POETRY.

Three Somethings.

"Something to do,
Something to Love,
Something to Hope for."
Something to do—let it be what it may,
To keep the mind active, the muscles in play;
To give to the body strength, vigor and health,
A trio of graces far better than wealth.
'Tis industry makes us—then act while we can,
Each actively, eagerly, work like a man;
Impress on your memory this maxim so true,
There's nothing disgraceful in something to do.

Something to love—let you choose what you may,
'Tis a thing with which others have nothing to say,
Consult well your feelings, look well at your heart,
And then to the chosen your secret impart.
Then trust her supremely—let none come between,
Or else there'll be trouble and sorrow I ween;
And rest well assured that a woman to love
Is the best gift that Heaven sent man from above.

Something to hope for—whatever it be,
Some blessing the future is storing for thee;
Whether riches or pleasure—yet these are of earth
And must perish with things of terrestrial birth.

There are riches above all we ever desire,
There is pleasure far higher than mortals aspire;
Let thine be this blessing—the promise is given:
Thy something to hope for—a dwelling in Heaven.

The Midnight Hour.

In a darkened chamber the little Hilda lay ill. She was so pale, so wan and wasted; the doctor could not save her; he had said "she must die."

The door now softly opened, and Casper, Hilda's brother, entered.

"Dear nurse," said he to the old Catharine, who sat by the fire, "dost thou not think my sister will yet be well? I love her so dearly, and our mother weeps the livelong day. Will Death come for her soon?"

"Death comes for many," replied the old Catharine. "At midnight he enters sick chambers, and stands at the bedside of those who are appointed to depart. Go they must, whether they will or no; and Death takes them in his arms, and bears them away to Everlasting Rest!"

"Will no one then be spared?" asked Casper, with a shuddering glance at the bed.

"I have heard it said, in bygone years," replied the nurse, "that when persons are about to die, they may yet be saved if one who loves them has courage to journey by night to the cavern where Time dwells. There the seeker must wait until the clock strikes twelve; and Time himself returns to bid the Angel of Death depart on his mission, while he takes his rest. He only remains at home while the hours are passing; but if he who has sought can contrive to detain him until the Midnight Hour is gone, and Death yet unsummoned, he will save the life of the loved one."

Casper, who had listened eagerly to the words of the nurse, now started up, exclaiming:

"Nurse, our Lord will strengthen me if I pray to Him; I love my sister—I will go."

"Nay, my child, thou art too young and feeble. I myself know not where the cavern of Time lieth, and thou couldst not find it."

"Yes, if our Lord direct me," answered the little Casper.

"Go then, brave child," said the nurse. "God's holy angel's watch over thee."

With an unspoken prayer for his little sister on his lips, Casper left the room, and quickly ran from the house. The moon was slowly rising above the tall trees of the forest; far and near not a sound was to be heard but the sighing of the autumn wind; nought seen but the withered flowers of the garden, the thick clustering pines of the forest, and the twinkling lights of the distant village.

Slowly the child ventured past the garden, an instinctive feeling leading him on towards the forest; and soon his form was lost amid its deepening shades. By the feeble light of the moon, which penetrated those thickly clustered branches, the boy could see how strange and wild was the path he was following. The most curious weeds, black and twisted as writhing snakes, lay in the green marshy pools; strange flowers of a dark crimson hue, and emitting a deadly, sickening odor, grew thick in the crevices of the huge stones that lay beside and obstructed the path. The great gnarled trunks and branches of the trees seemed to the trembling child the bodies of giants, with long waving arms ready to seize upon him!

"Shall I return?" he thought. "Will our Lord indeed preserve me through all?"

Even as the words were formed in his mind, a faint light gleamed through the trees, and then a strain of wailing, unearthly music stole on the ear, as though coming from a great distance. Terrified, Casper shrank from the path; and glancing in the direction whence he himself came, he now beheld a most singular procession. Twelve maidens, young and lovely, bore a velvet covered bier, on which reposed the corpse of a woman once fair as themselves, but now so wan and wasted that scarcely a trace of beauty remained. A white robe like their own draped her slender form; her golden hair, sadly mingled with gray, was wreathed with a chaplet of faded flowers; while around and above the whole company shone a strange radiance like the pale light that oft-times hovers over graves.

"Why passes this funeral through the wood?" asked Casper of the youngest maiden. "And what strange maidens art thou and thy sisters?"

"We are the Hours," sighed the figure, "and we bear the corpse of the Day that is gone to the cavern of Time."

"And where dost Time dwell? I also am going thither that I may save my sister's life," cried Casper, in trembling haste, for the Hours were passing on with swift footsteps.

"Seek not to know," answered the maiden. "No mortal can release another from the Angel of Death and himself remain alive. Return, foolish child! or thy life will be forfeited!"

"But Hilda! darling Hilda!" sobbed Casper. Better I should lose my life than that she should no longer gladden the eyes of my mother!"

As he spoke a furious wind rose throughout the forest, and Hours, with their mournful burthen, were swept away with it raising their voices once more in a funeral chant. The child endeavored to hasten onward after them, but in a moment they had vanished from his sight. The path became more intricate at every step; thorns pierced him, while often a slimy snake glided over his very feet; but still the brave boy struggled onward. Suddenly the trees appeared to part on either side, and rising before him, Caspar beheld a vast rocky portal, smooth and shining as jet. As though a voice had whispered to him that this was the cavern he sought, Caspar fearlessly entered, and stood alone in a magnificent hall.

