PLACE OF PHYSICAL TRAINING IN GLENDALE UNION HIGH SCHOOL

By Walt, Le Noir Church
The intelligence to realize a situation usually can devise ways and means to meet it.

To say that in italics or capitals would not emphasize the basic truth. Then comes a vital question: "In a healthy human dynamo, how can a normal equilibrium be maintained between physical and spiritual voltage?" Therein lies the occult secret of efficient receiving and giving, leading to the universal truth that "it is not all of life to live, nor all of death to die."

It takes a genius to see the exact thing to do—and do it.

True genius is not seeking obstructions, but works patiently along nature's line of least resistance to the desired, foreseen end. Because genius is receptivity, it takes truth as truth comes; it uses truth as only genius can or will. Thus it has solved the problem of adding more than 100 per cent to the efficiency of the most complex of all mechanisms, the human machine that is wonderfully and fearfully made.

The Glenda'e Union High School is doing very creditable work in further solution of the large problems involved in that primary problem.

The education and specific training of the physical factors in the triplex human machine are confided largely to Miss Marjorie Grinnell and Mr. Earl H. Wight. She has under her charge about 168 girls, who have practically the same kind of care, instruction and training given by Mr. Wight to from 190 to over 200 boys.

The deservedly high place now given to physical education is evidenced by the fact that in over 300 of the large schools there are special, high-salaried, scientific physical directors. The problems they need to solve are so basic, so involved in all other education of the individual student, that it is difficult to differentiate their relative importance. It has not been so very long since it was considered, in many otherwise first-class schools that almost any athletic person of supposedly good moral character who could do what seemed to the school board phenomenal physical stunts, was good enough to teach the limited course in physical training grudgingly allowed as a concession to what they considered educational cranks.

But now the very best, most highly developed, mentally, morally and physically, is not too good to be trusted with the physical education of a pupil whether in the primary or in the graduating class.

Why so? Because such teachers are faced with problems neither appreciated nor understood by one parent among many. Even if they do understand and appreciate, most parents are not in circumstances permitting them to apply such knowledge in a practical, efficient way.

Suitable development of the physical along with the mental tends to raise moral standards. When mentally wearied and physically active, vigorous and abounding with super vitality, the individual tends to drift toward unmoral, if not immoral acts and conditions, along one of nature's many lines of least resistance. Why? Simply because there is no mortality in the vigorous physical and the wearied mental has lost much of its resistive force.

If a weary, hungry, perplexed parent becomes irritable over trifles and to greater or less degree loses the self control it had required many years to learn and achieve, is it strange that similar conditions will slip the control cables of impulsive, untrained or half-trained youth, sometimes to a deplorable, a calamitous extent?

Rodin's great statue of "The Thinker" is a wonderful illustration of the strength mentally and physically required to enable the primitive human to become a moral being (including all the aids given by science, reason and revelation).

"Because of the problems growing out of mental weariness," says Mr. Wight, "we try to take the students as much as may be in the middle of the day when the mind is tired. Physical fatigue gives mental rest; then we change back—our aim being to maintain a health-giving equilibrium." When physically tired, but mentally alert, the bodily fatigue will check immoral tendencies to a much greater extent than is usually realized. Of course not alike in all boys. We must consider temperamental conditions as well as mental conditions. Each case may have

AT STATE CAPITOL

COUNTY LOCAL OPTION BILL TO FEATURE RE-OPENING OF LEGISLATURE

The first big mix-up of the second half session is scheduled for tomorrow when "Smiling Eddie" Luce of San Diego will open up the Carr-Dennett county local option bill for general argument.

Leo Friedman, the youthful San Francisco assemblyman, appeared for the last session minus the tiny mustache which graced his upper lip and won him fame during the first gathering.

"Foolish boy," growled Senator Walt McDonald, "to get rid of something that was giving him good publicity."

Oh, yes, there's a bill to raise the attorney general's salary from $3600 to $5000 a year. Senator Scott dropped it in.

And there's another one to create the office of general superintendent at $3000 per year in the state labor department.

Assemblyman Madison is fathering the Big Bird Bounty bill which provides for a bounty ranging from one cent for each English sparrow to 50 cents for each great horned owl.

One of the minor tussles of the session will be based on Senator King's "non-sale of trout" bill. The Trout Fishermen's Union—the smallest union in the world—will furnish the opposition.

W. H. Shelby, fish culturist of the state fish and game commission, is responsible for the bill which aims to prevent the introduction into the state of infected fish.

And at the same time Assemblyman Harris of Bakersfield proposes to create a state commission to regulate music teaching.

There's very little "trash" in the batch of bills referred to the assembly judiciary committee, according to W. T. Satterwhite of Oakland, chairman of the committee. Satterwhite, who stayed in Sacramento during the legislative recess for the purpose of studying the bills, says the majority of the proposed laws have "meritorious features."

SAY GOODBYE TO ROME

The meeting of the Art and Travel section of the Tuesday Afternoon club of Glendale was held on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. M. Turk and was largely attended. The Vatican was described and many of the rooms containing such priceless art treasures were visited. All were loth to leave this magnificent palace, but many things had been planned for the day, so we left for a visit to Trastevere, once the aristocratic suburb of Rome, whose handsome sons and daughters are still wont to say "I am more than the Roman—I am a Trasteverean."

