AMEND CONSTITUTION OF SPORTS CLUB

Special to The Times

Duncan, Nov. 19.—An extraordinary general meeting of the Cowichan Cricket and Sports Club was held in the G.W.V.A. rooms at the Agricultural Hall Friday evening. This was called to consider changing the constitution and altering the annual entrance fees and subscription.

The rugby section wanted a very considerable reduction of fees for its members or to rent the ground on payment of a certain amount. After some discussion it was resolved to waive the entrance fee to all branches of sport played until the annual meeting in February.

A. E. Green submitted a revised constitution for the meeting's consideration. This dealt with each section running on its own and being assessed a proportionate amount each year for over the meeting's operation. This constitution was brought up again at the annual meeting. J. C. E. Henslow also had a proposition on these lines.

PEOPLE MOVE OUT AS TIMBER FAILS IN EASTERN CANADA

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—The loss of population in numerous districts of Eastern Canada, the decadence of towns and villages forced to surrender their industries, forms the basis of an interesting study by the Canadian Forestry Association. The basic reason for this "evicted population" is the ruin of their living. One community in Ontario held 5,500 people twenty years ago and the count today is under 1,700. The exodus is accounted for entirely by the destruction of the timber resources of the district and the inability of the land to attract farming population.

DECLARE CRIME IS LOWEST IN QUEBEC

Liquor System of That Province Defended by Commission

In Annual Report Officials Reply to Prohibitionists

Montreal, Nov. 19.—"A campaign of calumny" against the province of Quebec by prohibitionists "with whom coarse and violent language takes the place of logic argument," has roused the Quebec Liquor Commission to turn public attention to the system as it prevails in this province.

CITIES ARE COMPARED

Turning to the United States, the Commission sets forth a table of comparison, taking its figures from a statement issued by Judge Gemil, Chicago, a prohibitionist. It takes Boston, Washington, Buffalo, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Pittsburg and compares them and their records with Montreal, very greatly to the latter's advantage.

FIGURES OF CRIME

There follows a table of the Federal figures of crime for a five-year period showing that in the number of convictions for indictable offences per 100,000 of the population the prohibition province of Ontario leads all the rest of Canada with 231, as against 18 for Quebec. The other provinces mentioned are: Manitoba, 230; Alberta, 193; Saskatchewan, 168; British Columbia, 247; Yukon, 176. For Canada the average is 211.

LESS INTOXICATION

Statistics in the report says, further show that in convictions for intoxication, Quebec has little more than 400 convictions per 100,000 population, as compared with a figure of 450 in Ontario and 420 in Nova Scotia. In the urban centres in Quebec the proportion is 725 per 100,000 as against 180 in Ontario, 750 in Alberta and Prince Edward Island, 865 in British Columbia, 1,064 in Nova Scotia and 1,120 in New Brunswick.

AWARD ACCEPTED

CAN A SPLIT BE AVOIDED?

To-day's news from Paris is not altogether reassuring. It indicates that an agreement in principle has been reached by the Council of Ambassadors and that a rupture between Great Britain and France has been avoided for the moment at any rate. So far so good.

The situation, new only in one or two more or less important particulars, with which the Allies are now faced has been produced by two declarations from the central government at Berlin, while the unimportant element which has injected itself into the new discussions is the return of the former Crown Prince to his native land.

Germany informed France the other day that she would not be in a position to pay further reparations until the industrial and economic condition of the Ruhr could be restored to the status which existed prior to the commencement of the occupational process. She followed this up by the announcement that it would be impossible henceforward for the authorities at Berlin to continue to guarantee the requisite protection for the Inter-Allied Military Control Commission.

This sort of procedure, whether it be duplicity, cunning, or just plain obstinacy, stiffens the back of France and still further complicates the attempt which is being made to harmonize the views of Downing Street with those of the Quai d'Orsay. Premier Poincaré—supported by a Government and people who know Germany better than the rest of the Allies, who have cause to remember the Bismarckian principle of debt collection—declares emphatically that Germany will not be allowed to escape even if French attitude shall destroy the Entente. He says France will stay where she is until her ancient foe has discharged the last cent of her obligation. In this policy Great Britain does not agree and Italy is sympathetic to the British attitude. But all the Allies are equally interested in the duties that the Treaty of Versailles defines for the Military Control Commission. In the demand for its protection there should be little or no ground for discord. France objects strongly to the presence of the former Crown Prince in Germany and she proposes further penalties unless he shall be deported. British sentiment in this connection is only one of lukewarm support for France and will not lend itself to compromise if penalties, in the event of German disregard for French wishes, should be proposed.

Consequently it is now a matter of reconciling the diverse views of London and Paris. Germany understands the situation perfectly and her chief object is to fan the flame of dissent. She conceives this to be the shortest cut to some form of sympathy or assistance from Great Britain. In the main she will be fooled because the people of the Entente countries will hesitate before they will permit the memory of a common sacrifice to be wiped out by German duplicity and cunning. Nevertheless the situation is fraught with uncomfortable possibilities and cool heads will be required to find a way out of the apparent impasse.

THE CHEMAINUS MILL

Victorians have learned with regret that fire has destroyed the lumber mill owned and operated by the Victoria Lumber and Manufacturing Company at Chemainus. The establishment in question was the largest of its kind on Vancouver Island and easily ranked as one of the most important producers in British Columbia.

Although it is too early for the owners to give any indication of their plans for rebuilding the mill, it is expected that the exceedingly bright prospects for the lumber industry, the continually increasing demand for British Columbia woods from various parts of the world, will be instrumental in leading to a decision to reconstruct a plant of still larger proportions to take the place of the one that has been destroyed. This would seem to be assured by reason of the company's valuable interests on the Island and in view of the fact that plans already were under way for an extension of producing capacity.

While the forced cessation of production will naturally occasion the company considerable concern, it goes without saying that the economic dislocation and loss involved through the unemployment of something like four hundred men will be equally deplored by employers and the citizens of Vancouver Island generally.

CELEBRATING THE UNION

Fifty-seven years ago Vancouver Island and the Mainland of the Colony of British Columbia decided that the interests of both communities could be better served by a united march into the future. Consequently upon this day in 1866 union became an accomplished fact and this part of Canada thereby took the first step that was destined to simplify British Columbia's entry into Confederation five years later.

To celebrate the birthday in question the Lady Douglas Chapter of the I.O.G.E. named after the wife of the brilliant organizer and administrator who founded the colony that was destined to grow in prosperity and importance as the years rolled by—has arranged a number of functions that will be rounded off by a ball at the Empress Hotel this evening.

Most people are familiar with the more recent history of this Province and on this day they may find pleasure in allowing their imaginations full rein. For their part Victorians may consult a pictorial representation of this city in 1866 and contrast it with realities at this later day. "There hangs a tale."

SEE CANADA FIRST

According to officials of the Canadian National Railways the "Winter in Canada" movement is already increasing in popularity and inquiries are being made about the Canadian Pacific Coast from hundreds of people who have hitherto betaken themselves to Southern resorts. This is as it should be. It may be that the Winter climate in this part of Canada is not as settled as it is on some parts of the Californian Coast; but it can be said that our damp and cloudy days are frequently interspersed by substantial bursts of sunshine.

Apart from the selfish outlook, however, there are parts of this Province and many points in the neighboring Province of Alberta where Winter sports can be indulged in with all the thrills that may be experienced at Davos or Chamonix or at any of the Swiss resorts. Mayhap the social side of the business has not been developed on this continent to the same extent as in Europe; but as soon as there shall be sufficient business to warrant an extension of such provision, as has made Switzerland's appeal famous all the world over, the transportation companies at least will not be slow to do all that is needful.

We in Canada are altogether too modest about our own attractions. Why not use the British Empire Exhibition as one medium through which to present our claim to a share of that patronage which wealthy Britishers literally shower into the hills of Alpine hotels. We venture to suggest that half of these people look upon the Alps as the last word in dizzy snow-clad heights. Whereas Western Canada has a dozen sets of Alps with each presenting a panorama easily equal to and in many instances surpassing them—not excepting even the Bernese Oberland or the Dolomites.

"Winter in Canada" should be pushed at the Exhibition. It would be worth spending a few thousand dollars on large prints of the Rockies if only to give the millions of visitors who know them only by name an idea of what a "sea of mountains" looks like. And the main point about the idea might well turn on that of Empire loyalty.

Note and Comment

The Entente Cordiale has beaten the cat for lives. It has "died" many times only to be revived and restored to fairly healthy vigor.

One of the Board of Directors of the Hudson's Bay Company from London visited Kamloops the other day and was surprised at "the metropolitan appearance of the city." He had pictured it as an ordinary small town. The inhabitants of the Interior Capital are now sticking their chests out.

Mr. Winston Churchill is having visions of a "come back." Quite a number of constituencies seem to have a fancy for the former First Lord of the Admiralty. But it was an awful blow to Dundee's representative to be defeated by a prohibitionist.

Mr. Lloyd George has dug up a brand new set of epigrams and he is using them on Mr. Baldwin. But we must ask him to be respectful towards British Columbia salmon. The famous sockeye will resent flippant references to its tin can lodging.

We observe that some of the non-contract movie stars get as much as $3,500 per week. On earth does Mr. Lloyd George worry about getting back into political leadership when Hollywood offers $182,000 a year?

Tabulation of the lists for a well-known British Columbia directory shows that artisans who left for points in the United States a few years ago are returning. Why shouldn't they? Where will they fare better than in British Columbia in the long run?

Some Thoughts for To-day

Is there not
A tongue in every star that talks with man,
And woos him to be wise! nor woos in vain;
This dead of midnight is the noon of thought,
And wisdom mounts her zenith with the stars.
Anna-Letitia Barbauld.

My mind to me a kingdom is;
Such perfect joy therein I find,
That it excels all other bliss
That God or Nature hath assign'd,
Though much I want that most would have,
Yet still my mind forbids to crave.
Wm. Byrd.

But through the heart
Should Jealousy its venom once diffuse,
'Tis then delightful misery no more,
But agony unmix'd, incessant gall,
Chroding every thought, and blasting all
Love's paradise.
Thomson.

THE PROHIBITION FIASCO
London Morning Post—Prohibition, across the Atlantic, has been in the opinion of our temperance advocates a complete fiasco. For it has failed to accomplish what it set out to perform. It has not prevented the sale of alcoholic liquors. All that it has done is to make such liquors more costly and more dangerous than ever.

LO, THE POOR BISON
Toronto Telegram—Canadians may well wish that their suffering country never had reason to blame the authorities for anything worse than the slaughter of a few scores or hundred buffalo. Perchance the humble Ontario hog entertains an objection to being slaughtered, no less pronounced than the similar objection cherished by the lordly Alberta bison. The process of slaughtering the buffalo is at least as merciful and humane as the process of slaughtering the hog.

