SAFETY WEEK CARDS AT LUNCHEON

Announcement of Campaign Is Made at Meeting of Merchants' Body

Cards calling attention to the automobile safety week in Glendale, August 10 to 16, under the direction of The Glendale Evening News, were placed at each plate today noon when the members of the Glendale Merchants' association met at the Alley Inn for the regular meeting.

The announcement of the plan caused considerable comment among the business men and all expressed their desire to see a week pass in Glendale without any automobile accidents.

Supervisor Henry W. Wright of the fifth district of Los Angeles county, told the merchants and their guests some facts concerning the work the county supervisors are required to do and the tasks confronting them. He spoke at length on the work of the supervisors sitting as a board of equalization, and said that only 700 claims were filed this year. Of this number about 200 were acted upon, he said.

Traffic Situation

Wright said he felt the county should help in remedying the traffic situation on Glendale boulevard near Ivanhoe, where one narrow bridge must handle all the automobile traffic between this city and Los Angeles. He suggested the erection of another bridge, and the widening of the present one. The widening of Los Feliz road must come soon, he said, and advocated instead of only one highway, two highways, one for pleasure cars and one for trucks.

The supervisors had ordered $60,000 paid to Glendale to aid in the improving of San Fernando road within the city limits, and $100,000 to Los Angeles, for improving San Fernando road within Los Angeles. Los Angeles also receives $10,000 for improving Glendale boulevard in Los Angeles, he said.

The assessed valuation of Los Angeles county last year was $1,400,000,000, Mr. Wright said, larger than the assessed valuation of any one of sixteen states. The valuation this year, he said, will be more than $1,600,000,000.

Urges Optimism

Len Hadcock, realtor, impressed upon the merchants the need for utmost optimism in transacting all business. He said the merchants meet more people in one day than any other organization or line of business, and if the merchants became pessimistic, trade would fall off. The financial standing of Los Angeles county is stronger today than ever, he said, and will continue to grow as the years progress. If business came to a standstill in this section of the United States, he said, business would be at a standstill throughout the entire country.

Glendale to Benefit

The port of Los Angeles will soon become the main port of the United States for shipments to South America, he said. The industrial center of the United States is moving towards Los Angeles county, and the time is not far distant when the county will be the biggest industrial center in the world, he said. Glendale will benefit by all these moves, he said, as the new tunnel being built by the Pacific Electric company will mean more people to come to this city.

Prizes Awarded

C. J. Hatz, president of the organization, presided. The attendance prize, donated by Fred H. Roberts, of Roberts & Echols, was won by G. O. Piercey. A special prize, also donated by Mr. Roberts, was awarded to W. P. Potter. City Manager V. B. Stone was a guest of the organization at the meeting. The first Monday of each month has been designated an open meeting date by the association, when each member is expected to bring a guest.

Burbank, Wizard On Plants, Gets Improved Zinnia

SANTA ROSA, Aug. 4.—Luther Burbank, famed horticulturalist, announced today that he had succeeded in perfecting a new variety of zinnia, which is larger and more rich in color than any produced so far. The zinnia is a form of dahlia.

TWO WOMEN HURT AS AUTO UPSETS

Mrs. George N. Ruggles and Mrs. Crawford Lorton Accident Victims

Mrs. George N. Ruggles of 418 West Maple avenue is reported to be injured internally and in a critical condition, following an automobile accident last night on San Fernando road, Burbank, near the Glendale city limits; and Mrs. Crawford Lorton of Los Angeles is reported to have sustained a crushed leg and other serious injuries.

Mr. Ruggles and Mr. Lorton, the other occupants of the car, were both slightly injured, as were Mr. and Mrs. Colvin Heath of Pomona, drivers of the other car, according to the report filed at Glendale police headquarters. Mrs. Ruggles and Mrs. Crawford were treated at a Burbank hospital, then removed to their homes where they are under the care of physicians.

Auto Overturns

The accident occurred at 7 o'clock last night, at the corner of San Fernando road and Sonora avenue. The car containing Mr. and Mrs. Lorton and Mr. and Mrs. Ruggles was proceeding south, it is reported, when at the Sonora avenue intersection the car containing Mr. and Mrs. Heath started across San Fernando road.

Both cars applied their brakes, but the Heath machine tipped the rear of the Ruggles machine, overturning it, according to eyewitnesses. Mrs. Ruggles is believed to have been caught and crushed against the side of the car as it went over. In a similar manner Mrs. Lorton is thought to have sustained a crushed leg. Both cars suffered serious damage, declare those who saw the accident.

Davis Completes His Speech of Acceptance

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—His speech of acceptance in the hands of the printer, John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, was taking things easy today, even refusing to consider the next subject which confronts him—his personal campaign plans. He refused to say whether he will make any speeches, go to many places, or to only the important centers. "Nothing has been decided yet," he said.

Davis finished his speech of acceptance Saturday night. He relaxed completely Sunday. He took a horseback ride during the morning and in the afternoon received friends at his Locust valley home.

Firebug Blamed for $100,000 Lumber Fire

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 4.—A spectacular fire which defied the efforts of seven fire companies to control it early today destroyed the lumber yards of the Success Manufacturing company, with a loss estimated at $100,000. The fire is believed by police to have been set by a firebug, as witnesses reported having seen a man run from the yards a few minutes before the blaze was discovered. The Wilson Cahill plant, in which is stored $100,000 worth of lumber, was endangered by the blaze and firemen finally concentrated their efforts in saving this plant.

RESUMES FLIGHT

FIRE, DROUGHT HITS HARD IN NORTH

City Manager Stone, Back From Vacation, Tells Of Conditions

Serious forest fire and drought conditions in Northern California and Oregon are pictured by Virgil B. Stone, of 213 East Lomita avenue, Glendale city manager, on his return from a two-weeks' motor trip to Portland and up the Columbia river highway. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Stone and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Webster, the latter of Los Angeles. They returned Saturday night.

"Portland and Glendale are both facing a similar water situation," declares Mr. Stone. "Both have plenty of water available at the right season, but both must take steps to conserve it against a future emergency such as the present dry season has produced. We can profit by the experience of Portland, where a rigid water conservation schedule is now in effect."

Hidden by Smoke
"There was so much smoke in the air that we could not see Mt. Hood or the Cascade range. In the vicinity of Mt. Shasta there were three separate forest fires burning and at night the sight was awe-inspiring. We seemed to be hemmed in by fire."

"We found a great deal of work being done on the highways in the north. Much of this work was to widen and re-grade roads that had been poorly planned. In Oregon the state speed limit is 30 miles an hour and motor officers patrol the roads in automobiles. In Sacramento, there is a 10-mile-an-hour limit in the business districts."

Fine City Halls
"I was impressed with the many beautiful and spacious city halls and cities all along the line. One realizes after making this trip that the Glendale city hall is not a credit to a city of nearly 60,000 people."

"And, speaking about population, everyone is astounded over the rapid growth of Glendale. Officials and real estate men cannot understand what it is we have here that makes this city grow by leaps and bounds."

The party drove to Portland by the coast route and returned the inland route, taking in Eureka and the famous Redwood highway.

Aviator Reports Flames In Santa Monica Mountains

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—Lieutenant Moseley of the United States air service, stationed at Cloverfield, today reported a huge conflagration raging in the Santa Monica mountains due north of Sawtelle, following a flight over the area, said information received here by the United States district forester's office.

SLAYER'S MENTAL STATUS IS TOLD

Alienist Claims Leopold Has Paranoid Personality In Murder Trial

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., the cold, unemotional young college intellectual who supplied "the brains" for the kidnaping and slaying of little Bobby Franks by himself and Richard A. Loeb, is "thoroughly unbalanced" and has a "paranoid personality," Dr. William Healy, a Boston psychiatrist, and the second of the defense alienists to take the stand in the lawyers' battle to save the young slayers from the gallows, pronounced this judgment on Leopold this afternoon from the witness stand in Judge Caverly's court.

Terms Unchallenged
"Is he sane or is he insane?" softly inquired State's Attorney Crowe.

"He is neither sane nor insane, in my judgment. I don't use those terms," blandly replied the Boston alienist.

These questions, hitherto forbidden in this unusual trial, went unchallenged by either the defense counsel or by Judge Caverly on the bench.

SEN. TOWNSEND DIES

JACKSON, Mich., Aug. 4.—Charles E. Townsend, for twelve years United States senator from Michigan, is dead. For twelve years, 1910 to 1922, Mr. Townsend served Michigan in the Senate, being defeated in 1922 by Senator Ferris.

DIES OF INJURIES

PASADENA, Aug. 4.—Mrs. Gladys E. Lavagnino, 28, actress, wife of an aviator, died here today from injuries received in an automobile accident. She was a resident of Washington, D. C., and known on the stage as Gladys Knorr.

COUNCIL TO GET BOND PROJECTS

Citizens' Committee Plans To Make Its Report Before Officials

The report of the citizens' bond committee, recommending bond issues totaling $1,705,973 for various civic improvements and projects, will be presented to the City Council tomorrow morning by D. H. Smith, general chairman of the Citizens' Bond committee. The report is being prepared today, according to Mrs. Frank Weller, secretary of the organization.

The Citizens' Bond committee, formed at the suggestion of city officials by service and civic organization appointing one member each, reviewed and passed on ten propositions outlined by City Manager V. B. Stone as suggestions for improvements in Glendale which would require a bond issue.

Decide Propositions
The final action of the committee on these projects was taken Thursday night in a meeting held in the Harvard High school auditorium.

Two of the ten propositions were passed upon favorably by the committee, of the subcommittees appointed to investigate the various projects. The committee members decided there was no need of a municipal hospital in Glendale at the present time, and rejected the idea to have a municipal power plant installed. Two other projects, one for city parks and one for water system enlargement, were divided, so there will be ten issues to vote on if the City Council acts favorably on the recommendations of the committee.

Various Items
These ten items and the amount of bond required for each are: Additional fire stations and equipment, $60,000; modern fire alarm system, $53,429; modern police alarm system, $36,294; civic center and city hall expansion, $650,000; repairing bridges over Verdugo wash, $12,750; water system improvements, $550,000; water-bearing land purchase, $126,000; city park site for northern part of city, $122,500; city park site for southern part of city, $25,000, and modern garbage disposal plant, $50,000.

Battle Is Reported
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 4.—Confirmation of reports that Honduras is in the throes of another revolution was given here today by members of the Central American colony who have received messages from the battle-scarred republic.

One of the messages reported that Marcus De Colon was attacked by 400 insurgents under the direction of Generals Julio Peralta, Jeremiah Fossaco and Toribio Rames, and stated that many were killed and wounded during the affray.

Fight Over Politics

Cause of the present revolution, according to members of the colony here, is dissatisfaction over the manner in which plans are being made for the coming election. General Tosa is charged with "fixing the machinery" in order to insure the naming of General Carrias as president.

Vicente Williams, acting as commercial representative here for the Honduran government, declares today "that the nation is a peaceful and tranquil state."

Local cable companies have refused to insure the delivery of messages to Honduras "on account of revolutionary conditions."

Children Meet Death Playing In Bathtub

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Mrs. Lillian Seigl never permitted her children, Edward, 7, and Ruth, 5, to play on the lake beach for fear of drowning. As usual today, during the hot weather, she filled the bath tub and let them play in it with toy boats. Notice a lull in their laughter, she rushed upstairs to find them locked in each other's arms, dead. The toys were floating over their bodies.

Prizes To Be Offered For Best Traffic Rules; Send In Your Ideas!

In connection with the "Safety Week" being directed by The Glendale Evening News with the assistance of the Automobile Club of Southern California, automobile dealers, merchants, churches, theatres, realtors, service clubs and citizens in general, EVERY RESIDENT OF GLENDALE HOLDING AN AUTO DRIVER'S LICENSE, with the exception of employees of this newspaper and members of their families, IS INVITED TO WRITE IN 200 WORDS OR LESS RULES AND REGULATIONS THAT WILL, WHEN FOLLOWED, MAKE FOR MORE CAREFUL DRIVING AND GENERAL SAFETY, BOTH AS TO OCCUPANTS OF AUTOS AND PEDESTRIANS. Write rules and regulations on one side of the paper, sign name and address, then mail to—

SAFETY WEEK EDITOR,
The Glendale Evening News,
139 South Brand Blvd.,
Glendale, California.

PRIZES WILL BE OFFERED FOR A NUMBER OF THE BEST LETTERS SUBMITTED. The list of prizes soon will be announced in The Glendale Evening News. The contest opens today. It will close Saturday, August 9, at midnight. Letters postmarked after that period will not be considered for the prizes.

