SENIOR LACROSSE LEAGUE WILL BE RE-ORGANIZED IN CAPITAL

Victoria Twelve Meet Mann Cup Holders To-morrow; Vancouver and Westminster Wish to Meet at Royal Athletic Park June 13

Steps are now being taken to revive the Victoria City Lacrosse association with three teams. Oak Bays, North Wards and Victoria Wests. An announcement was made by a prominent official of the Victoria Representative club this morning that the league will be organized immediately. It is expected that the members of the senior Victoria team will be allowed to play with the different City league clubs.

The decision to move to the Oak Bay grounds brought up the question of added games and it was decided to organize a City league to play the league fixtures at Oak Bay. This will tend to develop players for the Mann cup team and will also keep the men in the best of condition for the P. C. A. L. A. schedule.

NEW CRICKET CLUB.

A very successful meeting was held last evening at Christ Church cathedral for the purpose of forming a cricket club. The dean of Columbia presided, and there was a good attendance of people interested in this sport. Several names were suggested for the club that of "The Five C's Club" was adopted. The dean was elected president of the newly-formed organization, and expressed his pleasure at the honor conferred on him, promising to give his hearty support and expressing the hope that the team would have a very successful season.

WANT HIM RESTRAINED.

Chicago, June 5.—The Kansas City Federal league club has served notice on Fitcher Blanding, of the Cleveland Americans, to appear before Judge Föhl in the Superior court here next Monday, when it intends to move that a temporary injunction be granted restraining him from playing with Cleveland or any club other than the Kansas City Federals.

After seeing Pete Schneider pitch a good game against Victoria on Tuesday, John J. McCloskey, scout for Cincinnati, began feeling around to see what Dugdale would take for him. "It will take $10,000 to buy Pete," said Dugdale without hesitation.

JOHNSON IN SHAPE

JACK JOHNSON

According to Johnson, who has just closed a series of boxing exhibitions at Brussels, his arm, which was fractured during a bout with Jim Johnson, is as strong as before the accident. He states that there is no pain when he blocks an opponent's blow and that he believes the recovery so complete that there is no danger of a handicap in this direction. In other respects Johnson contends that he will be as physically fit for Moran as he was for Jeffries, making allowance for the four years which have elapsed since the contest on the sage plains of Nevada.

JONES SCORED FOR THIS YEAR'S UMPIRES

Victoria Unable to Score Against Bonner Yesterday; Moran Joins Club

Fleider Jones, president of the Northwestern League, is being "called" by the league directors for the very poor umpires that he has been handing out this season. Owners Kingham and Dugdale are greatly annoyed over the decisions that are being passed out at Seattle this week by Burnside and Wright. Umpire Knowlton had to have police assistance at Spokane yesterday to keep the game going. Perle Casey has been stationed at Vancouver for the past three weeks, with the result that charges of favoritism are now being made against Jones.

Once more the Tealeykums nosed out the Bees in a contest that was noteworthy for the excellence of the heavy hitting upon the part of Messrs. Smith and Bonner. Seattle surely is getting the breaks this week. Victoria, on the other hand, has been hit hard because of their inability to bunch the blows.

Al. Bonner won his own game in the eighth when he doubled and came home on Raymond's single. This was the only score of the game, though Victoria had several good chances to put a man across the rubber. Dolmas sent his new outer-gardener, Moran, into right field and the latest addition promptly made good with a couple of timely singles. The game was a toss-up, with Smith having the edge on Bonner only to lose out when his hated rival put a two-base blow into left field.

Owner Kingham is gradually whipping the Bees into shape. Moran will help out a lot in the hitting department, while Calvo's arrival means that Driscoll will be able to take his turn on the slab, rounding out a very formidable twirling staff. Brooks has started to hit and as long as he is pounding out the bingles Dolmas will not shift his infield. The team is holding the league leaders down to single-run decisions and with the Seattle club getting the breaks, the Bees cannot be criticized for dropping the last three games.

