LEMON TRADE HURT

REDUCTION OF DUTY ON FOREIGN FRUIT BROUGHT LOWEST PRICES IN HISTORY

How the reduction in the duty on foreign lemons has injured the California grower is told graphically in the annual report of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange. The California lemon crop increased during the season ending Aug. 31, 132 percent over the preceding year. The use of lemons in summer time depends on climatic conditions. People use lemons freely in cold drinks in hot weather and make comparatively little use of them for culinary and other purposes.

A low retail price does not stimulate the use of lemons in the summertime. If the weather is generally cool demand is lacking. Since the middle of May abnormally cool weather has prevailed throughout the United States. Twice only since the last of May has the central temperature reached normal and at no time since the last of May has the average temperature reached normal in the western section of the United States. The wholesale and retail prices of lemons have been unusually low, but neither the jobber nor the retailer has been able to move the fruit freely because the consumer will not use the lemon as a beverage when the weather is cold.

Other factors besides the cool summer have contributed to the unsatisfactory lemon season. High prices prevailed during the two seasons previous on account of a shortage in the crop, retail prices were high and the use of lemons for culinary and other general purposes, aside from cold drinks, was restricted. When war was declared in 1914, it was generally believed by the trade that imports would be stopped. Wholesale and retail prices rose to abnormal figures in the fall, the trade had no advices of importations and the dealers stocked up for the future with high-priced fruit. But imports were not stopped. Italian lemons were shipped here in the usual quantities in the fall. The wholesale price dropped $3.00 per box in thirty days but the wholesale and retail trade had large supplies of high-priced foreign and California lemons on hand. These high priced supplies in the hands of the jobbers and retailers prevented a free distribution of the fruit for many weeks.

The United States has been supplied with the lowest grades of Italian lemons in recent years on account of the usual continental-European markets having been largely cut off by the war. Whenever it was figured that overhead charges could be realized a flood of foreign lemons has resulted. The reduction in the duty of 1 cent per pound in 1912 reduced the overhead charge on foreign fruit 72 cents per box. These factors have resulted in the lowest prices for foreign lemons in New York probably in the history of the importing business. For the year ending June 30, 1910, the average selling price of imported lemons in New York was $2.90; in 1911, $3.55; in 1912, $2.88; in 1913, $4.38; in 1914, $3.11, and in 1915, $2.02 per box. The New York price of foreign lemons for the fiscal year 1915, which is a leading factor in establishing values throughout the country, is only slightly more than the average cost of producing and placing a box of lemons on the cars in California.

NOON WEDDING

A very pretty high noon wedding took place recently at the St. Nicholas in Los Angeles, Rev. A. B. Smart of Glendale officiating. The connecting parties were Miss Mae Parsons of Denver, Colo., who has been stopping with Mrs. W. J. Root of Verdugo Road, and Mr. Frank Rosenthal of Bakersfield, Cal. Guests from Glendale were Mrs. A. B. Smart, Prof. and Mrs. W. J. Root and Miss Nellie Boles.

The decorations were of festoons of smilax and huge red roses from the Bole rose ranch on Rock Glenn avenue.

After a fine wedding luncheon, the bride and groom left for San Diego where they will spend their honeymoon.

HIGH SCHOOL REOPENS

PRINCIPAL MOYSE REPORTS INCREASED ENROLLMENT AND CHANGES IN STAFF

"While enrollment is not entirely complete it is possible to state that the high school reopens with largely increased numbers and with every condition favorable for a most successful session," said Principal Moyses of Glendale Union High School. "The students have returned from their vacation with renewed energy and everything promises harmony and diligent work."

"The following changes have been made in the faculty: "Mr. Herman C. Joy, who for a considerable period taught with great success in the Seattle High School, has been appointed head of the Commercial Department and has taken up the work with a large, enthusiastic class.

"Miss Marjorie Grinnell, one of the strongest personalities the University of Southern California has been able to send to superintend the physical culture section for girls, has assumed duty in the department formerly presided over by Miss Turner. "Miss Ella Wall, who took an unusually full course of work at the University of Southern California and who also acted as instructor there, has been appointed to the department of mechanical and architectural drawing and domestic art.

"Miss Enid Senton, who acted as instructor in the University of Washington and has ample high school experience, is taking the work in Spanish in place of Miss Field, who has been given a year's leave of absence.

"Miss Dorothy Fish has returned from leave of absence, which she spent in rest and study in the east. She has resumed her work in physiology, biology and hygiene for girls."

THE MISSION PLAY

The Mail Clerks who are to hold their national convention in Los Angeles have already made reservations for the "Mission Play" at San Gabriel. There are so many of them that they will not try to crowd into one performance. They will either attend two performances in one day or scatter their attendance over several night performances.

The Forrester of America from Massachusetts were at the pageant drama earlier in the week. They went to one of the evening performances, eating their dinner under the old grape vine and wandering around the historic mission and among the adobe huts before entering the theater. They said that it put them more into the spirit of the eighteenth century and early California than they dreamed possible.

