PARTY CHIEFS ASSEMBLE TO PLAN FUTURE; GOVERNMENT ANTICIPATES ADDED SUPPORT

Administration Safe, Ministers Declare on Arrival Here; Cabinet to Meet to-morrow to Discuss Situation; Four Seats Are Still Doubtful, But Liberals, Backed by Independents and Labor, Will Have Majority in House; Absentee Votes May Elect Mrs. Smith and Other Liberals

With members of the Cabinet assembling here to discuss the Government's future or his own, Mr. Bowser, K.C., Conservative leader, planning an immediate conference of his supporters to decide what action he should take in view of his defeat in Vancouver, the political situation in British Columbia is still in a state of flux.

That the Oliver Government has a sufficient majority to enable it to meet the Legislature and to carry it through an ordinary crisis was the only tangible fact that stood out clearly this morning after the Premier had talked matters over with members of his Cabinet.

Mr. Oliver himself refused to discuss the Government's future or his own. "We do not know the final result of the election, and there is no use talking about it," he told The Times. "Until we do know the electors' verdict completely there is no use either discussing my own position."

Members of the Government declared emphatically, however, that the Government was safe and would be able to remain in office, barring unforeseen developments, for the usual term. They intimated that a seat would be found for the Premier on the Mainland, in Vancouver, Delta or Columbia, shortly. A caucus of Liberal members, they said, would be held shortly to discuss these matters.

Meanwhile fragmentary returns continued to dribble in from the four doubtful constituencies of Atlin, Prince George, Cariboo and Mackenzie. That the Government is assured, of Atlin was indicated by reports received up to noon. Things are still uncertain in the three other ridings.

KERGIN HEADS

With seven polls to hear from, Kergin, Liberal, has 350 votes in Atlin. Conroy, Conservative, 234, and Armour, Progressive, 235.

In Cariboo, with thirteen polls to report, Stoddard, Provincial, leads with 347 votes; Fraser, Conservative, has 300; and Yorston, Liberal, 234.

H. G. Perry, Liberal candidate in Prince George, is behind the Conservative candidate, with three polls to report. He telegraphed to the Premier to-day that he was confident of election with these votes and with absentee ballots.

At present Burton, Conservative, leads with 502; Perry, Liberal, has 399; Shearer, Provincial, 181.

If the Government wins Atlin and Prince George, of which it is confident, it will have twenty-two straight Liberal supporters in the House. Two Independents, R. J. Burdo, Alberni, and George Hanes, North Vancouver, will support the administration, making a solid block of twenty-four, or half the House. In addition to these the Government can count on a crisis, the support of three labor members, making a total of twenty-seven, as opposed to an opposition of twenty-one—eighteen Conservatives and three Provincials.

HOPE FOR MRS. SMITH

VICTORIA INSPIRES NOTED JOURNALIST

Hon. Frank Carrel Will Write Impressionistic Articles on West

Following his visit to this city with the Canadian Press and Canadian Daily Newspaper Association delegates a short time ago, Hon. Frank Carrel, who was struck with the beauty of Victoria and its great possibilities as a tourist resort, will write his impressions of the West as a consecutive series of articles regarding the Quebec Daily Telegraph publish a series of articles in which will be included various outstanding features of western life and progressive policies. In these articles Victoria will hold a prominent place, and the eastern journal has written to the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau asking for advertising and publicity literature for use in this connection.

"The Quebec Daily Telegraph will publish a series of articles regarding the beauty of Victoria," a communication from this newspaper reads. "It is possible that Mr. Carrel may glean some interesting facts from such a visit as you have on hand, which he will embody in his articles."

The value of such publicity is appreciated by the Publicity Bureau here, and George I. Warren, Publicity Commissioner, together with his competent staff, will secure and mail simple information to Mr. Carrel for the use of his articles in which will be featured Victoria, the Queen City of the Pacific Northwest and mecca for the thousands of tourists who annually make Vancouver Island their place of holiday.

Pershing was accorded the signal honor to-day of being the guest of King George and Queen Mary along with King Christian and Queen Alexandra of Denmark in the Royal Box at the RRoyal Horse Show. It was announced that General Smuts, who had accepted the offer of Colonel G. M. Claassen, member-elect of the Assembly for Standerton, Transvaal, to contest for his seat, would not be opposed.

Bloemfontein, South Africa, June 23.—General J. B. Hertzog, the prospective Premier of the Union of South Africa, declared that the Nationalists expected Labor support and admitted frankly that the Nationalists could not carry on a new administration without that support.

Montreal, June 23.—Leo Davis, Tony Frank, Louis Morel, Mike Valentino and Giuseppe Sarfina were found guilty of the murder of Henry Cleroux, Bank of Hochelaga chauffeur, who was shot to death during a hold-up at the collection on April 1, 1924, by a jury in the Court of King's Bench this afternoon.

BRINGING POSTAL SERVICE TO NORMAL

POOLEY IS BOOMED FOR LEADERSHIP; BOWSER IS SILENT

British Columbia Conservatives faced the future to-day without a leader in the Legislature and without any outstanding man to take the place of W. J. Bowser, K.C., who was defeated in Vancouver in last week's election.

That Mr. Bowser will retire as a result of his defeat was generally assumed, by politicians of all sides, but the future of the veteran Conservative chieftain is absolutely unsettled.

"I can't say anything about the future of the party or of my own plans until the final election results are received," Mr. Bowser told The Times this morning. "A meeting of the elected Conservative members will be called immediately to discuss the whole situation and map out a course. Until then I have nothing whatever to say."

Asked about the possibility of his own retirement, Mr. Bowser replied: "I haven't even considered that matter. It is too early to discuss the situation."

Meanwhile Island Conservatives are naming R. H. Pooley, Conservative Member-elect for Esquimalt, for the Conservative leadership. Mr. Pooley is favored because of his experience in the House and popularity with the Conservative caucus generally. The Esquimalt representative appears to many Conservatives as the only elected Opposition member available for the party leadership.

When the Conservative caucus meets Mr. Pooley's name will go before it backed by powerful Island Conservatives. They point to Mr. Pooley as a vigorous member and a strong critic.

CHURCH UNION BILL IS TO BE DISCUSSED TO-MORROW BY MEMBERS OF COMMONS

Ottawa, June 23.—(Canadian Press)—The Church Union Bill is scheduled to enter this week upon what may be its last stage in the House of Commons. The bill will come up to-morrow, according to arrangements in the committee stage, and is to be given right of way by agreement with the Government.

If this measure follows the usual course of legislation, it will proceed through committee and then be moved for third reading. The sponsors of the bill, however, have given notice of an amendment to remove the provision referring to the bill to the courts, and this may lead to its being referred back to the Private Bills Committee to have this amendment made. Another amendment, of which notice has been given fixes the date of the coming into effect of the bill as June 10, 1925.

Interest in the party tactics in the House during the rest of the session has received a fillip by the action of six of the Progressive members in (Continued on page 2.)

German Reparations Plans Made by Experts to be Put in Shape

London, June 23.—Premier MacDonald and M. Herriot, the French Premier, have agreed, providing there is no objection from the other Allies, that an Allied conference shall be held in London not later than mid-July for the purpose of definitely settling the procedure to be adopted for putting the reparations experts' report into execution.

What is possibly of still greater importance is that the two Premiers will visit Geneva together at the opening of the Assembly of the League of Nations in September next.

In the House of Commons this afternoon Premier MacDonald said his discussion Saturday and yesterday with Premier Herriot was preliminary to the conference, which probably will be held July 16.

The communiqué issued last night covered the ground of the conversation, said the Premier, but he added: "I have nothing to say."

Asked for an expression of opinion regarding his talk with Mr. MacDonald, the Premier said: "I have nothing to say."

FIGHTING TOP OF H.M.S. REPULSE

FOURTEEN HUNDRED MEN FROM SQUADRON PARADE THROUGH CITY STREETS

Three Battalions From H.M.S. Hood, H.M.S. Repulse and H.M.A.S. Adelaide Are Cheered in Procession; Lieutenant-Governor Takes the Salute, With Squadron Commander.

Pulsating with anticipatory excitement, hundreds of citizens thronged the streets of Victoria this morning awaiting an opportunity to greet the parade of three battalions drawn from the battle-cruiser squadron now in port, and the Australian cruiser Adelaide.