The churches of St. Cecilia, Santa Maria and the statue of Garibaldi claimed our attention here. Carriages were then taken and our first stop was at the rag market, where such a miscellaneous assortment of articles is offered for sale. Some unique purchases were made and we continued our drive to the Piazza di Spagna, where the artists' models congregate, posing artistically among the flower stalls which line the church steps.

At four o'clock we drove out to the Pincio, the hill of gardens, said to have been the site of the famous gardens of Lucullus, and in 1809-14 it was greatly enlarged and made into a beautiful pleasure ground by Napoleon I. It is now a fashionable resort and for two hours before sunset a fine band plays and the Italians pay and receive visits in their carriages, presenting a gay scene. Dinner was taken on the Piazza Colonna, where is to be found the column of Marcus Aurelius. After dinner we go in a body to the fountain of Trevi and each member of the party takes a drink of the water and throws a coin in the basin in the firm belief that their return to Rome is thus ensured. And now at 10:30 we're off for Florence.

MRS. BEATTY SPEAKS

HIGHLAND PARK WOMAN ADDRESSES CLUB MEMBERS ON CURRENT EVENTS

In harmony with the subject of the Glendale Tuesday Afternoon club program this week, Masonic Temple was resplendent with American flags. A mammoth bouquet of jonquils occupied the center of the platform. The subject of the day, "Current Events," given by Mrs. Jane M. Beatty of Highland Park was ably handled, while the enthusiastic singing of patriotic airs with Mrs. Mattison B. Jones at the piano added to the pleasure of the afternoon.

Mrs. Beatty, who is exceedingly well versed in her subject, said that to attempt to keep up-to-the-minute in current events these days was to fit one for the insane asylum. With flitting glances into current events abroad and at home Mrs. Beatty urged Americans to stand behind the president, and reminded her audience of the famous prophesy of Count Tolstoi. Speaking of the submarine which has brought home to us the fact that there is no such thing as a "state of splendid isolation," Mrs. Beatty said that a crippled Irishman invented the first submarine in 1712 for revenge on an English flag ship. France and England both refused to avail themselves of the opportunity of purchasing this first submarine, and Holland became its final possessor. This submarine was the pattern for the improved boats of today.

In speaking of affairs in England, Mrs. Beatty claimed that Lloyd George, equally as strenuous as Roosevelt, and a born orator, is proving England's savior.

Great changes are taking place in Germany, where heretofore no Jews, Socialists or Radicals could hope to attain positions as officers in the army. Limited suffrage is in sight for German women at the expiration of the war, while Germany, even though engaged in this terrible struggle, is keeping up her old age and unemployment pensions. In her social service legislation Germany is far ahead of us. The speaker expressed the gratification of the American people at large when she said that the most recent events in our own country had demonstrated that our German-Americans are all Americans at heart.

In a comprehensive way Mrs. Beatty gave a resume of the discontent and dangerous political situation in her native land, Ireland, and in Mexico. Four well known great men have been called to the Great Beyond this year: Lord Kitchener, Admiral Dewey, General Funston and Hugh Munsterberg.

Coming down to current events in our locality, Mrs. Beatty spoke of the need of the Moron Colony bill and gave as reasons for the high cost of living, waste in marketing, waste between consumer and producer and gambling in food stuffs. Mrs. Beatty advocated as a remedy that the state become the purchasing agent, and that retailers buy from this purchasing agent.

During the business session reports were given of the Rosecrans Musical club and the San Fernando Valley Reciprocity days and a Federation Secretaries' meeting. The convention of the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's clubs was announced for March 27, 28, 29 and 30 at Santa Monica. A moving picture benefit for the new club home was announced for March 16.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. H. W. James of 1555 Penn street entertained on the 21st at a birthday party in honor of Mrs. Van Fleet, the day being also Mrs. James' birthday. The dining room was decorated with smilax and ferns and the beautifully appointed luncheon table was centered with a cut glass bowl of pansies and ferns. Mrs. James' mother, Mrs. H. R. Sibley, assisted her in serving the delicious two-course luncheon to the guest of honor, Mrs. Van Fleet, and her sister, Mrs. Charles Cassell of Glendale, Mrs. Frank Beckett and Mrs. Slathers of Tropic, Mrs. Mina Winger, Mrs. Lovah Bourland and Mrs. Hilton of Los Angeles.

AN AUTO COLLISION

TELEPHONE TRUCK COLLIDES WITH FATHER O'NEILL'S RUNABOUT

Wednesday forenoon when the truck of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company was being driven east on Colorado street, Father O'Neill was driving his Ford roadster north on Everett street and by miscalculations on the part of someone the two autos collided, damaging both machines considerably and badly injuring one of the legs of Ed. Gibbs, the driver. The truck which was filled with telephone accessories was in part overturned and the contents scattered on the pavement. The truck was damaged so badly that it was necessary to have it hauled away by another auto. Father O'Neill's roadster suffered the loss of a wheel, but sustained no other injury. Father O'Neill came from the wreck without harm to himself.