The last week saw many automobile parties at the pageant drama from all over Southern California. The moonlight ride on perfect roads, when Southern California is at its best and the old pueblo gathers back all its mystery and romance, appealed to them. Already reservations have been made at the Mission Play box office for the next moonlight period. Those who have come must have been talking to their friends.

PETITION FOR RECALL

It has been stated by citizens of Glendale who are in a position to know, that a petition is being circulated asking that an election be held for the purpose of recalling the present city trustees.

The position the Evening News will take in the discussion of such procedure will be entirely on a high plane. The editor of the Evening News is slow to become identified with factions, and is of the opinion that factional fights are always detrimental to the best interests of the city in which they are carried on.

It is the opinion that the present city trustees are giving honest service to the city, and not one of them is deserving of being recalled. However, this is a question that is to come before the people and the people are the deciding power. So to the people the Evening News will say, Make careful investigation on both sides. The wisest heads act cautiously in the use of the recall. Under the present law it is very easy to petition for a recall election. Even men elected at a recall election can be recalled, so there is no end to the trouble that may arise from a city's population becoming inoculated with the recall germ.

ODD FELLOWS NOTICE

There will be something doing Thursday evening and a large attendance is expected. Noble Grand J. P. Farnett has hinted that he will cut a watermelon after the work of the evening.

MAKING WAR SHELLS

GIRLS AND WOMEN IN FRANCE MAKE 10,000 HAND GRENADES A DAY

Here is how the hand grenades are made:

First the shell is cast, a shell some quarter of an inch thick. It is indented all over to insure its bursting into innumerable fragments when exploded. The average number of fragments, determined after careful tests, is 220, the fragments being about the size of the tip of your little finger, of very rough edges and, at short distances—these weapons are never used otherwise—capable of piercing a two-inch plank. They make very dangerous wounds.

These cast-iron shells, shaped like a lemon, are next cleaned, outside by brushes wielded by women, inside by a revolving apparatus resembling an egg-beater. This inside cleaning is to prevent grit or particles of iron remaining to cause a possible spark and consequent explosion while being filled with chedite later.

Girls pack the grenades with the explosive which resembles sulphur or light brown sugar. A round piece of paraffined paper is put over the opening and with a plug is forced down into the grenade's neck to the point where the lemon begins to swell.

While this is being done the "stopper" is assembled by other girls. From the wood-turning department come the wooden plugs which close the grenade and contain the operating button. A hole runs through the middle and through this passes a Bickford time fuse. At the upper end is a cap something like the cap of an old-time muzzle-loading gun which is exploded by the push-button mentioned above. At the bottom of the fuse is the detonator. The various operations of assembling this apparatus are performed by girls and women, some quite young, some old, grandmotherly and bespectacled. Each girl or woman has but one operation to perform however simple they may be. One inserts the fuse, another adjusts the cap, a third the detonator, a fourth makes the joint between the fuse and detonator safe by means of sealing wax and so on, the "stoppers" flowing smoothly down this human stream rapidly and without let-up until at least they pour into the grenades stream for final adjustment.

A hole is made in the tightly packed chedite with which the grenade is filled and into this hole the detonator is passed. The grenade is now nearing completion and becomes extremely dangerous. Should one be dropped, or the button of one hit against any hard object with force, an explosion results within four and a half seconds, the time these special grenades are set for. Consequently from now on, until the grenades are packed for shipment, all workmen sit beside a barricaded stone and brick over which a bomb which has met with an accident may be tossed before it explodes.

In this strange war hand grenades have become of more importance in many instances than rifles and all along the front special corps of "grenadiers" have been formed. These are being drilled in their special work daily.

"Don't tell where you saw us making grenades," was the final injunction of the colonel of artillery acting as superintendent of the works. "We were visited by a spy this morning. The Germans want to know just where we are so they can drop bombs on us from their aeroplanes. We supply 10,000 grenades a day to one army so you see how important it is that we keep working. Besides we don't want our folks killed."

WAR AFFECTS STYLES

MRS. C. H. EDEMILLER FINDS NEW YORK SUFFERING FROM EUROPEAN CONFLICT

"After a business trip to Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and New York I have come back with the impression that the middle west is rather busier than either the Atlantic or Pacific coast. Chicago has made most wonderful advance of recent years. Parts of the city where were formerly old and decaying buildings have been pulled down to make way for a magnificent 56-mile boulevard that winds around the city and the Lake front, taking in the whole park system, north and south, east and west. Michigan avenue is all business houses. The city has grown out northward in the most wonderful manner.

"Business in Chicago was quite active. I spent ten days in that city and was amazed at the wealth of style and fashion in its stores, which easily rival those of New York. All the novelties were there. I brought back with me many valuable ideas from the Chicago stores.

St. Louis also was brisk and lively. Business seemed to have quite an impetus there. The stores were beautifully dressed and the wares set forth in the most alluring manner. St. Louis serves a large center and the war does not seem to have affected it half as much as it has the east. I found Kansas City also busy and bustling as usual; the stores were active and there was no complaint of lack of business. Of course, it must be remembered that Kansas City is the buying center for a great portion of the south.

