SIMMONS COLLEGE
BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS
1916

Classmates, readers, dear friends all,
Peruse with kindly heart
Our poor attempts at verse and prose,
Our parody of art.
Forgive what seemeth to you crude,
Approve what seemeth clever,
Remember only that to please
Was our sincere endeavor.

Day shall follow on day,
 Units of month and year ;
 Still shall the faithful dial say,
 "The sum of all life is here."

For strung on the threads of time
 The days shall be made as one,
 A sordid thing, or a thing sublime,
 As the purpose within shall run.

Class Song

Words by Mary Field

Music by Harriet Mower

Side by side we rally And side by side we stand Comrades in all fortunes With clasped hand on hand Firm we stand together resolved I shall be the noblest we can make hereby our faith and loyalty.

Chorus.
Stand for a spirit that shall guide our future way Guard it through storm and sunshine Come in battles as they may

Oh Alma Mater dear Thy name shall ever remain Cherish for the gold and blue that we shall know a sign.

7 slower

To our Alma Mater, and to our sisters all
Striving ever onward where life to them may call,
May we offer gladly of service and of aid,
To make our college worthy of the homage we have paid.

In the years before us thy name shall ever be
Symbol of high honor kept pure for love of thee.
Loyal as thy daughters we pledge thee to enfold
Within our hearts the spirit of the hallowed blue and gold.

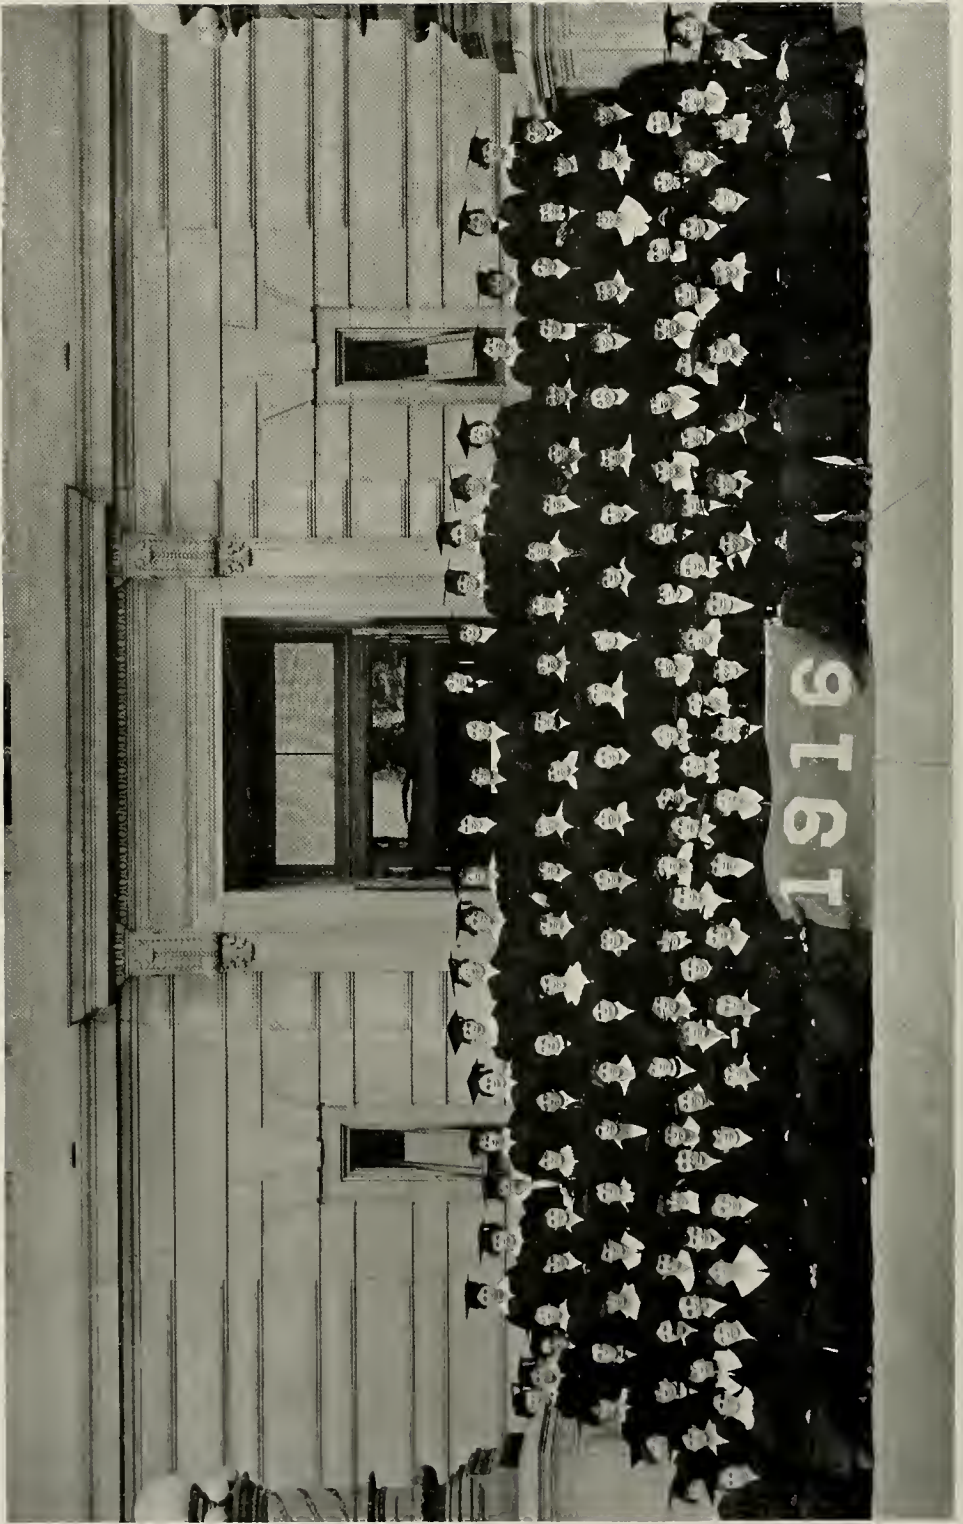

Prize Song

Music by M. Soper.

Musical score for 'Prize Song' in 2/4 time, featuring piano and bass staves with various musical notations. The score is divided into four systems. The first system is marked 'Moderato' and 'Cresc.'. The second system is marked 'Dim.'. The third system has a 'ff' dynamic marking. The fourth system ends with a 'rit.' marking. The key signature has one flat (B-flat).

1916 we'll loyal be
 We'll cheer you on to victory.
 There's none with us who can compete
 We'll rise above defeat
 Rah! Rah!
 Give all your hearts and hands to win
 When 1916 does begin.
 Simmons forever, time cannot sever
 1916 from you.

O see on high our banner waves
 Our pathway to success it paves
 For '16 now with all your might,
 We'll cheer you through the fight
 Rah! Rah!
 Oh raise the standard, lift it high,
 It's 1916 that we cry.
 Simmons forever, time cannot sever
 1916 from you.

ALICE F. BLOOD

"You are busy, Miss Blood," the Senior remarked,
As she stood 23rd in the line;
And yet you've incessantly smiled as you've said:
"Three E's are a very bad sign."

"You are slim, oh Miss Blood, and exceedingly neat,
But, nevertheless, we all rue it;
Amidst all this chemistry, cooking, and heat,
Pray, how do you manage to do it?"

"I have learned," said Miss Blood, "the secret of that,
On a well-balanced diet you'll never grow fat;
And wear a new blouse every day in the week—
That is the one way true neatness to seek."

"You are busy, Miss Blood, as we've mentioned before,
Yet you're always exceedingly wise,
Pray tell us, as we stand in line at your door,
Are your answers all facts—no surmise?"

"I am wise," said Miss Blood, withholding permission
To substitute History for Cooking,
"You'd better be sure to make up your condition,
If for a job you're seriously looking."

HENRY LEFAVOUR

A loyal classmate staunch and true, our president.
Yet views askance whate'er bids new of precedent
Or what of precedent does savour
Meets not with president's LeFavour.
"Twixt president and precedent the difference amasses.
The president is he who smiles benignly o'er his glasses,
But he joined 1916 and to her his interest lent,
And thus he did establish a most valued precedent.

CHARLES M. UNDERWOOD

A jollier man has never been seen
Than this curly-haired member of 1916!
He's always good-natured, ready to aid
Any puzzled, struggling, Simmons maid.

In the corridors we hear many a rumour
Of his bubbling, God-given sense of humour.
He knows a lot; he's clever and witty,
He's the same to us all, bright, homely, or pretty.

