The Main Points of the Letter

from NOBUO SUZUKI (Received on Aug. 27)

The said person returned to TIENTSIN recently after a three weeks trip to the southern area visiting various places.

I. Brief description of the interview with Mr. WANG and Mr. HUANG.

RETURN TO ROOM 361

A. Immediate problems.

As a result of the agreement made by Yin Tung with Major-General OKAMURA in DAIREN regarding the present North China problem, considerations are being made to carry out various measures based upon spirit of the aforementioned agreement when HUANG-Fu returns to his post. Mr. HUANG has been greatly misunderstood by the people due to his efforts to bring about smooth relations between JAPAN and CHINA. Therefore I hope the Japanese will be more considerate of Mr. HUANG's honor.

/p. 6/

III. One or two points of observations of the public.

1. ~~The very mention of the names of Major-Generals, DOHARA and ITAGAKI, is enough to make the people turn pale in South China.~~

/p. 7/ In South China to hear the names of Major Generals DOHARA and ITAGAKI is something like 'mention a tiger and the people turn pale'.

2. The weather is exceedingly hot in South-CHINA this year, and not only are the crops practically all withered, but the rivers in various places have practically dried up, and the harvest in the autumn will be extremely difficult.

3. The ill-feeling in South-CHINA toward JAPAN is very deep rooted and it seems that it cannot be wiped out so easily as it was in North-CHINA.

39. Written opinion on the construction of a new state by the 'North China Public Organization for Relieving our Country'
(MUKDEN special report no. 17.) (secret.) Date: Apr. 18th, 1934.

Summary.

(a.) General remarks.

It is urgent to establish a North China new regime in order to avoid the great war in Far East and establish the peace in East Asia.

(b.) Concrete plan.

1. To establish a new state in the vast area covering North CHINA, Interior MONGOLIA, Outer MONGOLIA, HSINCHIANG and etc.
2. To organize the 'Army for Stabilizing the Country' (定國軍) and make Wu Pei-fu the commander [吳佩孚]
3. of the Army
4. To receive economic assistance and supply of aeroplane etc. from the friendly nation.

This written opinion was contributed secretly by someone to the 'MUKDEN Special Service Agency' and was sent from General DOHIMARA to General NISHIO, Chief of Staff of the KWANTUNG Army for the latter's information.

39. (6)

2. A military committee is to be organized which is located some place to the east of Tientsin. The committee is to aim at the liaison and the unification of the ^(m) troops.

3. Wu Pei-fu is appointed the Commander in chief of the troops and the military committee shall advance to Peking ^(when) immediately after the city is occupied.

Call out the representatives of the provinces of North China and organize the temporal political council and a new constitutional monarchy is to be established in North China. The nation shall be in alliance with Japan and Manchukuo.

41. Talk of Colonel Ott, military attaché to the German Embassy in JAPAN, after the inspection of MANCHOUKUO. (MUKDEN special report no. 49.) (secret.) Date: Oct. 3rd, 1934.

Summary.

I esteem it a great honour to have been able to inspect MANCHURIA unexpectedly this time. But frankly speaking, I felt the lack of so-called 'Manchurian spirit'. And I think it needs much time, endeavour and patience to improve and complete the 'Manchurian spirit' (characteristic spirit of Manchurians.)

Who talked with HUANG? DOHARA, Kenji

48. Necessary items of the talk with Huang Fu (黃郛)
(MUKDEN special report no. 62.) (secret.) Date: Oct. 6th, 1934.

(a.) Late Huang Fu was former Foreign Minister and Home Minister of the National Government.

(b.) The subject of the talk was as follows:

1. About the decision of fundamental principle toward Japan
2. Reform of the Kuomintang Party.
3. Reform of the provincial government of HOPEI.

1. Concerning the decision of China's fundamental principle towards Japan.

It can not be decided immediately as long as Japan's situation in the world is uncertain, especially her relations with the Soviet, the U.S. and Britain are rather serious today.

It is dangerous for China, therefore, to decide her principle now.

3. The organization and the personal administration of the provincial government of HOPEI are not proper and there must be some reform of them in the near future.
