Advancement Schedules, Strong Program of Five Good Projects

OUT FOR BIG THINGS

Committees Report Progress in Each Objective; Some Nearly Won

The peppiest civic organization in the city, the East Glendale Advancement association, met Thursday noon at the Broadway inn, 50 strong, and received reports on the various big projects it is backing viz., the establishment of a branch postoffice; a big hotel at Glendale and Broadway; the electrification of the railroad on Glendale avenue under an agreement reached be tween the Union Pacific and the Glendale-Montrose railroads; improved lighting system for the east end of Broadway, and last, but not least, a county bridge across the Los Angeles river at the west end of Broadway to connect Glendale with Griffith park.

Women were liberally represented and appeared as keenly interested as were the men.

President Ingledue conducted the session as usual and made the first call upon Dr. Henry R. Harrower for a report upon the lighting pro-Confessing that his commit tee had not been at work the past week, in lieu of a report the doctor told a funny story about Tommy Atkins.

Charles E. Stanley reported for the postoffice committee that a petition for the establishment of an eastside branch is being circulated and will be ready to be sent to Washington by next Thursday.

Herman Nelson, secretary, gave a brief report of the meeting held at the city hall last Friday by the Glendale Avenue Improvement association, of which Harry Levey is president, of the interest manifestin the proposition to electrify the line owned by the Union Pacific on Glendale avenue and of the appointment of committees to solicit contributions to the bonus fund of $25,000, which must be raised for the Glendale-Montrose railroad before the project can go

Life As a Quarry Is Unusual Life, View

Honestly, have you ever thought of life as a quarry— a place where stones are hewed and cut?

Tonight in "The Listening Post" James W. Foley takes this view. He says that whatever we may think, most of us are cutters of stone—quarrymen-and in his philosophical way he proceeds to tell why, and in the telling he introduces you to Power, Strength and Love. Again we entreat you to read

Council Clears Way for Electrification of Glendale Avenue

MAYOR WILL HELP

U. P. Conditions for Elimination Met; P. E. Consents to Improvement

By its action of withdrawing its two applications that were made to the board of public utilities in Los Angeles, the Glendale city council today cleared the way for the electrification of the steam line on Glendale avenue.

One of the permits asked by the Glendale city council was for a bus line, to run from Glendale's eastern section to the Los Angeles yellow car line, and it was this permit to which the Union Pacific took exception. By withdrawing its request for both franchises, the city council removes the final obstacle in the way of electrifying the Glendale avenue line.

Sowing the Whirlwind

The modern tendency of parental relaxation vigilance, due to the more complete absorption of the activities of children by the public schools, is developing a serious condition in the young life of the United States which is as noticeable in Glendale as elsewhere.

The almost universal tendency of the times is to depend upon the schools to direct the young life of the city, to inculcate the moral precepts which will strengthen their outlook upon life.

The tendency is very bad and has already developed a weakening of response to parental direction and a tendency to run amuck after school hours. The moral attitude throughout the United States has been seriously affected in so far as children are concerned in its making. The police report numerous "spooning" and "petting" parties among the young element, whose parents are blindly neglectful of their duties until their eyes are opened with shocking suddenness. Pathers who permit their sons to use their cars find they have contributed to the moral delinquency of their children to an undreamed-of degree.

The duty of parents today is as unchanged as the commandments. That duty implies and insists upon a strict supervision of the youth and girl brought into the world, given into the guardianship Intil maturity, of parents. When the parents fail in that guardianship they are sowing a whirlwind of disgrace for themselves and their children.

And in the days to come those children will come, with innocence blurred beyond recovery, to curse their

V. Haymaker Urges Forum Audience to Invest in Such Assns.

URGES HOME MAKING

Describes Magnitude of Operations of Institutions in the U.S.

The backbone of the home-building movement of the country, are the building and loan associations of the United States, K. V. Havmaker, formerly head of the housing commission of the government, told the members gathered at the forum of the Chamber of Commerce last night.