WILL ASK MANY LEGAL AMENDMENTS

Parliamentary Committee of Union of B.C. Municipalities Meets Here

Preliminary to the placing of the views of the municipal leaders of British Columbia, as expressed through the Union of B.C. Municipalities before the Executive Council and the Municipal Committee of the Legislature, a committee meeting was held at the City Hall to-day. It was attended by Reeve Lockley, of Esquimalt, the president; Mayor Colley, of Kamloops; Reeve Loutet, of North Vancouver, and ex-Mayor A. W. Gray, of New Westminster. Mr. Gray is secretary of the union.

Their object was to put in shape the legislation presented at the annual convention at Prince Rupert for attention at the Parliament Buildings, as well as to prepare for the suggestions and amendments made since by the various districts. The intention, Reeve Lockley told The Times to-day, is to meet the Government first, and to follow up the proceedings with an appearance before the Municipal Committee.

Mothers' Pensions
One of the subjects on which the committee was instructed to endeavor to secure a change of legislation, is Mothers' Pensions. The criticism leveled against the Act is that it excludes a widow owning a house at an assessed valuation of over $1,500 regardless of the number and age of her children. This, it was claimed by the convention, eliminates many worthy applicants.

Changes are also sought in the Municipal Act regarding the burial of the poor and destitute. It is desired to make the municipality where the man resided, responsible for burial expenses when no person appears to claim the body. A change in the Hospital Act is sought in which municipalities responsible only for the indigent who have been resident in the municipality for twelve months instead for all persons who have resided thirty days in the municipality.

SURPRISE VISIT
Pupils of Cav Dr. Di Castri walked into his studio on Friday night last, and opened the evening by singing "For He is a Jolly Good Fellow."
A fine programme was given by all present, and refreshments were served after a speech was made by Mr. Matheson, who welcomed Dr. Di Castri back to Victoria in a very fine speech. Dr. Di Castri replied expressing his appreciation in being taken so completely by surprise.

QUIET WEDDING AT CHRIST CHURCH

Miss Helen Nation and Mr. R. H. B. Ker Joined in Wedding To-day
At Christ Church Cathedral at 3.30 this afternoon the wedding of Helen Maud, only daughter of Mr. Frederick Nation, Rockland Avenue, and the late Mrs. Nation, and Mr. Robert Henry Brackman Ker, eldest son of the late Mr. D. R. Ker, and of Mrs. Ker, Kershaugh, Yates Street, took place in the presence of the immediate relatives of both the bride and groom, the ceremony being performed by the Right Rev. Bishop C. B. Schofield.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was unattended, and looked very smart in a simple dress of midnight blue charmeen, with which was worn a blue velvet picture hat trimmed with uncut beads and feathers and gloves to match. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Russell Ker.
Following the ceremony, which was witnessed by a large number of friends of both the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Ker left on the afternoon boat for Seattle, from where they will proceed to the bride's home in Honolulu. On her departure the bride wore a handsome musquash coat, the gift of the groom.

Peace Delegate Was Surprised to Find Canadians Civilized

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Addressing a gathering here, Miss Amy Woods, of Washington, D.C., national secretary of the Women's Internal League of Peace, said she was agreeably surprised to find that the Canadian people were not the ignorant, brutal race that she and millions of others in the United States had been taught to believe.
The Brock memorial at Queens-town Heights appalled her, as she had never before heard that Americans had waged war in Canada. Miss Woods explained she had come to Toronto to enlist the support of the Canadians in the furtherance of the movement that was to make war impossible.

Sir Robert Borden Addressed Women on League of Nations

Ottawa Nov. 19.—Addressing the Women's University Club here Saturday upon the work accomplished by the Washington disarmament conference, Sir Robert Borden made a strong appeal for support of the League of Nations and its ideals, declaring that the principles of discussion, understanding, co-operation and open diplomacy, embodied in the covenant had contributed chiefly to the success of the Washington conference.
Complete unanimity was needed in international conferences, Sir Robert said. He expressed the view that no treaty or resolution could carry on unless it received the support of each nation.

WOULD USE ONLY B.C. PRODUCTS AND FRUIT OF PROVINCE

An eloquent appeal that consumers in British Columbia should use as much as possible British Columbia products was made by Mrs. W. G. Todd, of Victoria, who delivered a remarkable address in the Memorial hall, to the conference of the women's institutes in Nelson.
Mrs. Todd, representing the British Columbia products bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade, gave interesting statistics as to the growth of British Columbia trade, the growth of industries and the growth of population.

The few remaining tickets for this affair may be obtained from Spence's Music Store or by phoning the chairman of committee, 6517R.

YOUR HOME AND YOU
By HELEN KENDALL
The Cushioned Fender
Outside the first thick flurry of snow was falling. A leaden November sky hung heavily over the world, and a blanket of gloom seemed to have settled down upon the quiet street. Inside, however, a roaring fire glowed in the open fireplace, and warm light danced on the brass candlesticks, the copper bowl of evergreens and the dull gold of a mirror frame.
"Gosh, mother," exclaimed the half-grown son of the house, who had come in with damp feet and chilled hands from his first snow-shovelling of the season, "this fender is certainly one improvement over last winter's isn't it? This is the only house I know of where you can sit with your back to the fire and get that warm too! Feels good when your shoulders have come all cold and wet with snow. Dad is a wonder to have made it, what? And he patted the plump cushion appreciatively, the copper bowl of evergreens, the copper bowl of evergreens and the dull gold of a mirror frame.

Inches high, supported by sturdy posts of spindles, the whole stood on the floor as solidly as a chair, owing to its firm, square corners. It was stout enough to hold two or three members of the family at once, and was eagerly sought by every one in the household, as well as by guests, coming in from the raw winter air. After the frame had been finished Mother had padded the top of the bench and covered the padding with heavy tapestry cloth of inconspicuous design. Feet could be put up without harming the sturdy material, and the fender offered an ideal place for the confidences and cozy chats which draw households closer together.

LIVED IN WILDS TO STUDY ANIMALS

Well-Known Artist is Now Resident at Sidney
Special to The Times
Sidney, Nov. 19.—A celebrated artist, Mrs. Drummond Davies, of London, England, has recently come to reside in Sidney. For the last three years Mrs. Drummond Davies has lived in a rustic log cabin in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, two miles from Banff. Her studio and ranch are at the foot of Stoney Squaw Mountain. She is a true nature lover, esteeming wild and isolated spots. She also has no fear of the wild animals as they cry around her cabin attracted by the lights. Mrs. Davies has a very large open fire place in her log studio, constructed of stones, she herself gathered from the mountain side. She cut the trees for her fences, and obtained all her own firewood, as she can wield an axe as well as any man. She lived in Banff to study the animal life of the Government reserves. Often she spent days alone in the mountains, traveling there on horseback, with a second pack pony, to occupy the time sketching.

HER WIDE EXPERIENCE
Mrs. Davies paints under the name of N. Drummond, and her pictures hang in many leading Art Galleries of Europe. She also paints for several of the leading galleries in Banff. Her artistic family, she comes from an artistic family, her father, J. Drummond, being a well known marine painter and her brother, A. Drummond, painted that very famous picture, "His Majesty, the Baby."
During her training in London she took a course in animal anatomy in a veterinary college, in order to fit herself as an animal painter. She painted white in Banff twelve large canvases for the Lux Theatre, Banff, of historic records of the early days of the Rockies, also six large canvases for the Mount Royal Hotel, Banff. "The Last Sun-dance at Blackfoot Crossing" and "Old Fort Walsh" are among the best. With its ox team, tepees and Indians; the life of the Indians and buffalo is most fascinating.

COMPETED IN RACES
Last winter she drove two sleds in the five-mile freight race at Banff. On account of the excitement of the crowd the dogs got confused, and, after leading more than a quarter of a mile they were beaten by half the length of one dog by the only husky team competing.
Mrs. Drummond Davies is of great sporting inclinations. She now has a row, box and row around the islands studying the scenery and the change of backgrounds. She is charmed with the Gulf Islands and the scenery of the Saanich Peninsula. She daily drives herself in her wagon with her team of Alredades down to the shops and to fetch her mail.

Delight in this method of combating film on teeth

Whiter teeth have come to millions in the past few years. You see them everywhere. The dingy film which used to coat them is now combated daily.

Those whiter teeth mean cleaner, safer teeth. You will want them when you know. Learn how to get them by this simple test.

The cause is film

Film is the cause of cloudy teeth—that viscous film you feel. Under old methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats, which once were more common than now.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

All of these troubles became alarmingly common under old methods of teeth cleaning.

Then dental science found two film combatants. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combant which contains harsh grit.

Made in Canada

The New-Day Dentifrice

Now advised by leading dentists the world over.

The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to advise it, and now it is used the world over.

New requirements

Pepsodent meets other new requirements. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva—there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch-digestant in saliva—there to digest starch deposits.

Thus every use of Pepsodent gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents.

You'll quickly see

You will quickly see and feel these good effects. And you will realize what they mean to you and yours.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

The results will be a revelation to you. They will bring a new conception of clean teeth. Cut out coupon now.

Another Unsolicited Tribute to the Great "KNABE" Piano

For years it has been so, and now more particularly so, that the name of great artists are so frequently associated with a "Knabe" Piano, be it Grand or Upright. About a "Knabe" there is something almost indescribably beautiful. The world's most severe critics acclaim it a "Masterpiece of Piano Construction." Vocalists and instrumentalists, far and wide, applaud it.

Misses Joy and Una Calvert (who gave a delightful recital last Wednesday under the auspices of the Ladies' Musical Club) amply demonstrated the wonderful velvety tone quality of the "Knabe" Grand furnished by us

Gratifying indeed was it to hear the various pleasant and graceful comments passed upon the superb tone of the "Knabe" by many in the audience—it was a REVELATION TO THEM. With Christmas near at hand, why not talk over with us the possibility of your purchasing a "Knabe," "Willis" or "Chickering" piano of an Ampico, which are obtainable on Vancouver Island only from us?

Remember—We sell Pianos, Player-Pianos and the "Ampico" exclusively; therefore is it not logical that we offer the very best values? Our terms are most reasonable.

THE STEP ON THE STAIR

BY ANNA KATHARINE GREEN
Author of "The Leavenworth Case," "The Filigree Ball," "The Mystery of the Hasty Arrow," Etc.

Miss Corfax had been a ward of my uncle from early childhood. She was an orphan and an heiress in a small way, which in itself gave her but little prestige. It was her beauty which distinguished her; that and a composed nature of great dignity. Though much admired, especially by men, she had none of the whims of an acknowledged belle. Amiable but decided, she gave her lovers short shifts. She would have none of them until one fine day the sole admirer who would not take no for an answer, renewed his importunities with such spirit that she finally yielded, though not with any show of passion or apparent loss of the dignity which was an essential part of her.