Manager Jennings, of the Tigers, says: "Harry Covalenski and Miles Main have already established themselves as dependable pitchers; George Boehler and Johnny Williams should come through, as they have the sense and the ability. With these four men and Daus, Daus and Hall I have one of the best pitching stiffs in the American league."

Matt Hynes, whose chief record for fame was a no-hit game against the Vancouver Beavers while working for the Portland Colts, has been obtained from the Dayton club by Victoria and will pitch one of the games this week. Hynes belonged to Cleveland last year.

Spokane, June 5.—Spokane continued its slaughter of Tacoma pitchers yesterday and won its fourth straight game, 12 to 6. The game was obtained in minutes in the eighth, the crowd swarming on the field on precipitating a near-riot when Umpire Knowlton, assisted by the police, put West and Bloomer off the coaching lines.

Tacoma, June 5.—Tacoma continued its slaughter of Seattle pitchers yesterday and won its fourth straight game, 12 to 6. SPORTING GOSSIP OF THE DAY

Victoria should climb next week when Portland comes here. The Federals were confident they would win the Johnson case.

This decision will keep a number of others from jumping contracts. Willie Ritchie says he will give White a battle for the title when he returns from England.

Perhaps he won't have a title after Freddie Welsh gets through mauling him for twenty rounds.

Delmas has three homers to his credit this year, but the league records do not show these four-base clouts.

Oak Bay and Sidney will clash next week in the Victoria cup series.

Wonder if the Tigers will get back into first place when Ty Cobb returns to the game.

Con. Riley says that the Winnipeg eight will bring the grand challenge cup to Canada.

That's what the Toronto Argonauts said when they left for Henley a couple of years ago.

Whitcomb and Driscoll are a pair of the fastest base-runners in the league.

Be home rule good or bad, it ought not to be forced on to the statute book at this moment without the people of the country having their full share of responsibility in an action fraught with so much peril to the community.—Mr. A. J. Balfour.

Can you wear a 42, 44 or 46? Then you will most assuredly want one of these dresses.

It often happens that we are able to make big reductions to customers on account of a particular dress they may fancy being of an extreme size. To illustrate what we mean, we have singled out just three dresses, sizes 42, 44 and 46. If the sizes were normal we would ask four times what we do. You are fortunate indeed if your size is amongst them:

From London Times.

To-day we are able, through the courtesy of Dr. E. Horner, a private tutor, resident in London, to give to the world two hitherto unpublished sonnets by Keats, written when he was just entering upon the flower of his all too brief maturity, and of great value not only by reason of their intrinsic merit and for the striking similarity of their thought to certain passages in "Sleep and Poetry" and in "Endymion," but also for their relation to an interesting episode in Keats' life. The sonnets are in Keats' handwriting, written on the blank page which immediately precedes the sonnets in the edition of his "Poems" published by C. and J. Ollier in 1817, that little volume of which he himself wrote in the preface to "Endymion" which he afterwards rejected—"It was read by some dozen of my friends who liked it; and some dozen whom I was unacquainted with, who did not."

Dedicated to J. H. Reynolds. The copy before us bears on the title page the inscription, also in Keats' handwriting: "To J. H. Reynolds from his friend J. Keats" and was purchased in Leipzig by Dr. Horner's father from an English gentleman in or about the year 1875. The sonnets are as follows: ON RECEIVING A LAUREL CROWN FROM LEIGH HUNT. Minutes are flying swiftly, and as yet Nothing unearthly has enticed my brain Into a delphic labyrinth; I would fain Catch an immortal thought to pay the debt I owe to the kind poet who has set Upon my ambitious head a glorious crown. Two bending laurel sprigs-'tis nearly pain To be conscious of such a coronet. Still time is fleeing, and no dream arises Gorgeous as I would have it—only I see A trampling down of what the world most prizes— Turbans and crowns and blank regality; And then I run into mist and surmise Of all the many glories that may be.