The program of the evening had eliminated the usual dinner, and the weather had eliminated the usual large attendance. The audience was therefore, the smallest the forum ever had. Mr. Haymaker outlined the as sets of the United States after his introduction by E. M. Cutting. The greatest asset of the country was the moral and mental health of the people of the country, he said. Without this, which had a direct relation to hosuing, formed the country's greatest liability. The building of a million dollar industry in Glendale, he said, would bring perhaps a thousand em-ployes. Employes of an industry are figured, he said, on the basis of one employe to one thousand dollars of invested capital. "But how much more must be invested," he exclaimed, "to properly house the thousand employes?"

Glendale must be prepared to spend from four to five times the amount of such an industrial plant to house properly the men and women of the payroll.

He declared there should be a nation-wide institution concentrated upon the business of housing the people, in their own homes.

In this connection he developed that the form usually adopted to bridge the gape between savings and property values for the homebuilder, or owner, was the amortized mortgage loan. The earliest known mortgage, he said, was a clay tablet in the British museum, which showed a pladge of security in land, for the repayment of a loan, with a bonus to represent inmortgage. The tablet was Chaldean, many thousands of years old.

ligence," he said, "we have not gotten very far from that tablet." the country which was aiding in home-buying, was the building loan, which he said, had now assets of more than two billion of dollars and which made yearly loans of more than half a million

"The building loan companies of the United States," he said, "outnumber two to one, the national banks of the United States. They represent more than four times the amount of capital invested. They are as closely scrutinized as the na tional banks. They are under the closest of state supervision."

He declared he had been told the Los Angeles metropolitan district outside of the city, was short 15,000 homes. He indicated the only force that would build them was the building loan. Analyzing the source of funds for home-builders, he declared private money was out of the market, because the income tax and the various surtaxes made mortgage oans unprofitable. The banks, the second source, he said, were forbidden in this state, to take on loans extending more than five years, and th federal reserve act discouraged tying up funds for that length of time. The third source was the insurance companies.

"And during the "flu" epidemic, one company lost $50,000,000 more than it received," he said; "which taught the insurance companies to keep their funds more or less ng loan associations," he declared, for they are not given to blowing heir horns. They should advertise, make their methods and their successes known. Once the people know, the associations will have all they can use.

The remaining source was the building loan companies. "You seldom hear of the build-

It was a mistake to suppose, he said, that the interests of banks were opposed to those of the. building loan associations. The money the associations received ing fund might be established in never had been in bank and never would get theme, excepting in the of the city. mobilization by the association, which would open one account, instead of there being many thou-"The money going into the asso-

Squad to Call Attention to Abuse of Alleys in Business District

Glendale merchants must cease using the alleys of the business district for storerooms, according to Chief of Police Fraser. A squad of police was sent through the business district this morning to gently remind the merhants that if they want more room for storage purposes they may add an ad ditional story to the building, but they cannot use the alleys for this When talking on this subject this morning, Chief Fraser said: "This practice of placing boxes, barrels and the like in the alleys is one of the greatest hindrances to fire and police protection there is in Glendale. Some of the alleys it would be practically impossible to fight the flames to advantage should fire break out in some of the large business buildings of Glen-For this reason, if for ho other, all this trash should be re-

"Then there is the matter of police protection. If there are crooks in any of these cluttered-up alleys, it would be the easiest thing in world for the law-breaker to hide in one of these boxes and to pick off our officers when they go in to find them. In this regard the police department is working

Such statements were heard many times by a correspondent of the United Press during the course of interviews with a number of important importers of Buenos Aires, whose opinions he asked concerning the possibilities of American business in the Argentine.

Some of the importers showed themselves to be more optimistic and admitted that the United States today holds a strong position in international trade, hoping that more exporters and manufacturers of North America, in view of the undeniable importance of business in this part of the contihent where nearly all of the manufactured articles consumed are imported, would adapt themselves to the commercial methods, conditions and terms to which business has grown accustomed by dealing with European houses. Thus they would place themselves in a favorable position to compete with England, Germany, France, Italy and other countries that have long been well established here. JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL of Massachusetts was ambassador to Great Britain during the administration of Hays, Garfield and

Our public libraries have an indispensable place in the general educational system. There can be no doubt as to that. But are those in charge of them—the trustees and the librarians—doing all that they might to familiarize the public with the possibilities of the librarians.