Here's an opportunity for YOU to outline YOUR ideas on safe and sane auto driving, and, perhaps, secure one of the prizes to be presented. Rules and regulations already in force may be used. New ones may be devised. Present ones may be changed. But, in outlining the suggested rules and regulations, keep in mind that SAFETY for life and property must be the governing feature.

The judges, who will be announced in The Glendale Evening News before the close of the contest, will be persons experienced in traffic matters, and their decisions will be based upon SAFE and SANE rules and regulations.

Now then, send in your ideas to The Glendale Evening News. You don't have to wait until the final day of the contest.

Many Reported Killed After Rebel Forces Attack Marcus de Colon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Revolution has again broken out in Honduras despite the peace agreement recently negotiated through the efforts of the United States, said a dispatch to the state department today from Tegucigalpa.

BODY NOT MATTEOTI

ROME, Aug. 4.—A body believed to be that of Giacomo Matteotti, wealthy socialist member of the Chamber of Deputies, who was recently kidnaped and killed, was dug up in a Rome cemetery today but proved not to be Matteotti's.

TWO KILLED IN RIOT

PANAMA CITY, Aug. 4.—Two persons were reported killed today in an election riot in the interior.

One Dead, Seven Hurt, San Diego Auto Toll

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 4.—One dead and seven injured. That is the traffic toll today of automobile accidents in San Diego and vicinity over the week-end.

The dead person is Mrs. Margaret Martin, who received fatal injuries when she was struck down by an automobile driven by Miss Dorothy Harris. Miss Harris told authorities she did not know she had struck Mrs. Martin until she looked back and saw her victim lying prone in the street. Miss Harris was later released by authorities.

Repairs Cannot Be Made on Wrecked Plane

CORDOVA, Alaska, Aug. 4.—It will be necessary for Commander Stuart MacLaren, British round-the-world flyer, to abandon his flight, according to delayed radio advices reaching here today from the Canadian trawler Thiepvall.

According to the meagre advices received from the Thiepvall, the wings, floats and tail unit of MacLaren's plane were smashed in an accident off the Siberian coast and, as no spars were available, repairs could not be made.

The hull, gears and engine of the plane were salvaged and, with MacLaren and his flying companions, were taken aboard the Thiepvall.

BOXING BILL WINS PLACE ON BALLOT

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 4.—With petitions for the measure carrying nearly 8000 more signatures than were required, the proposed initiative boxing act, designed to legalize twelve-round no-decision bouts and ten-round decision fights in California, qualified for a place on the November ballot today.

BAN ENTERTAINMENT FOR AVIATORS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The war department today officially requested that all cities through which the American round-the-world flyers will pass en route to Seattle, where the flight will be terminated, refrain from providing formal entertainment for the airmen. General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service, decided to issue the request, following receipt of the cable from Lieutenant Smith, commandant of the world flight, just prior to the hop-off in England, in which he expressed the wish that entertainment programs be deferred until the flight is ended.

COMMENT That's All

Keeping a Diary
A Week-End Trip
The Highway Jam
Hint To Glendale

By Gil A. Cowan

Countless thousands of people keep a diary. Badge Bandit Dunlap, for one, expects notations in his diary will clear him of many of the crimes for which he is held, particularly those involving murder.

Practically all people prominent in public life keep a book of dates and events that is equivalent to a diary, while many tourists take advantage of this easy system to remember happenings along the way.

All girls are supposed to keep a diary, but few boys keep one, as witness the man in the army who has one today to even indicate what outfits he served with—very necessary information to obtain the bonus, although it is set forth on the discharge papers.

The writer is a miserable failure at keeping a diary—we mean diary—but should one be written of that period between Saturday evening and Monday morning it would indicate the kaleidoscope way the world carries on in this modern age.

To substitute personal experience for comment may be justified only in showing two or three facts. Having dined at home in Glendale Saturday night, a business trip to Murietta Springs caused preparations to be made for leaving as early as possible, which was late at night.

Going by way of Oceanside, a stop was made for a few winks of sleep, breakfast and a plunge in the surf. Now for a few facts:

Oceanside has a wonderful beach, the water is ideal, but all along the coast the oil tankers are losing a tar scum which is the bane of bathers.

Driving across the San Diego mountains to Murietta in Riverside county one finds the last of the "hoof-and-mouth disease" quarantine stations has been abandoned; also, an important strip of state paving remains incomplete, although the counties have done nobly in their work. However, it is not a bad trip to make on a holiday—the inland route to San Diego.

At Murietta Hot Springs the old-fashioned "family style" of serving meals is creating healthy appetites among the sick, the halt and the lame, not to mention those who go there for vacation purposes.

In the vicinity of Elsinore one finds the clay mines of the Los Angeles Brick company, also the Tropico Pottery, which advertises the fact it is a Glendale industry. Further development of Southern California's natural resources in that section is due, for nowhere else is such a variety of clay found, the writer is informed. It is a comparatively new region, and only cursorily explored. Exploitation will come as rapidly as markets develop, or vice versa.

Having dined at Murietta, the return trip to Glendale revealed some motoring information, particularly relating to cars and loads, not speed. Certain popular makes of motor cars are incapable of making the heavy grades of Santa Ana canyon at a speed much faster than a snail's pace. But they can coast down hill, and unwittingly drivers of slower cars hold the roads in their power until the resulting jam gives reckless drivers the opportunity of causing accidents.

There will come a day, not far distant, when the width of hay trucks will be regulated for safety's sake; hauling of heavy materials should be done over exclusive truck highways; also, the day is not far distant when Old Dobbin will be relegated from paved boulevards, tunnels and other places where the speed of the horse is not compatible to that of automotive traffic.

Another problem presenting itself is that of re-routing traffic during repairs on main boulevards. The county has a crew at work on Whittier boulevard. As a result thousands of drivers are lost in the maze of conflicting boulevards which lead seemingly everywhere except Los Angeles—with Downey road being the only direct line for the all too heavy traffic.

As a lesson for Glendale, San Fernando road should be widened, one-half at a time, rather than close that artery until such a time as Riverside drive or the new truck highway, now contemplated, is in use.

And, having a light supper in Glendale, after covering more than 250 miles of Southern California, the writer hastens to bed.

BOOTLEG HALLUCINATION
CORONA, Aug. 4.—"Tex" Miller, truck driver, is in the city jail as the result of a bootleg hallucination, according to the police. He thought someone had shot at him when his truck back-fired. He stopped on the Auburndale bridge and held up traffic with a wicked-looking revolver in an effort to find his "assailant." Officers Johnson and Mapes took him in tow on a drunk charge.

PROBE CYANIDE DEATH
SANTA ANA, Aug. 4.—An investigation is being conducted today into the death of a Mexican who was found in the store of D. O. Artz, the victim of cyanide poisoning. Artz had intended the fumes for vermin and mice in his general merchandise stock, he told officers. The Mexican is believed to have entered the store with intent to rob it.

RAPS "FUNNY BUSINESS"
BURBANK, Aug. 4.—A much heralded mass meeting called by J. W. Fawkes for the purpose of discussing the annexing of this city to Los Angeles nearly failed when the proposition claims he was "double crossed" by the municipal light department in its failure to illuminate the acreage reserved for the expected crowd. Fawkes finally hooked up the light lines with a private residence and the speeches were made. Another meeting without "funny business" next Saturday night is promised by Fawkes.

BOOSTS DAM PROJECT
CALEXICO, Aug. 4.—Congressman Phil D. Swing is running for re-election on an irrigation platform, so when Rockwood park was flooded Saturday night, it made no never minds to either the speaker or his audience. The congressman mounted a wagon top, while his hearers stood ankle deep in water to hear of the benefits of the Boulder canyon dam as proposed in Swin-Johnson bill.

CAPTURES BURGLARS
SAN PEDRO, Aug. 4.—Patrolman A. D. Smith, member of the illustrious family who predominates in America, has proved himself a "human burglar trap," according to reports on file here today. William Hughes, aged 19, is the second burglar he has caught red-handed in the last two weeks.

WOULD BAN PEDDLERS
TORRANCE, Aug. 4.—Because of the unusually large number of persistent peddlers working out of Los Angeles in this industrial community, the housewives have petitioned the city council to legislate the bell ringers out of town. A high license fee probably will result.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Aug. 4.—A. J. Scribner, commander of American Legion Post 250, Tujunga, and party attended a showing of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" Thursday evening.

Herbert Manners was the principal speaker at the weekly lunch meeting of the Tujunga Kiwanis club. Mr. Manners is an executive of the National Automobile Association, Southern California district.

A party of Kiwanis members attended the Kiwanis night program given Friday at the Hollywood bowl.

Leo Smith presided over the zone meeting of the Kiwanis clubs held in Tujunga and speakers included past Governor W. R. Brown and Judge Ira F. Thompson. All clubs in the third zone were represented among the eighty-nine members who enjoyed a chicken dinner prepared by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Miss Jessie Jackson, a former resident of Tujunga, has gone to Palms, Calif., where she has just finished composing a dance number for the piano.

John Loyd is moving his toy factory from Los Angeles to Tujunga and will have some announcements to make soon.

Two auto accidents resulted from the cars slipping off the narrow pavement of Michigan avenue and the wheels catching in the rut at the side of the paving. No one was injured.

M. V. Hartnaff will represent the Tujunga Valley Realty board at a meeting of the governing board to be held in Long Beach on August 16.

Dr. Leonora Bruner Sawyer has opened offices in Tujunga at 263½ East Monte Vista boulevard and will specialize in children's diseases and correction of defective eyesight.

Rev. and Mrs. Pasko are going on vacation August 5 to the Pacific Palisades, but Rev. Pasko will continue to preach on Sundays in the Tujunga Community church until the return of Rev. J. U. Stotts.

of the Tujunga Parent-Teacher association and clerk of the school board, had the misfortune to break her collar bone in an automobile accident while on a camping trip in the San Diego mountains with Mr. Reynolds and their children. Mrs. Reynolds was given first aid treatment in San Diego and taken to Los Angeles, where the bone was set.

Classes in the conduct of the real estate business will begin August 5 at the home of Leo Smith.

Tujunga school trustees have promised full co-operation in establishing a suitable playground for the children of Tujunga and Sunland and will give part of the Palm street site owned by the school board for the purpose if the Boy Scout executive committee, who are investigating the matter, desires. A site large enough to include a ball diamond is desired.

Miss Loreen Halsey, 26, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Halsey, of El Centro and Monte Vista boulevard, died at the family home following an illness of seven years. The funeral was held Tuesday and interment was in Forest Lawn cemetery.

Mrs. C. W. Byrer of Hillhaven, Tujunga, sailed Saturday from New York for a visit in England and Scotland. She expects to return in October.

Miss Lucy Hicks, who recently suffered severe injuries in an automobile accident on the Los Feliz road and spent several weeks in a Los Angeles hospital, is again at home in Tujunga.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kautz spent a short vacation at Topanga beach.

Miss Bertha Bergman and Miss Aileen Grant of Tujunga spent a week at Topanga beach as the guests of Mrs. A. C. Fenno.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Young of Corona have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kautz.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Warnick recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. George M. Donovan and Guy Hayes of Los Angeles.

Hottest spot in this country is Death Valley, Calif., the thermometer there registering as high as 134 degrees.

Seventy Entertained At Dinner In Park
TUJUNGA, Aug. 4.—John Steven McGoarty and M. V. Hartnaff recently entertained seventy guests, including men and women active in public and social affairs, at a dinner in the Garden of the Moon park. Among the guests was W. P. Whitsett, member of William Mulholland's board of public works. Lanker-shim, Van Nuys, San Fernando valley, Burbank, Pasadena and other nearby communities were represented. The guests enjoyed the privileges of the swimming pool in the park and dancing in the open air pavilion under the oak trees, during the afternoon and evening. Prominent members of civic organizations in the San Fernando valley were so favorably impressed with Tujunga that they pledged their support in better roads projects and for the building of more paved boulevards in Tujunga valley.

SOUTHLAND'S SUN SPREADS ITS TAN

Oregon Man Blames Sunburn On California Sands' Mineral Quality

By GIL A. COWAN For Southland News Service. LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—Are you a beach nut? Chances are two to one that you swim, bathe or (re)pose on the sands at the seashore in the good old summertime when it strikes Southern California.

Therefore the healthy tan the residents are acquiring from San Diego north. And sunburn is the topic of the day. Sunday's sun was more than searing for tender skins.

Comes forth a casual wanderer from Oregon to suggest that it is the sand, not the sun, which causes the severe burns. He points out the fact that the average person walking about the streets or working on the farms out in the open acquires a tan, but not a poisonous sunburn.

Oregon's Claims "The sand of Southern California," he avers, "is to be likened to that of Oregon, only in a different manner. Sand along Oregon's seacoast has purifying properties and works wonderfully on soiled clothes. The sand here seems to be so mineralized as to vitalize the sun's radiant rays."