TO THE LADIES WHO SAW ME: What is there in the universal earth More lovely than a wreath from the bay tree? Haply a halo round the moon—a glee Circling from three sweet pairs of lips in mirth; And haply you will say the dewy birth Of morning roses—rippings tenderly Spread by the balcyon's breast upon the sea— But these comparisons are nothing worth. Then is there nothing in the world so fair? The silvery tears of April? Youth of May? Or June that breathes out life for butterflies? No—none of these can from my favorite Away the palm—yet shall it ever pay Due reverence to your most sovereign eyes.

There are cadences and expressions in these sonnets, such as those of the sixth line of the first with its stress on the word "ambitious" and its use of "glorious gain," which will be familiar to any student of Keats' poetry; but they have a value even beyond themselves in their movements of thought. Reminiscence of Endymion. The conclusion of the first sonnet is especially interesting when we turn to the beginning of the third book of "Endymion," which was written in September, 1817, and find: With not one tinge Of sanctuary splendor, not a slight Able to face an owl's, they still are slight By the blue eyed nations in empurpled vests, And crowns, and turbans. With unladen breasts Save of blown self-applause, they proudly mount To the spirit's perch, their being's high account. Their tip top nothings, their dull skies, their throes— Amid the fierce intoxicating tones Of trumpets, shoutings, and belabored drums, And sudden cannon. Ah! how all this hums, In woful ears, like uproar past and gone. Like thunder clouds that spake to Babylon, And set those old Chaldeans to their tasks. Are then regalities all gilded masks? That is, six months or more, probably ten months, before the writing of the third book of "Endymion," the young poet's mind was already moving along the train of thought which he elaborated in the above passage. Again, the opening of the second sonnet with its repeated questions is strikingly similar to the well-known opening lines of "Sleep and Poetry":

What is more gentle than a wind in summer? What is more soothing than the pretty hummer? That stays a moment in an open flower, And buzzes cheerily from flower to flower? What is more tranquil than a muskrose blowing In a green island, far from all men's knowing? What but thee, sleep?

And the interesting question arises, is Keats here working out the mode of thought he afterwards used in "Sleep and Poetry," or is he, as it were, plagiarizing himself and repeating in a slighter form what he had already employed more elaborately? The exact date of the sonnets has therefore an importance outside themselves.

The Germans are well known for their thoroughness and strict adherence to regulations, says "Harper's." Late-ly a railroad train in Germany ran off the track at a minor terminal, and hurt a number of people, overturned the station-house, and set it on fire. The local fire department responded and they were met at the station, as they were about to swarm in, by the station-master, who demanded of them the usual platform-tickets. "We have none," cried the fire captain. "You can't enter here without them," replied the station-master. The fire captain for a moment was nonplussed, then cried out, "Then give them to us." "I can't," replied the station-master; "the ticket-office has been destroyed." The fire department (by rule) returned to its quarters—duty done! The truest self-respect is not to think of self.—H. W. Your Child's Eyes

May be all right, but it is far more likely that they are not. Many children are handicapped in school or subjected to petty nervous or physical ills all because of imperfect vision. An examination of 100,000 school children showed that nearly 30% needed glasses, and most of these were down on the registers as "stupid," "stubborn" or "unruly." The use of proper glasses in childhood often averts serious trouble later on. Have Mr. Blyth examine your child's eyes—he affords the utmost skill and care, and glasses will not be prescribed unless absolutely necessary.

SAYS MEXICO'S NEED IS AN IRON HAND

James Creelman Gives London Newspaper His View on the Situation

One of the greatest living authorities on Mexico, Mr. James Creelman, the well-known American author and journalist, and editor of the New York Evening Mail, recently visited London after his latest visit to the country he has studied so closely. He has written several books on Mexico, is the author of a life of ex-President Diaz, is personally acquainted with all the leading men, and is regarded by the Mexicans themselves as an expert student of their life and history.

A Daily Chronicle representative had an interview with Mr. Creelman, and one of his first questions related to the movements of the American fleet, and the policy that this might indicate. Mr. Creelman does not consider that occupation of the country by United States troops would present any serious military problem, but emphasized the reluctance of his country to take such a step.