At the upper end of the hall, where was erected a superb dais, an immense clock hung against the wall. The hands were two serpents coiled together, and the hours represented by female figures, each bearing a lighted torch. As the moments passed slowly on, the torches each in turn burnt more and more dimly, until the hour was past, when it appeared magically to revive.

Casper looked at the clock. It wanted a quarter of twelve.

Suddenly the funeral hymn of the Hours again stole upon his ear, mingled with the rustling of their garments. Widely yaned the rock portal of the cavern, and amid a wild burst of music the figure of a venerable man slowly entered followed by the solemn train of the Hours. The figure—it was Time himself—bore in one hand a scythe, and in the other an hour glass; long black wings shrouded his shoulders, while his snowy hair was wreathed with mournful cypress.

Wildly sweet mingled the voices of the Hours, as, clustering around the dais, where sat the figure of Time, they chanted a farewell strain.

As the last notes sank into silence, the Hours cast a pall over the bier, and the whole company vanished into empty air. Then Time bowed his head and slept. The clock was striking! With a trembling heart, Caspar advanced to the figure of Time and grasped its robe.

Ten, eleven, Twelve!

Time raised his head, and his calm, passionless eyes fell on the boy.

"Child, seek not to detain me," he said; "the hour is passing—I must depart."

"Not till the hour is past!" cried Caspar, desperately.

"Death awaits me," replied Time. "Foolish boy! thinkest thou I linger here for thee? With a word I can render thee powerless, if I will!"

"Not if our Lord strengthen me," said Caspar, reverently. "He will not suffer me to fall when I have endured so much for Hilda's sake!"

The voice of Time was hushed; through Faith all power was given the child.

"Come with me," he said, at last. "I will show thee my riches."

And now, through many hills, piled with countless treasures, Time led the wondering boy. Vast mirrors hung there, in which one saw the most strange scenes from every age of history. The very stars that have vanished from the sky; the treasures buried for untold ages beneath the sea, all were there, garnered in the wondrous storehouses of Time.

Still no strange sight could induce the child to release his hold of his mysterious conductor; no sudden terror or delight caused him to forget his object. Time's power was all in vain!

They now arrived at a lake in a low and gloomy cavern. The farthest boundaries of its black and sullen waters could scarcely be seen, so far did it extend; it was the tears of mortals shed through many centuries. Beside the lake reclined a sleeping figure robed in black, with a majestic and beautiful face.

"We are now in the abode of Death," said Time. "He lies here, awaiting my summons to go forth during the Midnight Hour. If thou wouldst save thy sister's life—thou see'st I know thy desire—thou must lose thine own! Art thou willing to make the sacrifice?"

"I am willing!" said Caspar, meekly bowing his head.

And Time stretched forth his hand towards the Angel!

ONE!
It was the striking of the clock!
Then a smile of ineffable sweetness passed over the countenance of Time.

"The Midnight Hour is passed!" he said. "Come, brave child, let us return to thy home!"

As he spoke, he folded the boy closely in his arms, and they floated swiftly from the cavern, through the vast portals into the clear air.

A grand strain of music swelled exultingly through the sky; the glorious sounds thrilled and multiplied until it was almost too much for the heart to bear.

"What means this music?" said Caspar, as he leaned on the shoulder of Time. "It is the Psalm of Earth," answered Time; "she rejoices unto God for the new day."

And the sound of human voices mingled with the swell and shout of Earth's praise to the Giver, and rose clear and sweet amid the glorious strain.

"These are the voices of thy parents," said Time. "They also glorify God, because thy sister is saved."

As the hymn ended, the boy slowly sank into unconsciousness; and when his eyes again unclosed, he was lying in his own little bed with the nurse bending over him!

"Dear nurse!" he cried, with wondering eyes, "have I indeed returned from the cavern of Time? or have I dreamt all that has past?"

"It was a dream sent from God, my darling!" answered the nurse; "for the fever left thy little sister, through his mercy, at the Midnight Hour!"

War Correspondence.

Letter from McArone.

PENINSULAR, July 24.

DEAR VANITY:—All is quiet along the lines.

Gen. Halleck is Commander-in-Chief, and I am happy.

His appointment was strenuously opposed while I was in Washington, by gentlemen connected with the War Department, the first letter of whose name is Station.

This gentleman wished Gen. Zachary Taylor appointed to the position.

It was with difficulty that Abraham and I could convince him that he was a trifle behind the times.

He said that he was "no more behind the times than he always had been"..... a statement to which the President and myself felt bound to subscribe.

Halleck was appointed, nevertheless. Don't you see, Scott and I wished it.

But weren't the balls flying around merrily this morning, though! Let not the remark mislead you, since I have stated that that all was quiet along the lines. 'Tis true, the balls were flying around..... I have been playing billiards with Captain Horace Cooley, of the Twenty-seventh Massachusetts Volunteers, Officers and Gentlemen.

I won three games out of five. I and the Captain took Newbern, you remember, a short while ago.

It was not Newbern we took this morning, it was apple jack and bitters. However, let that pass.

I received a call from Jeff Davis last night. He came in disguise, and looked so sealy that I hadn't the heart to arrest him; though I think I should have been justified.....even by the British Government.....in so doing.

