ORGANIZED FOR "THE INCREASE AND DIFFUSION OF GEOGRAPHIC KNOWLEDGE"

To carry out the purposes for which it was founded fifty-six years ago, the National Geographic Society publishes this Magazine monthly. All receipts are invested in The Magazine itself or expended directly to promote geographic knowledge.

Articles and photographs are desired. For material The Magazine uses, generous remuneration is made.

In addition to the editorial and photographic surveys constantly being made, The Society has sponsored more than 100 scientific expeditions, some of which required years of field work to achieve their objectives.

The Society's notable expeditions have pushed back the historic horizons of the southwestern United States to a period nearly eight centuries before Columbus crossed the Atlantic. By dating the ruins of the vast communal dwellings in that region, The Society's researches solved secrets that had puzzled historians for three hundred years.

In Mexico, The Society and the Smithsonian Institution, January 16, 1939, discovered the oldest work of man in the Americas for which we have a date. This slab of stone is engraved in Mayan characters with a date which means November 4, 291 B. C. (Spinden Correlation). It antedates by 200 years anything heretofore dated in America, and reveals a great center of early American culture, previously unknown.

On November 11, 1935, in a flight sponsored jointly by the National Geographic Society and the U. S. Army Air Corps, the world's largest balloon, Explorer 11, ascended to the world altitude record of 72,395 feet. Capt. Albert W. Stevens and Capt. Orvil A. Anderson took aloft in the gondola nearly a ton of scientific instruments, and obtained results of extraordinary value.

The National Geographic Society-U. S. Navy Expedition camped on desert Canton Island in mid-Pacific and successfully photographed and observed the solar eclipse of 1937. The Society has taken part in many projects to increase knowledge of the sun.

The Society cooperated with Dr. William Beebe in deep-sea explorations off Bermuda, during which a world record depth of 3,028 feet was attained.

The Society granted $25,000, and in addition $75,000 was given by individual members, to the Government when the congressional appropriation for the purpose was insufficient, and the finest of the giant sequoia trees in the Giant Forest of Sequoia National Park of California were thereby saved for the American people.

One of the world's largest icefields and glacial systems outside the polar regions was discovered in Alaska and Yukon by Bradford Washburn while exploring for The Society and the Harvard Institute of Exploration, 1938.

The Society's New Map of Southeast Asia

BY GILBERT GROSVENOR
President, National Geographic Society

TIMELY addition to the National Geographic Society's wartime series of map supplements is the new Map of Southeast Asia and Pacific Islands, distributed with the October, 1944, issue of the NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC MAGAZINE.

The new chart, together with its companion Map of Japan (April, 1944), portrays in detail the heart of the vast Pacific battleground.

Consulting these two maps, members can follow every move by our land, sea, and air forces to crush the Japanese. The maps are drawn on the largest scale ever used by your Society's cartographers in mapping this area.

From Calcutta to the Solomons

Northwest to southeast, the chart extends from Calcutta, chief base for the campaign in Burma, to Guadalcanal and Tulagi in the Solomon Islands, where United States Marines first checked the Japanese sweep.

The map reaches north as far as Shanghai and the southern tip of the Japanese mainland. On the south it includes Darwin, Australia, base for our bombers raiding the Japanese in the Netherlands Indies. Westernmost points are the Nicobar and Andaman Islands in the Indian Ocean, which were seized by the Japs in 1942.

On the east the map shows the new United States bases for B-29's in the Marianas Islands, within bombing range of both the Philippines and Japan.

Likely scene of operations is the Philippine archipelago, which lies close to the center of the new map. General Douglas MacArthur, upon his arrival in Australia from Corregidor in March, 1942, said: "I shall keep the soldiers' faith. I shall return."

Beyond the Philippines are Formosa, Jap-seized Hainan, and the broad stretches of the South China coast which Admiral Chester W. Nimitz has proclaimed a U. S. Navy goal.

In that part of western China shown on the map are airbases from which Superfortresses bombed Japan and Manchuria.

Our Navy's victorious operations in the Pacific have added new names in that area. For the first time on a GEOGRAPHIC map the Philippine Sea is listed. This is the title Admiral Nimitz has given to the waters between the Philippines and the Marianas.

Two other water areas are named for the first time on a general map. These are the Solomon Sea, between the Solomon Islands and New Guinea, and the Bismarck Sea, bounded by the Bismarck Archipelago and New Guinea.

"The Slot," term given by Navy men to the narrow stretch of water between New Georgia Island and Choiseul and Santa Isabel Islands, in the Solomons, has stuck. It appears now for the first time on a GEOGRAPHIC map supplement.

Key cities and strategic islands are charted in twenty-two large-scale insets on the new map. Six, in the upper right-hand corner, show Shanghai, Hong Kong, Singapore, Soerabaja, Manila, and Davao.

Sixteen others, in the lower left-hand corner, portray important islands and island groups. Among them are Saipan, Tinian, Guam, Pagan, and Rota, scenes of United States triumphs in combined land, sea, and air operations last summer in the Marianas.

Also included are the Jap island strongholds near the Chinese mainland—the Pescadores between the China coast and Formosa; the Nansei Islands, between Formosa and Japan; and Pratas, southeast of Hong Kong, in the South China Sea.

Old English Names for Bonins, Marianas, May Replace Jap Terms

Shown in detail are Chichi Jima and Haha Jima, fortified islands in the Bonins south of Tokyo. When the uninhabited Bonins were colonized by British and Americans back in 1830, they were given English names, which were in use until the Japanese took over the islands in 1861.

On the map these old designations appear in parentheses beside the Japanese: Muko Jima (Parry Group); Chichi Jima (Beechey Group); Haha Jima (Baily or Coffin Group); Nishi no Shima (Rosario). The Japs even changed the name for the Bonins to Ogasawara Gunto.

These old-time American and European names have a new meaning. Will they soon be restored by our conquering soldiers and sailors?

Palau and Truk, important targets of American air and sea strikes, and Yap and Ponape, other Caroline Island strongholds which have been heavily bombed, are shown individually. Also charted in insets are our big new base on captured Eniwetok, in the Marshalls, and Marcus Island, east of Japan, which has been attacked repeatedly by U. S. Navy raiders.

The new chart is based on a transverse Mercator projection, computed by your Society's cartographers. This projection reduces the map's scale error to a minimum. Printed in 10 colors, on a sheet 41 by 26½ inches, it is drawn to the same scale, 126 miles to the inch, as its companion Map of Japan.

The National Geographic Society's wartime map series of Pacific areas provides detailed coverage over a vast stretch of the earth's surface. This series includes, in addition to the new map and the one of Japan, the Map of Asia and Adjacent Areas, issued in December, 1942, and the Map of the Pacific Ocean and the Bay of Bengal, September, 1943.

Closely allied is the World Map (Van der Grinten's projection), December, 1943, which clarifies Pacific operations in their relation to global strategy. In response to hundreds of requests, the National Geographic Society has completed an enlargement of this World Map on sheets 67½ by 43½ inches, a size which makes it valuable for classroom or lecture use. Scale of this "blown up" World Map is 395 miles to the inch.

The United States Army Air Forces found the Map of Japan so valuable that they requested permission of your Society to reproduce it in greatly enlarged form for military purposes.

Since Pearl Harbor, the National Geographic Society has supplied to the Army, Navy, and Government Departments more than half a million wall maps. These have been distributed among our armed forces all over the world.

Including the new Map of Southeast Asia, your Society has printed the amazing total of nearly 20,000,000 maps since we entered the war in December, 1941.