WASHINGTON PROGRAM

On February 21 the B8 history section of the Intermediate school most appropriately entertained the school with tableaux illustrating events from the life of George Washington. Costumes worn were precise reproductions of those in vogue during the latter part of the eighteenth century period. The acting was splendidly executed.

At the conclusion of the program Victor Colburn, representing the B8 section presented the school with a large American flag which had been made by the girls of that group. Mr. White in responding expressed the keen appreciation felt by the entire student body.

This B8 section is to be commended not only upon rendering an excellent entertainment, but for the appropriate patriotic spirit displayed at such a time. The program was in the hands of Miss Midcalf and to her in no small measure success was due. The tableaux were as follows:

Scene 1—Little George Washington and the Cherry Tree.

Scene 2—George Washington as a surveyor.

Scene 3—Signing the Declaration of Independence.

Scene 4—The making of the first American flag. The visit of George Washington, Col. Ross and Robt. Morris to the Betsy Ross home.

Scene 6—Lady Washington's reception.

Scene 7—The inauguration of George Washington as our first president.

Members of the Intermediate Athletic association were most discreet in their selection of officers for the spring term. The following have newly taken office:

President, McHenry Holley.

Vice president, Victor Colburn.

Secretary, Dorothy Brown.

Treasurer, Miss Midcalf.

The concluding first team basketball game of the season was played Tuesday when Eagle Rock journeyed to the local court. From the first whistle the Intermediate took and kept the lead in what proved to be a slow and ragged game. The final score stood Eagle Rock 7, Intermediate 30.

Track work is now foremost in interest at the Intermediate school among athletic endeavors. Some good material is developing which promises to afford the surrounding schools an interesting time in coming track meets.

UNCULTIVATED LAND AND UNUSED MUSCLE

Why should there be uncultivated land and unused muscle in Glendale, providing there are people who need employment? The City of Glendale contains an area of about 10 square miles, or 6400 acres. It is fair to say that one-fourth, 1600 acres, of that land is not under cultivation. Why? Yes, why and why? There are people who would be glad to cultivate it, and the owners in most instances would be glad to have it cultivated. Then why is it not cultivated? Lack of co-operation, which means a lack of owner and the tiller of the soil getting together in a business way, may be the cause of lack of cultivation. The owner of the land would rather have the land remain uncultivated than to lease it to a man who will keep things on the premises in an untidy condition. Then it would seem that the lack of co-operation is caused by a lack of thrift on the part of the prospective tiller of the soil.

Why would it not be a good plan in these times of high prices of food products for the citizens of a community to organize an industrial society and employ a competent agricultural instructor? It might be the duty of an instructor thus employed to assist in leasing vacant lots and acreage, and then advise the various tillers of the land as to the amount of fertilizer to use and when and how to apply it. An instructor could render valuable service in giving advice as to the time of the season to plant and sow, and the method and extent of cultivation. There is much to be gained by the person who really knows how to do things and then actually does them. Being in possession of the land and a few garden tools does not necessarily mean an abundant crop to the tiller of the land. Possession of the land and then to cultivate it intelligently is what counts.

Why not raise useful products on the waste land now dotted with diseased and dead fruit trees? Several months ago Mr. Shinn of Glendale, who is an experienced horticulturist, said: "When I first came to Glendale a few months ago I noticed so many non-bearing fruit trees whose presence indicated one of two things, viz.: that this section of California is not adapted to the growth of such trees, or if it is adapted to the growth of such trees the owners show a lack of thrift in not properly caring for them." Why not some of the unused muscle in the Glendale community be given a chance to clear off the dead trees from these unprofitable orchards? A crop of grain or vegetables will show life and thrift and will give to the tiller of the soil a worth while compensation for this labor. Uncultivated land and unused muscle in any community is a mark of shiftlessness.

HORTICULTURAL LAW

The law governing the County Horticultural Commissioners has recently been very thoroughly considered by a large committee consisting of fruit growers, nurserymen, State and County Horticultural Commissioners, Quarantine Officers, etc., with the view of amending it in several particulars to eliminate faults and add to its usefulness.

This move was inaugurated by Geo. H. Hecke, now State Horticultural Commissioner, at the Fruit Grower's Convention held at Visalia in November, 1915, and seems to have met with the very hearty approval of the people interested in this matter throughout the State; the only criticism being that the people called upon to consider the matter have been almost all from the deciduous fruit section in the northern part of the State, little representation being had by the citrus growers.

This committee has formulated legislation in the shape of a number of amendments to the present Horticultural Commissioner's enabling law; and a bill embodying their recommendations will probably have been introduced into the Legislature before this has reached its readers. Briefly, the recommendations include the following points:

- 1st—The traveling expenses of the Horticultural Inspectors in the various counties of the State is provided for.
- 2nd—Provision is made for the re-appointment of a County Horticultural Commissioner at the expiration of his term, if the same has been for more than two years, without an examination by the State Board of Examiners.
- 3rd—Liens filed by the County at the instance of the Horticultural Commissioner for work done in the control of insect, disease and noxious weed pests, are given a precedence over first mortgages previously filed on the property involved.
- 4th—Inspection of Horticultural articles and products being shipped from one county to another within the State, is provided for, whereas previously only the County Ordinances in the various counties controlled these shipments unless they were coming from without the State.
- 5th—The County Horticultural Commissioner is obliged to only "control" insect, disease and noxious weed pests in cases where the owner does not properly care for them himself, although he can "eradicate" them if he deems best; while the present law requires him to "eradicate or destroy" them.