"Ah! Mac," he groaned, "what will be the upshot of all this?"
"You will be shot up," I remarked.
"I mean, how will it finish?"
"It will finish you."
"O dear! O dear! you are too much for me.....if Fremont was only Commander-in-Chief now, I might stand a chance."
"Colonel Davis," said I impressively; "don't you indulge too much in speaking the truth. You ain't used of it; and it mayn't agree with you."
"Greeley and Bryant are my best friends."

"Yes, friend to you and your blasted Nigger."
You seem peaked. Will you smile?"
"Smiles are not for me," whispered Jeff; "I wish to gracious I was well out of this. My only hope is for a split in the North. If the Abolitionists, bless their kind disunion hearts, will keep on as they are going, may be I can succeed yet."

"There's where you'll get your eye shut up," I remarked; "I tell you what, Jeff, we'll hang 'em all first. The Union is our First Cause, and we Northmen sink everything else in that. If you trust to the Abolitionists.....good Lord, do you know what you are trusting to, man?"
"Well, a fellow must use dirty means, you know."

"Only for dirty work. Greeley and Bryant, and such, are the only help you have, North, for your dirty work, I can inform you that you might as well expect a yellow dog to whip my black and-tan, as to expect any sane fighting man to listen to these fellows. Why, bless you it is the Democrats who do the fighting, and what do you 'spose they.....I may say we.....care for your Niggers?"

"I feel bad," said Jeff, mournfully; "I guess I'd better go."
He went.

I missed my watch and sleeve-buttons this morning. That comes of being kind-hearted.

I wish the good, misguided people who believe the Tribune clear through, and think that Paradise is located in the crown of Greeley's old hat, might have heard the really warm expression of friendship Jeff used concerning the Abolition press. He knows, artful dodger, how much he owes to this eternal discussion bred by Negrophilists.

.....Gen. Pope is getting along fairly with Western Virginia.....more than I could have said for Fremont. But he is a little tonguey in the proclamation way, and seems inclined to contrast himself with Gen. McClellan. I don't know whether or not the Tribune has made a bargain with him as it did John Charles, but I advise him to show at least the amount of respect for his superiors that good breeding dictates. I don't altogether like his slurs and flings at "Strategy," and if he ignores that branch of military science, relying only on "catching" the enemy, he may do as illy as John Charles did when he "caught" Stonewall Jackson at Cross Keys.

There is nothing like modesty in this world.....
I am the only modest General in the field.....
And I am
McARONE.

TROUT FISHING.—We have a friend who is a somewhat practical joker, residing in a pleasant country residence near this city. Sometime since he had a visit from Prof. Wingate. The Professor is a keen trout fisherman, and seeing a pond at some distance from his residence, he inquired,

"Can you fish for trout in that pond?"
"Oh, yes," said R., "as well as not!"
"Possible!"—where's your rod?"

"I have none; I'm no fisherman. But if you want to try, we'll go over to S— and get tackle, and you may try your hand at it."

The next morning early, W. drove over to the pond, and whipped it all around to windward and leeward, and finally waded in up to his waist, and threw his flies most skillfully, but never raised a fin. At length, as the sun grew tolerably hot, he turned to R., who lay under a tree, solacing himself with a book and a cigar, and exclaimed,

"I don't believe that there is a trout in your pond."
"I don't know that there is," replied R., imperturbably.

"Why, you told me there was!"
"Oh, no," said R., leisurely turning and lighting another cigar, "you asked me if you could fish for trout here, and I said you could as well as not. I have seen folks do it often, but I never knew of one being caught here yet."—Boston Waverly.

A LECTURER was dilating upon the powers of the magnet, defying any one to show or name anything surpassing its powers. A hearer demurred, and instanced a young lady, who, when young, used to attract him thirteen miles every Sunday.

AN IRISHMAN being a little fuddled, was asked what was his religious belief. "Is it me believe ye'd be asking about? It's the same as the widdy Brady. I owe her twelve shillings for whisky, and she believes I'll never pay her—and faith that's my belief, too."

Two lovers, like two armies, generally get along quietly enough till they are engaged.

WHAT is larger for being cut at both ends? A ditch.

WHAT Scotch sport is like ladies' conversation? Dears talking.

Declaration of Homestead.

Persons wishing to procure a correct legal form for making out a Declaration of Homestead, as required by the Act of the last Legislature, with the acknowledgment attached thereto, will find printed blanks, on application to the Knight's Landing News Office. By filling out these blanks themselves, parties will be subject to no other expense than the fees for acknowledgment and record.

Justices Blanks.

Blank Affidavits, Undertakings, Writ of Attachment and Subpoenas, under the NEW LAW, for Sale at this Office.

TAXES.—In another column will be found an advertisement of Chas. H. Gray, Sheriff, who will for the benefit of the public, visit the different Townships of the county for the purpose of collecting the Taxes for the present year. The Taxes will after the 3d Monday in November next become delinquent.

WOODLAND SCHOOLS.—Our neighbors of Woodland boast two educational establishments which may well excite our county pride. The Hesperian College School, under the charge of Professor J. W. Anderson, assisted by Miss Mary Duncan, with the Musical department in the accomplished hands of Mrs. Dayton, occupies one end of the village; while at the other, the District School flourishes vigorously, under the able supervision of Miss Carrie Templeton and her sister.

