CHARLES DUNCAN McIVER

Vigorous and forceful fighter in the educational renaissance of the South, he was above all else a pioneer in the education of southern women.

Born of his brain and nourished in his heart, Woman's College is proof of his immortality and of his belief that only through granting to all the right to be educated could North Carolina prosper.

So paramount in his life was love of the College and service to his state of North Carolina that he sacrificed personal ambition and fortune to continue to battle buoyantly, courageously, and determinedly to perpetuate his ideas of true democracy through education. So strong was this foundation that even his death at forty-six could not destroy it.

FOREWORD

In this, the year in which our country has become involved in war and in which there is turmoil and trouble the world over, we find we are faced with problems we had never dreamed we would have to face.

In such a period of uncertainty and confusion, we welcome the opportunity to look back over the past on the occasion of celebrating the Fiftieth Anniversary of the founding of our college.

We look back, not as a way of escaping the problems we face today, but as a source of receiving inspiration which may be got only from a heritage as rich and great as ours.

Looking at our history we find an institution built with hard work, sacrifice, determination, and love, and find in it a pattern by which perhaps we, as the potential post-war generation, may rebuild the world.

Womans College of the 1892

To all idealistic pioneers in democratic progress and in furtherance of equality in education, high tribute is paid. For it is to them that Woman's College owes its birth.

Established by legislative enactment February 19, 1891, as the "State Normal and Industrial School," first institution created by the State of North Carolina for higher education of women, the College of the University of North Carolina in Woman's its fiftieth

1942 University of North Carolina

year contemplates a half-  century of gratifying achievement.

Greensboro, centrally located, was chosen as the location of the institution, the citizens voting

R. S. Pullen

$30,000 in bonds for the first two buildings, and and R. J. Gray of Raleigh giving a ten-acre site.

More than any other individual, Charles Duncan McIver was responsible for founding the college of which he became first president. Other pioneers in public education, Charles B. Aycock, Edwin A. Alderman, and James Y. Joyner, lent

their support to Dr. McIver's crusade for the education of women.

Opening on October 5, 1892, with a student enrollment of 176 and a faculty of 15, the college first offered Normal, Business, and Home Economics courses in fulfilling the two-fold legislative objectives of giving women education to fit them to teach and "instruction in drawing, telegraphy, type-setting, stenography and such other industrial art as may be suitable to their sex and conducive to their usefulness."

Upon the death of Dr. McIver in 1906, Dr. Julius I. Foust succeeded to the presidency, and under his leadership

the institution developed into a strong liberal arts college, progress recognized in change of the name in 1919 to the North Carolina College for Women.

After the rapid growth in the '20's, the college became a part of the University of North Carolina in 1931 when the General Assembly consolidated it with the State College of Agriculture and Engineering at Raleigh and the University at Chapel Hill. By that act, the institution became on July 1, 1932, the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. Dr. Frank Porter Graham was made president of the new university, and in 1934, when Dr. Foust retired and became president emeritus of the Woman's College, Dr. Walter Clinton Jackson, vice-president, was appointed head of the institution

as dean of administration.

Matching the phenomenal physical growth of the college has been its academic advance. It has developed into a liberal arts college respected in all academic circles, as is attested by membership in ranking scholastic organizations. The college has continued to give teacher training and instruction in commercial subjects, home economics and other fields which enable women to become self-sustaining, and at the same time offers courses in the arts, sciences, and music.

Study in 25 major fields leads to five degrees, Bachelor of Arts,

Bachelor of Science in Music,

Bachelor of Science in Physical Education, Bachelor of Science in Secretarial Administration, and Bachelor of Science in Home Economics. Graduate work is also given in home economics, secretarial science, and elementary education.

Physical

growth into the third largest woman's college in the United States with enrollment of 2,210 students, faculty and administrative staff of 247, and a plant valued at $7,500,000, including 45 buildings on a campus of 100 acres.

Through fifty years of growth, has been evolutionized in curriculum, in enrollment, in academic standing, in physical greatness, to meet the changing needs of American women; for change is the very essence of living. But it has not changed spiritually; for today, as fifty years ago, Woman's College is "Distinguished for its Democracy." Through its portals have entered those from all walks of life, in search for guidance toward the higher walks of life. They have been schooled in knowledge, in personal responsibility, in honor. They have been inoculated with respect for others' opinions and respect for their own opinions. Put on their own, they have learned to think as intelligent and mature women.

Woman's College

For Woman's College has matured. This year an honor system has been introduced. Donations have been made for a Student Union building. A new and more mature system of elections has been inaugurated. Fifty years of existence are a tribute to courage and to perseverance; to the blood, sweat and tears of the pioneers who toiled to make Woman's College; to the foresight of the administrative and student leaders

who carried this college through depressions, potential defeats, and war. Fifty years of existence are a tribute to growth and to progress.

The fight for victory against totalitarian powers is being carried on by men; but it will be the women who will fight against pettiness and selfishness—small things that corrupt and corrode—for a lasting peace. Woman's College stands firmly and securely in a world torn by the clashing of armies and ideals and ideas, ready to take its place in the world of tomorrow as the educator of the women who will rebuild the world of today.

DR. FRANK PORTER GRAHAM

Dr. Frank Porter Graham, "Mr. Frank" to his students at the University of North Carolina, is generally recognized as the ablest United States State University president. President Graham is, however, more than a University president. His fame is due, first of all, to the fact that he is a great man, genial, kindly, and hospitable; and secondly, to the fact that he is a great teacher, academically and technically.

President Graham, in his teaching, is primarily an educator for Democracy. "According to the Democratic philosophy of education that we learn what we live," he has said, "a campus democracy of students is one of the most effective agencies in education for democracy." It is the influence of this man, our University President, that has made us at Woman's College more conscious of the fact that the preservation of the Democratic way of life in our nation and on our campus is worth any effort that we may be called on to put forth.

GOV. J. MELVILLE BROUGHTON

EX-OFFICIO, CHAIRMAN

As Chairman of the Executive Committee of the University of North Carolina, Governor Broughton is the administrative leader in the higher education of the state of North Carolina as well as in its political administration. As an educator, he takes his stand with these words, "The biggest business of the state is education. It is our best investment."

The Trustees have endeavored to solve the problems of the school as a whole, to provide for the needs of the students themselves, and to keep the University abreast with the modern ideas of education and the modern demands of our civilization. Governor Broughton's sincere interest in education has lent inspiration to the Board.

DR. WALTER C. JACKSON

Progress has been the keynote of Woman's College since Dr. Walter Clinton Jackson became Dean of Administration in 1934. Dr. Jackson had long served as a teacher and as vice-president before his election to the head of this institution. During his administration, he has guided and developed this branch of the Greater University into a liberal arts college that is respected in all academic circles. All the growth during Dr. Jackson's administration has not been cultural, however. Today finds Woman's College one of the largest universities of its kind in the United States with an enrollment of approximately 2,250 students.

Dr. Jackson has stimulated each member of the student body with his own clear-thinking and vigorous outlook on life. He has taken a sympathetic interest in the least of our troubles and has always been the first to give us a word of encouragement in all of our undertakings.

MISS HARRIET WISEMAN ELLIOTT

Miss Harriet Wiseman Elliott, educator, political figure, and fighter for women's rights, has a life on which she can look with pride. In her early history, she was greatly interested in woman suffrage and organized the first woman's suffrage group in North Carolina. Believing then that women should have "responsible freedom," she has been guided by this phrase; it has been the "symbol of her relationship" with the students at the Woman's college, where she has been as professor of political science since 1913 and as dean of women since 1935.

In May of 1940 Miss Elliott was asked by President Roosevelt to serve as consumer commissioner on his National Defense Commission. Planning national defense in terms of "human values," she strove to maintain and strengthen living conditions. "She gives us butter with our guns," is the way one person expressed the significance of her work. As the only woman member of this commission, Miss Elliott was the exemplification of her own statement: "For the first time in history women today are equally important with men, not only in a crisis, but in all the affairs of the nation."

Miss Elliott is more than a professor of political science, more than a dean of women—she is an established institution, and her motto "responsible freedom for women," will live in the hearts of us, the students, down through the years. We shall always feel the influence of one of the great women of our times.

THE RESIDENCE HALLS — 1942

Through aid of the Legislature and the citizens of Greensboro, the first building that served as a dormitory at Woman's College was erected between Administration and McIver Buildings. Though the hall was never named, it possessed such character that it became universally known as "Old Brick". "Old Brick" was burned, but in its place we now have fifteen large dormitories which stand as tangible evidence of the growth of our college.

KIRKLAND HALL

MISS CHARLOTTE WILLIAMS, Counselor
NELL BAREFOOT, House President

Kirkland Hall, built in 1912, was named for Miss Mary Sue Kirkland, the first woman principal of the college. Kirkland has special historical interest as for many years it housed the student publication offices in its basement.

WOMAN'S HALL

MISS MARY PARKER, Counselor
POLLY CREECH, House President

Woman's Hall, completed in 1912, was dedicated by the General Assembly of North Carolina to the Women of the Confederacy. Miss Jamison became the first counselor when she accepted the invitation of the seniors, who moved in, to come and live with them.

ANNA HOWARD SHAW HALL

MISS GENEVIEVE WALBERG, Counselor
SIDNEY ANNE TOOLY, House President

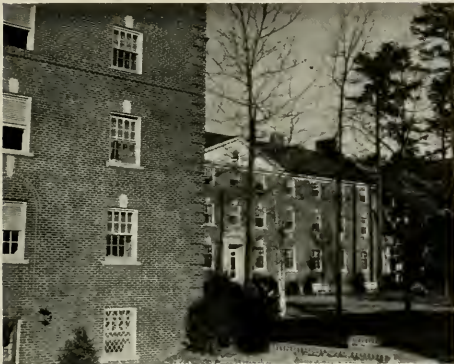

When Anna Howard Shaw Hall was erected in 1920 the students unanimously desired that the building be named for Anna Howard Shaw. It was their wish that the character of Anna Howard Shaw prevail over "Shaw."

NORTH SPENCER HALL

MISS NANCY DUKE LEWIS, Counselor
JEAN GRANTHAM, House President

North Spencer Hall, built in 1904, is one of the oldest dormitories on campus, and yet it is one of the most modern as its renovation has been recent enough to be remembered by the graduating class of 1942.

MARTHA WINFIELD HALL

MRS. DOROTHY RICE YOUNG, Counselor
ELISE BOGER, House President

Miss Martha Winfield, for many years a professor at the college, left an endowment which made possible the construction of Martha Winfield Hall in 1939, formerly known as "New A," and popularly called "The Country Club."

MINA WEIL HALL

MISS KATHERINE TAYLOR, Counselor
BLANCHE WOOLARD, House President

Mina Weil Hall, connected to Martha Winfield Hall, is also the result of a gift, given in honor of Mrs. Mina Weil, grandmother of Joan Bluethenthal of the class of 1941. Joan roomed in it as "New B" when it, too, was constructed in 1939.

NEW GUILFORD HALL

MISS EVELYN MARTIN, Counselor
PEGGY PLUMMER, House President

New Guilford Hall, built in 1927, is a duplicate of Mary Foust Hall. Everyone so cherished the memory of Old Guilford that the new building was automatically named for the old one, which now houses the Department of Public Relations.

MARY FOUST HALL

MRS. ANNIE BEAM FUNDERBURK, Counselor
 MAE DUCKWORTH, House President

Mary Foust Hall, constructed in 1927, was named by the alumnae of the college in memory of the daughter of President Emeritus Foust. Although a twin building, Mary Foust is distinctive with Mrs. Funderburk's well kept garden adding to its beauty.

JAMISON HALL

MISS CLARA GIESE, Counselor
 MARY JO RENDLEMAN, House President

Jamison Hall, built in 1923, completed the quadrangle buildings. The alumnae thought it fitting that "East" and "West," by which the two last constructed quadrangle buildings were known, should be named for Miss Laura Coit and Miss Minnie Jamison.