These cover the principal points of change in the measure in regard to pest control, but a very comprehensive law for the standardization of fruits packed and offered for sale within the State as well as those shipped out, is also included in the bill. This latter is a much needed measure as a very serious aspect of the rights of purchasers to an honest pack of fruits they use, has been prevalent everywhere in the markets of the State.

The Horticultural Commissioner of Los Angeles County believes that this legislation will be an improvement over the present form; but also thinks it does not go nearly so far as it should to bring about the right conditions on the following points:

- 1st—It leaves the Horticultural Commissioner of the County entirely independent of any central control as to his decisions and orders; while we believe that he should be, in his final decisions, subject to the State Commissioner.
- 2nd—It still leaves open the enactment of County Ordinances in regard to this work, which will prevent any uniformity of law

STUDIES IN PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

By Walt Le Noir Church

STUDY XXIII. GLENDALE DEVELOPMENT

Phil. F. Landes, of West Broadway, has been in this valley about ten years. After which gladsome experience he says: "I would rather live here, even on half a loaf, if need be, than on the whole loaf back East. "Born in Canada, they put me off at Buffalo; but I would not stay put after I heard the facts about the San Fernando valley, where I find everything I want, believing that good business is soon to be here again to stay."

President Vesper, of Bank of Glendale, thinks that it is a strong point for Glendale that prices are lower here for good properties than in surrounding cities, so more real estate, improved or unimproved, can be bought for a given sum of money. Then the good railroad service, either to Los Angeles through Tropic, or through Eagle Rock City, enables great numbers of Glendale residents to do business in other localities. The certain rise in values here will enable those investing at present prices to get good returns on their money. One thing not always considered is our free telephone service to Los Angeles, enjoyed also by Burbank. Alhambra's plea for like service has just been refused, though Alhambra made a hard fight for it. That ought to make us appreciate the privilege more, we having what our perfectly worthy neighbors can't get, unless they come over Glendale-way.

J. C. Sherer, City Recorder, says the thing he particularly likes about Glendale is being so close to the health-giving mountains, while yet being in such close touch with the great city of the Pacific.

D. S. Phillips, Auditor in City Water and Electricity department, says it is an advantage to have our lower water rates here. After the minimum is passed we pay it 3 cents, less than half that of Los Angeles beyond the minimum. But what appeals to him most is the conditions which make Glendale so wholesome for children. During the two years they have lived in Glendale, his children have never had a single day's illness. After living in several California towns, he likes Glendale best of all.

The City Engineer was not in, but an assistant who thinks and can tell convincingly what she sees and hears, said things worth considering. Loving the ever-changing purples, blues and browns of the nearby mountains, she, too, enjoys being in such easy reach of the big shopping emporiums. "The only reason people do not buy more here," she says, "is because they can't get the things they want. The best part of shopping is getting just what you think you need. Of course it is all right to patronize our home city, but it is often necessary, and it is always pleasant, to get just what you want to-day—even if you want something more or different to-morrow."

That youthful philosopheress voiced a great truth. R. M. McGee of West Broadway says Glendale has the best and most efficient city government, considering the cost, of all the cities he knows. In Southern California or elsewhere. He thinks that we have opportunities here in our suburbs for several paying enterprises, such as canneries, which would give a home market for all the vegetables that could be raised in our foothills and on the numerous vacant lots in our city, that would add thousands of dollars to the income of Glendaleans, put more money in circulation, and so stimulate business and make betterment in many directions.

JONAH

Jonah was a very indigestible gentleman.

The whale deserved a lot of credit for swallowing him. He may have been a fine prophet, but he was a bum square meal.

For three days and nights he scratched, kicked and pummeled that brute in the stomach so unmercifully that at last the whale gave up the fight and Jonah at the same time.

We can sympathize with that whale. We know exactly how he felt. We've eaten dinners that acted just like Jonah did.

NEW YORK COPS BEGIN STUDY OF LAW

(By United Press.)
 NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Members of the New York police department today began to study law at Columbia university. Commissioner Woods made a special arrangement with the Columbia Law school whereby the entire course will cost each policeman only $16, with $8 additional for books.

The course will last for sixteen weeks, with one two-hour period

John G. Peart, of West Broadway, came here about four months ago, particularly for the benefit of one of his family who is troubled with asthma. Glendale's climate, water and general hygienic conditions give certain relief to asthma, as well as to most other ills that human flesh is heir to. Business was a secondary consideration, but he finds that, too, worth while. He came from Illinois, which has a bigger, but far from a better, Chicago than has Southern California. In twenty years, that one on Lake Michigan may not be as large as the one which by that time will be built up solidly down to the Pacific Ocean and along many miles of beaches.

Henry Johnston came from Rockford, Illinois, about eight years ago, built a fine house up on West Broadway, then built a finer one, where he now lives, near the first. He has retired from business, and says that of all places known to him, Glendale is the very best in which to get the best and sweetest of life under blue skies and in God's golden sunshine. He is an animated illustration of the happy thought, "For God's in His Heaven: All's well with the world."

