IT is customary for every publication to have a "Preface," a "Foreword" or other initial announcement; in obedience to such time-honored rule, this "Introductory Preachment" is presented.

In writing it, I conceive it to be proper to state briefly the history of the work and the manner in which this book came to be published. In the fall of 1908, William Borsodi came to me and requested that I incorporate a company to publish an Advertisers Cyclopedia and that I personally assume the business management thereof. To me, as a lawyer, this was somewhat of an unusual request, so that I invited Mr. Borsodi to explain fully the nature and extent of his project. I had known him for many years as a constant devotee of everything pertaining to ADVERTISING and PUBLICITY. He had always been somewhat of a marvel to me and reminded me of those masters of chess who conduct half a score of contests simultaneously,—so many irons had I always known him to have in the fire.

After due deliberation, his proposition looked good to me; I readily saw a demand for such work as he suggested, and I therefore cheerfully—even eagerly—accepted the task which he allotted me. I have tried faithfully to execute his ideas; with what success, YOU, the students of this book, must be the judges. There are text books, codifications, books of reference, for every profession; law, medicine, the pulpit—all have vast libraries dedicated to their literature. The jurist, no matter how learned in the law, turns to his authorities and the code, as does the professor of belles-lettres to his Thesaurus, his book of synonyms, his "Unabridged" and his Britannica. To the physician, his pharmacopœia is his "vade mecum"; the theologian has his concordance of the Scriptures; his "Jeremy Taylor," his "Lives of the Saints." What has the advertising-writer to which he can refer? In plain language, NOTHING.

Far from diminishing the importance—the permanent need—of skilled advertising-writers, this Cyclopedia will enhance the appreciation of their work in the view both of those employing them and of the myriads who little dream that the advertisements which day by day arrest the attention, reading so smoothly, so naturally, are in reality greater masterpieces of alluring word-spinning than the most graphic story ever penned.

One of the thorns in the path of the advertising-writer is the ignorance of many an advertiser, of what is fitting advertising. Hereafter he will have his "authority" to back up his judgment, and his employer, whose interest certainly lies, not in being censorious but in being RIGHT, will, as he can spare time for it, con over the Cyclopedia, too, and thus enter more fully into his advertising-writer's professional work in his behalf. That work will grow in merit and in result-bringing, and the employing advertiser will discern in increasing business how good it has been for his advertising to have been written along the lines of successful experience, as enunciated in this Advertisers' "Guide, Philosopher and Friend."

No wise merchant, or producer upon a large scale, attempts to prepare his own advertising. He has buying to do, or to supervise, financing to keep him busy, the government of his employees to superintend, the care of his premises and plant to look after. Were he to undertake his advertising as well, it would of necessity be done hastily, and ineffectually and oftentimes wholly neglected. Possession of the Advertisers Cyclopedia will but accentuate in his mind the importance of his advertising-writer's function, and many a one who has been making shift to snatch from his multifarious avocations as proprietor, a few moments in which to throw together a few "half-baked" ideas for his ads, will be encouraged by this book to turn over to a professional writer, work so vital to the success of his business and thus will be widened the field for the advertising-writer's ability.

The man whose business it is to write ads will find in these pages how very much has been already said by others and well said, that has not occurred to him, even after cudgelling his wits to extract a fresh idea on some given subject. And he will find, too, that ideas on which he had been pluming himself, as their supposed originator, had long ago been pre-empted by a more agile thinker. He will thus cultivate avoidance of worn paths and blaze a way for himself.

Thus the ADVERTISERS CYCLOPEDIA is an epoch-maker in the world of advertising.

A word as to the price of this most useful book, which it is a great pleasure to me, as the official head of the Advertisers Cyclopedia Company, to give to the advertising world. I have been advised by persons well versed in such matters to make its publication price $50.00. Some have suggested copying the mercantile reference book idea, by leasing the books only and at $100.00 a year. But my desire, and that of my associates, is to make it as easy as possible for every one to whom it appeals to own a copy, which can be annotated and interleaved, if desired, by its owner, as a leased copy, of course, could not. I have therefore taken careful reckoning of its cost and have concluded that to popularize and widely distribute the book is the best way to round off the service so well rendered by its production. Its price is therefore not fifty, but fifteen dollars, and it is proper to add that in seeking counsel—though without following it—I have found a consensus of opinion that the book is invaluable, nay, indispensable,—and cheap at any price.

But why indulge in further talk along this line? Here is the book; it speaks for itself and is its own best advertisement. It is respectfully dedicated to the great advertising public in the hope that it may soon find its way into every advertising office in the civilized world.

LUCIUS WEINSCHENK,

President Advertisers Cyclopedia Co.

New York, April 4, 1909.

INSTEAD OF AN INTRODUCTION

THIS compilation requires none of the conventional trimmings—no publisher's "Foreword,"—no editor's "Salutatory,"—no author's "Preface"—the latter specially needless, because its authors are those for whose good it is brought into being. They are a mighty host. No one of them can claim parentage of more than a fraction of its contents, but for that fraction he has due credit and my appreciation, the indubitable evidence of which is found in the fact that I have deemed the offspring of his brain suitable for the imitation of others whose powers may be fully on a par with his.

All great works of reference are the composite product of many minds.

Lexicographers do but assemble and define the elements of languages, built up throughout ages and evolved from other tongues.

Encyclopædias are of the like formation: None was ever produced by an individual mind.

Scripture itself is a compilation. If its historians were, as some believe, inspired, the sum of that inspiration was not all bestowed upon even the most illustrious.

I therefore conceive that no unusual task has been mine in preparing this great work.

There was need of it—a need that from a desideratum of the few had grown to an absolute necessity of the many.

I am, perhaps, entitled to the credit of being alone—not, indeed, in recognizing it, but in transmuting an abstract thought into the gold of reality. My practical discernment of the need for such a work and perseverance in vesting it with form and substance are attributable to my having been long a chief actor on the stage of advertising.

To some,—those wearing "the blue ribbon" of the advertising guild,—the chief value of the work may lie in its classifications, for such ideas, construction, apt verbiage,—the warp and woof of good advertising,—are second nature.

Not all are so gifted, however, and he whose ideas trickle less freely from a less alert,—less fertile imagination, or whose experience is still—like his judgment and faculty of expression—comparatively unformed, may imbibe copious draughts of advertising lore from the finished admirable work of others in the pages of this assemblage of coruscating ideas, faultless in matter as in manner of conveyance to the minds of others.

Origination is a co-operative process. No one person really originates from the beginning. There is unconscious assimilation of the products of other minds.. He who can assemble and assort impressions drawn from many sources and crystallize them into a something positive—concrete—comes nearest to origination.

I recall an episode of other days, when I was in Hungary. Then, as now, I was bookishly inclined and used to frequent a repository where books—many of them old and rare—were to be found. Once, an old gentleman came there and was urged by the saleswoman to make a purchase—if not for himself, for his son—a budding poet. She remarked that she had read verses of the son in a newspaper of the capital, Buda-Pesth, and that he must be a book-lover.

The father's answer was that his son, when he desired to read a book, wrote one himself, and had already written three. The saleswoman retorted that three books could not be all the young man's reading. The father bought her books.

The moral is that writers must be readers, and of all writers advertising-writers most need to "rub elbows" with others of their kind.

THE ADVERTISERS CYCLOPEDIA facilitates this as does no other extant publication within the compass of one volume. Nor is there any of more than one volume!

All advertising men,—be they newspaper publishers, or advertising managers, or solicitors—and all others engaged in the sale of space, as well as the business men who buy space and the professional advertising-writers who fill the space so sold and bought, are vitally interested in the constant improvement of advertising.

Over ten years ago, I discovered the need thus supplied. Ideas and their expression often fail to make themselves clear enough; the germ of thought may be vaguely present—but may struggle in vain for proper utterance.

My original idea was to write, or procure to be written, phrases embracing every topic and thing having a possible place in advertising. But maturer observation convinced me that the product of "the thousand and one" minds constructing advertising for actual consumption would be better far than could be mere academic, abstract writing. I therefore discarded the former idea in favor of this Cyclo-pedia, which is—as it ought to be—a Clearing-house for ideas and diction from a multitude of sources.

Thus, universality of usefulness is secured, there being something for every class, every season, every climate, every judgment, every taste.

All do not think alike, and the merchant may wish to use—not the matter that might please the many, but something he believes will appeal to some individual on whom he wishes to focus his advertising for the time being.

In THE ADVERTISERS' CYCLOPEDIA every shade of expression has its own place. No "editing" of its contents, in the usual sense of the term, has been attempted, nor even close classification, for the advertising-writer is studious,—the florist, for example, may look for useful hints even in a laundry advertisement, because the object of all who advertise is identical, namely, to appeal to the possible customers, and those in one line can take lessons from those in other lines—even from the mistakes apparent in their advertising; for there is—as a great painter expressed it—construction in criticism itself, and it is well to realize how not to do things!

Some years ago, while editing an advertisers' trade publication, I was curious to ascertain whether advertising-writers took much interest in the ideas of others. A section of the publication had been allotted to "What Merchants Say." This I greatly enlarged, and the effect was phenomenal: Even delinquents returned to the fold!

The education of the advertising writer is progressing. Advertising is very costly—every single word of it. No word may be heedlessly used. Some words according to contexts, have a meaning, or its exact opposite. The English language abounds in such. A ready instance is "nervous." When used as an adjective qualifying "energy," for example, it indicates the possession—not the lack of nerve as when one is "nervous."

The space-writer or news-reporter can, by circumlocution, clear up such ambiguities (thus "stretching" his copy), but to the advertising writer no such license is permissible. He must ransack his vocabulary for words of precise meaning and must condense and compress into small compass what he desires to express.

THE ADVERTISERS' CYCLOPEDIA will be an unspeakable boon to him in that regard, for, in an instant, he can there place his finger on the short phrase, or word, that another may have pondered over for an hour.

This book—by a thousand authors—is therefore sure to be of aid to these authors themselves and to many thousands of other "authors." It accentuates talking-points, brings them into high relief and supplies alternate expressions, words synonymous—yet diverse, and assists to the degree of "finish," now necessary to even the least pretentious advertising.

The idea of whiteness, for example, is sought to be conveyed in a variety of ways:—there are besides "white" itself, many terms, such as snowy, milky, lily, ivory, silvery, alabaster, and so on; while for blackness, there are inky, pitchy, jet, coal-black, etc.

This book enables one to select the appropriate word in the twinkling of an eye.

Were but one man, versed in salesmanship, to assort his ideas thereon, it would be of value to himself and others. How immeasurably more so then, the combined classifications of a thousand trained minds! No less does this great compilation offer, to each and every student of the work.

But it also affords a liberal education in oral salesmanship. Every salesman should familiarize himself with all it contains, especially in the line of his particular specialties.

If gloves, for example, he will learn all the salient features of a glove, such as the excellence of its material, its smooth, yet "non-binding" fit, etc.

THE ADVERTISERS CYCLOPEDIA contains the essence of a decade of endeavor and millions of dollars of expenditure—mostly economically made—and all of it incurred to good purpose. For only excellent advertising has found entrance between its covers. The credit for its excellence and value belongs, not, indeed to the compilers (whose work has merely been that of selection and classification), but to the talented host of advertising men whose masterpieces enable the work to scintillate with genius, to those in whose employ their talents were developed, and to the publishers, who not only financed its production—(a financial undertaking, in Reference-Work publishing, of no common order) but reinforced its contents by some hundreds of illustrated model advertisements—from which a great deal can be learned—and, furthermore, inserted indexes and the Single-Word Department in which is given substantially every word that is needed for the appropriate advertising of every article.

Those who profit by this Cyclopedia are, therefore, indebted, for its help, to those Captains of Commerce whose judgment and liberality gave birth to the contributions which adorn its pages, to the producers of these for their admirable work, to the publishers, both for their enterprise in becoming pioneers in a new—though obviously meritorious—departure and for placing this most unique and valuable work at a price—($15 only) within the reach of every one interested in its contents, and to some extent also to the man behind the IDEA.

SINGLE-WORD SUGGESTIONS

One essential of good advertising is to make groups of words mutually suggestive. A wide range of words pertinent to the particular subject or article are here classified so as to make the writing easy, and ensure a varied form of expression—another essential feature of modern advertising.

ATHLETIC AND SPORTING GOODS

Cholly—"Ya'as, I'm going in for cwicket and golf and all that sawt of thing, y' know; they're such manly sport, y' know."

Miss Peppry—"The idea! You're becoming positively mannish, aren't you?"—Buffalo News.

Bulky Matters—"Is dey swell folks up at dat house?"

Woeful Walters—"Is dey swell? Say, dey didn't hit me wit' nutting' but golf clubs."—Chicago News.

Go duck-shooting? These are ideal days for the sport. Much depends, however, upon the outfit. Good sportsmen know that and experience has taught them to rely upon Schmelzer's when in need of trusty guns or shells, boats, decoys, calls and hunter's coats or any other article of the hunter's equipment. A purchase at Schmelzer's means: A saving of money and time, invariable satisfaction and the best of quality. A half century of growth and the distinction of being the largest athletic and sporting goods house in the world backs our guarantee. "Whatever we sell or advertise, we stake our reputation on it."—Schmelzer Arms Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Football supplies. Sporting goods. This is ideal weather for football. We want you to know of the large supply of footballs and toggery we carry. Our goods are all first quality. We want you to inspect and compare our stock with others. You will be convinced we can do as well, if not a little better, in price and quality. Just try and see. Footballs. Our footballs are not sold at catalogue prices, but marked at their true value.—The Alling Rubber Co., Waterbury, Conn.

Outdoor sports. There is no spring tonic known that equals the great out-of-door. Plenty of exercise in the open, deep breathing and right thinking make for health and happiness. Whether you like the moderate exercise that you get by playing croquet or the more active game of tennis, or the still more strenuous game of baseball, you will find here every essential for personal or field equipment—by odds the largest stock of things needed for outdoor sport and games than will be found in any other store in this section. And if you like to while away your leisure hours in a hammock or a swing, they, too, are here, and in tremendous variety. We also have rowboats, motor boats, and canoes, bicycles, tents, fishing tackle, etc.—Hahn & Co., Newark, N. J.

Sleighs for the boys and girls. Snow has fallen, and now for sleigh riding. Every boy and girl should have a sleigh and enjoy this very healthy exercise. We have now on sale a line of four different varieties. Sleighs to suit all, both in price and size. For the younger ones a serviceable sleigh, with flat shoes, finished in bright colors, at 35 cents each. Another of the same style and finish, but longer and higher at 40 cents. Then, in the better grades we sell a round iron spring shod sleigh, strong supports for the top board and in every way a good article, at 60 cents each. The larger size of the same variety, suitable for making "bobs," ordinarily known as a "Pointer," price 75 cents. Come early and make your choice.—Ashdown's, Sporting Goods, Winnipeg, Can.

Outdoor sports have begun. Baseball players have already taken the field, and it won't be long before tennis, golf, cycling, boating and all other forms of outdoor amusement will be in full swing. You have your favorite pastime—prepare for it now. There is hardly a sport but necessitates some special form of footwear. You'll find that special form right here. The following are but a few of the many varieties of men's outing shoes which we carry in stock.—W. G. Simmons Co., Hartford, Conn.

Gifts for an athletic boy. We've everything for building muscle, from ice skates to bicycles, together with all the needfuls of a home gymnasium. Punching bags—some that swing free, others attached to both floor and ceiling. Boxing gloves, well padded. Footballs, Rugby shape, to stand plenty of knock-about use. 75c. up. Basket balls, $1.00 up. Exercisers for boys, at 50c. Heavier sizes for professional athletes up to $5.00. All weights of dumb bells and Indian clubs. Also rowing machines. Ice skates, 50c. up. Our Christmas catalog suggests hundreds of gifts. Mailed free.—Shannon Hardware Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Squash tennis, racquets and balls here. The opening of the new Crescent Athletic Club with its four fine squash courts will stir interest in this splendid indoor game. It is natural, perhaps, that this store—which has furnished the Crescent Club from top to bottom—should now be prepared to supply the demand for Squash Racquets and Balls. They are of the best grades—at the least prices.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Bear in mind that we are headquarters for Baseball Goods. We have the largest stock of Gloves and Mitts ever shown in the Naugatuck valley. Over 500 Gloves displayed on our tables for you to choose from.

We guarantee to save you money on your purchases. No fancy prices here. All goods marked at what they are actually worth in plain figures.

We have one lot of Gloves that are soiled from handling. These are just as good for service, but are marked at about half price. Every Glove is warranted and will be replaced is not satisfactory.

Every one knows how hard it is to get a good bat; one evenly balanced and that just suits. We have over 500 Bats in stock to choose from, including six dozen Louisville Sluggers. The best bat made.—The Alling Rubber Co., Waterbury, Conn.

Not to-day or to-morrow, but almost before you know it, the snow will be gone, the grass green and you'll hear the umpire's call—"batter up." We have everything with which to equip the ball player, or rather the baseball clubs. Hans Wagner bats, Napoleon Lajoie bats, Louisville Slugger bats. We are exclusive agents for them—and if you like to "line 'em out," you'll appreciate the superiority of these bats. We have everything in Spalding and Victor baseballs, bats, gloves, guards, shields, and all other articles necessary in the national game. We make special prices to clubs.—The Anglers' Co., Hartford.

If tennis is the game, here are the right tools—and as little priced as reliable sorts can anywhere be found.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We want you to regard this Store as most men do, as the best Sporting and Athletic Goods Store in this town, and be it boy, girl, man or woman who has a need in this line, we are ready, not only with the best goods, but also the lowest prices.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

The Best of Athletic Goods for Very Modest Prices.—Complete stocks of the Tools for outdoor sport, and those Tools in every instance reliable. Prices in every case as low as, and in most cases, lower than the same goods will cost elsewhere. Prompt, careful, pleasant service.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

We are showing an extensive line of summer outing and sporting goods and accessories, including lawn tennis goods, base ball goods, lawn springs, tents, hammocks, croquet sets, garden tools, etc., and a full assortment of the small toys and games that are so delightful to the little folks.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

This collection of Tennis Rackets comes from one of the best concerns in the business; and Rackets are all in 1904 models. The quality of material and the workmanship are the best put into these goods. Frames are of specially selected, highly polished, white ash, beveled; polished mahogany throat pieces. Handmade throughout. Perfect balance assured.—Wanamaker.

We seem to have a monopoly on low prices on such goods. We haven't noticed any this season that equaled the prices you'll find in this Sporting Goods Store. The goods are of a splendid quality. We make prices low through extensive purchases and taking goods off other people's hands in exchange for our cash.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

"Truscott" on a boat means about the same as "Sterling" stamped upon good silverware. It guarantees to the purchaser the best materials, workmanship and designing that enter into launch-making. On hand and ready for immediate delivery we have half a dozen splendid Truscott Launches, representing the line of Truscotts for which we are New York agents. These boats are built out of seasoned wood, copper fastened, decks of golden oak. Each one is equipped with a two-cycle motor—Truscott-made—regarded as the most compact motor in the almost-noiseless class. These prices are f. o. b. New York. If desired, boats will be put in commission here.—Macy's, New York.

Been out on the links yet? Perhaps you looked over your stock of clubs and found some that needed replacing. Easy to choose from the splendid array here—and the best golf supplies cost the very least in this golf store.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

White duck tents for campers.—How about that Summer vacation and the tent you will need if you go camping? Just a word by way of reminder—when you are getting ready for your vacation do not forget that our stock of tents and tent supplies is complete. There is nothing better for real enjoyment than a comfortable tent, picturesquely pitched in the right sort of a place. Prices below the picture.—Brummer's, Sacramento, Cal.

Tennis is more popular than ever this year. We can supply tennis enthusiasts with every essential except the court.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

Ping-pong, for 48c. and up. Have you ever played Ping-Pong? It is the one game that proves popular with all classes and all ages. It is the most fascinating of novel pastimes. It is simple, but never twice alike, easy to play but always interesting. If you once try it you will realize that a ping-pong set is necessary in your home. Everybody from grandmother down to baby will play. Costs but little and delights each member of the family.—Harris, Emery Co., Des Moines, Ia.

Croquet sets.—For an enjoyable outdoor game that is not too vigorous, croquet is still unequalled.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Golf and Tennis.—Whichever will claim your attention on the holiday, the right tools—that is, the best tools—are here in complete assortment and for prices that mean worth while saving.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Luck is with the heaviest battalions," said a famous general. Luck is with the sportsman who is best equipped. The sportsman is best equipped who is equipped by us. Equipping sportsmen has been our exclusive business over twelve years.—Kimball-Upson Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Tennis is more markedly a favorite this year than for a long time, as the early indications promised. Players are making heavy demands for large quantities of goods, especially the fine and serviceable sorts; but the stock is still in splendid condition. Besides all the requisites, the knowledge of our expert-in-charge is at the service of our customers—ask all the questions you like, and welcome. For golf players—every good club and ball that players are likely to ask for is here, and the largest quantity in Philadelphia.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Strenuous Life.—Footballs, boxing gloves, punching bags, dumbbells, Indian clubs and everything to make a boy like our President.—The Rookery, Jackson, Miss.

A cold wave is due and you may expect the red ball up in twenty-four hours. In the Loeser basement sporting goods store you will find a most complete variety of the best ice skates made. There are styles for men, women and children. Prices are lowest; just a hint or two at the range.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Whether you're to be out of town one day—or three days—or more, your pleasure depends on the goodness—the thorough goodness—of your sporting equipment. And goodness doesn't necessarily imply expensiveness. If your supply comes from the Big Store it will be as good as it is possible for human skill to make it. And it will cost less than inferior goods elsewhere.—Siegel Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

These are the days that make one think of fishing. There is much to be said in favor of the sport that appeals to all alike. The finny tribe can sometimes be coaxed from his haunts and sometimes he can't. But there is one thing certain, the right sort of tackle will help to catch the wily bass. Come in and let us show you our line—it is complete and we can supply every need that you may have from hooks to poles and everything that goes to make a fisherman happy.—Smith, Watkins & Co., Lexington, Ky.

You can't help looking with admiration at our fine line of sporting goods if you are within eyeshot of this emporium for sportsmen. The spell of the woods and the water will prompt you to step inside, where you can see and select to your heart's content everything that the fisherman or hunter needs.—Rapp & Lloyd, Spokane, Wash.

Get a camera this season. Get it early in the season and begin enjoying the delights of picture taking as soon as you can. We have one of the most extensive stocks of Kodaks, cameras and photo supplies on the coast. Our experience enables us to aid in many ways the amateur photographer and to help insure skill and satisfaction in the art.—Buber & Colson Drug Co., Fresno, Cal.

“Ramona” portable cottages, stores, offices and bungalows. Ten styles to choose from. One-room “Automobile Cottage” to five-room “Bungalow” with porches. Pantry, closets and bath room. Fitted completely at mill before sold. Delivered in “Knockdown” bundles. Anyone can set them up in a few hours. No nailing or sawing necessary. Need only screw-driver, wrench and hammer. Price only about half the cost of building ordinary frame house. Take your house along with you to the beach, mountain, desert, mines, ranch or foothills. Move it back home in the fall onto your vacant lot and rent it. It’s “as good as new” after a dozen moves.—Home Building Mill and Improvement Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Table tennis and sporting goods. This is a sporting goods store through and through. Fully equipped to supply your wants, and do so most economically. You can fit up a gymnasium of your own in your own room, and there will be very little expense in doing so.—Loeser’s, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The winners. So much depends on the equipment of a baseball team that too much stress cannot be laid upon the necessity of purchasing baseball supplies where the goods are of the highest quality. Fine fishing tackle, lawn tennis and golf supplies.—The Andrus & Naedele Co., Hartford, Conn.

We have a good line of new tennis rackets. The frames are made from selected materials by experts who thoroughly understand the use of them. The gut used in stringing is the very best that can be procured. Tennis balls, nets, posts and marking tapes. Catalogue on application. Rackets restrung in the best possible manner.—A. S. Burbank, Plymouth, Mass.

Footballs and football supplies. The call of the gridiron warriors to practice has been heard. Is your team ready? If not, the Loeser Sporting Goods Store is ready with the most complete line of footballs and other supplies. Everything of the best standard. Below we give hint of the Loeser fair prices.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Of course you know we are Colorado headquarters for sporting goods—guns, rifles, ammunition and shooting toggery. We outfit you with the just right outfit for whatever you are going after.—The Geo. Tritch Hardware Co., Denver, Colo.

We’re busy selling hunting supplies because our stocks are complete in all lines and we sell high-quality goods. Prices also are a winning feature every time. If you’re going out for one day or a month let us fit you out in proper equipment to ensure a successful trip. Note our prices.—Ashdown’s, Winnipeg.

Never will the boys and girls want for better skating, and never will they want for a better store than Kaufman’s in which to buy skates. There’s fine ice on every pond and stream, and if you want to enjoy the skating be sure to have a good pair of skates. Right when skates are wanted most, we reduce our price a full 25 per cent., which makes the buying exceedingly advantageous.—Kaufman’s, Trenton, N. J.

Baseball supplies. We have just opened up a large and complete stock of base ball goods and asked the inspection of all intending purchasers of baseball supplies. Our name has long been a guarantee of all that is first-class and up-to-date in the sporting goods line. We have a complete stock of baseballs, gloves, mitts, bats, uniforms, shoes and all other supplies necessary for teams or individuals. Mail inquiries of out-of-town customers are solicited and we are glad to send catalogues and prices. All mail-orders given careful attention.—Anderson Hardware Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Football supplies. The Loeser sporting-goods store is local headquarters for the best football supplies. Everything requisite to the great game is here and guaranteed to be the best. Prices moderate.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A few hints for campers. Everybody will not go camping or touring in June, but everybody who contemplates an outing this summer is doing some planning, and so this list is for them particularly. It would be an easy matter to fill this page with hints, from all over the store, of the goods summer homes and campers will find convenient. But only a few suggestions are given in the hope that you’ll come to the best supply source for everything you’ll need. From the tent and its furnishings we’ll supply everything you’ll need to eat, use and wear.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

BICYCLES

A good bicycle never happens, it's a steady progress—the net result of the best thought and skill of the best people. An ordinary set of men can do only ordinary things; rare knowledge and ability are necessary to produce such superb knowledge.—Globe Cycle Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Bicycle riding is no longer a fad. People have outgrown paying an exorbitant price for a wheel because it bears the name plate of a record breaker. The prospective buyer nowadays wants his money's worth in materials and workmanship and not in sentiment. When you buy a Lenox bicycle, you don't pay for the enviable reputation it has been winning for years, you get value received in a machine of first quality—finest materials plus expert workmanship.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Don't you feel well? Have you lost your nerve and appetite? If you are working indoors, at office work, did it ever strike you that what you probably needed was exercise of the proper kind, and not patent medicine or physic? Ride a bicycle, use it regularly and properly, put your blood in circulation, and you throw away medicine chest.—Globe Cycle Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Lenox Logic.—Look back and think how many of the popular wheels of a few years ago are being sold to-day. Very few. And why? Because when people ceased to ride a wheel with a certain name plate from the sentiment of the thing and wanted actual bicycle value these self-styled, high-grade, wheels died a natural death. When we embarked on the sea of bicycle selling we took a different tact. We built as good a wheel as mechanical skill could construct from the finest materials, and sold it at a reasonable profit. The drygoods method was more to your liking and the Lenox has lived to see more riders than any other bicycle in this vicinity.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

National and Cleveland wheels have no superiors. They are built by mechanics who understand perfectly every requirement of a bicycle and nothing but the best material and the finest workmanship enters into their construction. Let us prove by showing them to you that they are as near perfection as it is possible to build.—W. H. Alexander, Spokane, Wash.

There's no other store that can do so much in bicycles for you as we can. In fact, this department in a way is a bicycle headquarters. Everything here for a wheelman, from a lamp to a racing wheel. Through a fortunate purchase we secured a small quantity of Fowler bicycles at a special price. These wheels have seamless steel tubing. The hangers are the latest model Fauber. They are equipped with the celebrated Baldwin chain. Adjustable handle bars. Brown padded saddle and finest quality single-tube tires.—Lit Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

If you desire a bicycle and want the best value for the money, come to the place where there is the largest assortment and make your selection.—Young's Bicycle Store, York, Pa.

It's settled. What? The weather and the fact that we can give you more for your money in the bicycle and talking machine line than you get elsewhere.—Snyder Cycle and Automobile Co., York, Pa.

The 1903 Ramblers are the wheels for the classes and the masses. Made more durable, lighter and easier running this year than ever before. Call and see them.—The Fred T. Merrill Cycle Co., Spokane, Wash.

Reliability is one of the good features of the National wheel. It responds to any demand you make upon it, stands up under hard service in all kinds of weather, is easily cared for—and you can own on simple and easy terms. Ask us about it.—W. H. Alexander, Spokane, Wash.

There are 500 riders of the National bicycle in Omaha alone, who will back our assertions that a National rider never changes his mount.—Omaha Bicycle Co., Omaha, Neb.

If you desire a bicycle and want the best value for the money, come to the place where there is the largest assortment and make your selection.—Young's Bicycle Store, York, Pa.

CAMERAS

Kodakry spells outdoor enjoyment. Now is the time you want to take some good pictures. Our films and plates are fresh, first quality and first hand, direct from Eastman. No old or undesirable goods among them. Kept in a cool place, away from steam pipes and heat. We guarantee our films and plates to take the best pictures, because they are the best. Great the relief to be sure of a thing. We do developing and printing, too—do it fine and with promptness. Bring your films to us if you don't feel like risking them yourself.—Towne, Seccombe & Allison, San Bernardino, Cal.

A Kodak for a Xmas present to your friend; nothing will give more constant and enduring pleasure. We have an endless variety to select from, at prices to suit all purses.—Geo. Barrat & Son, Montreal, Que., Can.

Buy a camera. It's no work to take good pictures; much fun—the best fun in the world, according to many. Now you may not know the working of a camera—and how to develop and print. We'll show you. We'll tell you everything—and if you buy a camera now we will make you an expert before you are ready to go on your vacation trip. We can give you a camera at any price you wish to pay.—The Sportsman's Shop, Hartford, Conn.

The story of a summer vacation as told by a kodak. It's always an interesting story and it's an easy story to record, for the kodak works at the bidding of the merest novice. There is no dark-room for any part of kodak work—it's all simple. Press the button—do the rest or leave it to another—just as you please. The kodak catalogue tells the details. Get the new 1907 catalogue.—Kingston, Denison, Texas.

There's a timely sale of cameras this week, in the section given over to photographic supplies. Last year's models—Blair's, Pocos, Kodaks, Premos—are being sold at considerably less than cost. Just the thing to make the summer vacation complete.—Jordan Marsh Co., Boston, Mass.

Whether you want a fine camera for yourself, or an inexpensive one for the boy or girl, we can meet your wishes exactly in the very best sorts. Here are some suggestions of Cameras, as well as supplies for them.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Yesterday no doubt you used your kodak to advantage. To-day you are possibly wondering where to have your films developed and finished. We do the large bulk of this work in Colorado Springs. We are especially equipped for this work and have a first-class expert operator.—Hemey, Arcularius Drug Co., Colorado Springs, Colo.

Cameras and supplies.—If you would live over again and again the pleasures of your outing or vacation take a camera with you. Between the showers some stray ray of sunshine will enable you to get some photographic reminders. We supply everything the amateur needs—the popular makes of cameras and the essentials for finishing, or we will finish your pictures for you, if you like.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Going away?—Then your baggage is not complete without a camera or kodak. There will be many happy scenes on your vacation that you will want to remember! Nothing will do more to refresh your memory, and bring that time and occasion vividly to your mind, than a picture taken right on the spot, and by your own hand. If you don't know how to operate a camera or kodak, we will teach you in a few minutes—easy to learn! You will get lots of pleasure from one.—The S. Galeski Optical Co., Richmond, Va.

All kinds of cameras. An outing without a camera is like hunting without a gun, or fishing without a hook. Cameras are better every year—do more things and do the work easier. Every kind is here, with all the supplies and requisites for every part of picture making. The cost need be but little, if you so choose.—Walbridge & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Cameras and the country.—People who would never bother with keeping a written diary of their summer vacation willingly keep one with a camera. Of course the reason's obvious—a camera perpetuates, in a second or so, places you've visited, people you've met, events you've seen, in a way that you couldn't come near duplicating with pen, ink and paper. That's why a camera is an indispensable adjunct to your vacation; and here are camera offerings that make buying very easy.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Want a camera? Why not get it here, you have all the newest models of all the celebrated makes to select from, at much lower prices than is asked at the exclusive stores?—Kaufman's, Pittsburg,

Don't forget to take your camera when you go out of town over the 4th of July. If you haven't a Camera, it is easy to choose from this fine stock of Pocos, Premos or Eastman Kodak Cameras, and prices are the smallest.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Take a camera with you—Fourth of July is the first of the season's holidays. If you want to bring your outing home with you take a camera along—80c. will buy a Brownie to make pictures.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

A vacation without a kodak is a vacation wasted. We have them in all styles. Come in and see us before going.—Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Take a camera with you on your trip. It will add greatly to your pleasure, and the pictures secured will help you to enjoy your trip over and over again.—The J. Sussman Co., Baltimore, Md.

Come in and talk camera.—We know that nearly everybody has a general desire to own a camera. We know that many wrong ideas exist as to the cost or difficulty of photography. We suggest that even though you have no immediate intention of buying, you come in and let us tell you all about cameras. If you can't come, write for catalogue.—Buker & Colson, Fresno, Cal.

A clear up of cameras—Some are shop-worn—slightly rubbed and scratched; others are not the latest model. But they'll take good pictures—nothing wrong there.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

Vacation days.—When you are making arrangements for a summer's outing do not forget a kodak or camera. When you arrive home you can show what a good time you had.—Fred E. Munsey & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Take vacation photos. Does a camera figure in your Vacation plan? Vacations are decidedly more enjoyable when one has a camera along. You're not obliged to put much money into an outfit unless you desire something elaborate. We can supply you with a practical little film camera for $1.00, have others all prices up to $30. Come into one of our stores and let us show you what we have.—The Gordon-Mitchell Drug Co., Winnipeg, Can.

A new reflecting camera, the Premograph, $9. See your picture full size and right side up the instant before you press the button. How much will that add to the pleasure of photography—and to the excellence of the pictures you get. These reflecting cameras have always been considered the best snap shot cameras made—and cost the most. Now here is one that will take pictures 3 1-4 x 4 1-4, that is perfect working and that costs but $9.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Remember with a camera and you won't forget. Perhaps you would like to bring back your vacation with pictures—if you knew how. It is the easiest thing in the world now—not only to take snap-shots and simple time exposures, but to develop and print the pictures when you reach home. Somebody in the camera store is ready with suggestions or advice at any time and there is wide choice in practical vacation cameras. If all you care to do is to get the picture, we will finish it up in satisfactory manner and for very little price.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn,

You're planning a trip for the summer? Do you own a kodak and a field glass? The pleasure of a vacation is just doubled by the addition of these two articles which have become a part of everyone's traveling outfit. Give us a call—we have them at prices to suit every purse.—E. E. Bausch & Son, Rochester, N. Y.

OUTDOOR CLOTHING

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S

"That bathing suit is quite a creation, isn't it?"
"Well it's nearly a creation—made out of almost nothing."—Puck.

Deacon Coopah—"But I wondah dem gals wear such bathing suits! Dere's been some pow'ful preaching against it!"

His Wife—"Ya'as; but I reckon dem gals are goneter take dere style from de fashion magazines, and not from the pulpit!"—Puck.

Baseball uniforms made to order. We make a specialty of uniforms and can furnish them quickly and at bottom prices. We have assorted sizes ready made for men and boys at $1.50 per suit. Shirts, pants and cap. A complete line of Fielder's gloves, Fielder's mitts, baseman's mitts, catcher's mitts, Louisville sluggers and Zimmerman's bats.—Walter R. Miller & Company, Binghamton, N. Y.

Not only from a strictly hygienic point of view but as a comfort, no sensible woman can afford to ignore the advantages of the town and country ladies' shirt. The shirt of freedom and the only correct garment for tennis, golf, and for all athletics or outing.—Guiterman Bros., St. Paul, Minn.

Camping hats. Nifty, mercerized sateen and linen folding hats, in plain colors and neat polka dots; linen colored tops with plain green and blue facings. Another style with circular drooping flounce and also the straight sailor; can be folded and carried conveniently in the pocket. A perfect sun shade and very popular; on sale thirteen hours Saturday.—Whitehouse Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

Are you going fishing? Get your outfit here now, so you won't be distracted with too many things to do at the last minute. We will clothe you complete, from head to foot. Waterproof hats, coats, vests and waders—best that are made. Finest wool sweaters. Prices that leave you ahead of the game. We make a specialty of repairing rods and reels, and carry Pueblo's largest stock of general fishing tackle.—Pueblo Novelty Works, Pueblo, Colo.

Cretonne trimmed bathing suits and new Princess models. A new era in bathing suits—an era of prettiness hitherto unthought of comes with this year's dainty models. Grace of line and trimness of fit distinguish the new princess styles. Fancy soutache braiding is shown and the band trimmings of French cretonne in the 1908 fashion make dainty touches of color on dark suits. And Loeser suits are meant for wear as well as prettiness. Materials are the sort that will stand wind and sun and wettings, and the good lines are tailored into the material by a maker of bathing suits who puts the stamp of high character on even the least priced garment he makes. Prices start at $2.98 and range up to $33.98 for the most elaborate silk styles. Lower priced suits of mohair and brilliantine in black, blue and brown are shown in new Dutch neck effects and in princess and negligee princess or buttoned all the way down models, up to $12.98.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

CLOTHING (MEN AND WOMEN) FOR OUTDOOR SPORTS

FISHING TACKLE

Black bass are biting, and a good catch is sure if you buy your bass tackle at our store. The quality of our tackle is dependable. No trouble in landing the big ones—when your outfit comes from here. Our prices are the lowest that reliable tackle can be sold for.—Callahan & Douglas, Binghamton, N. Y.

The sporting goods we are showing to-day ought to make every one feel like indulging in out of door sports. Tennis and baseball outfits, fishing tackle, kodaks, cameras, and supplies of all kinds are offered you for vacation days at prices which are lower than ever. The time to enjoy them is now, the place to buy them is here.—Waldron's, Binghamton, N. Y.

Rainbow trout supplies, that is, supplies with which to land that tricky and elusive specimen of the finny tribe successfully, such as reel, flies and tackle and, in fact, every thing the fisherman desires is found here. We can make the cost of your outfit seem so small and yet can equip you with the best.—Phillips-Cooke Hardware Co., Pueblo.

Why not get after the fish before the other fellows catch them? Fishing tackle is of two kinds—good and good for nothing. If you like to go fishing, better get your tackle here. We know exactly what is needed for the fish you are after. And when you hook a fish with our tackle you will not lose him. The hook will not break, the line or leader snap or the reel stick. All our sporting goods are the reliable kind. Come in and look them over. We have several novelties that you ought to see.—The Salem G. Le Valley Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The fishing season is at its height—and here are all the things that delight the heart of the angler. And tennis, too, has received an impetus which ranks it as one of the foremost sports of 1904. This is the headquarters for all sorts of sporting and athletic needs. Prices are the lowest anywhere.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Getting ready for fishing.—Practically the last barricade has been removed—it's open season for almost any member of the finny tribes. The true fisherman is busy getting ready for the vacation campaign. At what point can our fishing tackle store serve you?—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

A strong pull on public favor our superb line of fishing tackle has. No man would think of starting out for a day's sport without first equipping himself with one of our fine bamboo or steel rods and expert reels, if he would hook the finny beauty in brook, lake or pond, and bring success to his fly or hook. Our line of fishing tackle, guns, rifles and ammunition is the best made.—Redving & Ellestad, Grand Forks, N. D.

Fishing tackle. Everything that's good. They have been catching the big ones lately—2 to 5 pounds. You will need a shotgun soon. Let us show you our line.—Rapp & Lloyd, Spokane.

We haven't talked fishing gear, because it's been too cold. We do so now. Fishing gear is cheaper each year.—A. W. Reddin, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Things for everybody who wants to get out of doors and have a good time. Salt-water fishing practically begins on or about June—the first chance people have to go out of town for an outing. If you are after bluefish, sheepshead, flounder or any other kind, we've got the fishing tackle to help you.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

The better and more complete the angler's outfit, the greater enjoyment is sure to be. If you, Mr. Fisherman, only knew (as we know full well) the real, dollar saving values in our fishing tackle department, you would all be here when the doors open this morning.—The 14th St. Store, New York.

The best bargain in a trout rod you will ever see. It is 9 1-2 ft. long and in 18-inch lengths. Fits easily in suit case or trunk. The supply is limited, so come soon.—Clapp & Treat, Hartford, Conn.

Be a successful angler. Our line of fishing tackle is entirely of English manufacture, purchased by us direct, and is the best assortment ever shown here.

It includes rods, lines, leaders, flies, gut, hooks, in all desirable sizes. Our tackle makes a good catch certain—if there are fish to catch. It always pays to keep tackle complete—saves lots of bother when you want to go off in a hurry. Our prices are the lowest you can get good tackle for anywhere.—J. G. Jamieson, Charlottetown, Can.

“Throw physic to the dogs.” I’ll have none of it—but rather I’ll away to the inviting brook and business cares a-banish—and there, at peace with the world, I’ll fish and fish till close of day, and then, returning, boast not of catch—though creel be fairly filled—but rather attend the feast that good health and appetite prepares—then, resting, fish the day o’er and vow to go again as soon as possible. Now this is fishing—and sad is the man who doesn’t crave a day or two’s sport following a singing brook! We can tell you what to fish with—and we can equip you for any kind of a fishing trip. We are manufacturing retailers of rods and tackle. When you see our displays you’ll agree that there’s little more to see—go where you will. Rods from 75c. to $75, and everything else in proportion. You’ll like this store—for it’s more than a store, you’ll like our sportsman’s room—it has an uncommercial air, it’s stocked with good literature—on fishing and sports afield.—The Sportsman’s Shop, Hartford, Conn.

Fish early. Look over your tackle and be prepared. April first will soon be here and our new stock of hooks, flies, rods, reels, canvas creels and baskets are here now. They are beauties. We have everything in the world that could be desired for trout fishing.—Clapp & Treat, Hartford, Conn.

“Something doing?” Yes, but ’twill be a story of “the fish I didn’t catch,” if your tackle isn’t right. Our 1908 light tackle outfits are up-to-date, of standard quality and made especially to conform to rules of Southern California clubs. A fine line of reels, prices ranging from 50c. to $60. Our special pompano rod, 17 ft., 4 joint, is very convenient to carry on cars. Surf and wharf fishermen should see our split bamboo surf rods, large agate guide and tip, cord wound grip, extra heavy welt ferrules, and German silver trumpet guides, at $10.—Tufts-Lyon Arms Company, Los Angeles, Cal.

Don’t forget bass season opens June 1st. Prepare for your fishing trip by the purchase of necessary fishing tackle. We have a complete stock of poles, lines, hooks, artificial flies and other bait, in fact everything for the up-to-date angler. Our values are strong. Make it a point to outfit here. Special on reels. Your wants in reels can be supplied here at a saving in price. We have the small brass reel, also the more elaborate multiplying reels with alarm and drag features. Better get our prices before buying elsewhere. There is a saving to be had here.—Chambelle Cycle Co., Fresno.

Your luck depends just as much on the quality of your tackle as it does on your skill. Stop at our store and replenish your tackle box and you won’t be caught telling your friends about “that big one that got away.” New rods, reels, artificial baits, hooks, etc., at the most attractive prices.—Dollarhide & Harris, Denison, Tex.

Fishing tackle.—This department makes a man think of deep, cool pools, with the slippery trout flashing, tempting you to fish. We have baited all the goods with very low prices for to-morrow.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

“I can snake ’em out ’most every time if I have the right kind of tackle,” said a fisherman friend to us the other day. No use talking, tackle is important; and, just the same as with everything else, there’s a right kind to buy, and a right place to buy it. We believe our kind of tackle is surely the right kind; and if our prices and ways of selling don’t prove that this is the right place to buy, your money is yours again in a minute.—The Danbury Hardware Co., Danbury, Ct.

How about your tackle, fishing tackle, we mean, is it all ready, so you won’t be bothered to stop and buy some little thing at the last minute? Overhaul it now; make a list of the things you need and get them here. When you make out your list, put down the prices you think you ought to pay, and see how they compare with the prices you’ll be asked to pay at this store.—The Danbury Hardware Co., Danbury, Ct.

Don’t tackle fishing without the right sort of fishing tackle. Don’t go fishing without going to the right place to buy your fishing fixings.—Central Hardware Co., Frederick, Md.

Goin’ fishin? Tempting price-bait on our Fishing Tackle. Five-piece split Bamboo Trout Rod, $1.38. And everything else catchy.—Linsley & Lightborn, New Haven, Ct.

HAMMOCKS

The hammocks for 1909 are ready. Better than ever. More fine bargains. In a course of years of study of the hammock business this store has come to be generally regarded as hammock headquarters. People have learned to expect most variety of patterns and prices and the best values anywhere. The new stock of hammocks is ready now and we never before had such variety of fine values. All the hammocks in this immense stock were specially made for us of the best materials. They are of generous size and exceedingly pretty. Even in a city backyard a hammock is a very comfortable place to lounge when the sun has gone by, and it may hardly be called a luxury when the best of $1.00 hammocks are 49c.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Once you own a hammock you consider it a necessity. You can find so much comfort in it; so many uses for it. Hang it under a tree; on a veranda; use it at the park; hang it in a room, or anywhere else where there's shade, and then learn how much of summer comfort.—Stoll's, Kenton, O.

Hammock weather is with us again—and our basement is the home of a very choice line made in various ways of the strongest materials—they are all durable, comfortable and handsome—you can't afford to be without one.—Freimuth's, Duluth, Minn.

Comfort in a hammock is at everybody's beck and call. When a hammock can be bought for 90c. a household is losing a mighty big lot of fun if there's no hammock around. Swing it in the bedroom, in basement, on porch or under a tree—it fits anywhere and never fails to suit one's inclination to loll upon a warm day. Airy comfort, with little pay to get it.—Stoll's, New Haven, Conn.

It's not too late to get one yet. There'll be lots of hot days and moonlight nights to enjoy a lawn swing or a hammock.—Gray & Dudley Hardware Co., Nashville, Tenn.

There is no surer way of making yourself comfortable than providing yourself with one of our splendid Palmer hammocks. They combine beauty, luxury and ease. Then, too, they are the nicest that can be made for the money. With one of these you need not fear that your neighbor will have a handsomer hammock than yours. There are no handsomer made.—John W. Graham & Co., Spokane, Wash.

Best to have your hammock conveniently at hand so that no chance for its enjoyment is lost.

Restful inaction in a hammock seems about the summit of happiness when it's swung on the shady side of the piazza or under a spreading tree.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

If you want solid comfort get one of our hammocks, and when tired drop into it.—Ingram & Davey, St. Thomas.

Most likely you need a hammock. There's no doubt but a good, big, roomy hammock is just now a possession worth many times more than it costs. To help you cool off after active exercise—to give you comfort and rest—to minimize your worries and cares—we prescribe a hammock. Some thirty fine new varieties here in the very best makes, including inviting ones at these prices.—Burke, FitzSimons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Droning bee, babbling brook, sweet Mame, and a hammock in a shady nook is what you need to make Sunday a day of rest and bliss. We have hammocks in all grades and at all prices and sell under a guarantee that the goods are as we represent or money refunded.—Cohn Bros., Spokane.

Good news of hammocks.—Vacation days may often be spent most delightfully drawing in a hammock somewhere in the shade. And for the people who appreciate keenly such summer luxury, to-day brings news of five hundred summer hammocks—all bargains.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hammock comfort.—Hammock, book and shady nook picture an ideal way of whiling away hot summer days. If you are economy-wise, you'll procure a hammock in the Basement.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Are hammocks in greater demand or have more people come to the conclusion that hammocks can best be bought at The Store of Satisfaction? A few over three hundred hammocks represent the sales of last year. So far this season we've disposed of between seven and eight hundred and there's a month and a half of brisk selling yet to contemplate. Very good bargains yet await your selection.—W. H. Scroggie, Montreal, Can.

Most likely you need a hammock. There's no doubt that a good, big, roomy hammock is just now a possession worth many times more than it costs. To help you cool off after active exercise—to give you comfort and rest—to minimize your worries and cares—we prescribe a hammock. Some thirty fine new varieties here in the very best makes, including inviting ones at these prices.—Burke, FitzSimons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Hammock time on the porch, under the trees, in the arbor, in the shady part of the yard back of the house—any place will do to string up these hammocks, and loll off in contentment and peace. The hammocks are well made, strong, fast colorings, and in enough styles to keep one busy quite a while making selections. They are all wool, cotton and cotton and wool, some with valance, others without, and with and without pillows.—J. G. Myers Co., Albany, N. Y.

For summer comfort you need a hammock, and you want a good substantial one that will give you a long time of service. That's the kind ours are. Made of the best hammock materials, closely woven and with extra heavy stringing cords to make them better and stronger than most kinds. The designs are new and in many handsome color combinations. Our hammocks are the best and our prices will speak for themselves. Come here before buying a hammock.—Dorsey-Robinson Co., Fresno, Cal.

A finely woven hammock at 79c. Some of the most pleasant days' hammock enjoyments are ahead of you, some in late August and in early autumn. These hammocks at 79c. are big, roomy, comfortable ones; have good, strong spreader and nicely made headrest or pillow. Slightly kinds, too, have deep full valance.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Swing a hammock and enjoy yourself. Now when you can buy a Palmer hammock at 85c.—and you know Palmer makes nothing but the best kinds—you know that you have about reached the limit of good hammock values. This with pillow, spreader and valance, and $1.50 wouldn't be a penny too much for them, to-day, 85c.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Solid comfort—a hammock. $3 hammocks at $2.55 each. Full large sizes; fitted with foot and head spread; comfortable headrest; deep, heavily fringed valance. New patterns in reds, tans, greens, browns and blues. These splendid hammocks are of strong rep and are very attractive in appearance as well as most comfortable in reality.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Ont.

Hammock time. These summer days and moonlight nights suggest quiet nooks and hammocks. Get a hammock for solid comfort. We have the right kind. A new lot of Palmer brand—the largest and most comfortable hammock made. It will hold two. A wide variety of patterns and colors to satisfy the most exacting taste. Fully guaranteed. Remember, these are new goods, new patterns, new designs.—Chambille Cycle Company, Fresno, Cal.

Children enjoy the pleasure which comes from playing in a strong, roomy hammock. There's no danger whatever if the hammock is well made and sold at a price which warrants perfect satisfaction. We have never offered a more tempting line of these favorite swings than you will find in our housefurnishing goods department this season. Made of materials which you will recognize as capable of withstanding hard wear and priced reasonable.—Mandel's, Chicago.

Strong, durable hammocks. Those warm breaths of approaching summer suggest a new hammock. Of course, we needn't remind you that the earlier you get it the more warm days you can use it this season. All these have pillow and spreader. Best cotton weaves that endure, and all in bright colorings.—Eaton's, Toronto, Can.

Palmer's American hammocks. New styles and new prices. In our opinion a comfortable hammock supplies more enjoyment for the amount expended than any other form of summer entertainment. Not necessary to go farther than the confines of your own veranda or lawn to experience the cool comfort of a hammock in the hottest weather. Of the many kinds of hammocks, "Palmer's" easily takes the lead, and our prices show a distinct saving over what you have to pay elsewhere.—Robinson & Co., Winnepeg, Can.

HARNESS, BLANKETS, ETC.

"Jingle, jingle, Bells; jingle all the way; O, what fun to ride and sing in a one-horse open shay." We have the finest line of sleigh bells in all New England. They are awfully jolly, and there is nothing more delightful than speeding over the snow to their rhythmic music. If you go without the bells they are likely to fine you, which isn't agreeable any way you look at it.—Clapp & Treat, Hartford, Conn.

B-r-r-r! One who uses horses must have the right things or, better, he must have the things right. The Wanamaker complement of robes, heaters, plumes, chimes and all things needed on the white highway is about full. The lap robes, in prices ranging from $4.25 to $75, are splendid to look at and thorough wearing. The finest badger wolf furs—warm as a house and very good looking, $75. The Siberian dog robes, in rather more noticeable colors, cost from $30 to $45. The Galloway cow robe is something short of a radiator—so warm—$26. The goat skins come at $12.50. There is an especially large display of plush robes at prices ranging from $4.25 to $50.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

This $35 harness is a style that is most popular with drivers for runabout or light buggy use.

Always a good looking harness, all hand stitched, easy to take care of and satisfactory for all light driving.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Carelessness causes many accidents. It is criminal carelessness to drive an old harness until it causes an accident. Throw away that old harness you are driving, and let us sell you a set of fine double or single driving harness. It may save you an accident.—Black Bros. & Co., Crowley, La.

Harness that is right in style, quality and prices can be had here. You can secure good values and goods that will give the purchaser mutual satisfaction. All the little odds and ends required by the horse owners can be had here in good variety.—Weber Harness and Shoe Finding Co., Walla Walla, Wash.

People who are particular about the kind of a horse they drive should also be particular and get one of our hand-made harnesses. We will make one to suit the horse and you, too, for little more than a ready-made one will cost.—W. H. Wise, Colorado Springs, Col.

Blanket warmth for the horses.—We plan to provide blanket warmth for the equine as well as the human family. For a few days we are making it profitable for you to provide for the horse's comfort. On every number we mention there is a liberal saving.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

A story in four chapters. Chapter I.—We will sell you a bona fide, well made, imported English saddle, at prices that will astonish anyone who knows the value of saddles of English pigskin and English make. Chapter II.—We want you to call and look over a line of light buggy harness that we have just made up. They excel anything in the way of harness ever shown in this city. They are hand made, up-to-date, of the very best oak-tanned leather and the price is right. Chapter III.—We have been selling during the past week a suit case at $3.75. It is a dandy and worth a great deal more, for it is made of good leather and not imitation. All goods sold by us are honest in quality. Chapter IV.—The story of the trunks as told in this chapter should interest everyone. As it is of our own make you can get nothing better. The finest line of Mexican art leather goods in the city.—W. H. Wise, Colorado Springs, Col.

A horseman's life depends in a measure upon the sterling goodness of the harness he buys. Our harness is made in our own factory, the work being turned out under the watchful eyes of a celebrated horseman—Mr. Comerford. It is thoroughly dependable harness, combining every good feature that should enter into harness making.—Macy's, New York.

PHOTOGRAPHIC SUPPLIES

If you have a rollicking good time with a jolly good crowd you will want to make photographs as souvenirs. We will do developing and printing for you, if you wish—do best work in quickest time and for smallest prices.—Fred Loeser & Co., New York.

Photos on cloth. If you would like to print your photographs on a summer pillow or on postal cards or just on any old piece of brown paper, a man will be in the camera store Friday, Saturday and Monday to show how easy it is. The preparations used are: Seuro, for blue prints, 25c. a package; azpiol, for brown prints, 75c. a package. Bring a negative and have a print made.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We Supply Camera Needs.—Old Sol has been very stingy with the opportunities he has given you to practice photography so far this summer. Let us hope for more pleasant days in future, and meanwhile “make hay while the sun shines.” Devotees of the camera will find every want supplied here. Every essential for those who have mastered the mysteries of the dark-room is provided. Or if you like, we will finish your pictures for you. Those who would join the ranks of amateur photographers will find cameras here of every sort and price.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Amateur photography. Nothing so fascinating, always interesting; certainly an innocent amusement. Kodaks at all prices, from little Brownies at $2 and $3 to any price you care to go. A kodak takes your mind off the heat, and makes your summer a continuous holiday. Even a cheap camera will give you lots of pleasure—and they're educative, too. Makes long winter evenings pleasant to both the family and the guest. Have you seen the new Premograph. Takes 3 1-4 x 4 1-4 in. pictures. Films by mail anywhere with 2c. stamp.—Lee & Sargent, Montreal.

The kodak; it fits all hobbies. Whatever one's hobby may be—automobiling, driving, golfing, yachting, or traveling—he can get more out of it by having pictures of all that pertains to it. And then there are the home pictures, the children, the thousand-and-one little interests of daily life. There are pictures everywhere, pictures worth the keeping, pictures that will be prized more highly every year. And in making them the kodaker is bound by no hard-and-fast rule. You may make the exposures and leave the developing and printing to us, or you may do all the work after purchasing the little anti-dark room needs at our photo supply store.—J. W. Graham & Co., Spokane, Wash.

“Vanity of vanities,” saith the preacher, “all is vanity.” True it was in Solomon's time, but that was long before the time of photograph making. Had he seen any photograph developed and finished here he would have been struck by its beauty. You can get a dozen for a mere trifle. Your friends want them. Have them taken without delay. We're ready whenever you call.—The Aker's Studio, Hartford, Conn.

RIFLES, REVOLVERS, ETC.

If you are at all interested in knowing the kinds of double or single barrel shotguns that are safe and reliable, you should call at our store, and examine our stock, and learn the inducements we offer to secure your trade.—Callahan & Douglas, Binghamton.

Some facts about guns should prove interesting at this time. The season for gunning is here. The sportsman is overhauling his outfit, if he has one, or figuring on purchasing, if he has not. We carry a very fine line of sporting guns of every style—shotguns and repeating rifles of the latest design and most perfect construction. They are the production of high class makers. Browning automatic repeater (hunting gun) five shot can be fired without re-loading.—J. P. Bertrand, Quebec.

Great Guns! Hunting Season!—The season for chicken and duck hunting will soon be here, and you will always find us here with one of the largest lines of first class guns and sporting goods in Stevens County.—E. J. Jones Lumber Company, Morris, Minn.

You want to know what you are getting when you buy a gun. A poor one is of no use to anyone. A good one is a source of great pleasure. We don't intend to sell poor guns at all. We carry the very best make and a very large stock of them. It is a part of our business that we take especial interest in and we buy with great care. We guarantee every gun we sell. If you should get one that is not satisfactory, all you have to do is to bring it back. Take a look at our gun department when you are in Sherman.—Hardwicke & Etter, Sherman, Tex.

The good shooter's aim—a Hudson's Bay gun. The good shooter always takes to the Hudson's Bay gun, and if you ask him why—he has many good reasons. None but the gun specialist can fully appreciate and enjoy the superior points of the gun that "hits the mark" in every way. We invite you to consult our specialist in the gun section. He will be pleased to meet you—and demonstrate the beautiful points of our different lines.—Hudson's Bay Co., Winnipeg, Can.

"You may fire when you're ready" is what Dewey said to his chief gunner when he entered Cavite Bay. What if his ammunition had been of a poor quality and his gunnery not up to the standard? He probably wouldn't have given that important order with such coolness. But Dewey knew that his powder had been kept dry, that it was fresh and effective, and that every gun was properly charged; that every man at the guns was brave and steady and a "dead shot." Just so when you go hunting. If you have confidence in the gun you're shooting and confidence that the ammunition you shoot is loaded right and of the very best quality, you've got half the battle won. We want to talk to you about reliable guns and dependable ammunition.—McClung, Buffat & Buckwell, Knoxville, Tenn.

Guns, Revolvers and Hunting Clothing. Revolvers are good things to have in the house. Guns are in use at this season with hundreds of sportsmen who find Long Island waters provide some of the best sport in the East. Proper hunting clothing makes shooting more than ever a pleasure. Supplies of these things that are reliable and at the same time modestly priced may be had here in the Loeser basement.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Guns. Our guns are the very best make and we sell them at prices lower than ever before. We have guns from $5.00 to $80.00. Call and compare them with the other guns that are on the market. Guns sold on easy payments. Gymnasium clothing. We carry a large line of gymnasium clothing of all kinds. Call and we will show you our line.—The E. H. Towle Co., Waterbury, Conn.

The gunning season is here and the hunter is making good use of it. You can't help bringing home plenty of game if you have our kind of guns and loaded shells.—Robinson & Spellman.

We're busy selling hunting supplies because our stocks are complete in all lines and we sell high-quality goods. Prices also are a winning feature every time. If you're going out for one day or a month let us fit you out in proper equipment to ensure a successful trip. Note our prices.—Ashdown's, Winnipeg, Can.

SKATES

At the new skating rink (Noyes Island), hundreds of ladies and gentlemen are enjoying themselves daily. At this, the finest of all outdoor winter sports, nearly all the best skaters are buying the "U. S." club, hockey or racing skates at our store. Our line of skates for ladies is especially attractive—prices 75c. and up, and the men's line of hockey skates is the most complete to be found in the city—prices $1.00 and up.—Callahan & Douglas, Binghamton, N. Y.

Good Skating Now.—We have just received a new stock of skates. Lovers of this sport will find our prices right. We'll be glad to show you goods and name prices at any time.—Woodruff's, Knoxville, Tenn.

The cold weather has come early, and the chances are that we'll have lots of skating before Christmas. Every boy and girl who wants skates will want them quick, as soon as our red ball is hung out.—The John E. Bassett Company, New Haven, Conn.

Sleds.—Strong, serviceable sleds are wanted by the boys—and girls, too. We can furnish them in all sizes. No weak sleds with soles tacked on. All our sleds are extra braced and have heavy steel soles. Beauty is not sacrificed in making these sleds and coasters durable.—Allott-Kryder Hardware Company, Alliance, O.

Ice Skates. Your boys and girls will enjoy a pair of our fine ice skates this bracing weather. We have an unusually attractive line of these goods, suited in style and price to any one's wishes—from 60c. for plain to the best made at $3.25. Skate sharpeners 25c. each. Skate straps 5c. and 10c. each.—W. B. Miller & Son, Springfield, Ill.

Ice skates. This cold weather gives one a chance to enjoy this sport of all sports. We've such a large assortment and the prices are so varied that a visit to our store is the best way to prove to you that our stock is unquestionably the largest in the city. Our prices right, too.—F. S. Katzenbach & Co., Trenton.

Ice skating is best because it combines fresh air with healthful exercise and fortifies the body against prevailing epidemics. Klipper Klub skates are made from finest tempered steel, keep their sharpness, and come in all sizes, for men, women, boys and girls. 60c. a pair up.—Gunster Bros., Scranton, Pa.

Ladies' Beaver skates. One of the best makes and exceedingly popular—sold a lot of them this season; highly polished heavy nickel plate on good quality steel, well finished, light and strong.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

Ice skating creates keen enjoyment if only the skater has a first class pair of skates, well sharpened. We have solved the skate problem. By combining high quality and attractively low prices, our Klipper Klub skates are making a name for themselves and more business for us. 60c. pair up.—Gunster Bros., Scranton.

Five dollar Starr tube skates for $3.60. This is one of the neatest and lightest tube skates on the market, and sells regularly for $5.00—$3.60 is less than the wholesale price but we are overstocked. All sizes. Also broken lines of Mic-Macs, Dominion Beauty, etc., at actual costs. Indian hand made and Ash-down special hockey sticks, regular 40c. each. Our price, 10c., or 3 for 25c.—Empire Cycle Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Skates at a low price. Don't fail to examine our line of skates if in need of a pair. All are high grade and at a price that is extremely low.—Lafferty's, Springfield, Ohio.

Winter sports. Things look promising for a carnival season of skating, snowshoeing, tobogganing, etc. Our sporting goods department on the third floor is fully equipped with every essential for the enjoyment of every form of winter sport.—Scroggie's, Montreal.

The clink of the steel will be heard on all nearby ponds and lakes for the next few days, if the weather holds. New skates needed? Get them here. Come in this afternoon if you have time, or to-morrow. All the best ice skates are here in the best assortment of styles.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

There are two ways of grinding skates, known as the hard finish and the oil finish. With the hard finish the skates stick a trifle at first. The oil finish leaves the skates smooth and it will glide over the ice easily without the breaking-in process. The next time you have your skates ground state whether hard or oil finish.—Lyons & Company.

We are in receipt of a new lot of these famous skates and are in a position to fill all orders. Any size desired may be had, as we carry a complete line.—A. M. Bell & Co., Halifax, N. S.

ART NEEDLE WORK

Photographic pillow tops. Think of anything nicer to give than a Cushion or Pillow with your own or some other picture on? We can take any single or group picture, not smaller than 3 x 3 inches and enlarge it to 8 x 10, then have it printed directly on the sensitized material in such a manner that all the brilliancy of the original is retained and the pillow can be washed, too. This process lends itself especially well to the reproduction of school and college views, football and baseball teams, musical clubs, fraternity houses and crests, portraits, or any sort of buildings or scenes to which interest is attached.

Good results can be obtained from kodak pictures, half tones, souvenir postals or drawings. These pillow tops are actual photographic reproductions on fine prepared satine and possess all the beautiful tones and qualities seen only in the most expensive work, yet the price is less than it would to have a photograph enlarged to the same size. Come in and see examples of this novelty, which is especially desirable for holiday gifts. Pillow tops with reproduction of one picture, $1.50 each. Additional pictures on the same top extra.—Geo. M. Snook Co., Wheeling, W. Va.

One can never cease to marvel at the delicacy of this Mexican drawn work, to wonder at its inexpensiveness. How is it possible that such deftly trained fingers demand so little for their labor.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

Art embroidery. A houseful of pretty little nothings so delightful to take about, to kill time with and make the room pretty with.—Wanamaker's, New York.

A dainty doily and handkerchief nice enough for anybody; price is, actual cost, 48 cents. Only one of each sold at this price to same person.—Mexican Drawnwork Exchange, El Paso, Texas.

French hand-made underwear. Heart and hand needlework. Not the stitchings of midnight weariness; but the easy art and beauty of idle hours' pastime or thriftiness. The maiden stitches while thinking of her lover, far away; or while waiting for her father to come from the field. No hurry, no time service—just the French characteristic of thrift.

The gathering of it is slow—it takes a year to bring a stock like this.

A specially attractive lot came our way lately—the pickings that a gatherer saved for show. His stock sold, he gave us the samples at a liberal cut; and they're on sale in the Little French Store today; and prices are down this way, while they're here.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

House slippers.—The time for their appreciation is at hand. We have two kinds, the made and the unmade. The ready-to-wear kinds are made of good heavy yarns, closely crocheted, with warm flexible soles.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Belt novelties. The season's over-makes of a large belt manufacturer on the "other side"—but we have told that story before. Even at these splendid values quantity was so large as to preclude the possibility of all being sold in a single day. They include Mexican drawn work and the highest efforts of needle artist in their selection which is equally as good as it was on Tuesday.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

The unique position attained by our January sales as the foremost merchandising events in this country has been gained solely on the ground of value giving. Beginning in a modest way many years ago, these sales have each year become more widely known and more widely patronized. Each year has brought signal progress in our preparations. Last year it seemed that the assortments and values had reached a degree of perfection beyond which it was not commercially possible to go at that time; but another year's experience and another year's careful planning have resulted in still further improvements. Newer and more original styles have been developed in embroidery and art needle craft. These sales afford the best opportunity of the year for making selections from the fullest stocks and in saving money on those selections in the lines represented in these great annual January sales.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Toilet articles at prices extraordinarily low. Figures like these speak for themselves and especially in our articles requiring high class needle work.—Hearn, New York.

AUTOMOBILES

Knox owners don't worry. They are the cheerfulest set of motorists in the world. They know their cars will carry them wherever they point them, and they feel absolutely certain when they go forth that they will return. The men who buy the Knox car are men who want a gentleman's car—a car that is at once reliable and dignified. They do not want a racing car. Not at all. They have as much contempt for the smart aleck on the road as the "Hartford Courant" or any other sensible intelligence. They want a car that is easy to run and easy to ride. Therefore they want the Knox. We are a small dealer, in that we make no fantastic pretensions to supremacy in the automobile field or activity. Still we have some hundred Knox automobile owners in this city. And there will be more before there are less.—S. A. Miner, Hartford, Conn.

After you've bought your car is a bad time to look into the facts. You'd better know before hand whether its speed is real speed or a mere interesting ideal; whether it will respond quickly and safely in your own hands and give you genuine comfort all the time at a nominal expense; or whether it needs a skilled chauffeur to guide it; a plumber to mend it and a fortune to keep it going and pay for tires. These are the practical problems solved by Franklin engineering. We would like to demonstrate to your own satisfaction that it gives the highest actual all-around ability in proportion to cost yet obtained in motor cars.—American Automobile Storage Co., New York.

The Great Chicago Automobile Show opens next Saturday. If you are going, keep in mind that we have the latest in the electric line right here. Before you purchase or commit yourself, be sure that your choice meets your ideal. The best way to be sure of the quality and capability of your car is to test it. All we ask is that you call and let us demonstrate. Remember, that we have a few surprising things to tell you about.—The Electric Vehicle & Supply Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

The perfect simplicity and scientific design of Reo cars save expensive complications and give even endurance and most "go" for the least fuel and tire tension. All this makes them economical to run as well as to buy.

The entire mechanism is self-contained; all valves and working parts are encased and run in oil, protected from dust and mud; all bearings are especially large and the mechanism is reinforced by steel drop forgings, the finest tool-steel and the best anti-friction metal. The radiator is vibration-proof; the transmission practically unbreakable, and the lubricating system perfect.—Reo Motor Car Co., Lansing, Mich.

The Oldsmobile new improved standard runabout costs practically nothing for repairs with intelligent handling. It is the best 7 h. p. automobile ever built. See one—don't buy until you do—then buy it and get all your money's worth. It beats anything on the market—the climax of automobile building.—W. S. Dulmage, Spokane, Wash.

Here are the newest lines, side entrance to tonneau, effective looking hood, in fact, everything that a man or woman admires in an automobile. The car is really a Wanamaker production. For a long time we have been working with the Ford Company to have them make an up-to-date side-entrance car, fitted with their famous 10 h. p. Ford motor, to sell at a popular price. First they declared it impossible, but now the cars are here. Nowhere is there an equal car, either in appearance or efficiency, at anything like the price.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

When you buy a Studebaker automobile—either electric or gasoline—you are buying a car backed by a name that you know. You have in that car the final result in power, surety and safety, combined with a thoroughness in construction—symbolized only by the name of Studebaker. We believe the thinking purchaser of an automobile will realize that there is something in such a statement backed by the Studebaker reputation, well worth a call at the Studebaker warerooms.—Studebaker, New York, N. Y.

No distance is too long, no road too steep, for one of these splendid courers. Wherever the spot be it will carry you thither, and then, untired and unimpaired, it will bring you safely back. Like an immense ribbon, curling and curving and undulating, the white roadway glides beneath you and disappears, only to open up new fields of beauty, new vistas of delight with which the senses are never sated. Unequaled for service, safety and satisfaction.—Smith & Mabley, New York, N. Y.

Every part of a motor car must work together. Not only the motor, or the transmission or the carbureter, but every part. The car must stand wear and tear of use. Must have plenty of power to climb hills. It must take you along as fast as you want to go. Must be easy to start, stop and control. Dependable under all circumstances it must be. It must leave you nothing to watch. The Cadillac measures up to all these standards. It's the car that expert motorists recommend. It's the car for you. Catalog is yours for the asking. Demonstration for the coming for it.—O. H. Dietrick & Co., Allentown.

Don't forget that the same clean-cut practical mechanism and perfect lubrication which helped Reo cars to win the recent great hill-climbing contests, and to make their remarkable economy showing in the Glidden tour, are a constant saving of time, expense and annoyance every hour of every day they are in use. You don't have to be continually tinkering, oiling and adjusting Reo cars. They are easy to repair; but, better still, they are easy not to repair.—Reo Motor Car Co., New York, N. Y.

The same old demonstrating car that won the hill-climbing contest to-day had the honor of defeating all local American cars on the Hamline track; another reason why Thomas owners feel proud of their cars, and others continue to join the Thomas army, rather than "take Thomas dust." Only a few more 1905 cars to be had.—Barclay Auto Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

More healthful, out-of-doors enjoyment can be had from the new improved Oldsmobile runabout than from the same money spent in any other way. All the annoying automobile uncertainties that may have prevented you from buying a machine have been overcome to the smallest detail in this strong, handsome, reliable car. Its price of $650.00 (including lamps and horn) f. o. b. factory, puts it in a class by itself—there is no other runabout that compares with its efficiency and satisfaction for at least a half more money. For business purposes it saves time enough to pay for itself in about a year. Even after running it for a year or so it has a cash value so great you cannot afford not to invest in one now.—Winston & Walker, Minneapolis.

We have received, sold and delivered two carloads of popular runabouts during the last week; this has proven to be an A1 seller because it has the style, is strongly built and has all the power you want under any condition. Let us give you a demonstration. Prompt deliveries.—Northwestern Motor Vehicle Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

As a business proposition a Waltham-Orient is the safest car to buy because it is a typical Waltham product. It is designed by the highest salaried engineers in America, men with years of experience in the French factories and it is built with the exactness and care that "Waltham" stands for. There is Waltham accuracy in every detail. The result is an almost noiseless car, free from vibration, possessing ample power, and so easily controlled and operated that a chauffeur is superfluous. The engine is the latest upright, four cylinder type. Positive air-cooled by a powerful four-bladed fan. The car is entirely free from the weight and complications of water-cooling.—Mohawk Valley Motor Car Co., Utica, N. Y.

Accessibility.—When you raise the bonnet of the Franklin, you can put your hand on every important working part—the engine—every part of it—the transmission, the oil-pump and tank, the dynamo. Every wire and every terminal is right in plain sight. No lifting of the floor in front or back; no getting under the car; no disturbing the passengers; no unnecessary delay or trouble or dirt.—H. H. Franklin Co., Syracuse, N. Y.

The Oldsmobile has more than enough power for ordinary use, and always enough for extraordinary conditions. It will go over all kinds of roads—it is the only runabout that has been driven across the American continent. The Oldsmobile develops seven horse-power with its 5x6 cylinder and weighs 1100 lbs. Buy an Oldsmobile and get the most power for each 100 lbs. weight—the only true way to measure an automobile's efficiency. The price is only $650.00—and it is worth it.—Olds Motor Works, Detroit.

Every Cadillac develops 9 1-2 horse-power under the most rigid brake test. That its engine is a wonder for power and endurance has been repeatedly shown by many unusual tests—as when the Cadillac climbed the Capitol steps at Washington (we have the photograph), and at another time, when it ascended the steep stone steps of the County Court House at Detroit (we have the photograph), and then drew five tons of railroad iron up a heavy grade (we have the photograph). A machine that does these things so easily cannot possibly fail to meet the severest requirements of the road. The Cadillac never fails. Come and look. Let us take you out for a spin. We will enjoy showing you the car and you will know all about it before we return. Call, write, send telephone—any way to let us know when to expect you.—Cadillac Company, New York, N. Y.

You've seen big, showy cars—pretentious in body—clattering noisily up a hill on the low gear—like taking a freight elevator to the sixteenth floor. The idea has gone out of date. Henry Ford exploded it. He brought out cars of ample size; but built the bodies, as well as other parts, light in weight; and put in motors of ample power. Now Ford cars are the "greyhounds" of the road. They take hills on the high gear. They are noiseless, vibrationless—easy to run, and inexpensive to operate.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

The speediest and most powerful run-about on the market—has an abundance of power, yet it runs smoothly and quietly as a sewing machine—the only run-about that shows up well on bad roads and hills. Get a demonstration and you will buy the car.—Northwestern Motor Vehicle Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

To cool an engine by water instead of air is wrong, unnecessary, and costs a lot of money. It costs you power; a heavy water-cooling system and the water itself use up part of your power. It costs you trouble; leakage, freezing and bursting of pipes, delay, repair-cost, loss of time and pleasure. No such trouble with the Franklin.—Walter Richards, Trenton, N. J.

In buying an automobile does reliability count with you? If so, we should be glad to give you a ride of Reliability—"A Haynes-Apperson Ride." We can guarantee good deliveries. "Get all the good out of an automobile by first getting one with all the good in it."—Brooklyn Automobile Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Buffalo Electric Stanhope. For business, it is the best vehicle in existence. It easily does the work of three horses at about one-sixth the cost of maintenance. It can be left at your place of business without worry. For pleasure, it so far excels other makes that words are difficult to find for comparison. It will carry you fifty miles with one change of battery, which is about as far as anyone not a "fiend" wishes to travel. For social calls, it is perfection. The daintiest toilette is safe in it—there is no oily, greasy machinery, nor ill-smelling smoke. It will enable you to fulfill more social obligations in a day than three teams, and besides, it's

What do most people know about automobiles? Buy a Remington Automobile and you will know its name is back of your choice.—Remington Auto and Motor Co., Utica, N. Y.

Tested reliability and ease of control make it of service to every member of the family. For pure enjoyment and solid comfort, the Oldsmobile meets the requirements of business and pleasure alike.—Olds Motor Co., Lansing, Mich.

Ease of Control. No other automobile is so easy to manage as a Cadillac. Simple mechanism, powerful brake, reliable, noiseless speed gear, and accurate steering apparatus make the Cadillac an easily controlled car at all times, and under all conditions.—Cadillac Company, New York.

One thing and one thing only, makes possible the manufacture of the Lambert Car at a cost permitting us to sell it at the low price we do.

This one thing is the simple Lambert Friction Drive transmission, of which the Scientific American has said: "The simplicity of this device is as great as its antiquity. Its cost of maintenance is extremely low, while its reliability is very great."

The cost of producing this most efficient (proven) transmission is so much lower than the cost of any type of the complicated gear transmission that we can—and do—put more real automobile worth into every Lambert Car than the manufacturer of any gear-transmission car can give for the same money.—Buckeye Mfg. Co., Anderson, Ind.

We know that our car will do the work as well and give just as good satisfaction as the extravagantly high-priced one. The men who know what an automobile is built for declare the enduring qualities of this car unsurpassed.—Auburn Auto Co., Auburn.

Do not confuse us with the ordinary dealer in second-hand cars, but investigate our methods. All our cars are overhauled by good mechanics in our well-equipped shop. Our work is guaranteed. We have been at this business since 1899 and we know how.—Nyberg Auto Works, Chicago, Ill.

A remarkable car for little money. A car which has a lot of good points; so many, in fact, that printer's ink tells only half the story—a story well worth listening to, if you want a run for your money. The Moline Nineteen-Niner.—Moline Auto Co., E. Moline, Ill.

AUTO SUPPLIES

Big savings on auto supplies.—There may be a few who insist on squandering money on the horseless vehicle, but they are few. The only frills about our auto department are the stunning effects in the shape of auto supplies, and the charm of it all is you can save dollars even on a small purchase. Suppose you see our supply department!—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

In the optical store, on the main floor, you will find, perhaps, the most complete collection of automobile goggles in the whole city—and you will find them at prices which are remarkably little. The lenses are ground crystals in every instance. Pressed glass lenses are sure to focus and may easily do considerable damage to the eyes of the person wearing them. These are fitted with ground crystals which are interchangeable in case of breakage and they are mounted with silk of different colors so that they will collapse into very small space. The lenses are clear white and different tints of London smoke which makes a glaring white road more bearable.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The approaching automobile show heightens interest in everything appertaining thereto. Automobilists will find in our second floor clothing sections a wide range of specialties in serviceable automobile wear, in absolutely correct styles. We desire to draw attention to the superior values we offer in women's leather, rubber and corduroy coats, and in various styles of men's leather coats, and cloth or leather automobile caps.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Great care should be exercised in the selection of oil for lubricating automobiles. One of the best brands on the market is the Packard, made by the Havoland Oil Co., which is for sale at the Lewis Garage, Exchange street, Binghamton, N. Y.

Baldwin Improved Chains are the best in design and excellent in accuracy and workmanship. The Clip A is easier to remove and replace than a cotta pin. It will not cut off or come off, and can be replaced several times.—Baldwin Chain Co., Worcester, Mass.

There are other Tires on the market that probably look from outside appearance to be as good as the G. & J. But if you will get sections of the different tires on the market and carefully compare the quality of rubber, the friction and general construction, you will find there is a difference, and after this comparison you will not wonder why so many are specifying G. & J. Tires on their cars for 1909.—G. & J. Tire Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Grinnell "Rist-Fit" Ventilated Auto Gloves are the only gloves which have the patented "Rist-Fit." The "V" of soft leather set in the cuff permits the strap or tape to draw the glove snugly about the wrist, keeping up the gauntlet and excluding dust or dirt.—Morrison-Ricker Co., Grinnell, Iowa.

No bumps, no jolts, no jars! Just an easy glide—that's all. It makes no difference how many so-called shock absorbers you have used, you don't know one-half the joys of automobiling unless you have tried Thomas Shock Absorbers—they're simply wonderful. Thomas Shock Absorbers positively eliminate upthrow. This means easier riding—more speed—less wear on tires—no broken springs, and fewer repairs.—Buffalo Specialty Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

Buy Panhard Oil—"The Oil in the Checkerboard Can."

It's the oil that saves your motor, contains no carbon to carbonize in your cylinders, prevents pounding, saves the expense of the repair shop. Only one quality—the best—three grades.—Geo. A. Haws, New York.

Unless your car has perfect lubrication, your gasoline is used for friction instead of miles of speed. The use of Vacuum Mibiloil save the wear of your car, the waste of gasoline, and most of the money that goes for repairs.—Syracuse Motor Car Co., Syracuse, N. Y.

Any old plug is good enough for any old plug of a car, but mileage interests the owners of high class Motors. Flash Light Plugs have given 15,000 miles without removing from the cylinders and were then ready for a trip around the world.—Journey, Steinmetz & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

AWNINGS

These awnings are guaranteed to work easily, and can be put up or taken down in two minutes after the eye-screws are in place because of the patent head and slide rods. They are noiseless in the wind, and the coverings are of a high quality striped duck; colors warranted not to run.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Awning materials at half price.—We are ready to make and put up your awnings any time you say—in a hurry. Just now is a particularly favorable time, for we have reduced prices by one-half on about a thousand yards of awning materials, in 5 to 30 yards of a pattern—enough for one to four windows.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Give your porch the air of welcome—"cool" welcome, so to speak—have it shaded with awnings and Vudor screens; have it covered with "Crex" or matting rugs; have it comfortable with deep-seated, high-backed, luxurious chairs.—Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

A summer porch isn't giving full value without an awning. An awning not only shuts out the direct rays of the sun, but the reflected glare from the street as well. It gives a soft light to a room and admits all the breeze there is, while it cuts off the sun. Let our awning man call upon you and talk awnings—no harm done if you don't decide to put one up.—Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

A good time to buy awnings is right now. You'll never need awnings more than you will through August, and we can get them up for you in a hurry if you'll order right away.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Put Up Your Awnings.—You won't lose much time, even if you haven't ordered them, if you'll let us attend to them to-day. Write or telephone us, and we will send a man at once to take measures and give an estimate. We use only best materials and strongest frames, and put them together in expert manner. We are as well equipped to supply a whole hotel, office building, or apartment house as a single window.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Adjustable Awnings.—Will fit any window from 2 feet 6 inches to 4 feet wide, and only four screw eyes are necessary to secure them. Specially desirable for summer cottages, as they may be put up and taken down without much effort.—The 14th Street Store, New York, N. Y.

Need any awnings? We're putting up more awnings this season than ever before. People who are posted say our prices are a bit lower and our workmanship a good deal better than other awning makers.—Keely Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Need any awnings? We make all sorts—for residences, stores and office buildings—and make them right. Sun's getting pretty warm these days, and the summer awnings should be in use. If you haven't had yours put up yet, phone for one of our awning experts to come out and take measurements. He'll bring samples of the best line of awning materials in town and quote very low prices. We guarantee workmanship and fittings to be of highest quality.—Keely Co., Atlanta, Ga.

It is quite natural to put off the ordering of hot weather comforts till the time when the hot weather comes. But then all is hurry, and delays cannot be avoided. Those who are always thoughtful of these conditions have already made our workrooms busy. If you are in need of awnings, screens, shades, slip covers or the recreating of old furniture drop us a card and we will send an expert to your home with samples, ideas and estimates.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Awnings always reduce the temperature as well as reduce the glare. Our assortment of materials is unsurpassed anywhere—work the best and prices the lowest.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Have your awnings put up and your slip covers made—now. The scorching rays of the sun will make you hurry and bustle when real summer weather strikes the town. Better have your awnings made and put up, then when you really need them they're ready. We make more slip covers, better slip covers and more moderately priced than anywhere else in this borough. If you desire, you may select the material, and measurements and style of making will be followed out from your own plan. Shades made to your order, all the best materials, put together in the best manner, and made to fit the windows exactly.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

BANKS

KANSAS CITY—A bank in this city has inaugurated a feature that is making a hit with the women depositors, and is getting considerable business away from other banking houses. A shrewd official noticed that most women carried their money in the bosom of their dress or in another place, harder to reach—their stocking. To get the money after reaching the bank they were forced to watch for an opportunity when no men were around, turn their back and, with a sudden dive, get the bills from their hosiery. To overcome this he opened the “stocking room.”

The women are enthusiastic. They retire to the room, which is neatly arranged, remain as long as they desire, and emerge with the amount to be deposited in their hands.

Every dollar deposited with us is safeguarded by approved and up-to-date methods. Every patron of this bank is accorded courteous treatment and the most liberal terms consistent with sound banking.—Exchange National Bank, Spokane, Wash.

Men strive to acquire property so that when they have passed away their families may enjoy the fruits of their labor. It is, therefore, wise to select for the careful distribution of your fortune, an executor of established experience and responsibility. We act in this capacity.—Springfield Savings Bank, Springfield.

Instantly available. Money deposited on a savings account should always be looked upon as put away for the future and the successful saver will not touch his savings except for some really pressing need. However, one of the objects of a savings account is to provide for emergencies and it is practically subject to instant call at any time. To protect itself in times of panic this bank has a provision that it can demand notice for withdrawals, but this is not enforced nor will it be except in the most unusual circumstances. At all ordinary times money can be withdrawn on demand.—Spokane & Eastern Trust Co., Spokane, Wash.

There is wonderful strength and great satisfaction of mind in a bank account. When you know absolutely that you have money in the bank against a rainy day—you don't know how good you feel. And it is surprisingly easy to accumulate, once you've started. Bring down all your money and start an account—then add to it, slowly but surely—and watch it grow.—The Fourth National Bank, Montgomery, Ala.

Suppose you save one-quarter of all you make? Just think of what such a system would have done for you had you commenced it five years ago! But cheer up—it isn't too late. Simply make up your mind that you will live on three-quarters of your earnings and that you will put the other fourth in the bank every week. The dollars will pile up surprisingly. Try it. Now is the time to open the bank account. Start to-day with the Montgomery Bank & Trust Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Pay all your bills by check. In this way you will be able to know to the penny the exact amount of the cost of your living, and always have the best kind of a receipt in the returned and endorsed check. We will extend to you every facility.—The People's Savings Bank, Zanesville, Ohio.

Safety and income are the two primary considerations in choosing a savings bank. An account with this bank is as safe as government bonds, and draws four per cent. interest, compounded semi-annually. Begin saving to-day.—Equitable Savings Bank, Los Angeles, Cal.

Permanent solidity. This bank is solid as a rock, because: It puts safety first; it takes no speculative chances; it is conservative in all its investments, putting every dollar of the money of its savings depositors into bonds, warrants and first mortgages on real estate. These are the kind of securities that are safe and solid, to-day, to-morrow, and fifty years from now. Your savings should be so safeguarded.—Spokane & Eastern Trust Co., Spokane, Wash.

Poor Richard said: "'Tis better to spare and have than to spend and crave." Does any one doubt the wisdom of his words? Look around you to-day and you will see on every side examples of men who, during their working years, spent their incomes regardless of the future, and now in their declining years they are in sore need of those comforts which should be the portion of the aged. Likewise in the same communities you will find men surrounded with plenty, and they're the ones who, although starting life under the same conditions as the class above mentioned, regularly saved a portion of their earnings in order that when they could no longer rely on their talents for a steady income they would have a harvest stored up which would insure peace and plenty for their later years. Have you thought this over? Have you taken stock of the future? If not, consider the matter now and start right by getting acquainted with this bank, for here is the safest and surest place to store the results of your saving. Your money here will always be at your command and besides will work for you night and day, as we pay you three per cent. interest on all deposits. Start to-day. The bank for all the people.—The Lansing State Savings Bank, Lansing, Mich.

The continued growth of this department is the best evidence of its popularity with those who want fullest measure of economy and convenience in their shopping. They enjoy every benefit of our cash system and our famously low prices and at the same time they have the convenience of having their purchases charged. We send them a detailed statement once a month, and on their balances we allow them four per cent. interest annually, compounded every three months. Money so deposited can be withdrawn at a moment's notice.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

The strength of a financial institution lies in its capital—its assets, its honorable history and ability, character and standing of the men who conduct its affairs. Possessing all these qualities in an eminent degree, this bank invites additions to its list of customers and offers the best service alike to those of large and small means. One dollar will start an account—pays dividends on all deposits.—Sacramento Bank, Sacramento.

Savings bank luck. When some man takes a sudden step up in the world, a lot of people say "Luck." Probably he worked and saved a long time to get ready for that step up. There is more savings, bank luck than any other kind, and the best of it is that you can make it for yourself by opening an account here and depositing regularly. We add four per cent. interest, and assure you of safety by lending only on Cleveland homes.—The Cleveland Savings & Loan Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

The secret of success isn't tied up in the sphinx—it's an open way to any wide awake observer. Russell Sage saved his first dollar and ultimately saved upwards of one hundred millions. Deposit your savings here, get the three per cent. interest we allow—that compounded quarterly—and reap the reward of thrift. Four per cent. on $1000 and over. Deposits received from $1 up.—Union Savings Bank, Mobile, Ala.

Saving. It's easy to save—merely a matter of spending less than you earn. Keeps growing easier, too—becomes surprisingly easy after you've practiced it a while. People fall into the habit of spending money thoughtlessly and imagine they cannot save. Cultivate thoughtfulness and carefulness and you're bound to save. Open an account to-day—there's protection, encouragement and satisfaction in a saving account.—Montgomery Bank & Trust Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Valuable, efficient banking service. The First National Bank of Binghamton has rendered valuable and efficient banking service to its many thousand depositors and clients, who have found safety and satisfaction in transacting their banking business with this institution.—The First National Bank, Binghamton, N. Y.

The right move is sometimes hard to make, but in the end when you have profited by it you realize the value of overcoming its difficulties. In the practice of thrift and the acquiring of the saving habit the right move, and the first one, is to start a bank account. This may not be easy at first, for with your money in the bank instead of your pocket the many little expenditures will have to cease—if you would make your bank account profitable. But after you have gotten into the habit of coming regularly to the bank, your savings, together with the three per cent. interest they earn, will show results that cannot fail to satisfy you. The bank for all the people.—Lansing State Savings Bank, Lansing, Mich.

Do you pay interest or installments on a municipal debt at stated times? If so, why don't you establish a sinking fund by opening an account in our savings department, which will draw three per cent.

interest and help you take care of your payments when due, and thus lighten your burden of debt.—Lexington Bank & Trust Co., Lexington, Ky.

A bank account, like everything else, must have a beginning. If you are thinking of opening an account, do not delay the step until you have accumulated a considerable sum. One dollar or more will do as a starter. The rest will come more easily than the first hundred. Do it now.—The Will County National Bank, Joliet, Ill.

Money loaned on household furniture and left undisturbed. Now you can avail yourself of this advantage immediately because only the lowest rates charged which enables you to not only help yourself conveniently, as well as confidently, but you can repay us in easy installments to suit your income—either weekly or monthly. Come in and see us anyway, it costs you nothing. Information free. We'll send to you if you like.—Home Loan Co.

A prosperous bank. The First National Bank extends courteous and liberal treatment to every depositor, whether the account be large or small. That is why this bank is growing each day in strength and public favor.—The First National Bank, Binghamton, N. Y.

One hundred and fourteen years—1792-1906. During all this time the Hartford Bank has stood for the best in financial matters and methods. It has been here a long time, but its outlook was never more brilliant and encouraging than today. Its great strength, its attitude toward the public, and its treatment of patrons, are the controlling factors in its growth. If you do business through the Hartford Bank you are safe.—The Hartford National Bank, Hartford, Conn.

We regard the liberal interest we pay you on deposits as a dividend—your just share of the profits derived from the safe, conservative investment of your funds. Yet your capital is available at all times.—Equitable Savings Bank, Los Angeles, Cal.

This is your time—take it—to start a bank account. Don't procrastinate—do it now. You can do without luxuries today that will buy necessities twenty years hence. By depositing dollars with us you not only save them but add to them four per cent. interest every twelve months, and to that the compound interest we also allow four times a year. Get your first dollar in to-day.—The Equitable Bldg. Co., Zanesville, Ohio.

Have you standing in the community? There is nothing under the sun that will establish you on a basis of credit so quickly as a bank account. There is nothing that will destroy that credit more surely than to draw checks against money that is not already in the bank. A bank account will not of itself make you rich, famous or virtuous, but it will help on the good work if you handle it right. Come to see us. We will tell you all about it.—The Hartford National Bank, Hartford, Conn.

The wage-earner, more than anyone else, should cultivate the Savings Habit and own a bank account. There is no telling when lack of work or sickness may cut off all sources of income and place your family in hard straits.

Hundreds of working people in Newark own their own homes through first starting an account in "The Old Home" and saving regularly. Four per cent. compound interest paid.—The Newark Home-Building Ass'n Co., Newark, Ohio.

If you knew that during the next twelve months your expenditures would equal your income, you would want to change things—wouldn't you? A checking account will give you a complete record of each month's receipts and expenditures. You will have up-to-date knowledge of your financial affairs. It's a good plan to pay all bills by check. We furnish you a bank book and checks. We offer exceptional advantages for carrying checking accounts.—The Citizens' National Bank, Mansfield, Ohio.

This bank is patronized by the laboring man and the mechanic, it is patronized by the man of business and the man of leisure; in fact, it is patronized by all classes. A dollar a week dropped into our savings bank soon amounts to quite a sum. Try it. Four per cent. interest added half yearly.—Iowa Savings Bank, Ottumwa, Iowa.

The man who wins is the man who is ready when opportunity knocks at his door. The best business opportunity may come when you are not prepared to take it. Then you will regret and say, Had I begun early in life to save my earnings, I would have been financially prepared, and this fine business chance would not have gotten away from me, but alas! it is too late now! Take heed, young man, young woman. Be ready when opportunity calls, by opening an account in our savings department at once. We will pay you three per cent. sure interest, and your investment is protected by over $1,200,000.—Lexington Banking & Trust Company, Lexington, Ky.

In the selection of a bank the matter of first importance is safety. There is little incentive to save if there is the slightest possibility of loss. This company is absolutely safe, all of its operations are under State Inspection, and its depositors are safeguarded in every way known to banking.—Sangamon Loan & Trust Co., Springfield, Ill.

Some folks are getting rich, and apparently with great ease. Do you know their plan? In many instances here it is: They commenced by laying aside a fixed portion of their income each week; this they deposited regularly in our savings department, where it was allowed to accumulate and draw interest at the rate of three per cent. Are you working along this line?—Third National Bank, Lexington, Ky.

Safety is the password in transferring money—convenience is also of equal importance. You have both safety and convenience in money matters when you pay by check. A checking account is the simplest method for everyone—for you—to employ in financial affairs, because you have a complete record of every transaction. We welcome small accounts. All accounts—large and small—receive the same careful attention.—The Citizens National Bank, Mansfield, Ohio.

For the greater convenience and accommodation of our lady customers, we have a department designed especially for their use in transacting business. We will be pleased to receive callers there and furnish any information desired.—The Detroit Savings Bank, Detroit.

Thousands of persons in Joliet have become systematic savers who a few weeks ago had not seriously considered this important matter. Our savings department, in which the deposits draw a moderate but safe rate of interest, is an ideal place for the safe-keeping of your accumulations. Interest compounded semi-annually. Saving department three per cent. interest.—Citizens' National Bank, Joliet, Ill.

Do your own banking. Your earnings get into the bank whether you put them there or not. If you spend all somebody else deposits your money. Better start a savings account to-day and receive the benefits—three per cent. interest yourself.—Exchange Savings Bank, Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

The best plan for the safety and protection of accumulated money is to deposit that money with us. Safety is always our thought and aim. We accept the savings of our depositors as a sacred trust and handle them with all possible care and diligence. Our funds are invested in first mortgages and sound collateral securities and the rate of interest paid is always in accord with the earnings obtained.—Security Trust Co., Lexington, Ky.

Ask yourself these questions, then do a little careful thinking. Do you know your financial condition? Are you getting ahead, or just keeping even, or are you running in debt? We are the people who can aid you in getting on a better financial footing. Open a savings account with us, add a little to it every week. Your account will grow fast, and earn you three per cent. interest, and at the end of a year you will see how easy it is to get ahead and keep ahead. Every dollar you deposit at this bank is protected by over $1,200,000.—Lexington Banking & Trust Co., Lexington, Ky.

When to save. Whenever earning begins saving should begin. We have started a lot of people in the right direction. Some had never before saved anything—because they had given the matter no serious thought. Our savings department is an ideal place in which to start an account that may lay the foundation of your fortune. Deposits of one dollar or more will be received, and we will pay you four per cent. interest compounded twice a year. Start to save now.—Commercial National Bank, Pendleton, Ore.

This bank's history embraces seasons of panic and pestilence, depression and prosperity, ebb tide and flood tide, of the black years of '73 and '93 and '96, but from the time of its beginning to this day of grace—nearly forty years—save on legal holidays, its doors have never been closed, and it has discharged all trusts and met all obligations with absolute fidelity. It has not heretofore paid, and does not now pay, interest on deposits of any character, and it will not seek to secure business "upon any terms" with the accompanying necessity for taking unwarranted risks in the endeavor to make it profitable. It stands upon this record. Accounts, large or small, solicited.—The First National Bank, Montgomery, Ala.

How dollars grow. Seeds never grow until planted. Dollars do not increase unless they are set to work earning interest. If you wish to have a fortune grow you should set your dollars to work by depositing them in the savings department of this company, where interest will be allowed at the rate of four per cent. per annum. Officers, I. H. C. Royse, president; Jas. S. Royse, vice-president; F. C. White, secretary. Capital $200,000.00.—The Terre Haute Trust Company, Terre Haute, Ind.

The vacation question. Have you need of a summer vacation? Do you wish to take one? Have you the money to do it? If not, here's suggestion: Open a "Lay-by" account in the Manufacturers National Bank and add to it weekly. The exhausting hot weather will then find you prepared to take your much-needed and well-earned rest. Many industrious workers have followed this plan in former years to their advantage. If it has never occurred to you before, why not act on this suggestion and start your "Lay-by" account now? Never mind if the amount is small, we fully realize that all are not millionaires.—Manufacturers National Bank, Troy, N. Y.

Four million, five hundred thousand dollars is the amount of the reserve fund of the Bank of Toronto, and is an illustration of the strength of this old reliable institution. This fund is composed of profits laid aside, and premiums on new stock issues, and is maintained as an additional guarantee to depositors of the safety of their money. Attention is drawn to the fact that this reserve is $500,000 larger than the capital.—The Bank of Toronto, Toronto, Canada.

If sickness comes, who is going to pay the bill? While a man is in good health he seldom considers this, but sickness may come at any time. So while you are able to work, save out of each week's earnings enough to protect you against the time when you may be sick. Open an account with us to-day.—Wapello County Savings Bank, Ottumwa, Iowa.

First step to a successful career is the establishing of a sound, safe bank connection. This bank will welcome you as followers in the footsteps of the many successful men who began their career by opening an account with it. One dollar is sufficient for a start—pays dividends on all deposits.—Sacramento Bank, Sacramento, Cal.

Forward or backward, which way are you going? Are you saving or are you running behind? It's to your best interest to consider this matter seriously. You cannot begin to go forward financially until you learn to save your money, and open an account in our savings department, add a little to it each week, and this, coupled with the three per cent. interest that it will earn you, will soon start you forward on the road to success.—Union Bank and Trust Co., Lexington, Ky.

Don't wait for your business to grow before opening an account here—become a depositor to-day and grow with us. Many of our small depositors of years ago are large depositors to-day and can tell you how much an account with this bank has helped them. Safety, courtesy and promptness to every depositor alike is our motto.—Merchants' National Bank, Fargo, N. D.

The old saying that constant dripping wears away the hardest stone ought to teach us a lesson regarding our expenditures, for just as surely will the constant leak of needless expense wear away whatever foundation you may have for your future prosperity. Stop the leak—get the habit of going regularly to the bank, and when you spend money, spend it wisely. The saving habit may not always be easy to begin, but once started, it grows on you, and before long you will be interested in watching the growth of the figures in the bank book, helped along by the three per cent. interest you receive at "the bank for all the people."—Lansing State Savings Bank, Lansing, Mich.

Conservatism the keystone. Deeds, mortgages, notes, insurance policies, contracts and other valuable papers, are absolutely safe from fire, burglary or mislaying while in a safe deposit box here. The safety of one paper is worth the $2.00 a year.—Equitable Savings Bank, Los Angeles, Cal.

Our distinct aim is to make and keep this bank active, progressive and in the fullest and best sense an up-to-date institution. The present gratifying condition of the bank may easily be traced to the satisfactory service and courteous treatment extended to all depositors. You are invited to do your banking business here.—First National Bank, Zanesville, Ohio.

Prompt decisions. The man who can make up his mind quickly and act promptly is the man who succeeds in accomplishing things. Better make a mistake occasionally than never to know your own mind. Prompt decisions characterize the service rendered by this bank to its customers. They are made possible by an intelligent study of the resources, abilities and needs of those who come to us for accommodation or assistance.—The Hartford National Bank, Hartford, Conn.

Conservatism is not opposed to progress, contrary to the old view of staid and dignified banking. Through two generations it has been the aim of this bank to be abreast with modern progress, but to hold fast to the belief in honesty; not the mere honesty of dollars and cents, but honesty in its higher sense, which means honor. It has always considered its shareholders, but it has never neglected its patrons and has never forgotten that the cordial friendliness of every good man in the community is its most valuable asset. It still holds to these tenets, which have so largely contributed to its successful career of nearly forty years. New accounts are invited.—The First National Bank, Montgomery, Ala.

No savings in youth has its results in old age. As we grow older we learn to appreciate the comforts that money will buy. The young people that form the habit of thrift and economy, investing their means carefully, either in education or otherwise, will be the characters that will do things later. Build up a little bank account to call upon when needed. If in our vicinity call and see us.—Union Park Bank, Spokane, Wash.

Careful management of your banking business. Have you ever considered how the successful men of to-day attained their financial independence? Success in business is due in a large degree to the careful management of your banking business. An account with the American National Bank of El Paso assures absolute safety for your money—also careful and prompt attention to the details of your banking business. Four per cent. interest paid on certificates of deposit.—American National Bank, El Paso, Texas.

We offer you our safe deposit vault as a safe and proper place for your will and valuable papers. In the event of your death no one can obtain them except your legal representative. We also solicit your deposit account.—California State Bank, San Bernardino, Cal.

The man who patronizes every place of business on the street except the bank is certain always to remain poor. There is no better place to begin your bank account than The State Bank, Columbia, S. C.

The growth of this bank has been steady and rapid. Modern methods, superior facilities, courteous treatment, combined with a large capital and surplus have helped this institution to attain its strong position and the good will of the people of this city. We solicit the accounts of individuals, merchants, manufacturers and societies.—State Bank, Hartford, Conn.

Looking over the good points in our plan of loaning money you'll find it capable of rendering you excellent service any time quickly, cheaply and privately. We loan any amount, large or small, on the shortest notice, on the most reasonable terms and fairest special plan of repayment ever offered.—Fidelity Loan Co., Peoria, Ill.

Three reasons why one should carry an account with a bank. 1. Because your money is safer in a bank than anywhere else. 2. Because paying bills by check is the simplest and most convenient method, as well as the safest, as your check becomes a receipt for the debt it pays. 3. Because it gives a better standing in the community, especially among the business men, to pay by check rather than cash.—The Fargo National Bank, Fargo, N. D.

A man's earnings invested in a good savings bank account will buy him a home, or set him up in business, almost before he knows it, because interest at the rate of four per cent. per year—the rate we allow—counts up quickly, especially as we compound even that interest if redeposited or left standing. But ask us all about it or get our free booklet.—The Equitable Building Co., Zanesville, Ohio.

It's not what you earn that makes you rich, but what you save. Then why don't you start saving now? A dollar in bank is an obstinate thing—it stays put. Can you say as much if it's in your pocket? Does your pocket pay interest—does it give you the self-respect and confidence in the future that a gradually increasing bank account does? The road to prosperity is before you—start saving with a dollar deposit. You'll be surprised to see how the habit grows. So does the deposit.—Home Savings Bank, Washington, D. C.

Protection for securities. Considering the low cost and the perfect security of a box in a modern safe deposit vault, it is unwise to keep securities, insurance policies, savings bank books, deeds and other valuables in your house or office safe. Our safe deposit vault does what no amount of insurance can do—it actually prevents valuables from being burned or stolen. Inspection cordially invited. Access during business hours.—The Schenectady Trust Co., Schenectady.

How money flies every one knows when it is placed where you can spend it easily. When you invest what isn't necessary in a savings bank you forego many temptations to spend, and your money accumulates and brings you three per cent. interest. Place your money in this bank now and it will draw interest at once; four per cent. on $1000 and over. Deposits received from $1 up.—Union Savings Bank, Mobile, Ala.

One of the great advantages of a connection with a bank of strength and experience, is the valuable advice it may give you on financial matters. This bank places freely at the service of its customers its judgment and knowledge in these affairs, and it heartily encourages such use of its facilities. In its career it has saved many from serious losses, by timely and sound advice about investments.—First National Bank, Montgomery, Ala.

Every thinker recognizes how essential the saving habit is to success. A regular sum regularly deposited as you receive your income is the secret of substantial saving. Open an account with this bank. A single dollar is enough to start you. Then add to it regularly. This bank pays four per cent. compound interest on savings deposits. Your money earns substantially here.—Union Bank of Savings, Los Angeles, Cal.

Whatever purpose you may be saving money to fulfil—it pays to open a "Central" savings bank account—pays and helps. It provides a system under which you can watch the accumulation grow, while all the time your fund is protected from thoughtless, wasteful spending and held true to your object. Besides, it pays interest—four per cent. per annum, compounded twice yearly—a nice little item of profit to add to your own effort. Yours by mail, too.—Central Savings Bank, Leadville, Col.

If you would be rich be thrifty—save your money and bring it to us for safe keeping. You may miss big profits, but just as certainly you will escape the danger of possible losses. We solicit your deposits, no matter how small in amount.—The Commercial Bank, Youngstown, O.

When you find your creditors are playing horse with you and show a disposition to crowd you, remember that the Fidelity Loan Company stands ready to loan you any amount you require to settle up your bills and will permit you to repay them in small monthly or weekly payments that you can easily make.—Fidelity Loan Co., Peoria, Ill.

Young man! Do you know that saving is not stinginess, but a duty? Do you know that if you don't save before you are married, you won't save after marriage? Do you know that the interest on the money you would save in your youth would make comfortable the days of your old age? Do you know that you owe it to your own self-respect and to those who may be dependent on you in the years to come to save? Do you know that we pay three per cent. interest on your savings and that we accept deposits as low as $1?—Planters' National Bank, Richmond, Va.

Don't waste money. It is wrong to put all your money down your throat or on your back or in useless luxuries or pleasures. Enough for necessities, enough for pleasure and the balance in your savings bank account is the right way to divide your income.—The Columbus Savings & Trust Company, Columbus, Ohio.

Save the pennies. Tuck them away in one of our small savings banks and when you are ready bring them here and we will open an account with you. There are many, both big and little folks, who find this new plan a great advantage. Call and open an account and get one of the small banks.—East Side Savings Bank, Rochester, N. Y.

Grandmother's stocking was to her time what that clock bank is to the present generation—a place for accumulating small change. How much more useful the clock bank! You get one for your own use by depositing $2.00 in a savings account here. Our clock banks are original in design. They are good time-keepers and practical money savers.—The Western Reserve Trust Co., Cleveland, O.

Now is the time. In the early years of life is the time to learn to save. It's easier to learn then than after habits of extravagance are formed. The boy who spends his pennies foolishly, will spend his dollars foolishly if he ever has any. Buy the boy a bank and teach him to save something. He'll be glad of it when he is older and wants to go into business for himself. Pennies make dollars and dollars make a man independent.—City Savings Bank, Omaha, Neb.

Anybody can make riches fly, but the trick is to make them fly in the proper direction. Persistent saving solves the problem. $1.00 starts you.—Cincinnati Trust Co., Cincinnati, O.

But one sure way to get money—earn it. But one sure way to have money—save it. But one sure way to save money—by systematic saving day by day, week by week—by getting it out of your pocket, where it will surely burn holes—by putting it to work in a reliable banking institution. We offer you our services, one of our home banks may help you. We invite you to call. As to our responsibility—investigate; we are proud of our record.—Citizens' National Bank, Mansfield, O.

"Shall I commence to save now by depositing my surplus earnings with a Savings Institution?" is a question you should ask yourself. If you decide in the affirmative, open an account with us.—The Security Title and Trust Company, York, Pa.

To be a true helpmate a wife should be thrifty and help save her husband's money. Husbands are delighted when their wives form the saving habit. We offer you the opportunity to please your husband and at the same time increase your worldly stores. One dollar starts an interest-bearing account. Safety deposit boxes for valuable papers for rent.—The Continental Savings Bank, Memphis, Tenn.

The best New Year's resolution, and one that will never be regretted, is to sign your name to the list of depositors of the Commercial Bank and thereby take a step towards assured wealth and prosperity. Our bank has an unassailable, firm financial foundation.—Commercial Bank, Port Huron.

It's a good thing to be well prepared against the adversities and contingencies of life. Money in bank answers the purpose most times. Let your dimes and dollars lie with us and note the increment three per cent. tri-annual interest will foot up at the end of a year, five years, ten. We will be glad to give you explicit information on request.—Commercial Bank, Port Huron, Mich.

Put your shoulder to the wheel.—The big round dollar—and try to roll up a few of them into a savings account next year. Start an account here with one of them—if no more—and whenever you start to spend one foolishly during 1904, stop, put it into your savings account, and let it be earning three per cent. interest, compounded semi-annually, for you.—Kentucky Title Savings Bank, Louisville, Ky.

An ordinary safe is possibly good enough protection under "ordinary" circumstances.

But burglars come, fires occur, when least expected, and easily penetrate the best of them.

Not so with our safe deposit boxes—what they have they hold.

You can rent one for a few dollars a year.—Title Guarantee and Trust Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Down brakes now! and try to save something next year. Open a savings account at this bank—with $1 if no more—and put part of your income into it regularly. Take one of the little banks which are furnished free to depositors for home use. You'll find it a great help. Many a "stray nickel" will get into it and help swell your fund. Interest at three per cent., compounded semi-annually.—Kentucky Title Savings Bank, Louisville, Ky.

Can you answer yes? when asked if you are satisfied with the state of your finances—

If not a savings account will, perhaps, help you to answer more satisfactorily.

The best depository for this account is the First National Bank, Charlotte, Mich.

Dollars and sense.—Your money is not idle a minute in our hands.

We watch it—keep it working day and night.

It increases rapidly.

Why not start the ball rolling now?

One dollar will do it.

Then what you add from time to time, with the interest, will soon grow to a very handsome amount.

Call to-day and begin your financial prosperity. We pay three per cent. interest.—Scranton Savings Bank, Scranton, Pa.

Nature teaches the birds and beasts to make provision for the future. Why don't you follow the example of these good providers and save from present earnings for future needs?—The Security Title and Trust Company, York, Pa.

If you have not visited this bank on Saturday night you should come this evening and see the crowds of wage-earners depositing their earnings—it would be a revelation to you and give you some idea of the saving workers of Los Angeles.—Southern California Savings Bank, Los Angeles, Cal.

If you wait for your ship to come in you may be without your share of this world's good things for a long while. A better way is to begin saving now.—The Columbus Savings and Trust Co., Columbus, Ohio.

How is it that the small wage earner forgets the future? In the majority of cases he does not save and at sixty is still going around his circle of spending his all. Save a certain percentage of your earning. It is the royal road to wealth. Money deposited with us earns four per cent interest, and interest is compounded twice a year.—Mercantile Trust & Savings Bank, Los Angeles.

Saving is the easiest way to get rich according to one of Benjamin Franklin's maxims. The easiest way to save is to deposit your surplus earnings in the Home Trust Co. Interest paid from day of deposit to day of withdrawal.—Home Trust Co., Newark, N. J.

The road to wealth is the way of saving through the aid of a strong bank for savings like this institution for the betterment of citizens' conditions. With the three per cent. interest we pay, compounded semi-annually, your deposits day by day, week by week—even month by month—accumulate rapidly and constantly, and competence, if not wealth, is yours long before you're sixty, or too feeble to work.—Commercial Bank, Bay City, Mich.

The first care. The first care of the depositor should be the safety of the bank. The first care of the bank should be the safety of the depositor. It is our care for the safety of the depositor that has caused our growth, and earned the confidence of those whose first care is safety.—First National Bank, Montgomery, Ala.

The rainy day of sickness, adversity or hard times is pretty sure to come to every man at some time in life, generally when advancing age makes it hardest to meet. Ready money in our bank is a good provision for such occasion. Don't postpone starting an account until you have a large sum. Your surplus will grow faster here than in your pocket. Start to-day with one dollar.—Dennison Trust Co., Dennison, Texas.

Steady saving—putting away a portion of your income as soon as you receive it—will soon give you a snug sum. Interest on savings deposits at this bank compounds semi-annually. Every dollar you deposit here earns increase for you.—Union Bank of Savings, Los Angeles.

Those who desire to place their money where it will be free from every element of chance or speculation, and where it will be immediately available when wanted, should open an account with the Third National Bank, Scranton, Pa.

Don't burn the candle at both ends. You will surely come to want if you do. Better cut off your unnecessary expenses and deposit the amount thus saved on a savings account. We pay four per cent. interest on savings accounts and certificates of deposit.—The Columbus Savings & Trust Co., Columbus, Ohio.

One dollar will do to open a savings account with us. Wisdom, foresight and economy strongly counsel everyone to have a bank account. Anyone can open an account in our savings department with one dollar, and there are few who cannot save at least a dollar a week. If continued steadily this will soon grow to a respectable sum and may be the means of protection against the uncertainties of the future.—North Ward National Bank, Newark, N. J.

Farmers' business. We give particular attention to the business of farmers. We cordially invite them to make this their banking home.—The First National Bank, Crookston, Minn.

When Benjamin Franklin said "It is the easiest thing in the world to deceive one's self," he spoke a great truth. Don't bask in the fancied security of present earnings. Take care of the future with a savings account.—Merchants' and Mechanics' Bank, Scranton, Pa.

Ready money is a constant and substantial friend. You can save something. Do not hesitate because the amount is small, but begin at once. Don't buy what you don't need. Save the cost of every unnecessary thing and you will be astonished in a short time to see how many dollars you will have. We invite small deposits. We are as well pleased to open an account of five or ten dollars as of a thousand dollars. Regular saving is the one speculation that always wins.—The East Side Savings Bank, Rochester, N. Y.

Only one sure way to have money—save it. Only one sure way to save it—entrust it to the safe keeping of some responsible banking institution, so it can't burn holes in your pockets. This is such an one—it has the capital and surplus fund, those guarantees of security to depositors, and its affairs were never in so prosperous a state as now. It conducts banking in all its legitimate branches and pays interest on savings deposits.—The Commercial National Bank, Youngstown, O.

Stop the small leaks. Why not determine to save the small sums that, somehow or other, are spent so heedlessly, but always aggregate a very considerable amount in the course of a year? That is the science of finance and great fortunes have been accumulated by practicing it. Save them and entrust them to us and we will pay you compound interest upon them.—The Commercial National Bank, Youngstown.

Time is money, and now is the time to save money. Put your spare cash where it will be industrious and earn more for you. We are glad to receive deposits from the thrifty, and we allow liberal interest on large or small sums. It is distinctly to your advantage to get acquainted with our banking methods, and you will at once see the propriety of beginning a bank account at once. Drop in and let us tell you about it.—Home Savings and State Bank, Peoria, Ill.

We solicit your business, whether large or small, and promise you safety, promptness and courtesy.—The National Bank of High Point, High Point, N. C.

Safe as a government bond and yielding a much higher rate of income is a deposit account in the savings department of the Third National Bank, Scranton, Pa.

A good bank confines its business to the safe-keeping of its depositors and the loaning of its resources in such a manner that they will be perfectly safe and can be collected when due; benefiting, at the same time, the borrower and, through him, benefiting the whole community. We offer you absolute safety in our ample resources and in the experience of our officers. We have no excessive loans, neither have we any investments outside of our banking fixtures. You will be pleased with the service you receive.—Capital National Bank, Lansing, Mich.

To have a checking account at the bank is not a hobby. There is reason in it. It is wise and it pays. You can pay your bills with checks, which we return to you. Each check is a receipt in full for every dollar you pay out. Your check book shows just where your money went. This is a good system of bookkeeping. You can have your bank book balanced at any time. It should be balanced at least once a month. Some times your memory fails you—you forget whether you paid a certain bill at the store. If you keep a checking account and paid your bills by check, you could turn to your checks—they will show the bills you paid, the date and the amount.—Salem State Bank, Salem, Ore.

Stronger than the average of the strongest. There are 6794 national banks in the United States. Of that number 365 are designated by the National government as reserve banks and upon their strength and solidity depends the safety of the whole National banking system. The strength of a bank is indicated by its capital and undivided profits, and it therefore is of interest to know that the average strength of the 365 reserve banks of the country is $2,007,000. The capital and undivided profits of this bank are in excess of $2,100,000, which fact shows that its strength is greater than the average of the strongest banks in the United States.—The Hartford National Bank, Hartford, Conn.

Don't spend all you earn. Make it a rule to deposit a portion of your weekly or monthly wages in a savings account where your money will earn interest.—Home Savings Bank, Washington, D. C.

Government bonds are good things, but few people can afford them. A savings account at this bank is just as safe—can be started with $1.00 and pays four per cent. interest.—Reserve Trust Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

There is a feeling of comfort in the knowledge that, no matter what the future may have in store for you, you and your family will be assured against want by your savings account. Open an account to-day. This bank pays four per cent. interest compounded semi-annually.—The Columbus Savings & Trust Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Some people dislike to enter the doors of a bank. Why? Because they think their small business is too trifling for the banker to bother about. We invite such people to come in and use this bank. We are in business purposely to be bothered. Every man, woman or child should have a bank account of some size.—The Citizens' National Bank, Mansfield, Ohio.

The vital question. How much can I earn? is an important question. How much can I save? is the vital question. The saving habit is best encouraged by opening an account with the banking department of the Union Trust and Storage Co., Washington, D. C.

A bank account means much to the level-headed young man or woman who is determined to make a success of life. We have the names of many such entered on our books and are enrolling more every day. If yours is not among the number, come in and open an account. Do it now.—The Columbus Savings & Trust Co., Columbus, Ohio.

In talking over your affairs do not forget that the State Bank, with a capital of $100,000 and a surplus of $275,000, acts as executor and trustee under wills. Your best friend whom perhaps you would choose as your executor may die to-morrow, but the bank grows stronger every year and any interest entrusted to it will be most carefully guarded.—State Bank, Hartford, Conn.

The first start in life towards wealth and riches consist in saving a portion of what you earn. The Commercial Savings Bank not only guarantees absolute security for all money deposited, but pays three per cent. interest. You can open an account with a deposit of $1.00.—Commercial Bank, Bay City, Mich.

Idle money—and idle men are both useless. They should be at work. Money will work if you give it a chance. And you will be the richer if you place it at three per cent. interest in the Scranton Savings Bank.—Scranton Savings Bank, Scranton, Pa.

The hardest thing about saving money is getting started. Our way of doing business makes it so easy to begin saving that you really have no excuse for delaying. A deposit of two dollars will open an account in our savings department, and five dollars and upward will draw interest at the rate of three per cent. per annum. The beginning made, regular deposits will soon grow to be a habit, and one of the best you ever formed.—Fidelity Trust Company, Newark, N. J.

Rent a box and have your valuables and papers secure against loss. Boxes can only be opened by yourself. Convenient and private rooms for use of patrons. A general banking business transacted. United States bonds and other investment securities bought and sold. Dealers in foreign and domestic exchange. Furnish letters of credit for travelers, available in all parts of the world. Collections promptly made on favorable terms. Accounts solicited. Prompt attention. Liberal terms.—Rock County National Bank, Janesville, Wis.

Money goes easily when you carry it about with you. But there is economy, safety and satisfaction in putting it away in a safe and sound savings bank. The large capital and conservative management of this bank is a guarantee that your deposit is always safe.—The Columbus Savings and Trust Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Money at interest is a good silent partner—one that will work night and day, unflagging in its zeal for your welfare—one that the longer let alone the better work it will do.—North Ward National Bank, Newark, N. J.

Get the habit.—Habit is the strongest impulse in man. Get the habit of saving and your future welfare and prosperity is assured. Maybe your habit now is to spend too freely. You realize that it is a bad thing and would like to overcome it. Big fortunes had small beginnings. Right here is where we desire to interest you. One single dollar constitutes the fund necessary to start an account with us. The saving habit will grow and so will your bank account.

A helping hand in time of need is often an instant cash loan. If you need one, don't bother about your friends, but come to us. We are not brow-beaters nor Shylocks, and it will be to your gain to deal with us and experience uniformly honorable dealing.—Capital Loan Co., Trenton, N. J.

The traveler can find no more convenient way to carry money to St. Louis, abroad or elsewhere, than our "Travelers' Checks."—The Dollar Savings and Trust Co., Youngstown, Ohio.

The affairs of this company are managed in a safe and conservative manner by well-known business men. Every banking facility is provided for and every reasonable accommodation given. Accounts taken subject to check or on time. All inquiries answered and courteous treatment given to those who may wish to transact business with the company.—Union Deposit & Safe Co., Rockland Me.

Money in bank gives you a feeling of security—enables you to take advantage of opportunities for making more money and lifts you out of the rut—makes you a manly man.—Reserve Trust Co., Cleveland, O.

To deposit your money with the Columbus Savings & Trust Company than to loan it out promiscuously or to invest it in securities, the value of which you know little about. You may not get quite as large a rate of interest, but it is sure, and your principal is not only safe beyond question, but you can also get it whenever you want it.—The Columbus Savings & Trust Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Idle money—and idle men are both useless. They should be at work. Money will work if you give it a chance. And you will be the richer if you place it at three per cent. interest in the Scranton Savings Bank, Scranton, Pa.

Every worker, regardless of his station in life, wins out by honest application. There is no room for drones in the modern hive. It is an age of "hustle." You should make your money "hustle" for you, too. If you haven't any surplus, get some. Money at work is a good silent partner. Begin to save money. Begin with a dollar a week if you can't save more.—H. C. B. Gill, Fresno, Cal.

Have a reserve fund for emergencies. Don't depend upon your salary alone—that is only a temporary means of support and is liable to stop any time. Start an account in our savings department today—it will not only be a protection to you, but also will give you a standing in the business community.—North Ward National Bank, Newark, N. J.

A single private paper justifies an expenditure of $2.00 a year for its safety—a safe deposit box at the Union Bank of Savings, 223 South Spring Street.—Los Angeles, Cal., Bank.

The bread of charity.—Every man who does not save is in danger of depending on charity in old age. Only those who save are safe.—The Columbus Saving & Trust Co., Columbus, Ohio.

You've heard that old, old story about the stone in the middle of the highroad that all the cartmen turned out to avoid. They didn't know that the Duke had placed under the stone a purse of gold "for him who moves the stone." There's a stone in your road. When you come to the bank and open an account you move the stone—you find gold. Begin the "moving" and the "finding" to-day with a deposit in the Scranton Savings Bank.

Laid off, laid up, laid away? Mr. Wage Earner: Did you ever think what might happen to you and your family, if any of the above should find you with no money in your purse? Wouldn't it be wise for you to provide against that day and to begin to save now? Our saving department accommodates all who wish to lay aside small or large sums.—Moline National Bank, Moline, Ill.

The first hundred dollars is just so many steps gained on the road to wealth and competency.

Deposit your savings in the Holston National Bank. Your dollars, if deposited there, will earn more dollars and before you know it you will have a nice bank account.—Holston National Bank, Knoxville, Tenn.

The youth with a bank account becomes a man with a fortune. Open an account at the Orange Savings Bank, Orange.

Idle money is money wasted. Why keep it in unsafe places when we will safely care for it and pay four per cent. interest.—Pittsburg Bank for Savings, Pittsburg, Pa.

The boy who starts a bank account and saves and deposits the nickels and dimes that other boys would spend, is a boy who will begin active business life qualified to succeed. He will reach manhood with habits and qualities of character essential to thrift cultivated and developed, and will have his savings and accumulated interest as ready capital. A single dollar will open an interest-bearing account at the Union Bank of Savings, Los Angeles, Cal.

A boy with a bank account is fairly started on the road to independence. Deposits of any amount from $1 up are accepted by this bank.—The Union Savings Bank of Pittsburg, Pittsburg, Pa.

Money flies from most people—those who need it most, in fact—and the best way to arrest its flight is to put it in a bank—a strong, conservative, well-managed one like this. We not only save your money for you, but make it make money for you by paying you three per cent. interest, compounded every six months. The deposits in the savings department are, with the exception of the cash reserve, invested in municipal and other bonds and mortgages on real estates.—The Savings Bank of East Saginaw, Mich.

It rests with you whether your old age shall be passed in poverty and misery or in independence and comfort. A savings account now decides the matter.—The Pennsylvania Trust Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

The management of this bank is composed of men who have achieved for themselves marked success and who now act in harmony for the greater success of the institution.—The Colonial Trust Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

In making your will, remember that this bank is an executor, guardian or trustee that you can depend upon. Its life is perpetual. It never takes a vacation. Is always ready to serve you. Your wishes will be carried out to the letter in any business you entrust to the State Bank of Chicago, Chicago, Ill.

Neal Loan and Banking Co. A designated State's depository. Quick roads to wealth are few, but there is a chance for every one to obtain a competence. Will money help you? If so, call on us. Don't waste any time on the way. We will lend you money on your furniture, piano, team, fixtures, or other personal property of value without removal. You can get it on short notice. You can have from 1 to 12 months to pay it back. You can pay it back weekly, monthly, quarterly, or as you may desire. You will have the use of both the money and the property. You will receive honorable, satisfactory dealings and all business will be strictly confidential. You will get the full amount you ask for. If you owe a balance to any other loan firm or furniture store we will advance you the money to pay them off. You can also get some additional money for other purposes if you wish. Your payments will be so small that you will not feel them. Call and learn our methods.—Peoria Loan Co., Peoria, Ill.

A homeless wanderer in his old age is likely to be the fate of the man who is improvident in his youth. Assure yourself of a comfortable old age by cultivating the saving habit. A savings account opened with this company and consistently followed up makes old age a delight and bridges over many a trouble.—The Home Savings & Loan Co., Youngstown, O.

Savings accounts in the Memphis Trust Co. have the advantage of: 1st—Safety afforded by our large capital. 2nd—Investment in the highest class of securities under the direction of conservative management. 3rd—A return of the largest rate of interest consistent with prudent banking, namely: 3 per cent. 4th—The attentive handling of every account, large or small. Ladies receive the most courteous consideration. Home savings banks furnished. Accounts opened before the 5th of the month receive interest from the first.—Memphis Trust Company, Memphis, Tenn.

If you save now then sometime in the future you will have something to draw on. Perhaps when you need it badly. Why not start a savings account here now—with a dollar, or as much as you can spare? It will earn a fair rate of interest and prove an incentive to save more. Accepts deposits in sums of one dollar and upward.—Sacramento Bank, Sacramento, Cal.

Poverty makes cowards of us all. Make up your mind to save part of your earnings every week—the more the better, but even a little is better than none.—Home Savings Bank, Washington, D. C.

A suggestion. Unemployed money at home is at risk of theft or fire—is safe when deposited in a sound bank. Small accounts invited.—Yale National Bank, New Haven.

Open an account with the Goethe Bank and get a bank book. You will soon find a perusal of its pages more absorbing than the most thrilling work of fiction. It will become a book of great interest—4 per cent. in fact.—Goethe Bank, Sacramento, Cal.

Money talks this way to most people, bidding them a fond adieu. Why? Because they won't save it, or don't know how, or don't realize the advantages of saving. Suppose you ask us to explain the profit to you of putting away a few dollars here, the increment of 3 per cent interest and the results.—Texas Bank and Trust Co., Galveston, Texas.

The training of a boy in habits of saving, thrift and industry, will insure to his success in after life. Set him a good example by depositing part of your earnings in this strong and sound bank for savings—better still, open a small account in his name with us now. Three per cent interest compounded semi-annually will make him a nice nest egg when he's 21.—Texas Bank and Trust Co., Galveston, Texas.

It is not what you make but what you save that makes you rich. The Depositors' Account Department gives you every economy of our cash system and our famously low prices, and an additional 4% interest, compounded every three months, on unexpended balances. At the same time you enjoy every convenience of a credit system, without being taxed excessively to support it and to make up its bad debts. You can deposit as much or as little as you please, and you can withdraw your money at a moment's notice. We urge you to give it a trial—make one test of the advantages that have appealed to thousands of others.—Binghamton Trust Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Did it ever occur to you that someone is drawing interest on the money you needlessly spend each day? It's time to stop. Think it over. We'll help by furnishing a Home Bank Free and paying 3 per cent. Call today.—Missouri Savings Bank, Kansas City, Mo.

A good bank where you may rest assured every transaction will be conducted with that absolute trustworthiness that has always characterized our business for more than half a century. In opening your bank account with the State Bank you will be making no mistake.—State Bank, Hartford, Conn.

Manage your income. Don't let your income manage you. If you didn't have the money you wouldn't spend it. Then why spend it simply because you have it? Open an account with the Security Savings Bank and save enough money to be your own master.—Security Savings Bank, Newark, N. J.

Is your Will made? Are you willing to allow your estate to be distributed in the manner it will be if you make no Will? Or, are you waiting to make a Will, and incurring the risk of being taken away suddenly, with the possibility of thereby defeating your intentions? Even if you have made a Will, are you sure that no conditions have since arisen that would make such Will defective or void? Why not give this matter the prompt and careful attention it deserves and consult some one of experience in such matters before it is too late? Fidelity Trust Company, the largest Trust Company in the State, and because of its long and varied experience in such matters, is frequently consulted by those who desire it to draw Wills and act thereunder as Executor, Trustee or Guardian. It will be to the interest of your estate to learn what are the advantages in having a Trust Company instead of an individual administer your estate. Full particulars can be obtained without charge by those who seek such information, upon application to Fidelity Trust Company, Newark.

Eh! Haven't seen it for years. Want to sell your property, so a new one is necessary. Result: It costs you more for the new abstract than would pay for a safe-deposit box for several years. And think of the security gained for other papers, valuable jewels, etc., if you had a box in the safe-deposit vaults of the—Fourth National Bank, Montgomery, Ala.

You can save something and the amount you save is not so important as to save systematically and persistently. Open an account here with one dollar and take home with you one of the little banks which are furnished to depositors free of charge. Drop into this little bank, every day or every week, whatever you can spare from your income. The habit will soon be formed and your fund will grow steadily—earning compound interest all the time. Don't say this plan won't work with you—try it first. It has worked, and is working with lots of people who could never save any other way. Call, 'phone or write.—Kentucky Title Savings Bank, Louisville, Ky.

It is worth something to a depositor to know that his money is being placed in as strong a bank as it is possible to find. The affairs of this bank are governed with conservatism combined with enterprise and up-to-date methods which make for soundness and satisfactory banking service.—The Fidelity Trust Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Savings deposits at this bank are exempt from taxation. This point, together with the fact that interest on such deposits compounds each six months, makes a saving account with this institution a profitable and very desirable investment.—Union Bank of Savings, Los Angeles, Cal.

Some people's savings are burned up, and some forget the hiding place, and thus they never do their owner any good. Such people are to be commended for having formed the habit of saving, but too much condemnation cannot be given the mind that didn't have foresight enough to use the bank.—Citizen's National Bank.

At one side you have the bank—that's where you save; at the other the pawn shop—that's where you don't. Of course we speak for our own interest, but vastly more for yours, when we advise you to deposit your savings with us, where you get 3 per cent. interest a year instead of having to pay considerable more. Think it over.—Commercial Bank, Bay City, Mich.

To the business man seeking a bank connection the Dollar Savings and Trust Co., with a capital of one million dollars, offers the advantages of its large resources, the best of service and every facility for the proper handling of his affairs.—The Dollar Savings and Trust Co., Youngstown, O.

The improvidence of a large number of people is not due so much to a desire to spend every cent they earn, as to their failure to understand the value of small economies. If a start, no matter how small, would only be made of laying aside a small portion of the income, each week or month, the lesson of economy would soon be learned. Start an account with us to-day, no matter what may be the amount. This strong company will gladly help you to accumulate more.—The Fidelity Trust Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Having the right kind of a bank back of you is an important factor in your business. You can't be too careful in making a selection. This bank wants your account and makes every effort to safeguard the business interest of depositors. Borrowers are accorded every accommodation consistent with safety.—The Union National Bank, Johnstown.

Making a record for business sagacity is well begun with a bank account. Its possession shows you to be a man of method, caution and thrift. The houses with whom you deal have more respect for you if you pay by check instead of currency. At this Bank you may learn of many advantages accruing to depositors. You will also learn how easy it is to open an account here.—The U. S. National Bank, Johnstown, Pa.

Interest on interest soon reaches a snug sum. Spend to spare, spare to speed, bring your dollars where they breed.—Merchants' National Bank, Allentown.

The rainy day doesn't worry the man with a substantial bank account. Even in the case of a flood he can ride in safety in the savings account ark. A small amount set apart each week will not inconvenience you—start to-day.—The People's Bank, Scranton, Pa.

What is your ambition? We believe it is your ambition to make money. But how about your ambition to save some of it? No matter how little it may be—make a start—begin to live on less than you earn—start to put by the capital which will some day mean independence to you. You make a wise move toward independence by opening an account with this strong institution, where your money is safe and will grow rapidly at compound interest.—The Mercer Trust Company, Trenton, N. J.

Our hobby is safe banking. This bank calls attention to the publicity in the conduct of its savings bank business, a list of its resources being examined by a disinterested committee, a copy of which we are always glad to furnish. A high standard of conservatism is maintained, and our methods are modern and satisfactory to our patrons. We most thoroughly appreciate the confidence of the banking community, and we respectfully call attention to our liberal profit sharing plan of paying interest in many ways, our rates being on checking accounts, two per cent.; on saving accounts, four per cent.—Spokane & Eastern Trust Co., Spokane, Wash.

To save is to succeed; open an account with the Union Bank of Savings. Interest paid on deposits.—Union Bank of Savings, Los Angeles, Cal.

A wise man doesn't live as though his income couldn't stop—he makes provision for sickness, lack of work, accident and old age, by having a savings account with this company, where every dollar he deposits earns 4 per cent. interest.—Pennsylvania Trust Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Riches.—Others have grown rich, why not you.

Others have worked for just as little and even smaller wages than you receive and have been able to deposit a snug sum in the bank, where it earned interest for them night and day and year 'round—why not you? Others—young and old, men and women, right here in Richmond—are regularly bettering financial conditions—are making the cash that they might fritter away earn them 3 per cent. per year, by being regular weekly depositors in the Savings Department of our bank—why not you?—Planters' National Bank, Richmond, Va.

Once a week, or once a month, lay aside a portion of your income. Deposit this in our Savings Department. But don't neglect to save. This money will come handy to you some day—indeed it will.—West Side Trust Co., Newark, N. J.

There is no dishonor in true economy. Do not hesitate to lay aside a reasonable portion of your income. If you so desire we will help you to save it.—North Ward National Bank, Newark, N. J.

We ask for new accounts because we are capable of rendering the best banking service, and because we offer that high measure of security that appeals to the prudent and conservative people of this community. We invite your consideration as a desirable institution in which to have an account.—First National Bank, Binghamton, N. Y.

What is your ambition? We believe it's your ambition to make money, but what about your ambition to save some of it? No matter how little it may be, make a start. Begin now to live on less than you make, begin to put by the capital which will one day mean independence to you. You make a wise move if you open an account with this strong institution, where your money is safe, and grows rapidly. Three per cent. interest paid on time deposits.—The Mercer Trust Company, Trenton, N. J.

The average householder finds a bank account in a trust company of immense convenience and saving. Her bank book and paid checks show at once her deposits and payments, and the checks are themselves proofs of payments.—The Investment Company, Philadelphia, Pa.

The State Bank offers to its depositors every facility which their business, balances and responsibility warrant, and respectfully solicits acceptable accounts of banks, mercantile firms and individuals. The steady and substantial growth of our savings department commends it to those who wish to save money. Interest at 4 per cent. per annum, payable quarterly. You can begin with one dollar.—The State Bank, Columbia, S. C.

Fifty years of experience in banking is at your service if your account is in this bank. We offer careful, conscientious service to all depositors—large and small. Your account is invited.—American National Bank, Hartford.

Your banking business carefully and promptly transacted. Large resources, a strong Board of Directors and capable management are but a few of the many features that commend this bank to one considering the opening of a bank account.—First National Bank, Binghamton, N. Y.

"Take care of your pence and the pounds will take care of themselves," said Ben Franklin, a long time ago. It is still true, as many of our friends and savings depositors are learning every day. We have paid since organization 4 per cent. interest on term deposits.—Goethe Bank, Sacramento, Cal.

All you have to do with a saving account is to start and keep it going—then watch and help it grow—doesn't take long for it to come up to a considerable amount—then you'll see the advantage, the wisdom of saving. One dollar is sufficient to start—pays dividends on all deposits.—Sacramento Bank, Sacramento, Cal.

Bank accounts and other personal property of foreign corporations doing business in New York, and of individuals residing outside of New York are taxable when kept within that State. No such law exists in New Jersey. It is therefore evident that it is of great advantage both to individuals and corporations to have safe deposit accommodations and bank accounts in New Jersey.—Merchants' National Bank, Newark, N. J.

People having no bank accounts are invited to make use of this company for that purpose. It indicates a certain financial responsibility to speak of "My Bank," and we shall be glad to have you so regard this company. Under safe, efficient and conservative management.—Home Trust Company, New York.

Every one should have a checking account. It is convenient as well as practical to pay bills by check, thus avoiding the risk of carrying money, or leaving it at home, where it might be stolen. We solicit your account, be it large or small, and guarantee prompt, efficient and courteous treatment to all.—People's Trust and Savings Bank, Galesburg, Ill.

The secret of success is hard work and clear thinking. The industrious person earns more than his necessary expenses, and the thinking person saves this surplus and deposits it in a good strong bank like ours. Do not postpone opening an account with us because your income is small. A single dollar is enough to start with—then the way will be easier. We pay three per cent. interest, compounded semi-annually. Your name would look well on one of our passbooks.—Home Savings Bank, Washington, D. C.

Draw a check. A check account is a great convenience, one that saves both time and money. It is convenient when you have out-of-town payments to make, as the check is safe in the ordinary letter; and then a cancelled check is the best receipt. We shall be glad to open an account with you.—The New Haven Trust Company, New Haven.

So says the old adage—"Prosperity makes friends and adversity tries them. And it's true, too. A bank account, made and added to in days of prosperity, will prove a most reliable friend in time of adversity. You ought to have the protection of a bank account. Maybe you need it now—to-day. But no man knows what the future may bring forth, and it's the part of wisdom to prepare for possible misfortune. Bring down your money to-day.—The Fourth National Bank, Montgomery, Ala.

Your funds will be cared for here in a way which admits of no criticism. We have a line of patrons who have found this bank in every way satisfactory and some of them have been with us over fifty years. We regard our clients' interests as identical with our own, realizing that a satisfied customer is the best advertisement a bank can have.—State Bank, Hartford, Conn.

George W. Childs said: "A young man should not yield to any temptation to relax his effort in attending to his business in order to amuse himself." Mr. Childs always took pride in doing his work well and saving his money—his determined efforts brought success, fortune and respect. You, too, can be successful by saving your money and opening an account with the Mercer Trust Company, where your funds are absolutely safe and will yield you a good return.—The Mercer Trust Co., Trenton.

It will surprise your wife, as well as yourself to find how rapidly your account will grow when you have once started it, and add to it constantly. Open a saving account with us at once.—The Columbus Savings & Trust Co., Columbus, O.

Your best friend cannot always be with you. Also friendships fail, but a bank account is a friend always—doubly so in times of adversity. Start the account now. Add a little every pay day. It doesn't take long for it to grow. One dollar opens a savings account and secures a bank for use in the home.—Denison Trust Co., Denison.

A man's wife has much to do with his success or failure. If she be thrifty, his fortune is half made. If she be extravagant, success will come slowly if at all. Thousands of thrifty wives carry savings accounts with this Bank where their money earns 4 per cent. and can be withdrawn when wanted. The savings accounts and checking accounts of women are always welcome here.—The Columbus Savings & Trust Company, Columbus, O.

Sound advice to young men. Two good rules, which, if followed, will bring fortune: First—Buying nothing until you can pay for it. Second—Saving a part of your weekly earnings—even if it be no more than a quarter dollar—and put your savings monthly in this bank. We pay interest on savings accounts, and would be pleased to have you open one with us.—Merchants' National Bank, Allentown, Pa.

At the seashore one can enter so much more heartily into the enjoyments if no anxiety is felt regarding valuables left home. The absolute cure for this wearing nervous feeling is to rent a box at the Safe Deposit Vaults of the California State Bank.—Sacramento, Cal.

Getting rich.—The quickest way to get ahead in the world is to save a part of your earnings regularly. Miss big profits and miss big losses. Accept fair, but sure, returns.—People's Savings Bank, Pittsburg, Pa.

Your valuables are never safe outside a safe deposit box. Thieves and fire are not the only danger—there's always a probability of your losing or misplacing jewels, important papers, etc. A safe deposit box at the Union Bank of Savings affords you a definite place of absolute safety for all small articles of value.—Los Angeles, Cal.

Advantages of National bank protection. A National bank receives its charter from the United States Government; is directly under Federal supervision, thoroughly examined by Government officials at least twice a year and required by law to make public reports of its condition under oath of its officers and directors. Make the First National Bank of Binghamton the depository for your funds and secure this Government protection.—First National Bank, Binghamton, N. Y.

The dollar that is spent is a lost friend—gone forever. The dollar that is saved is a working partner—never sleeps—always adding to your store. A dollar deposited in this bank opens an account and earns dividends. Better deposit that spare dollar now.—Sacramento Bank, Sacramento, Cal.

Temptations easily overcome the man who carries his wealth in his pocket. Usually at the end of a year a man is no better off than at the start. The thrifty and careful man deposits his surplus with "The Old Home," where it earns 4 per cent. compounded interest and yet is subject to withdrawal at any time.—The Home Building Association Co., Newark, N. J.

When to save. Whenever earning begins, savings should begin. We have started a lot of people in the right direction. Some had never before saved anything—because they had given the matter no serious thought. Our savings department is an ideal place in which to start an account that may lay the foundation of your fortune. Deposits of one dollar or more will be received and we will pay you four per cent. interest compounded twice a year. Start to save now.—Denison Bank & Trust Co., Denison, Texas.

You can't do it! You might as well try to carry water in a sieve as to try to find a more liberal plan of loaning money on personal belongings than we provide. Absolute privacy, prompt response to requests and liberal terms. Loans made on furniture, fixtures, pianos, horses, wagons, cattle and other personal property. Remember—We give you the full amount of the loan applied for in cash. No charges of any kind taken out in advance.—Fidelity Loan Co., Peoria, Ill.

Provide for future needs. A man with a family to support cannot afford to allow future needs to be wholly unprovided for. Live in the present as though you were a little poorer than you really are, and in the future when misfortune comes, you will be richer than you seem. A small sum deposited with this company to which additions are made from time to time will grow into a significant fund, bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum. Capital $200,000.00.—The Terre Haute Trust Co., Terre Haute.

Our plan. For the convenience of investors and others who are desirous of receiving the income on their money more frequently than twice a year, this company has adopted a plan of issuing coupon certificates of deposit bearing a liberal rate of interest and with coupons attached payable four times a year.—Sangamon Loan and Trust Co., Springfield, Ill.

A talk with business men. This bank pays interest on deposits subject to check—a feature which is in force in the largest banks throughout the United States. It gives the business man the opportunity to place his money where it will earn a fair rate of interest and at the same time be ready to meet instant demand. The People's Bank & Trust Company is governed by the same rigid laws of the State of Connecticut as are all State Banks and Trust Companies. The same guaranteed protection is given you here. Interest bearing check accounts is not a new idea. It has been in force for years and proven profitable in Hartford, Bridgeport and Waterbury, as well as all other cities in New York and New England. Is there any good reason why a checking balance should not earn interest when interest is paid on other forms of deposit? This feature is worthy of careful consideration. Why not talk it over with us?—The People's Bank & Trust Company, New Haven, Conn.

The Ridgely National Bank has operated under the National Bank Act for more than forty years, making five statements of conditions each year, and undergoing semi-annual examinations by Federal examiners. To-day its business is larger than ever in its history. It invites you to establish banking relations with it on the basis of its record. Courteous treatment, progressive methods and a careful consideration of your requirements are assured you.—The Ridgely National Bank, Springfield, Ill.

Satisfactory banking. Almost the only compliment, certainly the highest, which the man of business will pay to any service rendered him is that it is "satisfactory." That means everything. This bank renders to all its clients, great and small, a service which is faithful, efficient, obliging, correct and reliable. For this reason it is pronounced by the best judges to be "satisfactory."—The Northern Bank, Winnipeg, Can.

The ordinary savings bank that makes loans on lands and bonds is perfectly safe, but the interest is small to the depositors. If you can make twice that interest in a co-operative bank, that loans all your money on lands and buildings, and distributes all the profits to you, is it not common sense to place your savings in a co-operative bank? Think this over without the aid of your banker, and you will get more interest on your money, with the same security.—The Continental Building & Loan Association, Los Angeles, California.

Safeguard your estate. Many persons devote the best years of their lives to the accumulation of a competence for themselves and families. It also behooves individuals to consider the question of having this accumulation safeguarded after they have passed away, that they, their families or relatives may secure the full benefits of the estate. Remember that the New Haven Trust Company will faithfully and economically perform the duties of the executor. You are invited to consult with us about this matter.—The New Haven Trust Company, New Haven, Conn.

Women interested in banking. Women are becoming more and more interested in banking. The prudent housekeeper realizes that paying her bills by check is the safest and most convenient way of settlement. The accounts of women are especially invited by the South Texas National Bank, where they will find every safeguard, courtesy and facility of modern banking.—South Texas National Bank, Houston, Tex.

A strong foundation. Money in the bank is a strong foundation for plans to build on. Not all of us can be rich, but all of us can better our conditions. Saving—steady and persistent—will accomplish wonders. Open an account with us to-day with whatever amount you can spare, then add to it as opportunity permits. The interest we pay will help swell the sum, and presently you will have a foundation for starting some substantial business or a competence for old age.—Planters & Mechanics National Bank, Houston, Tex.

Just think of the comfort, the satisfaction you would have if only you a little sum set away for a rainy day—often you must borrow only to pay back. You can save, don't wait until you must regret you didn't. See us to-day in regard to an account. One dollar will start you and we pay you three per cent. interest, too. Deposits received up to the 5th of the month draw interest from the first.—Merchants & Manufacturers Bank, Milwaukee, Wis.

The little things that count are pennies. The nickles and the dimes that most people don't count in their expenditures are the ones that waste your dollars. Place your dollars with the Citizen's Bank for safekeeping and the accumulation of interest. Our financial standing is of the highest, and we offer exceptional advantages.—The Citizen's National Bank, Houghton, Mich.

Growing old? Probably it has never occurred to you, but don't you think that you really should be saving some money? You are always liable to get sick or hurt, and anyway, if you live, you positively will grow old. What will you do then if you have no money? A savings account with this strong bank makes the "growing old" scare vanish. One dollar starts the account. We pay four per cent. on time deposits.—Rockland Trust Company, Rockland, Maine.

Banking points to consider. In all commercial centers, in fact, wherever business is transacted, the services of a good bank are of great value to the people. In making the Commercial National Bank your depository, you secure safety for your funds as well as prompt, courteous and liberal treatment.—Commercial National Bank, Salt Lake City, Utah.

The treasure of the home is a bank book given to the depositors of the Union Savings Bank. It is the dependence that the family has to look to when the rainy day comes or when the day comes that you want to buy a home for your little family. Save in time and you can be independent in your old age. Deposits received from $1.00 up; 3 per cent. interest, payable quarterly up to $1,000; 4 per cent. on $1,000 and over.—Union Savings Bank, Mobile, Ala.

No risk; no worry; no care. We offer a limited amount of our fully paid stock for sale at $100 per share. We guarantee semi-annual dividends on this stock at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum. Your investment will be secured by first mortgages on real estate. Your income will not depend upon the sale of the real estate or upon the successful promotion or extension of some business enterprise; financial panics cannot depreciate or dissipate the security.—The "Savings & Loan," Fargo, N. D.

This little bank makes saving easy. The ingenious little savings banks we loan to depositors are wonderful little saving helpers. They record the amount you put in, and convert your spare nickels and dimes into dollars almost before you notice it. You should open an account in our savings department and get one. A dollar will do to begin with.—Central Bank & Trust Corporation, Atlanta, Ga.

We employ only such methods in business as make banking institutions of positive value. The management of this institution believes that above everything else, stability and faithfulness are demanded on the part of a well-managed bank, and upon this basis we invite your patronage. Four per cent. paid on time deposits.—Commercial National Bank, Pendleton, Ore.

Make a note of this. Don't lose sight of the advantages of our steel home safes, for they can help you add many a dollar to your bank account, and the process will not be at all painful. Keep one in a convenient place and drop in a coin whenever possible. The contents will grow rapidly, and when we add 4 per cent. interest at interest periods the result will most assuredly astonish you. These home banks or safes are free. Ask for one, your first deposit.—The Houston National Bank, Houston, Texas.

The best way to start the savings habit is by opening an account with us for the child. A child will become as interested in watching this account grow as it would be with a toy. This interest will harden into habit and the habit into character. Open the account to-day, no matter what the amount.—Citizens Savings Bank, Ottumwa, Ia.

Ladies' checking and savings accounts are invited at this bank. We have appointed a special room for our lady patrons where every convenience is provided. Every courtesy is extended in providing an efficient, polite and quick service. A bank account induces the saving habit and helps to promote independence, which means that you will have money to meet every emergency and for future needs. Then, too, a canceled check is better than a receipt. The best way to pay bills is by check.—The Peoples' Bank & Trust Co., New Haven, Conn.

Worth doing well. The old saying, "What's worth doing at all is worth doing well," is exemplified in the lives of many of our truly successful men. If you have not been saving money in the past, make the start to-day—open an account with the Schenectady Savings Bank, make regular additions to your fund, and you will experience that it is well worth your effort and economy.—Schenectady Savings Bank, Schenectady.

Finding money is not to be depended upon. If you spend all your earn, what are you going to do when sickness, accident or lack of employment causes extra expenses or stops the income? You can't pick up money to meet such emergencies. Put part of your earnings in a savings account, where it will be waiting for you and drawing 4 per cent. interest, in the Wapello County Savings Bank, Ottumwa, Ia.

Many ways. There are many ways in which a bank like ours can be of service to its friends aside from the strict lines of banking. We are frequently able to give counsel in matters of investment, and can sometimes save money to customers who take us into their confidence. Whether you bank with us or not, we invite you to come in and pass the time of day when in our neighborhood.—The Will County National Bank, Joliet, Ill.

Don't lock it up. Don't lock your surplus funds in your bureau drawer or other unsafe place. You're liable to loss. You might better leave the money with this bank. Have it earning something. It will be as much at your call as if you had it at home, and it will earn interest from the time it is here. One Dollar will start an account—pays dividends on all deposits.—Sacramento Bank, Sacramento, Cal.

One sure way. Some men inherit fortunes, some get rich by plunging into a go-lucky business scheme, but the majority get up in the world by the old reliable method, viz: Industry, saving, push. These three methods properly applied to your business and financial interest will land you safely on the top round of the ladder of success. Open an account in our savings department, it will earn you three per cent. and put you in touch with forceful business methods. Keep your valuables in safety vault box department, and your money in our bank. We afford you $1,200,000 protection.—Lexington Banking & Trust Co., Lexington, Ky.

It costs you nothing to learn our methods—get our terms—and full information how we do business. If unable to call, a card or telephone message will bring our confidential agent to you. You can get the immediate use of a temporary loan on your furniture, piano, horses, wagons, etc., at the lowest possible cost and on a liberal installment basis which enables you to repay same as you are able. Our advanced methods eliminate all publicity, humiliating inquiries, and the usual red tape proceedings. You can get the loan upon a few hours' notice, receiving the full amount in cash and without being subjected to unexpected charges or asked to pay for something you never got.—Fidelity Loan Co., Springfield, Ill.

Promptness and efficiency are very important factors. We appreciate the importance of promptness and efficiency in the transaction of banking business, and to meet the requirements of business men, firms and individuals, we have installed every modern facility and convenience. Your account is respectfully solicited.—First National Bank, Binghamton, N. Y.

Spending too much money. A certain man opened a checking account with us not long ago. He deposited in the bank what cash he had, and paid all bills by check. Before long he discovered that he was not earning enough and spending too much. His checking account gave him a complete record of all receipts and expenditures. To-day this man is saving regularly because he opened a checking account with us. You can have the same experience at no expense. We invite your account.—The Citizens' National Bank, Mansfield, O.

Peter Minuit had bought the island of Manhattan for $24.

"No," remarked his wife, "I don't think it is a bargain at all. You didn't get any trading stamps with it."

Perceiving he had been buncoed, he relapsed into sulky silence.—New York Sun.

Saturday is bargain day in children's shoes. We already have a large trade in children's shoes, but we want to increase it; we want to sell this season twice the quantity that we did last fall. To do this we realize that we have to give better values than ever before. With this purpose in mind, our shoe buyer, when he was last in the eastern shoe market, made arrangements with two of the best manufacturers of children's shoes in the country to supply us with their children's foot reform shoes, the shoes that allow your children's feet to grow naturally. To introduce these shoes quickly and to make you better acquainted with their excellent styles, excellent fit and their perfect wearing qualities, we have arranged for to-morrow this great sale of children's shoes in a number of different qualities, at lower prices than to the best of our knowledge have ever been made before on such high-grade footwear. Those who have previously bought their children's shoes here will need no urging to attend this sale, but to those who have not we would suggest that you buy a sample pair of these shoes; we know you will be delighted with them.—Geo. B. Peck D. G. Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Tuesday's incomparable basement bargains. Nothing in the land to compare favorably with any one of the big bargain carnivals which our ever busy basement offers for the rest of the week. No such values as these have ever been offered before anywhere in the country. Buy early if you wish your packages delivered the same day.—Furst Co., Jersey City, N. J.

Our women's clothing store offers real bargains. Our handsome cloak and suit store is thronged these days with seekers after genuine bargains. We have concentrated every possible ounce of energy in making this a better store for women's ready tailored clothing, and we are succeeding. Stocks are better, varieties are better, qualities are better and prices are lower. You may trade here in absolute safety; there is but one price, and that the lowest possible. There are some stores in Fresno that ask two or three prices, but not here. You can't place any dependence upon the fairness of a store that offers to take less than the price originally asked. Confidence is the cornerstone of this immense business of ours, a confidence strengthened by the absolute fairness of this store and its consistent one-price policy.—Redlick's, Fresno, Cal.

Attention! Shrewd shoppers and particular dressers. Coats, suits, skirts, etc., at rare savings. We inaugurate a remnant sale of garments—a sale which means much to every woman who reads this. We have gone through the garment department with critical eyes. Wherever we have found odd lots of garments—"slap!"—they have joined the other remnant garments. But not until the blue price-cutting pencil has done some of its best work (or its worst), for prices have been pruned and clipped until not a vestige of the original profit is visible, and in most cases we've cut way into the original cost. The garments are ready. It's a great opportunity to buy splendidly worthy suits, coats, skirts, children's coats, etc.—to buy in abundance and pay so little that you'll hardly miss the trifling sums. Odd garments of all sorts you will find galore. You'd better come early. We say this in earnestness, for the careful customers of this store will take care that these rare bargains won't stay here long.—Waldman Bros., Albany, N. Y.

Well, here we are with another chapter of chances—chances for you and your family, from the younger to the older members, and if this alteration sale doesn't prove profitable to you it will not be through any lack of bargains—they are here by the thousands, and it is not necessary for us to urge upon you the necessity for quick action.—Williams-Gerberich Shoe Co., Trenton, N. J.

BARGAINS! SPECIALS!

A fortunate purchase from a leading manufacturer who has an established reputation for making the best and most fashionable white dresses in New York, enables us to offer these bargain prices while the lot lasts. Dresses of sheer white Persian lawn, some with high neck, some with low neck, still others with Bertha effects; all neatly and effectively trimmed with either Valenciennes lace, fine needlework embroidery, or tiny tucks; skirts are cut very full with flounces or plaits and finished with deep hems; all sizes up to 14 years.—David Straus Co., Newark, N. J.

We are going to clear out many lines before we take stock, and this, of course, will be of interest to those men who appreciate a bargain and a chance to save. We do not intend to put on the inventory sheets anything that can find other owners before that time, and we know these will soon be picked up at such tremendous reductions. There is, perhaps, no other time in the year where your dollars will get more for you than just before stock-taking. The idea is to get the quantity of winter merchandise down to the smallest possible volume. The result is—bargains.—White & Manahan, Winnipeg, Can.

Promptness is necessary if you'd share in these wonderful bargains. A weeding out in our muslin wear department previous to inventory, Feb. 1st, has brought to light many mussed and rumpled garments which we've classified and marked at the most tempting prices. They're new goods—please bear that fact in mind; they have been handled and crumpled and mussed, but there's not a piece in the lot that was not carefully chosen for its beauty and serviceableness less than six weeks ago. Read the items, then come and take your choice quickly.—G. Fox & Co., Hartford, Conn.

The greatest bargains of all are in the carpet and drapery department on the top floor. There was no fire or water on this floor whatever, therefore, anything you pick from this stock is every bit as good as you would pay full price for anywhere. Who can resist such prices as these?—Du Bois & Davidson, Los Angeles, Cal.

Profit is thrown to the winds. We must get these out, for the new spring suits are now in stock and express shipments of others are arriving daily. So we say half and even more, if you can find use for a fall or winter suit.—Kutner-Goldstein Co., Fresno, Cal.

Will you profit by these profitless bargains in the basement? We want to clear out all lots of our Christmas stock to-morrow. They're all fresh, new goods, purchased for the holiday trade. We want space for others. Reduction of price ensures quick clearance. The cuts represent a nice revenue to purchasers. Are you interested in such savings? Then you'll be here.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

We do not intend to put on the inventory sheets anything that can find other owners before that time, and we know these will soon be picked up at such tremendous reductions. There is no other time in the year when your dollars will get more for you than just before stock-taking. The idea is to get the quantity of winter merchandise down to the smallest possible volume. The result is bargains. We cannot possibly charge any of the goods on sale, nor will they be sent on approval.—White & Manahan, Winnipeg, Can.

Underwear and hosiery bargains. The sale grows in popularity. There are two special features about this great sale which stand out prominently above all others: First—stocks are not a jumbled lot, where you have to hunt for your size—but they are complete and fine and so arranged as to make selection a very easy matter. Second—Prices mean savings of a third to half on regular prices.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Grand revolutionary bargain sale, the like of which Waterbury has never seen, an offering of the very best productions of the entire season at prices which will establish the record of value-giving for many seasons to come. This sale, coming now, before we have had any mild weather, really at the very opening of the spring season, affords the greatest opportunity ever offered to get the very latest and most-sought-after fashion creations at from one-third to one-half less than the usual prices—an opportunity we believe you will not let pass.—Hamilton & Co., Waterbury, Conn.

Bargain shoes and shoes at bargain prices are two different propositions. We don't keep a bargain shoe store—but you will find bargains in shoes all through our stock. We do not come in competition with the cheap bargain shoes now flooding the market and represented to be worth double the price they are sold for. Baits of this kind are common nowadays, and to avoid deception and misrepresentations buy our reliable footwear, which we guarantee to be the best to be had at the price we name and sold at just what they are worth. We can fit and suit you when others fail.—Wm. Taylor & Co., Halifax, N. S., Can.

Friday is our stock-clearing day. Every well-ordered household has a clearing-up day once a week. A day to set everything in apple-pie order. Many housekeepers call it sweeping day. The same good management prevails in this store. We call it Bargain Day. All the odds and ends—chiefly of our best lines of merchandise, which have been developed by a week's turn-over of business, are swept out of the store by prices which mean most substantial savings for Friday shoppers—particularly Friday's early shoppers.—The T. Eaton Co., Ltd., Winnipeg, Can.

You don't have to accommodate yourself to certain conditions to get bargains in this fast expanding store. The specials you see advertised on this page, or on any other page of our store news, are good for all day. Some of the best values we have are never mentioned in the papers because the quantity is too small to withstand the general demand created through advertising. If we haven't enough of any line to last all day, we don't advertise it. We don't mention special values and then circumscribe the advertisement with conditions with which you cannot comply. We don't believe in making it hard for you to get the real specials we put on sale. When we have extra good values to offer, the more we can sell the better pleased we are, for that's the way we make our profit—that's the way we make more friends for this great White Store. This whole page is alive with bargains—better bargains than you will find in any other Kansas City store. We can make prices so extraordinarily low, because we buy the merchandise right, and because we sell for cash. Listen, and you'll be interested enough to come here early today and stay late.—Jines Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

We give the wage-earner the biggest values—the mightiest bargains—always. We know he must make every dollar count, and our constant effort is to save him all the money we can. We lend every energy to serve his best interests—to give him the greatest bargains and give him the credit that will make it easy to take advantage of the saving opportunities when they are presented. These prices here quoted are wonderfully low, sensationally low, and they should bring you to this store to-morrow.—Hartman's, Minneapolis, Minn.

The banner bargain opportunity of the year is fast drawing to a close. Those who would buy must buy quickly. Thousands of bargains await customers—in fact the whole store is now a huge bargain counter. We guarantee every bargain to be exactly as advertised with the "money back if wanted" principle as always.—Prowse Bros., Ltd., Charlottetown.

Great bargains in winter millinery. You can buy here to-morrow a handsome new hat of distinctive style, in any of the many charming effects we show, at half price or less. If you only wish to give your own hat an added style touch, here are trimmings at only a quarter of real value.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton.

Huckaback towels, of pure linen and heavy, good wearing, absorbent weaves. These are in generous, large, useful sizes, and are exceptional values.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Price marks have been changed on furs and the best bargains you have ever known await you. All the richest and best furs are fully represented—made up in the most fashionable styles and finished in a most superior manner.—Brown's, Winnipeg, Can.

Saturday is to be a gala day at Barney's, for we have made a study of bargain giving for this one day, selecting special numbers from each department in the house for the purpose.—Barney's, Schenectady, N. Y.

One pair of cuffs with every shirt. You can't buy the material for what we charge for the shirts. It makes no difference to us whether you buy one or a dozen. We know they're bargains such as you don't get anywhere else. And they're not shoddy shirts either. The materials are washable and the patterns are good.—Rudolph Anker, San Bernardino, Cal.

We will offer sweeping reductions—bargains that will prove irresistible. Tailored suits, coats, furs, etc., at your own prices. Special attention is called to the extraordinary values in this department. Over 200 garments to be given away at half their price and less.—McInerney's, San Bernardino, Cal.

Notable clothing bargains pull thrifty people hereward. Were it otherwise, we should doubt the wisdom of clothing buyers. This is no ordinary stock, but rather a stock of goods which none but the best tailors can equal. Style, chic, quality, fabric, pattern—everything which a well-dressed man wants, is embodied in them.—F. W. Donnelly's, Trenton.

One of the most attractive bargain offerings—from a beauty aspect as well as splendid value—are these lovely allover nets and laces. Largely exclusive designs, and Paris has produced none prettier at these original prices.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

BARGAINS! SPECIALS!

A few bargains left for the lucky eleventh hour fellow. After taking inventory, found several short ends of winter woollens that we'll close out minus all profit. Easy picking if you need a suit in between seasons. Buy now for next fall's use if you want to—the saving warrants your doing so. First come—first served.—Prickett Gerson Co., Montgomery, Ala.

A regular feast for the bargain shopper—hundreds and hundreds of these little necessities. Notice the low prices attached; that's the secret of our success, the largest store and the largest business in Montgomery has been caused by low prices. We still keep it up.—Montgomery Fair, Montgomery, Ala.

We must ask you to be patient with us if we cannot wait on you promptly or cannot deliver your purchases as soon as you wish for we are so busy over this sale that the days are not long enough for us. The bargains are so numerous and so apparent that 'most every body in town wants to get a share. If you come early in the day you can get prompt attention and we will do the very best we can in the way of deliveries. We will open an account with you whenever you wish—a dollar or two a week will do.—Lansburgh Furniture Co., Washington, D. C.

Two bargains which every shoe buyer should know about are these which we mention to-day. Men and boys get a chance at these money-savers—but they'll get left if they don't buy soon. Other snaps for women, of course.—Fischer's, Trenton, N. J.

Fine Swiss point curtains great bargains. These were secured to exceptional advantage. There are a number of exquisite patterns and beautiful designs to select from, in white and ivory. They are very popular and effective, and great bargains.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton.

We are closing out all our last year's center tables. At the prices we ask for them during this sale you can surely find some corner that one of these handsome tables will decorate. Every table is a bargain.—Cohn Bros., Spokane, Wash.

Nobody has bargains at any time greater than are in our regular stock, which we have every day in the year.—John A. Colby & Son, Chicago, Ill.

Something for nothing is eagerly sought for on all occasions. Still, how often we let such chances slip by when this "something for nothing" lies a bit beneath the surface, as is the case with our Friday bargains. You actually get "for nothing" the difference between our special Friday markings and the usual price.—The David Strauss Co., Newark.

Never before in our long career of business has this store dared to offer such bargains as this ad. contains. In doing so our explanation is this: We have accumulated a number of odds and ends in every department of this big store. We want to get rid of them and have placed the price at almost nothing. In many instances there is only one article of the kind to be sold, but where there are more in stock all go at prices named in this ad. This is positively the best list of bargains ever offered the public and should fill our store Saturday night.—G. Gevurtz & Sons, Portland.

We are particularly pleased over this list of Friday Bargains, for they mean greater values and smaller prices than ever. And after all, the true test of an honest Bargain is the greatness of its value and the smallness of its price. You can save yourself a lot of money by this list. You will find the goods seasonable, desirable and beautiful, too.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Many a bargain story, if truthfully told, would contain a chapter on "The mistake of a buyer." No man is beyond error. The man who spends thousands each year for merchandise is sure to meet with an occasional slip-up.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

Don't stop to think how we do it. Don't put off until to-morrow or next week; take advantage of the offering now—this very minute. It means buying any child's suit in the store at half; yes it means even more, for are our prices not always fully 20 per cent. lower than equal values elsewhere?—The Washington Market Clothing Co., Trenton, N. J.

Our anniversary sale is unquestionably the the leading bargain event of the community. It comes at a time when your whole mind is concentrated on the dress and home needs for winter. And we offer you extraordinary bargain inducements in just those things you need. Every item is of the most seasonable and desirable merchandise—every price is a reduced one.—Pettis Dry Goods Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Since our bargain table sales are becoming so popular with the people, we intend to keep up the interest with a new supply each week. A new lot of goods still more desirable than the last will go on sale for the week of Monday, June 6th, to Saturday, June 11th.—Benoit, Bangor, Me.

BARGAINS! SPECIALS!

This is the banner week of this great bargain period in every department. Chicago's careful buying people have become thoroughly awakened to the greatness and importance of these sales, and we have prepared to make the closing days most conspicuous of all. No matter what your purchase may be, a positive and substantial saving is assured. Not only are the assortments good but the values are greater, if such be possible, than any yet offered. Merchandise of sterling reliability at lowest prices ever quoted. Every item mentioned in this advertisement you'll find to be even a greater bargain than represented.—Rothchild & Co., Chicago, Ill.

The best attended and most remarkable value-giving event of the year—continues Monday at Famous with a store full of bargains of the highest character. Every offer is of sterling merit. We've sorted out a host of new lots for to-morrow's selling. It's bargains like these that will multiply your confidence in this store and convincingly prove that Famous not only claims to but does undersell competition at every turn. You'll trade to exceptionally good advantage here if you come Monday.—Famous, Broadway and Morgan Street, St. Louis, Mo.

This Section A (Main Floor) will be filled with extraordinary bargains all day to-morrow, in such goods as you need, and are buying every day. Friday is inventory time. All the goods we sell between now and Friday helps us that much. We have made it more profitable for you to visit this store to-morrow than we ever did. Read and then you'll agree with us.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

So many bargains for Friday that we couldn't publish all of them in one page. Want you to read this advertisement to the end and then see our page advertisement in this issue.—The 14th St. Store, New York.

The prices speak for themselves, and all we ask in support of this splendid group of bargains is your support. More we sell the more we get to sell. Will you read?—The 14th Street Store, New York.

The merchandise that we place on this bargain section is special lines that we want to close out. The prices are always lower than you ever knew the same merchandise to be sold regularly. It is a rule that none but exceptional bargains are ever allowed on this "Interesting Bargain Square."—Jones Dry Goods Co., Topeka, Kan.

The "Dollar Limit" is in effect. No single article in our stock is now priced more than one dollar and everything that was formerly priced above that is now reduced. This change has created many great bargains that clever buyers are rapidly snapping up. Besides these interesting offerings, we will offer many other special values to-morrow and Saturday.—McClure Ten Cent Co., Atlanta.

An opportunity marked by the most conspicuous economies—just such a bargain event as scores of thrifty home-fitters will only too gladly appreciate.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

It will be a memorable bargain event—in fact, it is so unusual—so extraordinary that we know when we quote what they are worth it will sound absurd, but then don't look at it in that light, but consider it from the standpoint of legitimate merchandising. We are getting our regular profit, and that's all we are entitled to. Some stores take a manufacturer's misfortune for an excuse to double their profits, but our policy prohibits that—sell as we buy.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

As we told you in last evening's paper, our store was crowded yesterday morning with people anxious to obtain some of the great bargains we advertised. The crowd kept coming all day—as fast as one purchaser left another was ready to take her place. Every one was delighted with the extraordinary values offered and many expressions of wonder at the unusual offerings were heard on all sides. The sale will be continued to-morrow and all this week while the stock lasts.—G. B. Peck Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Friday has come to be known as bargain day, and nothing suits us better, for it leads you to expect much and centers your attention, and we feel fully able to satisfy the most exacting with style, quality and price.—Hecht Bros., New York, N. Y.

There are hosts of matchless values here at prices that double the purchasing power of your money! Our thanks are due and heartily tendered our great public for their appreciation of our efforts to place before them the values of their lives. Your generous patronage, home-folks and visiting friends, during the earlier part of the Autumn season, assures us that we have succeeded beyond our fondest, most sanguine, optimistic expectations, and it has made possible the offering of these surpassing bargains.—Olds, Wortman & King, Portland, Ore.

Along the path of the great Friday "Economy Sales" eventful and pre-eminent career. Multitudes of inducements of the most surprising character will be here to tempt the shrewd shopper. Mammoth displays in every aisle—on every floor. Just the sort of sale that thousands of Portland's astute buyers will hail with delight. Bargains for women, bargains for men, bargains for girls, boys and infants—bargains for everybody at this Reliable store to-morrow. Bargains of the most pronounced sort. Not all are advertised—space forbids. Surprising bargains, every counter laden and every aisle lined with thousands of chances to save, and every special value is created on new, desirable, stylish fall merchandise of the wanted, quality sort.—Olds, Wortman & King, Portland, Ore.

We're going to hold a lace sale in this "Interesting Bargain Square" to-morrow. We have got entirely too large a stock of lace, and we're going to close out a big part of it. Some of this lace has never been out of the original packages—just as new and clean and bright as you could wish—but when it's lying idle on our shelves it means that we've capital invested that isn't working, and we've got to get our cash out of it.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Topeka, Kan.

You can not afford to miss the many matchless bargains offered here to-morrow. Extraordinary values abound throughout the store. We can not enumerate all lines here—can only hint at much of the best, so it will pay you to visit every section. The saving advantages offered have never excelled. Come in and see for yourself; you'll find every item exactly as advertised.—Kemp & Hebert, Spokane, Wash.

Festival of bargains all this week.—The Rines Co., Bangor, Me.

It has been our good fortune to put our hands on a stock belonging to a party who has been anxious to realize as best as he could and as quick as possible to quit the city. We got these handsome goods at our own prices. They have to be seen to be well appreciated. The finest description would not be sufficient.—Z. Paquet's, Quebec, Ont.

To-morrow will be a big day among the store's famous Bargain Fridays for the scores of sale-features, so important every one of them in pertinent economies that nobody with an eye to money-saving in any way can avoid their claim to immediate attention, are bound to make this great store hum with shopping enthusiasm as it has never hummed before.—Bloom-ingle's, New York, N. Y.

You will find a harvest of bargains here up to the last hour of the sale to-morrow afternoon, because the conditions are constantly creating new bargains. Department heads are instructed to prevent, from day to day, the accumulation of broken lines in their stocks.—Carson Pirie Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Here's a budget of bargain news fresh from the economy store. It's full to the brim with tidings of timely economics—of saving opportunities open to every reader of this brief message. Important that you should heed the invitation and be here Friday—important that you should come particularly on that day, because merchandise will then be on sale that will be gone by nightfall.—A. F. Hardie & Co., San Antonio, Texas.

This sale is a bargain event in the broadest sense of the word—comparative prices given here have been rigorously censored and we've underestimated the value in every instance. Everything you buy will be a better bargain than you read about.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Such bargains as have never been offered in this or any other store will be given in the sale that starts to-day. These are prices that will quickly reduce our stock of furs—which is just what we want to do this week, before stock-taking. These are bargains out of the ordinary in furs that are in every way dependable, thoroughly new in style.—Lit Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

A truly great sale is this Exposition Sale—bargains galore—and thrifty women who shopped here yesterday reaped a great harvest—saved many pennies by taking advantage of the special values we offered. Some lots are entirely gone, but new bargains have been added, and these we advertise to-day we have in abundance, but come early, as we cannot promise how long they'll last.—S. E. Kaufman, Trenton, N. J.

It is not often you have an opportunity like this, but you can always depend on getting the benefit of every bargain we get. These sample stocks and mill ends were secured by our buyer last week, and will be put on sale to-morrow. Half of the entire first floor will be devoted to this sale exclusively.—Bon Marche, Washington, D. C.

Now, gentlemen, we are going to show you what a bargain is, and we give you three days' time in which to act. We reserve nothing, nor do we restrict you in the number of suits you may select.—Berry Clothing and Shoe Co., Spokane.

BARGAINS! SPECIALS!

Attractive bargains will be offered this week in every department of this popular shopping place. Bright and sparkling values predominate the entire store.—Thomas C. Watkins, Hamilton, Canada.

Don't go on a wild goose chase in this weather. Come to the right spot where everything in boys' wear has been reduced. The great midsummer stock relief unloading sale places before you the finest boys' wear, at prices lower than actual cost of production. Be on time to-morrow for the best selections, as these extra bargains will not last very long.—Burk & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

No need to impress upon you that this is an extraordinary bargain event to-day. Prices tell the story strongly, but then there's one thing the price does not tell—something in reality which only an inspection can adequately tell. It's the handsome style-character of every garment—the very fine workmanship, excellence of material and exclusiveness.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Through some very fortunate purchases—from makers who supply our regular lines—we have some unusual bargains to offer to-morrow and this week in both trunks and bags. Part of the story follows.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

It would take a page to tell you all the bargains. We think you'd rather read this concise statement and come convinced that at no other time or place could you fill your needs so advantageously.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

It takes more than printer's ink and low prices to make a bargain. The merchandise must be right—the intrinsic value must be there, and above all each article must have a recognized standard of quality. The great buying public of to-day is educated—and, no matter how much noise a store is able to make, they'll take it with a grain of salt after they are fooled once.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

Remarkable buying opportunities are offered from every section of the store to-morrow. Every section of this immense establishment is overflowing with summer goods of the right sort—at the right prices for to-morrow's bargain day. The items are not to be judged by the prices affixed. If we are fortunate enough to buy at favorable prices and sell to you at equally favorable prices it's your profit. The qualities will not disappoint you, so read every item carefully, not one should be missed.—Lansburgh & Bros., Washington, D. C.

Whatever the mistakes we have made in buying, in having too large a stock on hand, you are to benefit by them. Wherever we have bought too many goods for the season's output, there is just the place where the prices will be lowered the most. And, in addition, there are thousands of dollars worth of odds and ends throughout the store which will be sold for less than the regular price.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City.

Our regular stocks are most interesting at this time. But to-day's special word is about the unusual opportunities of the day.—Wanamaker, New York.

It is safe to say that there's not a department in the whole store that hasn't daily from a dozen to a score of bargain surprises brought about by the typical Bloomingdale way of merchandising. There's hardly a maker or an importer who isn't planning for a big fall business, and the more these men plan the less use they have for lagging summer stock, both large and small.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

"A Bargain's a Bargain."—That's what used to be said in old-time storekeeping when you changed your mind and wanted to change the goods. When WE say "a bargain's a bargain" we mean to emphasize the quality of the goods—the amount of the saving—the reality of the advantage you get. We see they are so good you'll not change your mind, but if you do you can promptly get your money back.—Simpson, Toronto, Ont.

After the Rain Comes a Bright Sunburst of Bargains.—The rain has its gloomy side for us—but not for you. Why? Well, you never would have been offered bargains of such an extraordinary character as those noted below were it not for the miserable weather we've been having right along. Notwithstanding the fact that this store is always the busiest in Greater Pittsburg, there is no getting away from the fact that business was retarded to a considerable extent by the unfavorable weather. But those gloomy days will be forgotten by the enthusiasm aroused by the powerful reductions we are making. No department has been overlooked. The price-pruning knife has cut deeply. PROFITS ARE SWEEPED AWAY AND IN MOST INSTANCES YOU ARE OFFERED GOODS AT LESS THAN COST.

It is a remarkable sale, caused by remarkable conditions. In all frankness and sincerity we must say that no woman can afford to miss this sale. Dollars never had such glorious purchasing power as right now and here.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

BARGAINS! SPECIALS!

Tremendous Bargains in Things Everybody Wants.—Every corner, every section of every floor in this store join in presenting to you true economy in merchandise of extraordinary merit. Trade and weather conditions are responsible for these unusually low prices. Never before have we been able to offer you all that is newest and best at prices so much below the regular. It will be a month of great values. So much so that no one can afford to miss it.—C. R. Hawley & Co., Bay City, Mich.

We know the best bargains of the year are likely to turn up any morning, and we want all of the good ones.—Wanamaker, New York.

We were certain before the doors opened yesterday that this great merchandise event would be one of the most powerful trade attractions that this store has ever offered to its following—and the results simply justified this expectation. We are selling good merchandise cheap—much cheaper than our friends anticipated. The values tell the whole story. We don't believe they have ever been duplicated, either at this store or any other in many miles around. We provided liberal quantities of every special lot that was included in this sale. There's plenty for all—even a great day's business could take away only a part of the great supply. Come to-morrow, and in the morning, if you can. There are some extra good values, many of which were reserved for second day selling, that those who could not come yesterday would not be disappointed.—The G. M. McKelvey & Co., Youngstown, Ohio.

It will pay you to read and heed every-one of these bargains.—Gable Co., Altoona, Pa.

We will pitch some big bargains your way. Don't dodge them. Come and see. Let your own good judgment be the umpire.—The Berlin, Rochester, N. Y.

Glorious bargains that are record breakers of all past offerings in beautiful new goods. Let every patron of our store be assured that these immense reductions are genuine, true, straightforward and reliable, and that we stand behind each and every article, guaranteeing their excellence and the splendid money saving possibilities to you.—Brooklyn Furniture Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

What a glorious bargain day to-morrow will be! What a spectacular sight is this store full of useful and necessary merchandise at such stirring bargain prices! One might truthfully call to-morrow's sale a "personally conducted" sale, for we have gone from attic to cellar throughout this 350-ft store; from roof to basement of our great warehouse; from the top shelf to the bottom in each of our extensive stock rooms and piled out the big bargains where you can see and buy them.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Are you a judge of bargains? Even should you possess but a mild interest in values a single glance at these prices will open your eyes in amazement. Stop and think a moment. Here are object lessons in economy on strictly trustworthy, seasonable and dependable merchandise—trade temptations so strong as to be simply irresistible and proof positive as to the extraordinary power of your money.—Kennedy Bros., Oklahoma.

If you want bargains, now is your chance. Every department has felt the effect of the tremendous price cutting. Never were high grade goods sold like we'll sacrifice them this month. We must clear the shelves of all summer goods. We know in order to make a clean sweep the inducements will have to be rare, but you'll find them exactly as advertised. We never do things by halves. It really means a loss to us—all we want now is to get rid of all summer merchandise before August 1st.—P. B. Kearney, Schenectady, N. Y.

Five great floors teeming with bargains. History making events crowd one upon another in this annual special sale. Values of magnitude and importance are on every floor, on every counter, turn where you will. Twenty-four department managers, full of enthusiasm, are exerting themselves to present the best values in dependable merchandise this good old store ever offered, and they are succeeding beyond the fondest dreams of the money saver. The sun is shining—make hay.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

Resolute leadership demands that all the goods of a season be sold during that season. Mercantile success depends on selling so nearly out while profit is possible that the business isn't hurt by the loss in the wind-up. The values stated are the fair prices—our prices—in the earlier season.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

These special prices will prevail for the one day only, and it means a splendid money-saving opportunity for you. The prices are exceptional, the assortments are satisfactory, and you can buy with the full assurance that you're getting much more than usual value for your money.—Lantz, Mansfield, Ohio.

Probably every reader of this list of Friday bargains can select at least a score of items whose regular price and true worth the reader knows definitely. We are glad. It means that our patrons know for themselves the genuineness of our offers, the merit of our goods and the honest reductions in prices—making our Friday bargains the very best to be found anywhere.—J. N. Adams & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

When you think of this wonderful opportunity—a chance to choose at cost almost anything you want in the way of desirable merchandise from our immense stock—do you wonder enthusiastic buyers are crowding our big store, reaping this great sale's benefits? It's not in any one department that specials are offered. It is your once-a-year chance to select.—Brown, Thomson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

The first bargain day sale after inventory presents a series of unusual money-saving chances, as stock-taking shows up the odds and ends of goods that should have been cleared out before, but were not—broken assortments and oddments left over from our great January sale. To-morrow we intend making a thorough and complete clean up in all departments. Hence this extraordinary sale. Prices in most instances are halved and quartered. As some of the quantities in the under-mentioned lines are limited, we would advise you coming early. Eight o'clock is the best time to come.—The S. Carsley Co., Ltd., Montreal, Can.

THINGS WE NEVER SEE

A sheet from the bed of a river,
 A tongue from the mouth of a stream,
 A toe from the foot of a mountain
 And a page from a volume of steam;
 A wink from the eye of a needle,
 A nail from the finger of fate,
 A plume from the wing of an army,
 And a drink at the bar of a grate.

A hair from the head of a hammer,
 A bite from the teeth of a saw,
 A race on a course of study,
 And a joint from a limb of the law,
 A check that is drawn on a sand-bank,
 Some fruit from the jam of a door,
 And people who get better bargains
 Than at Chas. H. Loomis' Store.
 —Chas. H. Loomis, New Haven, Conn.

Genuine bargain offerings will greet Friday patrons. The lots placed on special clearance sale to-day, many of them will have been greatly depleted by such vigorous buying as was witnessed this forenoon, but more and other odds and ends and broken lines will be ushered forward for the second day's selling. Careful shopping will be rewarded to-morrow by appreciable savings.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

The once-a-year surpassing bargain event that deluges the town with its mighty underselling, and a sale that simply overwhelms all competition with its volcanic outburst of bargains, for this year it's better, greater, bigger than ever, and all Denver is invited to share in this merciless wreckage of prices and values. For weeks—yes months—we've been preparing for this event. Stock after stock has been scooped up at 25c to 33c on the dollar for spot cash, and the result is this, the most stupendous feast of bargains the West has ever witnessed—not only cheap goods but good goods and finest goods were all included in this mighty half a million dollar purchase, and if cheap selling counts for anything the crowds should be so great to-morrow and for the next ten days that this store will be the busiest beehive of activity ever seen in all the West. So bring $1 cash and get back $3, $4 or $5 in merchandise values—goods at prices that sell themselves is the watchword—for the whole world is challenged to match these prices—and we mean it too.—L. H. Guldman, Denver, Colo.