HINSHAW HALL

MISS MARTHA E. HATHAWAY, Counselor
 DOROTHY ODUM, House President

Hinshaw Hall, built in 1922, and named for Colonel G. W. Hinshaw, a member of the Board of Trustees of the College from 1910-1918, is the hall with which we associate the one year commercial students.

SOUTH SPENCER HALL

MRS. MARGUERITE C. OGDEN, Counselor
 FRANCES HENRY, House President

South Spencer Hall was completed in 1904. Its importance not only for being one of the largest and oldest dormitories on campus, but for the fact that it houses the Religious Activities Center and the famous game room.

LAURA COIT HALL

MISS IONE H. GROGAN, Counselor
HELEN TANNER, House President

In 1923 Laura Coit Hall was erected among its sister dormitories in the quadrangle and was named for Miss Laura Coit, secretary of the College. Pictured from the back, here the familiar terrace, a characteristic of all the quadrangle buildings, may be seen.

COTTEN HALL

MRS. ANNE FULTON CARTER, Counselor
DELICE YOUNG, House President

After the last war, money was plentiful and certainly not unwisely spent when Cotten Hall Southhall Cotten, this quadrangle hall was a popular hall for seniors until in 1939 all quadrangle buildings were assigned to freshmen.

GRAY HALL

MRS. ETHEL HASKIN HUNTER, Counselor
GRACE SLOCUM, House President

In 1921 Gray Hall was named for Mr. Robert T. Gray, a member of the Board of Trustees of the College from 1900-1912. Gray Hall is distinguished by being the first building erected among those which form the quadrangle.

BAILEY HALL

MISS REBECCA COLE, Counselor
PHYLLIS CROOKS, House President

Bailey Hall, erected in 1922, was named for Mr. T. B. Bailey, a member of the Board of Trustees of the College from 1902-1916. Mr. Bailey, one of the college's most loyal friends, devoted much of his life toward its growth and upbuilding.

MARY EPPES, President

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

GLADYS SESSOMS, Secretary
ROSE WILSON, Vice-President
REBECCA BEASLEY, Treasurer

Student government is not a mythical ideal but a true reality on our campus, and we are extremely proud of this fact since self-government gives us the valuable opportunity to experience the fellowship of living in a student democracy. This ideal which has become a reality had its beginning here in 1892 when our school was founded as the State Industrial School. Even then Dr Charles Duncan McIver laid great stress upon absolute democracy in every phase of college life and government. During those early years in the history of Woman's College there were few printed rules, and emphasis was placed upon self-government and individual responsibility. Permissions were given orally by the "lady principal," who would grant only such requests as were grammatically correct, and as she gave permission she criticized the student's dress and demeanor if she deemed such criticism necessary. Some time later general rules and a code of privileges were written out. The first effective formal attempt at student government operated through the societies, Adelpian and Cornelian, which were at this time the center of student life; and the chief marshal aided by the other officers took care of the cases of misconduct. Student government as we know it today began in 1914 when The Student Government Association was organized with Miss Gladys Avery (Mrs. Charles W Tillet of Charlotte) as its first president. The Association underwent re-organization in 1922 and again in 1930; the latter arrangements invested more power in the student body, gave more opportunity to initiate pieces of legislation, and made it possible for government duties to extend beyond mere disciplinary matters. Recent changes trend toward fewer rules and more individual responsibility. The keynote of our entire system is—to use the terminology of our Dean of Women, Miss Harriet Elliott—"responsible freedom" and since the girls understand and accept the responsibilities which privileges always entail, our system of student government is satisfactory and effective. Woman's College has a representative government truly "of the people, by the people, and for the people."

LEGISLATURE

The Legislature is presided over by the vice-president of student government and formerly was composed of student government officers, the president of the Town Student's Association, three members from each of the classes, and three faculty members. This year, to keep pace with the increase in the size of our student body, the number of members in legislature was increased from thirty-five to fifty. This was done following a recommendation by legislature to the students at mass meeting. The fifteen additional girls represent residence halls and furnish legislature with a true cross-section of the college.

At present, legislature is most concerned over the elections system here at W.C. A more adequate plan is being worked out which, it is hoped, will arouse greater student interest in campus elections.

JUDICIAL BOARD

The place of the Judicial Board in the conception and organization of Student Government on this campus is that of a court of last resort. The president of Student Government is empowered to choose the eight members who with her constitute this body, four from the Senior class and four from the Junior class.

For a long time the Judicial Board tried all offenses, but several years ago the system was enlarged and a Hall Board set up in each dormitory. One member of the Judicial Board sits with each Hall Board both to give advice and also to assist in working out some uniformity in procedure and in punishment.

The purpose always is to make the erring student understand the rules and appreciate the fact that they are made both for her protection and for the protection of the College.

FINANCE BOARD

Established several years ago after the last depression for the purpose of giving students representation and responsibility in the handling of student activity funds, this body holds an important position in the college set up. The board is composed of four student members and three faculty members, a senior student acting as chairman. The purpose of the board is to maintain a sound financial basis for student organizations on the campus and encourage accurate and careful handling of all student funds. In carrying out this purpose we find in the Finance Board one of the most active and successful examples of cooperation between students and faculty on campus.

HONOR BOARD

The Honor Board is composed of the president of student government, three student members appointed by the president from the Judicial Board, and three faculty members appointed by the Dean of Administration. This board was organized several years ago to deal with cases of academic dishonesty. Such cases rarely arise, but the board exists in the event that they should. If the proposed honor system is adopted, the question of the continued existence of the Honor Board becomes pertinent, it will either be dissolved or its function will be modified in some way. As the functions of our organizations change, so we see progress in the development in our school.

TOWN STUDENT'S JUDICIAL BOARD

TOWN STUDENT'S ASSOCIATION

The Town Student's organization was founded around 1911 by Miss Minnie Jamison, volunteer adviser. The goal of the group was closer town student-campus student relations, closer cooperation with the student government organization, and social life for town girls themselves.

Loosely organized at first, the fifty members met with Miss Jamison and their president, the only officer, in the study and social room which is now the college post office. Since then, town students have had several advisers, Miss Jane Summerell and Miss Gladys Draper among them.

Today, with Miss Viva Playfoot and Miss Frances Daniel as advisers, the Town Student's Association has a membership of two hundred and seventy-five students, three officers and a judicial board, a convenient, comfortable recreation room, and a definite part in campus life. The purpose remains much the same, as the activities of the organization indicate. A social program has been instigated to improve campus-town student relations. Town students are cooperating in Student Government activities, this year especially in the campus defense program.

In thirty years the purpose has changed little, but the Town Student's Association has grown five-fold.

JANICE HOOKE, Secretary-Treasurer
DOROTHY HENDRIX, Vice-President

SENIOR CLASS

Swiftly the days of our college career have flown, and as we stand at the brink of graduation in the year of the 50th anniversary of the college, we pause for a moment to reflect the picture of our activities which began when we put foot on campus in the fall of 1938.

To lead our class through the first eventful year, we elected as president Charlotte Moseley, vice-president Mary Eppes, secretary Frances Henning, and treasurer Polly Sattler. Miss Emily Watkins of the mathematics department was presented to us as our class chairman, and it was to her that we as freshmen turned in moments of difficulty and indecision.

Officers of our sophomore class were Mary Eppes, president; Sue Murchison, vice-president; Blanche Woolard, secretary; and Peggy Plummer, treasurer. Outstanding work in the "Y" was already being done by Marjorie Sullivan, Mae Duckworth, Jessie Brunt, Georgie Bell, Jo Howard, Nancy Ferguson, Sara Jane Hunter, Esther Bennett, Julia Davis, Margaret Little, and Lulu Hinton. In dramatics, Catherine Hilderman had made her successful and startling debut, and Petie Roberts and Dorothy Mansfield had major parts in Playlikers productions.

Junior year found us with Polly Sattler, as president; Mae Duckworth, vice-president; Dorothy Miller, treasurer; and Georgie Bell, secretary. Well representing the class were twelve lovely girls who had been chosen as marshals, and juniors were busy in all the varied activities on campus.

Class officers for this last year are Sue Murchison, president; Neita Allan, vice-president; Isabel Edmunds, secretary; Ruth Rhyne, treasurer; and Judy Barrett, cheer leader. As seniors we head all important offices on the campus, and it is to us now that freshmen turn when seeking advice. But it is with difficulty and sorrow that we say "Farewell to dear old W. C. of U. N. C.—Our praise for you will never, never end!"

SENIOR

The final year of College for a "dignified Senior" is filled with thrilling experiences. Not until well into first semester when she sits in the best chapel seats and when she uses her "Senior privilege" of going away for a week-end without permission from home does she realize that she has at last reached the enviable position of a Senior.

Traditionally in the fall there are: election of the eight outstanding seniors; Founder's Day, at which time everyone honors our founder by wearing white; and the Senior dance which is the first formal of the year, and the supreme social event of first semester for the Seniors. The end seems nearer when Mr. Phillips talks to the Class about the prospects of obtaining jobs for the coming year.

The Senior Unmusical, given in the spring in Chapel, is a good-natured take-off on the College Faculty who accept imitations of themselves graciously.

The Class is royally entertained by the Alumnae Association at a reception and by the Junior Class at a formal dance. The Seniors in return present the May Day pageant. Seniors are all-important on Senior Day when they wear caps and gowns to chapel, and at "Moving-up" ceremony of the last Mass Meeting. The

TRADITIONS

Seniors are excused and the Juniors fill their places, with the Sophomores and Freshmen moving up also.

Our four year College career is culminated in the graduation exercises. Always on Friday night before Commencement comes the Senior Ball; Saturday afternoon, Class Day on front campus at which time each department is represented by its outstanding Senior; the same evening a Playlaker performance for the class and parents. On Saturday, at midnight, the Class holds its last meeting. The Everlasting Class officers are installed, and girls who are planning to be married soon announce it by "running around the table". The Baccalaureate Sermon is given on Sunday morning and on Monday come the final commencement exercises, with one girl elected from the class making the main address.

Only after the excitement of graduation week is over and the Seniors have left Greensboro for the last time does the realization come that college days are really over. Then, although they are happy with thoughts of the new job ahead, there is a feeling of sadness in the heart of each that the long awaited event is over.

JUNIOR CLASS

Traditionally, the Junior Class is "big sister" to the incoming Freshman Class, and therefore the first activities of the Class of '43 centered around the freshmen. They were welcomed and capably directed during the first week of college by members of the class who were known as junior advisers and who were supervised by Martha Kirkland. They were entertained with a fashion show staged by Anna Rosa and Martha, and a little later the Junior-Freshman wedding occurred. This was a beautiful ceremony, and much credit is due Eloise Rankin for its success. It had all the color of a true wedding with the exception of the fashionable uniform most of the bridegrooms are wearing this season.

Another thing which has become traditional with the Junior Class is the Junior Shop. Members of the class give a little of their time each week to working in the shop. The profits are used for various class activities, and as a result of the able management of Sally Warwick and Harriet Kupferer the class this year did a good deal more than make both ends meet.

Persis Bennet was an efficient ring chairman, and when the rings arrived they were just as attractive as we had imagined they would be.

At the annual Junior Formal, which this year was a Snow Ball on the thirteenth of December, Ann Hardison, dance chairman, proved herself to be a lovely snow queen, and all her subjects were royally entertained.

When spring came around we began to think of two things: a non-cutting campus campaign which was sponsored by the class and conducted by Ruth Cash and Ruth Porter, and Junior-Senior which was held in April. Betty Johnson, dance chairman, and her assistants made it not only a success but a memorable one.

The Juniors' year is not complete until they go up to take the Seniors' places in Aycock at the last mass meeting. It was sad, but that long awaited moment of being recognized as a dignified Senior was glorious—even with tears.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

The Class of 1944 this year has been one of the most active sophomore classes in the history of the college carrying through traditional sophomore customs as well as in broadening its activities. Under the leadership of Miss Vera Largent as class chairman, the class has exhibited an unusual progressive and cooperative spirit.