COURT OF SESSIONS.—This Court may be said to be fully formed as to its arms, but still remains headless; for at the last accounts we find official evidence that on Monday last John S. Tutt and James O'Neal were duly elected Associate Justices, while there still remains a doubt as to who is Judge.

The Governor still refuses to issue a commission to L. R. Hopkins, and still expresses a doubt as to whether I. N. Hoag's term as Judge has expired. In the meantime Judge Hopkins took the oath of office on the 8th inst., and asserts title to the office of County Judge, and the emoluments, honors and privileges thereof.

ARRESTED.—Colonel E. J. C. Kewen, member elect to the Assembly from Los Angeles county, was arrested last Tuesday by Capt. Grant of the California Volunteers, on the charge of treason. He was taken to San Francisco on the day following, for trial.

THE new United States five cent note is two inches long by one and a half inches wide, and printed on buff colored paper. This is "Postage currency, furnished only by the Assistant Treasurers and designated Depositories of the United States," and "Receivable for postage stamps at any United States Postoffice."

E. MASSEY, a celebrated watchmaker, who recently arrived from London, was found dead in his room, adjoining the International Hotel, San Francisco, on Monday morning last. It is thought he died on Saturday. Supposed cause, excessive intoxication.

THE house of Frank Baker & Co., of San Francisco, largely engaged in the wholesale carpet and dry goods business, have gone into litigation. The house, we understand, is perfectly solvent, probably wealthy; but the partners prefer this method of winding up their business.

HORACE P. JANES, an esteemed citizen was found dead on Second street, San Francisco, on Monday morning last, at 5 o'clock. At 11 o'clock on Sunday evening he left his residence, South Park, with some friend, after parting with them and on his return, he was attacked with apoplexy, a disease which his physician warned him of. He leaves a wife and two children. The Courts adjourned in respect to his memory.

H. W. Carpenter, Esq., President of the Telegraph Co., has received the following in answer to an inquiry about the postponement of stamp duty:

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—No postponement of stamp duty: penalty not enforced until Government is able to furnish stamps.

Signed GEO. S. BOUTWELL, Commissioner.

COTTON PLANTATION.—The Sacramento Union recommends that the President turn the State of Florida into a cotton plantation, and colonize it with free negroes. What is the editor's objection to colonizing it with free white men?—Beacon.

It is said Placerville intends to raise $10,000 for the Patriotic Fund. She has $1,000 of it already.

The County Judgeship.

We understand the Governor refuses to issue a commission to our County Judge elect, and claims to find in the laws of the State some mysterious problem to be solved, before he can decide, whether he will commission him Judge from and after the election, or from the first Monday in April following.

We had supposed that nothing was better settled than that he was entitled to his commission from and after the election. A vacancy occurred in the office last spring, by reason of Smith's resignation, and the Governor commissioned I. N. Hoag, at the election a Judge was duly elected to take the place of the Governor's appointee. The only question then is this: When shall the Judge elect enter upon the discharge of the duties of the office? It is settled that Hoag is no longer Judge; for the 8th Sec. of Art. 5 of the Constitution—conceded to be the authority for his appointment—reads: "The Governor shall have power to fill such vacancy by granting a commission, which shall expire * * * at the next election by the people." Then all must agree that Hoag's commission has expired; but we are told, that while the Governor concedes this, he claims that the office is again vacant, and that he can commission another to fill the interregnum between the election and the first Monday in April. Can this be true? Why does the Constitution limit the Governor's commission to the next election by the people? The Supreme Court in the People vs. Mizner, 7th Cal. R. page 525, answers in these words: "The power to fill vacancies had to be rested in some department of the Government, and the Constitution was compelled to vest it in the Executive, &c.; but it carefully limited this power to fill vacancies for the time only, and when the appointing power for the whole time can act, the appointment for the time being ceases."

And again, in the case of the People vs. Burbank, 12th Cal. R., the Court quotes an opinion of Justice Hager of South Carolina, and declares it to be the true rule, "That a commission of the Governor (filling a vacancy in office until the election by the people) expires at the election, and as soon as the ordinary is elected he is in office." Again—same volume—case, People vs. Templeton, they say, "That the person elected should at once enter upon the duties of the office, immediately after the election." Again, in the 14th Cal. R., 180, case of Westbrook vs. Rosborough, they say, "When Robinson resigned and left the office vacant, the Governor could fill the vacancy, but his appointee would only hold by virtue of his appointment, until the next election, or at most, until the person elected by the people could qualify;" and again, in 18th Cal. R. 596, Johnson vs. Duden. Here the contest arose over the beginning of Johnson's term of office, and the Court held, that as he was elected by the people to take the place of the Governor's appointee, he regularly entered upon the duties of the office, immediately after the election, and from the day he assumed the office, he was elected to draw his salary; and in 17th Cal. R. 13, the whole matter of contest turned upon the point, whether it was legal for Bradie to enter upon the office immediately after the election, and draw his pay for the months of September, October, November and December, of that year, and the Court held that it was, because he was elected to take the place of the Governor's appointee.

But who would have thought it necessary to ask for a legal construction of that Section of the Organic Law? Our theory of Government is, to confer all appointing power upon the people—when consistent with the public good—when we read in the Organic Act that the "Governor's commission shall expire at the next election by the people." Is not the conclusion irresistible, that the purpose of the limitation was, that then the people—who under our theory is made the appointing power—could fill the office.

