first state, the pure dry point work, with burr; presque unique 1

. This curious and interesting portrait has been very differently judged by two of the greatest connoisseurs of our age. Bartsch, who has seen an impression of the first state, but cut, describes it amongst the works of artists who imitated the manner of Rembrandt (II. 108, 25), and he adds, "Il est exécuté avec beaucoup de facilité et d'une pointe extrêmement délicate," while Claussin, from an impression of the third state, calls it, "Bien de la main de Livens, quoique très médiocre." It is, in fact, one of the finest productions of the master, but the plate has been spoilt at a later period, by unskilful hands. The attribution of the likeness to Robert South, a centenarian, is rendered likely enough by an impression in the Imperial collection at Vienna, on which Theodore Matham, a contemporary of the artist, and who published several of his plates, has written, "Joannes Livius fecit. Robert South, Anglais, agé 112 ans." In England it is considered by some as a portrait of Sir Kenelm Digby. On the margin of the present impression is written, by an old hand, "Jacques Pern, Musicien du Roy d'Angleterre."

- 1042 — THE SAME

NIELLO PLATE.

- 1189 — THE ADORATION OF THE MAGI. Engraved on silver, and the lines filled out. The composition is exactly similar to that figured by Cicognara (101), and described by Passavant (474), with a few differences in minor details: there are no camels to be seen on the heights in the distance; the inscription on the band the angels are holding is only "GLORIA IN EXCELSIS," &c. We cannot trace any impression from it. Height 96 mm., breadth 66 mm. 1

SIEGEN (LUDWIG VAN).

- 1968 — AMELIA ELIZABETHA D. G. HASSIAE LANDGRAVIA, 1643
this print is really dated 1642, but issued only in the year after, and the last I of the date added in ink, extremely rare 1
- 1969 — AMELIA ELIZABETH LANDGRAVINE OF HESSE, after the same picture, in a small circle entirely engraved with the dry point, and the flesh of the face and the neck stippled in

THE SAME PLATE

much of the dry point work worn off, and the shadows and background strengthened by a grain produced by means of the punch or roller

- * * * This appears to be the artist's first attempt in mezzotinto scraping, and to have led to his discovery of the art.
It agrees with Count Laborde's supposition (p. 71):—
"Louis de Siegen était au fait de toutes les manières de graver et comprenait l'importance de sa découverte.

Malheureusement il voulait encore garder son secret, et c'est cette réserve qui nous empêche de connaître par quelle suite d'essais il était arrivé à ce nouveau procédé. Mais cette suite d'essais a dû exister; on n'arrive pas à exécuter pareille gravure sans s'être essayé en plus petit et de différentes manières; il doit s'être conservé quelques fragments de cette première tentative, mais où les trouver ? ”