The most important project has been the beautification of the hill above the campus lake. This project was begun last spring and has been successfully continued under the direction of Mr. E. H. Hall, Mary Rankin McKethan, and her committee. The area has been surveyed, plans outlined for improvements, and several hundred iris and jonquil bulbs have been contributed and planted by members of the class.

Following tradition, the class sponsored a University sermon in November which was one of the best attended of these services ever given, and in December the Christmas pageant—a mystery play from the York Cycle—was produced, directed by May March. The class also planted in the lake area a handsome young hemlock, hoping to set a Christmas custom for future sophomores.

An unusual project has been a Personal Pride Campaign—headed by Virginia Shield and Betty Hornaday—with an emphasis on personal neatness of students on and off campus. The Sophomore Council, which was composed of a representative from each hall with Vice-President Mary King as chairman, has handled class publicity.

Traditional class jackets arrived before spring holidays, Alison Rice was chairman of the committee which chose a well-cut, man-tailored coat of white flannel.

FRESHMEN

With the opening of the school year, the class of 1945 took up its duties. The honor of representing the Freshman Class on Founders' Day was won by Dianne Page. A class motto and banner were chosen, and Cornelia Lowe was elected banner-bearer. June Balton, Anne Henning, and Elaine Simpson, together with a member from each Freshman residence hall, served in the Student Legislature.

The class owes the success of this year of beginnings to Martha Kirkland, Vice-President of the Junior Class, who has efficiently played her part of "The Big Sister" to the whole class. Helping her with plans for the first semester were members of the Freshman Commission who were: Martha Hipp, Camilla Griffin, Martha Pohl, Jean Holmes, Dorothy Gilmore, Hope Schilleter, Helen Phillips, Woody Hewitt, Carolyn Harward, Jean Johnson, and Marguerite Laing.

After the class song had been written and applauded enthusiastically by the student body at the second mass meeting, class officers were elected. Dianne Page was elected president; Jean Holmes, vice-president; Barbara Hicks, secretary; and Hope Schilleter, treasurer.

Throughout the year, the Freshmen cooperated fully in the National Defense program, not only being careful to observe the necessary restrictions but also taking advantage of the courses offered by the Service League.

In April, the Freshmen sponsored the fourth University sermon of the year. The following month brought a long-awaited event, the Freshman Dance, a fitting climax to a happy, busy year.

In this fiftieth anniversary year of the college, this year's freshman class has been able to catch the spirit of Woman's College perhaps more quickly than any other class as love and pride of the institution have been to the fore more than ever throughout this year in the celebration of the progress we have made.

The Commercial Department of Woman's College began with the founding of the college in 1892. Only four courses of study were offered to the commercial students when the department was first organized. The course in this department has developed along with the rest of the school, and there is now a special dormitory for the students who are taking this course. In contrast to the first commercial class, which was made up of only five students, the present commercial class has over a hundred students enrolled in it.

Today, as in previous war times, the department is lending its services to the government by adding extra courses to meet the large demands of the government for secretaries. One of its chief contributions to this timely cause was the presentation of a defense bond to the school.

Accuracy, efficiency, and cooperation have been the standards of the commercial classes throughout the history of Woman's College.

The work of this department goes back to the founding of the college when Miss Dixie Lee Bryant, now residing in Asheville, gave instruction in this subject. She was succeeded by Dr. T. Gilbert Pearson who has long been eminent as an ornithologist and as president of the National Audubon Societies.

In 1905, a new impetus was given this work in the coming of Dr. Eugene Willis Gudger who soon established excellent courses, teaching first in the "Main" Building and then in the newly-erected McIver Building. During his fifteen years of work here, Dr. Gudger developed high reputation as a teacher and also published many papers in the study of fishes, in which field he is now eminent.

With the World War over, the department shared in the large plans for the College envisioned by President Emeritus Foust. In the fall of 1920, Professor John Paul Givler became head of the department which, with greatly enlarged College enrollment, soon developed along several coordinate lines. On the plan of departmental divisions, instruction was provided in General Biology, and also in the special fields of Botany, Zoology, Physiology, and Bacteriology.

Three student clubs—The Botany Club, The Zoology Field Club, and The Medical Technologist's Club—are now in active operation. The department has a seaside laboratory at Beaufort, North Carolina, where summer courses in marine zoology are given by Dr. Archie D. Shaftesbury.

From these many years of effort, by teachers in diverse fields, the broadly cultural influence of biological science has been extended to some thousands of students. Likewise, professionally, a sizable group of well-trained women scientists—teachers, technicians, research-workers—has been produced by this department of their Alma Mater.

HOME ECONOMICS

When the Home Economics Department had its beginning with the founding of the State Normal and Industrial School in 1892, every student was required to take Home Economics.

This department was located in one room in the Administration building when it was first organized. There was very little equipment and this was quite inadequate. When Student's Building was built in 1904, the Home Economics Department was moved into the basement of it.

Miss Edith A. McIntyre was the first head of the Home Economics Department, then called the Domestic Science Department. Miss McIntyre was head of the department until Miss Minnie Jamison took charge of it in 1896. She remained head of the department until she was succeeded by Miss Blanche Shaffer. Miss Margaret Messenger Edwards became head of the department in 1932 and is the present head of the Home Economics Department.

The present Home Economics Building was built in 1927 and contains classrooms, laboratories, nursery school rooms, and other rooms which are essential to a good Home Economics Department.

In 1921, the first Home Management House of the Home Economics Department was built. It is furnished and equipped for the use of the Home Economics seniors who are supervised and directed in learning how to conduct the activities of a home.

In 1941, the Home Economics Department had grown to such an extent that it was necessary to have an additional Home Management House so another house was furnished for the purpose of training girls.

When Home Economics was first taught here, there were only a few things taught. Cutting and fitting, sewing, cooking, care of the sick, and general household economy were the only courses offered. These courses have expanded with the growth of the field until there are now many courses making up the curricula of this department.

Besides a large curricula, the department has three active student organizations.

The Home Economics Club, the largest of these organizations had as its theme this year, "Home Economics for Security." Each of the monthly club meetings is centered around this theme—what home economists can do for the protection and conservation and defense of the nation.

Continued

The purpose of the club is to arouse interest in this field, to develop an appreciation of homemaking, and to bring students together through social contacts

The Home Economics Honor Society was established at Woman's College four years ago for the purpose of recognizing and encouraging outstanding scholarship and leadership among the Home Economics students. Membership in this society is the highest scholastic honor which can be given a Home Economics student at Woman's College.

The goal of this society is to be granted membership in a national Home Economics honor organization. It is the hope of this group that this membership will be granted during this Fiftieth Anniversary Year.

The girls in the 4-H Club have been 4-H members since childhood and find it interesting to continue fun and development under the 4-H code in college. Their highlight of the year is the week-end of the Tri-State Collegiate 4-H Club Conference at Camp Long, South Carolina, and there is the annual recreational meeting held at Woman's College of all the Collegiate 4-H Clubs in North Carolina.

The Home Economics Honor Society this year received membership as the Alpha Kappa Chapter of Omicron Nu, National Home Economics Honorary Sorority. Official installation was in May, 1942.

HEALTH

Organized at a time when most other colleges did not have such a service, the Health Department of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina is indicative of the early pioneering spirit of our college. From the foundations laid by Dr. Marion Bitting and Dr. Anna Gove and built upon by Dr. Ruth Collings has grown a department so large that it was necessary to create the present Hygiene division, as a separate department. This department is ably directed by Dr. Victorio Carlsson and her colleagues, Miss Anne Shamburger and Miss Mildred Harris.

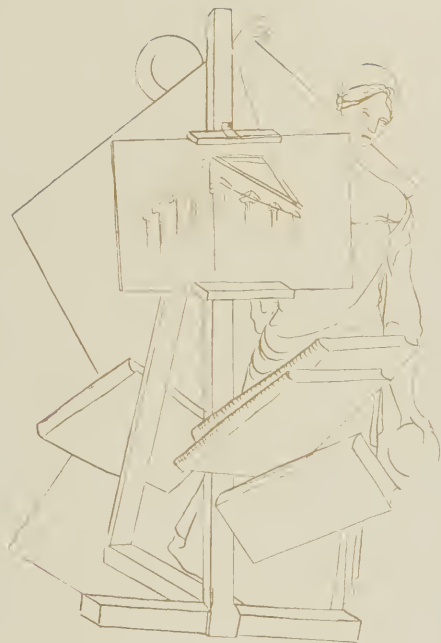

As landmarks of the progress of our Health Department stand the Administration Building, where our health service began in one small office; Little Guilford, our first College Infirmary, and the present Infirmary, the culmination of the campus health movement throughout fifty years.

For the defense of our country, Woman's College has incorporated within its health service courses in first aid, child care, home nursing, and also open forum discussions on vital health problems. In its emphasis on prevention of disease through knowledge, the Health Department is preparing a future in which sound bodies and healthy minds will be more necessary than ever before.

ART

MR. GREGORY D. IVY
Head of Art Department

ALLENE ROSE
President of Art Club

The Art Department is one of the youngest and most active departments on the campus. There were a few courses in art when the college was founded, but the Art Department was not given a place of any importance, since art was considered to be an impractical subject. Later there were courses in art appreciation, costume, and home furnishing under the Home Economics Department.

The present department owes its existence to the dreams and perseverance of Mrs. Elizabeth McIver Weatherspoon, and to the fact that ninety per cent of the alumnae said, in answering a questionnaire sent out by the Dean of Administration, that they believed the greatest single need of the college was an Art Department. It was established in 1935 with Mr. Gregory D. Ivy as its head and chief organizer. Mrs. Weatherspoon was transferred from the Education Department and Miss Peterson from the Home Economics Department. Classes were held in the Music Building, Home Economics Building, and Curry. There were two people in the first graduating class in 1937; this year, 1942, there will be nineteen.

In 1938, the summer course at Beaufort was first offered, and its enrollment has grown from fourteen to twenty-six.

Only very recently, in the fall of 1941, was the department moved to its present location in McIver Building. There are now seven studios, a lecture room, a reference room, six offices, and the Weatherspoon Gallery, named in honor of Mrs. Elizabeth Weatherspoon. The faculty staff is now composed of eight members, each of whom is well-qualified in his special field. The curriculum includes courses in drawing, painting, costume design, interior design, textile design, advertising, modelling, and sculpture, as well as art appreciation, art history, and art education. This is the only school in the state where a student may specialize in any phase of art work.

Perhaps the most important achievement of the department has been its success in developing appreciation of art by the general public. This has been accomplished by the frequent exhibitions in Weatherspoon Gallery. The department has also been influential in stimulating student art work throughout the state by means of the annual State School Art Exhibitions, to which work from any school in the state—first grade through college—is submitted, judged, and exhibited. These exhibitions were started in 1937.

The Art Club was formed in 1937 by students and meets once a month. It has an enrollment of about thirty members, all of whom are Art majors.

CLASSICAL CIVILIZATION

When the College was founded, it was taken for granted that Latin would play its part in the training of the young women of the day. Constantly through the years many of the best minds of each college generation have sought to gain perspective upon their present problems by studying the Classics. It is in this respect, perhaps, that Latin and Greek have best contributed to the education of the college bred man and woman. In the pages of the Greek and Latin writers, the student sees the destiny of some person similar to himself worked out to the end, the mistakes or triumphs of character are here to be seen from their inception to the last ringing down of the curtain. Nations and cultures rise from their painful beginnings, march to their powerful destinies, and then leave their lesson of good or evil for the student of today.

In 1935, the department of Classics was reorganized and a full four-year major in Greek language and literature was added to the curriculum. Woman's College thus continued its efforts to maintain a high intellectual standard along with the best institutions in the country. Three years later, in 1938, the Classical Club was founded. This Club is made up of students who have made marks of B, or better, in Greek or Latin. Since membership is distinctly honorary and in no sense compulsory, the Club has enjoyed a degree of success rare among student clubs. In its monthly meetings, the students themselves present papers on some topic relating to classical literature.

