Cor. 15. 54

<sup>d</sup> Dan. 12. 3.

<sup>e</sup> Philip. 3. 20.

<sup>f</sup> Iob. 19. 25.

<sup>g</sup> Apocal. 3. 21

<sup>h</sup> 1 King. 10. 7.

<sup>i</sup> Com. in Gal.
5. 5.

It thinks no euill.] It is so farr from doing wrong, that it doth not so much as thinke euill. °A vertue compounded of truth and ingenuity. Truth beleues onely that which is certaine: ingenuity construeth in the better part that which is doubtfull: whereas suspicioufnesse is misled often with false, alway with vn-certaine report. Jealous yoke-fellowes, and suspicious friends, are both vncharitable. For such, as the <sup>p</sup> Prophet aptly, trauell with mischief, and bring forth vngodlinesse; vnquiet as the <sup>q</sup> raging sea; <sup>r</sup> stirring vp strife all the day long.

It reioiceth not in iniquitie.] Not in her owne fault not in anothers fall. Not in her owne: for albeit the malicious incorrigible sinner reioyceth in doing euill, and delights in frowardnesse, Pro. 2. 24. yet the man of God doth noe sin: 1. Ioh. 3. 2. For it is rather done on him, then of him: according to that of <sup>s</sup> Paul; I doe not the good thing which I would; but the euill thing which I would not, that doe I. Not in anothers fall: for it doth grieue when they grieue: yea sometime because they doe not grieue for their sinnes, as <sup>t</sup> Hierome to Sabinian: Hoc plango quòd te non plangis. And <sup>u</sup> Augustine calls this a blessed unhappinesse, when a man is affected not infected, with his neighbours iniquitie: Beata miseria vitij alieni tribulari, non implicari; dolore contrahi, non amore attrahi.

It suffereth all things, it beleueneth all things.] <sup>x</sup> It suffereth not it selfe to bee abused, but it indgeth other with all loue and humanity. To beleene all, were sillinesse; to beleene none, sullenesse: discreet loue therefore doth beleene much, and hope the best of all. Enduring all things; that is, all that it may without offence to Gods holy word: <sup>y</sup> Non patitur ludum fama, fides, oculus: A mans good name, faith, and eye will not bee dallyed withall. A Christian as concerning his faith, cannot be too sterne, too stout. I will take vpon me (saith Luther) this title: Cedo nulli: I giue place to none.

Loue doth not fall away.] Knowledge is not abolished in the world to come, but perfected, as Paul expounds himselfe: Wee know in part, we prophecie in part: but when that which is perfect is come, then that which is vnperfect shall be done away. <sup>z</sup> Ex abstractiua fit intuitiua notitia. <sup>a</sup> As the light of a candle doth vanish away, when the bright Sunne doth shine. The manner of teaching in the world to come shall cease: for we shall need no schooles or tutors in heauen: all there shall see God face to face, but knowledge it selfe shall not vanish, <sup>b</sup> for this is eternall life to know God.

S. Paul proues our knowledge and prophecying vnperfect by two familiar examples: one taken from his owne person, another from a looking glasse: When I was a child, I spake as a child, I vnderstood as a child, I imagined as a child, Speaking may be referred vnto the gift of tongues, vnderstanding to the gift of prophecy, thinking to knowledge.

Now we see in a glasse darkely, but then wee shall see face to face.] When a man sees a map of Hierusalem, he can presently conceiue what manner of city it is imperfectly: but when he comes thither, and beholds all the streets is better satisfied. The Scripture is a glasse, faith is an eye, by which all Gods elect in part know the glorious building of Hierusalem aboue; they beleene that this <sup>c</sup> corruption shall put on incorruption, that this mortall shall put on immortality; that the iust shall shine <sup>d</sup> like starres for euer: in heart conuersing with the Saints, and assured through hope, that theselues are <sup>e</sup> burgessees of that celestial Incorporation.

I am sure, saith <sup>f</sup> Iob. that my Redeemer is aliue, who died for our sinnes, and rose againe for our iustification, and now sitteth at the right hand of God as our aduocate. But hereafter, when wee shall sup with him in his kingdome, and sit with him in his <sup>g</sup> throne, when all mists of ignorance and diffidence shall vanish away, when wee shall see God face to face, then wee will say to him as the noble Queene of <sup>h</sup> Sheba to Salomon; Loe, the one halfe of thy kingdome was not told vs.

Now abideth faith, hope, and loue.] The rest of the graces are reduced to these faith Melancthon, and the chiefe of these is loue, saith Paul. There is so great affinity betweene faith and hope, that (as <sup>i</sup> Luther obserues) it is hard to find, any any difference, they cannot be well separated, one hauing respect to the other as the two Cherubins on the mercy seate: Exod. 25. 20:

Yet they differ much especially in their

- Obiect.
- Subiect.
- Order.
- Office.

In their obiect: Faith hath for her obiect the truth; Hope for her obiect the goodnesse of God. Faith (as <sup>k</sup> Augustine notes) is of good things and bad: but hope lookes on good things only. The Christian beleeueth there is an hell as well as heauen; but he feares the one, and hopes only for the other; as the <sup>l</sup> Poet distinguisheth aptly: — liceat sperare timenti

Faith is of things

- Past: for we beleue that Christ is dead, buried, risen againe, &c.
- Present: for we beleue that Christ now sitteth at the right hand of God.
- Future: for we beleue Christ shall come againe to iudge the quicke and the dead.

But hope doth expect and respect only things to come.

In their subiect; Faith is in the <sup>m</sup> vnderstanding, hope resteth in the will: if they differ in place, this I take to be the most profitable separation.

In order: for <sup>n</sup> faith is the ground of things hoped for. A stedfast hope proceeds out of a lively faith: if the sparke of faith should not giue light to the will, it could not be perswaded to lay hold vpon hope. Faith alway goeth before, then hope followeth after.

In their Office: for faith is our <sup>o</sup> Logicke to conceiue what we must beleue hope our rhetoricke to perswade vs in tribulation vnto patience. So S. Paul faith: Wee are saued by hope, Rom. 8. 24. Sic liberati sumus, vt adhuc speranda sit hereditas, postea possidenda; nunc habemus ius ad rem, nondum in re. Faith is a Doctor and a Iudge, disputing against error and heresie, iudging spirits and doctrines; hope is a captaine fighting against impatience, tribulation, heauinesse of spirit, weakenesse, desperation. In a word, the difference betweene faith and hope in Diuinitie, is the same that is betweene fortitude and prudence in policy. Fortitude not guided by prudence is rashnesse, and prudence not ioyned with fortitude is vaine: So faith without hope is nothing, and hope without faith a meere presumption and tempting of God. And therefore wee must ioyne together all these graces, as Paul here, faith, hope, charity: Wee waite for the hope righteousnesse through faith, and faith worketh through loue.

First faith teacheth vs the truth: and then hope teacheth vs what to suffer; and loue what to doe for the truth: Faith engendreth hope; faith and hope loue, but the chiefe is loue, &c.

The <sup>q</sup> Papiests hence reason against vs; If charity be greater then faith, it is vnprobable that men are iustified onely by faith. <sup>r</sup> Our Diuines answer, that the argument is not good; A Prince doth excell a peasant: Ergo, till the ground better. A man is better than a beast: Ergo, runne faster then a horse, carry more than an elephant, &c.

Secondly, <sup>t</sup> that loue is not greater in euery respect absolutely, but only greater in latitude of vse and continuance: faith and hope are restrained within the bounds of our priuate persons, as the iust man doth liue by his owne faith, and the good man hopes only for himselfe: but loue like <sup>u</sup> Dauids vine doth couer the mountaines with her boughes, and stretcheth her branches vnto the sea, extending it selfe to God, Angels, men; in men to our selues and other: in other, <sup>v</sup> vpward, to superiors, downward, to inferiours; on the right hand to friends, on the left to foes.

Loue then in respect of others is of greater vse: but if we consider a man in himselfe priuately, faith is more needfull then loue, as wherein originally stands our communion and fellowship with God, by which Christ <sup>x</sup> dwells in our hearts, into which as an hand, Almighty God powreth all, the riches of his grace

<sup>k</sup> Enchirid. c. 8.

<sup>l</sup> Lucan. apud Augustin. ubi supra.

<sup>m</sup> Luther. ubi supra, & Perlyns exposit. Creed. art. 1. <sup>n</sup> Heb. 11. 1.

<sup>o</sup> Luther. loc. com. iii. de tribus charitatibus. <sup>p</sup> Melancthon in Rom. 8.

<sup>q</sup> Rhem. in loc. & D. Bishop against the Reformed Cath. tit. Injusticat.

<sup>r</sup> Calvin. apud Marloria. in loc. & D. Abbot against Bishop, pag. 47 8.

<sup>t</sup> Luther. & Melanct. in loc. <sup>u</sup> Pl. 80. 10. 11. <sup>v</sup> Vide Epist. Dom. 16. post Trin.

<sup>x</sup> Ephes. 3. 17.

7 Epistol. 1.

grace for our saluation, and by which only, whatsoever else is in vs is accepted of God, as y Saluianus excellently: omnibus semper ornatibus ornamento est, quia sine hac nihil tam ornatum quod ornare possit. See Epist. Dom. 17. post. Trinit.

2 In 1. Cor. hom. 34.

2 De Doctrin. christi lib. 1. cap. 39. tom. 3. fol. 14.

3 Primasus vii D. Fulke in loc.

4 In locum.

5 postil. maiores cum figuris.

Epist. Dom. quinquagesima.

* 1. Pet. 1. 9.

Againe, charity is greater in latitude of continuance: faith apprehends the Lords gracious promise concerning eternall saluation, and hope doth expect it with patience. When God then shall haue fulfilled his word, and filled vs with vnspeakeable ioy, when in that other life wee shall see God face to face, faith is at an end, hope is at an end, their vse cease, but loue shall continue betweene God and vs an euerlasting bond. So the Fathers expound it; onely loue (faith & Chrysofome) is eternall; in this respect the greatest is charity, because they passe away, but charity continueth alway. So 2 S. Augustine; loue is the greatest of the three; because the other two departing, it shall continue more encreased, and better assured; & auxior & certior permanebit. b In this present life there are three; but in the life to come loue remaineth onely: therefore that is greater which is euer needfull, then that which once shall haue an end. And so c Gorran and d other Popish writers heretofore construed this text. I conclude, To saue a man, faith is greater; in a man saued, charity is the greater: vntill faith haue * finished our saluation, loue must yeeld to faith; but when faith hath fully saued, it shall haue an end, and so must yeeld to loue, which is without end.

The Gospell. L V X E. 18. 31.

Iesus tooke vnto him the twelue, and sayd vnto them; Behold we goe up to Ierusalem, and all shall be fulfilled, &c.

c Ioh. 1. 9.

f Verse 34.

g Thomas part. 3. quest. 53. art. 1.

h Rom. 4. 25.

IN this Gospell our Sauour Christ, e the true light of the world, doth illuminate two sorts of blinde: the disciples, who were spiritually blinde; and a poore begger, who was corporally blinde. The disciples f vnderstood not as yet the mysteries of our redemption, wrought by Christs humiliation and exaltation; by g the one taking from vs all euill; and by the other, giuing all that is good h He died for our sins, and rose againe for our iustification.

Christ therefore doth open their eyes, and instruct them in these two points exactly.

First, generally: vers. 31. Behold we goe up to Ierusalem; and all things, &c.

Secondly, more particularly, declaring the manner of his death and resurrection, in the 32. 33. verses.

Concerning his passion, five things are deliuered:	traditio, iussio, consuetio, flagellatio, occiso,	} that hee shall bee	betrayed. mocked. spitted on. scourged. put to death.

For truth it selfe was betrayed, wisdom it selfe mocked, glory it selfe spitted on, innocency it selfe scourged, and life it selfe killed.

Concerning his resurrection, hee § 1. That he shall rise.

setts downe two points especially; § 2. That he shall rise the third day.

i Theophylact. in locum.

k Pontan. in locum.

§ 1. That they might beare it more patiently, praemoniti, praemuniti.
 Iesus tooke vnto him the twelue ] Reuealing to them the secrets of his kingdome, fore-telling his passion i for two causes especially: } § 2. To signifie that he suffered willingly: Ioh. 10. 18. See Gosp. Dom. 10. post Trs.

Behold] This word of attention, is k like the sounding of a trumpet before some weighty proclamation, or like the ringing of a great bell before the sermon of a famous Preacher And therefore let vs heare this doctrine with an especiall care which Christ hath comended vnto vs here by such a remarkeable note.

We goe vp] Christs passion is called an 'exaltation or ascending. For albeit he could not ascend higher, as God, yet he was exalted by his humiliation, as man, and had a name given him about every name: Phil. 2. 8. 9. Lucifer and Adam by climbing vp, were cast downe: but Christ by casting himselfe downe, went vp.

Or, We goe vp: <sup>m</sup> insinuating that his iourney was not easie. Facilis descensus Auerni: Men goe sooner downe hill, then vp hill; yet he that hath a good horse can ride faster vp hill then downe hill. So the <sup>n</sup> charets and horsemen of Israel, assisted by Gods especiall grace, lifting them vp about the base vallies of the world, runne faster, and are more delighted in heauens vp hill, then the wicked in hells downe hill.

To Ierusalem] Interpreters haue rendred ° sundry reasons, why Christ was crucified at Ierusalem, especially <sup>p</sup> two. First because there was not enough malice in any other City to kill the Lord of life; none but the holy could enuy the most holy. The prophane Gentiles and ignorant Iewes elsewhere, did not maligne Christ in his words and wonders; Ierusalem onely the <sup>q</sup> Prophet-killer could not endure the <sup>r</sup> Prophet. His holinesse and wisdom was the fittest object for the Scribes and Pharisees enuy. <sup>t</sup> That vpon them might come all the righteous blood shed vpon earth, euen from Abel the shadow, to Christ the substance, <sup>u</sup> whose blood speakes better things vnto vs, and cries lowder against them, then that of Abel. Here note by the way, that as the Sonne of God was crucified in the City of God; so by good correspondence, the members of Christ are persecuted most by the Vicar of Christ.

Secondly, Christ suffered in that eminent place, that his passion and patience might be renowned in the whole world. There was not another stage fit for his tragedie, which is our comedie.

In a <sup>v</sup> mysticall sense, Christ and his Apostles ascend to Ierusalem, euen to Ierusalem <sup>w</sup> about, the <sup>y</sup> new Ierusalem prepared as a bride trimmed for her husband: but the God of this world, with his company, descend to Iericho, to the lowest hell. Hee that followes not Christ in his course, goes from Ierusalem to Iericho; from heauenly paths vnto the by-waies of destruction; and so he falls among theeues, that is, as the <sup>z</sup> Fathers expound it, among many deuills and euills who rob him, and wound him; and in fine, will leaue him dead, except Christ the true Samaritan, releue him and set him in his right way againe.

And all shall be fulfilled that are written by the Prophets of the Sonne of man.] <sup>a</sup> As the Painter at the first drawes his picture with a coale roughly, then with an accurat pensill, and orient colours exactly: so the holy Ghost in the Prophets, and old Testament, shadowed Christs passion obscurely; but in the new paints it as it were to life perspicuously. The two Testaments are <sup>b</sup> two pence, <sup>c</sup> bearing the same Kings image, though not of the same stampe: for all things being now fulfilled, written by the Prophets of the Sonne of man, our Saviours picture ingraven in the Gospell, is more full and cleere then that imprinted in the Law. Now God hath shewed vs the light of his countenance: Psalm. 67. 1. Let vs therefore search the Scripture, for that is the way to Christ, and Christ is the way to God.

For he shall be deliuered vnto the Gentiles: and shall be mocked] He did particularly foretell the manner of his suffering, <sup>d</sup> that his Disciples might see, that as God he did foresee these things, and that they might be strengthened at his Crosse when as they should vnderstand all things to be fulfilled as they were told by Christ, and foretold by the Prophets.

That he should bee	}	betrayed, mocked, spitted on, scourged, put to death,	} was foretold	} Psal. 41. 9. Psal. 69. ver. 7. & 22. Esay 50. 6. Esay 53. 5. Psal. 22. 17.
--------------------	---	---	----------------	---

Christ

<sup>1</sup> Iohn 3. 14. & 12. 32.

<sup>m</sup> Coster. in loc.

<sup>n</sup> 2. King 2. 12

<sup>o</sup> Coster. in loc.

<sup>p</sup> Pontan. & Diex in loc.

<sup>q</sup> Matt 23. 37.

<sup>r</sup> Ioh. 1. 21.

<sup>t</sup> Matt. 23. 35

<sup>u</sup> Heb. 12. 24.

<sup>v</sup> Acosta, con. 1. in loc.

<sup>w</sup> Galat. 4. 26.

<sup>y</sup> Apoc 21. 2.

<sup>z</sup> August Ambros Chrysof apud 1 horn in Luc. 10

<sup>a</sup> Pontan. in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Luke 10. 35.

<sup>c</sup> Theophylact. in Luc. 10.

<sup>d</sup> Caluin. apud Martorat in Matth. 20. 19.

Christ was deliuered vnto the Gentiles, as } Iudas.
we read in the Gospell, especially by three: } the Iewes.
 } Pilat.

<sup>c</sup> Matt. 26. 15.

By Iudas, out of couetousnesse, as the <sup>c</sup> text expresly; What will ye giue me, & I will deliuer him to you? For a little siluer, and that not paid, but only promised, he sold his friend; yea that which is worse, his Master; yea that which is worst of all, his maker. See the Gospell the Sunday before Easter.

By the Iewes, out of malice. Matth. 27. 18. Pilat knew well that for enny they deliuered him.

<sup>f</sup> Ioh. 19. 12.

By Pilat, through feare: for the Iewes sayd vnto him: <sup>f</sup> If thou set him free, thou art not Casars friend: for whosoever maketh himselfe a King, speaketh against Cesar. And therefore Pilat chose rather to crucifie the Lord eternall then to displease Cesar, a Lord temporall.

In like sort, all couetous, all malicious, all cowardly professors betray Christ daily. The couetous, who make their coyne their Creed, and their penny their Pater noster, and their bills their Bible, betray Christ with Iudas. It is but what will you giue them, and they will deliuer vp the Gospell vnto you.

<sup>g</sup> To Gala.

Eniuous men, who persecute the Saints, and disgrace their graces, betray Christ in his members with the Iewes, euen for meere malice, speaking to their Christian brother as Antonius Caracalla to his naturall brother; <sup>g</sup> Sit diuus modo non viuus.

<sup>h</sup> Matth. 13. 21.

Cowardly professors vse to betray Christ with Pilat: <sup>h</sup> For as soone as tribulation or persecution commeth for the word, they feare more the threats of Cesar an earthly Prince, who can kill only the body, then the wrath of God, who being King of all Kings, is <sup>i</sup> able to destroy both body and soule in hell.

<sup>i</sup> Matt. 10. 28.

The second point touching Christs passion, is illusio. Now Christ was mocked in foure places especially.

1. In Caiphass house, where the keepers <sup>k</sup> blindfolded him, and smote him on the face, and asked him, saying; Prophecy; who is it that smot thee?

<sup>k</sup> Luke 22. 64.

2. In Herods company, <sup>l</sup> when as the souldiers arraied him in white.

<sup>l</sup> Luke 23. 11.
<sup>m</sup> Matt. 27. 28.

3. In the common hall, where they <sup>m</sup> stripped him, and put vpon him a scarlet robe.

4. In Golgotha, when hee was crucified. First, as Saint Matthew in the 27. Chap. by the passengers, wagging their heads, and saying: Thou that destroyedst the Temple and buildest it in three daies; saue thy selfe, &c. Then by the Scribes and Pharises; He saued other, but he cannot saue himselfe. Last of all, some peruerted his words, affirming that hee called for Elias, when as he prayed; Eli, Eli, &c.

<sup>n</sup> Iudg. 16. 25.

The Popish Clergy mocke Christ with Caiphass, in that they blindfold the people, by denying them the Scriptures, and then mocke them for their ignorance. <sup>n</sup> Sampson hauing his eyes out, was a laughing stocke to the Philistins: and so the blind laymen are the Priests pastime. Though a Iesuit or Seminary buffet them euery day, yet can they not prophecy who smote them. Either Sampson must pull downe the Colledges of these Philistins, or else hee shall neuer see but thorow their spectacles. They mocke Christ with Herod, who retaine foule consciences in a white rochet, who conforme themselues in habit, but reforme not themselues in heart.

<sup>o</sup> Apoc. 17. 4.

The Babylonian whore mocks Christ with the souldiers, in putting on <sup>o</sup> skarlet, betokening zeale and charity, when her actions are cruell and bloody.

They mocke Christ with the Iewes in Golgotha, who distort the words of Scripture for their aduantage, making Elias of Eloi. Like the Popish dolt, who reading the subscription of Pauls 2. Epistle to the Thessalonians, in the vulgar Latine; Missu fuit ex Athenis, instantly cried out, that he had found a plaine text for the Masse. Or like that foppish Anabaptist, who gathered out of Christs words in English; Goe and teach all nations, and baptise, &c. that it is not lawfull for a Clergy man to ride on a faire palfrey; much lesse, as the Bishops, in a stately stately coach. Or as that Fen-man, alias Fin-man, standing vpon a marsh custome, iustified his not payment of Tithes out of Paul; <sup>a</sup> Customc to whom custome; but his pastor replied aptly; <sup>b</sup> the Churches of God haue no such custome.

<sup>p</sup> Matt. 23. 19.

So the blasphemous mouth spits on Gods face; the tyrants openly crossing the Gospells proceeding, scourge Christ: and all such as slide from the profession of the faith, are sayd in <sup>c</sup> Scripture, to crucife againe the Sonne of God. And therefore <sup>d</sup> the Church hath allotted this Gospell for this weeke most fitly. For at this Carniuall and gut-tide, many deliuer Christ vnto the Gentiles, in their chambering and wantonnesse, drunkennesse and gluttony, making such as are no Christians to <sup>e</sup> blaspheme Christianity, seeing such vncomely behaviour and mad meriments among professors of holy religion.

As a louing wife which hath her husband slaine, to moue compassion in the Judges, and to make the fact more odious and hatefull, tells of his deadly wounds, and describes his gastly lookes, and shewes some garment of his embrued in blood: <sup>f</sup> so the Church at this time doth offer vnto our considerations how Christ her deare loue was betrayed, and mocked, and spited on, and scourged, and put to death; hereby recalling vs from our horrible sinnes, which as another Iudas betray Christ, as another Herod mocke Christ, as another Pilate condemne Christ, as another Longinus, wound Christ, as another band of Iewes re-crucife Christ.

And the third day hee shall rise againe] <sup>g</sup> Christ is large in the report of his ignominy, but short in this of his glory: for he deliuered fve points as concerning his humiliation, but he remembers only two, yea for the matter, but one touching his exaltation. And the third day hee shall rise againe. Yet this one is the locke and key of all Christian faith, on which all other articles of holy beleeefe depend. See before the Creed, and after the Gospell on Easter and Saint Thomas day.

The prophets vsually mingle the sweet of Christs exaltation with the sower of his humiliation; as Gen. 49. 9. Esay 53. 7. 8. Psal. 4. 9. and Christ here foretold the one so well as the other to <sup>h</sup> strengthen his followers in affliction: for as he first suffered, and after entred into glory; so such as beare with him the crosse, shall be sure to weare with him the crowne. <sup>i</sup> If we be grafted with him to the similitude of his death,; euen so shall wee bee to the similitude of his resurrection.

And this saying was hid from them.] Men hardly conceiue ill of those whom they loue well; and therefore the Disciples expecting better things of Christ, could not vnderstand his prophecy, but the (Iewes as <sup>k</sup> Beda notes) hating Christ, and seeking how they might put him to death, easily beleued him vpon his word, yea one word, and that not so perspicuous as this, but obscure; for when he sayd, <sup>l</sup> If I were lift up from the earth, I will draw all men vnto mee; the Iewes answered him: We haue heard out of the Law, that Christ bideth for euer: and how saiest thou that the Sonne of man must be lift up?

Hence we may note <sup>m</sup> that the dearest Saints of God haue their infirmities and errors; and least we should doubt of it, S. Luke repeats it againe: They perceived not the things that were spoken. <sup>n</sup> Not that wee should follow their ignorance, but praise God for our knowledge, when we conceiue these deepe mysteries of our saluation.

Againe, we may learne from hence <sup>o</sup> not to be discouraged, if we doe not at the first discern Gods holy word: for the blessed Apostles after Christs resurrection vnderstood all these things, as S. Luke reports in his last chapter, verse 45. God at his good time, will open our eyes, as he did the blinde mans in this Gospell, and open our eares, as he did of the Prophet, Esay 50. and open our hearts, as he did of Lydia, Act. 16.

In that other part of this Gospell, concerning the bodily blinde, we may behold a miserable patient, and a mercifull Physitian.

<sup>a</sup> Rom. 13. 7.
<sup>b</sup> 1. Cor. 11. 16.

<sup>c</sup> Heb. 6. 6.
<sup>d</sup> Ferm. ser. 1. &
9. in loc. Coster.
Diez. &c.

<sup>e</sup> Rom. 2. 24.

<sup>f</sup> Pontan. in loc.

<sup>g</sup> Diez. in loc.

<sup>h</sup> Zepper. in loc.

<sup>i</sup> Rom. 6. 5.

<sup>k</sup> Apud Thomam
in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Ioh. 12. 32.

<sup>m</sup> Melanthon.
posil. in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Caluin apud
Marlorat. in loc.

<sup>o</sup> Marlorat. in
Matth. 20. 19

In the patient two things } Outward wants, } Blindnesse. are regardable: to wit, his } Inward vertues: } Beggery, vers. 35.
 } } Faith.
 } } Gratefulnessse.

In his faith } Beginning, it came by hearing, vers. 36.
 obserue the } Continuance, though he was rebuked, he ceased not to cry, Iesus } thou sonne of David haue mercy on me, vers. 37. 38. 39.
 } End and fruit, he receiued his sight, vers. 43.

His thankfulnessse appears } 1. In following Christ.
 in two things especially: } 2. In praising God.

And his example caused other to doe the like: All the people when they saw this gaue praise to God.

The mercifulnesse of } Gesture: vers. 40. Hee stood still and commanded the Christ the Physitian to- } blind man to be brought vnto him.
 ward this distressed pa- } Spech: vers. 41. What wilt thou that I doe vnto thee?
 tient, is seene in his } Workes: vers. 42. Receiue thy sight thy faith hath } made thee whole, and immediatly he receiued his sight.

And it came to passe, that as he was come nigh to Iericho. ] Christs actions are our instruction: as Christ then, & so must we doe good in all places, as occasion is offered, euen in the streets and high waies, so well as in the Temple.
 There is nothing in the sheepe but good; his fell is good, his flesh is good; his entrals good, his dung good: so the lambes of Christ must be profitable to all, hurtfull to none.

A certaine blind man sat by the high way side. ] Protestant Diuines as well as the Fathers and Friers haue construed this mystically; for euery man is blinde by nature, not discerning the things of God; he sits by the way, but he cannot walke in the way, till Christ open his eyes and direct his pathes. And it is most certaine that the state of the spirituallly blinde is more miserable then that of the other blinde; for to want the eyes of Angels, is worse then to want the eyes of beasts, as <sup>i</sup> Antonius told that good blinde man Didymus.

As the bodily blinde is led either by his seruant, or wife, or dogge; so the spirituallly blinde misled by the world, the flesh, and the deuill: the bodily blinde will be sure to get a seeing guide, but the spirituallly blinde followeth his owne <sup>k</sup> lusts and the blinde guides: and so the <sup>l</sup> blinde leading the blinde, both fall into the ditch.

The bodily blinde feeleth and acknowledgeth his want of sight; but the spirituallly blinde thinks hee sees as well as any. So Christ in the Gospell: <sup>m</sup> If yee <sup>n</sup> were blinde, yee should not haue sinne: but now yee say, wee see, therefore your sinne
<sup>o</sup> remaineth, &c. The bodily blinde supplieth his want of sight oft by feeling, as <sup>p</sup> Isaack when he could not see Iacob, sayd Let me feele thee my sonne: but the spirituallly blinde though hee feele many times in his conscience the stinging, yet neuer auoyds the flames of hell fire. The bodily blinde accounts them happy who see; but the spirituallly blinde doth despise the Secrs, and all such as walke in the right way: <sup>o</sup> This is hee whom we sometime had in derision, and in a parable of reproch.

To conclude; the want of corporall eyes, is to many <sup>p</sup> Diuinum bonum, albeit <sup>q</sup> humanum malum; but the want of faiths eyes, is the greatest euill which can befall man in this life: for reason is our soules left eye, <sup>r</sup> faith our right eye, without which <sup>r</sup> it is impossible to see the way to God. Come to me, faith <sup>s</sup> Christ; <sup>t</sup> credendo venimus, faith <sup>t</sup> Augustine, yea Christ <sup>u</sup> comes to vs, and <sup>x</sup> dwells in our heart by faith.

Begging ] The Iewes had a <sup>y</sup> law, that there should be no begger in Israel.
 England hath statutes also to correct impudent poore, and to provide for impotent poore: but as it is obserued, our lawes haue a better prologue then epilogue; they be well penned but ill kept: and so this good order is neglected among vs, as it was about Iericho, to the great scandall of Christian religion, and dishonour
 of

<sup>g</sup> Theophylact.
 in loc.

<sup>h</sup> Luther. Culman. Zepper. in
 loc.

<sup>i</sup> Granæen. in loc.

<sup>k</sup> Eccles. 18. 30
<sup>l</sup> Matth. 15. 14

<sup>m</sup> Iohn 9. 41.

<sup>n</sup> Gen 27. 21.

<sup>o</sup> Wisd. 5. 3.

<sup>p</sup> Passeratius orat de cæcit.
<sup>q</sup> Bonauent.
 dies. salut. c. 26.
<sup>r</sup> Heb. 11. 6.
<sup>s</sup> Mat. 11. 28.
<sup>t</sup> Ser. 12. de verbis Apostol.

<sup>u</sup> Iohn 14. 23.

<sup>x</sup> Ephes. 3. 17.

<sup>y</sup> Deut. 15. 4.

of our English nation. It is written of the <sup>2</sup> Athenians, that they punished idle persons as haynous offenders. And the Egyptians had a law, that every man should bring his name to the chiefe ruler of the prouince, and shew what trade of life he did vte. The <sup>a</sup> Romans enacted seuerer statutes against such as negligently suffered their ground vntilled. Among the <sup>b</sup> Chinois, every man is set about somewhat, according to his strength and yeeres: one labourerth with his hand, another with his foot, some with their eyes, and some must be doing with their tongue; and that which is most admirable, they keepe in Canton, foure thousand blinde men, vsfit for other seruice, to grinde corne and rice for the people. If either the Law were beleened as Gospell, or the Gospell kept as Law such <sup>c</sup> as would not labour, should not eat. Loyterers and sturdy rogues, should be sent either to the Gallies, or Prisons, or Bridewell, or to some like place where they might worke well: and as for such as cannot labour, it is fit, wee that are strong, should helpe to beare the burdens of the weake, being <sup>d</sup> eyes to the blind, and feet to the lame.

And when he heard the people passe by. <sup>e</sup> we must apprehend every fit occasion for our good: and when once we haue begun well, we must not faint in our course, but continue, <sup>f</sup> though the world rebuke vs, as the people did the blinde man here. Let vs still crie for mercy, manifesting a liuely faith in our words and waies. In our words, <sup>g</sup> acknowledging Christ to be man: O Iesu, thou Sonne of Dauid; and God, haue mercy on me. By our waies, in forsaking our old wicked courtes, and following Christ, that other seeing our good example, may likewise giue praise to God.

The Gospell and Epistle <sup>h</sup> well agree. For in the Epistle, Saint Paul aboue all other vertues, extolleth loue. Now <sup>i</sup> greater loue then this hath no man, then to bestow his life for his friends. And yet Christ, as Saint Luke reports in the Gospell, was betrayed, and mocked, and spitted on, and scourged, and put to death, euen for vs <sup>k</sup> his enemies. Againe, Saint Paul in the Epistle, next to loue commends in a Christian, faith and hope; both which (as the Gospell intimates) are eminent in blinde Bartimus, vnfainedly beleeuing, that Christ could: and in his greatest discouragement, hoping against hope, that Christ would haue mercy on him; in so much that Truth it selfe giues this testimonie; Receiue thy sight, thy faith hath sau'd thee.

If Duke Iosua be renowned in holy Bible, for that he made the naturall Sunne to stand still at his prayer in Gibeon; O what omnipotent faith hath this blind man, to make the supernaturall Sunne, the Sunne of righteousness, the Sunne that made the Sunne, to stay his course, and stand still in the way, till his desire was fulfilled! O Lord increase our faith and loue, making the one like this in the Gospell: and the other according to thy precept in the Epistle, that being mounted vpon these two wings, we may soare to the place where thine honor dwelleth, and there rest with thee for euermore.

AMEN.

<sup>2</sup> Church Hom. against idleness.

<sup>a</sup> Aut Gel lib. 4 cap 11.

<sup>b</sup> Description of the world, pag. 164.

<sup>c</sup> 1. The 3. 10.

<sup>d</sup> 1. c. b. 29. 15.

<sup>e</sup> Culman. in loc.

<sup>f</sup> Arboreus com. in loc.

<sup>g</sup> Iansen. concord. cap. 105.

<sup>h</sup> Luther. in loc. & Possil. cum glossis & figuris, epist. dom. quinquages.

<sup>i</sup> Ioh. 15. 13.

<sup>k</sup> Rom. 5. 10.

THE FIRST SUNDAY IN LENT.

The Epistle, 2. COR. 6. 1.

*Wee as helpers exhort you, that yee receiue not the grace of God in vaine,
&c..*

HE Lent-fast hath beene of good credit, and is of great continuance: for although it was neuer commanded by God in precept, yet, as <sup>a</sup> Hierome and <sup>b</sup> Augustine thinke, commended by Christ in patterne; whose judgement I follow so farre, as our Church, intimating in the Colledge for this day, that Christ fasted fortie dayes and fortie nights for our sakes: as <sup>c</sup> Chrysostome, for our instruction; as <sup>d</sup> other for our example; so far forth as that action of Christ is <sup>e</sup> imitable, considered as a morall, and not as a miracle.

I dare not say with <sup>f</sup> Ambrose (for the Papists haue s fathered this saying vpon him) In totum non obseruare sacrilegum est, ex parte violare peccatum est: yet for as much as <sup>h</sup> Protestant Diuines auow, that some Lent in different degrees hath beene generally kept in <sup>i</sup> all ages, I will say with <sup>k</sup> Augustine, that It is an insolent madnesse to neglect that which the whole Church obserues.

It is true that our whole life should be nothing else but <sup>a1</sup> Lent to prepare our selues against the Sabbath of our death, and Easter of our resurrection: <sup>m</sup> but seeing the corruption of our dayes, and wickednes of our natures is so much exorbitant, as that it is a hard matter to hold the common sort of men at all times within the lists of pietie, iustice, and sobrietie, it is fit there should be one time at least in the yeere, and that of a reasonable continuance, for the recalling of them vnto some more staied courses and seuerer cogitations; and this time was chosen as fittest, in prayer, fasting, and mourning to turne to the Lord; becauie that herein we remember how Christ <sup>n</sup> suffered for our sinne, which is the most preuailling motiue to make vs hate sinne, as also for that after this meditation of his sufferings and <sup>o</sup> conforming our selues vnto them, his ioyfull resurrection for our iustification immediatly presents it selfe vnto vs, in solemnitic whereof, all men vnbaptized were wont to be brought vnto the sacred Font; and all baptized of yeeres and discretion approached with great deuotion vnto the Lords holy Table. See conformity to our forefathers. D. Abbot vbi supra, pag. 400. <sup>1</sup> Bernard. ser. 2. de ieiunio quadrages. <sup>m</sup> Relation of Religion vsed in the west parts of the world: sect. 10. auowed by the most iudicious Author himselfe <sup>n</sup> 1 Sunday how he fasted and was tempted, 3. and 5 reuiled, 6. and all that week crucified & buried. <sup>o</sup> Epist Sunday 3. and 6.

<sup>a</sup> Comment. in cap. 58. 1. 1. 1. 1.
<sup>b</sup> Epist. 119 cap. 15. for so D<sup>r</sup>. Fuise in Math 4. 2 constructeth him.
<sup>c</sup> Apud 1 hom. in Math 4.
<sup>d</sup> See D. Field of the Church, lib. 3. cap 19
<sup>e</sup> Mado possibili Iansen. concord cap 15
<sup>f</sup> Serm 37.
<sup>g</sup> Prosperus and other hold those Sermons of Ambrose counterfeit.
<sup>h</sup> D. Hiortius appeale, lib. 2. cap. 24 sect. 1.
<sup>i</sup> See D. Abbot against Hill, p 279. 38. &c.
<sup>j</sup> Beilarm de bonis operibus in particular. lib. 2. cap 14
<sup>k</sup> Epist. 118. c 5
We keep Lent for vniformity with other Christian Churches, and Bellarmin. de bonis operibus in partic. lib. 2. cap. 16. and Doctor Field, of the Church, lib. 2. cap. 19. pag. 105.

And lest we should want directions herein, it is ordered by the Church at the beginning of Lent aptly, that Paul in the Epistle should teach vs how to fast by lesson, and Christ in the Gospell how to fast by example, being not onely vox clamans as Iohn Baptist, a crying voyce, but verbum operans, a working word in the wilderneffe.

<sup>a</sup> Sanchez, con. 1. Dom. 1. quadrages.

Saint Pauls advice concerns the People, that they receive not the grace of God in vaine: } First propounded, I have heard thee in a time accepted, &c.

 pressed by text out of Esay: } Then applied; Behold now is that accepted time, &c.

Pastors, in their } Calling, vers. 1. Συνοιωτες, helpers, or workers together.
 Carriage } Generally, vers. 2. Let vs give none occasion of euill, that in our office be found no fault.
 Particularly, vers. 4. In much patience, &c.

Not in vaine.] S. Paul shewed in the words immediatly before, that Christ, who knew no sinne, for vs was made sinne, that we should be made the righteousness of God in him; and therefore, receiue not in vaine this great grace of God, ° that is, the Gospell revealing this grace. Now to receive the Gospell in vaine, is, not to beleene it, or P so to beleene, that we bring not forth any fruit thereof in our life, ¶ but rather hide our talents in the ground; as S. Ierome in one word: In vanum gratiam Dei recipit, qui in nouo Testamento non nouus est: He receiue the grace of God in vaine, who doth not become a new man vnder the new Testament; for the ¶ grace of God that bringeth saluation vnto all men appearing, teacheth vs to deny vngodlinesse and worldly lusts, and that wee should liue soberly, and righteously, and godly in this present world.

<sup>a</sup> Sarcerius in loc.
<sup>p</sup> Fide vacua operibus fidei. Caietan. in loc.
¶ Ferrus serm. 10 Dom. 1. quadrages.
¶ Com. in loc.
¶ 2. Titus 11.

If thou spend good houres in ill actions, or great blessings to bad purposes, assuredly thou art a traitor and theefe, to God, who redeemed thee from the hand of all thine enemies, and that with an inestimable price, for this end, that thou shouldest obserue him, and serue none but him all the daies of thy life.

¶ Erasmus annot. in loc.
¶ Starlovat. ex Catuin. in loc.
¶ Aquin. in loc.

This exhortation is pressed here by text out of Esay, chap 49. vers. 8. For he saith. that is, ¶ God the Father, I have heard thee, ° that is, God the Sonne; in a time accepted, and in the day of saluation, * that is, in the fulnesse of time, Galat. 4. 4. this then is a prophecie of Christ: God the Father heard God the Sonne for vs in an acceptable time: where note the sweete order of the blessed Spirit, first an acceptable time, then the day of saluation; insinuating that our saluation is altogether from Gods free grace, by the merits and mediation of Christ, who died for our sinnes, and rose againe for our iustification.

¶ Caietan in loc.

Behold now is that accepted time.] A Sermon hath two principall parts, expiication and application: our Apostle therefore doth not opely propound, but apply this Scripture. Now is the time; now is the day: ¶ relative ad Deum, in respect of God, an accepted time: relative ad homines, in respect of men, a day of Saluation.

¶ Lutber. possil. maior. epist. Dom 1. Aduent.
¶ Ephes. 5. 14.

All our time before the Gospell, was a darke night of ignorance, Rom. 13. 12. but since the light of the world, the Sunne of righteousness hath appeared in our Horizon, illuminating all such as sit in darkenesse, and in the shadow of death, a bright day of saluation is come: the ¶ Gospell is the day, Christ is the light, faith is the eye, which apprehends this light: he then that ¶ sleeps still, and standeth not vp from the dead, receiues the grace of God in vaine. He that sleeps and openeth not faiths eye to behold the great light sent into the world, receiues it not at all; he that awaketh and openeth his eye, but ariseth not from from the workes of darknes, and bed of sin, receiveth it in vaine. Walke therefore faith <sup>b</sup> Christ, in the day, the <sup>c</sup> night commeth wherein no man can worke; now is the time, now is the day, neglect not this opportunitie; this is our day, the next is the Lords day, wherein he will iudge such as haue receiued his grace in vaine: for an <sup>d</sup> Angell of heauen hath sworne by him that liueth for euermore, that time should be no more; <sup>e</sup> that is after this acceptable time, no more time for repentance, no more dayes of salution. Hee that refuseth here to take good counsell cheape, shall hereafter buy repentance too deare: the water what way it gets a vent, that way the streame will make a current: the tree sal-leth as it groweth, and so qualis vita, finis ita: Men dye for the most part as they liue. Learne then ingrowing to sway right, looke to Ierusalem aboue, that you may fall right. As this world shall leaue you, the next shall finde you. Foure good mothers haue foure bad daughters; Truth hath hatred, Familiaritie contempt, Prosperitie pride, Securitie perill: awake from sleepe, it is now day, worke <sup>f</sup> your saluation in feare and trembling, <sup>g</sup> while it is called to day.

The rest of this Epistle concernes especially Pastors, intimating what they be for their calling, and what they should be for their carriage. They be for their calling helpers, or workers together, & that in respect of <sup>h</sup> their fellow Ministers. <sup>i</sup> the <sup>k</sup> people. <sup>l</sup> God.

First they must be coadiuuant one to another, as <sup>1</sup> Peter and Iohn gaue to Paul and Barnabas the right hands of fellowship: they must ioyne together in the preaching of one Lord, one faith, one baptisme. For if diuision of tongues hindred the building of Babel, then diuision of hearts much more the building of Ierusalem. Hombred dissentions in a Church, are amicorum dispendia, hostium compendia; a Lent to friends, a Christmas to foes. O <sup>m</sup> pray for the peace of Ierusalem, that it may be at vnitie within it selfe; peace within her walls, and plenteousnesse within her palaces. <sup>n</sup> If her children, as the twins of Rebecca, strugge within her, it cannot be but with great paine and more griefe. The Kings daughter is all glorious within, her clothing is of wrought gold, and needle worke, wrought about with diuerse colours; and <sup>o</sup> so there is in the Church one faith, and variety of Ceremonies; an vnity for doctrine, but not alwaies in rites and vniformity: P now these diuerse colours in the same garment may not beget a contentious opposition in the members of one body: we may not diuide this coat without seame, but so worke together, as that wee may keepe the vnitie of the Spirit in the bond of peace.

Secondly, Preachers are helpers of the people, being their ghostly fathers to beget them in Christ. As our Apostle told the <sup>9</sup> Corinthians: In Christ Iesus I haue begotten you through the Gospell. And as it were mothers to bring them vnto the life of grace; Galat. 4. 19 My little children of whom I trauell in birth againe till Christ be formed in you. And after the people be spiritually borne, the Ministers are <sup>r</sup> nurses and tutors vnto them, exhorting them, as Paul here, that they receiue not the grace of God in vaine. They feed them sometime with <sup>s</sup> milke, sometime with strong meat, till they be of <sup>t</sup> full growth in Christ. In affliction, as Simon, helping to beare their crosses; in prosperitie, like Timothy, <sup>u</sup> charging them not to be high minded, and that they trust not in vncertaine riches, but in the liuing Lord. In a word, good Preachers are helpers of their hearers,

In <sup>x</sup> preaching.
<sup>y</sup> practise.
<sup>z</sup> prayer.

Our fruitfull preaching is a great helpe, our holy practise greater, our holy prayer (as Gorrau obserues) is the greatest of all: therefore your debt and duty to spirituall Pastors is such, as that <sup>a</sup> Paul told Philemon, thou owest vnto me euen thine owne selfe.

Thirdly, Preachers are helpers in respect of God, <sup>b</sup> οἱ συνεργοὶ, labourers together

<sup>b</sup> Iohn 11. 9.
<sup>c</sup> Iohn. 6. 7.

<sup>d</sup> Apocal 10 6
<sup>e</sup> Finis ubi supra

<sup>f</sup> Philip. 2. 11.
<sup>g</sup> Heb. 3. 13.

<sup>h</sup> Bullinger apud Maurat. in loc.
<sup>i</sup> Theophrast.
in loc.
<sup>k</sup> Caietan in loc.
<sup>l</sup> Galat. 2. 9.

<sup>m</sup> Psal. 122.

<sup>n</sup> Chrysostome.

<sup>o</sup> Augustin. in
Psal. 44

<sup>p</sup> Idem epist. 86.

<sup>q</sup> 1. Cor. 4. 15

<sup>r</sup> 1 Theff. 2. 7.

<sup>s</sup> 1 Cor. 3. 2.

<sup>t</sup> Ephes. 4. 13.

<sup>u</sup> 1 Tim. 6. 17

<sup>x</sup> Hieron in loc.

<sup>y</sup> Aquin in loc.

<sup>z</sup> Gorrau in loc.

Vide fulgen.

ser. de B. Sceph.

<sup>a</sup> Epist. to Philemon. vers 19

<sup>b</sup> 1. Cor. 3. 9.

<sup>c</sup> Esay 40. 13

<sup>d</sup> Comment. in

<sup>1</sup> Tim 3.

<sup>e</sup> Caluin. apud Marlorot. in loc

<sup>f</sup> Polydor. Anglican. hist. l. 25

<sup>g</sup> Sir Thomas

Moore in Rich 3

<sup>h</sup> Matth 5. 14.

<sup>i</sup> Ser 66, super Cantica.

<sup>k</sup> Bernard de considera. lib. 2

<sup>l</sup> Augustin. de doctr. Christian.
lib. 4. Cap. 27

<sup>m</sup> Theophylact.
in loc.

<sup>n</sup> 1 Cor. 15. 32

<sup>o</sup> Mat. 7. 15.

<sup>p</sup> 2 Thess. 3. 2.

<sup>q</sup> Geneva.

<sup>r</sup> Vulgar Latine

<sup>s</sup> Luther : in loc.

<sup>t</sup> Kings 18. 17

<sup>u</sup> Acts 19. 27.

<sup>v</sup> Iohn 19. 12

<sup>w</sup> Acts 17. 6.

<sup>x</sup> D. Andrewes

con. ad conuocat.

anno 1592.

<sup>y</sup> Iesuit. cat. lib

3. cap. 11.

<sup>z</sup> Watson, Quadlibet. 1. art. 1.

<sup>a</sup> See relation of religio vsed

in the west parts of the world sect 28

<sup>b</sup> Trauels of Englishme into farre Countries, pag. 15.

<sup>c</sup> Sparing dis-courte, pag. 7. 8

<sup>d</sup> Quodlibet. 3.

art. 2.

together with God. helping, not as efficient, but as instrumentall causes, as Paul construeth himselfe: Neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth, but God that giueth increase. They doe not administer helpe to God, <sup>c</sup> for who can instruct his spirit? but God workes in them as in his agents and ambassadors. <sup>d</sup> Ambrose calls them actores Dei. So S. Gregories saying is true; The good which a man doth, is both the worke of man, and the worke of God. See before Epist. Dom. 3. Aduent. It is then our <sup>e</sup> part first to preach, and then to presse the Gospell as the factors of God, that his grace be not received in vaine.

Let vs giue none occasion of euill] It is an indelible blot to Doctor Shaw, the <sup>f</sup> Preacher and Proctor at Pauls Crosse for King Richard the thira, that hee was <sup>g</sup> reputed a man of greater fame then learning, and of greater learning than honestie. Good Preachers are <sup>h</sup> lux mundi, the light of the world; bad, tenebrae mundi, saith <sup>i</sup> Bernard, fogs and mists, which keepe the people from seeing the light of the Gospell, and receiuing the grace of God. If there were no more scandalous Ministers in all England but one, yet it were too many by one. <sup>k</sup> Monstrosa res est sedes prima, vita ima, lingua magniloqua, & manus otiosa, sermo multus & fructus nullus, &c. <sup>l</sup> Habet enim ut obedienter audiatur, quantacunque granditate dictionis maius pondus vita docentis: In current coyne there must bee good metall, the right stampe, and the iust weight; if wee preach well and liue ill, our metall is good, but our stampe bad; if wee liue well and preach ill, our stampe is good, but our mettall bad; if wee both preach and liue well, our penny then is good siluer; and therefore let vs giue none occasion of euill, that in our office be found no fault, but in all things let vs behaue our selues as the Ministers of God, exhorting and helping the people that they receive not the grace of God in vaine.

In much patience] <sup>m</sup> Not in little, but in much, as Caietan vpon the place, longa & magna; the Miter becomes Aaron, not a limiter; he must fight with <sup>n</sup> beasts, euen with <sup>o</sup> rauening wolues in sheepes clothing, with Deuills vnder the names of Saints; hee must deale with <sup>p</sup> vnreasonable men, euer ready to cauill at whatsoeuer hee doth or saith: and therefore little patience will be to little purpose, much is happily not enough.

In strifes] Or, as other translations, in <sup>q</sup> tumults and <sup>r</sup> seditions. As patient not as an agent; for hee that must haue much patience, may not be turbulent in a State, but submitt himselfe to the government of higher powers. A Diuine must be in strifes as in stripes, in necessities, in anguishes, in imprisonments; <sup>s</sup> quod nulli inferre, verum ab alyis ferre conuenit, in all which he must beare not beat. Or in strife, that is, accused of strife wrongfully. So King <sup>t</sup> Abab said, Eliab troubled Israel, and <sup>u</sup> Demetrius, that Paul was a dangerous man vnto the Commonwealth of Ephesus; and the <sup>x</sup> Jewes, that Christ had spoken against Cæsar, and that his followers had <sup>y</sup> subuerted the state of the world: It is euey Christians liuerie, which once the renowned Elizabeth in her poesie; Much suspected by me, nothing proued can be.

The Iesuits are quite contrary to this example; not accused only, but also convicted of treasonable plots and practises, actors in strife, not martyrs in tumults, but murderers; as <sup>z</sup> one of our side wittily, Flagella Respublica, stabelia seditionis; as one of <sup>a</sup> their side bitterly, their Pulpits are drums and trumpets, incensing princes one against another. All their confessions are as instructions, or rather destructions to teach rebellion, as their old friend in his <sup>b</sup> Quodlibeticall discourse: The reading of the Iesuits to the English youths in the Seminaries abroad, was the stroke of stony heads on steely hearts, that gaue fire to the seditions match, which hath well nigh set all Christendome on flame. They vaunt indeed, <sup>c</sup> that the Church is the soule of the world; the Clergie of the Church; and they of the Clergie: but as <sup>d</sup> the trouellers, of Constantinople, that it is a city in a wood, or a wood in a City; so the Iesuite is a <sup>e</sup> statizing Priest, a Court-rabbi, more cunning in Arcane, Lucian, Machiauel, than in his Breuiaries and Bible, not in <sup>f</sup> commission from f Psal. 69. 10.

 Church hon. of Fasting.

part. 1.
 Bonavent. diet. sal. cap. 15.

i Matt. 6. 16.
 k Bellarm. de bonus operibus, lib.

2. cap. 11. Bonav-
 ent. ubi supra:
 & Bernard in cont. serm. 65.

Abstinencia me sati factio pro peccatis.

l Church of Eng ubi sup.
 Calan. insul.

lib. 4. cap. 12.
 §. 15. Melanct.

Erant. Chem vii
 Bellar. ubi sup.

m Epist. ad Celant. Tom. 1. fol.
 113. & Chrysost.

honor ieiunij,
 vitæ emendatio,
 &c.

n Ser. 3. de qua-dragel.

o Anib. ser. 33.
 p Com. in locum.

q Apud Bask in
 loc.

r Lib. de temperrantia, quest. 2.
 de luxuria. Her ticum non est

 credere simplicem fornicatio-

nem non esse
 peccatum.

s B. Jewel defence of Apo-log. 357.

t Vite h. s. Iesui ic ordnis per Eliam Hifenmukerū cap. 6.

 pag. 165.

u Com. in 1. Tit.

v Extra de indi-cīs cap. 4. §. de adulterijs.

x Gloss. super Othen. constitut.
 de concubinis

clericorum in remo-uendis licet ad
 profugandum, & Panoritan.
 de cohabitatore clericorum & mulierum, si autem.

y Distinct. 81.
 Maximian in glossa.

that the speech of <sup>f</sup> David may be truly the voyce of the Church in obseruing daies of fast: I wept and chastened my selfe with fasting, and that was turned to my reproofe.

Fasting is a matter indifferent in it selfe, but it taketh denomination from the end and vse thereof. If wee fast as the <sup>h</sup> conetous to spare cost, or as hypo-rites to be <sup>i</sup> scene of men, or as the <sup>k</sup> Papists, out of an opinion of merit to satisfie for our sinnes, and hereby to gaine heauen, our fasting is bad: but if wee fast for our good ends, it is commendable to vse some, yea much fasting, as Paul here.

Now the Scripture sets downe three principall vses of fasting, as <sup>l</sup> our Diuines obserue;

1. To chastise the flesh that it be not too wanton: 1 Cor. 9. 27. See Epist. Septuages. Sunday. Lasciuientem adolescentularum carnem crebris & duplicatis ieiunij frangebatur: malens eis stomachum dolere quam mentem. Hieron. in epitaphio Paulæ.
2. That the spirit may be more frequent in prayer; and so the blessed Apostles fasted and prayed: Act. 13.
3. To professe our guiltinesse and humiliation vnto God for our sinnes, as Ninive: Ionas 3.

As Abraham sayd of Hagar vnto Sara, Gen. 16. 6. Behold she is in thine hands doe with her as it pleaseth thee: so if thou be regenerate, thou hast thy body committed to thy discretion to chastise by priuate fasting as thou wilt, and by publique according to the lawes of the Church wherein thou liuest, alway remembring the lesson of <sup>m</sup> Hierome, that the perfection and honour of a religious fast consists not in abstaining from meat, but in fasting from mischief. If the wezand haue offended onely, then it is enough that it fast; but if all the members haue sursctted in sinne, good reason (as <sup>n</sup> Bernard excellently) that all should keepe a Lent: that the wanton eye should obserue Lent in abstaining from seeing of vanitie; that the curicus itching eare should obserue Lent in fasting from idle runcours and vsauory talke; that the glib tongue should obserue Lent in refraining from euill speaking; especially that the polluted soule should obserue Lent in denying her owne will, and doing Gods will. Quid enim prodest ieiunare visceribus, & luxurare venatibus: abstinere cibis, errare peccatis; castigare corpus inedia, mentem exercere nequitia; vinum forte non bibere, & chrum cogitatione meliquitatis incedere?

In purenesse.] The Rhemists here reade chastitie, grounding vpon this text their impure Celibate. But <sup>p</sup> Ambrose construeth it of the Gospells purity so well as of the bodies chastitie. <sup>q</sup> Theodoret interprets it contempt of riches; Oecumenus, modestie; Chrysostome, reiecting of gifts, and preaching of the Gospell freely. So that it chargeth not Clergie-men to be without wiues, except they haue the gift of continency, and will vse it to Gods glory.

The Papists haue so doted on their Priests single life, that <sup>r</sup> Martinus de magistris, one of their owne schoole, deliuered impudently, that single fornication is no sinne. Bishop Jewell being challenged for this as a falsarie, further auowed it out of their owne Doctor Alphonsus de Castro. See defence of his Apologie, part. 4. cap. 1. diuision 1.

<sup>s</sup> Cardinall Campegius, Albertus Phigius, and other of that vncleane generation haue taught, that it is an honeste thing for a Priest to be ensangled with many concubines in secret, then openly to be inoynd in marriage with one wife: for he may not keepe one benefice with one wife, but he may haue two benefices and three whores, as their owne Cornelius Agrypa de vanitat. scient. cap. 64.

Their learned Bishop <sup>t</sup> Espencaus affirms, that the Romish Officials haue taken a yearly pension for licencing the Priests their concubines, exacting a payment of continent persons also, because, say they, they may haue them if they list. In their <sup>u</sup> Canons, adulterie is reckoned among the petty sinnes, and so little punished in Clergie men, as that a Bishop need not <sup>x</sup> depriue them, and a lay-man may not <sup>y</sup> accuse them for incontinencie: for as Petrus Ranenas vpon the Decretals, Albeit handling and kissing in lay-persons are the beginnings often of incontinent behaviour; yet in Priests it is far otherwise, for a priest is presumed to doe these things of charity and good zeale, so that if a Clergie-man embrace a woman, a lay-man, saith the 2<sup>d</sup> Glosse, must iudge of it thus, that he doth it onely with an intent to blesse her: and thus, as <sup>a</sup> Augustine in the like case, Clamor Sodomitum & Gomorrh. sorum multiplicatus est: The cry of Sodome and Gomorra is multiplied, in that those vices are not onely unpunished, but also openly vsed, and as it were by law authorized.

<sup>b</sup> Franciscus Turrianus, a Iesuite of great note, commends a single life so much, as to thinke it essentiall vnto Priesthood, euen by the word of God, and that it is no more lawfull for any person to permit the Clergie to marie, then to licence a man to steale. But their old <sup>c</sup> Gratian, and <sup>d</sup> Aquin, their now flourishing <sup>e</sup> Cardinall and their last <sup>f</sup> Councell affirme the contrary, concluding that this vow of chastity is annexed vnto the order of Priesthood onely by the positieue law of the Church, and that, as their Schoolman <sup>g</sup> Ioannes Scotus auoweth, is alterable. And indeed many learned Papists examining the sovre fruits of this accursed plant, haue thought it most fit that it should be changed. I will not cite satyricall Poets, as Mantuan, Petrarcha, Boccace, who may be sayd happily to write from the spirit of bitternesse, but their grauest Authors inueying against this abomination, euen from the bitternesse of spirit.

Abbat <sup>h</sup> Panormitanus their great Canonist, saith, I beleue it were a good law, and for the safety of soules, that such as cannot live chaste, may contract matrimoune, for the Church herein ought to doe as the skilfull Phisitian. if he see by good experience that his medicine doth rather hurt, then helpe, taketh it cleane away.

<sup>i</sup> Polydor Virgil, an Author among them of good esteeme; No crime euer brought either more shame to Priesthood, or more hinderance to religion, or more grieife to the godly, then the life of single Priests.

Georgius Cassander, honoured of the Romane Emperors <sup>k</sup> Ferdinand and Maximilian for the most choice dinine of that age: I he Bishops of latter times haue much offended in executing the rigorous law of single life; for it is a snare vnto the soules of many young nouices and hath occasioned most abominable scandalls in the Church,

<sup>m</sup> Durandus, an accurate Schoolman, It were good that in a Councell Priests marriage were set at libertie, for hitherto it hath bene in vaine to force them vnto chastity

<sup>n</sup> Martianus Perefus a popish Bishop: Considering many men of filthy mindes are crept into the Church, it is necessarie that the law of single life should be released vnterly, that the holy name of Priesthood be no no more blasphemed of carnall and carlesse men.

<sup>o</sup> Espencaus: It may be sayd almost of Rome Christian, as it was of Rome heathen, Vrbs est iam tota Lupanar: All the whole city is a very stews.

Pope Gregorie the Great, vpon an horrible spectacle in a fish-pond as the spaune of constrained single life, did, for feare of moe murtherers, abrogate such ecclesiasticall restraints; as Huldericus Bishop of Augusta reports in an <sup>p</sup> Epistle to Pope Nicolas the first.

Pope Innocentius the third <sup>q</sup> wrote this of the Masse-priests in his age: Mane filium virginis offerunt in choro, sed nocte filium veneris agitant in choro.

Pope <sup>r</sup> Pius the second, vpon the like corruptions, openly protested, that hee saw many causes why wises should be taken away from Priests at the first; but now he saw many moe and more weighty reasons why they should be restored vnto them again.

The Cardinall of Cremona, being the Popes Legate sent from Rome to London especially for this end, to remoue married Clergie-men from their Cures; after he had made a long speech in disgrace of honourable marriage, was found the same night committing folly with a whore; res apertissima negari non potuit, celari non decuit, as Henry Huntingdon in his <sup>s</sup> historie.

Pope <sup>t</sup> Sergius the third kept Marozia Earle Guido his wife, and got of her another Pope John the twelue; and John the <sup>u</sup> eleuenth did mortifie his flesh with <sup>a</sup> See Item: l ubi (sup pag. 300. & Arden in Enz dom 4 post Trin.

<sup>a</sup> Enchirid. ad Laurent. cap. 80.
<sup>b</sup> Cassander consult. art. 23.

<sup>c</sup> Causa 26.
<sup>d</sup> 2 e. quest. 88. art. 11.
<sup>e</sup> Bellarmin. lib. 1. de clericis, c. 19.
<sup>f</sup> Con. Trident. sess. 24.
<sup>g</sup> In 4 sent. dist. 36 quest. 1.

<sup>h</sup> Extra de clericis coniugatis, cap. Cirimolim.
<sup>i</sup> De reum inuent. lib. 5. cap 4.

<sup>k</sup> See their letters annexed to his consultation.
<sup>l</sup> Consult. art. 23

<sup>m</sup> De modo celebrandi concilii, tit. 46. cited by B Item: l ubi sup. pag. 190.

<sup>n</sup> De traditionibus, part. 2. considerat. de vno continent. art. 4.
<sup>o</sup> De continentia, lib 3. cap. 4. pag. 142.

<sup>p</sup> Magdeburg. cent. 6. col. c 86. & Fox Mart. pag. 1054.

<sup>q</sup> De vilitat. conditione humane, lib 2. cap. 22.
<sup>r</sup> Plain. in vita pag. 2.

<sup>s</sup> Lib. 7 edit. 10 dia. fol. 219. & Polyd. Virgil. in vita Hier. 1. circa finem.

<sup>t</sup> Lutichprand. lib. 3. cap. 12.
<sup>u</sup> Baleus ex Auentin. annual. Roiorum.

<sup>a</sup> Idem in Greg. 7. ex Lamberto Hirsueldensi, <sup>y</sup> Sleidan. con. lib. 11. <sup>z</sup> Idem ibidem. <sup>a</sup> Balsus in luto 3. <sup>b</sup> Philip. Morris.

<sup>c</sup> Jewell in Apolog. <sup>d</sup> Suet. in vita Tiberij.

<sup>e</sup> Vid. epist. Alciat. prefix bist. Paul, Iouij, & Iouium in vita Clem. 7. & Oruspium in luto 3. <sup>f</sup> Heb. 13. 4. <sup>g</sup> 1. Cor. 7. 9. <sup>h</sup> Hieros. 61. <sup>i</sup> Lect. 182 super lib. Sapient. cited by Jewell. defence of Apol. pag. 133.

<sup>k</sup> Aquin. in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Ouid de remedio amoris, lib. 1. <sup>m</sup> De uilitat. condition. humani lib. 2 c. 22. <sup>n</sup> Luther, & Gorran. in loc. <sup>o</sup> Aristot.

<sup>p</sup> Psal. 22. 21.

<sup>q</sup> Psal. 32. 10. <sup>r</sup> Rom. 12. 2.

<sup>s</sup> Ethic. lib. 6 c. 5.

with keeping his minion Theodora, and <sup>x</sup> Hildebrand with Matilda the Countesse, who forsooth was called S. Peters daughter.

Alexander the sixth bestowed a Cardinalship to continue the lone of <sup>y</sup> Julia Farnesca, and made bold with his owne daughter Lucretia; and <sup>z</sup> Paul the third with his owne sister Inlia. But why speake we thus much of their adulterie, fornication, incest? It is Sodomie that is Romes Diana, Rome is a <sup>b</sup> Clunnicritic.

Roma quid est? quod te docuit praposterus ordo.

Quid docuit? iungus uersa elementa, scies.

Roma amor est, amor? qualis? praposterus? unde hoc?

Roma mares; noli dicere plura, scio.

John Casa Archbishop of Beneuentum, the Popes Legat at Venice, wrote in commendation of that abominable filthinesse; Et <sup>c</sup> quod ne fando quidem auidiri debeat, eloquentia scelerata commendauit. It is written of <sup>d</sup> Tiberius Emperour of Rome, that he preferred highly Novellus Tricongius, and made him Proconsul, for that he was able to drinke three pottles of wine together with one breath; and so the Popes haue <sup>e</sup> promoted some to Cardinalships (and a Cardinal is a Kings fellow) for doing them secret seruice, wherein was lesse honor and honestie.

Thus (as you see) there is great difference betweene popish chastity and Pauls puritie: for he saith expressly, <sup>f</sup> Mariage is honorable among all men; and that <sup>g</sup> it is better to marie then to burne: but these men, as <sup>h</sup> Epiphanius of the like, reiect mariage, yet cease not from lust. <sup>i</sup> Holcote applieth that of Iob vnto them, He hath not found stedfastnesse in his Angells. The spirits of our time by their conetousnesse are Angells of the pit of hell, and by their incontinence like the spirits called Incubi, the Priests of Priapus or Beelphegor; and so the Papists in their celibate mend their manners as the Deuill his dames legge; for whereas he should haue set it right, he burst it quite asunder.

It is sayd, Exod 37. 23. that the snuffers of the Temple were of pure gold: hereby signifying that they should be pure, who correct other. A Pastor then must be pure, though not a puritan; holy, not hollow; no boaster of puritie, but a true follower of vertue. Marke the words order here, <sup>k</sup> labour and fasting goe before, chastitie followeth after. It was fulnesse of bread and abundance of idlenesse that occasioned Sodome to sinne: Ezech 16. 49. but labour, and then as the Poet truly, periere cupidinis arcus, in the words of holy Scripture, Sarans fierie darts shall not hit thee. Venus in uinis, ignis in igne, quoth the <sup>l</sup> Master of that art. But fast and thou shalt starue thy raging enemie: nunquam fugatur nisi cum fugitur, nunquam maclatur, nisi cum maceratur, as <sup>m</sup> Innocentius sweetly.

Knowledge. <sup>n</sup> That is, discretion and wisdom, called by the <sup>o</sup> Philosopher, αἴσθησις, as it were the soules eye: for as the Vnicorne doth more good with one horn then other beasts with two; so the discreet Pastor indued with a few gifts, edifieth his people better then vnwise Teachers adorned with many: which occasioned one to say, that young Lawyers, old Phisitians, and midling Diuines are best; an old Preacher cannot teach so painfully, and the young not so profitably, but the midling may doe both, as hauing the young mans erection of spirit, and the old mans direction of zeale.

An Vnicornes horne being in a skillfull mans hand, is very pretious and helpfull, but when it is in the beasts head, often hurtfull; and therefore <sup>p</sup> Dauid praied he might be deliuered from the horne of Vnicornes. In like manner, albeit zeale residing in a wise man be neuer so commendable, yet placed in a beasts head in a mans heart <sup>q</sup> like horse and mule without vnderstanding, is no better then madnesse and furie. <sup>r</sup> S. Paul sayd of the superstitious Iewes, I beare them record, that they haue the zeale of God, but not according to knowledge. zeale without learning is starke blinde, learning without discretion is purblinde; like strong Sampson without his eyes, apt to doe little good, howtoeuer able to doe much mischief.

As discretion is the soules eye, so the soule of vertue, being, as <sup>s</sup> Aristotle truly, virtutum norma & forma, the very guide to goodnesse, and mistress of all moralitie : which opinion <sup>c</sup> Socrates held so stiffly, that he supposed euery vertue to be prudence ; for prudence directs bounty what to giue, when to giue, where to giue : ne liberalitas liberalitate percat, as <sup>u</sup> Hierome to Paulinus ; it is prudence that directs fortitude with whom, and for what, and how to fight ; and prudence directs vs <sup>x</sup> here to diuide the word aright, that our preaching may be powerful vnto saluation, and that our selues may shine like <sup>y</sup> lights in the midst of a crooked generation.

<sup>z</sup> Other vnderstand by knowledge accurate skill in the Scriptures insinuating that good Diuines ought to be good text men, <sup>a</sup> endued with the wisdom of God, and not as the false teachers abounding with carnall and worldly wisdom. So that Paul in this one line doth <sup>b</sup> touch vpon the three theologicall vertues, Faith, Hope, Charity : faith, in that wee must haue knowledge founded vpon the word of truth, and power of God ; hope, because wee must haue long suffering ; charity, kindnesse outwardly, loue vnfained inwardly, both arising from the holy ghost, the Spirit of <sup>c</sup> truth and <sup>d</sup> loue.

[By the armour of righteousnesse on the right hand, and on the left.] <sup>e</sup> On the right hand, that wee be not puffed vp with prosperitie too high ; on the left hand, that wee be not pressed down with aduersitie too low. Feare and are hope the <sup>f</sup> cloud and the fire to guide men through this wilderness vnto the promised land of Canaan. They be the two milstones which a man may not pledge, Deu. 24. 6. supporting hope is the nether-milstone, depressing feare the upper ; betweene these two the Christian must be ground till (as <sup>g</sup> Ignatius speakes) he be made fine manchet for Gods owne mouth.

<sup>b</sup> All that is in the world is pride of life, lust of the flesh, and lust of the eyes.

Pride of life <sup>i</sup> consists in  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Greatnesse of estate.} \\ \text{Fame for our deserts.} \end{array} \right.$

Concerning the greatnesse of our quality, we must passe by honour on the right hand, and by dishonour on the left. In honour not too proud, though ambassadours of God, and helpers together with him. In dishonour not dejected, howsoeuer accounted the <sup>k</sup> filth of the world. As for common fame conceiued of our well deseruing, we must passe on the right hand by good report, on the left by euill report, as deceiuers and yet true, as vnknewen and yet knowne.

It was popular applause that inueagled Arius and Nestorius, and other learned heretickes, as being <sup>l</sup> more desirous to contend in seeking, then to be content in finding the truth. It is written of <sup>m</sup> John Knox, that lying vpon his death-bed, Satan assaulted him with this temptation, that he should merit eternall life for his faithfulness in the ministrie. The Deuill is a most cunning wraistler, if he cannot crush a man to the ground with plaine strength, he will lift him vp that he may giue the greater fall. To be well spoken of, is a great <sup>n</sup> treasure while wee liue, and a <sup>o</sup> good heire when wee are dead, outliuing all our posterity : for albeit the Nimrods of the world ioyne field to field, and call their lands after their owne name, dreaming of a perpetuity ; yet one generation passeth, and another commeth, all their entailes are to little purpose : but the <sup>p</sup> memoriall of the iust shall be blessed ; this <sup>q</sup> righteousnesse endureth for euer, all generations (as the Virgin prophetically) shall account me happy : but an ingenuous minde must vse good report, not as a stirrup to insolencie, but as a spurre to vertue, that if it be not so which is sayd, it may be so, because it is sayd ; ut si non est ita sicut dicitur, sit ita quia dicitur.

As for euill report, <sup>r</sup> Salomon saith, oppression makes a wife man mad. The Prophet <sup>s</sup> Ieremie being euery day mocked and had in derision for preaching Gods word, sayd, I will not make mention of him, nor speake any more in his name. We need therefore to put on armour of righteousnesse, vndaunted resolution and patience, saying with <sup>t</sup> Job, Though mine aduersarie should write a booke against mee, would I not take it vpon my shoulder, and binde it as a crowne to my head ? As the wicked mans <sup>x</sup> glory is his shame, so the godly mans

<sup>c</sup> Apud Platonem in Menon. seu de virtute.
<sup>u</sup> Tom. 1 fol. 104

<sup>x</sup> Sarcerius in loc
<sup>y</sup> Philip. 2. 15.

<sup>z</sup> Ambros. in loc.
<sup>a</sup> Theophylact. in loc.
<sup>b</sup> Aquin. in loc.

<sup>c</sup> John 15. 26.
<sup>d</sup> 1 John 4. 16.
<sup>e</sup> Theophylact. Car 2 in. Erasmi. Paraph. in loc.
<sup>f</sup> Exod. 13. 21

<sup>g</sup> Hieron. in vita Ignat.
<sup>h</sup> 1 John 2. 16.
<sup>i</sup> Aquin in loc.

<sup>k</sup> 1 Cor. 4. 13

<sup>l</sup> Conuentionis cupidiores quam veritatis, ut ex Cicer. Augustin. lib 1 contra Crescon. cap. 12
<sup>m</sup> Lib. de obitu Knox.

<sup>n</sup> Prou. 22. 1.
<sup>o</sup> Enlightinus Mytholog. lib. 1 famam linguenter habedem.
<sup>p</sup> Prou 10 7.
<sup>q</sup> Psal. 112. 2.

<sup>r</sup> Bernard. Cluniacensis.
<sup>s</sup> Eccles. 7. 2.
<sup>t</sup> Ierem 20. 8. 9

<sup>u</sup> Job 31. 35.
<sup>x</sup> Phil. 3. 19.

v Pfal. 37. 5.

shame for doing good in his glory. y Commit thou thy way to the Lord, and put thy trust in him, and he shall bring it to passe, that thou shalt easily passe by good report and euill report.

Lust of the flesh is in three things : } Long life.
 } Easefull health.
 } Lolly mirth.

z Aquin. in loc.

For the first, as dying, and behold we live : for the second, as chastened, and yet not killed : for the third, as sorrowing, and yet alway merry : where note by the way that Paul saith, as sorrowing, but are merry, z signifying that temporall things haue but a resemblance of good and euill, as being vncertaine and momentanie ; but spirituall things exist truly, being permanent and certaine without any sicut or tanquam ; he saith, as deceiuers, as vnknowne, as dying, as chastened, as sorrowing, as hauing nothing. But he saith not as true, but true ; not as knowne, but knowne ; not as merry, but merry : for Christians are z reputed only deceiuers, vnknowne, sorrowing, but in verity they be most true, most merrie, most rich, as hauing nothing, and yet possessing all things.

a Theophylact. &amp; Caietan. in loc.

The lust of the eye is coueting of worldly wealth, in regard of our selues that we doe not beg, in regard of other that, we may thriue ; so we, saith Paul, on the left hand in temporall things are poore, but on the right hand in b spirituall treasures inriching other, in inordinate desire crauing nothing, yet in content hauing all things ; all things in Christ who c dwelleth in our hearts by faith, Habent enim omnia qui habent habentem omnia : For they must needs haue all who thus enjoy the Lord of all : as S. Hierome notably, Credenti totus mundus diuitiarum est : To him that beleueth, all things are possible, saith d Christ : Ergo possessed, saith Paul.

b Gorran. in loc.

c Ephes. 3. 17.

d Marke 9. 23.

e Marlorat. ex Caluin. in loc.

f Acts 4. 35.

g Marke 10. 30

h Hieron. epist. ad Pammachiu, Tom. 1. fol. 165

e Other construe this of actuall possessing temporall goods, in that the primitive Christians sold their lands, and layd downe the f price thereof at the Apostles feet, and so they possessed g houses and land in common, albeit nothing in proper ; in that they possessed the possessors, all things were at their command. h Apostoli quantum ad diuitias nihil, quantum ad voluntatem totum mundum pariter reliquerunt. But the former exposition is fitter, onely the man content is rich, and the couetous onely poore : the good man hauing nothing is Lord of all things ; on the contrary, miserable wretches hauing all things, possesse nothing.

The Gospell. MATTH. 4. I.

Then was Iesus led away of the spirit into the wildernesse to be tempted of the Deuill, &c.

i claudian,

k Iudges 9. 48.

A Good Captaine doth not onely teach his souldiers how to fight by generall rules, but shew them also by particular and personall example : i Tunc promptius ibunt, si dux sit socius ; as the Scripture, Going in and out before them, and saying with k Abimelech, What soeuer yee see me doe, make haste and doe the like.

l Icb 7. 1.

m Iohn. 14. 6.

n Leo ser. 1.

o Augustin. de verbis Dom.

p ser. 41.

q Pfal. 144. 1.

r Heb. 12. 2.

The life of man is a l warfare vpon earth, and every Christian is a professed sculdier (as he vowed in baptisme) to fight against the world, the flesh and the deuill ; our grand Captaine therefore Christ being both the m truth and the way, doth not onely direct vs by preaching, as the truth ; but also demonstrate by personall encounter as our leader and way, how to quell and conquer all our enemies, n ut cuius munimur auxilio, erudiamur exemplo, the Captaine did fight that the souldier might o learne that euery Christian might sing and say with p David, Blessed be the Lord my strength, which teacheth my hands to warre and my fingers to fight. And that q looking vnto Iesus the author and finisher of our faith, wee might not be wearied and faint in our mindes.

r Ideo

<sup>r</sup> Ideo tentatus est Christus ne vinceretur à tentatore Christiannus; Our Generall did warre, that we might winne.

Now the weapons vsed in this combat by Christ, are partly } Offensiuē, striking other.
 } Defensiuē, guarding himselfe.

The <sup>r</sup> sword of the Spirit, that is the word of God, is his onely weapon offensive; for as often as the tempter came nigh him, he strooke with it, It is written, it is written, &c.

His defensiuē weapons are principally three, <sup>r</sup> correspondent to the number of our three mortall enemies, the } World.
 } Flesh.
 } Deuill.

He did vse the wildernes against the temptations of the world, fasting against the temptations of the flesh, and prayer against the temptations of the Deuill.

In the whole Gospell } Time when, Then.
 } Place where, The wildernesse.
 } Persons by whom, Led by the spirit, tēpted of the deuill.
 } Manner how, The tempter came to him, &c.
 } Successe and euent what, Then the deuill leaueth him, and Angels ministred vnto him, &c.

5. Matthew reports in the words immediatly before, that the time was after Christ had bene baptized in Iordan, and the spirit had descended upon him, and a voyce from heauen had said, This is my beloued sonn, in whom I am well pleased. Here then as in a Chrystall glasse wee may behold the condition of all Christians; <sup>u</sup> as soone as wee giue vp our names vnto Christ in baptisme, so soone as the Spirit shall descend vpon vs in lightning our vnderstanding, and reforming our affections; as soone as we begin to please God, we despise Satan, instantly making him our enemy, roring and raging against our poore soule with all might and malice.

<sup>x</sup> Nunquam bella bonis, nunquam dissidia cessant.
Et quocum certet, mens pia semper habet.

As Paul when he came to <sup>r</sup> Macedonia, so we, so soone as wee looke toward Ierusalem, and make conscience of sinne, shall be troubled on euery side, fighting without, and terrours within.

It is written, Apocal. 12. 4. that the great red Dragon stood before the woman, which was ready to be deliuered, that he might deuoure her childe, when shee had brought it forth. In a mysticall sense, this <sup>z</sup> woman is the Church, and this dragon is the deuill, euermore ready to deuour the penitent, all such as are new creatures in Christ, borne againe by baptisme and repentance. As the crafty theefe will not breake into an empty house, but into some fat kitchin, or full barne, where he may finde a good booty; so Satan assaults them especially, who are rich in grace: for <sup>a</sup> as a dogge barks at strangers, and not at such as are domesticall; and as the Fowler layeth his snare for birds that are wild, not for his Pigeons or Partridges in his owne custodie: so when the Deuill as a <sup>b</sup> strong man armed keepeth his hold, the things he possesseth are in peace; then as <sup>c</sup> Holofernes to Iudith; Feare not in thine heart, for I neuer hurt any that would serue Nabuchodonozzer the King of all the earth: In like manner he saith; I neuer molest any that are content to serue me the Prince of the world.

Discomfort not thy selfe then in any temptation, for it is a manifest argument Satan hath no possession or part in thee, but that thou art the seruant and sonne of God; for whom God loues, assuredly the Deuill hates; as the one workes in mercy, the other workes in malice. Let not the Prince of darkenesse be wiser in his kinde than the children of light: as he is craftie in obseruing his Then, and taking his time to tempt, so let vs be prudent in watching our hint to quell his suggestions; vndoubtedly the best time is to resist him at the first time, <sup>d</sup> audacius insisit a tergo, quam resistit in faciem. If yee resist the deuill, he will flee from you, saith <sup>e</sup> S. Iames.

Est leo si fugias, si stas quasi musca recedit.

The readiest way to kill a serpent is to <sup>f</sup> breake his head; the deuils head is cut

<sup>r</sup> Augustin. in Psal. 90. part. 2

<sup>r</sup> Ephes. 6. 17.

<sup>r</sup> Acosta, con. 2. Dom. 1. quadrag. 88.

<sup>a</sup> Hilarius & Theophylact. in loc. Ambros. in Luc. 4. Iansen. con. cap. 15.
<sup>x</sup> Prosper. in epi. gram.
<sup>r</sup> 2 Cor. 7. 5.

<sup>r</sup> Rupertus com. in Apocalyp. lib. 7. pag. 423. & 424. & Vega Dom. 1. in quadrag. 88.
<sup>a</sup> Diex in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Luke 11. 21.
<sup>c</sup> Iudith 1. 11.

<sup>d</sup> Bernard. ep. 1

<sup>e</sup> Cap. 4. 7.
<sup>f</sup> Genes. 3. 15.
<sup>g</sup> Stella prafat. in Luc.

<sup>b</sup> 1 Sam. 17. 49

<sup>i</sup> 1 Pet. 5. 8.

<sup>k</sup> Rupert. in loc.
& Ambros. com.
in Luc. lib. 4. c. 1

<sup>l</sup> Calvin. apud
Marlorat. in loc.
<sup>m</sup> Exod. cap. 24
& 25.

<sup>n</sup> 1 Tim. 6. 11
<sup>o</sup> Galat. 1. 1.
<sup>p</sup> Beauxamis
Harmon. tom. 1
fol. 93.

<sup>q</sup> Theophylact &
Euthym. in loc.
<sup>r</sup> Zepperus in loc.

<sup>s</sup> Ecclef. 4. 9. 10.

<sup>t</sup> Cic. offic. lib 3.

off, if wee repell his first assault, for as David slew Goliath by hitting him in the forehead, so wee must gather stones out of Gods holy brocke, that is, his holy booke, and sling them at the Devils head. It is written, couetousnesse is the root of all euill, I will not therefore put my trust in vncertaine riches. It is written, that fornication is not to be named among Saints, I will therefore possesse my vessell in honour and holinesse; auoid foule fiend, for It is written, that thou goest about like a roaring lyon seeking whom thou maist deuoure.

The place where Christ was tempted is sayd here to be the wildernesse; and that for sundry reasons, as Interpreters obserue; <sup>k</sup> first in good correspondance to Adam ouercome by the Tempter in Paradise: for the first Adam was conquered of the Serpent by gluttonie, pride and auarice: by gluttonie, when he did eat the forbidden fruite; by pride desiring to be as God; by couetousnesse, in being discontent with his present estate: So the second Adam is assaulted here by the same Serpent, with the like temptations: With gluttonie, If thou be the Sonne of God, command that these stones be made bread: with pride, The Devill setteth him on a pinnacle of the Temple: with auarice, he carried him vp to the top of an high mountaine, and shewed him all the kingdomes of the world, and the glory of them, and sayd, All these will I giue thee, if thou wilt fall downe and worship me. But our Sauour comming into the world to gaine that which Adam lost, abounding with three contrary vertues, Humilitie, Temperance, Contentation, ouercame the Tempter, and that in open field, because the Devill had discomfited Adam in the garden.

Secondly, Christ was tempted and fasted in the wildernesse fortie dayes and fortie nights, before he did execute his office publikely, <sup>l</sup> that he might appeare to be sent from God, rather then out of any Towne from men. <sup>m</sup> When Almighty God deliuered his Law to Moses, he rooke him vp into a mountaine from the sight of the people, and a cloud couered the mountaine, that he might talke with Moses as in a withdrawing chamber; and after Moses had bene in Mount Sinai fortie dayes and fortie nights, the Lord spake to Moses, and afterward Moses to the people. In like manner, it was incete that Christ being a far more worthy Minister of a far more excellent law, should fortie daies & fortie nights abide in the wildernesse, free from the tumults and troubles of the world, and then begin to teach the Gospell as a God among men, at least as a <sup>n</sup> man of God, & not of men.

<sup>p</sup> According to this patterne Preachers of the Word should not be taken out of Tauernes into Temples, or from meere secular courses into this high ecclesiasticall function, but from their solitarie studies, and monasticall liues in Vniuersities.

Thirdly, Christ was tempted in the wildernesse as a most fit place for <sup>q</sup> temptation, as also for <sup>r</sup> duell and single combat: for men of resolution will not draw their weapons in the street, but (as we speake) challenge their aduersarie to goe into the field. Our valiant Captaine therefore prouoked his and our mortall enemy to fight hand to hand in a desert.

That the wildernesse is fit for temptation, is auowed by trnith it selfe; <sup>s</sup> Two are better than one, for if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but woe vnto him that is alone; for he falleth, and there wants a second to succour him. A melancholike solitarie man is most exposed to Satans malice; Christian societie is like a bundle of sticks laid together, whereof one kindles another; Euu was tempted alone, Christ alone, Hierome alone: Companie then is good, especially when the men are good; otherwise better it is to fight with one deuill in the wildernesse, than with many deuills in a tauerne. When thou art alone read the Scriptures, or pray, that either God may talke to thee, or thou to God, and so thou mayst say with <sup>t</sup> Scipio, that thou art neuer lesse alone, than when alone; for what companie so great and so good as the guard of Angels, and fellowship of the Holy Ghost? But if thou talke with thy selfe concerning worldly businesse, and meditate mischief in thy bed, in thy field, in thy Cell, assuredly Satan is in his right vbi to triumph ouer thee.

Led by the spirit. ] There be <sup>u</sup> sundry different acceptions of this word in holy Scriptures.

In this one Gospell } Diabolicall, } wee may note foure } Angelicall, } by which Christ was } tempted, vers. 1.
 kinds of spirits ; a } Humane, } } comforted, vers. 11 } Diuine, } } hungry, vers. 2.
 } } } led.

For <sup>x</sup> all the Doctors accord that this Spirit was the Spirit, the third person in the sacred Trinitie. <sup>y</sup> Dydimus and Hierome gather this out of the article The. Secondly, <sup>z</sup> St Luke reports expressly, that Iesus full of the Holy Ghost returned from Iordan, and was led by the spirit into the wild-nesse. Thirdly, the context of our Euangelist is plaine, When the Spirit of God had descended on him like a Dove, then was he led by the spirit, &c. As Christ the naturall Sonne, so Christians adoptiue children of God are <sup>a</sup> led by the Spirit of God, ducuntur non trahuntur; as the Schoole, Deus non necessitat, sed faciliat: an harsh phrase, but a sweete sentence, <sup>b</sup> verba lateritia, sed ratio marmorea. So Dauid, O God my heart is ready, my heart is ready, Psal. 108. 1. <sup>c</sup> Paratum cor meum ad prospera, paratum ad aduersa, paratum ad sublimia, paratum ad humilia, paratum ad vniuersa, que preceperis: O God my heart is ready for prosperitie, ready for aduersitie: wilt thou haue me to be a shepheard? O God my heart is ready: wilt thou make me a King? O God my heart is ready, ready for honour, and ready for a meane estate; whatsoeuer it please thee to send, I will sing and gine praise with the best member that I haue. So Paul in this daies Epistle, being led by the Spirit, was ready for euill report and good report, ready for mirth, and ready for sorrow, ready for honor, and ready for dishonour in much patience.

The kine who carried the Lords Arke to Bethshemesh, as <sup>d</sup> Gregorie notes, aptly resemble the iust: Although<sup>e</sup> they lowed after their calves at home, yet they kept one path, and turned neither to the right hand nor to the left. And so naturall affection toward our children, makes euen the best man sometime to low, sometime to looke back vnto the things of this life; yet being led by the Spirit goeth on still the straight way, <sup>f</sup> forgetting that which is behinde, and endeuouring himselfe vnto that which is before, following hard toward the marke for the price of the high calling of God in Christ Iesus.

<sup>g</sup> Abraham being led by the Spirit, forsooke his owne country, kindred, home, <sup>h</sup> and went out, not knowing whither he went. <sup>i</sup> Paul being led by the Spirit, went to Ierusalem, euen a Citie that <sup>k</sup> killed her prophets, and said, I passe not at all, neither is my life deare vnto my selfe, so that I may fulfil my course with ioy. So Christ here led by the Spirit into the wilderness.

He did not then thrust himselfe into temptation, neither was he forced thereunto by Satan hisemie, as the text plainly, led by the Spirit to be tempted of the Deuill. Out of which obserue two conclusions: <sup>1</sup> first, that we may not seeke temptations our selues: secondly that we cannot be tempted of other but by diuine permission. In consideration of both, it is fit with the Church daily to desire God, that we fall into no sinne neither runne into any kinde of danger, but that all our doings may be ordered by his gouernance, the which is no more than our master Christ hath taught in his absolute forme of prayer, lead vs not into temptation, but deliuer vs from euill. O heavenly Father assist vs with thy Spirit, and giue an issue with the temptation, that those euills which the craft and subtiltie of the deuill, or man worketh against vs, be brought to nought, and by the prouidence of thy goodnesse they may be dispersed; as our Church in the Letanie.

To be tempted ] <sup>m</sup> S. Iames saith, a man may not say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God; for he can neither be tempted with euill, nor tempt any to euill; how then could the Spirit leade Christ to be tempted? Answer is made by S. Augustine in an <sup>n</sup> Epistle to Consentius: Alia tentatio deceptionis, alia probationis: There be two sorts of temptations, one to prope, another to deceiue vs. Now God doth only tempt to try, but Satan to destroy. God doth tempt to make men better; and therefore <sup>o</sup> Dauid: Proba me Deus, & tenta me. So P. S. Iames;

<sup>a</sup> Iohn. 3. 8.
Psal. 105. 6.

<sup>z</sup> Beauxamis in loc.
<sup>y</sup> Apud Maldon. in loc.
<sup>z</sup> Cap. 4. 1.

<sup>a</sup> Rom. 8. 14.

<sup>b</sup> Caietan.

<sup>c</sup> Bernard. ser. 2. de quadrages.

<sup>d</sup> Moral. lib. 7. cap. 18.
<sup>e</sup> 1 Sam. 6.

<sup>f</sup> Philip. 3. 13.

<sup>g</sup> Gen. 12. 1.
<sup>h</sup> Heb. 11. 8.
<sup>i</sup> Acts 20. 21
<sup>k</sup> Mac. 23. 37.

<sup>l</sup> Zepper. in loc. & Lansen. c. 15. concord.

<sup>m</sup> Cap. 1. v. 13.

<sup>n</sup> Epist. 146.

<sup>o</sup> Psal. 16. 3.
<sup>p</sup> Cap 1 v. 2, 3

Account it exceeding joy, when ye fall into diuers temptations, as knowing that the trying of our faith bringeth forth patience. But Satan tempts to make men worse: 1. Cor. 7. 5. and 1. Theff. 3. 5. Diabolus temptat ut subruat, Deus ut coronet: The deuill doth tempt vs to destruction, but God doth tempt vs for our instruction.

Happily some will obieft: If Christ were led by the Spirit to be tempted of the deuill, Almighty God is Author of euill. In answer whereof, vnderstand that God in some respect may be sayd, actor in malo, but not Author mali, that is a worker in temptation, and yet free from sinne: first, God may be said immediately to tempt by offering occasions and obiefts to trie whether a man will sinne or not. A master suspecting his seruant, laies a purse of money in his way to try if he will steale it; which if he steale, then the master hath found by watching him a secret theefe, and so will lay him open for deceiuing any more: now this trying is no fault in the master, albeit this stealing is sinne in the seruant. In like manner God tempteth his seruants to proue them, Deut. 13. 3. Thou shalt not hearken vnto the words of the Prophet or dreamer of dreames for the Lord your God proueth you, to know whether you loue the Lord your God with all your heart.

Secondly, God is sayd to lead into temptation by withdrawing his grace, for so S. Augustine doth expound, ne nos inferas in tentationem; intelligitur (saith he) ne nos inferri deserendo permittas. As the schoole diuinguisheth aptly, Deus deficit gratiam detrahendo, diabolus afficit malitiam apponendo, homo seipsum inficit duritiam contrahendo.

Thirdly, God is a worker in temptation so far forth as it is an action, * for euery action as it is an action is good, and of God, in y whom we liue, moue and haue our being. A man rides vpon a lame horse, the rider is the cause of the motion, but the horse himselfe is the cause of the halting in the motion: so God is author of euery action, but not of the wickednesse in any action; and yet being infinite in greatnes and goodnesse, he doth dispose well of that which is ill, <sup>2</sup> as the cunning Physitian makes of deadly poyson a wholesome medecine. Licet Deus non sit author, tamen ordinator est peccatorum, ne vniuersitatis naturam turbare, vel turpare permittantur. And so God suffers his children to be tempted <sup>b</sup> et c. p. u. r. a. i. a. y. for their exercise, <sup>c</sup> that they be not exalted out of measure, that they may know the power of the Lord, and prooue of his armour, <sup>d</sup> that they may be thankfull for that inestimable treasure committed vnto them by the father of mercies, I meane their soule, which Satan assaults doily to winne from them.

I conclude in the words of Augustine to Laurentius; Non dubitandum est Deum facere bene etiam sinendo fieri quocunque male; non enim hoc nisi iusto iudicio finit; & profecto bonum est omne quod iustum est; quamuis ergo ea quae mala sunt in quantum mala sunt non sunt bona, tamen ut non solum bona sed etiam sint & mala bonum est; nam nisi esset hoc bonum, ut essent & mala, nullo modo esse sinerentur ab omnipotente bono.

God to man: Genes. 3. Hath God indeed sayd, yee shall not eate of euery tree of the garden?

Man to God: Apocal. 12. 10. Proiectus est accusator fratrum, & c.

Man to man: for all quarrels originally proceed from him, as being the <sup>8</sup> father of lies, and a murtherer from the beginning. Peacemakers are <sup>d</sup> di. d. i. m. o. r. e. s. good Angels, heires and <sup>h</sup> children of God, <sup>i</sup> who is loue; but contentious spirits are <sup>n. a. r. o. d. a. i. m. o. r. e. s. of their father the deuill.</sup>

And when he had fasted fortie daies and fortie nights, he was at the last an hungered. <sup>k</sup> He sustained himselfe fortie daies and fortie nights without meate, to shew that he was God, and then was hungry to shew that he was man. <sup>l. s.</sup> Marke and <sup>m</sup> S. Luke remember onely the daies and not the nights, our Euangelist expreffeth here both, and that, as <sup>n</sup> Euthymius is of opinion, for the greater exaggeration

<sup>a</sup> Ambros. de Abraham. lib. 1. cap. 8.

<sup>c</sup> Augustin. lib. qu. 83. qu. 3. Et 21. Item de duabus animabus contra Adam. cap. 6. reu. lib. 1. cap. 26. <sup>f</sup> Aquin. lect. 3. in Rom. 9.

<sup>e</sup> Perkins exposit. of lead vs not into temptation.

<sup>a</sup> Epist. 89. qu. 2. confide. Bellarm. lib. 2. de amiss. grat. & statu peccat. cap. 13. Et Aquin. ubi supra.

<sup>z</sup> Lombard. 2. sent. dist. 35. <sup>y</sup> Act. 17. 28.

<sup>z</sup> Basil. orat. quod Deus non sit author malorum.

<sup>2</sup> August. contra Faust. lib. 22. cap. 78. consule Melanc. loc. com. iii. de causa peccati.

<sup>b</sup> Macar. hom. 7.

<sup>c</sup> 2. Cor. 12. 7.

<sup>d</sup> Euthymius in Matth. 4.

<sup>e</sup> Enchirid. c. 96.

<sup>f</sup> Theodor. lib. 3. de curat. Graec. offic.

<sup>g</sup> John 8. 44

<sup>h</sup> Matth. 5. 9

<sup>i</sup> 1. Epist. Ioh. cap. 4. 16.

<sup>k</sup> Didacus de la Vega Dom. 1. quadrages.

<sup>l</sup> Cap. 1. 13.

<sup>m</sup> Cap. 4. 2.

<sup>n</sup> Com. in loc. Idem iust. Gloss.

exaggeration of the miracle; because the Iewes in their fasts vsually refreshed the melues at night, although they fasted all the day. Mystically, Quadragesimus enim numerus ex quatuor constat & decem: quatuor enim decem, vel decies quatuor quadragesima sunt. Per quatuor autem nouus testamentum significatur, quoniam in quatuor euangelis consistit. Per decem vero significatur vetus, quia in decem mandatis legis continetur. Quadragesima enim diebus ieiunat, qui ab illis omnibus se immunem & ieiunium custodit, que utrumque testamentum facere interdicit: ut si. ut caro exterius ieiunat à cibis, ita & animus interius ieiunet à vitijs. Christs orderly proceeding in the whole business is worth obseruing: first he was baptized, & then led into the wildernesse, after that he fasted, and last of all he was tempted; and so the Christian is first to be made cleane by baptisme, then hee must withdraw himselfe from the vaine pleasures of the world, after that exercise himselfe in fasting and other duties of religion, and last of all duercome satan his mortall enemie.

Then] Our q aduersarie walketh about as a roaring lyon, not sleeping, but seeking whom he may deuoure, watching euer his opportunity to doe mischief: for if he see men intemperately glutted, he tempts them vnto lust as he did David and Lot, the one when he had dined well, and the other when he had drunke too much: if he perceiue men exceeding hungry, then he tempts them as he did Christ here to distrust in God, or gluttonie, When Christ was an hungred, then the tempter came to him; * as the cunning fowler sets his lined eares of corne to catch sparrowes in an hard frost or great snow, when they be ready to starue.

The tempter] As Virgill is called the Poet, and Aristotle the Philosopher, and David in holy Scripture v the king; so Satan is stiled per antonomasian, the tempter: as there is a sacred Trinitie, the Father, Sonne, and holy Ghost; so there is a cursed Cerberus inticing to sinne, the world, the flesh, and the deuill, but the chiefe of these tempters is the deuill.

If thou be the sonne of God.] The Prince of darknesse here a transformes himselfe into an Angell of light: he b seemes to sprake reason and religion, against Scripture citing Scripture. c Who can discouer the face of his garment? or who shall open the doores of his face? d the gristles of Behemoth are like staues of iron; cartilago eius quasi lamina ferrea, the gristles are neither bone nor flesh: and so saith e Gregorie, the greatest strength of the deuill is in his dissimulation and hypocrisie: the ministers of Satan vtuallly reason after the same manner; If the vbea gentleman well bred, reuenge this quarrell; if an honest fellow, pledge this health; if a true Catholike, die for the popes vnlimited supremacie: whereas it is the part of a gentleman to be courteous, of an honest man to be sober, of a good Catholike to giue to Cæsar the things appertaining to Cæsar; and so the deuill as a bargeman lookes one way, but rowes another way, aliud proponit, aliud supponit.

Command that these stones be made bread.] Interpreters obserue the gradation of Satan; he begins with little sinnes, and so proceeds vnto greater; at the first he tempts vnto diffidence, command that these stones be made bread; and then vnto too much confidence, cast thy selfe downe headlong; and last of all vnto couetousnesse and flat idolatrie, all these things will I giue thee, if thou wilt fall downe and worship me.

Kill the serpent in the egge, b for out of the serpents root shall come a cockatrice, and the fruit thereof shall be a fiery flying dragon; first a serpent, then a cockatrice, last of all a cerastes. And therefore i Salomon aduiseeth in his song, to take the little foxes; not because little cubs are able to doe much hurt, but, as k expositors aptly, because they may grow to be great foxes. In the two former temptations, as l Aquin wittily, the deuill assaults Christ with, if thou be the Son of God; but when he tempted Christ vnto couetousnesse, he was not so shamelesse as to say, if thou be the Sonne of God, because that sinne is so farre vnfitting the Sonne of God, as that it doth not in any sort become the m man of God. See Epist. Dom. 3. quadrages.

o Emiss. hom in loc. huiusmodi quid apud homin. 2. 2e que. 147. art. 5.

p Ludolphus, de vita Christi, part. 1. cap. 22.

q 1 Pet. 5. 8. B. Leizers Serm. at Pauls.

r 2 Sam. 1. 1. Gen. 19. 33. Lyr. Brentius, Arctius, &c. in loc. Dietz in loc.

v Matth 1. 6 Sanchez cor. 6. Dom. 1. quadrages.

a 2. Cor. 11. 14 Vega Dom. 1. quadrages. & Sanchez. ubi supra, con. 4. c Iob. 41 4 d Iob. 40 13. e Moral. lib. 33 22.

f Thomas 3. part. quest. 41 art. 4. & Vegavis supra. g Calu. Zegger. Culman in loc.

h Esay 14. 29.

i Cant. 2. 15.

k Stella in Luc. 5. & Ioannes à Iesu Maria in Cant. 2. l Vbi supra. m 1. Tim. 6. 11.

<sup>o</sup> Dominicus Bānes approbat.
concin. impress.
Colon. an. 1604
<sup>o</sup> Gen. 29.

<sup>P</sup> Sixtus Senensis, lib. sancta,
lib. 4 in vita
Caictan.
<sup>r</sup> Ribadeneira catalog. scriptorum Iesuit. in vita Acofta.

<sup>r</sup> Con. 1. Dom. 1.
quadrages. Idem
Melchior Canus
loc. com. lib. 2.
cap. 1.

<sup>r</sup> In Cant. 5.

<sup>r</sup> Pſal. 1. 2.

<sup>r</sup> Pſit. praefix.
Inſtitut.

<sup>r</sup> Ierem. 2. 13.

<sup>r</sup> De traditi-onibus, part. 1. poſtulat. 2.

<sup>r</sup> Lib. 4. de ver-bo Dei, cap. 2.

<sup>r</sup> Perkins reformed Catholike, Tit. tradit.

<sup>r</sup> Melchior Ca-nus, loc. com. lib
3. cap. 3. D. Biſhop againſt maſter Perkins
tit. traditionis.

<sup>r</sup> Confess. Anglican, art. 6. ex Auguſtin, de do-ctrin. Chriſtian.

lib. 2. cap. 9.
<sup>r</sup> lib. 4. cap. 3.
de verbo Dei:
§ Secundū difſideramus.

It is written ] Our Sauour repels all Satans assaults only with this one weapon, It is written, It is written. Philip Diez a Portugall Frier, of <sup>n</sup> great reckoning in Spaine, saith in his Postill vpon this place; that as <sup>o</sup> Laban deceived Jacob in the night, giuing him in stead of faire Rachel, beare-eyed Lea; so Satan in the darknesse of our ignorance deceiueth vs: and therefore we must be conuersant in Gods holy word, which is a lanterne vnto our feet, and a light vnto our paths, able to discouer foule from faire, good from euill, Rachel from Lea. Cardinall Ca- ietane, darling to Pope Leo the tenth, one who<sup>r</sup> for his good seruice to the Church of Rome, should ( <sup>P</sup> as it is thought ) if he had liued, bene preferred vnto the Popedome, writes in his Commentaries vpon these words; Hinc discamus omnes arma nostra esse sacras Scripturas: Hence all may learne that holy Scriptures are their armorie. Iosephus <sup>a</sup> Acofta Prouinciall of the Iesuits at Peru, Visitor in Aragon, and Reſtor Collegij Salmantican. in Spaine, saith vpon this <sup>r</sup> Text that this Scripture is like the Tower of Dauid built for defence, a thousand shields hang therein, and all the targets of the strong men. Cant. 4. 4. In this armorie there are many shields to defend our selues, and many swords to offend our enemies.

It is said of Christ, Cant. 5. 12. that his eyes are like dones upon the riuers of wa- ter. Which Pope <sup>r</sup> Gregorie the Great thus allegorically: The Doue sitting by the riuers side describeth a far off the shadow of the Hawke her mortall encmie, and so doth either escape by flight, or shrowd her selfe by the banke. In like manner ( saith he ) the Christian who delights to sit by the fountaine of liuing waters, and to <sup>r</sup> meditate on Gods law day and night, is able to discouer all the cunning assaults of his aduersary the diuell, and, as Christ here, to found him and wound him, euen by casting a little of this holy water in his face, Scriptum est, scriptum est.

I cite these popish Authors against the pope, who denieth vnto the common souldier of Christ this weapon, and in stead thereof would haue him fight either with the wooden dagger of fabulous Histories, or else with the rustie scabberd of old traditions; and so blunting so much as he can the two-edged sword of the Spirit, shewes himselfe more like the diuels deputy than Christ's vicar. For, Christ doth vrge most, it is written, whereas the Pope by way of countercuffe as Antichrist especially maintaineth ordinances vnwritten: as <sup>v</sup> Caluin, alluding to the words of <sup>x</sup> Ieremy, told Francis the King of France plainly, the Papists haue forsaken the fountaine of liuing waters, and haue digged themselves pus, euen broken pits that can hold no water, neglecting the Bible which is the Tree of Life, the Word of Life, the Booke of Life; they feed the peoples eye with pictures and bables, and their eare with legends and fables, in stead of scriptum est, traditum est, teaching for doctrines the traditions of men.

To let passe the manifold acception of the word tradition, examined by their learned <sup>r</sup> Bishop Peresius, and their accurate <sup>r</sup> Bellarmino: in this controuersie betweene them and vs, it is agreed on each side, that <sup>a</sup> Traditions are doctrines de- liuered from hand to hand, either by word of mouth, or by writing, beside the Canoni- call Scriptures.

And the state of the question is this, as the cited Authors & <sup>b</sup> other acknowledge: they teach, that beside the word written, there be certaine traditions unwrit- ten, which must be belieued as necessarie to saluation: and these are either aposto-licall, deliuered by the Apostles and not penned; or Ecclesiasticall, decreed by the Church, as occasion is offered daily. <sup>c</sup> We contrariwise maintaine, that the sacred Scripture containeth all doctrine necessarie to saluation, whether it concerne faith or manners.

It is vntruly said of Bellarmino, lib. de notis ecclesie, cap. 9. that we reiect all traditions; he doth deale more kindly with vs <sup>d</sup> elsewhere, confessing that our Diuines allow traditions and ordinances, touching outward order and comelinesse in the Church: and the truth is, our Congregations embrace more decent and ancient rites in saying of publike prayers, and administering of the Sacraments, than the present Romane Synagogue; for most of their old traditions are but vpstart

vpstart fopperies. I will not here meddle with their trumperies in administring of holy baptisime, nor with the ridiculous and apish ceremonies of the Masse, & whereby the Priest in his duckings and turnings, his kissings and crossings, his lifting vp and letting downe, behaueth himsefe more like a lugler or a vice vpon a stage, then a reuerend father in a Temple. Giue me leane to taxe two points onely, which more neerly concerne the present text, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him onely shalt thou serue.

First, their adoration of Christs image with diuine honour, concluded in their Schooles and practised in their Churches, is their & owne blasphemous inuention against all Synods and fathers, old and new, Greeke and Latine. The second Nicene Councell almost <sup>h</sup> eight hundred yeeres after Christ, first began this pretie pastime to kisse Images, and salute Crosses; and yet that Councell ascribed not diuine honour to Images, as the Papists in our time. <sup>i</sup> Jonas Bishop of Orleans that wrote against Claudius Bishop of Turin, in the defence of Images, aboute fiftie yeeres after the second Nicene Councell, abhorred notwithstanding exceedingly, the worshipping of Images as a most hainous error, and a wickednesse with open voyce to be detested and accursed; it is then an old new tradition, neuer embraced in the Church vntill <sup>k</sup> Aquinas age, who died <sup>l</sup> Anno. 1274.

The second point here to be censured is their idle distinction of latria and doulia, as it is applied of late to maintaine their inuocation of Saints against my text. Dominum Deum tuum adorabis, & illi soli serues. All diuine worship and honour whether it be doulia or latria, belongs uni Deo, soli Deo, semper Deo, So <sup>m</sup> S. Augustine: Debetur ei latria vt Deo, doulia vt Domino. Whereas the Papists then affords vnto the creature doulian, referuing to the Creator onely latrian, <sup>n</sup> he deales with God, as <sup>o</sup> Clodia did with her husband excusing her incontinence, by saying that she did company with Mezellus as with an husband, but with Clodius as with a brother: whereas all was due to her husband onely.

<sup>p</sup> Laurentius Valla doth proue, the Iesuit <sup>q</sup> Suarez cannot denie it, and Cardinall <sup>r</sup> Beharmine in one page doth twice confesse it, that latria and doulia signifie the same thing in all prophane writers, howsoeuer the Church distinguish them. I demand, what Church? Hath the West, or East? Is any primitive Doctor, or ancient father author of this distinction? <sup>s</sup> Aragon answers ingenuously, no. For in their natie signification, as he notes out of Suidas and Phavorinus, in old time, λατρεία was the same with δουλεία: but now (saith he) λατρεία onely, and not δουλεία, doth signifie the worship due vnto God: now, that is, either the Iesuits and schoolmen must hold it vp, or else let inuocation of Saints fall downe. Neither is this strange (saith he) for the first authors and inuentioners of any Science haue licence to coyne words according to their purpose. So the <sup>t</sup> Cardinall himselfe: *Why should not the latter Church haue libertie to make new distinctions against new heretikes, as well as the learned Orthodoxes in former times inuented the word ιουάνης, against Arius?* In fine, the pith of his resolution is, as if he should say, the Papists against the true professors of the Gospell, hammered first in their owne schoole this halting difference betweene λατρεία and δουλεία, to iustifie their idolatrous inuocation of Saints, and adoration of their reliques. I prosecute this argument more vehemently, because Christ in this place doth handle Satan (as <sup>u</sup> Interpreters obserue) more roughly when he tempted vnto false worship, then he did before when he did onely tempt to distrust and vaine-glory: now Christ could not any longer endure him, *Auoyd Satan hence from me: for it is written, * thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him onely shalt thou serue.* We may not worship a Saint, nor an Angell, Ergo not a Denili: if we may not adore with diuine worship Gods especiall friends, then surely much lesse his irreconcilable foe. Man fell from God, and was againe reconciled vnto God, as being onely seduced of another: <sup>v</sup> Ergo quanto fragilior in natura, tanto facilius ad veniam. But Lucifer fell so fully, so foully, being author of his fall as well as actor in his fault, that he shall neuer be restored againe, but is <sup>z</sup> preserved

<sup>e</sup> Vide Bellarm. de Baptismo, lib. 1 cap. 25, 26, 27.
<sup>f</sup> See D. Abbot against D. Bishop. iii. Traditions.

<sup>g</sup> See B. Bilson against the Iconoclasts, fol. 59 B
<sup>h</sup> Magdeburg cent. 8 col. 589.
See the church hom. against the perill of Idolatry, part 2.
<sup>i</sup> De cultu imaginum, lib. 1.
<sup>k</sup> 3. part. quest. 25. art. 3 ubi determinat, quod imago Christi sit adoranda adoratione latrice.

<sup>l</sup> Vitenhom in vita Thom. Aquina.
<sup>m</sup> Quest. 84 super Exod. Tom. 4 fol. 110.
<sup>n</sup> D. Reynold de Idolol. lib. 2. c. 1.
<sup>o</sup> Cic. orat. pro Mar. Catio
<sup>p</sup> Aurotas in Matth. 4.
<sup>q</sup> Comment. in 3. Thom. 2. Tom. dispu. 51. sect. 2.
<sup>r</sup> De bestiad. Sanctorum, c. 14.
<sup>s</sup> ad secundam probationem, & §. ad confirmationem ex Valla.
<sup>t</sup> In 2. 22. Thom. quest. 84 art. 1.
<sup>u</sup> Vbi supra.

<sup>v</sup> Buccer Colman Zepher. Kellius. in loc.
<sup>x</sup> Deut. 6. 13.

<sup>y</sup> Albinus quest de Genes. 2 Epist. lude, vers. 6.

<sup>z</sup> Deut. 6. 13.

<sup>z</sup> Deut. 6. 13.

in euerlasting chaines vnder darkenesse vnto the iudgement of the great day: so that Rupertus hath well noted vpon my text, that our Saniour repeats the law, thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, as written to men onely,<sup>a</sup> for God is not ashamed to be called their God: not as concerning the deuill, for the Lord is not his God, as he is euill, or deuill: Almighty God created in the beginning Angels and men, but he neuer made Satan or sinne.

Then the deuill leapect him.] Or as S. Luke, then the deuill endeth all his temptation: <sup>b</sup> for if he cannot ouercome a man in these which are the chiefe temptations, hee shall neuer hurt him in other; or as <sup>c</sup> Chrysostome, for our comfort notably, the deuill did leaue Christ, because Christ had thrust him away, for hee cannot tempt so long as he will, but onely so long as God will; if he bid him auoyd, he must be packing.

And behold the Angels came and ministred vnto him.] These words are as flagons of wine to comfort a distressed soule; <sup>d</sup> for whereas one deuill assaulted him, Angels in the plurall administred vnto him; and it is reported by S. Matthew, not so much for Christs sake, who needed not their helpe, as for our instruction: insinuating, that if wee <sup>e</sup> resist the deuill, stedfast in the faith, Almighty God will <sup>f</sup> giue his Angels charge ouer vs, and they shall in all our necessitie bee <sup>g</sup> ministring spirits: in hunger and thirst (as Luther is bold to speake) they shall be butlers and cookes vnto vs as here to Christ. <sup>h</sup> It is not sayd of these glorious Angels, as it was in the former chapter, of Gods holy Spirit, that they descended on Christ, for they had already pitched their tents about him, euer ready to minister vnto him: and therefore let vs pray with the <sup>i</sup> Church; Everlasting God, which hast ordered and constituted the seruices of all Angels and men in a wonderfull order, mercifully grant, that they which alway doe thee seruice in heauen, may by thy appointment succor and defend vs on earth, through Iesus Christ our Lord.

The Epistle. 1. Theff. 4. 1.

We beseech you brethren, and exhort you by the Lord Iesus, that ye increase more and more, &c.

THis Epistle to the Thessalonians, hath <sup>k</sup> two principall parts: a } Congratulation for their constant faith, in the three former Chapters.
 } Exhortation to godly life, contained in the two latter.

In the first part S. Paul, Siluanus, and Timothje giue God hearty thanks, for that the Thessalonians had receiued the Gospell in such sort, that they were <sup>l</sup> examples not onely to those of Achaia and Macedonia, but also to Christians in all quarters; and this may teach all men, Pastors especially, to reioyce for the good successe of the Gospell, as also sometime to commend and incourage their auditors in that they doe well; and it is the peoples dutie to vse this commendation, as a spur to vertue, not a stirrup to pride.

In the second, They desire the Thessalonians earnestly, to continue still according to their good beginnings, adding further (as <sup>m</sup> S. Peter speaks) vnto their faith vertue; part of which exhortation is the Scripture read:

Manner, vers. 1. We beseech you brethren, &c. intreating them louely, brethren; and lowly, we beseech you; yet adiuring them stoutly, By the Lord Iesus.

Matter, that ye increase more and more, following that which is good; possesse your vessels in holinesse and honour vers. 4. and forsaking that which is euill: vnto your selues, abstaine from fornication, vers. 3. and from the lust of concupiscence, vers. 5. vnto other; Let no man oppresse or defraud his brother in bargaining, vers. 6.

Wherein obserue <sup>n</sup> the

<sup>a</sup> Heb. 11. 6.

<sup>b</sup> Theophylact.
Euthym. lausen.
&c. in loc.
<sup>c</sup> Apud Thom in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Luther. postil. maior. in loc.

<sup>e</sup> 1 Pet. 5. 9.
<sup>f</sup> Plal 91. 11.
<sup>g</sup> Heb. 1. 14.

<sup>h</sup> Chrysost. apud Thom. in loc.

<sup>i</sup> collect for S. Michaels day.

<sup>k</sup> Sarcenius in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Cap. 1. 7. 8.

<sup>m</sup> 2 Epist. 1. 5.

<sup>n</sup> Gorran. in loc.

<sup>i</sup> Jam. 2. 18.
<sup>k</sup> 1 Cor. 7. 14.

In respect of } God, that we may doe the will of our Father in heauen, and by this our light, occasion other to glorifie him also, Mat. 5. 16.
Our neighbours, to <sup>i</sup> witnesse our faith vnto them, as also to <sup>k</sup> winne them vnto Christ.
Our selues, to quiet our conscience, 1. Tim. 1. 19. and to make our election sure, 2, Pet. 1. 10.

<sup>l</sup> Tit. de noua obediencia.
<sup>m</sup> Act. 20.
<sup>n</sup> Per Melanct.
tom. 1. fol. 42.
<sup>o</sup> Part. 2. c. 20.
diuisum 1.
<sup>p</sup> Lib. 3. cap. 16.

§ 1.
<sup>q</sup> Sess. 6
<sup>r</sup> De iustificat.
lib. 4. cap. 1. S.
Ac primum con
fessio <sup>s</sup> D. Bishops epi stle to <sup>t</sup> King before his cou ter-Catholike,
§. 18.
<sup>u</sup> Epist. 86.
<sup>v</sup> Heb. 12. 14.

<sup>x</sup> Zimb. in loc.
<sup>y</sup> Psal. 119. 9.
<sup>z</sup> 2. Tim. 2. 20.
<sup>a</sup> 1 Cor. 6. 19.
<sup>b</sup> Hom for kee ping the Church cleane
<sup>c</sup> Aquin. in loc.
Et Em. Sa. ex Augustino.
<sup>d</sup> Origen. Et Hieron.
<sup>e</sup> Apud August.
contra Iulian.
Pelagian, lib. 2.
tom. 7. fol. 664.

<sup>f</sup> 1 Cor. 6. 18.
<sup>g</sup> Eccles. 19. 3.

<sup>h</sup> Ezech. 16. 49.
<sup>i</sup> 1. Cor. 15. 33.
<sup>k</sup> Bonavent. diet.
sa. ut. cap. 9.
<sup>l</sup> Apocal. 21. 8.
<sup>m</sup> Prudent. in Psychomachia.
<sup>n</sup> Scholia Theo doret. Eras. in
loc.

<sup>o</sup> In loc.
<sup>p</sup> In loc.

This doctrine Protestant Diuines auowed euer, as the Church of England in our Confession, art. 12. the Church of <sup>l</sup> Saxonie, the Confession exhibited at <sup>m</sup> Augusta to Charles the fifth, anno 1530. and after explained at <sup>n</sup> Worms, anno 1540. Luther. com epist. ad Galat. cap. 5. vers. 6. Philip. Melancthon in his Common places and Catechisme, tit. de bonis operibus, sect. cause hortantes ad bene operandum. <sup>o</sup> Iewel in his Apologie, Calvin in his <sup>p</sup> Institution, <sup>q</sup> Chemnitzius in his Examination of the <sup>r</sup> Tridentine Counsell, <sup>s</sup> Zanchius and others in their Commentaries vpon this Text.

It is then a forged imputation (our aduersarie <sup>t</sup> Bellarmine being witnesse) that our Gospell is <sup>u</sup> carnall, and the beaten high way to Epicurisme: so that we take vp the words of <sup>v</sup> Augustine, Nemo legem ita intelligit, nisi qui non intelligit; No man thus vnderstands the matter, but he that wants vnderstanding. We say that good workes make faith fat, and without <sup>w</sup> holinesse it is impossible to see God. Indeed we dare not compare with the Papiests in their meritorious butchering of Princes, in their vncleane chastity, drunken fasts, vncharitable charitie, selling heauen vnto the rich, and deaying it vnto the poore for want of money; but in all duties of religion and honestie, we dare iustifie our selues in comparison of them, vnto the whole world, though hereby we doe not iustifie our selues before God.

That euery one should know how to keepe his vessell in holinesse and honour ] <sup>x</sup> First know to keepe by the word, and then to keepe according to the word: Wherewith shall a young man cleanse his way? euen by ruling himselfe after thy word.

His vessell ] To wit, his bodie, which is a <sup>y</sup> vessell of honour in Gods house, yea, the <sup>z</sup> temple of the Holy Ghost: if then we must keepe the <sup>a</sup> materiall Temple cleane, much more the mysticall. Or, Your vessell, <sup>b</sup> that is, your wife; for albeit Christians of all sexes and sorts may marrie, 1. Cor. 7. 2. yet the bed must be vndefiled, Hebr. 13. 4. <sup>c</sup> Doting loue is dishonest in a man euen toward his owne wife: lust of intemperate concupiscence in mariage, is a kinde of adulterie, saith <sup>d</sup> Ambrose. The Gentiles vse to sinne much in this kinde, but it is because they know not God, but yee know what commandements we gaue you by our Lord Iesus, and therefore possess your vessells in holinesse and honour, and not in the lust of concupiscence.

Now because filthy lust dishonours and pollutes our vessells especially, <sup>e</sup> S. Paul would haue vs abstaine from fornication in euery kinde; for although it seemeth a paradise to the desire, yet it is a purgatorie to the purse, and an hell to the soule, and that which may moue the wanton most, a <sup>f</sup> sinne against his owne body. Doest thou then loue thy flesh? abstaine from fornication, for it is <sup>g</sup> rottennesse to the bones: Doest thou loue thy soule? abstaine from fornication, for it is dishonest: Doest thou loue thy credit? abstaine from fornication, for it is dishonourable; this heate is an infernall fire, whose fuell is <sup>h</sup> fulnesse of bread, and abundance of idlenesse; <sup>i</sup> euill communication the sparkes, <sup>k</sup> infamie the smoake, pollution ashes, end <sup>l</sup> hell. See before 9. Commandement, and after Gospell Dom. 15. post Trinit.

Tu praeceptis ad mortis iter, tu ianua lethi, Corpora commaculans, animas in tartara mergis.

That no man oppresse and defraud his brother in bargaining ] <sup>m</sup> Some considering what went before, and what after; hane construed this of adulterie, that no man defraud his brother in bargaining with his wife for this businesse, and the words (as <sup>n</sup> Theophylact and <sup>p</sup> Caesarian thinke) may beare this sence; forasmuch as adulterers, if they be great men, oppresse violently their brethren, as <sup>q</sup> David his seruant se ruant Vriab; if meane, they circumuent them cunningly, so that in adulterie two sins at the least are bound together, concupiscence and consenage; nay this sinne is a monster of many heads, it receiueh all kinds of vice; for the generall word peccare, is properly to commit adulterie, Quasi pellicare, id est, cum pellice coire.

Other expound this of auarice more fitly, referring oppression to violent and open iniurie; Iam. 2. 6. Do not the rich oppresse you by tyrannie? fraud to secret and flie deceit; Ierem. 5. 26. They lay waste as he that setteth snares: as a cage is full of birds, so are their houses full of deceit, thereby they are waxen rich and great. Now then if plaine dealing and kinde cariage toward our brethren be parts of sanctification, it is an infallible demonstration, that the more cruell and craftie men are, the lesse religious and holy: for if it be a sinne to wrong a stranger, although a Mahumetan, or a Jew, then it is a double sinne to defraud a brother, a Christian neighbour of our acquaintance: for so Paul reasoneth here from the lesse to the greater; if we must doe good vnto all, especially to those of the household of faith.

For this is the will of God euen your holinesse. ] To wit, his revealed will, voluntas signi, manifested in his word, which is holy, commanding as well in the Gospell, as in the Law, that we be holy as he is holy. God the Father at the first created vs according to his owne likenesse, Gen. 1. 26. that is, righteousness and true holinesse, Ephes. 4. 24. When this image was defaced, it pleased God the Sonne to restore it againe, creating vs a-new to good workes, Ephes. 2. 10. And that we may now possesse our vessels in honour and holinesse, God the Holy Ghost is giuen vnto vs helping our infirmities, and teaching vs how to serue God in holinesse and rightcoulnesse all the dayes of our life: sanctification then is the will of God the Father, Sonne, and Holy Ghost.

It is Gods absolute command, that the very summe of all his strict law; but to winne further obedience, Paul vseth a more gracious terme, will; insinuating that every child should bee most ready to doe the will of his father: and therefore we must first learne what is his acceptable will, and then endeouour that it may be done in earth as it is in heauen: for none shall enter into Gods kingdom, but such as doe Gods will, Matth. 7. 21.

If all our time that remaineth in the flesh, ought to be spent, not after the lust of men, but after the will of God; much more his holy day, when we meet in his holy Temple, to call vpon his holy Name, to be made partakers of his holy Sacraments and holy word. Holy things are for holy persons; a pearle must not be cast before swine, nor that which is sanctified giuen to dogs.

As God enioyneth holinesse by the word written, so likewise by the word preached, according to that which is written, vers. 2. Ye know what commandments wee gaue you by the Lord Iesus. For I haue receiued of the Lord, that which I haue deliuered vnto you. Ye haue receiued of vs how ye ought to walke, vers. 1. Ye know what commandment we gaue you, vers. 2. We haue told you before time, and testified, vers. 6. Albeit the Theffalonians abounded in faith and knowledge, yet Paul thinketh it not vnfit to repeat the same lessons againe and againe: so likewise S. Peter, I will not be negligent to put you alwaies in remembrance of these things, though that ye haue knowledge, and be established in the present truth. And so Bishop Latimer in his ultimum vale to the Court, protested openly, that if he should say nothing else three or foure houres together but only the bare words of his text, beware of couetousnesse, beware of couetousnesse, his Sermon might be reputed witlesse, yet not needlesse. If all the world were paradise, the sower once might sow for all; or if he were like the land of the Albanoyes, he need but once to till in three yeeres; or if it were so fertile as some soyle is sayd, vnder the Northerne pole, he might sow in the morning, and reape at enening. But since Adams fall the ground is full of thornes, Gen. 3. and some seed vsually falleth among thornes, Matth. 13. and much graine is cast vpon the high way, which is either trampled away by the vulgar tract of the world, or washed away by the common streame of the time, or else stollen away by the 9 Chuch hom. against adulterie, part 2.

 1 Lexicon. Theolog. Altenstaig. in verbo peccare.
 2 Ambr Aquin. Marlorat. in loc

3 Zanch. in loc.
 4 Galat. 6. 10.

5 Gorran. in loc.
 6 Psal. 19. 7.

7 Matth. 5. 48
 8 Leuit. 19. 2.

9 Rom. 8. 26.
 10 1 Ioh. 2. 4.

11 Aquin in loc.
 12 Bullenger apud Marlorat in loc.

13 Rom. 12. 2.

14 1 Peter 4. 2.

15 Matth. 7. 6.

16 1 Cor. 11. 23

17 2 Peter 1. 12.

18 Corvadius Herresbachius. lib. 1 of Husbandry pag. 15.
 19 idem ibidem.

<sup>a</sup> Philip. 3. 1.

<sup>o</sup> These observations I delivered in my rehearsal at Pauls anno. 163.

<sup>p</sup> Bellarm. præfat. in lib. de libero arbitrio.

<sup>a</sup> Sixtus Senen. bibliothec. lib. 3. pag. 187.

<sup>r</sup> Enar. symb. Nicen. Tom. 1. fol. 393.

<sup>f</sup> In vita Thom. Aquin.

<sup>r</sup> Eijengvien admonit. ad lect. de sine & usu possit catholic.

<sup>a</sup> De promiscua doctrina, cap. 6.

<sup>r</sup> Carbo introduct. in sac. Theolog. lib. 1. cap. 8.

<sup>r</sup> Confess. lib. 9.

cap. 6.

<sup>r</sup> Epist. 1.

<sup>a</sup> Platarch.

<sup>b</sup> Camerarius in vita Melanct.

<sup>c</sup> Carbo lib. 1. cap. 9. introduct. in sac. Theolog.

<sup>d</sup> Melanct. enar. symb. Nicen. Tom. 1. fol. 388.

birds of the ayre, that is, as Christ expounds himselfe, by Satan the prince of the ayre: it is therefore commendable for the speaker, and <sup>a</sup> profitable for the hearer, that the same thing bee preached and pressed often; I say, that the same seed bee sowne in season, and out of season; 2 Tim. 4. vers. 2.

And in truth all our sermons are nothing else, but <sup>o</sup> rehearsals of that old Spittle Sermon, (as it were) preached by God himselfe to decayed Adam and Eua, Gen. 3. 15. For first, all that is sayd by Christ and his blessed Apostles in the New Testament, is summarily nothing else, but a repetition and explanation of that one prophecie, Semen mulieris conteret caput serpentis.

The primitive Fathers, who flourished as yet while the blood of Christ was warme, Ignatius, Areopagita, Clemens, Polycarpus, and other, were disciples vnto Christ his disciples, as Irenæus writes, lib. 3. cap. 3.

After these succeeded other Doctors as the salt of the earth and light of the world, whereof some constrned the <sup>a</sup> Scripture literally, as Hierome; other allegorically, as Origen; other morally, as Gregorie the great; other pathetically, as Chrysofome; other dogmatically, as Augustine; all of them (as worthy <sup>r</sup> Melancthon is bold to deliner) in the maine articles of religion apostolically.

Then in another ranke marched immediatly the Schoole Authors, whose crotchets are nothing els but a descant vpon the plaine song of the Fathers: and therefore Peter Lombard, their grand Captaine is stiled Magister Sententiarum the compiler of the Fathers axioms; and Thomas is termed by <sup>r</sup> Tritenhemius, alter Augustinus; and it is an vsuall adage in the Schoole, <sup>r</sup> that the soule of Augustine was Pythagorically transfused into the corps of Aquin; as Zeno sayd, Rhetorike is like the hand open, and Logicke like the fist shut; as <sup>u</sup> Galeottus Martius sayd, Hebrew is Chalde augmented, and Chalde Hebrew curtailed. And as one said, galloping is nothing else but a loftie amble, and an amble nothing else but a soft gallop: So the Father is a large schooleman, and the <sup>r</sup> Schooleman a short Father: the one doth flie out, and as it were gallop in the large fields of Common places, the other as it were amble in the strict termes of argument; the one fo plaine as the palme, the other so knottie as the fist.

As <sup>r</sup> Augustine wrote of his bastard Adeodatus; Ego in illo puero præter delictū nihil habebam; so the Schoolemen may confesse of their Treatises (which are their children, as <sup>r</sup> Synesius called his Orations) that there is nothing in them of their owne, but only that which is bad, all the good stufte is the Fathers (if I may so speake) but the curious snipping and pincking is their owne. I might here mention the scribbling Frier, a midling Diuine betweene a Father and a Schoolman, ape to both: but as some imitated <sup>a</sup> Pompey the Great in scratching his head with one finger; and as some <sup>b</sup> Philip Melancthon in his stammering speech, and other Sir Thomas Moore in wearing his gowne on one shoulder; euen so the Frier, as an horse-leech, did onely sucke the corrupt bloud out of the Schoole veine, and spider-like, gather poyson out of the Fathers sweet flowers.

To come neerer home: Vniuersities in this last age, be nothing else but the old Schooles new plaistered, and our Diuinitie professors are reformed Catholikes, as Zanchius is termed vsuallly the refined Thomist; Melancthon the perspicuous Schooleman; Luther, I thinke, may challenge the stile of our countryman Bacon, <sup>c</sup> Doctor resolutus; and the Iesuite is a moth-eaten Schooleman in a new print and faire couer: the difference betweene them is onely this, as Bonamicus once wittily; the Schooleman is philosophicall in his theologie, whereas the Iesuit is theologicall in his philosophie: but in the maine matters, as one sayd of cinnell, that it is bread vpon bread; so Ludonicus Molina, Gregorius de Valentia, Franciscus Suarez, and other of the Iesuiticall Order in their Explications, Commentaries, and disputations vpon Aquinas, are nothing else as it were but Thomas vpon Thomas.