"Whether there will be armed intervention," he said, "depends on whether President Huerta refuses the salute to the American flag that is demanded in satisfaction for the arrest of our marines. Huerta is an Indian to the heart's core, and my own judgment is that he will fight to the bitter end. Should American troops be forced to take possession of Tampico, it is more than likely that they will also seize Vera Cruz. That in itself would be a crushing blow to the Huerta government, and would undoubtedly produce almost instant and general bankruptcy."

The People Want Peace.
"It is likely that armed intervention would unite the government and the rebels against a common foe?"
"I do not think that is likely. There might be a partial union against the United States troops, but the present civil war is not a war for any political principle; it is a striving for personal power, personal revenge, and personal enrichment."

"But the mass of the people and the property owners and business men want peace. After the generation of peace, order and material progress under the autocratic rule of President Diaz had begun to hope that Mexico had reached a state of tranquillity which would be maintained. But to-day the great majority of Mexicans have given up all hope for their nation. I believe that a large part of the people, particularly the energetic and responsible part, together with the whole of the white population, would welcome peace even though it were procured by an armed occupation by the United States."
"It did not need President Wilson's assurance that the United States would never annex another foot of territory on the American hemisphere. The recent history of the United States and the unmistakable attitude of the Amer-

SEES YANKEE PERIL IN SOUTH AMERICA

German Writer Says U. S. Seeks Complete Domination of Latin Republics

Under the title of "The Yankee Danger in South America and Its Reaction Upon Germany," Prof. Dr. Leo Brenner, of Stuttgart, has just published a strong anti-American article in which he attempts to show that the United States by nefarious means has been at work for many years to secure the complete political and commercial domination of South and Central America to the exclusion of European trade in general and German particularly. He advocates that Germany should stand by the South and Central American republics in every possible way in order to "resist this American encroachment."

Germany, he declares, will find itself richly repaid by the increased trade which the grateful republics will undoubtedly give its sympathetic helper. The article is but one of many similar ones written lately by numerous writers, furthering and spreading still more the idea which obsesses a certain portion of the German press, that the United States wants to annex Mexico, eventually the Central American republics down to the Panama canal and perhaps later on even bring portions of South America under the Stars and Stripes. Prof. Brenner says:

"When I asked the Chilean minister of foreign affairs a few years ago why Chile, Argentina and Brazil were building seven dreadnoughts, pointing out that they would cost an immense sum of money and had no purpose after the three republics had settled their pending boundary controversies, the minister answered with a shrewd smile: 'These seven dreadnoughts are not intended to be used between us South Americans, but they are being built in order that a standard can be made against the Yankee danger!'"

Alarm Was Justified.
"At that time I was astonished by the minister's words, as it appeared to me highly improbable that the southern half of South America would soon be exposed to any danger on the part of the United States. Since then, however, I have watched the situation and my travels in the various South and Central American countries, together with my sojourn in the United States, have convinced me that the minister was not entirely wrong."

"It is a fact that a conspicuously pursued, veiled but unceasing advance of the Yankees can be observed in the Latin American countries and of attempts to seriously mix in there has been no lack. Most noteworthy in this 'mole work' of the Yankees are Cuba, Mexico, Domingo, Nicaragua, Panama, Venezuela, Ecuador, Brazil and Chile. To these has lately been added Peru and Paraguay."

"This advance of the North American cannot be indifferent to the German empire because it threatens the pre-eminence position that the German trade has succeeded in making for itself. One can say that German trade in Latin American countries occupies second position and is rapidly increasing. Any one who knows the North American commercial policy and politics will agree that it is high time that the German empire should with all possible means ward off the Yankee danger. This help will have the result of insuring to German trade the decisive predominance over all rivals, not to mention political influence, which is not to be disregarded."

Brenner quotes John Quincy Adams that "Cuba is a natural appendage to the Union," and adds that the United States gave Cuba its freedom much against its (America's) will, because it could hardly do otherwise in view of the solemn promises made, but is now merely writing for an excuse to make it a part of the "severely satiated empire" the same as Porto Rico.

