INTRODUCTION.

THIS Book of Recipes is issued as a guide in using the Jewett Chafing Dish, and to illustrate the wide range of cooking that can be done with these useful little utensils, as well as to add to the housewife's list of good things to eat. Most of the recipes are simple and easily prepared, but in a few it is necessary to provide the ingredients beforehand.

Our best wishes go with this book, and we trust that you will, by its aid, find in the use of the Jewett Chafing Dish the pleasure that others have derived from it.

Fat.

Melt the fat, and when hot break the eggs into a saucer and slide them gently into the dish. Dip the fat over them to cook them on top. Serve when the white is done.

For fat many prefer lard, as the eggs are whiter, but butter imparts a better flavor, and ham drippings are still better.

PLEASE NOTE.

The John C. Jewett Mfg. Co. are the sole manufacturers of STROUD'S PATENT CLAM AND OYSTER STEAMER, which is composed of a hot water pan, Dish and Cover, being the same as their regular round chafing dishes, excepting that the DISH is perforated near the top, which allows the steam from hot water pan to pass into it. These patent perforated dishes, or steamers, are sold separately, and are a most important addition to our regular dishes, as they can be used for cooking lobsters, mushrooms, or any other article that can be cooked by steaming.

These steamers are endorsed by such houses as the "Waldorf," "Brunswick," "Imperial" and other high-class New York hotels and restaurants.