Thus in all ages (as you see) the whole course of Diuinitie is nothing else but a <sup>a</sup> rehearsall of one Sermon onely, the seed of the woman, & c. and therefore Paul had iust cause to repeat the same doctrine to the Thessalonians heere, ye have received receiued of vs how to walke, &c. yee know what commandements, &c. as we haue told you before, &c.

Hee therefore that despiseth, despiseth not man but God. This argument is a conclusion of the former reasons, inforcing them <sup>e</sup>all. It is not I Paul that exhort you, but Christ, and Christ is not onely man, but also God; he that wills sanctification is God, he that is auenger of fornication and couetousnesse is God, he that calls vnto this holynesse is God; he therefore that despiseth our admonitions in this case, despiseth not man, but God, God the Father, who created vs in holynesse, God the Sonne, who renued vs vnto holynesse, God the Holy Ghost, proceeding from the Father and the Sonne, to keepe vs in true holynesse.

It is a great sinne to despise man, Esay 33. 1. Qui spernis an non ipse sperneris? a greater sinne to despise the messengers of God; Hee that despiseth you, saith <sup>s</sup> Christ, despiseth me: but it is the greatest sinne to despise God himselfe; for his they escaped not, which refused him that spake on earth, how shal we escape, if we turne away from him, that speaketh from heauen? I will honour them, <sup>i</sup>saith the Lord, that honour me, but they that despise me, shall be despised: If one man trespassse another, the Iudge shall iudge it; but if a man offend God, who shall plead for him? all his aduertaries shall be destroyed, and out of heauen shall hee thunder vpon them; as Paul in this text, he is an auenger of such things. If God then despise those who neglect him, all the rest of their time shall be spent, in <sup>k</sup> heaping vp wrath against the day of wrath,

But how doth our Apostle proue this proposition, he that despiseth, despiseth not man but God? because, saith he, God hath sent his holy Spirit among you. There be two readings of these words, eis hūanē, and eis vūanē: if wee translate with the vulgar Latine, Marlorat, Beza, God hath giuen vs his holy Spirit, then Pauls argument is framed <sup>l</sup>thus: he that despiseth vs, despiseth not man, but God; for we write not of our owne authority, but as inspired by the blessed Spirit, which is God. If we read with our Church according to the best <sup>m</sup>Copies, among you then Paul argueth after this sort, God hath sent his holy Spirit among you for this end, that you may <sup>n</sup>discerne sanctification to be his will. His Spirit is our helper, Rom. 2. 26. our comforter, Ioh. 14. 16. our teacher, 1. Epistle of Ioh. 2. 27 and therefore quench not the Spirit: no man can extinguish the Spirit, <sup>o</sup>but the wicked endeouour so farre as they can, to put it out, and so they be sayd to quench the Spirit, as to <sup>p</sup>crucifie Christ againe, not actually but intentionally. Or as <sup>q</sup>other expound that text, the wicked are sayd to quench the Spirit, in that they quench the gifts of the Spirit; a metaphor taken from fire, which is put out either by casting on water, or taking away the wood; and so quench the feruor of Gods holy Spirit with our dyrtie sinne, fornication and avarice; the body is the soules house, the soule the Spirits house; fornication pollutes the bodie; couetousnesse, which make vs dote on the worlds mucke, defileth the soule; this puddle then must needs extinguish Gods holy fire within vs. Againe, we lessen this heat by taking the fuell away, neglecting good motions, and the meanes to cherish these motions; hearing of the sacred word, receiuing of the blessed Sacraments, hearty prayer, holy deuotion, are the bellows to blow the coles and increase the sparkes of Gods heavenly graces: hee therefore that stops his eares and hardens his heart, when the Preachers exhort by the Lord Iesus, he that regardeth little the word and will of God commanding sanctification, he that will not possesse his vessell in honour and holynesse, he that oppresseth or defraudeth his brother in bargaining, what doth he but quench the Spirit, despising not man but God, a beseeching God, a God that rather wills then commands, a God that calls vnto holynesse, an auenging God, a God that dwells (as it were like an inmate) with him, a God that vseth all meanes for his good in this life, that he may increase more and more; for his glory in the next, that he may rest vpon his holy hill for euermore?

Whereas it is objected, if the blessed Spirit dwell with vs, and preach in our hearts, what need we read the Scriptures, and heare so many sermons and exhortations

<sup>o</sup> Marlorat. in loc.
<sup>f</sup> Zanch. in loc.

<sup>s</sup> Luke 10. 16.
<sup>b</sup> Heb. 12. 25.
<sup>i</sup> 1. Sam. 2. 30.

<sup>k</sup> Rom. 2. 5.

<sup>l</sup> Zarch. in loc.

<sup>m</sup> Ambrose, Erasmus, the lesser English & Hen. 8 Bible.
<sup>n</sup> Calvin, apud Marlorat. in loc.
<sup>o</sup> Augustin. ep. 23. & lib. 2. cont. Epist. Parmeniā. cap. 13.
<sup>p</sup> Heb 6 6.
<sup>q</sup> Theophylact. Aquin. Marlorat in 1. The fl. 5.

hortations? Answer is made, that the Spirit doth not alway worke immediatly, but by the word and Sacraments immediatly; lex est lux; Gods law is a light, by which the Holy Ghost enlighteneth vs, in it selfe the letter is <sup>r</sup>dead, but the Spirit giueth life: for as Augustine like himselfe most iudiciously, the children of God are led by the Spirit of God: vt quod agendum est agant, & cum egerint, illi à quo aguntur gratias agant, aguntur enim vt agant, non vt ipsi nihil agant; & ad hoc eis ostenditur quid agere debeant: vt quando id agunt sicut agendum est, id est, cum dilectione & delectatione, iustitia suauitatem quam dedit Dominus, vt terra eius daret fructum suum, accepisse se gaudeant.

It is true, none shall be lost, but the children of <sup>u</sup>perdition: yet God saith vnto the watchman by the mouth of his <sup>x</sup>Prophet, If thou giuest not the wicked warning, nor speakest to admonish him of his wicked way, that he may liue, the same wicked shall dye in his iniquitie, but his blood will I require at thy hand: for seeing <sup>y</sup>God will that all men shall be saued, and come vnto the knowledge of the truth, it is our dutie to beseech them as brethren, and exhort them by the Lord Iesus, that they may encrease more and more; ne<sup>z</sup> pereant ipsi, vel alios perdant.

This is Gods reuealed will which appertaineth vnto vs: as for his secret will, we must leaue that to himselfe, Deut. 29. 29. To determine who shall be saued, or who shall be damned is not <sup>a</sup> iudicium luti, sed figuli, not belonging to the clay, but to the potter, in whose <sup>b</sup> power it is to make of the same lump one vessell to honour, and another vnto dishonour. It is the Pastors dutie to beseech and exhort, it is the peoples dutie to suffer the words of exhortation, and therefore seeing yee haue receiued of vs how yee ought to walke, seeing yee know what is the commandement and will of God, seeing the holy Spirit is sent among you for this end, that yee keepe your vessells in holinesse and honour, he that despiseth, despiseth not man but God; and God as it followeth in the propounded method to be considered, is an auenger of all such things.

If neither the Preachers of God in exhorting, nor the goodnesse of God in calling, nor the will of God in commanding, nor the Spirit of God in mouing, can preuaile with you, then tremble at his iudgements, hee is an auenger of fornicators and oppressors, and that two wayes especially: } 1. By withdrawing from them his heauenly graces.

} 2. By powring vpon them his heavy iudgements.

The wicked in <sup>c</sup>griuing his Spirit leese the Spirit, and then the <sup>d</sup>foule fiend possesseth them, and makes them worke all vnclannesse euen with greedinesse, Ephes. 4. 19.

<sup>e</sup>Seneca diuinely, Sacer intra nos spiritus sedet, hic prout à nobis tractatus est, ita nos ipse tractat; the blessed Spirit is sent to dwell among you, but if any man entertaine not the Holy Ghost as a holy guest, Almighty God will take his Spirit from him, and that vnclane Spirit taking vnto him seuen other worse than himselfe will enter in and dwell there, and the end of that man is worse than the beginning, Matth. 12. 45. <sup>f</sup>For it is impossible that they which were once lightened, and haue tasted of the heauenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost, and haue tasted of the good word of God, and of the powers of the world to come; if they fall away should be renewed againe by repentance, seeing they crucifie againe to themselves the Sonne of God, and make a mock of him. An hard saying to vnderstand, most hard to vndergoe.

And this (as the Schoole speaks) is pœna damni, the want of good in the reprobate, who despise Gods holy Spirit within them, after which ensueth alway pœna sensus, in this life temporall punishment, in the next, eternall; in this world <sup>g</sup>God rained vpon filthy Sodome and Gomorrha fire and brimstone; gehennam misit è caelo, saith <sup>h</sup>Saluianus, hee sent hell out of heauen to consume those people for their vnclannesse; hee caused <sup>i</sup>Phineas also to slay Zimbri and Cosbi in the very act of incontinence; hee suffered a fillic Seamster with her sheares sheares to thrust thorow <sup>k</sup> Walter a popish Bishop of Hereford, that would haue forced her to folly.

<sup>r</sup> 2 Cor. 3. 6.<sup>f</sup> Rom 8. 14.<sup>e</sup> Augustin. de correption. & gratia, cap. 2.<sup>u</sup> Ioh. 17. 12.<sup>x</sup> Ezec. 3. 17, 18.<sup>y</sup> 1. Tim. 2. 4.<sup>z</sup> Augustin. ubi supra cap. 16.<sup>a</sup> Augustin. ubi supra, cap. 5.<sup>b</sup> Rom. 9. 21.<sup>c</sup> Ephes. 4. 30.<sup>d</sup> Matt. 12. 43.<sup>e</sup> Epiß. 41.<sup>f</sup> Heb. 6. 4.<sup>g</sup> Gen. 19. 24.<sup>h</sup> Lib. 1 de gubernat. Dei.<sup>i</sup> Num. 25. 28.

The prouerbe is true, that the best end of such as shall continue still in these foule finnes is pox and penurie.

<sup>1</sup> Nuda Venus picta est, nudi pinguntur amores :

Nam quos nuda capit, nudos amittat oportet.

Now for oppression and defrauding our brethren in bargaining, it is very remarkable, that God in all the New Testament is called but once the Lord of Hosts, and that is an auenger of these finnes, <sup>m</sup> Behold, the hire of the labourers, which haue reaped your fields (which is of you kept backe by fraud) crieth, and the cries of them that haue reaped, are entred into the eares of the Lord of hosts. Aquine notes in his Commentaries vpon this text of S. James, that there be but foure kinds of crying finnes mentioned in all the Scriptures, according to that old distichon :

Clamitat in caelum vox <sup>n</sup> sanguinis & <sup>o</sup> Sodomorum,

Vox <sup>p</sup> oppressorum, merces retenta laborum.

Three of these foure are crying against the couetous wretch, as being an open oppressor, a secret defrauder, , both open and secret murthrer ; for when his poore brother shall starue for want of food and clothes is he not accessarie to his death, if not principall ? and therefore the clamors of many poore debtors in the dungeon, of many poore labourers in the field, of many poore neighbours crying and dying in the streets, enter into the eares of the Lord, who being Lord of hosts, hath innumerable souldiers euer ready to fight against them that fight against him and his ; and so wee read that an host of Frogs discomfited oppressing Pharao, that an host of Lice deuoured cruell Herod, that an host of Rats eat vp couetous Hanno ; but the Magistrates are Gods especial liutenants in this battle, and therefore by Gods appointment <sup>q</sup> Iehu King of Israel brake Iesabels neck, for taking away Naboths life, that Achab her husband might enioy his vineyard, 1. King. 21. and <sup>r</sup> Catellus a British King hanged vp all oppressors of the poore for example ; King Edward, commonly called good King Edward <sup>f</sup> banished them all his land. And albeit sometime the great theeues hang vp the little theeues, as Diogenes unhappily, yet God at his generall assize will auenge these things, when as hee shall lay to such as omitted only the workes of mercy, much more to such as haue committed acts of crueltie depart from me ye cursed into euerlasting fire, prepared for the deuill and his Angels. What then shall the muck-worme gaine by purchasing an earthly lordship, and losing an heauenly kingdome ? What shall the fornicator get, enduring an ocean of torture for a drop of pleasure ? <sup>s</sup> Momentaneum est, quod delectat ; eternum, quod cruciat : O that men would forget the beginning, and onely behold the <sup>u</sup> end of these delights, and consider here with our Apostle, that God is an auenger of such things.

<sup>x</sup> It is written of Lysimachus, that hauing his Citie besieged, and himselfe together with his whole armie being in extreme danger of perishing by thirst, in exchange of a cup of cold water, he deliuered vp the keys of his Citie to his enemy, which cold comfort he had no looner tasted, but his tongue bewrayed the grieffe of his heart, saying, O that in lieu of so momentanie a pleasure, I should be made of a Soueraigne, a seruant. of a King a captiue ! <sup>y</sup> O that euery sinner would apply this, and meditate with Hierome, Breuis est voluptas fornicationis, & perpetua poena fornicatoris.

God hath not called vs vnto uncleannesse, but vnto holinesse <sup>z</sup> Euery man must continue in that calling, wherevnto he is called, and therefore seeing we are called to be <sup>a</sup> Sants, and haue escaped from the <sup>b</sup> filthinesse of the world, through the knowledge of the Lord, and of the Saviour Iesus Christ, we may not with the sow returne to the mire, nor with the Dog to the vomit, and therefore let vs pray with the Church: Almighty God which doest see that we haue no power of our selues to helpe our selues: keepe thou vs both outwardly in bodie, & inwardly in soule that we may be defended from all aduersitie, which may happen to the body, and from all euill thoughts which may assault and hurt the soule, through Iesus Christ, &c.

<sup>k</sup> Malmshur. de gettis pont. Ang lib. 4 in vita Walleri.

<sup>l</sup> Epigram. vet li. 1. ex Episteto.

<sup>m</sup> Iam. 3. 4.

<sup>n</sup> Gen. 4. 10.
<sup>o</sup> Gen. 13. 21.
<sup>p</sup> Exod. 3. 9.

<sup>q</sup> 2 Kings 9.

<sup>r</sup> Stow Chron.

<sup>s</sup> Ranulph Glanuil de legibus & consuet. Angl. l. 7 cap. 37.

<sup>t</sup> Gregor.
<sup>u</sup> Aristotle.

<sup>x</sup> Plutarch.

<sup>y</sup> 1<sup>a</sup> Reg. Dom. 1. quadragis.

<sup>z</sup> 1 Cor. 7. 20.

<sup>a</sup> Ephes. 1. 1.
<sup>b</sup> 2 Pet. 2. 20.

The Gospell. MAT TH. 15. 21.

Jesus went thence and departed into the coasts of Tyre and Sidon: and behold a woman of Canan, &c.

IN this one Gospell } workes of Christ, } Justice.
 } Mercy.
 Obserue two great } vertues of a Christian, } Faith.
 } Loue.

<sup>c</sup> Psal. 25. 9.

<sup>d</sup> Ludolphus de vita Christi, part. 1. cap. 89. & Iansen. concord. cap. 61.

<sup>e</sup> Osee 2 23.
<sup>f</sup> Ephes 3. 5, 6.

<sup>g</sup> Rom. 10. 12.

<sup>c</sup> All the waies of God are mercy and truth; the two pillars of his kingdome are iustice in punishing, and mercifulnesse in giuing grace, forgiving sinne. Christ here shewed his iustice in <sup>d</sup> leauing the most ingratefull Iewes, and coming into Tyrus and Sydon, countries of the Gentiles; and this should terrifie vs, in that our vnthankfulnesse hath worthily deserued, that Christ should depart from our coasts into some new found land, taking his word from vs, and bestowing it vpon a people, that will bring forth better fruit thereof.

Christs mercy doth appeare, first, generally toward all the Gentiles, in making them his <sup>e</sup> people who were no people, a fauour in <sup>f</sup> other ages vnkowne vnto the sonnes of men, as it is now reuealed vnto his holy Apostles and Preachers by the Spirit, that the Genti'es also should bee inheritors, and of the same body, and partaker of Gods promise in Christ by the Gospell; more particularly toward this Cananite woman, in hearing her prayers, and helping her child: and this may cofort vs, in that the lord ouer all, is rich vnto all them that call vpon him.

The two chiefe vertues of a Christian are faith and loue, both are most eminent in this woman; her faith is such as that our Euangelist reports it with an Ecce, behold, a woman of Canan; <sup>h</sup> it is strang that a woman, and that not a Iew, but a Gentile, and among all the Gentiles of the <sup>i</sup> most accursed and wicked nation a Cananite, should haue such a measure of faith, as to conquer not onely the world, but also the Lord of the world: for, <sup>k</sup> whereas it was shewed in the Gospell appointed for the last Sunday, that Christ in a duell ouercame the deuill: it is sayd in the Gospell for this Sunday, that a sillie woman ouercame Christ, not by force, but by <sup>l</sup> faith.

Haue mercie on me, O Lord, thou Sonne of Dauid] These words intimate Christs office, natures and person; <sup>m</sup> haue mercy, shewes his office, for he came <sup>n</sup> to preach good tidings vnto the poore to binde vp the broken hearted, to comfort all that mourne, <sup>o</sup> to visit and redeeme his people: the word <sup>p</sup> Lord, his diuine nature: Sonne of Dauid, his humane: both together, one Christ, not by confusion of substance, but by vnity of person: this preamble then insinuates her faith to be found, in that shee went not for help to Baalzebub, as <sup>q</sup> Abaziah, nor to witches as <sup>r</sup> Saul; nor to Christs Apostles; as the father of the lunaticke childe, Mat. 17. 16 but she came and cried vnto the Messias himselfe, beleeuing that he was able to helpe, because the Lord; and willing, because the Sonne of Dauid. See before Gospell Sunday after Christmas.

Her faith ap- } fruit thereof, vers, 22. 23. 24. 25. 26. 27.
 peares also to be } commendation } Parol: O woman great is thy faith.
 great by the } of Christ } Real: Her daughter was made whole euer the } } } same time.

The principall fruits of her faith here mentioned } 1. Discreet.
 are worshipping and praying, and that is commen- } 2. Feruent.
 ded in foure respects, as being } 3. Humble.
 } 4. Constant.

Her deuotion was discreet in regard of matter and manner. For matter; in praying for that onely which was most fit for her to begge, and Christ to giue, to wit, mercie, misereere; this is her totall summe, Mercy good Lord, Lord helpe.

The.

The Philosopher said truly, that a wise man ever begins at the end; and therefore this woman was very wise to begin her prayer with that which is the end of all our praying, Have mercy on me good Lord. Christ is faithfull and cannot denie himselfe, saith <sup>c</sup> Paul; the which text is wittily <sup>t</sup> glossed; if we desire worldly wealth, he may denie, for that is not himselfe; if we desire reuenge he may denie, for that is not himselfe; if we desire preferment, hee may denie, for that is not himselfe; but if we desire mercy, then hee cannot denie, for that is himselfe. <sup>a</sup> Deus meus misericordiam meam, thou O God art my refuge and my mercy, the <sup>x</sup> father of mercies, and therefore cannot denie himselfe. Lord I doe not allége my merit, but expect and only respect thy mercy.

Againe, shee was discreet for the manner, vsing not so much babling of the mouth as deuotion of the minde; her petition was a very briefe, containing an <sup>v</sup> ocean of matter in a little current of speech, have mercy on me, Lord helpe me. Lycurgus enioyned the people to offer little sacrifices vnto their gods: for, saith he, they respect more the inward affection then the outward action; a rule which our master Christ hath giuen vs in the sixth of Matth. when ye pray, vse not much babling; a word is enough to the wise, more then enough to a friend. Almighty God is wisdom it selfe, <sup>z</sup> knowing our need, mercy it selfe, and heares the <sup>a</sup> very groanes of his seruants, albeit they be not expressed and vttered distinctly; this woman therefore dealt discreetly considering the person of Christ, and shortnesse of time, and inconuenience of place, to begge in a few words, have mercy on me.

2. Her praying was earnest and feruent; it is said in the text twice, that shee cried, and this crye was not so much the lifting vp of her voyce, as of her heart; of which kinde of crye, God sayd vnto Moses, Exod. 14. 15. Wherefore criest thou vnto me? So Dauid in his Psalmes often, I cried vnto the Lord, and called vpon him with my whole heart. So <sup>b</sup> Paul I will pray with the spirit, I will pray with vnderstanding also. See before Magnificat.

3. Shee was humble in her deuotion, holding this opinion, that wee cannot attribute too much vnto God, nor too little vnto our selues: and therefore though Christ called her dogge, shee called him Lord, extolling him who did extenuate her, and so Christ regarding the lowlinesse of his handmaid, calls her no more dogge, but woman; and whereas at the first he did answere nothing, at the last he granted euery thing that shee desired: O woman, be it vnto thee euen as thou wilt.

4. Shee was constant in her sute, not discouraged either with Christs deniall or delay, but continually followed him and his, vntill her selfe was heard, and her daughter healed. Christ for the <sup>c</sup> greater manifestation of her faith and patience, made three great stops in granting her request. First, he doth neglect her, answering not a word, vers. 23. Then deny her, vers. 24. <sup>d</sup> I am not sent but to the lost sheepe of the house of Israel. Thirdly reproch her, as shee might happily construe him, It is not meet to take the childrens bread, and cast it to dogs. And yet her faith was so strong, that shee takes a good hint by Christs worst word, and entangles him as it were in his owne saying, truth Lord, I am a dogge, and therefore I will doe like a dogge, neuer depart from my masters heeles, vntill I am rewarded.

<sup>e</sup> A spanell will quest, when he doth espie game; neither can I hold my peace, when I see such aduantage the dogge will soone cure the sore which he can lick with his tongue, giue me leaue to speake then, O Lord; I am no Iew and therefore because ne childe, <sup>f</sup> I looke for no bread, but yet as a dogge I may well expect crums from my masters table; albeit your greatest miracles and mercies are for the Iewes, your owne countrymen and peculiar people, yet you may well act a little miracle, cast out one deuill, shew a small fauour to me who am a Cananite, I craue not a loafe, I begge only fragments, one crumme, one dram of thy mercy, Lord helpe me.

It is well <sup>g</sup> obserued, that Satan assaults our faith and hope with these two suggestions especially: first, that in regard of our manifold sinnes and iniquitie, we bee most vnworthy to receiue any fauour from God; secondly, that howsoeuer

<sup>f</sup> 2. Tim. 2. 13.
<sup>c</sup> Dier vbi supr.

<sup>a</sup> Psal 59. 17.
<sup>x</sup> 2. Cor. 1. 3.

<sup>v</sup> Ludolphus vbi supr.

<sup>z</sup> Matth. 6 8.
<sup>a</sup> Rom. 8. 26.

<sup>b</sup> 1. Cor. 14. 15.

<sup>c</sup> *Theophylast.
Thomas, Zepher.
in loc.*

<sup>d</sup> *Non corporali presentia, Gaietan, sed spirituali, Calman.
in loc.*

<sup>e</sup> *Dier vbi supra Chrysost. Theo-phylast Thomas &c. in loc. panis verbum est, &
verbi filius est, & mica dogmata
fidei. Ambr lib.
8 in Luc. capite
de diuite purpura induto.*

<sup>g</sup> *Nielant. com. in Math. 15 &
possi. dona. remi-niscere.*

howsoever wee serue God in holinesse and righteousnesse all the daies of our life, yet happily wee doe not belong to the number of Gods elect: hee doth passe by many notable men, as Augustus, Cato, Socrates; and elects Magdalen an harlot, Matthew a Publican, Zacchaeus an oppressour, yea the theepe vpon the crosse. This woman is assaulted here with these two temptations: in that Christ at the first answered nothing, and after compared her to a dogge; she might imagine that shee was no way worthy to receiue comfort. Secondly, she might feare that she did not appertaine to Gods election, because the Saviour of the world sayd, I am not sent but to the lost sheepe of Israel; and yet her faith is so great that the more she feesles her owne miserie, the more she seekes after Christs mercie; so we must say with <sup>h</sup> Paul, if at any time we fall into the like temptation, where sinne aboundeth, there grace aboundeth much more; for our sinnes in regard of themselues are finite, but the grace of God is infinite: rob not then God of his glory, make not his goodnesse lesse then thy wickednesse; howsoever thou be not so faithfull as Abraham, so patient as Iob, so penitent as Dauid, yet cease not to crye with this woman, O Lord thou Sonne of Dauid haue mercy on me.

If the commonemie shall besiege the castle of our comfort with that other suggestion, as that the number of Gods elect children is small, some few lost sheepe of Israell, a little flocke; then answer with this woman here, that the crummes of Gods mercy belong to the Gentiles as well as to the Iewes; and with <sup>i</sup> Paul, that all beleeuers are Israelites: and with <sup>k</sup> Augustine, that all faithfull heathen are more Israel then Israel it selfe; that the promises of God touching our saluation are generall, as Rom. 10. 12. He that is Lord ouer all, is rich vnto all. And Mat. 11. 28. Come vnto me all yee that are heauy laden, and I will ease you; at least indefinite, not excluding any particular man; <sup>l</sup> For God so loued the world, that he gave his only begotten Sonne, that whosoener beleueth in him should not perish, but haue life euerlasting. But I beleue and call vpon him: ergo, I am included in the generalitie, not excluded elsewhere through any particularity.

For albeit my name be not written in the couenant of grace particularly, yet grace is offered to me particularly, first in Baptisme, then in the Lords Supper, often in hearing of Gods holy word, so that except by doubting I cut of my selfe, I am sure to be concluded in Gods generall pardon; I may not curiously search into his secret counsell, but I know this to be his reuealed will, and therefore my heart is surely set, so long as I haue any being; to call vpon him and crie after him, as the woman of Canan, haue mercy on mee, O Lord, thou Sonne of Dauid. Now the praesises of holy men and women are as it were Commentaries vpon the Commandements of God, and many of them are recorded in sacred historie for our instruction and example,<sup>m</sup> that being compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, we might cast away euery thing that presseth downe and the sinne that naageth so fast on, and so runne with patience the race that is set before vs.

And surely the Church hath allotted this historie for this time, because religious fasting consists in hearty prayer and vsained humiliation for our sinne. This Sunday was called heretofore Dominica reminiscere; let vs therefore remember and learne by this good woman, how to be deuout all the Lent, all the yeere, praying discreetly, feruently, humbly, constantly, neuer leaning Christ vntill he blesse vs, vntill some crummes of mercy fall from his table.

His Disciples came and besought him. <sup>n</sup> As the snow which falls vpon the mountaine being dissolued into water by the beames of the Sunne, and descending vpon the valley, maketh it to giue her increate, but being deprived of the Sunnes heat, remaines congealed and vnprofitable; so such as are in high places, as it were mountaines, in Court and Country, vpon whom the fauour of God and the King shine most, ought not to be frozen in charity, but to haue the bowels of piety and pity melt for the good of their inferiour brethren. I will not here dispute whether the Disciples out of loue besought Christ, or onely for her

<sup>o</sup> importunity,

<sup>b</sup> Rom. 5. 20.

<sup>i</sup> Galat. 3. 29.

<sup>k</sup> In Psal. 148.

<sup>l</sup> Ioh. 3. 16.

<sup>m</sup> Heb. 12. 1.

<sup>n</sup> Disc. ubi supra.

o importunitie, who cried after them, and so was troublesome to them. Howsoever, it is absurd vpon this foundation to build inuocation of Angels and Saints. It is lawfull to pray the Saints liuing to pray for vs, as here we haue a patterne and in the fifth of S. Iames a precept, pray one for another; but for inuocating Saints dead, there is neither promise, nor example; nor warrant in all Gods holy Bible, which is our light and lanthorne.

Againe, the Romish Church hath canonized many for Saints, who can bee no better then deuils; as P Alexander the third reprehended some for giuing the honour of a Martyr to one that died drunke; and as Bellarmino confesseth out of Sulpitius, the people did long time deuotly celebrate one for a Martyr, who was a theete, and after appeared and told them that he was damned. So the Papiests adore Papias a Millenarian heretike: S. Becket a traitour, S. Saunders an open rebell, and others, who were neither Saints in heauen, nor men on earth, as S. Christopher, S. George, S. Catherine, Quiriacus, and that which often makes me merry, Father Parsons, whom Ribadaneira calls a perpetuall Martyr all his life, must be worshipped euen of the secular Priests, as a Saint after his death. See Gospell, Dom. 5, after Easter.

O woman, great is thy faith.] O is an Interiection of maruelling; but it is a wonder how Christ, who knowes all things, should wonder at any thing, how hee that gaue this faith vnto this woman, should admire this faith in this woman. Answer is made by some, that Christ did wonder not as God, but as man, in which respect his experimentall knowledge was increased daily. But I thinke with other Expositors, that Christ is sayd here to wonder, as God elswhere, to be compassionate and angry; nonsicundum affectum, sed secundum effectum (as the Schoole speaks) not that there is any such perturbation in God as wrath and anger, but that in punishing he doth behaue himselfe like one that is angrie; so Christ did wonder in shew, to make vs wonder indeed, that hee might hereby stirre vs vp highly, to commend and imitate the great faith of this woman; as Augustine pithily, Non sunt signa perturbati animi, sed docentis magistri; These words, O woman, great is thy faith, are not signes of an ignorant minde, but of a skilfull master: her faith did not astonish him, but admonish vs onely; for whose learning they were first spoken, and after written.

And it is worth our further obseruation, that Christ did not wonder at the faith of any Iew, but at the faith of the Gentiles onely, to wit, at the faith of the Centurion, Matth. 8. and at the faith of this woman in this place; the reason hereof is plaine, because the Gentiles in old time were strangers from the covenant of promise, without hope, without God in the world. That all people therefore should be Gods people, is the doing of the Lord, and it ought to bee wonderfull in our eyes; our Sauiour here did wonder a little, that wee might wonder much, acknowledging and magnifying his mercy toward vs.

Woman] After it was once manifest, that shee was no longer an Infidell, but a Belueuer, Christ calls her no more dogge, but woman. Hence we may learne to censure men, not as they haue beene, but as they are; when new vertues arise in the place of old vices, highly to commend them in our stiles, as Christ here this woman, O woman, great is thy faith.

It is able to put the very life of religion into the hearts of women, to see that euery little dutie of theirs is so well accepted of God, and remembered in his bookes; as the little kindnesse of Rahab in entertaining the spies of Iosua; the little meale which the widow of Sarepta spent vpon Elia; the little chamber which the Shunamite prouided for Elisha; the little mite which the widdow cast into the treasure; Maries box of ointment, the diligence of Martha, the faith of this woman. And therefore let not them complaine too much of their weaknesse, nor other condemne too much their wickednesse; let not them complaine, either of nature, or grace; not of nature, for as the Martyr Iulitta sayd exhorting women to constancie, they be made of the same matter with men, not onely flesh of the flesh, which is weake, but also bone of the bone, which is strong;

Caluin. Buc. Cutman. in loc.

Extra de reliquijs cap. audi uimus.

De sanctorum beatitud cap 7. § ultimo.

Bnonnus Martyrolog Feb. 22.

Hieron. catalog. script. in uita Papias.

Bellarmin. de sanctis cap. vlt.

§. Respondeo sanctorum.

Baron. annal. Tom 2. fol. 65.

de martyrolog. Roman. c. 2.

x Catalog. script. Iesuit. in uita Parsons.

Caluin. & Buc. apud Marlorat. in Matth. 8 10.

Thom part. 1. quest. 21. art. 3.

August. cont. aduers leges & prophet. lib. 1. cap. 7. & Thomas in Matth. 8.

D. graesi contra Manicheos, l. 1. c. 8. Tom 1 fol 565.

his admiration was an admonition.

Maldon. in loc.

Ephes 1. 12.

Cyprian & Esmian. Sanotat. in loc.

Iosua 2.

1 Kings 17.

2 Kings 4

Marke 12. 42

<sup>k</sup> Galat. 3. 28.

<sup>l</sup> Phil 4. 13.

<sup>m</sup> Matt. 6. 30.

<sup>n</sup> Calvin apud
Marlorat. in loc.

<sup>o</sup> Perkinsi refor.
cat. tit. implicit faith, & graine
of mustard, cō.
2. 3. & Calvin.
Institut. 1. 3. c. 2.
§. 5. Idem Melantibon, Bez<sup>z</sup>, Bucan.

<sup>p</sup> Bernard ser.
66. in Cant. &
Remigius apud
Thom. in loc.

<sup>q</sup> Cap. 7. 29.

<sup>r</sup> Matth. 7. 7.

<sup>s</sup> Thomas L. 11.
delphus, lansen.

<sup>t</sup> Ecclesiast. 7. 23.

strong; not of grace, <sup>k</sup> for in Christ Iesus there is neither male nor female; though women in regard of their sex be weake, yet they be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might, <sup>l</sup> able to doe all things, through the help of Christ: so we read that Ester was renowned for her zeale, Judith for her valour, the Queene of Saba for her wisedome, Rebecca for her discreet cariage, Sara for her obedience, Rachel for her amiableness, and here this woman is a map of patience and mirror of faith, O woman great is thy faith.

Great] In comparison, as the Disciples faith is <sup>m</sup> elsewhere called little; the Disciples faith was little, considering their great matter; and this womans faith was great, considering her little <sup>n</sup> meanes of inst unction. A little faith, so little as a graine of mustard, and that <sup>o</sup> implicit, confused, and infolded, is sufficient for some men at some time, to wit, in the beginning of their conuersion, and in the houre of some grieuous temptation; but where God doth giue greater meanes he looks for a greater measure; when he bestoweth a greater portion of grace, there he doth expect a greater proportion of goodnesse. Little faith in this vntaughht woman was great; it was well for her that she was a dwarfe in beleefe; but in this great Sunshine of the Gospell, it behooueth vs to be like Saul higher then other by the shoulders; it is required of vs assuredly, that we goe from vertue to vertue, and grow from faith to faith, &c.

Thy faith] Christ healed the child through the faith and inuocation of the mother, thy great faith hath made thy daughter whole. <sup>p</sup> Let no man doubt then but that the prayer and faith of our common mother auaieth much in catechizing and baptizing children. If the petition of a priuate mother was so forcible, then vndoubtedly the deuotion of the publike congregation shall preuaile much more: and indeed this woman is a linely picture of the Church, resembling her tender care, beseeching Christ daily to take pittie on her poore children grieuouly vexed with the deuill and his angels.

Bee it vnto thee euen as thou wilt.] In that he saith not, O woman goe thy way thy daughter is well, or the deuill is gone out of thy daughter, as <sup>q</sup> S. Marke reports it, but further, O woman be it vnto thee euen as thou wilt; obserue the power of faith and gratiounesse of Christ; the power of faith, in that all things are possible to him that beleueth; and the rich mercy of Christ, who is so good as his word, yea better then his promise: for whereas he said, <sup>r</sup> aske and yee shall haue this woman asking in faith had more then shee did aske; for whereas her suit was for one thing, namely that her child might be made whole, Christ granted her more be it vnto thee euen as thou wilt. See Gospell, Dom. 19. post Trinit.

Hitherto concerning the faith of this woman. Her loue doth appeare, in saying Miserere mei, not mea, reputing her childs misfortune her owne miserie, haue mercy on me in healing my daughter. It is sayd truly that necessity makes a man pray for himselfe, but charity for another; and in charity the rule is good, the ueerer the deerer: and therefore seeing our children next vnto our selues, and our wiues our other selues, are neereft vnto vs, it is good reason we should wish them all good, especially that they may be dispossessed of the Deuill.

Unusquisq; tot habet demonia quot crimina; so many finnes are so many fiends in euery man, and some deuills cannot bee cast out but by fasting and prayer. It is our dutie to coniure the spirit of vncleanesse, and other foule fiends out of our children in their young yeers: <sup>t</sup> If thou haue sonnes instruct them, and hold their necke from their youth. Albeit this Cananite did suffer patiently whatsoeuer Christ and his Disciples either said or did in reproching her nation, and repelling her suite, yet shee could not endure this one thing, that a deuill at her owne houle should possesse her owne child; marke the parts and passions of her speech, O Lord thou Sonne of David haue mercy, &c. for my daughter is piteously vexed with a deuill; it is not a seruant, but a daughter; and not anothers childe, but my daughter; and shee is not only troubled, but vexed; and that not a little, but piteously; not with a common euill, but euen with a very deuill. See Gospell Dom. 1. post Epiphan.

The Epistle. EPHES. 5. 1.

Bee yee followers of God, as deare children, &c.

THE first words of this chapter agree with the last words of the former, as a conclusion to the precedent exhortation, Bee courteous one to another and tender-hearted, forgiving one another, euen as God for Christs sake forgave you: be yee therefore followers of God, in giuing, in forgiving, walke in loue, euen as Christ hath loued vs, &c.

<sup>a</sup> Zanchius in loc

In which obserue <sup>x</sup> foure points especially:
1. Whom we must imitate, be yee followers of God.
2. Wherefore, because yee are children, and deare children.
3. Wherein, in loue.
4. How, euen as Christ hath loued vs, and given himselfe for vs &c.

<sup>x</sup> Gervan. in loc

Where note } Factum, a fact, Christ hath given himselfe for vs.
Effectum, an effect, an offering and a sacrifice of a sweete saour to God.

God is the first and truest exemplar, and therefore to be followed first of all and most of all; y Yee shall be holy, because I am holy; <sup>z</sup> be you perfect, as your Father in heauen is perfect; <sup>a</sup> Bee yee mercifull, as your Father in heauen is mercifull: See Epist. Dom. 1. post Epiphan. and Gospell, Dom. 4. post Trinit.

<sup>y</sup> Leuit. 11. 44

<sup>z</sup> Matth. 5. 48.

<sup>a</sup> Luke 6. 33.

In imitation <sup>b</sup> two things are principally required:
Action, for it is not enough highly to commend and admire the patterne we propound for imitation, except we follow it indeed.
Affection, following with a desire to follow, for it is not enough to forgieue, because we cannot opportunely reuenge; this is not to follow God in loue, for he can as he list crush sinners in peeces as a <sup>c</sup> potters vessell, but wee must forgieue with a minde to forgieue, with a tender heart euen as God for Christs sake forgieue vs.

<sup>b</sup> Zanchius.

<sup>c</sup> Psalm. 2. 9.

As deare children } Imitation doth become <sup>d</sup> two sorts of men especially, schollars and children; schollars, Joh. 13. 13. Yee call me master and Lord, and herein yee say well: If then I your Lord and Master haue washed your feet, yee ought also to wash one anothers feet; for I haue given you an example, that yee should doe euen as I haue done to you. Children, Mat. 5. 44. loue your enemies, and blesse them that curse you, that yee may be the children of your Father in Heauen. If it be comely and commendable for naturall children, much more for adoptiue by grace, to follow the manners and examples of their most mercifull Father, <sup>e</sup> as being not onely children, but deare children, <sup>f</sup> Chari propter imaginem creationis, chariores propter similitudinem regenerationis, charissimi propter similitudinem glorificationis.

<sup>d</sup> Sarcenius in loc.

<sup>e</sup> Theophylact, in loc.

<sup>f</sup> Gervan in loc.

The word <sup>g</sup> charities, signifieth not onely dilectum, but diligibilem, one that induceth another to loue him: here then is another argument included; the more we follow God, the more God loueth vs, euen the neerer the dearer: if yee draw neere to God, saith <sup>h</sup> S. James, hee will draw neere to you; be yee therefore followers of God as children, as deare children, especially because most deare when yee most imitate.

<sup>g</sup> Cap. 4. 8.

And walke in loue. } We must imitate Christ not in miracles, but in morales, in his loue principally, for that is aboute all his workes; hee doth not say, talke of loue, but walke in loue, the whole course of our liuing must be louing; all that we doe, that we say, must begin, continue, and end in loue: when wee runne courses without it, euery step is out of the way to God, for God is loue; this our loue must not be dissembling, but dilectio vera, saith <sup>i</sup> S. Iohn, dilectio mera, saith <sup>j</sup> Martin Luther, an hearty plaine working loue.

<sup>h</sup> -

<sup>i</sup> 1. Epist 3. 18
<sup>j</sup> postil. maier. in loc.

<sup>k</sup> Zanch. in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Ephes. 3. 19.

<sup>m</sup> Ænead. lib. 2.

Euen as Christ ] It is well<sup>k</sup> obserued, that uadit here doth not imply an equalitie, but a qualitie, we must loue one another as Christ loued vs, as for the manner, not for the measure; the loue of Christ passeth all knowledge; <sup>l</sup> God so loued the world, that he gaue his onely begotten Sonne, so much as no tongue can tell, or heart conceiue how much, as being infinite for greatnesse and goodnesse: on the contrary, mans loue is inconstant, weake, mixed with selfe-loue; yet wee must imitate God as deare children: a little childe, though he cannot tread in the steps of his father, yet he may walke in the path after his father, as <sup>m</sup> Virgil wrote of Ascanius following Aeneas:

— sequiturq; patrem non passibus equis.

In like sort wee must follow God, albeit we cannot ouertake him in goodnesse, we must walke in loue, euen as Christ loued vs, howsoeuer we cannot let so great paces as he, for he made for our sake, but one stride from the clouds into the cradle, and but another from the crosse to the crowne; to come from the bosome of his Father into the wombe of his mother, was a wonderfull stride; so was his ascending from hell to heauen, a very great stride: wee cannot then loue other as much as Christ loued vs; and yet we must walke in loue, run so fast and stride so farre as we can; <sup>n</sup> for if there be first a willing minde, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not.

<sup>o</sup> 2 Cor. 8. 12.

<sup>o</sup> Theophylact. in loc.

<sup>o</sup> When a man is deliuered from some dangerous and desperate sicknesse, hee will euer loue the very name of the medicine; by Christ's loue men are cured of all their sores, of all their sinnes, and therefore let vs honour this salue, let vs apply this vnto other, which hath done so much good vnto our selues, albeit we cannot imitate fully, yet let vs <sup>p</sup> emulate Christ in his loue.

hath Loued ] Not, but that Christ loueth vs now, for he saith, <sup>q</sup> I haue loued thee with an euerlasting loue; but our Apostle speakes in this sort, to distinguish his loue, wherewith he loueth vs now, from that wherewith he loued vs, euen while we were his enemies, as he disputes in the fifth to the Romans, For, if when mee were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Sonne, much more being reconciled, we shall be sau'd by his life.

<sup>r</sup> Erasmus Paraphras.

<sup>r</sup> Ierem. 31. 3.

vs ] that is, all vs, Apud Deum nulla personarum acceptio, qui seipsum excipit seipsum decipit; in this one word is infolded a double reason, exciting vs to mutuall loue. 1. He that inioineth vs to loue, loued vs all first; <sup>r</sup> this is my commandement, that ye loue one another, as I haue loued you, dilecti diligamus. 2. Christ loueth all those whom he willeth vs to loue, dilectos ergo diligamus, it is meet we should loue them heartily, whom God fauoureth highly.

<sup>r</sup> Iohn. 15. 12.

Who gaue himselfe for vs ] Euery word amplifieth his exceeding loue, first, who, Christ, God and man, very God of very God, in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge, the Lord of Lords, higher then the highest, he it was that loued vs, and so loued vs, as that he gaue himselfe for vs.

<sup>r</sup> Rom. 8. 37

<sup>r</sup> Philip. 2. 8.

<sup>r</sup> Plal. 40. 10.

It is said <sup>r</sup> elsewhere, God spared not his owne Sonne, but gaue him for vs all to death: how then is it true, that Christ gaue himselfe? Our Sauour answered in the fifth of S. Iohn, vers. 19. Whatsoeuer the Father doth, the same things also doth the Sonne, God in his eternall loue decreed to giue his owne Sonne for vs, and his Sonne became <sup>t</sup> obedient vnto the death, euen the death of the crosse. <sup>u</sup> In the beginning of the booke it is written of me, that I should do thy will, and loe I come to doe thy will; as <sup>v</sup> Paul applyeth this vnto Christ, Heb. 10. 7. The loue then of God the Father doth not extenuate, but amplifie the riches of Christs mercy, who gaue himselfe for vs.

<sup>x</sup> Iohn 10. 17.

Gaue ] This word doth also magnifie Christs loue much, he was not compelled to dye, but freely gaue himselfe: I lay downe my life, saith <sup>x</sup> he, no man taketh it from me, I lay it downe of my selfe, Pater tradidit filium, & Christus suum Corpus, & Iudas Dominum suum; the Father gaue the Sonne; the Sonne gaue himselfe, Iudas betrayed him, and the Iewes crucified him; in one and the same tradition (as <sup>y</sup> Augustine notably) God is to be magnified, and man condemned, Quia in re una quam fecerunt, causa non una ob quam fecerunt; because God and Christ did

<sup>y</sup> Epist. 48.

that

that out of loue, which Judas and the Iewes out of malice. Christ gaue himselfe: that assertion is therefore damnable, that he was a coward in fearing the naturall death of the body, a distracted wretch, in suffering the spirituall death of the soule, a brand of hell in enduring for a time the infernall death both of body and soule; for he did vndergoe the first death manfully, and ouercome the other triumphantly. I know Christ did naturally feare death, otherwise he should not haue beene affected as an ordinary man: yet he willingly suffered, otherwise he should not haue beene so well affected as an ordinary martyr. See Gosp. Dom 10. pott Trinit.

Himselfe ] We are not redeemed with <sup>a</sup> siluer and gold, all the riches of Crasus, of Salomon, or Midas, all the treasures of the new world, of the whole world cannot deliuer one poore soule, that will cost more, saith <sup>a</sup> David, euery soule being <sup>b</sup> more worth then a million of worlds; neither are we saued by the blood of bulls and beasts, all those legall sacrifices were but <sup>c</sup> figures of this fact, dumbe shewes of this tragedy; not by the merits of any meere man, for a mediator betweene God and man must participate both natures, our mortality, Gods immortality, <sup>d</sup> Ne in vtroq, homini similis longè esset à Deo, aut in vtroq, Deo similis longè esset ab hominibus; <sup>e</sup> apparuit igitur inter mortales peccatores & immortalium iustum, mortalis cum hominibus, iustus cum Deo.

Neither by the mediation of Saints, <sup>f</sup> for they cannot spare their oyle for our lamps, it is impossible that they should be the propitiation for our sin; for <sup>g</sup> the propitiation for sinne knew no sinne; but all the Saints of God (Mary not excepted) were bred in wickednesse and brought forth in iniquitic, <sup>h</sup> receiuing, not giuing palmes; and therefore the Papists are blasphemous in their absolutions and prayers, absolving thus, <sup>i</sup> Passio Domini nostri Iesu Christi, merita beatissima Virginis, & omnium Sanctorum sint tibi in remissionem peccatorum; and <sup>k</sup> Bellarmino plainly; The foundation of Indulgences is the Church treasure; the Church treasure consists of Christs passion, and the Saints sufferings; and <sup>l</sup> Rupertus speaking to the Virgin Mary, saith, Ecce viuimus tuis meritis: and their whole Church doth pray, <sup>m</sup> Maria mater gratia, <sup>n</sup> Sancta virgo Dorothea, tua nos virtute bea, cor in nobis nouum crea.

Neither did Almighty God send a glorious Angell to redeeme the world; for <sup>o</sup> behold, he found no stedfastnesse in his seruants, and layd folly vpon his Angels, <sup>p</sup> heauen is not cleare in his sight. Againe, blessed Angels cannot fitly mediate betweene the mortall offender. and immortall Iudge, because they be not <sup>q</sup> touched with the feeling of our infirmities: and therefore when a lother in heauen and earth failed, Christ so loued vs, as that he gaue himselfe for vs; all himselfe, his whole person, bodie and soule, Godhead and manhood, as God he satisfied, as man he suffered, as God and man he saued; although his Deity could not die, yet in regard of the personall vnion of the two natures in Christ, God is said to haue redeemed his Church with his owne blood, Act. 20. 28 and 1. Cor. 2. 8. they crucified the Lord of glory.

So that as the Schoole speaks out of Augustine, totus Christus, albeit not totum Christi, was giuen for vs, all Christ, for God and man is but <sup>r</sup> one Christ.

<sup>s</sup> Solus homo non hoc unquam prestare valebat.

<sup>t</sup> Solus itemque Deus non hoc prestare volebat.

If Christ had beene man onely, not God, he could not haue done so much for vs; if onely God and not man, he would not haue done so much for vs; all Christ did die, but all of Christ could not die; for his Godhead is impassible; Christ therefore suffered in the <sup>u</sup> flesh; but if he could haue suffered in all, his loue surely was such, as that he would, for he saith, Esay 5. 4. What could I haue done any more to my vineyard, that I haue not done vnto it?

Hereby haue we perceiued loue, <sup>v</sup> that he layd downe his life for vs. <sup>x</sup> One will scarce die for a righteous man, but yet for a good man, it may bee that one dare die; but God setteth out his loue toward vs, seeing that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for vs. <sup>y</sup> O quam stupenda dulcedo, quam inuidia mansuetudo,

<sup>a</sup> 1 Pet. 1. 18.

<sup>b</sup> Psal. 49. 8.

<sup>b</sup> Matth. 16. 26.

<sup>c</sup> Heb. 9. 9.

<sup>d</sup> Aug. conf. lib.

10 cap. 42.

<sup>e</sup> Ibid. cap. 43.

<sup>f</sup> Mat. 25. 9.

<sup>g</sup> 2 Cor. 5. 29.

<sup>h</sup> A Apocal. 7. 9.

<sup>i</sup> Melanch. apolo-

g. Augustin.

10. f. art. inuocat. sanct. &

Luther. in Gal

2. 18.

<sup>k</sup> Lib. 1. de indulgent. cap. 2

<sup>l</sup> Comment. in

1. Cantic.

<sup>m</sup> Bellarm de bea: sanct. c. 17.

<sup>n</sup> In antiquif.

Missal.

<sup>o</sup> Iob 4. 18.

<sup>p</sup> Iob. 15. 15.

<sup>q</sup> Heb. 4. 15.

<sup>r</sup> Athanasius in symbol.

<sup>s</sup> Paladius lib. 1.

de person. d. vniõ.

duarum in Christõ naturarum.

<sup>t</sup> 1 Pet. 4. 1.

<sup>u</sup> 2 Cor 13. 4.

<sup>v</sup> Diuinitas in do-

lente non erat in dolore. Leo ser-

14. de passione

Dom.

<sup>x</sup> 1 Ich 3. 16

<sup>y</sup> Rom. 5. 7. 8.

<sup>y</sup> Bernard ser. de quadruplici de-

regem gloria pro despiciatissimo vernaculo, imo vermiculo crucifigi? What an unspeakable kindness is it for the King of glory to die for a wretch, yea, for a worme and that not a louing worme, but for his enemy; for all men sufficiently; for euery beleeuer efficiently, who doth not onely beleeu that Christ so loued vs, as that he gaue himselfe for vs in grosse; but more particularly with Paul, Gal. 2. 20. Who hath loued me, and giuen himselfe for me.<sup>2</sup> Read with great vehemencie these words againe, and againe me, and for me. Practise with thy selfe, that thou maist conceiue and print this me in thine heart, and apply it to thy selfe, not doubting but that thou art of the number of those to whom this me doth appertaine.

When I feele my selfe a sinner through Adams transgression, why should I not say; that I am made righteous through the righteousness of Christ, especially when I heare that he loued me, and gaue himselfe for me, euen for me the greatest sinner, and least saint: <sup>a</sup> Christo Iesu debes omnem vitam tuam, quia ipse vitam suam posuit pro vitâ tuâ; & cruciatus amarus sustinuit, ne tu perpetuos sustineres: hic deficit omnis lingua, nec sufficit oculus vel ad tuendum tanta dignitatis arcantum; cum ergo ei donauero quicquid sum, quicquid possum, nonne istud sic est sicut stella ad solem gutta ad fluxum, lapis ad montem, granum ad acernum? respice vulnera pendentis; &c. <sup>b</sup>  toto nobis figatur in corde, qui totus pro nobis fixus in cruce.

An offering and a sacrifice] In the Law there were two sorts of oblations vnto God; one gratulatorie for the donation of gifts, another expiatorie for the condonation of sinnes; a peace-offering; and a sinne-offering; <sup>c</sup> signifieth, as <sup>c</sup> Interpreters obserue, the first kinde; <sup>d</sup> denieth the latter: in Christ then all sacrifices haue their end, giuing himselfe for vs an offering and a sacrifice. The last character of the Hebrews alphabet was a plaine figure of Christs crosse, to signifie that Christ is the <sup>d</sup> end of the law written in Hebrew. <sup>e</sup> Some Rabbins affirme that in the fire consuming the sacrifices of the law, there did alwaies appeare the face of a Lyon; hereby prefiguring that Christ the Lyon of Iuda should in the fulnesse of time giue himselfe for vs, an offering and a sacrifice.

Christ in his life was an offering, in his death a sacrifice; the whole course of his life was gratulatorie to God in word and deed: in word, <sup>f</sup> I giue thee thanks, O father, Lord of heauen and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise & men of understanding, and hast opened them vnto babes. I thanke thee Father, because thou hast heard me, John 11. 41. in deed, <sup>g</sup> I haue glorified thee on earth, I haue finished the worke thou gauest me to doe, <sup>h</sup> Not as I will, but as thou wilt, was often his prayer, alwaies his practise; for he was <sup>i</sup> obedient to his Father in all things; he was an offering for vs all his life, but his death especially was a sacrifice for our sinnes; <sup>k</sup> he died for our sinnes, and was <sup>l</sup> wounded for our transgressions, and broken for our iniquities. His owne selfe in his <sup>m</sup> owne body bare our wickednesse on the Crosse, that wee being deliuered from sinne should liue in righteousness: he gaue himselfe for vs often an eucharisticall, <sup>n</sup> once an expiatorie sacrifice, doing for vs in the first all that we should doe, suffering for vs in the second all that we should suffer, non identitate pœnæ, sed dignitate personæ.

To God] Hereby teaching that all sacrifices are due to God, and therefore not to be conferred vpon false gods, or true Saints: againe to signifie that God onely was to be pleased, his iustice onely to bee satisfied, in that all sinnes are committed against him; Against thee only haue I sinned, saith <sup>o</sup> Dauid, and done this euill in thy sight.

Of a sweet smelling (saour)] Almighty God heares all things without eares, and seeth all things without eyes, & doth all things without hands; & yet the Scripture for our infirmitie doth speake <sup>p</sup> grossly, attributing to him hands, and eares, and eyes, and here smelling, intimating that this sacrifice was acceptable to God, alluding to the sacrifices of the law, the perfume whereof was <sup>q</sup> sweet to the Lord.

In this word obserue the fruit and efficacy of Christs oblation, in which and for which all other sacrifices are well accepted; in Christ alone God is onely well pleased; other offerings considered in themselues, and not respecting this, are noysome to the Lord, Psal. 51. 16. Esai 1. 11. Amos 5. 21. Esai 65. 3.

<sup>a</sup> Luther. in 2. Galat. 20.

<sup>a</sup> Bernard. ubi supra.

<sup>b</sup> August. de sancta uirginit. cap. 55.

<sup>c</sup> Zanch. in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Rom. 10. 4.
<sup>e</sup> Paul. Fagius in cap. 4. Genes.

<sup>f</sup> Mat. 11. 25.

<sup>g</sup> John. 17. 4.
<sup>h</sup> Mat. 6. 10.
Marke 14. 36.
Heb. 10. 9.
<sup>i</sup> Philp. 2. 13.
<sup>k</sup> Rom. 4. 25.
<sup>l</sup> Esay 53. 5.
<sup>m</sup> 1. Pet. 2. 14.
<sup>n</sup> Heb. 9. 12.

<sup>o</sup> Psal. 51. 4.

<sup>p</sup> Rom. 6. 19.

<sup>q</sup> Leuit. 1. 17.

But such as proceeded out of faith, and had reference to this oblation of Christ were pleasing to God: <sup>r</sup> Abel by faith offered a greater sacrifice than Cain; and by faith Noe built an Altar vnto the Lord, and offered burnt offerings vpon the Altar, and the Lord <sup>s</sup> smelled a sweet sauiour.

<sup>r</sup> Heb. 11. 4.

<sup>r</sup> Gen. 8. 21.

So the sacrifices of the New Testament are well pleasing to God by this oblation only; <sup>r</sup> we are an holy Priesthood to offer vp spirituall sacrifices acceptable to God by Iesus Christ: and this is the true reason, why the Church in our Liturgie concludes all her deuotion with this one clause, Through Iesus Christ our Lord, desiring the father of mercy; that he would heare vs for his deare Sonnes take; accepting of our sacrifice for his sacrifice.

<sup>r</sup> 1 Pct. 2. 5.

If any demand from whence this oblation hath such an efficacy: S. Paul here doth insinuate, that it proceeds, 1. From the worthinesse of the person offering, being of infinite greatnesse and goodnesse; the blood shed for vs, was not the blood of Bulls and Goats, or meere humane blood, but, as the Scripture speaks in regard of the personall vnion, the blood of God, <sup>u</sup> his blood did cleanse vs from all vnrighteousnesse.

<sup>u</sup> 1 Ioh. 1. 7.

2. From the sacrificers obedience, giuing himselfe freely, being obedient vnto death, euen the death of the Crosse, so that this perfect obedience did merit perfect remission of sinne.

3. From his loue, for that is the fulfilling of the Law: this sacrifice therefore proceeding out of loue to God and man, is a sweet sauiour.

4. From his immaculate innocencie; for the Priest in old time did <sup>x</sup> offer first for his owne sinnes, and then for the sinnes of the people: but our Sauiour Christ knew no sinne, being the Paschall Lambe without blemish, and so gaue himselfe not for himselfe, but for vs only, that we might be well accepted of God.

<sup>x</sup> Heb. 7. 27.

1. Who is the Bishop of our soules? he that was sacrificed for vs, Christ.
2. What he did offer? himselfe, for no other oblation had bene sufficient.
3. To whom? to God, who was offended, and therefore to be appeased.
4. For whom? for vs, all sufficiently, the beleeuers efficiently.
5. How? making himselfe an offering and a sacrifice, being the complement of all legall oblations.
6. The fruit and force, a sweet sauiour to God.

This text then is a liuely crucifix, wherein wee may behold sixe points especially:

O most mercifull Father, Behold thy Sonne, who did endure this for my sake; behold him which hath suffered, and of thy goodnesse remember him for whom he hath suffered; behold his harmelesse hands, and forgine the sinne which my harmefull hands haue committed; behold his vndefiled feet, which neuer stood in the wayes of sinners, and make my paths perfect in thy tract; behold how his side became bloody, his bowels dry, his sight dimme, his countenance pale, his armes stiffe, how his leggs hung, and the streame of blessed blood watered his pierced feete, accept vs and our sacrifice for him and his sacrifice, who loued vs and gaue himselfe for vs an offering of a sweet sauiour to God.

As for fornication, &c.] In these words and the rest vnto the end, S. Paul deborts his Ephesians, and in them all Christians from 3. faults especially:

}	Fornication,
}	Couetousnesse,
}	Lewdnesse of tongue,	}	filthy
}	consisting in	}	foolish
		}	{scurrilous}
			} speech.

He names these rather than other sinnes, as being so common in the world, that they be reputed commendable. Fornication is held but a trick of youth; auarice, but a point of good husbandrie; foolish and filthy iesting, but a ierke of a good wit. Our Apostle therefore sheweth these peccadillos in the worlds worlds eye to be great finnes in Gods sight, euen so great that his wrath commeth upon the children of disobedience for such things; and so farre unfitting the Saints of God, as they may not be named among them, much lesse done by them.

<sup>r</sup> Zanchius & Anan. in loc.

A Saint <sup>z</sup> may name them out of detestation to shun them, (otherwise S. Pauls owne practise should contradict his owne precept) but a Saint may not name them out of delight to nourish them, as the patrons of fornication vrge both arguments and authority for the iustifying of that sinne; their chiefe reason is, <sup>z</sup> that common courtesans in hot Countries are anecessarie euill; if there were no stewes, all the world would be full of adulterie, rape, Sodometric: so <sup>b</sup> S. Augustine; Aufer meretricis de rebus humanis & urbaueris omnia libidinibus.

The land of Israel is thought an <sup>c</sup> hotter climate than that of Italie; yet God said vnto the Iewes expressly, <sup>d</sup> There shall be no whore of the daughters of Israel neither shall there be a whore keeper of the sonnes of Israel.

As for that of Augustine, we say that he lived in disorder, when he wrote that tract of order, he was a young gallant, a nouice in the faith, and as yet vn baptized, himselfe keeping a concubine: but Augustine when he was indeed S. Augustine <sup>e</sup> saith, Istam in usu scortatorum terrena ciuitas licitam fecit turpitudinem; The worlds Citie, not the Church of God, hath made this filthinesse of harlots to be lawfull. And <sup>f</sup> Paul greater than Augustine, Wee may not doe euill that good may come thereof; we must abandon that remedy, which is worse than the disease. <sup>g</sup> Other answer that the words of Augustine were spoken ad hominem, according to the termes of the Schooles, as being the worlds opinion, not his iudgement and therefore we may censure the Romish proctors of the stewes, as <sup>h</sup> Augustine, Petilian; Vbi respondere conati, magis ostendunt, quod non possint respondere.

Carnall Libertines haue text, as they thinke, for this sinne, : Hosea. 1. 2, Goe take vnto thee a wife of fornications, &c. Answer is made, that it is not a plaine history, but a propheticall vision, a figure, not a fact, as the <sup>i</sup> Chaldee Paraphrass <sup>k</sup> Hierome, <sup>l</sup> Haimo, Rupert, Zanchius, and other expound it, as if God should speake thus vnto the Propheet; Preach against that idolatrous Citie, for it hath committed great whoredome, departing from the Lord.

Or Oseas signifeth a Sauiour, intimating that Christ tooke vnto himselfe for his sponse <sup>m</sup> the Church of the Centiles, a wife of fornications in worshipping Idols and Demills in stead of the liuing Lord, <sup>n</sup> that he might make it vnto himselfe a glorious Church, not hauing spot or wrinkle, or any such thing, but that it should be holy and without blame, and so <sup>o</sup> the not beleeuing wife was sanctified by the husband See Iren. loc. citat. & Augustin. contra Faustum Manichaeum lib 22. cap. 89. Riber. in Osee 1. Numb. 29.

If we construe this as done, namely, that Oseas had taken an harlot, and begat of her children of fornication, as <sup>p</sup> Basil, <sup>q</sup> Augustine, <sup>r</sup> Cyrl, Aquin 1. 20 quest. 94. art. 5. & quest. 100. art. 8. yet because this fact is singular and extraordinary, it is no warrant or example for other to doe the like, no more than Abrahams fact in going about to kill Isaack is a president for murther.

Or to presse the precise words, it is not sayd, goe take vnto thee an harlot for fornication, but, take vnto thee a wife of fornication; and the Propheet is not to be blamed, as Hierome and Rupert note vpon the place, Si meretricem conuertat ad pudicitiam, sed potius laudandus, quod ex malâ bonam fecerit.

The bawds of this sinne wrest other places of Scripture for this purpose: to whom I say with <sup>s</sup> Primasius; Nemo periculosius peccat, quam qui peccata defendit: no man sinneth in an higher degree, than he that maketh apologie for sinne: Let none deceiue you with vaine words, for because of such things, commeth the wrath of God upon the children of disobedience; be yee not therefore companions of them, for single fornication is a double, yea triple fault, against God, our neighbour, and our selues.

Against God; for all of vs are his seruants, the members of Christ and temples of the Holy Ghost. No man is his <sup>t</sup> owne man, but Gods, and that, if a Christian,

By

<sup>z</sup> Gasper Nicgand. r apud
Marlor. in loc.

<sup>a</sup> Harding against Iewel, apocog. part. 4.
cap. 1. diuision 1.

<sup>b</sup> De ordine, lib.
2. cap. 4.

<sup>c</sup> B Iewel aduersus Harding
vbi supra.

<sup>d</sup> Deut. 23. 17.

<sup>e</sup> De Ciuit. Dei,
lib. 14. cap. 18.

<sup>f</sup> Rom. 3. 8.

<sup>g</sup> Espinœus in D. Mortons ap-peale, pag. 609.

<sup>h</sup> Lib 3. contra lucras Petilian.
cap 50.

<sup>i</sup> Kibeya in Ose.

<sup>k</sup> Num 37.

<sup>l</sup> Oseam. in Ose.

<sup>m</sup> In loc.

<sup>n</sup> Hieron. in Ose

<sup>o</sup> & Iren. lib. 4.

<sup>p</sup> cap 27.

<sup>q</sup> Ephes 5. 27.

<sup>r</sup> 1. Cor. 7. 14.

<sup>s</sup> In Naie 8.

<sup>t</sup> Contra Faustū Manicheum, lib.

22. cap. 80.

<sup>u</sup> In loc. Ose.

<sup>v</sup> In Rom. 2.

<sup>w</sup> 1. Cor. 6. 19.

by price and promise : by price, for we are bought and redeemed from the hands of all our enemies, that we might serue God in holinesse, and righteousnesse all the dayes of our life : by promise, for euery Christian in baptisme makes a solemne vow, to continue Christs faithfull souldier and seruant vnto his liues end. The fornicator then, as being Gods couenant-seruant, wrongs him in following his owne waies, and doing his owne will. Againe we are the members of Christ ; shall I then take the members of Christ, and make them the members of an harlot ? God forbid : An argument drawne ab absurdo, for to couple with a strumpet is, according to that of the <sup>x</sup> Prophet, Unusquisq; ad uxorem proximi sui hincibat.

Humano capiti ceruicem iungere equinam, as the <sup>u</sup> Poet ;

Secondly, the fornicator iniureth his neighbour, all men in generall by the fame ; his minion and bastard in more particular by the fact : his minion, if vn-willing, by corrupting her ; if willing, by consenting vnto this her sinne ; his bastard, whose bringing vp for the most part is more base then his birth. Lastly the fornicator hurts himselfe by wounding his conscience and defiling his bo-die, 1 Cor. 6. vers. 18. 19 20.

Or couetousnesse ] Fornication is a sinne that raignes in young men ; auarice, that is in old men especially : fornication as we grow in yeares is weaker and weaker ; auarice, for the most part, stronger and stronger : Omnia vitia cum senectute senescunt, auaritia sola iuuenescit. And yet because some young men are couetous, and all that are young may proue old, S. Paul exhorts euery one to shun this fault as a sinne not to be named among Saints, as idolatrie, so grosse, so great, so contrary to faith and loue, that it pulls vpon a man the wrath of God, and debarres him vtterly from any inheritance in the kingdome of Christ.

The word αλισησια, signifieth an immoderate desire to get more, much is no-thing, too much is too little for the couetous ; <sup>2</sup> Auri namque fames parto fit maior ab auro : so the Latines haue deriued Auaritia ab auro & aurum aut as, <sup>a</sup> auarius quasi auidus aris, in English a money-man.

This sinne spreads into three branches : { Couetousnesse in getting.
 { Wretchednesse in keeping.
 { Basenesse in spending.

The first is the mother sinne begetting and bearing the rest , as our Apostle plainly, <sup>b</sup> μαρτυρια, loue of money is the root of all euill, of all sinne committed ei-ther against God or man ; it is such an offence to God, that Paul here calls it wor-shipping of Idolls. A couetous wretch is an Idolator in respect of his inward and outward adoring of Mammon : inward worship consists in our faith, hope, loue ; see Decalog. Com 1. for as <sup>c</sup> he is our master, to whom we submitt our obedience so that is our God, which we trust most. and loue best : as the wantons best be-loved is his Saint and Goddesse ; the panch of Epicurus is his <sup>d</sup> god : and the co-uetous beast, who would rather be damned then damnified, hath his mammon in the place of God, leuing it with all his heart, with all his soule, with all his minde, <sup>e</sup> making gold his hope, and saying to the wedge of gold, thou art my confidence reputed it his Creator, Redeemer, Sanctifier ; his God the Father, his God the Sonne, his God the Holy Ghost.

His Creator, for when he gets abundance of wealth, he thinks himselfe made ; but when by some accident he looſeth any goods, he complaineth instantly, that he is vndone ; the Father Almighty maker of heauen and earth is not his Cre-ator, he sings that old song, sol, re, me, fa, sola res me facit ; onely gold doth eicher marre or make, doe or vndoe him, if his purse be light his heart is heauy.

God the Sonne is not his Redeemer, it is his money that deliuers him from all euill ; hath he escaped any danger ? he thinkes not of God, but thanks his gold : Is he like to fall into mischiefe ? he puts his certaine trust in vncertaine riches ; <sup>f</sup> Soule thou hast much goods layd vp for many yeares. eat, drinke, take thy pastime. When all is done, he faith his best proctor and protector is his purse, so that the foole faith <sup>g</sup> in his heart <sup>h</sup> thou art my God, and I will thanke thee, thou art my God, and I will praise thee.

<sup>a</sup> Horace.

<sup>x</sup> Jerem 5. 8.

<sup>γ</sup> Zanchius in 5. Ephes. loc de auaritia.

<sup>2</sup> Prudentius in Hamartigenia.

<sup>a</sup> Aulus Gellius. lib. 10. cap. 5.

<sup>b</sup> 1 Tim. 6. 10

<sup>c</sup> Rom. 6. 16.

<sup>d</sup> Philip. 3. 19.

<sup>e</sup> Job. 31. 24.

<sup>f</sup> Luke 12. 19.

<sup>g</sup> Psal. 14. 1.

<sup>h</sup> Psal. 118. 28

<sup>i</sup> Hieron. ad Cro-mat. tom. 1. fol.

217.

<sup>k</sup> Regina pecunia quid non?

<sup>l</sup> Horacc.

<sup>l</sup> Lamber. colloq.
de paupertate.

* Gen. 31. 30.

<sup>m</sup> Exposit. prior.
in Ephesi.

<sup>n</sup> Zanchius ubi
supra.

<sup>o</sup> James 5. 3.

<sup>p</sup> Matth. 6. 24

<sup>q</sup> Scæcca.

<sup>r</sup> Plato.

<sup>r</sup> Genes. 2. 24.

<sup>s</sup> Exod. 10. 23.

<sup>t</sup> Marullus. epigram. lib. 1.

<sup>x</sup> Huntingdon.
lib. 7. hist. pag.
219.

<sup>y</sup> Aulus Gellius
lib. 3. cap. 19.

<sup>z</sup> Bonavent. diet.
salut. cap. 6.

God the Holy Ghost is none of his Sanctifier, <sup>i</sup> ille sanctior, qui ditior, hee is best, that hath most, he is good enough, that hath goods enough, he is learned enough, noble enough, wise enough, and what not? faith the <sup>k</sup> Poet, adulterate gold can guild a rotten post, and preferre Balaam as well as Peter, and Simon Magris as well as Salomon magnus, <sup>l</sup> quicquid valet, valet, he wants not grace that hath gifts; as * Laban therefore when he lost his idolls, laid he lost his gods, so the covetous in losing his siluer pictures, imagineth in his heart, that he hath lost euen his God, who first created him something of nothing, and euer since preferued, redeemed, iustified and glorified him.

As for outward worship, <sup>m</sup> S. Hierome notes vpon my text, that the covetous man adores grauen images in his coyne. God made man little lower then Angels, Psal. 8. 5. but the covetous makes himselfe much lower then his angels. As the Papists hold images to bee the lay-mans gospel, so sculptura may be called his scriptura: for as <sup>n</sup> gilded pictures in the Church; so glittering peeces in the cheft, excite men to commit idolatrie. Nay the covetous is more grosse than heathenish or popish idolaters, for they worship aurum in imagine; but he doth worship aurum in argine: so <sup>o</sup> S. James expressly, Your gold and siluer is cankred, and the rust of them shall be a witnesse against you: thus, as Christ in the <sup>p</sup> Gospel, no man can serue God and riches. he that is a penny-father cannot be Gods childe, he that is the worlds friend, is Christs foe, the covetous person is an idolater.

As avarice is hatefull to God, so most hurtfull to men, <sup>q</sup> avarus nemini bonus, sibi vero pessimus, a covetous muck-worme doth no good to any, much hurt to himselfe: as for other, either they be superiours, or equals, or inferiours, all which the covetous offendeth in sinnes of omission and commission; it is loue of money that makes a man vnwilling to giue Caesar, the things appertaining to Caesar, honour to whom honour, custome to whom custome, tribute to whom tribute belongs. It is loue of money that occasioneth rebellious thoughts, and treasonable practises; it is loue of money that causeth a childe to wish his father dead, and in fine to take away his life, who first brought him to life: nay whereas man and wife are but <sup>r</sup> one minde in two bodies; as the Scripture, but one minde in one bodie, being indeed both <sup>r</sup> one flesh, loue of money makes them often two, sometime none.

Concerning equals, it is especially loue of money, that hindereth all good neighbourhood and hoipitality, breeding in stead thereof endlesse contentions and fruitlesse quarrels: as the darknesse of Egypt was so thicke, <sup>s</sup> that one could not see another; so this vnhappy sinne doth darken our vnderstanding, the soules eye, that it cannot or will not discern a brother from a stranger, a stranger from an enemy; all is fish that comes to net, all is good that brings in goods, unde habeat quarit nemo, sed oportet habere, it is no matter how he get, so he get, all termes of acquaintance, ciuilitie, kindred, honestie, religion, are forgot where dame lucre doth command, and avarice sit as Iudge.

Touching inferiours, the covetous get much, and haue much, and keepe much, but they spend little, and giue nothing; it is <sup>t</sup> written of Antonie Prince of Salern,

Olim rogatus, quid sibi relinqueret,

Tam multa qui cuius daret?

Hoc, inquit Antonius, si quid dedi;

Nam cetera haud puto mea.

And our <sup>x</sup> Chronicles, according to the saying, that we gaue, that we haue, report that Alexander Bishop of Lincolne,

Quod nondum dederit, nondum se credit habere.

But avarous men on the contrary thinke they lose whatsoeuer they giue, <sup>y</sup> parcus quasi par arca, quia sicut arca tenaciter omnia custodit, a hold-fast is like his cheft euermore close shut, except it be to receive: <sup>z</sup> like the Christmas earthen boxes of Apprentices, apt to take in money, but they restore none till they be broken; so the covetous, as hogs & medlers, neuer doe good vnto any, till they be dead and rotten : but when they shall be broken as a potters pot, Esay 30. 14. then happily the wormes shall haue their carcase, and vnthrifty heires their cap-cake.

and

These be faults of omission in the couctous man ; but his finnes of commission are greater: he is like S. Peters <sup>a</sup> fish, albeit his mouth be full of gold, yet is he nibbling on euery bait ; if Naboth haue a little vineyard, Ahab must haue it, or else he will dye for very grieffe ; wherevpon <sup>b</sup> Ambrose notably, Piscis piscibus adiungitur, auis auibus se associat. & pecus pecori, nec damnum ducunt sed solatium &c. solus tu homo consortem excludis, includis feras, struas habitacula bestiarum, destruis hominum ; according to that of the <sup>c</sup> Prophet, Hee doth ioyne field to field, till there be no place for other in the land.

The <sup>d</sup> Rabbins haue this Apothegme, Qui dicit, quod meum est tuum est, & quod tuum est meum est, idiota est; qui vero dicit, quod meum est meum est, & quod tuum est tuum est, mediocris est; qui dicit, quod meum est tuum est, & quod tuum est tuum sit, pius est; qui vero dicit, quod tuum est meum est, & quod meum est meum sit, impius est.

Yea but the miserable beast is wise for himselfe. No surely : <sup>e</sup> Fulgentius obserues that King Midas, who desired Apollo, that euery thing which he touched instantly might be turned into gold, is so called in Greeke, Mida, quasi μῦδος εἶδω, as avidus, in Latine <sup>f</sup> à non videndo, because couetousnesse hath so blinded him, that he cannot vnderstand and see what is for his owne good. If the <sup>g</sup> Philistins had not bored out Sampsons eyes, he would neuer haue bene their miller ; the world is a mill turned about with the wheeles of time, the couctous man is Sampson toying for earthly corne, not <sup>h</sup> seeking, because not seeing the things aboue ; nay, this unhappy wretch is like the <sup>i</sup> mill-wheele, that turnes about all day, and at night remaineth in the same place, rising vp early in the morning, and going to bed late at night, eating the bread of carefullnesse, (as the Psalmist speakes) and yet when all is done, hee remaines as a man vndone wanting to himselfe in all things appertaining to life naturall, ciuill, spirituall, eternall.

The naturall is maintained by diet and apparell, sleepe, recreation and mirth ; in all which the couctous man is no man, alwaies in debt to backe and belly, corpus extenuat, vt lucrum extendat. As for sleepe, he will not spare so much idle time as to take rest in the day, neither can he <sup>k</sup> sleepe in the night ; he calls to seruant and wife whether the doores be shut, the buttery and pantry well locked; and when answer is returned that all is well, he will beleue none, except he rise out of his naked bed, and see it himselfe; when he lyeth downe the second time to sleepe, hee suddenly doth mistrust his owne memory, and though his gold was the last thing he thought on, and the first thing he worshipped at his going to bed, yet he doth now beginne to doubt, whether his closet be sure, or whether any thing lyeth in the window, that may be stollen. I remember Mantius reports, how a miser in a deare yeare would needs rise at mid-night to see his corne, and so stumbling in the straw, with his candle, did set both corne and barne on fire.

His recreation is nothing else but vexation of spirit<sup>l</sup>, <sup>m</sup> pierced thorow with many sorrowes, eating in darkenesse with much grieffe, Ecclesiastes 5. 16.

For the ciuill life, which is honest reputation in the world, no man almost doth speake well of him when he is aliue, few men hope well of him when he is dead ; all the Schoole condemnes oppressours, all honourable states exclude them, the Church excommunicates them, the people curse them, all hate them.

The spirituall life consists in faith and repentance : now the couctous being drowned in riches, make <sup>n</sup> shipwracke of faith, and a good conscience: For faith is by hearing, and hearing by the word ; but the deceitfullnesse of riches, as our Saviour shewes, Matth. 13. choakes the word, and hinders the passage thereof.

And as for repentance, the couctous is scarce brought to confesse his fault, seldome to be sorry, neuer to restore; so that hauing neither true faith in God, nor due loue toward men, he cannot be but spirituallie dead, and so by consequence can haue no portion, in the kingdome of Christ and of God, as Paul here : <sup>o</sup> For it is

<sup>a</sup> Matth. 17. 27<sup>b</sup> Lib de Nabob. cap. 3.<sup>c</sup> Esay. 5. 8.<sup>d</sup> Paulus Fagius, Sent. Heb. cap. 5.<sup>e</sup> Mytholog. lib. 1. fab. de Mida.<sup>f</sup> Petot in cornucop. col. 110.
<sup>g</sup> Iudg. 16. 21.<sup>h</sup> Coloss. 3. 1.<sup>i</sup> Bonauent. ubi supra.<sup>k</sup> Eccles. 5. 11.<sup>l</sup> Theophrastus in charact. ethic.<sup>m</sup> 1 Tim. 6. 10<sup>n</sup> 1 Tim. 1. 19<sup>o</sup> Marke 10. 25

Holy Ghost: and therefore nothing can fit worse this Epitome of Diuinity then immoderately to carke and care for earthly trash. If our soule be Gods image, then as in the printed wax nothing can fill the voyd roome, but the seale that made it; so nothing can satisfie the three capacities of our minde, but onely the blessed Thrinity.

Againe, thou art a man of God, one that hath renounced in holy baptisme, the vaine pompe and glory of the world, and art, a Saint, in the world, not of the world: ergo, thy conuerſation is in heauen. and thou must seeke the things aboue: See Epistle for Easter day. S. Paul includes all these reasons, and concludes all his exhortations in this Epistle with one line, Yee were sometime darkeneſſe, but now are yee light in the Lord walke then as children of light. Concerning ieueneſſe of tongue, see Decalog. Com. 9.

Vega. con. in Euangel. d. m. 3. quadriages.

The Gospell. L V K E. II. 14.

Iesus was caſting out a Deuill that was dumbe, &c.

Saint Luke presents vpon the } Actors, Theater of this Gospell, } Spectators.

The principall Actors are Christ and Satan; the Spectators, as they be diuers, ſo likewise different; some behold the wonder, and except againſt it; other behold the wonder and accept of it. There be two ſorts of the diſcortous: the firſt openly blaſpheme Christ, affirming that he caſteth out Deuills through Beelzebub the chiefe of the deuills, verſ. 15.. The ſecond ſecretly deride Christ, asking a ſigne from heauen, verſ. 16, All the cortous admire the miracle, the dumbe ſpake, and the people wonder: one, to wit, a deuout woman of the company, brake forth into a further acclamation, and ſayd, Happy is the wombe that bare thee, and the paps which gaue thee ſucke.

The firſt that appears vpon the ſtage, is the Deuill: Now that you may the better vnderſtand what part he playeth,

I will ſhew you (God willing) } 1. Who he is.
} 2. What hee doth.
} 3. Why hee doth it.

The Deuill by creation was an Angell of light, but through his ſowne fault and fall became a fiend of darkeneſſe. All that God made was good, yea very good, and therefore the Deuill, as he is a creature, is good: Ipfius Diaboli natura, in quantum natura eſt, non eſt mala, ſaith Auguſtine; but that he is miſcreant, euil or Deuill, is altogether from himſelfe; ſo Christ Ioh. 8. 44 the Deuill when he ſpeaketh a lye, ſpeaketh of his owne, for he is a lye, and the father thereof. In a word, a Deuill not by Gods generation, but through his owne degeneration, he kept not his firſt eſtate, but loſt his habitation, hee fell from Heauen into the bottomleſſe pit of hell, and therefore he and all his Angells are reſerued in euerlaſting chaines vnder darkeneſſe, as S. Iude teacheth in his Epistle.

This doctrine doth ouerthrow two wicked aſſertions, as firſt that of the Saducees holding that Deuills are onely qualities of the minde, affirming that good Angels are nothing elſe but good motions, and bad angels nothing elſe but bad motions; whereas the Scripture ſheweth vs plainly, that they be ſpirits eſſentially ſubſiſting. Hell fire is no fable, Deuills are not Nominals onely but Reals not qualities but ſpirituall ſubſtances, here Tempters, hereafter Tormentors.

Againe, that error of Manicheus is abundantly confuted by this doctrine, who taught that the Deuill at the firſt was ſo bad by creation as he is now; whereas it is euident, that he was formed good by God, deſerued euil by himſelfe.

If any deſire to know more concerning the deuill, he may learne it eaſily by the titles attributed vnto him: as in this Gospell, in regard of his excellent knowledge, Auguſtin d. Gnaſi contra Manicheus, lib. 2. cap. 28. Gen. 1. 31. De ciuit. lib. 19. cap. 13.

Acts 23. 8.

Auguſtin. he. ref. 26. Conſule Bucan. loc. com. de malis Angelis, & Zepher. con. 2. dominic. inuo. cauit knowledge, Demon; in regard of his enmity, Satan; in regard of his command Beelzebub; in regard of his power, a strong man; in regard of his pollution, an unclean Spirit; but Devill is his most vsuall name, being a continuall accuser of his brethren, Apocal. 12. 10.

But wee may best vnderstand who the Devill is by his acting; what then is that which the Devill doth on the stage? S. Luke reports here, that hee made a man dumbe: Satan is not a dumbe spirit, but a roaring Lyon, and therefore called in this text dumbe; not formaliter, (as the Schoole doth speake) but causaliter and effectiue, making other dumbe: the P word doth signifie deafe, as well as dumbe; for who soeuer is borne de fe, is dumbe also. ¶ S. Matthew relating this history saith further, that this man was made blinde; Then was brought to him one possessed with a devill both blinde and dumbe.

A cunning theefe that robs an house, comes in a blustering night lest any should heare him, and puts out all the light; lest any should see him, and then stops the mouth of the goodman, lest he call for helpe, and so some take him. The Devill acts the part of a murdering theefe, he comes to steale from vs our soule the most precious thing in all our house; wherefore he laboureth to shut our eyes lest we should see that which is for our good, and stop our eares, lest we should heare that which is for our good, and close our mouth, lest we should call for that which is for our good.

The Gospell is the power of God vnto saluation, for faith cometh by hearing, and then there can be no condemnation vnto the beleener: and this assurcdly is the true reason why the Devill vseth all meanes in our time, to keepe both busie Papists, and lazie protestants, from comming to Church; he knowes well enough, that Atheists and Papists too may be caught with the nets and hookes of S. Peter; if they come within his reach, and therefore he doth actually possesse them with a deafe spirit.

But when he cannot stop our eares, he laboures exceedingly to shut our eyes hee doth blinde (saith Paul) the minds of vbeleeners, that the light of the glorious Gospell of Christ, which is the Image of God, should not shine vnto them. Hee that hath eares to heare, and eyes to see, can soone descry the theefe that comes to rob him: if the Devill can neither blear the eye of reason, nor put out the eye of faith, he will soone be discovered for a Devill. It is written of Antiochus, that entring into the Sanctuary, he tooke away the golden Altar and the Candlesticke for the light: in like sort, to soone as Satan hath entred into any mans soule, which is Gods holy Temple, he doth endeaour instantly to put out the light, to darken his rectified vnderstanding, that he may not be able to discern good from euill; as Nebucadnezar, when he conquered Zedekia, put out his eyes, and bound him in chains, and carried him to Babel; so the Devill ouercomming a sinner, vsually puts out his eyes, that he may the more secretly be carried into Babylon, his soules confusion.

When he can neither stop our eares, nor shut our eyes, his next assault is, to close vp our mouth, lest we should confesse Christ: for albeit we heare and beleene, yet without confession he thinkes to bring vs to confusion, as S. Paul expressly with the heart man beleueth vnto righteousnesse, and with the mouth man confesseth to saluation. And herein the Devill especially resembles a craftie theefe, who fearing to be discovered, either cuts out the tongue of the true man, or else puts a gagge into his mouth, and then drawing him into some by-way, leaueth him haplesse and hopelesse. So long as the true man is speechlesse, the theefe is carelesse; as a cunning Iaylor, although he suffer his prisoner sometime to be loosed from his manicles and fetters, in such sort that he may worke with his hands and walke with his feet, yet he will be sure to keepe the prison doore fast; euen so the Devill is content, that our hands giue almes, and that our feet sometime carry vs vnto Church, as long as the barres of our mouth, and doores of our lips are shut. Our Euangelik omitting therefore, that this poore wretch was blinde, mentioneth onely that he was possessed with a dumbe Devill.

Happily

<sup>a</sup> Ludolphus de vita Christi, part. 1. cap. 73.
<sup>b</sup> Caietan in loc. xap. Chry-
<sup>c</sup>ost. Theophylact Luther. in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Mat. 12. 22.

<sup>e</sup> Ferus serm. 4. Dom; Quadrages. idem Luther Vega. Culman. &c.

<sup>f</sup> Rom. 1. 16.

<sup>g</sup> Rom 10. 17.

<sup>h</sup> Iohn. 3. 16.

<sup>i</sup> 2 Cor. 4. 4.

<sup>j</sup> 1 Macc 1. 23.

<sup>k</sup> 2. King. 25.

<sup>l</sup> Rom. 10. 10.

<sup>m</sup> Acoſta. ser. 2. Dom. 3. quadrages.

<sup>n</sup> Diez Dom. 3. quadrages.

Happily some will obieſt, Beelzebub is a roaring Lyon, and his miniſters are talkatiue; the contentious ſchiſmaticke is a gaping deuill, like <sup>d</sup> Demetrius, he thinks to carry it away with crying, great is Diana: the parasite, who spends his tongue to maintaine his teeth, is a prating deuill; the malicious ſlanderer is a brawling deuill, he makes a great noyſe, but all is like the doggs barking at the Moone; his vertuous enimie ſhines in honour, while he pines in enuie. In towne Schoole, Court, Coutrie there be many, too many talking deuills, euery one whereof our Sauour Chriſt may coniure with, <sup>e</sup> Hold thy peace and come out. Who then is he that hath a dumbe deuill? Anſwere is made by the Prophet Jeremy, chap. 4. verſ. 22. They are wiſe to doe euill, but to doe well they haue no knowledge, they haue tongue enough to ſpeake ill, but mute when they ſhould ſpeake well.

He therefore that dares not confeſſe Chriſt for feare of perſecution, is poſſeſſed of a dumbe ſpirit. <sup>f</sup> The myſterie of the fiery tongues doth betoken the preaching of the Goſpell, and our profeſſion of the Chriſtian faith: he therefore that is dumbe in the cauſe of religion, hath not his tongue looſed by God, but tied by the deuill.

2. That man is poſſeſſed of a dumbe ſpirit, who ſuffers in his company prophane ſwaggerers to blaſpheme the moſt holy name of God; without any contolement. A <sup>g</sup> blaſphemous wretch is worſe then any thing; for euery creature doth praife God in his kinde, yea the very <sup>h</sup> dragons and loathſome roades after their faſhion; but he like a mad dogge, ſieth in his maſters face, who keeps him. If we cannot endure with patience, that any ſhould iniure our father or friend, or acquaintance, what numbneſſe of ſpirit, what dumbneſſe is it to ſuffer our beſt friend, euen our father in heauen, to be rent in peeces with oathes, and <sup>i</sup> ſtabbed thorow with outrageous blaſphemies?

3. That man hath a dumbe deuill, who will not make confeſſion of his owne ſinns, as <sup>k</sup> Dauid teacheth out of his owne experience; While I held my tongue, my bones conſumed away through my daily complaining. How can a man hold his tongue and yet mourne all day? <sup>l</sup> Gregorie the Great anſwereth aptly, that he who committeth daily new ſinns, and yet neuer acknowledgeth and confeſſeth vnto God his old, doth roare much and yet hold his tongue.

<sup>m</sup> In the primitiue Church there was a godly diſcipline, that at the beginning of Lent, ſuch perſons as were notorious ſinners, were put to open penance and confeſſion: and ſurely the Church in the choice of this Goſpell, had an eye to this point inſinuating that Lent is a very fit time for the caſting out of this dumbe deuill: it is written of the fiſh Scolopendra, that hauing ſucked in the fiſhers hooke, that ſowre ſweet morſell,

<sup>n</sup> *She hath a rare tricke to rid her from it,
For inſtantly ſhee all her guts doth vomit.*

Men are caught with Satans allurements, as fiſhes are taken with a bait; we muſt therefore powre out our ſoules vnto God, <sup>p</sup> caſt vp, and caſt out in humble confeſſion all the baits of Satan within vs; and then aſſuredly the dumbe ſhall ſpeake, and the people ſhall wonder.

4. Clergie men either idoll or idle may be ſayd to be poſſeſſed of a dumbe ſpirit; ſome learned men complaine much, I thinke too much of their vnlearned brethren; but it is not enough for a man to be ſufficient, except <sup>efficient</sup>; actiue ſome way for the good of the Church, either in writing, or preaching, or conferring, or gouerning. A good paſtor is a voice; Chriſts owne mouth, and therefore little difference betweene the dumbe dogge and the dumbe deuill, betwene him that cannot, and him that will not imploy his talent. In a word, he that doth not ſpeake to glorifie God and edifie his brother, hath a dumbe deuill: and here Goſpell and Epiſtle parallell; for it is ſayd in the Epiſtle, that all fooliſh, all ſcurrilous, all filthy talking is uncomely, not fitting the Saints of God, but the ſonnes of Belial.

And thus I haue ſhewed who the deuill is, and what he doth on the ſtage: the next

<sup>d</sup> Acts 19.

<sup>e</sup> Marke 1. 25.

<sup>f</sup> Church hom. for whitſunday part. 1.

<sup>g</sup> See Perkins gouernmēt of the tongue, cap. 5.

<sup>h</sup> Pſal. 148. 7.

<sup>i</sup> So the word Leuit. 24. 11.

<sup>k</sup> Pſal 32. 3.

<sup>l</sup> In Pſalmum 3. penitential.

<sup>m</sup> Communion Booke, tit. Communion

<sup>n</sup> Du Bartas 1 weeke 5 day
<sup>o</sup> Eccleſ 9. 12.
<sup>p</sup> Vega in lor.

next point to be further examined, is, why Satan doth all this; and that is out of malice to God, and enuie to man; he knowes himselfe already damned, and therefore thinkes himselfe most happy when he makes other like himselfe most vnhappy, going about like a roaring Lion seeking whom he may deuoure. Like as a forlorne desperate rebell out of all hope of pardon, standeth vpon his owne guard, and raiseth a faction and part against his Soueraigne; so the Deuill past all grace laboureth to set vp a kingdome of his owne, the kingdome of darkenesse against the kingdome of light; the kingdome of Antichrist, against the kingdome of Christ: and for this warre his might is great, his malice greater.

But thanks be giuen vnto God, who hath giuen vs victorie through Iesus Christ our Lord; our Captaine Christ hath cast out this Prince of darkenesse out of his holds and dominions; as he did conquer the world on earth, and death in the graue; so Satan in the courts of hell his owne kingdome, leading, saith the Scripture, captiuitie captiue, triumphing ouer him, who did tyrannize ouer vs as it followeth in the text, ejiciens demonium.

The second Actor then appearing vpon this Theater, is Christ; I need not tell you who he is, or what he doth, or why he doth it, he is God and man, God of the substance of his father begotten before the worlds, and man of the substance of his mother borne in the world; for vs men and our saluation, he came downe from heauen, and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost: as Satan therefore plaieth the part of a murderer and a destroyer; so Christ doth act a Redeemer and Sauour: as the deuill sets variance betweene God and man, betweene man and man, betweene man and himselfe; so Christ contrarywise makes our peace with God, exhorts vs to peace with men, and grants vs peace in our selues, as the text tels it in brieue he doth cast out the deuill, I say cast the deuill out of the poore sinner, whom he did possesse, and that for foure reasons especially iustificable by Law.

1. Because the deuill doth not pay the rent of Gods house.
2. Because he doth suffer Gods tenement to decay.
3. Because he doth imploy it to base vses.
4. Because God himselfe hath a purpose to dwell in it.

Almighty God infinitely rich in mercy, lends euery man, and as it were lets to farme diuerse possessions, as the graces of the spirit, the vertues of the minde the gifts of the body, the goods of the world; and for all these requires no rent but thanksgiving, that our soule may magnifie the Lord, and our mouth shew forth his praise; but so long as the deuill is in any tenement, God cannot haue this little rent, this small farme: for hee possesseth a sinners heart with such a numbnesse, and his tongue with such a dumbnesse, that he can neither thinke things good nor speake things gracious.

Secondly, the deuill ruinares euery tenement, wherein he dwells: as for the out-houses of our bodies, he doth endeouour sometime to burne them with lust, and sometime to drowne them with drunkennesse, alway to mischief them with some perill or other: as for the spirituall and inward building; the foundation of Gods tenement in our soule is faith. the walls hope, the rooffe charitie. Now the deuill hauing neither faith, hope, nor loue, seekes euermore to raze our foundation, to digge thorow our walls, and vncover our rooffe, that hauing neither faith in God, nor loue toward men, our poore soule may be exposed to all his tempests and temptations, and therefore Christ hath a iust cause to cast him out of his farme for dilapidations.

Thirdly that tenant deserues worthily to be thrust out of house and home, sedibus, adibus, that implieth all the best roomes vnto the basest offices, as to make them either stables for his horses, or stalls for his oxen, or sties for his hogs: but the deuill is such a tenant, he makes our body, which is the temple of God, a den of theues, a den of oppression and couetousnesse, a den of lust and filthinesse; as it is sayd of Babylon, an habitation of deuills, an hold of all foule spirits, a cage of basefull and uncleane birds.

Fourthly,

<sup>c</sup> Iohn 12. 31.

<sup>c</sup> Ephes. 4. 8.

<sup>c</sup> Athanasius in symbols.

<sup>c</sup> Iacob. de Vo-ragine: serm. 2.
Dom. 3. qua-drages.

<sup>c</sup> Augustin.

<sup>c</sup> Apocal. 18. 2.

Fourthly, the Lord hath a purpose to dwell in our mansion himselfe, and therefore the deuill must be packing: Behold, saith v Christ, I stand at the doore and knocke, if any man heare my voyce, and open the doore, I will come in vnto him, & will suppe with him, and he with me. There he doth promise to be our guest; but he saith in <sup>2</sup> another place, that he wil dwell with vs; if any man loue me, he will keepe my word, and my Father will loue him, and we will come vnto him, and will dwell with him. Now that Christ may come into vs, when he comes vnto vs, he doth open our eares the doores of our house, that we may heare his word, open our eyes and enlarge our heart, that we may beleue his word, vitie our tongue, that we may confesse his faith, and call vpon his holy name. So did hee to this poore wretch, and so doth he still vnto his children; if any mans heart melt, when <sup>a</sup> our welbeloued puts in his hand by the hole of the doore, let him acknowledge thankfully, that it is the <sup>b</sup> worke of God. See the exposition of O Lord open our lips.

The people wondred] <sup>c</sup> The words and wonders of Christ are entertained of diuers men diuersly; the people both admit and admire Christ, but the Pharisees, and the wicked generation mutter and inurmure. Now this may teach all teachers <sup>d</sup> not to feare the reproach of men, as knowing that God hath made vs a <sup>e</sup> gazing stocke to the world, to men and Angels Athanasius was nick-named <sup>f</sup> Satanasius, Cyprian called Caprian, Paul accounted mad, Christ himselfe reputed a coniuurer, casting out deuills through Beelzebub the chiefe of the deuills.

To be carelesse what is spoken of vs, although neuer so falsly and slanderously spoken (especially when it is such, as that the maiestie of God and cause of the Gospell may thereby be dammaged) is the part of rechles and dissolute persons; & Hominum est dissolutorum & ad iniurias diuini nominis securè conuiuentium; etsi enim alie iniurie saepe magna ab homine modesto & christiano ferri ac dissimulari possunt, tamen hereseos notam qui dissimulat, eum Ruffinus negare solebat esse Christianum. And therefore Christ accused of blasphemie, did euer <sup>h</sup> apologize for himselfe, when it made for the glory of G O D, and good of his hearers, as Iohn 8. 49. and Iohn 18. 23. and here confuting his aduersaries with five reasons.

The first argument is taken from a prouerbiall saying, vers. 17. 18. A kingdom diuided in it selfe cannot stand; Ergo, no man can cast out one deuill by another.

* The second is à pari, vers. 19. If I through Beelzebub cast out deuills, by whose helpe doe your children cast them out? <sup>1</sup> You say that your sonnes cast out deuills by the power of God; Ergo, you doe wickedly to say I doe this in the name of Beelzebub.

The third is à medijs, vers. 20. I cast out deuills by the finger of God; Ergo not by Beelzebub.

The fourth is ab impossibili, vers. 21. 22. A strong man is not cast out of his possession but by a stronger; the deuill is ouercome by me, for I cast him out and spoyle him, Ergo, I am stronger then he.

The last argument à contrarijs, vers. 23. He that is not with me is against me and he that gathereth not with me, scattereth abroad. I gather the Church, but Satan doth scatter; Ergo, there can be no good agreement betweene the Deuill and me; that the deuill doth scatter the Church, he proues at large by a goodly similitude, vers. 24. 25. 26.

The true miracles of Christ and his Church, are knowne from the false miracles of heathen sorcerers and idolatrous exorcists, especially two waies, <sup>k</sup> impossibilitate & finibus, by their ends and impossibility. The miracles of Christ were wrought to strengthen our faith, and confirme the true worship of God; but all the miracles of Antichrist are to <sup>l</sup> deceiue the children of God, and to set vp idolatry. So <sup>m</sup> S. Augustine disputes, Aliter sunt à sanctis, aliter à magis, diuerso sine diuerso iure

Againe the miracles of Christ are impossible; <sup>n</sup> Since the world began, was it not heard, that any man opened the eyes of one that was borne blinde; Antichrist cannot

<sup>v</sup> Apocal. 3. 20

<sup>2</sup> Iohn. 14. 23.

<sup>a</sup> Can. 5. 4.

<sup>b</sup> Iohn. 6. 29.

<sup>c</sup> P. stl. Heming in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Esay. 51. 7.

<sup>e</sup> 1 Cor. 4. 9.

<sup>f</sup> Georgius Nigger apud Bellar. presit. lib. 1. de Christo,

<sup>g</sup> Apolog Iewel. part. 1. cap. 3.

<sup>h</sup> Zepper. con. 2. in loc.

<sup>i</sup> Culman in loc.

<sup>k</sup> Melanethon. post. in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Mat. 24. 24.
<sup>m</sup> Lib. de quaest. s. sionibus 83. quest. 79.

<sup>n</sup> Iohn. 9. 32.

cannot vincere diabolum repugnantem, a deuill against his will, as our Sauour in my text.

o Augustin. ubi supra.

A coniuer expels Satan by consent, not by constraint; o aliter enim cogitur possessor equum dare militi, aliter eum tradit emptori, vel cuilibet donat; and therefore when euill spirits are cast out by wicked men, it is by compact, and the deuill will be sure to gaine by the bargaine. But Christ here stronger then Satan, ouercommeth him, and taketh from him all his harnesse (wherein he trusted) and diuideth his goods.

P Erasmus annot. in loc idem Chrysol & Beda, sicut Em. Sa. not. i. in loc.
 1 Augustin. de sancta virginitat. cap. 3.

Yea happy are they] Christ doth not P denie, much lesse despise that which the woman had sayd before, but insinuates onely that the blessed Virgin was more blessed in being his childe then in being his mother; 9 Beatior percipiendo fidem Christi, quam concipiendo carnem Christi. See before Magnificat, and after, the Gospell for Annunciation.

The Epistle. GALAT. 4. 21.

Tell me (ye that desire to be vnder the Law) doe ye not heare of the law? &c.

r Luther. com. in Galat. 4.

AS painting is an ornament to set forth and garnish an house which is already builded; so is an allegorie the light of a matter already proued; and otherwise sufficiently confirmed. Some Fathers, and most Friers expounding the Scriptures, are too much in their allegories, as being more cunning to beautifie then to build, and so their possils are like the Courtiers lodging, a rotten cottage well hanged; or, as a merry fellow sayd of the Lawyers library, multum hic video iuris, at nihil carnis.

c Cap. 2. 16.
 c Ibid. verse 20.
 e Cap. 3. 6.
 x Ibid. v. 11, 12.
 y Verse 15.
 z Verse 23.
 a Verse 24.
 b Cap. 4. 1.

On the contrary, S. Paul vseth in this Epistle first arguments, and then ornaments. Hee doth fortifie the maine proposition of all his discourse (namely, That a man is not iustified by the workes of the law, but by faith in Iesus Christ) first, by reasons of c experience: secondly, from u Abrahams example: thirdly, by manifold testimonies of x holy writ: fourthly, by similitudes and apt comparisons of a mans y will, of the z prison, of the a schoolemaster, of an b heire; now last of all as a beauty to the rest, he addeth an allegorie, Tell me yee that desire to be vnder the law, &c.

The whole text may } Preface, vers. 21.
 bee diuided into three } Allegorie, containing a } Story, vers. 22. 23.
 principall parts: a } Mysteric, vers. 24. 25.
 } Conclusion, vers. 31.

e Iob. 6. 24.
 d Aquin. & Hugo Cardinal. in loc. o Serm. 65. in Cantica.
 f Irenaeus lib. 4. cap. 14.
 g 1. 1. Martyr. Clem. Alexand. Theodoret. Augustin. Lactan. Arnobius, & c. h Vega calls Alphonsus de Castro Luther's most forcible aduersarie.
 i Alphonsus de Castro, contra baros, li. 1. c. 4.

Tell me] Teach me, faith c Iob, and I will hold my tongue, so Paul here, tell me yee that desire to liue vnder the burden of the law, d doe yee read Moses or not? if you neuer read the law, you be not wise to desire you know not what; if euer you read or heard the law, then vnderstand that Abraham had two sonnes, &c.

As e Bernard, haue you appealed to the Gospell? vnto the Gospell shall you goe: so Paul, are yee desirous to be tried by the law? then let the law passe vpon you. For it is written, &c. f that is a true prooffe and without contradiction, which hath tokens for the testifying of it euen from the very aduersaries themselues. And therefore the g Fathers in old time did well in wresting the weapons of heathen Poets and Philosophers out of their owne hands; and the Protestants in our age deserue better, who beat the Papiests on their owne dunghill, in their owne schoole: for as Paul, tell me yee that desire to be vnder the law; so tell mee yee that depend vpon the Popes infallible iudgement, as though he caried the holy Ghost in his bosome, did you neuer heare fro a learned Papiest of h eminent note, i that some Popes haue beene so little furnished with good letters, as that they did not vnderstand so much as their Grammar? and that that Pope <sup>k</sup> Paul the second so much hated learning, that he pronounced them heretikes, which once should mention either in earnest or (st the word Academia. Tell me ye that have so reuerend a conceit of the Romish Clergie, did he neuer heare what their Abbat <sup>l</sup> Bernard hath written? Omnes necessary, & omnes aduersarij Yee that desire whorish Babylon for your holy mother, haue ye not read what a Popish<sup>m</sup> Poet hath recorded of Rome?

— venalia nobis

Templa; Sacerdotes, altaria, sacra, corone, Ignis, thura, preces, cælum est venale, Deusque.

Did you neuer heare what your <sup>n</sup> S. Thomas Becket? Mater Roma facta est meretrix, & prostituta est pro mercede: Rome our mother is become an harlot, and exposeth her selfe to sale for meed and mony.

The Law.] Genesis out of which he tooke this history, teacheth especially faith and sheweth how the Patriarkes in respect of their beliefe pleased God; ° yet after the manner of the Iewes he called it the law, for that the law of circumcision is contained therein: and sometime the law comprehend's not only the booke of Moses, but also the Psalmes of David, P and all the booke of the old Testament, as Iohn 15. 25. but it is, that the word might be fulfilled which is written in their law; ¶ They hated me without a cause. Law then in the first place must be continued of the law morall and ceremoniall; in the second, it is taken for the booke of Moses, especially for that of Genesis.

For it is written that Abraham had two sonnes, Gen. 16. 17 18. 21. chapters; one by a bond-maid, Ismael by Agar; and the other by a free-woman, Isaacke by Sara: now he that was borne of the bondwoman was borne after the flesh; ¶ after an ordinarie fashion as other children are; but Isaacke borne of Sara the freewoman was borne by promise; ¶ Sara thy wife, saith the Angell to Abraham, shall beare thee a sonne indeed, and thou shalt call his name Isaacke; and I will establish my covenant with him for an euerlasting covenant, and with his seed after him. And this in brieffe is the plaine storie, the which as our Apostle speakes, is an allegorie, for by these things is meant another thing.

Abraham is a figure of God, which had two sonnes, that is, two sorts of people, Iewes and Christians, Ismael represents the Iewes, Isaacke the Christians; and these two be borne vnto God by Agar and Sara, that is, in a similitude the two Testaments, the old and the new, the Law and the Gospell. Agar is Sina, which was ¶ without the limits of the land of promise in Arabia, vpon which the covenant of the law was giuen with ¶ lightnings and thunders, horror and trembling, and so all the children of that Testament are begotten to bondage and feare: but Sara is Ierusalem, not that old Ierusalem in bondage with her children, but the new Ierusalem our mother the Church, here called Ierusalem above from whence commeth the Gospell begetting free children of liberty, who receiue the spirit of * adoption whereby they crie Abba father.

Mount Sina is Agar in Arabia. ¶ Some thinke this mount had two names, Agar and Sina. ¶ Some, that Sina is called of Arabians, Agar, and it ¶ signifieth in their language as much as handmaid; and haply the likeness of the name gaue Paul occasion to finde out this excellent allegorie. ¶ Some that Agar is called Sina, for that Agar is a figure of Sina, as Christ is called the ¶ Passenger.

As then Agar the bondmaid brought Abraham a sonne, yet not an heire, but a seruant? so mysticall Agar the law, did beare to God the great Abraham a people, but without the promise, nor an heire, but a seruaile seed. As Ismael was the true sonne of Abraham; so the Iewes had the true God to be their father, who gaue them his oracles, and religion, and temple: Psalm. 147. 19. Hee sheweth his word vnto Iacob, his statutes and ordinances vnto Israel. This only was the difference, that Isaacke was borne by promise, but Ismael without the blessing of the word: Agar therefore gendereth vnto bondage, quantum ad {<sup>c</sup> affectum,

effectum.

<sup>k</sup> Platina in vita Paul. 2.

<sup>l</sup> Seriu 33. in Cantic.

<sup>m</sup> Mantuan.

<sup>n</sup> Epist ad Archiepif Moguntin cited by Bewel, defence of Apol fol 738.

<sup>o</sup> Luther. com. in loc.

<sup>p</sup> Perkins com. in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Psal. 35. 19

<sup>s</sup> Erasmus paraph. in loc.

<sup>t</sup> Genes 17. 19

<sup>u</sup> Caluin and English gloss. in loc.

<sup>v</sup> Exod 19. 16 17. &c.

<sup>w</sup> Rom. 8. 15

<sup>x</sup> Theophylact & Calvin. in loc.

<sup>y</sup> Luther in loc.

<sup>z</sup> Calu & Martorat ex Hieron. in loc.

<sup>a</sup> 1 Cor. 5. 9.

<sup>b</sup> Aquin. in loc.

<sup>a</sup> 1<sup>a</sup> contra Adumianam, c. 17

The Law doth gender an affection of feare, but the Gospell of loue, so <sup>d</sup> S. Augustine, Brenissima & apertissima duorum Testamentorum differentia, timor & amor: according to that of Paul; Yee that are led by the Spirit of God, and beleue the Gospell, haue not receiued the spirit of bondage to feare againe; but ye haue receiued the spirit of adoption, whereby ye crie to God, as to a most mercifull Father: Rom. 8. 14. 15.

<sup>e</sup> 2 Cor. 3. 7

Rom 1. 16

<sup>f</sup> Iohn 8. 35.

<sup>g</sup> 1<sup>a</sup> Petrus com.

in loco.

Again, the bond-woman gendereth vnto bondage, quantum ad effectum, in respect of the successe and enent; for the Law begetteth vnto God seruants only, not sonnes; or if sonnes, not heires of his kingdome; in this respect it is called <sup>e</sup> the ministrie of death. On the contrary, the Gospell is the <sup>f</sup> power of God vnto saluation, and begets inheritors of Gods eternall kingdome; <sup>g</sup> the seruant abideth not in the house for ever, but the sonne doth abide for euer.

As Agar figures the Law, <sup>h</sup> so doth Ismael all Iusticiaries that looke to be saued by the Law: so that the Turkes and Iewes are Ismaelites, ignorant Protestants and Schoole Papists halfe Ismaelites, ascribing too much vnto their owne works, and too little to Christ and his merits.

<sup>i</sup> *Summe conference, pag 45
and defecce for not subscribing,
part. 1. Cap. 10*

Bordered vpon the City now called Hierusalem.] Here the <sup>i</sup> Nonelists except against our translation, in that the word [bordereth] expresseth neither the situations of the piace, nor meaning of our Apostle.

<sup>k</sup> Aquin. & Ca-ietan in loc. non progressu itinerus, sed progressu similitudinis.

First, for the fault in Cosmographie, Martin Luther auoweth in his Commentaries vpon this place, that there be continuall mountaines reaching from Arabia Petrea to Cades Bernea in Iury: so that mount Agar in that respect may be sayd to border vpon Hierusalem. And as for the true construction in Dininitie, we take not the word topically, but typically. Mount Agar bordereth vpon Hierusalem in <sup>k</sup> similitude, not in situation, as the Church Bible consenting with the Translators of Geneva, Sina is a mountaine in Arabia, which answereth vnto Hierusalem: and so there is a great neighbour-hood in allusion and correspondence. For as Agar gendered not the seed of promise, so the Law seated in the terrestriall Hierusalem, is not able to beget heires vnto God; for Hierusalem is in bondage with her children, vnder the Romane seruitude litterally; but according to Pauls meaning allegorically, <sup>l</sup> shee cannot attaine to the libertie of the spirit, but abideth vnder the wrath of God, horror of conscience, guilt of death and hell.

<sup>l</sup> *Ambros. &
Luther. in loc.*

<sup>m</sup> *Annot. &
Paraph. in loc.
Mr. Couerdale
in his translation confered with the translation of Cyndal, reads, rea-cheit vnto Ieru-salem which now is.*

<sup>n</sup> Hugo Cardinal. in loc.

I could tell the curious Criticke, who seeth a mote in the Churches eye, but ouerseeth a beame in his owne, that Hierome and Ambrose read coniuunctus, <sup>m</sup> Erasmus of Roterodam, confinis; Erasmus Sarcerius in his postil. contiguus; all which are the same with our English bordereth: and if I should say, that the Puritan of England is next neighbour vnto the Brownist of Amsterdam, the most simple Separatist in all Sandwich, I am sure, would vnderstand me; so little difference is there betweene the new Church and no Church.

But Hierusalem which is aboue is free, which is the mother of vs all.] Interpreters obstrue, that these words are a liuely description of the Church; In hoc quod dicitur iursum, notatur altitudo; quod Hierusalem, pacis multitudo; quod libera, libertatis amplitudo; quod mater, charitas, or (as Aquine) fecunditas. I shewed in mine exposition of the Creed, that the Church of God hath three properties, and three prerogatiues; the properties are, holy, catholike, knit in a communion;
her prerogatiues are, forgiuenesse of sinne, resurrection of the body, life euerlasting.
The word aboue doth intimate that shee is holy; Ierusalem and mother, that shee is knit in a communion. In that shee is the mother of all, it sheweth her to be catholike; in that a free-woman, and her childrens heires, implies forguienesse of sinnes, resurrection of the body, life euerlasting.

<sup>o</sup> Psal. 132. 15.

<sup>p</sup> 1<sup>a</sup> Pet. 2. 9.

<sup>q</sup> Psal. 123. 13.

Hierusalem is a type of the Catholike Church in foure respects especially.
First, God chose Hierusalem aboue all other places on earth to dwell in; <sup>o</sup> Here shall be my rest for euer; here will I dwell, for I haue delight therein. So the Church is a <sup>p</sup> chosen generation, a holy nation, a peculiar people to God, enclosed (as it were) from the commons of the world.

2. Hierusalem was <sup>q</sup> builded on a citie, that is at vnity within it selfe, so the members

1 Tim. 4. 1.

Hence S. Paul calls the forbidding of meats and marriage, with obligation of conscience, and opinion of merit, <sup>r</sup> a doctrine of devills.

A thing indifferent, vpon the commandement of the Magistrate becomes necessarie, not in respect of it selfe, but for auoyding scandall and contempt of authority; the thing to the conscience remaines indifferent still, and may be vsed and not vsed, if it were not for our obedience to the Prince. See Luther lib. de Christian. libert. & Com. in Galat. 5. 1. & loc. com. tit. de libertat. Christian. Melanct. com. tit. de Ceremon. & Christian libertat. Calvin. Institut. lib. 3. cap. 19. Beza epist. 24. Perkins treat. of Conscience, cap. 2. & com. in Galat. cap. 5. vers. 1. Dominicus à Soto apud Bellarm. de Iustificat. lib. 4. cap. 6. &c.

Galat. 5. 13

1. To loue Christian religion, as the <sup>r</sup> meanes of this liberty.

Iohn 5. 39.

The consideration of this our freedome teacheth vs three duties especially :

2. To search the Scriptures, as the Charter in which our liberties are written.

Rom. 6. 22.

3. To serue God in the duties of faith and newnesse of life; because this <sup>u</sup> seruice is our libertie, Stand fast therefore in the libertie wherewith Christ hath made vs free, and be not entangled againe with the yoke of bondage, Galat. 5. 1.

1 Tim. 3. 15.

Mother.] The word of God is committed to the keeping of the <sup>x</sup> Church, and this word is <sup>y</sup> seed, and <sup>z</sup> milke, and strong meat, Heb. 5. 14. The Church then as a mother brings forth children to God by the ministrie of the word, and after they be borne, feeds them with milke flowing from her owne two breasts, <sup>a</sup> which are the Scriptures of the two Testaments.

1 Pet. 1. 23.

1 Cor. 3. 2.

Ioannes à Iesu Maria in Cant.

7 3.

Luther in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Hence the Church may learne to be diligent in preaching the Gospell sincerely. For by the seed of the word one begets another to God; I being begotten (faith Luther) of other, doe now beget other, which also shall beget other hereafter, and so this spirituall begetting shall continue to the worlds end.

Perkins in loc.

Psal. 45. 11.

2. Wee are taught <sup>c</sup> hereby to despise our <sup>d</sup> first birth, and seeke to be borne againe to God, and sucke the brest of our mother, feeding on the milke of the word, 1. Pet. 2. 2. Non enim nascimur, sed nascimur Christiani, quoth <sup>e</sup> Hierome. Thus to be made a member of the new Hierusalem, is a great priuiledge, Reuel. 3. 12.

Lib. aduersus Vigilans.

3. The word mother, implieth our dutifull obedience to the Church of God according to that of Salomon; My sonne, heare thy fathers instruction, and forsake not thy mothers teaching. This Father is God, and this mother is the Church as <sup>f</sup> Diuines expound it aply. The Romane Church is not our mother, but a step-mother, if not a p<sup>o</sup>fessed harlot; and therefore <sup>g</sup> we must come out of her as being more like mount Sina, gendring to bondage, then mount Sion begetting free children.

Melancthon, and English gl. ste, in Pro. 1. 8

Apocal 18 4

Augustin de baptismo contra Donatistas, lib. 7. cap. 52.

Apud Bellarm. de ecclesia militante lib. 3. cap. 9 §. ad ultimum dico

Rom. 8. 30.

Melancthon, prafat. in Euangelia cominical.

Anbros. orat. ad Valentinian. mferat vlt. betur, epist 32.

Of vs] <sup>u</sup> parvulus, not of all, but vs all, that is, all true beleeuers elected and called effectually, <sup>h</sup> qui sic sunt in domo Dei vt ipsi sint domus dei; for if the reprobate be liuely members of Hierusalem aboue, the Church is a mother not only to the sonnes of God, but also to the children of the deuill: a doctrine not onely receiued of the fathers in old tyme, but entertained of the Schoolemen also, <sup>i</sup> Ioannes de Turre Cremata, Alexander Halus, Hugo, Thomas, Petrus à Soto, Melchior Canus, &c.

All] For he that hath not the Church for his mother, shall neuer have God for his father, <sup>k</sup> quos elegit hos & vocauit, all Gods elect are in due time called, and all that are called, are called by the Church; <sup>l</sup> eleli nusquam nisi inter vocatos, and therefore most honorable for the King himselfe, who is the father of the Common weale, to be the <sup>m</sup> sonne of the Church.

For it is written.] In a controuerisie betweene the false teachers and himselfe, concerning the iustifying of a sinner, he makes the Scripture his Iudge; for for whosocuer be index qui, the Bible must be index quo, by which all questions in religion ought to be determined.

Reioyce thou barren] He sheweth by this allegorie of the Prophet <sup>n</sup> Esay, the difference between Agar and Sara, that is to say, betweenc the Church and the Synagogue, between the Gospell and the Law. The Law being husband of the fruitfull woman, that is, of the Synagogue, begetteth very many children in the world; for none, saue the children of the free-woman, either see or know other righteoufnes then that of the law. Contrariwise Sara, that is to say, the true Church vnder the <sup>n</sup> crosse, seemeth exceeding barren, as hauing no children, or very few. The Prophet therefore doth exhort her to reioyce; for howsoeuer the Church seeme to be forsaken and barren before the world, not hauing the righteoufnesse and workes of the law, yet notwithstanding she is a most fruitfull mother hauing an infinite number of children before God The desolate hath many more children then she which hath an husband. Agar hath not children, but seruants; and howsoeuer for a time, they that are borne after the flesh persecute those that are borne after the spirit, yet the children of the bond-woman, are cast out of the house together with their mother, and receiue not inheritance with the children of the free-woman.

Here then is <sup>p</sup> comfort for a distressed soule, Reioyce thou barren that bearest no children, &c. Albeit thou feele thy selfe neuer so barren of good workes, vnable to thinke an acceptable thought, so voyd of righteoufnesse as that there <sup>q</sup> dwelleth in thee no goodnesse at all; yet break forth into ioy, for Christ is thy righteoufnesse, and sanctification and redemption. As Christ then is greater then the law, so thy righteoufnesse is a farre more excellent righteoufnesse then that of the law; thou hast many moe children then shee which hath an husband, reioyce therefore, for <sup>1</sup> Gods kingdome is the place of ioy, Gods children are the men of <sup>f</sup> ioy, the Gospell is the <sup>m</sup> matter of ioy. Gods Arke was a figure of Christ, and the mirth before the Arke signifieth that the foundation of all our ioy consists in our reconciliation with God in Christ; the musicke of the Temple was typicall, and prefigured these ioyes of the Catholicke Church.

Break forth and crye] The first word intimatest hat the Church vpon earth is as it were pent in with present griefe; her ioy is mixed in this life with sorrow the paschall-Lambe was eaten <sup>n</sup> with sowe hearbs, insinuating that we feele no sweetnesse in the blood of Christ, till we feele the smart of our sinne. The word crye doth shew, that albeit in earthly ioy we must be sparing and moderate; yet in spirituall ioy modus est sine modo, the measure is to reioyce without measure; if we be rauished in our ioy that we crie againe, it is the best of all. Reioyce in the Lord alwaies, againe, I say reioyce. See Gospell, Dom. 1. Advent. & Epist. Dom. 4. Advent.

The Gospell. IOHN. 6. 1.

Iesus departed ouer the Sea of Galile. &c.

THIS Gospell is the same with the Gospell allotted for the last, and but little differing from the Gospell appointed for the seuenth Sunday after Trinity: for the miraculous feeding of much people with a few loaves is read in the Church euery yeare thrice; to wit, in <sup>x</sup> winter, when Wheat is sowne; in Lent, when it is in hopefull spring and in <sup>y</sup> haruest, when it is ready for the barne. See the reason and exposition hereof, Gospell Dom. 7. post Trin.

<sup>n</sup> Esay 54. 1.

<sup>o</sup> 1 Cor. 1. 18.

<sup>p</sup> Luther. & Sarcinius in loc. 9 Rom. 7. 18.

<sup>r</sup> Rom. 14. 17.
<sup>f</sup> Pfal 68. 3.
<sup>e</sup> Luke 2. 10.

<sup>n</sup> Exod. 12. 8.

<sup>x</sup> 25. Sunday after Trinity <sup>y</sup> 7 Sunday after Trinity

The Epistle, HEB. 9. II.

Christ being an High Priest of good things to come, came by a greater and more perfect Tabernacle, &c.

THis text is a <sup>z</sup>briefe of the whole Epistle, wherein Christ Iesus the great <sup>a</sup>Bishop of our soules, is first compared and then preferred before the Leuiticall high Priest in sundry points, as,

1. Aaron and all his successors were but only fore-runners of Christ, who is the end of the law, <sup>b</sup>for this called here sacerdos accedens, or superueniens, a Priest added to the Priests, a Mediatour of the new Testament, consummating the priesthood of the old.

2. The Leuiticall high Priest was a Priest of things present, that is, earthly things and temporary, which only stood in meats and drinks, and diuers washings, and carnall rites, untill the time of reformation; but Christ is an high Priest of good things to come, so great, that this world cannot <sup>c</sup>perceiue, much lesse <sup>d</sup>receiue them. As an <sup>e</sup>euertlasting father he bestowed on the Church <sup>f</sup>eternall gifts, in <sup>g</sup>this life grace to the end, in the next glorie without end. Spirituall graces in respect of the law were things to come, but yet howsoever <sup>h</sup>we be now sonnes of God, it doth not appeare what we shall be; for the glorie which our high Priest hath purchased for vs is yet to come; <sup>i</sup>now we see through a glasse darkly, but when this corruption shall put on incorruption, and this mortall shall be clothed with immortalitie, then we shall see face to face. These good things to come shall be further enjoyed and fully reuealed in the world to come.

3. Christ Iesus our high Priest came by a greater and more perfect tabernacle then Aaron. <sup>k</sup>Some by tabernacle meane the Church of God, a tabernacle which <sup>l</sup>the Lord pight and not man. It is greater then the Iewes temple, for it is Catholike, the Lords great Cathedrall <sup>m</sup>extended to all places, and at all times, and all persons, not only those, who now are liuing, but also those who haue been from the beginning, and shall be to the worlds end, for this cause called, Galat. 4. the mother of vs all, and it is more perfect as being the body, whereof the tabernacle was only the shadow.

<sup>n</sup>Some by tabernacle vnderstand heauen, a tabernacle that cannot be <sup>o</sup>remoued; a greater tabernacle. For the whole earth in comparison of heauen is but a point, all Iury but a part of a point, the temple but a parcell of a part; and more perfect, for now <sup>p</sup>we know in part, and prophecie in part; but when that which is perfect is come, then that which is vnperfect shall be abolished.

<sup>q</sup>Other, and that most fitly, thinke Christs humane nature to be this tabernacle, for he was consecrated vnto God in his flesh, he was crucified in it, ascended in it, glorified in it, and now sitteth at the right hand of God in Sancto Sancto. as our Mediatour and Aduocate. Well may Christs body be called a tabernacle, for it is the temple of the blessed Trinity, <sup>r</sup>wherein all the fulnesse of the Godhead dwels bodily: this tabernacle was not <sup>s</sup>made with hands, as that old tabernacle, nor of this building as our <sup>t</sup>earthly tabernacles are. For albeit Christ was borne of the Virgine Mary, yet conceived of the Holy Ghost; as the <sup>u</sup>Prophet, the stone cut out of the mountaine without hands. His body was of this building, secundum principium materiale, for it was not fantastical or heauenly, but true flesh of the substance of Mary, yet not of this building, <sup>v</sup>secundum formale principium & actiuum, as being conceived by the power of the blessed Spirit, not as other men, by the seed of man; and this was a more perfect tabernacle. For, the word incarnate was full of grace and truth. In Moses tabernacle was the type, but by Iesus Christ came the truth: in a word, <sup>x</sup>Christs body was a tabernacle, propter militiam passionis, greater, propter inhabitationem totius Trinitatis, more perfect, propter abundantiam sanctitatis, not of this building, propter modum conceptionis.

<sup>z</sup> Luther. possil. in loc.

<sup>a</sup> 1 Pet. 2. 25.

<sup>b</sup> Maylorat. in loc.

<sup>c</sup> 1 Cor. 2. 14.
<sup>d</sup> Theophylact in loc.

<sup>e</sup> Esay 9. 6.

<sup>f</sup> Caluin. in loc.

<sup>g</sup> Gorran. in loc.

<sup>h</sup> 1 Epist. Iob. 3. 2

<sup>i</sup> 1 Cor. 13. 12

<sup>k</sup> Caietan. in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Heb. 8. 2.

<sup>m</sup> Chrysost. in

Ephes. 4.

<sup>n</sup> Aquin. Gorr. S. in loc.

<sup>o</sup> Esay 33. 20.

<sup>p</sup> 1 Cor. 13. 9.

<sup>q</sup> Theophylact. Beza. Maylorat. English gloite in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Coloss. 2. 9.

<sup>s</sup> 2 Cor. 5. 1.

<sup>t</sup> Dan. 2. 45.

<sup>u</sup> Aquin. lect. 2. in Galat. 4.

<sup>x</sup> Gorran in loc.

4. The Leuiticall high Priest entred into the holy place by the blood of goates and calves, as we reade; Leuiticus 16. but our high Priest by his owne blood; y he gaue himselfe for vs an offering and a sacrifice of a sweet smelling fauour to God. As the Pellican feeds her young, so Christ redeemes his Church with his owne & precious blood; a benefit so great, that our blessed Sauiour instituted that holy Sacrament of his Supper in perpetuall remembrance thereof; <sup>a</sup> in the night that he was betrayed he tooke bread, and when he had giuen thanks he brake it, and sayd, Take, eate, this is my body, which is broken for you, doe this in remembrance of me. After the same manner he tooke the cup, saying, This cup is the new Testament in my blood, doe this as oft as you drinke it in remembrance of me.

5. The Priest of the old Testament entred into the holy place <sup>b</sup> once euery yeere: but Christ our high Priest of the new Testament offereth himselfe once for all; a difference so materiall, as that our Apostle repeats it often in this one chapter, as verse 25. not as that he should offer himselfe often: vers. 6. He appeared once to put away sinne: vers. 28. Christ was once offered to take away the sinnes of many. S. Pauls argument is plaine, Christ could not offer vp himselfe any other way then by dy. g: he therefore did offer vp himselfe but once, because he could dye but once, <sup>c</sup> not often after any fantastically, hidden, inuisible, mysticall, or vnblodie manner, as the <sup>d</sup> Papists hold, that the Minister is a sacrificing Priest, and that in the Sacrament of the Lords supper, he doth offer vp Christ againe to God the Father, under the formes of bread and wine really and properly.

The Church of England calls a Preacher of the Gospell a Priest, of the word Presbyter, not Sacrificulus; or if a Minister may be called a sacrificer, it is in respect of his Eucharisticall sacrifice, prayer and thanksgiving to God, not hilasticall. Now the Lords Supper is not a new propitiatorie sacrifice for the sinnes of the quicke and the dead, but a thankfull commemoration and representation of the old, and that in words and action: In words, because celebrating this holy Sacrament, we report and repeat how Christ died for our sinnes, and shed his blood once for our eternall redemption. In action, breaking the bread, and powring out the wine, taking, eating, drinking, all which are dumbe sermons, and liuely representations of Christs oblation for vs on the crosse, <sup>e</sup> for as often as yee shall eat this bread, and drinke this cup, ye shew the Lords death vntill he come. As Christ died, and after a sort was <sup>f</sup> offered in all the sacrifices of the Law, to wit in figure not in fact; so Christ is offered in the Sacrament daily, not in fact, but in faith, as <sup>g</sup> Ambrose notably, sacrificed in the mindes of beleeuers as vpon an Altar.

In administering this Sacrament, we must doe as Christ the truth and the way, who did not offer vp his body, for that was crucified the day following, but he tooke the bread and brake it, and gaue it not to God, but to the Disciples; and said not to them; take and sacrifice, but take and eat, and to <sup>h</sup> Lombard, <sup>i</sup> Aquine <sup>k</sup> Gropperus and other Papists acknowledge that the Lords Supper is not a real offering vp of Christ, but a memoriall of his passion, according to their antiphona, o sacrum conuiuium, in quo Christus sumitur, recollitur memoria passionis eius, mens impletur gratia, & futurae gloriae nobis pignus datur, Alleluia.

The popish Masse then is a iniurious sacrilege, detracting from the power and merit of Christs passion. an effectuall medicine; that at once cureth a disease, neede not to be applied againe: But Christ offering himselfe for vs once, was <sup>l</sup> sufficient for all, efficient for such as apply it, as Gorran doth glosse the text briefly, sufficiens quod semel; and therefore the Masse being <sup>m</sup> either a continuance or repetition of Christs oblation, is a blasphemous act; for if the Priest finish that on the altar, which the worlds Sauiour began on the crosse, then truth it selfe, told an vntruth in saying, <sup>n</sup> consummatum est, it is finished. If the masse be a repetition of Christs offering, then his sacrifice was not sufficient, and our Apostles argument insufficient, <sup>o</sup> who proues all the legall sacrifices vnperfect, because they were repeated. It is a good obseruation, that in a sacrifice we giue something to God, but in a Sacrament we receiue something from God; if the

Lords

<sup>y</sup> Ephes 5. 2.

<sup>z</sup> 1 Pet. 1. 19.
<sup>a</sup> 1 Cor. 11. 23

<sup>b</sup> Exed. 30. 10

<sup>c</sup> Dr. Fulke in Heb. 9. 25.
<sup>d</sup> Con. Trident. (ess. 22. can. 1. 2. 3. &c.