These parades have proved the most spectacular of the features with which the visiting British Special Service Squadron in its world cruise has stimulated the enthusiasm of the populace, and displayed that efficient discipline upon which the naval training is based. There have been upwards of half a million people watch these processions in the larger cities, and for the size of the population of Victoria and district the gathering to-day was thoroughly representative and lacked nothing of the zeal which has encouraged the sailors in their contact with the Beltons of the larger Empire through their tour of the Southern Hemisphere.

Occasionally these parades in the ports where the cruise has halted the representatives of the British Navy have extended as much as four miles, but they have proved so exhausting that it was intimated before the fleet berthed that the route should be compressed within about two miles. The actual distance travelled to-day was somewhat less than anticipated, as the procession turned from Government Street to Yates Street, and thence to Douglas, rather than to Pandora, thus reducing the route downtown. The procession left Ogden Point punctually at 23 minutes past 9 o'clock, and reached the saluting battery at 10 a.m.

All through James Bay there were many gathered to meet the boys, but it was not until Belleville Street was reached, opposite the Canadian Pacific Railway docks, that the crowd was really dense. As was to be expected, every point of vantage was occupied, and the roofs of buildings and open windows held the spectators in hundreds. Keened to excitement, the expectant crowd around the dais, which had been placed immediately from the Queen Victoria, were cheered by the distant sound of the drums, as the city clocks sounded to take the salute.

Vice-admiral Sir Frederick I. Field was the first to arrive with some of his staff officers, and was quickly joined by Commodore Walter Rose, Director of Naval Service for Canada. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor was accompanied by the Hon. A.D.C., Major Selden Humphreys. Then naval veterans helped up George E. Smith, veteran of the Baltic and Crimean wars, who sat in the front of the parade, and the veterans, in distinguished company, thus viewed the march past from the front of the platform.

As each platoon reached the base the order was given "Eyes Right," and the men remained with their eyes to the dais until they had passed, the order "Eyes Forward" being given as they moved forward.

PERSONNEL OF PARADE With the bayonets glistening in the sunshine, the men presented in their smart appearance and alacrity of movement, the parade of the Victoria was cheered enthusiastically, especially the third battalion, which was composed of marines. The bands of the Hood, Repulse, and the British Royal Marines, who were in the front of the parade, and the brass band of the procession came Commander (Continued on page 2.)

ANTI-U.S. EXCLUSION MEETING OF PROTEST IN YOKOHAMA IS FORBIDDEN BY CHIEF OF POLICE

Tokio, June 23.—The Yokohama police authorities, owing to the growing anti-United States feeling, the progress of which is being accelerated by the recent California incidents involving Japanese, has ordered a more strict control over agitation against Americans, and a more complete protection for United States Americans resident there.

The police have prohibited the holding of a meeting which had been called for June 29 in Yokohama with the object of protesting against the recently enacted United States immigration law which bars Japanese from that country.

Official reports to the Foreign Office from the Japanese consulates in California indicate the recent murders of two Japanese at San Pedro, Cal., were the result of underworld quarrels, and that the local authorities took the Belvedere, Cal., tar and feather incident in hand energetically.

CANADA MUST INTERPRET LEAGUE TO AMERICA

Frederick Whelen Here to Speak at Number of Gatherings

The message of the League of Nations to the people of Canada has been told for the past three weeks by Frederick Whelen, of London, England, who arrived here this morning to speak at a number of gatherings.

Yesterday he spoke at two churches in Vancouver, and also to 3,000 people at Stanley Park. Four meetings were addressed by him at that city on Saturday. "Everywhere I go I am delighted at the interest taken in Canada about League of Nations matters," he remarked to The Times this morning.

"You in this country perhaps do not remember that you are the only one in the League on the North American continent, and while the Latin Americans are interpreting the League to their people, the northern countries which rightly claim a more advanced civilization, are not all within its bond of fellowship, and thus Canada must be the interpreter of the League's ideals to the English-speaking people of North America," he observed.

Mr. Whelen spoke at Brentwood College this morning, at the Gryo Club at noon, at the Women's University Club and to a gathering of teachers this afternoon, dined with the Victoria branch this evening, and will speak at a large public meeting (Continued on page 1.)

DEPUTY MINISTER STATES C.N.R. BUILDING IN PARIS WILL PAY PROFIT ON COST

Ottawa, June 23. (Canadian Press)—An account of the relations between A. Aronovitch, who acted for the Canadian National Railway in the purchase of the Hotel Scribe in Paris, and the company, was given by Major Graham Bell, Deputy Minister of Railways to-day before the Committee of the Commons which is examining the accounts of the National lines.

The sum of 4,110,000 francs was paid above the actual purchase price for the securing of the deed and the registration of the mortgage. Sir Henry Thornton agreed to procure the figure of the final settlement with Aronovitch when the company took over the title from him.

Under examination by Sir Henry Drayton, Major Bell told the circumstances leading to Aronovitch leaving the company. Aronovitch had had a plan to make a profit for himself by exploitation of the building in rents. Major Bell had believed that if he could make money out of (Continued on page 2.)

MANY REPORTERS AT BIG U.S. CONVENTION

Arrangements For Press Representatives at Democratic Nomination Meeting

New York, June 23.—New York newspaper men and women will play host to fellow craftsmen from points throughout the United States at the Democratic National Convention, starting to-morrow, at which candidates for the presidency and vice-presidency of the United States are to be nominated.

Entertainment of the visitors has been undertaken by authority of the National Democratic and Local Citizens' Committees, by the New York Newspaper Club, and the Newspaper Women's Club, which organizations, with a combined membership of 1,200, have designated Charles G. Hambridge as chief of all unofficial press arrangements for the 1,000 or more correspondents who will be there.

Mr. Hambridge has made his plans with the view, first, of "providing for the working comfort and convenience of the visiting writers," and second, in order that all work and no play may not dull the reporters' wit, of furnishing entertainment and recreation for them. "For," says Mr. Hambridge, "political writers attend a convention primarily to work, and the matter of entertainment is secondary to them."

A fully equipped general workroom and clearing house for all "lone dog" reporters who will not have access to the press and syndicate accommodations will be established in the basement of Madison Square Garden, in the convention news dispatching centre. A hurry-up lunch service will be maintained without charge. Attendants will supply the clearing house with all records of convention proceedings, provide messenger service and act as a bureau of information.

POLICE CARDS

There will be such crowds about the garden and on streets to the principal hotels that Police Commissioner Enright has agreed to supply the visitors with guest police cards, which will let them through all police lines and expedite the movement of their taxicabs through restricted traffic lines.

Yest pocket booklets crammed with vital information about the convention—personnel, delegations, headquarters, rapid services of communication, traffic short cuts between strategic points, etc., have been prepared especially for the visitors. Besides the customary press badges and credentials, two sets of lapel buttons will be distributed, one for local scribes and one for visitors, for purposes of quick mutual identification.

CO-OPERATION

Each member of the local craft will be expected to place himself or herself at the disposal of any visitor, either in facilitating the gathering of news or the search for entertainment. The out-of-towners also will share in all privileges and courtesies to be extended convention delegates and alternates. In addition, to the numerous special in and outdoor diversions being arranged for them, they will receive press tickets giving entrance to all golf clubs, ball parks, tennis courts, etc.

Both the men's and women's newspaper clubs are extending their accommodations for the convention period, equipping additional work-rooms and adding dining and lounging quarters and other club facilities. Artists, cartoonists and camera men will be provided with separate studios within a block of the Newspaper Club.

SCIENTISTS TALK TO GROUPS OF CHILDREN

Lectures to be Feature of British Association Meeting in Toronto

Toronto, Ont., June 23. (Canadian Press)—Lectures specially arranged for children will be an innovation at the forthcoming meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science in Toronto August 6 to 23. The talks will be delivered by renowned scientists and will be illustrated with experiments and lantern slides. Although lectures to children are not new here, the series arranged for the first time which has been sponsored by a scientific society, and the savants who have undertaken to deliver them are already famous for the facility with which they explain natural phenomena to the child mind. These discourses are perhaps the most delightful feature of the extensive programme which has been drawn up for the British Association meetings here.

"Plant Waterproofs is the subject selected by J. H. Priestly, D. Sc., professor of botany, Leeds University. He will review the experiments which are the basis of the present theory for the formation of the cuticle of plants.

CRYSTAL STRUCTURE

Sir William Bragg, D. Sc., professor of physics, London University, president of the physics section of the association, will lecture on Crystal Structure, a study in which he is recognized as the leader. He will endeavor to relate the behaviour and properties of certain chemicals with the forces which cause them to solidify in regular shapes, such as sugar or the diamond. Sir William Bragg has been awarded the Nobel Prize in Physics and has been honored by many learned societies. He is renowned as one of the most successful popular lecturers among living scientists, and he has achieved remarkable success in his lectures to children delivered at the Royal Institution, London.

