TRANSPAPH TO THE PACIFIC It is pretty well determined that we shall of have the benefit of transsituatic teleraphic communication during the present ear. The unfortunate rupture of the cable inso of telegraph, we may obtain something nearly as important and valuable. It is stated in the Washington Union that Mesers.

HENRY O'REILLY, JOHN J. SPEED and John EXTERNING OR A model of its kind. It is arranged on an invented by the proprietors themselves. The gelber for the bold undertaking of construct regular for the bold undertaking of constructing a continuous line of telegraph, to extend from the Pather of Waters to the alogress of the Pacific. The gentlemen whose hames are consected with this stupendous scheme have been among the earliest, most agascious, most persevering and most successful persons engaged in establishing lines of test graphic communication. At a time when the project of uniting New York and Washington seemed to ofter difficulties quate as formidable as any now anticipated in routes ten times the distance, they were forement in the display of the knowledge and practical energy requisite for such undertakings. They were uniformly successful when telegraphing was in its intancy; and as they have never engaged in any work of the kind without carrying it into effect, there are good grounds for the belief that they are prepared to encounter and overcome all obstacles to the gigantic plan now in contemplation.

Mesars. O'Reilly & Co. propose to com-

by him, and conducted by him eight months are the line to the Pacidic within eighten the intended to pursue. If the great deserts and prairies intervening between the Mississippi and the Rocky Mountains, along the Northern portion of the continent, be selected, it will become necessary to protect the wires from the destruction to which they would be subjected by the bands of barbarous Indians who intest that region. This might be who intest that region. This might be achieved by insulating the wires, and bury-sufficiency. In syste of the power of the ing them some distance in the earth. Such a plan would, however, prove difficult and coally. It would be no easy matter for the workmen to conceal their operations from the preternaturally actue senses of the savage, while the expense of inaulating and thing would probably be at least double that of the usual mode. Not having seen any detailed description of the mode in which these gentlemen purpose to conduct their enterprise, we are not willing to start bypotherical objections. It seems to us clear, a vertiboles, that the only absolutely safe dolumn. that of the usual mode. Not having seen any detailed description of the mode in which these gentlemen purpose to conduct their enterprise, we are not willing to start by pothetical objections. It seems to us clear, a vertholess, that the only absolutely safe and practicable route for a telegraph line to the Pacific would be in the South, across the State of Texas, and through New Mexico and the lower part of California to San Diegothese in a Northerly direction to San Francisco. Such a route is the most expedient as well as the shortest.

It is scarcely necessary to animalizert on the necessity of a telegraphic line to the Pacific. The Union pactors aptly enough a letter received from a triend, in reference to the utility of such hier. The writer remarks: "Important as is the newly established main route," how much more important is the speedy establishement of a telegraph line, that will bind together in electric unity the ordernation of the contemplation.

A few days ago we took occasion to describe the valuable properties possessed by the bi-sulphite of lime, and to point out the immense benefit it had conferred on the sugar interests of our. State. It is unnecessary to recapitulate our statements, especially as the sugar-planters properly appreciate the value of this deficating agent, and know that its employment has now become indispensable.

In its last issue it utters a few parting words that sound like the last dying apsect of Richard the Third, telling us that the world is going to the devil, the Morson considerately going first to prepare the way. Hear it:

The mantle of darkness is fast enshrouting the nation; suckedness is visibly, on the increase—in short, peace is taken from the earth, and the "Princ, the power of the air," rules triumpinant among the children of men.