<sup>e</sup> 1 Cor. 11. 26

<sup>f</sup> Apocal. 13. 8. agnus occisus ab origine mundi.
<sup>g</sup> Lib. 2. de Virginit.

<sup>h</sup> Lib. 4. sent. dist. 12.

<sup>i</sup> Part. 3. quest. 83. art. 1.

<sup>k</sup> Apud Zanch. in Ephes 5. loc. 1.

<sup>l</sup> Emmanuel Sa. notat. in Hebr. 9. 28

<sup>m</sup> Perkins reformed Cath. sit. Maitic.

<sup>n</sup> Iohn 10. 30.
<sup>o</sup> Hebr. cap. 7.

Lords Supper then bee a Sacrament of the New Testament, we must not in it offer vp Christ to God, but expect Christ and the benefits of his sacrifice from God.

6. The Leuiticall high Priest entred into the holy places that are made with hands, which are similitudes of the true Sanctuary: but our high Priest is entred into very heauen, to appeare now in the sight of God for vs. If any now sinne, we haue an agent in the court of heauen, as P. S. Iohn, an aduocate with the Father Iesus Christ the righteous, and he is the reconciliation for our sinnes, and not for our sins only, but for the sins of the whole world, The Mediator of the new Testament, and interceding daily betweene God and man, obtaining for vs not onely temporall gifts, as the Legall high Priest, which could not make holy concerning the conscience, but as it followeth in the next word to be considered, eternall redemption: he recouered our estate in Gods kingdome which Adam lost, & hath so firmly purchased it againe for the Church, as that it is a perpetuity, now for euer, Effect, for he that beleueth hath euerlasting life, Ioh. 3. 16.

eternall redemption, in Efficacie, for his blood is not yet drie, but the power and vertue is alway the same, yesterday, and to day, and for euer, Heb. 13. 8.

For if the blood of oxen and of goats, and the ashes of a young cow when it is sprinkl'd, purifeth the uncleane, as touching the purifying the flesh, how much more shall the blood of Christ? an argument to proue that Christ hath obtained eternall redemption for vs, and it is from the lesser to the greater, or from the signe to the thing signified. If the blood of the beasts outwardly did purifie the flesh, how much more shall the blood of Christ inwardly purge the conscience from dead workes, to serue the liuing God? First, because the blood of Christ, for Iesus is a Saviour of his people. Secondly, for that he was offered through the eternall spirit: for although our enemie come like a flood, yet the Spirit of the Lord shall chase him away. Thirdly for that he was without spot, an high Priest which is holy, harmlesse, vndefiled, he knew no sinne, therefore most able to purge the conscience from all sinnes, here termed deadly workes, in that they procure to the sinner in this world death spirituall, in the world to come death eternall. See Epist. Dom. post Trinit.

To serue the liuing God ] The Lord is life: such then as will serue him, must offer themselues a liuing sacrifice, for here redeemed vs for this end, that wee should serue him in holinesse and righteousnesse all the daies of our life. I haue put off my coat, saith the Church, how shall I put it on? I haue washed my feet, how shall I defile them? A sinner irrepentant is like the sow wallowing in dirt and mire; but God (as Dauid speakes) hath brought me out of the horrible pit, out of the mire and clay, and set my feet vpon the rocke and ordered my goings: I haue put of the old man, and am become a new creature in Christ. Why then should I, that am washed in the sacred font, and bathed in my sweet Saviours owne blood, defile my selfe againe by standing in the waies of sinners and sitting in the scat of the scornfull? Hoc magis culpabiles sumus, si legem bonam colimus, & mali cultores simus; imo potius nec cultores, si mali, quia cultor dici non potest malus cultor; neque enim colit, qui rem sanctam non sancte colit.

The Gospell. I O H N. 8. 46.

Which of you can rebuke me of sinne? &c.

THIS Gospell containeth a liuely description <sup>h</sup> of two contrary kingdomes. One of light, another of darkenesse; as Christ is zealous in vpholding Gods glory, so the champions of satan earnest in maintaining his quarrell. All Christs kingdome consists in righteousness and truth, as the Psalmographer expressly,

<sup>p</sup> 1. Epist. 2. 1.

<sup>q</sup> 1 2. Tim. 2. 5.

<sup>r</sup> Caietan, in loc.

<sup>s</sup> Leuit. 16. 14.

<sup>t</sup> Num. 19 4.

<sup>u</sup> Aquin. & Garra. in loc.

<sup>x</sup> Marlorat.

<sup>y</sup> Matth. 1. 21.

<sup>z</sup> Esay 59. 19.

<sup>a</sup> Heb 7. 26.

<sup>b</sup> 2 Cor. 5. 21.

<sup>c</sup> Iohn 14. 6.

<sup>d</sup> Rom. 13. 1.

<sup>e</sup> Cant. 5. 3.

<sup>f</sup> Psal. 40. 2.

<sup>g</sup> Saluianus de gubernat Dei, lib. 4.

<sup>h</sup> Heming. postil in loc.

<sup>i</sup> Psal 89. 15.

expressly, righteousnesse and equitie is the habitation of thy seat, mercy and truth shall goe before thy face. Concerning righteousnesse, our Saviour saith here, Which of you can rebuke me of sinne? Concerning truth; If I say the truth, Why doe ye not beleue me?

{ Railing, vers. 48. Say we not well that thou art a Samaritan and hast a Denill.
Hypocrisie, vers. 52. Our father Abraham.
Sophistrie, vers 52. Construing that of death naturall, which Christ vttered of eternall.
Tyranny, vers. 59. When reason and railing faile, then they come to Carters logicke, gunpowder arguments, open violence, they tooke vp stones to cast at him.

Satan's kingdome stands vpon foure props especially :

These points are so twined and intermingled in the text, as that I cannot part them easily, yet for orders sake two lessons are more principally regardable.

1. As Christ is the true Messias sent from God; so euery one that heareth him not, is not of God.

2. That all obseruers of Christs saying are free from eternall death, and this he doth assure by a double bond, his Word, I say.

Oath, Verily, verily, I say vnto you, if a man keepe my saying, he shall neuer taste of death.

Which of you can rebuke me of sinne? The Church of Christ, My beloved is white and ruddie, the chiefest of ten thousand. <sup>1</sup> Candidus sanclitate rubicundus passione; white, for he that was without spot in his life; ruddie, for that he shed his owne blood for vs at his death, <sup>m</sup> A ruddie colour is not beautifull, except it be grounded vpon a faire white, so Christs passion had not bene an offering of a sweet saour to God, if his life first had not been candide, without sinne, <sup>n</sup> holly, blamelesse, vndefiled.

Here the Epittle and Gospell accord, our high Priest was without spot, saith Paul, who can rebuke me of sinne? saith Christ: and both are fit for passion Sunday, for all the sufferings of Christ on the Crosse, may be reduced vnto bitter words, <sup>o</sup> I am a worme and no man, a very scorne of men and outcast of the people.

wounds, <sup>p</sup> Behold and see, if there be any sorrow like to my sorrow.

This Gospell affords a taste of both, he did heare bitter words in the 48. verse, Say we, not well, that thou art a Samaritan and hast a denill? and he was like to suffer bitter wounds, in that they would haue stoned him, vers. 59.

Christ proues himselfe to be the Messias, and our high Priest of good things to come, by this infallible demonstration; which of you can rebuke me of sinne? per-aduenture some will accuse, but who can rebuke, which of you mine enemies, euen you that prse so much into my life? My conuersation is without fault, my doctrine without error, and why then admit you me not for Christ? seeing none is free from sinne, saue the Messias only; flatter not your selues in your idle conceit, either proue me to be a sinner, or acknowledge me for a Saviour, if no crime, then Christ. If I say the truth, why doe yee not beleue me? that man is worse then mad, who persecures that as false, which he knowes to be true.

All men hence may learne, Preachers especially, to frame them selues according to Christs example, ioyning integrity of life to sincerity of doctrine, that they may further the Gospell among enemies, who respect more good life then good learning; and among friends, who tolerate bad manners often for our doctrines purity: the <sup>t</sup> Priest had Vrim and Thummim in his brestplate, <sup>u</sup> so the Preacher ought to haue science and conscience; for albeit Christ alone was free from all sinne, yet such as will reach his Gospell with fruit, must be cleare from open crimes. Our Saviour saith not, (as Erasmus vpon the place) which of you can accuse? for they called him coniuurer and Samaritan: but which of you can conuince? who can proue that he doth reprove? the most heauenly Doctor is an earthly man, flesh and blood, and in many things <sup>u</sup> all of vs offend; and

<sup>k</sup> Cant. 5. 10.
<sup>l</sup> Rap. vt. lib. 6. com. in Cant.

<sup>m</sup> Vega dom. in passion.

<sup>n</sup> Heb 7. 26.

<sup>o</sup> Psal. 22. 6.

<sup>p</sup> Lam. 1. 12.

<sup>q</sup> Aco. 8a dom. de passion. cor. i.

<sup>r</sup> Luther. postil. maior. in loc.

<sup>t</sup> Leuit. 2. 8.
<sup>u</sup> Cyril. in Leuit.

<sup>v</sup> James 3. 2.

* Pſal. 143. 2.

y Num. 16. 15.

z 1 Sam. 12. 3.

a 1 Cor 4. 4.

b Hemingius in loc.

c Cap. 4. verſ. 6

d Culman con. 1. in loc.

e Ioh. 49.

f In Caluino-Turcism. conſulte li 4. c. ult. in fine
g Prefat. in Caluino Turcism.
h Lib. de Atheiſm. Proteſtant

i Preface to the conſutation of Tyndalls answer.

k L. B. of Lincolne epiſtle to the K. before the answer to a nameleſſe Catholike.

l Chryſoſ. Theophylact. luther Melanct in loc.

m Luther. loc. com. tit. Zelus n Theodoret. biſt. lib 4. cap. 17

o Vbi ſupra.

p Idem. in Gal. 2. 6.

q Answer to Hardings Preface before the defence of his challenge.

r Prefat. com. in epiſt. ad Romanos.

ſo we may be conuicted of manifold weakeneſſe, but let vs take heed of manifeſt wickedneſſe. O Lord keepe thy ſeruant from preſumptuous ſins, from crying ſin, which in any ſort may ſcandalize his holy calling. Howſoever we crie to God with <sup>r</sup> David, Enter not into iudgement with thy ſervants O Lord for in thy ſight ſhall no man living be iuſtified; yet let vs ſay with Chriſt vnto men: which of you can rebuke me of ſinne? for any groſſe fault in executing mine office. So <sup>y</sup> Moſes, I haue not taken ſo much as an aſſe from them, neither haue I hurt any of their companie. So <sup>z</sup> Samuel, Whoſe oxen haue I taken? or to whom haue I done wrong, &c. So <sup>a</sup> Paul, I know nothing by my ſelfe, to condemne my ſelfe in my Apoſtleſhip.

He that is of God heareth Gods word.] Ergo, the cauſe why ye heare not, is becauſe ye are not of God: as men, they were of God, as malicious, of the deuill. Examine thy ſelfe by this one rule, whether thou be Gods childe, or the deuills ſeruant. He that with a good will and honeſt heart heareth Gods word, hath Chriſts record that he is of God; he that heareth the word and perſecuteth it, is of the deuill: and ſo S. Iohn in his <sup>c</sup> firſt epiſtle, We are of God, he that knoweth God, heareth vs, he that is not of God, beareth vs not, hereby know we the Spirit of truth and error.

Say we not well, that thou art a Samaritan, and haſt the deuill? <sup>d</sup> Albeit you ſay who can rebuke me of ſinne? yet we ſay thou art a Samaritan, an <sup>e</sup> irreligious and vile perſon: howſoever you boaſt of the truth, we ſay, thou haſt the deuill, who is the father of lyes. It is certaine, the Iewes knew Chriſt to be no Samaritan, and that he ſpake ſuch words, and did ſuch wonders, as none could doe by the power of the deuill; and ſo ſome confeſſe, Iohn 10. 21, Theſe are not the words of one that hath a deuill; can the deuill open the eyes of the blinde?

Here then obſerue the craft of Satan, when he cannot denie the truth, he falleth to flat railing and lying: and ſuch is the praetiſe of his Miniſters and agents in all ages, as the Papiſts in our time call the ſincere profeſſion of the Goſpell, Herieſie, <sup>f</sup> Reynold and <sup>g</sup> Gifford, Turciſme, <sup>h</sup> Poſſeninus Atheiſme, Wright in his articles impudently, Proteſtants haue no faith, no religion, no Chriſt, but are meere infidels. As much is ſayd, if not more, by Sir <sup>i</sup> Tho. Moore long ſince; Tyndall hath purpoſely miſtranſlated Chriſts Goſpell, to ſet forth herieſies, as euill as the Alcoran, and idolatrie farre exceeding the ſetting up of Bel, and Baal, and Beelzebub, and all the deuills in hell: and yet the Rake-ſhame Parſons outſtrippeth all in this vncharitable courſe, ſparing in his inuectiue libels (as a <sup>k</sup> right reuerend father of our Church worthily) neither ſcepter nor ſepulchre; neither height of Soueraignty, nor depth of the graue can be free from his enraged enuy,

I haue not the Deuill] It is well obſerued by <sup>l</sup> diuers, that whereas the Iewes objected againſt him two crimes, one, that he was a Samaritan, another, that he had a deuill; he neglected the firſt concerning his perſon, and ſtands vpon that eſpecially, which touched his doctrine, I haue no deuill. I neither ſpeake nor worke by Beelzebub, but by the power of God. Hence we may learne to be zealous in the buſineſſe of God, howloever remiſſe in that which concernes our ſelues: a <sup>m</sup> Chriſtian in his loue, may reſemble the Reed, but in his faith he muſt be like the Adamant, inflexible, ſtout, immutable, willing rather to loſe his life (ſaith <sup>n</sup> Baſil) then to ſuffer any one ſyllable of Gods holy truth in the Scripture to be betrayed, vnus apex doctrine plus valet quam cælum & terra, ſaith <sup>o</sup> Luther: it is a Mathematicall point, which cannot be diuided; <sup>d</sup> albeit charity ſuffereth all things, beleueth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things, yet faith can ſuffer nothing, I deny my learning, ſayd renowned <sup>p</sup> B. Jewell, I deny my Biſhopricke, I denie mine eſtimation, I denie my name, I denie my ſelfe, only the faith of Chriſt, and truth of God, I cannot denie; with this faith or for this faith I truſt I ſhall end.

In Athens, as <sup>r</sup> Melancthon reports; euery Citizen tooke a corporall oath to maintaine the profeſſed religion after this ſort, pugnabo pro ſacris & ſolus, & ſimul cum alijs; if they were ſo zealous in idolatrous religion, how carefull ought we to be for the Goſpell, which is the power of God vnto ſaluation?

An indignitie, which only toucheth our priuate person, may be dissembled, as <sup>c</sup> Augustine replied to Petilian, possumus esse in his pariter copiosi; sed nolimus esse pariter vani; so learned <sup>e</sup> Hooker, the best answer to words of scorne and pcutlancie, is Isaacks apologie to his brother Ismael, the apologie which patience and silence make; our answer then vnto their reasons is, no, to their scoffes nothing; and yet when the slanders which light on our persons, rebound to the discredit of our profession, it behooueth vs not to be silent in answering truly, when as our aduersaries are eloquent in obiecting falsely; <sup>u</sup> Paul therefore when Festus scorned him as a mad man, answered, I am not mad, O noble Festus, but I speake the words of truth and sobernesse. And when the Primitiue Christians had bene slandered vnto the people for disturbing the State, for adulterie, murder, and other insufferable crimes, it was their vsuall custome to write apologies, and to put vp supplications vnto Princes, that they might defend themselues in open audience; so Christ here doth answer the Iewes cauill in a word, I honour my father, &c. as if he should argue thus; he that is a Samaritan & worketh by the deuill, seekes his owne praise, not Gods glory: but I honour my father, and seeke not mine owne praise: Ergo, I am no Samaritan or coniuurer, but yee rather are of the deuill, in that ye dishonour me, who honour God; and this is tortura Torti, the retorting of a poisoned weapon into the aduersaries owne brest.

Now we know that thou hast the deuill. ] <sup>x</sup> We said so before, but now we can easily proue it so; before we did only coniecture, but now we certainly know that thou hast the deuill. <sup>y</sup> Here note the desperate incorrigibilitie of such as are in a reprobate sence; as euery word of Christ is the <sup>z</sup> sauour of life vnto life to the godly; so the sauour of death vnto death to the wicked, the more they heare, the worse they are: first they thought Christ had a deuill, then they said it; last of all, which is worst of all, they knew it.

Your father Abraham was glad to see my day. ] The Iewes exceedingly boasted of the temple saying, <sup>a</sup> the temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord, this is the temple of the Lord; they did seeme to reuerence the Prophets and Patriarkes, <sup>b</sup> Abraham especially; so the Papists in our time crie, the Church, the Church, all for the mother Church, all for the Father's, all for antiquitie; but when we say to the Romanists as Christ here to the Iewes, Abraham was glad to see my day, the mother Church reioyced in old time to confesse the Gospell now preached in England, for we doe not in any point of doctrine depart further from Rome, then she hath departed from her selfe in her flourishing estate; then instantly they come to the third weapon, idle distinctions and cauills, Abraham is dead, and Abraham is not dead, <sup>c</sup> there is an idolatrie which is good, and an idolatrie which is bad; hoc in Grammar and Logicke demonstrates this thing, yet in the words of Christ, hoc est corpus meum, it doth signifie <sup>d</sup> nothing.

<sup>e</sup> The soueraigne supremacie of the Roman Bishop is the supreme difference, to which all other popish points are subordinate; <sup>f</sup> for the truest formalitie of a Papist is his vnion with the Pope; now <sup>g</sup> Romes champion is vncertaine, whether the Pope as Pope, hath power ordinarie or extraordinarie, to depose Princes after a direct or indirect manner, alwaies, or vpon some speciall occasion accidentally, so that the Catholike faith (as a learned Father of our Church hath wittily noted) is, <sup>h</sup> Credo quod Papa non ut Papa, habet aliquo quidem modo sed modo tamen indirecto, potestatem saltem quandam temporalem, sed non merè, nec absolutam, sed ad aliquid relatum, nec perpetuam, sed casualem.

I will not meddle with the <sup>i</sup> cobwebs of learning in the Schoole, which haue more wit then Art, yet more Art then vse; nor with the distorted and idle glosses of the Canonists: he that list may burthen his memorie with a shipfull of their fooleries, accuratly collected by the penner of Pseudomartyr, cap. 10.

Lastly, when all other helpes and hopes faile, they cast stones at Christ, fetching arguments from the shamblers, and concludung in ferio, destructive Doctors, who to build the Church, blow vp Common-wealths euen like rash <sup>k</sup> empiricks, they can cure no way but by letting of blood; the Spanish Inquisition is their <sup>c</sup> Contra lit. Petilian. lib. 2. cap. 92.

<sup>e</sup> Ecclesiast. politic. lib. 5 § 30.

<sup>u</sup> Acts 26. 25.

<sup>x</sup> Maldonat. in loc.

<sup>y</sup> Culman in loc. 2 2 Cor. 2. 16.

<sup>u</sup> Jerem. 7. 4.

<sup>b</sup> Campion. rat. 3.

<sup>c</sup> Gregorius de Valent. lib. 2. de idolat. cap. 7. vt

D. Reynold. de Idolat. lib. 1. cap. 1. §. 13.

<sup>d</sup> De consecrat. dist. 2. §. Turorem, glossa ibidem.

<sup>e</sup> T. II. Appendix. part. 1. pa. 2

<sup>f</sup> Ibidem pag. 8

<sup>g</sup> Bellar m. de Rom. pont. lib. 5 cap. 6.

<sup>h</sup> Tortura Torti, pag. 27.

<sup>i</sup> Aduancemēt of learning. lib. 1. pag. 20.

<sup>k</sup> Comes Northampton ad Garnet.

<sup>1</sup> Apoc 17.4.6.

<sup>m</sup> Magdeburg. cent. 7. col. 21.

* Chron. fol. 35.

Grammar, fire and fagot their Rhetoricke, Flect and fetters their Logicke, the canons roare their Musicke, poysoning their Physicke. Rome was first Lunt in blood, and now she sits in <sup>1</sup> scarlet drunken with the blood of Saints, and with the blood of the Martyrs of Iesus Christ. Mahomet, Phocas and Boniface the third, who first had the stile of vniuersall Bishop, liued all <sup>m</sup> about the same time, so that Mahometisme and Poperie and the murdering of Christian Emperors began all at once and now conioyned in one, the Pope being a baptized Mahometan, and a holy father of parricides. I conclude in the words of Languet: The Roman citie first taking her originall from a traitour to his countrie, afterward founded with murder, mischiefe and violence, hath in the maintenance thereof spilt much more blood, then it hath spent mortar in the building, and more men hath it destroyed, then there bee stones in the walls, and hath beene to the whole world a continuall vexation vntill this time, wherein her power is well abated, and is now of all people for her abomination and wickednesse hated and abhorred.

The Epistle. PHILIP 2. 5.

Let the same minde be in you that was also in Christ Iesus, &c.

THIS Epistle contains an exhortation to lowlinesse and loue, grounded vpon Christs example, who when he was Lord of all, humbled himselfe to be seruant vnto all, taking on him the shape of a seruant, when he was in the shape of God, and in all respects equall with God.

Who when he was in the shape of God.] Christ had a being before the world, though as man a beginning in the world; so <sup>n</sup> S. Iohn, In the beginning was the Word; and himselfe of himselfe, <sup>o</sup> Ere Abraham was, I am, eternally begotten of his Father as God; howsoeuer in <sup>p</sup> fulnesse of time borne of his mother as man; and to disting: ish him here from Angels essentially subsisting, our Apostle further addeth, he was in the shape of God; that is, (as <sup>q</sup> all the Docters expound it) God: for the word shape cannot be taken in this place <sup>r</sup> similitudinarie, but essentialiter, as Heb 1. 3. the very image of his substance, κατα την ομοιωσιν.

There be <sup>t</sup> many Gods in name, but Christ is God in nature; Lucifer and the Pope are Gods by robbrie, but Christ is God by right, holding it no robbrie to be equall with God; if equall, then not lesse; if with God, and in the shape of God, a distinct person from the Father.

In this one line then (as Interpreters obserue) <sup>u</sup> many, yea <sup>v</sup> most heretikes erring about the natures and person of Christ, are confuted abundantly. First, Ebion, Cerintus, Pho'ine, Paulus Samosatenus, holding that Christ had no being before he took on him the shape of a seruant. Secondly, Sophrionius, and after him Seruetus, imagining that the Word was not actually and really subsisting from all eternitie, non fuisse rem uer: subsistentem, sed decretum tantummodo in mente Dei de hoc homine creando, & sua deitate implendo. Thirdly, Carpocrates and Arrius acknowledging

<sup>n</sup> Iohn 1. 1.

<sup>o</sup> Iohn. 8. 58.

<sup>p</sup> Galat. 4. 4.

<sup>q</sup> Zanchinus in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Sarceuius in loc.

<sup>s</sup> I Cor. 8. 5.

<sup>t</sup> Theophylast. in loc.

<sup>u</sup> Zanchinus in loc.

acknowledging that Christ had another nature besides his humane, but not of the same substance with the Father; and yet the text is plaine, he was in the shape of God, and thought it no robbérie to be equall with God, \ id enim natura sumpsit, non superbia presumpsit.* As the Greeke Fathers ιουωτος, not ιουωτος, of the same not of the like nature. Fourthly, γ Noetus, Praxeas, Sabellius, affirming that there is no distinction of persons in the Trinitie. God the Sonne is equall with God the Father: ergo, God the Sonne is another person, albeit not another power, alius est non aliud; equality (saith Theophylact) is in respect of another. Fifthly, z Philoponus, Valentin, Gentilis, and other Tritheists, impiously maintaining that the three persons are three Gods essentially differing in number and nature; whereas the Catholike faith is according to this Scripture, that 2 the Godhead of the Father, of the Sonne, and of the holy Ghost is all one, the glorie equall, the maiestie coeternall.

Neserthelesse he made himselfe of no reputation.] Christ humbled himselfe, and made himselfe a seruant: Ergo, whatsoeuer he did or suffered for the redemption of the world, was voluntarie, not forced. He, that is, onely the Sonne, not the Father, against b Patrispassians; himselfe, against c Nestorius, absurdly conceiving that Christ was two persons in his two natures, one person as the Sonne of God, in the shape of God, another as the Sonne of man in the shape of a seruant and against d Euriches holding quite contrary, that Christ after his incarnation had but one nature, because but one person; he being in the shape of God tooke on him the shape of a seruant, not by confusion of substance, but by personall vnion.

Againe, this ouerthroweth e Apollinarius, who taught that Christ was incarnate by turning some part of the God head into manhood, whereas f his diuine nature was not consumed, when his humane was assumed; g Homo quippe Deo accessit, non Deus a se recessit, h homo factus naturam suscipiendo nostram, non amittendo suam; as the diuine i Poet:

Ille manet quod semper erat, quod non erat, esse incipiens.

Or as Eusebius k Emissenus in one word, verbum caro factum est, non deposita sed seposita maiestate: Christ then at the same time was both a seruant and a Lord; yea the Lord. It is not sayd here, Christ tooke on him the person of a seruant, or the place, l but the shape, that is, his whole nature, body and soule, being like vs in m all things, n excepting sinne, found as a man, in the frame of his body, forme of his minde, habit, gesture, speech, and other carriage like vnto man.

Became obedient] To his o earthly parents, and his Father in heauen; p Loe I come to doe thy will, q I haue glorified thee on earth; I haue finished the worke, which thou gauest me to doe, to the death obedient, euen the death of the crosse. Here the Gospell and Epistle meete, both are narrations of our Sauiours passion and patience, the Colloct is a brieft of the Epistle, and the Epistle an abridgement of the Gospell.

Wherefore God hath exalted him on high.] In his resurrection, ascension, session r at the right hand of the throne of maiestie, making heauen of heauens his seat, and all his enemies his s footstool.

And giuen him a name.] Sometime name signifieth in Scripture power, as t Dauid to Goliath; I come to thee in the name of the Lord of hosts: and Psal. 118 In the name of the Lord will I destroy them. In the name, u that is, through his power and helpe. So Christ had power giuen him about all powers in heauen, earth, hell, a power vspeakable, which cannot be named, as himselfe of himselfe x all power is giuen to me.

Sometime name is vsed for honour and fame, Genes. 11. 4. that we may get vs a name; Prouerb. 22. 1. A good name is to be chosen above great riches: and so CHRIST had a name which is above all names, in being the y KING and z Lord of glory. a S. Ambrose thinkes, that the Father gaue this name to CHRIST as God. b Hierome, the Greeke Scholin, Theophylact, and many moe, that he gaue this name to Christ as man. c Other, and x Aug. epist. 66*y* Idem her. 36.

z 41. Thomas I part. quæst. 31
art. 1.2 Bellarm. præ-
fat. lib. 1. de Christo.2 Athanasius in simbolo.b Augustin.

heres. 41.

c Bellarm. de Christo, lib. 3.

cap. 5. 6.

d Idem. de Christo, lib. 3, cap. 2
& 3. & Aquin.
in loc.e Augustin.

heres. 55.

f Idem epist. 66*g* Idem epist. 3.h Idem. ep. 120.
cap. 36.i Prudentius in Psycho Machia.k Hom. 2. de na-turi Christ.l Zanch. in loc.m Heb. 2. 17.n Heb. 4. 17.o I uke 2. 51.p Heb. 10. 9.q Iohn 17. 4.r Heb. 8. 1.s Psal. 110. 1.t I Sam 17. 45.u Caluin. Gene brad. Terrecremat. in loc.

Psal. 110.

v Mat. 28. 18.y Psal. 24. 7.z I Cor. 2. 3.a In loc.b In loc.c Caluin. & Zanchius.

that most fitly, conioyne both opinions, affirming that the Father gaue this name to the person of Christ God and man according to that of Peter, Acts 2.36. Let all the house of Israel know for a suretie, that God hath made him both Lord and Christ. And so much is implied in the clause following, that at the name of Iesus every knee should bow. <sup>d</sup> Christ is an appellatiue, Iesus is his proper name; now Iesus is Emmanuel, God with vs, as S. Matthew doth expound it in his Gospell; as God, then his glory was from all eternitie; but as with vs, it was in time manifested vnto vs.

Every knee should bow] For that contemptible name Iesus, as Pilat scoffingly, Iesus Nazareni Rex Iudaorum, is now so preached and praised, as that it is a name farre above all names: hence capping and kneeling in the Church at the name Iesus,<sup>e</sup> an harmelesse, yet not fruitlesse ceremonie, which may be<sup>f</sup> well vsed and not to be<sup>g</sup> misliked, as being a reuerend regard to the Sonne of God, above other messengers, although speaking as from God; and against Infidels, Iewes, Arrians, who derogate from the honour of Iesus, a respect most profitable.

Whereas it is<sup>b</sup> objected that this bowing at the name of Iesus more then at other names of God, may breed an erroneous estimation, aduancing the Sonne above the Father and holy Ghost; answer is made, that the truth of the Sonnes equality with the Father and Holy Ghost is a mysterie so hard for the wits of mortall men to rise vnto, that of all heresies in the world, that which may giue him superiority is least to be feared: for it is well<sup>i</sup> obserued, that most Heretikes haue denied the Sonne, but none the Father to be God. And therefore the condemning of this honour done to Iesus in the Church, is an argument of spight, rather than an euidence of the spirit.

Both of things in heauen, and things in earth, and things vnder the earth.] In<sup>k</sup> heauen, Angels; in earth, liuing men; vnder the earth, dead bodies; for Iesus is<sup>l</sup> Lord both of the dead, and of the quicke, and all in the last day must appeare before his seat of iudgement with bowed knees. Or as<sup>m</sup> other, Angels and Saints in heauen, men in earth, deuills in hell vnder earth. For there is a<sup>n</sup> twofold geniculation or adoring, one voluntarie, another extorted. All glorious Angels, all blessed spirits, all good men of their owne accord yeeld obedience to Christ fully, cheerefully. But the wicked man on earth, and damned fiend in hell is forced against his will to doe this dutie. So<sup>o</sup> Indas, I haue sinned in betraying the innocent blood: so P Iulian apo<sup>p</sup> ata, Vicisti Galilee: so the deuills, as S. Matthew reports in his 8. chap. vers. 29. Iesus the Sonne of God, what haue we to doe with thee? Art thou come hither to torment vs before the time? Thus as euery knee should bow, so euery knee shall bow, saith<sup>q</sup> Esay, that knee that will not out of faith, shall out of feare

In this sense, the tongues of all things in heauen, in earth, and vnder earth shall confesse that Iesus Christ is the Lord; goodmen say this on earth, and see this in heauen; in this life, <sup>r</sup> with their heart they beleue to righteousnessse, and with their mouth confesse to saluation; in the next life, they shall be<sup>t</sup> clothed in long white garments, and palmes in their hands, and they shall crye, Saluation be ascribed to him that sitteth vpon the seat of our God. The<sup>v</sup> Deuills also confesse, but tremble; reprobate men also confesse at the last day, but with horror as we read in the fifth chapter of Wisdom. Such as now<sup>u</sup> crucifie Christ againe, making a mocke of Iesus, <sup>x</sup> despising the spirit of grace, treading vnder foot the Sonne of God, and accounting his precious blood an unholy thing, shall then in all submissive manner acknowledge that Iesus Christ is the Lord, saying, <sup>y</sup> Lord when saw we thee an hungred, or a thirst, &c. But alas, this extorted confession is to their confusion: for Christ will then say, depart from me ye cursed into euerlasting fire, which is prepared for the deuill and his angels.

Vnto the praise of God the Father] I finde<sup>z</sup> two constructions of these words, in the glory, to the glory; the vulgar Latine and S. Ambrose read, in gloria Dei Patris, all tongues shall confesse that Iesus Christ is the Lord; and in the glory of God the Father, as Paul<sup>elsewhere</sup>, receined vp in glory. Christ as man had created and visible glory: but as God, infinite, vncreated, and inuisible glorie; <sup>b</sup> the inst shall

<sup>d</sup> Tertull. aduers. Praxean.

<sup>e</sup> Hooker ecclesiast. politt. lib. 5. §. 30.

<sup>f</sup> D Fulke in loc who was in his age Papistarum malleus. one that blew vp the whole Rhenish Seminarie.

<sup>g</sup> Zanchius in loc

<sup>h</sup> T. C. lib. 3.

pag. 235.

<sup>i</sup> Bellarm. lib. 1 de Christo. cap. 4 in initio.

<sup>k</sup> Theodoret. apud Zanchium in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Rom. 14. 9. 10

<sup>m</sup> Chrys. Theophylact. Gorran in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Aquin. in loc.

<sup>o</sup> Matth. 27. 4.

<sup>p</sup> Consulte Magdeburg. cent 4 col. 157. & Baron annal. tom 4 fol. 119 ex Thoro-arct. Sozomen. & alijs

<sup>q</sup> Cap. 45. 23.

<sup>r</sup> Rom. 10. 10.

<sup>s</sup> Apocal. 7. 9.

<sup>t</sup> James. 2. 19.

<sup>u</sup> Hebr. 6. 6.

<sup>v</sup> Hebr. 10. 29

<sup>w</sup> Matth. 26. 44

& Mat 7. 22.

Lord, Lord.

<sup>x</sup> Eras. Beza.

Zanch. in loc.

<sup>y</sup> 1. Tim 3. 16

<sup>z</sup> Dan. 12. 3.

shall shine as the stars for euer and euer; in what glory then is the Sunne of righteousness, euen light it selfe? Apocal. 21. 23.

Now this two-fold glory doth answer to Christs two-fold humiliation; in his birth he made himselfe of no reputation, as God he put off (as it were) his vncreated glorie, and tooke upon him the shape of a seruant; in his death as man, he did humble himselfe so farre, that he was rather a <sup>c</sup> worme then a man, a very scorne of men, and outcast of the people; but when he was exalted on high, his created glorie due to him as a man was assumed, 1. Tim. 3. 16. and his vncreated glorie proper to him as God, was againe <sup>d</sup> resumed: Ioh. 17. 5. Glorifie me, O Father, with thine owne selfe, with the glory which I had with thee before the world was; ascribe then all glory to the King of glory, for his is kingdome, power and glorie.

But our Church interprets it <sup>e</sup> better, unto the praise of God the Father. For the Father is glorified in his Sonnes glory, to whom he committed all <sup>f</sup> power and praise, they both are one; thou, o Father, art in me, and I in thee, Ioh. 17. 21. He that doth despise the Sonne, despiseth also the Father; he that doth confesse that Iesus Christ is the Lord, honoureth the Father, and if hee doe this out of faith and loue, God will <sup>g</sup> honour him; if against his will out of feare, God will be <sup>h</sup> honoured in him. Here for application let vs pray with the Church.

Almighty and euerlasting God, which of thy tender loue towards man, hast sent our Saniour Iesus Christ to take upon him our flesh, and to suffer death upon the crosse that all mankind should follow the example of his great humility; mercifully grant, that we both follow the example of his patience, and be made partakers of his resurrection, through the same Iesus Christ our Lord, Amen.

The Gospell. MATT. 26. 1.

And it came to passe when Iesus had finished all these sayings; and so forth unto the 57. vers. of the next Chapter.

I have chosen out of this long Scripture (which is indeed the Gospell of the Gospels) only two short Texts, as best fitting the time; the first preached in English at Pauls Crosse, March. 11. Anno. 1598. the second in Latine at the Bachelours commencement in Cambridge, Anno 1599. both exercises of a young Student and then no Practitioner.

The first Text is written, Matth. 26. 14. Then one of the twelue which was called Iudas Iscariot went unto the chiefe Priests, and sayd unto them, what will ye giue me, and I will deliuer him unto you?

The foure Euangelists are compared by the <sup>i</sup> Schoole-men to the foure elements Iohn, to fire, Luke to aire, Marke to water, Matthew to the earth, and that in two respects especially: first, because this Euangelist before his conuersion, was an earthly minded man, altogether occupied in worldly businesse, relonarius, sitting at the receipt of custome, Mark. 2. 14. Secondly, because Matthew doth most exactly deliuer in his Gospell how Christ tooke flesh on earth, and for this Ezech. 1. and Apoc. 4. figured by the beast, which had the face of a man, beginning his historie, The booke of the generation of Iesus Christ, &c. accurately setting downe all circumstances concerning Christs birth, as also the whole manner of his death.

He was borne at Bethlem a little village, not in Hierusalem a great citie; in an Inne, not in his fathers house; in a stinking stable, not in a stately chamber laid in a cratch, not in a cradle, that we might <sup>k</sup> learne of him to be Humble and meeke: Omnis enim huius natiuitatis schola humilitatis est officina, saith Augustin. ferm. 22. de tempore.

Our Euangelist also doth note the time when Christ was borne, to wit, in the daies of Herod in the 142. yeere of Augustus Caesar, his empire: for as man was made the <sup>m</sup> sixt day of the weeke, so redeemed in the sixt age of the world; borne when

<sup>c</sup> Psal. 22. 6.

<sup>d</sup> Hilarius apud zanchium in loc consule Cyril lib.

4. The'sauri cap. 2. & Bellarmin. de Christi lib. 1. cap. 4.

<sup>e</sup> Calvin. & Marlor. in loc.

<sup>f</sup> Iohn 5. 22. & 27.

<sup>g</sup> Iohn. 12. 26.

<sup>h</sup> Exod. 14. 18. Prouer b. 16. 4

<sup>i</sup> Anton. 1. part. serm. iit. 3. cap. 3 & Cassianus Catalog glorie mundi, part. 3. considerat. 35.

<sup>k</sup> Matth. 11. 29
<sup>l</sup> Platina in vita Christi, & Baron, annal. Tom. 1. anno. 1.

<sup>m</sup> August. lib. de quaest. 83. quaest. 58. & Flores histor. pag. 75.

<sup>a</sup> Augustine 22. serm. de temp.

<sup>o</sup> Vbi supra.

<sup>p</sup> Serm. 12.

<sup>q</sup> Contra Marcion. lib. 5.

<sup>r</sup> Epist. lib. 5.

<sup>s</sup> epist. 19.

<sup>t</sup> 1 Cor. 15. 23.

when the dayes are shortest, <sup>u</sup> ut diminuto noctis curriculo defectionem sentiant opera tenebrarum; he must increase (quoth the Baptist) I must decrease. John therefore was borne at Midsummer when the dayes grow shorter and shorter, but Christ about the Calends of January when the dayes waxe longer and longer, giuing at once both life to man and length to dayes, as <sup>o</sup> Augustine and <sup>p</sup> Ambrose note: borne in the night also, saith <sup>q</sup> Tertullian, to signifie that he should be a light to lighten the Gentiles, and all such as sit in darkenesse, and in the shadow of death.

Touching Christ's passion, our Euangelist tells vs he suffered in Golgotha, the place where Adam was buried, as <sup>r</sup> Ambrose thinkes, vpon that very day of the weeke that Adam was created and as it is probably coniectured, vpon the selfesame day of the moneth, and the same time of the day; <sup>t</sup> for as in Adam all dye, euen so in Christ shall all be made aliue.

I need not here relate how the King of glory was enuied by the Pharisies, accused by the Priests, accursed of the people, condemned by Pilat buffeted by the souldiers, mocked of the Captaines: last of all, which is worst of all, (an action which the Sunne did blush to see) crucified among theeues as a malefactor, euen by his owne Country-men, and all this sayd, and more then can be sayd, through a treacherous act of a miscreant Apostle, who played the Merchant with his Master, as you heare in the text, What will you giue me and I will deliuer him vnto you? In which bargaine and sale foure points are to be considered especially:

The	Chapmen,	}	Ecclesiasticall, chiefe Priests.
			Ciuill, Captaines, Luke, 22. 4.
			Ware, Christ , I will deliuer him , selling his Master, as if he had beene his slaue.
			Manner of bargaining; in which Interpreters obserue three grosse faults.

Name, Iudas Iscariot.

Company, one of the twelue.

Office among the twelue, marfupium habebat, Ioh. 12. 6.

First, as a Pedler hauing no certaine standing, he ran vp and downe the City, <sup>u</sup> seeking chapmen, not chapmen seeking him, as if his ware had beene so bad, that none would buy it, except he did expose it basely; for it is sayd, he went vnto the chiefe Priests.

Secondly, whereas he should haue sayd, Yee shall giue me thus much, or else yee shall goe without him, he saith only quantum dabitis? What will ye giue? <sup>v</sup> leauing it to the discretion of the buyers.

Thirdly, he did not take ready coyne for his ware, for it appeares in the text, and Theophylact obserues it, that the chiefe Priests at this time did onely promise him money, not pay; yet Iudas an vnhappy Merchant. after he had wrought journey-worke with the deuill, sold his most louing master vnto strangers his most hateful enemies; euen Iesus the worlds Sauour, in whom is all treasure, for a little siluer, and that without any good assurance, for he saith only, what will ye giue? &c.

Iudas (as Origen and Augustine note) signifieth a confessor; of which name there was another Apostle surnamed <sup>x</sup> Thaddæus, or Iudas Iacobi, Luke 6. 16. that therefore this treacherous Merchant might be distinguished from that other faithfull Apostle, he is termed Iscariot, either of the village wherein he was borne as Caictan; or of the tribe of Isachar as <sup>y</sup> Erasmus thinkes, Iscariot quasi Isachariot; or of both, as Hieron and <sup>z</sup> Isidore; for Isachar as these Doctors obserue, doth signifie wages or hire, noting vnto vs Iudas nature by Indus name, <sup>a</sup> called Iscariot of this Iscariotical feat, what will yee giue me?

Here note that some *Iudas*es are Iscariots, some confessors traytors, some Christians in shew, deuills indeed, like the dragons of Armenia, that haue cold bodies, <sup>b</sup> Seda.

<sup>c</sup> Hieron. & Rupert. in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Matth. 10. 3

<sup>e</sup> Annot. in Matth. 10.

<sup>f</sup> Origen. lib. 7. cap. 9.

<sup>g</sup> Magdeburg. cen. 1. lib. 1. col. 376. & Iansen. con. Cap. 128.

bodies, and yet cast fire out of their mouthes, or like the <sup>b</sup> sea-fish which gape so wide as if they would deuoure the whole Ocean, but when they be ript vp, and their entrals searched, no water is found in their bellies; or like <sup>c</sup> Diogenes Sinopenfis, in opinion a Stoicke, but in conuersation an epicure; like <sup>d</sup> Iulian Apostata, who writes of himselfe, that he had a busy tongue, but a lasie hand. Endeavour thou to be like that other Apostle, not onely Iudas a professor, but also Lebbaus, a praefiser, all heart, as Isidore, lib. 7. Origen. cap. 9. For Christians are not Sophisters, only learning Logicke and Rhetorike able to make them speake well, but also masters of that art, qua non verba sed facta profitetur, as <sup>e</sup> Clemens Alexandrinus excellently.

In these two Iudas is shadowed vnto vs this myserie, that in the Church visible there will alway be some bad as well as good professors; Iscariot <sup>f</sup> figureth, the one, & Lebbaus the other; the which obseruation as it doth crosse the Donatists in old time, so the Brownists in our age, a fantasticall kinde of people that runne first out of their wits, and then <sup>h</sup> out of our Church rather then they will communicate with our not Puritan congregation. I say to them as Augustine to the <sup>i</sup> Donatists, Non recedite sed accedite pacati ad plebes non nostras, sed illius cuius omnes sumus; aut si non vultis impacati, vos potius recedite à plebibus pro quibus Christus suum sanguinem sudid, quas ideo vultis vestras facere ne Christi sint; and in another place, <sup>k</sup> tu qui vento tentationis foras euolasti, quid es? triticum? non id tolleret ventus ex area; ex eo ergo, vbies, agnosce quid es. If you be Christs, heare Christs word, he bids you <sup>l</sup> suffer the tares to grow among the wheat; he tels you that he had chosen twelue, and one was a <sup>m</sup> denill; as it followeth in the text, Iudas Iscariot was one of the twelue, not a Disciple only, but an Apostle.

The name of a Priest in former ages, hath beene so venerable, not among Christians only, but among Heathens also, <sup>n</sup> that they were wont to chuse their Priestes out of their Philosophers, and their Kings out of their Priests. Among the Romans (as <sup>o</sup> Alexander ab Alexandro) none were created pontifices, but such as were of great wealth and noble blood; and it is reported by the same writer, that Alexander the great, seeing the high Priest of the Iewes in his rich attire, saluted him with all humble respect, and adored him as a god; and the <sup>p</sup> papists haue this fabulous apothegme of S. Francis, that he was wont to say, if he should meet in one way at one time a Priest and an Angell; he would first reuerence the Priest, and then salute the Angell; and therefore the ciuill lawyers acquainted with the Canons of the Church haue little law, lesse conscience, to rush into our possessions and contemne our professions, hauing our benefices, hating our habits, as if it were a discredit for their worship to ride in a Priests cloake, or put on our clericall attire, to be pointed at for an Apostle, and reputed one of the twelue.

Iudas a Preacher, a worker of miracles, an Apostle, yet for all this an Iscariot a traitor to his Master, a butcher to himselfe. This may teach the people, terrifie the Pastor; it may teach you to respect more the doctrine and commission of him that is sent, then his life and conuersation; if God speake to thee, as he did vnto Balaam by an Assie, thou must haue so much patience, saith <sup>q</sup> Luther, as to heare him: if God will haue thee saued by one who peradventure shall be damned, heare what he saith, and looke not what he doth, erret non erret ille, tu non erras, si credideris, if thy Pastor liue lewdly, that is his owne hurt; if he preach learnedly, that is thy good: take thine owne and goe thy way; Iudas himselfe preaching Christs doctrine must be heard, albeit in the end he steale from vs and betray the Gospell.

Secondly, this example may terrifie Preachers, euermore remembering that fearefull speech of our <sup>r</sup> Saviour, Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord haue we not by thy name prophesied? and by thy name cast out deuills, and by thy name done many great workes? and I will professe to them, I neuer knew you. Their booke and clergy cannot then saue them; it will be demanded of Pastors at that day,

<sup>b</sup> Bonavent. dict. salut. cap. 20.
<sup>c</sup> Theodoret. lib. 12. de curat. Græc. affect.
<sup>d</sup> Epist. Libanio.

<sup>e</sup> Strom. 1.

<sup>f</sup> Augustin in Psalm. 108.

<sup>g</sup> Origen. hom.

<sup>h</sup> 35. in Matth.

<sup>i</sup> Art. 32. of their confess.

printed anno

1597.

<sup>j</sup> Epist. 1. 66.

<sup>k</sup> In Esal. 36.

circa finem.

<sup>l</sup> Matth. 13. 30.

<sup>m</sup> Iohn. 6. 70.

<sup>n</sup> Plato in politici, & Isidor. lib

7. origin.

cap. 12.

<sup>o</sup> Lib. 2. cap. 8.

<sup>p</sup> Cassaneus catalog. part. 4. considerat. 4.

<sup>q</sup> Loc. com. tit. de ministerio verbi.

<sup>r</sup> Matth. 7. 22.

<sup>s</sup> Non

Bernard.

<sup>f</sup> Non quid legerint, sed quid egerint, non modo quid dixerint, sed quomodo vixerint; and therefore if thou beest an Apostle, labour to be like thy matter Christ, who did first doe, then teach, Acts 1. 1. Like Basil, of whom Gregorie Nazanzan, that he did thunder in his doctrine, and lighten in his conuersion.

But Iudas was not an ordinarie Preacher only, but one of the twelue. Now why Christ should chuse twelue rather than another number, <sup>t</sup> aly atq; alij aliud atq; aliud opinari, so many men, so many mindes; and yet all in this one point agree. that the number is mysticall, and therefore <sup>u</sup> some thinke Christ in this number alluded vnto the twelue sonnes of Iacob, Gen. 49. other to the twelue fountaines of water, which the children of Israel found in Elim, Num. 33. the twelue wels are the twelue Apostles, the seuentie Palme trees, are the seuentie Disciples, saith S. Hierome; other to the twelue pretious stones commanded to be set in Aarons garment, Exod. 28. other to the twelue Princes chosen out of the tribes of Israel, Iosua 3. other to the twelue stones Iosua tooke out of Iordan, and pitched in Gilgal, Iosua 4. <sup>x</sup> the twelue stones Iosuah put in Iordan were a type of the twelue Patriarkes, and the twelue stones he tooke out of Iordan prefigured the twelue Apostles: other resemblances as vulgar I omit, and come neerer the text.

It was an especiall fauour of Christ to number Iudas among the twelue, whom he had chosen out of the whole world to be his dearest friends, and greatest followers in his life, as also to be the trumpeters of his Gospell and glory after his death. It was in him an honourable calling on earth, as that the Schoolemen are much perplexed about their precedence in heauen; so that the higher Iscariot was in place, the greater was his fall, the fouler his fault; it doth <sup>y</sup> aggrauate his villanie much, in that an Apostle was an apostata.

Secondly, note that in euery order some are out of order, in Abrahams house, Isacks familie, Dauids court, and Christs owne familie, some euill, some deuil: if any should demand why Christ foreseeing the treason of Iudas chose him, and all this while suffered him being chosen? answer is made by <sup>z</sup> S. Ambrose, to teach vs patience, that when we bee betrayed even of our owne followers and nearest acquaintance, to beare it, and forbear them moderately, blessing them that cursed vs, Matth. 5. 44.

Lastly, Iudas is described by his office, namely that he had the bag. Ioh. 12. 6. here begins all the mischief, Iudas being burser shunts himselfe into his purse, and becomes a slaue to a few peeces of siluer his owne prisoners; for as Ambrose speaks of the drunkard, ebriosus cum absorbet vinum, absorbetur a vino: so Gregorie the great of a couetous caitiue, tenendo diuitias, tenetur a diuitijs; & dum vult esse prado fit prada, saith <sup>a</sup> Augustine; it was easier for a Camell to passe through the eye of a needle, then for Iudas (as it were coniuered into the circle of his purse) to get out againe. He now thinks of gold when he is awake, and dreames of gold, when he is a sleepe; he could not see so much as a box of oyntment, but he must needs be fingering of it, the smell of oyntment was sweet, but the smell of gaine more sweet; and therefore being exceedingly grieved, as a foolish <sup>b</sup> hunter for leising that prey which he neuer had, instantly to <sup>c</sup> recouer that dammage, went to the chiefe Priests, and sayd, what will ye giue me and I will deliuer him vnto you.

Here then we see that to be true, which because the Scripture saith it, cannot be false, that <sup>d</sup> couetousnesse is the root of all euill, the very <sup>e</sup> metropolis of all villanie; euery man hath one fault or other, but the couetous wretch hath seuen, he is an index or opitome, rather indeed a commentarie vpon all the deadly sinnes; of all Christs Apostles, he that bare the bag betrayed him.

In a mysticall sense, <sup>f</sup> whosoeuer esteemeth his goods more then his Gospell, is a Iudas; an heretike making <sup>g</sup> merchandize of the word, is a Iudas; a witnesse or a Iudge that sels the truth in place of iustice, can be no better then Iudas, for Christ is <sup>h</sup> truth; and is not (I pray you) Christ bought and sold, when Balaam is the Bishop, Iudas the Patron, Simon Magus the Priest? but the <sup>i</sup> Pope is the greatest

<sup>t</sup> August. de ciuit. dei, lib. 8. cap. 3.

<sup>u</sup> Consule Cassian catalog. part. 3. considerat. 29.

<sup>x</sup> August. serm. 106. de tempore

<sup>y</sup> Chrysost. Maldonat. lanfen. in luc.

<sup>z</sup> In 6. Luc.

<sup>a</sup> In Psal. 38.

<sup>b</sup> Ambros. ser. 33

<sup>c</sup> Ludolphus de vita Christi, part. 2. cap. 51.

<sup>d</sup> 1 Tim 6 10

<sup>e</sup> Celsus Calcag. in sent. moralibus.

<sup>f</sup> Origen apud Thom. in loc.

<sup>g</sup> 2 Cor. 2. 17.

<sup>h</sup> Iohn. 14. 6.

<sup>i</sup> Lu her. loc. com. tit. de Anti-christo.

greatest Iscariot of all, worse then Iudas in some respect, for he sold Christ but once, and he thought that once too much, but Iudas of Rome selleth daily pardons and indulgences, crucis, altaria, Christum, Christs crosse, Christs blood Christs selfe, and yet is not a whit ashamed of this holy merchandize, such an horrible crime, that it made <sup>k</sup> Aneas Silvius (who after his Priesthood was alway great of the Popedome) to whet notwithstanding both tongue and pen against this *Iscariot*icall legerdemaine.

If there were no chapmen, there would be no merchants; I come therefore now to those who bought Christ, sayd in my text to be chiefe Priests, and they were Christs chiefe enemies, able to doe wrong in regard of their might, and willing to doe wrong in regard of their malice, the which amplyfieth exceedingly Iudas sine, who cared not what became of his master, so he might have a little mony, deliivering vp a most innocent Lambe into the iawes of rauening wolues. In the person of these Priests, obserue that sometime they make merchandize of Christ, which are promoted to the chiefe places in the Church, herein resembling the Wolfe, who suckes the sheepe when he is little, but being growne great denoures him, as the Poet wittily :

Nutritus per me, tandem fera sariet in me.

It is added in the Gospell of S. Luke, chap. 22. 4. that Iudas communed also with the Captaines about this bargaine, the word is επιστατοι, which Hierome translates magistratus, the translator of the Syriacke copie, magistri militie; Tremelius, principes exercitus templi, for they were a select band to defend the Temple, perfecti Templo tuendo, saith <sup>l</sup> Erasmus, or as <sup>m</sup> Theophylact, overseers of the building, or censores, they that should see good order kept in the Church, or those whom the Romans appointed to keepe the seditious people in awe; whatsoever was their office in particular, it should seeme they were defenders and protectors of the Church, and yet they be most ready to crucifie Christ the head of the Church.

I feare some Patrons of our Temples in England resemble these guardians of Hierusalem: if it be not so, Iudas is to blame for communing so much about the selling of Christ with them; if it be so, let them remember how these Captaines and high Priests were destroyed, and that ruine is the end of sacriledge. The Eagle stole a peece of meat from the altar, but with the meat she carried away a coale which set her nest on fire. Read the Cronicles, examine histories, and shew me but one Church robbers heire that thriued vnto the third generation; for where there is gloria patri, without a sicut in principio, there cannot be gloria filio nunc & in secula.

Buy the truth (saith <sup>n</sup> Salomon) but sell it not; if these chapmen had bought Christ to possesse him as their owne, they should haue made the best purchase that euer was in the world, to buy him who <sup>o</sup> bought them. But they bought Christ to sell him againe, to mocke him, to buffet him, to spit on him, in fine to crucifie him; and so we that are true belecuers haue gotten all the gaines and benefit of their bargaine. <sup>p</sup> Exulta Christiane, nam in commercio inimicorum tuorum vicisti; quod Iudas vendidit, & Iudas emit, hoc tu acquisisti; noster enim Christus, non Iudeorum, qui eum emerunt.

The ware sold is Christ, I will deliuer him: <sup>q</sup> he saith not, I will deliuer Iesus; for he now began to loath exceedingly that sweet name, but I will deliuer him, eum tradam, in which one fact hee committed three foule faults, hee betrayed Christ Iesus a man, Christ Iesus his Master, Christ Iesus his Maker, like a ranke Papist he put his God in his purse, the first is murder, the second treason, the third sacriledge; murder is a crying sinne, treason a roaring sinne: sacriledge a thundring sinne: yet Iudas after he had opened a doore to <sup>r</sup> Satan, and let him enter into his discontented soule, Iudas I say; leauing Christ and his good company, to walke in the councell of the vngoodly, to stand in the way of sinners, and sit in the seat of the scornfull, at last grew to this heigl<sup>d</sup> of impietic, to betray an innocent

<sup>k</sup> Epist. Icani Perigallo. sordida benignitas vti Budens lib. 5. de asse.

<sup>l</sup> Annot. in Luc. 22.
<sup>m</sup> In Luc. 22.

<sup>n</sup> Prou. 23. 23.

<sup>o</sup> 1 Cor. 7. 23.

<sup>p</sup> Rabanus apud Ludolphum de vita christi, part. 2. cap. 52. Euthymius in loc.

<sup>q</sup> Ioha 13. 27.

innocent man, and as much as in him lay to marre his Maker, and destroy his Sauiour, and therefore let vs pray with the Church.

Almighty God, which doest see that we haue no power of our selues to helpe our selues; keepe thou vs both outwardly in our bodies, and inwardly in our soules, that we may be defended from all aduersities which may happen to the body, and from all euill thoughts, which may assault and hurt the soule, through Iesus Christ, &c.

The second text chosen out of this Gospell is written,

MATTH. 26. 40.

Tunc venit ad Discipulos, & reperit eos dormientes, & dicit Petro Itane non potuistis vnā horam vigilare mecum? aut vt est apud Marcum, cap. 14. vers. 37. Simon dormis?

Vetus querela est, omnium Apostolorum sensu, & orthodoxorum patrum consensu suffragante, multos olim à philosophis multa verè de Deo vero disputasse; Christi vero scholam vnicum salutaris scientiæ gymnasium in tanto veritatis lumine, nunquam (vt aiunt) à limine salutasse; Christus enim (authore Paulo) Iudæis scandalum, Græcis stultitia, reliquis huius seculi sapientibus offendiculum: hunc magnus Plato nesciuit, eloquens Demosthenes ignorauit; nonnulla, fateor, in profundo latitantia, tanto excellentes ingenio, flagrantibus studio, abundantes otio feliciter admodum inuestigauerunt: latuit autem eos omnino ad cælum via; latuisset & nos, nisi venisset ad nos: piger viator (inquit Augustinus) venire volebas ad viam, ad te venit ergo via, ecce rex tuus venit tibi, Zach. 9. 9. impotens viator ad viam tendere non valebas, nec opibus, nec operibus, nec operâ: præuenit itaq; Christus, & errantem viatorem inuenit, ego sum via, veritas, & vita, vt sic ad illum per illum tandem aliquando perueniamus.

Myſterium hercle (Bernardo iudice) singulariter mirabile & mirabiliter singularare, velle Deum damnare iustum vt seruaret iniquum, mulctare medicum vt sanaret agrotum, tradere filium vt liberet seruum: sol ad hoc paulo verecundior obscuratur, terra mouetur, velum templi finditur, ipsi mortui sine sensu sentiunt tamen ad hoc spectaculum, è sepulchris egrediendum, addo, sed è contextu, dura scinduntur petra, Petrus interim vel lapide magis, dum totus hic actus tragicè perageretur, sine metu, forsitan etiam sine motu altè dormitaret. O mentes amentes, animi sine animo! solus enim compatitur, pro quo solo Dominus patitur, Simon dormis?

Isariotes familiaris amicum, discipulus magistrum, seruus Dominum, homo Deum, creatura sui fabricatorem vendidit, vilis vendidit, vilissime vendidit, vilibus vendidit, infelix (inquit Hieronymus) mercator Iudas: dici non potest, etiamsi diceretur, quomodo Iudeus, Iudas, populus, Ecclesiastici, Ciuiles, Pharisei, Sadducei, in alijs alijs atq; alij aliud atq; aliud opinati, in hoc autem omnes & singuli vno non ore modo sed pectore consentiunt, vt vita Dominum crudelissime trucidarent. Hac & Simoni sapius insurrexerat, reliquis etiam aperte prædixerat, venit, tamen reperitque eos dormientes, & dicit Petro, Simon dormis?

Scite, Chrysostomus in Mat. nec non eius assecla Theophylactus in Marcum, omnes inuenisse Christum dormientes Apostolos, vnicum autem increpasse Simonem nam vtrunque Lucas habeat quid dormitis? & Mat. non potuistis vigilare? Marcus tamen in singulari, Simon dormis tu? non potuisti vna hora vigilare mecum? Ac si diceret (vt elegantissime paraphrastes Erasmus) sicine, qui modo iactabas commoriturum te mecum, Luc. 22. animamq; pro me positurum. Ioan. 13. adeo nunc indulges genio, vt nequeas, qui tam fortis pollicitus es, non mille dico aut centum, non viginti, sed vnā, non annum, aut mensem, aut septimanam, aut diem aut totam noctem, sed horam: non pugnare, sed vigilare mecum? arguens illius insignem Collect. 2.

Sunday in Lent.

1 Cor. 1. 23.

* Hierom epist.
Paulino tom. 3.
pag. 6.
August. Enchirid.
cap. 9.
Traſ. de Epic.
& Stoic. cap. ult.
Pelican in.
Matth. 21.

2 Psal. 55. 14.

2 In Mat. 26.

b Hom. 84. in Matth

c Cap. 14.

d Cap. 22. 46.

insignem planeq; supinam negligentiam, tum à persona torpentis dicit Petro, tum à notatione nominis, Simon, tum à circumstantiâ temporis in presenti dormis?

Cum enim trinominis sit Apostolus iste (testibus Evangelicis) Petrus, Cephas, Simon, animaduertendum est (quod & observauit haud abs re Simon, ille de Callia) Christum in contextu non Cepham, aut Petrum, sed Simonem appellasse, Simon dormis? Simon enim (ut & Isidorus interpretatur) est obediens, perinde ac si Petrum ad hunc modum affatus esset: Simon Bar-ionæ non numinis modo mei, sed nominis etiam tui nimium obliuisceris; neq; enim Simon es, sed potius alter Dormi-securus; qui, (postquam ipse toties & tantopere vigilandum esse monuerim, etiam nunc cum imprimis oculatum esse oportuit) adeo strenue stertis, ut non solum mortuus, sed somno sepultus esse videaris.

Somnus hercule vel dicente philosopho, vel experientiâ docente, non humana solum naturæ conueniens, sed omni animalculo longè necessarius: aquatilia ipsa quicquæ cernuntur placidâ, neq; aliud quam caudas mouentia, & ad iumultum aliquem expansentia, pisces insuper, utpote delphini, stertentes audiuntur: insecta quoq; dormire silentia apparet, quia ne luminibus admotis excruciantur, uti confidentissimè Plin. hist. lib. 10. cap. 75.. Salse profecto, & false tamen Ouidius in Philomela de Philomela, tu cantare simul nocte dieque potes; & historica magis quam iustificans est f. Æliani fides qui quidem in eâ fuit hæres, ut lusciniam expertem somni crederet; ὡς ἔστιν enim quasi ἡ ἀνομιὰ ἢ ἡ ἀνομία ἢ ἡ ἀνομία.

¶ Pax animi, quem cura fugit, qui corpora duris
Fessa ministerijs mulcet reparatque labori.

Vnde<sup>h</sup> Pythagoræ i lectum ingredientis ad tyram solebant canere, quo citius & blandius obdormirent, ait orator Tusculan. 5. dormiuit itaque Samuel vsq; mane 1. Sam. 3. & Dominus cum eo dormiuit. Vrius ante portam regis domus, & ob id a Spiritu Sancto<sup>l</sup> commendatur, Dormiuit ipse Christus in nauiculâ, Matth. 8. In pace dormiam & requiescam, inquit David Psal. 4. vers. 9. Sapius antea dormierat Petrus, nec ob hoc reprehensum in Euangelio legimus, dormierat uidem postea inter duos milites & angelus deduxit de carcere, Actuum 12. 7.

Nunc autem etiam post epulas, vino repletus, itinere defessus, præ tristitia somnolentus, mediâ nocte, sub aperto Ioue, sedens non ambulans, quæ certe omnia (sicuti luculenter annotarunt interpretes) valde sunt ὑπνωτικὰ; id est, ut verbo utar<sup>k</sup> Virgiliano, suadentia somnos; soporatus autem a Christo perstringitur, Simon dormis?

Notior est responsio quam repeti debeat, vercor quam negari possit, cuiq; suum tempus, sua tempestas, (inquit<sup>l</sup> Ecclesiastes) dabile est otium, aliquando laudabile, quo corpus alitur, animus quoque pascitur, ut loquitur Ouidius: alternâ requie frui licet, imo decet, sed distingue tempora, & conuenient omnia, Simon dormis? etiam ipsissimâ horâ, in quâ, sicut optime poeta, certe non poeta:

Pro seruis Dominus moritur, pro fontibus insons,
Pro ægroto medicus, pro grege pastor obit,
Pro populo rex mactatur, pro milite Ductor,
Pro opere ipse opifex, pro homine ipse Deus.

Si bona suscepimus de manu Dei (ait<sup>m</sup> Iob) mala cur non sustineamus? & dissipulante Paulo posterioris ad Corinthios primo, qui consolationis particeps esse capit, sit & passionis socius. Christus autem arduum nihil aut difficile Simoni mandauerat, sed vnâ tantum horam vigilare, vnâ horam, ecce breuitatem; vigilare, ecce facilitatem, nec exponi ludibrio, neque compedibus vinciri, neque fustibus cedi, neque dura verba, neque duriora verbera perpeti (licet hæc omnia Petrus irarum fluctuans æstu confidenter antea, romiserat) sed expectare tantum & spectare modo dum crucifigeretur in cruce, ut ita figeretur in corde.

In hoc itaq; tam breui sermone duo præ cæteris illustranda: } Misericordia Christi } Socordia Petri.

Misericordia Domini tum in faciendo tum in patiendo cernitur.

Socordia

<sup>c</sup> Origen. lib 7. cap. 9.

* Si intelligat sine intermissis cantare cum Plin. li. 10. ca. 29
<sup>f</sup> De variis lib. li. 12. ex Hesiodo
<sup>g</sup> Ouid. Met.

<sup>h</sup> Quintilian. lib. 9. cap. 4.

<sup>i</sup> 2. Sam. 11.

<sup>k</sup> Ænead. lib. 2.

<sup>l</sup> Cap. 3. 1.

<sup>m</sup> Iob. 2. 20.

Socordia Petri vel omittendo quod agendum, non potuisti vigilare? vel agendo quod omittendum, Simon dormis?

De quibus dum ego pro eâ, quâ sum dicendi, facultate perorauero, vos quaeso pro eâ quâ soletis esse, audiendi facilitate, sicut incepistis humaniter attenditote. Orat, visitat, instruit, increpat Apostolos Dominus sine quo nihil omnino poterant; gratiâ enim Dei sumus quicquid sumus. Omnis aëlio salutaris vel est cordis, quæ gratia infusa; vel oris, quæ gratia effusa; vel operis, quæ gratia diffusa. <sup>n</sup> Operans gratia preparat voluntatem, ut bona velimus, cooperans adiuuat, ne frustra velimus. Itinera mea dirige, dicit propheta David, Psal. 119. non ait itinera mea dirigo; precatur, non pollicetur; confitetur, non profitetur, optat plenissime libertatem, non inactat propriam potestatem, ut ad Hilarium <sup>o</sup> Augustinus. Ter orauit Christus ut patet ex hoc capitulo, Quare ter, non bis, aut semel, aut quater? uti tribus hisce vicibus ostenderet non solum orationem ad tres personas, Patrem, Filium, & Spiritum Sanctum, esse dirigendum, sed a peccatis præteritis veniam, a presentibus malis tutelam, a futuris periculis cautelam assidue postulandum annotat P. Aquinas in Mat. 26. & Hieronymus in hunc ipsum locum Marci; vigilandum sedulo, orandum seridè, ne nos intremus in tentationem, nam si Christus gratiam non concesserit, prodit Indus, si paululum discesserit, dormit Petrus, Simon dormis?

Christus itaque padagogus incomparabiliter instructissimus, uti totis voluminibus acutè disputat Clemens Alexandrinus, & animarum inquit <sup>9</sup> Petrus <sup>42</sup> <sup>200</sup> <sup>100</sup> pro salute suorum orat feruenter, visitat frequenter, diligenter instruit verbo vigilate & orate, astruit exemplo qui tota nocte totus in vigilijs, oratione tandem & ratione finit a procedit ad elenchum non sophisticum, sed amoris argumentum, Simon dormis?

Doctores in Israel, aut Episcopi in ecclesia, aut Praefectus in Academia? tu quoque fac simile; ora visita, pasce verbo, vitâ, dirige, corrige. Orant hodie multi, quid enim nisi vota supersunt? visitant etiam aliquando, non ter in una nocte, sed in triennio (semel, aut forte per vicarios bis in anno; pascunt itidem ipsi sed raro, nam hoc ab alijs merito poscunt, veniunt tamen & inueniunt Apostolos misere torpentes, & quo seniores eo seiores: verum si profecerit Petrus, quis ei dixerit, Beatus es Simon bar-Iona; si defecerit, quis cum Christo, Simon dormis? Simulac de pecunia transactum est actum est illicet, de decalogo vix decalogus, de simbolo fortasse magis solliciti, quod postquam persoluerit, exeat si velit, Petrus post cibum etiam ad dormiendum, gratia conceditur libere. Verbo dicam, ignoscite verbo; quemadmodum in libamentis olim dicere solebant, quis pres est? & respondabant per <sup>de quibus</sup> presentes, multique bonique cum essent <sup>οι αληθινοι βαροι</sup>: ita licet in villis multa male, satis erit in billis legisse omnia bene. Date, precor, veniam iuridicæ dielioni, quicumque enim serui sunt verborum, proditores sunt rerum; rectissime dictum a Galeno, cum capit <sup>δ' επιμεινα</sup> <sup>7</sup> <sup>οινοματων</sup>, cepit etiam <sup>αμειλιτα</sup> <sup>7</sup> <sup>α παρματων</sup> <sup>7</sup> <sup>α αληθειαι</sup>.

Si quis autem inter vos (humanissimi viri) me parum honorifice de clarissimis huius regni praesulibus loquentum existimet, quorum ego & semper fui & nunc sum, & dum spiritus hic artus, & Spiritus ille Dei regis actus semper ero (si non idoneus, beneuolus tamen buccinatus) intelligat velim hæc omnia de pontificis potius intelligi, quorum caput (ut non inscite Flaccus Illyricus) Papa-Cæsar, non tam pontifex quam pompifex, ut appellat Berengarius, neque basilicus modo sed (ut Lutherus) ecclesie basiliscus, visitat procul dubio sepe suos, non ut instruat, sed ut destruat, cuius (ut olim sanctissimus pater Augustinus pie conquestus est, non morum sed nummorum visitatio; discipulos reperit suos vel nihil agentes, quales sunt (ut Erasmus loquitur) ventricole monachi; vel aliud agentes, quales (ut Illyricus) animo sublimipeda Cardinales simul ac aulicoepiscopi; vel male agentes, quales (ut Budæus) misopatrides, factiosi Iesuita, flagellareipublica, flabella seditionis, qui non dormiant, semniant tamen & vigilantes somniant, sed

Somnia non cures, quia fallunt plurima plures.

Si quid a nostratibus episcopi integerrimis omniumq; longe doctissimis peccatum fiet, ut homines sunt & labi possunt, quandoq; bonus dormitat Homerus, & aliquando sanctus dormit Petrus; id ego non tam illorum incuriâ prætermissum, quam officiariorum & temporum iniuria commissum esse dixerim.

Queritur

<sup>n</sup> Lombard. 2.
sent. 26. dist.

<sup>o</sup> Epist. 89,
quæst. 2.

<sup>p</sup> Ex Robart.

<sup>9</sup> Epist. 5. 4.

<sup>r</sup> Praefat. sent. 10
<sup>s</sup> Costerus in præfat. de moribus heretic. & Ecllarmin præfat. in Pont.
<sup>t</sup> Lib. 5. de affe.

Quæritur hodie populus fortasse cleromastix, sicut antea maiores conquesti sunt, & uenatorum & qui nascentur ab illis postea quærentur, Anglicanos presules basilicæ rimium vivere, in altâ sede altum sapere, ambulare tantum in magnis & pontificalibus, inferiores ministros negligere, nobilissimos proceres nullo in pretio habere, rudiores irridendos exponere, laicos omnes ceu lapides sub pedibus conculcare: sed quemadmodum cum Anastasius Pontifex Romanus mercede scycophantas adolescentulos conduxisset, qui de stupro Macedonium accusarent, ille in iudicio subductâ tunicâ virilibus se carere ostendit: ita cum accusantur in Anglia Prælati, quod sint καταυρισθῆναι cum Macedonio; prob dolor; ostendere possunt se carere viribus. Quicquid id est quod male est, pia misericordia erit, & beata miseria vitij eorum tribulari non implicari, merere non herere, dolore contrahi, non amore attrahi, sicut scripsit ad Sebastianum Augustinus; monendi sunt ut saniores, obsecrandi ut seniores, ait Apostolus prioris ad Timotheum 5, vitia procul dubio manibus pedibusq; fugienda, sed nomina omnis officiorum genere cobonestanda.

Neque enim silentio prætereundum autumo, quod Dominus hic ter orauit & ter visitauerit, sæpius etiam admonuerit, semel autem increpauerit: in illo satis opinor, intellexistis misericordiam planè singularem in faciendo: in hoc considerate maiorem in patiando, qui discipulos toties excitatos, monitos munitos, cum apprimè vigilantes oportuit, tanta lenitate tam crasse negligentes in tuetur: neq; lapides loquuntur, neq; tonitrua fundit, neque verbera minatur, sed verba tantum & ea paucissima, Simon dormis?

Quo quidem exemplo docemur (ut & Interpretes haud obscure significarunt) infirmitatem fratrum boni consulendam, interea tamen castigandam, ut & ipsi eam agnoscant & aliq; ignoscant. Nouit Christus, qui nouit omnia, Simonis infirmitatem, obijcit tamen necnon opprobrat ei, quo modestior in promissis & cautior in ommissis esse possit, Simon dormis? Hactenus de misericordia Christi: nunc si per vos liceat, adijciemus pauca de fœcordia Petri.

Mutato autem nomine de nobis narratur fabula, atque nisi caueamus istac in nos cudetur faba: cantant enim (ut in re dissimili dixit Augustinus) & in montibus pastores, & in theatris poetae, & indocti in circulis, & docti in bibliothecis, & magistri in scholis, & antistites in sacris locis, & in orbe terrarum genus humanum, in agris (vti Ciprianus agricolam deficere, in mari nautam, in castris militem, innocentiæ in foro, iusticiam in iudicio, in amicitijs concordiam, in artibus peritiæ, in moribus disciplinam, regnare nequitiam, dominare pecuniam, mundum in maligne positum, omni vitiorum cœno volutare, Christum à blasphemis in verbis, ab hereticis in scriptis à tyrannis in factis iterum iterum crucifigi, adeo manifestum est ut nulla doctorum paucitas, nulla iudiciorum turba dissentiat.

At nos interea (viri fratres) in baptismo tam multa, tam magna cum Petro, Saluatori Christo polliciti, non aureos modo montes, sed cœlestes planè mentes, ita nimio sanguine & carne quasi luto inuoluti, nil nisi terram in terrâ cogitamus.

In aulâ, qui corruptior moribus & corrupentior muneribus beator, ut autumat in Policratico Sarisburiensis, satis eruditus in aulicacademia, docente Budæo, qui tria illa verba fari poterit, do, dico, addico. Menippus adolescens cum apud Hesiodum multa deorum scelera legisset, ea valdè honesta credidit. Idem tu regum flagitia videns inquit Æneas Siluius, in curiâ siquidem (quod aliquando Bernardus Eugenio) plures defecisse bonos quam profecisse malos probauimus. Exeat aulâ qui vult esse pius. O me caula prius quàm nutriet aula prophetam; s per quot enim pericula peruenitur ad grandius periculum, hos enim ipsos, quos beavit perdidit.

In bello quid bellum? olim castra quasi casta dixit Isidorus, quia castraretur in ijs libido, sed hodie militat omnis amans, habet & sua castra cupido. Impurus Turca qui contra & ante naturam libidine sauit, in castris ut cautè ita castè degit, vitia sua domi deponit. Assumit Christianus, adest, inquit ille granior turba meretricum quàm militum.

In Academia, verè sapit, qui sibi sapit, non tam quidam quam quidam, paruum magis quàm artium studiosi, duæ sunt pestes Academiae desidia & dissidia, vel enim non attendunt otiosi, vel contra tendunt factiosi.

<sup>a</sup> Magdeburg. cent. 6. col. 657

<sup>x</sup> Epist. 145.

<sup>7</sup> Caluis. & Musculus in Matth. 26.

<sup>z</sup> De duabus animabus contra Manicheos, Cap. 21.

<sup>a</sup> 1 Epist. Ioan. 5. 19.

<sup>b</sup> Lib 5. de affe

<sup>c</sup> Lib. de miseria curialium.

<sup>d</sup> De considerat lib. 4.

<sup>e</sup> Lucan de bello riuili, lib 8.

<sup>f</sup> Maenius loc. com.

<sup>g</sup> Augustin. confess lib. 3. cap. 6

<sup>h</sup> Lipsius lib. 5. dialog. 13. de militia

<sup>i</sup> Barthol. Geor. gin. de moribus Turcarum.

In Ecclesia sufficit ad meritum scire non sufficere merita, satis erit tibi, si satis modo; verum si quod subintelligitur desit, desiderantur nonnulla; vis habere beneficium? da beneficium, abundantanti danti dabitur.

<sup>k</sup> Audito nummo, quasi quodam principe summo Resibunt valux, nihil auditur nisi salue.
Sed pauper eris semper, si pauper es Æmiliane.
Si nihil attuleris, ibis Homere foras.

In Ciuitate discordie ciuiles, veriùs (inquit <sup>l</sup> Augustinus) inciuiles. Legulea lingua venalis magnum velligal, ait <sup>m</sup> Synesius, ideòq; si credamus <sup>n</sup> Innocentio Papa, iustitia non venit nisi prouenit; neq; datur, nisi vendatur; ut quod aliquando Sarisburiensis in Policratice de aleatore, idem ego de iuridico litigatore, quanto doctior in arte, tanto nequior in vita; siquidem peccata populi comedit, & vestitur ijs, exultat in pessimis & letatur cum mala sunt vixque tenet lachrymas cum nil lacrymabile cernit.

Rue eo, illic Enclionem video & rideo, qui non tam aruum quàm aurum colit; infelix Corydon, qui dum captat aurum captiuat animum, quid plura! fremuerunt, vociferante <sup>o</sup> propheta, Gentes, & populi meditati sunt inania, astiterunt reges terræ & principes conuenèrunt in vnum aduersus Dominum & eius Christum. Nos autem otio abutentes & literis inter tot acerbas Christi simulac Christianorum afflictiones in utramq; quod dicitur aurem obdormimus & (ut videtur) de vera religione tantummodo somniamus.

<sup>p</sup> Surge tandem qui dormis, & exurge. Dormitum est satis, quod reliquum est vita, scilicet vnâ horâ, cum Christo vigila, contra carnem qua Iudæa est, contra mundum qui Pharisæus est, contra Diabolum, qui quidem alter Herodes est. Caro proditor Indus est, & inimicus familiaris habitans non procul sed propè, non exterius sed interius, cuius illecebra nunquam fugantur nisi cum fugiuntur, nunquam macerantur nisi cum macerantur; quantum enim magis occupatum inueniunt, tanto minus occupant. Mundus quasi Pharisæus periculosior est blandus quàm molestus, promittit bona, premitit suauia; sed suauis erit huius seculi carere suauitatibus; transit enim mundus & concupiscentia eius, breues in hac vita delicia longam fabricant miseriarum catenam in futurâ.

Diabolus Herodes est, quo non astutior aut crudelior alter; scite <sup>r</sup> Cyprianus, si non peritum, aut minus paratum inuenerit Christi militem, circumuenit nescium, fallit incantum, decipit imperitum, saepe facit opus quod non est suum, ut uia faciat opus quod est suum callidus iniquitatis magister, uti Theodoretus <sup>o</sup> Θρασύτιμος septimo.

Hostes Christi Iudas, Pharisæus, Herodes; hostes tui caro, mundus, Satan; ut Christum malè irascant illi, ut te indulgent isti surgunt de nocte; tu proinde lecto neglecto, mollem discute somnum, & ut tu ipsum serues, expergiscere. Exurge tu, ne insurgant illi; <sup>s</sup> varijs eorum temptationibus occupationum tuarum clypeos opponas, ne forsitan inexpectatus veniat Christus, & inueniat desidem, dicatq; tibi quod dixit Petro, Simon dormis?

Quod dixi, mutato, potius mutuato nomine de nobis textitur historia; pleriq; enim alma matris Academia filij aut sumus, aut erimus, aut saltem haberi volumus Petri successores. attamen in <sup>t</sup> veritatis contubernio nati, vberibus sapientie lactati, in gremio ut ita dicam doctrinae cælestis educati, sed huius seculi vel diuitijs, vel vitijs obcæcati, sacerdotium non ob sacrum sed ob otium ambientes in vniuerso non in vno successisse Petro videamur, Atheos non agnoscit Christum; Turca saltem agnoscit, sed non veneratur; Papa veneratur crucem, sed vendit crucifixum. Hypocrita schismaticus non vendit Christi vulnera, multiplicat tamen, dum tot ferè sunt symbola, quot sunt capita.

Confessio nostra tanquam Amalthæa coram mundum cruditionis & religionis bone complectitur; sed dum articuli vel omnino negliguntur, vel non satis intelliguntur, etiam apud nos quandoque Christus malè accipitur, dum alij derogant de meritis

<sup>k</sup> Lexicon Al.
tenstaig. in verbo pecunia.

<sup>l</sup> De ciuit. lib. 3.
cap. 23.
<sup>m</sup> Epist. 59.
<sup>n</sup> De vilit. con.
human. lib. 2.
cap. 5.

<sup>o</sup> Psal. 2. 1.

<sup>p</sup> Ephes. 5. 14.

<sup>q</sup> Innocentius de vilit. condit.
human. lib. 2.
cap. 22.

<sup>r</sup> Exhortat. ad martyrium.

<sup>s</sup> Sarisburiensis in Policrat. lib.
1. cap. 8.

<sup>t</sup> Budæus ut sup.

meritis, alij dabant de gratia in sacramentis, alij, horresco referens, ad inferni tormenta detrudunt; alij corrumpentes fidei dogmata, simul ac disrumpentes charitatis vincula, Christi tunicam insutilem, id est Ecclesiam nostram sub Elizabethâ Principe serenissimâ inter tot turbulentissimas alibi controuersiarum tempestates aliam pacem florentem, & maledictis scindere, & malefactis lacerare machinantur.

Ex Anglicanâ Synagogâ vel exeundum vel pereundum impiè vociferantur artic. 22. confessionis Bronnistica, eaq; de nobis fratribus, Christianis, protestantibus, Anglis & scribunt & sentiunt, quæ nec flagellifer Hispanus, nec atheos Turca, nec antichristus Papa, nec aliquis Iudæus, aut si uideret ipse Iudas, unquam per somnia cogitaret. Horum inuidiâ & crudelitate neque barbara Scythia, neque syluestris Hybernia, neque monstrorum alirix Africa, neque ferox Hyrcania, nec ipse Sol oculus mundi quicquam asperit, aut terra tulit inhumanius.

Clamitent licet in rostris, & iactitent in scriptis, se solos esse Christianos, audacter tamen ausim affirmare, ueruos eorum in hoc intentos esse, ut Christum vel vagientem in cunis cum Herode necarent, vel adolescentem cum Phariseis percellerent, vel maturiscentem cum Iudæis extirparent. Iacobus attamen & Iohannes, imò Petrus ipse dormit securus. Simon dormis?

Petrus hodie non curatus sed curio factus est, & honoris belluo (sicuti Budæus eleganter) in aula titulos amplitudines architectatur: ut Apelles olim tabulas ad vulgi iudicium, ita Petrus fabulas ad Aula placita reconcinnat; & quorsum quæso! de Vendidio Basso quondam <sup>u</sup> Aulus Gellius in noctibus Atticis?

Concurrere omnes augures, haruspices,
Portentum inusitatum conflatum est recens;
Nam mulus qui fricabat consul factus est.

<sup>u</sup> Lib. 15. cap. 4.

O faxit hodie Deus ne dicat quis, asinos qui curabat presul factus est. In Academia quid Petrus fecerit, ipse humilis inter Theologia discipulos taceo; dixit alius forsitan eum esse clericum in libro, neque mentalem sed atramentalem scientiam affectum: in schola compositos nollem ego in suggesto mouere fluctus: utinam mei fratres controuersia toties determinata tandem essent terminata; melius est enim cum Petro dormire. quàm Christum cum Iuda prodere: gratior est Christo somnolentus Simon, quàm turbulentus Sinon: probatque Cepham desidiosum magis quàm Iscariotem insidiosum discipulum decipulum; nam ut est in prouerbio, qui bene dormit nil male cogitat, sed ut ingulcent homines surgunt in nocte Latrones.

In paræcis rusticanis quid rei Simon agat uiderit autoritas; audior uere vicino nuper exortam de Sabbatho miram controuersiam. Attendite uobis & gregi uostro qui pagani pastores estis, ne quod innuit Christus, Matth. 13. uobis dormientibus in agro Domini zizania superseminet inimicus.

Somnus ut ex Aristotele disputat Auerroes, accidit propter frigidum & humidum que dominantur in cerebro, uigilia uero propter calidum & siccum dominantia in corde; nolite mei fratres in religione nimium esse frigidi aut humoribus admodum dediti, uinum ad mensuram sine mensurâ aggeratim ingurgitantes, sed animam possidete siccam igneo quodam zelo feruentem, ut si uel mediâ nocte sponsus aduenerit, uobis ad intrandum cum eo gratia non deuegetur, & ita dormientes in Christo tandem in Abrahâ sinu placidissimè requiescatis, ubi gaudium super gaudium, gaudium uincens omne gaudium in secula seculorum. Amen.

The Epistle. Coloss. 3. 1. i

If ye be risen againe with Christ, seeke those things which are aboue, &c.

THis Epistle consists of Aduertisements, and Arguments enforcing the same.

Aduertifements } Exhortatiue; seeke those things which are aboue; set your affection on heauenly things.
 } Dehortatiue; not on earthly things.

Arguments taken from our } Present estate of grace; We are risen againe with Christ: Ergo we must ascend and seeke the things aboue.
 } Decead vnto the world: Ergo, not minde the things on earth.
 } Future estate of glory: whensoeuer Christ (which is our life) shall shew himselfe, then shall ye also appeare with him in glory but the wrath of God commeth vpon the children of vnbeleefe, both in this world, and in that to come: for Christ shall appeare to reward the godly, to punish the reprobate to iudge all.

S. Paul doth vse two words here, ζητείν and σφοδρί, to seeke and to fauour, and howsoeuer σφοδρί in the Text be last, <sup>x</sup> yet it is in nature first; for wee must first know, then follow the things aboue; first discerne, then desire them; ignoti nulla cupido, quoth the Poet, vncouth vnkissed; ergo, we must first looke before we can like; <sup>y</sup> first see with faith in our vnderstanding, then seeke with deuotion in our affection. And these two must goe <sup>z</sup> together ioyntly, because seeking without seeing is blinde, and seeing without seeking lame: God is to be serued with our whole heart, with all our wit, with all our will.

Here then is a notable lesson, as well for ignorant, as negligent people. For ignorant, there is no pleasure so sweet to the minde as knowledge, no knowledge so sweet as that of religion, no point of religion so sweet as to fauour the things aboue, <sup>a</sup> for it is eternall life to know God, and whom he hath sent, Iesus Christ.

<sup>b</sup> Synesius is of opinion, that a Philosopher excells an ordinarie man, as much as an ordinarie man doth a beast; but euery schollar in Christs Vniuersitie doth excell a Philosopher, as much as a Philosopher doth a dolt. Humane learning is a rush candle, faith <sup>c</sup> Clement Alexandrinus, but the Gospell is as the glorious Sunne in her brightnesse, illuminating all such as sit in darkenesse and in the shadow of death. If it were not for hope of things aboue, Christians <sup>d</sup> of all men were most miserable: now no man entreth into heauen, but <sup>e</sup> he that doth the will of God; and no man can doe the will of God, except he <sup>f</sup> know the will of God; esteeme then all things as losse <sup>g</sup> for the surpassing knowledge of Christ Iesus our Lord. Read the Bible, for it is his will; frequent the Temple, for it is his house; come to the communion often, for it is his Mandic, suffer the words of exhortation and doctrine, for the Gospell is the power of God vnto saluation Vse all good meanes for knowledge, that you may set your mindes on heauenly things, and then for practise, that ye may seeke the things aboue. For it is an instruction for idle persons also, being more curious in finding, then carefull in following heauenly things. I In a schollar the Mathematikes are commended especially, because they stand vpon infallible demonstration; and so it is in Gods Academie, the best learned make demonstration; as <sup>h</sup> shew me thy faith out of thy workes, there is a demonstration; <sup>i</sup> let your light so shine before men, there is another demonstration. If your mindes are set on heauenly things and not on earthly, then seeke the things aboue, place thy religion <sup>k</sup> non in lectione, sed in dilectione, not in the braine or brow, but in godly care and heauenly carriage. Seeke the things aboue <sup>l</sup> by liuing according to the lawes of Hierusalem aboue. For albeit we dwell on earth, our Burgesse-ship is in heauen, Phil. 3. 20. Earth is patria loci, but heauen patria iuris, as Irish-men are dwellers in Ireland, but Denizons of England, gouerned by the statutes of this kingdome; so we dwell in houses of <sup>m</sup> clay, whose foundation is in the dust, but we submit our selues vnto the lawes of that Citie, which is <sup>n</sup> aboue; yea we dwell in heauen partly, for <sup>o</sup> amator, mortuus est in proprio corpore, viuus in alieno, the louer is dead in himselfe, and liues in another, <sup>p</sup> ubi sum ibi non sum, ubi non sum ibi animus. As <sup>q</sup> Origen of Mary Magdalen, when she came to the sepulchre and saw Christ taken away, Maria ibi non erat, ubi erat, quia

<sup>x</sup> Zauch. in loc.<sup>y</sup> Gorran. in loc.<sup>z</sup> Caietan. in loc.<sup>a</sup> Iohn 17. 3.<sup>b</sup> Orat de Diane.fool<sup>c</sup> Strom. lib. 5.<sup>d</sup> 1. Cor. 15. 19.<sup>e</sup> Mat. 7. 21.<sup>f</sup> Ioh. 13. 17.<sup>g</sup> Philip. 3. 8.<sup>h</sup> Iam. 2. 18.<sup>i</sup> Mat. 5. 16.<sup>k</sup> Augustin. epist. 107.<sup>l</sup> Aquin. in loc.<sup>m</sup> Iob. 4. 19.<sup>n</sup> Galat. 4. 26.<sup>o</sup> Plato.<sup>p</sup> Plautus.<sup>q</sup> Hom. de Maria Magdalen.

to that of the old Church, and as yet retained in the Popish Missall, Sursum corda lift vp your hearts, set your affections on things aboue, not on things below; flie with the wings of faith and deuotion as Eagles into heauen, where the body of Christ sitteth at the right hand of the Father: and this I take to be the true reason, why the Church of England hath allotted this Scripture for Easter day, that comming to the Lords table, we may not only gaze vpon the visible signe, but to set our affections on things aboue, that we may be made partakers of inuisible grace. See before Sursum corda, Zanchius in loc. Caluin. institut. lib. 4. cap. 17. §. 36. Church hom. concerning the worthy receiuing of the Sacrament. part. 1. Beza antithesim. Papiſm. & Chriſtianism. §. 11.

Mortifie your earthly members, fornication vncleaneſſe. <sup>n</sup> The whole corrupt masse of wickedneſſe is the body of sinne, fornication, vncleaneſſe, vnnatural luff, euill concupiſcence, couetouſneſſe, members of this body; called our, because <sup>o</sup> perditio tua ex te Israel, p all finnes in vs are from vs: omnia mea mala, pure mala sunt & mea, saith Hugo the Cardinall: and earthly: <sup>q</sup> for that they raigue in men earthly minded, and hinder our heauenly conuerſation, and therefore <sup>r</sup> such hands are to be cut off, and such eyes ought to be pulled out. It is not sayd occidite, but mortificate; we must not destroy nature, by casting our selues out of the world, but mortifie sinne by casting the world out of vs; <sup>t</sup> Hec membra vestra que non ad naturam hominis, sed ad corpus peccati pertinent, mortificate, scilicet non membra nature vestra, que Deus creauit, sed membra corporis peccati, que vos fecistis, extinguite, ne viuant in vobis amplius.

Hitherto concerning aduertisements, I proceed to the powerfull arguments enforcing the same, the first is taken from the word resurrection.

If ye be risen againe, &c.] A <sup>u</sup> new life doth require new manners, if then yee be risen from the death of sinne to the life of grace, ye must walke with <sup>v</sup> new tongues, and walke in new <sup>x</sup> waies, as being new <sup>y</sup> creatures in Christ <sup>z</sup> created vnto good workes. He then that increaseth in faith, and groweth in grace, and sprouteth in heauenly meditations higher and higher, is assuredly risen againe; but he that walketh in his old waies, and groweth from bad to worfe, growing euery day downward, is still dead and buried in the Golgotha of the world: a ccutous muck-worme that digges in the earth, as an hogge, and then entombes himselfe like a mole, cannot be sayd to be risen againe, for cumulus is tumulus, his minde is shut in his chest, as a dead bodie buried in a Coffin; a voluptuous man is not risen againe, for he that liueth in pleasure is <sup>a</sup> dead although he liue. The proud man hath his thoughts aboue, and yet not risen againe, the top of his ambition is not heauenly, but earthly, risen <sup>b</sup> against Christ, not risen with Christ.

Now we rise with Christ <sup>c</sup> two waies } Sacramentally.
 } Effectually.

[ The <sup>d</sup> dipping in holy baptisme hath three parts, the putting into the water, the continuance in the water, and the comming out of the water: the putting into the water doth ratifie the mortification of sinne by the power of Christs death, as Paul, Rom. 6. 3. Know yee not that all we which haue bene baptized into Iesus Christ, haue bene baptized into his death, and that our old Man is crucified with him? The continuance in the water notes the buriall of sinne, to wit, a continuall increase of mortification by the power of Christs death and buriall, Rom. 6. 4. The comming out of the water <sup>e</sup> figureth our spirituall resurrection and viuification to newnesse of life by the power of Christs resurrection, <sup>f</sup> that like as Christ was raised vp from the dead by the glory of the Father, euen so we should walke in newnesse of life, ]

We promised in our baptisme, to forsake the vaine pompe & glory of the world with all conetous desires of the same, so that if we set our affections on earthly things, and not on the things aboue; what are we but Fadifragi, such as haue broken our word and vow to God? Secondly Gods elect are risen againe with Christ effectually; for as the Burgeſſe of a towne in the Parliament house beareth the

<sup>n</sup> Anselmus & Caietan. in loc.

<sup>o</sup> Hosea 13. 9.

<sup>p</sup> Primasius in loc.

<sup>q</sup> Gorran & Caluin. in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Bullenger apud Maylorat. in loc.

<sup>t</sup> Anselmus.

<sup>u</sup> Melancthon. in loc.

<sup>v</sup> Mark. 16. 17.

<sup>x</sup> Mat. 2. 12.

<sup>y</sup> 2 Cor. 5. 17.

<sup>z</sup> Ephes. 2. 10.

<sup>a</sup> 1 Tim. 5. 6.

<sup>b</sup> Psal. 2. 2.

<sup>c</sup> Zanch. in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Perkin. aur. cal. cap. 33.

<sup>e</sup> Theophylact. in loc.

<sup>f</sup> Rom 6. 4. and Coloss. 2. 12.

<sup>a</sup> Eulhymius & Maldonat. in Mat. 28. & Iansen. concord. cap. 145.

<sup>x</sup> Malac. 4. 2.
<sup>y</sup> Euseb. Emisibon. 6. de Pasca

The first day of the Sabbaths ] <sup>u</sup> All the weeke-dayes are called Sabbaths in honour of the seuenth which is the Sabbath, as Luke 18. 12. ἡσάβητος ἡ σάββατος, that is, I fast twice in the weeke: so Sabbath is vsed, Act. 20. 7. and 1. Cor. 16. 2. the first day then of the Sabbath is the first day of the weeke; the which according to the Iewes computation is our Sunday, so called in memoriall of our Sauiours blessed resurrection, who being the <sup>x</sup> Sunne of righteousness arose this day, non ab oriente sed ab occasu, not from his rising, but from his fall, from death, hell, grane; the Iew gaue God the last, but the Christian honours him better with the first day of the weeke.

It is objected out of Matth. 28. 1. that Marie came not to the Sepulchre in the beginning of the morning on Sunday, but rather at euening on Saturday. For the reconciling of the foure Euangelists in this point, I referre the Reader to S. August. de consensu Euangelist. lib. 3. cap. 24. Aquin. part. 1. quest. 53. art. 2. Baron. anal. tom. 1. fol. 196, 197. Iansen. concord. cap. 145. Marloras. Maldonat. English Gloss. in Matth. 28.

<sup>z</sup> 2. Kin. 4. 34.

We must vse the Scriptures as <sup>z</sup> Elisba did the Shunamites childe, lay mouth to mouth, and eyes to eyes, and hands to hands; if we meet with an hard place, we must compare text with text, Euangelist with Euangelist, translation with translation, and meditate thereon day and night vntill we finde the truth, and as it were, put spirit into the dead letter.

I must intreat you therefore first to conferre Matthew with Moses; euening, Gen. 15. doth signifie the whole night, all the time from the Sunne setting vntill the Sunne rising, the Euening and the Morning were the first day. So that whereas Matthew reports Mary came to the sepulchre in the Euening of the Sabbath, his meaning was not that shee came on Saturday night, but on Sunday morning, as his words import, In the euening, when the first day of the weeke began to darne, that is, as our Euangelist, early when it was yet darke.

<sup>a</sup> Orat. 1. de resurrectione Christi.

<sup>b</sup> In Marc. 16.

<sup>c</sup> In Luke 24.

2. The text originall is not ἡσάβητος ἡ σάββατος, but ἡ δὲ σάββατος, and that as <sup>a</sup> Gregorie Nyssen a Grecian borne construeth it, is transacto Sabbatho, when the Sabbath was ended as Beza translates, extremo Sabbatho, in the latter end of the Sabbath: this exposition is allowed of <sup>b</sup> Hierome, <sup>c</sup> Ambrose, Musculus: and left we should doubt of it, auowed by S. Marke, chap. 16. 1. When the Sabbath day was past, Marie Magdalen &c.

<sup>d</sup> Beza; in Mat. 28. 1.

<sup>e</sup> Euseb. gloss. in Matth. 28.

<sup>f</sup> Marke 15. 47

<sup>g</sup> In Luc. 23. 56

3. For the better concordance betweene John and Matthew, note the difference betweene the Iewes and Romans in their computation. The Iewes accounted the naturall day from euening vnto euening, as it is euident, Luke 23. 54. where it is sayd that the Sabbath drew on, when Christ was buried, but he was entombed on Friday, so that according to their account, when it was darke on Friday, the Sabbath on Saturday began; but the Romans did reckon the naturall day from the morning vnto morning, <sup>d</sup> ab ortu solis ad sequentem ortum. If our Euangelist follow the Iewes, and <sup>e</sup> Matthew the Romans in their account distingue tempora, & conuenient omnia.

So that now the text is cleare, Mary Magdalen when the Sabbath was ended, on the first day of the weeke came to visit Christs sepulchre: <sup>f</sup> she knew very well where Ioseph had layd his precious bodie, but shee came not with her spices and oyntments vntill the Sabbath was past: in which <sup>g</sup> Interpreters haue noted her zeale to be well ordered and discreet, first shee did serue God, and then obserue men, first praise the liuing Lord according to law, then visit her dead Lord according to loue.

<sup>b</sup> Mat. Dresseus cited by Io. Porie. description of Africa, pag. 400.

Many men in our age performe lesse necessarie duties at such houres of the Sabbath as they should worship God in his holy Temple. Nay some ruffians are so prophane, that they thinke Easter day, wherein they were made partakers of Christs heauenly Supper, to be the most conuenient time for gossiping and drunkenesse. Assuredly the Christians in Prester Iohn his cuntry shall rise vp against vs in the last day, <sup>b</sup> who may not after the receiuing of the Sacrament vnder paine of grieuous punishment, so much as once spit vntill the going downe downe of the Sunne : whereas vnruely rake-shames in more ciuill Countries, endued with a greater portion of knowledge, drowne Christ at the Tauerne, whom they receiued in the Temple.

Early ] Maris did seeke Christ in the first day of the weeke, and first houre of the day, but many deferre to seeke the Lord vntill the last weeke of their life, the last day of the weeke, the last houre of the day, the last minute of the houre. It is an exorbitant course while the ship is sound, the tackling sure, the Pilot well, the Sailers strong, the gaie fauourable, the sea calme, to lye idle at rode, carding dicing, drinking, burning the seasonable weather, and when the ship leaked, the Pilot sicke, the Mariners faint, the stormes boysterous, and the sea a turmoile of outrageous surges, to lanch forth and hoist vp saile for a voyage into farre Countries; and yet such is the skill of euening repenters, who though in the morning of youth, and soundnesse of health, and perfect vse of reason, they canuot resolue to weigh the anchor and cut the cable that with-holds them from seeking of Christ; neuerthelesse they feed themselves with a strong perswasion, that when their wits are distracted, their senses astonied, all the powers of the minde and parts of the bodie dis tempered; then forsooth they thinke suddenly to become Saints at their death, howfoeuer they demeaned themselves as deuils all their life.

Let vs awake from sinne with Dauid<sup>i</sup> early, rise with <sup>k</sup> Samuel early, with <sup>l</sup> Abraham send away Hagar early, with <sup>m</sup> Christ and his audience come to the Church early, seeking the Lord with this holy woman early.

When it was yet darke ] S. Iohn here doth seeme to contradict S. Marke, reporting that Marie Magdalen came to the Sepulchre when the sunne was rising. For the reconciling of these places, <sup>n</sup> Ambrose is of opinion that diuers women came at diuers times. <sup>o</sup> Hierome and <sup>p</sup> other hold that the women came foure times, according to the different reports of the foure Euangelists; namely, that first they came in the euening, as Matthew chap. 28. secondly, when it was darke, as Iohn here: thirdly, in the morning early, as Luke chap. 24. fourthly, when the sunne was rising, as Marke chap. 16.

But the most and best Expositors haue determined that these deuout women came but once, and that in the morning early, when it was darke they began to set out of their lodging, but they <sup>q</sup> continued in their iourney, and abode about the tombe till it was <sup>r</sup> twilight, and saw the stone taken away from the Sepulchre.

As the former clause shewed Magdalens good haste, so this her good heart being (as Origen speakes) mulier non mulier, a woman endued with manly courage and carriage: she might haue feared that her-selfe and her company could not remoue the tombe-stone; or if they could, that the souldiers, who guarded the place, would not haue suffered it; or if they would haue bene content, it was vncomfortable for a fillie woman in the night to view the dead corps of so louing a friend. Yet Magdalen a woman, a timorous woman, accompanied onely with some few of her owne sexe, as S. Marke reports; as our Euangelist, iourning alone, came to the graue with spices and sweet oyntments, when it was darke. O the riches of Gods infinite mercy! that so foule a sinner should proue so faire a Saint; that Magdalen, sometime an harlot, should precede in this good office Marie the mother of Christ alwaies a virgin; that a woman in this point of valour and vertue should be more forward than Peter the most louing Disciple to Christ, and Iohn the best beloued of Christ. O the deepnesse of the riches, both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how vnsearchable are his judgments, and his waies past finding out!

And saw the stone taken away from the graue ] It is recorded by <sup>s</sup> Matthew, that Ioseph of Arimathea tooke the bodie of Iesus, and wrapped it in a cleane linnen cloth, and put it in a new tomb which he had hawen out in a rocke, and rolled a great stone to the doore of the Sepulchre, and departed. All which vndoubtedly Magdalen well obserued as shee was sitting against the graue, it might therefore perplex her much in this holy businesse, how she should <sup>t</sup> roll a way the tombe-stone, and so purchase

<sup>i</sup> Psal. 57. 9.

<sup>k</sup> 1. Sam. 15. 12

<sup>l</sup> Gen. 21. 14

<sup>m</sup> Iohn. 8. 2.

<sup>n</sup> In Luc. 24

<sup>o</sup> In Mat. 28.

<sup>p</sup> Consule ad ad-
denat in Mat. 28

<sup>q</sup> Rabruus apud
Thomam & Cal-
uin apud Marlo- rat. in Matth. 28

idem & ansæ. con- cord. cap. 143.

<sup>r</sup> Augustin. de consen. Euange- lisp. lib. 3. cap. 24

<sup>s</sup> Cap. 27. 59.

<sup>t</sup> Marke 16. 3.

<sup>u</sup> Pſal. 91. 11. 12.
<sup>z</sup> Matth. 28. 2.

purchase a fight of her best beloued Maſter. But Almighty God, who giueth his Angels <sup>u</sup> charge ouer his children, that they hurt not their feet againſt a ſtone, ſent a meſſenger from * heauen to roll backe that huge ſtone for her. Euen as a louing father, when he carrieth his little childe to a towne, will ſuffer him to walke in the plaine and faire way, but when he comes vnto ſlipperie pathes, he takes him by the hand, and in dirtie paſſages beares him in his armes, and when he comes to a ſtile liſts him ouer eaſily; ſo God our heauenly Father vſeth vs his deare children; if we ſhall endeouour to goe ſo farre as we may, ſo faſt as we can in the plaine way to the celeftiall Hieruſalem, he will aſſiſt vs in dangers, and helpe vs ouer ſtiles, he will remove blocks and hindrances in our paſſage, the great ſtone parting Chriſt and vs, euen while we leaſt thinke of it, ſhall be rolled away.

<sup>y</sup> Acts 9. 40.
<sup>z</sup> King. 13. 21

Againe, in that Marie ſaw the ſtone taken away, note that Chriſt roſe the firſt day of the Sabbath early: to ſhew that he was very God, he roſe againe: to ſhew that he was very man, he roſe againe the third day. That a liue man ſhould raiſe a dead man, as <sup>y</sup> Peter did Tabitha, was wonderfull: that a dead man ſhould raiſe another dead man, as the bones of <sup>z</sup> Elisba did the Moabite, was more won'erfull; but that a dead man ſhould raiſe himſelfe, as Chriſt on this day, was moſt wonderfull. Affuredly none could doe this but he who ſayd, <sup>a</sup> I am the reſurrection and the life: <sup>b</sup> Power I haue to lay downe my life, and power to take it againe.

<sup>z</sup> John 11. 25.
<sup>b</sup> John 10. 18.

But his reſurrection was deferred vntill the third day, to demonſtrate that he was very man; <sup>c</sup> for if he ſhould haue Preſently riſen, his death would haue been thought no true death, and ſo by conſequence his reſurrection no true reſurrection. As then it was often told by himſelfe, and foretold by other, he roſe the third day, and that as it is in the text, early: for as he was crucified adueſperſcente iam die, when the Sunne was going to bed, to ſignifie that by his death hee would deſtroy the workes of darkneſſe, & tenebras culpa & pœne, both the inward darkneſſe of ſinne, and outward darkneſſe of hell, as <sup>d</sup> Aguine wittily; ſo he roſe when the Sunne began to ſhine, that hauing conquered the kingdome of darkneſſe, he might baing vs vnto light and life euerlaſting. <sup>e</sup> Sicut enim primi dies propter futurum hominis lapſum à luce in noctem, ita iſti propter hominis reparationem à tenebris ad lucem computantur.

<sup>c</sup> Aquin 3. part.
 quaſt. 53. art. 2
 & Euseb. Emif
 hom. 2. de ſymbolo.

<sup>d</sup> Vbi supra.

<sup>e</sup> Augustin. de Tritit. lib. 4. c. 6
<sup>f</sup> Eph. 5. Eratis aliquando tene- bres, nunc autem
lux in Domino,
 & 1 Sam. 10. 11

* caiet. in loc.

<sup>h</sup> Greg. Nyſſen. orat. 2. de reſur- rect. Chriſti.

<sup>i</sup> Eſay 55. 6.

<sup>k</sup> Apoc. 10. 6.

Then ſhe ranne, and came to Simon Peter, and to the other Diſciple whom Ieſus loued, and ſayd, They haue taken away the Lord out of the graue.] As the people ſaid, & Is Saul among the Prophets? Euen ſo may we wonder at this, and ſay, Is Magdalen among the preachers? a tutor of thoſe great Doctours, who were to teach all the world; * Apoſtolorum Apoſtola? the Apoſtles Apoſtle? Yes ſurely, Magdalen made the firſt Sermon that euer was of Chriſts reſurrection, and this her fact had ſome reference to Eues fault; <sup>h</sup> a woman was the firſt meſſenger of this cur ioy, becauſe a woman was the firſt miniſter of that our ſorrow.

We cannot tell where they haue layd him] As Magdalen is a patterne of much vertue, ſparing neither paine nor coſt in viſiting our Sauours Sepulchre; ſo like- wiſe a preſident of ſome weakenefſe, in that ſhe could not finde Chriſt at this time, though ſhe ſought him earneſtly and early, becauſe ſhe did erre in two circumſtances, as the glorious Angels int mate, Luke 24. 6. firſt in her quando, ſurrexit; then in her vbi, non eſt hic. Let vs therefore ſeeke the Lord <sup>i</sup> when he may be found, and where he may be found. There is a time wherein he may be found, but if we neglect it, there ſhall be <sup>k</sup> no more time. The wicked old world had a time to ſeeke the Lord while Noe preached: Sodome had a time while Lot viſited: Hieruſalem had a time while Chriſt conuerſed in her: Dines had his time while Lazarus lay at his gate: Indas had his time while Chriſt reproued him. If the filthy Sodomites, if the rich Glutton, if treacherous Indas, if proud Pharao were now aliu; what would they doe, what would they not doe to ſeeke the Lord while he may be found, and to call vpon him when he is neere? Nothing would be ſo much eſteemed as a trice of time, which heretofore by dayes, weekes, moneths, yeers, was lauifhly miſ-pent. Againe, we muſt ſeeke Chriſt in the right vbi, Chriſt iſt is not to be found in the furrowes of earth, in hell

Or graue: we must not seeke a dead Christ, but a living Christ, in his workes, in his word, in his Sacraments, in his house, there we shall be sure to finde him in the midst of them that <sup>l</sup> preach, in the midst of them that <sup>m</sup> pray.

They ranne both together.] <sup>n</sup> In like zeale to Christ, and loue one to other, and yet each out-stripped other, John in going to, Peter in going into the Sepulchre. John doth resemble the contemplatiue, Peter the practiue. The contemplatiue person is more nimble in his wit, the practiue more quicke at his worke: John did runne faster, but Peter did goe surer; or, as <sup>p</sup> Rupertus, John did figure the Iewes, Peter the Gentiles. The Iewes came to Christ sooner, yet the Gentiles ouertaking them were the fonder: I haue not found (saith he that knew best) so much faith in Israel, Matth. 8. 10.

When he had stooped downe he saw the linnen clothes] <sup>q</sup> None but humble men and meeke can see these mysteries. He that will not stoope at Christs graue shall neuer be made partaker of his death and resurrection. He went not in] <sup>r</sup> Aut his contentus, aut tremore detentus. But Peter following him went into the Sepulchre, and saw the linnen clothes lying, and the napkin that was about his head, not lying with the linnen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by it selfe] As the followers and friends of Christ, so the cruell enemies and foes of Christ became preachers of his glorious resurrection, as <sup>t</sup> Caluin truly, vel tacendo vel mentiendo. Some by silence did seeme to confesse it, other by reporting an incredible tale did more strongly confirme it. The grand lie first inuented by the Rulers, and after broached by the souldiers, impudently to disgrace the truth of our Sauours resurrection (as <sup>s</sup> Matthew reports) is, that the Disciples came by night and stole him away while we slept. <sup>u</sup> O mali! o pessimi! aut vigilabatis, & custodire debuistis; aut dormiebatis, & quid factum sit nescitis: O senselesse vntruth, either you were asleepe or awake; if asleepe, how did ye know that his Disciples had taken him away by night? if awake why did yee not guard the tombe? yee could not be vnable, for <sup>x</sup> the watch was strong; yee will not, I am sure, be thought vnwilling for theneither you were cowards, or traitors, or both; in not vsing your hands, arrant cowards; in not employing your tongues in raising the towne to surpris the body, rancke traytors.

Againe, if theeues had stollen him away by night, y they would not haue left the fine linnen clothes in the graue, neither could they gaine so much leysure as to loose the feet, vbinde the head and disrobe the body, leauing the napkin that was about his head in a place by it selfe.

The Gospell and Epistle concord in euery point: for if Christ be risen and not here, then Mary Magdalen must not set her affections on things earthly, but seeke the things aboue, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God.

<sup>l</sup> Luke 2 46
<sup>m</sup> Matth 13 20
<sup>n</sup> Euthymius in loc.
<sup>o</sup> Iherophy act. in loc.
<sup>p</sup> Liv. 4. com. in loca.

<sup>q</sup> Marlorat in loc
<sup>r</sup> Euthymius in loc.

<sup>t</sup> Iustit. lib. 3 cap. 25. §. 3.

<sup>s</sup> Matth 28. 13
<sup>u</sup> August. hom 36. tom. 10. fol 351.

<sup>x</sup> Matth. 27. 65 66.

<sup>y</sup> Greg. Nissen orat. 2. de resur rest Christi & Caietan. in loc.

The Epistle. 1. Iohn. 5. 4.

All that is borne of God ouercommeth the world, &c.

VV Herein obserue { 1. A proposition: All that is borne of God ouercommeth the world.
2. An exposition how the regenerate man is a conqueror of his enemies, and that is by faith apprehending Christ who doth ouercome: this is the victorie that ouercommeth the world euen our faith:

And this faith is sealed vnto vs by the testimoniall of three witnesses in {	Heauen, the	Father,

	Earth,	Sonne,
		Holy Ghost.
	The Spirit.
	Water,
	Bloud.

If then we receiue the witnesse of men, which often lie, let vs embrace the witnesse of God, which is greater, euen truth it selfe, for he that doth not beleue, makes God a lyer, but he that beleueth, hath eternall life.

All that is borne] S. Iohn doth not vse the masculine gender, he that is borne, nor the feminine, she that is borne, but the neuter, all that is borne; <sup>2</sup> because there is in our spirituall generation no distinction of sex: Gal. 3. 28. There is neither male nor female, but ye are all one in Christ Iesus; and this (as <sup>2</sup> Rupertus obserued) is of greater emphasis, all that is borne of God, of whatsoeuer sex, countrie, condition, ouercommeth the world.

Not all that is borne, but all that is borne of God: we are borne the sonnes of wrath, and seruants to the world, but new borne to be conquerors of earth and heires of heauen; I say borne <sup>b</sup> not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God: <sup>c</sup> Our conception is by the seed of his word, through the powerfull operation of his holy Spirit: our <sup>d</sup> birth is our baptisme; the Church is our nurse; the breasts all of vs sucke, the two Testaments; our meate, the pure milke thereof; our growth, increase of grace, riches, heauenly treasures; end, euerlasting life.

There is a prouerbe in Italie, that it were good for men to be borne wise, or twice; now we can <sup>e</sup> not be borne spiritually wise, and therefore we must be borne twice; first borne that we may come into the world, then againe borne that we may ouercome the world.

Ouercommeth] In the present, for albeit in other battells euery souldier must stand to the fortune of the warres, aut fors, aut mors: <sup>f</sup> yet in our spirituall fight, a Christian may conquer euen while he doth march. & I write unto you young men, because yee haue ouercome the wicked; we triumph when we fight, pugna tantum, & certa victoria: not because the battell is ended; (for we must <sup>h</sup> wrestle still against flesh and blood, against principalities and powers, as we promised in our Baptisme, we must manfully fight vnder Christs banner against sinne, the world, and the deuill, and so continue Christs faithfull souldiers vnto our liues end) but all that is borne of God ouercommeth the world, because our grand-Captaine Christ hath already wonne the field, and obtained victorie for vs, ego vici mundum, in the world ye shall haue affliction, but be of good comfort, I haue ouercome the world.

Yet, <sup>k</sup> let not him that girdeth his harnesse, boast himselfe, as he that putteth it off. For when <sup>l</sup> Agamemnon said, victor timere quid potest? answer was made by <sup>m</sup> Cassandra, quod non timet; we may not be secure, but serue God in <sup>n</sup> feare, though we fight in faith; as our Captaine, <sup>n</sup> watch and pray, lest your <sup>o</sup> aduersarie deuoure you, continue, <sup>p</sup> fighting a good fight, hauing faith and a good conscience.

The world is overcome two waies, as <sup>q</sup> Aquin pretily, but not pithily, abijcendo, subijcendo, by forsaking it in a contemplatiue course, by subduing it in an actiue; but herein Aquine speaks like a Frier, <sup>r</sup> Ergo a lyer: I therefore correct his glosse, saying; that we need not abijcere, but onely subijcere, not vtterly leaue, but only not loue the world, as S. Iohn in this <sup>s</sup> Epistle, being in the world, but yet not <sup>t</sup> of the world; riches and honour be good seruants, but bad masters, as <sup>v</sup> Augustine sweetly: they must be subdita non pradita, sequentia non ducentia: he that greedily followeth and hunteth after the world, is overcome of the world, <sup>x</sup> dum vult esse pradosit prada, but he that suffers onely the world to follow him, vsing it as <sup>y</sup> Aristippus did Lais, ouercometh the world, in being greater then the world.

A meere contemplatiue Monke, in slumming some occasions of euill, slieth in a manner all occasions of doing good, against the rules of nature and Scripture; for the one sheweth a man is not borne for himselfe; the other, that a Christian ought to be seruant vnto all, as Saint Paul expressly, Galath. 5. 13. By loue serue one another, he that is borne of God ouercomes the world in being a new man, not in being no man: as a man, he must belike <sup>z</sup> Martha, cumberd with much businesse;

<sup>2</sup> Aquin. & Lorentius in loc.

<sup>a</sup> Com. in verba Ioan. 6. 37. omne quod dat mihi pater.

<sup>b</sup> Iohn 1. 13.

<sup>c</sup> Sacerius in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Gregor. Nyss. orat. 1. de resurrell. Christi.

<sup>e</sup> Fiunt non nascuntur Christiani Hieron. epist. ad Letam.

<sup>f</sup> Marlorat. in Ioan. 16. 33.

<sup>g</sup> 1. Epist. Ioh. 2. 13.

<sup>h</sup> Ephes. 6. 12.

<sup>i</sup> Iohn 16. 33.

<sup>k</sup> King. 20. 11

<sup>l</sup> Senec in Agamem. Act. 4.

<sup>m</sup> Philip. 2. 12.

<sup>n</sup> Marth. 26. 41

<sup>o</sup> 1. Pet. 5. 8.

<sup>p</sup> 1 Tim. 1. 18

<sup>q</sup> In Loc.

<sup>r</sup> Walsingham in Ric. 2.

<sup>s</sup> Cap. 2. 15.

<sup>t</sup> Iohn. 17. 44.

<sup>u</sup> Epist. 52.

<sup>v</sup> Augustin. in Psal. 38.

<sup>w</sup> Clem. Alex. Strom. 2. ipse Laidem habeo, atij habentur a Laido.

<sup>x</sup> Luke 10. 10.

1. Pet. 2. 11.
2. Cap. 3. 9.

• Ephes. 6. 12.

b Luther, in Galat. 1. 4.

• Matth. 9. 13.

d Galat. 2. 20

e Rom 4. 25.

f Luther in Gal
2. 19.

g 2. Cor. 5. 21

b 1. Cor. 15. 26.

i Phil. 1. 21.

k Epitaphium Candidae apud
Baro. annal.
Tom. 9. fol. 3.

l Joh. 11. 25.

m Ephes. 4. 8.

n 1. Cor. 15. 54.

o Vti Kilius exposit. Epist. dominic. quasi moao geniti.

p Phil. 1. 23.

q Acts 7. 59.

See Perkins

I treat of dying wch. in fine, relating many sweet & comfortable spec-ches of Gods children at their death.

r Matth. 17. 5.

s Matth. 3. 17.

t Act. 2. 3, 4.

u Joh. 15. 26, 27

v Joh. 14. 6.

w Joh. 10. 25.

x Joh. 9. 35. 37.

y Act. 9. 5. &
22. 8.

b Rudolphus Ardens hom. in epist. dom. 1. post Pasch.

c Au. us. tract.

37. in Ioan.

d August. contra Maximin.
lib. 3. cap. 22 &
Lorinus in lor.

Yet he that is borne of God & abstaineth from fleshly lust and sinneth not, as our Apostle proues in this 2 epistle. See the Gospell, Dom. 15. post Trinit.

The deuill is our arch-enem e, being indeed the chiefe commander of all forces against vs, euen the a prince of darkenesse, a watchfull and a wrathfull enimie yet he that hath the shield of faith is able to quench all his fierie darts, Ephes. 6. 16. His greatest canon shot against vs is, that we are grieuous sinners, in which he giueth euery one that is borne of God b armour and weapons against himselfe, that with his owne sword, we may cut his owne throat. For Christ gaue himselfe for our sinnes, Gal. 1. 4. If I were righteous and had no sinne, then I should not c need Christ. Why then, O peeuish holy Satan, wilt thou make me turne Puritane? and so seeke righteousness in my selfe? when in very deed, I haue nothing in me but sinnes, and, as thou saist in this truly, grieuous sinnes; alas they be no trifling but terrible sinnes against the first and second table: but I flie to Christ the lambe of God, who takes away the sinnes of the world, d Who loved me and gaue himselfe for me, e dying for my sinnes, and rising againe for my iustification; and so my sinne, which is a f condemned sinne, is in Christ who is a s condemning sinne, a ransome and sacrifice for sinne. Now this condemning sinne is stronger then that which is condemned. For it is wildome, righteousnesse, sanctification and redemption.

The last enimie, but not the least, that shall be destroyed, is h death, of all terribles vnto the naturail man most terrible; yet by faith it is made i aduantage to vs, how soeuer hurtfull and hatefull vnto other.

k Mors quae perpetuo cunctos absorbet hiatu, Parcere dum nescit, sapius ipsa sauet.

He that beleueth, is assured that Christ is the l resurrection and the life, t hat he hath led m captiuitie captiue, that he hath n swallowed vp death in victorie by his death, and opened vnto vs the gates of eternall life. See before the song of Simeon. Euery true Christian then is a greater conqueror then William the Conqueror, euen greater then Alexander the great, or Pompey the great, or the great Turke. For whereas they conquered in many yeeres a few parts of the world, he that is borne of God ouercommeth in one houre with one act onely, the whole world, and all the things in the world.

Aristotle dying sayd, o Anxius vixi, dubius morior, nescio quo vado But Paul in his life desired to be dissolued and to be with Christ: and a Steuen at his death O Lord Iesu receive my spirit. So comforted in his life, so blessed in his death is euery one that is berne of God. I conclude this part in a distichon.

*Terra fremet, regna alta crepent, ruat ortus & orcus,
Si modo firma fides, nulla ruina nocet.*

For there are three which beare record in heauen, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost. ] Whether in old time this clause were receiued into the sacred Canon or no, see Sextus. Senen. bibliothec. lib. 7. haes. 9. resp. ad ob. 7. Erasms. annotat. especially the Commentaries of Lorinus vpon the place. The Father bare witness of Christ in his r transfiguration and b baptism, saying from heauen, This is my beloued Sonne in whom I am well pleased, heare him. God the Holy Ghost bare record in descending first vpon himselfe, Matth. 3. 16. c then vpon his Apostles at Whitfontide, u making them witness this truth also. The Word bare record of himselfe: I x am the way, the truth, and the life. y The workes that I do in my fathers name, they beare witness of me. z Doest thou beleeue the Sonne of God? be it is that talketh with thee. a I am Iesus; I am Iesus of Nazaret, whom thou persecutest.

And these three are one ] b Non tantum in testimonio, sed in essentia: This then is a notable piot to direct the c ship of the Church how to saile betweene the rocks of Arrius, who denied the Vnity, and Sabellius, who denied the Trinitie.

As three beare record in heauen or from heauen, so likewise three beare record in earth, the Spirit, and water and blood, and these three are one, that is, agreeing in one. d Some by these three witnesses vnderstand God the Father, Sonne and Holy Ghost. God the Father by Spirit, Iohn. 4. 24. by blood, God the Sonne who who redeemed vs with his owne blood, Acts 20. 8. by water, the blessed Spirit, Ioh. 7. 38. <sup>e</sup> other construe this of Christs humane spirit, which he gaue vp on the Crosse, and of the water and blood which issued out of his precious side, Ioh. 19. 24. Or as <sup>f</sup> other, the spirit, that is, our minde inspired by the Holy Ghost, applied vnto our eternall comfort the water and blood which came forth of our Saviours holy side. <sup>g</sup> Water being a signe and seale of our sanctification; blood of our iustification. If then we receive the witnesse of men, and are contented that euery question among vs should be determined by the <sup>h</sup> mouth of two or three, let vs, hauing so <sup>i</sup> great a cloud of witnesses, euen sixe concurring all in one, beleue stedfastly that all which is borne of God ouercometh the world, and that the victorie conquering the world is our faith apprehending the merits of Christ Iesu, who did ouercome the world for vs. O Lord increase this faith in vs evermore.

<sup>e</sup> Possibile m. ines cum glossis & figuris. Ardons. Em. Sa in
loc.
<sup>f</sup> English glo.
3 B. 21 in loc.

<sup>h</sup> Deut. 19. 15.
Matth 18 16.
<sup>i</sup> Heb. 12. 1.

The Gospell. I O H N. 20. 19.

The same day at night, which was the first day of the Sabbaths, &c.

Time; the same day at night, when the doores were shut.

Place; where the Disciples were assembled together for feare of the Iewes.

Comfort; amplified by circumstances of Person; Iesus came, not only sending good newes, as before, vers. 18. but himselfe bringing it, comforting them in.

Words, saying twice, Peace be to you.
Action, standing in the midst, and shewing his hands and side.

Herein obserue the Disciples

Commission: and in it the Qualifier, Iesus.

Qualified, all the Disciples present, If send you, he breathed on them, &c.
Qualification, Whosoever sinnes yee remit, they are remitted, &c.

The same day at night] As a compassionate mother cannot endure that her little childe should cry long, but instantly she takes him in her armes to dandle that he may be still; euen so Christ comforting his disciples <sup>k</sup> as one whom his mother comforteth, appeared vnto them vpon the same day that he did rise, not <sup>l</sup> deferring his comfort, at night the doores being shut for feare, <sup>m</sup> when they did most need his comfort, and stood in the midst of them, <sup>n</sup> as the Sunne in the midst of the firmament, and the heart in the midst of the members, affording his comfort indifferently to them all, vsing words of comfort, peace be to you; a salutation howsoeuer ordinarie, <sup>o</sup> yet at that time most fit and best welcome, considering their troubled estate; shewing them also the wounds of his hands and side, morethen euident demonstrations of comfort: for as <sup>p</sup> Marius accused of the Senat for treason against the Common-weale, rent his clothes, and in their presence shewed the wounds he received in the warres for his Countries good saying, Quid opus est verbis, ubi vulnera clamant? so Christ here shewing his pierced hands and side; these bee the tongues, and these bee monthes open and wide to proclaime how much I loue you, these, these, tell all the world that I died for your sinnes, and rose againe for your iustification.

It is recorded in holy Bible, that a Giant in <sup>q</sup> Gath had six fingers on each hand; on the contrary, that <sup>r</sup> Adonibezek lost his thumbs: all such as are too curious in schoole-quirks haue six fingers on a hand, one finger in the dish more

<sup>k</sup> Esay 66. 13.

<sup>l</sup> Theophilact. in loc.
<sup>m</sup> Euthymius in loc.
<sup>n</sup> Vide Pontan. & Vegam, aom. 1. post Pas b.
<sup>o</sup> Maldonat. in loc.
<sup>p</sup> Salmeron a. pud Veg. dom. in albis.

<sup>q</sup> 1. Chr 20. 6.
<sup>r</sup> Iudges 1. 6.

then is needfull; and yet such as altogether neglect schoole-learning, want their thumbs, and cannot so well handle the sacred word of God. It is apparant that Christ did rise with his wounds, otherwise he would not have shewed his hands and side, for the confirmation of his resurrection, and yet a body glorified is without any blemish in all parts; here then we must either distinguish or destroy.

The skars of Christ in his hands and feet after he was risen againe, were not signes of defect, but <sup>c</sup> ensignes of victorie, <sup>c</sup> non necessitatis sed voluntatis, in the words of <sup>u</sup> Emisenus, vulnerum signa virtutum insignia, not wounds of horrou but of honour; the conquerour glorieth in his skars, enumerat miles vulnera. Consule Iansen. concord. cap. 147. Suarez in 3. part. Thom. 2. tom. 47. disputat. 2. sect. Caietan. Modin. & alios in Thom. 3. part. quast 54. art. 4.

<sup>x</sup> Mystically, Christ doth speake comfortable words, and sheweth his pretious wounds vnto such as haue shut their doores vnto the street, and renouaced the pomps of the world, <sup>y</sup> especially to such as are gathered together in vnitie to serue God according to his promise, <sup>z</sup> where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the middes of them. All these, and all other remarkable notes vpon this part, I purpose God willing more fully to discusse in mine exposition of the Gospell appointed for S. Thomas day.

As my Father sent me, euen so send I you. This as and so may be referred vnto the person sending, as also to the parties sent. Vnto the person sending, as my Father had authority to send me, so <sup>a</sup> all power being giuen vnto me in heauen and earth, I send you; <sup>b</sup> for he saith not, I will desire my Father to send you, but I send you.

Againe, this as may be referred to the parties <sup>c</sup> sent; for as my Father sent me to <sup>d</sup> preach good tidings vnto the poore, to binde vp the broken hearted, and to call <sup>e</sup> sinners vnto repentance; so send I you to reconcile men vnto God, and God vnto men, according to that of Paul, 2. Cor 5. 19. Wee are Ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you through vs, we pray you in Christs stead, that ye bereconciled to God.

No <sup>f</sup> man must take vpon him this honor except he be called of God: he that runneth of his owne accord, without sending, is a false Prophet, Ierem, 23. 21. for albeit Christ now doe not immediatly call, and send Apostles as heretofore, yet he doth mediately send by deputies vnder him, as he did Titus and Timothy, Sosthenes and Siluanus, and other in the <sup>g</sup> Primitiue Church; and <sup>h</sup> those we ought to iudge lawfully called and sent, which be chosen to this worke by such as haue publike authority giuen vnto them in the congregation, to call and send Ministers into the Lords vineyard. As the Bishops of Ephesus ordained by men, are sayd expressely to be placed in that high calling by the blessed Spirit, Acts 20. 28. Take heed to your selues and to all the flocks, whereof the Holy Ghost hath made you ouerseers.