The study of the Greek and Latin civilizations should play a tremendously important role in the present time of defense. Since the world is entering another period of chaotic morality and questionable culture, it needs the stabilizing influence of lessons from the past. And if woman is to play the most important role she has ever played in the history of civilization, the holding to a high cultural and moral standard, she must be educated in terms of the past as well as of the present.

ENGLISH

With the opening of the college in the fall of 1892, Dr. Edwin Alderman was head of the department of English for that school year, leaving to become president of the University of North Carolina. Succeeding him and directing the department until 1901 was Dr. James Yarkin Joyner; and following Dr. Joyner, Dr. W. C. Smith directed the policies until his retirement in June, 1940.

During these first fifty years of the college, the curriculum in the English department has expanded so that there have been special studies in every period of English literature. In the early years no American literature or creative writing was taught, however, and it was not until the arrival of Mr. A. C. Hall in 1916 that these courses were introduced into the curriculum. Mr. Hall was chairman of the debating club, which later became known as Speakers Club, and of the creative writing club, which now is designated the Quill Club. It was out of his short story class that the idea of a college paper was conceived, and as a result the CAROLINIAN was born.

With the retirement of Dr. Smith as head in 1940, an administrative committee composed of Dr. L. B. Hurley, Miss Jane Summerell, and Mr. George Wilson directed the department for the year 1940-41. A new head of the department was ushered in with the fiftieth anniversary year. Dr. Winfield Rogers, formerly at Western Reserve University, has brought with him revolutionary ideas, and, with the help of other members of the English department, has worked out a program which will change the previous concept of the purpose of teaching English and English and American literature. Since Dr. Rogers' arrival, the courses within the department have been more closely correlated, and sequences have been arranged so that a student can major in English with special emphasis upon any one of the following: English literature, American literature and civilization, writing and language, or drama and the theatre. Of course, there are basic requirements for an English major in the curriculum; however, it is arranged so that a student can follow her own inclination in any one of these directions.

In order to enrich a student's work in English, less time has been devoted to literary history and more emphasis, all through from sophomore English particularly to the end of the senior work, has been given to the study of the literature itself and of its cultural and thought values.

During 1941-42, the idea of the course which leads directly to the comprehensive examination in English, has been greatly modified to serve more specifically the purposes of the comprehensive examination. This course is not, therefore, mainly another in English, but is a course designed to round out an English major's studies in the field of English and American literature.

Another new policy which will be initiated next year is that every member of the English department will teach a section of freshmen. The size of the classes will be reduced not only in freshmen but also in sophomore English in order that better results will be produced. In particular courses, such as sophomore English, the survey idea will be replaced by studies of some fifteen authors during the entire year with greater emphasis on the student's actual interpretation and with more oral and written self-expression on the part of the student. Thus the English department moves forward in the spirit of progress that has always typified Woman's College

ROMANCE LANGUAGES

W. S. BARNEY
Head of Romance Language Department

The Department of Romance Languages at Woman's College really started with the institution in the form of a three-year course in French described in the first catalog as part of the offerings of the Department of Ancient and Modern Languages, for many years under the guidance of Miss Viola Boddie. In 1894, French became a four-year course for those choosing it as their foreign language.

In 1898, apparently under the influence of the Spanish-American War, a three-year Spanish course was adopted, to be dropped from the catalog after seven years. In 1915, Spanish reappeared as a one-year course offered to juniors and seniors. Italian was first offered in 1920. Aside from its general cultural value it is required of voice students.

The French Club as now constituted was organized in 1920 in order to give students of the language greater opportunity to hear and practice spoken French and to become acquainted with the manners and customs of the French people through songs, games, plays, and talks in French.

The Spanish Club was founded along somewhat similar lines in 1922. On December 11, 1941, it was admitted as a chapter of the National Spanish honor society of Sigma Delta Pi.

Sometimes these clubs have entertained natives of the respective countries. From time to time students from these countries become members and add much to the interest of the programs. World figures, such as Andre Maurois, famous French novelist and critic of English literature, and Salvador de Madariaga of Spain, former secretary of the League of Nations, have addressed the French or Spanish Club and been entertained by the members.

As the years have passed, the courses in romance literatures have expanded, conversation has received special attention, and aims and emphasis have been readjusted according to the growth of the College, the preparation and needs of the students, and changes in the fields of usefulness. The majority of these would fall under literary, conversational and pedagogical classification. At present there are thirteen faculty members in the department, three of whom also fill other college positions. Most of the history of the Department lies in the administration of three heads: Miss Viola Boddie to about 1900; Miss Linda Teague Hill, 1908-1918; Dr. W. S. Barney, 1919 to the present.

The Department outside of its regular college work of helping to prepare teachers, scholars, and informed citizens has been active in educational associations and has been influential in founding State Modern Language Associations, now a section of the North Carolina Education Association, and one of the few associations to be affiliated with the National Federation of Modern Language Teachers. The South Atlantic Modern Language Association also was promoted from this Department.

During the last few years the French Service Bureau sponsored by the State chapter of the American Association of Teachers of French has been operated by the Department for the benefit of the French teachers of the state particularly, but also available to others.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

When the college was established, courses in Music were taught mainly as assets to other courses which led to degrees. However, the growing need for music teachers in the state necessitated more extensive training in this field. Consequently, in 1903, it was decided to offer courses leading to the degree of Bachelor of Music. The department broadened, but it was without a home—practice rooms and studios were scattered all over the campus. The need of a building to house the department was ever increasing, and fervent attempts were made to obtain it. Finally, this building was granted and in the summer of 1925 the existing music building was completed. Since that time, the school of music has grown rapidly and today it is one of the outstanding departments of the College. To Dean Wade R. Brown, who was head of the department until 1936, is due considerable amount of praise and credit for its progress. Since 1936, Dean Hugh Altvater has carried on the duties of the office and the department embraces twelve other members. Contributing to this progress have been the various music organizations which have become quite active and more definite as to purpose during the last few years.

One of the first clubs formed was the Phoenix Club. It was the only singing organization on the campus made up of students. Each year the group presented a program for the public. Then, in 1927, the name was changed to Madrigal Club, and, in 1941, to Music Education Club. It is now made up of students majoring or minoring in music education and its purposes are to stimulate professional interest in music education among those majoring in the field, provide an opportunity for better understanding among its members, and to promote the love of music among the students of the college and community at large.

In 1936 Dean Altvater, having realized the need of an organized group of wind players on campus, called Mr. Herbert Hazelman in for part time in forming a band. In 1937, Mr. George Henry took over the band with sixteen members who gave their first performance in the spring of that year. Since that time, the band has grown to a membership of sixty, playing for gym week, Sports' Day, Greater University Day, and other important occasions.

The Glee Club was organized in 1937 with twenty-five voice majors and Mr. Paul Oncley as director. The club now has thirty-six members and it serves as a laboratory for the voice department where experiments to develop musicianship are carried on as a benefit to its members.

Formed in 1937 as an ambitious group of string players, the Greensboro orchestra has advanced steadily with the addition of woodwind and bass choirs to a full orchestra of sixty-three players, the majority being drawn from the college and the city schools. Under the direction of Dean Altwater, this organization gives public concerts each year and plays for many activities.

On April 30, 1940, Dean Frederick B. Stiven of the University of Illinois presented during chapel exercises a charter for a chapter of the national music fraternity, Pi Kappa Lambda. At the installation in the Alumni House, five faculty members and twenty former students were taken in. Dean Wade R. Brown was made an honorary member of the fraternity.

One of the most progressive organizations in music is the Young Composers' Club which was formed in 1940. Its purposes are to stimulate an in-

MISS CAROLINE B. SCHOCH
Head of German Department

The Department of German is as old as our college. During the year 1892-1893, Miss Gertrude Mendenhall taught German as well as Mathematics. From 1893-1895, Mr. P. P. Claxton had charge of Pedagogy and German. In 1895, German became a separate department under Miss Bertha M. Lee, a graduate of this college. From 1913 to 1918, Miss Christine Reindken was the department head, and since the fall of 1918 Miss Caroline B. Schoch has had charge of the Department of German.

Der Deutsche Verein has been, for the most part, "get-togethers" rather than an organized club. Programs of German music, commemorations of immortal persons, illustrated lectures and an annual unique "Weihnachtsfeier" form the basis of these gatherings.

PHILOSOPHY

The philosophy department of Woman's College came into existence in 1935. Philosophy was taught for the first four years by Dr. Kurt Rossinger who was succeeded in 1939 by Dr. John A. Clark

DR. EDGAR FRANKLIN WELLS
Head of Philosophy Department

Philosophy is being taught by Dr. E. F. Wells during Dr. Clark's year's leave of absence.

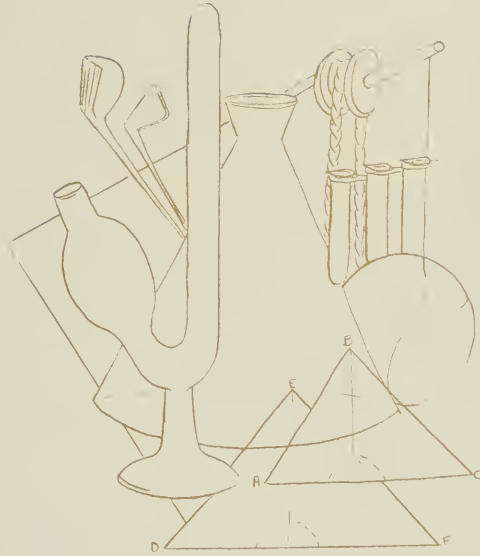

The purpose of the philosophy department is to offer courses in which students may find help in their efforts to solve some of life's problems—such as those of religion and ethics, and to give students a chance to get acquainted with the philosophical geniuses who have offered solutions to these problems in their various contributions to the world's cultural heritage.

PHYSICS

Realizing the cultural and technical value of knowledge concerning relationships in our physical world, Woman's College offered to its students a course in general physics as early as 1894. Since that time, physics have become increasingly significant as the expanding body of knowledge acquired by physicists has influenced both man's outlook, through its implications for philosophy, and his standard of living, through its industrial application. In accordance with these two aspects of the subject, the physics department has introduced courses to enrich the curriculum of both the science and the non-science student, and offers direct services to the college.

Head of Physics Department

In addition to offering the work necessary for a major in physics, the following courses are regularly given: general physics for the non-science student; X-ray technique for laboratory technicians and roentgenologists' assistants; amateur photography and advanced photography which may lead to professional work; meteorology and experimental physics, both of which have direct bearing on the present defense effort.

As direct service to the college proper, the Physics Department photographs all new students for the files of various offices, and operates an X-ray clinic for the college infirmary. It also contributes its services to the motion picture program which it was instrumental in establishing. Among its other activities is the Physics Club, composed of students of physics—past and present—which was organized in 1931. Formal organization of this group was dispensed with in 1941 and a seminar group was formed, which enlarges their own knowledge of physics through active program participation and experimental practice.

The Physics staff has as its own the motto of the college, "Service."

MATHEMATICS

The Mathematics department, too, is celebrating its fiftieth birthday along with the college. When the college opened its doors in 1892, there were but five departments exclusive of specialized fields, and mathematics was one of these. Miss Gertrude Mendenhall, a Quaker from Guilford county and a graduate of Wellesley College, was the first head of the department, and she remained in that capacity until her death in 1926.

In those early days, mathematics was required in each of the four years. It had been the purpose of the department from the early days to the present to train its students in accurate and logical thinking, as well as to develop some skill in the science itself.

It was in 1926 that the students organized a mathematics club, which then and now attempts to give to interested students an opportunity to explore the many bypaths of the subject for which there is no time in the classroom and to promote good fellowship among its members.