Popular? Goodness, that's his middle name!
Who's there in this world could find us to blame?
And we certainly are most heartily glad
We have got one classmate who never gets mad.

Dr. Underwood, your praises are e'er in our mouth,
And we'll never forget you, go we East, West, or South.

SARAH H. STITES

A dainty figure, smartly dight,
Trips down the hall with footfall light,
And yet with pretty show of haste
That bids us ask: "Can she be late,—
This fair classmate!"

Her wit, her charm, her chic attire,
The brilliant mind we all admire—
This member dear, how is she hight,
Whose every trait her class delights? . . .
Exactly! Stites!

ADA E. ALEXANDER

"She that is fair, though never vain or proud,
More fond of home than fashion's changing crowd,
Whose taste refined even female friends admire,
Dressed not for show, but robed in neat attire."

But this fair lady is not all perfection. Her dissipations are two—Tea and Facul-T. To read her engagement calendar gives no hint that Simmons claims many of her busy hours. But when we do see you, Ada, we find much for which to be thankful. Your hospitable open door on first floor and the sweet penetrating strains of your eukalale will not soon be forgotten.

MARGARET ALEXANDER

There are two things which most of us know well about Margaret—she sits in the front row of every class and she takes "Long Sewing." A few of us are fortunate enough to know that she has other very admirable characteristics.

LILLIAN M. ANDERSON

"Lill" "Bobby" "Andy"

"The mildest manners and the gentlest heart."

Lillian is so quiet that few know her best traits. She is conscientious and interested in her studies. Still there is a lot of fun hidden behind her modest manner, and she enjoys a good time as much as anyone. Moreover she always sees the best in everyone.

DOROTHY AUSTIN

"Dot"

Deeming nothing unworthy of thought
Her mind all agog with ideas;
Fact with fancy is wonderfully fraught
Yet revealed but to privileged ears.
Tho' of gentle, affectionate ways
A firmness is present as well;
And of her methodical phase,
Who is there who hasn't heard tell?

FRANCES B. BANKS

"Fran" "Franny"

"To have friends one must be a friend."

She's English and she does take life rather seriously at times, but who wouldn't with so much responsibility? She has tried a little bit of everything at college, but in spite of that she didn't get the vote for "the most versatile." She went out for hockey this fall to gain class spirit and to lose—weight. "Fran" has rather decided opinions on some things—platonic friendships, diets, and the war.

OLIVE BARNICOAT

"Coats"

"The trust I have is in mine innocence; and therefore am I bold and resolute."

To see Olive's little figure tripping around, one would hardly think of her as bold or resolute, but such a spirit is concealed beneath her youthful mien that one can say she is afraid of no man.

"Whate'er she did was done with so much ease;
In her alone 'twas natural to please."

We have missed Mildred from many social evening gatherings this year, and we hear she is always writing. Some say she is writing a book on "The Use of Rolling Pins in Breadmaking," and others say—well, why bother about what they say, as long as we all know she has a very good excuse.

EVELYN BREWSTER

"Banty"

Banty is one of the little ones of the class. Owing to her size she has difficulty in covering the ground as swiftly as some, but Simmons has done wonders for her. We can now say—"I see you are early of late, you used to be behind before, but now you are first, at last." Banty is a good sport and always enjoys a joke.

"Come storm or shine to me, all days are fair—"

Marguerite is one of the quietest and withal one of the sweetest. Her unfailing pleasantness and ready smile have made us all her friends. We expect, Marguerite, that you will not long be bothered with the trials of a secretarial position, but will forsake them for a "home of your own." And when that time comes, don't think you can forget us, because you can't. We're all coming to visit.

BERTHA E. CLARK

"Bert"

"Beauty's ensign yet is crimson in thy lips and in thy cheeks"

Bertha can ride a motorcycle and run a "flivver," yet every time she goes to Marshfield she takes a train. Just the fact that there are neither motorcycles nor "flivvers" hovering around Pilgrim Road might account for her taking the train, though it is considered a great mystery. We take this chance to ask, whose motorcycle, whose "flivver," and why Marshfield?

With a keen sense of humor and a small appetite, Bertha was known to say that "Pass the butter" was technically a suggestion in that "Pass the butter" might remind someone to pass the bread too.

It's unfortunate that Hazel's college career couldn't have been postponed a few years. Perhaps in the new dormitories each room will have its individual telephone. When she's not telephoning she's writing letters—or reading them—and she receives callers only in spare moments. "Wildrose" has a faculty for making friends, and for keeping them. She has one very warm friend.

As to her aunt, "In some circumstances to die is to live," but in some cases it's wise to keep probability in view. Helen studies, and sews, late at night, and delights in early morning walks. Her conscientiousness makes her seem almost prudish at times, but it's impossible not to like her. Sometimes she wishes Worcester people didn't haunt every nook and cranny of Boston.

MARGARET S. CURRIER

"Marg" "Peg"

"I would more natures were like thine."

"Marg" is the only person who doesn't agree with us there, but she is no judge. The thing that makes us feel that way is the fact that she is always sincere. She says just what she means and for that reason couldn't qualify for the "most tactful" in the class, but we'd rather have her as she is. If you see someone coming down the corridor hidden by a pile of boxes and bundles, you'll be sure to find M. Currier behind them all. She's not trying to hide—nor bury herself in her work, but is merely going to "sewing." Marg considers that sewing is good for her because she really needs the discipline. "Who'd a thot" Marg was a spoiled child?

JULIA EDWARDS

"Judie"

"See your guests approach,
Address yourself to entertain them sprightly,
And let's be red with mirth."

Tell us, Judie, how do you do it? We, who can with difficulty stammer a few unheeded remarks about the weather, or the identity of the ice cream, yearn to know how you keep a whole table of admiring sophomores hanging on your every word. And tell us how you found the magic combination—a technical education combined with all the arts and graces commonly acquired in a Young Ladies' Finishing School. For while we are painfully grinding one verse of Alma Mater, you can, with ease and gestures, trill selections from all the operas. And then the old gems we all love so dearly—who could forget, "Over the banister leans a face." And how, "Judie," can you keep up with all the local scandal and still not neglect the Cosmopolitan or the latest styles in our spectacles and rings? Just to see you knit is inspiration enough. But why go on?—the truth remains that you excell in so many ways, that all we can say is: "Pray, how do you manage to do it?"

Can you be a good student without being a grind?
It certainly can be done by taking a little pains. Gladys has accomplished this to a fine point. The pains are spent in taking notes—the rest just naturally follows after. These same notes are a marvel of system and neatness like all the things she does.

Opal certainly has a faculty for making friends, but we sometimes wonder how she can keep them. When you are invited to her room for tea you never know whether she will be there or not. Most hostesses would be there, but Jo believes in being original, and so lends excitement and suspense to her entertainments and disappoints her guests now and then,—only to give them a better time at her next party.

Call for early morning rising
And an understanding clear.

"Kewpee"

"Laugh and grow fat."

Anna is trying to benefit from her course in Dietetics, where she learned that to grow thin one should work hard and so use up one's energy. But I'm afraid she won't succeed very well, for although she is always busy she is always giggling. (See quotation for this thought expressed in poetry.)

MARY A. NIMMS

"Nimmsie"

The poetry of motion for "Nimmsie" means skating, and we do not wonder at her fondness for the sport when we see her skill in it. If the weather spoils this pastime, however, you may be sure that she will still find consolation in her other hobby, music; for she agrees with Shakespeare in his contempt for the man who hath no music in his soul.

"Rae"

"Sweetly flows
The liquefaction of her clothes."

Rachel has tried hard for four years to set us a really good example as regards neatness. She may, it is true, have criticized us rather harshly at times; but after all we feel, with that insight common to Seniors, that we really owe her something for the good example and attempt to show us ourselves "as others see us."

BLANCHE C. PHILBRICK

She's a very quiet, unassuming little girl,—this girl from the Old Granite State. In fact, we wish she were more self-confident, for then we might all know her better. And Blanche is surely a girl worth knowing and claiming for a friend. Her four years in college have been busy ones; if you don't believe this, you should follow her through a day; then you'll be willing to admit that a partnership in a cooperative home-keeping experiment and a heavy hour plan mean busy days. But Blanche likes to be busy for it's then that she forgets herself most completely. Taken all in all, she's O.K. and one of the truest, staunchest of friends.

All ready for cooking this person is seen.
She is the class model, so they say,
And such an example she sets every day!
But you must have guessed
That she has some failing
For so many letters she's always a-mailing,
And gets from the postman 'most every day
A letter so thick that it's safe to say
That oft on said letter there's sure to be due
The price of a one-cent stamp or two.