Immediate argument arises, however, whether it is the sun or sand, just as whether the egg or the chicken came first. Sand without the sun is not potent unless artificially heated. The sun without the sand, if you please, does not burn. So it is the combination that causes the trouble.

Cold creams, olive oil and various patent preparations work very well, but again the sand wears off the skin covering and gets in its hottest work about that time. Sunburns are usually obtained in the afternoon siesta, a bather being fairly safe up to 10 o'clock in the morning, according to those who frequent the beaches.

Oil On Beaches Incidentally, Venice is to have a new coat of sand for its beach. San Pedro and other cities along the coast report that their sands are being ruined by oil from the tankers going in and out of port. It has been noticed as far south as Oceanside. Santa Barbara has help to contend with.

For those who strike "oil" on the beach it is necessary to use a bit of gasoline to removed the tarry substance. For those suffering from sunburn carron oil is often advised, although serious cases require the attention of a doctor for advice.

Nation Facing Unusual Situation In Election This Year, Says Writer

By CHESTER H. ROWELL Written for The Coolidge-Dawes Republican League Writing under the caption, "Why I Am for Coolidge," Chester H. Rowell, formerly publisher of The Fresno Republican and prominent for years in state politics, gives some interesting facts concerning the unusual national campaign now under way and, incidentally, devotes himself largely to Charles W. Bryan, who may be "put into the presidency by accident."

This is a campaign in which beyond precedent, "a condition and not a theory confronts us." There are three NOMINEES for president, but there are only two CANDIDATES, and one of these is a nominee, not for president, but for vice-president. The next president of the United States will be either Calvin Coolidge, elected by the people or Charles W. Bryan, not elected, but put in office by the accidental mechanics of an emergency makeshift. The only practical effect of any vote, no matter for whom formally cast, will be to help bring about one or the other of these results. Therefore, every voter who considers results must choose between these two alternatives. There is no other.

System To Blame This paradoxical situation results from the mathematics of our peculiar electoral system. To be elected president, a candidate must receive a majority of all the electoral votes. If President Coolidge has the united support of those who should normally be for him, he will have that majority, even allowing to Senator La Follette his own state and such of the neighboring states as he could reasonably hope to carry. If La Follette should carry an unexpectedly large number of states or if the vote of the remaining states should be unexpectedly close as between Coolidge and Davis, there would be no election. Every vote for either Davis or La Follette tends to bring about one or the other of these results. No combination of states now possible could give the election to Davis. It is either Coolidge or no election. And of that result California may easily be, as it was in 1916, the decisive state.

House May Pick In the event of no election, the choice of a president would go to the present House of Representatives, voting by states, between the three highest candidates, and the choice of a vice-president to the Senate, voting between the two highest candidates. The present House has not a majority of states for any candidate, and no president would be chosen. The Senate, by the casting vote of the Insurgent group, would elect Bryan vice-president, and he would succeed automatically to the vacancy. No such situation ever confronted the American people before.

There being only these two actual alternatives, voters have only to choose which of those results they prefer to promote. Considered either in its institutional or in its personal aspects, it seems to me that the only constructive prospect lies in the election of President Coolidge. The only other possible result would be destructive and reactionary in

GRANT INCREASE IN POWER RATES

So. Calif. Edison Co. Allowed 10 Per Cent Advance For Eight Months

The state railroad commission on Saturday granted to the Southern California Edison company authority to make a 10 per cent increase in its rate for light and power, the increase to be in effect for a period of eight months from September 1, 1924. All consumers, with the exception of the agriculturalists, will be required to pay the increased charges.

The increase is found to be necessary by the commission because of additional expense in the production of power resulting from the water shortage in Southern California and because of which the utility corporation has been compelled to purchase steam power from other companies at a rate higher than would be the cost if it produced water power in its own plants. In addition, the Edison company has been forced to manufacture power, entailing the use of large quantities of oil.

The company claims that, because of the existing abnormal power cost conditions, it would suffer a loss of about $5,600,000 in its net revenues and asked the commission for an increase in rates to produce additional revenue amounting to $3,000,000. The commission, however, did not allow this claim, but made an order cutting the company's demand to an increase estimated to yield approximately $1,100,000.

Pet Turtle Heads Back to Old Home; Companion Missing

"Joshua," a pet turtle belonging to Herman Paine, Jr., of 1018 Virginia Place, hankered for his old home on Central avenue, it is believed.

At any rate he was found waddling down that residential street and returned to his owner as the result of publicity in the newspapers.

Another turtle with "H. P." carved on his back went wandering with Josh and remains unaccounted for.

It is requested he be not used for turtle soup.

Death Invades Ranks Of Sunset Club In Passing Of Mrs. Mary K. Phillips

Mrs. Mary K. Phillips, well known and devoted member of The Glendale Evening News Sunset club, died yesterday afternoon, Sunday, August 3, 1924, at the home of her son, George D. McDill, at 1451 East Wilson avenue, at the age of 87 years and two months. She had been ill but three days, and the news of her sudden passing will shock her many friends.

"Grandma" Phillips had all the charms of an old-fashioned grandmother, enhanced with a live interest in affairs of the McDill household and events of the world. She was most active for one of her years and was always one of the happiest attendants at the Sunset club parties.

Recalls Civil War She was born June 4, 1837, in Cincinnati, Ohio. When she was a year old her father, Johnson Berryman, took his family to Concord, Ky., about twenty-five miles north of Maysville. Mr. Berryman owned a woolen factory at Concord, and there the family lived during the ante-bellum days.

Among the memories of Mrs. Phillips were many of the conflict between the northern and southern sympathizers and she used to tell interesting incidents of the auctioning of slaves at Maysville. When she was thirteen years of age the family returned to Cincinnati and several years later to Clinton, Iowa, where she was married to James McDill. They had two children, George D., who is a resident of Glendale, and a daughter, who is deceased. Mr. McDill lost his life in the Civil War, when his son was only a few months old. Several years later Mrs. McDill married Mr. Phillips. They had two sons, Dr. John Albert Phillips, now a dentist in Butte, Montana, and Dr. Orlyn S. Phillips, an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist of Bene, Oregon.

Funeral Wednesday During the World War, "Grandma" Phillips expressed her patriotism by knitting countless socks for the boys overseas. She was always active with her needle and one of the prized possessions of the McDill family is a wonderfully and beautifully-made quilt, made last year for Miss Mary E. McDill.

Funeral services are to be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the Little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial park. Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church, will officiate.

MAIL SACK THEFT IS FALSE ALARM

Police Find Postal Employee Transfers Letters as Car Breaks Down

Suspicious, when he saw a man take four mail sacks from a small car at the corner of Central avenue and Los Feliz road, 8 o'clock Saturday night, pile them into another car and dash away, Henry J. Eyrard, proprietor of Henry's garage at 118 West Los Feliz road, went over to the abandoned car and discovered a six-shooter on the floor.

His suspicions confirmed, he rushed to police headquarters and told Chief John D. Fraser what he had seen. An effort was then made to locate D. Ripley Jackson, Glendale postmaster. Failing in this, the "Flying Squad" were assigned to hunt down the supposed bandit.

This they did, only to find that he was a postal employe, acting in the performance of his duty. His car had broken down, he explained, and he had transferred the mail sacks to another. In the operation, he had forgotten his revolver, which was returned to him with the compliments of Chief Fraser and Mr. Eyrard.

Boys Attempt Holdup, Is Report to Police

Dean B. Skinner of 1906 Vassar street reports that two boys in a light car attempted to hold him up at 11 o'clock last night, in the 1500 block on Vassar street, as he was returning home.

R. D. Fisher reports the theft from his car, yesterday afternoon, of a leather golf bag, six clubs and ten balls. The car was parked at the corner of Brand boulevard and Wilson avenue.

Daily Greeting To News Readers

When sinks the soul, subdued by toll, to slumber,
Its closing eye looks up to Thee in prayer;
Sweet the repose, beneath Thy wings o'er shading,
But sweeter still to wake and find Thee there.
—Harriet Beecher Stowe.

THE COMMUNIST TICKET

Those who believe in the system now in force in Russia, which is in effect the robbery of those who by industry and frugality have accumulated some property, will have an opportunity to cast a vote for this system at the coming presidential election, for the Communist party has a ticket in the field. The Literary Digest quotes one newspaper as saying that "the workers' party has named for its candidate for president William Z. Foster, resident ambassador to the United States from the Russian Soviet, and for vice president Benjamin Gitlow of New York and Sing Sing."

The Communists claim to have been betrayed at Cleveland when the labor leaders delivered their followers over to La Follette. It is the purpose of the ticket to fight La Follette and the Socialist party as well as capitalism. Revolutionists are called to the colors as follows:

"Let every revolutionist prepare to be counted. Let every one enroll himself in the party of revolution and deliver a blow against capitalism and against the misleaders of labor by rolling up a solid block of Communist votes in the coming election. Every revolutionist to his place."

It is a poor time to enroll the wage earners under the revolutionary banner when they are getting the highest wages ever paid to workers, when they are enjoying life and indulging in luxuries as no wage earners in any country at any time have ever done, and when they have the example of Russia before them as an illustration of what Communism is and does.

The one plank in the Communist platform is this: "The institution of private property is theft, and all property now in the possession of wicked capitalists should be taken from them by force or violence and distributed among the propertyless proletariat." This is what the burglar and the bandit believe, also. Communists of all lands subscribe to this doctrine, and it is the system that was carried out in Russia.

EVIL DAYS FOR MONARCHS

The spectacle of King George receiving and shaking hands with a thousand members of the American Bar Association (even though the reception was in his back yard) shows the trend of the times and is significant of the attitude of the world toward monarchs. Try to imagine any ruler in Europe in such a democratic role ten years ago.

It was stated recently that the war had accomplished nothing but to leave the world in a state of chaos. A man who thinks deeply but says little replied, "I cannot believe but the war accomplished some good. It tore down the thrones of Germany and Russia and did away with the arch-tyrants of the world, and while affairs in both those countries are in an unsettled state we cannot hope that such radical reforms should be accomplished all at once."

King George has little or no authority and the prince who is to succeed him is known as the most democratic young man in the world. Alfonso of Spain, when he saw a revolution in the offing, quickly aligned himself with the revolutionists. Italy's king is but a figurehead, the prime minister elected by the people having many times his power. Austria's emperor and Greece's king are no more. Denmark, Sweden, Holland, Belgium and other countries have democratic rulers held in check, more or less, by parliaments and diets and chambers. When the political aspects and prospects of European countries are discussed the names of the kings and emperors figure but slightly in the conversation. And so it goes. The day of the Monarch is in the past.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

The householder needs no statistics to prove that the cost of living is high, much higher than it was ten years ago, and the efforts of the Department of Labor in compiling a report to show that such is the case, have been altogether unnecessary. We can all look back to the days just before the war and compute the rise in the cost of living by a comparison of the prices paid for various staple articles and luxuries then and the price we have to pay for the same things today.

And yet, the average family, excluding only the very poor and the very rich, is living on a much higher scale now as far as material comforts are concerned, than it did ten years ago.

Pass any place where building or manufacturing or any kind of manual labor is being done, and see the cars of the workmen lined up along the street. These machines range from the lowly Ford to the expensive closed car. Ten years ago these workmen did not own cars. People are buying homes and lots now who did not think of owning real estate ten years ago, and the average family is spending money for clothes and amusements much more lavishly than was the case then.

The high cost of living is an economic problem that is engaging the attention of a considerable number of people, but the average citizen, who lives better and enjoys life more fully than he did when the necessities and the luxuries of life were lower in cost, "should worry."

RAILROAD USE OF MOTOR TRUCKS

Road construction is being watched with increased attention because of the tendency of steam and electric railroads to supplant their short haul freight and passenger runs by motor truck and bus lines. The success of this move depends to a large extent on the development and maintenance of good roads. The carriers, except as they are taxpayers in the state in question, do not pay for the upkeep or construction of these roads and at least some money saved through wear and tear on equipment on the short runs is available to help finance the acquisition of motor bus fleets.

The care with which waste, wear and tear is being watched by the big carriers is shown by the fact that during the year ending July 1, the Southern Pacific road saved a total of $2,531,878 through reclamation of material which ordinarily would go on the junk heap. Old boilers were made into oil storage tanks, barrels utilized as water containers for fire protection and shipping cases, and old air hose for bumpers and shock materials, while scrap metal and car roofing were converted into buckets, ventilators, hand scoops, hotbox coolers and material racks.

Operating expenses of the railroads in the first part of this year averaged nearly $20,000,000 a month less than last year due largely to increases in the gross tonnage per train and the gross locomotive load. More cars were put in each train and more freight in each car.