Beyond the Great Wall of China and the People Who Live There is the subject of a third lecture by L. H. Dudley Buxton, who has made a journey into inner Mongolia for the purpose of studying its people and their habits.

NEW TOURIST RECORD SET AT VANCOUVER

Past Two Weeks Brought Many Travelers; Many Arrivals This Week

Vancouver, June 23.—More tourists visited Vancouver in the past two weeks than ever before at this time of year in the history of the city.

This is the most convincing evidence ever afforded of the growing popularity of the British Columbia coast generally with the tourist public, according to hotelmen, railway officials, tourist bureau managers and all others able to judge.

Reports from other parts of Canada and the United States generally indicate that the abnormally backward, cold weather has resulted in tourist traffic much below the average of other years. The record on this coast, therefore, affords not only a striking contrast, but apparently positive proof that British Columbia is coming into its own at the expense of other places.

This week will see the real opening of the tourist season here. The coming of the British fleet, the Gyro Pollack—and other attractions promise to bring to the city an even bigger crowd than was here during the visit of the late President Harding. Several hotels have been refusing reservations for two weeks past, and there is little doubt that private citizens will have to open their homes to strangers if visitors are to be given a chance to remain in the city more than one day in comfort.

By the time these special attractions are over, the regular tourist season will be in full swing, and it promises to put all previous records far behind. The season does not get under way until school is out, and that delectable time for the younger generation starts in most places this week.

DISCUSSING WORK OF SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Leaders Now Holding World Convention in City of Glasgow

Glasgow, June 23.—In presenting his report to the ninth convention of the World Sunday School Association to-day, Dr. W. G. Landes of New York, general secretary, reviewed the work of the association since the Tokio convention of 1920.

That convention established with-out question, he said, the value of the organized Sunday school work as an efficient factor in the great world-wide missionary programme. It brought the association into a new position of influence and strength. Those who had participated in the various tours during the past four years had found open doors on every hand and a readiness to learn of the methods employed in promoting the Sunday school as an evangelizing agency.

As a result of this awakened interest, new national associations have been organized in Ceylon, Burma, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Austria, Spain, Portugal and Chile. Co-operating committees had been formed in North Africa, Constantinople, Rumania and Jugoslavia.

WORK IN JAPAN

The Japanese National Sunday School Association, Dr. Landes said, had steadily grown in constructive influence and was now recognized as an important factor in the educational life of that nation. Recently the Tokio authorities had requested the assistance of the National Association to furnish a regular period of Christian teaching in all the primary public schools of that city.

At no period in the history of the association had there been such close personal contact with the fields and to study needs and hold helpful conferences as in the past four years. Groups returning from Tokio had visited remote fields and international meetings had been held at all stops.

"The past four years have witnessed a marvelous advance in

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Multified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else as to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Multified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it keeps the scalp cool and healthy. It's the best thing you can use for your hair. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

WILL CARRY ON

THE present Government will continue to administer the affairs of the Province. This is the outlook as disclosed by the returns of the election up to to-day, which give the forces behind the Hon. John Oliver, twenty members with the prospect of two more when the result has been finally revealed.

There are also two Independents, one of whom, declared in his election pronouncement that he proposed to support the Oliver Government in a general sense, while the other, who ran as an Independent Liberal, is not likely to cast a vote which would help to put the Conservatives in office.

Nor would that course be pursued by the Labor representatives who know from the record that the element they represent has much more to gain from a Liberal Government than from an administration conducted by the Conservatives. In any case the Liberals as the largest of the parties represented in the Legislature must remain in office, since another election is not desired by the people at this time.

There is nothing unusual or exceptional in a condition under which a party which does not strictly command a majority of the elected members retains control of the treasury benches. The MacDonald Government in Britain is operating in similar circumstances in a much more acute form. Technically the Government at Ottawa is in the same position, although actually, with Progressive support, it has an overwhelming majority. In Australia conditions had to be resorted to. In South Africa the Herzog Nationalists must depend upon the support of Labor. This invariably has been the case in elections where there have been more than two strongly organized parties. The Oliver Government may not need to resort to a coalition with any other party, but if necessary it probably can do so with Labor and retain office for a considerable time.

The showing made by the Provincials must have been disappointing to the leaders of the new party, many of whom were confident that they would command a majority of the Legislature. The election of three of their candidates, however, does not tell the whole story of their contribution to the result. They exacted a heavy toll from both rival parties in almost every constituency and indirectly, therefore, did more than appears on the surface to determine the political complexion of affairs as it now exists.

Whether the Provincials will continue as a separate political party, or not, now that Mr. Bowser has been eliminated from the Opposition leadership in the Legislature for the time being, remains to be seen. That party largely originated from the hostility to Mr. Bowser within the Conservative ranks and it may be that under a change of chieftains General McRae and his two supporters will cast their lot with the Conservative members. There are not a few Conservatives, however, who would not welcome such co-operation from an element whose intervention they consider deprived them of victory in the election. But whether they may like it or not they can not prevent the Provincials from voting with them in the House.

Vancouver Island will have no Liberal representative in the Legislature from Victoria northward until we come to Nanaimo where the Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines, was elected. Three-fourths of the population therefore are represented only on the Opposition side of the House, a marked contrast with the situation prior to the election in which they had five Liberal members and an Independent Liberal from Cowichan. In that list were the Prime Minister and the Minister of Finance, the two most important members of the Government.

The possession of two Cabinet Ministers was an asset of marked value to the southern section of Vancouver Island. During the war it was directly responsible for the big ship-building activity across the harbor which put into circulation in this city many millions of dollars. It was a most indispensable factor in connection with certain projects for industrial expansion which the Chamber of Commerce and other public bodies in Victoria have had under consideration.

Without Premier Oliver's personal efforts the grain elevator project, still undecided by the Canadian National Railway heads, would have been rejected long ago, since the Provincial Government controls the application of the money which would have to be used for the purpose. Closer communication with the West Coast, one of the most vital needs of this community, also is a matter which our Cabinet representatives had in hand and in the further promotion of which we shall be severely handicapped without that representation. However pronounced may have been the electorate's disapproval, unjustly we think of the Government on this part of Vancouver Island, the rejection of the Premier was a costly mistake, to put it mildly.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

IT has been said, and there is more point to the argument than may appear at first sight, that the League of Nations is not as popular among the people as a whole as it might be because so few understand the details of its operation.

Nor will it be popular or understood as long as there shall be no practical desire on the part of the general public to support it. Support must first come through the ordinary channels of education which can be tapped through the establishment and work of local branches of the League's societies.

Too many people are too prone to imagine that no League of Nations will ever do away with war. It would be more correct to say that nothing ever succeeded without adequate and faithful support. Others ask how it is possible for the League to thrive and attain its object without the membership of the United States, of Germany, and of Russia. In this respect there is point to the argument if only for the reason that absentee members represent more than half of the white races of the world. But how do those who discuss the subject from this point of view expect either the United States, or any other power, to come into the League as long as there is only a small amount of enthusiasm for its great meaning in those countries which are members?

The war which came to an end nearly six years ago was fought at a cost of more than 11,000,000 human lives and material treasure impossible to compute. And during the long interval which has elapsed since November 11, 1918, only very little progress has been made towards the complete outlawing of war. Why is this? The answer is simple. The majority of men's minds are still armed. A League of Nations Society in every town and city would soon disarm them and war would become unpopular and most of the world's population would be soldiers of peace.

To revive the enthusiasm which Sir George Foster aroused last year Mr. Frederick Wheless, the lecturer for the League of Nations Union of England, has come to Canada and is in Victoria to-day. Those who do not hear him earlier will be able to avail themselves of the opportunity at the mass meeting which will be held in the Metropolitan Church this evening.

PECULIAR REASONING

OUR morning contemporary seems to be a little nettled because the people of the Province did not take its advice and elect a Conservative Government. At least this is the conclusion which most people will draw from the following extract from its leading editorial yesterday morning:

The solution of the present impasse, for impasse it is and may continue to develop as such, is a compromise, for it is quite obvious that the people do not want to be put to the expense and turmoil of another Provincial election during the present year. There is, however, something they want to know, and to know definitely, and that is that the Liberal Government will have the courage and fair-mindedness to interpret correctly the handwriting on the wall inscribed by the vote of the electorate.