These questions inevitably frame themselves when one considers how small a proportion of the people in most communities are library.

Throughout the country, in fact, there are multitudes who not merely never visit a public library, but have not the faintest conception of what a public library could mean to them. In proof of which one has only to draw upon the testimony of librarians themselves, giving, for example, their experiences as workers in the army camp libraries during the World War.

"Many soldiers," to quote a report by Mr. Carl H. Milam, secretary of the American Library association, "came into the camp libraries out of curiosity and were amazed to find so many books in one place. They could hardly be made to believe that the books could be used either in or out of the library free of charge.

"Many of these men came from communities which do not support public libraries. But there were thousands of those who came from good library cities who were almost as ignorant of libraries and their ways as were those men who came from rural districts. Libraries had en available to them, but libraries had not reached them."

Yet, having once learned how they might make libraries of profit to themselves, large numbers of these same men enthusiastically resorted to them. So numerously did they resort that within two years some 0,000 volumes were used in the camp libraries, and to a large extent

What is needed, clearly, is education of the public to more general appreciation of how libraries can aid in the gaining of happiness and the winning of success. From time to time librarians and trustees might well undertake "library drives," providing their local clergymen, teachers and newspaper editors with "live" and inspiring data for use in the churches, schools and news or editorial columns.

Generous co-operation the libraries could confidently count on. For as every intelligent person knows well, the more effectively the need and the means for self improvement are impressed upon the people of a nation, the brighter the outlook for that nation.

And if today suffering, poverty and misery are much in eviderate one reason undoubtedly is that many people are unaware of the facilities available to them for making themselves more competent and prosperous—facilities among which the public library is of prime significance.

ecedent. "Whaddya mean, 'precedent'?" asked Representative Dummer. "No war can really be finished, wrapped up, filed away, and forgotten until there's been an investigation into a flock of rumors that the contractors who produced the weapons and supplies were allota second-story men," replied Senator Dumm. "There's never been a war in world history that wasn't fol-lowed by a graft inquiry." "You mean in recent world history," corrected Dummer.

"I make no exceptions," insisted Dumm! "Back in biblical days, when the jawbones of asses were the heavy artillery of the com

"I daresay the contractor who built the famous Wooden Horse of Troy was criticized," ventured

"Sure he was!" said Senator Dumm. "They'd no sooner wheeled the Wooden Horse away from the gates of Troy after the victory than citizens began writing papers to the newspapers insisting that the horse had been built on a percentage-plus basis, and that it amounted to plain robbery of the government."

Dummer seemed rather amazed at Dumm's fund of information.

"The ancient Greeks had investigation after investigation into charges that the gold bracelets they used to wear into battle were orass, and that the designs on their shields, swords and helmets were not up to specifications," resumed Senator Dumm. "You know how was the custom in Sparta to bring a dead Spartan home on his shield?"

"I remember reading about it," said Dummer.

"Well, there was lots of cases where the shields were made out of such poor material that when the soldiers placed the body of a dead Spartan on it and then picked it up at each end, it would break in the middle.'

"Did they hold investigations in those days?" asked Dummer. "There were too many wars," replied Dumm. "Before they could get an investigation started another

But worse of all, after Hannibal had reached the top of the Alps the sleds he had promised so he could slide down the other side didn't arrive."

Dummer was clearly stunned by Senator Dumm's ready knowledge of history.

"Look at Julius Caesar," exclaimed Senator Dumm. "Where?" asked Dummer, turnng quickly.

"In history," replied Dumm. "Do you know the truth about his assassination?"

"No," admitted Dummer.