A doctor says it is possible to be intoxicated from suffering a severe shock. That must be what makes automobilists so dizzy when a summer resort hotelkeeper hands out the bill.

Horoscope

Astrologers read this as a very doubtful day, for Uranus, in malefic aspect, dominates. The Sun and Venus are both adverse. Saturn is in a mildly helpful way.

All the indications point to extreme confusion and uncertainty for the public mind, which will be susceptible to all sorts of influences.

Religious controversies will become more bitter and may lead to personal violence.

The aspect of Uranus is supposed to encourage intrigue and secret plots of far-reaching scope.

During this rule of the stars both men and women are held to be easily tempted toward unstable, disloyal and even treacherous acts.

Many crimes will be recorded before the end of this month among them murders of a type peculiarly baffling to officers of the law.

Even though this is the beginning of the week, it is not an auspicious day for seeking any sort of employment.

Women are subject to sinister influences at this time, for there will be evidence of antagonism on the part of men in business and politics.

This is held to be rather an unlucky wedding day, making for ups and downs of fortune.

Accident angles are supposed to be especially menacing at this time. The air, as well as the water, may be unusually dangerous for navigators.

Again there is seen added danger from heart strain, and many sudden deaths may be expected.

The seers declare that the wise will be ashamed to carry too much weight of flesh, and that they will seek the lightness of movement that indicates the buoyant soul.

Today's Poem

EVENING SONG
Dear love, what thing of all the things that be
Is ever worth one thought from you and me,
Save only Love,
Save only Love?

The days so short, the nights so quick to flee,
The world so wide, so deep and dark the sea,
So dark the sea;

So far the suns and every listless star,
Beyond their light—ah! dear, who knows how far,
Who knows how far?

One thing of all dim things I know is true,
The heart within me knows, and tells it you,
And tells it you.

So blind is life, so long at last is sleep,
And none but Love to bid us laugh or weep,
And none but Love,
And none but Love.

Smiles

TRUE, ISN'T IT?
A bachelor had been persuaded by the ladies' aid of a church to speak at an entertainment, provided they would furnish him with a subject. In a spirit of mischief he had been given as a subject: "Woman: Without Her, Man Would Be a Savage."

Now, this man could speak, but he didn't always want to. He didn't want to this time and decided to get square with those who had done the urging. Accordingly on the night of the entertainment he arose and said: "My subject, which I consider a very fine one, is nevertheless not of my own choosing, but has been furnished me by the ladies. It is, 'Woman: Without Her, Man Would Be a Savage.'"

BRUTE!

An old farmer and his wife were standing before their pigsty, looking at their only pig, when the old lady said, "Say, John, it will be our silver anniversary tomorrow. Let's kill the pig."

John replied with disgust: "What is the use of murdering the pig for what happened twenty-five years ago?"

Who's Who

When the allied conference on reparations, in London, needed a man for the delicate role of mediator, there was a "trust-buster" from Minnesota who got the job.

Frank B. Kellogg, the American ambassador in Great Britain, who while an unofficial sinner in the conference, was thrust by circumstance into its most important part, first won nation-wide prominence as special counsel for the government in cases against the paper and oil "trusts."

When he became the envoy to London last year in succession to George Harvey, a "mild reservationist" friend of the League of Nations and a supporter of the world court, succeeded an irreconcilable at the most important ambassadorial post in Europe. Kellogg is of the type of extreme caution.

Frank Billings Kellogg was born at Potsdam, N. Y., Dec. 22, 1856. When 9 years old he went to Minnesota with his parents, where he was educated in the common schools and was admitted to the bar in 1877.

Kellogg first hung out his shingle in Rochester, Minn., but removed to St. Paul in 1887, where he has since lived and practiced law.

After representing the United States in its battle with the "trusts," he was elected to the United States Senate as a Republican for the term 1917-23, and was defeated for re-election by Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Labor candidate. Then came his appointment to London.

The Ravings Of a Grouch

The habit of inflicting nicknames on human beings, usually when they are too small to hit back, is more or less asinine and causes a great deal of inconvenience at times. Yet it is a custom that presents a very interesting psychological study.

Uncle Joshua is very rich and has no family, so it really seems the better part of diplomacy to name the baby for him. But who can apply such a ponderous title as Joshua to such a cunning little mite? So the baby becomes "Buddy" or "Buster" or "Snookums," or something equally cunning and senseless. Then there is the youngster who just must have his daddy's name. This, of course, results in a conflict, and "Junior" is the obvious and inevitable result.

Some parents have no sense of humor and give their boys effeminate or outlandish names. When the lads are old enough to have playmates they find their companions more tactful and kind-hearted than the parents, and they become "Spud" or "Skinny" or "Shorty," or some such name, which they may carry to their graves.

Then again, adoring mothers and aunts and grandmothers just have to use endearing terms when speaking to the little darling, and when little girls have been called Sarah or Mabel or Esther, or names to which "ie" cannot be attached euphonically, then the little dear must be called "Tootsie" or "Sissie" or "Dolly."

Some parents really try to guard against nicknames. They call the little boy Hugh and the little girl Jean because the names cannot be abbreviated. However, they soon become Hughie and Jeanie, if not, indeed, something entirely different. A young girl of high school age named Ila is known among her young friends as "Hambone," for some inexplicable reason.

It depends a great deal upon the personality of men and women whether or not they outgrow their nicknames. The use of a nickname implies a certain familiarity and affection which is repelled by the temperament of some people. On the other hand, it seems the most natural thing in the world to apply the abbreviated or grotesque title to others, even on short acquaintance. Some men, knowing the value of being a good fellow, have given themselves nicknames in an effort to make themselves appear congenial and popular and good natured. But a nickname that sticks is usually given spontaneously by another, and is tinged by a certain measure of affection.

FOLK SONGS WILL TELL OF RUSSIA

Hollywood Bowl Program to Include Selections of Noted Composers

Russian peasant life, contrasted with the splendor of Russian court life and the romance of Cossack festivals, will be painted large in the Hollywood Bowl summer concert, next Tuesday night. Ljadow's Russian folk songs will precede Borodin's "Prince Igor Suite" with its Oriental rhythms. The first of Brahms' four symphonies will be played in its complete form.

Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsodies are always loved, and the most popular of all, the second, will find a place on the Thursday concert, when two Tschalkowsky numbers, the lovely "Andante Cantabile" from the String Quartet and the exciting "War of 1812" overture, will conclude a program rich in variety. It is possible that Stojowsky, one of the most distinguished pianists to ever visit Los Angeles, will play.

The return of Alice Gentle, American grand opera star, to sing an aria from "Aida" on Friday, is an event much looked forward to by Bowl "fans." The familiar "William Tell" overture will be another feature.

Mexican Artists
Two of Old Mexico's most revered artists will appear at the Bowl on Saturday on "Spanish-Mexican Night," arranged to commemorate early California days when romance tinged life along the coast. This is an annual event in the Hollywood Bowl, and this year will be one of the gayest, lightest programs of the whole season. Young Mexican girls in costume will sell programs, and the vice-consul from Old Mexico will be seated in the honor box, with his party. Madame Alma Real, dramatic soprano with a personal charm matching her lovely voice, will conduct one of his own compositions. He is acclaimed one of the outstanding men in his country today.

FARMERS DIVIDED ON MARKET PLAN

Watch Purchase of Stock In New Chicago Company Recently Formed

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondence of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Farmers and grain men are watching closely the progress of the new grain marketing company of Chicago which has been formed around the properties of the Armour Grain company, the Rosenbaum Grain Corporation, Rosenbaum Brothers and J. C. Shaffer and company of Chicago and the Davis-Noland-Merrill Grain company of Kansas City, the price to be paid for which will be determined later. As might be expected, farmers are divided as to the advisability of purchasing stock in the concern, according to reliable reports from the middle west.

The company has been organized under the Illinois cooperative marketing act with a capitalization of $26,000,000. This capital is divided into one million shares of common stock at $1 a share, one million shares of class A preferred stock at $25 a share and 500,000 shares of class B preferred stock at $50 a share. The company has started with a paid-in working capital of $4,000,000, supplied through the companies whose properties are to form the nucleus of the concern.

As explained by a statement by the farm bureau federation "it is understood that the class B stock will be sold for immediate financing purposes. It is also understood that 75 per cent of the earnings of the new company over and above operating and income expenses plus the income of the class A stock will be used in retiring class B stock. This means that with the sale of every two shares of class A preferred stock, one share of class B stock will be retired. This prevents the capital stock from ever becoming more than $26,000,000. This plan of financing has been worked out to facilitate the movement of the business from the present owners to the farmers."

Must Be Producers

Purchasers of the stock must be producers of grain and must pay for at least one share of common at $1 and one share of class A preferred, which bears 8 per cent interest, at $25. The organization, however, can handle one-half of its grain from non-stockholders or members.

The company says it provides a complete marketing system for farmer producers of grain, local co-operative elevators and organizations doing a co-operative grain marketing business. Advocates of the plan declare that its machinery puts the grower in intimate touch with practically all domestic and foreign markets, and provides a trained staff and machinery for promoting profitable sales, which hitherto has been lacking in co-operative grain growers associations of different sections, and which will eventually be owned by the growers themselves.

Example Shown

They point to the success of the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, Inc., the first company of the sort to come into existence, and to that of the Live-stock Producers, each of which took over growing concerns under plans somewhat similar to that of the grain marketing company. Some opponents of the scheme say that the business of the five companies involved has not been particularly prosperous and that they have suffered as a result of the Capper-Tincher law, or at least are worried over possible extension of government regulation. Therefore, the opponents continue, they are willing to turn over their properties to a company with control centering largely in their own hands and with a farmer board. The critics assert that the plan is based less on co-operation than on stockholders participation, such as is being worked out by the American Telephone and Telegraph company and other public utility corporations.

Other interested observers explain that grain elevator co-operative ownership is extending from Canada, where it has gained a firm foothold, to this country. At the same time the call for government regulation of dealing in wheat is increasing. The grain companies involved, these experts say, decided the co-operative idea was expanding and seeing the handwriting on the wall, decided to get out in expectation that with farmers interested there would be less cry for government regulation.

See Plan to Merge

Still other opponents of the plan state the grain companies, for some time, have wanted to merge and thus cut overhead. To merge they feared, however, would bring a howl of protest from farmers and since the latter had been crying for regulation and co-operative management, they are willing to let them try it out. These commentators declare that in offering their properties for co-operative management, the companies retain control through ownership of the class B preferred stock, which is to be held by them until retired through purchase by farmers of the $26,000,000 worth of common and class A stock. Until such time as that took place, the companies would be merged, and doing business as one concern. Grain growers of some of the northwestern states, meeting at the call of the grain growers' advisory council which former Governor Lowden of Illinois represents, decided to urge farmers

Nation Facing Unusual Situation In Election

president if the election of Coolidge at the polls is prevented. Bryan in Background
Until accident made him a nominee for vice-president, Governor Bryan was a relatively obscure person, known to fame only by the reflected light of his more distinguished brother. He has all the familiar Bryan vagaries, plus a few more of his own, without the peculiarly engaging personality, greatness of heart and loftiness of vision which have endeared William J. Bryan to the very people who have thrice rejected his candidacy. "Brother Charley" is not a personage. He has been all his life a putterer in petty details. His most marked intellectual quality is an astonishing facility in assembling and retaining unimportant information about unimportant persons and things. There are subordinate positions in which that quality is valuable—but not at the head of anything. He was editor of the Commoner during the period when it became the most absurdly unimportant periodical in America. As city commissioner of Lincoln he won local fame by borrowing some interesting ideas from R. B. Howell of Omaha, now Republican senator from Nebraska, and by showing considerable ingenuity in carrying them out.

Called Reactionary

Governor Bryan is a curious combination of progressive and reactionary. Emotionally, his heart beats in sympathy with the common people, of whom he is one. But intellectually he is wedded to certain policies which are reactionary to the last degree. The chief issue of his campaign for governor, and of his administration, was his determination to undo the reorganization, already partly accomplished, of the government of Nebraska on modern lines of efficiency and economy. He is for the old "long ballot" idea of separately electing all administrative officers, without effective responsibility to any body. This was "progressive" policy in 1829, when Andrew Jackson was elected on it. But modern thought has long outgrown it. Just at this time, when the further business reorganization of the national government on modern lines is the most pressing immediate problem, the presence of a man of this atavistic mental attitude at the head of the government would be a public calamity.

Against this possibility of a purely accidental president of progressive emotions but stationary thought, the only alternative is the common people, a product of the farm and of a life of simplicity and frugality, whose sympathy with the masses from which he sprang is quite as deep as could be that of any man of the Bryan type, and whose comprehension of the problems of forwarding their interests is comparably more acute.