We are at a loss to understand why The Colonist considers a compromise necessary. In all ordinary circumstances the Government is assured of at least twenty-seven votes in the Legislature, taking the Labor and Independent support which it had in the last Parliament.

And where is the demand of the people that the Liberals "interpret correctly the handwriting on the wall?" Last Friday's election was held according to democratic custom. The people gave their instructions. The Government has been sustained. There is no need for another election.

This would appear to settle the difficulty into which The Colonist seems to have jumped without cause.

DOMINION NAVAL UNIT

CANADIANS will appreciate the courteous action of the Australian Government in permitting H.M.A.S. Adelaide to visit these shores with the special squadron which is touring the Empire.

The Adelaide is a Commonwealth war vessel, manned for the most part by Australians, and she represents one unit of the service which distinguished itself by putting the German raider Emden out of harm's way off the Cocos Islands. For it was H.M.A.S. Sydney which removed a very serious menace to Allied shipping at a critical period of the war.

Canadians will remember the exploits of the Emden and how the Empire as a whole thrilled with admiration and excitement when the fine work of the Australian cruiser was made public.

Nor should it be forgotten that the Commonwealth Navy, operating as a Dominion unit, performed invaluable service to the Allied cause in safeguarding the lanes of commerce. In fact it meant that, after the destruction of von Spee's squadron off the Falkland Islands, the Grand Fleet was unimpeded by any drain upon its force for protective work under the Southern Cross.

In this important phase, supported, of course, by our Japanese ally, the Commonwealth Navy acquitted itself magnificently. For this and other reasons the visit of the Adelaide is especially interesting and pleasant.

One stroke kept the British open golf championship in England last year; one stroke took the British Columbia open trophy to the United States last Saturday. There's a lot in a stroke in the royal and ancient.

Some political commentators already are beginning to retire Premier Oliver, but he is not one of the retiring sort. He has plenty of fight in him yet—and the freight rates case needs him.

Dr. Frank Crane on "Dogs"

(Copyright)

IN a conversation with a naturalist who is of considerable standing, but for obvious reasons desires to remain nameless, he expressed the following sentiments:

"The dog is no more than a degenerate wolf. When men found a litter of wolf whelps they killed off those that were independent enough to stand and fight, and preserved those that fawned and cringed.

"These they took home and bred. The result was the dog, who is essentially a coward. He is not only a coward, but he is a killer. More human lives are taken every year by the dogs than have been taken by wild beasts since the beginning of the country.

"At night every dog feels the impulse to kill. He becomes a killer. He will not kill an opponent who will stand up and fight him, but he kills everything that runs away, including chickens, ducks, geese and sheep.

"Some of the wild beasts will kill sheep and horses, but most of these animals that are killed are killed by dogs.

"The list of diseases that are communicated from dogs to man are numerous, including the tape worm.

"Every woman who lets a dog lick the face of her child, or hand, is inviting some of these diseases.

"Most of the itch that human beings have comes from dogs.

"I know I am up against a sentiment, and therefore cannot speak freely and authoritatively, for a sentiment is hard to combat.

"In almost every instance of a wild animal destroying human life, the wild animal has been tamed. It has been tamed by a dog. We have waged war for many years against the cat as a destroyer of wild life, and somebody ought to arise who is of sufficient consequence to cultivate a public sentiment against the dog, for he is equally as dangerous as the cat, if not more dangerous.

"At least, the movement to muzzle dogs during the Summer time should meet the hearty approval of everyone.

"Burglar alarms are a guarantee of protection almost as good as dogs; and they have this advantage, that they do not bite."

How Pontiac's Conspiracy Was Nipped in the Bud

PONTIAC, the great war chief of the Ottawa Indians, was besieging Fort Detroit, held by a British garrison under Major Gladwyn.

He had meant to surprise the place by treachery at a time of apparent peace and under show of fairest friendship, but had been foiled in this. For a month now his Indians had swarmed about outside the palisades, and with every ruse of savage warfare had striven to reduce the stronghold, set it on fire or starve it out. Had it not been for a French-Canadian, Jacques Baby, whose house and farm were in the heart of the present town of Sandwich, Ontario, the last method might have been successful. The French-Canadians, whose houses stretched all along what is now the Canadian bank of the Detroit River, and in certain numbers, also, along the western bank, were unnoted, for nominally, the Indians were rising on behalf of their Great Father, the King of France. Baby secretly provisioned the fort by night at great risk to himself. So Major Gladwyn held out, though his officers had advised evacuation by the garrison. How long he could hold out depended upon the relief in men, supplies and munitions should arrive.

A convoy of flat-bottomed boats from Niagara, the commander being ignorant of the Indian uprising and the state of siege at Detroit, had been captured by the savages. Point Pelee on Lake Erie. The garrison was beginning to starve. The relief was not far ahead. It was on June 23, 1763, that the sentinels in the bastions of the fort reported unusual activity among the Indians. During the day party after party of them could be watched skirting the forest, beyond the clearing westward of the fort. They were passing southward. That evening Jacques Baby came in security to inform the garrison that a British schooner, of whose approach they had heard a rumor, was standing up the river. The Indians had descended in almost all their force to ambush her in the narrow channel near Fighting Island, seven miles or so below. Major Gladwyn had two guns fired to let the schooner captain know that he still was holding on.

THE schooner was the Gladwyn from the Niagara River. She carried provisions and munitions. Aboard were over fifty soldiers, twenty-two of them survivors from the recent disaster at Point Pelee, as was also their commander, Lieutenant Cuyler. The latter was not to be caught a second time. To the Indians would be the surprise this time, and he was seeking blood. The vessel sailed calmly up from the wide river into the narrowest channel, between the long Fighting Island and the little Turkey Island. Then, as the sun set, she anchored, easy prey. Cuyler did not know that at this very point the savages, with a rather obvious cunning, had built a breastwork of logs excellently concealed amid the underbrush, but he suspected some such ruse. All that afternoon ten men only had been visible on deck. The rest had been lying quietly below. The Gladwyn was a perfect picture of defencelessness, and the stupid English had kindly run their heads into the noose again.

The night was black. Inconspicuous sentinels strained their eyes through the hours. Save for the music of the waves lapping the prow all was still. Slowly, silently, dark shapes moved far away upon the water. At the whispered alarm the men crept noiselessly on deck and took post. Many shapes were now to be distinguished, and that close by. Suddenly a hammer clanged against the mast. There was a blaze and roar of musketry. The warship's cannon spoke with grape. The war-whoop on the savage lips was turned to shrieks of agony or consternation. Canoes sank ripped, and the water was churned by the panic-stricken and the dying. The attack was over. It had lasted but a second, and fourteen Indian dead had sunk and many more had reached the bank with wounds.

Some time later in the night, when the excitement of surprise had spent itself, the warriors bethought them of their barials and from it started a fusillade upon the schooner. She weighed her anchor and dropped down the current the short distance to the wide river. A few days later, when the wind was favorable again, she ran up past these same shores, spattered with desultory bullets, but without casualties. As she passed the Wyandott village, on what is now the Canadian bank, just a little below Detroit, she dropped a heart greeting of grape-shot there, which sent the brown inhabitants shrieking in all directions from an upper level, and killed a number of them. Then, in front of the fort, she came to anchor beside the schooner already there. Her provisions would make resistance possible for two months more.

AUTO CAMP SOUGHT
BY MANY TOURISTS
 Visitors Flock to Popular Summer Resort For Vacation

A record number of automobile tourist visitors have visited the Curtis Point Motor Camp this year, and up to yesterday a total of 197 cars had been recorded. This figure compares favorably with that of last year, when eighty-six cars were recorded up to June 22.

There were thirty-two cars in the camp last night, and fourteen of these arrived during the afternoon and evening, but there is still ample room for more visitors.

Almost every night of the week the visitors can spend their time dancing in the Vancouver Island Athletic Association pavilion nearby to the strains of music supplied by the orchestra of this body. On Sunday evenings a band concert is provided from the same source for their entertainment. The visitors live, for the most part, under canvas, using the firewood and water supplied by the camp authorities, and every one of them had a good word to say for the kindness and courtesy of the tourists. The beauty of the camp itself, the bathing, boating and many pleasant drives about Victoria and its environs, none of which are too long to keep the visitors away from the camp all night, all the greatly appreciated by the tourists.