The quotation used here is purposely sarcastic, as the slender night watchman gliding downstairs in his ballet slippers, often meets Caroline in the wee small hours. Student Government Association

This year has begun the life history of a new organization; new, not in name, but in its organization and governing powers. The Student Body as a whole now forms a working Student Government Association which includes every girl in college by including in its membership all working organizations, and on its Executive Council the Presidents and Vice-Presidents of the four classes; the Presidents of all Associations and representatives from the college graduates; the unclassified students, and the Honor system, and Endowment Fund committees.

The first president of this new organization, which takes the place of the former Guild, was elected in May, 1915, and she, with the Executive Council, attempt to execute, rather than legislate, for the Association as a whole. As yet we are but in our first year's infancy, and we cannot expect the first experimental year to accomplish what self-government in its true sense means. What honor and responsibility may mean to us and to the college depends not only on those who go out this year, and have gone out before, but also on 1917, 1918, 1919, and the long line of classes yet to come after us.

Dormitory Student Government

Not only has our name grown bigger this year, but the spirit of our organization has grown also. That is, we are not only realizing to the full the meaning of Student Government but we are now, more than ever before, living up to its standards.

Of course, Dormitory Student Government is only one of the branches of Student Government, but we feel we are a very important branch, since we include every girl living in our fifteen buildings. That means we have charge of practically four hundred girls. But when each one of these girls attends to her own government, and that is what Student Government means, the responsibility and actual work of the Council, our legislative body, is not heavy. At times there have been anxious moments, and we have doubted the wisdom of our creed. But this very doubting and the fact that we have questioned are two factors that have brought about greater unity and coöperation in all our activity. Of course, there is yet a wide difference between our ideal and our achievement, and of course there always will be; but we are proud of the advance we have taken this year.

Y. M. C. A.

In a college established essentially for specialized study, the tendency of every factor is toward specificity of purpose and action. This tendency has made itself felt in no small degree on the extra-curriculum student activities so that, when the Simmons Y.W.C.A. was established at a somewhat later date than the other big student organizations, its primary purpose—"to deepen the Christ life within the college"—bade well to be its sole purpose, and the weekly meetings of common worship, its sole means of expression, because the other organizations had already taken into themselves all such matters as were under student control. But with expression came expansion. Besides the weekly meetings there have been this year three Bible study classes and a Mission Study class. A card census of the student body was compiled by the Association; a directory bulletin of meetings and lectures posted weekly; informal teas served during the registration and examination periods; an offering, collected at the Christmas Miracle play sent for the relief of foreign students; dramatic readings of Oriental life and a sale of Simmons' Calendars for the Silver Bay fund; and there is hope of its being possible to send $50 toward the support of Dr. Grenfell's work.

This is merely a brief statistical survey of the year's work intended to show in part the scope of the Association. It shows nothing of the spirit. This is practically impossible. Each individual must form for herself her own ideal of the Christ-like life. The Christian Association is here to strengthen that foundation, to offer it such means of expression and expansion that the Christ life may be deepened in the college through each and every individual.

There were sixteen Silver Bay delegates last year who have done a great deal for this year's activities. Can't twenty-five go this spring and do more for the coming year?

Dramatic Association

"The play's the thing."

1916 has one big thing to be remembered for—the Dramatic Club. In the years to come, the Dramatic Club will be an old, established institution. If it then occurs to anyone that it had a beginning, that beginning will seem very vague, back in the past somewhere, but to those of us who are leaving, to those of us who have just come, and to those of us who are midway, the beginning of the Dramatic Club will always be very real and near.

There is always a joy in doing things together, and there is always experience in working together. Coöperation and social pleasure are found in the Dramatic Club. For those who read, and those who have not yet read, there is an impetus to read plays both old and new, with the added chance for a happy discussion of your reading with others. The Club offers a chance for individual expression as nothing else at Simmons does, be it acting, staging, or costuming. The Dramatic Club is for all in the end, as in the beginning it is materializing from a desire of all.

Endowment Fund

Three years ago a Student Endowment Fund was started through which all money contributed by the students passed before being given to the College Endowment Fund. By this means interest and enthusiasm in behalf of new dormitories was aroused; and the students have found many ways of raising money. In June, 1915, $4,426.63 had been given by the student body. Although there have been no large entertainments given this year for the Endowment Fund, because of present conditions, yet in many small ways money has been contributed which shows that the zeal and spirit for increasing the fund is not dormant. Through the sale of second-hand books, the Senior circus, the Darrach recitals, the selling of Christmas cards and candy, a total of $375 has been received by the Committee up to February first. It is hoped that this sum will be increased considerably by various entertainments to be given in the spring. On February 1, 1916, $21,925 had been especially given for the Dormitory Construction Fund, to which the Student Fund goes. Through our benefactor, Miss Helen Collamore, the college has received the sum of $100,000, the income of which is to be used for college purposes.

State Clubs

Aside from our vocational training, the truest part of our college life comes from intimate contact with our college mates. Among the efforts to promote good fellowship in Simmons, the State Clubs play a large part. The intimacy between the old and new girls in the same state is felt even before the latter enter college. The new girl has a letter from a member of the club telling her she is already counted among their number. Then during the first days of college, she goes to a club tea, at which she meets a girl who knows friends of hers, another girl who comes from the same part of the state, and still another whom she saw on the train as she was coming to Boston. The world is really a small place after all, and home not so far away as it seemed at first. By theatre, sewing, and tobogganing parties, and bacon-bats, the bond of friendship is strengthened. Then comes a desire to help college through increasing the Endowment Fund so that our hopes for new dormitories may soon be realized. Besides enlarging our circle of friends while in college, the state clubs lead to a strong interest in alumnæ organizations. This was one of the primary reasons for the founding of the clubs—to keep the graduates interested in their Alma Mater, to keep them ever active in promoting the welfare of Simmons. May it be truly said as the State Clubs develop that they are in as close a relation to the college as the states are to the Union.

Persimmons

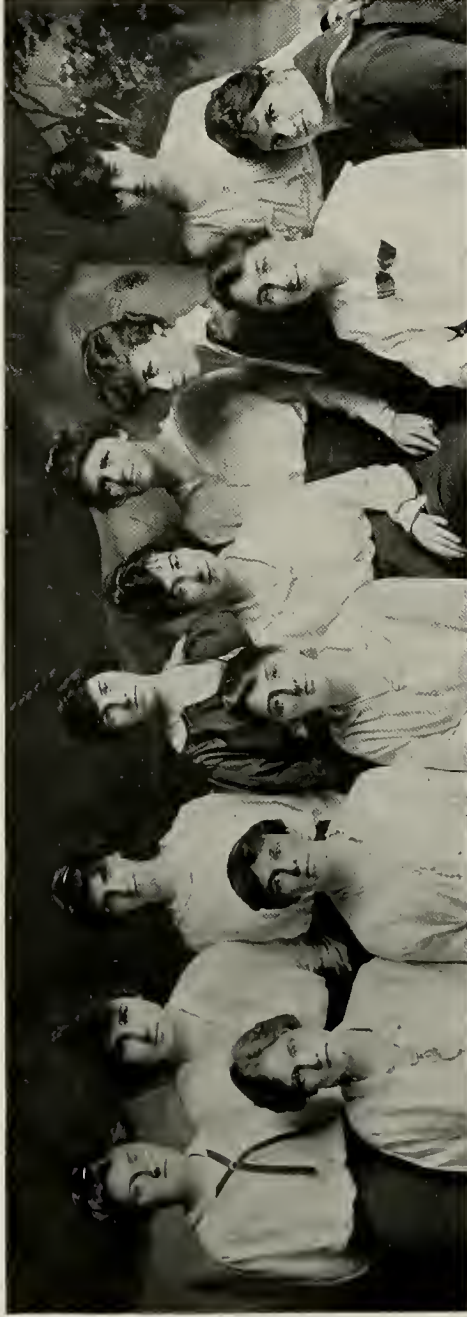

A little more than a year ago the first number of Persimmons was published. Members of the faculty, the Student Guild, and individual students combined their efforts to bring this mouthpiece of our college life into existence. It was intended to supply the lack of a mode of expression that would reach every girl at Simmons.

The first Board had a difficult task to perform. It had no precedents to follow and no publication of a similar college to use as a guide. With an able editor-in-chief, a kind and intelligent group of advisers, and the enthusiastic support of the students Persimmons could not fail last year. The problem in September, however, was at once harder and easier. A start had been made, it is true, but at the same time, the interest always taken in a new enterprise was less keen, and the board was necessarily a different one. On the other hand the Alumnæ have been generous in their support, advisers have continued their patient assistance, and the students have helped in every possible way.