We have said this much to show that the Constitution settles the point; but the Statute is also clear. Art. 2882, Wood's Digest, and again, Art. 652, the same, both declare that the Judge elect shall take the office at the election; but each of these articles say he shall only hold it for the unexpired term of his predecessor elected by the people. The Supreme Court has held that the Legislature had no right to limit the term for which he would hold; but because the Legislature exceeded its authority in saying, that after he took the office, he should hold less than four years, does it follow that that part of the same section, that declares when he shall take it, is also unconstitutional? But, we are told, that the Governor finds difficulty in construing the words, "vacancy in office," as found in this Statute. It means an office "without a legal incumbent to fill it," and nothing more.

FROM PANAMA.—Files of the Star and Herald are to Sept. 20th, from which we glean as follows:

A very severe tornado was experienced at Aspinwall on the 16th instant, which unroofed several houses. No damage was done the shipping, although one vessel dragged her anchors some distance from the place of mooring.

American gold, heretofore held at 4 per cent. premium, had fallen 1 per cent. in Panama, from the strange rumor that other coin was scarce.

The saddest sight we have ever witnessed in Panama, was the departure of the Nuns for Lima on the 9th inst. They were five in number, three of whom were about 80 years of age, and have spent the greater part of their lives within the walls of the old Convent, from which they have been so ruthlessly driven by the recent decree of Mosquera. The unhappy party were followed to the railway wharf by an immense procession of the principal ladies of the city, and as they proceeded through the streets, all of them weeping in the greatest agony, we could not help thinking that the edict which ordained such unnecessary and barbarous cruelty upon these good old creatures, must some day revert with equal poignancy upon those who promulgated it. Never has Panama expressed such universal and genuine grief as at the departure of the Nuns from within her walls, and the day will long be remembered as one of the saddest in her history.

We have received a copy of the Jamaica Tribune, of August 25, from which we learn that another destructive fire took place late on the evening of the 24th ult., in the extensive stationery establishment of Messrs. George Henderson, Savage & Co., in Harbor street, the vicinity of the late conflagration of March last, destroying property to the amount of $6,000. These gentlemen are also proprietors of the Guardian, the best edited newspaper at the present in Jamaica, which was attached to their establishment and but for the timely aid of the employees of the office, the whole of the materials would have been destroyed.

THE FOREIGN HARVESTS.—As we are now reasonably sure of a large surplus of breadstuffs in this country, an important question is, whether our surplus will find a foreign market. The editor of the American Agriculturalist has just returned from a trip through Great Britain, France, parts of Germany and Belgium, and reports:

I found the wheat harvest in progress on the Continent. From what I saw, and from the statement of many farmers, I judge the yield to be below the average. The large area will in part make up the deficiency, but not wholly. In Great Britain the weather continued very wet up to the 24th of July, when a change occurred, and from that up to the 4th of August the wheat crop continued to improve rapidly. But at the best, the damage to the growth by the wet weather all through the early summer cannot be repaired. It is morally certain, therefore, that Great Britain will require a considerable amount of breadstuffs from abroad. Much of this could probably be obtained from the Continent at some figure, but not at the prices for which it can be furnished by the U. S.

My present opinion is, that our surplus grain (unless unprecedentedly large) will mostly be taken at prices which will yield a fair remuneration to American farmers; but that very high prices can hardly be looked for. The present premium on gold is decidedly advantageous to the American grain markets. A gold "sovereign" counts at $5 50 in the purchase of grain in America; in Russia and Central Europe it counts only as $4 75 or $4 80.

PATRIOTIC.—The Gould & Curry Gold and Silver Mining Company gave recently in San Francisco, $5,000 to the Patriotic Fund, says the Bulletin. We now learn that the employees of their mine and mill have contributed to the fund being raised in Virginia City, the substantial amount of $4,000! Those of them who gave most largely are—Charles L. Strong $100, Ira S. Parke $100, R. G. Carlyle $100, S. Tyler $100, C. M. Tyler $100, L. D. Sanborn $100, J. P. Wheeler $100, Chas. L. Strong $100. The latter heads the lists for both the mill and mine with $100 each.

STATE INSANE ASYLUM.—A correspondent of the Stockton Independent urges the enclosure of the 100 acres of land attached to the Insane Asylum, in a brick wall twelve feet high. It says such a wall would cost $29,000; but it would enable the Superintendent to keep 100 of the patients regularly employed in gardening, to the benefit of their health, and the profit of the institution. During July and August ten patients on an average were constantly at work in the present garden, and the vegetables which they cultivated were worth $267.

THE New York Post urges the passage of a general bankrupt law by the next Congress, and says that at least one-third of the merchants of that city are insolvent. Only those who have Government contracts are making money.

BY OVERLAND TELEGRAPH.

The following dispatches are from the Sacramento Union of Oct. 7th:

FR. MONROE, Oct. 5.—The Richmond Whig of Oct. 4th says, the small pox is breaking out at the Military Hospital, Danville, Va.

NEWBERN, N. C.—Bodies of negroes in the eastern portion of North Carolina are now known to have been seized by order of the rebel Secretary of War, and carried into Virginia to work on the fortifications.