Several motoring visitors who had intended to tour the island have been so struck with the beauty and the enjoyment to be derived from a prolonged visit here that they have made the auto camp their headquarters and never journey far afield. Others have postponed their excursions elsewhere, and are spending a few idle and restful days by the pleasant

WORLD NOT SAFE YET BUT LEAGUE OFFERS MUCH HOPE

F. Whelan Addresses Gyo Club on League of Nations

Frederick Whelan, official representative of the League of Nations Society, told the Gyo Club at its luncheon to-day that the world was not safe from war, especially in view of the condition existing in the Balkans, where, he thought, the victors in the late war had blundered in arming certain nations.

"Russia, the Czechs, and Hungary were large nations," said Mr. Whelan. "To-day Serbia is a large nation with a great army, while Bulgaria and Hungary have been disarmed. The intense hatred there may lead to further trouble."

"It is in our interest," declared Mr. Whelan in substantiation of his argument, "to build up any machine that will be able to stop war."

The speaker, who has an intimate knowledge of the workings of the League, told of cases where war had been averted by the timely and firm action of the great organization. He gave a fine outline of the settlement of the controversy between Finland and Sweden over the Aland Islands in the Baltic Sea, which almost brought these countries to blows.

STOPPED FOUR WARS

In the first four years of its existence the League has averted four wars. If that can happen in the life of such a young organization what cannot happen in ten years?" exclaimed Mr. Whelan.

The rehabilitation of Austria by the League of Nations was touched on by Mr. Whelan, who stated that in two years this country had been the scene of the controversy between Europe into a country of hope.

"Two years ago in Austria there were beggars everywhere, the money had gone out of the savings banks, the currency was inflated, but today we find the beggars gone and money flowing into the savings banks, while the currency has remained stable for six years, which is a fine thing in view of the fall of the German mark, the Italian lire and the French franc. This is an extraordinary testimony to the work of the League of Nations."

Mr. Whelan is a splendid speaker, with a fine flow of English, and a phenomenal grasp of world-wide affairs.

POLICE SAY MAN MADE BIGAMOUS MARRIAGE IN NORTH

Arrests Follows Smart Work on Part of Local Plain Clothes Staff

Following action by the city plain clothes department in the past few weeks an arrest was made at Sidney on Friday of a man now held by the authorities on a charge of bigamy.

The accused, said the police, spent some time in this city with a wife and one child, acting as agent for an agricultural paper. At the beginning of the year he left town, and his wife used for want of support, and the police traced the man to Prince Rupert, where they alleged a second marriage took place, this time to an eighteen-year-old girl who was taken on a honeymoon to the North. From there the man returned with the second bride to Vancouver and then crossed the line. Extradition would have been difficult, but from Bellingham the man crossed to Sidney, where his arrest was effected by plain clothes men. Proceedings are pending in city police court.

SEES DECLINE OF WORLD WITHOUT BRITISH EMPIRE

Samuel Harris, Navy League Head, Here For Convention

"With the disappearance of the British Fleet would go the British Empire, and with the British Empire would go the Christian religion and civilization," declared Samuel Harris, of Toronto, the energetic president of the Navy League of Canada, who has arrived here for the Dominion Council meeting, which will open here to-morrow.

Mr. Harris is the life and soul of the League in Ontario, and few causes possess so benign an advocate. He refers to by the president, who pointed out that sentiment toward the navy was growing in the East. "If we did nothing else but our pension system, we should be warranted in our work," he declared, in illustrating how he said a "grateful" country had forgotten a good many of the dependents of the war heroes.

Mr. Harris headed a delegation from the Navy League of Canada which made a special visit to H.M.S. Hood to-day by invitation of the Vice Admiral.

A large number of spectators attended the novelty show given put on at the Stadium on Saturday night by Jim McCleave's horses and riders. This show is being repeated every night this week, commencing at 7.30 o'clock.

The show provides plenty of thrills, winding up with a spectacular fire jump, the horses and riders passing through a wall of flame which shoots up from the hurdles.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grant announced the engagement of their second daughter, Edna Margaret, to Clement J. Sears, Vancouver, B.C., son of the late Mr. J. Sears and Mrs. Sears of 924 Empress Avenue. The wedding will take place on the evening of July 10 in St. Johns Church.

Hoy Lake, Eng., June 23.—Honors were about evenly divided between British and foreign golfers at the contest of the first eighteen holes of the qualifying round for the British open golf championship. The qualifying round is being played on two courses.

Another good win The Sunflower stable added the second big purse of the week to its string by capturing the Colwood Handicap of one mile, one furlong, with Quaver's fine speed in the stretch. Reliability, which romped off with the Inaugural Handicap on the opening day, End Man, which ran such a fine race on Wednesday over four and one-half furlongs, was the only horse that made running for the Sunflower entry. End Man led over half the distance, but could not respond to the burst of speed shown by Quaver in the long drive in the stretch.

Greatest Soccer Game of Year Is Won By Victoria

One of the finest football games that has been staged here in years resulted from the meeting of the all-star teams from the British Special Services Squadron and Victoria at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday evening. Although the final score was 3 goals to 1 in favor of Victoria, the count does not give a fair indication of the play as the sailors undoubtedly held the upper hand over the greater part of the distance and only the sensational goal of Shrimpton, the Victoria Park on Saturday night, saved the game from being a landslide for the local boys.

Navy's Famous Eleven Taken Into Camp by 3-1 After Very Thrilling Game

The sailors played a rare game. They had a great deal of close-quarter work and their forward line was a treat to watch handle the ball. Faulty shooting, due no doubt to the long sea trips, and Shrimpton's work was all that prevented them from rolling up a score in the dying moments. Their two outside forwards proved very tricky and a great source of worry to the local backs.

Sailors' Forward Line Handies Ball Well; Victoria Played Great Game

Victoria eleven played a splendid game. It is doubtful if a local squad ever showed to better advantage. Fitted against fine opposition the redshirts were put on their mettle and they responded well. For fifteen minutes in the second half the teams staged a pretty duel in mid-field and the finest and fastest soccer ever seen here was provided.

H.M.S. HOOD SHIPPING A BIG SEA EN ROUTE HERE

Sea Power Supreme Necessity to Guard Empire Trade Routes

Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Field, Leader of British Special Service Squadron Heard in Stirring Appeal; Cordial Welcome Advanced to Naval Forces on Behalf of Federal Government

One hundred representative officers of the British Special Service Squadron and the Dominion Naval Service, and two hundred civilians, many of them prominent in public life of the Province, were guests at the Federal Government banquet in honor of the visiting warships, held at the Empress Hotel on Saturday evening.

There existed a school of thought which held that submarines and air-craft would form the weapons of any future conflict. This was a fallacious argument, to his mind. The capital ship of the future need not necessarily be designed similar to the H.M.S. Hood, but as long as the Empire was dependent on surface ships for the carriage of its food and materials there would be a need of capital ships to guard trade routes.

Giant Battle Cruisers at Ogden Point

It would be an impertinence on his part, said Sir Frederick, to attempt to influence this Dominion as to what it should do in naval defence, but he felt justified in asking Canada if she felt safe, if her overseas trade was safe, and would it be so in times of war? It was a question for Canada herself to consider in the light of her own requirements, and of her place in the Empire.

The squadron which anchored here to-day is a far cry from the fleet of galleys built by Alfred in 897, with which the British Navy began its career. All the vessels are of the most modern type, efficient to an amazing degree, and all the people of this part of the world who visit them will discover. I recall seeing the Hood, the largest and most powerful battleship in the world, shortly after it was completed and ready to put to sea in the Firth of Forth in 1918.

The Hood and its companion ship, the Repulse, offer magnificent testimony to the world of the importance of the Navy in establishing and maintaining our trade routes and that freedom of the seas which has been the foundation of the world's greatness and made civilization possible. During their journey these boats have stopped at many places which came into prominence in the war and now fly the British flag. The value of the Empire and the world of the experience of both officers and men on this wonderful cruise can hardly be estimated.

testimony to the world of the importance of the Navy in establishing and maintaining our trade routes and that freedom of the seas which has been the foundation of the world's greatness and made civilization possible. During their journey these boats have stopped at many places which came into prominence in the war and now fly the British flag.

THE EMPIRE BUILDER

"It is well for us all to remember this evening that had it not been for the Royal Navy there would be no British Empire to-day. It was the Navy which made victory possible in the Great War. It stood between the Imperial German Navy and the command of the sea by which the enemy would have been able to take possession, one by one, of our possessions. Had there been any foreign navy strong enough to defeat the British Navy during the war, or indeed, at any time during the last hundred years, everything that Britain has, everything that it is, everything that it means, would have lain at the mercy of that foreign fleet.

