

GLENDALE'S WAYS

MESSENGERS CARRY GREETING OF GOOD FELLOWSHIP ON WINGED WHEELS

By Walt LeNoir Church, Glendale Red Cross committee on publicity.

Mercury was the messenger of the High Gods of ancient Athens. He wore his wings on his heels. But the messengers for good in Glendale, The Modern Athens, use winged wheels to carry their winged words of greeting, cheer and good fellowship to her Sister Cities of The Hills.

So was it late yestere'en when Corporal McFadden of Glendale Home Guards, piloted over hill and dale, along cross-cut, causeway and canyon, the fifty-fifty wing-wheeled airship that glides along the ground, being twin flyer to that "glittering new bauble" of Glendale's "Little Father."

But why "fifty-fifty?" Because that "Ford-Flivver" goes fifty miles the first hour, and fifty the second hour. These you are—"fifty-fifty." See?

On that memorable excursion by land and air—(yes, plenty of hot air all around that flyer—friction of swiftness, you know). As I was saying, when you butted in, that glider was carrying two messengers of the Glendale Red Cross, commissioned to tell sister cities news of the wonderful concerts to be given under the guidance of one Harrower, whose songs, original, adopted, adapted or selected, are far from harrowing. He is the Committee, Plenipotentiary, on entertainment, of Glendale Red Cross. (The fact that he is a medicus should not be held against him; for, in good sooth, there are worse cusses than the medicus-es; even in Glendale, The Beautiful.)

After the "Ford-Flivver" arose in front of Glendale Chamber of Commerce, "freighted with Oh," (cut it out), it lit first in Burbank, and Harrower made for the two banks and big store, while Church tackled the Burbank Review, which of course now displays the picturesque Glendale Red Cross concert cards (printed by The Glendale Evening News). Hypnotized by Harrower, the affable editor of the Review, will also publish such notices of said concert, that music lovers in Burbank and that section of the San Fernando Valley will "come o' rushin'" to Glendale May 7 and May 14, to those artistic Red Cross concerts, and, also, likewise, on May 26, to greet the great and only National Preparedness Train, concerning which Glendale's Secretary of Commerce has agreed to write a fiery article for early publication in said Burbank Review, whose circulation is like the beneficent winds of heaven.

If you doubt that ask Secretary Lawrence, of Burbank's Chamber of Commerce, the man who broke the record and several rival civic hearts getting the big Moreland Motor Truck plant in Burbank.

He knows personally every man, woman and child in Burbank; and how many of them he will send down to Glendale on said attractive dates, only the angels know—and they won't tell.

Alighting next in Casa Verdugo, the manager of Logan's Esespera de Verdugo succumbed to eloquence of the Red Cross Apollo, and became local sales agent for the tickets for the concerts that will content.

Meanwhile, Secretary G. C. C. was getting acquainted in the circulating library.

Again we ricocheted to Merchant Tom Pott's emporium in La Crescenta. He gave us the glad hand; and if any people remain in that lovely summer resort among the Glendale Hills, on said afore-mentioned dates, it will be only a few of the Home Guards to hold the fort against a possible incursion of Aztecs or Toltecs.

Do you know how quickly the real thing in Flivvers can bound from La Crescenta into Eagle Rock. It took us just exactly blank minutes, three and three quarter seconds; sun time.

Ask Corporal McFadden, who drills Squad I, Glendale Home Guards, and also is a magic seller of Ford Flivvers; therefore, like Caesar's wife ought to have been, he is "above suspicion."

Be that as it may, the Eagles of Eagle Rock are the very finest ever. Each one wears the Stars and Stripes over his or her heart, and a stranger would think he had struck a Red Cross Camp. Will they come to the concerts, and to greet the great National Preparedness Train?

Just ask the editor of the Sentinel, or any booster in the First National Bank, or in the Eagle Rock Drug Co's. mammoth store, which keeps such a complicated stock of unimpeachable goods, that Eagle-Rockites do not go to Los Angeles (Continued on Page 4)

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

CLASS PLAY RALLY—TENNIS TEAM TO GO TO SANTA MONICA SATURDAY

In one of the most enthusiastic assemblies held yet this year the Seniors Wednesday showed that they have not lost all their pep by holding a class play "rally" during the fourth period. Ed Seay, the president of the class, first gave a short speech on the necessity for the success of the class play, after which he acted as chairman of the meeting. Miss Terry, who is directing the production, then described, as nearly correct as possible, the action of the play throughout the entire four acts. Beginning with Amarilly she went right down the large cast, telling of the splendid work that is being done by each one of the characters.

Jeanette McLennon was the next speaker, her subject being "Why Lower Classmen Should Patronize the Senior Play." She emphasized the fact of how sorry the Seniors will be to leave them, and how glad they will be for their money to leave them. Mr. Ferguson then addressed the audience, laying particular stress on the fact that the success of the school annual, which is put out by the Senior class each year, depends largely on the financial success of the class play. He quite convinced his audience that they will all be Seniors some day, and as a result a considerable interest in selling tickets was taken by the lower classmen. After it was announced that one ticket would be given free for every ten sold, it only took the distributors a few minutes to get rid of a thousand tickets. The members of the ticket committee are Lehman Crandall, chairman; Olin Wilson, Miller Fishel, William Balthis, Carlton West, Kenneth Beldin, Ernestine Lyon, Mona Butler, Mildred Wight, Evangeline Hunchberger and Helen Harden.