The qualified are the Disciples, euery one, so well as any one; for that which Christ sayd vnto Peter, <sup>i</sup> I will giue to thee the keyes of the kingdome of heauen. and whatsoever thou shalt binde on earth shall be bound in heauen, &c. he saith here to all, I send you; whoeuer sinnes ye remit, they are remitted vnto them: all had the same calling and the same charge. Happily S. Peter in this commission had a prioritie, not a superiority; or if a primacie, not a supremacie ouer the rest: he had (as <sup>k</sup> our Diuines acknowledge) a precedence in place, named for the most part <sup>l</sup> first, as the fore-man of the quest; and a preeminence in grace, reputed for his excellent knowledge and zeale the chiefe of the whole College, the Scripture witnessing that he was the first <sup>m</sup> Confessor, the first <sup>n</sup> Preacher, the first <sup>o</sup> Baptizer, the first worker of <sup>p</sup> miracles; in a word, as he was the fore-man, so the most forward of all the twelue in execution of his Apostleship: I say the most forward of all the twelue; for S. Paul in his <sup>q</sup> owne conceit was not inferiour, and in others opinion farre superiour to Peter: <sup>r</sup> Augustine saith, Deus docuit Petrum per posteriorem Paulum, <sup>s</sup> Eusebius Emisenus, Et si ille primus, iste precipuus; and <sup>t</sup> Chrystome, Honore par erit illi, nihil enim hic dicam amplius; <sup>a</sup> his meaning is, that

<sup>f</sup> Thom. part. 3. quast. 54. art. 4.
<sup>c</sup> August. epist. 49. quast. 1.
<sup>u</sup> Horn. 10. de Pasch.
<sup>x</sup> Gregorius.

<sup>y</sup> Calvin. apud Martor in loc.
<sup>z</sup> Mat. 18. 20.

<sup>a</sup> Mat. 28. 18.
<sup>b</sup> Theophylact in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Rupertus lib. 14. com. in Ioan & Leontius apud Maldonat. in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Esay 61. 1.
<sup>e</sup> Mat. 9. 13.
<sup>f</sup> Heb. 5. 4.

<sup>g</sup> Acts 14. 23.
<sup>h</sup> An. lican. cou. fess. art. 23.

<sup>i</sup> Mat. 16. 19.
<sup>k</sup> Calvin. institut. lib. 4. cap. 5. §. 5

<sup>l</sup> D. Fulke in Mat. 16. 14. Perkins reformed. Cath. iii. suprem.

<sup>m</sup> Mat. 10. 2. Marke 3. 16. Luke 9. 28.

<sup>n</sup> Mat. 16. 16. Act. 2.

<sup>o</sup> Act. 10. vii. Baron. an. tom. 1. fol. 284.

<sup>p</sup> Acts 3.

<sup>q</sup> 2 Cor. 11. 5. Epist. 28.

<sup>r</sup> Hom. de nat. Pet. & Paul. In epist. ad Galath. 2.

<sup>s</sup> B. Iewel de. fens. apolog. part. 2. cap. 3. diuis. 3.

that Paul was Peters better, & doctior & sapientior, as Bellarmine writes in lib. 1. de Ro. Pont. cap. 28. §. respondeo, Paulum. And therefore Paul x withstood Peter to his face, and that in a matter of y faith, and when, if euer, he was z Pope of Rome.

S. Peter accounted himselfe, and so was esteemed of all the Colledge, a a fellow pastor, not as b Bellarmine, a Monarch, making the whole world his dioceffe calling all men, euen the rest of Christs owne Apostles, his sheepe; our blessed Sauiour in this commission made them all Peeres, and when some would haue been Princes, he rebuked them, Mat. 20. 26. Luk. 22. 26. I will end this obseruation with that excellent sentence of Pope c Leo the great, Et electio pares, & labor similes, & finis facit aequalis.

The persons qualified abode long in Christs Colledge, and receiued the holy Ghost also before they did execute this high commission; and so we must be furnished, and endued with many commendable parts of learning and sanctification, as d Paul, δὲ δεικνύει, fit in regard of our knowledge to be Pastors, and in respect of our vnb lameable life to be patternes, See Gospell, Dom. 8. after Trinitie.

Whosoener sinnes yeremis: ] Vpon this ground there is in the Church of England a generall absolution after a e generall confession of sinnes, and a f particular absolution, vpon a particular confession, yet neither absolute, but conditionall if the penitent truly repent and vnfaignedly beleue the Gospell.

Againe, we further say, that Almighty God hath giuen power and commandemēt to his Ministers to declare and pronounce to his people being penitent, the absolution and remission of their sinnes; § in so much that this act of absolving only belongs vnto the Minister ordinarily, tanquam ex officio; but when none of that order is or can be present, another man may doe it with good effect, according to that old saying, In casu necessitatis quilibet Christianus est Sacerdos: and I see no reason in popish learning, why women may not absolue so well as baptise. See Gospell Dom. 19. after Trinitie.

Thus, as you see, the Disciples had comfort and commission; first, comfort for themselves, and then a commission to strengthen and comfort other, and for i this cause Christ sayd twice, peace be to you, receiuing principally peace for themselves, and then secondarily charge to preach peace to them as farre off, and to them that are neere, Esay 57. 19.

z Galat 2 11.
y Dr Fulke in Galat, 2 11.
z Dr B. for against the Iesuites. pag 69.
a . Pet 5. 1.
b De Ro Pont. lib. 1 ca. 10, 11.
c Ser 2. in nat. Apost. Pet. & Paul.

d 1. Tim. 3. 2.

e Collect after the Confessio at Morning Praier, and at the Communion.

f In the visitation of the sick.

g Dr Field lib 3 of the Church, cap 25.

h Magdeburg. ep. de catat. praefix cent. 7. in Luther. loc. com iiii. Absolutio.

i Ferns Ser. 5. Dom 1. post Pasch.

The Epistle. 1. Pet. 2. 19.

This is thanke worthie, if a man for conscience toward God endure grieffe, &c

Saint Peter hauing instructed vs in the former part of this Chapter what we should doe, teacheth vs in this latter how we must suffer, Precept, This is thanke worthie, if a man for conscience toward God and that by } endure grieffe, &c.

Patterne, Christ suffered for vs leauing vs an ensample.

This is thanke worthy ] τὸ ἴδιον, k it is Gods grace, to wit, an l effect and signe of his grace, m gracious and acceptable to God, or as we read according to S. Peters own gloss, it is thanke worthy, n deseruing commendation and praise. If a man for conscience toward God endure grieffe, o that is, for God who knoweth all; p or for that a man in his owne conscience knowes is well pleasing to God; or for the faith of God (as Aquine vpon the place) for as faith is vsed for conscience Rom. 14. 23. Whatsoener is not of faith, is sinne; so conscience here may be taken for faith.

And therefore the Scismatikes and Papists enduring grieffe for their own faults and not for Christs faith, haue by their suffering neither grace nor glory; but as k Lovinus in loc 1 Caetan.

m Gloss. interlin & Ordinar Variabilis, Aquin, &c.

n aluin. apud Martorat.

o Em Sa in loc P Salmeon, Ca than in P verus, apud Lornu.

<sup>9</sup> Aelian. de u<sup>ria</sup> histor<sup>ia</sup>,
lib. 14. cap. 4.

Aristides <sup>9</sup> who died of the bite of a Weasell, exceedingly lamented because it was not a Lion: so the Schismaticke may grieue that he doth not smart for the Lion of Inda but for a Weasell lately crept out of the Alpes, which at the first crouded in among vs at a little hole, but since being pampered at the tables of many Citizens, and some country Ladies, is growne so full and purse, that many will rather forsake Gods plough and looke backe to the world, then acknowledge he came in at so little an entrance.

<sup>1</sup> Preface to Pseudo martyr.

And for the Papists, it is well obserued, <sup>1</sup> that as no man dies by an ague, nor without an ague; so none are executed for the Romane religion, nor without it: all their Iesuits and other Romanists Iesuited (as our <sup>1</sup> *Hom*er their hammer excellently Non religionis causâ mere sed mixta, mixta cum malâ mente & fide in principem: it is not faith meerey that makes them endure grieue, but faction; it is not religion, but rebellion, beginning at Tyber and ending at Tyburne, If then it be true, <sup>1</sup> not the crosse but the cause makes a martyr, non mortes sed mores, it is not thanke-worthy for a Papist, buffeted for his owne fault, to take it patiently.

<sup>1</sup> B. Andrewes Torturâ Torii,
pag. 133.

<sup>1</sup> Aug. Epist. 61.

<sup>2</sup> Basilicon doron li. 1. pag. 13.

Yea, but the Schismaticke in losing their liuings, and the Papists in losing their liues euermore pretend conscience toward God. Answer is made, that <sup>2</sup> conscience not grounded upon sure knowledg, is either an ignorant fantasie, or an arrogant vanitie; for as in a mans body, the raw stomacke makes a rheumaticke head, and a rheumaticke head a raw stomacke; so science makes our conscience good, and conscience our science good: con is alwaies in composition, and among Christians it should be with scientiâ: that which Art hath ioyned and God coupled let no man seuer.

<sup>2</sup> Aristot. ethic.
lib. 3. cap. 2.
<sup>1</sup> Lexicon Al-ienstaig. verb.
ignorantia.
<sup>2</sup> Lombard. 2.
sent. dist. 22.
<sup>2</sup> Thomas de Ar. entin. in 2.
sent. dist. 22.
<sup>1</sup> Thom. 1. 2. e.
quest. 19. art. 6.

The <sup>2</sup> Philosopher speaks of a twofold ignorance, particularis ac uniuersalis, as the Lawyers, <sup>1</sup> ignorantia iuris & facti, or as the <sup>2</sup> Schoolemen, ignorantia vincibilis & innuincibilis; according to these distinctions euery nescience is not a sinne but only that ignorance which is in such points as we may and must vnderstand, <sup>2</sup> ignorantia vel neglecta vel affectata; so that an <sup>1</sup> erroneous conscience (our aduersaries being Iudges) is not a sufficient warrant to suffer martyrdom, though a man should vaunt with Edmund Campion, Occidi possum, superari non possum; and in <sup>1</sup> another place, Nisi diui de caelo deturbentur; & superbus Lucifer calum recuperet, cadere nunquam potero.

<sup>1</sup> Prefat. Academie.
<sup>2</sup> Gal. 10. in fine.
<sup>1</sup> Ioh. 16. 2.
<sup>1</sup> Acts 6. 1.
<sup>1</sup> Lib. de carne Christi.
<sup>1</sup> Dioscorus in con. Chalcedon.
<sup>1</sup> Epiphanius
haes. 80.

They who killed the blessed Apostles in their erroneous conscience, <sup>1</sup> thought they did God good seruice: Saul breathing out <sup>1</sup> threatnings and slaughter against the Disciples of the Lord, said he did it out of zeale Philip. 3. 6. the most blasphemous heretike which is interfector veritatis (as <sup>1</sup> Tertullian speaks if he be buffeted for his error, presently makes himselfe a Catholike martyr; <sup>1</sup> ego defendo dogmata Sanctorum patrum, ego eorum habeo testimonia, ego cum patribus eycior. In old time many were so vaine-glorious in affecting the reputation of martyrdom, that there was a sect called <sup>1</sup> Martyriani: some suffer out of fashion, for there is a conscience not according to knowledge; other endure grieue out of faction, for there is a knowledge not according to conscience: the first suffer as ambitious of honour; the second to satisfie their malignant humor but neither of these (Pope Peter being Iudge, and the Schoole-men Iurie) can merit thanks of God, or praise of men.

<sup>1</sup> Nicephorus
lib. 13. cap. 28.
<sup>1</sup> B. Iewel. defence apolog.
part. 6. cap. 21.
diuis. 1.

When <sup>1</sup> Simeones saw that Arsacius an vnlearned and an vnworthy doting old man, was placed in Chrysostromes roome, he cried out, prâ pudor! qui, cui? <sup>1</sup> so may we censure iustly the Popes sitting in Peters chaire, prô pudor! quis, cui? Peter would haue men subiect to their Lords with feare, not only to the good and courteous, but also to the froward, for this is thanke worthy, if a man for conscience toward God endure grieue and suffer wrong undeserued. But the Pope doth vnloose men at his pleasure from their allegiance to good and gracious Princes, and therefore we will appeale from Peter to Peter, from Sir Peter to Saint Peter, from princely Peter to preaching Peter, affirming here, What praise is it if when yee be buffeted for your faults, yee take it patiently? but, and if when ye doe well, ye suffer wrong and take it patiently, then is there thanke with God, for hereunto verily were yee ye called. <sup>m</sup> For all that will liue godly in Christ Iesu shall suffer persecution, entering into Gods kingdome <sup>n</sup> through many tribulations.

Christ suffered for vs, leaving vs an ensample ] <sup>o</sup> Christ is propounded in the Gospell as a sacrifice for sinne, and as an ensample for vertue. S. Peter hath pithily comprehended both in this one verse, Christ suffered for vs, <sup>p</sup> that his passion might deliuer vs from the bondage of sinne, leaving vs an ensample to follow his steps, that his actions might direct vs vnto vertue.

For the first, our iustification stands in <sup>q</sup> two things especially, to wit, in the remission of our sinnes by the merits of Christ his death, and in imputation of righteousness, whereby God accounteth that righteousness which is in Christ, as the righteousness of that sinner which beleeueth in him. Now the righteousness of Christ consists in his obedience passiue and actiue, both together, for Christ in suffering obeyed, and in obeying suffered, and the very shedding of his blood, to which our saluation is ascribed more specially, must not only be considered as it is passiue, that is a suffering; but also as it is actiue, that is an obedience, in which he shewed his exceeding loue both to God and vs in fulfilling the law for vs.

For vs ] That is, all vs indefinitely, for God commanded <sup>r</sup> Moses to put in his perfume so much frankincense as galbanum, and as much galbanum as frankincense to signify that Christ in his oblation on the Crosse (a <sup>t</sup> sacrifice of a sweet smelling saour to God) shed as much blood for the labouring man who followeth the plough, as for the Prince, who sitteth in his throne: that his precious blood should haue greater force in some then in other, is not the fault of him, who did impart it, but of him, who doth not well imploy it. If a man should commit such an hainous offence, that he could no way but by the Princes gracious pardon escape death, he would not suffer his eyes to sleepe, nor his eye lids to take any rest vntill by some meanes or other he had obtained the same, gotten it written and sealed, and layd vp in a boxe fast and sure, reading it often with great ioy. Now this is the case of euery man, originall sinne makes vs the sonnes of wrath, actual much more rebels and traytors against our heauenly King, by which all of vs haue deserued ten thousand deaths. Our only refuge is; that Christ suffered for vs: in his name we must sue for pardon at Gods hand, and neuer rest vntill we haue the assurance thereof sealed vp in our hearts and consciences. How dull are our wits, how dry are our eyes, how hard are our hearts in hearing and reading these mysteries: Our blessed Sauiour in the Garden for our sake did sweat <sup>t</sup> drops of blood trickling downe to the ground, and on the <sup>u</sup> Crosse shed streames of blood, and yet we cannot shed one teare for his sake, when we remember his torments and receiue the Sacraments, which are speaking seales of his passion; he was longer in dying and doing it, than we can endure to <sup>x</sup> contemplate on it. Alas how shall we die for him, and suffer for conscience toward God? <sup>y</sup> Hee that hath not heate enough to thinke on it, will neuer haue heart enough to dye for it. I beseech thee deare brother, if not for my sake, yet for thine owne sake, yea for his sake who died for vs, examine one word vttered by <sup>z</sup> Dauid in the person of Christ, fođerunt manus meas, &c. they digged my hands and my feet, noting the wide wounds in both, as being not only pierced, but also digged as it were with a mattocke; for the nailes were so big, that (as <sup>a</sup> Socrates reporteth) Constantine made of them a bridle and an helmet for his owne vse. Whatsoeuer he did endure, was not for himselfe but for vs, he bare our sinnes in his body on the tree, that we being deliuered from sinne, should liue vnto righteousness, by whose stripes we are healed. <sup>b</sup> O Domine Iesu, da cordi meo te desiderare, desiderando querere, querendo inuenire, inueniendo amare, amando mala mea redempta non iterare. Da Domine Deus meus cordi meo pœnitentiam, spiritui contritionem, oculis lachrymarum fontem, ori custodiam, manibus elemosynę largitatem, vt totus figaris in me, qui totus crucifixus pro me, Amen.

Leaving vs an ensample ] For he was not only a sacrifice for sinne, but a direction also for vertue, that we should follow his steps: he saith in the Gospell appointed

<sup>m</sup> 2 Tim 3. 12

<sup>n</sup> Act 14. 22

<sup>o</sup> Saceruus in loc. & Melanct. postil. in die Parasceues de passione Dom.

<sup>q</sup> Agul. ser 8. de de tempore, & Gregor. pastoral. part. 1. cap 3. <sup>r</sup> Piskin reform. med Cath. tit. Iustificat. and Exposit. of Creed, art. Passion.

<sup>s</sup> Exod. 30. 34.

<sup>t</sup> Ephes. 5. 2.

<sup>u</sup> Luke 22. 44.

<sup>x</sup> Iohn 19. 34.

<sup>y</sup> Anselmus.

<sup>z</sup> Guenara prolog. to myst. of mount Caluarie

<sup>a</sup> Psal. 22. 17.

<sup>b</sup> Lib. 1. cap. 17

<sup>c</sup> August. medii. cap. 1.

appointed to be read this morning, I am the good shepherd. Now a good shepherd is not a Pastor only, but a patterne also, as Christ of himselfe, the truth and the way: the truth in regard of his good learning, the way in regard of his good life. There are foure sorts of shepheads, as Hemingius in his <sup>d</sup> Postill, the first neither teach well nor liue well; and these pull downe the Church of God with both hands, of which sort S. Peter and S. Iude foretold vs there should be many in the latter age; for albeit Iudas Iscariot be dead, his practise liueth; hee that neither feeds his flocke by life nor lesson, although he cannot betray Christ in his owne person, yet he betrayes the members of Christ vnto the deuill.

The second sort are such as instruct well in the Pulpit, but misdemeane themselves in conuersation, and these set vp the Temple with one hand, and pull it downe as much againe with the other; like scribling schoole-boyes, that which they write faire with the fore-finger, they blur with the hind-finger.

The third sort are such as teach ill, but for any scandalous and open crime they seeme to liue well, as hy pocrites and heretikes, comming vnto vs in sheeps clothing whereas inwardly they bee rauening wolues.

*Ac veluti pueris absinthia tetra medentes Cum dare conatur, prius oras pocula circum
Contingunt dulci mellis flavoq, liquore.*

Like Physitians couering the bitternesse of the pill and potion with gold and sugar; for while men gaze at their outward holinesse, they be easily made to swallow the dregs and drugs of their heresie.

The fourth sort are such as both teach well and liue well, building Gods Citie with both hands, and such a shepherd and Bishop of our soules was Christ, doctor & ductor, one that doth lead and feed his sheepe, leaving vs an ensample to follow his steps (in all which either he did or suffered) so fast as we can, so farre as we may. For as his actions are our instructions, so S. Peter saith here, that his passions are our patternes:

Insinuating that we must suffer } Innocently, for albeit he was reputed among the wicked, and crucified as a malefactor, yet did he no sinne, neither was there guile found in his mouth.
Patiently, who when he was reuiled, reuiled not againe, when he suffered, he threatned not, but committed the vengeance to him that iudgeth righteously.

Anselmus hath written a tract, intituled <sup>h</sup> Mensuratio crucis: and Iustus Lipsius hath three bookees de cruce. <sup>i</sup> Sixtus Senensis and other popish Authors haue many conceits about the materiall Crosse, full of wit and art. But I beseech thee Lord Iesu to dwell in my heart by faith, and to fill me with all fulnesse of grace that I may know thy loue which passeth knowledge, and comprehend what is the bredth and length, and depth and height of it shewed on thy crosse for the redemption of the whole world,

*Pendimus à te,
Credimus in te,
Tendimus ad te
Non nisi per te Optime Christe.*

The Gospell. I O H N. 10. 11.

Christ sayd, I am the good shepherd, &c.

NO man being but a man, ought in this life to commend and iustifie himselfe: for if he consider the time past, he shall haue good cause to lament his finnes of omission and commission: if he consider the time present, he may well blush at his manifold infirmities: if he consider the time to come, he must feare

<sup>c</sup> Cyri. apud Maldonat. in Ioan. 14. 6.

<sup>d</sup> Dom. 2. post. Pasch.
<sup>e</sup> Perkins exposition of the Creed.

<sup>f</sup> Matth. 7. 15.

<sup>g</sup> Lucretius applied by S. Hierome Epist. ad Ctesiphont. tom. 2. pag 253.

<sup>h</sup> Habeatur inter Ansel. opuscula.
<sup>i</sup> Bibliothec lib. 3. pag 183.

<sup>k</sup> Postan. in loc.

feare lest he fall. But Christ who did no sinne, in whose mouth was no guile, as you heard in the Epistle for this day) Christ, I say, being so well God as man; <sup>1</sup>like to man in infirmity, but unlike man in iniquity, might praise himselfe as he doth, I am the good shepherd.

Every word hath his Emphasis; I am, I am a shepherd, the Shepherd, the good yea that good Shepherd, ἐνομιμαί ἰσαράς, I am, that is, euer was; and euer will be the Shepherd of your soules; <sup>m</sup>I am, is my name, from whom other shepherds and sheep are, <sup>n</sup>the first and the last,<sup>o</sup> in whom they liue, and moue and haue their being: the good, <sup>p</sup> simply good, singularly good, for none is good but God, Mark. 10. 18. Other are good in comparison of worse, <sup>q</sup>receiving also this good from me, from whom only cometh euer good and perfect gift, I am that good Shepherd fore-told by the Prophets, <sup>r</sup>that should feed his flocke and gather the lambes with his armes, and carrie them in his bosome, seeking that which was lost, and bringing againe that which was drisen away, binding up that which was broken, and strengthening that which was weake.

Other may commend themselues for good Shepherds also, when their personall gifts are disgraced to the dishonour of God and his Gospell, as meeke <sup>t</sup> Paul magnified himselfe against the false teachers; and modest <sup>u</sup> Iewell iustified his learning against the railing Papiests; and of late, when the Millenarians in a <sup>x</sup> petition had traduced our Clergie for a dumbe and insufficient Ministrie; to stop that foule mouth, almost so void of learning as it is of loue, <sup>y</sup> the two famous Vniuersities of this Island, Cambridge and Oxford, auowed to the whole world, that there are at this day moe learned men in England, then are to be found among all the Ministers of the religion in France, Flanders, Germanie, Poland, Denmarke, Scotland, and all Europe beside.

It was time to say with the <sup>z</sup> Psalmist, vnto their confusion and Gods glorie, great is the company of Preachers. It was time (when our shamelesse aduersaries had giuen out in writing, that there were but foure profitable Preachers in the greatest part of Kent) to iustifie that the Church is furnished with many good Shepherds, I say not superlatiue good, for only Christ is the good Shepherd; nor positiue good, for <sup>a</sup>who is sufficient for these things? but comparatiue good, in respect of that viperous brood (which eats out the wombe of their mother, and bites off the head of their fathers) euer learned conformable pastor may well say with Christ, I am a good shepherd. Alas all their spight is now vented in corners, and all their light is vnder a bed or bushell, but our Clergie <sup>b</sup> shines as lights in the world, in the midst of a wicked and crooked nation.

The whole Gospell contains a description of a	Good Shep-herd, who	} Gives his life for the sheepe, vers. 11. Knowes his sheepe, vers. 14. Recalleth all stragling sheepe, vers. 16.	Hireling, who loueth	} Himselfe too much, vers. 12. His flocke too little, vers. 13.
Christis sheepe, hauing marks,	} Inward, I know mine, and am knowne of mine, vers. 14.	} Eare-marke, bearing the good Shepherd.	} Outward, an	} Wooll-marke, following the good Shepherd.

The Lord (saith <sup>c</sup> David) is my Shepherd, therefore can I lacke nothing.
<sup>d</sup> Oues enim } Educit de lacu miserie.
 } Conducit per viam iustitie.
 } Perducit ad pascua vite.

First, our blessed Shepherd deliuered his sheepe <sup>e</sup>out of the horrible pit, out of the hands of <sup>f</sup>all their enemies. As <sup>g</sup>David tooke his fathers sheepe out of

<sup>1</sup> Aug. Epi. 143

<sup>m</sup> Exod. 3. 14.
<sup>n</sup> Apocal. 1. 8.
<sup>o</sup> Acts 17. 28.
<sup>p</sup> August. i. p. 54. & Rupert. in loc.
<sup>q</sup> 2 Cor 3. 5.
<sup>r</sup> Esay. 40. 11.
<sup>t</sup> Ezecch. 34. 16

<sup>u</sup> 2 Cor. 11. See epi. Dom. Sexages.
<sup>v</sup> Answer to Hardings Preface in defence of his challenge.
<sup>x</sup> Exhibited to the Kings Maiestie, an. 1603.
<sup>y</sup> Answer to the Puritans petition pag. 31
<sup>z</sup> Psal. 68. 11.

<sup>a</sup> 2. Cor. 2. 16.

<sup>b</sup> Philip. 2. 15.

<sup>c</sup> Psal. 23. 1.
<sup>d</sup> Ardens in Euang. Dom. 2. post pasch.
<sup>e</sup> Psal. 40. 2.
<sup>f</sup> Luke 1. 74.
<sup>g</sup> 1. Sam. 17. 35.

navius, canendus est latro: We must honour the good shepherd, shun the theefe, tolerate the hireling: for albeit he seeke not that which is Iesus Christs but his own, yet he doth good so long as he doth stay with his sheepe and preach; vnam carpe, spinam caue. Consider what he saith, and not what he doth, heare him as long as he sits in Moses chaire, but when he sits in the seate of the scornefull, haue no fellowship with the vnfruitfull workes of darkenesse. An hireling is good in ingressu & progressu, saith Bernard, onely bad in egressu; saith Christ, for when he seeth the wolfe comming he leaueh the sheepe.

The wolfe catcheth and scattereth the sheepe] By wolfe is meant all danger annoyng the sheepe, as Tyrants Atheists, Heretikes, especiall the deuill, who doth not only catch and scatter, as it is in the text, but also kill and destroy, vers. 10 He cannot kill, except he catch; and he cannot catch, except he scatter. S. Thomas was scattered out of the Disciples companie, when he did not beleue Christs resurrection. S. Peter was also scattered from the good shepherd and his flocke when he denied his Master. The Separatists at this time being scattered from Christs fold, and caught and insnared by the wolfe daily. The shepherd therefore must looke to stragling sheepe, especially to such as loue not the congregation, but are gadding alwaies after new Pastors & other pastures: If there be any consolati- on in Christ, if any cofort of loue, if any fellowship of the spirit, if any compassio & mercy, support one another, endeuouring to keep the vniety of the spirit in the bond of peace

Lastly, Christs sheepe are described in this Gospell, and that by their secret markes; on Gods behalfe predestination, I know my sheepe, for their names are written in heauen, Luke 10. 20. I know whom I haue chosen, Ioh. 13. vers. 18. on their part, a liuely faith, I am knowne of mine, for they beleue that I am the good shepherd, and the great shepherd of their soules. Outward markes of Christs sheepe are diligence in hearing his words, and obedience in following his waies, in being hearers of his word and doers of the same, Iam 1 22. receiuing the Gos- pell (although preached by subordinate ministers and vnder-shepherds) not as the word of men, but as it is indeed the word of God, 1. Theff. 2. 13.

I will end this tract in the words of Bernard: If thou beest a good shepherd reioyce, for great is thy reward in heauen; if an hireling, tremble, for thy danger is great on earth; if a theefe or a wolfe that scattereth Christs sheepe, repent heartily, lest thy damnation be great in hell.

The Epistle. 1. Pet. 2. 11.

Dearly beloued, I beseech you as strangers and pilgrims, abstaine from fleshly lusts &c.

IN the former part of this Epistle, S. Peter instructed vs in articles of faith; in this latter he descends vnto rules of good life, teaching vs how to liue soberly, and righteously, and godly.

Soberly toward our selues, abstaine from fleshly lusts, and that because

You are strangers and pilgrims
They fight against the soule.
Your selues, that yee may stop the monthes of foolish and ignorant people.
God, that other seeing your good workes, may praise God.
Enemies, that God by your good example may visit, that is, conuert them.

Righteous-ly toward our neigh- bours in General toward Gentiles, haue your conversati- on honest among the Gentiles, in respect of Christians, loue brotherly fellowship.

Particular, Supreme, the King as chiefe.
Subordinate, rulers under him: & this obedience to superior powers is to be performed in regard of it

Author, it is the will of God, ergo, for the Lords sake.
End, that euil men may be pu- nished, and good encouraged.

Godly toward God, as the seruants of God, serue God.

Dearly

x Phil. 2. 21.
y August. tract.
40. in Ioan.
c Matth. 23. 3.
a Psal. 1. 1.
b Ephes. 5. 11.
c Ser. ad Patio- res in Synodo.
d Maldon. in loc.
e August. tract.
46. in Ioan. & Euthymus in loc.
f Ioh. 20. 24, 25. g Ma. 26. 31. 65

b Phil. 2. 1.
c Ephes. 4. 2.
d Zepper in loc.
e Culman in loc.
f Heb 13. 20.
g 1. Pet. 2. 25.

o Ser. ad Pa- tores in Synodo congregatus.

P Sarcenius. Marlorat. Io- rin in loc q Titus 2. 12.

c Aquin. Caluin. Caieton. & reli- qui serè omnes.

<sup>f</sup> Apud Lorin in loc.

<sup>g</sup> Aquin. in loc.

<sup>h</sup> Phil 3. 20.

<sup>i</sup> Gal 4. 26.

<sup>j</sup> Mica. 2. 10.

Hebr 13. 14.

<sup>k</sup> Sophocles.

<sup>l</sup> Gloss. ordin. in loc.

<sup>m</sup> Psal. 17. 14.

<sup>n</sup> Psal. 39. 14.

<sup>o</sup> Com. de exilio.

<sup>p</sup> In Axiacho.

<sup>q</sup> Rodolphus Ardens in epist. Dom. 3. post Pasch.

<sup>r</sup> Gen. 19. 17.

<sup>s</sup> Luc. 9. 51. 53.

<sup>t</sup> Phil. 3. 13.

<sup>u</sup> Ioh. 14. 6.

<sup>v</sup> Ich. 10. 9.

<sup>w</sup> 1. Cor. 9. 25.

<sup>x</sup> Hcb. 12. 1.

<sup>y</sup> Arietius in loc.

<sup>z</sup> Gal. 5. 19.

<sup>aa</sup> Rom. 8. 7.

<sup>ab</sup> 2. Sam. 20. 9.

<sup>ac</sup> Ephes. 6. 11.

<sup>ad</sup> Rom. 6. 13.

<sup>ae</sup> 2. Cor. 6. 7.

<sup>af</sup> 1. Tim. 1. 18.

<sup>ag</sup> James 4. 1.

<sup>ah</sup> Busbequius de re militari adversus Turcas instituenda.

<sup>ai</sup> Luke 12. 35.

<sup>aj</sup> 1. Pet. 1. 13.

Dearely beloved] <sup>f</sup> Oecumenius obserues, that ἀγαπιωμενος is hee which is beloved for some one thing, but ἀγαπητος vsed here, signifieth one that is beloved in all, at least in many respects; and so <sup>t</sup> these Profelytes dispersed here and there through Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, &c. were beloved of Peter as men, more beloved as his brethren in Christ, yet most beloved as his children, whom he had begotten in the faith.

As strangers and pilgrims] A Christian is a <sup>u</sup> burgesse of heauen, a citizen and sonne of <sup>x</sup> Hierusalem aboue; so long then as he trauelleth on earth, he is both a stranger and a stragler; a stranger, as belonging to another countrey; a stragler as hauing here no <sup>y</sup> permanent Citie. The worldly man is a pilgrim too, tossed from post to pillar, subiect to change and chance, <sup>z</sup> τριπλις ποταμο ποταμοι φησιν: yet he reputes himselfe <sup>a</sup> no stranger, in that his <sup>b</sup> portion is in this life, making earth his heauen, and his purse his paradise: but the childe of God saith as <sup>c</sup> David, I am a stranger and a sojourner as all my fathers were. <sup>d</sup> Plutarch and <sup>e</sup> Plato did say so much by the light of reason, and therefore let vs which haue faiths eye, see to much in religion.

Strangers haue <sup>f</sup> foure remarkable qualities:

1. They goe forward euery day toward home.
2. They chuse the best way.
3. They be very sparing in their expences, often forbearing things necessarie.
4. They will not be detained in their iourney with any vaine delights or allurements.

So we must not looke <sup>s</sup> backe to Sodome, but still haue our <sup>h</sup> face toward Hierusalem, <sup>i</sup> forgetting that which is behinde, and endeououring our teiues vnto that which is before, dayly growing vpward and going forward in the waies of the Lord toward our heauenly home.

Secondly, we must chuse the right and best way, not the wry-ways of Antichristianisme, nor the by-ways of humane Philosophie, but Christ who is <sup>k</sup> the way that leadeth vnto Hierusalem, and <sup>l</sup> the doore, by which at our iourneys end, we must enter into our heauenly fathers house.

Thirdly, we must <sup>m</sup> abstaine from euery thing which <sup>n</sup> presseth downe and hindereth vs in our race; strangers must not be <sup>o</sup> curiosi in aliena republica, nor we too much cumbred with affaires of the world; especially we must take heed, that we be not detained with vaine pleasures and delights, as our Apostle, we must abstaine from fleshy lusts; as <sup>p</sup> adulterie, fornication, vncleannesse, wantonnesse, idolatrie, witchcraft, hatred, debate, emulation, wrath, contentions, seditions, heresies, enuy, murther, drunkennesse, and such like: in a word, from euery corrupt affection of our nature, <sup>q</sup> for the wisdome of the flesh is enmitie against God These lusts are called fleshy, because they proceed from the flesh, and nourish the flesh and make men fleshy: but the contrary vertues, as loue, ioy, peace, long-suffering, gentlenesse, temperancie, meekenesse, faith, are called spirituall, because they proceed from the spirit, Gal. 5. 22. and delight the spirit, Eph. 4. 30. 5. 10 making men also spirituall and seeking the things aboue, Coloss. 3. 1.

Which fight against the soule] Furie fights against the soule like a mad Turke; Fornication like trecherous <sup>r</sup> Iobab, it doth kisse to kill; Drunkennesse is the master gunner that sets all on fire; Gluttonie will stand for a Corporall, Auarice for a pioner, Idlenesse for a gentleman of the company, Pride must be Captaine: let vs therefore put on <sup>t</sup> Gods armour, weapons of <sup>u</sup> righteousness on the right hand, and on the left, that we may <sup>x</sup> fight a good fight against all fleshy lusts, which <sup>y</sup> warre in our members against the soule. They which are well provided for warre, and are alwaies in a readinesse to fight, shall be sure (said that expert Captaine <sup>z</sup> Zenophon) to haue many friends and few foes. If then our <sup>a</sup> loynes of the <sup>b</sup> minde be girded about, if we put on righteousness as an habergeon, Esay 59. 17. if we take vnto vs the shield of faith and sword of the Spirit, we shall be able to cast downe holds, 2 Cor. 10. 4. and to withstand all the assaults of our enemies, Ephes. 6. 11. (

See that you have honest conversation among the Gentiles.] As we must live soberly toward our selves, so righteously toward other, giving none offence neither to the Jewes, nor to the Grecians, nor to the Church of God. Especially we must carry our selves well and wisely toward those that are without. Have honest conversation among the Gentiles. Hereby God shall have praise, we comfort, they profit. As Gods name is blasphemed through euill, so glorified through holy conuersation. A Christian is a spectacle to the world, and therefore he must prouide things honest in the sight of all men. See Epistle 3. Sunday after Epiphanie.

Secondly, good conuersation among the Gentiles is honorable, and comfortable for our selves, in that we may stop the mouths of foolish and ignorant men. And this of all other is the most Christian and noble reuenge; Regnum est audire male cum feceris bene; si recte facis, quid eos vereris, qui non recte reprehendunt? saith i Epictetus. And Picus Mirandula; Felix es qui bene viuens a malis ob id maxime, quia bene viuis, male interim audias: Happy are they who when they doe well heare ill; much more blessed are they who liue so well, as that their backbiting aduersaries seeing their good workes, are constrained to praise God, and to speake well of them. As Saul vnderstanding Dauids honest carriage toward him, instantly brake forth into this ingenuous confession, Thou art more righteous than I. So Plinius Secundus examining the deuotion and holy liues of Christians vnder Traian, had his mouth stopt from backbiting, and yet open to commend them exceedingly. Did not the Schismaticke when he had about forty yeeres ript vp the wombe, and searched as it were the secret entrals of our deare mother the Church of England, at last say with Nero: Nesciebam me tam pulchram matrem habere.

It is a good apothegme of Diogenes; if thou wilt be reuenged of thineemie, become an honest man; walke vprightly, saith Salomon, and then walke confidently.

Integer vite scelerisque purus Non eget Mauri iaculis, nec arcu, &c.

Lastly, good conuersation is profitable for such as are without, for hereby they shall praise God in the day of visitation.] Some construe this of Gods visitation in iudgement, but most, of his visitation in mercy; for honest conuersation in Christians is a great motiue to conuert Gentiles, and to winne the most cruell enemies of religion vnto the faith. Our English histories afford a memorable president hereof in S. Albane, who receiued a poore persecuted Christian into his house, and seeing his holy deuotion, and sweet carriage, was so much affected with his good example, that he became both an earnest professor of the faith, and in conclusion a glorious martyr for the faith.

It is reported of Lucianus an eloquent man and ancient martyr, that he persuaded many Gentiles vnto the truth of religion, only with the modest and graue composition of his countenance, in so much as some write the persecuting Emperour Maximian, or as * other, Maximine, durst not looke him in the face, lest he should turne Christian. Paul and Silas conuerted their Iaylor, and many Martyrs in old time their executioners, only with their amiable and admirable meeknesse, patience, constancie.

If Cicero called Historie the mistresse and glasse of our life, by the knowledge whereof a scholler may seeme to haue travelled in all countries, to haue liued in all ages, and to haue bene conuersant in all affaires: if good examples of men dead are helpfull ad consolationem predicatorum & peccatorum; how much more shall the liuely patternes of liueing Saints occasion the Gentiles to praise God in the day of visitation?

Submit your selves therefore.] Concerning obedience to the Magistrate supreme and subordinate, together with the reasons enforcing the same, see Epistle 4. Sunday after Epiphanie: touching Christian libertie, which Anabaptists

D d. and

<sup>c</sup> 1. Cor. 10 32

<sup>d</sup> Colof. 4. 5.

<sup>e</sup> Ezech. 36. 20.

Rom 2. 24.

<sup>f</sup> Matth. 5. 16.

<sup>g</sup> 1 Cor. 4. 9.

<sup>h</sup> Caelius Calpurnin. in dist. moral.

<sup>i</sup> Enchirid. c. 57.

<sup>k</sup> 1. Sam 24. 18

<sup>l</sup> Epist. lib. 10. epist. 97.

<sup>m</sup> For England may take vp

the speech,

Psal. 95. 10

Fortie yeeres long was I griued with this generation &c.

<sup>n</sup> Xpilin. in

vita Neronis.

<sup>o</sup> Plutarch. com.

de exilio.

<sup>p</sup> Pro 10. 9.

<sup>q</sup> Horat. c. r. in.

lib. 1 od 22.

<sup>r</sup> Luther apud

Maxlv. in lec.

<sup>s</sup> Beda lib. 1. hist.

Anglican. cap 7.

Magdeburg.

ccxi. 4. col 1414

Bavō annal. tom.

2. ad ann. 503.

<sup>t</sup> Consule Hierō.

in vita Lucian.

& notat. Baron.

in Rom. marty-

rol. lan. 7.

<sup>u</sup> Suuius 7. lan.

<sup>v</sup> Baron. ubi

supra.

<sup>y</sup> Acts 16.

<sup>z</sup> Volateran. Ep.

dedicat. ante cō- mentaria Mal-

mesbur. ep. præ-

fix. lib. de gellis

Anglican.

<sup>a</sup> Prolog. legend.

surce.

and other carnall Gospellers abuse to disobedience, see Epistle 4. Sunday in Lent.

Loue brotherly fellowship.] A precept so necessarie, that Paul repeats it in his writings <sup>b</sup> thrice, S. Peter in two Epistles <sup>c</sup> foure times; Athenagoras, Iustin Martyr, Tertullian, in their fenerall Apologies highly commend brotherly fellowship in the primitiue Christians; and S. Iohn in his <sup>d</sup> Reuelation makes mention of a whole Church called Philadelphia, the which, as <sup>e</sup> Augustine thinks, is a fit name for all Christendome; <sup>f</sup> seeing all Christians haue but one father in heauen, which is God, and but one mother on earth, and that is the Church: all are brethren and we that liue together are twins.

I cannot say with Paul, as touching brotherly loue, yee need not that I write vnto you, 1 Theff. 4. 9. for most men in our daies are either brethren and not good fellowes, or else good fellowes and not brethren. The composition is rare, there be few Philadelphians in the world. Schismatikes are all for the brotherhood, and nothing for fellowship; on the contrary, wicked Atheists are all for fellowship, and nothing for the brotherhood. A good Christian must embrace both (as our Apostle here) loue brotherly fellowship.

The Gospell. I O H N. 16. 16.

Iesus said to his Disciples, after a while yee shall not see me, and againe after a while yee shall see me, &c.

THis Gospell is part of that excellent Sermon, which our blessed Sauiour made to his Disciples after Supper the night before he suffered; so that the very circumstances of person and time should incite you to marke it with all diligence, and regard it with all reuerence; for who did <sup>g</sup> euer speake so well as Christ? and whom did he loue better than his owne Disciples? and the last words of good men are the best; for as the last glimpse of the candle is most bright, and the last glare of the Sun going downe most cleare; so the last speech of a deare friend parting with his friends, and departing out of this world, is vsually most affectionate and pathetical. An admonition vttered by such a teacher at such a time to such an auditorie, requires in speaker and hearer good attention great deuotion.

In the whole two points are more specially regardable:

The carefulnesse of Christ in in- structing of the	}	Matter, forewarning them of troubles.
		Manner, forewarning them often, and plainly, propounding a familiar example, vers. 21. A woman when shee trauelleth, &amp;c.
The dulnesse of the Disci- ples in vnderstanding, as it doth appeare by	}	Their owne questions among themselues, v. 17. 18. What is this, &amp;c.
		Christ his answer, vers. 19. 20, &c.

As the wise Mariner in a calme makes all his racklings strong against a storme; and the carefull fen-man mends his banks in summer, lest his grounds be drowned in winter; and as a learned Physitian looks not only to the disease, which afflicts his patient for the present, but administreth often pysicke to prevent a maladie which is as yet to come: so Christ the Captaine in the Churches ship, and great Physitian of our soules (<sup>h</sup> his houre being come that he should leaue the world) called his Disciples together, as <sup>i</sup> Iacob did his sonnes, and told them plainly what good and euill should come to them in the last dayes after his departure.

It is a question among Philosophers, whether it be better prascire an nescire mala.

<sup>b</sup> Rom 12. 10.
<sup>1</sup> Theff. 4. 9.
 Heb 13. 1.
<sup>c</sup> 1. Epist. 1. 22.
 cap 3. 8.
<sup>2</sup> Epist. cap. 1. 7.
<sup>3</sup> Cap 3. 7.
<sup>e</sup> Apud Loria. in
 1. Pet. 1. 2.
<sup>f</sup> Primasius in
 Heb. 13. 1.

<sup>g</sup> Ioh. 7. 46.

<sup>h</sup> Ioh. 13. 1.
<sup>i</sup> Gen. 49. 1.

mala, to fore-know mischiefe or not. <sup>k</sup> Erasmus disputing against Astrologians held all Prognostications and predictions vnprofitable; for if they foretold ioyfull newes, they decreate our future pleasure; if euill tidings, encrease our present paine; the feare of danger being often worse than the danger it selfe. But whatsoeuer Erasmus and <sup>l</sup> Fauorinus haue more wittily than wisely written of this argument, it is a conclusion acknowledged in the world, and confessed in the schoole. that it is better to know before we feele, than to feele mischiefe before we know it. For if we be well admonished of any misfortune to come, we may either preuent it cautionately, or else endure it patiently.

2. Christ instructs his Apostles often in this one point; sometime plainly, vers. 2. They shall excommunicate you, yea the time shall come, that whosoener killeth you, will thinke that he doth God seruice: sometimes obscurely, vers. 16. After a while yee shall not see me: sometimes vsing a bare affirmation, as vers. 4. These things haue I told you: sometimes an earnest asseueration, as in the 20. verse, Verily; verily, I say vnto you, yee shall weepe and lament. <sup>m</sup> Insinuating hereby, that it is commendable for the Doctor, and profitable for the Scholler, that the same Lecture be repeated againe and againe, according to that of <sup>n</sup> Paul, To write the same things, is not grieuous to me, and it is sure to you.

Vnregenerate hearts are termed in holy Bible stonie hearts; if they were brazen they might be melted, if iron, they might be made pliable: but hearts of stone must be broken with continuall hammering, adamantine hearts are mollified only by the blood of Christ, and that through often dropping on them,

Gutta cauat lapidem, non vi, sed saepe cadendo;

Sic homo fit iustus, non vi sed saepe monendo.

When our doctrine shall drop as P raine, and our speech distill as dew; when we shall daily beat hard hearts vpon the anuill of conscience with the powerfull hammer of Gods pure word, at the last they will bend, yea breake, and then <sup>q</sup> a broken and contrite heart the Lord will not despise.

Thirdly, Christ instructed his Apostles plainly, vers. 21. A woman when she trauelleth, hath sorrow.] Feare and hope strine in her as the two twins in Rebeccaes wombe. Her sorrow is when her houre is come, yet she doth hope well, because she knoweth that her grieffe is common vnto women in her case. Secondly, she is well assured that her paine cannot ordinarily be long, sorrow may continue for a night but ioy commeth in the morning. Thirdly she doth hope the end of her paine will be the beginning of her ioy: for as soone as she is deliuered of the childe, she remembreth no more the anguish, for ioy that a man is borne into the world.

So likewise it shall be with you my Disciples, in the world yee shall haue affliction, for these troubles are common, <sup>r</sup> all that will liue godly shall suffer persecution. Secondly, your sorrow is but short; a little while, and ye shall not see me; againe, a little while, and yee shall see me. Thirdly, your mourning shall be turned into mirth, and no man shall take this ioy from you.

By this familiar instructing hee teacheth all Teachers to consider more the dulnesse of their audiorie, then the quicknesse of their owne wit, and to regard the peoples benefit more than their owne credit, losing as it were themselves to winne other vnto God. It is an excellent speech of <sup>t</sup> Augustine: Mallem ut reprehendant Grammatici, quam ut non intelligant populi. The same <sup>u</sup> Father in his workes often translates the words of Dauid; non est occultatum os meum a te, my bones are not hid from thee, non est occultatum ossum meum, as desiring to speake barbarously rather then obscurely. <sup>x</sup> Philip Melancthon vsed euermore the most received formes and phrases of speech, <sup>y</sup> hating equiuocation and ambiguity. Bishop Latymer was so plaine in his preaching, that he drew many comparisons euen from the saffron bagge and hogstie. The most learned Diuines in all ages had their introductions to Religion, and easie Catechismes, as Clemens Alexandrinus his Pædagogus: Lactantius, his Institutions: Cyri, his Catechismes: Augustine his Enchiridion and booke De catechizandis rudibus.

<sup>k</sup> Leontius in admonit. de usu Astrologie.

<sup>l</sup> Aulus Gellius lib. 14 cap. 1 in fine.

<sup>m</sup> Heming. Poet. in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Phil 3. 1.

<sup>o</sup> Ezech 11. 19. 36. 26.

<sup>p</sup> Deut. 32. 2.

<sup>q</sup> Psal. 51. 17.

<sup>r</sup> Ferus ser. 1. in Dom. Iubilate.

<sup>t</sup> 2. Tim. 3. 12.

<sup>u</sup> In Psal. 138.

<sup>v</sup> Vbi sup. & de doct. Christian. lib. 3. c. 3. & lib. 4. cap. 10.

<sup>x</sup> Ita proficitur in prefat. Apolog. Augustan. Conf. ff.

<sup>y</sup> Camerarius in vita Phil. pag. 61, 62.

I write not this against accurate Sermons in learned auditories; every Preacher in this case may professe ingeniously with that famous Orator Demosthenes, that he would speake if it were possible non modo scripta, sed etiam sculpta; <sup>a</sup> but he must consider seriously whether he teach many or few, such as are learned or ignorant, ciuill or rude. For if hee feed infants, he must giue milke faith <sup>b</sup> Paul, that is, nutritoria, non peremptoria, faith <sup>c</sup> Augustine; or as Bernard. apta non alta. There is <sup>d</sup> quadam diligens negligentia, que sic ornatum destrahit, ut sordes non contrahat. A Preacher ought to be diligently negligent, hauing his phrase neither ouer-curiously set, nor yet altogether rudely composed, but so rightly diuideing the word that he may deliuer alway profitable matter after a profitable manner; and without all question, it is the greatest point of deepe learning to distinguish aptly that which is confused, and illustrate plainly that which is obscure.

After a while, yee shall not see me, and againe, after a while, yee shall see me.] I finde foure expositions of this one clause: first, <sup>e</sup> Alcuinus interprets it thus: The time wherein ye shall not see me shall be but short, namely, part of three daies, while I shall rest in my graue; the time likewise wherein yee shall see me will be but little, to wit, fortie daies after my resurrection.

Secondly, <sup>f</sup> Theophylact, Euthymius, Caietan, and other vnderstand it thus: After a while yee shall not see mee; for I shall be dead and buried; and againe after a while yee shall see me; for <sup>g</sup> I will rise againe, and goe before you into Galile.

Thirdly, <sup>h</sup> Rupertus expounds it thus: After a while ye shall neuer see me in this mortall body, but yet after a while ye shall see me in a glorified and impassible body.

Fourthly, <sup>i</sup> S. Augustine and Beda thus: After a while ye shall not see me, for I ascend vp to my father to sit at his right hand, and yet after a while ye shall see me, for I will come againe quickly to iudge both the quicke and the dead; and then your hearts shall reioyce, and your ioy shall no man take from you. This last interpretation I hold to be the best, and most agreeable to Christs intent in this Gospell appointed for the Sunday, being betweene his resurrection and ascension, and so consequently in the iudgement of the Church not to be construed of his death and resurrection, but rather of his ascension and second comming to iudgement: See the Gospell for Whitfunday: Maldonat in loc. & Iansen. concord. cap. 135.

Hence we may learne to be patient and comforted in our affliction. Howsoeuer Christ absent himselfe for a while, yet after a while we shall see him, he will either come or send comfort: example hereof in the blessed protomartyr Stephen, a while Christ did as it were withdraw himselfe, but within a while againe Stephen <sup>k</sup> saw the heauens open, and the Sonne of man standing at the right hand of God <sup>l</sup> Robert Glouer being condemned by the bloody Bishop of Lichfield to die for the profession of the truth, a while felt in himselfe no willingnesse, but rather an heauinesse and dulnesse of spirit, full of much discomfort, and void of spirituall consolation to beare the crosse of martyrdom: but within a while the Lord replenisheth him abundantly with such ioyes, as that comming neere to the stake, he cried out, he is come, he is come, and that with such alacritie as one seeming rather to be risen from some deadly danger to libertie of life, then as one passing out of the world by paines of death.

The dulnesse of Christs owne Disciples in not vnderstanding these mysteries, affordeth <sup>m</sup> instruction and <sup>n</sup> comfort. We may learne <sup>o</sup> that the naturall man perceiueth not the things of God, vntill the blessed Spirit become his tutor; and therefore we must pray with <sup>p</sup> Dauid, lead me forth in thy truth, and learne me, for thou art the God of my saluation. Hence we may receiue consolation also. <sup>q</sup> Weaklings in faith are not reiected of Christ, but strengthened, <sup>r</sup> he doth not breake the bruised reed, nor quench the smoaking flax.

<sup>a</sup> Manlius in loc. com.

<sup>b</sup> Augustin. de cat. rudibus. cap. 15.

<sup>c</sup> 2 Cor. 3. 2:

<sup>d</sup> Lib. 2. cont. aduersarium legis, cap. 2.

<sup>e</sup> Augustin. de doctrin. Christian. lib. 4. ca. 10

<sup>f</sup> Apud Thom. ca. in loc.

<sup>g</sup> Com. in loc.

<sup>h</sup> Mat. 26. 32.

<sup>i</sup> Lib. 12. com. in Ioan.

<sup>j</sup> Tracl. 101. in Ioan.

<sup>k</sup> Acts 7. 56.

<sup>l</sup> Master Fox in the martyrdom of Robert Glouer and Cornelius Bonney.

<sup>m</sup> Heming. postill. in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Melancthon. com. in Ioan. 16.

<sup>o</sup> 1 Cor. 3. 14.

<sup>p</sup> Psal 25. 4.

<sup>q</sup> Rom. 14. 1.

<sup>r</sup> Matth. 12. 20.

The Epistle. Iames 1. vers. 17.

Every good gift, and every perfect gift is from above, and commeth downe from the father of lights, &c.

Here be two kinde of euill mentioned in holy Scriptures: } Vnum quod homo facit, an euill which is sinne. } Alterum quod homo patitur, an euill which is a punishment for sinne.

God is Author of all punishment for sinne, according to that of the Prophet Is there any euill in a Citie and the Lord hath not done it? <sup>a</sup> that is any iudgement for euill, any plague, famine, warre, and the Lord hath not sent it? but he is not author of euill which is sinne. God (saith our Apostle) cannot be tempted with euill, neither tempt other vnto euill. The Father of lights hath prepared indeed outward darkenesse of <sup>x</sup> hell, as the reward of sinne; but he did not create the inward darkenesse of the minde, which is sinne. The reason hereof is deliuered in the text: he that is the fountaine of all good, is not author of any euill, but every good and perfect gift is from above; and the Father of lights in his goodnesse is constant and permanent. <sup>y</sup> For albeit the Sunne in his course be variable, sometimes appearing bright and cleere, sometime darke and c'oudie; yet the Father of lights is euermore the same, shining alwaies in bounty without change or shadow of change. Gifts, the perfectnes of gifts, the perfectnes of all gifts comes downe from the Father of lights, with whom there is no variableness neither shadow of change.

All the gifts of fortune falsly so called, as riches and possessions; all the gracefull endowments of the body, as agilitie, strength, comelinesse, &c. all the goods of the minde, as vertue, wit, learning, al these and all other beside these descend from God above, who giues πᾶσι πᾶσι, to all, all things Acts 17. 25. no siler in <sup>z</sup> Beniamins sacke till Ioseph put it in; no good in man except the Lord bestow it.

First, for the gifts of fortune rich and poore, Iob resolues the doubt; <sup>a</sup> The Lord giueth, and the Lord taketh, blessed be the Name of the Lord. Bread in the Pater noster is called ours; giue vs this day our daily bread. but (as <sup>b</sup> Augustine sweetly) ne putetur à nobis, dicimus da nobis. Lett we should imagine that it is our owne from our selues of our selues, our Master enioyned vs to begge it of our Father in heauen daily, saying and praying, giue vs this day our daily bread. It is a gift, ergo, not our owne; it is good, ergo, from above.

Happily the worldling (blinded by the Prince of darkenesse, and not illuminated by the Father of lights) ascribeth his increase of corne, wine, and oyle, either to the goodnesse of his skill, or to the greatnesse of his industrie, saying with proud Nabuchodonozor, <sup>c</sup> Is not this great Babel which I haue built? haue not I got all these goods my selfe by mine owne wit and prouidence? But what saith our Apostle? Erre not my deare brethren, every good and perfect gift is from above. The Scripture speakes plainly, that <sup>d</sup> Paul may plant, and that Apollos may water, but it is God that giueth the increate; <sup>e</sup> except the Lord keepe the citie, the watchman waketh but in vaine; except the Lord build the house, their labour is but lost that build it: It is vaine to rise vp early and to take rest late, and to eat the bread of carefulnesse, except the Lord blesse our endeouours.

That our valleyes therefore may stand so thicke with corne, that they <sup>f</sup> shall laugh and singe that our <sup>g</sup> garner may be full and plenteous with all manner of store, that our sheepe may bring forth thousands and ten thousands in our streets, that our oxen may be strong to labour, and no decay in our cattell; it behooueth vs to begge all these blessings of the Father of light, for it is he that doth blesse thy going out, and thy comming in, it is he that maketh thee plenteous in goods, plenteous in the fruit of thy ground, it is he that opens his treasures, euen the heauen to giue raine vnto the land in due season, only he that doth blesse all the workes of thine hands, Deut 28.

<sup>c</sup> Augustin. contra Adamantin. cap. 26. Tertulian con. Marcion lib. 2 cap 14. malum culpe & pane.
<sup>e</sup> Amos 3. 6
<sup>u</sup> H ymo, Caluar, Riber in Amos 3.
<sup>z</sup> Matth. 25. 41

<sup>y</sup> English glofs.

<sup>z</sup> Gen 44.

<sup>a</sup> Job. 1. 21.

<sup>b</sup> Epist. 143.

<sup>c</sup> Dan. 4. 27.

<sup>d</sup> 1. Cor 3 6.

<sup>e</sup> Psal. 127.

<sup>f</sup> Psal 65. 14.

<sup>g</sup> Psal 144. 13.

<sup>b</sup> Matth. 6. 27.<sup>i</sup> Matt. 5. 35.<sup>k</sup> Pſal. 139. 15.<sup>l</sup> Luke 3. 38.<sup>m</sup> Deut. 32. 6.<sup>n</sup> Pſal. 144. 1.<sup>o</sup> Pſal. 10. 33.<sup>p</sup> Pſal. 144. 12.<sup>q</sup> Judges 4. 18.<sup>r</sup> Pro. 5. 13.<sup>s</sup> Pſal. 128. 3.<sup>t</sup> Galen.<sup>u</sup> Eccl. 12. 3, 6.<sup>x</sup> Pſalme 90. 9.<sup>y</sup> 1 Kings 3.<sup>z</sup> Commentar.

lib. 21 p. 643.

<sup>a</sup> Funccius &

Buchholzer. in Chron.

<sup>b</sup> Lib. 7. cap. 13.<sup>c</sup> 1. Cor. 12.<sup>d</sup> Sixtus Senen.

bib. lib. 3. p. 187.

<sup>e</sup> In Colloquio de Erasmo.

<sup>f</sup> Hugo.

Secondly, for the gifts of the body; it was God that gaue strength to Sampſon beauty to Aſſolon, talneſſe vnto Saul. Of our ſelues we cannot adde one <sup>b</sup> cubit of ſtature to our ſelues. He that would ſeeme old cannot make <sup>i</sup> one haire of his head white, nor he that would be young one hoarie haire blacke. It is God that did wonderfully frame vs in our mother wombes, <sup>k</sup> beholding our ſubſtance being yet vnperfe<sup>t</sup>, and in his booke are all our members written; it is God that did more wonderfully bring vs into the world, inſomuch that we men haue iuſt cauſe to praiſe him for their deliuerance: it is God alone that doth moſt wonderfully preſerue vs in our nonage, middle-age, doteage, while we vſe foure legs two legs, three legs; as <sup>l</sup> Adam was, ſo every ſonne of Adam is in this reſpect the <sup>m</sup> ſonne of God. That our hands therefore may be taught to <sup>n</sup> warre, and our fingers to fight, that our <sup>o</sup> ſet may be like Harts feet, and our armes able to breake a bow of ſteele, that our ſonnes may grow vp as the <sup>p</sup> young plants, and that our daughters may be as the poliſhed corners of the temple, that we may plow with our owne <sup>q</sup> heffer, and reioyce with the wife of our <sup>r</sup> youth; that our wife may be like the fruitfull vine, and our <sup>s</sup> children like oliue branches round about our table, we muſt entreat theſe bleſſings of the father of light, from whom only commeth every good and perfect gift.

The noble ſkill in Phyſicke ſtanding vpon <sup>t</sup> two legs, experience and reaſon, is an excellent meanes aſſuredly for the preſeruation of our health; and yet for all this it is the great Doctor, which hath heauen for his chaire, that keepeth vs aliue. If the <sup>u</sup> keepers of our houſe doe not tremble, and the grinder's doe not ceaſe, if the ſiluer cord be not lengthened, and the golden ewer broken, if our eies the windowes of our body be not darke, it is the good gift of the Father of light: for ſo <sup>x</sup> ſoone as he is angry, all our daies are gone, we bring our yeeres to an end euen as a tale that is told. Reade Pſalmes 90. 91.

Thirdly, for the gifts of the minde appertaining to the will or vnderſtanding, or both, all of them are from God; the Father of lights enlightneth our vnderſtanding, he gaue wiſdome to <sup>y</sup> Salomon, for which he was ſo renowned in all the world; and it was he who tooke away knowledge from Georgius Trapezuntius, who being one of the greateſt clerks in all his time, forgot all his learning, as <sup>z</sup> Volaterane writes, and his name too, as <sup>a</sup> other report. And therefore the Poets in the beginning of their treatiſes vſually did inuocate the gods for their aſſiſtance; and the firſt character our forefathers taught their children was Chriſti Croſſe, and the firſt leſſon in their Primer, was, In the name of the Father, &c. and the firſt copie in their ſchoole, was In my beginning God be my ſpeed. And <sup>b</sup> Sariſburienſis in Policratico counſelleth all Students humbly to knocke at heauen gate, that the key of knowledge may open vnto them a doore of vtterance; for God only is wiſe, wiſdome it ſelfe, in whoſe hand is the booke of knowledge, from whence commeth every good and perfect gift.

<sup>c</sup> There are diuerſities of gifts, but the ſame ſpirit; diuerſities of adminiſtrations, but the ſame Lord; diuerſities of operations, but God is the ſame who worketh all in all. Diuerſities of gifts among the Apoſtles; Paul was good at planting, Apollos at watering: diuerſities of gifts among the Fathers, <sup>d</sup> ſome conſtrued, the Scriptures allegorically, as Origen; other more literally, as Hierome; other morally, as Gregorie the great; other pathetically, as Chryſoſtome; other dogmatically, as Auguſtine.

Diuerſities of gifts among the new Writers, as Martin <sup>e</sup> Luther wrote on the wals of his chamber with chalke:

Res & verba Philippus, res ſine verbis Lutherus,

Verba ſine re, Erasmus, nec res nec verba Caroluſtadius.

Diuerſities of gifts among ordinarie Preachers, <sup>f</sup> alij ſenſu ampli ſed non ore; alij ſenſu inopes, ſed ore torrentes; alij neque ſenſu ampli, neque ore; alij ſenſu ampli, & ore. Some haue bad vtterance, but a good conceit; other, excellent vtterance, but a meane wit; ſome neither, and ſome both. One ſurpaſſeth in expounding the words, another is excellent in deliucring the matter, a third happie for caſes of conscience, a fourth exquisite in determining schoole doubts. In a word, some be iudicious to enforme the vnderstanding, other powerfull to reforme the will and affection. All these diuers gifts are from aboue, comming downe from one and the same Father of lights.

If any man then haue a desire to discourse with Salomon of all trees euen from the<sup>e</sup> Cedar that is in Lebanon, vnto the hyssope that springeth out of the wall; if any desire to martiall his words and adorne his phrased, that they may be like<sup>h</sup> apples of gold with pictures of siluer; if any desire to speake with the<sup>i</sup> tongue of men and Angells; if any lacke wisdom let him, saith<sup>k</sup> our Apostle, begge it of God, who giueth to all men liberally, from whom commeth euery good and perfect gift.

As for gifts appertaining to the will, <sup>1</sup>S. Paul affirmeth plainly that all our sufficiency is of God; he doth indeede out of his abundant loue repute his owne benefites our gifts (as<sup>m</sup> Tully writes of Lentulus) Facit abundantia quadam amoris, ut etiam grata sint ea, que pretermitti sine nefario scelere non possunt: but as<sup>n</sup> Augustine elegantly, Quisquis tibi enumerat vera merita sua, quid tibi enumerat nisi munera tua? and in<sup>o</sup> another place, bona mea dona tua.

As for faith, an especiall gift belonging (as some thinke, both to the will and vnderstanding, it is the faire<sup>p</sup> gift of God, without which all other are no gifts Ipsium velle credere Deus operatur in homine: God worketh in man the first desire to beleue, saith<sup>q</sup> Augustine. If any man aske why this man doth beleue, and another doth not beleue, cur illi ita suadeatur, ut persuadeatur illi autem non ita? I can giue him none other answer but that of<sup>r</sup> Paul, O the deepnesse of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how vnsearchable are his iudgements, and his waies past finding out? <sup>s</sup>Cui responso ista displicet, querat doctiores, sed caveat ne inueniat presumptores.

For if thou wert so glorious as an Angell, or thy meat so good as Manna that fell from heaven, or thy garments so precious as Aarons Ephod, or thy breath so sweet as the perfume of the Tabernacle, yet all these could not set one of thy feet into Christs kingdome, only God worketh all in all, in whom we liue, and moue and haue our being naturally, ciuilly, spiritually, eternally. So that euery Christian in respect of all these may say with<sup>t</sup> Paul, By the grace of God I am whatsoever I am. And with that good Father<sup>u</sup> Augustine: Omne bonum nostrum vel, ipse vel ab ipso: All our good is either God or from God, God in the life of glorie, from God in the life of nature, creating vs, when we were not, and preferuing vs euer since we were, and in the life of grace bestowing vpon vs daily priuatiue grace to defend vs from euill, and positieue grace enabling vs to doe good.

* If God then be with vs, who can be against vs? Who can be? man will be, the world will be, the flesh will be, the deuill will be. But if God be with vs in our creation, with vs in our preseruation, with vs in our regeneration, with vs in our glorification; then man albeit neuer so bloody, shall not take away our naturall life; the world albeit neuer so malicious, shall not take away our ciuill life; the flesh albeit neuer so fraile, shall not take away our spirituall life; the deuill, albeit he rage like a roaring Lion, shall not take away our eternall life.

This doctrine teacheth euery man to renounce his owne little merits, and to magnifie Gods great mercy, to renounce whatsoever is in himselfe, of himselfe <sup>y</sup>For what hath he, that he hath not receiued? and if he haue receiued all his gifts from God, why doth he boast as if he receiued them not? he hath not so much as a rag to his backe, or a morfell for his belly, or a good haire on his head, or a good thought in his minde, but it is a gift and a grace, <sup>z</sup>Boni si quid habeo à Deo sumpsi non à me presumpsi, And Hugo Cardinalis in this very well: Omnia mea mala purè mala sunt & mea, omnia mea bona purè bona sunt & non mea: Whatsoeuer is euill in me is from me, but that which is good came downe from the father of lights.

And therefore <sup>a</sup>let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, nor the strong man in his strength, nor the rich man in his riches: all of vs are stewards, and these goods are none of our owne, but committed vnto vs only for a time, that we may well employ h Pro. 25. 11.

8 1 Kings 4. 33

i 1 Cor. 13. 1.

k Chap. 1. 5.

l 2 Cor. 3. 5.

m Epist. familiar. lib. 1. epist. 9.

n Conf. lib. 9. cap. 13

o Conf. lib. 10. cap. 4

p Ioh. 6. 29

q De serm. & litera cap. 34. tom. 1. fol. 5. 4

r Rom 11. 33

s Augustin ubi supra.

t Augustin ubi supra.

u 1 Cor. 15. 10

v Lib. 1. de eo Christian. cap. 31.

w Rom 8. 31.

x 1 Cor. 4. 7.

y August. ep. 52.

z Ierem. 5. 23.

<sup>b</sup> Luke 16. 2.

employ them for our masters aduantage. For at his generall Audit, he will reckon with vs in all our receipts and expences; he will come and say, <sup>b</sup> How is it that I heare this of thee? giue an account of thy stewardship thou mayst be no longer steward.

<sup>c</sup> Gueuara.

The second inference is, that we must laud and magnifie the mercies of God, from whom commeth euery good and perfect gift. <sup>c</sup> All the Psalmes of Dauid are contained in these two words, Halleluia and Hosanna, blessed be God, and God blesse, as being all made to pray to God for mercies, or to praise him for deliuerance from miseries.

<sup>d</sup> Consule An-brof. Orat. de obitu Satyri.
<sup>e</sup> Psal. 119. 1.

Ingratitude is a monster in nature, a solecisme in manners, a paradox in religion: a <sup>d</sup> monster in nature, for the <sup>e</sup> heavens declare the glory of God &c. the chirping birds sing such Psalmes as they can vnto the Creator euery morning when they rise, and euery euening before they rest. If thou bestow a little seed vpon the ground, it will within a few moneths againe returne to you sounetime thirty fold, sometime sixtie fold, sometimes an hundred fold, as our Saniour speaketh in the Gospell. Nature teacheth vs to be so thankfull, that vually we call him that is gratefull, a kinde man, but an ingratefull wretch, an vnnatural man.

Secondly, it is an absurd solecisme in manners and ciuility consisting of two vices; falshood in not acknowledging, iniustice in not requiring a benefit. It is written of Alexander the Great, and Iulius Cesar, two renowned Emperors, the one for his liberalitie, the other for his patience; that Alexander would neuer giue, nor Cesar forgieue an ingratefull man.

<sup>f</sup> Psal. 136.<sup>g</sup> Psal. 145. 2.<sup>h</sup> Psal. 33. 1.<sup>i</sup> Psal. 116. 11.

Lastly, vnthankfulness is a paradox in religion and Diuinity, for God bestoweth vpon vs all things, and requireth only this one thing, to be thankfull; he made all things for man, and man for himselfe. It is worth but little, that is not worth grand mercie, yet this is all God requireth of vs for all; ascendat ergo gratia vt descendat gratia, let vs send vp our gr'ts to God, that he may send downe his gifts to vs. O let vs sing and say with the Psalmist, <sup>f</sup> O giue thanks vnto the Lord for he is gracious, and his mercy endureth for euer. <sup>g</sup> Euery day will I giue thanks and praise thy name for euer and euer. <sup>h</sup> Reioyce in the Lord o yee righteous, for it becommeth well the iust to be thankfull.

<sup>i</sup> Dauid considering the great and infinire bountifullnesse of the Lord toward him, crieth out, Quid retribuam Domino? What reward shall I giue to the Lord for all the benefits he hath done vnto me? If Dauid, a King, a Prophet; a Saint, inward with God, vnderstood not what to present vnto the Lord for the good blessings he had receiued; then what shall we doe, which vnderstand not what to say, nor haue not what to giue? For if euery good gift be from aboue, our abilitie is so small, that if God doe not giue where with to giue, of our selues we haue not what to giue.

<sup>k</sup> Rom. 11. 36.

Let euery Christian soule therefore, to the glory of God, confesse with <sup>k</sup> Paul that of him, and through him, and for him are all things. Of him, from whom commeth euery good and perfect gift: through him, enioying these gifts by his goodnesse, in whom is no variableness or change: for him, that we should be the first fruits of his creatures. Other creatures praise God in their kinde, and after their manner, <sup>l</sup> the Sunne, the Moone, Fire and Haile, Snow and vapors fulfilling his word: but Man, for whom all these things were made, should be most thankfull, the first fruits of his creatures, as our Apostle speaks. I will therefore shut vp this text, as Paul did his excellent discourse, Rom. 11. seeing all things are of him, through him, and for him, as we are bound, so let vs giue to him all praise, and honour, and glory, now and for euer. Amen.

<sup>l</sup> Psal. 148.

The Gospell. I O H N. 16. 5.

Iesus said unto his Disciples, now I goe my way to him that sent me, and none of you asketh me whether I goe, &c.

IN this Gospell our blessed Sauour doth first chide, then comfort his Disciples.

He chides especially for their:
 { Silence, none of you asketh me whether I goe.
 { Sorrow, because I haue sayd such things unto you; your hearts are full of Sorrow.

1. By protestation, I tell you the truth.

He comforts in shewing that his departing is expedient:

2. By demonstration, If I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you, but if I depart, I will send him, and he when he is come shall { Correct the world in 3. things, euidently rebuking it of { Direct you in all things, he will lead you into all truth.
 { Sinne.
 { Righteousnes { Iudgement.

I goe my way] Christ went away two waies, in his death and in his ascension: in the one considered as man totally, in the other finally; he went away by death on the crosse totally, for his <sup>m</sup> body went away to mother earth, and his <sup>n</sup> soule went away to his Father, and yet within three daies he came againe, but in his ascension he left the world finally; so the Text <sup>o</sup> expressly, whom the heauen must containe vntill the time that all things be restored, which God hath spoken by the mouth of his holy Prophets since the world began. ¶ As the Griffin is like the Lambe in his legge, the Lion in his backe, the Eagle in his beake; so Christ in his passion was a Lambe, in his resurrection as a Lion, in his ascension an Eagle, for he went away to his Father, and of this finall departing, this text is to be construed, and therefore chosen fitly for a Sunday betweene the feast of his glorious resurrection and ascension.

None of you asketh me whether I goe. ¶ S. Peter did aske Lord, whither goest thou? ¶ S. Thomas did aske, Lord, we know not whether thou goest: how then is it true, none of you asketh me whether I goe? ¶ S. Augustine doth answer thus: In mine ascension I will goe to my Father in such sort, that none of you need aske whither I goe; ¶ for ye shall behold with your eyes, and stand gazing on me when I shall be taken vp into heauen.

¶ Rupertus assoileth the doubt otherwise: Yee did aske whither I went, and were forward to goe with me, till I told you that I should die, but now none of you asketh whither I goe, being as it should seeme more ready to flie then to follow.

But * Euthymius in my iudgement most aptly: Ye did aske me before, but I did not answer you fully, why then doe you not continue questioning and further asking, vntill yee be resolued? assuredly the reason hereof is, because your hearts are full of sorrow, considering only that I goe, not whither I goe. ¶ Nemo vestrum expendit verè, quò & cur abeam.

The Papists in hunting too much after the carnall and grosse presence of Christ in the Sacrament, <sup>z</sup> erre with the Disciples here. <sup>a</sup> So doth euery worldling in being too much afflicted for the death of his friend, wife, childe, griening because they be gone, not vnderstanding whither they be gone; let vs learne then that euery childe of God, after his departure, goeth vnto his Father, euen to sweet rest, as in the <sup>b</sup> bosome of a father, where <sup>c</sup> all teares are wiped from his eyes and cares from his heart. As Christ, the Sonne of God by nature, so the Christian a Sonne of God by grace, <sup>d</sup> may well say when he dieth, I goe my way to him that sent me, neither ought any doubt whether I goe. <sup>e</sup> S. Stephen at his martyrdome, as Christ on his crosse, cried, Lord receive my spirit.

<sup>m</sup> Mat. 27. 59. 60.

<sup>n</sup> Luke 23. 46.

<sup>o</sup> Acts 3. 21.

<sup>p</sup> Dietz. con. 1. Dom. 2. post. Pasch.

<sup>q</sup> John 13. 36.

<sup>r</sup> John 14. 5.

<sup>s</sup> Tract. 94. in Ioan.

<sup>t</sup> Acts 1. 9. 11.

<sup>u</sup> Com. lib. 12. in Ioan.

<sup>x</sup> Com. in loc. idem Caietan. Cyrillus, Maldonat.

<sup>y</sup> Vatabl. in loc.

<sup>z</sup> Zepper. con. 1. Dom. cantate.

<sup>a</sup> Culman. con. 2. in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Luke 16. 22.

<sup>c</sup> Apocal. 7. 17

<sup>d</sup> Ardens in loc.

<sup>e</sup> Acts 7. 59.

<sup>c</sup> Rupertus ubi supra.

<sup>e</sup> Muscul. Zep- perus. Iansen in loc.

<sup>a</sup> Phil. 2. 21.

<sup>i</sup> Ioh 11. 50.

<sup>k</sup> Phil. 2. 6, 7.

<sup>l</sup> Symbol. Nicen.

<sup>m</sup> 1. Pet. 2. 21.

<sup>n</sup> Matth 26. 39.

<sup>o</sup> Esa. 53. 5.

<sup>p</sup> 1. Cor. 10. 24.

<sup>q</sup> Matt. 28. 20.

<sup>c</sup> Tho. Frigius epist. prefix. an. tiquit. Rom. Rosini.

<sup>r</sup> Ephes 4. 8.

<sup>s</sup> Ioh. 14. 3.

<sup>t</sup> 1. Tim. 2. 5.

<sup>u</sup> August. tract. 94. in Ioan.

<sup>v</sup> Matt. 20. 10.

Marke 10. 37.

<sup>w</sup> Act. 1. 6.

<sup>x</sup> Ioh. 18. 36.

<sup>y</sup> 2. Cor. 5. 16.

<sup>c</sup> Heming. postil. Dominic. 3. post Pasch.

<sup>d</sup> Ioh. 20. 19.

<sup>e</sup> Ioh. 14. 16.

<sup>f</sup> August. tract. 94. in Ioan. & Bernard. ser. 6. in Ascension. & Comment. in loc.

I tell you the truth.] He being the truth, in whose mouth was no guile, spake the truth alway, but he doth vse this earnest asseueration, to shew the <sup>f</sup> weight of the matter, and inforce the greater credence thereunto. By this example we may learne to forbear swearing in our ordinaric communication howfoeuer wee speake the truth, and a truth of importance. Many men are so prodigall of their soules health and Credit, that they will pawne both at euery word for euery tri- fle; but when our report is neglected, it is enough to say with Christ, I tell you the truth; I assure you, verily verily, or the like protestations.

It is expedient for you.] It is very <sup>a</sup> remarkable, that he saith not expedit mihi but expedit vobis, euery one will make much of one, <sup>b</sup> seeking their owne, saying with <sup>i</sup> Caiaphas, It is expedient for vs, but Christ, it is expedient for you, prefer- ring our welfare before his owne good. It was not expedient for him, <sup>k</sup> who was the Sonne of God, to take on him the shape of a seruant, and yet <sup>l</sup> for vs men and our saluation he came downe from heauen, and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost. It was not expedient for him to be called conurer and Samaritan, to be scoffed, scorned, scourged, and yet he <sup>m</sup> suffered all this for vs, leaning vs an ensam- ple, that we should follow his steps. It was not expedient for him that he should die: Father, <sup>n</sup> O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup passe from me; but yet he was <sup>o</sup> wounded for our transgressions, he was broken for our iniquities, and with his stripes are we healed; he then that will follow Christ must <sup>p</sup> not seeke his owne, but euery man one anothers good.

That I goe away.] Not that I take my Spirit from you, for <sup>q</sup> I will be with you spiritually till the worlds end, but it is expedient I should ceale to be bodily pre- sent. <sup>r</sup> Augustine wisheth he might haue seene three things especially; Paul in the pulpit, Rome in her flower, and Christ in the flesh. And who would not with Augustine desire to behold his glorious face, and heare his gracious word, and see his vnmatchable wonders, and yet it is expedient that he is gone; for <sup>s</sup> ascen- ding vp on high he led captiui ty captiue, and gaue gifts to men; he <sup>t</sup> prepared a place for vs in heauen, and there resides as our agent and aduocate, <sup>u</sup> mediating daily betwene God and vs.

So long as children hang on the teat, they cannot away with strong meat; that therefore they may digest hard diet, it is expedient they should be weaned. Our Sauours bodily presence was vnto his disciples as <sup>a</sup> milke; for it was but a weake faith they then had in him, and a very carnall loue they bare toward him, in comparison of that which followed afterward; they still imagined that he was an earthly Monarch, and that he would highly <sup>v</sup> preferte them in his glory, setting some on his right hand, and other at his left; euen the last houre when he was departing all of them said ioyntly, <sup>w</sup> Wilt thou at this time restore the kingdome to Israel? It was time therefore to weane them, and by going away to shew that his kingdome was not of <sup>x</sup> this world, that they might no more depend vpon his bodily presence, but auouch with <sup>y</sup> S. Paul, Henceforth know we no man after the flesh, yet though we had knowne Christ after the flesh, yet now hence- forth know we him no more. <sup>c</sup> Gods holy Gospell and the Holy Ghost are the glasse wherein we must behold Christ. It is better by faith to conuerse with him in heauen, than by sight to see him on earth, as he told his vnbeleeuing Apostle, <sup>d</sup> Thomas, Because thou hast seene me, thou beleuest, blessed are they that haue not seene, and yet beleene.

For if I goe not away the Comforter will not come.] <sup>e</sup> The Comforter is the Holy Ghost, he doth insinuate therefore that the gifts of the blessed spirit could not now be powred vpon them in so plentifull a manner and measure for their comfort, as after his ascention on Whitsontide they should be. Christ remaining here below was not so well fitted to giue, for ascending vp on high, he gaue gifts vnto men: and the Disciples were not so capable to receiue, <sup>f</sup> for the more they deli- ghted in the flesh, the lesse fit to be comforted by the spirit: Consule Iansen. concord. cap. 75. bibliothec. concionum tom. 3. fol. 106. Maldonat in Ioan. 16. 7.

But leauing all other expositions, I follow that of <sup>g</sup> Enthymius; If I goe not away away

away the Comforter will not come, for that it is so decreed in heauens high Parliament, that first God the Father should<sup>b</sup> draw vs to his Sonne: Secondly, that God the Sonne should<sup>i</sup> instruct vs, and lastly, that God the Holy Ghost should assist and establish vs in all truth; and so the whole worke of our redemption is ascribed to the Father, as electing, to the Sonne as consummating, to the Holy Ghost as applying it: God the Father hath done his part, God the Sonne was at this instant accomplishing his worke, it remained only that the Comforter should come to perfect both. How God the Holy Ghost is the Comforter leading into all truth, and sent of Christ, See the Gospell on Sunday after Ascension.

He will rebuke the world] <sup>k</sup>To wit, by your preaching and ministrie; so Noe led by the Spirit rebuked the old world; Moses by the same Spirit rebuked Pharao, Iohn Baptist rebuked Herod, Elizeus and Eliab the Kings of Israel, and so Christ his Apostles, and their successors in all ages. And therefore when we <sup>l</sup>rebuke with all long suffering and doctrine, you must <sup>m</sup>suffer the words of exhortation, acknowledging that the preaching of the Gospell is the <sup>n</sup>power of God, and the worke of his owne Spirit, <sup>o</sup>speaking in vs for your good; <sup>p</sup>he therefore that despiseth our ministrie, despiseth not man but God. It is the Spirit rebukes the world, that is, worldlings, all men vnregenerate, who continue still in their finnes and ignorance, called here the world, because there is a world of such men, as the vulgar Latine Ecclesiastes 1. 15. infinitus numerus, a number without number. Or as <sup>q</sup>other, all men in the world, for the <sup>r</sup>whole world lieth in wickednesse, and is by nature guilty before God of sinne. The spirit therefore conuinceth all men of sinne, Gods elect for their conuersion, the reprobate for their confusion, according to that of <sup>s</sup>Paul, If all propheticie, and there come in one that beleeueth not, and is vnlearned, he is rebuked of all men, and iudged of all men, and so are the secrets of his heart made manifest, and he will fall downe on his face, and worship God, and say plainly that God is in you indeed.

Because they beleue not in me.] <sup>t</sup>The spirit rebukes all other finnes against the first and second Table, but he names this alone, because, saith <sup>u</sup>Augustine, so long as this remaineth all the rest are retained with it, and when this goeth away the rest are released. Infidelity is the bitter root of all wickednesse, and a liuely faith is the true mother of all goodnesse, he therefore that doth truly beleue cannot be without care to liue well, that he may shew forth his faith by his works, and make his calling and election sure. * The Lord knoweth who are his, and that we may know likewise who are his, it followeth excellently, Let every one that calleth on the name of Christ depart from iniquitie.

Of righteousness, because I goe to my Father.] This may be construed either of Christs righteousness imputed to vs, or of his personall inherent righteousness in himselfe. This is <sup>v</sup>our righteousness, that Christ died for our finnes and rose againe for our iustification, that he went away to the Father, and there pleads our cause before God as an Intercessor and Aduocate, which is the reconciliation for our finnes, 1. Epist. Ioh 2. 1. Faithlesse worldlings cannot beleue this, gracelesse popelings will not beleue this, and therefore the spirit doth conuince them by manifold euidences, as, <sup>z</sup>the iust shall liue by faith, and <sup>a</sup>know that a man is not iustified by the workes of the Law, but by the faith of Iesus Christ. <sup>b</sup>By the workes of the Law shall no flesh be iustified, but being iustified by<sup>c</sup> faith, we haue peace toward God through our Lord Iesus Christ.

<sup>d</sup>Other expound this of Christs inherent and personall righteousness; when he liued in the world, he fulfilled all righteousness, he did all things well, in his mouth was no guile, no fault in his manners, or error in his doctrine; <sup>e</sup>which of you, said he, can rebuke me of sinne? yet the world traduced him for a Samaritan, a blasphemor, a forcerer, an enemy to Cæsar, and what not? but in going to his Father, he shewed himselfe to be righteous, for <sup>f</sup>without holinesse it is impossible to see God. And therefore, saith he, so soone as I shall ascend and giue gifts vnto men, the spirit shall compell the world to confesse that I was righteous indeed and that I suffered not as an harmful maiefactor, but as an innocent lambe. This

<sup>b</sup> Ioh. 6 44.
<sup>i</sup> Ioh. 17 6. 8.

<sup>k</sup> Melanct. Posit in loc.

<sup>l</sup> 2. Tim. 4. 2.
<sup>m</sup> Heb. 13. 22.
<sup>n</sup> Rom. 1. 16.
<sup>o</sup> Matt. 10. 20.
<sup>p</sup> 1. Thess. 4. 8.

<sup>q</sup> Marlorat. in
loc.

<sup>r</sup> 1 Ep. Ioh 5.
19.
<sup>s</sup> 1. Cor. 14. 24,
25.

<sup>t</sup> Heming. Tostil.
in loc.

<sup>u</sup> Tract. 95. in Iean.

<sup>x</sup> 2. Tim 2. 19.

<sup>y</sup> August. ubi
sup. Cyril, Luther Melanct. in loc.

<sup>z</sup> Habac 2. 4.
<sup>a</sup> Galat. 2 16.
<sup>b</sup> Rom 3 20.
<sup>c</sup> Rom. 5. 1.

<sup>d</sup> Theophylact.
Euthymus,
Maldonat. in loc & Iansen. con-
cord. cap. 135.
<sup>e</sup> Ioh 8 46.
<sup>f</sup> Hebr. 22. 14.

saying of Christ was fulfilled on Whitsunday : for no sooner had the Holy Ghost descended on the blessed Apostles, and given utterance, but Peter instantly began to preach, and the maine point of his Sermon was this Hearken, O ye men of Israel, Iesus of Nazaret, a man approved of God among you with great workes, and wonders, and signes, which God did by him in the midst of you, as your selues also know; him I say haue ye taken by the hands of the wicked, being deliuered by the determinate counsell and fore-knowledge of God, and haue crucified and slaine &c. Therefore let all the house of Israel know for a surety, that God hath made him both Lord and Christ. Now when they heard it, they were pricked in their hearts, and sayd vnto Peter and the other Apostles, Men and brethren what shall we doe? So powerfully did the Spirit declare Christs righteousnesse and conuince them of sinne, who would not acknowledge it before.

Of iudgment, because the prince of this world is iudged already <sup>h</sup> The Spirit manure the world shall prone me to be that promised seed of the woman which should tread downe the serpents head, that is, Satan the Prince of this world, with all his works and workemen. And therefore let the deuill rage and roare so much as he list, he shall not be able to deuoure any that truly beleue, for this is the victorie that ouercommeth the world, and the Prince of the world, euem our faith.

He will lead you into all truth <sup>j</sup> As the Spirit doth correct the world, so direct the Church, not so much by secret and immediate inspiration, <sup>k</sup> as by powerfull operation in the publike ministrie, being effectually present in Gods word and Sacraments vntill the worlds end.

The Papiests haue <sup>l</sup> no ground here for their vnrwritten traditions, nor Anabaptists for their infused reuelations; he taught the Disciples, and the Disciples wrote as they were <sup>m</sup> taught. And the word written is the rule of faith, a guide to leade vs into all truth: he did not preach another Gospell, nor a new Christ, as it is in the text, he shall not speake of himselfe, but whatsoever he shall heare, that shall he speake, and he will shew you things to come, he shall glorifie me, for he shall receiue of mine, and shall shew vnto you: all things that the Father hath, are, mine therefore said I vnto you, that he shall take of mine and shew vnto you. Christ spake from his <sup>n</sup> Father, the Spirit from Christ, the blessed Apostles from the Spirit. Whatsoever then is contrary to sacred writ, is not an illumination of the Holy Ghost, but an illusion of the prince of darkenesse, <sup>o</sup> blinding the mindes of vnbelleeuers, that the light of the glorious Gospell, which is the image of God, should not shine vnto them. And therefore let vs <sup>p</sup> search the Scripture, <sup>q</sup> to the law, to the testimonie, to the Gospels and Epistles, as they be recorded in the holy Bible, for by these and in these the Comforter leads vs into all truth, <sup>r</sup> in this life giuing vs all fit, in the next all full knowledge, when as we shall see God face to face.

The Epistle. Iames 1. vers. 22.

See that ye be doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiuing your owne selues; &c.

A Scripture which cannot better fit this time of the yeere, than this age of the world; wherein <sup>s</sup> too many make perfunctorie hearing of Sermons all both dutie and fruit of their religion, as if they did owe nothing but their eares vnto the Lord; whereas he who speaketh by the eare to the heart, speaketh to the eare but for the heart; and that we may both heare with reuerence, and beleue to obedience, requireth a kinde of <sup>t</sup> circumcision both of heart and eare, yea he denounceth them to be of uncircumcised eares and <sup>u</sup> uncircumcised hearts, who by not obeying the word resist the Holy Ghost.

<sup>s</sup> Act. 2 22. 36.
<sup>37</sup>

<sup>b</sup> Augustin ubi
sup Luther. M.C. lanct. Culman. in
loc.

<sup>l</sup> 1. Ep Ioh. 5. 4.

<sup>k</sup> Heming. & Zopper. in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Consule Caluin.
Bucer. Brent. a.
pud Marlorat.
in loc.
<sup>m</sup> 2. Pet. 1. 21.

<sup>n</sup> Ioh. 7. 16, 17.

<sup>o</sup> 2. Cor. 4. 4.

<sup>p</sup> Ioh 5. 39.

<sup>q</sup> Esay 8. 20.

<sup>r</sup> August. tract.
97. in Ioan.

<sup>s</sup> Dr. Eedes Ser. duty of a king.

<sup>t</sup> Deut. 10. 16.

<sup>u</sup> Act. 7. 51.

An exhortation, See that ye be doers of the word, and not hearers only.

The whole text of it owne accord falls into 2. parts :

A double reason inforcing the same :

1. A periculo, for such as declare not the word by their workes, are vaine in their deuotion, and deceiue themselves.
2. A premio, who so looketh in the perfect law of libertie, and continueth therein (if he be not a forgetfull hearer, but a doer of the worke) the same shall be happy in his deed.

See that ye be doers.] All the bells of Aaron and Christ ring this peale; * Hearken, O Israel, vnto the lawes which I teach you to doe: y for the hearers of the Law are not righteous before God, but the doers of the Law shall be iustificed. 2 Blessed are they that heare the word of God and keepe it. He that hath my commandments and keepeth them, is he that loueth me, Ioh. 14. 21. 2 Qui habet in memoria & seruat in vita; qui habet in sermonibus, & seruat in moribus; qui habet audiendo, & seruat faciendo: aut qui habet faciendo, & seruat perseuerando ipse est, qui diligit me. b Lex enim Dei tenetur non audiendo sed obediendo; non lellione, sed dilectione. So c S. Hierome, Scripturarum cupimus verba in opera vertere & non dicere sancta, sed facere: so the rest of the d Fathers haue well obserued, that Christian religion consists in practise more than in theorie, being an occupation rather than a mere profession. De virtute loqui minimum, virtutibus uti, hic labor, hoc opus est, quoth Persius, hoc Sampsonis opus est, said Tertullian.

c Our Apostle doth not meane that we must satisfie Gods law, declaring his word by our workes in euery point fully; (for, as f Aquine determineth, Implentur precepta in patria perfecte, sed in via imperfecte) but that we should vndoubtedly beleue Gods holy Gospell, and so much as we can, endeuour to shew forth our faith in our honest conuersation among men; g he doth the will of God, who doth the best he can to doe it, h illud pro facto reputat Deus, quod homo quidem verè voluit, sed non valuit adimplere.

Not hearers only.] i We may not hence negle t hearing to lessen our damnation for ignorance which ariseth out of contempt doth accuse more than excuse, k Dauid hath branded the wicked with this indeleble blot, noluit intelligere, vt bene ageret, and l S. Paul saith, If any man be ignorant, let him be ignorant. m If he will not be taught, he must remaine ignorant to his owne perill. Oras it is n the vulgar Latine, ignorans ignorabitur, n he that will not know God, shall not be knowne of God; for Christ in the last day will say to such as haue refused his counsell and cast his words behinde them, I neuer knew you, Matth. 7. 3. We must therefore be first hearers, and then doers of the word. A man may know the will of God, and yet not doe it, but he cannot doe it except he know it.

For if any man heare the word of God, and declareth not the same by his workes, he is like vnto a man beholding his bodily face in a glasse.] God hath giuen euery one two glasses in which he may behold himselfe, the glasse of the creatures, and the glasse of the Scriptures He may see what he is for his life naturall in the glasse of the world, what he should be for his life spirituall in the glasse of Gods holy Saints and of his owne conscience: but the o Scriptures are the most cleare glasse wherin he may behold both, and conforme himselfe according to Gods image.

Now then as he that dresseth himselfe by the glasse, doth not only behold the blemishes of his countenance and vnhandsomnesse of his trimme, but instantly correct all things amisse, that his fashion and face may be comely: p so we must not reade the Scriptures and heare Sermons only to know the sins of our soules and deformities of our life, but we must amend all q euen by ruling our selues according to the word; otherwise, saith our Apostle, we deceiue our selues, and our deuotion is in vaine. For pure religion arising from the root of a lively faith, cuer more brancheth forth into workes of charity, visiting the fatherlesse & widomes in their need; and into works of innocencie, keeping our selues vnspotted of the world.

* Deut 4. 1.
y Rom 2. 13.
z Luke 11. 28
a Aug tract. 75 in 1200.

b idem ep. 107.
c Proem. in lib 3. com. in 1200
d Clem Alex. Strom li. 1. c. 6.
N. Ranzan. in Monodia.
e Caluin. in loc.
f 2. 2a quest. 44 art. 6.

g Bucer. in Mat 7. 21.
h Bern ep 77.

i Ardens in loc.
k Psal 36 3.

l 1 Cor 14 38.
m Theophylact. Caluin. Parab 12 loc. Paul sitat.
n Primasius, Aquin. Anselm.

o Ien serm 11. de quadragesima.

p Aquin & Erasmius parafr. in loc.
q Psal 119. 9.

<sup>a</sup> Lyra in loc.

<sup>f</sup> Galat. 5. 6.

<sup>g</sup> Glossa:

<sup>h</sup> *Aquin. Caictan. Rhemists.
Em. Salm loc.
Rozard. in epist.
Dom. 5. post
Pasch. Fenus ser.
4 Dom. vocem
inconditatis.
x Sarcotus in
loc.*

<sup>y</sup> 2. Tim. 3. 17.

<sup>z</sup> Com. in 2. Tim.

<sup>3</sup> idem Prusasius.

<sup>2</sup> Marlorat.

If any man among you seeme to be deuout, and refraineth not his tongue, but deceineth his owne heart, his religion is vaine, <sup>r</sup> because it doth not attaine the end, as physicke is vaine that procures not health to the body; <sup>f</sup> for in Iesus Christ neither circumcision anaileth any thing, neither vncircumcision, but faith which worketh by loue, shewing it selfe in our pure thoughts and vndefiled workes, <sup>g</sup> in cordis intentione religio munda, in operis executione immaculata.

But who so looketh in the perfect law of libertie, and continueth therein (if he be not a forgetfull hearer, but a doer of the worke) the same shall be happie in his deed
How the Law gendereth vnto bondage, and the Gospell vnto freedome, see Epist. 4. Sunday in Lent. The Papiests haue no ground here for their iustification by merit: for as <sup>h</sup> themselues acknowledge, not the Law but the Gospell is the perfect doctrine of libertie, the chiefe worke whereof is to beleue. <sup>x</sup> Secondly S. James faith not ex opere suo, but in opere suo beatus, he shall be blessed in his worke, not for his worke. He shall be iustified by faith in Christ, manifesting it selfe in speaking well and liuing well, vndefiled before God vnspotted of the world, refraining his tongue that it hurt none, and endeouering himselfe to doe good vnto all, especially to such as most want helpe, the fatherlesse and widowes in their aduersitie.

An hypocrite makes a maske of religion, or rather a very vizard, with mouth, eyes and nose fairely painted for his purpose, seeming (saith our Apostle) to be de-uous; but he that looketh in the perfect law of libertie, and continueth therein, is made perfect indeed vnto all good workes, not to some kinde of good workes only, but to all and euery good worke, saith <sup>z</sup> Thophylact, and that not after a vulgar manner (as Oecumenius vpon the place) but perfect and absolute, so farre as a <sup>a</sup> humane frailtie will permit.

The Gospell. Iohn. 16. 23.

Verily, verily, I say vnto you, whatsoeuer ye aske the Father in my name, he will giue it you.

This weeke is termed vsually Rogation weeke, <sup>a</sup> rogando Deum, as being extraordinarily consecrated about all other weekes in the yeere vnto prayers and supplications. A religious ordination of sincere antiquitie, not a superstitious inuention of vpstart poperie; for it is more then probable, that Rogati-ons were in the Church before the dayes of S. Augustine, as it is <sup>c</sup> obserued out of his 173. Sermon de tempore, preached on Ascension eue, as also out of the titles of other his Sermons, De Dominica in rogationibus, and seria secunda, & tertia in rogationibus, tom. 10. fol. 691. 694. 695.

And though haply some suspect this authority, yet it is acknowledged as well by <sup>d</sup> protestant Writers as <sup>e</sup> Popish, that this ancient order was either inuen-ted, or else restored by Mamercus or, Mamertus Bishop of Vienna, long before the time of Pope Gregorie the great, anno 452. The reasons of this holy custome
I finde principally to be <sup>f</sup> two: first, because Princes about this time of the yeere vnder take their warres, a point at this instant too well knowne in France.
Secondly, because, the fruits of the earth, being in their blossome, are in greatest hazard; in both which respects all Christians haue good occasion at this season especially to pray. The Church then hath well fitted the time with a Text, a Gospell of Rogation against the weeke of Rogation, inciting all people to pray, and instructing them how to pray.

There be three words in this Scripture, which encourage vs to pray:

1. Because God is our Father.
2. Because he loueth vs, vers. 27.
3. Because he hath promised to heare our prayers, asked and ye shall receiue, vers. 24. and in the first words, I say whatsoeuer ye aske the Father in my name he will giue it you.

<sup>b</sup> *Ferus serm. 1.
Dom. vocem in-conditatis.*

<sup>c</sup> Bayon anott. in Rom. Marty rolog. April. 25.

<sup>d</sup> *Magdeburg.
crit. 5. col. 693.
747. & cent. 6.
col. 345.*

<sup>e</sup> *Bwon. ubi sup.
& Maij 11. &
annal. rom. fol.
309. 310.
De hoc argumer-to scripserunt.*

<sup>f</sup> acus & Si-dmon Apollio-naris vti Magdeburg & Baren. ibidem.

<sup>g</sup> *Frus serm. 2.
Dom. vocem in-
conditatis.*

So that Almighty God being tied vnto vs as it were by a three-fold bond, of his father-hood, loue promise, cannot but heare our prayers and grant our requests. I say, yea I sweare, Verily, Verily, I say, whatsoever, <sup>b</sup> excepting no fit sute, ye shall aske, not another for you, it shall be giuen you, it shall cost nothing, only aske and ye shall haue, seeke and yee shall finde, knocke and it shall be opened vnto you.

Yea, but God heares not the petitions of all men at all times. It is true that he denieth the suits of some daily, because they aske not duly, according to that of <sup>i</sup> S. Iames, Ye aske and receiue not, because ye aske amisse.

- 1. What to aske, Whatsoever, &c.
- 2. Of whom to aske, of God the Father.
- Christ therefore teacheth vs here,
  - 3. How to ask, of God as of a Father in the name of Christ his Son, intimating two rules observable in our orisons:
    - 1. That we be not timidi, because God is our Father.
    - 2 That we be not tumidi, standing vpon our owne desert, but relying vpon the merits of Christ Whatsoever ye aske the Father, in my name, he will giue it you.

Whatsoever. <sup>j</sup> This generall is to be restrained vnto such suits as are meete for vs to begge as dutifull children, and for God to bestow as a leuing and wise Father, otherwise he doth crosse our desire,

when as we craue <sup>l</sup> vel

- mala*, things in their owne nature bad, or not good for vs.
- malè*, good things for bad ends.

First, when we shall aske mala, things vnlawfull and hurtfull, as exquisite knowledge in poysoning, forcerie, coniuring, witchcraft, and the like damnable sciences; <sup>m</sup> Non petitur in nomine Saluatoris, quicquid petitur contrarationem salutis. If ye, faith <sup>n</sup> Christ, which are euill can giue to your children gifts that are good, how much more shall your Father in heaven? what man if his Sonne aske him bread, would giue him a stone? or if he aske a fish, would giue him a serpent? In like manner, Almighty God, as an indulgent father, giueth vs our daily bread, and all other things expedient for children, as well concerning this as the next life, but he will not giue vs a serpent, lest it should hurt vs, nor a stone, lest vnhappily we should hurt other, lest, I say, we take this stone, and sling it at the head of some of his friends; and therefore <sup>o</sup> Damasceus aptly described prayer to be petitio decentium, a request of such things as are fit for God to giue and vs to haue.

For God denieth often not onely bad things in their owne nature, but also good, if not good for vs. Our Father knoweth that Bees are drowned in honie but liue in vineger, and that his children are best affected, when they be most afflicted; he therefore will not grant vnto the prodigall childe all his portion, lest he spend it in riot; nor to the lustie gallant alwaies health, that his inward man may be cured, while the outward is diseased, that the finnes of his soule may be lessened, while the fores of his flesh are increased.

As the learned Physitian procureth his patient a gentle ague; that he may cure him of a more dangerous disease; vt curet spasnum procurat febri: so the spirituall Physitian of our soule, sape facit opus quod non est suum, vt ita faciat opus, quod est suum, he doth often crosse our suits, a worke contrary to mercy, that so he may shew his greater mercie; and <sup>p</sup> albeit in the time of the showre we cannot see thorow the cloud, yet in the end we shall finde it was for our weale, saying with the <sup>q</sup> Psalmist, It was good for me that I haue beene in trouble.

Again, God will not giue, when we shall aske good things for bad ends, according to that of <sup>r</sup> S. Iames, Ye lust and haue not, ye aske and receiue not, because ye aske to consume it on your lusts. As some desire to be great, that their neighbor may be little, whereas they should desire goods of the world to doe good in the world, for riches are called <sup>s</sup> bona, non quod faciant bonum, sed vnde faciat bonum,

<sup>a</sup> Quodam modo si fas dici iuratio eius est. August. trakt. 41. in Ioan & Melancthon. postil. in loc. August. trakt. 102. in Ioan. Chap. 4. 3.

<sup>k</sup> Euthymius in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Maldonat. in Matth. 7. 7.

<sup>m</sup> August, ubi supra. Matth 7. 11.

<sup>o</sup> Apud Thomam 2. 24. quest. 83 art. 1.

<sup>p</sup> Doron basilicon lib. 1. Psalm. 119. 71

<sup>q</sup> Chap. 4. 2. 3.

<sup>r</sup> August ser. 5. de verbis dom. secundum Mat.

1st say. 5, 22.

* Ephes. 2. 14.
 2<sup>o</sup> August. contra literas Pelilian.
 lib. 2. cap. 70.

y 1 Epist. 2. 16.
 2<sup>o</sup> Ardens in Euangel. Dom. 5
 post Pasch.
 3<sup>o</sup> Ioh. 2. 3.
 4<sup>o</sup> Mar. 10. 37.
 5<sup>o</sup> Luk. 9. 45.

d August. ser. 5.
 de verbis Dom.
 secundum. Mat.

a Ambros. orat.
 de obitu fratris Satyri.
 1<sup>o</sup> August. ep. 34.

e See D<sup>r</sup>. Haywood. preface before Sanctuarie for a troubled Soule.

f Horn. conce-ring prayer,
 part. 2.

g Melancthon.
 loc. Theolog. in explicat. 1. precepti.
 h Praefat. in lib.
 de Ecclesia triumph.

and some desire the gifts of the body, not to serue God, or preserue the State, but to be tall in tipling and strong in drinking, And some desire the gifts of the minde, as learning and vnderstanding, not for instruction of Gods people, but for destruction of the Church; as the Schismatickes in their factious inuectiues, against the present gouernment, contrary to Christ, for he made of two one but they make of one two. Christ conioyned Iewes and Gentiles, and made them one Congregation, fecit utraq; unum, of both one; but they perceiuing the Church at vnitie within it selfe, diuide the coat of Christ without seame, as Augustine of the Donatists in his 171. Epistle.

So that it is ordinarie with God for these causes, and the like to giue a curst cow short hornes, and to dismisse impudent beggers without an almes, because they begge amisse. For all that is of the world, as the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and pride of life, is not of the Father, it is no gift for a Father to giue, saith 1st Iohn. It is not quid, but a nothing, and therefore not within the large compasse of quocunq; petieritis.

It is true that the blessed virgin did aske wine of Christ, and James and Iohn desired that one of them might sit at his right hand, and the other at his left in his kingdome; and in another place they desired fire from heauen, and yet Christ saith in my text, hitherto haue yee asked me nothing; because these things were bad things, at least not good things for them.

But if we shall aske good things and for good intents, according to the good will of our Father; he will bestow them vpon vs, howsoeuer he deserre our suit for a time: first, that we may desire Magna magis, great things with great earnestnes, as our Sauour declares in the parables of the importunate friend, Luk. 11 and importunate widow, Luke 18. Secondly, that God hereby might the more commend his benefits and blessings, for that which is easily got is soone forgot itaque cum aliquando tardius dat, commendat dona sua non negat. Thirdly, God heares not all men at all times for all things, lest we should imagine that he grant our requests out of fatall necessitie, not as a louing father out of liberall bountie. c Si semper exaudiret omnes, non iam ex voluntate liberat, sed ex quadam velut necessitate facere videretur. Fourthly, God doth often denie the same thing that we craue, that he may conferre vpon vs better things, non tribuit sapere quod volumus, ut quod malimus attribuat.

Fifthly, God heares our prayers in spirituall things, albeit we doe not instantly feele so much; s as a traveller after meat recouereth his strength to trauell further although he eat sometime without any taste or appetite; so meditations and prayers, which administer both fewell and flame to deuotion, incense in vs some spirituall strength, howsoeuer for a time we feele little spirituall solace. So that in conclusion, if we continue deuoute, we shall assuredly finde our Sauours promise to be most true, Whatsoeuer you shall aske the Father in my name, he will giue it you

The second maine point of this Scripture to be further examined, is, of whom we must aske to whom we must pray?

1. That he be able to helpe.
2. That he be willing to helpe.
3. That he be such an one as may heare our prayers.
4. That he vnderstand what we lacke better then our selues.

If these things are to be found in any other, sauing only God, then we may call vpon some other besides God. If not, idem est fingere multos Deos & sanctos mortuos innocare, to worship old saints is to make new Gods, praying vnto dead men is dishonorable to the liuing God, a speech highly taxed by k Bellarmine in the ruffe of his Rhetorick, yet handled gently with the fist of his Logick; for himselfe being a Iesuite, is ashamed of the blasphemous phrascs vsed in the Romane Missals, as Maria mater gratie, sancte Petre miserere mei, salua me, aperi mihi aditum caeli, &c. These are our words indeed, but our meaning is not so, saith he, that the Virgin, or Peter, or any Saint should conferre vpon vs any grace in this life, or glory in the next; the which is acknowledged also by the Rbemisits in their annotations vpon the first of Timothy, 2. 5. Herein agreeing with <sup>m</sup> Aquin and other Schoolemen, affirming that our prayers are to be made to God alone, tanquam per eum implenda, but vnto the Saints, tanquam per eos impetranda; yet <sup>s</sup> S. Paul saith expressly, there is one God and one mediator between God and man, the man Christ Iesus. And <sup>o</sup> S. Iohn; if any man sinne, we haue an aduocate with the Father Iesus Christ the iust, and he is the propitiation for our sinnes; and my text here, whatsoeuer ye shall aske, not in Maries or Peters name, but in my name, &c.

The Papists haue coyned three distinctions for answering to these three places; vnto that of Paul, they say, Christ is the sole mediator of redemption, but not of intercession, opus est mediatore ad mediatorem Christum, we need a mediator of intercession vnto Christ the mediator of redemption: <sup>q</sup> but this distinction will not serue, because Paul in that text speaks of prayer and intercession, as it is apparent in the beginning of the Chapter; I exhort you that first of all prayers, supplications, intercessions and giuing of thanks be made for all men.

To that of S. Iohn; if any man sinne we haue an aduocate, &c. <sup>r</sup> Their answer is, that Christ is our chiefe aduocate, Saints and Angels are secondarie: but <sup>f</sup> Augustine, citing this Scripture, saith, if S. Iohn had offered himselfe to be an aduocate, as Parmenian placed the Bishop betweene God and the people, he should haue bene no good Apostle but Antichrist, for the word Aduocate is borrowed of Lawyers, and signifieth him onely that doth plead the iustice of his Clients cause. A stranger in the Court may become a petitioner vnto the Iudge, and intreat fauour for the person guilty, but aduocates are proctors and patrons of their Clients, as <sup>i</sup> Ciuilians tell vs, and therefore though Angels in heauen & Saints on earth are petitioners in our behalfe to God, yet Christ alone is our aduocate, who can plead his iustice bestowed vpon vs; for Christ is our aduocate in that he is the reconciliation for our sins: If any man sin, we haue an aduocate with the Father, Iesus Christ the righteous. & he is the reconciliation for our sins; as if S. Iohn should argue thus; <sup>u</sup> he which must be an aduocate must first of all be a reconciliation for vs, no Saints can be a reconciliation for vs, ergo, no Saints can be aduocates.

The last distinction is <sup>x</sup> Bellarmines, intimating that a man may become mediator betweene disagreeing parties three waies:

1. By declaring which hath wrong, and so there is no controuersie, for Protestants and Papists agree, that God is the partie grieved.
2. By paying the creditor for the debtor, and so Christ alone is our mediator.
3. By desiring the Creditor to forgiue the debtor; and in this sence, saith he; Saints and Angels are our mediators.

I answer, that this distinction is contrarie to the doctrine of their Schooles, and practise of their Church; <sup>y</sup> Aquin doth auow that our prayers are effectull by the merits of Saints; and Bonauentura, that Mary can and may by the right of a mother command her sonne Christ: and <sup>z</sup> Giselbertus; Maria consolatio infirmorum, redemptio captiuorum, liberatio damnatorum, salus vniuersorum: and <sup>a</sup> Ozorius the Iesuit; Caput gratie Christus, Maria collum, quia omnis influxus a capite per collum derivatur; and <sup>b</sup> so Christ in his kingdome of glory continueth in subiection vnto his mother; it is Mary that doth bruiſe the Serpents head, ipsa conteret caput, as their new Bible corrected and allowed by the Tridentine Councell, although (as <sup>c</sup> Ribera confesseth ingenuously) the Hebrew text, the Chalde paraphrase, the translation of the Septuagint, & all good Latine copies read otherwise

And as for their practise, Christ in their publike prayer's and priuate deuotions is made a mediator <sup>d</sup> by the patronage of Apostles, intercession of martyrs, interuention of Confessors, by the blood of S. Becket, by the helpe of S. Rook, by the merits of all Saints. And howsoeuer they bragge; that the conclusion of all their Collects is per Iesum Christum Dominum nostrum; yet indeed they make

<sup>1</sup> De beatitud. sanctorum ca. 17 §. prima propositio, & §. est tam men notandum. <sup>m</sup> 2 2a. quest. 83. art. 4 <sup>a</sup> 1 Tim. 2. 5. <sup>o</sup> 1 Epist. 2. 1.

<sup>p</sup> Bernard apud Rbem. 1 Tim. 2 <sup>q</sup> D. Fulk. Calvin. & Marlorat. in loc. Paul. citat <sup>r</sup> Rbemist. in 1 epist. Ioan. 2. <sup>s</sup> lib. 2. contra epistolam Parmenian. cap. 8

<sup>t</sup> Lexicon iuris Ciuil. dist. aduocatus.

<sup>u</sup> Perkins pre- amble before his exposition of the Lords prayer: & <sup>v</sup> Zanchius in 1 Epist. Ioan. ca. 2 <sup>x</sup> De beatitud. sanctorum. c. 20 §. ad primum ergo.

<sup>y</sup> 2 2a. quest. 83 art. 4.

<sup>z</sup> Apud Magdeburg. cent. 10. col. 275.

<sup>a</sup> Apud D<sup>r</sup>. Mori. Apolog. lib. 1. cap. 67.

<sup>b</sup> Cassander. consultat. art. 21.

<sup>c</sup> In Habac. c. 1 num. 32.

<sup>d</sup> Sec D. Fulke in 1 Tim. 2. 5

Christ but halfe a mediatur and aduocate. Whatsoeuer the Iesuit prates in the Schooles, this the people practise in the Church, holding Angels and Saints immediate mediators able to satisfie and to saue, peruerting the whole Psalter of David with Te Deum, Benedictus, Quicumque uult, Nunc dimittis, all to the honor, or rather indeed to the dishonour of the blessed Virgin.

Moreouer, if we shall admit euery particular Saint in the Popes Calender for a mediatur and aduocate, we shall not only worship vnknowne gods, as Paul told the Athenians, Acts 17. 23. but also vnknowne men. For it is doubted, and by Papists of best note, whether there were any S. George, S. Christopher, S. Katherin; Cardinal<sup>e</sup> Bellarmino doth confesse that the legends of these three Saints are vncertaine and apochryphall, according to the censure of Pope<sup>f</sup> Gelasius; and S. Casar Baronius hath acknowledged as much of Quiriacus and Iulitta; <sup>h</sup> declaring plainly that their acts are written either by fooles or heretikes, and in his annotations vpon the Roman martyrologie 23. April, he take vp Iacobus de Voragine, for his leaden legend of our English George.

I thinke the Papists in great anger and malice to the State haue robbed England of her Saint; *S. Denny*s is for France, S. James for Spaine, and other Saints are allowed and allotted for other countries, onely poore England is bereaued of her George, they leaue none but God to reuenge all our quarrels, as we pray in our Liturgie, Give peace in our time o Lord because there is none other that fighteth for vs, but onely thou o God. For which honour and fauour all English hearts are bound heartily to thanke them.

I write not this to dishonour that noble Order of the Garter, <sup>i</sup> dedicated vnto S. George by the most renowned King Edward the third For (vnder correction and saluo semper honore ordinis) I take the George, which adornes those right honorable Worthies, to be symbolically only, signifying, that a valiant Christian Knight should alway be ready to fight against the Dragon, and other enemies of the Church and State whatsoever.

But grant that all the saints in the Popes Calender were sometime men liuing on earth, and now blessed soules in heauen; how shall we know, whether they know the particular wants of euery particular man? our<sup>k</sup> prayer is a lifting vp of the minde and powring out of our soule before God, not a labour of the lips onely; but an inward groning of the spiri; now Saints and Angels vnderstand not the secrets of our thoughts, only God<sup>l</sup> trieth the very heart and reines, and therefore we must inuocate God alone.

Againe, suppose they did know the meaning of the soule, yet to worship and inuocate them is derogatorie to the gracious promise of Christ in the Text, verily verily, I say vnto you, &c. Christ is the Master of Requests in the Court of heauen there is no need (as<sup>m</sup> Chrysostome speakes) of any porter, or mediatur, or minister but say thou thy selfe, Lord haue mercy vpon me, and God will be present, while thou art yet praying, he will say, I am come.

Thus I haue shewed whom we must aske, namely God alone, not the Father onely, but the Son and Holy Ghost also: for albeit Father be taken here personally, for the first person in the Trinitie, yet being a word of relation, it implieth the Son, and the Father and the Son are not without the spirit: wee cannot consider God the Father but in the Sonne, and the Sonne makes vs his children by the Holy Ghost, called the spirit of<sup>n</sup> adoption, and the spirit of the<sup>o</sup> sonne crying in our hearts Abba Father; and therefore we must pray to God the Father in the name of God the Son, by the powerfull assistance of the holy Ghost. And to what person soeuer the prayer is directed in word, we must alway remember to include the rest in minde, neither confounding the persons nor diuiding the substance, as Athanasius in his creed. If this one principle were well vnderstood, it would be no difficultie to conceine how Christ may both pray for vs, and in vs, and be prayed to of vs. 9 Orat pro nobis, orat in nobis, oratur a nobis: he prayeth for vs, as our aduocate in vs, by his holy spirit; prayed to of vs as our euerlasting Father, Esay. 9. 6. Oramus, ergo, saith Augustine, ad illum, per illum, in illo; We pray to him, by him, in him

The

<sup>e</sup> De beatitud. sanct. cap. vlt.
<sup>f</sup> Con. Rom. eccles. dist. 15.
<sup>g</sup> Annal. tom. 2.
ad annum 291.
fol. 650.
<sup>h</sup> De martyrolog Roman. ca. 2.

<sup>i</sup> Polydor. Virg.
Ang. hist. lib. 19
fol. 378.

<sup>k</sup> Psal. 25. 1.
See the Church
hom, concerning prayer,
part. 2.
<sup>l</sup> Psal. 7. 19.

<sup>m</sup> Ex varijs in Matth. locis,
hom. 17.

<sup>n</sup> Rom. 8. 15.
<sup>o</sup> Galat. 4. 6.
<sup>p</sup> Rom. 8. 26.

<sup>q</sup> Augustin. in
Psal. 85.

The last point to be considered, is how we must aske, we must pray to God as a Father, in the name of Christ his Sonne. The first clause teacheth vs to pray with great confidence; for what can he denie to vs, who made of vs his enemies, seruants; of seruants, sonnes; of sonnes, heires? Galat. 4. 7. and yet with all reuerence, for a sonne honouresh his Father: if God then be our Father, where is his honour? Malac. 1. 6.

The second clause forbids all presumption and swelling with an opinion of our owne vertue, for we must not begge of our Father in our owne name, nor in any Saints name, but in the name of Christ; and when our suite is obtained, it is grace, not desert, it shall be giuen you. For as David out of his loue to Jonathan was louing also to Mephiboseth, although he was deformed and lame: so God is mercifull vnto vs wretched and deformed sinners for Christs sake in whom he is well pleased. And the words in nomine meo may comfort vs against two great impediments in prayer; vnworthinesse, and distrust. For when our Sauiour saith, aske in my name, he would haue vs set his worthinesse against our vnworthinesse, and his promise against our distrust, in so much that a Christian soule may dispute with God after this manner: O most gracious Lord God thou hast said it and thy blessed Sonne hath sworne it, aske and ye shall haue. At this instant I arrest thy promise, beseeching thee most humbly to pardon all my sin, the matter of this suite is expedient for me to craue, and fit for thee to giue. And I desire it for good ends, according to thy good will; and as for the manner of my petition I begge it as a dutifull childe, of thine hands alone who art a most mercifull Father, willing and able to grant my request, and to ponder aright the voice of mine humble desire, and that not in mine owne but in his name who came into the world to saue sinners, of which I am chiefe. Thou wilt not the death of a sinner, and he will the life of a sinner. O Father of compassion and God of mercy whose word is a will and whose will is a power; who doest promise nothing but that which thou doest purpose, and purpose nothing but that which thou doest performe; suffer me, I pray thee, which am dust and ashes, to speake a few words vnto thy mercie. Lord if thou wilt not the death of a sinner; what necessitie is there that I should be damned? and if thou desire that a sinner should be conuerted, what difficultie is there that I should be saued.

No, no, good God, the deuill trembleth at thy presence, and if all the finnes of ten thousand worlds were ballanced with the least of thy mercies, they could hold no weight, much lesse can the wickednesse of one poore soule sway thy powerfull and euer-mercifull will.

O sweet Sauiour, I beleue that verily, which thou saist here, verily, verily I haue asked the Father, and the Spirit witnesseth to me that the Sonne hath obtained my suite: because O God it is easie to thy power, and vsuall to thy mercie, and agreeable to thy promise: Verily, verily, I say vnto you whatsoeuer yee shall aske the Father in my name he will giue it you.

The Epistle. 1. P E T. 4. 7.

The end of all things is at hand, be ye therefore sober and watch vnto prayer.

Saint Peter in this Sone text exhorteth vnto many duties, and those concerning	Our selues, vers. 7.	}	Sobrietie. Watchfulnesse. Prayer.
	Our neigh- bours, in	}	Thought; Above all things haue seruent loue among your selues, vers. 8. Deed; Be ye harborous one to another with- out grudging, vers. 9. Word; As euery man hath receiued the gift, even so minister, the same, &amp;c. vers. 10. 11.
	God;	}	that God in all things may be glorified through Iesus Christ, &amp;c.
	All

Augustin. lib
2. de serm. Dom.
in monte. Quid enim non dei fi lij petentius cum hoc ipsum antea dederit
ut filij essent?
Gregor. Nyss
lib de orat
2 Sam. 4.

Heming. po-
sil. in loc.

All which exhortations he doth raise from this one ground, that the end of all things is at hand.

<sup>a</sup> Ecclesiastes

<sup>2</sup> 13.

<sup>7</sup> Aquin. Caluin

Sacerdoti in loc

<sup>1</sup> Cor. 10. 11

Now there be two kinds of end:

Finis consummans, according to that of the <sup>x</sup> Wiseman, Hear the end of all, feare God and keepe his commandments.

Finis consumens, y as in this place, the end, that is, the destruction of the world, and of all things in the world is at hand, <sup>2</sup> we are they vpon whom the ends of the world are come: so S. Peter expounds himselfe, vers. 5. Christ is readie to iudge quicke and dead, the particular death of euery man seuerally, the generall doome of all men and all things ioyntly. <sup>3</sup> Thy end, and the end is at hand, be ye therefore sober.

<sup>2</sup> Lorinus in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Heb. 10. 37

Is at hand] That Christ will come to iudgement is certaine; when he shall come most vncertaine: See before Gospell 2. Sunday in Aduent: but his coming cannot be farre off, <sup>b</sup> Yet a very little while, and he that shall come, will come, and will not tarry. For as a man who is a little world; so the world which is a great man, hath his infancie, childhood, youth, middle-age, old age. The time (saith <sup>c</sup> Augustine) from Adams to Noe was the worlds infancie, from Noe to Abraham his child hood, from Abraham to Dauid his youth, from Dauid to the captiuitie of Babylon his middle-age, from the captiuitie of Babylon vnto Christ his old age, from Christ vnto the end of all things his dotage. For euer since the world hath as it were gone vpon crutches, and therefore now cannot stand long. If S. Iohns age was the <sup>d</sup> last houre, then our times are surely the last minute. Let not Atheists aske, <sup>e</sup> Where is the promise of his comming? for the Lord is not slacke concerning his promise (as they count slacknesse) but is patient toward vs, and would haue no man to perish, but would haue all men come to repentance. But the day of the Lord will come as a theefe in the night, in which the heavens shall passe away with a noise, and the elements shall melt with heat, and the earth with the workes that are therein shall be burnt vp; seeing therefore that all these things must be dissolued, what manner persons ought we to be in holy conuersation and godlinesse? Almighty God hath already whet his sword, and bent his bow and made it readie; now (saith Gregorie) the longer his draught, the stronger his shoot. His feet are of wooll, but his hands of iron; he is long in comming, but when he doth come he will strike home: bruising his enemies with a rod of iron, and breaking them in peeces as a potters vessell. Oppresse not your hearts with surfetting and drunkennesse, as <sup>f</sup> Christ, but be sober and watch vnto prayer, as our Apostle, lest that day come on you at vnawares.

<sup>c</sup> Lib. de questiō octoginta tribus. quest. 53. & de cal. rudibus cap 22. Idem Aristotus in 1. Cor 10.

<sup>d</sup> 1 Epist. Ioh. 2

18.

<sup>e</sup> 2 Pet. 3. 4-9-

10. 11.

<sup>f</sup> Psal. 7. 13.

<sup>g</sup> Luke 21. 34.

<sup>h</sup> Cajetan, Vatablus, Clarius, Salmeron, Turrianus, &c.

<sup>i</sup> Aristot. in Ethic.

<sup>k</sup> Lorin. ubi supra.

I will not contend with the Romish and Rhemish Interpreters about the translation of σωφρονισμος, seeing <sup>h</sup> Papiests of the best note reade as we doe, be ye sober and not according to the vulgar Latine, be ye wise. The <sup>i</sup> Philosopher excellently, σωφροσιν dicitur quasi σωφρον τῶν ἐπιθυμιῶν: or as <sup>k</sup> other, quia uisetur deus epistola. There is so great agreement betweene sober men and wife, that I make no difference between them in this text; only note S. Peters order, first we must be sober. and then watching in prayer. A drunken man is vnfit for euery good office, that therefore we may watch, it is necessarie we should be sober; and that we may pray, we must watch also. Some will be sober and yet not watch, other will watch but not to pray for themselves, but to pray vpon other, ut irascunt homines surgunt de nocte. Some will pray, but their spirits are sleepe. This exhortation then is fit and full, Be ye sober and watch vnto prayer.

Watch] The best remedie for the sweating sicknesse is to haue a good keeper who will not suffer vs to sleepe: so watchfulnes is the best keeper of our drowsie soules. He that is sober and awake hath his wits about him alway both to defend himselfe and offend his aduerfarie. <sup>l</sup> We are the children of light, and children of the day, we are not of the night, neither of darknesse. Therefore let vs not sleepe as other doe

<sup>l</sup> 1. Thess. 5. 5.

but let vs watch and be sober, and that in regard of our Tenement.
 Landlord.
 Enemies.

<sup>b</sup> Ephes. 4. 32.

<sup>c</sup> Caietan. & Lorin.

<sup>d</sup> Rhemists.

<sup>e</sup> Em. Sa. in

Prou. 10. 12.

<sup>f</sup> Gloss. apud Aquin in loc.

<sup>g</sup> Dr. Fulke in Luke 7. 47. &

Perkins exposit

Lords prayer.

as we forgiae,

&c.

<sup>b</sup> Com. in Luc. 7. de respons. Jesu Simonem arguentis.

vs not to be curious or cruell in examining the faults of our brethren, but rather to dissemble many things amisse, <sup>b</sup>forgiuing one another, even as God for Christs sake forgave vs. And therefore the glosses of Papists vpon this text, Loue shall couer the multitude of sinnes (in futuro iudicio ne pateant aterna ultioni, <sup>d</sup>Charitable workes of mercy cause remission of sinnes in the sight of God, <sup>e</sup>operit, id est, condonari facit a Deo, <sup>f</sup>ne sit quod puniat Deus) are both impious and improbable

Whereas it is objected, Many sinnes are forgiuen her, for she loued much, answer is made, that our Sauours argument is not from the cause to the effect, but from the effect to the cause: many sinnes are forgiuen Marie, therefore she loued much, as the words following intimate, to whom a little is forgiuen, he doth loue a little. Our loue towards other is not the cause of Gods loue toward vs: but contrariwise Gods loue is the cause of our loue. When he doth forgiue many sinnes, and giue much grace, then we loue much and couer a multitude of sinnes in other. If he forgiue but a few sinnes, and giue but little grace, then we shew but little mercy. For as a man walking vnder a wall in a cold sunnie day is heated of the wall which first receiued heat from the Sunne: so he that sheweth mercy to other, hath first receiued mercy from God. And this our blessed Sauour declareth in thli parable of the two debtors (as <sup>h</sup>S. Ambrose notes) according to man he trespasseth more, who did owe more: but by the mercies of the Lord, the case is altered, he loues more, which ought more, when his debt is forgiuen. How euery man ought to minister according to the measure of his gift and abilitie; see Epistle 2. and 3. Sunday after Epiphanie.

The Gospell. I O H N. 16. 23.

When the Comforter is come, whom I will send vnto you from the Father, &c.

THis speech of Christ is like the Checker, halfe

White: when the Comforter is come, &c.

Blacke: These things haue I said vnto you, because yee should not be offended. Foretelling the manifold afflictions of his followers, in that enemies of holy religion shall Descriing the whole sacred Trinitie, I will send the Spirit from the Father.

Describing the holy Ghost in particular, the Comforter, the spirit of truth, proceeding from the Father &c.

Intentionally kill their soule: they shall excommunicate you.

Actually destroy the body: yea the time shall come that whosoever killeth you will thinke that he doth God seruice.

<sup>i</sup> Lorin. cap. 2. Prolegom. in eccl. scasten.

<sup>k</sup> Apoc 7. 16. 17

<sup>l</sup> Luke. 16. 24.

<sup>i</sup> Petrus Tenorius Archbishop of Toledo, hauing a long time considered the weightie reasons on each side whether King Salomon was damned or saued, in fine caused him to be painted vpon the walls of his Chappell halfe in hell, and halfe in heauen. This picture is a lively representation of a Christian, in respect of his manifold troubles he seemes halfe in hell: againe, hauing tasted the first fruits of the Spirit, he is halfe in heauen. Now the reason why God hath mingled crosses and comfort together, are many: first, to shew the difference betweene this world and the next; in the life to come we shall either in heauen haue all comfort without any <sup>k</sup>croffe, or else in hell all crosses without any comfort <sup>l</sup>Dives tormented in that infernall flame, cannot get so much as a drop of cold water to coole his tongue: but in this life mercy and miserie, griefe and grace, good and bad are blended one with the other. If we should haue nothing but comfort, earth would be thought heauen; if nothing but torment, hell would be be reputed a fable. God therefore makes vs taste of his Spirit, and the worlds spight, couering our bitter pills with sweet sugar, our excommunication with his comfortable communication, that our whole pilgrimage might be nothinge else but a sorrowes ioy.

Secondly, God doth mingle these to keepe vs in the right way: for if wee should haue nothing but comfort, we would be too proud, nimum boni nihil mali: if nothing but the crosse too poore; but both these together make a good temper. Worldly trouble weinerh vs from the vanities of this life, spirituall comfort makes vs desire the ioyes of the next, esteeming all things dung and drosse to gaine Christ.

Thirdly, God doth adde the crosse to comfort for the triall of our faith and patience, that in our greatest miserie we might stirre vp the gifts of his spirit in vs, assuring our selues if God be with vs, nothing can preuaile against vs.

Affliction and persecution doth bring vnto the worldly man a threefold incommoditie:
 { Before it come, fear.
 { When it is present, sorrow.
 { When it is past, hatred against his enemy.

But the Comforter is a present helpe against all these: First, he taketh away feare before trouble: for as fire doth harden the Potters earthen vessell, making it stiffe and strong; so when our hearts are enflamed with that heauenly fire of Gods holy Spirit, it makes vs of an vndaunted courage, willing and able to suffer tribulation. Example hereof, P.S. Paul, who when Agabus foretold that the Iewes should binde him at Ierusalem, and thereupon the brethren earnestly, befought him that he would not goe thither: answered, What doe yee weeping and breaking my heart? for I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Ierusalem for the name of the Lord Iesus.

Secondly, the Comforter doth allay present sorrow, for S. Stephen being full of the Ho'y Ghost, did make (saith Greg. Nyssen) the ring of his enemies round about him as a crowne to his head, and euery stone they cast at him as a diamond enduring his martyrdom so cheerefully, that giuing vp his ghost he laid his head vpon the hard stones as vpon a soft pillow to sleepe, and that sleepe was portus mortis & porta vite.

Thirdly, the Comforter being the spirit of meekenesse and loue, takes from vs in our persecution all reuenge, making vs to loue our enemies, and to blesse them that hurte vs and hate vs.