There's a general clearing movement throughout the store of all surplus goods and odds and ends. The price reductions on these are great and are such as to be had at no other time. A few days before stock taking will be made busy ones, as winter goods and broken assortments will be disposed of.—Sisson Brothers-Welden Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

The items below are just a few of those that call for your prompt and careful attention to the week-end's offerings in the various departments of this big store. Seasonable goods—always of strictly dependable quality—are offered you for less than you could get the same for at other times. It would pay you to investigate not only these but the hundreds of other offerings that mean such real economy for the wise shopper.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

No need to impress upon you that this is an extraordinary bargain event. Prices tell the story strongly, but then here's one thing the prices do not tell—something in reality which only an inspection can adequately tell. It's the handsome style character of every garment—the very fine workmanship, excellence of material and exclusiveness.—White House D. G. Co., Spokane, Wash.

Wise buyers will be here bright and early to-morrow. Splendid lots of seasonable and fashionable goods go on sale at prices that are in a great many cases but small fractions of their real value. We give below particulars of some of them; there are other just as great bargains that cannot find mention in this advertisement.—Thomas C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Cold weather is no hindrance when good bargains beckon. Dear knows, yesterday was wintry and cold and all that, but we believe the petticoat selling passed all records, though we can't be sure of a day's sales record to the dollar till next morning. Why the throng? Why the buying? Read on, then come see these lovely petticoats, the styles, the qualities and the values for yourself.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

The cleanup in the annex continues this evening at the phenomenally low prices which have been in force all day. There are plenty of good bargains left for this evening. It will pay you to come.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

We are trying to make Friday one of the busiest days of the week; how well we have succeeded, you may judge from the great crowds that throng this store from morning until late in the evening. This Friday will find us with an unusual amount of great snaps and bargains, and furthermore, this being our first week after inventory, we have found great quantities of remnants of fine table linens, crashes, odd napkins, odd towels and broken lots, in fact we have found too many odds and ends of all kinds, including remnants of white goods, muslins and sheetings.—Martin's, Peoria.

This department will have unusually forceful bargains on sale to-morrow. Good materials in short lengths and small lots at prices to close out. If these materials were in full lines or full bolts, you would be paying considerably more for them. Read over this list—see whether or not any materials are advertised you want, then come to this store to-morrow just as early as you possibly can.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Topeka, Kans.

Bargain Friday at Bloomingdales' means much to the shopper in search of meritable merchandise pleasingly priced. Roam where you will throughout our spacious establishment, you'll find everything marked lower than the same quality goods sell for in other stores. And the better judge of values you are the quicker you'll recognize the superiority of ours.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

Our crowded store can safely be taken as a criterion of the great values we are giving. The offering of desirable merchandise at the extreme low prices that we have put on all samples and odd lots from both our wholesale and retail departments has had a magnetic influence upon the purchasing public. Such opportunities are not neglected, and for this reason we have had busy days all week and they will continue, for every day has its special quota of great bargains.—Armbruster's, Columbus, Ohio.

These reductions are genuine; the make, mode and material exceptional; the bargains matchless.—Hillman's, Chicago, Ill.

The unprecedented nature of the bargains offered at the clearance sales would throng the store with parents and children at any time. Coming as they do in vacation season we confidently expect an overwhelming response. The bargains are so unequalled in their money saving possibilities that every reader will be impressed with our determination to clear out stocks regardless of the loss entailed.—Siegel Cooper Co., Chicago, Ill.

To give you an idea as to how we are sacrificing this stock, we give you these prices. The goods are displayed on tables in the store. Come and be your own salesman. Come early, as first pick means much. Bargains like these can't last always and won't.—The Fitwell Shoe Co., Topeka, Kans.

You will not wonder at it when you clap your eyes on the offerings that pervade every department. If you've a home of your own, in fact, or in prospect, and have a mite of love for it; and enjoy the securing of much for little, you'll surely be here on Saturday. The list that follows gives you but a slight idea of the wonderful bargain chances that await you.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

It is worth while dodging showers for these bargains.—S. Kann, Sons & Co., Washington, D. C.

There's even goodness throughout the entire list, so we've made no howling feature. Suffice to say—it's to be the greatest Thursday bargain sale we ever held.—King's Palace, Washington, D. C.

You have no idea what big bargains people got at our store this week! Some of them came back several times, buying every time. They cannot resist, for the prices are ridiculously low on such a staple line of goods. Everything is marked in perfectly plain figures. Come early and have your choice.—Margolis & Metzgu, Kansas City, Mo.

A rare saving opportunity—the greatest of the year here, the greatest offered anywhere at any time. A price-making event awaited by thousands who have been entirely convinced of the unsurpassed merit of the merchandise and of the unequalled lowness of the prices.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Our surplus in this department will entail a gigantic loss and this loss will be taken at once. Only the fact of being overstocked could afford a reason for such ruthless sacrifice.—The Lewis Store, Denver, Colo.

Somewhere on the broad Atlantic a giant ocean steamer is plowing its way westward. In its hold are bales and bales of the finest goods manufactured abroad—picked up by our own buyers in the great marts of Europe—all personally selected with a view to meeting the favor of our discriminating trade. To make room for this grand display we will sacrifice much of our present stock of dry goods and the bulky, room-taking stocks at prices which will challenge comparison. This will not be a clearance of left-overs and odds and ends, but our final farewell to stocks the like of which you cannot duplicate elsewhere at our full regular prices; perfect goods, that you will never find offered cheaper than they are to-day.—Adam, Meldrum & Anderson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

In order to be successful a properly conducted business should show a fair margin of profit at the close of each season, but there are times in the life of every successful business when it is found expedient not only to face but to welcome loss.—The May Co., Denver.

Today will be a notable day in this store. We'll be frank with you. We intend to break our highest selling records, and to this end we've arranged to offer in every section throughout the house values that will insure a new mark for high record sales. The price reductions we have made would not be considered for one moment in the regular course of business.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Glance over this list, pick out what you need and act on the impulse the prices give you. At some little pains we have gone through our furniture sale stock and attempted to give a comprehensive list of examples in the savings it affords. That we have only given you a suggestion of the variety opportunity it affords goes without saying.—Simpson, Toronto, Can.

To the woman whose spending money is limited and who is seldom able to take advantage of bargains owing to the smallness of her purse, this great chance is truly a benefactor. Really, a little money will go a long way here.—Dancer Brogan & Co., Lansing, Mich.

Have you ever been fooled by paper bargains? A bargain means real quality combined with a low price. Come here to-morrow and you'll find that Wallblom's bargains are real. The goods are just as represented. Every item listed is a bargain. Prices in every department of our store have been cut to the quick for Monday's selling.—The Wallblom Furniture & Carpet Co., St. Paul.

Think of Bargain News that Remains Untold. One page is insufficient to hold the news of this great progressive city of stores. Here's a page as crowded as it should be to make comfortable reading. Yet the story of the Strauss millinery stock which we are selling cheaper than we have ever heard of millinery being sold has been omitted—the tale of how we are selling four carloads of 80c screen doors for 43c remains untold—the news of the greatest fireworks sale in Kansas City has been crowded out—the facts regarding grocery and drug prices and a most eventful housefurnishing sale are not mentioned. And so it is. Every section of these six great floors has news worthy of much space—a newspaper page cannot be made to hold it. Think over this; come and look into the unadvertised bargains which are to be found in every nook and cranny of this hustling young store.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Hurry—don't be out-bargained. Come to-morrow if possible. First choice is always best. There's wide choice for early comers, but few of a kind, and, as present prices end with present lots, you'll be out-bargained by early buyers if you permit anything to interfere.—W. H. Keech Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

You have perhaps noticed that we seldom use the word "Bargain" in our advertisements. In fact, this is the first time for several years that we have used the word. Why? Because it is used so indiscriminately and on such slight provocation that it has lost its real meaning. But when we made up the lots of fine cotton dress goods to hold this special sale there was only one word that would adequately describe the collection—that word was "Bargain," so we dubbed the table "The Bargain Counter," and here is what it contains this week.—Strouss & Hirshberg, Youngstown, O.

Don't let all the bargains get away from you!—Chas. E. Black, Bangor, Me.

Every line is a bargain, every department replete with surprises.—Scoggie's, Montreal, Can.

Bargain Tabloids for Morning Shoppers.—The Broadway Department Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

It's with bigger bargains we will make the last days of this sale the busiest.—The Crandall, Los Angeles, Cal.

All reliable and useful goods, no trash in the lot. The Nonpariel would not buy trash if it were cheap as air. Extra provisions have been made to handle a tremendous crowd, and the crowd will be with us to a certainty. If you're wise you'll be in that crowd—it will pay you. In addition to the plunder, we are adding thousands of dollars' worth of regular goods at plunder prices.—Wasserman, Kaufman & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

A Special Feature of This Sale will be a Bargain Table, on which will go all of the orphans. By orphans we mean odd suits, odd trousers, odd vests and all of the odds and ends that we find loafing around. Don't miss this bargain table. You'll be sure to find there something that you can use, and we shan't quarrel about the price.—Coolley Bros., Westfield, Mass.

Bargains—Bountiful and Almost Boundless. Bountiful—Generous are the reductions and full in measure the quality and seasonableness. Boundless—For every department contributes everything that must be cleaned up with the close of the half-year's business. Saturday this store will teem with bargains.—Dayton's, Minneapolis, Minn.

Each of the following items merits the careful consideration of every economically inclined man and woman in Syracuse. The offerings are exceptional, unusual and have the true ring of merit in every "Special." These weekly bargain Thursdays are important, interesting and profitable to all from the standpoints of buying and selling and you will serve your best interests by visiting this store Thursday.—E. W. Edwards & Son, Syracuse, N. Y.

Mothers who each Monday take advantage of our liberal Children's Day bargains are not the only ones who are profited by this special day; we profit also—by clearing out the broken lines and odds lots left from the previous week's business—it's our unique way of keeping the children's stocks fresh.—The Union, Columbus, Ohio.

Truly wonderful in every sense of the word, and there are hundreds of other equally attractive specials which we cannot begin to mention in this limited space. Come here to-morrow by all means and get your share of the bargains in this great reduction sale. They are breaking all previous May sale records. Never before were such values offered so early in the season.—Rothenberg & Co., New York.

Bargain is a word that is generally understood to mean more than ordinary value, and nowhere in the realms of retail merchandising is this so well exemplified as here, especially on Friday, when extraordinary efforts are put forward by every manager in the house to make his or her particular department show up best in the matter of sales at the end of the day, thus insuring to shoppers the worth of their money many times over, and sending them away happy in the thought that it always pays best to buy at Bloomington, New York, N. Y.

We are sacrificing all kinds of merchandise at positively half value and many goods at less than half value. Our reasons. Firstly, the very backward and cold spring has curtailed the sale of spring and summer goods to such an extent that we now have nearly three times as many goods as we should have. We realize that in about a month the sale of these goods is nearly at an end; we cannot afford to carry them over to next season, because next season they will be out of style, shopworn, and last but not least, we need the money that would be tied up in them for nearly a year—for our next season's purchases.—Henry Stein, St. Paul, Minn.

To-day's news tells of the great piece goods offerings for Thursday. Every piece goods department has some remarkable opportunities, offerings that would have been impossible but for this Cleveland purchase. Lots are growing less, daily, so you had better "make hay while the sun shines."—The Bowland, Morehouse & Martens Co., Columbus, O.

Thirty wonderful bargains. An occasion of bona fide reductions throughout the store for one day only—the most important bargain event in recent years. We intend making to-morrow a day that will be remembered in the retail shopping world—a day that will over-reach any former attempt at bargaining by this or any other concern. We could dwell at great length upon the tremendous price cuts we have made, but it is unnecessary—every item speaks for itself. The great rush that this whirl of bargains will bring here may sweep some lots out in a very short time, so we cannot assure late comers of finding all they may have decided to buy. But don't let this warning deter you from coming, for there will be enough of some things left to more than make it worth your while attending. As always we will refund your money if your purchase is unsatisfactory.—The David Straus Co., Newark.

A bargain cyclone has struck the town—One man's loss is another's gain. We have made many a good deal, but never such a deal as this. We may have bought goods cheaper before, but we have never bought such seasonable goods, so much underpriced. That the store is crowded from morning until night—that everyone is pleased—that all are buying two and three and four times as much as they anticipated purchasing, is the best evidence that the public appreciates our efforts to furnish the world's best bargains. The sale is in full blast; each day new articles are thrown out on the counters, lots of which we have not time to mention in the papers. "If you don't see what you want, ask for it," is as old as the nursery rhymes; yet it fits in here; for the big stock purchased cannot all be placed on exhibition at one time. Large as the store is, it is not large enough to accommodate this large scoop, in addition to our own regular stocks.—N. Y. Bargain Clothing Store, Denver, Col.

Biggest bargain of the season—We worked hard with a famous maker to get up for you the greatest shirt waist dress surprise you ever had—the description reads even more like that of a $25.00 value—the model is pretty beyond price; silk is of superior quality—the tailoring is perfection.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

An honest, useful word that through wide abuse has come to be considered with suspicion by many people. Yet there are very real bargains—opportunities which no other word so well describes. A certain percentage of the world's goods, perhaps as much as ten per cent., get into wrong hands and have to be sold at a loss to set the balance straight. The real bargains come most frequently, of course, to the best and biggest stores—the stores that have the greatest outlet. In Brooklyn, for instance, the greatest number of these special values are presented through the Loeser store, and from day to day we print the news of them. Know your store—be sure that it is dependable, and by watching for these opportunities it is possible to save a great deal of money in the course of a year on the goods that have to be purchased. To-day we tell the news of numerous special offerings that are in the bargain class—that present exceptional economies to Brooklyn people.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

This is the store for bargains, no matter where you go, from one end of the city to the other. Can't find a place to suit you as well as this good old reliable grocery, where every article, big or little, is priced so low that defies all competition. Come down to-morrow and try us; bring a few dollars and leave an order. We save you money.—New York Grocery, Pittsburg, Pa.

Here's a mine of wonderful values—a bargain mine that will yield up its treasures this week, according as you dig more or less deeply. A wave of underpricing has swept over the entire store. Every department is affected. We've gone through the entire house and made up a list of specials that will stand without precedent or parallel.—Hartman Furniture and Carpet Company, Louisville.

Bulging bargains.—M. B. Young, Atlanta, Ga.

A bargain feast.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

We'll satisfy your bargain longings to-day with choice offerings not usually found on the bargain list.—Globe Warehouse, Scranton, Pa.

On the bargain square. A sweeping remnant sale of laces, embroideries and trimmings at half price. A remnant sale containing some of the greatest bargains we've ever given. Stock taking shows that in some lines odd lengths have accumulated so we have gathered these all together for one day's mighty selling and at exactly half price. The assortment contains Persian appliques, bands and braids, in many beautiful colorings and designs. Venice and Baby Irish lace, bands and appliques in many exquisite patterns; also a splendid variety of embroideries, some are long enough for waists; then there are thousands of yards of laces and the designs are so varied that everyone can be more than pleased. Friday, choice, half price.—Rhodes Bros., Tacoma, Wash.

Big bargains without argument.—People's Merc. & D. G. Co., Richmond, Utah.

Here's a tempting list—every one worthy the name of bargain, surely.—G. W. Kennedy, Vancouver, B. C., Canada.

Friday Our Great Bargain Day. Set apart by us as the greatest bargain day in the week. It promises, from its rapid growth, to be the busiest day, and we intend to make it so.—R. B. Maxwell & Co., Mansfield, O.

Friday bargains. To do a fine thing one day and sit down idly for the rest of the week is impossible. We do our best every day, but Friday is the regular time for clearing out odd lots and assortments.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

Another Big Friday. Our constant endeavor is to offer on Friday such things as are absolutely needful; to give bargains that are bargains in every sense of the word, and those well worth your time and attention. This policy has transformed Friday, a day looked upon and accepted by many stores as one of inevitable dullness, into a day of extraordinary activity.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

It is certainly a fact that the folks in this town like prosperity—they surely came and prospered in the last few days. But we are ready for you—there are hundreds of money savers waiting till some clever person sees them—then out they go.—Weil & Arnold, Youngstown.

We cannot emphasize too strongly the opportunity here presented for the saving of money. In every department the most extraordinary price cutting is very much in evidence, while on many items mentioned below the prices are the lowest ever heard of.—Bergermans, Pueblo, Col.

A boon to the frugal housewife. You profit by the misfortune of others. Immense crowds of people all eager to avail themselves of the sacrifice.—The People's Store, Schenectady, N. Y.

Introductory price-marks in keeping with the bargain sentiment prevalent throughout the store.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

Some real bargains. These money-saving items define the word bargain in the best and truest sense. They are cheap because worth is linked with little price. True economy—every one of them.—W. H. Keech Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

There's bargain meaning in every line of this advertisement. Best news in the paper to-day. Don't have to hunt for it either.—Perkins, Charlottetown.

BARGAINS! SPECIALS!

Bargains like these are not to be found every day. Things that have hitherto been thought to be out of your reach are now placed before you for little or nothing. Dimes and dollars—yes, even pennies—will do mighty work here this week. Just how mighty can be easily found out by spending but a few minutes reading the important news.—Wolff & Marx, San Antonio, Tex.

It is good house-cleaning to go through this department every Spring. In doing so recently we came across a lot of pure silk Jersey ribbed vests, hand crocheted and lace trimmed necks and sleeves, that are slightly soiled. They are in white, cream, pink and light blue. We want to realize cost out of them—this will suit us better than placing them with our regular lines. We make the clearing out price so attractive that they will leave us without delay.—Titche-Goettinger Co., Dallas, Tex.

For over thirty years we have proved that our easy payment plan is perfection, and shrewd, sensible people soon realized this fact, and have made every business day mutually pleasant and profitable. We guarantee to send you away in a more than pleased frame of mind—you'll go home really jubilant, for you never saw such bargains before.—John Mulins & Sons, Jersey City, N. J.

There Are Still Some Left.—We have had a tremendous success with our January sale of stock taking bargains, and although the selling has been heavy, we have still lots of good bargains left.—House & Herrmann, Washington, D. C.—Jan. 18, 1903.

The Basement Has Rare News.—We've a preference for telling even rarest news quietly—the man whose course of action brings the engines to a fire isn't the one who runs up and down the street and yells, but he who unostentatiously goes to a box and turns in an alarm. There are bargains "in the Basement"—Dinner Sets at a third off, Tea Sets nearly as cheap, and hosts of other things at a good deal less than you usually pay.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.—Feb. 8, 1903.

Bargains to wind up our winter stock before we take our inventory.—The climax of our before stock-taking clearance.—Moses & Krieger, Bridgeport, Conn.—Jan. 30, 1903.

The crowning triumph of bargain giving.—Clarke Brothers, Scranton, Pa.

We start bargains here at 8 o'clock every morning that are ripe to pick in an hour, and they are picked.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Bargains! Aristocratic bargains, if you please, but bargains in the purest, widest sense of the word. The kind of a bargain that you'd crave at the full price and eagerly pounce upon at the reduced price.—Field, Schlick & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

What is a bargain? A bargain is something you need at less money than you've been accustomed to pay. It's no use advertising goods as bargains when they are not—we don't. Take a good look at the lines mentioned here and you'll be convinced. Don't wait until too late to get the best values. We're ready at 8 o'clock to serve you.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

If bargains don't come to us we go out and find them and never put them in cold storage. They knock at our doors every hour, from everywhere on the round globe. The "open door" sustained by the government of the United States means bargains at Matthews', and you will find them here tagged with our small profit system on every floor. We are alive to the "main chance," and so is our public.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"It's a long lane that has no turning." From time immemorial, Fridays have been considered mile-posts along the lane of ill-luck. But when we opened up the trail through dividend days, what a bountiful country of good fortune they led you to, for bargain buyers, and to-morrow—the thirteenth, one of them—outshines all its predecessors with the splendor of its values. No tempting fate if you buy to-morrow.—P. A. Bergner & Co., Peoria, Ill.

"This paper says," observed the husband, who was reading the morning paper, "that Lipton will cut down his sail area."

"I suppose he would," answered the wife, pouring the coffee.

"You suppose he would?"

"Why, yes; I read on the woman's page of the paper last night that he thought the American bargain sales were wonderful."

BATHING SUITS

From extreme to extreme our collection of bathing suits is complete, from an unpretentious suit at one ninety-five to an elaborate costume of silk at nineteen-fifty; our stock includes fifty-one distinctive models.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Stylish, durable and exceptionally low priced for this time of the year are three points that will hasten your selection here to-day. They are stunning beach costumes, newest models. Note one thing in getting a suit for the low price quoted, it is your suit, never worn by anyone else—that you can't say of a rented suit, hundreds have worn it; enough to make anyone repel at the idea. Your own suit is a sensible sanitary precaution.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

The sun is high and the water is warm. The waited-for occasion is at hand, prepare your bathing suit, get ready for these healthful, invigorating plunges, these pleasurable little battles with the warm, splashy waves. You will take a new suit to the shore? See ours, and you will surely pack one of them in your trunk. For we have a superb assemblage, both in misses' and ladies' sizes, plenty of dash and prettiness about them, lots of style, and, with all, fabrics especially made for bathing suit use. Also, we are showing wide assortments of bathing caps and slippers, things that every bather needs. Our prices in these, as in the suits, are matchless for their moderateness.—Wolfson Bros., Jersey City, N. J.

The styles for women this year are even more dressy than last season; the shape of the waist, the fine plaiting and even the trimming make them look much like pretty shirtwaists; the chief difference being that the necks are lower, finished in round and square styles, though some have sailor collars. The materials are brilliant mohairs, surf cloths, taffeta silks, and shepherd's checks fabrics. The skirts are in pretty gored and plaited styles; the waists are in full blouse, taffeta silks, and shepherd's check fabrics, simple tailor-stitching, others are elaborately trimmed with braid.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Nothing so quickly stamps a woman or a girl as smart or careless about style as her bathing suit. And little wonder, for nothing in the entire range of femininity's requirements is quite so exacting. A bathing suit must be elegant in the most modest of ways and it must be on the very tilt of fashion or make its wearer look and feel the part of the back number. It will not be our fault this season if each and every woman and girl in Brooklyn who delights in surf bathing and swimming is not a charming picture in her bathing costume. The suits that have been made for us are the prettiest thus far and that surely is saying much.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women's bathing suits! Snug and trim; and ever so many pretty effects seen in the season's dresses are carried out on them. Many are in simple but smart shirtwaist style. Blouse models with pretty collars are also plentiful. A number of graceful yoke effects are seen. Skirts on some are plaited and tucked. But, no matter which of the score of pretty styles you choose, you'll find the material excellent in quality, the making thorough and durable, bloomers extra wide—everything that promises comfort and good wear has been carefully looked after. The bathing suit you get here will not only look pretty and stylish, but will give you good return in wear for what you pay for it.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Bought your new bathing suit yet? The daintiest, most individual suits we ever had are here now. "With longer skirts and sleeves they would make smart dresses," said one woman.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women's bathing suits in charming new styles.—It's so easy to fall into a rut in making bathing suits, and turn out the same styles by the dozen—styles that look like nine out of every ten suits you'll see on the beach.

A bathing suit should be selected with at least the same care as to its style, material and practicability as any summer suit a woman wears. Our suits have been made for us under the strictest specifications to cover those points. They are stylish and prettily becoming—but they are bathing suits that are made to give ease in swimming, comfort in every way. Bathing suits of brilliantine, made with square neck—elbow sleeves—full plaited waist—some trimmed with black and white braid—others with all black—3.98.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

It's no small temptation (if one is a woman) to pick out a bathing suit by the looks of it rather than by the probable wear of it. Down in every woman's heart is the determination to look her very best in her bathing suit. So, in addition to seeing that Loeser bathing suits shall make pretty women as pretty as they want to look on the beach, we take special care ourselves, that material and workmanship shall be all that practical women ought to insist on in a bathing suit.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Bathing suits made in the most becoming styles in the light, non-clinging materials.—Chas. A. Stevens, Chicago.

For a dip in the deep, bathing suits in black and blue, plain and varicolored edges, and some in color combinations, $1 to $3.75.—Meigs & Co., New Haven.

Don't borrow. Don't rent. Own your own. 'Tis cheaper in the end and better all the while. Lots of pretty ones await you here.—Campbell's, Pittsburg.

Ayres styles are absolutely correct. Such suits as are here come direct from a New York maker who is authority for most of the new ideas brought out among the bathers of fashionable seaside resorts. In material, cut and embellishment you will find them satisfactory in every regard.—L. S. Ayres, Indianapolis, Ind.

But it takes a lot more study and thought to evolve suits that have distinctive character. And it is just the care we bestow on these Wanamaker bathing suits for women that differentiates them from the common run, and makes them clever, and original, and stylish. We instil our ideas and enthusiasm into the maker, and keep after him until he produces the ideas and absorbs the enthusiasm.—The Wanamaker Store, New York, N. Y.

Woman's bathing suits. Everybody who cares anything about hygiene—or saving money—will own her own bathing suit. It is merely a matter of choice this year whether you want one from France or America. All of the new suits are as carefully cut and made as a shirtwaist dress. The skirts are gored; some of them are made with clusters of tucks running up and down the front breadth, and the blouses are cut long-waisted and trimmed with tucks or small box-pleats. Nothing over elaborate—nothing bulky in the way of trimming—but plenty of style. For those who object to sun-burned necks and arms, there are bathing suits with high-necked blouses and long sleeves. Many of them are to be worn with white turn-over collars and cuffs.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Bathing season begins Saturday at Seneca Park swimming pool. All who want to learn to swim will be instructed. Our contribution to your enjoyment of this privilege—and of similar ones for all who journey to lakeside and seashore—is to be found in an unusually fine array of bathing suits from which first pick of the season may now be had. Many novelties are among the new lines. For example, there's a young woman's style finished all over with vertical tucks, and another with low round neck and large button ornaments and white stitching. No better material than mohair has yet appeared, and this is largely used. Thanks to pretty and abundant trimmings, the suits are more beautiful than ever.—Burke, FitzSimons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

It's time to think about your bathing suit. Soon you'll be hieing away to ocean beach or lakeside resort—welcoming the opportunity of a plunge into the waves. When you pack your trunk don't forget bathing suits.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

These suits are made of pure wool mohair chemically treated so that it does not absorb water to make you uncomfortable while bathing. Every movement is free and easy. That's a characteristic about all our bathing suits that makes them preferable to any other.

Buy a bathing suit and go to the lake. You'll be more comfortable and do better work next week. The necessary outlay is reduced to a minimum.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Thinking of taking a plunge in cooling waters pretty soon? A visit to our store will put you in touch with a fine array of prettiest bathing costumes.—Beadle & Sherburne Co., Rochester.

One man does not care to wear another man's clothes—the same applies or should apply to bathing suits. Owning one means that you can dress at your hotel or cottage—you will have a suit that fits, as well.—Lazarus, Columbus.

Visit the beaches and see the numbers enjoying the "sea dip." It is quite the proper thing now, and to learn to swim is of the greatest importance. A becoming bathing suit, one that is distinctive in style, well made and of good material is equally important.—The Charles Monson Co., New Haven, Conn.

Bathers' becoming belongings.—Better own your own suit, one that is reliably made and that won't rip or tear. Women's brilliantine suits, black or navy blue; collar, skirt and sleeves tastefully trimmed with four rows of white braid, full cut and all sizes; usually $2.50, at $1.89. Men's two-piece suits, made of navy blue cotton, at 39c. Men's two-piece all worsted suits, navy with stripes, two grades, all sizes, at $2.75.—Newman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ten chances to one Sunday is going to be a very warm day. That's why you cannot afford to miss this great Saturday sale and go out along the beach for an exhilarating plunge on the following day.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

Fancy? Yes, but without transgressing good taste. They are two-garment suits of fine worsted in blue, oxford or black, with red or white stripes on both trunks and shirt, which is without sleeves.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Bargains for surf bathers.—Exclusive Excellence at reckless prices. Samples and odd lots from the Ocean Bathing Suit Co., New York. Some of the richest bathing suits used on American beaches are the product of the Ocean Bathing Suit Co., of New York. We procured from this company the entire accumulation of odd lots and samples of this season's product, comprising men's, women's, boys' and girl's bathing suits; the collection is too varied for detailed description.—Newman, Brooklyn.

We have bathing suits of many styles and prices—of the ever-popular mohair; of surf cloth, which is first cousin to mohair; of flannel, for those who want the warmth and don't mind the extra heaviness; and suits of silk, the most fashionable of all.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

For women.—Brilliantine bathing suits. The ocean is calling these days and, they do say, that the bathing was never so good. It is seldom you can obtain bathing suits so good for so little money.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Of course you want your own bathing suit. When else do you wear other people's clothes?

Bathing suits for men and boys. The particular man takes his own bathing suit to the shore—just as he takes his own shirts and underwear. He would not alternate the service of a suit of underwear with his best friend. No more would he, a bathing suit. The man who does not take his own suit has to harden his sensibilities every time he takes a dip. But many particular men forget. This is your reminder. Here are suits as inexpensive as a man could wish; and here are others as handsome as they are made. But the cheapest as well as the finest, is well made, and will hold its color.—Wanamaker, New York.

New bathing suits for women.—Learn it direct by inspecting our showing of bathing suits that women want—from the best makers that we know of—the models selected on merit of beauty and service. Stylishly cut and designed, tastefully trimmed but nothing garish. All sorts of different surf materials.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

It is only a plain statement of fact to say that we have more kinds of bathing suits that women want, at prices they want to pay, and better styles than at any other store in town.—Connolly & Wallace, Scranton, Pa.

Nothing is more serviceable than serge for bathing suits. No other fabric will give more wear about the beach. Made up in the becoming manner these are, certainly nothing could look neater.—Siegel, Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

Without question, this season has brought out the handsomest bathing suits ever made for women and our stock is representative of all the smartest and best styles that have been produced. The variety is particularly broad.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Bathing suits. Never understood why they called them bathing suits, or why the act of going in the water is called bathing. Swimming suits and frolicing in the water are more sensible terms. But we are not going to set up as dictators of correct terms. What we want to say is that it is much better, more satisfactory to be the owner of your bathing suit.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Women's surf and beach suits are ready. The best models have been chosen from the leading makers in this line; and to further make the Gimbel stocks the most desirable, we have had styles designed especially for us, adding hint and suggestion prompted by our experience of your preferences. Particular attention has been given to the fit of the skirt; and we have all numbers sized to fit large and small women, as well as the regular sizes. And special sizes will be delivered on short notice. One fact is a noticeable rule: Fancy bathing suits are in very slight showing, indicating the prevalence of a quiet, good taste in this respect. Probably more tights will be worn than heretofore, as they allow a greater freedom of movement when swimming.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Bathing suits for men. A most complete stock—prices without equal. The time is here when the eager bathers will want to take their first dip in the briny waters. And the question arises, Is my suit all right? If not, here is the place to right your wants. Last year our stock of men's bathing suits was the largest hereabouts, this year it is larger still. Last year our prices were most economical, this year they are more so.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Men's bathing suits.—Own a suit; don't rent one. The unhygienic conditions of most rented suits causes skin disorders which are hard to cure. If you go to the beach often, the service you get in the course of a season from a suit you buy, makes it an economical proposition to you to have your own.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Think of renting bathing suits.—Here are some reminders to our men friends of the advisability of owning one's own bathing suit instead of wearing one that is worn by a different person every hour in the day at a vacation resort.—

Bathing suits wanted.—Of course, by every man and boy who will be near the water on the "Glorious Fourth." Get them here if money is any object.—Snellenburg, Philadelphia, Pa.

To better your swim, wear better bathing suits. The production of "Better bathing suits" is our highest aim. Long before you began to think about where you were going to spend your vacation we were busy planning and making bathing suits for you to take along.—J. J. Pfister, San Francisco, Cal.

Negligee garments for men.—Leave your stiff shirts at home and enjoy perfect freedom of the body while on your outing at the beach. Also provide yourself with a bathing suit and a nice bath robe to be worn when coming from the surf to prevent catching cold. A little protection now saves doctor's bill later.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Bathing suits of wool.—Men who are near the water will want to take a plunge if the day is favorable. When you start on the summer outing put a bathing suit in your grip.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

You'll be hurrying away soon to the seashore, the bathing suit must not be forgotten, and it is not merely looks that are sacrificed when you depend on a suit that is hired and worn by you know not whom.

Women's bathing suits.—Every day is their day now. Somebody is always starting off for the shore and wanting a bathing suit to pack in her grip at the last moment. They are here from $2 to $26.50—starting at surf cloth and running up through the whole range of flannel, mohair and serge, to silk.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

It is only a plain statement of fact to say that we have more kinds of bathing suits that women want, at more prices that they want to pay, and better styles than any other store in the country. A look around the part of the store where seashore people are getting fitted out will soon convince you.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Ladies' and children's bathing suits.—June and July afforded few opportunities for delightful dips into Neptune's waters. August promises to do better. Throw in a bathing suit when you pack up for an outing.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr, Rochester, N. Y.

Women's bathing suits.—August at last, and with it the usual exodus. People can stand June and July in town, but the dog days frighten most of us off—generally to the sea. Every man and woman ought to make it his duty to gain as much strength as possible. And the way to do it is to live outdoors—not in a rolling chair, but on the sand, in the sea, sailing, fishing, gunning.—Wanamaker's, New York.

BEDDING

One of the unexplained mysteries of life is how difficult it is sometimes to get into a comfortable position when you go to bed, and how unusual to find one that isn't comfortable when you have to get up.—Puck.

A great lot of underpriced bedding, particularly blankets and comforts. Don't flatter yourself that you will be offered bedding later on for smaller prices. Impossible to get prices down lower.—Joseph Home Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Snow-drifts of fresh, new, white bedspreads. New arrivals, crisp and dainty, are just here—to go with the beds and mattresses which the February furniture sale is sending out every day.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

A lot of bed clothing as light in price as it is light in weight for summer use.—Frederick Loeser, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Bedding lightly priced.—There is no need to sleep on the floor either this week end or next—be the house ever so full—when you can get bedding for so little as we are offering it to-day.—Alfred Edmondson's, Morecambe, Eng.

Your thought to summer slumbers for a moment. This is the week in which it will particularly pay you to give attention to light weight comfortables and the pillows. We plan for the city home and the summer cottage in our provisions. Digest fully the list below. A comfortable subject all around—comfortables—comfortable pillows—most comfortable prices for you.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr, Rochester, N. Y.

Over in the linen store are being shown some beautiful embroidered linen bedspreads, such as the artistic summer home will require. The hand-embroidery on these pieces was done by Irish peasants. Prices range from $10 up to $110 each.—The Wanamaker Store, New York, N. Y.

Bed coverings for country homes.—We'll grant that, in New York City, you may not need many blankets of a summer night. But you don't have to go far out of town to find the mere sheet and the open window a chilly combination. Here are the proper sorts of bed clothing, if your summer cottage lacks a sufficient supply for yourself and your guests.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Nothing quite like the satisfied feeling that comes when you open the closet door and see the big piles of snowy sheets and pillow cases, is there, Mrs. Good Housekeeper? Improve this opportunity!—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

We have yet to hear of a display of these splendid bed coverings that will compare with the collection we have gathered this season. It is unequalled—its completeness in keeping with the high character of the woolens and ribbons that enter into the making of every blanket.—Macy's New York, N. Y.

Here, also—the Annual opportunity. The most particular housekeeper knows that the beds and bedding sold at Koch's are precisely right—that we look to the inside as well as the outside. You who buy during this week will save money away beyond expectations.—Koch & Co., New York City.

Housewives are keen judges of bedding values. Glance through these little odd lots. To clear the way for stock-taking we'll make short work of such goods that have revealed out to broken lots. A good time to think of future needs. The list proves the savings.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Bed and bedding prices going up. We have been notified that on December 1st the price on beds, springs, mattresses, etc., advanced in price owing to the increase in the cost of labor and materials. Hence, this sale should be of keen interest to all contemplating the purchase of such articles in the near future, for they are lower in price for Tuesday and Wednesday than we can probably ever offer them again. How about brass beds as Xmas gifts?—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

Now is the time to buy bedding. No news more timely than this. Exceptional good buying opportunities in blankets, comforters and pillows. Values claiming the attention of housewives who have "gone through" home stocks and find a shortage.—Robinson & Co., Winnipeg.

BEDS

Neptune—"What in thunder is that mermaid trying to turn those rocks over for?"

The Sea Serpent—"She's going to take a nap, and she's afraid there's a merman under the bed of the ocean."
—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

New brass beds—new iron beds. In anticipating spring house cleaning, this week is a splendid time to discuss the matter of the brass beds and the iron beds you intend to use either in your own sleeping room or the spare rooms of your home. We don't know that we have anything special to say of our new lines of brass beds other than that they are represented by the very best beds that it is possible for brass workers to make. In selecting our brass beds we got away from garishness as far as possible. We believe most people like simplicity, and where richness is desired simplicity is its best aid. This is true of anything—in a greater degree, however, with brass beds.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

$1.95—that's all. Less than the freight alone would be if shipped to you. And the cheapest iron bed—not in Spokane alone, but in the whole Northwest, by at least one-third. Your choice of blue, white or green enamel, full or three-quarter size. We've more elaborate patterns in many colors and brass trimmings.—Robbins, Pratt & Robbins, Spokane, Wash.

Buy that iron bed now. Never will you have the opportunity to buy iron beds of the same quality at anywhere near the prices we are asking for the special line of bedsteads we are closing out this week. It has been a great week of iron bed selling for us, still there are many to choose from yet. Come in and look the line over if you are at all interested; we are confident of the result—you will buy.—Davis, Smith & Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Iron beds. Our salesroom presents a bewildering scene as you look down the long lines of beautiful beds. This year more than ever are the fancy colored enamels used. The designs are entirely new and more elaborate than usual.—The Hannah & Lay Mercantile Co., Traverse City, Mich.

The story of this week begins with a chapter on couches and beds. The people who live longest are the people who keep regular hours and sleep enough and comfortably. The American rests less than any other man—some of you should share in the comfort of a couch.—Coven-try-Evans Furniture Co., Utica, N. Y.

Values extra good in bedsteads. Good fortune has certainly treated us with her sunniest smiles in a recent purchase of bedsteads—though we had to fight for it. We have been "dickering" with the manufacturer for months to close a deal for bedsteads at last July's prices—and landed him. Bedsteads you know have taken a big jump upward since then.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

These artistic white enameled steel beds have heavy posts and artistically bent head and foot board design; are strongly made with well brazed joints; they are the easily cleanable kind, cool and comfortable.—Whalen Bros., Brooklyn, N. Y.

These are practically double beds or couches; one section is made to slide underneath the other, though when placed alongside, for a double bed, mattresses are of equal height; they can be used as two single beds, two single couches, one single couch or a double bed; built of bronze iron frames, fitted with National wire and helical spring ends.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

Recently a man wanted to know if a bed sold at a very little price was strong enough to hold him. He was very heavy. He was informed that we never sold any bed that would not hold any man short of a monstrosity. Indeed, the wonder in our brass and enameled bed sale as well as in all other big events is not so much that the prices are small as that the goods they mark are so unusually worthy in every way.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

There's a wide difference in brass beds. There is one that is cheap, in the "cheap" sense, and the purchaser gets cheap return for his money. We have brass beds that are cheap at the prices.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Brass and iron bedsteads.—Our stock of brass and enameled bedsteads for spring and summer represents values that are very unusual. All-brass bedsteads, in rich and handsome effects. All-white enameled bedsteads, in neat and dainty designs. White enameled bedsteads, with brass trimmings, in pleasing effects. Also a complete line of colored enameled bedsteads in the latest and most desirable tints, to match or harmonize with room decorations.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

You can spend your nights in comfort if you buy your bed and its fixings from us. One look at any of the beds in our large stock will make you think of the Roman's hard couch—with a glad—"you didn't live then."—Wheeler's, Lexington, Ky.

We're rushing in shipments of brass beds as fast as possible now. Wonderful demand for them and wonderful values to cause that demand. It's worth a visit to the brass bed room to see what's new in this line—new patterns—new ways of finishing—and to study values.—W. B. Moses & Sons, Washington.

Sleep well last night? If not—consult me. I make a specialty of perfect sleeping outfits. Metal beds, springs, mattresses, etc. The moneyback kind.—C. V. Medau, Buffalo, N. Y.

$1.82 would be price enough to pay for some so-called iron beds, but $1.82 is not enough to buy a good iron bed—this iron bed. While $15.00 is nearer its value, $9.50 will secure its delivery at your home—and the springs and mattress to suit are but waiting your selection.—Colorado Springs Furniture Co., Colorado Springs, Colo.

Were you here Monday? Did you go to see the sale of brass and metal beds on the fourth floor? Too bad you missed it—the crowd was worth seeing as well as the bargains. How the beds sold! Everyone who bought got a bouncing big value. No, you are not too late—it was a largish lot to begin with, windup of the season's output of four leading makers, discontinued designs that, to our way of thinking, are as handsome as the new. Good substantial beds, standard makes. There is not likely to be another such opportunity in a long while, a very long while. We will hold them to the fall and deliver them, if you say so.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Brass beds for an even half. It's not often one has the opportunity of buying fine brass beds for half off. If you are thinking of purchasing a brass bed in the near future, are not these prices an inducement to anticipate matters?—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Two in one.—That's just what one of our folding steel bed couches is. A comfortable couch for the daytime, and just as comfortable as a bed for the night. Adjusted in a moment. Equipped with the National springs. We sell a special mattress for this couch, which serves as a cushion as well. Sanitary, strong and cheap.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

We were fortunate enough to buy these beds at a very unusual discount, and propose, as an advertisement and as an evidence of liberal dealing, to sell them on the same low basis—in other words, to share the advantage and good fortune with our patrons. The beds are strictly first-class, up to the standard of high quality we always maintain, and each and every one is backed by our guarantee. If you need a bed, justice to yourself will not permit you to overlook this opportunity.—McAllister, Mohler & Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Children should sleep alone. Not only because it is more healthy, but because it is more comfortable for the child. The expense is very little, and if you consider the little ones' welfare one of our well built child's beds with good springs will appeal to you at our price of only $2.25.—Union Furniture and Carpet Co., Pueblo, Colo.

Brass bedsteads at $48 from $65—Here is a direct saving of seventeen dollars on bedsteads that in pattern, construction and finish, are the best we know of. The design is particularly handsome; the finish is the best possible, and they will last a lifetime. This word of description: Forty-three full-sized brass bedsteads, 4 feet 6 inches wide, 6 feet 4 inches long inside; headpiece 68 inches high, footpiece 48 inches high; 2-inch pillars, 3-4-inch filling tubes, 7-8-inch top rail; three top cross rails and two lower ones in footpiece; footpiece is extended pattern, and has cast brass gooseneck connections top and bottom; fillers and cross rails have brass "T" ball connections; 3 1-2-inch vases; large husks; highly polished and finely lacquered. Seven in 3 feet size, and seven in 4 feet size to sell, in addition to the forty-three bedsteads in full size.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Easy, comfortable beds, the kind that invite pleasant, refreshing dreams, good health and prosperity. We furnish them with mattresses complete, in all ranges of price and quality.—G. L. Vance, Joliet, Ill.

BLANKETS—COMFORTABLES

The Comforts are filled with sterilized cotton and covered with silkoline in art designs and colors. The Blankets are not all wool, but look like expensive California Blankets. The Spreads are in Marseilles effects and full size and weight. Best of $1 to $1.50 Comforts, Blankets and Spreads are here to-morrow at only 88c. Hotel proprietors are profiting by these bargains. They know they cannot be duplicated with market conditions as now prevailing.—The Palais Royal, Washington.

If you do not care to take them now we will, on a small part payment, reserve them until December 1, thus making economy easy. But how do we get brand new, perfect blankets under price? The mills make them for us in their "slack" season—they depend on our yearly sale; we take the blankets off their hands at once and anticipate payment—three ways in which we make the saving that we turn right over to you. White blankets, gray blankets, scarlet blankets and fancy blankets—immense stocks ready. Will you take advantage of the convenient terms and save an average of a fourth? These items represent fifty different kinds.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Coal shoveled into a furnace at $6.25 per ton ends in ashes and some clinkers—a pair of these big, deep through, wide, ample, snuggle, all wool Blankets for $5.00 will go right on down the years, keeping generation after generation comfortable.—H. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

It's mighty fortunate for housekeepers that we decided to round up our Blanket stock now. For, just when cooler nights demand warmer bed-coverings come such offerings as these, of fine blankets at materially reduced prices. Small lots, in many cases, but at prices to match.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Does the cooling off of the weather bring anything up in your mind like Bed Comforts and Blankets? Isn't it high time that you were laying in the fall and winter supply—now that assortments are complete and prices and qualities unquestionably right at the Big Store? Mostly all the good people are back from the seashore, mountain and lake, houses are being opened up and put in order for the cool six months ahead. It would be an unpardonable mistake to pass this store when you go linen picking.—The Z. L. White Co., Columbus, Ohio.

When it comes to a question of shivering or snuggling in the cold winter nights, every wise person prefers to snuggle in comfort and warmth beneath a fine, soft Blanket or Comforter or Quilt. That is why everybody is taking a keen interest in our sale of Blankets, Comforters and Quilts. The high quality and the low prices delight our patrons.—L. N. Adams & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Amazing figures on blankets and comforts. You'd hardly believe your own eyes when you see the prices that accompany these good blankets and comforts. Right in midwinter, when they're needed most, are supreme saving chances here for you, the like of which you'll never see outside of our store. Don't delay, act—act now.—L. Hammel Dry Goods Co., Mobile, Ala.

Once upon a time—but not long ago—a kindergarten teacher suggested to a manufacturer of quilts that he ought to put out a picture quilt—a regular kindergarten story book quilt—specially for children. He acted upon the suggestion, and we endorsed it by buying a line of them with just the cutest pictures imaginable on them—yes, done in embroidery—Jack and Jill, Little Red Riding Hood, the Cow that Jumped over the Moon, and all of the other members of the juvenile family are on them. Bring the children to see them Monday. And these catchy kindergarten story studies in satin—comfort giving and instructive.—Jno. L. Cobbs & Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Comfortables for zero weather. When the thermometer begins to hover around the zero mark then comfortables are the order of the day, or the night rather. Here's a most complete stock and all modestly priced.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We offer five numbers of quilts at special prices. Every one of these quilts is of good size; covered with best qualities of silkoline; tacked with wool yarn, and best of all, filled with the very best white sanitary cotton; no shoddy or dirty cotton.—The Palace Department Store, Spokane, Wash.

Silk blankets—the Italian slumber robes. Made of silk in colors to match dainty bedrooms—satiny white ground baby blue, pink or pale green striped border. These dainty blankets are made in Milan, Italy, and nothing of this character is so light, soft and pretty. A gift for an invalid—or for anybody who takes forty winks during the day.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

The new Beacon blankets and Jacquard robes. These bed coverings are at once warm, sanitary and elegant. We are exclusive selling agents for Springfield, and when you see these wonderful blankets and robes, you'll at once be surprised, as they will appeal to you at once as just the thing. The blankets come in gray and white, with dainty borders of pink and blue, also in children's crib size. The prices come within reach of every one, $1.98, $2.98 and $3.98 a pair; and the robes or lounge covers come in beautiful Persian, Oriental and floral designs. The new Beacon blankets and robes are undoubtedly coming to the front as a cozy, warm and elegant blanket, and at half the cost of wool, and quite as warm. Come and see these, and especially with the special prices that now prevail.—Kinnane's, Springfield, Ohio.

Blankets. A blanket is a simple thing to tell the value of; just a question of wool and weight. There is no cut or pattern to tangle you up, it's not like dress goods or linen. You open it out and the whole thing lies before you. The most casual observer can calculate by the feel and appearance just how much warmth each grade will give.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The railroad loses on blankets. So-called "baggage smashers" are gentle as babes at play in comparison with certain railway freight handlers. In a shipment just received, two cases were broken open and 150 pairs of bed blankets were dumped out. Not much hurt, but hurt enough to prohibit us from saying that they are up to the usual "Burke" standard of freshness and absolute purity. The railroad company has allowed our claim for damages and that amount we have taken off from the price of the blankets.—Burke's, Rochester, N. Y.

Don't bother with coal, buy blankets! Come wind, come snow, let Boreas blow, with blankets like these your body will glow. Sixteen of the best blanket mills in the country stand back of this great sale. Every blanket as good as gold. Ask to see these numbers. Weigh them,

Never before equaled at retail.—A tremendous purchase of bed coverings for spot cash, consummated many months ago before the sharp advance in prices took effect, makes these remarkable values possible. Incoming fall purchases make it absolutely necessary to remove these towering mountains of blankets, comforts, etc., from our salesroom and in order to stimulate early buying we have marked them at special sale prices.—Cohn's, Salt Lake City, Utah.

A colossal purchase and sale of blankets, the entire stock from a woolen mill at almost half price. We are now holding the greatest blanket sale ever held in this city. Never before have we been able to offer you such extraordinary values—the result of our tremendous purchase of high grade blankets, which we secured at a great sacrifice from a well known manufacturer of woolen blankets.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

A great line of bed blankets.—Experienced housewives know what is demanded of blankets and appreciate honestly made ones of durable, dependable materials. We have an immense business among such customers and find that it does not pay to carry blankets that may by any chance prove disappointing. Our great stock of 87 different lines includes the best goods of the mills that are recognized as the best in the blanket making industry. Some of these are of California and Ohio lambs' wool of almost silken softness and furnished with very beautiful border and deep silk bindings.—Burke's Buffalo, N. Y.

We have a wonderful business in bedding this fall. Our blankets are all fine, the comforters as nice as you'll find elsewhere, and spreads are as good as the other bedding. The prices way below others.—Szold's, Peoria, Ill.

"How can you sell such beautiful blankets and comfortables so low?" our customers ask. We could not, did we buy in small lots and ask large profits; and then again, we have opportunities that others never hear of.—F. Auerback & Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

Blanket weather is here—good, warm, woolen blanket weather, too. We probably carry the largest stock of blankets and bedding in town, among them the celebrated Pendleton, Oregon, fleece wool blankets. Nothing better made anywhere. That may seem rather broad—it's true, just the same.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

A very poor housewife indeed who'll not get enthusiastic over the blankets we have to show her. There are plenty here at less than a dollar a pair, at two, three and four dollars also, now—those at $5 a pair and more—up as high as $22.50 a pair. There's a mill out in one of the Western States that makes just the sort of blankets we like to sell—that you like to buy. They are clean—wool thoroughly scoured—woven with the greatest care and finished as carefully as a piece of velvet.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Of all false economy there's none more pronounced than in the purchase of cheap bedding—blankets and comfortables. A selection made from these special values to-day carries with it a positive guarantee of serviceableness as good as though we should deposit the actual amount in gold in some bank subject to your request on showing that you were deceived in your purchases.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Our showing of wool blankets and comfortables is indeed comprehensive. It is safe saying that anything you need in these can be had here, and at prices to fit all allowances. You cannot afford to miss this store when in pursuit of apparel for your beds.—Fowler, Dick & Walker, Binghamton, N. Y.

If you have not already discovered that your Fall bed-coverings are too light, you will shortly; and wise people will have heavier bed-coverings ready before the sharp weather begins. We have a splendid stock of blankets, made up by the best manufacturers in this country, and careful comparisons show that we can save you money.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Why not peep out from under warm blankets these frosty mornings, instead of shivering with the cold? We make it an inducement for you to buy your winter needs this week.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

Great days in the Blanket Store. All over town there is a buzz of preparation for coming winter weather, and in bed clothing we have long been Brooklyn's chief suppliers. But not even here has it often been possible to sell.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our blanket buying is done months before the blankets are placed on sale; our blanket sales are not made in the middle of summer when no housewife is thinking of heavier bed clothing. This blanket and comfortable sale which starts to-morrow morning comes in the right time, when heavier bed clothing is necessary, when the linen closet is to be replenished.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

A little brisk weather has freshened your thoughts and blankets are undoubtedly in the front row. Now while you may have heard or read elaborate accounts of advance sales and half prices and the like, this modest saving may not appeal very forcibly to you, but all is not gold that glitters.—R. B. Maxwell & Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

You know we are very particular about blankets, "fussy" you might perhaps call us, but we are positively opposed to carrying over even one pair of blankets from one season to another, not one. We sold the last of them in the August sale.

For cold, nippy nights!—Blankets. No finer fleece ever grew on a sheep's back, and that same sheep would hang its head in shame could it know of the profitless prices of its own product.—Newman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Blanket bargains. The position we assume toward the blanket business has always been a strong one—just now a rich boon awaits housekeepers, for we pile up testimony of economy that is at once surprising and interesting. Altogether the offering involves nearly two thousand pairs and the saving on each is a full third over the lowest prices of the town. A curious business—not by a long shot. The curious thing would be to see blankets like other stores, when we sell everything else differently—our buying was done way back in June when prices had reached the lowest notch.—The Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Soft, flaky, white wool blankets with gay, beautifully colored borders, that are as cheap as they are honest and good to look at.—The Gamble-Desmond Co., New Haven, Conn.

A blanket selling of great merit, for the qualities are highest and the prices are the lowest that they have been this season.—McConnell & Co., Scranton, Pa.

The unpleasant sensation of cold is not equal to the genial sensation of warmth these superior blankets and fluffy comforters hold. There's another sensation, of agreeable kind, that comes with the knowledge of prices reduced. Surprises are thick in our bedding section. There's one for each blanket or comfort you look at. You can tell by the touch that each one is of highly desirable kind.—Harned & Von Maur, Peoria, Ill.

August sale of blankets.—In a city like New York, who make extra effort, will find them appreciated if inducements are right. Our August sales of blankets, regularly maintained for years, are always successful, inducements to purchase are great.—Hearn's, New York.

When the cool nights come
You will want to know Where to get the blankets that are so good and warm;
Our counters are piled high
With the kinds you are to buy,
The woolly kind, the fleecy kind to wrap around your form.
—The Hannah & Lay Merc. Co., Traverse City, Mich.

Last night hinted very decidedly whether you need them or not. And today everybody is after blankets. Double good fortune, then, to get first rate sorts at prices that would be exceptional even in summer time.—Abraham & Straus, New York, N. Y.

Blankets.—The first nip of approaching winter has visited us and caused an immediate demand for warm, seasonable goods. Our advice is to buy now while the stocks are complete. Prices were never so low.—Denholm & McKay Company, Worcester, Mass.

Blanket Fliers — Two Cases — We bought samples—We'll sell samples, starting to-morrow. See them in a window. The meaning is clear. 10-4 blankets 65c; 11-4 blankets $1; 12-4 blankets $1.25. If we did the way we felt we would "throw our hats up in the air and shout." It's hard work to keep "to earth" with values like these. We've put them where you can see them, in a window. We know you'll feel as we do when you see how good they are and how little priced. They are white with colored borders. Cotton in tan and gray, fancy twilled. They're those blankets so many women have made pretty house gowns out of at full price. See how many more will make them now.—Hale's Sacramento.

Don't shiver in bed; buy blankets, comforts now. Having done a remarkable business in our bed-furnishing department thus far this season, we naturally have accumulated a great many small, odd lots of both blankets and comforters; and now, right in the middle of winter, with the weather man predicting more coming blizzards, this special sale will be glad tidings to many a shrewd housewife. Although the prices are not slashed in two, every quotation represents the best values you ever bought at this season of the year at an equal price.—Miller & Barley, Marion, Ind.

The new ones for this winter have come in spic-span fresh and sweet and clean from the mills not two weeks ago, ordered by us last summer, and made up according to our order. All sizes from crib to largest bed, and from the lowest price to the highest. Some all wool, some part cotton, just as you prefer.—Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company, Atlanta, Ga.

You can always buy Schipper & Block blankets with absolute assurance that you know what you're getting as to material, weight, dimensions. If there's cotton in them, we say so; and we prefer to give exact size in inches rather than misleading "quarters."

And the prices are beyond question the lowest you will find anywhere.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Think it over.—Along in the latter part of October, when the nights get chilly and the frost begins to sparkle on the grass o' mornings, about 5000 women will discover all at once that they need more blankets in the house. Most of them will come here to get them. They will be well treated and they will get the benefit of the best we can do, but the prices will average a third more than we can sell the same goods for, NOW. The only earthly reason for the August sale of blankets now in progress here, is the prices.—Maloy's, New Haven.

Quilts of down; blankets of wool.—In the old-fashioned "quiltin' frolics" the sewing was done with a needle, the comfortable being held between frames, and the cotton, sometimes wool, was spread by hand—the underside of the quilt being first stretched, then the cotton spread evenly, then the upper side laid on and sewed through.

We make down quilts by sewing the two sides together and afterward forcing the down between the seams by compressed air. The down is necessarily light and fine or this could not be done. We do the work ourselves that we may be sure of having it well done.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

A summer sale of winter blankets is to stimulate a naturally quiet time by unusually low prices. It makes but little difference to housekeepers whether they buy their blankets in August or September. But lower prices in August make it the popular time to buy. Months ago we gave our order to manufacturers when the mills would ordinarily be quiet, and thus got lower prices, which customers benefit by now.—Flint & Kent, Buffalo.

We are agents for the celebrated California blankets and constantly carry in stock a very large assortment of these superior blankets. You will also find our blanket stock much better than ordinary, and we always price them as low as is consistent with strictly first-class goods. We are making some sweeping reductions now in this department, which will certainly be interesting to you. Read the following items carefully.—J. W. Robinson Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Prices are low enough to make it worth while to buy now, even if you have to lay the blankets away for a short time. The papers say we are to have an early fall—perhaps you won't have to lay them away after all.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Long looked-for economy event.—Away last winter when the air was still crisp and snowy, we started the merchandising movement that almost transforms this into a blanket store. Several of the best mills in America—and that means in the world—have been busy all summer making up our vast orders for our Peoria and Davenport stores. But tremendous buying did not for a moment turn our attention away from the smallest detail of merit in selection. Here are blankets clean to daintiness, made of well scoured, finely combed, pure, inodorous wool; reaching from the lowest-priced blankets that are safely good, up to the thickest, softest, most luxurious blankets that come from the looms. We went only to factories known for honest, skillful workmanship—we risked no price temptations that had a doubt of either quality or purity. The blankets we bought are not to be compared with those from usual factories—yet few housekeepers would wish to pay less than the prices which we can offer safely good blankets. Large, confident orders, placed long before manufacturers were busy with their regular work, made the prices possible on the superb blankets told and shown to-morrow. Splendid variety of fine, new, soft, clean blankets, in every sort and size.—The Under-Price Store, Peoria, Ill.

Blankets, comforters.—The keynote of the sale is economy, and the chances for economies are so numerous and so plainly visible it is shortsightedness not to buy now. If it were not so we'd be foolish to expect you to turn your thoughts to blankets now.—The Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Wrapper blankets.—If you want something most comfortable for lounging or study during the long evenings this winter, buy one of our wrapper blankets and fashion it into a lounging robe. It is easy to do, only two or three hours' work and you can get a pattern for it at the pattern section. The blankets are figured, not conspicuously, but indistinctly, with pleasing combinations of color, and have striped borders. Two colors are combined in one blanket, making it reversible—one color predominating on one side and the other on the opposite side.—Miller & Paine, Omaha.

Blankets are cheapest now.—We are selling some of these blankets to you today for less than we could go to the mills and duplicate them. Queer sort of procedure, you think, for merchants who are supposed to be in business to make money rather than for their health. Yes and no. In the first place, blankets have advanced considerably in price since we bought these. In the next place, just now our particular aim is to get you acquainted with this blanket store and its resources.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Saving money on blankets right in front of buying time seems incongruous; but it's a Wanamaker way of making economies on things in season. We had to plan well, and place immense orders for our two vast stores in order to secure such low prices; but our values stand unmatched to-day. Late last week we found a store bragging of a blanket at $6.75; and we found it identical with our $5 blanket. It was an excellent blanket even at $6.75—the store was perfectly honest in its statement; but it helped to prove the extraordinary values in our September sale.—Wanamaker's, New York.

The raze in blanket prices.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Why wait till cold weather to buy blankets? You need them anyway, so why not buy now and be prepared for chilly nights when they come? Prices are as low as they will ever be.—Lay & Lyman, Traverse City, Mich.

In looking through our stock of fine blankets we find quite a number of lines that our makers have decided to discontinue making and as new numbers must be substituted for the old, we must close out the old at once as we do not care to carry them over. Owing to the general advance in the price of raw wool it is a certainty that you'll not be able to secure such price advantages for some time to come. Note the reductions which according to present prices means a saving of nearly 50 per cent.—T. A. Chapman Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

The keynote of the sale is economy and the chances for economies are so numerous and so plainly visible it's shortsightedness not to buy now. If it were not so we'd be foolish to expect you to turn your thoughts to blankets now.—The Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Cotton blankets and comforters for early fall use. As the evenings get cool your thoughts will turn to heavier bed covering. While planning your purchases think of Kaufman's. There's a new bedding department here, new from beginning to end, filled with the choicest kinds of blankets and comforters. All our comforters have a filling of pure laminated cotton down, as white as snow, and the coverings are of splendid grades of silkoline.—Kaufman's, Trenton, N. J.

Bed blankets at reduced prices.—During our great August sale of bed blankets we handled thousands of pairs. It was the greatest distribution of bed blankets ever known at our counters. In carrying it on—in making special window displays and in otherwise giving bed blankets prominence over everything else—quite a considerable number of pairs were slightly soiled. Perfect and unharmed in every way save that they are not absolutely immaculate in maybe one or two small spots by reason of having touched against some dusty obstacle. You will be glad of that—for that is why they are now under priced. All that are soiled—no matter how slight—are marked down.—Burke's, Rochester, N. Y.

Light weight comforters—Time to buy.—You'll gain a good night's rest—or several of them—if you have the light weight comforters at hand; tossing 'round under heavy bed coverings is not comfortable and is not economy when these are to be had.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

You don't have to guess or wonder what your bed comfortables are made of if you buy them at "Burke's." We have cut a number of bed comfortables into small sample pieces, showing the cotton that is put into them, the covering, and the care with which they are quilted. These samples are free for the asking. They let you see exactly what you are buying—both the inside and the outside of it. More could not be known about these points if you made the comfortables with your own hands. And by manufacturing thousands of bed comfortables in a single lot many savings are effected. These savings are now yours to enjoy. Summer weight bed comfortables—filled with clean, fluffy, sanitary cotton—covered with silkoline in a dozen extremely pretty patterns—kinds clearly cheap at $1.50—large double bed size—a very special feature here the rest of the week at $1.25.—Burke, Rochester.

Time to talk blankets.—And time for you to be buying them, if you haven't all you need. Fluffy Down Quilts.—Lighter than feathers, yet deliciously warm—the ideal covering for invalids, aged persons and every one who loves luxury. Made in our own factory, we know that they are all right in every way—we established the factory years ago to ensure this knowledge.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Comfort and economy combined.—Specials in comforters and specials in blankets just when the weather drops the mercury down to the low notch.—Chamberlin-Johnson-Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Comforts in summer weight filled with fine white cotton and silkoline coverings, made for double beds, neat patterns.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Reductions in comforts and blankets. Some of these lines are very nearly closed out. Women are quick to take advantage of such chances as we offer now in comforts and blankets. They can depend upon the quality of the articles which they buy at the Einstein store. Nothing shoddy or fake here. You are invited to visit our basement and inspect this line. Do that and you will be certain to buy.—Einstein Dry Goods Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

These standard Right House qualities of flannelette blankets are dependable and you will find that not only are they better quality and larger than most blankets, but they are lower priced as well. Many use them in the place of sheets for the cold weather. Try a pair.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Thick comfortables and warm blankets. From a personal standpoint we do not think it necessary for anyone to go without sufficient bedding when prices are so low. From a health standpoint most anyone knows, or ought to know, the price paid for sleeping cold. Throw up your windows, have the room full of cold air, and sleep under such blankets and comfortables as you'll find here.—Dancer, Brogan & Co., Lansing, Mich.

A mighty special purchase of cotton blankets, delayed in transportation, have just arrived and will be placed on sale to-day and the low prices will astonish you. If you have a blanket need, supply it now. By all means visit the bedding department to-day, on the third floor.—The People's Store, Tacoma, Wash.

Fifteen pairs fine all wool brown blankets, with black stripe border. Weight six pounds to the pair. The best kind of a general purpose blanket. They're equally good for camp or home.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

And what of blankets? And those, too, you will get here now at less than they will cost you a bit later on, bought in the usual way. Why, you need only to look back at the markets of three months ago when these were bought and to-day to know the whys and wherefores.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Blanket headquarters. There's only one possible chance to be disappointed if you buy blankets here. We carry only good blankets, and if you come here expecting to buy a pair that's poor you'll be disappointed. It's easy to write the word "leadership" carelessly. To achieve it is a great thing. To show that we have achieved blanket leadership we need but say that people come from all parts of Peoria and from miles around to buy blankets here. They save money.—Jos. Szold & Son, Peoria, Ill.

The most careful housekeeper can't be any more particular about blankets than we are. No blanket can get past our experts, unless it is the best possible at its price. Many of these are in extra sizes. Roomy, warm, protective.—The Wanamaker Store, New York, N. Y.

Cool nights call for such needfuls as these: It's not weight but quality that gives warmth to a blanket and it's the light, warm kind that we make a point of keeping. The blanket showing is magnificent. Very large in quantity, qualities excellent at each figure and a great variety of patterns. No heavy, soggy blankets here. Light, fluffy blankets, every one of them. And then in bedding. There is nothing in this line that the housekeeper needs that we cannot supply. Comfortables, quilts, feathers, pillows and cases, sheets as well as all kinds of tickings, sheetings, etc., in yard goods.—Sisson Bros., Binghamton, N. Y.

Do you care what's inside your quilts and comfortables? Would you knowingly buy a quilt filled with the chopped-up contents of "antique" feather beds? That is what gets into a good many. In this store there is no possibility of such an imposition—we make our own and know what goes into them. Nothing but pure, sterilized goose down dried by cold air, enters into even the cheapest quilt we sell.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Housekeepers and hotel keepers should take advantage of this sale of blankets.

These prices we quote are just as low as any store can consistently ask for staple merchandise like this. Profit is never large on blankets and big price cuts are never possible, but we guarantee that these prices we ask are as low as any store in the northwest has ever quoted. It will pay you to renew your supply now.—The Wonder, Spokane.

Blankets, comfortables; buy now; save money. The crowds which have thronged the blanket store for the past week are evidence of the appreciation of these Loeser offerings. Values are without equal. Probably never before has it been possible to buy bed coverings of such high standard at such remarkable price concessions.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sale of blankets and comforts. If you are arranging the household for fall, you will doubtless find that the bedwear needs replenishing. To-morrow's unusual economies in blankets and comforts will interest prospective buyers because of the large savings offered. The lowered prices are the result of large buying from leading mills, where the placing of early orders secured advantages impossible to obtain now.—Goldenberg's, Washington, D. C.

Blankets and comfortables. The housekeeper's opportunity. Now is the time to provide the winter bed coverings and to share the economy advantages of the home outfitting sales. Stocks are broad and fine and complete with the very best blankets and comfortables, and prices are without equal in lowness. Here are samples of the extraordinary values.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Monster blanket value. September blanket sale off with a rush. Without throwing stones at anybody or anything we want to tell you some plain truths and give intending blanket buyers a few words of good advice. Don't buy blankets with your eyes shut. Open the blankets out. Look at the color. Look for burrs. Smell them. Weigh them. The store that buys blankets just because they're cheap, without a thought as to how they're made, or whether they're full weight or clean, has no claim upon your blanket buying. Our buying has been so carefully done that it is a delight to spread our blankets out before you. Not a trace of burrs; no grease or oil; every one clean and sweet and full weight and full size. Besides, we have past years' business with you to point to; you know of satisfaction received in the past.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

MATTRESSES

High grade mattresses.—Do you want to see the acme of luxurious mattress making? You will find it in our new line of the famous "Baker Bedding." Not many years ago the head of this now celebrated mattress house started to make mattresses as good as they could be made. He believed the idea of using an ordinary mattress on a fine bedstead was a reversal of the law which should prevail. Said Mr. Baker: "Nothing can be too good for a tired body to sleep on, and I will make mattresses on this basis." His success is acknowledged from Maine to California—he has established a mattress standard heretofore unrealized—his workmen are artists in their line—the results of their handiwork are the admiration of all.

Heretofore we have made all our hair mattresses, and made them well. Perhaps this is why we take off our hats to the man who can do better.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

Many years ago we discovered that mattresses and pillows made up in the usual commercial way were not being filled with the proper materials. To be able to guarantee the "insides" of the mattresses and pillows sold over our name, it became necessary to erect a plant ourselves for the manufacture of these articles. Here, under sanitary conditions, we now make mattresses and pillows to order when a purchase is made from the sample shown in the store. This insures their being absolutely pure and clean. Every ounce of hair is first sterilized. Every feather is first thoroughly steamed and cleaned.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

A white sale of mattresses. You will wonder how mattresses can find a logical reason for being in the white sale, but they have an exceptionally good one. They are made of pure white horsehair, at a price you would ordinarily pay for black hair. There are eighteen different styles of striped ticking from which to make your selection; and the mattresses will be made up in one or two parts, as desired.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

A revelation of an evolution which produced a revolution. Primitive man lay down to sleep on the ground both hard and damp; he gathered leaves and straw—the first mattress. The leaves and straw would scatter and get from under him, and yet for centuries it was his only bed. Perhaps it was his grandson who made the first improvement; he gathered brush and twigs and piled them in a heap—the first spring bed. Put straw on the top and slept another century, perhaps ten. Cloth was invented—the straw was put in a bag, and he was no longer compelled to gather it up every day for his rest at night. Several more centuries. It was discovered that strings passed through both bag and straw would prevent the straw from moving about in the bag, also that small pieces of leather or like material would keep the strings thus tied from pulling through the cloth. This was about A. D. 1302. Six hundred years brings us to the perfection of bedding in the Felted Cotton Mattresses like one felt six inches thick, layer upon layer of cotton, until the required thickness is reached. No more stuffing of handfuls from the end of the tick making a lumpy and bumpy bed, but an even thickness all through. This is the modern Felt Mattress. We have them from $5 up.—Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

There's always a good demand for the comfortable, sanitary cotton mattresses—especially in the summer, in cases where the equipment of the cottage or hotel is intentionally not elaborate.—Wanamaker's, New York.

SHEETS, PILLOW-CASES AND PILLOWS

Our guarantee certificate and insurance policy, guaranteeing the pillow to be filled with feathers which have been thoroughly cured, cleansed and purified, insures the purchaser entire pillow satisfaction or a new pillow.—Whitehouse Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

A soft feather pillow absorbs the cares of the day. You can safely intrust the center of your thoughts in one of these pillows that are worth $2.50. The most cheerful thought will be that they cost you but $1.75.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Substantial saving on sheets and pillow cases. Cottons still show an upward price tendency, but we own such a great quantity, bought before the rise, that you may get the benefit of prices actually less than cost of material now.—H. A. Meldrum Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

We will offer to-day another sheet and pillow case bargain that will be fully equal to any of the notable ones that we've given earlier in the season. The offering comprises hundreds of extra good values that we gather together for the grand final clean-up of our big mill purchase earlier in the year. The goods show slight soils from handling—an oil spot here and there—a thread pulled, or some little defect, which would not be noticed were we not to tell you.—Hale's, Sacramento, Cal.

Sheets and pillow cases.—You cannot help but realize the difference in the labor and expense of making up your sheets and pillows cases, especially when the quality we offer is considered. White sale prices are now in effect. Examine them.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Don't hope to get such sheets and pillow cases as these at any such prices six months from now—cotton's going up! —Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 8, 1908.

The busy housewife who has not time to do her own sewing will find just what she needs in sheets and pillow cases and ready made underwear.—J. H. Milliken, Traverse City, Mich.

Linen sheets. Special price offering. One way of daintifying and making luxurious the guest-room is with fine linens for the bed. Housekeepers who appreciate the distinction and the splendid wear of linen sheets will be specially interested in this chance to get them under usual price.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Weariness can snore upon the flint, when resty." While Shakespeare may be right it's our impression that weariness would rest much better on one of our feather pillows.—Doggett Dry Goods Co., Kansas City.

People always use more sheets in summer than winter because they kick 'em out in hot weather trying to down mosquitoes. You can't get even with the little insects in that way, but you can even up a little by laying in a supply while the price is down—as it is here this week.—The Fair, Montgomery, Ala.

Standard sheets under price. What the maker considered imperfections—thickened threads or occasional machine stains, have brought these splendid sheets down in price. All of bleached sheeting, hemmed ready for use. These sizes.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Linen pillow-cases. Some recently arrived linen pillow-cases are so desirable that they began to sell before we finished marking them. They're all linen—medium-fine, soft, good looking and durable. They're the regulation size—4x36 inches—and hemstitched.—Wm. Taylor, Son & Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Friar couch pillows for summer rooms. Nothing better suited in character to summer home furnishing than these artistic lounging pillows has ever been developed. The pillow covers are made of friar cloth, the boldly woven canvas sacking that stands in the front rank of smartness just now. The designs are stenciled in subdued tones of the strong Egyptian colorings, and patterns show Egyptian and Japanese effects. Edges are laced together with leather thongs. So smart are these friar pillows, in addition to their artistic value, at the moderate price, that we have had hard work to keep enough in the studio to advertise. For to-morrow a special lot is promised, each friar pillow covering containing a plump pillow, at $1.69 and $1.89.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

BELTS

New 1903 belt modes. Introductory showing of the new belt ideas in which suppleness, jauntiness and elegance are so harmoniously combined—covering all the essential points in a thoroughly modish belt.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

A sale of belts. A sale of belts tomorrow that has not been matched in values hereabout in many a day. All new, smart summer styles; all daintily made and finished; with latest improvements in clasps, fastenings, buckles, etc., and not a price over 49c, some at 15c. Look for them on a special table on the Thoroughfare.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Latest best novelties. The distinctive styles and designs in these handsome belts represent many of the most striking of the new creations of English, American and French belt makers.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Arranged in lots convenient for your choosing, is our entire assortment of odds and ends of ladies' belts. Prices have been cut with a generous hand. These odds and ends must make way for other goods and we have not hesitated to cut the prices amply to accomplish this object. All colors and all kinds of silk and leather.—Sisson Bros., Welden Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Paris says "Sequin" belts this spring. Such lovely creations. Resplendent with the glittering elegance of pretty sequin trimmings. The discriminating selection of our Paris buyers allows us to present to Winnipeg women many charming novelties of rare beauty and distinction. Best of all, they are in the main individual models and extremely moderately priced.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Women's Belts.—A pretty belt is the last touch that gives the finishing neatness to the figure—and here is a showing to delight the eyes of the wearers of them. We have some at very little cost; and yet, perhaps, no other item of the dress will add so much effectiveness to the costume as a really elegant belt that several dollars will buy.—John Wanamaker, Philadelphia.

We have those pretty Grecian belts you hear so much of. Have them in several styles; satins and velvets. Put one of these swell belts on an old dress and it will tone it up wonderfully. They are the height of fashion at present.—The Murphy & Bros. Co., Springfield, O.

White belts. Fetching, fashionable girdles to lend grace to the waist-line.—John Wanamaker, New York.

$1 Belts, 25c.—Ladies' leather, peau de soie, taffeta and elastic belts—the leather belts are of the finest glove kid stock, with handsome gold plated buckle sets, the peau de soie and taffeta are of the finest quality, with fancy gilt, oxidized and gun metal buckles; also fancy ornamental braid and button ornaments; the elastics are cut steel studded, with newest novelty buckles; special for this Anniversary sale only 25c.

With this coupon only. 59c. kid belts, 19c. Shown in 2½-inch glove kid, well lined, with large gilt, attractive buckles, in brown, tan, black and white, all sizes 59c. value at 19c. None without coupon or C.O.D.—Rothenberg & Co., New York.

Novelties in belts. We offer for Easter a choice collection of fine elastic belts in plain and studded styles. Prices range from $1.00 to $3.00 each. Silk ribbon belts in attractive patterns and colors finished with beautiful buckles. Prices $1.00 and $1.50. Also the "Knothe" new patented Girdle belt—this is a leather belt with an inside attachment of silk belting which conforms to the waist independent of the leather outside, making a perfect fit. Regular price 50c.—Connelly & Wallace, Scranton, Pa.

New spring belts. Thoroughly up-to-date and reliable. Dame Fashion's advance note tells us that shirt waist suits will be much worn during the Spring and Summer of 1909, and that belts will be in demand. In this time, as in others, we give you the benefit of our experience in selecting the most stylish goods in the market. A nice belt always adds to the attractiveness of your costume. Our prices, as usual, are 20 to 40 per cent. below regular retail figures.—Selected.

BEVERAGES

*Oh, the pungent, deep aroma
Of the leaves so lightly bruised,
And the tinkle of the broken ice,
With joy our soul's infused;
And the brown and oily liquor,
So old—so old and dear—
All prove the season's on again—
Mint-julep
Time

—Midas' Magazine.

A budget of grocery, wine, and liquor specials to note.—Careful selection, perfect quality, freshness and every other essential the particular housewife demands are always found in the merchandise we sell here in our grocery store—that's why it's so popular.—Bloomingtondale's, New York.

Wines and liquors come in for low price emphasis.—This list, planned especially for to-morrow's sale, offers the rarest chance of the season for replenishing buffets.—Bloomingtondale's, New York.

Imported and domestic—the best productions of the finest distillations in the world. Merit wins. It's a store that has grown—growing—and will continue to grow. When wanting goods that are to be used for the sick or feeble, get them here. Goods are as represented by the label.—Durkin's, Spokane, Wash.

During the good old summer time—If you desire a pure and delicious cocktail, you will find our Manhattan and Martini cocktails just the thing. Mixed and ready to serve.—M. Salzman & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

A word about brandies.—For whatever use you want good brandy, this comprehensive stock of ours can supply just the grade desired.—E. M. Hanrahan, Binghamton, N. Y.

McCaffrey's preserving brandy will be needed from now on, if you intend putting up any brandied fruits. This we are offering you is as pure and as strong as it is possible to make it, consequently there will be no loss of sleep, worrying whether your fruits are going to keep or not.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia, Pa.

I am often asked: "Is this genuine St. Croix Rum?"—or "Is this genuine Jamaica Rum?" or "genuine whiskey?" Now how could a place like mine exist for 35 years if it did not sell genuine liquors? It is the very purity of our wines and liquors that gives the sick who are obliged to take stimulants, faith in our goods.—Leon Greenberg, Hartford, Conn.

Wine and spirit safety for the consumer lies in just one of two things; expert knowledge of the goods themselves (which few possess) or faith in the firm selling them—which all should have. Our wines and spirits are dependable—with selling values based upon the keen knowledge which sixty-three continuous years of experience in handling have brought us.—Edw. E. Hall & Son, New Haven, Conn.

For the holidays.—We can provide at exceptionally low prices all the many kinds of liquid refreshments that are needed for the annual reunion and dinner. From the appetizing cocktails down through the wines of all grades and vintages to the luscious cordials which so gracefully aid digestion and bring satisfaction and contentment to the diners.—John F. Cunningham, Woonsocket, R. I.

For the table or the sick room our wines and liquors are unsurpassed, because they are pure and wholesome. We buy only the best and consequently sell only the best. Such stock as we bottle ourselves is the finest quality, and has been fully matured in the wood under the most favorable conditions. A trial order for wet goods will convince you that this is the place to buy.—Flegenhimer Bros., New York.

Christmas cheer awaits you in good measure, if your purchases of brandy for egg nog, whiskey, claret and cordials, for before, during and after the Christmas dinner are made from us. Always careful in selecting our wines and liquors, we are particularly zealous in choosing them for holiday occasions. Order early, please.—L. A. McKinnon, Crowley, La.

No better line of choice wines, whiskeys and brandies in town than we carry. Let us deliver you an order at your house. We quote the very lowest prices and will respond promptly to a telephone or mail order.—O'Neil & Delehant, Fall River, Mass.

It is absolutely necessary to have a little wine or whiskey in the house in case of sickness—but you must be sure to have the pure article. Buy from the L. A. Wine Co., and you will not have to worry about the quality. Whatever is good, we have it—and our prices are practically the same that inferior goods are sold for elsewhere.—Los Angeles Wine Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

We are accomplished mixers when it comes to fixing up an appetizing hot drink, a morning bracer or a night cap. That's right in our line, and we don't let anyone beat us. If you have never tried us all we've got to say is that you've missed a lot of pleasure in life, but then it's never too late to mend. We can always be found at the old reliable, the Acadia Saloon, Crowley, La.

McKinnon's place for straight or mixed drinks. Our wines, brandies, whiskeys, rums and cordials present the best opportunity for the consumer to procure pure and honest liquors. Better not drink at all than drink impure or doctored drinks; so the surest way to get the best is to purchase of L. A. McKinnon, Crowley, La.

Some fellows say, "I've crossed the drink,"

While others "drink in" knowledge high;

But what drink really means, you'll never know,

Until you drink Green Valley Rye.

"I'll be at the fountain." "Get your wet goods" here during 190—. You couldn't make a better resolution—you couldn't do anything that would net you more satisfaction than to determine to make this your headquarters for wines and liquors from now on. It'll be to your interest in every way to deal here. You'll get the best there is in wines and liquors. You'll pay less for them. We buy the finest distillates in "bulk"—and we retail them at "bulk" prices. Note the following specials—real economy prices.—J. H. Friedenwald & Co., Baltimore, Md., Jan. 3, 1902.

You seem to be quite happy, what's up?

Ha! Ha! Come here, old boy, and I'll whisper a little something into your ear. I've discovered a big money saving fact. Yes, sir, I've discovered that the best wines and liquors in Frederick can be had at The Buffalo, at prices that fairly stagger one's belief.—Chas. Y. Hauer, Frederick, Md.

*This is a screw to draw the corks
Out of the casks at last,
Where cobwebbed, gray and old they stand
In the cellars of the past.*

*Vintages rare and precious as gold,
Seals of the Veuve Clicquot,
Hock and Moselle and Burgundy Rose,
Oh, the list is long, we know.*

*Legacies all that the good monks left,
And here is the silver key
To open the doors of their prison house,
And to set their spirits free.*

*So this is the Christmas gift I send
In a spirit of toleration,
With only one warning to you, my friend
To use it in moderation.*

BEER

Aimed at you.—This advertisement is intended to catch your eye, with the express idea of calling your attention to the merits of High Grade Export Beer. Once you have tried High Grade Export Beer, as far as you are concerned we need advertise no longer—you'll advertise it for us by recommending it to your friends. But try High Grade Export Beer.—Phoenix Brewing Co., West Bay City, Mich.

If we fail to please your taste with the sparkling beer and high grade wines and liquors and refreshing hot drinks we are serving at the Acadia, there must be something radically wrong with yourself, for it certainly can't be with the quality of our goods, as they are the best that can be obtained, and we know how to serve them to the queen's taste.

Christmas cheer!

And Olympian Beer!

They will go together this year.

—Henry Seiffert, Spokane, Wash.

Stegmaier's Porter is the most delicious, refreshing of all summer drinks, not only that, but it is a sustaining food beverage for those who are "run down." Ask your physician about it, then order a case, pint, or half pint bottles.—Stegmaier Brewing Co., Wilkes-Barre.

Our beer is the perfect and unquestionably the finest product possible of malt and hops. This perfection is attained by reason of the highest grade of malt and hops, the absence of substitutes and chemicals, and the application of the most approved German method under the skillful direction of an expert brewer. On the quality of our beer alone has our business been built up and our name become known all over this country. There is no sterling quality of the best imported which costs 100 per cent. more, lacking in our beer, while the most inferior domestic beers cost only one cent less a bottle than our fine and luxurious food beverage.—Piel Bros., Brooklyn.

When the patient is weak, the doctor says: "Drink beer." When the nerves need food, beer is the usual prescription. So, in insomnia; so in nervousness. The doctor knows that malt and hops are nerve foods and tonics. And he knows that most people drink too little fluid to rid the system of waste. He knows that pure beer is good for you. That is why he says "Schlitz." He knows that Schlitz beer is brewed in absolute cleanliness. It is even cooled in filtered air. And every bottle is sterilized. Half the cost of our brewing is spent to insure absolute purity. Ask for the brewery bottling.—Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co., Youngstown, Ohio.

"Man serves his time to every trade—save censure—Critics all are born, not made."—The beer brewed to-day by the Worcester Brewing Corporation is beyond the criticism or censure of the most exacting connoisseur. It gives strength, health and happiness. It is a valuable food in the home. It is brewed from the finest Bohemia Hops, which are imported expressly for us. The very best fruits of Nature are used in the brewing, and the utmost precautions are taken that purity and perfection may always be secured. Cleanliness is our watchword.—Worcester Brewing Corporation, Worcester, Mass.

Ale brewed from malt alone possesses important dietic properties that are lacking in common ales. Carling's Ale is brewed from the purest and most scientifically prepared malt, and contains more food and less alcohol than common ales. That is why it is so regularly prescribed by family physicians for building up their patients.—Carling, Toronto, Can.

Beer weather beer should be pure beer, wholesome beer, well brewed beer, properly aged beer, clean beer, fine tasting beer, sparkling spring water beer, perfect beer. To be all these, it must be Olympia beer, which is the only beer combining all these good qualities. Everybody drinks Olympia beer.—Henry Seiffert, Spokane, Wash.

The beverage that cheers and invigorates during summer's depressing heat is the American family beer. For luncheon, dinner or at bedtime it is the drink par excellence for health, strength and nerve. Don't fail to try a case of this pure and palatable, as well as refreshing beer, and you will never be without it for a day afterwards.—American Brewing and Malting Co., Grand Forks, N. Dak.

For that tired feeling there is nothing to equal a glass of Walkerville Lager. It will tone up your system and recuperate your worn-out energy better than anything else.—Smith's, St. Thomas, Ont.

For health and happiness there is no beverage that can approach our beer. It is always pure, of uniform quality and of the highest excellence. It has that luscious flavor, combined with a body and strength, that is the delight of all connoisseurs.—American Brewing and Malting Co., Great Falls, Mont.

The drink for summer is Lexington bottled beer. When properly cooled it is not only delightfully refreshing, but its tonical properties will counteract, as no other drink, the debilitating effects of hot weather, and, being properly matured, will never cause biliousness like badly brewed "green beer." It's a marvel of purity, and is bottled with the greatest care.—Lexington Brewing Co., Lexington, Ky.

Taste the test. Uniformly good taste is the infallible sign of well-brewed beer! It demonstrates the use of the very best barley-malt, highest grade Bohemian hops, special culture yeast, and thoroughly filtered water. The best tasting beer is Budweiser, "King of Bottled Beers." It always tastes the same.—Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n, St. Louis.

Pure beer, any physician will tell you that beer as a table beverage is conducive to health—and he will also lay emphasis on the need of having beer that is absolutely pure. Champagne velvet beer is pure. It is not only a drink, but a food—and creates a wholesome, natural appetite for such other foods as are most necessary to health. Champagne velvet beer works with nature. Order a trial case. Either Phone 1664.—Terre Haute Brewing Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Make Old Sol go way back and sink down by quaffing a glass of Birkhofer beer.—The Birkhofer, Minneapolis, Minn.

Are you tired?—Spring fever is catching. And such a tired feeling. Want to know how to cure it? Whenever you feel it coming on, just get next to a glass of right good, cold, foaming Steam Beer. You'll find it the best spring fever tonic you ever took. It's cooling, refreshing, appetizing and delicious.—Union Brewing Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Something to brace up your energies and give them new life on a hot day is a glass of our pure and healthful Altoona Brewery Beer. For the professional or business man that becomes debilitated or loses his appetite from heat, or any other cause, there is nothing that will prove a strengthener and appetizer like our beer.—Altoona Brewery, Altoona, Pa.

Whatever you drink outside, let your home beer be Schlitz. That is pure beer. No bacilli in it, nothing to make you bilious. Beer is a saccharine product, and germs multiply rapidly in it. The slightest taint of impurity quickly ruins its healthfulness. We go to the utmost extremes to prevent that. Cleanliness is a science where Schlitz beer is brewed. We even cool the beer in plate glass rooms, in nothing but filtered air. Then we filter the beer. Then we sterilize every bottle. And Schlitz beer is aged. The beer that makes you bilious is green beer. When you order beer for your home, get the healthfulness without the harm. Get a pure beer, get an old beer, get Schlitz.—Taylor Brewing & Malting Co., Albany, N. Y.

When women entertain at cards, etc., there's some sort of a beverage required—and it ought to be a good beverage for the sake of one's personal satisfaction. Each guest will enjoy Rainier Beer—it's something that is distinctly good, and there isn't a drop of harm in a houseful of it. Its flavor makes staunch friends.—Los Angeles Wine Co., Spokane, Wash.

Don't be mean—share good things with your family. Send home a case of Birkhofer Beer. It is the par excellence of the brewmaster's skill.—The C. Birkhofer Brewing Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

There is nothing so bracing and thirst quenching, when suffering from spring fever or fatigue, as a foaming glass of our beer. You think you have a new lease on life after enjoying its exhilarating thrill.—Altoona Brewery, Altoona.

It's never too late to test the quality of Metz Bros.' beer. It's an excellent spring medicine, good to taste, easy to take, and an appetite creator in whose wake satisfaction always follows.—Metz Bros. Brewing Co., Omaha, Neb.

Just before retiring a glass of Lexington Beer will insure a peaceful, unbroken sleep. It is soothing and restful for the nerves, aids digestion in its tonical effect. In the morning you will awake feeling bright and vigorous. This is another guarantee of its purity.—Lexington Brewing Co., Lexington, Ky.

You can get more satisfaction out of an absolutely pure, well-made beverage than any other kind and that's why Rainier Beer holds its old friends. Once you try it, the other kinds are not good enough.—Los Angeles Wine Co., Spokane, Wash.

A night cap is all right if it's Gold Top Bottled Beer. It means sound sleep and pleasant dreams. Drink it freely—you'll never have a headache in the morning.—Jetter Brewing Co., Omaha.

Treat your palate these hot days by drinking New England Beer. Its purity and healthfulness are endorsed by leading chemists and physicians. Try a case of the brewery bottling at your home or at the shore and notice the improvement this beer speedily effects in your appetite, energy, strength and vigor. Watch how it brightens the spirits and gives freedom from indigestion anaemia and debility.—New England Brewing Co., Hartford, Conn.

Nectar for the gods was never sipped with such gusto as the epicure feels when a glass of our delicious, sparkling and highly invigorating beer trickles past his fastidious palate. When run down in health, or when you have that "all gone" feeling, try a bottle of our beer. You will think it is the long sought for fountain of youth and renewed vigor.—Jac Kiewel Brewing Co., Crookston.

The cooling influence of a glass of beer on a hot day cannot be overestimated, especially when it is a glass of pure and invigorating American beer. It is without a rival in flavor, palatableness and deliciousness, and is a bracer that will keep up your strength during summer's depressing heat.—American Brewing and Malting Co., Great Falls.

Served to the best families in Omaha who appreciate the high quality of the Metz beer as a beverage and as an invigorating tonic the Metz is every day. Our fine brew is gaining favor every day with both invalids and convalescents, as well as for a table beverage. If you haven't yet ordered it don't fail to do so. It will repay you in both health and strength.—Metz Bros. Brewing Co., Omaha, Neb.

The beverage that cheers and invigorates during summer's depressing heat is the Bohemian lager beer, brewed by the Buffalo Brewing Company, Sacramento. For luncheon, dinner or at bedtime it is the drink par excellence for health, strength and nerve. Don't fail to try a case of this pure and palatable as well as refreshing beer, and you will never be without it for a day afterwards.—Hansen & Kahler, Oakland, Cal.

Banner beer a friend! Not a foe. Because the materials that enter into the manufacture of Banner Beer are absolutely pure. No "dopes" or drugs whatever. Laborers and many others subject to weak backs and kidney troubles will drink no beer but Banner. They say it builds up the system, instead of injuring the kidneys. These facts plainly demonstrate the purity of our product.—Banner Brewing Company, Saginaw.

If you wish to be healthy and happy drink good beer, such as the Lexington brand, known for its purity, palatability and general excellence. Some beers taste good, but are not good, some beers are good, but don't taste good. Lexington beer tastes good and is good—yet our price is not in excess of inferior makes. Have you tasted our beer?—Lexington Brewing Co., Lexington, Ky.

It's a good brew.—Try our beer; it's light, healthy, tasty, bright and sparkling, refreshing and exhilarating. Our beer is a beverage you'll enjoy at your meals. Let us send you a case bottled.—Salem Brewery Association, Salem.

The drink for summer is Congress bottled beer. When properly cooled it is not only delightfully refreshing, but its tonical properties will counteract, as no other drink, the debilitating effects of hot weather, and, being properly matured, will never cause biliousness like badly brewed "green beer." It's a marvel of purity, and is bottled with the greatest care.—Haberle Brewing Co., Syracuse, N. Y.

The fountain of youth and vigor that has been sought for so eagerly could be found in our beer. The best way to remain young is to keep up your constitutional strength with a good, pure and invigorating beer like that brewed by the Lexington Brewery. In hot weather it is both food and drink, and is always palatable.—Lexington Brewing Co., Lexington, Ky.

Competition is the life of trade, but success is won by merit; that's why Stegmaier's beer is far in the lead with popular preference—wholesome, healthful, invigorating—because it is properly aged, absolutely pure.—Stegmaier Brewing Co., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

What have you on the ice? An important question in these hot days, which can always be satisfactorily answered if you keep a stock in the house of some of the following well known pure and healthful ales, porters and lagers.—Smith Bros., New Bedford, Mass.

A picnic without beer! Perish the thought! To be sure you want beer at every picnic to wash down the usual picnic sandwiches, cold meats, crackers, etc. Don't let it escape your attention that Kiewel's beer is a "picnic" beer for any and every occasion.—Kiewel, Crookston, O.

There are two things these summer days great for your health—recreation and good beer.—The Pittsburg Brewing Co., Scranton, Pa.

Something tempting to the jaded palate is to be found in the brand of beer we have to offer, the Metz. It's an appetizer, a tonic and an aid to digestion. For family and table use we deliver it in case of 24 bottles, pints or quarts. Wish you'd order a sample case.—Metz Bros. Brewing Co., Omaha, Neb.

Our beer is chemically pure, an analysis by experts will attest. Good reason; hops, water and all the rest of the ingredients are the best we can buy, our brewer knows his business and we take honest pride in our product. You can't do better than buy our beer.—American Brewing and Malting Co., Great Falls.

These hot days you want a good cooling drink in the home. It needs to be refreshing and healthful. Beer is what you want—it is the best thing you can drink for a hot day. It quenches the thirst quicker than soda water or lemonade, and is healthful. Rainier beer is the beer you want for the home. It is as pure as a beer can be brewed—it is absolutely healthful—the entire family can use it. A dozen bottles delivered to your home for $2.00, or 20 cents the single bottle.—Los Angeles Wine Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Here's a sign of good cheer in the pure amber beer that gives vigor and pleasure and joy. A perfect brew. Unexcelled for table use and highly recommended for the weak and convalescent. Palatable, wholesome and nutritious. Metz's beer is the standard of quality.—Metz Bros. Brewing Co., Omaha, Neb.

An ideal home drink must be palatable, refreshing and healthful, and it must be pure. It must be a drink that the entire family can use. Rainier beer is just such a home drink. It is good for both woman and child, has medicinal properties, and is as pure as good material and workmanship can possibly make it.—Los Angeles Wine Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

The right kind.—Our bottling is the summer drink par excellence. It is pure, wholesome, refreshing. Prepared and bottled in absolute cleanliness, in accordance with the most approved methods.—Spokane Bottling Works, Spokane, Wash.

New England beer will add much to the enjoyment of your vacation. It creates an appetite and gives strength to the system. It's a fine tonic.—The New England Brewery, Hartford, Conn.

Brewed by experts from the best, most carefully selected, imported hops, in one of the most modern, up-to-date, and cleanly breweries in America.—L. T. Trousdale, Birmingham, Ala.

It's a pretty sight which the thirsty and over-heated enjoy most when putting the foaming vision out of sight. By common consent Phoenix High Grade Beer is the best summer beverage to be had at any price. It can be drank without harm, cools at once without heating afterwards, is a healthful stimulant for the system, and is the daily medicine for crowds who are never ill.—Phoenix Brewing Co., West Bay City, Mich.

At three score and ten there is no other beverage like Metz's beer. As a tonic it has most marvelous invigorating properties. Being an absolutely pure drink, it has no deleterious effect on the liver or kidneys, but adds life and vigor to the age-weakened system.—Metz Bros. Brewing Co., Omaha, Neb.

Speaking of beverages.—Here's to the friend of the thirsty! The best and most refreshing drink you can obtain is a good, honest, always-the-same beer. It's only mildly exhilarating, promotes cordiality and has no after-clap of insomnia, headaches, or nausea—provided, of course, you get a pure, unadulterated beer. Crookston beer meets all the specifications enumerated above.—Jac Kiewel Brewing Co., Crookston, Minn.

Cool drinks are in demand on the golf links. Golfers know that nothing excels a nice cool glass of pure New England beer. It takes away that tired feeling, gives new life and helps them to make a better score on the next round.—The New England Brewing Co., Hartford.

A delicious glass of beer, pure, sparkling and invigorating, is at once an appetizer, and satisfies the appetite it provokes, because it is nourishing and both meat and drink when it's pure. For luncheon, dinner or as a bracer and pleasant beverage between meals, or as a night cap to quiet the nerves there is nothing like a glass of American beer.—American Brewing and Malting Co., Columbus, O.

In the rush of to-day's business there's nothing to equal Heurich's beer as an invigorator or strength-giving beverage. Quaff it as you wish; it's a delight to the last drop; a sparkling, foaming potion of taste pleasing excellence.—Chr. Heurich Brewing Co., Washington, D. C.

You wouldn't believe there was such a difference in beers until you use one of Krug's popular brands. They are always uniform—perfectly brewed and well aged, absolutely pure and leave no bad "after effects." The kind of beer that acts as a tonic and a system builder. Order a trial case and begin to enjoy life.—Fred Krug Brewing Co., Omaha.

Here's good health to you.—A draught of pure sparkling New England beer. It quenches the thirst and invigorates the system.—The New England Brewing Co., Hartford, Conn.

Something to brace up your energies and give them new life on a hot day is a glass of our pure and healthful Altoona Brewery beer. For the professional or business man that becomes debilitated or loses his appetite from heat, or any other cause, there is nothing that will prove a strengthener and appetizer like our beer.—Altoona Brewery, Altoona, Pa.

After the entertainment a refreshing glass of Birkhofer beer finishes off the evening delightfully.—The C. Birkhofer Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Enjoyment. A bottle of New England beer after a hard day's work takes away that tired feeling and assures good rest.—The New England Brewing Co., Hartford, Conn.

An economical luxury is a good, wholesome, delicious beverage like Buffalo lager. It's a luxury to taste, not to the pocket book, for its price is moderate, its excellence considered. Care in selection of materials, care in brewing, make it most healthful, too.—Buffalo Brewing Co., Sacramento, Cal.

A refreshing beverage for hot days and cold days—night ditto—is the often spoken of Amber Cream beer. Anyone who knows anything about beer will tell you it's a palatable drink. But it's more than that, it's pure and wholesome as to ingredients and brewing to the last degree of modern success in turning out a fine beer. Got the name Amber Cream beer?—Lansing Brewing Co., Lansing.

The only beer that leaves the right taste in the mouth and the right feeling in the stomach. The only beer that doesn't go down like soap, or stick fast like sealing wax. The only beer that is a universal favorite. Olympia beer hasn't a single fault or drawback, but is perfect all the way through. "It's the water."—Henry Seiffert, Spokane, Wash.

Polite society insists on getting nothing but the best in beverages, as in houses, home furnishings, clothing and everything eatable. Polite society long ago indorsed Buffalo Lager Beer as palatable, pure, refreshing, wholesome and an altogether delightful beverage. What's good for polite society is none too good for you. New brew. Bohemian.—Buffalo Brewing Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Terre Haute Brewing Co.'s Salvator Beer is one of the most delicious winter drinks on the market. The material used in brewing this beer is the most expensive that can be used for that purpose. The flavor is without equal—being very much the same as that of the Munich beer, which is famous all over Europe. Try it.—The C. Habich Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

A carload of beer.—The quantity is significant of our output, and the output tells the tale of right price and right quality. A solid car of beer from the American Brewing Company, St. Louis.—Jacob's Pharmacy, Atlanta, Ga.

You can't pick a winner in everything as easy as you can in ale. So when you say "Frank Jones's Portsmouth Golden Ale," mean it and stick to it.—Hiram Wheaton & Sons, New Bedford.

Something nice for a fellow when he is warm, fatigued or thirsty is a foaming glass of delicious Metz beer. It is a bracer, an appetizer and a beverage that is both food and drink. For summer there is nothing equal to it as a thirst quencher.—Metz Bros. Brewing Co., Omaha, Neb.

The very best he ever tasted is what Santa Claus says about Koch's beer, and no one can deny that he knows.—Koch's, Williamsport, Pa.

When you're hot and thirsty just advise Old Sol to lose himself while you make yourself content by getting outside of a glass or two of Heurich's. There's every delight, no aftermath of ill, in drinking Maerzen, Senate, or Lager, which has made countless thousands rejoice. Are you with the multitude in the use of Heurich's beer?—Heurich Brewing Co., Washington, D. C.

Just before retiring a glass of Lexington beer will insure a peaceful, unbroken sleep. It is soothing and restful for the nerves, aids digestion in its tonical effect. In the morning you will awake feeling bright and vigorous. This is another guarantee of its purity.—Lexington Brewing Co., Lexington, Ky.

This extract combines in richly concentrated form the life-sustaining properties of malt and hops and is unsurpassed as a tonic.—The Clifford Pharmacy, South Norwalk, Conn.

Finest table beer in America. Prescribed by leading physicians as the greatest tonic on earth. Known everywhere for its purity.—The E. O. Jones Co., Youngstown, O.

If you haven't tried Fischer's May Bock Beer you are denying yourself of a season's treat.—The Hubert Fischer Brewery, Hartford, Conn.

If Thomas Buckley could serve his customers with a better ale than Frank Jones's, he'd do it. But he can't, and he knows it. That's why Frank Jones's Portsmouth ale is always on draught at No. 353 Acushnet Avenue.—Smith Bros., New Bedford, Mass.

Strength in it. There's health and strength in a bottle of pure beer. And Stoll's real German brew has purity and quality. Barley in it for food. Hops for tonic. And just enough alcohol to aid digestion. Essential to the weak, healthful for anybody. A standard, high grade beer. Unsurpassed for table use or medicinal purposes. The beer that cheers, nourishes, invigorates.—The Stoll Brewing Co., Troy, N. Y.

At luncheon, dinner, or supper the very best thing to wash down any kind of food is a bottle of thirst-quenching, blood-making, health-giving beer, which has no equal and never had a superior. The taste of it is refreshing, and it is the kind of pure beer that never gives one a headache. Suppose you try a box. You will like it so well that you will want the same every week for your family's sake. The price of it will please you, too.—Baraboo City Brewery, Baraboo, Wis.

These July days and evenings when the heat oppresses the body and parches the throat, the cooling and invigorating elements of Stegmaier's beer make it a boon to perspiring humanity. The demand for our beer was never so great as it is now. People have come to know the real worth of this beverage and they are asking for it everywhere in preference to other brands. Every package guaranteed according to the Pure Food Law, Serial No. 1969. Insist on having it and beware of cheap beer.—Stegmaier Brewing Co., Scranton, Pa.

What attention do you pay to the beer you drink? Are you satisfied if it only "tastes" like beer? It is of interest to you to know that "New England Beer" means more than the taste. It is so purely brewed of nutritious malt and hops that its use imparts new energy and strength—besides a flavor that is delightfully real. Bottled at the brewery and delivered to families in convenient packages.—The New England Brewing Company, Hartford, Conn.

The cooling influence of a glass of beer on a hot day cannot be overestimated, especially when it is a glass of pure and invigorating real German beer. It is without a rival in flavor, palatableness and deliciousness, and is a bracer that will keep up your strength during summer's depressing heat. No one should be without a case of Stoll's real German beer in the house.—The Stoll Brewing Co., Troy, N. Y.

A light lunch at bedtime becomes almost a feast by the introduction of Munster or Bohemian beer. The stimulating effect is so mild, the refreshing sleep which follows their use, just before retiring, fortifies one for the duties of the morrow.—Casey Bros., Scranton, Pa.

The best goes in Buffalo. Rich flavor—together with unquestioned purity in Buffalo is a rich, mellow flavor. This result is impossible without the very best of materials and the greatest care in every detail. Buffalo is a good beer and a healthful beer.—Buffalo Brewing Co., Sacramento, Cal.

The best thing served with a midday, afternoon or evening meal is a light, palatable, digestion aiding beer. And Amber Cream beer gets the 100 per cent. mark on all these points and others—purity, for instance. Amber Cream beer beats wine, water, coffee, tea or milk as a table beverage, and produces no bad after effects. Waste no time in ordering a case or two and settle the question of its quality for yourself.—Lansing Brewing Co., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

For luncheon or the evening meal there's nothing so appetizing, so restful, so altogether satisfying as a table beverage as Neuweiler's beer. Then, too, a glass or two with a couple of sandwiches induces sweet sleep and promise of a clear head in the morning. Purity beer is a mighty good everyday all 'round drink. Bottled by L. F. Neuweiler & Son, Allentown, Pa.

The foremost temperance workers agree that the use of a mild stimulant like beer does not create an appetite for strong drink, and is actually healthy. Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer has the lowest percentage of alcohol of any beer and the highest percentage of real nourishing food. The Pabst brewing process is based on practical, healthful principles, and gives to Blue Ribbon Beer qualities most desired from a temperance standpoint.—Pabst Brewing Co., Cleveland, O.

Winter has gone; Spring is here. But in all seasons our excellent brews remain within your reach. Nothing will add more pleasure to a day's outing. Convince yourself. "The Beer That's Drank" is a beverage of cheer and gets the first call everywhere. Bottled and on draught in the cafes.—The Hellman Brewing Co., Waterbury, Conn.

WHISKEY

The truth about whiskey. Rye whiskey is made of rye grain moistened and heated until the starch in the grain is developed. Rye or barley malt is then added to the mash and a chemical change takes place, turning the starch into sugar. This last mixture is fermented by the use of yeast and the product, now technically known as the "beer," is sent through a still and then again through a second copper still, from which we get whiskey—a high-proof colorless liquid. This liquid at the distillery is put into oak barrels charred on the inside to open the pores of the wood, thus permitting the tannin in the oak to come more quickly in contact with the whiskey, and in the course of time becomes the beautiful amber colored fluid known as Rye whiskey. This process seems simple. The secret is in the way it is done and in the quality of the material used. In our distillery only the best rye grain and the best and highest priced barley malt is used. Only the best oak that can be bought is used for the barrels. All this has and does cost money, but it has made the reputation of Gibson's pure Rye whiskey; it has made the Gibson's distillery the largest producer of High grade Rye whiskey in the world.—Moore & Sinnott, Philadelphia, Pa.

Good liquors are what we handle. We never care to recommend poor, cheap stuff. Fine liquors that please the most particular are here in any quantity desired. Holiday supplies are easily obtained at very reasonable prices. Those who are not well posted can have the value of our experience by asking.—D. S. Way Drug Co., Colorado Springs, Col.

A neighborly feeling prompts one to be sociable at times and extend hospitality to their friends when they call, so keep your sideboard stocked with good table wines, pure and velvety whiskey from our choice stock of liquors. Our prices are always right, and our goods are always fresh.—Ingersoll & Esler, San Bernardino, Cal.

We are able to offer the largest stock of all the best known and reliable brands of select whiskies, also an enormous and varied stock of whiskies put up under our own label and bottled under our direct supervision in our wine rooms. These from rigid tests prove second to none and for aroma and flavor are rarely equaled. They are the best to be had at any price. From all over this state and many others besides come mail orders for our brands. These are filled promptly and shipped by return express. All of our goods carry with them the guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money refunded. As a store for family liquors we lead—our prices always by comparison showing a drop below others by fully thirty per cent., this because we are satisfied with small profits.—Jacob's Pharmacy, Atlanta, Ga.

"A little whiskey now and then is relished by the best of men," and above all let it be Oronoco Rye. Oronoco Rye is not a whiskey that is to build up a sale for to-day and be forgotten or supplanted to-morrow. It's a whiskey whose merit of quality makes it permanent friends, whose list grows longer all the time. The man who drinks Oronoco to-day will drink it years hence. He'll never find another rye so tasty, so rich, so all-satisfying.—Edward J. Quinn, Washington, D. C.

Don't forget that among the multiplicity of candidates offered for your suffrage there is one indorsed by all parties. Republicans, Democrats, Socialists and even the Prohibitionists, when the doctor orders it, and that is the G. F. H. Private Stock Rye Whiskey. Polls open from 6 a. m. till 9 p. m. Saturday till 11 p. m. You can send your vote by mail, or telephone 406.—Geo. S. Hewett Co., Worcester, Mass.

All of the injurious effects attributed to whiskey come from mixed, manipulated stuff that's but a poor imitation of the real article. Pure whiskey, properly made, well aged and untampered with is not only harmless, but decidedly beneficial. It is difficult to obtain the right article because there's less profit to the dealer. Every drop of whiskey sold here is guaranteed to be absolutely pure. I stake my reputation on every transaction.—I. H. Oppenheim, Atlanta, Ga.

On the buffet, in the sick-chamber, in the mountains or at shore, a pure stimulant like Green Valley rye whiskey stands ready like a sentinel, over your health and happiness. Faultless in quality—honest in measure.—Casey Bros., Scranton, Pa.

In the buying of whiskey you'll search far and long to find another liquor store selling whiskies with the same relative quality and price—and after you have sought you'll not find it. It don't exist, and there are obvious reasons why. But it's the whiskies themselves that interest you. Take each price—50c., 75c., $1 and on up—price for price you can't duplicate the quality we give you in any liquor store in the country, any more than you can our price in the drug line.—Jacob's Pharmacy, Atlanta, Ga.

Cold Weather Suggests Whiskies.—Cold weather suggests the replenishing of the whiskey bottle in the medicine cabinet.

Absolute purity ought to be a factor included always in your whiskey buying but positively when it's for the family use. We lay great stress upon purity.—Jacob's Pharmacy, Atlanta, Ga.

Oronoco Rye, a time-honored stimulant of absolute purity. The perfection of aroma and taste is found in Oronoco Rye. Its age, purity and flavor are of the highest standard. Its quality made and maintains it as the favorite tonic for home use! Remember when the doctor says "A little whiskey." He means pure whiskey—Oronoco Rye. Therefore, it is essential that you always have a supply of Oronoco Rye on hand. Its richness and deliciousness makes it preferred for mixed drinks.—Edward J. Quinn, Washington, D. C.

Good liquor rightly used is food and medicine.—We furnish the liquor—as pure to you in the pint as we get it in the barrel—straight from the grain grown by sun and rain, with no poison to craze you, no drug to stupefy, and with no unholy mixture to put your natural appetite to sleep.—J. W. McKeon & Co., Worcester, Mass.

Ask any man who is a judge of good liquor, and he will tell you that our reputation for the finest goods at reasonable prices is not excelled by anyone in the city, and if you want to see how true it is give us a call.—Empire State Wine Store, Schenectady, N. Y.

Our old Golden Wedding rye is the most popular and at the same time satisfactory rye whiskey that we sell. It is a perfectly pure straight old whiskey, that will at once commend itself to all for family or medicinal purposes. It is just what you ought to expect a high grade rye should be. If it's a question of price the figure may not suit you. If it's a question of quality at the price you will be well suited.—Johnson & Brother, New Haven, Conn.

This whiskey is noted for its high quality, perfect purity, and mellow age. It is made exclusively by the Sweet Mash process from carefully selected grain, in the immediate vicinity of the distillery, and received by us direct from Government Bonded Warehouse, and guaranteed to be absolutely free from all matter prejudicial to health, and is especially recommended for medicinal use as a pure and healthful stimulant.—Leon Greenberg's, Hartford, Conn.

H. J. W. Old Bourbon has a broader range of medicinal uses than anything else you can keep in the house. There's scarcely an ill in which a really good whiskey is not beneficial. H. J. W. is pure, thoroughly aged and exceptionally fine flavored.—H. J. Woollacott, Los Angeles, Cal.

Going away for a little rest?—Avoid the dangers that lurk in a change of water, by taking with you a positive safeguard. Green Valley Rye Whiskey.—Casey Bros., Scranton, Pa.

The lesson of this past year has been that no one should purchase any whiskey other than pure whiskey. Purity can only be assured by guarantees back of which stand responsible and reputable houses.—The Cook & Bernheimer Co., New York, N. Y.

When the grand man Marquette gave up his life exploring the mighty Mississippi and the country through which it flows, little did he realize that a mighty fine whiskey would bear his name and serve the many millions who were to come and inhabit the territory he opened. Marquette whiskey has not betrayed the man after whom it was named—it is a pure, high-grade whiskey—serving faithfully and well all who depend upon it for refreshment and vigor—it is a stimulant that has no equal among whiskeys.—Grommes & Ullrich, San Francisco.

Time for high balls is right now, when warm summer days make them most enjoyable. Our imported Scotch whiskeys are unequalled for this purpose, being of exquisite flavor and purity. Everything in the line of wines and liquors for family and medical use offered by us will be found to be the best obtainable.—Fred J. Kiesel & Co., Ogden, Utah.

What kind of whiskey? Are you satisfied with the cheap kinds put up in short measured bottles and diluted you know not how much? Or do you want a whiskey that can be relied upon? Such a whiskey is Zimbal Rye Whiskey.—Faxon, William & Faxon, Buffalo, N. Y.

WINES

"This," said the host, as the butler appeared with two pony glasses of the amber liquor, "is some especially fine brandy. I want to see how you like it."

"Ah!" exclaimed the guest from Texas, as he tossed it off, "that's good liquah, sah. I wouldn't mind having a drink of that."—Philadelphia Press.

Wine and Spirit Section.—We know that, quality considered, our wines and spirits are lower in price than any to be found in the city. We make a point of selling nothing but what is absolutely pure, making this a safe store to shop in. We do away with the unpleasant task of your carrying bottles with you by delivering free all purchases to any part of the city.—Hudson's Bay Stores, Vancouver, B. C.

Advertising Wines.—There is a certain pleasure in advertising when you know you are telling the truth. So it is with me when I advertise and tell you that the wines you get in my place are absolutely pure. I know that when you buy a gallon or bottle of this wine and begin to take it, you will notice the benefits derived from it. It will build you up more than any tonic. The best spring medicine.—Leon Greenberg's, Hartford, Conn.

Sweet Isabella Wine. Beautiful color and absolutely pure. Retains almost perfectly the rich fruity flavor of the sweet Isabella grape from which it is made. Because of its purity and age it is very beneficial used as a stimulant.—Gedney's, East Orange, N. J.

Pure wines, for the table, the invalid and the connoisseur. Twenty varieties of the choicest productions of the best known vineyards of California.—Jos. Fleming & Son, Pittsburg, Pa.

Sherry Wine. If you are in the habit of using an imported sherry at a high price, try our California sherry. It is not like the cheap sherries. It is the highest grade made in California. It has been properly made and aged, and it is guaranteed to us and by us to you to be strictly pure. It makes an excellent stimulant for a weak stomach and is sure to cure indigestion. Try it and you will never want any imported sherry.—Leon Greenberg, Hartford, Conn.

The very life of the grape—most healthful of fruits—all the sunshine and zest it has gathered as it ripened in the vineyard, is contained in Cook's Imperial Champagne—the most delicious and healthful of wines.—Cook's Champagne Co., New York, N. Y.

Don't you agree with us that wine has its place in the daily menu quite as much as bread and butter? We think so, and would like to bring you over to our opinion. Our special sales, held every second Saturday, are doing much to popularize the moderate use of wine as a table beverage. Our sale prices are bona fide reductions from list rates and enable the judicious customer to obtain high-grade wines at a cost low enough to make their constant use an economical consideration.—California Winery, Sacramento, Cal.

This is claret time—claret lemonade, punch, sherbet and the host of other good things in which claret is used. Claret is not a mere luxury, but is gently stimulating, perfectly wholesome and possesses great properties of building up the bone and muscle of the human frame, providing it be good and pure. That's the kind sold here—we have the domestic and foreign brands.—The New Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

Your physician will tell you of the superior medicinal qualities of an absolutely pure fermented grape wine. Great Western champagne is the choice of discriminating consumers the country over.—Pleasant Valley Wine Co., Rheims.

Wines for the home.—Of course you want the best, and most people know when the best wines are wanted. Nothing fills the bill like Peerless Brand.—So. Cal. Wine Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

The wisdom of selecting a beverage with care as to its purity and quality must be apparent to everyone. Great Western Champagne is the choicest, purest, product of the grape, without a superior, under any label, foreign or domestic.—Pleasant Valley Wine Co., Rheims, N. Y.

SOFT DRINKS

We use every precaution in bottling Wheaton's famous bottled soda water, to see that the bottles are thoroughly cleansed. The same precaution prevails in every department and no impurities are allowed in the preparation of the soda water. It is a delightful drink for warm weather and the cost is just the same as you pay for inferior soda water.—Wheatons, New Bedford, Mass.

Our fountain is doing its best to cool the thirsty, perspiring multitude. Its efforts are quite successful, we're glad to say. From out of the multitude of satisfactory beverages, we might single "The Gibson Girl" as just a little the best.—Reynolds Drug Co., Denison, Tex.

Such soda water as we are now serving! Must be splendid 'cause everybody says so. You like good soda, don't you? Then you can't help liking ours—no one can, it's so delicious and fresh and is so frigidly cold.—Towne, Secombe & Allison, San Bernardino, Cal.

For all occasions Vineland Grape Juice is in every way satisfactory. Served in a punch bowl, with chipped ice, it is delightful at social entertainments. In fact it is more than a beverage; it creates an appetite, acts as a tonic and is beneficial in all cases of sickness. Vineland Grape Juice is absolutely pure. Has strength, color, flavor. For sale by druggists and grocers. To realize just how good this grape juice is, send ten cents for a trial bottle—not an ordinary small sample but the regular ten cent bottle.—Vineland Grape Juice Co., Vineland.

Home made root beer. If you want a healthful and refreshing drink for the summer, let us supply you with quart bottles and patent stoppers attached, at $1.00 per dozen, delivered within the city limits. You can get a bottle of root beer extract from your grocer and make the cheapest and best drink obtainable.—Binghamton Glass Co., Binghamton.

El Verde grape juice! This is a grape juice that is pure, that has not one drop of adulteration in it. It is made in Pomona by Louise Cary Smith and is just what its name implies—wholly grape juice. The grapes are grown in the El Verde vineyard, and are pressed daily in season. The benefit derived in drinking a pure grape juice, both in health and sickness, is not realized by every one.

But a pure grape juice like the El Verde supplies a great deal of nutriment for the body. Single pints 25c.—H. Jevne Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

R U particular? Then why do you drink soft stuff from old bottles with rusty wire and rotten rubber stoppers? Ask for "Climax" brand soda water. It's for particular people.—Fred L. Norton, Binghamton, N. Y.

The Coleman soda fountain caters to the taste of people who know quality in soda fountain beverages. Particular attention is paid to customers both at the fountain and in the reception room, fitted up for those who desire a short rest while enjoying the delicious concoctions of our expert dispensers.—Coleman, Memphis, Tenn.

It may be interesting to people who are careful about what they drink, to know that the Pureoxia beverages are absolutely pure and safe. The water used is a pure spring water, thoroughly and effectively filtered, and equal care is taken in every department of the manufacture. You can bank on the quality of Pureoxia drinks.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Welch's grape juice is a safe drink for children and invalids. Besides being palatable, it contains many health-giving properties unknown in any other beverages. Your physician will tell you Concord grapes are richer in vegetable foods than any other fruit.—Welch Grape Juice Co., Westfield, N. Y.

Fickle taste finds itself anticipated at Cirkler's soda fountain. We have a variety of sundaes, sodas and mineral waters that number into a hundred. We appeal to your taste through your eyes by having everything tastily displayed and served. Our service is prompt and polite and the whole fountain is sanitary to the highest degree.—Chas. H. Cirkler, Minneapolis, Minn.

A new drink.—"Cantaleup Sundae." It is made of ice cream, cantaleup and just a dash of something else to give it snap and flavor. The newest and most satisfying drink of the season. Served at our fountain, but then you expect to find "the new" here first. Come to-day and be cooled, refreshed and rested by a "Cantaleup Sundae."—Reed Hurlbut, Des Moines, Ia.

A Dutch treat is one where one always receives the equivalent of what is given. In drinking our fine bottled goods, our cream soda, strawberry, ginger ale, or Dr. Pepper, you more than get the equivalent of what you pay in satisfaction, besides getting a treat that is fit for the gods.—Excelsior Bottling Works, San Diego, Cal.

Doesn't it make you tired to have the soda clerk offer you the old-fashioned drinks when you ask for a Mary Mac-lane highball? This new and up-to-date summer drink is cooling, refreshing, invigorating and devilish good. A little different from anything you ever tasted. To be had only at our fountain.—Newbro Drug Co., Butte, Mont.

What is Grape Fizz? Why, just the nicest blended fruit drink you ever tasted. Made of the true fruit, pure as can be—a real thirst quencher. Equally as good as a phosphate or with ice cream.—Lucas Bros., Mansfield, Ohio.

Grape juice for strength. There's nothing like the pure juice of luscious, ripe grapes to give one strength. It makes pure, rich blood, increases one's weight and is one of the most agreeable system tonics that can be taken. Especially valuable in cases of debility following illness. It also makes a delicious beverage.—Gordon-Mitchell Drug Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Wanamaker Grape Juice is the juice of the grape—pure and undefiled, without chemicals or other deleterious preservatives.

It is made from the most carefully selected Lake Erie Concord grapes, thoroughly sterilized, and fresh, sweet, and delicious.

It possesses strengthening and tonic qualities, is harmless and easily digested; and makes therefore an admirable drink for invalids.

Its rare flavor also makes it a most palatable Summer beverage, to be taken either in full strength, or diluted with plain or carbonated water, and served with cracked ice and, perhaps, a dash of lemon.—Wanamaker, New York.

It is called by many "the restful drink." It is made from fresh, full cream milk, and contains the right food elements in proper proportion. Try a cup before going to bed at night—especially if the day has been a strenuous one—see how comfortably you rest and how fresh you awaken the next morning. It is a nutritive diet for men, women and children.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

For a delightful summer drink you should visit the elegant soda fountains in Riker's stores. Once you get a taste of the delicious drinks we serve you'll know where you can always depend on fully satisfying that insatiable summer thirst with something really good. We have a number of "treats" in store for you—delectable drinks such as are not served at ordinary functions. Drop in first chance you get.—Riker's, Brooklyn.

El Verde Grape Juice—We're selling the new vintage now, and it excels in every way any heretofore put on the market. The "El Verde" grape juice in the past has been far superior to all others, and our patrons will be more than ever pleased with the new vintage. It is nothing but pure grape juice with all the natural sweetness and flavor of the grape. Unsweetened, undiluted and no preservatives of any kind used.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Lime juice. Do you know that there's nothing quite so nice for a summer beverage as a drop of lime juice. Of course, pure lime juice is the only kind to buy. To be absolutely sure that you are getting pure lime juice you must buy that bottled by the Hudson's Bay Company. Two or three teaspoonfuls in a glass of cold water makes a drink fit for a king. A bottle will make about fifty glasses; very special indeed.—Hudson's Bay Stores, Vancouver, B. C.

Keep cool. We will do our part toward keeping you cool. At our fountain you will find iced beverages that are not only delicious but pure, wholesome and healthful. Our cream is the cream of creams. We have electric fans to assist the cooling process.—Reynolds Drug Co., Denison, Texas.

Ice cold deliciousness. What a satisfaction an "ice cold" fountain drink is. How delicious it is. How it appeals to the appetite. How refreshing. Ice is not saved at our fountains. We know our drinks will not be right unless "ice" and plenty of it is used. It's the "ice" as well as the mixing and the materials and the cleanliness that makes our fountain drinks so delicious.—Kingston, Denison, Texas.

New and old beverages. Tastes differ, but they never differ so much that they cannot be suited at our fountain. We serve all the old-time fountain favorites as well as all the new ones that are worth while. If you want plain sodas, mineral waters, phosphates, cream combinations, root beer, ginger ale, egg drinks, ice cream soda or new and delicious specialties, we have them—all at their best.—Reynolds Drug Co., Denison, Texas.

Call in at one of our fountains on a hot day or evening. We will serve you the coolest and best drinks you ever tasted. They quench the thirst because they are made right. Expert operators at all our fountains. All the latest American drinks.—Watson's, Winnipeg.

Drink at the big white onyx fountain. Every fancy drink made by expert mixers from genuinely pure materials. Clear, sparkling waters, suggesting cool, rock-bound springs—phosphates, sundaes, egg drinks, lemonades. Stop as you go by.—Boswell & Noyes Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

A lover's retreat in our soda fountain. For those who love a cool and refreshing soda flavored with the real taste of the garden, just sweet enough, our fountain suits. There must be something about our fountain that brings people back for more. You will come back too, when you taste our flavors.—Owl Drug Store, San Bernardino, Cal.

Fancy sundaes. Good every day in the week and Sunday too. Pure ice cream with different combinations of flavors, fruits, syrups, nuts, ices, etc., so ingeniously put together as to make the most delicious and cooling dish of frozen cream.—Towne, Secombe & Allison, San Bernardino, Cal.

Commodore Peary has the honor of "The nearest the pole." The "coolest spot" most Springfield people can discover this summer will be found in the bottom of one of our dishes of ice cream or a glass of delicious red raspberry sherbet. Fifteen minutes for 10 cents, away from the hot sun, making a pleasant discovery every time a spoon touches the lips.—Maldaner & Sons, Springfield.

White Rock Water—We can't say too much about White Rock water. It is without question the finest water procurable for drinking purposes. Its flavor is delicious and it has certain healthful qualities not to be found in other waters. It is full of life, vim and sparkle, but has not the bite, burn and sting of other charged waters. Everybody knows the need of pure water—or ought to. There couldn't be a water purer than White Rock. We are sole agents.—H. Jerome, Los Angeles, Cal.

Now! About the dinner? The dinner has three essentials—turkey, cranberry sauce, and water. The water ought to be purest and best, so call.—The Ingram Lithia Water Co., Birmingham, Ala.

Some natural drinks. Mineral Water is Nature's drink, and a drink fit for the gods it is, for it does its duty well and quenches your thirst. Very healthy, too. You ought to drink a glass of mineral water every day. We carry the various brands.—Towne, Secombe & Allison, Druggists, San Bernardino.

A man said yesterday. "I have partaken of Root Beer at several different fountains, but it does seem to me somehow that what I get at the People's Pharmacy Fountain is the most refreshing and best tasting of all." Not only is this the case with root beer—it's the same with everything we serve. Give us a fair trial and you will be convinced that the man who complimented our root beer yesterday was correct. Ice cream delivered to any part of the city in any quantity without extra charge.—The People's Pharmacy, Denison, Texas.

Pure refreshing Ginger Ale. No, all ginger ale is not pure, as many of the so-called ginger ales do not contain even the smallest amount of ginger. Our ginger ale is the "real thing." It is made of genuine ginger root, sugar and pure spring water. You'll notice the difference when you try it. It's a healthful drink and is most refreshing and stimulating—just the drink for you when fagged out with the heat. On draught at our fountains, 5c a glass, or in bottles 10c.—Central Drug Co., San Bernardino, Cal.

BOOKS

A Marvelous Memory.—"Wonderful man, that Brackett."

"How so?"

"He can remember the names of at least a dozen of the works of fiction that were popular five or six years ago."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Here, held captive in their charming bindings, are the writings of masters of imaginations. Here are the life works of great historians—the stories that will still enthral during the years to come—the tales of knight and lady, of blunt business men, and of quaint characters, of travel and adventure—the perfectly reproduced drawings and paintings of noteworthy illustrators. For your friend who reads much, or who should read more here's all that's tempting.—The Stone, Fisher Co., Tacoma, Wash.

A Christmas Book store. Wednesday many suitable books for Christmas will please everybody. One cannot make a mistake in giving a book. Look at our splendid assortment on the clearing tables Wednesday. All first-class Christmas lines.—Hudson Bay Co., Winnipeg, Can.

The place to buy books for Christmas. In practical comprehensiveness, in convenient arrangement, in appropriate selections, our stock of books for gift-giving is unexcelled. Books here for old and young. Books of history, travel, fiction, poems, bibles, prayer books and other devotional books, books by standard authors, and books by the writers of the day. All here in their most attractive form for the holiday season.—Stanley Mills & Co., Ltd., Hamilton, Can.

Christmas gift books that are great bargains. Completeness is the keynote of the great book store this Christmas season. It overflows its usual quarters. On the second floor as well as the first floor you will find tables of Christmas books, and throughout the stock there are chances for economies that in some cases are extraordinary. We list some of the special book bargains among the books suitable for gifts. It is a partial list merely. But it will serve as evidence of the noteworthy chances for those who come now.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Time to think of your winter reading. Think of the long winter evenings that are coming. No better way to spend them profitably, and instructively than with a good book at your "ain fireside." We offer you the privilege to roam the fields of literature in history, biography, fiction in whatever direction individual bent suggests. There is a selection of titles and authors that will satisfy the taste of the most exacting. The expense is trifling.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Everyman's Library.—To many we are not broaching a new subject when we speak of the Everyman's Library. A well-known firm of English publishers have ventured to plan the most complete library of great books that has yet been issued. It will cover history, philosophy, fiction, poetry, science, belles lettres, etc. Ernest Rhys, of Oxford, is the general editor of the library. The books which require special editorial work are in the hands of the highest authorities. Five hundred volumes are planned to complete the library, one hundred and fifty of which have already been published and are on our book tables. The books are a little larger than the handy volume form, are beautifully printed on fine paper, and have decorative cover linings and title pages. There are two styles of bindings: In cloth with black stampings of gold, 38c a volume. Full flexible leather style of the Temple Shakespeare, 70c a volume. With these books a man will have a well-selected, well-balanced library. The small cost is the wonder of book-makers on this side of the Atlantic.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr. Co., Rochester, N. Y.

We take pleasure in announcing a greatly replenished stock of 50c. late copyright Books, including all the latest novels in the 50c. edition. No doubt you are interested in books at this particular time of the year, with the holiday season but a few weeks away. You will do well by making your selection now. At each 50c.—Quackenbush & Co., Paterson, N. J.

Buy your Christmas Books now. There can be no possible excuse for waiting until the last two or three days before Christmas. Books shouldn't be chosen hurriedly, and this stock of ours is so large that you'll have to spend some time if you want to do justice to the choosing-chances offered. The entire stock is ready, and a better stock was never before shown in a town the size of Terre Haute. We'll grant that one Indianapolis store carries more books, many more, but the size-difference is made up mainly of books of scientific, technical, religious, medical or legal nature—and our average prices are so much lower that for the general buying public this should rank as Indiana's best book store.—Herz's, Terre Haute, Ind.

Children's Books, 35c. So many children's books in the book store that it will be one of the most entertaining spots in the store for young folks tomorrow. Here are some special offerings that will be laid aside for Christmas gifts, too. Large octavo books, attractively bound in cloth.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

It is probable that never before has a natural history work of equal merit been offered for such a little price. The books are very large, superbly illustrated with an immense number of colored plates and bound in half Russian leather. Next to Audubon's bird work this is the most complete and authoritative work on American birds published. It is only because we bought the surplus stock that we can sell the books now for anything like the price.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

All those Books that were slightly marred in the holiday rush; those volumes that have been scarred by contact with shelves and tables, those that have other slight imperfections—many kinds of books—handsomely bound volumes, library books plainly bound—just good to read; books in sets; wide choice and all at very low price to make the selling lively and clear the stock of odds and ends. The book-lovers' feast.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Publishers must clean house just the same as dealers in dress goods. These accumulations go, too, for very much under cost as a rule. They may be fine books, but they cannot be allowed to gather, and so we take them from the publishers and turn them over to you at bargain prices.—Abraham & Strauss, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Summer Reading.—A commodious hammock, a shady nook, a pleasant companion and the latest book.—The lines above are strictly sentimental, yet true. Sometimes it's hard to select just the book you'd like to become interested in. Our people are veritable book worms—know all about them, keep in touch with the writings of every author, tell you the good ones—the ones most popular, the kind we carry.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Out-of-Door Books.—People are beginning to get a great deal more fun out of life in Summer time just because of the growth of interest in the great world of nature. To study the woods and fields, the flowers, birds and insects in their native haunts is a delight which one who has once experienced it will never again miss. The nature books are all here—they cost the least here. This is a list of a few of them.—Abraham & Straus Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Books for Boys and Girls.—Careful attention is given to the gathering of books for boys and girls here—and only the better class of literature for young folks is selected. Throughout the year the stock is complete and fresh. A host of books for boys and girls, written by authors of acknowledged reputation—stories deeply interesting in themselves, that teach without preaching, are of lively interest throughout, and win the hearts of the youthful readers.—Woodward, Lathrop & Co., Washington.

You can't spend too much for good books. Books are the world's universities, its playhouses, its well-worn roads of travel. The world and its greatest pleasures are in the grasp of every healthy mind that possesses good books.—Woodward & Lathrop, Washington.

The best resolution that men and women, boys and girls, can make at this season of the year, is that they will start reading some of the literature that will be of real value to them. This list is not composed of "dry-as-dust" literature, but presents some of the most fascinating works ever written.—Wanamaker, New York City.

An event that marks the highest accomplishment in Book Merchandising in America—a sale that is greater in its proportions, more far-reaching in its economical benefits, more remarkable in scope, in value, in importance than has ever been attempted since books have been written, printed and sold. An exhibition of books—occupying over 10,000 square feet of space—more comprehensive, interesting and instructive than hitherto has been organized. Greatest display you have ever seen.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Books for summer reading. A timely special sale. A good book is a cheerful friend. And whether you are taking your ease in a roller chair on the boardwalk or sitting under the protecting shade of an umbrella on the hot white sands, dawdling in a hammock, lying under the outspreading branches of a tree in the woods or rocking nonchalantly on the piazza of a cottage or hotel, you'll want some such cheerful friend as an entertaining book. And that is why this special sale of books is held at this time. So many of you while you are away will weary of going hither and thither that you will turn to your book with a sigh of solace.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York.

Christmas Time is Book Time.—Our beautiful store, radiant with the spirit of Christmas is already filled with Christmas buyers. You should come now and avoid the great crowds of next week. Never before have we had so many beautiful and appropriate things to show you. Books are always the ideal gifts—The Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis.

Year after year the giving of books as Yule tide and New Year's gifts has grown in esteem and popular favor until now it may be almost accepted as a truism that books are counted the best presents to everybody with any literary taste or pretensions whatsoever. So, if you have been troubled with the "what shall I give" problem, simply turn to books—that settled, then come here, where you may revel in mountainous stocks that are worthful, comprehensive and richly varied. After you've once entered the portals of our great bookstore you'll not have to be told that it ranks with the largest, best and most complete in the world.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

We have collected in our book department an excellent assortment of books suitable for Summer reading. Many of these are in such small volumes that they can be easily carried in the pocket or handbag. However, they contain fine reading matter. Some are works of old authors, attractively gotten up. They include stories, poems, histories, biographies; all are interesting and informing. During winter reading is a luxury, to be enjoyed at odd hours between business and social duties. In the summer time it amounts almost to a necessity, to fill the days that might otherwise be idle. A visit to our book department at the 10th street entrance will prove a profitable pleasure. There are books for the men, the women and the children, books that will be cheery companions at the mountain side or the seashore, or during the long days spent in town.—Woodward & Lathrop, Washington, D. C.

Books by popular authors, books that have perhaps just missed getting into the list of "best sellers;" but worthy, creditable, interesting new fiction, good company for a summer's day.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Here's the news of summer reading you have been waiting for, the news that will supply the books to go down in odd corners of your trunk to come out again for long hours of enjoyment in vacation time. They are cloth bound books, regular library editions, printed on fine paper and from clear type. The titles are fine, too. Books by Gilbert Parker, Robert Hichens, Lucas Malet, Maurice Thompson and others among them. Five thousand altogether, here's a list.—Fredrick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

No less than 40,000 books displayed upon the shelves and counters and stacked high above them in generous piles, comprising the cream of the new books as well as the best of the older ones. The utmost care is used in making our selections, and thousands of new books are examined in our efforts to cull only the best from upwards of 200 reputable publishers.—Woodward & Lathrop, Washington, D. C.

This is a book that will delight any reader, be his age seven or seventy years. The author may be congratulated on the possession of so much humorous ingenuity and the gift of an absurd invention that brings the writing of Lewis Carroll to mind. "The King of Kinkiddie," like the writings of the last named, rejoices the reader in the suddenness and the unexpected oddity of the action which enlivens the twenty stories of the book. Walter Bobbett's illustrations add not a little to the pleasure of the tales.—E. P. Dutton & Co., New York, N. Y.

Special Clearance Sale of Fine Books in Sets.—This clearance of books affords the chance of the season to book lovers to secure some splendid values in handsome sets of standard authors—books, too, that will make ideal gifts if one is looking for such. There are also thousands of single books offered at equally low prices.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

Standard books, 38c. each: bound in half leather. Not stories that are "like the snowfall on the river, a moment here, then gone forever," but works that are handed down from generation to generation.—Abraham & Strauss, Brooklyn.

Books for Summer Reading.—Books to help pass away the dragging hours of the long journey. Books to brighten many dull or stormy days that are bound to come. Books to amuse, to interest, to instruct, to suit every fancy and every taste. Here they are in this magnificent Simpson-Crawford Book Store, displayed in profusion that will astonish you, marked at prices that cause wonderment. — Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

Book News.—On book counters are two new productions that will delight lovers of fascinating reading. All who have read with rare delight the novels of Augusta Evans Wilson will welcome this crowning effort of her pen after a lapse of sixteen years. "A Speckled Bird" does honor to this eminent Southern authoress. Price, $1.08. "Marion Manning" is a delightful romance depicting in an able manner the social and political life of the capitol.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

The book lover's paradise. Last Monday week we commenced our great June Clearance Sale of Books and Stationery, and every day since, our book counters have been thronged with enthusiastic buyers picking out their summer reading at our money-saving sale prices.—The Geo. B. Peck Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

"In Happy Hollow," Max Adler's new book is as interesting a diversion as one could look for on a hot summer day in the mountains or by the shore. It is a peaceful, restful, helpful book, with no problem to solve or no wrong to right; simply a mixture of humor, sentiment and satire that must recall to a great many people their own childhood town.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

This is a supremacy sale, a sale worthy of the book store that has blazed the trail to lower prices since its inception; that has refused to maintain an unnecessary profit on new copyright fiction as fixed by the combination; that represents all that is best in book selling methods to-day and has steadily increased its efficiency and usefulness until it is universally known as Brooklyn's best book store. It is a remarkable sale in every way. Every book is absolutely perfect, not shelf-worn or even slightly used. The list of titles is remarkable for its comprehensive scope of the successful romances of the day—a liberal number of each title. The time is opportune, as men and women are now preparing for the summer sojourn—and the reader must be a devourer of books, indeed, who cannot find here many unread. The only reason for the sale and prices is our periodical desire to clean out all our stock and renew everything.—Abraham & Strauss, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Interesting Invalids: The Hurt Books —Some of them hardly more than imaginary invalids—the only visible sign of depression you'll find is in the prices. Others do show the effects of rough handling—but the hurts are purely external. The main thing, the book itself is intact. Of course, in such cases, the prices are even more seriously affected. No matter in what field you're particularly interested, the variety of titles is so broad that you're apt to find a book bearing on the subject.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Book buyers should not fail to visit Peck's. Hundreds of great values will be found on our Book Lover's bargain tables. To the already complete assortment we have added 200 books by the best boys' and girls' writers, and offer them without reserve at 25c. a copy.—Geo. B. Peck, Kansas City, Mo.

Books—Readers, young and old, no matter what class of literature they may prefer, will be able to select from this gigantic aggregation. Comparison will prove that the scope of our stock and the wonderful values here represented are unmatched.—The Big Store, Woonsocket, R. I.

Don't feel hurried in buying books here. If you have time to do so, take time to be leisurely, if undecided just which to select. Take the books from the shelves; glance through them—dipping in here and there to see how goes the story, or the history, or the tale of travel. There are a great many books in this store, but if the one you want isn't there, let us get it for you.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Hurt Books More Ready Now.—More rummage to-day—and every day, for people are carrying them off almost as fast as we get them marked. It is a sale that book-lovers watch for and wait for every year. The scars and scuffs are not much and the prices are very little. Hundreds of books altogether, and every kind included—history, biography, fiction, art, music, poetry, religion, books in sets, etc.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Gift books for Graduation and Confirmation.—Books that will reflect good sense and good taste of the donor and be highly appreciated by the recipient. They are the right kind of books to place in the hands of young people.—S. Kann, Sons & Co., Washington, D. C.

Big Book Selling.—We are going to wind up the annual sale in a blaze of glory in our little bookstore, and will make you some of the most tempting propositions you have had in a long while. Thousands of our best selling books are to go at less than publishers' prices.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark.

Books of wit and humor. The most serious minded people enjoy a little wit and humor now and then; for there is often a great deal of real philosophy and homely truth concealed beneath the thin veneer of a humorous garb. In the books mentioned below there is an abundance of fun and not a little substantial information. They are books that have been read and re-read by old and young, and represent some of the best writings of American humorists.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 22, 1902.

The great book clearance proves the book lovers harvest. No such wonderful book values has been known for many a day, and in view of the fact in most instances there are only two or three books or book sets of a kind, it behooves every book lover to reap this great golden bargain harvest while he may.—Bloomingtondale's, New York.

Books on nature. If you're at all observing you can't help wondering about the birds and butterflies, and trees, and flowers that you see when you're off on your vacation, or a week-end trip, and wanting to know more about them, with a handy book on the subject that interests you most, to refer to, you can pick up a lot of useful, interesting knowledge in an easy and pleasant way. Here are some of the Nature Books from our splendid stock—write us, if you want any of them, or similar books on other nature subjects.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

The new book store on the third floor is holding an informal opening. The new fixtures have arrived and everything is spick and span. To properly celebrate this auspicious event the new book store makes one of the most remarkable offerings in the history of the trade in New York. An immense line of popular novels selling in other stores at $1.08 and $1.50 will be on sale to-day and subsequent days of the opening at 54c.—a record breaking price. Cutting prices one-half on popular books of the day is without precedent. We have allotted 5,000 copies to this sale. This is a very liberal quantity; yet in view of the enormous values and the rapid selling that will undoubtedly result, it will be advisable to come early. After the allotted quantity of each title has been sold we will not promise to supply further demand. Positively no mail or telephone orders can be accepted.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

Mr. Executor.—If a big library is one of the assets of the estate you are now settling, you can sell it for spot cash to Leary's. We'll send a representative to any part of the country to appraise it, or even across seas if the library is large enough. He will instantly see to its removal and all the bother is off your hands as soon as he signs the check. Even now we have a representative in London buying several libraries about which we've been corresponding. He has also purchased in Ediburgh a number of remainders-of-éditions of the prominent publishing houses, to fill the empty shelves in our store. We can't get too many books, hence we are just as anxious for a few as we are for a few thousand.—Leary's Book Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

To-morrow morning we commence a great clearance sale of standard books—representing all departments of literature—at a most ruthless sacrifice. In our overhauling and renewal of stock we have called out every book that could not pass the most minute muster, and marked them down to astonishing prices—prices that will realize for us a mere fraction of their cost—to insure their quick and absolute clearance.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

Here's your chance to lay in a supply of choice literature to while away an idle hour or an evening when you must stay indoors.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Another of our famous publishers' clearance sales of standard Books in sets begins this morning. Book-buyers who have attended our previous sales of this character will know what to expect in this one—values that are almost phenomenal; and they will need no second invitation to be here promptly.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Books for Nature Lovers.—Everybody is a nature-lover nowadays, for everybody is beginning to realize how good it is to learn something about the trees, and the flowers, and the birds. In the book store you will find a splendid stock of books dealing interestingly with these matters, in untechnical language. You will find, too, that Loeser prices, here as elsewhere, are always the lowest.—Fred-erick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

You may always depend upon getting here the newest novel of the day on the very day of publication. It's another instance that illustrates that Loveman, Joseph & Loeb put you on Broadway so far as opportunity is concerned, for new publications are on sale here the minute that the people of New York have an opportunity to buy them. It is also a part of the service of this book store to save you money, and you find that our prices are invariably less than regular publishers' prices.—Loveman, Joseph & Loeb, Birmingham, Ala.

There's always place and time for a good book—and a book is a particularly welcome messenger of love and friendship—there's life and great activity in our book department these days, and it's no wonder, as our collection of Holiday Books this season surpasses all previous efforts—the one place above all others to do your Christmas book shopping is at "The Big Store," which is the most commodious and best equipped in the city.—Hudson's, Detroit, Mich.

Thousands of books at uncommonly low prices. The books that are in greatest demand. When one is away at the seashore, at a farm, or amid the wild beauties of mountainous regions, an entertaining book becomes a most agreeable companion. It not only serves to drive away dull moments, but it affords intellectual profit. Scan the subjoined list. Buy as many books as you like. Easy to throw one into your grip and half a dozen into your trunk. Handy to have on train or boat.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

"How to Make a Vegetable Garden." By Edith Loring Fullerton. Simply invaluable to the country or suburban resident who realizes that there are no vegetables like those grown in one's own back-yard. The author betrays her enthusiasm by the feeling shown in her descriptions. With 200 vivid pictures to supplement the text, it is the only book we know of that completely covers the field for the amateur and practical gardener. Handsomely printed and bound at $1.80.—Abraham & Strauss, Brooklyn, N. Y.

And right here let us tell you that your friend who's literary inclined would like nothing better than to receive one of these books as a Christmas remembrance. They are really handsome books, in handy sizes, each one a beautiful sample of the bookmaker's art. They're padded and bound with pretty floral designs in gold, with round corners and full gold edges.—Bloomingdale's, N. Y.

Knowledge is of two kinds, "We know a subject ourselves, or we know where we can find information on it."—Samuel Johnson. Appleton's Universal Cyclopedia and Atlas is a complete univesity education in the home.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

You'll never get a better opportunity than this to add some handsome standard volumes to your library—books that no library is complete without. Or if you're a foresighted Christmas shopper you'll take this chance to buy some gifts.—Bloomingdale's, New York, N. Y.

Lovers of good books should watch the list of book bargains during these days when clearance prices prevail. New arrivals are crowding the department, and room must be made for the Holiday Books.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Christmas books are ready. Books serve a double purpose—they entertain and they instruct. Good books are invaluable companions. We have books that will edify, books that will help the little folks in their efforts to read and books that will help round out the education of the older boys and girls. Our Christmas books are in the old store, first floor back. You may buy them for Christmas if you wish, or buy them and let the children have them these long evenings. They'll help make home cheerful and keep the youngsters contented until bed-time.—Kaufmann's, Trenton.

Books for summer days. Books to while away an hour in the train or wet morning in the country have, for convenience of selection, been distributed at different points on the main floor. A counterful of old favorites, in cloth bindings, at 9c each, on the Juniper St. side, near the optical store.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Ten Thousand Paper Novels—Fine Summer Reading—Have Sold Here at 9c. to 36c.—Now 7c. Each—And not the cheap novels, but all good, wholesome stories—400 good titles in all—about one thousand in the lot of copyright fiction that has retailed at 50c. each. All the favorite authors are here. It's a fine opportunity to take some good books with you for the rainy days—and the cost is trifling.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Go where you will outside of Macy's and you will have to pay $1.08 for the same books we sell regularly at 98c. Stores claiming to match our low prices are stubbornly silent on the book question.—Macey's, New York, N. Y.

A Most Interesting and Unusual Sale of Books.—A large and remarkably good collection of books comes to us from one of the foremost American publishers. None of them is in perfect condition. The hurts are serious in some cases; hardly noticeable in many others. But we bought the lot so that we could sell them to-morrow.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fine reading for vacation time. Printed on good paper, in large type and well bound in cloth. The type is the same as is used in the $1.50 and $2.00 editions, but the illustrations are lacking.—Abraham & Strauss, Brooklyn.

Hundreds of books well worth reading are bound expensively in paper covers—and these are just the sort of books for summer reading, in a hammock or out under a tree. Who cares whether they become dog-eared or not, when they cost so little?—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Monday, 25c. books, at 12 1-2c. These books are printed on high grade paper with decorated cloth binding—what is known as the Handy Volume Edition. All well known and well liked authors.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Vacation days are coming and going. To most every one now these books are open doors to the wonderland of nature. You may buy them steadily at regular prices—they have stimulated a love of birds and trees and flowers that is growing wider every year. Now we are doing our share to help along this growth of nature love.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Some new books. There's a plethora of new interesting fiction at the book counters. Come and dip into it. Light and entertaining reading to while away the hours, more solid reading for studious moments. Possibly these will interest you.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

The most agreeable companions at all times are books. When their presence tires you can lay them aside without offending. Just pack a few of the following books in your grip for your vacation trip.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles.

Now a sale of marred Books. Filled with great economy chances. In the crowds and the hurry of Christmas buying it was natural that some books should be handled enough to show more or less signs of it. And in this book store nothing is sold as fresh unless it is as fresh as when it came from the binder. So for to-morrow we have gathered all these books together and marked many of them as low as half-price. Impossible to give titles—there are too few of a kind. But there is a great stock altogether and largely the most popular books of the season. Early choosing will be best.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Soiled Books—soiled prices. Through being counter-handled in the Christmas rush some books were sure to become soiled. Couldn't be otherwise. No matter how slightly, they have been gathered together and the better lines have been repriced for immediate clearance.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Clearing out broken lots of Books. The aftermath of Christmas. An event that attracts book lovers from all over town. The tremendous business this year makes the sale more than ever attractive. Many books become slightly soiled in the handling, not enough to hurt their value to you, but enough to prevent our presenting them as new, and at regular prices. Some of the lots become broken—in most of the popular titles, for instance, we have but a few copies and you would better come early to secure your favorites. We have placed the books, those in the broken lots, on convenient tables, each table holding books marked down to certain prices.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Books—prices cut in half. The opportunity of a lifetime. Children's and adults' books reduced to annihilating figures. The biggest and most sensational sale of books Mobile has ever known. Standard sets of popular authors of prose, verse and history, below cost, to close out. Also sets of standard works of history and romance for boys and girls.—L. Hammel Dry Goods Co., Mobile, Ala.

The book that all London is talking about. The book that is creating furor—Gertrude Atherton's "Rezanov." It is here and only here for this section of the country. It is a book fully up to the standard of the best $1.08 books printed as regards binding, printing and illustrations. It is one of Gertrude Atherton's masterpieces, 50c.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Here's the latest book, "The Cruise of the Shining Light." The review says: "It is so original as to be absolutely unique." A story full of real character—love, humor and vigorous action skillfully blended in a story that holds one as only a masterpiece can hold. The kind of book that demands more than a single reading.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

New members or those who renew their subscriptions to the Booklover's Library will for a limited time receive without charge six books which may be selected from a considerable list. These books have been withdrawn from the Booklover's Library for complimentary distribution, and the published prices range from $1.10 to $3.00. They include fiction, travel, history and biography and some of the most popular books of the past year.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A word of the Xmas books. Any one unacquainted with our book department is woefully lacking in Christmas knowledge. Every shelf, table and counter of the book department should be familiar to every holiday trader, for they are most fertile in Christmas suggestions. We court your special attention this minute, for the book publishers have made with just Christmas in view—the gift volumes. They are especially beautiful this season and most reasonably priced. Then we want you to know our line of Bibles. We show Oxford and Nelson's Bibles, Testaments and Prayer Books, in every binding and edition. Then, last, we have liberally prepared for the little ones—for the boys and girls, and for purchasers for Sunday schools.—The Fair, Ft. Worth, Texas.

One dollar and twenty-five cent bound books, 15c. Books fine enough for gifts—one more of the notable offerings from this splendid book store—the store that is generally accepted as the only complete book store in Brooklyn and the lowest priced book store anywhere. These books are neatly bound in buckram, with uncut edges.—Fred'k Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We do not anticipate in these few Christmas suggestions from the book store to strike the keynote for every one, but we may drop a hint which will help you in your Christmas shopping—suggest the book you wish. The general book store is in aisle K, extreme east aisle of the store. Children's books, calendars and Christmas cards have very large space in the basement.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

"Did you ever read the 'Inferno?'" asked the man who is always thinking about books.

"What's the use of reading it?" asked the man who likes to make the worst of it in warm weather. "I have experienced it."—Washington Star.

It was on a Madison street car. The young man in the wide trousers persisted in ogling the young woman with the book.

"Perhaps you would like to read this," she said, finally. "I think it would suit you."

"Charmed, I am sure," replied the masher. "What is the title?"

"'Wild Animals I Have Met.'"—Chicago News.

BREAD AND CAKE

Blobbs—"Newlywed's wife is a cooking school girl, and she has been feeding him on angel food."

Slobbs—"What effect has it had on him?"

Blobbs—"Well, I think he has rather given up the idea of ever becoming an angel."—Philadelphia Record.

Couldn't Have Been Him.—Lady—"I'm sure you're the same man I gave a loaf of home-made bread to yesterday."

Tramp—"It wasn't me, madam. I never felt better in my life."

The best cure for dyspepsia is pure bread, well made, properly baked. The bread that is made by this bakery is perfect bread made of the best flour, seasoned just right, thoroughly kneaded and baked to perfection. Try it.—Elm City Bakery, New Haven, Conn.

Our Butternut bread is splendid bread. If you have never tried it you can't tell. It is a firm, fine-grained, white bread and the crust has that rich, golden brown color which always shows the qualities of a good loaf of bread. From your grocer or the maker.—Russell-SpaULDing Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Not the result of chance. Good bread is not made by chance. Boyd's bread is good every time. We know just what to expect every day. So do our customers. We have a larger number of satisfied customers than any other house in Canada. Care and cleanliness is our motto, and you see it in every loaf of bread.—Boyd's, Winnipeg, Can.

The child's delight is a dainty mouthful of good and wholesome cake such as Smith's bakery delivers daily. In Smith's fancy breads, rolls, biscuits, cakes, etc., only the best flour, sugar, butter and milk, are used, in the most cleanly and careful way in order to ensure the best results. You may, therefore, rely upon the perfect purity and deliciousness of everything you buy from Smith's Bakery, Mobile, Ala.

Loeser cake. Better now than ever. If you are asked to send a cake to the strawberry festival or lawn fete, one of our three layer cakes will save you trouble and do you credit, too—for if they don't know, they will give you praise for being or having an extra good cook. Loeser cakes are the "home" kind, made of best materials generously mixed and baked according to old fashioned home recipes. They are even better now than they have been.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our bread makes a better breakfast than is possible when an ordinary loaf is used. Its delicious quality imparts zest to one's eating. Its texture, sweetness and flavor please the palate, and its crisp, nicely-browned crust rounds out a list of its merits which makes its eating altogether satisfying.—Kolb's, Trenton, N. J.

Cream Malt bread is approved by a wider circle of bread eaters than any other one kind of bread baked in Springfield. It has an appetizing taste that's always just as good the next time you eat it as the last time you tasted it. From our wagons or your grocer.—Schaefer's Bakery, Springfield, Ohio.

The freshest baked goods in the city can be obtained at the Eclipse bakery at any hour. Cakes, pastry, tarts, Scotch cake, tea cakes, small cakes, and any kind of cakes desired.—D. Stewart, Charlotte-town, P. E. I.

Butter-Nut bread. See that the label is on every loaf of Butter-Nut bread. It's as sweet as a nut and as pure as spring water. It gives the very impression of being kneaded and baked under the most careful conditions and that its bakers are masters at their art. None genuine without the seal. It's worth more than any other bread, yet the price is no higher. For sale at your grocer's.—California Bakery, Salem, Ore.

Take life easy. It is no longer necessary for the housekeeper to spoil her complexion and her temper by working over a hot stove to prepare biscuits for the family table. Try some of our rusk, soda biscuits, milk rolls and buns. The whole family will enjoy their meals better if served with our Milk Bread.—French's Bakery, Waterbury, Conn.

Kolb's butter bread is splendid bread. Those who have never tried Kolb's have no idea of how good baker's bread can be. This is not that dry, holey, puffed-up bread, but is so much like the good home-made—sweet, with crisp crust, moist and close in texture; substantial. It's the sort which has made baker's bread mean best possible, in Trenton. There's something to it. It satisfies. The genuine has our label upon it.—Kolb's, Trenton, N. J.

Women who live well generally live mostly on the bread we make. They all admit they can't bake any better bread than we do, and they can't afford to spend their time duplicating our work when our prices are so low. Ask your grocer about it.—Hartmann Bros., Bakers, Springfield, Ill.

A word to bread eaters. The pure food law requires that no preservatives shall be placed in bread in order to retain its freshness, and that all breads containing such materials are classed as injurious and unfit for food. Wolfarth's Butternut Bread is now, and has always been, absolutely pure, and the fact that it is fresh baked each day is a guarantee of its absolute freshness and purity. Insist upon getting it.—Wolfarth's Steam Bakery, Saginaw, Mich.

If you like things of whipped cream, you will find them at our stores every afternoon this week. On Saturday afternoon and evening many good things will be added to our regular display. Among them in large quantities you will see those splendid coffee cakes we make.—Trott Baking Co., Waterbury, Conn.

Order your Christmas cake now. We have put up a large quantity of Christmas cake, made from the choicest fruits. Orders by 'phone will receive special attention. Our candies for the Christmas trade are well assorted, and our prices are reasonable. Have you tried our home-made bread? Ask your grocer for it, or 'phone us and one of our wagons will call on you. We deliver to any part of the city. Remember, our specialties are cream cakes, cream puffs, and charlotte russe.—Burke Bros., Hamilton, Can.

Buy, try and eat Shaw's bread. Made of the highest grade flour, mixed under the best sanitary conditions by our electric mixer, absolutely no danger of perspiration falling in the dough, as no hands touch it while it is being mixed. Also a choice variety of cakes and pastry made from the finest stock in our grocery department.—N. Shaw & Co., Plymouth, Mass.

Bread. We give our bakers the purest, the best of materials and demand that the goods they bake shall be up to our standard and they are. Try our bread and you will always be a customer.—French's Bakery, Waterbury, Conn.

Wedding cakes and cakes for festive occasions made on the shortest notice, decorated and designed by the most skilled artists and made from the very best materials. The most modern and up-to-date appliances used in their manufacture.—The Watson Confectionery Co., Ltd., Winnipeg, Can.

A better bread than "mother made" is really not difficult to produce—in the Kolb bakery. There are better materials than there ever were; better facilities for baking—improved ideas and processes—and we have them all. The Kolb bakery is fitted to turn out the best loaf the world has ever known, and there are thousands in Trenton who declare that we do it. One loaf tells why.—Kolb's, Trenton, N. J.

Yes, that's the way you can get our toothsome and wholesome bread, cakes, pies and pastry of all kinds, fresh from the oven daily. We're more than particular as to the purity and quality of all ingredients entering into our products. Likewise scrupulous as to cleanliness of pans and appliances. Special cakes baked to order at short notice. Prompt service.—Winslow's Cottage Bakery, New Haven, Conn.

Hildebrecht's own baking products are ideal. We try to have them so. We work to that end. We succeed. There is nothing of the cheap about them, though our prices are moderate. What is here is the best possible and not because it's here, but because we'll have none else. Purity, freshness, cleanliness and delicious quality combine to make our pies, for instance, exceptionally toothsome, winning the praises of housewives, and making it needless to do so much baking in your home kitchen.—Trenton, N. J.

Everyone enjoys good bread. Being the principal article of food, special care should be taken to see that it is pure and easily digested. Our bread is light and flaky. The systematic preparation of ingredients, special method of mixing, and well regulated ovens prevent any possibility of sogginess. It is given the best attention from the oven to your home—clean, well ventilated rooms and wagons, Phone orders given careful attention. Delivered daily to all parts of the city.—Boyd's, Winnipeg, Can.

We have not mentioned our pies very much. It wasn't because we did not sell them. We do, and good well-filled pies they are, the kind that you anxiously await the quick ending of the meal to get a piece.—Trott Baking Company, Waterbury, Conn.

Your bread is a most important item of housekeeping, and to have it good you must have it well kneaded, well raised and well baked. Try a loaf.—D. Stewart, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Saturday cake news. 3 layer nut cakes. Every Saturday sees an increased demand for these special layer cakes. Particular housewives tell us that they are much better than can be made at home for the same cost. Certain it is we use the choicest materials, and are most careful in the mixing, baking and icing. This Saturday's cakes will have nuts between the layers and the rich cream icing on the top and sides will be sprinkled with chopped English walnuts. We would suggest the placing of your order early.—C. A. Beers Baking Co., El Paso, Tex.

Elberta bread. This is the bread the people like. Ours are the bakers that bake the bread the people like. This is the bakery that employs the bakers that bake the bread the people like. The people of Denison are the people that sustain the bakery that employs the bakers that bake the bread the people like.—Home Steam Bakery, Denison, Tex.

When you seek for tempting eatings a visit to our stores will repay you. We will have coffee cakes again Saturday. Now a coffee cake is one of the many good things we will have this Saturday afternoon and evening. Come and get one, the price is small, being only ten cents for your choice.—Trott Baking Co., Waterbury, Conn.

We've named it mother's because it equals, if not surpasses, the best home-made bread ever baked. Home bakers find it's useless to fuss with baking when they can get better bread without all that trouble.—Hill's, Trenton, N. J.

You will enjoy your Thanksgiving dinner much more with Nathan's famous fruit, pound or other cakes, which are delicious in quality and flavor.—Nathan's Home Bakery, Atlanta, Ga.

If you want the best bread that money can buy, ring up 521 and our wagon will call on you morning and afternoon delivery. Once used you will have no other.—Burke Bros., Hamilton, Can.

Cream Malt bread is approved by a wider circle of bread eaters than any other one kind of bread baked in Springfield. It has an appetizing taste that's always just as good the next time you eat it as the last time you tasted it.—Schaefer's Bakery, Springfield, Ohio.

Our modern bakery is located on South N. Street in Fresno. It is as near perfect as a bakery can be made. It is strictly sanitary—no dust, dirt or odors. Our bread and pastry is mixed and handled by machinery, the quantities used are weighed to the fraction of an ounce. Nothing is left to guesswork. The result is that we furnish the finest qualities sold in Fresno, and at the most reasonable prices. We especially recommend our Beechnut bread at 5c. the loaf.—Redlick's, Fresno, Cal.

Alexander cake. This cake is the latest product of our bakery—a cake that is destined to be very popular. It is a rich, white loaf cake—something on the order of white pound cake. All through it are French crystallized cherries. We especially recommend Alexander cake for afternoon teas. Comes without icing in two-pound cakes, at 50c. each. We also sell it half a cake for 25c.—Anderson & Chanslor Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Choice bakery specials. There are numberless small bakery specials in our bakestuffs department which are delicious for afternoon teas, to eat with the coffee or with puddings and desserts. Many of them may be new to you—if they are, let us give you an introduction to them without delay. Honey cakes—a tasteful delicacy—lebkuchen, pfeffer-nusse, butter confect—some of them you will recognize by their names as dear to the knowing German appetite—are among the line of fine 25c. a pound goods. Springalie are popular at 40c. pound. Order these lines if you want a change from lady fingers and wafers—they are extremely delicious.—H. Jevne Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

The loaf that satisfies. It doesn't pay you to bake when such bread as the Cardinal loaf can be had for 5 cents. Many women tell us they will never bake so long as we make the Cardinal, and husbands tell their wives there is no need to. Cardinal loaf is different from most bakers' bread—it is clean, but it is not "doctored" to make it white. Expensive "King Midas" flour is used; the dough is mixed by machinery; each loaf is baked to a turn, and directly upon leaving the oven it is wrapped in waxed paper. Ask your grocer for cardinal, or ring us up on either 'phone; we deliver throughout the city. Our fruit cake is delicious, 18c. pound—try it.—Robbins Bros., Trenton, N. J.

If you could see the great array of cakes laid out daily by our expert bakers, you would know you need worry no more about baking. So light, dainty and tempting—they are simply unequalled. Jevne's layer cakes are renowned. They come in two or three layers and different icings. You cannot help being delighted.—H. Jevne Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Excellent baking. Fruit cake, pound cake, Boston brown bread, Scotch short bread. There is a fine art in baking. We understand the art thoroughly and people who try our bread and cakes and pies come back for more. Stop at our store and look at the fine cakes we are showing in our windows. A cake of the right size for everybody. Any one will tell you that we make the best cakes they ever ate. Only the best materials used.—City Bakery, San Bernardino.

The quality of our bakery products is such that you need not bake at home. The bakery department of our business is one of the busiest and most rapidly developing branches of this store. We do not scrimp on materials. We use the best flour, lard, butter, eggs, milk, and fruits, and we use them liberally. The work is all done by expert bakers. The results of their work is seen in as fine an assortment of genuinely homelike bakery goods as can be found in New England. Our bread, butter rolls and salad rolls are well known in this section. Our efforts during 1907 will be devoted to keeping up the standard and improving the quality, if we see any way to do it. The cakes, doughnuts, crullers, cookies, lady fingers, etc., are in great variety—and all good. We make fine cream puffs, eclairs and whipped cream goods. You can use our bakery goods every day. It is not necessary now for you to bake at home.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Begin with the new year to improve yourself in mind and body by eating Lawrence's bread and baked goods, because they are made in a clean and sanitary bakery that has all of the latest improvements in machinery, etc., and the best material is none too good for our customers. We invite your inspection at any time. Bread and baked goods for sale by all grocers.—G. E. Lawrence & Son, Lansing, Mich.

Loeser cake, better now than ever. "My cook never fails," says a woman, and every other woman envies her that solid rock of dependence. Women whose cooks do not fail have the same dependable feeling about the Loeser Cake Kitchen—a minute spent at the phone to give an order, and up comes the cake, carefully packed, and sometimes even warm from the oven, and perfect as only moist, tender, rich mixed "home-made" cake can be. Every kind of loaf cake, from simple sponge cake for the children's lunch to richest nut or fruit cake. Layer cakes with three layers and generous fillings in maple cream, mocha, chocolate, cocoanut and lemon flavors.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Orange layer cake of Loeser baking. This is one of the specialties of the Loeser bakery here in the store—the most delicious orange layer cake that any one ever tasted. Cake and icing are flavored with fresh oranges. Cake and icing are absolute perfection. Three layer cakes are 65c. Loeser cakes, baked here in the store, are better now than they have ever been. Three layer cakes, including the famous maple cream cakes.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

High quality. The best—not the lowest priced—bread is the cheapest. We could make loaves to sell at three cents instead of five, or we could sell a larger loaf, but in either case we would be compelled to use inferior flour. Our bread, cakes and pies are made from the choicest western wheat. Cleanliness, purity and high quality are the three reasons why our productions are superior to any others.—The Home Steam Bakery, Denison, Texas.

Upheld by men for its nutritive and delicious qualities as being "the staff of life." In reality our loaves of Long's bread are desired by all lovers of good eating. Nothing spongy about our light and dainty loaves of bread; they are nutritious and healthful and are in demand by athletes as well as the most fastidious ladies. Try our pure and palatable breads, rolls and cakes. They are unexcelled.—P. S. Long, Lebanon, Pa.

The thoroughfare to a man's heart. Cupid is not inconstant. In the home where the dining table is ever enticing he lingers and makes himself at ease in the house where the housekeeper uses Smith's bread. Because the Smith Bakery products—bread, cakes, pastry, rolls, are all delicious, nutritious, healthful. If you go to get married you'll be always lucky if you begin the wedding feast with Smith Bakery confections, and keep using Smith Bakery good things in the household.—Smith's, Mobile, Ala.

Our bread and all baked goods are always fresh—always the best—always the kind of baked goods you are proud to have on your table when you entertain guests at meals.—Elm City Bakery, New Haven, Conn.

The man who called pie the demon of the American pantry evidently never tasted a piece of Plenty chocolate pie. Thick, creamy, chocolate filling piled up on crust light as snow. Look for the label and insist on Plenty pies at "The Home of Good Things to Eat."—Maldaner & Son, Springfield, Ill.

The bread that keeps the family healthy is a treasure no one can afford to be without. It is made right here. Once used it becomes a luxury that you won't dispense with. No more dyspepsia, indigestion, bilious attacks, sick headaches or tired feelings. Give it a trial is all we ask.—C. E. Rising, Rockland, Me.

Good bread is the staff of life all right—good bread. A man can live and thrive on bread alone—if it's good bread. But everybody can't make good bread. Bread making is an art—to be studied and practiced, if it's to be done well. Smith, the baker, his bread is good bread, all of it, and especially the Butternut brand. He does nothing but bake bread, rolls, pastry, cake, day in and day out. Isn't it natural he should do it a little better than some one who makes a business of it without knowledge of details.—Smith's Butternut Brand, Mobile, Ala.

If we risked the health and temper of our consumers with heavy bread, we'd get out of business. As it is, we're in business to stay. Our consumers say so. Don't forget, good bread is necessary, and bad bread causes more indigestion than any other food.—Hartmann Bros., Springfield, Ill.

Now listen! The price of cooking materials is high, but we are using as we always have, the best ingredients for our bread, rolls, biscuits, cakes and pastries. We serve only the best in baking. Give us a trial and be convinced.—J. S. French's Bakery, Waterbury, Conn.

Just what you have wanted so long. How many times have you wished you could get some of those delicious rolls you enjoyed at the hotel or famous restaurants, a loaf of that indescribably appetizing bread that is served in the long, thin loaves? Nothing tastes just like them, or so good. We have them now in the grocery—fresh, crisp, toothsome bread and rolls. Owing to their perishable character we cannot deliver them.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fad food will come and go. Try them all, but your faithful standby is Mother's bread. Nothing else can take its place. The best and purest bread made. Ask for it by name. From your grocer or the makers.—Russell-Spaulding Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

A slice of good bread. Do you enjoy eating it? You will if the slice that you are partaking of is a part of the countless rightly baked loaves we make. Don't miss having a loaf every day.—Trott Baking Company, Waterbury, Conn.

Old-fashioned pumpkin pies that surpass the ordinary home-made kind for deliciousness and wholesomeness. Crisp, tender crusts; rich, well-prepared fillings; baked to a golden brown.—Reeves, Washington, D. C.

Why, it's hot! Yes, that's the way you can get our toothsome and wholesome bread, cakes, pies and pastry of all kinds, fresh from the oven daily. We're more than particular as to the purity and quality of all ingredients entering into our products. Likewise scrupulous as to cleanliness of pans and appliances. Special cakes baked to order at short notice. Prompt service.—Winslow's Cottage Bakery, New Haven, Conn.

The bread that keeps the family healthy is a treasure no one can afford to be without. It is made right here. Once used it becomes a luxury that you won't dispense with. No more dyspepsia, indigestion, bilious attacks, sick headaches or tired feelings! Give it a trial is all we ask.—C. E. Rising, Rockland, Me.

The bake goods we make are the kind you want. We make something new nearly every day, and owing to the increased demand for "Our Old Homestead Milk Bread" it taxes us to the utmost to meet it. To-morrow's assortment comprises Bath buns, Parker House rolls, finger rolls, Chelsea buns, biscuit, kuchen, stollen and coffee rings. In pies—apple, huckleberry, mince, red raspberry, raisin, blackberry, coconut, chocolate, cream, lemon, and pumpkin. In cakes, 10c—chocolate, layer, coconut, nut, orange, fig; also angel food, devil's food, chocolate eclairs, cream puffs, charlotte russe, cream rolls, French doughnuts, Bismarck doughnuts, almond macaroons, lady fingers, patty cakes. All kinds of cookies and cup cakes.—Brodt Mercantile Co., Rome, N. Y.

Your Christmas cake if made by us will be equal to any "mother used to make." Our expert cake baker is pleasing hundreds of people and can please you.—Beattie, St. Thomas Ont.

Cake for every one in our bakery. If you haven't eaten any of our nut cake or sultana, it is high time you did. We are the best bakers in town, so give us your order.—D. Stewart, Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island.

Just try Prof. Hart's brown bread once and you'll understand why it's the favorite bread in hundreds of homes. Made of entire wheat kernel. Delicious, wholesome and easily assimilated. More nourishing than meat, delivered to homes.—Krafft's Bakery, Washington, D. C.

The right formula for making good bread: Good flour, good sugar, pure yeast, pure salt, pure water, experienced baker. Result: Good bread. Our bread is right because it is made of the right materials and in the right way. It is the best bread that can be baked.—Arkadia Bakery, Crowley, La.

"The best bread I ever ate."—That is what a lady said to us in speaking of Mrs. Cornell's home-made bread. If you have bread troubles, try this "staff of life." Mrs. Cornell also makes the most excellent cookies, rolls, Saratoga chips, and other home-baked goods.—Cornell, Binghamton, N. Y.

The best bread for children is our "Mother's" bread because of its purity and superior quality. Our new "Stanley bread" is always wholesome, toothsome, excellent.—Endich-Arnot Baking Company, Port Huron, Mich.

Only place in town where you can get Freihofer's famous bread is at our store. It is made in the most cleanly and careful manner and is full of nutriment. You ought to try it and see how good it is.—Geo. M. Dunlap, West Chester.

Christmas Cakes, Christmas pies, Christmas pastry and everything for Christmas a baker is expected to make for his patrons will be on hand here in abundance and in good time, of fine quality, moreover. Of course, as to point of time, we would be glad to have your orders early.—R. Wild, Parkersburg, W. Va.

Christmas caterers are we, so far as the term applies to bakers of cakes—fancy and plain—pies, pastry, bread rolls, doughnuts, etc. To be sure, we will have on hand an ample supply of staples in the bakery line. Special orders for the holidays will be properly attended to. The earlier you can give us the order the better.—Sunrise Bakery, Williamsport, Pa.

No matter how you make it, no matter how you bake it, no matter what it costs—you can't beat mother's bread.—Ward & Mackey Bakery, Pittsburg, Pa.

They can't hold a candle to us when it comes to bread, cakes and pies. Sunrise Bread is made from the finest Western flour and is baked in such a way to retain all of its nutritious elements. All of our cakes, pies and pastry are equal to any home-made products, and in many cases superior.—The Sunrise Bakery, Tacoma, Wash.

Buy home-made bread. Jevne sells it. As delicious, as good, as nourishing as any home-made bread ever made. Loaves are just as large as baker's, price is just the same—and there's just twice as much to them as there is to baker's loaf. Who would eat baker's bread a minute longer than they had to? No one, of course. Every housekeeper who knows Jevne is selling home-made bread must be buying it, judging by the hundreds of loaves we sell every day.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles.

Aunt Minerva's advice to brides-to-be is that when they get married to make their mission to have good bread, and that the best bread to be had is Bromm's, the whitest, sweetest and most healthful made. No husband will ever find fault with Bromm's bread.—L. Bromm, Richmond, Va.

Fancy Biscuits. These dainty little crackers fit in to social functions so nicely that they're almost a necessity in every household. No one with any pretensions to entertaining could possibly get along without them. But care should be exercised in the buying or your little "spreads" will come to grief.—O. C. Elwell, Portland, Me.

Try our cream bread, and you will be convinced there is none other just so good.—Muir's Bakery, Vancouver.

The staff of life is bread—good bread, and the relishes are our pastries.

Our fruit cake is the pride of the bakery—its quality beyond comparison.—A. Button & Son, Louisville, Ky.

"All is not gold that glitters." Also, all cake is not fit to eat that is fixed up to catch the eye. Our cakes are made from pure, wholesome, home made recipes. They are made to eat.—The City Bakery, Crookston, Minn.

Well baked.—Much well made bread is spoiled in the baking. Not so with ours. We make it light and wholesome, and we bake it just right. It's never spongy and "doughy" in the middle. Tin tag on every loaf.—Schosser's Steam Bakery, Houston, Tex.

A child thrives well on bread and milk. If you and the State inspectors will look after the milk, we will guarantee the bread. You are perfectly safe in feeding your children "Mother's Bread."—Endich-Arnot Baking Co., Port Huron, Mich.

You will find it much cheaper and far more satisfactory to patronize our bakery than to do your own baking.—G. Button & Son, Louisville, Ky.

The staff of life is bread—good bread, and the relishes are our pastries.

“Care and cleanliness” is our watchword, “Purity” our motto. We make the best and most wholesome bakers’ goods in town.—Keefe & Son, Springfield, Mass.

The cake counter adjoins and Loeser cakes are famous. Leave your order tomorrow and we will bake and deliver fresh on Saturday.—Frederick Loeser & Co., New York.

What makes a good cracker? Let us answer that—good flour, scientific skill, experience and carefulness.—Bishop & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Cakes!—You would be surprised to know how many cakes we sell, but the reason is plain; nothing but the best ingredients are used, and they are baked fresh every day. We have all the old varieties and several new kinds.

Cakes and pastry, to be of the highest grade of excellence, should be obtained at R. Wild’s, where the baker’s art is reigning supreme. We have the finest cakes, the most luscious pies and delightful knickknacks.—R. Wild, Parkersburg, W. Va.

There’s a secret in the making of pumpkin pies, and we know the secret. That’s why the Wickizer Home Bakery has made them popular. All kinds of pies for home use and cakes for all occasions. Use the ’phone.—Wickizer, Bloomington, Ill.

Catalogue for complete plant for up-to-date bread and cake bakeries, with plans and estimates, sent on receipt of requirements.—Warner, Pfeiderer & Perkins, London, Eng.

When in need of goods of reliable quality and attractive appearance, write us. Our lines of biscuits and confectionery have those special merits so essential to quick and ready sellers.—The Lang Manufacturing Co., Montreal.

High-Class Biscuits and Confectionery. It is gratifying to us that our effort to produce goods second to none on this continent is meeting with the endorsement that has warranted the enormous increase in our equipment and premises. D. S. Perrin & Company, London, Ont.

Royal Yeast Cakes. Bread made with Royal Yeast keeps moist and fresh longer than that from any other.—E. W. Gillet Co., Chicago, Ill.

The question of the best bread was always open to argument until Frost the Baker’s bread won the approval of all good housekeepers. Its enviable reputation has been attained by the great care used in selecting the right material and in baking the same. Send your order or telephone to-day to Frost, the Baker,—Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

How much bread do you eat in a year? You eat about 60 feet of bread in a year. It is therefore necessary that you eat good bread. We have the reputation of baking the most complete line of good bread, pies, cakes, etc. All work done on machines by practical men and women bakers. Wagons everywhere.—Hershey Bros, York, Pa.

All flesh is grass,
And Love will pass,
And Glory fade away,
But one sweet Joy
Will never cloy
Nor fall to make one merry—
They fill the bill, wherever found—
The pies of Dunsenberry, Pittsburg.

He ate his sirloin steak and eggs,
The waiter served him, piping hot;
He drained the coffee to the dregs,
All that was in the coffee pot.
He ate a pile of buckwheat cakes,
A pound of butter o’er ’em spread,
And cried, “Good man for pity’s sake,
Give me a loaf of Lindner’s bread.”
—Lindner’s, Oskosh, Wis.

Fancy Biscuits.—We don’t know of a store that’s so well equipped to furnish fancy biscuits for all occasions as this one. We’ve worked to make it so. We’ve gathered all the favorites—those that have been tested and found to be dainty, delicious food products—and kept out the mere freaky preparations. No matter how select the party you’re to entertain, you’ll be certain to get something in our stock of fancy biscuits to please your guests.—O. C. Elwell, Portland, Me.

A kneaded want is filled by the London and Vancouver Bakeries. No longer is it necessary to do any baking at home. Indeed, it is a waste of time and energy to bake even a small cake. Our bake shop, presided over by skillful tradesmen, is well ordered and well appointed; only the best brands of flour and other materials being used, ensures the finest quality possible. Our bread is the acme of perfection; it is always sweet. Try it.—D. W. Hanbury, Victoria, B. C.

Our baker is an artist! You ought to see the luscious dainties that come out of our ovens nowadays! Fancy eatables made by a genuine German baker of the very first class in New York. His French crullers, coffee cakes, meringue tarts, cream rolls, eclairs, etc., are simply elegant. He bakes them fresh daily; we sell them at a low price.—Fox & Adams, Bangor, Me.

People like wheat bread. It's white and up-to-date. Yet when real nourishment is needed—old fashioned rye bread leads. It's the kind your grandfather used for muscle—and for weak stomachs your doctor recommends Rye Bread. We make it every day—pure and healthful—at our new bakery.—L. H. Hodge, Binghanton, N. Y.

When your appetite disturbs you, call up Hershey Brothers, the most practical and up-to-date bread, pie and cake bakers in the city.—Hershey Brothers, York, Pa.

It doesn't scare anybody away from good pie—this story of pie being indigestible—for pie made as we make it, of best brands of flour, best fruits, pumpkin, mince meat, etc., sugars that sweeten, and all the other ingredients in keeping, to say nothing of our well-known skill as bakers, is wholesome as well as appetizing.—Sunrise Bakery, Williamsport, Pa.

Apple pies to suit should not be made "any old way"—in fact, our receipt calls for a carefulness in preparing that makes them perfect. Berry, mince, pumpkin and custard are some of the others we make—equally appetizing. Try one to-day.—L. H. Hodge, Binghanton, N. Y.

We bake everything—in the line of flour products. Bread, pies, cakes and pastries of all kinds—the finest that expert bakers and choicest materials can produce. Try our mince and pumpkin pies. Much better than the usual "baker's pies." Light, appetizing crusts and delicious fillings.—Reeve's, Washington.

Fancy cakes. We make a specialty of fancy cakes of all kinds and for all occasions. The pastry department of our bakery is given as much attention as the bread department. We solicit party orders and can fill your wants complete.—The Ideal Bakery, Topeka, Kan.

"Mother's" bread is for everybody. Children like "Mother's" bread because it is tasty. Grown folks enjoy it because it is genuinely good and substantial and not all chaff. "Mother's" bread is a health giver to the invalid and a health maintainer to the hale and hearty. The secret of all this quality lies in the conscientious care and superior skill employed in the mixing, making and baking of "Mother's" bread. Every precaution is taken to maintain the purity and everything is done to enhance the wholesome goodness of "Mother's" bread. Let "Mother's" bread be your daily bread from now on.—Corby's, Washington, D. C.

Good bread smells good and is a better appetizer than many a tonic. Good bread here every time—good because it's made from pure wheat flour, the hull removed (unless you want the graham kind) by men skilled in their business. Try our make of bread, loaf for loaf, with others and we will have your trade, which we seek.—Winkelman's, Memphis.

Hungry mouths. You can fill those little hungry mouths with better bread for less money at the Mohican store than you can at any other place in the United States. It's a big statement, but it's a true one. Three cents for a full size loaf of bread. Made of the best flour that money can buy. There's money in it for us and there's money in it for you. Don't pay five cents for the same size loaf.—The Mohican Company, New Haven, Conn.

Our pies are the big, thick kind that remind you so much of home made. They are the kind that make you hungry to look at them. Large size, 15c; large family size, 25c. Let us deliver one for dinner.—J. D. Suydam, Trenton, N. J.

What you find in cutting a loaf of our bread is that it is firm, moist, white. What you find, when you eat it is that it is wholesome, easily digested, nourishing—large returns in health and strength in each 5-cent loaf. Bread isn't the only thing we bake—cakes, pies and rolls, too, all first quality.—German Baking Co., San Diego, Cal.

Loeser cakes are baked here in our own home bakery. They are made from the best materials we can buy, blended by people who know how to make real home cakes. They are the cakes with the real "home-made" flavor. Loeser layer cakes with three layers cost no more than two layer cakes elsewhere.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our baked dainties are dainties indeed—dainty to look upon and dainty delicious to eat. What's the use of putting out your strength and time over the cake-board when you can get the very nicest and choicest of fresh made cakes, cookies, etc. at our store.—Fox & Adams, Bangor, Me.

The contents of the lunch basket tastes all the sweeter if its sandwiches are made of bread from Smith's bakeshop, and if a piece of Smith's pie is in the dinner pail. Wrap a moistened napkin about sandwiches, and see how much more they are relished. For the home and for luncheon away from home—the noon hour for the toiler, the picnic, the pleasure trip for the family "excellence" tells the story about Smith's bread, pies and cakes.—Dauphin & Hallett, Mobile.

Good bread for health of all, old and young! Our bread beats home-made because experts excel amateurs. As we buy flour by the wholesale at lower prices, bake in quantities at consequently less cost, our bread is cheaper than the domestic article. Time, labor and cost of coal are all saved by having us serve you. Come to us to get better bread cheaper.—Winkelman's Columbian Bakery, Memphis, Tenn.

No bread like Jevne's. It's home-made, and the difference between it and other bread is—Jevne's is home-made and the other isn't. No need to eat a poor, unsatisfying bread three times a day when you can get home-made bread so good that you'll want it all the time. The loaves are large with twice as much nourishment as you get in a baker's loaf. Beautiful, flaky, palatable loaves for five and ten cents.—Jevne's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Our success hinges on our good bread. We have aimed, studied and striven for perfection in the baker's art. Judging from the steady increase in our customers, these persistent efforts have not been in vain. While the past is secure, present popularity gives us a mortgage on the future, and lovers of fine bread should not fail to try ours.—Schust's Ma-ma Bread Bakery, Saginaw, Mich.