Has Stood Test

The way to know a man is to see him under test. Five minutes of emergency are more revealing than five years of casual conversations. Calvin Coolidge has been before the people for a year, in a position which tries out the real stuff in men as does no other in the world. And he has stood the test. He has even accomplished what many of his friends feared was not possible to his reserved temperament—stirred the imagination and enthusiasm of the people. His ability is unquestioned. In the eyes of those who have courage, he has become one of the most outstanding figures of our times. Those nearest to him report that he has only one standard in making a decision. It is either right or wrong. If it is right, he does it; if it is wrong, he refuses it, regardless of consequences. This may be a simple old-fashioned standard and President Coolidge is a simple old-fashioned man. But it is precisely the standard which these troubled times need.

Shows Leadership

The next four years are bound to be decisive ones in the history of America and of the world. American leadership in them will call for qualities which are both progressive and conservative—progress which is prudent and practical and conservatism which is constructive and courageous. These qualities of leadership President Coolidge has demonstrated that he possesses. He has shown the independence to exercise them against the reactionaries and demagogues of both parties. He has shown the practicality to open to secure them in the present. To assure the stability of institutions which shall make like qualities permanently effective in government, is to elect Calvin Coolidge at the polls in November. A vote to prevent an election, and to present an impossible dilemma, both of constitutional procedure and of candidacies.

Savings Increase In Massachusetts Banks

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—Depositors in Massachusetts trust companies have decreased 6381 in number since March, reflecting the service charge imposed on small checking accounts by Boston banks. Savings banks added $71,317,234 to their accounts since October, making the total $1,605,066,981. against buying stock and to oppose marketing of grain with the proposed company. The stand was taken that the company is merely a combination of trade interests. Advocates of the plan are said to be equally as numerous as its opponents and the grain trade is eagerly watching to see to what extent farmers will purchase the stock.

MOBILIZATION IS CAMPAIGN ISSUE

Politicians Seizing Upon Breach Over Order to Construct Fences

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—If the politicians do not look out they will be making a first class campaign issue out of "mobilization day." It has sprung unexpectedly to the fore and has gained perhaps an undue prominence because of the fact that the real issues of the campaign have not yet been outlined by the two principal candidates for the presidency. The flurry over mobilization or defense day has come at a time when the politicians were looking for something to talk about. It has served its purpose well.

President Coolidge and John W. Davis have been arrayed against each other on the scope and value of the resources of the country's resources. Mr. Coolidge has sharply criticized those who have denounced the proposed demonstration on September 12. Mr. Davis has gone on record as saying the demonstration is so planned that it can be only a valueless gesture which may easily be misunderstood abroad. Some of the Democratic leaders are particularly concerned over the fact that "mobilization day" happens to be set for the particular date of the reconvening of the League of Nations at Geneva. That the United States which has flouted the League through its statesmen at Washington should have what may be interpreted as a general mobilization of its armed forces and reserves on the very day that the league renews its work for peace is entirely too much for the league Democrats and they see nothing but red when they discuss the matter.

Say Not Intentional

There is no reason to believe the coincidence of the dates was planned. The chances are the war department officers who devised defense day had no knowledge of the reassembling of the League of Nations on September 12. Perhaps they were guided in their action by statements of the Republican leagues that so far as the United States is concerned, the league is a dead issue. As was to be expected, the La Follette people are claiming credit for being the first to go on record against "mobilization day." They put it in their platform at Cleveland and also denounced militarism in all its branches. It was claimed there was no excuse for war or preparations for war in this enlightened day. The Socialists of New York state also denounced "mobilization day" at their convention.

With the "Hard Party" advocates taking cognizance of the proposed mobilization of resources and with President Coolidge coming to the defense of the plan, it was inevitable that it should become at least an early issue in the campaign. Whether it will last is another matter. The chances are that it won't, but it seems that Democratic governors have been the ones to raise their voice again interrupting the peaceful pursuits of their people for a preparedness holiday.

Bryan, Davis Agree

The Democrats charge that the Republicans have been endeavoring to drive a wedge between Mr. Davis and Governor Bryan, his running mate. That is to be one of the strategies of the Republican campaign, the emphasizing of alleged irreconcilable differences in the views and opinions of the two men heading the Democratic ticket. Therefore, when Governor Bryan came out in denunciation of the full scale of "mobilization day" predictions came from Republican sources that Mr. Davis would not be in accord with the Bryan statement.

Upon his return to this city, however, Mr. Davis soon made it plain that he agreed with Mr. Bryan. In addition to issuing his formal statement, Mr. Davis discussed the matter with friends and pointed out that both he and Mr. Bryan believe that the military organizations of the country should be kept in good condition but could see no excuse for urging a demonstration which would be nothing but a demonstration and have no educational effect commensurate with the harmful impression which might be given to the world.

Governor Bryan has co-operated with the war department. Mr. Davis remarked, to the extent of calling out the militia and asking various patriotic organizations to hold assemblies. Although Mr. Bryan acted in his capacity as governor and not as vice presidential candidate, Mr. Davis was not slow to give him the support of the head of the ticket.

Conference Planned

Governor Bryan and Mr. Davis are going to have several heart-to-heart talks before the campaign actually gets under way and there will be a thorough thrashing out of views between them. Friends of the two men believe they are far apart and they feel that the Nebraskan lends a balance to the ticket which will be effective in winning votes. The Republicans naturally take the opposite view and will make Mr. Bryan a never ending object of attack from now until election day. Governor Bryan will not be notified until after Mr. Davis has delivered his speech of acceptance. Nevertheless the governor's speech of acceptance will be awaited with more real interest than ever before has attached to the sayings of a vice presidential aspirant. This is partly because the Republicans are looking for him to say something upon which they can make a drive and also because in the event of a deadlock in the election Mr. Bryan may become the next president of the United States.

Fire In Creamery Is Quickly Extinguished

Fire at 7:45 o'clock this morning menaced the plant of the Glendale Creamery company at 755 West Doran street. The alarm came in just as the morning shift was relieving the night shift at Station No. 1 and Chief A. H. Lanford assigned both shifts to the blaze, literally "nipping it in the bud."
The building where the fire broke out is a long barracks, about 12 by 50 feet. The flames were discovered coming from one end. They were extinguished with water from Engine No. 5, in charge of Captain Ralph Dods-orth.
Chief Lanford estimated that the damage would not exceed $50. The origin of the blaze is unknown.

Huge Damages Asked; Charge Libel In Suit

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—C. W. Vanderbilt, Jr., publisher, has been made defendant here in a suit for $150,000 damages for alleged libel filed in the superior court by Edward J. Ralph, a former employee. Ralph asserted his reputation was damaged by an article appearing in a national magazine. A similar suit directed against the publishers of the magazine was filed here recently in the United States district court. The article in question was based upon an alleged interview with Vanderbilt and was said to have related to difficulties he was alleged to have experienced in launching a newspaper in Los Angeles.

Belle Bennett to Wed Film Director Soon

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—Belle Bennett, stage and screen star, will be married to Fred C. Windemere, film director, within the next few days.
At her home here today Miss Bennett said that plans for the wedding had been delayed owing to the illness of her father, William Bennett, also an actor.
All legal obstruction to the marriage, raised some time ago in San Francisco, when Jack Geller, also known as John Oaker, a picture actor, announced he was Miss Bennett's husband, has been removed after investigation by the authorities, it was said.

SCHOOL TEACHER ON ALASKA TRIP

Eagle Rock Educator Will Remain in North for Extended Period

GLENDALE, Aug. 4.—Miss Ellen Galpin, prominent throughout Southern California and a resident of Addison Way, is now in Alaska, where she will spend one year, teaching and studying. While the trip was made partly "for fun," according to her father, Cromwell Galpin, an Eagle Rock pioneer, Miss Galpin nevertheless went more or less for her health, hoping to gain strength by a change to a cold climate. She is noted for her work as director of the Los Angeles Municipal players and has won a national reputation as a producer of marionette plays. She is also a school teacher, with credentials to teach English, chemistry and dramatics.

Estate Sells Home

The F. B. Silverwood home and grounds, on the Blackmer tract, south of Yosemite Drive at Townsend avenue, has been sold to George W. Stillwell of Los Angeles. The property was offered some weeks ago at $25,000. There were many inquiries for the famous place, but no sale being consummated the property was again offered and at a substantial cut to $20,000, it being desired to liquidate the Silverwood estate as soon as possible.

The property is well known throughout Los Angeles and all Southern California because of the popularity and lavish hospitality of Mr. Silverwood.

C. F. Curtis, esquire, relative of E. J. Curtis, esquire, of 4932 South Royal drive, who was recently united with his brother here after forty-two years of separation, is finding Eagle Rock very much to his liking and he regrets that he must soon return to his business interests in London, England.

Rev. and Mrs. T. C. Duncan, formerly Miss Irene La Fortem of Eagle Rock, Miss Verna Pillow, and Miss Edna Henderson, have returned to Morgan Hill, California, after spending a week at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McNary, 4777 Eagle Rock boulevard.

CELEBRATION TO SET NEW RECORD

Moon Festival Program Will Include Novel Numbers At Tujunga Park

TUJUNGA, Aug. 4.—Preliminary announcements of plans for the fourth annual Moon Festival of the Tujungans indicate that this year's celebration will exceed anything yet attempted in Tujunga. The committee from the American Legion, Post 250, in charge of arrangements, has already outlined an attractive program which will be augmented by several other high class features before opening night, August 29. Commander A. J. Scribner, P. J. Desjardin and W. B. Anderson are the committee.

Friday, August 29, the festival will open with a variety of carnival shows on the grounds of the Garden of the Moon park. There will also be open-air dancing in the park pavilion. In the meantime a popularity contest will be launched to determine what lady of the Verdugo Hills will be crowned "Queen of the Verdugos" and be awarded a valuable diamond ring. The winner will bear the title during the coming year until the next Moon Festival.

Radio Set Is Prize

In connection with the popularity contest a $150 radio set will be given away to the holder of the lucky number on the voting tickets cast for the queen. The queen will be crowned at a coronation ball in the open-air pavilion. Some well-known people will officiate and the queen will lead the grand march with the official as her partner.

A big, free, open-air vaudeville show will be given Sunday, August 31, in the pavilion. Several high-class entertainers will contribute numbers to the program. A headline attraction at this show will be Miss Helen Rugs, danseuse, artist-pupil of Madame Dowdall of Los Angeles. Miss Rugs appeared at a Legion vaudeville a year ago in Tujunga and has since achieved an enviable place in Los Angeles and southern city entertaining circles, appearing at theatres and before distinguished private audiences in Los Angeles, Pasadena and Long Beach.

MONTH'S BUILDING SHOWS PROGRESS

Burbank's July Figures Are $170,189, Passing Last Year's Totals

BURBANK, Aug. 4.—Building permits totalling $170,189 were issued during July, which is $68,374 more than the total of $101,815 issued in July a year ago, according to figures in the office of the building superintendent. This brings the total for the year to $1,379,821, compared with $2,265,110 for all of 1923.

Of the July permits, four called for bonuses costing from three to four thousand dollars; five from two to three thousand and eight from one to two thousand dollars.

The following table summarizes the Burbank building situation:

Month	1923	1924
January	$145,525	$233,085
February	170,465	232,286
March	167,265	293,063
April	151,965	213,745
May	318,750	78,400
June	157,285	159,048
July	101,815	170,189
August	147,225
September	181,360
October	176,200
November	235,440
December	311,575
Totals	2,265,110	1,379,821

Await Permits Before Installing Gas Mains

TUJUNGA, Aug. 4.—The installation of gas mains from Roscoe to Sunland and Tujunga will begin as soon as the necessary permits are secured by the Southern California Gas company. The location for the pipes along Michigan avenue must be determined in connection with the proposed widening of the pavement there, a project which is now before the state highway commission. Headquarters and appliance salesrooms have been established in the Ashby building at El Centro street and Sunset boulevard. A four-inch main will be laid the length of Sunset boulevard and two and three-inch feeders will connect with intersecting streets.

Subdividers Sponsor Dance for Community

TUJUNGA, Aug. 4.—Plans have been made for a community dance and picnic Saturday, August 16, at the Laura Lee bungalow store building on Michigan avenue in Highway Highlands. The subdividers of the Highlands tract are sponsoring the affair and promise their neighbors a good time. The Laura Lee building is new and suitable for the purpose.