Gov. Vance has called a council of the leading men of this State, for the purpose of taking President Lincoln's recent proclamation into consideration.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 5.—The Grenada Appeal thinks President Lincoln's emancipation proclamation will defeat instead of carrying out the end of the Union party, and bring down the curses of all right thinking men, North and South.

The Superior Court of Georgia has decided the rebel conscript law to be unconstitutional.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 6th.—Telegraphic communication with Bardstown, Ky., has been re-established. The wires will keep pace with our army as it proceeds southward.

On Saturday the rebels inaugurated Richard Hawes Governor of Kentucky at Frankfort. Bragg and Humphrey Marshall made bitter anti-Union speeches. Kirby Smith was thdre. Buckner was expected, but was not present. At five o'clock the same afternoon the rebels burned the railroad bridge, whereupon all their infantry left for the South, the cavalry remaining. On Sunday afternoon the rebels cut away one span of the bridge to the south of Frankfort. Soon afterwards the cavalry departed. Great number were left at Frankfort sick. The mortality among them has been very great.

Our informant met Federal pickets last night at Hardinsville, [Shelby county, 9 miles from Frankfort,] passing around to Frankfort.

At Camp Bloomfield, 11 miles southeast of Bardstown, yesterday, Rousseau's Division received orders to fill their canteens, and be ready to march at a minute's notice.

Col. Bruce, commanding at Bowling Green, yesterday, six miles north of Glasgow, attacked a party of rebels, killing a few, and capturing several, together with 50 horses and some cattle.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—Advices from Gen. Schofield state that with a powerful army, he was on Saturday at Sarcoxie, Jasper county, Southwest Missouri, 16 miles from Newtonia, where the rebels forces, 16,000 strong, had collected. He expected to reach there to-day, and if the rebels do not evacuate we may expect to hear immediately of a battle. No apprehensions are entertained as to the result, Schofield's army being superior to that of the enemy, and in excellent fighting trim.

Advices to the 4th from Greenville, Mo., convey intelligence that the Texas troops, under Memride, had been ordered home forthwith, in consequence of rumored Federal victories at Marshall and Shreveport, La. The troops thus referred to number 2,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Tribune's Washington special dispatch says: The country has yet to hear of one resignation in the army in consequence of the President's proclamation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Scouts from Throughfare Gap report that the rebel wagon trains have all been sent to Staunton from Winchester, and their cattle to Mount Jackson. Longstreet's column is reported to have commenced retreating towards Richmond.

The President is thoroughly gratified with the conduct of the Army of the Upper Potomac.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7th.—An official dispatch, dated Jackson, Tenn., October 6th, says:

Generals Hurlbut and Ord came upon the enemy yesterday, and after 7 hours hard fighting, drove them 5 miles back across the Hatchie river, toward Corinth, and captured two batteries and 200 prisoners. Gen. Rosecrans was immediately apprised of these facts, and was directed to urge on the good work. A dispatch from him, dated Chewala, to-day, says: "They are totally routed, throwing everything away. We are following sharply. Hurlbut also is following. The rebel General Martin is reported killed."

[Signed] GRANT.

It is ascertained that large supplies of cotton for European ports are obtained on the Rio Grande.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 7.—Our forces now occupy Shelbyville, Frankfort, Taylorsville, Bloomfield and Bardstown.

Gen. Gilbert's corps is in possession of Lebanon, Ky. It is supposed here by military men that the rebel force is retreating to Hall's Gap, a few miles south of Crab Orchard, Lincoln county, 54 miles S. S. E. of Frankfort, where they intend to make a stand. Nearly all the bridges between us and the rebels are burned, and some time will elapse before they can be reconstructed.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 7.—A dispatch from Cumberland, Md., says that the rebel Imboden's entire wagon train, embracing supplies of all kinds, with two pieces of artillery, 100 stand of small arms, and 50 prisoners have been captured by Colonel McReynolds, who is in pursuit of him up Great Cacapon creek, Va.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7th.—Dispatches to headquarters bring intelligence to the effect that on Saturday morning, Oct. 4,

Gen. Schofield advanced upon the rebels at Newtonia, Newton county, Mo., and after two hours fighting the enemy broke and fled in all directions. Their force was estimated at 15,000. Our loss is trifling. Rebel dispatches intercepted after the fight, advised Schofield of the intention of the rebels to concentrate their whole force at a point 12 miles distant from Newtonia. To this point Schofield was marching with expectation of a battle on Sunday. No further particulars have been received.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The Herald's Washington special dispatch says:

Gov. Bradford and ex-Gov. Hicks of Maryland are here to-day to ask the aid of a military force to protect agents of that State in making enrollments for the draft. The enrollment has been completed in all parts of the State except the southern counties of the Eastern Shore, where the Secessionists have destroyed the partially completed enrollment lists, and driven the officers out of the counties. The Governor's request has been granted.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 8th.—On Sunday Gen. Rousseau came up with the enemy at Ray's Mill, 12 miles beyond Bardstown, on the Lexington pike. Our forces captured 15 rebels, and killed or wounded several. The enemy continued their retreat, our forces hotly pursuing at last accounts. The citizens of Bardstown estimate the rebel force recently in that vicinity at 35,000. They pressed all the wagons about Bardstown into service, and carried away nearly all their sick, of whom they had a great number.