*Tormenta, carcer, vngula, stridensq; flammis lamina.
 atq; ipsa panarum ultima.
 mors, Christianis ludus est.*

Here by the way note the reason why the Church allotted this Scripture for this Sunday, betweene the Feasts of Christs Ascension and Whitsuntide: Christ in his Ascension promised to send the Comforter, Acts 1. 18. and at Pentecost he performed his promise, Acts 2. 4. Againe, Christ at his Ascension inioyned his Apostles to teach all nations, and on Whitsunday he gaue them the blessed Spirit to comfort and assist them in that great and troublesome businesse, that as their preaching should procure tribulation, so the Comforter assure consolation.

When the Comforter is come, whom I will send vnto you from the Father.] These words (as Expositors obserue) first point out all the three persons in the sacred Trinitie, then paint out, as it were, the person and offices of the Holy Ghost in particular. We may desery the three diuine persons, in that Christ saith, I will send the Spirit from the Father.

*In sacred sheets of either Testament
 Tis hard to finde an higher argument,
 More deepe to sound, more busie to discusse,
 More usefull knowne, vnknowne more dangerous.*

For explanation of this ineffable mysterie, Diuines vse many familiar examples,

Ἀνομιαν

Renfacer. in symbolis.
Philip. 3. 8.

Ferus ser. 2. in domitic. exaudi.

PAAs 21.

AAAs 7. 55.

Oras de Sancto Stephano.

Prudent lym. de Vincentio martye.

Math. 28. 19.

Iansen. concord. ca. 155. & Zepher. con. 1. in loc.

Dr. Bart. ex Lombardo sent. lib. 1. dist. 2. Idē August. de Trin. lib. 1. cap. 3.

<sup>v</sup> Bellarm. cat.
cap. 2.

Of all which I will only propound one. If three persons in the world called Peter, Paul, and John, should haue one and the same soule, and one and the same body, they should be called three persons, because one is Peter, another Paul, and the third John: and yet they should be one man only, and not three men, not hauing three bodies, nor three soules, but one body and one soule. This is not possible amongst men; because the being of a man is determinate and limited, so that it cannot be in many persons. But the being of God is infinite, and therefore the self-same being and the self-same diuinitie of the Father is found in the Sonne, and in the Holy Ghost, and yet they are but one God only, because they haue the same being, the same power, the same wisdom, the same goodness, &c. But leauing this high point, which I desire rather humbly to adore, than curiously to explore, I come to the description of the third person, as the words of my text lead me, When the Comforter, &c.

<sup>z</sup> 1. Cor 13.
<sup>a</sup> Luke 2. 25.

God the Father is a comforter, euen the father of mercies and the God of all comfort: God the Sonne is a comforter, euen the consolation of Israel: how then is God the Holy Ghost the Comforter? Answer is made, that as in holy Bible works of power are ascribed especially to God the Father, and works of wisdom to God the Sonne, so works of loue to God the Holy Ghost. Comfort then being a great worke of loue toward vs, is attributed principally to the blessed Spirit, who doth helpe our infirmities, and maketh requests for us with sighs which cannot be expressed.

<sup>b</sup> Rom. 8. 26.

<sup>e</sup> Combit compend. Theolog. lib. 1. cap 9. d Cap. 7. 19. e Augustin. de Trin. lib. 4. cap. 20.

Is come] Not nono loco, for the Comforter is God, and God is euery where: but nono modo, which came to passe on the Feast of Pentecost, according to that of our <sup>d</sup> Euangelist, the Holy Ghost was not yet giuen, because that Iesus was not yet glorified. c Illa Spiritus Sancti datus, vel missio post clarificationem Christi futura erat, qualis nunquam antea fuerat. Neque enim antea nulla erat, sed talis non fuerat. See Epistle for Whitsunday.

<sup>f</sup> Esay 61. 1.

<sup>g</sup> Com. in Isaię cap. 48. & Thomas part. 1. qu. 43 art. 8. h Augustin. de Trin. lib. 2. c. 5. & Lombard. sent. 1. 1. dist. 15.

Whom I will] How did Christ send the Spirit, when as the Spirit did send him Esay 48. 16. The Lord God and his Spirit hath sent me. f The Spirit of the Lord is upon me and hath sent me to preach good tydings vnto the poore, to binde up the broken hearted, &c. All which our Sauour applieth to himselfe, Luke 4. 21. This day is this Scripture fulfilled in your eares. Answer is made by <sup>g</sup> S. Hierome, that the Spirit sent Christ iuxta fragilitatem carnis assumptę, not as he was God, but as he was man. <sup>h</sup> Againe, the redemption of the world being opus ad extra, was common to all the three persons in Trinitie, so God the Father did send, God the Holy Ghost send, God the Sonne himselfe send himselfe, the Father in respect of his eternall election, the Sonne in respect of his meritorious passion, the Holy Ghost in respect of his effectuall application is author of our saluation. But if we consider here sending tanquam opus ad intra. God the Holy Ghost did not send the Sonne but the Father and the Sonne send the Holy Ghost. The Father alone begets, only the Sonne is begotten, and the blessed Spirit proceeds from both.

Send vnto you] Sending doth not alwaies import inequality, but order only, for one equall may send his fellow by consent, and an inferiour his better by counsell. See S. August. de Trin. lib. 4. cap. 20. Lombard. sent. lib. 1. dist. 15. Thomas 1. part. quest. 43. art. 1. 2. &c.

From the Father.] This one clause doth ouerthrow two wicked assertions, one of Arrius, another of the Greeke Church. Arrius affirmed blasphemously that Christ was not very God of very God, equall to his Father as touching his Godhead: here Christ himselfe tells vs plainly that he is coequall, I from the Father will send, <sup>i</sup> making himselfe of the same power and authority to send. <sup>k</sup> Againe, this clause doth abundantly confute that error of the Greeke Church, holding that the Holy Ghost did only proceed from the Father, and not from the Sonne: I from the Father will send, ergo the blessed Spirit proceeded from both. And so the Scripture calls him else-where; sometime the Spirit of the Father, as <sup>l</sup> If the spirit of him that raised vp Iesus from the dead dwell in you, &c. Sometime the Spirit of the Sonne, <sup>m</sup> God hath sent forth the spirit of his Sonne into your hearts, which crieth

<sup>i</sup> Iansen ubi sup.
<sup>k</sup> Rupertus com. lib. 12. in Ioan. & Ramus de Relig. lib. 1. ca. 19. Idę Calum. Marlorat. Maldonat. & Rhem. in loc.
<sup>l</sup> Rom. 8. 11.
<sup>m</sup> Galat. 4. 6.

crieth Abba Father. And Rom. 8.9. If any man hath not the Spirit of Christ, the same is not his.

Now then as the Holy Ghost is called the Spirit of the Father, not onely because sent of the Father, but also because proceeding from the Father, (as Christ in the text, When the comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the spirit of truth which proceedeth of the Father) so likewise the spirit of the Sonne, not onely because he is sent of the Sonne; <sup>a</sup> but also because he proceeds from him and receiveth of his. And therefore the first Constantinopolitan Council added to the Creeds Apostolicall and Nicene this clause, that we should believe in the Holy Ghost, the Lord and giver of life who proceedeth from the Father and the Sonne, who with the Father and the Sonne together is worshipped and glorified, <sup>o</sup> As a lake is deriued from some riuer, and the riuer from some fountaine, and yet all is one and the same water: so the Father as a fountaine produceth the Sonne as a riuer, the Father and the Sonne as a fountaine and a riuer produce the Holy Ghost as a lake: and yet the Father and the Sonne and the Holy Ghost are not three Gods, but one God only.

The Spirit] Glorious Angels and blessed soules are both spirits and holy, how then doth this title distinguish the third person in the blessed Trinitie? <sup>p</sup> because God is called the Holy Spirit Catechomen, as being the chiefe spirit and most holy maker of all created spirits, and giuer of all holinesse, from whom cometh every good and perfect gift. Why this name is attributed to the third person in Trinitie, rather than to the first or second; see before the creed: Art. I believe in the Holy Ghost.

Of truth] It is obserued by <sup>q</sup> Maldonate, that truth among the Hebrewes is vsed sometime for stabilitie, so the Comforter may be called the Spirit of truth, in that he shall abide with vs for euer, Iohn 14. 16. But I follow the common current of Interpreters, affirming that the comforter is the Spirit of truth, & formaliter & effectiue, being himselfe truth, and leading vs into all truth; and here we must obserue a secret <sup>r</sup> Antithesis, other spirits who despise Christ and his Gospel, are spirits of error, but the Comforter is the Spirit of truth and cannot lie. This spirit, saith Christ, shall testifie of me, and yee being <sup>s</sup> filled with this spirit shall witness also: no man can say that Iesus is the Lord but by the Holy Ghost, and who is a lier, (saith our <sup>u</sup> Euangelist) but he that denieth that Iesus is Christ? If his spirit dwell in you, ye need not that any man teach you, but as the same anointing teacheth all things, and it is true and not lying. All such as want this guide are tossed hither and thither with euery blast of contrary doctrine; but the children of God, <sup>x</sup> led by the spirit of truth, are like mount <sup>y</sup> Sion which cannot be removed.

If any shall aske whether the Spirit shall teach euery truth, answer is made that he leads vs into all knowledge which is meet and necessarie for vs in this present world. He doth not deliuer euery truth vnto euery man, nor all that shall be knowne hereafter vnto any man: for in this life we receive but <sup>z</sup> the first fruits and the earnest of the Spirit. Now the first fruits are properly but an handfull or twaine of corne to a whole field containing many furlongs and acres of ground, and the earnest in a bargain it may be is but a penny layd downe for the paying of a thousand pound. Here the gifts of the Spirit are by measure, <sup>b</sup> We know in part, and prophecie in part: but when that which is perfect is come, then that which is imperfect shall be abolished. In this world Moses saw but Gods backe, Iohn but his shade, but hereafter all that loue the comming of the Lord shall see God face to face. We receive the first fruits here, but in heauen we shall enjoy the full haruest of our hopes.

Which proceedeth of the Father.] The Papists to maintaine that all doctrine necessarie to saluation is not contained in holy Scriptures, affirme that the Godhead of the Holy Ghost and the proceeding from the Father and the Sonne, cannot be found in <sup>c</sup> expresse words of the Bible, but only proued by their vnwritten traditions: as if the blessed Spirit could not be God, vnlesse he be allowed

<sup>a</sup> Sixt Senensis Bibliothec. lib. 6. ananot. 87. & Perkins exposit. Creed, art. 1. believe in the Holy Ghost.
<sup>o</sup> Bellarmin. cas. exposit. art. Creed in Spiritum sanctum. & Iacob. de Voragine. ser. 3. de S. Trinitate.
<sup>p</sup> Erasmus explanat. symbol. catech. 4.

<sup>q</sup> Com. in Ioan. 14. 17.

<sup>r</sup> Iohn 16. 13.
<sup>s</sup> Caluin Zepher. Maldonat in loc.
<sup>t</sup> 1. Cor. 12. 13

<sup>u</sup> 1. Epist. 2. 22.

<sup>x</sup> Rom. 8. 14.
<sup>y</sup> Psal. 125. 1.

<sup>z</sup> Rom. 8. 23.
<sup>a</sup> 2. Cor. 1. 22.

<sup>b</sup> 1. Cor. 13. 9. 10.

<sup>c</sup> Hard. confut. of B. Jewels apolog. part. 2. cap. 8. diuis. 2.

<sup>d</sup> In Apologetico of the Church of Rome, Nisi homini Deus placuerit, Deus non erit, as <sup>d</sup> Tertullian in the like cause. We say that Athanasius, Basil, Nazianzen, Ambrose, Cyril, Augustine, in their severall treatises of this one point alleage manifold testimonies of holy writ, which evidently demonstrate the Holy Ghost to be God. I will only name two: the first is Acts 5. vers. 3 Then said Peter, Ananias, why hath Satan filled thine heart, that thou shouldst lie vnto the Holy Ghost? And then in the next verse following, thou hast not lied vnto men, but vnto God. Vpon which words <sup>e</sup> Augustine and <sup>f</sup> Ambrose reason thus: In that Peter first named the Holy Ghost and inferred instantly thou hast lied vnto God, it is plaine that the holy Ghost is called God.

<sup>e</sup> Contra lit. Petilian. lib. 3. c. 48 & con. Maxim. lib. 3. cap. 21.

<sup>f</sup> Lib. 3. de spirit. sanct. cap. 10.

<sup>g</sup> August. ubi sup. & epist. 66

& 174. Idē Primasius & Ayselmus in 1 Cor 6

<sup>h</sup> Ser. 10 in die Pentecost.

<sup>i</sup> Lib. de fide ad Petrum, cap. 11

The second Text is, 1. Cor. 6. 20.: Glorifie God in your body: & what God, but the holy Ghost, whose temple our bodies are? vers. 19. Your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost. And therefore Frier <sup>b</sup> Ferus honestly writes, ex scripturis aperte constat Spiritum Sanctum esse Deum.

Now concerning the proceeding of the holy Ghost from the Father and the Sonne, <sup>i</sup> S. Augustine doth auow peremptorily that it is the doctrine of the Prophets and Apostles, and that he proues in his owne iudgement so sufficiently, lib 15. de Trin. cap. 26. that he concludes in the 27. chapter of the same book: cum per scripturarum sanctarum testimonia doeuissim de utroque procedere Spiritum Sanctum, &c.

And whereas the Papiſts in this point are all for the bare letter, and expresse words, it is plaine that the blessed Spirit proceedeth from the Father, in this Text and as plaine that he proceedeth from the Sonne, Reuel. 1. 16. and 19. 15. conferred with Esay 11. 4 and 2. Theſſ. 2. 8.

If any shall aske the difference betweene begetting and proceeding, and why the holy Ghost is not sayd to be begotten, as well as to proceed: I answer with <sup>k</sup> Augustine, Fides adſit, & nulla questio remanebit: and with <sup>l</sup> Ambrose, Non philosophis sed piscatoribus creditur, non dialecticis sed publicanis. Aufer argumenta ubi fides quaeritur. And with our Euangelist, the Spirit must teach vs, and not we the Spirit, it doth suffice that we speake as he will haue vs speake, namely that the Father is made of none, neither created, nor begotten. The Sonne is of the Father alone not made, nor created, but begotten The Holy Ghost is of the Father and of the Sonne, neither made, nor created, nor begotten, but proceeding.

<sup>k</sup> Epist. 146.

<sup>l</sup> De fide ad Gracian. lib. 1. cap. 5

<sup>m</sup> Zepher. cau. 1 dominic. excludi.

They shall excommunicate you.] Where <sup>n</sup> note that the chiefe persecutors of Christ and his followers are not open Atheists, or Turkes, or Iewes, but such as hold great places in the Church, Antichristians and Pseudo-christians, and therefore this prophecie doth aime at the present Church of Rome directly, whose cut-throat diuinitie consists especially in excommunication and killing. Nay the Romish butchers in their hellish crueltie goe farre beyond this prophecie, for they doe not only thrust the liuing Saints out of the Church, but also the dead at rest out of the Church-yard. When <sup>o</sup> Harding wanted arguments, he came to this terrible threat: I aduise you Master Iewel and your brethren not to bestow great charges about your tombes and places of buriall, lest the time come, as moſt certainly it shall come (vlesſe God for our finnes utterly forsake our country) when your carcases shall be digged out againe, and serued as the carcases of heretickeſe haue been many hundred yeeres. As the blond of Abel shed by Cain, so the bones of Martin Bucer abused by these Canibals, cry to God from the earth. I pray thee therefore good Reader examine these words of my text againe and againe, and consider of whom and by whom, and for whom they were spoken. And know that the clause, whoſoeuer killeth you will thinke that he doth God ſeruice, doth evidently demonstrate that an erroneus conscience is no warrant for thee why thou shouldst not ioyne with the conformable Protestant, against these Bull-mungers and bloud-suckers, of whom our blessed Sauiour here, They shall excommunicate you, &c.

<sup>o</sup> Reioynder to Master Iewels replie against the sacrifice of the Masse, pag 187.

WHIT S V N D A Y .

The Epistle. ACTS. 2. 1.

When the fiftie daies were come to an end, they were all with one accord together in one place, &c.

THE whole Bible may be divided into <sup>a</sup> three parts, answerable to the three persons in holy Trinitie: to God the Father is attributed our creation, especially described in the Old Testament: to God the Sonne our redemption, especially declared in the Gospells: to God the holy Ghost our sanctification, especially taught in the Acts and Epistles. For as the former bookes of the New Testament evidently demonstrate the true Christ: <sup>b</sup> so this historie the true Church: In them, he that hath eyes to see may reade the text of the Gospell, intimating what Christ is in himselfe: but in this as it were the comment of the Gospell unfolding more fully what Christ is in his members; <sup>c</sup> in the one, what he did for vs in his humiliation; in the other, what he did for vs in his exaltation.

The Scripture read is a relation how Christ himselfe being absent, hath graciously provided another comforter for the Church in her <sup>d</sup> widowhood: and it containes briefly the whole mysterie of this solemne feast, wherein three points are principally remarkable:

The } Comming of the Holy Ghost in the three first verses.
 } Working after his comming, vers. 4.
 } Publishing of this working, in all the rest following.

In the comming and descending of the Holy Ghost, foure circumstances are to be noted especially: the { Time: When the fiftie daies were come to an end.

 { Place: at Hierusalem in an upper chamber, chap. 1. vers. 12. 13.
 { Persons on whom: all the blessed Apostles abiding with one accord in one place.
 { Manner how: suddenly there came a sound from heauen, &c.

Whereas the <sup>e</sup> Novelists object, that this and other portions of holy Scripture taken out of the Prophets, Acts, and Apocalyps, cannot truly be called Epistles: answer is made, that as S. Paul called a text of the <sup>f</sup> Law, Gospell, as containing the glad tydings of saluation vnto mankinde, Galat. 3. 8. God preached the Gospell vnto Abraham, saying, in thee shall all the Gentiles be blessed. And as <sup>g</sup> that ancient and much esteemed Diuine, called the fifth booke of Moses, a pure Gospell, as being a tract of faith and loue: so we may terme these without vntruth, Epistles, as

<sup>a</sup> Lorin. prefat. in Act. Apost. c. 5

<sup>b</sup> Rhemist in sum of the new Testament.

<sup>c</sup> Marlorat. argument. in Act. Apostol.

<sup>d</sup> Rupert. de diuinis offi. lib. 10. cap. 1.

<sup>e</sup> Norfolke Ministers object. against the Communion booke.
<sup>f</sup> Gen. 12. 3.
<sup>g</sup> M. Tyndall in prolog. Deteronem.

<sup>b</sup> Apud Athanasium in una Anton.

<sup>1</sup> In Psal. 90.

part. 2.

<sup>k</sup> In . Theff. 2.

<sup>l</sup> Hm. 39.

<sup>m</sup> Epist. lib. 4.

epist. 84.

epist. 84.

<sup>n</sup> 2. Cor. 3. 2.

<sup>o</sup> Lib. 1. de orat.

<sup>p</sup> So eminent ab eo quod solet in anno August. de temp. serm. 186.

<sup>q</sup> Deut. 16.

<sup>r</sup> Homing postill. dom. 1. post. Epiphan.

<sup>s</sup> Consule Baron. Tom. 1. fol. 554.

555. Belos. de diuinis offi.ijs, cap 131. Bellum de cultu sanctorum, lib. 3. cap. 12 & 13.

<sup>t</sup> Ser. for Whitsun. part. 1.

<sup>u</sup> Epist. 119.

cap 16 & quest. in Exod. quest.

70 & quest. 1x nouo Testamento, quest 45.

<sup>x</sup> De spiritu sancto, cap. 27.

<sup>y</sup> Comen Gal 4.

<sup>z</sup> Ser. 1 de Pentecost.

Idem. Melanct. & Zepper. postill. in loc.

<sup>a</sup> In being our Schoolemaster to bring vs to Christ.

Gal. 3. 24.

<sup>b</sup> Ilustraciones. Durandus rational. lib 6. cap. 107. Rupert. & alij.

<sup>c</sup> Luther. in Galat. 3. 19.

<sup>d</sup> Tyndal. prolog. in Exod.

<sup>e</sup> 2 Cor. 3 7.

<sup>f</sup> Rom 1. 16.

<sup>g</sup> Luke 2 10.

<sup>h</sup> Ser. 183 de temp.

<sup>i</sup> Ser. 1. in festo Pentecost.

reporting the Lords message to his beloued spouse; for in this respect, <sup>b</sup> Antonius, <sup>i</sup> Augustine, <sup>k</sup> Chrysostome, <sup>l</sup> Macarius, <sup>m</sup> Gregorie, speaking of the whole Bible; generally callit Gods Epistle, sent from the Court of Heauen vnto the Church militant on earth.

2. We say that the Corinthians are termed Pauls <sup>n</sup> Epistle written in his heart: an epistle (as Theophylact vpon the place) for that they were in stead of an epistle; so this text, howsoeuer not an epistle, may stand, I hope, with their good liking in stead of an epistle.

3. Denomination is from the better and greater part, but most of our epistles are taken out of the Canonick epistles, and but a very few from the Prophets, Acts, and Apocalyps. Ergo, the Nouelists in this obiection are syllabaram aucupes, as <sup>o</sup> Tully writes of Lawyers, in hawking after a flie they lose the fowle.

When the fiftie dayes] Almighty God ordained in the old Testament sundrie feasts, to put his people in minde of his great benefits bestowed vpon them among the rest, there were <sup>p</sup> three solemne festivals euery yeare, namely, the Passeouer, the Pentecost, and the feast of Tabernacles, as we finde in the <sup>q</sup> first lesson appointed for this morning prayer: the Passeouer was instituted in remembrance of the deliuerance from Egypts bondage; Pentecost in remembrance of the Law giuen in mount Sinai; the feast of Tabernacles in remembrance of Israels dwelling in Tents fortie yeares in the Wildernesse: <sup>r</sup> In stead of those three Iewish feasts, our Christian Church hath substituted Christmas in honor of Christs incarnation, Easter in honor of Christs resurrection, Whitsuntide in honor of Christ confirmation of the Gospell, by sending vnto vs the Holy Ghost; and we retaine still two names of the three, to wit, <sup>t</sup> Passeouer and Pentecost. Against which ancient custome that of S. Paul is obiected, Galat. 4. 10. Ye obserue daies and moneths, and times and yeers: I feare lest I haue bestowed on you labour in vaine. But our <sup>u</sup> Church (herein agreeing with the learned Fathers, <sup>v</sup> Augustine, <sup>x</sup> Basil, <sup>y</sup> Hierome, <sup>z</sup> Leo) doth answer, that the Iewish Passeouer and Pentecost were types of our Easter and Whitsuntide: Christ Iesus is our Passeouer, saith Paul, 1. Cor. 5. 7. The Lord did passe ouer the doores where the blond of the Paschall, Lambe was sprinkled, Exod. 12 to signifie that he will passe ouer all the transgressions of such as apply to their owne soule, the merit of Christs blood, who is the Lambe of God that taketh away the sinnes of the world. So the Iewish Pentecost was a memoriall of the Law, which is an hidden <sup>a</sup> Gospell: but our Whitsuntide a memoriall of the Gospell, which is a reuealed Law: the Law was deliuered in mount Sinai, the Gospell in mount Sion: the Law was written in tables of stone, but the Gospell in the tablets of our heart by the Spirit: the Law was giuen fiftie dayes after their Passeouer, and the Gospell through the power of the Holy Ghost, fiftie daies after our Easter: and hereupon this holy feast is called <sup>a</sup> Pentecost, euen of the number of daies as it is in the text, When fiftie daies.

The Law was giuen, because of the transgression, Galat. 3. 19. <sup>b</sup> that is, to reueale sinne to the sinner, <sup>c</sup> as it were to keepe sinne aliue; that it might be felt and seene; as a corrosie is laid vnto an old sore, not to heale it but to stire it vp, and make the disease quicke, that a man may know in what danger he stands: he therefore who thinkes to iustifie himselfe by the Law, goeth about to cure his wounds with fretting corrosies.

If the Iewes then had a festiuall in remembrance of the Law, which is full of terror, and (as <sup>d</sup> S. Paul expresly) the ministracion of death, how much more should Christians obserue this holy time in remembrance of the Gospell, which, is <sup>e</sup> the power of God vnto saluation, and the <sup>f</sup> gladydings of great ioy to all people? Christmas is a merrie time kept in honor of our Sauiours comming in the flesh but at Whitsuntide we must reioice more for his comming in the spirit. This as <sup>g</sup> Augustine speakes, is a double ioy, quod abeuntem Christum non amissimus, & venientem spiritum possidemus. I conclude with <sup>h</sup> Bernard, ifwe solemnize the memoriall of the sanctified, allotting one day to praise God in his holinesse for S. Iohn, another for S. Peter, a third for S. Stephen, &c. how much more should ſhould we celebrate Whitſunday, conſecrated as a memoriall to the Sanctifier who makes all Saints.

If any ſhall further aſke, why Chriſt deferred the ſending of the Comforter fortie daies after his reſurrection, and ten after his aſcenſion; <sup>1</sup> answer may bee, that he did it haply to trie the patience and faith of his Apoſtles. And here wee muſt imitate their good example, who continued with one accord in prayer and ſupplication, Act. 1. 14. expecting the Lords good pleaſure, who dealeth euermore with his ſeruants according to his word. <sup>2</sup> It is probable that Zacharie prayed for children when he was young, and ſo continued vntill he was old. Simmeon aſſuredly looked a long time for the conſolation of Iſrael, and at the laſt he ſung his Nunc dimittis. If we ſhall vnceſſantly perfeuere in our deuotions, the Father of mercies in our greateſt extremitie will ſend vs comfort, as he did to the bleſſed Apoſtles here the Comforter.

The place was Hieruſalem, and Hieruſalem was the <sup>k</sup> citie of God, vnto which <sup>1</sup> all people reſorted at Pentecoſt, as it is in the text, of euery nation vnder heauen Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the inhabitants of Meſopotamia, &c. <sup>m</sup> This may teach all men to take their beſt hint to doe the moſt good: we muſt not put our candle vnder a <sup>n</sup> buſhell, or vnder a <sup>o</sup> table, but ſet it on a candleſticke, that it may giue light to the whole familie. For this cauſe <sup>p</sup> Chriſt and <sup>q</sup> Paul vſed to preach and worke wonders at Hieruſalem vpon the ſolemne feaſt daies, intending hereby to doe the greateſt good, among the greateſt companie. The more particular place was an vpper chamber: <sup>t</sup> allegorically, the Spirit of God deſcends vpon ſuch as are fartheſt off the earth, and neareſt vnto heauen, vpon ſuch as are in an high garret, ſeeking the things aboue; not in a low roome buried in the buſineſſe of the world: <sup>l</sup> literally, the diſtreſſed Apoſtles were thruſt together in an vpper chamber, becauſe they could not well at this great feaſt obtaine more conuenient roome: they might haue ſeparated themſelues, and ſo peradventure haue bene better fitted in ſeueral houſes: but according to their maſters <sup>r</sup> commandement, all of them kept together in one place with one accord.

The perſons on whom the holy Ghoſt deſcended, were the bleſſed Apoſtles; but the promiſe concerning the Comforter appertaineth vnto vs as well as vnto them. <sup>u</sup> I will pray the Father (ſaith Chriſt) and he will giue you another comforter, that he may abide with you for euer: and Matth. 28. the laſt verſe, Loe I am with you alwaies vntill the end of the world. The Spirit deſcended vpon the Diſciples in viſible formes, as vpon this day: but if we make cleane our ſoules and bodies as fit temples for the Holy Ghoſt, he will deſcend on vs in inuiſible fauours euery day, leading vs into all truth, and making our whole life a merrie Whitſuntide: but the point more principally to be noted, is, that they were all in concord, with one accord together in one place. The Church is not Babel, but Hieruſalem. It is not a number of ſtragling ſheepe, but a communion of Saints, an vnited flock vnder one <sup>x</sup> ſhepherd, hauing but one <sup>y</sup> Lord, one ſpirit, one baptiſme, one hope, and but one <sup>z</sup> heart: and therefore the brethren of diuiſion and ſeparation, are not in their ſchiſme led by the Spirit of God, who is <sup>a</sup> Loue, <sup>b</sup> making men to be of one minde in an houſe; but by the luſts of the fleſh ingendring <sup>c</sup> hatred, debate, emulation, contentions, ſeditions, heresies, enmie, &c. The ſpirit of <sup>d</sup> man doth not quicken any member or part ſeparated from the body: the drie bones which <sup>e</sup> Ezechiel ſaw ſcattered in the field, had no life in them till they were gathered together bone to his bone: ſo the Spirit of God doth not animate and comfort thoſe, who cut off and diuide themſelues from Chriſts myſticall body. <sup>f</sup> Behold then how good and ioyfull a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in vnitie; for they who be <sup>g</sup> like minded hauing the ſame loue, being of one accord and one iudgement, enioy conſolation in Chriſt, and fellowſhip of his Spirit: to ſuch hath the Lord promiſed his bleſſing, and life for euermore.

Suddenly there came.] The gifts of the Spirit are <sup>h</sup> free, not obtained by labour and induſtrie, but infuſed by grace: <sup>i</sup> The winde blowes where it liſteſh, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it commeth, or whither it goeth : euen so is every man that is borne of the spirit. The Holy Ghost is not tied vnto places and persons, vnto times and tides, he comes<sup>k</sup> suddenly when he will, and where he list : a sound from heauen, <sup>1</sup> insinuating that it was not in the Disciples power, but in Christs promise that he came downe, the worke of God in heauen not of any man on earth.

<sup>1</sup> Calu. in Act. 1.<sup>k</sup> Pſal. 87. 2.<sup>1</sup> Deut. 6. 16.

Exod. 23. 17.

<sup>m</sup> Zepper. in loc.<sup>n</sup> Matth. 5. 15.<sup>o</sup> Marke 4. 21.<sup>p</sup> Luke 2. 46.<sup>q</sup> Acts 20. 16.<sup>r</sup> Bernardinus apud Lorin. & Royad. hom. 2. in loc. <sup>t</sup> Caluin. ubi ſupra.<sup>u</sup> Luke 24. 49. Acts 1. 4.<sup>v</sup> Iohn 14. 16.<sup>x</sup> 1<sup>o</sup> Pet 4. 5.<sup>y</sup> Ephes. 4. 4. 5.<sup>z</sup> Acts 4. 32.<sup>a</sup> 1<sup>o</sup> Epift Iohn 4. 8.<sup>b</sup> Pſal. 68. 6.<sup>c</sup> Galath. 5. 20.<sup>d</sup> Auguſt. ſer. 2. ad fratres in cremo.<sup>e</sup> Ezechiel 37. 7.<sup>f</sup> Pſalme 133.<sup>g</sup> Philip 2. 2.<sup>h</sup> Sarcetrius in loc.<sup>i</sup> Iohn 3. 8.

As it had bene the comming of a mighty winde. ]<sup>m</sup> For as the winde blowes in euery coast and corner without resistance : so the Gospell of Christ is gone out into all<sup>n</sup> lands, and his words vnto the ends of the world, neither can any<sup>o</sup> resist the powerfull operation of the Holy Ghost : he will inspire whom he list, and when he list, making<sup>p</sup> young men to see visions, and espie the truth, and suffering old men to dreame dreames, and<sup>q</sup> wander in phantasies. Or as a winde because the proceeding of the Holy Ghost is as it were the breathing of the Father and the Sonne : velut exspiratio quaedam, & reflatio ex intimo precordiorum calore, & amore, Patris atq; filij. Or as a winde, to shew that gods spirit is the fountaine of spirituall life, as our spirit is of naturall life, which in the beginning God <sup>r</sup> breathed into man ; anima quasi a uero ; according to that of <sup>s</sup> Augustine, the Holy Ghost is in Christs mysticall body, like the soule in our naturall body. You may further examine the resemblance betweene winde and the Spirit, in Geminian. de similitudin. lib. 1. cap. 73. Berchorius in dictionar. verb. ventus & spiritus. Lorin comment. in Act. 2. 2.

<sup>u</sup> Some thinke there came a sound from heauen as it had bene the comming of a mightie winde, and filled all the house ; to terrifie them, at least to make them humble, that so they might be fit to receiue this high and heavenly gift, for the Lord doth respect the lowlineffe of his seruant, and will also <sup>x</sup> dwell with him that is of a meeke spirit, resisting the proud, but giuing grace to the humble, James 4. 6.

And there appeared vnto them ] The Spirit was giuen vnto the sonnes of God in old time, <sup>z</sup> but not in such a measure, nor in such a manner as vpon this day : not in such a measure : the Patriarkes and Prophets, and other holy men of God had tasted of the Spirit, speaking as they were <sup>a</sup> moued thereby ; but the Disciples are said here to be filled with the holy Ghost. Eadem semper fuit virtus charismatum, quamuis non eadem semper mensura donorum, saith <sup>b</sup> Leo, not in the same manner ; appearing in the shapes of clouen and fierie tongues. Appearing. ] They did not see the <sup>c</sup> substance of the Spirit, for that is inuisible, but the <sup>d</sup> signe which is visible : that whereas before they did not throughly beleue Christs saying, they might now beleue their owne seeing, all things being accomplished according to his word.

Clouen tongues as they had bene of fire ] <sup>e</sup> Hereby signifying that it is the Spirit, which giueth eloquence and vtterance in preaching of the Gospell : it is he which openeth our lips to declare the mightie workes of God, it is he which engendereth a burning zeale toward the word, giuing vs a tongue, yea a fierie tongue, boldly and cheerefully to professe the truth in the face of the whole world. <sup>f</sup> In linguis, vt in omni genere linguarum & sermonum facundi essent ; in igneis, vt inflamarentur amore charitatis. If Christ had giuen his Apostles only clouen tongues and not fiery, then they should haue bene full of knowledge, but voyd of zeale : if fiery tongues and not clouen, they should haue abounded with zeale, but not according to knowledge. Christ therefore did send downe the Spirit, both in fierie tongues, and clouen, that the man of God might be perfect to all good workes : <sup>g</sup> vt feruor discretionem erigat, & discretio feruorem regat : zealous in his knowledge, and discreet in his zeale : Verbis Ulysses, factis Achilles, as one <sup>h</sup> wittily.

These tongues are called clouen, <sup>i</sup> in respect of themselues, as being diuers, and in respect of the Disciples, as being dispersed, and sitting vpon each of them, according to that of <sup>k</sup> Paul, All these things worketh euen the selfe-same Spirit, distributing to euery man as he will severally. <sup>1</sup> Christ aduise his Apostles to be like serpents

<sup>k</sup> Nescit enim tarda molimina Spiritus sancti gratia Ambros.

<sup>1</sup> Marlorat. in loc.

<sup>m</sup> Bullinger

<sup>n</sup> Rom. 10. 18.

<sup>o</sup> Acts 6. 10.

<sup>p</sup> Ioel 2. 28.

<sup>q</sup> Io Eriib preface before his answer to Rabel dialogus

<sup>r</sup> Lorin. in loc.

<sup>s</sup> Genes. 2. 7.

<sup>t</sup> Serm. 186. de temp.

<sup>u</sup> Calvin. in loc.

<sup>x</sup> Esay 57. 15.

<sup>z</sup> Non fuit inchoatio muneris sed adiectio largitatis. Leo ser. 2. de Pentecost.

<sup>a</sup> 2. Pet. 1. 21.

<sup>b</sup> Vbi supra.

<sup>c</sup> Leo ser. 1. de Pentecost.

<sup>d</sup> Calusa in loc.

<sup>e</sup> Church Homil for Whitsunday. part. 1

<sup>f</sup> Beletius de diuinis officijs, cap. 131. & Durandus rational. lib. 6. ca. 107 num. 10.

<sup>g</sup> Berna d ser. 23. in Cantica.

<sup>h</sup> Perigallus apud Aeneam Syluum in epistolis.

<sup>i</sup> Erasmus annot. in loc.

<sup>k</sup> 1 Cor. 12. 11.

<sup>1</sup> Matth 10. 6.

fit Hymne to be sung at the consecration of Bishops; and Lord take not thy Spirit from vs, a necessarie suffrage to be repeated in our Church euery day.

O but how shall a man know whether the Holy Ghost is in him or no? seeing Anabaptists, and brownists, and Papists, in a word, all heretikes and schismatikes haue boasted of the Spirit? Christ telleth vs in the <sup>k</sup> Gospell, euery tree is knowne by his owne fruit: now the fruits of the Spirit, saith <sup>l</sup> Paul are these, loue, ioy, peace long suffering, gentlenesse, &c. Here is a<sup>m</sup> glasse, wherein thou mayest behold thy selfe, and discern whether thou be led by the flesh or by the Spirit. The brethren of separation, as they bewray in their name, so manifest in their nature, that they want exceedingly, loue, peace meekenesse, long suffering; howsoever they seeme to be of the household of faith, it is not likely they be of the familie of loue. The Papists in their writings extoll vnitie and peace so farre, that, <sup>n</sup> Cardinall Hosius acknowledged none other expresse word of God, but onely this one word Ama, or Dilige; but if we shall examine the present Romane Church in her <sup>o</sup> title, iurisdiction, life, doctrine, we shall finde her farre from loue: for the first is preiudiciall to all Bishops, the second derogatorie to all Emperors and Kings, the third detestable to all men, the fourth iniurious against Christ, and all that is called God.

<sup>p</sup> If any man haue not the Spirit of Christ the same is not his. And by <sup>q</sup> turning the words, it may be sayd as well, if any man be not of Christ, the same hath not his Spirit. Now to know who be Christs, and who be not, we haue this rule giuen vs, <sup>r</sup> his sheepe heare his voice, he that is of God, heareth Gods word: but the Papists obey not Christs voice, nor delight in his law; for as the malicious <sup>s</sup> Philistines stopped the wells of Abraham, and filled them vp with earth, to put their memoriall out of minde, that so they might challenge the ground: <sup>u</sup> in like sort the Papists haue stopped vp the veins of life, which are found in the Scripture, with the earth of their owne tradition, false similitudes, vnit allegories, and all for this end, to make the Bible their owne priuate possession and merchandize, shutting vp the kingdome of heauen, which is Gods word; neither entring in themselues, nor suffering them that would, hereby shewing plainly, that they are not of Christ, nor in this possessed with his Spirit.

But here they will obiekt, that there be diuers necessarie points vnto saluation not expressed in holy Scripture, which were left to the reuelation of the Spirit, who being now giuen vnto the Church according to Christs promise, hath taught many things from time to time, which the blessed Apostles <sup>x</sup> could not then beare. To this obiection, <sup>y</sup> answer is made, that the proper office of the Holy Ghost is not to broach any new contrary doctrine, but to confirme and explaine that which had bene taught before: When the Comforter is come (saith Christ) he shall lead you into all truth: he shall not speake of himselfe, but what soeuer he shall heare, that shall he speake; he shall receiue of mine, and shew vnto you; bringing all things to your remembrance which I haue told you. We may not then vnder pretence of the Spirit, bring into the Church any dreames or phantasies of our owne braine, but as the Disciples, after they were filled with the holy Ghost, <sup>z</sup> spake such things as they had seene and heard: so the very summe and substance of all that we preach after the spirit giueth utterance, must be nothing else, but that heauenly doctrine, which we finde and read in Gods holy Bible.

With other tongues.] as it is in <sup>b</sup> S. Marke, with new tongues, not <sup>c</sup> with that old <sup>d</sup> slow tongue of the Law, but with Euangelicall utterance: Moses had but one tongue for one people, but the Disciples had clouen tongues, all languages for all lands: hereby signifying that in <sup>e</sup> Christ, there is neither Iew, nor Grecian, neither bond nor free, but that the <sup>f</sup> Lord ouer all is rich vnto all that call vpon him. It is not sayd they spake with one tongue, and many languages were heard, (as <sup>g</sup> Carthusianus and some other imagine) <sup>h</sup> for then the miracle should haue bene in the hearers, and not in the Preachers: but they began to speake with other tongues, and so euery man of euery nation heard his owne dialect.

As the same spirit gaue them utterance] There are diuersities of gifts, but the same

<sup>k</sup> Luke 6. 44.
<sup>l</sup> Galath 5. 22.
<sup>m</sup> Church Homil. for Whitsunday, part. 1.

<sup>n</sup> Dr Fulke answer to the preface of Greg. Mutin. touching translation of Scripture, pag. 4.
<sup>o</sup> See <sup>Dr</sup> Fox Acts and Monuments, fol. 1.
<sup>p</sup> Rom. 8. 9.
<sup>q</sup> Church Homil. for Whitsunday, part. 2.
<sup>r</sup> Iohn. 10. 16.
<sup>s</sup> Iohn 8. 47.
<sup>t</sup> Genes. 26. 15
<sup>u</sup> <sup>Dr</sup> Tyndall prolog vpon Ioras.

<sup>x</sup> Iohn. 16. 12.
<sup>y</sup> Church hom. Whisep. C. lviin. apud Marlorat. in Ioh. 16. & Leo. de Pentecost. ser. 2. cap. 6
<sup>z</sup> Iohn 14. 26.
<sup>a</sup> Epist. Iohn 1. 1.
<sup>b</sup> Acts 20. 22.
<sup>c</sup> Marke cap. 16. 17.
<sup>d</sup> Sarcinius. in loc.
<sup>e</sup> Exod. 4. 10
<sup>f</sup> Galath. 3. 28
<sup>g</sup> Rom. 10. 12.
<sup>h</sup> Vide com. Lorin. in loc.
<sup>i</sup> Calu. Caietan. English glosse in loc.
<sup>j</sup> Naxianzen. apud Bezam. & Ambros. ser. 62. & à Lorin. citati. Augustin. Chrysolog. Greg. Cyril. Hierosol.

same Spirit; to one is giuen by the Spirit the word of wisdome, and to another the word of knowledge by the same spirit, to another is giuen faith by the same Spirit, and to another the gift of healing by the same spirit, to another prophetic, to another discerning of spirits, to another diuersities of tongues; all these things worketh euen the selfe same spirit, distributing to euery man as he will feuerally; for all men haue not all gifts, and such as haue the same graces, haue them not in the same measure: whatsoeuer we say well, is as the Spirit giueth vterance; whatsoeuer we doe well, is according to the grace that is giuen vnto vs. Here the Disciples vttered eloquently the great workes of God, not out of their owne wit, nor out of their owne will, <sup>k</sup> sed quid & quantum & quomodo Spiritus Sanctus dabit: all was the meere gift of the spirit, both for the matter and the manner: in that they spake with other tongues, it was the gift of the spirit: in that they spake with other tongues, other things in stead of vanitie, veritie, magnalia Dei, whereas heretofore they spake carnalia mundi, this also was the gift of the spirit. See Epistle Dom. 2. after Epiphan. and Epistle Dom. 4 à Pasch,

Then were dwelling at Ierusalem deuout men]. The summarie pith of all the text following is briefly this: <sup>m</sup> all the religious and deuout men present at this miracle, wondered at it, and enquired after it; but the wicked, as we read, vers. 13 mocked and sayd, they are full of new wine. The wonders and workes of God euer had and euer shall haue this effect, <sup>n</sup> all that are ordained to eternall life, beleue; but the reprobate despise the Prophets, and <sup>o</sup> stone such as are sent vnto them. Vnto the godly Christs Gospell is the <sup>p</sup> sauour of life vnto life, but vnto such as perish, euen the saouour of death vnto death: in this sense S. Iohn saith in his Apocalyps, He that is vniust, let him be vniust still; and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still; and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still; and he that is holy, let him be holy still. And therefore let vs I beseech you pray with the Church humbly and heartily.

God which as vpon this day hast taught the hearts of thy faithfull people, by sending to them the light of the holy Spirit: grant vs by the same Spirit to haue a right iudgement in all things, and euer more to reioyce in his holy comfort, through the merits of Christ Iesus our Saniour, who liueth and raigneth with thee in the vnitie of the Spirit, one God world without end. Amen.

The Gospell, I O H N. 14. 15.

Iesus said vnto his Disciples, if ye loue me, keepe my commandements, and I will pray the Father and he shall giue you another comforter.

THe quintessential point of all this long Gospell, and that which is most answerable to the present Feast, is contained in the 18. vers. I will not leaue you comfortlesse, but I will come vnto you. For this chapter is a Castle of comfort, and this text is as it were the Bellauiew of the whole chapter, in which a Christian may behold all sufficient fortifications against the batteries and assaults of all his enemies. I will not part this goodly frame, because it is like <sup>r</sup> Hierusalem, at vnitie within it selfe, and I wish with al. my heart, that you would rather ponder than number the towers and powers thereof: only for order sake, you may first take a generall view of the whole ioyntly, then a particular suruey of euery pinnacle and pin feuerally.

For the first, euery little creature is a great wonder; out of which, euen the most ignorant, who cannot reade, may notwithstanding see that there is a God of infinite power and wisdome: but man is a <sup>s</sup> greater wonder, as being an abridgement of all wonders: for concerning God, we beleue that he is a <sup>t</sup> spirit; concerning the world, we see it to be a body: man is an Epitome of both; of God, in regard of his <sup>u</sup> soule; of the world in the composition of his body, as though Almighty God the Creator, vpon purpose to set forth a mirror of his workes

<sup>r</sup> Rom. 12. 6.

<sup>k</sup> Ardens in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Caietan in loc.

<sup>m</sup> Caluin, in loc. & Royad hom. 3. in die. Pentecost.

<sup>n</sup> Acts 13. 48.

<sup>o</sup> Matth 23. 37.

<sup>p</sup> 2 Cor 2. 16.

<sup>q</sup> Respert Aquin Bullonger, in Apocalyp cap. 22. vers. 11.

<sup>r</sup> Psal. 122. 3.

<sup>s</sup> Grande profandum, Aug. Confess. lib 4 cap 14

<sup>t</sup> Iohn 4. 24.

<sup>u</sup> Being Gods image, so that Heraclitus said, homines Dy. & Dy homines.

Clem pedagog. lib.

3 & Strom. 2.

* *Vide Tertul.
lib. de carne Christi. & Immocent. de vititate
condit. human.
lib. 1. cap. 8.*

r 1 Cor. 4. 9.

z John 17. 14.

a 2 Cor. 12. 10

b 2 Cor. 4.

c Rom. 8. 28.

d Rom. 6. 23.

e Mr Tyndall prolog vpon Genesis.
f Fox Acts and Monuments,
fol. 1893.
g Psal. 119.
vers. 71.

h Ecclesiasticus

41. 1.

i Philip. 1. 21.
Mors mihi mu-nus erit. Quid.
Trib. 1. eleg 21.
k Baron. de Roman. martyrol.
cap. 4 & Bellar.
de amiss. grat.
& statu pec.

lib. 4. cap. 7. §.
Septima ratio.
Idem Luther.
serm de morte.

l Ecclesiastes

7. 3.

m Job 3. 3.

n Selon.

o Bernard.

p Mat 11. 29.

q 1 Pet. 5. 8.

r Ser. at Pauls.

s Luke 22. 31.

workes, intended to bring into this one little compasse of man, both the infinitenesse of his owne nature, and the hugeness of the whole world together : it is said diuinely, that man is Gods Text, and all other creatures are * commentaries vpon it : heauen resembles our soule, earth our heart, placed in the middelt as a center, the liuer like the sea, from whence the liuely springs of blood doe flow, the braine giuing light, and vnderstanding, is like the sunne, the senses set round about like itarres : in which respect a man is fitly termed Epilogus operum Dei, the world being a great man, and man a little world ; and yet behold a greater mysterie, magnum miraculum homo, maximum miraculum Christianus homo; euery man is a wonder, but a Christian is a wonder of wonders (as S. Paul speakes) a gazing-stocke, at which all the men on earth, all the deuills in hell, all the glorious Angels and Saints in heauen stand amazed : he is in the world, and yet not z of the world, as it were one of the Antipodes, he runs contrary courtes vnto other men, a He taketh pleasure in reproches, in necessitics, in persecution, in anguish for Christs sake : when he is weake, then is he strong : afflicted on euery side but not in distresse : in pouerty, but not in want; persecuted, but not forsaken; cast downe, but not cast away : whatsoeuer vnto other is cuill, vnto him is good, c all things working for the best vnto such as loue God. Here is a bundle of wonders

Famine is exceeding grieuous vnto other, but the good man shall euen laugh at destruction and dearth, Job. 5. 22. Sinne is d damnable to other, but profitable to the Christian, occasioning repentance not to be repented, 2. Cor. 7. 10. Paul was buffeted in the flesh, lest he should be puffed in his minde, 2. Cor. 12. 7. little infirmities in regenerate men, are occasions often to withhold them from greater offences, and so God, as e one said, bealeth sinne by sinne.

§ *Te docuit lapsus magis vt vestigia firmes,
Atque magis Christo consociere tuo,
Vtque tu melius studas harescere causa :
Sic mala non raro causa fuere boni.*

Sickness and other crosses, vnto other are insupportable, but, saith s David, it was good for me that I haue beene in trouble. b Death vnto the man of the world is most bitter, but vnto the man of God it is i aduantage : wherefore the Martyrs and holy Confessors in old time reputed the day of their death their birth day. The Gentiles and Heathen, who knew not the Ioyes of another life, made great feasts on their birth-dayes, as Herod, Matth. 14. 6 and Pharao, Gen 40. 20.
But the Christians as we find in b Ecclesiasticall historie ) celebrated euermore the funerals of the Martyrs, i insinuating that the day of our death is better then the day of our birth, and that then onely we begin truly to liue, when once we die. Iob, patient Iob cried out impatiently, m Let the day perish wherein I was borne, and the night wherein it was said, there is a man childe conceived : and the Prophet Ieremiab, chap 20. vers. 14. Cursed be the day wherein I was borne, and let not the day wherein my mother bare me be blessed. On the contrarie, blessed is the houre of our death: euen so saith the Spirit, blessed are they who die in the Lord, for they rest from their labours, and their workes follow them, Apocal. 14. 13. So blessed a thing is death, as that no man is or can be fully blessed a vntill his death.

Thus (as you see) the Christian doth gaine much in losing a little, by slipping he stands the faster, in affliction he cheereth most, in death he begins to liue ; these put together afford a world of wonders ; and the reason of all this our Sauour rendreth in my text ; I will not leaue you comfortlesse, but I will come vnto you.

The deuill crieth, ego o interficiam, I will destroy you ; the world, ego deficiam,
I will leaue you : the flesh, ego inficiam, I will corrupt you : Christ only, ego P reficiam, I will refresh you ; I will not leaue you comfortlesse.

The deuill goeth about like a roaring Lyon, seeking whom he may deuoure ;
[the which Text is thus excellently glossed by r B. Latimer : he stands not idle but goeth about in euery corner of the world, as a Lion, strongly, boldly, proudly, roaring, for he will not let slip his opportunitie, to speake or roare out when he seeth histime : seeking, not sleeping ; c Simon, Simon, behold Satan hath desired to winnow

winnow you as it were wheat, but I haue prayed for thee, that thy faith faile not. Haply your faith shall faint, but it shall not faile; <sup>c</sup> the leaues of it shall be shaken, but the root shall stand immoueable, <sup>u</sup> fidei robur concussam erit, non excussam: it may seeme to sleepe for a while, but it shall awake at the crowing of the cocke.

Now beloued, as Christ prayed for S. Peter, so likewise for the rest of his Apostles, and not for them only, but for vs also, Ioh. 17. 20. I pray not for these alone but for them also which shall beleue in me through their word. If God then be with vs, who can be against vs? Is not the Sonne of righteousnesse of greater force then the Prince of darkenesse? Indeed his hate is great, but his hornes are not so long as the world makes them; except Christ permit him, he cannot so much as touch an <sup>e</sup> hog, Simon, Simon, behold Satan hath desired: & He must first beg an ill turne, before he can doe it: as we read, Iob. 1. 12. 2. 6. to winnow you. Winnowed corne is purged and made cleane by the fanne and scrie, for the masters owne vse: so though our enemye siff vs, his scrying is but our <sup>z</sup> trying: as wheat: Chaffe is blowen away with the winde, or cast into the fire, but wheat is kept in a Gods owne granarie: feare not therefore little flocke, for it is your Fathers pleasure to giue you a kingdome: Satan will attempt as he can, and tempt as he may, but I doe not leaue you comfortlesse: behold I haue prayed that your faith faile not: and if ye haue the shield of faith, you may quench all the fiery darts of the Deuill, Ephes. 6. 16.

<sup>b</sup> In the world also, ye shall haue affliction, but be of good comfort, I haue overcome the world. In the world affliction: <sup>c</sup> for the brother shall betray the brother, and the father the Sonne, and ye shall be hated of all men for my name; but what though thy brother and sister, vncler and aunt, father and mother forsake thee, so long as I take thee vp, and leaue you not comfortlesse? what though the heathen <sup>d</sup> furiously rage together, and the people imagine a vaine thing? What though the Kings of the earth stand vp, and the Rulers take counsell together, against the Lord, and against his annointed? <sup>e</sup> The Lord is King, be the people neuer so impatient: he rideth betweene the Cherubins, be the earth neuer so vniquiet; and therefore dismay not thy selfe, for <sup>f</sup> I am with thee; be not afraid for I am thy God: feare not thou worme Iacob: I will helpe thee, I will not leaue thee Comfortlesse.

The flesh crieth, ego inficiam, and yet <sup>g</sup> he that is borne of God sinneth not: <sup>h</sup> Non facit peccatum, quia patitur potius: he doth not <sup>i</sup> delight in sinne as the wicked, Prou. 2. 14. he doth not <sup>k</sup> perseuere in deadly sin, which is contrary to spirituall life; being elected of God he cannot <sup>l</sup> finally fall: <sup>m</sup> In quantum ex Deo natus, non facit peccatum, as borne of God he sinneth not: or that which is indeed the most comfortable glossie: <sup>n</sup> Non quod omnino non peccet, sed quod peccatum ipsi non imputetur: he that is borne of God, is sayd not to sinne, because sinne is not imputed vnto him, his vnrighteousnesse is forgiuen, and his sinne couered, Psal. 32. 1.

Let then the Cerberus of iniquitie, the world, the flesh, the deuill rage and raue: the first with ego deficiam, the second with ego inficiam, the third with ego interficiam: all is well so long as we heare and haue Christs ego resciam, I will not leaue you comfortlesse: in miserie good words are comfortable, good things are comfortable, good friends are comfortable, a good wife most comfortable: yet in respect of this inward and ghostly comfort which passeth all vnderstanding, I may well say with <sup>o</sup> Iob miserable comforters are you all. Hitherto concerning the whole frame ioyntly, now let vs examine euery pinnacle and pin, euery word and syllable as they lie couched in the vulgar English seuerally.

I will not. ] As the Father is the God of <sup>p</sup> all comfort, and the Holy Ghost the <sup>q</sup> Comforter, so likewise I am annointed and appointed to preach glad tydings vnto the poore, to binde vp the broken hearted, to comfort all that mourne, to giue them beauty for ashes, and the garment of gladnesse for the spirit of heauinesse, as the prophet Esay foretold in his 61. chapter: If then I were sent from a comforter and

<sup>c</sup> Theophylact.
in Luc 22.
<sup>u</sup> Tertullian.

<sup>x</sup> Matth. 8. 31
<sup>y</sup> Beda, Caietan.
Maldonat, in
Luc. 22.

<sup>z</sup> James 1. 3:

<sup>a</sup> Matth. 13. 30

<sup>b</sup> Iohn. 16. 33.

<sup>c</sup> Matth. 10. 21.

<sup>d</sup> Psal. 2.

<sup>e</sup> Psal. 99. 1.

<sup>f</sup> Esay 41. 10.

<sup>g</sup> 1 Epist. Ioh 3. 9

<sup>h</sup> Bernard, de
nat. & dignit.
diuini amoris,
cap. 6.

<sup>i</sup> Non dat opera peccato, Bez.

<sup>k</sup> Bernard. in Septuages. ser. 1

<sup>l</sup> Aquin. in loc.
Ioban. ubi supr.

<sup>m</sup> Idem Aquin.

Caietan. Em. Sa.
<sup>n</sup> Bernard tract.
de grat & lib.
arbit.

<sup>o</sup> Iob 16. 2.

<sup>p</sup> 2 Cor. 1. 3.

<sup>q</sup> Iohn 16. 7.

and am my selfe a comforter, and will also send another comforter, how can it be that I should leaue you comfortlesse?

I will not leaue you but I will come to you. The stile of man is, I will if God will, if the Lord will; and if we liue we will doe this or that: but Gods stile is, I will; as his name is, I am that I am, so his stile is, I will that I will: for whatsoeuer he pleaseth he doth in heauen and in earth, and in all deepe places: he speakes the word and it is done, he commandeth, and it is effected: and therefore let none doubt of his mercie, who faith in absolute tearmes, I will not leaue you, but I will come to you.

James 4. 15.
Exodus 3. 14
Gal 13. 5. 6.
Plal. 33. 9.

Esay 51. 12.

Leaue] Why then shouldest thou feare a mortall man, and the sonne of man? which shall be made as grasse. I, euen I am he that comfort you, that am with you: who shall accuse you? seeing God doth iustifie you, who shall condemne you? seeing I the Sauiour of the world daily make request for you: my louing kindnesse is from euerlasting to euerlasting; those whom I once loue, I neuer leaue.

Rom 8 33. 34
Iohn 13. 1.

You] I will leaue the world and the wicked of the world, for they forsake and leaue me; but I will pray the Father, and hee will giue you another comforter, that he may abide with you for euer, euen the spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receiue, because the world seeth him not, neither knoweth him: I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast giuen me; for they are thine, and all mine are thine, and they are mine.

Iohn 17. 6.

Augustine,
Beda, Caictan.
in locum.

Comfortlesse] ipqarus is one that is fatherlesse; he therefore doth promise, that he will be their Father, and that they shall be his children, he will be their Tutor, and they shall be his schollers; euen led by his Spirit: as if Christ should speake thus vnto the Church; I am your husband, and you my beloued spouse, but I will not leaue you comfortlesse like a desolate widow, for I will not be long absent bodily, and I will be present euer spiritually: behold I am with you alwaies vntill the worlds end.

But will come to you] That cannot be construed of Christs first comming, for he was come long before, and was euen now going away.

There are therefore beside his first, two sorts of comming,	} Vnto men } Into men	} Past, in his resurrection. } To come in the last and dreadfull day. } Sending the Holy Ghost to the blessed Apostles on this day. } Comming into our mindes through his grace euery day.
---	--------------------------	---

Theophylact.
Euthym Caictan
lausen in locum.
Serm for Easter day.
1 Cor. 15. 14

Interpreters expound this Text of all those kindes of comming: some construe this of his resurrection; a matter of such comfort, that our Church aptly calleth it the very locke and key of all Christian religion: according to that of S. Paul, if Christ be not risen then is our preaching vaine, and your faith is also vaine; for the Bible is the summe of all Diuinitie: the Gospell the summe of all the Bible: the Creed the summe of all the Gospell: and this one article concerning our resurrection, is the summe of all the Creed, on which all other golden linckes of our beleefe depend: but nothing proues our resurrection, so much as Christs resurrection; If it be preached that Christ is risen from the dead, how say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead? 1. Cor. 15. 12. See before, Gospell on Easter day, and after the Gospell on Saint Thomas day.

August. tract.
75. in Job.
Idem Beda, Leontius, Mal-
donat. in loc.
Rom 8. 22. 23
Tertullian.
Cyrillus, Ru-
pertus, Brentius.
Caluin.

Other expound this of his comming to iudge the quicke and the dead, and this comming is so comfortable to the godly, that S. Paul saith, Every creature groaneth with us and tranclleth in paine together, vntill that glorious redemption and libertie. See before Gospell, Dom. 2. Aduent.

Now Christ ascending vp on high, and leauing the world that we might be the better assured of his comming againe, tooke with him our pawne, to wit, his Flesh, and left also with vs his pawne, to wit, his Spirit: for many Diuines interpret this of his comming in the Spirit: and that, as Marloratus is of opinion most most fitly; because<sup>k</sup> the sonnes of God are led by the spirit of God, which is their comforter vnto the end and in the end. Thus Gospell and Epistle paralell excellently: for that which Saint Iohn reports our blessed Sauour promised in the one Saint Luke reports how he performed it in the other.

O God make cleane our hearts within vs, and take not thy holy Spirit from vs.

The Epistle. A P O C A L Y P S. 4. 1.

After this I looked, and behold a doore was opened in heauen, &c.

Albeit this booke were last written of all the Bible: yet (as<sup>m</sup> some Diuines haue noted) it was first expounded by the primitiue Doctors, <sup>n</sup> Irenaus, <sup>o</sup> Iustin Martyr, <sup>p</sup> Hippolytus, <sup>q</sup> Melito, <sup>r</sup> Vitorinus, and <sup>s</sup> other, as a Scripture most necessarie to be knowne of all Christians. <sup>t</sup> Oecolampadius called it the Prophets Paraphrase, <sup>u</sup> Bullenger, the Gospels epitome, <sup>x</sup> Baleus, the complete summe of the whole Bible; the which Almighty God the Father gaue to Christ his sonne, chap. 1. vers. 1. Christ after he was ascended vp on high committed it to the blessed spirit, the blessed spirit deliuered it to S. Iohn, the peculiarely beloued Apostle of Christ, and S. Iohn left it to the Church, and the Church hath commended it to vs, and now we to you, as a ieuell of inestimable value, containing as many y misteries as it hath words, yea that which is more, manifold hidden senses in one sentence.

The whole prophecie consists of <sup>z</sup> two principall visions, one concerning certaine <sup>a</sup> particular Churches of those times in the three former chapters: another appertaining to the Church vniuersall vntill the worlds end, part whereof is this present Epistle.

Wherein <sup>b</sup> obserue

- 1. a preparation to the visions: After I looked and behold a doore was open in heauen, &c.
- 2. A participation of the vision: And behold a seat was set in heauen, and one sat on the seat, &c.

After this I looked. <sup>c</sup> After S. Iohn had seene the former vision, according to Christs iniunction, he did cast vp his eye toward the skie, lifting vp his heart also to giue thanks vnto God, and as he seriously beheld the face of the firmament he saw a doore open in heauen, which was a signe, God intended to reueale more secrets, and hidden mysteries vnto him. Hence then thou mayest learne to lift vp thy soule to God, that God may let downe his spirit to thee: saying with <sup>d</sup> Augustine, Boni si quid habeo, à Deo sumpsi, non à me presumpsi, nec in eo quod adhuc non donauit incredulus, nec in eo quod iam donauit ingratus.

A doore was open in heauen <sup>e</sup> As God openeth a doore of <sup>e</sup> vtterance before we can speake the mysteries of Christ, so likewise a doore of entrance before we can behold the secrets of heauen: <sup>f</sup> in this then appears the great goodnesse of God vouchsafing to set open the doore of his priuie closet vnto a mortall man; and whereas many see the Kings chamber of presence open, and yet dare not enter in as being afraid and bashfull, it is further added in the text, that the first voice S. Iohn heard was to comfort and make him bold: Come vp hither, and I will shew thee things that must be fulfilled hereafter. In a <sup>g</sup> mysticall fence, <sup>h</sup> Christ is heauens doore, through whom and for whom our conuersation is in heauen, and the kingdome of God is already within vs, Luke 17. 21.

The first voice that I heard <sup>i</sup> in spiritu in spiritu, vox illa, illa prima: i meaning, as it is probable, the same voice which he first heard in the beginning of this booke, chap. 1 vers. 10. the same which spake first in the Prophets, and after in the Gospels, as that ancient Martyr <sup>k</sup> Vitorinus obserues; and therefore this assuredly was the voice of God, at least from God, speaking at his appointment: and so the vision is not <sup>l</sup> a dreame of a doting man, but a demonstration of Almighty God.

<sup>a</sup> Rom 8. 14.

<sup>m</sup> Iob Bale pre fat. in Apocal.
<sup>n</sup> Hieron. in vita Iohn. Euang.
<sup>o</sup> Idem ibid.
<sup>p</sup> Idem, in vita Hippol.
<sup>q</sup> Idem in vita Melit.
<sup>r</sup> Idem, in vita Vitorin.
<sup>s</sup> Vide Bellar. de verbo Dei, lib. 1 cap. 19 & Six Senen. bib. l. 7. heres 10.
<sup>t</sup> Bullinger. pre fat. in Apocal.
<sup>u</sup> Con. 1 in Apocalyp.
<sup>v</sup> Vbi supra.
<sup>w</sup> Hieron. epist. Paulina. 101 sacramenta quot verba.
<sup>x</sup> Aretius. & Riber. in Apoc.
<sup>y</sup> Cap. 1. 11.
<sup>z</sup> Bullinger. Con 23. in Apocalyp.
<sup>a</sup> Bale. Para ph. as in locum d Epist. 52.

<sup>b</sup> 2 Coloss 4. 3.

<sup>c</sup> Traheron & Aretius in l. c.

<sup>d</sup> Rupert. in loc. Idem Augustin. l. 3 in Apoc
<sup>e</sup> Iohn 10 9.
<sup>f</sup> Riberia.

<sup>g</sup> Apud Riber. in locum.
<sup>h</sup> Aretius

<sup>m</sup> Arlo. at. & Traberon.
<sup>n</sup> Bale.

As it were of a trumpet] <sup>m</sup> No faint or flatering voice, but open and powerfull in operation; <sup>n</sup> able to make my flesh tremble, for that it founded as a trumpet: yet comfortable to my spirit, for that it talked with me familiarly, saying, come vp hither.

<sup>o</sup> 1 Cor. 2. 14.

<sup>p</sup> Esay 47. 10.

<sup>r</sup> Bullinger.

It is the nature of earth to fall downward, and not to rise vpward, but if thou wilt consider God and his workes aright, thou must lift vp thy selfe, about thy selfe, suspending thine owne will, and suspending thine owne wit, ascending vp in soule by the wings of faith about the world, about the flesh, and about reason too: <sup>o</sup> for the naturall man perceiueth not the things of the Spirit of God: his <sup>p</sup> wisdom and knowledge makes him rebell, insanit cum ratione, too much learning makes him mad; well may he say with Ouid, Ingenio pery. Cunning heretikes in hauing too much wit, offend God and the Church, more then sillie schisimatikes in hauing too little, Come vp hither. and I will shew. <sup>q</sup> We must purge our earthly affections, if we will behold heavenly things.

<sup>r</sup> 2 Theff. 2. 4.

<sup>f</sup> Apocal. 9.

<sup>c</sup> Apocal. 12.

<sup>u</sup> Lipse de Constan. lib. 1. cap. 14.

<sup>x</sup> Wisd. 8. 1.

<sup>v</sup> 1 Cor. 11. 19

<sup>z</sup> Traberon.

Which must be fulfilled hereafter] Here learne that all things are gouerned and ordered by Gods all-seeing prouidence, not tumbled and tossed in the world by blinde fortune. That Antichrist should come to beat downe the Church, and set vp his owne kingdome <sup>r</sup> in the Church: that <sup>f</sup> smoake should arise from the bottomlesse pit, and out of the smoake Locusts, hauing power as the Scorpions of the earth haue power, and teeth as it were the teeth of Lions: that the <sup>c</sup> red Dragon should persecute the woman, and stand in a redinesse to deuoure her chiide, was all foreseene of Christ, and here foreshewed to Iohn. <sup>u</sup> Omnia non permessa solum à Deo, sed etiam immissa: for his greatnesse is such as that he can, and his goodnesse is such as that he will order all things <sup>x</sup> sweetly, bringing light out of darknesse, and disposing of ill to good ends. I will shew thee things that must be done. For albeit in euill accidents and actions, there is not vnto Gods people an oportet officij, yet there is an oportet necessitatis: according to that of <sup>v</sup> Paul, oportet hereses esse, there must be heresies among you, that they which are approued among you might be knowne.

<sup>a</sup> Riber. ex Ambrosio & Heymon

<sup>b</sup> Fm. Sa.

<sup>c</sup> Marlorat.

<sup>d</sup> Bullinger.

<sup>e</sup> Psal. 9. 7.

<sup>f</sup> Ezech. 1. 26.

<sup>g</sup> Esay 55. 8.

My waies are not as your waies

<sup>h</sup> Hebr. 1. 8.

<sup>i</sup> Dan. 7. 14.

Hereafter.] <sup>z</sup> Ergo, such as interpret this vision of things done vnder the old Testament, begin at the wrong end, sith he saith expressly that he will shew things to be fulfilled after the time that he spake with him, and not things done before. This also may teach vs not to reuell in the Reuelation, ouer-venturosly making an Apocalyps of the Apocalyps, vndoubtedly determining of euery text and title contained in this booke, seeing as yet, many things are to be fulfilled hereafter. As in all mine annotations vpon other places of holy Scripture; so most specially in many glosses vpon any part of the reuelation, I desire to be rather a reporter, then an expositor; assuring my selfe, that this course will be profitable to the most, and acceptable to the best; for as the Spiders web is not the better because wouen out of his owne brest; so the Bees honie neuer the worse because gathered out of many flowers.

And immediatly I was in the Spirit] That is, as it had bene in a thought, I was suddenly taken vp; I was <sup>a</sup> in the spirit indeed, free from all carnall imaginations as if I had bene without a bodie: the Spirit of the Lord so possessed me, that I was rapt in an <sup>b</sup> extasis, or trance, as <sup>c</sup> Peter, Acts 10. 10. and Paul, Acts 22. 17. meaning hereby that heauenly sights exceed humane conceits: I was in the spirit before I could see the things of the spirit.

And behold a seat was set in heauen,] <sup>d</sup> A liuely description of God and his kingdome: for Throne signifieth his imperiall government, according to that of the <sup>e</sup> Psalmist, He hath prepared his seat for iudgement, he shall iudge the world in righteousness, and minister true iudgement vnto the people. This seat is sayd here and <sup>f</sup> eliewhere to be placed in heauen, and not vpon earth: because God ruleth after an heauenly manner, and <sup>g</sup> not after an earthly, neither is his throne subiect to chances and changes, as the iudgement seats of earthly Princes are, for his scepter is for<sup>h</sup> euer and euer, his<sup>i</sup> dominion is an euerlasting dominion, and of his kingdome there is no end, Luk. 1. 33.

And one fate on the seat.] <sup>k</sup> Prepared as it were to determine and heare causes; as you may reade, Daniel 7. and Esay 6. <sup>l</sup> readie to iudge the quicke and the dead God is not sayd here to stand or lie, but to sit in his throne, <sup>m</sup> signifying the setled government of his kingdome, who cannot be moued from the right with any perturbations or affections as other Iudges are: <sup>n</sup> God forbid that iniquitie should be found in God, and wickednesse in the Almighty. The Lord governeth all the world, as one that sits in a chaire at ease, without any trouble: for howsoeuer his providence be seene in the least things, in culice, & pulice, saith <sup>o</sup> Augustine in feeding the fowies of heauen, and clothing the flowers of the field, as Christ in the <sup>p</sup> Gospell: and therefore much more in the greater things, in ordering and <sup>q</sup> caring for his Church, in such sort, that an holy <sup>r</sup> Doctor cried out; O bone omnipotens, qui sic curas vnuquemq; nostrum, tanquam solum cures, & sic omnes tanquam singulos: O good God, who doest guard and regard all thy children, as if all were but one, and so respect enery one, as if one were all: yet all this (as one sayd) is but cura securo, a care without care, for he doth alway rest, and sit in his throne.

Like unto a Iasper and a Sardine stone] <sup>f</sup> Plinie writes that a Iasper is a greene stone, which is of a fresh and pleasant hue, the colour of many things which are lustie and liuely, by which <sup>t</sup> Interpreters vnderstand Gods immortall and incorruptible nature, which liueth for euer and euer, which was, and is, and is to come: being himselfe euerlasting, and giuing vnto all things their <sup>a</sup> breath and being, preferuing them in greene and lustie freshnesse.

A <sup>x</sup> Sardine stone hath a fierie colour, representing on the contrary, Gods heauy iudgements vpon sinners vnrepentant; and so both together expresse his absolute power, to condemne and absolue whom he will in his throne. Or the Iasper is of a waterie nature, the Sardine of a fiery; to signifie that the Iudge of the world doth punish and purge by water and fire: he did punish that old world by water in the <sup>z</sup> floud; and he doth purge his new creatures also, by water in holy Baptisme, which is a bathe of regeneration, as the <sup>a</sup> Scripture termeth it. Againe, God doth proue by fire, 1. Cor. 3. 13. and punish by fire, 2. Pet. 3. 7. The heauens and earth are reserved vnto fire against the day of iudgement, in which the heauens shall passe away with a noyse, and the elements shall melt with heat, and the earth with the workes that are therein shall be burnt vp.

And there was a Raine-bow about the seat] <sup>b</sup> It is very comfortable, that Gods seate is compassed about with a Raine-bow: for the Raine-bow is a <sup>c</sup> signe of his couenant made with vs, and a seale of his perpetuall mercy toward vs: if God should enter into iudgement with his seruants according to iustice, <sup>d</sup> no man liuing could be iustified. But he hath set his Raine-bow round about his throne, that he can looke no way but he must see it: and therefore now Gods seat vnto such as are made partakers of his couenant, is not a terrible throne, but as <sup>e</sup> Saint Paul sweetly calleth it, a throne of grace, whereunto he may well approach in time of need with boldnesse, and finde readie helpe. The colour of the Rainebow (saith the Text) is in sight like vnto an Emerald; <sup>f</sup> which hath a fresh and pleasant lustre & so nothing is so delectable to Gods children as his couenant of grace and mercie, which is euer <sup>h</sup> fresh and greene toward all such as beleue in him: howsoeuer lightnings and thundering proceed out of his throne, yet all is well so long as there is a Raine-bow still about it.

Or as <sup>i</sup> other, in the Raine-bow there is an admirable varietie of colours, according to that of the <sup>k</sup> Poet:

Mille trahens varios aduerso sole colores.

So Gods exceeding wonderfull perfection of beauty shines in the creation of so many diuers and sundry creatures in the world, being as * Ambrose truly, Mirabilis in maximis, & mirabilis in minimis.

And about the seat were foure and twenty seats, and upon the seats foure and twenty elders] <sup>l</sup> Hierome by these foure and twenty elders vnderstood the <sup>m</sup> foure and twenty bookes of the Law; <sup>n</sup> the which are clothed in white, for that in

<sup>k</sup> Aretius.
<sup>l</sup> 1. Pet. 4. 5.
<sup>m</sup> Thom. 1. part.
quest. 3. art. 1.
<sup>n</sup> Iob. 34. 10.

<sup>o</sup> In Psal. 148.

<sup>p</sup> Mat. 6. 26. 30.

<sup>q</sup> 1. Pet. 5. 7.

<sup>r</sup> Augull. confess. lib. 3. c. 11.

<sup>t</sup> Nat. hist. lib. 37. cap. 8.

<sup>u</sup> Aretias, Aretius, Ribera.

<sup>v</sup> Act. 17. 25, 28.

<sup>x</sup> Plin. ubi supra, cap. 7.

<sup>y</sup> Victorinus apud Riberam in locum.

Idem Augustin.

<sup>z</sup> Genes. 7.

<sup>a</sup> Titus 3. 5.

<sup>b</sup> Rupert. Mayer. Aretius.

<sup>c</sup> Gen. 9.

<sup>d</sup> Psal. 143. 2.

<sup>e</sup> Heb. 4. 16.

<sup>f</sup> Plin. nat. hist. lib. 37. cap. 8.

<sup>g</sup> Traberon.

<sup>h</sup> Bullinger.

<sup>i</sup> Ribera.

<sup>k</sup> Virgil. Aen. 4.

<sup>l</sup> Hexamer. lib.

6. cap. 6.

<sup>m</sup> Apud Rupert.

in loc. Idem

Ambros

<sup>n</sup> Quomodo diuidantur apud

Hebraeos, vide

Galatin. de catholic. veritate,

lib. 1. cap. 1. &

Sixt. Senen. Bi-

blichec. lib. 1.

pag. 3.

<sup>o</sup> Napier in loc.

them is found no lie; and crowned with victory for conquering Satan, and enlarging Gods kingdome.

Other expound this of the Preachers of Gods holy word, being graves moribus, and sensu maturi: but P most interpret this of the Saints departed out of this world, and now reigning with the Lord Iesus in heauen. Indeed their number is without number. Apocal. 7. 9. 9 but the set number in holy Scriptures of foure and twenty, or twelue, or the like, notes a certaintie of Gods promise toward them; or (as Bullinger vpon the place) the twelue Patriarches haply represent all Israel vnder the Law: the twelue Apostles all the beleeuing Gentiles vnder the Gospell; and so these twenty foure signifie the whole triumphant Church, consisting of Iewes and Gentiles.

Sitting.] An illusion is made to Kings in the world, which haue their counsellors, and noble men sitting about them in their throne: for such as haue followed Christ in the regeneration, shall sit vpon twelue thrones, and iudge the twelue tribes of Israel: they shall not be Iudges in stead of Christ, but they shall sit in iudgement with Christ, allowing his sentence, yea reioycing in all that he doth, and in all that he saith. Or the twenty foure Elders are sayd to sit, because they rest from their labors, and haue quiet affections, altogether free from any troublesome passions of the minde: * Abrahams bosome doth aptly figure the ioyes of heauen, insinuating that the Saints departed are now quieted, as children in their mothers lap, or in their fathers bolome.

Clothed in white rayment] For Christ hath purged them, and made them faire, clothing them with his owne righteousness and puritie: He that knew no sinne, made himselfe to be sinne, that we should be made the righteousness of God in him: as Chrysostome vpon that Text, the iust was reputed a sinner that the sinner might be iust. This white garment is termed eise where by S. Iohn, a long white robe: because Christ is the propitiation for our sinnes, covering not only some, but all our vnrighteousnesse from the top to the toe: Si texit peccata Deus noluit auertere, si noluit auertere, noluit animaduertere, si noluit animaduertere, noluit punire, noluit agnoscere, maluit ignoscere. Christs righteousness imputed vnto vs, is not pallium breue, but alaris tunica, not a short cloake, but a long gowne, covering all our inconformities, all our deformities, all our weakness, all our wickednesse, all the sinnes of our youth, all the sinnes of our age, from his eye who sitteth on the throne.

And had on their heads crownes of gold] Cyrus sayd to his souldiers, he that is a foot-man shall be an horse-man, and he that hath an horse shall haue charriots: but all such as fight vnder Christs banner, are sure to be rewarded better for euery true Christian souldier & ouercommeth, and to him that ouercommeth is giuen a crowne of gold. To him that ouercommeth I will grant (saith h. Christ) to sit with me in my throne, euen as I ouercame, and sit with my Father in his throne. The Saints haue through faith subdued kingdomes, euen Satan the prince of darkenesse; and therefore now crowned in the kingdome of glory, because they were conquerours in the kingdome of grace. By this description of stately thrones, and goodly garments, and golden crownes of the Saints in heauen, we may be well assured of their happinesse and felicitie. Let vs not therefore faint in our affliction and miserie, seeing they passed through the same crosses, and now triumph in eternall ioy.

The Gentiles only led by the light of nature, taught the youth of their time, that vertue dwelleth vpon the top of an high hill, and the way to this hill is rough and troublesome, but when once a man is come to the top, he shall finde a faire plaine, goodly greene medowes, and all manner of pleasure. Christians instructed by wildome it selfe, know that the way to heauen is very strait, and that thorow many tribulations we must enter into the kingdome of God: but as soone as we shall come thither, it can neither be spoken nor thought what happinesse each of vs shall enioy, when we shall sit in thrones, and be clothed in white rayment hauing palmes in our hands, and crownes on our heads.

o Greg. Mag. lib. 4. in 1. Reg. cap. 9.
P Bullinger. Traberor. M. 21. lorat. q Balc.

r Meyer.
f Matth. 19. 28
Luke 22. 30.

g Bullinger.
u Apocal. 14. 13
x Luke 16. 22.

y Heb. 1. 3. z Cant. 4. 2
a 1 Cor. 1. 30.
b 2 Cor. 5. 21.
Delicta nostra, sua delicta fecit, ut inultiam suam nostram inultiam faceret.
Augustin.

c Apocal. 7. 9.
d 1 Epistol. Ioan. 2. 1.
e Psalm. 32. 1.
f August. in loc. Psalm. citat.

g 1 Epistol. Ioan. 5. 4.
h Apocal. 3. 21

i Heb. 11. 33.
k Ephes. 6. 16

l Vng. Epigram. de lit. Pythagor.

m Matth. 7. 14
n Acts 14. 22.
o 1 Cor. 2. 9.

An P Heathen man sayd, Si violandum est insurandum; regni causa violandum: a Christian on the contrary, Si seruandum est insurandum, regni causa seruandum if our solemne vow made to God in holy Baptisme, must be kept, let vs obserue it religiously to gaine a kingdome: ¶ Let vs gird vp the loynes of our minde, and presse forward to the marke, for the price of the sup-rnall calling of God in Christ Iesus, let vs runne with patience, the race that is set before vs, hauing our eyes euer fastened vpon the author and finisher of our faith, who for the i-y that was set before him endured the crosse, and despised the shame, and is set at the right hand of the throne of God: and he will leade vs the same way to the like honour and dignitie, that we may sit with him and raigne with him for euer.

And out of the seat proceeded lightnings, and thundrings, and voices] All which insinuate the diuers operation of Gods holy word: it is a lightning, when it rebuketh and condemneth a sinner: it is a terrible thunder, when it doth threaten and command things contrary to the flesh: it is a solatious voice, when it bindes vp the broken hearted, and preacheth vnto the poore glad tydings of Saluation; it is lightning and thunder in the Law, but in the Gospell a milde voice, speaking comfortably to such as mourne in Sion. Our hearts are all sinne, but as one wittily notes) our eares are full of mercy: he therefore that will sing vs a song, must set it to the tune of the Gospell. We can heare nothing but pax vobis, and see nothing but ecce Agnus: as if the Law like an old Almpacke were out of date but Moses and Christ meete vpon the mount, and here thundrings as well as comfortable voices are heard to proceed from Gods throne; both are y effects of his Spirit: for when the minds of Gods elect are illuminated, when the wicked are terrified and horribly stricken with his threats, as it were with lightning, when the Preachers of the word thunder against the corrupt manners of the world, when they sing the sweet notes of the Gospell; in a word, when they deliuer any good exhortation or doctrine to the people, all procedeth out of Gods throne, from whom commeth euery good and perfect gift.

And there were seuen lamps of fire burning before the seate. which are the seuen Spirits of God.] ¶ Some construe this of the glorious Angels, as being a elf where called spirits, and flames of fire: but other more fitly coniecture that these seuen spirits of God, are the seuen gifts of his Spirit, mentioned, Esay 11 2 prefigured in the Scripture by the seuen lights of one Candlesticke, by the seuen eyes of one stone, by the seuen hornes of one lambe. The first burning lampe before Gods seat is the spirit of wisdom, the second is the spirit of vnderstanding, the third is the spirit of countell, the fourth is the Spirit of fortitude, the fifth is the spirit of knowledge, the sixth is the spirit of pietie, the seventh is the feare of the Lord.

Or haply this certaine number is put for an vncertaine: hereby meaning all the gifts and graces of Gods holy spirit: for seuen is a perfect number, and significeth in holy writt fulnesse: so Gods seuen spirits, is as much as Gods seuenfold spirit, that is, Gods one spirit, full of all good gifts, here termed burning lamps of fire, because they giue light to such as sit in darkenesse and in the shadow of death, euer comforting and releasing Gods elect without ceasing: the light of the temple went not out, to signifie that the spirits of God should be continually burning in the Church.

And before the seate there was a sea of glasse.] ¶ Some by this vnderstand holy Baptisme, k prefigured, Exod. 14. by the red sea: for as the children of Israel entered into the terrestriall Canaan by passing through the red sea: so Christians enter into the celestially Canaan by this glasse sea. The Gospell then and Epistle for this day doe well agree: for that which our Euangelist in this text writes mystically, Christ in the Gospell auoweth vnto Nicodemus plainly, yea peremptorily with an asseueration: Verily, verily, I say vnto thee except a man be borne of water and of the spirit he cannot enter into the kingdome of God: he must passe thorow the glasse sea before he can arrive at the haven of happinesse.

Other expound this of contemplatiue men; m other of Gods elect, illuminated

P Caesar.¶ Pet. 1. 13.
¶ Philip. 3 14.
¶ Hebr. 12. 1.¶ Rupert. Bale.
¶ Marlorat.
¶ Fran. Lambert.
¶ Esay 61. 1.¶ Mr. Wilkin-
(an ser. of Lots wife.¶ Bullinger.
Traberon.¶ Em. Sa.
¶ Hebr. 1. 7.
¶ Rupert. Na-
piet.
¶ Zachar. 4. 2
¶ Zachar. 3. 9.
¶ Apocal 5. 6.¶ Bullinger Bale,
Marlorat.
¶ Traberon.¶ Exod. 27. 20.¶ Rupert. Meyer.
Idem Augustin.
in locum.
¶ Euthymius. in Ioan 3 & Au-
gustin. i. i. 11. in Ioan. Idem
our Church
Com R. Tit.
pub baptif.
Coll. 1. 1.
¶ Em. Sa.
¶ Marlorat.

o Eale. Nouum Testamentum. intelligitur. per mare historica. per vitrum moralis. per crystallinum spiritus intellectus: sicut Ambrosius. in locum.
 o Bullinger.
 P Esay 7. 20.
 q Virgil. Aene. ad 1.
 r Calepin.

f Cap. 2. vers. 17
 e Epist. 45.

u Hebr. 13. 14.
 z Augustin. in Psalm 34.

y M<sup>r</sup>. Lambert. Perambulat of Kent.

z Traberon.

a Hebr. 4. 13. Omnia sunt nuda & patentia oculis eius.
 b 2 Kings 19. 28

c Esay 10. 5.

d Esay 29. 3.

e Jerem 51. 20

f Acts 2. 23.

h Am. Marcel. lib. 14. in fine.

i Luke 1. 52.
 k Psalm 113. 6.

by the Spirit, and shining in their good workes as the cleere Crystall; <sup>n</sup> other of a plentiful vnderstanding of the veritie, first giuen vnto Christ by the Father, and then vnto the Church by the Spirit of Christ; and it is like Crystall, cleere, beautifull and pure, without any corruption of humane phantasies: haply by this glasse sea like Crystall, is meant the Crystalline heauen, as being next the heauen of heauens, in which Almighty God sits in his throne.

o Other are of opinion that the world is meant by this glasse sea, for as the raging sea cannot rest:

q Una curusq; notusq; ruunt, creberq; procellis, Affricus, & vastos tollunt ad littora fluctus.

Hence called <sup>r</sup> aequor, quia minime aequum & semper astuans, and fretum ab undarum fremitu: so there is much tossing and tumbling in the world; great vntable-nesse, innumerable changes and turnes, and it is as brittle as glasse: mundus transit faith our Euangelist in his first Epistle; the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: <sup>t</sup> S. Augustine diuinely, Mali cruciatus suscipiuntur certi, vs pauci dies adiciantur incerti: we suffer a great deale of trouble which is certaine, to prolong our daies a little time which is vncertaine: for this world is not our mansion house or <sup>u</sup> permanent citie, but an <sup>x</sup> Inne: Omnia quibus vteris in hac vita, sic tibi debent esse tanquam stabulum viatori, non tanquam domus habitatori: memento peregrisse te aliquid, restare aliquid, diuertisse te non ad defectionem sed ad refectionem here we must so lodge this day, as that we must be readie to depart the next day.

The world is like Rumney marsh, <sup>y</sup> hyeme malus, astate molestus, nunquam bonus affecting vs like a fit of an ague, sometime too cold, sometime too hot, alwaies vncertaine.

This sea of glasse is like to Crystall, excelling in cleerenesse: <sup>z</sup> for as in Crystall there is not any thing so little, but that it may be seene: so there is nothing done in the world so small, as that it can escape Gods <sup>a</sup> all-seeing knowledge. This sea is before the seat, insinuating that our actions are not subiect to fortune, but only governed by Gods iudgement and throne, furious Sennacharib did not what he list against God and his people, for the Lord <sup>b</sup> put a hooke in his nostrils, and a bridle in his lips, and brought him backe by the same way that he came: yea whatsoeuer he did against Hierusalem, he did it by Gods appointment: for thus saith the Lord by the mouth of his holy <sup>c</sup> Prophet, O Assur the rod of my wrath, and the staffe of mine indignation; I will send him to a dissembling nation, and I will giue him a charge against the people of my wrath to spoile spoiles and to tread them vnder feete like the mire in the street.

<sup>d</sup> Nabuchodonosor did not what he list against Sion. <sup>d</sup> I will besiege thee (saith God) and fight against thee on a mount, and will cast vp rampards against thee: so likewise of another king, <sup>e</sup> thou art mine hammer and weapons of warre, for with thee will I breake the nations, and with thee will I destroy kingdomes. Tamberlaine the great did not what he list against the Turkes, he was (as he called himselfe) Gods scourge. Indas and the Iewes did not what they list, but what God would in putting to death the Lord of life. So <sup>f</sup> S. Peter expresly, Him haue you taken by the hands of the wicked, being deliuered by the determinate counsell and foreknowledge of God, and haue crucified and slaine.

It is reported in <sup>h</sup> prophane historie, that blinde fortune made Agathocles of a potter a potentate; aduancing him from the dirtie clay, to the golden crowne: on the contrary, that she pulled downe Dionysius, once the terror of the world, from his princely throne, and made him a poore schoole-master in Corinth. Adramitticus by the same fortune, borne in a fulling-house, was honored with the regal scepter, when as the young Prince being right heire, was constrained in his extreme need to turne black-smith: and by the same fortune Pompey being little was made great; and being great was again made little: but we which are verft in holy Bible, know that it is God only, <sup>i</sup> which hath put downe the mighty from their seat, and hath exalted the humble and meeke: <sup>k</sup> who taketh up the simple out of the dust, and lifteth the poore out of the mire; that he may set him with the Princes even with the Princes of his people.

Wherefore, seeing God beholds all things in the world as in a cry stall glasse, gouverning and ordering them all, as he sits in his throne; let vs among all the changes and chances of this life possessie our soules in patience, praying euer as Christ hath taught: Our Father in heauen, thy kingdome come, thy will be done.

And in the middlest of the seat, and round about the seat, were foure beasts full of eyes before and behinde, and the first beast was like a Lion, the second beast like a Calfe, and the third beast had a face like a man, and the fourth beast was like a flying Eagle. ] The Gospell is Gods throne, <sup>1</sup> wherein his Maiestie rideth as in a chariot; and the fore wheeles of his chariot, are the foure Euangelists: and therefore Diuines obserue generally, that these foure beasts are the foure Euangelists <sup>m</sup> according as euery one beginneth his booke: S. Matthew, is the beast hauing, a face like a man, beginning his Gospell with the generation of Christ, as he was man: S. Marke the Lion, beginning his historic with the preaching of S. Iohn Baptist, as it were with the roaring of a Lion in the wilderness: S. Luke figured by the Calfe, for that he begins with a Priest of the new Testament, to wit, with Zacharie the father of Iohn Baptist, whose office was to sacrifice calves vnto God: our Euangelist S. Iohn is an Eagle, beginning his narration with Christis Diuinitie, mounting higher then the rest of his fellowes at the very first
In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and that word was God

<sup>n</sup> Other hold, that these foure beasts are the foure great Prophets; Esai, Hiere-miah, Ezechiel, Daniel.

Other, that these foure beasts are foure chiefe } Incarnation.
mysteries of Christian beleefe, namely, Christs } Passion.
} Resurrection.
} Ascension.

Christ in his incarnation was found as a <sup>p</sup> man: in his passion as a sacrificed <sup>q</sup> Calfe: in his resurrection as a <sup>r</sup> Lion: in his ascension as an Eagle, mounting aboue the clouds, and sitting at the right hand of God in the highest heauen, Acts 1. 11. and 3. 21.

Other, that these foure beasts are the foure Monarchies of the world.

Other vnderstand by these foure } 1. Preachers in the Church.
beasts, the foure principall estates a- } 2. Magistrates in the Common-wealth.
mong men, whose ministrie God vseth } 3. Publike teachers in Vniuersities and in his gouernment, especially } Schooles.
} 4. Masters of families in their private houses.

Other expound this of all faithfull beleeuers and earnest professors of the truth in the foure quarters of the world: these are in <sup>x</sup> Gods seat, when they teach and exhort Gods people to persist in the truth; and round about his seat, when they labour diligently to defend them from the doctrines of <sup>y</sup> deuills, and errors of hypocrites.

And those beasts are full of eyes, as well behinde as before. ] Which is a cleere knowledge in the mysteries of Gods holy word: for by faiths eye they <sup>z</sup> discern all things, as being <sup>a</sup> taught of God, and led into truth euen by the spirit of truth and so, they see not only things past, and before, but also iudgements of God to come, yea that which is a point of the most quicke sight the <sup>b</sup> resurrection of the dead, and after this ended a life without end.

These true beleeuers are <sup>c</sup> Lions in their vndaunted magnanimitie: Men, in their discretion and policie: Eagles, in building their nest on high, and seeking the things aboue: Calves, in forsaking themselues, and mortifying the corrupt lusts of their flesh: for as the Calfe was vted much in the <sup>d</sup> Law for sacrifice; so the Christian <sup>e</sup> offereth vp himselfe daily to God as a liuing sacrifice, readie to suffer all kinds of persecution and perill for his names sake.

And the foure beasts had each of them six wings ] These six wings as some conceit are <sup>1</sup> Calu'n. epist. dedicat. Har-men.

<sup>m</sup> See Rhem. in sum. of the Gospell: &
Ambros. in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Ioan Bacon-thorp. & Albertus apud Balaam
in. locum.
<sup>o</sup> Rupert. Aretius, Meyer.

<sup>p</sup> Philip. 2. 7.
<sup>q</sup> Ephes. 4. 7.
<sup>r</sup> Occisus est agnus, sed Leore-surrexit Bern.
ser. 1. de resur.
eius figura.
Gen. 49. 9.
<sup>s</sup> Vti Bullinger.
in locum
<sup>t</sup> Chytraus in
locum.

<sup>u</sup> Bale & Lambert.
<sup>x</sup> 2 Cor. 5. 20.

<sup>y</sup> 1 Tim. 4. 1.

<sup>z</sup> 1 Cor. 2. 15.
<sup>a</sup> Esay 54. 13.
Iohn 6. 45.

<sup>b</sup> Job 19. 29. 26

<sup>c</sup> Aretius.

<sup>d</sup> Exod. 29. 36.
<sup>e</sup> Rom. 12. 1.

<sup>f</sup> Rupert.

<sup>8</sup>Mat. 25. 35. 36

are the six workes of mercie: Visito, poso, cibo, redimo, tegeo, colligo fratres: as Christ in the 8 Gospell, To giue meat vnto the hungrie, drinke vnto the thirstie, lodging to the stranger, clothes to the naked, to visit the sicke and such as are in prison.

<sup>h</sup>Bale. & Lambert.

<sup>h</sup>Other affirme that the six wings, whereby Gods people shun the common mischiefes of the world, and are raised vp vnto their Father in heauen, are faith, hope, charitie, iustice, mercie, truth: he that hath not those wings is like the Ostridge, which often spreads her wings but seldome flieth.

<sup>1</sup>Marlorat.

idem Ambros.

<sup>k</sup>Arethas apud

Bulling. in loc.

<sup>l</sup>Psal. 100. 1.

And they did not rest day nor night] By this not resting is meant their continual hungering and thirsting after this dutie: <sup>k</sup>not that it is vnto them a restlesse trouble, for they serue the Lord with <sup>l</sup>gladnesse, and come before his presence with a song: they rest not in the day, that is, in the sun-shine of prosperitie; nor in the night, that is, in comfortlesse aduersitie, to praise God and say, Sanctus, Sanctus, Sanctus, &c.

<sup>m</sup>Hieron. in Isai. cap. 6.

Maximus in mytiagog. ca. 19.

Emisenus, hom.

1. de symbolo.

<sup>n</sup>Lombard.

sent lib. 1. dist. 2.

<sup>o</sup>Obiection.

Arrian. discuss.

respon. ad ob. 4.

Holy, holy, holy Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come.] The Fathers out of these words vsually note the sacred mysterie of the Trinitie in Vnitie, and Vnitie in Trinitie: <sup>n</sup>Per hoc quod ter sanctus, Trinitatem significat: per hoc quod subdit, Dominus Deus unitatem: or as <sup>o</sup>Fulgentius, Quid est, quod tertio sanctus dicitur, si non trina est in Diuinitate persona? cur semel Dominus Deus dicitur, si non una est in Diuinitate substantia? In that they sing thrice Holy, note the Trinitie: but in that they adde in the singular, Lord God, note the vnitie. The meaning of this Hymne then is; blessed art thou Almighty Father, blessed art thou Almighty Sonne, blessed art thou Almighty Holy Ghost: three distinct persons and yet one only Lord God; which was without beginning, art of thy selfe without meanes, and shall be for ever without end. <sup>p</sup>Huius beata Trinitatis & incommutabilis Deitatis una est substantia, indiuisa in opere, concors in voluntate, par in omnipotentia, aequalis in gloria: the Father is holy, the Sonne holy, the Spirit holy: the Father is God, the Sonne is God, the holy Ghost is God: the Father Almighty, the Sonne Almighty, the Holy Ghost Almighty: the Father eternall, the Sonne eternall, the Holy Ghost eternall: which was, and is, and is to come.

<sup>p</sup>Leo. ser. 2. de Pentecost.

<sup>q</sup>Bulling. in loc.

<sup>r</sup>Cap. 5. 1

<sup>s</sup>Breuiar. Roman

Dom. Trinit.

<sup>t</sup>Ferusser. 1.

Dom. Trinit.

This Epistle then assigned by the Church of England, is most fit for the present occasion, as containing a liuely description of the blessed Trinitie, with an Hymne of praise to the same. S. Iohn in his vision beheld one sitting on a throne <sup>q</sup>which is God the Father; and at his right hand the <sup>r</sup>Lambe, which is God the Sonne; and the seuen-fold Spirit proceeding from both, which is God the Holy Ghost: <sup>s</sup>unus potentialiter, trinus personaliter.

<sup>u</sup>Arcino in loc.

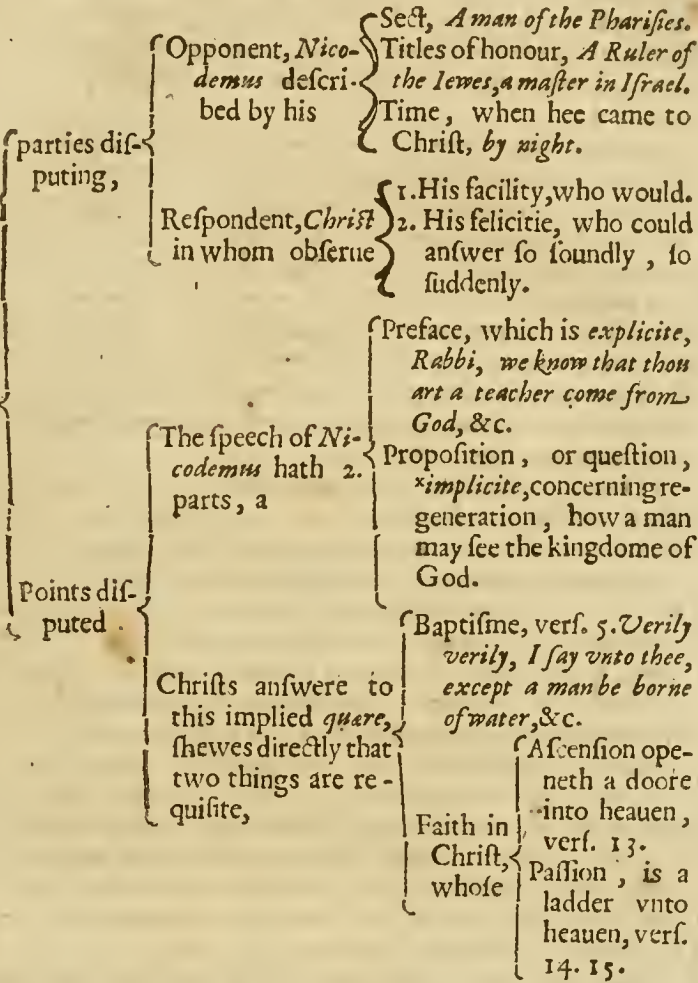

And here let vs obserue the reason also, why the Church at this time of the yeere celebrates a feast vnto the sacred Trinitie: <sup>t</sup>the Church in Aduent and Christmas honours our Sauours incarnation; in Lent, his death and passion; at Easter, his resurrection; on holy Thursday, his ascension; at Pentecost, his sending downe of the Holy Ghost, by which vnspeakable benefits our whole saluation is finished: it remaineth only that now we should blesse the most holy Trinitie for his goodnesse and declare the wonders he hath done for the sonnes of men: and therefore let vs with the twenty foure Elders here fall downe before him that sits on the throne, casting our crownes before his footstool, <sup>u</sup>that is renouncing all our owne merits, and say: Thou art worthie O Lord (our God) to receiue glory, and honor, and power; for thou hast created all things, for thy wils sake they are and were created. Amen.

The Gospell. I O H N. 3. I.

There was a man of the Pharisies, named Nicodemus, a Ruler of the Iewes, &c.

IN this excellent Dialogue note principally the <sup>2</sup> Brennius & Maldonar. in locum.

A man of the Pharisies] It is sayd in the former chapter at the 23. verse, that when Iesus was at Hierusalem at the feast of the Passouer, many beleueed in his name, when they saw the miracles which he did. Among those many, Nicodemus (as it is thought) was one: for he was <sup>a</sup> sweet rose, springing from a pricking thorne: the Pharisies, as <sup>a</sup> S. Iohn the Baptist told them flatly, were a generation of vipers; and yet Nicodemus a Pharise beleueed in Christ: for <sup>b</sup> God is able of stones to raise up children vnto Abraham. <sup>c</sup> He that will haue all sorts of men to be sau'd, will haue all sorts of men come vnto the knowledge of the truth; All that the Father giueth me faith <sup>d</sup> Christ shall come to me: <sup>e</sup> whom he did predestinate, them also he called, and whom he called, them also he iustified, and whom he iustified, them also he will glorifie. Wherefore seeing Gods secret will in electing and calling men to saluation is <sup>f</sup> vnsearchable, let vs not <sup>g</sup> iudge, <sup>h</sup> before the time: Matthew, though a Publican, may become an Apostle; Magdalen, though an harlot, may become deuoute; Paul, though a persecutor, may become a Preacher; Iustin Martyr a Gentile, may turne Christian; Augustine a Manichee turne Catholike; Luther a Monke, turne Protestant; and here Nicodemus a Doctor among the Pharisies, is turned scholler vnto Christ.

Named Nicodemus.] In <sup>i</sup> Hebrew this name signifieth, innocent blood, in Greeke, one that ouertoppeth or excelleth the people, both are fitting: for by this <sup>1</sup> August. trakt. 11. in Ioan.

<sup>2</sup> Ardens in loc.
<sup>a</sup> Matth 3. 7.
<sup>b</sup> Luke 3. 8.
<sup>c</sup> 1 Tim 2. 4
<sup>d</sup> Iohn 6. 37.
<sup>e</sup> Rom. 8. 30.
<sup>f</sup> Rom. 11. 33
<sup>g</sup> Matth. 7. 1.
<sup>h</sup> 1 Cor. 4. 5.

<sup>1</sup> Beauchamis, bar Tom. 1. fol. 117.

this happy conference Nicodemus was made partaker of Christs innocent blood shed for his finnes, and by faith he did excell other of his fellowes. As he then beleued among incredulous Iewes, and as <sup>k</sup> Iob was iust in the land of Vz; and as <sup>l</sup> Lot was righteous among the filthy Sodomites, euen so we must be <sup>m</sup> blamelesse in the midst of a crooked and naughtie generation, shining as lights in the world. Euery man must labour to shun the common corruptions of the place wherein he liueth, and so become Nicodemus, one that ouercommeth other men in holinesse and righteoufnesse; as Esops pearle in a dunghill, a Lillie among thornes, Cant. 2. 2.

A Ruler of the Iewes] Nicodemus is called here Princeps Iudeorum, as some Priests elsewhere, Principes Sacerdotum: it is certaine there but was but on High Priest, and yet many chiefe, who were familiarum capita, 1. Chron. 15. 5, 6, 7, 8. verses, and chap. 24. 6. ° So Nicodemus was head of his house, a chiefe of his rancke, a Doctor in Israell; all which hindred him in comming to Christ: for P not many wise men after the flesh, not many mightie, not many noble are called. Here then obserue the power of Christ, in his words and in his wonders: it is said by the Pharises in this seuenth chapter of this Gospell at the 48. verse, Doth any of the Rulers or of the Pharises beleue in him? and yet Nicodemus a Ruler and a Pharisee doth beleue; yea many beleued among the chiefe Rulers, as our Euangelist reports, chap. 12. vers. 42.

¶ Other note the meeknesse of Nicodemus, who being a Doctor, desired to learne; and being a chiefe Ruler did not send for Christ, but went vnto him. Whose modestie condemnes exceedingly the presumption of some pettie Rulers in our age, who will not vouchsafe to come to Christ, (if he will be serued) Christ must come to them, the Supper of the Lord must be brought vnto their table, the Minister of Christ must church their wiues at home, baptise their children at home, reade the publike prayers at home: whereas <sup>r</sup> Dauid sayd, One thing haue I desired of the Lord, which I will require still, euen that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the dayes of my life: These gallants imagine they doe God a fauour when they tread in his Courts, and a grace to his Ambassadors, when they lend their eares to an houres audience. The renowned * Capitaine Humiades was of another minde, who when he felt himselfe in danger of death, desired to receiue the Sacrament before his departure, and would in any case (sicke as he was) be carried to the Church to receiue the same; saying, that it was not fit that the Lord should come to the house of his seruant, but the seruant rather to goe to the house of his Lord and Master.

By night] If he did this vpon the sight of Christ great miracles, hungry and thirsting after righteoufnesse, not suffering his eyes to sleepe, or his eye-lids to take any rest, vntill he had found the way, the truth, and the life; then his fact is imitable: for we may not procrastinate our comming vnto Christ, but <sup>r</sup> seeke the Lord while he may be found, and call vpon him; while he is neere. Or if he came by night to gaine the fitter opportunitie, to talke priuately with Christ, it is also commendable; for opportunities are so gracious, as that good houres are the suters best friends. Or if he did this out of feare, lest he should displeaseth the <sup>r</sup> Pharises, and be cast out of the Synagogue; then it was an imperfection in him: and yet considering that it was the first time that he came to Christ, in some sort excusable. The first time, for after once we know the truth, and haue subscribed therennto, we may not play the part of Nicodemus, <sup>u</sup> halting betweene God and Baal, betweene Christ and the Pharises, holding with the hound and running with the hare. <sup>x</sup> Naaman the Syrian was such a Nicodemus, as desirous to serue the lining Lord, and yet to worship his rotten Idoll Rimmon. <sup>y</sup> Aaron was such a Nicodemus, in fearing the peoples displeasure more than the wrath of God. <sup>z</sup> Obadiab was such a Nicodemus, he did hide the Prophets of the Lord, and feed them with bread and water, and yet he durst not openly protect them. <sup>a</sup> In the Courts of Princes, in Parliaments, in Vniuersities, in Councells, are many Nicodemi, who loue the good of the Church and Common-weale, yet feare to

speake

<sup>k</sup> Ioh. 1. 1.
<sup>l</sup> 1 Pet. 2. 7.
<sup>m</sup> Phil. 2. 15.

<sup>r</sup> Matth. 2. 4.

* Maldonat. in loc.

<sup>P</sup> 1 Cor. 1. 26.

<sup>r</sup> Beauxamis & Ardens.

<sup>r</sup> Psal. 27. 4.

* Kaolls in the life of Mahomet the Great.

<sup>r</sup> Esay 55. 6.

<sup>r</sup> Ioh. 12. 42.

<sup>u</sup> 1. King. 18.

21

<sup>x</sup> 2 King 5.

<sup>y</sup> Exod. 32.

<sup>z</sup> 1 Kings 18. 4

13.

<sup>a</sup> Ferus ser. 4. Dom. Trin.

speake their minde boldly, lest they should be cast out of the Synagogue, <sup>b</sup> louing the praise of men more than the glory of God.

<sup>b</sup> John 12. 43.

In our age the Church-Papist, or meere Parliament-Prottestant, is an arrant Nicodemus, his heart is set for Babel, and yet his face lookes toward Hierusalem, equiuocating with God and the King. He come to Christ by night, he will be present at Diuine Seruice, but in a close pew, no man shall see or heare what he doth and saith vnto Christ: nay the Iesuited Papists are worse than Nicodemus for although he did something ill openly, yet he did good secretly: but they doe much hurt secretly, though they seeme to doe some good openly: so that it may be said of these close Fauces and Foxes, vndermining our Christian estate by night, which <sup>c</sup> Ammiarus Marcellinus wrote of the Saracens in his time, Nec amici vobis vnquam, nec hostes optandi: they be such as we can neither haue found peace, nor yet faire warre with them: <sup>d</sup> As sword they be whose scabard is in England and France, but the handle of it is in Rome, and Spaine; for the first motion to draw this sword comes from thence.

<sup>c</sup> Hist. lib. 14.

<sup>d</sup> Anti-cotton, pag. vlt.

Mystically, Nicodemus came to Christ by night, as being yet in the <sup>e</sup> darknesse of his ignorance: <sup>f</sup> Ad Dominum venit & noctu venit, ad lucem venit & tenebris venit: according to that of S. Paul, Ephes. 5. 8. Ye were once darkenesse, but now light in the Lord. An vnregenerate man is occupied in the workes of darkenesse but he that is borne againe of water and of the Spirit, is a childe of the light and of the day: Nicodemus who came to Christ at the first by night, afterward defended him openly when he liued, Iohn 7. 51. and bestowed cost on his fune- rall bountifully, when he was dead, Iohn 19. 39.

<sup>e</sup> Haymo apud Aquin loc.

<sup>f</sup> August. tract

1. in Ioan.

<sup>g</sup> 1 Thess 5. 5

Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God] Nicodemus auoneth in this Preface three things of Christ, <sup>h</sup> which ought to be found in euery good Pastor:

<sup>h</sup> Ardens.

He must be for his { Learning, a Rabbi;
Licence, sent of God.
Life, doing such workes, as that other may see God is with God. him

Rabbi, is a <sup>i</sup> title of honour giuen vnto men of great discretion and learning, according to that of Christ in the <sup>k</sup> Gospell, ye loue greetings in the market, and to be called of men, Rabbi, Rabbi: so the Minister of the word must be both <sup>l</sup> apt and able to teach: a Doctor in Israel, a Rabbi. See Gospell eight Sunday after Trinitie.

<sup>i</sup> Beauxamis.

<sup>k</sup> Matth. 23. 7.

<sup>l</sup> 1 Tim. 3. 2.

Secondly, the Pastor must come from God, as being the <sup>m</sup> man of God and <sup>n</sup> mouth of God: and therefore no man ought to take this honour vnto himselfe, but he that is called of God, as Aaron was, Hebr. 5. 4. See Gospell, first Sunday after Easter.

<sup>m</sup> 1 Tim 6. 11

<sup>n</sup> Luther loc. com. tit. de Ministr. verb.

Thirdly, whereas the Minister cannot doe such miracles; he must endenour to doe such morales, as that other may see God is with him: Ego (quoth <sup>o</sup> Luther) hoc video, non esse quod Theologum magna sciat, multa doceat, sed qui sanctè & theologice viuunt: a good Prelate must resemble the Planet <sup>p</sup> Iupiter, which is in his effect beneuolus, calidus, humidus, diurnus:

<sup>o</sup> Vbi supra.

<sup>p</sup> Teutonicus, lib. de similitud. cap. 63.

And so the Pastor must be { Beneuolus in affectione.
Calidus in dilectione.
Humidus in compassione.
Diurnus in conuersatione, Rom. 13. 13.

<sup>q</sup> 1 Pet. 2. 15.

Walking honestly, as in the day, that by doing well he may <sup>q</sup> stop the mouths of foolish and ignorant men, exciting them by good example to glorific God in the day of his visitation.

Iesus answered] <sup>r</sup> He did not chide Nicodemus and say, seeing I am a Prophet, come from God, and doe such miracles as none can performe except God were with him I wonder why you come to me by night, and not in the day: Christ, I say, did not chide, but rather cherish Nicodemus; in the words of <sup>s</sup> Augustine, non debebat sed alebat: <sup>t</sup> he did not breake the bruised reede, nor quench the smoaking flax.

<sup>r</sup> Theophylact.

Iansen Musculus & alij

<sup>s</sup> Lib 2 con. ad uers. legis, cap 2.

<sup>t</sup> Matth 12. 20.

Christ

<sup>a</sup> Eusbymius.

Christ did not <sup>u</sup> condemne his pusillanimitie for comming in the night, though he taxed his ignorance, for that being a Master in Israel, he knew not that a man must be borne againe, before he can see the kingdome of God. Hence we may learne to reprehend and exhort with all <sup>x</sup> long suffering and doctrine: we must direct by doctrine, correct in patience; when any come to conferre with vs about the points of holy religion, we must vse them familiarly, as Christ did Nicodemus.

<sup>z</sup> 2 Tim. 4. 2.

And as the Pastor may take this and many more good instructions here from Christs example; so the people may learne two things of Nicodemus: it is their dutie to question with their Teacher, How can a man be borne when he is old? and againe, not dissembling their ignorance, How can these things be? Secondly, that which is deliuered by the iudicious Pastor in generall, they must apply in particular: Christ sayd, Except a man be borne againe: Nicodemus answered, How can an old man? applying it as it should seeme to himselfe. Thus much concerning the men, I come now to the matter.

<sup>y</sup> Rupert. in loc.

Verily, Verily] <sup>y</sup> This double asseueration, Amen, Amen, is not vsed in any Gospell, excepting this of S. Iohn, and in no part of this Gospell so much as in this argument, As then the Huntsmen gather that there is some game when the Hounds open loud and free: so when the Scripture vseth importunitie in a point it is an evident signe, that there is some great thing to be marked; and indeed the Problem discussed here, betweene Christ and Nicodemus concerning our iustification, is one of the maine questions in all Diuinitie.

Christ in this disputation } Authoritie, I say, we speake. &c.
vrgeth his aduersarie with } Arguments, except a man be borne againe, &c.

<sup>z</sup> Iohn 6. 14.

<sup>a</sup> Exod 3. 14.

<sup>b</sup> Caiccan. in loc.

Nicodemus acknowledged that Christ was a Teacher sent from God, but Christ to shew that he was <sup>z</sup> the Prophet, yea the Lord of the Prophets; he doth not speake like <sup>a</sup> Moses, I am sent me; nor as the rest of the Prophets in their preaching, Thus saith the Lord: but <sup>b</sup> authoritative, with command, I say, we speake that we know, we testifie that we haue seene.

<sup>c</sup> Melanct. enar. in locum

Secondly, Christ vseth arguments against his aduersarie. Nicodemus imagined that a man is iustified by the pharisaicall obseruation and externall workes of the Law. This opinion is confuted by Christ: <sup>c</sup> first in generall, Except a man be borne from aboue he cannot see the kingdome of God: then in more particular, explaining the proposition: Except a man be borne of water and of the Spirit.

<sup>d</sup> 1 Cor. 15. 46.

<sup>d</sup> S. Paul saith, that was not first made which is spirituall, but that which is natural, and after that which is spirituall. A man therefore must be first borne naturally to come into the world, then borne againe from aboue supernaturally and spiritually to overcome the world: <sup>e</sup> non nascimur sed resuscimur Christiani: men are made not borne Christians: all that is borne of the flesh is flesh: every man is <sup>f</sup> borne in sinne, and conceiued in iniquitie, <sup>g</sup> not vnderstanding the things of the spirit of God: corrupt seed begets corrupt sonnes, all of vs are by nature <sup>h</sup> prius damnati quam nati, found guilty to die before we be borne to liue, the children of wrath, as the <sup>i</sup> Scripture plainly.

<sup>c</sup> Hieron. aduers. Viciant.

<sup>f</sup> Psal 51. 5.

<sup>g</sup> 1 Cor. 2. 14.

<sup>h</sup> Bernard. ser. 2 de Pentecost

<sup>i</sup> Ephes. 2. 3.

Now the Law cannot deliuer vs from this bondage of sinne, nor from the wages thereof eternall death: and therefore no man is iustified by the workes of the Law, but by the faith of Iesus Christ, Galat. 2. 16. that which is borne of the spirit is spirit: eternall life is not carnall but spirituall: hee therefore that will be the sonne of God in his kingdome of grace, the saint of God in his kingdome of glory, must be borne againe from aboue by the Spirit. <sup>k</sup> How this is done Christ sheweth here more particularly.

<sup>x</sup> Eusbymius in locum.

<sup>l</sup> Caluin. Instit. lib. 4. ca. 16 §. 25
T. C. lib. p. 143.
Quibus fauet.
Zepper. con. 1. in loc.

Except a man be borne of water] <sup>l</sup> Some few moderne Diuines haue conceited, that these words are not to be construed of externall baptisme, because, say they, Christ taketh water here by a borrowed speech for the Spirit of God, the effect whereof it shadoweth out; and so water, and the Spirit are all one. To this interpretation answer is made; first, that it is an old rule in expounding of holy Scripture, that where a litterall sense will stand, the farthest from the letter is commonly the worst; and that there is nothing more dangerous in a Christian Vniuersitic, than this this

this licentious and deluding art, changing the meaning of words, as Alchymie doth or would doe the substance of metals; euerting the truth in peruerting the text: of these men Augustines position is a prophetic: Si preoccupauerit animam alicuius erroris opinio, quicquid aliter asseruerit Scriptura, figuratum homines arbitrantur. De doct. Christ. lib. 3. cap. 10.

Secondly, we tell them, if water were put here for explanation or declaration, it should not be placed before, but after the word Spirit, as in their owne example, Matth. 3. 11. He will baptise you with the Holy Ghost and with fire.

Thirdly, that Origen, Chrysostome, Augustine, Cyri, Reda, Theophylact, Eusebius, in their Commentaries vpon this place; <sup>m</sup> Iustine Martyr, <sup>n</sup> Tertullian, <sup>o</sup> Ambrose, <sup>p</sup> Hierome, <sup>q</sup> Basil, <sup>r</sup> Gregorie Nyssen, and many more, yea most of the Fathers, <sup>s</sup> Hooker, a man of incomparable reading, openeth his mouth wider, anowing peremptorily, that all the Ancients haue construed this Text as <sup>t</sup> our Church doth of outward Baptisme. See Bellarmin. de esse et u Sacramento cap. 3. §. Ad hunc locum; & de sacramento bap. lib. 1. cap. 4. §. Secundo Caluinus: Maldonat. com. in loc. Hooker Eccles. polit. lib. 5. §. 59. & 60. Beza maior. annot. in locum

By Baptisme then a man is made a member of Christ, a childe of God, and an inheritor of the kingdome of heauen as our Church out of this place <sup>u</sup> teacheth: and in Baptisme there is a visible signe, which is water, and an inward grace, which is conueyed vnto vs by the Spirit inuisibly: for as the winde bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but thou canst not tell whence it cometh nor whither it goeth; so is euery one that is borne of the Spirit: as the Spirit is an inward necessarie cause, so the water is an outward necessarie meane to our regeneration: For <sup>x</sup> Baptisme is not only a signe of profession, and marke of difference, whereby Christian men are discerned from other that be not christened: but it is a signe of regeneration, whereby as by an instrument they that receiue Baptisme rightly are grafed into the Church. And as <sup>y</sup> Leo speakes, incorporated into Christ: Vt susceptus a Christo, Christumq; suscipiens, non idem sit post lauacrum qui ante baptismum fuit, sed corpus regenerati fiat caro crucifixi: 2 flesh as it were of Christs flesh, and bone of his bone: 2 Quoniam sicut factus est Dominus caro nostra nascendo; ita & nos facti sumus ipsius renascendo: the Spirit in this our new birth is <sup>b</sup> in stead of a Father, the water, in stead of a Mother: in this sense the Scripture termes Baptisme a <sup>c</sup> bath of regeneration, <sup>d</sup> whereby God cleanse his Church, vnto <sup>e</sup> remission of finnes: Omni homini renascenti, aqua Baptismatis instar est uteri uirginialis, eodem Spiritu Sancto replente fontem, qui repleuit & uirginem, ut peccatum quod ibi euacuauit sicra conceptio, hic mistica tollat ablutio.

Haply some will obiect, if this exposition be true, then no man can be sau'd except he be baptized. In cases of extremitie, when publike Baptisme cannot be had, <sup>g</sup> priuate is sufficient: and when not so much as priuate may be well obtained, <sup>h</sup> votall is enough, as our <sup>i</sup> Popish aduerfaries acknowledge: i Satis est, si adsit mentaliter, ubi non potest haberi sacramentaliter. If thou canst get Baptisme for thy childe, despise not this blessed Sacrament, for although it be not an immediate cause, yet it is a mediate channell of grace, whereby the mercies of God in Christ are conueyed vnto vs: according to that of <sup>k</sup> Hugo, fideles salutem ex istis elementis non querunt, etsi in istis querunt: non enim ista tribuunt quod per ista tribuitur: but if in extreme necessitie thou canst not enjoy this holy water, assure thy selfe, God accepteth a desire for a deed.

If any shall aske, why Christ in this dispute concerning iustification, doth treat first of Baptisme, then of Faith; <sup>l</sup> answer is made, that the outward ministrie, which especially consists in preaching the word, and administering the Sacraments is like Iohn Baptist, pointing vnto Christ, and shewing how much we stand in need of his mercy. This great Rabbi therefore begins his Sermon of regeneration with outward Baptisme. but ends it with faith, in the worlds sauionr; by which all the Sacraments and other workes of the ministrie are powerfull and effectuall in vs. It is impossible for any man to see God without a Mediator, appeasing the wrath of God of himselfe; no man ascendeth vp to heauen, but he that

<sup>m</sup> Apolog. 2.
<sup>n</sup> Lib. de Bap.
<sup>o</sup> de Spirit.
Sanc. lib. 3. cap. 11.
<sup>p</sup> in 16. Exceq
<sup>q</sup> Ser. de bap.
<sup>r</sup> Lib. de sancti Baptismate <sup>s</sup> Eccles. polit.
lib. 5 § 59.
<sup>t</sup> Common B.
Tit publike Bap if in the beginning <sup>u</sup> Com. ch. ucbif.

<sup>x</sup> Anglican. Con. sess. art. 27. &
art. 25. and effectual signe of grace.

<sup>y</sup> Ser. 14. de passion. Dom. cap. 5.
<sup>z</sup> Ephes. 5. 30
<sup>a</sup> Leo ser. 3. in natus Dom.
cap. 5

<sup>b</sup> Animonius apud Maldonat.
in locum.

<sup>c</sup> Tit. 3. 5.
<sup>d</sup> Ephes. 5. 26.
<sup>e</sup> Act. 2. 38.
<sup>f</sup> Leo ser. 4. in natus. Dom.
cap. 3.

<sup>g</sup> Common B.
Tit Priuate Baptisme.

<sup>h</sup> Aben & Caie-
tan. in loc.
<sup>i</sup> Idem Caietan in
3. Tho. quest. 68
art. 1. 2. Com-bard sens. lib. 4.
difi. 4. tanten.

<sup>k</sup> Con. cap. 20 Bernard. Bui. &c.
<sup>l</sup> Them. part 3.
quest. 68. art. 2

<sup>m</sup> De sacrament.
lib. 1. cap. 3.
<sup>n</sup> Maldon. possit
in locum.

<sup>m</sup> 1 Tim. 2. 5.

came downe from heauen, euen the Sonne of Man which is in heauen: <sup>m</sup> he is the sole mediator betweene God and, man, opening the kingdome of heauen to all beleeuers.

<sup>a</sup> Ardens:
<sup>o</sup> Theophylact.
& Eusebimus
in locum.
<sup>p</sup> Numb. 21.

As therefore Moses lift up the Serpent in the wildernesse, euen so must the Sonne of Man be lift up, that whosoever beleueneth in him perish not, but haue euerlasting life.] <sup>n</sup> He doth aptly teach a Doctor of the Law, by a figure of the Law; <sup>o</sup> shewing that the Law and the Gospell agree; the Serpent being a type of the Saviour: <sup>p</sup> the children of Israel murmuring against God, and his seruant Moses, were stung with the fiery serpents in such sort, that many of the people died; and therefore they desired Moses, that he would pray to the Lord to take away these Serpents from them; hereupon, Moses according to Gods expresse commandement, made a Serpent of brasse, and set it vp for a signe, and when a Serpent had bitten a man, then he looked to the serpent of brasse, and liued; he was healed instantly without any medicine, or other helpe; yea without any other reason, but that God had sayd it should be thus: all men haue murmured against God, and are stung with the <sup>q</sup> fiery darts of that <sup>r</sup> old Serpent Satan: and yet all such as repent and behold with Faiths eye Christ exalted on the crosse, shall be sau'd from euerlasting death, of pure grace, without and before their good workes, albeit afterward being deliuered from their enemies, it be their dutie to serue God in holinesse and rightconuesse, all the daies of their life.

<sup>q</sup> Ephes. 6. 1 6.
<sup>r</sup> Apoc. 12. 9.

<sup>t</sup> Tyndal Prologue upon Leuit.

The <sup>v</sup> vertue of Christs death is better described by this one similitude, then thou couldest declare with a thousand words, it is an vniuersall medicine, whosoever; it pertaineth to all, but all pertaine not to it; none pertaine to it, but they that take benefit by it; and none take benefit by it, no more then by the brazen Serpent, but they that <sup>v</sup> fixe their eyes on it: He that beleueneth in him shall not perish, . <sup>u</sup> It is not enough to beleue ~~in~~ him, except a man also beleue in him: <sup>x</sup> except he wholly depend on him, as his only Mediator and Redecmer. <sup>y</sup> And thus a man is borne againe by faith in Christ, begotten, and confirmed in vs euermore by the blessed word and Sacraments.

<sup>v</sup> Hebr. 12. 2.
<sup>w</sup> Caictan. in loc.
<sup>x</sup> Culman. Con. 3
Dom. Trin.
<sup>y</sup> Zepper. Con. 1.
Dom. Trin.

Yea, but what is all this to the feast of holy Trinitie? wherefore did the Church allot this Scripture for this Sunday? The reason hereof is very plaine <sup>z</sup> because this Gospell expresth all the three sacred persons, as also their appropriate attributes; it sheweth the person of the Father, vers. 2. We know that thou art a teacher come from God: the person of the Sonne speaking throughout the whole dialogue; the person of the Holy Ghost, vers. 5. except a man be borne of water and of the Spirit: vnto the Father it ascribeth especially power, no man could doe such miracles as thou doest except God were with him. Vnto the Sonne wisdom, we speake that we know; to the Holy Ghost goodnesse and loue, the winde bloweth where it listeth, &c. And therefore let vs praise the sacred Trinitie with other Churches out of <sup>a</sup> S. Paul, of him, and through him, and for him are all things, vnto him be glory for euer, Amen. <sup>b</sup> Augustine is of opinion, that these prepositions, of, through, for. are not to be confounded; because ex, doth note the Father, per, the Sonne, in, the Holy Ghost: ex, the Father, of whom are all things; per, the Sonne, through whom are all things; in, the Holy Ghost, in whom are all things, as <sup>c</sup> Peter Lombard wittily.

<sup>z</sup> Pontan. Bib. con. tom. 4. fol. 1
& Iacob. de vorag. ser. 1. de S. Trin.

<sup>a</sup> Rom. 11. 36.
<sup>b</sup> De Trinit. lib. 6. cap. 10. Idem Galatin de cat. veru. lib. 2. cap 2

<sup>c</sup> 1 Sent. distin. 36.

<sup>d</sup> Hom. for Rogation- wecke, part. 1.

Vnto these expositions of Augustine and Lombard, I thinke <sup>d</sup> our Church alludeth, vnfolding the Text thus, of him, that is, euery good and perfect gift, comes downe from the Father of light: through him, that is, Christ Iesus our Saviour is the meane by whom we receiue his liberall goodnesse; in him, that is, in the power and vertue of the Holy Ghost: God the Father is the fountaine of all goodnesse, God the Sonne the conduit, God the Holy Ghost the cistern.

Almightie and euerlasting God, which hast giuen vnto vs thy seruants grace, by the confession of a true faith, to acknowledge the glory of the eternall Trinitie, and in the power of the Diuine Maestie, to worship the Vnitie. we beseech thee, that through the stedfastnesse of this faith, we may euermore be defended from all aduersitie, which liuest and raignest one God without end. Amen.

The Epistle. I. IOHN. 4. 7.

Dearely beloned, let vs loue one another, for loue commeth of God, &c.

This Epistle consists of a } Salutation, dearely beloned.
 } Exhortation, let vs loue one another.
 } Confirmation, for loue commeth of God, &c.

In the first, obserue two } Loue, saluting so kindly.
 } Discretion, because commending loue to other, he } sheweth abundant loue himselfe

Dearely beloned] This gracious and kinde compellation is vsuall in the writings of the blessed Apostles, and therefore the Minister beginning euey solemne act in our Liturgie, with this or the like phrase, is Apostolike: Dearely beloned brethren the Scripture moueth vs in sundry places, &c In the set order for morning and euening prayer, at the communion, We be come together at this time, dearely beloned, to feed at the Lords Supper: at publike Baptisme, Dearely beloned, for so much as all men be conceined and borne in sinne, &c. At the solemnization of Matrimonie, Dearely beloned friends, &c. At the visitation of the sicke, Dearely beloned, know this, that Almighty God is the Lord of life and death: at the buriall of the dead, For as much as it hath pleased Almighty God of his great mercy, to take vnto himselfe the soule of our Deare brother here departed, at the Communion, Brethren in the primitiue Church, &c.

These gratulatorie termes and turnes of loue should be reciprocally betweene the Pastor and the people: ° we dissemble before God and man, if we doe not loue you dearely, when often in our Sermons we call you dearely beloned; and you dissemble more with vs, if you neither respect our person, nor reuerence our place, when, you terme vs ordinarily, spirituall Pastors, and reuerend Fathers in God.

But herein the discretion of S. Iohn is most remarkable, for that exhorting other to loue, himselfe giues to good example of loue, Beloned, let vs loue. For whereas there be two waies to teach, one by precept, and another by patterne men are led more by that which they see, then by that which we say. <sup>f</sup> Diuines obserue, that S. Iohn is no where so great an Orator, and so subtile a Logician as in this argument of loue, for albeit he writes in this Epistle ° both of faith and hope, so well as of loue; yet the greatest part thereof is spent in loue: <sup>h</sup> Locutus est multa, & prope omnia de charitate: speaking much, almost all of charitie. For as he was the most loued Apostle, so likewise the most louing Apostle, preaching and practising, and so by both, instantly pressing this one point, sundry wayes, againe and againe, Let vs loue one another. And therefore seeing S. Iohn out of his loue, doth exhort vs so much vnto loue; <sup>i</sup> Quicquid amor iussit, non est contemnere tutum.

In the second part of this Epistle note the } Act, Let vs loue.
 } Obiect, One another.

Let vs loue] The <sup>k</sup> Schoolemen acutely distinguish betweene amor, dilectio, and charitas: amor is common to beasts with men; dilectio proper only to men electio quasi: charitas is an <sup>l</sup> infused grace by the Holy Ghost, only proper to Saints, as in my text, Euery one that loueth is borne of God: now this loue which is only from God, <sup>m</sup> is in God, and for God only: for how can he loue his neighbour, who doth not loue God? <sup>n</sup> Quomodo diligit proximum tanquam seipsum, quandoquidem non diligit & seipsum? How can he loue his neighbour as himselfe when as he doth not loue himselfe? for the wicked man who loues not God, hateth his owne soule, Psalm. 11. 6. Qui diligit iniquitatem, odit animam suam, as S. Hierome and Augustine reade.