"Yet," Orpha confided to me, "I was more astonished than I can say when Father took me on the night of the ball that the two were really engaged and that it was his wish that a public acknowledgment of it should be made at the supper-table. And I don't understand it yet, for Lucy never has shown any preference for Dr. Hunter. She is a girl of strong character and however this match may turn out you will never know from her that it is not a perfect success."

No word of herself or Edgar; no hint of any knowledge on her part of what I felt to be the true explanation of Miss Corfax's cold treatment of her various lovers. Was this plain ignorance, or just the effort of a proud heart to hide its own humiliation? If the former, what a story it told of secret affections—developing unseen and unknown in a circle of intimates whose lives were supposed to be open as the day. I marveled at Edgar, I marveled at Orpha, I marveled at Lucy Corfax. Then I gave a little thought to myself and marveled that I, unsuspected by all, should have been given an insight into a situation which placed me on a level with those who thought their secret hidden. The day might come when this knowledge would be of some importance to me. But till that day arrived, it was for me to hold their secret sacred. Of that there could be no question. So what I had to say in response to these cousinly confidences left everything where it was. Those were days of non-betrayal, as I have already remarked, and they remained so until Uncle was again on his feet and the time seemed ripe for me to return to New York.

Convinced of this I sought an interview with him. Though constantly in the house I had not seen him since that fateful night. "He received me kindly with little enthusiasm, while I exerted all my self-control to keep from showing by look or manner how shocked I was at his changed appearance. He confronted me from his invalid's chair, an old man; he who a month ago, was regarded by all as a most notable specimen of physical strength and brilliant mentality.

The blow which had thus laid low this veritable king of men must indeed have been a heavy one. As I took in this fact more fully I questioned whether I had been correct in ascribing it to nothing more serious than the discovery, at the last minute, of Edgar's passion for another woman than Orpha.

But I kept these doubts to myself and studiously avoided betraying any curiosity, anxious as I was to know how matters stood with him, what his present feelings were towards Edgar and what they were towards myself. That he had not sent for me during these days of serious illness, while his door had been constantly open to Edgar, might not mean quite as much as appeared. He was used to Edgar and quite unused to myself. Besides, his special attendants, those whose business it was to care for him, would be more likely to balk than assist the intrusion into his presence of one who might consider himself as a possible rival to their old time favorite.

Unless it was Orpha. But why should I except Orpha? Had I any reason whatever for doing so? No; a thousand times, no. Yet— I was still astonished at my own persistence in formulating in my mind the word yet when my uncle spoke.

"You must pardon me, Quentin, for leaving it to you to remind me of our relationship. It was too ill to see any other faces about me than those to which I am accustomed. I could not bear—"

We were alone and as he hesitated, he, the strong man, I put out my hand with a momentary show of my real feelings. "I understand. No apologies from you, Uncle. You have allowed me to remain in the house with you. That in itself showed a consideration for which I am truly grateful. But time has now come for me to return to my work. You are better—"

But here he stopped me. "You are right; I am better, but I am on the down-grade, Quentin. I who till now have never known one sick day. I shall need attendance—companionship—a man at my side—some one to write my letters—to-keep track of my affairs—you or Edgar. I cannot have him here always. His temperament is such that it would be almost impossible for him to bear for any length of time the constraint of a sick-room. Nor would I impose too much of the same on you. I have a proposition to make—"

He did not proceed with a drop in his tone which bespoke a sudden access of feeling. "What do you say to an equal sharing of this duty, pleasure or whatever you may call it—a week of attendance from each in turn, the off week of either being one of complete freedom from all obligations and to be spent wherever you or Edgar may wish? It is not in this house? I will make it all right for you in New York, Edgar will not need my help." Then as I hesitated to reply he added with a touch of pride in his unusual proceeding, no doubt, but I have always been master of the unusual and in this case my heart and honor are both involved."

He did not explain how or in what way, nor did I ask him, for I saw that he had not finished with what he had to say, and I wished to hear all that was in his mind. "It will not be for long." (How certain he was!) "Consequently, it will not be hard for you to assure me that whether here or elsewhere, you will not disturb the present conditions of affairs by any revelation of purpose or desire beyond the one common to you all to see me slip happily and as easily as possible out of life. Cousins, do you hear? Cousins all three, whatever the temptation to overstep the mark; cousins, until I speak or am dead."

I rose, and advanced to his side. I even ventured to take him by the hand. "You may rely on my honor," I quietly assured him, glad to see his eye brighten and a smile reminiscent of his old hearty gladness, brighten his worn countenance. "What more was said, is of no consequence to my story."

During the weeks which followed we all, so far as I know, kept scrupulously to the line of conduct so arbitrarily laid out for us. Surface smiles; surface looks; surface courtesies. The only topic which called out full sincerity on the part of any of us was my uncle's steadily falling health. (To be continued.)

TWO NEW STORES UNDER ERECTION

Will Make Handsome Addition to New Bank of Nova Scotia

Two handsome new stores are under erection in connection with the construction of the new Bank of Nova Scotia building on Douglas and Yates Streets. The new stores will rank among the most artistic in the city. They each occupy a space of about 17 ft. by 50 ft. They are of mill type with handsome stone fronts. The finest of cut stone is used, and they will make an appropriate addition to the fine bank building on which the work is rapidly proceeding.

Good weather has favored the general contractors, the Hudson King & Marble Company, for the bank building. The concrete floors and frame and pillars are complete throughout and work is now progressing on the walls. Cut stone and brick work is being placed throughout the building. R. J. Lockyer, the superintendent of construction for the bank, expresses satisfaction with the work was progressing.

As far as possible all the sub-contractors have been let in Victoria in accordance with the bank's policy. The stone was cut by J. C. and C. H. McDonald, of Vancouver, because the work could not be done in this city. All the other sub-contractors are in the hands of local firms as follows: Heating, J. C. Nott & Co., electrical, Sun Electric Co., teaming, Joseph Heaney; lumber, C. S. Lumber Co.; gravel, Producer Rock & Gravel Co.; plumbing, W. Inglis; metal work, Pacific Sheet Metal Works; reinforcing steel, Evans, Coleman & Evans, Victoria office.

NEWS IN BRIEF

To complete the business from the adjourned meeting of the Ward Four Liberal Association a meeting will be held at the Liberal Club this evening.

A special meeting of the Amputation Association will be held at the club quarters to-morrow at 8 p.m. to consider steps to be taken with regard to the pensions question.

The concert held in St. John's under the auspices of St. John's Ladies' Guild was a decided success. Victor Edmunds' vocal programme was much enjoyed and heartily applauded.

A meeting of the Tubercular Veterans' Association will be held in their rooms, Brown Block, Broad Street, this evening at 8 o'clock. An executive meeting will be held before general meeting.

Major Burde, M.P.P. for Alberni, arrived at the Parliament Buildings to-day, armed with medical evidence to aid in the fight for purer beer for British Columbia, which he launched on the floor of the House.

The amount of general taxes collected in 1922 was $1,361,660, according to a return presented to Mayor Hayward on Saturday, as compared with $1,490,570 in the period of 1923 to October 31, when the surtax became operative.

The Canadian Highway Association will hear the report of the delegation which interviewed the Hon. Dr. W. H. Sutherland, Minister of Public Works, at a meeting which will be held in the Chamber of Commerce committee room to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock. Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines, has promised to be present at the meeting if his legislative duties will permit.

At the Army and Navy Veterans' smoking concert held on Saturday to mark the close of the meeting of the Provincial Command, a good programme was rendered. Comrade Seymour Rowlinson was in the chair. The chairman gave the toast of the King. Major Arde, of Vancouver, proposed the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada and Comrade W. J. Taylor, provincial president, proposed Canada.

Ticket speculators have been operating in connection with the annual ball of the Victoria city police force, was the complaint made to-day to Constable Bishop, chairman of the committee. In some cases tickets bought by patrons in all good faith will have been given to others, who resold them at slightly raised prices. Patrons are requested by the blue-coats to secure their tickets from members of the committee in person.

The proposal brought forward at the Chamber of Commerce directors to-day for the meetings to be held fortnightly instead of weekly was laid over for a week. A sum of $100 or $150 towards the Chamber of Commerce memorial fund will probably be available when the accounts of the Army and Navy Ball are completed. R. P. Clark wrote to the Chamber of Commerce directors, to-day.

Provincial officers of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada were elected as follows at a meeting held Saturday: Comrade W. Taylor, of New Westminster, as president; Comrade Gardner, of Victoria, as first vice-president; Comrade Cook, of Cloverdale, as second vice-president and Comrade Hoop, of Vancouver, as third vice-president. A concert troupe, recently formed in Vancouver, will appear in Victoria in the near future it was announced.

A very successful concert was given on Friday evening in the Shelburne Street Hall by the Oakiands branch of the Junior W.A. The hall was filled to capacity, about 150 people being present. The soloists were Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Buckley and T. Rhoades, while several orchestra sections were given by the Misses Annie and Lily and Masters Sam and Hugh McKennie. The remainder of the programme, including songs and two sketches, were given by members of the Junior W.A. Rev. N. E. Smith acted as chairman.

A concert will be held at Lamson Street School to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock for the purpose of conducting a programme of music organized by Victor Edmunds, who will be assisted as accompanist by Mrs. Clifford Warn. Mr. Edmunds attended the practice on Friday and was so much impressed that he offered a concert and indicated that the greatest need for the school was a raised platform, so that all children could see the conductor. The collection to be made at the concert will be used for that purpose.

W. M. Davies waxed enthusiastic over what he believes to be a wonderful tribute to Victoria's climate. As an amateur poultry farmer he was amazed when one of his hens, which had been missing for some time, appeared with a brood of chickens. The beautiful Victoria Fall he said had been so wonderful that the hen was unable to distinguish it from summer. With a little more experience, Mr. Davies would know that broody hens will hatch chickens practically any month of the year if inexperienced poultry farmers are prepared to face the expense and care of raising them.

Reporting of the meeting of the Tourist Trade Group of the Chamber of Commerce last week when Winter activities were discussed. Frank Waring, chairman, asked the directors to-day whether the free use of the auditorium for weekly entertainments for prairie visitors could be secured. He also asked whether the directors would agree for tourists to attend group meetings which it was thought would tend to increase the interest in Victoria and Vancouver Island. It was left to the chairman of the Tourist Trade Group and the Managing Secretary, George I. Warren, to select suitable dates when the hall would be available. The matter of attendance at the group luncheons was left to a special committee.

