IRENE DWEN ANDREWS

AN ENGLISH-IRISH DICTIONARY:

INTENDED

FOR THE USE OF STUDENTS OF THE IRISH LANGUAGE,

AND

FOR THOSE WHO WISH TO TRANSLATE THEIR ENGLISH THOUGHTS, OR THE WORKS OF
OTHERS, INTO LANGUAGE INTELLIGIBLE TO THE PRESENT IRISH-SPEAKING INHABITANTS OF IRELAND.

BY

DANIEL FOLEY, B. D.,

PREBENDARY OF KILBRAGH, CASHEL;

AND PROFESSOR OF IRISH IN THE UNIVERSITY OF DUBLIN.

DUBLIN :

WILLIAM CURRY AND COMPANY,

BOOKSELLERS TO THE QUEEN,

1855.

DUBLIN :
Printed at the University Press,
BY M. H. GILL.

P R E F A C E .

IN committing this work to the press and the public,—the result of much labour and anxiety,—I may profess, without presumption, that my first object is the good of my Irish-speaking countrymen, and the glory of God thereby. I thought it necessary that I should have steadily in view to afford the means, to those unaccustomed to speak Irish from their youth, of speaking and writing in a manner intelligible to the people as they at present use and understand their own language. Having this object before me, I had no temptation to comply with that absurd humour for antiquity which would have us go back even in our orthography to a period which had no standard, and nothing but diversity itself.

I have not taken all the words in Johnson's English Dictionary, for this would make the book too expensive: but, as a general rule, I have omitted only such as are of unusual occurrence in the English language, and therefore unnecessary for intercourse with the peasantry of Ireland.

I have used some Irish words of English origin that are in common use among the people, and because the English and every other language did and does likewise.

There is a great diversity of spelling among Irish scholars, as was the case with the English before Dr. Johnson's time, and is to some extent still: to remedy this I have done all in my power to adopt a uniform spelling. The changes I had to make from the prevailing confusion in the indiscriminate use of the terminations ar and ur, air and uir, ea and eu; of final letters, such as o and u, &c., are made upon principles which I have explained and shall explain to the Students attending my Irish classes in College, whose information is my first care, and which, I hope, will be satisfactory generally to persons capable of forming a candid judgment.

I believe I have taken as much pains, and as effectually as any other person, to avoid errors of the press, in the midst of many other important engagements; but experience convinces me that, particularly in the circumstances of the Irish language, the difficulty of attaining accuracy is so great, some such, and some of a graver kind, may still be found. It is a comfort to be entirely satisfied, as I am, that the work will certainly serve the class of learners, and contribute to the object I have in view.

I am deeply indebted to the Irish Society, by whose encouragement I was enabled to undertake the work, for affording me the aid of one of my own College pupils—a Bedell Scholar—to labour with me so long as I required his assistance in the details. And I have also gratefully to acknowledge from the Board of Trinity College a liberal grant towards the expenses of its publication.

In now sending it forth, I bow my knees for that blessing from above without which it cannot prosper, in humble hope that I may be found to have thus done something in the cause of Ireland—the land of my birth and best affections.

DANIEL FOLEY.
