And there will be lapper'd-milk kebbocks, and lowers, and farls, and baps,
With fwats, and well-feraped paunches, and brandy in floops and caps:
And there will be meal-kall and castocks, with skirk to sup till ye rive,
And roasts to roast on a brander, of slowks that were taken alive.

Fy let us. &c.

Scrapt haddneks, wilks, dulle and tangle, ond a mili of good faithing to prie; When weary with eating and drinking, we'll rife up and dance till we die.

Then fy let us a' to the bridal, for there will be lilting there; For Jockey's to be marry'd to Maggie, the lass wi' she gowden hair.

KATHARINE OGIE.

A Swalking forth to view the plain,
Upon a morning early,
While May's sweet scent did cheer my brain
From flow's which crow so rarely

I chanc'd to meet a pretty maid, She shin'd, though it was foggy; I ask'd her name, Sweet Sir, she said, My name is Katharine Ogie.

I flood a while, and did admire, to fee a nymph fo flately:
So brisk an air there did appear in a country maid to neatly;
Such natiral tweetness she display'd, like a lily in a boggie;
Diana's felf was ne'er array'd like this same Katharine Ogie.

Thou flow'r of females, beauty's queen,
who fees thee, fure must prize thee;
Though thou art dress'd in robes but mean,
yet these cannot disguise thee;
Thy handsome air, and graceful look,
far excels any clownish rogie;
Thou'rt match for laid, or lord, or duke,
my charming Katharine Ogie.

O were I but some shepherd swain!
to feed my slock beside thee;
At bughting time to leave the plain,
in milking time to abide thee;
I'd think myself a happier man,
with Kate, my club and dogie,
Than he that hugs his thoulands ten,
had I but Katharine Ogic.

Then I'd despife th' imperial throne, and statesmen's dangerous stations: I'd be no king. I'd wear no crown, Might I carels and still possess this lass of whom I'm vogie; For these are toys, and still look less, compar'd with Katharine Ogie.

But I fear the gods have not decreed for me so fine a creature,
Whose beauty rare makes her exceed all other works in nature.
Clouds of despair farround my love, that are both dark and foggy:
Pity my case, ye powers above, else I die for Katharine Ogie.

GUARDIAN ANGELS.

Cuardian angels now protect me!
Send, ah fend the youth I love!
Deign, O Cupid! to direct me;
Lead me to the myrtle grove.
Bear my figns, foft floating air,
Say, I love him to despair;
Tell him, 'tis for him I grieve,
For him alone I wish to live.

Midst secluded dales I'll wander,
Silent as the shades of night,
Near some building rill's meander,
Where he oft has blest my sight;
There to weep the night away,
There to waste in sighs the day:
Think, fond youth, what vows you swore,
And must I never see thee more.

Then recluse shall be my dwelling;
Deep in some sequester'd vale:
There, in mournful cadence swelling,
Oft repeat my love-sick tale:
And the Lark and Philomel
Oft shall hear a virgin tell
What the pain to bid adicu
To joy, to happiness, and you!

BRITANNIA RULE THE WAVES.

WHEN Britain first, by Heaven's command,
Arose out of the azure main,
This was the charter, the charter of the land,
And guardian angels sung this strain;
Hail Britannia, Britannia rule the waves;
Britons never shall be slaves.

The nations not so blest as thee,
Must in their turn to tyrants fall;
But thou shalt flourish, shalt flourish safe and free
The dread and envy of them all.
Hail Britannia, &c.

The haughty tyrants ne'er shall tame,
Their dire attempts ne'er bend thee down;
This will but rouse, but rouse thy gen'rous same
and work their woe in thy renown.
Hail Britannia, &c.

The Muses, still with freedom found,
Shall to thy happy coasts repair:
Blest isle! with beauty, with matchies beauty crowned,

and manly hearts to guard the fair.

Haif Britannia! Britannia rule the waves.

Britons never shall be flaves.

THE FLOWER OF YARROW.

IN ancient times, as fongs rehearle, A charming nymph employ'd each verse, She reign'd alone, without a marrow, Mary Scot, the flower of a grow.

Our fathers, with fuch leavily fir'd, This matchless fair in crouds adm r'd; Tho' matchless then, yet here her marrow, Many Scot's the flower of Yarrow.

Whose beauty, unadorn'd by art,
With virtue join'd, attracts each heart!
Her negligence itself would charm you,
Sac knows not her power to warm you.

For ever ceale Italian neife; Let every firing and every voice, Sing Mary Scot, without a marrow, Many Scot, the flower of Yarrow.

FINIS.