"New York seemed dull for that usually busy emporium. On every hand could be seen indications that the European war had badly affected business. Many of the stores were advertising sales. I found that prices were much lower just now than they had been for some time. Hats that usually sell there from $25 to $30 were being offered at $10 and $15.

"One benefit the war has certainly done for the country—it has thrown the milliners and dressmakers back on their own resources. There are just as good ideas in this country as in Paris, Berlin, London or Vienna. It only needs that the people patronize their own country people's ideas. I found in all the cities I visited that 90 per cent of the styles offered were home ideas. In Chicago this was specially noticeable. It will probably become the fashion after this to seek ideas at home instead of going to Paris for them. There should be a great stimulation of home industry after the war. Indeed that stimulus is being applied at the present moment and must bear fruit.

"By visiting the eastern cities I keep myself up to date with the styles and am able to manufacture the latest creations at one-half the price they charge for them elsewhere. That Bersaglieri hat, with the black plumes, is one of the very styles. It is handsome and the very latest thing out, yet we sell it here at one-half of what they charge in the east. It is so with all the new styles. There is a harem hat, another outcome of the war. Another of the late styles is that fur-trimmed tam. The war has even affected the colors of millinery and dress. The shades are military blues and grays and plum color. The plum shades are everywhere—dark, rich shades, varied by bright reds. I anticipate a busy season in Glendale, where business is wonderfully good when one considers how stagnant things are elsewhere."

SAY THERE, YOU WOLVERINES!

Wherever you are listen to the call to the great fall reunion of the Michigan folks from all over Southern California, under the auspices of the Michigan State Society.

It is to be a jolly, happy picnic for all and it is Saturday, Sept. 18, at beautiful Sycamore Grove, in Los Angeles. Both the red and yellow car lines go there so all may be accommodated.

Come as early in the morning as you can and stay all day long. Bring dinner (and supper too if you wish) with cup and spoon—coffee will be free to all who buy the badge. We will have the county headquarters and registers so you can find the old friends easily. Every effort will be made to add to your pleasure.

There will be a brief program with some Michigan oratory, some music and maybe an original poem, but the main thing will be the jolly social fun and the happy renewals of old-time friendships. The Michigan people from all over our Southland by the thousands will come to meet you and to greet you

BATTLING WITH THE ARCTIC

While Europe is absorbed in the war another conflict is going on in the frozen north which demands just as much courage and develops a better kind of heroism than that which is seen on the fields of the warring continent. Where the mighty Mackenzie river flows into the Arctic ocean the explorer Stefansson has been fighting his way among ice floes, icebergs and even freshets with a pertinacity and valor that entitle him to the highest reward the world can bestow on him.

When last heard from Stefansson had left Martin point, west of the mouth of the Mackenzie river. That was on April 7 of last year. Plunging with undaunted soul into the dangers of the opening sea he had determined to go north in search of land, and expected, in case of failure, to turn east and reach Banksland. What has happened since then it is impossible to divine. Those who know the north know that the Mackenzie river would be thawing out about the time the daring explorer set out with his two companions on his perilous journey.

In fact it is known that last year a thaw occurred in the Mackenzie that developed an enormous freshet or flood. Such a flood would cause the outrush of an enormous volume of water seaward and a change in the sea currents. That would undoubtedly force the explorer to change his course and endeavor to make land at some other point than that at which he aimed.

It seems a long time since Stefansson was heard from, but he is an experienced Arctic explorer, accustomed to take care of himself amid the blizzards and famines of the dangerous north, and it is not likely that he has succumbed. The United States revenue cutter Bear, which returned some time ago from Point Barrow, which is as far north as those boats ever venture, with mail and provisions for the few white people who winter in the Arctic, had heard no news of Stefansson. That must not be wondered at, however, for the chances are 1000 to 1 against his being heard from until he manages to reach some place like Point Barrow.

Stefansson might possibly have turned back and endeavored to make the inland trip along the Mackenzie river and following the course of some other rivers try to reach Circle where he would find a small mining community and food and shelter. That was done by the famous explorer Amundsen, who sailed through the northwest passage from Norway. He made the trip to Circle from the mouth of the Mackenzie river, leaving his little vessel, the Gjoa, with its crew somewhere near the mouth of the river; got his mail at Circle; bought some necessary material and ammunition and returned on his long and dangerous trip in safety. It was many a long and weary month, however, before the Gjoa, with twisted propeller, came limping down the coast to Nome. During that period the explorer had been given up for lost several times.

Wada, a clever and experienced Japanese, made the trip to the mouth of the Mackenzie river on foot and came back safely, but nothing was ever heard of that feat outside of Alaska. It is therefore quite within the bounds of possibility that Stefansson is still alive and on his way to some spot of civilization. It is to be hoped such is the case. His courage and devotion to the cause of science are deserving of success.