Although a number of the students specializing in mathematics have entered the teaching field and always will continue to do so, there are a goodly number to be found holding responsible positions in insurance companies, in banks, in various types of business offices, and with the federal government under Civil Service. The demand for young women trained in mathematics has grown tremendously since the outbreak of the war, and an increasing number of our graduates are to be found in this type of service to their country.

CHEMISTRY

The seekers of scientific facts through chemistry had the opportunity to pursue three courses—general chemistry, organic chemistry, and analytical chemistry—when the State Normal and Industrial School opened its doors for the first time in 1892. The head of the Science Department and its only instructor for that first crucial year was Dr. Dixie Lee Bryant. In the second year Miss Mary Petty augmented the staff and became head of the department; and that year marked the beginning of the Chemistry Department as a separate entity. Today the Chemistry Department of Woman's College offers thirteen courses under the supervision of eight instructors. During its fifty years of progress and development the department has had three heads; the present head of the department is Miss Florence L. Schaeffer, who succeeded Miss Petty in 1934.

McIver building had been the center of activity for Chemistry lectures and laboratories since its construction in 1908 until in 1939 the college obtained a long-needed science building. Located on College Avenue, the three story Georgian structure is one of the most beautiful buildings on our campus. Built at an estimated cost of $300,000 of which $30,000 was for equipment, the building provides the necessary space and makes available the most modern equipment for the Science Department. The Chemistry Department occupies the entire third floor; and the well-equipped laboratories make this floor the chemist's paradise. The preceding weeks before the occupation of the building in 1939 saw equipment being transferred from its long residence in McIver to its new home. Today no remnant of the Science Department in McIver exists—within its walls exists, perhaps, only the memories of by-gone years.

In order to give students the practical application of knowledge learned in their Chemistry courses the Chemistry Club was formed. Junior and senior majors and minors in Chemistry are automatically members of the club. Other members are freshmen and sophomores who average B or better in Chemistry. With Chemistry in the foreground today, the Chemistry Club has had the opportunity to discuss this year many vital problems as they followed the topic of "Chemistry and Defense." Among the subjects considered were poison gases, rubber, and nylon. Social gatherings have their part in the club's program also, and a Christmas party was one of the highlights of the year.

In 1938 the Medical Technologists Club was formed to give all students of advanced bacteriology the opportunity to investigate recent developments in this service and to gain a background in medical terminology. These aims are accomplished through monthly dinner meetings to which prominent doctors from Greensboro and out of town are invited to speak, and through monthly meetings at which pertinent scientific articles are presented by the members. The club has also shown a movie this year explaining the new X-ray technique. Members of the club find that these meetings afford them the opportunity to attain valuable background in medical terminology which will aid them in professional conversation.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

In less than twenty years, gymnasium suits have changed from the ancient and honorable black serge, with its perpetually stuffy smell, to the crisp abbreviated white tennis frock adopted by the college for the freshmen in 1940. Physical Education has travelled far in these twenty years and the change in objectives and procedures is just as marked as the contrast between the gymnasium suits of 1920 and 1940.

In the early years of the college, basketball, tennis, and hockey comprised the physical activity of the students. These games, with exercise classes in Spencer basement, were conducted in order to "keep the girls in good health." There was no actual department of physical education until 1921 when Miss Mary Channing Coleman came to the campus. Starting almost from scratch, she began her long-to-be remembered efforts towards building the department. During that same year an outdoor gym was completed and by 1924 Rosenthal Gymnasium was erected with an adequate swimming pool. Since that time, the department has developed rapidly under the stimulating, never-slackening leadership of Miss Coleman and today it is one of the most recognized physical education departments in the United States.

The chart by which the course is steered is mapped out by current educational philosophy and by student interpretation of this philosophy. The curriculum offers team games for their group-relationship values, and for the training they give in executive techniques. The student preferences are for golf, tennis, riding, swimming, and badminton, which are offered each semester. Social dancing, square dancing, and folk dancing are also popular with the students. The college is particularly proud of its work in the Modern Dance, as a creative art, and as a form of art appreciation. Students in this phase of the department work closely with the departments of Music and Art.

The professional course for training teachers of Physical Education continues to hold its high standards. Its background of sciences and of liberal arts and its emphasis on professional ethics are recognized in the acceptance of graduates from this college by college faculties. Twenty per cent of the 1941 Physical Education graduates went into college teaching positions.

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Head of Economics Department

ECONOMICS

For twenty-five years after the college was founded there was no recognition of Economics as a separate study. A little economics probably crept into discussions in History, in English, and perchance in the Sciences, but no formal course in the subject was offered.

During the second twenty-five years of the life of the college, Economics has steadily moved ahead. At first a single course in Elementary Economics was offered by the department of History. Later a separate department of Sociology and Economics was created. Still later, Economics was separated from Sociology and became an independent department. This life history has been paralleled in many colleges throughout America. As the importance of economic problems in the nations and in the world has been recognized, the study of Economics has come to the front

In a woman's college Economics is generally not a popular field of study. It sounds hard. Inquiry reveals that it deals with business, with corporations, with money, and with other things traditionally associated with man's world. Young women tend to shy away from these "practical" matters. That attitude is changing, however. Since women are nowadays expected to earn their own living in the "practical" world for a few years at least, they are taking a greater interest in preparing for such a career. They are finding Economics a helpful study in preparation for their life's work. Added to this somewhat selfish reason for studying economics, there has been a growing recognition that the crises and problems vexing modern civilization are largely, though by no means entirely, economic in their fundamental nature. Women are realizing therefore, that intelligent citizenship demands some acquaintance with economics. Consequently the past decade has shown evidence of a steadily growing interest among young women in this field of learning

It is unlikely that the events of December 7, 1942 at Pearl Harbor will change the direction of this trend of interest. On the contrary, those events may be expected to quicken women's, as well as others', interest in economics

The department of Economics does not believe it desirable, and so has not initiated any courses designed especially to prepare students for war work in this field. However, as a stimulus to interest in national economic problems, the Department will conduct two of the student Service League Forums. The first of these deals with "Inter-American Economic Relationships" and the second with "Inflation." The Forums are planned with an eye to students whose regular college courses lie outside the field of economics.

EDUCATION

The history of the Department of Pedagogy, later changed to the Department of Education, parallels the history of the college itself, the first head of the department being no less a person than the first president, Dr. Charles Duncan McIver. He was followed in 1893 by Dr. P. P. Claxton, who later became better known as United States Commissioner of Education.

From 1902 to 1906 the catalogues list Julius I. Foust as head of the Department of Pedagogy and dean of the college. When Dr. Foust became president in 1906, he was succeeded by J. A. Matheson, who became dean of the college. A new degree, Bachelor of Pedagogy, was offered to majors in education.

Following Mr. Matheson from 1913-1917 were Dr. Charles H. Elliott and Dr. John A. Lesh. In 1918 Dr. John H. Cook became the new head, and under Dr. Cook there was rapid growth and expansion. Soon the catalogue listed Dr. Cook as Dean of the School of Education and Director of the Summer Session. This statement appears in the catalogue of 1918-1919: "Professional courses are offered to prepare specifically for the following positions: high school teachers, high school principals, primary, intermediate and grammar grade teachers and supervisors, principals of graded and consolidated schools, rural teachers and supervisors." The master's degree was conferred upon a few.

When the college became a part of the University of North Carolina, the School of Education was changed to a Department of Education giving the professional courses required for certification of elementary and high school teachers of North Carolina.

Upon the death of Dr. Cook in 1941, Dr. Franklin H. McNutt became head of the Department of Education of this college, with the further title of Associate Dean of the Graduate School of the University of North Carolina. The Fiftieth Anniversary catalogue will record the fact that in addition to the preparation of high school and elementary teachers on the undergraduate level, a major in elementary education on the graduate level has been allocated to the Woman's College.

In connection with this department there is an Education Club, which was organized October 10, 1921, by Dr. Cook. He and the other members of the Education faculty felt it would be beneficial for the largest group in college with a mutual interest to form a club. The club, composed of seniors doing student teaching and the Education faculty, has for its aims the fostering of interest and pride in teaching as a profession, becoming acquainted with educational problems and conditions in North Carolina, and the enjoyment of social occasions among students, faculty, and leaders of the state.

HISTORY

DR. BENJAMIN B. KENDRICK
Head of History Department

Although the Woman's College has a history extending over a period of fifty years, "History" as a department is not very old. From 1892 to 1909, a little history was taught as a side-line in the Department of English. Also in the Department of Education, courses in the history of Education were offered. Then, in 1909, Walter Clinton Jackson, now Dean of Administration, was brought to the college as Professor of History and made chairman of a distinct history department. From that time on, the new department grew rapidly, both in numbers of students and teachers, and in broadening the scope of its activities. In 1913, Miss Harriet Elliott, now Dean of Students, was employed as Professor of History and Political Science. From the beginning her principal interest was in the latter field, and in a short while she was devoting all her time to courses in Government.

During the decade of 1913-1923, Dr. Jackson also added to the department courses in economics and sociology to such an extent that eventually the Department of Social Science became a reality. As such, this continued until 1935 when Economics and Sociology were made into separate departments under the able direction of Professors Keister and Johnson, respectively.

Meanwhile Dr. Kendrick, who had come to the college from Columbia University in 1923 as Professor of History, had been made Chairman of the Department of History and Political Science, when Dr. Jackson went to Chapel Hill as Dean of the School of Public Administration.

At present the faculty of the Department of History consists of thirteen members of whom three devote part of their time to the performance of other functions.

The International Relations Club is closely affiliated with the Department, Miss Magnhilde Gullander being its faculty adviser. There is also an American History Club which meets informally for the discussion of topics of special interest to students of American History.

Each year about fifteen students major in History and Political Science. Usually a majority of these are preparing to teach in high schools, but some are preparing themselves for professional careers in law, library science, journalism, or graduate work in history.

The Department of History and Political Science, in collaboration with the departments of Philosophy, Psychology, Economics, and Sociology, has sponsored a special volume of essays as its part in the Fiftieth Anniversary celebration. Five of the twelve essays in the volume have been written by members of the Department, while Miss Vera Largent has served as editor.

THE COLLEGE SERVICE LEAGUE

The College Service League was organized the first of January as a step toward preparedness but has undergone many revisions and will continue to do so to meet the needs of the students on this campus both during and after this crisis.

The program of the League is directed by Miss Louise Alexander, faculty head, and Alice Arey, student head, and has been divided in two main lines of activity: Services, which involve preparation in first aid, home nursing, child-care, canteen-training, knitting, nutrition, play production, and the study of the Morse code; Mental or Moral work, which serves to inform people through forums that may be specifically about the war or maybe an marriage rates, national legislation, inflation, taxation, or the influence of war shown in English writings.

In addition, students have been asked to pledge themselves to a daily routine for building strong bodies, conserving electricity, paper, and necessary consumer products.

PSYCHOLOGY

DR. J. A. HIGHSMITH
Head of Psychology Department

The history of the Psychology department dates back to the founding of the college. Elementary psychology, the only course offered for the first twenty-five years, was given, until 1924, in conjunction with the department of education. In 1918, General, Educational, and Child Psychology, all taught by one person, made up the work in psychology. Because of increased enrollment and increased demand, the present department of Psychology was organized in 1924. Courses for the general student as well as for prospective teachers were introduced, and, in 1927, provisions were made for students to major in psychology. Courses in psychology came to be required of students who were preparing to teach in the various branches offered in the college.

In 1925, all introductory courses in this department were set up on a laboratory basis. Some years later, in 1936, these courses were added to the list of Science courses offered for meeting the science requirements in Sophomore year.

Well-equipped laboratories in mental testing and Child Psychology have been developed during the last twenty-two years. The Child Psychology laboratory, housed in Curry building, marked a distinct advance in the study of child psychology in that the whole program is based upon the first hand observation of the child in the laboratory rather than around a book about the child.