SQUATTERS' RIGHTS

The Indian Department has investigated the claims of the squatters on Stanley Park, Vancouver, and welcomes the announcement of the court with regard to the woman known as "Maria Kulkalem," who qualifies in the right of her mother, known during the trial as "Aunt Sally." The latter died recently. This woman has a place just west of the Lumbarman's Arch, Stanley Park. W. E. Ditchburn told The Times to-day that as Chief Inspector of Agencies he made a careful investigation of the situation for the Department some years ago and

COUNCIL TO HEAR HOW FIRE DEPT. BILLS AFFECT CITY

The City Solicitor will this evening call the attention of the City Council formally to the two bills "Fire Departments Hours of Labor Act" and the "Fire Departments Two-Platoon Act," which are being introduced by Capt. Ian Mackenzie, M.P.P., to the attention of the Legislature.

Victoria is one of the five municipalities, the others being Vancouver, New Westminster, Point Grey, and South Vancouver, to which it is proposed to apply the bills. One makes the two-platoon system compulsory except in actual fighting fire, the other entitles all firemen to one day off in each week, in addition to such other time off as the firemen may have under the two-platoon system.

ASKS CHAMBER AID HOSPITAL DRIVE

The moral support of the Chamber of Commerce and its members to the Jubilee Hospital $125,000 drive was sought by R. F. Taylor at the directors' luncheon to-day. If the sum required to complete the hospital is raised, Mr. Taylor said, Victoria will have in the new Jubilee Hospital an institution second to none in equipment, building and medical efficiency.

Fred McGregor and Mark W. Graham both stressed the need for more canvassers which were vitally necessary for the success of the drive.

Victoria Radio Station Heard in New York City

Centennial Church radio operators have received word from Dr. W. H. Morris at the receiving station of the Bureau of Standards Receiving Station, located at Sea Cliff, N.Y., eighteen miles from Atlantic Ocean, stating that the Centennial Station here was heard on Armistice Sunday and that the sermon and music was clear. Dr. Morris added that he heard Dr. Davies' sermon late Armistice Sunday evening and that the sermon ended 11:15 p.m. Eastern standard time. "The air line to you is 2,475 miles," stated the communication.

EVENTS TO COME

The Victoria committee of Franco-Canada will hold its first meeting of the season on Thursday next at the Victoria College at 8:30 p.m. The subject of the evening will be "A Comparison Between British Columbia and France."

Under the auspices of the Spanish Public School Athletic Association, Henry Masters, assisted by John Gough, will give an illustrated lantern lecture in the Temperance Hall, Cedar Hill, on Wednesday, Nov. 21. Mr. Masters will show one hundred slides which depict his seven years' experience in wild Rhodesia as a missionary.

The regular meeting of the Women's Liberal-Conservative Club will be held in the Campbell Hotel on Nov. 20 at 8 p.m. Mr. W. K. Estlin, M.P.P. will address the meeting. As this is the opening educational meeting of the season it is hoped all members will be present.

The monthly meeting of the Municipal Chapter, I.O.O.F., will be held on Thursday at 8 o'clock in the new headquarters, the Hamby Building, Government and Broughton Streets.

St. John's Branch of the Girls' W.A. will hold a silver tea at Mrs. Hourston's home, 1530 Vining Street, on Wednesday, November 21, from 3 to 6 p.m.

The monthly meeting of the Parents' Association of the Fairfield Troop and Pack will be held to-night in The Precincts at 8 o'clock.

St. John's members and friends are requested to send in contributions on or before Monday, 26, so that all may be ready for the sale on November 27 at 2 p.m. or phone 4571 or 4107 and their contributions will be called for.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you use it at once.

Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

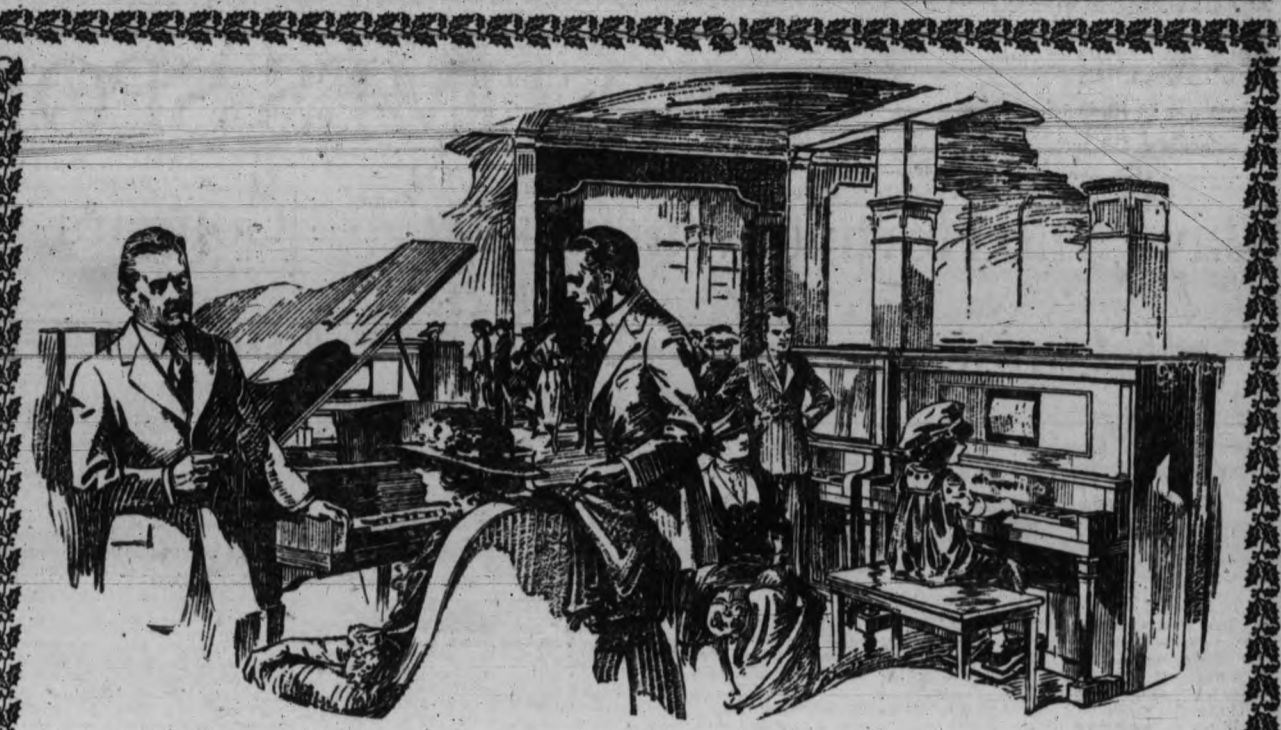

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the blister.

Just rub it on with your fingertips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief. Use it 15c. at all druggists.

Bays And Hornets Win First Games In Series

Holders of Cowichan Trophy Defeated Oak Bay Wanderers By One Point In Hard Played Game At Willows, Saturday, While Nanaimo Overcame Opposition Provided By Cowichan; Garrison Beat Navy In Senior League

Two games were decided in the first round of the Cowichan Trophy series on Saturday afternoon. In the Upper Island half the Nanaimo Hornets defeated the Cowichan Couriers by three points to nil, while in the Victoria half the J.B.A.A. accounted for the Oak Bay Wanderers by 4-3 after a very thrilling game.

That the series will provide keen, close and interesting rugby for the fans was demonstrated by the games on Saturday. In neither case could it be said that the winning team had a distinct advantage. In the case of the J.B.A.A.-Wanderers game the vanquished could have won by one point had the kick at goal in the last minutes of the game succeeded. It failed, however, as the Bays were returned winners by one point.

Two more games will be played in the series before the finals are reached. The Navy and Garrison, of Victoria, must play off and the winners of this game will meet the J.B.A.A. to determine the local champions, who will then play Nanaimo for the trophy.

Although the score in the game between the Wanderers and J.B.A.A. at the Willows on Saturday was close the Bays were on the offensive the greater part of the time. Yet they did not attempt to smash the goal but gained their points by a drop kick from the ever-reliable toe of Angie McInnes.

Washington, on the other hand, once they were aroused fought with ferocity, and did break the Bays' defence. Money plunging over the line for the score. Had the kick at goal been from a little less difficult angle, the Wanderers would have had a better chance of converting their try—and conversion would have meant victory.

McINNES DID TRICK A few days ago Angie McInnes was talking about a "good-by" to rugby. The Bays are thankful that he was joking. For Angie won them their game on Saturday. His second attempt to smash the goal in the field of play was successful, and in the beginning of the second half the Bays gained the lead through the kicking ability of that veteran of the three-quarter line.

All through the first half the teams fought desperately. The Bays were short a centre, and the special Jack McRae not arriving before the second half. Despite this disadvantage the Bays were able to keep the play in the field of play, and the great part of the time. The Bays' three-quarters pulled some nice runs and the halves fed them the ball but they were not able to break the stolid defence of the Wanderers, who led by Ken Adams were continually driving the Bays back. The Wanderers staged some brilliant sorties through the Bays' territory but seldom threatened the goal line.

Early in the second half McInnes "did his stuff." From that time onwards the Wanderers seemed to come to life. Goodacre's punts sailed to touch when the Bays pressed too hotly; Adams' weight smashed through for long punts; his kicking, too, was excellent; Hart, the new full back, played brilliantly during the whole time, and the forwards, particularly Green and Munsey, worked in desperation. On the other end of the field was Boss Johnson, kicking, tackling and directing the mode of defence. The Wanderers' forwards were advancing. In front of the skipper were McInnes, Brynjolfsson, Tolmie and others. But despite these, the Wanderers broke through about five minutes before the whistle, and the score was 4-3.

It was a splendid game, cleanly played and evenly contested. A heavy fog late in the second half obscured the players when they got near the goal. The referee, G. Williams, had a time figuring out who was who.

The teams were: Gilmer, Blythe, Robertson, Knapton, Adams, Parker, Goodacre, Gregg, Money, Shaw, Christy, Allan, George and Stewart.

Bays—Johnson, Totty, Munsey, McInnes, Hay, Bendroit, McMillan, Maclean, Travis, Tolmie, Brynjolfsson, McRae, Smith, Norris and Grayline.

Referee—Billy Ellis.

Duncan, Nov. 19.—The Nanaimo Rugby team beat Cowichan, 3-0 on the Cowichan Crickets and Sports Club grounds on Saturday afternoon, in the struggle for possession of the handsome Cowichan trophy, presented last year by Captain G. Williams. Many times Cowichan looked like scoring, but just failed to touch down. Throughout, the game was evenly contested, although at times play was very ragged.

The teams were: Nanaimo—Fullback, Cairns; halves, Lane, Johnston; three-quarters, Potts, Mackenzie, I. Huddleston, J. H. Huddleston; forwards, Armstrong, R. Fidelis Rally Towards Close And Win Match

Christ Church Girls Led Most of Way But Could Not Hold on at End

Senior Girls—Fidelis 17, Christ Church 12.

Intermediate Girls—Harmony 10, Metropolitan 7.