MEXICAN BORDER PLOT

There is evidence in the hands of the United States authorities pointing to the existence of a border plot to force the United States and Mexico into war. It is easy to go into war, but not so easy to govern the tide once it has been let loose. Recent events on the border show that interested parties have been instigating Mexican raiders to inflict such injury on Americans across the border as might induce American retaliation and gradually involve both countries in a war that would last for years.

It is well that the policing of the border has now been intrusted to Gen. Funston, who is an officer skilled in the ways and tricks of Filipinos and Mexicans and well able to handle the situation without embarrassing the United States. He has placed the entire Rio Grande country, including the Brownsville section, where the recent fighting took place, under martial law. This will probably prevent firing across the boundary from the Texas side except by the United States troops under orders.

That there has been danger of the border warfare gradually taking on such dimensions as would give it the appearance of international warfare has been manifest for some time. Those who wish the United States to annex Mexico no matter at what cost are doubtless anxious to see the border warfare continue, but they are likely to be disappointed. The leading Mexicans are just as well aware as anyone of the desires of the annexationists and are just as determined to frustrate them, not by war but by diplomacy.

It is credibly reported that both Carranza and Villa are willing to co-operate with the Latin-American diplomats to bring about constitutional government in Mexico. It is possible that the other day some of Carranza's officers and men were among those fighting against the Americans on the border and again it is just as possible that some irresponsible bandits secured uniforms and went forth to fight in them.

Secretary Lansing, who is earnestly working along with the representatives of the Latin-American republics to induce the warring factions in Mexico to lay down their arms and unite on some stable government, has hopes that the efforts thus being made will result in peace, but with so many contrary elements at work it is difficult even for the best-intentioned mediators to make any headway.

Worst of all is the gang of American agitators who are eager to see the two countries involved in war that they may exploit the natural resources of the southern republic. It would be too bad if such a clash should ever happen. Mexico has suffered already from too much foreign exploitation and even now the greater part of the land is in the hands of a few, while the peon is in bondage of the worst kind. It is earnestly to be hoped that while Funston is preserving peace on the border Lansing may find a solution of Mexico's internal difficulties.

LITTLELANDS AND SUNLAND

Miss Hannah McKee, who has been with friends in Pasadena for some months past, has returned to her home on San Ysidro road, Littlelands. The Christian Endeavor society, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Shiras, picked up at Long Beach on Monday, starting at 7 o'clock in the morning, but owing to a breakdown did not reach home until near midnight. A number of county C. E. societies attended the picnic.

Miss Hazel Brown, who has been a guest for several days at the home of Mrs. Knight of El Centro avenue, departed Monday morning for her home in Torrance. She formerly resided in Littlelands.

Mrs. C. E. Blake of Cedar street passed away Saturday evening shortly after being brought home from the Los Angeles county hospital. She had been a great sufferer for a long time. Her going is especially sad because of her two little daughters thus left motherless. Besides these little ones she leaves a husband and one son by a former marriage. The remains were taken immediately to the Scovern-Letton-Frey undertaking parlors at Tropic.

School begins in Littlelands next Monday. Miss Ada Solstrom, who has taught here for the past two years, will again occupy the chair of principal. Associated with her in the work will be Miss Muriel Wilson of 1446 Vine street, Glendale, who will have charge of the primary department. Owing to the necessity for retrenchment this year, there will probably be only eight months of school, making one month less than usual.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hubbard left Littlelands Thursday morning for Los Angeles, from which place they started Friday morning on their long trip to their old home in South Dakota. They will be absent perhaps two months. On their return trip they expect to visit the exposition at San Francisco.

Miss Harriet Lee, who has a residence on Pine street, was in Littlelands for the week-end last week. She left for Los Angeles Monday morning, where she expects to remain for some time.

Mr. W. R. Mehard has taken over the interest of Mr. Lang in the lumber yard and will hereafter have charge of the lumber business at Monte Vista boulevard. Mr. Lang's other interests require all of his time and attention.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Hartranft, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Freeman and son Lewis, started last Saturday to Big Bear lake on an outing, to be gone for a week.

Mr. Blanchard of Burbank was a business visitor in Littlelands Tuesday morning, returning to his home in the evening.

Mr. B. Van Battum, who has the contract for Capt. Hatch's new house on Monte Vista boulevard, and who has been confined to his home with a severe attack of lumbago, is reported to be convalescing.

Miss Helen Newman of Los Angeles came last week and has been visiting with Miss Gilbert on Sunset boulevard. She is the owner of a lot in Littlelands and expects to build some time in the future.

Mrs. Belle Paul, who has been occupying Mrs. Colburn's house on Stephens way, has returned to Los Angeles. Later she expects to go to the exposition at San Diego.

Mr. Edward Greenfield, who has been occupying the house owned by Mr. Steen on Sunset boulevard, has removed to the Dr. Edwards residence across the way.

Mrs. Will R. Mehard went to Los Angeles last Wednesday to be the guest of Miss Emma Mehard at Highland Park for several days. She expects to return Friday evening.

MACARONI FOR FLAGS

How the people of Brussels celebrated Italy's entrance in the war despite the German military commander's order to show no Italian flags or colors was told here today by a neutral traveler from the German controlled Belgian city.