LA CRESCENTA Spring Pastimes. WOMEN END CLUB YEAR

Final Meeting Is Held at School House With Flag

Day Observance LA CRECENTA, June 16.—The final meeting of the La Crecenta Woman's club was held at the school Wednesday afternoon. The retiring president, Mrs. F. H. Anderson, in the chair. Wednesday being Flag day the session was opened with observance of Flag day. During the business meeting the treasurer, Mrs. E. N. Nettleton, gave a report on the finances of the year. The club's checking and savings account totaled $225.15 at the opening of the club year in October. The present total is $992.24. The club also possesses one acre on Los Angeles avenue, four shares of Crecenta Mutual water and $1050 in Liberty bonds. The entertainments of the club during the year added $660.79 to the treasury and the donations for charity and gifts totaled $191. The club has been greatly handicapped this year as the enlarging and improving the school auditorium prevented having many entertainments and dances planned. Much credit is due the retiring president, Mrs. F. H. Anderson, for the success of the closing year. Installation of officers followed the treasurer's report. The officers for the coming year are Mrs. M. S. Collins, president; Mrs. Charles Turk, first vice-president; Mrs. Seynwur Thomas, second vice-president; Mrs. J. Vernon Hall, third vice-president; Mrs. George Dunlap, fourth vice-president; Mrs. C. Culberren, treasurer; Mrs. F. Pinkus, secretary; Mrs. A. LARGE LAND HOLDINGS

An English syndicate is said to have purchased the Buttonwood ranch in the San Joaquin valley for $12,000,000. The tract consists of 150,000 acres. At first glance this does not seem an indication that large land holdings are to be broken up. However, upon reflection that this area was once a part of the Miller & Lux domain, that consisted of 14,539,200 acres of land in California, Oregon and Nevada, the fact is perceived that the breaking up process has

WEDS H.L. MILLER AT BAKERSFIELD

Morning, Consummating Three-Year Romance

Dan Cupid has won another victory in Glendale, At noon today H. L. Miller, one of the city's leading real estate dealers and insurance men, was married to Miss M. J. Jackman of 1256 South Orange street. The wedding took place in Bakersfield. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for Yosemite valley, where they wil. spend their honeymoon.

Glendale this morning at 5 a. m. On their return the bride and groom will be at home to their many friends at 1223 North Central avenue in the largest unit of the newly built bungalow court.

Mr. Miller is well known in Glen-dale, having been engaged in the real estate and insurance business in this city for the past 15 years He has been identified with the business life of Los Angeles county for the past 26 years.

Since coming to Glendale Mr. Miller has taken an active interest in business and civic circles. His wide experience in real estate has combined with his genial personality to make him one of Glendale's most successful men.

Miss Jackman is from Detroit, Mich. She moved to Glendale more than three years ago and has won many friends.

The romance is of about three years' duration and the happy culmination has wreathed the bridegroom's face with smiles. The couple will stop in Yosemite valley until July 1. They will make their headquarters either at Camp Curry or Yosemite lodge.

MISS M.J. JACKMAN THURSDAY CLUB MRS. HOLDS PICNIC

Motor From Glendale This Installation of Officers Is Mrs. John Dunn, Tuesday Held At Southwest Museum

> About 75 members and friends of he Thursday Afternoon club enjoyed their annual outing at Southwestern museum, Los Angeles, on Thursday, at which time the installation of officers for the ensuing year took place.

The ladies met at the South Glendale branch library about noon and motored to the museum, where Mr. Miller and his bride left silver, dishes and accommodations being furnished by the museum free of charge. The long, shady balcony on one side of the building, which overlooked a beautiful green valley, was set with a long table, favors of red carnations, the club flower, being found at each place.

After the bountiful luncheon had been served, Mrs. E. V. Bacon, retiring president, introduced Mrs. Frances King Headlee, educational secretary of the museum, with offices at 218 Coulter building, who has charge of the downtown of-fices. She told of the work being done by the museum and how, during the past years, 70 clubs of Los Angeles and vicinity had been taken through the museum on a personally conducted tour by Dr.

John Comstock, who explains all of the exhibits. Mrs. Headlee stated that the museum was kept up by a group of very wealthy peo ple, who started this work in 1908. the exhibits being shown in Hamburger's. In 1914 their present ouilding was completed and all exhibits moved there. She told of how, during the war, the attention of the people was directed to other things and they sort of forgot about the museum, but contrary to this, over 5000 children have visited there since March 1. The long tunnel and elevator which lifts its passengers up ten loors to the first floor of the museum, makes it more accessible, as heretofore it was necessary to climb a long flight of stairs.