We make the best bread.—Would you rather have home-made bread than baker's?—buy it at Jevne's. Our baking of home-made bread for our customers has delighted them almost more than anything we've ever done. And they show their appreciation by buying it just as fast as we can bake it. Beautiful, well-browned loaves, light, flaky, delicious—you never ate better home-made bread. Baker's bread has been eaten for its necessity, Jevne's bread is eaten for its goodness.—Jevne's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Rye bread as it is made at Hodge's homestead bakery has no equal. It is the most healthful bread made to-day. Consider our forefathers who won the victories of the revolution and the freedom we now enjoy. Their chief diet consisted of rye bread made from rye raised on the farms. They were strong and sturdy men. Why? Because they ate rye bread.—Hodge's, Binghamton, N. Y.

Hot work fussing around a cook stove in hot weather. Cut it out. Take advantage of our big bakery. Surely you can make no better bread, no lighter biscuits, no finer cakes or pastry than you find here fresh several times a day. Nor bake these things nearly as cheap. Then strike out for a comfortable summer, leave the baking to us and collect the red star stamps we give with all purchases at our bakery counters.—Scheuer & Co., Jersey City, N. J.

Deliciously light bread, cakes, rolls, and many forms of pastries leave our ovens fresh, sweet, wholesome and clean every day. Have they reached your home? No; well there is a treat in store for you, a treat we are prepared to set down at your door any day you let us know your wishes as to kind and quantity. Phone connection insures quick attention. Our No. is 6. Our domestic bread is still the leader.—Middleton's Bakery, Marion, Ind.

Barnes' Jersey cream bread is made from the best materials procurable, from a blending of choice Minnesota and California flours, carefully mixed by machinery, and baked in giant ovens. This bread has a close, firm texture, is full of nourishment and health giving properties. It tastes delightfully good and in general is the finest loaf that skilled bakers can produce.—Barnes' Bakery, Los Angeles, Cal.

Pumpkin pies. The pumpkin pie season is at its height now. If you are not eating our pumpkin pies you are missing one of the good things of life.—D. W. Russell, Binghamton, N. Y.

Our graham bread is not full of coarse bran like some graham bread, but is just light, sweet, palatable, easily digested, nourishing bread made from specially ground flour with all the coarse, indigestible bran removed. It is noted for its goodness.—W. N. Burgess, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Don't get married until you have seen us about the wedding cake. We can furnish it to suit the most fastidious taste. Cakes to order for all occasions our specialty. Anything in that line on short notice at reasonable prices. Sure to give you satisfaction. At our bakery can be found fresh, daily, choice bread, rolls, buns, cakes, pies and pastry. Everything is pure, wholesome, toothsome.—Young's Confectionery, New Orleans, La.

If you work for your bread, you're well paid with the light, tender, nutritious, liberal loaf—home made—baked by the Hardic Bakery, Pittsburg, Pa.

Pies.—None that you have ever tasted quite come up to the standard of deliciousness set by Holmes' genuine Home-made Pies.—Holmes' Bakery, Washington, D. C.

Fresh from the Oven every morning. Is it any wonder that Middleton's Bread pleases every family buying it? It is not only fresh but good in every sense that the word is used. Every loaf of bread baked by Middleton is fit for family use, no matter how particular the family.—Middleton Bakery, Marion, Ind.

You are protected. I now have my model bakery on Hayes street. Six car loads of flour were bought before the raise in price and insures my customers against any increase in the price of bake goods.—Hodge's Homestead Bakery, Binghamton, N. Y.

What luscious bread!—That's the general verdict we hear on all sides from buyers of our famous sweet-milk loaves. The bread is made from the best blended wheat, thoroughly kneaded, perfectly baked, with a deliciously crisp crust. We sold lots of it last week, and patrons keep coming back for more!—Fox & Adams.

"As good as mother used to make."—A great many people say this about Wolfarth's "Home Made" bread. It's about the best bread that was ever baked. It is made of the best flour money will buy, mixed and baked in a clean, sanitary bakery by expert bakers. Wolfarth's "Home Made" is always the same—to-morrow's loaf will be just as good as to-day's.—The Wolfarth Bakery, Saginaw, Mich.

Cakes and cookies and other good things. All things good at Jevne's Bakery Department—about the most tempting spot in our store. We bake all kinds of cakes, and all kinds of pies, and all kinds of cookies, and everything else in bakestuffs that's good. Of course they're fresh—as fresh as they can be coming out of the oven several times a day. All materials used are the finest. It's hard to beat Jevne's baking.—Jevne's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Mother's bread gives strength to the weak and health to the sick, and helps the healthy and strong to retain their health and strength. All who eat Mother's Bread like it. They like it because it is tasty—they like it because it is never dry and chaffy. There is a uniform goodness—a never varying quality—about Mother's Bread that is not found in any other bread that's made—not even the bread that's made at home by the best home cooks. This superiority is due to a combination of circumstances governing the making and baking, chief of which are the skilled use of the best materials and the Corby process of mixing.—Corby's, Washington, D. C.

Rich's fruit cake.—A home-made cake of the very finest quality. You'll never tire of eating "Milk" bread—always just as good and wholesome as clever home bakers and the best materials can make it.—Holmes' Bakery, Washington.

Fact is when you can secure such high-grade fruit cakes (made of only the best pure materials) at so reasonable a cost, it doesn't pay to bother with the making.—Gedney's, East Orange, N. J.

Pumpkin pies at this season of the year, one of the good things the earth produces for man's use are pumpkins. The old time pumpkin pie with its delicious flavor is made by J. W. Russell, Binghamton, N. Y.

Our bargain day is on Saturday, that's when we make a special effort. You will find the finest lot of coffee cake, bread and rolls in the city. Take some home with you for your Sunday breakfast or telephone us. We will deliver it.—Korn's Bakery, Davenport, Iowa.

Crackers bought here are crisp and fresh. Our sales of these goods are so rapid that we have no difficulty in keeping our stock perfectly fresh. The crispness of a cracker is half its goodness. All the standard kinds and novelties as they appear.—The Busy Bee, Columbus, Ohio.

Paris wafers are a fine, rich, snappy ginger wafer, with a delightful, lingering after-taste. They come to us packed in a handsome, japanned, hinged-lid bread-box, with the word "bread" nicely printed on the front. These boxes hold nine or ten pounds of wafers. If you can use that many wafers at one time, the bread-box is free.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia.

It is for you to judge the excellencies of our Bakery. We have the most improved methods for baking and employ none but expert bakers.—Frank Lehman, Grand Forks, N. D.

Those who know what good bread really is prefer our baking to any other. They know the care and skill that is bestowed on it from the mixing of the dough to the time it leaves our bakery.—Middleton's, Marion, Ind.

We do all our baking in the morning. By 10 o'clock, when we place it on the front counter, it's steaming hot, fresh from the ovens. Shoppers will always find something delicious here to carry home for luncheon or dinner.—Thomas Martindale & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

"Own Baking Peach Pie," the ideal peach pie. Made from carefully selected peaches; prepared in the most cleanly and careful manner. Acker's crisp, flaky pie crust. The combination—a most delicious pie.—Finley Acker & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Any kind of bread and any kind of cake, when it is the product of Jackson's bakery, can be relied upon as being the best that can be made—"the best" covering nutritive, healthful and satisfying qualities. We use only the finest flour, freshest eggs, purest sugar, spices, fruits and flavors that can be had, and the mixing, kneading and baking are all done by master hands under competent direction.—W. A. Jackson, Fergus, Ont.

We have a very large assortment of fancy cakes that are appetizing and useful for tea, school, picnic and camp lunches, and don't forget to keep a few on hand for the "bite between meals," that children—and sometimes their elders—so much enjoy.—Oliver-Finney Co., Little Rock, Ark.

A Difference of Opinion as to the merits or demerits of this, that or the other kind of pie, cake or bread would be settled speedily if all were purchased here—they are all good. One prefers this, the other likes that—yet all are happy if each one gets the best of the kind—sure to do so here.—Wickizer's Home Bakery, Bloomington, Ill.

We claim a good deal of merit for the products of our bakery and they are every bit as good as we claim. We use best materials, modern methods, skillful workmen and insist on absolute cleanliness.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

You'll like our bread, for it's wholesome, nutritious and made from the purest of materials—scientifically put together and baked "just to a turn." The same thing is also true of everything else that we bake.—Gray Bros., Youngstown.

Your next picnic can be made doubly enjoyable by taking along some of our delicious cakes and pastry. It is very unpleasant to bake in this extremely warm weather, besides you are not always sure of the best results.—Spencer, St. Thomas, Ont.

Cake like home made.—A bowl of milk, a sweet baked apple and a piece of Loeser cake will make home the most alluring place in the world on a Sunday night. This cake is already famous—all kinds for all tastes at 17c. a lb.—and costs less than making it at home.—Loeser's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fresh from the oven.—Our bread, rolls and buns are appetizing and toothsome. Made from a superior grade of flour, in absolute cleanliness. Nothing whatever of a deleterious nature used in our products. We make cake that is delicious and wholesome. Unexcelled in purity or quality.—Schneider's, Scranton.

Don't do much cooking in hot weather.—What's the use when Jevne's Delicacy Department is within your reach. This department is just filled with good things all daintily and well cooked, and there's variety enough for a whole luncheon. If you want a picnic basket filled, if you want a luncheon in a hurry our delicacy department can supply you with everything necessary.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Our bread is not found at any grocery store in Galesburg because we have done away with the wholesale business. Giving 3 loaves of bread for 10 cents is retailing it at wholesale prices, so that the people of Galesburg can now get good bread cheaper than ever.—Woman's Exchange, Galesburg, Ill.

Unusual activity in cakes. These departments are the handiest conveniences in the stores. They relieve you of the trouble of baking and that means much during the hot weather. Taking it from an economical standpoint they ought to appeal to you as well, because the price of our fancy, well baked cakes is much lower than the cost at home for yourself.—L. Lehman & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Ma-Ma Bread is the kind you hear so many women talking about. They say it is the best bread baked. It is made from the best flour and baked just right. It is baked at night, too; therefore it is fresh every morning. Women should not bake bread in hot weather, but should use Schust's Ma-Ma Bread. Baking bread is hard work at any time, but in hot weather it is simply terrible, and women who do it cannot expect to look well.—Schust's Bakery, Saginaw, Mich.

The Best Part of the Wheat goes to waste in milling flour by the ordinary method. Prof. Hart's Brown Bread is made of flour ground by a special process, which retains the entire wheat kernel—hulls and all. The most nourishing bread made.—Kraft's Bakery, Washington, D. C.

You save all the trouble, all the annoyance and avoid all chances of failure when you employ us to bake your pies, cakes, pastries, etc. Nothing could be more delicious than the Reeves Bakery Goods. They're the very highest grade bakery products to be had. Your own kitchen doesn't furnish finer ingredients. We use the best of flours—the finest creamery butter—the highest grade flavors. We use home-preserved fruits. And we have facilities that are not at the command of anyone else. Let us bake for you.—Reeves, Washington.

The most delicious cake in Brooklyn. We are taking the word of dozens of Brooklyn women when we say so. This cake is baked here in the premises. The finest ingredients are used, and their manipulator is an expert of many years' experience. The cakes come hot to the basements counters and hardly wait long enough to be cooled.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Everybody can be certain that Bridering is the richest, most delicious pound cake baked, and that at 20c. lb. you are buying it for less than half confectioners' prices. Ask your grocer to show you Bride-ring Cake, and see if you can resist its appetizing attractiveness.—J. S. Ivins' Son, Philadelphia, Pa.

Baking is an art that has many students and some masters. The bakers here are masters of the art of preparing pies, cakes, pastries, etc. They have facilities that are the best money can command. Their successes have built up the Reeves reputation for producing the finest bakery products obtainable. Call their services into play on your account. Place a trial order for your favorite cake or pie. See how much better they succeed in making it than any one else has. We believe you'll not bother with baking afterwards.—Reeves, Washington.

We told you about our new cook. She's a success from the start. Her cakes are in great demand, so you'd better order early Saturday—Layer, drop, bar, loaf, cookies, fried cakes.—S. F. Arnold & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Our Butternut Bread is extra fine. It is baked on the home made plan. Will keep longer and is more moist than any other bread. Butternut is the bread you should eat. When you eat Butter-nut you not only eat the most palatable bread but the most wholesome.—Geo. S. Connelly & Co., Springfield, Ill.

We use the finest materials such as the freshest eggs, Creamery butter, Leaf lard, milk, cream, etc., so freely that we are called extravagant—but we find it pays. Our bakery sales are ever on the increase. We're making more cakes, more loaves of bread, more rolls and crullers every week. If you wish to see our bakery spread at its best then come in about noon. After that it thins out rapidly.—W. N. Walker Co., Hartford, Conn.

Most bakers turn out a loaf of bread in the quickest, easiest way possible. Bond's bread is given extra kneading, extra mixing, and all the time necessary to make bread good. Our aim is to make good bread and to sell good bread. The bread with the name on the bottom—"Bond"—proves our success.—Bond's, Los Angeles, Cal.

A great many people think they can't get Good Bread at the bakery. This is a mistake. Have you tried the Bread that we are turning out at our New Steam Bakery? It is better than the home-made kind. Ask for Hartman's Bread and be convinced.—Hartman Bros., Springfield, Ill.

My little Mary comes to me—
So softly climbs on mother's knee—
I'll know her wish full soon;
So with a low and dismal sigh
She asks when will supper be nigh—
This long, long afternoon.

I don't keep her waiting. Out of the cupboard comes butter, sugar and Puritan Bread. Then that little girl has a luncheon, and the long, long afternoon is not only shortened but sweetened. Ask your grocer for Taggart's Puritan Bread.—Taggart's, Indianapolis, Ind.

Cleanliness is the first law of health and the first rule in the making of Tekla Bread. After that come quality of materials and skill in baking, and the result is a loaf unequalled for satisfaction and nutrition—and always uniform.—National Biscuit Co.

One of our home-made pies will be suitable dessert, they are made from fresh fruits and by our own cook; try them and you will always buy them.—Spokane Cash Market, Spokane, Wash.

Here's a new one. Sandwich bread—always up to the times, you know; but this is a bread with a thin crust—just the thing for picnics or receptions—no waste and lots of satisfaction.—Sunrise Bakery, Williamsport, Pa.

Good bread for breakfast is the best possible preparation for day's labor. No article of food supplies so many elements of nutrition. The staff of life reaches perfection in our loaves, which from day to day run as even in their quality as the earth in its orbit.—Sullivan Bros. Bakery, York, Pa.

Better bread you can't buy in Los Angeles—better bread you never ate anywhere—it is wholesome, clean, pure, and contains no ingredients but what will benefit your health, and unlike the majority of scientifically prepared bread-stuffs, Sunshine bread tastes good and does good.—Pacific Pure Food Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Bread. We are proud to be baker to Pittsburg, great Pittsburg! Greater Pittsburg. We bake mother's bread and moneyback it. You know it must be good bread when we moneyback it.—Ward Mackey Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Pure ingredients secure palatable pies. "Zinsmaster's" pies are better than the ordinary bakery pie—they're richer, purer and more palatable—the ideal pie for the noontime lunch.—Des Moines Bakery Co., Des Moines, Iowa.

A bang-up bakery. The Mohican Bakery is a bakery for people. It's a money-saving bakery. It is the best addition to Grocerdom that the good old city of Worcester has ever placed here. You received it with open arms and your enthusiasm has never flagged since the first hour the store was opened.—The Mohican Co., Worcester, Mass.

The crisp-crust loaf Ma-Ma bread is the best white loaf you can buy. It is always well baked. Every loaf is crisp and light. The Ma-Ma label is never on a loaf that is sour, heavy or soggy.—Schust's Ma-Ma Bread Bakery, Saginaw, Mich.

Your bread supply, be it large or small, will be always of the best quality if obtained of us. Our product is at once pure, wholesome and toothsome. Can't be beat. Made from superior grade of flour and purest ingredients. Our bread, rolls, buns, etc., are baked in absolute cleanliness and are delicious.—Earnest Renning, Wellsville, N. Y.

Which do you buy, baker's bread or Jevne's home-made bread? If you've ever eaten any of Jevne's home-made bread it will put a stop to your buying baker's. Such beautiful, palatable, nourishing loaves it is impossible to buy any place but Jevne's. It's home-made bread, and if you haven't forgotten how good home-made bread is you'll know just how fine this bread is. Every loaf well browned, full of nourishment, full of goodness.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

"Own Baking" Sunshine Cake. Delicate, dainty and delicious. Similar to angel cake in lightness and texture, and of a beautiful golden color.—Finley Acker & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Our Baked Goods are as good as the best of good things can make them. They lack the flat taste of the professional bakery product because we use home methods in their preparation.

Best materials insure purity, of course. But there are other things that count in their making. Care, for instance, and cleanliness. That means a good deal when you are buying pastry.—Schoch & Schafer Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Model Bread from a Model Bakery. For thirteen years people have been eating Noll's bread, and are still eating. It's the "Staff of Life" that you can rely on.—Noll's Bakery and Confectionery Co., Alton, Ill.

It is pleasant to listen to the many encomiums on our bread and pastry of so many delectable sorts coming from our ovens. If you haven't heard them, just ask any of our regular customers and you'll soon settle on this as your bakery. Cleanliness, purity, well applied skill, courtesy and prompt delivery mark our methods.—The O. K. Baking Co., Inc., Hartford, Conn.

Freshly baked tea biscuits make a very pleasant addition to the evening meal. But how few folks know how, or will take the trouble to bake them? We have the know-how and save you the trouble too by turning out just the most tasty, delicious tea biscuits in town, fresh every afternoon.—R. Wild, Parkersburg, W. Va.

Smith's excellent bread is always desirable—always healthful—always in order. It's the same delicious, well kneaded, rightly baked, wholesome staff of life that has won the commendation of almost every housekeeper in Mobile, and is asked for and bought on the lines of all the railroads entering Mobile in every hamlet, way station and town. There's something winning about its goodness that is irresistible. Every day something seasonable, special and different in cakes, pies, rolls, etc.—Dauphin & Hallett, Mobile, Ala.

Ever notice the cheeriness, the freshness, the cleanliness, the up-to-date look of the bakery corner Dauphin and Hallett streets? Well, that shop is an incident which illustrates the principle of the Smith Bakery business. No mystery about the Smith methods. Ovens chosen to do their work thoroughly, mixers, kneaders, conveyors, all of the latest pattern; every process as modern as science can make it, clean and spotless. The white uniformed bakers are at home all the time, and pleased to see you. No wonder that Smith's bread has won its place by its goodness and cleanliness.—Hallett & Dauphin, Mobile, Ala.

Bread winners who eat that made by Frost, the Baker, are sure of a just and fair return for their labor. It is a great muscle builder, is wholesome and nutritious, and as the main article of food it insures perfect digestion.—Frost's, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Some people say they do not like bakers' bread. That's because they are familiar with the ordinary bakers' bread, and not with ours. Our buns and rolls are simply delicious.—Hall & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Made fresh every day—and there's art in the baking—which produces a light, flaky crust that melts deliciously in the mouth—then there is no soaking in of the filling—no sogginess, no indigestion—and the fruits used are fresh and luscious—peeled peaches, fresh cranberries, the best apples, and our own prepared mince meat. Every day Smith's bakery has a few special delicacies for the dessert table—fresh and appetizing—chocolate layer, jelly roll, supper rolls, Spanish buns, cocoanut gems, almond cake, lady fingers. Our varieties are all as carefully made as is Smith's bread. For goodness' sake try them.—Smith's Bakery, Mobile, Alabama.

Nice, fresh cakes made of the best materials. If you have not tried one of ours, you have missed a very toothsome article.—The Hodge Bakery, Binghamton, N. Y.

To-day we will sell five hundred of the best pies you ever ate, made in our own bakery out of the best material obtainable, largest size, well filled, crisp and tender; better than home-made. These are the 20c. kind, and will be sold to-day at 7 cents each. We shall have apple, mince and pumpkin. If you have never tried our pies, do so to-day. We have not as yet been able to make enough in one day to supply the demand.—R. H. Williams Grocery Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Will have only good tales to tell of what you put into it if its contents are bread, cakes and pies from the O. K. Bakery. The flour and other materials we use, the way we mix them and bake, all insure a high-class product. If you're not familiar with it, a small sample order will make you acquainted.—The O. K. Baking Co., Inc., Hartford, Conn.

Dark complected bread is much more nourishing than the whiter kind. Its unattractive appearance has kept it from free admittance to good society. But, once used, it is highly appreciated. We make a very handsome looking loaf of rye bread, and its rapid jump into popular favor is due to its excellent quality.

Use and note your muscular development.—Mrs. Dubois Freer, Highland.

We have no new and large bake ovens; We make no pretensions of turning out immense quantities of pastry at low prices. What we do profess is to make our food clean, wholesome and home-like in the "good old fashioned way."—Atwater Dining Rooms, Westfield, Mass.

Is without question the best flavored bread on the market. It has that goodness about it which is characteristic with bread made by our mother. It's as sweet as a nut and as pure as spring water. We know you will stop baking after trying a loaf.—Hill's, Trenton.

Ladies and Gentlemen:—There's no use to argue the matter, Hershey Brothers are the most practical bakers in our town. For fine flavored bread, cakes, pies, rolls, etc., try Hershey Brothers, York, Pa.

At all times we are prepared to supply the growing demand for our well liked rolls, bread buns, cakes and pastries of more kinds than one. Middleton's bread is a household word in Marion, and our general line of good things to eat which are baked holds high rank.—Middleton's, Marion, Ind.

Every day bargains at our bake counter. Only the best flour, only the best butter, only the best eggs, only pure Jersey milk. In fact, everything that enters into the make-up of our bake stuff is the best of its kind. Our every day prices might be called bargain prices at Hall & Co.'s Home Bakery, Binghamton, N. Y.

Delicious cakes are produced here. Our bakers have an expert knowledge and achieve results which the most successful cook would fall far short of. Don't try to get up something nice for company. Send an order to the Borden Bakery and you will save yourself and please your guests. Our pound cake and angel's cake are especially good.—Borden's Bakery, Fall River, Mass.

Eat brain bread.—It is superior in quality and taste to any other and contains all the elements of Gluterean Wheat, which insures proper nourishment for every part of your body. Try it. My home baked goods are unexcelled by any baker in the county.—John A. Nimpfer, Crafton, Pa.

The best food for this hot, broiling weather is good, wholesome bread. Sunrise Bread stands above all others—none excepted—in regard to purity and wholesomeness. Made by Sunrise Bakery, Tacoma, Wash.

Ma-Ma bread doesn't make the purse suffer. It is only 5c a loaf and every loaf is so good that you would pay more if you had to do so in order to get it. Ma-Ma bread is just like ma-ma makes.—Schust's Ma-Ma Bakery, Saginaw, Mich.

The bread eaten is worth more to the growing child than the meat—if it is good bread. And our Milk Bread is good bread. It supplies all the elements necessary to sustain life. Were it not that a change is desirable all other food might be dispensed with. Made from extra quality flour in modern ovens. Wholesome, palatable and nourishing.—Snow's Bakery, Fall River, Mass.

Bakestuffs—So Good.—Our bakery department is for the help of housekeepers—and it's a mighty big help. Think what a relief not to have to bake a single thing at home, and to know where you can get exactly what you want whenever you want it. You couldn't have fresher cakes or pies or cookies if you baked them in your own home. They couldn't be purer, because we use the purest and freshest of everything. Let us help you with your baking.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Such tempting pastry comes from our bakery. One of the things we pride ourselves on is the way our bread and pastry looks. It isn't enough for us that our products taste good; they must look so dainty that they will tempt the most languid appetite.—Geo. E. Hall & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

No reason why you should stand over a hot stove every day if you do not enjoy it. We have meats all roasted or boiled, salads all prepared; everything in cakes, pies and bread—so what's the use making yourself miserable in a hot kitchen when you might be out on the veranda enjoying the breeze?—Burns' Hill Market, Hartford, Conn.

We shoulder the responsibility of what we say. When we serve you with bread, rolls, cake, pies, etc., you're assured of getting the best bakery products obtainable. Our goods are made in the most cleanly surroundings and strictly pure. Fresh daily, and always toothsome and wholesome.—Schneider's, Kenton, Ohio.

For luncheon.—Sandwiches made with the German Bakery's bread are remarkably delicious. In fact, in every case where bread is a component it adds a delightful relish. This is because we started to make bread as good as it can be made. We set the highest standard of excellence, and we maintain it

Jevne's home-made bread.—Good, nourishing, palatable bread—the kind you want to eat—the kind you ought to eat. Do you know what good, genuine home-made bread is? Then you know how good Jevne's home-made bread is. Our baker knows how to make bread—that's evident from every loaf he turns out. Big, flaky, well-browned loaves. Just to look at them makes you want a slice.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Are you exclusive? Fruit graham is something no one else makes. It's wonderful how anxious people are to have something different. That is why everything we bake goes so fast. That is why everything we sell is strictly fresh.—Russell-Spaulling Co., Binghamton.

The vexed housewife's problem in warm weather easily solved at our stores any day, and more so late Wednesday and Saturday afternoons and evenings. Our counters are attractive hints of good things to eat. Try a dozen of fancy macaroons Wednesday. They are very nice for tea.—Trott Baking Co., Waterbury, Conn.

In it? Well, I guess! When it comes to baking good, wholesome bread we are in it every time. If you doubt this statement, try a loaf of mother's bread. It's the only proof you will need.—Schaeffer's Steam Bakery, Denison, Tex.

You'll like the way you can get our toothsome and wholesome bread, cakes, pies and pastry of all kinds fresh from the oven daily. We're more than particular as to the purity and quality of all ingredients entering into our products. Likewise scrupulous as to cleanliness of pans and appliances. Special cakes baked to order. Prompt service.—Home Steam Bakery, Denison, Texas.

We are baking for many; we'll bake for you. Doesn't it make you almost wilt to think of going into a hot kitchen? Don't do it! We'll provide your bread, rolls, cakes and pies—and they'll have all the "home-made" qualities. We use the materials that insure the best results; we use them unsparingly.—Elm City Bakery, New Haven, Conn.

Mother's Bread Appeals to the bread baker at home. They, of all others, know a good Bread when they see it. There isn't much home made since our Bread came to town. Our Bread has all the good points of home made, with a few which are distinctly its own. It's so much easier to say KOLB to the grocer than it is to stand over a hot stove.—Kolb's, Trenton, N. J.

Bread is the staff of life, therefore it is important that it should be pure bread, well made, properly baked. The bread that is made by this bakery is perfect bread, made of the best flour, seasoned just right, thoroughly kneaded and baked to perfection. Try it.—Home Steam Bakery, Denison, Texas.

Loeser cake. Special bakings here in warm weather time to supply the housekeepers who have given up winter coal ranges for summer gas stoves. No cake, housekeepers say, that takes the place of the home-baked sort like Loeser cake—made of best materials and mixed and baked in the genuine “home-made” way. It is better now, too, than it has ever been. Layer cakes, five flavors.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ice cream and cake. Strawberries and cake. Lemonade and cake. So much more enjoyable in warm weather than heavier refreshments, and fresh, tender, home-made will make the little bite seem a special treat. Loeser cake is the real “home-made” sort—mixed with best materials in generous proportion, according to old fashioned home recipes and baked in our Fourth Floor kitchen, where nothing is made but cake.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

June brides! Don't forget the caterer when planning for your wedding. All kinds of fruit and pound cakes made, baked and prepared, any style you wish. Also the wedding cake, decorated by an expert, for a reasonable price, made of the best materials, and we have the best line of ornaments in this city to select from, no one excepted. Remember we serve nothing but the best at reasonable prices at French's Bakery, Waterbury.

Old-fashioned molasses cake. Real old New England “gingerbread”—rich with butter, dark with spice, moist and sweet with molasses, and crisp and crusty at the edges. Most of us remember the occasions when we happened in at the kitchen door “molasses cake afternoon” and tried to coax from the cook a big slice while hot from the oven. The recipe came from an old-fashioned housewife. The mixing and baking are done in the Loeser kitchen by the home methods that have made Loeser cakes the dependence of housekeepers in Brooklyn. Try a Loeser molasses cake for luncheon to-morrow.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Beachnut bread. It's the snowiest, best baked and best tasting bread made in Fresno. It's made of the very best of materials, accurately measured by machinery, mixed and beaten by machinery, made in the cleanest and most sanitary shop in the State. It sells at 5c a loaf. Its quality is twice as fine as any other bread sold in Fresno, and every loaf is full weight. Telephone us, our wagons will call every day.—Redlick's, Fresno.

There is one thing we're here for. To make the kind of bread, rolls, pies, cakes, doughnuts and crullers that people want. We don't make them to keep or to look at; we make them to attract people who have nice taste. And the quality that we have ever maintained in our bakery goods has attracted them, and is attracting them in greater numbers than ever before. We haven't lost any customers. They stick to the store that gives them the quality. We raised the standard of quality when we began. We hold it high all the time. We are the standard bearers, and “Quality” is the word that is inscribed on our business banner. We lead because our goods are the best—and they always will be. We put the best materials and the skill into their production.—Elm City Bakery, New Haven, Conn.

Watson's Genoa Cake, mixed and baked in the most up-to-date progressive bakery in the West. The finest ingredients are used in its manufacture—new seeded sultana raisins, fresh currants, the best quality of pastry flour, strictly fresh eggs and fine cake spices. Decorated with Jordan almonds.—Watson's, Winnipeg, Can.

Royal bread. High quality. The best—not the lowest priced—bread is the cheapest. We could make our bread to sell a little cheaper at wholesale, but the customer would suffer and it's him we're after. Royal bread is made from the choicest Kansas flour, weighs a net pound; mixed by expert bakers, and baked by dry hickory fire, in a bread shop where cleanliness is supreme. We solicit mail business.—The Royal Bakery, Topeka, Kan.

Bakery department. Let it work for you. Our bakery department offers you the best of bread, cake and pastry. You cannot find such delightful quality in the city. It is a great specialty with our store. You need not heat up your home, unless you want to. It isn't necessary. You can buy a loaf of our bread—the best it is possible to make—for 8 cents. You can buy our celebrated crullers—fried in pure Leaf Lard—for 10 cents a dozen. There's everything you want, and it is cooked to perfection. We're co-operating with the housekeepers and the lighthousekeepers as we never have before in these matters.—W. Walker Co., Hartford, Conn.

Smith's Butternut bread is held up by its high quality, purity, wholesomeness, crispness and nourishing properties. Hard winter wheat flour, the best Bohemian hops yeast, the minimum handling, and absolute cleanliness everywhere. The great problem with Smith is supplying the increasing demand. Ever see a bakery absolutely free from flies and insects? Take a look through Smith's Bakery, Mobile, Ala.

Bread. We take no chances with our bread. Each day's flour is carefully inspected; the ovens, mixing machinery, rooms, etc., have to undergo a thorough examination. The results achieved clearly demonstrate these precautions.—Boyd's Winnipeg, Can.

Royal bread. See that the label is on every loaf. It's as sweet as a nut and as pure as spring water. It gives the very impression of being kneaded and baked under the most careful conditions, and that its bakers are masters at their art. It's worth more than any other bread, yet the price is no higher. All good grocers sell it.—Royal Bakery, Topeka, Kan.

Running the gauntlet. The woman who makes her own bread must run the gauntlet of a hot oven and a weary baking board before she obtains it. How much easier to put down five cents and say, Butternut bread, please, and go home with the daintiest, most delicious loaf ever made in Springfield.—Springfield Baking Co., Springfield, Ohio.

Like mother used to make. Light bread and rolls, light cake and pastry. Care in the selection of materials, skill in the mixing and kneading, art in the baking—cleanliness, healthfulness, purity the first requisite in every detail. These are the reasons for the popular regard for Smith's Bakery, Mobile, Ala.

Watson's pastry. Let us bake your cakes and pies during the warm weather. We can supply you with any kind of pastry you desire, and on the shortest notice. We use the purest materials and employ the most skilled experts. A lunch at one of our restaurants will assure you that our pastry is excellent.—Watson's, Winnipeg, Can.

Wholesome bread can be made only in a clean, sanitary shop. Ever stop and think of the danger in eating bread made under unsanitary conditions in a shop where cleanliness is a stranger? Safest plan is to buy only bread that you know to be made in a clean, sanitary bakery, under conditions that insure highest quality and perfect wholesomeness. Such is Uncle Sam bread—made in the cleanest, lightest, brightest, best-equipped bakery in the country—a bakery that is always open for your inspection. Ask your grocer for Uncle Sam bread and don't accept the questionable kind. You'll know the genuine by this label which is on every loaf.—Schlesinger-Meyer Baking Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Jevne's home-made bread. We say home-made because it is just like the good bread you would make in your own home. The same care you would use, we employ. Our shops are models of cleanliness and neatness, open for your inspection at any time. Using as we do only the best ingredients, made up by expert workmen and baked in perfect ovens, why should we not turn out an absolutely splendid loaf?—J. W. Robinson Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Fit for a king. Lawrence makes good bread. Are you using Lawrence's bread? If not, why don't you? It costs you no more than any other. When ordering, ask your grocer for Lawrence's bread and you are sure of getting a perfectly sanitary made loaf of bread. Lawrence goods for sale by all grocers.—Lawrence & Son, Lansing, Mich.

Wedding cakes, New Year cakes, birthday cakes and plum puddings. All our own make, and intended for people who must have the best. We spare nothing to attain perfection. Our chocolates and cream bon bons combine the greatest of purity and freshness, rarely equaled and never excelled. Handsome boxes and baskets filled with the daintiest and richest of confections.—James Crawford, Confectioner, Hamilton, Can.

Our Bread is made with the very best Flour, pure Lard and plenty of good Milk. The bakers are experts in their line and the bakery is light, well ventilated and scrupulously clean. Our Butter Rolls are the daintiest and nicest production in the bakery line. Fresh every afternoon at 3.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Our wedding cakes are delightfully good because we use the best obtainable ingredients. No lard or baking powder find their way into them; only the richest creamery butter and fresh eggs.—Thos. Martindale & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Dainty, feather-weight egg biscuit, in a new shape—oblong pieces, about an inch long. Their exquisite flavor, appetizing appearance and supreme daintiness have already made them "blue-ribbon" favorites. As a delicious, wholesome and nutritious food for the boss of the house—the baby—they are A No. 1.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia, Pa.

One of the things we pride ourselves on is the way our BREAD and PASTRY looks. It isn't enough for us that our products taste good, they must look so dainty that they will tempt the most languid appetite.—Geo. E. Hall & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Wolfarth's home-made bread.—Made alike, always good—just like mother used to make. Don't be guilty of the folly of baking bread in summer. You can buy easier than you can bake. Get Wolfarth's Home-Made and save time and temper.—Wolfarth's, Saginaw, Mich.

The best bread is Jevne's. That's because Jevne's bread is home-made. Nobody else bakes such good bread. Great, big, tempting loaves, well browned, light, palatable. If you know what the very best home-made bread is, then you know how good Jevne's bread is. Housekeepers don't want to put up with baker's bread a minute longer than they have to. No necessity for it now. You can buy all the home-made bread you want at Jevne's.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

As a rule you can rely on children's taste in bread—the form of food with which they are most familiar. Their judgment is intuitive—a question of taste altogether—not warped with theories, not influenced by advertising, not hampered by reasons. They like it. Or they don't like it. That settles it. And, if they like it, depend on it that that bread is good bread. Kolb's family bread is liked better by children—is eaten every day by more children—than any other bread ever baked. The loaf is unusually attractive to the eye. Hearth-baked, it has a delightful crust, the richness of which is enhanced by a sprinkle of corn flour. But it is the taste-quality that attracts children—the superior sweetness that is peculiar to our bread.—Kolb's, Philadelphia, Pa.

What is pulled bread? Here's the story of its making: A delicious cream loaf is baked, then the crust is cut away. The spongy interior is drawn into strips and pulled, then toasted to a most appetizing crispness. It is toasted to a thoroughness that makes it acceptable to the weakest stomach. Since doctors now generally agree that machine-made crackers are too starchy, and constipating, pulled bread meets with their approval on account of its digestibility. It is of feathery lightness and has no soggy interior like toast. It is not essentially a bread for the sick room, though there's no more nourishing combination than pulled bread and royal claret. It is not a fad, but a sensible nutrient to accompany cool or hot beverages this time of year when overmuch ordinary bread is too heating. Since it weighs so light there's quite a lot to a pound.—Thos. Martindale & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Some people lose their money by not investing it judiciously. Others by carelessness—but those who buy Mikado Bread never lose and always get value received—that's the reason they are so happy and contented.—Joseph Saiter & Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Good bread for breakfast is the best possible preparation for the day's labors. No article of food supplies so many elements of nutrition. The staff of life reaches perfection in our loaves, which, from day to day, run as even in their quality as the earth in its orbit.—Sullivan Bros., York, Pa.

Our Fancy Crackers are never here long enough to grow stale. And there are always many nice things in our display. You know we have them fresh every week. Everything a week old goes back. This fact should be remembered, for we don't know of a concern that has this invariable rule. When you want something dainty for Tea, Whist or Luncheon, and do not wish to run the risk of buying something stale, come to us for Fancy Crackers. We always have the largest variety in Hartford.—The W. W. Walker Co., Hartford, Conn.

Now that you are coming back from seashore and mountains to your city homes—and comfort—we want to feed you, we want to furnish you Bakery goods direct from our ovens to you. No middlemen's profits, no carting round the city from store to store, no stale goods. Our bakers use the very best material and make the goods right here in the building.—S. S. Adams, New Haven, Conn.

BRIC-A-BRAC

Hop, skip, jump! It is only a few days since a quantity of decorative pottery from Belgium marched into our art room. One-half the collection has been sold already. The quick movement is due to the fitness of the goods for country home decoration. The material is common clay, the designs are formed by hand, and the strong colors are created by the flowing glaze. Rugged in effect, graceful in form, effective in color—each piece is unique.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Bric-a-brac and tablewares at prices as low as the wares are pretty.—If such offerings as these were made in April or October the counters would be stripped as fast as the wares were shown. It is only because so many thousands of the housekeepers who love these beauty things are away from the city.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Refined, cultivated feminine taste requires dainty bric-a-brac and tableware to give an air of elegance to home furnishings—and but few wares are so generally admired as Wedgwood. One-third to one-half off regular prices means quite a saving on such artistic ware and this sale affords a matchless opportunity for you to gratify your tastes at prices usually paid for inferior wares both in quality and artistic effect.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

The scope and usefulness of our china, glassware and bric-a-brac store could at no time be better demonstrated than now. A thousand and one suggestions greet you here at every turn. So if you are in a quandary as to what to give, a definite conclusion can be reached in short order. Ours is a stock that the tasteful housekeeper and the art connoisseur loves to roam through and the economical minded, too, will find it a source of pleasure to come here, as pricings are on a most conservative basis; in fact, they are not to be matched.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

From our notable collection, including many of the master productions of the modern school of art, we have selected a superb array for this unusual value-giving event. The wide variety of subjects of artistic merit should attract every lover of the beautiful, while the extraordinary low price range makes possible an elegant and most acceptable wedding gift at a great saving to the purchaser.—Jordan-Marsh Co., Boston.

Fine china, cut glass and bric-a-brac. No fall sale was ever so important. Never before has such an extensive display of superior quality wares been assembled under one roof.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

Here are pedestals, French and Viennese bronzes, superb wares from Vienna, Sevres and Dresden; quaintly artistic specimens of Louwelsa and Patina ware, and so on—a gathering that is artistic and out of the ordinary. And not the least important consideration is, that in most cases these art wares come to us direct from the makers, thereby saving intermediate profits and largely reducing the final price.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

$75,000 vase covered with rare old coins; fresh from the World's Fair at St. Louis; a huge copper vase, or urn, nearly four feet high. Paved with over 4,000 old and rare coins, some of which date back as far as 3000 B. C. The work is that of Mr. Edward Rausch, the noted coin collector of Philadelphia, who has spent the better part of a lifetime in gathering the collection. This vase is really one of the modern wonders of the world.—Ehrich Bros, New York.

In the Japanese Room there are many pretty and odd little things waiting for you to see them these days—hanging baskets of quaint design, bold warriors' swords, grotesque men and monkeys that hang from handsome lamps, fierce masks that seem to frown at the light and airy prettiness of all about them—chinaware as fragile as a soap bubble apparently, and just as full of color—jars, bowls, wicker covered ware—parasols, tables chairs, etc., etc.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Where's the woman that isn't interested in dainty bric-a-brac, vases, ornaments, etc.? The leading European art centers have contributed many of their choicest products to our stock. Here you'll find marble statuary from Florence and Milan; bronzes from Paris and rare ornamental pottery, bric-a-brac, etc., from Vienna, as well as no end of decorated china and other wares for beautifying the home or adding to the collection for curio cabinet or china closet.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Glass, bric-a-brac, china.—All these things that you'll find displayed have a distinct bearing on making the country house pleasant and comfortable for summer occupancy, at small expense. There are fine groups of domestic glassware, pretty pieces of bric-a-brac, steins, mugs, fancy china plates and other dishes of decorative, as well as useful virtue, an array of cut glass, and so on. Each of the offerings is peculiarly important, by virtue of the utility, prettiness and extreme low-pricedness of the articles involved.—Wanamaker's, New York.

This invitation to inspect our enlarged china and bric-a-brac department is extended to all. The collection is worth a visit—the many rare and beautiful pieces—all imported direct by us—will appeal to your taste. For weddings, prizes, or any occasion where the expression of your kind feelings is to be manifested—you will find this exhibition particularly helpful—especially when you learn that the prices are very often less than your expected expenditure. If goods are not wanted for immediate use, we will cheerfully lay them aside on part payment of the price. Our china store is conveniently located in our light and airy basement.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg.

It makes no difference whether you are decorating your own dining-table, side-board or mantel-piece or somebody else's—the sharp economies noted here remain the same. They embrace the most artistic pieces of bric-a-brac and marble busts, sparkling cut glass, and handsome dinner sets and chamber toilet sets and fancy china of desirable sorts.—Wanamaker, New York.

Bric-a-brac. Superb show, many bargains. Vases of pottery, bronzes, marble, art wares of various kinds—the basement showing is so broad and so fine that it is as well worth a visit as would be a museum collection. Choosing a wedding gift is a simple matter from this stock—and one may be as economical or extravagant as one chooses to be. Today's special word is of bargains—artistic wares that we can sell much under even our own low prices. A chance worth sharing.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Wonderful Rookwood.—Many rare and beautiful effects in blended colors, and flower painting, among the one hundred and one pieces of Rookwood just received and arranged in our east show window. It's worth looking at, and you'll be tempted to buy, if you haven't a specimen of this art pottery of the 19th century.—Rankin's, Ithaca, N. Y.

A careful maker's expert set aside a lot of jardinieres and pedestals as not quite up to the perfect finish required, perhaps none but an expert could tell why. These, with some other odd pieces from our regular stock, go on sale this morning at prices that folks with flowers will be glad to read about.—John Wanamaker, Philadelphia.

More than a thousand artistic Jardinieres. The ones with and without pedestals at prices that will induce prudent housekeepers to buy an Eastertide supply should you not have immediate use for them. But who couldn't use one or more Jardinieres at these prices?—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Flowers seem still growing in a clear glass vase where the stems show through. We have a line of plain, blown vases, bulb-shape base, that are the best all-around flower holders that we ever saw.—P. H. Vose & Co., Bangor, Me.

Austrian china novelties. Bright, artistic, effective articles that closely resemble the finer productions of the French. You'll find it hard to detect the difference—in appearance. In price there's a marked difference.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Teplitz ware vases seven inches high. Made to look like Royal Worcester, with vellum finish and gold illuminated flower paintings. Vase and ewer shapes, 25c.—P. H. Vose & Co., Bangor, Me.

Useful china, cut glass, beautiful lamps offer easy solutions of the gift problem. Whether the price you wish to pay is little or big, you'll find it in some good-taste article at Vose's China Store, Bangor, Me.

Reproductions in pottery seem to be in favor now, and it is certainly true that many of the pottery productions of the early part of the century well deserve it. A case in point—these new stone pitchers. They are exactly similar to the quaint old ones with raised figures you'll see that have been handed down several generations in our old New England families.—P. H. Vose & Co., Bangor, Me.

Pottery excellence proven.—One hundred years of continuous popularity with connoisseurs of ceramics proves the artistic excellence of Wedgwood Jasper Ware. It is always superior to the ups and downs of fashion's fancy—always a bright feature of dining room or drawing room adornment.—P. H. Vose & Co., Bangor, Me.

BUILDING MATERIALS

Depends on the lumber. When you build you aim to make a structure that will be substantial and permanent. Much depends on the quality of the material used. Plan carefully and construct wisely.—Smith & Rogers Lumber Co., Morris, Minn.

The use of our lumber will increase the strength, stability and value of any building. It is the best lumber we can secure—it's the best lumber that you can buy. It has all the good points that recommend it to the architect, the builder, the carpenter and the every-day man. It is sold at a fair price because we are satisfied with reasonable profits. Dressed or undressed, you'll find our lumber best.—Merrick Lumber Co., Holyoke.

Every man to his trade. Our trade is selling lumber. We don't know all about other people's business, but we have this business down so fine that no one can ship us poor stock, so we shall have no poor stuff to sell you.—J. & W. C. Shull, Sac City, Ia.

Between inferior lumber and the kind we keep the difference in quality is vastly greater than the difference in price. We select our lumber from the choicest trees cut in the forest, and it is well seasoned and will not crack or shrink after using. Let us supply you for that new house you are going to build.—Vester, Stewart & Rossell Company, Washington, Pa.

A house worth talking about has its mouldings, mill work and trimmings in keeping with its whole architectural plan. Ours it is to supply lumber, kiln dried and worked to match the rest of the materials called for by the designer. That our materials, prices and delivery are entirely satisfactory is shown by our long held and now growing trade. We estimate promptly and freely.—Vester, Stewart & Rossell Co., Washington, Pa.

Lumber for all needful purposes can always be obtained from us, for we carry a stock that can be depended upon—one that is always kept up to the mark. Now that the season has come, there should be no further delay in building operations. So place your lumber contracts with us and you will be served faithfully and well.—Vester, Stewart & Rossell Co., Washington, Pa.

Goes ahead of anything on the market—does our lumber—for these extremely simple reasons: It's made from the finest timber growing only a short time ago; it has been sawed and milled to perfection and seasoned to a finish. Then it has been properly stacked and stored. Now it's offered for sale at prices to interest any well posted buyer.—Vester, Stewart & Rossell Company, Washington, Pa.

Did you hear about Mr. Jones? Well, Mr. Jones has been talking for a year or more about building a new house, but he never really got started until he saw Smith's new house. As soon as he saw it he said he would build a finer house than that and went straight to the Robinson-Gage Lumber Co. to get their low prices on lumber and building material.—Robinson-Gage Lumber Co., Kenton, O.

When building a house it is well to remember that the hardware and fixtures you buy will last as long as the house itself—it is not a question of wear between the best and the low priced goods—it is whether or not the increased pleasure you will have in seeing the best and most artistic designs in your own house and the satisfaction of knowing that it is the best will not more than make up for the difference in cost. * * * We carry a large variety of stock designs and in addition 25 lines of special designs. These designs are the very latest, most up-to-date pattern designs. The samples are mounted on boards and show the complete line in all the different finishes. There are little things in hardware that make a great difference in cost. It's hard to tell where the difference lies, but is easily shown when the samples are before you.—The Stambaugh Thompson Co., Youngstown, O.

Political parties differ as to what material a dollar should be made of. One party wants to make money out of gold. Another party wants to make money out of silver. We've got an idea that lumber is a pretty good thing to make money out of—at least that's what we're making money out of ourselves. Some folks say we can't do it and sell lumber and building material at such unusually low prices—but they don't know.—Robinson-Gage Lumber Co., Kenton, O.

CANDY

"What kind of candy shall I buy?"

"Well, if you get lots of it, I want the kind that goes fast; but if you only get a little, I want something that'll last."—New York Journal.

Candy that has been kept for a time becomes stale and soggy, and loses its flavor. The growing demand for Nunnally's candy does not permit of its becoming stale; and almost every day the dealers in this candy are supplied by express with a complete assortment.—Nunnally, Atlanta, Ga.

The purity and perfection of our candies are known all over the country. Ask the lovers of pure candy what they think of Everhart's and they will say that it cannot be surpassed by any, and besides it ranks high with the pure food law, which is worrying the life out of the manufacturer who misrepresents his goods.—Everhart's, Fargo, N. D.

The candy and cake departments have developed into great proportions under the careful management of Miss Moore, whose judgment on cake and candy merit cannot be excelled. The assortment is large in both lines and the goods are always fresh. Probably in no other department in our store does the great difference between our prices and those of other stores stand out so plainly as here.—Lehman, Trenton, N. J.

At Gordon-Mitchell's you can get Lowney's and McConkey's candies—all choice goods—deliciously fresh. If you are particular, we can suit your taste. We keep the kind to satisfy those who know what good candies are—the tempting chocolates and bonbons in our confectionery cases are even more delicious than they look. You will find our stores convenient places to drop in on your way home and buy a box of candy. Price per package from 10c to $5.00.—Gordon-Mitchell Drug Co., Winnipeg, Can.

As a delicious confection that is absolutely pure and clean, Nunnally's candy stands pre-eminent. No injurious adulterations cheapen its excellent quality, but every ingredient is of the highest grade, and selected with the greatest care. Rich in the nutritive qualities of pure sugar, rich cream and fresh fruit flavors, it is a wholesome food as well as a pure, high-grade candy.—Nunnally, Columbia, S. C.

Apollo Chocolates are the choicest confections to be found in town. For the person who appreciates the best they afford great satisfaction. For gifts to wife, sister or sweetheart they are the most delicious "sweets for the sweets" to be found. They come in artistic boxes, in pounds and half pounds, and are kept fresh at The Modern Pharmacy, Binghamton, N. Y.

Wherever enjoyment is at its height; wherever there is refinement and good taste, time and occasion call for Nunnally's candy. Unmatched in purity and incomparable in flavor, it is a most tempting and delectable confection that is equally appropriate for feast and fireside. Delicious is a strong word, but it is poor praise when applied to so toothsome a delicacy.—Nunnally's, Mobile.

Our candy appeals to all who desire the best at reasonable prices. Our large sales insure the stock being kept fresh and the variety will be found always equal to the quality. Shrafft's and Quality Chocolates. Ice cream always on hand to fill large or small orders.—W. F. Currier, Plymouth, Mass.

Butter Scotch Wafers, our special this week. Our Butter Scotch Wafers are made from the purest of sugar and fresh sweet butter. This delicious and nutritious confection combines all the best features of taffy. Fresh and tempting. Take a look at our windows and you will want some. Regular price 40c. Special 30c.—Watson's, Winnipeg, Can.

Pineapple Glace—extra special. This is a very delightful bit of candy that we are making—Pineapple Fingers Glace. The pineapple is cut from the finest examples of the fruit, and when it goes into the candy there is no fiber—just flavor—and the most delicate, lovely flavor of the fruit. It is the bit of candy that gives the feast its finishing touch—the gushdanal, as the Armenians say, and for which we have no word. These goods sell regularly for 40c or 50c a pound. We quote 27c, 4 pounds for $1.—W. W. Walker Co., Hartford, Conn.

Pure, delicious, fresh-made candy. Made from the best sugar and other best materials, in our own manufacturing plant. To-day we are offering as a special, horehound drops of our own make, 19c pound. They are not a medicine, and yet they are beneficial for irritated throats, colds, etc. We use the genuine horehound and boneset herb and cane sugar in making them. For to-day only 19c pound.—W. W. Walker Co., Hartford, Conn.

The most delicious, the purest and best chocolates, creams, sugared fruits, etc., specially prepared for the festive season, are here. If you desire to give them as gifts, we've some handsome boxes, baskets and novelties to put them in. And we'll deliver promptly to all parts of the city. If you're going to entertain, let us supply the dainty cakes, pastry, ice cream, etc. They will be of the very best.—Milton's, Winnipeg.

A nice fresh lot of Saturday candy arrives every week and we have to increase our orders, too, because increasing sales are always the vogue with this popular confectionery.—C. H. & H. A. Lawton Co., New Bedford, Mass.

Rubidoux chocolates. When you're tired of ordinary chocolates and confections try a box of Bishop's delicious Rubidoux chocolates—they're pure, delightfully flavored with fruit juices and perfectly wholesome.—Off & Vaughn Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Huyler's candy always finds a welcome reception wherever presented. It is the acme of the candymaker's art, where only the purest and most delicious ingredients are used. Quality beyond comparison. All the popular and well known varieties, as well as many special ones, done up in dainty and handsome packages, especially for gift giving.—Britton Drug Store, Trenton, N. J.

The candy factory is booming with advance orders. We shall have as complete a line of beautiful candies for Christmas as can be found in New England. We shall be pleased to make estimates on the candy supply for any entertainments given by Sunday schools or other organizations. We guarantee splendid candies and perfect satisfaction. Our candy counters at both stores are loaded with specimens of the goods we make, and we aim to have every variety as nearly perfect as possible.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Nicest way in the world to buy English walnut meats. New whole meats, 35c lb., 3 lbs. for $1.00. We have just received the nicest lot of English walnut meats we ever saw. We looked a long time to see if we couldn't find a broken half, and we gave it up. If you like perfection in the things you buy, get some of these meats while they are fresh cracked. They will go like fun. They always do. For there are a lot of ladies who tell us, just what we said at the top of this ad, that "it's the nicest way in the world to buy walnut meats." We think so, too.—W. W. Walker Co., Hartford, Conn.

Christmas candies in every conceivable form for presents and general use. Get Putnam's and you will get those of the most delightful flavor. For decorating the Christmas tree we have the largest assortment of most beautiful designs, colors, etc. Our confections are all absolutely pure and healthful, and can be eaten by children with impunity.—Putnam & Company, Lexington, Ky.

Xmas presents of Huyler's candy. We will receive our holiday shipment of this delicious candy about Dec. 20th. It will consist of all the well known varieties and all the latest holiday assortments and novelties, done up in handsome packages for gift giving. We would suggest that intending purchasers of this well-known candy place their orders with us as early as possible—we will promptly deliver orders whenever desired. Orders, to receive the most careful execution, should be placed as far in advance as possible.—Britton Drug Store, Trenton.

Your Xmas candy should, above all, be pure. We spare no labor or expense to make our goods perfect in this respect. Delicious dainties made from the choicest of creams, nuts, fruits, etc. Beautiful baskets and boxes of perfect chocolates and a large line of holiday novelties. The candy shop for those who know.—Sandall's, Newark, N. J.

Delicious candy in fancy Xmas boxes. This big candy store will be Santa Claus' headquarters again this year. We have made special preparations to serve the finest candies made—put up in beautiful boxes especially for gifts, at our regular low prices. You buy the best for less here.—Winthrop Candy Kitchen, New Haven, Conn.

Acker new "dollar" box. This is an ideal gift package. It contains one and a half pounds of the choicest selections of exquisite chocolates and bon bons, and is most tastefully packed and embellished. You can select this gift for your most fastidious friend with the absolute assurance that the receiver of it will be delighted.—Finley Acker Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Christmas candy favors. The candy store favors are direct from the work-rooms of Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus. They're just the cutest things that those two good souls ever turned out. They range all the way from a snowball that looks for all the world like a real one to a basket that bears the stamp of a Parisian artist who goes in for dainty touches and daring conceits that none but the French would risk, and that have appealed to Santa Claus as the very thing for an Xmas gift. As for prices, they are lower than can be found in any other of Santa's agencies in Brooklyn, ranging as they do from 5 cents a dozen for cornucopias—the sweetest little things—to $11.49 for the fluffy, flower-trimmed lingerie and silk basket from gay Paris, that is fitted with a place for the choicest bonbons made in our laboratories. For the Christmas dinner or the holiday party; for the Sunday school gift night or the children's tree party; for the sweetheart of to-day or the one who has become the dearer wife; for the formal remembrance to the one who is little more than an acquaintance, or for the token of love to the friend, tried and true, there are endless suggestions and dainty gifts in the candy store, ranging in price, as has been said, from a few cents to $12.00, each individual in style and in exquisite taste.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Christmas candies. The purest in the city and received fresh every day. Peanut brittle, fine mixtures, clear toys, 10c. lb. Thirty-nine cent chocolates 20c. Over 20 different kinds. As fine as any 39c. chocolates you ever tasted. Forty-nine cent chocolates 29c. Delightful confections that cannot be surpassed. Christmas boxes of fine chocolates holding from one to five pounds, special prices.—The Bonton, Lebanon, Pa.

Huyler's candy Christmas presents. Huyler's creations this season are all that the most expensive taste or fancy could desire, and yet there are scores of the most unique, artistic and attractive designs, at every reasonable price. They range from one dollar and less, up to boxes that are bargains at $10. We are showing a display of boxes in wonderful variety, also packages in the shape of giant fire-crackers, mammoth pencils, packs of fire-crackers, English walnuts, jars, and many other original creations. They are such as will please everyone from the tots to "my lady."—Elkin-Watson Drug Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Jevne's handmade chocolates. Do you know how supremely good Jevne's handmade chocolates are? If not, then order a generously large package to-day for to-morrow's enjoyment. Every pound of our candy is made in our own scrupulously clean kitchen, by expert candy makers. And only the purest, finest materials go into them. So purity and wholesomeness are guaranteed—our long list of candy patrons vouch for their deliciousness. Combination chocolates. We want to call particular attention to these surpassingly tempting chocolates, a cream fruit filler with a heavy coating of delicious chocolate. They're generously proportioned—ask for them. Why not try the bitter sweet chocolates?—H. Jevne Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

The thought of the good things that are to come is almost equal to realization. It is not so with Nunnally's candy. Anticipate what you will as to sweetness, flavor, purity and daintiness, and you will not be disappointed. A first taste will convince you that it is a delicious confection of exceptional excellence; while the variety is greater, and of a quality superior to any other high-grade candy.—Nunnally, Montgomery, Ala.

You will now find on sale at the candy department fresh stocks of these delicious confections. These are the original Swiss milk-chocolates and will be found superior in every way. They are most nutritious and are recommended for children's and invalids' use.—The M. W. Tanner Co., Saginaw, Mich.

By the strictest attention to the wants of our patrons we have established a reputation for fine confections. We are daily producing new candies and our customers have learned that there is no store in the city where they can really find the dainties that we have. The coming week has many novelties in store for you and we hardly need to urge anyone to come to our candy department.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford.

California crystalized fruits. Now is the time to pick out the box of crystalized fruit you send to your friends in the East. We have an unusually fine assortment this year—just the thing if you wish to send a California souvenir. Put up in beautiful boxes and baskets artistically packed. We will attend to wrapping and mailing. You just leave us the address.—Wells Candy Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Saturday special, London brand chocolates. This is the finest quality 40c candy. Assorted kinds and flavors—smooth, rich and delicious. Every pound neatly packed in a handsome embossed box. Just try a pound to-day and be convinced.—Clarke Bros., Scranton, Pa.

Chocolates. Those of soft, sweet, pure, creamy interior and of the black, bitter rich coating exterior. Just to think of them—any time—makes your mouth water.—Everhart's, Fargo, N. D.

Guth chocolates and bon bons, 40c, 60c and $1.00 pound. Better sweets could not be made. Saturday night's express brought us our first of Guth's dollar chocolates and bon bons. The 40c and 60c chocolates have won a host of friends in Saginaw during the past year, and we believe the $1.00 grade will be cordially welcomed, for we are certain that no such candies have ever been sold in Saginaw before. The Guth chocolates and bon bons have a reputation for unexcelled flavor, purity and deliciousness in six cities where Guth branches are established and in hundreds of other cities and towns where agencies are situated. In their manufacture every question of expense is disregarded in adhering to the high ideals which have been maintained in the development of the richest, most healthful and choicest sweets made in America. The result is that Guth chocolates, bon bons and fancy candies have a deliciousness that tempts even the jaded and gives to the word "sweet" a new meaning.—M. W. Tanner Co., Saginaw, Mich.

Give me Everhart's. Somehow it seems natural to ask for Everhart's delicious candy. It is made right here in Fargo every day and is always fresh. Everhart's will stand government inspection—or any other kind—it's pure. Eat all you want.—Everhart Candy Co., Fargo.

Delightful deliciousness. These two words exactly describe the confectionery at our stores. We have a large assortment of McConkey's, Huyler's and Lowney's confectionery, than which there are no more delicious confections made. They are always fresh, firm and luscious—so temptingly delightful that it is easy to understand why so many people come to our stores regularly for candy.—The Gordon-Mitchell Drug Co., Winnipeg.

Seiter's chocolates have a flavor and richness which make them distinctive from all the others. Candy bought at Seiter's is a guarantee against everything adulterant or injurious. If you have never eaten any of our chocolates and bonbons, you have missed one of the good things in life.—Seiter's, Pueblo.

Careful packing preserves candy. On opening a box of Nunnally's candy one will realize immediately that it was packed with unusual care. The top layer is found in a tray with every piece in a separate paper case. Beneath the tray the box is packed in layers. Each piece of candy has a definite position and is separated from every other piece by wax paper, partitions or paper cases. The result of the above care in packing enables Nunnally's candy to reach the consumer without a scratched or broken piece in the box, and in perfect condition.—Nunnally, Atlanta, Ga.

Candies. "Einstein's Golden Pheasant Chocolate Creams, the freshest, purest, most delicious, most moderately priced that you'll find anywhere. If you have never eaten our candies, there is a pleasant surprise ahead of you. All the old flavors from which to choose, together with these new ones: Pistachio, pineapple, queenie, fruit, spice, chocolate and Chartreuse.—Louis Einstein & Co., Fresno, Cal.

Lyon's candies. Candies, like books, should be chosen with discretion. Both are capable of infinite harm. The selection of Lyon's candies is a perfect choice and a safeguard against candy evils.—Lucas Bros., Mansfield, Ohio.

Candy by the yard. We are selling a fine chewing candy at 5c a yard. It is an interesting sight, even if you do not buy, to see the man as he cuts off yard by yard of the richly-made sweet. A demonstration of Milk Rice is being held at our store this week.—Woodruff Grocery Co., Waterbury, Conn.

Pure candy. The sweetest girls are usually fond of sweet things themselves. The surest passport to their good opinion is a present of delicious candy. We have all kinds made almost daily, consequently ever fresh and pure and toothsome. You can ever rely upon its high quality, and perfect purity. Once get the habit of buying our candies and chocolates and you will never be satisfied with any other kind.—John Svolos & Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Marechal Neil chocolates and bonbons, the daintiest, most delicious, sweetest and purest, most appetizing and satisfying and healthful candies you ever tasted in your life—fresh from the spot cash model candy kitchen. The spot cash label on candy signifies the best in candy. Candy made of the purest material—candy made in a candy kitchen spotlessly clean, where daintiness and cleanliness are continually practiced.—The Spot Cash, Joliet, Ill.

Fudge and caramels make a delicious combination for the sweet tooth. These are fresh to-day and just as pure as they are fresh.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

CANDY

Delicious confectionery. Our confections are the acme of the candy-maker's art. Pure and delicious, they are always fresh, for so popular a candy never remains long in the show-case. Rich and creamy, in all flavors. Carefully packed in dainty boxes, it is always a welcome gift.—The W. J. Boyd Candy Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Sweet things that make life seem like "one grand, sweet song" are love's vows, babies' kisses and plenty of our choice delicious confections to help the good work along. A little sweetener like our Long Branch chocolates or Jersey creams lubricates the wheels of love and life considerably, at a trifling expense. Try some.—Walter T. Hall & Co., Ottumwa, Ia.

Our candy department is as much a part of our business as any other department in our store. It isn't looked after in a slipshod, haphazard fashion. It's done well, skillfully—a little better than anyone else does it. Everything used is the very freshest, the very finest, and the candies are concocted by a confectioner who knows his business thoroughly. Freshness—that's strong point about our candies. It's fresh, every piece of it you buy.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles.

In humid weather glass jars filled with stick candy are hard to beat, 15c.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

39c. Chocolate chips 24c, and nobody sells this favorite candy for as little as 39c, even except this famous candy store. It is a thin and crisp molasses chip, finely flavored with lemon and covered with a smooth and pure chocolate—one of the candies that you never tire of.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Walnut fudge, 20c pound. Fudge—somehow it suggests girls' boarding-schools, and delicious sweetmeats constructed "on the quiet." These walnut fudges are as good as any you ever made on a chafing dish in a closet—delicious sugar candy with carefully picked walnuts scattered through.—Wanamaker's, New York.

When you present a box of candy to a lady friend there is great satisfaction in knowing it is the best—and you couldn't please a lady more than to offer her a box of bonbons with Wiley's name on it, for she knows it is a guarantee of purity and excellence and a gift she will thoroughly appreciate.—Wiley's, Atlanta.

Fine fresh candy.—You can't help liking every kind of candy we make—it is all so fresh and so pure and so good. From the plain sugar candy to the fine French kinds, every piece is just as good as we know how to make it. We are in the candy business to do it so well that everybody will want to eat Jevne's candies. Take a box home for the children—we'll pack a box with whatever you wish.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles.

The candy we sell is particularly clean, made by clean people, in clean sunny places; particularly well cooked; we have old, well-taught skilled work-people; particularly fresh—a number of kinds are made fresh three times each day—a steady stream being delivered all hours of the day; particularly pure—no adulterations; particularly moderate in price—owing to large quantities made at one time and our extremely large sales, quality considered, it costs one-fifth less than elsewhere.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

W.J.B. chocolates. The purest and freshest chocolate is none too good to use in making Boyd's chocolates. And we use it—that's why they are so good.—The W. J. Boyd Candy Co., Winnipeg.

"Perfect condition" candy grows in appreciation. As the weather gets hotter "perfect condition" candy is more and more appreciated. By "perfect condition" we mean candy that is neither softened nor hardened by the heat, candy that is fresh and firm and just right in every way for full eating enjoyment. You can get just such candy at our stores, made by such well-known makers as Huyler, Lowney, McConkey.—The Gordon-Mitchell Drug Co., Winnipeg.

Candy, and nothing but candy. You take no chances. You never get disappointed—there is no better candy made in the whole world than is made right here in Tacoma by Tacoma boys and girls.—Pop Smith Candy Co., Tacoma.

Reeves' famous bon bons and chocolates have long since established their right to be called the finest. These delicious confections are made fresh every day of the very choicest materials. They are general favorites throughout Washington. Seventy varieties—all at the popular price, 47 cents per pound.—Reeves', Washington, D. C.

Coveted sweets to-day. We wish to call your attention to two popular makes of candies received by us, by express daily. Repetti's (the famous "Royal" Italian candy) and Wiley's. Receiving these goods fresh every day warrants your approval and purchase when a box of sweets for her is wanted. Assorted chocolates and chocolates and bon bons; also many specialty boxes and packages of each make. Phone or call—a trial convinces.—Luhn's Pharmacy, Houston.

Made fresh every day. Pure, delicious chocolates and bon bons. Everything considered, it's but natural that Reeves' chocolates and bon bons have attained the reputation of being best among confections. Pure and delicious at all times. Seventy varieties made fresh every day of the finest materials.—Reeves', Washington, D. C.

Baby creams. For to-day (Saturday) we have a supply of our celebrated baby creams. You'll be surprised at the value you can get at 25 cents a pound. Assorted taffies and water ice for to-morrow (Sunday) in early. We deliver promptly.—Trust's, Sacramento, Cal.

There's a cherry in it like some other cocktails, but Fenway cocktails, the most delicious confection known, intoxicates only with delight. And why should they? They combine the choicest Maraschino cherries, purest, most delicious cream, richest, finest chocolate obtainable and the most expert workmanship. Exquisite is the word. Take home a box, 25 cents.—Mitchell's Drug Store, Springfield, Ill.

For a long time we refused to sell candy, on the ground that it was bad for people to eat so many sweets. Then we thought better—decided that if people must have candy they should have the purest that could be made.

Candy made in clean, well-lighted places.

Candy made of the best materials.

Candy sold for only a reasonable profit over the cost of making.

To have candies that ought to be rich, pure; and the plainer candies pure and good is the most important part of the candyman's work. But he has succeeded so well that our 30c candy looks like average 38c and 39c candy, and our 40c is as good as any you ever saw for 60c. This is the unbiased opinion of everybody who has seen them together and compared them.—Partridge & Richardson, Philadelphia, Pa.

The bottom layer of a box of Huyler's candies brings forth as many delicious morsels and surprises as the top layer. The goodness, freshness, and purity is the same all through.—Huyler's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you live within trading distance of Hartford you can have pure candies fresh from our Model Candy Kitchen. We say model candy kitchen because the materials, the work, and the place where the work is done are ideal in every respect. We produce only the choicest goods in every line, and when you get such goods fresh from the factory you have a genuine treat.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

A brand-new combination of delights that we're sure you'll like. Selected Pecan nuts, candied cherries—a layer of each hidden away in cubes of fresh cream candy that melts in your mouth.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Pure candy is good for the children and good for you. We want you to come in to-day and get acquainted with our "Sensation Licks." It is the name we have chosen for the popular kind of candy that is sold on a stick. Repeated demands for this piece from people who wanted to be sure of its purity has led us to put "Sensation Licks" on the market. True to our motto, "Not how cheap, but how good."—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

A summer candy. Because they are light and delicious, without being too rich, the Newport creams are favorite confections in the warm days. They are a dry, flaky cream that melts away in your mouth, flavored with orange, lemon, cinnamon, strawberry, pistachio, vanilla and chocolate; remains fresh for an indefinite time.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Try these candies. Fresh to-day and as tempting to the pocket as they are to the palate.—Wanamaker, New York.

Two new candies. New with us, although both of them are famous in the countries where they are made. Nougat provençal comes from Marseilles, and is the very finest of French nougat. We have it now to sell for the same price it costs in Paris. Small's maple chocolate creams are made in Canada and are much appreciated by those who want an absolutely pure maple candy. We have them now in airtight packages so that they will keep perfectly.—Frederick Looser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Here's a chance to send a box of fine, pure, toothsome and wholesome candy to your friend in the mountains or at the seashore, with the assurance that it will be appreciated, and at the same time pay much less than such excellent sweets would cost elsewhere.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Wanamaker Assorted Chocolates at 20c a pound are famous. In the first place, these chocolates are well made, and in the most delicious assortment. In the second place, they are made of absolutely pure ingredients which we can recommend.—Wanamaker, New York.

Old fashioned stick candy.—This is the kind your mother ate and you ate when you were a boy, and they sell it at some of the old village stores now, the lemon, lime, horehound, clove, anise, sassafras, peppermint and wintergreen sticks that looked down upon you from glass bottles on the store shelf. There's just this difference, these are more delicately made and add to wholesomeness attractiveness, pretty enough for after dinner tidbits, 9c a jar.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The candy store has the most fascinating bank that ever tempted boy or girl to save pennies. You drop a penny in the slot of a real chocolate machine, and get a cake of chocolate of the regular size, and yet save your penny at the same time. This is the first device ever known in which you get your cake and keep your penny, too. The chocolate machine, with key and ten cakes of chocolate, 50c complete. You can buy new supplies of chocolate with the pennies that you take out of the bank when the chocolate is gone. Thus the chocolate supply is self-supporting.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Best candy at Jevne's, and nothing remarkable about that—the best of everything to eat is at Jevne's. When we make anything to sell, we determine to make it a little better than anyone else does. That's the way it's been in our confectionery department—we've made it so good that people simply can't help buying Jevne's candy. They are the fine French candies and the plain sugar candies, and every kind you buy is perfectly pure and fresh and good.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Treat your friends to a delicious box of home-made candies. Make them acquainted with our place and our delicacies.—Alfer, York, Pa.

Tell your friends how much you enjoy the candy we make. Our candies are worth buying because they are fresh, home-made and positively pure. Spread the news about their superiority. Our ice cream is also famous for its excellence. Let's hear from you.—Harris, Columbus, O.

We are going to beat the weather this season. We are going to make our delightful hard candies, that you love so much, and place them in sealed glass jars, so you can have them all summer long. You know they cannot be handled any other way. But this way they will prove a fine success. They will keep. You can take them to the seashore with you, and they will be just as nice as they are in winter, even if you have foggy days. And all the favorite varieties will be included—buttercups, fruit cuts, chocolate chips, cinnamon chips, peach blossoms, opera twists, straws, satinettes, and all perfectly fresh and tempting.—W. W. Walker Co., Hartford.

If given judiciously, Huyler's candy removes all irritation caused from an untimely visit, clears the field of all dangerous rivals and opens the way to a "Personal" talk, from which the best results can be hoped for. "Huyler's" can be either given or sent, the results are the same in both cases!—Heiz Bros., Waco, Texas.

A few of the many nice candy kitchen specials. You can spend a few minutes very interestingly in looking over the dainty confections which are constantly coming fresh from our busy candy kitchen.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

The Easter bunny makes his bow. You might think Easter came to-morrow, to judge by the way our candy store is thronged with rabbits and chickens and eggs, and everything else that can by hook or crook be held to possess Easter significance. We've fairly outdone ourselves in this year's collection—and we have made it ready thus early to enable you to make up your minds about what you really like best and to buy it before everybody is hunting after Easter things. Come and see the brave showing—you'll be delighted and amused.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Prices lower in the confectionery section. The price of confectionery has dropped considerably for Saturday's selling, as the following prices plainly show. This is an opportune time to treat the little ones, and give them pure, good candies with only a very little strain on the purse strings.—Hudson Bay Store, Vancouver, B. C.

Good candies.—Here are some that are just a bit more delicious than any you ever ate—unless you've already tried these. And they're perfectly fresh. Take home a box of one of them to-day.—The Sanderson Pharmacy, Scranton, Pa.

Jack Straws.—What in the world are they? Well, I'll tell you! They are a piece of candy about five inches long, about the size of a lead pencil, composed of a thin covering of deliciously flavored crisp candy, filled with delicious sweet vanilla chocolate. A very dainty confection. They come in vanilla, rose, violet, lemon or pistache flavors.—Bierma's, Buffalo, N. Y.

We have everything in the way of fine candy for Christmas. We make our own goods and they are pure and fresh. A specialty made of fine mixed candy for the holidays. Package goods in fancy boxes, including Lowney's, at the lowest prices.—Mellons & Co., Binghamton.

Ever tried us on buying candies? If not, start to-day. You'll gain in quality without increasing the cost. Our policy when handling candies has always been to give our customers the best and purest goods that's possible for the money. We're satisfied with reasonable profits. Buy direct from the best makers in the country, which saves you all intermediate profits. As to assortment, we have increased our assortment and can safely say that there isn't one nearly its equal.—Hills & Co., Hartford, Conn.

We don't wish to be presumptuous, but you really don't know the delightful sensation of a kiss till you taste those Dixie Kisses.—Veeder & Yelverton, Schenectady, N. Y.

We make but one thing and we make that well—candy. You won't find anywhere a more tempting variety of novelties in the line of toothsome "goodies" than we can show you. You won't be quoted better prices—that's certain.—The Ophilakos, Galveston, Tex.

Candies! Candies! You should just see them! They're the first thing to greet you as you enter the store, and they're so tempting it's hard to pass them by. Always fresh. The reason it's so fresh we receive it direct from the candy kitchens. The reason it's so good is because of its pureness and made by the finest confectioners. All kinds; all prices.—The Butterfly, Muncie, Ind.

The lips you love are the lips that love sweet carnation chocolates. A fairy confection of creamy sweetness that melts within the tender caresses of the palate. Get a box. They're fine.—Salt Lake Candy Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

The sweetest candy on earth.—Our candy, made by ourselves of pure sugar and the best of everything in materials is the best that can be produced.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Are you a judge? If you are a judge of a good, pure, fine tasting candy call here; we have lovely confections to please the most fastidious palate. Made every day and always fresh.—The Fleur de Lis, Salem, Ore.

Choice chocolates. The kind that carries joy to the "Summer Girl's" heart. Made of the purest materials and made with the intent of producing the best confection possible. Rich—not sickish—delicately flavored and satisfying. Chocolates that haven't any equal for quality and toothsome anywhere at considerably higher prices than we ask. Take a box to the theater or on that outing trip.—Geo. E. Sawyer, Portland, Me.

Special candy to-day. "Special," because it comes post haste from the kitchen to the counter. It's here to-day with the bloom on it.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Good, pure candy is the most acceptable gift you can present to your lady friends. They will appreciate the kind we sell.—U. N. Spake, Galesburg, Ill., Feb. 1, 1902.

An order placed with us will convince you that we make the finest kind of frozen desserts.—Hauff Ice Cream Co., New Haven, Conn.

A maiden—rich—but seeming cold, A young man—poor—but a crafty soul, A "course" of Huyler's—tactfully sent; He now collects her papa's rents.

In matters social, friendship, reciprocity or remembrance, there is nothing that equals that thoughtful gift, Huyler's candy.—Herz Bros., Waco, Texas.

Choice confections.—What is more blissful these days than a big hammock, a good book and a box of Jevne's good candies. If going away for over Sunday, take a box of Jevne's candies with you to nibble on. There aren't any better confections made—we don't know where you can get any so good. We'll pack them in any size box you wish. A box of these candies daintily packed makes a very acceptable gift.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Saturday sweetmeats. A toothsome trio for to-morrow's enjoying.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Bon Ton chocolate chips, the most delicious of molasses chips, smothered in rich chocolate coats. See them in our window this week; buy a pound or two and enjoy their extra fine flavor.—Fox & Adams, Bangor, Me.

Anticipation. The thought of the good things that are to come—is almost equal to realization. As regards our candies, anticipate what you will as to sweetness and flavor and you will not be disappointed. Franklin's confectionery pleases ten times out of ten, and it's our pleasure to please you, no matter how small your purchase. An oyster sandwich with a cup of our delicious chocolate or perfection coffee makes a delightful lunch when down town shopping.—Franklin's, Salt Lake City, Utah.

They fit the lips like kisses—and taste so sweet. That's why Wardell's confections are so popular. Pure confections, these; flavor delicious.—Wardell's Store, Ingram, Pa., Feb. 1, 1902.

Chocolates are at their best, you know, a few days after they are made. Then we say they are "dead ripe." To-day we shall have on sale a large quantity of chocolates of our own make, and they are at their best or "dead ripe," as the expert says. There will be delightful creams, flavored with vanilla, peppermint, coffee and maple. And of course there will be our splendid chocolate dips. 40 cents a pound is the price of these chocolates, but you compare them with those you pay 80 cents a pound for, and see if we are not doing wonderful things in the making of chocolates. We leave it to you.—W. W. Walker Co., Hartford, Conn.

New York is the greatest candy mart in the world. There is more candy made and eaten in this city than anywhere else on this planet. And the very best candy is made right here in New York. We mean that our candy store shall become a factor in the distribution of high class sweets at moderate prices, in proof of which we offer for Saturday.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Delicious chocolate chips.—A confection that pleases all tastes. Three hundred pounds bought especially for the Fair trade. Take a box home with you. It fills the requirements of the higher priced candies, is as pure and as good, but does not cost as much.—A. Harris & Co., Dallas, Texas.

Almond and pecan croquettes.—A novelty in the candy store, and one of the daintiest candies that ever bid fair to become the rage. Jordan Almonds and Texas pecans are encased in a rich shell of shredded dates and figs and combined with cream.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

This week we offer Croft and Allen's fine cream mint candy at a special price, 10c a pound. This is the soft creamy kind and could not be better if we charged double the price. Fine cream chocolates in assorted shapes and flavors, and a fresh lot to arrive this morning as nice as you please. All you want from a quarter pound up at 13c a lb.—Geo. M. Dunlap, Philadelphia, Pa.

Concerning confections. There is such a vast difference in candy—such a variety in quality and price that it is hard to tell when you are getting good candy until after you have paid for it. That's why we are so careful to have every pound of our candy as good and fresh and delicious as candy can possibly be made. At our candy counter you will find many new and toothsome dainties.—Andrew R. Cunningham, Detroit.

Choice chocolate chips.—A real new confection, made of crisp molasses taffy dipped in sweet, wholesome chocolate. Doesn't that sound good? They taste good, too. They are called "Rare Bits," and will make a rare treat to take home. See how enticing they look in the window.—Kingston, Denison, Texas.

From a lover.—A lover's pure, wholesome candy, sent regularly to the adored one. All women love candy; it's symbolic of their nature—sweetness itself. But don't risk your happiness by getting it at any place but here. There may be other candy just as good as ours; but then you can't be sure of it, and here you may.—Westfield Candy Market, Westfield, Mass.

A well-invested quarter. Twenty-five cents buys a pound to-day of either of these most delicious candies: Silver strings. Miniature pillows, filled with cocoanut and covered with shiny, sticky sugar candy. Chocolate-covered caramels. Old favorites, but fresh and tempting.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Another week of special candy selling! This time we offer fresh-made, rich, creamy chocolates—assorted flavors—at the bargain price of 20 cents a pound. The only regret you'll have about these chocolates is that you didn't buy two pounds instead of one! But why not buy two pounds to begin with?—Fox & Adams, Bangor, Me.

Ever take home a box of candy on a hot day, and find a conglomerate mass inside, when you opened it? That's exactly what won't happen to these hot-weather candies. They are insulated—armor-clad—against heat and dampness. And they're delicious, too, to nibble on a summer day.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Take a box with you. A box of Jevne's candies. If you're going away to spend Sunday, no matter where you go, you can't buy any such candy as Jevne sells. So provide yourself with a big box of Jevne's before you start. Nothing would tickle the children so much as to have you take them some of this candy Saturday night. The reason there is such a difference between Jevne's candy and other candy is because there's a difference in the making. Our confectioner knows how to make the best candy—and that's the secret of it all.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Comfortable confectionery.—Just as much difference between the seasonable and unseasonable candy, as there is between winter overcoats and duck trousers. Here are candies of the summer sort—ninety degree weather won't make them soft and sticky—for most of them come in waxed paper, tin boxes or glass bottles. And all are delicious to eat.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Are you a judge of chocolate coatings? If so, we invite you to make a comparison between ours and our competitors'. Not only is ours superior in flavor and smoothness, but it is the highest price coatings used in the Northwest. A comparison is all we ask to convince you.—The Palm, Spokane, Wash.

The candy department is one of the growing departments of our store. And the reason it grows so fast is because the candies are so good, so fresh, so pure. We only know how to make candies one way at our store—the best. We never get careless and let impurities or stale ingredients slip in. Just the very best candies that are made—that's the business of this candy store. That we succeed in doing it this way every piece of candy will testify.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

A box of Acker's 39c bonbons and chocolates. Put it in your trunk. We would suggest two boxes. Your friends will be delighted to receive one of them. Pack them on the top. They will be wanted early and often. When the supply runs out you can renew it by a postal order. We deliver free in many places—you may be near one of them. You will be sure of getting your candies always fresh and pure at Acker's. We pride ourselves upon that. As to quality and excellence of assortment, we challenge comparison with the finest 80c confections ever made.—Finley, Acker & Co., Philadelphia.

Toasted Marshmallows.—That sounds like a piquant dainty, and it is, sure enough. Pure vanilla marshmallows are rolled in toasted shredded cocoanut, and you'll never guess how delicious they are until you bite into them.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Wiley's pure and delicious candies are not the cheapest that are to be found. If cheapness is the only consideration, there are better places to buy; but if you want good candy, pure candy, such as you need not fear eating yourself, giving your friends or your children, we are sure of our ability to please you. Quality considered, our prices are reasonable, which is the true test of cheapness. Made fresh every day, temptingly packed in beautiful boxes from half to five pounds.—Wiley's, Atlanta, Ga.

Nuts to crack for competitors in candy-making. Our dainty, pretty candies are envied by them all, but the results can not be attained by cheap materials, colors, flavors, etc., or so-called candy makers. We use only the pure, high grade materials and candy makers worthy of the name.—The Palm, Spokane, Wash.

Silver Moon Candy. As fine and fresh an assortment as you find in the city. Our extensive varieties of chocolate bonbons, etc., are of the highest grade, and cannot be surpassed in quality, and at the reasonable price.—Oliver Finne Co., Little Rock, Ark.

Candies at 20 cents a pound. Buying Wanamaker's candies below their regular prices is something like getting government bonds below par—in the admirable quality of the investment. A splendid chance, or rather two of them, for such investors to-day.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Candy everybody likes.—That's the reputation our candy has—everybody likes it. Why? Because it's so fresh, so fine, so delicious. We have the best candy maker we could find, and we give him only the finest and choicest materials to use in his candy making. Result is, every time you want candy, "You're safe at Jevne's."—H. Jevne, Los Angeles.

Clean and up-to-date are adjectives aptly applied to Peoria Candy Kitchen and Bakery. We stretch a point to avoid even an approach to anything contaminating, and patrons of this bakery may rest assured of the perfect cleanliness of every ounce of bread, cake and pie we bake.—Peoria Candy Kitchen, Peoria, Ill.

The glass that cheers and refreshes you on a warm day is our delicious ice cream soda. No question but what pure fruit flavors make a healthier drink than those made from acids and extracts—remember that when you want soda water. We manufacture all our flavors from the fresh fruits.—Palm, Spokane, Wash.

The finest candy.—It's as natural for Jevne to sell the best candy as it is for him to sell the best of all kinds of groceries. And what fine candy it is! Every piece a mouthful of deliciousness. Plain candies and fine French candies—every piece absolutely pure and perfectly fresh. Candy making is a great science. Our confectioner understands it. Buy any amount you want—but buy Jevne's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Of course you'll want candy. Fancy spending a double holiday with no candy in the house—particularly if you're a jolly young crowd! We've got a fine, fresh supply of delicious candies, ready for your demands to-day and to-morrow. Whether you want the simple sorts, or the best bonbons, chocolates and candied fruits, we'll supply you satisfactorily and promptly.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Cocoanut Jumbles, 20c a pound. Fresh, toothsome summer candy. A crisp sugar jacket enfolds a delicious cocoanut center. You'll like them, of course; 20c a pound.—Wanamaker's, New York.

It will make your mouth water to lift the cover from a box of Belle Mead Sweets and see how daintily they are assorted and packed. We guarantee every ounce to be absolutely pure. Make your next order for candy Belle Mead Sweets.—Culver-Deisler Co., Saginaw, Mich.

Doctors will tell you that a little candy now and then is good for you, like a little recreation, but it must be pure, absolutely pure candy. Wish you could see our candy factory—how invitingly clean it is—how every utensil shines—the very air itself suggests purity. Every ingredient is as carefully considered as a physician's prescription. And yet, with all this care to make it the purest, most delicious and best—it is less, very much less in price than the same grade can be purchased anywhere else.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

The purest and finest candies obtainable anywhere will be found at the main candy store in the basement. Some of them are imported, but most of them are made in our factory.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Every woman is a judge of candy—and the Reeves Chocolates and Bonbons are favorites everywhere they're known. All made here on the premises—coming fresh from our candy rooms all the time.—Reeves, Washington, D. C.

A Bunch of Candies.—Run your eye over this list of pure, fresh, delicious candies, and see whether it doesn't set that sweet tooth to jumping.—Wanamaker's, New York.

A box of these candies, tastefully arranged—and we make a specialty of that—and tied with red, white and blue ribbon will make as acceptable a gift as you can take with you.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

No finer candy than this is to be had anywhere in the world and nowhere but at Loeser's can you buy such candy for 60c. a pound. There are no less than thirty different kinds of Chocolates—the chocolate in each instance being the purest Swiss milk blend. There are all the favorite Bonbons and some new dainties. Try a pound and see if it is not as fine candy as you ever tasted.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Everybody's Favorite Confection—Scotch Kisses.—A soft marshmallow, highly flavored with vanilla and then dipped into a coating of good, old-fashioned butter, so crisply cooked that it's like eating a candied nut—sold in other stores at 60c.; here at 29c. lb.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Moir's. The particular hostess naturally selects Moir's chocolates for a stylish social affair. When arranged in a bonbon dish, with each chocolate in its neat, fancy paper cup, they look the very essence of daintiness and refined good taste. My! how delicious they are, too! Such delicately flavored centers, containing creamy confections, nuts, fruits and jellies, concealed under the finest, smoothest coating of the very richest chocolate. The number of different varieties in each box will delightfully surprise you.—Moir's, Ltd., Halifax, N. S.

Leggett's Saturday candy is pure, wholesome, and genuine, absolutely free from artificial and inferior ingredients. Apollo chocolates. Fresh every week and superior in quality to any other candy, no matter who makes it or what its price. Always glad to prove it with free samples. These chocolates are handsomely packed in half-pound, pound and two-pound boxes.—The Clifford Pharmacy, South Norwalk, Conn.

Leggett's Saturday candy, 29 cents a pound. For flavor assortment and purity it is unequalled. Just such a box of assorted chocolates as you pay 50 cents a pound for any other day and think you were getting it cheap. Stop in for a box. Apollo chocolates—the best candy made. Free samples to convince any doubter. Handsomely packed.—The Clifford Pharmacy, South Norwalk, Conn.

Confections. When filling the lunch basket for the picnic, don't forget Boyd's confections. They add greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion. Sold by all leading confectioners.—The W. J. Boyd Candy Co., Winnipeg, Can.

We keep good confectionery and keep it in good condition. Our candies are protected against all possibility of contamination, and are kept fresh by frequent supplies. We are exclusive agents for.—The old Corner Drug Store, Waco, Texas.

CARPET SWEEPERS

Made of steel with all the rigidity and strength that gives—and yet this new carpet sweeper is perhaps the easiest to run of any you can use. We tried it out thoroughly before we put our name to it, and we are convinced that for many reasons it is the best carpet sweeper on the market. It will not collect hairs and ravelings in the wheels for one thing—a clever device prevents that. The dust pans operate separately, open full and when the sweeper is in use they will not dig the carpet. The “Loeser” Carpet sweeper does; a soft brush which can sweep cleaner than any other sweeper we know—though we have all the other kinds. A protecting band encircles the case and prevents the marring of the furniture, even when the sweeper is used by a careless maid.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

You don't know—if you have not tried—the satisfactory work this carpet sweeper does; a soft brush which cannot injure the most delicate carpet, revolves with great rapidity, throwing dust and grit into pan provided; it's better doing this than throwing it on furniture and drapings.—Alfred Edmonson, Morecombe, Eng.

Every piece of material used in the construction of these sweepers is of the very best kind. The releasing of the dirt from the pan is done most perfectly; every particle of dirt and dust being dropped by the pans opening full from the interior of the case. The anti-raveler is another important feature which prevents the collection of hairs and threads in a way to clog the wheels.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Carpet sweepers and supplies.—Very few people know that we sell extra parts for carpet sweepers. Brushes, pans, tires, etc. A new invoice of these needs arrived a few days ago. Brushes, $1; rubber bands, 25 cents; rubber tires, per set of four, 50 cents. A larger variety of sweepers are here than most dealers care to handle. Our large carpet business is responsible for it.—John Breuner, Sacramento, Cal.

Carpet sweepers. Housekeeping is easier if you have a good easy-running Sweeper—and carpet wears longer. “The Wanamaker” Sweeper is made especially for us by the Bissell Sweeper Company—who lead the world as sweeper makers.

Think it foolish to have a style made specially for us? Let's see about it. Sweeper prices must be kept up, or the fun of making them would cease—so think the makers. This Wanamaker Sweeper is ours, and if we'd rather sell thousands than hundreds—through lessening profits on each, you see you are gainer. That's all. Wanamaker Sweepers are perfect; have broom action; run either way; empty the dust when you press the top; are well nickel-plated. $3.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

Bissell's “Cyco” bearing carpet sweeper solves the holiday gift problem. If you are in doubt what to buy for mother, wife, sister or friend, remember that Bissell's “Cyco” Bearing Sweeper never fails to please, and it is a constant reminder of the giver for ten years. It reduces the labor of sweeping 95 per cent., confines all the dust, brightens and preserves the carpets and will outlast forty brooms. Price, $2.50 to $4.50.—Bissell Carpet Sweeper Co., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Old-fashioned broom wielding may have been good enough to sweep olden time floors and rag carpets, but to-day when every household boasts carpets and floor coverings of the heaviest weave—very hard to sweep and easy to catch the dirt—something more than mere brushing is needed to clean house in a sanitary way. Nothing which we have ever seen will sweep the heavy carpets better and with less effort on the part of the housewife or servant than one of the new “Cyco” carpet sweepers we are showing in our household goods department this week. The construction of these modern carpet cleaners is very heavy and durable and the brushes are so built and arranged that they force the surface dirt out of the floor-covering into the sweeper trays. They really do remarkable work as we shall be glad to demonstrate to you.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

How do you sweep? Still stick to the old-fashioned broom or brush, or accept the aid of modern invention and use an up-to-date carpet sweeper? The sweeper is the easier way. One sweeper will outwear a dozen or more brooms and the saving in your own strength and efforts is of far greater consideration.—The Boston Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

CASH

Rinks—"Is your grocer in the trust?"

Jinks—"Yes, but it doesn't affect me."

Rinks—"No?"

Jinks—"No; I have to pay cash."—Baltimore American.

It pays to pay cash.—Oliver-Finnie Co., Little Rock, Ark.

You can afford to pay carfare to visit the store where cash talks.—Green Front Market, Altoona, Pa.

We buy for cash. We sell for cash—don't have any debts to make up.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Business is business, and can best be done to the advantage of dealer and consumer on a cash basis. We want your good will and co-operation.

Don't ask for credit. It is unpleasant for us to refuse. You want proper attention and value for cash. We propose to offer all we can. Shade prices whenever possible, and offer every inducement to secure your trade pleasantly. Will take due bills as cash, but under no consideration will we allow credit or haggling in prices.—Henry Carter, Simcoe, Ont.

Where cash wins.—J. N. Zurlinden, Kenton, O.

We sell for cash, which means no bad debts, which means lowest prices.—J. H. Batton, San Bernardino, Cal.

Cash buys big values in our furniture and house-outfitting store. Cash always commands the biggest bargain. It always gets the richest value. Every day you see proof of this. We go into the market with money to plank down for what we buy. We can crowd the price down to its lowest notch. When we sell we get cash to go out and buy more big values. When we get cash we do not have to lose by bad debts or for the keeping up of an expensive credit department. That's why your cash is better here; that's why we can afford to make the low prices we do. Read the news of values below, it will pay you.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Just for Saturday, and for cash.—Carrow Market, Ottumwa, Iowa.

It's cash that talks in buying meats.—The Acme Cash Market, Binghamton.

A credit merchant carries two stocks of goods: One in the store; the other scattered among his credit customers.

Carrying customers on the books increases the cost of doing business. It's one of the things that compel merchants to get high prices from those who pay.

Why don't you pay cash and be independent? Trade where prices are figured on a spot cash basis.—The New York Racket, Salem, Ore.

It Pays to Pay Cash at a Cash Store.—Our prices are positively the lowest in Pueblo. Our business this month surpasses that of any previous month since we opened. The reason is simply that in times when economy becomes necessary, trade inclines toward the store that gives the best values for the money. Having always sold for cash, we don't have to add anything to our prices to make up for losses occasioned by poor credits. This means a real substantial saving to every customer—and you'll find it so. Come and prove us. You'll find good values, even beyond your expectations.—Bernstein's, Pueblo, Cal.

We invite cash buyers to take advantage of our determination to still increase our Woonsocket business and defy any attempt to equal our cut prices by any of the vendors giving prize packages with sticky wares.—Rogans, Woonsocket, R. I.

From a credit to a cash basis. We pay cash for our goods and get the benefit of the cash discount. We sell them for cash and give you the benefit of this discount. We find that by carrying on a strictly cash business we can give our customers better goods for less money than we can by the credit system. That is the reason for the change. Judging by the crowds which visit our store daily this move on our part has met with hearty approval.—York Bargain King, York, Pa.

The power of the Macy cash system in creating matchless economies was never illustrated more convincingly. The interest caused by these sales is unprecedented. Practically every department in this great store contributes special values from stocks worth in the aggregate $3,000,000.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

The Dry Goods Economist says: "No man who has understanding sufficient to carry him through the first proposition of Euclid can question the contention that the merchant who sells for cash can be content with smaller margins than one who credits." If not, why, may we ask, is so much emphasis in current publicity laid upon the spot cash feature of various fortunate purchases? If the public can buy to as good advantage on a credit basis, how does it happen that the merchant cannot? If either could, surely both could, but, of course, neither can and neither does. We sell strictly for cash and are content with little profits.—The Big Cash Store, St. Thomas, Ont.

We sell for cash, give no discounts and pay no commissions. Our low prices are historical. The depositors' account department was organized as a convenience for our patrons—one affording every advantage of a credit system and none of its drawbacks. Deposit a sum of money—large or small—make purchases in the usual way and have them referred to the account for payment. Monthly statements, showing the condition of the account, will be mailed to you. Interest at the rate of four per cent., compounded every three months, will be allowed on your daily balance. Your deposits cannot be drawn against by check for expenditures made outside of the store, as we do no banking business; but any or all of it can be withdrawn at any time.—Macy's, New York.

Cash.—It is the cash that talks. If you have the money, we have the goods. We know we can save you 20 to 30 per cent. on your investment.—Nickle-Plate Grocery Company, Alliance, O.

Cash! Cash!! Cash!!!—Cash is the only lever which can move any goods out of our house from this date on until we give further notice.—Geltz, Mansfield.

When you pay cash you're entitled to the savings in cash, and get them here, too. Any item here or any item in the store will prove our prices lowest.—Boston Store, Chicago, Ill.

Saves you all the dealers' profit. We sell for cash only, which enables us to make our astonishingly low prices, as we have no bad accounts or excessive selling expenses to add to our costs.—The Gold Coin Store Co., Troy, N. Y.

When you aim to pay cash, come here and save the difference in price.—The Bee Hive, Charlotte, N. C.

Buying for cash, selling for cash, energy, truth and capacity are the living principles responsible for the marvelous growth of business at this genuine, dyed in the wool "cash" dry goods store. Bay City "Cash" Dry Goods Co. is our trade mark. It means something. It stands for "cash" in both buying and selling. It stands for first quality, high grade, stylish and satisfactory merchandise at the lowest "cash" selling prices. It means all these things to the store. It means all these things and more to our customers. This store's policy is buy cheap, sell cheap and satisfy.—Bay City "Cash" Dry Goods Co., Bay City, Mich.

Buying for Spot Cash and saving the Profit-Sharing Coupons is just like placing money in the bank. The customers of this store always have that sense of satisfaction at having something laid aside for a "rainy day." The Profit-Sharing Coupons enable them to furnish their homes without cost, and the difference between our small profit prices and what they are forced to pay elsewhere means a snug little bank account.

Buying for cash, selling for cash—energy, truth, enterprise and modern methods, are the living principles responsible for the marvelous growth of business at this reliable "dyed-in-the-wool" cash store. We buy in enormous quantities direct from the manufacturers and sell first-class merchandise at the closest possible margin of profit. In buying here you are not paying the middlemen a profit because all our goods come direct from the largest makers and producers. Our shrewd, wide-awake buyers never close their eyes when the public's interests are at stake. Their one aim and purpose is to gain the biggest possible price concessions that ready cash, constant attention and tactful manœuvring can secure. In buying of us you are absolutely certain that the merchandise will be first-class. Anything proving unsatisfactory will be willingly exchanged or money refunded without question.—Clarke Bros., Scranton, Pa.

Do you want the best for the smallest cash price? If so "The People's Store" must be your watchword, and if you are a stranger in the city a visit to this store Tuesday will prove to you the truth of our claim, viz.: "We sell the best, yet the price is small." We buy and sell for cash only. That's why.—People's Store Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Installment dealers can't compete with our low cash prices and live. They have elaborate and expensive collection systems and their court and lawyer's fees are large items.—The Excelsior Clothing Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

I am selling goods for money and not for the pleasure of putting some one's name on my books. It costs a store ten per cent. more to sell goods on credit.—Swift's, Los Angeles, Cal.

This store is a cash store. It has the buying machinery of the Kansas City store, with all its great prestige in cash buying, at its disposal. Thirty trained buyers in the Kansas City store, assisted by the buyers who have helped to build the Kemper & Paxton business, are using cash in buying the great values for this Topeka store. The vast qualities that can be handled by this big store and the great Kansas City store combined make low prices as easy as anything can be. Then when we place our close cash prices on these goods, no risk of loss, no expensive bookkeeping, no stock of merchandise on the credit books and another in the shelves—we say when we put our close cash selling price on these close bought goods, we've got bargains no store in this western country can match.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Topeka, Kansas.

The Bay City "Cash" Dry Goods Store, the home of "cash" business values. The popular rendezvous of thrifty money-saving thousands within and outside the broad confines of the city. There's an every-day onward march in the Bay City "Cash" Store. Throngs of contented and satisfied buyers at every counter. There's a homelike air of comfort and confidence on every face. Confidence in the store. Confidence in the goods. Confidence in the prices. Money is power. The bed rock of our strictly "cash" plan in both buying and selling. The best of merchandise within the reach of toiling millions.—Bay City Cash Dry Goods Store, Bay City, Mich.

At no previous sale have we offered such Bargains at Half-Price in High-Class Merchandise. Every Dry Goods Department in the store is represented. Buy for Cash and buy all you can.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton.

Now, to your profit. Nearly 75 per cent. of the Grocery business done in this country is done on credit. Every time a cent's worth is bought on credit some one loses money. If it isn't the merchant, it is the customer, for cash is King, and always will be all powerful in the commercial world. Any one can buy anything cheaper for cash than on time. We buy for cash, we sell for cash—treating all with the same liberality—giving all the same guarantee—"Satisfaction or Your Money Back."—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Selling for cash means no bad debts. It means also, that you do not pay an added profit to cover hire of extra bookkeepers and bill collectors. It also means we buy for cash and take the discount. This is no theory, we have had it in active practice many years. Our cash basis is a safeguard to both of us. If out of city write for illustrated catalogue.—Mulford, Jeweler, Memphis.

The fact that this store does offer these cash bargains is proof enough that we are able to sell for less. To buy and to sell for cash is the most clear cut way to trade we know of. When we buy goods, we buy in big quantities, because we have the outlet. We pay spot cash and thereby secure the lowest prices, which no credit store can buy at, because the store that gives credit to its customers must ask credit of the wholesaler. We add a small profit, because selling for cash does away with all the losses that a credit store suffers from bad accounts.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Topeka, Kan.

Midwinter, with all its drawbacks, brings one blessing to the working people. It is the season of low prices on general merchandise. Do not forget that Houghton & Dutton lead the procession in low prices, a fact made possible by our spot cash system of buying and selling. It pays to pay cash.—Houghton & Dutton, Boston, Mass.

Is cash your comforter or credit your worry? Vermelto and his wonderful tricks! As baffling as the credit man's monthly settlement. All day Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Vermelto will do the wizard act in our show window. It's the "presto change" that any one can do if he only knows how. Just as smooth and slick is the sweetened talk of the fellow who charges you $20 on credit for the identical suit we sell for $10 cash. Vermelto has you hypnotized and so has the credit man. Vermelto is a vendor of tricks and he'll tell you all about the vanishing handkerchief for 25c. That's the living he gets out of his job. Our living is selling reputable merchandise for cash, at one-quarter and one-half less than the man whose family of non-collectibles accumulate in his ledger and the difference figured up on the good friends that pay. There are two ways to look at matters. One is through sentiment—the other through business lens. If you have an eye for business you choose to be independent from and under no obligations to your merchant. That's paying cash.—F. E. Mistrot, Galveston, Tex.

Cash counts.—Clarke Brothers, Scranton, Pa.

Selling for cash only enables us to make lower prices than credit stores can make. Watch our daily ads and compare our prices with the credit store prices.—Weinstein's, Great Falls, Mont.

Spot cash—that unerring business bullet—is always used by us, and we get every concession that money can give.—N. Y. Mail Order Store, New York.

We get cash for goods and give you the best goods cash will buy.—John R. Siefert, San Diego, Cal.

I have taken an oath to sell for cash only; not to trust any person at this store; not to sign either bond or note, or become security for any party. Subscribed and sworn to before C. W. Johnstone, J. P., Phoenix, Arizona, C. W. McKEE.—McKee's Cash Store, Phoenix.

Here is a crowded, newsy page of big, honest values we are able to offer because we buy and sell for spot cash, losing nothing through bad debts.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

We conduct a cash business—buy larger quantities of goods than any other similar house on the Coast. Our prices, of course, are much lower than firms which buy in small quantities—the percentage of profit may be the same—still our prices are considerably less—no doubt you catch the point.—John Breuner Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Cash here, versus credit elsewhere. No man who will stop to think a moment can question the contention that, everything else being equal, the merchant who sells for cash can be content with smaller margins than one who credits. If not, why, may we ask, is so much emphasis in current publicity laid upon the “spot cash” feature of various fortunate purchases? If the public can buy to as good an advantage on a credit basis, how does it happen that the merchant cannot? If either could surely both could. But, of course, neither can and neither does.—Wise, Smith & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Our cash system of selling meats, vegetables and fruits is a sort of savings institution that Portland people seem to appreciate. It puts us in a position to quote low prices that the credit merchant can't touch. Through fostering economy in our patrons it sews up many a leaky pocketbook.—Mercier Meat Market, Portland, Me.

Prices—What a world of power in the price. The strength is in their little-ness. Keeping hammering away day in and day out, shopping around with cash and then selling for cash is what makes this the busy store in summer. Listen to the bargains we are able to offer for to-day.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

We buy the best produced. We sell no goods on the installment plan. Therefore we have no bad accounts for you to help pay. Neither do we charge you for the services of collection, as we have none.—C. F. Hausberger & Co., Columbus, O.

We do as we advertise. Satisfaction or money back. No charges made—Strictly cash.—The Hub, Bay City, Mich.

Arouse—Arise—Assert Your Rights.—Shake off the shackles of high prices and legalized extortion. Prepare for a week of unparalleled cheap selling at the Bay City “CASH” Dry Goods Store. A seething maelstrom of values in a whirlwind of panic stricken prices. Every department in the store is at the kind and tender mercies of a money-saving people.—Cash Dry Goods Co., Bay City.

Spot cash—the gospel of good business. It was ready money that made this manufacturers' clearance sale possible. Anxious to sell, willing to sell cheaply, we caught the manufacturers when courage was weak and the market nervous. We struck them with spot cash, money down, meant immediate relief and they took their medicine—not without a grimace, but they took it. The Globe doesn't invest spot cash in questionable property, not at any price. Quality the steel, low price the flint, the spark struck from the two, that's a Globe store bargain. That's worth remembering just now.—The Globe, Youngstown, Ohio.

The cash buyer gets the closest possible price, as he should; the credit buyer pays what the accommodation costs and knows precisely what the cost is—an advantage possible only when dealing with a one-price firm.—Geo. T. Brodnax, Memphis, Tenn.

We sell for cash, give no discounts and pay no commissions. This is the only big store we know of that does a strictly cash business, and yields no concessions that all may not share. Such a system creates money-saving opportunities and enables us to undersell—easily undersell—all other stores. It provides the best values for those who spend money open-handedly, as well as for that larger class whose purchases are controlled by the strictest economy.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

The Stone, Fisher & Lane stores do business on a cash basis. And, after all, that's the right way—for who was it said in the senate: "Gentlemen, I have found it—the philosopher's stone that turns everything to gold—it's pay as you go!"—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

Our cash plan and economical business methods make it possible for us to sell goods at a smaller margin of profit than "regular stores." That's why we give you better goods for the money than you can find elsewhere.—E. T. Barnes, Salem, Oregon.

Debt will knock you out. We are steering this business to increasing success on the rational, riskless cash basis. Don't buy on credit. Little debts multiply with marvelous rapidity, and before you can realize their aggregate magnitude they assume the immensity of a mountain. And how they burden and depress and take all the snap out of business and all the flavor out of life!—McCord-Stewart Co., Atlanta, Ga.

That's what you are entitled to at the Halpert & Jacobs' store—a running account—a charge account—it's all the same. Instead of paying cash, you open an account, settle your bill in divided amounts instead of in a lump sum. There is no mystery about this plan—no unfairness—the splendid success of the plan stands as proof conclusive. Would this modern plan of carrying accounts have gained such a triumph in two years otherwise? The minute you open an account with us you have the goods—you enjoy their use at the time when you need them most. As you are paying a little right along, your account keeps growing less. You don't mind the outlay, because of the small, divided payments—and you are dressed comfortably and fashionably, too. Either cash or credit are yours at cash prices—either way price and quality are just the same, you can depend upon it. Which way is the easier for you?—Halpert & Jacobs, Binghamton, N. Y.

"The way to wealth, if you desire it, is as plain as the way to market."—Benjamin Franklin. Watch your expenditures! Know how much you spend and for what you spend it. This information comes to you once a month—in compact, detailed form—if you avail yourself of the conveniences, advantages and economies of Macy's depositors' account department. You have all the conveniences of any credit system, without any credit system faults. You enjoy all the economies of Macy's cash system—and you get 4% interest on your daily balance, compounded every three months. Every penny and every dollar earns interest for you daily until withdrawn. You may deposit as much or as little as you care to and have your purchases referred to the account for payment. There is no waiting at the counter for change when on a shopping trip. Every month we will send you a detailed statement showing what you have bought and how much money remains on deposit. While your deposit cannot be drawn against by check for expenditures made outside of the store, you are privileged to withdraw any or all of it at a moment's notice. Macy's is a strictly cash store. It grants no concessions that all may not share, and it treats alike the million and the millionaire. You know that no store can sell goods as cheaply as a cash store. (No argument is required to prove that the customer must pay the store's expenses, including its bad debts—its premium devices, its trading stamps and all other schemes.) Thousands have opened deposit accounts with us, realizing the value of this "up-to-the-times" saving method. We urge you to give it a trial.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

Quality, seasonable merchandise in large quantities at prices that have gained us fame, as "The Always Busy Store," "Givers of Best Values," "House of the People," "Cash" buying and "Cash" selling, is the secret of our supremacy.—Bay City Cash Dry Goods Co., Bay City, Mich.

“CHRISTMAS”

“Vot did you vish?” set der young woman.

“I vas looking for a Christmas present for my vife,” I set. “I vish to buy somedings dot vill bring a great choy into her heart ad dis habby Christmas season, und vich I could afterwards use for a pair of carpet slippers or a shaving mug.”

Der young lady looked ad me mit short, sharp glances.

“Dot makes 27,493 peoples dot haf came in dis compartment store to-day midoud knowing vot dey vas didding here, und I refuse to ged $8 a veek und be a human encyclopaedia.”

I began a short apologization, bud she reached down unter der counter und pulled ub a club.

Christmas is rapidly approaching—only twenty-four more buying days remain, and the last twelve of them will be days of such tremendous activity that this great organization will be taxed to its utmost capacity. We take this opportunity to urge every one to consider this condition and make full use of the advantages the present week affords for satisfactory and comfortable Christmas shopping.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago.

The greatest Xmas store. Gimbel's is not only the biggest Christmas store, but it is the most beautiful and carries more merchandise of true worth than any store in the West. It offers more attractions for young or old, in fact has made shopping at the big store reach the highest degree of pleasure. Note this too: We afford you the greatest opportunities for buying Christmas gifts at a lesser expense than anywhere in town.—Gimbel Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

What shall I give for Christmas? This very pertinent question is answered—exhaustively, thoroughly, comprehensively, suggestively. We mention gifts appropriate for every member of the family—father, mother, brother, sister, relatives, friends or sweethearts. And with the selection as varied and attractive as it is this year at this store, Christmas shopping and gift selecting is more of a pleasure than a drudgery. You come in this store and see so many beautiful things that are suitable gifts for the loved ones in mind that you are happily perplexed in not knowing which ones of the hundreds to buy. We offer you the result of years of buying and looking around for Christmas goods. While we are always desirous of selling just as low as we possibly can, yet quality is our foundation, and you can rest assured that any article bought for a present will give satisfaction and pleasure to the recipient every time he or she has occasion to use it. We are mentioning a few of the appropriate articles suitable for Christmas and are purposely omitting prices in order that you may forget all about the cost in anticipation of the pleasure of giving.—Wilmington Furniture Co., Wilmington, Del.

Xmas favors. All this talk about no chimneys for Santa Claus to explore has been exploded, for in our basement are favors enough showing the good old-time brick and mortar chimneys that would make Santa Claus chuckle as far as he could see them. Snowballs, Christmas bells in white and in red, tiny sleds, garlands, reindeer mounted boxes, feathered turkeys, baskets of fruits and vegetables, snow babies, holly in sprays or in bunches, bells that really ring, stars, garlands and stockings that are candy holders; these and a great many other pretty decorative, useful-for-Christmas favors are to be found in the basement.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Christmas suggestions from Lansing's growing dry goods store. Do your Christmas buying now before the real rush begins. The crowds are gradually becoming larger and each day this busy place gets more popular among Xmas shoppers. Do not put off your buying another day. Come now while the selections remain good. It's a positive fact you will be more satisfied all around, by so doing, for many others, no doubt, are like you, waiting till the last few days.—Dancer, Brogan & Co., Lansing, Mich.

To our friends out of town. We address this word particularly to people out of town, in an effort to present our broad Christmas stocks of furniture, rugs, draperies, etc. In recent years gifts have been running more and more to the practical, and never before have we had such fine assortments ready at such an early date. We beg to advise you to make early selections, and when this is done we will pack the article carefully, when requested, hold till a few days prior to Christmas, and ship or deliver free of all charges on five dollars or more, to any address in Central Illinois.—Schipper & Block, Peoria.

The Browne Pharmacy where you meet your friends. Appropriate, acceptable Christmas gifts! You really must see the display of this, the leading drug store, to fully appreciate its magnitude and variety. The suggestions that are to be found here will furnish selections for many pleasing Christmas gifts. Throughout the line—the high standard of quality is maintained—and prices consistent with the values range to the popular fancy.—New Bedford, Mass.

"There is one thing about the Loeser store," says a woman. "If you read about something in the store news and then go and buy it, you always find it comes up to expectations when you get it home." Of course it does. The store holds its special place in this community because of the thousands of friends it has made and keeps. And the way to make friends isn't to fool them on something that they paid out their money for. As the Christmas season draws on, it is well to remember these things and to depend on the store that you know by experience is dependable. A great deal of the Christmas shopping is done in a rush. There isn't time to think over things and to make comparisons as carefully as you might at other seasons. So it is the every-day-in-the-year dependable store that it is safest to pin faith to at this season. A thoroughfare has been made between Fulton and Livingston streets through the store by the opening of a main door to Livingston street. And along this new thoroughfare at all times you will find special values as notable as are to be had anywhere in the store. It is one more addition to the store's convenience and completeness.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Only eight more shopping days before Christmas. Early preparation makes you glad to see Christmas coming, but what a worry and flurry and hurry there is to spoil Christmas for those who delay. The store is lively enough these days, but owing to our enormous floor space we are able to serve you comfortably and carefully. If your Christmas puzzle has not as yet been solved, come to Barney's—the greatest Christmas store. Our stocks were never as complete and the price never as attractive.—H. S. Barney Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Let this be your Christmas store. We come to you with this announcement in ample time to save you worry and money besides. We want everybody to feel that this is their Christmas store—that the big place is capable of meeting the demands of all and giving the best gift satisfaction to be found. One thing sure you can depend upon—and it's important—and that is, there'll be no after-holiday regrets through anything not measuring up to your fullest expectations. Another important thing we want to mention, too, is the fact that we trust you. Simply open a charge account and pay for the gifts after Christmas—a little at a time. It's a good time to pick out furniture gifts now. There's no immediate rush, excepting for your comfort. Those who like to shop leisurely and who want to go into the merit of everything critically—can come in now and go over the entire furniture display and then have anything "tagged" and put away. Then again you get absolutely first choice.—Hurley-Tobin Co., Trenton, N. J.

Peoria's Christmas store—Schipper & Block's. There are less than five full shopping weeks between to-day and Christmas—and the Big White Store's holiday stocks are now practically complete. Remember that an hour's shopping in the morning is worth two in the afternoon, and that the first selections are always the most satisfactory. The resources of our store were never more fully proved than in the magnificent showing of holiday merchandise now ready. Goods stored when desired.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Every department in this progressive store is now filled with an endless variety of holiday gifts. Christmas shoppers find extra pleasure in making their purchases here on account of the neat price saving on each article. Everybody invited. Goods stored till Christmas. Come early to avoid crowds.—Lochman Bros., Springfield, Ill.

Preparations. Two weeks more and then—Christmas, the favored time for countless thousands of bounteous feasts, cheery social functions and happy reunions. Christmas, the greatest incentive for painstaking housewives to make their dinner table exceedingly delightful to the eye and surpassing gratifying to the appetite. Women with such thoughts in view will find the Kaufman store splendidly ready with the many needfuls of this great feast day, in abundant variety, of character to do credit to the taste and judgment of exacting housewives, and at prices especially favorable.—Kaufman's, Trenton, N. J.

Begun in earnest. Any one who walked through Loeser's this morning could have no doubt of it. The Christmas shopping has begun in earnest. There is a holiday atmosphere all through the store. And in these early days of the holiday season there is a freshness and special charm about the Christmas merchandise that makes it well worth while to begin now. In this one store is assembled over four million dollars' worth of high grade merchandise—merchandise of the Loeser standard. It is a tremendous stock. But it is because of the completeness of the stock and its special readiness to suit every personal need rather than on account of its immense volume that we believe the store to be in even better holiday trim than ever before in its history.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you have thought of replenishing the dining-room, this is surely the time to do it. You ought to have the dining-room in shape so that you can enjoy your Christmas dinner. We have a magnificent showing of dining-room furniture as complete as can be found in any store in the country.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

Two very important results from early Christmas shopping. First, you can serve your own interests so much better, there's greater variety to choose from, the goods are fresher, there's less inconvenience, there's less jostling and elbowing now than later on, there's much that will profit you personally in early shopping. Secondly, you can do a world of good to employes—from check boy on up to salespeople, on through to the drivers and the horses, by shopping early; you can lighten the labors of all, for which they would be sincerely grateful to you. So with a trifle of forethought you can serve both factors—employe and yours loyally.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Christmas stocks at highest point of completeness now, and exceptional values rule. The holidays are almost here and Christmas gifts will readily suggest themselves if you visit this great Christmas store. The splendid readiness of our immense stocks now makes selection a pleasure. We would direct special attention for to-morrow to the great money-saving reductions on many seasonable lines, while the fact that these great special offerings are suitable for Christmas gifts give double importance to these time sale events. To-morrow will present the opportunity of all opportunities to supply your present or Christmas needs.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

A good beginning makes a good ending to Christmas shopping—shop early. Days are flying as they always fly when the Yuletide season comes around—when there is so much to do in preparation. Christmas eve will be here almost before you know it—only twenty-two shopping days left. If you haven't begun your Christmas shopping, begin now—slow beginners are apt to prove slow finishers, and judging by the last day's Christmas rush of a year ago, we will have more than we can do to give that perfect service that we would like. Help us, help yourselves, help our drivers, help our salespeople by doing your Christmas shopping early—early in the month, early in the day. First week of December Christmas shopping will be a pleasure. Second week it may be satisfactory. Third week it will be a whirl. The last half week it will be a crush.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Add to the pleasure and merriment of the holidays by brightening and beautifying your dining-room. Our desirable showing in this line is the newest and gives the greatest satisfaction. Comparison convinces of a genuine saving.—Mason's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Don't let the pleasure of the coming holidays be marred by a single oversight. Look at your table linens, your furniture, your larder, your glass, china, cutlery, etc., and fill in whatever necessary.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Odd, decorative brass. A studio exhibit and sale. Get a fine jar or candlestick of hammered brass and you have something genuinely artistic and individual. The studio has been collecting such things—there hasn't been in Brooklyn before a showing of brass pieces to equal the one now ready. There are massive jardinières and pedestals, and there are also dainty little brass fern holders. There are trays, jars, candlesticks and many other pieces. Most of them show the hammer marks very plainly.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Sale of Christmas goods. Christmas gifts are included in this big list of saving opportunities. Everything mentioned is a seasonable need—goods you want. Remember, there are only twenty more shopping days till Christmas, and best choice is always obtained by early buyers. Some sales of more than usual importance for Saturday are: The book sale, some 3,500 gift books going on sale at 19c, 25c, 35c and 40c. The sale of Christmas ribbons—over 100,000 yards specially bought for this event, on sale at 4 yards for 5c, 3 yards for 10c, 5 yards 25c and 12½c yard. The sale of gift china—many hundred pieces ready at very special prices. The room-making sacrifice sale of footwear and the sensational coat sale. From top to bottom this immense establishment, containing the space of any other two stores, has turned into a Christmas store, and holiday buying can be accomplished here with the maximum of comfort and the minimum of money. Start right out with your list to-morrow morning, 8.30 sharp is none too early.—The G. W. Robinson Co., Ltd., Hamilton, Can.

Electroliers for fine giving. The complete Christmas stock now invites you, and immediate choosing is far best, since there will be no duplicates of the artistic specimens, as overcrowding factories can not take orders at this late day for holiday delivery. Mr. Man, your wife wanted an Electrolier last year, didn't she? You didn't get it, perhaps. If so, we suggest that it will solve this year's problem as almost nothing else.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Dainty Christmas novelties in fancy goods. The hundreds of women who daily turn to this section for the inexpensive remembrances which are included on every Christmas list will find in our present great assortment not only the widest varieties of new and effective ideas, but many remarkable instances of unequaled value-giving.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Our preparations for Christmas. If you will note our advertisements from day to day we are sure it will help settle many vexatious Christmas problems, for we have racked our brains to make it as easy for you as we know how. There are not many shopping days remaining before Xmas, so for your benefit as well as ours, we advise early buying, which gives you the benefit of choice selection and better service.—The B. & M., Peoria, Ill.

If you are not sure what to give, give a 1907 calendar. There is hardly a gift need that a calendar will not appropriately fill—whether you want to mail only a dainty remembrance or a substantial present. Anybody can send anybody a calendar—like books or flowers—and even the woman who "has everything" will be sure to appreciate one of the beauty things. Never were the calendars more charming than this year. All the favorites are here—the Underwood, the Christy, the Madonna calendars, the Posters, the Cat calendars, and dozens of new designs, ranging from 19c up to the exquisite platinum prints tinted with hand colors at $2.80. Widest and best choosing at Loeser's—and wisest choosing while stocks are fresh and unhandled.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Holiday photos. No gift gives greater pleasure to both donor and recipient than a photo—especially if it be a Miller photo, which embodies all the virtues of art in photography.—Miller Studio, Minneapolis, Minn.

The Christmas picture frame. It should be ordered now. We are prepared to take good care of the holiday rush orders, but, of course it is advisable to place your order as quickly as possible, thus insuring prompt service and all around satisfactory execution of your order. We have a very extensive stock of frames, we employ experts who know the framing business from a to z, and we charge prices that are unquestionably the most moderate to be found anywhere for like high class work. Place your order now.—Kaufman's, Trenton, N. J.

Any one desiring to give silver for a wedding present or Christmas gift will particularly be interested in this splendid showing of beautiful pieces in sterling silver, at Mayer's. The collection at the present time offers such variety as will not be found later on in the season. Now is the right time to select the choicest gift things for Christmas. We lay goods aside for later delivery.—Charles Mayer & Company, Indianapolis, Ind.

Take out your calendars, men and women folks, and see what little time there remains before the joyful Christmas. Here the Christmas spirit is already asserting itself from basement to roof. Holiday stocks are being installed, our sales force is being augmented in anticipation of heavy holiday buying, and facilities have been increased throughout to meet all demands. Experience is the best teacher. Don't delay your holiday buying.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Never has the far-famed present store of the metropolis succeeded in displaying, so early in the season, such a magnificent array of goods suitable for gifts as will be shown the coming week. We have positively outdone ourselves.—Higgins & Seiter, New York, N. Y.

Christmas is coming, so is Santa Claus. Next Saturday will find him in his little red house at Loeser's. By wireless he sends another message from Newfoundland: Saw Peary's ship, the Roosevelt. Did not stop to go on board—too anxious to reach Loeser's by Saturday. Everything is ready for Santa Claus—the finest collection of playthings that even the Loeser store ever had to show, and the telephone in first rate working order for this year again. Children may telephone Santa Claus every night between 6 and 8 after December 1. And just a word in the ear of parents: Do the important Christmas choosing now, while all the playthings are at their freshest and stocks are full, and before the presence of Santa Claus brings throngs at all hours to the toy store. No toys anywhere like these at these prices.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We are ready for Christmas—are you? The experience of previous years endorses the advisability of early preparations and early buying—especially if the gift is to be garments to measure, etc. We are splendidly prepared. Our wonderful toyland is boundless in the assortment of Christmas presents for children of all ages, temperament and preference. It is as though a fairy story had come true—no description could correctly picture the astonishing variety and immensity of this great wonderland of toys, dolls, books and games. Mechanical inventions most extraordinary are here. The doll display is the largest and finest we have ever shown—a magnificent carnival of dolls of many nationalities, sizes and kinds that's making the eyes of hundreds of little girls stand wide open. There are books and games for old and young, old favorites and those that make their bow this year. Every department in this big Christmas mart is in holiday array and filled with useful, appropriate gifts for every member of the family. For several weeks already we are very busy filling and reserving orders for throngs of merry holiday shoppers.—Kaufman's, Trenton, N. J.

We are preparing to make the store this year again the Christmas store, and, as the law of our progression demands, we have gone about making preparations in a more elaborate way than ever before. The store is already full of Christmas hints and in more ways than one people can advantageously start their Christmas planning now and call on this store right off to help—you'll find it ever ready.—Bloomington's, New York.

Only 23 buying days until Christmas and the last 15 of these will find the store inevitably crowded, leaving about 8 days for that leisurely selection which is so much desired by discriminating purchasers. A great many people are already taking advantage of this opportunity and Christmas buying is well begun. The present condition of our stocks afford a wide selection of gift articles suitable for the holidays.—Columbus Dry Goods Co., Columbus, O.

Will you want sleds or skates for the children at Christmas? If you do you would better make your selections now, while our stock is complete. We will put them aside for you if you wish it.

Shabby furniture mars the effect of the finest feast. Don't let your Christmas dinner be spoiled by retaining articles that are the worse for wear. You will be able to find furniture in our warerooms that will suit your rooms, your taste and your pocket. The styles are the very latest and the quality is guaranteed. Select what you require now in time to adorn your home for Christmas, and be happy in the knowledge that it will give perfect satisfaction at many future festivals.

The experience of everybody supports the wisdom of early shopping for Christmas. Our holiday lines of merchandise are now more complete than ever before at this date—and your friends to be remembered are known. The better selections and the more leisure possible now make early holiday buying a pleasure. Many people are already busy with their Christmas shopping lists. This store is much more conspicuously than ever before the recognized headquarters for Christmas goods.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

"To Bloomingdales' again for Christmas shopping." That's the byword of the multitude of practical people who know that this all-year-round store is always to be implicitly relied upon at holiday times—its workings are as smooth as brains and experience can make them, and so Christmas "shopping worry" is unknown to its patrons.—Bloomingdales, New York, N. Y.

As beautiful with lights and flowers and decorations as the cramfull stocks would permit is the "Sisson" store just now. Large stocks are of vast importance, of course. Every one that has to do with Christmas goods, and few have not, is just as full of good things as possible. The pretty things and useful articles are themselves decorations and nothing could be more interesting.—Sisson Bros.-Welden Co., Binghamton.

Enormous stocks constantly passing in and out of the big store. "You keep turning your stocks so rapidly that nothing ever remains long enough to lose the lustre of its freshness," remarked a visitor the other day. That's true. We don't believe in lingering conditions. We operate during the Christmas season as we do throughout the other periods of the year. Stocks must sell rapidly. And they do! We have what the greatest number of people want, and we price everything in a way that meets with the promptest approbation of the largest number of shoppers. That policy has been followed unswervingly ever since the store opened. Moreover, we extend to our customers every shopping comfort and facility. If any fault crops up we endeavor immediately to rectify it. If it escapes our observation for the time being we feel under obligation to whosoever brings it to our attention. By so doing we are constantly making our organization and service more perfect. We go into the world's best markets for the best merchandise. We spare no money to make the store attractive. We stop at nothing legitimate to make you a firmer friend and a more frequent patron. A visit to The Siegel Cooper store at any time will readily convince you.—Seigel Cooper Co., New York.

Holiday goods, are coming fast now—almost the entire second floor of the Main street section is devoted to this display. Come as often as you will and see them. Goods laid by for you. Early selecting is desirable.—B. & O. Gann, Pueblo, Colo.

"If I had my own way about gifts" I would give to all people just what they want. If I couldn't tell what they want from their tastes I would ask them. I would never give a cigar clip to a man who doesn't use tobacco, nor a stop watch to one who never saw a horse-race. I would give clothes, shoes, hats, if I thought people needed them—without the slightest hesitation. I would measure his old coat around the chest and pick out a "house coat." And I would look at the number inside his shoes, so that his slippers would fit when they came home. I would stuff the stockings of children with warm wraps and dresses and underwear, rather than with sweets. Santa Claus attends to the toys and candies. I would like gloves and neckwear and collars and shirts, and I would see that every one got a dress pattern or two, of cotton, wool or silk—for they can be made up whenever wanted. I would give to every one at least one book. I would give jewelry to those who can afford to wear it, and watches to those who are habitually behind time. To that golf fiend—I mean friend—of mine I would send one of those Angora jackets—and get it now before they are gone. To that girl who plays all day next door on the old piano I would give a new Chickering or Vose; and to every child I would give some sort of musical instrument, for I believe every one should learn to play something. Besides, it would keep them out of mischief. If I had my own way I would have Christmas every day in the year—making everything bought a gift to some one.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Some gift suggestions: For a sweetheart—The diamond ring and your heart, too, a locket with the miniature in it, a dainty picture in a gold frame, stylish stationery, a gift clock for her bedroom, silver articles for her writing desk. For a wife—A new watch, diamond eardrops (coming in again), cut glass pieces, or sterling silver for the table, hand-painted china, fine opera glasses, silver buckle belt, that diamond ring she never got.—C. L. Byrd & Company, Memphis, Tenn.

CIGARS AND TOBACCO

Christmas cigars for ladies to give the gentlemen. When it comes to buying cigars for gift purposes, we're prepared to meet you on the ground floor with a big collection of popular brands in boxes of all sizes. Ladies need not hesitate in the least from buying here, for we're familiar with the tastes of New Bedford smokers and carry a stock of most selected brands. Prices from 50c to $5 the box.—Brown's Drug Store, New Bedford, Mass.

There is nothing that will please a man better than a box of fine-flavored cigars—or a beautiful pipe. Every man wishes a good pipe and every time he smokes he will thank the giver; the better the cigars or pipe, the greater the thanks. Our stock is carefully selected to please particular men, and ladies can safely trust to our judgment in making selections. Although ladies do not smoke, they enjoy the delicate fragrance of a good cigar. The aroma of our splendid brands is most agreeable to the smoker and to those around him. We carry in stock every variety of pipes from the penny clay to the elaborately carved meerschaum. We save you money if you make your Xmas selections here. Every dollar spent in our store reaches the limit of its purchasing power. Come in and make your selections now. Ladies—watch our advertisement for Friday and Saturday. There will be big bargains.—The Brunswick Cigar Co., Allentown, Pa.

Why Uncle Sam is thankful is no puzzle, for he smokes Miles Standish special cigars, the best in the country. For an after Thanksgiving dinner smoke they are just the thing, giving that delightful sensation where good digestion waits on appetite.—R. B. Kook & Co., Fargo, N. D.

✓ "First come, first served." Such an offer isn't made every day, can't last forever. But to introduce the General Hartranft cigar—fine quality and a good smoke every way—it will be sold for a nickel. When you try it you'll say it's worth more. This asks only the trial—you'll do the rest. 25, 50 and 100 boxes for sale at all stores.—C. E. Blair & Sons, Makers, Harrisburg, Pa.

Women needn't be timid about giving cigars. There's a brand that can be depended upon to please the smoker, no matter how particular he may be. Many women want to give cigars for Christmas gifts, but are undecided because they know so little about tobacco. Women are urged to note the significance of the long record of the famous King Oscar cigars, 5c. Fifteen years of steadily increasing popularity—such a service is worthy of confidence. Fifteen years of regular quality, of satisfaction, of keen enjoyment. Sure!—any man will welcome a box of these good nickel cigars.—Harrisburg, Pa.

There's real satisfaction is smoking Hyperion Perfectos—the man who has not tried them has missed a real treat. Hyperion Perfectos are made from the very finest quality of Havana tobacco, which is called in the market Vuelta Abajo. The wrapper is Connecticut broad leaf, making the most satisfying combination you could wish for. Why not ask for Hyperion Perfectos to-day and enjoy a really good smoke?—J. Kilfeather, New Haven, Conn.

The El Toros now on the market are finer in quality than ever, because of the unusual excellence of this year's crop in Porto Rico, only the best selections of which are used to make the El Toro. Made in a thoroughly modern factory, with facilities and methods unequaled by any other manufacturer. El Toro cigars are unquestionably the finest 5-cent cigars Porto Rico has ever produced. Every El Toro cigar is now branded so you can be sure you get the genuine.—Porto Rican-American Tobacco Co., St. Paul.

Each leaf of tobacco that enters into the manufacture of this cigar is treated by a process of sweating that reduces the remaining nicotine to a minimum. Result—you can smoke all the Taco cigars you want without experiencing that "sleepy stupor."—The Tracy & Avery Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

From a crop of tobacco as fine as any grown in the world, the tobacco is specially blended so as to form a most delicate and delicious smoke. The cigars are handmade in a clean up-to-date factory. Rigby's Dolly Dollars.—Rigby's, Mansfield, Ohio.

A delicious blend of Havana tobaccos, silky imported Sumatra wrapper, and expert workmanship make this a most enjoyable cigar and big value for the price.—F. G. Wilcox, Rome, N. Y.

This is one cigar you can be sure is Porto Rican, made in Porto Rico, entirely of Porto Rican tobacco. For years its high quality has been a prime factor in popularizing Porto Rican cigars among discriminating smokers. The El Toro cigars now being marketed are particularly recommended because of the unusual excellence of this year's Porto Rican tobacco crop—from only the choicest selections of which El Toros are made. El Toro is to-day the best cigar Porto Rico can produce for five cents. There's a band on the genuine.—Porto Rican American Tobacco Company, Tacoma, Wash.

Here is a clear Havana cigar at five cents that we want you to judge side by side with regular Key West brands that have sold for years at 3 for 25 cents and 10 cents straight. Cuba-Roma, all-Havana cigar, five cents, is a new and sensational value in the cigar business. Where, outside of national cigar stands, can you get a large, well-rolled, full-weight cigar, made entirely of fine, imported Havana leaf, and thoroughly seasoned for five cents? That is what we sell you in Cuba-Roma. National cigar stands save you the unnecessary middlemen's profits made on the ordinary Key West brands.—National Cigar Stands, Schenectady, N. Y.

An ideal cigar for the refined taste and a slim pocketbook is the General Hartranft. You get as much satisfaction in fragrance and solid enjoyment for five cents from this well made excellent cigar as from many others that are higher priced. When you want a good, moderate priced smoke try a General Hartranft. All dealers.—C. E. Blair & Sons, Harrisburg, Pa.

How do you know a good cigar? You can now buy cigars with the maker's guarantee on every box—a mark of merit that distinguishes scientific methods systematically applied to cigar production—a mark that stands for improved quality—better, riper tobacco, thoroughly natural and actually blended—smooth, even-smoking cigars, absolutely clean—without increased cost.—American Cigar Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Why Hyperion Perfectos cost 10 cents straight. First—The Havana tobacco used for filler is the finest grown on the island of Cuba—known to the trade as Vuelta Abajo, crop of 1904. Second—The binder and wrapper are carefully selected from the best Connecticut broad leaf crop of 1904. Third—Hyperion Perfectos are five inches long and weigh as much as imported cigars costing twenty-five cents each. Fourth—Every Hyperion Perfecto is hand made by the most expert cigar makers known to the craft under the most perfect sanitary factory conditions. Fifth—Hyperion Perfectos 10 cents straight are unequaled in flavor and aroma. A trial will prove to you all we claim for them. For sale at all leading cigar stands. Manufactured by J. P. Kilfeather, New Haven, Conn.

You'll enjoy the cigars you buy at our counter. We sell reliable brands only. We keep our cigars at just the right temperature, keeping them always in perfect smoking condition. We suit your cigar taste exactly, for we sell everything in cigars the smoker can think of or need.—The Caldwell & Bloor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

Smokers make our cigar case your supply headquarters and you will always get a nice moist cigar—one that smokes like you want it to smoke. All the popular brands.—Reynolds' Drug Co., Denison, Tex.

Cigar talks. Uniformity of quality is the one great feature of the Hyperion Perfecto cigar. Every cigar in each box is as near alike as human hands can make them. We buy our Connecticut broad leaf and Havana tobacco in large quantities, far in advance. Even now we are still using 1904 crop which is particularly fine. Hyperion Perfecto cigars at ten cents. Will please the most particular and exacting smoker. Stop in any cigar stand and ask for Hyperion Perfecto. Insist upon having it. Your judgment will prove all we say about the superior quality.—Kilfeather, New Haven, Conn.

We have taken every odd lot and box of Key West and imported cigars in our stock and price-marked them down to cost or less. And cost or less with us means what it says. In some instances cigars that are real old—"storekeepers"—the price cut is as much as 40 per cent. below net cost. Seeing is believing—there's a plain white chalk pricemark on each separate lot—step in and paw them over. As our stock never contains trash this sale means good cigars (but old) at real bargain prices.—Edw. E. Hall & Son, New Haven, Conn.

You can scour the town and you will not find a cigar for five cents that comes anywhere near the Kook's Templar for quality, flavor or genuine satisfaction. When you want a gentleman's smoke at a medium price, try one of our Kook's Templar 5-cent cigars.—R. B. Kook & Co., Fargo, N. D.

"Joe" sells the Barrister cigar at less than anyone else does. For good reasons he doesn't advertise the price. Maybe if he did he wouldn't be able to offer you these cigars in the future. But take a tip from Joe, the Cutter, and buy Barrister and Little Barrister cigars in boxes of twenty-five and fifty at a price that will surprise you. Do you understand? For further information call on Joe Graziano, Trenton, N. J.

You ought to knock when you get a poor cigar—and you don't know who made it—how are you going to avoid the other brands of the same manufacture? Don't you see that there is no way to prevent dishonest or incompetent manufacturers from repeatedly imposing on you by offering you unidentified brands of different names?—American Cigar Co., Atlanta, Ga.

There are intervals day and night when you feel the need of a short smoke. Between lunch and business. Between office and home. Between trains. Between calls. Between acts. Between courses. Cigars are too long a smoke—and cost too much to throw away. It is just for these little intervals that Prince George Cadets are made. They give you all the delicious flavor and aroma of a choice domestic cigar. They are positively the best little cigar we have ever known at anything like the price.—United Cigar Store Co., New York, N. Y.

We're going to take you into our confidence and tell you just how we can afford to sell these Clear Havana cigars for 4c, 5c and 6c each. Heineman Bros., makers, Baltimore, Md., shipped these cigars to a local firm. The case was lost in transit and the Chicago & Alton railroad settled with the shippers. Later the case turned up in the railroad freight house and the C. & A. sold us the cigars to get back some of the money they had to pay the consignor for the loss of the case. The cigars are in perfect condition—couldn't be better if they'd been kept in an air tight vault.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Whenever you buy a Bristol you get a cigar that is all Havana filler. Reliable in every way. Call for the Bristol and you can't go wrong.—Walter S. Allen, Bangor, Me.

You may be a good judge of cigars and still be taken in on a purchase. You can't be blamed for being nipped once, but it's your own fault if you don't profit by the lesson of experience. Why are you perfectly safe in coming to us for your cigars? We handle good cigars. By this we mean not only that we handle good brands but we keep our cigars in good condition, neither too damp nor too dry. The condition of a cigar has much to do with its smoking properties. We study this and never hear any complaints.—Mackenzie, Pictou, N. S.

Well, Mr. Smoker, after you have tried all the cigars on the market, come to one of the Sun's Broadway stores and get a good smoke. You'll wonder why you haven't been here before. We want you to try a Valley Sweet cigar. It will please you immensely.—The Owl Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Try us! We feel confident we can suit your particular taste. Don't labor under the fantastic delusion that because you are smoking a fairly good cigar there is no chance for improvement. We've got cigars to suit all mankind.—The Nete Cigar Store, St. Joseph, Mo.

"Concentrated Solace" little symphonettes. From the touch of the match to the last lingering whiff they are exquisitely sweet. The more you know about tobacco the more you will like them.—Frankle Bros., Youngstown, Ohio.

If you smoke and desire a Havana-filled cigar and an enjoyable smoke at a price that makes smoking an inexpensive luxury, the Sun's suggest the Santanola Crooks.—Sun Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

The reason why we are gaining trade every day is not hard to understand—our cigars have stood the test—our stock is kept perfectly—our method of doing business is right and we are daily adding to our list of appreciative and satisfied customers.—The Nete Cigar Store, St. Joseph, Mo.

Sunday's not Sunday without good cigars—You'd be as uneasy as a fish out of water, if you couldn't put your hand on a generous supply of smokers. Might as well have the best, while you're about it. The "Best Cigars" are not expensive when bought here. We have prices on cigars that are peculiar to this store. Here are two splendid brands, either of which will make the day a day of rest and enjoyment for you, if you smoke them.—Schlotterbeck & Foss Co., Portland, Me.

Talking about cigars we would say—and stand by our statement—that for a mellow, ripe flavored, palate tickling, all round satisfying smoke you can't pick up a better cigar for the price—10 cents the one, $2 the box of 25—than the Miles Standish. Large assertion with larger proof by thousands of men who have tested the Miles Standish.—R. B. Kook & Co., Fargo, N. D.

The tobacco is an expert selection from the finest growths that Cuba produces, the famous Vuelta Abajo leaf. The selections are blended in the leaf, and lie ripening for two years before they reach the cigarmakers, resulting in blend absolutely harmonious and uniform. The cigars are made in Tampa by expert workmen—Cubans and Spaniards who have, through the skill inherited from generations of cigarmakers, perfected by their own long practice, become known as "Regalia Workmen," the proudest title in the craft.—United Cigar Stores Co., New York, N. Y.

We know of several good reasons why you should select them here. We might mention that our stock is large, that we have many brands, sizes and colors to select from; that our salesmen know how to interpret your wishes; that they are specialists in their line of business; that we deliver to any place and at any time you say; that we aim to satisfy you in every way, and that our prices are consistent with the quality offered. Then let's get acquainted—the benefit will be mutual.—Goldberg, Brown & Co., San Francisco, Cal.

Do you smoke? If so, have you tried our Francis Wilson cigar? A regular 10c seller, but now selling for 5c. If you have tried them you are a regular customer and if you have not, come in and get one and you will be a customer. The ladies who are in the habit of buying hubby a box of cigars can make no mistake in buying the Francis Wilson. A box of 50 for $1.90. We sell them this way 'cause we are selling the kind of cigars you're wanting at prices you're tickled to pay.—Tucker-Jonz, Denison.

The wrapper of a cigar does not tell you the quality of the filler. But we tell you that selected long Havana filler is all that is used in "First Consul" cigars. After you have smoked one you won't have to be told. The flavor and fragrance will be such that you cannot possibly mistake the quality of the cigar except that you may think it a much higher priced one than it is.—Exchange Drug Co., Montgomery.

Most everybody who has ever smoked imported Havana cigars has smoked Bock Panetelas—no other cigar imported from Havana is known to as many people. It is a very mild—fine flavored, occasional smoke, desirable for use when larger and heavier cigars are unsuitable. The leaf of which this cigar is made is grown on the plantations operated by this company and is now strictly uniform in quality, so that there is no variation in the different shipments as received from Havana.—Havana Tobacco Co., New York, N. Y.

The American Cigar Company's scientific system of handling the tobacco leaf has made it possible to guarantee absolute uniformity of quality in every one of the cigars it produces. The American Cigar Company knows where its tobacco comes from. It maintains a great buying and storing service in each tobacco-growing district; and buys exactly the tobacco it wants. Its tobacco is all harvested under the direct supervision of its own experts, and the plants are cured in its own storing houses on the plantations. The new two-year fermenting process is what gives to the cigar the best smoking qualities. It extracts every last trace of the original harsh greenness and develops to perfection the aromatic fragrance of choicest selected leaf. The blending process combines in an actual blend the characteristic goodness of each required variety of leaf. The particular brand that suits your taste to-day will be exactly the same next year—in strength, flavor and grade.—Metropolitan Cigar Co., New York, N. Y.

The Japanese have had the best of the disagreement simply because they were thoroughly prepared for it. The tobacco used in Royal Bengals is prepared by a method which requires two years to complete. It reaches the factory ripened, mellowed, enriched and refined by wholly new processes of fermenting and blending that intermingle all its aromatic qualities and bring them out to perfection.—Metropolitan Tobacco Co., New York, N. Y.

A corner in cigars might be a fitting title for our story, but we won't claim it. Nevertheless, we have about as clever a monopoly on incomparable five cent smokes as it is possible to get. New ones and old ones. Let us serve you.—Ostrom's, Binghamton, N. Y.

There's many a bad cigar on the inside of a Sumatra wrapper. There's many a good cigar that never saw a Sumatra wrapper. Sumatra wrappers cost a good deal—don't add one iota to the smoking qualities of the cigar—simply make the cigar look pretty.—Shryock-Johnson Mfg. Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Ask the cigar man what is the best 5c cigar. If all he cares for is profit, there's no telling what he will answer, but if he wants your patronage and is a wise man he will surely answer "Spanaflora."—Jordan, Gibson & Brown, Memphis, Tenn.

Our cigars are embodiment of all that makes smoking a pleasure. The realization of the smoker's expectations. The perfection of conscientious effort.—Barnes, Smith & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

This cigar is just as good as it can be made. To improve it, it would be necessary to improve on Nature's choicest product in Cuba; to improve on the best manufacturers' scientific methods of curing and blending; and to find better workmen than the life-trained Cubans and Spaniards, who roll these cigars in Tampa.—United Cigar Stores Co., New York, N. Y.

Just as well as ordinary ones that are sometimes injurious, if it is a mere matter of economy with you. We sell fine cigars at less than the average poor ones cost. Take these smooth, easy smoking, fine flavored Key West Clear Havana Cigars—El Estivo, made by one of the famed factories of Tampa—and imagine them at a little over 6c apiece!—Abram & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A little smoke, but one that will save your money. There is a whole lot of satisfaction in a small roll of tobacco when it is blended like the Venus. If we knew of any five center to compare with it we'd ask you to make the comparison. Every dealer who handles good smokes can sell you a Venus—5c.—Geo. W. Barton's Sons, Owego, N. Y.

Our pet hobby is to be able to hand over our counters just what every man likes best in smoke. The result is that you can get what you want at our stores, either one at a time or in large quantities, and as they should be—moist, fresh and fragrant.—Ostrom's Cigar Stores, Binghamton, N. Y.

A cultured smoke is the Capdevila cigar. A cigar that adds pleasure to the time one appropriates for its smoking—in its unusual quality and flavor—it has an individuality that at once creates an impression of preference.—Hall, Luhrs & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Giving better cigars for the money. The price part is important, but it isn't everything, and in fact it is the easiest part of our duty to the public. Our application to the cigar business of the modern principles of direct-buying direct selling—cutting out intermediate profits and utilizing all the advantages of an enormous outlet—makes the giving of better quality-for-price a simple matter. And the shield stands for that, whenever you see it.—United Cigar Stores Co., New York, N. Y.

The kind that makes a man risk burning his lips to get the last whiff. They are the "come again" sort. Try one and you'll buy more.—Austin, Nichols & Co., New York.

Lord Vincent means all that is good in a clear Havana cigar. Smoke one or two of them and note the delicate taste, the sweet and mellow fragrance and you'll not wonder at their popularity.—Cobb, Bates & Yerxa, Taunton, Mass.

Put that in your pipe and smoke it. What? "Our Own Mixture," the sweet, fragrant smoking tobacco that has been our pride and the trade favorite for fifteen years.—Sig. Sichel & Co., Portland.

"New Tariff" cigars mean economy. The smoker of five-cent cigars can now enjoy a quality cigar worth ten cents at the price of his regular smokes. The new commercial treaty between the United States and Cuba did it. The reduction of the duty on Cuban grown tobacco made it possible. Remember "New Tariff" and get a cigar of rich aroma and fragrant bouquet. Smoke one today—to-morrow you will "hanker" for another. The "New Tariff" cigar is the product of a great system that regulates every step from the planting of the seed to the sealing of the box. Above all else the scientific modern methods of this system produce a perfect blend of the special characteristics of each tobacco combined in the cigar.—Wm. A. Stickney Cigar Co., Kansas, Mo.

There's luxury in the smoke of a Capdevila cigar; so much flavor—it tastes good down to the last, and then it is such an easy smoker so nicely made.—Hall, Tuhrs & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Scientists have recently proclaimed that the cigarette is the least injurious form in which tobacco may be smoked. However that may be, we have all the new ideas in cigarettes as well as tobacco. A novelty shown in our windows is cigarettes put up in glass tubes—so kept free from air or dust from the instant made until smoked—5 cents apiece. Also have the same cigarettes in 4 inch length without glass tubes for 10 cents apiece.—Ostrom's Cigar Stores, Binghamton, N. Y.

When you want a good smoke but haven't time for a long one, buy a Venus, five cents. In this little roll of fragrance, you will find everything for fragrance and nothing to displease. If not acquainted with our Venus, try it.—Geo. W. Barton's Sons, Owego, N. Y.

You are the judge of what sort of a smoke suits your taste. But no matter what it is you'll find it here, or if it isn't in stock we'll get it for you.—Smoke Shop, Waterbury, Conn.

This size is one of the very choicest products of Havana, and has only recently been brought to this market in sufficient quantities to give it wide acquaintance. For many years it has enjoyed the highest degree of favor among the comparatively few connoisseurs who had learned its exquisite qualities. It has long been especially popular with navy officers, the Ynclan Perfecto being the ward-room smoke par excellence. We are now enabled to offer a complete line of sizes in this brand, in cigars especially selected for their choice color and workmanship.—The Royal Co., New York City.

Everything that makes a smoke better, enters into the manufacture of "Anna Held" cigars. The tobacco is selected in the seed; planted, cultivated and harvested under the direction of experts—cured, sorted, mellowed, graded, fermented and blended especially for Anna Held cigar—5c. The product of the American Cigar Company's exclusive system which insures absolute uniformity of quality and flavor in the millions of them which are made. You save nearly half the former cost of a good cigar by buying the "Anna Held" and get an exquisite smoke.—Platter Tobacco Co., Dallas, Texas.

The selection of tobacco takes time and great care—the conditions of its growth, the soil, the planting, and the cultivation, must all be considered. I have studied tobacco from the seed to the cigar. I have a thorough knowledge of the qualities grown on the different plantations in the Manicaragua district of Cuba, where the best tobaccos are produced. It is from the best of these plantations that I buy the filler of my Pharaoh cigar. I was the first manufacturer in Canada to use Manicaragua tobacco. It proved such a winner that the tobacco agents in New York sell thousands of bales of tobacco under that name that was never within one hundred miles of the district. I visit these plantations every season, and personally select the tobacco I buy. The growers there call me a tobacco crank because I am so careful and particular in the selection of my tobacco. I would rather be thought a crank than jeopardize the quality of my Pharaoh cigar. I know that every time you smoke a Pharaoh cigar you will thank me for being a tobacco crank—that is full recompense for my trouble and care.—J. Bruce Payne, Granby, Que., Can.

Pay your bets with Turf cigars. No cigar ever gave such universal satisfaction as the Turf has done, and is now doing. Everyone is perfectly made. A trial will please you immensely.—Hou-singer, St. Thomas, Ont.

Well, now Mr. Smoker, after you have tried all the cigars on the market, just come here and get a good smoke. You'll wonder why you hadn't been here before.—Eyler, Kenton, Ohio.

Did you ever smoke a Bristol?—If not, try a quarter's worth the very next time you invest at the cigar counter.—Walter S. Allen, Bangor, Me.

If you can appreciate hustling enterprise and up-to-now business methods, sprinkled with courteous treatment, and a store chock full of fine cigars kept perfect, under the most approved sanitary conditions, the Nete cigar store, 615 Edmond street, should command the patronage of those who are particular what they smoke.—The Nete Cigar Co., St. Joseph, Mo.

The vacation trips are certainly delightful, but to the smoker none are complete without his cigar case is filled with good cigars. Take with you a box or two of the well-known Brownie's Perfecto Cigars. They will add greatly to your enjoyment. They possess a rich Havana taste and a fragrant aroma which distinguishes them from all other cigars and satisfy the most critical smoker.—Buffalo Cigar Co., Buffalo.

Solid comfort is only to be had by smoking the Province Cigar. Try one and be convinced.—Providence Cigar Co., Victoria, B. C.

In ye old Colonial days everyone smoked a pipe. Nowadays everyone smokes the Havana Sprig Cigar.—Galesburg, Ill.

A good cigar is enjoyed by every man. We have the cigars and want you to enjoy them. If you haven't been smoking this kind you had better come here and try some of our choice brands.—Eyler Tobacco Co., Kenton, Ohio.

This cigar always receives a hearty welcome. It is a pretty smoker, good shape, tempting looking and well made of the cleanest, brightest, best tobacco grown. It possesses a mild, rich, fragrant aroma of such exceptional qualities that it cannot be excelled. A halo of satisfaction gleams from the face of every man who smokes this cigar.—Burg Cigar Co., New Elm, Minn.

Cigars.—When you want a good cigar you'll always find it here. The very best pool and billiard tables in the city. Also good candies.—The Brunswick, Kenton, Ohio.

J. Pierpont Morgan and John D. Rockefeller may pay bigger money for their cigars than the average smoker, but they can't enjoy a better or sweeter smoke than is offered to the man of moderate means in the Bachelor 5c. cigar. He will be content and contentment is better than riches.—Jno. E. Tyler & Co., Pueblo, Col.

A man is known by the company he keeps. Men are in good company when smoking our cigars.—Robey, Kenton, O.

You will find among these cigars almost every shape and size a "particular" smoker looks for. Value in every smoke.—Reid, Yeomans & Cubit, New York.

It's the difference between the ordinary cigar store and ours that stamps ours as being "up-to-now."—The Nete Cigar Store, St. Joseph, Mo Sun's summer for smokers.—While on your vacation we couldn't suggest a cigar that would give more genuine satisfaction than the Cuesta Rey & Co.'s.—The Sun Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

The more you know about cigars the better it is for us—the better it is for you. If you are not a judge of cigars you must trust the manufacturer. Here is where reputation comes in play. The Brownie's perfecto cigar is made by a large successful house, whose reputation for producing high grade goods has long been established. No other cigar is enjoyed so universally as this popular brand and its high standard is always maintained.—Buffalo Cigar Co., Buffalo.

More men than ever smoke the Roger II cigar. It's a cigar that's always smoked to the finish—it's so mild and delicious that the experienced smoker likes to get "all there is in it."—The Owl Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Little Opera Cigars.—Yes, they're little fellows, about three and three-quarters inches in length, but they're made of 10-cent cigar quality stock. Hand-made, and just the right size for a short smoke.—Gedney's, East Orange, N. J.

Be careful that you don't burn your good money for bad cigars. The only way to be sure about it is to buy your cigars, cigarettes and tobacco at this establishment. You'll never get left—You'll always be put right.—J. P. Sebastian, Logansport, Ill.

Cigars that make a man risk burning his lips to get the last whiff. That's the kind of cigars we sell. Our patent case keeps them in perfect condition, not too moist—not too dry—just right. We would like to have you try our cigars.—Andrew R. Cunningham, Detroit, Mich.

The man who smokes and smokes well and appreciates the best is the man we're after. Try us once—our Broadway stores.—The Sun Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Talking about cigars we would say—and stand by our statement—that for a mellow, ripe flavored, palate tickling, all 'round satisfying smoke you can't pick up a better cigar for the price—5 cents the one—than ours.—C. E. Bair & Sons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Little Opera Cigars.—A little cigar, about three and three-quarters inches in length, but the quality is extra fine. Everything about them, the filler, binder, wrapper and workmanship, is 10c quality—the small size only, enabling the working up of small stock, is accountable for their low cost.—Gedney's, East Orange, N. J.

"Uncle Oscar."—He's a good one when he gets one of our Uncle Oscar cigars—and got it at a price that he can get a box if he wishes without feeling the expense. Every one admires the fine workmanship, rich flavor and general enjoyable qualities of our "Uncle Oscar" cigars. It is the best five-cent cigar made.—Hene & Co., Omaha, Neb.

If you see a gentleman smiling to himself in the cars, going into town about 8 or 9 a.m., you can bet dollars to doughnuts, he has half a dozen of McCaffrey's genuine Porto Rico cigars in his vest pocket—and he's just counting the minutes till he gets to the office to enjoy the same.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia, Pa.

All are satisfied with their smoke. They couldn't have better grounds for contentment. The flavor and odor that come from the finest leaf tobacco are never wanting in our cigars. Old smokers accept our specials as the models by which all smoking quality is measured. Nickels and dimes obtain great consideration here.—Robey Tobacco Co., Kenton, O.

Smoke up, fellows! Here are some cigars worth the while, and something good to chew.—J. T. Cowan, Crowley, La.

Yes! they are good, is what every man says with each puff of a Bachelor cigar. They are the best for the money that can be procured, and for five cents you can get more enjoyment from this luxurious smoke than from any cigar made. Try a Bachelor cigar and you will never smoke any other.—Jno. E. Tyler & Co., Pueblo, Col.

Ladies don't smoke, but you can buy choice cigars in attractive packages for the men folks, for $1 and upward at The Browne Pharmacy, New Bedford, Mass.

An enormous quantity of Sumatra wrapper mixed Havana filler Cigars at less than cost of tobacco. We bought the entire surplus stock of high grade domestic Cigars from a prominent local manufacturer at an enormous concession in price, and now we are enabled to offer two big specials which will startle the cigar smoking populace.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

If you are going out in the air, boating, driving or playing some game, you do not need the finest cigar—in fact, it's a shame to smoke them. A smooth drawing, sweet blend will taste better. It is after dinner that a pure Havana speaks of quality and the refinement of enjoyment itself. Now we have cigars for all at most pleasing little prices in the city.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

When starting for business put a few Bachelors in your cigar case, and one in your mouth. The one you smoke will make you cheerful, those you give away make your friends and patrons sweet tempered.—Tyler & Co., Pueblo, Col.

It's no puzzle to pick out the man who smokes our special 5 cent cigar. Signs of nervous prostration are not depicted on his countenance, but rather self-satisfaction and content, for he knows a good thing when he sees it. Our Bachelor 5 center is all right every way; but, if you like something even better, nothing can fill the bill more completely than our Lancaster at 10 cents.—J. E. Tyler & Co., Pueblo, Col.

Choice Cigars.—When you want a good smoke, try some of my selected brands.—E. E. Wright, New Bedford, Mass.

To Smokers: You know about Martin's Cigar Store on Broadway, don't you? Well, I have bought it, had it remodeled, and am now prepared to supply you with the best line of cigars, tobacco and pipes in the city at the right prices.—S. H. Williamson, Troy, N. Y.

True joy—a nice girl and a good cigar—you find the girl, we'll furnish the cigar. If you smoke the Lancaster cigar you'll be happy whether you have the girl or not. There is no better ten-cent cigar made for those who enjoy a really good smoke.—J. E. Tyler & Co., Pueblo.

Known Cigars.—You never bought cigars so low as we sell them. We don't sell cigars of unknown quality; every item in this list for to-morrow's selling is a well known popular smoker.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Webster Cigars.—Best of Key West Cigars, and we sell them to you at wholesale prices. Every good smoker knows that the Webster cigars are the best Key West cigars in the country. They are fine and silky. They are fragrant and not too strong. There are many sizes, many styles, and of course many prices. Here are a few choice ones, and the prices.—The Lathrop Co., Hartford, Conn.

Cigars that are cheap.—The busiest, fastest growing cigar store you'll come across. It's because we sell known cigars at unknown prices.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Samuel Smiles, Select, Columbia Club and Margaret Deland Cigars.—A smoker's joy is complete when he uses one of these full quality cigars. They have the pure tone of a cigar well made from first class tobacco. They are cigars which give to the smoker a feeling of pleasure and contentment. For five cents you get a smoke that is a day dream, a reverie.—H. F. Brown, Crookstown, Minn.

The lion and the lily will submit their differences to The Hague. We submit to the smoking public the question of quality of the Bristol cigar. Many brands are as good, but none better.—Walter S. Allen, Bangor, Me.

A smoker's joy is complete when he uses one of these full quality cigars. They have the pure tone of a cigar well made from first class tobacco. They are cigars which give to the smoker a feeling of pleasure and contentment. For five cents you get a smoke that is a day dream, a reverie.—H. F. Brown, Crookstown, Minn.

In domestic cigars I carry a full line of the best brands, at all prices, and can please the most fastidious smoker. No matter what you want in high grade cigars I can suit you. The popularity of my place with the most particular smokers is the best possible evidence that I sell the finest cigars.—C. T. Fitzpatrick, Montgomery, Ala.

You will, we are sure, agree with us that a box of cigars as a remembrance is always in good taste. Thackery—you will remember—causes a cigar to be the cementer of friendship. If, therefore, you are thinking of sending something to your friends at Christmas—what can be more acceptable than a box of good cigars? You see if that box contains one hundred cigars your friends will have occasion to think kindly of you one hundred times. (Turkey lasts one day.) May we not send you a few boxes for your inspection on the terms below named?—Martin Brothers, London, England.

If you haven't the price of a Jules Verne cigar, go borrow the money, for they satisfy.—The Denison Grocer Company, Denison, Tex.

Any port in a storm is what the lover of a good cigar thinks when he has to purchase a poor cigar at a medium price. All he wants is a "tip" of where to get a first-class cigar for the same money that he will pay for an inferior grade. We will give it to you free. Try a Bachelor at 5 cents and you will never smoke any other.—Jno. E. Tyler & Co., Pueblo, Col.

Behind the times? Certainly we are—we admit it freely—we are at least thirty years behind the times and we are glad of it—so are our customers. We have from the very beginning stood stock still with both feet planted like an obstinate mule, when we found the so-called progressive dealers and manufacturers sweetening and chemically changing what had originally been given to man as a solace and comfort, an anodyne and a fast friend. Honest tobacco, just as naturally provided, was what our fathers smoked, and whether Connecticut, Virginia or Havana the flavor was pure and typical, satisfying to the expectations and appropriate to the label. We refused to enter this new field and so plead guilty to the indictment with no apology to offer.

Don't you think our cigars, domestic and otherwise, come nearer to your ideal than if we changed and scented an inferior article into some semblance of a higher grade?

Most of our customers think so and therefore are willing to be with us behind the times.—Jos. Jonas, New York.

Selected cigars. Success lies in selection—and choice selection means painstaking experience. A simple explanation of the fact that Waldorf-Astoria cigars are favorites with discriminating smokers.—The Waldorf-Astoria Cigar Co., New York, N. Y.

Straiton & Storm's Owl cigar. When you want the real genuine Owl—made of selected leaf, mellowed by the tropical suns and blended by the most expert makers—it is usual to deposit the customary fee of five cents on the cigar man's counter for each and every Owl you buy.—George L. Storm & Co., New York, N. Y.

The stock of cigars we carry regularly to supply the box trade demand would swamp three or four ordinary cigar stores, so there can be no comparing this with the ordinary cigar "emporium." This is more in the nature of a clearing house, able to distribute vast quantities, and when vast quantities of cigars or any other merchandise are purchased the cost is so little above actual cost of production that we are practically on a level with the largest manufacturers.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

An enormous quantity of Sumatra wrapper long mixed Havana filler Cigars at less than cost of tobacco. We bought the entire surplus stock of high grade domestic Cigars from a prominent local manufacturer at an enormous concession in price, and now we are enabled to offer two big specials which will startle the cigar smoking populace.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

A clearing sale of choice aromatic cigars seldom comes within the reach of smokers without instantly causing brisk all-day selling in our popular cigar store.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

Just get it out of your head, you particular smoker, that we cannot do just as wonderful things in the cigar line as we do in any other branch of our business. If you are doubtful and think we sell only the cigars that the fair sex innocently give you at Christmas or on your birthday, just try some of this lot and you will recover from your mistake to your own good. They are clear Havana cigars, made by a manufacturer who makes the fine, imported, smooth, soothing smokes, Cuban hand-made, that generally sell for high prices. Dissolving partnership sends us this less than cost.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

During the first three months of the present year we thought the Blackstone cigars were as good as they could possibly be made; but we had a large lot of Havana tobacco in Cuba which we have recently imported. We are now blending a large percentage of this in combination with our other choice Havana. These goods are on sale generally, and we are not afraid to put them in competition with any fifteen cent cigar on the market. Warranted clear Havana filler and fine Sumatra wrapper.—Waitt & Bond, Bangor, Me.

Ever smoke two cigars at one time? It's the only way to judge cigars. Smoke one you know, and the one you want to compare with it, at the same time. That's the way experts judge tobacco.—Herbert D. Shivers, Philadelphia, Pa.

These Porto Rican Brevas are much better than a pipe and more satisfactory than a heavy Havana, as you can smoke more without feeling it injurious to health or pocket.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

That these are the best Porto Rican Cigars we have ever seen is good word of their quality. They come from one of the leading factories on the island; the highest grades of Porto Rican leaf are used in them, and they are made as carefully and particularly as the best cigars sent out from the neighboring island—Cuba. They are distinctly different from any Porto Rican cigars we have shown heretofore.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

In supplying the demands of smokers of all tastes and desires, our task has been a heavy one. For years we have made change after change; adding a brand here, cutting out a brand there, and now, we can consistently say we have the most perfect stock of high-grade cigars in the South.—Sanger Bros., Waco.

Try this Tobacco Shop for your next Cigar and you will continue trying it, for not only will you get the best smoke, but positively save money. The good smoker and the connoisseur all find the greatest satisfaction in their purchases made in this Little Tobacco Shop.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Half of the enjoyment of your coming holiday depends upon the quality of the cigars you take along. Don't run the risk of getting what you want when you get there. We've something special for every taste.—The 14th Street Store, New York.

The favored brand among all good judges of cigars is La Favorencia. Being Cuban hand-made, with a choice Havana filler, wrapped with the finest grade of Havana, they offer an especially sweet smoke. Their quality is always uniform, owing to the skill with which they are rolled, and experience used in selecting the stock.—Cuban Cigar Co., Inc., Spokane, Wash.

Cigars like you like 'em. Our cigars are always so fresh and nice it's no wonder our cigar case is so popular. Make it your headquarters and you will get more pleasure out of the money you spend for cigars. Ask us about some of our special favorites.—The People's Pharmacy, Denison, Texas.

Go around the world cigar hunting and when you taste a Kook's Templar you'll wonder why you traveled so far from home. For the Kook's Templar is a cigar of quality, despite its low price of 5 cents for one, $2.00 for a box of fifty. Settle down to solid enjoyment with a Kook's Templar between your lips.—R. B. Kook & Co., Fargo, N. D.

It's up to you to try our Genl. Hart-ranft cigars—we've done all we could to furnish you fine ones. The tobacco in our cigars is long filler and of the best quality, and the people who roll them thoroughly understand their business. So, as we said before, it's up to you to smoke 'em. If we can succeed in having you make a trial of one cigar, you are very likely to finish the box.—C. E. Bair & Sons, Makers, Harrisburg, Pa.

King Oscar cigars will be as good during 1907 as they were in 1906. This is not buncombe, but real fact. Buying tobacco in carload lots means regular quality—means the same good flavor. A good cigar every time you want a good cigar.—Harrisburg, Pa.

Uniformity of quality is the one great feature of the Hyperion cigar. Every cigar in each box is as near alike as human hands can make them. We buy our Connecticut broad leaf and Havana tobacco in large quantities far in advance. Even now we are still using 1904 crop which is particularly fine.—J. P. Kilfeather, New Haven, Conn.

Six reasons why the Taco cigar is gaining favor with the smokers of Mansfield. Each cigar, after leaving the cigar maker's table, is packed in a cedar box, put under pressure, and must remain in the curing room three months before placing on the market. That's one reason.—Mansfield, Ohio.

A good cigar means a Happy New Year and he who smokes the Duke of Albany special hand made Havana filler Sumatra 5c. cigar cannot fail to receive all the happiness it is possible to get out of good tobacco. Now that nineteen-seven has arrived, turn over that new leaf and smoke only the cigar that you know is of the best uniform quality. If you have not tried the Duke of Albany you do not know what you have missed. Made by Dearstyne Bros., Albany, N. Y.

The tired man's comforter is a little roll of weed scarce six inches long with the magic name tobacco. Since Raleigh's day the civilized world has shared the Indian's delight. Our modest share in the business of bringing peace is the manufacture and supply of General Hart-ranft cigars. From heart to wrapper it's a wholesome, aromatic soother for the man of work, worry and care. Five cents for one.—C. E. Bair & Sons, Makers, Harrisburg, Pa.

CLEANING AND DYEING

Most Brooklyn women know of the excellent work in dyeing and cleaning which we do because we have our own establishment under skilled supervision. We make a specialty of cleaning lace curtains and blankets. We make a specialty of dyeing wool and silk garments in the perfect colors that are absolutely "fast." The work is done promptly—and for very little cost.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

There's no need to wait for a man with a stick to come and beat your carpets—you'll never get your house put back to rights if you do. Just call us over the 'phone, instructing us to call for your carpets and rugs, and in a reasonable time after they are in our hands we will return them to you, cleaned thoroughly, no dust—the color brighter. Don't wait.—Grand Forks Steam Co., Cleaners and Dyers, Grand Forks, N. D.

Remaking dyed carpets has long been a feature with us. We dye your carpet perfectly and if necessary remake it. Use it for another room and save the cost of buying a new carpet. Our dyeing facilities are the best in the world.—Youngtown Laundry, Youngtown, O.

Faded and soiled garments can be dyed and made to look like new—everything dyeable dyed.—Stevenson Bros. Dye Works, Dundee, Scotland.

Soiled curtains cleaned by our process are bright and fresh like new, and perfectly intact. 75c. to $3 per window.—Selected.

House Cleaning is now in progress in earnest. Do not let what is generally considered a disagreeable task, annoy you. No more promiscuous profanity generally accredited to the head of the family under the trying ordeal of setting up stoves and adjusting stove pipes. The hardware man now does this at nominal expense. Perhaps what worries you the most is taking up, re-cleaning and relaying the carpets. We can do all this at a very reasonable price. If you just want us to clean the carpet, we can do that for less. You would be surprised how little it will cost you and also pleased with the first class work done. Let us call and give you an estimate—that will cost you nothing.—Winona Steam Carpet Cleaning Works, Winona, Minn.

Where there are children the money saved in renovating, cleaning, scouring or dyeing their cleanable clothes is a big item in the year's expense account. To reduce it to a minimum and get a maximum of satisfaction with least possible work and worry patronize this establishment.—Davis Steam Dye Works, Scranton, Pa.

We can dye your carpets. Has it ever occurred to you that your carpets and rugs can be successfully dyed and made to look like new? We have been experimenting along this line for the past two years and have perfected a method by which a carpet or rug can be dyed. Sun fades can be nicely covered and the color will be bright and lasting as when new. We have dyed a great many this fall and each and every one has given unbounded satisfaction. With few exceptions the cost of this work will be only 20c per yard. Our dyer will explain it further.—Iowa Steam Laundry Company, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Your ties can be dry cleaned. Don't throw them away because they are soiled and out of shape, just put them in with your laundry and order them dry cleaned. They will be returned looking like new. Now is a good time to have your fall and winter garments cleaned and pressed, ready for use the day you want them. If you wait until that time to have the work done you will find us with a house full of work and unable to attend to your wants promptly. If in looking through your wardrobe you find some garments faded or any of objectionable color bear in mind we are dyers as well as cleaners and can undoubtedly make them of value to you again.—Iowa Steam Laundry Co., Ottumwa, Ia.

The new woman of to-day is she whose garments have been renovated here. She looks just as if she had stepped out of a band-box. From her ostrich feather in the hat down to the hem of her dainty skirt everything looks brand new, yet it is all last season's goods, cleaned or dyed by us to "look different." Well, few beyond herself would know that every article was not new. There is delightful freshness about the clothes that reflects great credit on us.—Smith's Dye Works, Jacksonville, Fla.

CLOTHING—BOYS

To clothe boys economically and well is the object of endeavors of the Burk Store. Untiring efforts to enlarge and increase the clientele of buyers in this section by the soundest and firmest business principles of supplying better garments at a much lower price than can be had elsewhere are emphatically demonstrated in the unusual value placed on sale for Monday special selling.—Burk & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

The boys' clothes question. It's an interesting subject to study and, as a rule, a most difficult problem to solve. We have studied boys' clothes—concluded that boys are "bound to be boys," and that they must have a certain amount of sturdiness, along with the style, in the make of their garments.—U. S. Clothing Co., Denison, Texas.

Mothers, we want you to see our splendid display of suits, top coats and overcoats for big and little boys. Never have we had such styles before. It's not an uncommon thing to hear mothers say when they first visit our boys' department: "My, I had no idea they had such a fine display as this."—The Leader, Memphis, Tenn.

There are no better elsewhere at a couple of dollars more. You may pick to-morrow and Saturday from a wide variety of handsome suits and top coats for boys in double breasted, single breasted and Norfolk styles with regular or knickerbocker trousers. Some of the suits have two pairs of knickerbockers; in pretty grays, browns, olive checks and plaids and plain color; and some very pretty sailor and Russian blouse suits, top coats and reefers—all from our regular $5.98 lines, well known for their excellence and equal to most suits sold for a dollar more.—Hahne & Co., Newark.

Eaton tailored boys' clothing. Boys' clothes should be made of boiler plate, is the complaint of mothers the world over. And so it should be as far as wear and tear is concerned. But if mothers only realized the splendid qualities of Eaton tailored boys' clothing, few would care to buy boys' clothing elsewhere.

These are the best materials that mills can weave specially for the Eaton tailoring factories to cut up into boys' wear. And the styles! Dressy, manly, little suits that serve as an education to the boy in the matter of good form in dress besides making him a pride to his parents. And Eaton boys' clothing is a revelation to mothers the way it retains its good looks and holds its shape—even after months of hard wear. It's all in the clever conscientious tailor work—the best boys' clothing made in Canada without a doubt.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

The boys' clothing department is the beauty spot of the store. It occupies the entire third floor of our building. It is the best lighted, best ventilated, most commodious juvenile department of any store between the oceans. It is, perhaps, the busiest spot in Denver these days and presents a most animated scene. The sun-browned rompers—full of bounding life and spirits—and their fond parents, crowd the floor every day—especially after school hours. The youngsters are delighted with the new styles. Their parents are more than pleased with the vast variety and with our more than reasonable prices. Here they find all that pleases the eye and satisfies the most economically inclined—in school suits—and general outfittings—in abundance and assortments unmatchable elsewhere—anywhere. The good, better and best grades of this country's foremost manufactures—confined exclusively to us for this city.—The May Co., Denver, Col.

A brilliant gathering of children's novelty suits. In stocking our boys' and children's department you might say that we have scoured the country with a fine tooth comb and there isn't a novelty in existence—and worth considering—that we haven't added to this extensive department. We have likewise had the courage and enterprise to buy many extreme fashions and exclusive styles—the hand-finished kind, which are not duplicated elsewhere for the reason that they are not made in volume. It is impossible to find in the entire Northwest a more complete or high class array of new fashions for boys of all ages and sizes. We display a wealth of beautiful creations in Russian, Sailor and Eton suits, including every new color tone in gray, blue, tan and other shades, as well as smart plaids, checks and stripes; some elaborately trimmed, others more conservative. Values that insure a substantial saving.—The I. X. L. Clothing Co., Spokane, Wash.

Perhaps you are not content with the sort of clothes you have been able to get for your boy. Perhaps they haven't the manly look you would like, or the evidences of good tailoring that mark the clothing the boy's father wears.

If you feel that way, there is a remedy—and in this Boys' Clothing Store.

Like other good stores, we used to sell this sort of clothing for boys. It was the best that could be bought from the best wholesale makers. They could not be made to see that it should be better.

But we believed that boys' clothing of a better standard than any sold in the city might be developed, and so we started to originate boys' clothing ourselves, directing every process, suggesting new patterns, insisting on a new and more careful sort of tailor work.

To-morrow, if you bring your boy here, you will see the result in five minutes.

Let him slip on the coat of a spring suit—say one at $7 or $8. Note how flat the collar lies about his neck. Note the grace of the lapels, that the sleeves are long enough, that the shoulders are broad, that the whole appearance is one of manliness and style not heretofore equaled in his clothes, even when you have paid half as much again.

And these features of style and fit are permanent because of the good tailor work in the clothing. It is, in fact, clothing of a new standard which we call Loeser Standard.

This Saks store is several stores. There's a boys' clothing store located on the second floor, where the lines are as complete, the qualities as standard, the styles as modern and up-to-date and the prices as economical as in the women's store on the same floor, or the great men's store on first floor. The Christmas bargain spirit has possession of the boys' clothing store and the range is a wide one for selecting gifts for the little men.—Louis Saks, Birmingham, Ala.

Attractive special features are told of. We are selling boys' suits and overcoats at prices that will please economical parents, and the clothes are of such character that they will certainly delight the boys who get them. We never showed more styles and certainly never gave better values.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Loeser clothes for boys not only wear well, but hold their good shape until they are worn out—a feature not always to be found in boys' clothing. Put a Loeser suit on your boy and he will have a manly look, because the shoulders of the suit are broad, the collar wide and graceful, the sleeves long enough—because we use more cloth in making Loeser clothes than is usually put into clothes for boys.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

See that the boy is well dressed for confirmation. It's the day above all others when the boy should appear at his best. We have made great preparation for dressing boys for this important event.—Chas. Wrede & Son, Fargo, N. D.

There are some facts about Loeser clothes which every mother of a Brooklyn boy ought to know. It ought to be generally known that the boy who puts on a Loeser suit will look better and more manly than the boy who wears ordinary clothing. This is so because Loeser clothes are specially designed to get breadth of shoulder, flat collars and lapels that fit snugly, sleeves that are plenty long enough. It is so because we put into Loeser clothes more cloth than usually goes into clothes to fit boys of equal age. It ought to be generally known that this clothing will wear longer than ordinary clothes for boys. This is so because of the good fabrics—which we select as they come from the mills—and because of the good tailor work which sees to it that the clothing is as well made on the inside as it is on the outside, so that it will hold its shape, so that the seams will never pull apart, so that the wear will be long and satisfactory. It ought to be generally known that this better-than-usual clothing for boys costs as little or less than clothing of ordinary sorts. These things are important to Brooklyn mothers. They lift Loeser clothes for boys to a plane alone—making them better than the clothes which you can buy in usual good stores; making them even better than the clothes we used to sell when we did the boys' clothing business much the same as other good stores. The spring stocks are the broadest we ever had and the best. Come in and see them to-morrow.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Youths' summer clothing. In a section of the store for men, where they ought to be, you will find these special clothes for youths of 15 to 20 years. They are distinctively young men's clothes—not big boys' clothes. They have grace and swing and snap and are made with the youthful lines that the college chap likes and looks best in. They are individual. And at the same time they are of good materials and evidence good tailor work that make their excellence permanent. We believe there isn't a match for this collection of youths' clothing that is here between $12.50 and $20.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A run in boys' clothing. We have a better line of boys' suits to select from than ever before. Suits in sailor styles, with straight or bloomer trousers; Russian blouse suits, double-breasted suits, two and three button style, at $6 to $10. School suits, $1.50 to $5.00. Wash suits in white pique and linen; also fancy duck, linen chambray, sailor and Russian blouse styles, 2 1-2 to 10 years, $1.25 to $10. The very best in boys' hats, shirts, neckwear, hose and shoes. Open Tuesday and Saturday nights.—Jas. T. Mullin & Sons, Wilmington, Del.

Now for sweaters! Every size, every quality, every price. It almost seems as if we had reached the mountain top in catering to the wants of fresh-air folks on the sweater question. It cannot be possible that any house in Lower Canada has laid in a larger or more varied supply. Taking cognizance of the almost universal use of these garments, our buyer canvassed the best makers in gathering an assortment, which fact leads us to assume we have a range of sweaters that cannot be surpassed.—Manchester-Robertson-Allison, St. John, N. B.

Has your boy ever worn a Russian overcoat? We are showing beauties in rich cloths and colors at $3 to $8. As the accompanying illustration indicates, the Russian model in boys' overcoats is at once uncommonly pretty and brim full of solid comfort. When dealers speak of clothing it is classified as "fancy," but there's as much good warmth and serviceability in a Russian coat as in any outer garment made with gilt buttons or frog loops, velvet collar, etc., it sets off manly lads to perfection, while the interior make-up, such as red flannel linings, etc., ensure protection against colds and weather. No cloth is spared in making our Russian coats roomy and non-binding; and as far as exact cut goes, there's a choice between plaited, plain or strapped backs. In a word, a tip-top assortment. — Manchester-Robertson-Allison, St. John, N. B.

Every self-respecting boy will enjoy this call. He will have a chance to try on clothes he likes. He needn't buy—simply inspect and ask prices. If his mother comes, too, he can suggest his wants. It will be a free-and-easy day for our boy friends. Latest New York and Boston styles to show them. An excellent chance to spy out good winter clothes. — Manchester-Robertson-Allison, St. John, N. B.

Youths' Fine Garments.—The new autumn garments for youths are made up from the newest and best of foreign and domestic fabrics in all the styles most preferred by careful dressers and at very reasonable prices. The suits are all of the latest models.—Mose Cohen's, Dayton, Ohio.

Do You Want a Heavier Suit for the Boy?—The thought of a wash suit made one shiver yesterday morning. But the boy will want wash suits many a day yet, before cool weather comes to stay. But he wants a warmer suit for the cool days between; and we have some exceptional offerings to-day.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Boys' Fall Clothing.—Our stock of boys' fall clothing was never before so large in variety as now. From the very inexpensive suit or overcoat to the finest silk-lined garments we offer a wider scope for selection than any other retail house in America. The tailoring on every garment here is faultless and the prices throughout are absolutely the lowest obtainable.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Didn't those $3.50 school suits at $2 go, though! Yes, all day long dealers were sending their shoppers around to see if they are as good as we say they are. They can't understand how we can afford to sell such fine looking and well tailored suits for so little. We can't. But necessity is the mother of bargains and the carpenters have the right of way just now. Big variety of patterns—and every one desirable. If you know of any one who has a boy of 8 to 16 years old to clothe now is the time and here is the place for him or her to save money.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Now, the boys, they must have the best there is, bless 'em. What man ever gives his clothes such wear and tear, such wringing and twisting, as the average small boy? School is about to begin; he must start spick and span in a nobby new suit—who wants to begin a new year at school in old clothes? Now boys who wear them, and mothers who care for them, and fathers who pay for them—our new fall stock of boys' clothes answers our every requirement. The new suits are stylish and comfortable; they'll stand the wear, are reliably made—you'll not have to keep taking a stitch here, sewing a button there; and then, when the high quality is considered, they are extremely low in price.—The Kleinhaus Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

School Suits made for real boys. Of all things, don't tell a boy he must be careful of his clothes. Who'd give a snap for a boy who couldn't whoop and holler and tear around generally? It shows he's a boy.—C. P. Bishop, Salem, Ore.

Our Boys' School Clothes are built to stand the rough usage most school boys give them, and finally end their long life of usefulness, looking just a little bit better than clothes bought elsewhere. The same care is used in the construction of our boys' clothing as in the men's suits, assuming perfect fit to start with and the holding of their shape to the end.—Sanger Bros., Waco, Tex.

Many years of experience and conscientious effort expended on our Boys' Clothing Department, enables us to assert positively that our line is the best and most satisfactory for you to buy. It's up to you to prove it by a careful examination and trying on. These suits are for boys of all ages, and designed to resist wear at every point.—Wood Bros., Waco, Tex.

Boys' Clothing.—Light-weight wool suits and top coats for the cool summer evenings at home and almost indispensable for the summer vacation.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

You can look the city over and not find more stylish suits to satisfy the little fellows.—H. Kositchek & Bros., Lansing, Mich.

Our good sort of boys' clothing is just the thing for vacation wear—keeps its shape, looks well and isn't continually ripping.—The J. L. Hudson Co., Buffalo.

Boys' Summer Clothing.—News that will interest mothers because of its timeliness. These are smart and jaunty suits, that will give good service and stand hard wear. The washable suits will wash a good many times before losing their shape and colors.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Pretty Tough.—That's what corduroy is, handsome and durable. Norfolk jackets with baggy breeches of chocolate or cream color corduroy, $8. Double-breasted jacket of mouse-colored corduroy with baggy breeches, $6.50; with knee trousers, $5.75. Extra baggy breeches of mouse-colored corduroy, $2.50; knee trousers, $1.75.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

Great value giving in boys' clothing. The most inviting store for mothers of boys, and justly the most popular in this borough, by virtue of the facts that the best materials are always used in the construction of this clothing—and the prices are positively the smallest anywhere.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

It requires a large and carefully selected stock to rightly fit boys of all ages, from the little Russian blouse suits to those smart college styles for the young men. There are two parties to be sued—the boy himself and his parents. Our long experience in catering to the little fellows' requirements has taught us how to meet the demands in this trade, at a saving too that no prudent parent can afford to overlook.—Baum Bros., Jersey City, N. J.