The magazine has many faults. It does not represent the college as a whole as inclusively as it should. It lacks a truly literary flavor. It is small in volume. But fortunately its faults are not of the kind without a remedy. They are, for the most part, the failings caused by its youth; they will disappear after a few years of determined effort on the part of the whole college to attain the high ideals above our grasp at the start.

The Microcosm

The 1916 MICROCOSM Board wishes to express its gratitude to its many friends, among the Faculty and students who have in any way aided in making their publication possible.

The MICROCOSM has been issued annually for seven years. As our college changes and grows, the MICROCOSM, which is a voice of the college, changes also. Since we have had a college magazine, much of the material which was formerly published in the book seems to belong to the Persimmons, so the contents of the MICROCOSM must necessarily be different. At present the MICROCOSM represents the college and is gotten out by the Senior class. It has been suggested that the MICROCOSM might be made a Senior book containing all the events of that class for its entire career in college. Each other class might get out an inexpensive paper-covered book each year, and combine these in the Senior book. The MICROCOSM Board might then be elected from those who had proved themselves capable by working on the underclass books. This is merely an idea which we leave to our successors to whom we extend our sincerest good will.

Athletics

Our gymnasium is so small that it practically debars spectators; consequently last year the match games were played out of doors in the spring. As usual the weather had something to say on the matter and the semi-finals were played between showers. 1917 and 1918 lost in the semi-finals. During halves of the finals they played an informal match game which was won by 1918; score, 25 to 16. The finals between 1915 and 1916 ended with the score 27 to 15 in favor of 1915. Therefore the basketball cup went to 1915.

On May 8 the track walk was contested. Last year the walk was a relay. This did not require so much endurance and was even more exciting than the usual race. Gertrude Hussey, Hazel Cornish, Rachel Drinker, Marian Wheeler, and Ruth Hammond won for 1916: time, 59 minutes 36 seconds. Edith Seymore, Frances Elwell, Alice Klein, Edith Dunn, Priscilla Baneroft, 1918; Marion Titeomb, Louise Tingley, Edith Johnston, Margaret Hogan, and Lillian Logan, 1915; Frances Dittmer, Ernestine Packard, Helen Gillette, Marion Bowman, and Margaret Holmes, 1917, won their W's.

Field day was the best ever. Never in the history of Simmons have there been so many people out, or so many people participating. There was a new event, too, the javelin throw, which was a great success. There was a contest between classes for the best class song. The cup, given to the winner by the Athletic Association, was won by 1916. The words and music were both original.

The last athletic event of the 1914-1915 season was tennis doubles, played on May 22. 1917 and 1918 lost in the semi-finals. The finals were won by Olive Ruby and Margaret Sprague, 1915. 1916 was represented by Mildred Bouvé and Gertrude Hussey. The sport cup, given by the Alumni Association to the class winning the most points in all-round athletics—each contest counting, and second and third places bringing points as well as first places—was awarded to 1916.

Four individual cups were given for different sports. They were given with the cooperation of some of the men instructors, and they were coveted by many an ardent athlete. The basketball cup was won by Harriet Putnam; the track cup by Gertrude Hussey; and the tennis cups by Olive Ruby and Margaret Sprague.

The season of 1915-16 opened with fall tennis. All the games were very interesting this year especially the finals. Mildred Bouvé, 1916, and Marian Bathgate, 1917, were defeated in the semi-finals. Mary Tandy, 1918, and Anna Stolzenbach, 1919, played in the finals. 1919 was victorious. Score: 6-5, 4-3, 6-1. Miss Margaret Dawson won in the post-graduate match.

The interest was so centred in hockey this fall that very little was done for fall baseball practice. This year is the first in which we have been able to have hockey. A great many girls came out to practice. There were no formal games because so many girls had never played before that more experience was needed before we could have a fair match game. An informal game played between the Odds and Evens ended with one goal in favor of the Odds. Everyone was sorry when the weather put a stop to hockey practice although basketball practice began immediately.

MANDOLIN CLUB

Simmons Musical Association

The Glee Club, Choir and Mandolin Club together compose the Simmons Musical Association, which has become a very successful organization.

The Association owes a great deal to Miss Mabel Daniels not only for her work in training the Choir and Glee Club, but also for her part in preparing the programs for the concerts, which have given such prominence to the Glee and Mandolin Clubs. Miss Daniels has taken pains to have special music at the Chapel services on Wednesday afternoons, and the College seems well pleased with the results.

Of course the Glee Club this year is the best Simmons has ever had. We are proud to say that Miss Daniels considers it well enough advanced this year to depend upon a student leader at the concerts instead of, as formerly, upon her. Last year the Club was so good that besides the two concerts in February, and that in June, we were permitted to give one in Dorchester.

A great deal of the success of these concerts is due to the Mandolin Club. That, too, grows each year in numbers and ability.

In Appreciation of 1915

Memories—how they come to us!
After daylight fades to grey,
Thoughts of many a happy hour
Fraught with mingled work and play.

Memories—All Life has to give,
When she sweeps old friends along
To serve others in her tasks.
Still we keep our friendships strong.

Memories—inspirations fine
Ever shall we keep them green,
They mean all the world to us,
They mean "Friendship," dear Fifteen.

GEORGE WASHINGTON PARTY

On the evening of February 19 the annual George Washington Party was given by Student Government in the Refectory. Although many of the girls had gone home for the week-end, a goodly number of Georges and Marthas were present, resplendent in all the finery of olden days.

During the evening the audience's knowledge of the life of our first President was greatly augmented by the presentation of an original five-part film drama depicting "Scenes from the Life of George Washington." A special feature of this review was the delightful interpretation of the minuet given by Elizabeth Freeman and Katherine Shelley. So captivated were the judges by Miss Freeman's grace and beauty that the prize—a wonderful cherry pie, the artistic creation of our own chef—was awarded to her.

SOPHOMORE LUNCHEON

On Saturday, March 13, 1915, the Class of 1917 enjoyed their Sophomore Luncheon. Miss Abby Partridge was toastmistress. The following spoke for the different schools:

Library School
Secretarial School
Household Economics
General Science
Athletics
Class of 1917

Gertrude Robinson
Julia McCabe
Jessie McMullin
Louise Giblin
Marion Craig
Marion Doten

After the luncheon a one-act comedy, "A Shakespeare Wooing," was given in North Hall.

The committee in charge was: Eleanor Keith, Rose Furber, Gladys Donnelly, Helen Gillette, Dorothy Holmes.

SENIOR HOUSE PARTY

HOUSE PARTY, 1915—Gloucester, April 16-20, 1915.
CHAPERONES—Miss Goodrich, Miss Bryant.

JUNIOR HOUSE PARTY

HOUSE PARTY, 1916—Rockaway Inn, Clifton, April 17-20, 1915.
CHAPERONES—Miss Louise Ufford, Miss Margaret Ridlon.

SERENADE

Dear old Sixteen, loyal, so true,
Tho' far away, we'll still love you,
Though stars grow dim and fade away
Yet we'll love you forever and aye.
Dear old Sixteen, loyal, so true,
Our college days are growing few,
With blinding tears, our eyes grow dim,
Oh, don't forget us, old Nineteen Sixteen.

Nineteen Fifteen—Dear Seniors,
The Class we love so dearly,
Your songs upon the breezes
Are wafted to us clearly.
Your spirit will hang o'er us,
In all the years before us,
But oh! Your friendship, brave and true,
Nineteen Fifteen, we sing to you.

JUNIOR PROM

JUNIOR PROMENADE

To be or not to be: that was the question that agitated the mind of every Junior when the words Junior Prom were heard. To many of us the idea of a Prom was unthinkable when so many thousands abroad were crying for aid. But after much discussion, it was decided to have a Prom but to keep it as simple as possible. Our efforts along this line but added to the enjoyment of the great night. We were all especially proud of the talent displayed by the decorating committee, for the Refectory and North and South Halls were worthy of the most experienced decorators.

The Promenade was held on Friday evening, April 23. In the receiving line were:

President Lefavour, Miss Walker, Miss Mary Eleanor Williams, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Marshall Underwood, Miss Sara Henry Stites, Miss Jeannie Scott Gloster, Dr. Eugene Lyman Porter, Miss Adela W. Adams, and Miss Gertrude Hussey, the President of the Class.