"Vice-Admiral Field and members, officers and men of the Special Service Squadron on behalf of the Government and people of Canada, I desire to extend to you a hearty welcome, a welcome warm and whole-souled and sincere as mine can frame and lips can utter. I have been asked by the Right Hon. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, to explain to the pressing demands of Parliament it was not possible for him, or for any of his Cabinet, to be in Victoria on the arrival of the Special Service Squadron of the Royal Navy, and he has asked me to say, as the Federal Government's representative on this occasion, that he sincerely hopes that the visit of the squadron will be a happy and memorable one, and that the occasion will be availed of by all to pay tribute to the Navy's splendid record.

MINISTER REGRETS

"I have been asked by Hon. E. M. Macdonald, Minister of National Defence for Canada, to say that as a trip to Victoria and to explain to the pressing demands of Parliament it was not possible for him, or for any of his Cabinet, to be in Victoria on the arrival of the Special Service Squadron of the Royal Navy, and he has asked me to say, as the Federal Government's representative on this occasion, that he sincerely hopes that the visit of the squadron will be a happy and memorable one, and that the occasion will be availed of by all to pay tribute to the Navy's splendid record.

LIUTENANT-GOVERNOR'S SPEECH

His Honor said: Gentlemen.—It is a great pleasure to this evening to publicly welcome to Canada in this far Western part of the British Empire the Special Service Squadron which left England in November last and has in the interim voyaged along the coasts of the five continents washed by the Atlantic and Indian Oceans and the Pacific. Two weeks ago, the forty or fifty ports at which they touched in this long journey were British possessions under the flag of the Empire. The vessels anchored off Honolulu, the crews, from the time they left their ports, had not set foot on foreign soil. Wherever they have touched land they have been the guests of men of their own race.

"Equally it is the only port in Canada in which the Squadron will assemble as a whole. After they leave here for the South they will separate at San Francisco and take different routes, the battle-cruisers going to the Panama Canal, to Halifax and Quebec, touching various ports of the United States on the way, while the light cruiser squadron will make the tour of the South American Coast, pass around the Horn to the Falkland Islands, which will forever be associated with Sir Doreton Sturdee's famous victory, and so home.

"The squadron forms the largest aggregation of British fighting ships that Canada has ever seen. It comprises over 70,000 tons of shipping and some 7,000 men. This seven months' voyage which they have just taken must have stirred the pride and stimulated the imagination of every man on board. It has been a wonderful experience for both officers and men. It has flown anew the glorious old Flag of Empire in far-off ports where, perhaps, it has not been seen in all its glory in years, and has been a visible and striking reminder of the common bond between the brotherhood of countries comprising the British Empire.

PROGRESS OF SCIENCE

"The squadron which anchored here to-day is a far cry from the fleet of galleys built by Alfred in 897, with which the British Navy began its career. All the vessels are of the most modern type, efficient to an amazing degree, and all the people of this part of the world who visit them will discover. I recall seeing the Hood, the largest and most powerful battleship in the world, shortly after it was completed and ready to put to sea in the Firth of Forth in 1918.

"The light cruiser cruiser has the distinction of having fired the last shot in the war at sea, in an engagement with a German submarine.

H. F. Batterbee, political secretary to the Admiral, is attached to the Department of the Colonies. Mr. Batterbee is a C.M.G. and C.V.O. J. A. P. Edgcombe, assistant director of the Department of Overseas Trade, travels on the Hood. He is sent out for the express purpose of looking into trade with the Dominions.

TEN THOUSAND PERSONS ON BOARD H.M.S. HOOD

Children and Delegations Throng to War Vessels

Official Visit by Municipal Party, to Present Address

Never have so many thousand persons shown as much interest in the British fleet during a visit here as was demonstrated yesterday. About 10,000 persons were on board H.M.S. Hood and 7,500 persons on board the battle cruiser H.M.S. Repulse, thus the popularity of the flagship can be readily gauged.

The heights of Beacon Hill Park were lined with cars and pedestrians, and traffic on the Dallas Road during the afternoon was almost impossible. The visitors met with the greatest courtesy, and were shown everything from the big guns to the mascot.

Of all the visitors to the British warship at Ogden Point on Saturday and yesterday none took advantage of the occasion with greater enthusiasm than the children, who had their opportunity during Saturday afternoon. They were marshalled at Beacon Hill in charge of Municipal Inspector G. H. Dewar and Principal T. W. Hall, and marched to the piers during the afternoon. Ross Sutherland, Commissioner of the Boy Scouts, accompanied the party, which was composed as follows: Boys' Naval Brigade band, under Bandmaster Rumbly, a detachment of the Boys' Naval Brigade in charge of Lieut. P. A. Rayner; children of Oaklands, North Ward (carrying a silken banner of blue and white); Quads Burnside, Marine Club; Sir James Douglas, Girls' Central, Boys' Central, George Jay, Victoria West, South Park, Esquimalt Public School, Cloverdale, McKenna, Nanaimo, Tillouche, Tolmie, North Dairy, Model School, Victoria High, Oak Bay High, Willows, Metochin, the detachment of Boy Scouts in charge of Assistant District Commissioner, Bevanhill; the Juvenile Pipers' Band, under direction of Piper Donald Cameron; Girl Guides to the number of 150, in command of Mrs. Kinloch, District Commissioner; and three private schools, Sefton College, St. Margaret's School and St. George's School.

Acting upon the request of the boxing members of the crews of the capital ships who will not be present to witness the big boxing show at the Armories on Wednesday night, W. H. Davies, the local promoter, consented to stage a local show at 8.30 o'clock for their special benefit at the quarters of the National Sporting Club, corner Yates and Government Street. Mr. Davies has been unusually fortunate in lining up a wonderful card of events which will be as follows: Main event, ten rounds—AB Frank Buckman, featherweight champion Australian Navy vs. AB Cliff Williams, late of U.S.S. California, bantam champion U.S. Navy. Four rounds, welterweights, AB Art Vaughan, H.M.S. Adelaide vs. Stoker Nobby Clark, H.M.S. Repulse. Four rounds, featherweights, AB Herrod H.M.S. Repulse vs. Stoker Fitzroy, H.M.S. Esquimaux. Three rounds, dustweights, Albie vs. Jumbo Davies.

PRESENT ADDRESS

During the afternoon Mayor Hayward and members of the aldermanic board, accompanied by Mayor Walkers, Lady Smith, Mayor McPherson, Courtenay, Mayor Parham, Cumberland, Mayor Montgomery, Wetaskiwin, Mayor Gregory, North Battleford, Reeve Brooks, South Vancouver, Alderman Dr. Worthington, Vancouver, Alderman Dr. Crawford, Calgary, and Alderman Herbert, North Battleford, waited on the Admiral. Previously they had presented an address, details of which have already been published.

"In his reply Admiral Field said in part: "We have been around the whole Empire and we have found that there is a very strong feeling of comradeship and friendship, no matter how far the Dominion may be from the Mother Country. There is that feeling that we are the same people, we come from the same stock and the reception we have had has not been, I feel, for any other reason than that the Empire is a family. If we do not hold together now, it would be a very bad thing; not only for us who come from the same stock and who have the same ideals of government, freedom of speech and freedom to live as we wish to live, but it will be a very great disaster to the rest of the world, because by whatever might Britain has been aided by her great Dominion it has always been used for the good of humanity. I think we can always pride ourselves on that."

One hundred and seventy-five members and friends of the Victoria branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada visited the flagship by arrangement made by the secretary, F. P. Girdwood. Most of the members of the profession here were noticed in the party.

Lanchman Who Trusts Belated M.P. Rewarded by Parliamentary Dinner

London, June 23.—Does it pay in these materialistic times to play the "Good Samaritan"? There is a London coffee house stall keeper who is of the opinion that it does. A few weeks ago, in the early hours of the morning, a well-dressed man ordered a cup of coffee and a sandwich at his stall, only to find later that he had no money to pay the check.

The proprietor not only gave him a second cup of coffee on trust, but also advanced him sixpence for his fare home. The generous act was rewarded the following day by an invitation to dinner at the House of Commons. The check, amounting to 1s. 6d., was turned out to be J. Toole, M.P. for South Stafford. He had been kept late in the House of Commons and chose this means of showing his gratitude to the man who had befriended him.

Sailors Appearing in Special Bouts Here This Evening

Bantamweight Champ of U.S. Navy Will Meet British Champ in Ten Rounds

The other contestants in to-night's bouts are, according to their shipmates, excellent boxers and it is predicted that the bouts will be keenly contested as there is great rivalry between the various ships. It is expected that both Mascot and Ellis, who arrived in the city today, will put on exhibition bouts so that the fans can size them up for the big championship event on Wednesday evening. It is expected that to-night's events will be witnessed by a capacity crowd as the visiting sailors will be on hand in full strength to witness their champion against the American crack. The bouts to-night will be refereed by Al. Davies and W. H. Davies.