A sale of boys' wash suits at 42c., 65c. and 85c. Think of being able to buy whole suits at such prices. Neat little suits, plenty good enough for summer—just the thing, in fact—light and cool for warm days spent out of doors. When they're soiled the washtub will make them as fresh and nice as ever. We have good quantities to sell at the prices named, but it will be necessary to come soon in order to be sure of getting the size required.—The Marston Store, San Diego.

The thoroughbred, stylish appearance of our boys' productions appeal on sight to the ideas of every up-to-date mother; their careful, sturdy making, the splendid, wear-resisting cloths and their decided lowness in price, appeal to her practical side. Every mother of a boy should see our stock. We carry every latest style and at every price.—Bond's, Columbus, Ohio.

Boys' underwear. Famously good kinds at prices as low as quoted anywhere else in this country—lower than usually obtained.—White & Davis, Pueblo, Col.

We want the boys! The boys in knee pants and those in long pants—to know this store as the best place in Kansas City to get the sort of clothes they want. We'll state frankly that the boys' patronage is worthy the best efforts of any merchant, and that we are leaving nothing undone to deserve it. We have collected an unsurpassed stock of boys' apparel from manufacturers who make a study of boys' clothes exclusively, and with it we give the most critical attention to the attiring of each young man who comes to us.—The Boley, Kansas City, Mo.

'Twould take a whole library to describe the full variety, all the new points and the nice details that go into our made-to-wear clothing—and school begins in a few days; we're all ready; how are the boys?—Eiseman & Weil, Atlanta, Ga.

The Modern Boys' Department.—No matter what the boy needs in the way of wearables—except shoes—you will find it here in better and larger assortment than elsewhere, and, quality considered, for less cost. New sweaters, shirt waists, hats, caps, hosiery, underwear, neckwear.—Mullen & Bluett Clothing Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

If these washable sailor suits, blouses and trousers for boys should shrink as much as their prices have, they wouldn't be of much value. As it is, they represent three very attractive groups of cool summer togs for boys, at most alluring prices.—Wanamaker's, New York.

The clothing of boys is, as a rule, the hardest part of a retailer's business—he has to suit both boy and mother and patch up the difference between them, as they seldom agree on clothes. We sell the kind that both mother and boy will agree upon.—Douthett & Graham, Youngstown, O.

Reorganization Sale of Boys' School Clothing.—A splendid opportunity for every mother who has a boy of school age. Reorganization prices are the lowest ever quoted on boys' clothing at this season of the year. Any boy will be proud to wear one of these suits on the opening day of school.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

Boys' suits and coats, $5; worth $7.50. Some suits can rarely be had for so little. All wool blue serge; fancy cheviots and cassimeres; the patterns new and handsome—so are the styles. Snellenburg tailored, of course; not to be compared with the ordinary basted together stuff that you find staring at you in every other store.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Your boy's school clothes should be purchased now. You can buy now just what he will want at the beginning of school and save half of the cost. Isn't that worth something? We have an excellent line of boys' medium weight suits, just right to wear from now to December. Come at once is our advice. If you have the slightest need for a suit for your boy, you will be money in pocket by heeding our advice.—E. M. Kahn & Co., Dallas, Texas.

We're ready to fit out your boy.—The time is steadily drawing nearer when the boys will have to start to school. Only one more week remains, and you want him to be ready to start in the first day. Have you thought of the most important item of his outfit—his suit? If you haven't it's time you did. Our efforts for the fall and winter season in the boys' department combine good taste, exclusive styles and serviceability. From the beautiful fancy suits for little boys, 3 to 8 years of age, to the tasteful patterns in cheviots, cassimeres, worsteds and tweeds for the big boys and young men, aged 14 to 19 years. There isn't a single garment to which you can take the slightest exception, either in style, quality or price. We refund your money if we fail to satisfy you.—Mautner & Krause, Saginaw, Mich.

Did you ever know a time when your boy had too many shirt waists? Did you ever remember an opportunity to buy such excellent waists at such low prices?—M. R. Emmons Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Youngsters' wear the suits we show in exclusive comely styles, fresh, spic and span, in newest and chic boyish beauty.—Mullen & Bluctt Clothing Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Your boy and his summer clothes. What are his wants—have you everything to dress him so that he needn't be afraid to romp and play, tumble over fences and climb trees to his heart's content? If you haven't here are a few hints that perhaps will assist you.—R. H. Traver Co., Detroit, Mich.

Price-upsets Among Boys' Suits.—A lively house-cleaning squall has struck the stock of boys' washable suits and there are in consequence some sudden capsizing among prices. Many handsome, jaunty suits that will bring coolness and comfort to the boys on the hot days to come—for they are bound to come—are caught in this shipwreck of values.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Boys' Winter Clothing.—Overcoats, $5 to $35. Built for warmth and wear, just-below-the-knee length, the kind a short-trousers boy wants; oxfords, cheviots and frieze cloths.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

An overcoat in time saves nine colds! Our overcoats for boys—the kind you like to see them wear—the kind they like to wear, and the kind that will stand wear wherever they are, and whatever they are to do.—United States Clothing Company, Milwaukee, Wis.

A good healthy school boy without any exception is hard on his clothes. School opens in a few days and of course you'll start him right—with a new suit of clothes. It is perfectly useless for mothers to worry about their boys' clothes. We've done all the worrying, all the thinking and all the work.—Nichols & Morse, Haverhill, Mass.

Shivering boys are not pleasant objects to contemplate. If they are school-boys their minds are busy with their chilly feelings instead of with their studies. Now, when we sell good, warm clothing at low prices, there's no excuse in letting your boys be uncomfortable; besides, good clothes raise their self-respect. The well-dressed boy gets attention when he applies for a position; he has a prosperous aim—isn't it so?—William H. Elliott Co., Detroit, Mich.

We've lined up the remainder of our boys' washable sailor suits for the fray. At the new prices we've set upon them, they will have trouble in "repelling boarders," in the shape of eager mothers. The ranks are broken—they've suffered serious losses lately—and to-day they will probably succumb to this last attack.—Wanamaker, New York.

A sign of progress is the care and attention given to our boys' clothing department. You can find here everything for boys' dress—from fancy velvets to blue jean overalls—and a comfortable place to look over the goods.—Frank M. Low & Co., Portland, Me.

Couldn't possibly incorporate more goodness into the making of these togs—fact, our boys' clothing comes from makers who don't know how to put unworthy things together; and then there's a certain style about 'em that most parents haven't the heart to resist.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

First cost shouldn't be the largest saving on boys' clothing—the real economy of honest wear and lasting fit is the test of value.—M. R. Emmons Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Sailor Suit Aristocracy.—These are the quarter-deck sort of sailor suits, the prettiest and most stylish that our stock contains in the way of boys' summer suits.—Wanamaker's, New York.

The finishing touch to our boys' suits is what counts with the mothers, and now that we've put a "finishing touch" to the price on nearly a thousand good suits we're winning with the dads.—The Utica Clothiers, Des Moines, Iowa.

Of course, a boy can't be expected to keep his clothes clean! If he's to be happy, a goodly number of wash suits and blouses are well nigh a necessity. It will make you happy, too, to see him wear them. They make him look so exactly the well bred little man he is. Then into the tub and out again, they'll look as attractive as ever. Their fabrics range from chambray to pique and duck—everything good that will wash.—Trenton Clothing Co., Trenton, N. J.

Boys' clothing at prices cut so deep as to mean a big saving to you. Economical mothers should fit out the boys for the next year at these prices.—Schloss Bros. & Co., Galesburg, Ill.

More work and more enthusiasm in youth—but along with good manners, good clothes makes a pretty strong ballast.—The Muse Idea.

The latest style, with the best style well tailored—Muse's is your very assurance that the boys' suits have passed the same excellence required of men's clothing. It is a point of insistence here.—Muse's Atlanta, Ga.

The general clearing sale of clothing is an immense success—thanks to your acute appreciation of really good values. But, heavy as the selling has been, the line of unparalleled bargains is not broken. The chances for great savings are just as plentiful as they were on the first day of the sale. Special selling of boys' clothing.—Stewart & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Good clothing values for boys. How's the boy's suit? Is it beginning to show signs of wear? Whether it's a suit or overcoat he needs this popular boy's department was never better prepared to serve you at this season of the year. Clothes for dress, or clothes for school wear made with all the style and goodness the boy could wish for at prices that are sure to please father and mother.—M. R. Emmons Co., Atlanta, Ga.

From the fact that our boys' clothing is made with as much attention to fit and finish as that for adults, and at the same time our prices are from 15 to 25 per cent. lower than exclusive clothing stores, we have built up an immense patronage among the parents of Los Angeles. And you know that no other store makes the same offer as ourselves; that if any wool suit does not wear according to your expectations we will exchange it for a new one.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Everybody likes to see a manly boy and nothing so gives a youngster that air of importance as a neat, well-fitting suit. Boys are hard on clothes as a rule, but as parents you expect it, and the best you can do is to get textiles that will wear and not attempt to buy the cheap, flimsy articles simply because low priced. We are so satisfied with the quality of all our wool clothing that we make a general proposition that any boys' suit bought here which does not wear as well as you may expect it, you may return it and we will replace it with a new one. Furthermore, our prices are from 15 to 25 per cent. lower than at exclusive clothing stores.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

More Emphatic Reductions in Clothing for Boys.—Youngsters who are fortunate enough to be hovering around three or four years are in luck this Saturday.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

"Wanamaker's special" suits for boys. "Special" in every sense of that much-overworked word. Special in quality of materials—all wool; in making—all seams are silk sewed and taped in style—the best and latest of fashions for boys; in price—for never were better suits sold at $5.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Boys' clothing to fit parents' purse. The majority of boys are such manly little fellows that you can almost safely leave it to their discretion to select the kind of suit they want. Don't do your shopping alone but bring the boy to the store with you and consider his tastes in the matter and above all, don't be afraid that your pocketbook will be overtaxed by purchasing clothing here, for while we use every endeavor to get the very best makes of boys' clothing and are as careful that every detail is perfect, yet we absolutely know that our prices are from 15 to 25 per cent. lower than the same quality of goods are sold elsewhere and we make it a further feature that any boys' suit which does not wear up to your expectations may be exchanged for a new one. Our boys' clothing department has no equal and there are thousands of parents who under no consideration, would think of going elsewhere than Snyder's to purchase boys' clothing.—W. W. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

"If people understood the real value and the savings they could make on boys' clothes, you wouldn't have enough to go 'round," said a customer the other day. And she was right. Why? Because our boys' clothing is the very best; quality, workmanship and fit are of the very highest standard. The assortment is much larger than we wish it at this season of the year, and so the prices are cut to help find new owners for such good clothes.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Big Savings on Boys' Clothing.—Savings that mean true economy—for the buying of stylish, worthwhile clothing at a third to a half off regular prices typifies none other than real economy. The styles are excellent, varying but a trifle from the new spring goods. The patterns are medium and dark, hence these suits can be worn right up to Easter, and will again come in for duty next fall and winter.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

A mother's pride is her boy. Our pride is a new department for her boy—all boys. In it every item is designed to relieve some mother of much labor and worry. The stock abounds in new ideas dear to her heart, and every outfit is selected to give the fullest measure of service. Concerning the cost, about the only boy who doesn't profit by wearing our suits is he who wears none.—Wageman's, Cleveland, Ohio.

Boys' Clothing.—Perceptibly different clothes. If you cannot recognize the difference in make, style and finish of our boys' clothing we shall not expect your money here. You shall have good, well-balanced beautiful clothes if you come here, and the price will often be one-third less than elsewhere—but we shall not sacrifice style and finish on any garment for the mere object of getting your dollars. We know there must be people who care for something else than walking around with signs of cheapness.—The Nebraska, Kansas City, Mo.

Mothers.—This is the chance of your life. To fit out your boys it is a well known fact that Rennacker carries the largest and finest stock of boys' and children's clothing in Connecticut, and just think of picking out any garment in the vast stock and paying the salesman but one-half of the original price. It is the bargain picking time of your lives. Come, join the crowds, and make the most of it. Pay just one-half the original price.—C. A. Rennacker, Hartford, Conn.

The equal in value of boys' suits won't be found in a day's travel. Do not allow the low price to blind your good judgment in regard to the grade of fabrics in the suits we are selling.—Nichols & Morse, Newburyport, Mass.

O, fudge! When you can buy reliable boys' clothing that will stand the test of hard wear, what's the use of experimenting? You may buy inferior makes of clothing but does it pay in the end? Are you satisfied with the results; would not one good suit for that boy be a good investment, rather than two of a cheaper grade. You can pick up some good values in our boys' department just now.—Gemmill, Burnham & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Boys' Wash Suits.—Wash suits—summer raiment for boys—the delight of both the youngsters and their mothers—for a dip into the tub and out they come just as fresh and bright as ever.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Boys' Trusty Clothing.—That's due to the way the suits are made—with more care and honesty than is put into any other $5 suits we know of.—The I. X. L. Clothing Co., Spokane, Wash.

If you have a boy who is always up to some "stunt," hard on his clothes, put a "Hercules" suit on him. If he tries to go through his clothes quick so that he can boast to his chums that he has a new suit every month, a "Hercules" will surprise him—wears as near like sheet iron as it is possible to make a combination of cloth, buttons and thread.—Daube, Cohn & Co., Chicago.

Boys' Clothing.—We've said so little as to the merits of our boys' clothing that we feel we owe an apology to you, but the reason is we've been quite busy in completing all the different styles belonging to this department, and now that we are ready, kindly ask a visit to this department from you.—John J. Collins, Scranton, Pa.

Bring the Boys Tuesday. It Will Be a Great Boy Day in Suits.—Mother Fashion is very sensible this year in respect to boys' clothing. The Norfolk, on which she smiles kindly, is a great boy suit. A boy doesn't feel uncomfortable in them on dress occasions, and yet what a nice touch of dressiness they have! And our Norfolks are built for boy-wear—you know what that means, mothers!—The P. Eaton & Co., Toronto, Ont.

Boys' Clothing for strong, hearty, knockabout boys, with tasteful, particular mothers. The suits are less liable to rip, to wear out, to fade, to shrink, than any other suits elsewhere. We take care of that in the cloth and the making. They are stylish, trim, fastidiously made—even the hidden threads are of silk.—The Plymouth Clothing House, Minneapolis, Minn.

Noble News for Mothers of Boys.—It tells of the kind of clothing that has made "The Big Store" famous—the kind that you and the boy can't help but like—the kind that stands the knocks and hard wear the boy is bound to give it—staunch, reliable clothing, at prices that almost discredit these qualities.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

It's foolish to dress boys extravagantly. What they need we have—good, serviceable, well made, stylish clothing. We can suit the masculine taste, the feminine fancy and the juvenile idea. We do not overload the windows—they simply serve to give you a hint. If you don't see what you want, you'll find it inside.—Eiseman & Weil, Atlanta, Ga.

The little fellows' clothing must be just right to suit the particular mother—and where is the mother who is not particular in this respect? Jaunty little suits, with all the nice points that appeal to the fastidious youngster. The little prices make them specially inviting.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

We have a wide and up-to-date assortment of clothing that will make the little ones comfortable during the wintry days.—Heine & Jarrett, Bay City.

Boys' distinctive clothes of a new excellence. Even the mothers who have long been staunch friends of Loeser clothes for boys—and there are hosts of them—say that never until this season was such good clothing to be had anywhere. It is a definite step ahead and it comes because we have this season begun at the very foundation—choosing first the smart, good, durable fabrics; choosing the linings, interlinings and all the trimmings, and then requiring that every suit should be made in a special way, according to our own specially drafted patterns and measuring up to very unusual specifications. Make, fit, style—these are the qualifications of the Loeser clothes for boys this season. They are smart and stylish, because they are tailored properly. They will hold their shape, because of the same good tailor work. Yet the prices are as little or less than the prices of boys' clothing of the ordinary sorts.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The wise parent who invests in one of these boys' suits (4 years to 16 years) will do the boy a real kindness, and save money for yourself, as they have all the style, make and fit of the young men's suits, and the wearing qualities that are desired for boys' hard wear. Our boys' clothing is sold at a very close margin as we wish the boys to become our men customers later. Blouse and sailor suits, 4 years to 8 years, $4 to $6. Blue serge, black cheviots and unfinished worsteds, 9 years to 16 years, $3.50 to $6.50. Fancy cheviots, worsteds and cassimeres, $3 to $6. We are the acknowledged sellers of the best boys' and young men's clothing for the least money in Trenton. The fact that we pay the money back when goods don't prove as represented is absolute insurance of satisfaction.—Van-ness, Coleman & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Boys' suits, all wool, of course. While all this talk of the high price of woollen fabrics and the substitution of cotton mixtures has been going on—we have no occasion to worry. This business is so thoroughly established in the confidence of parents who buy and know, that we don't have to further assure them that cotton mixtures can never get into Wanamaker's under any pretext, while sheep grow and are sheared. Our record stands.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Too late to make anything for Children's Day, so you must buy the ready-made kind. In many instances it is to your advantage to fill your desires at these busy stores. Reliable merchandise in the very newest styles at the lowest possible price quotations has been essential to this store's wonderful growth. Special attention is shown every purchaser, with the aim of giving the fullest satisfaction procurable in a retail establishment.—Phil. Bargain Store, Trenton, N. J.

Novelties in boys' Russian suits, of white serge and shepherd checks; also reefers of white serge, shepherd checks and golf red cheviot; some silk lined; Russian suits of light summer mixtures—unlined; sailor suits of tweeds and checks; fine covert top coats, finest silk serge lining—perfectly tailored; also boys' Russian and sailor suits, of linen and pique, tan and white; also colored linen crashes, and everything new in blouses, shirts, hats and caps.—Hearn, New York, N. Y.

One mother, who has for some time been a children's day enthusiast, kept account of the savings she accomplished here each Monday during the past few months. The amount proved such a pleasing surprise to her that she could not refrain from telling us. There are hundreds of other economical mothers who are just as much pleased with this unique Monday feature of our store as this one. If you have children to clothe it is to your decided advantage to come here every Monday, special Children's day.—The Union Store, Columbus, O.

Did you ever notice how your son unbuttoned his coat when in a hurry? If he is like most boys he doesn't unbutton it—he just starts at the bottom button and pulls till it either unbuttons or the buttons fly off; and on most boys' suits the buttons fly off quick. The button holes on a "Kantwearout-Hercules" boys' suit are silk sewed and the buttons are put on to stay; sewed on with best linen thread properly waxed and wound round and round the neck to remove the strain from the cloth; and we are not stingy with the thread. Then, too, the buttons are good buttons—the rough edges are smoothed down by hand—on cheap buttons the rough edges are left and they cut the thread. "Hercules" boys' suits are all wool; shower proof, perspiration proof and thoroughly hygienic.—Daube, Cohn & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Look carefully before buying your children's clothing. The little folks need to be stylishly clothed as well as the parents, and it is surely as creditable to the parent to have child well clothed as it is to be well clothed themselves. We can make your boy look like several different kinds of boys—but he'll still be your boy. We can make a Russian Princeling of him (Russian blouse suit); or a sailor lad (sailor blouse suit); or a sturdy English boy (Norfolk suit); or an American boy (neglige or double-breasted suit). Every garment is of extra careful making and "just right" fit. The newest and the neatest are the first to go, so come.—Heller, Bryce & Co., Muncie, Ind.

In our boys' department is a bargain feast during this special selling of The Model Stock. The values are beyond question—the saving plain. It requires no argument to prove either, when the goods and prices are seen.—The Boley Clothing Co., Kansas City, Mo.

We clothe the boy from two years until he throws off dresses and puts on short trousers—then we turn him over to our young men's department. He grows up in our clothing and remains our regular patron. We ask mothers to come in and see the pretty things in children's clothing for the summer season.—Trenton Clothing Co., Trenton.

Boys' wash suits. A substantial saving for the Saturday shoppers. We always give the best values in Paterson; no mistake about that. Saturday we go a little further and make extra special inducements. Here are this Saturday's extra values. Nice cool suits for boys—they look natty, will not suffer from a good washing and will give all-summer wear—priced very special for Saturday. In Russian and sailor blouse styles of chambrays, linen repp and Galateas, in plain colors and checks and stripes, sizes 2½ to 10.—Meyer Bros., Paterson, N. J.

Eton-Russian Suits.—Boys two and a half to six years. There is no suit that has ever been designed for first out-of-kilt wear that has enjoyed the popularity of the Eton-Russian. Simple of construction, easy and graceful of outline, the style is well adapted to the little fellows between three and six years.—Muse's, Atlanta, Ga.

Boys' Russian Sailor and Eton Collar Suits.—Clearance of a manufacturer's samples at $4.75 and $6.75. This is undoubtedly the most advantageous opportunity offered in Chicago for the purchase of these handsome little suits. Some are priced at half and some at less than half their actual value.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Boys' Clothing Below Usual Cost.—Our recent purchases of boys' clothing enable us to quote prices absolutely below all competition. Buyers will do well to investigate these remarkable offerings, a few of which we note here.—Solomon's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Another Lucky Day in Boys' Suits.—Many of our attractive lines of boys' suits are selling down to small quantities now. Sizes are disappearing, and we do not wish to fill them in. So we have gone through the stock, and picked out the little lots of from two to six suits of a kind; and assembled a collection of over two hundred suits, in four tempting groups to-day. Boys of from 4 to 16 years may share the good luck, if they get here promptly this morning.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

Boys' Spring and Summer Suits.—No boy—up to a certain age—is a respecter of clothing. He must play and have "fun," and if his clothes suffer—why, so much the worse for his clothes. So it pays to get good materials, and sturdily put together. But in and through, and as a part of the suit, must be style—a correct expression of the prevailing fashions in boys' clothing. And all at the minimum of cost. Seeing the same faces in our boys' department this season that were seen there every season for the past twelve seasons, are good enough reasons to believe our boys' clothing satisfies.—M. R. Emmons Co., Atlanta, Ga.

"The boy makes the man," and if you would have your boy make a decent and worthy man he must be comfortably and neatly clothed. Of course you want to do this at the most conservative cost, and that you may be able to do so we will supply you with all the good that can be gotten into a boys' suit for $5.00.—Graves Cox & Co., Lexington, Ky.

It takes a mighty stretch of a boys' legs to burst a seam in a "Kantwearout-Hercules" Suit. All the seams are double-stitched with heavy silk thread. In the pants—where the strain is the greatest—the seat and leg seams are covered on the inside with a strong band of linen tape; when a boy stretches his legs this tape receives the strain, instead of the thread in the seam and the cloth. Most makers might think this tape binding would strengthen the pants enough but we don't; we line every pair of pants with the best quality cold-shrunk Irish linen. If you could buy a pair of boys' pants made of boiler iron they wouldn't stand the strain any better than "Hercules" pants. Every thread is wool; there is just as much cotton in a "Hercules" suit as in the leather of which your shoes are made. Rain-proof, moth-proof, perspiration-proof and thoroughly hygienic and sanitary.—Daube, Cohn & Co., Chicago, Ill.

It doesn't pay to patch and darn the little fellow's clothing when good, new clothes are selling so cheap.—Gillford & Co., New Bedford, Mass.

Frightful how some boys are dressed—these freak suits come from everywhere but here—good taste and good common sense prevail in everything we sell—no freaks, no frights, no girlish fashions for boys.

We please your youngsters. Can't help doing it with the "just right" kind of clothing we have here for the youngsters, lad or big boy who wishes to be "in the swim" with the older folks. We please the parents, too. We long ago found out where the best clothing could be found for their young folks. And here they come when it is needed.—Lit Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Decisively important news for the discriminating mothers of Hudson County youngsters. News of the most vitally interesting nature. It pertains to correct and worthy habiliments for particular children. These are the only garments to find welcome here—the only kind we care to handle. You'll find them correctly tailored, of the most sturdy and worthwhile materials, and possessing that indescribable air of superiority indicative of the higher ideals of the tailor's art.—Bernstein & Co., Jersey City, N. J.

Young Men's and Boys' Suits.—Values never equaled. Prove it for yourself. Take your own judgment in the matter. We say that the suits are well made, stylish, serviceable winter wear for young men and for boys—suits that are up to the highest standard of ready made clothing—which is the standard of this store. And because they were makers' surplus stocks, they are repriced very sharply under their worth. It is the sale of the season—and you are invited to share.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

We have decided to close out all our winter stock of boys' clothing to make room for the new spring goods. These are new goods (the department has been in existence but a few months), dependable in every way and are the best clothes that ever cost so little.—Adam, Meldrum & Anderson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The little men must dress as neatly and correctly as grown-ups. The furnishing store has had an eye to their shirt needs in these offerings.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

What is there especially good about these suits? Take one up and examine it carefully. The seams in most suits are sewed once; in these they are taped and triple-sewed; no amount of wriggling, squirming, or stretching can tear them open. The seats and knees of the trousers are double and the stitching is done by hand so as not to show through. The front of the trousers is lined so that they will not "ruck up." The materials are good, serviceable chevots, the cut is the best we can secure anywhere in the United States. We have been selling these suits for a long time—thousands every year—and we have yet to hear of anyone being dissatisfied.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Boys' knee pants—July beater—Now is the time when parents want to take advantage of every opportunity to stock up in the separate pants. Vacation wears out a good many pairs, you know.—Saks & Co., Washington, D. C.

Reductions in boys' wash suits continue.—Our reduction sale of boys' wash suits continues. There is good choosing yet, but can't say how long it will be that way, for they're going, and going rapidly. This is indeed a rare opportunity for mothers to dress their boys in the height of summer style at a small cost.—M. R. Emmons Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Everything that makes buying easier for you makes selling easier for us. Frankly, that's the idea of our boys' store. Everything a boy ever wears, gathered in one department, from hats down to shoes. Everything done to save his mother unnecessary steps.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

Boys' summer clothing—A great list of unusual values.—Every Brooklyn mother who has boys to dress will find interesting reading in the list that follows. All the clothing is smart and stylish and worthy in every respect. It is rare good fortune to have it for so much less than its value.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The best looking, the most fashionable and the most durable suits are here for healthy, hearty, hustling boys.—Talbot & Co., Fall River, Mass.

Remember, it is now close to vacation season and time for seashore and country jaunts. Get your boys' knockabout clothes here while prices are all flattened out.—P. T. Black, Bangor, Me.

Important to mothers.—If you have a vigorous, growing boy who is going to need clothing any time during the next few months, you had better buy now for him while our special sale is in progress. We have about 250 boys' extra good suits which must be closed out in a hurry. That's why we've cut the prices so unmercifully; that's the only reason why this splendid clothing is offered now at a mere fraction of what its regular cost would be. Don't lose a day! If your boy wants a suit, he wants it now. You'll find his size here if you come today.—Perley T. Black & Co., Bangor, Me.

The little boys, of course, control the more fanciful things. Dainty little suits with childish mannishness about them that's most effective—different from what usual—better, too.—Parker, Bridget & Co., Washington, D. C.

What should a boys' summer play suit be? Cool. Hard to soil. Easy to wash. Durable. Perhaps you know something better than stout tan linen crash—we don't.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

For the boys.—Time again to prepare the boy for the warm days—and this is surely the place to buy, for our boys' department was never better prepared to serve you. Apparel of every description is here, right in style, right in workmanship, right in price.—M. R. Emmons, Atlanta, Ga.

Boys' Clothing.—With many a winter day to come and lots of frosty, snappy weather in which to wear winter clothing, this unusual good piece of clothing news is announced for boys, but primarily to mothers of boys.—The Nebraska, Kansas City, Mo.

Everything here to dress up "father's pride" and "mother's joy." We are carrying out the idea that the best grade of boys' clothing is appreciated in this city, and our new goods show a large variety in these high qualities. Also school suits and play suits for hard wear at attractive prices at The When, Indianapolis, Ind.

"Buster Brown" Suits and Overcoats for Little Chaps.—Never has a style attained such widespread popularity in so short a time as the "Buster Brown." Almost every other mother entering the boys' department asks to see the "Buster Brown," and greets it with such exclamations as "Oh, isn't it cute? How cunning little ——— will look in it!"

We are giving special low prices on school suits in chevots, Scotch mixtures, cassimeres, etc., made with all the strength and durability that can be put in a suit. This is the windup of our reduction sale. Prices are very low and we guarantee the suits we sell you in every respect.—A. Bellak, York, Pa.

Owing to the suddenness with which these garments sprang into favor, most stores were caught unawares. But not so "The Big Store." While other stores were holding back to see whether or not the style would "take," our buyer quietly stepped in and "cornered" all he could lay hands on. As a result, we now show thousands of these "Buster Brown" suits and overcoats in about fifty different styles, while it's hard to find more than a dozen elsewhere.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Clothes for active boys. Our boys' clothing is not only very stylish, but very strong, made for boys who play hard and earnestly. Brick walls and board fences do not "phase" the M. & B. clothes, for every garment is all wool, reinforced seams and sewed with silk, double stitched.—Mullen & Bluett, Los Angeles, Cal.

Spicy news of boys' clothing.—Berge-man Bros., Pueblo, Col.

Our object in putting out these suits now is to give an opportunity to mothers to lay in their boys' school suits a little in advance, when the cost is only about half what it will be later when the new stock arrives. These suits are just as well made as the new ones to come in, but they have been on our tables over the summer.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

School begins next Tuesday; are you ready, my boy? If you need a new suit we can dress you in fine shape. You want a new suit, a nice nobby one. Boys, tell your mothers to bring you to our store this week.

Probably the youngsters are expecting a new suit or some furnishings to begin the second half of the school year with and the probabilities are that the garments they have been wearing have become somewhat dilapidated by the rough play of school boys. Don't mind it a bit but just get busy and buy the boy what he needs at the following reduced prices.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

150 Boys' Suits for 8 o'clock. Mothers, we speak to you. In all seriousness we suggest the advisability of an early breakfast Monday morning. Let the things stand till you get back. We have the loveliest lot of boys' suits—7 to 16 year old boys—clearing at $2.95.—The Robert Simpson Co., Toronto, Ont.

Good News for Boys! Perhaps we ought to say great news for the mothers of boys—for they are the ones who count the cost. And mothers of Brooklyn boys will be glad of this news of the smartest and best summer outfittings for youngsters at prices hardly covering the cost of the materials.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you have never looked through our stock of boys' fine suits you will be surprised at the number and variety it takes to supply the requirements of our ever growing demand.—Jonas & Seldner, San Bernardino, Cal.

Graves, Cox & Co.'s Clothing has become a household word with many mothers—a synonym for clothing that "stands the racket" and looks well while it's doing it. And no wonder. If you take all wool materials, put them together firmly and well, stay and reinforce the suits wherever the wear and tear on them is the hardest, you are bound to get clothing that will make a boy work hard to wear out. That's our boys' clothing. And it's as notable for style and price as for wear.—Graves, Cox & Co., Lexington, Ky.

Boys' clothing.—Comfort and style are combined in our boys' clothing. They are cool, airy and just the thing to enjoy in the month of July.—The Plymouth, Minneapolis, Minn.

Bring the boys here for clothes.—You will find our assortment and styles more extensive and exclusive, while our prices are always reasonable.—Mullen & Bluett Clothing Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

If any clothing at any price is good enough, any store is good enough to buy it at. But if you wish first-class, up-to-date tailor-made garments at a money-saving price, we request you to give us a call while our liquidation sale is in full blast.—White House Clothing Co., Spokane, Wash.

Boys' cool clothing.—First cost shouldn't be the largest saving on Boys' Clothing—the real economy of honest wear and lasting fit is the test of value. Men who buy their clothing from Loeser know the money we save them—we do it just as much for the boys. If your boy wants something summery and distinctively economical look at the following.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Boys have no more use for school—for a while at least. It's playtime now—nothing ahead but fun. Do you know what it means to a boy to be told to stop playing because you're afraid he'll spoil his clothes? Don't stop him. Get him a play suit, and then turn him loose to romp to his heart's content. We have suits made for the purpose of standing the vacation racket.—Robert I. Cohn, Galveston, Tex.

Bargains for boys' wear when the schoolmaster's chair is bare.—Rogers, Peet & Co.

Warm weather specials for boys.—To keep the boy comfortable these warm days is to keep him well supplied with light, airy wearing apparel. This is a reminder, too, where to get everything he needs, for this boys' department was never better prepared to serve you. Cool wearing apparel of every description, and rightly priced, await you here.—M. R. Emmons, Atlanta, Ga.

Is the Boy all fixed for school? Did you find you had forgotten anything in the boy's outfit? If there's anything missing, anything that a boy wears, you can buy it here at a lower price than you buy same quality for anywhere else.—H. & D. Daniel, Hartford, Conn.

Very beautiful suits for little boys. Our showing of new fall styles in boys' clothing has captured many a mother's fancy in the last few days. Those who did not fall in love with the charming Russian Blouse fashions were held fast by the beauty of the new Sailors. Those who haven't been in to look might read with interest a few words as to the fabrics and styles. Russian Blouses are in dark maroon and navy serges; in rich royal blue velvet with cream lace; and in handsome new chevots and tweeds imported from Scotland. The combination Eton and Nautical collars are a distinctly new departure, as is the use of the ties in a French Knot.—White & Davis, Pueblo, Col.

We begin Monday morning our first display of fall novelties in boys' attire. We have everything complete for boys, from two to sixteen years, excepting shoes. We are particularly proud of three lines of Suits, which will not be shown elsewhere. We are introducing to our patrons, this season, the French Stock Suit, in Russian and Sailor types; the Eton Suit in Russian and Sailor styles, a double-breasted effect, and a new Norfolk, which we styled the Imperial. The French Stock and Eton Suits have double collars. The inner collar is made on the jacket, the outer one, a linen collar, for dress effect. The Imperial Norfolk is a creation of our own, which is very much superior in fit upon the shoulders and back.—The Halle Bros. Co., Cleveland, O.

New goods for fall and school are arriving daily. Our entire second floor is rapidly filling up with the choicest production of the foremost makers of boys' clothing. Patterns are the handsomest shown in years. You are cordially invised to inspect the styles and prices.—Henry C. Lytton, Chicago, Ill.

Don't suppose you're quite ready to buy overcoats yet, still we're quite sure the little fellows felt the need of an extra wrap both Saturday and Sunday nights, particularly if they were on a car. However, we'd be pleased to show you the two patterns here represented which you wish to purchase now or later—the always nobby "Russian" and the "Admiral."—Morris, Gross & Co., Tacoma, Wash.

School suits—Indescribable collection of durable, stylish attire for boys of all ages, full of ginger in appearance, yet strong as leather, just right to stand the grip of the school yard. The extensive variety of colors and kinds will be a surprise to you, and the prices are as low as you ever dreamed of seeing for such goods. Mothers are welcome to look.—The Hub Clothiers, West Bay City, Mich.

"Some are in rags and some are in tags" now at the end of vacation days, but we are exerting ourselves to the utmost to send all boys to school so well clad that they can't help but enter upon their studies with earnestness and enthusiasm. Parents of experience know the economy of buying boys' clothing at "Burke's." The fall assortments now being introduced include many new styles, and many patterns of cloths that differ from any ever before shown.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester.

"Activity." That is what is found in our sale of boys' and children's clothing. Mothers have caught on to the fact that we are distributing some very superior clothing at very attractive prices. The little fellows are not forgotten in this sale.—Gemmell, Burnham & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Bring your boy here for his Spring suit. Extraordinary values on Sale. Every item a matchless offering.—Burk & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

A triad of great values in boys' clothing. This is as definitely good news for Brooklyn mothers as we ever had to print—and the Boys' Store has been full of fine values ever since the spring began.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

First Spring display of clothes for the little fellows. We will make mother's eyes twinkle with delight if she will bring the little man here and let him try on some of our new Spring and Summer Suits. We have the prettiest conceits in Children's Clothing that we have ever had the pleasure of showing.—A. Bel-lak, York, Pa.

Boys' Clothing. This department is a very prominent feature of our business. We sell everything that a boy needs to wear, except shoes, and at prices low enough to keep you from worry every time your boy needs something new.—The American Clothing Co., Kenton, O.

The styles the little fellows like best and which are most becoming to them are imparted to our garments by experts in the designing of juvenile fashions.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

How about that boy? Does he need a new spring suit? Boys are always hard on their clothes, and for that reason we always make it a point to buy the strongest and most serviceable, and at the same time have an eye out for style. We can suit your boy in any style he wants.—Higers', Port Huron, Mich.

Bring your boy along when you come to our store. Everything you want for him and everything he wants for himself is here—and cheap, too. * * * Everything right to dress the little fellow right.—Walker's Clothing House, York, Pa.

If he's the live, active, kicking kid or the quiet, orderly, mischievous boy, we have the stuff to fill the requirements. Spring styles for boys are so varied, so diversified and so numerous that nothing but a call at The Utica will make you realize the variety.—The Utica Clothiers, Valley Junction, Ia.

Mothers' day. Bring your boys to the Gardner store to-morrow and have first choice of these new spring clothes. They've been coming in at a rapid rate the past week, so there are lots of new goods that you haven't seen. All stocks are full of bright new styles for the boys.—J. P. Gardner, Salt Lake City.

We like the boys, like to see them becomingly clothed, and make it a special study to furnish the very latest creations in this department. If it is stylish we have it.—J. Waterman, Bangor.

New reefers for his majesty the boy. He will like the style, while the parents will appreciate the inclination of The Big Store, emphasized in these prices, to give extra value.—The S. Carsley Co., Montreal, Can.

Hard to tear or rip—compared with the usual ready-made boys' clothes these stand the strain wonderfully well—they are washable, strongly sewed and are probably as serviceable as you'll find.—Flint & Kent, Buffalo, N. Y.

We've been working while you've been thinking. We've made improvements by watching the wear and tear of boys' suits. We have rounded up these ideas and invite you in to see the result. The smaller your boy, the more variety we can show.—Frank M. Low & Co., Portland, Me.

Uncommonly good boys' clothing at the price of inferior goods. The pleasant days of the year are now arriving, and the boy must be garbed in a manner befitting the season. Profit by the example of the thousands of careful women who come here for their boys' clothing whenever the need arises.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

You can buy cheaper clothes for your boy than our kind but, don't; it won't pay. Nowhere can you waste money so easily as on poor clothes for boys. We have good clothes, made for the boys that run and scramble, tumble and climb, real boys, your kind and our kind.—Trenton.

A parent purchasing boys' clothing of us has the satisfaction of knowing that his boy has the best articles obtainable for the money, thoroughly up to date as to style, workmanship and material.—Best & Co., New York.

If you'll just try to climb a fence you'll know why boys like the Samson Suspended Waist.—Kaufman Clothing Co., Lexington, Ky.

The latest styles in boys' attire. Our supremacy in boys' clothing is undisputed. It is manifested not only in the lowness of our prices, but in the beauty of the styles and the greater amount of wear the youngsters get out of our garments.—Kaufmann, Pittsburg, Pa.

With "blizzardy" weather ahead, a lively interest ought to center in these much under-priced children's winter coats. With Uncle Sam's forecasters predicting the coldest weather of the year is yet to come, the importance of this bit of timely news from our cloak department well merits quick action on the part of the mother of every coat-needing child hereabouts.—McConnell & Co., Scranton, Pa.

A good Suit for a Growing Boy.—Allow us to present "The Wanamaker Special" at $5. Double-breasted coat; knee trousers, with the critical points—seat and knees—reinforced. All-wool materials—blue serge and a fine line of fancy chevots, including a very stylish gray plaid, just in. Seams silk-sewed and taped throughout. Sizes 8 to 17 years.—Wanamaker, New York.

Buy Leahy's wear resisters for the boys. They are money savers to you.—W. P. Leahy, Ottumwa, Ill.

Not only because our boys' garments are tailored particularly strong in every minute detail, enabling them to resist every strain an active boy can give them—but because with this essential characteristic which insures the greatest possible satisfactory service—there is combined the most up-to-date styles at the lowest consistent minimum cost, which makes them truly irresistible. Unless a boy's clothes are made exactly right, there is a discordant note in his make-up which is out of all keeping with his boyish traits and characteristics. Dress your boy properly—get him the sort of clothes he ought to wear—you will be surprised at the improvement in his whole appearance—gratified at the wear which properly made and well-fitting clothes will give him.—A. C. Barley & Co., Marion, Ind.

Boys' Cowboy Play Suits.—Here are picturesque play suits, that will tickle the boys, and yet provide inexpensive clothes that wear like overalls, for rough, romping boys. The suits are made of brown cotton twill—a sort of denim. The blouse and long trousers are trimmed with a fringe of the material down the seams, at the side, just as real cowboys like to dress themselves; and they are further trimmed with red cloth at the cuffs. The suits have the cheapness and durability of overalls; but are ever so much more attractive. Sizes 4 to 12 years.—Wanamaker, New York.

Great stocks of all that boys need for Summer at seashore, country, mountains or in city—everything to keep them cool, clean and comfortable—in assortments that have made us known as headquarters for boys' clothing. With the Fourth so close at hand, when vacations begin, the following offerings are of special interest to those who want style and quality at the lowest prices at which these essentials can be procured.—Hearn, New York.

Now is the right time to buy Boys' Clothing, whether it is needed for immediate use or not. We are closing out all our own oddments, and also the surplus stocks of several first-class makers.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Don't stop to think how we do it. Don't put off until to-morrow or next week; take advantage of the offering now—this very minute. It means buying any child's suit in the store at half; yes it means even more, for are our prices not always fully 20 per cent. lower than equal value elsewhere?—The Washington Market Clothing Co., Trenton, N. J.

Sharp reductions in boys' wearables.—Halpert & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Extraordinary sale of the dressy, merchant-tailored, ready-to-wear spring suits for big boys and little boys.—Lit Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Dressing the lads. The reason why we have a department for boys where mothers like to bring them is because we were boys ourselves once and can remember the necessities of youth.—The Hub, Milwaukee, Wis.

Just the clothes for that lively youngster of yours. He'll knock fine tailoring and pretty togs in a short time with his baseballing and fence-climbing stunts! Our brand is intended for just such as he.—P. J. Gardner, Salt Lake City, Utah.

It's the opinion and judgment of the mother we appeal to. * * * Her criticism of clothes style for the little men and her suggestions have helped us in many instances to improve either in design or color effect. We show this spring season some suits that reflect the opinions of both the parent and designer.—Sauter Brothers, Scranton, Pa.

See here, mother! Just a moment. * * * You know and everybody knows that boys are harder on clothes than men, and yet the flimsiest of stuff is usually made into boys' suits. It makes boys' clothes cost more by the year. It makes the boy look badly dressed half the time. The new things are here.—L. Herz & Son, York, Pa.

Two artists in the little gentlemen's department are constantly employed in designing new and attractive ideas in boys' and children's clothing—satisfactory styles that please both the little gentleman and their parents. Do you wonder that our stores are usually recognized as the headquarters for all that's superior in wearables for boys and little gentlemen.—Smith, Gray & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Boys' clothing at well-cut prices.—Tod, Butman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

"The Quality Store." For little chaps. We show the nobbiest line of fancy suits for boys of from 3 to 8 that you'll find in town. Don't fail to see all our styles.—Mullen & Bluett, Los Angeles, Cal.

How's the boy's suit? Beginning to show signs of wear? Does he look as spick and span as his schoolmates? We want mothers to take a look through our boys' department. We want to show you how we can make a "little man" of your boy and not "hit" your purse very hard either.—Stern & Benheim, Altoona, Pa.

No mother who sees this showing of dainty little wash dresses so modestly priced would think of taking time and trouble to make them at home. The new spring arrivals are here. There are Russian dresses, Russian dresses with trousers, and French dresses, for little tots 1 to 4 years of age. They are made of crisp, washable materials—percales, madrases, linens and piques, and come in white, plain blues and tans, fancy stripes, plaids and polka dots. Some show dainty hand embroidering.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis, Min.

Boys' and youths' attire. In vastness of assortment, range of materials and styles, our offering of clothing for boys and youths is unequalled. The superiority of cut, make and wearing qualities is recognized by all who have purchased our goods. We provide clothes for young people suited to their ages—not men's clothes made small.—Best & Co., New York City.

Why should you be an exception. Others save money on their boys' apparel. You should do the same. We want to treat all alike. Come in to-day so as not to be disappointed.—Selleck & Price, South Norfolk, Conn.

Rigs for the Small Boy.—Buster Brown Suits for small boys have come TO STAY; that's the reason they GO SO FAST. Counters that were sparse yesterday are full to-day. Stuffs and trimmings to delight the hard-to-please mammas. Wash weaves—and wool ones—not a proper style missing from the grand collection.—Eiseman Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

Boys' Clothing at Little Prices.—Every price quoted here is a special one. Every garment is tailored right up-to-the-minute in style. There is money-saving for every buyer here.—Solomon's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Pungent News of Boys' Clothing. Here is news concerning just the clothing the boys will need for vacation time wear—pointed with the sharpest sort of reduction. All style garments are embraced from the popular "Buster Brown" to the plainest play suit.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Boys' Suits That You'll Like.—You'll like them for their style and goodness. You'll like them better still, for costing so little to-day. They are from our regular stock—the best made suits for boys that you'll find anywhere, at their regular prices. But they are odd lots that we're clearing out now; hence these savings.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Remember that we are offering you The May Co.'s Boys' Clothes, the standard by which St. Louis mothers judge all others, at very special prices for to-morrow and Saturday. The garments are perfectly finished, and are full of snap and ginger, such as only high-class sorts are, and all are stitched with silk throughout.—The May Co., St. Louis.

The prettiest sight you ever saw is to watch the strutting youngsters in double-breasted suits or Norfolk Suits, and double-breasted Belted Overcoats, the best-fitting clothes of the kind they ever had, going around our stores from one mirror to another. Some of them grin, and some of them blush—and the mothers look very proud—we're very proud, ourselves.—Smith, Gray & Co., New York, N. Y.

Almost every boy likes to wear the dashing suits that are just like those worn by real sailors, and his mother always likes to see him in them, too. These suits are made with the regulation sailor blouse, in which every detail is similar to those worn in the navy.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Boys' Clothing—High Tide.—When the top coat is to do service for two winters—as the Wanamaker coats will and mostly do—they must be chosen with utmost care; properly balanced, so they will neither be too big this winter nor too tight next. For the quality of our clothing we are responsible—if one fails you may have another.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Boys' Overcoats!—In buying overcoats for boys some folks think that just any old thing will do, as he will soon wear it out! You couldn't practice poorer economy when you buy that kind. Put your money into the best you can buy! Good all wool fabrics, together with good, honest tailoring and the best possible trimmings, marks an Emmons coat apart from all others—prices are most reasonable, too!—M. R. Emmons Co., Atlanta, Ga.

New blood, new styles and new efforts are maintaining our reputation as producers of big values in boys' and children's clothing.—Phil Wolcott & Co., New York.

Boys' new spring suits decidedly under price. Strange news, isn't it—to offer fine new spring clothes for boys at a bargain, before buying time has rightly begun. It's a rare bit of good news, particularly for parents who are ambitious to have their boys look well, and who appreciate a liberal saving in the cost.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

This is a splendid offering of boys' Russian and sailor blouse suits that we secured from one of our best manufacturers. All of the suits are spic-and-span-new, in perfect condition. They are in a wide variety of worsted and mixed cheviots.—Wanamaker, New York.

We are ready. This means that we are prepared to exhibit our spring line of young men's, boys' and children's clothing.—Becker, Mayer & Company, Chicago, Ill.

Clothing to please the boy, quality to please the mother, and prices to make a happy father.—London Clothing Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

From the time he's a toddler of four till he reaches the four-score mark, we meet all his clothing wants.—London Clothing Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Boys will be boys. The average boy at play thinks he is doing his duty when he walks on his knees, slides down every fence rail he strikes, romps and plays in such a manner that mother is in despair when she surveys his clothing. She longs for a cast iron garment, but the next best thing is the Lion Brand of boys' clothing. They make a boy look like a gentleman, and feel like a king. They are selected with a view to make both parents and boy our friends in every way. The boy wants a suit to look right and the parent one that costs right. The combination is guaranteed at this store. Come in and see our "Lion" brand suit, which we sell cheap. You will be surprised at so much goodness for so little money.—A. Bishop, Picton, N. S.

Boys to be well dressed should wear clothing such as can only be had from our boys' clothing department—every garment possesses snap, originality and quality.—The B. & M., Peoria, Ill.

Bargains for boys. Here's real profit-sharing. Great bargains—just the great bargains we mean them to be. Practical profit-sharing—nothing more—nothing less—this keen price-cutting on our finest boys' clothing. Every suit and overcoat in the stock must go now. Earlier we look for profit, but now the main thought is room for spring stock. This is real profit sharing—read on!—The May Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

Stirring news for boys. New things are pushing into the Boys' Store as well as everywhere else—and we have picked out three of the most stirring values we ever had for a special word of mention to-day.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

You get something more than merely good material, strongly put together, when you buy our boys' clothing. These qualities are, of course, very essential. But besides all this you get style, originality, appropriateness, suitability—the fitting of the individual boy with an individual effect—and, above all, the satisfaction of knowing positively that you get the correct thing at the right price—something that will stand criticism and stand wear, and be liked as well in the end for its durability as it was at first for its appearance.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

If you have a boy that knocks his clothes to pieces and gets them out of shape a month or so after you buy them, don't blame the boy. It's the fault of the clothes. It is a poor sort of a boy that will stand up along the fence to keep his clothes in good order, when the rest of the boys are playing leap-frog or having a wrestling match.

"Wanamaker Special" suits and reefers are made for boys that are going to do just the rough and tumble things that live boys ought to do. We pick clothes that will stand the racket, absolutely all-wool, but made of good long yarns that give strength and "stay-right" to the cloth.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Mothers who consider well the value of Bloomingdale's boys' clothing—who know how well it wears, and who are particular about having their boys dressed well—are the ones who have made this clothing store of ours the most popular in town.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

We've been doing lots of work to make vacation easier for the mothers and more enjoyable for the boys. Such a complete stock of summer suits for boys has never before been shown in Bay City. Cheviots and flannels, serges for dress-up, or for hard play; for the back yard or the front lawn.—Broas, Galloway & Co., Bay City, Mich.

Boys' washable suits in a full assortment of pretty and durable colors, detachable shields and full plaited coat sleeves; sizes 3 to 10 years—best bargain you'll read this summer.—The 14th Street Store, New York.

Our position in the boys' trade sets the pace of the town. An important factor is to keep the prices reasonable. Buying for two of the largest retail stores in the West enables very close selling prices.—The Nebraska, Kansas City, Mo.

If you're blessed with a boy full of life and ginger, he probably soils and wears out his summer suits faster than you can put them on him. You've no doubt thought of overalls, and then decided that they were too hot and ugly. These cowboy suits are made of stout twilled denim, in khaki color, and trimmed with red sateen, and fringe of the same material. Strong and inexpensive as overalls; but they'll tickle the boy, and not disgrace his parents.—Wanamaker, New York.

We sell more fine clothing for boys than does any other store in town—clothing of aristocratic style; out-of-the-common sort; exclusive. That is an absolutely knowable fact. Every season's turn brings back careful mothers who have learned how much we can help them—and brings many new faces, too; for we seem to be winning business from even the best of the other stores.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Good serviceable school suits in snappy mixtures that look well and are not expensive, quality considered. Impress your boy with the necessity of looking neat. It will benefit him in the future.—The Leader, Memphis, Tenn.

Boyish grace and mannish finish are peculiarly characteristic of "American" brand clothes—they keep the boy looking a boy and yet clothe him with the wholesome independence of the man. In fabric, fit and finish they have nothing in common with ordinary clothes for boys—better made, smarter looking, more punctiliously finished, lower priced.—Walter Mitchell, Mobile, Ala.

Remarkable how these suits are going—that is, it would be remarkable if the extraordinary values were not taken into account. It is nothing uncommon for mothers to bring in their families of from two to four and even five boys and rig them out complete for school.—Bergerman Bros., Pueblo, Colo.

School opening time is near enough to warrant immediate preparation. Is your boy's wardrobe complete? More likely than not school clothing is wanting. Find out what is lacking, then come here and pick it from this exceptionally complete stock. You wouldn't think such savings were possible.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We do not care how strenuous boys are, our clothing is built to stand the test of time and the playground—it's cut and shaped with care and made by skilled tailors who are mindful of a boy's needs. That's why the Simpson Crawford Co.'s apparel holds its shape —lasts so long and gives complete satisfaction. The worth of every garment is guaranteed, and you'll find our prices no more than you'll have to pay for the ordinary factory-made products elsewhere.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Was your boys' last suit as good as it looked? Did it stay together? Did it hold its color and shape? Did the buttons stay on? If they didn't, perhaps you bought too much on looks. False ornament is often used to hide poor cloth. Clothes are as pretty here as anywhere, but the beauty is more than skin deep.—Wentworth Clothing Co., Spokane, Wash.

The manufacturers of Wanamaker's clothing for boys tell us that we should talk more about the excellence of the clothing they make for us. They say other stores never demand that fabrics shall be all-wool, or that they should be silk-sewed on both sides.—Wanamaker, New York.

Sale of children's jackets. It would seem a pity for any little boy to wear an old, shabby coat to school now, when these new jackets are almost given away, wouldn't it?—The Waschauer Store, Madison, Ill.

Little suits with big value in every one. Honestly made, with the intention that they shall be as good as they look.—White & Davis, Pueblo, Colo.

Now, let him romp. The garments are made to stand it. And let his mother be critical, super-critical as to style and material and workmanship. They are made for that, too.—Wanamaker, New York.

Has your boy school clothes? Will he not need a light weight woolen suit in September? Will you not feel glad when school-time comes that the suit is ready—and cost but half the usual price?—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

You furnish the boys and we'll furnish the special trades in boys' and children's clothing. Our "Summer sale" means a good chance to fit your boys out.—Wise, Smith & Co., Hartford.

A princely showing of boys' fall suits awaits your inspection to-day. Boy-clothes that will please parents by their sightliness, durability and moderate prices, and please the boys by their style and comfort. Pre-eminent are the Russian blouse suits for boys, sizes 2 1-2 to 7. In blue serge, gray worsteds and chevots. Knickerbocker trousers.—Gemmill, Burnham & Co., Hartford.

They make little men. Our stock of nobby suits in single-breasted blouse, single-breasted Norfolk, double-breasted Chesterfield, and double-breasted Russian suits are made from extra materials to make them wear. Workmanship upon them is the best; the designs are on the best lines to make a boy feel and look manly—they are right every way. We only want parents to look our stock through, and we will leave the rest to their good judgment. Our aim is to clothe boys.—G. H. Lake, Rome, N. Y.

School suits for the boy. You want him stylishly dressed. That's comparatively easy. You want clothes for him that will wear. That's the difficult part, but one that is not overlooked at this store. Our new stocks pay full attention to style and emphasize quality and workmanship—ask to see them.—Trenton Clothing Co., Trenton, N. J.

Vacation outfits for the summer boy.—Kemp & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

It is not always easy for a mother to decide upon her boy's outfit, but we make it as simple as possible by showing garments that are adapted especially to the boy's age and the use to which the suit is to be put.—C. B. Fudge Co., Muncie.

A message to mothers. Our very desirable selections in children's two-piece suits from $2.50 to $8.00 for the lads from 8 to 16 years old, will attract the mothers who test the economy by the measure of goodness, the superiority of the fashion and fit of the suits.—Ware-Pratt Co., Worcester, Mass.

"Hurry up, fellers." Thus spake a bright-eyed youth of eleven summers as he held in his hand his choice out of the bargain suit sale—"You see," he explained to the busy salesman, "we must be in school by 9 o'clock." This lad was unaccompanied by parent or guardian, in fact all but two were, showing the implicit faith placed in our printed announcements by parents at large—an honor we appreciate, as these bargains testify. We can't recall the time when we had so many boys in our store so early in the morning. There was a small army waiting for us to open our doors, and there was a rush for the long counter—and what quick perception they displayed in choosing the choice bargains.—Morris Gross Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Vacation clothing and beach suits for boys.—A boy does not want to fret about whether clothes are going to be soiled or not when he goes to the beach; but he is out for all the fun there is; so as a reasonable parent supply him with good clothing but do not pay too much for it. We have for too long a time supplied parents who have boys to clothe with garments which have met their approval in every way.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Not a hard matter to dress your small boys comfortably and coolly in summer. These sailor suits, for example—washable, of galatea and percale—jaunty and well made. We've equipped hundreds of little boys with them so far this season.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Washable suits for boys.—A boy need not be so careful of his summer rough-and-tumble clothes when his parents only have seventy-five cents at stake. And the summer-time's no time to "be careful." While this exceptional offering lasts you can lay by two or three handsome, well-tailored little washable suits for boys of 3 to 12 years for the ordinary price of a single suit at the season's beginning. True—lots are broken—but the size-range is there.—Wanamaker's, New York, N. Y.

This sale hits the boys.—Lots of wearing time yet for boys, though it is clearing time for us. Lucky savings for those who want the best wearing shirts made. They are madras in pretty woven and printed patterns, the boys' made just the same as the men's in every respect, cuffs attached or separate, plain or plaited fronts. Shirts that have the highest character of shirt making in them. There are light grounds or dark grounds, about 30 different styles to select from.—Loeser's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

At times boys seem to run all to legs, and we have trousers to fit these very legs and these very times.—D. H. Eames Co., Worcester, Mass.

Have you a boy of three to eight years? If you have he's a lucky boy, for you can buy him as handsome a suit as you'd want him to wear for $2.—I. I. Goldsmith & Sons, Binghamton, N. Y.

A race is on among the boys' sailor suits. The finish line is your ownership, and the summer playtime comfort of your small boys. Time-limit is three to twelve years, and every boy between those ages is a possible prize winner.—Wanamaker's, New York.

In clothes for boys.—We would like to be able to give all the boys in Brooklyn such good clothes as these for such little prices—but we can't do it. They will last through to-morrow though we think—and altogether it is the best news we have had this fall. We leave it to the boys—and their mothers.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Summer outfitting for strenuous boys. This boys' department is in excellent shape to care for all boys with or without their mothers. Wash suits are now the thing to be investigated and be assured our showing is not to be equaled in this city.—Mendel & Freedman, New Haven, Conn.

We clothe boys well for vacation. Just think what the average boy has to go through in vacation. And where he goes his clothes go, too, except in swimming. One of our tough-wearing suits and an extra pair of pants ought to see him through all right. We never saw better made or stronger suits for boys than we have here. And prices are about what you find tagged to the ordinary wear-out-quick suits.—Comstock Bros., South Norwalk, Conn.

More Norfolks for the boys. Boys like 'em. Mothers buy 'em—hard work keeping them in good supply.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Our boys' and children's clothing stock is aglow with newness. Stylish and exclusive clothing. Durable and big values.—The Surprise Store, Pittsburg, Pa.

Spring suits for the boys. The kind that is away from the ordinary—the Emmons kind, made with all the style and goodness that can possibly be crowded into a garment.—M. R. Emmons Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Mothers who are particular about the appearance of their boys' dress will find much satisfaction in looking over our line of boys' clothing for this season. Holbrook & Perkins, Colorado Springs.

The evolution of the boy into "men's clothes" is a critical process, with which we, as good clothes makers, have something to do. We make clothes which look manly to the boy; and boyish to the parents.—Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Chicago, Ill.

Boys' department. Will the mothers investigate? A lucky buy of boys' manly blouses. And we will make a quick turn by giving the boys full benefit of the reduction, better for us and better for the boys.—Crews-Beggs Dry Goods Co., Pueblo, Col.

Boys' wear. The youngster will grow to be a man almost before any of us realize it. Then his patronage may be more valuable than ever. Probably a wife and children will help to increase its volume. We begin to forge the links that hold our customers while they are very young. That's why "Macy's" remains a popular household word. Children follow the trade-habits of parents. It isn't unusual to see three generations of the same family beneath this roof at the same time. And we do splendidly by all of them.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

Every suit in the store is all wool and sturdily as well as stylishly made. Hardly anyone ever attempts to match our value giving in boys' clothing.—Wm. J. Jordan, Newburyport, Mass.

Just for the boys.—Clearing time for us. Lots of wearing time for these garments that are eminently suitable for school use up to Christmas time. Lucky savings for prudent purchasers.—Sanger's, Dallas, Tex.

Friendly chat with parents about boys' clothes. When it comes to wearing out clothes, if your boy is a healthy little chap, he doubtless requires a new suit as often as your neighbor's boy. You can teach a boy to be neat, but all the admonishing in the world to be careful is forgotten the moment the youngster enters heartily into boyish play. So, as parents, be reasonable about it—give your son well made clothing, but for vacation wear, don't buy the expensive kind. Still you can always be sure of style and don't pay extra for it if you buy the clothing at Hamburger's.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Boys' clothing from Paris. Some out-of-the-ordinary things from the Bon Marche in Paris—you will find the name on the tickets. Clothes that young French garconnets are going to wear this fall. The trousers are mostly bloomers—French boys cling to them persistently. The cloths are sometimes fine serge or cheviot, or a material called "corkscrew," which is very much like our English Venetian. One suit is called the "Boer"—cream colored or dark blue serge, with bloomer trousers and a pleated blouse that comes down into a broad belt of silk or leather. It doesn't hang over like the blouses of our own American sailor suits, but it has a sailor collar and a little tie. The "Trouville" is a coat-and-vest suit of corkscrew cloth, with a blouse either of the same stuff or of white serge or even of silk, pleated and fastened with fancy buttons and finished at the waist with a broad sash. If American mothers want their boys to look as French as French can be they will put them into suits of this sort in the fall.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

Boy's suits for autumn school days.—Suits that any mother may be proud to put her boy into; and marked at little bits of prices, for such handsome, stylish, seasonable suits.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Many extraordinary offers. These are days of great interest in the boys' clothing store, on the main floor. Stocks have been coming in all week at prices quite unprecedented. The lagging summer has thrown many makers into a flurry. Consequently the attractions offered for Saturday are such as to warrant your instant attention.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

Boys' overcoats.—The crisp mornings and evenings insist on overcoats for health as well as comfort. They must supplement the thin suits, which are ample at midday.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Boys' Norfolk suits.—If you have dressed your boy in a two-piece sailor or vested suit, make a change in his clothes and buy a Norfolk. It has the characteristics of a two-piece suit, as the picture shows, yet the box-plaits, yokes and belt make it an entirely different style. We have an immense assortment of these suits in blue twilled chevot and blue serge—heavy-weight material, for fall and winter wear. The clothes were made in our own workshops, and we guarantee every stitch.—S. N. Wood & Co., San Francisco, Cal.

Boys' stylish fall clothing.—A little early for school, but get best of first showing. Several weeks yet intervene before vacation days are over, yet you realize that the boys had a long summer with plenty of play and possibly have not a serviceable suit with which to begin the new school year. It is a case of buying, anyhow, so you might as well buy soon as late, and by taking advantage of the first showings you can get the best of the assortments and have the assurance that prices will not be any cheaper 60 days from now. Our boys' clothing department is a representative of its class and parents who have purchased from us know that they have received best values for their money, for at all times our prices are from 15 to 25 per cent. lower than exclusive clothing stores, and we are the only firm which says to every customer, "If the boy's clothing does not wear, bring back the suit and we will exchange for a new one."—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

For the boy of three as for the boy of three score years, we've every thing to wear. Everything for the youngster gathered in one department—that saves his mother's steps.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

How time flies! Here is September. If you have your own ideas about what your boy should wear—you will find your ideas here. If you are looking for something better than usual you'll find we've anticipated your wishes—sailor, Russian blouses—Norfolks, etc.—Talbot & Co., Fall River, Mass.

Pardon the egotism, but it is a fact that never in any city in the world have such handsome models in children's finery been shown as we are showing right now; the very smartest models for little chaps; those that are considered the smart ideas in the big capitals of Europe—in Paris, London and Vienna. They are all exhibited in our juvenile department.—Raphael's, San Francisco.

All boys' goods cost less. The sterling qualities of the Crescent clothes for boys are so well known a sale like this brings splendid response, even though given at the very end of the season. The special prices will continue all day Saturday. The sale closes Saturday night. Everything for boys is included, except the K. & E. 50c blouses.—The Crescent, Spokane.

Boys' wash suits for less than half price. We can hardly expect to secure such a handsome assortment of wash suits for boys as we are showing for some time to come, for they are distinctive new 1907 styles, finely tailored—the handsomest suits we ever saw, and priced less than half, in three lots.—W. M. Whitney & Co., Albany, N. Y.

The time of year so anxiously looked forward to by all mothers of boys from 3 to 8 years—the time when all boys' wash suits and pants reach their lowest prices. This year the bargains are better than ever before, for, owing to the cold weather, our stock is practically complete, thus allowing ample room for the gratification of all tastes. You will find just what you wanted a month ago at just half its former price.—The Plymouth Clothing House, Minneapolis.

The boys' clothing walks the bargain plank and the low prices have set a lively pace. It does not take much argument on our part to convince mothers of the savings to be made when they once get a look at the goods and learn how little it costs to own them. Our clothes for boys are as good as our clothes for men and that fact speaks volumes as far as quality and style goes. Present prices clinch the argument.—Horsfall & Rothschild, Hartford, Conn.

Boys' odd pants cut down. Special prices in boys' odd pants—for which there is always an active demand—should bring a hearty response to the boys' section to-morrow morning.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

What kind of a boy have you? A gentle, quiet house boy, or a scrambling outdoor sort? Never mind, we have clothes for both. The new things are waiting for you. Don't allow yourself to be tempted by the showy stuff that sells so cheap. It is pretty. You will catch no cotton mixed masquerading as all wool here.

Whether it is seashore, mountains or just plain country, vacation time is hard on clothes, and it's just at this time that we best like to have boys first wear our clothes, for it's when put to the test of wear that our boys' clothing shows forth to best advantage.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Clothing that defines the word distinction. There is an air of elegant ease to the fit and hang of our Eaton-made clothing that calls for a second look, no matter who wears it. That's what we mean when we state, Eaton-made clothing is distinctive. It reflects every tendency of the latest mode, also a refinement and dignity that is the height of good taste. Particularly is this the case in respect to our boys' clothing, which exerts an educational influence on the youthful mind on the principles of good dress, that cannot be measured in mere dollars and cents.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Come and bring your boys and be rigged out from top to toe in all the latest creations in men's and boys' wear. Our motto is "Good Goods Cheap"—not cheap goods.—Putnam Clothing House, Ogden, Utah.

How many boys have you? Speak right up! Never mind if you have a dozen—we have suits for every one of them. Our selection of boys' suits is so large it is not only easy to make a selection, but they are easy to pay for as well. We have them just as good as you want and as cheap as you can afford to buy. We fitted half of the boys for Easter and now we want to fit the other half, and if the mother will consider prices and quality we will have easy sailing with the remainder of the boys.—K. H. Cowthorpe & Co., Houston.

Everything for boys from head to foot. In buying boys' clothing, the unthinking buyer often goes adrift on a sea of trouble, not realizing that the great struggle between many of the manufacturers is not to see which can make the best, but which can sufficiently sugar-coat the worst so that the public will swallow without detection. Not so with us, for in supplying our boys' store, we look to no one—we are our own manufacturers. We let but one factor enter in—"how good." Then as to prices—we save you the manufacturer's profit.—Eiseman Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

Boys' clothing, to be right in every way, should be made with a view to boys' needs, and suitable in material and make for their ages and for the occasions required. It is a trade in itself to make boys' clothes. Our boys' clothes are literally and distinctively what they claim to be—boys' clothes—not men's clothes made small. And the fact adds nothing to the cost.—Best & Co., New York.

Boys are mighty hard on clothes. They are restless, always on the go, kneeling, scrambling, scuffling, climbing, and in a hundred and one pranks that knock clothing to pieces. Our clothing is made by makers who know the needs of boys. It is made to wear and stand the strain; it will not rip and go to pieces; it is cut in the latest fashion, and has all the "kinks" and "ginger" admired by the "little men" and their elders.—White & Davis, Pueblo, Colo.

"Oh, for one hour of youthful joy." To be a fair-haired boy again! To be dressed as we could dress now! What a difference! We could be rigged out in clothes fit for a prince now. We had no chance of doing this when we were young. There was no Big Store like ours then. There are few like ours now. You can't find anything in the largest cities to surpass the magnificence of our spring offerings for boys and children.—Kaufman Clothing Co., Lexington.

"Our boy" can be suited to his heart's desire in one of our mannish, perfect fitting waists.—McConnell & Co., Scranton, Pa.

You will be surprised at the reasonableness of the outlay necessary to make the little fellow comfortable during the hot weather—comfortable and neat all at the same stroke.—Eiseman Bros., Atlanta.

Little men's suits. Let us make little men out of your boys. Let us make them the best dressed little men in Salt Lake, by putting suits on them that have style, fit and finish. Let us give you suits that wear, for little money.—J. P. Gardner, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Strong boys' clothes need to be strong and stout, else the youngster will find a way to rip and ravel them. Ours are—all seams taped, the strain points stayed, buttons and button holes reinforced, the best of cloth in all garments. And yet style is not neglected, as you'll realize after seeing our line.—C. A. Weed & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

We would have hard work to get any better suits than these so far as wear is concerned—and their coolness and good looks are evident at first glance.—Fredrick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our clothes for boys will stand pulling and hauling.—Frank M. Low & Co., Portland, Me.

To mothers of boys: Perhaps you wonder why we talk so much of our boys' clothing, furnishings, hats and shoes, when there's so much more profit in men's things. Simply because we want to get hold of boys who are growing into men—want to keep our business growing from the bottom up.—Rogers, Peet & Company, New York.

Sale of Boys' Overcoats.—We could hold these garments over until next Winter and get full prices for them.

But that's not our way of doing business.

Every overcoat bought for this season goes this season.

Therefore these reductions:—Marean, Lauder & Bone, Binghamton.

Boys' Wear for Spring Now Ready.

As the Spring season approaches the experienced mother naturally turns to Harris & Frank's for the new ideas in Boys' wear.

Maintaining as we do, the largest and most comprehensive assortment of Boys' Fixings in Los Angeles, individual tastes can be satisfactorily gratified here, as nowhere else.

And there is genuine economy in patronizing us—for not only are prices moderate, but all goods are of reliable quality and sold under our guarantee of satisfaction.

The new wearables for Boys, Youths and Little Men are now on display—everything that the youngsters wear, from hat to shoes. Latest Styles in Regatta Wash Suits. "Mail Orders Filled."—Harris & Frank, Los Angeles.

A boy won't be a man until he is grown up, but he likes to act and look like a man. A "Sampeck" boy's suit will make him think he looks like a man, because it has the same general details as are found in men's clothes. The same inherent style, the same niceties of fit and appearance. Yet "Sampeck" clothes for boys are boys' clothes, made only for boys, and will withstand the hardest wear. Our boys' department will be a revelation to you. We have all sorts of clothes. Every fabric and color.—Levinos, Washington, Pa.

Free with boys' suits. We are glad to give free with boys' suits choice of the following: Set of Le Diablo, base-ball and bat, fielder's glove, catcher's mitt.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Dainty and durable. No words better describe the characteristics of our children's suits. The styles and patterns are the newest, and you will not find another display of children's clothing that is as attractive and, withal, as moderately priced as this.—Browning, King & Co., Chicago, Illinois.

Boys' summer clothes. Most comfortable. Best values. These Loeser clothes for boys are most comfortable because they are properly tailored. They fit. They hold their shape. They stand a lot of knocking about in play. They keep their good looks longer than ordinary clothes. Any mother whose boys have worn Loeser clothes knows all about their special excellences—and will tell you about them if you ask her. What is more, she will tell you that she pays no more in the first place for these clothes, and since they last longer than ordinary clothes she really saves money by buying them.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Boys' $3 wash suits, $1.75. With two pairs of trousers. We count this as timely and interesting a sale as was ever planned to promote such sound economy by mothers of boys. These suits are handsome Russian and sailor blouse styles, all made as we like to see boys' clothing made—with distinctive good fashion and at the same time with extra carefulness of workmanship that makes it reasonably sure that the suits will stand hard service. The fabrics are galateas, chambrays and white washable fabrics, and the sizes of the sailor suits range from six to nine years; those of the Russian suits from two and a half to six years. Each suit has two pairs of bloomer trousers and four of the styles are fairly indicated by the picture.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

The clothes to keep your boy cool and comfortable all summer. Good materials first, of course, as a foundation. But the distinguishing features of Loeser clothes for boys that make them comfortable and keep them so, are correct fit and thorough tailor work. Shoulders are broad. Sleeves are long and full large. Trousers are properly shaped and of generous cut. And every detail of workmanship has been done as though each suit had to stand an extra strain all summer long. Yet these clothes cost not a bit more than ordinary sorts—even less in some cases.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

CLOTHING—MEN'S

He—"We must economize. Suppose, darling, that you try your hand at making your own clothes."

Downer—"Because I never have my watch and my dress suit at the same time."—New Yorker.

Goodness, worth, excellence is stamped on every suit.—Kramer Bros., Scranton.

Let's help you to pay less and dress better. That's our business. And it's your business to get the most for your money.—The Royal Tailors, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Rough surfaces predominate. Seems strange that a rough-looking cloth can be cooler than a smooth one. But we can show you how true that is.—Herrick & Eckart Co., Bloomington, Ill.

Every suit and overcoat is expressive of an individuality of style and workmanship that impresses you as an example of the highest type of hand tailoring.—Opsahl, Grand Forks, N. D.

Clothing that's right must meet every expectation of the wearer. A suit or overcoat may fit right and look right and yet wear badly. Fit and looks can be seen before you buy, but time only can tell about the wear. And right here's the vital point in favor of our clothing.—Kaufmann, Pittsburg, Pa.

We know pretty well what sort of clothes you want; and we have them here ready for you to wear. The styles are right, late and correct; the quality of materials is of the best; the tailoring is extra good hand tailoring and we have sizes to fit everybody, no matter what your build is.—Habreson Bros., White-water, Wis.

Can't deliver the goods. Promises are easy to make. Newspapers don't charge the advertiser extra for them. Anybody can promise. But when it comes to carrying out the promises—fitting out men with nifty, dashy clothes—with the finger marks of good style and good tailoring all over them—that fit the form smartly and hang gracefully, some stores "can't deliver the goods." We are up to our promises.—Geo. Watson & Co., Newark, N. J.

Clearance sale.—Puts all sack suits and all overcoats on the bargain list. You know the stock, you know its scope; you know how well it provides for all your needs. Every winter has its blizzards. This winter's are arriving somewhat overdue—but do you feel like wearing your shabby overcoat seventy days longer?—Jas. Boyd, Denison, Texas.

Our suits help to success.—These sale prices help your pocketbook, too. Don't need a suit now? Won't be long, though, will it? Trousers soon begin to bag. Coat looks a little rusty. Then you'll say, wish I'd bought a suit during the sale; and remember, a well dressed man is a credit to the town; to your business, too. Come to the sale to-day.—The B. & O. Gann, Pueblo, Col.

Don't Neglect your dress! Many a young man has lost good opportunities for advancement in life simply because he did not dress well. The price of stylish, serviceable clothing to-day is so little that anyone can afford it. If you doubt this, come to our store to-day. We'll prove it to your satisfaction.—Prins Clothing Store, Marion, Ind.

A word to judicious men.—This is the season for judicious men to turn at least a modest sum of money into wearing apparel. Part of the offerings are the result of large special preparations on our part, for this event. Others are here because of market conditions that we and you will share the profits from. The occasion is important to men who like to make money by spending it well.—Graves, Cox & Co., Lexington, Ky.

A clothes-word to wise men.—Many a far-seeing man waited until after the holidays to buy a new overcoat or suit. He knew by past experience that prices would be slashed for our great January clothing sale. So he has bided his time. His reward is ready. The sale he's waited for is on. Mothers, too, have a son's interest in it.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

It's "It."—The goodness of good clothes. The mere saying of our saying that our clothing has better tailoring and more style than any other sold here does not make it so. It's the one popular accord among Columbus good dressers that our high grade garments are far better styled and fitted than those turned out by other dealers. The skill, study, care and co-operation of master craftsmen have made them so. We have every reason to believe that our goods are superior tailored and more stylish.—The Union, Columbus, O.

No fashion plate effects.

No padded figures.

No eccentricities.

Just common sense clothing for practical men.

Have you ever attended our reduction sale yet?

Every fancy suit and every overcoat in the store has been reduced in price from 20 to 25 per cent.—F. W. Wentworth Company, New Bedford, Mass.

Our totally different clothing for young men.—When we say young men, we mean chaps from 15 to 20 years of age. This is the period when they are most particular about their clothes. When younger they are apt not to care about style, when older they gradually care for comfort only, so it is the young man who is the particular man. That's why we like to serve the young men. Because they are hard to please. We do please them, however, and experience the liveliest satisfaction in so doing. There are many makers of young men's clothing, but only a few whom we consider good enough to make the clothing which we would care to offer to our customers. No suit in our stock but that is selected from piece goods, therefore the cloths are unequivocally correct. And as to the styles, they are designed by men who lead in their profession.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg.

An extra pair of trousers or two will never come amiss. Here's a chance to buy two pairs for what you'd expect to pay for one. These are in all lengths and sizes, in fancy cheviots, cassimeres and worsteds, and represent the very best values ever known to the trade. As quantity is limited, we restrict the sale to two pairs to a buyer, and dealers are barred.—Ehrich Bros., New York.

Buying ordinary clothing is like getting lost in a crowd. When you're found again, you don't know yourself.

Don't sink your personality into that of a thousand others. Be picked out from the rest. "There goes so and so—" "Know him?" "No—only by sight."

It's in the clothes. Golland Custom Clothing lets the man shine through it.

Look for the label. "Custom Shop Made," on inside pocket.—The G. M. McKelvey & Co., Youngstown, O.

A few warm days now and then need not delude you into thinking you can do without fall and winter clothing. Better prepare for the cold snap that's sure to come. We have a superb line of new cloths, woolens, etc. Kindly ask your neighbor if the suit that he had made here at such an astonishingly little price was not absolutely satisfactory in every way.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Every word and figure here is correct. The printer has made no mistake. It's a mighty sale for mighty Atlanta.—Globe Clothing Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Move forward with the rest of the world. Join in the march of progress. Get in line with those who are enjoying the advantages of our merchandising. This season we have added a line of merchant tailoring. Prices not much higher than the ready-made. Fit positively guaranteed or we keep the suit. Give us a look and see if we can't save you dollars on your purchases.—Cluckers' Clothing Store, Kenton, Ohio.

Good clothes making is not an experiment with us. By force of merit we have achieved the reputation of making only the best. Our prices are reasonable.—Strause Bros., Burlington, Iowa.

Are you going to let dollars roll through your fingers without grasping them? You're losing money by not getting next to these suits.—Hammersmith's, Galveston, Tex.

No need to argue with yourself, even though you have a good suit or overcoat. Will not another be welcome if it's but to relieve a monotonous sameness? Many of these suits are of medium weight; you could not find much better for spring service. They are identified by the Saks label. That makes them all the more desirable—especially at ten dollars.—Saks & Co., New York.

He missed a few trains, but spring finally got here—all of which means that the men of Columbus will be wanting spring garments in a hurry—means that the big army of suit buyers is headed toward these famous outfitting stores. Just a little time for pressing and to make a few alterations that may be required is all we ask—you can be wearing your spring suit in a few hours after you buy it.—Lazarus, Columbus, O.

To talk your clothing is a good thing; to advertise it is wise. In order to get lasting results, however, the goods must be all that are claimed for them and a little more. Prove our clothing by comparison—by wear, by any test you choose—it will be found honest all through and lower in price than any which even approximates it in value. How do we know this? Well, one satisfying and convincing proof is in the new customers who are coming to us every day whom we are winning and holding by sheer merit.—Mattheus Bros., Waco.

Men's spring clothes ready for the progressive sort of man who appreciates stylish, good fitting clothes—"the uncommon kind"—clothes that are built with as much care as any custom tailored suit—carefully worked, stitch by stitch, inside and outside, from first to last—the kind of tailoring that makes clothes hold their shape and look well as long as they last. In short, they're the very best clothes made. Take a little time—come in and try on one of "our kind"; you'll readily see why so many of the "tailor-made" men are now wearing our clothes.—E. S. Levy & Co., Galveston, Tex.

Pure wool fabrics vs. adulterated wool fabrics seems to be a popular topic. With us there is little to be said, for however high wool goes, however temptingly the adulterated article is presented, we shall buy the pure production only. Our manufacturing policy for fifty years has been based on quality, not cost, and the first demand of quality is an all-wool fabric.—Brokaw Brothers, New York, N. Y.

I have something to whisper into your private ear—brown is "coming in" again as a clothes color. A fashion, you know, is born, lives, dies and is re-born. So with brown. While "the multitude" has dropped it, "the favored few" are quietly taking it up. Brownish suits here in fresh patterns that are distinctly uncommon. But I have also the modish grays in a goodly range, if grayward leans your fancy. Fit and style, all the while.—Vincent, New York.

Properly tailored clothing made of proper materials will stand the test of service and prove itself worthy. The clothing we handle has the additional advantage of having been designed by the foremost experts of this age and country, and brought to the pinnacle of perfection by the best tailoring talent in the land. The leading manufacturers of men's apparel—such as Rogers, Peet & Co., confine the products of their tailor shops exclusively to us for this city—this—in connection with our own special make—gives our patrons the widest possible range of choice—as well as the benefit of the many exclusive models created by individual designers and confined to us—any attempt to describe which would fall far short of what a personal inspection will reveal. Character, tone, quality and perfection of fit are blended into a harmonious kinship in every grade we handle.—The May Co., Denver.

Perfect at the price.

Does the price mark decide for you when buying a suit or an overcoat?

Then you're easily suited, or overcoated.

This is for the man who buys for quality. How he does appreciate the splendid Brauer & Krohn coats—the superior fabrics, the spic and span shoulder fit, the way the loose skirt hangs in graceful folds, the whole get-up.—Brauer & Krohn, Los Angeles, Cal.

Uncommon clothes.—Such a vast difference between our spring clothes and the ordinary ready-to-wear clothes. Not a particle of difference between uncommon clothes and the merchant tailor's. Only about one-half the price. Workmanship just as good, fabrics from the same mill, and a little more style. $10 to $25.—A. Horowitz, San Bernardino.

It all comes back. Every cent that goes to make up the difference in price between a good suit and a poor one is money well spent. If you could see them made—see how carefully the fabrics are cut—how minutely the fashions are followed—the high class of the linings, front-stiffening and trimmings—you'd know why. Nine grades.—Lazarus, Columbus, Ohio.

It marks the man—the suit he wears. It writes style in big bold letters all over him, or else it writes something else. The fit of the collar, the way the shoulders are made, the length of coat, all must be right, or you're a marked man, so far as good taste is concerned.—Prins' Clothing Store, Marion, Ind.

If every merchant had the unbounded faith in the character of his merchandise that we have in ours you could trade anywhere with a feeling of perfect security. But it is an unfortunate fact that the newspapers are crowded with advertisements which, although they shout "dependable values" and "unparalleled merchandise," etc., offer you absolutely no proof of their good faith. In these days of strenuous competition in the retail clothing business, the people want something more than mere claims of superiority. They want—and they are certainly entitled to—ironclad insurance against loss in case the clothes they purchase are in any way faithless to the representations of the merchant who sells them. We offer you that protection with all our hearts. And to demonstrate our sincerity and good faith we will give a written guarantee in full to any person who desires it. With a store like ours, a written proof is not necessary to your protection, but we offer it to sweep away all possible doubt.—Goldstein Clothing Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

If presents were given absolutely free to buyers of clothing there could be no possible necessity of drawing a low limit to the amount purchased in order to obtain them. Where you are obliged to pay thirteen, nineteen, or any other fixed number of dollars, and over, to secure the present it is clearly evident you are also paying for the present. Should you purchase a fifty cent or a dollar article with a dollar or two added as the price of the prize you would more readily discover the motive that impelled such rare generosity. In the larger amount, it is reasoned, you are not apt to detect the additional price, or reduced values while the pulling power of an offer of a "present free" is apparent. This store offers you superior made clothing at prices that are positively right—free of rent, free of heavy expenses and free of prizes and presents. Where an article you desire does not possess sufficient merit in itself to induce you to buy it, it certainly will not materially add to its quality to obtain a present with it. Until such time as the public indicates its entire willingness to have us supply presents for them at their expense, to be given as a means of influencing purchasers, we shall adhere to the established policy of this store—the handling of clothing of a material and make away above the ordinary at prices below the prevailing.—Douthett & Graham, Youngstown, Ohio.

Just take a look at our great corner show windows—the men's fashion plate of Los Angeles. See the unmatched values; better still, come inside and see how they look on your own back—that swagger swing, proper lengths of coat, correct fullness of pantaloons, and that pretty, proper lapel. Every garment with the M. & B. label—your best evidence of honesty of price and goodness.—Mullen & Bluett Clothing Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

No man wants to pay twice what an article is worth. No man can afford to pay a fancy price to a tailor, knowing very well that his suit, when finished, may be a disappointment to him. No man can afford to wear the ordinary ready-made apparel which lacks shape and has that distressingly monotonous appearance. No man can afford to wear any clothing nowadays except Alfred Benjamin's hand-tailored garments. No man, who once tries this famous clothing, can be induced to wear any other. No store in Los Angeles supplies Alfred Benjamin & Co.'s clothing except James Smith & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

You remember the days of the "silver craze" when a lot of people voted that fifty cents' worth of silver was a dollar, especially for paying debts. Business wavered until the gold standard was safe; and now we laugh at our strange delusions. A similar attempt is being made to "debase the standard" in the clothing business; it's as great a menace to clothing interests as the silver fallacy was to the country at large; your clothing interest as well as those in the business. "Mercerized cotton" is put forward, like the cheap silver dollar, as an equivalent for all-wool; makers and dealers in it naturally want you to vote for it; they may make the price a little lower than all-wool in order to buy your vote. But you don't make anything by buying it; you lose; the profit in "mercerized cotton" clothes is larger than in all-wool, but you don't get any of it. You lose more than money by it; you lose in looks, in confidence in good clothes; maybe in self-respect. But you needn't. All-wool clothes can be easily had. Ask for them. Our label stands for all-wool; a small thing to look for, a big thing to find.—Hart, Schaffner & Marx, New York, N. Y.

Youth, sincerity and grit make a three-fold combination hard to withstand—the chap thus equipped will give and insist upon a “square deal.” We’re clothing more young men this year than last—it’s because we know how to do it. There are no frills here—just cleverly tailored clothing fairly priced.—Wanamaker & Brown, Philadelphia, Pa.

The height of the season for the double-breasted frock coat and waist-coat is here, and no man who makes any pretension to dress remains unprovided with this important apparel. The Wanamaker stocks are unusually well provided in these garments at all seasons, but naturally our lines are at their best at the present moment. There is not a size or proportion for the tall, stout, short-stout or regular figure that is not provided for. In fact, so complete and comprehensive is the size-assortment that we very frequently fit, without any alterations at all, men who had supposed that they would have to go to a tailor to get clothing to fit them.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Kirschbaum clothes are worn by a hundred thousand good dressers in New York and Philadelphia. They are popular in every great fashion center in America. They are offered to the men of this country at prices as low or lower than they are asked to pay in most stores for commonplace and inferior goods. You will see the force of our argument as soon as you try these clothes on. The good workmanship, the choice patterns and the splendid wear-resisting fabrics must appeal to you. You will know what we mean by “clothes that fit and keep their shape.”—The Sullivan Clothing Co., Hartford, Conn.

“What was your mother’s maiden name?” asked the curious old codger. “I guess,” said the youngster, “her maiden aim was to marry pa.” Our aim has always been to marry Omahans to MacCarthy tailoring. Our aim must have been good, for we’ve “tied the knot” in so many cases, with not a divorce yet asked for.—MacCarthy Tailoring Company, Omaha, Neb.

Most of us think of clothes-economy as cheapness in the original cost; but few of us stop to consider that cheap clothes mean cheap work and cheap materials, sometimes cleverly hidden behind a presentable appearance. True clothes-economy means to pay a fair price for garments that are made right all the way through; they must retain their shape and character as long as one should wear a well-made garment. The safe way is to buy Hub clothes. It is not that they may be worn for several seasons; but that they will remain fresh and shapely while they are worn. It is the hand tailoring and splendid materials that go into the Hub clothes that give them character, style, and dependability. Remember this, and let your next selection be chosen from our large stock.—The Hub, San Bernardino, Cal.

We have no schemes for getting business, all we have to offer is the tailoring and most satisfactory price. We want to get in touch with you, we believe it will be to our mutual advantage, and we promise our best efforts to serve you well. A good way to get acquainted is to call at our store and see what we have to offer you. When selecting a suit there is often some one besides yourself to be considered. Ben Franklin said: “Eat to suit yourself, but dress to suit others.” We’re running this store to interest the whole family.—Spira & Pincus, Mobile, Ala.

The most popular shade this spring is the gun metal grays. We bought large quantities of this cloth direct from the mills early in the season and took a chance on its selling. It has proved the best spring and summer shade. We have had clothes made up in our own factory into suits of the new fashionable length in double-breasted sacks. They have the latest style collar and lapels, and as for workmanship no suits can be better. Your custom tailor would charge you $35 if he made you one from this same cloth, and would put no better trimmings into it than we do. Our ready-made coats fit equal to custom. We have the finest cutters and makers. Shoulders are padded. Equal to custom, and you get the proper lines to suit your figure—long or short, stout or slim.—Boyle Bros., Boston, Mass.

A grand assortment is shown here at these prices in many of the season’s noblest patterns and styles. We might dilate at length upon their many merits; the superiority of making, the excellence of the trimmings, and the general stylish tone of every individual suit. But we’ll simply say now that in them you will find more style and quality than may be had at any other clothing store at the same prices, and your tailor would ask from $20 to $40 for as good garments.—Trenton Clothing Co., Trenton.

Economy in clothes does not consist in saving a dollar or so upon the original purchase, but in securing lasting satisfaction at a fair price.—G. Jacobi, Port Huron, Mich.

One may not wear it every day, but everyone wants a frock coat. Usually a costly and difficult proposition. Simplest thing in the world here—well-fitting and full of style and all ready to wear.—Browning, King & Co., New York.

The assortment we feature includes fancy worsted suits and blue and black serges, the very fabrics the economical man likes to buy, for they wear and look well at all times and on every occasion. The values we offer to-morrow are remarkable at the price. No man in the least need of a suit should allow this opportunity to pass by.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

They are fine, big men's overcoats and men's beautifully made suits—and so cheap! We're not "stuck"—these goods have just been made for us. The maker had cloths left over after his regular season, others are partly cut orders of other merchants who countermanded. We keep the standard of our clothing high—and the makers—the best in the land—take the losses. Complete sizes, too. Easy enough to advertise broken lots and sizes and misfits. But here's new clothing as good as made-to-order, and for practically a third the price of the ordinary good tailors' charges.—Gimbel Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

This is the season when we always make a general clearing of all winter goods in preparation for our new spring lines. It is not a sale of shop-worn goods or old styles, but of our regular winter styles and all this season's goods. There are broken lots and odd garments from whole suits that cost more to manufacture than we ask for them, but we are bound not to carry them over and they must go quickly. We are not quoting you any special prices, but there is a general mark down of 25 per cent. and a still greater reduction on certain special lines.—Bingham & Miller, Cortland.

Something different. A new fabric which we are showing in sack suits—a little in advance of the others—is an unfinished blue serge with a faint overplaid of almost invisible green—a very stylish effect.—Browning King & Co., New York.

We're making the fur fly in this stock-righting process among the men's suits. Such undertakings are carried through with a vim, and the results are frequently surprising.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Thin trousers for the hot weather.—They keep you cool and please you by their graceful fit.—Benoit Clo. Co., Portland, Me.

Men are coming by the hundreds. Why not? A chance to save considerable money on Snellenberg-tailored clothing is a chance too good to be missed. Styles of the period. Clothes and patterns every man wants. Variety vast. Good fitting. But the end is in sight. If you haven't shared the saving, come to-day.—N. Snellenberg & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Don't be like the man in Carlisle
Who scoffed at every new style.

He stuck to old ways
To the end of his days
And his arguments—well—you would smile.

In fact, they were the kind of arguments one sometimes hears against automobiles, or against the Marconi system—or against ready-made clothing—old-fashioned arguments against new-fashioned ideas.—Albert Elkins, Sacramento.

Artistic tailoring. "International" style is exclusive and worth itself more than passing consideration. Men of particular tastes will do well to examine the International Tailoring Co.'s styles and prices. The additional satisfaction obtained from garments of their make, is really money in your pocket.—Putnam Clothing House, Ogden, Utah.

"Be well dressed this spring." There is a prosperous look to the well dressed man. We can dress you.—G. Danz & Son, Fall River, Mass.

Just in time to buy, because we're selling the balance of our stock at way down prices. Come in and get fitted out in comfort at a very reasonable expenditure.—J. & W. R. Wing & Co., New Bedford, Mass.

"Facts are stubborn things," and when we advertise the best clothing for little money and back up the statement with the goods it is not hard to convince you that there are many reasons why we hold our patrons and why we are able to make so many new ones.—Surprise Clothing Co., New Bedford, Mass.

Last call on suits and overcoats.—Ashley & Pierce, New Bedford, Mass.

It is hard to describe the beauties of our spring clothing—like the season, they abound in cheerful colors.—Scharps, Galesburg, Ill.

Clothes distinction. We soar above them all. Sold last week 129 suits; 'nough said.—Scotch Woolen Mills Co., Peoria, Ill.

Our spring stock is here—the perfect, brightest, most attractive and stylish in all our experience of many successful spring seasons.—Smith, Gray & Co., New York.

Look here, people! This is a remarkable sale.—Salzenstein & Co., Peoria, Ill.

If you wear pants, you are interested in this sale. Get this fact straight in your mind.—Liberty Clothing Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Do not sit and ponder about what you are going to do about the new suit and raincoat this spring. Brace right up, and come down to the store, and we will show in a few minutes the swell-est suits and raincoats that ever came into the State of Connecticut. O, these new things are great. The snappiest, the liveliest, and withal the most tasteful styles you can possibly imagine. Nothing loud, you know. Everything in excellent taste.—Gemmill, Burnham & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Pay less and dress better. There is more style, fit and finish in fit-reform garments, than any Canadian tailor can give you—and there are other advantages. You don't take chances on the tailor's skill or on his ideas of style. You know before you buy. You don't pay for keeping a tailor idle half the year. Fit-reform tailors are busy year in and year out. You don't have to pay a tailor's bad debts. Fit-reform is sold for cash. You get a guarantee no tailor will give. Your money back for any reason or without reason.—Fit-Reform Wardrobe, Montreal, Can.

Gentle spring is holding a sort of informal reception at our new store, and you are invited. Our new spring suits are receiving the most marked attention. Fashion's new fancies bloom forth at every turn to bid you welcome.—Marean, Lauder & Bone, Binghamton, N. Y.

In the matter of dress, intelligence and taste go hand in hand. Quiet elegance is, after all, the root of genuine good taste and good breeding. We have assembled a very complete and handsome collection of fabrics for this season's wear—but none handsomer than our black and blue unfinished worsteds. The latter are, indeed, expressive, in no mean degree, of the man himself—his inner self. Single or double-breasted suits, made to order and finished in the most approved styles.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Our clothing does the work of keeping you in good trim outwardly and inwardly!—Goldsmith's, Memphis, Tenn.

Tremendous cloudburst in our clothing department.—Mara's London, Ont.

Don't complain about this warm weather, sir. It's seasonable. Dress in accordance—that's about the best way to get comfort these days. Every kind of summer clothing is here, with prices at the lowest notch. Serge is the coolest and best wearing ordinary suit—still we have all the other kinds in suits and coats and trousers you'd want to see—from the smallest price that good garments can be built to as high a price as any man wants to pay; so you can't accuse us of being partial to serges. Thin coats, serge coats, white and fancy wash vests—you can't turn around here without bumping into some good thing.—D. Katchnick, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The general public is gradually being educated to the fact that perfect fitting clothing, tailor-made throughout and ready to wear, can be purchased at about one-half the tailor's prices. The man who is really particular about his clothes naturally comes here because the merchandise found here is always of a most dependable character, is distinctive and pleasing and much broader in scope than elsewhere. Smart discounts are being offered in our suit and trouser department. Of exclusive designs, and at prices that will astonish you.—Sides & Flickinger, Harrisburg, Pa.

Men of culture require their clothing made distinctly opposite to the loud and flashy effects noticeable in many instances. Your clothes will possess refinement, elegance and dignity when we make them. Our tailors are skillful in producing figure-fit clothing, and our price—right. We carry in stock a fine line of lawn tennis and yachting flannels and homespuns.—E. F. Beaune, Windsor.

A choice that does not compel you to confine your selection to several styles—but the latitude of which is very broad, comprehending scores of the season's most desirable patterns in fancy cassimeres and cheviots in addition to plain blue and black serges. Counting variety, values, and reductions—it's one of the best sales of suits the house of Saks has ever sponsored.—Saks & Company, Washington, D. C.

"If you want to make him happy, make him comfortable. 'Comfort is the god of this world.'—E. P. Whipple. 'There's nothing that adds as much to a man's comfort as an easy lounging coat—or smoking jacket.'—Jackson's, Pittsburg, Pa.

To suit the critical eyes.—Of course this means the feminine, to satisfy the masculine taste, to resist the daily wear—these are the points we have to study in building clothing to suit our trade.—Eiseman & Weil, Atlanta, Ga.

It is no more foolish to buy a share of stock without knowing something of the property back of it than to buy a suit of clothes without knowing the workmanship inside of it. On the workmanship depends the wear and satisfaction that the suit or coat will give, and that work is largely in the hidden parts of the garments. The Loeser ready-to-wear clothes this season in the new main floor store for men are clothes of a new standard. They fit as the best custom tailored clothes fit and better than many custom tailored clothes. They have the style that the custom tailored clothes have. They will wear the best custom tailored clothes wear. They are practically custom tailored clothes ready to wear at prices as low as or lower than ordinary clothes cost. The fabrics in these clothes are the best and newest that were designed for this season. There is immense variety of them. We have watched every process of the tailor work. We know the result is of the character we can stand back of with our absolute guarantee.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

This morning, no matter what the barometer and thermometer will register, we inaugurate our spring opening of men's and boys' clothing and furnishings. Our semi-annual openings have always marked an event of extraordinary interest to gentlemen who wish to dress well at small cost, and to mothers and guardians, who not only wish their boys well, but serviceably dressed at the minimum of cost. We should not say much about price at the beginning of a season, but though our stock is more beautiful and varied than we have ever been able to offer, our best efforts have been directed to the end that prices, qualities considered, should be lower than you have ever paid.—Dreaper & Burns, Mobile, Ala.

This special tailored clothing not only fully equals that of the most exclusive custom tailor, but is made by just such skill. It represents the highest possible degree in the art of clothes making. So scientifically accurate are the patterns from which this clothing is cut that alterations are seldom required. Fashion sets certain standards, taking for her models the best types of physical manhood. It is the aim of these particular makers to have the wearers of their garments look fully up to fashion's standard.—Douthett & Graham's, Youngstown.

Content is a mixture. Sometimes a small part satisfaction and a large part resignation. So, if you're content with made-for-anybody ready made attire, perhaps that content is made up more of resignation than satisfaction. You think you can't get truly highgrade made-to-measure clothing for "your price." You'd better not become "resigned to your fate," until you see what Brauer-Krohn can do for you.—Brauer-Krohn, Los Angeles, Cal.

A question of business—to carry winter goods over to next season—or to cut the prices and sell now? Our policy is to sell—and sell this season's goods during this season—keeps our stock clean and please our customers.—Wells & Coverly, Troy, N. Y.

Every garment cut in the correct fashion, tailored by hand, equal to the best custom made garments, and as perfect fitting as any clothing can be made. We are sticklers for quality and guarantee our clothing to retain their shape and to give absolute satisfaction.—Goodmans, Milwaukee, Wis.

No effort on the part of a high class custom tailor could produce garments that possess lines of more graceful contour or character than our Paletote and Paddock overcoats. We've designed a series of models in these overcoats with our new "Concave" shoulder and "Close-fitting" collar that express the best in tailor craft.—Wm. Vogel & Son, New York, N. Y.

When wearing our clothes a few weeks, then is when the superiority of our hand-made clothes begins to become most evident. Clothes that appear to pretty good advantage when first donned, often begin to have "that careworn look" after a few weeks' wear. It's all in the way they're made and what they're made from that makes our clothes so much longer lived than ordinary ready-made clothes. They hold their shape and are always stylish.—The Boston, St. Paul, Minn.

Stylish, well-made garments, carefully sewn with silk, made by skilled tailors. Bring this with you, and if we don't show you everything mentioned in this column we will pay your car fare both ways. Come any time to-day and get first pick while the assortment is still unbroken.—King's, New York, N. Y.

At one's club or at the office a man must know he is perfectly groomed to feel at home. We have the clothes to put him at his ease. Our perfectly-fitting, ready-to-wear garments take rank with the flower of the merchant tailor's product—faultlessly tailored in the latest fabrics, they are creations of art. To see them is to possess them—and at moderate prices.—J. F. Wilson & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Useless to argue—just come in and let us demonstrate that we can and will give you a $15.00 suit or overcoat for $8.50. We guarantee you fit, style and best of materials; hence you are absolutely protected. It's impossible to be poorly dressed if you wear one of these garments.—The 14th Street Store, New York, N. Y.

After much deliberation the master designers have subscribed themselves to the model with which the "exclusive" to-order tailors will try to justify their method for the new season. We have the model ready for service. It is a single-breasted suit, straight and severe in the front, full in the back, with a rather deep center vent. The lapels are angular and liberal in size. We present this new model of exclusive fabrics in ten distinctive patterns.—Saks & Company, New York, N. Y.

Men who have bought Wanamaker clothing in the past will come back as a matter of course, those who have not purchased clothing in this store have something to learn which will be immensely to their advantage, whether it is a business suit, a dress suit or an overcoat that is needed.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

We're pretty proud of these latest productions of ours—and we believe we're justified. The most pronounced pessimist could hardly fail to admit that they're just the best ever.—Geo. Watson & Co., Newark, N. J.

The worsted fabrics this season are not only particularly adapted to the making of half-lined suits for comfortable summer wear, but the style and colorings are more beautiful than we have ever known them before. Little wonder that the season has brought such extraordinary demand for fancy worsteds. They are the most serviceable of all fabrics used in clothing. They tailor beautifully and hold their shape through the hardest service. We show a remarkable variety of patterns.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

"Clothes don't make the man, but they make all of him except his hands and face," says old John Graham in "Letters from a Self-Made Merchant to His Son." Just because good appearance is so important, we continually lay stress on good clothes, for "good clothes" and Morse-made clothes are one and the same.—Leopold Morse Co., Boston, Mass.

If we can fit your fancy we'll easily fit your frame.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York, N. Y.

Men's black garments. From every vantage point our clothing for men reflects character, individuality, refinement. It is the very acme of perfection, the highest attainment in correct mode of dress.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

Have you graduated from shabby clothes? It is the turn of a lapel, or the curve of a seam that takes a young man's fancy.—Brauer & Krohn, Los Angeles, Cal.

"'Semi-ready' is the 'wireless-telegraphy' kind of tailoring. Rapid-action—short cut to best results."—Semi-Ready Clothing Company, New York.

A good address goes a long way in aiding a man to forge to the front. We materially assist in giving you a presentable appearance by furnishing fashionable cut attire at prices below tailor made. Elegant patterns, careful workmanship. "No clothing fits like ours."—Jas. Boyd, Denison, Tex.

We consider there is nothing too good for our customers. For this reason we have arranged with Rogers, Peet & Co., for the exclusive sale of their clothing in this vicinity. As a matter of curiosity, perhaps, you'd like to look at a suit which is made better than any other clothing in the world.—Eisfeld Clothing Co., Burlington, Iowa.

A perfect fit. The assurance of a perfect fit means more to some men than quality of material. But why not have both when you can get them? The fabrics we are showing are made from the best wool, by the best mills. We guarantee both fit and material.—Doblin, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our spring stocks of fine clothes are now at their best. We give you what we think the best the world affords. The demand on us for good clothes has never been so pressed. Preparations made for this season far surpass anything we have ever shown in greatness of stocks, in variety of styles and in assortment of fashions.—The Hub, Milwaukee, Wis.

The horse show is the next important event in Boston's fashion world, yet it is not of greater importance than the Continental's mammoth display of spring and summer attire. Are you going to pay a fancy price for your spring outfit just because some merchant has educated you in his way of thinking; or, are you going to permit common sense to influence, and learn—if for only self-satisfaction—where you can obtain the best for the least cost?—The Continental, Boston, Mass.

Opening the season. All kinds of stylish clothing ready for just this kind of weather—for men, young men, and little gentlemen, in our three great stores.—Smith Gray & Co., New York.

We have cloth to suit the young and the old in shades from black to the light and tony tints, plaids, mixtures and stripes. Vestings in white and fancy shades.—Morrison & Co., New York.

Suit construction has come to be a science as exact as mathematics, and the artistic creations in men's apparel of to-day show that brains are back of them. * * * "The paper on the wall" does not fit more perfectly than do these suits conform to the outlines of their well proportioned wearers.—R. J. Hurd & Co., Spokane, Wash.

Men's Clothing. A serial story. Chapter one. We are clothing "architects"—the only word that comes near to expressing our unique position in the clothing world. An architect plans a building and sees that it is erected properly, rejecting such work as is not up to the standard. That is precisely our position. We select the cloths in the piece, dictate the style, draw up the specifications, have sample coats made for criticism months in advance of each season—and then thoroughly examine each garment as it comes into the store, admitting only that which is up to the standard.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia.

All during the month of December we experienced a heavy business on suits and overcoats—while other stores were selling mainly furnishings and holiday goods. Especially noticeable was the demand for young men's clothes—by young fellows of discriminating tastes and critical judgment. The reason is obvious; distinctiveness of design, exclusiveness of fabric, and the faculty of always retaining their shape under the most exacting conditions, have won our garments a most envied position in the favor of these same young men. One suit has sold another, for satisfaction and low price go hand in hand, thus establishing an endless chain of pleased patrons.—Bernstein & Co., Jersey City, N. J.

The kind that helps you on in the world. That's the kind of clothing we sell. It is hand-tailored throughout. It is cut on the newest lines. It is correct in every particular.—Hackett, Carhart & Co., New York, N. Y.

The main secret is that we ask a much smaller margin of profit on equal or better quality, nine times out of ten our regular prices being lower than the supposed reduced price of the long profit store. And then we turn the stock so rapidly that we never have an old garment. We buy direct from the best makers and guarantee every garment sold to render satisfactory wear, and the style's always correct. When we can make an extra good purchase, we give our trade the benefit.—Kemp & Hebert, Spokane, Wash.

The past odd-and-forty years have heard makers of ready-to-wear clothes men promise all kinds of reforms which would make their products the duplicate of the high-price custom tailor's output. Until now the promise far out-ran the performance. The custom tailor built garments that had an individuality and style which no ready-to-wear clothes approached. Then we began the making of ready-for-service apparel under the scientific and modern methods of The Atterbury System. As a result one can now find a gentleman's entire wardrobe, ready for instant use, at about one-half the cost of the best custom tailor's best efforts.—Lambert, New York, N. Y.

That means nothing more nor less than that you can buy any overcoat or suit in this big store for exactly half the price it is marked! Of course, the money loss to us is tremendous, but immediate and complete clearance must be effected regardless of any other consideration. Remember that there are no exceptions to the half-price rule save the plain black suits. Absolutely every overcoat, in every style of the season, is to go at the half-price.—Hecht's Greater Stores, Washington, D. C.

A most important sale—with more real live, magnetic values than mortal ever dreamed of. It's nothing but a slashing, merciless, cost-disregarding sale of Men's, Women's and Children's wear, with only one object in view: To clear the stock for action—to prepare for the coming season. Hundreds upon hundreds of articles and materials that pertain to the present season—all representative types of merchandise wherein "Quality Counts"—are cut into mere fractions of their former values—dumped into lots—(on counters of course)—consigned to your possession at the most ridiculously low prices ever heard of. It's a Dumping of Values that will make this Dump Sale the banner bargain event of the new year. The following values will stand absolutely unrivaled—So will hundreds of others which lack of space forbids to mention. Come today!—Don't delay—lest you lose the opportunity! Come! Strike while the iron is hot!—Samter Bros., Scranton, Pa.

It's as easy to manufacture bad clothes that look good as to smile and look pleasant, but we think bad clothes are sure to be found out. You can't find out something bad when there is nothing bad. Therefore as a matter of business policy we make the best there is. Come, look and be convinced.—Moody, Hirschmann & Company, Binghamton, N. Y.

Our men's department. To get something dressy—something real exclusive—without paying an enormous price is unusual. We generally do the unusual at this store—especially when low prices are concerned.—Rosenbaum Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

If ever a man wants smart, prim, handsome clothes, it's when the first warm days appear. Nowhere can the most particular man find a finer, fresher, or more satisfying stock to choose from than is here at this moment. Yet, with all the character and style which our good clothing possesses, prices are as low as a careful man could wish.—Matthews Bros., Waco, Texas.

Of all winter goods in men's suits and overcoats, boys' suits and overcoats, trousers, hats and caps, shirts and underwear. All odds and ends must go regardless of cost. This is your opportunity to buy good clothing for very little money. You will find everything as advertised. Our loss is your gain.—Turnipseed & Steffy, Alliance, Ohio.

Only twenty-one shopping days remain prior to commencement of the work in our extensive enlargement. It is absolutely necessary that we dispose of all our best merchandise, which otherwise will be damaged by the unavoidable dust and dirt. For this reason the prices placed on garments are much lower than ever before.—The Plymouth Clothing House, Minneapolis, Minn.

Besides our own study to keep ever in the advance of progress which the outlet of our business permits; for this same advantage the foremost manufacturers of special made garments look to us for an opportunity to place their best achievements before our public—the particular men. Our clients are assured beyond doubt that here the correct fashions are first introduced. Clothes genius and highest tailoring skill are represented in our garments. There is a difference in these advanced clothes that gives you more than is possible in above the average custom-tailor products and the saving is about one-third less in price.—Werner Bros., St. Louis, Mo.

Our competitors over in the high-rent district say we're crazy to sell our goods as cheaply as we do—that we're foolish not to take advantage of the opportunity our little rent location gives us to make fat profits. There's method in our madness, gentlemen. We're as eager as anybody to pile up riches. And we are doing our level best to add to our bank roll. But we believe in the slow and sure way. Experience has taught us that a spy dime will beat a lazy quarter—that a small profit all the time pays better than a big profit half the time. So we shall keep right on working for the profit that totals up largest in the long run—that which comes a little at a time from satisfied customers who come back again and again.—Frank Bros., San Francisco.

Price is not the measure of goodness in men's wear—though it is the only commendation you get at some stores. Sunny Jim says: "You may fool a hen with a china egg, but it makes a mighty poor omelet." So it is with clothing. The price may be low but the goodness has gone. You find very little of the Wood Bros. sort of clothing offered you. Our establishment contains the most worthy, in making and material, that present day methods can produce; clothing that fully equals the "exclusive" custom tailors—in fact, is made by just such skill—but, marketed in our inimitable method, brings them to you at a reasonable price. Daily demonstrations, and we would be pleased to add you to our legion of satisfied buyers—men who know the economy of our clothing.—Wood Bros., Los Angeles.

The coats have the celebrated concave shoulders and snug fitting collar. Made from the best and newest fabrics, trimmed and tailored just right.—Brown Bros. & Co., San Francisco, Cal.

We don't know who your tailor was in the past, nor who your clothier was; but we want to tell you right now that if you start in with us you will be among the best dressed men in town. We are designing new garments every day in the year, and the overcoats that we are showing to-day are considered the most swagger overcoats ever seen in this city.—Raphael's, San Francisco, Cal.

Ready tailored just describes them. They are entirely different from the usual run of ready-made clothing. Every suit is hand-made; tailored by the highest paid workmen in America. The cutting is superb. The coat fits snug over the collar, square concaved shoulders without a sign of a wrinkle. Hair-cloth lining in the front prevents breaking or creasing. The trousers are cut wide—that's the correct thing this season.—The People's Store Co., Tacoma.

As an aid to the gradual change from winter to spring apparel, many men find the fancy waistcoat one of the stepping stones. And so we have provided a variety that's designed to please all men who like the fancy waistcoat. And whatever day you get ready for spring top coat, spring overcoat, rain coat or suit, you'll find ample assortments, ready and waiting for you here. Separate trousers, too.—C. C. Fuller & Co., Hartford, Ct.

We carried this season the largest, handsomest, and most varied stock we ever had, and we did the biggest business with it we ever did! In fact, almost anything you want in clothing, you will find it here, and with a good slice off the price!—Perry & Co., Philadelphia.

The tailoring has the Saks standard for its sponsor—every garment involved is the product of our own workshops, defining the finer phases of the craft both in fashioning and finish.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

We make and sell clothing for men and boys. We do not pretend to give it away, or to sell it without profit. But we do claim to put the highest possible value, both in material and workmanship, into our product.—A. W. Heim & Son, Reading, Pa.

Stylish Clothing priced so as not to overtax the purse. To keep the prices down and the quality up is the constant endeavor of our clothing department. We have been successful in doing this, and hence built up a tremendous clothing business.—Solomon, Pittsburg, Pa.

Snap and Dash. There is a certain dash and snap and style about the ready tailored clothing made by Shorey, and sold by us which is not seen in other makes. Shorey's clothing contains those artistic touches which careful dressers are quick to recognize, to say nothing of durability and economy. Why not get acquainted? You are perfectly safe. Money back if you want it—fit guaranteed. Spring styles are interesting.—S. A. MacDonald, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

All tailors are not skilful tailors. Skilful tailors are not all conscientious. Conscientious tailors are not all good tailors. Durable clothes don't all possess the right kind of style. Stylish clothes don't always possess durability. It takes a great combination of things to produce the kind of clothes you should have. Our reputation is your warranty for effecting all these good qualities in the clothes we make.—Matthew Bros., Tell the Truth Clothiers, Waco, Texas.

Men we want to talk to. We believe that if every man in Memphis was a clothing expert that every man in Memphis would come to us for his clothing. Below we publish a list of men we want to talk to: To the man who wants to dress well, to the man who wants to dress economically, to the man who wants the newest styles, to the man who wants variety for selection, to the man who is something of an expert on dress, to the man who is not an expert on dress, to the man who has been disappointed elsewhere, to the man who has never been to see us.—The Hub, Memphis, Tenn.

It literally means that we present to every buyer exactly half the price he would pay for the overcoat or suit. Pick it out yourself—make the deduction yourself—half the price you find marked will make you owner of the overcoat or suit. It's a condition that requires quick and decisive action, without a thought of profit, willing and ready to take any loss for the sake of immediate clearance. Remember that there are no exceptions to the half-price rule save the plain black suits. Absolutely every overcoat, in every style of the season, is to go in the half-price sale.—Hechts' Greater Store, Washington, D. C.

Don't get a long face on account of the weather. The weather, you know, is one of the few things we can't control, but we can counteract its ill effects with the right clothing, shoes, underwear, etc., and clothe the mind with a cheerful disposition.—Samter Bros., Scranton, Pa.

One may escape two evils by wearing Keller, Bryce & Co.'s clothing. The custom tailor's high price on one hand and the provincial, ready-made appearance of ordinary clothing on the other. The merchant tailor is very fortunate who averages to fit his customers as we fit ours. Fancy yourself paying the tailor's high price with no one to know it but you.—Keller, Bryce & Co., Muncie, Ind.

Throw off the bondage. Don't be shackled to any tailor, but be independent. Ready-to-wear clothes of the right kind make this possible without sacrificing any of those nice little points of comfort and style that every person of good taste demands.—Selleck & Price, South Norwalk, Conn.

What a frost for the "store-clothes" man when among Brauer & Krohn good dressers. He feels like "fifty-seven different varieties." Ever experience it? Don't let it occur again. Have good togs and have them fit you as clothes ought to fit. They cost no more.—Brauer & Krohn, Los Angeles, Cal.

Jack Frost will soon be with us. Are you ready to receive him? Perhaps you have been out to the mountains or to the lakes, and it is in order now to look around for your fall clothing. Isn't your wardrobe a little depleted after the hard racket you have given your clothing during your outing? If so, we just want to remind you that our fall and winter suits and overcoats are in and waiting for you.—The White House Clothing Company, Spokane, Wash.

Now's the time when a few dollars at this store will get for you the greatest measure of clothing values. On all lines there are honest reductions and pronounced underselling. On odd lots and broken lines the sacrifice is greatest. Come here for your clothing needs tomorrow, that we may prove to you these exceptional bargains.—The Boley Clothing Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Once get acquainted with our prices, the high character of the goods we carry, the enormous up-to-the-moment assortment we show and the innumerable other advantages that have made this store famous.—The Globe Clothing Co., Atlanta, Ga.

There's a double object in these semi-annual clearance sales. One is to close out a great bulk of stock quickly—the other is to tempt by means of the extremely low prices more men to become acquainted with the excellence of Parker-Bridget clothing. When they once make that acquaintance they become permanent patrons.—Parker, Bridget & Co., Washington, D. C.

There's been a mighty pilgrimage from the "high-price" tailors to this store. One of the reasons is the smartness of our double-breasted frocks and cutaways. They are as near ideal in grace of line and exactness of fit as the best tailors can get them. And all are made with those shapely shoulders and snug-fitting collars.—Vogel Brothers, New York, N. Y.

Here's everything to wear for travel, for work, for business, for play—and fair play in all our dealings. You want your working clothes made right, just as well as your "glad rags." Our coats retain their shape, hug the neck and have the right hang.—Jackson's, Pittsburg.

Any man, large enough to be called a man and not too old to be careful about his appearance, will find here in this store the right clothes for him; the right fit, style, quality, price; and there's nothing better made anywhere. We confess, though, that we do take some little extra pains to have a good assortment of the clothes the young fellows want—college, high school, dressy young business men—here's the place where you find the correct thing. This is a splendid store to tie to for clothes, for our garments are always faithful and honest.—Marean, Lauder & Bone, Binghamton, N. Y.

Discriminating and particular men will appreciate the fact that "best styles" clothes are made of all wool materials only—nothing but the best foreign and domestic fabrics are used. "Best style" clothes are up to the minute in every particular of style, quality and workmanship. "Best style" clothes embody all the features of high class custom tailoring—but at half the price exclusive tailors charge. Our assortments provide proper clothes for all occasions.—H. O'Neill & Co., New York, N. Y.

Whether you say it in few words or many, you can't say more about Brokaw clothing than that it is natty and practical in appearance, made of pure wool fabrics, sewn with silk, and so thoroughly built that they never fail to give full tenure of service.—Brokaw Brothers, New York, N. Y.

No other house can afford to give such extraordinary values for the reason that we manufacture every garment ourselves, are one of the largest buyers in the world of fine woolens, and are content with a scant margin of profit. Our suits are hand-tailored throughout, with snug-fitting collar and broad, symmetrical shoulders and a style and finish that will appeal to the man who likes to look well dressed. The fabrics are of the latest patterns, guaranteed all wool, linings and trimmings are the best, making a garment that has trustworthy wearing qualities.—Henry Esders, New York.

Gardner daily store news. Some days seem to run to certain lines. Yesterday, for instance, more pants went out of this store than in any day we know of for a long time. Of course, this is pants season, but chances are if we wouldn't give such pants values we wouldn't be selling so many pants.—J. P. Gardner, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Men's clothing: a hit. That $10.50 sale of suits, overcoats. It was certainly a hit—last Friday and Saturday's great $10.50 offering. And the selling exceeded all expectations—throngs took advantage of such real bargains. But just about 900 men missed them—and tomorrow these 900 men will have another opportunity. Your suit is here—so is your overcoat—get them both today or tomorrow.—The May Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

Bangor's greatest clothing house grand spring opening of 1903. Fashion's fairest fancies find fullest expression. Spring is with us once more, and as we extend the season's greetings, we wish to offer a renewed welcome to our store with the assurance that we are better able to serve you in selecting your spring suit and top coat than ever. Keeping closely in touch with the latest and most popular makes, we offer this season every new and choice style, manufactured on strictly custom tailor principles. We have many patterns which are exclusive and distinct, rarely found in apparel ready to don.—J. Waterman, Bangor, Me.

In fast and out fast. We are doing our best to fill the store with new spring goods, but it seems as though they were carried off as fast as we can place them on the counters. There is going to be a lot of worrying done by Mr. Tailor this year, for half his customers are after our Alfred Benjamin clothing. We stand firmly behind our guarantee to equal any tailor's fit, to excel his style, and all for the same price of ordinary, ready-made clothing.—Jos. Smith & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Look here! Our new spring clothing is now ready for inspection. The very latest styles in men and boys clothing, right up to date at prices to suit everybody.—W. L. Linder, Burlington, Iowa.

Rogers-Peet and the Stein-Bloch Co.'s new dark suits for conservative men, as well as the most pronounced patterns for the extremest. Collars that hug the neck; inner linings of the best hair-cloth, giving a smooth, chesty look that will last till the garments are worn threadbare.—London Clothing Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

A pointer on style. The best dressers come early and get your pick. It doesn't cost any more.—Gothard & Gallaway Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

Inside facts are of as much importance as outside appearance. You get both in our kind of clothes. A style, fit and fabric that is perfect.—The W. J. Woods Co., Worcester, Mass.

All is not gold that glitters, neither is all clothing good that's advertised. We wish that you would at least investigate our claims of superiority for the kind of clothing we sell.—Zere & Winsberg, Youngstown, Ohio.

Summery seashorey serges the true-ness of whose blue we guarantee.—Brill Brothers, New York.

Our elegant line of spring and summer suits, overcoats and pantaloons have taken hold in great shape. They sell on sight, and why shouldn't they?—Misfit Clothing Parlors, Peoria, Ill.

Winter's—"wurst" still on the menu. If you take one look at these R.-P. marked down overcoats, it'll be "one on you."—F. M. Atwood, Chicago, Ill.

"A wise man and his money are soon parted, if he comes here now." Our house cleaning makes it necessary for us to push a lot of winter clothing out into the cold world. (The world will seem warm if you get into one of those $20 overcoats for $12.50).—Wells & Coverly, Troy, N. Y.

Look at Your Own.—Are those trousers that have weathered the winter thus far for you fit company for your still presentable coat and vest? There's just one thing worse than a seedy, half-worn suit—the disreputable trousers of the same suit. Get a new pair, of course. The chances are that we can give you something that will go nicely with your coat and vest.—Salem Woolen Mill Store, Salem, Ore.

Smart Clothing for Young Men.—Ever stop to admire a smart, business-like man on the street? Like the looks of his suit or overcoat, the way it hangs, the smart appearance it gives him—something different from the other fellows, eh? That's the kind of clothing we can furnish you. Good, honest, stylish, union tailored clothing at small profit, cash store prices.

We have clothing made especially to meet the young men's ideas; clever effects tailored into graceful athletic outlines; broad-shouldered, deep-chested, trousers broad-hipped—lending an air of refinement to the wearer.

Come here, we're not after your trade for one day, but for life.—Clarke Brothers, Scranton, Pa.

Hello central? What does Hilton say to-day? He says he has noticed many blue serge suits worn on Chestnut street which show signs of premature age—wrinkled, faded, lifeless. Yet they were purchased this season, but not at Hilton's. Hilton serge suits are made of Washington navy serge, government standard, and of botany and hockanum serges—all warranted to wear, to keep color and to hold shape. Destined to reach a ripe old age and always look new. It's a result of the best material, hand-tailored into shape. "Concaved" shoulders, close fitting collar, unbreakable front, procurable here only. You can't improve in any one particular on Hilton.—The Hilton Co., Philadelphia.

We have educated a good many men up to buying their frock coats ready-made. If you are one of the gradually diminishing class, who think that to be assured of a satisfactory fit, they have to have their frock coats built for them, we commend you to this store—you're the man we are after. Probably ninety-nine per cent. of all men fall into certain general groups; and by providing all sizes in each of the groups—"regular," "short stout," "regular stout," and "slim"—we can either fit your instantter, or with so few and trifling alterations that it is a simple and expeditious and satisfactory matter. But to do this, it takes the very largest stock in New York of men's frock coats—and we have it.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Attractiveness of personal appearance is certainly very desirable and in a large measure necessary for success in life. Good dressy clothes improves a man's personal appearance materially. Fashionable tailoring is the kind we do, and we always satisfy as to style, fit, and price. We have an established reputation for high class work, yet our prices are very moderate. The poor man receives just as much attention as the rich man.—D. Nicholson, Phoenix, Ariz.

This store's mission is to serve the public faithfully, intelligently and honestly. We believe in straightforward merchandising—it is best for you and best for us, and with this thought in view, we are pleased to announce that in addition to all the most excellent weaves, stylish patterns and wide selections of foreign and domestic fabrics for dressy, discriminating men, that we have united to this house one of the most widely known and expert cutters in the country. We therefore invite you to call and make the acquaintance of Mr. Frank Ready, whose thousands of friends know to what a height of fashion and elegance he has brought the art of custom tailoring. The designing and cutting of Mr. Ready will exceed your highest expectations. To the hundreds of our new friends whom we expect and wish to make in the future, we desire to state that for the sake of acquaintance with the superb and swagger styles that are created by Mr. Ready's masterly workmanship, we are willing to make substantial "price concessions" for made-to-measure garments during this month and February. Come in and see how much you can save on high-class suits, overcoats and trousers to order. We shall ever strive to deserve your friendship and merit your confidence by always adhering strictly to three grand business principles upon which a great patronage may be built on an enduring, lasting foundation—honest prices, good materials, courteous treatment.—The Greenwald Co., Newark, N. J.

A store has its character just as men have. The sensationalist and fakir is looked upon with suspicion. Business upon business basis is what the public demands to-day. This store is evidence of the success of up-to-date twentieth century merchandising—a progressive store, constantly forging ahead, and in spite of big claims, loud advertising and assertions of others, proving, demonstrating daily, that values, such as offered here, are not found elsewhere. Here are facts. Here are figures. Draw your own conclusions.—Goldstein Clothing Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

The phenomenal success with which the Stein-Bloch 20 per cent reduction sale has met has induced us to extend this grand opportunity for a few days longer. To the man who has once worn a Stein-Bloch suit no argument is necessary, but to the man who has been wearing the ordinary ready-to-wear clothes, we would like to say: "Just come in and try a Stein-Bloch coat on and you will be convinced that the Stein-Bloch has a cut and style that no other ready-to-wear coat has."—Furchgotts, Jacksonville, Fla.

There's one thing that's a fact, these spring and summer garments have got to move out of here pretty lively this month, so said the manager of the suit department. We are already beginning to think of cooler seasons, we have our eye, so to speak on some very handsome surprises for you this fall. But that's getting ahead of our story. If you are going to buy any sort of a garment, this is the place to buy, large assortments for this time of year, the same sterling qualities and styles that were here earlier in the season. No riff-raff gets into our stock now, any more than any other times, all goods must bear the same rigid inspection at this time of year as though it were the opening of a season. That's one of the reasons why you should buy here. The prices give the others.—The Bowland, Morehouse & Martens Co., Columbus, Ohio.

You're quite right—this is bargain time among men's clothing stocks. In our stock more so than in others. For we are especially particular to have lines clean as a whistle—all broken sizes get short shift.—Wanamaker, New York.

It's a matter of business for every man to study his opportunity and grasp it when it reaches its highest point of advantage. Such an opportunity invites you now. Two or three piece suits in mixed cassimeres, cheviots, Scotch mixtures, etc., best cut, best tailored garments in America. If you are yet unacquainted with our clothing here's your chance to become acquainted with our most advantageous circumstances.—Jas. Boyd, Denison, Texas.

Our smart clothes for young men are marked by a skill which only the best custom tailors can approach. Cheviots, homespuns and a score of pretty mixtures.—Savard Bros.

Will you swelter all summer because you haven't one of these cool suits? Great for business men. And just the thing for going away. By the way, they are called outing suits. Don't confound them with what many stores call outing suits—clothes that sag and wrinkle before the crease of newness wears off. These have the patent K. B. shoulder that's built right in, and holds its shape. Trousers have special side-buckle straps that make them fit and stay fitted. It pays every time to get good clothes—especially when they don't cost any more than poorly-made.—Dalsimer's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The noisy Fourth is over. And now comes up again in stronger terms than ever, that vexed question of your personal appearance. Do you know that holidays are the times when the world looks you over with a critical eye. Everybody has time then to inspect you well. If you presented a good appearance yesterday you certainly have lost nothing, and you may have gained a good deal. If Smith is always neatly dressed, and Brown very seldom looks well, who gets the preference from the world? And who looks to find out whether Smith's apparent prosperity came from a store that had confidence in his honesty to invest part of his capital in helping along his fortune. Some day you will hear of Smith's getting a good job that Brown, although he may be a smarter man—couldn't get; and all because Smith was shrewd enough to value appearance.—Goldstein Clothing Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

The Hilton habit! Philadelphians are getting it. That's shown in the increasing number of well-dressed men seen on Chestnut street. What is the Hilton habit? Buying all your clothes at Hilton's; and being Hilton-habited—that means you may have a wardrobe one-third more complete than at present, at no additional cost and the clothes are right. Get the Hilton habit; get Hilton habited, and save money.—Hilton, Philadelphia, Pa.

Josephin Peladin says: "Art is neither a bust, nor a head, nor a body; it is the mind, faith, passion, pain. All art is ideographic." And so it is with good clothes; first of all the fabrics must be faultless—they must be not only all wool, but the finest wool which comes from the backs of healthy sheep that are carefully cared for and given wholesome nourishment to make their wool long, strong and lustrous. After the wool is thoroughly cleaned and woven into fabric it must be steamed and shrunk so that garments made of it will hold shape. The tailoring must be in keeping with the excellence of the fabrics—not simply in the outside seams, but in the parts that are hid from view, such as the filling in collar, shoulders, lapels, pockets and cuffs. And the styles must be patterned after the best London models, while the color effects, patterns and mixtures are regulated by the tastes of those who make a study of harmony and neatness.—Goldbait & Sons Co., Marion, Ind.

Keep cool. Don't fret. Forget the weather, and avoid thermometers and the sun. Live one day at a time. Eat little and drink moderately of water not too cold. Avoid heavy meats, be a vegetarian, if you can. But above all, dress in good clothes and have them fit. Uncomfortable clothes though thin, are worse than heavy clothes when comfortable.—Prowse Bros., Charlottetown.

Looking over the grades and readjusting the piles of suits and extra trousers we find a great many of the high cost ones are left. They must go, and price cutting has been generous. Take advantage of your chance to save money. Visit us to-day and we will convince you that you have a real opportunity now.—King's, New York.

All new models, but the beauty of them is that you can wear them on a host of occasions during the summer, especially if you are going to the shore or mountains—as a traveling suit, if you wish. And when autumn does come, your suit is in your wardrobe—ready—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Just 700 of them, made by one of the best-known manufacturing tailors and sold to us at the price we named, thereby allowing us to name the lowest price ever paid to any clothing house, ours or others.—Hahne & Co., Newark.

All suits cut in the latest, most up-to-date styles by our staff of expert tailors. Every suit guaranteed to fit with easy grace and absolute satisfaction. Nothing but the finest lining and trimmings go in our suits. No suit leaves our shop until our expert tailors say it's perfect and our customers pleased.—McKnight, St. Louis, Mo.

To be comfortable during the summer outing, it behooves you, gentlemen, to take the right sort of garments with you. You'll not be many hours distant from the city before you become contemptuous of the three-piece business suit. So be prepared.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

This sale of men's hot weather apparel started off with a rush this morning just because a large number of exacting men recognized prices as the lowest of the season for the qualities they desire. They knew it was the only satisfactory time left to select the clothing that August weather demands, and they saved enormously.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

We make every bit of it ourselves and we make it as well as clothing can be made. It fits well, it holds its shape and it wears well. It's the clothing for careful men, for critical men, for economical men—for any man in fact who wants the best he can get for his money. If you don't know how much better our clothing is for the money than that you can buy anywhere else, just try to match any of the following items at any other store in town—you'll be surprised to find how much you can save by coming here.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia.

Some people are incapable of appreciating the note of quality that expresses refinement—while others deprive themselves by indifference—seem actually as well content with the commonplace as with the distinguished. The man who buys the best materials, carefully tailored in accordance with the canons of good taste, retains his self-respect at trifling cost. We solicit the patronage of the most exacting—no better clothes are to be had anywhere.—Smith, Gray & Co., New York.

A satisfied customer is a walking advertisement. We have a great many satisfied customers and old time friends. Season after season they come to us for clothes. They come with confidence, they buy with confidence, they recommend their friends with confidence. Making money isn't the only pleasure in this world. Above all is a good name, and we shall always endeavor to sustain our old time reputation for a square deal.—Harris & Frank, Los Angeles, Cal.

Coat and trousers. Cool, easy, comfortable clothes for the hot weather that's coming with a vengeance. Are you thinking of the usual outing suit that "wilts" down before you've worn it half a dozen times? If so, don't class these among them; they are different for they are carefully made and will keep their shape. The remarkable patent K. B. shoulder always "sets" smoothly.—Dalsimer's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Many sales have been held in this city but never before have there been such clothing bargains as these. Here is a mingling of merit and prices that know no equal in retailing. You can buy two suits for the price of one. Anything you buy here in a hurry you can return at your leisure and get your money if the goods disappoint you in any way whatever.—The Hub, Bay City, Mich.

The commonest faults in the fit of men's coats occur with collar and shoulder. Custom and ready-made tailors met the same difficulty. In overcoming it our success has been long recognized, and is due to a method distinctly "Brokaw."—Brokaw Brothers, New York.

Clothing You Have no Bother in Choosing, Nor Afterwards.—When you have made up your mind to buy that suit at Eaton's you have really rid yourself of half the bother of choosing it. There's no need to trouble yourself further how it is made. All that breezy smartness of cut that so distinguishes that distinctive dresser, the man-about-town. Be you slim, medium or stout, rich or poor, fastidious or otherwise—there's everything for you here.—The T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

The men's clothing we offer is equal to the high class made-to-measure garments the tailor gives you at twice the price. Then there is the satisfaction, too, of knowing how the goods look made up. The full stock contains all the newest styles and fabrics.—The Union, Columbus, Ohio.

It has never been a question with us how cheap we could sell clothes irrespective of quality and make, but it has been our business to sell you, for the least money, the best clothing that can be produced. No matter how cheap a suit or overcoat may be, our first consideration is make and quality, and always to sell you clothes that will keep their shape, which should be a credit to us, and make it a pleasure for you to wear our clothing.—Ritter & Meyer, Youngstown, O.

Our tailors have produced a sack suit in the new warm brown that takes the eye of every man who is tired of black and gray. Wide shoulders, cleverly shaped by hand, single and double-breasted models in the approved cut, marvels of tailoring.—Meigs & Co., New Haven, Conn.

Full discussion may be held with us regarding any or all points connected with your fall tailoring needs before you place your order. We shall try to advise you intelligently—if favored with your order we shall endeavor to please you; but there will be no argument. Garments made by us are subject to the approval of our customers, who are free to reject if they fail to please.—Morris Tailoring Co., Lexington, Ky.

If you want a fashionable new fall suit or top coat made from the identical fabrics the most exclusive fabrics are showing, at the lowest price ever quoted on garments of equal merit, attend this remarkable value-giving event. It's a sale that will make a new bargain epoch in men's clothing.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

If you were to ask us why our garments were entitled to the special consideration of men in general, we would say on account of their fit, style and service. Every garment is cut and fashioned individually. Every yard of fabric has been thoroughly shrunk before its employment. Every phase of making has been at the hands of tailormen who, by their ability and experience, have stamped themselves as masters of their craft.—Saks & Co., Washington, D. C.

The genius of the master asserts itself in his work—it is distinctly material. This is so in the making of men's clothes, as well as in every other field of endeavor. Our winter suits and overcoats are a medium through which our master-tailormen assert their ingenuity and talent. They are garments which rival the products of the higher class of custom tailors in every phase. Our method, however, relieves you of the penalties imposed by these high-class tailors—no loss of time, no disappointments, no prohibitive prices. And we are willing to guarantee a complete satisfaction.—Wm. Vogel & Son, New York, N. Y.

It doesn't make any difference how much a man has shopped around, the moment he sees these suits he'll realize why ours are the standard of excellence at this price, and that we have the finest collection he ever saw.—MacDonald & Campbell, Philadelphia, Pa.

We have known cases where a good flax was spun into a very good string—one that would hold. We have known of a case where a misfit sign was used to "string" the public with a very fetching "yarn" but it won't hold. Our entire stock is made up of garments made up by the very best merchant tailors and not called for by the original purchaser. These garments we are selling at half the tailors' order price.—McCarthy & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Winter clothing as demonstrated by our showing of correctly tailored and perfect fitting ready-to-wear garments—makes clothes buying easy. No bothering with fitting; no long waiting, no carrying back to be altered. Practically correct at the start, and perfect when received.—Gerritt A. Archibold & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Don't do a thing just because your grandfather did it. It isn't necessary to have your clothes made to order for any reason. You perhaps have nursed that same old exploded idea long enough. Get the facts! Consider the marvelous progress which America's foremost designers and ready-for-service makers have made in the past few years. See what the "May" way of clothes building has accomplished while the tailor slept. Critically examine the "May" clothes and easily see their superiority at half the tailor's prices.—The May Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Unmistakably different! That is the deep and well-founded conviction in the public mind regarding our clothes. The suits and overcoats we are offering have many points of superiority over any to be found elsewhere. This will be appreciated by stylish dressers. Have you ever worn a suit sold by us? No? Then you do not know what really good clothing is, and at what low prices they can be bought. Extra large men, tall men, slim men and small men can be fitted here just as well as those of ordinary build.—Spira & Pincus, Mobile, Ala.

Some have a confused idea about this clothing stock. They don't realize that it is to all intents and purposes a store in itself, for it occupies an entire floor of our establishment and contains the best selected, highest grade, most thoroughly reliable assortment of men's and young men's suits and overcoats that long experience, great care and indifference to expense could gather. We're prepared to meet any clothing requirement—to respond with every style, durability and consistent-price demand.—Hecht Bros., New York, N. Y.

Only those who have made a careful comparison of our garments with others that seem to be similar can realize the minute care that enters into every detail of the making of the garments we sell—little things that don't make much difference in the appearance, but count for much in the life of a garment. It's not necessary, we believe, to go into details at this time. You'll not be able to judge the sale's importance to you unless you see the garments themselves. With most of the winter still to come, you may find it to your advantage to freshen up your wardrobe now, or to buy now and lay the garments away for use later in the winter.—Taylor's, Cleveland, O.

Snappy suits and overcoats fresh from the world's most famous makers—elegant new fall styles. There is character and dignity in our new clothing. There is the touch of hand-tailored garments—a made-for-you appearance that stands the scrutiny of the most expert tailor.—Wright & Davidson Co., Wilmington.

Unless you are indifferent regarding your personal appearance, it will pay you to learn how to select your clothes. If you do this, you will then be able to select the store in which to buy them. You should not get the idea that in order to be correctly dressed it is necessary to follow the latest fashion plate. For instance, suppose short, close-fitting coats were in style. If you are tall and thin you wouldn't want such a coat if you could see yourself as others see you. You would want a very full coat of good length—a coat to make you look heavier. Such a coat, if properly cut, would be perfectly correct, and would add greatly to your personal appearance. A short, stout person should wear a comparatively short coat, fitting closely (but not tightly) all around. It is not always an easy matter to find clothes that exactly suit your build, but you can get the right clothes at—Wm. H. Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Autumn Woolens.—Scotch Bannockburns and mixtures—so fresh from the looms they've not lost their heathery odor. English checks, plaids and stripes in worsteds and cassimeres so pronouncedly foreign looking you'd almost catch the 'ang of the accent. Irish products—how cunningly is the national odor blended or half hidden away among a score of other shades. Well-bred fabrics they are—strong, manly looking weaves cleverly made genteel by Erin's loom wizards. Taken all in all designs for the coming season are graceful and consistent. Our exhibition is big, broad and interesting. We think we have every fabric, pattern and weave that is allowable for a man to wear.—English Woolen Mills Co., Cleveland, O.

Give any man conscientious service in matters upon which he is not posted and he will appreciate the protection of his interests. My store does that by giving garments that are new, different and above the standard of the usual ready-made. The garments I sell have been custom tailored by experts in designing and draping, giving clothes perfection so unusual and pronounced in elegance. Men who purchase them grow enthusiastic in their praise every day of their service.—Heyman's, Oklahoma City, Okl.

"The summer man," says the New York World, "to be beyond the reach of criticism must shun the wardrobes of conventionality and dress comfortably in spite of himself." You will find the very latest novelties in New York suitings here.—Madden Bros., St. Thomas.

Fall furnishings for fastidious men.—The People's Store Co., Tacoma, Wash.

"A man's a man for a ' that." Yes, but he's a better man when he feels well-dressed, and he's that when he buys the furnishings here. — Goldsmith's, Scranton, Pa.

Some wash vests are all right—till wash day comes; then all is wrong. We've forty or more good styles in wash vestings that wash day won't harm. Most of them modest; all the prices are. Wise wash vest investors will investigate.—Vimor & Jacobs, Lexington, Ky.

For the red hot wave that's coming we're ready, don't worry. Everything that's new and stylish for men's hot weather comfort.—McCance's, St. Thomas, Ont.

The weather is just a little backward to make the selling of heavy clothing as brisk as it should be, but at the Rubens shop you always find a hustle and stir—we keep things humming all the time, even at a sacrifice of profits—the volume of business must constantly increase—our large force of tailors must be kept busy.—Rubens, Indianapolis, Ind.

When cleverness and talent spend their full power, the work is apt to reflect their influence. It is that to which our ready-for-service garments owe their character and distinctiveness. Our tailors know the resources of their craft—they know how to infuse the little knacks which mark the better class of to-order garments.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

The clothing industry has practically been revolutionized within two years. Sharp competition has accelerated progress and the great manufacturers have allowed nothing to escape them which would in any way add to the improvement of their product. We are displaying the results of their genius to the people of Indianapolis. Nothing short of the best custom-made garments can be regarded as the equal of the lines we carry.—L. Strauss & Co., Indianapolis.

Never in the history of clothing making has there been such perfection in ready-to-wear clothing as that exemplified in the Kensington make. One of the chief characteristics required of clothing is style, which is a combination of graceful designs—fabrics that keep their shapes and high quality of tailoring. The most critical dressers everywhere unhesitatingly pronounce the Kensington the best ready-to-wear clothing yet produced, giving all of the ease, perfect fit and grace of finish obtained only in the best made-to-order garments, and at a great saving in cost. Every garment is carefully hand-tailored and the linings, buttons and trimmings are the best that money can buy. Every yard of goods used in their construction is chemically tested and steamed before it is cut. Effort to excel, directed by the knowledge of clothing which is the peer of any on the market.—Donaldson's, Minneapolis, Minn.

Every garment is absolutely hand-tailored, consequently following even the slightest change in the modes. The fabrics are better than those used in any other ready-to-wear clothing. Atterbury clothing insures style to the wearer, because there is style in the garment. Atterbury apparel may "wear out," but it will never "wear out of shape." It is the most serious rival the best custom tailors ever had. The linings, buttons and trimmings are the best money can buy. Not a single made-to-wear point is sacrificed, and there's no waiting when you want the clothes.—Kemp & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

It is a fact that "nothing succeeds like success"—and it is the success we have had in producing better made, better fitting and better wearing garments for less money than any one else, that has made Snellenburg clothes the standard of merit in Philadelphia, and brought us the greatest clothing business in America—greater than that of any three other stores in the city combined. Of course, we have a decided advantage over other stores, when it comes to prices, inasmuch as we manufacture all our clothing and sell it to you at first hand, thus enabling you to save the retailers' usual profit.—Snellenburg, Philadelphia.

Examine our garments and you will find it is not alone the superior cloths we use but the way they are put together. The style, fit and workmanship are as much an essential to the garment as the outside fabrics. Our garments are made to wear.—Dundee Woolen Mills Co., Troy, N. Y.

Here are the cool, good-looking clothes for men who are going away for the summer, as well as for men who want to be comfortable in their business suits.

We do not only choose the cool fabrics, but we know how to have them made up, to look well, and hold their shape—and there's a vast deal of difference to you, in this same "know how."

You'll find too, that the suits that are made right cost no more than those that are made wrong.—Wanamaker, New York.

A Good Clothes Exposition.—A display of the best goods the market produces is what you will find in our immense clothing department. Exclusiveness and elegance define the collection of ready-to-wear garments found here. They are not to be compared to the ordinary ready made or custom made suits. They are far superior. In fact are only equaled in style—fit—and workmanship by the best class of custom made suits—and the price is less than half of what these would cost you.—Hayden's, Omaha.

Very Much Depends Upon the Right Kind of Clothing.—Success and ill-fitting clothing rarely go together. To fit properly your clothing must be made for you—made by skillful and artistic tailors as ours are. The cost? Not by any means what it's worth. Come in and see for yourself!—George M. Hammel, Topeka.

One of the features that makes the Saks-Clothing so pre-eminently popular is its unmistakably "made for your character." The fit indicates it. The type of patterns shows thoughtful selection—and the hundred and one details of making all stamp our garments as not of the ready-made class—but of a standard and in a class all by themselves.—Saks & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

We don't ask your patronage from sentiment, friendship or long acquaintance, but simply solicit your trade strictly on the merits of our apparel and the low prices asked.—Chas. Altshular, Sac City, Ia.

Men in public life must—or should—always be prepared to have the limelight of publicity turned on them. And so with a clothing store. It's so with this men's clothing store—it is not only prepared for closest scrutiny, but courts it. It believes in light—has sunlight on three sides of it; nothing to be concealed—and, by-the-way, it's the not-seeable work done on a garment that tells in the wear. The “kneading” given by the hands of the tailor—working the goods into shape as he saws—can't be told from the ironed-in shaping, when seen in a window or on the counter. But it shows in the wear. One reason our clothing is superior is because it holds its shape in the wear.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

To fit you perfectly, is with us a subject of deep and serious concern, whether it be a suit or overcoat at a very modest price or one of the more costly ones, perfect fit is assured in all alike. You may be prejudiced in favor of the high-priced custom tailor, but it's a prejudice which has no reason for being. We feel confident that our suits and overcoats will so demonstrate.—Wm. Vogel & Son, New York, N. Y.

Men's winter clothes, full of goodness, style and taste.—The Nebraska, Kansas City, Mo.

The best is none too good for us to sell. The best is none too good for you to wear.—Hendrickson & Neff, Atlanta.

A chain is as strong as its weakest link. A suit is as good as its poorest feature.—Alliance Mercantile Association, Cresco, Ia.

All men wear clothes. Some men look well dressed and others simply are encased. Some are stylishly dressed. If you look at the tailor's name inside the smart suits you'll be likely to find “Silverwood's.”—F. B. Silverwood, Los Angeles, Cal.

It's the make and fit of the clothing we sell that make our store the main shopping place. The long, graceful lapel, the concave shoulder and inflexible front that gives the garment that natty, smart effect.—P. B. Kearney, Schenectady.

Your money.—You can throw your money in the air anywhere about the town and it will land on a pretty fair suit. “But, Mr. Nobby Dresser,” there is but one place where it will land on the best one. That spot is my store, and we make the most nobby suit. Talk doesn't do it. The clothes make it so.—J. William Kable, York, Pa.

Style makes the striking difference between our clothing and the cheap kind. Style makes the difference between a prepossessing man and a commonplace individual. Style costs more, but can you afford to ignore it? Our hand tailored suits and overcoats contain all a tailor can give you and at about half the cost.—Frank M. Low & Co., Portland, Me.

Ben Franklin said: “Take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves.”

But use discretion—don't be “penny-wise.”

Pay a fair price for a suit.

If it's an “Adler” it will be a wise investment.

The best dressed men in Altoona wear “Adler” clothing.—Stern & Bendheim, Altoona, Pa.

It is easy enough to offer poor clothing at seemingly low prices, or fine clothing at high prices, but to sell first class union tailored clothing at smallest possible cost is quite another thing. Yet that's exactly the mission of this store. Our clothing is made by skilled union workmen and is sold to you with only one single profit added. Don't pass us by if you care to save a few dollars.—Clarke Brothers, Scranton, Pa.

To be in love. It is a pleasant sort of heartsickness, but it has its responsibilities. The young sufferer must have especial regard for personal appearances. His clothing, his linen, his neckwear, must all show the care of the scrupulously neat man. Clothing lasts a good deal longer for being well kept, too. It is necessary first only that it be properly made and fitted; for an ill fitting suit, whatever the cost, can never add to a man's attractiveness.—Browning, King, & Co., Cleveland, O.

Autumn Fixings.—When you are ready, or when you are getting ready, for anything pertaining to your autumn wardrobe, bring your troubles to us. Many a man we help who just can't make up his own mind. A fall weight suit may defer the need of an overcoat for full two months yet, and you are dressed up enough. A topcoat will help along your summer suit—and who can tell? The new covert is so distinctively new—no matter how suspicious the suit—it'll pass muster under it.—English Woolen Mills Co., Detroit, Mich.

These are the clothes that never fail to stand the critical inspection and bring forth the admiration of mothers, wives, sweethearts and sisters. Who knows better when you are fittingly dressed? No other clothes have ever satisfied women-kind like ours.—MacDonald & Campbell, Philadelphia, Pa.

Autumn man hesitate or wait longer for the fall season? Autumn with both feet, no doubt about it; yesterday was cool enough for October. Come and see what we offer in choice fall styles, and let us book your order now before the rush sets in.—Kahn, Indianapolis.

The new season is ushered in in gala style. September, the opening of the fall season, finds us ready as never before with a superb display of advanced fall and winter styles of men's and boys' clothing. Suits and top coats? Yes, we have them in any style you like, and remember our clothes are particularly made clothes—they are correct in cut and pattern—they fit—and our prices are a source of revelation to all. When can we expect you?—Bernstein & Co., Jersey City, N. J.

It is easy enough for a salesman to have you slip into a suit, show you before a mirror, pat you on the back and say, "Did you ever see anything fit so perfectly? Look at the way that collar hugs the neck, how well the shoulders set." But how about the wear of the fit? Depends upon the tailoring. What is to hold that collar in place or to keep those shoulders in shape?—Freedlander's, Wooster, Ohio.

Dozens of fine looking young men were here every day last week buying their fall suits, and more will come this week, for the word seems to have gone 'round that this store is the place to get young men's clothing. Young men are even a little fussy and cranky about what they wear. It's all right, too, for a good appearance means a lot to a young fellow sometimes—may even be his chief asset. It pays to look well.—Wentworth Clothing Co., Spokane, Wash.

Comfortable Hot-Weather Duds for Men.—Special sale to-morrow of those garments which tend to keep men continually cool throughout the hot months. It's an even-handed guess that this news will interest women just as much as it will men—for isn't it the good wife who generally advises her lord on matters of dress—doesn't she, half the time, select every stitch he wears? To be sure she does. May her good offices always abide with us. Well, gentlemen, we went to some trouble to get these summery things for you—that is things to sell away below usual prices.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Be well dressed and pay what you please. In any event this sale affords you an opportunity to get double the worth of your money. We never pay a manufacturer full price if we can avoid it, and it is known wherever clothes are made that we are always ready to take any quantity of garments if the price is way below the market value. Consequence is that opportunities are presented every day.—14th Street Store, New York.

A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, and clothing bargains like the Big Consignment Sale offers you for to-morrow will not again be duplicated. A blind man can pick at random from this superb assortment and not go amiss. A suit and an overcoat for the price of a suit is a bargain chance that should not slip through your fingers. That is what we actually will do Saturday. Don't take our word for it. We ask you to simply take the evidence of your own eyes. The goods are here for your inspection, and a visit will substantiate all we have been telling you.—Excelsior Clothing Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Plenty of styles and not a bad one in the lot. Perhaps the one that you'll take to is that steel colored striped or plaid—most young fellows do. The sack coat has well built shoulders and is lined with an all-wool serge; the outside breast pocket gives it an extra touch of style and the seam stitched to form a narrow cord sets it off as nothing else could do. But best of all it weighs so little that it helps you feel as cool as a cucumber on the hottest day.—Jonas & Geldner, San Bernardino, Cal.

There are men who would wear a white dress shirt to play tennis. There are hundreds of men who would no more appear in public without a vest than they would without a coat. These men cannot expect the timid breezes of midsummer to help their temperature greatly, but by wearing cool flannels or serges they might allow their bodies to have better ventilation than they now have. Stand on a street corner any hot day and watch a hundred men go by. You can count on your fingers all those who know how to dress rightly for summer comfort—and, no matter what your prejudices, you are bound to admire the appearance of the tenth man who knows what to wear. And here are the clothes he wears, ready to make you as comfortable and as well dressed as he.—Lee Hall, Marion, Ind.

Beginning Saturday morning we will close out our men's distinctive clothing at extremely low prices to clean up our summer stock. Included in these reductions are the celebrated makes: Hart, Shaffner & Marx, Alfred Benjamin & Co.—H. Marks & Son, Harrisburg, Pa.

Life and vigor and character without penalty to dignity—that is the principle which guides the tailoring of our garments for young men, even though the prices are extremely low.—Saks & Co., New York.

That is the confidence we have worked to deserve—and we have it as no other store hereabouts has. We are proud of the Furs that leave this Store as we are proud of our reputation. Every piece is an evidence of our experience as well as liberality in selling methods.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Binghamton's best dressed men are walking advertisements for this sale. This clothing satisfies. It retains the friendship and good will of its wearers. It possesses distinguishing and emphatic points of merit. Such is the Excelsior's clothing. And it claims as its wearers, men in all walks of life—the wage earner, the aristocrat and the millionaire.—Excelsior Clothing Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Whether you wish to buy or not, we want every man in Buffalo to see these garments. It is a quality of ready-to-wear clothing that will wear them away from the high-priced custom tailor. In every detail of fabric, finish and fit it compares favorably with the best grade of custom work. It is clothing that looks well when first put on, that keeps on looking well and that you finally discard with regret—but regret tempered with the knowledge that there is more of the same kind to be had at Desbeckers',—Desbeckers', Buffalo, N. Y.

June is the month of golden harvest for the men's clothier. Demand is immense because a majority of men buy their spring and summer suits now. Top-notch prices prevail—prices abnormally high this year because of the increased cost of wools. Are you going to pay them? Months ago we planned to meet the present conditions with mutual benefit to ourselves and our customers. No other concern in New York can give you as good a deal as we can. Instead of carrying broken lines until August, we're clearing them out at August prices now. And simultaneously we're showing brand-new goods just from our tailors' hands—new lines of summer blue serges and airy two-piece suits in refreshing variety at extremely reasonable prices.—Brill Bros., New York City.

This season we have been reaching out farther than ever for special lots. Our regular lines are stronger than ever before. We have ample evidence that no other store shows such a diversity of styles, and that values average best here. But we never hesitate to offer clothing of our regular grades under price when we can buy it so, and we are glad to give old as well as new customers these special advantages. These great values are from best makers—surplus stock, canceled orders or goods withheld for certain good reasons—secured by us at great concessions. There are some Stein-Bloch suits in the $15 lot.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

It's one of those rare bargain occasions which, coming but twice a year, prompt wise men to provide not only for to-day but for coming needs. No retail clothier can buy his trousers' stock as cheaply as our sale prices permit you to buy, and many stand ready to clean us up on a hint—but every pair will go to customers only.—Scotch Woolen Mills Co., Youngstown, Ohio.

Our great clean sweep sale continues all this week with price quotations at a still lower notch. The style and quality excellence of these goods makes them, at their respective prices, the best bargains in men's wear in the city of Marion. These reductions include every garment in our stock, including the celebrated Kuppenheimer clothing.—A. C. Barley & Co., The Big Store, Marion, Ind.

It's quality that counts. In all the affairs of life, it's quality that counts. The men at the head of the world's greatest institutions to-day, the men in charge of vast enterprises, the men who lead in thought and action are men of quality. The difference between success and failure is marked by quality.

When Adam picked and put on his first fig leaf, the men's clothing business was born. The first ready made garment was a fig leaf. Probably Adam wasn't satisfied with the first leaf and thought he'd try another. By and by he found one that suited him, cut, material, fit and quality. Adam was shrewd, he looked around. Now, sir, if you are not fully satisfied with the clothing you are wearing, suppose you look around. Suppose you look here. Our patrons are always satisfied—we make them so by giving them the best clothing to be had on earth for the money.—Prowse Bros., Charlotte-town, P. E. I.

It's "good business" for a man to dress well for business.—J. Schradzki, Peoria, Ill.

A triple alliance—Scotch and English tweeds, serges, homespuns and cheviots and America's best tailoring in "semi-ready" spring and summer sack suits.—A. J. Kelley Company, New York.

Rich men's clothes at poor men's prices. That's our clothing proposition in a nutshell. Every suit or overcoat in our house was made to order by a first class tailor. Some man somewhere picked out the goods and selected the style. He expected to pay a good price for it and enjoy it, but failed to take it out, consequently the tailor had it left on his hands and we bought it and you can enjoy it for about half what it would have cost the original prospective customer. See the big assortment we have.—Douglass Bros., Misfit Parlors, Denison, Tex.

Exclusiveness in a man's dress doesn't mean oddity or peculiarity, but refinement and exception. The difference between poorly constructed garments and exclusive styles is well defined here. The well-dressed man you'll notice out of a thousand passing down the street is the fellow who appreciates the difference between the poor kind and the good. It's not notional when we say that the years of experience perfecting the essential points of good clothes has brought about the difference that marks the garments I sell as exclusive. A look at our showing will prove it.—I. Levystein, Montgomery,

For many years we've been working toward the one end. If we can gain it, we will have gained that which has never yet been gained. We're trying to clothe every man and boy in Hudson County. It's a large job, but we can do it finally. The fact that we have grown as we have is a proof that we're on the right road, and that several thousands of men and boys believe in us and our goods and our methods and our prices.—Bernstein & Co., Jersey City, N. J.

We are constantly reaching into the best markets for the newest products of America's leading manufacturers of men's fine clothing and placing the garments of high merit and extra value on our sale tables at reasonable prices. Our continually increasing business and crowded store demonstrates the fact that men appreciate fair treatment.—Kempf & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

A man who trusts you is a man you can trust. Exactly so, and more than that—the merchandise that he offers is always of staple quality. Through giving big values for the money and fair dealing, this title has been meritoriously bestowed, "York Bargain King." There's nothing in men's, women's or children's wear, that you cannot obtain here; and if you want to spend more money than is necessary—go elsewhere.—York Bargain King, York, Pa.

Blue serges. The kind that stay blue.—E. S. Levy & Co., Galveston, Tex.

Next time you're around Broadway and Ninth Street come in and ask the "lift" man to run you up to our workshops. It will be well worth the while to see the craft of tailoring at its best. You will find the largest and the most modern plant in the world. After you have looked a bit, you will better appreciate the intrinsic merit and absolute perfection of Arnheim makings.—Arnheim, New York.

Our clothing, the essence of all that's good. Enterprise is to merit what steam is to the engine. Without steam, the engine is powerless to move. Merit is likewise dependent on enterprise. Success can only be achieved by the linking of the two together. With most meritorious clothing for our engine and energetic progressiveness for our propelling power, we've steamed ahead irresistibly—each season making rapid strides nearer the goal of perfection.—Kaufmann, Pittsburg, Pa.

Everybody is coming home from everywhere, from the canyons, from the seashore, from the camp, city and town; you couldn't find a better city to come back to than Salt Lake, you couldn't find a better store to come to than Gray Bros. & Co. for your fall and winter clothing for man or boy. The new fall styles are now ready for you to look at; they are the real swell new things in Suits, Hats, Men's Fine Furnishings, Men's Fine Shoes. Always the best at lowest possible cash prices. Give us a call.—Gray Bros. & Co., Salt Lake City.

Our clothing meets every requirement which the best dresser could ask, as they are made only under the best conditions by skilled union tailors employed by representative manufacturers of the United States. There is nothing cheap or shoddy in the material, nothing grotesque in style and nothing lacking in fit and finish. The great majority of wage earners do not feel that they can afford to have suits made by exclusive tailors and it is to such that we cater, for there is really little difference in clothing handled by us and the nobbiest suits made to measure except the price, which will average one-third less.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles.

The prevailing colors in men's clothing for this summer are lighter, fresher and more attractive than last season.—Bergerman Bros., Pueblo, Col.

The smart set admire the build of our clothes because they have that easy air—nothing stiff or strained about 'em.—Raphael's, San Francisco, Cal.

There's nothing farcical in this statement—it's a fact—those who buy their clothes here are not slow to admit that they never bought clothes quite so good at prices so low.—Goldthwait & Sons Co., Marion, Ind.

Exceptional Values for Big Men.—“Large bodies move slowly”—which is why we have more large sizes in our overcoat and suit bargains than we ought to have. Will our large friends please note that remarkable bargains await them here?—Meigs & Co., Bridgeport.

Every man we fit makes a favorable impression—as far as clothing can do it—and if a man will live up to our clothing he can pass muster anywhere.—Wells & Coverly, Troy, N. Y.

We will refuse to sell you clothing that we know you will not be satisfied with. When a suit goes from our store it's cut in style, it fits perfectly, it hangs gracefully, it looks right, it keeps its shape while it wears and it gives satisfaction in every particular. Each and every garment bought here, no matter how low the price, must meet our rigid requirements.—Bergerman Bros., Pueblo, Col.

Our clothing appeals to all men. To the fastidious dresser because the garments turned out by the “crack” custom tailors of the East are not one iota sweller than those to be had here at one-half the cost. To the clerk or business man because the wearer of a Kaufmann suit or top coat is always well dressed (no sagging coat or mis-shapen, ill-fitting trousers), and because of the perfect satisfaction that always goes with each garment.—Kaufmann, Pittsburg, Pa.

So that you may be conscious of the extreme importance of this sale, we would have you know that every garment involved is from our regular stock—that every garment was tailored in our own shops and tailored as well as our tailors know how. The collection affords single and double breasted sack suits of cheviots, worsteds, cassimeres, tweeds and winter weight homespun in a most diversified series of designs and patterns. There are suits for the normal, stout and slender men in sizes 32 to 44, together with one hundred and forty-five suits in sizes 46 to 52 inches for the larger-than-normal men.—Saks & Company, New York, N. Y.

Prudent men will not ignore the very unusual values now offered by our big price-reduction sale of men's suits, and also the matchless offerings in men's and boys' apparel of every kind at prices never before known at this season. We are just in the midst of the season for winter clothing, yet we recognize the unfavorable conditions for the clothing trade, and therefore make the greatest inducements possible. Here you have the advantage of large assortments and suits and overcoats from only standard makers.—Hartford One-Price Clothing Co., Hartford, Conn.

Men's suits and overcoats. Finding the right place to buy clothes is a highly important matter to men just now. First—To get correct styles, new, handsome and honest fabrics, thorough tailoring and clothes that you are absolutely certain of having been made in a thoroughly clean and hygienic factory. Second—The matter of cost. For the first, Nebraska clothing is foremost in every point of excellence. The factory that makes most of our clothing is notably ideal in the conditions around and throughout.—The Nebraska, Pueblo, Col.

Tone up that suit with a new pair of pants—avail yourself of the unusual values offered in our pants sale. Pants correctly fashioned and cut of superior quality worsteds, cassimeres, and cheviots in an assortment of stripes and plaids, medium and dark colors.—Harvey L. Seltzer, Lebanon, Pa.

The man who wants a sterling value in a suit of clothes should not miss coming here to-day. We have arranged a large number of suits in groups and have lowered the price on each group, so that there is a saving of from a third to a half of the original cost.—Redlick's, Fresno.

For the best dressers the correct thing in men's clothes is just as easy to have as not. It doesn't require any special skill or any special expense to be among the best dressers, that is if you come to us for your clothes. We'll put you into a Hart, Schaffner & Marx or Ely, Meyer & Simon suit or coat, and that means that nobody else will be better dressed than you. The best of tailoring, the most perfect style, and, above all, a correct fit is assured under these labels.—Bergerman's, Pueblo, Col.

Nine times out of ten you read your paper hurriedly—read and wonder if it's worth your while—yours to step in and see the clothing we write about. Sounds too good to be true, but you won't know unless you come and test the ad man's word for it. He gets his information from the head clothing man—and he's responsible; if he wasn't he wouldn't be at the head of a clothing store like this. He's one of the firm and he knows good clothing from A to Z.—The Nebraska, Kansas City, Mo.

Here are suits that will put one in touch with the opening spring. In one of these suits you can branch out, and increase your sphere of influence, because they prepossess people in your favor. Clothes have more than a passing influence—they make a direct impression. Make a good impression with one of our $20 gray sack suits—you can do it!—Wells & Coverly, Troy, N. Y.

Gentlemen, the "Big Store" is abloom with matchless lines of ready suits that are examples of the highest skill in tailoring, and combine all the other essential elements of good clothes-making that insures dependableness and service. No haphazard assembling, and slip-shod sewing. Every suit a model of careful, painstaking, conscientious work. So well planned, so nicely fashioned, so carefully finished, the usual ready-to-wear characteristics are absolutely lost in the individuality of modeling of the Eiseman Bros'. garments. But beneath the good looks of the clothes is the real reason for their excellence and hold-togetherness through constant wear, through rain and shine—all wool. That's the secret. If all the clothing made was as good as the Eiseman Bros'. make, their long established trade would be badly divided; but so few makes can be considered in their class, that the demand for their tailoring has put them at the very forefront of popularity, and builded for them the largest retail clothing business in the entire South. Let your preference be wisely guided, and choose this store for your purchases.—Eiseman Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

In all honesty we say, "this is the world's most complete and best equipped exclusively men's and boys' clothing store." Stocks are broadest here, selling space is greatest here, service is best here. Anything you desire made to order in our factories on premises.—The Palace, Minneapolis, Minn.

The heads of departments say: "Go ahead and talk all you want to about spring garments. We've the goods to back up a lot of tall talk." But, after a survey of the stock, we confess our inability to do justice to the subject. We might ask you to imagine the handsomest garments you ever saw, and then come here expecting to find similar suits and overcoats at considerably lower prices. For you can surely find them. They're here, cut by artists, tailored by experts, finished superbly. The most finicky man cannot ask for more, for the dresser who knows correct style is delighted with the clothing and smiles at his savings. Pay us the compliment of a visit.—Fred W. Donnelly, Trenton, N. J.

There are many wholesale makers of clothing, some good and some worse. Almost without exception clothing stores are supplied by these makers—taking what is offered by them and making choice, if any is made from stock already completed. That is why critical men find such an everlasting sameness about ready-for-service clothing in pretty much all stores. The difference in the Loeser method is that we practically originate all our men's clothing. We choose our fabrics as they come from the mills. We select and test linings, trimmings—every bit of material. We direct and watch every process of tailor work until the completed garment is ready for you here. One result is that Loeser clothing possesses individuality. Another result is that we can correctly fit men of all proportions. Another result is that the specially good tailor work done on these clothes insures permanence to their good qualities until they are entirely worn out. Loeser clothes look better to begin with. Loeser clothes wear longer than is usual. Loeser clothes cost as little or less than ordinary clothes. If you are well satisfied where you are trading, we don't in the least ask you to change. But if you are not satisfied, if you think some betterment is possible, then we do ask you to see this clothing for your own advantage as well as ours. The new spring stocks seem to us as creditable as any clothes ever produced. They have points of difference evident even to a casual inspection.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Spring suits for every man. We assemble everything that is new—everything that is correct—everything that is elegant—and present the most gratifying assortment of styles and patterns. Certainly these great stocks—in such lavish variety—fully merit all the attention that they are receiving. The style you elect—the pattern you prefer—the shade or color you favor—are included in our magnificent showing of spring suits. When may we show you your favorite?—Fit Reform, Winnipeg, Can.

The Eaton clothed man is elegantly and economically clothed. The assertion that we make regarding Eaton-made clothing having all the good points of custom tailoring, with none of the latter's price expensiveness, will bear investigating—and the more closely the investigation is conducted the better we'll be satisfied. No man of judgment could make the comparison without being firmly convinced of the great advantage there is in wearing Eaton tailored clothes.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Men's suits and topcoats. Do you know what makes our men's department popular? Values. Nowhere can you obtain such values for such low prices. We have a great line of suits and you may have your pick from all the newest of the season in club checks, plain or fancy colors, and everything that is correct in top coats.—Lewis, Troy, N. Y.

Your appearance this spring will depend in a great measure on the kind of suit you're wearing. There is always more responsibility placed on the suit in the spring—after a man sheds his overcoat, than at any other season of the year. There is no tonic in the world so bracing as one of our handsome spring suits. We'd like to show you the new spring "kinks." Coats trifle form fitting but not so long. Collars wide, lapels wide and cut to form a soft roll. Trousers very shapely and easy fitting. There are many new fabrics in broken checks and stripes in blue, olive and brown mixtures. $18 up to $20 or $25. Just remember, please, that the best tailors in the land build our clothes and your satisfaction is assured. Yours for whatever's right.—M. Stanchfield, Grand Forks, N. D.

When you want the best clothing that can be had, ready-to-wear at moderate cost, come to us and we'll show you, not only the highest class garments, but the greatest value offered in the city. Here you can make a selection from all the authoritative styles in hundreds of fashionable, exclusive patterns of finest foreign and domestic fabrics. Here you can be sure of getting garments, not only correct in every fashion detail, but faultless in workmanship and perfect in fit. That's because we sell the noted "Eff-Eff."—J. L. Mimbaugh & Co., Columbia, S. C.

Since a decade ago the sheep industry has been confined very much to the West and the Pacific Slope, and, owing to the scarcity of sheep, contracts are being made right now for fine Oregon and Western wool on the sheep's back at 34c. higher per pound than ten years ago. Note this fact when you see my special offerings in winter suits and overcoats.—Kinard, Columbia, S. C.

When you consider the fact that this firm is Schenectady's foremost clothing house, and that nothing but honest goods enter its establishment, you then, and not until then, appreciate the full importance of this clearance sale, and the mighty purchasing power of your dollars. Clean up all winter stocks is the watchword. The following concessions illustrate the way we're doing it.—Schenectady Clothing Co., Schenectady.

Clothes made right will look right. There is no use trying to have poorly made garments look right. And there is no necessity in experimenting with clothes that are constructed of cheap material and put together in an unskilled manner. Just come in to our store and get fitted out with one of the many different styles of suits built by the makers of the best clothes in America—Hart, Schaffner & Marx, and you can feel certain that you are fitted out in the latest and best.—J. F. Holmes & Co., Fargo.

The difference in clothes. It is the easiest thing in the world to buy poor clothes. They prevail to a much greater extent than the well-tailored, individual and distinctive kind. The poor kind is the easier to make and the profits thereon are larger. But when it comes to satisfaction—that is, wearing quality, perfect workmanship and faultless fashioning—only the good clothes make a return on your investment, and these are the features we can conscientiously claim for the clothes we sell. You can't get anything but good clothes at this store, even though you spend as little as $10 for a garment. Our $10 suits, for instance, contain the best quality of fabric and workmanship that has ever been produced in this country for that sum of money, and the patterns are as diversified as the higher priced lines.—Steeffel Bros., Albany, N. Y.

We are getting the trade of parents who discriminate in favor of youthful clothing of character. The alert young men and boys, hereabouts, show decided preference for this store because they know our clothing is typically different from the usual. This Easter showing of ours includes Rogers, Peet & Co.'s and other youthful makes which are confined to our selling. The materials, tailoring and finish are absolutely to be relied upon, and it is better known every day that our prices are the lowest possible for anything like equal quality.—Babbitts & Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Suppose two men each with a $20 bill, started down the street together to buy new clothes. One of them goes to a Kirschbaum dealer; the other man elsewhere for another well-known make. The Kirschbaum man will get a splendid suit for $20; the other man finds that $20 only pays for the poorest suit that his maker turns out. Now there is absolutely no comparison between the suits. The Kirschbaum man has the best of it by at least $5 actual money-value in material and tailoring; and what is more his clothes have more style. See if it isn't true.—A. B. Kirschbaum & Co., Terre Haute, Ind.

EVENING WEAR

The formality of the occasion calls for formality in dress. And if a man is particular about anything in his wardrobe it is the character and fit of his full dress clothes—both for evening wear and daytime wear. These exactions are not more severe than our stock is capable of meeting. It is in the difficult problems of clothes making that the Saks clothing shows its superiority most plainly. Ours are high class tailors, and they know how to work with and in high class materials and high class manner—in fact, they don't know any other way or any other class.—Saks & Company, New York.

A Man Must Dress According to Custom.—If you associate with men who wear dress suits at any time evenings, you must wear one yourself, and most men are obliged to have them. This does not mean that you must spend from $60 to $100—that is, it doesn't if you buy at the right place, and if you will call here we can show you how it can be done at a very small expense, and not a detail will be lacking that the highest priced custom tailor will incorporate—besides, you can wear it the very night you select it.—P. B. Kearney, Schenectady, N. Y.

Full dress for complete formality; dinner suits for the family circle and stage doings. Lined with rich silk and in the height of style. Made in our custom tailoring department, they possess that smooth fit and striking style only to be obtained through the touch of master tailors. Style, fit, quality and price guaranteed. No charge for pressing clothes made in our tailor shop—nor for ready-to-wear suits from $15 up. — Goldberg Bros. Co., Phoenix, Ariz.

The donning of conventional full dress in the evening, or of the "Prince Albert" in the afternoon, brings all men of a company to the same level. Time was when "ready-made," venturing to mingle in a group of well-dressed men, might easily have been singled out; but the dress clothes from the Stein-Bloch Co., and some other manufacturers we have made almost equally famous in Philadelphia, possess every attribute of gentility in excellence of fabric, fit and finish.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Our display of evening dress wears for men will post you on what is correct in evening clothes and all that go with them. The cut of our swallow-tail coats and Tuxedos is strictly up to the minute and the fit is as smart and perfect as tailors can produce. And you may rely upon the absolute correctness of all the little essentials to evening dress.—Meigs & Co., New Haven, Conn.

During July and August you find several occasions where a dress suit or dinner coat is quite essential to your comfort. A dinner at the casino or at some of the hotels; an invitation out to meet some friends. Numerous occasions, on any one of which you'll need a full dress or Tuxedo suit. Better let us fit you out. We have the stock from which you can be perfectly fitted.—Holbrook & Perkins, Colorado Springs, Colo.

"Thirty dollars for a dress suit?" The man who always goes to a tailor smiles sarcastically. Yet there are hundreds of carefully dressed Brooklyn men who know that it is possible to buy here even for as little as thirty dollars dress suits that are as correct in style and as fine in every detail of finish and good tailoring as the custom tailor would charge half as much again for making.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

MEN'S OVERCOATS

A bright clerk in a Wall Street office has done well in a business transaction.

"Get the finest overcoat in town," said the broker gleefully, "and send the bill to us."

In a few days the clerk appeared in a beautiful fur-lined coat.

"Fine coat—fine," remarked the broker, as he contemplated first the garment and then a bill for $1,300. "Why didn't you have oil paintings on the buttons?"—New York Evening Post.

Magnificent overcoats! Rather a strong word with which to describe our overcoats, but nothing more mild will cover the territory or do justice to our Winter overcoats. It doesn't matter what shape, or size, or kind of a man you are, if you're an overcoat seeker you'll find what you're looking for here. The styles that are just out. The colors that are just seen. The materials that are just right. The short, the medium length and the long coats—all are here. Your overcoat is here. Come and see if it isn't—$7.50 to $30 and full value at any price along this line.—Wright & Davidson Co., Wilmington, Del.

We are doing more and more business each season with the manufacturer of these coats, because his product is of the character that finds distribution through this clothing store. Twice this season a simple announcement of this coat has been sufficient to clear our counters in a few hours; so we count ourselves extremely lucky in getting another lot for to-morrow, probably the last for this season. The material is a fine standard coating from one of the best mills in America, in Oxford or black shades. They are cut on a handsome Chesterfield model, single breasted, 44 to 46 inches long; every garment is hand tailored and lined throughout with rich heavy satin. Regular sizes, from 34 to 42—a few for stout men, too.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fit, style, tailoring, finish—these are the cardinal principles which distinguish the overcoats and top coats that make up an important feature of the clothing of a new standard in the new store for men. It isn't necessary to take our word for it. We would a great deal rather have you satisfy yourself that we are enthusiastic about these spring clothes because the clothes deserve enthusiasm. It makes no difference whether you care to buy—whether you would buy under any circumstances. We will have a great deal of pleasure in showing you what we mean by calling this clothing of a new standard.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you want to step right into the jauntiest sort of a top coat, of the newest covert cloth, with every little detail of fine tailoring carried out just as it should be, it's here.—Wm. Vogel & Son, New York, N. Y.

My whole spring overcoat family from pert, little top-coat to stately paddock is on tiptoe to greet you. If you're fond of walking you couldn't find a more agreeable companion than my "Saunterer." At every step you have the soothing consciousness that style walks with you. For primmer occasions the paddock is in a niche of its own. Its breadth of shoulder, snugness of waist and freedom of skirt make it pre-eminently "a modern of moderns." Stein-Bloch made my overcoats and he, you know, wields a sorcerer's wand in dress.—Vincent, New York, N. Y.

Been having rough house in our overcoat department. Found a lot of overcoats that would look mighty fine on men's backs, but they don't look good on our tables.—Geo. Watson & Co., Newark, N. J.

Great! Hackett-Carhart spring overcoats just out. Smartest lot of coats in New York. Broad shoulders, loose, easy lines. Put one on. You'll feel prosperous because you'll look it.—Hackett-Carhart & Co., New York.

NEW STYLES IN AUTUMN TOP COATS.—The top-coat is not a luxury—it's a necessity. At this time of the year, especially this year, when the evenings are so cool, it is simply dangerous to be without it. The old saying, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," should be remembered, and $8, $10, $15 or $20 worth of top-coat prevention secured at once. The new shades are tan covert, Oxford greys and unfinished worsteds. The short boxy coat for street and driving and the never-out-of-style medium length for all places. You can't make a mistake, whichever one you buy. They are all prizes.—Nichols & Morse, Haverhill, Mass.

TOP COATS FOR MEN.—From now till the middle of November a top coat is necessary for a man's comfort. With one a man is prepared for any change in the weather—and changes are mighty sudden here in Saginaw. Top coats here rival the exclusive tailors' productions in every detail, even to fabrics; styles are the latest and fabrics the newest.—J. C. Mercer, Saginaw, Mich.

"Not what you hit, but what you aim at, is important," says an old philosopher. We aim to hit the overcoat-tastes of all kinds of men. And we're doing it. We aim to give you better quality and style than your money will buy anywhere else. We're doing that, too.—Leopold Morse & Co., Boston, Mass.

"Because all up-to-date men wear up-to-date overcoats is all the more reason why you should buy an up-to-date overcoat."—Golden, Detroit, Mich.

Whether a man is in the house or outdoors, he generally takes pains to dress becomingly as well as comfortable. It isn't so much a question of expense as taste and good judgment, and the man who comes to Goldthwait's for his house coat and overcoat is accredited with both; he also saves considerable through the transaction.

Whether the price is $20 or $30, the style is there. Difference in price means difference in value of material. The $20 overcoat made here receives the same attention that the most expensive one does; in short, there is never a false stitch or a skimped seam permitted to leave our shop.—A. Gilmour, St. John, N. B.

When it's real hot we like to think there's a cold time a-coming. Thinking of that we ran over our stock of light-weight fall overcoats and found a few odd lots we ought to clean up before fall business begins.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

The effect of the finest frock or overcoat may be sacrificed to an unsuitable pair of trousers. In such instances trousers should show contrast in coloring but not in taste. Our spring assortment of overcoats, larger than ever, contains appropriate patterns in fancy cheviots, oxfords, blacks, tans, quiet and refined designs largely predominating.—Brokaw Bros., New York, N. Y.

It's got along a little late, but Winter will catch you now if you don't look out. Better look in here to-day. Overcoats are cheaper than doctor's bills, and more attractive, too.—The Frieman-Church Company, Hartford, Conn.

It isn't such a cold world—in our overcoats. They make a fine picture—and warm your frame. Tourist o'coats are a "go" this season—here's a choice assortment—a belt and a guaranty behind every one. Paddock o'coats, too—and long full backs—also "regulars"—and the double-breasted Ulsters, with big warm collars. After your first purchase here you'll know what people mean by "that safe feeling" when in our store. If you're well overcoated—want to be well suited—ours at $15 to $35 are suitable suits for the best dressers.—F. M. Atwood, Chicago, Ill.

Commencing Thursday morning we will offer 500 of this season's men's overcoats in oxfords, blacks, tans and the new light fancy mixed cheviots, silk lined throughout, absolutely perfect in every detail; designed and manufactured under our personal supervision, and representing the highest art of custom tailoring.—Smith, Gray & Co., New York.

We Fit the Hard to Fit.—Good backing for a broad assertion. It is not necessary to pay a big price because you are a big man—you'll find a big lot of comfort in our big sizes—also big reductions this week in heavy weights.—Wells & Coverly, Troy, N. Y.

No set date for wearing The Stroller. It's an all-year-round coat, and long coats are the rage; you know that, especially for this coming spring. You can wear The Stroller three hundred and sixty-five days in the year.—Raphael's, Los Angeles, Cal.

New Fall Overcoats are coming in every day now, and are piled up on our counters as high as one can reach. They are mighty swell garments, and represent the highest points of excellence in quality, style, fit and finish. Some have belts and some haven't, and the ultra fashionable styles are a trifle longer, as well as a little fuller in the back, than last year's coats. But come and see 'em yourself.—R. J. Hurd & Co., Spokane, Wash.

December snow makes overcoats go.—Ottenheimer Bros., Peoria, Ill.

We have just gone through our stock and taken out every suit and overcoat of which we have but a few left in each lot. There are all sizes, but not all of the same lot. These we have placed on separate tables and put a price on them that will gladden your heart. Some of them at just one-third regular price. Don't miss this sale. You will never get these suits and overcoats again at the price. Never was such a cut made, and this, too, just as winter is upon us.—Kaufman Clothing Co., Lexington, Ky.

Fine overcoats for men with a liking for luxury and a habit of thrift. A good many men who read this word are familiar with the thoroughly luxurious overcoats that we sell at from $35 to $50. Place them side by side with the finest overcoats of the best tailors in New York, and, at least, five times out of ten a man would favor one of the Wanamaker overcoats. They have all the style and character that the tailor can put into them. The overcoatings and the linings are of the very highest quality. The workmanship throughout is of the most careful and artistic character. The man who buys one of these overcoats is going to wear it several seasons, and January is the time to make the investment if he has any inclination to economy. This group includes thirteen overcoats that were $35, eight that were $38, four that were $40, twenty-one that were $45 and thirteen that were $50. The materials are Oxford mixed and black chevots and meltons; and all the overcoats are luxuriously lined with fine silk. Sizes sufficient to fit everybody who gets here promptly. Twenty-five dollars each.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

At the price of $9.75 we have concentrated the most goodness ever put in one overcoat at such a moderate price. This sale offers the very cleverest three-quarter or extremely long coats in the correct oxford mixtures, all-wool kerseys and meltons; also genuine Irish frieze. These are tailored with broad shoulders and are cut so as to hang gracefully.—Soloman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

We have been selling fall overcoats. This reminds us that fall overcoat weather is with us now. In fact, it has been with us more or less all summer. The only kind of fall overcoats we sell is good ones.—Freeman Church Co., Hartford, Conn.

Five reasons why our suits, top coats, spring coats and rain coats at $10 are the best value in men's clothing ever offered in New York, the greatest clothing city in the world: 1. Instead of burlap interlining our garments have linen. 2. Instead of buckram front stiffening—haircloth. 3. Instead of cotton linings—wool serge. 4. Instead of machine work—skillful hand work. And 5. Instead of a much higher price—our price, $10.—Brill Bros., New York, N. Y.

Analyze any successful business and you will find that some specific thing stands out boldly—the thing with which you and your fellows identify the business. It proves this: The man has found his work, and he can do that one thing better than the rest of his kind. As an instance of this we will ask you to accept our new series of suits and top coats at twenty-five dollars. It is our great work. If there be another tailor who has it within himself to infuse into a garment the character and distinctiveness that mark ours, his must be the to-order method and his price at least one-fourth greater than ours.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

If you want a bargain—such as you often read about, but seldom get—you should come for one of these fine Chesterfield coats we're selling at $12. They are coats that are the match of any $40 garments in point of style.—Hollanders', Hartford, Conn.

Don't spend two dollars when one will answer the purpose, but buy where prices have fifty per cent. of saving in them. Our stock of overcoats is full of good things and we're selling 'em.—Desmond's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Price advantages run riot in the coat section at this time of the season, because there are many broken assortments and odd sizes that must be cleared away while there is yet time for the wearing of heavy weight coats.—John Taylor, Kansas City, Mo.