The members of the Sophomore class who acted as ushers were: Marion Doten, Elizabeth Burbank, Anna Congdon, Elizabeth Hammond, Dorothy Van Orden, Lucy Gates, Elcanor Keith, Ruth Updegraff, Mabel Thompson, Stella Ellis, Ethel Dole, Dorothy Holmes, Margaret Gladwin, Lucy Nash, Jane Baumler, Jessie McMullin, Marion Driscoll, Louise Johnson, Alma Smith, Christine Ricker, Helen Harlow, Eleanor Barker.

SOIREE

On the evening following Prom, an informal dance was held in the Refectory. The dancing was preceded by Senior step singing, thus giving our guests the opportunity of hearing some of the 1915 Serenade songs.

MAY DAY

On May Morning the Class of 1917 aroused their sister class with a reveillé and May songs rendered by a chorus of Grecian maids. Amid a throng of gay attendants and loyal followers Winona Hyland, President of the Senior Class, was escorted to her throne and with due ceremony was crowned Queen of the May. After this, she and her court were entertained by a rainbow May-pole dance and by a Spring dance, accompanied by the merry songs of the assembled Sophomores. At the close of the festivities the herald announced that breakfast was served and all joined in singing the praises of the "Good-rich" strawberry short-cake, which shortly appeared on the scene to the delight of everyone.

FRESHMAN FROLIC

Come in middies,
Come to play,
Freshman frolic
Next Saturday.

And the Freshmen did play—all one solid afternoon on May 6. In the track day regalia everyone joined in the tug-of-war, the hoop races, the dancing, and the best of all—wholesale destruction of the ice cream cone family. The hurdy-gurdy man, who “No sabeed Englisee” knew enough to let all the Freshmen turn the crank, and music in every time and tune sounded while the afternoon was romped and played away.

ELECTION DAY

The polls had closed at five o'clock on the afternoon of May 14, 1915, and the returns from all elections at Simmons College were soon to be announced. The event was an innovation in our Student history, since it celebrated the election of the first President of the new Student Government Organization to include every girl and every other organization in college. The Seniors in caps and gowns stood on the steps and behind them were masses of flowers to be given by different classes and organizations to their newly-elected officers. The quadrangle was crowded with girls, cheering and singing as the results of elections were made known, and each officer mounted the steps to receive her congratulations and flowers.

Miss Goodrich served a delicious supper on the lawn, after which a splendid Step Singing followed, and as darkness came the Seniors marched away singing Alma Mater.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PICNIC

MAY 30, 1915

All aboard! Everybody got her ticket? And is all the lunch here? Such were the exclamations when the classes of Nineteen Fifteen and Sixteen boarded the Nantasket boat at Rowes Wharf one morning last May. They were off to celebrate Decoration Day by the annual Junior-Senior Picnic at Nantasket Beach, and great was the anticipation for a most delightful day. Our expectations were fulfilled. We took the Amusement Park by storm, and did all the stunts. We paraded up and down the beach, played ball, and last, but not least—ate. It was a very bountiful lunch, and was improved by its salting of sand.

The trip home on the boat was enlivened by Simmons songs, and the girls put into them all the spirit and enthusiasm that they had gained from such a jolly outing.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT RECEPTION

The social season at Simmons opened with the annual reception of the Student Government Association to the new students and the faculty, on Saturday afternoon, September 25. Those in the receiving line were: Frances Banks, President of Student Government, President Lefavour, Dean Arnold, Miss Gloster, Miss Adams, Miss Goodrich, Miss Boyd, Miss Enos, Katharine Leonard, Gertrude Hussey, and Marjorie Yates.

The Junior Welcoming Committee acted as ushers and as centers of "getting acquainted." Marjorie Soper and Beulah Knowles sang, and dancing and refreshments followed.

DORMITORY GOVERNMENT DANCE

The old Refectory scarcely saw a gayer array of gowns and pretty girls than on the night of the annual Dormitory Government dance to the Freshmen on Friday, October first. The upper class girls acted as escorts to the new girls and conducted them through the receiving line and the maze of the dance order.

Those in the receiving line were: Mildred Bouvé, President of the Dormitory Government, Marion Doten, Vice-President, Elizabeth Miller, Marion Scott, Dean Arnold, Miss Gloster, Miss Adams, Miss Goodrich, and Miss Enos.

The music was excellent, and the dance proved a big success.

JUNIOR-FRESHMAN PARTY

"The Lamentable Tragedy of Julius Cæsar," a comic opera, was presented by the Class of 1917 when they entertained their sister Freshmen on October ninth.

Great and unsuspected musical ability was revealed by the performance. The Chairman of the Committee in charge was Katharine Sprague.

SIMMONS COUNTY FAIR

The Senior Class entertained the Freshmen on Saturday afternoon, October 23, in the Exhibition House of the Refectory by astounding exhibitions of skill in tight-rope walking, trained seals, balloon ascension, and snake charmers, to say nothing of the display of wonderful wild animals and Fenway Flora, gathered with great danger from the wilds of the dump. The usual peanuts, ice cream cones, lollypops, and punch were generously partaken of.

The management thanks Chief of Police Stearns for his efficient handling of the crowd and the success of the holiday.

SOPHOMORE-SENIOR LUNCHEON

Saturday, October 30, was an eventful day for the Sophomores. After the tennis tournament the Class of 1918 entertained the Class of 1916 at luncheon. The sister classes sang many songs to each other between courses, and to Miss Kewpie and Mr. Woozie, who sat together in the middle of the floor.

After the luncheon, "take-offs" on tennis terms were given by a number of the Sophomores.

The committee in charge was: Marian Scott, Chairman, Priscilla Bancroft, Elinor Reilly, Eleanor Strong, Sally Page.

HALLOWE'EN

On the eve of October 30, at the end of a day including Tennis Tournament and Sophomore-Senior Luncheon, the Hallowe'en Dinner and Party were given in the Refectory.

The blazing cauldron was the centre of a gay scene in the evening when the brilliant masquerade began and the prizes given to Rae Finsterwald as a Japanese Maid, and to the Five Fountain Pens, K. Leonard, G. Hussey, Dorothy Day, Betty Jones, and Rachel Drinker, for beauty and originality. There followed a witch dance in the light of the flames from the cauldron—one could almost hear the spirits moaning.

After quietness had settled down, the ghosts of the Sophomores came forth, as is their custom, and with clanking of chains, proclaimed the rule of the Spirits.

THE DARRACH RECITALS

To swell the Endowment Fund and to make people forget that they are being victimized is one of our most vital problems here at Simmons.

To the Seniors Mr. Marshall Darrach appeared to be one happy solution. Certainly no one attended his course of Shakespeare Recitals who did not feel fully repaid for the temporary absence from books and study.

Mr. Darrach's recitals are all from memory, each character being represented in turn. His presentations of Shakespeare without setting or costume make the meaning of the lines more vivid, while his skillful changes of voice and manner give actuality to his impersonations.

The Recitals were held on Wednesday evenings in the Refectory. On November 10, "A Mid-Summer Night's Dream" was presented. On November 17, "The Merchant of Venice," and on December 1, "Julius Cæsar."

SOPHOMORE-FRESHMAN PARTY

The class of 1918 entertained the entering class on Saturday, December 4, in the Refectory, which was the scene of a great track meet. Nine prominent colleges were well represented. Miss Gloster, Miss Goodrich, Miss Boyd, and Miss Diall were the judges.

Eleanor Strong acted as chairman of the committee.

THE CHRISTMAS PARTY

On the evening of December Seventeenth the Refectory was the scene of a wonderful Christmas festival. Katharine Leonard and Frances Banks were host and hostess in the rôle of Lord and Lady Macbeth. They, with their retinue, which included the White Nun, Red Cardinal, the Herald, Pages, and Jesters, sat around a table on the dais. The rest of the hall was filled with guests in many gorgeous costumes. Hardly were they seated when in the distance music was heard. It was the Glee Club singing Christmas carols. Nearer and nearer they came until at last they entered the banquet hall and took their places.

Then came the "eats" and luscious cider. After dinner, more fun! "Julius Cæsar, a Farce," was given by the Juniors, and "Pyramus and Thisbe," by the Seniors.

Great credit for the success of the party is due to the committee in charge, and especially to the chairman, Christine Ricker.