German Arms Barred, He Says.
The German writer declares that Spain had 200,000 soldiers in Cuba when the Spanish war began, and that it is freely stated that the "American dollar" was more effective in the surrender of Cuba than the 18,000 American troops sent to liberate it. The Cubans, he says, consider the Americans as "arch enemies," and goes on to say that the United States "would not permit the Cuban troops to equip themselves with German arms, as they desired, but compelled them against their will to buy their arms in the Union."

Instinctively, says the writer, the Cubans feel that the United States is only awaiting the opening of the canal to take over the island on some excuse or other, "probably with the old time means of an artificially created uprising, which worked with such good results in Nicaragua."

Brenner declares that Santo Domingo is the next island whose independence is threatened by the United States. The writer reviews the incidents leading up to the present Mexican situation in such a way as to show that America is at the bottom, top and in the middle of it all. "The Yankee is arrogant and defiant only where he can intimidate. If one takes a firm, strong attitude against him, he gives way to his feeling of military powerlessness," concludes Brenner.

"The Japanese have known how to make good use of this to obtain the exclusion of the emigration restriction clause in the new commercial treaty. They simply threatened war!"

"I am going to marry your sister, Willie, but I know I am not good enough for her." Candid Little Brother—"That's what she says, but she's been telling her she can't do any better."

A man rather untidy in his personal habits was discussing the question of a new waistcoat with a friend. "What color would you advise?" he asked the friend. "Why," said the friend, "I'd get one of soup color."

In a Great Western railway carriage on the way up to London, a youth had disturbed and annoyed the other passengers by loud and foolish remarks during a great part of the journey. As the train passed Hanwell lunatic asylum he remarked: "I often think how nice the asylum looks from the railway."

"Some day," growled an old gentleman, "you will probably have occasion to remark how nice the railway looks from the asylum."

An old joke of J. L. Toole's was successfully practiced on a friend of mine on Saturday, says a writer in the London Daily Citizen. He was returning from Kempton Park races, and one member of the party had all the tickets. When nearing Vauxhall he suddenly exclaimed, "I'm one ticket short," and turning to the smallest man suggested he should get under the seat till after the ticket-collector had passed. The collector came and he handed six tickets. "But there are only five of you," he said. "No, sir," replied the joker; "one of my pals prefers to ride under the seat to hear the wheels go round."

Wanted—Listings of all Calgary and Flathead Oil Shares
Hall & Floyer, Ltd.
Corner View and Douglas Streets.
Telephone 4770-4771. Ask for our Daily Oil Bulletin.

STOCK MARKET REPORT
The absorbing topic of conversation in local stock market circles last month has been the reported discovery of high-grade oil on the Dingman property south of Calgary. Reports from that city are that everyone in the vicinity is oil mad and that new companies are being formed by the dozen. As practically all these companies are mere prospects there is very little to choose between any of them at present, and this condition will probably obtain until the actual bringing in of commercial wells with the resultant proving up of certain fields. The formation of an oil exchange at Calgary will be beneficial in the way of establishing proper prices and also in the way of giving some kind of a guarantee as to the genuineness of shares listed, as at present the condition there seems to be one of chaos. We understand the B. C. Oil and Coal company, a local concern, has recently let a contract for the sinking of a large well on their property at Sage Creek, Flathead Valley, Kootenay district. Experimental wells on this property lately were successful in producing oil with the practical guidance of Mr. Ralph Arnold, one of the best known oil experts, whose company is now being formed to make a thorough examination, great results are expected. The company is capitalized at $400,000 in $100 shares, $50 each, 5,000 of which are outstanding and the balance in treasury. The company has ample funds at hand with which to pursue present projects. The payment of an extra dividend of 2 cents per share this month on Standard Silver-Lead brings the total dividend disbursements by this company to date up to $1,375,000 on a capitalization of $2,000,000, a truly splendid exhibit. The management in their report to the stockholders some time ago stated that the characteristics of this property and its history thus far would indicate a long period of profitable mining. The size and continuity of the vein, together with the large ore bodies, which have so far been followed down to a depth of 500 feet, increasing in size as depth has been attained, are well known to mining men as very promising features, indicating a long term of remunerative work. Furthermore, it is confidently expected that other ore bodies will be found in addition to those already known, as development work progresses upon the extensive property owned by the company. Since the above statement was made, a new ore body has been encountered on the No. 4 level which runs very high in silver values. This ore body is new, thick, level and will probably average 15 feet in thickness. This is further in the mountain and goes to prove the above conservative statement of the management as to finding new ore bodies. Monthly statements are mailed to all stockholders at the rate of $50,000, with net earnings averaging about $80,000, which allows for the accumulation of a substantial surplus. Affairs in Wall street at the moment are merely drifting. Operators of the