This lone comming from God, and continuing for God, ° consists in thinking well, speaking well, and doing well, as Saint Paul teacheth in his first Epistle

° Mr. Dearing
 Lect. 16 vpon the Hebrewes.

<sup>l</sup> Lorin. in 1. E-pist. Ioan. cap. 4.
 vers. 11.

<sup>g</sup> Pet. Aureolus.
 & Gregor. Ederus, apud Lorin
 prolog in Epist.
 Ioan. cap. 6.

<sup>h</sup> August. presat in exposit. epist.
 Ioan.

<sup>i</sup> Ouid.

<sup>k</sup> Thom. 1. 2e.
 quest. 26. art. 1 & 3.

<sup>l</sup> Idem 2. 2e.
 quest. 24. art. 2
 & 3.

<sup>m</sup> Hieron. epist.
 Paulin Tom. 3. fol 1. Christi glutino copulata.

<sup>n</sup> August. tract.
 83. in Ioan. &
 Tho. 2. 2e. quest
 25 art 7.

° Sec Epistle for Quinquag-gesima Sunday

to the Corinthians, chapter 13. Loue (saith he) thinketh not euill, it enuicth not, that is, for the thought; it disdaineth not, it doth not boaste it selfe, it is not prouoked vnto anger, that is, for words; it is bountifull, and seeketh not her owne, that is for workes: and therefore God in his Law (whose complement is loue) forbiddeth all iniuries against our neighbours; in deed, thou shalt not kil, thou shalt not commit adulterie, thou shalt not steale; in word, thou shalt not beare false witness; in thought, thou shalt not couet thy neighbours house, &c. See the Decalogue.

One another.] <sup>P</sup> Imitating the good, tolerating the bad, louing all; howsoeuer we may loath the faults of many, yet we may loue the persons of all, according to that of the Emperor <sup>q</sup> Otho, Pacem cum hominibus, Bellum cum vitijs; and that of <sup>r</sup> Augustine, Diligite homines, interficite errores, and that of <sup>t</sup> Aquine, we must loue wicked men, not as wicked, but as men.

For loue commeth of God] This confirmation is taken from the first author of loue, which is God.

Giuing it, James 1. 17. Euery good and perfect gift is from aboue.

Commanding it by precept: For it is the fulfilling of his Law, Rom. 13. 10.

For loue commeth from God <sup>r</sup> as Commending it by practise, ver. 8. For God is loue, shewing his loue to be great, in respect of Himselfe, the giuer; bestowing a great gift, his only begotten Son; with great affection, in this appeareth the loue of God.

Vs, the receiuers: enioying such a gift as we did most want, for when we were * dead in sinnes, he sent his only begotten Sonne into the world, that we might liue through him.

God is loue] This is a short, but a singular commendation, insinuating that howsoeuer in enumeration loue be but one vertue; yet in estimation vpon the point the only vertue.

God is loue <sup>u</sup> foure wayes,  $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Substantialiter.} \\ \text{Causaliter.} \\ \text{Actiue.} \\ \text{Passiue.} \end{array} \right.$

Substantialiter: for there is nothing in God, but God; <sup>x</sup> nihil habet in se, nisi se God is <sup>y</sup> all in all, and yet without <sup>z</sup> accident at all, as being most great without <sup>a</sup> quantitie, most good without qualitie. <sup>b</sup> Bernard obserued truly, that these propositions in abstracto, God is Wisdome, iustice, Mercy, Goodnesse, are more congruent, than God is wise, iust, mercifull, good. In this sente God is not only <sup>c</sup> louing as men accidentally, but essentially loue.

Secondly, God is loue, causaliter, as making concord in all his creatures: he doth accord the disagreeing elements, and so temper our differing humors,

As that <sup>d</sup> Their warre, our bodies peace maintaines.

He makes men to be of one <sup>e</sup> minde in a priuate houte, and of one <sup>f</sup> heart in the publike Church: it is <sup>g</sup> charitas substantia, which giues charitatem accidentalem: his loue may be termed <sup>h</sup> ignis accendens, ours ignis accensus, as <sup>i</sup> Augustine calls his wisdome, lumen illuminans, ours lumen illuminatum: as then he that walketh in the burning day light is sayd to be in the Sunne, and the Sunne in him; euen so whoso euer dwelleth in loue, dwelleth in God, and God in him.

Thirdly, God is loue, actiue, louing <sup>k</sup> all that he made, man especially; louing vs first in our election, when we could not loue him, in our redemption, when

<sup>P</sup> Augustin de car. radibus. cap. 27.

<sup>q</sup> Reusner. in symbolis.

<sup>r</sup> Contra lit.

Peitilian. lib. 1: cap. 29.

<sup>t</sup> 2. 2. e. quest. 25 art. 6.

<sup>r</sup> Aquin in loc.

* Ephes. 2. 5.

<sup>u</sup> Ardeus. in loc.

<sup>x</sup> Bernard de consid. lib. 5.

<sup>y</sup> 1 Cor. 15. 28

<sup>z</sup> Thom. part. 1. quest. 3. art. 6.

<sup>a</sup> August. mediat. cap. 12.

<sup>b</sup> Serin. 80. in Cantica.

<sup>c</sup> Idem Bernard. ser. 83. in Cant.

<sup>d</sup> Thom. 2. 2. e. quest. 23. art. 2

<sup>e</sup> Du Bartas, 2 day, 1 weeke

<sup>f</sup> Plal. 68. 6.

<sup>g</sup> Acts 4. 32.

<sup>h</sup> Bern. epist. 11

<sup>i</sup> Lorin. in loc.

<sup>j</sup> Confes. lib. 12. cap. 15.

<sup>k</sup> Plal. 145. 9.

when we would not loue him : it is no great matter to preuent, or answer loue with loue, Publicans will doe the same, Matth. 5. 46. and <sup>1</sup> Poets inioyne the same :

*Ut præslem Pyliden, aliquis mihi præstat Oresten.
Hoc non fit verbis : Marce ut ameris, ama.*

But herein appeared the loue of God toward vs, in that when we were his <sup>m</sup> enemies, he sent his only begotten Sonne into the world, that we might liue through him and if he <sup>n</sup> spared not his owne Sonne, but gaue him for vs all to death, how shall he not with him, giue vs all things also? See Epistle Sunday after Christmas, and Epistle 3. Sunday in Lent.

God is not only louing for a time, but constant in his loue : Psal. 118. 1. The Lord is gracious, and his mercie endureth for euer ; his right hand is mercy, his left iustice. Now that hand is greatest which is most vsed, but God doth giue more with his right hand of mercy, then punish with his left hand of iudgement: as <sup>o</sup> Dauid sweetly, Gracious is the Lord and righteous, yea our God is mercifull : as <sup>p</sup> S. Ambrose notably, Bis misericordiam posuit, semel iustitiam : he saith once only that God is righteous, but twice in one verse that he is gracious : and in the second commandement Almighty God saith of himselfe, that he will punish but the third and fourth generation of such as hate him : whereas he will shew mercy to thousands to such as loue him and keepe his Commandements.

It is very remarkable, that God in going to punish Adam, is said <sup>o</sup> only to walke a soft pace : but in shewing mercy toward the Prodigall child, to <sup>r</sup> runne, signifying hereby that he is <sup>l</sup> slowest to conceiue a wrath, and readiest to forgive, he will not alway be chiding, neither keepeth he his anger for euer : his displeasure toward his children is soone at an end, but his mercifull goodnesse endureth for euer, vnto the end, in the end, without end.

Fourthly, God is loue, passiue being louely, most worthy to be loued, maximè diligibilis, as the <sup>t</sup> Schoole speaks : O taste and see, saith <sup>u</sup> Dauid, how gracious the Lord is. * O how plentifull is thy goodnesse, which thou hast layd vp for them that feare thee, and that thou hast prepared for them that put their trust in thee, euen before the finnes of men. If loue then occasion loue, let vs loue God a little, who loueth vs exceeding much, and indeed we cannot answer God well in any thing but in loue : for if God be angry with thee, thou must not answer him in anger ; if he iudge thee, thou mayest not againe iudge him ; if he chide thee, thou must be patient ; if he command, thou must obey ; but in that he loueth thee thou mayest, yea thou must loue him againe. <sup>y</sup> Nam cum amat Deus, non aliud vult quam amari : quippe non ad aliud amat, nisi ut ametur, sciens ipsos amore beatos qui se amauerint.

As God is loue, <sup>z</sup> so the deuill is extreme malice : such then as spend themselves or their meanes in hatred, eniue, malice, needlesse quarrels of law, contention, vnto vexations, hindring their neighbour, are darlings vnto Satan : and for the time being vntill they repent, heires apparent of hell. On the contrary whosoever loueth is borne of God, and knoweth God, <sup>a</sup> in this life by faith, in the <sup>b</sup> next by face : knowing God <sup>c</sup> experimentally, and knowne of God as a child most <sup>d</sup> resembling his father: in one word (as <sup>e</sup> some confidently speake) by this as it were made God, for God is loue.

The Gospell and Epistle well agree, for Abraham, the Father of the faithfull and his sonne Lazarus, who loued God aboue all things, and their neighbour as themselves, are sayd to be comforted in heauenly Paradise : whereas the rich Glutton, who by louing himselfe too much, altogether neglected his loue toward other, is tormented in hell : and therefore seeing the end of vncharitablenesse is so terrible, the reward of loue so comfortable ; Dearly beloved, let vs loue one another.

<sup>1</sup> *Martial. lib. 6 epigram 11 lxx
Ausonius, epigr.
91.*

<sup>m</sup> Rom. 5. 10

<sup>n</sup> Rom. 8. 32.

<sup>o</sup> Psal. 216. 5.
<sup>p</sup> Orat. de obitu Theodosij.

<sup>q</sup> Gen. 3. 8.

<sup>r</sup> Luke 15. 20

<sup>s</sup> Psal. 103. 8.
9. 17.

<sup>t</sup> *Thom. 2. 2e.
quæst. 24. art. 2.*
<sup>u</sup> Psal. 34. 8.
<sup>v</sup> Ipsal. 31. 21.

<sup>y</sup> *Bernard ser.
83. in Cantica.*

<sup>z</sup> Basil. exercit. ad p. latem. ser 5

<sup>a</sup> Lezin.
<sup>b</sup> Gloss. Interlin. or Hugo.
<sup>c</sup> Aquin.
<sup>d</sup> Matth 5. 25
<sup>e</sup> Philo Carp. thius; apud Lovin. in locum.

The Gospell. L V K B. 16. 19

There was a certaine rich man, which was clothed in purple and fine white, and fared deliciously euery day, &c.

<sup>1</sup> Iansen. Con. cap. 97. Caietan & Maldonat. in loc ex Iustin. & Postil. Dom. 1. post Trin.

CHRIST in this<sup>f</sup> historical Parable, or Parabolicall Historie, describes the state of a carelesse Epicure, and a curlesse Begger. In the first (as <sup>8</sup> Melancthon obserues) he doth exhort vs to compassion; in the second to passion: to compassion, in that Abraham denied vnto Dives a drop of water in hell, because Dives had denied vnto Lazarus a crumme of bread on earth. To passion and patience in aduersitie: for as much as Lazarus afflicted with scornes in his minde with sores in his body while he liued, is sayd to be carried by glorious Angells into blessed Abrahams bosome when he died.

<sup>2</sup> Bonauentura. diet. salut. cap 8

The Glutton is described according to his<sup>h</sup> foure-fold death:
 { Naturall: There was, but is not.
 { Ciuill: a certaine man, not worthie the naming.
 { Spirituall: clothed in purple, and fine white, faring deliciously euery day, making too much of himselfe, too little of Lazarus.
 { Infernall: in hell torments, he list vp his eyes, &c.

Or this Epicure is painted out vnto vs according to his three-fold estate, as he was in his { Life: which he spent in iollitie, clothed richly, faring deliciously.
 { Death: the rich man also died, and was buried.
 { Hell: In hell torments he cried &c.

1. From the circumstance of time wherein he liued, There was.
2. From his name, or rather indeed, no name: a certaine man.
3. from his possessions, a rich man.

The description of his life is taken

4. From his manners & behaiour toward { Himselfe, concerning his { Backe: clothed in purple and fine white.
 { Belly: faring deliciously euery day.
 { Omission, in that he { 1 Denied Lazarus.
 { 2. Denied him bread.
 { 3. A crumme of bread.
 { 4. A crumme of bread, which fell from his table.
 { Lazarus, in sinnes of { Commission, or permission, in that he suffered his dogs to sucke the beggers blood.

<sup>1</sup> Pet. Rauens. & Maldonat. in locum.

Idem Iansen ubi supra.

<sup>2</sup> Adeo debilis, erat vt non poterat abigere canes Euthym. in locum.

<sup>1</sup> Matth. 17. 27

In which Interpreters, I confesse, note generally the dogs to be more kinde then their master, in licking the poore mans sores with their medecinable tongues: and yet for as much as our Sauours intent in this Text, is to exaggerate the miserableness of Dives, and miseries of Lazarus, I mislike not<sup>i</sup> their opinion, who thinke the dogs did rather hurt then heale Lazarus,<sup>k</sup> as taking him not for a liuing man, but for a dead carcase: for this wretched cartiffe cared more to fill his dogs then to feed the poore: whereas he should haue taken from his dogs to bestow vpon Lazarus; he tooke from Lazarus to bestow vpon his dogs, who fared the better by sucking his blood, and licking his sores: a true patterne of a base cormorant, who maketh vse of euery creature that walketh by his doore, or crawleth on his ground, or lieth at his gate; like to <sup>1</sup> S. Peters fish, who though his mouth be full of gold, yet is he nibling at euery bait.

There was] Abraham was rich, and Iob rich, and Herod rich, and Salomon so rich, rich, as that he gave Cedars as the wilde figtrees, and silver as stones, 1. King 10. 17. all these were, but now they be dead, and returned naked to the graue. The Grammarian, who declineth all other nouns in euery case, cannot decline death in any case.

Flectere per varios, docuit qui nomina casu, Hec cadit, & casum hunc flectere non potuit.

Great <sup>m</sup> Iupiter had but a little tombe. <sup>n</sup> Tamberlaine the terror of his time, died with three fits of an ague. Henrie the first, King of England, <sup>o</sup> decus olim. nunc dolor orbis.

P iam cinis est; & de tam magno restat Achille, Nescio quid: paruum quod non bene compleat urnam.

This Epicure, who whilome was a gallant, clothed in purple and fine linnen, a man of a daintie diet, a iolie hunter, hollowing and hoiting after his hounds; is now dead, and buried, and tormented in hell: erat, non est: indeed there was such a rich man, but he is not now.

Here then is a monition for the rich, and a munition for the poore: for the rich an admonition, that they be not high minded, and put their trust in vncertaine riches: and boast themselues in the multitude of possessions; for they shall carrie nothing away with them, when they die, but leaue their goods for other. All this world passeth away, and the lust thereof, riches auaille not in the day of wrath, nor gold in the day of vengeance, Ezech. 7. 19. Money is a queene, and therefore rich men are kings in this world, ruling, ouer-ruling all by corruption and briberie; but when death, as Gods bayliffe, shall shew his babeas corpus, they cannot redeeme the soule; that will cost more, saith Dauid, Psal. 49 8. O foole, this night will they fetch away thy soule from thee, Luk. 12. 20.

This also may comfort the poore: for albeit the rich oppresse for a time; yet ere it be long, they shall lye in hell like sheepe, death gnawing upon them, Psal. 49. 14. <sup>u</sup> Fret not thy selfe then because of the vngodly, neither be thou enuious against the euill doers; for they shall soone be cut downe like the grasse, and be withered euen as the greene herbe: haue patience for a while, and the wicked shall bee cleane gone, thou shalt looke after his place, and he shall be away: There was a rich man he is not now.

A certaine rich man] The poore mans name is mentioned here, There was a begger named Lazarus: but the name of the rich man is omitted; homo quidam is his stile: which our blessed Sauour did for sundry reasons, as Interpreters obserue. First, to shew that <sup>x</sup> his waies are not as our waies are: for we <sup>y</sup> scorne the poore, and take notice of the rich only. Genealogies of Princes, and pedegrees of Nobles, are so well knowne vnto vs as our fingers: but if any shall aske the name of a begger: <sup>z</sup> he is a certaine man, old father, what shall I call him. Alas silly wretch he hath no name, except it be some by-name, as blinde Bartimeus, or lame Giles; and therefore Christ, quite contrary to the worlds humour, acknowledged the poore, but not the rich.

Secondly, Christ omitted this Epicures name, <sup>a</sup> because he knowes not the wicked, Matth. 7. 23. I neuer knew you: God knoweth his owne children by their names, Exod. 33. 12. Esay 43. 1. for their names are written in heauen, Luk. 10. 20. and so being told in his booke he doth agnize them for his sheepe Ioh. 10. 14. I am the good shepherd, and know mine and am knowne of mine. A great comfort to the godly, because they be in the booke of life; not only secundum eorum opinionem, as the wicked are, Psal. 69. 27. but secundum rei veritatem, as <sup>b</sup> Augustine speaks in his enarration of that Psalme: not only <sup>c</sup> in libro presentis iustitie, but in libro predestinationis aeterna: not only written on the <sup>d</sup> outside of Gods booke, from whence they may be wiped away, but in the inside, out of which it is impossible they should be blotted: for if an inconstant man said, quod scripsi, scripsi; <sup>e</sup> then how much more God, in whom there is no variableness nor shadow of change? James 1. 17 I will not put out his name out of the booke of life, but I will confesse his name before my Father, and before his Angels Apocal.

<sup>m</sup> Epigram. vet lib. 3. uisuntur magni parua se. pulchra louis.

<sup>n</sup> Paulus Iouius illust virorum elog. lib. 2.

<sup>o</sup> Huntingdon. hist. lib. 7 in fin.

<sup>p</sup> Ouid. Metam. lib. 12.

<sup>q</sup> Chrylston

<sup>r</sup> 1 Tim. 6. 17.

<sup>s</sup> Psal. 49. 6.

<sup>t</sup> Prou 11. 4.

<sup>u</sup> Psal 37. 1. 2

<sup>x</sup> Esay 55. 8.

<sup>y</sup> Greg apud Aquin. in locum

<sup>z</sup> Caictan. l. 1. c. 1. in Corran.

<sup>a</sup> Theophylact.

Corran. Ludol phus

<sup>b</sup> Tom 8. fol. 510

<sup>c</sup> Thom. part. 1

quest. 24. art. 3

<sup>d</sup> Hugo Car. in Psal 138.

<sup>e</sup> Sext. Sen. bib. lib 2. pag 127.

<sup>f</sup> Augustin in

Psal. 68.

<sup>f</sup> Esay 49. 16.

<sup>e</sup> Euthymius in Psal. 68. &
Psal. 138.

<sup>h</sup> Psal. 16. 5.

<sup>k</sup> Gorran. Stella.

<sup>l</sup> 1. Rou. 10. 7.

<sup>1</sup> Ecclesiasticus.

49. 1.

<sup>m</sup> Mytholog. li. 1.

<sup>n</sup> Exod 17. 14.

<sup>o</sup> Greg. apud

Aquin. Idem.

Chrysof. Beda.

Pontan.

<sup>p</sup> Esay 5. 8.

<sup>q</sup> Wisd. 11. 13

<sup>r</sup> Stella. Maldo-nat. Pontan.

<sup>s</sup> Luke 2. 1.

<sup>t</sup> B. Bilson. Preface B of Church go-uernment.

<sup>u</sup> 1. Pet. 2. 1.

<sup>x</sup> Ludolphus de vita Christi,

part. 2. cap. 16.

<sup>y</sup> Quidam ex traditione Heb.

apud Euthym.

in locum.

<sup>z</sup> Consule Zep-per. Con. 1. Dom

1. post. Trin.

<sup>a</sup> Augustin.

Epist. 70.

Apocal. 3. 5. <sup>f</sup> Behold, saith God, I haue grauen thee vpon the palme of my hands not written only, but grauen, not in stone or brasie, but in my flesh, and that in those parts which are most seene, in my hands: and in the neere part of them, in the palmes of mine hands.

I know God knoweth the wicked as well as the godly: for there is a threefold booke of his knowledge.

1. An vniuersall common-place-booke, wherein both good and bad are written; of which it is sayd, Psal. 139. 15. In thy booke were all my members written.

2. A priuate booke, Gods Vade mecum, in which only the names of his elect are written, whose waies he doth know, that is, approue, Psal. 1. verse last, The Lord knoweth the way of the righteous.

3. His booke of accounts, or blacke booke, wherein only the wicked are written, Daniel 7. 10. The iudgement was set, and the bookes opened: so that Almighty God knoweth the wicked in the world to come, but to their condemnation; and he knoweth them in this life, but not to their commendation, hee will not vouchsafe <sup>h</sup> to make mention of them with his lips; as in the Text he concealeth the rich Epicures name.

Thirdly, Christ omitted the Gluttons name, <sup>i</sup> to signifie that the <sup>k</sup> memorial of the iust shall be blessed, but the name of the wicked shall rot. <sup>l</sup> The remembrance of Iosias is like the composition of the perfume that is made by the Art of the Apothecarie, it is swete as hony in all mouthes, and as musicke at a banquet of wine: Abel being dead, yet speakerh, Heb. 11. 4. A good name, saith <sup>m</sup> Fulgentius, is the godly mans heire: but God saith of Amaleck, <sup>n</sup> I will utterly put out the remembrance of Amaleck from vnder heauen. Either the names of the wicked are pretermitted altogether, as in this place, there was a certaine man; or else recorded to their eternall infamie: as Ieroboam is mentioned in the Chronicles of Israel Pontius Pilate in the Creed, and Stephen Gardiner in our Martyrologies.

Fourthly, Christ did omit this Epicures name, <sup>o</sup> to pull downe the mightie from their feat, and to exalt the humble and meeke. The proud builde cities to get them a name, Gen. 11. 4. Is not this great Babel that I haue built, for the honour of my Maiestie? Dan. 4. 27. <sup>p</sup> they ioyne houte to house, and lands to lands, imagining their mansion shall endure from generation to generation, calling their Manours after their owne names, Psalm. 49. 11. Christ therefore concealeth here the rich mans name, <sup>q</sup> for wherewith a man sinneth, by the same shall hee be punished.

These reasons are common among the Fathers and other interpreters. Vnto which I will adde, how Christ haply named not this Epicure, <sup>r</sup> because he spake much in his dispraise. Here then is a good lesson for all Christians, especially Preachers in this vncharitable detracting age, wherein euery State-critike, like <sup>s</sup> Augustus Caesar, taketh vpon him to taxe all the world, and to coniure all publike actions, vnder the narrow circle of their priue censure, <sup>t</sup> as if men held the copie of their liues by the breath of their mouth, and by the dash of their pen: it is our dutie, <sup>u</sup> laying aside all malitiousnesse, enuie, guile and euill speaking, to follow Christs example: when we censure the facts of great ones liuing, or the faults of rich ones dead, let vs not doe it in part:all and personall inuectiues bitterly; but in generall and discreet termes charitably, there was a certaine man.

Wherefore seeing Christ hath not expressed this Gully-guts name for so many good reasons, it is idle curiositie for other to say that it was <sup>x</sup> Nabal, or <sup>y</sup> Ninensis or <sup>z</sup> Herod, who beheaded Iohn the Baptist: assuredly such inquisition is to schoole Gods Spirit, and to teach that eternall Word to speake.

Rich man] It is apparent in this Scripture, that goods in themselves are not euill: Ne putentur mala, dantur & bonis; & ne putentur summa bona, dantur & malis: as <sup>a</sup> Augustine told Boniface: lest they should be reputed euill, they are giuen vnto the good, as to Father Abraham: and on the other side, left they should be thought the chiefe good, often bestowed vpon the bad, as here

vpon

vpon this Epicure, There was a certaine rich man. Againe, Lazarus is said, verſ. 22. to be translated into Abrahams boſome. Consider therefore not only <sup>b</sup> qui ſublatus, ſed quo ſublatus; poore, but good Lazarus, is carried into rich but good Abrahams boſome, to ſignifie that neither pouertie demerits heauen, nor riches hell; as Auguſtine diſputes in his 89. Epistle to Hilarius: and therefore the ſame Father in his Tract againſt <sup>c</sup> Adimantus, cap. 20. citing the text of Paul, 1 Tim, 6 Trust not in vncertaine riches, but in the liuing God, who giveth all things abundantly concludes in fine, that it is not, culpabile habere iſta, ſed ea præferre & conferre: to preferre riches, or compare riches with faith and a good conſcience, by which our ſoule is enriched; and ſo the Glutton is condemned here, <sup>d</sup> not for hauing, but for abuſing riches in riot, or not vſing them in hospitalitie.

Such then are non reſident from the text, who diſallow large reuenewes in Clergie men, becauſe ſome get them ill, and ſpend them worſe: Poſſunt hæc in quorſdam veraciter dici & noſtros & veſtros, qui ſi viriſq; noſtrum diſplicant, neq; noſtri, neq; veſtri ſunt: as Saint e Auguſtine told the Donatiſts. Inuey ſo long as you will, and ſo much as you can againſt pride, negligence, couetouſneſſe, but let euerie Aſſe beare his owne burden, and euery malefaſtor anſwer for his owne fault, Is any Prieſt a ruſſin in apparell? I am ſure the <sup>f</sup> Statutes appoint modeſt habits, and the thirtieth Iniunction requires execution of the ſame. Doth any Diuine frequent the Tauerne more then the Tabernacle? examine the <sup>g</sup> Canons of our Church, and Statutes of our Colledges, and you ſhall vnderſtand theſe (if there be any of theſe) to be the very ſcorne of the conformable clergie; Quia nec ordinem tenent, nec ab ordine tenentur, as <sup>b</sup> Bernard of Abelardus. Let God haue his honor, the Church her reuerence, the ſtate her commendations, euery one his due. Shoot not at randome, as blinde men at crowes, or like mad men ſtriking ſuch as are next you: but particulariſe the fault, as Chriſt in the text, inſinuating that this Epicure did get his goods wrongfully, keepe them baſely, ſpending alſo that he did ſpend riotouſly: with the laſt he begins firſt, ſhewing the rich mans exceſſe in gorgeouſ attire, being clotked in purple for <sup>i</sup> oſtentation, in ſine linnen for delectation.

<sup>k</sup> Dauid acknowledging Gods exceeding great bounty toward mankind; ſheweth that he doth not only provide things neceſſarie for vs, as meat and drinke, but alſo things to reioyce and comfort vs, as wine to glad the heart, and oyle to make the face to ſhine. God then hath allowed vs apparell, not only for neceſſitie, but alſo for <sup>l</sup> honeſt comelineſſe; as in herbs we haue not only the neceſſarie vſe, but the pleaſant ſmell, and the faire ſight to refresh vs. It is lawfull to weare ſumpruous habits according to the cuſtomes of our countrie, and honour of our place in which we liue: but in attiring (our ſelues we muſt obſerue <sup>m</sup> foure rules eſpecially,

That our garments be not too } Coſtly.
Curious.
Stately.
Many.

We muſt not make prouiſion to<sup>n</sup> nourish the luſt of our fleſh, as the Poets haue ſained Venus to commit adulterie in chaines; <sup>o</sup> hereby ſignifying that ornaments and chaines aboue our calling, are enticements vnto ſinne: Prou. 7. I haue deckt my bed (ſaith the harlot) with ornaments, carpets, and laces of Egypt, I haue perfumed it with myrre, aloes, and cinamon: he muſt not weare ſilke that is not able to buy cloth.

Secondly, we muſt not be too curious in our apparell, either for the faſhion or for the wearing of it: Engliſhmen are ſo new fangled in their attire, that whereas we giue other nations the foile, yet they giue vs the faſhion: euery thing that is farre fetcht and deare bought is fit for our gallants.

Omnis Ariſtippum decuit color, & ſtatus, & res.

It is <sup>q</sup> well obſerued, that Art Cosmetique hath parts ciuill and effeminate cleanneſſe of body was cuer eſteemed to proceed from a due reuerence to God:

our,

<sup>b</sup> Auguſtin. in Pſalm. 51.

<sup>c</sup> Tom 6.p. 141.

<sup>d</sup> Melancthor. poſſil. in loc.
<sup>e</sup> Lib. contr. iii. Petilian. cap. 57.

<sup>f</sup> See Poultons Abstract. tit. Apparell, & Canon. 74
<sup>g</sup> Can. 75. & Iniunction. 7. Elizabeth.
<sup>h</sup> Epist. 193.

<sup>i</sup> Gorran.

<sup>k</sup> Pſal. 10. 4.

<sup>l</sup> Eraſm. Colloq. Franciſcan.

<sup>m</sup> Church hom againſt exceſſe of apparell. Idem Ludolph de vita Chriſti. part. 2. cap. 16.

<sup>n</sup> Rom. 13. 14.
<sup>o</sup> Clem. Alexand. Pedag. lib. 2 cap 12.
<sup>p</sup> Deering. lect. 2 Hebr.

<sup>q</sup> Aduancement of learning, 2 pag. 44

our selues and societie; but artificall decoration is neither fine enough to deceiue nor handsome to vse, nor wholesome to please. The Lord by the mouth of his holy Prophet <sup>r</sup> Esay complained of the Dames of Sion, because they did walke with stretched out necks, and with wandring eyes, mincing as they went, and making a tinkling with their feete. Chrysofome layd of certaine women in his time, that they were propter venustatem inuenuiste: <sup>f</sup> mulier enim rectè olet ubi nihil olet, or as <sup>r</sup> S. Hierome, Non bene olet, que bene semper olet. Our women are so pointed and painted, that whereas heretofore there were two faces vnder one hood, now there is one face vnder two hoods.

And as most women, so some men are blotted worthily for their vanities in this kinde; as popish D. Parry, when he was executed for treason, anno 84<sup>u</sup> desired the hangman when he put the rope about his necke, that he would not disorder or marre his ruffe. It is reported of Monsieur Biroom, * lately executed in France, that he would not suffer the deaths-man to touch his haire, but intreated a Gentleman of his acquaintance to performe that kinde office vnto him, as to compose his locks in such order, that the hangman might not cut off one haire. So Seneca writes of some who spend many a good houre betweene the combe and the glasse: but <sup>v</sup> S. Paul exhorteth vs to vie the world, as if we vsed it not; for such as are much occupied in caring for things pertaining to the body, most commonly be negligent in matters appertaining to the soule. Let vs not therefore be too carefull and curious <sup>z</sup> what we shall eate, or what we shall drinke, or wherewith we shall be clothed, but rather seeke the kingdome of God and his righteousnesse and all these things shall be giuen abundantly. See Thomas 2. 2<sup>a</sup>. quest. 169. art. 1. 2 & Caictan, ibidem.

Thirdly, we must in our apparell consider our vocation and qualitie, for God is a God of order, appointing every man his degree, within the limits whereof he must keepe himselfe. <sup>a</sup> Soft clothings are for such as are in the Kings Court, Camels haire for Iohn Baptist in the wilderness: It would make a man laugh, or rather indeed weepe, saith <sup>b</sup> Hierome, to see the maid finer then the mistresse: it is vnlawfull to breake the laudible customes of the Common-weale wherein we liue. <sup>c</sup> Que contra mores hominum sunt flagicia pro morum diuersitate vitanda sunt <sup>d</sup> We must therefore weare such robes as our fashion and place require, Clericall habits are for Priests, and Court-like for Princes.

Lastly, we must not haue too many garments, either on our backs or in our presse. Not on our backs: it is truly sayd, that pride is neuer too cold or too hot; cloth a woman in winter only with fine filkes, and shee will not complaine of cold, adorne her in summer with heany chaines, and borders and iewels, and shee will neuer complaine of heat. <sup>e</sup> Habent & gemma pondera sua, habent & vestimenta frigora sua, sudatur in gemmis; algetur in sericis, tamen precia iuuant & que natura auersatur, commendat auaritia. <sup>f</sup> Plautus would neuer haue wondered why daintie dames are so long in trimming themselues, if he had considered what a shop of vanities vsually they weare and beare about them.

<sup>g</sup> *Decipiunt cultu gemmis, auroq; teguntur
Omnia, pars minima est ipsa puella sui.*

Again, we must not haue too much apparrell in our presse: <sup>h</sup> Go to now yee rich men, weepe, and howle, for your miseries shall come upon you, your riches are corrupt and your garments are moth-eaten. It is a fearefull thing to consider how the proud Epicure <sup>i</sup> clothes his walls with rich hangings, and stuffes his chest with so many sutes, as he cannot tell how many, while Christ in his poore naked members is ready to starue for cold. O most vnfortunate caitiffe, which hast a mine, but wastest a minde to doe good.

And fared deliciously every day. <sup>k</sup> Epulabatur, noting his intemperate voracitie, splendidè, noting his delicate luxurie, quotidiè, noting his wastfull prodigalitie: he might haue fared well and feasted semetime, <sup>l</sup> but it was his fault in his bankets to be so dainty and daily, ginen ouer to <sup>m</sup> security, and <sup>n</sup> sensuality, making his belly his <sup>o</sup> god; saying with the greedy dogs in <sup>p</sup> Esay, Come, I will bring

<sup>r</sup> Cap. 3. 16.

<sup>f</sup> Plautus in Mosell. act. 1. scen. 3.

<sup>e</sup> Epist. ad Demetriadem, Tom 1. fol. 70.

<sup>a</sup> Iesuit. Cat. lib. 3. cap. 3.

* Executed at Paris, an 1602

<sup>v</sup> 1 Cor. 7. 31:

<sup>z</sup> Matt. 6. 25. 33

<sup>a</sup> Matth. 11. 8.

<sup>b</sup> Epist. ad Demetriadem, digna res in ima planctu: domina ancilla virgo procedit ornatior.

<sup>c</sup> Augustin. Confess. lib. 3. cap. 8.

<sup>d</sup> Thomas 2. 2<sup>a</sup>. quest. 169. art. 1

<sup>e</sup> Ambros. lib. de Naboth. cap. 5.

<sup>f</sup> In Penulo.

<sup>g</sup> In Ouid.

<sup>h</sup> James 5. 1.

<sup>i</sup> Ambros. de Naboth. cap. 13.

<sup>k</sup> Gorran.

<sup>l</sup> Theophylact.

<sup>m</sup> Melancthon.

<sup>n</sup> Caictan.

<sup>o</sup> Philip. 3. 19.

<sup>p</sup> Esay. 56. 12.

bring wine, and we will fill our selues with strong drinke, and to morrow shall be as this day and much more abundant: as he was Cassius in his purse, so Cassius in his pots. Dives quasi diu vescens. Isidor. etymolog. lib. 10.

There was a certaine begger named Lazarus. In<sup>a</sup> Hebrew Lazarus is as much as adiutus à Domino: for when all men had forsaken him in his trouble, the Lord was his present helpe. Or as<sup>r</sup> other, in adiutorium, as expecting helpe not of any mortall man, but of the Liuing God. Azarus is adiutus, but Lazarus in or ad adiutorium, quòd nulla re mūdana fretus ad solum Dei respiceret adiutorium. Hence we may learne in our affliction to<sup>f</sup> cast all our care on God, for he careth for vs. O cast thy burden vpon the Lord and he shall nourish thee, Psal. 55. 23.

Which lay at his gate full of sores, desired to be refreshed with the crummes which he sold from the rich mans board, and no man gaue him; the dogs also came and licked his sores. Euery word doth amplifie the woes of Lazarus, and the wretchednesse of Dives. The begger was so feeble<sup>r</sup> that he could neither walke, nor stand, nor sit, but lie, at his gate; which evidently demonstrates as well the poore mans patience, as the rich mans inhumanity: the poore mans patience, who did neither<sup>u</sup> blaspheme God, nor<sup>x</sup> murmur against his neighbour, although he could not be satisfied in that place where other surfeted: and it leaueth the rich man inexcusable, y for he could not say that he neuer heard nor saw Lazarus, he was laid at his owne gate full of sores, <sup>z</sup> Et tot ora clamantia quot vulnera, so many sores, so many sighes; and so many sighes so many suits: he could not as hee went out and in his house, but heare so many mouthes, and see so many wounds Desiring to be refreshed with the crummes which fell from the rich mans board. He did not desire<sup>a</sup> sanari, sed saturari, not to be thoroughly restored vnto perfe<sup>t</sup> ease by the rich mans expence, but only to be refreshed in his sicknesse; and how? with crummes, and with such crummes as fell from the rich mans table. Dives, O Dives what doest thou meane, will not thou giue a crumme; to gaine a crowne Fac damna lucrum, as<sup>b</sup> Chrysostome sweetly: crummes which fall from thy board are lost, and yet if thou wilt giue these lost crummes vnto the poore which lieth at thy gate, thou shalt not<sup>c</sup> lacke: for he that giueth vnto the needie, <sup>d</sup> lendeth vnto the Lord, who will reward abundantly.

And no man gaue vnto him. The best Expositors obserue generally, that this clause crept out of the margine into the text, for it is not in any<sup>e</sup> Greeke<sup>f</sup> nor in other ancient copies: and therefore the Church of England hath done well to print it in s different letters, as discerning it from originall Scripture; the<sup>h</sup> meaning of it is, like master like man. Vnhappy<sup>i</sup> Saul conquered in battell, tooke a sword and fell vpon it, and when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he likewise fell vpon his sword and died with him: if the good man of the house be liberall, the rest of the familie for the most part will not be niggardly: bnt if the master grudge a crust, the seruant dare not giue a crumme.

This sheweth also that the Glutton is tormented in hell, <sup>k</sup> not for that he did hurt, but for that he did not helpe Lazarus: he was rich indeed, but of his owne; clothed in purple, but of his owne; faring deliciously, but he did eate his owne. This was his fault, and in conclusion his fall, that he refreshed not hungry Lazarus at his gate with a few fragments of his table: <sup>l</sup> Non quod abstulerit aliena, sed quod non donarit sua.<sup>m</sup> What hell then, and how many torments are provided for oppressing Dives, who taketh from Lazarus, if this Epicure be so tortured in endless flame for not giuing to Lazarus? Whatsoener I sayd in the beginning of this Gospells exposition concerning his sinnes of commission, I desire you to construe it as spoken coniecturally, not categorically.

And it fortuneth that the begger died, and was carried by the Angels into Abrahams bosome. You heare what these two were in their life, now you shall heare what they were in and after their death. Lazarus was comforted in Paradise, Dives tormented in hell: in the one, paine was turned into pleasure; in the other, pleasure into paine: both died alike, for<sup>n</sup> it is appointed that all men shall once die: but their comfort in dying, and iudgement after death is not alike. The rich

<sup>a</sup> Greg in Euāg. hom 40. Erasmus annot. in locum. Chrysostom. Augustine.

<sup>c</sup> Iansen concord cap 97. Vide Fuller. miscellan. ser. lib. 1. cap. 10. <sup>f</sup> 1 Pet. 5. 7.

<sup>e</sup> Caictan & Pontan. in loc.

<sup>h</sup> Theophylact. <sup>x</sup> Euthymius. <sup>y</sup> Chrysostome. <sup>z</sup> Pontan.

<sup>a</sup> Idem Pontan.

<sup>b</sup> Hom. in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Prou. 28. 27. <sup>d</sup> Prou. 19. 17.

<sup>e</sup> Erasmus annot in loc.

<sup>f</sup> Iansen. concord cap. 97.

<sup>g</sup> Bib. K. Henry the eight.

<sup>h</sup> Dietz. feria. 5. post Dom. 2. in quadrages. Idem Chrysost.

<sup>i</sup> 1 Sam. 31.

<sup>k</sup> August. hom. 7 inter. hom. 50

<sup>l</sup> Chrysostome.

<sup>m</sup> Gregor. hom. 40. in Euang.

<sup>n</sup> Hebr. 9. 27.

° Theophylact. in
Luc. 12.

The rich man died, and his soule was ° against his will fetched away, Luke 12. 20 but Lazarus died, and his soule was yeilded vp into the hands of his Redemer. cheerefully. Dives was snatched away by foule Fiends into hell, Lazarus carried away by good Angels into heauen :

His happinesse then is in respect of his } Porters. carried by Angels.
} Port. Abrahams bosome.

° Hebr. 1. 14.

He that in this life was scorned of men, and had no companions but dogs, is now so regarded of God, as that Angels are his P seruants: he that could neither goe, nor sit, nor stand, is now carried, not on the shoulders of men, as the Pope the proudest in earth: but he rides on the wings of Angels, in the plurall, for many good Angels attend one good man, to make the quiet full and the ioy perfect.

° Chrysostone.

But whither did they carry him? out of this worlds tumult and troubles, into the port and haue of happinesse: here called Abrahams bosome, a metaphor taken from ° Saylers, who carrie their ships out of the tempestuous waues into the good harbour or quiet bosome of the sea, where they may repose themselves: And it is called Abrahams bosome, for that he was the ° Father of all them that beleue. Such then as before Christ departed in the faith of Abraham, were carried into the bosome of Abraham, that is, translated into the blessed estate wherein Abraham was. ° Abraha sinum intellige remotam sedem quietis atq; secretam, ubi est Abraham. This could be no popish Limbus, or part of ° hell it was an heauen assuredly, that is, an happie state wherein Abraham and all other departed in Abrahams faith enjoyed the presence of God: an heauen, howsoeuer it be not necessarie to determine peremptorily that it was the heauen, so called properly; because the ° way into the holiest of all was not yet opened, while the first Tabernacle was yet standing. See the notes of the Geneua Bible in English, Hebr. 9. 8. and 12. Caluin Institut. lib. 3. cap. 20. §. 20. & eiusdem lib. cap. 25. sect. 6. Bullinger in 1 Pet. cap 3. vers. 19. Luc. 16. 23, Hebr. 9. 8. Peter Martyr, 2. Regum 2. 8. 11.

° Arborena in loc Idem Pet.
Martyr in 2.
Reg. 2.

° Romi. 4. 11.

° Augustin. de anima & eius origin. lib. 4.
cap. 16.

° August. Epist.
99. & lib. 12.
de Genesi. ad li-
terā. cap. 33. 34.
° Hebr. 9. 8.

° Pontan.

The rich man also died] Christ speaking of their estate in this life, ° began with the rich, and ended with the poore; but shewing their estate in the world to come, first he speakes of the poore, then of the rich. It is worth obseruing also that the poore man who liued in miserie died first, and the rich Epicure wallowing in pleasure last, ° intimating that God doth hasten to shew mercie, but is slow in proceeding to iudgement.

° Iansen.

° Caietan.

And was buried] There was nothing sayd of the poore mans buriall; but about the rich mans funerall vsually there is great ° pompe, and much noise: for albeit he were so blacke as the blacke horse mentioned Apoc. 6. that nothing were in him but darkenesse and shadow, ° yet he shall finde a blacke prophet, with a blacke mouth, and a headlong tongue, for a blacke Gowne, to make him as white as the white wooll, or as white as the white snow: and if a false tongue may color him more then that, it is set to sale and may be bought easily. For although he was buried in hell, as being the deuills ° parishioner all his life, yet his heires haply for a little money got some priest to commend, and canonize him for a Saint when he was dead.

° Mr. Dearing
Lect. 19. Hebr

° Ludolphus.

And being in hell torments he lift up his eyes } Large, } Long, } High, } Deepe.
A fearefull description of hell, ° which is ° Bellarmin.

Cat. cap. vli.

Large, containing all kinde of paines, as well sensus, as damni: for this Epicure was deprived of all comfort, which he desired either for himselfe or his friends: and endured all sorts of torment which he would not: his sight being afflicted with vncomfortable darkenesse, and vgly Deuills, his hearing with hideous and horrible cries, his smelling with noysome stincks, his taste with rauinous hunger and bitternesse of gall, his feeling with intolerable fire.

Cicero writes, that there be eight kinds of punishment according to the Ciuill law: Loffe, Bonds, Ignominie, Talio, Stripes, Exile, Seruitude, Death. <sup>c</sup> All which are found in hell: as first, the reprobate lose God, and all that is good, as well in hap as in hope. Secondly, they be bound hand and foot in that darke dungeon, Matth. 22. 23. Thirdly, they suffer ignominie, seeing all their wickednesse in thought, word, deed, and the punishment inflicted on them for all this wickednesse, is knowne vnto men, Angels, Saints, deuills, vnto their best friends, and worst enemies. I will bring an euerlasting reproch vpon you, and a perpetuall shame which shall neuer be forgotten, Ierem. 23. 40. Fourthly they make satisfaction and recompence so farre as they can: <sup>f</sup> Reward her euen as shee hath rewarded you, giue her double according to her workes: in as much as she glorified her selfe, and liued in pleasure, so much giue yee to her torment and sorrow. So Father Abraham in the text, Sonne, remember that thou in thy lifetime receiuedst thy pleasure, and Lazarus on the contrarie receiued paine, but now he is comforted, and thou punished. Fifthly, <sup>g</sup> Iudgements are prepared for the scornors, and stripes for the backe of the fooles. Sixthly, the reprobate shall be shut <sup>h</sup> out of Gods kingdome, and <sup>i</sup> cast as exiles out of his ptesence into vtter darkenesse. Seuenthly, the reprobate are the <sup>k</sup> sonnes of inuene, and made tributarie to Satan, ener p<sup>r</sup>aying, and yet neuer satisfying their debt. Eightly, they suffer the <sup>l</sup> second death, a death after death, a death and yet euerlasting; for as hell is large, so long: betweene vs and you, saith Abraham in Paradise, to Diuces in hell, there is a great space set, so that they which would goe from hence to you, cannot, neither may they come from thence to vs. Infornate Diuces in hell flames is euer dying, and yet neuer dead.

O immortall death, O deadly life, what shall I terme thee? for if thou beest life, wherefore doest thou kill? if death, how doest thou still endure? there is neither life, nor death, but hath some good in it: for in life there is some ease, and in death an end, but in thee neither ease nor end. <sup>m</sup> Prima mors animam dolentem pellit de corpore, secunda mors animam nolentem tenet in corpore. The damned shall <sup>n</sup> seeke death and shall not finde it, for <sup>o</sup> their worme shall not die, neither shall their fire be quenched. <sup>p</sup> Vermis conscientiam corrodet, ignis carnem comburet, quia & corde & corpore deliquerunt. And therefore such as hold with Origen, that the deuill and his angels one day shall be released from their tortures, and that the words of Christ, <sup>q</sup> Depart from me yee cursed into euerlasting fire, were spoken minaciter potius quam veraciter, are confuted by the Scripture, placuisse atque plenissime, saith <sup>r</sup> Augustine.

Hell is high also, for the torments of it are most bitter in the highest degree without intermission, abatement, or change; without which, all things not only painfull, but euen pleasant (as it appeared by the Manna) become insupportable <sup>s</sup> We can see nothing but this Man, our soule loatheth this light bread.

Lastly, botomlesse hell is deepe, for that hellish paines are absolute without any mixture of comfort: Diuces cannot get one drop of cold water to coole the tip of his tongue, tormented in the flame.

Desiderauit guttam, qui non dedit micam, he that denied a crum of bread in his life, was denied a drop of water in hell: alas, what are ten thousand riuers, or the whole sea of water, vnto that infinite world of fire? yet Diuces, vnhappy Diuces, who wasted in his time so many tunnes of wine, cannot now procure water enough, a pot of water, an handfull of water, a drop of water to coole the tip of his scorched tongue: as he did offend in all the powers of his minde, and in all the parts of his body; so was he doubtlesse tormented in all them vniuersally, yet most in his tongue, because he did sinne most in his taste: for God punisheth in <sup>u</sup> proportion, inflicting a paine for sinne, correspondent to the pleasure in sinne. Because Pharaoh drowned the men children of the Hebrewes in a riuer, Exod. 1. 22. himselfe and his host were ouerwhelmed in a sea, Exod. 14. 28. Because the tyrannous Egyptians compelled the children of Israel extraordinarily to labour and sweate in <sup>x</sup> making bricks, by which haply lice were bred in their bodie; Almighty God in his iust iudgement afflicted this persecuting people with such <sup>y</sup> lice that no <sup>z</sup> medicine could destroy them. <sup>a</sup> Adonibezek hauing

<sup>e</sup> 10 Combis compend. Theolog. lib 7. ca. 22. & Carthusian de quatuor Nouiss. part 3. art. 6.

<sup>c</sup> Apoc. 18. 6.7

<sup>g</sup> Prou. 19. 29.

<sup>h</sup> Mat. 25. 10

<sup>i</sup> Mat. 22. 13.

<sup>k</sup> Iohn 8. 34.

<sup>l</sup> Apocal. 21. 8

<sup>m</sup> Augustin de Cinit. Dei lib. 21 cap. 3.

<sup>n</sup> Apocal. 9. 6

<sup>o</sup> Esay. 66. 24.

<sup>p</sup> Augustin de Spiritu & anima, cap. 56.

<sup>q</sup> Mat. 25. 41.

<sup>r</sup> De Cinit. Dei, lib. 21. cap. 24.

<sup>s</sup> Num. 11. 6. & 21. 5.

<sup>t</sup> August. hom 7

<sup>u</sup> Carthusian. de 4 nouissimis, part 3. art. 3.

<sup>x</sup> Exod. 5.

<sup>y</sup> Exod. 10. 17

<sup>z</sup> Iosephus antiquit lib 2 cap. 5

<sup>a</sup> Indges 1. 6,7

Cut of the thumbe of seuentie Kings, and making them all gather bread vnder his table, was at the last ouercome by Iudah, who cut of the thumbs of his hands and of his feet: As I haue done (quoth Adonibezek) so God hath rewarded me. Because proud <sup>b</sup> Baiazet in his insolent crueltie, vowed if he should ouercome Tamberlaine, that he would imprison him in a cage of iron, and so haue carried him vp and downe the world in triumph; Tamberlaine conquering in a mortall battell this insulting tyrant, shackled him in fetters and chaines of gold, and shut him vp in an open iron grate, that he might on euery side be seene, and so carted him vp and downe as he passed through Asia, to be derided and scorned of his owne people. Let the drunkard then, and Epicure, who turne so much good liquor, and so much delicates ouer their tongue wantonly, wastfully, tremble at this fearefull example.

<sup>c</sup> Gregory the Great obserues vpon this place, that Diues was most tormented in his tongue; for that he did prattle much of religion, and practise little: Verba legis in ore tenuit, qua opere seruare contempsit: <sup>d</sup> he drew neere to God with his lips, but his heart was farre from him. O that the <sup>e</sup> table-gospellers of our time, who place deuotion in the ty of their tongue, not in the roote of their heart, would aright consider this terrible iudgement, <sup>f</sup> Homines ignaua opera, & philosopha sententia, virtutem qui verba putant, ut lucum ligna.

We desire God daily, that his will may be done in earth as it is in heauen: and what is that (as <sup>h</sup> Budens wittily) but that our body which is earthly, should agree with our soule which is heauenly? that our mouth and our minde, our outward and our inward man should accord in seruing God. Otherwise, <sup>i</sup> hell is the portion of hypocrites, where they shall be most afflicted in their tongue, for that they most offended in their talke.

It is full of horror to reade, much more to write (saith <sup>k</sup> Augustine) the lamentable destruction of Saguntus. How terrible then is it to report the storie of hell and if we tremble and shake <sup>l</sup> at the naming and hearing of these paines; oh what shall they doe that shall feele them, that shall suffer them, and euer endure them world without end! I conclude with <sup>m</sup> Virgil:

Non mihi si centum lingue sint, oraq; centum, Ferrea vox, omnes scelerum comprehendere formas, Omnia pœnarum percurrere nomina possim.

Thinke on this againe and againe yee rich lay-men, and suffer not the members of Christ to perish at your gate, while ye surfet at your table: thinke on this all yee learned <sup>n</sup> Clergie men, and suffer not any Christian people committed to your charge, which hunger and thirst after righteousnesse, at the Temple doore to starue for spirituall food. Almighty God hath endued you with abundant knowledge, and all varietie of vsfull Art; so that if you will endenour to doe good, you may feede, yea fill them euen with the crums that fall from your table Panis uerbum est, & uerbi fides est, & mica dogmata fidei, saith <sup>o</sup> Ambrose. If thou powre out thy soule to the hungry, and refresh the troubled soule, then shall thy light spring out in the darkenesse, and thy darknesse shall be as the noone day, and the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfie thy soule in drought, and make fat thy bones, and thou shalt be like a watred garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters faile not. <sup>p</sup> Blessed are the mercifull, for they shall obtaine mercy; but there shall be iudgement mercilesse to him that sheweth no mercy.

They haue Moses and the Prophets, let them heare them.] Vngodly men hauing too little faith, and too much curiositie, will not beleene that there is an heauen, or an hell, except one come vnto them from the dead. Christ therefore teacheth in the person of Abraham, that the Scriptures ought to be a lanterne to our secte, the which are not farre off, that we should say, <sup>q</sup> who shall goe vp for vs to heauen, and bring it vs? neither is it beyond the sea, that thou shouldst say, who shall goe ouer the sea for vs? and cause vs to heare it, that we may doe it? but the word is very neere to thee, euen in thy mouth and in thine heart. Moses and the Prophets are read daily, let vs heare them instructing vs sufficiently concerning heauen and hell, and

<sup>b</sup> Knolls in the life of Baiazet the 4.

<sup>c</sup> In Euangel. hom. 40.

<sup>d</sup> Matth. 15. 8.

<sup>e</sup> Mr. Foxe in the martyr. of R. Glouer.

<sup>f</sup> Pacuius apud Aul. Gellium, lib 13, cap. 8.

<sup>h</sup> In lib. 5. de Affe.

<sup>i</sup> Matth. 24. 51

<sup>k</sup> De ciuitate Dei, lib. 3. cap. 10

<sup>l</sup> Church hom. against adulterie, part 3.

<sup>m</sup> Æneid. 6.

<sup>n</sup> Melancthon. postil. in loc.

<sup>o</sup> Lib. 8. in Luc. cap. de diuit. in duto purpura.

<sup>p</sup> Esay 58. 10. 11

<sup>q</sup> Matth. 5. 7.

<sup>r</sup> James 2. 13.

<sup>s</sup> Deut. 30. 12
13. 14.

and all other points appertaining necessarily to saluation. The Law doth intimate how we must liue, the Prophets how we must beleue: by these two we may learne to shun the torments of hell, and obtaine the ioyes of heauen: if we will not heare Moses and the Prophets, assuredly neither will we beleene, though one arose from death againe. For Christ raised another Lazarus from the dead, and yet the pharises continued in vbeleeue.

By this one sentence foure Popish assertions are confuted: as first, their denying the Bible to lay Lazarus in a vulgar tongue, by which he may know the way the truth, and the life. Secondly their topinion concerning the Scriptures insufficiencie: for if the Prophets and the Law were sufficient to warn and instruct the brethren of Dives, how much more shall Moses and the Prophets and Gospell too, make the man of God absolute and perfect unto all good workes? Thirdly, their inuocation of Saints departed. And lastly, their obambulation of spirits and apparitions of dead men, reporting the miseries of Purgatorie, Let none be found among you that asketh counsell at the dead, for all that doe such things are abomination vnto the Lord. To the Law, to the Testimonie: if they speake not according to this word it is because there is no light in them. If a Saint should arise from death againe, ye would not beleue him: if an Angell from heauen should preach another Gospell, ye may not beleue him: it is sufficient if you search the Scriptures, hearing Moses and the Prophets, for in them ye shall finde eternall life.

Domine Iesu, sint casta delitie mea, Scriptura tua, ne fallar in eis, nec fallam ex eis.

The Epistle. I. EPIST. IOHN 3. 13.

Maruell not my deare brethren though the world hate you, &c.

First, exhorting vs to loue by two reasons, <sup>a</sup> Bono diligentium, We know that we are translated from death vnto life, because we loue the brethren. <sup>b</sup> Malo non diligentium, He that loueth not his brother, abideth in death, vers. 14. 15.

The making Disciple being euer like himselfe, profecuteth in this text his accustomed argument of charitie:

Effectually, let vs not loue in word, neither in tongue, but in deed and in veritie, ver. 18 and these two points are enforced by a thre-fold argument:

Secondly, shewing how wee must loue, to wit,

1. From Christs example; who gaue his life for vs, v. 16. 2 From Gods expresse commandement, for it is his commandement that we loue one another, verse 23.

Peace of conscience: hereby we may know that we are of the veritie and can quiet our hearts, verse 19. 20. 21.

3. From the fruits of loue which are Assurance that God heareth our prayers: whatsoeuer we aske we receiue of him, vers. 27. Ioy in the Holy Ghost: hereby wee know that hee abideth in vs, vers. 24.

<sup>c</sup> Pontaz.
<sup>d</sup> Iohn 11. 44.
<sup>e</sup> Chrysost. hom. 3. de Lazaro, & in Math. hom. 2
<sup>f</sup> Marlorat in locum.
<sup>g</sup> 2 Tim. 3. 17
<sup>h</sup> Melancthon. postil. in loc.
<sup>i</sup> Chrysost. hom 3. de Lazaro
<sup>k</sup> Lutber postil. maior Dom. 2
<sup>l</sup> post Trin & Caluin. apud Marlorat in loc.
<sup>m</sup> Deut 18. 11.
<sup>n</sup> Esay 8. 20
<sup>o</sup> Galath 1, 8
<sup>p</sup> Iohn 5 38.
<sup>q</sup> August. Confess lib. 11. cap 2.

<sup>r</sup> Totus Amatiunus, vii Ecc. trad. in Euang. Dom 2 post Pentecost.
<sup>s</sup> Aquin. in loc

<sup>t</sup> Beza in loc.

<sup>k</sup> Genes. 4. 8.
<sup>l</sup> Genes. 27. 41
<sup>m</sup> Genes. 21. 9.
<sup>n</sup> 1 Pct. 4. 13.

<sup>o</sup> Horat. lib. 1.
 epist. 19.
<sup>p</sup> 2 Cor. 6. 14.
<sup>q</sup> Esay 9. 21.

<sup>r</sup> Iohn 16. 8.

<sup>t</sup> Tertul. in Andrea all. 1.
 Icon 1.
<sup>u</sup> Galath 4. 16
<sup>v</sup> Apud Lorin in locum.
<sup>w</sup> Aquin in loc.

<sup>y</sup> James 4. 4
<sup>z</sup> Galath. 1. 10.

<sup>a</sup> Cyril. in verba Christi,
 Iohn 5. 24.
<sup>b</sup> Tract. 22. in Euang. Iohn
<sup>c</sup> Aquin in loc.
 Herein according with the Latine rather than the Greeke <sup>d</sup> Coloff. 1. 13.
<sup>e</sup> Bullinger apud Marlorat.
<sup>f</sup> Iohn 5. 24.
<sup>g</sup> Augustin. tract. 5. in epist. Iohn.
<sup>h</sup> Caluin.
<sup>i</sup> Sarcerius.
<sup>k</sup> 1 Epist. Iohn 4. 8.
<sup>l</sup> Galath. 5. 22
<sup>m</sup> Notat. in loc.
<sup>n</sup> Catalog. Iesuit. in vita Sa.
<sup>o</sup> Com in loc.

<sup>p</sup> Luke 7. 47.

Maruell not] It is neither new, nor rare that the louers of the world should hate the godly; not new, for it was so from the beginning, <sup>k</sup> Cain hated Abel, <sup>l</sup> Esau Iacob, <sup>m</sup> Ismael Isaack: not rare, but exceeding common at all times, in all places: and therefore thinke it not strange concerning the fierie triall which is among you, to proue you, as though some strange thing were come vnto you.

For first, contrarie dispositions of Saints and worldlings occasion (contentious oppositions.

<sup>o</sup> Oderunt hilarem tristes, tristemq, iocosi, Sedatum celeres, agilem gnaunmq, remissi,

<sup>p</sup> What fellowship hath righteousnesse with vnrighthousnesse, and what concord hath Christ with Belial, and what communion hath light with darkenesse? <sup>q</sup> Ephraim is against Manasses, and Manasses against Ephraim, and both against Iuda. Cain slew his brother, and wherefore slew he him? our Apostle telleth vs in the words immediatly before my text, because his owne workes were euill and his brothers good. Abel said, sacrum pingue dabo, macrum non sacrificabo: but Cain on the contrarie, sacrificabo macrum, non dabo pingue sacrum.

Secondly, the children of God by the Spirit of God, <sup>r</sup> reprove the world of sinne: hating the manners of the wicked, euen with a perfect hatred, Psal. 139. 21. Now seruitus odium parit: and am<sup>l</sup> I therefore become you enemy, saith <sup>s</sup> Paul because I tell you the truth? and Christ, Iohn 7. 7. The world cannot hate you, but it hateth me, because I testifie that the workes thereof are euill. And therefore be not astonished, (as <sup>t</sup> Tertullian and Fulgentius read) for it is a folly to feare that ye cannot flie; neither maruell, (as our Church and other Interpreters generally) for it is not a point of wisdom to wonder at that which is neither * magnum, nor nouum, nor rarium; it were a more strange wonder if the world should not hate you, seeing <sup>y</sup> the friendship of the world is enmity with God: and he that pleaseth men is not the seruant of Christ. I pray cease to maruell, not to loue; nay rather tie the bond of peace faster, and loue thy brethren so much the more, because the world hateth you.

We know that we are translated from death vnto life] By faith in Christ we know that we shall be translated from <sup>a</sup> corporall death vnto eternall life: or as <sup>b</sup> Augustine, that we are now translated from the death of sinne to the life of grace: for the iust doth liue by faith, Galat. 3. 11. euen that faith which worketh by loue Galat. 5. 6. S. Iohn doth not say, <sup>c</sup> transimus, sed translati sumus; he that is dead in sinne cannot raise himselfe, but it is God <sup>d</sup> who deliuered vs from the power of darkenesse, and hath translated vs into the kingdome of his deare Sonne: neither doth he say, transferemur, we shall in the future, but in the present we are translated, <sup>e</sup> intimating an vndoubted certaintie, that we <sup>f</sup> shall not come into condemnation, but passe from death vnto life: now we seeme to be dead, our life being hid with Christ in God, but when Christ which is our life shall appeare, then shall we also appeare with him in glory, Coloff. 3. 3. Viget enim gloria, sed adhuc in hyeme, viget radix, sed quasi aridi sunt rami, intus est medulla qua viget, intus sunt folia arborum intus fructus, sed astatem expectant.

Because we loue the brethren.] <sup>h</sup> This argument is not from the cause but from the effect. We are not translated from death vnto life, because we loue; but because we loue, it is a <sup>i</sup> signe that we are borne of God, <sup>k</sup> for God is loue, and the fruit of his Spirit is loue, ioy, peace, long-suffering, gentlenesse, &c. <sup>m</sup> Emmanuel Sa, who was a Iesuite, (as <sup>n</sup> Ribadeneira notes of him) In omni disciplinaru genere diligentissime versatus, accords with this exposition: it is an argument (saith he) that we be translated from death vnto life, because we loue the brethren. And <sup>o</sup> Lorinus another Iesuite more fully; Causalis particula causam continet non rei, sed cognitionis: For quoth he, we are not translated from death vnto life, because we loue: but by this action as an effect of grace, we know that wee liue the life of grace. S. Iohn here, doth reason as his master <sup>p</sup> else-where, Many sinnes are forgiven her, because shee loued much: her loue was not the cause of Gods loue, but on the contrarie, Gods loue the cause of her loue: for to whom a litle is forgiven, he doth loue a litle. Christs argument is from the effect to the cause, not from the cause cause to the effect: as <sup>a</sup> Irenaeus, <sup>r</sup> Hierome, <sup>t</sup> Gregorie the Great, and Cardinall <sup>c</sup> Tollet obserue, See Epistle Sunday after ascension in fine.

He that loveth not his brother abideth in death] An argument ab incommodo; from the discommoditie of not iouing, he that loveth not, is not <sup>u</sup> risen againe with Christ from death vnto newnesse of life: which our Apostle proues by this syllogisme: No man-slayer hath in him eternall life: whosoever hateth his brother is a man-slayer: Ergo, No man eating his brother hath eternall life. The Maior proposition is true, without shall be murderers, Apoc. 22. 15. The workes of the flesh are manifest, adulterie, fornication, vncleannesse wantonnesse, idolatric, witchcraft, hatred, debate, emulations, wrath, contentions, seditions, heresies, enuie, murders, &c. <sup>x</sup> They that doe such things shall not inherit the kingdome of God. And the proposition is vniuersall, No man slaier hath eternall life. Whether he destroy the life ciuill of his brother, as the backbiting slanderer; or the life spirituall, as the soule-slaying heretike: or the life naturall, as the cut-throat murderer. <sup>y</sup> Every man-slayer abideth in death, as well he that killeth himselve, as another: he that actually murdereth, and he that intentionally killeth; occidisti quem odisti, saith <sup>z</sup> Augustine; cuery man-slayer, as well he that taketh away from Lazarus, as he that giueth not vnto Lazarus in extremitie things necessarie for his sustenance: so the <sup>a</sup> Wiseman expressly, The bread of the needfull is the life of the poore, he that defraudeth him: hereof is a man of blood: Si non pauidisti (quoth Ambrose) occidisti: and <sup>b</sup> Seneca diuinely; Qui succurrere perituro potest & non succurrit, occidit: he that seeth his brother ready to starue for hunger, and doth not, if he can, fill him, is sayd to kill him. The Minor, or assumption is as true: for truth it selfe saith, <sup>c</sup> It was sayd vnto them in old time, thou shalt not kill, for whosoener killeth shall be culpable of iudgement: but I say vnto you, whosoener is angry with his brether vnadvisedly, shall be in danger of iudgement. See Gospell sixt Sunday after Trinitie.

Hereby perceiue we loize, because he gaue his life for vs, and we ought to giue our liues for the brethren] How Christ loued vs, and how we must in louing our brethren imitate his example, see Epistle 3. Sunday in Lent, and Epistle 2. Sunday after Easter. <sup>d</sup> When the people wondered at the bountifullnesse of Iohannes Eleemosynarius, he sayd vnto them, O my brethren, I haue not yet shed my blood for you, as my master commanded me. For in times of persecution, when our suffering may stand the brethren in better stead, than our flying; we must <sup>e</sup> neglect our temporall estate, for their eternall good: as the blessed Apostles, and holy martyrs in all ages. It is not enough (as that <sup>f</sup> valiant Champion in Gods cause stoutly) to professe the Gospell, ad ignem exclusiue, but we must (quoth he) sticke to God, ad ignem inclusiue: we must forget our felues, and as it were forget our soules in a fierie zeale, with <sup>g</sup> Moses and <sup>h</sup> Paul for our brethrens sake.

But who so hath this worlds good, and seeth his brother haue need, and shutteth vp his compassion from him; how dwelleth the loue of God in him] <sup>i</sup> Liberalitie consists in beneuolence and beneficence, for it is not sufficient to wish well, except we doe well: and againe not sufficient to doe well, except we wish well vnto our brethren, giuing <sup>k</sup> chcerefully, with open bowels and <sup>l</sup> enlarged hearts, euen with a <sup>m</sup> sympathy, feeling their infirmities, and being touched with their bonds, as if our felues were bound with them, Hebr. 13. 3. The <sup>n</sup> Arke was pitched as well within as without: if in almes we shall open our purse, but shut vp our browes and bowels, how dwelleth the loue of God in vs? A bounrifull man hath an open heart, so well as an open house. The <sup>o</sup> Latine translators vsually reade, clausit viscera sua, for the bowels are the seat of our affections: and therefore <sup>p</sup> Paul wil- leth vs to put on the bowels of mercies: insinuating (as Oecumenius vpon that place) that our affection must not be fraternall only, but parentall also: because we must be <sup>q</sup> mercifull, as our father in heauen is mercifull, and God is mercifull, <sup>r</sup> as a father who pittieeth his owne children: and children, as <sup>s</sup> S. Hierome speakes, are viscera parentum, euen the bowels of their parents. Hence then wee may learne, not only to forbear a brother that trespasseth against vs vnto seuentie times seuen times: but also when he shall haue need, to beare him in our

<sup>q</sup> Lib. 3 cap. 22
<sup>r</sup> Contra Iouinian lib. 2.
<sup>t</sup> Epist 22 lib. 6.
<sup>u</sup> In Luc. 7.
<sup>v</sup> Rem 6. 4.

<sup>x</sup> Galath. 5. 21

<sup>y</sup> Cardusian,
Aquin. Lorin

<sup>z</sup> Hem. 42.

<sup>a</sup> Ecclesiasticus
34. 22.

<sup>b</sup> Aquid Marlo- vat. in loc.

<sup>c</sup> Mat 5. 22. 22.

<sup>d</sup> Lorin. in loc.

<sup>e</sup> Aquin. Mar- lorat.

<sup>f</sup> D. Rowland, Taylor, martyr, in a letter to the reuerend
BB. Cranner, Ritley, Latimer
<sup>g</sup> Exod. 32. 32.

<sup>h</sup> Rom. 9. 3.

<sup>i</sup> Ambrosiossic.
lib. 1. cap. 30.

<sup>k</sup> 2 Cor. 9. 7.

<sup>l</sup> 2 Cor. 6. 11.
12. 13.

<sup>m</sup> 1 Cor 12. 26.

<sup>n</sup> Genes 6. 14.

<sup>o</sup> Fulgur. Vata- blu. Beza. Au- gustin vult 3. in
epist. 1000.

<sup>p</sup> Coloff. 3. 12.

<sup>q</sup> Luke 6. 36.

<sup>r</sup> Palm 107. 13.

<sup>s</sup> Com in epist
Paul. ad Philm.

<sup>c</sup> Lorin. in loc. ut omnes quodammodo parturiamus, in utero gestemus & tanquam viscera nostra diligamus
<sup>a</sup> Matth 23. 9.
<sup>x</sup> James 1. 17.
<sup>y</sup> Esay 9. 6.
<sup>z</sup> 1 Cor. 4. 15.
<sup>a</sup> 1 Pet 1. 23.
<sup>b</sup> Epistle to Philemon. vers. 10.
<sup>c</sup> Ibid. vers. 12
<sup>d</sup> Galath. 4. 19
<sup>e</sup> Lorin. in 1. Trasl. 5. in Epist. Ioan.
<sup>g</sup> Aquin. Ardens Pexa
<sup>h</sup> Caluin. & Caietan.
<sup>i</sup> 1am 2. 15, 16.

<sup>c</sup> bowels, and bofome, pitying him as our owne childe, which is flesh of our flesh, and bone of our bone.

My babes] All of vs haue but <sup>u</sup> one Father in heauen, the Father of <sup>x</sup> lights, and <sup>y</sup> eueralting life, of whom is named all the familie in heauen and earth, Ephes. 3. 13. Yet notwithstanding the Pastors are deputie parents, and spirituall Fathers in God, <sup>z</sup> begetting Children in Christ, <sup>a</sup> not of mertall seed, but of immortal by the word of God, able to make men perfect vnto all good werkes, 2. Tim. 3. 17. In this sense Paul called Onesimus his <sup>b</sup> owne sonne begotten in bonds and his owne <sup>c</sup> bowels, <sup>d</sup> of whom he did traueile in birth, vntill Christ was formed in him. Our Apostles diminitiuie, filioli, repeated eight times in this one Epistle, <sup>e</sup> doth argue more tender affection, because men naturally loue little children, which want helpe [most of all, best of all.

Let vs not loue in word, neither in tongue, but in deed and in veritie.] Saint Iohn would neuer haue vsed so many kinde words, as little children, dearly beloued, brethren, my babes, if it had bene vnlawfull to loue in word: his meaning is (as <sup>f</sup> Augustine and <sup>g</sup> other obserue) that we must not only loue in word and in tongue, but in deed and in truth: <sup>h</sup> opposing workes vnto words, and veritie to vanitie. Let vs not boast and say, but euidently demonstrate and shew that we loue. <sup>i</sup> For if a brother or a sister be naked, and destitute of daily food, and one of you say to them depart in peace, warme your selues, and fill your bellies, notwithstanding ye giue them not those things which are needfull to the bodie, what helpeth it? Idle complements are not implements: if we promise kindnesse in shew, but performe nothing in substance, we cannot quiet our hearts before God, nor haue trust that we shall receiue what soeuer we aske, nor assuredly know that he dwelleth in vs, and we in him. See Gospell fourth Sunday after Trinitie.

The Gospell, LUKE. 14. 16.

A certaine man ordained a great Supper, and bade many.

IN this Gospell three principall persons are remarkable: namely, the Feast-maker, in whom obserue	Mercie in his Justice, being angry, vers. 21. and in his anger protesting, that none of those which were bidden, and refused to come, should taste of his supper, vers. 24.	Preparatiō, ordaining a great supper Inuitation, } Many men. bidding } By many meanes.

Guests: either	Such as were called and would not come, as the	Proud, I haue bought a farme, vers 18 Couetous, I haue bought five yoke of oxen, vers. 19. Voluptuous, I haue married a wife, &amp; therefore cannot come, vers. 20.
	Such as were called and did come vpon a	Gentle perswasion, as the Poore, i. such as sin vpon negligence. Feeble, i. such as sin vpon infirmitie. Blinde, i. such as sin vpon ignorance, Halte, i. such as sin vpon knowledge, halting betwene God and Baal. Powerfull exhortation, as it were compelling them to come. vers. 23

This man, is God : called Man, for the capacite and comfort of men. In executing his severe iudgements he is as a Lion, and a Leopard : Hosea 13. 7 I will be vnto them as a very Lion and as a Leopard in the way of Assur. I will meet them as a Beare, that is robbed of her whelpes, and I will breake the Kall of their hearts. But in shewing his mercie like to man (as <sup>k</sup> Interpreters obserue : ) for a man if he be not transformed into an inhumane beast, hath compassionate bowels, and a soft heart : or if with <sup>l</sup> Augustine we construe this of Christ, he was a certaine man : homo verus, albeit not homo merus : and this supper is the <sup>m</sup> whole worke of our saluation, euen that heauenly banquet which Almighty God ordained before the foundations of the world, for his elect people, begun in his kingdome of grace, but accomplished in his kingdome of glory, when as we shall see him face to face. The riches of his abundant mercie then app. are both in his preparation, and inuitation. First, in his promise, his guests bring not any thing with them to furnish his feast : <sup>n</sup> He hath killed his fatlings, drawne his wine, prepared his Table. He that is all in all, hath himselfe provided all, and enioyneth his seruants to tell this vnto all ; Come, for all things are now ready. Paradise was made before man was created, a great supper ordained, the guests as yet not inuited. Here then is no place for <sup>o</sup> merit, we cannot bring one dish vnto the Lords table, not one daintie to this heauenly banquet, nay we cannot bring so much as a little sauce to quicken our appetite, not one good <sup>p</sup> thought to stir vs vp vnto a good worke, but all our <sup>q</sup> sufficiencie is of God ; electing alone creating alone, redeeming alone, glorifying alone. The preparation and participation of all this great supper is, <sup>r</sup> gratia sine merito, charitas sine modo : grace beyond merit, lone beyond measure.

This feast is commended here by a double name : 1. Because a supper. 2. Because a great supper.

There be foure kinds of } Sinners suppers, as <sup>t</sup> one wittily, the } Deuills } Good mans } Supper.
 } Lords }

The sinner maketh a supper vnto the deuill, when in gaining the world, <sup>u</sup> he loseth his owne soule : faenus pecunia, funus anima: for as there is <sup>x</sup> ioy in heauen when a sinner is found, which once was lost : so there is as were a feast in hell, when a sinner is vtterly lost, which once was likely to be found.

Secondly, the deuill Prepareth a blacke banquet for sinners in hell, where there shall be but these two dishes only, <sup>y</sup> weeping and gnashing of teeth. At other feasts (as it is in the prouerbe) the more the merrier, but at this sorrie supper the more people, the greater miserie : fathers howling for their children, wiues for their husbands, euery friend and fellow lamenting each other.

Thirdly, the good man prouideth a supper vnto God himselfe, when as he doth open the doore of his heart, and suffer the words of exhortation and doctrine to come in : Behold <sup>z</sup> (saith Christ) I stand at the doore, and knocke, if any man heare my voice, and open the door, I will come in vnto him, and will sup with him and be with me. <sup>a</sup> I will here sit with him at the feast of his cheereful conscience while he liueth : and hereafter he shall be filled with the great supper of my glorie, when he is dead. For God ordaineth a feast also for his elect, begun in this life, which is <sup>b</sup> ioying in the holy Ghost, and <sup>c</sup> feasting in our conscience : continued in the next, when as we shall haue perfect consummation and blisse both in bodie and soule.

If we construe this of the <sup>d</sup> preaching of the Gospell, of the feast of grace by Christ, it may well be tearmed a <sup>e</sup> supper : because Christ was manifested in the last <sup>f</sup> daies, in the worlds euening, as the Paschall Lambe was offered about the going downe of the Sunne, Deut. 16. 6. But if we take this (as <sup>g</sup> Gregorie the great and <sup>h</sup> Hilarie) for the cheere which heauen affords, it may most fitly be called a supper: for the pronulgation of the law was as it were a breakfast in the beginning of the day: the first preaching of the Gospel a dinner in the noone of the Church :

<sup>k</sup> Chrysostom.
 Theophylact.
 Eulymius in
 loc. I led them with cords of man, Hol. 11. 4
<sup>l</sup> De verbis
 Dom. serm 33.
<sup>m</sup> Consule Pa-nigarol. prolog.
 hom. Dominic. 2
 post Pentecost & Caen. Aqu-nat in h. curis.
<sup>n</sup> Prou 9. 3
<sup>o</sup> Marlorat & Culman in loc.
<sup>p</sup> Philip. 2. 13.
<sup>q</sup> 2 Cor 3. 5.
<sup>r</sup> Bernard.

<sup>t</sup> Dormi secur.
 Dom. 2. post Trinit.
<sup>u</sup> Matth. 16. 26
<sup>x</sup> Leo, ser. 6 de Ieiunio decimi mensis.
<sup>y</sup> Luke 15. 7.
<sup>z</sup> Matth 24. 51

<sup>a</sup> Apocal 3. 20

<sup>b</sup> Rubert & Bullinger in Apocal 3.
<sup>c</sup> Rom 14. 17.
<sup>d</sup> Prou. 15. 15.

<sup>e</sup> Calvin. Marlorat. Zepper.
<sup>f</sup> Theophylact.
 in lo um <sup>g</sup> Hebr. 1. 2.
<sup>h</sup> Hom. in Luc.
<sup>i</sup> 4
<sup>j</sup> In Matth. 23.

<sup>1</sup> Haymo apud Veg. Dom. 2.
post Pentecost.
Idem Bertrand.
Et alii
<sup>k</sup> Philip. 2. 13.

Church : as Christ himselfe teacheth vs, I haue prepared my dinner, Matth. 22. 4. But the fruition of happinesse obscurely shadowed in the one, more fully shewed in the other, is a supper : <sup>i</sup> because after this meale we shall goe to rest and endlesse ease. There is toying in our Lords vineyard, and labouring in his haruest after breakefast; and after dinner; his seruants vnder the Law, yea his sonnes vnder the Gospell also <sup>k</sup> must worke out their saluation in feare and trembling. But as soone as they begin to liue the life of Glorie, there followeth a continuall Sabbath: Euen so saith the Spirit, blessed are they that die in the Lord, for they rest from their labours, and their good workes follow them, Apocalyps 14. 13.

Let vs examine now why this Supper is called great, and that is in respect of the }	Feast-maker.

	Cheere.
	Companie.
	Place.

The Feast-maker is so great, as that all the tongues of men and Angels cannot report how great: and therefore they tell of his greatnesse, not in the positive degree, but in the comparatiue: <sup>1</sup> A great King about all Gods: and in the superlatiue, optimus maximus: euen <sup>m</sup> all in all: <sup>n</sup> Est super omnia, sine quo nulla essent omnia: for of him, and through him, and for him are all things, Rom. 11. 36

Secondly, the Supper is great in respect of the great cheere, which exceedeth all sense, and all science: for as our eye cannot see; so our heart cannot conceiue what daintie fare <sup>o</sup> God hath prepared for them that loue him. If the transfiguration of Christ on the mount accompanied only with two Saints, Elias and Moses, amazed Peter in such sort, that he cried out <sup>p</sup> Master it is good for vs to be here; then how good will it be for vs to rest on Gods holy hill, where we shall euer enjoy the companie of all the Patriarkes, of all the Prophets, of all the Saints, of all the glorious Angels, yea the presence of God himselfe, seeing face to face?

Thirdly, this Supper is great in respect of the companie, which is not only good, as I haue said, but also great: such as come to this feast are many, such as being inuited earnestly will not come, are more. Gods elect compared with the reprobate, are but <sup>r</sup> a little stocke, but consider them in themselves, and you shall finde them many: for all the poore, feeble, blinde, and halt come to this feast: and our Sauour saith expressly, that <sup>s</sup> many shall come from the East, and West, and shall sit downe with Abraham, Isaack, and Iacob in the kingdome of heauen: yea the number of such as eate of the Lambs supper is without number, Apocal. 7. 9.

Fourthly, this Supper is great in respect of place: for, the finest things are situate in highest places: as for example: the earth as grossest is put in the lowest roome, the water about the earth, the aire about the water, the fire about the aire the spheres of heauen about any of them, and yet the palace where this feast is kept is about them all, in the heauen of heuens.

<sup>t</sup> Every childe of God at three sundry times, hath three sundry places of residence: the first is our mothers wombe, the second earth, and the third heauen. If we compare these three together in time, bounds and beauty, we shall finde the second doth not so farre excell the first, as the third excels the second: in our first house we remaine ordinarily nine monethes; in our second house some continue <sup>u</sup> threescore and ten times twelue moneths: but in our third house we liue for euer, as being an <sup>x</sup> euerslasting habitation. If we compare them in largenesse, we shall finde that as the belly of a woman is but of narrow bounds in regard of this ample vniuerse; so this is nothing in comparison of that high palace, being infinitely greater then the whole firmament; one starre whereof is bigger then the whole earth: if we compare them in beauty, the firmament, which is the ceiling of our second house, beautified with Sunne, Moone, and Starres, and shining more gloriously then all the precious stones in the world, shall be no other thing but the neather side of the pauement of our third house.

If then the rule be true, that foure things especially perfect a good cast: <sup>y</sup> Hominis belli collecti, locus electus, tempus lectum, apparatus non neglectus: assuredly this

<sup>1</sup> Psal. 95. 3.
<sup>m</sup> 1 Cor. 15. 28
<sup>n</sup> Augustin. Con. fess. lib 6. cap. 6.

<sup>o</sup> 1 Cor. 2. 9.

<sup>p</sup> Matth. 17. 4.
<sup>q</sup> Psal. 15. 1.

<sup>r</sup> Luke 13. 32.

<sup>s</sup> Matth. 8. 11.

<sup>t</sup> See Cooper in Rom. 8. 18.

<sup>u</sup> Psal. 90. 10.

<sup>v</sup> Luke 16. 9.

<sup>y</sup> Varro apud Aul. Gel. lib. 13 cap. 11.

this Supper is very great, as being ordained by the best Feast-maker, and furnished with the best cheere, in the best place, for the best company. I will end this meditation with <sup>a</sup> Augustine, Merces tua Domine, magna nimis, magnum enim magna decent; neq, enim magnus es tu, & parua merces tua. sed vt magnus es tu, ita magna merces tua: Great, O Lord is thy reward, for great things doe well become great persons; as thou then art great, so thy feast is great: A certaine man ordained a great Supper.

And bade many.] First his speciall guests and peculiar people of the Iewes, inuiting them, <sup>a</sup> at sundry times and in diuers manners, in old time by the Prophets, in these last dayes by his Sonne. But when they put of their calling, God caused his seruants to <sup>b</sup> turne to the Gentiles. As soone as the bidden guests all at once began to make excuse, God commanded his inuiters, the Prophets and the preachers to goe into the streets, high waies, and hedges, and to compell all such as they met, to come vnto the feast: that is, (as <sup>c</sup> Christ expounds himselfe) when the Iewes the children of his kingdome were cast out, he called, the Gentiles dispersed ouer the face of the world, from the East, and West, to sit downe with Abraham, Isaac, and Iacob, in the kingdome of heauen: for <sup>d</sup> God is no acceptor of persons, but in euery nation he that feareth him and worketh righteousnesse, is accepted with him: <sup>e</sup> he will that all men should be saued, and come vnto the knowledge of the truth.

As God doth call many, so many waies; inuiting some gently, compelling other more forcibly, <sup>f</sup> not by fetters and fire, but by strong reasons of powerfull exhortations out of the Scripture: <sup>g</sup> for lightnings and thundring proceeded out of his throne, as well as mild voices:

He calleth vs vnto this great supper, as <sup>h</sup> Salomon insinuates especially foure wayes:

1. By the outward preaching of his word.
2. By the inward operation of his holy Spirit.
3. By manifest iudgements:
4. By manifold benefits.

By these meanes he calleth vs; as he did our fore-fathers heretofore: the number of Preachers amongst vs is <sup>i</sup> great, and his Spirit <sup>k</sup> dwelleth in vs, his iudgements vpon our nations haue bene many, and his mercies aboue all: and therefore let vs not <sup>l</sup> harden our heart, but heare his voice, lest he sweare in his wrath, that we shall not enter into his rest. I beseech you let vs not while he calleth vs vnto this great supper in season, and out of season, so friendly, so freely, so frequently, make friuolous excuses, and say that we cannot, or will not come: lest he protest in his displeasure that we shall not taste of his Supper.

They all at once began to make excuse] The <sup>m</sup> way to heauen is narrow, and few finde it; the gate strait, and few enter in: many be called, but few come to this heauenly supper. Here then if there were no more text in all the Bible, we may learne not to doe as the most, but to doe as we must. It is better to haue good company in heauen, then great company in hell: euery man almost affects to be singular in his fashion, and singular in his faction also: but if any will be singular in deed, let him be Christs guest, let him come to the supper of the Lambe. For many are bidden and most refuse to come: the first saith, I haue bought a farme. It is lawfull to purchase a farme, to buy bullockes and to marry but these things hinder vs in our comming to this feast, when as wee preferre them before this feast; as <sup>n</sup> S. Paul expounds this parable notably: Let such as haue wines, be as though they had no wines, and they that buy, as though they possessed not, and they that vse this world, as though they used it not. The <sup>o</sup> first step in our way to Christ is ambition, I haue bought a farme, and I must needs goe to see it. The second is couetousnesse, I haue bought five yoke of oxen, and I goe to proue them. The third pleasure, I haue married a wife, and therefore cannot come. For <sup>p</sup> all that is in the world, is, lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and pride of life. <sup>q</sup> Lust of the flesh, I haue married a wife: lust of the eyes, I haue bought five yoke of oxen: pride of life, I haue bought a farme.

<sup>r</sup> *Villa, bones, uxor, cœnam clausere vocatis:
Mundus, cura, caro, cœlum clausere renatis.*

<sup>a</sup> Soliloq cap 36

<sup>a</sup> Heb. 1. 1.

<sup>b</sup> Acts 13. 46

<sup>c</sup> Mat. 8. 11

<sup>d</sup> Acts 10. 34.

<sup>e</sup> 1 Tim. 2. 4.

<sup>f</sup> Iohn Frith answer to the B of Rochester, pag 57.
<sup>g</sup> Apocal. 4. 5.
<sup>h</sup> Prou. 1. vers. 23, 24, 25.

<sup>i</sup> Psalm. 68. 11

<sup>k</sup> 1 Epist. Iohn 2. 27.

<sup>l</sup> Psal. 95. 8. 11

<sup>m</sup> Mat. 7. 14.

<sup>n</sup> 1 Cor 7. 29, 30, 31.

<sup>o</sup> Augustine. ser. 33. de uerbis Domini.

<sup>p</sup> 1 Epist. Iohn. 2. 16.

<sup>q</sup> S. c. Augustin. ubi supra. Iacob. concord. cap. 91. & Diar. con. 2. in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Ludolphus de uita Christi. part. 1. cap. 81.

<sup>c</sup> Iacob. de vorag & Pontan.

<sup>c</sup> Anton. Gu-zara epist.

<sup>u</sup> I Cor. 13. 7
<sup>x</sup> Bernard lib. 3 de considerat.

<sup>r</sup> *Dierz con 1. in
locum.*

<sup>z</sup> Pontan.

<sup>x</sup> *Melancthon.
posil in loc.*
<sup>b</sup> Insonia leta voluptas symbol <sup>c</sup> Ouid.

<sup>d</sup> *Gregor. hom in
locum.*

<sup>c</sup> Genes. 27. 22

<sup>f</sup> Com in loc
<sup>g</sup> *Origen, apud
Aquin. in loc.*

<sup>b</sup> *Bertrandus in Euangl. Dom. 2
post Pentecost*

<sup>i</sup> Æncad. 2

<sup>k</sup> Matth. 23. 37

<sup>l</sup> *Bertrand ubi supra. Ferus ser.
2. Dom. 3. post.
Pentecost. Idem
posil. cum glossis & alijs.*

Here some note the proud mans absurd folly: for whereas he should haue first seene, and then bought his farme; he first bought it, and then desired to see it: indeed none are more blinde then the proud, who to satisfie their ambitious humour, forget often their profit and ease. The Court is the sea wherein aspiring minds desire to fish; but what get they? You demand, said that old Courtier, what I do in the court? mine answer is, I doe nothing, but vndoe my selfe: and I can say this of other suiters, If ten be dispatched ninetie be despighted. It is worthily noted that ambition is charities ape: for as loue giueth almes to the poore; so pride bribes to the rich: as loue is patient for eternall things; so pride is patient for earthly things: as loue suffereth long for veritie; so pride suffereth long for vanitie: in a word, as loue, so pride, beleueneth all things, hopeth all things, indur-eth all things: x Ambitio crux ambientium, Ambition is the proud mans racke whereon he is tortured in the midst of his honour, as neglecting all religion, acquaintance, mirth, ease, good fellowship: preferment in the court, offices in the citie, Lordships in the countrey must be got, vncouth, vnknowne, vntcene, I haue bought a farme, and I must needs goe to see it.

But his greatest fault was <sup>y</sup> in losing an euerlasting kingdome, not for a Popedome, or Dukedome, or Earledome, or for some great Lordship, but for a little land, a vile village, villam emi. Without all question if the proud man had thorowly considered, and knowne his farme before <sup>z</sup> he bought it, he would neuer haue purchased it at such a deare rate. The couetous is such an arrant foole too, <sup>a</sup> respecting his base cowheard, more then his soules shepheard: and the voluptuous man is not a whit <sup>b</sup> wiser in forsaking eternall ioy, for a short pleasure: a brevis est, & non vera voluptas.

Most of the popish Postillers, especially the Friers, obserue that the married man is more wicked and vnciuill then the rest: for whereas they make formall excuses, and craue pardon for not comming, he saith in plaine termes, I cannot come. Their words indeed are better, but their practise worse: d Sonat humilitas in voce, sed superbia in actione: c the voice is Iacobs voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau: they seeme more religious and ciuill before men, but they be no better affected to God, and his supper, then the greatest ruffins in the world: nay this hypocriticall holinessse is more damnable then open wickednesse.

<sup>f</sup> S. Ambrose by these three sorts of men excluded from the great Supper, vnderstands mystically, Gentiles, Iewes and Heretikes: <sup>g</sup> other, otherwise, but the best exposition is neerest the letter.

He that hath an eare to heare, let him heare while God calleth
Scriptura. doctrinalem sapientiam.
Ecclesie, Sacramentalem Eucharistiam.
Deuota conscientie, spiritualem letitiam.
Glorie, immortalis sufficientiam.

Obey while God knocketh at thine heart by his spirit, and speaketh vnto thine eare by the Preachers of his word, lest thy conscience apply that to God which once <sup>i</sup> Virgil of Aeneas, crying after his lost wife Creusa:

Ne quicquam ingeminans; iterumq; iterumq; vocani.

Lest one day Christ himselfe say to this Nation, as he did heretofore to <sup>k</sup> Hierusalem: O England, England, how often would I haue gathered thy children together, as the hen gathereth her chickens vnder her wings, and ye would not

The Gospell and Epistle parallel excellently; for <sup>l</sup> we come to the great Supper commended in the one by faith, and loue commanded in the other.

O Father of mercy, which art willing all men should be saued, and come to thy great Supper; exclude me not, I beseech thee, from thy feast, and fauour: but euer guide me with thy Spirit, in thy waies vnto thy kingdome, that I may shun daily more and more pride of life, lust of the flesh, immoderate cares of the world and all things else which hinder our comming to thee. Lord I am poore in merit, but thou art rich in mercie: feeble, but thou art my strength: halt, but thou canst direct my steps, and make me to tread in thy paths vprightly: blinde, but thou art the light of the world. Sweet Iesu, draw me, that I may come to thee, and runne after thee, that I may taste in this life thy Supper of grace, and be filled in the next with thy Supper of glory. Amen.

The Epistle. I. P E T. 5. 5.

Submit your selues euery man one to another.

Saint Peter in this Epistle doth exhort vs to sundry duties, instructing vs in our carriage<sup>m</sup> toward Men, Submit your selues euery man one to another, &c. for God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble, vers. 5.

 God, { Humble your selues vnder his mightie hand, that he may exalt you, when the time is come, vers. 6.
 { Cast all your care vpon him, for he careth for you, vers. 7.
 { Giue him all honour; to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever, Amen. vers. 11.
 { Sobrietic: } vers. 8.
 { Watchfulnesse: }
 { Faith: vers. 9. as being assured that the God of all grace, which hath called vs vnto his eternall glory by Christ Iesu, shall his owne selfe (after that yee haue suffered a little affliction) make you perfect, settle, strength and stablish you, vers. 10.
 Satan, resisting him in Submit you selues euery man one to another] The eight beatitudes mentioned Matth. 5. are<sup>n</sup> like Iacobs ladder, reaching from earth vnto heauen: and the first step thereof is humilitie, Blessed are the poore in Spirit. For as God hangeth the earth vpon<sup>o</sup> nothing, that it might wholly depend vpon him: P euen so doth he found the world of his Christian Common-wealth vpon nothing; and this nothing is an humble disprizing and forsaking of all our owne abilities, and an only relying vpon his Almighty power, and grace: submit your selues therefore ye younger, especially to such as are Elder in<sup>q</sup> order, or in<sup>r</sup> age. The Deacon in obedience to the Priest, the Priest to the Bishop, and the Bishop to Christ: and so downward in humilitie: the Prelate to the Priest, the Priest to the People, being ensamples to the flocke, not Lords ouer Gods heritage, 1 Pet. 5. 3. euery man seruing one another in loue, Galath. 5. 13.

Knit your selues together in lowlinesse of minde] In the vulgar Latine, humilitatem insinuate, that is, in<sup>r</sup> sinu habete:<sup>u</sup> cherish it in your bosome, with loue<sup>x</sup> heat that it may be y both hearty and<sup>z</sup> ready for vse, when occasion is offered. The latter English Bibles interpret ἐννομήσουσθε, decke your selues inwardly with lowlinesse of minde. For afaire woman hath not a better ornament then modestie, nor a great man a more comely garment then humilitie. Put on therefore tender mercie, kindnesse, humblenesse of minde, meeknesse, long-suffering. Herewith adorne your selues as with a<sup>b</sup> robe and a crowne.

But the translation of King Henrie the eighth, and our Text here, Knit your selues together in lowlinesse; as<sup>c</sup> Erasmus and Vatablus elegantly: Sentit humilitatem arte retinendam in animo, veluti nodis iligatam, ne per vllam occasionem queat extundi. S. Peter alluded haply to Christs example, who washing his Apostles feete as a patterne of humilitie, d girded himselfe with a towell. The Church is a<sup>e</sup> body knit together by euery ioynt. It is very fit therefore that we should button fast and binde sure the garment of meekenesse about euery part. And the Church is an<sup>f</sup> army with banners, in battell aray: we must therefore be knit together in lowlinesse, euery one obseruing one another in his ranke, strictly: for if any shall either out of feare play the coward, or out of ambition be to forward, and so disorder the fight, he doth open a gap to the common enemy, who goeth about as a roaring Lion seeking whom he may deuoure. The foreward in all battells euen

<sup>m</sup> Aquin in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Cromaius con. de 8. beatitud.

<sup>o</sup> Iob 26. 7.

<sup>p</sup> Peraldus Lugdunensis.

<sup>q</sup> Hugo, Carthv. sian Arias apud Lorin. in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Calvin.

<sup>s</sup> Ignatius epist. ad Smyrnen.

<sup>t</sup> Gloss. interlinear.

<sup>u</sup> Arias.

<sup>x</sup> Hugo,

<sup>y</sup> Lorin.

<sup>z</sup> Em. Sa exhibit. Hen. Stephan. humilitatem ut que sit ornamento amplectimini.

<sup>a</sup> Coloff. 3. 12

<sup>b</sup> Iob 29. 14.

<sup>c</sup> Annot in loc.

<sup>d</sup> Iohn 13. 4.

<sup>e</sup> Ephes. 4. 16.

<sup>f</sup> Cantic. 6. 3.

1 Lambert Perambulation of Kent, pag. 14.

2 Cor. 7. 5

1 Bonavent. diet salut. cap. 36

1 Genes. 3. 19

1 Exod. 14

2 Ester 7

3 Acts 12. 23.

4 Luke 18

5 Esay 14. 12

6 Genes. 3.

7 1 Sam. 31

8 Dan. 4. 29

9 1 Kings 19

10 Esay 57. 15.

11 Psal. 113. 6

12 Bernard, ser. 34 Super Cant & Ardens in locum.

13 Ieremie 5. 3.

14 Blondus & promptu. Iconum: part. 2 pag. 160.

15 Epistle 34.

16 Lib. 1. de actis cum Falic. Manic. cap. 6.

by a certaine preheminance in right of their manhood belongeth vnto the Kentish men : and our Archbishop vnder God and the King is as chiefe in the holy warrs of our Church: his Diocesse then ought aboue all other to be knit together in lowlines and loue: but if the forward shall be backward, and the reareward on the contrarie proue to forward, and so we march out of order and ranke what can we well expect but h fightings without and terrors within?

For God resisteth the proud, and giueth grace to the humble. ] There be many motiues to meekenesse, as the consideration of things Intra, luxta,

Contra,
Infra,
Supra.

If we looke into our selues ; our conscience will shew that our sinnes are for their number great, and for their nature grieuous. If we looke round about vs one neighbour hath more wit, another more credit, many more wealth, and all (for any thing we can learne truly) more worth : haply we may guesse at some few follies in other, but we certainly know many faults in our selues. If we looke what is against vs, our aduersarie the deuill as a roaring Lion, walketh about seeking whom he may deuoure. If we looke downward, we behold our mother earth, as the wombe from whence we came; and the tombe to which one day we must returne againe : cum sis humi limus, cur non humilimus? If we looke vppward ; God in heauen resisteth the proud, and giueth grace to the humble : he resisted proud Pharao, proud Haman, proud Herod, the proud Pharisee, thrusting proud Lucifer out of heauen, proud Adam out of Paradise, proud Saul out of his kingdome, proud Nabuchodonosor out of mens societie, to conuerse with beasts. On the contrarie he did exalt Abraham esteeming himselfe but dust and ashes, Gen. 18 27. to be the father of all that beleene, Rom. 4. 11. He did exalt humble Dauid from the shepherds crooke, to the Kings crowne : he gave such grace to meeke Daniel and Ioseph, as that of poore prisoners he made them companions of Princes : and he so regarded the lowlinesse of the Virgin Marie, that all generations account her blessed. It is recorded in holy writ, that the Lord went by the Prophet Eliab, and a mightie strong wind rent the mountaines and brake the rockes, before the Lord, but the Lord was not in the winde: and after the winde, came an earthquake, but the Lord was not in the earthquake : and after the earthquake came fire, but the Lord was not in the fire : and after the fire came a still and soft voice, and then the Lord spake to the Prophet : insinuating, that God will not rest in a turbulent spirit, puff vp with the winde of vaine-glorie; nor in a choleric angry soule which is euer in combustion and heate; nor in an auarous heart, buried in furrowes of earth and cares of the world : but he will dwell in a contrite and humble spirit, taking vp the simple out of the dust, and lifting the poore out of the mire, pulling downe the mightie from their seats, and exalting the lowly, resisting the proud, and giuing grace to the humble.

Submit your selues therefore vnder the mightie hand of God. ] There be some which are Humbled, but not humble.

Humble, but not humbled.
Both humbled, and humble.

Pharao, Iulian, Herod, were humbled vnder the Lords Almighty hand ; but they were not in any submission humble. Thou hast stricken, O Lord, but they haue not sorrowed, thou hast consumed them, but they refused to receiue correction. Some men, albeit not humbled vnder affliction, are humble : so we reade that Gothfrey of Bolion being in the top of his honour, refused to be crowned at Hierusalem with a crowne of gold, because Christ his Master had bene crowned in that place with a crowne of thornes, And Cyprian writes of Celarinus and Aurelius, In quantum gloria sublimes, in tantum verecundia humiles, vt dum nihil in honore sublimius, nihil in humilitate submissius. And Augustine acknowledged himselfe to be the least, when as indeed he was the best Bishop of his times: Ego minimus non solū omnium Apostolorum, sed omnium Episcoporum. Other are both humbled vnder Gods hand, and humble. So Dauid and Paul, and the children this heauenly meditation: O good God, thou doest so behold my waies and my paths, and so watch and ward night and day for my safetie, like a continuall watch-man, as though thou haddest forgot all thine other creatures in heauen and earth, and haddest cast all thy care vpon me alone, hauing no care at all of the rest; for the light of thine vchangeable sight neither increaseth, doe thou see but one, nor diminisheth, if thou behold things diuers and infinite. Thou seest all things as one thing, and one thing as all things; and therefore thou being whole in all time, and without time, doest behold me wholly together and alwaies. euen as if thou haddest nought else to consider of: yea so thou standest vpon my guard, as though thou wouldest forget all other things, and bend wholly to me alone: for alway thou shewest thy selfe present, if thou finde me ready to receiue thee; goe I, where I will, thou wilt neuer forsake me, vlesse I forsake thee first.

◦ Iosua. 1. 9.
Heb. 13. 5.

Here the Gospell and Epistle meet: for God so careth for vs as a good Shepherd, which hauing an hundred sheepe, if he lose one of them, instantly leaueth ninetie and nine in the wildernesse, and goeth after that which is lost vntill he finde it: or as a woman hauing ten groats (if she lose one) doth light a candle and sweepe the house, and seeke diligently vntill shee finde it.

Be sober and watch, for your aduer(sarie the deuill) Concerning our resisting of Satan and his malice, See Gospell Sun. 1. and 3. in Lent. Gospell on Whitfunday, Epist. 21. Sund. after Trinitie.

Sit clypeus firmata fides, oratio telum, Et gladius verbum, cetera Christus agat.

The Gospell, LUKE. 15. 1.

Then resorted vnto him all the Publicans and sinners to heare him.

◦ Et vna & vniuersalia sunt verba. Luther in locum.

IN this Gospell observe three points especially:

1. Resorting of sinners vnto Christ, vers. 1.
2. The murmuring of the Pharisees against it, vers. 2.
3. Christ's apologic for it: intimating in two<sup>m</sup> quicke parables, one of the lost sheepe, another of the lost great, that he came into the world to seeke and saue that which was lost: and therefore conuersing with sinners, he did not (as the scribes imagined) infect himselfe, but affect their persons, and effect their good.

Then resorted vnto him all the Publicans and sinners] We finde in holy Scripture, that <sup>n</sup> the Lord is farre off from the wicked, and that <sup>o</sup> saluation is farre from the vngodly, because their iniquities haue separated between them and God and haue hid his face that he will not heare them How then I pray doe sinners, or rather how can sinners resort vnto Christ? answer is made by 9 distinction, impenitent, retchlesse, incorrigible sinners, heaping vp wrath against the day of wrath, euery day pulling downe greater damnation vpon their head, make wals of separation betweene themselues and Christ: but the contrite being sorrowfull for that which is past, and carefull to prevent all occasion of sinne to come, <sup>r</sup> draw neere to God, and he doth draw neere to them: he drew them first by <sup>f</sup> grace, then they ranne after him by repentance. Cant. 1. 3. Draw me (saith the Church to Christ) and we will runne after thee: for no man can come to me (saith our Sauour) except my Father draw him.

◦ Prou. 15. 29.
◦ Psal. 119. 155
◦ Esay 59. 2.

◦ *Culman. con. 1
Zepher. con. 2,
in locum.*

◦ James 4. 8.
◦ *Bernard. ser.
21. in Cantica.*
◦ Iohn 6. 44.

◦ *Bertrandus
Dom. 3. post
Pentecost.*

In the comming then of sinners vnto Christ, three things are regardable:

1. Terminus à quo receditur, from whence they come.
2. Terminus ad quem acceditur, whither they goe.
3. Motus per quem proceditur, vpon what feete and how.

They went from their sinne to their Sauour, from the wolfe to the Shepherd, from death vnto life, from the paths of hell, in which are found all sorts of *darknesse,

* darkenesse, namely, superiour darknesse, as wanting the y beatificall vision: inferiour darknesse, hell being a botomlesse pit, Abyssus sine basi, profundum sine fundo: interiour darknesse, in the soule, which is the labyrinth of conscience, for vngodly men are <sup>2</sup> wearied in the waies of destruction, as one prettily, <sup>a</sup> Labyrinthus, quasi labor intus: exteriour darknesse, as being full of vgly blacke sins; out of this way, leading vnto such vncomfortable darknesse, these Publicans and sinners returne to Christ the <sup>b</sup> light of the world, <sup>c</sup> inlightning all such as sit in darknesse and in the shadow of death. He giueth vs externall light, for his word is a lanterne to our feet, Psal. 119. 105. internall light, <sup>d</sup> leading vs into all truth euen with his owne Spirit: eternall light, for the Saints in heauen shall shine as starres for euer and euer, Dan. 12. 3.

The feet on which all these come to Christ was repentance, <sup>e</sup> consisting in Contrition.

Faith.
Obedience.

First, a penitent must haue sorrow, Come vnto me (saith <sup>f</sup> Christ) all ye that are wearie and laden, and I will ease you. The proud sinner who doth not finde his sinne, the carelesse who doth not feele his sinne, is not entertained of Christ, only such are refreshed as weigh the burden of their sins, and groane vnder the same: Come all ye that are laden.

In this sorrow, lest a sinner dispaire, he must adioyne faith, apprehending the merits of Christ for the free pardon of all his sinnes. At this time, and in this businesse he may not meddle too much with the Law, but account Moses (as <sup>g</sup> Luther boldly speakes) an excommunicate person, and so cast his eyes vpon Christ alone, being the <sup>h</sup> Lambe of God which taketh away the sinnes of the world.

Vnto faith he must adde obedience, that vnderstanding how he is deliuered out of the hands of all his enemies, he may serue God in holinesse and righteousnesse all the daies of his life. These vertues appeared in these Publicans: heartie sorrow, for that they turned from their old course: irue faith, in comming to Christ the Sauour of the world: unsained obedience, for that they came nigh him and heard him. If we shall belike these, Christ assuredly will <sup>i</sup> euer be like himselfe: when any shall proue such sinners, he will not faile to be such a Sauour. When <sup>k</sup> S. Basil asked Ephreem why he would not be a Priest; Ephreem answered him, because he was a great sinner: vnto whom S. Basil replied, I would to God I were such a sinner: and so well were it for vs, if we were such sinners as these Publicans: otherwise this Gospell affords no comfort for vs. The Text indeed saith that there shal be ioy in heauen ouer a sinner, but it is ouer a sinner that repenteth: as <sup>l</sup> one doth aptly glosse the place, Non super vno peccatore pœnitentiam cogitante, aut super vno pœnitentiam dicente, aut super vno pœnitentiam docente, sed super vno pœnitentiam agente. Christ embraceth here sinners, but such as heare him, and come nigh him; erant appropinquantes, as it is in the vulgar Latine.

In matching cloth and horses, we say that such are vnlike, come not neere one to the other, albeit they be in the same place; but of things that are like, we say, that they come nigh one another: in like sort, this neerenes is not in respect of place, for so the most vnrepentant wretch is neere God; according to that of <sup>m</sup> Dauid, Whither shall I flie from thy presence? but this neerenesse is in respect of grace, drawing neere to God in qualitie, being <sup>n</sup> mercifull, as our Father in heauen is mercifull, and <sup>o</sup> perfect as he is perfect.

Againe; these Publicans came to Christ, not only to wonder at him, or as the Pharises here to murmure against him, and entrap him; but with an honest heart to heare, that is, (according to the <sup>p</sup> Scripture phrase) to obey him. A Preacher <sup>q</sup> offereth vp his hearers vnto God, euery parishioner therefore must examine himselfe, whether his Pastor haue sacrificed him or not. If vnclane persons, as the Sow, returne to their mire, and drunkards, as the dogge, returne to their vomit; they be not offered vp vnto the Lord, but are like the beast which hath broken the rope, and will not be sacrificed. He that hath cares to heare,

* Iaco d. vno
cap. 10. m. 2.
Dom. 3. post
Trinit.
<sup>7</sup> Matth. 25. 4
<sup>2</sup> W. Some 5. 7
<sup>2</sup> Isidor. Etymolog. lib. 4.
Idem Dix. con
<sup>1.</sup> Dom. 3. post
Pentecost.
<sup>b</sup> Iohn 1. 9.
<sup>c</sup> Luke 1. 79.
<sup>d</sup> Iohn 16. 13.

<sup>e</sup> Melancthon. postil. in loc.
<sup>f</sup> Matth. 11. 28

<sup>g</sup> Com. in Galat.
<sup>4. 3.</sup>
<sup>b</sup> Iohn 1. 29.

<sup>i</sup> Heb. 13. 8.

<sup>k</sup> Amphilochius apud Vessium de vita Ephreem, pag. 16.

<sup>l</sup> Ludolphus de vita Christi, part. 2, cap. 7. idem Stella.

<sup>m</sup> Psal. 139. 6
<sup>n</sup> Luke 6. 36.
<sup>o</sup> Matth. 5. 48

<sup>p</sup> Luke 10. 16
Matth. 18. 15
<sup>q</sup> Rom. 15. 16

let him heare. Let him resort vnto the Church as the Publicans vnto Christ, not to sleepe, nor to carpe, nor to gaze, but to marke whatsoeuer is sayd out of Gods holy word attentiuely, to lay it vp in hi heart faithfully, to practise it in obedience fruitfully.

<sup>r</sup> Ardens in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Heming. postit in locum.

<sup>b</sup> Gucuaru epist.

<sup>a</sup> 1 Cor. 15. 42

<sup>x</sup> Gregor. Mag.

<sup>y</sup> Exod. 23. 32. & 34. 12.

<sup>z</sup> Virg. Æneid. 4.

<sup>a</sup> Jerem. 9. 3.

<sup>b</sup> Psal. 11. 2.

<sup>c</sup> Psal. 120. 3.

<sup>d</sup> Veget. Dom. 3. post Pentecost.

<sup>e</sup> Ecclesiastes 9. 20.

<sup>f</sup> Vatablus.

<sup>g</sup> Psal. 18. 26.

<sup>h</sup> 1 Cor. 5. 6.

<sup>i</sup> Ardens in loc.

<sup>k</sup> 1 Cor. 7. 14.

<sup>l</sup> 1 Cor. 1. 30.

<sup>m</sup> Rom. 15. 1.

<sup>n</sup> See Zepper. con. 2. Dom. 3. post Trinit.

The Pharises and Scribes murmured] <sup>r</sup> Murmuring is betweene secret backbiting and open rayling; they could not vtterly conceale their hatred, and they durst not openly vent it: they murmure therefore. Now there be <sup>t</sup> many causes of this murmuring: the first is enuie, by which a man in creation little lesse than an Angell, is in this respect made a great deale worse than a deuill; for one deuill enuieth not another, and yet the proud Pharises enuie the poore publicans in their comming to Christ. It is <sup>t</sup> obserued truly, that we may saue our selues from the lier by not speaking with him, and from the proud by not accompanying him, and from the slothfull by not troubling him, and from the glutton by not eating with him, and from the contentious by not disputing with him: but from the spightfull it is not sufficient either to flie or flatter him, he cannot be well if another be better; and therefore God, as it may seeme, should wrong him exceedingly to send him vnto heauen, where one doth <sup>u</sup> excell another in glory, and God about all; he must be cast into the pit of hell, where he may finde no matter of enuie, but all objects of extreme miserie.

The second cause was their intollerable pride, highly scorning the Publicans as dogs, in so much as they would neither eat nor enter into an house with them as <sup>x</sup> one notes wittily, The deuill being cast out of the Pharises by prayer and fasting enters againe at the stately gate of pride and prouie faires of enuie.

A third cause was their preposterous zeale, making the Commandements of God a cloake to their murmuring: for the Law saith, an Israelite may not conuerse with a Cananite or wicked Idolater: Thou shalt not make covenant with them, neither shall they dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sinne against me. They pretend in deepe hypocrisie zeale to God, yet intend to slander his only begotten Sonne, saying, Here receineth sinners and eateth with them: insinuating to the common people, that Christ was such a one as they were with whom he was conuersant: I will therefore turne the words of the <sup>z</sup> Poet vpon them:

— quantum vertice ad auras

Æthereas, tantum radice in tartara tendunt.

The wicked <sup>a</sup> bend their tongues like their bowes, and then they <sup>b</sup> shoot at such as are true of heart, <sup>c</sup> euen mightie and sharpe arrowes: and aptly doth the Scripture compare bitter words vnto the winged dart: <sup>d</sup> for as a warre-arrow makes a double wound, one in piercing the flesh, another in the pulling of it out: euen so scandalous imputations at the first hurt by the report, and then at the last, albeit they be wiped out, leaue still a skarre. This made the <sup>e</sup> Wiseman say, that the slanderer is a terrible man in his country, terribilis, as the vulgar Latine, or as <sup>f</sup> other, Fornidandus est in ciuitate sua vir linguax.

As in cases of mortalitie, one scabbed sheepe infects a whole flocke: so in moralitie, <sup>g</sup> with the cleane thou shalt be cleane, and with the froward thou shalt learne frowardnesse, <sup>h</sup> a little leauen sowreth a whole lumpe: yet Christ being the Sonne of righteousnesse, could not be corrupted in shining vpon the dunghill of sinne, but in accompanying the bad he made them good, <sup>i</sup> feeding them spiritually, while they fed him corporally. The Pharises obiection, he receineth sinners, is false; for he did not consent vnto their sinne, but correct it: as then an <sup>k</sup> vnbeleening wife is sanctified by dwelling with a beleening husband: so these sinners eating and conuersing with Christ our <sup>l</sup> righteousnesse are made Saints: it is a good rule, Keepe company with such as thou mayest make them better; or they thee, them better, <sup>m</sup> infirmum fratrem assume; thee better, nunc te melioribus offer, as a Poet. according with a Prophet, With the holy thou shalt be holy, and with a perfect man thou shalt be perfect, Psal. 18. 25.

But he put forth this parable.] <sup>n</sup> Some Diuines attribute seuerally these three parables in this chapter, vnto the three persons in holy Trinitie, referring the parable parable of the lost sheepe vnto God the Sonne, of the lost groat to God the Holy Ghost, of the lost childe to God the Father :

All referre the first parable to Christ which is the <sup>o</sup> good Shepheard, in whom our Euangelist notes especially foure things:
 1. He seekes a lost sheepe vntill he findes it.
 2. When he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders.
 3. He doth reioyce.
 4. He brings it home.

So <sup>p</sup> Christ in his Life, sought the lost sinner vntill he found him.
 Death, he layd him on his shoulders.
 Resurrection, he reioyced for him.
 Ascension, he did open the doores of heauen, and bring him vnto his owne Fathers house and home.

The<sup>a</sup> fowler doth not affright the birds with any terrible noise, but allure them vnto his ginne with a sweet call.

Fisula dulcè canit volucrum dum decipit auceps.

Almightie God in giuing the law terrified the people with thunders and lightnings: Ephraim therefore fled away like a bird: but our blessed Saviour in deliuering the Gospell vsed an inticing voice, Come vnto me all ye that are laden, and I will ease you. Yet the best tricke the fowler hath, is to bring game to his snare by a stale or quoy duck: so Christ that he might the better call home sinners and winne men vnto God, appeared in the shape of a seruant, and conuersed with sinners: he being the Sonne of God became the Sonne of man, that the sonnes of men might be made the sonnes of God. He did leaue ninetie and nine sheepe in the wilderness, and went after one that was lost vntill he found it: that is (as <sup>u</sup> Origen, <sup>x</sup> Ambrose, <sup>y</sup> Hilarie, <sup>z</sup> Chrystome, <sup>a</sup> Euthymius expound it) he did leaue the Angels, and for vs men and our saluation came downe from heauen, and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost. Other, as <sup>b</sup> Hierome epist. ad Damasum, Augustin quæst. Euangel. lib. 2. cap. 2. Theophylact, in loc. Anselmus in Matth. 18. and most of our new writers, he did leaue the iust, and sought after sinners only.

If we take the first exposition, it may be sayd that he did leaue the good Angels in the mountaine, <sup>c</sup> that is, in heauen, as hauing no need of repentance, the damned Angels in the wilderness, that is, in <sup>d</sup> hell, as being vncapable of grace. Now the reasons are manifold, why Christ did seeke lost Adam, rather then the lost Angell: as first the deuill was the partie seducing to sinne, but Adam the partie seduced: <sup>e</sup> Angelus ergo, quanto sublimior in gloria, tanto maior in ruina; sed homo quanto fragilior in natura, tanto facilius ad veniam. Secondly, Satan instantly fell from heauen as <sup>f</sup> lightning, and <sup>g</sup> was vtterly lost, and therefore could not be found againe: but Adam had space and grace giuen him also to repent. Thirdly, <sup>h</sup> all Angels did not fall with Lucifer, and so none were partakers of his punishment, but such as had bene partners in his sinne; but in <sup>i</sup> Adam all men were lost. Fourthly, <sup>k</sup> man is Gods groat, bearing his superscription and image more fully then Angels: and therefore Christ leauing the deuills in hell, and Angels in heauen, came into the world to redeeme man out of the hands of all his enemies. If we take the latter interpretation, Christ is sayd to leaue the iust in an estate of grace, to seeke and saue the lost sinner; <sup>m</sup> or rather he leaueth in the wilderness all such as hold themselves iust, and thinke they need no repentance, that is, the Scribes and Pharisees, and embraceth all Publicans and sinners, acknowledging themselves to be sicke, and that they need a Physition: for he came not to call the righteous, but the sinners to repentance, Mat. 9. 13

Christ finding the lost sheepe in his life, laid him on his shoulders at his death; his <sup>n</sup> owne selfe bare our sinnes in his body on the crosse, that we being deliuered from sinne should liue to righteousness: Humeri Christi crucis brachia sunt illic peccata mea deposui, in illa patibuli nobilis ceruice requicui, saith <sup>o</sup> Ambrose: the braces of the crosse are the shoulders of Christ, I haue laid all the burden of my faults vpon them, able to beare the sinnes of the whole world: I will lie downe and take my rest in the boughes and bosome of that sweet tree. But

<sup>o</sup> Iohn 10. 14.

<sup>p</sup> Panigarola hom. in Euang. Dor. 3. post Pentecost. part. 2. Idem serm. Caietan & Culman. in locum.

<sup>q</sup> Di 2 con. 1. <sup>r</sup> Uon 3 post Pentecost.

<sup>s</sup> Exod. 20. 18.

<sup>t</sup> Osee 9. 11.

<sup>u</sup> Philip. 2. 7.

<sup>v</sup> Rom. 2. in Genes.

<sup>x</sup> Apolog. Dauid. cap 5

<sup>y</sup> In Matth. 18.

<sup>z</sup> Rom. 60. in Matth.

<sup>a</sup> In Matth. 18.

idem Gregor. hom. 34. in Evangelia

<sup>b</sup> Tom. 3 fol. 126

<sup>c</sup> Euthymius in Matth. 28.

<sup>d</sup> Panigarol. hom. dem. 3.

post Pentecost. part. 1.

<sup>e</sup> Albinus quæst. in Genes. Idem Augustin. de mirabil. script. lib. 1. cap. 20.

<sup>f</sup> Marke 10. 18

<sup>g</sup> Augustin ubi supra.

<sup>h</sup> Augustin. Enchirid. ad Laurent. op. 23.

<sup>i</sup> 1 Cor. 15. 22

<sup>k</sup> See Panigarol. ubi supra.

<sup>l</sup> Bæccr apud Martlorat. in loc. lausen. concord.

cap. 94. Ludolphus de vita Christi, part. 2.

cap. 7.

<sup>m</sup> Augustin. quæst. Euangel. lib. 2. cap. 33.

Ambrose. Fulke Culman. Panigarol. in loc.

<sup>n</sup> 1 Pet. 2. 24.

and Esay 53. 4

<sup>o</sup> Com. in loc.

P Lament 1.12

<sup>q</sup> Caietan & Vega in loc. Consule Thom. part. 1. quest. 45. & 47.
<sup>r</sup> Augustin. de Trinit. lib. 4. cap. 13.
<sup>s</sup> Rom. 4. 25.
<sup>t</sup> Iohn 20. 19.
<sup>u</sup> Rbcin. in loc.

<sup>x</sup> Thom part 1 quest 20. art 4.
<sup>y</sup> Caietan. & Iansen. in loc.
<sup>z</sup> Gregor. hom. 34. in Euangel.

<sup>a</sup> Vbi supra.
<sup>b</sup> De duplici Martyrio.

<sup>c</sup> Esay 53. 6.
<sup>d</sup> Rom. 3. 10.
<sup>e</sup> 1 Cor. 12. 13

<sup>f</sup> Heb. 1. 14.
<sup>g</sup> Psal 91. 11.
<sup>h</sup> Matth. 22 30
<sup>i</sup> Gen. cap. 18. & 21.
<sup>j</sup> Luke 1.

<sup>k</sup> Luke 14. 15.

<sup>l</sup> Psal. 22. 22.
<sup>m</sup> Heb. 2. 17
<sup>n</sup> Luke. 11. 14. 15.
<sup>o</sup> Rom. 6. 9.
<sup>p</sup> 1 Cor. 6.
<sup>q</sup> Heb. 3. 6.
<sup>r</sup> Ambros. com. in locum.

how can this be construed of the crosse, seeing the Text saith, he laid it on his shoulders with ioy? Christ cried on the crosse, P Behold and see if euer there be any sorrow like vnto my sorrow. Christ himselfe doth answer this obiection, Ioh. 10. 17. I lay downe my life for my sheepe, no man taketh it from me, but I lay it downe of my selfe. And so Christ is sayd to lay the lost sheepe on his shoulders ioyfully, for that he died willingly, Quia voluit, quando voluit, & quomodo voluit.

And as Christ died for the finnes of the lost sheepe, so he rote againe for his iustification: and then he reioyced saying peace be to you: but in his ascension, as soone as he came home, he called together his louers and neighbours, saying vnto them, reioyce with me, for I haue found my sheepe which was lost: and so there shall be ioy in heauen ouer one sinner that repenteth, more then ouer ninetie and nine iust persons which need no repentance. If we construe this clause (which need no repentance) of such as are iustified and stand in the state of grace, neither God, nor Angels, nor men esteeme more a penitent sinner, then they doe of them that continue iust and godly: * for the greatest measure of grace requireth alway the greatest measure of our loue: but in this vnexpected alteration and happy change, there is a y newer occasion of ioy, and thanksgiuing to God in another kinde, then for the perseuerance of the iust: as a z Captaine for the present reioyceth ouer one coward stoutly charging vpon his enemy, more then ouer ninetie nine tall souldiers who neuer forooke the field: and as a plough-man in a sudden motion reioyceth ouer one bad acre that brings him a good crop, more then ouer all the rest of his land: or as a Aquine, an hundred markes bestowed vpon a begger, is a greater gift then if it had bene giuen vnto a King. And thus (as b Cyprian obserued) Christ (speaking to mans capacitie, sheweth here that the conuersion of enery sinner is exceeding acceptable to God.

But alas, c all we like sheepe haue gone astray, we haue turned euery one to his owne way from the paths of God; all therefore need Christ to fetch vs home: all need repentance, for there is none d righteous; ouis illa genere vna est, non specie, saith Ambrose vpon the place: by this one sheepe is meant all such as are saued by Christ, it is one in kinde, but not in particular: for all are e one body, but many members. I subscribe therefore to their iudgement, who by such as need no repentance, vnderstand hypocriticall Iustitaries, hauing such an high conceit of their owne puritie, that they thinke they need not amendment: and so there is greater reioycing in heauen ouer one penitent sinner, then ouer many such impudent Saints.

First the glorious Angels haue ioy, for that they see so good fruit of their f ministrie. Secondly, for that their number is g increased, and so the more the merrier: againe, the whole Trinitie reioyceth at the conuersion of a penitent God the Father, Sonne, and Holy Ghost.

An earthly father hath ioy when his sonne is conceived: as h Abraham reioyced at the conception of Isaak: when he is borne; so i Zacharius at the birth of S. Iohn Baptist: when he is growne vp and standeth at the table, Psal. 128. 4. So God our heauenly Father hath ioy when a man is made his childe, begotten and borne by the seed of his word, especially when he comes home to k eat bread at his table in his house.

God the Sonne likewise doth ioy: first, in seeing such a good effect of his passion, implied in the parable of the lost sheepe. Secondly, for that his image decayed in man is restored fully, described in the parable of the lost groat. Thirdly for that his l brother which was lost is found againe, declared in the parable of the lost childe. Lastly, God the Holy Ghost hath ioy, for that the m dens of Satan and n instruments of sinne, from one iniquitie to another, are now become his sanctified o members, his dwelling p houses, his holy temples, 1. Cor. 6. 19.

The Church of God on earth hath her part in this heauenly reioycing also: q Qui sunt isti pater, pastor, & mulier? nonne Deus pater, Christus pastor, mulier Ecclesia? Christus se suo corpore vehit, qui tua in se peccata suscepit, querit te Ecclesia, recipit pater.

Three things moue men to compassion: } Simplicite.
Propinquitie.
Necessitie.

<sup>1</sup> Ludolphus de vita Christi, p. 1. 2. cap. 7.

So these three moue God to pitie: first, our simplicitie, noted in the parable of the lost sheepe, which is a sillie creature. Secondly, our propinquitie, signified in the parable of the lost goat, for a Christian hath Gods image, and beares Christs name. Thirdly, necessitie, shewed in the parable of the lost sonne: How many hired seruants, at my fathers haue bread enough, and I die for hunger? O sweet Iesu, who diddest leaue the glorious Angels in heauen, the damned spirits in hell, the iust men on earth, and camest into the world to call sinners only to repentance; seeke me thy lost sheepe, saue me thy lost sonne, that there may be mirth on earth, and reioycing in heauen ouer one sinner that repenteth, more than ouer ninetie nine which need no repentance.

The Epistle. R o m. 8. 18.

I suppose that the afflictions of this life, are not worthy of the glory which shall be shewed vpon vs.

Some things in the writings of S. Paul are <sup>1</sup>hard to be vnderstood: This Epistle containing the <sup>2</sup>chiefe mysteries of all Diuinitie, so difficult as any: this Scripture more darke then other parts of this Epistle: <sup>3</sup>whether we consider the matter, or the words. It is a tract of eternall glory which is not fully <sup>4</sup>reuealed vnto vs here, but shall be shewed vpon vs hereafter: and it hath a phrase or two not vsed <sup>5</sup>else-where throughout the whole Bible: but leauing curious and criticall annotations vnto such as list to read (Augustin. lib. quast. 83. quast. 67. & lib. exposit. quarund. proposition. ex epist. ad Rom. Ambros. epist. 21. 22. Hieron. com. in loc. & epist. ad Auitam, tom. 2. fol 153. Caluin. Institut. lib. 2. cap 1. §. 5. & lib. 3. cap. 25. §. 2. Sixt. Senen. Bibliothec. lib. 6. annot. 245. & 340. Theophylact. Occumen. Primasius, Anselme, Aquin. Caietan. Erasmus, Peter Martyr in loc.) I will according to my accustomed breuitie, select a few most vsfull obseruations to strengthen vs against vnbeleefe and misbeleefe.

<sup>2</sup> Pet. 3. 16.
<sup>1</sup> See Melanct. argument. & dispost. 0 at. epist. ad Rom. tom 4 fol 3. & Pet. Martyr. prefat. com ad Rom.
<sup>3</sup> Sarcenius in locum.
<sup>4</sup> 1 Cor 2.
<sup>5</sup> Cowper in loc.

Our Apostle then in the text read, comforteth all such as are vnder Christs crosse by <sup>6</sup>three reasons especially:

<sup>2</sup> Melancthon. Tilmann. Royard

Who speakes, I suppose.

The first is taken from the blessed end of our afflictions and happy <sup>a</sup>Catastrophe, verse 18. wherein obserue,

What is spoken, the afflictions of this life are not worthy of the glorie which shall be shewed vpon vs: insinuating <sup>b</sup>four excellencies in the celestiall reward.

- 1. Dignitie, for that it is a glory.
- 2. Eternitie, not a present, but a glory which shall be.
- 3. Claritie, for that it shall be shewed.
- 4. Veritie, for that it shall not only be reuealed vnto vs, but also reuealed in vs or shewed vpon vs.

<sup>a</sup> Martyr in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Aquin. in loc.

The second argument is from the communion of sufferers, <sup>c</sup>Every creature feruently desireth and hopeth for our redemption, yea, groaneth with vs, and trauel- leth in paine together: and therefore let vs not be discouraged in our affliction, hauing so great companie:

<sup>c</sup> Afflicte venturo letentur ut omnia seculo. Virgil Ectog 4.

Solamen miseris socios habuisse doloris.

The third argument is from the patterne and patience of the blessed Apostles, and other deare children of God: Not only the creature, but also we which haue the first fruits of the Spirit, mourne in our selues, and wait for the adoption of the children of God, euen the deliuerance of our bodies: and therefore hauing to good company let

<sup>d</sup> Heb. 11. 25.

<sup>e</sup> Ecclesiasticus

34. 9.

<sup>f</sup> 2 Cor. 11.

<sup>g</sup> 2 Cor. 12.

<sup>h</sup> Dr. Fuller's defence of Eng. translations against G. Martin cap. 9. sect. 1
Idem Martyr &
Beze in loc.

<sup>i</sup> Anselmus & Caietan in loc.

<sup>k</sup> Theophylact.

<sup>l</sup> Tertullian. lib.
ad Martyr.

<sup>m</sup> Virgil.

<sup>n</sup> See Augustin.
de ciuit. Dei,
lib. 5. cap. 18 &
Martyr. in locum

<sup>o</sup> 2 Cor. 4. 17.

<sup>p</sup> Ioh. 3. 3.

<sup>q</sup> Rom 8. 14.

<sup>r</sup> Hebr. 2. 17.

<sup>s</sup> Cap. 23. 8.

<sup>t</sup> 1 Cor. 15. 41

<sup>u</sup> Augustin. Medic. cap. 25.

<sup>x</sup> O. Cumenius
in locum.

<sup>y</sup> Genes. 41. 30

<sup>z</sup> Theophylact.
Oecumenius,
Aquin

<sup>a</sup> Matth. 25. 34

<sup>b</sup> 1 Epist. Iohn

3. 2.

<sup>c</sup> Coloss. 3. 3.

<sup>d</sup> Wisd. 5. 3.

let vs<sup>d</sup> chuse rather to suffer aduersitie with the people of God, than to enioy the pleasures of sinne for a season.

