PROSPECTUS FOR ESTABLISHMENT OF KAGAWA PREFECTURAL COUNCIL OF HEADS OF TOWN AND VILLAGE ASSEMBLIES

June 25, 1949.

It is a matter of imperative importance that Japan since the time of her surrender to the Allied Powers in the last war, firmly determined to make a re-start toward the goal of a democratic nation of high culture, has been making her utmost endeavors along that line. Considering the longstanding national traditions and characteristics peculiar to the old Japan, however, it can be denied that the present reorientation program that the new Japan has begun to undertake is really nothing short of a fundamental revolution to this country, unquestionably the most epoch-making ever witnessed in her long history, and, accordingly, it is natural that many difficulties lie ahead of the future of our New Japan in the way toward the goal.

The new Japanese Constitution clearly defines the final goal toward which all efforts of the Japanese for reconstruction of Japan should be oriented. In order to attain a thorough and speedy realization of this supreme objective, it is unanimously considered as an essential prerequisite for her to try to completely democratize, first above all else, the political field, on the foundation of which her social, economic, cultural, and all other actions depends. The more thoroughly a democratization of the political field in a nation is realized, the more an accomplishment of democratization of all her other fields will be accelerated.

And the first step toward democratization of the all-important political field is nothing but speedy accomplishment of local autonomy in which each locality can enjoy independent legislative and executive organs of its own as functioning for self-government on its people's own responsibility. This is the base upon which democratization of the whole nation rests.

As we view the present political situations of this country, we realize, to be sure, that the "formal" reorientation of her governmental functions has apparently been accomplished up to now with some success, but at the same time we admit with regret that "substantially" but little progress has been made so far along that line, with many difficulties left yet to solve in its way. Under such circumstances, we, vanguard in the crusade for Local Autonomy, keenly feel that we should at this time sincerely reflect upon the path we have marched along for the cause in the past and redouble our efforts afresh towards substantial realization of a true democratic self-government as provided for in the Constitution.

With above views in mind, we are determined to volunteer to offer our humble efforts, as promotors, towards organizing a Kagawa Prefectural Council of Heads of Town and Village Assemblies which makes it its purpose to keep close mutual liaison and collanoration among the town and village assemblies, to make fundamental studies on town and village questions, to decide upon policies for their common interests, and thus to further promote sound development of local self-government in this prefecture. And we hereby sincerely wish that all persons concerned will give this project their hearty approval and co-operation.
