GREETING

AMPTON ACCESSION

IN extending a cordial greeting to the fifty-sixth annual session of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, which assembles in the Capital City of the State in response to the earnest invitation extended one year ago by the Mayor, the City Council, the Chamber of Commerce and the Odd Fellows of Sacramento, it may not be inappropriate to briefly relate early incidents which linked the name of Sacramento with the history of the three-link fraternity on the Pacific Coast.

There is abundant evidence that there were quite a number of Odd Fellows in California prior to the arrival of even the vanguard of the gold-seekers, and at least one well authenticated attempt was made to plant the banner of the fraternity near the Golden Gate a year before the discovery of gold at Coloma.

On December 4, 1847, an advertisement, signed "Many Odd Fellows," appeared in the California Star, a pioneer newspaper of San Francisco, saying, "The friends of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows are respectfully invited to attend a meeting of the Order on Tuesday evening next, at the Portsmouth House."

In response to that call, about a dozen Odd Fellows, who had learned the lessons of the fraternity in the Eastern States, assembled at the time and place suggested, and, although they had no charter or dispensation from the Grand Lodge of the United States authorizing them so to do, they proceeded to organize a lodge and engage in the beneficent and charitable work of Odd Fellowship. Past Grand Master Charles N. Fox, in an article written for the "Official History of Odd Fellowship," says:

"There is no positive proof that this lodge ever attempted to initiate or confer degrees, but it provided itself with books and regalia, and en-part of 1848 another lodge was instituted, "and upon this was conferred the first dispensation enjoyed by any fraternal association in California. But this dispensation was irregular, and the lodge was not properly instituted." Its records having also been destroyed by fire, little is known concerning its membership or work.

However, the first effective work of great moment accomplished by Odd Fellows, as such, in California, was at Sacramento. To give a correct idea of the condition then existing in what is now the Capital of the State, and which necessitated prompt and energetic action, we quote the following from the graphic pen of Bro. John F. Morse, who was Grand Master of the jurisdiction in 1853-4:

"From the first of August, 1849, the deluging tides of immigration began to roll into the city of San Francisco their hundreds and thousands daily; not men made robust and hearty by a comfortable sea voyage, but poor, miserable beings, so famished and filthy, so saturated by scorbutic diseases, so depressed and despondent in spirit as to make them the easy prey of disease and death, when they had expected naught but health and fortune. Thus did the mining adventurers pour into San Francisco, nine-tenths of whom for a few months took immediate passage for Sacramento.

"However debilitated they might be, however penniless and destitute, this city, the great focus of mining news, the nearest trading point for the mines situated upon a navigable stream, was the only place that men could think of stopping at for recuperative purposes. Hence, from Cape Horn, from all the Isthmian routes, from Asiatic seaports and from the islands of the Pacific, men of the most impoverished health were converging at Sacramento.

"But these were not the only sources of difficulty to Sacramento in 1849. At the same time that the scurvy-ridden subjects of the ocean began to concentrate among us, there was another more terrible train of scorbutic sufferers coming in from the overland roads, so exhausted in strength and so worn out with the calamities of the journey as to be but barely able to reach the Valley City.

"From these sources, Sacramento became a very lazar house of disease, suffering and death. It must be remembered that in proportion as these scenes began to accumulate, just in such proportion did men seem to grow indifferent to the appeals of suffering and the dictates of benevolence. The more urgent and importunate the miseries and beseeching cries of the sick and destitute, the more obdurate, despotic and terrible became the reign of cupidity. Everything seemed vocal with the assurance that men came to California to make money, not to devote themselves to a useless waste of time in procuring bread and raiment for the dependent, in watching over and taking care of the sick, or in the burying of the dead. * * * The first and most effective relief, the first organized efforts to 'visit the sick, relieve the distressed and bury the dead' were made by the Fraternity of Odd Fellows. The first lights of effective charity that gleamed upon the despairing visions of hundreds of the sick and dying, ascended from the 'altar fires' of this glorious brotherhood, which the presiding genius of the institution had kindled."

On the morning of August 20, 1849, General A. M. Winn, formerly of Tennessee, but then a leading business man of the new city, had the following notice printed in handbill form and scattered throughout the town:

"I. O. O. F.—The Odd Fellows of Sacramento City will meet at the store of Winn, Baker & McGhee, on Third street, between J and K, this evening, August 20th, at 8 o'clock."

That evening the members of the Order met, in accordance with the notice, and were called to order by B. F. Hastings of Warren Lodge, No. 3, Vicksburg, Miss., and, on motion, Gen. A. M. Winn was called to the chair, and he explained the objects of the meeting as follows:

"BROTHERS: You are assembled under most extraordinary circumstances—we have not the power to work as a lodge, and yet the immense amount of suffering among the members of the Order requires our most active benevolence in carrying out the great principles taught us at the altar of Odd Fellowship. We have met for the purpose of finding out who of our citizens are Odd Fellows, and to form an association for the relief of sick and distressed brothers.

"A dreadful calamity has overtaken us—hundreds are lying sick, rolled in their filthy blankets, without wife, children or friends to nurse them while sick, or bury them when dead. We who have health and means should be liberal to those in distress, as long as in our power. Let us do all we can, without a violation of the principles of the Order"

Daniel McClaren was chosen Secretary, and B. F. Hastings offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That we will form an Association of Odd Fellows in Sacramento City, for the relief of the distressed members of the Order.

"Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to draft rules and regulations for our government.

"Resolved, That a Committee of Relief be now appointed, whose duty it shall be to collect by voluntary contributions from members of the Order an amount sufficient to relieve the distressed and bury the dead, until further provisions are made by the Association."

The Chair appointed as Committee on Rules and Regulations, Bros. B. F. Hastings, Daniel McLaren and Joseph C. Derby, and, on motion, the Chair was added to the committee.