Perhaps it's the old-fashioned winter weather that has brought the tourist overcoat into such high favor. These long, warm, protective overcoats with the belted back, cover a man effectually, and protect him from the severest storm. Then they look smart as well as comfortable, and men like them. Made with broad shoulders, loose, graceful hanging back. Some single, others double breasted; some lined with serge, some lined with wool. Made in a good assortment of stylish fancy mixed chevots, at $15 to $35.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

That Touch of Style.—F. B. Q. overcoats have that touch of style that gives them individuality.—Stewart Dry Goods Company, Louisville, Ky.

Scores of the best dressed men in this vicinity are trying our "ready-to-wear" plan. It saves them money, and they get as good clothes as formerly from a tailor. If you feel dubious about anything "ready-made" you ought to investigate the facts, in simple justice to yourself. Top coats are fashionable again. Ours are short, boxy, easy, graceful—made of the best imported covert—style and individuality in every line. Your tailor would say $40. Too much! Our price is $20.00.—Sisson & Sewell, Milwaukee, Wis.

A splendid selection of the stylish top coats in all the various shades which are correct. We also have by far the largest line of water-proof overcoats, showing blacks, Oxfords, neat effects and loud designs. The newest and the best perfected system of cutting employed in the making of these garments, together with the very extensive varieties of sizes, assure absolute satisfaction in fit. Our clothes are absolutely guaranteed to you.—Peerless Clothing Co., Spokane.

These days are very suggestive of the need of a fall overcoat. And there are overcoats that will afford you not only a protection against the chill winds, but they will add to the dignity and smartness of your appearance. They possess all the little touches that make for style—those shapely shoulders, snug-fitting collars, and lapels and smooth setting coat fronts, that will always hold shape.—Vogel Bros., New York, N. Y.

A Topcoat.—Really a necessity these cool mornings and evenings—a topcoat. These coats we are selling are of the right sort. Cut in the popular short boxy style, they have well built shoulders and the shape-retaining properties that are essential to a stylish garment. The colors range through the grays, browns and blacks. Prices—well, you can buy a good coat for $12 to $15; certainly, we've better ones, if you wish them.—C. A. Weed & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Comfort in Overcoats.—A rightly made overcoat, handsomely finished and luxuriously lined, is every man's delight.—Browning, King & Co., Kansas City.

The government is making a short cut to get rid of distance. We are making a short cut to get rid of our winter overcoats—most of them will be just as good and in perfect style next fall. But it's our way not to have them next fall. Come in and see the inducements we're making.—The J. L. Hudson Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

At a Glance.—The good features of our overcoats proclaim themselves.—Wright & Davidson Co., Wilmington.

We're ready for every overcoat demand with overcoats that are the embodiment of perfection.—Saks & Co., Washington, D. C.

As we proceed with our count, we discover the enormity of our Heavy Overcoat stock, not too heavy to wear, but too heavy to carry in stock. The result is, you are making money, and we pay for the folly of buying too much.—Lion Clothing Co., San Diego.

The first blast of winter is really time to think of winter clothing. The putter off does not secure the cream of the stock, for the early buyer has that opportunity. Now the time is ripe, and we invite you to inspect the most carefully selected stock in Newport.—Jennings, Newport, R. I.

Our coats are the kind that give good service and lots of warmth. That's because of the wool that's in the garment. We sell low and give you a coat which will make a friend for us.—Gately & Brennan, New Haven, Conn.

January is the month to buy a winter overcoat, first, because you are sure to have several months of good service out of it, and again because you get a decisive reduction in price. Then an overcoat is always good for two years' service at least, particularly if it is a Wanamaker coat.—Wanamaker, New York.

It is conscientious effort that counts in tailoring. To its liberal application our ready-for-service top coats owe everything which divorces them from the commonplace garments—everything which makes them distinctive and ready for the service of the critical and discerning.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

They're very swell.—These new top coats are very useful and comfortable these cool evenings. They look like tailor made, and they are made by the best wholesale tailors in the country. Step in and get posted on the spring styles.—Mullen & Bluett Clothing Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

A cold wave coming. We are ready for it, are you? If not call and see our line of winter clothing. All hand-tailored, perfect in fit, latest in pattern, prices to suit all.—Moody, Hirschman & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Even the best class of tailors find difficulty in turning out these overcoats just so. Thanks to a masterful designer, our Paddocks and Surtouts are elegant types, with full, shapely shoulders, snug-fitting collars, a graceful waist line, and liberally draped skirt.—Vogel Brothers, New York, N. Y.

There is a certain dignified personality about the M. & B. overcoats that distinguishes them from the general run, a graceful hang that only the most expert tailoring can produce. A neatness of finish not noticeable in coats that tailors charge more money for. Come in and see.—Mullen & Bluett Clothing Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Cheer up! The worst is yet to come! Winter's real ferocities not yet cut loose. Our winter sack o'coats are all cut loose.—F. M. Atwood, Chicago, Ill.

Spring's new yet and right fresh. New Spring overcoats for fresh Spring days. New Spring suits—you know the men who buy the best usually buy first.—Rogers, Peet & Company, New York.

A man is only the less genteel for a fine coat, if, in wearing it, he shows a regard for it, and is not as easy in it as if it were a plain one.—Lord Chesterfield to his son. You need never fret about fabric, fashion, finish, or fit if your clothes bear this label.—Alfred Benjamin & Co., New York, N. Y.

A Sign of the Times.—Here are overcoats "as fine as silk"; short coverts, medium vicunas, long cravenettes. Short prices, medium prices, long prices. For little boys, athletic youths, practical men. To-day there is a special brand in the window, one-quarter silk lined, plaid back, at $25. This is an example of what the average tailor cannot do.—Eiseman & Weil, Atlanta, Ga.

Will a light weight overcoat come your way this fall? A short tan covert for hard knockabout wear? A knee length of dark rough goods for evening and Sundays? A long rain coat for fickle weather? A skirted paddock? All of them here in cuts that carry weight with men who know what's right.—Rogers, Peet & Company, New York.

The cold north wind and snow and the sleet will soon be here and you will want one of those long, warm, comfortable overcoats. There are two ways of getting the coat you should have. One way is to go to a high class custom tailor—if he is skilled in his art—and pay forty, fifty or sixty dollars for your coat. The other way—it's simple, sure, satisfactory—is by making your selection at the Ontario store where you may be sure you will get everything that is desirable and worthy in a coat and the price will be only $15.00 to $25.00.—Ontario Store, Grand Forks, N. D.

It is sound business sense for us to cut the prices on men's overcoats now, because it will leave our stocks absolutely clean and ready for entirely fresh supplies next season. It is sound business sense for you to buy one of these overcoats at the reduced price, because it will serve not only through the balance of this season, but be practically a new coat to start next winter.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Here's an opportunity you can hardly afford to overlook. All our winter suits and overcoats to be sold at a big sacrifice. These prices are exceptional, as the clothing comes from the very best makers.—Alex. Rice, Montgomery, Ala.

It isn't a case of the first fellow that comes getting the best suit or coat—the last garment of this lot to go will be just as good as the first. Our reason for urging you to hurry is so that you will be one of the fortunate ones to benefit by this sale. Fine styles in ready-and-right suits and cravenette overcoats—just one special lot of tardy arrivals—on sale at a 30 per cent. discount.—The Silverwood Stores, Los Angeles, Cal.

The coats that give satisfaction are the kind we sell. Because they're better styled, better made, fit better, than any other. Not all clothes are alike; some are for one class, some for another. Our clothes are for the man who wants to be clean-cut and well-dressed all the time. No fashion plate can surpass the style embodied in our coat models, and no matter what build of men, the stout, chubby sort, or the tall, slender, we can fit them. We solicit an early call.—Spira & Pincus, Mobile, Ala.

The greatest overcoat values in this whole Southern California are here ready for you. Not a "whoop hooray" sale, but genuinely good substantial values. The garments that we have staked our reputation on—the very best made anywhere, and priced within the special sale limit of many stores. We ask you to call and compare the worth of our coats and be judges of their worthiness. You will find them values, not $10 coats marked $15 and sold at $9.99, but honest straightforward merchandise sold at their true price.—Mullen & Bluett Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Men's suits and overcoats of this season's make—suits single and double-breasted styles in fancy chevots, worsteds and some blue serges, all sizes, formerly $13.50 and $15.00. Many of the suits are medium in weight and can be worn the year around. This sale will be continued until the spring styles arrive—no longer. Take advantage of this unusual opportunity now.—Samter Bros., Scranton, Pa.

Men of personality avoid the commonplace in dress. They incline toward clothes with an element of character. Whether it be a suit or an overcoat of ours that element is positive. It has its source in the exceptional manner in which every garment is designed and tailored.—Hackett, Carhart & Co., New York.

Through a series of remarkable offerings of fur-lined overcoats for men, this store has come to be headquarters for fine coats of this character, and in the past two seasons has distributed probably more fur coats at lower prices than were ever before sold anywhere during a similar period.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We are as proud as can be of our stock of men's winter overcoats, and we have a right to be. Again and again we have had our clothing compared with what is being shown in other stores; and every time we see a comparison of this sort we feel more confident about the clothing we manufacture.—The Goldstein Clothing Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Here are overcoats "as fine as silk"; short kerseys, medium vicunas, long, loose, swagger, fancy fullmores and the popular belt coats. Short prices, medium prices, long prices. For little boys, athletic youth, practical men. To-day there is a special brand in the window at $25. This is an example of what the average tailor cannot do. It pays to buy at the Boston and Providence Clothing Company, Providence, R. I.

Men's Spring Top Coats.—Ready to wear—and you can't find anything better at the best specialist store in New York. These are the finest silk lined, for the money, that can be made. All hand-tailored throughout, the same as the best custom tailors make them. Absolutely faultless in style and fit.—Loeser's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A Loeser spring overcoat has character as well as comfort. To produce the finest grade of any useful thing is a satisfaction entirely aside from the profit that may result. So we add newspaper publicity to the direct advertising that every Loeser overcoat does for itself. The distinctiveness which these overcoats have is due to special designing in the first place, and to thorough tailor work in the second place. And a good feature about the coats is the fact that they cost as little or even less than overcoats that are simply protections from the weather and that lack all style. Full stock is ready here.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Overcoats that are cut, that are tailored to live long and hold their shape as long as they live. It is the hidden parts of clothing—the linings, canvas and inside details—that make the right kind of clothing, the sort that looks right in the beginning and holds its shape until the cloth is gone, and that is the character of clothing you buy at the Big Store.—Streng's, Columbus, O.

Cold weather specials, $20.00. If ever there was a good place to buy overcoats, it is at a "Fashion-Craft" shop. We are prepared for you with all the latest models tailored with exceptional care and skill. Oxford and Cambridge grays, blacks, and fancy chevviots.—"Fashion-Plate," Winnipeg, Can.

Saturday's savings on fine raccoon and furlined coats. It's good judgment to buy Eaton-made fur garments—it's good fortune to get them below regular price. Better values in fur and fur-lined coats than those listed for Saturday have seldom been offered. Buying now means the acquisition of a coat of far superior quality to the one the same money would purchase at the usual price. The wise man will profit by the opportunity.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

We have been having a big overcoat sale and it is going to continue to be bigger than ever, because of our offer, i.e., chamois inter-lined overcoats at the price of the regular cloth lined coat. This, of course, is a saving to the purchaser of $5.00, which looks good to most men. The chamois interlined, as you know, is lighter than the fur or furlined coat, but when you consider its warmth, they are of equal value. We have an elegant line of imported English beavers and meltons, Scotch tweeds, fancy chevviots, etc., and our prices you will find are 20 per cent. lower than you pay elsewhere. Call and make a selection to-day.—Crown Tailoring Co., Ltd., Winnipeg.

Keep dry and warm. Do you know that the "Cravenette" is the most serviceable coat made, the most stylish, the most comfortable? Why? It's an overcoat and absolutely waterproof. You can walk all day in a cravenette such as we sell and never have a drop come through to your clothes underneath.

Show me a man who is carelessly dressed and will show you a man who will not make a success in life. Wear one of our new spring overcoats and you will never get turned down on account of personal appearances. New Chesterfield and medium length styles, the latest special value at $10.—F. J. Knott, Winnipeg, Can.

MEN'S TROUSERS

19,000 pairs Men's Trousers Almost Half. "The man in charge tells us 'to make it strong;' that he has been in the clothing business all his life and 'can't recall the time when such values have been offered in July;' that 'every cloth and style is in the lot; plain, striped and neat mixtures, worsteds, cheviots, cassimeres, flannels;' that 'there isn't anything anywhere to compare with them in fit and tailoring, no matter what the price;' that 'if the writer of advertising could only make you understand what big bargains they are there wouldn't be enough to go around.'" Is there anything else that we can say? Yes, this: A new pair of trousers brightens up last year's coat and vest wonderfully.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Half price sale of odd trousers. Here is the best odd trousers news of the season. A half-price sale of good dependable trousers that comes just when your suit trousers are beginning to show signs of wear and need a new pair. A new pair with your old coat would make you comparatively a new suit—and a splendid bridge-over till fall.—M. R. Emmons Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Clearing up men's trousers.—A chance to renew the youth of your summer suit.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn,

A new pair of odd trousers with your old coat will bridge you over till fall.—W. R. Emmons Co., Atlanta, Ga.

A pair of extra trousers is a possession that every tasty dresser appreciates. This is particularly the case during the summer season when the trousers are the most conspicuous feature of men's apparel. We have a large and exclusive department of them made necessary by the growing demand for extra trousers.—Lazarus, Columbus, O.

An odd pair of trousers will give variety to your wardrobe and piece out the suits of which the trousers have gone. Trousers wear longer when you alternate in wearing them, so it's really a saving to have one or two odd pairs.—U. S. Clothing Co., Denison, Tex.

February is trouser month in the clothing trade. We are placing our ready-to-wear at wholesale prices now. A good time to buy trousers—and this the place.—Hall & Herrick, Springfield, Ill.

Pants are like molasses, thinner in hot weather and thicker in cold weather. Men are often mistaken in pants. Such mistakes are "breeches" of promise. When men wear pants it is plural; when they don't it is singular. Men go on a "tare" in their pants, and it is all right; but when the pants go on a tear it is all wrong. If you want to make your pants last, make your coat first. Another way of making your pants "last" is to buy them at the London. That's all.—London Clothing Company, Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 1, 1902.

This is a fine collection of about two hundred pairs of men's pure worsted trousers in medium-colored stripes. All are this present season's goods, and, though they represent the odd lots of the stock, there is excellent variety to select from, and a good assortment of sizes.—Wanamaker Store, New York, N. Y.

That Great Sale of Trousers.—See the crowds—growing greater each day—Why?—See the prices—and when you look at them remember the style—quality—fit and tailoring are correct and reliable—and that's what counts.—Wolff's, Boston, Mass.—Jan. 18, 1903.

Annual sale men's trousers. That yearly occasion always awaited by Cleveland's thriftiest men, when, with stock-taking over, rare reductions are made. A trousers opportunity out of the ordinary.—The May Co., Cleveland, O.

Trouser-lengths from handsome suitings—grays, mixtures, browns—made to order at $2.50. This is the greatest bargain in pants ever offered in Washington. But you must give your order soon, for when this lot is gone no more at $2.50.—Morton C. Stout & Co., Washington, D. C.

Here you don't have to pay for a vest, if coat and trousers are all you want to wear.—Allison's, Philadelphia, Pa.

CLOTHING—MEN'S SUITS

Four bargains to celebrate the Fourth.—Here is our way of celebrating the Fourth—a bombardment of bargains in suits for man and boy—a saving on every purchase big enough to make a noisy celebration over. Best come before all the suits “go off”—this advertisement will light the business end of every bargain.—Meigs & Co., New Haven, Conn.

For summer wear there are no fabrics so cool and comfortable as a wool crash, flannel or homespun—men who have worn either will tell you that's true. Why shouldn't they be cool? Loosely woven, sifter-like—yet they're strong and will stand the roughest usage. No other Atlanta store can boast of a larger or better assortment of these ideal two-piece summer suits than Emmons.—M. R. Emmons Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Men's summer suits, the flannels and homespuns. The most comfortable summer suits ever made—any man who wears this kind of a suit once will never be without one in the summer—and then this price is a bargain. They are made in either the single or double breasted styles, the latest cut. The coats are unlined and have wide shoulder facing, tailored so as to fit well and retain their shapeliness permanently. The trousers are cut on the latest lines, with turn-ups, side straps and belt loops.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

You'll melt if you don't freeze on to one of our swell flannel wool.—J. & W. R. Wing & Co., New Bedford, Mass.

Men's serge suits.—We don't know of any Suit anywhere equal to this one for the money. You will find this suit the very height of comfort in warm weather—perfect fit, you know, means coolness.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

The prettiest yet.—Talk about outing suits! There are absolutely none in or within reach of Muncie to compare with the splendid garments we show. Perfect in style, perfect in construction, perfect in design. Priced within reach of all.—Keller, Bryce & Co., Muncie, Ind.

Those summer suits are going like mountain dew in Kentucky—nothing slow about the suits or the men who want 'em. It's your turn to-day. Just consider—a genuine, dyed-in-the-wool fancy homespun, a guaranteed fast-color serge, or a cool wool crash suit, cut and made in the very latest mode—at end-of-the-season prices! Double or single breasted, all carefully shaped and permanent in their perfect “hang” and “set.” A faultless fit assured if you step in at once. In a day or two more some lines will be seriously broken.—Vannest, Coleman & Co., Trenton, N. J.

We refer to Alfred Benjamin & Co.'s nobby two-piece suits. They make an ordinary two-piece suit seem shapeless and clumsy. These splendid suits are quite as appropriate for business as for outing wear. They give evidence of the skilled hands of the Alfred Benjamin tailors in their superb style and perfect fit. We guarantee these suits to hold their shape just as well as our three-piece lined suits—no tailor in the city dares promise so much. Two-piece suits come in all the correct novelties, including gray, and the rich blue serges.—James Smith & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

The success of this clothing business is based on nothing else, but good service; on the fact that almost every suit sold means a half dozen more to the man's friends. The styles are as smart as you will get from the most expensive custom tailor. The workmanship is better than you will find in usual ready-for-service clothing. The fit is perfect, and that means for the stout man and the slim man as well as for the man of regular build. The values are from $3 to $5 better than you will find outside this store even when stores are advertising “bargain” prices.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Put a man into a well cut dark blue serge suit, trim him with neat summer linen and low shoes and top him off with a straw hat and he's dressed. You can't find a neater combination, no matter what you spend. But there are serges and serges, same as goats and billy goats. Get the serge that is the right blue—one that will hold its color properly—one that is made to hold its shape—one that is nobby and up-to-date. We have the right serge, correct in every detail, for $12.50, $15.00, $16.50, $18.00, $20.00 and $25.00, and are only too pleased to have you call for a “try on.”—Chicago Clothing Company, Spokane.

Once for all let us make you certain on one point about the serge that goes into our suits—whether it is the lowest or highest priced. Every yard is shrunk before cutting and chemically tested for color. And we'll stand back of every suit for that. Now as to the making. Serge is a stubborn fabric and in unskilled hands is a failure. On the other hand, when fashioned and tailored by skilled craftsmen nothing is more elegant than a serge suit—for that sort see Vogel Brothers.—Vogel Bros., New York.

It may be easy to match our prices, but you'll see a big difference in qualities. Our suits are built with a painstaking care which insures perfect fit, retention of shape and best styles. There's lots of time to wear summer suits yet. Better see ours.—Thomas J. Maher, Utica, N. Y.

This great outing suit offer has drawn hundreds of enthusiastic buyers. It is a sale that deserves more than ordinary attention, for of all the multitude of suits that stock the counter at $7.50 none sold earlier in the season for less than $12.50, $13.50 and $15. Such famous makes as Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Chicago; also R. & W., all best tailored, best fitting, most stylish fabrics, sizes to fit all.—The Palace Clothing Co., Kansas City.

The custom tailor will find his cleverness taxed and every phase of his craft called into requisition to fashion a suit with distinctive lines—the graceful appearance and perfect proportions that identify ours—at fifteen dollars or more—'tis the only ready-for-service clothing of which we know that has everything (except the price) in common with the finest made-to-order. Our styles are distinctive and elegant—yet safely conservative—showing original designs—not too far from conventional lines. Materials of just the proper quality and pliancy to yield to the deft fingers of the tailor-artisans—which gives expression to the grace and shapeliness of the garment—in fact the demand of discriminating men are exacting and the ability to meet them are seldom found.—Halpert & Jacobs, Binghamton, N. Y.

The value of a thing establishes its selling price. Governed by this rule these $15 suits of ours should sell for no less than $20, that is, if we were to guide ourselves by the selling prices that prevail at other stores—but we don't. The mere comparisons of figures is an aimless way of getting at the kernel of things—and what we want to impress upon you is that our suits, even at $15, are better than most stores sell for $20. We will stand behind this claim, word for word, and satisfy you if it is not so. We are secure in our conviction because we have the knowledge of what we are talking about. It's up to you to prove it—disprove it you can't.—Wm. Vogel & Son, New York, N. Y.

This is a very popular price for men's business suits, and it is a price that will pay for very exceptional qualities when the suits are properly planned. In the first place, Wanamaker clothing is made of absolutely pure wool fabrics. The style is just as carefully designed as though the suit was to be sold for double. The shaping of the collar, which means everything in the coat, is done by hand. The inside work on the coat is done just about twice as well as in ordinary fifteen-dollar clothing. This means that a man can safely pay this price at Wanamaker's, and get a suit that is going to be shapely as long as it is worn. The collection includes single-breasted sack coat suits, of fancy mixed chevots and worsteds. Single and double-breasted sack coat suits, of black thibet. Very remarkable suits at the price. Also a collection of double-breasted blue serge sack suits, half-lined, for hot-weather wear, at $15 a suit. Wanamaker rain-coats at $15 are made of fine oxford mixed worsteds, modeled after our fine overcoats. Of course, we have clothing of all good grades, but the store can be safely measured by the clothing it sells at this popular price.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

A special purchase from a well-known Philadelphia manufacturer of 375 single- and double-breasted suits—on sale tomorrow (Friday) morning. Can't mention this manufacturer's name—but you will recognize it the minute you note the fine workmanship, the choice materials that enter into the making of these suits. The fabrics are all-wool worsted—the latest style long coat, concave shoulders and the latest shape collar and lapels. The trousers have the semi-peg top. The suits are high-grade in every detail—the workmanship is of the best merchant-tailoring. These suits under ordinary circumstances would retail for $15.00 and $18.00—we mark them at the uniform price of $10.00.—Lit Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Our famous Russian navy serge.—There isn't a serge made that we'd trust more fully for the all-around wear of outing and business and dress-up than the Russian navy serge.—Saks & Co., Washington, D. C.

The latest sack styles, scientifically cut and finely tailored by makers famed for the excellence of their products. The fabrics are all new and up-to-date in pattern and comprise cheviots, worsteds and homespuns, in wide variety of neat colorings. Every detail of the quality in these suits proclaims them worth $15.00. It is merely the result of a lucky purchase that we are enabled to offer this lot of beautifully made, high-grade goods at only $11.00. Our reputation for large clothing assortments and ability to give every customer a perfect fit, will be enhanced by this offering.—White & Davie, Pueblo, Colo.

We want to talk to you about the thorough, all-round practicability of a black or blue suit for summer. In the first place, it's the best suit for dress or business, if you want to get along with one suit. Secondly, black or blue makes the most desirable outing suit a man can wear. All this holds good when you get the proper weight and workmanship. Lightweight serges and cheviots demand special treatment. When we talk like this you can rest assured that our suits have it.—The Freeman Church Co., Hartford, Conn.

Everybody admits our ability to give better value at $10 than any tailor can do—the same reason holds good on up the scale. We absolutely defy any tailor to match our $25 to $40 suits, which are the product of brain, skill, money, and large output, sold through us at a saving to you. The "M. & B. Label" is a little thing to look for, but a big thing to find.—Mullen & Bluett, Los Angeles, Cal.

Men's suits of blue or black serge, light-weight worsteds, cheviots, clay diagonals or thibets, made to your measure, no matter what your size may be, for eleven dollars and eighty cents. Should you not be satisfied with the suit after it is made up, your money will be cheerfully refunded. Sale positively ends next Saturday evening. Forty styles to select from.—Bloomington, New York.

As soon as June gets thoroughly thawed out you'll want a lightweight suit. If you want to be absolutely certain that it is a good suit, made of fabrics that you can trust, put together in a dependable manner, fashioned on lines that are proper and priced at a single just profit over the raw manufacturing cost, your suit will be Morse-made.—Leopold Morse & Co., Boston, Mass.

For business or pleasure, labor or leisure—here are the suits that suit your figure and your pocket-book.—Jackson's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Observe the crash—Not in prices, but in suits.—Browning, King & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

It'll be safe to get a blue serge; coolest fabric in the hot sun—not too thin for cool nights—grave enough for Sunday—gay enough for any event.

When a serge suit is right, it is the coolest, dressiest and most serviceable summer suit you can buy. We'll sell you a serge suit for as little as anybody—and it won't hang like a rag from the shoulders or draw at the edges.—Robt. I. Cohen, Galveston, Texas.

Our light weight two-piece suit. No dragged out look to our thin coats. We've mastered the problem; a little lining in the right spot makes the garment hold its shape. You'll appreciate this as you see it, and as long as you wear it. Some good loud colors and patterns; real young stuff for men of all ages who feel they are still in it.—Talbot & Co., Fall River, Mass.

Man! Do you know Emmons' clothing? Almost every man in Atlanta does. Those few wanderers who don't—should. And the sooner, the better for them; both in looks and in pocketbook. There are no better anywhere—there are no cheaper. What do we mean by cheaper? We don't mean clothes that nobody wants—look like a rag in a month; color fades, seams rip, buttons come off, linings give out—the stores are full of that sort, and that sort of cheapness is the wildest kind of extravagance. Buy a suit here, no matter what the price may be, $10.00 for our cheapest or $25.00 for our best—remember, your money will be returned to you if not just as we represent it to be.—M. R. Emmons, Atlanta, Ga.

Ask yourself what kind of a suit you want—you'll find it here. The suit which caught your fancy, that you saw on a certain well-dressed man—that's here, too—ten chances to one. No need going into details about all our suits—we could fill this entire paper. It's enough to say that your suit is here—the suit in harmony with your taste and in keeping with your purse.—J. C. Mercer, Saginaw.

Did you ever think the other fellow was better dressed than you? Of course you did. So did other people. We knew it to be a fact. Why? Because we sold the other fellow his suit.—Geltz, Mansfield, O.

Unless you're wedded to made-to-order prejudices—our summer suits will interest you. No single blessedness about 'em—they're thrice blessed, i.e., correct in style—satisfying in service—attractive in price.—F. M. Atwood, Chicago, Ill.

In the good old summer time you will want a new up-to-date tailored suit. We have them in endless varieties at popular prices.—Greenston, Peoria, Ill.

Getting your share. Are you getting your share of the genuine brand of coolness and comfort with "the name blown in the bottle" that we are furnishing our customers? We're dealing out in the shape of suits that soothe 'neath Old Sol's fiercest rays. While they're made of different fabrics, there's little difference in the degree of coolness.—Brauer & Krohn, Los Angeles, Cal.

Your fall suit.—After donning one of our new fall suits no one will know but what it was made by some tailor at double the price we asked for it. Let us show you our line. You will not be importuned to buy unless you find the style, fit, finish and everything to be to your complete satisfaction.—Lazarus, Columbus, Ohio.

Now that our new suitings are on display, it is a good time to come in and make your dressmaking plans for autumn. We mention a few of the fabrics which will be most popular this fall. They will give you some idea as to prices, but not much idea of the beauty of these cloths. So come and see to-morrow.—The Robert Simpson Co., Toronto, Ont.

Men's fall suits to order.—Thinking about your fall suit? You're wise to do so—particularly if you intend to have it made to order. For the new Autumn fabrics are here—a handsome variety—and you get the broadest selection now, without hurry or rush. Patterns range from grave to gay—from neat effects in worsteds and fancy chevots to the more striking styles that young men like. If you've never tried a Wanamaker made-to-order suit, the amount of smart tailoring, fit and correct style in one of our $25 to $30 suits will be a revelation to you. It's all that can be put in any suit. And the choice of fabrics is superbly varied. Same workmanship in the $20 suits—the difference lies in the goods. But you'll never find it out through the test of wear. Stop in and find out more about them.—Wanamaker's, New York.

New suitings for fall wear.—If you read the advance fashion journals, which always appear a month ahead of the date, you have read descriptions of these tucked Meltons and Kerseys, or these handsome Scotch Tweeds, a trifle bolder and rougher and shaggier than any ever seen before. But reading, however good, is not half as interesting as sight-seeing, so you're invited to view the first show of costume cloths for fall wear.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

Coolness and economy in clothes for men.—That man is lucky who can find a reasonable excuse for indulging himself in some of the summer raiment mentioned here. Its coolness and comfort will go far towards counteracting the warm glow of self-satisfaction arising from his thrift and economy, as well as the temperature-rises he's apt to experience almost any minute now.—Wanamaker's, New York.

"Chesty?" Yes, of course, "chesty." There's no "air," no style, no effect to clothing this summer unless it's chesty; it's part of the stalwart, forceful, fashionable fad which now rules. The ordinary tailor or the regulation store cannot produce this effect; skill of the highest order—the kind we employ—is required; the right sort is here.—I. & A. Friedlich, Des Moines, Iowa.

Suits that suit. Our suits will please you just as long as you wear them, and finally when laid aside, the remembrance of the long service and perfect fit will be pleasant. Our outing suits, now on display, are the acme of perfection in style, fit and comfort. Get our prices.—Thomas J. Maher, Utica, N. Y.

An advertiser the other day, telling of a store he used to write for, said they had three grades of clothing: All-wool. Strictly all-wool. Guaranteed strictly all-wool. He said he thought the latter was really all-wool, but wasn't quite sure. No mincing of words in this store. No relaxing from the old standards that we have built this business on—All wool means—All Wool.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Rugged, primitive fabrics, both of them, but who will gainsay their supremacy for midsummer wear? Perhaps you do not take kindly to them? You will after the inevitable torrid heat compels you to recognize the comfort their loose open meshes insure.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

To the man who has been disappointed elsewhere: A clothier's mere desire to serve his patrons well means nothing—unless he has a first-class stock to back up his good intentions. The man who has been disappointed elsewhere probably suffered more from smallness of stock and lack of expert judgment on the clothier's part than from ill-intention. We have not only a robust desire to serve our patrons's best interests, but we have the largest and finest stock of clothing in Mobile.—Spira & Pincus, Mobile.

Some people insist upon having our suits at any price. Set a show window with some of the new summery goods and caught a burglar Monday. Small wonder—they are attractive enough to catch any man. And when he's caught he's kept.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

If you've got your mind made up as to what you want for a summer suit, you'll find it here—if it's right. Our first and second floors ought to hold it; if they don't, we can lay hands on it in a minute, in the big reserve stock on our third floor.—Allison's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Let July shake the thermometer at you—you needn't quail if you follow our clothing prescription. To-day we received an express shipment of those popular double-breasted blue serge coats and pants at $15.00. The coats have the new broad lapels and are quarterlined. For service, style and comfort we don't know of anything equal to this suit at the price.—Eiseman & Weil, Atlanta.

No huge pile of "blanket" clothing (as one man put it yesterday who had looked through left-over spring stocks in other stores to find something cool). Here we have only the thin, cool summer clothing—worsted, serge and homespun effects that men want now. All of these suits were made within the last few weeks or so, and tailored as only Wanamaker clothing is tailored.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

A proposition for men. If you haven't slipped into a new summer suit of clothes yet you are the man in particular to whom we wish to talk. In two weeks we figure up the business of the six months. Don't want to measure quite so many yards of cloth as are on our shelves to-day, so we propose to make a proposition to you. We invite you to select any of the materials which we have been making up at $18.50 and $22.50 and the price for the suit, made to your satisfaction as to fit and workmanship, will be $15.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr, Rochester, N. Y.

Best clothing for fewest dollars.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Summer livery. The clothing department, fourth floor, has received some spanking neat livery that we feel sure will be commended by all who see the collection.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Young men, are you hard to please in clothes? We are, so say all the makers of young men's clothing. We are more careful about the selection of suits for you than we are for men—young men's suits should be a bit smarter than men's suits, anyway—brighter patterns, younger cut, more up-to-the-minute.—M. R. Emmons, Atlanta, Ga.

Great places of "outings," our stores! Outing suits in soft flannel effects, but cooler and better for wear than is flannel. Dainty and novel batiste, striped and plain crashes and homespuns, striped brown linen—and, newest yet—silk crash. Tough serges and next-to-nothing nun's cloth. Price trimming has sent down a good many distinguished business suits to the $15 counters.—Rogers, Peet & Company, New York.

Many advantages, not generally considered, favor the selecting of the new fall suit now. Upon this first showing our reputation, to a certain extent, for the season depends. We must demonstrate our leadership for both styles and values. The garments are made from the very choicest new materials, shades and ideas. The workmanship is by expert tailors, under the most favorable conditions, which are almost impossible later during the rush season.—Livington & Sons, Bloomington, Ill.

When it comes to a question of comfort, men, as a rule, don't care a fig what the cost is, but we look to more than the comfort part of it. We look to the keeping of quality up and prices down. Besides all this men like this stock because of the plentifulness of the assortment. One is always sure of getting sizes—ordinary sizes and the "out sizes." Men who know this stock will tell you so—and they are easily found.—Chamberlin, Johnson & Du Bois Co., Atlanta.

Men's Summer Suits at $8.50. "The clothing sale that achieved fame in a day." Men who want good stylish clothing at an exceptionally little price come to this sale in crowds. And with good reason. The business man, the professional man, the man of leisure may wear one of these suits with pride. Would this sale be the immense success that it is if the suits were not worth infinitely more than we ask? And are not these sales advertising this store splendidly? Certainly! The suits are here. As fast as a line dwindles it is reinforced from lots of suits marked at higher prices. There isn't an atom of deterioration about this or any other sale held by the big store.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

If you need a suit to take away with you for the Summer—especially if you are going to the mountains or to the seashore—this is a fine opportunity to get a good one for very little money.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

No difficulty about keeping cool even in this warm weather, when you're properly clothed. It is the light weight Summer suit which makes you feel like a "two year old." Here at your door you will find ready for you all the metropolitan styles, whether you are one of the Little Gentlemen or a grown-up.—Smith, Gray & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

For this big special clean-up sale we have taken fifteen lines of men's high-grade suits and specially priced them all at a uniform price; are made of the best quality wool materials and come in gray, in plaids, checks and small mixtures; coats are medium length or long, have natural shoulders, center vents and creased side seams; lined with mohair or Princess serge; no old back numbers, but the choicest of our winter clothing; sizes are 33 to 44.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Dressy comfort in men's summer suits.—Light, cool garments with all the style and shape retaining quality of our heavier suits. It takes good tailoring to make light-weight clothing that will hold its shape. Our clothing is correctly tailored.—Wootton & Hayes, Denison, Texas.

Get your fall suit now, you'll save handsomely. In our immense stock of spring and summer suits a great many were too dark or too heavy for summer, and for that reason are just right for the next four or five months' wear. As the light outing suit has been having its day to the exclusion of everything else, we still have a large assortment of these better grade medium weight suits—which we have priced for an immediate clearance.

There are plain and fancy worsteds, serges, cheviots and cassimeres, in regulars, stouts and slims, all this season's patterns and tailoring. No better values were ever offered in any sale.—Rothschild & Company, Chicago.

The greatest suit value that was ever offered for the paltry price we have lumped them at—$7.50. They are the finest samples of lines which sold all the season at $12, $15, $18 and $20, and which are still selling for that in many stores. It's the bonanza offer of the year, and it is creating a genuine sensation. Investigate.—H. & D. Daniel, Hartford, Conn.

Serge suits. You start on your railroad journey to vacation land in a brand new serge suit—when you arrive the back of your coat and the trousers about the thigh are wrinkled like the hide of a rhinoceros. You think it's your fault, but it isn't. The trouble is with the serge, poor quality and not properly sponged.—Mullen & Bluett Clothing Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

This sale of suits is timed exactly to your vacation needs. The suits involved are light as a feather, fashioned in the new long single and double breasted sack models, with wide peaked lapels and deep side or center vents—veritable marvels of good tailoring. The coats are quarter lined, finished in a smooth, clean-cut manner. Peg-top trousers, with belt loops and cuff buttons. It's a chance of a summertime!—Vogel Brothers, New York, N. Y.

We generally celebrate the "Fourth" by inaugurating a custom tailoring clearance sale on the "fifth." Into it come an early summer's accumulation of suit lengths—short pieces of the fabrics used regularly in our $22.00 and $30.00 suits to measure. In many of them there is enough material for a single suit, in others enough for two or three suits. These fabrics include fancy worsteds, cheviots, cashmeres, homespuns and flannels, and, as is characteristic of short length sales, the favorite patterns, shown this season are in the majority—a large majority. Though the price has been shaved, the making will not be. The suits will be made up in Macy standard fashion, single or double breasted, as you desire; the coats lined with mohair serge.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

Why Wanamaker serge suits are best: The reason is plain—but convincing. The manufacturer who makes two-thirds of our serge suits is the only one in the country, so far as we can discover, who does not give his work out to contractors, to be made in the alleys and sweatshops, and dear knows where. All our serges are made on the premises, under the eye of the manufacturer, who has built up, with our help, an organization that makes nothing but fine clothing. Think of the best tailors—men who work on $25 and $30 suits—working on our $10 serge suits! It's a fact. Such men couldn't do cheap work, they don't know how. They work as faithfully on our $10 serges as on our $20—doing the vital parts by hand, kneading in the shape as they draw the stitches.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Clothing that is of the coolest, and that you need fewest pieces of. Two-piece suits, for outing or business—cool, adds variety to your wardrobe, saves other clothing.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Tropical weather clothing. This hot weather makes everybody hot under the collar. If it only stopped at the collar it wouldn't be so bad—but it don't. We can't all drop things and hie away to the mountains when he gets hot—so the coolness of the mountains must be brought here.—Robt. I. Cohn, Galveston, Tex.

If you know a man who wants a good looking, well made, all wool summer suit, but doesn't want to pay the price, you will do him a great favor by telling him what's going on here.—Lorenhart, Lexington, Ky.

When a serge suit is right it is the coolest, dressiest and most serviceable summer suit you can buy. We'll sell you a serge suit for as little as anybody—and it won't hang like a rag or draw at the edges.—The Goldstein Clothing Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

The coolest suits for summer are unquestionably English flannels. But Allison's two-piece suits have an additional advantage: The absence of a vest does not make the coat lose its shapeliness. The shoulders will not sag nor will the back wrinkle. Like all Allison-made clothes there's nothing stinted in the tailoring. And remember you pay no more for this superior making—$12, $15, $16, $18, $20 and up.—Allison's, Philadelphia, Pa.

A straw, shaved ice, long drink and thin suit is a summer symphony. Our summer suits are in harmony with the mode and the season—fashioned on easy, graceful lines that conduce to mental and physical comfort.—Wm. Vogel & Son, New York, N. Y.

Here's a sale of the new long roll double and single breasted blue and black serge suits. With all the good qualities that these serge suits possess they are far superior to the ordinary $15 sort. If you'll come here and try one on, you'll note at a glance their superiority in fit, fabric and style. They have those shapely shoulders, snug fitting collars and coat fronts that do not wrinkle which give to Vogel Brothers' serge suit that tone and dignity. On special sale at $12.—Vogel Brothers, New York.

Some of the handsome suits that you have admired because of their style, refinement and general air of distinction as well as extreme comfort you will find right at prices that will simply astonish you. You can always depend upon getting clothing that's wearable, durable, stylish and correctly made at this store—yet you need not pay more than from $9.85 to $25.00 for the best serge suits in the market. This simply means that you may find here the broadest variety of the season's best styles at the best prices for equivalent values—and that is true because years of selling always satisfactory clothes has built up a trade that permits us each year to do a little better for you on the price.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Suits that represent absolute perfection in summer wear. Elegant crashes and homespuns. Trousers made with turn-up bottoms. Also a line of fine cheviots and tweeds, in fancy and light colors. No man need be without a new suit when such values are possible.—Erich Bros., New York.

The dignity of a serge suit.—In incompetent hands a fabric will suffer; and if the fabric be serge, then it will lose all semblance of what a perfect serge suit should be. On the other hand, if serge be given to a tailorman who is an adept at the art, the result is a garment of distinction and dignity. Such is the cleverness of our tailormen.—Wm. Vogel & Son, New York.

Genius is fathered by talent, talent by effort, effort by intelligence. Such is the power which is invested in the tailoring of our ready-for-service summer suits for men—invested for the sake of the character and distinction which our standard of tailoring demands of every garment which the Saks label identifies, be the price what it may.—Saks & Co., New York.

These good are all made specially for us, and shaped differently from the usual ready-made. They are cut in the broad concaved shoulder, of the finest quality of worsteds and worsted cheviots, and the fit guaranteed. We invite inspection whether you buy or not.—Reed Bros., Trenton, N. J.

I don't know of any suit so useful and comfortable and good to look at as a serge. It is economical, because you can wear it so many places. Every one looks well in one. Most all serge is good in quality. The real goodness is in the tailoring. It must be well made to have style and keep its shape. My serge suits are strong in these points. Are they points you care about? Come and try one on.—Vincent, New York.

Here's comfort for the big man—the hard-to-fit man—the athletic man—the uneasy man. Our tailor-made suits are the best. Our cutter is direct from 5th Avenue, New York City, and you not only get New York style, but you get a suit that's made right, too. Suits $30 and upward.—Alex Rice, Montgomery.

How you can save on a suit. We want to keep our tailors busy all summer—for that reason we offer special inducements to you to have us make a suit of any of our special lines of fabrics worth up to $35 for $15 to $20. And guarantee it to fit perfectly. Nor will we charge extra for our interlining of fine French canvas and haircloth that displaces hot, stuffy pads.—New-corn & Green, Philadelphia, Pa.

You can order a light weight suit today with perfect assurance that the weather will permit you to wear it. Light weight suitings are here in great variety, in all the popular weaves and shades. Gray worsteds, gray chevriots and gray homespuns in pin head checks, delicate indistinct stripes and overplaids, and in blue serges we have a large range of the different weaves. In fact you will find our custom department a well equipped institution for turning out superior made clothes. Your experience has probably been like many others, that it does not always pay to invest in cheap custom made clothing. The best is a joy and pleasure that costs but a little more than the ordinary kind.—Gemmill, Burnham & Co., Hartford, Conn.

From our reserve rooms to our selling tables we have transposed a collection of new suits, to be sold at $17. We have held them back, a trump card as it were, until the demand for this class of suits reached our very door. These suits point an instance of splendid foresight upon the part of our woolen buyer. For months past the woolen market has been ascending, prices have soared balloon-wards. Our advantage, or rather your advantage, lies in the fact that our woolen goods were purchased long before such a price move was even contemplated. And it is also a fact, borne out by the prevailing prices of our contemporaries, that $20 and $22 is the value for suits of like fabrics.—Wm. Vogel & Son, New York, N. Y.

Three-button double-breasted style; or four-button sack—no matter, so long as it fits your back.—Brauer & Krohn, Los Angeles, Cal.

Your next suit.—Just a few words about it. The suits we are showing for this season are smart, handsome and decidedly well bred. They are "clothes of quality," for they contain every good quality known to the tailoring art. The best tailoring talent in the land has built these suits according to the latest custom models. Shapely shoulders, narrow collars and lapels, drapery with swing and dash are hard things to describe in words, but easily shown in garments. To buy the suit you would like to wear will take less money here than you think. If you'll stop in for a look, we'll wager anything that we know where you will buy your next suit.—The Goldstein Clothing Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Now we are happy. Easter rush is over. Not one of our customers disappointed. "My suit fits immense," general verdict of all our patrons. Words like this tell the tale. We open with a clean sheet Monday morning, and if you favor us with your order for suit or overcoat you may be well satisfied that you will have every attention paid to your order.—Davis & Weiss, Brooklyn.

Go West, young man! (At least past Tremont Street.) Of course Horace Greely knew little, if anything about us, but nevertheless his advice is good. Go West as far as Mullen's. Tremont Street is the "Great Divivde." It costs you from $5 to $10 to cross Tremont Street going East and saves a like amount if you are coming West if you are going or coming after a suit. Too late to order an Easter suit made but not too late to connect with one of Mullen's misfits.—J. L. Mullen & Co., Galveston, Texas.

If every man in Brooklyn was an expert judge of clothes we shouldn't be able to keep up to the demand for these serges and tropical weather suits.

"Every store says the same thing?" Yes, the horn blowing is enough to deafen you. Everybody shouts "Mine's best," and it is natural that everybody should.

Suppose you take nobody's word for it. Suppose you see for yourself just how each suit is made. Turn the coat inside out and see what sort of stitching has been used; what sort of canvas stays the front. Note the way collar and shoulders are tailored. It is easy to do—and it is worth while.

Of course you want to be as comfortable as possible during your vacation. Nothing will add so much to your comfort as a light, airy outing suit. A good one will cost you from $10.00 to $25.00 and you are always well dressed. You can buy the common sort at your own price and always look poorly clad. We sell only the better sort, which we can guarantee without a blush.—McKeon & Smith, Brooklyn, N. Y.

There's nothing like a fresh spring Sunday to make old clothes look out of date. Don't you want a new frock coat, cutaway coat, washable waistcoat, striped trousers, scarf, silk hat, patent or enamel shoes, spring overcoat?—Rogers, Peet & Company, New York.

In this lot we offer a line of suits which are positively the best values we have ever given to the public. Made from the finest fabrics in a large variety of new checks, plaids and stripes. In style, make, fit and trimming equal to high-class custom work.—Erich Bros., New York, N. Y.

A witty man said: "Your serge suits are the coolest I ever saw; I have been wearing one for the past month and I am almost frozen." Thank you for the smile—but one of these days (when it's 95 degrees in the shade) the joke will be suddenly turned on every man who hasn't yet bought his summer suit.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

It's about time that you were preparing for your summer outing. If you are going to the lakes or mountains we have the proper clothing for you. Hundreds have taken advantage of our sale on crash suits and have fitted themselves out in a neat summer rig for from $1.50 to $3. Don't overlook this opportunity.—The White House Clothing Co., Spokane, Wash.

This is just about the last call on ready-and-right suits at 20 per cent. discount from regular prices. You'll even have to hurry to get yours before your size is sold out. Smartest suits you ever saw—rich blacks, blues and stylish novelties. Former prices, $15 to $35—and good value at those prices. Now 20 per cent. discount. Again hurry!—The Silverwood Stores, Los Angeles, Cal.

If spring-suit thoughts are treading in your mind, they'll find happy fruition in our style-conservatory.—F. M. Atwood, Chicago, Ill.

If you were to add them all up you would find that there are hundreds of mills making men's clothes. From this big number, we have selected half a dozen of the very best. In view of the splendid returns these concerns receive as the result of our immense suit selling, their lines are confined to us exclusively. They could no more afford to sell us a poor suit, than we could afford to sell it to you in turn. The summer styles are beauties, and modestly priced, the range being from $10 to $25.—Lazarus, Columbus, Ohio.

We'll show you how to keep cool. The thermometer will not matter so much if you are rightly clothed. Thousands of light, summery, cool and cool looking suits—and separate garments for men and boys that defy the heat of the dog days. Outing suits, outing trousers, outing coats, outing shirts, summer hats, summer shoes, every hot weather requisite for men.—Heffner, Gilbert & Croll, Reading, Pa.

Summer has arrived. A little later on it will probably make its presence felt with a vengeance. If proper preparations are not made it is likely that you will be uncomfortable during the weeks that are fast crowding on. Buy an outing suit. It is an ideal summer preparation. It will make you comfortable if any suit can. In addition to their comfort affording qualities, the outing suits sold here possess other desirable points—good material, good tailoring, good style, good fit and good value. Excellent suits at $10.00. Finer qualities, $12.50 and $15.00. Light and dark patterns. Quaker gray, the latest color serge outing suits; double-breasted style—suits of style and comfort. $15.00.—Weinstock Lubin Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Stocks are splendidly attractive throughout. This offering comprises blue and gray serges, worsteds, tweeds and other popular fabrics, in both single and double-breasted sacks. A high degree of tailoring is manifest in every suit; such smart clothing as appeals to men of common sense. Men who appreciate cool, comfortable summer suits will find tomorrow's sale most alluring. In every group there are sizes for all builds of men—for the tall man, the short, the thick-set, or the slim.—Siegel, Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

Come to this store to-morrow and buy men's stylish suits, the season's latest and best kinds, made of worsteds, tweeds, blue and black unfinished worsteds and serges—in either single or double-breasted styles—at a great saving. In this great offer you will find suits worth up to $18 and $20—everyone of them made by America's foremost wholesale tailors. For a special flyer Saturday we will give you a choice of 250 of these suits—almost our entire line at above prices—at only $14.85 values up to $20.—Tische-Goettinger Co., Dallas, Tex.

We are showing now the very newest, latest and best of the season's correct outing suits for men and young men. Our lines are exclusively our own, made expressly to our order. A number of men imbued, for various reasons, with the opinion that they are hard to please, have become our steady patrons and cut their tailor bill in two. Certain shades of gray are in high favor this season. We show them both in business and outing suits. If you don't see the style or the price that you want, ask for it. We have got it.—Albert Elkins, Sacramento.

The Halpert & Jacobs clothing is made according to our exacting specifications—hence it is superior to most ready for service garments. Just drop in and slip into one of the new Schloss Bros.' single or double-breasted suits. That's the best way to size up the hang, style and fit of the garments. Spring is brightening up fast. Don't you want to brighten up your wardrobe?—Halpert & Jacobs, Binghamton, N. Y.

People wonder how we do it! Two suits for the price of one! Twice a year this sale occurs. About 1500 fine suits left over from this season's selling to be sacrificed. Profits scattered to the four winds. Go they must to make room for our gigantic fall stock, so come and buy.—The Palace Clothing Co., Kansas City.

We have put in the excellent tailoring, the worthy materials, the fine points of style that are required to make our suits satisfactory, smart and serviceable, while maintaining the price at a figure that will appeal to seven men out of every ten—Fifteen Dollars—a price, by the way, that is several dollars below what these same suits would command if sold at other stores' ordinary rate of profit.—Wanamaker, New York.

Your appearance can be made a business asset. Nothing contributes more to wholesome appearance than good clothing—not necessarily expensive—but apparel that is tasteful, becoming and well-fitting. We have it. Models in sacks, single and double-breasted, were never more distinctive and pleasing for general wear, while English walking suits lend dignity and elegance to more formal business dress.—Hackett, Carhart & Co., New York, N. Y.

Newspaper advertising is a very good thing. No store can do without it. But we find the best advertisement we can have is a satisfied customer. You will be a satisfied customer by wearing one of our plain cheviot, black clay or fancy cassimere suits, suits that are well tailored and trimmed, suits that have the wearing and shape retaining qualities that make them marvels.—Streng's, Columbus, Ohio.

A new fall suit, $16.50, instead of $22.50.—A fine black Thibet; coat full silk lined; from our best tailor—made up when he was least busy at about cost; an early bargain for the man going away, or who needs a suit and does not want to buy summer weight so late in the season.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Men's $12.50 to $15 springs suits, $9.75.

Small lots from two of our best popular price makers. The cool spring discouraged duplicate orders and they are already at work on fall goods, so these fine suits go to you to-morrow at just about the price they should have brought from us under ordinary conditions. Fabrics are cheviots, cassimers, undressed and a few fancy worsteds—variety of choice colorings and designs—gray in the various shades predominating. They are cut in smart single breasted sack style, largely hand tailored. Suits that will give excellent business service. Sizes for regular or stout men.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Suit science. It hasn't a fault or a flaw, and fitly represents the perfection found in all our men's wear.—R. J. Hurd & Co., Spokane, Wash.

Subtle, yet defined, there is an expression of character and individuality to mark a Saks suit which exhausts the power of the tailor's craft—of which the cleverest to-order tailors would be proud.—Saks & Company, New York.

We have made special preparation for the man whose conservative tastes are only satisfied by the refinement and dignity of a black suit. The best light weight materials and the best of hand tailoring show how comfortable and cool, as well as dressy, such a suit can be made. Cloths are fine black summer-weight Thibets, unfinished worsteds and serges. Coats made single and double-breasted, half and full lined. Trousers shaped at the hips to fit snugly under the belt for which there are neat loops.

Every suit shows the good work that has been put into it, and after you have worn it three months will still show it.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Once a man buys one of these summer serge suits his bothers in the clothing line are at an end. He knows then that he can get the suit he wants at the price he wishes to pay right here. So many men have found this out that we do the largest business in Brooklyn and can well afford to sell for the least money.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

The new things in spring suits and topcoats are here, but they're not waiting for you—others are buying them. Here are ready-to-wear clothes, actually hand tailored and the only difference between them and garments made by the best custom tailors is in price.—I. & A. Friedlich, Des Moines, Iowa.

It is worth a man's while to see if his size is among our $8.50 suits.—A. Gilmour, St. Johns, N. B.

The young man aged 15 to 20 usually envies the "governor's" smart clothes. The old gentleman pays a high price to the custom tailor for his clothes, but the son's allowance won't stand it. This does not lessen his desire to wear smart clothes, however, and we have made it our business to furnish him. Our spring styles are now ready and the young man who wants a suit with all the style that can be worked into it, can get it here at a moderate price.—Chucker's Clothing Store, Kenton, O.

With plenty of weartime ahead, it means that you can get a new suit at a very little price indeed—a suit that will not only do you to the end of this season, but be serviceable next year also.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

And now comes the need of a fall suit, and this splendid stock answers HERE! And what a great gathering of leaders it is—Fashion's own favorites, mighty in the force of convincing argument by reason of their own merit.—Bond's, Columbus, Ohio.

Men's scarce blue serge suits, $7.48. If we had to provide the serge at the price asked to-day for this very scarce fabric these suits, with the character of the tailoring, could not be made up to sell for less than $12.00. You have merely to compare them with suits at that price to prove this statement. There may be a halo about the name of the manufacturer and seller of clothing, but you are the judge finally of the fit and the price.—A. D. Matthews' Son, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We will not attempt descriptions of these suits in detail; we wish to say, however, that they are made of the most popular woollens in the best patterns, the tailoring is the acme of perfection and the styles are those most in demand.—Titche-Goettinger Co., Dallas Texas.

These are the biggest bargain plums of the season. The suits are all tailored in the very best manner, will retain their shape well; in fact, they are right up to the Loeser standard of excellence.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fall's here and it's time to do it. If you haven't said "farewell" to your summer suit, you'd better. Our elegant fall suits are here, waiting to say "hello" to you.—Wentworth Clothing Co., Spokane, Wash.

These are not the ordinary factory-made suits, but the high-class, exclusively tailored garments that equal the very best custom-made work. Here's something you want to take into consideration—the collars and lapels are hand padded—the stiffening is all pure Irish linen—all strictly London shrunk.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York.

Every well-dressed man should have an English walking suit in his wardrobe. Good dressers will see at a glance the beauty and value of our line of materials for these suits.—D. C. Race Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Fall suits to fit any man.—Every variation of the human figure is provided for in our ready-for-wear clothes. But nobody is infallible, so we keep a tailor to correct any fault that appears when the clothes are tried on. Custom tailors do the same. You're just as certain of finding a fall suit to please you as you are to be fitted to your satisfaction.—Weigs & Co., New Haven, Conn.

For the man who has not his spring suit we place on our counters this morning 500 new spring suits to be sold at $10.00, $12.00 and $15.00. For a number of years at this time we have purchased the surplus stock of a large Eastern clothing manufacturer, whose product we have learned by experience is almost equal to our own. Of the thousands of suits sold we have never had one complaint registered against his make. This is his second lot this spring—the first lot we received just before Easter and they only lasted a few days here. The present line is even better than the first, as most of the cloths are worsteds, although there are some good blue serges. The stock is fresh and new from the tailors' hands. The coats are cut long and have the deep vent in the center seam, broad shoulders, and all the little points that fashion demands this season. The prices we ask are in some cases less than the suits were sold for at wholesale early in the season. The maker of this clothing had to clear his tables to take care of the fall trade—hence your opportunity.—Wm. Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Here's a lot of good clothes gathered together to supply the need of every man within traveling distance of this store who is well dressed, or wants to be. That means, we've got enough to go 'round among all the careful-about-clothes men.—C. B. Fudge Co., Muncie, Ind.

Goodness in cloth, make, style, fit and finish is crowding a heap of goodness into a suit of clothes, but our Royal Brand Suits are just crowded with these things and added to them is another good point, the lowness of their price.—Prowse Bros., Charlottetown, P. E. I.

"Who makes the most stylish men's clothes?" asked a customer the other day. "I see this 'feature' advanced as the real thing, and that 'feature' set down as being the most proper. Please tell me who's who?" Firstly, a suit that has any features conspicuously noticeable has not any claim for style. Exacting dressers desire to be distinctive, not conspicuous—a vast difference. "Features" are left to the "I am it" class. Hart, Schaffner & Marx, for whom we are sole Philadelphia agents, make suits without features, yet their clothes bespeak individuality. There's character in the coat, the shoulders are broad, the neck fit is smooth, and the lines concave toward the waist, throwing out the chest. The effect gives one bigness without fullness appearing in the suit. You'll also appreciate these better made H., S. & M. suits because they are no more costly than the ordinary sort—$15, $16, $18 and up to $25.—Allison's, Philadelphia, Pa.

If one keeps going ahead one is sure to come out somewhere—and—as you know—we never rest. We have always striven and are still striving for the betterment of men's ready-to-wear clothing. Certain it is that we have—in the present season's style—achieved the highest degree of perfection yet attained. What the future will bring forth remains to be seen. Our stock represents the fine—finer—and finest grades of America's foremost designers and makers—including the exclusive creations of Rogers, Peet & Co.—which are confined strictly to us for this city—the prices of which range from $20 to $35.—The May, Denver, Colo.

A suit for a song—if you are a good singer. You really and truly will sing our praises when you see the values for the song price.—Frosh Bros., Pueblo.

Owing to the big rush we could not wait on all, so will continue the sale for Friday, Saturday and Monday only. Four-dollar pants made to your measure and guaranteed to fit the same as you pay $6 to $10 elsewhere.—Union Tailors, Spokane, Wash.

The run on black suits continues. Light suits, of course, are always being run after at this season of the year, but the real thing is the mixture of black and white that is the new gray. It's here, but not everywhere.—Richardson Clothing Co., Kansas City, Mo.

No man should be without a serge suit for summer wear, but—now mind we say but with great emphasis—and we repeat it, but unless the suit he buys is right in every way, it will be most unsatisfactory of all suits.—The Goldstein Clothing Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Don't you hear it in the air? The Marconi system is wonderful! "Drop the old and don the new; here's light clothing waiting for you." Our stock is not all fine clothing, but it's all good clothing; good, suitable, wearable and durable for every walk in life.—United States Clothing Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Not many years ago a ready-made suit could be distinguished from one made to measure, "a mile off." But brains and money can do wonders, and these suits we offer at $12.50 would do credit to the best tailor in town. It's the kind of clothing that gives a man the reputation of dealing with high-priced tailors, yet it costs you no more than the ordinary ready-to-wear.—Desbeckers', Buffalo.

If we were asked to "point with pride" to any particular part of this splendid stock of men's fall suits, we would probably pick out the particularly fine line of suits of fancy cheviots at $15. Fifteen dollars is the popular and much abused price for a suit. In the eyes of some people "everything goes" in material and making, as long as the suits will sell at the price. We take a different tack—crowd as much merit, in stylishness of pattern, in excellence of all wool fabrics, in carefulness of making and fit, into the suits as we possibly can, and—make the man who has bought one sack suit come back for another the next time he needs it.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

There isn't a very great departure from the styles of a year ago, but there is sufficient to catch the critical eye. The double-breasted sack suits have advanced still farther this spring in popular favor. Both the double and single-breasted are a trifle longer—about an inch, say—and they are cut a little fuller in the back. The extreme loose fitting double-breasted have a very long lapel. If you will look into our windows, 8, 9, and 10, you will note that invisible stripes and overlaid are more artistically woven than formerly, and you will also note that our showing of suits and top coats in all points of style and all the way through, is far in advance of anything you will find elsewhere in the city. Come inside and you will be delighted at how well we can fit you, and surprised at our low prices.—Bergerman Bros., Pueblo, Colo.

Serges rolling in resemble the serges rolling out of our stores—they're both hard to resist. Our serge suits are resisters of wear. The true blue of the sea and the sea's coolness characterize them. They're equally correct on beach or street, and they're embodiments of comfort.—Brill Brothers, New York.

Spring woolens.—Your spring suit, if made by us, will be by far the handsomest suit you have ever worn. Our exclusive patterns are the finest and noblest ever shown. Let us show them to you.—Dittenhoefer, Mansfield, Ohio.

The progressive manufacturer doesn't "stand pat" in the face of adverse weather conditions. We closed a very advantageous deal with a maker who banked too lavishly upon an early and active fall season—closing out a surplus stock at a price that we'd have jumped at as a bargain sixty days later. They are on our counters now—and instead of grading them—we've made one great, big, interesting lot and leave the unreserved choice to you at $15.00 for any suit or any overcoat among them.—Saks & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

To "get on the right side" of the weather—get on the inside of our elegant summer suits. Paradoxically speaking, "there's a coolness" between them and their warmest admirers.—F. M. Atwood, Chicago, Ill.

Outing suits made for summer weather such as this, coats and vests of breezy-inviting homespun and light-weight flannel, that cost so little that no man need be uncomfortable for want of a cool suit.—Comstock Bros., South Norwalk.

An outing suit—now. Exit—the vest. Little pursed, big pursed. It's comfort every man's after these days. Find a lot of it in one of Hales' outing suits. Just coat and pants of the lightest materials. Swell wool crashes, fuzzy chevions, nobby cassimeres.—Hales, Sacramento, Cal.

The lightest possible clothing for summer. There's something comfortably negligible about our two-piece suits. Flannels were always considered ideal for summer wear—and now wool crashes, homespuns and unlined serges are coming in for their share of favor among the more conservative dressers. If they weren't best they wouldn't be here. The real style, the grace and swing that has been put into these garments is indescribable.—Babbitt & Co., Albany.

Our "skeleton" suits are designed to defy the most torrid heat that ever the forces generated. Not a superfluous thread to add its burden—yet tailored so cleverly that the shape and character are as permanent as in our heavier garments. As for fabrics, the hand-loomed Donagole homespuns are the most favored of the novelties; the cobweb "double and twist" tweeds, tropical worsteds, English and domestic smooth surface flannels, and black or blue rough or smooth surface serges in every conceivable weave and design receive the preference of many of the men of more conservative tastes. They cost from $12.50 to $25.00.—Saks & Company, New York.

It is acknowledged by the best dressed men in Scranton that the clothes we sell are the standard by which to measure ready-to-put-on-garments. There's fit, there's style, there's grace and character about them. There should be no doubt in your mind that they merit your patronage. Don't let the disappointment of not attending the first day of this sale keep you away to-day. The lot of suits put on sale to-day is our entire line of $12.50 fancy suits, in worsteds and chevions, both single and double-breasted, longs, stouts and regulars. It's an excellent time to buy excellent clothes. You've bought before and bought eagerly at slight reductions. It's a wise buyer who sees his own advantage in this sale and profits by it. All alterations, as usual, are made free of charge.—Santer Bros., Scranton, Pa.

A simple method to save money.—Buy your clothing here. So simple and easy that a large percentage of the people of Spokane are adding to their week's wages from $5.00 to $10.00 by purchasing their spring suit and furnishing goods of us. Get in line. You will be ahead by so doing. We have a large assortment of just the clothes you want. Newest, noblest patterns, up to date styles and qualities that we guarantee absolutely. Such a fine grade of suits would cost you from $16 to $22 at other stores. We are selling these superior grades of fine hand-tailored clothing at $10, $12, and $15. Come up this way. See window display. Be fitted and save money.—Berry Clothing & Shoe Co., Spokane.

We say this with every confidence in our ability to prove it. Just give us thirty minutes' time to demonstrate it with the actual clothes. All the popular fabrics and fashions are shown, and the M. & B. mark on every suit—your guarantee of goodness.—Mullen & Bluett Clothing Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

You make a clean-cut saving by buying one of our smartly-cut suits at cut price. Hart, Schaffner & Marx made many of them—that's enough for men who know. Why do we cut prices in the face of rising prices on wool? Yes, we know we could make more money by carrying the suits over. But you don't expect us to show this season's suits next season. Not our way. Got to sell 'em this season.—Rogers & Stevens, South Norwalk, Conn.

Frock coats and vests.—You've been enjoying immunity from the frock coat and top hat during the summer. But you will soon have to confront the need of donning them again, as autumn days approach. So the query is timely, "Why go to a high-priced tailor and pay ever so much more for a frock coat to order, when a Wanamaker frock coat gives the same effect and satisfaction at a vast price-saving?" New Yorkers are learning that no such another stock of ready-made Prince Albert coats and vests is to be found outside of this store. You men, who are passing through the city homeward bound, may not know. Don't go away uninstructed. There are coats here for the average, the tall, the short, the slim, the stout man—a variety that reduces the necessary alterations to a minimum, and insures the promptest sort of satisfaction.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Positively the greatest opportunity for suit buying that ever came to the men of Hartford. The styles are right up to the second, the workmanship superb and there is a nattiness, a "swagger" appearance about them that speaks of the art of the designer. You'll find only one or two of a kind, but they're all so superb that you will find something that will just suit you.—H. & D. Daniel, Hartford, Conn.

We will not carry the suits over any more than we will any other stock, so we have slashed the prices on every side. If these prices on the finest clothing for young men do not cause a complete clearance to-morrow—then young men do not desire clothing just now.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The make room season is again here. Our fall line is beginning to arrive. The heavy suits and overcoats take up much space. We have to make this space now. We have quite a few single suits of lots of summer and medium weight left. These we must clear out regardless of the season's selling price.—Kreisman, Peoria, Ill.

The first instalment of suits in new fall and winter patterns is on show. They're worth seeing. All the new woollens, styles and cuts that the swellest tailors in the land are showing. They're smarter, better and more in accord with good taste in dress than any other ready-to-wear tailored clothes.—The Hub, Ogden, Utah.

Men's black sack suits at a pleasant price-surprise. "About this time look out for windfalls." You'll find this prognostication written opposite every February in our men's clothing calendar.

This year the surprise we've planned takes the shape of just one hundred black Thibet sack suits that are fairly eye-openers at their price.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Even our outing suits have their hair-cloth linings, so that they hold their shape.—Jackson's, Pittsburg, Pa.

We have too many—about 200—fine suits. You know how we operate in such cases—Sell!—Wells & Coverly, Troy.

The calendar says selling-time is ending—

The weather says wearing-time is just beginning.

You buy by the calendar, and profit by the weather.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Every suit is a fashion plate.—The Globe Clothing Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Business suits. Full of character and solidity — conservative — correct — suits with that simple elegance that appeals to all well-dressed men.—Dege & Milner, Tacoma, Wash.

Not so "military."—The new fall suits for men are a little straighter in the coat front and somewhat fuller in the back—not quite so military, you know, but with a dressier and more graceful fit. And then the new weaves will interest you. Taken all in all, they're stunning all the way through, and you'll be pleased with the one you buy.—R. J. Hurd & Co., Spokane, Wash.

There's a good deal of satisfaction over our $12.50 suits. The coats, vests and trousers correspond in size, and you can change or return anything that is not entirely satisfactory. All sizes, 32 to 46. We can strongly recommend the $25 and $12.50 overcoats. A lot of money has been chipped off their original prices.—Smith, Gray & Co., New York, N. Y.

There's logic in the clothing sacrifices we are making. The specific reason is to sell all goods in their respective season. Prudence, wisdom and 20th century store keeping influence this act of ours. Pack goods away until next season? Our grandfathers did that—but not the aggressive merchant of to-day.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

The whole world loves a lover. We love lovers of good dress and for their benefit we wish to announce the arrival of our spring woollens. Don't wait till you see the suit you admire on some one else's back. In order to retain our "rep." as the "home of individuality" we have confined our novelties to one suit of each pattern. Suits $25 up.—J. L. Mullen & Co., Galveston, Texas.

A goodly collection of correct fall styles is here. No experiments; no mistakes.

Suits cut in the curves of fashion.—A. H. Waite & Co., Colorado Springs.

Distinctive cutaway suits for men. For the new season's service the cutaway has struck twelve. It is the symbol of the discerning—at least ours are. They have the earmarks by which the most exclusive to-order tailor's garments are identified—vigorous grace of line and curve, perfect and correct proportions and in style, distinctive.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Most concerns for years have tried to sell you cheviots in medium priced garments. They told you worsteds at low prices would not wear, fit or hold the shape or color. They told that cheviots would serve you better. Cheviot is easier to tailor than worsted. Worsteds is wry, unruly and hard to shape properly. Now if the concerns who try to sell you cheviots when you demand worsteds would devote their energies to perfecting a tailoring organization capable of properly handling worsteds suits, they could say as we do: "These suits will hold their shape until worn out." That worsteds can be tailored properly we can demonstrate to you by showing you worsted suit after worsted suit in our stores that will fit you as though made to your measure. The coats of these suits have hair-cloth front stiffening, linen canvas interlinings, worsted serge linings and hand work on collars, lapels and shoulders. They have every touch of the latest style. They will hold their shape, fit and color until worn out. If any suit does not do all we claim for it, does not give you perfect satisfaction, we insist on returning your money.—Brill Bros., New York.

You may be strong in the belief that no ready-made suit will fit you. If so, let us change it. Long or short, slim or stout, we can clothe you with apparel which will fill all requirements.—Hackett, Carhart & Co., New York.

The graceful hang and clean-cut lines of our "ready-to-put-on" serge suits command immediate recognition from "men who know." The wide range of sizes insures a fit for every one, tall, short, stout or thin.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

They are suits that possess all the snap of summer style as well as summer coolness, and are distinguished from the commonplace usual ready-to-wear sort by our famous "concave" shoulder and "close-fitting" collar.—Wm. Vogel & Son, New York.

Young men who want correct new spring suits—suits made for young men especially, of which style, cut and fabric is absolutely correct—will find here just what they want. We are the only store selling young men's correct clothes—let us show you.—The Palace Clothing Co., Topeka, Kan.

A nice morning emphasizes the need of a new spring suit, and particularly impresses one with the importance of selecting the season's outfit from a large and admirably assorted line of the best makes and styles, such as we're showing here at popular prices. Our clothes meet every requirement of the most fastidious dressers.—R. J. Hurd & Co., Spokane, Wash.

The Jap is changing the map.—To be prepared is the key to success. We are just as well prepared for trade as Japan was for war. We hit the mark every time a customer comes in the store. Don't be discouraged by an untimely return of winter. The sun is getting too warm. Finish your preparations for fine spring days with a new Why suit, shirt and hat and ward off the discomforts of wet and sloppy weather by owning one of our fine cravenettes.—The Why, Davenport.

Every garment union made—label on coat, vest and pants. A clothing of absolute reliability, fully guaranteed. Not as low in price as some makers, but character clothes, built for men who want the best. Clothes that must satisfy in every particular or no sale. Such clothing as this is usually sold at big profits, but "Fair Play" in business protects you against big prices.—The Baity Dry Goods Co., Denison, Texas.

We do not ask that you should wear a garment of an extreme cut when your taste is conservative, nor a conservative cut if your taste be extreme. We leave that to your pleasure, for we are fully prepared to meet all demands. Our stock affords seven distinctive single-breasted and three double-breasted models in more than one hundred exceptional patterns in the popular browns, English grays, blacks, and all manner of shades appropriate for fall and winter wear.—Saks & Co., Washington, D. C.

Beautiful spring. We're not quite sure whether she's here or not, but shrewd buyers are already making their selections from our lines of smart and snappy spring suits and overcoats. It's nice to have first choice and to wear the new things first.—Garson's, Rochester, N. Y.

Your spring suit will be just what you want if you leave your measure here.—H. L. Fullerton, Detroit, Mich.

Our men's fall suits in the new shades of brown will irresistibly appeal to men who are desirous of being fashionably, yet economically, clad. These suits are on an even plane with tailored-to-order clothes that would cost you $30.00. They sparkle with newness and style and possess all the distinctive features that will be conspicuous this fall—the longer coats, collar and lapels are shorter and cut fuller—the double-breasted style will be the reigning favorite—rough-finished Scotch cheviots in the new autumn brown shades will set the pace for popularity.—Streng's, Columbus, Ohio.

Rush! There's but one day more of the suit sale.—It is the greatest suit sale that has ever been held—more sweeping including greater values at smaller prices than any other. Absolutely every fancy and mixed suit in the house is in the sale. No question of not fitting you in the pattern of your selection, for they are not odds and ends. And, being regular stock, you know they are the best suits in each grade that can be produced.—The Saks Stores, Washington, D. C.

Spring suits of superior quality and superior workmanship. Men's and boys' newest styles. A picked showing of the best products of the season—the very latest novelties in the finest grades of pure wool cassimeres and pure worsted cheviots, including the new olive, brown and indistinct stripes and mottlings in the new color tones for 1902. These are shapely suits—the workmanship is precise and exquisite throughout.—Dober, Seattle, Wash.

Two- and three-piece-summer suits. Now that a summer suit is a quick necessity, will you not take our word for it that our summer suits possess precisely the style points and character you seek in your summer suit? At least, do us the favor to try on some of our 'varsity suits, superb examples of the tailoring art, but all ready to wear. The result of your experiment will certainly satisfy you that no other clothes you know can compare with ours. A great range of fancy effects in gray and brown worsteds and velour finished cassimeres, besides blue and gray serges and fancy weaves of homespuns and crashes.—Rogers & Stevens, South Norwalk, Conn.

Snappy, individual styles, with the fit and hang that come usually only with custom-made clothing. Either business or outing styles; fancy worsteds, strong cassimeres and cheviots, serges and Thibets. Excellently made, with wide manly shoulders, clinging collar and hand-made lapels; roomy chests and full, generous backs. Checks, overplaids in light or dark mixtures and combinations of colors. Pants all made with belt loops, either cuff or plain bottom. Perfect fitting suits for Friday at Bullock's third floor.—Bullock's, Los Angeles, Cal.

With a great deal of satisfaction, we call attention to our blue serge suit exhibition gathered from America's master tailors and offered as the most advanced demonstration of good summer clothes-making that it has even been our pleasure to record. We believe and think you will find it so, that you will best conserve your own interests by inspecting these models before making a purchase or placing an order. Individuality is the shining characteristic of these garments—you will find fit perfect, the draping artistic and the whole general effect exceptionally true to the best conceptions of taste and style. Blue serges, in various shades and patterns, single and double-breasted, cut to the hour.—Freedlander's, Wooster, Ohio.

Men's summer suits. Those handsome suits that are displayed in our window to-day are the ones we are going to sell to-morrow at the saving prices of $9.35. You can't help but admire them, for they are stylish, distinctive, cool and comfortable. You can depend upon their "durability," "wearability," and their shape-retaining ability, for were they not to possess these all-important qualities they would not be for sale at this store. $9.35 is the selling price for them to-morrow, just $4.15 less than their real value; won't you get one instead of suffering the discomforts of the heat? They'll last at least three seasons with careful wear. Made of homespuns, worsteds and tweeds, with skeleton lined coat, loops for belt on the pants as well as buttons, and are dressy and comfortable looking. Very special indeed.—Hudson's Bay Stores, Vancouver, B. C.

Blue serge suits that will stay blue. Give a Joseph blue serge suit any fair test and see if it will hold its color. Try it in the sun, try it in the rain—it will stay true blue. A good many blue serge suits won't stand tests in these days of faked fabrics. None of these cheapened clothes here, though—and if a bad suit does creep into our stock unbeknown to us, we are here to right the wrongs that crop out after you have worn the suit. A new suit in its place, or other adjustment satisfactory to you. Blue serge suits, two- or three-piece, $10 to $25 each. Best choosing, and perhaps best values, are $15 and $20 the suit.—M. Joseph's Sons, Terre Haute, Ind.

A comfortable outing suit right now will give you more than your money's worth. If you are not familiar with the conveniences of one of these hot weather outfits, you ought to buy one now—today. You'd say you never so thoroughly enjoyed wearing a suit of clothes. Besides being dressed comfortably, you'll be in style and that's worth something. Let us show you what we are offering just to "close them out" at $10.00 and $12.50. If you want real value this is your opportunity.—Doty Clothing Co., Ottumwa, Ia.

The man who is planning for a cool suit for hot summer days will find his wants excellently well filled here this week. We are placing on sale an attractive lot of men's suits in two- and three-piece styles; some in chevots; some in serges; some in hard twisted worsteds; among them are the stylish gray effects, in plaids, stripes, checks, overplaids and hair-line patterns. Every suit is silk-sewed, hand-padded collar, hair-lined coats, semi-peg top trousers with or without cuffs. A splendid line for your choosing.—The Red Front, San Bernardino, Cal.

Grace of line that stays with you. What a fresh charm has the new blue serge or tropical worsted two-piece suit. But what greater charm is commanded if it doesn't change as you wear them. "Ah! that's the rub." That's why the prices of some suits that look so smart are so remarkably low. We'd rather use our knowledge and energy to find you great values to sell for little, than to foist something cheap upon you, just because we had the chance.—I. Levystein, Montgomery, Ala.

Semi-annual sale of men's suits. Men, look to your wardrobes. The dry goods spirit takes hold of the men's tailoring store, fourth floor, to-day. It is the beginning of our semi-annual sale of men's suits, made to measure, made to fit according to your own notion, not ours. You are the fellow to wear the clothes, therefore the one to be suited. It has been our custom immediately after the first of July to take men into our confidence, form sort of a partnership with them in providing good clothes. This season our proposition is even better than usual.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Distinctive suits for men at one-half original prices. Even success imposes a penalty. Certain styles and sizes of our suits we find at ebb—two or three of each. To be rid of them the prices have been cut in half. There are single and double-breasted in plain and mixed colors. Among them is a large variety of large sizes in regulars and stouts.—Sides & Flickinger, Harrisburg, Pa.

Most men long for the country these days, but most of us must take it out in longing. At least you can have a suit which savors of the country—though it's perfectly proper for town.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

$15.00 men's suits, good values. One of our paramount issues here is the question of good values. We hold it as important as the quality of the goods we sell and it is considered a strong point and we are more particular than ever to give our customers the very best we can for the money they pay for it, and after all these years of strict observance of that rule we have built up a large and increasing business and hope to continue it in the future. The basis of good clothes is good cloth, the fabric of which the clothes are made. Without it there's no value attached to it, however ambitious the effort to put style there. Ours has both the style and fabrics. See our window display. Mail orders carefully filled. Send for our new style book.—Mullen & Bluett Clothing Company, Los Angeles, Cal.

Change your appearance for the new year. The probabilities are that you have worn your old suit so long that your friends know you by it. A suit like the ones illustrated for instance may be had as low as $15 or as high as $30 here. Between these figures you can surely find the suit and the price that will exactly meet your wishes. Our clothes, of which this is an example, are gentlemen's clothes of the best kind.—Spira & PinCUS, Leading Clothiers, Mobile, Ala.

If your spring suit is a Goodyear "Cravenette" you can be sure that it's right—in style, material and workmanship, and yet costing 30 per cent. and over less than you would have paid for the ordinary kind. You can wear a Goodyear "Cravenette" suit anywhere or in any weather with that certainty of feeling which comes from knowing you are correctly dressed—yet wearing a guaranteed waterproof suit. For no matter where you go, you will not see such clothes sold for as low prices as we sell, and we make this "ten days' approval" offer to any purchaser—that if he can duplicate anywhere the suit he bought here at the same price we will gladly refund the money. All because we manufacture the clothes ourselves—selling to you at one profit. That is why our prices are one-third less than those of other stores.—Goodyear Clothing Co., Atlanta, Ga.

G. & H. suits for men. True, the weather has been too changeable to come out in thin clothes, but now it's going to be warmer. Everyone predicts that we'll plunge right into summer temperature. The minute you feel the need of a good suit, just come in and try on a few of our kind. Prove by actual seeing, once and for all, that this is just as we claim for it—the home for the best-made clothing. Every suit has individuality worked into it. Every suit is made to accurately fit somebody. Every style is just what men want this season.—Gately & Hurley Co., Camden, N. J.

The best dressed men never wear ready-made clothes. You know that the men in any city who are best dressed would never think of buying a ready-made suit of clothes. The highest claim the clothing man ever makes is that his suits "look like they were tailor-made." Don't fool with the imitation when you can get the real thing at a price no higher for the same quality. Tailor-made clothes fit you perfectly because they are cut just to fit your form. They hold their shape because they are shaped to your figure. They last longer because they are better made.—Morton C. Stout & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

Norfolk jacket suits are "it"—right for city or country, comfortable without being slouchy.—Rogers, Peet Co., New York.

Men's new fall clothing attractive in style and price. Two special suit values—$12.50 and $14.65. Big tables of suits, all new—the very latest patterns in fancy mixed worsteds and new tweeds and casimeres; also good, all wool navy blue and black suits. Every suit well tailored; coats cut either single or double breasted, with broad shoulders and snug-fitting collars.—Kemp & Hebert, Spokane.

Men should buy clothes at these prices. An extra suit is never in the way, and no such opportunity for buying all wool or all worsted summer clothing was ever presented in any store anywhere to compare with the chance we give to-morrow and Saturday—tailoring careful, correct and attractive—everything dependable, despite the unusual underpricing.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Men's summer suits are all reduced in price. Prices are cut sharply now on even the blue and black suits—serges, Tibets and unfinished worsteds that will be exactly as good to start next season with as they are for wear now. The radical clearance in the store for men drops prices in a new spot. These suits have all the dignity, smartness and good tailoring that Loeser clothing is expected to have. They were made for us. They will stand up under the most critical tests to which you can put them.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fall clothing for men. We are now showing a beautiful line of fall clothing for men. So there is no reason for your buying a summer suit when you can buy a fall suit of a leading style at Mimaugh's. The clothes we sell are good clothes. The fabrics, patterns and the tailoring appeal to men who like good-looking clothes that wear well. This season, as last season, we are going to lead in men's clothing. We are going to sell good clothes at the same prices you pay for ordinary clothes' elsewhere. "A dollar's worth of goods for a dollar" is our slogan.—Mimnaugh's, Columbia, S. C.

There's style and comfort in our blue serge suits. The ideal suit for spring and summer is a blue serge. So smartly stylish, so dressy in appearance, so light and cool, and, above all, so extremely serviceable that we often wonder that clothes makers ever manufacture any other kind. Our new stock of blue serge suits embodies all the style features of fine tailored clothes for this season, and is a splendid credit to our quality store. There are numbers of models to select from; and the buying here means that you get clothes that are made by the leading manufacturers in the country, and bear our guarantee of perfect satisfaction.—M. R. Emmons Co., Atlanta.

Young men delight to wear suits from The Hub. Grace, dash, distinction, call it anything you will, our clothes possess it. Our spring and summer styles are on hand, and you'll long to own one when you see them. Every cloth, every cut, every trick in the cutter's art has been called into use in the making of this spring's clothing for the young men who look to The Hub for an expression of nobby and correct styles.—The Hub, San Bernardino, Cal.

New spring clothes. Of course you wish to be among the best dressers this season. You want clothes that are correct in fashion, faultless in fit, and garments that will keep their shape and wear well. With our clothing you take no chance. You will be quick to see the superior excellence of the materials and the exceptionally high grade workmanship, while the wide variety of distinctive, exclusive models will surely interest you. Come in.—Wootton & Hayes, Denison, Texas.

COAL

*The springtime will delight the soul,
The violets will bloom again.
But, oh, the many tons of coal
That we will have to buy ere then!*

*The Heat of the Future.—A citizen entered briskly.
“Send me up an ounce of radium,” he said, “right away.
The house is colder than a barn.”*

“What’s become of the ounce of radium we sold you four years ago,” asks the clerk.

“The baby swallowed it,” said the citizen.

Science has as yet discovered no commercially practicable substitute for babies.—Life.

*The man who’s coaled in summer—
Though strange the truth may sound—
Has little trouble keeping warm
When winter rolls around.*

The ice man ought to have the call just now, but the coal man is fully as essential to your comfort, for the meals must be prepared, and you know poor coal makes a poor cook. Don't take chances of spoiling the cook's temper by getting poor coal. The right sort is here, subject to your order.—H. F. Miller & Son, Utica, N. Y.

Only experience can measure coal quality. You've got to burn Salzburg coal in your stove, grate or furnace to thoroughly know its superior goodness. Every person will concede the easy possibility of one brand of coal being better than another. When you buy Salzburg coal you get the extreme limit of the best quality in soft coal mined from Mother Earth. Once a customer always a customer.—Salzburg Coal Mining Co., Bay City, Mich.

Coal time will soon be here, and if you want to fill your bins with a pure carbon coal, give us your order. Don't wait until the last moment; until the price of coal goes up. Get it now. Get it from us. It will give you perfect satisfaction.—Murray City Coal Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Most any cook will tell you that she must have good coal with which to cook the Christmas turkey. Thus coal and turkey go hand in hand. Good, clean coal, the kind the cook will like, the kind you will like. It's clean and will give a steady heat. Our end is to furnish the coal.—R. M. Cary, Pensacola, Fla.

A ton in your cellar is worth two in our yard. The time to buy coal is now. Don't wait until winter. When winter comes conditions may be such as to make it almost impossible to supply you in the way you desire, and besides—strikes and increase in price are a possibility. We have just the quality that will suit you.—Robert W. Kennedy Co., Trenton, N. J.

Freshly mined coal is far more desirable than that dug out of the earth a year ago. It's cleaner—hasn't stored up twelve months' dirt and dust; it's dryer and in many ways a greater heat producer. Here it is at your service on quick order—bright, well screened coal in all the standard sizes at standard prices far better even than standard quality.—Davidge & Moody, Binghamton, N. Y.

A roaring fire is an easy thing when you burn Kennedy-Clinkerless Coal. It's selected coal, free from clinkers and sulphur, which makes it an ideal coal for those who are particular about getting the most heat for the least cost.—Robert W. Kennedy Co., Trenton, N. J.

Buying coal in the summer is just as sensible as gathering ice in the winter. We are not rushed with orders and have more time to take extra care and pains. We screen our coal free from dust and dirt and deliver by a careful and polite driver. Order your coal from us. It will give you perfect satisfaction.—The Harris & Gans Co., South Norwalk, Conn.

For open fires. Sure satisfaction every time you light a grate fire if on top of the kindling is ebony fuel from our yards. It's heat and light-giving and slate-free when it leaves the mines, screened and cleaned again here and served to you full weight and with celerity of delivery. Order any way that suits you.—The Mountain Ice and Coal Co., Pueblo, Colo.

Important facts are worth considering. One now is the coming fuel shortage this winter. We don't anticipate it as a possibility, but regret that it is a certainty. We have ample coal now to take care of all orders. You will do well to look into the matter. Order your fuel—get it in your cellar and you'll appreciate your foresight this winter.—Diamond Coal Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Running into money is what you will find it to do when you use a poor grade of coal. You get no heat for baking or cooking purposes, without using twice as much material as when you buy a high grade coal like the kind we furnish. It always gives satisfaction and we always send it to your order clean and full weight.—The Mountain Ice and Coal Co., Pueblo, Colo.

Burning hard White Ash coal makes winter living a pleasure. The quality of the fuel is always the same and you quickly learn how much is needed to obtain a certain degree of heat. Whatever that degree is, you use less hard White Ash coal to obtain it than if you were burning other kinds.—John Byron, Waterbury, Conn.

Now is a good time to order your coal supply while the prices are low. Our coal is the highest grade—pure, clinkerless and in every way desirable.—A. J. McGee, Schenectady, N. Y.

Admiralty coal turns dollars into power because low in ash. It is cheapest because it is best. Dividend-paying mills and plants in the Carolinas are using Admiralty coal. If best for them, why not for you? It will pay you to investigate. Write for proofs and full information. We will send them.—Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co., Richmond, Va.

Everybody happy when you have some of our good, heat-giving, no-clinkering coal in your cellar. It is the best in town.—J. B. Montgomery, Harrisburg.

We give as prompt attention to an order for a small jag of coal as though we were filling your bunkers. It is always better, though, to have a few tons on hand. We cannot control labor strikes and railroad tie-ups.—Arthur Kuesel Coal Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Money in coal! But it's a good investment these cold days. A ton of coal in your bins is worth a carload in someone's else yard, if your home comfort is of any account. Like the Texas cowboy and his revolver, when you want it you want it good and plenty. High quality coal is the only kind we handle.—W. H. Righter & Son, Albany, N. Y.

Where can you get the Wenona Third Vein coal that we hear spoken of so highly? Why, of the Bruce Coal Company, of course. They always have this coal on hand and the price remains $3.75 per ton. Give us your next order and you will not have any clinkers and very little ash to contend with.—Bruce Coal Co., Joliet, Ill.

Look into the matter. Learn quickly of us and how we do business, that's if you don't already know. A ton of coal we sell can be the ready means of learning. Let it be a half ton if you haven't room for a ton.—John Byron, Waterbury.

Coal that lasts. You would not put on pine wood if you wanted a fire to last. You are well aware that hickory would be much better. Why not use the same judgment on coal? Order the Old Company's coal of us and get the real hot stuff that lasts.—City Lumber & Coal Co., Waterbury, Conn.

When it comes to cooking you'll want the best of coal—the kind that will make a hot fire and broil, boil or bake in the shortest possible time to accomplish best results. Then is the time you'll want coal from The Mountain Ice & Coal Co., Pueblo, Colo.

A trying experience. It is when you have to use up a whole bin full of poor coal. Be on the safe side and buy your coal where standard excellence is the rule. Our coal is always high grade and clean and will give you no trouble when you want to bake, boil or broil.—The Mountain Ice & Coal Co., Pueblo.

Talk doesn't make good coal, but good coal makes talk. All our customers will be found ready and willing to tell you how good our coal always is.—M. Truby & Son, Joliet, Ill.

If you're tired of dirty coal why not put our claims to the test? We claim a coal-cleaning process which is superior to that of any other coal-seller in town; which guarantees that there's not a pound of coal dirt in any ton of coal which leaves our pockets; a process which works as regularly and completely as any automatic machinery can work. And what we claim for it it does.—Reading Coal Pockets, Trenton, N. J.

We sell fresh coal. Freshly mined coal is more desirable than that dug out of the earth a year ago. We will deliver it to you on quick order, bright and glossy and well screened.—E. E. Jones, Kenton, Ohio.

Shooting coal is about the best thing to have done at this time. Shoot a few tons into your cellar for the winter and make your homes frost-proof. Our coal is of a uniformly high standard, well screened and selected, and free from dirt and rubbish that might add to its weight while impairing its burning qualities. If you are shy on your late winter and spring supply of coal, now is your chance to get the best and save money.—Anderson Coal Co., Montgomery, Ala.

At this time of the year immediate action is necessary to order more coal when the bin is empty. Coal must be had—and be obtained quickly. Sometimes this condition of an empty coal bin comes upon us before we know it. It matters not what coal you use an empty bin is bound to come some time. The difference is that in using our coal it does not come as soon. That should appeal to you when the other coals cost as much as ours.—John Byron, Waterbury, Conn.

The best coal mined on the Monongahela river finds its way into our yards, and yet we charge no more for genuine "first pool" first quality Pittsburg coal than is reasonable, taking quality into consideration.—Jos. Walton & Co., Louisville, Ky.

Learn more about Ballard's coal. After reading about all other kinds of coal and experimenting with them, you try ours and you will find more coal in your bin, less ash heap and more money in your purse.—Ballard's, Binghamton, N. Y.

Smoke. That's probably what your heater will do when you start it. Why not start it right? Let us tell you how. First, take our dry wood, then our clean coal and you will then be so pleased you will use no other.—Crane & Veeder, Schenectady, N. Y.

Good coal. The plain truth about coal is that it must give out heat and not leave a lot of unburned clinkers behind. Clinkers are heavy, and every pound of clinkers means the loss of a pound of coal. When it comes to coal that has the goodness in it, the Alabama coal is best, and the best Alabama coal comes from the mines owned by—Galloway Coal Co., Memphis, Tenn.

This is the time for coal buying, to insure pleasure in the time of coal using. We are prepared to supply you with just the kind you want at the lowest price. Call or phone us about your winter supply.—A. Pickard & Co., Charlotte-town, P. E. I.

Squeezing the customer to swell the dealer's profits is not our way of conducting the coal business. We believe in fair dealing and want our customers to be our friends as well. That is why we take such care to keep the best, the cleanest and highest quality of coal to be had.—The Daniel Keogh Coal Co., East Norwalk, Conn.

Direct from the mines to our yard comes the coal we have for sale—coal that's famous the country over for its free burning qualities, its low percentage of ash, its freedom from impurities. It's "full value" fuel, and our method of taking and filling orders ensures satisfaction. Orders placed now save money for buyers. Take a look at your cellar, then act.—Tom S. Wotkyns & Co., Troy.

Buy your coal now. This is a good time to put in your winter's supply. Coal is liable to advance in price when cold weather arrives. We handle the ever satisfactory St. Charles coal. Prompt delivery.—Meagher Bros., Bay City.

If you had on Sunday a fire made from the coal we sell, then warmth and comfort was your lot in your home even though it was cold and damp outside. Now there will be other such days this summer; why not be prepared for them. Next winter's supply of hard White Ash Coal put in now will do it. And this is just the right time to order.—John Byron, Waterbury, Conn.

Good coal evidence. "The best I have ever had." "Send me a ton of the same kind as last." These are some of the expressions of satisfaction we are constantly hearing in regard to the coal we are now selling. We can truthfully say that the coal we are now putting in our yard is the best we have ever had; and that's saying a good deal. Coal is lower now than it will be at any other time this year. It goes up again June 1st.—United Ice & Coal Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

A saving problem. In buying your coal now you save money because there is a rebate on all coal bought during April and May. In the latter month you save 40c a ton providing all bills are paid on or before June 15th. Righter's coal is the standard.—W. H. Righter & Son, Albany, N. Y.

A burning success is coal from the Kelley coal yards—the fuel we take pride in selling to the people of Harrisburg. No dirt (unless you call ashes dirt), no slate, no clinkers, and making a clean, hot, lasting fire. For every fuel purpose our coal fills the bill completely—and you get full weight and prompt service here.—Kelley, Harrisburg, Pa.

Do you patronize a dealer that sells poor coal, makes you wait a week before it's delivered, even possibly gives you short weight and shabby treatment? Better change and buy here to get honest values.—W. D. Sypherd, Camden, N. J.

When you want clean coal, free from dust, slate and other non-burnable particles, order your fuel from this office. We take as much care of a half ton order as of one for a carload. We await your call, letter or 'phone message.—The Mountain Ice & Coal Co., Pueblo.

Comes from the New River-Pocahontas smokeless coal beds of West Virginia. Analysis from West Virginia Geological Survey show that it contains 96 per cent. combustible matter. It is, therefore, low in ash.—Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co., Columbia, S. C.

Buy the coal that will keep your family comfortable from the early morning whistle to the shut-down and that keeps your home warm during the night.—J. W. Ballard Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Why Watts' Coal? Because it's from the best company. Because the sizes are well prepared. Because he is careful to have it clean. Because his delivery is personally conducted.—Watts & Son, Springfield, Ill.

Do not forget we have a special coal for this price. It is regular size. If you try one ton of it you will not use any other. Sheathing paper. We are agents for Bird's celebrated sheathing, roofing and deadening papers. These goods are often specified, but cheap substitutes are used. We have these goods in stock. Paroid roofing—1, 2 and 3 ply. Neponset red rope roofing. Neponset black building paper. Co-ted building paper. Florian deafening felt.—Lumber & Coal Co., Waterbury, Conn.

A coal with heat. Kennedy Clinkerless is a clean, sparkling coal, free from all “dead” matter and burns to a fine white ash. It's without exception the best coal mined. We can make more money on other kinds of coal, but prefer satisfied customers to large profits.—Robert W. Kennedy Co., Trenton, N. J.

Gee! but it's chilly. These cool mornings and evenings make a fellow think about coal. The time for actual coal burning will be here in a jiffy, and then you will wish you had your bin full. Order to-day while you have the chance.—Phil. J. Campbell, Trenton, N. J.

Within the circle of your acquaintances do you know of any one who has not felt that it's about time to think of the winter's coal. It is always wise to fill your bins early in the season when prompt delivery is possible. Then you are always prepared for emergencies. Righter's coal is the best.—W. H. Righter & Son, Albany, N. Y.

Coal shipments are large. And while we expect to be able to make prompt deliveries at all times, we can assure you of better service and bottom prices now, if you will give us your winter order early. Full line of anthracite and other good grades.—Clark Bros., Los Angeles.

Famine imminent. A word to the wise is sufficient. We have never sold anything but the very best grades of the various coals, and shall not do so unless compelled by the shortage of supply. Under the existing conditions, we may soon be forced to take whatever we can get. When we are forced to sell inferior coal we will frankly notify the public. We have yet in our yards a good supply of genuine Pluto Cannel coal and will deliver any quantity, as promptly as possible, at the same price you pay for Jellico. There is no coal superior to the genuine Pluto Cannel coal. You will be wise to place your order with us at once and thus insure yourself a first-class coal. We think in a few days you can get none or a very inferior quality.—Pluto Coal Co., Lexington, Ky.

On account of many rumors of shortage of coal and that many of the coal merchants are reluctantly compelled to husband their supplies to their customers, we wish to notify our 7,000 odd customers that we have plenty of coal of all sizes on hand. We always keep a large stock, and at the present we positively have by far the largest stock in the city. We make prompt delivery and guarantee the quality or we will take the coal back. If at any time we do not give satisfaction, we will make good.—The Standard Coal Company, Montreal, Can.

Buy the coal that will keep your family comfortable from the early morning whistle to the shut down and that keeps your home warm during the night. That coal is Kelley's coal. Because it's from the best company, because the sizes are well prepared, because he is careful to have it clean, because his delivery is personally conducted; coal is 50c. a ton cheaper this month.—Kelley's, Harrisburg, Pa.

Discrimination in buying coal will prove to those who aim at quality and in getting the best for their money that they can find that the coal bought at our yard comes nearer filling the bill than you can find anywhere in Pueblo. When we sell you coal you get coal, not slate, dirt or slag. A customer once, a customer always.—The Mountain Ice & Coal Co., Pueblo, Colo.

We wish to impress you with the fact that there's no better coal mined than the coal we handle. Any one who knows us is aware of the promptness of our delivery, our strict attention to all orders with which we're favored. Hence we ask a share of your patronage.—The Mountain Ice & Coal Co., Pueblo, Colo.

It will please you well. This coal has been cleansed from dirt and slate and gives you excellent results in heat production.—Allentown Ice Co., Allentown.

The coal question is the supreme question of the hour. It is one which, with the approach of real cold weather, it is not wise to ignore. Good coal of first quality is a mighty good thing to have around the house when the wind blows and the frost is on the window pane. The best coal in the local market is handled by W. H. Righter & Son, Albany, N. Y.

Cozy rooms. When you buy coal from us you get good, clean heat-giving coal—the kind that makes cozy rooms. No need to have your overcoat on in the house when you use our coal.—J. B. Montgomery, Harrisburg, Pa.

Have you ever given Cannel coal a trial in your fireplace or open grate? We are now handling a superior grade, hand-picked and containing a very low percentage of smoke. It gives a clear, bright flame, and will not snap. People who burn Cannel coal want a good article and as it is practically the only coal that goes into the house that is seen by the family, we think we have an article that will meet the requirements of a critical domestic trade.—John S. Cross, Lawrence, Mass.

The cleanliness of coal is a very important consideration. You can't expect dirt and slate to burn. Neither can you expect coal that is full of foreign substances to burn. Our coal is clear coal. You get all your money out of it.—L. F. Leonard, Auburn, N. Y.

Lumps of solid satisfaction are contained in every piece of Robinson's coal, especially for him who pays the bill, for he knows he gets his money back in an extra amount of heat, and is not paying for smoke and clinkers.—H. A. Robinson Fuel Co., Peoria, Ill.

Are you looking everywhere in the quest of fuel that gives satisfaction at a fair price? Let your search terminate here. Coal from Mountain Ice & Coal Company suits everyone who's tried it—is certain to suit you. We are careful about its screening and delivery, prompt as you want it.—The Mountain Ice & Coal Co., Pueblo, Colo.

Once we start our red ash coal—once it is tried—it will carry itself bravely. It needs no praise of ours then. The first order is all we are anxious about—after that you'll come here, anyway.—Blanchard & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Want coal?—We've got it to burn. Best kind, too. Carefully selected, clean coal that is all coal and nothing else. No dust, no dirt, no slate. And prices always the lowest. When you get a ton from us it's right. Our guarantee is back of it. You take no chances.—Derby Mill and Elevator Co., Burlington, Ia.

We want you to wake up on this coal business and notice that our coal has more glow, wear and warmth, and less smoke, than any other. You don't buy your coal for the volume of black, sooty smoke it has. That's why we recommend ours—it is clean. Gives heat and a rapid fire, and makes spring cooking a comfortable occupation.—Wm. S. Miller & Co., Frederick, Md.

Satisfactory and well screened coal isn't the easiest thing in the world to find, but if you will come to a reliable yard, where nothing but the highest grades of coal is kept, as it is here, you will find that you will receive coal in exchange for your money, not slate or dirt, as our coal is all thoroughly cleaned before delivering. You don't get up in the morning and find the house cold, because your self-feeder, parlor stove or furnace has gone out. Our coal will last longer, give out more heat and make a smaller percentage of ash and waste matter than any other coal. For cooking purposes it is equally as satisfactory.—Pardee & Young, Fall River, Mass.

Freshly mined coal is more desirable than that dug out of the earth a year ago. Will deliver it to you on quick order, bright and glossy, well screened. Kindling, stove wood, charcoal, coke, etc.—Clark Bros., Los Angeles, Cal.

You're easy—Yes; extraordinarily pliant—if you pay a penny more—than our price—for coal—More money cannot buy you better quality—More money per ton—cannot increase the quantity per ton—by a single ounce—so what's the good—buying elsewhere—when here—you save half a dollar on every ton.—The Pike's Peak Fuel Co., Denver, Colo.

Once we start—coal—once it is tried, it will carry itself bravely. It needs no praise of ours then. The first order is all we are anxious about—after that you'll come here anyway. If you are getting perfect satisfaction where you are, all right. If you are dissatisfied, if the coal is unclean, half dirt—if it burns out quickly, we want your trade; we guarantee perfect satisfaction.—Blanchard & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

You will miss it if you try to get along this winter without the proper kind of coal. Always bear in mind that the best is the cheapest in the end, and that this is particularly true when the best costs no more than other kinds. We sell the best coal that money can buy, but we charge no more for it than you will have to pay for an inferior article.—Murray City Coal Company, Columbus, O.

Help me down, please. We want to help you out of coal difficulties. If you have been buying the kind of coal that refuses to burn unless it is poked and urged constantly it is time that you buy the other kind. I have that other kind always ready and anxious to burn. Try it.—P. M. Magly, Fall River, Mass.

Satisfaction sells more coal than all the boasts that were ever made, and the satisfaction that our coal gives the customers is what we depend upon to hold our large trade. Are you one of our satisfied customers? Better let us place you on the list. Will find us wide awake.—Robert W. Kennedy Co., Trenton, N. J.

Zero weather is here and it's here to stay—we have it to contend with all the rest of the winter. The best way to resist it is with a good fire and the best fire is made with the best coal.—Wayne R. Brown, Schenectady, N. Y.

A New Year's resolution on the question of coal supply: Resolved, That I am not going to pay the price of getting the best high-grade coal and not get it.

Hereafter I will order Elk River coal and see that I get it.—Galloway Coal Co., Memphis, Tenn.

We've found the contented man—He's the man who has acquired the "Elk River" habit. Elk River Coal is the best of all the high grade coals. It makes a hotter fire, holds a fire longer, has less ash and never fails to give satisfaction.—Galloway Coal Co., Memphis.

An independent mining company not in the coal trust offered us for spot cash at a reduced price several boats of coal if taken in August and September. We bought and are giving the consumers the benefit of the purchase. When it is gone we shall probably have to raise the price. So buy now.—B. Hershfield & Son, South Norwalk, Conn.

Where'll you get the next load? Let us try our hands at supplying your coal, we can give you an article that's all coal; if you come once we know we will keep you. Yes, we will deliver it to-day, if you say so.—Blanchard & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

That burning question can easily be solved by using our coal. There is more heat bound up in a ton of our coal than any others. It is hard and has a long life. Order a ton to-day just to see how we will treat you.—Davidge & Moody, Binghamton, N. Y.

An exhibition of coal can be seen at any time at our place. You are at liberty to examine everything with a double-barreled telescope, if you choose. One thing you'll discover, and that is, it isn't possible to obtain cleaner, better coal than we offer you. Now's the time you're burning coal—here's the place to save you money, and get better service.—Blanchard & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

We call your attention to the advantages offered in the using of our Lehigh Coal. Less dirt, less dust, more comfort, more satisfaction, more heat to the bucketful, more economy to the ton than any coal sold. Gives satisfaction because it's satisfactory coal. Try it once. You'll see the advantage of using it always. No trading stamps. Remember you get value in coal.—B. Hershfield & Son, South Norwalk, Conn.

Lumps of comfort. It is our pride and pleasure to supply in the shape of best quality coal for your stove, fireplace or furnace. When we haven't anything in the coal line you desire, we doubt if any dealer in town has it. Our figures are as reasonable as the market will permit, our facilities for delivery second to none.—Graham & Ross, Great Falls, Mont.

Just the word "Coal" ought to be enough this time of the year to bring you in with an order. Nearly everybody in Great Falls now knows the kind of coal we sell and the way we handle it. Those who have tried our coal say they want nothing better. Try a ton of the Nelson.—Nelson Coal Co., Great Falls, Mont.

It's a self evident fact to many that no better coal enters this market than is handled by us. Question is: Do you know it from actual experience? If you do not so know, why don't you? You are looking for the best of every thing, aren't you? Why not use M. & L.'s coal and be convinced that you have the very best?—M. & L. Wood & Coal Company, Logan City, Utah.

A threatening outlook is prophesied by the weather sharps of the government bureau at Washington, and the man with the goosebone at the country crossroads. Cold, cold, cold. That means coal, coal, coal. The latter is what we supply—coal of grade, at the ruling market price. What we promise is clean coal; coal that burns freely; quick delivery at short notice.—Northwestern Improvement Co., Spokane, Wash.

Your coal dollars will go a long way just now. Coal is cheap. Our coal is ready for you—clean, bright, dry and perfectly reliable. The more of it you buy at present prices the more money you will save.—Blanchard & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

The real thing is what you want when you need a good article, and what is there more needful or of more importance to have good than coal? It can't be too good, as the more heat producing qualities it has the more economical it will prove.—Davidge & Moody, Binghamton, N. Y.

Have you ever thought about the difference between thoroughly screened coal and the make-believe kind? The best place to trace it is through your pocket-book, and the result will not be very pleasing. When the famous Pittston coal is well screened the result is satisfaction and economy. That's the kind we sell.—Davidge & Moody, Binghamton.

Don't burn your money. You might as well shovel your dollars into the fire as to put poor coal into your stove, grate or furnace—you can't get good results from poor coal. If you come to us you will get the best coal in the market.—Randall Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

It's fun to use our coal. Clean, makes hot fire and few ashes. Do not miss the fun of using it and the satisfaction of saving money. Quality the highest.

Prices the lowest. Weight guaranteed.—New England Coal Co., Woonsocket, R. I.

Take the Hint.—Every loaded coal cart you see on the street is a hint to you to purchase your winter's supply of coal, if you have not already done so. Take the hint, and give us your order, to be filled with the best grades mined.—Stickney & Babcock Coal Co., Bangor.

Coal. Coal. Coal. We have this season a large stock of extra choice coal of all sizes and solicit your orders. Low prices. Prompt delivery. Obliging teamsters. If you have not tried Cross Creek Coal, it will pay you to give us a trial order.—F. M. Griffin, St. Thomas, Ont.

There are lots of people who won't use any kind of coal but ours, because they are satisfied and happy. Quite a serious question, and one you should look into. You will need coal very soon, so why not try our nice, clean coal, free from dirt, slate and clinkers?—H. E. Sumner, Worcester, Mass.

Silver Ash is the hardest, purest white ash coal—the premium coal of the Lehigh coal fields—the best coal that comes from the earth.

And while it is the highest priced coal at the mines, we sell it at the price other dealers in Trenton ask for ordinary grades.—Tattersall's, Trenton, N. J.

"Coal's Out Again."—Where will I get my winter's supply? Send your orders to us, who took such good care of you last winter. During the great coal famine we sold our coal to everyone at the same old price, when every other city advanced the price from $2 to $3 per ton.—R. O. Jones, Columbia, S. C.

Coal that cooks is the coal that the cook and housekeeper are looking for. There is no coal on the market that is so efficient as the Blue Gem. It is free from dirt and slate and is satisfactory for every purpose. We have cheaper coal than the Blue Gem, but none so good. We can fill your orders promptly.—Rowe Transfer and Coal Co., Knoxville.

It's a good sign of the character of our coal and of our business methods that our customers stay with us year after year. They don't waste any time on experiments; they know they can't do better.—Buford A. Graves, Lexington, Ky.

Wow! Wow!—How that touch of zero weather did dash up and down the tender regions of your spinal column and cause you to wonder about the coal bin. If you need a ton, and need it quick, 'phone us. It's our pet hobby to deliver the best coal in the shortest possible time.—Spiller & Barber, Joliet, Ill.

Right up-to-Date.—It may sound a little queer to talk about being up-to-date in the coal business because coal doesn't change styles, but there are all sorts of grades at all sorts of prices, and we have to keep posted in regard to dealers, and qualities, and prices, in order to serve our customers to the best advantage. We keep as close watch on these things as the milliner does of the Paris dictations.—Murray City Coal Co., Columbus, O.

Justice rules at our coal yards. She sees that every customer gets just what his money is worth—sometimes more.

Only the Best Coal rules here from one day to another, which is equivalent to saying that A1 coal which freely burns, which knows as little of smoke, cinder and ash as any coal produces, is here subject to your order every business day in the year. No one can contradict that statement with any degree of success.—Knox & Mead, Troy, N. Y.

Winter Styles—In Coal.—There are not many changes to be noted. Heavy black stuff is still in vogue for furnace use, and if of good quality will produce the desired warm effect. By all means have both the front and back of your coal bins tucked very full. The waste is made very small in our coal, as it is all screened by us—before delivery.—Galloway Coal Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Coal That Is All Coal.—When you buy soft coal of J. H. Emery you get that which has been properly screened. Instead of paying for slate, shale, dust and dirt, you receive the full value of your money in coal that is all coal. His prices are no higher than others get for ordinary coal. One order will convince you that there is a vast difference in coal.—J. H. Emery & Co., West Bay City, Mich.

All of our coal is carefully screened; although the price you pay is no less than you would pay elsewhere, it is cheaper in the end, because it is coal that will last longer than any other.—Murray City Coal Co., Columbus, Ohio.

The rage for buying coal at Ferris' shows no signs of abatement and bids fair to become almost universal during the winter. It is in fact an evidence of good taste and excellent judgment to buy coal of John H. Ferris, South Norwalk.

A Real Ton.—There are a great many kinds of coal and lots of coal dealers, but did you ever stop to consider that the quality is the principal factor of economical coal? We deal in the best, because we know we can best hold our trade in that way. Our strong hold is in our careful preparation. Every ton is thoroughly screened.—Union Coal Company, Fitchburg, Mass.

Coal is black—there's no getting away from that; but what we mean by clean coal is that it's free from unnecessary dirt, slate and stone; that it burns practically to clean ash; that it gives out little or no smoke, and that sulphurous fumes are just about eliminated—which briefly put, indicates that our coal is a fine coal for fuel and cooking. The price is now as low as it will be this season. Get your order in for winter supply.—City Lumber & Coal Co., Waterbury, Conn.

We couldn't improve the coal, so we improve the service. When we built our Front street sheds our main idea was storage; in our Green Island trestles the motive was rapid handling with decreased breakage, or in other words economy; while in the Cohoes pockets the storage and economy ideas are worked out in the same structure. The governing ideas in all, being protection to our trade, economy in handling and convenience in location.—Peterson & Packer Coal Co., Troy, N. Y.

You have found the place—the right place—for the purchase of coal if your quest has ended here. Reasons? Coal is about the same price per ton anywhere within a radius of a hundred miles of here. But what kind of coal? We guarantee grade, careful screening, no dirt, prompt delivery and complete satisfaction.—Tom S. Wotkyns & Co., Troy.

Carrying coal over till next winter may seem unnecessary. But you'll be wise to do it just the same. Coal is cheaper this month than at any time during the year. So we advise you to order now and save the increase which goes into effect each month. It will amount to considerable on your winter's supply, enough in fact, to be well worth saving. Give us your order this month.—W. H. Righter & Son, Albany, N. Y.

It's rather hot weather, isn't it? But say, have you thought that a few months hence it will be cold? Then you will be wishing you had your winter's coal safely stored, should you have forgotten to order it. Listen! Why not have that coal sent to your home now? We offer to fill your order and save you money. Just try us and see.—Broadway Coal and Ice Company, Memphis, Tenn.

It's pure coal. That is one of the great merits of our coal, it is pure. No dirt or waste to pay for, no hard words or harder thoughts over a poor burning fire, but free burning, long burning, intense heat-giving coal.—P. M. Magly, Kenton, O.

It's a good business, under present and prospective conditions, to buy coal now. Wholesalers will, retailers must, advance prices soon. Fill up your bins now and mark a few dollars saved on your house-keeping slate—to say nothing of being prepared for strike contingencies. All kinds of coal at A. Pickard & Co.'s.—A. Pickard & Co., Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Wait. That's what they all say—but what's to be gained by delaying your coal orders?

Nothing—but much to be lost; coal prices may go skyrocketing some of these days.

Be wise—send us your orders to-day when prices are low. Incidentally, there's no better coal than we sell you. It's clean, properly graded, free from slack, slate, gravel, stone. It's just coal.—Buford A. Graves, Lexington, Ky.

Order coal now and save money. Ordering your winter's supply of coal now means a saving of money. The selection of the justly celebrated Salzburg coal, mined in West Bay City, means not only a saving of money, but a whole lot of satisfaction for those who burn it. As a domestic coal it has no equal. Burns to a white ash, makes a hotter fire than hardwood, costs a third less and does not fill the house with soot.—Salzburg Coal Mining Co., West Bay City, Mich.

If your frenzied furnace is consuming more coal these days than you think it should, we have some of that extremely hard Plymouth coal that will last you much longer than the other kinds, and we sell it for the same price you are charged for ordinary coal. It is perfectly clean. Strictly fresh mined.—Ford, Beach & Powell, Binghamton.

We were agreeably surprised at the satisfaction given by our new Magnolia Lump for furnace use, a number of people ordering more after testing its lasting qualities. Give it a trial and be convinced. It's a bargain at $3.75 per ton.

The Black Nancy is the best prepared coal in the Springfield market, burning as free as Jackson and lasting much longer. Another bargain at $3.75 per ton. We realize this to be a very broad statement, but know that the burning of it will prove it. We were disappointed at not receiving more Etna, owing to an accident at the mines, but expect to be able to take care of your orders in a very short time. Do not wait until you are out. Get your orders in early.—Self & Lilly, Springfield, Ohio.

Don't shiver and shake by burning poor coal. It is all black, but not all alike. It's the coal that burns, burns all up, and while burning gives heat. That is the kind we keep.—Randall Bros., Altoona, Pa.

Mercury went down. Coal went up. Gas went out. To meet the demand for warmth at prices everyone can afford to pay, we will inaugurate a sale of cold weather goods.—McKelvey's, Youngstown, O.

We want you to wake up on this coal business and notice that our coal has more glow, wear and warmth, and less smoke, than any other. You don't buy your coal for the volume of black, sooty smoke it has. That's why we recommend ours—it is clean. Gives heat and a rapid fire, and makes spring cooking a comfortable occupation.—Wm. S. Miller & Co., Frederick, Md.

A contented man is a hard thing to find, and there is nothing that will make him so content to stay at home evenings as the attraction and comfort of a comfortable and cheery fire made from our superior Renton coal. It gives out a clear and steady glow, gives out intense heat, and consumes less than any coal on the market, and it is only $4.50 a ton at —The Griffin Transfer Co., Tacoma.

If you need more coal give us your order. You will be surprised to see how much longer a ton of our coal will last. That's because we give really full weight and because it's all good clean coal.—C. M. Lute, Bay City, Mich.

If you want a coal that gives absolute satisfaction and will do what it is expected to do; a coal that is free from slack and all other foreign substances; that is clean and leaves no clinkers; a coal that will save you annoyance for use in your kitchen range, buy Fellows' Washed Coal.—E. O. Fellows, Minneapolis, Minn.

It is time to think of getting in coal for the winter. You'll save money by buying now; coal is cheaper in the summer. It is cleaner, more satisfactory in every way; surely is at our price.—Blanchard & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Just the word "Coal" ought to be enough this time of the year to bring you in with an order. By this time everybody in this town ought to know the kind of coal we sell and the way we handle it. Those who have tried our coal say they want nothing better. Try one single ton before you buy elsewhere.—The Harris & Gans Co., South Norwalk, Conn.

The lot we have in now is unusually large and clean and we can fill your bins without making any dust in the house or defacing sidewalk or lawn.—Tattersall's, Trenton, N. J.

Why not patronize the firm that is saving you money? Why pay more to others when you can get best grades of Lehigh coal at $5.75 per ton? We will guarantee ours the best in the market. Also weight guaranteed. All coal that leaves our yard is cleaned and free from slate. A trial order will convince you we are the only firm that keeps the prices down for you.—B. Hershfield & Son, South Norwalk, Conn.

War Eagle Egg Nut.—A specially prepared West Virginia coal that is unequaled for either steam or domestic use. Showing over 80 per cent. pure carbon, it is a great heat producer and practically smokeless. — Hamilton Parker Co., Columbus, Ohio.

When you find the place that gives you the most good coal for the least money, cling to it. We believe this is the place. You may think you are satisfied with your present coal service, but we believe we can give you still better satisfaction. Give us our opportunity.—Blanchard & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

The Kennedy Clinkerless Coal is a coal for the economical. If you want to save a lot of extra expense buy our coal. It's a pure Upper Lehigh and burns to a very fine ash. No clinkers; no trouble. That's why the particular coal buyer demands our kind. Our coal is screened dry. We keep the dirt.—Robert N. Kennedy Co., Trenton, N. J.

The last month of low prices—order now. The first of September coal prices go to the maximum. You'll need coal soon and to order the winter's supply now, means to save money. The quality of coal we sell enables you to get the same heat out of little coal as you get from a large quantity of an inferior grade. Thus you save in price and quantity. A 'phone order does the work.—J. B. Montgomery, Harrisburg.

The burning question of the hour will soon be the kind of coal that will give the best results for the quantity used. That question is easily answered by getting good, clean, solid fuel, the only kind we sell. A trial order will demonstrate the advantage of using it and make you a permanent customer.—J. B. Montgomery, Harrisburg, Pa.

This coal is being specially prepared for domestic use and will give better satisfaction than any other coal that ever came from the mines in this district. If you want the best value for your money get your orders in while the quality is highest and the prices are lowest.—Kansas City Coal and Coke Co., Kansas City.

Although the weather is very hot we continue to cut considerable ice in the coal trade. We are busy because people appreciate good coal. We spend a great deal of time and effort in selecting the coal we think will please our customers. Our stock is now in prime condition and if we fill your bins you may wear a smile which nothing can remove.—The Ferris Coal Co., South Norwalk, Conn.

Before the weather begins to change from summer's smile to winter's frown, make up your mind to fill your coal bin with our good, clean "FIRST POOL" Pittsburg Coal and avoid higher prices later on. This month we can deliver to you good, clean, fresh-mined "FIRST POOL" Pittsburg Coal. — Jos. Walton & Co., Louisville, Ky.

As in everything else, the American Eagle is on top when it comes to the coal question. The best coal in the world is mined in America. The best coal in America finds its way to our yard—don't forget that. It's time you were talking with us about your winter stock. Don't put it off until prices go up.—Murray City Coal Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Filling a bin with coal for winter use, with a superior quality that will give full satisfaction, is what we do always when your coal is ordered from our high grade Canon coal. Good, clean coal, fair prices and prompt delivery is always appreciated by the public, and they get it every time from our yards.—P. A. Cessna, Pueblo, Col.

Has his wagon stopped at your house? Have you ordered your winter coal? We've been advising you to do so right along and get the advantage of low prices. To-day they went up. Next month they will go still higher. The sensible thing to do is to order your coal now and make a saving. By getting it here you get the best quality at no higher prices than prevail elsewhere. Telephone us.—J. B. Montgomery, Harrisburg, Pa.

COFFEE, TEA AND COCOA

Coffee. If your morning cup doesn't taste right, don't blame the coffee; sometimes it's the cook's fault, sometimes the coffee pot. If conditions are right, you won't make poor coffee with our "Supreme Blend," which for strength, richness and aroma cannot be surpassed.—George Lockett's Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Teas, for instance. Teas that require less for a drawing; kinds that give the true tea-flavor; and for what inferiority has heretofore cost. And what is true of teas is equally true of coffees and spices and a good many other things—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

It is not talk, or boast, or guess, for "Ye Old Home" Coffee makes its own success. Note the investment. Four pounds for $1.—Bresnahan Grocery Co.

Trenton's greatest gift givers. The "Cup o' Kindness."

It strengthens and cheers,

Nor causeth to stumble;

It's welcomed alike

By the great and the humble.

—Muschert, Reeves & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Start the day right and everything will run smoothly. The proper way is to start with a steaming cup of our 30-cent blend coffee. It is always uniform and bound to please. It will make the husband look pleasant at the breakfast table. It will keep the wife in smiles all day long. It will keep the children out of mischief. When you want coffee, think of Chase Bros., Des Moines, Ia.

Found. A place has at last been found where a high grade tea and a fine-flavored coffee can be bought at a moderate price. No premiums. No presents. No trading stamps, but your money's worth of tea and coffee.—Heroy, Trenton, N. J.

Unparalleled Thursday bargains fetching attractions for provident spenders.—Mendel & Freedman, New Haven, Conn.

Plasmon cocoa, 55 per cent. Plasmon builds up—does not tear down like coffee. You can drink all you want of it and always feel the better for it.—Plasmon Co. of America, Rochester, N. Y.

We pride ourselves on not selling tea at less than 50 cents a pound, because that's as low as good tea can be sold. The cheaper the weaker it is and the more you need. A pound of our finest quality 80-cent tea will make more than twice the number of cups of tea that a 40-cent tea will and besides you get the fine flavor where you get a rank flavor in the cheap tea.—Hendt, Kenton, Ohio.

Every grocer in America will tell you he has good coffee. Every grocer in Owensboro will tell you this, but no merchant will look you in the face and say his coffee is better than Chase & Sanborn's coffee. He may muster up courage and say his coffee is "just as good," but he stops right there.—The H. B. Phillips Co., Owensboro, Ky.

The tea and coffee store opened Friday. It was more than an opening—it was a rush-stock sent here for a week's selling exhausted in a single day—but there are immense stocks where the supply came from. The Empress Tea & Coffee Co., who conduct the department, owns and operates its own plantation. Sells to you direct—that's the little price secret. A new supply will reach us for to-morrow's selling and the same low prices and high qualities that brought you here in thousands opening day will bring you again.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., Muncie, Ind., give for two days a handsome china vase to every purchaser of 50 cents' worth of certain specified goods.

Many years ago on the island of Java the government controlled the plantations which produced the best coffee. But since that time the private plantations have been improved to such an extent that they now produce better coffee than was ever grown on the government plantations. The Milanola plantation is one of the best in Java. The coffee produced there can be bought for 35c. pound only at — M. C. Dingwall's, New Haven.

Loeser coffee. As soon as Loeser coffee became a regular feature of store service, served in the restaurant, people began asking us to put it up for home use. It is a blend which we decided upon after much experimenting, as being most unvaryingly successful in producing perfect coffee. And because of the critical attention to its proper "ageing," Loeser coffee is specially sustaining and wholesome, as well as clear, rich and fragrant. Try a pound package at 30c. You will come back to order a 5-pound screw top canister.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Coffee for camp. Take plenty—people seem to drink fabulous amounts of coffee out of doors, and nothing is so grateful after an all day tramp or fish. Loeser coffee—well known in the restaurant—comes in convenient five-pound canisters with screw top. Every ounce tells, because of our care in blending and our insistence upon the proper age of the coffee for flavor and quality. Hence Loeser coffee is more sustaining, more fragrant and more economical than most coffee bought in this country. It comes in the bean, ground and pulverized.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Good coffee possesses a direct beneficial action on the system. Just as well grown nutritious celery is said to supply the brain with phosphates—food for the brain cells—while poorly grown celery has no such effect. So it is with good, well-cultivated, well roasted coffee. Such coffee supplies the nerve centers with an element that feeds the nerves—tones them up—makes them strong. Since the nerves control every function of the body, good coffee benefits all the organs of the body, gives you a strong mental grip, and helps make your success. But poorly grown—badly roasted coffee does not possess this beneficial effect, and has absolutely no beneficial action on the nervous system. Seal Brand coffee is good coffee. It is rich in the nerve feeding element. A cup of Seal Brand coffee is beneficial to health—it feeds the central nervous system—its rich, delicious, creamy taste and fragrant aroma make it a most delightful beverage.—Chase & Sanborn, Boston, Mass.

Now when sultry summer breezes intensify your thirst and ice water fails to relieve it it's time to try our tea, iced. Its rare flavor and invigorating qualities make it pre-eminently the hot weather drink. Black and green blended specially for making iced tea; 50c. a pound. We have all the other iced beverages and you may take your choice, but after trying our tea iced you will never willingly be without a supply.—W. A. Reichard, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Iced tea is a very healthful drink if properly made—and good tea. And it isn't necessary to pay a big price. Some of the most particular tea drinkers declare that our 50c teas have that smooth, rich, aromatic, just-strong-enough flavor equal to the grade sold elsewhere at 75c. It is delicious and very refreshing when iced.—W. A. Reichard, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Iced tea weather. While many teas are fairly palatable when steeped, good teas alone produce an entrancing cup when iced. The better quality teas, like caricol, have no such acrid, herby taste as the inferior sort, and icing makes or unmakes a tea.—Thos. Martindale & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

The tea you buy somewhere else was probably just as good tea originally as my tea. But tea that is constantly exposed to the air loses strength and that delicate flavor and aroma without which tea isn't tea at all. Tea exposed to contact with green groceries absorbs their taste. That isn't the way I keep tea. Buy your tea here and note the difference.—J. A. Early, Waco, Texas.

Fresh and fragrant choice and Japany, are the teas we offer you. If you have a particularly fastidious tea taste, we wish you would try our tea. You can't help but like it. It is made from fresh, tender young leaves, carefully prepared. We make a specialty of tea and coffee. We always have our eyes open for the best. You don't need to know anything about tea to tell the quality of ours.—E. E. Nichols, New Haven, Conn.

Fancy new crop Formosa Oolong teas. It is the policy of this store in the matter of tea, as in all other goods we sell, to give the best possible value for the money. When we make a statement about our teas, we are prepared to back it up with goods that do credit to the claim we make. No particular sensationalism about our tea sales, but the quality is there, the value is there and observing buyers usually come back for more. To-day we are talking about a special bargain in Oolong as a farewell sale for the old year. A new tea—tasty—good strength and fine flavor. It is well worth what we usually sell it for, namely, 50c. pound. To-day we will cut out the profit and let you have all you will take of this fine Formosa Oolong tea for 35c. lb., 3 lbs., $1.00. The more you buy the better you will be pleased.—Newton, Robertson & Co. Hartford, Conn.

Considering the cost. There is absolutely nothing that you can have on the table that will afford as much comfort and satisfaction as a cup of Maxwell House Blend coffee. If you have never used it, you have never realized in its fullness what real coffee means.—Cheek-Neal Coffee Co., Houston, Texas.

A treat for coffee drinkers. Baker's Barrington Hall steel cut coffee is without an equal. By the method of cutting it is free from coffee dust and chaff, taking away the bitterness. The particles are uniform in size, improving the flavor. It is the ideal coffee. Try a can. Try our Monogram tea.—Alex. Campbell, Denison, Texas.

CORSETS

The extra length below the waist line is a new feature in this season's corsets. The style shown in No. 419 is especially desirable for medium or fleshy figures. Owing to the ample fulness from the hips, graduating toward the back of the corset, absolute freedom is given. The model is planned to curve gracefully, yet it fits the waist line snugly, creating the small waist effect so much desired.—Benner, Begg & Garvin, Grand Forks.

The Easter frock will soon have its first fitting—the important fitting that determines the set and the style of the completed garment. Its correctness will depend much on the cut, but more on the corset over which it is shaped. If the corset is a Fasso, the gown will have the best of all foundations.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Perhaps you bought a new corset about holiday time—one that a friend recommended. You were delighted with it. Immediately you were several inches longer waisted. Your belts had to be taken in. Women complimented you on your trim, erect carriage. Then things began to happen—the corset began to curve out at the hip instead of sloping in a graceful line. The bones slipped up in the casings and the loose cloth rumbled into crosswise ridges that caused great discomfort. The corset felt too tight at the top and had stretched loose at the bottom. It began to “ride up” so that after a few hours of wear you were shorter waisted than when first dressed. The corset may have been all right in itself, but it did not fit you. No good corset that fits perfectly will lose its shape, or slip, or feel uncomfortable after a few months of wear. The thing is to get the corset that fits. One way is to try all the models of every make of corset. Another way is to consult with somebody who understands the needs of every type of figure and who has at command every good sort of corset made. Here in the Loeser store is the most comfortable and complete corset store in Brooklyn.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The new C-B models for 1907 have very many interesting features. Through close attention to the style tendencies the model makers have embodied features that will build a type of form adequate to the requirements of the most exacting modiste. The new models give as far as corset lines can portray, the effect of extreme slenderness. Long and sinuous are the ultra high-bust effects. By skillful designing the depth of the bust is secured without stiffening, as fashion requires that the form be willowy, and yet closely corseted.—T. A. Chapman Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Royal Worcester corsets in high or low bust, Princess hip, black, white and gray; also blue and pink, all sizes. These styles are sold everywhere at $1.50 a pair. As an extra special for these three days.—C. Cohn, San Bernardino, Cal.

The fact of our carrying so many models in Warner's rust proof corsets is justified by the standard of the make. There is no make that stands higher, and we doubt if there is one that stands so high. Every pair of the corsets is first quality. If you are not familiar with them, give us an opportunity to demonstrate to you their several excellent points. You will then see why our confidence is so unlimited. We carry all the necessary models for fitting any and all types of forms. No small factor in the comfort of these corsets are the Security rubber button hose supporters—there is no better supporter, and we doubt if there is one so good.—Warner's, Albany.

The new corset store. This beautiful department upstairs has opened in a most satisfactory manner. We now have unlimited room and the softest daylight to show the many handsome lines. Expecting women who require certain defined lines in their corsets are absolutely assured of satisfactory selections in the new corset room upstairs.—Field, Schlick & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

La Vida Corsets. You can get a La Vida Corset in an ultra shape or shape not ultra, but thoroughly fashionable in a variety of styles, varying in price from $3.00 to $8.00 a pair. These corsets are fitted free of charge by our experienced corsetiere, Miss Forster, who has a practical knowledge of corsets that enables her to judge each corset style and the kind of figure to which it is exactly suited. Alterations are made right in our own corset department, thereby insuring a prompt delivery of goods. Make an appointment to be fitted at your home or in our corset-fitting room.—Miller & Swartz Co., Trenton, N. J.

Is an excellent model for well developed figures. Its closely stitched front subdues abdominal prominence and rounds the figure into graceful lines. Made of white imported coutil. Trimmed across top with lace and ribbon. Hose supporters at front and hips.—Weingarten Bros., N. Y. City.

Women who invariably pay the above sum for their corsets and have been waiting for certain styles and sizes to come in can now be suited the first time they come down town. The new Royal Worcester styles are here in force, long hip and low bust, long hip and straight front, short hip and high bust. The most complete showing of corsets in the city.—C. Cohn, San Bernardino, Cal.

Special attention is directed to a number of new models in corsets—the Lily of France, the Sapphire, the Parame. Exclusive effects in coutils, plain and fancy; batiste, plain and embroidered; rich silks, beautiful satins, fancy broche, etc., especially designed to meet every requirement of the season's fashions.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

G. D. Justrite corsets in one of the most popular styles of the day; absolutely perfect fitting to figures it is suited for; made of batiste, in medium low bust, long over hips; supporters attached to front and sides.—Whitehouse Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

Some concerns contend that we lose money on every pair of Nadia corsets we sell; on the contrary, we get a small profit, not large, of course, because no other corsets have been sold for so little over actual worth of material and work. These corsets are made expressly for us by the best corsetieres in this country. It doesn't cost the manufacturer a cent to put them on the market, nor can any one dictate our prices.—Montgomery Fair, Montgomery, Ala.

A Diana corset. In order to more thoroughly introduce our world-renowned Diana corsets — the most graceful and symmetrically proportioned model of the twentieth century—of highest excellence, both in material and construction, we shall offer them during this sale at a special discount of 20 per cent.—E. E. Atkinson & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

The triumph of science, the success of years of experience, has finally been reached in our new Stevecco corset here illustrated. In this model every effort has been made not to provide the best for a predetermined price, but to produce the finest made and best designed corset for a well developed figure, the price the least consideration. The result is a corset that is the greatest creation of the age. This model reduces the hips and creates a long tapering waist line so necessary as an effective foundation for the ultra tailored gowns. Above the waist this corset is cut long but very roomy, forming a straight line at the top and boned at the sides of the bust with bias sections of whalebone, thus holding the bust forward, an almost universal need with all full figures.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago, Ill.

The Nemo Corset—Model for Stout Figures. This is the only corset that can preserve in stout figures the erect straight front without physical discomfort and consequent strain, distorting the shape of the corset. This effect is secured by the means of relief straps fastening in front, confining and bearing the weight of the abdomen. It's a comfort to wear them.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Most women could be an inch longer waisted and slimmer waisted if their corsets were right—were built to produce the desired effect, not only for the first week or so before the corset had been changed by the pressure of the figure, but to produce it to the last moment of wear. Only exactly the right corset can do that, and in every case.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Heath corset is the only radically new corset. It is the only corset in the world that improves the health by improving the figure. The cause is in the back. The effect is in the front. No matter how well you feel, it certainly is a comfort to feel better. No matter how well you look, it certainly is a pleasure to look better. The Heath corset will improve your figure, your comfort and your health. This can easily be proven by demonstration.—Virginia Bowie, Atlanta, Ga.

"Tapering Waist" R. & G. Corsets give the graceful tapering contour and the defined waist line demanded by the prevailing fashion. A style for every figure and every kind of dress. R. & G. Corsets wear as well as they fit and they fit to perfection.—Fred Lazarus, Lexington, Ky.

The new spring models are here in abundance and are shown in two different weights. Some in batiste — ideal for this season of the year. In this style we call special attention to our No. 2 model, which is made of the best all linen fabric, is of medium high bust style, has long hip and is equipped with two pairs of hose supporters and hooks in front to hold the skirt down. Price $1.00.—Gimbel Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

If you have been waiting for your size or style, come in the first time you're down town. The new Kabos are now here. Stocks now contain practically all sizes in every style. Expert fitters are always at your service.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

The New York expert corsetiere who, by special arrangement with the makers of the famous La Grecque models, is here to show and explain the very latest ideas in the corset art, and to fit you with a corset designed for your especial form. An opportunity that no progressive woman should miss. There will be no charge for consultation or fitting.—H. M. Vorhees & Bro., Trenton, N. J.

Fit and comfort guaranteed in Eaton corsets. Don't need to pay a fancy price to secure that perfect fit and comfort that every woman demands in a corset. Even our most moderately priced corsets possess it. Our corsetieres will help you to secure it.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

"Binner" corset. Well-dressed women must of necessity wear first-class corsets. Many find in the "Binner" the realization of their desires. It possesses the virtues that accentuate the elegance of the good figure, and imparts to the figures that are otherwise, a dignity, grace and ease foreign until its advent. We know that many women would become converts to the charms of the "Binner" were they to make a trip here to become personally acquainted with this wonderful corset. No time like the present to obtain this knowledge. Our special demonstration of the "Binner," in charge of an expert, is inviting to women who covet a good figure. This corset will help in gaining it, to which may be added comfort, style and durability. Appointments made for special fittings.—John G. Myers Co., Albany, N. Y.

Corsets that combine all comforting points. First of all, we seek to give comfort to all who come to our store. Just now we naturally give light, thin corsets a good deal of consideration. The sorts of corsets wanted for hot weather wear are here a-plenty. Starting with models that contribute much to the attainment of graceful figures and fine appearance of gowns, we have lightened the weight of several lines of corsets without lessening their strength in any part. These corsets are undeniably the best ever seen for keeping comfortable in on hot days.—Burke's, Rochester, N. Y.

Ladies live in corsets and what is life if you are not comfortable and happy? No lady can be comfortable, much less happy, in an ill-fitting corset. There are unshapely things called corsets, they look like corsets, but they don't fit as a corset should fit. We don't talk corsets for the pleasure of seeing our corset ad in the paper. We talk corsets because we have the kinds of corsets that back up and confirm every word we say about them. We could say it stronger but would rather let the corsets demonstrate the facts.—Bay City "Cash" Dry Goods Store, Bay City, Mich.

Speaking of corsets it's a well-known fact that the grace, ease, symmetry and well-rounded, erect form figure of the typical model-formed woman of to-day depends largely upon the improvements, both hygienically and artistically, in the styles of the modern corset. The female figure is gradually being allowed to assume the outlines and proportions represented by the Greek Goddess, Venus de Milo—the artist's ideal of female loveliness. The corset or girdle is made to fit the figure, not the figure to fit the corset. Just another step in the line of the present day "new thought" and in keeping with modern progress.—A. D. Baughman, Charlotte, Mich.

Something different. A new era for us in corsets. A corset that is made to fit any figure comfortably and give perfect ease of movement, and the right form to the figure; a corset that gives that becoming appearance so much desired and on which any shaped skirt hangs easily, naturally and gracefully.—McConnell & Co., Scranton, Pa.

"True grace, a gift from fairyland,
On earth with style walks hand in hand."

There is no article in a woman's wardrobe that gives here any more concern than the corset. Every woman who knows the bewitching charm of a perfect figure—and what woman does not—knows that the corset is the very foundation over which are fashioned the beautiful gowns for all occasions. If the corset is not made right then the gown will be a failure—then, Oh! dear, such a time.—J. W. Milliken, Traverse City, Mich.

The gowns for the spring and summer season demand corsets which fit the figure as perfectly and as smoothly as a glove does the hand. With our fitting rooms which assure the privacy of one's own home, our eminently skilled corsetieres and a collection of models without an equal, our facilities for providing an absolutely perfect, comfortable fit, and at the same time rounding out all the graceful curves and lines of the figure are not excelled elsewhere—not even in the great salons of Paris. These are a few of the very recent models.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Don't think that because we mention only high grade corsets that our stock consists entirely of them. There isn't a more comprehensive stock in the city. Prices as low or as high as you wish to pay—there's the best possible value at Jones' Dry Goods Co., Kansas City.

If they're not as good a dollar's worth as you have ever seen, then we're much mistaken. They have every earmark, every detail of finish and modeling that you'd expect in an A No. 1 dollar corset. It's the manufacturer's way of introducing his dollar corsets, to sell them at 59c. once in a while to show you how good they are.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

The correct figure for fashion requirements will be described and the proper Corsets for various types of form will be shown. Instructions given in the new method of lacing and putting on Corsets. Models used in practical demonstrations will be the Redfern.—Kaufman, Straus & Co., Lexington, Ky.

To-morrow we will present a series of the new models, each in a complete variety of styles. In the La Premiere Corsets, which are recognized as the highest expression of the corsetiere's art, you will find the newest Parisian ideas expressed.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Some of the corsets have been especially made for us to sell at these prices; others are in lines that we shall discontinue, and on which we have marked radical reductions.—Wanamaker, New York.

To obtain a certain kind of figure is the desire of the fashionably dressed. Which corset shall it be? Only the model that will shape the form into fashionable contour, without a shade of discomfort. We know the Kabo to be that corset.—Donaldson, Minneapolis, Minn.

Not because it is the special corset exploited by this store, but because it ranks first in quality of materials used (including boning, covering, laces and even the thread with which it is stitched) and in the shaping, which is both graceful and comfortable, we heartily commend the American Lady. They are specially noted for the great variety of models to be found among them—suitable to the various requirements of women who wish to look smaller; slight women who must have curves; average sized women whose good points should be accentuated. Taboo shapeless corsets—you'll find the well-fitting American Lady a boon after you have tried it—a rest, a support; an aid to a better figure. Made by one of the two best corset makers in America.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

We are glad to announce that Miss Worch, the expert corsetiere from New York, will remain here one week longer, and those who have not yet profited by the merits of her assistance in suggesting and fitting the proper Nemo model, still have this valuable opportunity. There is no mistake about the excellence of Nemo corsets. They accomplish more towards perfection and grace of form, give better results in comfort and wear, than any corset that is made in America. Daily experience is proof of the claim. Comparison of results justify it. The demonstration will thoroughly convince you. Come and be fitted in one of the series of models in the Figure-building or Self-reducing System, as your needs may require. There is a type for every figure, however stout or slender, and these corsets will do more than you have any idea they will, or than we can tell you. No other corsets have the same features, or the Nemo would not be so famous.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta.

Some new summer corsets made of the lightest silks, batistes and scrim, have just been received, and our patrons will find that we have given the same care and attention to details in the making of our inexpensive as well as our more expensive models. Consequently the many patrons of our high-class models who require a greater number of corsets for summer wear and desire a more medium priced one can now secure same in the less expensive materials that are as near the original models as machine work can duplicate hand work.—Mannheimer Bros., St. Paul, Minn.

Miss Williams, the special corsetiere of New York, who has been with us the past few days, consents to remain another week for the express purpose of introducing our "La Marguerite" and "Kabo" corsets. We thought it advantageous at this time when you were having new spring and summer gowns, and urge you to embrace the opportunity. It will give Miss Williams pleasure to show you these corsets, even though you are not intending at present to purchase.—Wm. J. Baucus Co., Birmingham, N. Y.

Corsets that are right. Right in style, right in quality, right in finish and right in price. Don't blame your dressmaker if she can't make a gown to fit over an ill-shaped corset. We have corsets adapted to every form and figure.—Haines Bros., El Dorado, Kan.

For several years we have been the exclusive headquarters in Boston for these famous corsets, which are high in the people's favor for excellent and sufficient reasons. They are made of imported cloths out of which the stretch has been taken. They are filled with lively whalebone, which renders them always well fitting as when first adjusted to the figure. The models are very numerous and in great variety, assuring to each wearer the precisely proper shape for her figure. La Vidas are hand built, and, while in all respects equal to the Parisian makes, are considerably more reasonable in cost, as there is no duty to be paid upon them.—Shepard Norwell Co., Boston, Mass.

Short corset talk. Pithy, but intelligent. Have you ever thought how much the corset has to do with the making or marring of a figure, and how difficult it is to make a wise selection from among so many models shown, to tone down an overfull figure, to correct deficiencies and aid you in becoming properly corseted? We employ an expert fitter, who is always in attendance at our corset department.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

These wonderful corsets give the wearers easy, graceful figures and help them to hold themselves erect, but they do it without requiring tight lacing.—Hudson Bay Stores, Vancouver, B. C.

In selecting your summer corset it is necessary to have an expert to fit you and not choose blindly. We employ experts who have made intelligent corset fitting a study, and carrying, as we do, the largest corset stock in Pittsburg, we can give you that "corset satisfaction" so necessary to all women of fashion.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

One dollar for best quality linen Batiste corset—the ideal material for summer wear, with maximum of strength combined with minimum of weight.—Gimbel Brothers, Milwaukee, Wis.

A summer corset is not good simply because it is cool—material counts for little if the shape and making are poor. However, it is not at all impossible to get both—a good model and cool material at a very moderate price.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

The correctly shaped corset contributes grace and charm to the figure and thus adds to the comfort and pleasure of the wearer. An indifferently made corset produces the contrary result and often impairs the health. Our corset department is stocked with every conceivable make of properly made corsets in the latest prevailing styles and all sizes. Just a hint of what we carry in this division of our great store.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

It's the corset that makes or mars the fit of the costume. A corset may be high grade as regards materials and yet lack that graceful and comfortable fit so necessary. We mention here two lines that we consider absolutely perfect—that represent the highest achievement of corset making to date.—Robert Wright & Co., Brockville, Ont.

Two ways of looking at the corset question in summer: A good many women buy cheap corsets, especially young women, because of the exercise and heat spoiling them almost at once. Others believe that good corsets pay better because they can be washed and done over. For those who prefer to buy fresh corsets often we have:—Shipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

When a corset feels like a well-fitting glove you may feel assured that something is being attained in the way of figure result. Just this feeling is sensed from Warner's Rust-proof Model 488. A summer corset of batiste, a reliable fabric which resists the strain, fitting smoothly and beautifully, shaping the form into the up-to-date figure style.—Golden Rule Bazaar, Crookston, Minn.

Summer corsets.—One might as well think of wearing furs in summer as the regular heavy corset. Let us fit you in a cool net or batiste corset that gives as perfect form as a heavier corset and is absolutely comfortable.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr, Rochester, N. Y.

Corsets never played so important a part in dress as now. Time was when almost any kind was tolerated, but now there is nothing that woman is so particular about. This store foresaw that and now can satisfy corset wants with greater exactness than any other store in the two cities.—Goodfellow's, Minneapolis, Minn.

A chat about corsets. There is no such thing as a well-fitting dress and a poor fitting corset combined on the same figure; for the lines of one must conform to the requirements of the other. We use the greatest care in selecting our models of corsets and of all popular brands.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles.

Fashion's best models. "Her ladyship" corsets are the smartest models known to the corset manufacturers' art. There never has been made another corset that has achieved such universal favor throughout the style centers of the world.—Bergner's, Peoria, Ill.

Corsets, 50c up.—We've built up a reputation on our corsets. Every woman who has tried them spreads the good news to her friends and neighbors. You will be perfectly delighted to see how splendid they are for the money. The chances are if we don't mention the price you would never dare hope that such corsets could be bought for anything like the money.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

The new lines of corsets are fast filling up the shelves. And one marvels at the many new beauties. Handsomely embroidered, finished with lace and ribbon and dainty girdles in different delicate shades, all too pretty to hide away as undergarments, almost. Corsets are fitted and altered, if need be, of course. Corset waists are now very nearly as much worn as corsets; beauties are here.—Walker, D. G. Co., Salt Lake City.

Low cut and low price and happily united on the Coronet Gored Corset. It is without equal among low-priced corsets. Excellent material and the best workmanship enter into it. It will please the woman of limited means who has been paying more for corsets not as good or the same money for inferior ones. Examine its merits and you will seek no farther, if you want the best value for your dollar.—The Ontario Store, Grand Forks, N. D.

La crecque corset gives the chic, erect figure with an easy air of style, impossible in the ordinary corset.—Van Orden, New York.

Women who wear Thomson's corsets cannot easily be persuaded to change. The merits of these veteran models make life-long friends.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

No woman with a desire for distinctive, artistic effect in dress can succeed without first securing a corset suited to her figure. Women of fashion have learned that the style and fit of their garments have more to do with successful effect than the mere costliness of material; in fact, a woman may be dressed with the severest simplicity, with the slightest expense, and yet be stylishly gowned if she wear the correct corset.—Mehler Bros., New York.

Imported from Paris, made entirely by hand, filled throughout with finest whalebone, bias cut and gored at every essential point, so designed as to be the embodiment of comfort and yet to impart the graceful, tapering lines that this season's fashions demand—so well constructed that they cleave to the form as though molded to it, sufficiently resilient to permit the utmost freedom of movement—in fact, they are so yielding that the wearer never feels the constraint of the ordinary corsets.—Kaufmann, Pittsburg, Pa.

The very highest type of American made corsets is placed before the women of New York to-morrow in the widest variety of designs and styles ever shown in any American store. No other corsets are so thoroughly adapted to the varied requirements of different figures, nor so thoroughly satisfying to the individual taste.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

"The woman of fashion" intimates the good corset. She seems to have given her corset the attention that results in assisting the dressmaker to make all possible out of her form, and the outlines suggest corset perfection for her figure. There are Redfern Models to suit all kinds of forms, and they will all give the stylish contour if the proper corset is selected.—The Higbee Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

A woman isn't limited a bit as to model when she's choosing it from our L. R. line of corsets. Here's an object lesson—the styles we have at one popular price, One Dollar.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

No guesswork, no reason to hesitate, for these are regular R. & G. corsets, with the firm name and trade mark stamped on every pair. They are cut bias, dip hip.—The 14th St. Store, New York City.

Do not make the mistake of wearing an ill-fitting, flimsy corset in the summer. If the Jessica you are wearing seems a bit heavy for hot weather, get one of lighter weight—we have a full assortment in dainty coutil or batiste.

The same matchless models that bring out every graceful line and are unequaled for comfort—the corset that "feels as though one had no corset on."—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Stock-taking told us we had too many corsets. There's just one remedy for such a condition, viz., take the lines we can spare and put a "take away" price on them. Here's your chance to secure an up-to-date corset for a half to a third the usual cost.—Simpson, Toronto.

The finest corset in every particular that may be obtained anywhere. They are made for us by the most skillful European corsetieres; designed and fitted on a scientific basis, in such a manner as to give the most artistic lines to the figure of the wearer, at the same time conserving health and comfort.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

This is the stylish corset which met with much favor when previously offered at this special price. These corsets are made for us by one of our best manufacturers, and we are able to have them on sale only at intervals, as they can be made.—Wanamaker, New York.

The Judic corsets are designed to supply the demand for high-class corsets at a moderate price, and at the same time fulfill all fashion's requirements in grace, beauty and harmony of contour. The next time you are in the store won't you please ask to see the Judic corset, both from a hygienic standpoint and as an adjunct to fashion beauty.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

That new suit or gown to fit well and appear to the best advantage must have a good foundation under it. The corset is the foundation on which a lady dresses. The best corset is La Vida. It is full gored, bias cut, full whaleboned throughout and made of the finest obtainable materials. There is a different style for each distinct type of figure. Therefore we can fit you perfectly without any alterations. A call will be not only interesting but beneficial to you.—Spokane Cloak & Suit Co., Spokane, Wash.

The highest skill and knowledge in corset making find expression here in some of our exclusive makes. Paris experts designed them, and the best skill of Europe and America carried out the plans—resulting in what is manifest to every woman who knows what a shapely, graceful, easy, well-fitting corset is.—Manheimer Bros., Saint Paul, Minn.

This store is Philadelphia's headquarters for Nemo corsets. The newest Nemo models are always seen here first—and they're always worth seeing, for every Nemo presents some patented device or special feature of much novelty and practical value. We like to sell Nemo corsets, because they are always up-to-date in style and give satisfaction in fit and wear.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

The art of corset-making is to-day an "exact science." Corsets are better and wear longer than ever before. Who hears of a steel breaking now-a-days! Corsets are made to fit; no strain—if you choose the right model.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Many new models are being introduced both in the cheaper and better grades which we would be pleased to show you at any time.—John Taylor, Kansas City, Ky.

Absolute freedom in every pose the wearer may assume, and perfect harmony with fashion's latest decrees, are most successfully attained in the fitting of every figure by our corsetieres.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

American women like their French sisters, have come to realize that the corset is the foundation of good dressing and good carriage. Time was when gowns were toned and boned to do the work that we now demand from our properly fitted and properly adjusted corsets. With the introduction of the new fall modes the necessity of finding some method by which greater trimness of effect increases and we have several new models, which we think excellent for the purpose. They are slightly higher in the bust and closer under the arms and cut so as to give a much smaller waist effect and yet be thoroughly comfortable.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Latest models in Parisian corsets.—French corsets are par excellence. There is that certain something that distinguishes them from any other. The styles, the shapes, the finish and general appearance have that air of refinement and exclusiveness that is characteristic of the French, and of which the French only are masters. The latest French ideas are depicted in our exclusive models of the Lily of France, the Parame and the Sapphire, which are shown in coutils, plain and fancy; batiste, plain and embroidered; rich silk, beautiful satins, fancy broche, etc.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

There are hardly any two figures alike—and no two shapes of corsets that are precisely the same. Numerous shapes are necessary to perfectly fit the different variations of figures. You cannot make yourself fit a corset. There's a model shaped according to your lines. Get that shape. The models we carry in stock are not experiments, but are makes that have given perfect satisfaction for years, and are always to be found in complete assortments on our shelves.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

Every point essential to a perfect figure is included in the R. & G. Summer models. Such a dainty handling of summer materials and such a perfect modeling and staying makes the R. & G. essential to a perfect fitting summer gown. Cool, gauzy creations in individual designs to meet the needs of every figure. They give the slender hips and graceful waist lines so necessary to the present style in gowns.—Kaufman, Straus & Co., Lexington, Ky.

Wright bust forms fill out the slender figure with naturalness and grace. They round out the angles, are comfortable and durable. These and more advantages will be demonstrated by Madame Wright in our corset department. This is her last week in Newark.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

These very timely offerings make possible the getting of well-known, reliable makes of corsets just when your need is greatest—when a new corset is absolutely necessary before getting your fall costume. Fortunate purchasing brings you these two lots, and others which we have no room to mention, at prices decidedly below the regular.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

There is no article of woman's apparel that lends so much to her appearance as the corset. A good fitting corset that gives the figure a perfect fashion-contour is absolutely essential to a prepossessing form. Corset-making of today is a science and the innumerable shapes offered are calculated to remedy all defects in form and enable women to attain the symmetrical shape so essential to a stylish figure. It is necessary, however, to have an expert to fit you, and not choose your corset blindly. We employ experts who have made intelligent corset fitting a study for years, and carrying, as we do, one of the largest corset stocks in America, we can give you that "corset satisfaction" so necessary to all women of fashion. In the new 1905 styles we have all the new curves and contours, all of the new lengths from the shortest to the longest abdominal; also all the new standard and dress reform corsets and waists. We also show many exclusive styles and shapes that are not on sale elsewhere. Our prices are always lower than the lowest for the same quality elsewhere. In choosing your next corset let us show you how well we can fit you and how much we can save you on your purchase.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

It is a well known fact that a perfect gown starts with the corset—that must be right or the best efforts of the modiste will fall short of accomplishing the desired end. We study each individual form, and shape the corsets to meet the needs of a particular person, aiming to produce harmony and perfect lines, adding to or producing lines where necessary.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

There is no figure which cannot be fitted with a Royal Worcester or Bon Ton corset.—When a woman lives twelve hours a day in her corsets she should wear the best. Royal Worcester and Bon Ton corsets are pleasing to wear and permit perfect freedom of bodily action. The Bon Ton corset is the embodiment of excellence and comfort. It is modeled on the latest shape and made from the most serviceable fabrics.—Denholm & McKay Co., Worcester, Mass.

A corset convention.—Here's a list of corsets that will give women an idea of the standard lines of corsets we carry, besides our own exclusive lines, the "Lillian" and "L. R."

One model of each make is described—merely a delegate representing the full range of prices and styles.

It may serve as a hint that the Wanamaker corset store is a very satisfactory place to come for your particular brand of corsets.—Wanamaker, New York.

Some corset offerings.—Savings of one-quarter to one-third on excellent summer corsets in a variety of good, new models, are made very easy of attainment by these interesting offerings. Wide tape girdles; perfect fitting, supporters attached. Of delightfully cool summer net; low bust, dip hips. P. N. corsets of fine cool batiste, lightly boned. C. B. corsets, for medium figures, requiring short corsets; no side steels; defines the waist-line sharply, gives perfect freedom to hips and bust. W. B. corsets for the average figures; of light-weight batiste; straight-front, long hips. P. N. corsets, of summer net; long and short hips; moderately long from waist-line up; lace trimmed.—Wanamaker, New York.

A model that combines least weight with most strength. It is admirably adapted for either out-door sports or full-dress occasions; and gives perfect freedom to both hips and bust.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Tuesday we will have on sale some new and exclusive corset styles for the season of 1905. Some splendid new Lily of France models contain points of excellence we have been working on for months to perfect—one for a fleshy, long waisted figure, another new habit back, very long over the abdomen and hips. Prices range from $5 to $15. We will also introduce a new corset—the La Grecque, which will be marked at special prices for this introductory sale. One very popular for fleshy figures is made of the strongest imported double coutil, very long below the waist line with a very heavy, wide set of satin garters front and side, for only $5.—Mannheimer Bros., St. Paul, Minn.

The best of the inexpensive models is the "Marcel." The great clientele which has come to this corset store is due in great measure to the fact that we have the knack of selecting for each figure the corset which will give the most comfort and at the same time display the most graceful curves. The latest models give greater trimness to the figure; the very graceful curves being secured by the retention of the straight front.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Figures of every proportion can be perfectly fitted with corsets best adapted to them from the great numbers of specially priced models especially brought forward for this important sale. That the prices are special—lower than are made at any other time of the year—will be evident at a glance. The materials are of white coutil and silk batiste in white, blue and pink.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Do you dance? Then dance in comfort. No need to have your pleasure tempered with discomfort. La Premiere corsets are made elastic and, yet strong and durable enough to serve their purpose. They are made to fit your figure, of imported materials—whalebone throughout, and gored at every possible point. You need not hesitate relative to fitting.—Saks & Co., New York.

Corsets.—A woman should select her corset store as carefully as when choosing her dressmaker or the shop that supplies her gloves or shoes. Corset making is a science, and the store that knows the ins and outs of the making of corsets, that has back of its selection the knowledge of design, construction and style, is the store most deserving to be depended upon. The head of this branch of the business is an expert—has made corsets a life study. Not only the shape that best suits you, but all styles for all figures. Her experience is at your service.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo.

Corsets built for style and comfort.—If there is any one thing which spoils the effect of a good gown or a pretty waist it is an ill-fitting corset. Every woman appreciates this, but every woman cannot wear the same style corset. There is a make of corset which comes nearer to perfection in fitting the human form and yet embodies all the newness of style more than any other, and that is the "Royal Regent," for which we are exclusive agents in Los Angeles. We also carry complete lines of several other popular corsets, among them the most favored of which is the well-known brand, "C. P." So before getting your new waist or dress buy a pair of these corsets and have the new garments fitted over them, and you will have no adverse criticism to make.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

The smart corset for slender women.—Usual corsets provide shapeliness for all figures except the woman of slight proportions. All sorts of figure aids had to be resorted to in order to wear dresses of stylish lines. That was before the introduction of the Wright bust form. The name is deceptive, as the "bust form" is really a complete corset that gives continuous lines from shoulder to bust, giving the long slope from neck, with graceful curve over the bust, and continuing with the most correct straight front. The Wright bust form will do for the figure what no other corset can do; and what the dress-makers cannot do. It will also enable you to buy a stylish ready-made suit, without requiring alterations. And it is the most comfortable of all corsets.—Wanamaker's, New York.

These excellent corsets are made especially for us, over models of our own selection. They represent the most popular and more approved styles of the season, and the corset-making is of the very highest character.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

This store has been recognized as Philadelphia headquarters for the famous "R. & G." corsets for more than a quarter of a century. Always a full line of "R. & G." models here—the very latest and best. Plenty of all sizes in every style—not merely occasionally, but all the year 'round. And that's as it should be; for the "R. & G." corset is one of the very best produced in this country (thousands of women think it is the best), and it's quite natural that it should be fully represented at all times in Philadelphia's foremost corset store.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Successful costuming is impossible without a proper fitting. This important feature receives every attention it deserves at Gerretson's. No matter what price be paid, all corsets are fitted in a perfect manner by corsetieres fully experienced and qualified to understand your every individual corset need. Corsets $1.00 to $16.00.—Gerretson Silk Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Good corsets, low priced.—These good and good-looking corsets, in stylish, comfortable models, offer the happy combination of quality with economy.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

These excellent corsets have many virtues that appeal to careful women. First of all, they are correct in shape and style, splendidly made of good, honest materials; and the merit of being rust-proof is a distinct advantage during the warm weather, and adds much to the life and good looks of the corset.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

The maximum of corset beauty. Our imported Lillian corsets represent the very highest effort of the foremost corsetiere of the world. They are made of the finest and most beautiful materials. The corsets are designed in the most shapely and graceful models that French skill and ingenuity have contrived; yet Lillian corsets are as comfortable as they are shapely. Here are descriptions of three beautiful models: At $4—A well-proportioned, graceful model, straight-front, designed for the average figures, made of firm French coutil, supporters front and sides. At $8—Straight-front model for the average long-waist figure, made of fine French coutil, high bust and dip hips. At $12.50—Beautiful model, made of handsome brocade, for stout figures, widely popular for its comfortable qualities, heavily stayed and beautifully finished.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

The scientific fitting of corsets, a specialty in which we excel. In the current fashions the absolute correctness of the corset is more than ever of vital importance. Its lines either make or mar the beauty of the smartly modeled gown. Our skilled corsetieres have made a close and careful study of the individual requirements of different figures and with this very thorough knowledge, together with the large varieties of all the different styles, they are enabled to fit perfectly figures of every proportion. This is done in less time, at less expense, and, as a rule, far more satisfactorily than in corsets made to order.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

New corsets from Paris. If you want to see all those charming new models that the Parisian corsetieres have evolved to give grace and style to woman's figure this season, visit our corset salon.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Corset news. Half and less than half regular prices (Main aisle and second floor). Not old-fashioned shapes nor corsets that have been mused and handled; but all fresh and clean; nearly all the bias-gored straight-front models women are wearing, and all from the best-known makers.—Wanamaker's, New York.

We show exclusive corset models that meet the latest demands of fashion, among which are some of the most exquisite models in design and construction that we have ever shown. The latest ideas in waist line, bust and hip contour, are shown in our Fasso, Lily of France and La Vida, at from $4.00 to $20.00. Interesting are our Lillian models, as they have gained widespread popularity, for their absolute perfection in fit, materials and workmanship.—Mannheimer Bros., St. Paul, Minn.

The air of distinction that comes to a woman wearing a Redfern model is to be envied. In the initial step—that is, the adoption of a corset of the new fashion—it is wise to be fitted scientifically. We have a special fitter who will thoughtfully corset you, accentuating the good points and concealing the defects of your form as only the eye and the knowledge of an expert can. Redfern corset style is as exclusive as Forsythe's waist and suit style.—John Forsythe, New York.

In Lyra corsets, the highest point of corset excellence is reached. It is doubtful if there is another corset made that gives more charm and grace to the figure. The beautiful lines are the result of years of study by the leading corset designers of Paris. The materials used are the very best—adopted after severe tests. The variety permits of a selection suitable for any climate, of sufficient textile strength to be satisfactory in regard to wearing qualities, even to those women who are hardest on corsets.—Field, Schlick & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

A perfectly fitting corset gives an air of distinction to the costume and is a world of comfort to the wearer. In one of the Riverside windows is a special display of pretty new models of Kabo, Sapphire and Bon Ton corsets, each of which is designed with a view to fitting perfectly some particular form. Here are also shown all those numerous and indispensable accessories that are a part of the feminine wardrobe. Expert corset fitters are in charge of this department, and will take pains to see that you are correctly fitted with the corset best adapted to your figure.—The Crescent Store, Spokane, Wash.

Here is a make of corsets—"The Melrose"—which we import. The particular woman will welcome them, for many of the little niceties of shaping and finishing which escape busy American manufacturers, mark them and make them almost ideal.—Journey & Burnham, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Corsets. We fit the form.—The distinguishing feature in this corset is the fact that there are corsets to fit every figure comfortably and properly. Nobody to urge you to take any risks of discomfort or poor figure, for our expert will fit you correctly for the asking.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma.

We are able to sell them at these low prices by special arrangements with the makers. You'll see in the list a good many brands you know—and can have confidence in all of them.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

In these days a properly corseted woman is almost obliged to stand erect and well poised, with her lungs in a position to take in all the good fresh air there is.

This does not mean a tight corset, nor one that is uncomfortable—but simply the right model and the right lines.

Makers have put these ideas into summer corsets of net and batiste as well as into other kinds.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

These superb imported corsets are made in so many different models, and at such wide range of prices, that they meet every wish of the well-dressed woman, for every day wear, as well as to give form and character to the most important gowns.—Wanamaker, New York.

For bathing, for golfing, for general wear. Have an extra inexpensive pair for hot weather. Batiste, for fabric because of its daintiness and light weight. La Markette corsets have most of the good qualities of shape and make of the higher priced corsets.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

New corset models. We are catering to the trade of women who invariably experience difficulty in getting a suitable corset as well as the women who are more easily pleased. The handsome new models in Kabo, C. B., a la Spirite and Thompson's Glove Fitting possess features which lend themselves readily and gracefully to practically all figures. A complete range of sizes in every style of merit. Materials are imported batiste and coutil.—The New York Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

Corsets. The foundation of good dress, a homely yet true saying, begins with the corset. To ignore the corset is to run the risk of dissatisfaction with the dresses. There should not be any discomfort, and would not be if the corsets were given the attention that they are entitled to. Make sure you will not be troubled this year. We have corsets for every type of form. It makes no difference what the size, or shape, we have a style for every woman. Many of the corsets are imported, others are domestic makes, the world's best, and for several we are the sole representatives in this section of the State. The list includes all of the popular brands.—J. G. Myers Co., Albany, N. Y.

The right corset makes all the difference. This year's style features—the flounced skirts, ruffled sleeves and floating sashes seem to have been devised for the lissome, long-waisted woman. The stout woman thinks how pretty they are—and sighs hopelessly. Suppose she is told about a corset that will add two good inches to the length of her waist and at the same time make it more slender and give her the long, sloping hip line. There is just such a corset here for every short-waisted woman, but not the same corset by any means. There are scores of corsets and hundreds of models, and every model is built to produce the desired lines of trimness, slender waistedness, long hip and rounded bust on some special type of figure that needs help to be just right. The overstout woman is taken care of, the overthin woman, too—the woman who needs softening lines and a corset that will make the most of curves and hide angles. Let us help you wear sashes—or any other feature of summer finery that needs grace and trimness and good carriage to make it successful. Every good American corset is carried in stock and two French corsets that are unequaled in the world in beauty and style. Our fitters can tell which models will best suit your need. Prices, $1 and up.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Quite the Thing—"That's a queer design you have in the corner of your billheads," said Slopay.

"It's merely a little flower," replied the tailor.

"Think that's appropriate?"

"Well, yes; it's a forget-me-not."—Philadelphia Press.

Credit makes the buying easy, for it breaks up the payments into convenient amounts—arranged to suit your income. Our prices are marked in plain figures, and are as low as the lowest cash prices elsewhere.—Peter Grogan, Washington, D. C.

You have the real thing when you get our easiest-on-earth credit. Your name once on our books means this is your home. You can get anything you need here in home furnishings and your name good on our books for a lifetime. Your best interests are served here, for we give you the square treatment that will bring you back.—People's Credit Co., Rochester, N. Y.

It's Brent's.—In so many, many ways Brent's can best help you. Firstly, the Brent credit system is easiest of all. A man can buy more furniture with less money at Brent's and take longer to pay for it. Secondly, at Brent's one finds the biggest variety to select from. The average credit house could be tucked away in one corner of the big Brent building—that's not said boastfully, but to give an idea of what a great place the great credit house is.—Brent's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Forethoughtful people will buy for all needs, for these prices on credit are lower than anybody's cash prices.—W. H. Keech Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Don't be held up by serfdom of old credit giving ways. Come here. We charge you right and trust you. We do not charge extra prices. Just make your selection and tell the salesman to charge it.—Union Credit House, Fall River.

Under our easiest in the world credit system you can have as nice a home as the rich and well-to-do. The people are "growing wiser as they grow older," and most everybody furnishes their home on this up-to-date plan. It's only a question of getting the best prices, best terms, best values and best treatment, and people who are posted, their tracks lead to The People's Credit Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Credit is free! What does that mean? Simply that you can furnish your entire house with every convenience for a few dollars. It means that if there is anything lacking in your home—whether in parlor, dining-room, bedroom or kitchen—you can get it now and have the pleasure of using it while you are paying for it at your own convenience. We make our terms delightfully easy and no matter how small your earnings we will make the terms to suit your income.—The Weeks Furniture Co., Woonsocket.

Special offer to the young folks. Those who contemplate matrimony don't need much beyond the cost of the license, if they trust the furnishing of the home to us.—St. Louis House Furnishing Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Better than a bank book. Our credit-book represents the money you pay on a well-furnished home. While you are paying for it in the smallest amounts and on the easiest terms you enjoy all the solid comfort and pleasure of a beautiful home. A bank-book represents the money you are letting some one else use for their own benefit while you get only a paltry 3 per cent. interest. Which is better, our credit-book or bank-book?—Straus', Baltimore, Md.

Our liberal credit system bridges the chasm between your desire to buy and your inability to pay spot cash at time of purchase. Hundreds of happy families have used this bridge in the course of our twelve months' business existence. It's open to all. Pick out whatever you need to comfortably furnish your home, pay a mere trifle down and the balance in little weekly or monthly installments as best suits you. No interest. No notes. No extra charges above our plainly marked prices.—Du Bois & Davidson, Los Angeles, Cal.

Long credit does away with the necessity of "getting along" with meager furnishings—it furnishes the new home with artistic beauty at once.—Cowperthwait Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We have many wealthy customers. Don't think for an instant that a credit trade is all cheap trade. We sell to some of the wealthiest people in Cleveland. Some of them pay cash and some buy on credit. They have found out that the goods we sell are thoroughly reliable, and that our credit prices are no higher than at any cash store.—Brown Bros., Cleveland, Ohio.

Credit clothiers to men, women and children. No money needed. Did you say money, or was it said by someone else? You must have heard it somewhere. Don't let it trouble you, but take advantage of this offer. Open an account without deposit, pay the balance at 50 cents, 75 cents, and $1 a week, depending on the amount purchased; Your money is well invested when dealing with us. Our prices are very low and quality compares with the best and largest cash houses. The public never know your business when dealing with us. Open accounts without publicity.—Michaels Bros., Newark, N. J.

Pay us every week as you earn it.—The Weeks Furniture Co., Woonsocket.

We sell lower on time than others do for cash.—Du Bois & Davidson, Los Angeles, Cal.

Don't let an empty pocketbook and hot weather make life a burden. Get one of our high-grade refrigerators, and pay for it as you pay for your ice.—Mason's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Easy pay system. Half a minute of your time is all we require to convince you that our credit system is perfect. You can buy twenty-five dollars' worth of furniture here for five dollars down and one dollar a week.—Flint & Barker, Fall River, Mass.

Whether married or single this is the store for you. You can buy your house-furnishings here on terms of payment that are entirely congenial. Just remember that your credit is good at Spears's. And prices are guaranteed to be lowest. Nuf ced.—Spears's, New York.

Credit free as water. We trust everyone. Clothing to fit the purse as well as the person. Fifty cents to $1.00 weekly will dress you as well as your neighbor and no one will be the wiser as to how you purchased. Our business is conducted in a confidential manner—our place of business is very retired.—Union Credit Clothing Company, Rochester, N. Y.

Credit to all who want credit. You'll not need the cash to buy now. Don't wait till you get the money to pay for a suit or overcoat. It's time to have it now, and you may save yourself a sick spell and a doctor's bill. We'll trust you and give you as good values as you can get anywhere—even though you should pay spot cash. Our lines of ladies' tailor-made suits and wraps on same terms—a little down and a little at a time—as may suit your convenience. Outfits for the children, too. Come see our goods and learn our simple, dignified credit plan. Goods, prices and terms will please and surprise you. Your credit is good.—"The Surprise," Lexington, Ky.

Owing to the fact that spring is a very expensive season, on account of moving and one thing and another, we are prepared to sell and fit up gas and electric fixtures (provided order is placed early) on a credit basis, that will appeal most satisfactory to all that wish to take advantage of it.—H. R. Richey Co., Montreal, Can.

We sell on credit at cash prices. A small payment down and balance you can pay in small weekly installments. Your friends buy their clothes on credit; why shouldn't you? This store bids you welcome and offers you the same opportunity as enjoyed by the wealthy class who receive credit from the large cash and department stores.—The Mc-Clain Credit Clothing Co., Zanesville.

Start the new year right. If you want to consider your personal appearance and your pocketbook make a mental note to think of the Capitol Clothing Store. Our name on any article is a guarantee of which we are proud and that you can surely depend upon. Twenty-nine years doing business on the same corner on the square means a great deal to us and something to you. We aim to do bigger and better things and want your personal co-operation—credit is not cheap here, but we are always anxious to have good people on our books.—Capitol Clothing Store, Montgomery.

Liberal credit given at the Wilson Furniture Co. The store where value and low prices go hand in hand. If you will compare some of our values here shown and note the price you will not hesitate in calling upon us for your future wants.—Wilson Furniture Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Long credit is an open charge account, which enables you to place "rush" orders during bargain time.—Cowperthwait Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Make your home cosy on credit. Fall is here, and it is time you began brightening up your house.—Peter Grogan, Washington, D. C.

Credit here not to a favored few but to you.—Household Furnishing Co., New Bedford, Mass.

We will credit you. Your credit is good here. Our plan: A few dollars down, then pay a dollar a week. You wear the clothes and pay for them on your terms. We trust the people. The people trust us.—The National, Springfield, Ohio.

Our clothing-on-credit plan. Our kind of clothing is not the ordinary sort. When we say ordinary we mean the kind of clothing you see in nine out of ten stores. For instance, you can buy a suit for $12, $15, $18, in any clothing house. Common price, you'll say. Yes, you're right! Every clothier sells men's suits at these prices. But, if you come in for a look at our fall or winter suits at these prices you'll see suits that you have never equaled for the money. That's the point. And you can open an account with us and pay us off a little every week, semi-weekly or monthly, until the account is paid.—Moss Bros., Hartford, Conn.

The big value of free credit. The Schreiber idea of part-payment credit is spreading to broader channels. You can pick up newspapers of this city almost daily and see glaring advertisements of representative dry goods establishments offering various propositions on their charge account basis. When this concern first exploited its ideas and set out to accomplish its purpose of credit accommodation we were alone in our fight. To-day, as we have already demonstrated, the very concerns that decried the part-payment idea find themselves adopting our self-same plans. You can certainly feel honored (if we may be allowed to use the word) to have your name registered on our books for a charge account, and it doesn't require anything more than an honest name to get it there. We care nothing for your rating, nothing for the size of your bank roll—everything is in your moral standing. Our offer interests every man and woman in Hartford and vicinity. You have the advantage of charging whatever you buy and paying off the bill in weekly or monthly payments, as you prefer. It's all so easy. Just say to the salesperson: "Charge it."—Schreiber's, Hartford Conn.

Pay as you can, but do not pay excessive prices just because you buy on credit. That is an unfair tax on the wage earner's pocket. For thirty years we have endeavored to lift the credit business out of the old rut so offensive to deserving people and so unfair in its price. The volume of our business done through thirty-one stores, under one management and unusually light expense, enables us to sell you high grade clothing at practically cash prices. Our customers stick to us year after year because they are pleased. We have few losses. Therefore we can afford to get along with smaller margins of profit. If this claim does not seem reasonable to you—come and see for yourself.—C. F. Adams Co., Saginaw, Mich.

Three kinds of credit open to those who lack the ready cash. First—there is the 30, 60 or 90-day credit of the "cash" store—at the end of the term of credit you are just as much in the hole as you were when you secured this favor (?). Second—the obsolete installment plan, based on extremely high prices for inferior goods, and, thirdly—the Krieger Co.'s cash or credit plan. You open an account with us when you make your purchase. Charge it up and pay in small weekly payments of $1.00. Week by week your account grows smaller. You are not asked to sacrifice quality, style or value; you are not asked to pay a higher price than other stores ask for the same goods. You pay one dollar per week and wear the goods while paying for them.—Krieger & Co., South Norwalk.

We make it easy for young folks to begin housekeeping. You can well afford to open an account with us and make your home comfortable and pay for it as you like. Our private credit system and long experience in fitting up homes is at your command. We've made almost a life study of it. We can furnish you not only with good advice as to what to buy, but how to keep down the cost in the furnishing of a single room or a whole house—cash or credit.—Metropolitan House Furnishing Co., Montreal, Can.

Is your cash busy? Our system of credit is free from all annoyances.—John Bruener, San Francisco, Cal.

There is justice in our system of credit and that is the reason why so many women prefer to buy here. There are hundreds who do not yet understand our plan. It is very simple in operation. An article is ordered and you have us make a charge of it. Then the account is paid in time, one, two or three months. No high prices are charged to cover the possible losses incidental to the system. We take care of the collections and very few accounts are lost. It's an established success and we want you to try it.—Gately & Brennan, New Haven.

Clothing on credit. All members of the family may have their wants supplied here on one account if desired. Millinery, shoes, dresses for the ladies, and hats, clothing and shoes for the men. We guarantee that any clothing we sell you will give satisfaction, as we handle nothing but well-made, durable goods. No money down and easy-payment system. Open an account now and pay later.—Gately & Brennan, New Haven.

To the country trade.—A personal inspection of our store and prices will convince you that you can do better here than elsewhere. We don't need to write an essay on the value of our goods; give them a chance—they will talk for themselves. The financial ability of our customers we don't have to consider—the rich, the poor—the capitalist and the wage earner are all on the same footing with us; all treated alike with the same courtesy and consideration. Our prices and terms are alike to all. Our credit system is founded on the inherent honesty of mankind. We furnish homes, flats, hotels, and rooming houses, and extend our little-at-a-time paying plan to our country patrons as well as in this city.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento.

Furnish your home without cash.—Never let money matters stand between your family and a comfortable pretty home. No salary is so small, no income so big but what the great credit house can help you. So many of the nice homes you envy were bought in just this way. Brent's helps you in a dozen ways—the low prices, the easy payment system, the splendid new styles of all the Brent furniture, carpets, etc. And don't forget that Brent's is the great complete house furnishers, everything from the kitchen to the chamber. Your neighbor will advise against taking chances. At Brent's you are safe. Let's have a chat about it.—Brent's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Credit is free.—What does that mean? Simply that you can furnish your entire house with every convenience for a few dollars. It means that if there is anything lacking in your home—whether in parlor, dining-room or kitchen—you can get it now and have the pleasure of using it while you are paying for it at your own convenience. We make our terms delightfully easy and no matter how small your earnings we will make the terms to suit your income.—Peoria House Furnishing Store, Peoria, Ill.

Your word is your cash.—Come to us with an honest name and it's good on our books for any amount you request. You can live in a tenement or a mansion grand and it's all the same to us. One person's dollar is as good as another's here, and every purchaser on one equality. The Hecht credit privilege is free—absolutely and emphatically true. You pay just to the penny whether you settle cash with purchase or part accounts at your leisure. The fact that thousands after thousands of New York men and women in all walks of life are daily profiting by our offer argues rightly for us.—Hecht Bros., New York.

Half the time.—You can accomplish any house furnishing task in just about half the time that it takes to save and accumulate enough money for the purpose by buying on our little-at-a-time credit plan. Of course, we'll deliver the goods the minute the contract is made—and you can enjoy their use all the time that you are earning and saving—and paying in little easy parts. But what we mean is that the little-at-a-time way beats the other way of saving the price just in the matter of the time and effort it takes. Little-at-a-time way gives a definite object to work for, and you don't lose any time in accomplishing it. Other way you have only a good purpose—more or less determined, according to your ability to hold to a purpose. Either way—you can deal at this store to your best advantage.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

Why shouldn't "your" home be well furnished? Did you suppose our credit talk was intended for other people—people who have, perhaps, a little more ready cash than you? Indeed, no. It's your own home we're thinking of, how pretty and comfortable it could be made. How easily you might give yourself and family the enjoyment of nice furniture and pleasant surroundings. Brent's Great Credit House will prove how you can secure and own such a home as every honest American should have. No credit house has the strength of Brent's. It makes no difference how little you have, how little you earn, this great house is willing to help you. You'll enjoy a little call at the store—so will we. Brent's never urges a sale. Plenty of time to tell you all about the credit system that has done so much for thousands of families.—Brent's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Your flat furnished for $80; parlor, bedroom, dining-room and kitchen all furnished complete with everything. This offer has set all Chicago talking—the offer that has already been taken advantage of by thousands of families in this city. Terms $8 down, $5 a month.—People's Outfitting Co., Chicago, Ill.

Credit makes it easy for you to dress well and fashionably. You need not limit your purchase to the amount of your ready cash, for you can buy as much as you want on credit and pay it off in small, easy payments.—T. Kelly, New York.

Credit is one of the features of the popularity of our store. It matters not to us whether you be poor or not, if your intentions are honest, you can feel perfectly free to select anything you may want from our big stock and by paying a small deposit down, the goods will be promptly delivered to your home, and you pay the balance while you are using the goods.—The People's Furnishing Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

Whatever you want is yours, whatever you can spare from weekly or monthly earnings. That is our little-at-a-time paying proposition, adjustable to any amount of buying you wish to do—little or much, anything or everything—to make your home comfortable and pretty and attractive. No interest—no extra charges—no publicity—no annoying inquiries among employees or friends—nothing to spoil the offer for you.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

Buy what you need, pay when you can. There are times when nearly every family feels the need of ready money. You need not deny yourself a comfortable home, no matter how little you have. Many a man has gathered the courage necessary to make a success by reason of a pleasant home wherein he could enjoy perfect happiness during his leisure hours. That sort of home is the kind Brent's will furnish for you. Pay for it by the Brent system, which is the original credit system of Los Angeles, and the only one which has enabled thousands of families to secure a home, no matter how small their means.—Brent's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Cash or credit, both are as good as wheat at this store. If you have the cash we are glad to see you. If you have not, you can come here and buy goods at as cheap a price as for cash, and we are equally glad to have your trade. We have all kinds of house furnishing goods, and if you are not in the financial condition to pay down, you can pay as you choose and thus get what you want in your house at any time. Just try our "little at a time" plan.—Peoria House Furnishing Store, Peoria, Ill.

Scrutinize the Halpert credit plan in every possible way; you'll be better pleased the closer you examine it. Not only the clothing we carry, but the price and our liberal plan of payment. A stock that is replete with sterling values commands the preference of the thrifty. Sterling values were never more strikingly manifest than now. The Halpert money saving methods are yours. Credit is yours for the asking here—it costs you nothing. You simply open an account with us, that's all. Easier to pay in dividend amounts— isn't it?—Halpert & Jacobs, Binghamton, N. Y.

Your credit is good. You've got pride in your home and why not have it furnished nicely. Get out the worn things and put in their places fresh and new furniture. We know the first things you will say, "that takes money"—so it does—but not cash money. If you buy here, you can be just as long paying for what you get as you find convenient. Our charge system steps in and carries the account until you close it with a final payment. All inducements to buy here—easiest terms—largest selections—honest treatment—smallest prices. We have helped many to comfortable, inviting homes—can't we help you?—Burns & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

"You can have it charged." The final week of the clean sweep sale.—Hecht's Greater Stores, Washington, D. C.

No money down. Give us a chance, gentlemen, to furnish you wearing apparel by our easy payment system and the knowledge and satisfaction gained by trading with us will make you a permanent customer.

Credit for all Washington. We are offering deeper discounts than ever and our terms of credit are easier than have ever been offered before for any furniture house in Washington. We are making great price concession.—Peter Grogan, Washington, D. C.

News to women. Cleverness, brightness, daintiness are characteristic features of the huge stock of women's garments in our women's department. You are a fortunate woman if you can find anywhere jackets that surpass ours—you will go a long way to see the skirt we can't match. If you want anything in the line of outer wear garments just come here. Come and investigate if you will—come without any thought of buying. Then, if you should decide to buy, you don't need money; cash cuts no ice here; credit is supreme.—Mentor, Rosenbloom & Co., Hartford, Conn.

The right kind of credit.—Credit that doesn't make you pay a penny more for a garment than a good cash store would ask is the right kind of credit.—Mentor, Rosenbloom & Co., Peoria, Ill.

Long credit gives immediate possession of all our bargains.—Couperthwait & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We trust the people. Credit is free. What does that mean? Simply that you can furnish your entire house with every convenience for a few dollars. You can get what you need now and have the use of it while you are paying for it. We make our terms delightfully easy, and no matter how small your earnings, we will make the terms to suit your income.—A. P. Curtis & Co., Great Falls, Mont.