When the news first reached Brussels hundreds of Belgians appeared with small Italian flags in their buttonholes. These were soon stripped from them by German soldiers. One ingenious celebrator then procured a quantity of macaroni, which was worn by all the Brusselites. Outwitted, the Germans made no further objection.

AMERICAN BANKERS MEET

Preparatory to the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association, meetings of committees in charge of arrangements were held in Seattle. The executive council met and rounded out the program, which is one of the most interesting in the organization's history, including, as it does, an address by William Howard Taft, former President of the United States. Hundreds of bankers, representing millions in wealth, will attend the convention, which officially begins Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Pearson of 1215 W. Broadway returned from Hermosa Beach today after a pleasant vacation at that popular resort.

Mrs. Plasterer, 200 S. Jackson street, is resting quietly at Thornycroft hospital, after an operation by Dr. T. C. Young, for thyro-toxic goitre.

The general officers of the Glendale W. C. T. U. are called to meet for a special business session Friday, Sept. 10, at 2 p. m., at the residence of Mrs. P. A. C. Moore, 116 West Fifth street.

Mrs. Ruby J. Smart, president of the local W. C. T. U., also a state superintendent, attended the state executive committee meeting at the Temperance temple in Los Angeles Saturday, when plans were made for the coming dry campaign.

Mrs. J. T. Crampton and Mrs. George Bannock will entertain the ladies of St. Mark's Guild on Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Crampton, 1011 Chestnut street, in honor of Mrs. Henry Horn, a beloved member, who is leaving Glendale on Saturday to make her home in Indiana.

Do not always take things too seriously. The world will think more of you if you will not retaliate too quickly on account of injuries received. Often a bitter word is spoken for the purpose of making angry an enemy. A kindly reply disappoints the person who speaks in bitterness.

Mrs. Elizabeth Blake died at Little Lands, Sept. 4, aged 41. She has been afflicted with tuberculosis for some time. The deceased woman was a native of New York State. She was a sister of Mrs. Middleworth and leaves a husband and five children. Funeral services were held Tuesday, Sept. 7, from the Scovern-Letton-Frey parlors. The body was interred in Los Angeles crematory.

Conrad Lueke died at Crocker Street hospital, Los Angeles, Monday, Sept. 6. He was manager of a St. Louis firm's branch office for the West Coast. For some time he had resided at 1465 Milford street, with Mr. and Mrs. Hillger. He was forty-three years of age and leaves a wife and three children here. Funeral Wednesday, Sept. 8, from the Pulliam funeral parlors, Glendale; interment at Forest Lawn.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Barrows, 443 W. Colorado boulevard, in company with their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Foote of San Diego, have just returned from a four days' trip to Mt. Wilson. They say that the view of the coast cities—Los Angeles with its myriad lights, Santa Monica, Ocean Park, Venice, Long Beach and the long rows of lights on Sherman Way, with the constantly passing autos, affords one of the finest bits of night scenery to be viewed anywhere.

Mr. and Mrs. Mattison B. Jones and Miss Winifred are at their home, 106 Orange street, once more after a very pleasant vacation of several weeks. A week spent on a motor trip to San Diego where the exposition and all the delightful resorts near the southern city were visited and enjoyed. Returning home, they entertained a number of eastern friends who are touring the west and visiting the exposition. Among their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Johnson of London, Ky.; Captain Calhoun of Washington, D. C.; Prof. James A. Yates of the University of Pittsburg, Kan.; and Attorney and Mrs. Chas. R. Brock of Denver, Col. Following the departure of their guests Mr. and Mrs. Jones and daughter left for Hermosa Beach, where they spent two happy weeks at that popular seaside resort.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Weaver, 235 South Kenwood street, and Miss May Cornwell, 311 South Kenwood street, have returned from a delightful two days spent in climbing Mount Wilson. They report a unique educational trip as well as a strenuous one. Through the courtesy of Professor Luckey, a former college friend of Mr. and Mrs. Weaver, who is now an assistant to Dr. Hale at the Mount Wilson observatory, the opportunity was given to view the work being done at the various observatories. A view of a thirteenth magnitude star through the largest telescope in the world, observations of the wonderful solar spectroscopic studies and research work being done, studies of the Milky Way, Jupiter and her moons, the Big Dipper and many others made the trip one of rare educational value. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver found to their delight that Professor Sweezy, head of the astronomy department of their alma mater, the state university of Nebraska, was a guest at the Mount Wilson hotel also. The pleasure of his company and the inspiration of his splendid astronomical knowledge added much to the value of the solar work seen during their stay on the mountain. To view the huge mirrors at the top of the 160-foot tower, and to get a magnificent view of the ranges of mountains for miles around, Mr. and Mrs. Weaver and Miss Cornwell had the thrilling experience of being drawn from the ground to the top of the 160-foot tower in an iron bucket. Altogether the trip was one to be long remembered.

Mrs. Fandie Burgett of Terre Haute, Ind., was the guest today of Mrs. Ella Boyer, also of Terre Haute, who is visiting on West Park avenue.