Several group pictures for the Stylus were taken Wednesday at noon, Mr. Morton of Tropic being the photographer. Pictures were taken of the Explosion staff, the girls' glee club, the baseball team, and the track team. Maxwell Sheriger, the photograph editor of the Stylus, was in charge of affairs.

Members of the school tennis team are planning on participating in the annual Dudley Cup Tournament to be held at Santa Monica Saturday. All are in fine practice now, and an them. Those who will represent the school will be William Balthis, Carlton West, Lehman Crandall, and Roscoe Puffer.

GET EVEN WITH THE BAND

The members of the Glendale Home Guards and all patriotic citizens of Glendale should give liberal support to the Glendale Municipal Band concert tomorrow, Friday evening. Two weeks ago when citizens' mass meeting was held at the city hall the band volunteered their services without charge; and furnished patriotic music at that meeting. The following evening a larger mass meeting was held at the High School Auditorium, and to the surprise and gratification of those present, the municipal band again appeared and added much life to the evening's entertainment. This second entertainment was also without charge on the part of the band boys. Now fellow members of the Home Guards and citizens of Glendale, let us be prompt in responding to the invitation we have received to patronize the band concert tomorrow evening at the Palace Grand Theatre. The entertainment itself will be worth three times the cost of admission; and then we feel ourselves indebted to the band for the free service rendered at the mass meetings above mentioned.

ENTERTAINS FOR BRIDE

Last Saturday Miss Dorothy Hunt entertained in honor of Mrs. John Wilcox formerly Miss Thelma McMaster. The beautiful home was decorated in yellow and white. The afternoon was spent in games and fancy work. The honored guest received many beautiful pieces of linen. Those present were the Misses Ruth Wilson, Katherine O'Leary, Mary Ellen O'Leary, Grace Shropshire, Margaret Hauber, Mrs. Frae Morse Wells and Mrs. Hunt.

The Home Guards of Casa Verdugo extend a cordial invitation to the people of Glendale, Tropic, Eagle Rock and all the valley to attend their patriotic demonstration Saturday afternoon. Accommodations will be made for all who care to attend. A splendid program has been prepared and the spirit of patriotism will be abroad.

HIGH FOOD COST DUE TO SPECULATION

CONGRESSIONAL FOOD INVESTIGATORS DECLARE PRESENT PRICES FOR FOOD ARE NOT JUSTIFIED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
WASHINGTON, April 26.—The Congressional Foodstuffs Probe committee in their report to-day declared there are no just grounds for such high prices being demanded for many food products at the present time. The report stated "there is urgent need in this country of the organization of a comprehensive market machinery establishing a relation between producing and consuming communities." The committee recommended municipal wholesale markets. They stated that food shortage reports are misleading and that speculation is the greatest cause of high prices. The shipping of foods to the belligerent countries should not affect the price of potatoes, eggs or onions, yet they have soared in price along with other things. Increased cost of land, farm implements and distribution were given as other causes of the present high prices.

OPEN MEETING

N. P. BANKS CAMP SONS OF VETERANS GIVE SPLENDID PROGRAM

N. P. Banks Camp, Sons of Veterans entertained with an open meeting Tuesday evening that was on a par with their past efforts and which was greatly enjoyed by the large number of Grand Army Veterans and friends in attendance.

The entertainment as presented by Camp Commander Dolos Jones was exceptionally well received and was of a nature calculated to amuse and enthrall.

The program was opened with a vocal solo "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," rendered by the sweet voiced soloist, Mrs. A. J. Van Wie, that reached way down into the hearts of the audience and awakened memories of days gone by.

Mrs. Van Wie was followed on the program by Division Commander Joe V. Griffin whose efforts were directed along lighter channels and his hearers were soon chuckling with delight at his quaint humor. He concluded with the baseball classic, "Casey at The Bat."

Comrade R. D. Goss next trained his faithful fiddle on the audience and let it be understood that, while the tearful wailing of an Austrian violinist can be acquired, the feet-shuffling music of a Yankee fiddler must needs be inherited.

An address entitled "The Harvest" was delivered in excellent style by Post Commander R. M. McGee in which he sounded the keynote of present day patriotism and with many Scriptural references drove home point after point on the subject of America's part in the world war. Mr. McGee is an able speaker, reasons convincingly and logically and commands the attention of any audience.

From a histrionic viewpoint, the program reached its height in the rendition of Service's poem, "The Cremating of Sam McGee," by Mr. A. J. Van Wie. Although Mr. Van Wie did not personally officiate at the ceremony as the above might indicate, he certainly left no doubt in the minds of his audience as to his ability as a reader of Alaskan episodes.

The Tropic Concert Band rendered a number of selections in excellent style and demonstrated that this organization is capable of high class work.

A short talk by Comrade C. R. Norton concluded the program after which refreshments were served in the banquet room.

80-CANDLE BIRTHDAY CAKE

At least, that is the number of candles that would properly light the birthday cake of Mrs. Sarah E. Thompson Munn, who was born on the 25th day of April, 1837, at Atlanta, Georgia, then but a country village. Her husband, Orin A. Munn, was born in Cleveland, when the present great Forest City was a little lakeside town. They came to Oroville, California, when that thriving mining camp was booming, in 1856, five years before the Civil war. Coming here from San Jacinto, Riverside county, six years ago, she has seen important changes in Glendale also. It is difficult to realize how many things in common use now were unknown in 1837. Four score years cover a vast arc of progress in science, literature, art, and inventions.