C. K. Slonneger, 454 West Broadway, came from Hamilton, Ohio, the Presidential state, but also lived and did business across the line in Indiana, the Vice-presidential state. He successfully runs a grocery at a place where four others before him failed to make it succeed. Yet, back east, he was in the real estate and insurance business, with about ten thousand sand acquaintances. He intends to start an advertising campaign of his own devising which will let those ten thousand men, with their sisters, their cousins and their aunts, know just what Glendale is. Then most of them would want to come here and numbers of them will come—just to see if he still tells the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, about real estate—same as he used to do back East. May he prove a true prophet. He has a safe proposition, for how could he exaggerate the delightful facts about Glendale.

What city has the best, quickest, and most efficient fire department on the Pacific coast, considering its size and the needs of the situation? "Why, Glendale, of course."

Don't take my word for it, but ask any one of our live, athletic, well-trained fire laddies. They will tell you that the secret of good fire service such as we undoubtedly have here, is in getting there first, that is, getting busy with the hose before the flames get half a chance.

Of Glendale's phenomenal growth, Doctor Hurtt might well say: "Part of which I was; all of which I saw." He believes in Glendale's brilliant future, as he knows Glendale's past. He is a scientist in other fields besides Therapeutics. He says the photoplay is evolving to a stage where it is most useful for both amusement and education, which rightly go hand in hand. He thinks it would greatly benefit Glendale's merchants to have in our suburbs a few of the higher type of film producers. They would put much money in circulation and help stimulate many lines of business to the betterment of all. Glendale has all the conditions for such large enterprises to succeed in a large way. That of itself will prove a very valuable asset for Glendale, even if located just outside of our city. He also says a live chamber of commerce is the key to civic success.

each week. Some law has heretofore been taught at the police training school, but the idea of an advanced course came from the policemen themselves. The law course will not be required by the department. It will be entirely optional with the man himself and must be pursued in hours when he is off duty.

The courses are given with the idea of training the policeman in the law as it is applied to his own particular duties so he may have a better understanding of his job.

Fortune smiles on a few and laughs at the rest of us.

throughout the State—and such uniformity should be brought about as soon as possible.

3rd—Shipments of nursery stock from one place to another within the County is not dealt with at all, leaving such shipments to go into incorporated cities entirely without supervision, as County Ordinances cannot affect such cities, and they are the only ones that would apply.

During the session of the present Legislature which convenes after the vacation, any provisions modifying or amending this law may be introduced and passed, and the Los Angeles County Horticultural Commissioner's Department hopes that this will be done from some source in the above particulars.

A country merchant was induced to buy a cash register a few days ago. He left his store the day the machine was received and instructed his clerks to ring up all they received. The clerks rang up the mon-change into consideration. If a five-dollar bill was given in payment for a five-cent purchase, $5 went on the register. The owner returned late that evening, looked at the appalling figures on the dial, then wired to the manufacturers:

 "Send me two more. I'll be rich in

IN MEMORIAM

My Dear Comrades—Every time taps are sounded for one of our number we wonder for whom they will sound next.

This time they have sounded for our very worthy and excellent Comrade William K. Dobbins. He enlisted in the service of his country at the beginning of the war and re-enlisted and served until its close.

He was a member of Co. F, 53d Ind. Vol. Inf. Made a good record as a soldier. Went home to be one of the best citizens, living a faithful and devoted life in all its relations.

He had made full preparations for the end and when it came it found him ready to answer the call and be at rest and peace forever. In his departure we have sustained a real loss, but he has secured an eternal gain.

"Servant of God and his country, well done,
Thy glorious warfare past,
The battle fought and victory won,
And thou art crowned at last."

Resolved, That we herein express our high appreciation of the life, character and service of our Comrade Dobbins and that we present a copy of this to his family and to the paper for publication.

J. H. HENRY,
R. TAYLOR,

K. OF P. MINSTREL AND VAUDEVILLE A HUGE SUCCESS

A strictly professional entertainment by amateurs greatly pleased a good-sized audience at the K. P. hall, Tropic, Tuesday evening. Many home talent minstrel shows lack life, but last night's entertainment was full of "pep" and of first quality from start to finish.

The curtain went up on an elaborate minstrel setting with the following caste:

Interlocutor—W. J. Hibbert in company with Wm. Hunter, Harry Hayward, Guy Maxwell, Landon Haynes, Herbert Crane, M. J. Edwards, Ed. Moniot, Jamie Shea, Will Dutton, George Peck.

Introducing specialties by Joe V. Griffin, Jack Stathem, Harry Hayward, Jamie Shea, Wm. Hunter, Ed. Moniot.

This part of the program gave each member of the caste a chance to star and real stars they proved to be; and the specialties by Joe Griffin, Jack Stathem, Harry Hayward, Jamie Shea, Wm. Hunter and Ed. Moniot were well received.

The olio started with tricks and illusions by W. J. Hibbert. Mr. Hibbert is a real master of magic and certainly mystified all present with his clever sleight of hand tricks.

Another headline act was entitled "Motion Harmony" by Wm. C. Wattles, who proved himself an excellent juggler of illuminated Indian clubs and swords.