MIRACLE PLAY

On December 14, 1915, the Coventry Nativity Play was given under the auspices of the Y.W.C.A. The acting was well and effectively done, and the whole performance showed how much can be accomplished, with a little ingenuity and thought, even with our present small resources. The cast of characters was as follows:

Isaiah

Mary

Joseph

An Angel

A Herald

Herod

First Shepherd

Second Shepherd

Third Shepherd

First King

Second King

Third King

Frances Dittmer

Rachel Drinker

Mildred Bouvé

Opal Fisher

Beulah Knowles

Marjorie Hulsizer

Isabelle Hurlburtt

Gertrude Hussey

Marion Doten

Sue Beckwith

Sally Page

Mary Pollard

The carols were under the direction of Marjorie Soper. A collection was taken in aid of foreign students after the play.

NASSON INSTITUTE

Nasson Institute was established under the provisions of the will of the late George Nasson of Springvale, Maine, who died September 17, 1882. Among his bequests was a sum of money for the establishment at some future date of an institution "for the moral, intellectual, and physical instruction and education of young women." In carrying out the provisions of Mr. Nasson's will, the original Trustees of Nasson Institute, representative business men of Springvale, after long and careful consideration, decided to establish a vocational school which should offer courses in Home Economics and in Secretarial training. Important conferences were held with Honorable Payson Smith, State Superintendent of Schools in Maine, and Miss Sarah Louise Arnold, Dean of Simmons College, as well as with other educators, who heartily endorsed the program of the Trustees. Plans were thereupon made to proceed with the erection of the Institute building. The Dedicatory exercises were held on Friday evening, January 24, 1913, at which time the principal address was given by Dean Arnold, who has since become a member of the Board of Trustees.

The Trustees secured as Dean of the Institute Miss Louisa I. Pryor, formerly Head of the Department of Household Economics of the State Normal School at Keene, New Hampshire. Miss Pryor is a graduate of the Salem Normal School. She secured her vocational training at Simmons College. Associated with her during the first year were Miss Edith B. Hunt, in the Home Economics Department, and Miss Helena Marco, in the Secretarial Department, both of whom received their training at Simmons. In 1914 the faculty was increased by the addition of Miss Margaret Page and Miss Marjory I. Barto, graduates of Simmons College, and Miss Ruth Loughton of Portsmouth, New Hampshire, instructor in Physical Training. In 1915 Miss Evelyn Cobb, a graduate of Nasson Institute, was elected assistant in Home Economics.

Nasson Institute provides two-year courses in Home Economics and in Secretarial Training which are open to high school graduates, and which lead to a diploma. The registration in 1915 numbered one hundred and two students. Graduates of the school are successfully filling positions as teachers, dietitians, and secretaries in various parts of New England.

SILVER BAY

Silver Bay is not only very substantially a glorious spot in one of the numberless curves of Lake George, New York, but it is at the same time a glorious experience. Sixteen delegates went from Simmons College last year and, though that is a tiny proportion of the six hundred assembled from all the Eastern colleges, Simmons took her place in the religious and in the social events which crowded the ten short, full, wonderful days there. Simmons also took her place in athletics—winning the diving through Esther Richardson's skill.

Only those who have lived through those ten days know what is meant by "the Spirit of Silver Bay." It embodies the finest, noblest, and most natural fellowship both with man and the Divine. To those who have been there the world assumes a big and wonderful new aspect of beauty and worth.

Can't at least twenty-five delegates from Simmons be there this year? Let them not only in themselves be filled with the glorious enthusiasm and inspiration of the place and experience, but let them bring it back to make the college twenty-five times better next year.

MICROCHAOS

Just a little humor,
Just a quip or jest,
Just a little anecdote,
To give the whole more zest.
Just a little verse,
Just a little prose,
Just a little parody
That everybody knows.
Just a little soberness
Mingled with the rest,
Makes the Microchaos
The part we like the best.

A JOURNEY

"Kay" Leonard and "Gee" Hussey were strolling around our new Simmons park when a Currier came running up to them and asked if they wouldn't like to take a turn in a car. Now "Gee" was a first-rate Walker but "Kay" was all Fagged out, so they gladly assented and jumped into a Stearns at the curbing. The car was exquisitely upholstered in Gray with a Foot rest for each passenger and whenever they wished to give the chauffeur directions, they rang a Bell. All went smoothly for the Rhodes were fine, until the chauffeur changed a Giere suddenly around a corner. The car swerved to one side and almost went over the Banks of a small pond where Fish were swimming. Then they passed a Littlefield where some girls were Berry picking. Each one was dressed in white, Waring a Barni (bonnie)-coat, though the day was hot. In the distance, down the Hills and across a Field they saw someone hurrying toward them. They slacked their speed and soon recognized Helen Foster lately appointed Athletic Supervisor of the Freshmen, armed with a bag of golf sticks that were furnishing her vigorous exercise.

"Howe are yer?" she greeted them heartily, as she swung on to the running board. "I Sawyer coming and thought I'd say hello."

"Well," they said, "We've made two Rounds of the park and haven't found the new swimming pool yet!"

"Oh Shaw," exclaimed Helen, "It's no Moore than a Stone's throw, Righter across the bridge, can't miss it. See you later," and off the car went.

So across the bridge they went.

"I'll Grant she was Wright," announced "Kay," gazing up at an imposing stone structure, "we can't miss it."

Just then they noticed a group of Young people filing out of the main entrance. They all had on the same kind of Coats. One girl was evidently disabled and someone had to Wheeler.

"Pray why," queried "Gee," "when the sun Burns like this, do they all have to wear coats?"

"The Dean thinks it looks neater," replied the Currier in a conclusive manner.

A musical murmur caused them all to turn around.

"Come on, Babe," called Rachel Drinker, and then she caught sight of the car. She stood Stark still and Elsie Mahar looked as if transfixed to Wood. Then they ran to the car and embraced the couple.

"Well, how are yer Phelan? My! I'm glad to see yer. Leamy have a ride?" grinned Rachel all in one breath.

"Sure," they said in chorus, "but hustle in because we think it's going to rain. We've felt several drops already, and we don't want to get Wet-more for fear it will take the Whiting off our shoes."

So the party merrily rode along, for Knight was coming on and they wanted to be out of the park by six. They were nearing the gate when who should they meet but Emily Webb. She was tremendously glad to see them and in the course of conversation informed them that the Honor system had been working splendidly. (She had been retained as a Counselor to keep up the high standard she set in 1916.)

At length the trio reached the gate and "Gee" and "Kay" gave the Tolman a generous Toll to help along the Endowment Fund.

"Well," said "Kay," as the Currier took them to the station, in time to catch their train, "We've had a most glorious time and thanks a lot."

"Yes," chimed in "Gee," we expected to have merely a Triplet by ourselves, but it's turned out to be quite a journey, and my! it certainly was good to see all the familiar folks!"

TAKING CHANCES

Not following the "Red Trail."

Cutting Chapel.

Talking above a whisper in the corridors.

Getting a "Redeemable" from Miss Walker.

Coming late to Com Law.

Being in the "Henway" after five P.M.

Not being in one's own room after 10 P.M.

Plugging lights.

Postponing the purchase of one's Glee Club tickets until the appointed time. (N.B.—The Freshmen did not.)

Waiting until 12.35 to get a seat in the lunch-room.

Letting Miss Stites add up the hours on your Economics reading slips.

See them go to their classes,
No matter what the day,
Some that hurry, some that lag,
And some that loiter along the way.
There are some that talk,
As together they walk
And some are silent, wrapt in thought.
Some give a smile that brightens awhile
The day for some one else;
A friendly word that makes the heart light
And helps the mind to be quick and bright.
Thus they go through rain or snow
And in the sunshine golden.
How little they know as to and fro,
They tread their way to class,
What a spirit of love and unity
May come from the daily walk,
The spirit of cheer and helpfulness
That each of us should feel,
As day by day together we work
And laugh and play and talk.
May the courage they gain
Quicken heart and brain,
And stay with them through life,
May their spirits be bold for truth and right,
And just toward any wrong.
May they go forth to work with might
Nor think too much of gain.
May their labors be wrought
With love and thought,
And no great share of pain.
We send them out each to fill her place
In a world of life and love,
A world where pain is so well known,
And of sorrow there is to spare.
May the strength that is theirs
Help them do their part;
May they live their lives in a better way,
May they keep their bodies strong and well,
May their souls be pure, and their hearts right
true,
Help them their songs to sing
With a gladsome note and a clear true ring,
Because of the gifts that to life they bring.

THE NINETEEN-SIXTEEN-IAD

BOOK I.

Of books and the girl I sing, who, early forced by high aims
Turned from the gentler teachings and happy days of the prep schools.
Long troubles bore she with lessons, within the walls of Simmons,
Till she had won way to fame, as a member of sixteen's famous numbers.
Sixteen, nineteen sixteen, oh, tell us, from whence springs your glory so wondrous?