During the development of psychology in the college, contributions to the education of teachers has continued to be the major function of the department. Three-fourths of the time, perhaps, of its seven staff members is devoted to work related directly or indirectly to the preparation of teachers. In recent years, however, an important part of the work has been devoted to giving an undergraduate course in psychology to students who will go into fields other than those of public schools. Many of these students have worked in the field of child development. Some have gone into clinical psychology, others into industrial personnel work, and some have entered the fields of social service and religion.

SOCIOLOGY

Sociology courses at Woman's College were originally taught as part of the social sciences by those teachers who also taught history, economics, and related subjects. Mr. Edward Lindemann was the first member of the faculty to teach only Sociology. In 1923, he resigned and Mr. Glenn Johnson, the present head of the sociology department, came to Woman's College. Not long afterwards, the economics, sociology, and history and political science groups separated into their own departments. Miss Ada Davis, who later became Mrs. Julius I. Foust, joined the faculty. Others followed her until now Miss Mereb Mossman, Miss Lyda Gordon Shivers, Miss Lettie Hamlet, and Mr. Glenn Johnson compose the faculty of the Sociology Department.

This department does not offer professional courses but rather attempts to give its students the necessary background for social work or for further work in sociology. It tries to impart to its students a knowledge of the nature of society and of the relationship of the subjects they study to the whole of life.

Several years ago the Alpha chapter of Alpha Kappa Delta, the national honorary sociology fraternity, invited some of the faculty members of Woman's College to become members of the chapter at the University of North Carolina. Since that time, honor major students have been elected to Alpha Kappa Delta membership.

The Sociology club grew out of an association of students from several departments who had formed a race study group. Since this group was composed predominantly of sociology majors, it was natural that it should become a sociology club. With changing students in the passage of years, the interests of the club have changed to social problems and social work.

BUSINESS EDUCATION AND SECRETARIAL ADMINISTRATION

At the January, 1932 meeting of the Faculty Council of the Woman's College it was decided to offer training leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Commerce. At this time there was not a single institute of higher learning in the state which provided training in this field. Mr. B. Frank Kyker was employed to direct the work of the new department. He remained the Head of this department until the second semester of the term 1937-1938, when Dr. Keister was then appointed Acting Head. He served in this capacity for two years. He is still Head of the Department of Economics. Dr. McKee Fisk, Stillwater, Oklahoma, became the Head of the Department in 1940.

Miss Patty Spruill, who was teaching business subjects in the one-year Commercial Department at the College, was appointed to teach shorthand and typing in the new departments and then was transferred to the new department for full time work.

To avoid any duplication with the Greater University the name of the degree was changed from Bachelor of Science in Commerce to that of Bachelor of Science in Secretarial Administration.

The number of students enrolled in the Secretarial Science Department in 1932 was a total of 40. This department has grown until this year the enrollment is 302. The personnel in this department has grown from two, Mr. B. Frank Kyker and Miss Patty Spruill, to that of eleven who work in the department.

The curriculum leading to the degree is designed to give a broad foundation on which is built specialized training to prepare those who desire to enter business. Two options are provided—one leading to positions as secretaries and general office clerks in the business world and the other to teaching business subjects in secondary schools.

Gamma Alpha Club was formed in 1940 for Junior and Senior B.S.S.A. majors with Mrs. Adele Lawrence as the adviser. The club has a membership of 180 now with Mr. James Crawford as adviser.

COMMERCIAL

The Commercial Department was organized in 1892. The courses offered consisted of shorthand, typewriting, bookkeeping, commercial law, and telegraphy. The program covered a two-year period until telegraphy was dropped from the curriculum about 1895. Mr. E. J. Forney, Treasurer Emeritus of the college, directed the department from the time of organization until his retirement from active teaching service in 1935. The department was reorganized in 1935 under the direction of Mr. George M. Joyce, who continues to direct the work in the department, assisted by four full-time instructors.

The one-year commercial course emphasizes the stenographic subjects. Students are carefully selected and must pass rigid theory and performance tests before receiving a certificate.

These students finish their course of study in about eight months. There is no definite time limit set because some of the girls advance more rapidly than others. The first commercial class of Woman's College stated that their object was not to see how short a time a student could go through in the department, but to see how efficiently she could be prepared for a business career. This spirit represents the attitude of the 4500 graduates of the department throughout the history of Woman's College.

The large typing room in the Administration Building has been humming with even more activity than usual this year as students realize the growing need for efficient secretaries in this war time emergency. Students, not enrolled in the commercial department, have come from all departments to learn typing and shorthand in order that they may do their part in this all out effort to become prepared for defense.

SOCIETIES

In the spring of 1893 at the suggestion of Dr. McIver, the question of literary societies was discussed. Immediate action was taken. Misses Alice Green and Mary Arrington were appointed to make an even division of students into two sections according to talent and ability. The two drew lots and the list which fell to Miss Arrington was known until a permanent name could be chosen as the Arrington Society, and later became the Adelpian Society; the other group was known as the Green Society, and later became the Cornelian Society.

The function of these societies can best be explained by the article on the societies in one of the early college catalogues. It read: "After observing for several years the progress of those students who are members of the Societies and those who are not, the authorities of the college do not hesitate to say that it is a great mistake for a student not to become a member. Besides the literary work, they give to the students a training in self control and in the power to influence others, which the regular work of the college cannot give."

These inter-society debates created a great deal of excitement and interest. Each society elected its debaters, and the winning team was awarded a cup, which was passed back and forth between the winners every year. All public entertainments were given under the auspices of the two societies. Before the Dramatic Club was organized, each society presented plays. Aside from these activities, they also contributed to the Students' Fund to aid with the building of Student's Building where society halls would be located; they also gave money to the

By 1917, with the increased college enrollment, it became evident to the authorities and students that the Cornelian and Adelpian societies were too small to hold all the students satisfactorily. Furthermore, the number of students was so great that the societies found it impossible to furnish adequate means for the broadening and further development of students' minds.

As a solution for this situation, the present Dikean society was organized. After much discussion and thought, four seniors, three juniors, and three

The PINE NEEDLES — 1942

A publication appearing in 1902 entitled THE DECENNIAL may be said to mark the birth of our college annual. Edited by Miss Laura Coit, this volume was published in celebration of the tenth anniversary of the founding of the school and contained a general history of the founding and development of the school, a history of each class from 1893 to 1902, and a history of all departments and organizations.

In 1909, THE CAPOLINIAN was published by the Senior class with the purpose of "giving a glimpse into the college life for a more appreciative knowledge and a more sympathetic understanding of the Normal". The name, which now belongs to the college newspaper, was kept by the annual until the publication of the newspaper May 19, 1919. In the October 11, 1919, issue of the newspaper it was reported that at the regular mass meeting the students had voted to keep "CAROLINIAN" as the newspaper's name and change that of the annual to PINE NEEDLES.

In 1913, another anniversary edition was published in celebration of the twentieth year since the graduation of the first class. Included in this volume was a complete history of the college and a history and pictures of each graduating class from 1893 to 1912.

History, not only of the school, but of outside events is reflected in the series of annuals of the college as is evident in the 1919 publication. In that year, it was decided to abandon publishing an annual because of the war and the result was a mimeographed book in which snapshots were used. Interestingly enough, as we now face war, the 1920 edition carried a section called "War Features" which pictured the girls who built the "Y" Hut and also the war farmerettes.

PINE NEEDLES — Continued

It is hard to imagine men students at W. C. but in the 1933 PINE NEEDLES seventy-five men students are pictured with the accompanying copy stating, "It is believed now that co-education will be a permanent fixture on the campus". Annuals may not be accurate in their predictions, unfortunately, but there is no doubt that they serve their purpose of an accurate record of a school year.

The year 1936 stands out in the history of our annual as the feature section which pictured girls for Beauty, Wisdom, Culture, Grace, and other "virtues" was abandoned. As this sort of thing disappeared so also did the idea of carrying a definite theme. Another development taking place in 1936 was a change in the size of the book to the size it is now.

The annual staff this year has had a twofold job of recording the progress of a year in which there has been a great deal happening in the world as well as attempting to record the progress made in the fifty years since the founding of the school.

The 1942 staff was made aware of national conditions as soon as school opened in the fall by a request from the printer that all orders for annual be taken before October 1, as it was necessary for him to order all the paper he needed. The short period in which they were sold did not mean that sales were not as great as before, but rather a new high of 1770 copies were sold. The 1942 staff breathes a sigh of relief as this year's book is completed and lets the staff of 1943 worry whether or not their book will have to be printed on oak leaves.

The CAROLINIAN OF

"Distinguished for its Democracy"—a dignified and challenging slogan for the Woman's College newspaper, the CAROLINIAN. But it is a fitting one. CAROLINIAN has built upon the policy of recording and interpreting the life of a democratic, free-speaking student body. Such a campus community as ours can have no newspaper other than one "Distinguished for its Democracy."

CAROLINIAN has not always been the newspaper it is now. From the first issue of May 19, 1919, the story of what is now our weekly newspaper is one similar to the story of Woman's College. The paper was begun because of a need and a demand for it. Number 1, Volume 1 appeared shortly after the State Normal became the North Carolina College for Women. But war conditions prevented the continuation of the CAROLINIAN although the job was taken over the next fall by senior volunteers.

Woman's College grew, and CAROLINIAN grew. More student activities, a broader curriculum, the increasing importance of the college presented new demands to the weekly newspaper. Today CAROLINIAN is still put out by a staff made up of voluntary workers—120 of them. Twenty of them are editors and managers, fifty are reporters, and fifty more compose the business and circulation staffs. These 120 students put out CAROLINIAN in the same spirit as did the paper's first staff—because of a desire to do service to Woman's College.

Today CAROLINIAN brings recognition to the campus for its awards of Associate Collegiate Press All-American honor rating in 1940, First Place Honor rating in 1941, and First Place award in the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association contest of 1941, ranking above all other college and university newspapers in the state.

CAROLINIAN is placing a new emphasis on the fact that it belongs to every group in the college community alike. No student nor faculty member need feel that he or she is not a collective owner of the campus paper, for as one organ the staff attempts to give to the campus as a whole and to each individual the kind of CAROLINIAN he would like to have.

NINETEEN FORTY-TWO

CAROLINIAN'S task is essentially to record and to reflect the life of Woman's College campus. The task becomes amplified with closer observation. There is the life of the students, the life of the faculty, the life of the administration, and, most important, the life of the three integrated to form the life of Woman's College. There are social, recreational, administrative, extra-curricular, classroom, and religious activities to record and to reflect. And in the year 1941-42 a new field has been opened to the campus—a program of national defense. CAROLINIAN has undertaken to record all these things and has accepted the even greater responsibility of reflecting them in its editorial pages. No greater task can come to an American campus newspaper than that of calmly and intelligently maintaining its high standards while its nation is at war. No American campus newspaper can be more sincere in its all-out effort and determination to accomplish that task than the CAROLINIAN of Woman's College.

The CORADDI... 1942

COR-nelian, AD-elphian, DI-kean—CORADDI. Your CORADDI. The oldest publication of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, CORADDI was distributed four times each year for twenty-two years before the appearance of the college newspaper, and within its cover was incorporated the first issue of the college annual. For forty-five years, since March, 1897, CORADDI has served as the single creative organ for the students. Through the years, there have been many changes in policy. Yet the changes have been decidedly evolutionary. There have been jumps, but no leaps, no sudden and complete departures from precedent. On the eve of CORADDI'S forty-fourth anniversary, the students went to the polls; and after the manner in a democracy, they called for a change, many changes in the magazine. This year CORADDI has made a leap. And time has dissolved another wax-print.

During the summer that looked to the fiftieth year of the founding of our college, the blueprint of new CORADDI was laid down by independent student minds working cooperatively. The length and breadth and depth of the blueprint was fashioned on this base: "Healthy open-mindedness and full representation of student interests." Now in its forty-fifth year, CORADDI began to realize its heritage, and none could restrain the development of independent thought. With the aid of twenty new writers, many ideals set forth in the blueprint were accomplished: for example, passive students were stung from indifference by the "Campus Crisis" series, and appreciation of the Arts was encouraged through discussions on music, dance, and art.