EASY TENDENCY IN WHEAT FOR SESSION

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
Chicago, June 5.—The tendency was easy to-day in wheat, but very narrow. Crop news was somewhat more favorable, and the Liverpool cables coming lower were disappointing to bulls. Foreign news was mixed, and while Liverpool was easy most of the continental markets were firm. Argentine shipments were little larger, being estimated at 1,400,000 bushels. Receipts here moderate, and there has been good demand for several days for the old wheat, sales to-day aggregating heavy, while eastern exporters are bidding strong for Chicago and Duluth wheat.

Present indication there should be a good demand for new wheat all through July, and the old wheat promises to be well used up before the new wheat is available.

VILLA SERVES FOR GOOD COUNTRY AND ITS PEOPLE

Chihuahua, Mex., June 5.—"The creation of the central division of the constitutional army and the placing of its command in the hands of General Panfilo Natorra, are matters entirely within the province of General Carranza, commander-in-chief of the constitutional army," said General Villa to-day when asked whether he wished to comment on the turn in military affairs in Northern Mexico. "I have always been ready to serve, and have always served my country as best I could, and will continue to guide my actions by what I consider to be the best in the interest of the country and its people," continued General Villa. "I will say that I am ready to make any sacrifice for my country, provided always that making such sacrifices will add the greater cause for which I have been fighting."

She can end that Corn

End it in two days.

Blue-jay would stop the pain the moment she applied it. Then it would gently loosen the corn. In 48 hours, the whole corn would lift out, without any pain or soreness.

Blue-jay, each month, ends a million corns in that way. No hard corn can resist it. Since this invention it is utterly needless to suffer from a corn.

Yet thousands of people still pare corns, or use some old-time treatment. They simply coddle corns, and every little while they become unendurable.

Try this scientific way.

See how Blue-jay stops the pain. See how it undermines the corn. And see, in two days, how that corn forever disappears.

After that, so long as you live, you will never let corns bother you.

INOCULATION OF USE TO PREVENT TYPHOID

Distinguished Army Surgeon Addresses Canadian Medical Men, Urging Adoption

A valuable circular respecting the prevention of typhoid fever has been issued by Dr. Walter Haply, acting secretary of the provincial board of health, with the sanction of Hon. Dr. Young, the minister in charge of matters pertaining to public health.

This is in corroboration of previous circulars, carrying the notification that typhoid prophylactic will be supplied free of charge upon application to the secretary of the board. After the first dose of this prophylactic there is some reaction, the person inoculated feeling as if he had an ordinary attack of grip. This passes off in the course of a very few hours and does not prevent a person following his work. The second dose is given from seven to ten days after the first, and from practically no reaction occurs. A third dose, for still more complete protection, is given about a week or ten days after the second.

Str. William B. Leishman, the eminent pathologist and an army surgeon of distinction, in a recent address to a medical congress on the subject of the prevention of typhoid by inoculation, had this to say:

"As to the application of typhoid vaccine in civil life, it seems to me if we control typhoid in the army of peace, and we hope to do so in the future in war, that you in civil life should not hold your hands from the benefit of such typhoid vaccination, especially if you are threatened or exposed to typhoid in your immediate surroundings. Measures of protection against typhoid, such as improved water supply, improved sanitation generally and instruction of the people as to the care necessary to prevent this disease are excellent aids, but do not take the place of typhoid inoculation. This vaccine is a very simple thing to prepare.