Three divisions of our army arrived at Lebanon, 27 miles southeast of Bardstown, on Monday evening.

Lexington is mostly evacuated. Only about 100 rebels are there. Before leaving, they took whatever property could be made useful to the army, paying liberally in Confederate scrip.

Reliable individuals from Lexington, who conversed with the rebel soldiers, are confident that a battle must ensue before the rebel army will leave Kentucky—the rebel soldiers saying they would prefer to be killed or captured, rather than march over the mountains again.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—A special Louisville dispatch says the the enemy appear to have been endeavoring to reach Cumberland Gap, one portion of their army going via Lexington, the other via Bardstown and Lebanon. Our troops are close upon both commands, and skirmishing is continually going on.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—By the Wyandotte, which arrived yesterday, it is ascertained that the gunboats have been engaged for several days in destroying the old Confederate batteries down the Potomac. The last place at which they were engaged was Cockpit Point. It is not thought that the rebels have any guns on the river, nor that they have fired into any vessels, although reports to that effect have been brought up by river men.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Pensacola advices state that a portion of the mortar fleet had left for Galveston, and the remainder, with the gunboats, were to leave immediately. It is thought here that this is a ruse, and that Mobile is the destination of the fleet.

European advices continue to indicate the settled purpose of England and France to adhere to their declared policy of non-intervention.

The statement that Lee's army is falling back on Staunton is confirmed. It is expected, in case he shall be pressed by the Union forces, he will retreat to Gordonsville. The condition of the rebel army is one of great destitution. In addition to their want of clothing, they are living on half rations.

FR. MONROE, Oct. 7.—The Richmond Examiner of the 6th has a dispatch dated Savannah, Ga., October 4th, which says:

The Federals attacked our batteries on St. John's Island on the 1st, and after an hour's engagement were repulsed. The Federals subsequently landed at Greenville Point in force, and marched a mile to the rear of the batteries, where a fight began at ten o'clock in the morning. No particulars received.

The Richmond Examiner says: Congress has serious business on hand at present, the subject under consideration being the Finance and Revenue bill. The bill provides that every citizen shall give the Government one-fifth of his gross income, and receive in acknowledgment eight per cent. bonds. The Examiner remarks, of all loans the eight per cent. is the worst, and of all taxes twenty per cent. is the most oppressive. By this project Congress strike a heavier blow at our credit than the public enemy. Congress has postponed adjournment till Oct. 13th.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 8.—An unconfirmed report just received says the rebel John Morgan's advance reached Frankfort at one o'clock this afternoon, and that three thousand more of his men are rapidly approaching that place. Our troops had left Frankfort for Lawrenceburg.

On Saturday last, near Hardinsville, Scott's rebel cavalry cut off one company of the Ninth Kentucky cavalry. The company has not since been heard from. Gen. Dumont's division of Federals is still at Shelbyville.

Reports just received of the 9th at 1 A. M., indicate heavy skirmishing between Buell's and Bragg's forces near Perrysville, Royle county, 15 miles southeast of Bardstown, with every prospect of a general engagement.

CHASE has directed that the legal tender notes be received by the State Treasurer.

SANDWICH ISLAND ITEMS.—By the bark Yankee, which arrived at San Francisco, we have dates to the 13th Sept., from which the following items are selected:

Prince Albert, the heir to the throne and only child of the King, died on the 27th Aug. He was four years old.

The Legislature finally adjourned on the 23d Aug.

H. B. H. steam frigate Termagant is at Honolulu.

The first whaler of the season, the French ship Laour du Pin, arrived on Sept. 8th, from the Kodiack, with but a poor report. She left early on account of the illness of the Captain, and after recruiting will proceed South.

Charles Coffin Harris, Esq., has been appointed Attorney General of this Kingdom.

Up to this date we have exported 550,000 pounds of domestic rice. And there are now harvesting, and to be harvested, a sufficient quantity to raise the total of this year's product to at least 800,000 pounds. It may exceed this amount, as the quantity growing on the other islands is not ascertained. This, however, will be found sufficient to indicate that the cultivation of rice in this group, so far as the certainty of its growth is concerned, must be set down as a success.

The Ministry had resigned, and the King had remained for several days without a Ministry.

A sugar refinery has been established in Honolulu.

Mr. Synge, British Commissioner, has arrived at Honolulu.

MORE EMIGRANTS.—They still come. Yesterday morning a train from McDonough county, Illinois, passed through, destined for a good farming spot somewhere in California. This party left home on the first of May, and came through without meeting with any trouble from the Indians, and lost very little stock. They have horses and oxen, which look very well for immigrant stock. In the party is John Parkinson and family, consisting of three grown daughters and two sons; Wm. Parkinson and wife, Wm. D. Kelsoe. Carson Silver Age, 4th.

THE Union says that O. Crocker, President of the Dutch Flat and Donner Lake Wagon Road Company, advertises for sealed proposals for the construction of two sections of the road. This company is composed principally of Sacramento and Dutch Flat capitalists. The road will cross the Sierras running east from Dutch Flat. Proposals will be received by Huntington & Hopkins until the 12th inst. The work must be completed by the 1st of July, 1863.

Sheriff's Sale.