To every member of the Woman's College, CORADDI has offered a challenge: to exercise, but not to abuse, America's precious right to freedom of speech and to individual creative expression. This challenge has suggested two duties: the duty of CORADDI to the students and the duty of the students to CORADDI. CORADDI conceived its duty to be the reflection in good-mannered English of the thoughts, realistic, idealistic, and imaginative, of the total campus. The students conceived it their duty to be contributors to the magazine. Independent student hands and student minds can keep CORADDI a functional, vibrant tradition of the Woman's College.

Woman's College Student Young Women's Christian Association celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of its organization with the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the college. In the fall of 1892, students of the North Carolina State Normal School assembled in chapel for worship periods on Sunday afternoons. "Yet a need was felt of a large, broader organization in which all might enter and where each might find something to do," wrote a student who was looking back on this period. And, on December 6, a committee drew up the constitution of the Young Women's Christian Association. Regular Sunday services, mid-week prayer meetings, and a Sunday School, attended by practically the whole school, were the activities of the group.

As the association developed, it became an experiment in inter-denomination cooperation. Outsiders watched with interest and doubt as girls of widely varying creeds worked together in a religious program. But the organization continued its work and became even broader in its scope. In 1895, a delegate was sent to the Southern Summer Conference called by the Central Committee of the College Young Women's Christian Associations. This contact with a larger group brought new enthusiasm, and the next year several delegates were sent to the conference. The group also began working with the World Student Christian Federation and the Student Volunteer Movement. An Inter-collegiate Relations Committee and a Missionary Committee were important parts of the organization. One year money was given for the support of a child widow and a religious worker in India. By 1900, 238 of the 390 students of the college were active members, and in 1906 the organization became a charter member of the Young Women's Christian Associations of the United States. Records of the early years of the association had been destroyed by the fire of 1904, but the president had saved a copy of the constitution.

Since the first plans in 1892, the thoughts and energies and enthusiastic spirits of many college generations of students have created ever-changing programs of activities. Headquarters have been changed from Students' Building to Religious Activities Center. Woman's College "Y" is the second oldest student Y.W.C.A. in the state and one of the largest and strongest in the South.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Freshmen are early introduced to the "Y" and through their own clubs find integration of academic, social, and religious activities which make college life full and happy. Two years ago the sophomores organized a club of their own, and this year the juniors and seniors have also formed a club. The cabinet has been increased to fifty-one members, and there have been Membership Meetings for fellowship among all members.

International Week-End, Bundles for Britain, Thanksgiving baskets, and examination teas are some of the campus-wide projects sponsored by the "Y". Also there are suppers, retreats, and deputations from other schools for fellowship in fun and worship.

PLAYLIKERS

Dramatics on this campus became comparatively important when in November, 1921, the senior class, of the North Carolina College for Women, presented Shaw's "You Never Can Tell;" and in April, 1922, "Masqueraders" gave Wilde's "Lady Windermere's Fan." It was not until the year 1923-24 that the first dramatics organization was founded, this being termed "The Dramatics Association." It was a "new project utilizing and centralizing all of the dramatic interest of the college. (A better name for the organization will no doubt be chosen before the year is over.)" Elizabeth Hathaway was the first president, Mary Green the student director, and Professor W. R. Taylor was first faculty director.

In 1924 the Dramatics Association presented "Tarnish." Shown first in Aycocock auditorium, it was given also at the National Theatre, "perhaps the finest in the South and books only such performances as will do it honor."

In these early days all male parts were "realistically portrayed" by girls. In December, 1924, it was announced to the public: "No Longer Will Girls Take Masculine Roles. 'He' Must Be A Real Sure-Enough One."

On Saturday night, November 15, 1924, Dr. Kendrick appeared as "Adam Trueman" in "Fashion." Also appearing in this were Dr. Hurley, Mr. A. C. Hall, as "T. Tennyson Twinkle, a modern poet," and Mr. Taylor, as "Augustus Fogg, a drawing room appendage." Vocal selections were by Mr. Hall singing "Croquet," Dr. Kendrick and quartet singing "The Independent Farmer," and Dr. Hurley rendering a version of "Down By The River Side." Dr. Hurley also led the polka in the second act.

In 1925 the organization became known as the "Play-likers," a name which has lived down to this day.

Included in the plays produced this year are: "The House of Connelly," "The First Year," "Morning's At Seven," "Ladies In Retirement," "Lady Precious Stream," "Pelleas and Melisande," and "We, The Women," commencement play written by Foster Fitz-Simmons and Marion Tatum Fitz-Simmons. Outstanding actress is Catherine Hilderman.

MASQUERADERS

The first mention of the dramatics organization designated as "Masqueraders" in the history of drama on the Woman's College campus occurred in 1922 when this group presented Oscar Wilde's "Lady Windemere's Fan." Then, as now, the organization was an honor society, composed of those students who had shown themselves particularly outstanding and talented in some phase of the dramatic arts. The ceremonial initiation of new members by "tapping" them into the society is an experience for which many girls throughout their college careers pray.

Today under the able direction of Catherine Hilderman, its president, Mr. W. R. Taylor, Wilbur Dorsett, and Miss Sara Click, of the English faculty, the club represents and backs the finest elements of play production and writing. Students comprising this group in the fiftieth anniversary year are: Catherine Hilderman, Nancy Idol, Petie Roberts, Ann Pitoniak, Mary Childs, Josephine Howard, Barbara McLaurin, Betsy Saunders, Elizabeth Slacum, Dorrice Litchfield, Mary Frances Cox, Grace Estep, Virginia Bowden, Rachel Barrett, Frances Fox, Lois Hedgepeth, Marian Middleton, Guille Marrow, Octavia Muller, Genivieve Oswald, Loise Poore, Rhea Sikes, Elaise Taylor, Lydia Taylor, Mary Tuttle, Terry Moore, Barbara Jahnston, Betty O'Neal, Amy Jaslyn, Betty Reynolds, Carolyn Wilson, Doras Dawney, Martha Williams.

HANDBOOK

MARTY COCKFIELD, Editor

JEAN YATES, Business Manager

The HANDBOOK was originally published by the members of the Young Women's Christian Association. Beginning with the 1926-27 edition, however, the Student Government Association collaborated with the Young Women's Christian Association, and in 1936 the Student Government Association assumed full responsibility for its publication. The editor, elected from among the ranks of the rising senior class, and the business manager, selected by the editor, work on this publication throughout the summer months so that it can be mailed to each student before school begins in September.

The HANDBOOK serves as a guidebook for both old and new students. It contains a map of the college and surrounding territory as well as information on student activities, college grounds, and campus affairs.

INTER-FAITH COUNCIL

Gathered around a cheery fire in the "Y" Hut, Tuesday, October 25, 1932, representatives of the Baptist Student Union, the Lutheran League, the Westminster Association, the Wesley Foundation, St. Marie's Club, the Student Volunteer Association, the Y.W.C.A., and six faculty members discussed the possibility of developing a Campus Religious Council. A sunrise service on Armistice Day, a sermon, "Religion and Life", regular monthly meetings are recorded among the initial interests of the group.

Catholic, Jewish, Congregational, Christian, and Disciples of Christ student groups were later included in the council. Changing its name in 1935 to Inter-Faith Council, it now coordinates the programs of the ten cooperating groups.

Forty-three students and faculty members compose the council's membership in the fiftieth year of our college.

President

MISS CLARA B. BYRD

ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION

The Alumnae Association was organized in 1893 by the ten members of the first graduating class. Minnie Hampton, now Mrs. William A. Eliason, was the first president. The new association decided to raise a fund to be used to aid other girls in attending the new school. This was the beginning of the Alumnae Loan Fund. Today the Alumnae Association has a many-sided program. Headquarters are in the beautiful Alumnae House, for which the alumnae raised approximately $160,000. Here also are found the offices of the Student Government Association, PINE NEEDLES, the CAROLINIAN, the CORADDI, and an assembly room for student club meetings. Moreover, the Alumnae House is a center for social affairs and educational and cultural meetings. Among its numerous activities, the Alumnae Association follows up the thousands of alumnae and their work; publishes an alumnae magazine; organizes and promotes local alumnae associations; services the fifty classes which have been graduated and the fifty-five local associations; arranges educational seminars; helps to arrange class reunions; plans Alumnae Day at Commencement and other public occasions; still raises funds for scholarships. In short, the Alumnae Association is the channel through which the college and the alumnae continue to be an integral part, one of the other.

ALL AMERICAN

All honors were due Roberta Dunlap, her business manager, Eleanor Southerland, and their staff for receiving an All American Honor Rating on the 1941 PINE NEEDLES by the National Scholastic Press Association. To jump from a second class rating to the highest possible rating on annuals in the United States is evidence of original ideas, careful planning, and good hard work. The 1942 staff offers hearty congratulations for this honor to the staff of 1941 and thanks them for the excellent pattern they left for this year's staff to follow.

IN APPRECIATION

The staff of 1942 wishes to express its appreciation to the Faculty Advisory Committee, Dr. Charlotte Kohler, Mr. Gregory Ivy, and the new member of the committee, Miss Virginia Farinholt, for their advice and cooperation in the making of the book. The annual this year is the result of the work of many people. The editor was backed wholeheartedly by an enthusiastic staff and wishes to thank each person who contributed to the book in any way. The work of the editors—Mary Tuttle, Art, Peggy Levine, Organization; Hal March, Anniversary; Carol Allen and Bette duFour, Photography; Ruth White, Sports; Jo Howard, Ruth Heffner, Teen Dunlap, and Mary McLean, Literary; Isabel Edmunds, Persis Bennett, Jean Dickey, and Kathryn Evans, Classes; Emily Early, Faculty; and Geraldine Norman, Copy Reader was especially appreciated. Right hands to the business manager were Ruby Madry, Advertising Manager, and Sarah Gaaney, Circulation Manager. Backing the editor and business manager together were their assistants, Elise Rouse, Assistant Editor, and Emily Crowell, Assistant Business Manager, who will produce the book of 1943.

MAY DAY at W. C.

"I'll meet by moonlight, proud Titania!", so says Oberon, the King of the Night to Titania, the Fairy Queen.

Hippolyta, the May Queen of 1942, who has just been married to Theseus is crowned queen of her realms and queen of the May. Then she and Theseus and their court are entertained by Puck, Theseus' jester. Puck is able to work a bit of magic and so he allows the court to see the Fairy Queen and the King of Night. They, Titania and Oberon, are having an argument about a little Indian boy whom Titania has and whom Oberon wants. Puck also lets the court see how Oberon by causing Titania to fall in love with an ass-faced mortal gets the Indian boy for his own, and how, finally Titania and Oberon are reunited happily and dance together in honor of Theseus' and Hippolyta's wedding and Hippolyta's coronation.

This fantasy of dance accompanied by the traditional Mendelssohn music and the poetry of Shakespeare was the May Day theme for this anniversary year. It was fitting that this year's program was the first to be held in the new

May Day had become too small to accommodate the crowd attending.

Elizabeth Sargent climaxed her year of serving as Chief Marshal with acting as May Queen and was attended by Amy Joslyn and Agnes Rogers as Maids of Honor. The rest of the court, also chosen by popular vote for their beauty, were: Jean Emmons, Catherine Paris, Carol Hall, Allene Rose, Mary Sadler, Catherine Warren, Frances Henning, Sue Murchison, Mary Gordon Breeden, and Mae Marsh.

Catherine Hilderman, chairman of May Day, deserves a great deal of credit for the success of the program. She was served by the following committee: Dancing, Dorrice Litchfield; Music, Nancy D. King; Costumes, Marjorie Bryant and Allene Rose; Properties, Nancy Stockard; and Faculty Advisers, Miss Jean Brownlee, Dr. Marc Friedlaender, and Mr. Wilber Dorsett.