RAILWAY BOARD IN VANCOUVER TO-DAY

Vancouver, June 23.—Members of the Board of Railway Commissioners are sitting here to-day and hearing applications, mostly in connection with level crossings and other matters which the city desires dealt with. Hon. Frank Carvell is presiding.

French Driver is Victor in Fierce Drive With Canuck

Los Angeles, June 23.—Leon Durey, French racing driver, won the 3 1/4 mile Jack Dempsey automobile handicap at Ascot Speedway on Sunday with Jack Petticoat, Canadian dirt track champion, a close second. Durey's desperate and eventually successful efforts to pass the Canadian, who drove high on the stretches whenever his rival tried to nose him out, caused the fans for the unusually slow time—thirteen minutes and 26 seconds.

THRILLS IN RACES

Hamline, Minn., June 23.—Two spectacular races resulting in injuries to two drivers, afforded thrills for 10,000 spectators who watched Sig Haugdahl, Albert Lea, Minn., dirt track champion, win the final 19-mile of the 100-mile automobile race here Saturday. Haugdahl did the final lap in 3:54 4-5. Joe Bureby, St. Paul, was injured when he drove through a fence, and Fred Leclider, Toledo, Ohio, was put out of the race after his car had locked wheels with another contestant and turned over three times. The driver of the other car escaped uninjured.

The famous composer finished a rehearsal by thanking the orchestra for what he said, was the finest interpretation of his work he had ever heard.

Whereupon one of the horn players turned to a colleague and remarked, "Well, I've still got two pages to play, anyhow."

'Couple of Down And Outs' Showing On Dominion Screen

Feature Attraction Direct From the Tivoli in London

This week will be British week at the Dominion. The feature attraction is an English production direct from the Tivoli Theatre, London, starring two of Britain's most famous screen stars, Captain Rex, M.C. and Miss Edna Best. The story deals with the aftermath of the Great War and is called "A Couple of Down and Outs." It is rich in domestic atmosphere and abounds in English comedy that rivals that "Three Live Ghosts," which hitherto has been conceded to be the funniest comedy ever filmed.

"A Couple of Down and Outs" is full of funny situations, but there is also a serious side to the picture which brings the comedy out in stronger relief. The characters are well chosen from the stars onward. Special mention might be made of the police sergeant, a man of large bulk and larger heart, he is a typical London "bobby," with a keen sense of duty, and a keener sense of humor. The picture is irresistible, while the love of the ex-artilleryman for his horse, who was his pal all through the war, will find a responsive chord in the heart of everyone in any audience.

Brilliant Cast Supports Priscilla Dean in "Drifting"

Universal-Jewel Picture Reaches Exacting Standards at Columbia

What players have done in the past is the best proof of what they may be expected to do in a picture just about to be shown.

"Drifting," a Universal-Jewel picture in which Priscilla Dean is starred is showing at the Columbia Theatre to-day. It has a cast which bears analysis of the most exacting standards.

Miss Dean herself, famous for pictures like "Outside the Law," "Under Two Flags" and "The Flame of Life," is such an emotionalist that the trying role of Cassie Cook in "Drifting" is probably a perfect casting for her. "Drifting" incidentally was John Colton's stage play presented by William A. Brady with Alice Brady featured, and the audiences that saw the play are naturally interested in the picture.

In the secondary feminine role Anna May Wong will be seen. For her work in "Toll of the Sea" she was acclaimed by Photoplay in a past issue of that magazine as the best individual performer of that month. Her ability in tragic and emotional roles is by this time well known.

Wallace Beery in the "heavy" role may be expected to repeat the quality of performance he has given in such productions as "The Flame of Life," "Havoc" and "Robin Hood."

Musical Night At Royal Theatre

The musical programme as selected for music lovers' night this week at the Royal Theatre is one that is most appropriate to the visit of the British fleet. The overture that has been selected is entitled "A Life on the Ocean." It is a descriptive selection and ought to be well received on this occasion. The feature, "Love, Life and Laughter," featuring Britain's queen of happiness, Betty Balfour, will also give the orchestra an opportunity to play a number of English numbers. Some of the numbers to be rendered during the evening are as follows:

Selection—"A Life on the Ocean"
 Selection—"Havana"..... Binding
 Selection—"Sphinx"..... Stuart
 Selection—"Havana"..... Stuart
 Intermezzo—"Lovelight"..... Adams

Betty Balfour In Love, Life and Laughter at Royal

Screen Comedienne is "Britain's Queen of Happiness"

Somebody has called Betty Balfour "Britain's Queen of Happiness," an inspiration that springs from seeing her in George Pearson's master film, "Love, Life and Laughter," which is the feature attraction at the Royal Theatre this week. There can be no doubt about it; Betty is a real tonic. She gladdens the heart as no other screen comedienne can. She is wonderful, she is clever, and above all she is our own British film star.

I am often asked how Betty got into the pictures. Born with a smile in her eyes, she came gifted with talent. At a very tender age she cultivated family parties with her clever mimics, and presently she began to amuse the public in the same way. George Pearson, the famous English producer, knew of little Betty's talents in those days, and he watched her development with growing interest. She studied elocution under Kate Burke and made her debut at the Court Theatre. Subsequently she appeared at a number of concerts, and eventually that astute producer, C. B. Cochran, engaged her to appear in several of his revues. Thereafter Betty did an enormous amount of good work during the war at charity concerts and singing to the soldiers.

Mr. Pearson then induced Betty to play in the film "Nothing Else Matters," in which she made a great hit as a comic slavey, and, realizing immediately that Miss Balfour was a born screen comedienne, the Welsh-Pearson Company, wittingly twenty-four hours, persuaded her to sign a contract for the production.

Hardly a moment too soon, for the ink was hardly dry on the contract before an American company approached Miss Balfour with an offer of a big engagement. Since then she has had a number of offers from America and also from various theatrical producers, including Mr. Cochrane, but she is very happy with the Welsh-Pearson Company, and much prefers to play in films rather than on the stage, because she considers the film offers greater possibilities.

In "Love, Life and Laughter" Betty just carries everybody along with her. She is irresistible in such scenes as those in which she sings and dances "Sweet Hortense" and pretends to be a music hall star of the low comedienne type. At other times she is simply adorable and a picture of dainty loveliness in beautiful gowns and whimsical airs and graces. "Queen of Happiness" is the proper way to describe Betty. It is impossible not to feel happy when in her company.

"A Little Bit of Fluff" Pantages Attraction To-day

Francis Compton Presenting Old Success All This Week

Francis Compton and the Compton Comedy Company will present the enormously successful farce, "A Little Bit of Fluff" to-night at Pantages Theatre, and nightly during the entire week. This play caused such a whirlwind of laughter on the last occasion that it was done here that its repetition should prove highly popular. Many people missed it before and if they are desirous of a solid evening of laughter they should make sure not to miss it this time.

Mr. Compton will repeat his extraordinarily funny performance and Bertram Tilly and Miss Peggy Dundas will again be the very alluring little "bit of fluff." Herbert Leslie, Miss Maria Goddard, Miss Katharine McDonough, Miss Grace Barber, Miss Belle Eilers, A. Legge-Willis and G. Gibson-Gunn will all be seen again in the parts they sustained so excellently before. To the sailors of the Special Service Squadron and to visitors and tourists, "A Little Bit of Fluff" should prove a very big attraction indeed.

Author's Daughter Now Engaged in Directing Films

Jeanette Helen Porter Chooses Unique Angle in Picture Industry

Jeanette Helen Porter, the charming and attractive daughter of Gene Stratton Porter, the famous author of many novels and nature books including "Michael O'Halloran," "The Girl of the Lumberlost," "Laddie," "The Harvester," "Her Father's Daughter," etc., has deserted the social life for a career in moving pictures.

In "Love, Life and Laughter" Betty just carries everybody along with her. She is irresistible in such scenes as those in which she sings and dances "Sweet Hortense" and pretends to be a music hall star of the low comedienne type. At other times she is simply adorable and a picture of dainty loveliness in beautiful gowns and whimsical airs and graces. "Queen of Happiness" is the proper way to describe Betty. It is impossible not to feel happy when in her company.

She has chosen a unique angle of the industry—being the only woman assistant director in the business.