A membership in the museum is $10 a year, and they hope to increase their present membership After this splendid and interesting talk, Mrs. Bacon, in retiring as president, thanked all of her of-ficers and members for the courtesy and co-operation shown her during her time of office and she presented all officers with a bouquet of red carnations and baby's breath. Mrs. W. C. Mabry, the new president, spoke a few words, stating that she hoped her term of office would be as successful as the one just finished and at this time she was presented with a beautiful R. P. Jodon will take charge.

After the business session those who cared to, adjourned to the interior of the museum, where Dr. Comstock conducted the ladies through the building, explaining step by step, the wonderful exhibits found there.

An exhibit of especial interest to many Glendale people was the one donated to the museum by Mrs. Mary A. Ayars of 223 East Palmer avenue. It is an exhibit of both polished and unpolished gems, as well as many minerals. This wonderful collection was gotten to gether by her husband, the late Edward Ayars, and the large cabinet in which they are displayed was made by Mr. Ayars entirely by hand. Mrs. Ayars gave this exhibition in memory of Mr. Ayars, as it will remain untouched there and is very interesting. The day closed by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and everyone felt that the day was well spent. The museum extends to any club or private parties interested in such work, a cordial invitation to come and take advantage of their picnic accommodations. Anyone wishing to get in touch with Mrs.

Headlee, phone her at 15937. The committee in charge of the picnic included: Chairman, Mrs. H. C. Wesley; Mrs. Becker, Mrs. F. B. Storer, Mrs. L. C. Rice and Mrs. John Server. -*-

The question is of immense significance for all Europe, because if we are wrong in believing that we are now at peace, it is quite clear that we are not going the right way to improve the conditions that are troubling the world today.

Before the war, it was estimated that in normal circumstances Eorope held 3,500,000 men under significance on and all to restore her terrible losses.

Let's go back to April 25, 1921.
On this fateful morning, the Daily Express, one of London's penny newspapers, announced to its public that any reader who took the trouble to sign a coupon to say that he was a registered reader, with a certain specified news agent, would be paid the sum of £1000 in the event of his, or his wife's death.

This started the great newspaper insurance race. The next morning the Daily Chronicle countered with a similar proposition, but increasing the £1000 to £1500.

The next stage in the great race came when George Cadbury, the cocoa magnate, entered the game with a comprehensive accident and "all in" policy in his Daily News.
The four early entries in the newspaper insurance race was and is known as "The Big Four."
Newspapers sold like hotcakes.

Mass of People Turned Against Plans of Generals

TOKYO, (By Mail) .- Among the masses of the people in Japan milar every day.

The militarist leaders still retain their power-but by a margin more slender and with a grip more precarious and uncertain than ever

How long they can hold out against the increasing tide of copular desire is a matter of conecture. It may be brief. It may be long. But ultimately—unless every clear indication of today is

That will mean a reduction in the size of Japan's standing army shorter term of compulsory miltary service, a great curtailment in the cost of running the government, increased money and energy applied to industry by government and individuals, and, of most importance, a government more responsible to the wishes of the

For months numerous newspapers and many political leaders have been hammering militarism, emanding Siberian evacuation and army reduction. This campaign is stronger now than it has ever been, is still increasing and bids fair to continue in crescendo effect until the object is accom-plished—however long that may

The reaction of the people is distinctly apparent. This spring thousands of youths throughout Japan are being called to the colors, under the universal compulsory military service system. In every city and village and hamlet draft boards are now finding more attempts to evade service than they have ever experienced. according to numerous reports in the Japanese newspapers.