Yesterday, at her home, 1615 West Colorado street, she, with many relatives and friends, celebrated her birthday with a lawn party, the elegant luncheon also being served al fresco. The delightful party was gotten up by her friend and neighbor, Mrs. Lennie M. Moore (wife of Mr. W. M. Moore) of 1614 West Colorado street.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. James Rimpau, Mrs. Thrall, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bundy, Miss Dora Bundy, and Master Roland Arthur Bundy, all of Hollywood; Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Willisford, of the Glendale Congregational church, Glendale; Mesdames Gertrude Kinley, Missouri Page, Julia A. Hoopes, Sallie Hoopes, Cook, Carrie Adams, Mabel Gross, Mulligan, Frazier, Morrison, M. R. Toland, Durham, A. G. Munn, Manford, DeMuth, and Mrs. Jennie Moore who was one of the hostesses, Miss Sybille Munn, Miss Adelaide Munn, and Miss Genevieve Mulligan, a girl of twelve who is an accomplished orator, and gave a fine reading.

Mrs. Willisford quite artistically read Henry Van Dyke's beautiful poem, "My Mother's Birthday," then presented to Mrs. Munn, a bound copy, hand-painted by herself.

Mrs. Munn was the happy recipient of a great many appropriate gifts from her host of relatives and

ORIENTAL PROGRAM

ART AND TRAVEL SECTION PRESENT RARE ENTERTAINERS AT CLUB MEETING

In a setting of beautiful ferns and oriental tapestries, the Glendale Tuesday Afternoon club enjoyed a unique program on Tuesday of this week at Masonic Temple. The program was in charge of the Art and Travel section, which though one of the newest sections has attained a remarkable growth and strength this year under the able supervision of Mrs. C. M. Tuck under whose direction Tuesday's charming oriental program was given. The speaker of the day, Miss Margaret Grant, traveler and student, held the close attention of the capacity house as without a note of any kind she gave a brilliant travel talk embodying the countries of Japan, China, India and Italy.

A truly oriental atmosphere was imparted to the program by the appearance, at appropriate points in the talk, of Mrs. Carl Johnson, a beautiful contralto, arrayed in the most exquisite costumes of the Far East whose Chinese, Indian, Italian, Hawaiian and Japanese songs were such an artistic delight. Mrs. Percy De Gaston accompanied Mrs. Johnson, when she was not her own accompanist on the Chinese flute made of bamboo, or the Japanese koto or guitar.

So rare a program it has seldom been the privilege of the Tuesday Afternoon club to enjoy, and words of delight were heard on every hand. Both Miss Grant and Mrs. Johnson were the recipients of many beautiful floral tributes. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the program by the Hospitality committee.

During the business session of the club, Mrs. P. S. McNutt, District Parliamentarian, reported the reciprocity day spent with the Parliamentary Law section of the Los Angeles Ebell club, and Mrs. George Rowe ably reviewed a reciprocity day spent with the Sunshine club. A tea for the benefit of the club house was announced for May 11 with Mrs. Franklin Ocker as hostess. The benefit colonial tea to be given this Friday by the Music Section was also announced.

FLOWERS FOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Mrs. Caroline M. Sparr, and some person unknown, are most cordially thanked for beautiful vases filled with exquisite roses, and for other highly appreciated decorations brought in during the absence of the Secretary. Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

WEATHER FORECAST—Cloudy and unsettled tonight and Friday. Probably showers and colder tonight. Light westerly winds.

friends. She does not know how many relatives she has in this country. She naively remarked, "Oh, Los Angeles is full of my people."

Four generations were represented in that joyous gathering.

To her own accompaniment on the Eubalele, Miss Sybille Munn sang a very humorous parody on "The Old Oaken Bucket," entitled "Grandma's Toothbrush," which finally became a much-too-common property in grandma's large old-time household.

The same young lady gracefully told a good story. A quick-witted dame said when she went to Heaven she would ask William Shakespeare if he wrote all those poems and tales which appear under his name. "But," asked a hypercritical preacher, "suppose Shakespeare is not in Heaven?" "Then you ask him," was the ready response.

Mr. Walt LeNoir Church, also a guest, said he, too, had one on the preachers, which he, as a preacher's son, might tell.

It seems that a backwoodsman heard eternal punishment preached for the first time. After the meeting, he asked the preacher: "Parson, do you mean to say that a sinner like me will burn forever and ever, and ever more?"

"Yes, that's what the Good Book says."

"Oh, I'm all right then," was the rather disconcerting reply.

"How so?" demanded the astonished parson.

"Because," calmly asserted the sinner, "if it last forever—that shows I can stand it—and if I can stand it—I'm all right."
Mrs. Munn was as happy as a girl, and cheerfully enjoyed whatever was done or said. From her hale and hearty appearance, it seems quite likely that the universal good wish of her multitude of friends, "May you have many happy returns," will come true. So note it be.

IMPROVING COUNTY GOVERNMENT

Wastefulness and efficiency are often deplored in national, state and city government, but seldom referred to in county affairs.

All agree about taxes being too high, that we don't get a dollar's worth for a dollar in public business, and laws are too complicated.

We lead the world as inventors, manufacturers and business efficiency and also for rapid increase of cost of government.