Hundreds of homes will be brighter and cheerier and more comfortable, and many hearts will be gladdened because of this sale. Remember, this remarkable offer is made for a short time only. Unless you take advantage of it now it will be six long months before you will again have the opportunity to do so much with one dollar. Select any article you wish, pay one dollar down and have the goods delivered right away—furniture, carpets, household goods. Balance in weekly or monthly payments to suit. But don't delay. These Dollar sales occur but twice a year, and there won't be another one for six long months.—Spears & Co., New York, N. Y.

We do not indulge in extravagant representations, and when we advertise a thing everybody knows we've got it and will see it at the advertised price. This is the store where a dollar or two will do. Credit free to all.—Bing & Nathan, Buffalo, N. Y.

Beneficial credit. That's our kind—the kind that is helpful to every man, to every woman, to every family—credit that's liberal, convenient, honest. We recognize your right to credit, and we extend it to you without extra charge, without interest, without a particle of red tape. Say "charge it"; that's all, and you will have opened an account that will prove a positive benefit to you.—Menter, Rosenbloom & Co., Kansas City.

Our "don't worry" plan. There isn't a bit of worry connected with our credit plan. All the bad features of going into debt are carefully eliminated. There's nothing left to cause a worry. Little-at-a-time plan arranges for the paying when the contract is made—and its arrangements always take what's easiest for the buyer into full consideration. Never a worry is caused by debt when the paying is easy—and it's easy to buy—easy to pay—on our little-at-a-time terms—backed up, as it is here, by a store full of the best and newest goods to make home beautiful and comfortable, well selected, rightly priced and reliable in every value sense. These "don't worry" terms are free for all—for in-town homes or out-of-town homes.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

Never deny yourself a home—you need not. Ask your best neighbor about Brent's and she'll give you a better idea of the popular Brent credit plan than you'd gain from our advertisement. Besides, we like to have outside folks speak well of us. We would like you to see just how your own friends feel about this great credit house that has done so much for Los Angeles and its homes. If you have no money, we are just as ready to supply the furniture, carpets, stoves, draperies, etc., as though your bank book totaled a million. Why not visit the store and let us have a little chat about it, as so many other women do?—Brent's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Explanation of how we extend you credit.—Our confidential credit system is a very simple one, and may be explained in two words—confidence and good faith. Years of experience have taught us that an honest person is a safe person to do business with, and that, if the conditions are not difficult and burdensome, an honest person may be depended upon to fulfill them. We do not charge interest. We do not employ collectors. We don't compromise your standing with your employer by investigations. We don't require payment when you're out of a position or ill. There are no disagreeable features to buying here on payments, as, under the Weber system, the old-fashioned and objectionable features of the installment plan are done away with. We give you all the credit you want and all the time you want to pay.—Louis Weber & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Keep your money now. Come and be clothed in the top notch of fashion. Be dressed as well as your neighbor. Come to the only store that sells on credit at the same prices the cash stores do.—Mentor & Rosenbloom Co., Minneapolis.

The road to happiness. Spring clothing on credit.—Don't delay another day. When you buy on credit here you are not asking any favors at all—credit here is simply an accommodation which you are entitled to, and don't have to pay extra for. Why not come now and get your spring clothing; you will get a full season's wear out of it, and it won't cost you any more than you will pay later on. Have no fear of publicity—all our dealings with customers are strictly confidential and our credit terms most generous.—H. B. Ridgley Merchandise Co., Ottumwa, Iowa.

Credit for all.—Come to us and let us explain to you our great credit-giving system. We can show you how you can enjoy the comforts of a finely furnished home on the easy payment plan, in a strictly confidential manner.—York Supply Co., York, Pa.

A different credit plan.—Don't judge our credit plan by others in Peoria. Ours has none of their objectionable features. Our credit is free—no extras of any kind. Our plan is confidential. Liberal concessions given—no crowding of payments. We'll tide you over adversities—requiring no payments while you're sick or unemployed. We'll help you in hundreds of ways, protect you and grant favors that would be refused you in any other store in Peoria.—Hartman Furniture and Carpet Co., Peoria, Ill.

Besides giving you the best furnishings for the home, our credit system enables you an easy method of paying for what you buy. You can have the purchases delivered to your home and enjoy them while you pay for them in small amounts from time to time.—Mahaffey, Canton, O.

The home of Credit.—We made and maintain the little-at-a-time paying plan for furnishing homes. Whatever preference we enjoy with the public is because we stand firmly to our conviction in our methods of selling goods—on easy payments—at cash prices.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

Newly married couples should have us furnish their homes on credit! If you are to be married during this month of April consider well our proposition to furnish your house on easy terms of credit. We sell none but the best in parlor, bedroom and dining-room furniture, and our credit prices are as low as the lowest cash prices elsewhere. Everything is here for complete house-keeping.—Peter Grogan, Washington.

We are making it so easy to furnish a home that there is no longer any excuse for untidy or uncomfortable surroundings. Credit as free as the air you breathe—and better values, too, than you get from storekeepers who insist upon cash.—American Furniture Co., Denver.

We extend credit to all at cash prices.—Scheerer & Crown, Newark, N. J.

Pay after, but come now and be clothed from head to foot, besides giving you credit. We ask you regular cash store prices.—Empire Credit Clothing Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Your word is your cash in our store. Your name is good for any amount on our books, and if you live in a mansion or a tenement it is all the same. You will be accorded the same generous treatment, given the lowest price, and shown a line of goods bought at a figure that enables us to undersell any of our competitors. Come in and pick out what you need for your spring furnishing.—Falls City Outfitting Co., Louisville, Ky.

When bargain prices point your wants long credit fills your purse.—Cowperthwait Co., New York.

The light that never fails, credit.—No money down. That's the light for you to follow. Credit with no money down. Select what you wish, take the goods; and pay us later. The new styles are ready—just the things every man and woman needs.—Askin & Marine, York.

Don't put the wedding off; don't wait to get rich. Many of the happiest homes in Galveston are now being paid for on our little-at-a-time payment plan. Leap year wedding couples are urged to come in and talk it over with us. Special inducements on complete outfits.—Kauffman, Meyers & Co., Galveston.

Think it over.

We have a much larger stock than most stores.

Being large buyers, we can quote lower prices.

Prices being lower for credit than most stores charge for cash, what prevents you from having what you want whether you have the price—or not?

This is a leading question which should have weight—if we happen to have the article you require.

Come in and find out.—De Wolf Store, New Bedford, Mass.

The Conrad way, credit at cash prices.—Conrad, Indianapolis, Ind.

"You can have it charged."—Hecht's Greater Stores, Washington, D. C.

Special on credit, pay as you wear them.—Empire Credit Clothing Company, Minneapolis, Minn.

Open an account with us! We will trust you. Hundreds do it. Why not you?—Saul's, Schenectady, N. Y.

The right way: Credit. The easy way to buy: to pay at 25c, 50c and 75c per week.—H. B. Ridgley Merchandise Co., Galesburg, Ill.

No trouble to get credit here.—Make your selection—tell the salesman to charge it—that's all. We'll trust you. Don't hesitate a moment because of lack of money. If your credit's good anywhere it's good here.—Gately & Fitzgerald, Altoona, Pa.

Cash is good, but if you lack the cash, what a nice thing it is to know that you can have credit for the asking! That is what you can have at the Peoria House Furnishing Store. There is nothing in the store but what will be sold on the little-at-a-time payment plan.—Peoria House Furnishing Store, Peoria, Ill.

Your credit is of the utmost importance to you. Don't say you do not wish to take advantage of it. The largest enterprises in the world are careful to maintain their credit, and they conduct their business almost entirely on a credit basis. We have several reasons for telling this, namely, most housekeepers are constantly in need of something in the furniture line. Some of them go without things they really need because they cannot spare the ready cash. They do not seem to realize that they have credit, that it is good and that they can get anything they want for the asking. You are under no obligations to anybody when you pay for your goods in installments; your money is as good as anybody's and will buy just as much.—Peoria House Furnishing Store, Peoria, Ill.

No money down! Only first weekly payment in advance. Isn't that easy?—J. Michaels, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Spear's the man who says to you: "A dollar or two will do." Credit free to all.—Spear & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Your credit is good—any way to suit your convenience.—Rhodes-Buford Furniture Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Don't mind about the money.—We'll extend you credit.—We'll make the easiest terms you ever heard of and will require no payments when you're sick or out of employment.—Hartman Furniture Co., Louisville, Ky.

Have it charged.—You're not making the most of your advantages if you do not avail yourself of the future payment way that has proven so immensely popular. Every alternate adult in Washington has an account with the Hecht Stores. If you're one of those who have not, make the test—and no better time than to-morrow.—Hecht's Greater Store, Washington, D. C.

Credit.—Wear it home, compare it with the garment you paid cash for, ask yourself what's the use of paying cash? it's no cheaper. You gain nothing by it and your money's gone all in a lump. Why not wear your clothes while you are paying for them? Come here and take your pick of the swellest clothes that money will buy—our prices are right—clothes are right—credit plan's right —what more can you ask?—People's Clothing Co., Williamsport, Pa.

Don't let the money part bother you. If you need the goods come and make the selection, give us your name and address, and we will deliver the goods promptly. No money down.—City Furniture Co., Altoona, Pa.

And, of course, credit. It is to your credit that you are trusted. No one need be ashamed to buy that way. We want to open an account with every man and woman in Sacramento. We extend to you unlimited credit and guarantee to arrange terms to suit.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

Our generous terms of credit bar no honest man or woman from making as many purchases as he or she may desire. Accommodations in the purchase of home furnishings is a necessity in nine cases out of ten, and our contracts are liberal and devoid of annoying features.—H. H. Lampe & Co., Altoona.

Can you spare the ready cash to furnish a home? If you cannot, take advantage of our liberal credit system; it enables you to pay in small convenient sums, and still receive all the benefits of a cash transaction. Think it over and you'll readily come to the conclusion that there is only one place to furnish a home.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City, N. J.

Now that the fall season is at hand, the liberality of the easy payment plan becomes more evident. The new styles have arrived—plenty of them for men, women and children. Generous assortments of the fashions that stand illustrative of the season, and that give the wearer a sense of satisfaction. They're the kinds every body likes to wear. Credit goes with every one, if you wish it—and the cost is no more. We have solved the problem of selling on credit and on a small margin of profit. It lies in the volume of business.—Askin & Marine, Rochester, N. Y.

Long credit gives immediate possession of all bargains at this season.—Cowperthwait Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Liberal credit places comfort and attractiveness within the reach of every one.—Brooklyn Furniture Co., Brooklyn.

Convenient credit terms on large or small purchases.—Mason's, New York.

Our credit system is founded on the inherent honesty of mankind. Why not trust us, when we are ever ready to trust you? We sell goods cheaper on credit than you get them elsewhere for cash.—S. F. Alston & Co., Tuscaloosa.

Deal where your credit is good. Come to Gately & Donovan's, pick out anything you may need in the clothing line and have it charged.—Gately & Donovan Co., Bay City, Mich.

Long credit secures for you at once whatever cool comforts are needed.—Cowperthwait Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The only easy way.—Credit solves the problem of "How to be well-dressed." Credit—a magic word at this store. It gives every worthy man, woman and child the opportunity to secure stylish, dependable clothing, hats and shoes for summer wear, at prices as low as any cash store. No security is required—your promise to pay is enough.—Mentor, Rosenbloom & Co., Grand Rapids.

Unmarried men take warning!—Spear & Co. are "After you."

If the unmarried men of these cities don't brace up and quit fooling it won't be the fault of Spear & Co. This firm is making prices so low and terms so attractive that the average young fellow can't look his sweetheart in the face without feeling that that he should have "proposed" long ago. You can practically make your own terms—your credit is good and a dollar or so will do.—Spear & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Say "charge it" and your word is equal to spot cash. Your promise to pay will buy cool, comfortable summer garments for either man or woman.—Hecht's, Washington, D. C.

Bargains abound in every nook and long credit reinforces the economy of reduced prices.—Cowperthwait Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

You have often wondered why certain people always look stylish and natty when they earn no more than you. The reason is that they buy our better quality clothing on credit at prices as low as cash elsewhere.—Detroit Credit House, Detroit, Mich.

There is no need for deliberation if you are in want of wearing apparel. Come here and you will receive good values, and then if you wish it you can have the privilege of our no-extra-charge credit system.—Carey & Sides, New York.

Besides giving you the best furnishings for the home, our credit system enables us to offer you an easy method of paying for what you buy. You can have the purchases delivered to your home and enjoy them while you pay for them in small amounts from time to time.—Mahaffey, Canton, O.

It requires no cash to furnish the prettiest little home—or a big house or hotel.

What you have guessed about the "Brent Credit System" may be fully wrong. Let us tell you all about it and how it will help you just as a savings bank would do. No salary too small, no income too big but what this credit system will be found advantageous.—Brent's, Los Angeles Cal.

For your accommodation. Perhaps you are going to get married this fall, or maybe you are married and going to have a new home, but not quite ready to buy. We've arranged that you can have the advantage of these sale offers by paying a deposit on whatever you want and have it reserved for you and delivered when wanted.—Wise, Smith & Co., Hartford, Conn.

We had rather have your future good will than your present cash and dissatisfaction. Our plan is money back if you want it. Cash or liberal credit. We extend to our customers every facility for paying.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

Our sixty-seven stores and a million customers are the forces which enable us to offer such low values in clothing for men, women and children, and on easy terms.—Gately & Brennan, New Haven, Conn.

We make no bones about giving you credit. It's free to everybody. We sell clothing on credit because we found that thousands like to buy in this way. You're welcome, too.—Gately & Brennan, New Haven, Conn.

Dress well on easy terms by means of our simple credit system. You have no objectionable questions or inquiries to meet; you receive the same courteous treatment as if you were a cash customer. Our prices are less than those the ordinary tailor is forced to ask you, because our clothing business is on such a gigantic scale that we can produce a perfect-fitting, best-quality suit at a much lower cost than that charged by the tailor who sells only, say—one dozen suits a week.—Catesby & Sons, London.

Make your home comfortable these torrid days. If you find it inconvenient to pay the cash make use of our liberal terms.—Rothbert's, York, Pa.

If you need anything or everything in furniture and carpets to equip a home, there are three things for you to remember about the little-at-a-time terms we offer.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento.

Long credit gives still further possibilities for comfortable and congenial surroundings.—Cowperthwait Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Money isn't necessary—your credit's good.—Murphy's, Baltimore.

The working people's friend.—A friend in need is the friend to stick to. That is the reason we have all of the laboring class's trade. We make our terms delightfully easy, and no matter how small your earnings are, we will make terms to fit your income. We use these sledge-hammer inducements to get the people's trade and hold it, too.—The People's Credit Co., Rochester.

Our strong position in the credit world of Worcester is a matter attained by undaunted persistence in matters of quality and littleness of price, backed by the most liberal and generous credit proposition ever offered the men of Worcester. All the credit you want and no money down.—Worcester Credit Company, Worcester, Mass.

Any old tramp can buy for cash! That's easy! There's no special honor in the fact that one can walk into a store, lay down in cold cash the full price asked for an article or number of articles, and so become the possessor. Come to think of it, it's the coldest sort of a proposition, a mere transaction of barter and change. To have credit given you is entirely different. Makes you feel as though you were somebody. What a great honor it is to be able to enter a store, select such goods as you want and arrange to pay for them in amounts and at times that are convenient to you. What a great dignity there is to credit, and how far-reaching its beneficial effects. A large per cent. of the world's business owes its existence to this great commodity. To buy for cash, then, is very ordinary, but to buy on credit is always a distinction that one should be proud of. To be known as a customer at a store where credit is given reflects to the good character and standing of that customer. The Big Trustful Store is a credit store in the fullest sense of the word. It is known far and wide as such, and the owners glory in the fact that this is so.—Gately & Brittin, Reading, Pa.

You can do this at our store for Christmas—Select any article you choose; pay a deposit down; make payments from time to time, if you wish.

What we will do—Keep what you select. Give you receipts for your payments. Have it put in a pretty box or case, ready for you when you call. Hundreds do this with us. Why not you?—Clint E. Dice, Joliet, Ill.

See Spear—it's not dear. Credit free to all.—Spear & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Easy terms—ready cash is unnecessary in dealing with us, if you desire the convenience of credit.—Pinkham & Willis Co., Worcester, Mass.

You don't have to pay your money down when you trade with us. A quarter and the balance in installments of a dollar a week.—T. W. Stackpole, Thomaston, Rockland, Me.

Never mind the money. Get everything you need to be comfortable in hot weather—and pay the bill as it's most convenient, weekly or monthly.—Comprecht & Benesch, Baltimore, Md.

We open charge accounts. We have yet to register the first complaint regarding our methods. That speaks pretty well for the Halpert plan, don't you think? Credit is just as free as air with your promise to pay.—Halpert & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Sometimes folks don't have enough cash to pay for new clothes all at once—and a store like this is a mighty handy place. Just as we've said time and again, you are as welcome to this store when you have a little money as when you pay cash. Some folks don't like to ask for credit; why, bless you, there's more than half the people getting their clothes this way.—Trojan Clothing Co., Troy, N. Y.

Out go all our winter stocks at a great sacrifice. The reason for the big cut in prices is a logical and sensible one. We are only prudent in pushing out present stocks before our spring goods put in an appearance. We must have the room and do not intend to carry any winter goods over. You don't have to dig down and see if you have the money in order to secure these bargains. Never mind, simply come and select your choice and ask us to charge it, and pay us later as you can.—Gately Clo. Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

If you are preparing for the inauguration, or supplying ordinary home needs, you will find that our prices are lowest—whether you buy for cash or on easy terms.—Peter Grogan, Washington.

Dignified credit free to all and not a cent of tribute. We positively do not exact one penny of tribute for credit accommodation, so that our prices are actually lower than those of the merchant who refuses to trust you and exacts full cash for everything. These are facts which sensible men will take home and discuss with their wives.—Spear's, New York, N. Y.

Your simple promise to pay will furnish your home complete.—L. H. Cahn & Co., Youngstown, O.

Whether one buys for cash or on credit, he desires to be very sure of the prices he is paying and the styles he is getting. The large cash business always done by both Cowperthwait stores—one still in Chatham Square and the other in Harlem—is irrefutable evidence that the prices are more reasonable than elsewhere, to both classes of customers. The price of every article is marked in plain figures.—Cowperthwait & Sons, New York, N. Y.

No matter how small or how large your bill may be, you are entitled to credit just the same. Pay us by the week or month, just the same as you are paid, and then you can live in a comfortable home with all kinds of swell furniture.—Brand & Smith, Trenton.

Hartman's credit plan is considered the ideal plan of people in every walk of life. We have made ours such a modern, businesslike credit plan as to please the best people of the community, and so lenient and generous that the smallest salaried employee may find it possible to pay for his goods with greatest ease and to feel well protected in case misfortune overtakes him.—Hartman, Chicago, Ill.

We allow no house to undersell us or make easier terms. Accounts opened if desired.—T. Kelley, New York.

The Empire's credit system is based on honest business methods. It is a fixed policy with us to insure absolute satisfaction to every customer, and with every sale goes the privileges of money back should the goods be unsatisfactory or not exactly as represented.—Empire Clothing Co., New Bedford, Mass.

No capital required to go house-keeping. If you can pay rent you may go to housekeeping and be happy. Our easy payment plan of furnishing homes solves the problem. We'll begin with the empty house and furnish it complete throughout, from kitchen to parlor. You pay us in weekly or monthly sums until the debt is discharged. Don't delay getting married because you haven't enough money to furnish a home. That is a mistake. Your credit is good here. Let us do a little figuring—come and talk it over.—John Schmelzer, Saginaw, Mich.

What it really means. These few words about our trade-mark, "Your Credit Is Good." It means just this: That in the event that you should want credit when buying furniture, carpets or stoves; that you should prefer to pay a little down and a little each month, you can do so at this store. And all prices are always marked in plain figures. You are not charged anything extra for this accommodation, for we figure it is simply a convenience for those who want it—nothing else.—L. Schoenfeld & Son, Tacoma, Wash.

We furnish your home from cellar to dome. And remember we'll trust you.—John Norris Furniture Co., Pueblo.

Your credit is good. If you need a dozen pieces of furniture and think you can't afford any of them, just try our advice: Buy one thing at a time.—Freed, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Our credit office gives prompt and satisfactory service to those who prefer to make their purchases by means of a charge account.—Rothschild, Chicago.

A little down "on time." A little each week. Time, that's what everybody wants. If you haven't got time, we've got plenty of it to give away.—Meyer & Hummel, Pittsburg, Pa.

The Big Store's part-payment plan. You have the privilege of our part-payment plan, which enables you to buy any and all goods and have them charged. Pay us to suit your convenience. Call and make inquiries.—Rosenstein's, Baltimore, Md.

Credit buying is more popular than ever. We have made it so by personally guaranteeing every article we sell; by giving you more for your money than elsewhere. We will furnish your home on the easiest kind of weekly or monthly payments without notes and without interest. Do as thousands of others are doing, furnish your home now, for we are ready to arrange payments to suit your own convenience.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City, N. J.

Our prices do the work. To many Sacramento homes our little-at-a-time plan brought the opportunity to possess a comfortable home in the past year. Don't give up the idea of home furnishing because you can't come in with a pocket full of money or a well-supplied check book. To furnish a home of your own on our little-at-a-time plan of easy payments is really like saving money, for the payments come in easy parts from your weekly or monthly earnings—like saving would—and in the end you have something to show as a good result of the little effort required.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

Never mind the money. Get everything you need to be comfortable in hot weather, and pay the bill a little each week.—The Weeks Furniture Co., Woonsocket, R. I.

Cash or credit. Cash or credit. Goldstein's easy-payment plan. An experience of 15 years in the selling of clothing and furnishings for gentlemen has convinced us that there is a legitimate demand for a liberal system of credit at a store which can be depended upon to offer only strictly reliable, high grade goods, at reasonable prices. In other words, many people would like to buy their clothing upon a credit basis, providing they could know that they would not be obliged to pay exorbitant prices. * * * We shall offer any article from our entire store at the regular cash price, accepting a small payment down at the time of making the sale, with weekly payments thereafter. Take all the credit you want. Don't hesitate a moment about buying on account of a shortage of cash. Credit will cost you nothing here, and you can have all you want. That's a pretty liberal proposition, isn't it? And we mean it literally, too.—Goldstein Clothing Co., Binghamton.

↑ "We're your savings bank." There's a little speech to set you thinking. Ever consider what it means in buying things for the home what it means in buying them on our easy payment plan? Buy what you want, pay for them as you can—a little every week, or month, and have the use of the goods all the while you're paying for them. See how it is we are your savings bank? Many homes in Montreal that wouldn't be, were it not for our way of selling you the things you need. Come in. Let us estimate for you.—Metropolitan House Furnishing Co., Montreal, Can.

A store where credit buys as much as cash—where you select what you want and then say, "Just charge it to my account." Where all objectionable features of the old style installment store have been obliterated—where there are no annoying trips to the justice of the peace—just a plain, old-fashioned charge account.—Straus & Miller Co., Cleveland, O.

It was Spear & Co. who upset all the old-fashioned ideas of trade by offering credit free to anybody and everybody for the asking. And now by supplying every customer with a handsome metal savings bank Spear & Co. confer the greatest possible benefit. In the first place, the customer finds that the nickels and dimes and quarters dropped into the bank from time to time are never missed, and yet they amount to enough in a very little while to meet all the payments on the furniture or carpets. The magical little bank, without apparently taking anything from the family revenue, provides the funds wherewith to furnish the home in comfort and elegance throughout. But the little bank does more. It teaches a respect for pennies and nickels and dimes that will be worth many thousands of dollars to every person who learns the lesson.—Spear & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Try our plan—pay as you can. Our plan enables you to get the article you want—or need—right away. You don't have to wait several weeks—or months—and "save up" until you get the whole amount necessary. When you buy here, buy our way, you simply pay a small amount down to bind the bargain and the goods are delivered at once. And then you pay the balance due a "little-at-a-time" each week or month—as best suits your convenience.—Spengel's, Denver, Col.

Liberal credit arrangements. Hartman's credit plan is a most liberal proposition. It is the most helpful credit plan in Chicago. It provides most generously for your convenience and for your help when special favors are desired. It is a thoroughly sensible and business-like credit plan and appeals to thinking people in every walk of life.—Hartman Furniture & Carpet Co., Chicago, Ill.

This is the time of the year that thousands of people in this beautiful city of ours are beginning to think of cleaning house, while countless others are preparing to enter the bonds of matrimony. Some are moving to new homes that have been in course of erection the past winter and some are going to the lakes. To all of these we wish to say we are home furnishers, and no home too humble or no home too grand for us to furnish. No matter whether you have money or not, we stand ready and willing to extend to you our generous credit, so you may get all the home furnishings you want right away, and we will gladly pay for the money. To the young couple just starting housekeeping, we wish to say a word. Don't try to get a couple of rooms and put in a lot of shoddy furniture, because you feel you have not the ready money to furnish up in nice shape. Just come to us and we will let you have all the goods you need, and all we ask is a small payment down and the balance can be paid in small weekly or monthly payments. Come in and let us show you the largest and most up-to-date home furnishing store in the Northwest.—Smith & Farwell Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Our credit system and low prices are not affected by labor troubles! In view of the partial business stagnation the people at large require an easy system of credit on furniture and household goods more than when conditions are normal. The labor difficulties have not in any wise altered our admirable credit plan, nor have they affected our prices, which continue as they have been—the very lowest consistent with quality. You may open an installment credit account at any hour and your goods will be delivered without delay.—Spiegels, Chicago, Ill.

If you haven't purchased at Mason's you have left a big stone unturned in the pursuit of saving money. Sixty-three years of merchandising has given us the knack of underselling. We give goods of excellent quality at the price inferior goods usually command. Our assortment is extensive and well selected. Easy credit terms arranged to suit your income.—Mason's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our easy payment plan permits selection from this splendid range of pianos, and yet requires only a cash payment of ten to fifty dollars, according to instrument chosen, and a monthly payment of six dollars and upward, afterward. This accommodation as to easy payment does not add one dollar to the cash purchase price of the piano; you simply pay the insignificant interest of 5 per cent. per annum, for the amount remaining unpaid.—Gimbel Brothers, Milwaukee, Wis.

A stock such as ours, replete with sterling values, commands the preference of thrifty people. Sterling values were never more strikingly manifest than they are now. Cash or credit—both are as good as Government bonds at this store. If you prefer to pay cash we are glad to see you. If you wish to use our Credit Plan of Easy Payments, we're equally glad to see you, and you'll find that you do not have to pay one cent more if you "charge it."—Halpert & Jacobs, Binghamton, N. Y.

Numbers have delayed buying their fall and winter clothing because of lack of ready money. Don't hesitate longer. Visit us and take your pick from our large and beautiful assortment of clothing. Pay the bill in small weekly amounts such as you can afford. Thus you enjoy the use of them while paying in convenient weekly payments. Style, novelty and quality combined in every garment. If not—don't buy. The wide range of prices permits you to buy at any stage. No harsh means employed in collecting. We trust you and want you as a regular, permanent customer, and we realize our treatment must be such as to invite continual patronage. And it is. Try your personal experience. We await your call with pleasure.—Gately & Brennan, South Norwalk, Conn.

Our credit plan bridges over all the difficulties that stand in the way of home furnishing—opens up a clear, quick right of way into a comfortable home of your own—in other words, it puts the whole problem right up to you. Our Little-at-a-Time credit plan is an endless chain—it keeps going from relative to relative and friend to friend—each one after dealing here sends in the others—so satisfied are they that deal here.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

When you get rich you are going to have all sorts of things. But we believe you'll allow that there is a chance or two that this may never be. Now the question is: Hadn't you better get as much out of life as possible and commence right now. Hadn't you better sleep in a luxurious bed and sit in a well-to-do-man kind of a chair and walk on good carpets and otherwise make life worth living? We will furnish you with what you want and let you pay in small amounts monthly, according to your convenience.—H. H. Sampe & Co., Altoona,

How to start a home. We make it easy for young folks to begin house-keeping. You can well afford to open an account with us and make your home comfortable, and pay for it as you like. Our Little-at-a-Time plan has had long experience at fitting up homes—and is at your command. We can furnish you not only with good advice as to what to buy—but how to keep down the cost in the furnishing of a single room or a whole house. Credit makes the buying easy—for it breaks up the payments into convenient amounts—arranged to suit your income. Our prices are marked in plain figures and are as low as the lowest cash prices elsewhere. So many nice homes you envy were bought in just this way.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

"Long credit" assures your purse of a substantial lining. Cash or credit.—Guy Furniture Co., Worcester, Mass.

No money down. Time for Spring clothing. Why shouldn't men and women come and get Spring clothing now? It's something you've got to have and you might as well get it now and have a full season's wear out of it.—Menter, Rosenbloom & Co., Peoria, Ill.

Clothing on credit. We clothe men on credit at no more cost than cash prices.—Worcester Credit Co., Worcester.

This is an age of co-operation—Let us help you. What the street car is in convenience and labor-saving, our system of credit is in affording elegance and economy to buyers of clothing, making it convenient and easy to be well dressed.—L. Wiener, Pittsburg, Pa.

Why not make your house cosy and pleasant? You live in it day in and day out, and no matter how small your income may be, our accommodating credit plan opens up an easy way to furnish a home and still receive the benefits of a cash purchase.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City, N. J.

Buy your Spring costume now. Pay the bill later. The new fashions are here—and we are ready to supply your wants at once—and you can pay the bill as you find it convenient—that's what the New Idea Credit System means—you needn't wait till the season's half gone; you can save the money while you are wearing the latest, smartest attire.—Rosenthal's, Baltimore, Md.

Dollar down and dollar a week. If you have an account here any go-cart can be added without a payment down. Just keep paying—that's all.—Household Furniture Co., New Bedford, Mass.

Are you going to get married or go to housekeeping? If you are, the first thing to consider is economy. We can start you right if you will come in and let us name you prices on furniture, carpets, stoves and furnishings. Cash or time payments.—Economy Furniture Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Take all the credit you want. Don't hesitate a moment about buying because of a shortage in ready cash. Credit costs nothing here; and you can have all you want. We're doing everything we can to make this the best and easiest store to do business with.—Rhodes-Havert Furniture Co., Atlanta, Ga.

That's a pretty liberal proposition, isn't it? And we mean it literally. Don't hesitate a moment about taking advantage of our easy credit system. You're perfectly welcome to the conveniences it offers.—Rhodes-Havert Furniture Co., Atlanta, Ga.

You are welcome to the "Charge-it" privilege, whether your purchase is large or small. You can open an account and pay weekly or monthly, as is most convenient.—Hecht's, Washington, D. C.

Credit is free to all. What does this mean? Simply that you can furnish your entire house with every convenience and every comfort for a few dollars. It means that if there is anything lacking in your home—whether in parlor, dining-room, bed-room or kitchen—you can get it now for one dollar and have the pleasure of using it while you are making the balance of the payments at your convenience.—Spear & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Where credit outbuys cash! The idea of buying clothing on credit at prices oftentimes lower than most cash stores seems at first glance to border on the ridiculous. With most credit stores it would be ridiculous, but with us it isn't; it's a sensible statement. Want to know why? Well, that's easy. We are manufacturers, and big ones—we save the manufacturer's profit—we save the jobber's profits—these two big profits we split with you.—Menter, Rosenbloom & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Why not furnish a cosy home? Why not put aside a few dollars from your earnings and pay for a well furnished home that will endure a lifetime. You will be fairly surprised at the big—big lot of furniture you can own by the popular "Little-at-a-time plan." If other stores helped the people as well, why should the plan have grown as great? You will thoroughly enjoy having a chat with us and looking through our large assortment from which you can select what you wish. We make our terms delightfully easy and no matter how small your earnings are we will make terms to fit your income.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

A modern charge account plan that is open to and recognizes all alike. An open door—an open book that makes it possible for everybody to be correctly and fashionably attired, and this system of carrying accounts is yours at cash prices. No tribute exacted for credit. No rebate for cash. The Halpert & Jacobs Charge Account Plan was the first means of supplying dependable wearing apparel to everybody on credit terms but at cash prices.—Halpert & Jacobs, Binghamton, N. Y.

Our terms of easy payments are the most liberal of all. Ready cash is unnecessary in dealing with us if you desire the convenience of credit.—Frank J. Murphy, Baltimore, Md.

And, of course, credit. The Moss popular plan of charging things. Select all you need. Pay us later on the Moss plan. It's easy to buy. Easy to pay.—Moss Bros., Hartford, Conn.

Hartman's is an institution founded upon just and liberal principles—that treats its customers generously and guarantees perfect satisfaction to every purchaser. A part payment plan that may be adjusted to suit the convenience of each individual customer. Hartman's Credit Plan is such a plan as a high-class store may be proud of and such a plan as appeals to thinking people. It is a most just and honorable plan. Most liberal, too. We make our arrangements to suit your convenience instead of asking you to comply with cast-iron rules such as confront you at most credit stores. At Hartman's you make your selections and then we listen while you make the arrangements—while you state what will suit your convenience and what will be required of us. This innovation has made Hartman's the most popular credit institution in the country. We always have had the utmost confidence in the wage-earner and our confidence has not been misplaced.—Hartman's, Chicago, Ill.

The best of the ready-made stores sell suits like these of this quality for $25. We want to sell just one thousand at $15, and show just what a credit house can do. None of these suits will be sold for cash. They must all be sold on credit. No money down and a little a week. We want to give our credit customers the benefit of our low prices and easy terms. We want no cash trade, we want to get a thousand new credit customers, and if saving them $10 on a suit will do it, we are going to try to get them. Anyone can open an account here for one of these suits if they are honest and mean to pay their bills when able. Open evenings.—Boyle Bros., Boston, N. Y.

You don't need cash. Never hesitate to come and talk with us about our credit system. Many times our experience enables us to point out how a good sum of money can be saved. Every week hundreds of families buy house furnishing goods by our credit system. Some folks who have plenty of cash find it convenient to buy on credit. It's a pleasant way of fitting out the home, just by saving a little each week or month. We mark all goods in plain figures, and we have plenty of everything that we advertise.—Brent's, Los Angeles, Cal.

It may surprise you to know that we have on our books the names of many well-to-do and really wealthy people, all of whom take full advantage of our unique and comfortable system of installment credit. We designed this plan for the use of the laboring men and wage earners who find it absolutely essential in furnishing, or adding to, their homes. But as rapidly as it has become known, it has extended to all classes and this proves its efficacy, its strength, its desirability and its dignity. The ancient history of some trashy installment concerns was an obstacle for a time, but it disappeared (and now is obsolete) in the face of refining influences. Today, by reason thereof, installment credit ranks with the highest kinds of home financing, and we are selling more furniture and household goods than was ever possible under the old methods. Ours is a cosmopolitan house of metropolitan tendencies and must be considered the furniture center of Columbus. All goods delivered promptly.—May & Co., Columbus, O.

Married or single enjoy the free use of our easiest in the world credit system, and have as nice and comfortable a home as anybody. The people are growing wiser as they grow older, and most everybody furnishes their home on this up-to-date plan. It's only a question of getting the best prices, best terms, best values and best treatment, and people who have investigated come and bring their friends to us. We would like to talk it over with you.—The Weeks Furniture Co., Woonsocket, R. I.

Credit bridges the chasm between your desire to buy and your inability to pay "spot cash" at the time of purchase. Why not speak well of the bridge that carries you safely over?—Moss Bros., Hartford, Conn.

Ready made homes are being supplied daily to worthy people by us. Young married couples find their path through life smoothed for them by our system of furnishing completely everything for housekeeping and on terms that are made to suit your convenience.—R. C. Reynolds, Cohoes, N. Y.

Credit. You can pay us a little each week, or month, until all is paid. You don't miss the money and can dress in the best of style. * * * If you want to get a handsome, stylish, well-made suit we can give you just what you want on easy weekly payments.—Hogan Bros., Rochester, N. Y.

Let us enroll your name, your credit is good here. This week we offer a wonderful opportunity to every one who contemplates furnishing their home. With very little money you can provide yourself with every necessity at a greater saving in cost than ever before.—Waldheim & Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

A word about our modern credit system. Were we to erect a monument typifying the important factors to which we owe our abundant success, high up, in sight of all, would be inscribed, in letters of gold: Credit—the Economy's Home Maker. Its marvelous power for good is apparent in thousands of homes.—The Economy, Scranton, Pa.

$1.50 will give you one hundred dollars' worth of furniture, enough to furnish two rooms very nicely, three rooms comfortably, or a whole flat if judgment is shown in the selection. Our weekly payments are within your income and there is no interest to accumulate. The goods are sent to your home at once, and you enjoy the feeling of independent ownership while you are leisurely making the payments.—The Weeks Furniture Company, Woonsocket, R. I.

Clothing on credit. Don't forget that there is only one best place to establish a credit, that lasts as long as you like. That place is at the Goldstein Clothing Store. We have recently opened a liberal credit department in connection with our regular business and we want you to be fully informed regarding the many good features it offers the man who desires the finest wearing apparel which can be paid for in easy weekly payments.—The Goldstein Clothing Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Enjoy the benefits of a cosy home. If you haven't the ready cash all you have to do is to open a confidential account with us and pay a little a week or month.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City, N. J.

We want you to come in as soon as you can. The stock is at its best now. And everybody knows that nobody need wait on account of money. A dollar or two will do. You can make your own terms. Just come in and select whatever you want. The goods will be delivered promptly.—Spear & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Our new open account system containing more features favoring the purchaser than all the old style credit plans combined. No security, no interest, no collectors, no mortgage, requiring annoying trips to the Justice of the Peace—just a plain, old-fashioned charge account and the best values.—L. Fish Furniture Co., Chicago, Ill.

Commendable caution in the business world. Credit is the oil which lubricates the wheels and keeps the machine in motion—remove that and stagnation would immediately follow. If your available cash runs low your credit is good to replenish it on your personal security only, and keep your head above water.—Tierney Bros., Bay City, Mich.

Business couldn't be carried on without credit. Mutual confidence is as necessary to commercial progress as oil to the wheels of an engine. Credit is the bulwark of business. It is a straightforward method of anticipating incomes. Buying furnishings on credit is just as creditable as buying a railroad or a house and lot on credit.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

The bridal path to happy land
Lies in the way of the pointed hand
Where a comfortable home is readily made

On terms convenient and easily paid.
Comfortable homes that are cosy and nice,

Properly furnished and at a low price.
Go where thousands have gone before,
The reason's plain—"Tis the satisfactory store."

—The Reliable, Indianapolis, Ind.

A temple of fashion. Nothing less. Our stock is at its height of perfection now; everything that woman's heart can desire is here, styles that were but dreams of the dressmaker's art a short while ago. This race for supremacy is what makes New York women the best dressed and the most envied in the world. Examine our stock. You will realize we are in our proper place in the lead. No other place would satisfy us. Investigate our terms. You can dress equal to the best on our system of easy weekly payments.—T. Kelly, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Five cents make a nickel, 2 nickels make a dime, 10 dimes make a dollar, $1 a week furnishes your home.—Straus & Schram, Chicago, Ill.

Your simple promise to pay will furnish your home complete. Your credit is good here.—"The Reliable," Indianapolis, Ind.

Credit. It's to your credit that you are trusted. No one need be ashamed to buy that way. We want to open an account with every honest man and woman in Baltimore. We will extend you unlimited credit and guarantee to arrange terms to suit.—Julius Hines & Son, Baltimore, Md.

Don't fear the expense of matrimony! Set out to win the woman whom you love, for there is no question but what you can furnish a home faultlessly with but little money if you come to Friend. Friend will give you credit.—Friend, Pittsburg, Pa.

"Long credit" is a boon to economical housekeepers.—Cowperthwait & Co., New York.

The newest and most up-to-date goods always on hand. Your credit is good. We give very liberal terms on installment plan, in fact will make you terms so easy you can pay for a nice bill of furniture and not miss it.—R. T. Dennis & Co., Waco, Tex.

The Moss Credit Plan is founded on the inherent honesty of mankind. We trust the people, the people trust us. Gives you quick possession of the wearing necessities of life. But you save your pocket money. That's the point. * * * We open charge accounts! No extra for credit. No less for cash.—Moss Bros., Hartford, Conn.

When young folks go housekeeping, a dollar or two will do. Don't bother about the money—come to Bing's. We make special inducements to young couples starting housekeeping. If you are not ready just yet come anyhow. We will show you through, give you estimates and prices and advise you how to furnish your home tastefully and economically. Remember Bing's plan—pay as you can.—Bings, Cleveland, O.

You may own anything in our south window for nothing by simply starting an account on something else. This lasts only a few days! * * * "I want that rug," said a lady shopper, Saturday, who had paused a second at our window display. She hadn't much money, but she had a dollar—enough (with a promise to pay a dollar weekly) to obtain the new carpet she needed, and—that rug went with it as free as air.—F. R. Slocum Co., New Bedford, Mass.

If it comes from Gately's it's good, with or without money. Why certainly! You are always welcome to anything in this store on your own terms of payment. We take the greatest possible pride in arranging every detail to suit the convenience of our patrons.—Gately's, Peoria, Ill.

This peculiarity, together with our most liberal terms of credit, are the secrets of our great success.—Stewart Bros., Columbus, O.

Buy all you want, pay later. You need not limit your purchase to the amount of your ready money, for you can buy what you wish here and pay it off in small payments. You pay no more than if you paid cash.—Oliver Rothort, Altoona, Pa.

We made a big hit when we arranged our special credit system so as to break up the payments into convenient amounts—arranged to suit your income—and we have furnished hundreds of happy homes in this way.—Pinkham & Willis Co., Worcester, Mass.

No money down. By our easy payment plan you can secure your pick of the new spring garments now, right at the beginning of the season, and pay for them in small weekly or monthly payments while wearing.—Menter, Rosenbloom & Co., Peoria, Ill.

Have you a friend who is going to furnish a room or a home? Bring him to us, because we have the largest stock. We have the newest styles. We are noted for fair dealing. We have the most liberal credit system. We have the promptest delivery. We have the lowest prices and you can have it charged.—The Edmundson-Perrine Co., Pittsburg.

Christmas is only a few days off—you ought to have new clothing for that festive day. It is a duty you owe to yourself, to your family—to come here where money saving prices are plainly written on every price tag. Buy before Christmas, pay after Christmas; that's the way you can do business here. This is a credit store. We are proud of it. But we are not half so proud of our store as we are of the fact that we are the only credit store in the city selling on credit at cash store prices.—Mentor, Rosenbloom Co., Columbus, O.

Our credit plan is the most satisfactory plan in existence. No strict requirements as contained in other credit systems, no red tape and no annoying features whatever. You make your own terms. Thousands in Montreal owe their comfortable homes to this liberal plan, and the same opportunity is open to you. Fair dealing, liberal treatment and low prices for reliable goods has been the keynote of our business success. Come in and get our prices. If you want anything for the home, or intend furnishing a house, you will find no better place than this store to open an account.—Metropolitan House Furnishing Co., Montreal, Can.

Credit. Truly stunning tailor-made suits, separate skirts, jackets and millinery on easy weekly payments. * * * A splendid collection of high-class garments at little prices, embodying all the newest creations and correct styles, showing fabrics that are dependable and popular, at prices as low as any cash store. We let you wear them while paying for them. A small payment each week or month is all we ask.—Hogan Bros., Rochester, N. Y.

Credit to all. * * * We will furnish your home for $1 per week.—Michaels Bros., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Your credit is good. * * * To those who are unable to pay cash and large sums of money, we will do all dental work on easy weekly or monthly payments.—American Painless Dentists, New York.

The only furniture house that sells on credit at cash prices. That's all.—Bing's, Cleveland, Ohio.

Your credit is good with us. We like to keep repeating this statement for we mean it, and we want that every one should feel perfectly free to come here at any time and buy whatever is wanted on our well-known liberal terms.—The Household Furniture Co., New Bedford, Mass.

One dollar per week opens an account.—Baumann's, New York.

Timely chats about our E. Z. T. O. pay plan. Don't spend your money foolishly; add to your home comforts by paying a little down and a little each week.—E. W. Lynch Furniture Co., Worcester, Mass.

If you've furniture, carpets or stoves to buy don't let a little thing like the lack of money cause you to postpone the purchase. There should not be a person in Youngstown to-day who ought to deny himself the luxury of a comfortable home. We've paved the way for men in all walks of life to live in homes befitting their station.—L. H. Cahn & Co., Youngstown, O.

We will accept at this Christmas season, an unusually small cash payment, so as to make the Christmas burden as light as possible; and then the monthly payments afterward will be arranged agreeably to the convenience of the purchaser.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Note this difference, please: Other stores may grant credit to a chosen few—we offer credit to everyone on the same plan. You need not ask us for credit as a personal favor—we ask you to deal with us on credit of a most accommodating sort as a regular, everyday, business proposition, and when you accept our offer the obligation for the courtesy of your furniture trade is all ours—every bit of it.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento.

Our system of easy weekly payments is a decided success; wise, convenient and helpful. It amounts to this: After selecting a garment, a fur piece, a pair of shoes or a hat, the clerk charges the bill to your account. Then a week later you begin your weekly payments in amounts to suit your convenience and income. In a few weeks the amount of the charge will melt away and you will never feel the outlay. Our dealings are only between us, therefore confidential, and no security is required.—Gately & Brennan, South Norwalk, Conn.

The credit plan of this store has two distinct benefits: it helps you to save the small amounts that ordinarily go for nothing; and it helps you to dress well. We want you to take advantage of this plan—we want you to come. You may select all of your Fall and Winter Clothing and pay us a little each week or month. It's the easy way—it's the economical way, for it costs nothing.—Askin & Marine, Springfield, Ill.

A little investigation will show that our prices represent the greatest amount of real value that your money can buy, for everything we sell is of unquestionable quality and will give genuinely good service. It is no saving to buy poor grades just because they are cheap, and our credit system does away with the necessity of "doing with" something inferior because your pocketbook isn't long enough to buy what you know would be best. We arrange the payments to suit your convenience.—House & Herrmann, Washington, D. C.

This store has a reason for being. This store's policy appeals to the better home makers of Atlanta. Our plain plan of selling goods on easy payments at cash prices means something to you. It means you can buy anything we have as low as you can buy anywhere, not only in Atlanta, but in any of the great cities of the East or West. We are not an ordinary installment store. Our goods are reliable, our prices low, our terms made to suit you. We believe our methods please you, and the heavy business we have done since opening this store gives a very solid basis for that belief. We appreciate your business, and next week we'll show that appreciation by the lowest prices you've seen.—Walter J. Wood Co., Atlanta, Ga.

If you open an account with us you may make your purchases at will, and we'll arrange that you shall pay us a small amount at stated periods, and you're protected in your dealings by our readiness to take back anything for which you feel you've paid too much, or which doesn't wear as well as you expect.—Hecht Bros., New York, N. Y.

Patrons who make the "easy payments" get the same discount as those who pay in one sum.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Credit has its moral side as well as its material side and the very basis of commerce is credit. Credit is founded upon commercial honor, and the higher the credit of an individual, a city or a nation, the greater are its industries, and the greater its industries the more permanent and regular are the wages that are paid to the toiling masses. No doubt, reader of this advertisement, you could pay cash for any article advertised for this week. You hesitated to come in and buy on credit. Why? Isn't it ten times worse to do without these things that make your home comfortable? Look what 5c or 10c will do at this store.—Rhodes-Haverty Furniture Co., Waco.

Hartman's credit plan is a most generous and helpful plan—carried out in a big-hearted wholesouled way. It is designed with the thought of the customers' convenience foremost in mind. We have endeavored to make it the simplest, most generous and liberal plan of credit accommodations ever devised, and customers tell us we have succeeded wonderfully well. The terms are so conveniently arranged and such freedom is given the customer in making the payments, that he finds it a plan worthy of the highest praise and commendation.—Hartman's, Peoria, Ill.

Does false pride keep you from buying clothing on credit? It shouldn't, if it does. You would be surprised at the large number of well-to-do people who have accounts at this store. People who are easily able to pay cash, mind you, but who prefer the convenience of a charge account at our store, because they know by experience that they can buy just as cheaply here as at any cash store, and that the credit accommodation they receive here does not cost them a penny extra. Come and open a charge account, you'll find it convenient and profitable.—Menter & Rosenbloom Co., Hartford, Conn.

The possession of a diamond is a fond wish in the heart of nearly every woman, but she naturally wants a really perfect stone and therefore feels unable to gratify her wish. Most people realize that this store offers lower prices on really fine stones than can be secured elsewhere, since it confines its stock and sales to American cut, true color, perfect diamonds. It is not so well known, however, that persons of known responsibility may arrange to pay for a diamond on time and terms they can afford without paying a big extra profit for the privilege.—C. L. Byrd & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Do not worry about not having money, your credit is good for furniture and household goods. We also have a very fine line of watches, musical instruments, refrigerators, go-carts and everything for the home.—H. L. Herman, Springfield, Ohio.

We offer you the opportunity to buy Grand Rapids Furniture, not usually obtainable in credit houses, on our liberal charge system. All our prices are cash prices and are marked in plain figures. We make no extra charge when goods are purchased on our charge system.—T. Kelly, New York, N. Y.

No risk in trying our credit plan, for we guarantee to charge nothing for the accommodation, and warrant our wearing apparel to be as good as the most expert designers can plan it and the most skillful tailors produce it. We think you'll find paying in small amounts a great convenience, but if you don't agree with us, any transaction may be closed without dissatisfaction to you.—Hecht Bros., New York.

If it is not convenient for you to pay all cash down for your selections you can have the goods to use at will, and pay for them in small, easy, weekly or monthly parts. We will arrange the payments so that they will not be a heavy drain upon your income. You will have the goods paid for before you realize it.—The Fair Store, Binghamton.

"Is this a credit store?" "Yes, sir; this store is just exactly what you want it to be; no matter what the wishes of the customer, we can suit him every time, unless he wants to pay a high price for an inferior article. That is the only respect in which we can't oblige any one, not even President Roosevelt."—H. A. Shoenfeld, Seattle, Wash.

Right in the beginning of winter—just at the time you are completing the furnishings of your home, we offer you a choice from hundreds of beautiful pieces of parlor, bed room and dining room furniture at greatly reduced prices. In addition to these lowered prices, we offer you the easiest terms of credit ever extended by any establishment in Washington.—Peter Grogan, Washington.

Now, you may imagine you have to pay more. Not so—buying in larger quantities for cash we sell cheaper than others. We give you better goods for the money and more satisfaction. Again, your credit is good. We do not charge interest. We take an "interest" in pleasing you.—Locke & Lavenson, Sacramento, Cal.

Accounts opened with everybody. Only those who have tasted of the sweets of trading here can realize what our matchless credit system means.—Carey & Sides, New York.

Buy Without the Cash—Your Credit with Us is Good!—We give the easiest kind of time payments of any house in Kansas City; prices are lower than others sell for the spot cash. We are situated only three blocks east of Main, on Twelfth street, so we don't have to pay $500 to $1,000 per month rent. Our rent is low, less than one-tenth others pay. Our prices on Furniture are equally low. Just come and find out how cheap we can fit you up on our low rent prices and on the easy payments given to everybody, as we give credit to all.—Standard Supply House, 316 and 318 East Twelfth St., Kansas City, Mo.

This firm aims to improve the standard of taste in household art—to make the domestic life brighter—more comfortable and cheerful—to point the way to a more economical basis upon which to procure home needs—to make the way easy to all alike—to have all the comforts of a home without the distressing delay.—Metropolitan House Furnishing Co., Montreal, Can.

Besides the advantage of lowest prices and most liberal credit terms, we offer you a larger variety for selection than any credit store in the city. Come and examine the new summer goods—every price-tag is marked in plain figures—one price to all, and that price the lowest.—Mentor & Rosenbloom Co., Columbus, Ohio.

We are flattered, indeed. And we've every reason to be. Look around and see the number of firms to imitate our celebrated easy payment system. But they can't. They can't make you the terms we can. We beat every store in this city when it comes to that. There is no charge for the credit accommodation, either. No little 8 or 10 per cent. put on. It's straight cash prices. We let you compare prices, providing you won't forget quality.—Eastern Outfitting Co., Portland, Oregon.

Everybody has time; spot cash is not as plenty. Paying a little every week is our way of making time a very acceptable substitute for spot cash, and giving to everybody an easy buying, easy paying power to supply all their needs in home comforts. We make it possible for you to have all the pleasures and comforts of a well-furnished home of your own. Don't live in a little stuffed-up boarding house room. Get married and settle down into a way of living that is something like. What we say we do, we do do. Let us talk with you about it and the sunshine of everlasting happiness will be yours.—Weeks Furniture Co., Woonsocket, R. I.

Credit Welcomes Everyone Visiting Our Store.—We are the originators of the easy payment plan. Our prices are the same as you are paying to the other stores when buying for cash. This is a broad assertion for us to make, nevertheless it is a positive fact, and we extend every person in Bay City an invitation to come to our store, examine our goods and prices, compare them with others, and be convinced. We sell everything the latest and best and at reasonable prices.—Gately Donovan Co., Bay City, Mich.

The Hartman idea of modern credit privileges brought a new era to the ambitious home providers of Peoria. The improved features of the Hartman plan are many—the benefits are manifold. In liberality it stands alone—above and beyond any other credit plan known to Peoria. It can be adjusted to suit the convenience of any customers, because the terms of payment are so easy and the plan grants so many concessions. No payments are required while you are sick or out of employment. It is strictly confidential, a broad, liberal policy, the pleasantest sort of an arrangement for your accommodation.—Hartman Furniture & Carpet Co., Peoria, Ill.

Fair dealing, liberal treatment and low prices for reliable goods has been the keynote of our business success. Come in, get our prices and let us explain our system. If you want anything for the home or intend to furnish a house, you will find no better place than this store to open an account.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City, N. J.

Credit you? To your heart's content.—May, Stern & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Why not make home cosy and pleasant? You live in it day in and day out and no matter how small your income may be, our credit plan opens up an easy way to home comfort.—The Weeks Furniture Co., Woonsocket, R. I.

If you do not desire to pay all cash down for your selections, we will arrange it so that you may have the goods at once and pay for them in small, easy weekly or monthly parts. We will arrange it so that the payments will not at any time be a drain upon your purse.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

Why worry because your wages are small and your family large and must be clothed, and a thousand other things demand your money? The Star Credit Clothing Co. wants to see you—you need never want for clothing—need never think regretfully of how much better someone else is dressed than you. Come here, get anything you please and we promise to make the terms fit your circumstances. Your promise to pay is sufficient.—Star Credit Clothing Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Spear & Co. will furnish you with one of their little banks, into which you can drop your spare change, in gold, silver, copper or paper money, from time to time, and thus meet all payments without any inconvenience. There are two keys for each bank, one of which is kept by Spear & Co. and the other by the collector. The bank will be opened by the collector when he calls and the contents will be counted in your presence, or if you prefer, you may bring the bank into the store and have it opened there and the money counted in your presence and placed to your credit. Each bank fits into a neat case for carrying. Take whichever method is most convenient for you. You will be delighted with results of the savings bank plan. You will find that the money you never miss is enough to fill your home with every comfort and many luxuries.—Spear & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Payments so easy you'll never miss the money.—Du Bois & Davidson, Los Angeles, Cal.

We have a new feat—that of furnishing the very best grade of housefurnishing on credit. Our new display that is now on show surpasses anything ever shown in the city. Come take your pick—Don't bother about money, your credit is good.—Pickering's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Credit for every one without any additional charge—terms of payment arranged to suit your personal convenience. Positive satisfaction guaranteed, no matter how small the purchase may be.—House & Herrman, Washington, D. C.

Let Us Give You a Tip.—There will be "something doing" this summer in the holiday and vacation lines, not to mention the moonlight excursions, nor the tourists' excursions to the great World's Fair Festival at St. Louis. Now, we all want to look slick, don't we? And right here our tip comes in. If you haven't the money necessary to buy new clothes, what keeps you from going to Lewis, the popular tailor and haberdasher, headquarters for low prices, where you can buy now and pay later, at the rate of only one dollar a week?—Lewis, Cohoes, N. Y.

The Wisdom of Credit in Regard to Clothing.—Buying on credit is beneficial only when the extra cost does not exceed the legal rate of interest. If you pay more you pay too much. At this store we do not charge one penny interest. Our prices are just as low, as, and in many cases lower than, cash stores. And there's a mighty good reason why: We are large manufacturers; we operate 42 thriving stores in the large cities of America; we sell direct from factory to family—the middleman's profit does not appear on our price tags.—Menter & Rosenbloom Co., Newark, N. J.

Our easy pay system is not a debt-builder by any means; on the contrary, it's a money-saver. If you have been in the habit of putting away a few dollars every week, our little payment of one dollar will not interfere at all with your savings. In order to pay cash for a piece of furniture, you might be obliged to draw the money, and everybody knows that it's far easier to take it out than it is to put it back. If you need a refrigerator, china closet, go-cart, range, sideboard, couch, table, set of chairs, carpets, rugs, lace draperies, or anything in the way of furnishings for your home, don't be without any of them another day; there's a grand assortment of them here for a dollar down and a dollar a week.—Flint & Barker, Fall River, Mass.

If you do not care to take them now we will, on a small part payment, reserve them until December 1, thus making economy easy. But how do we get brand new perfect blankets under price? The mills make them for us in their "slack" season—they depend on our yearly sale; we take the blankets off their hands at once and anticipate payment—three ways in which we make the saving that we turn right over to you.—L. S. Plaut & Co. Newark, N. J.

We feel confident that if you once learn from experience the convenience of our Part-Payment plan, you will regard it as the easiest way of clothing yourself and your family. Not only do we accept very small sums paid weekly or monthly in settlement for all purchases, but we guarantee whatever we sell to come up to your expectations, and in the event that you became dissatisfied with the style, durability, fit, or even the price you paid, we take back without question.—Hecht Bros., New York.

At this time of the year, with the approach of Christmas, when expenses are necessarily heaviest, the part-payment plan is seen at its best. Any of the family for whom the winter wearing apparel has not yet been provided may be admirably outfitted with the most charming styles, at prices importantly lowered from those that prevailed earlier in the season. If your thoughts are turned to Christmas, there are gifts for every one. Beautiful, useful articles of wearing apparel and the most reliable jewelry, and whether it be something to wear or something to give, it's all one, for the part-payment plan is here to help you, so that without inconvenience you may buy what you desire and pay in the very smallest sums, weekly or monthly.—Hecht Bros., New York, N. Y.

Enables hundreds of men to dress well without drawing heavily upon their pocket books. Perhaps this liberal system will be helpful to you just now when you need all of your ready cash for your vacation trip and a new suit is an absolute necessity.—The Goldstein Clothing Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

The convenience of our "Charge" System ought to be apparent to all thinking men and women. Instead of saving up first and waiting months to get the clothes—you get the clothes first here and save afterwards. Come in and select your clothing now and pay later in small convenient payments.—Menter & Rosenbloom Co., Minneapolis.

The prevailing fashions are here in plenty. Just a few suggestions to-day—a convincing demonstration of price economy and modish elegance combined. Values varied and excellent in women's apparel. Come in, look around, buy what you want, have it charged and settle on our original easy payment system.—T. Kelly, New York, N. Y.

Credit is given just as freely as though regular prices prevailed. We will make up your carpets now and lay them later on, whenever you say the word. The saving is well deserving of your attention. Small weekly or monthly payments to suit you.—Peter Grogan, Washington, D. C.

Many a man's ambitions are blocked in this world for the lack of ready money—we invite you to select a whole household of home needs any day you've a mind to—no difference whether you've the money or not—our easy payment—"Credit for the asking," way of selling, gets over all such little embarrassments.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City.

Wouldn't you like to refurnish your dining-room? To bring it right up to date? To make it a joy to see? You can do it here thoroughly and with economy. It doesn't take much money either; you can have ample credit if you're "good."—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

We ask you to come to this store for the best in Furniture because we think you will get the kind you want. The stock includes all of those pieces that appeal to good taste on account of their design, finish, character and richness. Should you desire to open an account with us we shall be pleased to accommodate you and not charge you one extra penny for credit.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City, N. J.

Our credit department is modeled on a strictly business basis and is at the service of every purchaser. Credit is the motive power of all large business enterprises of the present day in manufacturing and wholesale lines, but it has remained for the Lansburgh Furniture Co. to extend the same cost-free service to the buying public.—The Lansburgh Furniture Co., Washington, D. C.

If the ready cash is scarce, buy on time. Pay us as you get your envelope—just a small sum every week, and you can keep up appearances by being well dressed at all times. We were the first credit house to extend the liberal credit system in the city, and we won't allow any imitators to outdo us in any way, shape or form. The "No money down" catch word can't fool the shrewd buyers—they know our reliability, and therefore are a little bit shy on running an account with firms of little mercantile standing.—Brand & Smith, Trenton, N. J.

Clothing on credit. Largest credit clothing house in the world. Don't forget there is only one best place to establish a credit that lasts as long as you like. As any one of the thousands of happy people who trade here and get nothing but perfect satisfaction can testify.—Union Credit Clothing Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

If you want to save money come here for your goods. We do business in an entirely different way from all other credit houses—here you have the goods on a cash basis—at other places you will pay double the price we charge you. We assure you we are the only house, either cash or credit, who give you goods on credit at cash prices and at the same time make the terms to suit your means.—Phil. J. Walsh Estate, Philadelphia.

During this sale the most remarkable inducements are offered to an enlightened public. Every article in our entire establishment is marked lower than its manufactured cost. You can pay cash or take advantage of our simple and liberal Open a Charge Account system.—Hyman's, New Haven, Conn.

It's easy to get clothing by trading at this store for the reason that no money is required at the time of purchase. Simply a little a week. Our system is the most liberal and cheapest.—Gately & Brennan, New Haven, Conn.

It will be charged. Could we place before every man and woman in Washington the advantages and convenience of the "charge-it" way which has made the Hecht Stores so famous we are confident every man would be upon our books. More than 100,000 accounts have been opened.—Hecht's Greater Stores, Washington, D. C.

Quick and easy way to borrow money. If you are in need of a little ready money, we are the people you want to see. Our loans are made on short notice and in any amounts from $5 up on furniture, pianos, fixtures, horses and vehicles. You can pay us back either weekly or monthly in any size payments to suit your income. 60c per week for 50 weeks pays a $25.00 loan. We also loan money on salary to any one holding a good position. If you need money and cannot call at our office, fill out and mail to us the following blank, and we will send our representative to you. Loans made in all surrounding towns and country.—Peoria Loan Co., Peoria, Ill.

The silver lining to this reduction cloud is that it may induce you to take advantage of the extraordinary bargains and thereby open an account with us and pay for what you buy in small sums weekly or monthly. We're sure if you once know our method, and become acquainted with our excellent styles, our superb qualities and our broad guarantee that safeguards you in every purchase, you will look to us in future for all your wearing apparel, for you will find the easiest way to pay is to have everything charged and settle in small sums weekly or monthly.—Gately & Fitzgerald, Harrisburg, Pa.

At Bloomingdale's to-morrow there's a chance to buy these beautiful Austrian china fish and game sets at a wholly unmatched price—the steamer just brought them in and they won't be here long at the price we're quoting. Credit if you want it.—Bloomingdales, New York.

We've trusted thousands and don't regret it. When we opened this store—in a little bit of a place—some people told us we were "foolish" at starting out with such a liberal proposition to the people. Seemed to think we should follow the practice of other stores and "get as much as we could" for our wares, especially to those who asked for credit. We said "no" to any such imposition and adopted our own system of helping people as we saw the great need of the masses presented before us. Now, we often look at a photograph of that humble little store where we started, and then glance around at the mammoth ware-rooms that stand here to-day—what a substantial proof it is that our liberal policy has been appreciated. How it has helped thousands of people to enjoy the best of comforts possible, whether they had ready cash or not, and how from a little one-story place with a very limited stock and business—we have become the greatest institution of our kind in the entire state of New Jersey—supplying the home-furnishing wants of thousands of its best people, giving to the public a new kind of a satisfaction that is not limited by how much or how little money they own—putting people all on one level and treating them fairly and honestly in all their transactions, whether they have ready cash or simply their promise to pay. This is a place for dignified credit, void of any disagreeable red-tape system—designed for the masses. It's open to you if you will use it.—Gately & Hurley Co., Camden, N. J.

Our credit plan is the most satisfactory plan in existence. No strict requirements as contained in other credit systems, no red tape and no annoying features whatever. You make your own terms. Thousands in Montreal owe their comfortable homes to this liberal plan, and the same opportunity is open to you. Fair dealing, liberal treatment and low prices for reliable goods has been the keynote of our business success. Come in and get our prices. If you want anything for the home, or intend furnishing a house, you will find no better place than this store to open an account.—Metropolitan House Furnishing Co., Montreal, Can.

Cash or credit. Our generous credit plan enables housekeepers to furnish up their homes comfortably, and gives them the use of the furniture while paying for it. Terms arranged to suit the convenience of our patrons. No extra charge for this accommodation.—Eastern Outfitting Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Some people have an aversion to purchasing house furnishings by small weekly or monthly payments, believing they have to pay more for the same. This is an absolutely wrong impression of which you may be easily convinced if you carefully inspect goods and cash prices of other establishments and then give our goods and prices the same examination. We sell cheaper on time than others do for cash. Start an account with us. It will prove better than a savings bank. You do not have to wait to reap its benefits. You receive the advantage while you have the goods. There are no penalties in the form of interest-bearing contracts attached to an account started here. The price of the goods is all you pay. Close inspection always reveals. Our prices are the lowest. Courteous treatment and prompt attention is assured you at all times. Visitors are welcome.—Chas. M. Campbell, Sacramento.

Now think of your home. Now the excitement of Christmas is over, you have time to sit down and plan for those needed things for the house, and there is no necessity to wait for them, even though you did spend more money than you intended on Christmas gifts. We invite you to select whatever you wish from our immense stocks, and we will arrange the payments to suit you. We charge no interest and all our prices are marked in plain figures. We are offering many special values now.—Peter Grogan, Washington, D. C.

Gevurtz's Xmas tree. We'll be glad to tag any article on it with your name for only $1 down. Do not buy trash. Buy something of merit, is our advice. Something that will survive more than one Christmas. If it is to be a gift, it should be typical in a sense of your solid and enduring friendship or affection. Nothing fills all requirements so well as a solid piece of furniture for parlor, den or dining room. Take a look over our tree and it may suggest your very need, then call and inspect our immense stock selected for this holiday trade. You do not need ready money to trade here. Our credit plan is strictly confidential. Let us explain it to you. You can buy just as freely as if you paid spot cash. Select from our large stock the article you wish and arrange with our salesman to pay $1 per week; goods delivered on first payment. We want your business and good will.—Gevurtz & Sons, Portland, Ore.

The home of credit. There's only a little money between you and a comfortable home. Make us your saving bank; deposit a little with us every week and we will furnish you a pretty home complete. Makes no difference whether you have the money or not. Our easy payment way of selling gets over all such little embarrassments. Watch our windows. Remember we have the stock, and give cash prices on four and six months' time.—Wm. H. Monk, Jr., Mobile, Ala.

Charge your purchase. This is a cash or credit store. If you want the accommodation of easy payment terms of $1 a week, you are welcome to it. And the best feature of our easy terms is this: you don't have to pay a penny more for your clothing than you would pay at any cash store. Come to the opening to-day or to-morrow and get a souvenir—we'll be glad to see you.—Menter & Rosenbloom Co., Rochester, N. Y.

CROCKERY AND CHINA

*The baby grasped his milk mug
But could not pick it up,
And so they named him Lipton—
He couldn't lift the cup.*

—Chicago Tribune.

China. Great values for Friday. Recognizing the crowded condition of our basement, as an inducement to buyers to overlook this slight inconvenience we offer every day some great values. These are not always advertised on account of limited space, but you will always find something of unusual interest which will well repay a visit. These for to-morrow.—Geo. B. Peck Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

News of China. Better not miss a single day's telling of the news from the sale of china and glass. For each day brings some fresh, interesting offering of value to housekeepers. Not only are the wares of the highest possible quality, but prices taken all the way through, are phenomenal in their lowness.—Wanamaker's, New York.

From the Royal Berlin Potteries are shown their marvelous crystallized and copper glazed wares, figures, painted vases and the like; also complete lines of table services, which we sell by the set or single, just as we sell scores of "Open Stock" patterns in English, French, Austrian and Domestic wares. This enables our patrons to make up sets to suit their individual requirements, and to replace broken pieces at any time.—Macy's New York, N. Y.

Gifts in fancy china the richest showing we've ever made. This is the stock that the tasteful housekeeper loves to ramble through — the beautiful wares of which she never can possess too many. The housekeeper who buys for another, comes here to select the choicest gifts she knows—to get the most beauty, as well as real worth, for the money expended. And here come, too, the husband, father, son or friend who wishes to pick out a sure-to-be-valued gift.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

China Wares to the Front.—The Winter sale offers stirring economies. The magnitude of this annual movement is appreciated by thousands of women. The economies it presents are accepted with enthusiasm. For China and glass and kindred wares appeal to a woman on the hospitality side of her nature — the large side with most women. And the opportunity to get such wares for a fourth to half below usual low prices here.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

The china store is especially rich at this reason in variety of dinner sets, including both those for country homes and those to be used as wedding gifts or for an addition to the city china closet. The collection is unrivaled, we believe, and we know that in quality-for-price it has no equal anywhere.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Decorated Porcelain and China. Tea and dinner sets "way under price!" No effort at all to sell such bargains as are represented in the items below. The advertising is merely to give wide, full, fair notice, and we wish to particularly impress upon the minds of summer hotel proprietors, boarding house keepers and people in general furnishing summer cottages the importance of this sale.—Bloomington Bros., New York.

There is not in Brooklyn—hardly in all New York another stock of china, glass and art wares which compares with this. We are not hampered by interest in any single maker or group of makers and with the world to choose from and the appreciative Brooklyn public to serve, it has been possible to build up here one of the greatest businesses in the country. And now, for this annual occasion, these fine wares, many of them just out of their wrappings, are offered at prices far below even our usual low prices; at prices which are not matched for equal qualities anywhere.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

What influences your purchasing? If it is necessity, the habit or the principle of frugality, there is no doubt where you will buy your china and crockery. We will make the sales, because our goods are of the desired kind and quality, and our prices of the right figure.—Smith & Chick, Lexington, Ky.

Thanks to fine weather and this unusually fine stock of tablewares, this September sale is breaking all past records! and thanks to the constantly arriving shipments of fine wares, there are no shortages in the showing presented. Still plenty of Theodore Haviland dinner sets, which we are offering at just one-half of their real value.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

We demonstrated a year ago the purchasing power of this great China Store. And we shall do so again this September. This morning the fun began in earnest. For a month now you shall buy high-grade, dependable China for less than it is sold for elsewhere. We care not what others may claim or boast of—your own common sense will point out to you the distinction—and the saving.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

New China at Old Prices.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Nothing adds more to the beauty of the table or home of the wedded pair—in fact, nothing is more indicative of refinement—than rich cut glass. We have a magnificent collection—guaranteed finest cutting—newest styles, exclusive designs and lowest prices.—Lumsden, Richmond, Va.

There is a charm about this beautiful stocked china and glassware store down on the first floor that appeals to the artistic eye as well as to the careful purse of the thrifty.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Sharp price crack in China. We don't believe for variety and beauty another store can equal us for really choice goods, and likewise, we quote these prices as the reason for your seeing these goods.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

That straight-to-the-mark, never-to-be-shelved policy of this great store which reads, "never be undersold," is borne out to the letter no more thoroughly than by this famous china department. We have a name for selling good china for less than any other store, and the resources we keep always in reserve will ever be the invincible means of our holding that record.—Bloomingtondale's, New York, N. Y.

Small coins have large purchasing power in our China department.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Broken Prices on Whole Chinaware.—We have some odd lines of complete dinner sets, the prices of which are shattered—gone to pieces—and we anticipate the quotations below will flock our crockery department with women who will appreciate the beauty of these bargains and eagerly take them away.—Olds, Wortman & King Co., Portland, Ore.

It's a good time now to peep into the china closet and see whether the dinnerware needs replenishing. It has such a chronic habit of getting broken. With seventy-four styles of dinnerware ranging in price from $5.98 to $80 we can surely satisfy your pocketbook. The assortment comprises the cream of Haviland, German, English and Syracuse and other American wares in the daintiest of designs.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

A drop in china and nothing broken but the prices.—Covington Peyton, Charlottesville, Va.

Just to illustrate the large buying of the small coins we present a list of items which may be purchased at each price in the china department.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Our Autumn Sale of China.—Japan to the front with the new. And Italian pottery at half. Thirty-seven crates of newest and most beautiful china from Japan are just being unpacked as we write. A rare gathering that will add interest to our annual china sale. The decorations are the best Japan has produced—rich and tasteful—really the new things intended for the coming holiday season. A little early perhaps to offer for sale now, but the china sale has been such an unqualified success this lot is added to the collection. All the previous offers advertised hold good while the lots last.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Very Small China Prices.—It would be rather funny if we didn't do better than usual stores in the matter of china prices. With our own manufacturing places in the great china centers abroad and our own glass cutting and decorating works at home we can naturally control production and naturally govern prices. But even here such news as to-morrow brings is notable.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Clearance Crockery, Glassware and House Furnishings.—A good housekeeper is practical; and while she admires the ornamental furnishings of parlor and drawing room, her critical eye takes in the homely yet useful necessities of dining room and kitchen, for someone's carelessness is always breaking things out there; and every cent she can save in replacing them is a little secret joy to every housewife's heart. What an indulgence this list of values affords!—A. Hamburger & Sons, Los Angeles, Cal.

Toilet Sets.—The great advantage of coming here for a toilet set, aside from our prices, which are always the lowest, is that we have such a great variety that you can select one to harmonize with the color tone of any room. Here are some that seem to us especially good values.—Simmons Hardware Co., St. Louis, Mo.

The Home-Coming.—Summer holidays are over—there's a general opening of shutters, unpacking of trunks and starting of kitchen fires. The children must be gotten ready for school and there are numerous household needs that require immediate attention. To satisfy many of these it will be necessary only to visit our model house furnishing department in the basement, where qualities are above suspicion and prices a temptation to liberal buying. Our upper floors are fast filling with stocks for fall and holiday selling. These will gradually find their way to the store, giving it fresh interest daily, preserving for it that air of newness which is a characteristic of "Glenny's," and affording to visitors kaleidoscopic views of art and novelty in modern handicraft that they are always welcome to enjoy without obligation.—Glenny's, Rochester, N. Y.

Spring Clearance Odd Pieces China, American Porcelain, English Pottery, Carlsbad China, Austrian China, Limoges China. Every offering is decorated ware and worth about double clearance prices. The sale includes a number of "open stock" patterns which will be discontinued. Women disposed to follow fashion's fad of using odd pieces of fine china as well as those who must count pennies before spending will find equally appreciative chances to buy and save. It's a sale to be quick about.—S. Kaum Sons & Co., Washington, D. C.

For the dining table China tableware. If only we had sufficient room in which to expand our china and glassware business! You find here now splendid appointments for these stocks. As compared with what we wish to do the present is small indeed. Nevertheless our great sales go on, and neither St. Swithin nor the Dog Star interfere. Big stock all-the-year-round. Low prices created by great business.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Read and see what kind of plates that you are going to get for 48 cents, and not set them down as "cheap skates" because the price is so low, as right there is where you make a mistake. These are a lot of imported "hand-painted" plates in two designs, and are beautiful, as you will admit upon seeing them, and you never did or will buy them for less than $1 each. We succeeded in getting 150 of these plates for a "special sale" and assure you that we are not making a cent on them, but expect to get our returns out of the advertisement that they will give us. Come and see them in our window, whether you buy or not, as they are worthy of a look.—F. Crouse & Son, Mansfield, Ohio.

An Irish beleek jardiniere, showing a band of the delicate flower work in relief, which is the distinguishing mark of this very fine and dainty pottery, has been reduced to $4.98, an incredible price for for so valuable a piece of artistic ware that is useful and that is needed. Other values in the China and Crockery Store are equally surprising and are worthy to be called real bargains.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Country suggestion and a jardiniere bargain. A jardiniere shaped like a gipsy kettle with three peg feet shows a crowing and strutting rooster and admiring hen. The farmyard-like decorations are brilliantly colored in black, yellow, red and green, and the kettle feet are green, all of which show up well against the deep cream color of the foundation, $2.49 is the price. This is but a single hint from the Crockery store, where is the biggest assortment of jardinieres to be found anywhere and at the lowest prices.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

China for decorating just one-half price. We will place on sale our entire line of plain white china for decorating in French and German ware at half price. There's plates, bouillon cups, chocolate cups, after dinner coffee cups, tea cups, sugars, creamers, chop plates, celery trays, steins, vases, fern dishes, salad bowls, cake plates, etc. Now, there's no question but what these will sell quickly. It's a rare chance. It will be accepted promptly, so come early. Sale closes to-night. Early morning buyers to-day will secure the choice pieces.—The Crews-Beggs Co., Pueblo, Col.

Sale of China. To-day on big main floor table there will be displayed a lot of fine china which will sell at 50 cents each, although most of the pieces are worth double and many three times the sale price. Included are Haviland plates in several new decorations, also hundreds of pieces of Hohenzollern Austrian china in beautiful patterns—as well as a splendid assortment of footed comports, candlesticks, cake plates, comb and brush trays, card holders, pitchers, plates salads and cups and saucers. Your choice to-day, on main floor.—Schuneman & Evans, St. Paul, Minn.

Half price sale fancy Japanese ware. A large shipment of fine fancy Japanese ware was consigned to a "Frisco" importer, but who, on account of the unsettled conditions of business affairs in that city, was unable to accept these goods; the entire shipment was forwarded to "A Hamburger & Sons" without further expense other than the actual cost of import duty plus a very small fraction of the manufacturer's cost, which enables us to offer them to our customers at a third to a half of their regular worth; these are the genuine Japanese goods, and include the following wares: Bishiu, Hechiyako, Imari, Iryo, Satsuma, Damiuyo, Rorima, Hanatate, and Kunitoni.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles.

Teco pottery, the gift of gifts. The mastery of line which distinguished Teco establishes this ware as America's most serious contribution to the world's permanent art. Its livable green tone is symbolic of cleanliness and purity, making it especially adapted for home decoration and well suited for personal wedding gifts. Teco ware ranges in price from $1 to $35. We have it in all shapes. See our window display.—LeBron Jewellery Co., Montgomery, Ala.

There are two special business opportunities open to our customers at this time. One, the opportunity to buy beautiful fancy crockery at one-half to two-thirds the usual prices. This means that gifts bought now for whatever purpose, will pay large interest on the investment. The coming whist tourney, the birthday remembrance, the June wedding, all may be provided for at substantial savings. Vases, chocolate pots, deep dishes, Japanese ware, decorated plates, etc., are all selling at cost or less. The holiday bargain tables show remarkable reductions.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford.

Remarkable offers in china and cut-glass. From the factory to the home. The Abraham & Straus china and cut glass stores have more china and glass-ware in reserve and on sale than any other two stores in Brooklyn. They may be considered as the salesrooms of the world's best makers. In the ceramic centers of the Old World we have our potteries and in New York are our cut glass factories, so that our assortment is not only unequalled, but our prices, quality for quality, are, as a mere matter of course, considerably lower than those of other stores. Stock adjustments bring even lower than usual prices. We mention merely a few of the items that greet you in the new year.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Plates. In Pickard hand-painted china we are exclusive. No other store shows the line and no other hand-painted china compares with the Pickard. Plates range in price from $1.50 to $5.00. Vases, bowls, nappies, etc., in a great variety of decorations. Unusual admiration has been evoked by our large and remarkable showing.—Geo. K. Munro, Jeweler, Grand Forks, N. D.

All day Saturday 25c. That's half. Our special for to-morrow is as useful as it is beautiful—and that's saying a good deal. Some pitchers, cake plates, fruit bowls, nappies and chop plates, in the 6 and 7 inch sizes, of American china, with attractive cherry pattern decoration. These are well worth 50c. each, but to-morrow we cut the price in two—"two bits" each—for one day. When you come in ask to see the new arrivals in cut glass, rock crystal and Rookwood pottery—some very elegant examples for your inspection.—M. Seller & Co., Spokane, Wash.

Have you seen the Royal Bayruth Ware? It is quite the rage in the East. A beautiful decorative feature and decidedly serviceable, too. Represents all sorts of vegetables and fruits in dishes of every description, cups and saucers in shapes of apples, strawberries, etc.; pineapple-shaped cheese holders, a tomato mayonnaise dish, squash and pumpkin tea sets, watermelon and strawberry shaped pitchers. A lemon forms a handy little salt dish, while the red pepper answers for the pepper shaker, and so the story goes. These are all the go in the large cities, and we were able to secure only one assorted case, so you had better hurry.—The People's Store, Tacoma.

There is not a housekeeper within reach of this store who will not sit up and take notice when she sees this announcement. The Haviland potteries are known the world over as the source of some of the finest china made, and the patrons of this store, to whom we have sold many thousands of dollars' worth of this ware, well know of its excellence, not only in quality but in beauty of the shapes and the charm of the decorations. To get this splendid china so much under price is indeed a treat, and a saving opportunity that economical folks cannot well afford to let pass. Every piece of ware offered in this sale, which we begin to-morrow morning, is of first quality, and there are enough of many patterns to make up small sets, such as ice cream sets, lettuce sets, etc. Some of the attractive features are here listed.—Hahn & Co., Newark, N. J.

Rookwood pottery. Rookwood is different from everything else in the world and every piece of Rookwood is different from every other piece. Your neighbor cannot get a piece like yours. We are exclusive selling agents here for the Rookwood Potteries and we have just received some new and novel colorings.—Geo. K. Munro, Jeweler, Grand Forks, N. D.

The largest day of china selling that this store ever knew was Monday. Today's record will almost equal it—absolute results are unknown, of course, at this writing. What does such selling mean? First, that these broad Schipper & Block movements are watched for by the public. The people know that these trade occasions present extraordinary values that are real and positive. They know, furthermore, that the Schipper & Block March china sale is not a hurried-together jumble of odds and ends, but is a worthy economy opportunity that few housekeepers can afford to pass by.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Chinaware should be close to the heart of every good housekeeper, and, if so, now is the time, during this March sale of china to fill the china and glass cabinets. This sale offers extraordinary varieties and most exceptional economies. Counter after counter is filled with the choicest selections from both the very best American as well as foreign potteries. Once a year we create this extraordinary event, showing good dependable chinaware in every conceivable shape, size and style. Dinner and tea sets of all descriptions and everything else that is known under the term of crockery and glassware will be sold in this sale at prices that must appeal to the most economical pocketbook. Hotel, restaurant and boarding-house keepers cannot afford to miss this sale. The news of buying china at these prices should be just as welcome to them as finding money. The sale will start to-morrow morning and will continue ten days, but of course you must come early. It is likely that those goods that you desire the most will be picked up by some one who comes earlier. The items mentioned below will convince you that this sale is one of the greatest money-saving events for everyone who uses crockery, chinaware and glassware. Look at the following prices; they tell the story.—H. S. Barney Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Lovers of the beautiful in decorative effects will find in the art plates which we have on display the highest embodiment of individual design. Many are exact reproductions of celebrated paintings, and all are worthy of prominent places upon the plate rail. Very beautiful in treatment and artistic in design. Single plates or by the dozen.—T. M. James & Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A few odd pieces of fine china add wonderfully to the beauty and elegance of the dining table, and no matter how complete your set may be, there is always a place for a pretty odd piece or two. Some exquisite designs are shown here of the finest French china.—Dobbs & Wey Co., Atlanta, Ga.

We bought hundreds of these single pieces of tableware—they were so pretty and the price was so low we couldn't resist the temptation. We knew we could sell them quick at 25c. each, for they are worth more.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

If you are going to be married, your friends will ask you what you want. Don't forget to tell them about the color of the dinner set you want and the color your room is going to be. In china you can spend lots or little, and always get useful things. We make a special spurt for display in wedding gifts.—Cuddy & Brodeur, Montreal, Can.

Regular 75 cents decorated steins 29 cents. We have just received a special lot of decorated steins that we are selling for 29 cents each. These steins are the regular 75 cent kinds, but owing to slight imperfections we were able to buy them so as to offer them much below half price. They make very attractive additions to the plate rail and the imperfections are very slight. They are nice enough to go rapidly even at 50 cents, but we bought them for the purpose of offering an interesting special at 29 cents and here they are. The collection includes a variety of colors and shadings, assorted shapes and sizes. The decorations include monk effects, elks, English hunting scenes, fruit, heads, the city gates of St. Augustine, Dutch scenes, etc. Some of the steins are of plain ware, some are embossed and some are finished with gold lines. We haven't many of a kind but there are many kinds and, of course, first buyers get the choicer of the many attractive designs.—Kaufman's, Trenton, N. J.

Beautiful china for Christmas gifts. In suitability for Christmas gifts the better grades of china rank high. Royal Crown Derby and Coalport especially so. Both prized the world over for their exquisite beauty of workmanship and coloring.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Christmas suggestions — china. No housekeeper ever had too many pretty pieces of china. She wants odd plates, odd bowls, odd cups and saucers, chop dishes, tete-a-tete ware, pitchers, bouillon cups, and all that class of attractive china that adds so much to her dining room equipment. Things that are at once decorative and very useful. They enhance the appearance of her table and have a distinctly stylish serviceableness. Give her a piece or set of china, if you would please her. We have the most artistic china in Atlanta. No question of it. Imported ware from French and English factories, chosen for perfect quality and artistic excellence. Cauldon, Coalport, Wedgwood, Pouyat, Dresden, Limoges, Seyres, Minton, Crown Derby—in fact all the reputable and beautiful kinds. From the smallest individual or odd piece to full dinner service. A great collection from which to choose for gift-purposes. Prices from less than one dollar to several hundred dollars.—Maier & Berkele, Atlanta, Ga.

Extraordinary offerings to select from. An unlimited assortment of chinaware and cut glass of exquisite beauty from one of the oldest and best makers. The variety is superb, brilliant, colorful, richly designed. Ours is one of the few retail department stores that import china and glassware direct, and we are one of the largest of those few. Our assortments are always extremely diversified, and our prices are always lower than any other importing retailer would consider profitable. The following are a few examples.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

Do you realize that most women prize their pieces of flashing, scintillating cut glass above all else that graces their tables or sideboards? And that they always want another bowl, or pitcher, or jug, or dish? Doesn't that set you a-thinking? Here's a wonderful gathering of perfect cut crystal. And here are a thousand and one exquisite bits of china. Even a very little money will purchase much of real value. Dinner sets, odd pieces, lamps, are all included.—The Stone, Fisher Co., Tacoma, Wash.

China prices to delight housewives. Make any comparison you can think of. The deeper you dig into the chinaware facts, the firmer will be the truth in your mind that this store's prices are lowest and that the grade of ware is unusually good. Read these crisp bargain truths—then come Tuesday prepared to save money.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Topeka, Kan.

The crockery section presents an elaborate display. All the art centers of the world have been searched through and through in the gathering of these beautiful art pieces now assembled in our crockery section. The whole range of ceramic art is represented broadly, lavishly. Of Russian hand beaten copper we have probably the largest collection to be found in any establishment in the Pacific northwest; selected under the most advantageous conditions for choicest designs and lowest prices. There is a companion collection of pedestals, in classic and modern designs. There is a magnificent collection of hand-painted vases and other pieces—all our own selections direct from the most famous decorators. Never before have we had such a superb collection. There is a broad variety of Haviland plates in crested gold design, Coalport Royal Dresden and Royal Netherland plates in splendid variety of most artistic beauty and wide scope of treatment. There are striking art nouveau designs in pottery. The collection of cut glass includes many small, dainty pieces that are quite inexpensive, as well as a splendid variety of most elaborate pieces. The display of electric reading lamps includes designs suitable for library, parlor or living-room. The main aisle exhibits some of the most striking designs. The art section of this store invites you, and is royally, royally ready to entertain and delight its visitors. Special price inducements on fine goods for this week.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

Handsome French china as gifts. As gift suggestions of a practical character there are few to take precedence over this lovely Limoges china, either by single piece or complete set. The exquisite colorings and artistic designs and patterns of this beautiful ware represent the highest achievements of those celebrated French potteries.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

This extraordinary sale in high-grade dinnerware is causing great excitement in Winnipeg. The entire assortment came through the fire. Not a single dozen but is damaged, or in some way it doesn't look like new, and comes in under the low fire-sale price. Copeland's dinnerware is the very finest grade of English manufacture. Every home should obtain some of these splendid lines, at unheard of fire prices. Stacks and stacks are available—immense quantities were stored in the burnt warehouse. Of course some are more soiled and require more washing than others, and it will pay well to make an early selection.—Hudson's Bay Co., Winnipeg.

Styles change in chinaware as well as in other things. The leading manufacturers are constantly evolving novel shapes and new decorative effects. Our stock reflects the best talent of the potter's art and new creations from the foremost potteries of the old world are gathered here for your choosing.—Dobbs & Wey Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Souvenirs—imported and hand-decorated china. We have, through a leading New York importer, secured a beautiful variety of English decorated plates from the famous potteries of Henry Alcock & Co., W. L. Grindley & Co., Alfred Meakin, Ltd., John Haddock & Sons, and others, together with a unique variety of Japanese hand-decorated china, consisting of bowls, bon bon dishes, creamers, bread and butter plates, cups and saucers, pitchers, egg cups, nut bowls, etc. The English plate decorations include green Alhambra, green Esmond, pink rose, white and gold shamrock, green Ormonde, flow blue Granada, etc. Every article in the collection is valuable for practical every-day use and each one appropriate for house decoration. Ladies, you will be amazed at this unusual offer when you see the articles and contemplate their intrinsic value. Everybody will agree with us, however, that mementos of this character cannot be distributed indiscriminately, hence choice of all these articles will be restricted to purchase of 50c. and over in any department. Everybody welcome from 8 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. Friday, May 3d.—The McWaters-Dolan Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Beautiful china richly decorated dinner and game sets, individual pieces and novelties in ceramics. Our china, glass ware and bric-a-brac departments on the third floor, Market Street front, are a veritable treasure house for the seeker after handsome Christmas gifts. Here you will find stupendous stocks of thousands of beautiful articles. To-day we call special attention to the exquisitely decorated china. Nothing adds so much to the Christmas cheer of a dining-room as a beautifully set table—and in dinner sets we have a variety that is not equaled in this city for design, beauty or price.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Like most every manufactured article it has its imitation. The reduced prices we have placed on this line during the removal sale may seem too cheap for the genuine cut, but here is just the difference—the cheap quality price on the good quality cut which means a great saving for you. Look over your collection and see if you do not need some particular piece or perhaps you have a wedding or other gifts to buy.—P. G. Diener, Harrisburg, Pa.

A remarkable sale of china cups, saucers and plates. No more striking instance could be given of the unrivaled values which have this season distinguished the Loeser china store than this splendid offering of fine china cups and saucers and plates which will be made here to-morrow. It is not a clean up of odds and ends. It would be noteworthy enough if it was. But these are plates, cups and saucers which even here have been sold for the full prices; which, in many instances, cannot be matched even for the full prices outside of this store.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Immense sale of Japanese china at half price. China, as you know, is not one of the regular lines carried by us. Stocked only for the Christmas selling, and as it's not our policy to carry any goods over, we have decided to place the whole lot on sale to-morrow at prices that will make a quick clearance. Lovely decorated china in cups and saucers, bon bon and olive dishes, nut bowls, salad and tobacco jars, trinkets, etc., on sale Friday at one-half marked price.—R. McKay & Co., Hamilton, Can.

If there is a possible criticism to be made of this fancy china stock, it would come from the bewildered shopper who finds too great a variety here to be able to decide on which is the most attractive among so many beautiful styles and decorations. Perhaps never before has there been such a splendid selection anywhere as we offer in these pretty holiday pieces at the present time.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Our direct imported patterns in French, English and Austrian china are from the foremost manufacturers and are selected from their most artistic designs. Many of them are shown nowhere else except in this store, and the collection on display here embraces only the best quality wares as well as the most desirable patterns. Special designs or monograms are made to order and sets are made up of any number or variety of pieces.—Dobbs & Wey Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Chafing Dish China. On Ridgway's good English porcelain in half-tone effect, under-glaze, are put illustrations from "Coaching Days and Coaching Ways"—quaint English country scenes. There are two shades of warm brown and each piece is edged with a pure silver band. For the chafing-dish supper in den or studio nothing could be better.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Beautiful Haviland china in stock patterns. That's the great beauty of a stock pattern, those who would not feel warranted in buying a full set of Haviland at one time—can build up the set piece by piece and hardly notice the expense. This stock pattern is handsomely decorated with clusters of natural colored purple violets and green leaves. The edges and handles are richly finished in heavy gold.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

In our crockery department are to be found some of the best examples of the crockery maker's art. We have the Haviland, Bassett, Carlsbad and the Austrian. The former are shown in the most exquisite tints and decorations. Whatever style you may wish you are sure to be pleased with the assortment that we can show you.—Goble, Pratt & Robbins, Spokane, Wash.

Great selling of pretty chinaware. Many new arrivals are now here. Artistic designs are predominant in this section. All are pretty. The matter then resolves itself into a question of choosing.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City.

The new patterns and shapes in fancy china, handsome and attractively priced. Housekeepers who wish new pieces for their own use as well as those who are seeking dainty pieces for gifts for friends, will enjoy looking over the two collections.—Wanamaker, New York.

Our experience of many years has given us a pretty correct idea of the sort of dinnerware in greatest demand among furnishers of summer homes. With this knowledge of the popular desire our china buyer made special arrangements for unusually large quantities of dinner sets that had the beauty and serviceable qualities desired, and which, by reason of his vast orders, he could secure at little more than half their original cost. They are one-hundred piece dinner sets of American porcelain, in pretty floral decorations, each piece with gilt edges. Each set contains the exceptionally large pieces such as soup tureen and three large platters.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

These are the most extraordinary values in the history of china retailing, for the prices we quote are less than you'd have to pay for common white china dinner sets. There are only a hundred sets altogether, so you'd better be here on time. This is a splendid chance for folks looking for appropriate wedding gifts or replenishing their own china closets to get something extraordinary.—Bloomington's, New York.

The Japanese china included in this sale is of the finest grade. It is from Tokio, Imari, Ausata, Kaga, Modern Satsuma, Moriagi, Tajmi and Sedji. In beauty and desirability it ranks with the best of French and Austrian china. At these prices you should have all you want.—14th Street Store, New York.

Have you ever inspected our exclusive China and Crockery Store? It will pay you to do so. We carry the finest lines of fine China, Cut Glass, Pottery, etc., in the northwest, in connection with the "Store that Saves You Money."—Boutell Bros., Minneapolis.

Here's a tempting tableful of pretty, individual pieces of Fancy China from Austria; in bright flower decorations with gold; at out-and-out reductions ranging from a quarter to one-third.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

You cannot imagine anything much daintier than this French china; it is prettily shaped and scattered over its surface are the daintiest of tiny blue roses. The edges and handles are lined with burnished gold. And then it is genuine French china, received direct from Limoges, the home of the finest and best.—S. E. Kaufman, Trenton, N. J.

Among the fresh arrivals from the china markets of France and Austria, there are no more pleasing designs than those embodied in this special lot. Careful attention was given to the securing of the broadest range of novelties and table pieces.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

We have made sharp reductions throughout our basement stocks of china and glassware, thereby creating buying opportunities of the rarest sort. Stock-taking time is not far distant, and we count upon you to help us by helping yourself to the remarkable economies in dinner sets, and dozens of china and glass pieces, toilet wares and novelties widely varied. Details of a few must serve as a guide for all.—Macy's, New York.

To serve a repast in daintiest china is but another way of inviting the appetite. That's a first plea for pretty china. But the housewife likes to have her china closets full of it, taking pride in her collection. We suggest clearance time as the right time for the economic housekeeper to invest.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

An extraordinary opportunity to pick up desirable odd pieces for a small sum. Expecting an increased business we have carefully arranged the tables to facilitate selection.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Show off your china.—What is the use of having pretty china and hiding it away in some corner? Buy a plate rack at the Rookery—costs but $1—makes china show off.—The Rookery Jackson.

Have you seen this white Austrian China? It is very modestly priced.—It is as dainty as can be, the shapes are odd and pretty, and around the edge of each dish is a tiny beaded border of white. You can buy it either by the whole dinner set or by the single piece. We import it direct from Austrian maker, save the profit of the "middle man," and sell it to you cheaper than other stores.—Kaufman's, Trenton, N. J.

Dinner sets. Exclusive designs. To attempt an individual description—in this limited space—of their merits and loveliness would be practically an impossibility. You must see them, get the prices, which will more than delight you, then you will realize that nowhere else in Utica can you provide such.—W. E. Gray, Utica, N. Y.

Here is some of the best news of these beautiful wares that we have told of in many a day. It is unusual to have such offerings at this time in spic-span new goods, but some fortunate arrivals make it possible to present them, and straight-way they go to you. Housekeepers who are buying furniture can add still further to their August economies by selecting from these four groups of dinner sets, this fascinating collection of china, and the brilliant array of cut glass, many pieces of which are entirely new designs, not previously shown.—Wanamaker, New York.

We are closing out fine open-stock dinner set patterns—some half price, others one-third less. Not the cheap American ware, but finest Royal English porcelain. There's flower sprays, dark blue and green designs, in fact, all kinds—some one of these will go nicely with your dishes. You can buy a set or any odd pieces you need. But they are going fast—better come quickly.—S. Sternheim & Son, San Francisco, Cal.

An interesting story for thrifty housekeepers. We'll let you judge of the quality and prettiness of the pieces. We have a word to say about the cost. The former prices of these pieces were very low—and, from these low prices, we have made these still more remarkable reductions. The opportunity is one for appreciative money-saving housekeepers—and the chance for economy is as clear as crystal.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

If you need china here is your chance.

There isn't anything we could say that would bring the fact too emphatically to your notice that this store does offer the very greatest inducements in its china and crockery department. Not only are the prices low, the pieces and sets offered are of high quality and beautiful finish. No matter whether you need one piece, a couple of plates or cups and saucers, or a complete dinner, game or fish set—it's here, better than elsewhere and for less money. That's a broad statement but facts substantiate it.—O'Neills, Binghamton, N. Y.

Your wife happy and the table attractive with a selection from our beautifully decorated dinner sets. You not only have this magnificent assortment to select from, but are assured that whatever price you pay, you are getting good material.—H. Dinwoodey Furniture Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

Some cool-looking lettuce-leaf ware is in the China Store—china, of course, but you almost think you are eating off the lettuce leaves themselves. The right color is there and so are the veins of the leaf, and the shading. Nice for luncheons or out-door suppers on a hot day. The idea and the original ware came from Italy; this is American and about a quarter as much as the other.—Wanamakers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Hints of wedding gifts.—When the wedding gifts are all spread out, china, cut glass and like wares are always liberally represented. The needs of the future china closet are of prime importance. The crockery store is rich in suggestions of givable things that couple serviceability with daintiness and beauty.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

Every week we endeavor to offer a new and attractive array of special values in the basement, where the china, crockery, cut glass, and house furnishings come to us and go out to our patrons in endless procession. This week we feel we have done even better than usual, as our friends doubtless will be quick to observe. Furniture and other departments also offer choice values—and there is satisfaction in knowing that everyone of them is honest and true.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo.

If you appreciate fine tableware you cannot well afford to miss this sale. The reductions in every instance are unusually generous, many of the choicest pieces being marked at one-half of former prices. Included are the very finest specimens of French cut and engraved glassware and richly decorated china plates, cups and saucers.—Dulin & Martin Co., Washington, D. C.

Please take a peep into our show window, and observe the beautiful French china, and the way we have marked it down in price. It is seldom that such bargains are ever offered on such delightful china. They will last but a few days more, and we urge you to take advantage of them while such beautiful pieces are here.—C. H. Case & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Cheap crockery, that is, if you consider half price cheap. And good American semi-porcelain, at that, with attractive decorations. We've many other pieces at equally big reductions.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

A splendid opportunity to buy some nice dainty china at insignificant prices. They are beautifully decorated in gold, flowers and scenery.—Hudson's Variety Store, Washington, D. C., Feb. 22, 1902.

Several large tables are laden with beautifully decorated fine Limoges china, containing all the useful articles for table use, as well as garniture for the sideboard or china closet.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Why not pitch into china at these prices? Especially as the array of beautiful sets and pieces includes absolutely new patterns never shown. We want to prove to women who may never have visited our china store that they will find as good and as beautiful china service here as is shown and save money on every article.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A hundred and thirty thousand dollars' worth of china and kindred goods spread out for inspection—two-thirds of an acreful on fourth floor. That space overflowed, and this week we hold half The Thoroughfare on first floor as an annex. Not everything is reduced; but very nearly half the items are—and are plainly and exactly marked. This is a sale on the same broad lines as the furniture sale—and, like the furniture, the china store has been recently lifted to a new plane of helpfulness and service-giving. And how the business bounded! Why bargains just now? They're planned—stocks that the potters must clear up and lines that we must readjust. We simply steered the tendency into this month. We could have done the same in January or April—but as it can be done but once in a half-year we choose February—to-day. Present and prospective china buyers are invited—the prospective ones asked to plan quickly before the urgent ones pick up all of the best.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

The Pottery Association of America—located at East Liverpool, Ohio—so called trust, that started out to regulate the prices of American-made crockery, found themselves up against a stone wall. The crockery didn't break—but the trust did—and their splendid stock was thrown on the market at appalling prices. Our buyer went to East Liverpool and bought two solid carloads. This was a month ago. The cars arrived Friday—and the sale will begin to-morrow. The details speak for themselves. It is plain white porcelain—the sort that is used in the better class of hotels and restaurants. It is equally desirable for common everyday use in the home and for summer cottages and boarding houses.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

The beauty of Rockwood Art Pottery is not alone in its wonderful glaze; it's in the artist, whose genius shows itself in graceful, individual shapes and who arranges the various colors so that Persian red, olive green, rich browns and golden yellows all blend into each other perfectly. Then, too, he paints the flowers and designs as fancy leads him, so that you'll never find two pieces just alike.—Glenny's, Rochester, N. Y.

A good many people will be surprised to know that the bulk of the dinner sets purchased for this September sale are china.

Above $10—with one or two exceptions—there is no stoneware.

The opinion is current that in order to get an inexpensive dinner set it is necessary to get porcelain or stoneware. But the tremendous buying power of this store makes it possible to sell good china at the prices of ordinary stoneware.

In china sets, the glaze and the body are fired into one another. When a piece of china is broken, you will find the under part the same color as the top. And the glaze holds and keeps.

Stoneware, on the other hand, has the glaze and body fired separately, and there is always danger of the top layer cracking, or crazing, as it is called.

But porcelain in this sale is always sold for porcelain and china for china. You will know exactly what you are getting.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Every woman who has a beautiful set of china or queensware likes to have other people know it. She needs a china closet for her dining-room, and for all they cost they return a big per cent. in satisfaction and economy as well.—The Boston Store, Winchester, Ind.

We are offering remarkable values in new Austrian china by reason of having fortunately secured a large assortment at a special price. Each article has been marked at the very lowest consistent figure.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

Lenten china—cut in prices. Substantial reductions in fish sets and oyster plates in Limoges, Carlsbad and Haviland china.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

China opportunities to be grasped. Opportunity frequently makes the man—but he must be alive to it. Here are opportunities for china, glass, lamp and bric-a-brac buying which mean big economies if you are alert and take advantage of them.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg.

Need a dinner set? There's a strong reason why you should purchase it here to-morrow, and that reason is—Economy.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Dinner and toilet sets reduced.—All sorts are included, from the finest Limoges down to the ordinary porcelain ware. Hence, every want in china can be met—and at a big saving from heretofore prices. Now's the biggest economy time of the year—accordingly the best time to buy.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Tea pot sale.—“Polly, put the kettle on and we'll all have tea.” Here is a special sale of English jet tea pots that will interest you. They are beauties, with hand painted decorations, all sizes and shapes. The collection is the finest ever shown in Saginaw, and at the prices they are great bargains.—H. Watson & Co., Saginaw, Mich.

Specials in dinner and toilet sets.—If you've longed for a new dinner or toilet set, now's the ideal chance to indulge your wish, as we've materially lowered prices on a considerable portion of our stock.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

There's a disturbance in china.—We are not referring to the Chinese empire, but to our china store. There's a big price upset going on. The chief has ordered a bold charge on all odd lines, and they must give way to the fire of cut prices. Our china store to-morrow will be a veritable scene of massacre (price massacre), the sort that profits you very greatly.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Best potteries of France and Germany made the china. It's the exquisitely decorated which was used to tempt trade.

Each design is a masterpiece. Best china decorators known conceived them. The ware is unexcelled for home use or house decoration. Lovers of fine china will find this an opportunity we can't promise ever to repeat. We've never known of anything quite as good before. Can you realize what it means to buy ravishingly beautiful china at prices starting at 10c? Read what's included in the lots.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Dinner sets.—Thanksgiving is coming next month, remember. Better see our new dinner sets now.—Bliss & Nye, New Bedford, Mass.

When buying cut glass why not get the best? You pay no more for it here than some ask for “seconds.” China Hall.—Geo V. Millar & Co., Scranton.

Here's the season for dinner parties. Are you ready? Don't you need a few pieces of china or glass? Wouldn't a bonbon dish of fine American cut glass, in brilliant deep cutting, make a corner of your table shine? And don't your eyes shine at the price?—The Fair, Chicago, Ill.

Have you an eye for things artistic? If so, this captivating array of choice jugs ought to please you greatly.—China Hall, Scranton, Pa.

CURTAINS

Figured muslin for curtains.—Fleur de lis and bow knots are two of the particularly pretty patterns we have in muslin curtainings by the yard. Then we have a lot of new dotted designs in various sizes. The quality of these muslins is excellent.—Burke's, Rochester, N. Y.

Draperies and curtains.—If you are looking for exclusiveness, novelty and beauty, if you are looking for variety and moderateness of price this big curtain and drapery department of ours will interest you. The fall stocks are now complete and fairly bristle with novelties in fine laces, beautiful portieres and lovely draperies of all sorts and descriptions, all the latest tapestries, velours and other materials for fine upholstery and drapery work.—The Los Angeles Furn. Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Point de Calais curtains at half-price.—The Frenchmen have brought out a new style of lace curtain that is after the character of the Irish point and Tambour net, though distinctly different, and certainly, in some ways, better. The patterns are pretty and effective. A collection of these Point de Calais curtains was among the surplus stock of an importer, and we secured them to offer you to-day at just half-price. The variety to select from is very broad; and the opportunity to secure at little cost curtains of distinctly new and effective character will be pleasing to all thrifty and tasteful housekeepers.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Whirlwind sale of lace curtains.—S. Kann Sons & Co., Baltimore, Md.

So many splendid things—and by that we mean good laces at very small prices—are crowded to get at your eyes that it's hard to pick and choose.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Lace curtain specials.—Don't you think it's about time you bought some new curtains for those windows? Surely never a better time than now since we are offering some very special inducements for Monday. Come in and see them—here's a few—gives you an idea of others.—Freimuth's, Duluth, Minn.

Lace curtains. An importer's clean-up. Spic-span-new, fresh, perfect goods just recently received from one of the largest and most reliable importing houses in the trade. Enough to make quite an important sale for this quiet month; but a mere drop in the bucket for the importer to take a loss on. The lot includes all the more important kinds of lace curtains; the patterns are of the highest character; and the variety is exceptionally broad. You may select your fall curtains with quite as much satisfaction now as later.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Monday—Just at a time when they are most needed comes this unusual offer of lace curtains at one-third and half their regular prices. The lots range from 1 to 3 pairs of a pattern. Some lots, including the soiled samples, consist of high grade Scotch net weaves, corded Arabians, real Arabians, Swiss and Brussels points, bobbinet and ruffled curtains.—Golden Rule, St. Paul.

A grand May sale of lace curtains. This sale is the result of the largest and most successful spring business in the history of our lace curtain store. The demands have been enormous. Lines consisting of hundreds of pairs three months ago are now reduced to six or eight. Of course we have sent in another order (will be here in a day or two), but before it comes we're going to startle the lace curtain trade with a three-day sale, the like of which has never before been seen here.—John Breuner Co., Sacramento, Cal.

You can save almost as much as you pay on every pair you buy—they are priced at almost half for to-day's sale. These curtains are made of heavy bobbinet, with real Battenberg insertion and edging—real Battenberg in a 95c curtain! The body of the curtain is fine English net, in white or Arabian. They are 2 1-2 yards long and 40 inches wide. As shown in the picture herewith, the ruffles are good and full. All in all it's a bargain at $1.75, but to-day—think of it—to-day they're priced, for a pair, at just 95c.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

These splendid wearing diamond net curtains were specially purchased at a very low price. In addition to this, we have shaved our own profits to the disappearing point in order to make them doubly attractive.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

In the lace curtain department we are offering some particularly dainty things just now. The new goods, fresh from the looms, are being shown in a large variety of pretty patterns and novel designs and colorings. Cool looking, restful and satisfying to the eye and sense, they are particularly appropriate for summer use, whether it be in city mansion or summer cottage.—Adam, Mel-drum & Anderson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Just for Friday only you can have any odd pair of curtains in stock at a third less than the marked price. This offer includes every variety of curtain known to the trade. We have too many in pair lots. Some patterns are very similar to each other.—Barker Bros., Los Angeles, Cal.

The best possible time to buy lace curtains. This very day. For you're amply repaid for selecting now the lace curtains you'll need a little later on, by the savings of a third to a half on the handsome new curtains that compose this splendidly broad sale. Thousands of pairs are in the gathering, including all the most popular sorts—the remainder of this season's stock from one of the best importers.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

A magnificent collection of curtains at about half price. Think of doing an average week's curtain business in a single day, and repeating the process day after day for three weeks with patrons increasing, and with a stock kept full and complete by the almost daily unpacking of fresh cases of beautiful window draperies—that's our record for April.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

The biggest bargain in lace curtains you will see this season. What do you think of getting curtains worth $3 a pair for 50c a pair? Would you call that a bargain, or would you say it was more than a bargain—a Malleyism?—Edw. Malley Co., New Haven, Conn.

Cluny curtains. Lowered prices on one lot of cluny curtains will save a third or more. The body of the curtain is plain French net, with edges and sometimes insertions of cluny lace—not quite so open as you usually expect in cluny, but prettily woven in small designs.—Taylor's, Cleveland, Ohio.

Rousing curtain sale. The entire stock of the Pennsylvania Lace Curtain Mills, amounting to $35,000, at prices heretofore unknown in the curtain business. Don't miss this chance to renew your curtains. Our curtain department has been moved into enlarged quarters on the third floor where this sale will be held.—Rothschild & Company, Chicago, Ill.

Summer curtains for summer days. The air seems fresher and the room brighter when the summer curtains go up. We never had so great a variety to choose from. A great many of the patterns were made to our exclusive order and are not shown elsewhere.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Fine Nottingham lace curtains interestingly priced. This is a very large and handsome collection of Nottingham lace curtains, all marked at prices that are bound to attract housekeeping women.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Another week of our great curtain clearance. The curtain chief is pitiless. As he goes through box after box and shelf after shelf, he continues his stern reductions. One-half and one-third off is the rule. Not 1-100 of the bargains are mentioned here. Come to the store any day this week—but the earlier the better—and you'll find a bargain harvest far beyond your fondest expectations.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg.

Lace curtain bargains for May buyers.—We have made great preparations for the usual large demand which always comes at just this season of the year, when moving and general refurnishing are in vogue, and we are now offering many extraordinary bargains in lace and muslin curtains and curtain materials by the yard. From the very inexpensive grades to the more elaborate parlor curtains we show an almost unlimited variety, and for equal values our low prices cannot be duplicated. Three very special lots at saving prices: Fine parlor curtains, comprising a splendid line of patterns in Battenberg, Brussels and Arabian laces, at a saving of about one-third—per pair, $15.00.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Made of excellent Swiss muslin, in ten different patterns—dots and figures—spic-span-new, nicely made, with plain ruffle—style shown in picture. Forty inches wide, three yards long. No need to tell housekeepers how desirable they are for decorating summer homes. You'd count them excellent value if we asked a dollar—yet they are only 75c a pair.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Fresh lace curtains for the window? If you're thinking of them, let these two offerings tempt you into immediate action. The curtains involved are spic-and-span, crisp and fresh; and marked at about two-thirds prices.—Wanamaker, New York.

Heavy curtains.—Several patterns at special prices.

Some kinds we shall discontinue; others the color assortments are broken. Some of the latter will be renewed, but they are going to cost more when we have them again—a good deal more.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Here are dainty, fresh, durable lace curtains for dining-room, parlor or bedroom. And such an assortment—few stores would show half so many.—Robert Wright & Co., Brockville, Ont.

Swiss curtains, pair 48c. Thrifty housewives cannot afford to overlook these. The public has learned that we mean just what we say when we advertise an article underpriced.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Have you seen those fine Dowie curtains? Thousands of pairs direct from Zion City are on sale at a saving of fully one-third. Crowds stop to inspect and admire the handicraft of the Zion City lace industries, on exhibition in one of our Grand Avenue windows. Crowds are coming to the great fourth floor intent on sharing in the wonderful values offered in this big sale of the best lace curtains made in America.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Even now fall patterns are beginning to come and while it's doubtful if they are prettier than the old, yet the spring and summer styles must go and at sharp price reductions—to make room for the new, if for no other reason. You may search Kansas City from end to end but you will find no better values than these.—Geo. B. Peck Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

A bonfire of curtains.—Barker's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Snowflake curtains—the very name makes you feel cool.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

We have just received from the mill an enormous stock of white and Arabian lace curtains, all new 1905 stock and patterns. No old, stale, discontinued patterns. They are all new designs every one first-class quality in every respect from start to finish, and at very low prices, quality considered. Come and see for yourself.—Roberts Bros., Portland, Ore.

Dainty curtains.—This famous section of our store has a few superlative offers to make in the brightest, freshest, newest and most demanded textile decorations for homes. Every artistic design, every pronounced idea in curtains, is here in bulk, not in sample. These special offers are positive sellers. Don't miss them. They may not soon come your way again.—Hahne & Co., Newark.

Lace curtains. Don't skip our lace curtain and upholstery department. What woman doesn't want her home to look pretty with snowy curtains and beautiful portieres?—Reynolds, Troy.

An opera without music! Not pleasing. And windows without curtains! Cold, cheerless and uninviting. No hanging contributes more to the attractiveness of a room than pretty curtains. The prices need not be large. Permit us to show you the newest effects.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

A show of curtains for spring. And a curtain once won fame for its creator. It was a painting. The draperies so well depicted on canvas that the critic stepped to draw it aside. The curtain was the masterpiece. These are not paintings, to be sure. Fit, indeed, for art inspiration. The display is rich in reproductions of fine old European draperies. There is a notable reproduction of an old Gochique pattern. A beauty that a connoisseur knows is the reflection of an old renaissance velvet.—Schiffer & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Lace curtains. Hundreds of dainty airy kinds of curtains ready to put up when the heavy winter draperies come down.—Hills, M'Lean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

Lace curtains. A remarkable collection of stunning new imported creations for 1908! Dainty and effective designs that will delight the artistic eye—stylish to the last degree, beautiful beyond compare and priced low enough for anybody.—Trorlicht, Duncker & Renard, St. Louis, Mo.

Curtains. No wonder curtain buyers are coming here in ever increasing number. The stimulus is easy to find. It is the spirit of thrift. Our goods and prices are concrete expressions of the surest, safest and truest money saving—no matter how low the price may be, you'll always find qualities and styles right.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

We have reinforced the stocks and invite you to another feast to-morrow. We believe beautiful curtains were never bought for so little. Let us show you these Nottingham and Irish Points.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

You save a third on these lace curtains and they're extra good, too.—Siegel-Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Annual curtain sale grows in significance. Perhaps we won't be able to print news of the annual curtain sale each day. But there will be curtain bargains a-plenty for all every day this week. No matter what kind of curtains you prefer, you have only to come to this sale to secure them for less than you would expect to pay—and for one-fourth to one-third less than you would pay under ordinary conditions.—Burke's, Rochester, N. Y.

Early arrivals of the new spring curtains are coming along like the first robins, one or two at a time. Here is one you will be interested in. Don't miss it.—J. V. Adams & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

These sample curtain ends are all assorted in mated pairs, with the exception of the corded Arabians, which are in pairs but not mated. These samples make most beautiful sash curtains, glass curtains or short curtains.—The David C. Beggs Co., Columbus, Ohio.

We have just gone through our lace curtain stocks, and picked out the small lots of one, two and three pairs of a pattern, which have been left during the spring selling. To-day they are grouped in three classes, according to the number. The single-pair lots are marked a third under-price, two-pair lots a quarter under-price and the three-pair lots a fifth under-price. The collection includes practically all varieties of summer curtains, presenting many, of course, that are desirable all year 'round.—John Wanamaker, New York.

For an artistic treatment of the average archway, you can use nothing better nor more effective than a pretty rope portiere. Such a hanging is light and dainty and the cost is much less than a festooned drapery made of some heavy fabric.—John Breuner Co., Sacramento.

If you are going to get some new curtains for your home this fall, do not miss seeing our splendid collection. A most useful aggregation of beautiful designs with makes and patterns suitable for the modest cottage as well as the most exclusive designs for the high class drawing-room.—Thomas C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Broken lots are the long pole that knock some desirable lace curtains from their price perch.—Chamberlin-Johnson-Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

A small purse will go a long way in this curtain store just now. It is particularly good news at this season of the year, when the thought uppermost in the mind of the housewife is the recur-

There are plenty of each pattern from which to make your selection—hundreds of different varieties. They include all lengths. Many of them are exquisite copies of Brussels, Irish Point, Renaissance and novelty effects. They come in handsome, bold, heavy patterns.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Curtains and draperies add more to the appearance of a room than any other feature of its furnishings. We have just opened a magnificent stock of the newest patterns in Brussels and cable net, Battenberg, Irish Point, Arabian net, ruffled nets, Nottingham and ruffled muslins. Prices from 50c per pair up. You can find some beautiful curtains here at very reasonable prices.—J. W. Smith D. G. Co., Leadville, Colo.

Not in years have you had such an opportunity to buy lace curtains as cheap as you will get them during this sale. Limited space here prohibits the mention of more than a few of the leading numbers. Lots of choice styles in small lots will go quickly, so come early.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

The housekeeper who desires to furnish her home attractively, yet economically, has a golden opportunity in this sale of lace curtains. Preparatory to making extensive alterations, we have blue-penciled all small lots of lace curtains to hurry them out to new owners. Can you resist these tempting prices?—Minneapolis D. G. Co., Minneapolis.

An especially attractive line of lace curtains and portieres at prices that meet any taste and pocketbook.—Hills, M'Lean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

The fact that it costs the manufacturer as much to make these curtains as they cost you is the reason 'exacting home-furnishers are losing no time in selecting their curtains and upholsteries, for they realize that an unprecedented event of this kind can last only a short time. The manufacturer has taken a tremendous loss to clear his surplus stocks, and when they are all gone it will be impossible to buy these excellent qualities at less than twice the prices that are making this sale the talk of the town.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

These are pretty bobbinet curtains trimmed with real Battenberg and are made of the finest imported net, have deep, full ruffles trimmed with Battenberg lace and wide Battenberg lace insertion down front.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Annual June sale of odd pairs lace curtains at 50c on the dollar.—Odd pairs Brussels. Odd pairs Irish Point. Odd pairs Scotch cable net. Odd pairs ruffled net, lace and Battenberg edge. Odd pairs corded Arabian. Odd pairs embroidered muslin. Odd pairs Nottingham lace. These curtains all at half price will be found in the basement curtain section.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Lace curtains at reduced price.—Our splendid stock of lace curtains representing so splendidly in its comprehensiveness the best ideas and products of the leading lace curtain makers of the world, has at this time an unusual number of odd pairs and patterns that are to be discontinued. In order to dispose at once of all broken lines price reductions have been made without stint, and lace curtain buyers will be sure to profit by a visit to this section on the fourth floor.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Thrifty housewives, wideawake rooming-house and hotel-keepers, as well as public institution superintendents, will profit by attending this important event—Rhodes Brothers' semi-annual stock-adjusting sale. We shall be extremely busy, as these curtains are extremely high-class and prices are cut to the quick for rapid selling. Every visitor to this sale may share the wonderful savings, as every item is a bargain even at the regular price. What must it be at about half?—Rhodes Bros., Tacoma.

You're going into winter quarters now, fixing up your home as cosy and comfortable as you can, aren't you? Heavy curtains are among the foremost requirements. There's a draft here or there that you want to cut off, not to mention the air of beauty they lend to your apartments.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton.

To-morrow we will be prepared to show the fall lace curtains, including all the newest effects in Point Arabe, Point de Paris, Irish Point, Madras, Renaissance and Nottingham. Interesting as will be the beautiful display (the finest even we have ever had), we will make it more so by the special price inducements.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

For the lover of fine, sheer, dainty curtain there's nothing to compare with the Brussels lace. These are exquisitely hand wrought on Brussels nets. The designs are marvels of beauty and you save one-third to one-half.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Dainty ruffled muslin curtains at $1.25 a pair. You would have to pay that for the material alone. The secret of the low price is that we bought the white figured muslin under price and then had our work-rooms make them up during odd moments in the dull season. It's a rare chance to get new curtains for the summer home or cottage.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis, Wis.

Were you at the curtain sale last week? There is just a possibility that you were not, though it would seem that just about every Kansas Cityan who has a house to furnish must have been in last week. If you were not here, this additional news will specially interest you. Some of the best values are being announced to-day. The added items are.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Grenadine and Snowflake Striped Curtains. Not the ones we advertised some time ago—they are all gone. This is a lot of about six hundred pairs, including samples from our wholesale department, and there is good choosing in the color effects. There is an occasional soil-mark on the samples, which is easily removed.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Housecleaning time is here—new curtains are necessary to many homes—here they are—nearly two thousand pairs—just the styles every housekeeper wants most. It is a fact that this sale offers the choicest imported lace curtains at the ordinary prices of domestic goods.—Field, Schlick & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

This week particular attention will be given to lace and muslin curtains, draperies, and materials in our big department on the third floor. Most of the homes in Saginaw have windows or whole rooms to be refurnished in the general spring housecleaning, so we have provided with a lavish hand everything that need or fancy will require for the filling of any want. Lace and muslin curtains of every description, portieres, draperies, window hangings and shades, as well as materials for making special things to give the finishing touch to some room or corner.—The M. W. Tanner Co., Saginaw, Mich.

We have stocked this department with the most sought-after patterns of Brussels lace, Irish Point, Renaissance and Nottingham lace curtains, also draperies and portieres, in the newest and richest colorings. The introductory prices are especially tempting. Our stock of fine Haviland china is now complete, and includes the most popular decorations in dinner and tea sets, in great variety.—Gately's Mammoth Credit House, Saginaw, Mich.

At remarkable price savings. Our lace curtain department is holding forth some very unusual price offerings. You will find from the very lowest priced number in our line that there is an individuality about them that marks the correctness in style. Every number is marked at a saving.—The Stanley Co., Baraboo, Wis.

Handsome curtains in a special sale. This affair is unusual, coming as it does at the height of the season for draperies. The curtains have been chosen from our enormous lace curtain stock, and involves between seventy-five and one hundred beautiful designs in the different makes. Every curtain in the sale will show a marked reduction from the regular price, for it is our purpose to cut down the remarkable assortment of effects necessitated by our immense business, and to do this quickly and effectively we made drastic and determined mark-downs. The sale gives you the chance to freshen the appearance of your windows in the chambers, dining-room, library and parlor, for the sale includes laces of every kind, besides the madras colored goods. It is a splendid opportunity for those who are fitting up their country homes.—John G. Myers Co., Albany, N. Y.

French hand-made lace curtains. Guaranteed values $10.00 to $16.00 pair for $7.75. The curtains involved in this remarkable purchase by Chandler & Co., are the end of a season's stock of a New York importing house supplying the fine decorating trade throughout the country. After much negotiation the entire lot was secured so that all styles can be offered at one price, though many are worth double.—Chandler & Co., Boston, Mass.

Lace curtains and draperies. That dainty touch of elegance, so necessary to the well-furnished house, is supplied by our curtains and portieres. So complete a line has never been shown in this city before. You'll find any style you require for the proper furnishing of your rooms in our stocks at prices far below what you have expected to pay. Give us a call on these goods and see the savings that will result.—Greene's, Jersey City, N. J.

New lace curtains, dainty and beautiful. The west window shows just a few of the newest effects in lace curtains for window draperies. It merely hints of the much larger display in our spacious second floor drapery department. And as an extra inducement to come we quote special prices for this week.—Fitzcharles & Melrose, Trenton.

Very soon you will be needing odd pairs of lace curtains to replace the ones now going to pieces. We can supply the need. Our sale is just the right thing at the right time. Splendid double thread or heavy weave curtains. Arabe, Dentelle, Irish Point with strong tricot edge. Less than half the regular price.—R. McKay & Co., Hamilton, Can.

Our showing of the low priced and medium qualities of lace curtains has never been surpassed by any concern in this city. In Nottingham curtains we show an exceptionally fine assortment of patterns ranging in price from $1.00 to $5.00.—The Howard Furniture Co., Lansing, Mich.

We are naming special prices on muslin, lappet and Swiss ruffled curtains, a great variety of styles at a variety of prices. Muslin curtains from 39c up.—The Howard Furniture Co., Lansing.

The magnificent values we are offering in lace curtains have kept this department busy with us. The values are exceptional, and the patterns unusually pretty. See these great specials for today's selling.—Sullivan's, Springfield.

Splendid range of Swiss curtains from $2.50 to $50.00 per pair. Our elegant curtains in Swiss are exceptionally attractive. The handsome designs are offered in a big variety of the smartest and newest ideas, eloquently expressed in the finest degree. The waves are prettily interlaid in firmest texture with the matchless designs. You must see our Swiss lines. The most elaborate and intricate patterns—marvelously beautiful—must be really seen, though, to obtain any kind of correct impression of the true loveliness of these exquisite goods.—Hudson's Bay Company, Winnipeg.

Half price clearance of fine lace curtains. This is our annual clearing sale. It comprises a thousand pair of high-grade imported lace curtains—the broken lines, discontinued numbers, odds and ends, that always accumulate at this time of the year. To holiday buyers this sale offers an unusual opportunity, for this year's prices are lower than they ever were before. All offerings are clean, fresh, down-to-date styles, and remarkable bargains.—Field, Schlick & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Special purchase frilled bobbinet curtains. These were cleared of a manufacturer at a big price sacrifice, and represent a splendid bargain at the prices we ask. They are grouped in two lots for easy selecting.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Special importation of artistic lace curtains. We have just received direct from St. Gall, Switzerland, an exquisite line of extreme novelties in fine net curtains, including elegant specimens of Point de Luzerne, Ivory Entredeux and Duchesse in pure white, ivory and two-tone effects, handsome turkey red and black embroidery on Arabian net, etc. Nothing like these beautiful curtains has ever been shown in Decatur, and the prices range very reasonably from $8.50 up to $17.50.—Linn & Scruggs Co.

Lace Curtains. Special values for Monday's selling. Springfield never knew such values—importing direct, buying from the greatest American makers, the liberal use of spot cash, an enormous business like Kinnane's, a small margin of profit—are just a few reasons for the offerings we place at your disposal now.—Kinnane's, Springfield, Ohio.

Odd lines lace curtains greatly reduced. In single, pair and two pair lots only. These are balances of our most popular lines, as the small lots testify. Some of them are slightly soiled.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Phenomenal sale of lace curtains—saving of a half to a third. Thousands of pairs of curtains from a manufacturer, who was overstocked, and at a price concession that enables us to pass them on to you at a saving of from a half to a third. It's the most fortunate thing that has come our way in many a day. They are all fresh, new stock, in the most up-to-date styles and patterns. There'll be a big crowd after these. A few of the items are for special hours only, so read every item carefully and be one of the early ones. Prices this way.—The Broadway Dept. Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

Which will be sold at prices considerably less than real value. Many patterns of lace curtains will be sold at half price. All samples and odd curtains will be sold regardless of cost. Remember that every pattern of our beautiful portiere assortment will be included in this sale. It is a rare opportunity.—C. W. Daniels, Pueblo, Colo.

New, fresh, crisp goods—just arrived and comprising the smartest and most effective creations for fall and winter. The upholstery department at this time is particularly interesting. Special attention is called to several lots of lace curtains secured and offered at a third less than the usual prices.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

Nottingham and imitation hand run Brussels net curtains, at a pair, $1.50 and $1.98. Now don't associate these with kinds of curtains you've seen similarly priced, for they're not like them at all. They're stray lots, ours and the importer's. These Nottinghams don't look like the Nottinghams of the old type, rather like Irish Points. Then the imitations of Brussels look like the real thing, very much like them, and the price, that's a third less.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

New Point Arab and Cluny lace curtains. An inspection of these handsome new lines of curtains, that have just been received from the best French makers will reveal an artistic merit of design far surpassing any previous showing of similar makes. Worthy of particular emphasis are the lovely Point Arab curtains in Marie Antoinette effect. A decided novelty. These curtains can be laced with ribbon from top to bottom to match the decorative scheme of the room. These curtains have been woven from a very strong French net—a necessity to give a good foundation for the heavy braid and button-hole effect, so are very durable. All have plain centers. Ecru and white. Length 3 1-2 yards. Width 54 inches.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Colored Madras for curtains a special for Thursday. Colored Madras makes exceedingly pretty window decorations and hangings for archways or doors. Thursday we clear a large assortment, comprising floral, empire and oriental designs, in both light and dark colorings. Many have a highly mercerized finish. They range from 50 to 72 inches wide and are culled from lines which are good $1.25 to $2.00 values. Thursday special, yard, 90c. Also some pretty chintzes, in pink, green, gold, blue and combination colorings; stripes, floral groupings and other neat designs, for hangings, coverings, curtains and bedroom decorations. Width 30 to 36 inches.—T. Eaton & Co., Winnipeg, Can.

All lace curtains—one-fourth off. It is so short a time until you will be doing your fall house-cleaning that this sale of curtains at one-fourth off the special sale prices should attract you to anticipate your needs. We wish to remind you that the marked prices on this entire stock of curtains are very special—fully 25 per cent. less than the same qualities and styles were priced at any other store within your reach. Now you choose at a reduction of one-fourth off the lowest special sale price, giving you such quotations as you have never before had on equal qualities.—A. B. Caldwell Co., Washington, D. C.

CUT GLASS

Cut glass makes a very acceptable gift. We make this line a particular study, and if you want a gift in the near future, we will be pleased to show our new goods.—H. Watson & Co., Saginaw.

"Wiss cut glass"—the sort that's sure to please.—J. Wiss & Sons, Newark.

My stars! What beautiful cut glass!!—And to think of it, such ridiculously low prices!

That sugar and cream set $4.80? Why, I paid $6 for a set not half as handsome. I'll surely buy my cut glass at this store in the future. Cut glass puff bowls with puff, $1.35. Lots of other nice articles at very moderate prices.—Heintz, Lexington, Ky.

Cut glass vases.—Whether it is the low, squat, richly cut center piece or the tall cylinder, with prism cuttings, the glass vase is an effective part of the modern scheme of household decoration. Our line, which represents the leading factories, gives you a choice of the latest shapes and the newest cuttings in many different sizes.—C. E. Gifford & Co., Fall River, Mass.

When you buy Egginton cut glass you buy the best the world produces. It stands pre-eminent for purity, brilliancy and exclusiveness of design; the only glass made that its high polish is guaranteed permanently. Our stock is brimful of everything new and our prices cannot be duplicated.—S. Jacobs & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

"Yes, it is beautiful, because it is beautiful."—Guy de Maupassant.

What more can be said about cut glass? It sparkles like diamonds, and in richness rivals the radiance of gold. A liberal variety is ready for you today.—Goldthait & Sons Co., Marion, Ind.

Artistic and most beautiful cut glass.—We can in no way explain the quality and beauty of our cut glass; it must be seen to be fully appreciated. Every piece is of the prettiest and latest design. Cut glass is most acceptable for any gift, be it a wedding or a birthday. We can surely suit you in regard to price, as we have every shape imaginable.—Morley Brothers, Saginaw, Mich.

Cut crystal bowl. Our cut crystal room is now at its best, many new pieces having been added within the last few days; so many of our customers expressed their regret at not being able to secure one of our cut glass bowls that we offered a short time ago, that we have decided to offer to-morrow 18 more; remember this is a regular $8 cut crystal bowl with the name of the best American maker.—M. A. Murray & Co., Toronto, Can.

Useful cut glass articles.—Our cut glass has always borne the reputation of being the clearest and most brilliant to be found.—Henry Kohn & Sons, Hartford, Conn.

Cut glass for New Year's table very moderately priced. There is nothing so attractive and decorative on a table as cut glass. There is no cut glass quite so beautiful as that made in our factory and nowhere is such high-grade cut glass sold at such low prices. That is why we sell more than any two other Brooklyn stores combined. We have beaten all records this month.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Forty-three barrels—about two-thirds of the lot—were unpacked yesterday and are shown for the first this morning. The rest of the shipment will arrive in a day or so. Corning is to cut glass pretty much what Sterling is to silver. Erastus Corning is long since dead, but the town of Corning, N. Y., is named after him, and the best of cut glass in the world is made in his native place. Not only do they cut the glass there, but they manufacture the original blanks as well. This special lot, which we offer to-day, comes from the oldest and best factory in Corning. Many shapes have been designed only within the last few months. The cutting has been done within the last few weeks. It is the very latest on the market. All of the glass has been finished by hand. In variety and quality and reasonableness of prices, the sale, you will see for yourself, is a little beyond anything we have ever been able to offer. There are many large flower vases, pitchers and punch bowls at exactly half the regular price. The other dishes are one-third under the regular cost. Only medium and fine grades are made by this manufacturer, and only these are represented in this sale. With such an opportunity, it is not too early to think of October weddings and even Christmas, is it?—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Trenton's only cut glass store. Rich and sparkling Christmas presents. It would be a task indeed, to select a finer or more acceptable present than a piece or set of genuine cut glass ware—always rich, rare and beautiful as well as useful. Our assortment, which is large, consists of the finest cut glass the world produces—Libby's. It is cut over the finest flint blanks which produces the most radiant and sparkling cut glass. Never did our shelves glow with a larger variety and designs—a beautiful sight, indeed—the famous Hob Nail designs with its myriads of little sparkling squares are well represented.—Kaufman's, Trenton, N. Y.

The finest cut glass for Christmas at unmatched prices. This cut glass store has more beautiful designs on display and in reserve than any two other Brooklyn stores combined. The most of it is manufactured in our world famous factory in Manhattan and has won first prize on every count in every World's Fair where it has been exhibited. Coming direct from the factory to you accounts in part for the remarkable pricing, but all the other famous makers are attracted by our incomparably great business and are represented in the showing at concessions in price.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Buy cut glass now. Have you "sparkled up" your china closet with some of these pieces? If not, don't you really think you are missing an opportunity seldom equaled? Remember, you are not being asked cut glass prices, for every item is marked 'way down as compared with any cut glass any place. This is an unusual sale. It's not a common one, you'll admit, and it has caused a furore among cut glass buyers—has awakened them to the fact that money spent here for this exquisite ware is a positive investment. Better have the wedding gift, or even the gifts for next Christmas, laid aside for you now, for every day's selling lessens your chance to select the "scintillating beauty" you would most wish.—The Crews-Beggs Co., Pueblo, Colo.

A remarkable offering of fine new cut glass. We have just received a shipment of beautiful new pieces of cut glass from a factory that is anxious to do more business with us. That means that we have secured very decided price-advantages, and we turn them over immediately to our public. The pieces are in handsome shapes, and the cutting is very beautifully done. To illustrate the values, the lot includes about ninety ten-inch Nappies, so large that they might fairly be called bowls for salads, sliced tomatoes or fruit. They would regularly be worth $7.50; these are $4.50 each. The same proportionate values go all the way down the line.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

One of the largest and finest factories in the country came for Wanamaker help in disposing of this tremendous surplus of cut glass. Of course it won't spoil; and the pieces are among the most beautiful cuttings on the market to-day. But the goods must be distributed or people laid off at the factory. The thousands of June weddings suggested relief, if the thousands of givers of gifts could be quickly interested. The Wanamaker stores, in New York and Philadelphia, presented the only means to reach them quickly, and serve the thousands that were sure to respond. Prices on the entire variety of pieces in this tremendous stock were cut a third to a half below the real value of the wares. And we undertook the distribution. The way prices average up, you can give a present of cut glass worth $100 for an outlay of $60—or you can fill your own cut glass cabinet at the same handsome saving. And the cut glass? The maker of it was awarded the grand prize at the St. Louis Exposition. His cuttings, in these identical shapes and patterns, compose the stocks proudly shown in good jewelry stores and best china and glass stores all over the United States—and nowhere else is there a thought of selling these new, perfect, exquisite wares under-price. The offering is doubly extraordinary because the variety of pieces and patterns is greater than is shown in any regular stocks anywhere—making superb and unusual selection.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Not many years ago the price of cut glass was almost prohibitive. It was only bought for special occasions, such as weddings or crystal anniversaries, and a small piece was looked upon with awe even at such events. Recently, prompted by the craze for cut glass, many new factories have started up and the result of this competition was the creation of hundreds of cuttings where there had been dozens before, and the reduction in price of "cut glass" that admits of its purchase by the average housewife for her own use as well as for presents. We have anticipated the unusually large demand and are displaying hundreds of pieces of "cut glass," which includes every known article for up-to-date table service. A very popular scale of pricing is maintained throughout the line.—McNamara & Harding, Binghamton.

You wouldn't give plated table silver as a wedding gift and expect the bride to prize it as highly as she would sterling ware? Poor quality cut glass is even worse than plated table silver because the sham is more apparent at first sight—shallow cutting, lack of uniformity in design and almost total lack of crystal luster. At regular intervals great quantities of inferior quality cut glass are heaped upon the retail markets for special sale purposes—to compete, in price only, with such standard quality ware as "Straus" cut glass. "Straus" cut glass is a product of Macy's own cutting shops. At the World's Fair it was awarded highest honors—and since that time the standard has been maintained and bettered wherever possible. Don't buy second-rate cut glass—even for a less-than-lukewarm friend. "Straus" ware—prize-winning and prize-meriting ware—costs even less than second-rate ware sells for in special sales elsewhere. From our factory to your crystal closet—the shortest and most economical route it could possibly take. The sale announced in Sunday's papers offers most inviting opportunities. We urge you to make comparisons.—Macy's, New York.

Cut glass 20 per cent. less.—In our cut glass and bric-a-brac department, third floor, east, there are hundreds of pieces of finest cut glass at prices that mean a saving of 20 per cent. over and above the prices usually charged for this beautiful material. What more beautiful as a gift to the June bride than an article of the practical side of the matter and article of cut glass? And why not look make your purchase where and when prices are lowest?—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

A cut in cut glass. How can we cut cut glass? By buying right you get the benefit of our purchase. Nothing adds more in the attractiveness of a home than well selected cut glass, and some way or other things always taste better when drunk out of cut glass. You wouldn't like to serve champagne to your guests in a five-pound lard pail. It might not hurt the lard pail or injure your guests. The wine might even taste well, but still it wouldn't be good taste. Cut glass will last forever if well cared for. Don't use it to drive nails with—a hammer or ax is just as cheap and will last longer. We have some of the daintiest and most artistic designs ever offered. Call while our stock is complete. Just look at a few of the cuts. Phioso, Jacquemenoit, Mayflower, Harwood, Meteor, Columbia, Genoa, Clarione, Galatea, Barness, Queen, Mona, Roman, Camelia, Hyacinth, Wordsworth San Mateo Iris, Waldorf, Florentine. — Murgittroyd's, Spokane, Wash.

"June bride" sale of cut glass involves wares on main floor tables, as well as the unequalled collection in the crystal room in the basement. Our own cutters established the standard of quality in the specimens that were awarded first prize at the Chicago World's Fair, and that standard has since been maintained religiously. How we maintain it you understand after a visit to our glass-cutting shops on the eighth floor.—Macy's, New York.

This is certainly the most startling example of low pricing in retail history. If there were only a few pieces of this rich, magnificently cut, brilliantly polished glass at these unheard of prices, it would be a remarkable event; but to-morrow thousands of new pieces will be added of the finest quality at even bewildering prices. In magnitude of piece compared by piece, value for value, this event dwarfs all others into insignificance.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Final offers on cut glass and lamps. The great sale in the basement is drawing toward its close. We have never sold such fine cut glass for so little and never sold so much as during this February event. The last pricing for this sale, including many unusual values in fine lamps, is given below. After February old prices will be resumed.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hawkes cut glass (sold in Salem by the Barr Store only) is one of the most exquisite productions of American industrial art. Connoisseurs are agreed that no other cut glass has attained quite so high a degree of artistic perfection. In purity and brilliancy of color it is unexcelled. Many kinds of cut glass are not a clear white, but have a yellowish or pinkish tint. Hawkes is as clear and sparkling as crystal. Its designs and patterns are as beautiful as can be produced by the most skilled artisans. Its cuttings are sharp and polished with perfect evenness.—Barr's Jewellery Store, Salem, Ore.

Do you realize that in buying cut glass, especially the kind we sell, you are securing not only articles of use, but artistic beauty as well? Cut glass conveys an idea of taste and richness on any table or sideboard. See our large stock at reasonable prices, considering superior quality.—Klune & Floberg, Sacramento, Cal.

Loeser's is recognized throughout the trade as the largest handlers of really fine cut glass and concessions in price are made because of that fact. More than one factory has kept the wheels a-humming during the dull period of summer by Loeser orders.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Cut glass. No finer crystal blocks are cut than those we are showing, and the patterns are rich—very rich. Prices are below the usual.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Our cut glass department is acknowledged by connoisseurs to be the finest in the city. It contains everything in rich cut glass, from the little salt tub to the stately and magnificent punch bowl. It is clear, brilliant and flawless, being cut from the finest quality of crystal. Our immense stock of this beautiful ware must be seen to be appreciated. Every piece is marked in large, plain figures, with a price as alluring as the article itself.—Mulford, Memphis, Tenn.

People on the lookout for something entirely new for the bride who will get everything else will be delighted with these graceful long handled baskets of exquisite cut glass. The Loeser cut glass store has an established reputation that needs no exploiting. We have a particularly fine collection just now of these new cut glass baskets, in a great variety of sizes and patterns, richly cut, upon beautiful, clear white glass. They range from dainty little baskets for violets or bonbons up to superb fruit and flower baskets for formal dinner decorations.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We carry a complete stock of choicest cut glass—of unusual fineness and dazzling brilliancy. It's surprising how many different qualities of cut glass there are. It requires the greatest skill to get the finest effects, and the largest experience to make the deep cutting peculiar to the highest grades.—Robt. Wright & Co., Brockville, Ont.

To set up housekeeping there is nothing more essential than plenty of cut glass, and nothing the bride and bridegroom take more pride in among their wedding presents. Our cut glass display is specially meant for the spring weddings, and every piece is an individual art work, the conscientious product of Libbey manufacture.—Davis & Freeman, Atlanta, Ga.

For June gifts, our stock of jewelry affords a wide range of choice. A beautiful assortment of pieces in solid gold, mounted with sparkling gems—for brides, for those whose birthdays fall in June, and for school and college graduates. It's safe to say that no other collection of solid silver and cut glass in Buffalo offers you so wide a choice of rich and beautiful gift things at such reasonable prices.—T. C. Tanke, Buffalo, N. Y.

Cut glass tableware.—A few pieces of cut glass give an air of richness and elegance to a table; and while it is true that they are somewhat of a luxury; for those who can afford them the following items present some very choice values.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

We have just received our first fall importation of Austrian gold glassware. This ware is artistically cut and the designs filled in with gold decorations. It makes choice wedding gifts and is very reasonably priced.—Woodward & Lathrop, Washington, D. C.

The magnificent display of cut glass revealed on the opening of our new store, was without parallel in the history of Peoria. Those who attended the opening were unanimous on that point. While the collection includes plenty of inexpensive pieces, there is nothing "cheap" looking about any one of them. Each is an excellent example of the newest ideas in cutting, and possesses a richly beautiful polish.—F. H. Pfeiffer Crockery Co., Peoria, Ill.

We are selling agents in Baraboo for the celebrated Hawkes & Co., cut glass, famous everywhere for its exquisite designs, its deep cutting, brilliancy of finish and its general rich appearance. A piece of cut glass, however small, is always a refined gift for wedding or anniversary event. We show a delightful display of water jugs, tumblers, berry bowls, bonbon dishes, vinegar cruets, salt and pepper sets, cream and sugar and other articles, at extremely reasonable prices.—J. B. Donovan & Co., Baraboo, Wis.

For quality, beauty of design, brilliancy and general excellence, no cut glass in America equals that which is produced in our own glass works in New York, and which is offered to you to-morrow at decided reductions from our regular lowest prices.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

There still remain a number of choice pieces in our lines of cut glass upon which we made the reduction of one-third. We advise you to get in early to-day and avail yourself of this opportunity. Remember, these prices will be in force.—H. F. Vollmer & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

We are offering an excellent assortment of complete breakfast, dinner and tea services of exquisite Dresden china. The elegance and distinctiveness of this ware make it especially suitable for the entertaining season. All the various patterns are sold as open stock, enabling the purchaser to secure any desired number of pieces.—Dulin & Martin Co., Washington, D. C.

We are now showing a collection of rich cut glass that is unparalleled in many respects. The choicest productions of every maker of note are here. The newest and most artistic shapes—the richest and deepest cuttings in pieces for every use, affording rare opportunities for the selection of handsome bridal gifts. Greatness of variety is also.—Dulin & Martin Co., Washington, D. C.

Cut glassware. Those who did not procure cut glassware on the liberal terms which this crockery store quoted last week will have an opportunity to do so to-day. While it is evident that the offer was greatly appreciated, from the fact that many pieces took speedy departure, there is a very fair assortment left for to-day's choosing. It is a manufacturer's accumulation which we bought on such terms as to enable us to pass it out to you at considerably less than usual cost to us. Every piece is rich, and cuttings are all fine and rich.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Cut glass of high quality. Wiss superb cut glass has attained a high reputation. There is a clearness to it, a scintillating beauty that marks the highest ideal in the art of glass-cutting. The depth of cutting and excellence of finish give it a brilliancy that fairly radiates with all the shades and tints of a summer rainbow. The designs and patterns are strikingly rich and artistic and include many novelties. And the prices are such as place fine cut glass within the reach of every one. We append a few hints and prices.—J. Wiss & Sons, Newark, N. J.

Libbey cut glass. We are exclusive agents in Southern California for this favorite cut glass. By the way, it will pay you to visit our cut glass room—a magnificent show room. New pieces are being added almost daily now.—Parmelee Dohrmann Co., Los Angeles.

A piece or two of sparkling cut glass greatly adds to the elegance of the feast table. We are sole Trenton agents for the Libbey—the aristocracy of the cut glass world. So extensive is our display that whatever is made in cut glass at all you will find here represented. The extensiveness of our stock means large purchases, and large purchases means a big saving in the wholesale prices and consequently lowest prices to our patrons for the world's most brilliant, deeply, artistically cut, richly designed cut glass.—Kaufman's, Trenton.

Pretty cut glass. A vase with rich, deep cutting; a berry bowl; a celery tray; a vinegar cruet; we have so many pretty things in this line we scarcely know where to begin. We suggest that you come in and see the new pretty things in cut glass for yourself.—Schacht & Riorden, Jewelers, Spokane, Wash.

New beautiful cut glass. The exquisite designs we have just imported in fine cut glass are a revelation. The entrancing beauty of these charmingly cut patterns will appeal to the artistic. Every reflection of color and light seems concentrated into the beautiful gems so finely wrought. The exhibition contains novelties of a very fine degree, consisting of some of the most beautiful ware that it is possible to conceive of.—Hudson's Bay Store, Winnipeg, Can.

Nothing excels cut glass for gifts. Of all the lovely presents prized by ladies, nothing matches elegant cut glass. Besides being very beautiful it is everlasting, except one risk of breaking. It sets off the dining-room, buffet or table or the dresser in fine shape. Ours is a dazzling display, resplendent in rich variety, at prices remarkably low. We have much pride in showing the stock.—Robert P. Kiep, Joliet, Ill.

The basic element of cut glass value is quality—design and workmanship. To the best made in America (that means best in the world) do we spend our efforts. Whether your desire be for salads, berry bowls, nappies, water pitchers, tumblers, cream and sugars, and the many other small pieces, you'll find the assortment shown here of the very highest standard of quality, including the well-known Hawkes ware.—Kirby & Son, New Haven, Conn.

Cut glass for Christmas gifts. Every lady is a lover of cut glass. Nothing more beautiful for decorating the table and nothing you can give which will be more appreciated for a Christmas present. When, therefore, you have an opportunity to buy rich cut glass at a saving of from one-fourth to one-half, you will surely want to take advantage of it. Brief particulars of the pieces offered in this sale follow, but you must see the articles themselves to properly appreciate their values.—Geo. B. Peck Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

DENTISTRY

Who said "Hell holds no torturer like unto the dentist?" Whoever said it was an old foggy. He lived and died before he had a chance to hear of the Altoona Dental Co., and their absolutely painless methods. We have revolutionized dentistry in Altoona. We make it a pleasure instead of a duty to visit us. We will prove it to you. Tell us when to expect you. Our prices are the lowest in the city. Extraction free and painless. Courtesy and fair treatment dominate our business dealings. Lady attendant.—Altoona Dental Co., Altoona.

Our extracting room is one of the largest and best equipped in the city. We have every appliance for positively painless extracting. Our extractor has devoted many years to this line of work almost exclusively and is assisted by a lady who is skilled in this work and gives you every attention. We administer air, vapor, gas and all anæsthetics known to dental and medical science. Or if you prefer we extract them without pain by an application of medicine to the gums. We guarantee it to be painless or ask no pay.—Queen City Dental Parlors, Altoona, Pa.

A new dental office. An office without a superior in equipment in New York State or elsewhere. An establishment for the practice of dental science in its highest form, fitted with all modern mechanical and other devices, perfected to add to the pleasure and comfort of the patient and to make possible the execution of the most valuable teachings of the science. If you have never seen a completely equipped dental office, embrace this opportunity. From outer reception room to inmost laboratory our establishment is open to your inspection and our doctors will be very glad to greet you. You will see things you have not seen before, and perhaps leave with a higher idea of the importance of dental work. Our sanitary extracting room will show you of what lengths we go to safeguard our patients, and the complete electrical equipment of our operating room will demonstrate the thoroughness of our efforts to increase the efficiency and reduce the discomfort of all treatment. Without your co-operation to the extent of a visit we cannot convince you of the difference between our facilities for satisfactory and scientific dentistry and those of the average practitioner. We invite that co-operation in all courtesy. Open evenings.—Van Dental Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Trained skill is ready here to aid you to tooth comfort. If you have been disappointed elsewhere, and have gotten ill-fitting artificial teeth or poor dentistry of any character, come here and be sure of final and lasting satisfaction. My crown and bridge work pleases everybody. Skillfully made of pure gold and skillfully put in.—Dr. Jas. M. Young, Pueblo, Colo.

We aim to please everybody with our work. Call and consult us and get estimate of cost of your work. We extract teeth painlessly, free when plates are ordered. Crown and bridge work, gold and silver filling done in a first-class manner and guaranteed.—N. Y. Dentists, Mansfield, Ohio.

For high class dental work of every kind I believe we have a clean record, at all events, that's the verdict of our clientage; painless extraction is my specialty. What I advertise I am conscientious in and believe I can convince you that it is the truth.—Dr. Belden's, Terre Haute, Ind.

The removal of a mask makes no more difference in a countenance than the insertion of natural appearing teeth in place of those destroyed by nature. This can be done without plates or bridge work, if two or more teeth are left in the jaw. Our Aveolicular method of dentistry is not only the most modern but also the most painless. Teeth are inserted without the slightest pain or discomfort to you and the cost will be the lowest consistent with good dentistry.—Dr. Anshutz, Terre Haute, Ind.

Nature's best substitute for a bad set of natural teeth is a good set of artificial ones. Teeth we make are guaranteed to fit exactly and never drop down.—New York Dentists, Zanesville.

Is not only practiced at this office but is made a special study also, and we are quick to adopt any improvement in method of treating or material that will tend toward better work, greater satisfaction and greater durability. Our prices are moderate.—Dr. C. C. Smith, San Bernardino, Cal.

We know how and we have the right equipment to give the best service known to the science of dentistry. If you have teeth that require extracting, now's a good time and here's a good place. We are exclusive owners of Obtundo and make our own vitalized air fresh daily. We also use somnoforme where the patient desires it.—New York Dentists, Zanesville, Ohio.

The best equipped dental offices on the Pacific coast. Every painless method and up-to-date instrument known to modern dentistry in this office. All instruments thoroughly sterilized before being used. All our operators are graduates of the best Eastern dental colleges and have passed the California State Board examinations, hence have a license to practice in this State; are men of years of experience, and are experts, each in his respective branch.—Broadway Dentists, Los Angeles, Cal.

Bring along your failing and broken plates, sore gums and bad teeth, get them fixed up right at small cost, or do you want a set of teeth, crowns, bridges, etc., at your own price? It will pay you to call and see. No charge. Nerves killed and teeth extracted; little or no pain, 25c. Gentle treatment. Honest work. Square dealing.—Dr. Bell, Harrisburg, Pa.

A happy suggestion! Put an end to your tooth troubles to-day and confer with Dr. Roush, the dentist. He will make a thorough examination of your teeth and tell you what it will cost to have them fixed the right way, or if too far gone supplant them with new ones. Advice and examinations are free.—Dr. Sigel Roush, Troy, N. Y.

Why neglect them?—Need something that's good for bad teeth and not bad for good teeth. Make you look better and feel better if you come to us for treatment.—Monarch Dental Parlors, Columbus, O.

The crowning feature of good plate work is its nearness to nature—a result only achieved by perfect methods after careful study. All our plate work rivals nature in its correctness of outline, natural appearance and comfort in use and our prices please every lover of good work.—White Dental Rooms, Bangor.

When you need a dentist don't wait a month before going to see one. The time to consult a dentist is when the symptoms of decay first put in their appearance in your teeth. If you secure the services of a good dentist immediately, you can save yourself time, annoyance, pain and money. Only a little work is needed to fix up the small imperfections, and only a little price is charged for the work.—The American Dental Parlors, Battle Creek, Mich.

Save when young to spend when old. We help you to save by doing your dental work at reasonable prices. It will please you. It's good work.—Hank's Dental Ass'n, New York.

At your service all the time. That's what your teeth should be. If there is anything the matter with them it costs you nothing to come in and let us advise you.—Sawyer Dental Co., Portland.

In this age dentistry is verily a science, and the average person will no more trust the care of his or her teeth to an operator of questioned ability than he or she would a difficult surgical operation to a second-rate practitioner.—Drs. Stephens & Chase, Great Falls, Mont.

When your teeth go back on you and you feel your need of new ones, come to us. We'll make you a new set in six hours and guarantee a perfect fit. You won't experience any pain by our own new method. All work guaranteed.—New York Dental Parlors, Brooklyn.

R-U one of the many people that stay away from a dental office because you have suffered pain in past experiences? If so, come to see us. Our work is absolutely painless, is all guaranteed and done by graduated doctors with years of experience.—Union Painless Dentists, Pittsburg, Pa.

When there's a hole comes in one of your teeth, don't wait for it to grow shut. Holes in teeth have an aggravating way of growing bigger and bigger instead of smaller. The sensible thing for you to do is to come straight to the Spicer offices an' I'll make that bad little tooth "be good and shut up" in a hurry. An early visit like that saves you pain and expense. For if you waited the tooth would ache or get sore or tender; and it would cost more to fix it. Aren't these things true?—Dr. Spicer, Pueblo.

Dentistry. Work in my office is divided into parts, and specialists are employed on each part. This plan marks great progress in dental science. Some day you will no more think of entrusting your teeth to any one but a specialist than you will of entrusting your eyes to any one but an oculist. Ten years hence other dentists will wake up and adopt specialization; but ten years is a long time to wait. I'm ready now.—Edward Everett Cady, D.D.S., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We don't "pretend"—we do. There are no child's play promises about methods of extracting and filling the teeth or other dental work, nor are they obsolete or antiquated, but, on the contrary, the very latest to meet with the approval of scientific professors of the art of modern dentistry. Our work and materials are guaranteed.—Dr. A. Devoe, Port Huron, Mich.

Dentistry as we practice it is a serious profession, embracing education, carefulness and skill. Therefore we cannot compete in price with the ignorant, the careless or the unskilful. But we charge less than others who do GOOD work. (1st) Because specialization saves time. (2d) Because association (several men in one office) reduces expense. (3d) Because we are satisfied with a moderate profit and prefer a large practice at small prices to a small practice at large prices.—Cady, Dunn & Lewis, New York.

When we extract, fill and make teeth and all our work is absolutely painless and guaranteed for ten years, why not profit by the knowledge of our doctors, who are graduates for the best colleges, and who have had years of practical experience?—Union Painless Dentists, Louisville, Ky.

Are you looking for perfect work at very low prices? Then call at the White Dental parlors and talk the matter over. Odontunder for painless dentistry can be found only at our office. We have one of the best plate specialists in this state, and all our work is guaranteed. Our crown and bridge work cannot be equalled in this city. We have five specialists and do the largest dental business in Western New York. We never employ a student and never shall. Examination cheerfully made.—White Dental Parlors, Buffalo, N. Y.

Capital and labor may be playing fast and loose with each other, but both capital and labor must eat, and in order to eat successfully both must have teeth. A million dollar gastric outfit, with a 37c. set of teeth won't prove a joy forever to its possessor. The best stomach in the world won't digest improperly masticated food. Dyspeptic, it's up to you, sir, to attend to your teeth. Broken-down, decayed and festering teeth are a veritable Pandora's box of evils. We've made others happy, why not you?—Hill Dental Co., Troy, N. Y.

It is results that tell. A fact of which you will soon become convinced after having work done by us.—Rexford & McGeik, Dentists, Minneapolis, Minn.

Our work is absolutely free from pain. In fact our patients speak highly of our business system of doing work, also of the genteel manner in which they are treated by our doctors. All work guaranteed in writing.—Union Painless Dentists, Louisville, Ky.

Go to a good dentist once in six months whether you think you need to or not. The chances are you do need to, unless you have taken daily care of your teeth, and frequently, even then you will find you have saved yourself unnecessary expense by the timely trip. Now, we charge you nothing for this visit and examination. Under the circumstances then, why not make it a point to see Dr. Moore this week—to-day if possible and protect your tooth health: If there is nothing the matter with your teeth—no decays—no cavities—you will be glad to know it, and you will be truthfully told exactly the condition of your teeth, good or bad. A free examination here in no way binds you to have your work done here.—Dr. Moore, Pueblo, Col.

Teeth with and without plates appeal to our skill in their manufacture and fitting to your mouth—the more intricate and difficult the task, the better we like it, for it attests our skill, makes you all the more appreciative of our efforts in your behalf. In dental matters, if you will consult us, you will do so to your own betterment.—Dr. J. H. Damon, Dentist, Rockland, Maine.

But we have kept pace with it all and represent to-day the highest development of the art. We have the finest equipped dental parlors in this part of the state. We have the best facilities for turning out work. We have the best laboratory. We administer gas for painless extraction. We have pleased patrons for thirty years; we refund money where work is not entirely satisfactory; we make every guarantee good. Come and see us about your teeth. We will give you an idea of what ought to be done and then do it as it should be done. Ask your neighbors; they will tell you what we can do. The Van Sant Dental Parlors are doing more work than ever in their history and pleasing all who come. The same old honest business methods characterize it and multitudes are being pleased each month. Drop in and see us anyhow, and let us have a chat with you.—Dr. Van Sant, Peoria.

Do not suffer when you can have teeth extracted—one or twenty, absolutely without pain, by the use of our famous painless method. It is safe and easy.—American Dental Parlors, Lansing.

Teeth experts have pronounced the work done in this office to be of exceptionally fine quality. Dentists of skill and experience attend to all cases and all teeth are made in our own laboratory, thus insuring perfect fit and workmanship. Charges are moderate, but secure the highest grade material and work in the city.—Post Graduate Dental College, Sacramento, Cal.

My strictly modern equipment enables me to do your dental work in the shortest possible time, and in the best possible way—two points worthy of consideration when thinking of a dentist.—Dr. Young, Pueblo, Col.

The careful mother will have the children's teeth examined by a dentist every six months—"whether they need it or not." Don't wait for decay to set in. Preserve the teeth and assist their growth.—Houseton, Mansfield, Ohio.

The crowning glory of our success is our crown and bridge work and the painless method of extracting teeth without the use of the barbarous hypodermic needle. Are you wedded to any particular dentist? Do you believe he is the only one? Call and see us; it will cost you nothing for an estimate on your work.—J. P. Sennett, Champaign, Ill.

A good set of teeth gives expression to the mouth. Perhaps you need a set, but dread having old teeth extracted. Our new botanical discovery applied to the gums, prevents any pain whatever. We'll extract your teeth in the morning and have the new set ready to wear home at night. They'll fit or you needn't take them.—Waterbury Dental Parlors, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A bad bargain. A cheap price for cheap dentistry is a sure enough bad bargain—with no best to be made of it except by keeping in mind its lesson—to know better next time. If you pay less than a fair price for dental work you are going to get a cheap substitute for skill—and a cheap result. I want to do only the best work—for fair prices—and I keep pretty busy doing it.—Dr. M. E. Spinks, Los Angeles, Cal.

I don't say this is the only place where you can get good dentistry. What I do claim is that if you come here you will never fail to get the best. Isn't it worth something to be sure about this matter; and isn't it worth something to know that there will be no extortionate charges?—Dr. Young, Dentist, Pueblo.

Teeth extracted without pain or danger. By our own exclusive process teeth are extracted without pain. This we guarantee. A simple application to the gums makes this delicate and important work entirely satisfactory. We do as we advertise, and do not advertise impossibilities. Our prices are half what private dentists ask, because we do many times as much work. Give us a chance to show you. Twenty-year guarantee.—Electro Dental Parlors, Tacoma.

Sympathy will never cure a toothache—neither will oil of cloves. If your teeth are unsound, the longer you wait before having them looked after the greater agony you will have to endure with each successive ache. Our methods are absolutely painless. Our charges as fair as you could expect for superior workmanship.—Union Painless Dental Parlors, Louisville, Ky.

We please our patrons. Why? Because our work is high grade, substantial, handsome and neat. The teeth we make are as white, smooth and even as the best of natural teeth. In fit, they are comfortable. Our guarantee goes with each set. We extract your decayed teeth painlessly, and put in a new set the same day. Our work is all done by careful dentists, who have spent years at this work. Crown and bridge work a specialty. A set of these teeth will last you a lifetime. Our prices are moderate. Four assistant dentists.—Dr. Reiss, Terre Haute, Ind.

An ostrich thinks if he buries his head in the sand he can't be seen. That's foolish. Some people think they can hide bad teeth. That's also foolish. The presence of bad teeth, even if they can't be seen, can be detected in a dozen ways, by an offensive breath, sunken cheeks, pale complexion, headaches, biliousness, nervousness, and other disorders arising from imperfect mastication and assimilation of the food. Don't ostracize yourself from good society, health and comfort on account of your teeth.—Hill's Dental Co., Troy, Pa.

Teeth without plates. I have them. Do you need them? Perfect sets of artificial teeth, replicas of Nature's own. If you are fortunate enough to require only a single tooth or parts of sets, or teeth needing only filling or crowning, still you can get exactly what you want and need here at fair figures.—Dr. G. H. Martin, Jersey City, N. J.

It is not nice to advertise in the newspapers. But we don't know of a better way to let you know that Dr. Sam Jessup, dentist, can save you 50 per cent. on your dental bills.—Dr. Sam Jessup, Galesburg, Ill.

Procrastination is the thief of teeth.
—Boston Dentists, Newark, N. J.

Of course, hundreds of Boston people know of Wyeth's methods—many of our patients were either friends or relatives of those we treated in other cities—and so some of our sudden prosperity must be credited to our continental reputation. For example, last Tuesday a lady brought her daughter (a miss of 12 years). She asked for Doctor Griffith. "Doctor, don't you remember me? You treated my teeth in your office in Philadelphia sixteen years ago—they have never troubled me since, and I am so glad that you have an office in Boston, so I can bring my Emily to you." During the past two weeks we have sufficiently demonstrated our peerless methods and modest charges to claim a practice second to none in Boston.—Wyeth Dental Co., Boston, Mass.

"If I had only known that my teeth were so bad I would have had them filled before," is what the Dentist frequently hears. The remark indicates neglect. Be better to yourself than to neglect your teeth. Poor health invariably follows poor teeth. When you do have work done go to a Dentist who is doing every day for others just what you need. If experience and constant practice count for anything your work will be done well by—Dr. Moore, Pueblo, Col.

Your health depends upon your teeth. Many of the ills attributed often to other causes come from poor teeth. Poor teeth prevent proper mastication. Improper mastication causes a train of ills, invariably. How are you? Do you not to-day need the care of an expert dentist? Our consultation is free. Our workmanship is a little the best.—Dr. Moore, Pueblo, Col.

It is uncomfortable to feel that you cannot laugh when you want to on account of having poor teeth. Do not have poor teeth. There is absolutely no reason for it. Come to us and we will show you how your teeth can be made perfect, and how little it will cost you.—Dr. L. J. Hoyt, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A mouthful of good teeth is an adornment of which any owner can be proud. How often you see an otherwise handsome face marred by poor teeth, or lack of teeth. It should be every person's pride to have as good teeth as possible; even if they have to resort to artificial teeth. How are yours? If they need repairing, let Dr. Doyle examine them and give his expert advice.—Dr. B. W. Doyle, Fresno, Cal.

Carry good teeth through life if you would have good digestion allied to facial beauty. Dyspeptics take note. Ladies heed the hint. We stand ready to keep your own teeth in fine shape, to make excellent substitutes—"useful as well as ornamental"—if Nature has been unkind to you. Our work is skillful, our prices moderate.—Dr. G. H. Martin, Jersey City, N. J.

This is an actual fact or we would not say so. We challenge anyone to say that his dental operation was painful when "Somnoforme" was given at Moore's. We convinced ourselves as to the truth of this before we invested in the expensive apparatus. We proved that "Somnoforme" was all right by taking it ourselves. We now unhesitatingly guarantee for the first time absolutely painless dentistry.—Dr. Moore, Pueblo.

One decayed tooth decays others. Watch out for the first tooth and there'll be no "others." We fill teeth properly—without pain. Our work lasts and satisfies. Specialists in charge of each department. Read over our prices.—New York Dental Parlors, Brooklyn.

Don't put off having your teeth attended to another day—come in and let us examine them—it won't cost you a cent for the examination, and you'll find our prices for the highest class dental work can't be matched.—Bloomington's, New York.

Make an appointment with the Hill Dental Company and find out exactly the condition of your teeth, and how best to have them fixed. We spare no time or pains to make our work both beautiful in appearance and lasting in quality, our one aim being to please our patients. All work guaranteed to be exactly as represented. 22k. gold crowns and bridge work $5.00 a tooth. Absolutely painless extracting at The Hill Dental Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

The torture that many dentists inflict is strange when there are so many methods of preventing them. That is the reason why our practice is increasing each day—because we are known for our painless and particular dentistry. Although we make a specialty of replacing teeth without plates or bridge work by our Alveolar Method—where there are two or more teeth in each jaw—still we do not neglect the others branches of dentistry and assure all of the most expert service. Come and have your dental work done here. We guarantee you will be satisfied.—Dr. Anshutz, Terre Haute, Ind.

Bridge work most cleanly and comfortable substitute for natural teeth. Our Bridge Worker is an expert in this branch—does nothing else. The gold is the wearing kind and the teeth—they will please you, they're so natural.—Hanks Dental Ass'n, New York, N. Y.

Now is the time to have your teeth fixed. This is our slack week of the year, so we can give you the choice of time. We will also give you our most reasonable prices. Our work is always the best. Start the year right and come to us to-day. Remember, your looks and your health may be destroyed by the continued presence of decayed and ulcerating teeth. Examinations and estimates free.—Dr. Sigel Roush, Troy.

Learn a lesson that you will profit by. That's what you will do if you have fallen a victim to having inexperienced dentists endeavor to do your dental work, then had to go to an expert and learned the difference. It's a well known fact that we learn by experience and profit by our mistakes. However, this is rather an expensive way to learn. Here's a simpler and less expensive way: Come to us for your dental work. We employ only experts in their lines and you will go away satisfied.—Dr. Moore, Pueblo.

Fine full set $5.00. This is the set that defies detection. Full set teeth as low as $5.00, gold crowns $5.00, bridge work $5.00, gold fillings $1.00 up, other fillings 50c. Painless extraction free when sets are ordered. All work guaranteed. Hours 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Sundays 10 to 2. Telephone. Lady attendant. Examination, estimates and advice free.—King Dental Parlors, Waterbury, Conn.

Good work brought us success. While the lowness of our prices has always been a drawing card, the quality of our work has done more toward building up our practice than our prices. We do high grade dental work, and to do it we must naturally use best quality of materials, which, by buying in large quantities, cost us less than the poor kind costs others. Every dentist here is a college graduate, and every modern appliance is at his command.—American Dentists, Springfield, Ohio.

Those pearly teeth you read about are not always artificial. If they are and we made them, there is no wonder you thought them natural. Our extensive study of the natural teeth—in regard to color, shape and beauty—enables us to make perfect duplicates of them. We guarantee our teeth in every way.—Taft's Dental Parlors, Omaha, Neb.

This is the blow that killed father; also high prices. There is not another place on earth you can get first class bridge work fully guaranteed for the price we are offering it for, and we want to state to you that we are doing plenty of it. We guarantee our work. You take no risk. The minute the work is finished we assume the risk.—Drs. Lyon & Heatherly, Topeka, Kans.

Good, reliable work at reasonable prices is our motto. We aim to please everybody with our work. Call and consult us and get estimates of cost of your work. We extract teeth painlessly, free when plates are ordered. Crown and bridge work, gold and silver filling done in a first-class manner and guaranteed.—N. Y. Dentists, Mansfield, Ohio.

Your teeth are valuable, and for that reason you should have them examined every few months for signs of decay. With our modern equipment it takes but a short time to thoroughly examine your teeth and give you an estimate upon the work. We are experts in every branch of dentistry and can give you the very best satisfaction.—Dr. Anshutz, Terre Haute, Ind.

How to keep the teeth beautiful. Of course clean them with a toothbrush night and morning, but in addition let us give them a thorough overhauling every now and then. If pulling, filling or replacing is actually necessary we'll do that, too, at moderate cost. Our free advice will be worth something also.—National Painless Dentist, Kenton, Ohio.

Good, reliable work at reasonable prices is our motto. Call and consult us and get estimates of cost of your work. We extract teeth painlessly, free when plates are ordered. Crown and bridge work, gold and silver filling done in a first-class manner and guaranteed.—New York Dentists, Mansfield, O.

Now the holiday season is at its close, it's your duty to forget friends long enough to do your duty to yourself. The teeth are the most vital working part of the human system when everything is taken into account. With good teeth you have perfect digestion, good stomachs and a happy life. When the teeth are bad the whole system gets out of order. We give free consultation.—Dr. E. O. Dennis, Zanesville, Ohio.

Porcelain fillings. They do not advertise the fact that your teeth have decayed. Porcelain fillings have the color, texture and wearing qualities of the tooth itself. Painless and inexpensive, too. We would like to tell you about them.—Neal & Eakin, New Bedford.

They all say that the best crowning, bridge and other work in dentistry is skillfully and properly executed at Dr. Moore's. If you are desirous of receiving the same kind of dental service we recommend that you call at our dental parlor.—Dr. Moore, Pueblo, Col.

People make the mistake of allowing small tooth troubles to grow to large ones, when prompt action at the proper time would save them both money and misery. Wise ones have their teeth examined regularly. Don't go to any old dentist, when the very best works costs no more. Our equipment and our experience entitle us to first place in your consideration. Somnoform also used when desired.—N. Y. Dentists, Zanesville, Ohio.

The original and only New York dental parlors is the place to go for first-class dental work, but be sure you get the right place. Others have imitated our name, our signs and our advertising, but they cannot imitate our work. They can only try. With our patented appliances and facilities we can extract your old teeth painlessly and have the new set ready inside of six hours. We have invented and perfected a suction plate that will not drop. Give us a trial.—N. Y. Dental Parlors, Brooklyn.

To be considered when about to select a dental establishment to entrust with your dental work is workmanship. We take care to execute all dental work in a manner that will bring forth favorable commendation. If you favor Dr. Moore's Dental Parlors you can rely on your work being done right. All our work guaranteed.—Dr. Moore, Pueblo, Col.

A perfect fit guaranteed in every case. We solicit difficult cases in plate or bridge work. Persons having trouble with their plates or in having plates fitted are invited to call and consult us.—Schiffman Dental Co., Los Angeles.

You can save money—and at the same time receive the highest grade dental work that can be done. We have reduced prices on all high grade work. Why not call and see what we offer? We will be pleased to examine your case and quote our prices, which you will find cannot be duplicated on the coast, considering price and quality. We are in the field for business.—The Modern Dentists, Spokane, Wash.

Really fine dentistry is not found on the bargain counter. For satisfactory, durable work you have to look up the dentist who has the practical experience, the scientific knowledge, the expert skill to do satisfactory work. Backed by fifteen years' practical experience, the Belding style of dentistry has stood the test. Your friends will tell you that our equipment—our service—and prices are right.—Belding, the Dentist, Rochester, N. Y.

Dental hints. Our artificial teeth are like your own, only they do not ache. For health you must have good teeth. We use the best materials and workmanship. Painless extraction and work guaranteed. Cleansings and examinations free.—Dr. C. C. Smith, San Bernardino.

Our plates fit perfectly and have a natural and lifelike appearance. If your plate is loose we can make one which will satisfy you. Our specialist is the best in Canada and can supply you with a piece of crown and bridge work which will be beautiful in its appearance and good for a lifetime. Our fillings stay where we put them. Our extracting specialist can remove any tooth you bring along and use methods which make it absolutely painless.—New Method Dental Parlors, Winnipeg, Can.

DRAPERIES

Draperies.—Our fall exhibit is now complete with the newest, the best and the latest productions. We are particularly fortunate in being able to show you a variety of the handsomest materials obtainable. You cannot fail to find something in our splendid line to please you. Your taste and color scheme can be fully satisfied. You can get the proper shades to harmonize with your interior decorations. We have our skilled draper to assist you. Come and see us.—C. F. Brower & Co., Lexington, Ky.

Our drapery department, where all the newest things in curtains and portieres are shown, is drawing the attention of hundreds who are bent on beautifying their home.—Goldsmith's, Memphis, Tenn.

We make homes cozy because it is our business to do so. It is a time of year when there exists a desire in every home-loving woman to freshen the surroundings. Let us attend to this for you.—Hall & Hawkins, Knoxville, Tenn.

We have made a big "hit" in our drapery department this season. No wonder that curtain buyers are coming here in increasing numbers. The beauty and character of the goods that we sell, coupled with our positively lowest prices, make this the store at which to purchase draperies of any kind. If you intend adding the charm of draperies to your home this season you will make a serious mistake if you buy without seeing us. You cannot mention any kind of a lace drapery that we cannot show, and new kinds and patterns are constantly arriving.—Chandler & Co., Bangor, Me.

Two weeks ago we told you such an interesting carpet story that you came by hundreds the next day to profit by it. We said then that the new carpet chief, who is likewise head of the upholstery department, meant to do equally great things for you in curtains and draperies, once he got those stocks well in hand. This is to announce that he will be ready for you to-morrow, with bargains that ought to bring to our third floor the first thing in the morning every Syracuse housekeeper with the proper ideas of economy. There are portieres, upholsterings and silks from our own shelves that he has marked very, very far down; and there's a lot of brand new lace curtains that he helped an importer to close out and he passes on to you at half price.—D. D. McCarthy & Son, Syracuse, N. Y.

Nothing "dresses" a room so much or adds more to its general attractive effect than the right draperies. We are making artistic window draperies a prominent feature of our business this season, and have an unusually large line for you to choose from. Among them are dainty muslin beauties, sheer and summery, elegant Irish point, always in excellent taste; and the ever popular Nottingham lace. Fit up your windows at 75 cents, or anything beyond that up to $15—as your taste and purse dictate. Also a particularly strong line of the rich and artistic Arabian point curtains—from $5 to $25—the most choice and effective drapery possible—in the best of taste and good for a lifetime.—The Linust T. Fenn Co., Hartford, Conn.

Draperies and wall hangings. In drapery fabrics one learns the lesson that the mere goods themselves do not make beauty. It is the design arrangement, color scheme, harmony, and contrast, that count in the result. It is the work of the expert. This is a strong feature of our business. We make a specialty of advising, arranging, grouping and selecting for you, so that every dollar will tell. We plan for you along any line of expense and will submit estimates of cost either for one room, or for a whole house.—The Sterling & Welch Co., Cleveland.

Spring brings numerous wants. The daintiest, coolest hangings and draperies and furnishings for the summer home are here. And throughout the whole store there's not a price that is not emphatically low.—Rothenberg & Co., New York.

Something for the Home. A Sale. From the drapery department the news comes this time—timely news, for notice how the days grow longer. House cleaning and springtime will come together, and windows need new things to hang up before them, and other things will need freshening up. Take time by the forelock and drape windows at the rate of two to one at regular prices.—Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

The streets of Delhi in the Durbar. Much interest is manifested in the display on the second floor of rich Oriental hangings and odd pieces which we call barbaric, but which art marks high up as beautiful and pleasing. Antique embroideries that are rare—of the kind that are handed down as heirlooms from one generation to another, until the years have mellowed the colors to the rich subdued shades which highest artistic taste says are most admirable.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia.

Is your home dressed for Spring? Give your mind a little vacation spell from the constant drudgery of household work and worry and visit our sale of home decorations. Possibly you may enjoy looking at new lace curtains and handsome draperies. What woman does not enjoy seeing these artistic products of the weaver's art? Can show you a splendid lace.—The Baughman Store, Charlotte, Neb.

We'd like to talk to you a minute or two about curtains and draperies.

If this seems like boasting, pardon us. We're justified. Not within our memory have we discussed interior window draperies the equal of these. We've had lots of fine ones, and we've sold 'em to you, but the designs are becoming prettier all the time, and qualities are growing better.

You'll remember this August sale, if for no other reason than this contribution of curtains and draperies. You'll marvel at the range of beauty. You'll wonder at the low prices. See them, then you'll know.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Every woman of taste knows how much depends upon the skillful and harmonious draping of the windows and doorways. And many of them know, as well, the value of being in touch with our drapery store, where the newest effects are shown, and where novel and practical ideas are to be had for the mere picking up.—Howes Rogers Company, Rochester, N. Y.

This is the first time New York home furnishers were ever offered fine imported damasks and tapestries of the rare beauty and high quality characterizing these at half price, and the unprecedented selling of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday has been the talk of the town. The hundreds of extraordinary values are clearing out with tremendous rapidity—showing that particular people everywhere have caught the bargain spirit and are beautifying their homes at the least expenditure they will ever expe-

Upon these, properly harmonized and blended, depend the comfort and attractiveness of the home. Lacking their softening and restful influence, you have merely a house. We know of no other store which so fully comprehends the requirements for the artistic decoration of homes of every class, or which provides so lavishly of the various silk, linen and cotton art-textiles from all over the world.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Splendid offerings from our upholstery department in curtains, draperies and slip covers. Just when every good housekeeper is planning to refresh her home for spring and summer come these splendid offerings of exactly the goods to make the home beautiful. They are the new goods in latest effects; comprising all the needfuls for draperies and furniture coverings—all at extremely modest prices.—Lansburgh & Bros., Washington, D. C.

Wall hangings. It is a mistake to suppose that the price of wall fabric is prohibitory. The difference between high class wall papers and the material for wall hangings is slight, and we can demonstrate that the effect of our superb stock of brocades, tapestries, jutes, damasks, taffeta linens, and English and American Cretonnes is much more artistic and better results obtained than with the papers.—The Sterling & Welch Co., Cleveland, O.

First and foremost in the fall renovating and furnishing come upholstery needs. Our immense assortments offer the finest chances for splendid choice, while our unequaled buying facilities bring about unmatchably low prices.—Bloomington, New York, N. Y.

Earliest, fullest display we ever made of new drapery stuffs.—The beauty and variety of it all is charming. Prices as low as they'll ever be. Fully a month ahead of time; fully a third more now than you've ever seen later. Drapery people who ought to know say there's nothing to equal it in the West. But we haven't said it. We wait for your decision. Our enthusiasm mustn't take us off our feet. Here are the cold facts. See if they aren't worth warming up over.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

In the drapery department there are lots of odds and ends that accumulate so during this sale we intend to close these out at exceedingly low prices.—The Day Carpet & Furniture Co., Peoria.

Scotch nets from Gibson Brothers, of Glasgow. For ten years or more we have been the exclusive representatives in this territory for this remarkable line of goods for window draperies. Gibson Brothers' nets are recognized the world over as something out of the ordinary, a fact so patent, that probably not a factory in America will neglect reproducing the patterns we are showing now, but the domestic goods will not be marketed for a year or so, then Gibson Brothers will have new designs, for they never repeat the same style. The draperies are very uncommon, so much so that we believe nine in every ten women in walking through the department will say to themselves, and with good reason, too, pretty enough for dresses, and they are too. We have three cases of the nets.—John G. Myers Company, Albany, N. Y.

Every one who visits our store now will think himself blessed with the purse of Fortunatus—such sweeping reductions have we made in all our furnishings—the most artistic that any summer has seen. Airy draperies in abundance, whose colors run the whole gamut, from the richest to the daintiest tints—they supply just the correct tone or complete the decorative effects of our cool matings and artistic reed and rattan furniture—all now greatly reduced.—Cowperthwait's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Color and harmony secrets for brides of to-day. Color harmony is important in furnishing every room. Draperies must give the key of colour—floor and wall decorations and furniture are accessory backgrounds. Here is a palette full of rich, deep Oriental tones.—Cowperthwait Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Summer portieres and draperies make your rooms cool and inviting with the added distinction of grace and beauty, and are, therefore, almost indispensable with those whose homes are dressed with an air of elegance. Of all summer curtains, portieres are the real, ideal summer draperies, because they are the coolest, cleanest and most graceful of all. We have many beautiful patterns from which to select, at prices within the reach of all.—Kuafman's, Trenton, N. J.

Portieres at bargain prices. The line is too heavy, by far, and must be reduced. Several patterns in the assortment that will be discontinued by the mills, and of course we drop them. These are the goods we offer. Nothing better, nothing finer than these portieres. The majority of effects we control exclusively in this territory. To make the selling prompt and effective, the draperies, single portieres mostly, are marked at an average of one-half and one-third value.—John G. Myers Co., Albany, N. Y.

In a very short while the lace curtains will be taken down for the warm weather. Are your window shades good enough to go it alone? Are they faded? Are they in good condition, generally? If not, it's high time you thought about new ones. And about getting them at Wanamaker's—as a natural sequence. May we send an expert to talk this matter over with you? We are splendidly prepared to execute all orders—from one window to an entire house. Only the best materials are used—King's Scotch and Lonsdale Hollands, Oil Opaque, and so on. Made and put up in first-class manner, on wood or tin spring rollers.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Your odd-shaped windows, doors, fancy arches and folding doors can all be fitted with any style of draperies or hangings. We have the necessary materials and competent workmen to do this kind of work. For the windows, we have nets in white and Arabian in all widths, with laces to match. For fancy arches, doorways or alcoves, we make the silk draperies of China silk, Shikii or the high class goods in wide or double-face draperies with fringes to match. For the regulation double doors we make the straight hangings in double-faced fabrics or velours. Also hangings of all styles of two shades to match each room. In velours, damasks and other fine fabrics, we carry a full line of colors, suitable for the most dainty parlor or reception room. Send us the measurements of your windows, doors or other openings, with other particulars, and we will make an estimate of the expense of the work and materials for the same.—Hills, M'Lean & Haskins, Binghamton.

Special drapery display Monday. Come in and see the beautiful goods. See the new "Moss Rose Mills" portieres. They look like silk at one-fourth the cost. Be sure to take in the choice exhibit of dainty lace curtains. Nothing like them this side the great cities. Oh, we are right up to the mark with merchandise this fall. The latchstring is out—come in.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

We are showing for the first time this week many entirely new ideas in draperies, fancy madras, swisses, etc., all sorts of fancy hangings for the home. Also many new spring styles in white and ecru lace curtains. See them while the collection is complete.—C. Cohn, San Bernardino, Cal.

