The Leuisiana of yest rday, contains in an editorial pr sing some amelierations, the following singular confession: The attempte made by a certain faction to obtain control of this press, and bend it to their own purposes, have had the effect to embarrace the arrangements necessary to the well ing of a newspaper, &c. &c."

Hew unfortunate that such attempts should have been succeasial! But we have before had occasion to exclaim—oh gold, how petent art thou! The die now however is cast: no contrition on the part of the Louisiana, will ever wash out the stain of apostacy. It has forfeited all claim to the confidence of the republican party, and if it now reap the common re-

The recent harsh measures resorted to by the governe of Martinique, to obtain a reparation for the insult offered to of Martinique, to obtain a reparation for the insult offered to France in the person of her consul, would at the first sight appear to be rather high handed, and an infringement of the flaw of nations: but when the matter is closely investigated, and when, the indignity is considered, an inclination to an inclination to change such an opinion cannot but be felt by all disposed to the sword of state. Having taken their respective placer, the natter in an impartial light. The satisfaction domains the patent of commission was read by the clerk of the han-manded was but trifling to the offence; the measures threatened were requisite to show the disposition to have the requital solicited, and had the governor of Cartingens been actuated by the honorable principles which he professed, there can be no doubt but that he would have complied with the propositions offered, and avoided responsibility by doing the justice which he must have been aware the honor of France rendered absolutely necessary. We find, however, no dispoattion to treat the matter in the becoming manner it most cortainly mented; the correspondence on the part of the offending party, though plausible, makes no allusion to the transaction nor offers any reparat on. It dwells incessantly upon the de fenceless state of the country; intimates a breach of goo!

The Governor of Martinique only demanded that the kicakle and his accomplices should be chastised, and we receat, that we can see no good cause why such satisfaction should not have been readily and willingly accorded.