Why are we so efficient in all private functions of making money and so wasteful in handling the great volumes of public business?

Has not the average county more officers than necessary? Are we not wasting public funds the country over paying this idle army?

There is a tendency in all legislatures to create new county officers and additional deputyships and raise their salaries all around.

From the stenographer to the law firm hired by the county, the compensation is generally one-third to one-half higher than in private business life.

The hours are shorter, equipment is better, surroundings more comfortable and generally public work is not pushed like private work.

Take the army of officers in the county employed to enforce laws, court grand juries, sheriffs, constables, and we get small results.

In any private business or corporation, business matters, such as the county attends to, would be all under one head, one responsibility.

Under county government taxpayers lose hope of securing really first-class results from a business standpoint, and no one is to blame.

More and more all county officials are given over to be selected by the people and instead of business abilities, handshaking gets voters.

Matrons of county jails and court stenographers are not yet chosen by popular vote, but probably soon will be, smiles versus efficiency.

Walter D. Hines of the Santa Fe railroad at Topeka, Kansas, made these valuable suggestions that county offices be more consolidated.

In place of having fifteen county officials to select by popular vote he would reduce the number to three or four, the rest appointed.

The present system produces high taxes, makes voters careless, while the Hines plan would increase responsibility and get better men.

PROSPERITY AHEAD FOR CALIFORNIA

There is prosperity ahead for the golden State of California, evidently, if enormous expansion in the production and use of electric power spells prosperity. The word has gone forth that California is to take the lead over all other states in this respect. To particularize:

By authority of the State Railroad Commission at least $20,000,000 is to be expended in meeting the ever-growing demand for power. Capital has been authorized to the extent of $25,000,000, and most of this will be expended on new construction work and extensions.

The people are beginning to encourage private capital in hydro-electric enterprise. Employment of engineering corps, investments in property, construction of dams, power-houses and transmission lines and the employment of labor at high rates of wages, all essential to hydro-electric power development, mean not only big pay-rolls and large purchases of equipment in the present but, for all time to come, continual disbursements of large sums of money.

Come war or peace, come good crops or bad, it is felt that California will get the benefit of these expenditures and will build up industries and pile up wealth as never before. State regulation of natural monopolies, involving wise and constructive regulation that protects investments against radicalism and destructive competition, will help the good work-along by firmly establishing public confidence in public utility enterprises.—Pacific Service Magazine.

INDUSTRIAL PREPAREDNESS

Every day that passes emphasizes more clearly the great part American industries must play in the protection of our nation.

A modern army is useless without a highly developed system of transportation, power development, mining, manufacturing and farming behind it.

To reach the highest state of efficiency our industries must have the help and co-operation of both state and national governments, for after the war is over, our struggle has only begun to retain the commercial prestige we have now attained.

Much legislation now hampering our industries must be remedied and regulations and restrictions which tend to discourage American initiative must be corrected.

Military and industrial preparedness must go hand in hand.

MANY HOME GARDENS

Many a plot of ground designed for a flower garden in Los Angeles will yield the rare potato and onion in the place of carnations, tea roses and bachelor buttons. This is the result of a movement among the club women of Los Angeles to turn their flower garden space into a means to take a fling at the High Cost of Living, help feed the nation during war time, and at the same time prepare themselves in a measure for more extensive farming should such an occasion arise as to demand their services.

Parents and teachers should consider it their duty to explain to children the importance of being loyal to the country in which they live. Children should be taught to respect the United States flag, which is the emblem of liberty and justice.

"BUMPER CROPS"

ALL SIGNS POINT TO GREATEST INFLUX OF EASTERNERS S. C. HAS EVER KNOWN

By Alfred Marple
 Is Southern California ready for a flood of tourists such as she has never known? If not, she would do well to prepare, for notwithstanding all the war talk and action the arrow points to the greatest tourist season in 1917-18 that this part of the country has ever known. If we're not ready to meet this influx we will be the losers. Listen—

Comparing the tourist crop of other years and taking into consideration tourist call this year in comparison to that of years gone by the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California "figgers" that about 45,000 parties or 180,000 people will wend their ways westward and southward in 1917-18.

During the 1916-17 tourist season more than $40,000,000 was left in Southern California by tourists, and according to most reliable figures, "gope" says that during the coming season more than $60,000,000 will be deposited in our coffers by motorists and others from northern and eastern sections. The fame of this section as a motoring mecca has spread far and wide and in addition to many tourists, whose faces we have never seen, thousands who were here last year are planning on "repeating the trick." With the popularity of this section spreading constantly and with the increased number of automobiles coming into general use the tourist "crop" to Southern California cannot help but experience a steady growth. The following figures, based on very fair calculations, will give some idea as to how much the tourist serves to make business in this section "prosperous". It naturally follows then that while the tourist is with us we should treat him well so that he may feel like accepting our invitation to "come again."

It is estimated that for hotel fare alone the visiting motorists in 1916-17 spent in our section about $27,000,000. The second largest item was gasoline, and for this much-needed-commodity they spent about $2,025,000, while for lubricating oil during their stay, these sight-seeing friends of ours paid out something like $198,000.

Careful figuring shows that the amount spent for auto repairing while the tourists were in this part of the Golden State is not to be overlooked. It amounted to about $1,350,000, while a like sum is spent for tires and tubes. Then in addition to all this comes the "incidental" expense, which everyone knows is always large when one is touring. To a certain extent, while one is on a vacation, expense is not considered, the object being to have the most enjoyable outing possible in the limited space of time.