In some cases drafted men have shown absolute defiance—a thing not known before and one of much significance. The Osaka Mainichi tells of a conscript who declared to the military inspector:

"I am a socialist by business. I you put me in the army I will bolshevize the whole barracks!" He wasn't put in the army. He was put in jail. He is just out of college, had just secured his first ob with a big Osaka mercantile louse, and is fairly representative of that vast army of young students abroad in Japan today-virtually all of liberal tendencies, of political penchant and progressive ambition. in the viewpoint and attitude of the young men of Japan. There was a time in the past when every boy, almost, wanted to be a soldier. The height of ambition was to be changed. The boy, the college student, wants to be a professional or business man or a politician or enter public service. He wants to avoid the army if he can possi-bly do so. He wants to get fame, money, to lead a peaceful and a successful life in private enterprise. We are too busy, there are too many things we want to do, to give at least two years of our lives -maybe more-and spend millions of our money each year on our army-and perhaps bring about nother war sometime because of the existence of that army."

I have talked at every opportunity to as many Japanese men as I could on this subject, and I have found the sentiments express-ed by this editor of one of Japan's greatest newspapers to be very apparently, among the younger men who within the decade may, and who within a generation certainly will, control Japan's busi-

Members of the Dixmoor Golf club of Chicago will now satisfy both their desire to play their favorite game on Sunday and at the same time look after their spiritual welfare. A radiophone has been installed in the clubhouse, at the suggestion of the local pastors, who claim that their congregations prefer golf to church. O. C. Upham, president of the club, solved the problem by saying that as the golfers could not be brought to the church, the church will be brought to the golfers, via radiophone. contribution plate will be placed at the eighteenth hole.

Drop Word Signs of Native Land for Modern Alphabet

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16 .-Japanese students in Hawaii may adopt Roman print and script for textbooks in the Japanese language, instead of continuing to employ the old "word signs" still used in the Nipponese isles.

A special Japanese committee in the Hawaiian islands, headed by former Japanese Consul General Chonosuka Yada, is now considering the proposition in connection with proposed changes in the text-books for use in the Japanese language schools.

Newly Elected President Explains Program to Induce Unity of Action

WOMEN'S CLUB

At the meeting of the Pusiness Professional Women's Club held Tuesday evening, at club headquarters on South Brand boulevard, Dr. Laura Brown, newly headquarters elected head of the organization, officially presided for the first

In speaking of her hopes for the organization the coming year, she said: "We have not thus far been able to carry out one of the chief objects mentioned in our conchief objects mentioned in our constitution. We have not become thoroughly acquainted with each other. Until we do, the possibilities of our club cannot be realized. I feel we should make that our aim this summer, and the monthly mention meating the picnic meetings the club voted to hold in Verdugo Woodlands should do much to bring us together socially. After we know ourselves we should branch out and become acquainted with the business women of the state and the nation.

"Everyone a worker is going to be our slogan for the coming year, and our committee work is so varied that the opportunities for service will be unlimited.

"Service is all that makes any worth while. As Lowell phrased it:

'Tis not what we give, But what we share, For the gift without the giver is bare.'

"We want every member to give not her membership alone, but herself, in the building up of an organization that will be of real value to business women and the com-"Getting acquainted is the preliminary to team work for the good of all. We want to be in a posi-tion to perfect the things already begun, to enlarge their capacity for good. We have made a good start with the restroom and the vocational guidance department, but it is only a start. To make both serve the club and the community as they should, we must support them unitedly and whole-heartedly. We must learn to work and play together."

The Lawyer-"Well, shall we take the jury as it stands?"

The Accused-"Better fire the married women, counsellor. They always convict on the slightest cir-cumstantial evidence."

NOTED WOMEN TO ATTEND FEDERATION BIENNIAL CONVENTION

Among the notable women who will attend the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs, beginning June 20 at Chautaufua, N. Y., will be Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey, honorary president general, of Independence, Kan.; Mrs. Addison E. Sheldon, director-general of the federation for Nebraska, is chairman of the rules and procedure committee; Mrs. Burritt Hamilton is director-general of the federation; Mrs. Wallace Thayer Perham of Glendive, Mont., is candidate for the second vice-presidency; Mrs. Walter W. Seymour of Chicago will speak on "Friendly Co-operation with the Ex-service Man"; Mrs. Edward Franklin White, deputy attorney-general of Indiana, is chairman of the legislative department of the federation; Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin, Texas, is past president and chairman of the department of American citizenship. man of the department of American citizenship.