Mr. Edward Shively and family, 319 Orange street, returned home Tuesday from a ten weeks' outing in the mountains.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of N. P. Banks W. R. C. will be held in G. A. R. hall Friday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock.

Mrs. W. E. Burk and children of 525 Central avenue, Tropic, spent last week at Manhattan Beach with Mrs. Burk's brother, Fred Martin, and family.

Mrs. Wyman Campbell, 1625 Patterson street, is entertaining her sister, Mrs. Hurr, of Terre Haute, Ind., as a house guest. Mrs. Hurr will remain in Glendale for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Weitzell, 1425 Burchett street, have left Glendale and gone to Los Angeles to reside in order to be nearer Mr. Weitzell's place of business. Their neighbors very much regret their departure.

Seymour Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Smith, is quite a game getter. He recently accompanied his parents and Mrs. O. A. Gallup and Miss Jessie Gallup to the Placentria canyon where young Smith made the limit for shooting dove.

J. M. Banker, the accommodating and efficient building inspector for the city of Glendale, is not very strong on vacation outings. Until last week Mr. Banker had not enjoyed a vacation for 6 years. Mr. and Mrs. Banker have just returned from Santa Barbara, where they visited friends and had a much needed rest.

Mrs. F. W. Grosvenor, 1421 Burchett street, returned some days ago from her trip to San Francisco. Her son returned along with her. While in San Francisco Mrs. Grosvenor met many Glendale people on their vacation. She also met a number of the Glendale school teachers who were attending the National Education association.

Mrs. A. W. Russell and her six little girls, the eldest 11 years old, have been staying this summer at 612 Broadway, renting rooms of Walter Richardson, while her husband is in Fallon, Nevada, starting a church school of the Adventist faith and building a house for the occupancy of his family. Last night the stork made its seventh visit to Mrs. Russell and it proved that the beneficent bird, like us humans, finds it hard to get out of the old way, for the seventh was also a girl. Mrs. Russell is a daughter of Elder Marvin, a strong worker in the Adventist faith.

VALLEY VIEW

Miss Minnette Sherman and her two daughters, of 1526 Vine street, returned home Tuesday from a month's stay in Long Beach.

C. G. Lee and wife moved yesterday from 1501 West Seventh street to 1442 Ivy.

Mrs. J. C. May of 1571 Penn street, who won the third prize in the News contest, owes her success entirely to her charming personality, which made her friends anxious to work for her. She spent but three whole days at the work, being kept at home for weeks by her children having whooping cough.

Rev. Hoskyn and wife of 1504 Colorado moved to Riverside Saturday to look after their property.

TROPICO

Dainty little Katherine Elizabeth Bowman celebrated her fifth anniversary at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bowman, on Tropic avenue Tuesday afternoon. Childish games were enjoyed and when the crowning feature of the afternoon came, the ice cream and cake and other dainty refreshments, the little guests were simply bubbling over with glee and merriment. One little miss was greatly pleased with the letter K that adorned the cream and informed her less wise little friends that K stood for Katherine. Each little guest was presented with a dear little dolly and happy indeed were all, the smiling little hostess and her happy little guests, who were Marguerite Keeley, Devina Woods, Edith Carmack, Dorothy Erskine, Grace Carmack, of Tropic; Dorothy and Lindsey Davids, Kenneth Lockman, Katherine and Marjorie Miller of Los Angeles.

The Holsom Bread company ball team will play the Tropic team Sunday, Sept. 12, on the Tropic municipal playground. This baseball diamond is said to be the best in the valley and some interesting and exciting games are played there.

The Fraternal Brotherhood ball team of Los Angeles crossed bats with the Tropic team Sunday and lost, as our local team won by a score of 10 to 1. Tropic team has a new pitcher, as Mr. Brown of Universal City has cast his lot with the local team to win fame and glory.

The twenty-ninth anniversary of the Florence Crittenton home will be celebrated with a reception at the home, Griffin avenue and Thirty-third avenue, Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 15, from 2 to 4. The public is invited.

Miss Margaret Green entertained delightfully the following party Monday evening: Mr. and Mrs. Erbes, Miss Betty Garoutte and Mr. Roberts of Pasadena, Mr. Conner of Venice, Mr. and Mrs. Metzger and Mr. and Mrs. Max Green of the valley. The evening was spent in singing and listening to some fine records on the phonograph. Ice cream and dainty cakes were served and the party broke up with regrets on the part of all present.

Dr. Scott returned from Switzer's Camp Monday afternoon. He is planning to leave by boat Friday, and will complete his vacation in Portland.

A. C. Knight is fumigating fruit trees in the valley this week.

The La Canada Valley club held its monthly business meeting Monday evening.

Mr. Mackay and family are expected home the first of the week from Balboa, where they have been spending the summer.

At the school district meeting last week the trustees were instructed to proceed to call a bond election as soon as possible. Bonds to the amount of $25,000 will be asked, $20,000 of which will be for the building itself and the balance for the grounds and other incidentals.

As we strengthen our national defenses, let us have no chips on our shoulders for any nation or people.