Yes, these tourists made mighty fine use of our good roads while they were with us. Figures compiled by the Auto Club show that each party traveled on an average of 4500 miles during its thirty day stay in this section. As it is figured that about 45,000 parties visited this section it will be seen that the total distance traveled was about 202,500,000 miles. They evidently believe in enjoying a good thing while they have access to it. With regard to this year's crop of visitors the touring department of the Automobile Club reports as follows:

"Touring this year will be at least 50 per cent greater than it was last season, notwithstanding the fact that there are no expositions and that last year was considered the "limit." This year, as will probably be the case every year hereafter, we will have a freak season. It will start as early as June, continuing throughout the year and on into 1918. The tourists seem wild to get out here and to secure a taste or retaste of our beautiful climate."

SURVEY OF FARM PRODUCTS

That a complete survey of all available farm products in every county in California already is in progress; that corps of agricultural experts are interviewing every farmer in the State regarding forthcoming crops and advising them on what to plant in the future, and that the survey of farm products would be completed in nine more days, was the report made to the State Council of Defense on Wednesday by Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, president of the University of California and chairman of the Committee on Resources and Food Supply of the council.

According to Dr. Wheeler, a publicity and information campaign also is being conducted throughout the State in an effort to increase crop production, stimulate the planting of home gardens, prevent waste of food materials by housewives, and to bring the utilization of all available ground for agricultural purposes.

"We are both giving and getting advice," Dr. Wheeler told the Council of Defense. "Corps of agricultural experts sent throughout the State are advising every rancher in every county just what to plant, and in turn they are asking the ranchers for information which may be of value in aiding other ranchers to increase their crop production. Ranchers everywhere are giving the greatest co-operation in California's effort to help prevent any food shortage."

Dr. Wheeler left Wednesday night for Washington, D. C., where he will confer with members of the National Council of Defense. At his request, he will be represented on the State Council of Defense and on the Executive Committee of that body during his absence, by Dr. Ralph T. Merritt, controller of the University of California, while his place as chairman of the Committee on Resources and Food Supply of the council will be filled by Dr. Thomas H. Hunt, dean of agriculture at the University of California.

LUMINOUS RADIUM PAINT

A luminous compound containing radium has been developed by an American manufacturer for use in locating electric-light switches in the dark, making watch dials, etc. In powder form the compound is of about the same fineness as ordinary talcum powder, and is nearly as white. This powder may be mixed with adhesives or varnishes and used as a paint. The compound is also furnished in flexible sheets which can be cut and shaped as desired, and can be applied to uneven or broken surfaces. This form can be used in making self-contained brass-backed buttons to glue on electric switches already installed and for manufacturers to fit into the hard-rubber portions of new switch buttons. The enamel is said to be waterproof and immune to damage from vibration, and may be applied to watch dials and indicating devices of all sorts.—Electrical Merchandising.

"Americus Jenkins would have been a millionaire if he'd only had the money to start with," (like many of us). So says Mrs. Jenkins in the Senior play, May 3 and 4.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Peart, Mrs. Hovey and Mrs. W. J. Adams spent the forenoon yesterday in Pasadena. Mrs. John G. Peart and daughter Eunice are spending the day in Los Angeles.

Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Norton were agreeably surprised recently when old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mowrie of Billings, Mont., dropped in upon them. Rev. Norton married Mr. and Mrs. Mowrie at Milton, Iowa, twenty-five years ago and had not seen them or heard from them directly since that time. Mr. and Mrs. Mowrie have been spending the winter in Southern California.

ADRIENNE'S SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

On Saturday afternoon of last week a most delightful children's party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lawrence, 129 North Isabel street, Glendale, in honor of their daughter Adrienne's seventh birthday. The rooms given over to the afternoon were beautiful with bouquets. A most delightful time was spent playing games for the children and mothers as well. Near the close of the afternoon each girl was given a big bonnet and each boy a pink dunce cap, and then the boys and girls were invited to the dining room which was most beautifully decorated in pink horns, pink baskets and place cards, and last but not least a beautiful birthday cake ornamented with seven candles. Those who found their places at the table beside the honoree were, Barbara King, Mellicent Jane Miner, Mabel Harrison, Lila, Mary and Eleanor Widney; Grace Camphour of Los Angeles, Janet and Max Stafford, Donald Camphour, Howard Parker, Emmett Bell, Russell Newton and John Eilers. The children were invited out to have their pictures taken and then the refreshments were served to the mothers who were Mrs. Sloan, grandmother of the birthday girl; Mrs. Arthur Miner, Mrs. C. C. Widney, Mrs. H. H. Parker, Mrs. E. D. Stafford, Mrs. F. H. Eilers, Mrs. Roy King, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. James Newton and baby Albert, Mrs. H. V. Sloan and baby Harold Kendall, and Mrs. J. J. Camphour of Los Angeles. Mrs. R. F. Hoagland of Sierra Vista and Mrs. T. D. Ogg of Glendale assisted the hostess.

THE BAPTIST REVIVAL

Another large audience was present last night in the Baptist church when pastor John Snape D. D., of Hollywood, gave the message. He spoke on "The Fatal Choice" of Pilate and the Jews in taking a robber in preference to Christ, and made such an application of the incident to our present day and race as will not soon be forgotten. As a result of the appeal at the close, which was given with great tenderness, there were two confessions of faith. Mrs. C. H. Cunningham sang a solo with great effectiveness, and all were delighted and encouraged with the results which followed.