The .Tuesday Afternoon club of this city is not likely to be represented at the biennial meeting of the National Federation of Women's clubs to be held at Chautauqua, New York, beginning June 20. While several members are going east, none felt they could time their visits or arrange their itinerary to take it in.

Mrs. Hutchinson, president of the club, says the advance information relative to the biennial which was presented at the recent state federation meeting, did not give promise of any new or big issues to come before the national body. National officers intimated, however, that they would like to come to Los Angeles for the next meeting and that an invitation from this district would probably receive very favorable consideration. Los Angeles is becoming the convention mecca and the national federation has the more reason for desiring to journey this way be cause it has been entertained here before and knows what it will mean in the way of a good time

The state federation of California therefore voted to extend the invitation, which will be duly pre-sented. It means a tremendous task and responsibility if accepted, but the Los Angeles district, upon which the burden will fall chiefly, has never shirked. It is always in harness and if accepted there will be two years for preparation. While Glendale may not be rep resented, there will be many dele-gates from Los Angeles so well known here as to be regarded as sister club members.

Many prominent women from other states who are officers of who will have a place upon the program will make it a most ineresting gathering because it will be so representative of the woman-hood of the United States, of the women who are promoting movements for the benefit of their sex and the community.

Though California was in the van of the suffrage movement and was a member of the team of states that drew the nation out of its rut, and promoted the movement give the vote to women, her new voters have been rather conservative about serving as candidates for political offices, particularly in Southern California.

The northern women are said to be more willing to take a sporting chance in the arena of politics and to be more adventurous. That is an anomaly too, because suffrage carried overwhelmingly in the south, but was as overwhelm ingly defeated in the San Francis co and Alameda territory. Had not the southern vote been reinforce by the vote of the country districts of the north, California women would not have received the ballot when they did.

Several northern women have served in the legislature and will probably be returned by their dis tricts. Mrs. Anna Saylor of Berkeley is one who will stand for reelection to the legislature. Mrs. Eizabeth Hughes of Oroville is an other who will be a candidate for re-election to the assembly:

in the full glow of the footlights, was a hedge of golden coreopsis, terminating in two tall bouquets of bright-hued flowers. Behind this beautiful floral decoration sat Superintendent Richardson D. White County Superintendent of White, County Superintendent of Schools Mark Keppel, and Mrs.

Brown.

The musical program, which was excellent and which was directed by Miss Elsa Brenneman, superby Miss Elsa Brenneman, supervisor of music in the city schools, began with a march by the school orchestra, which served as a processional for the class. Then came a fine boys' chorus, which sang "The Gypsy Trail" (Holfoway), and "In Spain" (Chiara), in a manner which called forth a storm of applause. No less satisfactory was the number by the factory was the number by the girls' glee club, the ultra-modern "Mandolins and Moonlight" (Bliss). The last music and the concluding number of the program, was the Kipling-De Koven "Recessional," sung by a girls' chorus, accom-panied by the orchestra.

Mr. White briefly expressed his wn pride and pleasure in the class ne was presenting, and introduced Mr. Keppel, who met his audience on a plane of sympathetic under standing and made an interesting address, which was frequently interrupted by applause.

He admonished the class to seek the life intellectual, the life of those who think, declaring there never was a time when the demand for close, careful, determined thinking and concluding was as great as it is now, a demand that will increase. said he:

"As the years go by, you will have to succeed on the strength of your own endeavor rather than of your own endeavor rather than on your ability to go out and grab a piece of the unclaimed natural resources of the country. The pioneers of the '50's who came to California, could take possession of as large a piece of land as they wanted. There lay the unclaimed wealth of all the ages, and they, and those who came after them, laid hands upon it. Now it is in the possession of your fathers and mothers. If you get any of it, it must come by gift or earning it by the strength of your endeavor, of your capacity, of your mind, and the determination of your will. The struggle to accomplish that thing will ever increase in this country as the population increases, and the possession of the natural resources becomes more difficult. The rewards of thinking are the real rewards of life."