On the Relief Committee the Chair appointed E. K. Gallup, Dennis Rideout, Isaac H. Norris, Samuel McNulty and James B. Cunningham.

The meeting then adjourned till the 24th of August at 8 p. m., when the members of the Order met pursuant to adjournment, A. M. Winn in the Chair. The Committee on Constitution, Rules and Regulations reported the following:

CONSTITUTION.

- 1st. The name shall be the "Sacramento Odd Fellows Association."
- 2d. Its objects, to relieve the distressed and bury the dead.
- 3d. Its officers shall be a President, Vice-

GROVE L. JOHNSON, Grand Warden

H. D. RICHARDSON, Grand Secretary

President, Secretary and Treasurer, who shall hold their offices one year and until their successors are elected, and shall perform the duties incident to their offices, as the Association may require.

The by-laws adopted at that time have been lost--were probably destroyed in the floods or fires that devastated the city in the early days, but the following record of the transactions of the meeting found its way into print in 1856:

"On motion, the Constitution and By-Laws were adopted, and the names of the following persons were registered as members of the Association: A. M. Winn, B. F. Hastings, Daniel McLaren, E. Meconekin, James A. Myer, Henry E. Robinson, Israel S. Chase, John Seymour, James A. Cunningham, J. Brown, Thos. Banister, M. E. Hedrick, John Taylor, O. C. Osborne, Joseph B. Adams, Samuel Smith, Ephraim Martin, Samuel McNulty, J. C. Stambaugh, W. F. Dietz, H. R. Bradway, E. S. Elsworth, James A. Reed, John H. Flender, A.

Barker, August F. Taylor, Wm. Kesey, Benjamin Carter, D. O. Mills, C. E. Warren, Woodberry Masters, E. H. Hall, L. A. Booth, A. C. Watson, W. D. Drake, J. C. Jones, D. C. Ashcraft, R. G. Random, Wm. P. Sawyer, J. R. Welden, E. K. Gallup, John Ledger, C. J. Hendrake, Robert Hammet, R. G. Slaughter, C. F. Hart, Gilbert L. Sees, Henry Bates, J. O. Derby, Isaac N. Norris, H. S. Merrill, Wm. Glaskin, Edward E. Hunter.

On motion, the Association proceeded to elect officers, which resulted as follows: A. M. Winn, President; Edward E. Hunter, Vice-President; Daniel McLaren, Secretary; E. K. Gallup, Treasurer.

Several members of the Order were reported sick and committees were appointed to attend them. The Committee on Relief was directed to report all cases of sickness or distress to the President.

The President was vested with full power to do whatever he deemed necessary for the good of the Association or the members of the Order. The Secretary was directed to receive all moneys and pay the same to the Treasurer. The Treasurer was directed to receive all moneys from the Secretary and disburse the same on the warrant of the President, countersigned and numbered by the Secretary.

The admission fee was fixed at $5.00.

It was ordered that the regular meetings should be held every Friday evening at the President's office, on Third street, between J and K.

The foregoing are the only authenticated proceedings of this self-sacrificing and noble band of brothers that has been handed down to us, the record book having been lost in the flood of January, 1850. But from chronicles and traditions of the time it is learned that the membership performed with fidelity their self-assumed labors of love and contributed with unstinted hand the means necessary to bear the heavy expense entailed. The Association met regularly and the cases of sickness, distress and penury multiplied until it became necessary to add every member of the Association to the Relief Committee; their labors were incessant; they frequently became ill from over-exertion, and some contracted fatal contagion from brothers whose suffering they sought to alleviate. Reports were made to the President day and night, and he proved a most worthy executive of as noble a band of Odd Fellows as ever took the obligations of the fraternity. Many would thrill the heart of every lover of humanity, an immense and immeasurable amount of relief was dispensed. But this was not sufficient to dissipate the increasing calamity. Men still sickened and died without assistance; men were still buried in the filth of an unattended sickness, and frequently without the benefit of being sewed up in

of them left their indelible impress upon the political, educational and industrial history of the State.

Past Grand Master Morse, writing of the work accomplished by those pioneer Odd Fellows, said:

“From this Association, the history of which a blanket for interment. Rough pine coffins ranged from $60.00 to $150.00, and it was not to be expected that in the midst of such distress and poverty coffins could always be procured. This Association spent thousands of dollars for coffins alone, and when General Winn became the executive officer of the city government, no man was refused a coffin burial."

This Association maintained its existence and continued to "visit the sick, relieve the distressed and bury the dead" until the organization of Sacramento Lodge, No. 2, which was instituted on January 28, 1851, by Past Grand James Smiley, acting as Deputy Grand Sire.

Since that time there have been instituted in Sacramento City five more lodges—Eureka, No. 4; El Dorado, No. 8; Capitol, No. 87; Schiller, No.

The above is a true picture of the I. O. O. F. bluff across the Feather River from Oroville. It is hard to surpass. There are now domiciled here, who are provided with all the necessary improvements have been made in the Home department adding to the comfort of the residents. Concerning their report to the Grand Lodge in 1907, "The health is remarkable. * * * The average age of those was 84 years; only five died who were under the ag

The average age of five of them was only three who were under the age of 70 years."

Within the city and county we have ten Rebekah Lodges—Rising Star, No. 8; Florin, No. 20; Germania, No. 31; Rei, No. 132; Elk Grove, No. 136; Capital City, No. 160; Fedora, No. 166; Hogate, No. 294, and Leota, No. 301. All of these are in a flourishing condition.

The Encampment branch of the Order is represented by four energetic and active subordinates—Pacific, No. 2; Folsom, No. 24; Occidental, No. 42, and Galt, No. 65.

The Grand Lodge of California has honored