This evening Evangelist Catherwood resumes his helpful ministrations and there will be special music both by the orchestra and the choir. Tonight and tomorrow night will be the last opportunity of hearing Mr. Catherwood during the present series of meetings. The large audience, despite the war agitation and enlistments of many of our most active men, together with the splendid results which have followed his faithful efforts, alike attest the deep spiritual impression he has made on the community and the eminent success which has crowned his labors. Be sure and hear him tonight and tomorrow night.

IT HAPPENS FRIDAY NIGHT

By Walt, Le Noir Church

What will happen Friday night? Why, the Glendale Band Concert. Is it going to be good? Well, you just ask Director Hicks, or Manager Furst, or anyone else who has read the program, and who knows good music.

The popular war songs, alone, will be worth the price of admission. But, what do you think of the guy who refused to pay 25 cents for a ticket, because he said he could hear that same band play on the street for nothing, next summer?

"Something for nothing, em?" Is that your size?

He wouldn't wait that long for a free lunch if hungry.

Yet, some people will not get hungry for music. Shakespeare says such are "Fit for treasons, stratagems and spoils."

To support the Glendale Band is as patriotic as to support the Red Cross, the Home Guard, or any other popular urge.

What sort of figure will a Home Guard cut without a band?

But for music, one half the people who enlist, and march off to war, would apathetically, and uneventfully, stay at home.

As soon as possible, ancient warriors killed the enemy's trumpeters, because their music inspired their fellows to fight to the death.

The program for that concert is unusually good. Whatever your musical development, you can hear there something that will please you. It would be worth hearing if it contained only the patriotic songs, and that fine descriptive masterpiece, "A Hunt In The Black Forest."

If you go to Europe with our soldiers, perhaps you may hunt or be hunted in the famous Black Forest. But something will happen which is not on the program.

During the intermission, Mr. John Robert White, of the California Furniture Co., and the well-known citizen of Glendale who has taken such lively interest in our Home Guard, will speak on the timely subject, "Why a Band." Do not miss that speech—even if you have no soul for good music.

The answer to "Why a Band?" will be worth hearing.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

This is a busy time for the Seniors of G. U. H. S. who are taking part in the class play and for those who have the business end in charge. "Amarilly of Clothesline Alley" is the play to be presented May 3 and 4. The story bears a similarity to "The Bird's Christmas Carol," and Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and was dramatized by the Senior girls' oral expression class. Containing both humor and pathos it will appeal to all. The plan of having a double cast for some of the leading parts has been adopted. Florence Heacock and Mona Butler appear in the role of Amarilly. The part of Mrs. Jenkins is taken by Jeannette McLennon and Ernestine Lyon. Florence Kenworthy and Mildred Wight appear in the part of Colette. Marguerite Hauber makes a sweet Lily Rose in decided contrast to the dignified Miss Vanderlip played by Esthem Schremp. Marjorie Imler is good as Cory and Lillian Schick and Aileen Freeman are seen as Arabella and Araminty, the twins. Mary E. Stellar takes the part of Mrs. Hodges and Helen Harden plays Mrs. Jimmels. Catherine Phillips, Katherine Renshaw and Catherine Coates portray the Irish, German and Yankee neighbors. Ed Seay as the artist is very winsome. John Meredith, the rector, is played by Harold Venske and Max Scheriger makes a handsome bridegroom. The boys of the Jenkins family are Leslie Kepler as Gus, Lyndon Keyes as Flam, Leslie McReynolds and Frederick Butts as Bud. The part of Ivy, the baby, is taken by Duane Wight and Glen Moore. Miss Terry the capable dramatic teacher has thoroughly drilled the cast. You will want to see this play.

REPORTER ASSERTS HERSELF

Miss Buda Stephens, a reporter of the Detroit News, has seen the moving picture owned and produced by Norman E. Mack, editor and politician of Buffalo, entitled, "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters."

This is what she has to say in a letter addressed to the "Dear City Editor":

I am pretty mad. At first I was only indignant. I do not know if it is your fault, or if this is a city insulated against adventure. I feel I am being cheated. Not once has my hair been raised or my cheek paled. I have not been kidnapped, lured into a den, pushed off a bridge or choked by a Chinese. I know that I should be choked if my reportorial life is to be neatly rounded out.

The reason I know this is because I have just seen a motion picture entitled "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters" and the heroine in that had all these things happen to her.

While she spent a gay and festive life dodging bullets fired by long-haired Orientals, I was spending dull hours dodging short-haired reformers, and while they were offering her poison to keep the story out of print, I was being offered weak tea with a lemon to put a story into print.

She was kidnapped, mistaken for a princess; she "dolled" herself up in gorgeous clothes, while no one ever offered to kidnap me, darn it, and the highest form of social celebrity I was ever mistaken for was a poetess at a meeting of parlor anarchists; and my salary wouldn't buy the nice white spats that Dorothea Desmond (that was the creature's name) wore in affluent calmness through the mud.

The star reporter never rescued me from anything, and in fact would probably be glad if I was kidnapped so he would avoid rewriting some of my perfectly good stories. You never put your arm around me as the motion picture editor did with that Dorothea, and nobody in the editorial room ever stopped smoking (or offered me one) or took their feet off the desk when I came around.