Intermediate Boys—Metropolitan 14, Oaklands 1.

After playing like world's champions for two thirds of the game and holding what looked like a safe lead, the Christ Church senior girls fell down before the Fidelis attack in the closing minutes of play at the Trades Hall on Saturday night before the largest crowd of the season. The game was one of the most exciting of the series up to date.

The Cathedral girls set up a rapid pace at the start and it was not long before Florrie Gates opened up the count a moment later, but Florrie Gates and Kathy Wellburn speeded up and scored rapidly, giving Christ Church the lead at points to 3. Beth Campbell scored for Fidelis just before half time.

WILDLY EXCITING The second period was a wildly exciting affair. Christ Church supporters showing great enthusiasm when Florrie Gates made a lone rush through the opposing defence and scored, doubling the score on the Fidelis.

At this stage of the game it appeared as if the Christ Church girls had the game well in hand, but the Fidelis team were by no means a pushover. They led again and showed her scoring ability by dropping in two nice long shots. Two free throws were successfully taken by the same player, and the Christ Church girls were ahead for the first time. Florrie Gates brought the spectators to their feet with a fine shot, and the score was 13-12, with two minutes to play. The Fidelis team led again and the pace better and were successful in adding two more baskets before the whistle blew.

Isobel Crawford's fine shooting was largely instrumental in putting the Fidelis girls in the lead. Florrie Gates played exceptionally well, while Kathy and Grace Wellburn also starred for Christ Church.

Bill Huxtable refereed. The teams and individual scoring records were: Fidelis—Isobel Crawford (13), Beth Campbell (8), Hilda Best, M. Breckenridge and Iris Fairbrook. Christ Church—Kathy Wellburn (4), Phyllis Gates, Florrie Gates (3), Grace Wellburn and M. McMillan.

INTERMEDIATE BOYS When the Oakland Orioles heard the warbling of the referee's whistle they flustered into their positions and endeavored to hold back the fierce attacks of the Metropolitan Magpies, but without success. The Mets forced away winners, 14 to 1.

The teams were: Mets—Mahwinney (4), Muston (3), Saxe (3), Harris, Griffith and Hambley. Oakland—Jones, Viggers (1), Colling, Smith and Davis.

INTERMEDIATE GIRLS The Harmony five appear to have improved greatly this season, starting off with a win over St. Andrew's Blues. The first period was very close, St. Andrew's scoring first and the Harmony girls going ahead a little later. The last time score was 2 to 1, but in the second period Kathleen Freestone put the Harmony five well in the lead with some lovely shots.

The teams were: Harmony—M. Williamson, K. Freestone (6), Anna Carveth (4), Jessie Haddock, Dorothy Lee and Cissie Nelson. St. Andrew's—Rowena Penty, Eleanor MacLeod, Dorothy Clayton, Helen Miller, Helen Cruickshank and Iris Hall.

UNITED STATES WILL SEND HOCKEY SQUAD TO PARIS OLYMPIAD Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 19.—William S. Hadden, president of the United States Amateur Hockey Association, announced yesterday that interested cities had been asked to raise a fund of $8,000 to send the American Olympic hockey team to France in January.

The team will be composed of members of the Boston club, winners of last year's United States championship. Most of the scoring was done in the first half, Ward dropping a goal from a difficult angle, Pendry romping through for a try, which McInnes converted. The ball was flopping on the ball over the line for another try.

Each side scored a try in the second half, Russell grounding the ball exactly between the goalposts. The kick for the extra points was successful. Freeman went over for the Navy's only try.

Cougars Off On First Invasion of Vancouver

Off on their first invasion of Vancouver this season the Cougars departed this afternoon. To-night they will resume the argument with Vancouver which terminated here on Friday by five to one and they hope to be able to flip the Maroons for just the same kind of licking.

Mickey MacKay will be back in the line-up to-night and this will make the Cougars' job of winning quite a bit harder.

The Cougars realize that they have the edge on the other clubs right now in condition and want to get all the games they can before the others get fit. The Maroons were not all in even fair shape on Friday, several of them heaving like porpoises before the game had gone far. Once the Maroons got into the pink of condition they will be just as hard a team to beat as they were last year.

ARE OUT TO WIN The victory on Friday night put the Cougars in splendid shape and they left their work on Saturday afternoon with relish. They are out to win everything in sight. They may not make the grade in Vancouver to-night but it will not be for the lack of effort. The Cougars are all in fine shape for such an early date and with three good substitutes the regulars are able to step faster than was their custom last year.

Appeal Of Wednesday Leaguers Is Granted

Suspensions Imposed on President Cull and Secretary Thomas By Lower Island Football Association Are Lifted by B.C.F.A.; Sid Sherratt Loses His Appeal; Will Celebrate Centenary of Football on December 8

Reversing the decision of the Lower Island Football Association the British Columbia Football Association at a meeting held in the Veterans of France room yesterday lifted the suspension on President W. Cull and Secretary S. Thomas of the Wednesday Football League. The appeal of the Wednesday League was upheld, which exonerated the officials on the charges of insubordination.

In the second appeal, that of S. Sherratt, captain of the Victoria Wests, suspended for one month by the Lower Island Association, the B.C.F.A. Association upheld the Lower Island body and refused to lift the suspension.

President Cull stated that he had not been given sufficient time by the executive together in order to call off the game. When he was told that the game could not be played at the Royal Athletic Park as had been decided at the regular meeting of the Wednesday League it was necessary to change the game to Beacon Hill Park on Thanksgiving afternoon.

Secretary Thomas in stating his case declared that the minutes called for by the Lower Island Association were not in existence, and as a result he could not produce them. He corroborated the statement of President Cull that he could not act alone for the Wednesday League and call off the game.

At the finish of the appeal it was pointed out by the board that too much business had been transacted over the telephone, and a motion was passed to the effect that the secretaries of the leagues and associations in Victoria be brought to a better standing.

SHERRATT LOSES OUT In the second case against "Sid" Sherratt, of the Wests, Jack Younan, manager of the greenhairs, pointed out that his player was a gentleman both in the field and off, and that what he had said to Referee Lock was in no way ungentlemanly. However, the board decided that Sherratt had disobeyed the referee and suspension of one month would have to hold.

Alex. Robertson, president of the B.C.F.A. and also a Cratich Honor, who has been interested in football for a great many years.

It was decided by the B.C.F.A. to communicate with the Dominion Football Association in an effort to secure at least three games in this Province when the Corinthians make a tour of Canada. The association pointed out that as British Columbia has the Connaught Cup champions it was entitled to at least three games with the visiting English footballers.

OTTAWAS ARRIVE Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—Tommy Gorman and his famous Ottawa Senators arrived Saturday night to compete in the professional tournament here and had a fast workout immediately.

The match was keenly contested. Miss Douglass has the honor of being the first ladies' champion of the club and wins the Viewley Trophy. This will be presented to her at a tea to be held at the club next Saturday afternoon.

Miss C. G. Douglass is the first ladies' champion of the Macaulay Club Golf Club. She won the honor in the finals yesterday, defeating Miss G. McNeil to free up and two to play.

Zev Will Be Sent To Paris to Race European Horses

Owner Intends to Compete in International Event; Jockey Dumbfounded

Paris, Nov. 19.—The victory at Churchill Downs on Saturday of Zev over In Memoriam has made Zev the choice of the United States horses, which are being considered for the international horse race to be held here on May 2, of next year.

M. Wertheimer, owner of Epinard, the champion French three-year-old, will sail for New York, December 1. He will, upon his arrival, get in personal contact with Mr. Sinclair to arrange with him various details of the race.

Invitations to the Grand Spanish Jockey Clubs and the Italian and Belgian Racing Societies will be dispatched in a few days.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 19.—"It will be a good thing for racing to have an American horse compete abroad," Mr. Sinclair said, commenting on the international race in Paris. "England sent Papyrus over here and why shouldn't we return the compliment? I shall be glad to send Zev into the race."

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 19.—By virtue of a scant nose victory over In Memoriam, the Rancocas stable's Zev was an route to Baltimore next night with the three-year-old turf crown in his possession.

In what seemed to-day destined to be long told as the closest and most thrilling finish in the annals of the American turf, Harry P. Sinclair's crack colt flashed past the wire at Churchill Downs on Saturday neck and neck with Carl Wiedmann's In Memoriam.

So close was that breath-taking finish to the mile and one-quarter match race between the two great colts that the officials of the American Turf Association were necessary to establish the winner.

The time for the race was 2:06 3/5, three and two-fifths seconds slower than the track record for a mile and a quarter, made by Woodtrap in 1921.

In defeating In Memoriam, Zev gained new laurels by taking first place as the greatest money winning race-horse in the world with a total of $301,973, putting him ahead of the two English cracks, Insignias, with $291,275 and Donovan, with $277,215.

Zev is scheduled to meet Rear Admiral Grayson's My Own in a match race at Bowie on a date to be agreed upon during the week.

A HAPPY MAN "This is the happiest moment of my life," Mr. Sinclair said after the race. "I knew in my heart that Zev didn't run the race he is capable of running when he ran out in Memoriam at Latonia. The result on Saturday proved that I was right. Zev is a great horse. I am proud of him, but I am just as proud of Sander and Trainer Hildreth. That combination made victory possible."

The first to congratulate Sinclair was Carl Wiedmann, Newport, Ky., sportsman, owner of In Memoriam. With tears in his eyes, but with a smile on his face, Mr. Wiedmann fought his way into the Sinclair box and grasped Sinclair's hand.

He tried to speak, but words failed him. The two owners stood, their hands clasped, looking into each other's eyes.

"It was a wonderful race," shouted Wiedmann. "Mr. Sinclair, not as a loser, but as a Kentuckian, I want to congratulate you. Your horse won a great race. You have a great horse and a great jockey."

Uncle Sam and the two owners locked arms and strolled into the club house dining-room.

JOCKEY DUMBFOUNDED Jockey Garner was plainly dumbfounded when his eyes caught the number of Zev on the score board as a winner of the race.

"You can tell them that my horse won the race. That figure is wrong," Sander, facing a battery of cameras, was all smiles as he pulled up in front of the judges' stand.

"I simply let Zev run his own way," he said. "In the home stretch I called on Zev to win the dirt; he failed me—never has, but I want to say that Zev got away to a bad start, although I wasn't worried for I felt Zev could overcome the lead. We kept right on in Memoriam. I don't know why—but not so far that we couldn't catch him."

A practice game was played on Saturday afternoon between two grass hockey teams picked from players in the city. The test match was played at the Willows Park grounds and the whites were successful in defeating the colts by the close score of 2-1.

Both teams worked hard and the brand of hockey flashed up by the players was excellent. Memoriam was the idea of the game was to pick the representative team for Vancouver Island to stack up against the Mainlanders on December 1.