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, Aug. 4.—Ernest Wells of Oak Grove Park is very ill, much to the regret of his friends who are earnestly hoping for his recovery in a short time. Chartering a launch for deep sea fishing, Arthur Hoffman entertained a number of his friends. A fine catch testified to the prowess of the party. At a perfectly appointed dinner Mrs. S. Niel entertained ten congenial friends, and after dinner cards were enjoyed by the guests. Mr. and Mrs. G. Gomez and family have moved to San Francisco. Before coming here the Gomez family lived in Honolulu. According to present plans the lectures which have been conducted in the big tent for several weeks will be concluded with an old-fashioned revival service. The paving of Montrose avenue is being continued from Los Angeles to Pennsylvania avenue. At a meeting of Montrose residents called for the purpose of voting on a suitable name for the little park off Ocean View boulevard the park was christened Washington Place. This triangular piece of ground is planted to beautiful shrubs which have been taken care of for the past two years free of charge to the community by Captain Famel. Captain Famel promised to care for the park the same as he has done in the past, limiting the length of his services to two years, however. The park is situated at the intersection of Glendale and Crescenta avenue in the residential district. Indians taught Europeans how to raise corn in the forest without first clearing the land. Oldest fish market in London is Billingsgate, which was in existence more than 1000 years ago.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA ACRESCENTA, Aug. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. G. Tweedell of Amarillo, Texas, were so delighted with La Crescenta valley when visiting the Griffith family here, that they have decided this is the logical place to make their permanent California home. Miss Charlotte Cummins entertained a group of young friends with a picnic supper in Sunland park. After supper the guests enjoyed dancing and games. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stieh have decided to make their permanent home in California and, since Mr. Stieh's return from Canada, where he had gone to settle his business affairs, they have moved to Glendale. Mrs. G. Leure and family have returned from a two weeks' vacation spent in Elsinore Hot Springs. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Angler and family have returned from Long Beach, where they spent a week enjoying the fishing and bathing. Mr. and Mrs. Murdock of Community street are motoring up the coast, stopping off at different places. Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Cobb, owners of the Cobb grocery store on

AT LA CRESCENTA

AT LA CRESCENTA

Honolulu avenue, have returned from a short trip visiting different beaches. Mrs. C. McMurtry of 207 East Mayfield avenue is grieving over the disappearance of her beautiful red-furred Angora cat and is offering a reward to the person who may return him, or notify her of his whereabouts. Miss McMurtry is very much attached to the lost feline as he is a particular pet, as well as being valuable. L. Potter is on the sick list at present. Greater Glendale Depends on Community Co-operation

The up-to-date merchant is ambitious for all the business he can get honestly and fairly. You may say that personal gain is his only incentive and ideal. And yet, the merchant who is ambitious for himself is also ambitious for his community, for there is no honor or profit in having an up-to-date store in an unprogressive town. So the business or professional man who is eager for your patronage is usually a good citizen, for it is to his interest to work for the good of the community.

The man who is ever on the alert for more business helps his community in another way. He is constantly improving his store and his service, and in this way he helps to build up a fine commercial center, which is an essential feature of a home community like Glendale. A fine business center attracts new residents, and new residents mean increased trade for wide-awake merchants. So the rule works both ways. Ambitious merchants help to develop a community, and a growing community brings more business to the home merchant.

But, in no stage of its development, can his business live or increase without patrons, and it is to the home people that he looks for patronage. So he tells them through the home paper of his stock and his prices and his service.

Merchants who advertise are ambitious for more business. They want to stand high, each in his particular calling. They are working for a Greater Glendale because, for one reason, a Greater Glendale means a larger business outlook and more business opportunities.

It is the buyer who looks below the surface who realizes that trading in Glendale means something more than doing a favor for the particular merchant who receives his money. It is a question of Community Loyalty and Community Growth.

The men and women represented on this page are ambitious, both for themselves and for Glendale. Your co-operation with them will result in a Greater Glendale.

SPEECH DEFECTS—No. 1

"Want doe on choo-choo tars? Baby dood, Mama take ums." Do you continue this line of baby language to your babies after they begin to talk?

Don't do it, mothers, for children learn to talk by imitation; and, if they learn "baby talk," they have to unlearn it and sometimes it is difficult and a speech defect may result.

Are you careful to guard your children against sudden shocks or continued emotional disturbances? These psychic injuries are the main causes of certain speech defects. Do you, father and mother, have perpetual "mads" on, so that you rarely speak to each other? These unnatural silent home conditions have been found to be the cause of retarded speech in children.

In a most comprehensive article in the May 24 issue of the American Medical Journal, Mabel Farrington Gifford, B.S., director of the Speech Clinic of the University of California hospital, goes into the cause and treatment of speech defects. Miss Gifford had eight years of experience in the speech clinic of the University of California medical department. Here are the classifications which she gives in her article:

"1. The nervous speech disorders, under which come stammering, stuttering, clattering and nervous hesitation.

"2. Retarded speech in both normal and subnormal children.

"3. Infantile substitutions not caused by mouth malformations.

"4. Substitution of sounds of imperfect speech caused by malformation of the speech organs.

"5. Voice defects, not organic; that is, not due to malformations.

"6. Voice defects after certain operations, such as on cleft palate or adenoids.

"7. Imperfect speech through partial deafness.

"8. Aphasia, sensory or motor.

"9. Foreign substitutions of speech sounds, caused by foreign environments.

"10. Sluggish enunciation due to poor muscular coordination, which may possibly have been caused by certain diseases in childhood."

Now I am going to give a resume of her article, because it is so helpful and interesting:

Retarded Speech in Both Normal and Subnormal Children. Miss Gifford's records show normal speech development as early as 2 and as late as 9 years of age. The normal child learns speech mainly through imitation, but the child's accuracy depends on its sense of perception and its ear for delicate shades of sound. Occasionally imitation, which is a primal instinct, is lacking, and there may exist a type of retarded speech from this.

In the child who is dumb without being deaf, if this imitative power is lacking, it is only through patient, indirect teaching, use of pictures and so forth, that results are obtained. Inattention may cause a retardation in speech development. The treatment for this is to secure the attention of the child by stimulating its interest.

Nervous Speech Disorders. Stammering is a nervous speech disorder. It consists of a spasmodic action of the speech muscles. This may be manifested in degrees ranging from the slightest to the most violent contortions, both visible and audible. Stuttering, another speech disorder, is a rapid repetition of the initial sound of words. Cluttering is a rapid, choppy utterance in which certain parts of the words are slurred over or lost. (Most of us clutter a little, don't we?) Nervous hesitation is defined by its title.

Tomorrow we will talk a little more on the subject.

My Dear Followers.—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you unless you send me and request it. It is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the columns as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. e. and the name of your city and the information I have offered.

Wedding Today

At a marriage ceremony, performed this morning, Monday, August 4, 1924, by Judge Ira F. Thompson at his Los Angeles home, 1602 Elevado street, Miss Pearl M. Adair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Adair of 618 North Isabel street, became the bride of Arthur H. Kribs, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Kribs of Los Angeles. Attending the young couple were Miss Adair's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hendry of Los Angeles. The bride wore a tailored suit of navy blue Charmine and cinnamon-colored vest, hat, shoes and gloves. Miss Adair carried bride's roses, while Mrs. Hendry's bouquet was of pink rose buds.

Mr. and Mrs. Kribs left immediately for a motor trip of several weeks, planning to return to Los Angeles to reside. Mrs. Kribs has a wide circle of friends in Glendale, where she is well known as a talented vocalist. In addition to her successful solo work she is a member of the Virginia quartet, a group of young women studying with Virginia Freeman. This quartet has been highly praised by audiences in Glendale and nearby cities. Mrs. Kribs' many friends will be glad to learn that she will continue her musical studies with Mrs. Freeman and her association with the Virginia Four. Mrs. Kribs is a graduate of the Manual Arts High school in Los Angeles, and is a member of the Psi, Psi Psi sorority. Mr. Kribs, who attended the University of Washington, and is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity, is in business in Hollywood.

Joint Hostesses

Mrs. Nellie Jennings and Mrs. Margaret MacCaughna will be joint hostesses Wednesday at the Jennings home at 328 Arden avenue, at an all-day meeting of the Elcta Social club of Glendale Chapter, U. O. E. S. Meeting at 10 o'clock in the morning and women will spend the time until luncheon with needlework. In the afternoon Mrs. Clyette Hewitt, president, will preside over a business meeting. The club is planning for a big bazaar in the fall and the members are already working on articles for this event. Committees for the bazaar will be named at the meeting Wednesday.

So worthwhile was the last meeting of the Past Noble Grand's club of the Carnation Rebekah lodge that an even larger and more enthusiastic gathering is being anticipated for Friday night with Mrs. H. C. Smith of 1027 Florence place. All officers of Carnation lodge and all past noble grands of any jurisdiction are cordially invited. Special instruction will be given on the duties of lodge officers.

Legion Auxiliary

Mrs. Charles T. Jones of 1146 North Maryland avenue is to open her home tonight for a meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the local American Legion post. Mrs. E. W. Gilliland, president, will be in charge of the meeting. The auxiliary is sending as delegates to the state convention this week in Santa Cruz, Mesdames James McBryde, C. W. Schwitters and Nellie Snow Hyer.

Shower For Home

Miscellaneous gifts for the David and Margaret Orphans home at La Verne, will be received tomorrow night at the business meeting of the J. O. C. class at the First Methodist church. Mrs. Bell Keuhny, president of the class, urges a large attendance and a generous shower of gifts for the home kiddies.

Guild Has Tea

In order that they may complete the pledge made to the Episcopal mission church at Laguna Beach, St. Mark's Guild women are to hold a silver tea on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harvey Jenkins at 207 Fairview avenue. Mrs. W. J. Farber, president of the Guild, is to be assisting hostess.

Supper at Church

The Girls' Senior class of St. Mark's Episcopal church of which Mrs. LeRoy Bosserman is teacher, is to have supper Tuesday evening at the church. Each girl is to bring her supper and they will all meet at 5 o'clock at the church. Plans are to be made for a summer social affair.

Lodge Initiates

Initiation will feature the meeting tomorrow night of Carnation Rebekah lodge in the I. O. O. F. hall on West Broadway. Venona Borden, noble grand, will have charge of the meeting, which will begin at 8 o'clock.

Informal Affair

Mrs. Charles A. Parker of 212 North Orange street is to entertain informally tomorrow afternoon complimentary to her house guest, Mrs. Marion Hobbs Higgins, talented violinist from Long Beach.

Damage done to Barcelona's telephone system by the heavy snowstorm last February, has never been completely repaired, and this delay has caused a protest by the Chamber of Commerce to the government.

The first oranges were grown in California in 1873.

Guests at Beach

Mrs. John Robert White, Jr., first vice president of the Tuesday Afternoon club, is to entertain a group of the club women tomorrow at her summer home at Hermosa Beach. The day will be featured by a meeting of the board of directors. There will be three automobiles making the trip to the beach, leaving Glendale at 8:30 o'clock in the morning. In addition to Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, club president, and members of the official board there will be present Mrs. Daniel Campbell, junior past president; Mrs. F. H. Wallace, program chairman; Miss Eva Daniels, publicity chairman; and Mrs. C. W. Husbey.

Eastern Star

Mrs. Hermine Hudson, worthy matron of Glendale Chapter, U. D. O. E. S., was unable because of illness, to be present at the meeting on Saturday night, so Mrs. Nellie Jennings, associate matron presided. Plans were made for the picnic, Saturday, August 16, in Brookside Park, Pasadena. Robert Lawson, Ella Joralemon and Agnes Allan compose the general committee planning for the outing.

STATE'S AILMENTS TOLD BY PASTOR

Ruinous Political Rule and Dictatorial Newspapers Given as Cause

"Trouble and Trouble Makers. What is the Matter with California?" With this as his topic, Dr. H. I. Rasmus delivered a sermon of especial interest to California last night at the First Methodist Episcopal church. His text was the historic words of King Ahab to the prophet Elijah: "Art thou he that troubleth Israel?" "Quick as a flash," said Dr. Rasmus, "the prophet came back with the pointed answer, 'I have not troubled Israel, but thou and thy father's house, in that ye have forsaken the commandments of the Lord and thou hast followed Baalim.'"

Contrasts Types

"Trouble makers," continued Dr. Rasmus, "are divided into two classes: One, the embodiment of evil; the other, the embodiment of good. Among the former he graphically described the bloody campaign of Attila the Hun, Napoleon Bonaparte, the little Corsican corporal, who afterwards became the great French emperor, and, lastly, the sanguinary conflict brought on by the Kaiser. Among the trouble makers for good he described the Apostle Paul, Martin Luther, John Knox and John Wesley. These men made their mark in high places and out of their trouble, making a righteousness. And today the bootleggers, criminals of all sorts are crying out, 'Let me alone.' But they shall be continually troubled."