While Dorothea crawled through secret doors and sliding panels in haunted castles, I have to crawl through ranks of babies at health shows, and the nearest I ever came to a castle was the art museum.

To be sure, maybe this is not your fault: maybe we have no Tong wars in Detroit, or slain heiresses, and it is possible there are no opium dens for me to wander into, but at least you might provide me with an aeroplane and some velvet curtains to slide down from second-story windows. Dorothea had both these things.

I have been working for you for some time; but so far you have shown no disposition to send me to Europe to interview a few old kings and to be made love to by handsome young princes in tight pants and feathered hats.

All of this, you understand, happened to Dorothea in two short reels. I could reel around from the river to breakfast and nothing like that would ever happen to me. I don't want to seem insistent, but if you cannot arrange to have me kidnapped, shot or choked inside of twenty-four hours, I shall tender my resignation and go into a more thrilling career, such as riding herd on a kindergarten class. I must, will and shall have thrills and it is up to you to provide them, so there!

Yours indignantly,
BUDA STEPHENS.

P. S.—That creature in the pictures simpered once and the Star Reporter promptly proposed (marriage) I have simpered all over this office and the Star Reporter and all the rest of them have proposed that for the love o' Mike I get out of their way. I don't want to be married, but I feel slighted.

P. P. S.—You need not mention this last to the staff.—Syracuse Post-Standard.

A NATION OF GENTLEMEN

The custom of wearing a flower in the buttonhole is a very pretty one, and marks the man wearing it at least a lover of the beautiful and to a certain extent one who is careful of his personal appearance. But to appreciate this flower-wearing custom at its best one should see a Samoan gentleman. His everyday costume consists of a most engaging

If they could only see all they were buying, most anyone could make a fairly good purchase of shoes, but it's what they can't see in shoes that makes their guess a gamble.

You can't tell from the outside how a shoe is made inside or how much service you're going to get from the shoe or how much merit is in the material.

Real shoe merit is about 5% finish outside and 95% quality underneath.

smile, a garland of gardenias worn over one shoulder, a tunic of green leaves, and over all a close-fitting garment of Samoan atmosphere. On full-dress occasions they appear in a long, flowing robe of native weave. They are strikingly handsome, splendidly built fellows, and are courteous, hospitable, honest and affectionate. Many of them are six feet tall, straight and graceful, with the figure and form of Greek gods done in bronze. Their features are regular and their faces expressive of a high degree of intelligence. Their manner is stately and deliberate, best described by what we naturally expect from a "gentleman of the old school," and in striking contrast with the quick, restless ways of many dwellers of the "Isles of the Sea." Travellers have spoken of them as a nation of gentlemen. Think of it, not a nation with a gentleman here and there, but a nation where every voter is a gentleman.—C. A. D. in Greenville Daily News.

AUTHOR OF A FAMOUS HYMN

Mrs. Sarah Flower Adams wrote the famous hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Mrs. Adams was an Englishwoman, born in 1805. She was a writer of note in the periodicals of the time, and she also composed a catechism for children which was published in 1845. Just at what time and under what circumstances the hymn was written is not known. It was first published in 1841, but the author did not live to know the fame the authorship brought her. She died at forty-four, and since that time the lines she penned have sung themselves into the hearts of untold millions the world over.—Indianapolis News.

WHIST PLAYED 300 YEARS AGO

According to an authority, whist, or "whisk," as it was called, was first generally played three centuries ago. For many years the game, under the appellations of "whisk" and "swobbers," was played only by servants and others of the humbler classes, and it was not until more than a century had passed that it reached the drawing rooms of the wealthy and the nobility. The first mention of whist in literature was made by Taylor, the water poet, in 1621. He refers to it as "whisk," the name having probably been derived from the practice of whisking the tricks from the table as soon as played.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

LA CANADA

With a paid-up membership of forty-three members, the La Canada Red Cross organization met last Tuesday afternoon at the La Canada school house. Ten new members signed up at that meeting.

With the aid of Mr. E. H. Brooks, who offered his influence in procuring the La Canada Improvement association chairs, it was made possible to hold the meeting in one of the unoccupied rooms of the new school building.

Between twenty-five and thirty members were present. All were busily engaged in the active work of bandage making. Several women took work home to complete. Mrs. Dwight Cooper offered to complete an article this week and send it to the Pasadena Red Cross as soon as possible.

"Everyone has been so kind in offering his services for our Red Cross organization," said Mrs. Murray, "that I'm sure we are going to be able to accomplish a great deal."

Mr. E. Metcalf donated the use of his truck in transporting the chairs to and from the school house. Through the courtesy of Mrs. Howard Cooper, Mrs. S. H. Goddard and Mrs. J. M. Howard, the women had three sewing machines to work with. For next five machines have been offered. Through the mistake of the correspondent Mrs. Howard Cooper's name was left out of the printed list of the membership last week. Mrs. Cooper is by no means one to be left out as she is active in the growth and advancement of the La Canada Red Cross.

Mrs. Penfield suggested that the young boys in La Canada be organized into the "Boy Scouts." Mrs. Penfield spoke of procuring some one to drill the boys and lead them in this movement. Mrs. Murray then suggested organizing the boys into a home guard. The matter was left open until the next meeting.