FUN AT FRONT

HOW FRENCH SOLDIERS AMUSE THEMSELVES WITH VAUDEVILLE AS CANNONS ROAR

As the curtains parted the Germans began to bombard the French positions a short distance away. The explosion of shells punctuated every spoken line which followed and beat time to the music, as if jealous of the big base drum.

A clown, in costume and make-up which only the ingenuity of a French soldier can account for rushed out and began to sing and grimace. The audience roared. It was clear that he was a favorite. He was just back from the trenches, and as he jabbered a comic patter song, with grimaces and antics like any Barnum & Bailey star, one caught sight of his matriculation number bound by a steel chain to his wrist; for identification in case he fails to dodge a bullet some day. The clown sang on and when he got round to the chorus his comrades in front joined in. A captain of dragoons, occupying a seat on a bench reserved for officers, sang and laughed with the others, freely and without reserve, yet I recognized in this captain a count and member of one of the proudest families in the faubourg nobility of Paris.

The clown with his identification tag gave way amid applause to an acrobatic soldier—in peace times a professional—wearing the pink tights of tradition. He, too, had a tag on his wrist. A horizontal bar had been rigged up on the stage, and as the soldier in pink tights began to grate upon it, the "comic" partner came out and "comicked" in the way everyone who has ever seen a variety show knows. Under his very much too large "comic" dress coat, on a very muscular wrist, was his in-case-of-death tag, never letting one forget that just over the ridge a ways death was falling out of the skies at that very minute. The tags and the bombardment made the war seem very near.

An imitator of Houdini came next, wriggling out of handcuffs, padlocks and chains, ropes and other queer paraphernalia. No chains seemed too securely fastened about him for him to free himself of it—save the one which held the plaque which would identify him if some day he and a shell should get too well acquainted. After him a British Red Cross attendant, in khaki, sang "Alexander's Rag Time Band," execrably bad, to much applause from his allies. And when he completely broke down as to voice he laughed good naturedly and allowed his legs to do a not bad "Bazzard Lope."

Last on the bill, save the movies—they have movies at many points along the front now—came a singer, an ordinary-looking soldier in an every-day uniform, considerably the worse for trench wear. He was of less than average height and not even his small blond mustache could lift his appearance to one of very great dignity. I was told that in private life he was a cobbler, so, as the surgeon splashed into a bar of a dreamy and rather pretty ballad, I feared the worse, feeling not a little kindly towards the Germans who were now making more noise than ever with their bombardment. With the singer's first notes, however, I changed my mind. The notes were like pure gold.

Boom! Bang—went the Prussian shells close by. "Twas just a tiny flower dropped beside my way!" sang the French soldier, paying no attention to the noise. He put all the artistic interpretation of a Caruso in his song.

B-a-a-a-a-a! went another shell. "Just a little rosebud fallen from her hand!" This line came as an incongruous response to the terrific explosion.

B-o-o-o-o-o-m! B-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-m! More high explosives seemed to make the leaves tremble at the tenor-warrior-shoemaker, with his hand on his heart, continued to the end of his refrain and bowed before the tempest of applause. He had to take an encore, and he deserved it, every hand-clap of it, so again, with piano, flute, clarinet and the patter of rain accompanying him, he repeated the verse, while the big guns chimed in, a good substitute for the band drum, now soaked and out of commission: "Twas just a tiny flower dropped beside my way!"

Just a little rosebud fallen from her hand! But Cupid cuddled in it and with his little lay Turned all things to golden, like Midas, in the land!"

A WORTH-WHILE SERVICE

Rev. E. H. Willisford will conduct the midweek service at the First Congregational church this (Wednesday) evening. Special music will be rendered by Mr. Blake Franklin and Mr. H. W. Yarik. "Some Causes for the Materialism of the Age" will be the topic considered. The public is cordially invited.

W. C. T. U. MEETING

A good time is promised at the next meeting of the W. C. T. U. Sept. 17 at the home of Mrs. L. E. Brown in Sycamore canyon. Leave the Eagle Rock car at Sinclair avenue, go north to the wash and then east to Eleanor ranch. An all-day meeting will be held beginning at 10:30. Bring a friend and your lunch and remain throughout the day.

NORTH GLENDALE

Master Howard Briggs entertained a party of his young friends at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. F. M. Jones of 914 San Rafael street last Saturday evening in honor of Master Merrill Nash, who moves to Eagle Rock in the near future. The affair was very prettily arranged, the spacious lawn being festooned with Japanese lanterns and the tables where delicious refreshments were served were set outside. The children came dressed to represent popular characters and Charlie Chaplin was much in evidence. Games of various kinds were played and a general good time was enjoyed by the following guests: The Misses Elizabeth Sternberg, Marguerite Eckles, Elizabeth Dinsmore, Marie Brown and Messrs. Merrill Nash, Frank Marsh, Ben Marsh, Howard Briggs, Wesley Coughran, Bert Coughran and Jack Marsh.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Clinton of 1616 Ruth street entertained as their guest Mrs. Clinton's father, Mr. Bennett of Los Angeles over Labor day.