Miss Porter was the assistant director of her mother's personally supervised production of her novel, "Michael O'Halloran," which has just been completed at the Ince studio, and which will be shown at the Playhouse Theatre to-day.

Because of the insistent demand of her millions of readers, Mrs. Porter at last listened to the urgent arguments of her daughter and decided to pictureize her novels.

For two years previous to beginning production on "Michael O'Halloran," Miss Porter held script and made herself generally useful in the technical department of an independent company.

James Leo Meehan, the director of "Michael O'Halloran," is very enthusiastic in his praise of Miss Porter's work as his assistant, the feminine touch giving to the picture the very flavor of the original novel.

Another Success Is Credited to Gloria Swanson

"Manhandled" is Entertaining Screen Show at Capitol

Gloria Swanson has added another triumph to her list of successes in her latest production "Manhandled." Under the capable direction of Allan Dwan and surrounded by an excellent cast the result is a picture out of the ordinary. The story is laid in New York and runs the gamut of metropolitan life from departmental store bargain sales to high society and Bohemian parties. Tom Moore plays the part of a humble mechanic who achieves success by his mechanical invention which lands him in the millionaire class is one of the strong points of the picture and does some of the finest screen work of his career. The story is full of life and action and will prove entertaining to any audience.

"One of them city fellers tried to sell me the Woolworth building."
 "What did you say?"
 "I sex. 'All right, young feller, wrap it up.'"

URGES CHANGE IN MEDICAL PRACTICE

Dr. A. Cox Suggests Reciprocity Between B.C. and Old Country Doctors

Winnipeg, June 22.—Dr. Alfred Cox, O.B.E., secretary of the British Medical Association, said during an interview here last night that he hoped for complete medical reciprocity in the near future between the Old Country and Canada. It seemed incongruous to him that British doctors could not practice in British Columbia without first passing an examination, although they were allowed to practice in all the other provinces. He hoped this condition would soon be altered. Canadian medical men were given the free right of practice in the Old Country, he added.

Dr. Cox paid a tribute to Canadian doctors, saying: "We English doctors consider it the very highest honor to be asked to impart whatever knowledge we have gained to our Canadian brothers in medicine."

Dr. Cox and Sir T. Jenner Verrall are representing the British Medical Association convention, which opened here to-day.

Song Dedicated to Fleet at Dominion

A song dedicated to the visiting British fleet and striking a stirring chord of patriotism will be sung at the Dominion every evening during the week by Handley Wells the popular bass. This song, which was heard for the first time in Canada, and was secured by the Dominion management from Australia, where it was written and dedicated to the boys of the British Empire Special Service Squadron. The title of the song is "Jack Tar."

Musical Notes

BY GEORGE J. DYKE

Liverpool, England, has the proud distinction of having the largest cathedral organ in the world. On July 19 next, only a part of this wonderful organ will be opened at a ceremony to be then witnessed, as the formal and official opening is deferred for another year when it will then be entirely completed. Not only will the coming event be an important and historic one, but it achieves another niche in the history of organ building in the British Isles. Not only will this huge instrument become famous, but it is also constructed on the latest and most up-to-date principles in tonal ideas and mechanism. Since the time of Father Smith's organ improvements in 1660-1682, the art craft of organ building in England has steadily progressed until to-day the English organ build- or stands pre-eminent amongst those of any other nation. In those days one of the largest organs was the Canterbury Cathedral organ, built by Father Smith in 1682. This consisted of two manuals (two rows of keys), and fourteen speaking stops only, and no pedals, whereas the Liverpool Cathedral organ—a giant among the many remarkable organs of the present day—has five manuals and 168 speaking stops. Up to now the largest organ in Britain has been that in the Royal Albert Hall, erected in 1871, and containing 114 speaking stops, and the largest cathedral organ is that in St. Paul's Cathedral, rebuilt in 1891, with seventy-six speaking stops. Both of these superior organs were built by Henry Willis & Sons, of which famous firm has been entrusted with the erection of the Liverpool Cathedral organ.

The very size of this new organ cannot but create astonishment even in this day of immense organs. This instrument consists of five manuals consisting of six-one notes and a Willis pedal board comprising thirty-two notes. There will be, when finished, 168 speaking stops, and forty-eight couplers, etc., together with six spurs, making a total of 222 downstop knobs. The pedal organ consists of thirty-five stops, some of which are enclosed in a separate "swell" box; the choir organ has twenty-three stops, also partially enclosed; the great organ, twenty-nine stops; the swell, thirty-one stops; the solo organ, twenty-two stops and one coupler, partially enclosed; a bombardier organ of five stops all un- enclosed, and played from the fifth keyboard; an echo organ of four pedals and nineteen manual stops, enclosed, the manual stops being played also from the fifth keyboard, besides manual and pedal access- ories, in all making the total of speaking stops 168, and pipes, 18,646.

The organ is built in two chambers in the first bay on each side of the chancel, and also in a portion of the south chancel triforium. There will be four fronts, and the cases made of oak have been designed by the cathedral architect, G. Gilbert Scott, R.A. Each chamber is thirty-six feet wide, fifty-eight feet high and thir- teen feet six inches deep. Hitherto, English organs have been frequently criticised on account of the limited resources of their pedal departments, but in this new organ it is said that there will be no grounds for such criticisms.

The console (keyboard, stops, pedal board, etc.), is a magnificent piece of work and is situated on the north side of the chancel, above the choir stalls. The music desk (the seat), pedal board, downstop and pedal jacks are all made of rosewood, the downstops jacks being at an angle of thirty degrees to the keyboards. The knobs of the downstop are of solid ivory and the stems are of ebony, and the bushings, of ivory. The key frames and slips are also of ebony. The keys are laid with heavy plates of ivory, one-eighth inch in thickness, without surface joints, and other adjustments are of solid ivory, and of polished brass.

No expense has been spared in re- gard to the materials used in its construction, and the workmanship is of the most beautiful character. The action throughout is electro- pneumatic, and its pitch will be C517. The blowing installation comprises three rotary blower sets, with three electric motors, the total horse power being thirty-two.

The organist and choirmaster of the Cathedral is H. Goss-Custard, Mus. Bach, whose fine abilities are widely known in the north of Eng- land.

The whole organ has been con- structed on a grand scale, exceeding the instruments at the Alexandra Palace and the superb organ in St. George's Hall, Liverpool, and the total cost of the organ when com- pleted will exceed $180,000.

MONTHLY RECITAL

The last monthly recital of the sea- son—the tenth of the Winter series—was given on Friday evening by the senior grade students of the Columbia School of Music, principal, Mrs. Burdon-Murphy. The pro- gramme of eighteen members was splendidly executed throughout, the high standard of this institution manifesting itself in many examples.

trude Hawkwood in "Valse Caprice" (Schubert-Liszt). The Misses M. Crombie, Marian Biggin, Nan Mc- Eryer, Marjorie Watson and Mar- jorie Feden also gave their numbers in this division with credit and dis- tinction. Four vocal numbers were admirably contributed by Mrs. B. Young, the Misses Hawksworth and Marjorie Watson, and Reginald Clarkson, of the senior vocal division, and Tom Denny, in Bohn's "Sarabande." Miss Graham in the meditation "Thais" (Maiseret), and Mary Philip in a Donizetti selection, added delightful contrast and gave skilful results in their violin performances. The ac- companiments were efficiently ren- dered by the principal, and there were many present in the halls of the school.

VIEW MODEL OF FALLS.—The Welland ship canal, the first link in the proposed deep-water highway from the Great Lakes to the sea, has just been inspected by Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce in the United States Government, and twenty-five members of the United States section of the Waterways Commission. They were much impressed by the operation of the falls, shown above, which is seventy-five feet wide and 120 feet long, constructed mainly of cement. Professor Ellis of Queen's University, who has worked on this $25,000 experiment for years, is shown at top right, with his assistant, L. M. Davis, below. At the top left is Herbert Hoover. WIN AS STAGE STARS.—Success on the New York stage and first-class vaudeville circuits throughout the Eastern United States and Canada has come to two Canadian sisters. Seldom do "sister" acts become successful during their first season in "big time" vaudeville, but the Misses Violet and Edythe Walsh of Toronto have put their act over big.

Matthews has been asking $125,000 from the British Government for this discovery. The light is controlled by four shutters of varying frequencies. Striking a selenium cell atop the boat, the beam actuates a receiver which sends electrical charges back to the controlling apparatus. A selecting drum and contact disc complies with the desire of the controller on land by starting the motor, steering the rudder, or exploding the charge in the boat.