As for comedy there was a great abundance furnished in the sketch, "Fun in a Barber Shop," by Jack Stathem and Ed. Shipman and the laughable afterpiece, "The Bored Meeting," with setting in the council chamber of the Dusenberry Corners Board of Aldermen and the following caste:

Members of the Board—Hiram Crabtree, George Dodson; Jacob Grossmeyer, A. J. Van Wie; Obadiah Witherspoon, George Peck; Sol. Shemansky, M. Berman; Michael Houlihan, Joe V. Griffin. Constable—Guy Maxwell; I. Breeze, speeder—M. J. Edwards; Mrs. Willoughby—Mrs. A. J. Van Wie; Lucullus Mac Elpatrick—Noble Ripley; Vincent Astorbilt—Harry Hayward; the Dusenberry band—Berna Martin, Levert Goddard, Ed. Moniot, L. C. Haynes; B. Brief, an attorney—Owen Rhodes.

To properly appreciate the afterpiece one would have to see M. Berman as Sol. Shemansky and hear the Dusenberry band. The show will be repeated this evening.

WORLD CHAMPION SKI JUMPER EXPECTS TO BREAK HIS OWN RECORD

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo., Feb. 28.—With Ragnar Omtvedt, present holder of the world's record; Lars and Anders Haugen of Chippewa Falls, Wis.; Henry Hall of Michigan, and other famous ski jumpers on the ground to participate in the professional contests, the Steamboat Springs fourth annual ski tournament opens here tomorrow.

Omtvedt, who established the world's record for ski jumping—192 feet, 9 inches—over this course a year ago, declares there is no course in America, nor has he seen one in Europe which permits speed equal to the Colorado course. He expects to break his own record of last year when he goes on the course in the professional events scheduled for Friday.

The Steamboat Springs course this year will be 90 feet long, with a forty-eight per cent incline and a vertical drop of 106 feet where the jumping takes place.

Newspapers in California have recently published a considerable amount of misinformation about the relation of mud to pneumonia, according to the State Board of Health, which says that as a matter of fact, tracking mud into a dwelling house has about as much to do with pneumonia as with the canals on Mars.

There has been a great improvement in county hospitals throughout California during the past few years, particularly in those counties having large populations. The new county hospital in San Francisco, recently completed, is as well equipped as any hospital. The Los Angeles County hospital is one of the largest of its kind in the United States and the most excellent equipment and service are provided.

Analysis of statistics on deaths of infants under one year of age published by the Federal Census Bureau, the latest figures available from detailed census reports being for the calendar year 1914, indicates that about one-sixth of all deaths of infants occur immediately after birth, or in the very first day of life, altogether one-third in only the first week of existence, and approximately one-half when less than one month old.

The State Board of Health is circulating two moving picture films. One deals with mosquito control work and urges the formation of mosquito abatement districts. The other illustrates the need for pasteurization of public milk supplies. The board has also placed its Monthly Bulletin, enclosed in leather folders, on trains and boats so that travelers will have a chance to learn of public health protection in California.

The Twenty-fourth Biennial Report of the State Board of Health shows that during the biennial period the Bureau of Foods and Drugs has destroyed more than a million pounds of food unfit for human consumption. It has referred not less than 461 cases to district attorneys during the year ending June 30, 1916, the fines imposed amounting to more than six thousand dollars. Not less than 73 special investigations of epidemics were made by the bureau of communicable diseases during the biennial period.

Twenty-one cities of the state have taken advantage of the service of the State Bureau of Engineering, organized in August, 1915, and more are being constantly added to the list. This bureau is also doing a large amount of field work in the investigation of sewage disposal and water supplies, and in the prevention of stream pollution and abatement of nuisances. In addition, it is giving a large amount of advice on rural sewage disposal, water supplies, summer resort sanitation and similar problems that are met by the individual rather than by the municipal authority.

Suit for the delivery of a crop of Lima beans not yet planted has been filed in which the J. M. Waterman selling agency at Oxnard is seeking an order restraining D. W. Emmett, a bean rancher, from selling his crop, estimated at 9000 sacks, to anyone other than the Waterman agency. The outcome will be watched with interest by Ventura county ranchers who within the past few months have contracted their 1917 crop of Limas at prices which, while seemingly high at the time, are considerably less than what is being paid at present.

Residents of Zelzah, Chatsworth Park and the west end of San Fernando valley are starting a move for a valley cemetery. At a recent meeting it was pointed out that there is no cemetery in the valley where any care is given the property. The nearest one is at Tropic and a number of valley residents have purchased lots there, but it is not centrally located as regards residents of those sections. Morning-side cemetery near San Fernando is an old place and is kept up to some extent, but the lack of water has been a handicap. Now that the aqueduct water is available it is possible that efforts will be made to improve it.

The health departments of San Diego and Richmond have adopted methods for securing more complete registration of births. Dr. A. E. Banks, Health Officer at San Diego, and Dr. Chas. R. Blake, Health Officer at Richmond, have arranged to provide the parents of newly born infants with a certificate of birth registration, upon which is given the reference to the index number in the records of the department. On the certificate issued in San Diego, the following statement is made: "The record of this birth may be used to prove citizenship or furnish proof of age for entering or leaving school, securing working permit or marriage license, holding public office, securing passports, adjusting insurance, inheriting money or property, and securing other financial benefits."