Wests Win As Usual Though Hard Pressed

Muir's Ability to Convert Penalty Kicks Kept Record of Greenshirts Unblemished; Navy Provides Surprise By Defeating Sons of England; Wards Vanquished Again and Field Team One Man Shy

Archie Muir's ability to convert penalty kicks kept the Victoria Wests record in the First Division from getting a black mark set against it on Saturday afternoon when the young and aggressive Moose gave the leaders the game of their lives.

The Wests had to fight an uphill battle all the way and it was not until close to the end of time that Muir drove in the shot that brought victory to the greenhairs.

Another outstanding feature of Saturday's games was the showing of the Navy. The bluejackets scored their second win of the season, as well as doing so accounted for the redoubtable Sons of England, who have been runners-up to the Victoria Wests all season.

Despite their efforts to field a full team for the first time this season the Wests were out again one man short on Saturday. They opposed the Veterans and got a good drubbing. The Wards have yet to score a win this season.

The results in the First Division were as follows: Victoria Wests 3, Moose 2. Navy 3, Sons of England 0. Veterans 7, North Wards 2.

The showing of the Moose against the Wests was quite a surprise to the many fans who gathered. The leaders had to switch their line-up a little owing to the absence of the first half the Moose obtained a lead of one goal, as a result of a smart shot by Dunn, which beat Shandley. There was a lot of good football in this half and the Wests tried hard to get through but failed.

In the second half the Wests attacked heavily and during the pressure of the second half the game was handled and the Wests were awarded a penalty. This was converted by Muir. The Moose broke through the greenhairs' defence through Cummings' shot but the Wests were good for another counter, when Younan hurried through a fast shot.

Shortly before time the Wests were crowding the Moose about their goal-mouth and the ball was again handled. A penalty was awarded and once again Muir made no mistake in scoring the goal that saved the Wests.

The Navy caused a mild surprise by swinging through to a win over the Sons of England. The bluejackets have strengthened up considerably during the past ten days and have a very formidable side. They will make trouble for the best in the division from now on.

Not only did the Navy run through three goals but their defence failed to break under the attacks of the Sons and not one goal was scored against them.

The Navy scored two goals in the first half and added their third one in the second half.

Five goals were scored in the first half of the game between the Veterans and Wards, the Veterans netting the ball three times and the Wards twice, while four was scored in the second half. The game was not nearly so lopsided as the score indicates, except for the last fifteen minutes, when the Veterans had a period shooting practice. McFarfield, for the latter team, was credited with the "hat trick," he scoring three goals and firing the ball over the bar on half-a-dozen other occasions.

Shillingford, McGregor and Motion registered for the Wards. After having 7 goals registered against them in their two previous league engagements, the Veterans kicked off with balanced confidence, but set about their task with little seriousness. In fact, it was not until near the end of the first half that either team played league football, some of their movements bordering on the ridiculous.

After a fine individual run by Ailie McGregor, in which he gave Leeming a great surprise with his final effort, the Veterans opened the score. Till this time the Wards had no men on the field, but when the tenth arrived the play became more interesting. Ord, when hard pressed, conceded a corner, but the line and struck the goal post. Although the Wards were showing superior football in getting into position, their final efforts were weak. McFarfield obtained the second goal after beating three opponents, finishing his solo effort by plying the ball in the far corner of the net. With two goals against them the Wards "took hold of the bit" and, showing a clean pair of heels to the opposition, scored a pretty goal, shortly due to the efforts of McGregor. The latter player proved to be the sharpshooter of the Wards' front line, but his actual scoring boots were evidently left at home. The next goal was credited to the Wards, Leeming being completely deceived by a shot which passed behind him and entered the net. All the veterans' shooting practice, McFarfield in a rush which resulted in Shillingford netting goal number five. Several corners were forced, but half-time arrived without any further scoring.

The Wards still continued to serve up superior football; there seemed to be a perfect understanding between them. Swinging the ball about from one wing to the other, they kept the Veterans' defence alive. Their efforts to again get on terms, however, were not to be realized; the absence of the seventh man being great trouble in their side. Midway through the second half the Veterans took the game in their own hands, and goal followed goal as their own shadows. The Wards' backs played a great game, and did not think anything they were called upon to do.

NANAIMO FOOTBALL Team Will Not Be Here on Saturday

Owing to the fact that the league games scheduled for this Saturday cannot be cancelled the exhibition match between Nanaimo and the representative Victoria football team will not be played here. Arrangements had practically been made to bring the team here on Saturday, but the Dominion champions will not make the trip until a later date. The game was to have been played for the "Billy Muir Fund."

Pola Negri Stars in Spanish Screen Play at Dominion

Giant Candle of World is Seen in Filming of "The Spanish Dancer."

The tallest candle ever built in North America recently was made in California. Lifting its waxy head to the height of thirty-eight feet, the giant candle has a circumference of over six feet. It was built for the interior of a reproduction of the cathedral at Seville which is used in Pola Negri's current star picture, "The Spanish Dancer," which Herbert Brenon produced for Paramount, and which comes to the Dominion Theatre all this week.

Candles of such enormous proportions are new to this country, but in European cathedrals they are not uncommon. A metal ladder, imbedded in the wax, makes it possible for the lighter and trimmer to reach the top. A candle of this dimension will last for hundreds of years and is only lighted for a few minutes during the celebration of high mass.

In reproducing a section of the beautiful Seville cathedral for "The Spanish Dancer," it was found that the part which the action of the picture takes place included the corner where stands the wax giant. About mid-way to the top heraldic designs of the church are secured and covered with a coating of pure gold. Hundreds of other candles are used in this scene which gives some idea of the splendor of medieval church ceremonies. "The Spanish Dancer" is placed in the early part of the seventeenth century. Many of the sets are unusually large and as much of the action takes place at night, thousands of candles were used during the production.

"The Spanish Dancer" is Pola Negri's third Paramount picture.

Jackie Coogan in Big Circus Film Showing at Royal

Rollicking Circus Picture Will Keep Kiddies and Grown-Ups Entertained.

Jackie Coogan is with us again and best of all he returns in what may truly be called the most delightful vehicle of his screen career—a rollicking circus picture.

The wistful little figure of "My Boy" and "Daddy" is given a part in the First National picture, "Circus Days," that seems better suited to his talents than anything else he has done for the silent drama.

Proof of this was amply manifested by the tremendous enthusiasm with which the audience greeted the picture on its opening at the Royal Theatre to-day.

"Circus Days," as presented by Sol Lesser, is a picture of circus life. It is an adaptation of James Otis' celebrated story, "Toby Tyler or Ten Weeks With a Circus," filmed under the masterful direction of Eddie Cline.

Jackie plays the stellar role of Toby Tyler, a youngster who, with his widowed mother, is forced to live on a farm of a hard-hearted uncle. Driven to desperation, Toby runs away from home to join a circus. How he rises from a peanut merchant of the "big top" to be a star of the sawdust ring, brings happiness and prosperity to his mother is one of the most refreshing tales ever unfolded on the screen.

And the whimsical humor and touching flashes of pathos that have distinguished past screen performances of this big-eyed little star are stronger than ever in "Circus Days." A cast of unusual excellence supports Jackie. Barbara Tennant makes a fine screen mother to the young star, while Russell Simpson succeeds splendidly in making you despise him as Eben Holt, the hard-hearted uncle of Toby. Cesare Gravini, who distinguished himself as the old musician in "Daddy," wins many new admirers by his admirable work as the old clown who befriends Toby. Peaches Jackson, as the darling little equestrienne star of the circus, who wins Toby's undying affections, is a new screen "find" of whom much may be expected in the future.

It is Toby's efforts to save the day for this tiny circus star by substituting for her when she sprains her ankle that result in his surprise jump to the hit of the circus.

Sam De Grasse is to be seen as Mr. Lord, the lemonade man, while De Witt Jennings portrays Mr. Daly, the circus owner; Nellie Lane, "the world's fattest woman," and William Barlow, "the world's skinniest man," are headliners among the circus freaks.

More than that, "Circus Days" is a picture for the whole wide world to love and enjoy.

"The Shock" is Lon Chaney Picture at Columbia Theatre

Startlingly Realistic Earthquake Scenes Reproduced in Current Attraction.

Lon Chaney, who became a star in "The Miracle Man" and proved it again in "The Penalty" and "The Trap," and Virginia Valli, whom Universal made a star for her work in "The Storm," combine at the Columbia Theatre to give "The Shock" more than the thrill of the San Francisco earthquake which is shown for the climax.

As the crippled hero of William Dudley Pelley's story, Chaney achieves what will go down in screen history as the greatest example of character-acting ever seen.

Contrasting strangely to Chaney's mishapen characterization, Virginia Valli appears as a country lass with an elusive, spiritual sweetness to emphasize her beauty.

The big moment of the drama comes when the earthquake is shown as a miracle by which the girl is saved from a position of horror into which she had been led unexpectedly, as the story is unfolded.

Lambert Hillier directed "The Shock" at Universal City, building a replica of the Dupont Street section of San Francisco for the startlingly realistic earthquake scenes.

Christine Mayo, William Welsh and Jack Mower have the principal roles in support of the co-stars.

"The Shock" is a taste at the Hemlock-Cup of Life and particularly appealing to those who are weary of fat-tetted dramatic themes.

Hardship Endured in Filming "The Eternal Struggle"

Picture Showing at Capitol This Week Produced Under Great Difficulties.

The great glacier fields, treacherous ice jams, and raging rapids of the snow-bound North, have been captured by a movie camera. After a campaign of some six weeks, waged with super-speed film, Reginald Barker and his company returned to Los Angeles, carrying precious reels of exterior scenes and hazardous thrills for the Metro-Louis B. Mayer presentation, "The Eternal Struggle," at the Capitol this week, as trophies of their courageous expedition into the frozen wilds of Canada.

Renee Adoree, Earle Williams, Pat O'Malley, George Kuwa and Pat Harmon were among the film stars in the company, which also included Percy Hiburn as chief photographer of a staff of ten cameramen. The entire party numbered about fifty.

THRILLING SCENES

An ice jam in Bow River, photographed by cameramen suspended over Bow River Falls in a steel cage; a real, rip-roaring blizzard near Banff; a dog-team race in the shadow of Mt. Robson; a fierce attack by wolves upon a Northwest mounted policeman and his prisoner; and a wild canoe-ride through the dangerous rapids of Seymour Creek. These are some of the high-lights of the schedule on which Barker worked in making "The Eternal Struggle." Innumerable hardships, such as were the lot of these pioneers who "mashed" towards gold along the old Yukon Trail in this same section, were part of the daily routine of the film company.

On one occasion the director, cameramen and players tramped seven and a half miles on snowshoes in order to take advantage of a glacial background for some scenes. They started before daylight with an Indian guide and worked till sundown before starting on the long return tramp. Such is the penalty of giving the public realism.