California's Troubles

"What is the matter with California? Strange that we have to go away, out to the state to find out our many troubles. This is what I found out: That California is suffering from a disastrous drought, orchards and crops burning up, cattle dying for lack of water, wells going dry, in danger of a water famine, state covered with forest fires, a large number of homes and lives in peril, business gone to decay, citizens leaving the state in large numbers. 'What is the cause of this misrepresentation? Largely California's own fault. We are under a political domination that spells ruin. Take the hoof and mouth disease, thousands of cattle ruthlessly destroyed. Ridiculous fumigation methods adopted, all to make jobs for politicians, at high salaries; over $400,000 wasted alone in this country. And when the available money was all spent the work stopped, and not before. Then they raised the embargo."

The Only Remedy

"Another major trouble maker for California is a dominating, domineering press, seeking to control local, county and state affairs. And they would even dare to dictate to the preachers what to preach. They exaggerate the forest fires, the foot and mouth disease and in various ways injure the state."

The Paramount Trouble

"The paramount trouble with California is the trouble of the whole world, and that is the deadly sickness of sin. But there is a remedy and only one—The Balm of Gilead. It will save all in California if they will but accept. The old gospel of Christ."

Elks Will Initiate Group of Candidates

A group of candidates for membership will be initiated tonight at the meeting of Glendale Elks in the clubhouse on East Colorado street. Following the lodge meeting there will be an entertainment by professional talent, and later a "feed" will be enjoyed.

Governor Approves Modified Hay Ruling

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 4.—Governor Richardson has signed a modified quarantine order permitting shipment of hay into California from 33,000 acres in the Mason and Smith valleys in Nevada. This area formerly was under alfalfa weevil quarantine.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

FOR CONVALESCENTS

"My first baby was born a week ago," one of my readers writes me, "and as I'll have more time than I used to, after I get up, I want to begin some beauty treatments. I never did anything to improve my looks, but when I see my baby's skin and look at my complexion—well, you understand, don't you? And what about my figure?"

To aim at a complexion like a baby's is setting a high if not an impossible standard. But no woman after child-birth need have a worse figure than she had before; indeed, I've known that event to improve many figures. It all depends upon how you treat yourself before and after the birth. My reader is quite right in her desire to improve her looks and should begin with hair tonics and cold cream packs and such things while she lies resting. I only hope she won't get up too soon, not if she values strength and a good figure; doctors nowadays are too apt to get their patients up and about, I think. Four weeks should be spent in bed, the last one varied by sitting up in the room, two weeks more resting with the feet up on a couch or chair as much as possible.

It takes six weeks for all parts of the body to go back to normal size and position after childbirth. Therefore it seems obvious that one should rest for six weeks. One should also exercise to help these muscles. Lie on the bed with the floor, bring one knee up to the chest, stretch the leg out and very slowly lower it, bring up to the chest again, stretch out, and so on, half a dozen times. Repeat with the other leg, then with both together. This reduces the abdomen, and does wonders in strengthening various muscles.

S. W. A. K.—You can tell if the heated irons are injuring your hair by its conditions. Such hair is often much shorter than the part which is not curled and sometimes it loses lustre and gets very dry. An occasional curling with a heated iron should not matter very much, however. Use simple bleaches such as cucumber or lemon juice to lighten the red spots left from pimples.

B. Y.—A girl of 16½ years, height five feet, three inches, is about normal weight at 113 pounds.

Nineteen—If you stop using rouge your skin will improve, but it must take quite a long time now to contract all those enlarged pores.

Remove all soil from your skin every night by using cleansing cream, then close the pores by dashing cold water over the skin or by rubbing it with a small piece of ice. If you do this you will avoid having blackheads appear in each of those enlarged pores.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed.

CAN YOU MAKE GOOD PEACH JELLY?

- TOMORROW'S MENU
- Breakfast: Grapefruit, Cereal
 - Luncheon: Fried Liver and Bacon, Coffee
 - Dinner: Lamb Stew (with potatoes, peas and celery), Fruit Salad, Raisin Pie, Coffee

"How can I make Peach Jelly?" inquires a Letter Friend. Peaches lack sufficient "pectin" (that gummy substance which makes jelly "jelly") to make a good firm jelly of themselves. Therefore prepared pectin must be provided to mix with the peach juice.

There are two ways to obtain this prepared pectin: one way is to buy the manufactured pectin from your grocer (I am not permitted to mention the trade name under which this is sold, as that would be advertising). Directions for use come on the bottle.

The other way to obtain prepared pectin is to make it yourself, as follows: Home Made Pectin: Buy thick-skinned oranges and pare off the yellow rind, discarding it. The pectin is contained in the thick, white, underpart of the orange skin. Chip off all of this white under skin, then weigh it. To one-half pound of this skin add three quarts of cold water, let the mixture stand over night, and in the morning put it over the fire and let it simmer for two hours; drain through double cheesecloth. It is now ready to use, but if desired, may be bottled and stood in the ice box till needed.

To Make Peach Jelly With Home Made Pectin: Use peaches which are not quite ripe. Wash them, then cut them into quarters, not removing skins or pits. Put the fruit into a preserving kettle with water barely to cover the fruit and to one pint of this add one-half pint of the home made pectin and two tablespoons of lemon juice. Brink this mixture to a boil, let simmer for two minutes, add one pint of warm granulated sugar (heated on a plate in the oven) and continue to simmer till two drops will form at the same time on the edge of a spoon, when a little of the jelly is taken up in the spoon, held high in the air, and dripped back into the kettle (the "jelly stage" is reached when the two drops form at once). Turn the jelly at once into hot sterilized jelly glasses, let stand out of a draught till cold (a draught may crack the glasses), then cover with melted paraffine wax. Throughout this cooking process skim the jelly when scum collects.

Every housekeeper likes to have at least a few jars of this delicately flavored jelly on hand to open for a guest meal.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Housekeeping" department, will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

CHAPTER XVII

Men are like that. She had said it scornfully, but Craig had thought of it since more than once. Five little boys in a row; but Violet would not bear them for Reggy, nor for any other man. He thought this tonight, even while the fragrant little anemic person was close beside him, and her soft little hand on his arm. Violet, he thought, was about twenty-four; but there was no freshness, no youth and vigor and bloom, left in her. The exquisitely flawless face, under its visible films of powder, rouge, and paste, the lips stiff with brilliant paint, the bright hair scalloped into curves of marble firmness, the eye lashes lightly freighted with some black oil, their surrounding sockets touched with faint lavender shadows—it was all something machine-made, finished, dressed in laces and gold brocade, hung with sparkling jewels, and sent forth to be admired.

And the woman's soul within; that was the same. She had all the little tricks of intelligence; quotations, foreign phrases, bored little superiorities, witty little asides. She had a tenacious instinct for her own preservation; anything that would mar that skin, or that metallic hair, or those boneless little hands, she could perceive with the lightning swiftness of the tiger. She could avert the menace, whatever it might be, with almost unbelievable ingenuity and skill. She had the knowledge of charm; she could seem sweet, wistful, injured, loving. With a sort of childish directness she could plead with him to "be nice to Vi," or with an air of pure and deeply wounded womanly goodness she could appeal: "I only want to get out of it, Craig. My God, how all the people I know sicken me with their putrid lies and compliments and extravagances and flattery! I'm not like that, Craig. There's a real me—"

He knew it all so well! He had played the little game with her gallantly, for years. But now she was not playing. She would really divorce Reggy, and she was certainly talking tonight as if she meant to put Craig in his place. Craig recoiled from the prospect, genuinely appalled. He was not in love with Violet, nor with any one. He hated the thought of the sweetness, the gentleness, the cleverness she would show toward him if she had really set her heart upon marrying him. He hated the anticipation of their friends' hearty co-operation with her in her plan. Their hints, their jokes, their inferences and implications would manage the whole matter as soon as she was free. Vi was infernally clever, there was danger in merely seeing her, and if he went with his own crowd at all, he must inevitably see her.

All this went through his mind as she murmured her little considerate explanation. When he could speak, he said: "I'll beat it down to Mount Holly again, and dig in for the rest of the season. My uncle isn't well, there's a lot I ought to do there, anyway. Don't worry, Vi, I don't think any one is going to talk. But be pretty sure, dear, that you aren't making a mistake."

"About—liking you, trusting you, Craig?" she asked, innocently wondering in tone. "No, old thing. About—well, Reggy's going to have enough money to burn a wet dog with some day, you know! Can't you stick it? A couple of nice little kids."

"Do I look like the sort of woman who's willing to put up with everything for the sake of a couple of little crying babies?" she demanded, passionately. "Since that day of the big game, when you played quarter, and I went with Reggy, and he asked me to marry him, I've known that it wasn't Reggy!"

Reggy was the nearest thing to being actually weak-minded that Craig knew among his acquaintances; more than the rest of them Reggy wore some spoiled, stupid, selfish. Reggy sometimes talked of his horses, but preferred the subject of alcoholic liquors. Craig's group was lenient and inactive enough, but even in Craig's group Reggy was regarded with a mixture of contempt and conscious lenience.

"How you men stick together!" Vi said, sharply. "Cross even with me?" he asked her in a tone that brought back her equilibrium. She gave him a penitent smile and began to tell him of the arrangement between herself and Reggy, and that his sister Kate Pierce had returned to the Vandewort family some of the portraits that, at marriage, had come to her as Reggy's wife! "Let them buy them back if they want them!" Violet said, re-

Theatres News Notes

"Why Men Leave Home" opened last night at the tent theatre of Murphy's Comedians on Stocker street, Casa Verdugo, between Brand boulevard and Central avenue. This is the famous play by Avery Hopwood, and is a scream.

The large audience voted it, sentimentally. "I don't want the old with their almost continuous things!"

He left her side, later in the evening, profoundly thoughtful. In a few days or weeks the newest fashionable divorce would have its hour of notoriety. At that moment a dozen wives would say in unison: "It's Craig Spaulding!"

Craig was unusually well-balanced. He was an unusually well-balanced fool indeed not to know that he was good-looking, rich, conspicuously desirable in every way that would appeal to Violet. She had wanted a man, a man that other women liked and would envy her, and to whose home other men wanted to come. She wanted to entertain, to draw the interesting people of the great city about her; not to be merely pitied by the world, and coaxed by Reggy's family into keeping him out of too-notorious escapades.

"Lord—Lord, this is a funny mix-up!" Craig thought, moving through the days in the Mount Holly office, and spending his evenings decorously in his uncle's library. His aunt would ask him that day of the big game, when you played quarter, and I went with Reggy, and he asked me to marry him, I've known that it wasn't Reggy!"

Reggy was the nearest thing to being actually weak-minded that Craig knew among his acquaintances; more than the rest of them Reggy wore some spoiled, stupid, selfish. Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SAND HOUSE
Uncle Wiggily had gone to the seashore because it was such hot weather. Even his hollow stump bungalow in the woods was too warm for the bunny rabbit gentleman.

"Of course," he said to Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, his muskrat lady housekeeper, "if I should take off my fur coat I might not be so hot. But I can't!"
"Why Men Leave Home." Marriage in this play has been made the butt of much good-humored foolery. The play is clean throughout, however, Manager J. A. Menard is careful to state.

The curtain rises each night at 8 o'clock, though those who wish front seats may come as early as 7:15 o'clock. There is plenty of room in the neighborhood to park cars, states Mr. Menard.

he came upon Hilary and Dora Collier, muddy, rosy, breathless, and fresh as the sweet open day itself. They had been gathering willow branches; they showed him eagerly that the gray velvet tips were almost visible on the bare whips already.

"And listen—" said Hilary, lightly touching his arm in her eagerness. She and Dora, eyes serious, inclined their heads towards the woods, and were still. Craig, bewildered, followed their example.

"What is it?" he whispered. "Listen!" directed Hilary. This time he heard it: the brave, insistent shrilling of frogs somewhere unseen.

CITES VALUE OF Y.M.C.A. BUILDING

Place to Mould Character Of Coming Leaders, Writer Declares

Editor The Evening News—Among all the improvements suggested for Glendale in the near future there are none that exceed in real substantial value the contemplated Young Men's Christian Association building. In company with several Glendale business men we visited the Y. M. C. A. buildings at San Diego and Santa Ana recently. The latter building has just completed and it is a credit to the city of Santa Ana.

How proud we could be if we could erect a similar building here in Glendale, well designed, substantially built, containing those features designed to interest boys of all ages of 12, 16, 18, 20, also business and professional men, such as volley ball, swimming pool, gymnasium, inside and outside games of various kinds. A fine building of this character is an asset to any community, to be classed with school buildings, city hall, public library, etc., to be pointed out with a justifiable pride to visitors and strangers. It is an advantage by promoting intercourse and sociability under pleasant environments among the boys and men of the city. It will be a most useful agency in developing the health and strength of the boys and young men of Glendale, along the approved lines of exercise.