Down in the Freshman rooms, one hundred and six, and one ten
Sixteen struggled bravely to master Carhart and Physics.
History, themes and reference, wonders indeed were accomplished.
Down in the gym with the basket, out on the field in track,
Brave sixteen won honors and numerals, brave sixteen came third in the track meet.

The voices of classmates rang true with the names of Hussey and Yates.
And the Frolic which closed up the year for us Freshmen filled all with the promise

Of joy in the work and the play in the three years ahead with our classmates.

BOOK II.

Wonderful joy to renew—to tell of the glory of this year!
More books and studies followed, but of those we remember but little.
Out of the host of things that crowded this year so glorious,
Our track meet stands without peer in the annals of Simmons.
Nineteen sixteen, with prowess unequalled came first on the list with all trophies.

Thirty-six were the points that we won; and again we cheered our girls proudly;

For Hussey, and Yates, and for Wheeler and Hammond and Stevens and Grant.

In tennis we have such a champion, oh, Mildred, our love lasts forever.
And Sophomore Luncheon! we think of its toasts and its eats and its songs,

But more of the brave, the dear class that we love and call 1916.

BOOK III.

A new year has dawned and we find we are now upper classmen, and Juniors.
A new dignity we have acquired, put on with our bright yellow hush-buttons.
The corridors, erstwhile so noisy lie hushed(?) 'neath the sway of the Juniors.
We miss the dear faces of Seniors, our Seniors, the fair class of '14.
But we welcome the cute little Freshmen, the incoming children called '18.
The year with its work and its pleasures takes wings to itself and speeds from us.
Books and more books we digest and honors we win in athletics.
The House Party at Clifton stands out as three days of bright sun and sea breezes.
Then follows Our Prom until happiness knows no bounds for us Juniors.
In basketball, tennis and track walk, we made a good showing, we Juniors.
At the Meet, we outdid all our other achievements! 'Twas '16 won first
And the points that we made numbered thirty. Three cups which were given to '16
Made unequalled our pride in our members. So ended the year for our brave class.

BOOK IV.

And now we no longer are children, but Seniors, grave Seniors of Simmons.
Eagerly don we our black gowns and parade the halls of our college.
With welcoming handclasp we greet the tried friends of these three years so happy.
Too soon, all too soon, we must leave all these girls and our fair Alma Mater.
The thought does not dim but enhances the joys of the weeks fleeting past us.
Again we take part in the tournament with our valiant Mildred as champion.
We sit with the Sophomores at luncheon, our dear sister class, how we love you!
Hallowe'en with its ghostly proceedings, Thanksgiving recess and at last
Before we can realize, the Christmas vacation has gone. We are back
To our work with Exams just before us. And so, on we hasten to June
All our aims and our hopes are fixed high on the service which lies just beyond us.
Out from the doors of our college we soon shall be passing forever.
Oh, 1916, be brave, loyal, true to the ideals of Simmons!

ENGLISH 4C

R-equired is the word that in all courses staggers
E-ach girl who forseees all the work it implies.

English 4C must be done, must be done.

AS IT SEEMS

In summer I can sleep at night
Until the early morning light.
It is quite different in the fall,
I never get to bed at all!

And when for sleep my soul doth yearn
The midnight oil I have to burn.
Com. Law or Chemistry to con
Or cooking costs to dwell upon.

And even if I try to doze
I cannot have a sweet repose.
Dreams tell me hour exams are due,
And lengthy written papers, too.

But still we all are students gay
And very learned, so they say.
And though it seems we ne'er see beds
I'm surc we are not sleepy-heads.

ON MRS. HAYWARD'S TEAS FOR LATE-COMERS

I hear you calling me
To have a cup of tea,
A welcome sound from thee,
Dear Mrs. Hayward.

The snow is falling fast,
I came in at the last,
And feared my turn was past,
Dear Mrs. Hayward.

But now I've had my tea
What matters it to me,
Still storming though it be,
Dear Mrs. Hayward.

THE LUNCH HOUR

Madly they run downstairs,
Wildly they seize the chairs,
Pile up their books in layers,
At the lunch hour.
Stand in an endless line,
Study the menu sign,
Waiting a chance to dine,
During the hour.

Trays to the right of them,
Trays to the left of them,
Trays fore and aft of them,
Hurled by unnumbered.
Flash they the forks in air,
Wield spoons and silver there,
Glasses without a care—
And never are sundered.

Lunch they without delay,
Merry they are and gay,
Laughing all care away
At the lunch hour.
Eager to "gym" they go,
Dance just a bit, you know
Who would not have it so
At the lunch hour?

BROKE, BROKE, BROKE

Broke, broke, broke,
I wail everlastingly;
If my purse I could only replenish
How blissful and happy I'd be.

O well for the Cræsus of old
Who could revel and frolic and spend
With never a thought or a fear
He'd be pauper each month at the end.

And the pleasures gay go on,
They alluringly pass me by,
Gay sport bids me follow her train
But I look in my purse with a sigh.

Broke, broke, broke,
I gasp eternally
For the welcome sight of the coin that is gone
Will never come back to me.

SIMERICKS

There was a young maid, quite a queen,
Who went to class in 116.
But what she heard there
Gave her such a bad scare,
That since then she hasn't been seen.

Of what value are lectures in Psych.,
Indeed we might go on a Pstrick,
Were it not for the fact
That wherein they lact,
We make up by booming the Mych.

To Simmons came Annabelle Lee,
And she went to Room 223,
To take an exam
On how to cook ham
And how to serve lemon in tea.

Though she worked her hardest and best,
She flunked in the terrible test,
So she packed up her grip
And set out on a trip
To her little gray home in the West.

In Psych.: "Tomorrow we shall have—Cancer—or what not!"

FRESHMAN: "Oh, dear! I've lost my 'Life's Ideals,' and I do feel so badly, because I just got them,—they're new ideals!"

THE DAILY TRAIL

How do you like to go off on a bat
Out in the country fair?
Many a plan we would make for that
With never a thought of care.

Over the meadows and through the fields
Wandering far and wide.
Isn't it joy to be roaming thus
Over the countryside?

But over the dump is the well-known trail
We travel most of all.
And though with pleasure we stray sometimes,
We answer Simmons' call.

Three fast-flying figures come into sight,
Rapidly rolling down the long pike,
K, G, and Dr. Burt, each on a bike.

Say, gentle reader, say is it right,
That we poor unfortunates should have to hike,
While they go wheeling their way to Psych?

SLAUGHTER OF THE INNOCENTS

A MODERN INQUISITION AT SIMMONS

Characters:

INQUISITOR.—Instructor who craves information.

VICTIMS.—Class in English 6.

Act I.

Inq.—Who was Herod?

Vict.—A wicked king.

Inq.—Where do we hear of him?

Vict.—In Sunday School.

Inq.—What was the wickedest thing he ever did?

Vict.—Killed children.

Inq.—Why?

Vict.—Because he heard there was to be a King of the Jews greater than he.

Inq.—How was Jesus saved?

Vict.—Pharoah's daughter hid him in the bulrushes.

Inq.—And what was this whole thing called?

Vict.—The Passover.

CURTAIN

Act II

Bible class instituted at Simmons.

A girl was having a hard time keeping her balance on her ice skates; either her skates were dull, or she couldn't skate. The fifth time she fell down, she was heard to mutter as they pulled her to her feet, "There must be something the matter with the ice!"

PHYSICS INSTRUCTOR: "If you weigh a bowl of water, and then weigh some gold fish and put them in the water, will all together weigh more or less, or the same, as the sum of the two weights?"

Miss S.: "Less, because the fish will drink up a lot of the water."

Farewell

Dear Alma Mater, as we go
We turn once more, while yet we may,
To say farewell, and mark with thee
The passing of a long, bright day:

Through all the years that lie before
We shall not fail thee, or forget;
But in the joy of work well done,
We shall be glad that we have met

In these dear years of work and jest,
With clasp of hand on hand: —
And in all days to come, with joy
We shall recall, — and understand.

Dorothy's Getting Well.

Dorothy, who is just getting over the measles, has no more than said, "My Goodness! Why don't they give me something good to eat?" when the wise Kewpies appear, one bearing a dish of delicious, sparkling Raspberry another bringing a spoon, and one carrying from sight the hateful medicine.

Dorothy's happy face expresses her approval.

"America's Most Famous Dessert" is good in the sick-room as in the dining room, for the delightful pure fruit flavors of Jell-O appeal to all appetites. There are seven of the flavors: Raspberry, Strawberry, Lemon, Orange, Cherry, Peach, Chocolate. At all grocers' and general storekeepers', 10 cents each.