"I have had brought to my notice in several ways during the few days spent in Canada that you suffer largely from typhoid in this country. For example, Ottawa has had a severe epidemic and typhoid is at large in various parts of your country districts. If you could organize a campaign against typhoid, to persuade people likely to be exposed to infection to be inoculated, you would be doing great good to this country and to science in general, and in that way you would accumulate information that would convince every one.

"I was bold enough at Montreal the other day to suggest that the authorities should vaccinate the whole population. That seemed a tall order, but I do not see why it should not be done. We do not know when we may catch typhoid ourselves; why throw away the chance of preventing such a happening? Thinking over the thing from that point of view, you will have three sets of people to convince. First, and most important, yourself, and it is up to you to convince the second set, the authorities, and thirdly, the people you are going to inoculate. The authorities are the hardest nuts to crack. You may have trouble with them, but not with the people. The latter are extraordinarily amenable to the influence of the medical man whom they trust.

"If you are convinced and believe typhoid inoculation is a good thing, it will do you no harm if you inoculate yourself, except to cause a sore spot or sore head for a day or so. If you inoculate yourself, very few people will refuse inoculation when it comes to their turn. Of course, there is a prejudice against this form of treatment and there is against vaccination for smallpox, but these prejudices vanish in the presence of danger. When the relatives and children are contracting enteric their friends will fly to you and you will have no difficulty to get them to accept treatment.

"I believe personally most strongly in the benefits to be derived from this method of treatment, and if I may give you advice, should urge you to use it to the utmost in adding to the weapons which you use in fighting this disease."

MANY SHOW ESTEEM

Funeral of Edmund James Parsons Largely Attended; Lived Here Long.

A great number of old-timers attended the funeral of the late Edmund James Parsons which took place yesterday afternoon from the B. C. Funeral parlors, the chapel and adjoining rooms being crowded with personal friends and members of fraternal organizations to which the deceased had belonged. Many of the old members of the police force were present also, and quantities of beautiful flowers testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Deputations from the Sons of St. George, and the Juvenile Court, A. O. F., were present, and the members of the senior A. O. F. were present in a body.

The services were conducted by Rev. Thomas Green and the hymn, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" was sung. Mr. Giles presiding at the organ. The following acted as pallbearers: J. G. Hay, W. H. Burkholder and J. B. McCallum (friends of the deceased); F. Carne and J. Trace (representing the A. O. F.); and George Penketh (representing the Sons of St. George).

Mr. Parsons was one of the pioneers of Victoria, having lived here for nearly forty-two years. A native of Thatcham, County Berks, England, he came to America while still in his early boyhood, his first home being in Rochester, N. Y., from where he went to live in Bruce county, Ont. There he married, and after a short residence in the east decided to come out to western Canada, his first work in Victoria being with the then deputy-sheriff, Thomas Trounce. Later he graduated into the police force, but resigned from this to follow the rush to the Cariboo district. Six months later he returned and rejoined the police, some years later taking over the circulation department of the Colonist. From there, nine years later, he went back to the provincial police, and, when superannuated six years ago, was head jailer.

TO LAY CORNERSTONE

William Henderson, Architect of New St. Columba Church, Oak Bay, Will Perform Ceremony.

Presbyterians and others in the Oak Bay district are looking forward with interest to the consecration of the new St. Columba Presbyterian church which is being erected at the corner of Granite and Mitchell streets, and it is quite anticipated that this event will take place early in the autumn. The work of building is proceeding rapidly, and on Saturday, June 13, at 4 o'clock, the ceremony of laying the corner-stone will be performed by William Henderson, of the public works department, who is architect of the handsome new edifice. Mr. Henderson is also a prominent member of the congregation of St. Columba, being chairman of the board of managers, and is grand master of the Masonic order of British Columbia.

In addition to Mr. Henderson there will be present other prominent Presbyterians of the city, while Rev. Dr. Clay, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, whose Young People's society was responsible for the founding of St. Columba mission over 21 years ago, will speak, as well as Rev. Joseph McCoy, one-time incumbent of St. Columba, and the present pastor, Rev. R. A. Macconnell.
