From the N. Y. Com Adv. of Nov. 29. Congress.—The first session of the twenty-forward. As regards the Peerage in this country it is probable that the minister is a project will third Congress, will commence at Washington, on Monday next. The members have so generally passed on to the capital, that no doubt exists of there being not only a quorum, but a fulk house on the first day. It is possible there may be some struggle for the Speaker's chair—not between the Juckson party and the opposition, as such, but on the Tariff Question. Mr. Stevenson's claims to a reclection, we perceive, are strongly urged by the Richmond Enquirer. But it so happens that he has hitherto occupied that station by the force of party discipline alone, for he has never given natisfaction as all the amendments proposed by the adopted—as all the amendments proposed by the opposite party have been thrown out by very large majorities. So that as C. Perrier says—if they cannot have that which is best, they must by to get that which comes neurost to it.

We have no news from the north. If, now, the Tariff men should rally on a candidate, favorable to their views, rejecting the discipline of prity, they could doubtless carry their man. Gen. Rost is spoken of as the gentleman who may possibly be selected as such candidate. As a marliamentary testinion, he has four represents the a parliamentary tactician, he has few superiors—being most thoroughly versed in all the complicated says the Philadelphia Chronicle, we inserted a pa-graph, mentioning a second attempt at burgiary on a house in Chesnut street, made the recogning Thursday by two individuals, one of whom was shot and badly wounded with a horse pistol. The place of his concealment was traced by his blood on the following morning. On Saturday evening, about 9 o'clock, the neighborhood was alarmed by the repeated discharges of fire arms, which proved to be a third attack on the ague holdie, made, it appears, not with the instantion to rob, but to revenge and murder. A knocking was heard at the door of the back kitchen; accompanied by frequent calls upon the servanteby name, to "hurry and open the door." The servant proceeded to do so—but carried with him a brace of pistols, previously prepared. He had withdrawn two belts, and was in the act of opening the door, when the villain crying out, "blood for blood," discharged a pistol at his head—the whole blood, discharged a pistol at his head—the whole contents of the pistol consisting of large size shot, happaly but sarrowly escaped the intended victim, and lodged in the door. The fire was promptly returned, the invaded instantly sallied forth, and succeaningly discharged both pistols at the rapidly re-treasing foe, but, we presume, without success.

Adv.

A writer in a Boston paper has attacked the course token by the Secretary of the Treasury in approving the seizure, at the New Orleans Custom House, of the "liquid sugar." imported under the name of syrup. Our laws impose one duty on sugar, and another, and comparatively low duty on syrup. The article imported into New Orleans is supposed to be bugar fully men ulactived in the first place, and dubacquently dissolved in the first place, and dubacquently dissolved in the cr. If it may be imported upon payment of the duty on ayrup, it is evident that the intention of the law will be entirely feastratka, we have taken great pains to learn the particulars of the circumstances which led to their liberation, and we find that a communication' had been made by his Majesty's Minister at Washington, to his Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, by which it appears that the proceedings of those individuals have been distinctly disavoured by the Government of the State of Minister and Countenance by the General Government of the State of Minister, and a countenance by the General Government of the State of Minister, whose arowed object and desire is, as it is stated, to avoid any collision or disturbance of the existing state of things, until the intentions of both parties respecting the award of the King of the Netherlands should the fally known.

All that Mr. McLane handone, is to have it relieved to such a tribunar. The two questions whether the article is incredy dissolved augar, whether the article is incredy dissolved augar, and whether dissolved augar in the commercial acceptation is syrup, will now be determined, whether the article is incredy dissolved augar, and whether dissolved augar in the commercial acceptation is ayrup, will now be determined, whether the article is incredy dissolved augar, is any string but syrup, and consequently charge pleasure to direct them to be culled for.

We forbear making any comment upon the disavour of the State of Maine; their law authorizing the lection of officers at Madawaks, and under the question in a way of being settled. Evening Post.