PAINFUL DIFFICULTIES

Eight dog-teams were in constant service during the filming of the snow sequences. They were used chiefly to transport supplies and equipment, as the law and a sense of humaneness prevented their carrying passengers in much of the mountain country that served as dramatic locale for the scenes.

One of the chief difficulties encountered during these long trips was the painful sunburn resulting from the glaring reflection of the light on the snow. This was partially offset by wearing hoods, much like Ku Klux helmets.

With Banff and Edmonton serving as the two main headquarters stations, the company traversed miles of the snowy wasteland of Alberta, working out of Jasper, Calgary, Lake Louise Station and Athabasca Landing, and completing the exteriors of "The Eternal Struggle" at Royal George and North Vancouver. The story was adapted by Monte M. Katterjohn and G. B. Lancaster's virile novel, "The Law-Bringers."

Madame Gentile in Programme of Song at Capitol

That delightful singer, Madame Gentile will be heard again at the Capitol this week, presenting an entirely new programme of selected songs, in miniature concert. Her numbers this week will be more on the popular ballad order.

Her rich, mezzo-soprano voice will be heard to splendid advantage.

PANTAGES OFFERS EXCELLENT SHOW

Exceptionally Talented Cast to be Seen in "Plantation Days"

Pantages audiences this week will see an Alexander Pantages production with a high-priced, big-time cast when "Unit" bill will open on Tuesday evening. An all-star cast in "Plantation Days" will present a southern musical comedy in which thirty-colored entertainers interpret the melodies and colorful life of the South. This cast, it is said, is the original assembly which played with great success before London and New York audiences in the same vehicle.

In one sense Victoria is on trial with the presentation of the current bill. Heretofore the city has been given under Pantages banner only such shows as can readily be diverted from other cities to take the three-night stand here. "Plantation Days," however, is a unit production from the big-time circuits which would have skipped from Vancouver to U.S. cities without touching here in the normal course of events. If the bill is well received, other unit productions may be expected, it is said.

Directed and produced by Lawrence Deas, this production was built for speed, with ten characteristic and beautiful scenic effects and many changes of attractive costumes are promised.

An all-star cast is promised, including the following stars: Chappelle and Stinnette, two of vaudeville's premier artists who present a very artistic programme of harmony melody; Jones and Jones in their character classic of the southern negro; Seymour and Jeanette, the "mid-nite" steppers in a snappy offering, and the Five Crackerjacks, a high-power troupe of entertainers presenting fast singing, dancing and an acrobatic programme.

Every movement from the latest lode to the wildest of whirlwinds including eccentric and acrobatic dancing novelties, will be introduced. Scott, Allen and Lee, three joyous syncopators, and the original Pepper chorus, consisting of eight girls who offer some speedy jazz dancing numbers.

Owing to the limited capacity of the "Pan," the shortness of the engagement and the unusual cost of this attraction, it is absolutely necessary to advance the prices, but these have been made as small as possible. It is not possible to have reserved seats all over when giving two shows a night as on Wednesday and Thursday, but as there is only one performance on Tuesday night, at 9 o'clock, reserved seats will be sold for that performance only. The box office will be open for this sale to-day and Tuesday.

"St. Elmo" Will be Presented by Macy and Baird Company

Drama, With Added Element of Comedy, Arranged by Company.

This coming Friday and Saturday Macy and Baird, the popular stock company at the Pantages Theatre, will present "St. Elmo," which it is expected will be the crowning achievement of their entire engagement.

The company has arranged a comedy part which will enliven the serious moments of the drama.

This delightful novel has been produced in motion pictures and should arrive in the city in a few days, so it will be quite a novelty to be able to see it on the stage and on the silver sheet.

DECLARES WEST IS LIBERAL IN VIEWS

Premier of Saskatchewan Addresses Montreal Reform Club

Montreal, Nov. 19.—That the West is Liberal, not in a party sense, but liberal-minded, because the people have a strong liberal mentality, was one of the statements which Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Premier of Saskatchewan, made in a speech at a Reform Club luncheon here Saturday.

In the minds of Liberals, said Mr. Dunning, the question was "What of the West?" Since the tide of population was sweeping westward, taking with it electoral power, the matter was an important one. In the West were men who would wipe out tariffs and he felt that if the public men did not adopt a course of reason when the day came Eastern Canada would not receive much consideration.

In Great Britain, pointed out Mr. Dunning, when a crisis had come the Liberals had united and he was hoping that something would take place in this country because never had a strong, virile Liberalism been needed, so greatly as to-day.

QUESTION OF TARIFF

There was no way in which a tariff could help a farmer producing nine-tenths for export. The West this year, said the Premier, had a great per capita production, which would mean benefit to Canada, but it did not mean great prosperity because of the tariff between wheat and the farmer paid for products and what he received. He was not a "blue ruin" man, he claimed, but this big production did not mean big profits. The farmer who got thirty bushels an acre made money, but whoever got less was out of pocket. The farmer, was much in the same position as the Eastern manufacturer. The Premier said he favored the wheat pool for the purpose of bringing about more economical distribution of wheat. It could bring advantages if it was properly managed and directed and provided farmers were willing to take an average price, but it could not force up the price of wheat. Economic conditions were improving and would continue to do so unless something in Europe disturbed conditions. For there was no doubt that what was happening in the Ruhr was affecting the farmers in Saskatchewan.

Mystery Drama Coming Here in Class by Itself

"The Cat and the Canary" Will Be Presented at Royal November 28.

Reports having long since been confirmed of the fine quality of entertainment provided through "The Cat and the Canary" playgoers will welcome the announcement that Kilbourn Gordon, Inc. presents the play at the Royal Victoria two nights, Nov. 28-29. "The Cat and the Canary" is a thrilling mystery drama which has been placed in a class quite by itself by both the reviewers in many cities and by the patrons of the playhouse who are, after all, the final jury which decides the ratio of entertainment provided by a theatrical offering. John Willard wrote the play and he has blended into it nicely with even precision, thrills, comedy and romance. Although there have been one or two other plays of this type to win wide approval, none has found a greater following than "The Cat and the Canary" and in London this is the only play of the type which has made a financial success. "The Cat and the Canary" has been playing in the East for some two years and it comes here after a successful visit to the cities and towns on the Pacific Coast. The producers give assurance that the cast is one which will give ample satisfaction to the most discriminating of playgoers.

High Blood Pressure is Prevented when Liver and Kidneys are Regulated with Dr. Chase's K & L Pills

VIEWS OF PLACE WHERE ARMISTICE WAS SIGNED.—Two views of the little clearing in the Forest of Compeigne, near Rethondes, where the armistice was signed on November 11, 1918. The memorial slab, suitably engraved, which is shown at the left, was dedicated a year ago. The scenes are of interest in connection with the fifth anniversary of the signing of the armistice, and also in view of the report that Wilhelm, ex-kaiser of Germany, is about to return to his native land, after five years of exile.

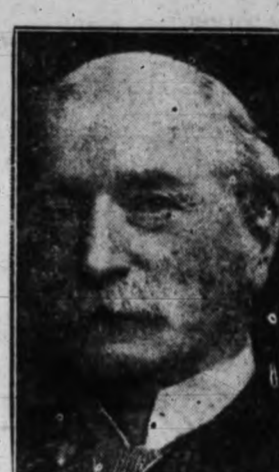

IMPRESSIVE SCENE.—Two minutes' silence before the Memorial Cenotaph in Toronto on Armistice Day.

BRITAIN'S POLITICAL LEADERS.—Herbert H. Asquith (left) and David Lloyd George (center) have healed their seven-years' breach. The two ex-premiers of Great Britain will join hands against the tariff policy of Premier Stanley Baldwin (right).

PRINCESS MAUDE OF FIFE, niece of King George, was married in London on November 12 to Lord Carnegie.

"THERE'S A BROKEN HEART FOR EVERY LIGHT."—And here's the very latest picture of Broadway. Every once in a while a photographer comes along and "takes" the famous street at night. Here's the way it looks now.

MORE TOUGH NEWS FOR FORGER FOLK.—V. C. Ernst would rather take up the photographic trail of a cheque-raiser than eat. Pursuing forgers with a camera has been his chief diversion for several years. And many a light-fingered gentleman has landed in a cell by dint of Ernst's dark-room strategy. He has just put on the market a machine which he thinks will make cheque raising impossible. The contrivance—Ernst calls it an "identiscope"—is a double camera arrangement. With one click of the shutter, photographs of a bank depositor and his signature are recorded simultaneously. Installation in banks and business houses, where such records are necessary, will curb forgers' activities considerably. It's impossible to stop forgery by any mechanical or chemical means," he says. "Crooks even can erase the indelible perforations in cheques by an operation simple even for a child. But if all bank depositors are photographically identified, as to appearance and signature, duplication and mistakes will be eliminated." Several of his machines already are in use. They're singing high praise for their efficiency.

THEY'RE STILL TRAVELING.—A. Y. Gowen and wife have a hard time getting their bearings on dry land. First, it was their two-year cruise around the world in "The Spreejacks," a 98-foot motor yacht. Then it was a trip to the Orient. Here they are coming down the gangplank of the Canadian Pacific liner, Empress of Russia, on their return through Victoria. But this time, it was a business trip, Gowen explains.

SCHOOL DAYS By DWIG

THE DUKE OF ABRUZZI, cousin of the King of Italy, affirms his intention of spending the remainder of his life in Somaliland, Africa.

A PART OF THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT'S BUFFALO HERD AT WAINWRIGHT, ALBERTA
Wainwright, Alberta, Nov. 19.—The spirit of Buffalo Bill is hovering around the Canadian Government's big wild-game pasture here. The greatest buffalo hunt since Cody's rifle stopped cracking on the American plains is on. And in spite of all efforts to make the event safe and sane, a tinge of romance attaches. The hunt will continue until 2,000 animals are killed. This wholesale slaughter means that the day has passed when reasonable fears are to be entertained as to the extinction of the bison. There are 8,500 in the Wainwright herd, and the killing, mostly of bulls, is to thin them out and save the winter hay supply. Professional hunters, rangers and cowboys are doing the work. The cowboys round up the animals, and the marksmen fire from cover. By this method, frontiersmen say, the herd is not stampeded; but as comrades fall beneath the bullets, the brutes mill around and bellow mournfully without having sense enough to flee. A moving picture company in the United States films the hunt, turning loose a band of feathered Cree Indians to bring down the buffalo supposedly with bow and arrows. This is sun-dried buffalo meat, pounded into paste, mixed with liquid fat and molded into solid cakes. It is considered one of the most concentrated forms of food, and is sold at Arctic trading posts. The vast Wainwright herd are descendants of four buffalo calves captured in 1874. Buffalo meat will be sold at a cent

MR. SUN AND THE BUTTERFLIES
It was a beautiful warm morning. The garden was filled with flowers. Bees were humming, birds were singing and the butterflies were fluttering their beautifully colored wings in the warm sunshine.
Mrs. Blue-black Butterfly sat beside Yellow-black on a rose bush. "I have been thinking, my dear," said Mrs. Blue-black, "that we butterflies should give a ball. I am certain we would be the talk of the town if we did, for among the Summer creatures there are none as beautiful as we. And such a gorgeous sight a Butterfly Ball would be, my dear! We really must give a ball."
"I quite agree with you," said Yellow-black, "but I must impress upon you how very careful we should be about the guests we invite. These common yellow butterflies are not to be thought of."
"No, indeed, my dear," said Mrs. Blue-black. "None outside our own set should be invited. There are plenty of beautifully colored butterflies without asking outsiders."
"We might ask the fairies. They would help to set off our gorgeousness," said Yellow-black.
"Not to be thought of!" exclaimed Mrs. Blue-black. "What are you thinking about? My dear, those jealous creatures would be certain to steal our styles and the next thing we know all the fairies would be flitting about in gowns as beautiful as ours. No, we cannot invite the fairies."