If a man believes all a woman says—but, of course, he doesn't, so that settles it.

Five acres were sold recently, to be used as chool grounds, and the remainder, all but the home acre, will subdivided and sold ere long.

The recent death of Adrian C. nson, one of the old-time kings of the diamond, removed a pic-turesque figure. "Pop" Anson, as he was universally called, was in baseball for many years, starting his career in Marshalltown, Iowa. When he finally broke into professional baseball, he was still a youngster, but he made good from the start. He was 6 feet 5 inches tall, in his prime, and he was as ever saw. He was onto al able to win many pennants for Chicago, The first time I saw him play was in 1886, I think, when team played the St. Louis Browns, in the latter city. John Clarkson and George McCormick were Anson's pitchers then, and I hoped that Clarkson would pitch that day, but I was disappointed, McCormick occupying the mound. Sweeney, former mound star of the famous Providence, R. I., team, twirled for St. Louis. Chicago and New York were tied in the pennant race, and this was the deciding game. Chicago won, 3 to 2, and New York lost, so the former bore off the honors. On the Chicago team that day were men then famous in baseball—Mike Kelly, Hutchinson pitched, and the score was 3 to 0 in Chicago's favor. In the other, little Ad Gumbert was the twirler, and again Chicago was the twirler, and again Chicago was victorious. The first games of baseball I saw were played much differently from the present methods. Then, the pitcher really pitched the ball, without any at tempt to curve. Even an inderhanded throw was barred. The result was spine very heavy batting, more than 100 scores being made often in a single game. Fielders were important then, and had to be good catchers. Only the lightest of gloves were used, and many played bare-handed.

Oh, Friend of mine, seek not to pry Into the moods of me, Nor as a wondering child ask why Must this or that thing be. But love me as I am, and let The moods of me be secrets yet.

Oh, Friend of mine, let me still own Some treasured things apart, And let me sometimes walk alone The pathways of my heart. And in the heavens let to shine Some hidden stars completely mine.

Oh, Friend of mine, think not to share The dreams that come and go, With how and why and when and where, But let the dreams be so Completely mine as yours may be Nor bidden to be shared with me.

Oh, Friend of mine, with gladness still Are thine, to cherish as you will Through all the days and years. And when in spirit's unknown land You walk alone, I understand.

ENGLAND

Roger W. Babson, Famous Statisti-cian, Sees Northeast Ready for Prosperity

"If you were to study a chart showing the path of a business depression you would note its striking resemblance to a weather map outlining the path of a storm. The present depression was first evident in New England and has spread southward and westward until it centers today in the wheat growing section of the middle west," said Roger W. Babson,

"In 1914 New England produced 53 per cent of all the shoes made in the United States; this decreased to 48 per cent in 1919, and the latest figure shows that production of all grades of shoes during November, 1921, was only 37½ per cent of the total United States production. The western manufacturers have increased their share of total business by producing medium-priced, good quality shoes, which can be made ond marketed in quantity. MEMBERS AT DINNER

On to Los Angeles" Committee Head Tells of Trip

Several new members were taken into the Rotary club yesterday at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of that organization.

President Roy Kent extended a greeting to these members. J. I.

Werneste responded for the new members. President Kent said that all of the new members would be called on at the next meeting to give brief talks on their impression of "Rotary."

A memorandum book signed by all of the members of the Glendale club was presented to "Herb" Smith, who is leaving for Europe to attend the convention of National Grocers scheduled for next month. President Kent welcomed C. C. Cooper as the first president of the Glendale Rotary club. Mr. Cooper has just returned from a trip through the east.

Val Hollister, who was chairman of the "On to Los Angeles" com-mittee, was called on for a report of the activities of that committee during the recent convention. He reported that more than 100 automobiles were used to bring visitors to Glendale, Pasadena and Eagle Rock on the first Monday of the convention. He said that in his opinion this trip was one of the best advertisements that Glendale has ever had.

Several other members gave brief outlines of their impressions of the convention. There were 32 members and visitors present. The meeting was opened with the singing of several