I suppose] The<sup>e</sup> Wiseman saith, He that hath good experience can talke of wisdom. Paul then hauing tryed both; affliction, as<sup>f</sup> being in labours more abundant, in stripes aboue measure, in prison more plenteously, in death oft, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in ieopardies of his owne nation, in ieopardies among the Heathen, &c. and glory, being<sup>g</sup> taken vp into the third heauen, and hearing words which cannot be spoken, which are not possible for man to vtter: I say, Paul who suffered more present affliction, and had seene more future glory than vs all, out of his owne experience concludes, I suppose: the verbe <sup>h</sup>λογισμας doth import thus much; After iust reckoning this is the summe which I collect and gather, or after long reasoning I thus positively determine: so that it is not only Pauls opinion, or meere coniecture; but (as some<sup>i</sup> popish Interpreters obserue with vs) his certaine knowledge, That the passions of this life are not worthy the glory which shall be shewed vpon vs.

The first excellencie noted in our felicitie which in the world to come shall be reuealed, is, that it is a glory: the<sup>k</sup> very name whereof is acceptable, for what would not a Heathen man doe to winne glory? <sup>l</sup> Q. Mutius Scauola burnt his owne hand for striking amisse: Curtius in glittering armour and well mounted on his horse, cast himselfe into a gulfe to deliuer his country from the plague: Brutus also being ambitious of honour, to preferue the libertics of his natie foyle, neglected the liues of his owne sonnes.

<sup>m</sup> Vicit amor patrie, laudumq; immensa cupido.

If<sup>n</sup> Infidels endure so much affliction only for a puff of a little vaine-glory; what ought a Christian to suffer for<sup>o</sup> a farre more excellent and eternall weight of true glory? The Burgeses of Hierusalem aboue be not of base linage, but truly noble; for by their<sup>p</sup> second birth all of them are the<sup>q</sup> sonnes of God, and<sup>r</sup> brothers of the Lord Iesus. The Citizens of Tyrus are described by the Prophet<sup>s</sup> Esay to haue beene companions vnto Princes; but in that heavenly Hierusalem euery citizen is a crowned King, and none but Kings are free-men of that incorporation, knit among themselves by the bond of one Spirit into such an holy communion, as that euery one of them accounteth the glory of his brother an increase of his owne glory: for it is not in heauen as vpon earth; here the ioy of one doth occasion oft sorrow to another; here the light of the Sunne doth darken the Moone, and the light of the moone doth obscure the lustre of the Starres here when halfe the earth is illuminated, all the rest is in darknesse: but in heauen albeit<sup>t</sup> there is another glory of the Sunne, and another glory of the Moone, and another glory of the Starres, one Starre differing from another in glory: yet the light of the one doth augment the light of another, the glory of one shall be the glory of all: <sup>u</sup> Dispar est gloria singulorum, attamen communis letitia omnium.

2. This glory is not now, but shall be: noteing a secret opposition betweene the<sup>x</sup> present troubles of this life, which are but for a now, and the future ioyes of the next, which endure for euer: our light affliction which is but for a moment, causeth vnto vs a farre more excellent and eternall weight of glorie, 2. Cor. 4. 17. And as the crosse which is now comes short of that crowne which shall be, both in weight and eternitie: so the pleasures of sinne continuing but for a season, are not of any worth to be compared with that infinite weight of eternall wrath due to them. As the seuen yeeres of famine in Agypt y did eate vp the former seuen yeeres of plenty: so shall the endlesse paines of the reprobate make all their former pleasure to be forgotten, the day will come wherein they will say, we haue no pleasure in them, Ecclesiastes 12. 1.

3. We note the claritie of this glory, <sup>z</sup> for that it shall be reuealed or shewed vpon vs: it was from<sup>a</sup> euerlasting prepared for vs, but it is not as yet possessed of vs, indeed<sup>b</sup> we are now the sonnes of God, but yet it doth not appeare what we shall be for our life is hid with Christ in God, but when Christ which is our life shall appeare then shall we also appeare with him in glory. <sup>d</sup> Then the reprobate shall change their minde, minde, and sigh for grieffe, and say this is he whom we sometime had in derision, and in a parable of reproch; we fooles thought his life madnesse, and his end without honour, but now is he counted among the children of God, and his portion is among the Saints.

Eternall happinesse is granted in our election, promised in our vocation, confirmed in our iustification, but not throughly possessed vntill our glorification: for <sup>c</sup> while we are strangers in the bodie we are absent from the Lord: non queras in via, quod tibi seruetur in patria (saith <sup>f</sup> Augustine;) seeke not that in the way which is reserved for thee till thou come to thy countrie. There is <sup>g</sup> a time to weepe and a time to laugh; here the time is to weepe, for <sup>b</sup> in the world ye shall haue affliction: hereafter our mourning shall be turned into mirth, Iohn 16. 20. for <sup>i</sup> they that sow in teares shall reape in ioy. Let vs therefore <sup>k</sup> possesse our soules in patience, <sup>l</sup> reioycing in the Lord alwaies, and againe, I say, reioycing. O taste and see (saith <sup>m</sup> David) how gracious the Lord is, blessed is the man that trusteth in h.m. If thou wilt draw me (quoth the <sup>n</sup> Church vnto Christ) we will run after thee, we will reioyce and be glad in thee. <sup>o</sup> Si sic bonus es sequentibus te, qualis futurus es consequentibus? If thou Lord be so good to such as seeke thee, what wilt thou be to such as finde thee? for we may be well assured that the first fruits of the spirit and earnest of our heauenly inheritance, wherein our greatest comfort consists in this life, shall appeare as nothing, when that infinite masse of glory shall be broken vp and communicated vnto vs, according to that of our Apostle, <sup>p</sup> When that which is perfect is come, then that which is imperfect shall be done away.

Lastly, <sup>q</sup> Diuines obserue the veritie or soliditie of this glory, for that it shall be shewed vpon vs, or as other reade, in vs Here then is a remarkable difference betweene the glory of a Christian, and the glory of a worldling: <sup>r</sup> the Kings daughter is all glorious within; but the worldling is all glorious without. Now the <sup>s</sup> Philosopher hath taught truly, that ciuill honour is not in the power of the person honoured, but in the person honouring: and therefore the worldlings glorie depending vpon the breath of vaine men, and possession of vaine matters, is altogether vncertaine: but the Christians glory, which is within, <sup>t</sup> cannot be taken from him.

First, this doctrine concerning our glory to come, confutes evidently the Popish opinion of merit: for there must be an equall proportion betweene the labour and the reward, where the labour deserueth the reward: but there is a great disproportion here, betweene our present affliction and future glory, not only <sup>u</sup> cognitione, sed conditione: the reward infinitely surpassing the worke both in truth, and in time. Therefore no passion or action can be worthy of the glory which shall be shewed vpon vs: as some read, non sunt pares: as Arius Montanus, non sunt dignae passiones nunc temporis ad futuram gloriam, as the Rhemists according to the vulgar Latine, the passions of this time are not condigne to the glory to come. For although a man could serue God most feruently for the space of a thousand yeeres, and suffer, if it were possible, ten thousand deaths euen for Christs sake, yet he should not deserue to liue one halfe day in the courts of heauen, as their owne <sup>x</sup> Anselmus ingenuously.

This collection I finde in the Commentaries of the most ancient <sup>y</sup> Fathers, as also stoutly maintained in our new writers: see Gospell for Septuagesima Sunday Fulke in loc. and defence of English translation against Martin: cap. 9. from the first to the seuenth section: Doctor Abbot against Bishop, tit. Merit. pag. 667. Doctor Morton appeale, lib. 2. cap. 11. §. 5.

Secondly, this ouerthroweth <sup>z</sup> Epicurus, denying Gods prouidence, because the wicked surfer in pleasure, while the godly suffer in paine: for there is another reckoning in another life, where the mirth of the one shall be turned into mourning, and the grieffe of the other into glory.

Thirdly, the meditation of our felicitie to come, should thrust out of our vnbeleueing hearts, all doubtfull and all carnall conceits of heauen; it is a glorie, not

<sup>c</sup> 2 Cor. 5. 6.

<sup>f</sup> De Sanctis.

Serm. 46.

<sup>g</sup> Ecclesiastes

3. 4

<sup>h</sup> Iohn 16 33.

<sup>i</sup> Psal. 126. 6.

<sup>k</sup> Luke 21. 19

<sup>l</sup> Philip 4. 4.

<sup>m</sup> Psal. 34. 8

<sup>n</sup> Cantic. 1. 3.

<sup>o</sup> Bernard. Ser.

47. in Cantica.

<sup>p</sup> I Cor. 13. 10

<sup>q</sup> Aquin.

Caetan.

Comper.

<sup>r</sup> Psal. 45. 14

<sup>s</sup> Ethic. lib. 1.

<sup>t</sup> Iohn 16. 22

<sup>u</sup> Gorr. an in loc

<sup>x</sup> De m. sural.

crucia: § nasci-

tur autem.

<sup>y</sup> Chrysostome

Theodores.

Occumen.

Primasius

<sup>z</sup> Melancthon.

in locum.

not hidden as in this life, but reuealed, and so reuealed; as that it is not only without vs, or vpon vs, but reuealed in vs, and that not for a now, but for euer.

Lastly, this should incite men vnder the crosse to runne with patience the race that is set before them, as being assured that their reward in heauen is a life, and such a life as is <sup>a</sup> eternall: a glory, and such a glorie as is a <sup>b</sup> crowne of glory: a kingdome, and such a kingdome as cannot be <sup>c</sup> shaken: it is an inheritance, and such an inheritance which is <sup>d</sup> immortall and fades not away. <sup>e</sup> Tell O man what thou most desirest? Is there any thing thou louest better than life? Is there any better life than a life of glory? Is there any greater glory than a kingdome of glory? Is there any surer kingdome than that which is thine by the right of an immortall and permanent inheritance? Yet all these things are prouided and reserved for them who patiently suffer with the Lord Iesus.

<sup>a</sup> Rom. 6. 23.
<sup>b</sup> 1 Pet. 5. 4.
<sup>c</sup> Heb. 12. 28.
<sup>d</sup> 1 Pet. 1. 4.
<sup>e</sup> Comper. in loc.

Preached in Holyngborne, Jan. 15. ann. 1610. at the Funerall of Sir Martin Barnham Knight, who was in his time the diamond of his familie, the oracle of his acquaintance, Romney marches eye, the glory of his parish; and starr e of those parts. Vpon whom Almighty God, infinitely rich in mercy bestowed in the gifts of the world, good measure; in the gifts of nature, pressed downe; in the gifts of grace, shaken together; in the gifts of glory, now running-ouer.

Concerning the two subsequent arguments, If I haue spoken already the truth and enough, embrace it; if not, I pray thee draw me with good reasons, and I will runne after thee further, as <sup>f</sup> Augustine in the like case. But in the meane while I will accuse my selfe with <sup>g</sup> Origen; Gratias ago Deo, quod ignorantiam meam non ignoro: yet excuse my selfe with the <sup>h</sup> Poet:

Non ego cuncta meis amplecti versibus opto.

<sup>f</sup> Lib. 1. de Trinit. Cap. 3.
<sup>g</sup> In Iosuan:
<sup>h</sup> Virgil. 2. Georgic.

The Gospell, LUKE. 6. 36.

Be yee mercifull as your Father also is mercifull, &c.

Christs excellent Sermon preached in the <sup>i</sup> champion of the Mount vnto his <sup>k</sup> newly chosen Apostles, hath <sup>l</sup> two principall parts, one concerning the Gospell, another expounding the Law. This our text is parcell of the second part to wit, an <sup>m</sup> abridgement of all his long discourse touching loue:

<sup>i</sup> See *S. Augu-stin. de consensu.
Euang lib. 2. cap
13. & Maldo-
nat. in Math. 5.
reconciling.
Matthew and Luke.*
<sup>k</sup> Luke 6. 13.
<sup>l</sup> *Zepper. com. 1.
in Euang. Dom.
4. post Trinit.*
<sup>m</sup> *Luther postil.
maior. in loc.*

Precept, Be yee mercifull in	}	Abstaining from	}	Iudge not, condemne not, amplified, vers. 41. 42.
		iniurie,		Forgiuing, vers. 37. Giuing, vers. 38.
Patterne, as your Fa- ther is mercifull, in	}	Doing good,	}	Vnderstanding, a perfect master, and not a blinde leader of the blinde, vers. 39. 40.
				Affection, euer readie to giue and forgiue, kinde vnto the vnrkinde.

Wherein hee doth exhort all his followers vnto mercifulnesse, by

Promise, Iudge not, and ye shall not be iudged; condemne not, and ye shall not be condemned; forgiue, and ye shall be forgiuen; giue and it shall be giuen vnto you: re-compencing euery point of our mercie with a greater portion of his grace.

Be yee mercifull] He saith, <sup>n</sup> estote, non fingite, not only seeme but shew your selues mercifull in deed and in truth, as S. Iohn expounds his Master, 1. Epist. chap. 3. vers. 18. The <sup>o</sup> Romans vsually painted friendship with her hand on her heart, <sup>n</sup> *Ferus serm. 1.

Dom. 5. post Pentecost.*
<sup>o</sup> *Fagius com. in Apotheg. Rab.
cap. 5.*

heart, signifying that a true friend should haue nothing in the circumference of his lips, which at the first came not from the center of his loue: saluting, iudging, giuing, forgiuing from the heart. Hypocrites are so precise, that comedies and other like pastimes are reputed by them either bellish or heathenish; and yet by their good leane, themselves are the greatest stage-keepers, and the most vsuall maskers in the whole world: as <sup>p</sup> Augustine and <sup>q</sup> Ambrose speak, Theatricall actors of osher parts and persons, appearing in <sup>r</sup> sheeps clothing, when as inwardly they be rauening wolues. If a distressed neighbour come to their gate, they will shew him more diuinitie than humanitie, cloying his memorie with texts against idlenesse and beggerie, but I warrant you, not oucr-charging his stomacke with meat against hunger: and for that a Papist will rather lose a pennie than a Pater noster; they to crosse the superstitious in all their damnable positions, are more willing to giue a pater noster than a pennie. The wicked will giue panem promptuarij, but they forsooth are so mercifull as to giue panem sanctuarij: as if an hungry soule were like <sup>t</sup> Charles of Prage, who supped oft with a few sentences and arguments in the schoole.

Againe, Christs estote makes against apish Courtiers, as being more curious to salute, than carefull to salue their brethren. That old fashion of saluting hand in hand is left, and now embracing one another we cast armes in armes: but (as one well obserued) an handfull of that old friendship is better than an armesfull of the new courtesie. This fault heretofore was vpon the point a Courtier only, but now citizens and countrymen too can <sup>v</sup> speak friendly, imagining mischiefe in their heart. Howsoeuer they seeme to be like Plato, who was accounted an <sup>u</sup> honie mouth, or Bernard, so called, <sup>x</sup> quasi bona nardus: as sweet as spicknard: or Theophrastus, so termed for his heauenly language: yet if you will examine their actions, you shall finde them as faithlesse as Peter, denying their master as trecherous as Indus, betraying their Lord, as cruell as Doeg, slaying their Priests, as malicious as Cain, killing their brother, as vnaturall as Nero, murthering their mother: in v melle lingue sita atq; orationes, laeteg; corda sunt felle lita atq; acerbo aceto: so that we may conclude with <sup>z</sup> Bernard, periculosa tempora iam non instant, sed extant: the dangerous daies fore-told by <sup>a</sup> Christ, wherein our charitie should wax cold, are not instant only, but extant.

As your Father is mercifull] Adam aspiring to be like God in knowledge, was cast out of Paradise: Lucifer aspiring to be like God in maiestie, was cast out of heauen; but by coueting to be like God in goodnesse and loue, neither man nor Angell, euer did nor shall transgresse. As, in the text, is a note of qualitie, not equalitie: we cannot equall God in loue; for alas all our mercifulnesse is faint and finite, whereas his mercy towards vs is full and infinite: yet we must be <sup>b</sup> followers of God as deare children, imitating his example so fast as we can, and so farre as we may; louing one another as Christ loued vs, as for the manner, albeit wee cannot for the measure. See Epist 3. Sun. in Lent.

Now God is { Skilfull in dirigendo, being a perfect master.
 Pitifull in corrigeno, not <sup>c</sup> breaking the bruised reed, nor quenching the smoking flax.
 Bountifull in porrigeno, giuing to all <sup>d</sup> bread and <sup>e</sup> breath and all things.

According to this copie we must draw the lines of our life, not iudging any, but in <sup>f</sup> long suffering and doctrine, & doing good vnto all, especially to such as are of the household of faith: in giuing we must be so mercifull as Christ, <sup>h</sup> who laid downe his life for vs: in forgiuing readie to pardon euery man, euén as God for Christs sake forgane vs, Ephes. 4. 32.

Iudge not] <sup>i</sup> He doth not here simply forbid to iudge, but rather instruct how to iudge. He doth not infringe the publike iudging of the Pastor, or Prince: not of the Pastor, for his Apostle <sup>k</sup> Paul in his name, did excommunicate an incestuous Corinthian, and it was his owne canon elsewhere, dic Ecclesia, Matrh. 18 17. and as for the ciuill Magistrates authoritie to iudge, <sup>l</sup> God commanded

<sup>p</sup> De Ser. Dom. in monte, lib. 2. in principio.
<sup>q</sup> Lib. de Elia, cap. 10
<sup>r</sup> Matth 7. 15.

<sup>t</sup> Dr. Humfred. in vita Iacki, pag 26.

<sup>v</sup> Psalm. 28. 3.
<sup>u</sup> Ficinus in vita Platonis.
<sup>x</sup> Epitaph. Bernard. in sin. operum.

<sup>y</sup> Plautus in Truculento, act. 1.
<sup>z</sup> De consuetat. lib. 1.
<sup>a</sup> Matth 24. 12

<sup>b</sup> Ephes. 5. 1.

<sup>c</sup> Matth. 12 20

<sup>d</sup> Matth. 6. 11
<sup>e</sup> Acts 17. 25.

<sup>f</sup> 2 Tim 4. 2.
<sup>g</sup> Galath. 6. 10
<sup>h</sup> 1 Iohn 3. 16

<sup>i</sup> Hieron. in Matth. 7.
<sup>k</sup> 1 Cor. 5. 4.
<sup>l</sup> Exod. 18. 21.
 22.

<sup>m</sup> Rom. 13. 1.

<sup>n</sup> 1 Cor. 11. 31

<sup>o</sup> Matth. 18. 15

<sup>p</sup> 1 Tim. 5. 24.

<sup>q</sup> Matth. 7. 16.

<sup>r</sup> Esay 5. 20.

<sup>f</sup> Augustin. de serm. Dom. in monte, lib. 2. Iansen. concord. cap. 43. Ferus ser. 4. Dom. 5. post Trinit. Chrysolom Euthym Anselm Caietan. Maldonat. in Matth. 7. & reliquis sermons in loc. Anselm in Matth. 7. & Luther in loc. 1 Cor 4. 8. 2 Vbi supra.

<sup>z</sup> Habac. 2. 4.
Rom. 5. 1.
Galath. 2. 16.
Luther postil maior in loc. signum & sigillum.

<sup>a</sup> 2 Pet. 1. 10.
<sup>b</sup> Augustin in Psalm.
<sup>c</sup> Vega in Euan. gel. Dom. 1. p. 1. Trinit.

Moses to provide men of courage, fearing God, and kating conuentionesse, and to place them Rulers and Iudges over his people: strictly charging all men vnder the Gospell also, to <sup>m</sup> submit themselues vnto superiour powers. Neither doth he condemne priuate iudging of our selues and ether vpon sufficient ground: not of our selues, for euery man must examine himselfe, saith Paul; and therefore whereas our blessed Sauiour here, Iudge not, and ye shall not be iudged: he not confounding, but expounding his matter: <sup>n</sup> If we would iudge our selues, we should not be iudged. It is lawfull alio to passe our iudgement of other in some matters, and at some time; for if a brother offend thee, saith <sup>o</sup> Christ tell him his fault between thee and him alone; if he will neither heare thee nor the Church, hold him as an Heathen man and a Publican. The sinnes of some men (as <sup>p</sup> Paul speakes) are open before hand, and goe before vnto iudgement: and therefore knowing such by their <sup>q</sup> fruits, it is lawfull to iudge and condemne them too, saying, that a rancke Atheist obstinately dying an Atheist is damned. If any matter appeare so manifestly, <sup>r</sup> Woe to them that speake good of euill, and euill of good, which put darknesse for light, and light for darknesse, that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for soure.

Our Sauiours meaning then is not (as <sup>f</sup> Interpreters generally note) to forbid all kinds of iudging, but only rash and vncharitable censuring of our brethren: it is our part to commend in another euery thing which is apparant good, and to make the best of any thing which is doubtfull: as Christ construeth himselfe; we may not be curious in obseruing, nor criticall in condemning a mote in anothers eye, not seeing the beame that is in our owne eye: we may not be forward to finde peccadilloes in other, ouerseeing grosse faults in our selues. Hypocrite, cast out first the beame that is in thine owne eye, then shalt thou see perfectly to pull out the mote that is in thy brothers eye.

Condemne not] If we iudge rashly; let vs not proceed to condemne vncharitably: <sup>t</sup> for he that sermeth in our eye reprobate, may be iust before God; or if to day bad, he may to morrow be better: and therefore let vs not iudge, much lesse condemne <sup>u</sup> before the time. * S. Augustine hath well obserued that rash iudgement consistes in two things especially; to wit in condemning a man, and in condemning his meaning: as for example, thy neighbour is bonntifull in releuing the poore; thou test his maundie, but thou knowest not his minde, and therefore condemne not his meaning: if afterward it be made manifest vnto thee, that he bestowed his aimes not out of true charitie, but out of vaine-glorie; yet condemne not vterly the man, he may liue long, and loue better: non ergo reprehendamus ea quae nescimus quo animo fiant, neque ita reprehendamus quae manifesta sunt ut desperemus sanitatem. Here then the Gospell is expounded in the Epistle, Iudge not, condemne not, saith Christ in the one; because it doth not appeare who be the sonnes of God in this life, saith Paul in the other.

Forgiue, and it shall be forgiuen, giue, and it shall be giuen vnto you] Our iustification before God is not by these good workes, as the Papists ordinarily note; but only by faith in Christ, as the Scripture teacheth y<sup>e</sup> else-where: yet because iustifying faith is operative, working through loue, Gal. 5. 6. this giuing and forgiuing are <sup>z</sup> signes and seales of our faith: hereby we make <sup>a</sup> our calling and election sure, knowing that we are translated from death vnto life, because we loue the brethren, 1 Iohn 3. 14. See Epistle 2. Sunday after Trinitie, and the Gospell on all Saints day.

The mercifulnesse of God in forgiuing } Debtor, <sup>b</sup> for man offending vs is our mate, but God whom we trespasse in our matter.
of God in forgiuing } Debt, our neighbours debt vnto vs is but an hundred pence is great in respect of } but our debt to God is ten thousand talents, as Christ in the parable, Matth. 18. 24. 28.

Now then if a <sup>c</sup> debtor owing thee but an hundred pounds, and hauing a band of thine in his hands of a thousand, should out of his loue say, forgiue me the lesser lesser debt, and I will forgieue you the greater summe, thou wouldest entertaine his kinde offer greedily: yet such is the case betweene God and thee, forgieue but a penny, and you shall be forg'uen a pound, forgieue but an hundred, and you shall be forg'uen a thousand: forget but a mote, forgieue but a mite, and God will forgieue thee a masse, yea a mine.

Good measure, and pressed downe, and shaken together, and running ouer. He that seeketh good things getteth fauour, but he that seeketh euill it shall come vnto him: all men for the most part loue the mercifull, and loth the miser: but albeit incontinent men oft proue ingratefull, rewarding euill for good; almightie God is euer so good as his word, yea better then his promise, giuing to such as giue, an hundred fold now at this present, and in the world to come eternall life. They that sowe sparingly, shall reape also sparingly; but they that sowe liberally shall reape liberally, 2. Cor. 9. 6. Prou. 11. 24. and 28. 27. Deut. 24. 19. In a word God giueth vs good measure, in the gifts of the world; making our garners full and plentuous with all manner of store: pressed downe in the gifts of nature; giuing vs health and strength of bodie, teaching our hands to warre and our fingers to fight, making our feet like Harts feete, and our armes able to breake a bow of Steele: shaken together in the gifts of grace; running ouer in the gifts of glory: for all that we can giue or forgieue to men, is not worthy of the glorie which shall be bestowed vpon vs: and <sup>1</sup> here the Gospell and Epistle meet againe.

The Lord of his infinite goodnesse encrease and multiply vpon vs his mercie: that he being our rule and guide, we may so respect his holy word, and expect his heauenly reward, that passing through things temporall, we lose not finally the things eternall: Amen.

The Epistle. 1. PET. 3. 8.

Be ye all of one minde and one heart. &c.

THE Roman Missall addeth here the words in oratione: but as their owne <sup>n</sup> Iesu suit censureth aptly, propter usum Ecclesie non est mutandus vsus scripture: we may not alter the text to fit our turne. The vulgar Latine hath in fide: whereupon Aquine, Lyranus, Hugo, Carthusianus, and many moe popish Interpreters haue construed this of faith: <sup>o</sup> as farre from the matter as the blinde mans arrow from the marke. The Church of England translates according to the word <sup>p</sup> original <sup>q</sup> in conclusion, or <sup>r</sup> finally; so the most accurate Papists: Emmanuel Sa reads, denique, Caietan and Lorinus, in sine, Vatablus, in summa. The Rhemists according with them all, in sine, all of one minde: for S. Peter hauing deliuered many precepts appertaining to many particular persons in the former part of this Chapter, he commeth in our text to set downe <sup>f</sup> generall rules, as a summe of all summes in grosse, belonging to all men, in all matters:

Instructing vs how to { Doe good, be ye all of one minde, &c.
Suffer euill, not rendering euill for euill, or rebuke for rebuke.

All which he doth inforce by two principall arguments { especially; from our

1. Calling, vers. 9. knowing that ye are thereunto called, even that ye should be heires of the blessing. { Eternal, he that doth long after life, and loveth to see good dayes, let him refraine his tongue from euill, vers. 10. 11.
2. Com- { Internal, the cies of the Lord are ouer fort, { the righteous, vers. 12. and therefore bee not afraid nor troubled, but sanctifie the Lord God in your heart, vers. 14. 15.
External, who is he that will harme you if you follow that which is good? vers. 13

<sup>d</sup> Prou. 11. 27.

<sup>e</sup> Psalm. 35. 12

<sup>f</sup> Augustin. sc.

99. ac temp.

Matura tribuit

quam primitiu

<sup>g</sup> Marke 10. 30

<sup>h</sup> Postil cum

glossis & figuris

in locum.

<sup>i</sup> Psal. 144. 13.

<sup>k</sup> Psal. 18. 33.

34.

<sup>l</sup> Vide Ferum.

ser. 2. Dom. 5

post Pentecost.

<sup>m</sup> Dom. 5. post

Pentecost.

<sup>n</sup> Lorin in loc.

<sup>o</sup> Erasmus annot in loc Nihil huiusmodi Petrus

aut sensit, aut

scripsit.

<sup>p</sup> τὸ δὲ πᾶσι

<sup>q</sup> lib. Hen 8.

<sup>r</sup> lib. Elizab. &

Cereua.

<sup>s</sup> Aquine.

Sacerius,

Caietan.

Calaine.

Be ye all of one minde and of one heart] Concerning vnanimitie, see Epist. 1. Sund. in Lent, and Epist. on whitfunday: concerning brotherly loue, see Epist. 3. Sunday after Easter: concerning pitie, Epist. 2. Sunday after Epiphanie, and Epist. 2. after Trinit. concerning meekenesse, Epist. 3. Sunday after Trinit. Only note by the way, that in this excellent catalogue meekenesse is the last, and vnanimitie the first vertue; for without <sup>1</sup> loue we could not haue the rest, and without <sup>2</sup> humilitie we cannot keepe the rest.

Not rendering euill for euill, or rebuke for rebuke] In deed, not euill for euill: in word, not rebuke for rebuke; for as <sup>x</sup> one doth glosse the text, Reddere bonum pro bono humanum, reddere malum pro malo belluinum, reddere malum pro bono diabolicum, reddere vero bonum pro malo diuinum: it is the part of a man to render good for good, it is the part of a beast to render euill for euill, it is the part of a deuill to render euill for good, but it is the part of Gods Childe to render good for euill See Epist. 3. Sunday after Epiphanie.

But contrariwise blesse, knowing that ye are thereunto called, euen that ye should be heires of the blessing] The <sup>y</sup> Father of mercies hath <sup>2</sup> blessed vs with all spirituall blessings in heauenly things: he <sup>a</sup> called vs to this blessing in our election from all eternitie, Matth. 25. 34. Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit ye the kingdom prepared for you from the foundations of the world: and he calleth vs euery day to this blessing by the Gospell of Christ, <sup>b</sup> in whom all the nations of the world are blessed: he blessed vs when we did curse him, and <sup>c</sup> therefore let vs, imitating his example, blesse those that curse vs, that we may be the <sup>d</sup> children of our Father in heauen, suffering his Sunne to shine vpon the good and euill, and his raine to fall vpon the iust and vniust. This is our calling, and euery man ought, faith <sup>e</sup> Paul, abide in that vocation wherin he was called: a Christian in this case must say to the sonnes of Belial, as <sup>f</sup> Balam once to the seruants of Balake if Satan would giue me an house full of siluer and gold, or as he vainly promised, Christ, if he would and could giue me <sup>g</sup> all the kingdomes of the world, I cannot goe beyond the word of the Lord my God to doe lesse or more; seeing his will is that I should blesse, I may not render euill for euill, or rebuke for rebuke.

For he that doth long after life and loneth to see good daies] <sup>h</sup> The Doctours vsually construe this of eternall life; for the present is not indeed a life, but rather a death: in which are not good, but euill daies; according to that of the Patriarke Iacob, <sup>i</sup> Few and euill haue the dayes of my life beene. So S. Paul, Ephes. 5. 16. Redeeme the time, for the dayes are euill: and so S. Augustine in Psal. 33. Semper mali dies in seculo, sed semper boni dies in Deo. Yea but some will obiekt, heauenly Hierusalem <sup>k</sup> hath no need of the Sunne, neither of the Moone to shine vpon it, for Christ the Sunne of righteousness is the light of it: how then are dayes in the world to come? <sup>l</sup> Answer may be, that our Apostle speakes in the plurall, insinuating the great light and eternitie which the Saints haue, <sup>m</sup> for the iust shall shine as the Starres for euer and euer: here we liue but a short day, giue vs this day our daily bread; but hereafter in the world to come we shall haue dayes, and those good dayes, and great dayes, enen such as shall haue no night. Or haply S. Peter heere spake plurally, to signifie that the Father of lights hath two daies, <sup>n</sup> one of grace another of glory. Thou canst enioy neither, except thou refraine thy tongue from euill and thy lips that they speake no guile.

<sup>o</sup> Other referre this to the ciuill life; for if a man <sup>p</sup> seeke euill it shall come to him: he that will not abstaine from iniuring others shall be paid home againe the <sup>q</sup> same measure. Doest thou desire to see good dayes, and to lead in this present world a peaceable life, full of comfort to thy friends, and content to thy selfe be not <sup>r</sup> a busie Bishop in another mans diocesse, but studie to be quiet and to meddle with thine owne businesse: refraine thy tongue from euill, and thy lips that they speake no guile, eschew euill and doe good, seeke peace and ensue it.

Let him refraine his tongue from euill] If thou doest loue to see good dayes, performe good duties: <sup>s</sup> in word, refraine thy tongue: in deed, eschew euill, and doe good: in thought, seeke peace and ensue it. Refraine thy tongue from all euill speaking

<sup>1</sup> 1 Cor. 13. 4. 5

<sup>2</sup> Aquin. & Marlorat in loc.

<sup>3</sup> Royard. hom.

1. in loc.

<sup>7</sup> 2 Cor. 1. 3.

<sup>2</sup> Ephes. 1. 3.

<sup>2</sup> Sarcenius in locum.

<sup>b</sup> Galath. 3. 8.

<sup>c</sup> Kilius collect. in loc. Idem

<sup>B</sup> & English Gloss.

<sup>d</sup> Matth. 5. 45.

<sup>e</sup> 1 Cor. 7. 20

<sup>f</sup> Numb. 23. 18

<sup>g</sup> Matth. 4. 9

<sup>h</sup> Hieron.

Augustin.

Euthym.

Turrecrem.

Genevard in

Psal. 33. Idem

Aquin. & Lo-

rin. in locum.

<sup>i</sup> Genes. 47. 9.

<sup>k</sup> Apocal. 21. 23

<sup>l</sup> Aquin in loc.

& Euthym in

Psal. 33.

<sup>m</sup> Dan. 12. 3.

<sup>n</sup> Vitriacus apud Lorin. in

locum.

<sup>o</sup> Sarcenius &

Marlorat. in

locum.

<sup>p</sup> Prou. 11. 27

<sup>q</sup> Matth. 7. 2.

<sup>r</sup> 1 Pet. 4. 15.

<sup>s</sup> 1 Theff. 4. 11

<sup>t</sup> Aquin. in loc.

speaking in <sup>u</sup> generall, and thy lips that they speake no guile: in particular, refraine thy tongue from <sup>x</sup> slandering thy neighbour behinde his backe, and thy lips from flattering him before his face. Thy tongue (saith Aguine) from open euill, and thy lips from secret hurt. This lesson is hard, for the <sup>y</sup> tongue is an vn-ruly euill, full of deadly poison, it must be kept with a <sup>z</sup> watch, and with a <sup>a</sup> bridle, yea with <sup>b</sup> doores and barres.

It is recorded in <sup>c</sup> Ecclesiasticall historie, that the reuerend Hermite Pambo being ignorant himselfe, desired another to teach him a Psalme: who hearing the first verse of the 39. Psalme, Dixi custodiam, I said I will take heed to my waies, that I offend not in my tongue; would not suffer his tutor to proceed vnto the second verse; for (saith he) the first is lesson enough: and excusing himselfe for not resorting vnto his schoole-master in three moneths after, he confessed ingenuously, that as yet he had not learned well his first lecture: yea fortie nine yeeres after being asked of the same matter, his answer was still the same, that as yet hee had not fully kept this one lesson, which is our lesson here, refraine thy tongue, &c.

Let him eschew euill and doe good] An <sup>d</sup> abridgement of the Law, whose negative part forbids all euill, and affirmative commands all that is good: now, saith <sup>e</sup> S. Iames, he that fauleth in one point is guiltie of all: and therefore we must not not only decline that which is bad, but also cleave to that which is good: <sup>s</sup> ceasing to doe euill, learning to doe well; <sup>h</sup> hating euill; <sup>l</sup> louing iustice; <sup>i</sup> destroying vice, planting vertue. The <sup>k</sup> tree that bringeth not forth good fruit, is hewen downe and cast into the fire, <sup>l</sup> leaues are not sufficient, it must not keepe the ground barren, Luk. 13.7. The slothfull and vnprofitable seruant <sup>m</sup> hiding his masters talent in the earth, haply did eschew euill, and yet he was cast into vtter darknesse for that he did no good: bonum enim non est defectus, sed effectus; neque ponitur in non efficiendo, sed in proficiendo.

Let him seeke peace and ensue it] Inquirat, <sup>n</sup> id est intus querat: let him earnestly seeke it with all his heart, peace with God, <sup>o</sup> which passeth all vnderstanding; and peace with men, <sup>p</sup> if it be possible with all men. <sup>q</sup> Inquirat affectu, sequatur effectum: let him affectionately seeke it, and effectually follow it; if thou see it going away, run after it, pursue it with eagernesse, vsing all meanes possible that it depart not from thee: <sup>r</sup> persequere donec assequaris, insue it vntill thou canst enjoy it.

For the eyes of the Lord are ouer the righteous] And therefore seeing the God of <sup>t</sup> consolation is euer ready to confound our enemies, and comfort vs in extremitie: Be not afraid of any terrour of them, neither be ye troubled, but sanctifie the Lord God in your heart. In doing good there is a great labour, yet a greater reward: <sup>v</sup> Grandis labor, sed grande pramium esse quod martyres, esse quod Apostoli, esse quod Christus.

Who is he that will harme you if you follow that which is good?] For <sup>u</sup> when the wayes of a man please the Lord, he will make his enemies at peace with him: or if we conuerse with such as will not haue peace; yet happie are you when any trouble hapneth vnto you for righteousnesse sake: your temporall harme shall occasion an eternall good; for <sup>x</sup> great is your reuward in heauen; or as <sup>y</sup> Augustine most diuinely, inimicus in terra geminat conuitia, tu in caelo lucra.

<sup>a</sup> Enchym. in Psalm. 33.
<sup>x</sup> Sarcarius in locum.
<sup>y</sup> Iam 3.8.
<sup>z</sup> Psalm. 141 3.
<sup>a</sup> Psalm. 39 3.
<sup>b</sup> Ecclesiasticus 28.24.
<sup>c</sup> Tripartit. hist. lib. 8. cap. 1.

<sup>d</sup> Genebrardus in Psalm. 33.
<sup>e</sup> cap. 2. verse 10
<sup>f</sup> Rom. 12.9.
<sup>g</sup> Esay. 1.19
<sup>h</sup> Amos 5.15.
<sup>i</sup> Hieron. in Psalm. 33.
<sup>k</sup> Matth. 3.10.
<sup>l</sup> Matth. 21.19.
<sup>m</sup> Matth. 25.25

<sup>n</sup> Glossa.
<sup>o</sup> Philip 4.7.
<sup>p</sup> Rom. 12.18
<sup>q</sup> Aquin. in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Em. Sa. in Psalm 33.

<sup>s</sup> 2. Cor. 1.3.

<sup>t</sup> Hieron. epist. ad Eustoc.
<sup>u</sup> Prou. 16.7.

<sup>v</sup> Matth 5.12.
<sup>y</sup> In Psalm 54.

The Gospell. L V K E 5. 1.

It came to passe that (when the people pressed vpon him to heare the word of God) he stood by the lake of Genezareth, &c.

<sup>a</sup> Pellican, Aretius, Zepper.

<sup>c</sup> Zealoufinesse of the people in hearing, vers. 1. they pressed vpon him to heare the word of God.

IN this Gospell Obferue the Affirming the truth in his word, wher-in note

Circumstances of

Time, when people pressed.

Place, on the water in a ship.

Gesture, he saie.

Substance, he taught the people.

1. Christs command, launch out into the deepe, &c. vers. 4.

2. Peters obedience, Master wee haue laboured all night, and haue taken nothing, neuer-thelesse at thy command, &c.
verse 5.

3. The fishers agreeing, they beckned to their fellowes, &c.
verse 7.

4. The miracle, they inclosed a great multitude of fishes,
vers. 6.

5. The consequence of the miracle, when Simon Peter saw this, he fell downe at Iesus knees, saying, Lord goe from me, for I am a sinfull man, &c.
verse 8, 9, 10, 11.

<sup>a</sup> Carefulnesse of Christ in teaching,

Confirming the same with a wonder, about which foue points are regardable:

<sup>a</sup> Iansen. concord, cap. 26.

When the people pressed vpon him] Our blessed Saviour drew men vnto him in such sort, that neither his Maiesty nor their miserie, neither <sup>b</sup> hunger, nor <sup>c</sup> night, nor <sup>d</sup> strangenesse of place nor straitnesse of passage could keep them from him: vt magis irruerent quam rogarent, & medicinam salutis non sperarent per humilitatis gratiam, sed per importunitatis iniuriam: as <sup>e</sup> S. Ambrose doth glosse this text: They came to Christ, and comming they pressed vpon him: and they pressed to heare and to heare the word of God. Whose <sup>f</sup> zealous diligence condemnes exceedingly the want of deuotion in many people, who being crop-sicke, doe not hunger after the righteousnesse of Gods kingdome, nor thirst after the water of life; but loath the Gospell of Christ, euen that heavenly Manna, which is the spirituall food of their soules. When the people pressed, Christ preached: Hereby directing vs to strike with the <sup>g</sup> hammer of his word while the zeale of our hearers is hot, being <sup>h</sup> instant in season and out of season.

And he entred into one of the ships which pertained to Simon] It is a very common note, that Simons ship is a <sup>i</sup> type of the Church militant, floting in the waues of this troublesome world. The politicians accuse it of folly, the superstitious of heresie, the schismaticall of idolatrie, the Iewes iest at it, the Separatists runne out of it, the Turkes despise it. In this ship Christ is tossed, but the people stand on the shoare. The <sup>j</sup> Pastor is exposed to greater perill then his parishioners, if any tempest arise. <sup>k</sup> Literally: Christ raught in the wildernesse, in the city, sometime conferring with <sup>l</sup> one, sometime instructing multitudes, in the synagogue, in the streets, on the land, in the water; in euery place where he came it was his meat and his drinke to do the will of his Father, and therefore being here pressed vpon

<sup>b</sup> Marke 8. 2

<sup>c</sup> Luke 4. 4. 2.

<sup>d</sup> Luke 4 4 2.

<sup>e</sup> Scrm. II.

<sup>f</sup> See possil.
Heming & Arden in loc.

<sup>g</sup> Jerem. 23. 29.

<sup>h</sup> 2 Tim. 4 2

<sup>i</sup> Ambros. ubi supra. Augul. quast. Enang.
lib. 2 quest 2.
Beda, Tolet. in
locum.

<sup>j</sup> Hemingius

<sup>k</sup> Ambros. lan.
sen. Caietan. in
locum

John 4.

vpon

vpon, and oppressed with troupes of auditors, he makes a ship his <sup>m</sup> pulpit, <sup>n</sup> that he might with greater conuenience teach them. Euery man therefore must labour in his seuerall vocation and office to follow Christs example, doing so much good as he can at all times and in all places.

And prayed him that he would thrust out a little from the land] He did intreat who might haue commanded: hereby shewing his <sup>o</sup> meeknesse; as <sup>p</sup> also that his <sup>q</sup> yoke is easie and his burden light: And lastly, that no <sup>r</sup> seruice is acceptable to God; except it be done with our heart and good will cheerfully, Prou. 23. 26. Mystically, Christ aduising Peter to thrust out a little from the land, doth insinuate that such as do instruct the people must neither be shallow, nor yet too deepe in their doctrine: they must thrust off from earth, and yet but a little: <sup>t</sup> Ut nec terrena eis precipiantur, nec sic à terrenis in profundiora sacramentorum recedatur ut ea penitus non intelligant. Or as <sup>u</sup> other, he thrust off a little from the land, to signifie that his fishing is not as our angling: we standing on the shore draw fish out of the sea, but he riding on the sea caught men on the shore: for the Church his <sup>v</sup> plant is a tree turned vpside downe, whose root is in heauen, albeit her boughes are on earth.

He saue downe] This gesture sheweth his <sup>x</sup> Maiestie, teaching as one that hath authoritie, Mark. 1. 22. as also that his words are <sup>y</sup> setled and sure like to mount Sion which cannot be removed: heauen and earth shall passe away, (quoth he) but my words shall not passe away, Matth. 24. 35.

And taught the people] First he taught men, and then caught fish; <sup>z</sup> preferring the spirituall food before the corporall: he gaue both in due time; first a Sermon, and after a Salmon. It is said in generall only, that he taught: <sup>a</sup> intimating that his instruction at this time, and in this place, was such as at other times, and in other places. Now Christs other Sermons stood vpon two points especially; repentance and faith: Repentance, Matth. 4. 17. From that time Iesus began to preach, amend your liues, for the kingdome of heauen is at hand: Faith, Luk. 4. 18. The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, that I should preach the Gospell vnto the poore, &c. This was the summarie pith of all his doctrine, and ought to be the substance of all our hearing and preaching. <sup>b</sup> For euery Christian hath two contrarie natures, one of the flesh, another of the Spirit; and that he may become perfect in Christ, his earnest endeouour must be to tame the flesh, and comfort the Spirit. The Law is the <sup>c</sup> ministerie of death, and serueth fitly for the subduing of the flesh: and the Gospell is the <sup>d</sup> power of God vnto saluation, and serueth as aptly for the strengthening of the Spirit.

And when he had lest speaking] <sup>e</sup> After his words he comes to works: hereby teaching that our good deeds are the best glosse we can set vpon any text. It is recorded in the stories of England, that <sup>f</sup> Ethelburga reclaimed her incontinent and lewd husband more with one example, then she could with infinite precepts: and that <sup>g</sup> Egbertus in a great difference concerning the celebration of Easter, was heard and embraced of each side, Quoniam & doctor suauissimus, & eorum quæ agenda docebat executor doctissimus.

Launch out into the deepe] Albeit euery good and perfect gift be from aboue; <sup>h</sup> yet we may not neglect ordinary labour in our vocation. An husbandman must <sup>i</sup> haste to rise vp early, late take rest, eat the bread of carefulnesse, and then haply his ground shall stand so thicke with corne, <sup>k</sup> that it laugh and sing: then his <sup>l</sup> garners may be full and plenteous with all manner of store: then his sheepe may bring forth thousands, and ten thousands in his field; his oxen strong to labour, and no decay in his cattell. If the Preacher plant with Paul, and water with Apollos; in his doctrine plant, water in his exhortation; plant in the Pulpit, water in the Presse; plant in his instruction, and water in his conuersation; assuredly the Lord will giue an increase; He shall inclose within the net of the Church a very great multitude of soules. He that hath an office must attend his <sup>m</sup> office, the sea-man ought to keepe his ship, and the tradesman his shop, vsing ordinarie meanes, and ordinary labour about these meanes; according <sup>m</sup> Zepper. con. 2. in locum.

<sup>n</sup> Tolet. in loc. Idem Parigarella ex Chryssostom.

<sup>o</sup> Theophylact.
<sup>p</sup> Beauxamis.
<sup>q</sup> Matth. 8. 30.
<sup>r</sup> Pontan.

<sup>s</sup> Augustin. vbi supra. & Gregor. Moral. lib. 17. cap. 14. See Parigarella vol hom. in loc. part. 1.

<sup>t</sup> Esay 5. 7.
<sup>u</sup> Augustin. de serm. Dom. in monte. lib. 1. Idem Bonavent. & Beauxamis in locum.

<sup>v</sup> Arboreus in locum.
<sup>w</sup> Sarcerius in locum.
<sup>x</sup> Marlorat. in locum.

<sup>y</sup> Perkins tract how to apply Gods word, sect. 1. 2.
<sup>z</sup> 1. Cor. 3. 7.
<sup>a</sup> Rom. 1. 16.

<sup>b</sup> Tolet.

<sup>c</sup> Malmesbur. de gestis Regum Angl. lib. 1. cap. 2.
<sup>d</sup> Bada lib. 4.

cap. 23. & Baroni- nus unal rom. 9 fol. 9.

<sup>e</sup> Culinan.
<sup>f</sup> Marlorat.

<sup>g</sup> Zepper.
<sup>h</sup> Psal 127. 3.

<sup>i</sup> Psal 65. 14.
<sup>k</sup> Psal 144. 13.

<sup>m</sup> Rom. 12. 7.

<sup>a</sup> Psalm. 128 2.

to that of the <sup>a</sup> Psalmist, Thou shalt eat the labours of thine hands; O well is thee, and happy shalt thou be. First feare God, then labour, and so eat: if Peter will haue fish, he must launch out into the deepe, and let slip his nets.

<sup>o</sup> See Iacob de vorag. serm. 1. Dom. 5. post Trinit.

We haue laboured all night and haue taken nothing, neuerthelesse at thy commandment I will loose forth the net] <sup>o</sup> Many things might hinder Simon in his faith and obedience. First, for that he was already wearied, we haue laboured. Secondly, for that Christ, as it might seeme, commanded a thing both hard and fruitlesse. Hard, because to launch out into the deepe, is more dangerous than to ride neere the shore. Fruitlesse, we haue laboured in the <sup>p</sup> fittest time, to wit, in the night, and all night, and yet haue caught nothing, neuerthelesse at thy command, &c. ¶ Ye sow much, and bring in little; yee eat, but haue not enough; yee drinke, but are not filled; yee clothe you, but yee be not warme: because, saith the Lord, mine house is waste, and yee runne euery man vnto his owne house. So Peter here laboured in vaine, till he tooke Christ into the ship with him; after at his word, and in his name loosing his net, hee caught a great number of fishes.

<sup>r</sup> Prou. 10. 22.

It is the blessing of the Lord that makes a man rich. Against which rule two sorts of men offend especially, the faithlesse, and the carelesse. The faithlesse, imagining that the increase of wine and oyle dependeth altogether vpon their owne wit, industrie, cunning, and sometime couin. Against this follie David composed the 127. Psalme, Except the Lord build the house, their labour is but lost that build it. The carelesse, who neuer thinke on God in obtaining a blessing, nor thanke God in vsing his blessing. ¶ Let vs learne therefore by this present miracle, that euery man ought to labour in his vocation, and that the successe of his labour commerth only from God: for it is not said, duc in alium, but duc in altum; insinuating that if Christ blesse Simon, he shall euen with the same net, and in the same deepe where he could take nothing, inclose a great multitude of fishes.

<sup>r</sup> Hemingius.

<sup>r</sup> Tolet. & Mal. donat. in loc.

In a mysticall sense: the reason why the fishers of men labour much all night, and all day too, yet catch nothing, is either the fishes fault, or the fishers fault.

<sup>a</sup> Iacob de Vorag. ser. 3. in loc.

The fishes fault, because <sup>u</sup> some are { Craftie and will not.

Slipperie and cannot.
Great and may not.
Little and dare not.

<sup>r</sup> Psalm 58. 4.

<sup>r</sup> Job 5 13.

<sup>r</sup> Matth 5. 25.

<sup>r</sup> Augustin. de serm. Dom. in monte lib. 1.

The worldling is so wise that he will not bite at the bait, or come neere the net: the proud man holds Peter idle when he preacheth of humilitie: the wanton cannot endure so much as a text against incontinence: the miserable wretch accounts his Pastor vncharitable, when he makes a Sermon against coueteousnesse: He stoppeth his eares euen like the <sup>x</sup> deafe Adder, and will not heare the Charmer, although he charme neuer so sweetly: but what saith the Scripture; the Lord catcheth the wise in their owne craftinesse. Such as will not be caught in their life, will they nill they, shall be caught at their death: <sup>z</sup> Agree with thine aduersarie (saith our Sauiour) quickly whilest thou art in the way: <sup>a</sup> that is, labour to be reconciled to God while thou liuest, and hast time to repent, lest God in his anger bring thee to the Iudge, which is Christ; and Christ deliuer thee to the goaler, which is the deuill; and the deuill cast thee into prison, which is hell: I tell thee thou shalt not depart thence till thou hast paid the vtmost farthing; and therefore better it is to be caught in S. Peters net here, then to be bound in cuerlasting chaines herafter.

Hypocrites are slippery like Eeles, and cannot be taken: a fisher cannot tell whether they be caught or no; when Peter hath them inclosed in his net, and as he thinks in his hand sure, they will shew him a slippery trick:

Qui capit anguillam per caudam non capit illam.

<sup>b</sup> Cap. 5. vers. 5.

Statesmen of eminent place may not be taken; it is policie for Peter, if he launch out into the deepe, and let slip his net, not to touch them. I will get me to the great men and speake to them (saith the Prophet <sup>b</sup> Jeremie) but these men haue broken the yoke and burst the bonds, as the great flie breakes the cobweb.

<sup>c</sup> The

the Kings of the earth stand vp, and the Rulers take counsell together, against the Lord and against his annointed, saying, let vs breake their bonds asunder, and cast away their cords from vs. And therefore Paul who was an excellent fisher, and had throughly conuerted many, caught but a peece of King Agrippa. So the <sup>d</sup> text, almost thou perswadest me to become a Christian: almost is a great deale for so great a person: for <sup>e</sup> not many noble, not many mightie, not many wise men after the flesh are called: One Gamaliel or two may be caught among the wise, some few Zachees among the rich, haply Nicodemus among the Pharisees, a Centurion among the mightie, a Theophilus among the noble: moe would bee caught if they were not too great to be taught. It was once said by a <sup>f</sup> reuerend Father boldly: The Kings Chaplaines are of the closet, and they must keepe his faults close. The least sinnes of the greatest are like mount Sinai which may not be touched. And this I take to be the true reason why Princes are Denison in heauen, a rare dish, and why so tyrannous on earth, as our <sup>g</sup> Chronicles of Ethelred, scelus in principio, miser in medio, turpis in exitu.

Lastly, some fishes are such minnimes as that they dare not be taken: albeit they wish well vnto the fishers, and their fishing; yet they feare to come neere, lest their hookes hurt them. If any persecution arise for the truth in the ship, instantly they slip out of the net againe. Now <sup>h</sup> three sorts of men ought to be great venturers, a Souldier, an Husbandman, and a Merchant. Euey Christian is Gods souldier, promising in holy Baptisme to fight vnder Christs banners against the world, the flesh, and the deuill. He must therefore <sup>i</sup> suffer affliction as a good souldier of Iesus Christ. Euey Christian is an husbandman in Gods field, he must therefore venture his seed; for <sup>k</sup> he that obserueth the winde shall not sow, and he that regardeth the clouds shall not reape. Euey Christian is a factor in Gods businesse, Luk. 19. 13. negociamini donec venero: he must not therefore feare to put out his talent for his masters advantage. But howsoeuer some fishes are too great, and some too little, some too subtilie, some to silly; yet we must launch out into the deepe and let slip our nets, It is Christs inunction, and we must obey. <sup>l</sup> Such as say they will not preach, because they see little fruit of their labours, are troubled with that God gaue them no charge of; and leaue that vndone God chargeth them with. And haply some fault may bee found in the fishers also that nothing is taken, and that as we may gather out of the text in foure respects:

1. When they doe not fish in a good place: namely, when they doe not launch out into the deepe.

2. When they doe not fish with good nets, but broken.

3. When they doe not fish in a good time: to wit, in the night, and not in the day.

4. When they doe not fish at Christs command: in verbo Iesu.

First the fishers of men ought to launch into the deepe; <sup>m</sup> opening vnto the people great mysteries of godlinesse, 1. Tim. 3. 16. speaking vnto the <sup>n</sup> soule and conscience. The multitude, and most for the multitude sake, giue passage rather to that which is superficiall, then vnto that which is substantiall: our time resembling a riuer or streame which carieth downe vnto vs that which is light and blowne vp, but sincketh all that which is waightie and solide, and so while Peter fishes in the shallow plashe of moraltie, not in the deepe places of Diuinitie, no maruell if his taking be small. The flant and froth of a faire phrase without soundnesse of argument, and depth of iudgement, is like the first letter of a patent, or lined booke, which though it hath flourishes at large, yet is it but a letter, and by reason of those curious ornaments, not so well read as another plaine character. <sup>o</sup> Pigmaliions frenzie is a good embleme of this vanitie; for words are but the images of matter; and except they haue life of profoundnesse and quicke inuention, to fall in loue with them, is all one as to fall in loue with a picture.

Secondly, the fishers of men catch little when they fish with broken nets, and such are they who teach learnedly and liue lewdly: their accurate speech haply doth inclose many, but their ill example presently maketh holes in the net, and so

<sup>c</sup> Psalm 2.

<sup>d</sup> Acts 26. 28.
<sup>e</sup> 1. Cor. 1. 26.

<sup>f</sup> B. Latymer.

<sup>g</sup> Malmes de gest R. Angl.
lib. 3. cap. 10.

<sup>h</sup> Chrysostom.

<sup>i</sup> 2. Tim. 2. 3.

<sup>k</sup> Ecclesiastes
11. 4.

<sup>l</sup> B. Latymer Serm. at Stanford.

<sup>m</sup> Ambros.
serm 11.

<sup>n</sup> Ambros. lib 3.
de Virg. n. idem.
Tolet. in loc.

<sup>o</sup> Aduance ment of learning, lib. 1.

so they seldome draw men out of darkenesse into light, out of the gulfe of the dead sea into the land of the liuing: and therefore they must wash their nets, as the fishers here, and mend them, as James and Iohn<sup>e</sup> elsewhere.

Thirdly, when they fish in the night, <sup>a</sup> that is, in the darkenesse of their ignorance, not in the light of holy Scripture. <sup>c</sup> They would be Doctors of the Law, and yet understand not what they speake, neither wherof they affirme. Or when they do not obserue the best hint and time: for if Peter will haue any fish, he must cast out the net on the right side of the ship: he must <sup>c</sup> diuide the word of truth aright and teach dexterously.

Lastly, <sup>u</sup> when they do not fish in the word and in the name of Iesus. <sup>x</sup> I haue not sent these (saith the Lord) yet they ranne, I haue not spoken to them, and yet they prophesied. He that is Gods Ambassadour must not deliuer his owne errand, but the <sup>y</sup> words of God, in the <sup>z</sup> name of God: for this (as <sup>a</sup> one notes) is to cast out the net on the right side of the ship.

They inclosed a great multitude of fishes ] Here we may note Christs exceeding goodnesse, and wisdom. <sup>b</sup> Goodnesse, in paying to Peter so great a fare for his ship. <sup>c</sup> Wisdom, for that he called a fisher by this extraordinary draught of fish, as he did the star-gazing-wise by a star, Mat. 2.

But their net brake ] S. Peters fishing at the right side of the ship, Ioh. 21 6. is a <sup>d</sup> type of the Church triumphant; for Gods elect are said to stand at his <sup>e</sup> right hand: but his fishing here doth represent the Church militant, the draw-net whereof incloseth <sup>f</sup> all kinds of things, the bad with the good; and therefore <sup>g</sup> schismatickes and hereticke break the net and slip away; but the Lord knoweth <sup>h</sup> his, and no man shall <sup>i</sup> plucke them out of his hand; rumpitur rete, sed non labitur piscis, as venerable Bede notes vpon the place. The reprobate may breake the net, but not one of Gods elect shall perish.

And they beckened to their fellowes which were in the other ship, that they should come and helpe them, and they came ] It is obserued truly, <sup>k</sup> that the people are like the sea, and the Preachers are like to winde: as the sea of it selfe would be quiet, if the windes did not moue and trouble it: so the people would be tractable, and peaceable, if sedicious Orators did not set them in agitation. When we desire they should draw with vs, they pull from vs; if we pull one way, and they draw another way, how shall we fill the ship with fish, the Church with Conuerts? It is confessed, at the least professed on each side, that both of vs are partners, and haue share in the fish: and yet because we first beckened and called them to vs, and they want power to fetch vs to them; either they draw not with vs, or else they draw against vs: And this (as <sup>l</sup> one said) is a plaine quarrell betweene discretion and stomacke. If peace-makers are blessed, assuredly such as plant by writing, and water by speaking, the bitter roots of contention among vs, are most accursed. Anicenna reports out of Rufus an ancient Philition, that there was a young maid, who being fed and nourished long time with poison, liued her selfe in perfect health, and yet her venomous breath infected all those who came nigh her. Our Scismatickes haply finde no great annoyance in their owne estate, yet their breath vndoubtedly poisoneth other of more weake iudgement. For, alas, what shall silly fish doe, when as they see S. Andrew row to the North, and S. Peter call vnto the South: when they supplant one another, who should support one another?

When <sup>m</sup> Ioab vnderstood that his enemies were encamped both before and behinde him, he diuided his armie betweene himselfe and his brother Abisbai, with this direction: If the Aramites be stronger then I, thou shalt helpe me: but if the children of Ammon be too strong for thee, I will come to succour thee. Solikewise I would to God our partners in S. Andrewes boat would assist vs in S. Peters ship against Atheists, and our helpe should neuer be wanting vnto them against the Papists. O that all our armies and forces once might be combined against our common aduersaries. If it be possible (good Lord) let there be peace betweene the messengers of peace, the fishers of men, that helping one another mutually,

<sup>p</sup> Matth. 4. 21.

<sup>q</sup> Ferus serm. 4. incloem.

<sup>r</sup> 1 Tim. 1. 7.

<sup>s</sup> Iohn 21 6.

<sup>t</sup> 2 Tim. 2. 15.

<sup>u</sup> Ardens, Iansen.

<sup>v</sup> Ierem. 23. 21.

<sup>w</sup> 1 Pet. 2. 11.

<sup>x</sup> 1. Thess. 4. 1.

<sup>y</sup> Maldonat. in Iohn. 21 6.

<sup>z</sup> Theophylact.

<sup>a</sup> Cryso. Ioh. 21.

<sup>b</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>c</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>d</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>e</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>f</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>g</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>h</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>i</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>j</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>k</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>l</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>m</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>n</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>o</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>p</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>q</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>r</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>s</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>t</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>u</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>v</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>w</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>x</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>y</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>z</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>a</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>b</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>c</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>d</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>e</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>f</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>g</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>h</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>i</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>j</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>k</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>l</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>m</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>n</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>o</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>p</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>q</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>r</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>s</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

<sup>t</sup> Gregor. in Euangel. hom. 24.

<sup>u</sup> Rupert. & Maldonat. in Ioh. 21.

mutually, both ships may be filled with fishes vntill they be ready to sincke. The Gospell and Epistle meete here; for this president of vnitie doth excellently glosse the Text in the Epistle, be ye all of one minde and of one heart, louing as brethren.

When Simon Peter saw this he fell downe at Iesus knees, saying, Lord go from me; for I am a sinfull man. If Peter were so great a sinner, he should rather haue desired to keepe with him his Sauiour, for the sick need a Physitian: and therefore some thinke that he spake this out of amazement, as not well considering what he said: other, that it is an humble speech of a true and contrite: like to that of the Centurion, Matth. 8. 8. Master, I am not worthie that thou shouldest come vnder my rooffe. Hence all men, especially the fishers of men, may learne, when any good is done by their ministerie, not to magnifie themselues, but glorifie God. For how soeuer Paul plant and Apallos water, onely God giueth increase: say with Peter humbly, Lord goe from me, for I am a sinfull man; that Christ may speake to thy soule comfortably, fear not. Concerning the words of Christ, henceforth thou shalt catch men, See Gospell on S. Andrewes day.

Ardens.
Maldonat.
Ambrose & Euthymius.
Sarcinius & Marlorat.
Besuxamis.
1 Cor. 3. 6.

The Epistle. ROM. 6. 3.

Know ye not that all we which are baptiz'd in Iesus Christ, are baptiz'd to die with him, &c.

Saint Paul in this Chapter smoothes a question, and makes an answer. The question is, Shall we continue in sin that grace may abound? vnto which he doth answer:

1. With an absit, God forbid: for the grace of God appearing, teacheth vs that we should deny vngodlinesse and worldly lusts.
2. With an argument, How shall we that are dead to sinne liue yet therein? A dead nature cannot worke: such then as are dead to sinne may not, yea cannot, as dead; liue in sinne. So the Church in the Canticles: I haue put off my coat, how shall I put it on? I haue washed my feet, how shall I defile them againe.

Tit. 2. 11.
Aquinas in loc.
Cap 5. 3.
Gorran in loc.

He proues his reason to be good, in 7 respect of our life

- Past, as being dead and buried to sinne, which is our mortification.
- Present, as walking in a new life, which is our viuification.
- Future, beleeuing that we shall liue with him also, which is our glorification.

Or as other, he doth argue from the fruit and end of holy Baptisme: namely, repentance, consisting in

- Mortification } Begun, which is our dying to sinne, vers. 3.
- } Continued and increased, which is our buriall, vers 4.
- Viuification, which is our arising from dead workes, and liuing vnto God in newnesse of life.

Know ye not? Hence we may learne, that in Pauls age the people well vnderstood the doctrine of the Sacraments, and other mysteries of holy beleefe. The which as it doth vtterly condemne the carnall Gospellers negligence; so confute sufficiently the learned Papists opinion of ignorance: for it is not, as they fondly conceiue, the mother of deuotion, but as the Councell of Toledo determined, a grand-dame of all error. It is our duty so to learne Christ, and grow in knowledge, as that being asked a reason of our hope, we may giue vp a verdict without an ignoramus: as S. Peter exhortheth in his first Epistle, chap. 3. vers. 15. And Gregorie the Great sitting in S. Peters chaire, qui ea que sunt Domini nesciunt, a Domino nesciuntur.

Caluin & Tileman.
Dr. Fulke.
Melancthon.
Sarcinius.
Heb. 6. 1.
Martyr.

Con Teleton.
Can 24.
2. Pet. 3. 18.

In Pastoralis, part. 1. cap. 1.

<sup>n</sup> De Spirit. Sancti. lib. 1. cap. 3. Martyr. in loc. & Mel. can. loc. Theolog. lib. 6. cap. 8.
<sup>k</sup> Matth. 28 v. 9.
<sup>l</sup> Thom. 3. quest. 66. art. 6. & Caietan ibidem.
<sup>m</sup> Ardens.

<sup>o</sup> Ambros. de Sacrament. lib. 2. Cap. 7. & Aquinas loc.
<sup>p</sup> Galath 3. 27.
<sup>q</sup> 2. Cor. 4. 10.
<sup>r</sup> Magdeburg. cent. 1 lib. 2. col. 497.
<sup>s</sup> Iohn 3. 23.
<sup>t</sup> Com. B. tit. Publike Baptisme.

<sup>v</sup> Tertull. lib. de corona milit. Augustin de temp. for 201. Gregor. Nyss. lib. de Baptismo.
<sup>w</sup> Rational. divin. lib. 6. cap. 8.
<sup>x</sup> Num. 12.
<sup>y</sup> Ambros. de Sacramentis, lib. 2. cap. 7. & Theophrast. in Matt. & Gregor. epist. lib. 1. epist. 41. & Con. Toletan. 4 cap. 5.

<sup>z</sup> C. 1111 loc. Theolog. lib. 3. cap. 5. See Dr. Mortons appeale lib. 2. cap. 25. sect. 10.
<sup>a</sup> Chrysost. in 1. Cor. 15. 29. Thom. 3. part. quest. 56. art. 7. Caluin. Institut. lib. 4. cap. 15 § 5 Perkins Caten. cap. 33.

<sup>b</sup> Melancthon. in locum.

Baptized in Iesus Christ] We may not here collect with <sup>b</sup> Ambrose, that it is sufficient to be baptized in the name of Christ, without any mention of the Father and Holy Ghost. <sup>i</sup> For to be baptized in Christ, is to be baptized according to Christs institution, and that is, <sup>k</sup> in the name of the Father, and of the Sonne, and of the Holy Ghost. Not implied only, but expressed also: <sup>l</sup> for as the matter of Baptisme, so likewise the forme must be sensible. See Lombard 4. sent. dist. 3. § de forma baptismi. Thom. ab Argentin. Altissiodor. & reliquos scholast. ibidem. Aquinat. ubi in margine. Mel Can. loc. Theolog. lib. 6. cap. 8 Bellarm. de Sacramento Baptismi, cap. 3. §. prater hos errores. Apostol. Can. 49. & 50. apud Balsamon. fol. 119.

Or as <sup>m</sup> other, to be baptized into the death of Christ, is to be baptized in the faith of his death: or as Paul expound himselfe, to be baptized into the similitude of Christs death. He speaks not of the forme of Baptisme; but of our <sup>n</sup> conformitie to Christ by Baptisme. For <sup>o</sup> all that are baptized into Christ, haue put on Christ: peresie where bearing about in their bodie the dying of the Lord Iesus.

Now the custome in old time was to dip, and as it were to diewe the whole bodie of the baptized in the water; as may be shewed in the monuments of the 9 Ecclesiasticall histories, as also by the register of Gods owne record: for Iohn the Baptist is said to haue baptized in Enon beside Salim, because there was much water there. And S. Luke reports, Acts 8. 38, 39. that the great Eunuch of Ethiopia went into the water, and came out of the water at his Baptisme. For this cause the sacred Fonts in our Churches are so large, <sup>f</sup> that the Minister at his discretion, according to the temper of the weather, and the strength of the childe, might either dip it in the water, or else powre water vpon it. For charitie and necessitie may dispense with ceremonies, and mitigate the rigour of them in equitie.

This immersion in the primitiue Chursh (as the <sup>t</sup> Doctors obserue) was threecfold, to signifie the three persons in holy Trinitie, God the Father, God the Sonne, God the Holy Ghost: as also that Christ continued in the graue three dayes: Augustin. citat. in Decret. dist. 4. Lombard. lib. 4. sent. dist. 3. §. de immersione. Thom. part. 3. quest. 66. art. 8. Bellarm. de sacramento Baptismi, cap. 26. §. quarta est. Or as <sup>u</sup> Durandus addeth further, to shew that in Baptisme we are cleansed from three sorts of sinne; to wit, offences in thought, word, and deed. But when the wicked Arrians abused this ancient ceremonie to proue three natures in the Trinitie (not as the Catholikes intimating three persons and one God, according to Christs owne forme: Baptize them in the name, not in the names; vnum enim nomen est, vna Diuinitas) <sup>y</sup> it pleased the Church in proceesse of time to change this order, and instead thereof to vse but once dipping only. Where note by the way, that ancient and <sup>z</sup> Apostolicall traditions, according to the present occasions of the Church, are alterable.

Putting into the water, <sup>a</sup> noting the mortification of sinne by the power of Christs death: Know ye not that all wee which haue bene baptized in Iesus Christ, are baptized to die with him? Our old man is crucified with him also, that the bodie of sinne might be vterly destroyed. Continuance in the water, insinuating the buriall of sinne, to wit, a continuall increase of mortification: We are buried with him by Baptisme for to die.

This once dipping hath three parts: } Comming out of the water, confirming our spirituall viuification to newnesse of life, in all holinesse and righteousness, obtained by the power of Christs resurrection: Like as Christ was raised from death by the glory of the Father; euen so we should walke in a new life: for if we be grafted in death like vnto him, euen so shall we be partakers of the holy resurrection.

The summe of all is, that by Baptisme we die to sinne and liue to God: our death and buriall is, in <sup>b</sup> respect of sinnes imputation and efficacy. First, in respect of imputation: for albeit some reliques of old Adam remaine in the new man, man, yet <sup>c</sup> all his offences are covered, as the Scripture plainly, <sup>d</sup> there is no condemnation vnto such as are in Christ. And as for Innes efficacy; whereas the motions of finnes in the members of an vnregenerate man haue force to bring forth fruit vnto death, Rom. 7. 5. <sup>e</sup> he that is borne of God sinneth not. He doth not liue to sinne, but to <sup>f</sup> Christ who died for his sinne.

Thus I liue (quoth Paul) yet not I now, but Christ liueth in me. & Christ himselfe is the life which I now liue, in this regard he and I are both one. This seemeth a very strange manner of speaking, I liue, I liue not; I am dead, I am not dead, I am a sinner, I am not a sinner; I liue not now as Paul, but Paul is dead. Who is it then that doth liue? The Christian. <sup>h</sup> Our corrupt state subiect to sinne and concupiscence, is called the old man: but our person reformed in and by Christ, is termed the new m.m. I liue indeed in the flesh, but not through the flesh, or according to the flesh; for <sup>i</sup> I am crucified vnto the world, and the world is crucified vnto me. The truth is, I liue by faith in the Sonne of God: or as the text here speakes, I am grafted into Christ. Now the <sup>k</sup> graft doth liue not of it selfe, but by the sap of the stocke: we are twigs, and Christ is the tree: <sup>l</sup> without him we can doe nothing, but in him and through him <sup>m</sup> all things. If all then which are baptized into Christ, haue put on Christ, and are dead with him, and buried with him, and risen againe with him, I hold the saying iustificable, that the baptized partie going into the water of holy baptisme foule, commeth out of it cleane. So <sup>n</sup> S. Augustine, Lamacrum regenerationis purgat a reatu omnium peccatorum que humana traxit natiuitas, & contraxit iniquitas. So <sup>o</sup> Lactantius:

Candidus egreditur, nitidis exercitus undis, Atq; vetus vitium purgat in amne nouo.

So <sup>p</sup> Paulinus:

Indu parens sacro ducit de fonte sacerdos, Infantes niueos corpore, corde, habitu.

For this Sacrament (as <sup>q</sup> Aquine speakes) is a commemoration of Christs passion which is past, a demonstration of his grace which is present, and a prognostication of his glory which is to come.

The Gospell. MATTH. 5. 20.

Except your righteousness exceed the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees, ye cannot enter into the kingdome of heauen, &c.

THis Gospell hath } General proposition, except your righteousness, &c.
two parts, a } Particular exposition, ye haue heard that it was said vnto them of old time, &c.

In the proposition obserue three points especially. First, that we cannot enter into the kingdome of heauen without righteousness, nisi iustitia. For <sup>r</sup> without shall be dogs, eucharaters, and wkeoremongers. <sup>s</sup> All they that doe such things shall not inherit the kingdome of God. Only that man shall rest upon the Lords holy hill, that leadeth an vncorrupt life, doing the thing that is right, and speaking the truth from his heart, Psalm. 15. A Christian by good workes ought to manifest his faith vnto <sup>t</sup> God, <sup>u</sup> his neighbour, and his <sup>x</sup> owne soule.

Secondly, this righteousness ought to be our owne righteousness, and not others, iustitia vestra. <sup>y</sup> The same soule that sinneth shall die; the sonne shall not answer for the fault of the father, neither shall the father beare the iniquitie of the sonne, but the righteousness of the righteous shall be vpon him, and the wickednesse of the wicked vpon himselfe. The <sup>z</sup> Papists affirme that the Church hath a treasure of good workes, to be disposed at the Popes discretion. As for example: John the Baptist did fast more then he was commanded, and the blessed Marie liued more strictly then God required: if any then in the Church of Rome be inioyned to fast, or doe some like penance, for his siluer he may get

<sup>c</sup> Psalm. 85. 2.

<sup>d</sup> Rom. 8. 1.

<sup>e</sup> 1 Ioh. 3. 9.

<sup>f</sup> Primasus in locum.

<sup>g</sup> Luther. in Galath. 2. 20.

<sup>h</sup> Rhem. in loc.

<sup>i</sup> Galath. 6. 14.

<sup>k</sup> Caluin. ubi supra. Caietan. & Martyr. in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Iohn 15. 5.

<sup>m</sup> Philip. 4. 13.

<sup>n</sup> Retract. lib. 1. cap. 7.

<sup>o</sup> In carmine, salus festa dies.

<sup>p</sup> Apud B. Rhe- nan. annot in Tertullian. lib.

de Corona militis

<sup>q</sup> Part. 3. qu. 5.

<sup>r</sup> 60. art. 3.

<sup>s</sup> Apecal. 22. 15

<sup>t</sup> Galath. 5. 21

<sup>u</sup> 1 Theff. 4. 3

<sup>x</sup> James 2. 18

<sup>y</sup> 2 Pet. 1. 10

<sup>z</sup> Ezech. 18. 20

<sup>aa</sup> Bellarmin. de indulgen. lib. 1.

cap. 2.

<sup>a</sup> Budeus lib. 5. de Affe.

<sup>b</sup> Poem. de corrupt. Statu eccles. per Illyricum.

<sup>c</sup> D. Fulke in loc. & Harmon. confess. sect. 9.

<sup>d</sup> Rom 2. 6. Pfall 62. 12. Matth. 16. 27.

<sup>e</sup> Com in Ioan. 3. 5.

<sup>f</sup> De Iustificat. lib. 9. cap 7.

<sup>g</sup> Art. 1. contra Lutherum.

<sup>h</sup> Super Euan-gel. in festo Ioan. Euan-gel. 1.

<sup>i</sup> Matth. 23. 8.

<sup>k</sup> Pfall 19. 1.

<sup>l</sup> Du Bartas 1. day 1. weeke from Paul. Rom. 1. 20.

<sup>m</sup> Chrysom. apud Aquin. in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Melancthon. com. in loc.

<sup>o</sup> Bullinger. Caluin. Marlorat.

an Indulgence, <sup>a</sup> tefferis veniales vanales, he may purchase a great deale of iustice for a little money. The Pope being Gods Vicar, cau apply the fasting of S. Iohn Baptist, and the superabundant righteousnesse of Mariæ to any penitent at his owne pleasure. The which is a pretty tricke to fill his owne coffers, and empty the peoples.

Qui<sup>b</sup> fore debuit gratia dativus, factus est Ecclesie rerum ablativus.

Christ here sings another note to his Disciples, except your righteousnesse, &c. insinuating that we cannot enter heauens gate without a righteousnesse in our selues, howsoeuer it be not of our selues. A iustice not of our parents, or of our Pastors, or of any friend liuing, or Saint dead: but a righteousnesse inherent in our owne persons, according to the tenour of Scripures elsew here. <sup>d</sup> God will reward euery man according to his workes: and blessed are they who die in the Lord, for their workes follow them, Apoccalyps 14. 13. The Protestants, as <sup>e</sup> Maldonate confesseth, all the Protestants, as <sup>f</sup> Stapleton, affirme that a iustifying faith is operative, working through loue. <sup>g</sup> Roffensis as it were composing the difference: Fides absq̄, parcu operum, hoc est cum nondum peperit opera, iustificare potest. At iam parurijs nihilominus, & est operibus grauida, nihil pr̄ ter tempus partus expectans, id est, paritura est cum occasio fuerit. I conclude this point in <sup>h</sup> Martin Luthers allegorie, faith is like S. Iohn in Christs bosome, possessing all the merits of Christ; and good workes are like S. Peter following his Master. Here the Gospell and Epistle meete. Our old man is crucified, and we are dead to sinne that we may liue to God in righteousnesse.

Thirdly, this Euangeiicall righteousnesse, must exceed the Pharisaicall iustice, ni si abundauerit. There be thre sorts of schollers in a Schoole: incipients in the lowest forme, for the most part taught by their fellowes: proficients in the second, directed by the Vsher: perfect in the first or highest seate, instructed by the Schoole-master himselfe. <sup>i</sup> Christ is our Doctor, and the world is his Vniuersitie wherein he hath had three sorts of schollers. Afore the Law, incipients, as it were spelling of Gods name, learning the first elements or A, B, C, of religion in the beginning, and therefore Christ taught them by their fellow creatures: <sup>k</sup> heauen declaring vnto them the glorie of God, and the firmament shewing his handie worke.

<sup>l</sup> The world's a booke in folio, printed all

With Gods great workes in letters capitall.

Proficients vnder the Law, taught by Moses and the Prophets, vnder Vshers as it were to Christ: but such as liued after the Law, to wit, in these dayes, had Christ himselfe to be their Tutor: as it appeareth in the first words of this chapter, When his Disciples came to him, he opened his mouth and taught them: his owne schollers hauing widdome it selfe for their instructor, ought to surpass <sup>m</sup> all other in Christian learning and religious duties. Except your righteousnesse exceed the righteousnesse of incipients afore the Law, yea of the Scribes and Pharises great proficients (in their owne conceit) vnder the Law, ye shall neuer be made victors ye shall neuer be crowned for your industrie, ye shall not, ye cannot enter into the kingdome of heauen.

Euangelicall iustice must excell Pharisaicall righteoutnesse in foure points especially, to wit, <sup>n</sup> in }	Contrition.

	Faith.
	Invocation.
	Consolation.

But we shall best vnderstand this generall axiome, by Christs particular instance: Ye haue heard that it was said vnto them of old time, thou shalt not kill whosoever killeth is in danger of iudgement. But I say vnto you, whosoever is angry with his brother vnadvisedly, shall be in danger of iudgement. Except your righteousnesse exceed the righteousnesse of the Scribes and Pharises, in expounding and obseruing the Law concerning homicide, ye shall not enter into the kingdome of heauen. First he shewes the <sup>o</sup> defect in the Pharises interpretation, then he deliuereth his owne construction of the Commandement, Thou shalt not kill. The Pharises (as being all for the Pleaning of the vtter side ) did I vnderstand this of the violent out-ward aſt onely : but Chriſt intimates that God is a Spirit, and that he will be worſhipped in ſpirit requiring truth in the inward parts ; and therefore we muſt obtaine not only from outrageous a ſtull bloud-ſhedding, but alſo from the firſt intentionall and internall motions of wrath and anger. I ſay that wh. of ſoever is angry with his brother.

Ye haue heard that it was ſaid] Chriſt came not to deſtroy, but to fulfill the Law. So that his but I ſay, repeated oft in this Sermon on the mount, was not a contradiction or a correction of the law : but a confutation of the falſe gloſſe the Phariſies had ſet vpon the law. Chriſt I ſay doth not here confound, but expound the text of Moyſes truly, which other had interpreted corruptly. For it is well obſerued that he ſaith not, it is written, but it is ſaid. Not written in the commandement it ſelfe, but ſaid by the Scribes, arrelting by their ſummons and cenſures all the whole law, making it a noſe of wax to ſerue their owne turnes. Which occaſioned our Sauour in this Sermon to deliuer a full explication of many particular commandements, as in the 31. verſ. of this chap. It hath bene ſaid, whoſoever ſhall put away his wife, let him giue her a bill of diuorcement : but I ſay vnto you, whoſoever ſhall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, cauſeth her to commit adulterie. And 33. verſe: It was ſaid vnto them of old time, Thou ſhalt not forſweare thy ſelfe: but I ſay vnto you, ſwear not at all. So likewise here, it was ſaid vnto them of old time, thou ſhalt not kill, whoſoever killeth ſhall be in danger of iudgement: But I ſay: whoſoever is angry. This obſeruatiſon is not as <sup>x</sup> Maldonate conceiues hereticall, if eicher his owne <sup>y</sup> Iauſenius, or <sup>z</sup> Bertrandus, or S. Paul himſelfe be catholike, for he writes alſo plainly ; <sup>a</sup> The law is holy, iuſt, and good. Chriſt therefore did not correct the Text, but the gloſſe.

Of old time] Where note that it is not any when, or any who, who may priuilege error or preiudice the truth: according to that of <sup>b</sup> Tertullian. Veritati nemo preſcribere poteſt, non ſpacium temporum non patrocinia perſonarum, non priuilegium regionum, Dominus enim noſter ſe non conſuetudinem, ſed veritatem cognominauit. The power of a King is great, <sup>c</sup> if he bid his ſubiects make warre one againſt another, they doe it: if he ſend them out againſt his enemies, inſtantly they goe and breake downe mountaines, and wals, and towers. If he bid kill, they kill: if he ſay ſpare, they ſpare. The reputation of a learned man is likewise to forcible, that Cicero ſaid he would rather erre with Plato, then conceiue the truth aright with other. <sup>d</sup> One gaue it out in Babil, that he did attribute non minus Farello quam Paulo: no leſſe to Farellus then he did to Paul. And <sup>e</sup> Z. in chiuſ reports, how that a Frenchman in Geneua proteſted, if S Paul and Caluin ſhould preach at the ſame houre, that he would leaue Paul and goe to Caluin. Reuerend antiquitie preuaileth alſo, for we may not remove the ancient bounds. And Paul aduifeth his beloued Timothie, & Keepe that which is committed vnto thee, detritans prophanas vocum nouitates, as it is in the vulgar Latine. <sup>h</sup> Non dixit antiquitates, ſed nouitates, nam ſi vitanda eſt nouitas, tenenda eſt antiquitas, propheta eſt nouitas, ſacrata vetuſtas. Which occaſioned a <sup>i</sup> great Clerke to ſay, that he was euer an enemy to nouell opinions, and a friend to old bookes. And yet when old Doctors in old time did erre, Chriſt had a but for them here: Ye haue heard that it was ſaid vnto them of old time, &c. but I ſay, &c. The truth is greater and ſtronger then all, <sup>1.</sup> Eſdras 4. 35. I write not this as if truth and antiquitie were at variance, for Chriſt in mending the gloſſe which is old, reſtored the Law which is more old.

Whoſoever is angry with his brother vndiſcreetly] Chriſts expoſition is partly } Negative, ſhewing what wee ſhould not doe: verſ. 22. } partly } Affirmatiue, ſhewing what wee ſhould doe: verſ. 23, 24, 25. }

In the negative part we may note three degrees of ſinne, and three degrees of puniſhment.

<sup>p</sup> Mat'h 23. 25
<sup>q</sup> 1. Corinth.
Col'man.
Zippor.
<sup>r</sup> Ioh 4. 23.
<sup>s</sup> Plal 5. 6.

<sup>t</sup> Mat'h. 5. 17.

<sup>u</sup> Musculu.

<sup>v</sup> In loc.
<sup>y</sup> Concord. Euan- gel. cap. 40
<sup>z</sup> In Euan. 28.
Dom 5 poſt Pent
teſt.
<sup>a</sup> Rom. 7. 12 &
<sup>b</sup> Tim 1. 8.
<sup>c</sup> Lib. de virgi-
nibus et laudis
<sup>d</sup> 1. Eſdras 4.

<sup>e</sup> Calu. Farello.
<sup>f</sup> Epist. antic Miscellan.

<sup>g</sup> Prou 22. 28.
<sup>h</sup> 1 Tim 6. 20.
<sup>i</sup> Vicent. 1. p. i.
act.
<sup>k</sup> Ornata.

The degrees of sinne mentioned against the Law, Thou shalt not kill,<sup>k</sup> are } Angrie thoughts.
 } Scornfull gestures.
 } Opprobrious words.

The degrees of punishment, } Iudgment.
 } Counsell.
 } Hell fire.

First, concerning anger: it is truly said by <sup>1</sup> S. Hierome, to strip men of passions is to make them no men: Est hominem de homine tollere. <sup>m</sup> David and <sup>n</sup> Paul in advising to be angry and sinne nor, allow that which is <sup>o</sup> naturall, and condemne that only which is culpable. Now left our Anger should proue faultie, Christ here sets downe two rules for the governing of it.

First, concerning the matter and object of it, we must not be angrie with a brother.

Secondly, for the manner and measure, we may not be transported with this affection vnadvisedly.

There bee three sorts of brethren in holy Scripture: by } Race } Such as haue the same father and mother, as <sup>p</sup> Iacob and Esau.
 Place } Such as are of the same kindred and family; so Lot and Abraham are called brethren, Gen. 13.8.
 } Such as are of the same nation: as the Iewes are termed brethren in the <sup>q</sup> Law: To a stranger thou maist lend vpon usurie, but not vnto thy brother.
 Grace } Common, and so all men are brethren in respect of their generation.
 } Speciall, and so Christians only be brethren in respect of their regeneration.

Now by brother in the Text is not meant a brother only by race, as if it were lawfull to be angrie with a stranger, albeit not with a kinsmen or mothers sonne: neither is it vnderstood of a brother by place only, as if a man might be angrie with an Alien, howsoeuer not with his owne countrey-men: but by brother here Christ meaneth a brother by grace, and that in the largest sense. For as euery man is our <sup>r</sup> neighbour, so likewise in this regard euery man is our <sup>t</sup> brother. A man may iustly be displeas'd and angrie with the fault of his brother, but not with the person of his brother, as <sup>u</sup> Augustine iudiciously: Non fratri irascitur qui peccato fratris irascitur. Againe, Iudges, and Warriours, and other publike ministers of the State may kill; not vpon any priuate grudge, but as an act of iustice, for the common good; destroying one to saue many. So <sup>v</sup> Christ vnto Peter; All that strike with the sword, shall perish with the sword: Ergo, there is a sword to punish him that strikes with the sword. As if Christ should say, whosoever doth strike with the <sup>x</sup> priuate sword of reuenge, shall perish with the publike sword of iustice. Magistrates in executing their office may be <sup>y</sup> zealous, not furious. <sup>z</sup> He that in iudging a brother is more violently carried against the man, then against his manners, is in danger of iudgement himselfe.

Vnadvisedly] The word (αὐθις) is omitted in the vulgar Latine, and in the <sup>a</sup> Romane Missale, and in other as well <sup>b</sup> old as new translations. But some Greeke copies, as Erasmus acknowledgeth, and such as are <sup>c</sup> ancient retain it, and the reuerend <sup>d</sup> Fathers in their writings vsually recite and quote it, reading as the Church of England, Omnis qui irascitur fratri suo temere: Whosoever is angrie with his brother vnadvisedly or rashly. <sup>e</sup> He may not beginne anger without a iust cause, nor continue in it beyond measure. Both are vnadvised, and against this rule. We must be slow to wrath, Iames 1. 19. and soone appeas'd, Ephes. 4. 26. There be <sup>f</sup> foure kinds of angrie men. In some the raging heat of wrath is soone kindled and soone put out: and these cholericke people, like gun-powder are no sooner touched, but instantly they be in your face, yet all their anger is but a sudden flash, as fire in dry reeds. In other some this heat is long <sup>k</sup> August. lib. 1. deser. Dom. in monte.

 Idem Gregor. Moral. lib. 21. cap. 5. & Thom. 122. quest. 46. art. 8.
<sup>l</sup> Epist. ad Ctesiphon.
<sup>m</sup> Psal. 4. 4.
<sup>n</sup> Ephes. 4. 26.
<sup>o</sup> Ira non est peccatum quoad esse naturae, sed quoad esse moris. Gerson.
<sup>p</sup> Gen. 25. 25.

<sup>q</sup> Deut. 23. 20.

<sup>r</sup> Luke 10. 37.

<sup>s</sup> Iansen concord. cap. 40.

Idem Vatablus.

<sup>t</sup> Resol. lib. 1.

cap. 19.

<sup>u</sup> Matth. 26. 52.

<sup>v</sup> August. contra Faust. lib. 22.

cap. 70. & Cal-

uin Institut. lib.

4. cap. 20. §. 10.

<sup>w</sup> Est ira per zel-um & ira per vilium, Thom.

222. quest. 158.

art. 2.

<sup>x</sup> Erasmus an-

not. in loc.

<sup>y</sup> Ergo, the Gospels are not translated out of the Masse book verbatim.

<sup>z</sup> Hierom in loc.

& August. retract. lib. 1. c. 19.

<sup>a</sup> Maylor. in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Chrys. Theo-phylact. Euthym.

in loc. Irenaeus

jib. 4. cap. 27.

<sup>c</sup> Saluian lib. 3.

de Provident.

<sup>d</sup> See Thom.

222. quest. 158.

art. 1. & 2.

<sup>e</sup> Iacob. de Vorag serm. 3. in

loc. & Gregor.

mag moral lib.

5. cap. 32.

long in kindling, and long ere it goe out : and these heauie melancholike persons are like the Christmas logge, if once they beginne to flame, they will continue burning all the day, yea all the night too. In a third sort this fire is soone kindled, and long in burning : and these wretches are worst of all. On the contrary, some be long in kindling and quickly coole, and these last are best. Euen like to God, the slowest to conceine wrath, and readiest to forgine. They will not begin anger vnreasonably, nor continue anger vnseasonably. From hence then we learne two conclusions especially : First, that our anger doe not arise vainly without a good occasion; as Caine was angrie with Abel, Ahab with Naboth, Saul with Dauid. And secondly, that being iustly raised, it doe not rage too long or too much.

<sup>g</sup> Psal. 103. 8.

That anger arise not in vs toward other vnaduisedly, we must obserue both our selues, our neighbours, and God. First, let vs consider our owne corrupt nature, which is as easily kindled by wrath, as gunpowder and flax by fire. As then a Merchant hauing such commodities, and knowing their qualitie, doth by warinesse preferue them long from burning : euen so may we our natures that they be not consumed with anger, if we will watch ouer them. It is an old prouerbe, that euery man is either a foole or a Physitian. So likewise in this respect, euery man is unto himselfe a Deuill or a Diuine. A Deuill, if he neglect; a Diuine, if he take heed of his owne cholericke disposition. Againe, let vs in our selues abandon all vncharitable suspitiousnesse, a good disposition makes a good exposition. But as the suspitious man thinketh, his neighbour clinketh; he will wring our words to wrong our meaning, of a little sparke of a fillable, kindling a great fire of contention.

As for our neighbours, it is good to marke their vglie behauiour in anger, that seeing how vnseemly it is in other, we might beware of it our selues. The wicked are like the raging sea; they are of their owne disposition vnquiet, but if you stirre them a little, they fume, they some like the sea, whose waters cast up dirt and mire.

<sup>h</sup> Esay 57 20.

<sup>i</sup> *Ipsa sibi est hostis uesania, seque furendo
Interimit, moriturque suis ira ignea telis.*

And as a <sup>k</sup> moderne Poet :

Angitur iracundus homo, non re modo verum Nomine, quam prope sunt anger & angor idem.

<sup>i</sup> Prudentius in Psechorachia.

<sup>k</sup> Ow's Epigram.

The <sup>l</sup> Fathers aptly terme this distemper the drunkennesse of the soule. So that as <sup>m</sup> Plato counselled all reuellers to view themselues in a glasse when they are in their loathsome drunken humour; and as the <sup>n</sup> Lacedemonians vsed to make some of their pezants drunke and shew them vnto their youth, hereby deterring them from this beastly sinne, in beholding the senselesse and vncouth misdemeanour of drunkards: in like sort, it is comely for vs to note the rude language, the murthering eye, the countenance distorted, and in a word, the mad and vnmanlike behauiour of an angry bedlem carried away from himselfe with heat and choler.

<sup>l</sup> Basil.
Gregor.
Chrylost.

<sup>m</sup> Ficinus in uita Platonis.
<sup>n</sup> Alexand ab
Alexand. lib. 2.
cap. 25.

Lastly, let vs consider in God, his mercy, prouidence, and iustice. First, his mercy, who forguieth vs much, and shall not we forgine our brother a little? <sup>o</sup> When a railing fellow did reuile Pericles all the day, and followed him home to his gate when it was night, Pericles answered not a word againe, but commanded one of his seruants to light a torch and to bring the brawler home to his owne house. Shall heathen people goe beyond vs that professe Christ, and that in a point of Christianitie? Shall reason preuaile more with them, than religion with vs? The Father of mercies, and God of all grace, forguieth our finnes of ignorance, finnes of infirmitie, finnes of malice, finnes of riper age, finnes of youth, open finnes, hidden finnes; and therefore (being <sup>p</sup> followers of God as deare children) if a brother offend vpon ignorance, we should neglect it; if vpon infirmitie, forbear it; if vpon malice, forget it: howsoeuer forgine it, being mercifull as our heauenly father is mercifull.

<sup>o</sup> Church Homilye against contention,
part. 2.

<sup>p</sup> Ephes. 5. 1.

<sup>9</sup> *August. contra Fauls Man. lib
16, cap. 21.*

<sup>r</sup> 1 King 22. 34.

<sup>f</sup> Psal. 64. 3.

<sup>r</sup> 2 Sam. 16.

<sup>a</sup> Statius.

<sup>x</sup> Salust.

<sup>y</sup> Seneca.

<sup>r</sup> Horat.

<sup>a</sup> Bron. annual.

Tom. 4. ad. an.

<sup>3</sup> 71

<sup>b</sup> *Ambros. offic.
lib. 1. 21.*

<sup>c</sup> M<sup>r</sup>. Easley vp on the 6. Com.

<sup>d</sup> 1. Theff. 4. 11.

<sup>e</sup> *Dr. Hall
Vowes, lib. 3
Medit. 52.*

<sup>i</sup> *August. de ser.
Dom. in monte
lib. 1.*

<sup>z</sup> *Chrysost.
Theophylact.
Euthym. in loc.*

<sup>h</sup> *Cam. in loc. ra.
c'ia provecha.*

Erasmus.

Secondly, let vs remember Gods all-seeing prouidence; to which if we doe not yeeld in all humilitie, we are not so much angry with men, as displeated with God. He disposeth of libels, of slanders, of all scandalous actions of the bad, to trie the patience and faith of such as are good. <sup>9</sup> Ad aliquem vsu sanctorum ordinatur omnis actus impiorum a summo Deo, qui pro sui regiminis equitate, bene vitur etiam malis: ut qui suo arbitrio iniuste viuunt, illius iudicio iuste disponantur. It is reported in <sup>r</sup> sacred historie, that a certaine man drew a bow ignorantly, and smote the King of Israel betweene the ioynts of his brigandine: the poore man shot at randum, but the Lord so directed his arrow, that it fell vpon wicked Ahab. In like sort, when our aduerfaries shall whet their tongue like a sword, and shoot out their arrowes euen bitter words, as it is in the <sup>f</sup> Psalme, then we must acknowledge that these darts are guided by Gods prouidence to hit vs. As <sup>t</sup> David said of railing Shimei; Suffer him to curse, for the Lord hath bidden him: it may be the Lord will looke vpon my affliction, and doe me good for his cursing this day. We are not to consider so much how wicked they be by whom we suffer, as how iust he is who disposeth of their wickednesse. Non venit sine merito, quia Deus est iustus; nec erit sine commodo, quia Deus est bonus.

Thirdly, let vs obserue God in his iustice, who is said here to punish anger with iudgement; a scornefull racha with a counsell: an opprobrious word with bell fire. But if notwithstanding all these caueats our anger arise, the next care must be that it continue not too long: and it continueth too long, when it hindereth or lesseneth any dutie of godliuesse or charitie. Let not the Sunne go downe vpon thy wrath. If it arise in thee, let it not raigne in thee, let it not rage in thee. To this purpose Philosophers and Diuines haue giuen vs an excellent rule, namely, that we doe nothing suddenly while this humour stirreth in vs: for rash anger is a bad <sup>u</sup> agent, and a worse <sup>x</sup> counseller. He that either acteth or plotteth any thing in heat, commonly repents in cold blood. <sup>y</sup> Finis ira, initium penitentie: Where choler ends, our penance begins.

— <sup>z</sup> qui non moderabitur ira

Infectum volet esse, dolor quod suaserit aut mens, Dum pœnas odio per vim festinat inuito.

<sup>a</sup> Basil the Great abstained three whole yeares from writing against Eustatius, lest in his heat and haste he might play the ruffin with his pen. <sup>b</sup> Architas said he would haue corrected his seruant, but that himselfe was angrie. <sup>c</sup> Frederick the Duke of Saxonie, when he was angrie would shut himselfe vp in his closet, and let none come at him till he had mastered his passion.

That anger arise not in other toward vs vnadvisedly, let vs obserue this one precept of <sup>d</sup> Paul; Studie to be quiet, and to meddle with your owne businesse. The contention of the Church of England hath especially bene bred by the fond intermedling with the Ministers office, while busie-bodies haue spent all their time in disputing what we should be, not considering in the meane while what themselues are. The Pelican finding a fire nigh her nest, and fearing the danger of her young, seekes to blow it out with her wings vntill she burne them, and makes her selfe a prey in her vnwise pitie: <sup>e</sup> so they which indiscreetly meddle with the flame of dissention kindled in the Church, rather increase then quench it; rather fire their owne wings then helpe others. I had rather a farre off bewaile the fire then stirre in the coales. I would not grudge my ashes to it if those might abate the burning: but since it is increased daily with partaking, I will behold it with sorrow, and meddle no otherwise then by prayers to God, and in-treaties to men; seeing mine owne safetic and the peace of the Church in the freedome of my thought and silence of my tongue.

Whosoener saith vnto his brother racha <sup>f</sup> Some deriue this word of the Greeke ραχα, in English as much as ragged, or shake-ragge; <sup>g</sup> other from the Syrian raca, which is a disgraciue terme, much like our English thou, when it is spoken in contempt and scorne. <sup>h</sup> Saint Hierome thinkes it comes of the Hebrew rec, signifying idle head, or emptie braine. But seeing Interpreters haue generally noted a gradation here, rachs must necessarily be placed in the <sup>i</sup> middle betweene secret anger, and open railing. I subscribe therefore to their <sup>k</sup> opinion, who make rachs an interiection, or broken speech of an angry minde, breaking out and bewraying it selfe somewhat, though not fully in token of dislike; whereof there be diuers in euery language, as tush, fie, piß, in ours. And this rakel-like behauiour is not in imperfect words only, but in <sup>l</sup> all scornfull gestures of contempt; as in countenance, when we carry murdering lookes, in mocks and mowes, in putting forth of the <sup>m</sup> finger, Esiy, 5. 8. 9. in gnashing of the teeth, in making a loud and absurd noise, shouting and wondring at men as at owles: Ephes. 4. 31. Let all-bitternesse and anger and wrath and crying be put away from you.

To these I will adde another vnkinely carriage, the like whereof I finde not in the Bible, nor in any Comment vpon my text; and that is disdainfully to sleepe at Sermons in contempt of the Preacher: I say, sleepe, not vpon infirmities, but vpon malice; which is a dogs sleepe, dreaming and awaking at once. By rachs then are inclusively forbidden all hatefull gestures of despight: and all the contrarie duties are commanded, as Christian salutations, humble behauiour, respects and courtesies according to the commendable fashions of the countrey wherein we liue.

I am occasioned here to meet with a peeuish and vncharitable people, who practise themselues, and teach other, that it is vnlawfull for a Christian to salute passengers ordinarily with a good morrow, or God be with you. I will not pledge them in their owne cup, and answer them in their owne vaine, but call them vnto strict rules of dispute, res cum re, causa cum causa, ratio cum ratione consiliaz, as <sup>n</sup> Augustine to the Manichees. I will therefore first set downe their arguments, and then our solutions. Their reasons as I haue gathered from their owne mouthes are principally three.

1. We know not whether euery passenger be a brother or no.

2. Though a brother, haply, yet we cannot tell whither he goeth, and about what.

3. Suppose we well vnderstand what he will, and who he be: yet suddenly to say God blesse you, God saue you, &c. is to take the name of the Lord in vaine.

To the first, as euery man is a neighbour: so likewise a brother in this case. For if Christ be so good as his word in this Chapter at the seuenteenth verse, namely, that he came not to destroy the law, but to fulfill it: he must vnderstand by brother in this text all sorts of men, and all men of all sorts. And whereas they distinguish and say that euery passenger is not a brother in Christ: Answer is made, that salutations are to be performed euen toward such as beleene not the Gospell, and are not as yet of the household of faith. A precept hereof is found in Christ, <sup>o</sup> When ye come into an house salute the same, saying, Peace be to this house. A patterne in the Prophet Elisha, who said vnto Naaman the leper an Aramite, Go in peace. The Prophet approoued not his act, yet after the common manner of speech he biddeth him farewell, as the Geneua note vpon that place. Secondly, we may well out of charity presume that all ordinary passengers of England are our brethren in Christ, as being baptized in the faith of Christ, and professing the Gospell of Christ vnder the same Christian King, after the same Christian order; and so by consequence to be reputed as members of Christ, and children of God. According to the tenour of our common Catechisme, if once we would vouchsafe to learne and vnderstand it. As for differences about matters of indifferency, S. Paul teacheth vs, Ephes. 4. that the most ancient and true bonds of vuity are not one discipline, one ceremony, one policy: but one God, one faith, one baptisme. Yea but S. Iohn speaks of some to whom we may not say God speed. These were notorious apostates, at the least exceeding dangerous hereticks, as it is apparent in the context, who did not only broach another discipline, but another doctrine, <sup>q</sup> that is a contrary doctrine, <sup>r</sup> preaching another Gospell: and therefore not to be receiued into our priuate house, because they will not communicate with vs in Gods house. Their words <sup>s</sup> fret as a canker, and therefore they cap. 40 Bulling.

<sup>l</sup> Iansen. concord.
Marlor. Beauxamis.

<sup>k</sup> Augustin. ubi supra. Gregor. Moral. lib 21.
cap. 5. Rubert. Thomas, Brasimus, Maldonati.
in loc.

<sup>l</sup> Muscul. in loc.

<sup>m</sup> Votablis in loc. I. saie.

* Lib. de utilitate credendi,
cap. 1.

<sup>o</sup> Matth 10 13

<sup>o</sup> Luke 10. 5.

<sup>p</sup> 2 King 5. 19.

See Peckas gouernment of the tongue, cap. 6.

<sup>q</sup> Aquin. Moral. rat. Lovin. in

<sup>2</sup> Epi? Iohn.

<sup>r</sup> Galat. 1. 8.

<sup>s</sup> 2 Tim. 2. 17.

Tit. 2. 10.
Rom. 16. 17.
Cyprian epist.
lib. 1. epist. 3.

2. Tim. 3. 6.

Matth. 7. 1.

1 Cor. 13. 5.
Lancel. C. 10.
pag. 320.

M<sup>r</sup> Dod vpon
the 3 Com.

1 Cor. 2. 11

Rom. 8. 31.

Tsmothie knew the Scriptures of a childe.

2. Tim. 3. 15.
August lib. 1.
contra aduersar.
legis, cap. 24.
Vbi supra,
cap. 23.

Luther,
Muscus,
M. vlor. in loc.
Caluin Instit.
lib. 2 cap. 8. § 40

Galat. 3. 1.

Arboreus in
loc.

Psal. 141. 5.
Prou. 27. 6.

Ephes. 6. 4.

must be <sup>c</sup> reiected after once or twice admonition. A kinde salutation is a step to familiar conference with them, and that is <sup>u</sup> insufferable. <sup>x</sup> Nulla cum talibus commercia, nulla conuiuia, nulla colloquia miscantur, hinc ab illis tam separati quam illi sunt ab ecclesia profugi. Secondly, S. Iohn wrote this Epistle to a vertuous Ladie the which might easily be leduced by cunning heretikes, euermore ready to creepe into houses, and leade captiue simple women: as S. Hierome shewes by manifold pregnant instances in his Epistle to Ctesiphon tom. 2. fol. 253. So that if wee consider of whom and to whom S. Iohn speakes, this ob. will appeare not to be worth an halfe penny.

To their second argument: I say with Christ, <sup>z</sup> Iudge not. It is a rule both in law, and lone, that euery man is to be reputed honest, vntill the contrarie be proved. <sup>a</sup> Charitie thinketh not euill, it suffereth all things, it beleeueth all things <sup>b</sup> In Friceland there was a phantasticall prophet named George David, who calling himselfe Gods nephew, said heauen was emptie, and that he was sent to cl. use the children of God, and appoint such as should be saued. In our time there bee many such prophets electing and damning whom they please. But I am sure they haue no more authoritie to make Deuils, then the Pope hath to make Saints. As then a number of his saints are in hell: so questionlesse many of their deuils are now glorious Saints in heauen. But suppose this passenger hath an intent to kill, and that to robbe; yet our good wish God be with you, may diuert them haply from their bad courses, if not conuert them throughly. For they cannot act any wicked designe so long as God is with them, and directes them with his spirit.

To their third obiection; I say that the teaching of such doctrine, making the Scriptures a ship-mans hofe to serue their owne malicious humours, <sup>c</sup> is to take the name of God in vaine. But let vs examine their prooffe. Men take Gods name in vaine, because they thinke not of God, in saying God be with you. But why should we thinke that they thinke not of God, <sup>d</sup> for what man knoweth the things of a man, saue the spirit of a man which is in him? Or if they thinke not of God sometime in their salutation, why should any forbid it at all times? Our deuotion is ordinarily more settled, I confesse, when we pray for our brethren in the congregation; yet these short eiaculations vpon the way, many times are so profitable to our brethren, and acceptable to God, as any long prayer whatsoever. For what can we say more briefly or sweetly then the Lord be with you? For <sup>e</sup> if God be with vs, who can be against vs? And lastly, though we grant, which they can neuer gaine, that we thinke not of God when we thus speake of God; yet it is no more blasphemie, then for a little childe to say Grace, or to <sup>f</sup> learne the Chatechisme, who neither knoweth God, nor vnderstandeth what he saith of God. I conclude therefore that these captious objecters are not literati, but litteriones: and I pray with <sup>h</sup> Augustine, Cum non sint idonei spiritualia capere, utinam saltem desinerent carpere.

Thou foole ] In this one word are inclusiuely forbidden <sup>i</sup> all other opprobrious termes of the like or worse meaning; as knaue, dolt, asse, &c. whereby we disgrace the partie who is our flesh, and Gods image, <sup>k</sup> the which are the two principall grounds of the law, Thou shalt doe no murther. Whereas it is objected that <sup>l</sup> Paul called the Galathians foolish; <sup>m</sup> answer is made that he did this out of loue to conforme, not out of malice to confound them; and so mens & propositum distinguunt maleficia, saith the law. Freindly to shew thy brother his follie is not a wound, but a <sup>n</sup> precious balme, better than the kisses of anemie: qui non corrigit, corrumpit; in some case not to correct is to corrupt thy friend. Another question is moued here, whether superiours, especially Princes, may be transported with anger vnadvisedly towards their vassals, abusing them in reprochfull termes at their pleasure. To this obiection the King of Kings hath giuen answer; <sup>p</sup> Fathers prouoke not your children to wrath. A superiour may rebuke sharply, but faults rather than men, and men only in hatred of faults, and both in long-suffering and loue. The master Bee (saith Basil) hath no sting, the greater power power the lesser passion. The vpper region of the aire is calme, stormes ingendred in the middle, breake forth in the lowest. Regis clementia virtus: A King is Gods Lieutenant on earth, he must therefore be mercitull as our Father in heauen is mercifull. It is the part of a Tyrant, in imperio nil nisi imperium cogitare: to glorie with ¶ Lewis the 11. King of France, that he passed his time in making and vndoing men; as if he were placed in his throne, non ut profit, sed tantum ut praesit, as <sup>r</sup> Augustine speaks. I finde <sup>f</sup> in historie, that wise men inuented the game of Chess to mitigate the crueltie of Governours, in which it is insinuated, that the King hath need of his Bishops, of his Knights, yea of the meanest pezant that toyleth in his land. And therefore considering that he differs onely from his subiects in <sup>r</sup> use not in <sup>r</sup> stufte; he must become a common father vnto the people, neuer vnadvisedly prouoking them vnto iust indignation and anger.

Concerning the degrees of punishment: <sup>u</sup> all finnes are mortall in respect of their owne merit, how focuer pardonable to the truly penitent by Gods mercie. Christ in this gradation doth not allow the papisticall distinction of mortall and veniall sinne; for the wages of every sinne is death, and in it nature deserueth hell fire. But he doth <sup>y</sup> allude to the proceeding of the Jewes in their Ciuill Courts, among whom a small matter was heard and decided by the iudgement of three men, other of greater importance determined in a Counsell of 23. Iudges, and lastly the greatest of all ended by the sentence of 71. The <sup>z</sup> Romanes held almost the like formes of iudgement. Christs intent then is to shew that as among men, so before God there be different degrees of punishment, according to the different degrees of sinne. See S. August. de serm. Dom in monte, lib. 1. Marlorat, & Beza in loc. concerning the word Gebenna; Galatin. de Arcanis lib. 6. cap. 7. Euthym. in loc. Beauxamis Harmon. tom. 2. fol. 201. Iansen. Concord. cap. 40. pag. 277. 278. but aboue the rest, Erasmus annot. in Matth. 10. 28.

If thou offerest the gift at the Altar, and there remembreth thy brother hath ought against thee, leaue there thine offering before the Altar, and goe thy way first and be reconciled vnto thy brother ] Our offering is acceptable, when we sacrifice that which is our owne, with a good intent toward God, and loue toward our brethren. First, we must offer our owne, <sup>a</sup> thy gift. <sup>b</sup> He that giueth an offering of vnrighteous goods, offereth a mocking sacrifice, and he doth as one that sacrificeth the tonne before the fathers eye.

Secondly; we must offer with a good intent, as hauing respect vnto Gods Altar, and not vnto the <sup>c</sup> commendations of men. If the gift of the wicked be an abomination vnto the Lord, <sup>d</sup> how much more when he bringeth it with a wicked minde? If thine eye be single (saith our Sauour) thy whole bodie shall be light; but if thine eye be wicked, then all thy bodie shall be darke, Matth. 6. 22, 23. This eye, saith <sup>e</sup> Augustine, is our intention, if that be single, directed to the right end, then all the bodie of thy good workes is acceptable to God. I meane such an intent, as is begun, continued, and ended in a liuely faith.

Lastly, we must offer in loue, being reconciled vnto our brother, and much more to the Catholike Church, which is the whole <sup>f</sup> brotherhood of Christian men: for God expects and respects <sup>g</sup> mercie rather than sacrifice. The partie nocent ought to seeke for reconciliation first: but for as much as euery man almost is readie to pretend innocencie, <sup>h</sup> seeing a mote in his brothers eye, but not considering the beame in his owne eye: thou must examine thine owne <sup>i</sup> conscience strictly, whether thy brother hath ought against thee, be it neuer so little, if enough to make variance, <sup>k</sup> though he conceiue displeasure without a iust cause. For <sup>l</sup> if thy brother hath iniured thee, forgiue him, and be patient. If thou hast offended thy brother, aske him forgiuenesse, and make satisfaction <sup>m</sup> answerable to the fault. If thou hast ought against thy brother, <sup>n</sup> it is enough thou freely pardon him at the Altar, desiring forgiuenesse as thou forgiuest other: but if thy brother hath ought against thee, then go from the Altar, and be reconciled. Christ saith not <sup>o</sup> if thou hast offended against thy brother in secret thought onely, for that were to make difference, not to seeke peace: but if thou hast openly trespassed

¶ Comineus lib. 6. cap. 8.

<sup>r</sup> Contra Faust. lib. 2. cap. 66.

<sup>f</sup> Lanquet. Liban. pag. 34.

<sup>c</sup> B. silicon Doron. lib. 2.

<sup>d</sup> D<sup>r</sup>. Fulk<sup>o</sup> in loc.

<sup>x</sup> Rom. 6. 13.

<sup>y</sup> Bullinger & Beza in loc.

<sup>z</sup> Engl sb gloss. in loc.

<sup>a</sup> Ardens in loc.

<sup>b</sup> Ecce Gallicus 34 18, 21.

<sup>c</sup> Matth. 6. 5.

<sup>d</sup> Prou. 21. 27.

<sup>e</sup> Lib. 2. de serm. Dom. in monte.

<sup>f</sup> Hebre 13. 1.

<sup>g</sup> Osea 6. 6.

<sup>h</sup> Luke 6. 41.

<sup>i</sup> M<sup>r</sup>. Lanet. com. in loc.

<sup>k</sup> Theophylact.

<sup>l</sup> Euthymius

<sup>m</sup> Beauxamis ex Chysoft.

<sup>n</sup> Augustin. lanet.

<sup>o</sup> Muscul. in loc.

¶ Idem ibidem.

Trespasse against him in such sort that he take notice thereof, if thy brother hath ought against thee, then leave thine offering before the Altar. ¶ Take it not away, but goe thy way first; not vnto the Priest, but vnto thy brother, and being reconciled vnto him in charitie, come againe that thou maist offer thy gift according to Gods good will and pleasure. But if thou wilt not agree with thine aduersarie quickly while thou art in the way with him, he may deliuer thee to the Iudge, and the Iudge deliuer thee to the sergeant, and then thou be cast into prison, out of which assuredly thou shalt not come till thou hast paid the vntermost farthing.

The Epistle. Rom. 6. 19.

I speake grossely, because of the infirmitie of your flesh, &c.

¶ Marloras.

¶ Martyr. Caluin. Sarcerius.

IN this exhortation obserue the Manner: I speake after the manner of man, or as our text, grossely; ¶ not for the matter, for that is high and heauenly; but in respect of the forme and phrase, considering their infirmitie. By which example ¶ Preachers are taught to submit themselues vnto their hearers vnderstanding, teaching the grosse grossely, though able to speake with the tongues of men and Angels in a learned auditorie. See Gospell, third Sunday after Easter.

¶ Bullinger, Tileman, Gorran.

Matter: intreating them to desist from uncleannesse, and persist in righteousness; and that in regard of the Loss and shame which ariseth from the one, verse 20, 21. Profit and honour enjoyed by the other, verse, 22, 23.

¶ Erasmus Raphras.

As an Epigram resembling the Bee, doth carrie the chiefeft sting in it taile; so the maine strength of all this text is in the conclusion. I will therefore begin at the end. The reward of sinne is death, but eternall life is the gift of God, through Iesus Christ our Lord. As if our Apostle should say; ¶ Compare God with the deuill, sanctimonie with sinne, life with death, and you shall find that it is better to serue God whose gift is eternall life, then Satan whose wages for sinne is euerlasting death. A scripture like the Physitians, γλυκύπικρον, sowre-sweet: for what can be more sharpe then the first clause, The wages of sinne is death? And againe, what more sweet than the latter, eternall life is the gift of God through Iesus Christ our Lord? The first sentence may be conuerted thus, Death is the wages of sinne.

Now there be three kindes of death: of the

- ¶ Bodie, which is the naturall death.
- ¶ Soule, which is the spirituall death.
- ¶ Bodie and soule, which is eternall death.

¶ Aristot.

¶ Heb. 9. 27. y Rom. 5. 12.

¶ Philip. 1. 21.

Naturall death is the separation of the soule from the bodie, common vnto the good with the bad: for it is a statute law decreed in the great parliament of heauen, that all men sha' once die, y for as much as all men haue sinned. Hence it is that many are sicke and weak and die, 1. Corinth. 11. 30. All men, euen the dearest children of God (albeit their sinnes be forgiven) shall taste of the first death, but it is not a curse, but rather a blessing vnto them. It is true that death in it telfe, and to the reprobate wicked, is the curie of God, the very suburbs of hell, and, as it is called here, the stipend of sinne. Neither is it vniust dealing in God, that he should incurre the death of his bodie, who reiected the life of his soule. But considered in Christ, and ioyned with a good life, to Gods elect it is advantage: nothing else but a bridge whereby we shall passe from a valley of teares into a paradise of ioyes. According to that of Salomon, Ecclesiastes 7. 3. The day of death is better then the day that one is borne. See Nunc dimittis.

Spirituell

Spiritual death in the faithfull is threefold: to wit,
a death of

Sinne: for <sup>a</sup> how shall we that are dead to sinne live ther. in?
The law: through the law I am dead to the law; Galat. 2.19.
<sup>b</sup> Against that accusing and condemning law, I haue another law which is grace and libertie, the which accuseth the accusing, and condemneth the condemning law.

The world }
Active; whereby the world is dead vnto them, as renouncing the pomps thereof, and <sup>c</sup> accounting all things losse to winne Christ.
Passive; whereby they be dead vnto the world, which <sup>d</sup> hateth and persecuteth them for Christs sake; reputed them <sup>e</sup> as the filth of the earth and off-scouring of all things. Our Apostle comprehends both in one line: Gal. 6.14. God forbid that I should reioyce but in the crosse of our Lord Iesus Christ, wherby the world is crucified vnto me, and I to the world.

None of these spirituall deaths are the reward of sinne, but on the contrarie the gifts and graces of God. For all such as are dead to the world and sinne line to God; so the Scripture plainly, <sup>f</sup> The iust doth live by faith, euen by faith <sup>g</sup> in the Sonne of God, who <sup>h</sup> dwelleth in their hearts, and <sup>i</sup> quickeneth them with his spirit. There is then a spirituall death in vnbeleuers, and all such as are not led by the spirit of God. For as the soule is the life of the body; so God is the life of the soule. When he taketh his spirit from vs we walke in the shadow of death; as the faithfull are dead to sinne, so the faithlesse dead in sinne. Matth. 8.22. Let the dead burie the dead; <sup>k</sup> that is, let such as are spirituall dead bury those which are corporally dead. For <sup>l</sup> a widow liuing in pleasure is dead while she liueth. And this kinde of spirituall death is a fruit of sinne, because sinne onely <sup>m</sup> makes a separation betweene God and vs.

The third kinde is the death of bodie and soule, and that is eternal destruction <sup>n</sup> in hell fire, called in holy Scripture the <sup>o</sup> second death, or death after death. Of which almighty God by the mouth of his <sup>p</sup> Prophet, as I liue I desire not the death of the wicked, but that he should turne from his way and liue. To these three kinds I might adde a fourth. And that is, as the Lawyers call it, a ciuill death, an vndoing of our credit and honest reputation in the world. And this death is the wages of sinne likewise, for <sup>q</sup> the name of the wicked shall rot. But <sup>r</sup> S. Paul here meaneth especially that eternal death is the reward of sinne, as eternal life is the gift of God. And the reason hereof is plaine, <sup>s</sup> a man in sinne doth offend God an infinite muestie, and therefore deserueth an infinite miserie. But for as much as being finite, he cannot suffer a punishment infinite in greatnesse, <sup>t</sup> intensus sine finis & semel; he must endure a paine which is infinite in time, <sup>u</sup> successiue sine fine, an eternal death in an euerlasting fire. See Gosp. 1. Sund. after Trin.

The reward <sup>v</sup> τὰ ὀψώνια, doth <sup>w</sup> signifie victuall properly, wherewith in old time souldiers were allured to fight. His meaning is, that eternal death is the deuils <sup>x</sup> earnest penny, wages and as it were presse-money which he bestowes vpon all his souldiers. Here then obserue that it is the most vnchristie course to march vnder the colours of Satan, and to <sup>y</sup> haue fellowship with vnfruitfull workes of darknesse. For hereby men gaine nothing but losse both of body and soule. Who would serue such a master as hath neither will nor abilitie to preferre his followers? The deuill hath no will, for he was <sup>z</sup> a murderer from the beginning, whose name in Hebrew is Abaddon, in Greeke Apollyon, a roaring lion seeking whom he may deuoure, 1. Peter 5.8. and as for his abilitie, though he promise <sup>aa</sup> kingdoms, he cannot dispose of a few swine without <sup>ab</sup> Christs permission. Alas poore wretch; he hath nothing of his owne but sinne and death. And in nature they be <sup>ac</sup> nothing; for God made all things, and all that was made was good, <sup>ad</sup> yea very good, Gen. 1.31. But the deuill begat sinne, and sinne bred death. And so by consequence men serue the deuill for a very nothing, his wages is death, and death

<sup>a</sup> Rom 6.3
<sup>b</sup> Luther in Galat. 2.19.
<sup>c</sup> Philip. 3.8.
<sup>d</sup> Matth. 10.22
<sup>e</sup> 1. Cor. 4.13.

<sup>f</sup> Rom. 1.7.
<sup>g</sup> Galat. 2.20.
<sup>h</sup> Ephes. 3.17.
<sup>i</sup> Ephes. 2.5.

<sup>k</sup> August. qu. 6. in Matth. & de Trinit. lib. 4. cap 3 & de Ciuit. lib 20 cap. 6
<sup>l</sup> 1. Tim 5.6.
<sup>m</sup> Esay 59.2.
<sup>n</sup> Matth. 10.28
<sup>o</sup> Apocal. 2.11.
<sup>p</sup> Ezek 33.11

<sup>q</sup> Prou. 18.7.

<sup>r</sup> Ioan Combis compend. lib. 7. cap. 21.

<sup>s</sup> Erasmus & Martyr 12. loc.
<sup>t</sup> Ozymonias in loc.
<sup>u</sup> Ephes 5.11.

<sup>v</sup> Iohn 8.44.
<sup>w</sup> Apocal. 9.11.

<sup>x</sup> Luke 4.6.
<sup>y</sup> Matth 8.31.
<sup>z</sup> Non effectio sed defectio. August. de Ciuit. lib. 22. cap. 7.

<sup>c</sup> Wisd. 1. 13

death is nothing. I say, nothing in nature, none of the workes of Gods hand. It were a blessed turne for the wicked if death in Scripture were nothing, if it were a morall nothing; but the truth is, eternall death is such a thing, as that the reprobate shall finde it a priuation of all that is blissefull, and a possession of all that is hatefull and hurtfull. So great is the difference betweene the reward of Satan and the gift of God:

<sup>d</sup> I Iohn 3. 4.

Sinne] The <sup>d</sup> Scriptures haue defined sinne to be the transgression of the law: and it is either originall, or actuall. <sup>e</sup> Originall is a priuation of goodnesse, and a corruption of nature, deriued from our first parents Adam and Eua, whereby the faculties of our soules, and members of our bodies are disposed and prone to sinne; that euery man may confesse with <sup>f</sup> Augustine: Tamilius puer tantus peccator. And with <sup>g</sup> Dauid, I was shapen in wickednesse, and in sinne hath my mother conceaued me. This contagion is not, as Pelagius imagined, onely by imitation and example: but as Saint Augustine hath excellently proued in <sup>h</sup> two bookes against him, it is by propagation from the parents vnto the children. I say from the parents, albeit neuer so righteous and holy. <sup>i</sup> Regeneratus quippe non regenerat filios carnis, sed generat; ac per hoc in eos non quod regeneratus, sed quod generatus est traicit. Sic igitur, siue reus infidelis siue absolutus fidelis non regenerat absolutos uterq; sed eos; quomodo non solum oleastri sed etiam olea semina, non oleas generant sed oleastros. I will not here curiously dispute whether our soules are infected by the contagion of our bodies, as good oymntment by a fustie vessell: or whether God in the very moment of creation and infusion of soules into infants after a sort forsake them. It is sufficient to know that originall sinne, being as a common fire in a towne, men are not so much to search how it came, as to be carefull how to put it out. For death is the wages euen of this sinne also, otherwise little children, who neuer committed a tuall offence, should not die. The text is plaine that all men are by <sup>k</sup> nature the children of wrath. As Bernard in his <sup>l</sup> meditations sweetly, Parentes ante fecerunt damnatum quam natum; peccatores peccatorem in peccato suo genuerunt, & de peccato nutruerunt; miseri miserum in hanc lucis miseriam induxerunt: nihil ex eis habeo nisi miseriam, & peccatum, & corruptibile hoc corpus quod gesto. The new borne babe was dead in sinne, before he was borne, trespassing in Adam, and so made partaker both of his transgression and guiltinesse, as our Apostle sheweth in the former chapter, concluding in the 18. verse; By the offence of one the fault came on all mento condemnation.

<sup>e</sup> See Caluin in siuit. lib. 1. cap. 1
Perkins aur. caten. cap. 12.

<sup>f</sup> Bucan. loc. com. tit de pec. orig.

<sup>g</sup> Confess. lib. 1. cap. 12.

<sup>h</sup> Pfal. 51. 5.

<sup>i</sup> Tom. 7 fol.

519.

<sup>j</sup> Augustin. lib. 2. contra Pelag.

<sup>k</sup> Celestin. cap.

<sup>l</sup> See Luther & Melant. loc. com. tit. de pec. orig. ca.

<sup>m</sup> Mr. Perkins ubi sup. cap. 11.

<sup>n</sup> I Cor. 15. 22.

<sup>o</sup> Rom. 5. 19.

<sup>p</sup> Ephes. 2. 3.

<sup>q</sup> Cap. 2.

Yea but it is hard and vniust that one should be punished for the fact of another. <sup>m</sup> Answer is made, that Adam is not to be considered in this respect as a priuate man, but as a publike person, representing all mankinde, and therefore looke what good he receiued from God, or euill elswhere, both were common to vs with him. And it is iust before God, and man; before God, because we receiue more benefit by the death of Christ, then we did hurt by the fall of Adam. <sup>n</sup> As in Adam all men die, so in Christ all are made aliue. By one mans disobedience many were made sinners, and by the obedience of one, many made righteous. It is iust; also before man, for rebellion is punished not onely in the partie delinquent, but in all his posteritie. Now Adam was an arrant traytor to the King of all Kings, and therefore such as issue from his loynes haue worthily felt the smart of his fall.

Thus (as I haue shewed) originall siene is the tree, but actuall sinnes are the fruits. Originall is the root, actuall are the branches. James 1. 15, when lust hath conceiued it bringeth forth sinne, and sinne when it is finished bringeth forth death. He doth vnderstand by lust, <sup>p</sup> originall, and by sinne finished, actuall sinne; <sup>q</sup> the one being as mother, and the other as daughter: originall sinne being the seed of all actuall transgressions against the diuine lawes, unum essentia multiplex efficitia. because, saith <sup>r</sup> Aquinas, in originali peccato praexistunt virtualiter omnia peccata actualia.

There be sundrie diuisions of actuall sinnes, as in respect of their obiect; sinnes against God, and sinnes against our neighbours: And against both these, some are sinnes of <sup>s</sup> omission, other of commission. And in regard of our intention

<sup>p</sup> Caluin apud Martorat. in Iacob. 1. 15.

<sup>q</sup> Dosl. Fuke ibidem.

<sup>r</sup> 12. quest. 82. art. 2.

<sup>s</sup> James 4. 17.

and minde, there be <sup>c</sup> sinnes of infirmitie, sinnes of ignorance, sinnes of malice, Sinnes of infirmitie are said to be committed against God the Father, whose speciall attribute is power : sinnes of ignorance, against God the Sonne, whose speciall attribute is wisdom : sinnes of malice, against God the Holy Ghost, whose speciall attribute is loue. And these sinnes of malice are either directly committed against grace received and the good motions of Gods spirit in vs, as the blasphemie against the Holy Ghost: or else consequently, as Idolatrie and adulterie, the which if once they grow to be habits, exceedingly <sup>a</sup> griene the spirit of God. Besides these, and many moe partitions of sinne, the <sup>x</sup> Papists affirme that some sinnes are mortall, and other veniall. Herein contradicting the text, intimating that death is the reward of euery sinne, be it neuer so little. For <sup>y</sup> whosoever shall keepe the whole law, and yet faile in one point, is guiltie of all. Howsoever he doe not transgresse totum legis, yet he doth breake totam legem. And so the least sinne legally considered is damnable, though euangelically the greatest of all be pardonable. Sinne in vnregenerate men is <sup>z</sup> regnant, and therefore mortall. According to that of Saint <sup>a</sup> Iohn; he that beleueth not is condemned already: but in a regenerate man, sinne doth not reigne as a king, howsoever it rageth as a tyrant; it is not admitted with plenarie consent, but committed, or rather indeed suffered with relaxation and griefe. He that is borne of God so sinneth, as if he did not <sup>b</sup> sinne, doing that euill which he <sup>c</sup> would not. And therefore veniall, according to that of Paul, there is no condemnation to them that are in Christ Iesu, which walke not after the flesh but after the spirit: Rom. 8. 1. In this sense <sup>d</sup> Martin Luther, <sup>e</sup> Philip Melancthon, and <sup>f</sup> other Protestant Diuines, approue the distinction of mortall and veniall sinne. The which one point vnderstood aright, is the consolation of Israel, and the Christians heauen vpon earth, as the Prophet Dauid sheweth in the 32. Psalme: Blessed is the man whose vnrightheousnesse is forgivenen, and whose sinne is covered.

But the Papists herein erre, because they make this difference, non respectu personarum, sed peccatorum. Extenuating their owne mischiefe, not amplifying Gods mercie. Teaching that sinnes of omission and ignorance be 3 prater legem Dei, but not contra legem Dei: besides Gods law, not against Gods law: the which is a dangerous doctrine deluding many. The words, I confesse, drop as an honey combe, and are more soft then oyle, but the end of it is bitter as wormewood, and sharpe as a two-edged sword. <sup>i</sup> Egypt was tormented with small flies, as with greater plagues: and we may not neglect our sinnes because they be little in nature, but tremble because they be many in number. We commonly discerne sinne as we doe the Sunne; which we iudge to be little because we be farre from it. The neerer we come to sinne, the greater it will appeare: for if we consider it in the lawes glasse, we shall finde that as a bemired dogge it doth defile with fawning, and that the reward thereof, as it is in the text, is eternall death. Haply some will obiect, if the wages of all sinne be death, and that euerlasting, then as the <sup>k</sup> Stoicks and <sup>l</sup> Iouinianists hold, all sinnes are equall and alike. This canill is answered by Christ in the Gospell allotted for the last Sunday, Mat. 5. 22. Whosoever is angry with his brother vnadvisedly, shall be culpable of iudgement: and whosoever saith vnto his brother racha, shall be in danger of a counsell: but whosoever saith thou foole, shall be in danger of hell fire. Where (as I haue shewed) are three degrees of sinne against one and the same commandement; and three degrees of punishment accordingly. Circumstances of place, time, person, either lesion or aggravate faults. As for example; the <sup>m</sup> King of Babylon offended more in taking <sup>n</sup> sacrum de sacro, consecrated vessels out of Gods house, then if he had stolne them out of a priuate house. The cutpurse who doth exercise his craft at a sermon, is worse then a theefe robbing vpon the common way. Iudas an Apostle sinned more in betraying his master Christ, then if Barrabasa a murtherer had done the deed. He that deliuered me to thee (said <sup>o</sup> Christ to Pilate) hath the greater sinne.