Mrs. Cooper brought up the question of a class being started in First Aid or Home Nursing. For $5.50 and with a class of sixteen members it may be possible to start such a class in La Canada. Either course consists of fifteen lessons. It was left to Mrs. Murray to investigate whether or not Pasadena will send a physician out to give the lessons. The next meeting of the Red Cross will be held next Tuesday afternoon in the school house at 2:30. All are urged to attend.

Hard times and high prices evidently have not affected the good sale of property in La Canada. During the past week the following residences have been sold. Mr. B. D. Jackson sold his property on North Burr avenue to a Los Angeles family who expect to occupy immediately. Ex-senator Flint sold his old home on Michigan avenue to a Mr. Douglas. The feature of these meetings are for social intercourse and a sort of get acquainted idea. All seemed to enjoy themselves to the fullest extent. An art gallery where one could have his picture taken was a feature all enjoyed, notwithstanding that some of the wives did not care to have their husbands come home, after seeing their picture flashed upon the screen.

At the last meeting of the Tujungu Women's Club Thursday afternoon, April 19, Mrs. Adele Miles read an interesting article by Alma Whitcarr entitled Guarding Our Girls. A discussion of the subject by the members followed. Miss Zoe Gilbert read a short sketch, The American Flag; its Use; its Forbidden Abuse, by Ida Louise Gibbs, chairman committee on Prevention of Desecration of the Flag.

The sewing circle of the Women's Club sent to the Parent-Teachers Association ninety-two articles of wearing apparel. This was the work accomplished in the three meetings of the sewing circle in February. In addition to this there was a liberal donation of useful articles including shoes, coats, etc.

Following is the program of the Tujungu Womens' Club since the beginning of the year's work in October:

- Flower bulbs.....Mrs. Mary Fairfield
- Raffia work.....Mrs. C. W. Warren

The next regular meeting of the Women's Club will be held May 3 and will be in the nature of a member's program. Social Economics will be the topic for general discussion. Each member will bring something of interest and instruction on this subject.

The officers of the Episcopal Guild entertained the members of their organization at a luncheon at the new church building Tuesday at one o'clock p. m. Besides the members there were present Rev. and Mrs. Renison of Los Angeles, Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. Malona, Mrs. Davidson of Tujungu, and Mr. Wagner of Huntington Park. After partaking of luncheon Mr.

Roma Penfield, Florence Pate, Alma Armstrong, Gertrude Marcus and Freda Potts.

While Mrs. Penfield, president of the La Canada Parent-Teacher association, was talking to the school children last week about the Red Cross, the boys were possessed with a desire to help in some way, any way beside sewing. The women are attempting to find a place for the boys as well as the girls.

Owing to the immense success of the La Crescenta dances, given by the La Crescenta Women's club, the La Canada Valley club will give a dance on the eve of May 5. (Saturday night.) A few years ago the Valley club gave dances regularly with tremendous success. But recently the dancing died down. The club was badly in debt and the dances were only an added expense. May 5th the dance will not be given with the object of making big money. The music, consisting of a violin and piano, is the same as engaged by the La Crescenta Woman's club. If this dance proves a success, it is probable that the club will see fit to have them often. All are invited to come and bring friends.

Several citizens of La Canada attended the meeting held at the old normal building on the corner of Fifth and Olive streets, Los Angeles, last Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was called by the State Board of Agriculture for Los Angeles and vicinity. The object of the afternoon discussion was to promote the utilization of ground for gardening purposes. Several of the prominent men present spoke in favor of every man planting some kind of a garden. They were of the opinion that extensive gardening would have a tendency to bring the present high prices within reach.

The next regular meeting of the Improvement association will be held this week on Saturday evening at the new school house. In addition to important business, there will be an open Forum. The two following topics will be considered, the Supreme Thing in America Today. Is it possible for a few selfish men to deceive the great purpose of our improvement association in La Canada, to rob us of our new school house as a country district, our beautiful valley. And will the crown city of Pasadena descend to the low level of this weaker transaction as an accomplice of these manmuzzed devotees of the almighty dollar.

The social gathering of the Federated church at Bolton Hall on Wednesday evening, the 18th, was a very enjoyable affair. A goodly number being present.

tary authorities. Another group, largely makers of war material, are raising the wages of their men and making no offers to pay them if they enlist in army or navy. A third group, banking, broking and merchandizing, have given word that either the wages of employees will be continued, as during the Mexican Border service, or that the differences between their war pay and their working wages will be made up to enlistees. Some distinguish in favor of National Guard, Home Defense, and against Regular Army and Navy service, in the matter of keeping up wage payments. If universal conscription of both men and money were passed the decisions of all would be modified. Under the Mexican Border practice, men serving the colors were by their employers kept from sacrifice. Under the universal system both employers and employees would be equally subject to call, and those which have the most income would have to yield up part in taxes. Therefore the probability is that the Government under the universal plan will have to do like Britain and France—list the qualifications of those subject to service and assign them accordingly to the railway, telegraph, telephone, light, electric, and war material and food producing necessities, military defense including primarily the sustenance of the man with the gun.

Peanuts are grown formerly in a single province of Southern Spain, but they are now raised in other provinces and the area devoted to them is extending. At present about 19,800 acres are annually planted in peanuts with a yield of approximately 14,800 long tons, so that Spain stands first among European countries in the production of this crop.

Harrower, while the vast audience will join in the chorus: "Plant, plant, plant, our boys are working; And our girls are busy, too; For we feel the time is near When our soldiers without fear Will be battling for The Red, White and Blue."
