but the question to be considered is, what is the best remedy against a recurrence of those disasters? It is clear, that appealing to their cupidity, by offering rewards, even to the extent of 5000 Rs. has been unproductive of any satisfactory result.

Amongst the departures of yesterday, will be found that of Mr. Montrion and family to Calcutta by the ship Lord Gaderick. Mr. Montrion distinguished himself as a barrister in the Supreme Court, for several years past, and has left this Presidency, with kind wishes, and sanguine hopes for his success, entertained by his many European and native friends in Bombay.

Yesterday's Bombay Gazette, we perceive a complaint from the Editor, that his compositors have struck work; in consequence of which, he was unable to present his readers with the accustomed quantum of intelligence. As our contemporaries assign no reasons for the rebellion of his sable subjects, we conclude that their secession from their daily labours, is attributable to their erratic propensities; and that after disporting themselves at Breach Candy or some other favorite locality, they will betake themselves once more to the compositors desk.

Almost every Indian paper has transferred into its columns, passages from an article in the Dublin Monthly Magazine for January, entitled "Humble Origin of eminent Lawyers." It is curious how sensitive lawyers are concerning their origin. As they grow into eminence—partly from the connexions which they form, and partly from the prejudices which are the result of the English Common Law, but more in their inclinations, and would fain persuade people that they are the magnates of the land. Ask a successful lawyer any question relating to his ancestry, and he will tell you the number of persons who have risen by the law from low fortunes, to the very highest places in the state, is extraordinary. The present Attorney-General of England (Sir F. Pollock) is the son of a butcher, and a shopkeeper; and Sir Francis Bouverie, at Clarington-Cross, now kept by the Messrs. Luff, belonged to Pollock's race, who disposed of his business to its present proprietors. The father of Sir William Follet (C. B. Attorney-General) still kept a shop, and was a cooper; and Sir William Follet, the Queen's Bench in England, is the son of a Yorkshire horse-dealer. The Chancellor of Ireland (Sugden) is the son of a butcher, and a shopkeeper; and Sir Francis Bouverie, at Clarington-Cross, now kept by the Messrs. Luff, belonged to Pollock's race, who disposed of his business to its present proprietors.

We notice the above extract, because we feel it to be both illiberal and unjust. Some of the first names of past and present statesmen and lawyers, are here paraded by the writer, under one category, as "sensitive people concerning their origin," and "fain to persuade, among the magnates of the land." If the writer intended to controvert their right and title to be so associated, he has but very clumsily performed his task, when referring to such instances as Pollok, Follet, Williams, Sugden, Gurney, Lords Kenyon, Hardwick, Eldon, Tenterden, Langdale and Campbell, and Talford and Spinkie. We do not know what have been, and are, the associations of the writer, of what sphere in society he may form the ornament; but however that may be, we should wonder much, if such a question as "What was your father?" was ever put, or would be tolerated by, the civilized of any class or community. We can scarcely imagine, that any Irish or English Gentleman could be found so forgetful of what he owed himself, and so ignorant of the usages and observances of society, as to ask Pollock, Follet, Talford or any of the noble Lords above enumerated, "What was your father?" It would appear, that the instances enumerated are of men who have proved by their success over many competitors, the possession of superior intellect; such superiority would enable them, without much difficulty, to arrive at the conclusion, that it would be at the

THE COURIER.

FRIDAY, 1, JULY, 1842.

Our latest receipts are of the following dates: Calcutta 18th; Madras 21st; Agra Ukbar 18th; and Delhi Gazette 18th ultimo. We refer to our Extracts for what we considered interesting in their contents.

On Wednesday, at 12 o'clock, there was a Royal Salute from the Battery in honor of Her Majesty's coronation.

DISTURBANCE OF THE SHIP ADELAIDE BY FIRE.—The second attempt to fire the Adelaide has proved successful. On Monday morning, when preparing, full of cargo to sail for Siam, she was discovered to be on fire. Captain Oliver our indefatigable superintendent of the Indian Navy, and Mr. LeGeyt Chief Magistrate of Police repaired immediately to the Bunder, ready to render every assistance in their power. We are told, that the Captain was the only European belonging to the ship; great praise is due to him for foresight and prudence, in immediately running her ashore, where she was promptly scuttled, and soon after filling with the tide, ceased to be a cause of alarm to the other shipping in the harbour.

The frequency of fires among the shipping in the harbour, is naturally a subject of anxious enquiry, and grave investigation; but strange to say, although the Vansittart, the Carnwalis, and now the Adelaide, have within the last few days, been burnt before our eyes, no incendiary has been yet discovered, although large rewards have been offered for the apprehension of the miscreants who perpetrated these diabolical outrages. That there is an organization among the native seamen, on a grand scale, does not now appear to admit of a rational doubt;