Mr. Henry Van Benthussen has rented a very attractive bungalow at 1227 Arden avenue and with his family has moved in.

Mr. S. C. Olsen, the well-known bee man of North Glendale, has moved to Burbank where he has leased acreage.

Miss Idelle Pittman of Redlands was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Pittman of 1001 N. Pacific avenue, over the week end and labor day.

GRAND OPERA AND VAUDEVILLE

Another of those splendid operatic features that have been popularized in vaudeville by Alex Pantages will be presented at Pantages during the coming week. The stars of the Lombardi Grand Opera company have yielded to the temptation of vaudeville gold and appear under the name of the Royal Italian Sextette. Correct operatic costuming and correct operatic settings make their splendid vocalization of scenes from the favorite grand operas a memorable event in popular vaudeville.

Edmond Hayes, with his assistant Bozo, and a couple of huskies, will present Mr. Hayes comedy, "The Piano Movers." Real comedy is a rare thing in the world, and most comedians are busily engaged in working over the efforts of their professional grandfathers. It is therefore a joyous relief to discover something original and unhackneyed like Mr. Hayes hilarious farce. From start to finish there is nothing stale or shop-worn in "The Piano Movers." It is as spontaneous as nature.

Belle Oliver, "Just One Song After Another," is also listed. She is making good her billing by delivering new ones as fast as the orchestra can play them.

Dorsch and Russell, "The Musical Railroaders," offer a spectacular musical act.

Lady Alice's Pets is a surprise act that upsets our ideas regarding the domestic animals and their friendships and dislikes.

Last on the list, but by no means least in popular appreciation, comes John P. Reed, the burnt-cork hero of many popular and comedy songs. Beside his songs, he has a fine line of original comedy and patter.

IMMUNE FROM HAY FEVER

At the meeting of the United States Hay Fever Association two New York physicians who have given particular study to the immunization of hay fever cases, presented the results of their investigation. Dr. Seymour Oppenheimer and Dr. Mark J. Gottlieb discussed "Some General Remarks on the Subject of Pollinosis Hay Fever with Particular Reference to Its Treatment by Active Immunization and Results with a Demonstration of the Methods Employed in Determining Pollen Anaphylaxis."

The investigators found, they said: "Hay fever is due to a sensitization of an individual by the conveyance of pollen contents through the respiratory tract. There must be, at the time of sensitization, an abrasion of the mucous membrane, so as to make parental absorption possible. In all likelihood there exists in the patient an individual susceptibility to this particular disease which seems to have some relation to heredity, for this and other allied ailments are frequent in given families. The physicians concluded it should be possible to employ one of four methods of making a man immune, viz:

1. By injecting a dose of pollen extract just before the hay fever time and repeating the procedure in twenty to thirty days.
2. By injecting a large quantity of immunoserum during the attack.
3. By injecting very small amounts of pollen extract at intervals of ten days or less, so that only minute quantities of anaphylatoxin are found and the patient's tolerance is raised.
4. By injecting very small doses of anaphylatoxin made in the laboratory to produce the same results in method No. 3.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

Since the first case of foot-and-mouth disease found in a herd of hogs in Michigan, which later permitted the infection of the Chicago Stock Yards, hogs more than any other animal have been responsible for the spread of the disease, says the Department of Agriculture.

The susceptibility of swine to the foot-and-mouth disease and the failure on the part of swine owners to recognize its symptoms are giving the Federal authorities no small amount of worry in their "clean-up" campaign.

Sore mouth, a common indication of the disease, is an ordinary sequence of hog cholera, and contusions on the feet are frequent in swine which have been driven or shipped. For these reasons little attention is paid by the owners of swine to these symptoms, and unless the herd is located within suspicious territory foot-and-mouth disease may continue in a chronic form for a considerable length of time before discovery. The danger, of course, lies in the ability of these animals to disseminate the disease.

A recent outbreak in Steuben county, New York, was traced to infected swine, which evidently had had the disease in a mild form for a considerable length of time. Infection had been carried from these to the cattle through drainage.

This emphasizes the need, the authorities state, for continued careful examination for all live stock in previously infected areas, especially large herds of swine. Farmers and stock raisers, by giving immediate notice of any suspicious cases to the nearest health officer, will greatly aid the authorities in their efforts to eliminate this pest, which, if allowed to gain a foothold, would result in untold damage to the nation.

PROBLEMS FROM EUROPE

The American Public Health Association, meeting in Rochester, N. Y., was expected to devote much consideration to the problems that have grown out of the war in Europe. The necessity for vigilance against epidemic diseases is in the mind of every state and municipal health officer present, judging by their statements.

"This year," said Prof. William T. Sedgewick, president of the association, "we must beseech all Americans to prepare to deal with unusual invasions of minute, mostly invisible, but often multitudinous and powerful enemies. We must defend American homes against typhus as well as typhoid, against Asiatic cholera and against bubonic plague."

When a tropical hurricane goes up against Texas spirit, it is the hurricane that must blow itself away.