MALARIA INHERITANCE OF "GOLD DAYS"

Malaria was introduced into California in the "early fifties," during the days of the mad scramble for gold, and it has been with us ever since. In some sections of California it probably causes the loss of more days' wages than any other one factor. During 1916 nearly one thousand cases of the disease were reported to the California State Board of Health. This is a small fraction of the total number of cases in the state. Most cases do not come to the attention of physicians. In malaria infected districts, chills and fever are regarded about the same as common colds. Many a community is not aware of the fact that its commercial backwardness may be due to the large number of cases of malaria within its borders. For these reasons, malaria in California should be thoroughly investigated. If California is to be rid of this disease, active measures of control should be applied as soon as possible in every infected community in the state.—Monthly Bulletin State Board of Health.

LITTLE TUBERCULOSIS IN SMALL DAIRY HERDS

According to a report of Dr. Charles Keane, State Veterinarian, tuberculosis is much more prevalent among cows in the large dairies than in the smaller dairies. During the first three months of the enforcement of the tuberculin testing provisions of the new law, out of 503 herds, each containing ten or fewer animals, 430 herds were found to be entirely free from tuberculosis. In 198 herds containing ten or more animals, 51 herds were entirely free from the disease. This report should allay the fears of the small dairymen of the state, who, at the time the milk bill passed the legislature, were certain that the new law would drive them out of business. Bovine tuberculosis, apparently, is a much more serious problem for the owner of large herds of dairy cattle than it is for the owner of small herds. The pasteurization provisions of the law, however, enable the large producer to market his milk without difficulty.

AMERICAN THIFTLESSNESS

At the educational convention now being held in Kansas city, Mr. S. W. Straus voiced the serious condition faced by the United States on account of the heavy burdens placed upon the people by the war abroad and by the proverbial thiftlessness of the rank and file of our population. Mr. Straus said:

"While it is true that we as a nation are prosperous, it is equally incontrovertible that as individuals we are profligate. In this country the records of the Surrogate Courts, for example, show that $2 out of every 100 men who die leave no income producing estates. Only 3 per cent leave estates amounting to $10,000 or more. Out of every 100 women who are left widows, only 18 are in good or comfortable circumstances, 48 are obliged to go to work, and 35 are left either in absolute want or are, to a great extent, objects of charity.

"At the present time, and for several years we have been going through a period of abnormal prices for commodities. The American housewife to-day is paying her grocer and her butcher prices that are reminiscent of the days of the civil war, but it is not specifically the high cost of living that affords cause for alarm. The seriousness of the situation lies in those facts that make the cost of living high, and this is to a great extent thiftlessness. The European war, which is the most prodigious example of wastefulness in the history of the world, is responsible to a great extent for the untoward conditions in America. Values running far into the billions have been wiped out in the unhappy lands across the sea and the end is not yet in sight. All humanity must help share the burden of this waste. Every citizen in America to-day is helping to pay this giant's tax. And, what is more distressing, there will be no letup with the dawn of peace. The enormous war bills of Europe will place a load upon the citizens of America for many years to come. At the same time we have as an additional burden the thiftlessness of our own people, and this is proverbial. We are the Belshazzar of all nations. We have for generations been seated at the Babylonian feast of plenty. But the hand has written upon the wall. Unless we take warning we will suffer the fate of that ancient city, which for 2000 years ruled the world with undisputed sway."

HIS CHEERFUL RECEPTION

A Washington newspaper man was once a member of congress from an Ohio district. He is not an orator and rarely makes a speech. When he was running for congress he got word that he must come to a small town on the edge of his district to attend a meeting. A famous spell-binder had been secured, and the candidate was expected to be there to shake hands and show himself.

When he arrived at the village he was horror stricken to find that the speaker of the occasion had missed his train and would not be there. "Come right up to the hall," said the chairman of the delegation that met him. "There's a big crowd there and they are anxious to hear some talking."

The candidate went in fear and trembling. He was introduced and talked for fifteen minutes. He started to sit down, but the chairman motioned him to continue. He went on for another quarter of an hour and by that time had told all he knew or ever expected to know that was of interest to his audience.

Then he dropped into his chair. The man who was presiding came cheerfully forward and said: "We have heard our candidate. Now, if there is any one present who can make a speech we shall be glad to hear him."—Youth's Companion.

NATIONAL ORANGE DAY

With the approach of National Orange Day, which falls this year on Saturday, March 10th, it is announced through the offices of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange that during the past twelve months the American public consumed 5,760,000,000 oranges. Had these oranges been distributed equally among the population of the country, every family in the United States would have consumed two dozen oranges per month. As it was, the distribution was of such uniformity as to supply every nook and corner of the United States and Canada so thoroughly that there was no need for anyone to go without his allowance of oranges unless he chose to so deprive himself.

LOOKING IT UP

He was that type of genteel beggar that "puts up a front," as the fellows say. His face had more tears in it than a cemetery and he was just getting ready to tell his down and outer's tale when the man at the desk reached into a drawer and brought forth a dictionary, placing it in front of the appealing one.