According to these differences in sinning, there be degrees in suffering: for as <sup>c</sup> Augustin lib. quest. 83. quest. 26.

<sup>a</sup> Ephes. 4. 30.
<sup>x</sup> Them. ubi sup. quest. 83. art. 1. 3
<sup>y</sup> Iames 2. 10.

<sup>z</sup> Rom. 6. 12.
<sup>a</sup> Iohn 3. 18.

<sup>b</sup> I Iohn. 3. 9.
<sup>c</sup> Rom. 7. 19.
<sup>d</sup> Loc. com. tit. de pec. in genere.
<sup>e</sup> Loc. com. tit. de pec. actual. & in exam. quest. de diuis. pec.
<sup>f</sup> Perzelius in explicat. examinis Melancthon & Bucanus loc. com. ut. de pec. actual. quest. 10
<sup>g</sup> Melancthon loc. com. ubi supra.
<sup>h</sup> Prouerbs 5. 3
<sup>i</sup> Exod 8. 24.

<sup>k</sup> Hieron epist. ad Celant & Augustin. lib. contra mendacium, cap. 15.
<sup>l</sup> Augustin epist. 29 & sent. heres. 82.

<sup>m</sup> Dan. 5.
<sup>n</sup> Lumbard 3. sent. dist. 37.

<sup>o</sup> Iohn 19. 11.

<sup>p</sup> 1. Cor. 14. 41.

in heaven one starre differeth from another in glorie: so in hell one damned soule differeth from another in gricfe; being so much the more wretched by law much the more wicked: Matth. 11. 24. and 23. 15, Luk. 20. 47.

<sup>q</sup> Dan. 12. 3.

Eternall life is the gift of God through Iesus Christ our Lord ] Gods eternall decree to elect is without beginning, but it shall have end, when we see God face to face. The possession of this eternall life shall have a beginning, but no end: For the iust shall shine as the starres for euer and euer. Gods mercie in both hath neither beginning nor end, for it is from euertlasting to euertlasting. There be three kinds of life correspondent to the three kinds of death, and all of them are the gift of God, who is the <sup>r</sup> Lord of life. The life naturall of the bodie is Gods gift, for <sup>s</sup> in him we liue and moue and haue our being. The life spirituall of the soule is Gods gift, for it is the <sup>t</sup> life of Christ, and of <sup>u</sup> God in vs. Eternall life both of bodie and soule mentioned in the text is taken either pro vita, for the way to life euertlasting, as Iohn 3. 36, He that beleueth in the Sonne of God hath euertlasting life: For <sup>x</sup> it is eternall life to know God, and whom he sent, Iesus Christ. Or else pro vita, for the blessed estate of Gods elect in heauen, as Matth. 23. 46. Marke 10. 30. And both are the free gift of God. In receiuing eternall life, we receiue <sup>y</sup> grace, for grace, <sup>z</sup> that is, the gift of glorification for the gift of iustification. And therefore whereas Paul saith here the wages of sinne is death, if there were any merits in our good workes, the sequell of his speech should haue beene, the wages of righteousnesse is eternall life. <sup>a</sup> But lest iustice should lift vp it selfe of mans good merit, as mans ill merit is not doubted to be sinne; he saith not so, but eternall life is the gift of God: and lest it should be sought any other way then by the Mediator, he doth adde further, through Iesus Christ our Lord. And so by that which he doth not say, as also by that which he doth say, sheweth evidently that there is no place for merit. See Saint Augustine ubi in margin. lib. de gratia & libero arbitrio cap. 8. & 9. Enchirid. ad Laurent. cap. 107. enar. Psal. 109. in principio. Hierom, Phosius, Primas. Anselme, Aquine, Cautan Docteur Fulke, Martyr. in loc. & Docteur Abbot against Bishop tit. Merus, sect. 8. and lastly, Septuages of Sun. Gospell, from pag. 252. to pag. 258.

<sup>r</sup> Act. 3. 15.

<sup>s</sup> Acts 17. 23.

<sup>t</sup> Galat. 2. 20.

<sup>u</sup> Ephes 4. 3.

<sup>x</sup> Iohn 17. 3.

<sup>y</sup> Iohn 1. 16.

<sup>z</sup> Regard hum.

<sup>2</sup> in locum.

idem. Augustin.

de grat. & lib.

arbit. cap. 8.

<sup>a</sup> Augustin. epist. 105.

<sup>d</sup> Deus promisit hominibus diuinitatem, mortalibus immortalitatem, peccatoribus iustificationem, ab cælis glorificationem; quicquid promisi indignis promisi, &c.

<sup>c</sup> Zeper Pon.

tan. H. ming.

<sup>d</sup> Psal 145. 16.

<sup>e</sup> Augustin. in

Psal. 90.

<sup>f</sup> Melancthon,

Culman, Marlo-

rat.

<sup>g</sup> 1. Pet. 5. 7.

<sup>h</sup> Theophylact

& Anselm. in

Matth. 15. &

Rupert in Ioan. 6.

<sup>i</sup> Ferus ser. 3.

in loc.

<sup>k</sup> Mutulus in

Matth. 14. 20. &

Zepper. con. 2. in

loc.

The Gospell. MARKE 8. I.

In those dayes when there was a verie great companie and had nothing to eat, &c.

CHRISTS miraculous feeding of many people with a few loaves, is read in the Church euery yeere thrice; to wit in Winter, when wheat is Sowed: in Lent when it is in hopefull Spring: and in Haruest when it is readie for the Barne. The reason hereof is manifold.

1. <sup>c</sup> That in sowing, secing, and reaping our Corne we might not ascribe this wonderfull increase to the fatnesse of our land, or greatnesse of our skill, or goodnesse of our seed: but only to the blessing of God, opening his hand, and filling all things liuing with plentifousnesse, <sup>e</sup> who doth euery yeere make a great haruest of a few grames, as he did here make a great feast of a few loaves.

2. <sup>f</sup> That we may be well assured of Christs bountie towards all his followers, hungry and thirsting after righteousnesse, providing for them abundantly, lest they faint in their way. <sup>g</sup> Caring for such as cast their care vpon him, as he promised in his holy Gospell: First seeke the Kingdome of God, and then all other things shall be ministred vnto you, Matth. 6. 33.

3. That we may learne to vse these temporall blessings in <sup>h</sup> thanksgiuing to God, in <sup>i</sup> hospitalitie towards the poore, feeding such as haue nothing to cate, in <sup>k</sup> frugalitie, taking vp the broken meat, not suffering any of Gods good creatures vnprofitably to be spoiled, or wastfully to be cast away.

The whole may be diuided into three parcels, a Defect, of } Food in the people; There was a very great company, and had nothing to eat.

 Faith in the Disciples; where should a man haue bread here in the wilderness to satisfie these, &c.
 Affect; I haue compassion on the people.
 Effect; About foure thousand did eat, and were sufficed with seuen loanes, and a few small fishes.

1 Andr.
Theophylact,
Cautan.

All which ioyntly considered, may serue for the confirmation of our Faith, Hope, Charitie.

It may confirme our beleefe concerning Christs Humanitie and Diuinitie, both together against Eutyches; his compassion is a demonstration of his manhood, for God is not compassionate secundum affectum, but only secundum effectum. The reason is, because o pittie is a grieffe for anothers miserie, p miserordia dicitur, quia miserum cor facit, and that is not properly competent to God. So that Christ being touched with the feeling of our infirmities, evidently shewed himselfe to be very man; and his feeding of so much people with so little prouision, is an argument of his Diuinitie. The children of Israel in the wilderness disputed with God after this manner: He smote the stonie rocke indeed, and the water gushed out; but can he giue bread also, or provide flesh for his people? shall God prepare a table in the wilderness? As if they should argue thus: If the God of Israel can doe this, then he is God, then he is among vs and with vs. Goe to then ye stiffe-necked Iewes, and incredulous generation, resisting the holy Ghost, and not acknowledging Christ for the Messias. If he be God that can prouide a table for his people in the wilderness, and giue abundance of bread in the deserr, haue so much patience as to consider a little this miraculous act of Christ, amplified by many remarkable pregnant circumstances in the text. As 1. we may reason from the place, Christ was in the wilderness, farre from all towne, all villages, all houses, in so much that he could neither buy nor begge any bread or meat.

<sup>m</sup> Eeda apud Thom. in loc.
<sup>n</sup> Tom. part 1. quest. 21. art. 3.
<sup>o</sup> Cicero Tusc. quest. lib 3.
<sup>p</sup> Isidor. Etymen lib. 10.
<sup>q</sup> Hebr. 2. 15.
<sup>r</sup> Psal. 78. 26. 21

2. From the slender prouision, seuen loanes and a few small fishes. Insinuating that Christ can fill with a little, so well as with a great feast: according to that of Jonathan; It is not hard to the Lord to saue with many or with few. If they had beene loanes and many, many loanes might haue filled many mouthes: or if loads not loanes, seuen loads of bread haply might haue refreshed much people. But answer is made by the Disciples in the 5. verse, that they had onely loanes, and of those but seuen, and a few small fishes. Fish, small fish, a few small fishes. Euery word hath his weight, for solid flesh might haue contented hungry people better than fish; or if these fishes had beene so great as Whales, or to many as S. Peter took at his strange draught, there might haue beene redred some probable reason of this wonderfull miracle: but they were flaggie for their substance, little for their quantitie, few for their number, a few small fishes, euen so few, so small, that (as it is said in the like storie, Ioh. 6. 9.) a little boy carried them all about him. And whereas it may bethought, that these men had prouision of their owne, S. Marke preuents that obiection in the very beginning of this text, a very great companie which had nothing to eat.

<sup>s</sup> Enthymius in Matth. 15.
<sup>t</sup> Marlorat in Matth. 15.
<sup>u</sup> 1. Sam. 14. 6.

3. From the persons who were fed and filled, as it is in the first words of this Gospell, a very great companie; and as it is said in the last more particularly, about foure thousand, beside women, and children, according to S. Matthews report. This great multitude comming from farre, verse 3. continuing in the wilderness open piercing aire, verse 4. <sup>z</sup> which of necessitie must increafe their hunger, and hauing not any thing of their owne to stay their stomach, verse 2. sate all downe, verse 6. not as vnto a scrambling beauer, but as at an orderly dinner, and all did eat and were satisfied, verse 8.

<sup>v</sup> Luke 9. 6.

<sup>w</sup> Matth 15 38.

<sup>x</sup> Dr. Adonai in Matth 15 32.

4. From the meat which was left, they tooke up of the broken meat that was left, seuen baskets full. Baskets, full baskets, seuen full baskets. All these being put together, amplify Christs omnipotent power in working this wonder, and are able to make men acknowledge with the Prophet <sup>a</sup> Esay, Lord thou art my God, I will exalt and praise thy name for thou hast done wonderfull things. And with <sup>b</sup> Moses: O Lord, who is like to thee among the gods? who like to thee, so glorious in holinesse, fearfull in praises, doing wonders? And with <sup>c</sup> the Psalmographer, Among the gods there is none that can doe as thou doest, for thou art great, and doest wonderous things, thou art God alone.

<sup>a</sup> Cap. 25. 1.<sup>b</sup> Exod. 15. 11.<sup>c</sup> Psal. 86. 8. 10.<sup>d</sup> Fernus con. 2. in loc.<sup>e</sup> Sarcarius in loc.<sup>f</sup> Esay 55. 1.<sup>g</sup> Iohn 7. 37.<sup>h</sup> August. tr. act. 13. in loc.<sup>i</sup> Esay 40. 6.<sup>k</sup> Jerem. 17. 15.<sup>l</sup> 1. Tim. 6. 17.<sup>m</sup> Psal. 82. 7.<sup>n</sup> Poradius in Symbol. Heroic.<sup>o</sup> Matth. 25. 9.<sup>p</sup> Psal. 111. 2.<sup>q</sup> Psal. 34. 21.<sup>r</sup> Daniel 6.<sup>s</sup> Psal. 23. 1.

Secondly, this Gospell serueth aptly for the confirmation of our hope: <sup>d</sup> propounding Christ here both able, and willing to succour vs in all our afflictions. Able, for what can he not doe, who fed foure thousand hungrie people with seuen loaves, and a few small fishes, in such a plentifull manner, as that all of them were sufficed, and yet seuen baskets full of broken meat were left? His willingnesse is insinuated also, <sup>e</sup> for that before any of the distressed people made suit to him, he preuented them of his owne accord, calling his Disciples, and consulting how to releue them in this extremitie, saying further, I haue compassion on the people, because they haue bene with me three dayes. He saith not, I haue compassion on my Disciples, or I would my friends and acquaintance were succoured, or I pittie the good men in the companie: but he saith in generall, I haue compassion on the whole multitude; not excluding any from his gracious fauours, openly proclaiming, <sup>f</sup> Hoe, every one that thirsteth come yee to the waters, I say, come buy milke without siluer; & if any man thirst, let him come vnto me, and drinke. Come all ye that are wearie and laden, and I will ease you. <sup>h</sup> Si esurieris, panis tibi est: si sitieris, aqua tibi est: si in tenebris es, lumen tibi est, &c.

Let vs not therefore put our confidence in man, for if <sup>i</sup> all flesh be grasse, and the grace thereof as the flower of the field, then <sup>k</sup> curst is the man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arme. Neither let vs trust in our money, for <sup>l</sup> riches are vncertaine. Neither in our selues, for he that now stands may fall, 1. Cor. 10. 12. Neither in Princes, for albeit in regard of their high place, they be called gods; yet in regard of their fraile nature, they shall die like men. And therefore the Master of the Ceremonies, at the Popes inauguration, beareth two drie reeds, whereof the one hath on the top a candle to kindle the other, crying aloud vnto the Pope, <sup>n</sup> Sante Pater, sic transit gloria mundi. Neither in Angels, or in Saints, for they cannot haue <sup>o</sup> enough oyle for themselues and vs too. But let our <sup>p</sup> helpe stand in the name of the Lord, for his eyes are ouer the righteous, and his cares are open to their prayers, 1. Pet. 3. 12. <sup>q</sup> He deliuereth the soules of his seruants, and all they that put their trust in him shall not be destitute. The Lions roare and suffer hunger, but they that seeke the Lord shall want no manner of thing that is good. This was verified in <sup>r</sup> Daniel, who being cast into the dungeon of Lions, was not made their prey: for the Lions roared still, and continued hungrie, whereas Daniel was refreshed with an Angell from heauen. And therefore let euery Christian soule say with the <sup>s</sup> Psalmist, The Lord is my shepheard, how can I then lacke any thing?

Thirdly, this Gospell is a direction for loue: for that Christ expresseth in his Humble carriage: conuersing in the wildernesse with the people.

Kinde speech: I haue compassion on the multitude.
Bountifull deeds: In feeding a great companie which had nothing to eat.

<sup>t</sup> Luke 1. 32.<sup>u</sup> Philip. 2. 6.<sup>x</sup> Bucholzerus ad ann. 1272.

Albeit Christ was the sonne of the <sup>t</sup> most High, holding it no <sup>u</sup> robberie to be equal with God: yet he thought it no disreputation to conuerse with men, with poore men, and that in the wildernesse. If a Kings onely sonne should so farre humble himselfe, as to be familiar with the Commons, all the Chronicle would be full of his praises, and all the Countrie ring of his courtesies. What did extoll <sup>x</sup> Rudolphus so much, as that when he was elected Emperour, he told his Nobility, That he would not be locked vp in a chest from the sight of his people, but that euery one should haue accessie vnto him? or what did honour the good late Queene more, than than her courteous and sweet carriage toward her loyall subiects? or who could giue better aduise to a young Prince, than that he should be the poore mans King?

By the compassionate speech of Christ here, miserior super turbam: all Princes, Prelates, and Pastors, are taught to weepe with them that weepe, carrying tender hearts, and open bowels toward all such as are in any distresse: a being eyes to the blinde, and feet to the lame. For as Christ did speake compassionately, to deale bountifully with this hungrie multitude, causing them to sit downe, and to eat of his loaves and fishes, heartily bestowing on them such as he had. Aurum habet ecclesia (saith b Ambrose) non ut seruet, sed ut croget. And as the blessed Martyr c S. Lawrence, The poore are the treasures of the Church. It is recorded of \ Basil the Great*, that in a famine he did not only giue to the poore such as he had himselfe, but exhorted all others earnestly to open their barnes, and to doe the like. William Warham Archbishop of Canterburie was so liberall vnto poore men in his life, that at his death he had in all his treasure but thirtie peeces of gold: the which (as d Erasmus of Roterodam reports) pleased him so well, as that he said, It is well, I desired alway to die no richer. And e Philip Melancthon was so bountifull, euen in a meane estate, that euery houre something was giuen at his doore. The gifts of God were so multiplied here, that the leauings in the end, were more than the loaves in the beginning. And f this should encourage men in their almes, as being assured that g the mercifull rewardeth his owne soule; for there is that scattereth, and is more increased: but he that spareth more than is right, surely commeth to pouertie. Let vs therefore remember that old verse, whensoever we cast our eyes vpon a brother in need.

Aut sumus, aut fuimus, aut possimus esse quod hic est.

Thus I haue written briefly concerning the literall exposition: if any desire the mysticall and allegoricall, he may reade Aug. tract. 24. in Iohan. Bernard. serm. de euangelio septem pan. Ludolphus de vita Christi, part. 1. cap. 67. Iansen con. cap 63 Theophylact, Aquin, Pontan, in loc. Sarcarius schol. in Matth. 14 Ferus serm. 5. Dom. 8 post Pentecost. Melanct. & omnes fere postillat. in Euangel. Dom. 7. post Trinit. The Gospell and Epistle meet, in that all our happinesse and helpe commeth only from heauen, as the gift of God through Iesus Christ our Lord.

y Basil. con. dō-roulib 2.

z Rom. 12. 15. a Job 29. 15.

*b Offic. lib. 2. cap. 28 c Ambros. libid. * Nazianzen in eius vita.*

d Epist. lect. ante opera Hieron. e Camerar. in eius vita.

f Melancthon postil. in. loc. idem Vega g Pro 11. 17. 24

The Epistle ROM. 8. 12.

Brethren, we are debtors not to the flesh, to liue after the flesh, &c.

Saint Paul in this Epistle	Exhorts to the life spirituall, in respect of our	Dehorts from liuing after the flesh, in respect of our	h Debt, to the spirit dwelling in vs. i Danger, if ye liue after the flesh, ye shall die.	Present estate of grace, being the sonnes of God, as having his spirit for our guide, wherby we call him Abba Father, and he certifieth vs also that we are his children.	Future estate of glory, being the heires of God, and heires annexed with Christ, if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together with him.	b Anselm. Gorran. Sarcarius. i Martyr.

Brethren, we are debtors not to the flesh ] There is a double debt; one of sinne, which we must euery day seeke to be forgiven, as Christ in his prayer, forgiue vs our debts: another of obedience, which we must euery day seeke to performe, whereof our Apostle speakes here. The word flesh hath also sundrie significations in holy Bible, being sometime taken for all liuing creatures, as Psalm. 136. 25. which giueth food to all flesh. And sometime for all mankinde: so the

<sup>k</sup> Esay 58.7.

<sup>l</sup> Rom. 11.14.

<sup>m</sup> Gen. 29.14.

<sup>n</sup> Ephes. 5.31.

<sup>k</sup> Prophet, hide not thy selfe from thine owne flesh. Sometime for such as are of our <sup>l</sup> countrey, sometime for our kindred; as <sup>m</sup> Laban to Iacob, Thou art my bone and my flesh. Sometime for <sup>n</sup> man and wife.

<sup>c</sup> Bulke of his bodie, Prou. 14.30. A sound heart is the life of the flesh. And Acts 2.31. neither his flesh should see corruption.

Sometime for one man, and that in respect of the

<sup>f</sup> Faculties of his soule, Matth. 16.17. Flesh and bloud hath not revealed it vnto thee.

<sup>e</sup> Naturall corruption, and ill disposition of both, and so Paul calls our will viregenerate, <sup>o</sup> the will of the flesh; and our affections, <sup>p</sup> affections of the flesh; and our wisdom, <sup>q</sup> the wisdom of the flesh.

<sup>o</sup> Ephes. 2.3.

<sup>p</sup> Galat. 5.24.

<sup>q</sup> Rom. 8.6.

Now we are debtors vnto our selues, our soules, our bodies, as also to our second selues, our wines, our friends, all of our kinne, all of our kinde, yea to the very beasts, Prou. 12.10. only no debtor vnto the flesh, in the last acceptation, as it doth import the lust of the flesh. And therefore when it shall (as it is inticing and subtle) call vpon vs importunately to pay this debt as a dutie, we must answer, that hereby we shall increase the debt of our sinne to God, and so the more we pay, the more we shall owe, like paying with chalke, which euer makes the score greater. The second member of opposition is not expressed here; but it is implied, as all Interpreters obserue generally. For if we are not debtors vnto the flesh, it followeth necessarily, that we are debtors to the spirit, <sup>r</sup> by whose grace we are whatsoeuer we are. <sup>s</sup> God bestoweth on vs his gifts out of bountie; but our seruice performed vnto him is of dutie. <sup>t</sup> Where then are the workes of supererogation? If they be deeds of the flesh, the reward thereof is death; if they be workes of the spirit, then assuredly due debt. And so when we are at the best, all of vs are unprofitable seruants, obliged to God in a double bond, one of our creation, as being the workmanship of his hands, and <sup>u</sup> who planteth a vineyard, and eats not of the fruit thereof? another in respect of our redemption, as being his bought seruants, his sworne seruants, his hired seruants, euer receiuing wages before hand. All of vs are bought with a price; yea with the precious blood of Christ: and <sup>v</sup> therefore we must glorifie God in our bodies and in our spirits, for they are Gods. All of vs are his sworne seruants in holy baptisime, renouncing all other masters, as the world, the flesh, and the deuill: and openly protesting before God and his congregation, that we will fight vnder Christs banner as his faithfull souldiers and seruants vnto our liues end. All of vs haue payment in hand also, which, if we had so much as common honestie, should make vs ashamed to refuse the Lords seruice, whose wages we haue received already. For it may be said to vs, as the <sup>z</sup> Prophet in the name of the Lord spake to the Leuites of his time; Who among you shuts the doore of my Temple, or kindles a fire vpon mine Altar in vaine? Who can stand vp and say, that he doth any seruice to God without a reward? The Father of lies in this said truly, <sup>a</sup> Doth Iob feare God for naught? Did not the Lord make an hedge about him and his on euerie side? Consider this point when you will, and you shall finde that for euery peece of seruice ye haue done to the Lord, ye haue receiued present wages an <sup>b</sup> hundred fold, and in the world to come, if you continue faithfull vnto the death, he will giue you a crowne of life. For your light affliction, which is but for a moment, causeth a farre most excellent and eternall weight of glorie, 2. Cor. 4.17. And so the most holy man in his best workes, as <sup>d</sup> Bernard notes, is debtor to God for them, and not God a debtor to him: according to the text here, Brethren, we are debtors not to the flesh, but to the spirit.

<sup>r</sup> 1. Cor. 15.10.

<sup>s</sup> Chrysost.

<sup>t</sup> Martyr.

<sup>u</sup> 1. Cor. 9.7.

<sup>v</sup> 1. Pet. 1.19.

<sup>w</sup> 1. Cor. 6.20.

<sup>z</sup> Malac. 1.10.

<sup>a</sup> Iob 1.9.

<sup>b</sup> Mark. 10.30.

<sup>c</sup> Apocal. 2.10.

<sup>d</sup> Sermon. 1. in annun. B. Marie.

<sup>e</sup> 2. Cor. 5.1.

<sup>f</sup> Theophylact. Caietan.

If yee liue after the flesh yee shall die] There is a great difference betweene liuing in the flesh, and after the flesh. Euery Christian liuing must dwell in an earthly <sup>e</sup> tabernacle, clothed with flesh and bloud. S. Paul therefore doth not say <sup>f</sup> destroy the flesh, or liue not in the flesh, but so mortifie the deeds of the bodie that yee liue not after the flesh. Now that man liueth according to the flesh (as <sup>g</sup> himselfe s him selfe doth expound him selfe) who fulfils the lust of the flesh, h qui quantum-cumq; potest voluntati pariter & voluptati carnis satisfacit. In that I now liue in the flesh, I liue by faith in the Sonne of God, saith our Apostle. Thou hearest the winde, but thou knowest not whence it commeth, or whether it goeth, <sup>1</sup> euen so is euery man that is borne of the spirit. <sup>k</sup> thou hearest me speaking, eating, labouring, sleeping, and doing other things as other men, and yet thou feelt not my life, for I liue by faith in the Sonne of God. The word which I now corporally speake, is the word not of the flesh, but of the spirit: and the sight which goeth in, or commeth out of mine eyes, howsoeuer in the flesh, is not governed of the flesh, but by the Holy Ghost. I behold a woman, and lust not to siue with her; this beholding is in the flesh, because mine eyes are the carrall instruments of my sight: but the chastnesse of this looke proceedeth onely from the sanctifying spirit. So likewise my hearing commeth not of the flesh, although it be in the flesh: it is the worke of Gods owne spirit that I heare what I should, as I should, hauing a <sup>l</sup> good eare which hearkeneth vnto wisdom gladly. Thus I liue, yet not I now, but Christ liueth in me, and in that I liue in the flesh, I liue by faith in the Sonne of God, who hath loued me, and giuen himselfe for me, Galat. 2.20.

This doctrine is like flagons of wine to comfort such as walke in the spirit, for they shall liue, ye liue that <sup>m</sup> they shall neuer see death. For when our breath once shall leaue our bodies, and we fall a sleepe, we shall behold with the blessed Martyr <sup>n</sup> Stephen, heauens open to receiue vs, and Christ standing at the right hand of God with strecthed forth armes, as readie to embrace vs. And so this kinde of death is but an enlargement after a long imprisonment, or as a landing at our owne countrey, after our tedious and troublefome traueil in the tempestuous sea of this world. But let the drunkard and incontinent person tremble, who follow the lusts of the flesh, and that which is worse, fulfill the lusts of the flesh, and that which is worst of all prouoke the lust of the flesh. For as long as they continue this habit of sinne, <sup>o</sup> they be spiritually dead, and without repentance shall eternally perish. Either we must slay sinne, or else sinne shall slay vs. <sup>p</sup> Let no man deceiue you with vaine words, for, for such things the wrath of God commeth vpon the children of disobedience. <sup>q</sup> For as no man commeth either to prison or palace, but by the entrie thereof: euen so no man goeth to hell or heauen, but by the way thereof. A life which is after the flesh, is a thorow-way to that dungeon of darkenesse; a life guided by the spirit, is the path-way to Paradise. Where the tree falls there it lies, saith <sup>r</sup> Salomon, and experience teacheth vs, that it falls to that side on which the branches are thickest: if the greatest growth of our actions spring from the spirit, out of doubt we shall fall to the right hand, and liue for euermore: but if thine affections grow downward, and thou walke after the flesh, assuredly thou shalt fall to the left hand and die. For without <sup>s</sup> holinesse no man shall see God, and he that doth righteousnesse is righteous, saith, <sup>t</sup> S. Iohn. As if he should say, not he that can talke of righteousnesse, but he that doth walke in the spirit. Tace lingua, loquere vita: Speake not thou for thy good life, but let thy good life speake for thee. For if ye through the spirit mortifie the deeds of the bodie, ye shall liue.

Here some men object that of Paul <sup>u</sup> no man euer hated his owne flesh, but nourisheth and cherisheth it. Answer is made, that we may loue the flesh as a seruant to the soule, but not as a <sup>x</sup> mistresse. Now meat, correction, and worke belong to thy seruant. <sup>z</sup> So we must prouide necessarie food for the bodie lest it faint, but with it <sup>a</sup> chastisement and worke lest it proue wanton. According to that of <sup>b</sup> Salomon; He that delicately bringeth vp his seruant from youth, at length he will be euen as his sonne. For as a ship if it be ouer-laded is easily ouerwhelmed by the water, or if it be too light and not ballasted, is easily drinen out of the due course by the winde: so the bodie must neither be so weakened and emptie with fasting, that it be not able, nor yet so pampered and ouer full with feasting, that it be not willing to performe the workes of Christian dutie. Such then as make their gut their god, concupiscence their conscience, lust their law, <sup>8</sup> Ram. 13. 14.

<sup>b</sup> Ardens.

<sup>1</sup> Iohn 3. 8.
<sup>k</sup> Lucifer. in Galat. 2. 20.

<sup>l</sup> Ecclesi 3. 31.

<sup>m</sup> Iohn 8. 51.

<sup>n</sup> Acts 7 56.

<sup>o</sup> Aquir. Gouan.

<sup>p</sup> Ephes 5. 6.
<sup>q</sup> Couper in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Ecclesi. 11. 3

<sup>s</sup> Heb. 12. 14.

<sup>t</sup> 1. Epist. 3. 7.

<sup>u</sup> Ephes 5. 29.

<sup>x</sup> Theo. by last.
<sup>y</sup> Ecclesiasticus 33 23.

<sup>z</sup> Gouan, & R. yard in loc.
<sup>a</sup> 1. Cor 9 29
<sup>b</sup> Prou. 29. 21.

<sup>c</sup> Ephes 4.19.

<sup>d</sup> Morlorat.

<sup>e</sup> Caietan.

<sup>f</sup> Melancthon.

<sup>g</sup> Rom. 6.19.

<sup>h</sup> De corrupt. & grat. cap. 2.

<sup>i</sup> Deut 34.1.

<sup>k</sup> Martyr.

<sup>l</sup> Caietan, <sup>m</sup> Kilius collect.
in loc.

<sup>n</sup> Augustine,
Caluin.

Aquin.

<sup>o</sup> Rom 10.12.

<sup>p</sup> Heb 4.16.

<sup>q</sup> 2. Cor. 1.3.

<sup>r</sup> Galat. 5.22.

<sup>s</sup> 2. Pet. 1.10.

<sup>t</sup> 2. Cor. 1.22.

<sup>u</sup> Ephes 1.13.
& 4.30.

<sup>v</sup> Erasmus, Martyr,
Caietan.

<sup>w</sup> Gen 6.5.

<sup>x</sup> Ecclesi. 1.35.

<sup>y</sup> 1. Ioh. 3.20, 21

<sup>z</sup> 1. Cor. 4.4.

<sup>a</sup> Prou. 30.12.

giuing themselves ouer to worke all vncleannesse euen with greedinesse, are they who liue not after the spirit but after the flesh.

For as many as are led by the spirit of God they are the sonnes of God ] <sup>d</sup> As the naturall sonne is flesh of his fathers flesh, euen so Gods adopted children haue the Spirit of God dwelling in them, and this Spirit makes them and God one, as man and wife is one flesh, Ephes. 5.31. To be led by the Spirit, is <sup>e</sup> not to be carried away with a violent furie, <sup>f</sup> but to be drawne obediently, <sup>g</sup> giuing our members as seruants vnto righteousnesse, wittingly, willingly cum dilectione & delectatione, with aliking and loue, saith <sup>h</sup> Augustine, Or with light and delight; for the Spirit leads vs especially monendo & mouendo: first informing our minde with his admonitions, and then inclining our hearts with his motions. He doth not lead vs as blind men are lead by their guide, a way which they doe not know, but he doth open our eyes, and lets vs see a farre off our heavenly Canaan, and then after he hath carried vs vp with Moses to the top of <sup>i</sup> Pisgah, he moues our hearts and makes them cheerfull, willing and resolute to walke towards it. See Gospell, 1. Sunday, and Epistle 2. Sunday in Lent, Epistle for Whituesday, and Epistle 6. Sunday after Trinitie: how the same Spirit is to such as are vnder the Law, the spirit of bondage, but to such as beleue the Gospell, the spirit of adoption, see Epist 4. Sunday in Lent. How the spirit cryeth in our hearts, and helpeth vs in praying, see The grace of our Lord, &c.

Abba Father ] This duplication is <sup>k</sup> patheticall, and mysticall. Patheticall, <sup>l</sup> insinuating the certaintie of our assurance that God is our father, and thar we are his children: as also that we should be <sup>m</sup> feruent, earnest and importunate with perseuerance, not taking a deniall in our prayers at our fathers hands, againe and againe crying, father, father. And it is mysticall, for Paul in vsing an Hebrew word and a Greeke, <sup>n</sup> signifieth hereby that <sup>o</sup> there is no difference between the Jew and the Grecian, but that the Lord ouer all is rich vnto all, yea father of all that call on him. Euerie Christian in euery corner of the world may goe <sup>p</sup> boldly to the throne of grace, praying to God as to a father. He need not (as the Papists) cry to S. Martin, and to S. Marie for helpe, <sup>q</sup> The God of all consolation, and father of mercies, is our father in heauen. Able to succour vs in our afflictions as being in heauen, and willing as being a father.

The same spirit certifieth our spirit that we are the sonnes of God ] He makes this certificate by word, deed, and seale. By word, terming vs often in holy Scripture Gods children, By deed, for the fruit of the <sup>r</sup> spirit is loue, ioy, peace, long-suffering, &c. by which <sup>s</sup> our calling and election is made sure. For all such as are led by the spirit of God are the sonnes of God. By seale, being <sup>t</sup> Gods earnest, by which a Christian is <sup>u</sup> sealed vnto the day of redemption. Here we must obserue that neither our spirit, nor the spirit alone giues this testimonie: but both concurring and meeting together; as the <sup>x</sup> word (συνμαρτυρησι) doth import. Our spirit makes not this true certificate, because mans heart is alwayes <sup>y</sup> euill, and often <sup>z</sup> deceitfull. And therefore boast not of thy conscience without the witnessse of the spirit: for Paul before his conuersion had an vnfaigned zeale of a false religion. Galat. 1.14 and the Laodiceans had a counterfeit zeale of a true religion, Apocal. 3.15, Againe, Gods spirit makes not this perswasion in vs without the witnessse of our spirit: for <sup>a</sup> if our heart condemne vs, what boldnesse can we haue with God? And <sup>b</sup> S. Paul speaking of his Apostleship, I know nothing by my selfe, yet am I not thereby iustified. And therefore we must here take heed of presumption, and despaire. The fond Anabaptist and hypocriticall schismaticke take their owne presumption for this testimonie, liuing after the flesh, and yet boasting of the spirit. There is (saith <sup>c</sup> Salomon) a generation that are pure in their owne eyes, and yet are not washed from their filthinesse. These pure people brag so much of the spirit, as if none were the children of God, but such as either fauour or follow their humorous faction. Examine thy selfe by this text, a touchstone which can neither deceiue, nor be deceiued. If thou be the sonne of God, then art thou led by the spirit of God; if led by the spirit, then thou liuest after the spirit spirit; if thou liuest after the spirit, then thou bringeth forth the fruits of the spirit: for the spirit is holy, the spirit of sanctitie. First he makes thee, then assures thee to be the sonne of God. If thou continue so malicious as other, so covetous as other, so scornfull and proud as other, living after the flesh, albeit thou dreame of the spirit, it neuer lodged with thee. This opinion of thy iustification and election ariseth onely from thine owne conceit, and Satans deceit.

As the carnall Gopeller may not presume: so let not the weake Christian of a distressed conscience despaire, for that he feeles not alway the witnes of the spirit in the same measure. For the children of God in this respect resemble covetous rich men of the world, who suppose they be possessers of much, and yet their great thirst after more, causeth them to esteeme that which they haue as nothing, and therefore comfort not themselves with the lawfull vse of that which they haue, but vex their spirits with restlesse thoughts for that which they want: euen so many good men exceeding rich in the graces of the Lord Iesus, are so desirous of more, that often they count that nothing which they haue, but grieuously complaine that they haue no faith, no loue, no grace, no life, no spirit. But assuredly this mourning for his absence, is an euident demonstration of his presence. For as none are more ready to boast of the spirit, then they who haue him not: so none complaine more that they want him, then they who possesse him.

If we be sonnes, then are we also heires, the heires I meane of God. Inheritances are conuieced vnto men either by birth, or gift, or will. Almighty God hath chosen and adopted vs his children before the foundation of the world, & begetting vs with the word of truth, and so making vs his sonnes, it is his good pleasure to giue vs his kingdome; recording this adoption, and donation in his holy Scripture which is his reuealed will, but there is a great difference betweene the temporall and eternall inheritance. For in the one the testator must be dead, and the successour liuing: but in the other, Almighty God the testator is euer liuing, and his heires before they can be fully possessed of his kingdome, must be dead. Secondly, temporall inheritance being diuided, is diminished, and so much land is as a nothing among many: but our heauenly inheritance being imparted to so great a number (as as none can number) is not lessened or impaired. Euery saint and sonne of God hath enough, and is a crowned King. Thirdly, the partition of an earthly possession breeds among the coheires enuie: but in our heauenly, the ioy of one, is the ioy of all, euery one being glad for the good of another.

Heires annexed with Christ. The testator and heire make but one person in the Ciuill lawes eyes: so there is such an vnion betweene God and vs in Christ, as that all his heires are one with him, according to Christs owne wish in the Gospell, I pray not for my Disciples alone, but for them also which shall beleue in me through their word, that they all may be one, as thou, O Father, art in me, and I in thee, euen that they may be also one in vs. As Paul, 1. Cor. 7. 23. All are yours, and yee Christs, and Christ Gods. And this, as Theophylact obserues, is an euidence that we shall be grand heires, if coheires with Christ.

Now Christ hath a twofold right to his fathers inheritance: first, as God by generation eternall, and in that respect admits no companion. Secondly, by conquest, as God-man, because dying for our sins, and rising againe for our iustification, he conquered eternall life for all his brethren, and so calleth vs to be partakers with him. He that sanctifieth and they who are sanctified are all one. What a sweet Lord is he who makes all his seruants his friends, and that which is more, his brethren, and that which is most of all, annexed partners with him in all the good that is in him? I beseech you therefore, despising all the subtile offers of the deuill, all inticing pleasures of the flesh, all earthly treasures of the world, let vs euery day more and more seeke for this immortal and vndefiled inheritance reserued for vs in heauen: Eternam sine successione, distributam sine diminutione, communem sine inuidia, sufficientem sine indigentia, iucundum sine tristitia, beatam sine omni miseria. To the which, he bring vs who

<sup>d</sup> Philips in loc.

<sup>e</sup> Cramer in loc.

<sup>f</sup> Ephes. 1. 4.

<sup>g</sup> James 1. 18.

<sup>h</sup> Luke 12. 32.

<sup>i</sup> Ambros. in loc.

<sup>k</sup> Ardens.

<sup>l</sup> Apocal. 7. 9.

<sup>m</sup> Martyr.

<sup>n</sup> Ioh 17 20, 21.

<sup>o</sup> Heb. 2 11.

<sup>p</sup> Iohn 15. 15.

<sup>q</sup> Psal 22 22.

<sup>r</sup> 1 Pet. 1 4.

<sup>s</sup> Ardens.

who bought vs, and it for vs, euen Iesus Christ the righteous, to whom with the Father, and the blessed Spirit, three persons and one God, be giuen all power, and praise, now and euermore. Amen.

The Gospell. MATTH. 7. 15.

Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheepes cloathing, but inwardly they are rauenous wolues.

After Christ had shewed his followers the right way, like a good Physitian he prescribes also, what things are hurtfull in the way. For in the former part of this Sermon preached on the Mount, he propounded the Gospell, and expounded the Law; the one teaching vs how to beleue, the other how to liue: <sup>u</sup> But in this latter part he bids vs take heed of heresie, corrupting the pure fountaines of holy faith, and of hypocrisie, which hindreth vs in honest courses of a godly life.

<sup>c</sup> Euslym. Melanct. Culman.

<sup>o</sup> Zepper. con. 1. in loc.

Prescription, Beware of false prophets, intimating

Christ's Caueat.
Our care.

So that all this Gospell hath two principall parts, a Heretikes, insinuating

What they be: false prophets, coming to you in sheepes cloathing, &c.

How they be descried: ye shall know them by their fruits, &c.

Description of Hypocrites, in tongue crying Lord, Lord: but in their life not doing the will of the Lord.

Beware] Because there be few who finde the way to heauen, and many which hinder vs in the way, we must <sup>x</sup> walke circumspectly, not as fooles, but as hauing all our eyes in our head. And <sup>y</sup> so much the rather for that our guides occasion vs sometime to wander, and goe a stray: <sup>z</sup> Qui ducunt, seducunt, some prophets are false. That our care therefore might be great to resist the mysterie of iniquitie, Christ and his Apostles often inculcate this caueat, there shall arise false <sup>a</sup> Christs, and false <sup>b</sup> teachers among you, which shall prinily bring in damnable heresies, euen rauenous <sup>c</sup> wolues, not sparing the flocke. Some prophets are too lasie, non tendentes, sed tondentes; other too busie, contratendentes: ergo good pastors ought to be superintendentes, and good hearers attendentes, as it is in the text, attendite. Now that we may be circumspect as we should, we must vse: 1. Feruent prayer with <sup>d</sup> Dauid, Shew me thy wayes, O Lord, and teach me thy pathes; open thou mine eyes that I may see the wondrous things of thy law; lead me forth in thy truth, and learne me, for thou art the God of my saluation. 2. Diligent searching of holy Scripture with the men of <sup>e</sup> Berea. 3. Godly conference like that of the <sup>f</sup> Eunuch and Philip. 4. Serious and deuout meditations, & exercising our selues in the law of the Lord day and night especially iudicious and heedfull attending to the word preached. <sup>h</sup> An auditor must not be like the sponge, that holdeth all water both good and bad; nor like the sicue, that holds neither good nor bad; nor like the boulder that keeps in the course bran, and boulds out the fine flower: but he must be like the scry, keeping the good seed, but casting away the dust and vnprofitable darnell. He must scry the Sermons of the Prophets and <sup>i</sup> try the Spirits, <sup>k</sup> examining all things, and then holding that which is good. This dueitie belongs not only to the Clergie, <sup>l</sup> but also to the Laitie, yea to the most ignorant. For albeit euery one cannot be learned in the writings of the Prophets and Apostles, which are the great Bible: yet, that he may take heed of false teachers, he must vnderstand the plaine principles of his Catechisme, which, as <sup>m</sup> one faith, is the little Bible.

<sup>i</sup> Ephes. 5. 15.
<sup>y</sup> Anselm. Vega.
<sup>z</sup> Esay 50. 6.

<sup>a</sup> Matth. 24. 24.
<sup>b</sup> 2. Pct. 2. 1.

<sup>c</sup> Acts 20. 29.

<sup>d</sup> Psal. 25. 3. & 119. 18.

<sup>e</sup> Acts 17. 11.

<sup>f</sup> Acts 3.

<sup>g</sup> Psal. 1. 2.

<sup>h</sup> P. Fagius con. in Rab. Apoibeg.

<sup>i</sup> 1. John 4. 1.
<sup>k</sup> 1. Thef. 5. 21.

<sup>l</sup> Luther. Melanct. Heming.

<sup>m</sup> Zepper. con. 1. & 3. in loc.

False Prophets] In a mytticall sense, <sup>n</sup> the world, the flesh, and the deuill are false prophets. The world like the <sup>o</sup>lying prophets, who said to the King of Israel, Goe vp to Ramoth Gilead. The flesh a false prophet, like Indus, betraying his owne master with a kisse. The deuill is the Father of lies, and all falsehood, not a rauening wolfe only, but a roaring lion also. Literally tale-tell Astrologers, who take vpon them as if they were bauds to the celestiall bodies, by the coniunctions of planets, and positions of starres, to prognosticate the ruins of publique weales, and misfortunes of priuate families, to calculate natiuities, and to fore-tell strange euent, are false prophets, and we must take heed of them.

Nihil credo auguribus, qui aures verbis disitant alienus: suas ut auro locupletent domus,

Their cunning is <sup>q</sup>cosimage, learned in the <sup>r</sup>deuils academy, but condemned in the schooles of <sup>t</sup>Diuines, as being at the best but mecerely coniecturall and vncertaine. For that noble gentleman Picus Mirandula, lib. 2. contra astrolog. cap. 9. writes of Ordelaaphus a Prince, to whom it was fore told by a famous expert man in that Art called Hieronymus Manfredus, that he should enioy prosperous and long life; who notwithstanding the selfe same yeere, being the first yeere of his marriage, deceased. And a certaine rich matron in Rome, named Constantia, departed the same yeere, in which she receiued great promises by soothsaiers of a long and happie life. Whereupon <sup>u</sup>Henry 7. King of England in derision of starre-gazers, asked one ( who had prophecied of his death ) this question, What shall betide me this Christmas? the false prophet answered, he could not tell: what then I pray thee (quoth the king) shall become of thee? to this he answered likewise, that he knew not. Well, saith the King, I am then more learned in thy science then thy selfe, for I know that thou shalt presently be committed to prison, and there lie fast all this Christmas for a iugling companion.

Now that we may take heed of these prophets, obserue three rules especially, deliuered by that reuerend Diuine <sup>u</sup>Master Fox: First the Prophets of God goe plainly to worke, whereas iuglers and soothtellers have a doubtfull and a double meaning to be turned this or that way, like a nose of wax. To let passe the foppish oracles, and prophcies in old time; giue me liue to remember an example taking out of a common Almanacke. The prognosticator saith out of his deepe iudgement, that such a day shall be somewhat differing from indifferent. And what weather is that I pray? whether it be cold or hot, moist or drie, foule and faire, it may be said something differing from indifferent. 2. We must expend whether the prophcies are priuate or publique: for as the Scriptures; so the prophcies of God for the most part are not of priuate interpretation, but indifferently respecting the whole Church. And therefore such prophcies as concerne the names of priuate men, and armes of particular houses, are worthily to be suspected. 3. We must examine the matter and end of prophcies, as whether they be spirituall or worldly, whether they tend to any glorie of this present world, or whether they tend to the spirituall instruction or comfort of the publike Church.

But our blessed Sauour here by false prophets ( as the <sup>x</sup>Fathers obserue ) doth vnderstand hereticall Doctores: called false, <sup>y</sup>for that they be falsifiers of Gods holy word; like the cunning Lapidarie, who sels a Byrall for a Diamond. Now the reason why God suffereth heretickes in the Church is manifold: 1. For the triall of our <sup>z</sup>faith; according to that of <sup>a</sup>Paul: there must be heresies euen among you, that they which are approued among you, might be knowne. If a prophet arise, saith <sup>b</sup>Moses, and intice thee to goe after other gods, thou shalt not hearken vnto the words of such a prophet, for the Lord your God proueth you, to know whether you lose the Lord your God, with all your heart, and with all your soule. 2. <sup>c</sup>That the true Pastors might be more patient, and <sup>d</sup>painefull in their places. If Arrius and Sabellius had not exceedingly vexed the Church of God, the deepe mysteries of the blessed Trinitie would neuer haue bene so cleered and accurately determined by the Catholike Doctores. If Manicheus had not shamefully railed vpon the old Testament, Augustine would neuer haue taken such infinite paines

in

<sup>o</sup> V. ga.
<sup>o</sup> 1. Kings 22.

<sup>p</sup> Aulus Gellius
lib. 14. cap. 1.
<sup>q</sup> Cal. Rod. lec. art. lib. 12. ca. 10
<sup>r</sup> Lactan. instit.
lib. 2. cap. 17.
<sup>s</sup> Vide Cornel.
Azrip de vanit. sciant ca. 30. 31.
Sixt. Senen Bi-
bliothec. lib. 5. annot. 15. & lib.
6. annot. 10. &
Bezam. Epist. 29.
<sup>t</sup> Erasmus.

<sup>u</sup> Acts and Mor. in the death of George Duke of Clarence.

<sup>x</sup> Augustin. lib.
2. de ser. dem in monie. Chrysol.
Hieron. Theopby
last in loc.
<sup>y</sup> Sarcerius.
<sup>z</sup> Luther.
<sup>a</sup> 1. Cor. 11. 19
<sup>b</sup> Deut 13. 3.
<sup>c</sup> Augustin. de
Ciuit. lib. 18. cap.
51. Idem Pon- garol.
<sup>d</sup> Ferus ser. 1.
in loc.

in answering all obiections against it. If Brownists and other sectaries had not impudently degorged their malice against our ecclesiasticall policie, the state of our Prelates, and questions about our discipline would neuer have bene so sufficiently confirmed. 3. God permits hereticall teachers for our ingratitude: because men loue not the truth that they might be saued, almightie God in his secret iudgement shall send strong delusions, that they should beleue lies. As himselfe speaks by the mouth of his holy Prophet, because this people come neere to me with their mouth, and honour me with their lips, but haue removed their heart farre from me, the wisdom of the wise men shall perish, and the understanding of the prudent men shall be hid. Because prophane people despise the person of the Priest, and neglect his doctrine: God often shutteth vp the eyes of the chiefe Seers; and so the blinde leadeing the blinde both fall into the ditch.

Which come? Being neither sent of God, nor lawfully called by men: but they runne of their owne accord, alway without commission from heauen, and sometime without ordination on earth. I haue not sent these Prophets, saith the Lord, yet they ranne: I haue not spoken to them, and yet they prophesied. Haply some men will object, God in old time called his Prophets and Apostles immediately, furnishing them also with gifts extraordinarily: but how shall a man in our time know whether he be called of God or no? To this obiection answer may be, that Vniuersities are the nurseries of Christian learning, as Chemnitius termed them, ecclesie Plantaria. Being like the Persian tree, which at the same time doth bud, and blossome, and beare fruit. In them alway some should be ripe for the Church; other drawing to their maturitie, some in the flower, and some in the bud of hope. For this end God promised that he would stirre vp Kings and Queenes which should be nursing fathers and nursing mothers vnto the Church, Esay 49. 23. that is, to be patrons of learning, and founders of Colledges and Schooles. My deare nurse the Vniuersitie of Cambridge, hath for her armes the booke clasped betweene foure Lions; and her worthie sister of Oxford, the booke open betweene three Crownes. Hereby signifying (as I coniecture) that Englishmen may studie the Liberal Arts closely, and quietly, as also professe them openly and publikely being guarded with the Lion and the Crowne: that is, encouraged thereunto by royall Charters and princely priuiledges. The Vniuersitie of Heidelberg giueth, a Lion holding a booke for her armes. Insinuating that Princes ought to be fauourers of all good literature. Whosoener then is bred in the Schooles of the Prophets, and brought vp in the nurseries of the Apostles, vntill he gaine diuersitie of gifts, in some small proportion answerable to the Prophets and Apostles, if his lips preferre knowledge, if his tongue be learned, so minister a word in time, marshalling his words in their place, like apples of gold with pictures of silver: albeit he haue no calling from God extraordinarie, yet he may perswade himselfe that he is διδασκαλος, apt to teach. 1. Tim. 3. 2.

But such as correct the Magnificat in the countrie, before they haue their Nunc dimittis in the Vniuersitie: such as will not stay at Iericho till their beards are growne; such as will not reside with the sonnes of the Prophets in a Colledge, till they be furnished with all excellent parts and arts as are most fit for the Ministerie such as will be conduits to coniey water vnto other, before they haue bene cesternes holding water in themselves: as S. Hierome notably, Qui loqui nesciant, tacere non possunt: docent q̄ scripturas quas non intelligunt: prius imperitorum magistri quam doctorum discipuli: such as turne rauening wolues as soone as they get the lambe skin hood ouer their heads, and are in sheepes cloathing; are branded here with the first marke of a false prophet, and we must beware of them.

Moses was learned in all the wildome of the Egyptians, as Theodoret termed him an ocean of theologie. Paul was brought vp at the feet of the great Doctor Gamaliel, Acts. 22. 3. Timothie knew the Scriptures of a childe, 2. Tim. 3. 15. Augustine was so wonderfully beautified with the gifts of the Spirit, that Erasmus said all the good parts of a good Bishop were found in him. Hierome was homo doctissimus, & omnium trium linguarum peritus. Hilarie for his eloquence was

2 Theff. 2. 10.

Esay 29. 13, 14

Musculus.
Sarseius.

Jerem. 23. 21.

Epist. dedicat.
exam con. Trident.

Theophrastus.

Marius loc.
com.

Malac. 2. 7.

Esay 50. 4.

Prou. 25. 11.

Bernard.

Epist. ad Demetriad.

Acts 7. 22.

Lib. 2. de eu-
rot. græc. affect.Epist. prefix. oper. Augustin.Augustin. de ciuitat. lib. 18.

cap. 43.

was stiled* The trumpet of the Latine tongue. y Vincentius Lyrinensis saith of Tertullian, Cuius quot pene verba tot sententia sunt, quot sensus tot victoria. What need I name the rest of the Fathers, in their age the salt of the earth, and the light of the world? See Magdeburg. cap. 10. in every Centurie. So Martin Luther, Philip Melancthon, Pet. Martyr, Bishop Jewell, and other true Prophets in our time, were so much adorned with all kinde of knowledge, that all the world, not blinded by the prince of darkenesse, might easily perceiue they were sent and separated vnto their calling by God.

Yea, but in my learned men prophesie without any further warrant? No. Sufficiency of learning is one, but not the only note of our inward calling. For the man of God, as he must be for his doctrine a Pastor, so for his conuersation an example. May then every man of sufficient learning and honest life, climbe the pulpit and preach the word? No; for as there is an inward calling of God: so likewise an outward calling by men, as Timothie was ordered by laying on of hands, 1 Tim. 4. 14. <sup>a</sup> Paul bid Titus ordaine Bishops in euery citie. The blessed Apostles ordained Elders in euery Church, Acts 14. 23. And albeit there be now some question about the manner of ordination; yet in all ages, and in all well ordered places, there haue bene certaine constitutions and Canons for admitting of men into sacred orders. And therefore whosoever shall prophesie without examination, approbation, and licence by present authoritie, commeth of himselfe, and it is our dutie to take heed of him. See Confess. Anglican. art 23. & Saxon. apud Melanct. tom. 1. fol. 132. Caluin. instit. lib. 4. cap. 3. §. 10. Bucan. loc. com. tit. de ministerio, quest. 33. Lombard. sent. lib. 4. dist. 24. Mcl. Can. loc. com. lib. 12. cap. 12. Bellarmin. lib. de clericis. cap. 2.

To you] <sup>b</sup> Not to the Turkes, or Gentiles, or other heretickes: but <sup>c</sup> to you which haue my word, seeming to come to you for your good, but their coming is indeed against you to your hurt. So the <sup>d</sup> Papists in our time crie, the Church, the Church. And the <sup>e</sup> schismatikes in their inuectiue pamphlets vually take vp the words of the Prophet <sup>f</sup> Esay, For Sions sake I will not hold my tongue, and for Ierusalem sake I will not rest. But the one seeke to bring vpon Gods Israel a tyrannie, the other an anarchie; both are such as come to you, but against you.

In sheepes cloathing, but inwardly they are rauening wolues] As <sup>g</sup> Satan being the prince of darkenesse, is oft transformed into an Angell of light; so the children of the deuill haue faire vizards to couer their foule faces. As <sup>h</sup> Tertullian glossing my Text, quoniam sunt istae pelles ouium, nisi nominis Christiani extrinsecus superficialis? All these sheepes cloathing, are nothing else but precise titles of holinesse, and outsides of Christianitie. False Prophets (as an ancient <sup>i</sup> Father obserues) haue linsiey-wolfey garments, intra limum subtilitatis, extra lanam simplicitatis demonstrant. The subtle thread of deceit is within-side, but the plaine web of simplicitie without-side; their <sup>k</sup> inside is of fox furre, their outside of lambs wooll. And so the betrayers of the Church, as <sup>l</sup> Cyprian said, are in ipsa ecclesia contra ecclesiam: in the Church against the Church. Here some will object, if an heretike be such a monstrous beast, <sup>m</sup> intus Nero, foris Cato, totus ambiguus; how shall a man take heed of him? Our blessed Sauour sheweth in the verie next words.

Ye shall know them by their fruits] As a wolfe may be knowne from a sheepe by his <sup>n</sup> howling and <sup>o</sup> claws; so may we discern the false prophet from the true, by his words and his workes. <sup>p</sup> Ex malis moribus & malo dogmate. <sup>q</sup> Some Diuines haue referred this only to bad manners, <sup>r</sup> other only to false doctrine; but the Scripture sheweth expressly, that we may know them by both. As first by their lewd life: for albeit they dissemble cunningly for a time, being in sheepes cloathing, yet if you be circumspect, in the end you shall know the wolues euen by their claws. <sup>s</sup> Esti non ab omnibus fructibus, saltem ab aliquibus cognoscetis eos: As, they be <sup>t</sup> lowers of their owne selues, conceituous, boasters, proud, cursed speakers, disobedient to parents, vnthankesfull, vnholly; <sup>x</sup> clouds are they without water, carried about <sup>x</sup> Hieron aduersus Rufinum tom. 2 fol 221. Idem Socrates & Sozomen.

<sup>y</sup> Apud Magdeburg. cent 3. col. 241.

<sup>a</sup> 1. Tim. 4. 12.

<sup>a</sup> Titus 1. 5.

<sup>b</sup> Pontan.

<sup>c</sup> Sacerdus.

<sup>d</sup> Can. pion rat. 3. See Suruey of pretended holly discipline, cap. 1.
<sup>f</sup> Cap. 62. 1.

<sup>g</sup> 2. Cor. 11. 14.

<sup>h</sup> Lib. de praescript. aduersus haereticos.

<sup>i</sup> Gregor. mag. 225.

<sup>k</sup> Ones visus, sed vulpes assa. Bernard.

<sup>l</sup> Epist. 6. lib. 1.

<sup>m</sup> Hieron Epist. ad Rusticum.

<sup>n</sup> Chrysost.

<sup>o</sup> Rega; tanquam ex ungulae leonem.

<sup>p</sup> Melanct. postil. in loc. Idem Iansen con. ca. 43

<sup>q</sup> Maldonat. in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Zypser. con. 1. in loc.

<sup>s</sup> Theophylact.

<sup>t</sup> Antelmus.

<sup>u</sup> 2. Tim. 3. 7.

<sup>x</sup> Epist. iude 12,

13. 14.

2. Pet. 2. 12.
 2. Ferus ser. 2.
 in loc. herein agreeing with Melanfibon,
 Culman, Caluin, and other Protestants.
 a Iohn 10. 12.
 b Esay 40. 11.
 c Esay 61. 1.
 d 1. Cor. 14. 3.
 e Rom. 16. 17.
 f 1. Cor. 3. 15.
 g Matth. 13. 9.

b 2. Sam. 11.

i Acts 9. 15.

k Com. in loc.

l Vega.

m Portm.

n Rom. 11. 16.

o Iob 8. 11.

p Iohn 15. 5.

q Coloff. 1. 10.

r Bernard.

f Galat. 5. 19.

t Primatius in
1. Cor. 12.

u Ardens in Epist. dom. 10.

post Tr. n.

x Rom. 10. 10.

y 1. Cor. 14. 15.

z Psal. 103. 1.

a Augustin. de
ser. dom. in monte, lib. 2. in fine.

b Iohn. 14. 15.

c 1 Iohn. 3. 23.

d Ardens in loc.

e Bucer apud Morloval. in loc.

about of windes, even let with sensualitie. But we may know them especially by the fruits of their doctrine, Tit. 1. 11. teaching things which they ought not for filthy lucre sake, preaching fables: 2. Tim. 4. 4. and that which is worse of all, doctrines of devils, forbidding to marrie, and commanding to abstaine from meats: 1. Tim. 4. 1. 3. The<sup>a</sup> wolfe scattereth and deuoueth the sheepe, but the good shepherd doth<sup>b</sup> gather the lambs with his armes, and carrie them in his bosome. The true Prophet<sup>c</sup> bindeth vp the broken hearted, and comforteth all that mourne, deliuering doctrine to<sup>d</sup> edification, exhortation, consolation. Such then as<sup>e</sup> cause diuision, and scatter the sheepe of Christ, such as rather confound, then comfort the distressed conscience, such as build not vpon the<sup>f</sup> foundation Iesus Christ, but are giuen ouer to fables, teaching for<sup>g</sup> doctrine the precepts of men: I say, such as are thornes in our sides, and thistles at our feet, are not good plants in the Lords Vineyard, but as S. Iude speaks, corrupt trees, twice dead, plucked vp by the roots; and so we may know them easily by their fruits.

A good tree cannot bring forth bad fruits, neither can a bad tree bring forth good fruits] It is objected against this axiome, that Deuid was a good tree, yet he brought forth euill fruits, h murder vpon Uriah, and adulterie with Bersheba, Paul on the contrary was at the first an euill tree, yet he brought forth good fruit; as being a chosen vessell to beare Christs name before the Gentiles, and Kings, and the children of Israel. k Euthymius answereth in a word; mutati sunt, hic a prauitate ad virtutem: ille vero a virtute ad prauitatem; and therefore this saying must be construed l in sensu composito; a good tree continuing good cannot bring forth bad fruit, and a bad tree, so long as it is bad, cannot bring forth good fruit. Now m that a tree may be good, it must haue a sound root; that is, a good intention in euery worke. For n if the root be holy, so are the branches. 2. Good sap, o Can the grasse grow without water? or the rush without mire? so we without p Christs grace can doe nothing. 3. It must beare fruit in euery branch and bough, q in all things pleasing God, and fruitfull in all good workes. Our scule must magnifie the Lord, our mouth shew forth his praise, our hand giue to the poore, our eare hearken to wisdom; so the tree shall be knowne, r non ex folijs aut ex floribus, sed ex fructibus: Not by the leaues, or by the blossome, but by the fruit. And here the Gospell and Epistle meet, he that is led by the spirit, and walketh in the spirit, is a good tree, bearing good fruit; but he that liueth after the flesh, is a corrupt tree bringing forth euill fruit, as adultery, fornication, vncleanness, wantonness, idolatrie, witchcraft, hatred, debate, wrath, emulations, &c. and euery tree that hath such or the like fruit, shall be hewne downe and cast into the fire, that is, as the Epistle doth expound the Gospell: If ye liue after the flesh, ye shall die.

Not every one that saith vnto me Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdome of heauen] No man can say, that Iesus is the Lord, but by the holy Ghost; 1. Cor. 12. 3. how then are any shut out of Heauen, who crie, Lord, Lord? Answer may be, that hypocrites acknowledge Christ to be Lord; but not<sup>t</sup> the Lord; nor their Lord. Againe, true Christians confesse Christ out of<sup>u</sup> faith, hypocrites out of fashion only. x With the heart man beleueth vnto righteousnesse, and with the mouth he confesseth vnto saluation. Hypocrites are all for the outward crie, Lord, Lord: but such as are found at heart, pray with vnderstanding, and praise the Lord with all that is within them: a voluntatem & mentem suam sono vocis enuntiant. See Epist. 10. Sund. after Trinit.

But he that doth the will of my Father which is in Heauen, he shall enter into the kingdome of Heauen] To doe the will of God, is to<sup>b</sup> keepe his Commandements, and his Commandement, c is to beleeue in the name of his Sonne Iesus Christ, and loue one another. d Voluntatem Dei facit qui verè credit, rectè sperat, firmè diligit. And he doth all this, who doth the best he can to doe it. e Nam vt faciamus sua precepta, non vt perficiamus in hac quidem vita Deus exigit. A desire to beleeue well, and to doe good at some times, and in some cases is enough, Almighty God accepting our will for the worke: 2. Cor. 8. 12.

The Epistle. 1 C O R. 10. 1.

Brethren, I would not that ye should be ignorant, how that our fathers were all under the cloud, &c.

The Bible containeth especially } Legall, three sorts of writings : } Euangelicall; } Historicall.

As our Popish aduersaries abuse the two former, in making the Law carnall, and extenuating the free mercies of God in Christ : so likewise the latter also, reading in the Church vnto the people their owne legend, of their owne home-made saints : <sup>f</sup>as if the liues and histories of such holy men as are recorded in the sacred Canon, concerned them no more, then a tale of Robin Hood. Our Apostle therefore wisheth vs here to note diligently the mercies and iudgements of God vpon our fathers in old time, because these things happened vnto them for ensample, and are written to admonish vs vpon whom the ends of the world are come.

<sup>f</sup> Tyndal prolog. vpon Ionas.

There is no treasure so much enricheth our minde as learning, no learning so proper for the direction of our liues as history, no history so well worth our heedfull obseruing, as that which is euen by Gods owne finger, & written afor-time for our instruction. Optimum aliena insania frui, was the motto of <sup>b</sup>Charles the fourth : and <sup>i</sup>Volateran faith, it is an happy discipline which is learned by the great expence and experience of other. If humane story, much more diuine worthily deserues to be called a glasse, and a mistris of mortalitie : wherefore, Brethren, I would not that ye should be ignorant, how that our fathers were all under the cloud, &c. these things are examples to vs, and are written to put vs in remembrance. So that in all this Epistle, three points are principally remarkable, concerning Gods heauie iudgements vpon our fathers in the wilderness:

<sup>e</sup> Rom. 15. 4
<sup>h</sup> Reusner in symbol.
<sup>i</sup> Epist. dedic. ante Commentaria.

1. That they are written.
2. Written for admonition.
3. For admonition of vs especially, who liue in these last dayes, vpon whom the ends of the world are come.

By the first, we may learne not sleightly to passe by Gods fearefull iudgements vpon sinne, but euermore to set a memorandum on them. If God will haue them written in his booke, then it is fit we should write them in our Histories and Chronicles, yea euen in our priuate notes and obseruations. It was well done of <sup>k</sup>Egesippus and <sup>l</sup>Ambrose, to set downe the fall of Simon Magus. It was well done of <sup>m</sup>Epiphanus to record the miserable death of the rotten hereticke Manichæus. It was well done of <sup>n</sup>Optatus to report, that certaine Donatists impiously casting the Sacramentall Bread to dogges, were by the same doggs instantly torne in peeces. And it was well done of <sup>o</sup>Bellarmino to relate Gods terrible iudgements vpon Arrius, Montanus, Iulian Apostata, Nestorius, and other ancient enemies of the Christian faith. And it was well done of Master Fox to remember in his P Acts and Monuments, the seuerer punishments of the same iust God vpon the bloudie persecutors of his holy Martyrs. And it was well done of <sup>q</sup>Elias Hanfenmullerus, to note the desperate death, and vncomfortable ends of Ignatius Loiola, Xavier, Turrianus, and other chiefe Suits or Esanits. And haply well done of <sup>r</sup>Huntindon, to chronicle the most vnfortunate manner of William Rufus his dying. And well done of <sup>s</sup>Polydore, to note the terrors of conscience which euer accompanied King Richard the third. But here we must obserue, that these things are to be remembred for our good, not for others hurt. Many men are ready to marke the iudgements of God vpon other, but it is onely to blot the memoriall of the dead, or else to disgrace their kindred aliue. Whereas we should beware by their harmes, and learne to be wise by their folly. This vse Christ aduiseeth to make, Luke 12. 4. Thinke you that those eigh- teene, vpon whom the tower of Siloam fell & slew them, were sinners above all men that

<sup>k</sup> De excidio Hierosol. lib. 3. cap. 2.
<sup>l</sup> Ser. 65.
<sup>m</sup> Har. f. 66.
<sup>n</sup> Lib. 2. contra Parmenian.
<sup>o</sup> De notis eccl. cap. 17.
<sup>p</sup> In fine.

<sup>q</sup> Histor. Iesuit. ordin. cap. 11.

<sup>r</sup> Histor. lib. 7. p. 2. 16.

<sup>s</sup> Histor. lib. 25. in fine.

<sup>r</sup> Calvin.

<sup>a</sup> Anselm, Ca-iesan, Marlorat.

* Martyr.

x Anselmus.

7 See Dr. Fuike
in loc.

<sup>2</sup> Num. 14. 30.

<sup>3</sup> Sarcenus Martyr, Calvin.

<sup>b</sup> Aquin, Gorran.

<sup>c</sup> Exod. 32. 6.

<sup>d</sup> It is said Numbers 25. 9
that there died 24. thousand:
here the lesser is inclosed in the greater number. Caie-tan & alij.

<sup>e</sup> Marlorat.

<sup>f</sup> I Ioh. 2. 18.

<sup>5</sup> Ardens, Caluin, Martyr.

<sup>h</sup> Rom. 10. 4.

<sup>i</sup> Psal. 19. 4.

<sup>k</sup> Psal. 67. 2.

<sup>l</sup> Aquin, Gorran.

dwelt in Hierusalem, I tell you nay, but except you amend your lives, ye all shall likewise perish. And to Paul here; these things happened vnto them for our example, and are written to put vs in remembrance, that we should not lust after euill things as they lusted; and that we should not be worshippers of Images, as were some of them. The children of Israel in the wildernesse were Gods people so well as we; yea, they were to vs in respect of their<sup>u</sup> faith our fathers; and they were all under the cloud, and all passed thorow the sea, and were all baptized under Moses in the cloud, and in the sea; and did all eat of one spirituall meat, and did all drinke of one spirituall drinke. * That is, they were baptized into Christ so well as we, re-ceiuing the signes and seales of his fauour so well as we. For the spirituall meat was Christ. x That is, signifying Christ, as himselfe calls the wine his blood, and the bread his body. The brieft of all is, our fathers had the same promises of Christ, and the same y Sacraments, and yet when they sinned against God, he did so destroy them in the wildernesse, that of many thousands only two, being about twentie yeeres old, namely, <sup>z</sup> Iosuah and Caleb, entred into the land of Canaan. And therefore let vs <sup>a</sup> beware that we doe not offend God <sup>b</sup> in our thoughts, as they did, lusting after euill things, Num. 11. 4. in our words, murmuring against God as they did, and were destroyed of the destroyer, Num. 14. 37. in our deeds, worshipping images as they did, according as it is <sup>c</sup> written, the people sate downe to eat and drinke, and rose up to play: neither let vs be defiled with fornication, as some of them were defiled, and fell in one day<sup>d</sup> twentie three thousand. If God spared not the naturall branches, Rom 11. 21. let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he fall. I would not haue you ignorant what our fathers in the wildernesse did, and suffered: for all these things are written for examples, especially to admonish vs, vpon whom the ends of the world are come.

Now the word end signifieth in holy Scriptures either a consumption, as I Pet. 4. 7 the end of all things is at hand; or a consummation, as Ecclesiastes 12. 13.
Let vs heare the end of all. In this place we may receiue <sup>e</sup> both acceptations; it is now the <sup>f</sup> last houre. Wherefore being compassed about with such a cloud of witnesses, hauing read so many fearefull examples in old time, yea seene so many griuous punishments vpon blasphemous wretches in our time, seeing we haue beheld the fals of so many, <sup>g</sup> let vs take heed lest we fall also. Gods correcting of other, is a directing for vs, euen the ruines of our fathers are registred in his book for our edification, and their follie for our instruction. Againe, the perfection of the world is now, for Christ is the<sup>h</sup> end of the Law: whose Gospell hath been preached in all <sup>i</sup> lands, and his sauing <sup>k</sup> health is knowne among all nations.
And therefore we are they whom the ends of the world are come vpon, <sup>l</sup> that is, we must make an end of liuing after the world, as hauing our conuersation in heauen, Philip. 3. 20.

The Gospell. L V K E 16. 1.

Iesus said vnto his Disciples, there was a certaine rich man had a steward.

<sup>m</sup> GAudentius is of opinion, that this steward is the deuil, abusing his gifts in tempting men vnto their condemnation. Other, as <sup>n</sup> Theophilus, Bishop of Antiochia, thinks it may be spoken of S. Paul, who was a bad steward of Gods good blessings, vntill he was called vnto an account; <sup>o</sup> Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? Tertullian. in <sup>p</sup> lib. de fuga, doth affirme that the Iewes were this steward, and the Gentiles haply these debtors. <sup>q</sup> Hierome expounds it of Clergie men; <sup>r</sup> Ambrose, <sup>s</sup> Augustine, <sup>t</sup> Theophylact, <sup>u</sup> Euthymius, of rich men only. But as Hierome. epist. ad Algasiam quast. 6. and Erasmus from Hierome, and Maldonate from both, <sup>v</sup> οικονομ doth signifie not onely villicum, a Bailiffe of husbandrie, as it is in the vulgar Latine; but one to whom all manner of goods and

<sup>m</sup> Lib. ad Germinium ut ci-tatur à Paniga.
vol. homil. Dom.
8. post. Pentecost.

<sup>n</sup> Apud Hieron.
Epist. ad Algasiam; & Arbor.
com. in loc.

<sup>o</sup> Act. 9. 4.

<sup>p</sup> Cap. 13.

<sup>q</sup> Apud Maldo-nat. in loc.

<sup>r</sup> Com. in loc.

<sup>s</sup> Quæst. Euan.
lib. 2. cap. 34.

<sup>t</sup> In loc.

<sup>u</sup> In loc.

and possessions are committed in charge, to wit, a generall Steward, as it is in our English translation. And so S. Hierome reads in the cited Epistle, Redde rationem dispensationis tua, non enim poteris amplius dispensare. Whereupon Maldonatus in his Commentaries on the place confesseth ingenuously, that Hierome was not author of the common Latine edition of the new Testament. All of vs then are stewards, and disposers of some goods of God: Clergie men are <sup>x</sup> stewards of Gods house, which is the Church; all Magistrates are stewards of the common house, which is the weale publique; Masters are stewards of their owne private houses; y all men are stewards and clerks of the priuie closet of their conscience. There is none so mightie that is greater, or so meane that is lesse then a steward to the King of Kings. Now the steward <sup>z</sup> ought to consider with himselfe these six things especially:

1. That he is a seruant, not a master.
2. That goods committed to his charge may not be wasted at his pleasure, but disposed as his Lord will.
3. That he is hired to labour, not to loyter.
4. That he must one day giue an account.
5. That many eyes obserue him, cuer readie to complaine.
6. That he may be thrust out of his stewardship euery day.

Concerning the first, <sup>a</sup> euery good and perfect gift is from aboue; <sup>b</sup> what hast thou that thou hast not receiued? Almighty God is called in the beginning of this Gospell a rich man, as being infinitely rich in goodnesse and mercie <sup>c</sup> toward all, and therefore committeth vnto their charge much of his rich treasure:

Namely, goods }
 Temporall, Corporall,
 Spirituall.

The which are not to be spent as we will, but imployed as he will.

In goods temporall a man may play } the bad steward three wayes: In } Getting them wrongfully,
 Keeping them basely,
 Spending them vnlawfully.

We may not gaine goods through others hurt, <sup>d</sup> building our houses as the moth. The moth is made fat by spoyling the barks and bookes in which it liueth: and <sup>e</sup> so the conetous rich is made full by deuouring the poore. But albeit vnconscionable Nimrods be reputed only prouident and thristie men, yet by the custome of the Church heretofore they were <sup>f</sup> denied Christian buriall, and by the most ancient <sup>g</sup> lawes of England, the goods of a defamed oppressor dying without restitution, were excheted vnto the King, and all his lands vnto the Lord of the towne. See Epist. I. Dom. Advent.

2. We may be bad stewards in keeping our temporall goods basely, <sup>h</sup> custos es tuarum non Dominus facultatum. And therefore thou must expend thy meanes as thy master will haue thee, giuing vnto God, thy neighbour, and thy selfe that which is due. To God, laying out temporall things for spirituall comforts, in maintaining his Preachers, in defending his Gospell, in building his houses, and re-edifying his Temples. Vnto thy neighbour, making friends of thine vnrighetous mammon, as thy master here commands thee. <sup>i</sup> Stips pauperum thesaurus diuitum, was the word of the good Emperour Tib. Constantinus. The rich mans treasure is the poore mans stocke. So that if a distressed Christian aske thine almes, he requireth only but his owne. When, I say, Christ in the person of a begger intreateth a gift, he might say, pay me a penny; not giue me a penny. <sup>k</sup> Damihī ex eo quod tibi dedi, de meo quero, non de tuo, da & redde: Thou art my steward, I begge nothing of thee but mine owne, restore part of that which I committed to thee for me and mine. Lastly, to thy selfe, for it is thy masters pleasure thou shouldest ear the <sup>l</sup> labours of thine hand, and taste the <sup>m</sup> milke of thy stocke, that thine head be anointed with <sup>n</sup> oyle, and that wine make thine heart glad, Pla. 104. 15. It is his expresse will thou shouldest do good

<sup>x</sup> 1 Cor. 4. 1.

<sup>y</sup> Pontan in loc.

<sup>z</sup> See Ferus & Ardens in loc.

<sup>a</sup> James 1. 17.
<sup>b</sup> 1 Cor. 4. 7.
 See Epistle 4.
 Sunday after Easter.
<sup>c</sup> Rom. 10. 12.

<sup>d</sup> Iob. 27. 18.

<sup>e</sup> Dirx con. 1. in loc.

<sup>f</sup> Gregor. decret. lib. 5. tit. 19.

<sup>g</sup> Glauil de legibus & consuet. Anglie lib.

7 cap. 16.

<sup>h</sup> Ambros lib. de Nabuth, cap. 14.

<sup>i</sup> Reulnerix symbol.

<sup>k</sup> Chrysost.

<sup>l</sup> Psal 128.

<sup>m</sup> 1 Cor 9. 7.

<sup>n</sup> Psal. 23. 5.

vnto thy selfe, and not altogether take care for thine heire, living poore that thou maist die rich, according to that of the ° Poet :

Dives es heredi, pauper inopsq; tibi.

3. We may be bad stewards in laying out of our goods vnlawfully, either vpon workes of superstition to the dishonour of God : or in vnecessary quarrels of law to the hinderance of our neighbours : or in surfetting or drunkennesse to the ruining of our estate, danger of soule, hurt of bodie, losse of credit, grieffe of friends, and vndoing of our heires. As the flattering Parasites, Four tongues are our owne, we are they that ought to speake, who is Lord ouer vs? Euen so the riotous person answereth his good friends, exhorting him to frugall courses ; A man may spend his owne as he list, I waste none of your money, but my proper goods, and what hath either Preacher in the pulpit, or friend in priuate to doe with it? All which he buildeth vpon a false ground, for no man is Lord, but only steward of his wealth.

Men also waste their goods of the bodie, when as they do not giue their members seruants vnto righteousnesse in holinesse: but make them seruants of vncleannesse in sinne, from one iniquitie to another. And men waste the gifts of the spirit, when as they shall employ them vnto Gods dishonour, and the Churches hinderance.

There be diuersities of gifts, and differences of administrations, and diuers manners of operations ; one hath the spirit of vtterance, to another is giuen knowledge, to another prophesie, but all are to edifie, for the gathering together of the Saints, and for the worke of the ministerie.

The third thing which a steward ought to consider, is, that he must labour in his stewardship, not loyter. Almighty God, who by his great power made all things, in his infinite wisdom created nothing vaine and idle. The glorious Angels albeit they be spirits, yet ministering spirits, ordained for the praise of God, and seruice of his Church, Heb. 1. 14 sent from God to minister for their sakes which shall be heires of saluation. I will not here determine whether euery particular person hath his particular Angell. Quid enim opus est vt definiatur cum discrimine, quando nesciatur sine crimine? But in general onely you see that Angels are seruents vnto God, and his people, for αγγελοι in Greeke signifieth a messenger, implying action and labour, as the Magdeburgenses haue well obserued. As for our selues : after God had created our first parent Adam, he placed him in the garden of Eden, not to sleepe in the sweet bowres, or to spend his dayes in the pleasant walks idly : but to dresse it and to keepe it, Gen. 2. 15. After

Adams fall, God laid this curse vpon all his children : In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread. The which is vnderstood of the sweat of the braine, so well as of the brow. So that all men, as well of profession as occupation, ought to sweate before they eat. There must be no ciphers in Gods Arithmeticke, no mutes in his Grammar, no blankes in his Kalender, no dumbe shewes on his stage, no false lights in his house, no loyterers in his vineyard. Art thou put apart to preach the Gospell of God? then thou art a labourer ; so the Text expressly :

The harvest is great, but the labourers are few. And 1 Tim. 5. 17. the Elders that rule well are worthie of double honour, specially they which labour in the word and doctrine. Many (quoth father Laitimer) can away with presumpt, but not with benè. If that benè were not in text (as the Monke said) all were well. If a man might eat the sweet, and neuer sweate, it were an easie matter to be a Preacher, if there were not opus as well as bonum in it. A Clegie man is iniquus, and that (as Augustine notes) is nomen operis, it is to be the steward, and ouerseeer in Gods house, the which is an office of great imployment.

Art thou a Student in any profession or facultie? then (as Caro said of Scipio) thou must be least idle when thou art most idle. For enioying a quiet sedentarie life by the gracious indulgences of thy Prince, and large maintenance of thy parents, free from the troubles of the Court, labour of the Countrey, businesse of the Citie ; thou must read diligently, conferre often, obserue daily. For reading makes a full man, conference a readie man, writing an exact man.

° *Gul. Lilius.*P *Psal. 12. 4.*q *Rom. 6. 19.*r *1 Cor. 12.*f *Ephes. 4. 12.*c Psal 148. 2.■ *Augustin. Enchirid. cap. 59.*x *Cent. 5. col. 217.*y *Genes. 3. 19.*z *Matth. 9. 37.*a *Ser. 4. before K. Edward 6.*b *De Ciuit. Dei lib. 19. cap. 19.*c Cic. Offic. lib. 3.

All thy fine wit is but vanitie, all thy great spirit but impudencie, all thy braue flaunt of speech is but a sounding brasse, except thou ioyne to these labour and industrie, without which Almighty God tels no learning, as Heathen writers haue told vs. For the Muses are so called <sup>d</sup> ἀπό τῆς μουσικῆς. Intimating that we should earnestly seeke for knowledge, as for a iewell of inestimable value, not only all the day, but euen at night also with lampe and lanterne. For those sermons are most excellent, and those writings and exercises of schollers are most sweet which a little smell of the candle.

Art thou an Artificer or Tradesman? then early rise, and goe to bed late, lest <sup>e</sup> povertie come vpon thee as one that trauelleth, and necessitie like an armed man. A trauell commeth suddenly, an armed man strongly; so that the meaning of Salomonis, if thou neglect thy vocation and businesse, beggerie will assault thee so suddenly, so violently, that thou shalt not resist it. <sup>f</sup> A slothfull hand maketh poore, but the hand of the diligent maketh rich. He that gathereth in summer is the sonne of wisdome: but he that sleepeth in harvest is the sonne of confusion. He that will not worke in harvest, shall want at Christmas. He that scattereth abroad when he should gather at home, drinking at the harrow, when he should follow the plough, is a bad steward to his household, and worse than an Infidell.

Art thou a Lawyer? Examine thy Clients cause faithfully, turne thy bookes exactly, prosecute his affaires industriously, lest that Italian prouerbe be verified, The deuill makes his Christm as pie of Lawyers tongues, and Clerks fingers. <sup>h</sup> Hac enim lege tueri pauperes videntur ut spolient, hac lege defendunt miseros, ut miseriores faciant defendendo.

Art thou a Souldier? abandon all idlenesse, and iudure all kinde of <sup>i</sup> labour, for only such are fit for martiall feats: and the reason is rendred by <sup>k</sup> Vegetius; because such as are most acquainted with the troubles of life, doe commonly least feare the paines of death. It was therefore the word of <sup>l</sup> Septimius Senerus, Laboremus. And of <sup>m</sup> Aurilius Probus, Pro stipe labor. And <sup>n</sup> Epaminondas, Generall of the Thebans, vnderstanding a Captaine of his Companie to be dead; exceedingly wondred how in a Campe, any should haue so much leifure as to be sicke.

Yea, but ought Gentlemen of great possessions, and no office, forsake their sports of hawking, and hunting, and bowling, and become labourers in the Lords vineyard? The Text is plaine, that all men are stewards; and therefore though I confesse that such exercises in their place and time be commendable: yet all their dayes are not to be wasted in these, but some houres are to be spent for the good of the Common-wealth, and of their owne priuate families. And indeed the chiefe thing that commenderh a Gentleman, is a stuitie and industrie: for at the first all Nobilitie came from the pen or the pike, from learning or chiuallrie, from Priesthood or Knighthood. In our English histories I finde that most of our Gentlemen were raised in flourishing peace by the Church, or else by feats of armes in the dayes of blouodie warres. A <sup>o</sup> worthy father in his facultie deliuers in print, that about 200. Gentlemen haue got honour to their families, by the studie of our common lawes: and it euer hath bene thought a true position; Non genus, sed genius. Non gens sed mens: in the words of our <sup>q</sup> owne Poet; To doe the gentle deeds that makes the Gentleman. And therefore those renowned Worthies in old time were called <sup>r</sup> Heroes, not ἀπὸ τῆς ἡρώς, or ἀπὸ τῆς ἡρώεως, or ἀπὸ τῆς ἡρώεως ἡ μίξις ἢ ἡ δόξα, but ἀπὸ τῆς ἀρετῆς: insinuating that vertue is the sole ground of true Nobilitie; whereas on the contrary, nothing doth more ruinate a noble family then idlenesse the mother of ignoble thoughts, and midwife of all dishonourable practises, euen the very Dunstable plaine high way to Needom and beggery.

Nay, the charge of the Magistrate is so great, and the burden of the King himselfe so weightie, that it made Chrysostome say, miror si quis Rectorum saluare possit: holding it a matter not impossible, but very difficult, as <sup>s</sup> father Latimer expounds him. In a word, euery man must attend his stewardship, from the poorest

<sup>d</sup> Phornus in spurculi de nat. decum cap de mus.

<sup>e</sup> Prou 6 11.

<sup>f</sup> Prou 10. 4 5

<sup>g</sup> 1 Tim. 5. 8.

<sup>h</sup> Saluianus lib 5. de gub. not Dei.

<sup>i</sup> Vegetius de re militar lib 1. cap 3.

<sup>k</sup> Apud Eusebium de re militar. contra Turcas instituta.

<sup>l</sup> Reusner in symbol.

<sup>m</sup> Idem ibidem

<sup>n</sup> Erasmus con. d: lingua. allowable

<sup>o</sup> Iudge Canke pface to the 2 part of his reports

<sup>p</sup> Reusner in symbol.

<sup>q</sup> Chruiter.

<sup>r</sup> Georg Henrich. praef. u.

<sup>s</sup> Troianos scitatos a sc. ctuos.

<sup>t</sup> Serm. 1 before King Edward 6.

on earth. He that is thus affected, and thus afflicted in soule for his vnthristie stewardship, hath rather a good monitor of his conscience, then a bad accuser. Yet we must endenour daily that it may be quiet, as it is good. For such a conscience is a<sup>k</sup> continuall feast: at which<sup>l</sup> Angels are seruitors, and<sup>m</sup> God himselfe guest, and the cheere, <sup>n</sup> Ioy in the Holy Ghost, and the musicke, such a peace with God, our neighbours, and our selues, as passeth all vnderstanding.

The second accusers are the poore distressed and oppressed. The sinnes of Sodom<sup>o</sup> vexing righteous Lot, are said to crie to the Lord: Genes. 18. 21. P Abel being dead yet speaketh, and his blood crieth euen from earth vnto heauen: Genes. 4. 10. The wages of the labourers which vnconscionable rich men haue kept backe by fraud, crie to the Lord, and their cries are entred in his eares: James 5. 4. And therefore let churlish <sup>q</sup> Nabal, and cruell <sup>r</sup> Ahab here learne to make the poore not their foes: but friends of their vnrighteous mammon. If they shall accuse, crying for reuenge, the Lord respecting the deepe sighing of the poore, will awake as one out of sleepe, and as a Giant refreshed with wine, will smite his enemies in their hinder parts, and put them to a perpetuall shame. But if the poore pray to God for vs, and praise God in our almes, our blessed Sauour telleth vs, that we shall be receiued into euerlasting habitations.

Lastly, the creatures abused, accuse the bad steward vnto his Lord, not onely the sensible creature, groaning and traouelling in paine, till it be deliuered from the bondage of corruption and vanitie, which against it will it suffereth vnder the wicked: but euen the very senselesse creature, the stone crying out of the wall, and the beame out of the timber: the moth of the garment, and the rust of the cankered gold witnessing against the couetous worldling. Yea, the dead letter of the Bible crieth and accuseth, as Christ sheweth in the <sup>y</sup> Gospell: Doe not thinke that I will accuse you to my Father, there is one that accuseth you, euen Moses in whom yee trust: that is, the Law shall accuse for playing the bad stewards.

Wherefore seeing euery man is a steward, and euery steward is a seruant, and euery seruant must labour, and so labour, that he may doe good to his fellowes, and increase the talent of his master: seeing, I say, when we waste any goods, other are willing to complaine, and God is able to thrust vs out of our stewardship: seeing he will one day call for an account, and that day may be this day; let vs, I beseech you, be good in our office, let vs examine our receipts and expences euery day, that when our great Lord shall come to iudgement, and reckon with vs, he may say to euery one of vs; <sup>a</sup> It is well done, good seruant and trustie, thou hast bene faithfull in little, I will make thee ruler ouer much: enter into thy masters ioy.

The Epistle. 1 COR. 12. 1.

Concerning spirituall things brethren, I would not haue you ignorant, &c.

THE Corinthians indued with many notable gifts, had<sup>b</sup> forgotten (as it should seeme) from whom, and for what end they receiued them; in so much, as the diuision of gifts occasioned among them a<sup>c</sup> diuision of hearts, each one despising or enuying another, according to the proportion of their severall graces. Our Apostle therefore discusseth in this Epistle, three points especially concerning spirituall things. As,

1. From whom they proceed; all these worketh one and the same spirit, diuinding to euery man a severall gift euen as he will.

2. What they be<sup>d</sup> for { The generall profession of Christianitie: No man can say that Iesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost.
Particular vse: Diuersities of { Gifts.
Administrattons.
Operations.

3. For what end: the gift of the spirit is giuen to euerie man to edifie wthall.

Concerning

<sup>k</sup> Prout. 15. 15.

<sup>l</sup> Heb. 1. 14.

<sup>m</sup> Apoc. 3. 20.

<sup>n</sup> Rom 14. 17.

<sup>o</sup> 2 Pet. 2. 7.

<sup>p</sup> Heb. 11. 4.

<sup>q</sup> 1 Sam 29.

<sup>r</sup> 1 Kings 21.

<sup>s</sup> Psal 12. 5.

<sup>t</sup> Psal 78. 66.

<sup>u</sup> Habac. 2. 11.

<sup>x</sup> Iames 5. 2.

<sup>y</sup> Ioh. 5. 45.

<sup>z</sup> Verga in Euan- gel. Dom. 8. post Pentecost.

<sup>a</sup> Matth 25. 23

<sup>b</sup> English Gloffe.

<sup>c</sup> Oecum. An. selm. Sarcerius.

<sup>d</sup> Musculus, Caietan.

<sup>c</sup> 1 Cor. 10. 1.

& 11. 3.

Rom. 6. 3.

<sup>f</sup> Musculus.

<sup>g</sup> Rom. 10. 2.

<sup>h</sup> Anselm.

<sup>i</sup> Sarcenius.

<sup>k</sup> Martyr.

<sup>l</sup> Psalm. 115. 5.

<sup>m</sup> Ephes 2. 2.

<sup>n</sup> Aquin.

<sup>o</sup> Rom. 9. 23.

<sup>p</sup> Ephes 4. 19.

<sup>q</sup> Ardens,

Anselm,

Caluin.

<sup>r</sup> Matth. 8. 29.

<sup>s</sup> James 2. 19.

<sup>t</sup> Rom. 10. 10.

<sup>u</sup> Tit. 1. 16.

<sup>x</sup> Caietan.

<sup>y</sup> Anselm.

<sup>z</sup> Martyr. &

Caluin.

<sup>a</sup> Aquin.

<sup>b</sup> Matth. 10. 7.

<sup>c</sup> Iohn 11.

<sup>d</sup> Ambrose in

loc.

<sup>e</sup> 1 Cor. 4. 7.

<sup>f</sup> Photus in loc.

<sup>g</sup> Galath. 5. 13.

<sup>h</sup> Chrysoſt. Ambroſo, Theophylact.

<sup>i</sup> Hieron. Photus, Primasius.

Concerning spirituall things brethren, I would not haue you ignorant] This one phrase repeated often in the <sup>e</sup> writings of this Apostle, sheweth a <sup>f</sup> remarkable difference betweene Christian and Antichristian teachers. A popish Doctor is well content that his brethren should continue still in blinde deuotion: but S. Paul is desirous his brethren should be zealous according to <sup>g</sup> knowledge, not ignorant in spirituall things. Other matters I will set in order when I come, <sup>h</sup> but in the meane while, brethren, I would not haue you ignorant concerning spirituall gifts: <sup>i</sup> so called in respect of the cause, for that euery gift is from the spirit: and in respect of the effect, as making men spirituall, directing vs how we should liue not according to the flesh, but after the spirit.

Ye know that yee were Gentiles, and went your wayes vnto dumbe images, euen as yee were led] Left they should boast of their great gifts, he puts them in minde what they were before they were led by the spirit of God, namely, that they were misled by the spirit of Satan, in such sort, that they worshipped dumbe idols. He that is dumbe, for the most part, is also deafe: S. Paul therefore <sup>k</sup> taxeth here, their idle vanitie, for adoring such gods, as could neither heare nor helpe, neither protect them from wrong, nor direct them in the truth, according to that of <sup>l</sup> Dauid: They haue mouthes and speake not, eyes haue they and see not, eares and heare not: they that make them are like to them, and so are all such as put their trust in them. He might haue named other sinnes, as he doth <sup>m</sup> elie-where, <sup>n</sup> but he names Idolatrie as the greatest, as the most common among the Gentiles, and as the mother sinne, from which all other arise. For <sup>o</sup> because they turned the glory of the incorruptible God to the similitude of the image of a corruptible man, and of birds, and of foure-footed beasts, and of creeping things; Almighty God gaue them vp vnto their hearts lust, that they might commit all vnclennesse euen with greedinesse. In a word, <sup>p</sup> as all wickednesse is from the wicked spirit; so euery good grace from the good spirit.

No man speaking by the spirit of God defiecth Iesus: also no man can say, that Iesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost] It is objected here, that the <sup>r</sup> deuils acknowledged Christ, and that hypocrites cry, Lord, Lord. Answer is made, that the deuils acknowledge Christ, as being thereunto constrained out of <sup>s</sup> feare; and that hypocrites, as dissembling, doe this out of fashion; only the true Christians say, Christ is Lord, out of faith, as <sup>t</sup> with the heart beleeuing vnto righteousnesse, and with the mouth confessing to saluation. Our English phrase doth expresse this well: Will you say it? that is, auow it vpon your certaine knowledge and conscience, freely, fully, constantly. For many professe God in words, <sup>u</sup> who denie him in their workes. If we construe this, <sup>x</sup> de dicere voluntario non coacto, de dicere lingua, corde, opere; no man can so say, that Iesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost. <sup>y</sup> Other answer, that Paul here speaks not of the regenerating spirit, or of iustifying grace, but of such gifts as are common to the reprobate with Gods elect. Insinuating, that no man, whether he be good or bad, can say, Iesus is the Lord, but by the spirit <sup>z</sup> dwelling in him if he be good, mouing him if bad. So <sup>a</sup> Indus preached, and <sup>b</sup> Caiphas prophesied, not as speaking from themselves, but as moued by the spirit: <sup>c</sup> Quicquid enim verum à quocunq; dicitur à Spiritu Sancto dicitur.

There are diuersities of gifts, and yet but one spirit: differences of administrations, and yet but one Lord: diuers manners of operations, and yet but one God] These three word, gifts, administrations, operations, are three weapons to beat downe their pride. If gifts, why should any boast, <sup>e</sup> as if he receiued them not; <sup>f</sup> if administrations and operations, euery one by loue must <sup>g</sup> serue another, as hauing his gift to edifie withall. In the three words, Spirit, Lord, God; the <sup>h</sup> Doctors obserue the mysterie of the blessed Trinitie, the Father is called God, the Sonne Lord, the Holy Ghost the Spirit. Againe, <sup>i</sup> some note here the Deitie of the Holy Ghost, against Macedonius, in that the Spirit is called Lord and God: and Christs equalitie with the Father, against Arrius, in that Christ is not alway named after the Father, but sometime, as in this place, before the Father. According to that of Athanasius; In the Trinitie, none is afore or after other, none is greater or lesse than another. <sup>k</sup> Gifts are ascribed to God the Holy Ghost, whose speciall attribute is loue: administrations vnto God the Sonne, whose speciall attribute is wisdom: operations to God the Father, whose speciall attribute is power, working all in all. There are diuersities of gifts, as the <sup>l</sup> spirit of understanding, wisdom, counsell, fortitude, &c. Diuersities of administrations, as some be <sup>m</sup> Prophets, other Apostles, and some Euangelists, and some Pastors and Teachers. Diuersities of operations, as to one is giuen the gift of healing, and to another power to do miracles, &c. All these worketh one God, who worketh all in all. He is <sup>n</sup> all in all; all as the <sup>o</sup> first cause, and working in vs all as the secundarie causes. According to that of the <sup>p</sup> Prophet: Lord thou hast wrought all our workes in vs, or for vs. Our Apostle doth not say, <sup>q</sup> qui magna operatur in magnis, aut qui miranda facit in Prophetis & Apostolis, aut qui multa facit in multis, sed qui omnia in omnibus. Insinuating that all these workes of all his agents are from him only, diuiding to euery man a seuerall gift euen as he will.

By which one sentence foure errors are confuted especially. 1. That opinion of the Gentiles, attributing seuerall gifts vnto seuerall gods. As good successe in warre to Mars, wisdom to Minerua, quicke dispatch of businesse vnto Mercurie: whereas the text saith, all these worketh one and the same spirit. 2. The words, diuiding to euery man a seuerall gift, ouerthrow their assertion, <sup>r</sup> who grant to God a prouidence and knowledge which is vniuersall only, not a particular in enery seuerall action and accident. 3. The clause, provi vult, Euen as he will, abundantly confounds Macedonius, denying the Godhead of the Holy Ghost, <sup>s</sup> because none but God can do what he will, or as he will. 4. * This makes against such as ascribe their diuersities of gifts either to mans merit or fatall destinie. For he saith not <sup>t</sup> as is due; but, as he will. Vnto one is giuen utterance of wisdom, to another is giuen utterance of knowledge by the same spirit, to another is giuen faith by the same spirit. He workes not all in one, nor all in many, but all in all; bestowing seuerall graces vpon seuerall persons as he will, each one being endued with a different gift to edifie withall.

Diuersities of gifts are not giuen vnto men <sup>u</sup> for ostentation, or faction, or as it is in the Gospell appointed to be read this day, to make merchandise in the Temple: but for edification to do good withall. Not only to themselves in their own particular estate: but vejs to vniuersi, for the benefit of other, euen the generall good of the <sup>x</sup> whole Church. For as we haue many members in one bodie, and all members haue not one office: so we being many, are but one bodie in Christ, and euery one anothers members. See Epistle 2. Sunday after Epiphanie.

The Gospell. L V K E 19.41.

And when he was come neere to Hierusalem, he beheld the Citie and wept on it, &c.

IN this historie S. Luke sets downe Christs behaiour both before and after he came to Hierusalem.

Afore,	{ What he did, he wept. And in it, the	} Time when, at that houre when he was entertained of the multitude with great pompe and iollitie. Cause why, the consideration of Hierusalems vnhappy state, in respect of her present sins, and future iudgements.
After,	{ What he said,	} 1. Correcting the grosse abuses of the Temple, casting out those that sold and bought therein. } 2. Sheving the right vses of Gods house: namely, that it is appointed for prayer and preaching.

And

<sup>k</sup> Ardens.

<sup>l</sup> Esay 11.2.
<sup>m</sup> Eph. 4.11.

<sup>n</sup> 1 Cor. 15.28.
<sup>o</sup> Aquin. Caietan.
<sup>p</sup> Esay 26.12.
<sup>q</sup> Musculus.

<sup>r</sup> Royard & Aquin.

<sup>s</sup> Caietan.
* Ardens.

<sup>t</sup> Ambros. exhort. ad virgines.

<sup>u</sup> Musculus.

<sup>x</sup> Bez..
<sup>y</sup> Rom 12.4.

And when he was come neere Hierusalem, he beheld the Citie and wept ] Our blessed Saviour in his progresse to Hierusalem was honoured of the multitude very much, as <sup>2</sup> S. Matthew reports; for some spred their garments in the passages, other cut downe branches from the trees and strawed them in the way, the whole companie going before and comming after, cried Hosanna, blessed be he that commeth in the name of the Lord; or, as our Euangelist, they began to praise God with a loud voice, for all the great works they had seene, saying, Peace in heauen, and glory in the highest places. And yet in the midst of all this iollitie, when he beheld Hierusalem he wept. <sup>a</sup> Insinuating that all the pomps and delights of the present world, are soone turned into mourning; <sup>b</sup> euen in laughing the heart is sorrowfull, and the end of mirth is heauinesse. In heauen is nothing but all pure ioyes, in hell nothing but meere miseries, in earth are both, one mingled with another. Our life resembles a riuer; for as <sup>c</sup> all riuers come from the sea, and returne thither againe; so the beginning and ending of our dayes are full of salt water, our first voice being a crie, the last a groane. There is haply some sweet and faire water in the middle of our age, but it passeth away so swiftly, that it is no sooner seene but gone. <sup>d</sup> Like the spiders house, and tree, which if it be taken out of his place, it will denie it, and say, I haue not seene thee. Seianus (as <sup>e</sup> Xiphilin reports) in the forenoone was so followed of the people that they would haue made him their Cesar; yet hated him so much in the afternoone, that they sent him as a malefactor vnto the Iayle, giuing him iron fetters in stead of a golden crowne. <sup>f</sup> Balthazar in the midst of a great feast as he was carowsing in the golden vessels of the Temple, saw the fingers of a mans hand writing vpon the walls of his Palace, which so troubled his thoughts, and changed his countenance, that the ioynts of his loynes were loosed, and his knees smote one against another. <sup>g</sup> When the children of Iob were banquetting in their elder brothers house, behold there came a great winde from beyond the wildernesse, and smote the foure corners of the house, which fell vpon them and slew them: and therefore seeing the calamities of this life surpasse the ioyes in number and nature; Christ is said often in the Gospels historie to weepe, <sup>h</sup> but not once to laugh. <sup>i</sup> Hereby teaching vs, that so long as we be pilgrims in a strange land out of our owne countrey, we must sit downe by the waters of Babylon and weepe. As for our harps, we must hang them vp, vntill we come to Hierusalem aboue, Psal. 137.

This weeping of Christ concernes all men, especially Clergie men. It concernes vs all <sup>k</sup> as a demonstration of his manhood; for hereby we know that our High Priest is <sup>l</sup> rouched with the feeling of our infirmities. It is an instruction for Clergie men in more particular, <sup>m</sup> for that he confirmed his owne precept with his owne practise. He said <sup>n</sup> else-where, Blessed are they that mourne; and behold himselfe doth here weepe.

The next point to be further examined, is, the cause why Christ did weepe. And that is the consideration of Ierusalens estate, both in respect of her present finnes, and future punishment. When he was come neere to Hierusalem, he beheld the Citie, and wept on it. Here we may learne many good lessons. As first, it serues to <sup>o</sup> terrifie; for as the *P*enitent sinner occasioneth in heauen ioy: so the retchlesse offender continuing obstinate in his iniquitie, brings (as much as in him lieth) euen <sup>q</sup> heauinesse into the courts of happinesse. Secondly, this may comfort vs in our temptations, as being assured <sup>r</sup> he will not the death of a sinner, but that all repent and be saued. He doth affect our conuersion vnfainedly, who weepes ouer our finnes so bitterly, speaking also pathetically: <sup>s</sup> Returne, returne, O Shulamite, returne, returne, O if thou hadst knowne those things which belong vnto thy peace! Let vs not, I beseech, you, make Christ a stage-player or hypocrite, commanding his affections and teares in sport; nam quicquid vult, valde vult. And his will is <sup>t</sup> that all men shall be saued, and come to the knowledge of the truth. And therefore when Christ at any time shall draw neere to vs in his holy word and Sacraments, as he did here to Hierusalem in his bodily presence; let vs open the <sup>x</sup> doores of our heart, and gates of our temple, that the <sup>y</sup> King of glory

<sup>2</sup> Cap. 21. 8, 9.<sup>a</sup> Zudolphus de vita Christi, part. 2. cap. 28.
<sup>b</sup> Prou 14. 13.
<sup>c</sup> Ecclesiast. 1. 7.<sup>d</sup> Iob 8. 14.<sup>e</sup> In vita Tiber.
<sup>ex</sup> Dion hist. lib. 58.<sup>f</sup> Dan. 5.<sup>g</sup> Iob 1. 18, 19.<sup>h</sup> Saluanus lib. 6. de gubernat. Dei. Idem Chrysoz. Bernard. Holcot, & alij.
<sup>i</sup> Vega in loc.
<sup>k</sup> Ardens.
<sup>l</sup> Zepher.<sup>m</sup> Heb 4. 15.<sup>n</sup> Origen. apud Aquin. in loc.<sup>o</sup> Matth. 5. 4.<sup>p</sup> Wigandus. Sarcenius.<sup>q</sup> Luke 15. 7.<sup>r</sup> Brentius.<sup>s</sup> Melancthon.<sup>t</sup> Ezech. 33. 11.<sup>u</sup> Cant. 6. 12.<sup>v</sup> 1 Tim. 2. 4.<sup>x</sup> Apoc. 3. 20.<sup>y</sup> Psal. 24. 7.

glory may come in. 3. This teacheth vs to <sup>z</sup> loue our enemies, and to pray for them who persecute vs. It is certaine Christ knew that he should be crucified in Hierusalem, and yet he desired their good, who sought and wrought his hurt. 4. That we make not our selues <sup>a</sup> merry with the mad humors, idle speeches, outrageous oathes of drunkards and atheists; I say, that we laugh not at the fals of our brethren, applauding them in their folly, making their infirmities and finnes our tabret and delight: but rather following here Christs example, to lament, when we behold such enormities in any. <sup>b</sup> Weepe for the dead, for he hath lost the light: so weepe for the foole, for he wanteth understanding: make small weeping for the dead, for he is at rest, but the life of the foole is worse then the death. And if we must be sorrie for the finnes of another, how much more for our owne; weeping with <sup>c</sup> Peter bitterly? That S. Peter wept, I finde, saith <sup>d</sup> Ambrose; but what he said, I finde not. I reade of his teares, but not of his satisfaction: Recte plane Petrus fleuit & tacuit; quia quod desleri solet, non solet excusari; & quod defendi non potest, abluí potest.

O if thou hadst knowne] This exceeding passionate speech is abrupt and defective. But it may be supplied thus: O daughter Sion, if thou hadst knowne so well as I, thou wouldest <sup>e</sup> weepe so well as I; thou wouldest <sup>f</sup> remaine still, and not <sup>g</sup> perish in thy finnes. Or as <sup>h</sup> other, thou wouldest obey my preaching and beleene. Hierusalem, Hierusalem, if thou hadst knowne those things which belong vnto thy peace so well as I, thou wouldest agree quickly with thine aduersarie, thou wouldest euen in this thy day be studious of peace, thou wouldest (as it is in our English text here) take heed. See Panigarol. hom. in loc. part. 1. Iansen. concord. cap 110. Erasmus & Maldonat. in Luc. 19. 42.

Christ then <sup>i</sup> wished vnto Hierusalem: 1. Vnderstanding and knowledge. 2. Such a knowledge as was profitable to <sup>k</sup> know those things which belong vnto peace. 3. Seasonable knowledge: euen in this thy day. Hierusalem if thou hadst knowne. As if he should say: Will ye know why I weepe? It is because thou knowest not the time of thy visitation. Hinc illa lachryma. <sup>l</sup> thou also, <sup>m</sup> that is, thou so well as any, yea better then all other cities in the world. For if S. maris and Galile had perished in their sinne, my grieue would not haue beene so great. But thou Hierusalem art the <sup>n</sup> citie of God, the <sup>o</sup> ioy of the whole earth, an <sup>p</sup> habitation which the Lord hath chosen for himselfe, saying, This shall be my rest for euer, here will I dwell, for I haue a delight therein. O Hierusalem, Hierusalem, whose stately towers are lift vp into heauen, caput inter nubila, thou shalt now be made euen with the ground, for thine enemies shall not leaue in thee one stone vpon another.

Yea, but did not Hierusalem know? Yes surely, the words of the P Prophets and <sup>q</sup> Moses were read among them euery Sabbath day. Yet because they neglected the time of their visitation, these things were hid from their eies. As Christ expounds himselfe; <sup>r</sup> This peoples heart is waxed fat, and their eares are dull of hearing, and with their eies they haue wineked, lest they should see with their eies, and heare with their eares, and vnderstand with their hearts, and should returne that I might heale them. Haply this vnhappy Citie knew many curious quirkes of the law: but it did not vnderstand this one necessary point of the Gospell, that Christ was her peace. For when he would <sup>s</sup> often haue gathered her children together, as the hen gathereth her chickens vnder her wings, they would not, but obstinately <sup>t</sup> reiected him, and betrayed him, and denied him, and in fine crucified him: Acts 3. 13. 15.

Euen in this thy day] The time of our visitation is but a day, wherein man laboureth vntill <sup>x</sup> euening, at <sup>y</sup> night his soule is taken from him, and when that night is <sup>z</sup> come, no man can worke. Wherefore while it is called <sup>a</sup> to day, <sup>b</sup> receiue not the grace of Christ in vaine. For now is that accepted time, behold now the day of saluation. Euen this day Hierusalem is allotted for thy conuersion, after the killing of so many Prophets, and stoning of such as were sent vnto thee: yet if thou wilt heare my voice to day, <sup>c</sup> seeking me while I may be found, and calling vpon me

<sup>a</sup> Ludolphus.

<sup>a</sup> Ardens.

<sup>b</sup> Eccles. 22. 11.

<sup>c</sup> Matr. 26. 75

<sup>d</sup> Ser. 46.

<sup>e</sup> Greger. hom. 39 in Euang. Idem Euebius

<sup>f</sup> Emissenus & Lyra in loc.

<sup>g</sup> Hieronymus apud Augustin. Epist. 79.

<sup>h</sup> Euthymius in loc.

<sup>i</sup> Erasmus.

<sup>j</sup> Iansen.

<sup>k</sup> Theophylact. in loc. & Hieron. in cap. 2.

<sup>l</sup> Mich.

<sup>m</sup> Calun. Mart. 2. 2. 2. 2. 2.

<sup>n</sup> Psal. 87. 2.

<sup>o</sup> Lament. 2. 13

<sup>p</sup> Psal. 134. 14

<sup>q</sup> Acts 13. 27.

<sup>r</sup> Acts 15. 21.

<sup>s</sup> Matth. 13. 5

<sup>t</sup> Ephes. 2. 7. 4.

<sup>u</sup> Matth. 23. 37.

<sup>v</sup> Matth. 21. 39

<sup>x</sup> Psal. 70. 4. 2.

<sup>y</sup> Luke 12. 20.

<sup>z</sup> John 9. 4.

<sup>a</sup> Heb 3. 15.

<sup>b</sup> 3 Cor. 6. 1.

<sup>c</sup> Esay 55. 6.

me while I am nigh : If thou wilt in this day, wherein I come weeping vnto thee, for thee, repent and beleue, thou maist be receiued vnto fauour. But expect not another day ; for this is thy day, the next is the day of the Gentiles ; or haply Gods day, wherein he will visit in iudgement, not in mercy. Deceiue not thy selfe daughter Sion, this day shall haue no morrow, for at this very now, Deus & dies ultionum conuenerunt, the God of vengeance, and day of vengeance are met together.

For the daies shall come vnto thee, that thine enemies shall cast a bancke about thee ] d The time wherein vngodly men take their vaine pleasures is but a day : but the time wherein they shall be punished hereafter is called in the plurall number, daies. e If God spared not the naturall branches, if he reiected his own citie, when she reiected his owne Son; let vs not, I beseech you, f despise the riches of his bountifulnesse, and patience, and long sufferance, calling vs in this our day to repentance: for these three follow one another, g ingentia beneficia, ingentia peccata, ingentes poene: Great benefits abused occasion great sinnes, and great sinnes are the forerunners of great iudgements. If England then, as Hierusalem, harden her heart, while Christ h crieth in her streets, and teacheth in her Temple daily; what doth it else but heape vnto it selfe wrath against the day of wrath, and of the declaration of the iust iudgement of God ?

He went into the Temple ] It is a new conceit of some which are bad Philosophers, and worse Diuines, that our blessed Sauour was a coward, in feareing the naturall death of the body, a distracted wretch in suffering the spirituall death of the soule, a brand of hell, in induring for a time the infernall death both of body and soule. But the siluer current of the Scriptures, and the whole streame of Expositors, euen from the first preaching of the Gospell, vntill the daies of i Augustinus, Iustinianus, and Cardinall k Cusa, runne quite another way, concluding peremptorily, that our glorious Sauour did vndergoe the first death manfully, and overcome the other triumphantly.

Not to crucifie the Text, and to meddle with impertinent controuersies ; l if Christ had bene cowardly daunted with the terrors of bodily death, he would not often haue visited Hierusalem, the city wherein he certainly knew that he should be crucified, at those times when there was greatest resort, and in those places which were most frequented, as it is said here, he went into the Temple. I confesse, Christ did naturally feare death, otherwise he should not haue been affected as an ordinarie man : yet he suffered willingly, otherwise he should not haue bene so well affected as an ordinarie Martyr. For whereas m there be three kindes of martyrdom ; the first operis, sed non voluntatis, as the martyrdom of the Bethlemis ihs innocents recorded by n S. Mattheu : the second voluntatis, sed non operis, as the martyrdom of S. Iohn the Euangelist, reported in o Ecclesiasticall historie : the third, & operis & voluntatis, as that of S. Stephen, related Acts 7. if Christs martyrdom and bloudie passion had bene operis, sed non voluntatis, only materiall and not formall, it could neither haue bene meritorious for himselfe, nor satisfactorie for other. Because it is a true rule both in reason and diuinitie, that an action done either by chance without our knowledge, or by violence against our will, is neither accepted of God, nor commended by men. That only is done well, which is done of our will. And therefore whatsoever other print or prate, Christ endured his passion most resolutely and cheerfully, witnessing so much of himselfe, p No man : aketh my life from me, but I lay it downe of my selfe.

For the clearing then of this point we must remember an old distinction, namely, that there was in Christ (q non secundum potentiam, sed secundum actum) a double created or humane will, a θέλονς, and a βέλονς, saith r Damascen, that is, as Aquin construeth it, a naturall will and a ratioll will : as the sententiarie Diuines vsually speake, voluntas vt natura, & voluntas vt ratio. Now Christ according to his sensuall and naturall will trembled at the pangs, and quaked at the paines of death : neither was this act sinfull or inordinate in him, for as much as nature d Ludolphus & Pontan. in loc.

e Rom 11. 21.

f Rom 2. 4.

g Magdeburg. Epist. praefix. cent. 5.

h Prou. 1. 20.

i Scholij in Psalm. 51. lira (A) k Tom. 2. operum, pag. 659.

l Ludolphus.

m Bernard. ser. de innocentibus.

n Cap. 2. 16.

o Flores hist. ad an. 95.

p Ioh. 10. 18.

q Thomas part 3. quest. 18. art. 3.

r Apud Thom. ibid.

nature shunneeth all things hurtfull and destruetive. And <sup>f</sup> Augustine writing of crosses and troubles, affirmed truly, tolerare ea iubes, non amare: nemo autem quod tolerat amat, nisi tolerare amat. But according to Christs Ratio and rationall will, it was his chiefe desire to die: <sup>c</sup> O my father, if it be possible let this cup passe from me: neuerthelesse, not as I will, but as thou wilt: οὐχ ὡς ἐγὼ θέλω, not according to my thel-sis and naturall desire, which abhorreth death: but as thou wilt, to which my rationall will is alway conformable. So <sup>u</sup> S. Augustine and the schoolemen expound his words in lib. 3. sent. dist. 17.

<sup>x</sup> Aquin doth exemplifie the point thus: A man (saith he) will not naturally suffer launcing and cutting of any member, yet for the good of the whole body, reason ouercomes often sense; whereby burning and launcing is endured: in like manner Christ, ex impetu nature, abhorred death, but ex imperio rationis, considering that the passion of him our head should procure great good vnto all the Church his body, and that the momentanie death of one should purchase eternall life to all, in the midst of his great agonie he spake cheerefully to his Apostles, <sup>y</sup> Arise let vs goe: behold he is at hand that betrayeth me, saluting the traytor Judas, friend wherefore art thou come? yeelding himselfe voluntarily to his enemies attempt, neither suffering his followers to offend them, nor commanding Gods Angels to defend himselfe. And on the crosse so farre was he from the paines of hell, as that he promised vnto the blessed theefe, the ioyes of heauen: <sup>z</sup> Verily I say vnto thee, this day shalt thou be with me in paradise. To conclude with <sup>a</sup> Lombard, Christ feared death ex affectu sensualitatis: but not ex affectu rationis. As Altiissiodorensis vpon this text, eichuing death secundum se: yet vndergoing death propter aliud; <sup>b</sup> giuing himselfe for vs an offering and a sacrifice of a sweet smelling fauour to God. Comming into the world not to doe his own sensuall will: but <sup>c</sup> the will of God who sent him. Otherwise he would not vsually haue gone to that citie where he should be crucified, at such times, and into such places where the greatest multitudes assembled, as the text saith, he went into the temple.

Now the reason why Christ so soone as he came to Hierusalem entred into Gods house, was partly to moue his own followers vnto deuotion in the temple, and partly to remoue sacrilegious persons out of the temple. For the first, in that Christ did not ordinarily conuerse in the Court, nor in the Market, nor in the Theatre, but in the Temple: he doth intimate to all Christians in generall, but to Clergie men in more particular, that his<sup>d</sup> kingdome was not of this world. And therefore such as will be his Disciples, must renounce the pleasures of the Theatre, the wicked gains of the market, the vaine gallantrie of the Court, and wholly deuote themselves either to say seruice in the Temple, or to doe seruice for the Temple. This we promised at our first matriculation and entrance into the Church; so that if Satan, <sup>e</sup> the prince of the world, take vs in his possessions, he will challenge vs for his owne, and presse God to forsake vs. <sup>f</sup> Iudica meum esse, qui tuus esse noluit; in ipsa quodammodo mea possessione apprehensus est: quid enim in theatro reuantiator turpium voluptatum, aut in amphitheatro crudelitates facius intiendo? Did he not vow when he first gaue vp his name to be thy Souldier in holy Baptisme, that he would forsake the Deuill and all his workes, the vaine pompes and glory of the world, with all couetous desires of the same? What then hath he to doe in my kingdome doing my seruice? What businesse hath he in the Play-houses or other of my territories? he should be in Christs Colledge, in the Diuinitie Schooles, in the holy Librarie, in the Temple, desiring rather to be a <sup>g</sup> doore-keeper in Gods house, then a Commander in the tents of vngodlinesse.

But this especially concernes Ecclesiasticall persons and Church-men, as being in the right vbi, when they stand in the Pulpit and teach in the Temple. Clericus in oppido Piscis in arido: Clergie men in the Church are in their proper element, for the Temple should be the center of all their circumference. My meaning is not that the Kings Court should be disfurnished of Chaplaines, <sup>f</sup> Confess. lib. 10 cap. 28.

<sup>c</sup> Matt. 26. 39.

<sup>u</sup> Tract. 19, in loon circa finem

<sup>x</sup> Vbi supra art. 5.

<sup>y</sup> Math. 26. 48

<sup>z</sup> Luke 23. 43.

<sup>a</sup> 3 sent. dist. 17.

<sup>b</sup> Ephes 3. 2.

<sup>c</sup> Iohn 4. 34. Heb. 10. 9.

<sup>d</sup> Iohn 18. 36.

<sup>e</sup> Ioh. 12. 31.

<sup>f</sup> Augustin. orat. cont Indeos, Paganos, Arianos, cap. 4.

<sup>g</sup> Psal. 34. 11.

<sup>b</sup> Prudentius
lib. 2. cont. Sym.

<sup>1</sup> Praefix. oper.
Amb.

<sup>k</sup> Trittonhem. in vita Occam.

<sup>l</sup> Prou. 29. 18.

<sup>m</sup> Lib. 1.

<sup>n</sup> Senec.

<sup>o</sup> Lib. 5. de Ape.

<sup>p</sup> Epist. 57.

<sup>q</sup> Eucbolzerus in Chron. ad an.
1259.

<sup>r</sup> De considerat.
lib. 3.

<sup>s</sup> Lib. de spiritu
& anima, c. 62.

<sup>t</sup> Ludolphus.

<sup>u</sup> Culman.

<sup>x</sup> Zepper.

<sup>y</sup> Allenraig.
lex. Theolog.
verb. sacrilegium.

<sup>z</sup> 2. 2. quest. 99.
art. 3.

or his counsell of Prelats: God forbid. For as the Common-wealth is flourishing <sup>h</sup> when either Philosophers are Kings, or Kings are Philosophers: euen so well is it with the Church, if godly Prophets hang as a pretious earing at the Princes eare. Worthily hath Erasmus obserued in an <sup>i</sup> epistle to Iohn Alasco, that if we had more Bishops like Ambrose, we should haue more Emperours like Theodosius. If Brentius the Diuine be counsellour to the Duke of Wittenberge, religion thereby shall be better established: if Occam the schooleman flie to Lewis the Emperour, he may well say, <sup>k</sup> Protect thou me with thy sword, and I will defend thee with my pen. In a word, if the kingdome be ruled by Gods scepter, it will continue: but <sup>l</sup> where there is no vision the people decay. So that if Clergie men follow the Court for the greater good of the Temple: then, as <sup>m</sup> Herodian said of Rome, wherefoeuer the Emperour is, there is Rome: and as the <sup>n</sup> Poet, ubi Helena est, ibi Troam puta: so wherefoeuer there is a good Prelate, there is a walking Church, and as holy Temple. But if our designs be meere secular, hauing one foot in the Court, another in the Citie, none in our Cure: then assuredly we are out of our ranke, and most vnlike Christ our master, of whom it is said here, that he taught daily in the Temple.

The more we keepe within the circuits of our Churches, and circles of our studies, the more we frequent the Chappell, the Library, the Schoole, the more priestlike and schollerlike. But on the contrary, when our habits are irregular, our companie disordered, our speech vnsauoury, our whole conuersation according to the fashions of the world: then, as <sup>o</sup> Budens is bold to write, we are rather Crassiani, then Christiani, more secular then ecclesiasticall. I doe not enuie the rich Clergie men, I wonder only with Synesius, how they can gaine so much leifure as to serue two masters, God in Choro, and Mammon in sero. If riches increase, we must not set our hearts on them; if our places be great, our mindes must be lowly; rather then the cares of this world should choake the good seede in vs, we must imitate <sup>q</sup> Albertus Magnus, of whom it is reported in historie, that he left his Bishopricke of Ratisbone to reade publique Lectures in Colen: and follow Theodorits example, who writes of himselfe in a certaine epistle to Leo Bishop of Rome, that whereas he had bene Bishop lining plentifully many yeeres, he had purchased nec agrum, nec obolum, nec sepulchrum, as the Magdeburgenses report in his words, in Cent. 5. col. 1011. For it we which ought to be the salt of the earth, and light of other, shall add  $&$  our selues vnto the world, being (as <sup>r</sup> Bernard speaks) habitu clerici, quasi mundani, actu neuri: then we may cry with <sup>s</sup> Augustine; Ve mihi misero qui ista seruo in memoria, & scribo in charta, nec habeo in vita. Or as the same Father in another case: Woe be vnto vs, if we haue Christum in codicibus & non in cordibus. If we which are Gods inheritance, spirituall men, consecrated to the Temple, make it not our chiefe studiet o doe good vnto the Church, as Christ here, who so soone as he came to Ierusalem instantly visited his fathers house.

Secondly, Christ entred into the Temple to remoue sacrilegious Merchants, and to reforme abuses therein. <sup>t</sup> Hereby signifying that the disorder of the Church occasioned the destruction of the Citie. <sup>u</sup> For so long as the Priests were wicked, the people could not be good. <sup>x</sup> By this example Princes and Prelates are taught that their chiefe time be spent, and best iudgements employed in well ordering Gods house, that it proue not a den of theenes: but as God would it should, an house of praier. Aaron & Moses must ioyne together in this good work. The Minister must vse the spirituall sword, and the Magistrate the temporall, in casting out and whipping out of the Temple such as sell and buy therein. <sup>y</sup> Sacrilegium is so called, quasi sacrilegium, the prophaning of that which is holy.

Now holinesse is ascribed vnto } Persons.
 } Places.
 } Things.

And therefore as <sup>z</sup> Aquine notes, sacriledge may be committed vel in personam, when an ecclesiasticall man is abused: vel in locum, when the Church is prophaned:

prophaned: vel in rem, when things dedicated to holy uses are otherwise imployed. And this kinde of sacriledge may be committed <sup>a</sup> three waies:

1. Quando sacrum de sacro auferitur, when holy things are stollen out of holy places, as the consecrated vessels out of the Temple.

2. Quando non sacrum de sacro, as if a theefe should breake open a Church to steale away some priuate treasure hid therein.

3. Quando sacrum de non sacro, when the Church is robbed of her possessions and endowments.

If all men examine themselves according to this rule, many will assuredly find, that they worthily deserue the whip. In our neighbour countries, they complaine with Peter<sup>b</sup> Blesensis, that claustra are turned into castra. And with Bernard, Plus calcaria quam alcaria fulgent. That the Nobilitie, Gentrie, Commonaltie, regard haram domesticam magis quam aram dominicam. And I would to God England had not iust cause to erie out against selling of oxen and sheepe, and doves in the Temple: that is, as one wittily, Beneficia magna, parua, omnia. So the Poet in old time:

<sup>c</sup> Filius est presul, pater Abbas, Simon uerque.

How little a sinne to euer it seeme to be, yet all kind of sacriledge is odious in the sight of God. As for that which is in personam, he saith, <sup>d</sup> he that despiseth you, despiseth me. For sacriledge committed in rem, <sup>e</sup> Ye haue spoiled me in tithes and offerings. And lastly, for that in locum, our Sauour here doth cast out of the Temple, such as sold and bought therein.

This horrible crime is not only condemned by Papists and Lutherans, and the Church of England: but also by the conffessorian Diuines, who shut the doore now the stee is stoine, and repent too late that euer they betrayed Gods inheritance into the hands of impious cormorants. <sup>f</sup> Caluin compares the Magistrates of Geneua to cruell tyrants, affirming that they are the Popes successors in theft and robbery. Beza in his Tract of three sorts of Bishops, is resolute, That Protestant Church-robbers are new theeues, entred into the roomes of old theeues, according to that of Bishop Parkehurst:

Olim in cœnobys habitabant monstra papiste, Nunc in cœnobys habitant sed monstra rapista.

<sup>h</sup> Viret accounts them worse then Friers, and Monks, comparing them vnto the deuils in the Gospell, crying, Why art thou come to torment vs before our time? And albeit our English reformers a long time would in their haste and heat, downe with the Church, euen to the ground: yet if we shall appeale from Philip King of Macedonia when he is drunken, vnto Philip King of Macedonia when he is sober: or with Bishop Grosted, from Pope Adrian priuate, to Pope Adrian publicke: or with the <sup>i</sup> quodlibeticall discourser from the Pope as Clement, vnto his holinesse as Peter. If, I say, we shall appeale from their passages, vnto their best writers in their settled iudgement; <sup>k</sup> we shall finde, that they are very well content that their Presbyters, and other officers of the Temple, should enioy the lands and liuings of our Bishops; intimating that Church-robbers would crucifie Christ againe for his coat: resembling the Traytor Iudas; by the spoiles of the Church purchasing fields of bloud that such hate Christ, and defraud God, and are no better then Achan, Nebuchadnezzar, Balthazar, Ananius and Saphira. To conclude with <sup>l</sup> Iustinian, Proximum sacrilegio crimen est quod mai: status dicitur: Treason is a pettie sinne, in comparison of sacriledge. The reason is rendred by <sup>m</sup> S. Augustine, Tanto grauius est peccatum, quanto committi non potest nisi in Deum.

As this fault is most abominable, so the iudgements of God vpon it in all ages haue bene most fearefull. To begin with Simon Magus, the godfather of Simonists, as we read, Acts 8. as he presumed in the publike Theater at Rome, to flie vp into heauen, he caught such a fall in the middest of his pride, that he brake his legs and his thighes, as <sup>n</sup> Clemens Romanus reports: Vt qui paulo ante volare tentasset, subito ambulare non poterat; & qui pennas assumpserat, plantas amiserat, <sup>a</sup> Lombard. sent. lib. 3. dist. 37.

<sup>b</sup> Epist. 27.

<sup>c</sup> Apud Magdeburg. cent.

<sup>d</sup> Luke 10 16.

<sup>e</sup> Matth 3. 8.

<sup>f</sup> Epist. 168.

<sup>g</sup> In Lud. 6. is.

<sup>h</sup> Cited in the Survey of the pretended holy disc. chap. 21, pag 242.

<sup>i</sup> Quodlibet. 6. art. 10.

<sup>k</sup> Survey ubi sup. pag 241, 242, 243.

<sup>l</sup> Leg. 1. digest. ad leg. lul.

<sup>m</sup> Contra Crescen. lib 4 cap. 10

<sup>n</sup> Constat. lib. 6. cap 9.

o Ser. 66.
p Lib 3 Chron.
pag. 157.
q Hores. 21.

r Baron. annal.
tom. 4. ad an.
362. fol. 42.
s Idem ibidem
ex Ammian.
Theodorit. &
alys.
t Malmesbur.
de gest. reg. An-glor. lib. 3.
u Polydor. Anglican. bistor.
lib. 10.
v Guenzra.
y Suruey of pretended holy discipline.
chap. 21.
z Psalm. 126. 2.
a Psalm. 83. 11.
b Esay 56. 7.

faith<sup>o</sup> Ambrose. Nay, this tumbling cast (as it should seeme) brake his necke; For so P Melancthon, & Epiphanius, and other relate. See Magdeburg. cent. 1. lib 2. cap. 11. Baron annal. Tom. 1. ad an. 68. Iulianus the devils darling, vncle to Iulian the wretched Apostata, together with Felix, the Emperors Lord Treasurer, pilled and sold the Churches of Antiochia, partly to fulfill their irreligious humors, as also to fill full the Princes exchequer. Iulian when he was in a Temple, aduersus sacram mensam mixisse dicitur. And Felix beholding the costly vessels and chalices Constantinus and Constantinus had bestowed, scoffingly said, What stately plate is here for the carpenters sonne? but because these beasts opened not their lips, that their mouthes might shew forth Gods praife, but whet their tongues as swords to strike at the Lords annointed; Iulianus mouth vsing alwaies vsanoury speeches, at the last acted a most filthy part: for that ordure which should haue gone downeward, was cast vpward, dying a loathsome and nastie death. And Felix, who had so base a conceit of Christs bloud, did nothing night and day but vomit bloud, vntill his vnhappy soule was fetched away from his accursed carcase. William Rufus, who pulled down Churches and religious houses, to make palaces of state and places of delight, was strooken as he was hunting in his new Forest with an arrow, shot by Sir Walter Tyrell, that he fell downe dead, and neuer spake word: Vno gemitu sine voce edito animam efflans ex equo in terram cecidit. When Scipio did rob the Temple of Tholossa, there was not a man who caried away gold from thence that euer prospered afterward. y The goods of the Church are like the gold of Tholossa, none thriue that vnlawfully possesse a penny worth of them Ex male questis vix gaudet tertius bares. O Lord God, z that our mouth may be filled with laughter, and our tongue with ioy; a make them and their princes like Oreb and Zeb, yea, make all their Princes like Zeba and Salmana, which say, let vs take to our selues the houses of God in possession.