Our drapery department is completely equipped to take care of entire decorating contracts of any kind in the most approved manner. Fabrics of all kinds for all decorative purposes are carried in stock, and people of long experience are here to make them up. If you have a new home to fit up, if you want to put new fittings into the home you now occupy, or if you want to refurnish only a single room or suite, we can be of valuable service to you. By placing your contract with us you are assured work of just as high character as though you brought a man clear from New York or Chicago to do it for you. Besides this, you entirely eliminate the unnecessary worry, time and expense connected with the contract if handled by an Eastern firm. We will consider it a great pleasure to have you call when in town. Let us show you why we are capable of producing superior effects.—The Grote-Rankin Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Summer portieres and draperies. It matters not where you live, city or country, portieres are the real, ideal summer draperies, because they are the coolest, cleanest and most graceful of all. They make your rooms cool and inviting, with the added distinction of grace and beauty, and are, therefore, almost indispensable with those whose homes are dressed with an air of elegance. We have many beautiful patterns from which to select, at prices within the reach of all.—Kaufman's, Trenton, N. J.

Seventy-five pieces cotton draperies, representing many qualities and weights of texture, on sale Saturday and Monday at greatly reduced prices. So many qualities are represented in this lot it is too difficult to enumerate prices.—The Blakely Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

The new drapery section on the third floor has already made a place for itself. A few minutes spent here will furnish you with a number of valuable ideas for home decoration.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Orders for making and hanging portieres and window draperies will be received during February at a liberal discount from regular prices. Customers may choose from our entire stock of carefully collected materials. Many decided bargains are to be had in dropped patterns of tapestries, brocades and damasks in suitable lengths for hangings.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Our drapery department, which, by the way, is one of the best stocked and most beautifully appointed in the West, is taking a most active part in this great red letter clearance. Odd pairs of lace curtains and portieres, remnants of upholstery and drapery goods are reduced for the purpose of making room for new goods that are already on the way. Besides this everything in the stock is reduced.—The Los Angeles Furniture Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Artistic Summer Draperies.—The Drapery Corner is a very interesting and busy place these days. Here may be seen the most artistic color-schemes and effects in suitable materials of all kinds for brightening up the summer home. Perplexing questions of what to buy to obtain possible results are readily solved.

Handsome tapestries for couch covers and portieres, and heavier qualities for upholstering purposes. Silkalines, cretonnes, denims, and a fine assortment of real Dutch prints. Including drapery fringes, cords and tassels, also. While we are able to sell some of these for less than established worth—it is the completeness of the display in which you are most concerned: Artistic beauty and harmony, and a noticeable absence of unworthy qualities.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes, Atlanta, Ga.

Window Draperies.—Best kinds in lace. At our drapery department you will find a fine showing of all the popular styles, and can rest assured of always getting the lowest price. Dealing as we do direct with the makers and importing all foreign goods ourselves, we reap price advantages that enable us to undersell all other dealers. That is why when wanting window draperies you should see our offerings. Some of the most popular.—Brown, Thomson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Beginning this morning at 8 o'clock we place on special sale a number of handsome portieres. The variety is broad—and there is naturally a choice—and those who come promptly will have the choicest selections—prompt coming is well worth the while. The most decisive reduction in portieres known for many months. Some suggestions and prices are given below.—John Breuner Co., Sacramento, Cal.

One attraction fairly treads on the heels of another in this section, so fast do they follow. This time it's the season's best effects in draperies, and couch covers priced as you seldom see them priced. A buying opportunity that the frugal housewife cannot afford to pass.—Geo. B. Peck Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Drapery Novelties. Whatever your thoughts of spring and summer draperies, we can put them in tangible and pleasing shape. Many choice and pretty novelties are ready, and we shall be glad to assist you in carrying out your plans for home beautifying. Drapery stuffs are daintier and more artistic than ever—you will find our ideas correspondingly good.—Howe & Rogers Co., Rochester, N. Y.

As much taste can be displayed in the draping of doors and windows as in the arrangement of one's own dress. The materials need not be expensive; but harmonious colorings and graceful lines go a long way towards transforming a plain ordinary house into a pleasant and desirable home.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

It's a comprehensive budget of choice offerings that we present for the housekeeper's consideration to-day. Practically the whole range of upholsteries is covered—lace curtains, portieres, draperies, coverings and the cool Summery comfort bits in the way of couch cushions and the like. And the group teems with the interest furnished by the most special kinds of prices on very desirable goods.—Wanamaker, New York.

The following very important announcement by our lace curtain and drapery department of a cut price sale Wednesday should be of great interest to those who intend, now or this fall, to drape their windows. The prices are away down.—William Donaldson & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Our drapery department is intimately associated with the spring beautifying of many a pleasant home; not alone because of the newness and elegance of the numerous seasonable fabrics which it contains, but, as well, because of the practical ideas which it suggests for effective draping. While the possibilities of artistic home furnishing are boundless, great expense is not necessarily a factor. Our stocks contain something for all, and we employ a force of expert drapers whose services will be found of value in the realization of your plans.—Howe & Rogers Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Great sale of new curtains, draperies, portieres, etc. These specials are all in choice new goods. The departments have only been open a week—but the beauty of the designs, the great varieties and the irresistible low prices are causing a furore among ladies who really know and appreciate fine and artistic hangings.—Rosenbaum Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

For a good reason—which certainly does not affect the goods themselves—a manufacturer has sold to us a lot of best all-silk tapestry curtains, with cord edge, at just a little above half value. Color effects are red, green, rose and Nile, in very handsome designs.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Drapery hints. The housewife who expects to move into a new house this spring and who contemplates some novel and dainty treatment therefor, or she who is thinking of new curtains for the parlor, dining-room, library or up-stairs rooms, will, we know, be interested in the varied attractions of our drapery department. We are showing the freshest and choicest designs in all fabrics for interior decorations. * * * Our decorative artists are at your command—to assist or to assume entire charge.—Howe & Rogers Co., Rochester, N. Y.

When the heavy winter portieres are taken down the rooms look bare enough; something else must take their place for the summer. Something cool and breezy—how about these Japanese bead portieres? Don't they solve the problem nicely?—S. E. Kaufman, Trenton, N. J.

Portieres—lace curtains at half or nearly half. The sale of upholsteries is bringing people from miles out of town as well as from all over Brooklyn. August has always been a month of great values, but even August never before developed such offerings as are to be shared now and here. There is still a group of $5 to $20 portieres at $2.50 to $9.98 a pair. They include tapestry, armure, mercerized, silk moire, silk velour, etc.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Portieres. New snow-flake and cross-stripe portieres are here—just in the nick of time for people who want summer door-hangings without paying the prices of imported madras. There are white, ecru and green grounds enlivened with touches of tan, blue, pink or yellow. All are good-looking, and the cross-stripe curtains have silk woven into the stripes.—Taylor's, Cleveland, Ohio.

About new draperies? If the city home is to be refurnished this fall with new window and doors draperies, why not attend to the matter at once and avoid possible delays later? The upholstery store is ready to help you in planning. Ready with a complete stock of splendid damasks, silk velours, novelties and imported and domestic draperies, from which you may make selections. If you desire we shall send some one to your home to submit samples, take measurements and give you an estimate of the cost.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

DRESS GOODS

Father—“How do you like mamma’s new dress?”

Egbert—“Why, it don’t look new—it’s all worn out on top.”

When they reproached the reformer with the dowdiness of her gown she smiled sadly.

“Oh, how can one think of one’s own clothes when there are so many statues and paintings and pictures without any clothes at all!” she exclaimed, with emotion.—Puck.

Striking Opportunities. Secure Newest Dress Goods at Unusual Prices.—We’re turning trade conditions to your advantage in the dress goods section. A large mill took a heavy loss on thousands of yards of bright new fabrics, and we were quick to avail ourselves of the opportunity—they’re ready for Monday’s selling. See that you get your share of the saving.—Rothschild & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Black Dress Goods.—When you have decided that the new gown shall be black, your troubles are half over. The question then for you to settle is the kind of material wanted. A visit to our black dress goods department, where almost every style of weave can be seen, will aid you greatly in deciding this point.—People’s Store Co., Tacoma.

Great Special Values in Stylish Dress Goods. Newest Weaves, Exclusive Designs.—We tell now of some excellent values for to-morrow in the new weaves of very stylish dress goods. The styles are quite exclusive to us for Hamilton. The values are the best that spot cash and big purchasing can procure. Do not miss seeing our great show of lovely new dress goods at popular prices.—The G. W. Robinson Co., Hamilton, Ont.

Desirable Black Goods at Important Savings.—The scope and variety of this group of black dress goods, which includes many of the most popular weaves of the season, makes the task of selecting materials for a suitable dress very easy. Some of the lots are small, others large. They were bought from manufacturers and importers, all of whom were glad to wind up their season’s surplus stocks. Many of them represent savings ranging up to a full third, the best sort of news, since black fabrics are so widely popular.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

The Wanted Spring Cloths.—In whatever walk of life one is engaged, it is to one’s advantage to secure cloths for spring apparel at our fourth floor cloth department. The service we render supplies cloths of latest weave and coloring at prices that enable anybody to save several dollars on the cost of a spring outfit.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Imported and Domestic Dress Goods Monday.—The wonderful strides our dress goods department is making speak well for the managership. The very newest in colorings or material you will find here. It pays nowadays to express dress goods if you want to keep abreast of New York styles, and we are abreast.—William Donaldson & Co., Minneapolis.

Black Mohairs and Sicilians.—Were timely dress goods ever so cheap? Good, dependable materials in the height of style and popularity. Freshly unpacked, just in from England, these black mohairs and Sicilians are bargains, the most remarkable for their newness and saving we have told you of in a long time.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Now that the weather mellows we are going to effect quick sales of goods that this cold spring has been too much for. It’s our loss, as usual, but your gain. Wool dress goods must go at once here at the “cut” prices.—Crow & Whitmarsh, Cleveland, Ohio.

Economy and elegance meet at our silk counter.—E. Y. Hogle, Saginaw, Mich.

Those who read the signs of nature tell us that an early Fall is indicated. This is fair warning to start early on Fall dresses. Among the first arrivals are the warm, rich colored plaids, which will not only be snapped up for dresses for school girls, but will be much worn in Fall walking suits for women.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

B. Altman & Co. will hold a sale on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of high-class cotton dress goods at extraordinarily reduced prices, consisting of attractive novelties for dresses and waists.—B. Altman & Co., New York.

Two extraordinary Monday offers of dress goods. Only two—but enough to bring thousands to the Simpson Crawford Co. Dress goods section to-morrow. We advise early coming, for the quantity, under a heavy buying charge, will hardly last the day.—Simpson-Crawford & Co., New York.

Special spring dress goods display. The tables in the front of our store will be filled with the daintiest fabrics for spring wear yet shown in Asheville—yet like the flowers in the garden, all don't bloom out at once, but freshness and newness is added almost daily.—Bon Marche, Asheville, N. C.

The best store for dress goods. It takes but a stroke or two of the pencil to mention new dress goods; but no words, nor pencil, nor coloring could do justice to such novelties as go to make up our great spring showing. It's a marvellous display. Hundreds of separate tints; bright, living color tones in perfection everywhere.—Scroggies, Montreal, Can.

Exclusive ideas in new Spring dress goods are to be found here in greater variety, everyone tells us, than can be seen in almost the combined store of the Twin Cities. Let this be so or no, we invite you Monday to a showing that is simply beyond newspaper description. You must see and handle the goods to appreciate their goodness and beauty.—Donaldson, Minneapolis, Minn.

Surprises await every woman who gets here Monday. New effects, quite out of the ordinary, have been woven in the flannels for Autumn, 1908. In the home-spuns and flannel waistings jacquard and copies of the all-wool waisting effects take precedence.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our buyer has just returned from the eastern market. While there he found this special lot of new spring dress goods. We consider this the best bargain ever offered in new fashionable dress goods.—The Scott D. G. Co., Cleveland, O.

The French weavers are not satisfied to let well enough alone. As the season progresses, when they are not sending us new novelties in dress goods, they are doing the next best thing, sending us old favorites done up in a new guise—which are novelties in themselves. In some materials the shades that have prevailed during the first of the season have been changed a tint lighter or darker. In others a cord has been interwoven in the weave, and while the material goes under the same name it is a decided novelty. Now they are intermixing colors which earlier in the season were thought to clash, and so successfully that some of the most beautiful effects are produced and, of course, they are here.—The T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

An exquisite fabric, light in weight, firm in texture, with a beautiful silky surface. It will not spot, is sponged, re-finished and ready for the dressmakers' shears. We show a very choice line of colorings, including the new browns, mahogany, leather shades, reseda and myrtle green, moleskin, navy blue, black, etc.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington.

From One-Fourth to One-Half Saved on Dress Goods.—We've made some enviable records in dress goods selling this season—and it's all due to our carrying the right kinds of goods—the kinds wanted. On account of our excellent buying facilities we've been able to do considerably better in prices, too, than other stores for this sale.—O. M. Co., Portland, Ore.

Immense Savings in Dress Stuff.—Dislodgment sale makes opportunity unparalleled and turns these new, popular, seasonable and stylish dress fabrics over to you at a price less two profits—the maker's and ours. Two special lots deserve special mention in Friday's selling. Both arrived here delayed in transportation. Quick wiring across the continent and back brought instruction from the manufacturers to accept at actual cost of making, rather than cancel at this date and impose return charges upon them. One good turn deserves another—we'll waive any and all profit on this end and sell you the goods to-morrow at less than you'd offer us if we told you to name the price. The goods must be sold—quickly!—Olds, Worthman & King, Portland, Oregon.

Have no fears that we will be unable to suit you in Warm Weather Dress Goods.—Dozens, scores, yes hundreds of the loveliest "dress summerisms" are here for your selection.—A. D. Baughman, Charlotte, Mich.

Magnificent exhibition of the new spring silks and dress goods. Thousands of yards of bewitching silks and wools. A display and sale way out of the ordinary. Great trade event.—J. M. High Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Sale of Dress Goods.—That which is newest in weave, in coloring and in effect—the standard fabrics, as well as the latest fads—will be found here in our enormous dress fabric section, where every pains has been taken to give you the best, the most up-to-date, at popular low prices that have brought this department its immense and ever-increasing business.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

A Stock Reducing Sale of Black Goods.—Too many black dress goods—that's the sum and substance of it—and to reduce it these low prices have been made. Elegant Mohair, wool and silk and wool materials in all the choice new weaves will be offered at these special price reductions.—Bernheimer's, Kansas City, Mo.

There is an air of refinement pervading our Dress Goods Section, to say the least about it, that is soothing. Nothing to offend the most cultured and artistic taste. Here is a wealth of variety and a richness of materials that afford a choice that you could not expect to meet with, outside of metropolitan fashion centers.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

Styles change in weave and fabric—seasons come and go; but black, like the brook, goes on forever. Black is suitable for almost every occasion and for practically every individual.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

The present season does not allow of anything bizarre or elaborate in the way of fabrics. The dressmaker demands the right to finish the decoration for the beautiful gowns of the season, yet Paris must have her novelties. Though confined within certain limitations, her decisions have produced some thoroughly original and pleasing effects.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

A regular rainbow of spring dress goods. This splendid showing of the latest weaves and fabrics for spring gowns is attracting widespread attention, and justly so, for no more beautiful stuffs at smaller prices have ever been shown here.—Bon Marche, Asheville.

Dress goods—very special. Yesterday's news was so good and brought such phenomenal response that we repeat this morning. No such materials for the money have ever gone over our counters—and the scissors never cut so many dresses in a single day. Enough of all the kinds for to-day.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York.

New spring dress goods. Thousands of yards of the season's most popular fabrics are here for your inspection. Enthusiasm over this superb and wonderfully complete exposition will naturally be intense. It is the greatest showing Hirschmann Bros. Co. ever made—it is the finest exhibit Binghamton ever saw. And there is economy to the buyer in choosing here.—Hirschmann Bros. Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

"We don't meet them; we beat them."

We don't belong to any "Syndicate" "doing business of millions (?) of dollars." We're a "free lance" in the business world, at liberty to go into the markets of the world with cash in one hand and a business experience of over thirty years in the other—are not tied down and obliged to buy our goods practically of one concern—Do not belong to any "Syndicate." But—no concern in the United States, syndicate or no syndicate, can buy goods cheaper or to a better advantage than this store can, and to prove that assertion we inaugurated a silk sale that has made some "silk sales" look like "three red cents." As to "Reliability." There are different kinds of "reliability." Some stores can always be "relied" upon for not doing what they advertise to do. This community has quite recently had an illuminated illustration of that kind of "reliability." We don't think it has forgotten it. Then there are stores that are really "reliable." We claim this store is one of them. With ten years in the lime light of publicity, we'll leave the buying public, however, to be the judge and the jury, and their verdict is usually not only just, but final as well. Here are our prices. Compare them—sample the goods—then buy where you get the best values.—Wood & Ever, Bangor, Me.

A sale of dress goods, in which originality, effectiveness, character and economy are combined to a high degree.—Blowenstein & Bros., Memphis, Tenn.

A week's special exhibit of new dress fabrics begins Monday. Black and colored dress materials. Newest styles from home and abroad. Goods that Dame Fashion says will find greatest favor for coming season's wear. All are here—not a weave missing, not a color lacking. Nowhere better than right here will you find greater opportunities to supply your dress goods wants.—H. A. U. Naughton Co., Muncie, Ind.

The variety in dress fabrics was never so extensive. The values were never better. And it isn't an occasional item only, but on every line that values are so emphatically good.—The S. Carsley Co., Montreal, Can.

O'Brien's. If you want dress goods go to O'Brien's. If a stranger in Jersey City asks where she will go to buy dress goods, nine out of ten people will tell her to go to O'Brien's. If a lady complains about buying dress goods that were not satisfactory, her friends will say, "Why don't you go to O'Brien's?" If a Jersey City lady tells her friends that she buys her dress goods in New York, her friends will say, "Why don't you go to O'Brien's?" Ladies in this city, in fact all over the country, during this sale, if they want anything in dress goods are sure to go to O'Brien's.—O'Brien's, Jersey City, N. J.

Dress Goods—Great Spring Sale. A splendid exposition; one that will arouse the liveliest enthusiasm of every woman who beholds this masterful assembly of matchless dress fabrics for spring and summer. Main aisle, of course. Only the Avenue of Honor could do such a brilliant coterie of loom wonders complete justice. Viewed critically, and from every point, this is unquestionably the most important and comprehensive sale of dress textiles the Siegel Cooper Store has ever exploited. Everything new in the realm of dress goods is shown, among the list being. When you see these fabrics—the entire lot, in fact—you will observe how 1908 leads over other years. There is more dash and charm, more racy novelty about the new fabrics than was ever seen in previous years.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York.

The thorough searchings of this systematic clearance sale have now reached the dress goods. It shows up an immense collection of splendid, stylish weaves, which are in every way desirable, but of which we have only broken lines. No very great amount of any one kind. And so, to let you have them for as little as possible, while yet you have plenty of time in which to use them, we have gathered them all into one lot, from which you may choose any piece for only 50c. a yard. Not a piece in the assortment that is worth less than $1, and in truth, many are regular $1.50 values. The popular Scotch plaids are prominent in the lot, but there are also many other attractive materials, as zibelines, tweeds, etc. We made a somewhat similar offering in dress goods last week, but this lot is far greater in quantity and variety—it's the best chance of the year in the dress goods section.—O. A. Bergner & Co., Peoria, Ill.

When the largest and best dress goods department in town cuts prices on some of its finest fabrics, as we have done, it's no wonder scissors are snipping off lengths for dresses, skirts and coat suits as fast as fingers can fly. Many of the fabrics are as suitable for spring and summer gowns as though they had but just come from the looms—soft, clinging, silky stuffs such as fashion is approving for the coming season. Others are high-class imported fabrics for tailored suits, beautiful and exclusive; and for every day wear, either for house or street, are plainer weaves very low in price.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Dress Goods. Goods like these at such low prices should keep scissors flashing through folds of fabrics all day.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

So soon! Yes, "the year's at the Spring"—here. There are some sunny lands where trees turn green and flowers blossom while the rest of the world is ice-bound. Why not? Paris, always first in matters of dress, has been showing summery styles and gauzy fabrics, to go to Nice and Monte Carlo, for two months past. Why shouldn't the store that clasps hands with Paris across the seas be doing the self-same things? Nearly every steamer from foreign ports is bringing us new things. Scarcely a day passes without helpful hints from our representatives now in New York. Not forced by any hot-house processes, but easily and naturally the store will burst into bloom to-morrow.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

The new spring goods will be received within the next ten days. We cannot carry any winter garments longer in stock, though many of these wearables will be equally serviceable next year, and all of them will be as much in style the coming spring as they were last, for garments are usually made for an entire season's run. Some of the lines will sell more quickly than others. Be first to purchase in order to get best selections. None of them will be in the store next Saturday night.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

"Off with the old; on with the new." Spring's tocsin. Though you may still be friendly with your winter garb, soon you'll be saying adieu to it; some folks are doing so now. Almost hourly the new style wearables become more in evidence here, and steadily our stocks are assuming grand proportions for the spring season. Those who have early needs will find only the very best of value in the special offerings for to-morrow.—H. M. Voorhees & Bro., Trenton, N. J.

This store is always interesting to everybody, no matter what his or her tastes may be. Just now it is specially advisable to keep in close touch with it—on the one hand a constant procession of seasonable staple things at reduced prices, which no purse of economical habit can ignore; on the other, the unceasing incoming new things which, even if not needed at once, are of incalculable assistance in forming plans and deciding just what you will want later on. Through us Paris whispers to you her every new thought, each of which finds here earliest development in this country. This will be seen in silks, white goods, embroideries, woolen and cotton dress goods; blouses of cotton, linen and silk; parasols, tailored suits and jackets, babies' clothes, etc. And, to revert to the money-saving idea, don't forget the great February trade sales and the many clean-up lots that are here at reduced prices.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

For more reasons than you think, you want to keep up with what goes on at Tapp's. Watch the special sales. You are enabled to wear the very newest materials, the most stylish garments, and still save money in purchasing them here. We are continually receiving new goods, so you are absolutely certain of getting the proper styles. Mr. Tapp is in New York, where he has been for some time, making careful selections for your spring wear. He writes enthusiastic letters about the good things he is shipping here, and we believe we will have a spring line second to none in the South. The few remaining winter suits and jackets are offered for to-morrow at prices that are startlingly low. Many at just half price, some even less than half.—The James L. Tapp Co., Columbia.

Early as the season may be considered, in a few days we will be showing comprehensively the styles and fabrics that will be worn, both in men's and women's apparel. They are wide in range, the materials are varied, yet each has a distinctiveness to recommend it to one purchaser or another. But depend upon it, only the styles that may be relied upon for correctness will be shown, now, or at any time. Our guarantee of quality and style on every piece. You have probably all of the sale purchases you have storage room for, and the approaching spring calls for rational shopping, the purchasing of goods you intend to make practical use of. Little need be said of anything coming from any one of our stores. Our reputation has been built on quality. It stands to reason that no sale is put before the public purely for fun or love—there's money in it—big money. We are not speaking wholly of local conditions, for the whole country has been similarly afflicted. In a few words—you can't expect something for nothing. We are better prepared to offer you better values, real bargains, than any other firm in North Texas. We have stores in Denison, Bonham, Hillsboro, Beaumont, Corsicana, Denton, Ardmore, Shawnee, Muskogee, Greenville, Temple, Marshall, El Paso, Cleburne, Palestine, Lockhart and McGregor, and our buyers buy for the entire 17 stores at the same time. We don't pretend to sell below cost, but our goods, sold at a legitimate profit, mean lower prices than single handed merchants, goods at cost, simply because we can underbuy. Our buyers are now in the Eastern markets securing first-class reliable merchandise; not only with a view to low prices, but latest styles and best qualities.—Madden, Graham & Co., Denison, Tex.

Those exclusive things that herald the approach of a new season which are always so appreciated by careful dressers, will be found here this week in numbers. Particularly in our ladies' garment department are we more than ever before prepared to supply the wants of the more fastidious dressers—those who demand styles "just a little different." Every express from New York is bringing us the very newest and best productions, not of that city alone, but of Paris as well.—C. Cohn, San Bernardino, Cal.

An exhibition that is as interesting as it is instructive. A display that gives everybody an opportunity of seeing and examining closely the very latest and most exclusive novelties in goods for dresses, tailored costumes, separate skirts, and everything pertaining to winter wear.—Stanley Mills & Co., Hamilton.

That this is a record assortment of black and colored dress goods, it follows naturally that its distribution means record values—the best, we believe, ever offered in New York city. Of kindred importance: Every piece in the assortment is new, fresh goods—perfect in weave, dye and finish—brought out for this season's selling.—Macy's, New York.

We could, without doubt and without trouble, sell all of these dress goods at full price. The bargains are big enough to keep Gimbels in mind when the next dress length is needed.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

We sold three hundred pieces of a similar fabric in a few days not long ago. This lot will probably go as quickly, for the fabric is in demand the year around.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

A striking under-priced sale of spring dress goods, including voiles, etamines and crepes at a fraction of present value. Thousands, yes, tens of thousands of yards in every new and desirable weave and in every wanted color. In point of magnitude it towers over all previous events. Quantities are simply enormous, qualities are exceptionally superb—assortments are richly varied.—The Goerke Co., Newark, N. J.

Thrift is virtue. Consider well before you spend your dress goods money—no matter how much of it you have. Do not pay more than is necessary for your dress goods. You will find it an excellent habit to cultivate watching this store's store-talk, as we have the right kinds of merchandise and the disposition to sell it to you under price. We are selling great quantities of dress goods these days which is splendid evidence (best we can give) that we are right in kinds, right in qualities, right absolutely in price.—Phelan, Gatesburg.

The new dress goods. Charming fabrics from France will bid you a cheery good morning; and from Germany, from England, and from—because we're Americans we're modest—America! And not a whit less charming are the home-made goods than those from abroad.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

New colored dress goods. Some attractive fabrics and prices. There are some wonderfully pretty things in the new colored dress goods for spring and summer and we are showing a complete line of the nobbiest. They are worthy dress goods, each is the latest in style, the best in quality and the most economical in price. Come and see them.—Sisson Bros., Binghamton, N. Y.

Big advantages among the dress goods. Whatever is fashionable can be found here. The stock has been gathered with a view of meeting every want. Variety is immense—and in the widest possible price-range. From the lowest-priced fabrics that are worthy to the very richest, our assortment is complete.—The Goldenberg Store, Washington, D. C.

From foreign designers we have just received ideas which in their newness, beauty and attractiveness will make this popular fabric far more favored than ever during spring and summer. The lines represented are both complete and highly satisfactory in the extensive varieties. While dainty designs largely predominate, those who admire the unique, more conspicuous patterns will be especially attracted by the many exclusive ideas presented here—priced at 60c a yard.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago.

Our dress goods department. The place to buy all the smart creations for early spring wear.—Spring, Kolzworth & Co., Alliance, Ohio.

Every person cannot wear brown, and all people do not find blue becoming, but where is the person that "black" does not lend to them charms. We have proof. As in colors, the sheer, clingy materials are most in demand, but the medium weight stuff is to be worn, such as "Panama cloths," "henriettas," "prunellas," "mohairs," "melrose" and "crepe weaves." And all the new weaves for 1909. Samples will be cheerfully forwarded on application by 'phone or mail.—Goldsmith's Bazaar, Scranton, Pa.

Sheer Spring dress goods; brilliant showing. Light weight stuffs—sheer fabrics that cling and flow, that make pretty "lines" in draping have the preference. France makes the finest of these stuffs and from France we have brought an immense showing of them. We ordered many months ago—got first pick of the exclusive styles thereby and bought at prices which, with the increased cost of wool, could not be duplicated to-day. Just a hint of a display that has hardly its match in this country—that is nowhere matched in little prices.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Advance Dress Goods and Silk Sale.—To accomplish the trading triumph, we have been busy cutting into prices of many of our choice patterns. The buyers who attend this extraordinary trading event will get bargains which cannot be duplicated later. That these superb fabrics are cheap is a good buying argument—that they are good, is a better one.—Boston Store, Milwaukee.

Swarm of spring dress goods. A matchless display of the best styles the mills afford, at prices that will save dollars.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Rare Chances in Fine Dress Weaves.—Here are beautiful dress weaves of many different sorts marked away below prices that were plenty low enough before. Several counters and tables hold the collection that offers broad and tempting choice.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

The bright beauty of the new Spring goods illumines the store.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Wool fabrics. Striking individuality in costumes—what every smartly-dressing woman covets—is easily secured this spring by making selections from our woolen dress goods patterns. We have many new and exclusive importations.—C. A. Johnson's, The Big Store, Salisbury, Ill.

You may form a pretty good opinion of a Dress Goods Store from its stocks of black weaves, such as Cheviots and Serges. Pretty novelties come and go, but the blacks are staple and the real foundation of good Dress Goods Store service. June, with its seashore and mountain attractions, brings liveliest demand for these ebony weaves. Every yard is properly sponged and shrunk, and should it spot or shrink, we will gladly replace it or refund your money.—Macy's, New York.

"Brown" will lead the color procession the coming season. Brown will prevail in almost all articles of wearing apparel. Still you may depend that we'll not overdo it, for we don't like radical changes. They will be of a sufficiently marked degree to differentiate this spring's productions from those seen heretofore. Such changes are welcomed by the particular tastes of our patrons.—Horsfall & Rothschild, Hartford.

To clean up our colored dress goods stocks we have taken a tremendous mark-down, and will sell dress goods tomorrow and while these lots last as they have not been sold in Albany for years. As our customers know, we carry a very extensive assortment of every worthy kind of dress goods, and at the end of each season we go thoroughly through our stock and where lines or assortments are broken—where color combinations have been sold down to single pieces or part pieces—we put the knife in deep and cut them down to prices that will close them out. Certain colors or combination of colors in the same weave of cloth always sell out first, leaving a broken assortment that we have now marked down for quick selling—in some instances cutting them to almost half former basis.—W. M. Whitney & Co., Albany, N. Y.

The first showing of dress fabrics is a forerunner of what will be the greatest dress goods showing this store has ever made. We have simply bought everything of merit and in all the shades that will be desirable. This first display of mohairs represents the new iridescent and changeable effects and will be the most popular fabrics of the season.—R. B. Maxwell & Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

Unpacked yesterday; shown first today. They will open the eyes of American women to the beauty of the stuffs that are the heart of spring and summer gowns. What Paris hasn't done in order to lift heaviness and stiffness out of cloths and make them light, graceful and soft, will be hard to find! The new covert cloths are as soft as challies—yet as strong and firm and sturdy as ever. They come in mixed shades of tan, gray and an exquisite blue that is almost turquoise. Wool batiste in shepherd's checks is another beautiful light-weight fabric. Bedford cord has lost all its old clumsiness—here in light weight and exquisite colors. Shepherd check voiles are back again, as cheery as ever. With them this spring come voiles, marked off by faint hair-lines into checks, though the background is solid color. Tartan plaid voiles—all Paris has taken a sudden fancy for plaids. Silk-and-wool mixtures in clinging eoliennes and crepes are to be as popular as ever. The eoliennes show new ideas in changeable colors—very beautiful.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Shimmering suppleness—the softness of fabrics that cling and flow—will be perhaps the keynote of the spring favor and some of these shining materials will glisten and glint their way straight into your heart. Dainty chiffon cloths, gleaming eoliennes, silk-warp batistes, silk-finished crepes, rope eoliennes—all these are the new leaders. The colors, too, are more exquisite than ever. "Sunset," "American beauty" and "apricot" are among the conspicuously novel colorings which will appeal to the aesthetic in every woman who sees them. "Sunset" looks as though it had been dipped into the very heart of a brilliantly beautiful evening sky and come out saturated with the changing hues. "American Beauty" holds the richest tints of the queen of roses. "Apricot" is soft and tempting enough to be quite irresistible. Drap d'Ete is one of the new-old fabrics. It is soft, firm and serviceable, and the range of shades is far more varied than ever before. Easter grays and delicate resedas, copper, cafe au lait, hunter's green, "sunset," heliotropes and violets, rose, blues, black and white. Satiny broadcloths are here in all imaginable colors. The Loeser broadcloths are at all times unequaled, but it seems as though this present showing had outdone all past performances. The imported voiles are most appropriate for street and traveling dresses and suits, afternoon tea and coaching costumes. They are both pretty and practical, and we have them in most attractive designs of delicate checks and plaids, stripes and spots, as well as plain. Some of the patterns will surprise you assuredly by their ingenuity. A new silk finish suiting comes in a tiny stripe effect. It seems a bit sober among such brilliant cloths, but for all round service and utility it is hard to equal. Mohairs will be widely used, and to-morrow you will have a good chance to note the remarkable improvements that have been made in them since last season. They are carried out in typical cloth and suiting patterns, and many of them so closely resemble cloth or silk as to deceive even the practical observer. For knock-about dress that ought to be cool, long suffering and dust shedding nothing could be better than mohair. There are the all white goods, too; chiffon cloths and chiffons, eoliennes and crepes for those who are interested in approaching weddings. For an economical wedding dress, one that does not have to be put away in tissue paper, but may be worn on many occasions after the wedding, nothing is prettier than some silk finished wool material.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A spring opening and sale. Beautiful dress fabrics for Easter. Colors and black in comprehensive variety. Do you realize that Easter is only five weeks away? Have you planned for your new gown? You know that the hardest part is usually the selection of material, and five weeks for preparation is little enough. We are glad to tell you, however, that the task of selection has been somewhat lessened for you by months of anticipatory preparation on our part at home and abroad—in the fashion marts of the world—and that now you may see in our store.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The dress goods store has been doing a little house cleaning in preparation for Spring. It enables you to buy some desirable fabrics very cheap—half price or less.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

This is the most important announcement about silk-and-cotton summer dress fabrics we have made this season. The combination weaves of silk-and-cotton stand at the very front of popularity this year, as they so often have in the past, and, of course, getting this fine group at just half price, right at the beginning of the season, is good news of the most decisive character.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

New summer dress goods. Attractive weaves and tones. The gown goods that will be most in evidence at home and abroad during the coming summer have been brought to our store in full lines and we extend an earnest invitation to the ladies to come and look at them. Five of the leaders are mentioned here. There is a host of others to be seen.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Does the early summer greet you as a girl graduate? It has been a long pull—the years in study for this occasion, and the mind is book weary. Now for a pleasing relaxation—thoughts of the fairest and cool fabrics, sheer white dimities, lawns and silks. Pretty ribbons of class colors, frosty laces and embroideries and lovely white gloves. It's indeed a pleasure, now, to plan out the graduation wardrobe and to think of pretty things you will soon be buying. But there are sterner thoughts—prices. Those numerous purchases will amount to big bamboo prices—at least that's the impression one will have till they come to this store and get acquainted with the low prices we have marked our graduation goods at. A few items from our white cotton dress fabrics.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

Forty-four inch fine black wool etamine, 29c. This splendid stuff made such a stir last week at its little price that we shall have more to-morrow. It is decidedly the best quality that ever has been sold for so little and it is extra width as well. Enough for the day, we think—and if it cost twice as much it would be fine value—29c a yard.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Opening sale of the new Spring dress goods. A remarkable exhibition. As elaborate as it is good to look upon. A showing that makes the Adams dress goods business absolutely supreme. It offers to women-folk the widest opportunity for the choosing of styles that are absolutely correct, and at the same time saving you many a dollar on your purchases.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

Cream Dress Fabrics.—This will be a great opportunity to buy your cream materials for outing dresses, also for commencement or summer gowns, at much less than the regular prices.—Carson-Pirie-Scott Co.

Spring dress goods. Fashion still clings to soft voiles and coarser etamines, because of the graceful manner in which they lend themselves in the present styles. While dozens of beautiful robes (patterns) and yard fabrics have come from abroad, yet we wish to direct attention particularly to our collection of wool suitings at 50c, which was never so complete.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Special Numbers in the Imported Dress Goods Section.—The first thing that strikes the eye in the imported dress goods department is the popularity of the shepherd checks. We understood how great the demand would be this season for checks and prepared for it. Every steamer brings over new checked materials.—Jos. Horun Co., Pittsburg.

10,000 yards of dress goods at one-third and one-half under regular prices. Almost every favored weave of the season is embraced—novelties and plain fabrics—dress goods that are worth every penny of their full value—and yet they're yours at from one-third to one-half under regular prices. These goods represent the surplus holdings of several manufacturers and importers. There could never be better opportunities than the present to lay in a goodly supply of dress goods (both wool and cotton weaves) for present and future use.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

The over-production of several manufacturers and importers to be sold at a fraction of their value. The tremendous output of our dress goods and silk departments brings us into close relationship with the biggest makers here and abroad. We take advantage of every discount, and our prices are regularly brought down to the lowest level—a level far below that of other stores—with quality always at the top—the best. Every big maker invariably overestimates the demand for his fabrics. It is his only sure way to figure. To "run short," as the saying goes, would be suicidal to him. So, with their spring orders practically filled, we have been able to go into the market and make great purchases—purchases which mean thousands of yards of the newest weaves at about actual cost of manufacture.—The Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

These practical, dust shedding, yet dainty and stylish fabrics are just the thing for spring wear. Their crispness defies dust and damp, and as for wear they are well nigh indestructible. The variety of colorings and designs we are placing before our customers this season is almost infinite. We have designs and effects for almost every class of costume—the tailored suit, the dress costume, the automobile, traveling or dust coat, smart frocks for girls, shirt waist suits, bathing suits, etc. Something particularly new and striking are the silk mohairs.—Whitehouse Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

Mohair lustre is an exquisite cotton made by the well-known Arnold Print Co., and is most stylish and serviceable. Its wiry, lustrous crispness gives a perfect mohair effect, which is as lasting as the fabric itself. It is produced in all the foreign mohair patterns, and also in a great variety of new suiting styles, from which selections can be made, not only for street wear, but also for dress and morning wear. As it is unaffected by washing, this entirely new fabric should appeal to every economical mother for misses' and children's dresses.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Mohair—a firm, heavy, almost indestructible material that makes the fine dust-shedding traveling dresses. That was the definition in the minds of most women not so very long ago. But today how different it is! Those light, brilliant, beautiful fabrics which we brought from Bradford, England, this season are still mohairs. They have all the durability of the older stuffs. But they have the lightness and brilliance of silk. They can be tucked and pleated most perfectly into the season's prevailing modes. They are in exquisite colors. Nowhere outside this store will you find such a collection—or such values.—Frederick Loeser & Co., N. Y.

A mercerized material that looks like silk pongee, but wears better because it isn't—a nicer, softer, prettier or more stylish stuff adaptable for all purposes for which silk pongee can be used would be hard to find. There couldn't be anything more desirable for a shirt waist suit or summer gown. Little wayward threads run through the weave just like in the Simon pure. And at arm's length nobody could tell the difference. All colors. Costs less than half the price of silk pongee.—Bedford Mills.

Starting the Spring Dress Goods Selling.—Advance shipment of wool dress goods offered for Monday buyers. Come in and see some of these new spring fabrics. New things are always interesting, and these goods are particularly so. They're pretty and attractive, some are handsome; all are well worthy of inspection. No trouble to show, whether you buy or not.—H. Johnson & Co., Pueblo, Colo.

Dress Goods Reduced.—Spring fabrics are already putting in their appearance. This only the more emphasizes the need of a quick clearance of present stocks—hence this aggressive attack on prices.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg.

Rare Opportunities in Spring Dress Goods.—The fashionable weaves which are to be largely worn this coming season. Nowhere else will you find a wider variety; nowhere else will you find such economical prices.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

All classes of dress weaves are involved in the sharp reductions. There are Scotch suitings, plain cloth, chevots, canvas weaves, novelties, challies, etc. Not only colored dress goods, but also black. No matter what your purchase, the percentage of profit to you is large. In some instances, prices are cut exactly in two.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Spring Shirt Waist Suitings.—Fashion's dictates for 1904. The styles are here now in the fabrics that will be the go for spring dresses, of linen, linen and cotton or all cotton. There is a tendency toward using materials suitable for complete dresses. Paris, London and New York have accepted this innovation for extreme fashion, and while the separate waist will still have its devotees for street wear generally, the world's leading manufacturers have turned their energies for many months to the production of fabrics to meet this requirement.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paris is not going to send the elaborate novelties this year for which she has been famed in the past. Her dress-makers have decided that the plain fabrics shall have highest favor. But not all women can be dictated to even by fashion; and for this reason designers have produced some charming fabrics of unique character without being eccentric or elaborate. So we have these materials, which, while conservative and refined, are distinctly novelties.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

How can Eaton's sell such splendid Dress Goods—all the latest fall fabrics—for so little? This is the query of many a woman who has seen the beautiful materials that we have been selling for so little these last few days. The answer is simple. Our buyer remained a little later than usual in the European markets and was unusually successful in clearing out many manufacturers of what is known as their ends of lines—what's left after the first of the new season's rush has been supplied. Profit on the whole line has been made and they are not particular as to what price they receive for what's left—so long as we take the lot.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto.

Triumphant Sale of Dress Goods. Values to compare. Again the dress goods store distinguishes itself by offering the very best dress fabrics at the lowest prices ever quoted.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

These reductions on dress goods should be of interest to you. Still hammering away on the dress goods stock. The price-pruning process goes merrily on. The new dress goods buyer is determined that not a single piece of the present stock shall remain.—Grand Leader, St. Louis, Mo.

Our imported 1909 Suitings for Women.—Especially the Zibelines.—The sleek, silky surfaces of these wool masterpieces suggest a study of the nature coats worn by those lords of the jungle, the tiger, leopard, etc. There is an elegance about them surpassing description, but which will mark the early dress goods wear of 1904. We are sure every woman of taste will want to see these dress splendors, just from Europe.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Another stirring opportunity. This time dress goods. Last week it was silks. Maybe you were here. Maybe you have heard how enthusiastic scores of women were in buying them. Anniversary values, such as haven't been equaled before and likely won't be again in silks. But they're equaled this week in dress goods—more than equaled for some, for many women prefer dress goods to silks. To-morrow begins their anniversary opportunity. In spite of low prices you will see fashion at her best, for some of her foremost manufacturers have leagued themselves with us to make this the dress goods event of the season. They appreciated ordinary Hale orders. How much more they appreciate them when they are doubled and quadrupled you will see in the dress goods to-morrow.—Hales, Sacramento, Cal.

The soft glowing shades of the new browns and blues are prominent in all the autumn wool fabrics. The fancy mannish Worsteds hold prominent place, while a hundred other new weaves unroll their splendor for public approval. Bewildering is the collection of new foreign and domestic Dress Goods we present to-morrow, having been selected with the greatest care and with experienced taste.—Sanger Bros., Waco.

Enormous sale of best weaves which will captivate shoppers and meet the most resolute expectations and demands. Those who possess the intuition of recognizing a bargain the moment it is presented, will readily concede that at $1.00 a yard every piece in this mammoth showing would be an uncommon bargain. A great many weaves in this representation have been sold elsewhere at $2.00 a yard, and, even at that price, were deemed splendid values. But, in order to insure quick sales, your choice at the astoundingly small price named.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

Dress Goods, Black and Colors. The new fabrics that court attention. Second floor. The curtain has rung down on the Winter fabrics and rung up on the new stuffs for Spring wear. The scene is the most alluring one you ever saw. Every weave and shade is here to meet the most exacting want.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

First Showings of Spring Dress Fabrics. A magnificent and unmatched array of new gown materials, representing the choicest weaves, most beautiful colorings or combinations, and exquisite designs of foreign and domestic makers.—Bamberger's, Newark, N. J.

Dress goods, black and colors. The new spring shades in French voiles. Fashion decrees that the spring will open again with the sheer fabrics as leaders in popularity. The French Voiles are the most practical in this alluring family, largely due to their good wearing qualities. We are now showing all the new spring shades—the cream and the black, too.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

The new vestings for waists are ready. Designers of women's apparel have discovered a new fabric this fall—stolen it from the men. Man's sphere of exclusive ownership narrows rapidly. Some smart woman (or was it a man?) saw the shirt-waist possibilities in the fabric of some well-dressed man's fancy vest, and vestings became a woman's fabric from the moment the first shirt waist was made of it. Well, the market was short; manufacturers didn't suspect a demand from women, and women who have been seeking the vestings couldn't find them. To-day they're ready at Wanamaker's, New York.

The finest imported $3 broadcloths at $1.50. There are two foreign concerns, each of which is counted by its adherents as the manufacturer of the finest broadcloths in the world. In fact, so nearly alike is their product that it is impossible to render a decision for either, and the broadcloth made by both is sold for three dollars a yard.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Now for dress goods! The chance of the season. To give you ample time to have dresses ready for Thanksgiving and yet get the goods for as little as you would expect to pay a month hence, we have inaugurated this before Thanksgiving sale.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

The new flannels. The flannel store has donned fall attire throughout. Nothing wrong in covering, for these pretty flannels are here to be passed from our hands to yours. The plain ones come in every rich shade and also black and white. Variety in finish too, for we have an etamine and doeskin as well as the ordinary surface of the French flannel. Fancy patterns include lace stripes, warp printed stripes, Persian stripes and other effects. Handsome waist patterns have the design all thought out for you—contain the material and trimming both. Not expensive either.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

The indications are that shaggy stuffs will be most popular; the camel's hair fabrics that possess a rich, luxurious look and drape so easily. Tweeds—good, old-fashioned, sturdy tweeds—will be used for street suits and rainy-day outfits. These are here already. Exclusive styles; no two alike; full patterns.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

Dress Goods.—The question of the hour—What for fall? The question is a momentous one, far too big a one to settle in a paragraph. Let us settle it by letting you settle it for yourself here at the store. We want our customers to understand that they are perfectly welcome to compare, examine, criticise and admire to their hearts' content. Spend all the time necessary to form an opinion. We have a vast stock, a comprehensive stock, and there are hundreds of beautiful alternatives. Therefore we know one's mind cannot be made up in a moment, and therefore also we say, "look before you buy"—and welcome.—The Robert Simpson Company, Toronto.

New Fall Flannels.—It's a queer season. Already, likely, August, which is expected to drive you to most diaphanous materials as to costume comfort and compel you to seek the breeze of seashore, lake or palm leaf fan, has suggested the warmth of flannels as pleasant. Good! The new flannels are ready—here in assortment to rival anything you have seen before.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

When Louis XI took Picardy from Flanders he little thought that he had secured for France the spring of eternal beauty in dress stuffs. But he had, and to this day when Monsieur de Couturiere wants some new finery he goes to some of the towns of Picardy and gets his ideas worked out by those quaint, pains-taking weavers on their hand looms.

Yet never before in our history have the novelties been less extreme than this year. There are no flights of colors, no scintillating brilliancy of weave, nothing that would make a woman, wearing any of these exquisite stuffs, attract the attention of a passing crowd. On the contrary, they are novel for exactly the opposite characteristic. Everything is subdued; there is a well-bred air—a sort of subtle beauty that shuns the attracting of attention, a withdrawing from everything that is the slightest bit bizarre.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Our display of Dress Goods for Fall is of transcendental beauty and loveliness, rivaling in variety, richness of materials, beauty of designs and colors, and in exclusiveness and quantity, any similar display to be seen in European and American fashion centers.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

The great Dress Goods Department claims a large share of your attention to-morrow. We cannot do better than ask you to come. There is so much to see, so little space to describe in. We print here some extra values—goods we know are down to bedrock price. Ask to see them particularly Monday. Start from them—as from solid ground, for once you get among the illimitable varieties of texture, pattern and weave you're likely to be overwhelmed with the mere profusion of riches.—Robert Simpson Co., Toronto, Can.

The new dress goods are here—down on the counters where you can see them and feel them and judge for yourself. We have searched the world over and from every corner we have brought something of what we considered best. You will find old friends; some new weaves, and here and there a new finish. But the greatest change you will find is in the colors; simple, rich, handsome; a certain stateliness and almost regal beauty.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Read this: $3.50 to $8.00 dress fabrics, imported by Matthews, $1.25 a yard. Know Matthews? He's Chicago's most celebrated ladies tailor. Place in Jackson Boulevard, No. 44. He makes costumes for those who want the best the world has to offer. Ask him how much he'll charge to design a suit for you. He'll name a price that'll give you a dizzy spell. But his creations are worth all he asks. During a season he never turns out two suits alike. This makes it necessary for him to import an immense variety of woollen dress goods. When the end of a season approaches he transfers every remaining piece to the big store. He makes the price so low that we simply can't resist. To refuse would be like turning back legal tender when it's offered at 25 per cent. of its face value. He has a motive. He will not show anything for fall that he exhibited for the summer season. He cleans his tables and displays entirely new materials.

No Chicago store can sell you dress goods such as these at any price. They can't get them. In each piece there is enough for one tailor-made. The weights are suitable for fall and winter, though Matthews calls them summer goods. Our new autumn goods are no heavier. There are 500 distinct patterns, no two alike. If you could buy these fabrics you'd have to pay from $3.50 to $8.00 a yard. You'd willingly do so because they're beautiful beyond your liveliest fancy. They're exclusive. Fashion has produced nothing newer or more appropriate. Will you look?—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Look at it a foot away and you'll think you are looking at a good summer gingham. Run your hand over the right side and you'll believe it's a serge with a little twill. But touch it on the under side and you'll feel the short, fuzzy nap that makes it a flannelette.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

A radical change has taken place—novelty reigns supreme for general wear. The family of Zibelines and Scotch Tweed effects are to the fore—every possible combination in rough-coated, soft-woven materials in all weights and colorings—cloths with the soft, glossy hair thrown upon the surface until it covers a multitude of constructions and effects—knotted yarns in mixed plaids—mingled colorings in odd stripes, etc.—McCurdy & Norwell Co., Rochester.

Black Dress Goods, as usual, are the first to sound the warning note that summer is hurrying by. Already counters and shelves are well filled with the new weavings for fall. Those who find it most convenient to do dressmaking early will approve assortments as entirely satisfying. New cloths are exceptionally rich.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Autumn dress goods. Zibelines give zest to the strong tide of rich dress stuffs that is rolling in. Their furry folds are ubiquitous. Quaint color treatment frequently accentuates the odd grace of the silky, glinting hairs. The plain is elegant—the acme of quiet elegance—in spite of its shagginess. And there are checkered effects, plaids, thrown over more brilliant plaids, stripes, bars, spots—bearded and dyed Zibelines, as you've never seen before. The early display is replete with interest. But the rough effects do not monopolize all the admiration. Simpler weaves hold their own right well.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

A Dollar Dress Goods Sale.—At a dollar a yard most every good store has a plethora of fabrics to offer, and so far as the price is concerned this happening isn't remarkable. It's what you get for your money that puts this offering on a pedestal by itself. And the variety is quite as astonishing as the value, for there are no less than forty different styles and colors, worth $1.50, $1.75 and $1.98, at $1. Not the passe fabrics that smirch the honor of most of the glowing advertisements one reads in the papers, but bright, fresh, new. Here is a list, so you may judge for fashionable fabrics—the very newest of them—yourself.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Seattle, Wash.

Favorite Flannels.—They certainly are favorites, and big ones at that, if daily sales are a criterion; pretty near everything fancy calls for is here and the goods are all new; perhaps there will never again be a time when a little money will purchase such elegance.—The Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

First Show of Priestley's Black Dress Stuff.—This initial display is bound to be of interest to women who dress correctly, and for the sake of viewing these beauties and learning what coming styles will be you will be welcomed tomorrow. At no time do our people ever urge you to buy—that is regarded here as "bad form." So this advertisement is a welcome, just as big as we can make it, to see these newest productions of the world's wizards of the loom.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tocomo, Wash.

Another Grouping of "Tub" Fabric Values.—So great has been the demand for these elegant textiles since inaugurating our semi-annual cleanup sale that almost every day we find it necessary to re-group broken lines and odd lots in order to get an assortment at a price. No prettier goods in coloring and pattern, and certainly none of finer texture, have been offered at retail this season in Los Angeles at such attractive prices. This new grouping for Wednesday selling is one of the best we have been able to make and shrewd purchasers will find some very satisfactory bargains.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

A rousing sale of new Spring waists.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Bargains in outing flannel. The warm, cozy qualities of outing flannel makes it a highly acceptable material for house wrappers, children's night gowns, pajamas, and the like.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Extraordinary dress goods attractions in black and colored mohairs. We are showing the most complete assortment of imported brilliantines and Sicilians—these fabrics are the finest of their grades that it is possible to procure the world over.—O'Neil's, New York.

The Pandora of stocks. It is to be a season of dress trimmings. Multitudes of beauty sorts here. For a season or two dress trimmings were dormant, but since the revival of the Empire styles the progress in richness has been going on and on, until it has culminated in a bewildering aggregation of exquisiteness.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Trade kindlings—to raise quick steam in dress goods selling.—J. R. Libby Co., Portland, Me.

"I wait every year for this sale."

She said it of the dress goods remnants that are having things all their own way in the salon usually devoted to fine foreign stuffs.

Lots of others do the same thing.

Yesterday a man came in with a twenty dollar bill. "Pick me out that much, please," he said. "I want the stuff for some poor children."

He's been doing it for years.

All lengths, from enough for a shirt-waist up to whole dress patterns, and all the cotton goods this year.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Early Autumn Dress Goods. As to the materials: All-wool. The most popular weaves for the early Fall. A full color assortment. And richness and depth in every cloth and color.

As to the prices: We made this purchase long before the recent advance in the prices of these goods. When we renew our orders, the higher prices must prevail. The advantage of our foresight is yours now—immediately, however, or it will escape you.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

A batch of dress goods bargains. Two extremely interesting groups of dress goods, at captivating new prices, hold attractions for the dress-planning woman to-day.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Authorities agree that the coming fall and winter will be a strong trimming season, and that the variety of trimmings used will be limited only by the ingenuity of the makers. To say that our trimming department is ready is to put it mildly, for last season we held one of the most searching clearance sales that any department of the store has ever seen, with the result that, staple as many of the trimmings were, this season starts with a splendid, new, fresh line.

Probably the newest style is the colored applique in Oriental effects. Last season saw the forerunners of the style; this season the assortment represents a much greater variety. Black, white and black-and-white appliques are also prominent in the showing.

Wood silk bands are stronger than ever. About all styles are represent, from the narrow gimps to wide cluny bands; made of the same material are numberless styles of pendants, tassels, girdles, frogs, fourrageres, stoles and collars.

Somewhat more novel is the wood silk passementerie. This comes in staple colors such as pongee, tans, navy and black.

Spangles will be used to a considerable extent on fine costumes.—Taylor's, Cleveland, O.

The New Woolen Stuffs for Fall.—The Tweed idea took such a firm root in everybody's mind last spring that the manufacturers couldn't get it out this fall—so very wisely they have gone on making tweeds, but prettier tweeds than ever before, to be used in tailored suits and skirts.

Those with a glint of color through them are by far the best. Untwist a small piece, and you will find a little bit of color curling around the thread here and there, and showing up on top in a little lump. Or sometimes the thread of color runs through, evenly woven in with the rest.

In most of these new suitings the threads one way are white—which gives them a nondescript mixed effect that is very delightful.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

This is Muncie's foremost dress goods store. Foremost in style—foremost in variety and foremost in the economical pricing of the charming fall fabrics. Whatever is fashionable can be found here. The stock has been selected with a view of meeting every want. Variety is immense and in the widest possible price range. From the lowest priced fabrics to the very richest our assortment is most complete.—The Fair, Muncie, Ind.

No matter how difficult you may be to please, we are sure that you will find something among the new dress goods to suit you.

Everything that fashion favors this fall is here—all the new weaves, new colors and every conceivable shade that you could wish for. Not only is the collection of dress stuffs most liberal in variety and price range, but the values we offer cannot be matched elsewhere—a fact that can be more easily demonstrated by comparison.—Gable & Co., Altoona, Pa.

The warm and fretful days have gone. Now for cooler thoughts. It costs some women more money to dress than others pay for the same goods, made up in corresponding vogue. That is because prices are not the same everywhere. It may take a little time to find the right place, but you will shorten that time by coming here. Our varieties are unusually large and beautiful. The best foreign and domestic makers of gown stuffs have their representative values on exhibition here. Some lines are exclusive with us in Newark. The rich and beautiful fabrics tell the story of their goodness and worthfulness far better than our words can express. For further particulars of the following bargains see the goods themselves.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Such underpricing of black dress goods as even this house never knew before. Not an ordinary occasion. Not even to be measured by the special offerings which have drawn the attention of Brooklyn women here again and again this spring. To-morrow's offerings of black dress fabrics stand alone and unparalleled in the history of Brooklyn merchandising.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Our dress goods stocks will hold their decided leadership this spring by an unusually strong showing of staples and a superior display of the new and novel. In the showing are silk and wool eoliennes, silk and wool Crepe de Paris, plain and fancy Mohairs, Panama cloth in swell checks; taffeta cloth, rope eolienne, Roxana suiting, granada suiting, henriettas, rainproof coverts and more.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Somewhere between the loom of the maker and your purse there has been a good bit of money lost by someone. These are the most fashionable of fabrics and were never meant to be sold for less than two dollars a yard. The foreign maker was late in delivering. New York importer had order cancelled. That's far as we know the story. Most interesting part to us is that they are here for you for so very little.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

What the smart dressers will wear this summer. Wash materials claim most attention. It is generally conceded that the wash fabrics of this season are more beautiful and better adapted for summer comfort than any of any previous season. Their texture is very fine, filmy and in plain, dignified designs, which refreshes one to look at, let alone to wear. It seems the makers have kept more in mind the idea of conveying a cool, refreshing appearance, as well as the actual comfort to the wearer.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

This is the season of new and beautiful goods in all departments, arriving daily from the great Eastern markets. When one sees the beautiful goods turned out each season one would think the manufacturers had reached their limit, yet each succeeding season sees patterns more beautiful and artistic.—The Crews-Beggs Trading Co., Leadville, Col.

Just received yesterday a supply of this popular half wool fabric, in cream, black, brown, pink and gray. We were only able to secure a limited lot this early in the season, so we would urge those who have been waiting on this shipment to be here early. Remember, this is the only store in Spokane where Danish cloth is for sale.—Funk Bros., Spokane.

"Let your summer dress be any 'color so it's white,'" is one of Dame Fashion's dictums this season.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

"And I turned and looked—she was sitting there

In a dim box over the stage; drest
In that muslin dress, with that full, soft hair,

And that jasmine in her breast!"

The bewitching charm of a dainty girl in a white muslin dress has turned many heads, before and since that night at the opera. And this summer—look out! There will be white dresses everywhere.

We are sure this is the best store in which to buy those beautiful, soft and sheer fabrics for summer dresses.—Blum Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Having made an enormous contract for these goods several months ago, we are enabled to-day to offer 210 pieces of them at a ridiculously low price. They were made to our special order at the mohair sicilian center of the world, Bradford, England. The goods, you will observe, are strictly high grade, lustrous and reliable—there is nothing in dress materials so popular. Mohairs deservingly merit this popularity, because of their desirability for traveling purposes, seaside and mountain wear.—H. O'Neil & Co., New York, N. Y.

No waiting for frost to open the silk and dress goods burrs—the new stuffs have broken their cases. The attractions are countless and include the choicest weaves and colorings of the best known manufacturers on both sides of the Atlantic; and as they were ours by contract months ago before there was any excuse for raising the prices, we are free to do the opposite, lessen them as judged by current values, and now for the stuffs—here are a few presented with the confidence that approval will promptly follow.—The Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Distinctive Fashions—New Suits for Fall.—Kilting is to be a feature of the new skirts, and the seams are slotted; almost the same goods as a year ago, save that they get a little bolder, the cheviots rougher, the Bannockburns looking a little more like the original Scotch affairs. Flounces are on the wane; the kilting before mentioned has taken its place, save on the pedestrienne skirts, where stitching and pointed tucks hold high court. And the variety is broad enough to satisfy the most fastidious woman. There was never a season began so auspiciously.—Stone, Fisher & Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Dress goods with quality and style. It would be useless and contrary to the Big Store's policy to arouse your expectations and then disappoint you, but we feel perfectly safe in laying a great deal of stress upon these remarkable dress goods offerings—remarkable because they possess quality and style far beyond the degrees indicated by the prices which are so exceptionally low that no one with the purchase of a dress in view should miss this opportunity to have the best and at the same time economize.—Siegel-Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Christmas Waist and Dress Patterns.—A month ago we began putting up in boxes enough of our prettiest dress goods to make gowns or shirt waists. They are the best of gifts—for they can be made up when you will and as you will.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Dress Goods Remnants.—Business has been brisk in our main dress goods section, and that means an accumulation of short lengths of the best selling fabrics in colors and black. These were in the way, and they have been sent to the basement with a ticket which insures their immediate departure.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

With one large aisle full to overflowing with commodious stocks of the season's latest, surely makes it worthy of a visit from every woman who has a want in this line. The assortments are complete, the range of prices so wide that any allowance can be met, and every piece of material offered is of dependable quality.—Fowler, Dick & Walker, Binghamton, N. Y.

Take time to visit our dress goods section. Get posted on what's to be worn this spring. You will not be disappointed in variety of the assortment; you will not be disappointed with the values. Come in and look them all over; we are showing everything desirable in dress goods from the lowest to the highest priced.—Eastman Bros. & Bancroft, Rockland, Me.

First glimpses of spring merchandise. All over the store new spring things are crowding in. You'll forget the snow-drifts, madame, as you see the shimmer and color plays and cunning weaves and graceful draping of the silks and wools and cotton stuffs from over the sea. Then there are dozens of costuming hints in the new suits, skirts and waists, and bits of brightness and novelty all around. Come and look, whether you care to buy or not.—Harned & Von Mauer, Peoria.

The dress goods salons give large showing to commencement and bridal stuffs. Part of the showing to the blush tints of white; these for bridesmaids, for evening gowns, and for beautiful afternoon frocks. There is more variety of white fabrics on show than many stores would dare to gather of many colors.—Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Flannels and other fabrics at prices never advertised before.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

You never had a better chance to buy fine dress goods. We've marked down every yard, black or colored.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md., Jan. 18, 1903.

We are clearing out all oddments in the wholesale department—nearly every steamer coming from the other side from now on will bring us something new in the way of staple and novelty dress goods that will need room.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Nothing is cooler or more suitable to the season than many of these fabrics, especially for skirts, to wear with shirt waists. Besides these, all our most staple of weaves are being sold at prices that are the greatest inducement for making purchases now for future use. Every yard of goods in the department can be bought during this July sale at from 10 to 40 per cent. less than the same goods will be sold later. Just think what this means on the most staple of all dress materials.—The Beall Livingston Dry Goods Co., Columbus, Ohio.

New flannel waistings.—Prettier than ever are the designs of flannel waistings. Weavers are not behind cotton designers in catching beauty of design and color. Here is a newcomer in an attractive silk stripe pattern, soft and light, such as any woman might covet.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Challis. An even fifty-two pieces dainty stripes and scroll, all the new stylish colorings, a value that sells regular at 12 1-2c. for only 9c. a yard.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Prices on New Dress Goods That None Can Afford to Overlook.—Dress goods business all over the country hasn't been what it should be. Warm weather hindered the selling. We're taking the bull by the horns—cut prices—vigorously—sharply—deeply—and every yard of goods is fresh and new—which makes the reductions all the more remarkable. Tomorrow will be a busy day.—Golden Rule, St. Paul, Minn.

The sweetly simple texture of our new line of novel English weaves are the latest London rage in summer wear.—McConnell & Co., Scranton, Pa.

Dress Goods. Again we court your approval, this time with stocks even better, more select and more varied than those with which we won such a largely increased share of patronage in the season which ended when the present season began.—Charles H. Bear, York, Pa.

Your own eyes will tell you at a glance what lovely, fine, soft stuff it is. And if you examine it closely—through a magnifying glass—you will have further proof of its goodness—only the best yarn shines and glistens like that.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Dress goods cut in half. This anniversary week we have cut the prices of some of our most wanted dress goods in half. It means a loss to us, of course—yet it will mean a new high record in sales—just what we are after. You will never read of greater values.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

A magnificent showing of exclusive fall dress goods. Such a comprehensive exhibition of new fall fabrics was never before offered Chicago women—and the prices are wonderfully low.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

It's making up time now of thin dresses. For the proper materials visit our great wash goods section.—W. A. McNaughton Co., Muncie, Ind.

Mohairs for Waists.—Loom wizards spring another surprise for us this fall. What do you suppose they have planned for the popular waistings? Mohairs, yes, mohairs—the cloth which the present generation has only thought of as being in black and cream. Here's a revelation—plain mohairs, mohairs with figures, dots, and stripes, and you can't picture, until you see them, the beautiful color effects the sheen of their surface gives.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

There is a special charm about these fresh and immaculate Dress Goods as they appear to-day in the wonderful fullness of variety.—Wm. M. Shepherd, Carrollton, Ohio.

New and beautiful wash fabric. Chiffon lesse is the newest and daintiest wash material that has come to us this season from across the pond. This exquisite imported wash dress fabric has the soft voile effect and is woven in plaids and stripes in the light shades of blue, pink, helio and gray, as well as black and white checks and stripes, making an ideal fabric for evening costumes and party dresses. In other cities these same goods are being sold at 35c. a yard, but because we secured them under price we offer them while they last at 25c. a yard. An idea of the beauty and worth of these goods can be had by a look at them in our Main street window.—Sturtevant's, Zanesville, Ohio.

Any woman who's ever bought gingham knows that "Bate's Mills" on a piece of seersucker gingham means fast colors, strong fabric, pretty patterns—general excellence, in short. While very good for dresses, wrappers and other of the more common uses, these gingham are especially recommended to nurses, waitresses, etc., because they'll stand no end of hard usage, frequent laundering and rubbing; colors are absolutely fast. Shown in plain colors, shepherd checks and stripes from 1 to 10 threads white.—J. W. Robinson Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Extra dress goods values. All wool suitings; plaids of various shades, together with even checks, on cream grounds; the very sorts you see made up into the cleverest tailored gowns. A choice lot of odd lengths and remnants of stylish dress goods are on sale at half price—suitings for tailored garments, of broadcloth, venetian, serges, chevits, voiles, Scotch and English suitings in handsome patterns; and silk and wool crepes de chine in light shades for evening gowns; plain and fancy effects.—J. W. Robinson Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Wool dress goods reduced. Special sale Saturday. Special offering in the dress goods department for to-morrow consists of quite a variety of materials. All are desirable and the reduced price is so low that you cannot fail to see the wisdom in taking advantage of the opportunity to secure a dress pattern. Among them you will find one piece each cream and white wire cloth. A handsome thin material for separate skirts. These goods are 45 inches wide.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Danish cloth for bathing suits. Many women prefer to make their own bathing suits, following some particular pattern which they can't buy ready-made. Wanters of bathing suit materials will find Danish cloth exceptionally good, as the colors are absolutely fast, the cloth (mixed wool and cotton) unshrinkable.—Coulter Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

New prices on sheer dress stuffs in black. These beautiful silk and wool materials are made with all the cunning of a master weaver and designer; they're brilliant with silk, durable with sturdy wool, and so good that we seldom can get enough to satisfy our customers, to say nothing of reducing prices. Thank a small lot for to-day's reduction. Every piece is the exclusive product of a foreign maker—there are broadtail eoliennes, soft crepe de chine, Courtaules' eoliennes (from famous English mills) with a number of others; beautifully soft and lustrous, every piece; in fact, they are the best grades we carry in such goods, and represent values as high as $3.75 a yard. It's really a shame to let them go for $1.95.—Coulter Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

We can't remember the time when such elegant fabrics as these have been offered at so low a price. We couldn't go out and buy them and then sell them to you at this price. Our only reason for making the price so extremely low is the absolute need for room. There is no gainsay about these goods. They are as pretty and dainty as anybody could wish to wear, and the saving is of considerable importance.—Bernheimer's, Kansas City.

Because we will not carry novelty goods into next season—you have this unusually generous offer to-day. Novelty suitings in light weights and light colors—plaids, broken checks and similar weaves in cream and white grounds, with black, lavender, pink, light gray and similar shades in the figure; not old-timers nor garish styles, but our own regularly-selected spring and summer stocks for select trade. These goods are so wide that six or seven yards will make a whole suit; and at to-day's price you can buy two or three skirts or entire gowns for the usual price of one.—Coulter Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles.

Quality dress goods—great values. The unquestioned success of our dress goods selling this season proves conclusively that we fully meet the requirements of the hour with styles, exclusiveness, assortments and price. Discriminating buyers—those versed in dress goods values—will readily appreciate these exceptional offerings for to-morrow.—Crow & Whitmarsh, Cleveland, O.

Our dress goods stock must be reduced, and to accomplish this have decided to place on sale some splendid lines of seasonable materials—wanted materials for present or future use at splendid saving to you. Read carefully the following and come to-morrow, the first day of the sale.—R. McKay & Co., Hamilton, Can.

Dress goods are fascinating this spring. We can't remember a season when dress goods were more captivating and lovely than they are this spring. Our showing is so large, so comprehensive, so rich in novelties, so prolific in the finest French and European weaves that it is hard to believe that it has a peer in all Canada.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Already the new white stuffs for waists and suits are melting from the counters like snow. It's to be a white year; no doubt of that. "And these," said a woman who went through the store this morning, "are the most beautiful white things I ever dreamed of."—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

A sale of dress goods. Never in the regular way of business could such extraordinary offerings be made. The fact is that we have secured upon most unusual terms the entire surplus stock of a large importer; we have also closed out at remarkable price cuts several large lots from domestic manufacturers. New, choice goods all of them.—Koch & Co., New York.

Be sure of your dress goods store. A dress goods purchase is unlike most other purchases—it involves further expenditures. In addition to the cost of the goods, there are the trimmings—the making, the findings, etc.—all totaling a considerable sum. If the cloth proves unsatisfactory then the dress is a loss. There is this to be considered—be sure of your dress goods store. Our dress goods reputation extends over fifty years of continuous retailing—the store is widely known as a reliable dress goods store, where the standard of quality is never permitted to deteriorate. No matter how low the prices sometimes reach, you can always depend on your purchase.—Field, Schlick & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Our fall dress goods surpass expectation. What we said about our fall dress goods was true to the last word—the prices must have been right, too—for many who merely came to see, remained to purchase. Our store has been full of delighted and satisfied shoppers since the day of the first display—people who felt that the show had not been "overbilled," so to speak. We renew our cordial invitation to the ladies to come and inspect, price and purchase the most enchanting and modestly-marked stock of fall dress beauties they have ever looked upon.—Lippincott & Co., Wilmington, Del.

Thursday's price attractions among fine dress goods. Not so long ago Winnipeg would have deemed herself more than fortunate in having this magnificent display of latest weaves and exclusive novelties from which to make her selections—the foremost looms of Europe could do no better by us. But to have them priced so attractively low as they have been of late was beyond the wildest dreams of expectation. More of the same splendid values for Thursday.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Surprising values in handsome dress fabrics. The oft-repeated tale of special values can't be repeated too often when it concerns these lovely dress goods. Imagine such handsome dress fabrics as these are for street and evening wear being sold at these prices. Flawless in weave and coloring. Europe could send us none better at their regular prices.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

The blue pencil has been busy among dress goods. Monday morning many of our most desirable dress fabrics—latest weaves and exclusive novelties—are brought under the point of the blue pencil. Selection is extremely varied, presenting the most attractive choice for pretty waist and stylish dress lengths we have offered gift seekers at any one time this season.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Handsome dress goods, much less than usual. Like a child that is never satisfied, increasing business only serves to make us desire more. The very special prices we have placed on some of our loveliest silks and dress goods should make Monday one of our busiest days. We have made every preparation to meet it. Extra salespeople and plenty of counter room. Dress and waist lengths make the best gifts; they can be made up as you will and when you will.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Spring dress goods marked down. All our new 1907 dress fabrics—every yard included—marked at prices that will force spirited selling. Original costs and real values have been forgotten in making these new low prices—the one object being to dispose of the goods at once. No such genuine bargains in dress goods have ever been offered in this city—by this or any other store. Every woman who investigates these offerings—and none can afford to miss them—will admit at once that this is the time of the year for most liberal buying.—Jordan Marsh Co., Boston, Mass.

Invincible value in French voiles. Women particularly admire voiles in general for their adaptability; for their extra rich effects at small cost. French voiles in particular for their exquisite, unsurpassable colorings. And there's an important advantage in buying them at Eaton's—extra good quality at extra low prices. And the vast variety to choose from.—The T. Eaton Co., Ltd., Toronto.

When we mark down any dress goods all who are familiar with our stock know that there is something especially good for wideawake shoppers. You can search the dry goods counters of the whole continent and not find a wider range of exclusive and high-class materials—therefore you will appreciate the following interesting reductions.—The T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

Broadcloth is unquestionably the material that will be most used for fall and winter costumes. Paris now uses it almost to the exclusion of other wool fabrics—with the natural result that the manufacturers are crowded with orders. We actually ordered many of our broadcloths a year in advance and thus secured a cost figure that permits a price here that can hardly be met in any other stores.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Reduced dress stuffs. The woman who shops intelligently—which means that she gets lasting satisfaction from her purchases—will look with high favor upon these silk-and-wool crimped eoliennes that we own for so little that we can sell them at 75c. a yard, though ordinarily we should have to ask $1.25 to $2. Shown in shades of green, lavender, blue, brown, champagne and dark blue, 42 to 48 inches wide. Novelty checks, shadow plaids, large and small, and small hair-line plaids and checks in light spring suitings, are on special sale to-day at $1 a yard; $1.25 to $1.50 more nearly express their true worth.—Coulter Dry Goods, Los Angeles, Cal.

Each day shows us increasingly how much in favor these fabrics in the genuine clan plaids will be this season, as well as some effective plaids that have no clan relationship.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

In new dress stuffs. Another shipment received to-day. As we handle only piece goods in strictly dry goods for women we no doubt have the largest assortment shown in Denison. Prices guaranteed. Come and look.—Sidney Elkin, Denison, Texas.

And broadcloths again this spring. Nothing more stylish. Once more gray suitings and silky broadcloths have forced their way to the front in Fashion's parade. But really it required no forcing. They are so pre-eminently stylish and dressy that leadership is theirs by right. Gray suitings were never so distinctly stylish as these handsome new suiting lengths we opened up yesterday. And the broadcloths! So soft, silky, and even lighter in weight than they were last year.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

Silks, dress goods and the favorite novelties in fabrics make in themselves a noteworthy attraction. All the newest weaves and colorings are shown and many of the designs are very exclusive. These are given ample display to make inspection a pleasure. We might add a suggestion that some of the individual patterns shown for the opening cannot be duplicated later, especially at the prices quoted for to-day and Friday.—John Bressmer Co., Springfield, Ill.

Waist and dress patterns boxed ready for gift-giving. At this season of the year we cut up some of our most attractive silk and dress goods in lengths sufficient for waists, skirts and full gowns, and put them up in beautiful boxes, making them nice for presentation. Nothing is added to the cost for this boxing, the goods being charged at the price at which they would sell by the yard. If you choose you can select any material from the stock and we will box it for you free for the asking.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Christmas waist lengths. A pretty waist length would make the finest kind of a Christmas gift. Here are materials bought specially for evening waists, in the daintiest and newest weaves and colorings, at popular prices. Each waist length enclosed in a box for presentation.—Stanley Mills & Co., Ltd., Hamilton, Can.

Still splendid values in dress goods for Monday's selling. Record selling of a year ago makes but poor comparison alongside of the remarkable business that has been developed as a result of the splendid values which have been special features of late in this section—in both latest weaves of dress goods and most exclusive novelties. As Christmas remembrances, makings of stylish street costumes and charming evening gowns are in high favor, and at no time can they be bought to greater advantage than just now.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Quality dress goods, great values. The unquestioned success of our dress goods selling this season proves conclusively that we fully meet the requirements of the hour with styles, exclusiveness, assortments and price. Discriminating buyers—those well versed in dress goods values—will readily appreciate these exceptional offerings for to-morrow.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Special clearance values are nowhere more exceptional than in the dress goods store. But to-morrow, in addition to the second floor stocks, one of the special main floor tables will be laden with short lengths of seasonable and stylish dress fabrics at prices far below their worth.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dotted Swiss is too attractive ever to go out of feminine favor. Nothing is more cool and airy and dainty. Few fabrics launder and wear with such practical success. And this year the omnipresent stripes, plaids and checks have found a way among the conservative dotted patterns. There are all sorts of pretty combinations—for instance, one bold overplaid or hair lines sets off the pin dots into smart squares.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

New plaid dress goods. All the spring freshness and beautiful bright colorings—just what the girls want for school dresses, and they make handsome waists, too, for the elder folks.—The People's Store, Tacoma, Wash.

This is the greatest dress goods value ever shown—you can't possibly duplicate this anywhere for $1.95—even on special sales—but we want to give you something to talk about—want to furnish you the best values of a lifetime—come in all colors—you can buy as much as you like of this $2.50 broadcloth, at this sale for $1.00.—The People's Store, Tacoma, Wash.

We have been agreeably surprised at the interest taken in our advanced showing of spring dress goods. Really, now is the time to make selections, for we are receiving pretty new goods in our silk and dress goods department every day—things that are beautiful and up to the moment in style.—The Crews-Beggs Co., Pueblo, Col.

A special lot of all-wool voiles in handsome spring shades. A most fortunate purchase brings them here for the Friday bargain sale at about half the usual price. Full 42 inches in width. A fabric that is much in demand for summer suits and dresses.—Gimbel's, Milwaukee, Wis.

Sheer fabrics prevail this spring and the gingham weaves and patterns are warm favorites. Checks and plaids as well as the dainty floral patterns will be worn by the best dressers this season.—Thompson Mercantile Co., Tacoma.

Great reduction sale of popular dress goods. We offer for to-morrow four immense lots of this season's most popular dress fabrics at sharp decided price reductions. Included are the much wanted and practical worsteds, serviceable tweeds and good wearing homespuns, in smart overchecks, broken checks, shadow checks and stripe patterns, also a number of plain cloths. The lots present a full range of best and richest winter shadings to select from. Many of these lines are belated shipments now on sale for the first time; others are broken ranges left from this season's importations. Select early while assortments are at their best.—Thomas C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Distinctive styles in children's dresses. We have achieved the knack of dressing little girls well, with taste and refinement. To do so we find it necessary to draw on three different sources of supplies, from our own skillful tailors of children's garments—and they are as good as the best—on New York and on Paris. Here are sturdy little dresses for the school wear, handsome little affairs, good enough for Sunday best, and little gems, French all over, stars that will shine at party or fashionable function. Mothers will find the price moderation for these handsome dresses in the nature of a very pleasant surprise.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Monday's special mention among the dress goods. We have raised our value standard in the dress goods section higher than ever it was raised before in Winnipeg, and there'll be no lowering it this side of stocktaking. But it's more than ordinary large values in dress goods that we are offering, the fabrics themselves represent the infinite resources of the world's best weaves. Dress materials that it's a privilege for a woman to choose among—at almost any price. Monday's special mention concerns suitings and coatings.—The T. Eton Co., Winnipeg.

Sale to-day. Children's white dresses, 48c. An exceptionally good quality of lawn is used in these dresses, considering the price, and they are very prettily made. French dresses, with tucks front and back, trimmed with pretty pearl buttons on the broad plaits. Garments to fit little folks 2 to 4 years of age. See them in children's wear department on second floor.—Chas. P. Nathan Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Even though you may not be ready to choose the new dress, we know that you will enjoy coming and inspecting the new dress goods that are now ready. Ladies who have been here have shown their appreciation of the splendid stock by investing when they came merely to look. Our constantly increasing sales in this department is a sure indication that people realize the fact that our dress fabrics represent the best and most stylish weaves and color effects to be had, also that our prices are correct.—Gable Co., Altoona, Pa.

Enthusiastically received and flying out fast. The soft quality, fine weave and lusterless dry finish are considered very smart this year for coat and skirt suits for street and traveling wear.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

New dress goods underpriced. Easter over, the new dress stuffs again reclaim their own. The opportunity to select just the color of pattern or weave desired appeals strongly to every woman who would secure the most exclusive. Our stock is now overflowing with the newest and best in both American and foreign weaves, and affords a range for selection that is most satisfying. Prices quoted to-day make this week one of unusual opportunity—one that you can ill afford to miss if economy is a feature to be considered. To illustrate, we submit.—W. M. Whitney & Co., Schenectady.

Costume materials. We began to collect these excellent fabrics months ago, so as to have them ready when you were, and you wouldn't expect to see a prettier assemblage, besides there is a special charm about them as they appear in their wonderful fullness of variety. The most particular taste will be pleasantly satisfied somewhere in this array. Every pattern is as fresh, dainty and beautiful as can be. This is not our own judgment, it's the judgment of those whom we have asked to criticize them. It will undoubtedly be your judgment.—Louis Einstein & Co., Fresno, Cal.

Select materials for the dainty gown of the girl graduate. Are you to be a girl graduate—and are you planning a dainty white costume in which to radiantly appear on that day of all days? If so, you will be delighted with the wide choice of filmy cloths, snowy laces, embroideries, ribbons, etc., offered here—all specially selected for their fitness for graduate gowns. You'll be delighted, too, with the low prices at which we have marked these lovely fabrics. Come and inspect the showing and let us convince you that there's no store in Binghamton so excellently prepared to meet your taste at smallest cost.—Boston Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

Everything that is smart and fashionable, every weave that good taste and trained judgment suggests, is in our present showing. There is a wealth of difference in the lines from seasons past. Designers and weavers have exerted their best efforts to bringing out unusual effects and we show them in great numbers. This newness is apparent from a glance over the items in the advertisement—and more so when you see the lines. Besides the novelties we have the staple stuffs that are always popular.—J. G. Myers Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Stunning plaids and dainty checks, decidedly distinctive; almost masculine were it not for a faint tint of color here and there which changes them into purely feminine fabrics. Panama holds full sway and the new shades of tan and gray are Dame Fashion's favorites. A host of these charming new checks and plaids in tans and grays and creams, with plain and graduated checks and bars of black and colors will be placed on display.—O'Donohue, Redmond & Normile Co., Omaha, Neb.

These are colored wool suitings—stylish, clean, new goods—the best of their kind. This season's choicest patterns are shown—light and medium grounds over-shot with broken checks, plaids and small, indistinct lines—stunning patterns in fancy mixtures.—Field, Schlick & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

DRESSMAKING

For three days more we will make these suits to measure for $16.75 and $21.75 each. Made to your own individual requirements. Fit and satisfaction guaranteed. Your choice from over 100 different materials, to be made up in any one of the seven styles shown in this illustration, for $16.75 or $21.75. You select the style and material you like best; we take your measure and deliver your suit within a reasonable time as near faultless as human skill and high-class workmanship can produce it. The seven models pictured above were selected after careful consideration as being the best all-round styles of the season, and because we believe they are styles which will be as desirable for next fall as they are now for present wear. New blouse suits, new collarless suits, new semi-fitted suits, new three-quarter coat suits, new jacket suits. The seven different models and materials from which orders will be taken are shown on forms in our windows and in a special section of our suit department on second floor, which we have devoted exclusively to this sale. Here we display a range of more than 100 drapes of fine quality all-wool materials from which you may select, including: Broadcloths, English chevots, scilicians, fancy worsteds, French voiles, Scotch tweeds, and men's wear mixtures in desirable color effects. Every suit will be man tailored, handsomely trimmed and lined with fine quality satin or taffeta silk.—R. H. White Co., Boston, Mass.

We are showing without exception the most complete assortments of all the new up-to-date spring linings. Most essential to the fit and wear of a garment are good linings. H. O'Neil & Co. keep only those of guaranteed superior quality, and many of the lines are entirely exclusive with us in New York City.—H. O'Neil & Co., New York City.

Dress linings for Thursday. Extremely low prices always prevail at our lining counter. Dressmakers, seamstresses, in fact all workers with needle and thread should profit by these buying opportunities.—Mendel & Freedman, New Haven, Conn.

Every woman who uses a needle. Sale of dressmakers' findings, work-basket supplies, notions and linings. This is a Malley sale; backed by the prestige of thirty-seven previous events of like kind; inspired by the certainty of superiority; supported by the advantages of a commanding position in both wholesale and retail markets. It is comprehensive—it covers everything in its line. It is advantageous — the reductions are more than one-third.—The Edward Malley Co., New Haven, Conn.

New Spring linings. The linings are a vital factor in women's wear—great care should be taken in their selection. Buying here, you run no risk of getting the inferior quick-to-go-to-pieces article—we handle none but the most dependable qualities, whose worth has been fully proven. Special low prices to-morrow to "open up" the new spring goods.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Necessary linings conveniently priced.—The Broadway Department Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

Notions in motion. We have to-day a larger clientele of dressmakers and milliners than any other notion store in Brooklyn. Fair dealing has won this favor. We are just as particular about the quality of these little things as we are about those larger and higher priced.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Desirable things for first-of-the-week shopping. While the cloth of my lady's gown is an important consideration in the make-up of a correct costume, it's essential that other materials that go to make it a creation of art and a thing of beauty be in keeping with the quality and style of the cloth. Because ladies recognize this, our trimmings and linings departments are very popular sections of the Nevius store.—Nevius Bros. Co., Trenton, N. J.

You don't realize, of course, how important the question of trimmings is to the looks of your clothes; the color and texture of linings; the shape and shade of buttons, etc. They seem like little, trifling things to you; you never thought of it before. We have a department where just as much care is given, by experts, to testing these things, and getting harmonious effects, as if it were the only thing we did.—Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Chicago, Ill.

DRESS TRIMMINGS

New Dress Trimmings Little Enough in Price.—Little to pay for a little touch of smartness to a dress. Ask at the trimming division of main floor, west.—Jos. Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Arrived! Great shipment of new dress trimmings. We know you will be glad to see them. They are so handsome you cannot help admiring the beautiful patterns, the rich colorings, the handsome effects and the reasonable prices.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

Our First Trade Sale Dress Trimmings.—Short lines, an odd piece or two, or lines too scant to admit of making up samples for their salesmen—all such stock is as much in the way of a big wholesaler as is a sore thumb. Importers take singularly small prices to effect a clean-up of stocks at the end of their season. But it's all as good as full stocks to any one who has a dress to trim; and one must use trimmings. So our first trade sale of dress trimmings begins to-morrow morning, and all the bargains that follow, with many more, will be specially displayed.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

New trimmings. It is wonderful how the human brain can conceive such elegance. Every yard of trimming brings this thought home to the inquiring, observing mind. The world claps its hands in ecstasy over particularly lovely groupings and color combinations, but fails to think of the laborious hours spent in perfecting the work.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Dress Trimmings.—Generous stocks of every fashionable and wanted sort of dress trimmings are here.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

New Dress Trimmings—A Superb Line of Imported Novelty.—Hennessey's notion department has a new line of trimmings. They are fresh from Paris and represent the best of the Frenchmen's charming conceits for the modiste's manipulation in gowning fair women.—Hennessey's, Butte, Mont.

"Beautiful," "dainty," "charming," "exquisite," "lovely,"—in fact every adjective that lovely femininity uses in describing dainty trimmings can well be said of this beautiful collection of handsome embroidery.—Bon Marche, Asheville, N. C.

New Laces and Trimmings.—Here's a display you'll enjoy. Come and let us show you the delicate, beautiful creations in the lace and trimming departments. Such light, airy, exquisitely fashioned handiwork of the most careful manufacture, such perfection of detail in design, such attractive beauty and in so great variety that we are sure to please you. Many new importations from abroad, combined with the best of our own country, have just been added to the immense stocks to make your spring shopping a pleasure. Now all is ready—we ask that you come and give us an opportunity to show you the beauties of these departments.—The Wm. Hengerer Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Lace Novelty. An extraordinary showing of lace novelties is required this year to meet the demand for fine dress trimmings. Of course you will take it for granted that we have provided everything needed, but you can hardly understand what that really means unless you have spent much time at the lace counter.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Never before in the history of dress trimmings has there been such a lavish display of materials so varied in shape and detail that it is well-nigh impossible to go amiss in the matter of choice. Such bewildering combinations, perfection of designs, harmonious effects in colors need only ingenuity to cleverly adapt the wealth of braids, embroideries and appliques to the adornment of the season's gowns. Trimmings are so designed that they may be separated and used as motifs, making them amenable for various styles of treatment. Appliques with gold and silver effects are among the newest trimmings, and all of the Oriental embroideries are enhanced by the glimmer of gold and silver threads. An almost endless variety of gimps is shown in many combinations of colors and braids, and the richness of the intermingled silks, velvets and Persian touches offers a superb supply of materials with which to effect fashion's decrees in dress decoration as well as original adaptations.—Woodward & Lathrop, Washington.

DRUGGISTS' SUPPLIES

Couldn't Use It.—Customer—“ Say, have you anything that you can recommend for a cough? ”

Druggist—“ Sure. I have a delightful cough mixture that I put up myself. ”

Customer—“ I'm afraid it won't do. I haven't got a delightful cough. ”—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Vaseline.—In large and small jars. It's the blue-seal brand, the genuine. Excellent for sunburn, wind chap, rough skin, etc. Talking of chaps, better have a jar or two handy for the little chaps on the Fourth. Stitch in time, you know.—Jas. A. McCoffrey & Sons, Philadelphia, Pa.

The first step in treating sickness in your home is to call in a doctor. The next is to get his prescription filled. That's our part of the work. We keep only the best chemicals and pharmaceuticals, and are prepared in every way to take the best care of your interests.—Cooper's Drug Store, Lexington, Ky.

When sickness comes or accident endangers life or limb, only the best and purest medicines should be used. Frison & Sweeting's pharmacy is by universal consent named as the most reliable for furnishing the best drugs and chemicals and sick room appliances and essentials.—Frison & Sweeting, Bloomington, Ia.

There is never a doubt as to satisfactory trading results at this complete drug store. Never a doubt as to first reliable quality. Never a doubt as to getting the exact article you ask for. Never a doubt as to our lowest price. Never a doubt as to prompt, courteous attention. Never a doubt that you can buy just as safely over the telephone or through the mails as if you were in the store in person. Never a doubt about getting your money back if for any reason you are dissatisfied with your purchase.—Laranger & Culver's Drug Store, Saginaw, Mich.

When it is drugs it is often necessary to know, and a satisfaction to be sure, that drugs purchased are of the best possible quality. This certainty and security is always provided when you buy drugs here. For sixteen years we have given that sort of service which builds public confidence and wins the permanent favor of careful people. When you get anything here you can be sure about the quality and equally sure that, quality

Violet witch hazel.—Try it after shaving. It has all the healing virtues of witch hazel and the perfume of fresh violets. Good in the bath or after the bath. And the price is so low, it can be used very freely.—Hull's Corner Drug Store, New Haven, Conn.

We always please. Our customers always get the “best” in drug buying—not only the best in the way of highest quality, but the best in point of service and in lowest prices. We have been proving this day and night now for many years, until it has become an unquestionable fact. Each day finds us doing more and more business and adding more and more friends and satisfied customers.—Federmann's, Kansas City, Mo.

Our exceptionally complete stocks include everything in the drug line which a thoroughly progressive drug store should carry. We watch our stocks carefully and replenish them as often as is necessary to keep each assortment unbroken. Trading here you have the satisfaction of always getting precisely what you desire.—Kingston, Denison.

Between life and death. The most tender solicitude and careful nursing will avail little if pure medicines are not obtainable. Get your physician's prescriptions filled at Mykrantz's pharmacy, and you then will be sure that you will not be a victim of the crime of substitution.—Mykrantz Pharmacy, Columbus, Ohio.

No monkey business.—Ours is not the policy of the “monkey druggist.” We don't monkey with your doctor's prescriptions. We don't monkey around trying to sell you something “just as good” when you want one of the standard patent medicines. The monkey druggist is always scheming some way to job the people.—The Ing & Allee Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Some people secure comfort at the seashore; others in the mountains. For the stay-at-homes there is comfort every day at our soda fountain. Perfect flavors, thin glasses, plenty of ice. Ever try "Innovation Sundæ?" Two other articles for comfort—Sea Salt and Roger & Gillett's Violet Water. Used in the bath either one is invigorating; either one will help you bear the sultry weather.—The Eagle Drug Store, Denison, Texas.

Hair brushes. Quality sticks out all over them, and that's what you want in a hair brush. Let us show you what a good one you can purchase here.—Brown & Turner, Portland, Me.

When the sun paints tan and freckles and sunburn, we are ready with remedies for the dark coat—cooling and healing lotions, rice powder, glycerine, listerine, cold cream, vaseline—lots of curative and palliative summer complexion restorers.—A. Renkert & Co., Memphis.

Happy to accommodate you. You know without our telling you what kind of goods a first-class drug store carries. When you want perfumes, toilet articles, brushes, infants' requisites, sick room goods, medicines, etc., you know that if you come right here you can get exactly what you want.—The Modern Pharmacy, Binghamton, N. Y.

Drugs.—"A stitch in time saves nine," and the timely administration of one of the following remedies may save many ills and doctor bills.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Getting a prescription is one thing, getting it filled is another. The second no less important than the first. A poor doctor and a good druggist might do better than a good doctor and a poor druggist. What you want is both a good doctor and a good druggist. We furnish the good druggist.—Andrew R. Cunningham, Detroit, Mich.

Rock candy syrup. This is a syrup as pure as clear water—made of fine sugar and useful for many purposes. It makes a pleasant change from maple syrup on griddle cakes; it is ideal for a part of that sure-to-cure-a-cold combination "rock and rye"—it is available for all of the uses of a syrup, and its cost is very small.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A gentle regulator. In these days of hurry and worry almost every one needs a laxative or liver regulator to counteract the effects of sedentary occupations and hurried eating. Of course, you don't want anything drastic—what you want is something effective. Our little liver pills are pleasant, prompt and reliable.—Globe-Pitts Drug Co., Salt Lake City.

Moths must go now. We unite with the housewife to-day in an attack upon the common enemy—moths. Camphor gum is admittedly the best thing to protect furs and other clothing from the inroads of moths and other of their ilk.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr, Rochester.

When filling prescriptions we give our undivided attention to the same. That is the only safe way and we are nothing if not safe. We dispense drugs of known purity only, holding that when human life is hanging in the balance it is a poor time to economize by using cheap materials and trusting to luck for results. Again, we've the "know how," and our prices are reasonable. Let us fill your next prescription.—Virges & Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Prescription Perfection!—Our prescription department is in charge of experts who have spent years in the business. When engaged in this work they have a wholesale drug stock to work from. They never substitute. Every prescription is filled just as the doctor intended it to be. The work is done promptly and a low price charged. If you want the best in a hurry, come here.—Reed Hurlbut, Rochester, N. Y.

A case of grip, colds, coughs, etc., can be relieved and cured by our cordials. Should your physician prescribe for you we will fill it from pure and fresh drugs, without any substitution in medicines, at any time. Our prescription department is perfect. Our service is always prompt and reliable and the utmost care and accuracy is observed at all times.—Sam. Coffinberry, Peoria, Ill.

The Sun's stores stand with drug buyers for honest, pure drug-selling. There is no doubt in the minds of those who know us. You get just what you ask for. Your doctor trusts us with the most intricate prescription work; as he does, so should you. We offer some specials in standard remedies. This is only a sample of what you can save here.—"The Sun," Los Angeles, Cal.

The supreme point about Cunningham's drugs is their reliable quality. Our business isn't guesswork any more than your cooking is guesswork. We know for a certainty that our drugs are of the very best quality before ever we let them enter the store. We have found that these are the kind of drugs most people want. Don't get the idea that high quality makes our prices high—for it doesn't.—Andrew R. Cunningham, Detroit, Mich.

You will save time by coming direct to our store, as you will be sure of having your prescription filled at once. Don't you think it a good idea to bring your prescriptions to us; then, if you need them refilled at night, you are always sure of being served at once.—Newbro Drug Co., Butte, Mont.

Family medicines. Don't save pennies to lose dollars—don't be too economical when your health's at stake. We sell drugs and medicines at reasonably cheap prices—we don't sell cheap drugs. Anything your physician prescribes or you order for yourself you'll get—no substitutes, but the genuine articles, at fair prices.—A. Renkert & Co., Memphis.

Pure Witch Hazel. In addition to its being absolutely pure, it's of extra strength.

Highest grade of distilled Witch Hazel.

A popular and effective home remedy.—Gedney's, East Orange, N. J.

Rough winds and cold weather will soon be on hand with coughs, colds and consumption in line. Save your strength and store up energy by using now Petty's Syrup and Tar for coughs and colds.—Petty's, Newark, N. J.

Why does your doctor prefer to have his prescription compounded here? Because he knows they will be accurately and intelligently compounded of absolutely pure drugs and chemicals. That's the only reason.—Andrew R. Cunningham, Detroit, Mich.

Drugs and Toilet Necessities.—You cannot go anywhere safely without taking some of the most simple preparations with you, for in case of emergency, you are not always apt to find them in small stores at summer resorts or in the country.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

There are tricks in all trades; but the only trick in this trade with us is the trick of keeping the freshest and best of all kinds of drugs, perfumes and toilet preparations, as well as putting up prescriptions strictly 'pon honor. If you want the best you must come here.—Sam Coffinberry, Peoria, Ill.

Colgate's Violet Talc Powder.—Who has not used this dainty, cooling, and refreshing toilet powder? It is a luxury as well as a positive necessity to have a box on one's toilet table. Do not allow yourself to be without it. It's dainty perfume is delicious, and for baby's use is just the thing.—Oliver-Finnie Company, Little Rock, Ark.

Save yourself the trouble of going from one drug store to another by coming to Kuhlman's first. Kuhlman's has by far the largest and best selected stock of patent medicines and sundries, and we are never "just out" of the article you want. Every department is well supplied and constantly replenished with new goods to meet the new needs of the people. Superior service and cut prices are the irresistible combination that is winning us the largest patronage ever enjoyed by any Knoxville house.—Kuhlman's, Knoxville, Tenn.

If "our own" cough syrup does you no good or if you are not satisfied in every way, bring back the empty bottle and get your money—it is no longer ours.—Ruhl's Drug Store, Manheim, Pa.

In event of sickness send your prescriptions here. We will fill them with dispatch and put all our professional knowledge and attention and the finest quality of drugs into them. We will thus effectively co-operate with your physician.—Jos. Fleming & Son, Pittsburg.

Best Toilet Soap.—In making our selection of toilet soaps it has been our aim to carry only such as we could depend upon as being absolutely pure and true—such soaps as we know our customers would wish to use. You will find here, Pinaud's, Colgate's and others.—Andrew R. Cunningham, Detroit, Mich.

Anything you want in pure, fresh drugs of highest grade you can get here. We handle only reliable, first-class goods. Purity and quality guaranteed. Nothing whatever is misrepresented. Our reputation assures you of that. And our prices are always the lowest. All the standard proprietary remedies, patent medicines, etc., at cost rates. Special attention given to prescriptions. Accuracy in compounding.—A. Renkert & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Don't use drugs unless you really have to. You don't generally patronize the drug store unless necessity compels you. But when you do need anything in the drug line get it pure. Impure drugs are worse than no drugs at all. You run no risk in using what we sell, as with us purity precedes cheapness. If you are feeling out of sorts a good tonic will do you a world of good. We have it.—Wynkoop-Vaughan Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Family Medicine Cabinet.—There is a little apothecary shop known as the "Kaufman family medicine cabinet." It is made in a neat and substantial manner and it has receptacles in the way of bottles, drawers and compartments for all remedies commonly demanded by human ills.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Quality.—Quality of drugs, quality of work, quality of reliability in prescriptions! No substitution or change of prescriptions in this store. We send for and deliver prescriptions free and do it promptly. No long waits.—Frank Edmondson & Bro., Atlanta, Ga.

Best drugs, best service, trust-busting prices and an appreciative public at "The Owl," Los Angeles, Cal.

Going on a Vacation?—Then don't forget to take the handy remedies with you in case of sickness. You will find it will not be so easy to procure what you want at a strange drug store, and we have everything in pure, fresh drugs for your medicine chest.—Frank B. Davis & Co., Youngstown, Ohio.

When you need medicine, bring your doctor's prescription right to us, and you can count on obtaining the best medicine that can be produced from pure, fresh first quality drugs. We give prescriptions our most careful attention and see that every phase of the work is done with the utmost accuracy and thoroughness.—Dewey & Parsons, Westfield, Mass.

Prescriptions Filled at "Owl" Prices.—You know what that means. Sickness is expensive enough without adding needless expense. It is needless to pay more than "The Owl's" prescription prices, which are always 25 to 35 per cent. less than the ordinary. Better still, "Owl" compounding is always accurate and the drugs used are the finest that money can buy.—The Owl, Los Angeles, Cal.

Mother always keeps it handy for night attacks. Babyhood's ills and aches and pains require effective remedies. We have them—the best on the market for every infantile ailment. Our stock includes all the most meritorious proprietary medicines, family recipes, pharmaceutical specialties, etc. Everything we sell is fresh and pure and just as represented. And our prices are right, too—always lower than the lowest elsewhere.—Frank B. Davis & Co., Youngstown, Ohio.

Bring your prescription to this store! You'll receive pure, fresh ingredients accurately compounded. That's the way we help the doctor to help you. We don't charge extra for this high-grade service, but less than is usual with most drug stores.—Jos. Fleming & Son, Pittsburg, Pa.

Absolute accuracy is an absolute certainty, if you get your prescription filled here. There will be no guess work about it. Every prescription is filled with absolutely pure drugs and chemicals by a thoroughly competent pharmacist. Ask your doctor about us. Let him be the judge. He knows.—Andrew R. Cunningham, Detroit, Mich.

Buy drugs at "The Owl" and open a bank account. You can keep a bank account growing with the money you save by buying at "The Owl." Your deposits will represent the excessive profit that the combined stores are organized to get out of you. Every time you spend a dollar at "The Owl" deposit seventy-five cents—that's about the way to average it.—The Owl, Los Angeles, Cal.

Toilet article cases. Comb, brush, tooth brush, etc.—all the little things right where you can put your hand on them in your grip or steamer trunk without having to find one at a time.—Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta, Ga.

Warm weather demands that my lady's dressing table be well supplied with the most popular cooling and soothing lotions. Toilet waters, talcums, powders, etc., when freely used, do much to rob hot days of their unpleasantness.—Harris Emery Co., Des Moines, Ia.

Summer toilet remedies. It is now the season when it is natural to expect a number of little inconveniences from the effects of the sun, wind, insects or poisonous vines and trees, and it is an absolute necessity to be prepared to either prevent or cure these little ailments.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Pure drugs are as important as pure food. Only the highest grade of chemically pure drugs sold by us and used in filling prescriptions. Our prices are as low as you'll pay for inferior qualities.—Jos. Fleming & Son, Pittsburg, Pa.

Bring your prescriptions to this store! You'll receive pure, fresh ingredients accurately compounded. That's the way we help the doctor to help you. We don't charge extra for this high grade service, but less than is usual with most drug stores.—The National Drug Store, Bay City, Mich.

The Sun's stores stand with drug buyers for honest, pure, drug selling. There is no doubt in the minds of those who know us. You get just what you ask for. Your doctor trusts us with the most intricate prescription work; as he does, so should you. We offer some specials in standard remedies.—The Sun Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Constant trading at this drug store brings content.—Frank Edmondson & Brother, Atlanta, Ga.

We sell hair tonics which promise all kinds of things, and some are very pleasant to use.—Evans, Philadelphia, Pa.

Our prescription trade is not small. Our accuracy is well known. The medicine and the doctor's prescription tally always. As an accountant would say to you, "It proves." We have every means at hand to give you the very best service. We are known for reliability and promptness.—Z. C. M. I. Drug Store, Salt Lake City, Utah.

You'll need to replenish your stock of toilet articles before going into the country, of course. To have along a supply of your favorite kind of soap and toilet water and sunburn lotion and talcum powder means a deal of comfort, and there's considerable to be saved in the price if you get these things here instead of at the local shops up back.—Owen, Moore & Co., Portland, Me.

Bristles in your teeth are not pleasant, but you'll get them there every time you use a poor tooth brush. Get a brush that is built right—costs more, but gives more satisfaction than a dozen "cheap" ones. Our best are the best.—H. W. Fay & Co., Altoona, Pa.

Security vs. Uncertainty. Ask any prominent physician or resident of Kansas City for the best place to buy drugs or have a prescription filled, and you are invariably directed to the "Diamond Drug Store." This enviable reputation is but the direct result of our painstaking carefulness concerning details of quality and work, and our habit of always giving the lowest possible price⁶ on everything.—Diamond Drug Store, Kansas City, Mo.

Rubber! Not in the slang sense, although we do invite your attention to this particular line of goods. There is just as much latitude in the quality of rubber goods as there is between fresh country eggs and "eggs." We are not authority on the subject of hen-product, but we do know that the rubber goods we are offering are of unusually good value.—The Pardee-Ellenberger Co., New Haven, Conn.

We are headquarters for everything in rubber needed in the sick room or home. We buy the best, carry a large stock and guarantee every article as represented.—E. L. Washburn Co., New Haven, Conn.

The chilly winds have come. Keep them out and protect yourself from colds by wearing one of our chest protectors or chamois vests. Vests from $1.25 to $2.50.—S. L. Smith, Binghamton, N. Y.

Be sure it's Renkert's drug store when you hand in your prescription. They have drugs excelling in purity; know how to compound them accurately, are conscientious as to their work and their prices, and are ever courteous to customers. Don't forget the name.—A. Renkert & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Somebody's life may depend on the way a prescription has been filled. Every prescription compounded here will give the results that the doctor wants. You may place every reliance on our prescription work, its accuracy, the use of the best drugs. Our system prevents errors; mistakes are impossible. It isn't safe to pay less for prescriptions than we charge.—Esslinger, Danville, Ill.

Debt, dirt and the devil are the chief enemies of mankind. A word about dirt. All contagious diseases originate in dirt. It's up to you as to how much dirt you allow around you. The more dirt the more chance for disease. Clean up! Disinfect! Our stock of disinfectants is complete. Let us hear from you. Bring us your prescriptions.—Cooper & Dunn, Lexington, Ky.

Purity in medicine is necessary to get best results in fighting disease. There should be no doubts as to whether it is right or not. This drug store has the perfect confidence of physicians and others who know our methods. They know that every drug or medicine from this store is correct in every way and that they may feel sure of the greatest benefits from its use.—Risher's Drug Store, Waco, Texas.

Order anything you want. We have every drug carried in ordinary drug stores and hundreds of drugs that the ordinary druggist never has a call for. Order anything you want. You will get what you ask for—it will be of the highest quality and will save something on the cost.—Jacobs Pharmacy, Atlanta.

We are sorry if you have to take medicine. We are glad to sell you the very best when you need it. Our pharmaceutical supplies we purchase of the most reliable manufacturers. The cheap kinds we do not carry. It doesn't pay you to buy that kind. It doesn't pay us to sell them. If it is the purest, freshest and best you want in drugs, we have them.—Crescent Drug and Book Store, Ottumwa, Ia.

Pitts' old time cough balsam for the throat and lungs, suits both the old and young, is an old and valuable preparation, used successfully in Utah over fifty years. It possesses the extraordinary power of immediately relieving all coughs, colds, hoarseness, difficulty of breathing, huskiness and tickling in throat. It loosens the phlegm, inducing free expectoration.—Godbe-Pitts-Drug Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

Everything for the bath—of the quality you ought to have—at the price you ought to pay. We sell quantities of bath supplies because we keep what people want and make the prices right.—Eagle Drug Co., San Diego, Cal.

You often see some recipes in the journals and Sunday papers that you may want to try, and that's what we wish to speak to you about, as many a time you don't know whether or not they are any good, and that's where we come in. Our long experience enables us to tell of the merits of a recipe at a glance, and if we think it's a good formula we will so tell you. We are prepared to scientifically compound any recipe, formula or prescription. We have everything to do it with, have had years of experience and are in a position to do it at the lowest possible prices. Every time you think of medicine, think of—C. D. Kingston, Denison, Texas.

Finest soda water. We serve all the favorites. We do not wish, however, to convey the idea that we are merely soda water druggists. We are very anxious to sell you drugs and medicines also. And the same care we take to tickle your palate, we also exert in compounding your medicines.—Eagle Drug Store, Denison.

A feeling of safety that goes with the knowledge that prescriptions filled here are filled absolutely as the doctor prescribes, is worth much in promoting your speedy recovery. One thing—we have an entirely new stock and our drugs are not only pure but fresh.—The Mallory Pharmacy, Denison, Texas.

The attention of two skilled pharmacists is focused on every prescription compounded in our prescription department. One does the compounding, the other checks off the ingredients in order to make sure that not the slightest error occurs. This double check system is in force for your protection. It costs you nothing extra. Our prices are never higher than in those stores where less labor and attention are given.—The White Front Drug Store, Fargo, N. D.

As the doctor ordered will be the way your prescription is filled if brought to us. The drugs used will be pure, too; not the kind that might do—but the kind that will do; not the kind that will injure the system—but the kind that will build up the system. Adulterated drugs never find a place in this store. You get the good kind here, and no other.—Virges & Co., Tacoma, Washington.

We follow the doctor's orders in filling prescriptions. We also use only fresh, pure and reliable drugs and chemicals.

Our prescription clerks are licensed and painstaking. Our charges are reasonable.—Dean's Pharmacy, Binghamton.

Colgate's dental powder. A cleansing, purifying tooth powder. Is refreshing and helps to keep the teeth in an attractive looking and healthful condition.—Oliver Finne Co., Little Rock.

Deaths have occurred because drugs used in medicines were not pure or of strength anticipated by the physicians ordering their use. All drugs here are tested in our own chemical laboratory. If impure or weak they are not used.—Hurty-Francis, Indianapolis, Ind.

Lungs tender? This kind of weather is bad for tender lungs. Don't run any risks! It's far better and cheaper to buy and wear a Lung Protector now than to pay doctors' bills later. We have an exceptionally good line of Lung Protectors—not expensive ones, yet not a poor one. Buy yours now.—Fraser's Drug Store, Bangor, Me.

Pure and sure drugs. We deal in no other kind. You want no other kind. Everything here is just what you would select were you a drug expert. There's not a cleaner or better drug stock anywhere—there couldn't be. Yet our prices are less than you're apt to pay for inferior drugs.—Boswell & Noyes Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Our prescription department fills your wise neighbor's prescriptions because your neighbor appreciates our prices and knows when we say our drugs are pure and unadulterated, it is so, and that they are the kind for him and his family. We guarantee a perfect system of compounding prescriptions. Let us see you here with your neighbor. We are certain you will be pleased; we know we will.—The Columbus Pharmacal Co., Columbus, Ohio.

An important and yet not tangible ingredient is compounded in our prescriptions, and that is purity. We use only pure drugs. We keep in stock every drug that can be required. We never substitute, and we always use exactly what the prescription calls for and in the exact proportions.—F. H. Laing, Druggist, Windsor, Ont.

Everything for the toilet table, bathroom and sick room, for health, comfort and luxury, reprinted to bring a great throng of new and old customers to this fast growing, popular section. Read every item. Note every offer. Then be here and buy liberally. No large quantities sold to dealers.—The Fourteenth Street Store, New York, N. Y.

Practically brings our prescription department right to your home. All you have to do is to phone 491, either phone, and in less time than you'd imagine one of our messengers will be at your door for the prescription. In an equally short time the prescription will be filled and delivered to you again. Best prescription service on the coast, costs you no more than the other kind does. We fill 'em for less.—Vaughn Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

A drug store for the people. That's our motto, and it has been the means of adding hundreds of new customers to our list. We sell only the purest drugs. All prescriptions are filled by registered pharmacists. Our prices are a little lower than our competitors'. We deliver goods free to all parts of the city.—Virges & Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Real tooth brush luxury cannot be had unless you have a good tooth brush—one which cleans every nook and crevice and does not shed its bristles. Our "special" curved handle is just such a brush. It's 25c., and is sold with a guarantee.—Clifford Pharmacy, South Norwalk, Conn.

Counterfeit money is not half so harmful as counterfeit medicines. When your doctor writes you a prescription he expects each ingredient shall be as indicated. If we cannot supply the precise ingredients written, we will not fill the prescription until we hear from the physician.—Rogers Drug Store, Kenton.

Reliable prescriptions.—If you want the most careful scientific compounding from the best, freshest and purest drugs, bring your prescriptions to us. Find out first what other stores charge, so you may know exactly how much you save. We pay no commissions to doctors for sending business to us—the saving right there is at least 25 per cent. We guarantee absolute accuracy and satisfaction.—The Owl Drug Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

Absolute satisfaction will be experienced by all who buy here. Our drugs are pure and of the highest standard. Promptness and accuracy are the motives of this store. Lowest prices rule throughout the stock. We cut the price on patent medicines.—McBath's, Knoxville, Tenn.

Watch the papers for particulars of Dean's great anniversary to-morrow. There will be excellent music. Cut prices. Free soda water and lots of other attractions. You know Dean never does anything by halves. Be sure to come.—Dean's Drug Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

It's a plain case of actual suicide to allow yourself to succumb to the ravages of disease, living as you are in this age of enlightenment. Walther's Peptonized Port will surely put you on your feet, and make you a happy, busy piece of humanity. You have only one life to live. Why not live it in the full enjoyment of abundant health and cheerfulness.—The Columbus Pharmacal Co., Columbus, Ohio.

A drug store that saves you money on every single purchase. When you go elsewhere you pay more and get less. We sell at the following prices all the year around.—Seidler Drug Co., Newark, N. J.

Remember, whenever you want anything in the drug line that we carry a complete and first-class stock of everything that should be found in a well-conducted pharmacy. We guarantee all our goods and always give our customers what they want. If we happen not to have any special article desired, it is always a pleasure to send and get it in the shortest time possible. Our line of toilet goods is unexcelled. Our prices are as low as is consistent with the quality of goods.—Highfield, the Druggist, Zanesville, Ohio.

There is honor and happiness in vigorous manhood and womanhood. Don't you want to feel the glow of new-born life in your blood and nerves, to feel the bubbling spirit of youth again? Don't you want to have a strong heart, courage, nerves of steel, self-confidence, strength in every organ, ambition, energy, grit and endurance? Don't you want to be rid of the "come and go" pains, the rheumatism, dyspepsia, varicocele, weak back and general debility?—Dr. McLaughlin, St. James St., Montreal, Que.

Do you know "The Song of 60 Years?" There are four verses: Verse 1. Ayer's Hair Vigor makes the hair grow. Verse 2. Ayer's Hair Vigor stops falling hair. Verse 3. Ayer's Hair Vigor cures dandruff. Verse 4. Ayer's Hair Vigor always restores color to gray hair. J. C. Ayers Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hard to beat the amount of care we give to filling properly your prescriptions. This is what we're in this business for, and everyone who entrusts a prescription to our care need have no worry about its not being filled as your physician writes it, with purest of drugs at fairest of prices. Only licensed Pharmacists employed in our prescription department.—Waldron's Drug and Sportsmen's Goods Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

When it comes to prescriptions, we don't take a back seat for any one. If you are particular and demand the best, both in quality and service, we want your trade. A trial will convince you that we deserve it.—Z. C. M. I. Drug Store, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Prescriptions from your doctor are filled just as your doctor wants them filled. We do not substitute in any case. We use the best chemicals. We are careful and clean in our work. We do not use impure water in filling prescriptions. We distill all water through a still absolute. We have in our east window a few of the many prescriptions we have filled and are filling every hour of every day. Remember you get what you ask for.—Bear's Drug Store, Phoenix

To cut, or not to cut, is the question that seems to worry some druggists. Not so here. About one and a half years ago we decided to place this store on a cut-rate basis. We have had no cause to regret that step. From the very moment of its inception it was a success. The people throughout both city and country have shown in a thousand ways that they are in thorough sympathy with the movement. In appreciation of this, we have given our best efforts towards the building up of the most perfect drug store service that the people of this section have ever had. One of the chief aims of this drug store is to give perfect satisfaction to every customer and to put each patron to the least possible trouble. All our prices are cut prices, and they are lower than anywhere else.—E. C. Andrew, Montgomery, Ala.

Have you sickness in your family? If so you want the best physician and you also want the best medicines. Have the prescriptions filled at the place where they will be prepared by experienced licensed clerks from the freshest stocks of pure drugs.—The Modern Pharmacy, Binghamton, N. Y.

Summer comfort in these low priced toilet needs. They are fine and high grade. We stand back of the worth of everyone of them. At regular prices they are the best to be had. But there will be special chances to-morrow, chances to stock up for summer and pay a great deal less than ordinarily.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Be careful is our motto, when filling prescriptions. You can send the children to our store and they will receive the same prompt and careful attention as the grown person. Our prescription department is in the hands of graduate and licensed pharmacists who know their business thoroughly and you can rest assured when you have your prescriptions filled by us that they are just as the doctor has ordered them.—Veeder & Yelverton, Schenectady, N. Y.

Indeed it does make a difference where you have a prescription filled. It's too serious a matter to be entrusted to a novice, or to a druggist whose incomplete stocks might tempt him to substitution. Our prescription department is run by graduate pharmacists, and the stock of drugs they have to draw from includes everything a physician could call for. There is no possible way of insuring greater accuracy than by the system employed here.—Sale & Son, Los Angeles, Cal.

We want your trade. We'll give you more for your money than any other drug store in town. We don't sell goods for less than cost, but we turn them often at a small margin. The reason that we ask you to trade here is that we may continue to turn them often, and we will give you the benefit.—Seidler Drug Co., Newark, N. J.

Not an error to mar the clear record of our prescription filling. Isn't that a good argument in favor of our system of prescription compounding? Isn't that a good reason why you should have your prescriptions filled here?—Towne, Secombe & Allison, San Bernardino, Cal.

Disgusted with your toothbrush, do the bristles come out or it its shape inconvenient? Some brushes have no excuse for being used by any one and perhaps you have been unlucky enough to get one of this kind. Our toothbrushes are of the best selected stock, convenient shape, bristles well secured. See the new line of Japanese brushes we sell at fifteen and twenty cents.—Ellis, Charlotteville, P. E. I.

We desire above all else to become your prescription druggist. We take time to thoroughly compound and check every prescription before it leaves our store. We only select the very best products from the world's greatest chemists' and pharmacologists' laboratories to be used in our prescriptions.—H. H. Webb, Pasadena, Cal.

We don't soak you when you get one of our sponges—not till you're in the bath with one. If you're going to do some sponging, here are some of the softest and best. Some soft snaps, too. All kinds from 5 cents to $2.00. Complete assortment at each of our five stores.—Hawkins, The Druggist, Hamilton, Ont.

The purity of the drugs and the accuracy with which they are compounded have a very important bearing on the recovery of the patient. That is why the doctor says, "Have this prescription filled at Guilfoyle's." He knows that our stock is fresh, that we have everything that he needs for the treatment of the case; he also knows the great care we exercise in preparing prescriptions. If you want the best in the drug line buy at Guilfoyle's, Binghamton, N. Y.

It always pays to be particular where you buy your drugs and medicines. When trying to save money don't make the mistake of buying at a store where you are not perfectly sure of the quality.—Seidler Drug Co., Newark, N. J.

Our drugs excel. Only the best is good enough for the sick. To battle with disease reliable medicines are needed. We realize our responsibility and never will we condescend to substitute one drug for another for our own profit or to make a low price. When a prescription is filled here you may rest assured it is composed of the best drugs in the right way.—The Barkman Drug Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

The element that counts most in the drug business is reliability. Customers should be able to go to a drug store with utmost assurance that their interests will be protected in every way. It is needless, we think, to say that every element of reliability is provided by this store. The extent and quality of our trade and the obvious confidence reposed in us by the public is evidence that we have always given superior service.—The Old Corner Drug Store, Jersey City.

Well-kept finger nails are signs of culture and refinement. We have the most complete line of manicure goods ever sold in Binghamton. Every little necessary implement, each necessary cure is here.—The Barkman Drug Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

A convenient drug store. We wish our customers to make our store a convenience. We are glad to accommodate in every way possible. Our directory is in a convenient place for reference. Our telephone is at your disposal.—D. B. Perry, Bay City, Mich.

Quality.—Quality of goods, quality of work, quality of reliability is what we stand for. No substituting or changing of prescriptions here. We will send for and deliver your prescriptions promptly.—Mason & Beach, Bay City, Mich.

The doctor's skill can avail nothing unless the medicine prescribed is carefully prepared. That's why we are so careful with our prescriptions. We decline to endanger life by using bad or substituted drugs in our medicines for a little extra profit. Isn't that assurance worth considering when you have a prescription to fill?—D. B. Perry, Bay City, Mich.

"A house divided against itself."—Is one where supplies are out and the little conveniences and luxuries of modern life are lacking. Avoid discomforts at the summer home by laying in supplies from our store—toilet articles of every description, drugs for any emergency.—Philo W. Newton & Co., Hartford, Conn.

We invite you to make this "your" drug store, and feel perfectly at home here. Have you tried our hot soda?—San Joaquin Drug Co., Fresno, Cal.

Be sure you're right. Don't take chances on having a prescription filled. Inexperience, inaccuracy, lack of potency in drugs will render a prescription worse than useless—perhaps absolutely dangerous. We employ none but expert registered pharmacists; our drugs are of known freshness, strength and purity; our service has never known a mistake.—Boswell & Noyes Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

We give prescriptions our most careful attention and see that every phase of the work is done with the utmost accuracy and thoroughness. We have every facility for accurate work. Our scales are so delicate that they will weigh a hair and our graduates have all been tested as to their accuracy before we use them. We have an enviable prescription record and we propose to maintain it.—Andrew R. Cunningham, Detroit, Mich.

Your doctor knows exactly what drugs to order for your prescription and looks for certain results from their use. Dean is very careful to dispense precisely what is ordered by your doctor and nothing else, therefore you may confidently rely on being safe in giving Dean your prescription work. Besides the safety there is economy, for Dean charges less.—Dean's Drug Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

Prescription perfection!—Our prescription department is in charge of experts who have spent years in the business. When engaged in this work they have a wholesale drug stock to work from. They never substitute. Every prescription is filled just as the doctor intended it to be. The work is done promptly and a low price charged. If you want the best in a hurry, come here.—Reed Hurlbut, Des Moines, Ia.

And now the Malley Drug Store begins its annual spring sale of medicines and toilet articles. This sale comes every year—just at the time when the lengthening days and the chill and heavy air, joined to the slush of the streets and the winter's confinement make medicines, tonics and correctives most in demand.—Edw. Malley Co., New Haven.

Reason why we should have your prescription business is the very fact we have been successful, and to be successful one must be skilled in the science of medicine. Why not take advantage of our experience when it costs you nothing? The drugs we dispense are all carefully selected and their strength known. So when your physician prescribes for you, we should enjoy the same confidence as you place in him. Anyone is competent to buy regular merchandise and use their own knowledge, as you have experience, but when you buy drugs, or have a prescription filled, you rely on someone else. How important they should be competent. For this reason we command your drug business.—H. D. Goodenough, Trenton.

Our prescription department. We are proud of the record of our prescription department because it is a clean record, one that any physician or pharmacist would commend. We can't help being enthusiastic over it. We appreciate your patronage.—The Waldron Drug Store, Denison, Tex.

Time to clean the blood and nothing better to do the work than B. & B. Sarsaparilla with Iodide. This preparation has had the long-continued approval of the best physicians and is expressly put up to meet the demand for a first-class blood purifier. $1.00. Ask about our guarantee.—The People's Pharmacy, Denison, Tex.

Your unimportant prescriptions. No matter how unimportant you may consider a prescription it should be put up where careful, scientific compounding is done. Even though it may not require scientific manipulation there's the same possibility of error in careless hands as there would be with the one you consider important. Errors are practically impossible in our prescription department, because we place every possible safeguard around the compounding and only employ expert prescriptionists. Prices are never higher, usually lower than elsewhere. This is evidenced by the fact that we are filling almost one hundred prescriptions daily.—Reynolds Drug Co., Denison.

A woman's delight is always expressed if she is pleased. Visit our drug store and all the elegant line of perfumes, toilet waters and sachet powders, and you will be more than delighted. We invite you to see our new assortment while there is a large variety to select from. We carry all the high grade products of the best French and American perfumers.—Exchange Drug Company, Montgomery, Ala.

Andrews' perfected preparation of the tasteless extract of Cod Liver Oil. This preparation represents the fat producing and alterative effect of 50 per cent. selected Norwegian Cod Liver Oil. Especially recommended for persons who cannot build up and always feel tired and worn out. It is very pleasant to take, having the taste of wild cherry. Large bottle, special price 75c.—The Andrews Pharmacy, Zanesville, Ohio.

Satisfaction in quality—satisfaction in price—all round satisfaction—that's what you get at the Sun. Buying for eight big progressive stores means quantity—hence price concessions from manufacturers—which we pass on to our patrons. Ever changing stocks assure the freshest of drugs and drug sundries. It pays to trade at the Sun.—Sun Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Prescription work is undoubtedly one of the most important branches of the drug trade. If a prescription is filled inaccurately or from inferior drugs, the results hoped for by your physician will not appear. When the doctor writes down the name of a drug or medicine, together with the correct proportion, there should be no doubt about the compounding of the same. When you bring a prescription here you may rest assured that just what the doctor calls for you will surely receive.—Roberts' Drug Store, Denison, Texas.

Carefulness is the watchword in our prescription department. You can have the best quality of drugs in your prescriptions—but if carefulness has not been used in filling the prescription you might as well not have it filled. We want you to let us fill your next prescription. We will call for it and deliver to any part of the city without extra cost.—Highfield, The Prescription Specialist, Zanesville, Ohio.

All good kinds of proprietary medicines. Cash buying and large orders, quick turn-overs and being satisfied with small profits, brings Eaton prices down to a rock bottom basis. The store that was first to find the way can always be trusted to point the way.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

The worst thing about rubber is that you can't tell by looking at it whether it will last or not. There is scarcely anything that comes out of a drug store that you have to take more on faith than a syringe or hot water bag, and a syringe or hot water bag is an extremely valuable thing, but when they leak—! We want to have you feel sure that anything that is sold you in the Jacobs' stores is absolutely dependable. We do not have any fancy prices. You get the full return in quality for every penny you spend; for even at the lowest prices you may be sure of getting an article that will be thoroughly satisfactory, and one that will give a length of service far in excess of what you might expect to get for the money.—Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta, Ga.

Imported olive oil. Just one trial of our genuine imported olive oil and you will never use another. It comes from the famous olives grown in the Valley of The Var, in France. We get it in sealed cans just as it is passed by the U. S. Custom House. You certainly get pure Virgin Olive Oil when you purchase Grasse imported olive oil. Bottled and sold exclusively by us in full measure bottles—pints 50 cents, quarts 90 cents.—Keiper's Prescription Pharmacy, Allentown, Pa.

Toilet preparations. Drop in and make your next purchase of toilet table supplies at this store. There's a saving to be made. Here are ten specimens of this store's regular, everyday prices on things that you'll pay more for elsewhere.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

All makers of chemicals and preparations of drugs of whom we buy guarantee them to be of the quality and purity required by the Pure Food and Drug Law. This law did not make it necessary for us to change any drug, as we have always conformed to the highest standards.—The Rapelye Drug Co., Hartford, Conn.

We give you $1.00 for every bottle of Vinol you buy that does not help you. You can only buy Vinol from us. Everybody likes it because it restores health and strength to delicate children, feeble old people, weak and sickly persons, nursing mothers. We give you $1.00.—Thomas' Drug Store, Columbia, S. C.

Rexall cold cream is the best for sunburn. It takes the burn right out, soothes the skin and leaves it soft and cool. Nothing better. Don't be afraid of "Old Sol." Defy him with Rexall cold cream.—Kingston, Denison, Tex.

Who puts up your prescriptions? Is the man who compounds your prescriptions as competent in his line as the doctor you employ is in his? He should be. If you employ a high-priced, expert architect to draw plans you certainly wouldn't let the contract for building out to a third-rate builder. Isn't health and life even more important than a house? Prescriptions brought to our dependable stores will receive the attention of thoroughly educated pharmacists—men who are not only graduates but who have had years of pharmaceutical experience. Our prices are just as low as the service is reliable.—The Gordon-Mitchell Drug Co., Winnipeg, Can.

After dinner. Nowadays almost everybody needs a gentle laxative pill after dinner and whenever the system gets clogged or stuffed up. Keep clean inside as well as out. We have a laxative pill that sells at 25c a bottle. No calomel, no griping. It brings a fresh, bright feeling, clears the complexion, and is one of the finest pills we know of for habitual constipation. Ask for our little vegetable pill 25c a bottle.—Kingston, Denison, Texas.

Our hobby. To be sure we have a hobby, and a substantial and sensible one, too. Our hobby is our prescription department. To this department every minute of our spare time is devoted. Our object in devoting so much time to this department is, or ought to be, the foundation of every pharmacy. We know it is the foundation of our pharmacy, because it is here that the doctors' prescriptions are all carefully and accurately filled. It is to this department that our customers look for efficient work when there is sickness in the home. If you bring your prescriptions to us to be filled they will be given the very best attention and will be filled with the purest and highest quality ingredients procurable.—The Palace Pharmacy, Joliet.

We can save your life, and at the same time give you the most refreshingly cool drink you ever had. Drinks that you never saw in this city before. Dishes of ice cream that you will pronounce fit for the gods. Flavors that remind you of orchard and farm.—Central Drug Co., San Bernardino, Cal.

Cream of tartar lozenges. This combination is an old-time remedy, and the lozenge is the new and palatable method of administering it. These lozenges have a tendency to cleanse the system of all scrofulous affections and thereby clear the complexion. Try them. Ten cents per box.—Waldron's Pharmacy, Binghamton, N. Y.

Almost a continuous stream of soda leaves our fountain. In this state it is always pure and wholesome. We use only the purest fruit syrups and crushed fruits. Tables for ladies; you'll find this a pleasant place to wait for your car.—Exchange Drug Co., Montgomery.

Please understand our position. We handle patent medicines. We do not promote or endorse them contrary to the welfare of the public or physician. We advise and urge consultation with a good doctor in all cases of sickness. Remember the old adage that "if you doctor yourself, you have a fool for a doctor." We also advise that every prescription be filled in a drug store. Unquestionably this is the better practice.—Caldwell & Bloor, Mansfield, Ohio.

For baby and mother we have everything that is needed. The health and even the life of the infant is often dependent upon the freshness and purity of the foods and drugs purchased at the pharmacy. We make a special feature of meeting the demands of this kind of trade and carry an unusually varied stock of articles needed by babies and mothers in the first days of infancy. We, moreover, fully guarantee everything we sell. Anything that is not satisfactory may be returned and the money will be refunded.—Central Drug Co., San Bernardino, Cal.

In drugs, just as in dry goods and clothing, some dealers run to cheap stuff at low prices, some to medium prices, while others try to carry all grades. We lean decidedly toward quality goods. In drugs, quality is more important than in other lines. When we hand out a bottle of medicine, prepared according to some physician's prescription, we want to know that that medicine bears the stamp of quality. Otherwise we won't be satisfied. If you like quality drugs you will like our store.—Lion Drug Store, Fargo, N. D.

Pure spices. Permit us to call your attention to Squibb's pure spices, which we now include in our stock. Spices are a most important addition to food, to which they lend not only a pleasant flavor, but impart a distinct dietetic value. The strength, flavor and taste of spices depend largely, in most cases wholly, upon the volatile oil contained in them. Consequently, if the oil be deficient in quantity or lacking entirely, the spice is proportionately inferior. Squibb's spices are absolutely pure and all of our customers enjoy them. We want you to make a trial of these spices.—Waldron Drug Store, Denison, Tex.

Are you particular about your health? Then be particular about your drugs. There is no doubt but what many lives have been lost because of your drugs. We want you to feel and know that if your life depended on the quality of a drug that you'd be in safe hands if we fill your order. All the newspapers and periodicals may be ordered from us. The latest magazines are for sale here. Also all fancy and toilet articles carried by any first-class drug store. The Sin Par cigar is 5c.—J. J. Thames, Taylor.

Men who cultivate the refinements of the toilet should cultivate the acquaintance of Riker stores. Here their best interests are served—their most particular requirements filled to their complete satisfaction. Every convenience a man demands, every article he requires to gratify his toilet needs. Look up our downtown stores—or phone at your convenience and we'll quickly deliver whatever you desire.—Riker's Drug Stores, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The druggist's help. When sick you want the best physician, and the best physician requires the aid of the best druggist. Pharmacy is now a more exacting science than it used to be. New discoveries, new remedies and new ideas require the modern druggist to be up-to-date. This is a thoroughly modern store. It exemplifies all that is latest and best on the professional side of pharmacy. Those who are careful in their drug buying, who want to feel secure, can find many good reasons for bringing us their prescriptions.—Central Drug Co., San Bernardino, Cal.

Frosti Cream for the roughness of the skin and complexion caused by March winds. It does not contain a particle of grease of any kind—a glove can be put on at once after using. Delicately but not loudly perfumed. A necessity for every lady's toilet.—Loring, Your Druggist, Plymouth, Mass.

Poor soap is bad enough, but a poor toilet water is worse. Flower Girl Toilet Water has a genteel, sensitive perfume about it that is lacking in other toilet waters, and when a woman buys any other kind than Flower Girl she is cheating herself.—Elk Drug Co., Utica.

Alma-Zada complexion powder. A soft, adherent down-like powder of flowery sachet-like odor and perfectly tinted. The absolute purity and harmlessness of this powder we emphasize strongly. Positively invisible. Flesh tint suits the majority. White for blondes, and Brunette for dark complexions.—Kingston, Denison, Texas.

ELECTRICITY AND GAS

Save your eyes by using good strong light. We can tell you how to do it and the expense will be much less than the benefit if you let us do the electric wiring and furnish perfect globes, shades and fixtures.—Fargo Electric Co., Fargo, N. D.

Introduce gas fuel into your household; give it half a chance, and the moment you do you will have done something that you couldn't be tempted to undo. The gas fuel habit is one hard to break.—Sacramento Electric, Gas & Railway Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Direct action gas ranges are made of cast iron and heavy steel, the bodies are made of two thicknesses of steel with asbestos between, which retains the heat in the oven and insures long life for the range. They have no dangerous pilot light. They have adjustable valves and can be regulated by anyone to any required pressure and have many more good points that others don't have.—Zahner Mfg. Co., Kansas City.

Gas light has a clear quality that illumines every object which comes within its logical radiation. It shows up all kinds of merchandise to the best advantage and brings out the colors in a way that rivals sunlight. The best light at the least cost.—Lebanon Gas and Fuel Co., Lebanon, Pa.

Cook with gas. The cleanest, handiest, cheapest fuel. Don't be a slave to your old kitchen stove when you can be a master of a gas range. Cooking with gas is the modern way of living—it saves money, time, worry and work. Get a gas range. Come in and let's talk it over.—Fresno Gas Company, Fresno.

Modern gas range. Coal and wood stoves have become obsolete on account of the drudgery, unnecessary heat and dirt connected with them. Gasoline and oil stoves are dangerous and objectionable by reason of the nasty odor emanating from them. Try the new way—the gas way—it will prove satisfactory to you. All fuel gas appliances on exhibition at our salesrooms.—Montgomery Light & Water Power Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Gas is a commodity, however good, that may appear so poor by reason of its application through improper or useless appliances that criticism may properly be made if those furnishing it fail to respond to appeals made at their office to remedy existing local trouble.—Gas Department, Trenton, N. J.

Ironing by the simple way and in what hundreds of housewives can testify is the best way they have ever tried—is by using the electric flat-iron. Not all the houses in the city are fortunate enough to be equipped with electricity, and the occupant of those that are should enjoy all the advantages that electricity affords. One of the greatest of these is the use of the electric flat-iron. This invention makes possible the complete abandonment of the kitchen range as a means of heating flat-irons; you can use the electric flat-iron in any room in the house by simply turning on the electric current. The electric coffee percolator, price $6, and the electric chafing dish, same price, also work on the same plan; you need only "press the button," and electricity does the work. Telephone us, and a demonstrator will call and tell you all about them. Our phone number is 1148.—Hartford Electric Light Co., Hartford, Conn.

Abraham Lincoln read by torch-light, studied law by the fireside in a log cabin, but that was half a century ago; times have changed, and to-day we have the electric light, available for all who desire it. At present rates everybody should be using electricity; all other methods of lighting must inevitably yield to the matchless light. It is only a question of time when every householder will use it, and every tenant will demand that his house be wired.—The Hartford Electric Light Co., Hartford.

It burns but three cubic feet of gas per hour at a cost of only a little bit over one-third of a cent and gives a light of from 60 to 130 candle power, according to the style of glassware used. The light is soft and well diffused. For the same expenditure it gives from three to six times as much light as an oil lamp. It is just the thing for window lighting and may be used in the decks of show windows. We sell special fixtures for this lamp with which artistic lighting effects may be obtained. It may also be attached to all regular fixtures.—Mohawk Gas Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Does your gas burner resemble this? If so, don't complain of the quality of the gas and criticise the company, but leave your name and address at the office and we will send a representative to put on new burners without charge. If you haven't time to call, write or 'phone.—Gas Department Public Service, Camden, N. J.

You can do everything in cooking that you want to do with a good gas range quicker, better and with less anxiety than you can with any other method—no question about it.—Sacramento Electric Gas & Railway Co., Sacramento.

Why do you put off having your house fitted for gas lighting? Just see how little it costs! We fit and fixture three rooms for $7.50, four rooms for $8.50, five rooms for $9.50 and additional rooms $1.50 each. A Simplex mantle burner is furnished for each room that gives a light of one hundred candle power at a cost of one-half cent per hour. It's cheaper than kerosene oil. Give us your order now before our busy season begins.—Ottumwa Gas, Light, Heat and Power Co., Ottumwa, Iowa.

Use electricity for light, it is the safest, most satisfactory. No smoking-up of the ceilings. No dirty housework entailed, as is the case when other illuminants are used, requiring the cleaning of globes and the filling of oil receptacles. No waiting for light. The illumination is instantaneous. No striking of matches with resultant danger of fire from flying heads. For power it is the safest, most satisfactory. Ready for instant use. No expense when the power is not actually in use. Cleaner than any other artificial power. No firing up before, or banking fires after the day's work. It's economy commends it to general use.—Binghamton Light, Heat & Power Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Electrical engineering and contracting. Don't pay double for your electric work. We are running on an independent basis. We do the best electric work in town. Our workmen are specialists in this line. See us for fans, motors, fixtures and wiring. Get your house wired. No danger when we install electric work. We repair anything in the electric line.—The Guarantee Electrical Supply Co., Oklahoma, O. T.

The wonder of the age—electricity—is within your reach. Electric wiring is a small expense but it should be done right. There are established rules and inspected materials for this work. Appliances of all kinds for your comfort and help. We guarantee our work against defect and you can find us when wanted at 304 Broadway, Duncan Block.—Fargo Electric Co., Fargo, N. D.

A light to swear by—not at—is a genuine good electric light. Electric illumination as we supply it possesses these good points: Brilliancy, safety, convenience, economy. Oh, yes, it's cheaper in the long run than gas, kerosene or candles. We said it—we can prove it.—Poling Electric Company, Ottumwa.

Ironing made easy. An electric flat iron saves many weary steps from the stove to the board. The electric iron heats quickly and stays hot. No running to and from a sizzling stove; no changing irons, no smoke; no hot kitchen or laundry. Cheap, clean, convenient. Put out on free trial.—Ottumwa Railway and Light Company, Ottumwa, Iowa.

The proper chafing dish for evening entertainments is heated by electricity. It is cleaner—better and safer than any other kind. There is no smoke or soot—no lighting of matches—no filling of alcohol or being out of it when needed. Your chafing dish is always ready for use. Electric light in the house enables you to enjoy this and many other electrical conveniences at slight expense, and there is no other form of illumination as efficient. Considering the amount of useful light per candle power and the savings to ceilings and furniture in freedom from smudge—no other form of illumination is as economical. The reduced rates may interest you.—Chicago Edison Company—Commonwealth Electric Company, Chicago, Ill.

Call a halt. Make them stop a minute and look in upon your wares; every one that passes your store at night might help your profits if your windows were better lighted. The gas arc lamp gives the most of the best light for the least money.—Detroit City Gas Co., Detroit.

Barr's Eureka Iron is the most economical electric iron manufactured. Heats more quickly. Being covered by a special asbestos plate, it retains the heat and prevents it from reaching the hand of the operator. All other electric irons are clumsy, unsightly affairs, but the Eureka is thoroughly finished, neat and attractive, and adapted to all kinds of work.—McCabe-Johnson Co., Spokane, Wash.

Comfort in cooking. It's just as easy to cook in comfort with a good gas range as it is to drag along with the old-time stove—make up your mind—the rest is easy—you won't go back to the stove.—Sacramento Electric Gas & Railway Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Electric fans. Our first hot weather is here and we are reminded that we must purchase an electric fan, for the summer is fast approaching. Our first shipment has not arrived, but we have a few desk fans now in stock. Place your order now for delivery at any time.—W. M. Perry Electric Co., Columbia, S. C.

Moving day. When you move, see that your new location has a gas range kitchen. You'll feel more at home in the new place and can have much comfort at little cost. A gas range kitchen is better for both tenant and owner. The tenant gets more for his money—the owner protects his property from the wear and tear of handling kindling and ashes. Saves valuable space otherwise required for supplies of fuel and kindling and saves keeping ashes. The tenant doesn't leave a full fuel bin in one place and find an empty one the next. Fuel supplied right to the gas range, and no more is used than needed. Saves waste, ready on demand day and night. Make your home happy by getting a gas range now.—Gas Co., St. Paul, Minn.

When you travel, do not fail to put into your bag the little electrical conveniences to which you are accustomed at home. They will do much toward relieving discomforts of the journey and safeguard you against illness and fatigue. They can be packed in very little space and weigh lightly. These portable devices include a tiny stove weighing less than three pounds and measuring as little as 3 1-4 by 5 inches. The cup holds 1 1-2 pints of beef tea, hot water, coffee, milk or gruel—warmed or cooked in a few minutes. The electric flat iron is another great convenience. As a safeguard against sudden illness or pain, the warming pad is indispensable. In sleeper, on shipboard or at hotels these devices are easily available by attaching the cord to any lamp socket, when needed.—The Illuminating Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

It's matchless. You need not the trouble, dirt and danger of matches when your home is electrically lighted. It is more convenient, less costly, and far safer than the gas and match idea. Gives a much more brilliant light, too, and a far more dependable one. Your actual match saving may be trifling, but the saving of time and trouble more than compensates for any difference in cost. Besides, you get far more light and better service in every way.—Milks Electric Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

The faith of men. To believe, to live and let live, never losing confidence in your brother man; e'en though many of your breed prove faithless, remember there are millions who have never done you—yet. To have faith inspires faith. Experience makes us believe in genuine gas coke, for it most certainly is a fuel of quality. The best and cheapest solid fuel known.—The Rome Gas, Electric Light & Power Co., Rome.

If the man who smokes three five-cent cigars per day and allows his wife to cook the meals on a coal stove will stop in our stove department and see our demonstration he will either stop smoking or his wife will get her gas range. But he may still smoke and his wife may have her gas range.—Gas Co., Wilmington, Del.

Without light we could not see. So without light people could not see wares displayed in the windows of a business house. Electric lights make people see both the business house and what is shown in its windows, consequently more business, more profits. That makes them advertising of the highest class—the kind that sells. Let us tell you more about light fixtures.—Fargo Electric Co., Fargo, N. D.

In buying a gas range there is something else to consider besides the cost of the range. First, the gas it will save you; second, the money it saves you by not getting out of repair, also the time saved by its use and the satisfaction of having a range that you can depend on at all times.—W. R. Walker, Kansas City, Mo.

Gas light has a clear quality that illumines every object which comes within its logical radiation. It shows up all kinds of merchandise to the best advantage and brings out the colors in a way that rivals sunlight. The best light at the least cost.—Lebanon Gas and Fuel Co., Lebanon, Pa.

Buzz the buzzers. We can put up call buzzers or bells in your office, connect your dinner table with the kitchen, place electric lighters on your gas burners, or do any electric work. Glad to tell you the cost. Have it done soon.—Fargo Electric Co., Fargo, N. D.

A breezy time at home. We still offer a fan free to anyone presenting a fan of another make equal to ours in speed and workmanship. Our fans are all of superior grade. A poor fan is worse than no fan at all.—Electric Lighting Co., Mobile, Ala.

The right kind. It's economy to have the right kind of burners in your home. The No. 10 shade light for reading, for dining-room and kitchen. The home light for halls, bathroom and cellar. Let us show them to you in your home. We'll adjust your burners and clean them free while we are there.—Detroit City Gas Co., Detroit, Mich.

It is a perplexing problem in the spring of the year to obtain enough heat from the furnace fire without getting too much. Gas heat economically overcomes this difficulty—ten or fifteen minutes' burning takes off the chill—they're portable, too.—Gas Department, Trenton, N. J.

New method gas ranges for natural gas. Will reduce your gas bills twenty-five per cent. Will not rust or burn out. Will bake the same on all parts of the oven bottom. Will broil or toast evenly without burning. Will not have any explosions.—McElhone & Moloney, Lexington, Ky.

A gas range to cook with and gas mantle burners to light with are most desirable for a well appointed home. Hundreds of Ottumwa housewives enjoy the blessings of the use of gas. Why not you? It's cheaper than gasoline to cook with, cheaper than kerosene to light with, and at your service any time, day or night. Ranges connected free.—Ottumwa Gas Light, Heat & Power Co., Ottumwa, Iowa.

A brilliant light can best be given by nature's own force—electricity. The light is purer, steadier, more satisfactory in every way. Everything considered, it is much more satisfactory than gas and not any costlier. Let us figure with you for the installation of a little plant for you upon your own premises.—Milks Electric Co., Binghamton.

One oscillating electric fan accomplishes more than four of the stationary kind. By turning from side to side on the base all parts of the room receive equal treatment and the objection of a strong draft in one direction is overcome.—Simmons Hardware Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Cooling breezes for sweet summer time are easily procurable. Let us install for you an electric fan. Doesn't cost so much and is a welcome factor in producing comfort. We have all styles and will gladly call on you and answer all questions.—Peoria Electric Co., Peoria, Ill.

The possibilities of electricity in the home. A practical demonstration Monday on the third floor. Progress takes another step forward in this splendid display of electric appliances—of special and particular utility in the home. It's a display which every up-to-date housekeeper should not miss seeing, as it portends a new order of things in the household—a lightening of labor, and home comforts greatly increased. Each of these inventions is of present practical utility and cost a mere nothing to run. All are simplicity itself to operate. In the display are.—T. Eaton Company, Winnipeg, Can.

Saves trouble. Well worth while to save trouble in the daily work of the house. There's a way to save much work and worry, and yet get better results at less cost. That's the gas range way. When you use a gas range for cooking you are sure that results will be right, because there's perfect regulation of flame at the valve, and no fires to keep up. Saves worry about right results, and saves the work of handling kindling, ashes and fuel. Just a match, then turn a valve to start your fire in a gas range. A turn of the valve puts out the flame, and stops the expense, the instant you're through. A gas range kitchen is quickly cleaned and easily kept so. Saves trouble of former methods of cooking, and saves time and temper as well. New process "visible" gas range shown at salesroom, Sixth and Jackson.—Gas Company, St. Paul.

Do your ironing with an electric iron. There's no need to make a big fire in the range on a hot day, just to heat one little sadiron. An electric iron cuts out all that trouble and discomfort. Simply attach the cord to the light socket, turn the switch, and in about five minutes the iron is ready—hot as long as you need it. Cost? Only a fraction over 3c. an hour.—T. Eaton & Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Demonstration of Garland gas ranges. To-morrow and all week an expert will show you how well you can cook with a Garland gas range. Delicious cakes will be mixed and baked while you wait. No fuss. No waiting for the oven to get hot. No handling of coal. No emptying of ashes or soot—no heat wasted. Just put in the food and light the gas. There's only one trouble—the Garland doesn't use enough gas to suit some people (you can guess who!) so it isn't popular in that quarter. But we can show you that it's the finest and most economical gas range made. Try a piece of cake to-morrow, with our compliments.—Stone, Fisher Co., Tacoma, Wash.

EMBROIDERY

If not, you are missing an exceptional opportunity. The assortment is more extensive, and of more pretty patterns than we have ever been able to show before. Hundreds of customers have taken advantage of these exceptional offers. There are still thousands of yards to select from. All priced at a saving that's exceptional.—Hale's, Sacramento.

Hundreds of pieces of new edgings and inserting are now shown for your approval and inspection. Many fresh from St. Gall—that great embroidery manufacturing center of the world—others bought direct from the largest importers at the lowest margin of profit, which only our modern methods of buying and selling can compass.—Barney's, Schenectady, N. Y.

Our experience of many years in buying and selling embroideries impress us with these facts. The best time to buy fine choice novelty goods is very early, for only during the first of the season can you get the true novelties. The importers only bring them out in small quantities and they cannot be duplicated later. The woman who waits until warm weather has actually arrived, to purchase exclusive designs in fine match sets for summer dresses or underwear is making a grave mistake. The best choice is right now while our stock is fresh and brilliant. Our embroidery department was never so complete as it is at this time—the freshest and most charming embroideries in French robes, or in match sets, all-overs, garnitures and medallions with fabrics to make up into robes. A clever woman can use these materials by the yard and fashion them into original and beautiful garments. We will not describe these goods—we want you to see them and you may be sure that in buying exclusive novelties here you secure the creme de la creme of the market.—M. Rich & Bros. Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Our second large import order of fine embroideries has arrived and is now on sale, making with our earlier deliveries, probably the largest and most varied and complete collection of this beautiful and useful merchandise yet shown in this State. The stock comprises the choicest styles and designs from four of the largest manufacturers of fine embroideries in Switzerland and they are all consigned to us for Hartford. Here are hundreds of pieces embracing everything that is desirable in the embroidery line on Swiss, nainsook, cambric, and batiste, in all widths and in great variety of prices, from the lowest price for goods of real merit up to the very finest made. We call attention to some of the details.—Sage-Allen & Co., Hartford, Conn.

We take a certain pleasure beyond the ordinary just now in advertising our many art needlework specialties.—The May Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

These new embroideries are well worthy of a special note. Particularly beautiful is our large range of flowering in many of the newest designs.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

The calendar doesn't wait for importers. That's why this great bit of luck came to us—the importer of these fine embroidery beadings sold them 'way below their value, because they came late.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

A timely suggestion! Now is the time when embroidery bargains should be taken advantage of.—Letendre, Fils & Co., Montreal, Can.

Embroidery department. Attention is invited to our extremely large and beautiful collection of novelties and staple designs, on cambric, nainsook, Swiss, batiste, consisting principally of insertions, edgings, flouncings and allovers to match, introducing many new and attractive patterns in combination with lace and drawn work; also very dainty and elaborate 18, 27 and 45-inch skirtings.—Lord & Taylor, New York.

New embroideries way under price. Just the styles you want—and only about half price to pay for them. Isn't that great, good news?—The Goldenberg Store, Washington, D. C.

Clear-up of embroideries. A tubbing will make them fresh as new, but because they are slightly soiled, prices to-morrow will be 2c to 49c for 5c to $1.50 values.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Embroideries. "Exquisite," you'll say. And you'll be right. Never have needles done prettier work. There's a charm of some sort in every pattern, which you will find as you continue the self-assigned task of admiration.—Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

An exhibition of Eastern embroideries. One of the little shops in Paris is spending its whole time catering to a new fad in the furnishing of houses. It sends wall hangings, pillow covers, curtains, table covers, etc., down to Bosnia, Hungary and the Croats, and has them embroidered in the odd, colorful designs for which these people are famous. When our linen man heard of this he started out for these countries himself and collected here and there the things you are to see this morning. Most of them are modern; were made in peasants' cottages. But a few—like the old bedspreads and head handkerchiefs—are from fifty to a hundred years old, and you would have hard work to duplicate them here or abroad.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Care for these embroideries? Buy them at half and less. But because price is half and less than half what is usually asked, you are not to imagine the embroideries are less desirable. Far from it, unless all embroideries of this season's creation, as these are, belong to that class.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Don't judge these embroideries by the price, for they're very much better than you could reasonably expect to buy at 15 cents. In fact, they'd be mighty good value at a quarter. Line includes flouncings up to 8 and 10 inches wide, dainty rufflings, beadings and insertions made on fine cambric, nainsook and Swiss in a great variety of very attractive designs—English eyelet, "blind" and open work effects. Weights and patterns appropriate for trimming waists, dresses, underwear and children's clothes—all new, fresh and clean.—Keely Co., Winnipeg, Can.

It's the sort of embroidery that women who like dainty needlework desire. The fine cambric and nainsook edgings and insertions, made by the peasant girls of St. Gall in Switzerland. Finer and more delicate than the embroideries turned out by machines in America. The delicate patterns and tracings are all new. The widths run from 4 to 8 inches. The values run up to 25c a yard. Through the favor of an importer we got these for a special sale purpose. We told him we wanted to start the embroidery selling with a rush. That we wanted our initial sale to be a good one, and he helped us. The more you see of these embroideries the more eager you will be to own some.—Redlick's, Fresno, Cal.

Women who seek the new will view these embroideries with admiration, for their equal in distinctive exquisiteness has not been seen for many a season; 45-inch Swiss embroidery with rows of flouncings, old English eyelet, blind embroidery, galloons and flouncings; batiste embroidery, self and colored; corset cover embroidery are a few among the many new.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

This splendid collection of white daintiness is one of distinguishing merit and includes styles to suit every fancy. Newest styles and combinations in Swiss, nainsook, cambric, and linen sets. Baby sets, allovers, flouncings, galloons, bands and motifs, in blind, Anglaise and heavy raised work novelty effects. Wide bands of linen etamine, heavily embroidered for trimming of white gowns. Embroidered bands and galloons, in batiste, Swiss and nainsook in a variety of widths and patterns.—Jerome E. Sage, Hartford, Conn.

We again call attention to the French hand made embroidery and high grade machine work on fine batiste and etamine effects in linen in straight and irregular bands from 3 inches to 8 inches wide. They are in medium and heavy effects in antique and eyelet patterns in great variety, showing the Anglaise and Boulanais effects, all styles confined to us for this city. They are new and very stylish for white linen and other white dresses. This collection contains some of the richest allovers ever made, also motifs and medallions to match the trimmings.—Sage-Allen & Co., Hartford.

Entirely new, and the most stunning effect on scrim pillows you ever saw. Embroideries in blue and white Stella Floss and finished with blue and white cords to match. Very easy to do, and so inexpensive. Come in and see some finished pieces we have.—Pike's, Dayton.

A recent transaction enables us to sell embroideries and laces at prices that are half less than regular prices. Great lot of pretty kinds that are wanted for beautifying new dresses. All fresh and new. Never have needles done prettier work. There's a charm of some sort in every pattern, which you'll find as you continue the self-assigned task of admiration.—Belk Bros., Charlotte, N. C.

Prices have again been put out of consideration, by the imperative necessity of getting this unwieldy stock down to inventory limits—a vast number of yards must be sold this last week, and the knowing buyers will be quick to take advantage of these prices.—Bowland, Morehouse & Martens Co., Columbus.

Another big time in the embroidery section to-morrow! Wonderful how the sales have been going ahead these supposedly dull days. "It's almost like holiday shopping" a lady remarked the other day. No half-way measure here. Quick step prices are the rule.—The Haycock and Dudgeon Store, Montreal.

The same importer whose sample stock made our greatest selling day last season has accepted our offer again. This time it's 10,000 yards of embroideries at less than cost—an offer that will attract thousands of shoppers to our embroidery counters—you'll want to buy freely when you see the splendid assortment.—Kemp & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

Atlanta's shrewd shoppers will rave over these lovely embroideries direct from the big embroidery makers in the land of the Alps, fresh from the hands of the cleverest needle-women on the globe.—J. M. High Co., Atlanta, Ga.

The volume of our dealings with the world's greatest embroidery manufacturers gives us exceptional advantages for securing sample strips of advance styles—these are offered far below actual value. A great lot of especially fine lace trial strips, net top laces, Venise applique bands, medallions and other laces, yard, 25c, 50c, 75c, 95c, $1.50. Point de Paris and Normandy, Torchon laces and insertions. Laces and insertions, worth 10c to 15c yard, 5c; sample pieces, values 8c and 10c yard, 5c.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

The first embroidery sale of the season. And if you miss it you'll not catch up on embroidery economy in twelve months, for there are to be great things doing in embroidery this spring.—Chamberlain-Johnson-Du Bose Co., Atlanta.

A sharp purchase of sample embroideries go to you at a price that is just like finding.—The Anderson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Embroideries. Remnants at half price.—Mill remnants from St. Gall, 2 to 5 yard lengths, perfect goods, in this season's best patterns, including edgings from 1 inch to flouncings 10 and 12 inches wide—all marked at less than half regular price.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago.

Extraordinary sale of embroideries begins to-morrow morning in our lace and embroidery section. The embroideries offered are the season's newest designs and afford a saving of one-third and more on every yard.—The May Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Embroidery sale.—We shall offer you Thursday another embroidery bargain that will be fully equal to any of those notable ones we have given you earlier in the season.—Boston Store, Milwaukee.

The new embroideries are ready, and comprise the daintiest originations in the world.—Sage-Allen & Co., Hartford.

We placed our order for the goods many months ago—for we knew the manufacturers would be in better shape to take care of the order. Our instructions were very explicit, quality and style must be paramount or the goods would not be accepted. The embroideries were to be made in designs that would be a credit to a concern of our caliber—that new designs exclusive to Youngstown were to be made, and that the highest quality was to be the only rule for them to go by. The embroideries were delivered to us, and we were more than satisfied with the handsomeness and quality of them. Our instructions were carried out to the letter. The manufacturers are aware of our peculiarities. They know that embroideries for us must be finished in the best possible manner or we won't accept them. It is a fact worthy of note that we have never had occasion to return embroideries on account of lack of attention to our orders.

Buyers of embroideries at McKelvey's are assured of exclusiveness in designs and good quality—the two most important points of good embroidery.—McKelvey's, Youngstown, Ohio.

Beautiful and stylish embroideries all at half and less. An immense showing of high class Swiss and nainsook embroideries is included in this, our seventh annual May embroidery sale. For six years our May sale has been the largest event in the embroidery business in this community, continually increasing in importance until it has grown to immense proportions. This year's showing contains more and better values than ever. The advantage of buying now is not alone in the price, for the variety and assortment is double or triple that shown at other times, and, inasmuch as these are nearly all matched sets, one can select the different widths of each pattern, as best suits their needs. Increased space has been taken and extra salespeople engaged, so that hurrying and crowding will be reduced to a minimum.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

A fine new lot of about seven thousand yards, of Swiss muslin embroideries—not remnants, but in fresh, new, full pieces; and many are in matching sets, two widths of insertions and three widths of edgings. The patterns are in choice designs.—Wanamaker, New York.

Elegant line embroideries.—Our line of embroideries never before so full of beauty as this season—everything from the narrowest baby beadings to the wide 45-inch flouncings, matched sets in cambric, nainsook and Swiss cloths. Then the dainty flouncings, tucked and lace insertions in both 27-inch and 45-inch for infants' and children's dresses. Also the fine tucked organdies, with dainty lace insertions running through. If you have any embroidery wants to attend to, come in and let us fill them—we can.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Whew! whew! this would stir up the most quiet disposition. A lot of 2000 yards of spic and span new embroideries just came in, wide and narrow ones with insertions to match, butterfly wheel, eyelet, blind and drawn work patterns—indeed, it is the prettiest, best lot of embroideries we ever saw, great wide ones for skirts, narrow ones for underwear, and such pretty insertions. They ought to sell at 18c, but for a great hurrah we place them on sale at 8 o'clock Saturday morning, bargain table, center aisle, your choice of any for 10c a yard. They will spin out lively, sure as you live—they're astonishing values.—The Elder & Johnston Co., Dayton.

Just now when you are maturing your plans for early spring sewing we are going to help you out with the greatest reduction sale of embroideries which we have had this season. They are all new, fresh, crisp goods, just received direct from the importer, bought for spot cash at 25c on the dollar. This is by no means a sale of cheap embroideries—but good embroideries will be sold cheap to-morrow. See show window.—J. R. Lane Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Elegant laces and embroideries. The handsomest conceits from the deft hands of artistic workers. Priced as we price everything else. Exceptional bargains.—S. Kann, Son & Co., Washington, D. C.

The new embroideries from St. Gall, of course, for that's the home of all beautiful embroideries. And never in our remembrance has she sent more beautiful or more unusual things. Today a word about the sets—insertions and different widths of edgings—which will be used for summer gowns and trousseau.—Connolly & Wallace, Scranton, Pa.

Our great annual sale of Hamburg edgings and insertions. An annual event looked forward to by thousands of Utica's best posted buyers. We will show at this sale without question the biggest bargains and the finest assortment of fine Nainsook, Swiss and cambric edgings and insertions ever offered in Central New York. Get here early for the best.—J. B. Wells, Son & Co., Utica.

Thousands of yards of new, daintily colored embroideries at less than one-third value. Think of buying the prettiest and newest embroideries in the most delicate colors at the rate of three yards for the price of one! That is what can be done here to-day. The embroideries are new—as well as the season—you've never seen them before, and there's nothing wrong with a single piece in the great line. We simply ran across an importer who was greatly overstocked and he cut his price down to one-third. You'll be astonished when you get here. Great tables full of these beautiful goods will be offered for less than the very cheapest of plain trimmings cost to produce. The variety is broad, qualities are of the highest, styles are bewitching and patterns are matched. Could the conditions be better?—Harris-Emery Co., Des Moines, Iowa.

Embroideries, pay less. Quite natural to follow a talk on dress cottons with some news of embroideries—and this embroidery news is very special, the reduced prices following will tell you why. Yesterday's sale of embroideries, in which they waltzed out as never before is to be rivaled to-morrow by another and still greater offer.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Lovely new embroideries. Exactly these fine choice edges on nice cloths that appeal to women who desire quality.—Ruggles & Ellison, New Bedford.

Tons of newest embroideries at lowest prices ever known. Latest creations from the skilled designers and expert manufacturers of Switzerland in almost unlimited quantity. The biggest showing of the beautiful products of modern ingenuity in the line of embroideries ever witnessed anywhere. Bought by us at less than the actual cost to land in this country. Sales of the past (regardless of conditions) never approached the value giving of this opportunity—we do not anticipate its equal—prices 1c. yard up.—Newman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

An Exquisite Display of Waite Embroideries.—How cool and fresh and lovely they are you can see in a window now—perhaps the finest showing of white embroideries ever made in this vicinage. And if you want to examine them more closely, a still more beautiful display is ready now in the Art Needlework Store on the second floor.—Hearn, N. Y.

Twenty-seven Thousand Yards of New Embroideries at Half Price and Less.—When many are beginning their home sewing, when new garments are being planned for early spring and summer, along comes this chance to save half or more on embroideries first shown this season. Never have you had quite such an opportunity since embroideries have been sold at this store, or in Atlanta—not at this time, when you want them most.—Davidson-Paxton-Stokes Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Embroideries in Matched Sets.—Several brides-to-be selected trousseau sets from this superb line of highest class embroidery. Novelties and others are trying to decide among the many exquisite things. Never was so superb a collection offered Atlanta buyers—never have Atlanta women bought so liberally. The appreciation shown has proven that we were right in believing that an embroidery stock worthy of New York is not too pretentious for Atlanta. New things are constantly being shown—lovely underwear sets in all white, new dress trimmings in white and colors, and dainty, beautiful babies' trousseau sets.—Keely's, Atlanta, Ga.

You know Swisses are always in style—so desirable, so dainty—and the embroidered ones make up with so little trimming. Remember that these Swisses are full 44 inches wide. We do not want to compare them with the ordinary domestic goods—they are imported from St. Gall, the home of fine embroidered Swisses; bought them from an overstocked manufacturer at a sensational sacrifice. Every imaginable color and design—dots, spots, lace effects, scroll effects, vines, flowers, buds, blossoms and fruit are embroidered in handsome contrasting colors—white, pink, light blue, tan, champagne, oxblood, cream, lavender and black combinations.—Simpson-Crawford Co. New York.

There is no color to help out the decorative effect of these beautiful pieces. They must depend solely on the exquisiteness of the needlework. And never before has the art of Irish, French, German, American and Japanese needleworker had a finer exemplification.—Frederick Loeser & Co.

Fine Allover Embroideries.—Lots of these handsome allover embroideries for yokes, fronts and entire waists. The present group is some of the best work turned out at St. Gall, Switzerland, and comprises twenty-seven fine patterns, all 22 inches wide. They are such as would sell—have sold, in fact—in our own stock at $1.65 to $2 a yard. To-day—and not much longer than to-day—they are 90 cents a yard.—Wanamaker, N. Y.

Thousands of yards of the most delightful new embroideries; two heaping center counters and more in reserve; really the choicest of some of the very fine embroideries, among the handsomest shown. And it is these that are now obtainable at this ridiculously low price, 17c yard. The assortment is superb. A better variety we have never offered at any price. There are many beautiful matching sets among them, edges, insertions and beadings, in various desirable widths and a great range of patterns. No less pleasing, for their purpose, the broken sets, extensive in variety and just as attractive as they were when in sets, including scores of rich effects in soft nainsook, Swiss and chiffon. Corset cover embroideries are also represented. Wide and handsome, in fine cambric, with dainty beadings at the top for ribbons. All the embroideries are fresh and in perfect condition. Their downfall in price has come for reasons other than quality. Be that as it may, they are here for you now at a fractional part of real value. Choose freely—get all you need of them. As low a price for such embroideries will not be known probably for seasons to come.—Davidson-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta.

Through a lucky purchase of the Dry Goods Union of New York City (of which we are members), we place on sale Monday morning one of the finest and largest lots of embroideries ever brought to this country. Eight special bargain counters, scattered through the Washington and Winter Street sections, on street floor, will display this most remarkable collection.—Gilchrist Co., Boston, Mass.

To-morrow is embroidery day again. And you will profit by the doings from a quarter to a half. Nainsooks, Swisses and cambrics, allover, edgings, insertions, rufflings and flouncings. Lots of patterns in all widths. The prices and qualities will mark the day as a red letter one in embroidery selling.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Embroidery bargains. Thrifty buyers who like to have a little surplus of embroidery at hand, have now an opportunity of saving considerable money. We've collected some pretty embroideries, odd lots and the ends of the season's patterns. Cut in half to-day. Fine insertions; all widths likely to be needed, and splendid variety.—Yard's, Trenton.

Narrow embroideries at sacrifice prices. Our narrow embroidery stock is an elegant one, also a big one; in fact, too big, we must reduce it before inventory and are compelled to sell embroideries even at sacrifice prices and will place the entire line on sale tomorrow at exactly half price. The assortment consists of insertions, edges, flouncings, beadings and appliques of the finest qualities of cambric, nainsook, swiss and English batiste. This includes the dainty baby patterns to the most elaborate widths for lingerie use; in widths from three inches up.—Whitehouse Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

A sale of embroideries. Wide ruffings, generous width edgings and insertions. Nainsooks, swisses and cambrics. Plenty of styles and best of styles. Best of needlework, too; if you find an imperfectly embroidered inch of goods in the thousands of yards ready of these embroideries, we will thank you for returning it. And we call your attention particularly to the edges, how splendidly they're made; you couldn't determine the quality of an embroidery more quickly than by noting its edge, that tells the story. There are kinds of embroideries among these fit for the nicest uses that you want to put embroideries to.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Such beautiful embroideries as these—newest styles and best qualities intended for this season's demand—but at prices lower by a third to a half than usual—are bound to bring out great throngs of buyers. What woman who is planning spring sewing can resist such wonderful values as are presented in this sale? Big selling has been going on steadily all day—but so vast is the stock and so varied the assortment that a whole week of such buying would have little effect on the collection of styles. The purchase embraces embroideries of all sorts and for every purpose. Included are edges, insertions, bandings, flouncings, demi-flouncings, corset cover embroideries, all-overs and medallions. No description of the lovely designs can do them justice.—Goldenberg's, Washington, D. C.

One potent reason for buying these trimmings of us is the fact that we have our own factory in St. Gall making the prettiest of embroideries, coming to you direct from the looms—you see then by trading with us you are buying from the makers.—Brown, Thompson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

By far the finest of years. The white event takes on new importance to-day.

We have added to the showing 25,000 yards of fine embroideries, all of our own importation. This is the largest showing of exclusive styles in embroideries that the people of Tacoma have ever seen. Best of all, these were bought at the old prices and have escaped the big advance. We pass them on to you at the old figures.—The Stone-Fisher Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Embroideries at half. Uncommonly good embroideries on finest nainsook and Swiss, in widths from one to six inches, exclusive of cloth, galloons, insertions, edgings in baby Irish effects, insertion combinations are on sale at a shameful price-cut, just to get them out of the store before stock-taking. Choose from embroideries marked at all prices between 35 cents and $3.00, at half price.—Coulter Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles.

If you enjoy looking at beautiful art embroideries, most of them in complete sets, hurry down to Reed's and look in the large north window. The finest and largest line we've ever shown. And we save you about 20 per cent. on every piece by buying before the big advance.—Lantz, Mansfield, Ohio.

Embroideries of surpassing value. In no class of merchandise is the advantage of this store's connections more apparent than it is in embroideries. Going to the makers of Switzerland we give commissions for exactly what is wanted. We choose our patterns from all patterns, for St. Gall practically makes the embroideries of the world. We designate just such combinations as experience has taught us best meet your needs. This pattern is selected for that cloth, that design for embroidering some other material. It is the difference between the ready-made and the made-to-order. And the saving! Any one who has given the least attention to the embroidery values supplied by this store appreciate this fact. Embroideries cannot be bought in this country or through importers to match these which we bring direct to you from the Swiss makers.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

Sale line embroideries. Wednesday, 9 A.M., we place on sale the finest lot of embroideries we have ever offered. All match sets, Swiss, nainsook and fine cambric; mostly hand loom goods; the very best embroideries made. All perfect, including medium and wide edges, insertion, baby sets and flouncing. There are embroideries in this lot worth from 35c. to $2.00 a yard.—Miller-Swartz Co., Trenton, N. J.

Special lines to the front every day. Not a day but what sees a change in the exhibit of new embroideries. For Monday's selling we will show an exceptionally fine lot of cambric edgings and insertions, various widths and patterns, fine and heavy qualities.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

The largest and most handsome collection of fine laces and embroideries ever shown in Fargo. Exquisite novelties in bands, motifs, medallions, shirt-waist fronts, allover, etc.; new laces in Point Venise, Point-de-gaze, St. Gall Princess, Net Tops; also Cluny Batiste. New all-over nets in cream, white and black.—A. L. Moody, Fargo, N. D.

This annual sale of charming lace and embroidery trial strips is important, not alone in the manifest savings, although that amounts to half or more than half of regular costs, but also in the exceptional range of choice and the very high quality of the fabrics. These features render this selling event of the greatest moment to every woman who appreciates a real bargain, especially as it is quite possible that these will be the last lots of these excellent trial strips obtainable this year.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Our leader, Swiss and nainsook embroidery. This is indeed a beautiful line, in widths varying from 10 to 17 inches. An exquisite line of patterns, introducing new and clever ideas in embroidery. The designs extend three to five inches deep, and are worked on the finest quality of Swiss and nainsook. You have a selection from dozens of different patterns, which are suitable for various purposes. Specially adapted for ladies' and children's underwear. Originally these pieces were worth 75c and 85c a yard.—Wasserman-Gattmann Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Sensational January white sale prices. Thousands and thousands of yards have been bought for this tremendous white goods sale—never before in the dry goods history of Spokane have such beautiful embroideries as these been offered at such astounding price reductions.—White House Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

Always a little ahead. Doing things beyond the reach of others is our record, that will be strengthened by this remarkable embroidery event to-morrow. All new goods in this lot, direct from the embroidery centers of the world. We go direct to headquarters. Were we to buy through the middlemen, our business would be on the same plan as those surrounding. We save you these middle profits. Extra values are put in the goods. No such embroidery stock in town as ours. All who have seen it can testify to this.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

January sale of embroideries. A brilliant event presenting stirring values. To-morrow morning we commence our annual January embroidery sale. Dame fortune has decreed another big season of white, this means a lavish use of embroideries. There's nothing so pretty and durable for trimming white garments. You'll save from one-fourth to one-third in buying now, for we placed our import orders last spring and summer. In doing this we were able to get them at the old prices. This saving (and its no small item) we pass right over to you. This early buying enabled us to get the most desirable patterns obtainable. This will be the grandest display Pueblo ever had. In words we cannot depict the beauty of these bright, new, crispy white embroideries. You'll find this department overflowing with enthusiasm. You will find a very great assortment of staples, and also the new patterns and designs, such as baby Irish Cluny effects, blind embroideries, French revers, hemstitched effects, English eyelet patterns, etc., in cambric, Swiss nainsook and batiste edges, insertion, bands, flouncing, demi-flouncing, corset cover widths, allover, and medallions in single pieces and in sets of patterns to match in the different widths. Special attention paid to the matched sets of the little baby designs. To sum up you will find about everything in embroideries from the modest little cambric edge at 2c. per yard up to the lovely Swiss allover at $5.00.—The Crews-Beggs Co., Pueblo.

Our embroidered robes of sheer and beautiful fabrics—chiffon, mull and batiste—are wonderfully attractive. The great elaboration in the hand work embroidery designs show remarkable originality of treatment. Many of them are worked out entirely in English eyelet patterns—others show heavy padded hand-work patterns which in combination with sheer materials are most effective.—M. Rich & Bros. Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Embroidered lawn and linen robes—the overstock of two of the largest makers in Europe—who only produce the finest grades of goods. We bought them for a mere song. It is without question the greatest robe value we have ever heard of. Ready to-morrow for this anniversary week.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

Our art department. Just received another beautiful assortment of linens for Biedermeier Roman cut work; eyelet, fillet, shadow and solid embroidery work. We carry the best embroidery silk made at 4 cents a skein or 45 cents a dozen; in fact, all the flosses required to work the novelties of the day. Our pillow cords and tassels and ruffings can't be beat anywhere as to variety of colors, quality and low prices. Now is the time to select your wood pieces for the pyrographic work for the holidays. Special announcement. We carry a complete line of the best bass wood novelties to be had and demonstrate the burning every afternoon until after Christmas.—The Wonder, Spokane, Wash.

Another great sale of fine embroideries at only a fraction of their real worth. Our last sale was a record maker, and these are equally as good. Fine flounce embroideries and bands; lots of matched sets; dainty new eyelet, scroll, open and embossed designs; wide margin; well wrought designs and edges; excellent values.—The Fifth Street Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

A great lot of beautiful fronts for shirt-waists will be offered at a very low price. They are made of Swiss embroidery and valenciennes lace—all full width and no other material is necessary for the front of the waist. There'll be something like 200 different styles in the showing. Some are worth $1, some $1.25 and some $1.50. These are something new. They were made expressly for Harris-Emery's and you'll not see anything like them anywhere else.—The Harris-Emery Co., Des Moines, Ia.

Pleasant news for the women who follow the doings of this store. We were told some weeks ago by our New York office that they were negotiating for the purchase of a large quantity of embroideries, and we told the buyer the price must be very low and the quality very good if we got them, because we had a liberal supply of embroidery on hand. We were told in reply that if we didn't consider these embroideries the best for the price we ever saw, to return them at the importer's expense. The moment we opened up the packages we saw we had a royally good bargain. There were embroideries that could not be bought anywhere at any time under one dollar a yard, and there were nearly 3,000 yards of this particular kind. There were others worth 50c., 60c. and 75c. a yard, making in all some 5,000 yards. There were plenty of insertions to match. The edgings are in Swiss, cambric and nainsook, very fine and sheer in weave and the designs superior to any we have ever shown. High-grade embroideries on sale Monday, choice, per yard, 29c.—Redlick's, Fresno, Cal.

The new 1907 embroideries, and the new laces, are sure to capture the affections of women. Many days among the embroideries in St. Gall and the laces in St. Gall and Plauen and in Calais have given us, for the coming spring, the most notable collection of these trimming stuffs ever brought to Springfield. And importing direct enables us to place these beautiful new goods in the hands of women at the most popular prices it is possible for any store to quote.—Kinnane's, Springfield, O.

We have such splendid embroidery at all times that we only have what we term "Big Embroidery Specials" at certain intervals. They are specials of the truest kind and represent values of the most astonishing sort. To-day's offers are of the certain interval nature. Don't fail to see the embroideries. They are extraordinarily fine.—Philadelphia Bargain Store, Trenton, N. J.

Cambric embroideries at 29c. the piece. Embroideries hold a legitimate place in this sale and for years it has been the custom of the Eaton buyers to make special preparation for this event. This year these preparations included a large quantity of mill ends of embroideries, bought at the mills. These our buyers had the good fortune to secure at next to nothing, and the January sale price is but very little more.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Special sale price on hand embroidered linen robes. We show to-morrow a collection of very handsome hand embroidered linen robes, which we purchased at a special price. Shades are pale blue, pale pink, Nile, mauve and natural, all exquisitely embroidered in white. The skirt is already to wear, with the necessary material for making up the waist. Nothing more dainty could be imagined for summer wear.—Jas. A. Ogilvy & Sons, Montreal, Can.

FANS

A sort of spruce picturesqueness, quaint and jaunty, governs fashions this season even in the smallest things. Small fans all of wood prove the point. Odd or conventional in shape, made of unvarnished light wood, with a ribbon holding the sticks together, and bright floral decorations painted in clear water-colors, they lend a touch of piquancy to the summer toilette. 50 cents each.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Wonderful how so much prettiness and daintiness can be sold for less than a dollar. They represent the surplus stock from one of the makers with whom we do a large business. He was anxious to turn the stock into cash, and here they are. White gauze fans with dainty decorations of paintings and spangles, some have lace edges and lace applique; others have plain top and medallion effects in spangles; all have carved bone sticks.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Fans. Our stock of fans imported expressly for the Madden-Graham combination has been received and we can say with all truthfulness it is by far the most beautiful line ever shown in the city. Fans for graduating presents are always acceptable. The time will soon be here for the occasion, which will necessarily cause you to ask yourself, what shall I give? We answer the same by saying, come see our line of fans. And the question will easily be solved. Each and every fan shows the result of an artist. Hand painted with carved ivory sticks. The dainty lace fans studded with spangles are beautiful and no two alike.—Madden's, Denison, Texas.

Dainty fans of every description, feather and spangle trimmed, silk and hand decorated. We have never offered a finer line and doubt if you have ever had an opportunity to see a finer fan display. Come and look while the assortment is complete.—J. N. Adam Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Palm leaf fans for cooling one's self. Sell them in dozen lots so that you can have a few handy in the different rooms of your home and on the veranda.—The Fair, Chicago, Ill.

Hand decorated fans—water colors or silk. Daintiest creations we have ever offered. Nothing finer can be found for graduation gifts or birthday presents. Despite the fact that these fans are of foreign manufacture and real works of art, we have made the price temptingly low. You will be delighted with their beauty.—Marshall Field Co., Chicago.

It's fan time now, better get one.

Keep cool, a fan helps considerably, and when you can get one at a low price why should you be without it?

We are showing a great assortment of fans; in white silk gauze, with beautifully carved ivory sticks; hand painted and lace trimmed; different prices.—May Co., Cleveland, O.

New paper fans prettier than ever. For one thing the colorings are softer—the new shades of Copenhagen blue, dull reds, browns and greens that the clever Jap artists have made into harmonies in the floral and figure printings and in the cut-out effects on sheer gauze. It would seem a pity to spoil a summer frock with the wrong color note when such dainty fans are to be had for a few cents. Black fans and effects in soft grays and white as well as colors from 10 cents to 98 cents.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fans for graduates and Anniversary Day. A fan is a dainty gift, and one that will be appreciated by the "sweet girl graduate." We do not know of a time when we have been able to offer such remarkable values as now. Dainty white silk and gauze fans, with lace applique, lace edge, pretty paintings and spangle effects, with carved bone sticks.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fans for graduation have come hurrying across from Paris.

Dainty little frivols of gauze, spangles and lace—the crowning touch to a white costume.

FEATHERS

It is a season of feathers. That no hat, no costume is complete without them is fashion's edict. Being thus prominent, their correct treatment and shape are of unusual importance. The bleaching and cleaning of plumes takes its place as one of the fine arts. Methot feathers are known wherever ostrich plumes are worn. In this establishment the celebrated and ultra-stylish Egyptian curl was invented.—H. Methot, New York.

And these Ostrich Feathers are rich and beautiful enough to make fine hats, too. The high-crowned hats seem to have come to stay the season out; and the most effective trimming for such hats is Ostrich Feathers. And these are unusually full, handsome, well-curled specimens.—Wanamaker, New York.

You know those long, graceful coques and Nagoirs feather plumes used so effectively for trimming ultra-fashionable hats—a trimming that's the correct vogue all the year around—of course you do—all correct followers of fashion do.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

Black ostrich flats $1.95. Opportunities like this don't come too often, and those who are on the lookout for good buying snaps will not want to miss this chance.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

Quills, breasts, long wings, "Mercury" wings and pompons appear as trimming, combined in brand-new ways with fetching scarfs of silk.

These are the genuine ostrich plumes, and fine ones too—large and bushy as shown on this hat. Unquestionably the biggest, best bargain in like millinery finery that it has been our privilege to share in many a day. See window display—then come in and examine them closely, they'll bear closest inspection.—The Big Store, Marion, Ind.

Getting the question of adequate supply settled we have been able to lessen the prices enough to be interesting. Such selling of Feather Boas as we have done this Winter has made several impossible things possible.—Wanamaker's, New York.

How does your hat look? Feathers half price. Is it a little dingy—the feathers slightly awry—a trifle dragged? Wouldn't a soft, trailing bit of plumage or a smooth, rich, imported breast make it not only last, but a positive pleasure, for the rest of the season? Well, to-morrow we will place on sale our entire stock of fancy feathers at half price. This is your chance. Fluffy ostrich pompons, drooping coque feathers—wings, soft sweeping groups of ostrich feathers; and these will be just half their marked prices, which run from $5 down to 25c. So feathers to-morrow will be all prices from $2.50 to, each 12 1-2c.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

$15,000 Purchase of Ostrich Plumes brings saving of a third to a half on finest goods. Beautiful African Plumes in every size and color bought from a leading New York importer at a tremendous sacrifice. We urge every woman to take advantage of this great sale—such occasions are very rare indeed both as to quantity for selection and wonderful economies. Sale begins Monday morning.—May Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

All Ostrich Feathers a quarter off. Here's one of the most important items in the sale. Our entire new line of fine ostrich plumes and tips in black, white and all colors goes on sale at exactly a quarter under our regular prices which are recognized as the lowest in Los Angeles.—Marvel Millinery, Los Angeles, Cal.

$2.25 Ostrich Plumes, special 95c. We have selected our beautiful showing of $3.50 and $3.98 South African fine curled Ostrich Plumes, will clear them out at 20% discount.—Gimbel Bros., Phila.

Magnificent collections of fashionable new feathers. With the advent of the uptown shop comes an innovation in the presentation of rich assortments of superb Ostrich Plumes in black and white—the choicest Feathers from the renowned Ostrich farms of South Africa and California—every plume a chef d'oeuvre, emphasizing with renewed force the Methot supremacy.

From the myriad of white feathers ladies may select their ideal plumes and have them dyed to match any costume or hat—a gratifying consummation impossible of attainment in any other shop in the world!—Feathers and Feather Boas, Methot, N. Y.

FEED

Hungry horses are poor and unsatisfactory workers. It pays to feed well and use good feed. Buy it from Simon & King and note the satisfactory smile on your horse's countenance.—Simon & King, Crowley, La.

Resolutions by the Barnyard Convention.

The horse and donkey said "that the corn, oats and hay from Agle's was the best ever," the cow said "their chop-feed, bran and middlings are rich and delicious," and the hog and sheep said "'tis all true, for we have tried it," and the rooster chipped in here and remarked "that they keep everything a live chicken wants down there. Why, they have wheat, rye, coarse meal, cracked corn, grits, beef-meal, bone-meal and the finest poultry foods."

It was Resolved, That the master be instructed to purchase his feed from Geo. Agle & Sons, Bloomington, Ill.

One poultry man says his hens have laid 50% more eggs during the past year than they did one year ago when he was not feeding our prepared Alfalfa cuttings regularly. We know from his experience and from tests we have made ourselves that no more perfect hen ration can be made. If you are interested in increased egg output you had better give this feed a trial. Low prices to tempt your orders.—Lathrop's, Rochester, N. Y.

You won't have colicky horses if you mix a little of our prepared horse food in with the daily rations. Contains conditioner in just the right proportion to do your horse good. Prepared by an expert veterinary who has made a long study of the effect of foods on horses. Come in and get a liberal free sample.—Baker's Feed Store, Buffalo, N. Y.

Particular Wheat Buyers! Here's your chance! I have some chicken wheat—got 250 sacks from Oregon—extra good—large, plump, clean, gold colored kernel. A pound goes nearly as far as 24 ounces of the common run.

It is a big bargain—not in the price, but in the quality.—Cutler, Eureka, Cal.

Mixing good feed for all domestic animals is a trick we have learned. Come to this store when your supply is low.—Hay Market Feed Store, Lowell, Mass.

Feed for poultry, horses and cows you will always find in this store. No other feed merchant in Binghamton has had as long experience as we have in feed mixing—we keep chickens and feed horses and cows ourselves—we know what they require to keep in good condition.—Matthews, Binghamton, N. Y.