"What do you want—sympathy?" the man at the desk asked.

"Yes, sympathy," was the half sobbed reply.

"Look in S for it. I saw it there the other day."

The sympathy chaser grunted and headed for the door. He wasn't looking for work, just sympathy—in the form of a piece of loose change.—Indianapolis News.

FAMOUS TALKERS

The art of conversation was not always possessed by literary men. Coleridge and Macaulay were said to absorb so much time on an interesting subject that they were generally regarded as bores, whereas Robert Browning, with all his cumbersome poetry, was fascinating in his talk.

SOMETHING IN THE FILLING

"Do you know you can tell a man's disposition by his teeth?" asked the girl who believes in signs, bumps and palm reading.

"How interesting!" said her companion, who did not believe in anything. "Then Jack must have a golden disposition."

DEWEY

Gathered to his fathers, carrying all the well-earned honors a grateful people could bestow, near to the date when that same grateful people will join in creating a tidal wave of patriotism observing the anniversary of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln and when President Wilson, Congress and people have found the common "melting pot" for the American citizen, I reprint a tribute to Dewey written some years ago, not expecting to add any additional luster to his fame, but a lesson may be discovered herein worth note and observance. This article appeared June, 1899, and was extensively copied:

AS TO DEWEY

The Stalwart Sam Parker Has a Word or Two to Say

Editor Peoria Star: In your issue of June 1 I find an editorial under the title "Dewey," in which you consign to the bastinado and death any one who would dare raise his voice against a subscription to give the gallant commander a residence, which he does not need, and thrust it on him when he does not want it.

It may be foolhardy in me to brave the terrors you thus invoke editorially, but I will take the chances, knowing your inability to carry out your inquisitorial punishment, and say, that while not yielding to anyone in estimate of the services rendered by the commander of our Asiatic squadron, and eager as any to put the bay and laurel on the brow of bravery, manifested on land or sea by our soldiers or sailors, I must register a protest against the too common custom of the wealthy classes rushing to the front with large donations to advertise their wealth in a way of show and ostentation—more for these reasons than for any unusual love for bravery or patriotism they were ever supposed to possess or had ever previously manifested and then lash editorially the common mortals who have nothing to give, because they do not unite in a national chorus: "Great are the donors; great is Dewey."

Is there not a wide margin on which to base other lines of thought than that suggested in an inordinate love for and display of wealth? Is Dewey poor? If so, start a 25-cent subscription for his benefit, as that rate would be about right to strike the term "popular subscription."

But everybody knows Dewey is not a mendicant. Possibly he may not be wealthy, but he comes from thrifty New England stock, and has, no doubt, saved up something. For forty years he has enjoyed a living salary; while at the expense of the government he was learning to do exactly what he did do at Manila. His income now is princely. He has had all the honors that the people through congress and the president can pile upon him. He has the thanks of every loyal citizen in the land or under the flag. He is a modest man, modesty and worth meeting at their best in his sturdy New England person. He but performed his duty—nothing more—and no man can do more. He is coming home to rest and visit, and the "parade" and "circus" and "banquet" ($100 per plate) that ostentation and wealth are preparing for him disturbs the soul of the gallant Dewey; more than did the Spanish fleet he so quickly disposed of or all that could come against him in the many-island portion of the New United States.

In our inordinate love for show and display, so readily proposed by the wealthy class, we are aping aristocracy, the product of governments not in harmony with our own. We force bestowments on unwilling recipients; not so much out of great admiration for them, but more often for coupling pigmies with giants, wealth being in many cases the only method by which the pigmies could "catch on."

By this process we often exalt the individual, losing sight entirely of the processes and evolutions beneath that thrust men up and out. Grant was the product of the grandest army the world ever saw. Dewey is the product of the best sailor soldiery of the world. Away down in the battleship's heart of fire were firemen roasting while they fed with black diamonds the insatiate stomachs of the furnaces, while her decks were patrolled by men as brave as her commander, and the guns that thundered out over Manila bay resounding around the globe, were sighted and fired by men whose hearts were as destitute of fear as they were full of patriotism. These, with the builders of the ships and guns, made Dewey a possibility. And the honors (and the money, too) ought to be distributed.

Pensions, you say. Yes, for the common soldier and sailor. Possibly $8 per month if disabled. More if he is killed outright and leaves a destitute family, some times. Is it not mockery of common misery to "banquet" at $100 per plate in the presence of multitudes to whom a 10-cent meal would be a feast? Is it right to thrust a half million honor on a man who does not want it (or if he is able to buy) while thousands of soldiers and sailors are homeless and shelterless? And finally, is it not wrong, in a republican form of government, "of the people, by the people and for the people," to thus parade wealth and its improper uses before the common people already

HER FAME

The Duchess of Westminster has the reputation of being the wittiest woman in society. The duchess tells an excellent story about an ex-shah of Persia who was very fond of paying compliments to English ladies.

When the Duchess of Westminster was presented he greeted her heartily. "I have heard much about you," he said. "Your worthy name is well known even in my country."

The duchess was surprised at first, then a light dawned upon her. "Gracious me, I do believe he mistakes me for Westminster abbey!" she said. What was more, she was right.