"There are the bees. Their colors will blend well with our beautiful gowns," said Yellow-black and Mrs. Blue-black agreed that the bees were desirable guests, so they flitted away to invite them.
When the ball to be held "inquired the bees, for they never let anything interfere with their work."
"At night in the rose garden," said the butterflies.
"We will come," said the bees, and away they buzzed to tell all the bees they knew about the grand ball that the butterflies were to have that night in the garden.
Mr. Sun, smiling on the garden, told the butterflies they were making a mistake, that they had better have the ball in the daytime.
"That is because he wants to be invited, whispered Mrs. Blue-black and Yellow-black. "He is so old fashioned, my dear. I did not ask him. But the idea of having a ball in the daytime is out of the question. It isn't done."
"They can't get along without me," said Mr. Sun, smiling good naturedly. "Those silly creatures deserve to have some of the concert taken out of them and they will to-night, mark my word."
When night time came all the gorgeous butterflies for miles around were resting on the rose bushes, and many bees as well. But most of the bees when they went to their homes to leave their day's gatherings fell asleep and forgot to say for the ball.
As old Mr. Sun went down behind the hill he smiled a wide, wide smile for he knew the silly butterflies would begin to shiver the minute his warm rays left the garden. And he was right, for no sooner was he gone than the butterflies huddled close to the leaves and flowers and held their wings as close that only a little of their beauty could be seen.
The bees snuggled into the flowers and soon they were all asleep. And when Mr. Sun peeked into the garden he found them just where he had left them the night before.
"I guess you will invite me to the next ball you give," he said, as the butterflies unfolded their wings and sleepily waxed them in the sunshine.
"There were so many butterflies in the garden that morning and so many bees that the birds asked Mr. Sun what was going on. "Oh, a butterfly ball," answered Mr. Sun. "They were silly enough to think they could have one without inviting me, but they found out their mistake."
"No one but silly butterflies would think of anything like that," said Mr. Robin Redbreast. "The world would not be worth living in if our friend Mr. Sun were not here."
And though the butterflies did not say so, they knew that if they gave a ball Mr. Sun must be invited. And after that he was the very first one they asked to be present. And if some day you happen to pass a garden where the flowers are blooming and the birds are singing their sweetest and the bees humming soft tunes and you feel Mr. Sunman's warm rays, and the garden is filled with beautiful butterflies, you may know that the butterflies are giving another ball.

Function at Chamber of Commerce Winds up Successful Show

Premier John Oliver, Hon. E. D. Barrow, Minister of Agriculture, W. J. Bowser, K.C., and the Hon. P. A. Pauline, who presided, were among the speakers at the banquet Saturday night which closed the very successful Provincial Potato Show held during the week. Growers who participated in the show also spoke, and all paid tribute to the value of the exhibition and the series of lectures which have been given. The co-operation of the Provincial Government, the Chamber of Commerce, with special reference to J. A. Griffith, chairman of the agricultural group; the Rotary Club and city business men was acknowledged. Cecil Tice, acting chief of the soil and crop branch of the Department of Agriculture, received a present of a pair of gauntlets from the growers who spoke highly of the assistance received from his branch. Amidst ringing applause a cordial vote of thanks was passed to Norman Fynn, secretary of the industrial group of the Chamber for his hard work for the success of the show.

Addressing the one hundred people assembled, the Premier referred to the value of exhibitions in demonstrating to the farmer how to cope with the different diseases common to potatoes. The exhibition helped a farmer to learn how to produce the very best of crops. British Columbia, he claimed, could grow field seeds of the very best, and this should be a very profitable industry.

W. J. Bowser advocated the encouragement of seed potato certification, and spoke of the growing importance of the potato industry. Hon. E. D. Barrow dwelt on the necessity of proper marketing organization was essential, he said, if the farmers were to secure the prices to which they were entitled by placing their potatoes where there was the demand for them. He did not mean that the grower should do business direct with the consumer; a third party in the transaction was necessary, but it was to the farmer's interests to get together for co-operative marketing. The Department of Agriculture he assured them would give them all the assistance possible in this direction.

Figures showing financial success attained through growing from the best certified seed were given by W. C. Edmunds, superintendent of the Colorado Seed Potato Farm. He also spoke highly of the exhibits in comparison with those shown at the biggest shows in the United States.

Mrs. B. M. Deacon, Sidney, speaking for the Women's Institutes of the Province; James Bailey, of Chilliwack, chairman of the Advisory Board; George A. Murray, editor of Country Life; Ed. Whyte, of Alberni; W. Kohout, of Sooke; T. Bruce, of Winemere, and C. E. Whitney-Griffiths, also spoke at the banquet. An illustrated lecture on Vancouver Island by Norman Fynn and a dance followed the banquet speeches.

ENDORSE MOTION TO COMPLETE HIGHWAY

Pacific Coast Newspaper Men Support Victoria Plea

Pacific Coast newspaper men gathering in San Francisco voiced their support to a plea of George I. Warren, publicity commissioner, for the early completion of the California section of the Pacific Highway. The section, extends from the Oregon-California line to Redding and, once completed, will give the Pacific Coast a good highway all the way from Victoria, B.C., to the Mexican border. Oregon, Washington and British Columbia have already co-operated in this undertaking.

Advertising The newspaper as an advertising medium was also discussed at the meeting, advertising experts who addressed the meeting placing newspapers first as the profitable advertising source. The fact that the great majority of Pacific Coast firms are placing the bulk of advertising appropriations with newspapers illustrated the stupendous value of newspaper advertising, declared William A. Thompson, of New York, director of the Bureau of Advertising of the National Newspaper Publishers' Association.

FORD CARAVAN COMING FOR BIG DEMONSTRATION

Long Road Train of Cars, Trucks and Tractors Touring Province

Demonstrations Here to Feature Events of Much Interest to Community

The "Boost B. Co. Ford-Product Parade" is due to arrive here Wednesday.

Its arrival will mark the opening of one of the most remarkable educational exhibitions that has ever been brought into this district.

The Caravan has been accorded a royal welcome in every place where it has halted on the line of march, and the demonstrations provided have attracted crowds of spectators from wide areas surrounding the scene of operations.

The Ford Caravan is really a traveling motor show, but it is far more practical and helpful for the spectators point of view than anything that can be seen even in the more pretentious motor shows which are staged at intervals in the larger cities, for the Ford Caravan is no mere display of an assortment of motor vehicles.

Every vehicle in the Caravan has been selected because of its particular utility in this territory, and every piece of equipment used in the demonstrations has been chosen because it has proved particularly well suited to the local transportation, industrial or agricultural purposes.

TORONTO NURSE Speaks in Praise of WINCARNIS

"As a Graduate Trained Nurse, I have for many years attended patients, in both hospitals and private homes, for whom Wincarnis had been prescribed, and I have observed that the preparation always caused an improvement in these cases."

I have repeatedly been astonished at the quickness with which weak and nervous patients respond to the restorative and strengthening action of Wincarnis. I have often personally derived great benefit from the use of Wincarnis myself, when in a run-down condition, after a particularly hard case. I learned of Wincarnis while nursing in England, and since coming to Canada I have found physicians just as enthusiastic in praise of the tonic effect of the preparation. I always feel more confident of a happy convalescence when attending a patient for whom Wincarnis has been prescribed."

of those in charge of the Ford Caravan to back up this statement with actual demonstration. Judging by the extent of the Caravan, these missionaries of motorization are coming prepared to take up practically any challenge that may be offered.

HEADS CARAVAN Leading the Caravan will be seen a Lincoln Sedan which is without a doubt as fine a car as is built anywhere. It is the latest addition to the Ford line, and is a glowing tribute to its designer Henry M. Leland, whose ambition was to build a car, 100 per cent perfect in mechanical construction.

Another factor in the development of this territory that has been given consideration by those responsible for the organizing of the Ford Caravan is road building activity, another Fordson tractor, drawing a Wehr road grader and maintainer has been added to the traveling exhibition. This combination will be one of the chief attractions for civic bodies in the municipalities along the route of the Caravan.

Those who visit the exhibition to seek advice on delivery problems, will find that practically nothing has been forgotten. For express work there is the Ford truck, which is equipped with the Ruckstell axle, a special axle for Fords which gives four speeds ahead and two reverses, and is useful under extremely difficult hauling conditions.

The Fordson tractor is being used in conjunction with Oliver plows and cultivators, all of which equipment has been specially developed for the Fordson, and is of more than usual interest on that account.

Of course no motor show would be complete without passenger cars, so the Caravan is bringing along a Ford touring car, Ford runabout, Ford light delivery, Ford coupe and Ford sedan.

Local demonstrations are being arranged through the National Motor Co., Ltd., and Revercomb Motors, Ltd., local Ford dealers, who have prepared the following programme: Demonstrations of ploughing, discing and cultivating with Oliver equipment and Fordson tractor.

DEMONSTRATES GRADES OF MARKET POTATOES

Among the other interesting features of the potato show was the demonstration of the grades of commercial potatoes, Canada A, Canada B, and Canada C, ungraded. This work was carried on by District Inspector R. G. L. Clarke, of Vancouver, and the local inspector, Robert Murray, under the Fruit and Root Vegetables Act. This was purely educational, to show the growers and shippers, and also the consumers, what was required in the Canada A and B grades.

All potatoes offered for sale must bear a tag showing the name of the grower or association shipping and the address, also the grade. This is only the second season of the working of the potato grading and the wholesalers and the trade are well satisfied with the results, as they are now in a position to redress from the shipper if the potatoes do not comply with the grades as defined in the act.

The potatoes for this demonstration were kindly loaned by the B. W. Wilson Co., A. P. Slide & Co., and F. R. Stewart & Co., wholesale fruit and vegetable merchants.