In short, it will be an approved, modern plant, not to make merchandise and dollars, but to make character. To take careless and sometimes homeless and friendless boys and make Christian business men out of them, upon whose shoulders in the years to come will rest the burdens of commerce, church, school and state.

It is not a question, can we afford the building. The fact is, we cannot afford to be without it. Crime, especially among boys and young men, is on the rapid increase. Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, has lately declared that a quarter to a third of the revenues of the states are spent in the battle of crime. One dollar of every three goes to protect us from the criminal who represents one out of every hundred of our population. And the expense largely is in vain. Disregard for law is the curse of California. Los Angeles had more murders last year than the entire Dominion of Canada; more robberies, burglaries and thefts last year than Scotland, Ireland and Canada combined. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. By all means let us erect the building in Glendale. W. F. TOWER, 328 No. Maryland Ave.

What's Doing In Radioland

Radioland friends of Los Angeles stations will have a hard time choosing between orchestra music and a three-act play. Three musical programs will be presented over KFI, while "Engaged," a three-act play from the pen of W. S. Gilbert, and enacted by the Pasadena Community Players, will be the feature attraction over KHJ. The programs follow:

KHJ (The Times) 8 o'clock—Special program, presenting the three-act play, "Engaged," by W. S. Gilbert, enacted by the Pasadena Community Players through the courtesy of Edward Murphey. Judge Ira F. Thompson will give a talk on "Americanism." Cast of characters: Cheviot Hill, Joseph Bell; Belawney, Ray Glass; Symper, Harry Ashe; Major MacGillcuddy, L. M. Roberts; Angus MacAllister, Earle Eby; Belinda Treherne, Jean Nash; Minnie Symper's daughter, Ruth Hill; Mrs. MacFarlane, Annie Drummond; Maggie, Eva Puffer; Parker, Berrien Grunigan. Synopsis: Act 1, engaged, a cottage in Scotland; act 2, Married or single? a mansion in England; act 3, married, same as act 2. Hatch Graham and his banjo will lend atmosphere to the play.

KFI (Earle C. Anthony, Inc.) 5 to 5:30—The Evening Herald. 5:30 to 6—The Examiner. News, talks.

8 to 9—Herald. Program by the Lake Arrowhead orchestra. 10 to 11—Anthony. Hotel Ambassador Cocomat Grove orchestra.

Film Star Turns Her Back on California

PASADENA, Aug. 4.—Mary Miles Minter, whose name has been inscribed on the justice courts books of Pasadena, Glendale and Los Angeles, has gone to New York. She says she is "tired" of California and its court-room episodes, traffic officers and whatnot. She hopes never to return. It is believed the film star has obtained a settlement with her mother in litigation regarding her earnings while she was still a minor. A new maid accompanied Miss Minter East.

Farmers' Prosperity Reflected In Stores

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 4.—This city is beginning to reap its share of the golden harvests of Missouri and Kansas. With wheat money pouring into the farmers and the livestock market mounting skyward, prosperity is not only just around the corner, it is thrusting its head into the portals of local merchants. The latter expect a record season. Wholesale dealers and mail order establishments already are feeling the improvement and are preparing for further substantial increases this fall.

Standard's Gas Slash Met by Competitors

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 4.—The cut of 1 cent a gallon on gasoline made by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana has already been met by its competitors. While 16.9 cents is the normal tank wagon price, gasoline is now selling in some parts of this section for 12 cents.

Street Railway Asks For Increased Fares

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—The State Utilities commission now is considering the petition of the Springfield Street Railway for permission to increase fares from 7 to 10 cents.

BRITISH-MEXICAN BREACH MAY GROW

Killing of Mrs. Evans Liable To Strain Relations Of Two Nations

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 4.—The rupture between Mexico and England may be widened by the killing of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, a British subject, near her ranch in the state of Puebla, according to fears expressed here today.

Mrs. Evans was on her way to her home when assassins shot her, firing ten bullets into her body. It is believed that the killers were agrarians who sought to take possession of the woman's ranch.

Fires at Bandits Mrs. Evans was known as a "woman who could take care of herself." She was making her way towards her ranch house along a lonely road when the assassins stepped from ambush and began shooting into the automobile. Without hesitation, Mrs. Evans drew her automatic and returned the fire. But the odds were too great and she soon fell across the steering wheel, her body riddled with bullets.

The foreman of Mrs. Evans' ranch, John Strauss, a German citizen, who was riding with her, was seriously wounded.

American Envoy to Represent Britain

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Arthur Schoenfeldt, American charge d'affaires at Mexico City, acting for the British government, will present a formal protest to the Mexican government against the slaying of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, a British subject, it was learned here today. Diplomatic relations do not exist between Great Britain and Mexico and in view of the recent departure of the British charge d'affaires from Mexico, British official business in Mexico City has been handled through the American government.

Women Do Heavy Work In Remote Jap Island

TOKIO, Aug. 4.—The women do the work that under present-day standards falls on the shoulders of men. The men fish all night and sleep all day. The island is covered with forests of boxwood, all of which is common property. The chief occupations are the felling of these trees and the export to Japan of hand-made combs made on the island. This reads a report of a traveler who recently returned to Tokyo from Mikurashima, the most remote of the seven islands of the Izu Peninsula, in Southern Japan.

Teach Law In Hebrew In Palestine School

JERUSALEM, Aug. 4.—The government law school—the first school in which the language in which the ancient laws of Judaism and Christianity were promulgated, held its first commencement here recently with impressive exercises. There were 45 graduates, thirty Jews and fifteen Arabs. Addresses were delivered in Hebrew by Sir Herbert Samuel, British high commissioner, and Colonel Norman Bentwich, chief justice of Palestine.

Harry Conover Wins Portable Phonograph

Harry Conover of 409 West Elk was the winner of the $50 portable phonograph given as a prize by the Glendale Music company at its new building on South Brand boulevard. Mr. Conover held ticket No. 836. The drawing was made Saturday night at the music store, and a large crowd was present. Tickets were given a week ago Saturday to all who called to inspect the new store on the opening day, and the portable phonograph was the prize.

Egg Exchange Opens Offices In St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Aug. 4.—Headquarters of the Minnesota Co-operative Poultry & Egg Exchange, which does a $4,000,000 a year business, has been located here. Farmers are receiving from 20 to 28 cents a dozen for their eggs, officials said today.

Campers' Supply Firms Report Record Sales

SEATTLE, Aug. 4.—Manufacturers and dealers in tents and awnings and campers' supplies predict the active demand will continue until September. Sales are up to the best records of recent years.

Cattle Prices Reach Season's High Figure

ST. PAUL, Aug. 4.—Young cattle have reached $10.50 a hundred pounds in the stock yards here, the best grade of the season, and hogs are selling at highest figures in twenty-four months.

The Glendale Clearing-House Association has passed a ruling, effective Sept. 1st, 1924, as follows:

A charge of fifty cents will be made upon the last business day of each calendar month, or as soon thereafter as charges can be entered, against any checking account which during the month has shown an average daily credit balance of less than fifty dollars and against which account checks have been paid during the month.

Rules similar to the above are in force in nearly all the cities of the country, practically none making provision for a lesser charge or a smaller minimum average balance; in fact, almost all are larger. The Boston Clearing House Association, for instance, recently established a charge of $1.00 per month on all balances averaging under $300.00.

The Banks of Glendale are not making a service charge to secure a profit. Their aim is to be relieved of the loss caused by carrying small checking accounts and to eliminate overdrafts, and the burden of returning checks because of insufficient funds.

There are two ways for the depositor to avoid paying the charge, either of which is satisfactory to the Bank. 1st—Transfer his checking account to a Savings Account and the Bank will gladly care for his money without charge.

2nd—Build up his balance so that it will always average more than $50.00. This last plan is not so hard once it is tried. Actually, under this plan, the depositor is the one most benefited. He always has $50.00 on hand for an emergency should he need it. Should he misfigure his balance, it decreases his chance of getting a notice of an overdraft and may avoid the returning of his check because of insufficient funds.

SPECIAL CONCERT FOR GLENDALIANS

Hollywood Bowl Is Scene of Gay Affair Saturday as Many Attend

Glendale enjoyed one of Hollywood's symphonies under the stars Saturday night, when "Glendale Night" was observed by a special concert in the Hollywood Bowl.

A special section was reserved for Glendalians and it is reported that over 2000 occupied this part of the great outdoor auditorium. Splendid music was furnished by Alfred Hertel and his orchestra, and specially enjoyable were the vocal numbers by Miss Eleanor Marlow, eastern singer.

Stress Co-operation During intermission Mrs. J. J. Carter, on behalf of the Bowl association and city of Hollywood, welcomed the Glendale people.

Standing before the Glendale section, she noted in her usual gracious way a greeting and praised highly the spirit of good fellowship and co-operation between the sister cities, Glendale and Hollywood.

Mrs. Edwin Cleophas of 337 North Central avenue, who handles the Bowl concert tickets in Glendale, announces that she has been fortunate in securing some more ticket books, which she is to divide and sell to Glendale people. There has been such a demand for the tickets that a shortage is anticipated.

Named Local Manager For La Salle Course

William R. Jones, a resident of Glendale for thirteen years, has accepted the appointment as district manager for Glendale and vicinity of the La Salle Extension university. He is to represent the U. S. Star Salesman with home study or personal classes. His office is located for the present at 431 North Maryland avenue.

Westphals Back From Iowa, Wisconsin Trip

Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Westphal of 337 North Isabel street arrived home this afternoon from a trip to Iowa and Wisconsin. They left Glendale several weeks ago to take the body of Mrs. Westphal's brother to New London, Iowa, for funeral and interment. Later they visited in Wisconsin.

Mrs. Woods to Appear In Spanish Numbers

Mrs. Nanno Woods of Glendale is to participate Wednesday afternoon in the Spanish fiesta to be given by pupils of the dancing department of the University of California, southern branch, on the campus in Los Angeles. The program will begin at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Woods has been studying in the class of Spanish and Mexican dancing with Miss Letty Carroll, who comes direct from all parts of the United States. She is to take part in one of the feature dances of the fiesta, La Salida de los Toros. In the class in pageantry Mrs. Woods was chosen chairman of the costume committee.

In telling of her summer work she says that it has been her pleasure to study with Miss Letty Carroll, who comes direct from Mexico City. The pianist assisting in the work is Senor Cordova Cantu, also from Mexico City. Mrs. Woods plans to introduce the Sandunga dance into her Glendale and Burbank classes this fall and she contemplates the possibility of reproducing La Salida de los Toros in the spring.

Plan Swimming Party At Patterson Plunge

P. N. Bennett, superintendent of the municipal swimming pool at Patterson park, is arranging a swimming party for adults only, to be staged at the pool tomorrow afternoon, starting at 5 o'clock. A number of adults have been invited to the water party, and Mr. Bennett has asked The Glendale Evening News to extend the invitation to all grown residents of this city.

Tuesday and Thursday are the days on which the pool is given over to adults, from 5 to 7 p. m. Children are not allowed in the pool during these hours, Mr. Bennett said, and the swimming party tomorrow is to acquaint residents of Glendale with the possibilities of the pool.

Dance Pupils Stage Exhibition Number

Bernice and Ethel Pelz, talented pupils of Miss Bernice Sibeck, entertained Saturday night at the dance in the Hahn auditorium at 109-A North Brand boulevard, with a clever Pierrot and Pierrette dance. Miss Sibeck is to present an exhibition number every Saturday night. The public is invited to these dances.

Brush Fire Started By Cigarette, Claim

Glendale's unit of the Angeles Fire Protective association claims to have had its first run to a fire on Saturday, although only two members of the organization took part in the run.

Reports of a brush fire at La Crescencia that reached Chief P. J. Hayselden took him and W. B. Halligan, one of the crew leaders, to the scene of the outbreak (where they found that two acres of brush had been burned over, but that the fire had been practically extinguished by residents of the neighborhood. The fire occurred on Michigan boulevard, west of Pennsylvania avenue, and is said to have been caused by a lit cigarette thrown from a passing automobile among the weeds and grass at the roadside.

Summer Conference To College Planned

Lyle McAllister and Neal Sooy were joint leaders Sunday night of the Intermediate Christian Endeavor meeting at the Glendale Presbyterian church. The topic for discussion was "How Jesus Treated Enemies." Special announcement was made of the summer conference to be held this week at Occidental college, Eagle Rock. During the meeting Miss Raymond of Immanuel church, Los Angeles, gave vocal selections. The young people are to enjoy a skating party Tuesday night, August 12, at Alhambra.

Within two months of this year the government of Japan purchased $200,000,000 worth of American electric locomotives and substitution power equipment to use in connection with railway electrification projects.