BY VIRTUE of a decree of foreclosure and order of sale, rendered and made by the District Court of the Sixth Judicial District, for the county of Yolo, in favor of Elizabeth Maas and against Robert Cochran and Johanna Cochran, on the 11th day of August, 1862, to satisfy the demand awarded by said court, to-wit: the sum of $504.93, with interest thereon from August 11th, 1862, at the rate of 2 1/2 per cent, per month till paid, and the further sum of $75.80 allowed by the court in said decree, as also the sum of $29.45 cost, together with all accruing costs; I will, on the 10th day of October, 1862, at the Court House door in the town of Woodland, in said county of Yolo, at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M., expose to public sale, according to law and the requirements of said decree and order, the following described property, to-wit:

A tract of land situate in Cottonwood Township, county of Yolo, and State of California, being the North-east quarter of Section Four, Township Eight, North, Range One West, Mount Diablo Meridian, bounded as follows: Beginning at the South-west corner of a tract of land, at the date of the execution of the mortgage foreclosed in this case, in possession of one John Nixon, running thence North 172 rods, thence West 160 rods, thence at right angles South 172 rods, and thence at right angles East 160 rods, to the place of beginning; being the same premises upon which the said defendants resided at the time of executing said mortgage, on the 7th of December, 1859.

Reapers and Mowers,

Improved for the harvest of 1862:

Burt's Eagle Combined Machine; New York do.; McCormick's do.; Heath's Eagle do.; Kentucky Harvesting Machine; Haines' (Illinois) do.; Ball's Ohio Reaper and Mower; Manny's Improved Machine.

Esterly's Improved Machine; Rugg's Combined machine; Vermont mowing machine; Buckeye do.; Bay State do.; Molly Stark (Ohio) Mower.

And sole agents for the celebrated Nourse, Mason & Co's

Ketchum's Improved Mowers,

With or without Reaper attachments—the best mowing machine in use. They will be furnished this season at greatly reduced prices, bringing them within the reach of every farmer. These machines are very much improved, and never fail in the matted or lodged clover—cutting with equal ease the tall or tangled grass without clogging or breaking; and so close that it will save from one to five dollars' worth of hay per acre more than any other machine. They are furnished with Reaper Attachment, at small cost—making them a good and serviceable combined machine; and when all other machines have failed in the tangled grain, the work has been done by the Ketchum machine to the perfect satisfaction of all. The one horse machine cuts four feet; the light two-horse machine cuts four and a half and five feet—two sizes; the heavy two-horse machine cuts five and five and a half feet, two sizes. Any boy capable of driving the team can manage the machine; it is not liable to get out of order.

The New Bay State two-wheeled Mower.—We have purchased the patent right to the New Bay State Mower for the State of California. It is one of the many machines lately invented, and stands far ahead of all others in point of excellence as a two-wheeled mowing machine, having all the new improvements that have been fairly tested. It is very light, strong, durable machine, and cuts full four and a half feet.

The Vermont Mower—Also, a two-wheeled machine. It is made mostly of iron, simple in construction, and can be managed with ease.

The Buckeye Machine has two driving wheels like the Vermont machine, and is simple in its construction.

The Molly Stark Mower, (manufactured at Canton, Ohio), is a very light mower, of the Buckeye pattern.

Ball's Ohio Harvester, (manufactured at Canton, Ohio), is a two-wheeled Reaper and Mower. Has two cutter bars—one for reaping and one for mowing. We have imported a few for trial this season.

The Kentucky Harvester cuts about five and a half feet. Said to be a very good machine.

McCormick's Reaper and Mower—a very good reaper—intended for four large horses.

Burt's Eagle Reaper and Mower,

(Improved for 1862.) Baker & Hamilton, sole agents for this machine in California and Oregon.

We have imported these machines for the past two years, which were furnished to some of our neighboring farmers and thoroughly tested. They gave general satisfaction both in cutting grain and grass. The style is very much the same as the celebrated Esterly's machine, except that they are better made; have a strong iron finger bar; are hand-raking reapers and have no side draft. They have a large four foot driving wheel. The outside grain wheel is thirty inches in diameter. The driver's seat is over two iron truck wheels, each thirty inches in diameter, and the machine may be turned round without crowding the horses, as there is no weight upon their necks. They have two sets of gearing for fast and slow motion; a smooth knife for mowing, and a sickle for reaping; the back of each is made of hammered cast steel. They cut about six and a half feet, and can be worked with two light horses. We have but a few for this season's trade, owing to the fact that the great demand at the factory made it impossible for the manufacturer to fill our orders for a large number in season for shipment to this market.

Rugg's Reaper and Mower, cutting six and nine feet. This machine cuts in advance of the horses, and the cutter can be raised by the driver from one to twenty-four inches. Sold very cheap.

Haine's Illinois Harvester, or Header, cuts ten feet. Improved for the harvest of 1862. We have also imported complete sets of trucks, or running gear for header-wagons, with neck yokes and whiffletrees complete.

P. Manny's Improved Combined Reaper and Mower.—This is a new style of machine, very light, yet strongly built, lately patented by P. Manny, in which there are many valuable improvements. We are willing to guarantee this Combined Reaper and Mower in every instance.

We have imported a large stock of extras for repairing Reapers, Mowers and Thrashers, all of which will be sold cheap for cash.

Haying and Harvesting Tools

Of every description necessary to meet the wants of the farmers. These they have in large quantities, and can supply to traders wholesale and retail, at San Francisco prices.