Athletics

RECREATION ASSOCIATION

The Recreation Association was started as the Athletic Association of the North Carolina College for Women in 1921. It was the outgrowth of a hiking club which felt the need of a student athletic club on campus. The club bought a camp about six miles outside of the City of Greensboro as a destination for their hikes.

Last year the club changed its name and constitution so that it would reach more girls. The Recreation Association includes girls on campus who participate in afternoon sports and the various Athletic clubs. It is run by a Cabinet composed of student heads of the sports and clubs.

Dorothy Griffin was president of the Association this year and she, with the help of the Faculty adviser, Miss Ethel Martus, directed the program of the Recreation Association. This year the activities were all conducted on an intramural league basis and the cabinet met to discuss the participation and popularity of the new system.

DOROTHY GRIFFIN

THE CABINET

VOLLEY BALL

Volley ball, the sport of the beginner and the champion alike, was one of the fall sports on our campus. It was played in the quadrangle on sunny days and in the gym on rainy days with both the small and the giant volley ball.

Honors for the season go to Rebecca Pratt, who was student head, and Miss Marjorie Leonard, who was faculty head of this sport

SKATING

A large attraction for students and soldiers this year was the indoor skating rink. Skates and music were furnished, and many students used both as a means of recreation in their leisure time.

A skating committee, made up of girls on the Camp committee and headed by Serena Riser, kept the outdoor gym open for those who wanted to skate or to learn to skate.

SPEEDBALL

Speedball is popular fall sport, and very fast team game played by twenty-two alert players. It was combination of soccer and basketball with the dropkick and touchdown borrowed from the rules of football. Beginners are taught the skill quickly and are in the game puffing with the advanced players before the first game of the season is over.

This year two afternoons in the week were allowed to take care of the four leagues. About fifteen minutes of the period were given to skills, practice and perfect in. Student judges, under the head of Bette duFour, taught the skills and helped referee the games. The rest of the hour was spent in actual playing as long as daylight permitted. Bette duFour was student head and Miss Kealy was faculty head.

BASKETBALL

One of the major sports of the winter season is basketball. Since it is played on the intramural league basis, each dormitory plays three games to decide the league winner, and the league winner plays in the Jackson tournament to determine the champion team which is the end result of the tournament. Dr. W. C. Jackson, tosses in the first ball of the first game to start the play.

Ruth Porter was student head and Miss Bernice Finger was the faculty head.

LIFE SAVING

Life Saving is one of the oldest sports on the campus. Life Saving courses this year are more important than in the past because of the increase in public swimming for physical fitness. It is an important phase of civilian defense work on campus, and every girl interested has been urged to try her aquatic skill and become a member of this important branch of our great American Red Cross organization. Some of the girls receiving the Senior Life Saving certificate will help in National Defense this summer by teaching swimming and by doing Life Guard Duty in the place of men. Mortha Charnock and Judy Barrett, aided by Miss Miriorn Sheldon, were the co-heads of Life Saving.

GYMNASTICS

The Woman's College gymnastic team presented the 15th Annual Gym Meet and Demonstration Program on Friday, March 6 in Rosenthal Gymnasium. The demonstration program, "Progress", was in three parts. Part one presented activities carried on in the old Spencer gym many years ago. Part two showed the opening of the new gymnasium; the last episode showed Physical Education at Woman's College today, with emphasis on activities preparing students for an integrated and full life with interests to serve country, state, and school.

FALL TENNIS

In the fall of the year a doubles and singles tournaments have been held with about one hundred people participating. Through a round-robin tournament of all the players, Marjorie Wright and Mary Belle Price came out the winners for the second successive year.

Spring tennis was run on a dormitory basis and instruction by the student coaches was given to all who wished it.

Because of extremely warm weather in the fall this sport was very successful. Thanks must go to Miss Ellen Griffin, faculty head, for giving this sport proper place among the others and for adding many girls, formerly non-players, to its list of interested active participants.

BASEBALL

Baseball, the main sport of the spring season, attracts many true sportswomen to its diamond. It is played on the league basis with each team trying to win the championship in order that it may be eligible to play the faculty on Sports Day. Among the faculty players are Dr. Barkley and Dr. Shaftesbury, who umpire the league games and support the rest of the faculty on the momentous occasion when they are challenged by the girls' team. Dr. Frank Graham, president of the Greater University of North Carolina, comes up and adds his skill to help the faculty and also add color and a little clowning to the scene. The highlight of the season is the announcement of the varsity baseball team at the Sports Day Dinner. Miss Ethel Martus, faculty head and Geraldine Rogers, student head, are due considerable credit for a very good baseball season.

RIDING

The thrill of a brisk canter down a wooded trail typifies another enjoyable sport that W. C. girls have the opportunity of participating in. Beginner and intermediate riders may receive excellent instruction in riding at the Mary Lee Stables near Greensboro. The more advanced riders may join the Boot 'n Spur Club sponsored by the Recreation Association after proving their ability to ride a horse in good form at a walk, trot, and canter. Riders of all abilities often enjoy breakfast or supper rides which leave behind them happy memories of horses, saddles, and friendships formed around blazing camp fires.

SWIMMING

After school swimming is now conducted purely for recreational purposes. It is a time when a student can swim or dive with instruction to help improve faulty strokes or poor dives, or she can paddle around just for the "fun of it". Points are given to the girls who go out to swim, these points contribute toward the winning dormitory and league. The season ran from the first of November to the last of April, and with the cooperation of Mrs. Perry, the faculty sponsor first semester, and Miss Kealy, the faculty sponsor second semester, and of all twelve student coaches, it was fun and a great success.

SPORTS DAY

Sports day is the wind-up of the spring sports. This year Sports Day, May Day, and Parents' Day were held on the same day, thus giving parents the opportunity of seeing and participating in the activities of Sports day.

The college band led the way from College Avenue through campus to the athletic field, and the participants came out of their dormitories and followed the band onto the field! The girls met at color poles to get their distinguishing ribbons and then joined in various activities: field events, horseshoes, bridge, and many other games. To end the Sports part of the day a faculty-versus-student baseball game was played, and after the game a banquet was held for all participants at which awards were given to the winning league and to the girls who had one thousand to three thousand points for participating in sports. After the banquet, the Clogging club presented a dance program in the gymnasium.

Miss Marjorie Leonard, faculty head and Ruth White, student head, planned for the event and with assistants selected from the junior and senior classes made an outstanding success.

THE CAMP COUNSELORS CLUB

CAMP COUNSELORS

One of the youngest and most enthusiastic clubs on campus is the Camp Counselors' Club. It was started three years ago and has grown so rapidly that membership had to be limited this year.

Each month the club has a supper meeting at which different types of programs are given—programs which are planned to help each member of the club gain knowledge of camping. Margaret Little was president of the club, and Mrs. Jack Perry was faculty adviser and aid for summer camp placement.

SQUARE DANCE

The Square Dance Club was organized by a few people who were interested in promoting the art of square dancing on this campus. It has grown and is now a very active group which sponsors dances for a large group of girls. The steps, turns, and commands are practiced often, and several times during the year the group entertains boys from nearby schools who are also interested in square dancing.

THE SQUARE DANCE CLUB

BOOT 'N SPUR

Four years ago the Boot 'n Spur Club was organized as a riding club by a group of the leading horsewomen on this campus. The old athletic field became the scene of a gay annual horse show each Sports Day until the Science building was built on this site which necessitated discontinuing the shows on campus.

This year the club has been interested in enlarging their knowledge of horses and shows; therefore, several well-known horsemen of the community have spoken to the club. Books and pamphlets are read and discussed and practical experience is obtained through the bi-monthly rides.

ARCHERY CLUB

The largest membership in the club's history was recorded this year. For the first time the club was divided into the Bowman's and Archer's divisions according to ability.

Several archery parties were held at which the girls competed with one another. In the spring an Archery Play-day with nearby colleges was held. It consisted of a Senior Columbia Round, Clout shooting, and archery golf (which is a comparatively new sport and fun to play).

The club has a year-round function with the use of an indoor shooting range as well as an outdoor range. Pins are awarded at the end of the year for high scorers during the parties and Play-day.

Eloise Newell was the president of the group, and Miss Bernice Finger was the faculty sponsor.

The success of the club was due to initiative and general enthusiasm of the club members themselves.

HOCKEY

It was called "Field Hockey for Young Women" in the past era, and it is the same popular sport now that it was then. Hockey is a team sport that requires every effort of mind and body to play correctly.

This year's participation was very good, and the end result was a tournament conducted on the league basis with two play days at the end of the season. Salem College held a play day to decide the honorary varsity team of the state. Two teams were sent from Woman's College and seven of these girls were selected on the varsity. Guilford College also had a play day and two teams competed there.

Betty Blauvelt, student head, and Miss Bernice Finger, faculty head, are to be congratulated on their hard work and the results obtained as seen in the play day and after school participation, for quite a large number of students adopted this sport as a regular hobby.

GOLF

In the fall and spring, golf tournaments are played on the school and nearby golf courses. Scores from these tournaments are the basis for qualification for membership in the newly-formed Golf Club. The members of this club act as coaches for after school golf and conduct the tournaments. The tournaments are conducted on the intramural system of the Recreation Association.

Serena Riser, student head, and Miss Ellen Griffin, faculty head, are to be complimented on a very successful season.

BOATING

A new lake on the west side of the campus is the scene of a new activity for W. C. girls. Some girls find relaxation and comfort in paddling a canoe in the afternoon after a strenuous day of studies, others find Saturday rowing a good exercise. A proficiency test is required of every girl using the boats, and lessons are given to those who want to learn the correct way of handling a boat. Dorothea Bultman was student head.

DANCE GROUPS

MISS JEAN BROWNLEE
MARGARET ANN BITTICK

For one of the most active groups on campus, this year has been one of the most outstanding in its history and it was to a great extent the constant, resourceful hard work of Miss Jean Brownlee, director and Margaret Ann Bittick, president, that made this year so profitable.

Activities began in October when the groups gave a lecture demonstration of technique for the Teachers' Convention held on the Woman's College campus. In November about fifteen members attended the Dance Symposium held at the University of North Carolina; there they attended classes in composition and technique. A round table discussion of the relation of art, dancing, music and drama; and demonstrations by the dance groups from Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

March was a very full month: on the fifth the groups danced for the Southeastern Art's Convention and on the thirteenth gave their annual dance recital. Then choreography as well as design and construction of costumes, was done almost entirely by the groups and Miss Brownlee.

In May some of the members of the group danced in the production of "Midsummer Night's Dream" for May Day. The conclusion of a very active year was the Fiftieth Anniversary Pageant in June, in which the group participated.

DOLPHIN

The top-ranking swimmers and divers have two top-ranking clubs—the Dolphin Club and the Seal Club. Much fun is had in these clubs during the year, and swimming form, diving form, and water games are emphasized. The annual Dolphin pageant is a thing of beauty. The theme of the nineteen forty-two pageant was "Alice in Wonderland". The Dolphins and Seals used floating figures, stunts, swimming, and various dives. To add to the pageant attractive costumes, music, and various colored spot-lights were used.

The Seal Club, a junior group of the Dolphin Club, is continually working to improve their strokes and dives in order to become members of the senior group.

This year for the first time in the history of the clubs, these groups sponsored a Telegraphic swimming meet in February, in which girls had the opportunity to test their speed and form.

Mary White Thompson, president of the club, and Miss Kealy, faculty adviser, gave the club a newer and higher meaning for the swimmers on campus.

BUCK AND WING

This year the Clogging Club was reorganized and renamed the Buck and Wing. It undertook the new problem of teaching tap dancing since it was not taught in the Physical Education Department. Betty Lou Houser and Terrisa Rowe did the teaching.

Entertainment for the "Ark" and Sports Day banquet was provided by several members of the club.