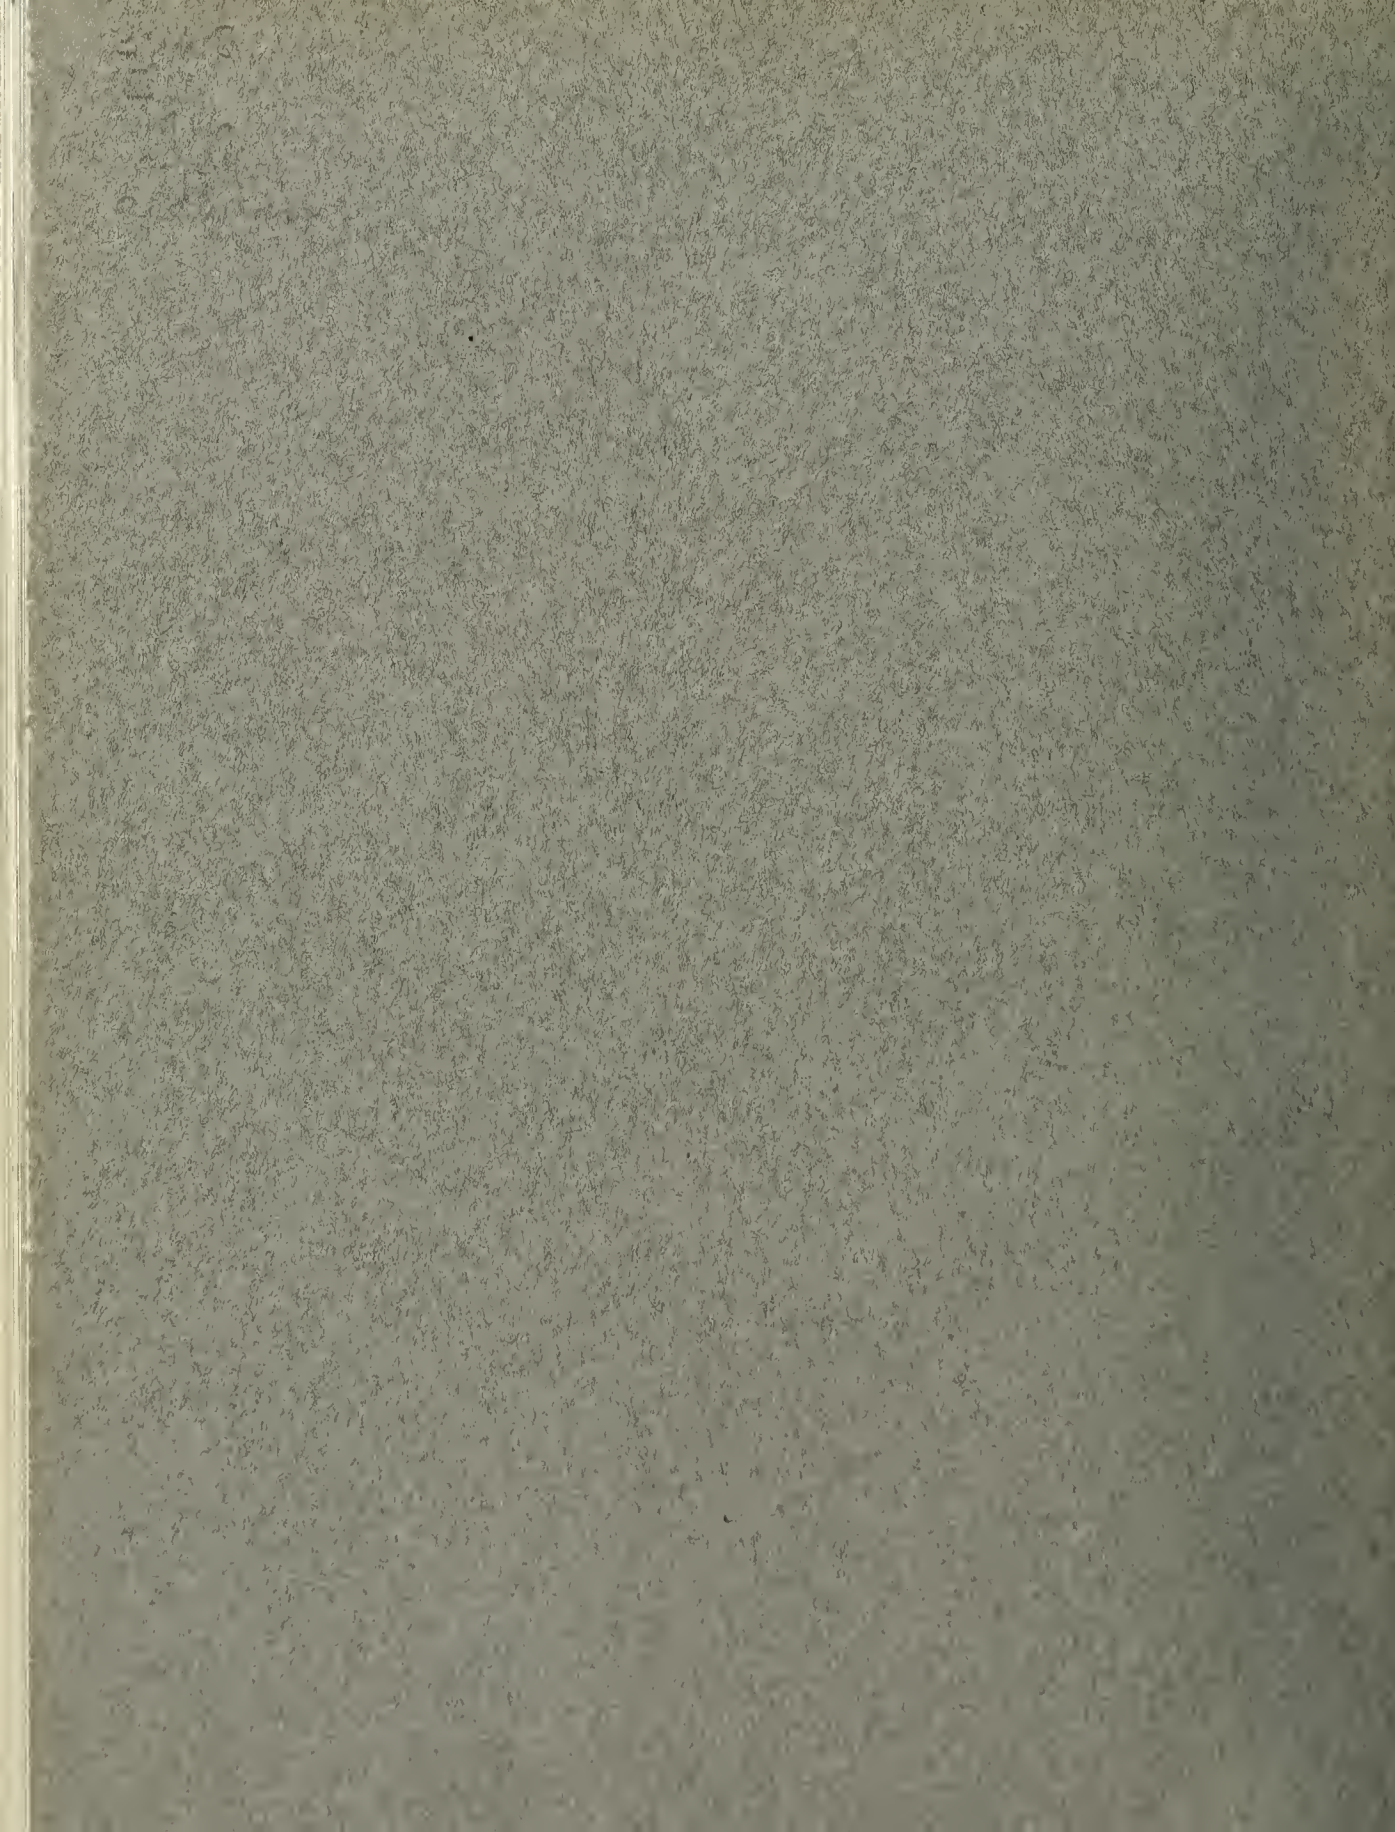

A tightly sealed waxed paper bag, proof against moisture and air, encloses the Jell-O in each package.

A beautiful new Jell-O Book telling of a young bride's house-keeping experiences has just been issued. It has splendid pictures in colors and will interest every woman. It will be sent to you free if you will send us your name and address.
