LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

The ship Julius Caesar which arrived at Philadelphia on Thursday evening, brought Liverpool papers of the 21st of October, three days later than had before been received. The U. States Gazette furnished us with extracts.

Cotton had improved a shade; but flour was still declining.

The Paris dates are no later than we had before; but we copy, under them, some paragraphs we have not published.

TURKEY.—The accounts concerning the belligerents, some of which appear to be later, though none are official, concur in representing the Russians as retreating with loss from Shumla, but do not confirm the capture of Varna, which was lately reported. It is mentioned by an English paper, as evidence of the evil fortune of the Ross-ians, that so long a period has elapsed since any accounts have been received from them.

PARIS, Oct. 15.
We have received, from Bucharest, the following letter, dated the 26th of September.

"The news which we have just received from the theatre of war, confirms every thing which has been announced for this week past, respecting the movements of the Russian army before Shumla, and its retreat. The Russians, in order to cover the corps which were retiring, continued to occupy some intrenchments, but after having bravely defended them, they evacuated them, probably on learning that the Grand Vizier was marching by the road from Adrianoople to the relief of Varna.

Hussain Bey had followed the re-mainds of the army from Shumla on the road to Bazardjik, and detached another corps on the road to Silistra and Hir-sawa, in order to take advantage of the late events before the first of those places, and threatened the communications of the Russians on the Danube. The Russian head-quarters were still at Bazardjik on the 19th inst. but the difficulty in saving the material of the artillery, in the midst of the general distress were immense."

Other accounts from Augsburg, Frankfort, and Berlin, are still more disastrous; they represent the retreat of the Russians as rapid and disorderly.
A convoy of hay had arrived, but had been immediately consumed; and as long as it lasted the horses of the cavalry and artillery were fed with flour, but even that resource is said to have failed; and the mortality among the horses was so great that only 4000 mounted cavalry remained out of the whole army to protect its retreat. Some accounts, indeed, go so far as to assert that the whole of Wittenstein's army had disbanded itself.

Another Indian outrage upon our Commerce Traders.—It is but a few weeks since the disagreeable task devolved on us of announcing the death of two of our most respectable citizens, killed by the Indians, on their way from New-Mexico, with the fruits of their enterprise. Several, belonging to a company of about twenty-five, which started one month since from Santo Fé for Missouri, have just arrived, and state that on their way they were met by a party of Indians, who drove off all their mules and horses, not leaving them any with which to travel. That Capt. John Mays, an old, well-known and respectable resident of Franklin, being at a distance from the main body of the company had his gun taken from him by the Indians and with shot dead, they having themselves nothing but bows and arrows. The party then pursued their journey on foot, leaving behind several wagons, in some of which were large sums of money. Having considerable specie, they were obliged, we understand, to bury it, until they could reach the settlements, (a distance of several hundred miles) and procure horses on which to bring it. Such are the particulars which we have gathered regarding to this unfortunate affair.

[From the P. Y. Journal of Commerce.]
The brig Herald has arrived in safety at Poros with the donations despatched from the U. S. for the relief of the Greeks.

The following are extracts from the letter of the agent of the New-York Associate Committee, dated Poros, 6th Aug. 1828.

I have at length arrived at the place of my destination, and my feet have the happiness to stand on "Grecian soil".
My eyes now behold an immense field white already to harvest, and I recognize that I am sent hither to labour.
We arrived in the afternoon of Poros the 23rd ult. 1000 miles from New-York.

The cargo of supplies for the Greeks arrived in good order, and is now deposited in magazines established gratis by the Government of Greece. We have called on the President, his brother (General A. G. Gouraud), Master of the Mint, and the Governor of the Island, all of whom gave us the most polite and cordial reception. The President has also been with us to examine the cargo, and seemed highly gratified, though he several times remarked, that the things were quite too good.

Our first interview with him was to me in the highest degree interesting.
After he had read several letters of introduction which I had given him from Mr. Gallatin, from the Duchess de Bro-glie, the Countess St. Aulic, and others of his friends in France and Switzerland, our conversation turned upon the present state of Greece; the means to be employed to raise her from the low state to which she has been reduced by Turkish tyranny, war and anarchy;

concur in representing the Russians as which was lately reported. It is men-