Laying food for hens. Nothing better than our "Hen Mix." Sell it in 5, 10, and 25 lb. lots, and guarantee the quality. Hundreds of letters from poultrymen testify to its worth.—Star Feed & Grain Co., El Paso, Texas.

Your horses can't complain when you are giving them feed which does not satisfy, but when you give them Page's feed they will express their satisfaction by doing better work, keeping in better condition and looking better. We look to quality in preparing our feeds and long time users testify as to our success. Page's Feed Store, Rochester, N. Y.

Ever buy ready mixed feed for laying hens? No matter whether your experiment proved a success or not, we know that you will be satisfied if you try our hen food. Just the right ingredients for egg making. We'll guarantee an increased egg output if you will follow our directions and give your hens proper care and attention.

Bargain lots of feed should not interest you unless the reputation of the dealer is good and you recognize real quality in the feed. Several cars of feed now on our siding. We want to unload them and are ready to show you a bargain—price and quality both right.—Fulton & Co., Elmira, N. Y.

Don't forget that when you want the best and cheapest horse feed, one that will put your horse in good condition and keep him there, that we sell it—that we sell more of this one kind of feed than all others put together and that it has never failed to give satisfaction wherever it has been given a fair trial.—Wm. M. Powel, Chester, Pa.

Buy feed for your cattle with care. Anything is not good enough if you expect your horses to keep in good working condition, your cows to keep healthy and give good milk. No siftings or dirt mixed in with the feed you get here.—Grange Store, Newburgh, N. Y.

FISH

Mackerel.—Everybody wants new mackerel—not old, rusty fish.

Since we recommenced business at the old stand in February last we have bought and sold 37 barrels of mackerel, 7,400 lbs. We venture to say that we sell more mackerel than any one store in the State of New Jersey.

People come to us for mackerel 10, 15 and 20 miles, and we have one customer who lives in Philadelphia, to whom we ship mackerel—says he cannot get any good ones there.

We pride ourselves on our mackerel, taking great pains in buying and packing. Any size package you wish—from a 10-lb. kit to a barrel.

We bought in the market on Monday some of the finest, fattest No. 1 shore mackerel that we have seen in many a day. Fat, white and thick—fit for a king. Price is 14c. a lb. They are elegant eating.

We have some more (5 bbls.) of those shore No. 2s just received, and while the price of fish is advancing, for this quality our price still is 12c. a lb., and they are fine mackerel. $1.35 for a 10-lb. kit.

Neither our mackerel nor our prices need any apologies. Our fish are right. Our weight is right. Our price is right.—Losey & Alpaugh, Somerville, Pa.

A good present to your friends is a Penobscot River salmon. We have just received at our market an extra fine line of Penobscot River salmon. When we say Penobscot River we mean it; we do not palm off a St. John's fish on you, because we do not have them. These salmon are a good size to send away as a present to some of your friends. We box and pack them so that they can be sent any distance and arrive in excellent condition, and the price we will quote you will be as low as the lowest. We guarantee these salmon to arrive in perfect condition or money refunded. Give us your order early because this lot will not last long.—Lynch's Market, Bangor, Me.

Our fish are shipped here direct from the nets and consequently are fresh. Good fishermen know what that means. Give us an order and you'll know. We clean them free and deliver them whenever you want them.—The Joliet Fish Market, Joliet, Ill.

We have arranged with one of the foremost packing houses at Baltimore for daily shipments of prime, fresh oysters during the season of 1903-04. This fact, coupled with our knowledge of and facilities for handling the delicious bivalve, should suggest to you that we can serve you as well, if not better, than any other dealer in the city.—Green Front Market, Altoona, Pa.

Fresh Fish!—And we can look you all straight in the face when we say it. The fact is, to-day's display is exceptionally fresh and attractive.

Haddock, 5c. lb. Who can say living is high in the face of that price for good fish? Order all you want to. No limit.

White Fish, 7c. lb., 4 lbs. for 25c. White Fish, when good, is very, very good, and these White Fish are good.—W. W. Walkers Co., Hartford, Conn.

Creamed codfish is enjoyable any time, and especially commended for the evening meal, as it does not burden the digestion.

If you don't entertain a good opinion of mackerel, come in and get one of our 25-cent size. It's so meaty that the bones are a small part of it, and if soaked over night it's just salty enough to make it an ideal breakfast article.—T. E. Burns Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

The Japanese are showing their endurance on long marches and hard fighting with Russia, and it may be because they are great fish eaters. If you want to be healthy and able to endure hardships substitute fish for meat. All the desirable kinds are in season now. Weak, blue, butter, porgies, sea bass, halibut, binito, mackerel, flounders, etc., soft crabs, clams and oysters.—W. H. Crisp, Trenton, N. J.

Our Large Stock of Lenten Dainties enables you to have a different Lenten dish for every meal. Here you will find the choicest of everything edible, from river, lake and sea, put up in most tempting styles.—G. G. Cornwell & Son, Washington, D. C.

Golden haddies. If you never picked the bones of a smoked Finnan haddie you've missed a fish experience of the pleasantest kind. Ours come from Boston every second day, newly caught, newly cured and newly smoked.—The Mohican Co., New Haven, Conn.

As a general rule, a truly fine mackerel is about the hardest thing to find in the city of Mansfield. However, if you will come to our store you will find it the easiest thing in the world to get a snow white, plump mackerel, as we have just opened up several packages and they are fine ones.—John E. Engles, Mansfield, Ohio.

Snow white, genuine codfish; something hard to find at any time. We have, however, the finest flake Codfish money will buy. We keep it in our cold storage room, which insures its sweetness. All selected middles, absolutely boneless, white as snow.—John E. Angle, Mansfield, Ohio.

Fish and Friday. All of us have not the same tastes; yet, what is more natural to most of us when ordering our dinner for Friday, than to think of fish? Used to have trouble, however, not only in getting the kind of fish we wanted, but often had trouble about the quality, too. Both these difficulties have now been overcome, however, for we are endeavoring to conduct our fish department along proper lines—and you will find in Mr. DeButts, our manager, one who is thoroughly familiar with all branches of the fish business, and who will supply you with any kind you may desire. Prices are made very attractive—as you will find by comparison.—J. A. Seel Co., Rochester, N. Y.

There is no better offer to be made to a buyer of good, wholesome food than fresh fish, which we offer at reasonable figures regardless of the meat strike. Give the meat question a rest. Our fish market supplies the best of everything that swims that is in season. Let us supply your fish.—The Dunning Grocery Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

When these goods things are nicely prepared you can eat with a relish.—Carron's Market, Ottumwa, Ill.

Strictly fresh oysters, fresh from the shucking wharves at Baltimore—more oysters to a quart than you will get elsewhere.—Fontaine & Angleine, Crookston, Minn.

A fine fish dinner. Best fish a fisherman can catch—at Jevne's. Smoked, salted and spiced fish of every variety and kind. Take one of these big mackerel, or a halibut, or a salmon, and have it cooked just right, and it certainly will make a fine fish dinner. We have the largest and finest fish caught in any waters—and every kind that is caught, to eat. Telephone what you will have for dinner to-day.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles.

Fresh Fish.—Fish that are absolutely fresh are always to be found on our fish counters every Thursday and Friday of each week. We certainly are headquarters on fresh fish, and the only firm in Joliet that handles them properly.—The Spot Cash, Joliet, Ill.

It is really very astonishing how great a variety of fresh fish we are offering you this morning, considering the extremely trying weather. Nobody can grudge the brave fisherman all he gets for his work, and it is somewhat surprising that we can offer you this fine fresh halibut at 18c. a pound. Perhaps we have enough for you all, but it is a good plan to place your halibut order this morning early.—W. W. Walker Co., Hartford, Conn.

Come where fresh fish are the whole show. Here are salmon that have never been frozen, and they are very succulent. If salmon are your favorite fish, then you'll appreciate our efforts to supply something fancy.—W. W. Walker Co., Hartford, Conn.

"Ladies' dainty" brand Maine clams.—We understand from a reliable source that the clams gathered in Maine waters are more tender and have a sweeter and more delicate flavor than those gathered further south. "Ladies' Dainty" are the smallest and tenderest of all.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia.

Fresh Fish.—Lovers of fish should come to Connelly's for their favorite kind, as it is always here. The assortment received by us every week cannot be surpassed. Good fish, properly prepared, is rich brain food and very nourishing.—George S. Connelly & Co., Springfield, Ill.

There may be many fish in the seas as good as these, but there is none better. We are making special effort in this department, to give you the best service possible. Our fish are trimmed, scales removed and washed ready for the pan. Our line of fresh and corned meats is, as usual, the best obtainable.—A. E. Weatherby, Ogden, Utah.

Serve some dainty fish occasionally. They afford a delightful change from heavy meats.—T. E. Burns Company, Knoxville, Tenn.

For Friday marketing we will have a fine line of fresh caught fish. We are also receiving daily shipments of nice, large, fat eastern oysters that are equal to any we receive in the winter season. You can get nice fresh oysters at any season of the year from us.—T. E. Westlake, Spokane, Wash.

FLOOR COVERING

Our first shipment this season of inserted fibre mats from India has just arrived, and in time for hard winter wear. They are made by hand, of cocoa fibre, and there are hardly two just alike in the assortment. Some are plain, others have rich color designs of maroon, blue, brown, terra cotta and many other good colors. They are the best wearing mats that can be made. The prices are low and the assortment is the largest that we have ever had at one time. Beside these, there are splendid values in wool, brush, rope chain and rubber mats, a wide range of patterns and colorings to choose from at moderate prices.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paper fiber rugs have passed the experimental stage, and now so many people think them the ideal summer rug that we have had great difficulty in meeting the call. A new consignment has just arrived from the manufacturer. Clean, cool-looking patterns in light blues, tans, greens and reds on a creamy ground. The surface of these rugs is so smooth and hard that they can be swept as easily as a parquetry floor.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Suggestions for goods to be used in warm weather. Veranda rugs in the jute, grass and moonj qualities in a variety of sizes. Veranda cushions, veranda screens, grass and straw mattings by the yard, light curtains for summer use. All at—Wm. H. Post Carpet Co., Hartford, Conn.

It is a safe conclusion that no person is anxious to have the whole or even a part of the household in an unsettled and disarranged condition on the eve of the holiday season. You can introduce new rugs or mats at points and places where they will give the home that touch of newness which is so eagerly sought for at a time when everything should look its best.—J. Mickleborough, St. Thomas, Ont.

Different carpets from those shown everywhere—high-art designs and unusual colorings. Kinds woven by our own looms and obtainable here only. Everything in floor coverings to satisfy the most critical taste.—J. & J. Dobson, New York.

Good hard facts to deal with. Prices and styles are the makers of trade. I give you both in new fresh stocks of carpets of all grades, mattings of all kinds, lace and tapestry curtains, linoleums.—Lewis W. Lee, Peoria, Ill.

You will save money by coming to Rothert's for carpets. This week you'll find here carpets, rugs, mattings, oilcloths and linoleum at a wonderful saving!!!—Rothert, Altoona, Pa.

You may not understand the case as we do. You say you would like to have a matting rug and go to Wanamaker's and find it there. But perhaps you don't realize that you wouldn't find it in any other store in this part of the country.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

Of wood fibre, made up into just the sightliest of slightly floor coverings. Flexible as a carpet almost. You can sew them if you will, cut them or turn them if you choose, and they won't break. Sanitary floor coverings they are called, and rightly called so.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

If you want a chamber floor covering that is cool and clean—sanitary in every respect, you needn't look further than these Hofi rugs. They are a fiber product and come in patterns and colorings of sufficient variety to harmonize with almost any sort of room decoration and furnishing. We are having to curtail carpet storage room just at present and these Hofi rugs, belonging particularly to summer, are first to go.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Carpets and mattings. Our new carpets have arrived. Never before have we been able to show so choice a variety of floor covering. Designs are exceptionally modest. If we did not sell direct from the largest manufacturers in the United States the carpet would be much more costly.—A. S. Hellyer's Sons, Doylestown, Pa.

"Reliable" carpets, furniture bargains, with a cool, greenish tint. While warm weather lasts, matting covered floors, with their coolness and artistic appearance, make the Summer bedroom a refuge from the glare of out of doors, and increase the restfulness of the afternoon siesta. Our special bargains make them irresistible.—Cowperthwait Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

It's high time to have your heavy carpets up and cool mattings on the floors. We have as handsome a stock of both China and Japan Mattings as you would wish to see. All sorts of pretty effects and new patterns, in artistic shades and colorings. The qualities have been closely scrutinized, so that you may buy fearlessly, knowing that whichever pattern you select will give good wear.—House & Herrmann, Washington, D. C.

Floor coverings. "Medium qualities" at popular prices. Moving time is when you want your money to go a long way, at the same time you want full value for every dollar you spend. That's why a reliable firm can serve you best. They give you full value. For twenty-five years we have sold carpets, rugs, mattings, etc.; we use the best makers' lines; we sell them at lowest cash prices.—Window Shade Co., New Haven, Conn.

There's no excuse for not replacing all the worn and frayed floor covering and making the home bright and inviting against the coming of spring—not with this fine stock and good values to choose from. Here are floor coverings for every room, in designs to suit every fancy, priced to suit every purse. And we can't describe their high quality in terms too glowing. The textures are the staunchest—wearing qualities superb.—Faguy, Lepinay & Frere, Quebec, Can.

See the new Empire Brussels—room-size rugs. These rugs are all 9x12 feet in size, the proper size for almost every room in your house. They are made of extra heavy tapestry Brussels carpet. Each rug will wear well, give thorough satisfaction and hold its colors till the last day. One hundred new and handsome patterns for your selection. Rugs regularly would cost you at least $20.00. Our price, on easy terms, $2.75 cash and $1.00 a week.—Rowlands & Co.'s Big Store, Mansfield, Ohio.

We present one of the most complete stocks of floor coverings shown in Greater New York. It embraces everything that is worthy in lines from American mills, and, as well, very large assortments of fine Oriental weaves—all our own importation. Prices are matchlessly low—this with emphasis. We invite the fullest and most critical comparisons and encourage them in every way.—Macy's, New York.

We have received notice from all the leading carpet and rug manufacturers of a big advance in the prices of all their productions to take effect at once with the prediction of a still further advance during the spring season. We inaugurate this sale to give our customers the benefit of the low prices we are able to make because of our enormous purchase made before this advance in cost went into effect. It will pay you to make selections at this sale. The amount we can save you now on carpets or rugs will seem fabulous as the new prices go into effect.—Barney's, Schemectady, N. Y.

This great sale—the largest and most successful carpet sale ever held in Tacoma—is nearing its end. Judging by the enormous crowds who have taken advantage of it, our bargains have been appreciated. Once a year we have this sale, and try to provide for it the best values of the year in floor coverings. Carpets priced in the following manner explain the success of our sale.—Davis, Smith & Nettleton, Tacoma.

We sold thousands of dollars worth of Oriental rugs at the sale last week. We are still offering many fine Orientals of all sizes up to the largest at most attractive prices. If you are contemplating the purchase of a rug this spring, you will find this the matchless opportunity.—Adam, Meldrum & Anderson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Up on the second floor of our establishment, where the light is brightest and other conditions are best, we have assembled assortments of carpets and rugs that we are certain will please all those who see them. Patterns, designs and blending of colors are the richest and newest that we could select. In addition to the attractiveness of the articles themselves we have attached prices that should be big inducements to buy.—Frank Sanford & Co., Springfield, Ill.

The receiver's sale of the James Dunlap Co.'s stock brings you carpet and rug bargains never equalled. This sale of Dunlap stock carpet and rugs will undoubtedly bear a prominent place among the greatest of all sales. When a business goes bankrupt the receiver is not over-particular at what price he sells the stock, as long as he gets it off his hands. Before we entered our bid we went carefully over the entire stock and in it we saw the makings of the most unusual sale of carpets and rugs that ever was, and we bought them at a price to make it so. The result is—this sale.—Gimbel's, Milwaukee, Wis.

Ladies! Why mar the appearance of your home with a carpet that shows the wear of time? We display a line of carpets and rugs that cannot be surpassed in quality, style or price.—The Conroy & Cawley Co., Lexington, Ky.

Carpets and Rugs. You will probably find after moving that you will need some new carpets; if so, we have a large range of samples which we would be pleased to show you in Union, Wool, Tapestry, Brussels and Velvet Pile. We can take your order and furnish at short notice. Furthermore, we will guarantee our prices to be the very lowest. If we carried the carpets in stock they would cost you 15 per cent. more, but by buying from our samples you can save money. We carry a large range of oil cloths and linoleums.—Tennant & Clarke, Frederickton, N. B.

An excellent showing of high-grade carpets and rugs. There is a growing tendency to the use of Wilton and Axminster carpets in plain colors, either to cover the entire floor or made up into rugs. We are in position to have woven to order in one piece rugs in any color, size or quality desired, either domestic or imported fabrics. We carry in stock the Hartford Saxony, French and Anglo-Indian rugs, which are woven in the regular sizes up to 11-3x15-0, and can have made to order any size desired at prices that are much less than the Oriental rugs.—T. A. Chapman Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Price lowering on carpets, rugs, etc. When we started in to change figures it was done with a vengeance. Every floor in the store was affected, but none to a greater extent than the carpet and rug section. Tiny bits of former prices represent the present valuation—the difference your gain.—L. Hammel Dry Goods Co., Mobile, Ala.

Carpets and rugs. This will be the day of days for home furnishers to economize—Housefurnishing Wednesday. The fame of this mid-week sale is spreading, and week by week records the increase of sales. Our comprehensive showing not only includes needs for elaborate homes, but tasteful selections for the humble cottage as well.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Another strong appeal for your rug and carpet trade. We talk much about carpets and rugs as we have much to talk about. Your neighbor may have told you of the splendid variety and good values we are offering. We are at the height of the carpet season and want our rugs and carpets represented in every home in Binghamton and vicinity. We bought this big stock of floor covering with that in view. Bought when prices were at the lowest point. Secured first choice of patterns and as a result have done a large business in them. Have been able to keep new goods coming, and this week you will find complete assortments to select from.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

Our second floor contains a greater variety of fine carpets and rugs than you will find in many exclusive carpet stores. The qualities have been chosen with great care—and we guarantee the durability of every yard. We are prepared to do quick work for those who are in a hurry for their carpets, and we guarantee to cover your floors for less money than anyone else in town.—Gately's Mammoth Credit House, Saginaw, Mich.

Spring showing of carpets and rugs. Spring is the season for discarding old and worn-out floor coverings. It is the time for injecting into the house some of the freshness and beauty of the outside world, so resplendent in brightness and color after the long winter. We are now thoroughly prepared with new carpets and rugs, as well as floor coverings of all descriptions to satisfy every taste in this direction as well as every purse. Do not fail to visit our line of carpets before buying for it is characterized by largeness of stock and lowness of price.—Sisson Bros., Welden Co., Binghamton.

We announce for the first three days of the week a general decline in prices in the carpet department. The decline is not in the goods (they are the same you will pay more for again), but in the prices only, and all kinds of floor coverings are affected. We quote a few specials, but ingrains and Brussels are equally as hard hit.—McEmery, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A new spring dress for your house. Those old carpets, rugs and draperies may have appeared all right while the outside world was clothed in winter's sombre garb. But now, when nature is arraying herself in summer's beauteous dress, those same carpets, rugs and draperies look not only dull, but extremely shabby in comparison with nature's rich colorings.—Hibbard & Co., Colorado Springs, Colo.

Yes, it is quite possible to sell Oriental rugs in great numbers even in midsummer—not alone the smaller sizes, but the larger pieces, that run into hundreds of dollars even when reduced nearly half. We presume that such extreme values in the finer Oriental carpets have never been offered heretofore in this city; and the rugs in smaller sizes are rapidly walking away at the midsummer sale prices. By all means see these medium-sized rugs to-morrow.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Spring carpets and rugs. Beautiful effects, exceptional in design and in richness of coloring. Exclusive patterns of lofty, artistic merit. Altogether the best it has ever been our pleasure to offer. All this at moderate prices.—The Boston, Milwaukee, Wis.

Hard-spun, reversible granite weaves, Art squares. Nothing like it will happen again. Water won't hurt the colors; they are fast. Aren't the old reds and blues and moss greens just the thing for the "Good Old Summer Time?"—Keely's, Atlanta, Ga.

Rugs are the connecting link between rooms that are carpeted differently. Incongruities are forgotten and the rooms straightway become chums. The rugs must be chosen with care and knowledge of colors and design.—Cowperthwait Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Carpets. There's every advantage in buying here. Immense stocks and varieties from which to choose—and decidedly the lowest prices ever known on equally as good grades and kinds.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City, N. J.

Our rug and carpet department is coming to be better understood. We have sowed the seed of earnest, honest endeavor here and now are reaping a bountiful harvest.—Duff & Repp Furniture Co., Kansas City, Mo.

New fall floor coverings.—A larger line of new fall importations and domestic weaves than we have ever before shown are brought to your notice this week. The Oriental effects in both carpets and rugs predominate—our assortment is without a doubt the largest and finest in the city—forehanded people will do well to make their selections now—here's some Monday specials as an inducement to bring you in.—Freimuth's, Duluth, Minn.

Our carpet department is bristling with the newest and best weaves.—Peter Grogan, Washington, D. C.

New fall carpetings and everything else that is floor covering. Already we show a handsome line and soon we'll show what you'll say is the best selected and most varied carpet stock in town.—Waite's, New Bedford, Mass.

The pleasant hum of brisk selling pervades every nook and corner in our big carpet department; the logical result of our successful efforts of underselling. We are making carpet history. The values we offer are matchless. If there's a room in your house that needs carpets or curtains here's the chance.—Whitehouse D. G. Co., Spokane, Wash.

Sale of Rugs and Carpets.—When you buy floor covering you should investigate where you can obtain the best values, as the purchase of these goods involves a considerable amount. We present the following prices with the confidence that they cannot be duplicated in Cleveland. After a visit you will better appreciate the importance of this statement.—The Williams & Rodgers Co., Cleveland, O.

No Time for Hesitation. Carpets and Rugs Never So Cheap.—Every one at this time of the year is thinking gravely of cleaning the house, and with it the necessity of carpeting the floor. Opportunity creates duty when up-to-date carpets can be bought right. If you are ready to make your plans now, it will pay you to do so. Fortunate is the housekeeper who is ready to carry out plans for the spring. Readiness to take advantage of such opportunities as these means much to one's pocketbook.—The Ontario, Grand Forks, N. D.

Buy carpets from a carpet house. You wouldn't go to a drug store for calico, or a drygoods store for shoes, neither would you come to a carpet house for dressgoods, but when you do come to a carpet house you come for floor coverings, and you expect to see a better selection and better grades and better facilities than you would expect to find in a store which carries all kinds of merchandise. Our entire business energies are expended in providing the best floor coverings, draperies and bedding. We do not bother about your parlor furniture, or your kitchen stove, but we do exert every effort in behalf of your floor coverings, your draperies and your bedrooms. You must come to us expecting better values and larger assortments than are usually found. We lead in the carpet business. We excel in the carpet business. Our prices are the standards by which all other prices are judged. Come to us for carpets. We can satisfy you.—T. Billington Co., Los Angeles.

Attention is directed to the Spring importations of carpetings, in the newest designs and colorings. Also domestic carpets, embodying the newest patterns, many being exclusive with this house. Special reductions in last season's patterns.—Arnold, Constable & Co., New York.

Yes, This Is a Carpet Store, Too.—We sell carpets as we do everything else—at the most reasonable prices in existence. The good, serviceable, beautiful kinds that never disappoint. Twice the room formerly given to them and twice the stock. Carpet size rugs also. It will pay you to come down to Fuller's, Hartford, Conn.

Fall Carpets.—The buying time is here. Up on the third floor, where the light is best and brightest, are vast quantities of new designs and patterns, all moderately priced, for your choosing. This is positively the nicest lot of carpets and floor coverings we've ever had the pleasure of showing, and we believe the largest assortment in this section to select from.—Boston Store, Mansfield, O.

We are having an unusually busy trade in carpets and rugs for this season of the year. We offer a few more made-up rugs at a great reduction in prices. If you have a room in the house that needs a new carpet, bring the measure with you. We may be able to save you several dollars on your purchase. You are also invited to inspect the new fall line of carpets and rugs. Several hundred carpet size rugs to select from. Prices ranging from $10.00 up to $55.00. Choice new patterns in Roxbury tapestry brussels carpets, also axminster carpets, at $1.00 yard, made, laid and lined. Other best makes of carpets at 70c. up to $2.75 per yard.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

New spring carpets and rugs. You can buy now cheaper than later on. Funny statement to make, but true. From some makers we've received their surplus stocks, along with certain lots they held back from delivery to "uncertain" customers. Bought them at a big economy.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

A big saving for you to buy rugs and carpets now.—R. Wilcox, Cohoes, N. Y.

At no time have we shown a better variety of more beautiful patterns, designs and colorings. New carpetings or rugs would prove a very delightful holiday gift.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A good place to buy carpets, and now is a good time, because we are closing out several short quantities in rugs and carpets before the fall stock arrives. Any roll of carpet with less than thirty yards can be bought one-third less than the regular price. All odd rugs, only one or two of a pattern, will be sold at the same discount.—Vab Loewer, Columbus, Ohio.

A lot of splendid Carpet bargains join the Great Rug Sale to-day and the thrifty housewife has a chance to get values in floor coverings that are not matchable anywhere else.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Our aim is to make this oriental and domestic floor covering section the best of its kind. Well informed carpet buyers and oriental rug connoisseurs, alert for choice bits, delight in this beautiful, spacious, daylight section. To put the stock in keeping with surroundings we must close what is here.—H. G. Selfridge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Come to this carpet sale if you never go to another. Make your selections. We'll reserve them until you're ready.—that's fair.—Davis, Horton & Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Carpet specials. It is almost a sacrilege to offer such new and staple floor coverings at these absurdly low prices. A glance is all that is necessary for the posted housekeeper to know that this is a buying occasion.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Will continue for the balance of the week, thereby enabling all who have immediate or prospective needs in this line to take advantage of the splendid bargains which we are now offering. And it is not only a meager few that are on sale at these reductions, but a large and choice assortment which may be had either with or without borders—in fact, in some lines the assortment consists of nearly half the entire stock—carpets so new and beautiful that no reason exists for selling them for a cent below the regular, except that they are discontinued patterns which we are closing out to make room for the new spring stock. But, remember, this is the last week of the sale, and furthermore, that by making a small deposit a carpet or rug may be ordered now and held until wanted.—Schuneman & Evans, Saint Paul, Minn.

There will be a special sale on Monday at Saks & Company of Oriental rugs and carpets. To say that these Kazaks are beautiful seems empty—meaningless. The barbaric splendor of their conception thrills one with the intensity of their beauty. Their harmony and contrast seem to express the emotions of the weaver. They all but live, so vivid are the colors. It seems almost a sacrilege to place a commercial value upon them. One rarely finds their equals outside of private collections, and then only in small sizes.—Saks & Company, New York City.

This is the time when the housewife turns her thoughts to floor coverings. This season we have the grandest stock of handsome patterns that have ever been shown in this city. Come and see the selections and our salesman will be pleased to give you an estimate of the cost to cover your rooms.—Burns & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

We cannot say enough about our new spring stock of carpets and draperies. It is positively the largest and best line we have ever been able to present to the buying public of Columbus. Have you ever visited our carpet department? If not, come in and ask to go to the fourth floor and just look around. We have confidence in the goods selling themselves.—Stewart Bros., Columbus, O.

A little later on, if not just now, you'll probably want to select something in the carpet or rug line. We think that we can give you some pleasant surprises.—C. C. Fuller & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Before stock taking we always find a number of patterns in carpets that are short ends. Such of these as we can we make up into carpet rugs. This week we offer you at special prices a number of carpet rugs made from remnants in our own workroom. They are better made than the regular factory made carpet rugs—the miters are bound and made flat, avoiding the usually found heavy ridge in carpet rugs. Remnants are always sold in this store regardless of cost, and in the case of these carpet rugs the work has been taken into consideration and added to the regular remnant price, hence the big reduction offered. Come and make your selection and "make your own terms on one" this week.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

This morning's business of this big merchandising event proved it an instant success. It could not be otherwise, for in every particular it offers unusual attractiveness, first in the wide range of both carpets and rugs included, and second in the great price concessions which prevail. These productions of the leading firm of Alex. Smith & Sons Co. from their great New York sale, are the very pick of the market and the very best goods manufactured. A glance at the items herewith will demonstrate the exceptional inducements now offered.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

No feature of this business has given its owners more satisfaction than the achievement of leadership as carpet and rug sellers—because in no other branch is every store so bound with traditions. That we do lead is evident to thousands—lead in freshness and amounts of stocks; lead in beauty of patterns; lead in the carefulness of order filling; lead in the promptness and liberality of claim adjustments; lead in having the cordial good will of the country's great carpet-makers—whereby we get first chance to buy large blocks of goods that, for one or another reason, are forced to sale. We have been honored as no other store in winning contracts. We are the principal carpeters of churches, hotels, schools, sanitariums and homes. Of course, we do not get all orders—sometimes other stores take contracts at a loss to "beat" us; sometimes friendship weighs—grade for grade as to quality why shouldn't a friend think your patterns the prettiest? Sometimes we are beaten right out in the open—but not often. This is a world of averages—and our carpet successes average high.—Chamberlin, Johnson Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Time was when carpets and rugs were an expensive luxury, without artistic taste or quality. To-day they are made for quality and daintiness of pattern. Instead of there being one or two qualities and patterns, there are many and varied. If you are in need of a carpet or rug make a visit to this department and see the special bargains offered for this week.—J. D. Parcell, Lexington, Ky.

Carpets and rugs sharply reduced. Some of our very best qualities go on sale to-morrow at exceptionally low prices. China and Japanese matting, imported direct, may be bought at significant savings. All wool art squares are very low priced. Go over this list carefully; if interested it will pay you to select your floor coverings to-morrow at this store.—Field, Schlick & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

The prices on our carpets and rugs are floored. So will the carpets be if you once look over our stock.—The Colorado Springs Carpet Co., Colorado Springs, Colo.

A Lowering of Prices on Carpets, Rugs, Mattings, Etc.—It's one of the conditions of leadership that stocks be always fresh and assortments complete. To meet these conditions often necessitates the selling of goods at reduced prices.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Our line of spring carpetings are complete. By far the handsomest showing made by any store and the prices are positively lower in this sale than they will be for some time to come. Anticipate your wants now. We will deliver the goods whenever you are ready.—Luellenburg, Philadelphia, Pa.

Carpeting. Hundreds of artistic designs and beautiful color combinations in every grade. * * * We have been critical in our gathering this season—as we always are—shunning the commonplace and seeking the unique and effective. Our practical knowledge and long experience are at the service of all.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

Among the carpets here the greatest surprise awaits you, not a few cut prices here and there on some ancient style that might prove a bad bargain at any figure, but a slashing of prices from beginning to end, from cheapest to highest grade weaves. Not a single penny of any price on any carpet in the entire stock represents profit. The profit has already been made on the season's goods that were sold in their season, and now comes the opportunity of those willing to help us clear our decks for spring stock and spring selling. Remember our last clearance sale, and profit by our warning not to stand on the order of coming but come at once.—Brownfield-Canty Carpet Co., Butte, Mont.

A remarkable sale of carpets. If we were offering last season's patterns at a reduction, people would say: "Yes, they do that every season so as to keep their stocks fresh and clean." But when we are offering this season's choice new designs and colorings for a third under the customary prices, the news may fairly be called remarkable. We are introducing our splendid new carpet floor to the Brooklyn people—and we have taken this way to do it. But the sale ends with the month, remember.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Every twenty-four hours you allow to pass without inspecting our stock of carpets and housefurnishings, and making your selections for spring needs puts you just that much behind in the race with shrewd, early and better satisfied buyers.—J. Mickleborough, St. Thomas.

If floor coverings are to be purchased within the twelve months a thoughtful noting of these extreme price concessions will convince you there is wisdom in promptly securing some of these preferred advantages. We carry only the most standard weaves and every yard and piece is guaranteed to be of the full quality represented.—The Denver Dry Goods Co., Denver, Colo.

A harvest of carpets here. Some of the exceptional values that prove our carpet ability as to character, beauty and money saving prices.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Headquarters for Carpets.—The fact that we carry the finest varieties of carpets and are recognized as leaders in exclusive designs does not preclude us from offering the best values—the greatest bargains to be found in Chicago.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

It may seem a little late for us to cry about our spring carpets, but it's simply a case of "must" with us. You don't know what you miss till you see our line. New styles arriving every day. Each one prettier than the last.—York Supply Co., York, Pa.

"Never suspected there was such a great stock of carpets in Colorado Springs."—The Johnson & Wilbur, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Of the many qualities of carpets made, there is none as suitable for use in summer homes as a Brussels carpet. It always looks cool and fresh, is easy to keep clean and wears splendidly.—W. & J. Sloane, New York.

Carpets cost a heap of money—too much for you to afford to buy an inferior grade even at a few cents less in price. But there is one kind of carpet we believe you can afford to own. It's a first class closely woven velvet carpet, and it has but a second class price here, $1.00 a yard.—W. A. McNaughton Co., Marion, Ind.

Fairness and goodness are two prominent characteristics of our carpets. "Fairness," or artistic beauty, and "goodness," or durable quality, combine to make ours the most attractive and useful in the city.—Kelly & May, West Superior, Wis.

New carpets, lace curtains and draperies. Are any of the above included in your fall re-furnishing plans? You're fortunate if they are, for this offering gives you an opportunity to secure carpets, curtains, etc., all handsome, durable goods, at prices much lower than elsewhere.—Columbus Dry Goods Co., Columbus, O.

"Something new in our carpet department, eh?" "Why, yes, something new all the time. Stranger, if I may be so bold, from what section of the country do you come? I ask because within a radius of fifty miles we are known as always having something new in stock, and this is one of the seasons when we always have 'more.' And just let me tell you, stranger, there are no Oliver Twists around here. People need only to call on us to obtain all they want, and of the best quality at the lowest prices. There is always 'more' in stock."—Wasson's, Indianapolis.

New Carpets.—Every worthy weave from rag to velvet.—Myer Brothers, Passaic, N. J.

If you have a color scheme in mind for any room in your house, we believe we can give you the best help in the carpet part of it.—Pinkham & Willis Co., Worcester, Mass.

In selecting a carpet you are choosing something that will stare you in the face morning, afternoon and evening, day after day, for a good many years to come.

Much depends on whether you discard the cheap imitations sold in careless stores, with their apparent present saving in price, and pay a trifle more for the best of the kind you are going to use; something that the maker is not ashamed to weave his name into.

The carpets shown you here are the best of their kind. The patterns in very many cases are exclusive, and, quality for quality, the prices are as low or lower than you will find elsewhere—thanks to the largeness of our purchases.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Now for carpets. Easter is passed. Time now to turn our attention to the house. Wardrobes are restocked maybe, but the carpet in the hall, or the drawing room, shows signs of wear. The spare bedroom, which has so long been waiting its turn, really must be refurnished this spring. The ever-energetic housekeeper has a thousand plans for the improvement of her house, and this store stands ready, willing and able to help her economically and well, as never before. Here are some examples of more than ordinary good values which we have arranged for to-morrow. Why not come down and take advantage of them?—The Robert Simpson Co., Toronto, Can.

Yes; it's an odd time to buy carpets. Maybe you're out of town and don't need the carpets for several months yet. That's why we need to make such an offer as this. We wouldn't think of making such little prices at any other time. But we can't keep these Carpets till the new goods come and demand the space. We can't afford to have them here to spoil the sale of the new goods next Fall. We couldn't afford to spend the time to sell them then.—Wanamaker, New York.

Carpet Excitement!—Get Friend's prices, see his remarkable stocks, then you'll know why there's exciting trading.—Friend's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Our announcement of this sale of new carpets brought forth a new demand.

Our mills never sent us so many excellent grades and exquisite coloring effects as represented in our vast stock, and the prices invariably less than you pay elsewhere for old styles.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City, N. J.

An honest Body Brussels carpet—the kind we handle—is the most practicable and serviceable carpet woven for dining-room, living-room, bed-room or hall and stairs. Will not show footprints or the impressions of the castors on heavy pieces of furniture.—John Brenner Co., Sacramento, Cal.

“Dropped patterns” means carpets that the different manufacturers have decided not to make another season. Twice a year they hold an exhibition and sale for the following season, and the week previous to this exhibition they offer their entire surplus stocks to the representative large dealers. We have secured the largest and best line of “dropped patterns” it has ever been our good fortune to present, and it is safe to say that it will be some time before such bargains will be offered again.—R. H. White, Boston, Mass.

Royal Wilton—the name speaks for itself. We offer a group of these famous carpets, in beautiful patterns, and in colorings specially adapted for boudoirs and sleeping rooms—blues, pinks, light greens, sage greens, yellows and tans—at a saving of almost a third.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Carpets! Carpets! Spring of 1903. Gardens of spring beauty. Not only the skill of weavers, but the hues and forms from many gardens have contributed to the Spring beauty of our carpet floor.—Guy Furniture Co., Worcester, Mass.

Bargains in carpets, room-lengths. If ever you had a carpet bargain which you couldn't afford to miss (if you want carpets at all) this is it. The carpets are not old, out-of-date patterns, but this season's styles, only they're what we call remnants. They're room-lengths, as a rule—some large enough for two rooms.—Farrell's, Trenton.

In making our carpets, expert workmanship and low prices go hand-in-hand. The corners match and the mitres are sewed by hand. We are sure if you once try us you will be a steady customer here.—Giddings Bros., Colorado Springs, Colo.

Your wife will appreciate our wondrous carpet department, filled as it is with this season's choicest productions.—Davenport Furniture & Carpet Co., Davenport, Iowa.

We have always bought our carpets and rugs from the best mills, and when you buy ingrains from us they will be all wool. Our choice patterns make choosing easy. We have very low prices also on Brussels.

"Reliable" Carpets—Billows of new weaves and patterns have been rolling in with their assurance of reliability in pure wool firmly woven, and their new color combinations are even now gracing hundreds of new homes.—Cowperthwait Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Spring carpets. Our sale this week will bring out the spring time spirit and the spring time crowds—in fact, will be an occasion that stands out with decided prominence.—John Campbell & Co., Hamilton, Canada.

Best carpets made at a full third under former cost. A most forceful offering—judge it by our saying that you can choose among three hundred and twenty-four styles in full rolls and most with borders to match.—Gimble Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

Bring your carpet ideas to us. We'll tell you honestly whether certain carpets will look well or wear well in certain rooms. We'll help you select just the right thing.—Damon, Kenton, Ohio.

Naturally this is not the season for buying floor coverings, nevertheless a great many thrifty housekeepers have seen the wisdom of hurrying their plans a little, and by anticipating their needs a few weeks hence have saved a generous sum on their next carpet bill, besides have had the satisfaction of choosing from a fine broad selection.—C. R. Hawley & Co., Bay City, Mich.

Those sensational carpet bargains at Farrell's make the most welcome news which newly-married couples about to "go to housekeeping" can read of. These and others who need new carpets have now the opportunity of buying them at cost, or about cost, simply because a change of makers makes it necessary that we close out certain of our lines at once.—Farrell's, Trenton, N. J.

Our efforts to convince you that we have the best selected stock of carpets at lower prices than any house in the city has not been in vain, as the marked increase in our past season's business has demonstrated. This week we are offering exceptional values in carpets.—The Martin-Benight & Shoaff Carpet Co., Denver, Colo.

There is decided economy in buying good carpets. Nearly every housekeeper thinks that the buying of a carpet is an expensive item, yet a good carpet is always worth the extra money it costs; it never pays to save money by buying a cheap one. We show one of the best stocks in Hamilton, but we've no room for cheap kinds here. Every yard must pass our standard quality, which means we must be able to guarantee you the wear of most every carpet we sell. This week we can show you exceptional values in fine Axminsters that you cannot duplicate anywhere else.—A. M. Souter & Co., Hamilton, Ont.

We're well aware that everybody does not want tapestry Brussels carpets, but right here's where that item (the 70c. value for 48c.) is of interest to you. It gives you a hint of the splendid values that await you in our carpet and rug section to-day. Values that are breaking all previous records (for September selling)—we'll about triple the business of last September.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Very elegant and artistic designs in these beautiful carpets and such as you'll only see at this store. A magnificent collection of splendid English makes, in elegant high class art effects of floral, Oriental, conventional and Persian patterns. Styles and colorings suitable for drawing-rooms, parlors, libraries, halls; 5-8 borders and 3-4 stairs to match.—Thomas C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

There is still a beautiful assortment. They were sent here by the firm of Pherozehab, Eduji, Shapurji, the famous Indian weavers with looms in Cashmere, Ameritzer and Typore, India—the last of a lot held by them in bond for some time in the hope of getting a reasonable amount for them. They are fresh and perfect goods, right out of bond, made of the best of wools and natural dye, beautiful designs, suitable for any part of the house. We secured them at just half the prevailing importer's cost and they go to you at half our regular prices.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The new carpets are ready, all fresh, beautiful and in almost endless variety. These are the days to get the cream of the new stock, and it is a wise time to make selections so that your carpets may be made and all ready to be delivered and laid when you are ready for them. The selection is much more satisfying if done before the hurry-time begins.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

I never tire of talking about my carpets, and you won't wonder if you look over the elegant stocks I have for your inspection.—J. Michaels, Brooklyn, N. Y.

People who are expecting to buy Axminster carpets will find it to their advantage to see this beautiful line of Templeton's Empire Axminsters we are offering for Thursday morning selling, at $1.25 per yard. Templeton's Axminster carpets are the finest wearing carpets in the world. There's no other make just as good, although, like all other things, there are many imitations; in appearance they are oftentimes just as good, but it's in the wear that the difference is.—Hudson's Bay Stores, Vancouver, B. C.

In the furnishing of a home nothing plays a more important part than the floor coverings. "A room well carpeted is half furnished" is an old saying, but a true one. No room, however, is well carpeted where quality is sacrificed.—The Household Fair, Kansas City, Mo.

Haven't you often noticed that the carpets you have just recently dismissed from service have become the most pleasing, that you have learned to look upon them with more satisfaction each season they have been in use, and if this is true can you not anticipate your wants for fall so that you can take advantage of prices we are prepared to offer you for present purchases. Carpets—unlike millinery—do not change materially in style. Our present stock contains styles which the fall showings will not improve upon.—J. Mickleborough, St. Thomas.

Carpet bargains for nest builders. The most of us are content to get a home together a little at a time, and it's well it should be so, for half the pleasure is in anticipation. Hence the necessity of spending carefully the carefully saved dollars for the new floor covering. What a pity if one single dollar should be lost.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Seattle, Wash.

Our carpet stocks are rich with the wealth of both foreign and American looms. We have the first selections from all the famous manufacturers, and are able to show you, in addition to the staple lines, a splendid variety of original, novel, and artistic effects in various patterns, and in many color combinations, from the most delicate tones to the deepest Oriental effects.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Probably the buying of no other article of furniture in the home is of so much importance as choosing the carpet. Hence one should be careful to get the best to be had—something that will give the best possible service.—Gable & Co., Altoona, Pa.

Now is the time when old carpets are lifted and new ones made to take their places. If you're thinking of brightening up your house with new carpets, don't do any buying without first seeing the extensive and handsome display that is here.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you are economically inclined choose your fall carpets now. By so doing you can save from one-fourth to one-third of later Fall prices. Many shrewd housekeepers and home furnishers, from far and near, have accepted of the sale's advantages, much to their delight and satisfaction.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Beauty in Carpets.—Carpet buying time is here, and so is our new stock of Fall patterns. We just want to call your attention to our assortment of carpets which has just arrived direct from the mills. Our stock is made up of the newest exclusive designs—with a wide range in qualities, from the cheapest Ingrains to the best grades in Wiltons and Axminster carpets.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

Carpet buying time is here, and the very newest designs and colorings are on our carpet floor in such vast quantities as to almost bewilder you. Never was such art displayed as in this season's new goods; never were the colorings of such a high standard, nor the designs so beautiful. They are positively the nicest carpets we've ever had the pleasure of showing. We are always happy to be able to show our patrons the cream of the manufacturers' art, and in these carpets we can do it.—Hudson's Bay Stores, Vancouver, B. C.

Ours is a one-line-of-goods store—floor coverings exclusively. In buying here, you reap all the advantages of our intimate knowledge of carpets. From the selection of the raw materials entering our mills, to the laying on your floors, every detail undergoes the scrutiny of experts. You have the assurance not only of best wearing quality, but of perfectly done sewing and laying. In addition, we can always offer a substantial price-saving.—John & James Dobson, New York, N. Y.

Carpets to win a place in this stock must possess marked individuality, design and color treatment and be the best values obtainable, yet with all this exclusiveness we must be able to sell them at the lowest prices and yet provide our patrons with floor coverings not obtainable in usual stores and which have distinctive merit.—Fritz & La Rue, Philadelphia, Pa.

Every yard of carpet in our entire stock is substantially reduced in price for the purpose of pushing our sales far ahead of those of any previous season. Notwithstanding these reductions we shall continue to make, lay and line all carpets entirely free of extra cost, which is an additional saving to our patrons of from 20 to 25 cents on every yard. More than this—we make no charge for the two or three yards that are unavoidably wasted in matching figures.—Peter Grogan, Washington, D. C.

Order the new carpet now. Have it cut and made, subject to your call, and then, in a few weeks, when you want it quickly, it will be ready for you.

No mistake can be made in buying carpets early this fall. Thousands of rolls have been withdrawn from the market, owing to the great Philadelphia textile strike. The scarcity of ingrain has compelled buyers to look for other grades; and they, too, show the effect of a restricted output. There's a hint of higher prices in the air. At all events the market cannot well be lower. Timely buying has given us a splendid assortment for your choosing.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

Carpet Buying Time Is Here.—And the very newest designs and colorings are on our carpet floor in such vast quantities as to almost bewilder you. Never was such art displayed as in this season's new goods; never were the colorings of such a high standard, nor the designs so beautiful. They are positively the nicest carpets we've ever had the pleasure of showing. We are always happy to be able to show our patrons the cream of the manufacturers' art, and in these carpets we can do it.—Damon's, Kenton, O.

Carpet Sale!—Small need to talk overmuch about it. You know when we hold a "sale" there's something in it for you. We started the ball a-rolling by our offer of Lowell and Park mills—all wool extra super ingrain at 59c. the yard.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

Now is the time to buy carpets. We've got an early shipment of fine carpets, comprising all the coming season's designs, new colorings and closely woven weaves; just the kind of carpets that wear well, look well and never fade. These carpets were shipped to us by our agents in England, having bought them at mill prices, and as luck would have it they arrived before the advance in freight rates. It just means to you that if you buy your carpets now you will get them for a great deal less than you will have to pay for them when the spring stock arrives and the freight rates rise.—Hudson's Bay Stores, Vancouver, B. C.

Our July clearance carpet sale a most extraordinary bargain event. The announcement of this event will be welcomed by the large number of home furnishers who have taken advantage in the past of the splendid saving opportunities this sale affords. This sale is made possible from the fact that this is the time when we close out all discontinued patterns now in stock, which are underpriced regardless of cost or former selling price. Here are hundreds of rolls of carpet so new and beautiful that no reason exists for selling them a cent below their regular value, except that the patterns are not to be continued this year. All come from the foremost manufacturers and are of the very best quality. The prices, though, bear no relation to the values—but it's not profit we're considering now—it's the closing out of a large assortment of short lengths, part rolls and discontinued patterns, which are marked at prices that will make this sale the greatest bargain opportunity of the season. Think of buying beautiful Wilton, Brussels, Axminster and Velvet carpets at one-third less than regular prices.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Carpeting. Hundreds of artistic designs and beautiful color combinations in every grade. You can hardly become familiar with the season's novelties without a visit to this pioneer carpet store, because of the scores of patterns that we control exclusively in this market. In fine carpets—the Wiltons, the Axminsters and the Brussels—we have never held a more interesting exhibition of well drawn patterns and harmonious colorings. The splendid assortment in each grade gives ample opportunity for the satisfying of individual tastes and the meeting of room requirements. We have been critical in our gathering this season—as we always are—shunning the commonplace and seeking the unique and effective. Our practical knowledge and long experience are at the service of all.—Howe & Rogers Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Carpets. An important clean-up at sharp reductions—we've picked out for immediate riddance several lots of worthy floor coverings—the trade reasons that justify the reductions are logical but dry and trite—hence omitted here. The facts concerning goods involved and price revisions are interesting—read and see.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

House-cleaning season isn't so very far off—even in these snowy times. Isn't it the part of prudence to forelay for it?—C. F. Wing, New Bedford.

Each year we get at the close of the season the "private patterns" which the best maker of Royal Wilton Carpets in America decides to discontinue. And each year they make the best underprice offering of the whole carpet season. These patterns are the choicest product of the mill—those which are confined to one store in a city. We get them at the season's close through favor—because of the store's wide and prompt outlet for fine carpetings.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The carpet store was as busy as the busy basement yesterday. People came in with the opening of the doors and a steady stream of shoppers poured in all day. The carpets mentioned are all new spring stock, just in, and you must remember that the prices are considerably lower than the market value—that is the market value to others. As we bought these, so we will sell them, and you will reap a harvest in good values.—People's Store Co., Tacoma, Wash.

But for the fact that carpet makers discontinue certain patterns at regular intervals carpet designers would find time hanging heavily and scores of thrifty carpet buyers would miss some of the best carpet bargains the trade knows. This is one of the bargain times—a chance of "dropped" patterns. It involves part pieces, as well as full rolls, of room carpets, some with borders to match; hall and stair carpets and a number of odd stair carpets and borders. In some there are a number of lengths of the same pattern. These will command the prices named for lengths over 20 yards. If these pieces could be duplicated there would be no reason for the sacrifice. The wise way is to bring actual room measurements with you, and close the deal promptly for the pattern you wish.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

The most beautiful stock ever brought to Columbus. Anything you want. Ingrains from 20c a yard up. Brussels from 60c a yard up. Velvets from 75c a yard up. Axminster, Royal Wiltons and every known carpet in an endless variety, and please remember, all new, fresh, clean the choicest that money will buy, and you get them for less than other stores charge for their old stock. Won't you come and spend an hour letting us show what we can do for you?—The Kraus, Butler & Benham Co., Columbus, O.

Now is the time to place orders for our specially designed whole carpets, so as to insure delivery in the early autumn. These carpets are hand woven after colored designs prepared by our own artists to harmonize with the decorations of the room. Some of the most desirable weaves are: French Aubusson and Savonnerie, Scotch Chenille Axminster, Berlin, India and Turkey. Our long experience in weaving whole carpets gives positive assurance of satisfactory results.—W. & J. Sloane, New York.

Extraordinary May carpet sale. Discontinued patterns being closed out. We hold a sale of this kind every year. The extraordinary feature of this one is the fact that notwithstanding carpet prices everywhere will be higher in the autumn, the prices in this sale are less than the same grades of carpets cost at the mill. Every yard of the carpet is fine, perfect and the best product of the best mills in the country. But there must be new styles in carpets as in dress fabrics and some patterns have to be dropped to make way for them. It is these designs which we are now offering at such remarkably little prices. Even if you don't expect to need carpets until the fall, it will pay to buy now and hold them rather than wait and pay higher prices than even the regular prices are to-day.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our low prices are emphatic. Your carpet dollars will do double duty here.—Colorado Springs Furniture Company, Colorado Springs, Colo., Feb. 8, 1902.

Among the carpets are many attractive patterns, on which you can save much in cost by buying now for spring needs.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 1, 1902.

The season's newest designs. If you are going to buy a new carpet square, choose a "Crossley" velvet, and let us assist you in the selecting of it. We have just received our new season's stock; all the newest patterns and designs are represented, so you'll find choosing now pleasant and easy. Of all the carpet squares made a velvet is the richest. It has a short heavy pile and takes the patterns and colorings perfectly. Crossley & Sons, of London, England, make the best velvet squares, and we are their sole agents in this city. We buy from them direct, thus are able to save all middlemen's profits, and to sell the rugs to you at a lower cost than rugs of like quality and newness sell in any other store.—Hudson's Bay Co., Vancouver, B. C.

Too much cannot be said of our carpet department. The patterns are prettier than ever. The qualities higher. More beautiful harmony of coloring. Everything that can add to artistic appearance and yet combine superb wearing qualities is the story of this department.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash., Feb. 1, 1902.

Remnant carpet squares at remnant selling prices. You know what these are, we've sold so many of them during our career as the leading Vancouver carpet store that they need but very little introducing. It's only natural that after a very busy season of carpet selling many short lengths of carpets and borders were on hand. These we sent to our carpet-making room to be made up into carpet squares, and to-morrow we offer them to you at remnant prices. They are exactly the same as the carpets sold which the purchasers were pleased to pay full price for—just as serviceable—just as new in design and just as pretty; the only difference is the price, and that's in your favor. Just read the sizes over, and if there's one in the list that fits your requirements be on hand early to-morrow to purchase it, for there'll be a rush for them, sure to be, there always is.—Hudson's Bay Stores, Vancouver, B. C.

A sale—short end carpets. All grades—sixty pieces—varied lengths—prices cut to cost. During our annual July sale we are going to offer you a choice of about sixty pieces of carpeting, ranging in length from five up to thirty-three yards. The grades are extra wiltons, axminsters, velvets, body brussels and tapestries, in fact, all the popular makes of floor coverings. You will find pieces large enough to cover good sized rooms or pieces that will make room size rugs. The prices asked are listed below, and a glance will prove that values have been cut deep. The early shoppers will get the cream of the stock. Don't you want to be a skimmer? Each piece must be sold entire, and pieces with border will have the border listed directly under carpet.—The Grote-Rankin Co., Spokane, Wash.

A notable carpet sale. Thousands of yards, all under price. Carpets ranging from good grades up to the most magnificent product of American mills. Patterns in such immense assortment that any possible taste or need can be satisfied. Prices so low that in a great many instances the mills would not now take our orders at wholesale for as little as you are asked to pay. It is the time to buy carpets. It is the time to discover—if you have not already done so—how unusual in breadth and character is the stock of good carpets in this store.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Lively doings this week in the carpet and rug section. Every possible need and every desire, no matter how ambitious, can be met in the floor-covering line at Barie's. Our stock of fine carpets, rugs and linoleums is simply inexhaustible this season, graded from the cheapest ingrain at a few cents a yard to the exquisite wilton velvets fit for the millionaire's home. Bring your carpet wants here, we will figure with you and make you the very best possible price. Inspection invited this week.—The Wm. Barie Dry Goods Co., Saginaw, Mich.

Every yard of the carpet is fine, perfect and the best product of the best mills in the country. But there must be new styles in carpets as in dress fabrics, and some patterns have to be dropped to make way for them. It is these designs which we are now offering at such remarkably little prices. Even if you don't expect to need carpets until the fall, it will pay to buy now and hold them rather than wait and pay higher prices than even the regular prices are to-day.—Frederick Loeser & Co., New York.

We have decided to have a busy—very busy—week in our carpet, rug and drapery Departments. We want you to see our showing of them—we want you to see how satisfactorily you really can buy carpets and rugs and draperies here. So, for this week, then, there are going to be price inducements for you to fill your carpet wants. Every kind of a floor covering, and portieres and lace curtains, are to be included in the special pricing—and the saving is to be mightily worth while. Terms of your own making during this great sale.—North Star, St. Paul, Minn.

Beautiful floor coverings, woven by the peasantry of the Far East, in those inimitable designs and color effects that have been handed down unchanged from father to son for perhaps hundreds of years. We have just opened up some bales of these magnificent rugs. They are in excellent condition, and are simply wonderful value at the low prices we ask. The makes represented are Kazack, Carabagh, Shirvan, Hamadan, Moussoul, Guendjes, Anatolian. Sizes range from a small mat to a good-sized hall rug, and the prices from $6 to $35.—John Kay, Son & Co., Toronto, Ont.

English axminster carpets. We are showing in our present magnificent stock of axminster carpets, the handsomest parlor effects that we have ever seen. These comprise the cream of the new weaves of leading English carpet designer-artists, as selected personally by our own buyer. These are qualities of the highest merit, and emphasize to what saving effect the great purchasing power of this store has been exerted on behalf of its patrons.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

New carpets. A generous assortment of new spring carpets—early arrivals—is now on show. Carpets certainly (barring left-overs) will be no cheaper. We think it the part of prudence to buy early. Carpets selected now will be made and held subject to your orders. See the new ingrains and tapestries. New carpet rugs also are worthy your attention. We invite your inspection.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

English axminster carpets. The importance of this splendid stock of new carpets, with which our carpet floors are covered, couldn't possibly be better estimated than by the beauty of coloring, the variety of pattern, the depth of pile presented in these splendid axminster carpets at $1.50 yard. The superiority of Eaton quality and Eaton value couldn't be more convincingly demonstrated.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

You can put it down as a positive fact, carpets are higher, all manufacturers have given fair warning to that effect long ago, so future deliveries of carpets will cost you more, but meantime we are holding our February carpet sale with prices as low as the lowest you've known similarly good floor coverings sold at for years.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

The kinds you admire as you do rarely beautiful pictures. Just such color plays and shadings as you see in brush work. Art weaving at its best, you will say.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton.

Extra heavy reversible wool Smyrnas, from a manufacturer who never sacrifices quality in order to meet low price. These came from the mills' semi-annual clear-up. Twice a year we get rugs from this source.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Tempting bargains in carpets and rugs. This is the best place to buy carpets and rugs. Strong statement? Well, we'll stand by it. Our reputation stands back of every offering; we cannot afford to sell anything but the most reliable, and the way we buy enables us to bring the selling prices down far below the market. Unusual as it may seem, with prices for materials advancing, and when carpets are in demand, we are glad to be able to announce our money-saving prices. Everything in the grand stock is a genuine bargain that will stand the closest scrutiny—bargains that we have no hesitation in saying cannot be matched elsewhere.—Scranton Carpet & Furniture Co., Scranton, Pa.

A very heavy quality and one of the most serviceable carpets there is made; comes in a choice assortment of beautiful room patterns with borders to match; also designs suitable for hall or stair use.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Beautiful thick pile carpets—some of our handsomest patterns among them. Lessened price, of course, for short lengths—save as much as sixty-eight cents a yard on some of these! No need to say much about the splendid wear they'll give.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Our tremendous sale of carpets a record breaker. Hundreds upon hundreds of rolls have been sold and still the opportunity holds good and the chance to save on every yard is assured to all customers. Not again this year will you see such low prices on floor coverings. After this great purchase is sold the same factors that have prevented other dealers from offering carpets at these prices will prevail in our own case. First—The tremendous shortage throughout the markets. Second—The increased demand. Third—The increase in cost of production. All these factors are now operative, and only by taking time by the forelock have we been able to distance our competitors, and we are now able to offer these carpets at retail for about what dealers have to pay at wholesale at the present time. Merchants, wholesalers, dealers, hotel men, summer house owners. We can supply your needs and save you money—no limitations—the more you buy the more you save.—The Boston Store, Troy.

Heavy English brussels carpets. Have you noticed the increased beauty of both color and pattern in the new brussels squares this spring? We don't know whether to give credit to the weavers or to the extra care with which our buyer made his selection. Probably both are deserving. At any rate, we have never seen handsomer brussels—never. They are usurping floors formerly covered by wiltons and axminsters—they are that handsome.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Final clearance of carpets. The last of the Dunlap stock. The remnants of one of the most wonderful carpet sales that has ever come to the notice of Milwaukeeans will go on sale Thursday to a finish. This announcement should be particularly interesting to hotel owners, steamboat furnishers as well as home furnishers.—Gimbel's, Milwaukee, Wis.

There should be a host of eager buyers in the carpet department to-morrow, for the number of persons furnishing with rugs is steadily increasing. And this is autumn furnishing time—values like these could not be more timely.—Pomeroy & Stewart, Harrisburg, Pa.

Special sale of carpets for this week. You cannot afford to overlook a single item in the following lists, if you've the slightest notion of having new carpets for any or every room in the house, for not only are the qualities offered superior in every respect to those ordinarily handled in rug stores, but there is an immense variety to select from. You'll not find conditions different in any way from what they're here represented to be.—Coulkert D. G. Co., Los Angeles.

Do you wonder that we're busy selling carpets? When we're putting $3 to $8 back in every customer's pocket that carpets a room from this grand stock of ours through our generous system of making, laying and lining all carpets free of charge. All bright new patterns. Every one this spring's design from the leading and best mills.—Story's, Camden, N. J.

These fine wearing English carpets are the best productions of such famous makers as Templeton and Crossley, and are confined to us for Hamilton. They were bought before recent price advances, and show considerable savings over to-day's real worth. They are unequaled for richness of pattern, beauty of coloring and good wearing ability. A fine assortment for your selection. Borders and stairs to match if desired. All made, laid and lined free of charge.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

The wonderful values offered is making this carpet and rug sale a phenomenal success, coming as it has just in time when the new floor coverings are needed. The stocks were never as large and color combinations in all floor coverings never as beautiful as this season, which makes selections very easy. We guarantee the price of everything we sell to be as low or lower than the same article or pattern can be bought anywhere else. If in a day, a week, or a month later you find the same thing lower elsewhere make a claim upon us and it will be allowed at once. What broader guarantee can be given; it should make shopping very safe and especially as we deal only in the very best of everything.—Kinnane's, Springfield, O.

Our opening display in the carpet department has always been followed by an excellent trade, but this year it has been much larger than usual—we have sold to more people in Montgomery and in the surrounding territory, and larger individual bills than heretofore, which we consider a very sound endorsement of the values which we offer and the completeness of our stock. Fact is, there is hardly any grade of goods usually carried in such a department that cannot be found here, and the variety in patterns, colors and sizes is so great that any one can find just what they want. As for prices, quality and style considered, not even the larger trade centers offer any better opportunities, and our patrons are thoughtful enough to commend us for our reasonable rates.—Jno. L. Cobbs & Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Every housekeeper knows that carpets are an important item in the household expenses, and for that reason particular care should be taken in their selection. We make a special feature of our carpet business, pay close attention to the tastes of our customers, and watch all qualities that enter our store with a jealous eye. Our long experience enables us to judge qualities at their true values, and we protect our customers' interest with ceaseless vigilance. We are showing a very large and well assorted stock of carpeting this year, both in piece goods and made-up rugs, and the immense business we do in this line enables us to quote better values than you can get anywhere else.—House & Herrmann, Washington, D. C.

As we contemplate some changes prior to our spring trade we are putting special reduced prices on our entire stock of oriental rugs and carpets, both antique and modern—which offers an exceptional opportunity to rug buyers. Our stock is probably the largest and choicest in the state—taking in all kinds, designs and sizes.—E. G. Missiriam, New Haven, Conn.

Fine buying opportunities are afforded those who are looking for rugs in the January sale. The reductions from our regular fair prices are most decided and will certainly be appreciated by economical folks.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

In our carpet department you get something that you don't get everywhere. That is, guaranteed workmanship. If it is not satisfactory, we make it so, without a word. If you want a nice rug, and can't find the colors to suit, come here, select a pattern of carpet and we will make you one that will please in every way. Besides, you can have it made allowing any desired margin on the sides or ends. The rugs we make are well-made rugs. Come and inspect them, whether you are interested or not.—Louis Einstein & Co., Fresno.

New lovely Axminsters. The soft pile of our new Axminsters gives the carpet the most captivating tread touch of the richest and most handsome quality one can possibly fancy. In fact, these Axminsters are as near perfection as can be imagined. The wearing quality of the superb weaves is only excelled by the marvelously beautiful designs, in such artistic blends and magnificent colorings. Each new design is a scheme of great merit. Are you interested in floor coverings of the most exclusive type, in a decided new style, absolutely correct? We can show you many of the best in the newest novelties.—Hudson's Bay Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Best English Tapestry Carpets, 90c yard. There's more in buying carpets from our point of view than selecting from a lot of samples of a traveling salesman. That would never do—for the Eaton stores. Our buyers go straight to the largest carpet mills in the world and take their pick, and when there's nothing to suit have carpets specially woven for them—you'll find our name on many carpets woven in the selvedge. In no other way can the best carpet be had.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Axminsters—Aristocrats of Carpetdom. Spring stock arrivals brought us the finest range we've ever had in these beautiful carpets—both in richness of color, effect and artistic design. In many things one must sacrifice either beauty or long-wearing quality—but not so in these Axminsters. The soft, perfectly blended colorings, the deep, velvety pile, endow them with all the attributes of luxury and their splendid wearing quality makes them, at Eaton price, one of the most economical carpets possible to buy.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

That's the news our big carpet section has for Kansas City home furnishers this morning. The story of how we got this purchase would be a story of how a big dealer had more carpets than he could handle. We did the unloading for him. He lost and lost heavily for our offer was a big lot less than the manufacturers' selling price. And body brussels is in high favor, too. Look for the words "Biglow-Lowell" woven in the back of each yard—that is the guarantee of high quality for you. There is every point about this carpet that could be wished for—the quality is excellent, the designs are desirable, the colorings are principally light, many in two-toned effects, such as blue, pink, rose and tan; some have borders to match; there are patterns and colors for bed rooms, sitting rooms, sewing rooms and parlors, and the price is away below what could be expected even in a special sale. Of some patterns there are only 25 to 35 yards, of others full rolls of 45 to 50 yards, in some instances upwards of 150 yards are alike. Our total purchase was 1,210 yards, and we consider this offer the best we ever made. If you shop around, you will find this grade of body brussels is regularly sold at $1.75 a yard. These 1,210 yards will go on sale beginning this morning at 8 o'clock.—Emery, Bird, Thayer, Kansas City, Mo.

We have just finished stock-taking and will make big reductions in price of all odd rolls and short lengths in Axminster, velvet and tapestry carpets. Bring the size of your room; see them in our window; some splendid patterns from sixteen to forty-five yards in the roll. All sold on easy payments and no interest.—Chas. M. Campbell, Sacramento.

Experience with inferior qualities of floor cloth does more to sell good linoleum than any other influence. It is economy to buy inlaid linoleum, because the pattern is part of the fabric, goes clear through to the back, and remains strong and distinct until the material is worn out.—W. & J. Sloane, New York City.

Two thousand yards of linoleum that are slightly imperfect in printing, but perfect as to wear. In most pieces it's hard to even find the misprint. 60c. kind at 37c. square yard.—Gimbel's, Milwaukee, Wis.

Beautiful Wiltons and Axminsters. Carpets of wonderful durability, woven of hard twisted yarns, producing a pile that will stand any amount of hard wear without becoming pressed down. We sell the famous productions of Crossley and Templeton, the world's best carpet weavers. These are confined to us for Hamilton.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Our closing-out carpet sale is nearing the end, and as the stock is pretty well broken we have decided to make still heavier price reductions. The patterns are the best—the qualities the highest standard. This is an opportunity to buy carpets at considerable less than they can be bought for from the manufacturer—it means a saving of from 1-3 to 1-2 the regular prices.—L. W. Cook, Harrisburg, Pa.

The name of Ivins, Dietz & Magee has been associated with the carpet business of this city for over forty years. To-day we are the only exclusive carpet house with a record of over a dozen years. Our progress has been steady, strong and sure, based on the foundations of strict integrity and dependable goods. We have catered to the actual needs of our customers and have never betrayed their confidence.—Ivins, Dietz & Magee, Philadelphia, Pa.

As we contemplate some changes prior to our spring trade we are putting special reduced prices on our entire stock of oriental rugs and carpets, both antique and modern—which offers an exceptional opportunity to rug buyers. Our stock is probably the largest and choicest in the state.—taking in all kinds, designs and sizes.—E. G. Missirian, New Haven, Conn.

Old shabby worn out carpets transformed into handsome rugs with rich oriental colors. Made into different sizes to suit requirements. Hardly a house but has some old carpets in the attic. Hardly a housewife who would not like one or two nice rugs. 'Phone, write or call and let us show you how you can use the old carpets and get new rugs.—Sam'l Stein, New Haven, Conn.

Linoleums and kindred floor coverings. Linoleum—cool in summer, warm in winter, clean all the year round and wears everlastingly. For offices and public places; for halls and kitchens of private houses it is exactly what is wanted.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Nearly two carloads of linoleums have been placed on sale within a week. We are showing a magnificent line of the new tile patterns in the finest inlaid goods. Inlaid linoleums are the most economical and satisfactory long-wear floor coverings for office, store, kitchen or bath rooms we know; the colors go clear through the goods from face to back and never wear off.—Los Angeles Furniture Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Smiling times will once again gladden your home life if you cover your floors with Catesbys' Cork Lino, and throw to one side the oil cloth or carpet that by its shabby state has caused your rooms to lose the cheerful aspect once so evident. You cannot make your rooms look nice and bright if the floor covering is faulty, and as oilcloth and carpet become faulty very quickly, you should assure yourself of a permanently pretty and beaming home by using Catesbys' Cork Lino. The patterns wear brightly for years, and no scrubbing is required to keep them clean.—Catesby & Sons, London.

New inlaid linoleums, new patterns, new colors, and some priced as low as 75c. yard, and that's a price privilege for which you can thank this Eaton store for introducing. Our new linoleums show the pick of the new patterns and new color effects. Selections are at their best just now.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Five hundred yards of inlaid linoleum remnants to go on sale to-morrow at very special price. The lengths range from three to five yards each—all two yards wide—a number of good patterns and all well-seasoned goods—the kind in which the color goes through to the back—regular $1.25 per square yard—Friday special at 75c.—L. Bamberger & Co., Newark, N. J.

Inlaid linoleums also descend the price scale. Thirty-seven rolls from our well-assorted stock—all in perfect condition.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Mill ends, but what difference does that make, so long as you get quantity you want, and by exercising a little patience, with the willing help of a salesman you're quite sure of finding just what you want. A half hundred patterns to choose from. Lengths run from two to six yards. Many of the ends are of the same style, all two yards wide.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

The ideal covering for kitchen and dining room floors. We show a large range of patterns in the high-class printed qualities, both in block and floral patterns. In inlaid (in this kind the pattern goes through to the back) we show the best German and American makes. We have a large line of four yards wide goods, not any more expensive than the ordinary two yards wide of a like quality. We cut and lay all linoleums without extra charge. We have expert workmen and guarantee a good job. Our prices are always the lowest for high-grade goods. Come in and see the line.—The Howard Furniture Co., Lansing, Mich.

The new, clean and cool floor coverings are Mattings. They come in plain, cheap designs for the sleeping rooms and in beautiful carpet patterns for the living rooms. When wiped with a damp cloth a matting is made fresh and clean, like new.—Burger's Furniture Store, Schenectady, N. Y.

Summer Floor Coverings.—We have almost infinite variety of the cool, decorative and substantial floor coverings that summer homes demand. A delightful collection from which to choose—a gratifying stock from which to buy, for there are economies to double the satisfaction of the purchase.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Straw Mattings.—Just the kind you are looking for. Some of the prettiest carpet effects in Japanese fine twine warps or the solid China in pretty checks and lines.—Waite's, New Bedford, Mass.

Old mattings are the bane of housekeepers. They won't lie flat; they wrinkle and pucker, and snap and loosen. Every roll here is fresh—new—made from the last crop of straw.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

Fiber carpets. These are becoming more popular every day—it's accountable. We are all glad to substitute gauze for flannel during summer, and what gauze is to the body, fiber carpet is in the home—restful, cool, desirable. It wears and wears, still it remains beautiful.—Judson Hooper & Co., Trenton, N. J.

New Mattings. We imported our mattings from Akawo Morimora & Co., at Kobe, Japan. By so doing we get them 25 per cent. cheaper than buying them from a jobber. To-day we place 200 rolls of fine 180 warp long straw mattings, either fancy or carpet patterns, every roll brand new; also beautiful in-laid patterns, only 24c. yard.—Sullivan's, Springfield, Ohio.

Fiber Matting. Positively the best wearing matting made. This matting is reversible; consequently it gives double wear. It is a soft, pliable, clean, odorless, sanitary matting, woven of a foreign vegetable fiber. It has no nap to collect dust or lint. Germs cannot find lodgment in it. It is exempt from injury by moths. It is very reasonable in price and the most economical floor covering obtainable.—Grasmann's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

They were pleased, you will be. A gentleman said to his wife, who was looking for matting: "If you can't find what you want here there is no use to look further." She found it. A lady said to her companion, who was looking for a fine carpet: "You surely ought to be pleased out of all this stock. She was pleased. We say to you who are looking for floor coverings of any kind, we can please you. Try us. Carpet department.—Chas. H. Jones, Denison, Tex.

For the porch floor. A variety of attractive floor coverings are made for the porch, chief among them are these: Crex matting in plain green, plain red and green with white stripe, 1 1-2 and 2 yards wide. Crex porch rugs serve the purpose admirably. Moodj rugs are odd creations, but for outdoor use there is nothing better. They are made of cocoanut fiber and guaranteed against sun and rain. In size—4x7, 6x9 and 5x12 feet.—Sisson Bros.-Welden Co., Binghamton.

See our display of fine mattings. In one of the show windows this week we are showing a few sample rolls from our big stock of Jap and China mattings. We think you'll agree that every roll looks bright enough and good enough to grace most any floor. This is the ideal summer floor-covering and we are stocked completely to suit every want in the matting line. Most any color or combination of colors your fancy craves for are here.—C. C. Chew, "Bee Hive" Store, Camden, N. J.

When you put a "Crex" rug on your floor you have a clean and sanitary floor covering, one that is very low-priced, one that looks neat and attractive, one that wears well, and one that we never heard described as unsatisfactory. They do not crack, they can be easily swept or washed, and you can use them to as good advantage out on your veranda as you can inside the house. We also have a large stock of plain and figured Chinese and Japanese mattings.—Chas. R. Hart Co., Hartford, Conn.

Mattings are popular and they speak eloquently of cool cleanliness and long service, if you have care as to where you buy them. We have a representative line this season, our showing of inexpensive carpet designs being particularly good. There is a saving of $2.00 over the cut price by taking a full roll.—Wilmington Furniture Co., Wilmington, Del.

Matting of every kind is becoming scarce in this country and prices are steadily advancing. We contracted for large shipments some time ago, and therefore sell our mattings 10 to 15 per cent. less than prevailing prices. As long as our present supply lasts we will give the trade advantage of this saving. There are more reasons than one why you should buy mattings here. Carpet department.—Chas. H. Jones, Denison, Texas.

Direct importation straw mattings, both China and Japanese, in great variety. Prices very low, quality considered. Also a full line of Crex! In mats, rug size and piece goods. Lowest prices in the city. We bought before the advance.—The Linus T. Fenn Co., Hartford, Conn.

The length of time that we will be able to offer you these mattings at this price will be governed entirely by the lot on hand. Can't duplicate them. These are not carry-overs, indifferent patterns, brittle, dried out kinds, that give unsatisfactory wear, but freshly imported kinds. Cotton warp, you know; both sides alike. Persian, Japanese and Americanized designs, all-over patterns.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

An exceptional offering of straw mattings.—A thousand rolls of $10 Japanese mattings at $5 a roll! The importer stands this loss, which brings one of the best offerings of the season, in summer floor-coverings. The weave is close and fine. The selvages are strongly made and neatly finished. You can sew it together like a carpet, or fasten it down with tacks.—Wanamaker, New York.

A summer matting invitation from the carpet store.—They were made by G. Z. Akawo of Kobe, Japan, for the St. Louis Exhibition—but he made more than he needed and so we will have a little exhibition of our own—only one roll of a pattern—and we need hardly tell you the quality is A No. 1. The designs are the indescribably artistic geometrical carpet effects the Japs have down so fine, some decided novelties in the lot. With each roll go two samples, nicely fringed, which makes a beautiful mat.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We have just received a fresh importation of straw mattings, in the finest weaves and handsomest effects that come from China and Japan. In our unique exhibit of hand wrought willow, reed, prairie grass and mission furniture are many artistic, durable pieces that are specially intended for summer furnishings, and they are all offered at economical prices.—B. C. Latimer & Sons Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mattings bought in Japan, rich, soft, heavy weaves. If you could read the correspondence of our buyer who crossed the Pacific some months ago, to buy mattings, you would better understand why Hale mattings are used so much. They have just been unloaded from the steamer which touched a local shipping port last week. A Japanese manufacturer, whose mattings are chiefly used by the better classes in his own country, sold to the Hale stores the largest single purchase ever recorded. Of course there was a handsome saving for us. But the point is—these are uncommon, beautiful ideas in mattings. They are nearly proof against wear. So soft, so fantastic—that every home could be beautified by their use. For cottages, they add a touch of quaintness—that odd yet pleasing air you admire in the artist's home.—Hale's, Los Angeles.

The biggest one-day matting sale ever known in Galveston. Three carloads reached us yesterday. They are all fresh and new in their original jackets.—Garbade, Eibaud & Co., Galveston, Texas.

Spring awakens. The matting-time has come. New nests are to be feathered and we greet the season in a brilliant opening! Four floors jammed! Thousands of new pieces! Each one a gem, each a bargain! Our stock is far the largest and our prices the lowest.—Straus, Baltimore, Md.

A week of mattings. 250 rolls high grade Jap weaves. A momentous event. You will have to be on hand early to secure a yard of these matting straws. Murder will out, and so will a good, ripe bargain. It is the most extraordinary happening in floor coverings in many a long day, and we are going on record with it. Every yard inter-woven and double-dyed. Bless the Japs for their artistic talent for weaving these pretty carpet patterns in straws. The striking color-designs in blue, green and red strewn over the face are as refreshing to look upon as a field of daisies. Also plain white.—Keely's, Atlanta, Ga.

A sister bargain in china mattings. China has surely sent us real oil for lubricating business—the oil of satisfaction. Low prices prevail only on these lots. So you'll have to decide right quick if it's your matting time. Put China down for hard wearing straws—tough and serviceable.—Keely's, Atlanta.

Matting.—“Straws show which way the wind blows.” These straw matting prices indicate a strong bargain breeze here to-morrow—all are fresh, new goods—they don't chip and break off like dry sticks.—The Boston Store, Milwaukee.

We counted it a streak of good luck to find an importer anxious to sell Japanese mattings at half price right at the beginning of the summer season. We took all he had, as a matter of course, because we know that you will be as eager for the bargain as we were.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Days like these are forcible reminders of the clean, cool comfort that fresh, new straw matting can bring to city homes and summer cottages. On this important and timely matter perhaps the best thing we can say is that months ago we prepared for all the needs that now exist. We prepared to surprise Rochester housewives by the values we will give in straw matting. We captured a fine prize for our customers when, by an opportune deal, we secured a lot of 10,000 yards of imported Chinese and Japanese straw matting to sell at prices that are clearly much less than the actual value of the goods.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Emphatic matting bargains! You should know our little price way of selling mattings. To-morrow $7 rolls of 40 yards, $3.75. Another case where our buyer and the opportunity simultaneously met—the quantity is about 600 rolls—the variety enormous—the saving from a third to a half. The person with a slim purse and a matting need will do well to see us to-morrow.—Newman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our matting business has made almost phenomenal gains over former seasons, because, as we think, our importations have proved to be the most satisfactory, in quality and variety, in this city. Several specially attractive lots have been made up by taking from regular stock certain grades of which we had extra large quantities.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

The matting business is immense. Gathering our own goods in the Orient and fetching them straight to the store gives us some advantage in price—and much advantage in quality and style. Gimbel mattings wear best.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Mattings as floor coverings—have you considered them? Perhaps you haven't seen all the fine things that are produced in these goods. You can see them all here—all.—The Chas. R. Hart Co., Hartford, Conn.

We've cornered the market on mattings. We'll show you more mattings by several hundred rolls than any other Pittsburg house. We'll show you hundreds of patterns where others can produce but scores. We'll show you choicer styles—and, too, many distinctly exclusive ones. And we'll also quote you lower prices—that's logical because we are biggest buyers and sellers.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

And this is why this week you are offered the opportunity of buying the finest linen warp, hand-loomed Japanese mattings at slightly more than half the usual retail figures. Never before in this city was such a matting sale held—probably no such values will ever again be offered. It is the chance of a decade—an opportunity for money-saving that shrewd, well-posted buyers will be quick to take advantage of. Don't miss it. The sale price is per yard 25 cents. And the sale began this morning.—Keely Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Mattings.—Through an error of an importing house a large order of Japanese mattings shipped to us was duplicated, the second shipment leaving San Francisco before the mistake was discovered. Rather than have the shipment returned, paying the large freight charges both ways, the importers requested us to sell the entire lot at importer's prices for their account.

Mattings have the floor. Arguments all on one side. Fresher, airier, cooler, cleaner than carpet.—Chamberlain-Johnson-Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Mattings and matting rugs.—It may seem a little early to talk about summer floor coverings, but hosts of housekeepers lay mattings at spring cleaning time; and then, too, summer homes must be made ready before the time of their occupancy. Our mattings are choice in every line, the very best values for the money.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Clean, cool mattings. An ideal floor covering for all time, but especially attractive in summer time. Always in harmony with any scheme of color or furnishings, displaying rugs to good advantage.—Fenn, The Furniture Man, Hartford, Conn.

Summer floor coverings.—Blessings on the ancient Chinaman who invented mattings—the beautiful, serviceable, cleanly, pleasant summer floor coverings. How any one can endure heavy, dusty carpets on hot summer days when these cool, pretty mattings can be bought so cheaply is past imagining.—Keely's, Atlanta, Ga.

Straw mattings.—Many housewives will "take time by the forelock" and cover their bedroom floors with straw matting during the spring house cleaning, instead of waiting until the arrival of hot weather. They will find us admirably prepared to satisfy every want, in both China and Japanese mattings, with a variety that was never so large and choice and a range of prices that was never lower. Many dainty effects in small floral designs shown, besides rich carpet patterns and plain weaves.—Howe & Rogers Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Smyrna Rugs, Half Priced.—The best quality of all wool, reversible rugs in a considerable variety of good designs and colorings. The most popular sizes, too. It is a chance that has nowhere been equaled.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Rugs are ideal summer floor coverings. Let the house breathe, if you yourself want to breathe fresh air in your home through the summer. Replace the thick, heavy carpets with attractive summery rugs. Wonderful variety here! Skillfully woven rarities, the hues of which will blend harmoniously with almost any fine scheme of furnishing. Strikingly odd are others, with panel centers, almost like pictures, woven into them. Others bathe their colors in a peculiarly soft, elusive luster. Loom wizards have mellowed the colors and softened the fabrics into indescribable beauty. Beauty-loving eyes will delight to linger on them!—Comstock-Avery Furniture Co., Peoria, Ill.

Getting your share of these Smyrna rugs? The finest Smyrna rugs made in America—all wool and reversible and in unusually fine new designs. Nothing to account for the lowered prices except the fact that the maker wanted to lighten stock. Not in many months has there been such an offering. It may be that not in years will there be another to equal it. If you have rugs to buy, don't miss the chance.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Just think what this means. A great big 9x11 foot Brussels Rug, correct for any size room in your home, being offered at $12.50—the lowest price ever named for a rug of this size and quality. The same identical $20 grade that we've sold by the thousands at $13.75. We know this offer will create a sensation. Nothing like it was ever known before. These rugs are made of genuine Tapestry Brussels, a strong, durable quality, that will give excellent wear and hold their color. The new spring patterns are delightfully pretty and equal in quality to any $20 rug offered elsewhere.—Geo. Kelly's, Wilmington, Del.

Rugs as Christmas gifts. We invite all lovers of beautiful rugs to visit our store. We present this season by far the most extensive assemblage of all kinds of rugs we have ever brought together. You will find careful and expert selection. The oriental rugs come from only the most trustworthy sources of supply. All the rugs are in authenticated qualities, and the prices are the lowest for which equal grades can be found anywhere.—The Sterling & Welch Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Moquets and Velvets.—Rugs from $1 up, and a rich line of linoleums and oilcloths in 6 and 12 ft. widths. Look over your rooms and see if you can't use something from our carpet room. Our prices will be no strain on your purse.—I. T. Martin, Los Angeles, Cal.

Good news for June brides and those late at housecleaning. May is a month of great preparations among prospective June brides. The bride who is to be and the friends who are to make her happy with the gifts—both are busy planning, and it just so happens that right at the time when you'll want to "decide," we come with some rich news of bargains in desirable furnishings for the home. It was our fortune to join hands with another big dealer last week in buying up a great quantity of fine rugs at the big sale of Alex. Smith & Sons Co. Having the great output of three big stores, enabled us to take half of the rugs. We're going to sell them to you for as little as we would ordinarily have to pay wholesale. Think of this opportunity—such a collection of beautiful rugs that have never before been offered at such low prices.—Hurley-Tobin Co., Trenton.

Christmas sale oriental rugs. Conforming to our yearly custom, we have placed on sale for the holiday season every oriental rug in this great collection at a price much less than regular value. The assortment in all sizes and qualities of Turkish, Persian and India weaves is so large that practically every requirement can be met for home furnishing or for gift-making.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Oriental rugs: one-fourth reduction. Every rug in the stock, excepting only one, a remarkable double-faced Senna, and excepting all room sizes as well. There are pretty near five hundred rugs for you to choose from. One-fourth off from regular prices. The offer ends with the year—on the night of December 31st. It's a chance for you—a once-a-year chance. It's done to reduce our stock before inventory, and at the same time to push oriental rugs as Christmas gift things.—Herz's, Terre Haute, Ind.

A new rug, perhaps, will put your parlor or dining room in perfect order to receive the guests for the Thanksgiving dinner. At this store you will find the assortment so large that selection will be comparatively easy. Every good weave is here in a variety of colorings and designs that cannot fail to please the most careful purchaser. You'll find the right size here, too. We make a specialty of having all sizes.—Greene's, Jersey City, N. J.

Domestic rugs—large or special size. Very sensible presents. We were among the very first rug stores to realize the great demand for rugs over 9x12 feet. In most rug stores they will tell you that they can have them made for you, which means weeks and very often months before they come from the mills. Here you will find them in stock in a great variety of sizes, both small over-figures as well as medallions, many of which are made specially for us and which you will not find elsewhere, and as everything else in the rug store, moderately priced.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Here are rugs of the kind that will surely please you. Our new spring stock of rugs is certainly generous enough in size and assortment to afford most ample opportunity for the individual fancy of careful purchasers. Tapestries, body brussels, velvets, Smyrnas, axminsters and royal wiltons are all represented in the very best of their respective weaves. The larger sizes range from 6x9 to 11-6x13-6. The textures are such as come only from the leading makers, while the designs are as attractive and handsome as you'll find anywhere from which to choose. As to values—well, we'll leave that to your own good judgment when you see the rugs themselves and compare the prices to the qualities.—Vance-Fitzgibbons Furn. Co., Joliet, Ill.

Our matchless collection of Bigelow carpet rugs. An assemblage of the splendid rugs made by the Bigelow Carpet Co., that we have never before equalled in numbers or patterns. In fact nearly every design produced by this famous mill is represented on our display racks—Wellington wiltons, Bagdad wiltons, three grades of body brussels, and electra axminsters. All in the soft, harmonious colorings—the rich patterns that originate with this mill—which sets the styles for carpet and rug makers generally. To the discerning mind there is but one course open in rug buying—to get the best. That leads you straight to the Bigelow make. There is no higher appeal. Bigelow rugs are indisputably best. You will buy where the largest stocks of such rugs are shown, both for variety and because prices are most reasonable at the store that does the heaviest buying and most selling—the Mills store, in this case. Not only can we supply every desirable size in carpet rugs, but can furnish the same patterns in small sizes down to door mats and hall runners. This makes it possible to have your parlors and reception hall carpeted in harmony—an effect difficult to obtain when selecting from limited stocks. You will be surprised to learn how little difference there is between the prices of these high-grade rugs and ordinary kinds.—The Mills Co., Topeka.

Little prices, big values, big business—that's an abbreviated history of our success. Another large shipment of rugs—in last week; selling fast; we expected it—they're sure to go when people know, and it seems as if everybody in Trenton does know. Rug stock—largest in the history of our store, hundreds to choose from, all very handsome—weaves that wear. Here is how we price them. These mostly Oriental effects: Royal Miltons 9x12, $40 kinds $33.50; Royal Wiltons 9x12, $45 kinds $37.50. All other kinds of good rugs at similar reductions.—Judson Hooper & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Lessening the labors of sweeping means much to the busy housekeeper. Distinct from its many merits as a durable and attractive carpet, the Brussels makes a strong appeal on the score of easy sweeping. Dust does not readily work into the fabric but rests upon the surface to be easily removed by the carpet-sweeper or broom. All that a carpet can contribute to health and to the saving of labor in the home is found in the Brussels. Our stock of Brussels carpets is the largest in Hartford.—Chas. R. Hart Co., Hartford, Conn.

See the new Royal Axminster rugs—handsome rugs, suitable for the parlor, library, living and sleeping room. Each one full 9x12 in size. Made from a superior quality of Axminster carpeting, in handsome designs and rich border effects. These are rugs that you can buy with the assurance that they will give years of solid wear. One hundred new patterns are here that are sure to meet with your admiration—nothing to equal ever under $35.00. Special at Rowland's on easy terms of $3.50 cash and $1.00 a week.—Rowland & Co.'s Big Store, Mansfield, Ohio.

Extraordinary values in rich rugs. Here for your selection is the largest collection of beautiful and exquisite rugs ever shown in Hamilton. Rugs from the far East bringing much of its mysticism and inscrutable charm with them. Rugs from Europe woven in one piece by master rug-makers. Vast assortments of them revealing a wealth of beautiful new designs, ideas and soft harmonious shadings, and never, we think, have values been so good. Visit the department tomorrow and let the rugs speak for themselves. Meré words cannot convey a full realization of their beauty.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Our entire stock of oriental rugs—the largest in the West—is included in this very unusual offer. If you want to pick rugs for your home from a stock that includes nothing but the gems from the Orient, selected by our own buyer, imported by us direct; and if you want to pay just half the regular prices, come to this sale. Our rug department is located on the top floor, and there is no artificial light to confuse you as to colors.—Los Angeles Furniture Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

We are showing the largest and best assorted line of this desirable make of rug on the coast. As the mill has oversold on this line of rugs and withdrawn some from the market for the balance of the season it will be impossible at a later date to procure this make of rug. In addition to above line we are showing over 250 patterns of rugs in all makes and sizes.—Brewner's, Sacramento, Cal.

We are prepared to furnish any size rug wanted. We will furnish special designs and colorings to match any scheme of interior decoration. We have Axminsters ranging in price from $15.00 to $80.00 a square yard—these are woven in one piece—any size. Our regular line of Wiltons, Axminsters, velvet and Brussels rugs are shown in all the regular sizes. The spring patterns are arriving daily. Make your selections early and get first choice. We will store any rug until wanted.—The Howard Furniture Co., Lansing, Mich.

It's useless to try to give you descriptions of our splendid line of rugs. The colors are so pretty—so beautifully blended—the designs so striking—the whole effect so handsome and rich—that we simply cannot do them justice. You must see them yourself to appreciate their beauty and goodness. Then, too, there is another reason why we want you to see them—so you can compare the prices with the rugs themselves. Side by side, they will speak most eloquently of rare values.—Vance-FitzGibbons, Joliet.

The newest carpets make a handsome show. There are scores of new patterns and new colorings which charm the lover of the beautiful. They were chosen from the mills whose goods have won a place in the front rank, and the patterns are out of the usual run. 35 cents to $1.85 a yard. Anybody can get suited from this stock, no matter what price it is desired to pay.—Farrell's Furniture News, Trenton, N. J.

A mid-season clearance of rugs. The successful selling of Oriental and Domestic rugs by Chandler & Co. in their large rug department, the best lighted in New England, during the past two months, has been for a new department most remarkable, and the management has had no time to sort out the odd ends accumulated in the rapid selling which has been going on. The condition at the present time is such that this classification must be made and with it goes the clearance of every odd rug in the stock, large and small. A full list cannot be given here. The following sufficiently indicates the values which may be expected by purchasers.—Chandler & Co., Boston.

Great interest centering in the big sale of carpets, rugs, curtains and home-furnishings. The power to produce exceptional values has reached a very high standard at the Right House—great connections with the sources of supply, immense orders and spot cash all work together toward the lowering of price barriers, the raising of qualities and the power to give exceptional values. Never was The Right House so splendidly equipped with all that is new in carefully selected stocks direct from the best home-furnishing producing mills of the world. In Canada's largest cities leading manufacturers sell to two or three leading retail establishments. In Hamilton they sell exclusively to this store. That explains why the best is always here in greater varieties and at lower prices than many stores are obliged to ask for inferior qualities.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Sale of real $25 rugs for $18.75. This is without doubt the greatest rug opportunity ever offered you—the chance to select from a splendid assortment of desirable patterns between forty and fifty of them, in fact—at the bargain price of $18.75. These rugs were made to sell for $25.00 and they are a regular $25.00 quality, too. They are full 9 feet by 12 feet in size, perfect in every detail and the patterns are handsome floral and oriental designs in the very best colorings. There are axminsters, brussels and velvets among them and there is a big enough assortment to make it well worth while for you to come here and see them if you are interested in a room-size rug. See them while there is a good assortment, though, and get your pick of the best patterns.—Lantz, Mansfield.

Axminster rugs are the most popular of all floor coverings for parlors—and no wonder, as they are woven with such a soft, deep and silky pile, which lends itself so remarkably well to color treatment as to give it a beauty that is not obtained in any other weave.—Schuneman & Evans, St. Paul, Minn.

Kermanshah Rugs. The weave is the finest and closest known, with a silkiness and luster of the pile almost equal to silk, and quite as effective. The old rose and ivory grounds are considered the finest product of the Oriental dyer. We are showing many fine specimens, both in hearth and carpet sizes. Our east window contains several choice pieces for the week's exhibition. The entire spring importation of Oriental rugs and carpets now on exhibition. Every known desirable weave will be found in the stock. The number of pieces shown is probably the largest ever brought in the middle west, and every rug priced on a strictly commercial basis. An early inspection solicited. We are sole agents for the Owen Davenport and Bed combined.—The Sterling & Welch Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Having just received another large shipment of rugs, we wish to call your attention to the bright new patterns and the exceptionally low prices we quote. It is no trouble for us to show you our complete line of rugs, as we have just had installed one of the latest and most complete rug-showing devices. Do not hesitate to come in and look.—Frank Sanford & Co., Springfield, Ill.

Great Oriental rug sale. Amazing price concessions. A sale of this sort to exceed our own expectations must indeed present unlimited saving proclivities. Among the lately received lots, the following two special items are strongly representative of unparalleled savings. Actually half price. They are the contents of two more bales just received.—Gimbel's, Milwaukee, Wis.

Oriental rugs imported by Mr. Dap Hapip from Constantinople, on sale. Hundreds of magnificent oriental rugs, beautiful in coloring and design, have been marked at prices so low that no one wanting superb floor coverings can afford to miss this sale, the greatest opportunity of the year to secure one or more pieces for the parlor, hall, dining room or library. Mr. Dap Hapip, just from the Orient, has brought to Fargo many beautiful, antique and modern pieces that will delight the eye of the connoisseur as well as all lovers of artistic rugs from Turkey and Persia, whose beauty is everlasting.—Dap Hapip, Fargo, N. D.

The new Bromley Royal Smyrna rug is the best American rug on the market. It combines beauty and originality of design with splendid wearing qualities. The rug is to be had in a great variety of unusual sizes, making it very useful. Such sizes as 4x7 feet 5x8 feet and 6x6 feet are to be had in addition to all the regular standard sizes, and we carry all sizes and patterns.—Mannheimer Bros., St. Paul, Minn.

After stock-taking rug sale. You want to save about one-third on Axminster rugs? Here's your chance. We have just been through our stock, have picked out twenty-five splendid weaves, every rug a handsome new pattern—yours for about two-thirds real value. Come in to-day. Look them over.—Judson Hooper & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Our rugs all come from the best known manufacturers. Commonplace rugs we never buy. Uncertain qualities are not allowed here. They must be artistic, correct in detail, absolutely above fault, if we are to show them at any price. When prices are less than usual, as now, you get the benefit of rugs like these.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Each June we hold a sale of 9x12 rugs—a most important sale, being chiefly of our own regular high grade stock. But the present sale will differ somewhat from those held in the past. When we ordered these rugs months ago we had this event in mind. We laid large plans, we bought liberally and when rug prices began to soar—we were safe. And that is why our present sale will be on a larger scale than ever, and prices will be lower than ever. Included are carpet size rugs of great elegance and on down the line to good substantial rugs of every day character. The eight groups below will give you an idea of how we're going to distribute carpet size rugs during the next three days.—G. Fox & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Rug fanciers will find much to admire in our present magnificent stock of authentic examples of Oriental rugs. Newly arrived shipments have brought many specimens of great beauty and interest, inspection of which we welcome. Besides the fact that the Wanamaker rug collection is second to none in America, in variety and beauty of the pieces composing it, there is to be noted the important consideration that every rug, whether antique or modern, is genuine, and priced in strict relation to its value. There is no misleading juggling of values—based on similarity of names, but ignoring a wide variation in quality—to be met with here. The rug buying public is to a large degree dependent on somebody else's statements; hence rugs should be bought from a store that can be trusted.—The Wanamaker Store, New York City.

We have just received a large invoice of Wilton's, Axminsters, velvets, tapestry with border to match in patterns that will please the most critical, and with the latest devices for fitting and making can please the most exacting. Our line is large and complete in all patterns with stair to match of all grades. Ingrains—we are showing the most catchy patterns and with the large stock to select from you will be easily pleased.—J. Frederick & Co., Wooster, O.

All who see our great Rug Department (on third floor of new building, the finest daylighted in New York), with its attractive assortments and splendid values, express the greatest appreciation of both. Efforts to have this week's sales eclipse any we have yet known, show in the matchless offerings here submitted.—Hearn, New York City.

We are having a fine business because we have the rugs you want, at prices you can afford to pay. Don't buy before you see our stock. A look at it always convinces of the fact that the most for the money is here.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

During all this week we continue our great rug sale. Our stock comprises the very choicest rugs in the various Oriental varieties, from small and medium sized to very large. A specially fine showing in large Khivas and Cashmeres suitable for parlor and dining room, and an equally fine lot of Antique Mossules, Sennas and others of moderate size. Our sales during the past week, owing to the wet weather, have been moderate, so your opportunity for choice is practically as good as a week ago.—Seeley-Mendenhall Furniture & Carpet Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Bargains in Oriental rugs. Some people have an idea that when an Oriental rug is offered at an apparently low price it must be a "bargain," no matter what the quality, colorings and general condition of the rug may be. Long experience has taught us, however, that unless an Oriental rug is good it is not a "bargain" at any price. In our opinion the best "bargains" in Oriental rugs are good, reliable, and artistic rugs at reasonable prices, and that is the kind of "bargains" we are offering every day and which has made our store the "Mecca" of genuine "bargain" seekers in Oriental rugs.—Iran Company, Los Angeles, Cal.

One of the largest and most complete lines of rugs ever shown in Wooster. The line ranges in sizes from the smallest door mats to the large room sizes. They are made in Wilton's, body Brussels, Axminsters, velvets, with prices and qualities that will make buying easy for everyone.—J. Frederick & Co., Wooster, O.

The other opportunity is found in our stock or Oriental rugs, which we are selling at 1-5 off the usual low prices. It has been quietly circulated that our oriental rug prices are absurdly low, and we have booked far more business in the past few days than we expected to handle. To start with, our marked prices are as low or lower than you find in the big city stores. In consequence, when you take 20 per cent. off, you secure a genuine bargain—the kind for which this store is noted. Rugs bought at this sale will be worth all you paid many years hence.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford.

New fall rugs. We invite you to look over the first arrivals of new fall rugs. We have had an enormous sale of rugs this season and placed large orders for fall delivery—first shipment on sale today. Our rug stock consists of rugs suitable for parlor, library, hall, sitting room, music room, dining room, sleeping room, club rooms, office, porch and summer cottage. They come in Oriental designs two-toned effects, plain colors, floral designs. If you have a room in the house where you can use a rug we have a rug suitable for the place. We carry in stock carpet-size rugs 4-6x 7-6, 6x9, 8-3x10-6, 9x12, 10x14, and can furnish any size wanted up to 15x18. We show complete lines of ingrain, tapestry brussels, body brussels, velvet, axminster, bundhar wilton, body wilton carpets.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton.

An unusual sale of Oriental rugs. We feel safe in saying that a more complete variety of really good rugs has not been brought to Milwaukee for years. Not only the pleasing designs, but the prices are attractive to bargain hunters. We have also a few very rare rugs that are seldom found in any selection. An early inspection will repay you.—Clement, Williams & Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Fine qualities of seamless Axminster room-size rugs, woven by the celebrated firm of Templeton. A very large assortment of rich Oriental, Persian, Indian and conventional designs, in effective and practical shadings and color combinations. The ten per cent. discount is off our old prices. To-day they would be worth as given below. These fine rugs are in small, medium and large room sizes, and are woven in one piece, with plain or fancy centers and exquisite border effects.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

If all the ladies of Detroit could see the real beauty of our Oriental rugs and fully comprehend how cheaply we are selling them it would not be necessary to call attention to them a second time. We know that no such bargains await purchasers anywhere, for no dealer could sell similar pieces—every one is guaranteed—at our prices and make one-half their expenses. We need all the cash we can scrape together by June 10th. That is why we are just now selling the finest standard weaves—Kirmishahs, Sarouks, Tabriz, Sennas, Serebends, etc., at an actual saving to the buyer of from 35 to 50 per cent. on the dollar.—Kaleel B. Bonahoon, Detroit.

Here are fifty rugs. Handsome designs, priced low. You cannot buy furniture at this store—we specialize on floor-coverings exclusively. You cannot buy our goods at prices asked by other stores—our policy is to sell at lower figures. Large sales, small profits, satisfaction or money back—that has made our business grow and—we are now closing out fifty rugs. They are going fast. They are bargains. They are beauties.—Judson Hooper & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Throughout our entire stock we have reduced the prices on hundreds of rugs, all sizes and grades, and this offers an opportunity of obtaining an oriental floor covering at a minimum of cost.—J. H. Pray & Sons Co., Boston, Mass.

Beautiful rugs from the land of the inscrutable Turk, gems of the Eastern rugmaker's art. They are exquisitely rich and effective. We show a large assortment of designs and colorings, in small prayer, hearth, small, medium and large room sizes. These were bought before the great price advance, and are now worth twenty per cent. more.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

"What striking rugs!" This and similar exclamations have been heard from passers-by during our window exhibit of Japanese rugs the past few days. The rugs, while Japanese in manufacture, are truly oriental in pattern and coloring—such as are in great vogue this season with New Yorkers, who find them a valuable aid in artistic summer furnishing. They are attractive not only in looks but in price.—Howe & Rogers Co., Rochester, N. Y.

The Japanese not only imitate the most beautiful designs in oriental rugs with absolute fidelity, but they get the exact shades of coloring. Except for the texture you can hardly tell at a short distance a $15 imitation from a genuine $150 Turkish rug. Of course, they don't wear so well. If they did they wouldn't sell for a tenth of the cost of wool rugs; but they are good enough for Summer cottages.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Nobody need pay much more than half real value for the choicest of Persian Rugs while this special lot lasts. We secured these rugs in a very unusual way—through an Oriental firm of bankers who had loaned money on them and had to take the Rugs. Connoisseurs fully realize the importance of the event and are eagerly taking advantage of it.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Carpet Rugs are now ready for your inspection. Rich colored filling and slightly mattings are here also. Because rugs are easily taken up and cleaned and are quickly transferable from room to room without making over—they are gaining in favor every day. They have come to stay and we are fully abreast of the times with ample assortments and moderate prices.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

It is good news to lovers of these oddly beautiful floor wears from the Orient that we have established such a perfect system of gathering and distributing them. The wisdom of engaging a resident buyer in the Far East and bringing the Rugs down to a commercial basis has been evidenced by the unparalleled selling attending this Autumn trade event.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

Rich Rugs.—The richest room covering is a rug. No seams—no mismatching—an elegant border all round. Fashion has spoken strongly on the subject of rugs, and the home that pretends to obey her dictates must have them.—Robert Wright & Co., Brockville, Ont.

You'll not realize to what a degree of perfection the American manufacturer has brought the art of rug making until you see this assembly of room rugs. The color schemes evidence the taste of the artist, while the ingenuity of the clever artisan is also well portrayed. A particularly desirable point about these rugs of domestic manufacture is that you can find sizes to fit any size space desired.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg.

This is a chance such as we have rarely known before, and which is not likely to be matched soon again. We secured about a thousand of these popular and serviceable Rugs from one of our best manufacturers, at a concession that enables us to make the very liberal reductions told of below. The Rugs are of the first quality, in excellent designs and colorings.—Wanamaker, New York.

Rugs! Rugs! Rugs! Rugs are coming more and more into favor, especially for summer cottages. Cost little, look pretty, no trouble to buy, no trouble to put down, easily kept clean and can be rolled up and packed away in less than no time. We have all sorts.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Farrell's meet every rug requirement. Out of the hundreds that are on view it would certainly seem to be impossible to fail to suit any rug-buyer. Whether it's highest quality or lowness of price, whether in the modest matting rug or in the finest Wilton's, we've a rug here to match a buyer's needs.—Farrell, Trenton.

Special Sale Small Oriental Rugs 1-4 Off the Marked Selling Prices.—These rugs were delayed in transit, arriving too late for the trade period they were bought for. The backward season adds to the disadvantage we experience by that delay in getting them down the Mediterranean, and across the Atlantic, hence this reduction.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago.

Two-Faced Smyrna Rugs.—“Two-faced,” in this case, doesn't imply deceit. It means that when one side is wrinkled with age the other comes up fresh and smiling. That's why lots of people like them, in addition to their other good qualities. The colorings are soft, rich and beautiful.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Rare Rugs from the Orient, and the Best from Domestic Makers.—Art lovers, connoisseurs and furnishers in general are invited to come and see an exhibit of rugs from sunrise lands such as is not only beautiful and complete but most artistically unique.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

New Fall Patterns in Rugs.—Choice styles, beautiful colors. We're getting the new fall patterns in rugs unusually early this season and they're as handsome as they are early.—Los Angeles Furniture Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

The rugs are of very choice designs that can be traced 'way back when Mohammed added the four minarets to the Agia Sofia mosque and placed the crescent on the dome. Each rug is hand-made, possessing an individuality of design distinctly its own, besides the lasting charm found only in hand-wrought fabrics. For rich, harmonious color combination they are without peer in the rug world, being personally selected from hundreds.—The T. Eaton Co., Toronto.

A large importation of Orientals, direct from our agent at Constantinople, came in in time to take a place in the August value-giving. It is a truly wonderful collection of Oriental weaves, unique in design and beautifully colored, representing every district of Turkey, various districts in East India and several of the most noted rug-weaving centers of Persia.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

H. R. Hatch & Company believe their line of Oriental rugs this season cannot fail to interest every family in the city and adjacent towns who have homes to furnish or homes already furnished, that need replacing with new.—H. R. Hatch, Cleveland, Ohio.

“The Rug House.” The new rugs are here, and more are coming every day. We are proud of our stock, for never before has there been offered in Los Angeles such an artistic collection. In fine domestic rugs we have an almost endless variety—the richest and handsomest designs and colors—every standard size both small and large, and many odd sizes not usually carried by other stores—many different weaves—and every rug in our stock is an ideal of its kind, and of strictly reliable quality. We also have a very fine line of Oriental rugs of more than ordinary merit.—Shirley, McConney & Fries, Los Angeles.

The fact that the makers can seldom fill more than a third of their orders is evidence enough of the popularity of these rugs. The fact that our assortment of them is much the largest and finest we ever had—very much the finest in Brooklyn—is news that will interest everybody. No other rugs are so luxurious in texture, so rich in coloring, so perfect in reproduction of the most magnificent Orientals.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

In order to impress upon the public that we treat our Oriental rugs as merchandise, subject to the same rules which govern prices in other departments, we make the following prices, which are guaranteed to be lower than any other St. Louis house.—Trorlicht, Duncker & Renard, St. Louis, Mo.

The attention of lovers of Oriental Rugs is called to the unusual beauty of the patterns in our present stock. Many of the designs and color combinations are strikingly beautiful. The superiority of these new rugs is apparent at a moment's notice.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago.

A superb collection of Oriental rugs at prices far below their real value. Our position in the rug market gives decided advantages in buying and selling. Our selections for fall have received the most favorable notice from lovers of Eastern Rugs.—The Chas. R. Hart Co., Hartford, Conn.

It is the economy that justifies this Oriental Rug Sale. It is not the ordinary season for a sale of this character. But when one of the foremost importers in Manhattan gave us the opportunity to take our pick out of his half million dollar stock and pay him so much under the usual price that we could retail the rugs for just about the actual import cost, it was a chance we knew would be welcomed as it has been. Every Rug in the sale is a gem—rich and perfect and selected for beauty of design and coloring. Not in many years have we had such an offering to make. People have been coming in from out of town just to make selections.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Kashmir Rugs.—Of domestic manufacture, in the Oriental designs and colorings, with all the beauty and finish of a body brussels rug, they are very durable, lie perfectly flat, and are in all respects the very best low-priced rug ever placed on the market. We have the finest and largest assortment that this or any other house has ever shown in Hartford.—The Chas. R. Hart Co., Hartford.

Some of our new autumn styles in domestic rugs are already in stock—goods we ordered early to secure important price concessions. We have decided to make an advance showing of several of these lines; and, to make the display of more practical interest, we shall offer these handsome rugs at about usual factory prices, so that mid-summer sale customers may feel warranted in anticipating their autumn needs. We mention three very attractive new lines.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Ingrain Art Squares.—We guarantee these as being all wool; very heaviest quality and extensive variety of colorings; just the floor covering for a Summer home.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

Royal Wilton Rugs at Big Savings.—Wilton rugs may be termed the Orientals of the Occident, so rich in color, design and weave are they. The Royal Wilton stands first among all machine-made rugs. It's a rare thing to find them underpriced. Through a most fortunate purchase at the recent trade sale, we secured about 300 on which we can save you exactly 25 per cent—a most remarkable saving on so staple and desirable a commodity. The patterns are all this spring's—and are very rich and artistic.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Rugs at Cut Prices.—Not a gingerly clipping of a few cents off regular, but such a deep cut that the manufacturer might like to purchase all of them at our present prices for it would leave him a margin to again sell them at his wholesale prices. If you have a rug want, now is the time to satisfy it.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

Rugs for spring. We are making most thorough preparation for the new season. It is quite impossible to make this ad. forceful enough to cause you to fully realize the enlarged helpfulness of this place. It is to be a rug season. There is more rug temptation here than you'd possibly imagine even with most extravagant ideas. We've almost any make of rug you can name. Almost any size or shape you can ask for. Almost any price you will mention between twenty-five cents and fifty dollars. It's a long range of prices and kinds. The 25 cent one is a velvet door mat fringed 16 by 27 inches and worth twice 25. The $50 ones are elegant Wiltons, 9 by 12 feet, and thick as a board. The variety is abundant at each and every between price, and not a make among them but we can recommend as good values. You'll approve of our prices.—Waite's, New Bedford, Mass.

Rugs are coming more and more into favor. Cost little, look pretty, no trouble to buy, no trouble to put down, easily kept clean. We have all sorts.—The Colorado Springs Furniture Company, Colorado Springs, Col.

We straighten rug stocks just as we do carpets—that's how each season we have entirely new, fresh showings to choose from. Last week the carpet clearance brought some of the greatest bargains and decidedly the greatest selling in our history. To-morrow the rugs will have a chance. There are thousands in the sale. They are the best product of the best makers in America. And although carpet and rug prices will be much higher in the fall—are higher now, in fact—the prices on these rugs are cut to an average third under the old low prices here. Nobody with a floor that would look better for a rug or two ought to waste this chance to save.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Beautiful Rugs.—An assortment in which good taste, artistic colorings, rich effects and practical economy are skillfully maintained. If you want a simple, durable little rug costing from one to five dollars, you may count on getting the most for your money here. If you want fine oriental rugs, costing hundreds of dollars, count on finding perfect pieces and rare designs here in abundance.—Los Angeles Furniture Co., Los Angeles.

Rugs are the ideal floor covering. No seams, no mismatching, an elegant border all round. Fashion has spoken decidedly on the subject of rugs and the home that obeys her dictates will have them. They are far easier handled than carpets, easier fitted and more economical in every way.—Robt. Wright & Co., Brockville, Ont.

Get a Steamer Rug.—The experienced traveler knows full well the infinite uses to which these woolen squares may be put; about one's shoulders on a windy day; wrapped about one's feet when the day is cool; spread on the sand or in the woods on outing days—many ways that suggest themselves at once.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

It is an odd time to offer Oriental Rugs, when the heat has driven many buyers from city to country homes and city furnishing plans are hardly to be considered for a few months, at the least. Yet the visible success of this midsummer event is a tribute to the extraordinary values it offers. The low prices establish a new record for high class Rugs, and at any season of the year they would guarantee sale success. Those whose knowledge of Oriental Floorwear fits them to be good judges are invited to inspect and profit by this superb display. Those who admire Rug beauty yet know little of the intricacies of the oriental rug business, may buy just as safely and as profitably.—Macy's, New York.

Annual Spring Sale of Oriental Rugs. The art of the East in ascendancy. Rich treasures at poor prices. Imagination figures with so much force in art that even the reducing of a price often takes away the charm for some people. You couldn't take away the Oriental charm from the collection of rare rugs, even if it were possible to cut the prices lower than we have. We open this annual sale to-morrow morning with wider true art interest for every rug lover than ever before, and with merchandising advantages that no rug connoisseur can afford to overlook. The whole sale is almost a paradox, inasmuch as art pervades it to such an extent as almost to exclude the commercial side, and yet the commercial side is so masterfully handled as to subordinate the art. We have never builded so well for you.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Oriental rugs reduced a third to nearly half. An Oriental rug and a painting are a good deal alike in their relation to art. Indeed, with the Eastern weavers these color harmonies, no two of which are exactly alike in all the world, take the place of paintings and of written history. So perhaps it is natural that in many stores the price represents the seller's idea of the buyer's ability to buy. Because in the Abraham & Straus store prices on Oriental rugs, as on all other merchandise, have represented a fair profit merely, this store has come to be widely known as the most economical place to buy. Choice is always wide, always fine.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Don't be hasty in the buying of Oriental rugs. It is a question not to be decided in a moment. Time for the consideration of quality, the colors and the design is absolutely essential. An Oriental rug is an article of value, because of its durability, not necessarily expensive, but the expenditure required is frequently large, and, considering the question from a purely commercial point of view, the selection should not be made hastily. Another very important point to consider is the color harmony, and whether it contains the shades most likely to make its future use valuable in your decorative schemes. Hasty selection is oftentimes responsible for repenting at leisure.—The David C. Beggs Company, Columbus, O.

In placing orders for fall rugs we decided to do something unusual—something that would cause a profound sensation. To this end we ordered several hundred of the handsomest styles for immediate delivery, and propose to offer them to-morrow at a price sufficiently low to create a keen demand and establish a precedent for 'tween-seasons rug selling. This sale is probably not calculated to appeal so strongly to your immediate needs as to your foresightedness and sense of economy. Savings of one-quarter and over on rugs of advanced design and unimpeachable quality are surely incentive enough for anyone to buy now. Owing to the extreme reductions rugs purchased during this sale cannot be held for future delivery.—Bamberger's, Newark, N. J.

Activity in the rug store. Lucky is the man or woman who can find excuse for indulging in one of the Oriental rugs embraced in the following special offerings. But excuse is needless when prices and quality join hands to form a coalition that results so greatly to your advantage. Experience in rug buying is not needed at a store such as this, where you know that each article is priced on a strictly commercial basis, and in this instance lower than the real value.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York.

There are two ways of selling oriental rugs. One way is to charge the customer all that he will stand and the other way is to sell the goods for what they are actually worth. We choose to handle them according to the latter plan, although we are aware that it is not popular with dealers, generally, who sell these goods. We have never been able to understand why people should be expected to pay exorbitant prices for foreign rugs any more than they should for furniture, carpets or draperies. You can buy rugs of us cheaper than of anybody else hereabouts. You will readily understand that we can afford to sell them much more cheaply than a dealer who depends entirely upon this one line for his entire business, or the one who sells rugs that belong to somebody else. Consigned rugs must always be sold at higher prices than those that have been bought outright, owing to the additional profit that they must bear. Our rugs were selected from the stock of the largest and most reliable importer in the country. We own them. We can sell them at any price that we please and it pleases us to sell them lower than anybody else in Bangor. Our stock embraces all the desirable kinds and every piece is perfect in every way. Our low prices are not for a week or for a month, neither do we make any excuses for them. You will always be able to buy oriental rugs at this store and you will always be able to buy them at right prices, for just what they are worth. When you want rugs come and see us, please.—Chandler & Co., Bangor, Me.

Since the middle of May we have kept the workroom busy making rugs from the remnants of carpets we had in stock. These rugs are piling into the department at rate of a half dozen or more each day. The first lot will go on sale to-morrow at most remarkable prices. We have taken as much off the prices of these made rugs as we would have had to reduce the prices to sell the remnants of carpets. The work didn't cost us much. There was no freight to pay from some far Eastern factory. The rugs are splendidly made; handsome patterns; the prices are more interesting than we have made on the same quality of rugs at any time this season.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

A large importation of Orientals, direct from our agent at Constantinople, came in in time to take a place in the August value-giving. It is a truly wonderful collection of Oriental weaves, unique in design and beautifully colored, representing every district of Turkey, various districts in East India and several of the most noted rug-weaving centers of Persia.—Macy's, New York.

Nine by twelve feet in size; strictly all wool and reversible; Oriental and Persian designs; very rich colorings.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

This is a chance such as we have rarely known before, and which is not likely to be matched soon again. We secured about a thousand of these popular and serviceable Rugs from one of our best manufacturers, at a concession that enables us to make the very liberal reductions told of below. The Rugs are of the first quality, in excellent designs and colorings.—Wanamaker, New York.

The demand for rugs this spring will be enormous. Being used more and more instead of carpets. They're cleaner and they're cheaper too than carpets. Cheaper because you can take them up often. Distributes wear and tear to do that so a rug won't be dingy and worn in the spots that are walked on and as good as new in unused places. Because of a particularly lucky cash purchase made when the wholesale rug business was sluggish, we are in a position to-day to get standard rugs to you at the old prices. And in some instances lower. This notable sale of rugs starts Tuesday morning. Among the big values will be: Handsome American-Oriental rugs. We hyphenate the name of these rugs because they're made by a Philadelphia rug maker and because they are for all the world like Oriental rugs in coloring and patterns. They're rich in color effects and the colors too are beautifully blended. Indeed with certain of the patterns only a connoisseur could know at a glance that it was not a genuine Oriental rug. The fringe is very cleverly copied.—The Gamble-Desmond Co., New Haven, Conn.

Dog-days have gone! "Rug-days" are here. As Cleveland people grow more and more into the habit of refurbishing their homes in the fall (instead of spring)—thus following the Eastern custom—we find our business in carpets, rugs and curtains growing larger in the fall months.—H. H. Griggs Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

Many are profiting by our low prices on all kinds of domestic rugs. Best quality Smyrna rugs, at absolutely the very lowest prices possible; simply dropped patterns, and for that reason only are we able to offer them at less than you would pay elsewhere for a cheaper grade.—Waite's Carpet Hall, New Bedford, Mass.

Here you will find fine Oriental rugs. Our buyer made personal selections from the European markets. Every rug we display is here because expert and artistic judgment found something of true merit in it.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Rousing Sale of Rugs. An Opportunity Not to be Missed.—Tacoma women who are on the alert to embellish their homes at a little cost will do well to see these rugs. No such offering of rug values has ever occurred in Tacoma this season. It is an offering made in order to get you acquainted with our rug and drapery department.—Rhodes Bros., Tacoma, Wash.

Rare Rug Art from the Orient.—In our great rug hall on the second floor of the Wabash avenue store are gathered the richest treasures of the textile art of the far East. In a magnificent profusion one sees the rich, soft colorings and intricate yet incomparably beautiful designs characteristic of the Mussulman craftsman—a luxurious exposition, whose magnificent harmonies of color and pattern awake the connoisseur in Eastern lore to lavish tributes of praise. Here are rugs the art of producing whose soft, shimmering surface is handed down from father to son in some little Persian village—rugs wrought on rude looms, meaning years of labor—rugs from our own factory in Strinagar, Kashmir, India, and rugs whose majestic luxuriance speaks of their source in the bazaars of Constantinople and Teheran. Wonderful, indeed, is the variety of patterns woven upon the soft, mellow backgrounds, and fascinating their story; for into most of them is inwrought some mystic meaning—historical, religious or biographical. This is the most complete and magnificent showing of Oriental rugs ever brought to America. The perfection of our rug buying organization and the extent of our rug business enable us to offer these rare gems of rug art very much lower than those which come to this country through the usual channels.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Oriental Rugs Priced at Sale Figures.—Oriental Rugs take their value from their beauty—from the skill and ideas of the weaver—not from the amount of time and labor spent on them. If time and labor were to govern cost we'd find many of the most ordinary specimens far out of reach of reason. It's a study to value Oriental Rugs. We've mastered it—for our benefit and yours. We know what to buy and what to pay for it. We buy specimen rugs. We buy as merchants and take advantage of every circumstance that can tend to lower price. We claim to show more Oriental Rugs than can be seen in the combined stocks shown in Washington — and they're the gems of Oriental weaving.—W. B. Moses & Sons, Washington, D. C.

Fine Oriental Rugs.—A Show for Art Lovers.—Do you know that the greatest painters often get their inspiration from these rugs?—from the soft, warm colors that come straight from the heart; for the rugs are made by poor, suffering, ignorant women who can neither read nor write. Is it anything short of genius when people under such conditions conceive and work out color combinations so daring that a trained artist shrinks at the mere mention—yet applauds the finished work! The rugs now on show are perhaps the most beautiful we have had. We have taken pains to get the rare and unusual, rather than the conventional, and there are more quaint, queer, wild designs here than you will find anywhere, we think. Our stock is especially strong in carpet rugs—we are quite sure that we have the best and largest variety of these in the State. Won't you see them?—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Rug selling that brings choicest rugs within the reach of every one.—Rothschild & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Rugs from the Orient.—Our Oriental rug stock is the largest and most complete we have shown. Several recent shipments have brought to us some especially fine specimens of the work of the rug makers of the Far East. Particularly would we call your attention to our India rugs in carpet sizes, in which we show a fine line of colorings, from the dainty French effects in ivory, blue, rose and green, and the dark reds, blues and green shades, suitable for living rooms, dining rooms and dens.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Our rug department. The rugs we sell display that exceptional quality and good taste which only the best of materials and workmanship can convey. Shoddy rugs made of cheap materials have no place in this establishment. We carry, moreover, the largest and most select variety of floor coverings to be found in Kansas City, and nowhere else will you be able to buy like qualities at the prices we sell them. While we carry the highest grade of rugs obtainable, our prices are not high. We ask the same prices for these better grades of rugs that are asked at other places for the more common grades.—Duff & Repp, Kansas City, Mo.

Every resident of this city or suburbs who can possibly do so should lay aside all other business and attend this extraordinary sale of rugs to-morrow. Here's a genuine saving of almost fifty cents on the dollar on as pretty a lot of Smyrna rugs as you've ever laid eyes on. Our buyer picked up this lot of rugs on a recent trip East at a big trade sale of rugs, and the price at which he bought same enables us to sell these rugs at about what other merchants pay for them at wholesale. The lot consists of about four hundred handsome, all-wool, reversible Smyrna rugs, in rich, bright patterns and color schemes. Many exquisite Oriental patterns and designs in the assortment.—J. M. High Co., Atlanta, Ga.

These rugs have just arrived from the Orient and consist of the rarest designs—well worthy a visit of the connoisseur. We imported these fabrics, and they were selected by our own representatives with the most critical care. Only a personal examination can furnish you with a full impression of these most beautiful rugs and choice designs.—T. Kelly, New York, N. Y.

An outpouring of American rugs at clearance prices. Perhaps you know their given names better—Axminster, Smyrna, Wilton—the bread-and-butter of the rug business, and as staple as that combination. But, for all of that, manufacturers try to bring variety into this “stapleness”—new patterns, new qualities, anything for the sake of newness. So rugs are multiplied in the land—one sort replaces another; the displaced lines must be closed out. Add to that the constant breaking up of rug “sets”—i.e., size-lines, which have to be discontinued—and the fact that we have helped one of our principal manufacturers to make a clearance of his “left out” Brussels rugs, and you can easily see whence we derive a substantial mass of excellent material.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

This great collection of rugs represents a limitless assortment, every one selected by an expert for intrinsic worth. They comprise Persian rugs from Ispahan, Suttanbad and Ferehan, Daghestans, Kazaks, Shirvans and Kabistans made by the many tribes who inhabit the Caucasus Mountains of Europe. Turcoman rugs from Bokhara and Beloochistan. Turkish rugs from Anatolia, Ghiordes and Konieh representing every rug-weaving district of the Orient. Every rug is marked in plain figures. There are no fictitious values, as art sentiment and fairy tales which may serve others as a blind for exorbitant prices have not influenced our judgment of values.—Barnes's, Schenectady, N. Y.

In our large carpet display room we are now showing an unusual line of large floor rugs—probably the finest assortment ever brought to Joliet. It does not need special experience to appreciate the values. In every way these rugs are exceptional—in quality, texture, coloring, design. We'd like to have you see them. We think you will be so pleased with the patterns that you will not be satisfied until you have at least one of the rugs in your home. And the prices are not great, but rather very reasonable.—Vance-Fitz Gibbons Furn. Co., Joliet, Ill.

One of the housewife's anxieties that come with the spring is the question of floor covering. Old carpets or rugs must be replaced and the problem of combining utility and artistic effects is up for solution. There are an even hundred of oriental carpets. Afghans, Persians and Indias, that more than a hundred housewives are waiting to hear about. The sizes of these wonderful rugs run from 6x9 to 12x15 feet, and the designs and their colorings are of the richest and deepest tones known to the wonderful wizards of colorings—the Orientals. Time has been allowed to add his mellowing touch to these already perfect creations.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Rugs for summer use. Each season brings forward new ideas in floor-coverings for summer homes and cottages. A great deal of intelligence and artistic skill has been applied to the designing and producing of rugs that add to the attractiveness and comfort of the summer house. Our stocks present the best from all the important manufacturers. The rugs are shown in all sizes, and many varieties of novel effects and colorings.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

It is not too soon to prepare for summer. It is an acknowledged fact that the Orientals know how to keep cool and comfortable better than any other people. We are now displaying samples of our new importations for this season's business.—A. A. Vantine & Co., New York.

We don't believe there's a rug demand you can make on us that won't be fully met by the rugs in the bargain list. It was a purchase—an unusual purchase—unusual in the amount of the goods, the choiceness of the goods and the price. But be quick to accept its offers, for there are many beside yourself who'll recognize the values and advantages.—W. B. Moses & Sons, Washington, D. C.

Summer Rugs for Porch Parlors.—We offer floor coverings of unrivaled novelty and beauty. Rugs whose durability and fine colorings and designs will please the practical and artistic. Come in and see all the specials we're showing for summer furnishing in rugs, draperies and curtains.—N. Rich & Bros. Co., Atlanta, Ga.

The business we are doing in rugs is phenomenal. Already we have been compelled to re-order several new spring lines, though original purchases were very large. Customers tell us that the values we offer are not equaled—nor even approached—in other stores.

A genuine Oriental rug possesses distinct individuality, and is at the same time adaptable to an unusual degree. While it may in itself form the basis for an entire scheme of furnishing, it will also harmonize with furniture and decorations of widely different styles and periods. Furthermore, the genuine Oriental rug has a lasting value, both decorative and monetary. By importing direct from the best Eastern markets, we are enabled to assemble and offer an unequaled selection of Oriental weaves with an absolute confidence that gives enhanced value to our guarantee of genuineness.—W. J. Sloane, New York, N. Y.

The Moonj rug is one of the very best summer floor coverings in Oriental effects. It is especially adapted for all sorts of summer use, indoors or on the veranda, or even on the lawn under the hammock.—John Wanamaker, New York.

One-seam Brussels rugs, size 9 by 12 feet. These rugs, fine and serviceable, woven with one seam, are of a heavy all-wool grade of tapestry Brussels—the most attractive and durable rugs for the price that the new season has offered. They are in large assortment of styles and colorings—good reproductions of Oriental effects, together with many handsome conventional patterns. Fine rugs for halls, dining-rooms, bedrooms and even parlors—rugs of uncommonly pleasing appearance and splendid for wear. They are in the popular room size, 9 by 12 feet, and for this occasion being offered at $14.25, though their real value is several dollars more.—Davidson-Paxon-Stokes Company, Atlanta, Ga.

As the true art of house furnishing becomes more and more a question of simple good taste, we need fewer things and handsomer things, and we appreciate more and more the rich weaves and colorings of the Orient for our floor coverings. Rarely beautiful and artistic rugs are the very basis of interior decoration—the keynote—the color scheme of each room should be dominated by them.—Wasson's, Indianapolis, Ind.

Highland brand Brussels rugs. The proper size for almost any room. They are made of an extra quality of genuine tapestry Brussels that will wear well and give thoroughly satisfactory service. Last season we sold over 2,000 of these rugs, every one of which is giving perfect satisfaction. The patterns are richer than ever before, while the same high standard of quality is maintained. On account of the low price at which these rugs are offered do not confuse them with the so-called "Brussels Fabric" so freely offered elsewhere.—Bing's, Cleveland, Ohio.

FLOWERS

Thanksgiving flowers. Remember that an early order for flowers assures you of the choicest flowers in the market. Everything known in flowers. See our windows and get prices. Once a customer always a customer. City Store—Rotunda Birmingham Hotel, Second Avenue and Eighteenth St. Designs a specialty. Greenhouses—Elm Leaf Station, West End car line.—Miss Matthews, Birmingham, Ala.

Ho! for the football game. We can fill any order for Thanksgiving, especially in Chrysanthemums, as ours are late plants. Our stock of ferns is the finest in the city. We cordially invite all to visit our greenhouses at the Avondale Park at all times.—Birmingham Floral Company, Birmingham, Ala.

Flowers for June weddings. Weddings are one occasion on which the best of everything is demanded. Nothing else will answer. Our florists realize this, and especial attention is given to wedding orders, whether for bouquets, decorations, or cut flowers. We are cutting a remarkable stock for this season of the year, and can furnish American beauties, pink and white roses, carnations, sweet peas, lily of the valley, and orchids. The flowers themselves are unusual for their strength and beauty, and all the roses bear a good amount of fresh green foliage. Flowers shipped by express to any point in the South.—Nunnally, Atlanta.

Decoration Day is near at hand and it is time that you were making your arrangements for flowers for decorating. We are ready for you with the finest lot of geraniums and other bedding flowers that you will find in the city. Prices most reasonable. Better see us this week so that you will not be one of the disappointed by waiting till the last moment. We also have a very complete line of vines, ferns, etc., suitable for urns, window boxes, etc. Come out to-day, visit our greenhouse and look over our assortments. Special prices will make it additionally interesting.—Ragan Bros., Springfield, Ohio.

Shrubs. In spite of the uncomfortable weather to work in the garden it is an ideal time to plant hardy shrubs, bulbs and roots. A hardy bed is a constant source of pleasure, for rightly planned, there will be flowers from snow to snow. It takes time and experience with plants to finally get such a garden, but the spring is the best time to make a beginning. We have almost anything you would ordinarily want. We handle seeds, too; everything that will grow satisfactorily here, in 5c and 10c packages and in pounds or fractions or by measure. Our catalogue tells all.—A. C. Kendel, Cleveland, Ohio.

Saturday Hoyt's will have a special flower sale. Fresh carnations, 50c dozen; fresh roses, 50c and $1.00 dozen. A choice and complete line of bedding plants, palms, ferns and rubber plants for your inspection. None better; none cheaper.—Hoyt Bros. Co., Spokane, Wash.

FURNITURE

A small boy with a box of tools can get as much enjoyment out of the parlor furniture as his mother ever did.—Puck.

Never take your eyes off this store—always something doing here. We have just received one of the most artistic assortments of reed furniture, a few samples of which we are displaying in our show window. The assortment comprises a variety of handsome patterns in parlor rockers, ladies' arm chairs, large arm rockers, tete-a-tetes and porch chairs. We have priced these goods to make them move quickly. Come in and see the display.—The Howard Furn. Co., Lansing, Mich.

Hall racks. An entire new line just received. Selected from the best patterns of a famous manufacturer. All made in finest quartered oak. Massive frames, with large, fancy bevel edge French glasses. Finely finished in rich golden oak. A big variety at just the price you want to pay. Sold on easy terms.—M. J. & B. M. Buck, Lansing.

Outdoor furniture is uppermost in our minds. We have visions of good, roomy, comfortable chair or rocker on the porch or lawn; a table, a couple of chairs or a settee to tone up the summer cottage. We have provided most liberally for your wants in this direction. Boat furniture specials. Our floating kapok or cork filled cushion made to your order in the latest fabrics and new shades of color. Canvas chairs, wicker chairs, folding chairs and stools, mattresses and pillows.—A. A. Gray Co., Detroit, Mich.

Remarkable sale of couches. To make room for big incoming shipments of lawn and porch furniture we have decided to close out our entire line of velour couches at a sacrifice. Pardridge & Blackwell couches are fine examples of reliable furniture. They're the kind that wear well and give lasting satisfaction. These couches are 30 inches wide, 72 inches long, with full steel construction and handsomely upholstered in dark green and red Verona velours. A few with silk velour covering will be sold at the same low price. We will not remove the original price tickets, but any couch in the lot, whether marked $16.50, $24.00, or any price between, will be sold for $10.75.—Pardridge & Blackwell, Detroit.

Furniture. Moving and housecleaning are not unalloyed pleasures, but they have their compensations. When one moves it is inevitable they find some additions to the furniture necessary. In housecleaning the arrangement of the furniture in the home should be changed, and at least here and there a new piece added. It is a delight to select the needed pieces from a collection of furniture which has one's unquestioning confidence. When buying our furniture, people may be sure that not only are they getting the best quality, but also the lowest prices.—W. Buschman & Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

It is a delight to choose the needed pieces from a collection of furniture which has one's unquestioning confidence. It is doubly agreeable when one has the feeling that no excess is being paid, or asked, for the faith itself. In other words, people enjoy paying full value for superior things, but they do not like to feel that they are paying an additional sum for the privilege of exerting their own good judgment. People who buy Boutell's good furniture know that not only are they getting the best, but at prices the best values anywhere.—Boutell Bros., Minneapolis, Minn.

Holiday furniture at Luger's. Our store is devoting most of its space now to the display of fancy pieces that make such handsome and valued holiday gifts. And yet everything in the realm of furniture enters into holiday plans. We are ready with the largest and finest stock of holiday furniture that we have ever shown. We feel sure that our assortment in all its varied lines is the largest carried by any house in the Northwest. We show all the latest colors in the various woods. The styles range from the latest American productions to copies of the best French and Colonial periods. Every line ample.—Luger Furniture Co., Fargo, N. D.

Fine furniture that cannot be obtained elsewhere at any price. Buying in larger quantities than other dealers, secures to us the pick of the newest patterns at a lower cost than the smaller dealers have to pay.—James F. McGovern, Lebanon.

A Dutch room. One of the rooms in the furnished apartment on the third floor has been fitted up as a summer living room, using the simple lines and colors that dignify Dutch interiors. The combination of Delft blues and tulip yellows in cretonnes and pottery, in connection with the weather finished wicker furniture and woodwork will be of especial interest to those who have the beautifying of Summer homes in mind. A frieze in the dominating Dutch blue and yellow shades carries the color note upward and bits of glowing copper deepen it in the shadows. Every householder interested in artistic home furnishing at moderate expense should see the new Dutch Room.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Seasonable furniture for Thanksgiving. Now is the time to furnish your dining room. Now is the commencement of the season for entertaining your friends, and nothing adds to your welcome more than a cheerful, well-furnished dining-room. We have requisites to furnishing in the most approved manner, and our prices are the lowest on good goods. Some special features: We are the agents for this city on several Grand Rapids lines of Merit, and in no other store will you find the good features embodied as in these makes. Dining chairs. The chairs we show in cane and leather seats are made by The Michigan Chair Company, with their celebrated Wedge Mortise Joint. It is, without question, the very best dining chair made in this country. Prices ranging from $2.70 to $9.00 each.—Quackenbush & Co., Paterson, N. J.

Carefully selected stock, wide assortments and prices that are beyond the lowest offered in this vicinity are fast making this the store for shrewd buyers. We claim to save you money on furniture, and a rapid and steady increase of trade proves beyond a doubt that the public appreciates and recognizes good values. To those who can't pay all cash we offer the most liberal terms of payment. We invite careful inspection of our store, stock and prices. You will find it to your advantage to buy furniture "just over the line from high rents and high prices."—Dubois & Davidson, Los Angeles, Cal.

We are ready for the on-rush of that irresistible army—the furnishers and re-furnishers of homes. We have gathered together from the best manufacturing centers furnishings which we firmly believe will prove eminently satisfactory to the buyer and to ourselves. We know our offerings have no superiors as to quality, beauty of design or fairness of price.—Convery & Walker, Trenton, N. J.

A pretty hall in your house is a most important part of the building. The hall is the first room that the caller enters, and if it is well and tastily furnished it will make the visitor feel at home. A beautiful hall tree or a hall rack is just what a good many people have left out to complete the furnishing of the room. We have them for you.—W. O. Olsen Furniture Co., Fargo.

Doubtless you will be interested in a chiffonier display having more good points than is usual. Ours is great in numbers and attractive designing. Oak, white enamel, mahogany, birds'eye maple and curly birch give the display much variety. They are with and without mirrors, and cost from $8.50 to $35.00. Every chiffonier is a bargain and worth your consideration.—Convery & Walker, Trenton, N. J.

Porch furniture. Chairs and rockers are essential to the enjoyment of a summer porch. Why not have them as comfortable and sightly as possible? Most all of the chairs and rockers we are showing have maple frames, natural color, double cane seats and backs; 75c for a woman's sewing rocker and from there up to a large rocker at $3. The more expensive kind are finished in forest green or weathered oak and range from $3 to $9.50.—A. Brown & Son Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Rocking chairs. Here is a Mission rocker of that sturdy type—roomy and comfortable; built exactly like the cut, of strong oak in either weathered or fumed finish; upholstered in Spanish leather with loose cushion; low, comfortable seat, flat arms; easy back; well constructed in every particular—the product of Stickley, manufacturer of the best Arts and Crafts furniture on the market. These rockers are regularly priced $12.00 and well worth it. We have arranged to sell a large number of them on Thursday (one day only) at only $7.50.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

An ideal Xmas present. Just the thing for father, mother, brother, sister, relative or friend—something that fits any library or any purse. The Globe-Wernicke Elastic bookcase encourages good reading and the collecting of good books. It's the corner stone of a good library and a higher education. The original and only perfect sectional bookcase made and sold at the lowest price. Call and examine our stock now while the assortment is complete.—Orchard & Wilhelm Carpet Co., Omaha, Neb.

The furniture store is "loaded to the guards" with fine, practical things to give: a Morris chair for the father, a sewing table for mother, fine odd pieces, such as music cabinets for the dearest girl. Each piece is selected by an expert who loves fine furniture—and everything in excellent taste. Reservations may be wisely made now for later delivery. Visitors will be cordially welcome.—The Stone, Fisher Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Comfortable chairs that holds out their arms in generous welcome is just what you are longing for. The trouble has been that you wanted something very good, solid, comfortable, handsome, and you couldn't afford to pay much. You can buy them here at the price you can afford to pay.—A. F. Wheeler, Lexington, Ky.

Prairie grass furniture is a perfect product. The peculiar adaptability of prairie grass furniture to any surrounding is so pronounced that no single scheme of furnishing—no single room in your home—can lay special claims to it over others on the ground of being most appropriate. On the porch or lawn it seems at once to reflect the vigor and wholesomeness of outdoor life. On our display floor we are showing nearly forty different pieces.—Stickley-Brandt Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Incoming spring furniture in great shipments are crowding us and to make room we have tagged fifty fine parlor suits with special prices. It's just a question whether or not you need a parlor suit; if you do, you'll not be able to resist buying one with the saving we make possible during this special sale if you'll only see them. In fact, the entire spring furniture exhibit will be pleasing to you.—Hurley Tobin Co., Trenton, N. J.

The dining room is one of the most important rooms in the house. There is where half of your enjoyment is taken, and next to your food nothing adds more to the enjoyment than fine dining room furniture. You will find the most complete line of dining room furniture in our store and the cost will not be great to make your room look beautiful.—W. O. Olsen, Fargo, N. D.

What do we mean by "every day" or moderate priced furniture? We mean furniture of utility, neat design and substantial construction at prices within the means of those who want the best that medium prices can buy. While we handle the very finest grades of furniture we wish to be thoroughly understood as dealers in the moderate priced also. We, however, keep away from the trashy or inferior grades. No low price or other inducement can tempt us to enter such goods in our well balanced, always reliable stock. Our reputation would suffer and the buyers would also suffer. We never fail, when it comes to a comparison, to prove that our values exceed any moderate priced goods. It is as easy to be misled in furniture as it is in cloth. There is quite a difference and one cannot be too careful.—C. C. Fuller & Co., Hartford, Conn.

A new dining table with lots of good things on it to eat goes a long ways towards making father the happiest and most contented man on earth says the "little house maid." We believe the "little house maid" is right in making above argument and desire to add that we have just unpacked and placed on our dining-room floor an entire new line of dining-room tables. Splendid dining tables with fancy fluted legs, beveled rim and top, in polished golden oak for $6.75.—Stickley-Brandt Furniture Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Porch and lawn furniture, as well as furniture for the home—stocks that will more than deserve attention, they will command it. This furniture store, as a whole, stands first in St. Paul—first in stocks, first in service, first in facilities for showing the goods and sending them home. Now we're heart and soul into the business of supplying your summer needs. Chairs, swings, rockers, folding chairs, settees, mission pieces. Prices positively the lowest.—W. E. Matheis Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Style in furniture changes as well as style in hats and gowns. There's no more reason why your house should be dressed in bygone fashions than yourself. Be proud of your furniture. See that it's right up to the minute. Come in and see what the very latest styles are, and how high styles and low prices meet.—James F. McGovern, Lebanon, Pa.

The almost daily arrival of new consignments of furniture and furnishings makes this store a center of interest to parties about to furnish, and we cordially invite them to keep in touch with our new offerings by frequent visits. Large shipments of new furniture are already to hand. They include some notably handsome reproductions of Colonial dining room furniture, a number of charming bed room pieces in mahogany, Circassian walnut and white enamel, and an assortment of choice designs in fancy tables, music cabinets and secretaries.—John Kay, Son & Co., Toronto, Can.

On our second floor we are showing a great line of 1907 parlor suits and odd pieces—davenport and couches upholstered in tapestries, silks and leather, with beautiful frames of oak and solid mahogany. Special March prices on every piece. See us before you buy any furniture.—M. J. & B. M. Buck, Lansing.

Our motto. The best goods for the least money. Watch for our special ads. Wednesdays and Sundays.—W. R. Pierce Furniture Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Pleasure, comfort, and satisfaction come from an attractive interior. Beauty in furniture does not necessarily imply the most costly materials, but rather good judgment in selection. The showing of everything now at my store is quite at its best. Every department has a bright, fresh, attractive and enthusiastic display. There is a veritable harvest of house furnishings here and you are as welcome to visit us as we can possibly make you.—Morris M. Wolff, Montgomery, Ala.

The second week of our annual March furniture sale will be made notable by a large showing of first class home furnishings at very special prices. Fifteen to thirty per cent. discount means a big saving to you. We will mark and hold any selection you may make for future delivery. Remember that housecleaning time will soon be here and the saving we offer now is much greater than two or three weeks later.—F. Sanford & Co., Springfield, Ill.

Ours is the big furniture store of Zanesville—five floors of new spring furniture to select from at prices fully twenty per cent. less than other local dealers. Here you find the very best that is manufactured—in all the new styles and finishes.—Wm. Wells, Zanesville, Ohio.

Somersault davenport. A perfect davenport of elegant appearance. Need not be moved from the wall. Simple and substantial. Cannot get out of order. Back simply rolls forward. Cushion is automatically turned inside out and bedding left in place, concealed from view during day.—Rhodes Burford Furniture and Carpet Co., Lexington, Ky.

We have now in stock a most beautiful display of dining room furniture. Sideboards, tables, china cabinets, in fact, everything to furnish your dining room complete with the most artistic, beautiful and durable furniture to be found.—Damon's, Kenton, Ohio.

We mean furniture of utility, neat design and substantial construction, at prices within the reach of those who want the best that medium prices can buy. While we handle the finest grade of furniture, we wish to be distinctly understood as dealers in the moderate priced also. We, however, keep away from the trashy or inferior grades. We also keep our stock up-to-date by quoting low prices and making many sales. We sell more furniture than all the other stores in Wayne County combined. It will pay you to call whether you are ready to buy or not.—Schmuck & Bevington, Wooster.

These mattresses are filled with cotton felt, have no tufts in them, but made to roll up so that a child can handle them. No reason why this mattress should not give twenty-five years of solid comfort without making over. You can freshen it up every day like new.—The Hampson Sellow Furniture Store, Waterbury, Conn.

Furniture of the highest grade at prices so radically reduced as to make it worth while withdrawing money from the bank or elsewhere to make purchases at this time. When the store closes next Thursday evening your last opportunity to secure this excellent furniture so much under price will have vanished.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Furnishing the home for warmer days. First thing we know there'll be a plunge right into summer heat. Why not be ready for it? Every day brings the necessity for preparing the interior of the home for warm weather nearer, meanwhile—even though you may not have any thought of buying — we want to urge upon you the welcome this store extends to visitors. We want you to feel just what satisfaction it is to us for you to compare our kind of home furnishings with those of the average stores. We want you to know by examination that this is the real home for best furniture, mattings, carpets, bedding, etc., and then when the time comes to buy, you're sure of a place where everything will be to your satisfaction.—Gately & Hurley Co., Camden, N. J.

A bargain is only a bargain when you get good value as well as a low price. We have been a long time in the furniture business, and are not easily deceived in qualities. Furniture is often deceptive in appearance, but we look below the varnish and handle only goods that are well made, as well as good looking. You can safely rely on anything you buy from us, although our price may be a good deal lower than you can find on similar goods anywhere else.—House & Herrmann, Washington, D. C.

Makers of summer furniture have awakened to the finer opportunities for picturesque effect of color and designs, and have evolved many splendid new pieces, doubly desirable for their beauty and their comfort.—Comstock-Avery Furniture Co., Peoria, Ill.

There's a wide range between a brass bed and a gilt corner chair, and that's the beauty of this sale. There is something in it for everyone, and the savings are just as remarkable in proportion, on anything you buy. Here are parlor suits, dining chairs in sets, Morris chairs and bungalow furniture—just a few items to show the infinite variety in the event.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

It is a condition, not a theory which confronts you. Furniture of the best grades and in the widest assortment of the best grades is assembled here and fills three great floors. You can buy that furniture now for prices a fifth to half less than prices at other seasons. Your neighbors and friends and other Brooklyn people are taking advantage of the opportunity—are turning opportunity into economy.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The news is but a brief summary of prices. The figures speak eloquently, though, to anyone having need of bed room furniture and who wishes to save in buying goods the equal in all respects of the furniture that we sell the year round.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

At this particular time we are offering some special bargains which are deservedly popular. Such money-saving value never was offered before to the people of Mansfield and vicinity. The Rowlands & Co. not only sell complete housekeeping outfits or single articles of furniture at lower prices than any one else, but extend credit to everyone on the old-fashioned plan. We have a plain charge account, which has created hundreds of happy homes. We deliver anything you order upon the payment of a small amount in cash, and then allow you to pay the balance in easy weekly or monthly payments. We can fit your house from top to bottom, for we are complete housefurnishers, and you will save money here on every purchase. We can and do undersell every other furniture house in Mansfield. The reason is perfectly plain. We can buy at better prices, because we order at one time all the goods we need for six stores, which we own or control.—Rowlands & Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

Our furniture is all first-class and every piece guaranteed. Here is where you will be treated courteously, honestly, justly and fairly. Our furniture is not the shoddy kind, but from the best factories in the country, and at prices much less than any other store. Young people will do well to see our line before making their purchase elsewhere. Our stock is very large and of latest designs.—The Home Furniture Co., Springfield, O.

Nothing is too big or too little for us to consider in the furniture-carpet-bedding or general home furnishing lines. This store is headquarters for the finest display of the best go-carts in the city. We carry every latest pattern in the best makes of refrigerators and ice chests. Summer cook stoves of only the dependable grades are one of the warm-weather features of our stock—in fact, there's nothing needed in furnishing any part of the house but what we are able to supply, and everything is backed by our broad guarantee.—Hurley Tobin Co., Trenton, N. J.

A strong, handsome and most desirable couch. It has the indestructible steel frame construction, is 80 inches arms down. Has 33 high tempered steel springs. The frame is of oak, has attractive plush rosette in back. The sides adjust to 6 different positions. Covered in velour, in red or green.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

Elwell kitchen cabinets. The top.—The top includes every desirable feature that years of experience have suggested and provides a place for all the materials necessary to the kitchen work. The sugar, spices, baking powder and extracts—each has its place. There are compartments for groceries, canned goods and package goods, and there are places for tins and various pots and pans—all within easy reach of the operator. The "wings," which are also subdivided, increase its capacity and place everything where it is easily accessible. As they close tightly, everything is perfectly protected from the dust. The base.—Every inch of available space in the base is utilized—no waste space. The bottom is carefully put together, making it dust and vermin proof.—Goble, Pratt & Robins, Spokane, Wash.

Your home is not cosy until it is well supplied with easy chairs. One of our luxurious Morris chairs or big rockers will put you on "easy street" during the long evenings that are to come. We have every good style and every design that can be imagined. Full range of prices—but so low that we can't guarantee the quality of the goods. Come and look.—Williams & Morgan, Utica.

A solid oak dresser, built with a full serpentine front, shaped top, carved toilet standards and a 22x28 French beveled plate oval mirror; the case is full 44 inches long. This dresser is made of selected white oak, nicely finished golden. The style is very pleasing and only 18 to be sold at this reduced price. The regular value $25.50, and well worth the original asking price. To sell at a saving that is a true saving of $8. Do you want one of these at this special price of $17.50? — The Grote-Rankin Co., Spokane, Wash.

You will find solid comfort in our rockers. Elegance, durability and comfort combined. Constructed by the very best manufacturers. These goods will retain their fine elegant finish and last a lifetime and always prove a source of pleasure and satisfaction to every customer. They will cost no more than the inferior, trashy goods that are flooding the market. Investigate our great stock of fine wickers and be convinced. Easy payments.—Chas. H. Jones, Denison, Tex.

Reasons why you should buy carpets, rugs and furniture at High's. All our furniture, carpets, rugs, etc., are marked in plain figures—one price to all—if you are a charge customer you buy here at exactly the same price as the cash customer. We are prepared now to sell furniture, carpets, rugs and house furnishings, etc., on easy terms of payment, which will entirely do away with the so-called lease system and enable you now to furnish your home without paying the exorbitant prices demanded by installment houses. We invite prospective buyers who need furnishings of any kind to call and see our stock of furniture, carpets, rugs, etc. No trouble to show goods. Our polite salespeople will take pleasure in explaining the "terms of sale." If you know of any persons who are about to start housekeeping, newly married or about to be married, or any who have lately moved to the city, you will oblige us and confer a favor on them by bringing this notice to their attention.—J. M. High & Co., Atlanta, Ga.

There is not a man who does not bless the day that brought him a Morris chair. It makes a most appreciated gift for weddings, birthdays, anniversaries or any day when you'd bring wreaths of real smiles to some man's face. We are sure we have exactly the Morris chair that will please him. Get the advantage of an early selection.—The Brushaber, Detroit.

Those who seek something different in furniture, carpets and home furnishings —newer ideas, choicer patterns, greater degree of exclusiveness in designs, will be more than pleased with the immense fall stock which is displayed on our floors. The extraordinary volume of our business gives us a wonderful prestige in the markets, and enables us to control choicest designs from nearly every mill and factory in this country. Purchasing for our ten large stores enables us to gain large concessions on original cost and in turn allows us to undersell all competitors. If ready cash is lacking remember you are welcome to our liberal credit system.—Household Outfitting Co., Scranton, Pa.

If you are interested in hall seats take a trip to our fifth floor, Main street side. There you will find a most satisfactory assortment which includes the most popular designs of the season.—Barker Bros., Los Angeles, Cal.

We've been all through stock marking down prices. We want to make our January sale a record breaker for us, a memorable month for buyers. It's up to you, if you appreciate marvelous bargains in choice selected furniture and house furnishings, to come in and see what January at our store offers.—Clark, Boudich & Edgerly, New Haven.

The division of the furniture store devoted to Mission furniture is very large, and here we have gathered a stock the equal of which can probably not be found anywhere and surely not in Newark. These "Arts and Crafts" or Mission pieces are the product of the best makers; the styles are the very best and the manufacture of a dependable sort. There are various finishes to choose from and a wide variety of prices.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Our first stock-taking is over. Thanks for that. In the wake of it, for which the people will also be able to say "thanks," is a great lot of fine furniture—as fine as can be made that we propose to move quickly. Come in and see the values after you read the prices below—you'll then know more than ever of just what a progressive money-saving, helpful store there is here.—Hurley-Tobin Co., Trenton, N. J.

We regret that we cannot tell more of our dining-room furniture in this space, particularly sideboards, buffets side tables and serving tables. We have a splendid stock for you to select from and prices are cut very materially—particularly where suits have been broken.—The Los Angeles Furniture Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

A cabinet maker devised the Fireside chair (and rocker)—so comfortable and cosy that a man almost forgets to go to bed. We priced them at $50. That was foolish. Then a brighter maker worked out the identical scheme and they sold at $40 each. We never could sell them for less, until to-day, we offer either the chair or rocker at $35. This furniture store is quite the leader in comfortable home adornment.—John A. Colby & Sons, Chicago, Ill.

Our stock of parlor furniture to a piece has been reduced for this sale. Pardon the boasting, but we want to say that in this line we certainly do excel. Our stock is larger, our designs more exclusive, our regular prices lower than you will find in any other store in the West. During this sale you can save from ten to fifty per cent., and get the best there is in parlor furniture. Furnish your parlor now and save.—The Los Angeles Furniture Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

This is a special. It is made of heavy solid oak and highly polished, has patent easy adjusting reclining back, new durable and most comfortable seat construction, seat set with highly tempered coil springs, seat and back upholstered in superior imported velour. Other stores are advertising Morris chairs not equal to this one at $8.75 and $9.75. It's a most extraordinary special for Monday at only $3.69 cash or credit.—The Terre Haute Furniture and Carpet Co., Terre Haute, Ind.

Save $1.00 and $1.50 on a carpet sweeper. And on a Bissell! Early shoppers can choose among a limited number of these celebrated machines Tuesday morning. The workmanship is of the finest quality and beautifully finished. Have rubber furniture protector and nickel trimmings. Good value at $2.50 and $3.00. Eight o'clock sale special $1.50.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Mission rockers, chairs, davenports and couches. Roomy and comfortable, made of strong oak in either early English or weathered finishes; upholstered in Spanish leather with loose cushions, low comfortable seats, flat arms and easy backs; well constructed in every particular. Will offer them this week at very much below our regular price.—W. Buschman & Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

A low priced chiffonier. We have a limited number of low-priced chiffoniers, some with mirrors, which we bought before the recent advances in furniture. They are strong and durable and can be used in almost any room where a large packing or storage case is necessary. The cost of these chiffoniers is about twenty per cent. less than present prices, and they can never be any lower owing to scarcity of lumber and the higher prices of labor. Would it not be well to take advantage of this opportunity to secure a good chiffonier at a very low price?—The Vincent-Barstow Co., Cleveland.

Comfortable chairs. Pull out the seat front of these handsome Streit Morris chairs. Immediately they are luxurious to lie back in and read. No one knows how comfortable a chair can be until he has tried a Streit Morris chair. No one knows what complete rest feels like until he has reclined in a Streit Morris chair after a tiring day. The Streit Morris chair is the business man's ideal home chair. Call and try one at A. Dirksen & Sons, Springfield, Ill.

Furnishing the home for warmer days. First thing we know there'll be a plunge right into summer heat. Why not be ready for it? Every day brings the necessity for preparing the interior of the home for warm weather nearer; meanwhile, even though you may not have any thought of buying, we want to urge upon you the welcome this store extends to visitors. We want you to feel just what satisfaction it is for you to compare our kind of home furnishings with those of the average stores. We want you to know by examination that this is the real home for best furniture, mattings, carpets, beddings, etc., and then when the time comes to buy you're sure of a place where everything will be to your satisfaction.—Hurley-Tobin Co., Trenton, N. J.

Prices you'll be glad to pay. There is no better, no surer way to cut down your household expenses than to keep right in touch with Dean's Friday bargains and to take advantage of them. Every special offered to-morrow is practical—a household need—and every price reduction is absolutely genuine. Read about to-day's savings.—Off Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

The young married couple should come here to replete their home with furniture, because we can save you many dollars on this important purchase. The quality of our stock is such that you need never refinish or carry back to be mended, and prices are not higher than other stores ask. The holiday rush is over and we find many odd pieces which can be sold at bargain prices. Come and look over our two immense floors if in need of furniture.—Schmuck & Bevington, Wooster, Ohio.

Furniture prices are reduced this way. Every piece of G. & H. furniture falls into the bargain drag net in this effort to clear the floors of odd pieces before we take account of stock. While we mention but a few of the larger items the sale means that whatever sort of furniture you have need for is here at much under regular prices.—Gately & Hurley Co., Camden, N. J.

Considering the excellent quality—the unexcelled workmanship, stability and recognized artistic superiority of the furniture offered during this sale, together with prices that are acknowledged to be much lower than you can buy even the haphazardly constructed furniture built especially for sales—this furniture occasion furnishes without a doubt the best saving opportunity ever presented to the discriminating buying public of New York.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

A gift of gifts—a Morris chair. William Morris did not know the boon he was conferring on humanity when he invented the Morris chair for his wife. Could not choose a gift more certain of appreciation, no, not if you tried. Nor could you find a better collection were you to search all Canada, than can be found on our fifth floor. Splendid value, too. One out of the ordinary.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

The Lederer idea of value-giving. Lederer believes in value-giving as the best means of making friends. Specials such as Lederer's offer create a favorable opinion in the minds of economical patrons. Without thought of immediate benefit, Lederer's illustration of value, as applied to a necessity, will be found in this rocker. A full Turkish rocker, upholstered in genuine hand-buffed leather, with neat leather fringe over government steel constructed springs. Real Herrington springs are used (these springs alone costing five dollars) giving the fullest degree of comfort.—The Lederer Furn. Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

You should by all means consider this store in the list of stores you intend to visit this spring, in order to make a suitable and satisfactory selection of the furnishings you will need for your home. If you do, you will learn that this store sells home furnishings at least as cheap, and in all probability, cheaper than other stores. Also that it has a stock of goods that is fully up-to-date in every particular. In addition to both these desirable features you will find a credit system here at your service (if required) that will help you in a way that is really helpful, a system that places the goods in your home at once and allows you to pay a little every payday until the goods are paid for.—People's Furnishing Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

Mission furniture. Have you ever thought of furnishing a room with Mission furniture? The bargains we are offering in Mission furniture should assist you in solving the problem. There is no excuse for not buying at these prices.—Burns & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

We wish to call your attention to our large and well selected line of rockers, both in wicker and wood. The wicker rockers are all clean, new goods in natural finish. The wood rockers comprise a very handsome lot of large, comfort rockers finished in weathered oak, golden oak, and mahogany. Most of these goods arrived too late for the Xmas trade, therefore will be sold at a reduction of about 20 per cent. Buy now or miss a bargain.—A. G. Rhodes & Son, Mobile.

January clearance sale of furniture and rugs. Just a short month now to get ready for inventory taking. The more furniture and rugs you buy the less we will have to count up and enter on the books. We take January to sort of clean house and through it the public profits. Whether you buy in January or any other month of the year—where you pay our regular prices or share in the great reductions—you'll never get inferior merchandise.—Hurley-Tobin Co., Trenton, N. J.

Business furniture for the office. Mr. Business Man, how much time do you spend in your home during the day? Perhaps three hours. How long are you in your office? Two-thirds of your conscious life. Don't you think that it would be better to spend this two-thirds of your time amid pleasant surroundings and up-to-date office furnishings? Surely modern fixtures and labor-saving office devices cannot make you a worse business man. Appearances count for much and no one knows this better than you. Begin the new year well by furnishing your office with new, tasteful and convenient pieces of furniture. We devote more than 3,000 square feet of display to it.—Stickley-Brandt Co., Binghamton.

This furniture sale is planned weeks in advance. We make such radical changes in prices that a purchase of twenty dollars represents values over thirty dollars. At all times our prices are lowest, but during this February sale we've marked them a third to a half lower. Come promptly, for the choicest bargains will go first.—Kaufmann's, Trenton, N. J.

This sale of furniture makes no pretense at being a half-price sale. Such a radical reduction is not possible to secure on very large quantities of good and desirable furniture, and this is the only sort that we admit into this August movement. But there are ripe "plums" of this sort, and a great many of them fell to us while we were making our extensive gatherings for this sale. Sometime a manufacturer has a reason for disposing of some very fine things quickly. At other times half prices are made to us as favors, pure and simple. Yesterday, in looking over the new things that have recently arrived, the observer was struck with some of the remarkably handsome furniture that is now on our floors at exactly half of its real value. Of course, these are choice prizes for those who come early in the sale. And yet it is only fair to let you know that they are here to reward promptness.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

A sale surpassing all others in size, variety and economy. An epoch making sale of genuine bargains of vital interest to every home-furnisher. A collection of Summer furniture that goes to show the tendency to blend the artistic with the practical in goods for the porch, lawn or sitting room. Every one who has a need for this durable, practical furnishing should make it a point to inspect the many advantages in these splendid offerings.—Brooklyn Furniture Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The verdict of the discriminating furniture buyer—he who knows good furniture—is invariably "Adams is best." That is the only possible decision after a careful comparison. The Adams Furniture Sale stands out pre-eminently in its giving of supreme values in an almost inexhaustible range of prices and styles. Every taste can be suited—every purse accommodated. This great furniture sale will continue to offer all the best things in furniture craftsmanship at prices which cannot be equalled in any other store. Just 15 days more in which to buy at these low prices.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

Quality and variety are the strong features of this store. Nowhere else will you find as extensive a showing of really good furniture and carpets at such nominal prices as these. Each article is representative of the best of its kind, and our wonderful assortment insures our suiting every taste and every purse.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City.

Furnishing a home is not a formidable undertaking. A little "shopping" and you will have no difficulty in selecting the right furnishing store—the store that carries everything you need—offers the best values and fairest terms.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

Our unique position in the trade enables us to offer quite exceptional values in the higher grades of furniture. Being direct importers enables us to acquire those select lines and designs in furniture that are not to be found in the store of the small concern.—Armstrong Furniture Co., Memphis, Tenn.

The better parts—the choicest selections—the cream, as it were, of the handsomest furniture the world can produce. Mr. Brand is acknowledged to be an expert in furniture buying, and he is doing himself proud this season. Never did we receive such gorgeousness, such elegant taste for beauty in home furnishing—never such an opportunity to please the public in low prices. The Brand leadership for fine furniture is safe this year; there's little fear of any of our competitors outstripping us in the race for supremacy. The greater part will be sold while our first anniversary sale takes place. Little regard is paid for profits. We want to sell, and sell we will.—David H. Brand & Co., Trenton.

This is something comparatively new in the furniture line, and was introduced with a view to replacing the bamboo and rattan article. Great durability is claimed for it by the makers, and added to this the original and pleasing designs of the different articles has much to recommend it to furniture buyers.—Chadbourne Furniture Co., San Diego.

Have you a new house to furnish? You'll want the drawing room as nice as ever your means will allow. You'll do better than you thought if you utilize the advantages in price we offer on Monday. Perhaps several pieces in your parlor show traces of wear and tear which comes of entertaining. Refurnish the room where necessary from the saving list we enumerate herewith. You can afford to do it liberally, for the discounts are as liberal as your own ideas.—Simpson, Toronto, Can.

Here at last. Guess there ain't any doubt but summer has struck us good and plenty. The weather the last two days has been torrid enough to make the porch the only cool place in the house. And you can't be comfortable on the porch without porch furniture. That brings you here, especially if you want to get the best value for the money.—James Fitzsimons & Co., Detroit, Mich.

You will look around before buying your furniture to see where you can do the best. If you get tangled in the combination maze, keep your hand on your pocketbook 'till you have worked your way out—then come to 447 South Broadway and we will remunerate you for your time that you have lost.—Broadway Drapery & Furniture Co., Los Angeles.

After a careful selection of goods in the line of dressing tables and princess dressers, we are going to place them on our floors to-day, knowing that the critical buyer will at once appreciate them from the standpoint of beauty, workmanship and low price.—Niles Pease Furniture Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Our furniture department lost most heavily in our store flooding, and to-day the adjusters are giving it exclusive attention, but the work will not be completed in time to make it possible, this evening, to print details of damaged articles or the prices at which they can be offered. To-night the working force will keep at it until the injured goods are ready for Friday's callers, and no one who has furniture on the buying list should do themselves the injustice of neglecting to make personal investigation of the very extreme and valuable price-saving offered. Quick clearance is the imperative word. So there's an advantage in prompt response.—The Denver D. G. Co., Denver, Colo.

It is the new designs in furniture in which most people are interested. Furniture styles change, and the curiosity to see what the latest styles are, helps to crowd this store. Beauty is linked together with utility in these goods. Antique reproductions touch "elbows" with twentieth century designs. Come in and spend an hour or two studying the furniture fashions—not necessary to buy—you are welcome.—John Breuner Co., Sacramento, Cal.

We would far rather lose the money we have spent for freight, store expenses, advertising, etc., and give all these goods to the public at the price they cost us wholesale, than to turn them over to the trade at the prices they are offering. If the goods were old style and shop worn, it would be different, but they are nearly all fresh from the factories, and this year's styles. Come in and let us sell you new goods for less than you have to pay for secondhand. Post yourself thoroughly on prices elsewhere, then see ours. Don't wait until the stock is all picked over. Come in to-night. Open until 9 o'clock.—I. T. Martin, Los Angeles, Cal.

If you are housekeeping or contemplating the blissful state, let us place you in joyful mood by refitting the wornout places in the home that is and give you an estimate on the small cost to fit up the home to be.—P. J. Kelly & Co., New Haven, Conn.

Item No. 1—Quality! Item No. 2—Honest values! Item No. 3—Genuinely low prices! These three points are worth remembering, for they apply exactly to the furniture we offer. This sale presents particularly a few dining room fitments that must be sold. To make a clean sweep we offer them at prices which will cause many a homemaker to mark items that may be needed in the near future and then come at once to make sure of getting them.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Our store has been picked out by the majority of the people in this town as the best place to buy furniture.—Longyear, Lansing, Mich.

Mission furniture for dining rooms. Quaintness, simplicity, tone. Around it there seems to linger the memories of a century that is gone—a century wherein the old monks fashioned the pieces from which this most modern style is patterned. Purity of design—excellence of workmanship. Our mission furniture is the product of makers noted for beauty of artistic conceptions, thorough attention to the details of construction and high grade hand finishing.—The Household Fair, Kansas City, Mo.

Everything for summer in furniture and floor coverings. Warm weather will be here almost before you realize it. Instead of waiting until hot days come—select all you need to put your home in its summer garb right now. This big seven-story building is stocked with everything that's newest and best in furniture and floor coverings. There's no other stock like it in Baltimore—either in size or completeness. Judging quality for quality—there are no such low prices, either.—Comprecht & Benesch, Baltimore, Md.

Summer Furniture.—Half the battle in choosing furniture for the seaside cottage or the country house is to have it look cool and summery. The rest lies in having it as comfortable as it looks. Our collection of summer furniture is both attractive to the eye and soothing to the spirit. It comprises every sort of rush, reed, wicker and grass furniture we know of, also the "Mission" type of wooden furniture in various oak finishes.—Wanamaker's, New York.

The Denaux Company undertakes the complete furnishing of a modern home according to careful, artistic plans. The usual plan of furnishing a home by hit and miss selection of furniture, etc., out of various stores, various styles, various qualities and various artistic ideals is never so desirable as the ideal plan of having everything to harmonize throughout. The Denaux Company, with its system of furnishing all furniture, carpets, draperies, wall hangings, etc., etc., on special order direct from original sources, has enabled the home-furnisher to realize the ideal and that, too, at a lessened cost over the older plan.—The Denaux Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Did you know that our whole fourth floor is just running over with good furniture? Very fine pieces, good pieces—but no trash. Anything you may need for your home can be found here. The display is so good that we take pleasure in inviting you to come in. Remember that our prices are as low as we can make them.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

A porch shade of some kind is almost indispensable, and when you're getting, why not take the latest and best? "Vudor" is the name of a new and superior sort of porch shade. It is destined to replace the familiar bamboo screens, as it is a decided improvement.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Porch Furniture.—The next half year will be spent out of doors as much as possible. You will desert the house for the cool porch or the shady lawn. These places of rest should therefore be well fitted with substantial and comfortable furniture, upon which one can lounge with enjoyment and ease.—Williams & McNulty, Scranton, Pa.

Den Furniture.—Nothing fits a den but the piece of furniture made especially for it. So we have an ample stock of den furnishings—odd chairs, quaintly shaped tables, curious pedestals and stands for cigars. The favorite wood is weathered oak, and many of the designs touch on the old "Mission" style in construction. There are queer shaped seats and other pieces that fit into corners and odd places and give the finishing touch to a den. Just the furniture the den needs—that's our stock.—Los Angeles Furniture Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Old Hickory Furniture for Summer Homes.—The nearer one gets to nature the truer the art. The mere rustic naturalness of the old hickory furniture makes it artistic—there is nothing just like it. Nothing that has the same character and individuality—it fills a place in its own quaint way—and what's so good about it, it's practical, most comfortable and lasts forever, almost. We have a very extensive collection worth seeing, even if you don't want to buy—all kinds of chairs and rockers, unique shapes, settees of innumerable kinds, couches, beds, cradles, table, full suits, etc., etc., and even a complete log cabin—made for use—which may be seen on our third floor. Prices are reasonable, too—have a look at this interesting exhibit before you furnish your summer cottage.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"To think of furniture is to think of Carty."—Carty's Furniture Store, Frederick, Md.

The Economy's sale of anticipated furniture values scores a positive triumph.—The Economy, Scranton, Pa.

Porch furniture. Time that these pieces of summer furniture were doing their part of beautifying some summer home. So we have gone through the stock and have done some sharp re-pricing. For those who have yet to buy there is double economy in this sale at this early part of the season.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Carpets breed disease. Nearly every carpet is an abiding place for dust—no matter with what care the house is kept, and the efforts of your maid to thoroughly sweep the carpets in the old way with a broom only tends to increase the danger, because the brush thrusts dirt deeper and forces the pile out of same. A Bissell's sweeper acts just the reverse and draws dirt—disease—upwards into its capacious stomach ready for emptying into dust-bin—do you see the advantage of a good sweeper?—Alfred Edmondson, Morecombe, Eng.

Prairie grass furniture for porch and parlor. Its charm lies quite as much in its cool, green coloring as in its smooth surface, perfect finish and indestructibility. Fashioned in strikingly graceful forms, each separate design reveals artistic beauty impossible to produce from any other material. Surprisingly pliable. Comfortable as a hammock, and far more durable than you'd think. The ideal thing for dens, cozy corners and inexpensive green rooms, as well as for parlors and porches.—Los Angeles Furniture Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Perhaps you've been merely procrastinating—drifting. Then the alarm is for you. The last week of the furniture sale has begun.

The last days in which to secure a half more furniture than usual for your money and be absolutely sure of the artistic character and worthy construction of what you buy. A great feature introduces this last week of the sale.

Last week of the furniture sale.—The economy clock rings its alarm to-day. Thousands of housekeepers to whom the wasting of dollars is a serious thing are still putting off till to-morrow what thrift would advise them to do to-day. "Manana" is the comfortable thought, particularly if you are away at a summer cottage or hotel; but waiting is costly, if you have furniture to buy this fall.

Every parlor suite on our floor is marked at exactly half price. That means some of the handsomest parlor furniture shown in New York to-day. It means solid mahogany hand-carved suites that add elegance to a home for a hundred years. And it means a refined and well constructed $18 parlor suite at $9; as well as all grades between. These parlor suites are notorious bargains when marked at a quarter and a third under-price; and no other store that handles goods of equal character to the most of it would cut the prices at all; but when it is marked at half price it should be swept from our floors entire in a single day's selling, if people who want parlor furniture this fall could realize the marvelous offerings that inaugurate this sale's final week.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Our halls take the place of the Roman atrium and, respecting their ancestry, we should treat them in a dignified manner, as the entrance to the home. He who enters should feel as though he had put a barrier between himself and all the outside annoyances—hence the demand for furniture of refinement and comfort, in addition to greater beauty in the strictly necessary pieces.—Cowperthwait & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Tact is better than talent. Use a little tact in selecting furniture.—Los Angeles Furniture Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Rustic cedar furniture at half price! This offering presents not only the most durable, but also one of the most artistic kinds of outdoor furniture, at just half its real value. And this, just at the moment when thousands of country lawns need these comfortable pieces to perfect their delightfulness. It is made up in the most rustic manner possible.—Wanamaker, New York.

Drift wood. Drift wood furniture combines the beauty of nature with modern handicraft and art. It is remarkable for its simplicity, fine proportion, honest material, sound construction and harmonious colorings. Built for utility, adaptability, æsthetic effects, reliability and beautiful natural figure. Finished to bring out the beautiful natural grain in rare variegated shades of brown, green and red. These chairs, rockers and benches are constructed without the use of glue, which makes them practical for lawn and porch use. It is ideal furniture for club houses, country and suburban homes, library and den use.—Chamberlain, Johnson & Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

A shirt waist box is the most useful thing you ever saw to keep dainty dresses in.—Scranton Bedding Co., Scranton, Pa.

Soothing Summer rockers and broad arm chairs, a quarter to a third reduction—and there is a whole vacation of rest in any one of them.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

What does your Summer house lack in furniture? Our superb stock of porch and lawn furniture is offered at half price! The fancy reed furniture is a third under-price. And every piece has been carefully selected; first, for its excellent construction; second, for its artistic design. The very finest Summer furniture that is made is in this offering; yet these are the concessions made on prices already the lowest in the city.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Common sense isn't as common as the name implies. Otherwise everybody would select our good furniture.—Los Angeles Furniture Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Bedroom furniture. You can't afford to overlook these new golden oak chamber suits if you are contemplating refurnishing a bedroom.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Prairie grass. Furniture made from the long, tough grass fiber of the western prairies; twisted by wonderful machines into the strongest Summer furniture. The possibilities in shapes are wonderful and almost endless. The color is a charming green of unique shade. Wiregrass furniture for porch parlors has won great popularity from the first day we introduced it. Not only chairs, but baskets, stands, tables, and so on through the furniture list go the possible designs in wiregrass.—Chamberlain, Johnson & Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

All kinds of rockers for all kinds of prices—$1 up to $10. Come, take your pick.—Pickering's, Pittsburg, Pa.

All our furniture sweepingly reduced. In fact, every piece in stock, from the simplest bedroom chair to the finest parlor or dining-room suit, bears this sweeping reduction. The Loeser furniture is well known for its artistic merit, its genuine quality and invaluable worthiness. We never had a better showing nor a more practical one. This will be positively the last general reduction of the season. Those who contemplate furnishing either a summer home or a city house can save $25.00 or $50.00 on every $100.00 worth of furniture. Isn't it worth thinking about?—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Still in the lead. The popularity of our goods never wanes. Our line of furniture is the best you can get anywhere for the price we sell it for.—J. B. Wibbins & Son, Rome, N. Y.

There's a difference between trade winners and trade keepers. A trade winner is a piece of furniture for little money—a trade keeper is good money's worth of furniture.—Carille & Kerr, Columbus, O.

Verdict of guilty. We have been tried by an impartial jury, and the unanimous verdict is that we're guilty of selling the best furniture at the lowest cost of any concern in the country. If you have no interest in this verdict you are sleeping over the opportunity of your life.—The A. S. Thompson Furniture Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Chair Comfort. Don't you want a chair that is comfortable, no matter what position you take in it? One that gives rest to the body and the cost of which does not bother the mind. Plenty of easy chairs and rockers of that kind in our stock. Come in some day when you are real tired and rest in one for half an hour. You'll like it so well that it will find a place in your home.—C. E. Pittorf, Great Falls, Mont.

Weathered oak furniture is characterized by its simple beauty. The very soul of good taste—faultlessly designed—well built—in quiet harmony with other furnishings—good to buy—for it costs no more than lots of inferior kinds. It is furniture of quality—your kind.—Fenn, Hartford, Conn.

What you "auto" have is a good rocker. We have them, but we want to give them to you in exchange for cash. It is fortunate there isn't a speed law against quick selling, or we would have to interview "his honor" in the morning. These prices should make our sales increase.—Wheeler's, Lexington, Ky.

Reliable furniture at money saving figures. The items in this announcement will be interesting news to those whose housefurnishings need replenishing. We offer articles suitable for every room in the house at prices that mean a substantial saving. Large purchases at "dull season" figures are responsible for most of these reductions, and in each instance we give our customers full benefit of the price concessions thus secured by our buyers.—Julius Hines & Son, Baltimore, Md.—Feb. 8, 1903.

The parlor furniture floor presents some exceptional values; we have bought very heavily and we wish to unload rapidly, so hence the remarkable reduction; every fine parlor suite on the floor has been reduced one-half; a handsome three-piece parlor suite with mahogany finished frame and upholstered in velour.—The Terre Haute Furniture & Carpet Co., Terre Haute, Ind.

GET BUSY.

You catch the bird,
We'll feather the nest.
You marry the girl,
We'll do the rest.

We carry a full line of the best and most stylish furniture, carpets and stoves in the city.—J. W. Kelley, Marion, Ind.

"Good furniture need not be expensive furniture." That's one of the lessons taught by Gately & Fitzgerald's buying abilities for their 63 stores. Two surprises salute every visitor as she (or he) enters our store. First Surprise—The variety, beauty and amount of this furniture stock. Second Surprise—The inexpensiveness of the really good prices.—Gately & Fitzgerald, Altoona, Pa.

Sitting room art. The room that serves as a family rendezvous must be artistic as well as comfortable—it is there the first and lasting impressions of the children are formed. Modern "indoor" architecture demands that a third point be considered—space saving. We have obeyed the dictates of all three, and have many space saving furnishings in our new fall stock.—Cowperthwait's, New York.

It should not require great pretensions to interest desk buyers. Men who do desk work know hot air from facts. So we simply ask you to look over our goods and let us quote you prices. That's about all that's necessary.—Bruce, Filley & Co., Hartford, Conn.

To say that a piece of furniture is from "Kay's" confers a distinction upon it. Our customers have an unequalled choice.—Kay's, Toronto, Ont.

Furniture for beauty, as well as for duty, at prices that make it your duty to buy.—The T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Ont.

Our furniture wagon as it started on a delivery trip the other day showed an excellent example of the wide scope of this furniture store.

Illustrates the whole store in general, but dining room furniture in particular.

Side by side in the wagon were two tables; one, a solid mahogany finished, hand carved creation that sold at an even $150.00; the other, a plain substantial affair, unpretentious but worthy, and the best at its price, was a $1.50 table.

We plan this stock on just these lines—a furniture store for every need, and without exception, high or low, our prices will be found the lowest.—Chamberlin, Johnson, Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

A few substantial pieces of furniture well selected do more to make a room look well furnished and beautiful than many times as many pieces of a less substantial type. We prefer to sell good furniture because it gives more wear and always looks better than that which is indifferently put together and sold cheap.—Mahaffey, Canton, O.

Whether you live in town or out of town, it need make no difference. For the asking you may receive illustrations of all that is new and up-to-date in furniture. Designs in furniture have radically changed; it would please us to give you the benefit of our opportunities as large purchasers of up-to-date furniture.—New England Furniture and Carpet Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Monday in the furniture store. A long list of economical suggestions of a longer list of possibilities waiting for you at the store. Study this list at your leisure. You know how we bring these chances about. It's the culmination of several months' planning and weeks of watchfulness. You know how hard it is to get "below the market" in furniture. No prices are notoriously stiffer in wholesale and manufacturing circles than furniture prices. And yet; and yet—see what the strength of this big store has been able to accomplish for you.—The Robert Simpson Company, Toronto, Ont.

Why buy furniture in November? For various reasons—because prices are lower—yet the furniture is the same that we sell at all other times of the year—because the variety is greater—you are enabled to choose from a cosmopolitan collection of designs from a hundred or more good makers. It would be a splendid thing if we could maintain these special November prices all the time, but it can't be done. The month of November, coming as it does, between the regular fall business and the holiday trade, is seized upon by manufacturers and retailers as an opportunity to unload all surplus stocks on hand and get ready to meet the demands of the approaching holiday season.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

The Irish have a saying: "The more you know a man the less you know him." Not so with this furniture. It has nothing to conceal, no changeable moods; it is always the same, just as the honest and skilled workman fashioned it. It needs no X-ray examination. Getting acquainted with such furniture will lead to your taking a lifelong friend into your home. The way to get acquainted is not to sit down and study the prices printed here in the paper and say "I will look at that piece," or "this piece doesn't suit"—but to come to the store with an unbiased mind and look over the stock from beginning to end, keeping always in mind the color scheme of the room that you wish to furnish.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Style does not necessarily add to the cost of furniture. On the contrary, we have a choice assortment of more moderately priced pieces that are stylish in design and of the best construction possible.—Keisher's, Louisville, Ky.

Holiday furniture. A nice piece of furniture for Christmas, and, after all, what is better or more acceptable? We have the finest line of furniture specially designed and made for the holidays that we ever had, and more than we can store. We will make it very interesting for you if you will come in and let us show you our beautiful line.—Schroer's, Mansfield, O.

Start now. Some people put off doing things until they die—and never do them. Others start in when they're young, and keep doing a little all the time. They have lots to show for it, after a while. Did you ever think how much comfort you could add to your home in this way? A little at a time buys anything we sell and we sell everything to furnish your home.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

Do you know your money will go twice as far here as any furniture store in town? Don't take this statement for granted. Inspect our stock and note our prices. If you have ever bought furniture before you will appreciate them. Buying here is like finding money.—South Norwalk Furniture Company, South Norwalk, Conn.

The coming of Christmas, gift giving and merrymaking are all close to hand, and it would be prudent to preclude any chance for mistakes in making selections for Christmas giving by adopting the practice of an early purchase. Of all practical, pleasing and lasting gifts, furniture stands most prominent. Then, again, the fascinating feature is, it costs so little and lasts so long, besides it fits the purse of every one. The enjoyable evenings that are spent around a fireside can be made doubly so.—A. D. Gibson & Sons, Memphis, Tenn.

Thousands already have voted this the greatest of summer furniture sales. Monday it started—some days ahead of the regular date because the furniture was ready and we saw no good reason to hold it back. Already it has proved itself not only our best, but our biggest and most successful sale. It is larger in quantity and variety than ever before. The furniture is of the same high standard we sell the year round—furniture better than ordinary sorts, not only on account of good workmanship, but because of the specially good styles. The savings are a fifth, a fourth, a third—even half. The bulk of the furniture marked with the red tags that spot the furniture floors shows a full fourth reduction from regular prices which to begin with were generally lower than furniture as good cost outside this store. This is perhaps the greatest merchandising event of the whole year. It is vast in magnitude, unrivaled in value giving. It is in full swing now and no one with a furniture need will wisely miss the opportunities it presents.—Fredrick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We have reduced prices on a lot of very pretty Silver-gray maple furniture, especially suitable for summer cottages or porch use. It is at once novel, substantial, good looking, and comfortable. The reduced prices also make it very inexpensive. Come and look it over.—Stumph & Lyford, Washington, D. C.

Although around August is the time of year you would normally least think of buying furniture, we make it the great furniture month of the year by turning to account well-defined trade conditions. We save you money in these sales, hence you buy now to save money, and because the furniture is the kind you like and would buy at full prices—if the chance to save were not presented. We'll hold purchases till fall—free. It's more than worth your while to come to the city to make your furniture purchases during this sale if out of town for the summer. And from Baltimore and Washington (we've had customers come from Richmond and farther off); from Trenton, from all over eastern Pennsylvania. We have gathered abundantly—spread a magnificent feast. And as added emphasis to the fact that you may save fourth—third—half, there is the further fact that the furniture is the high-grade sort we regularly carry—sent, to a large extent, by our regular suppliers. Not the thrown-together sort made by factories whose specialty is the poor stuff made for alleged "sales." There's no furniture lack that this sale can't supply in fullest measure—be the want for modest cottage, palatial home, club or hotel; though not all the furniture on the floor is reduced—you'll distinguish the specially priced by the sale tags.—Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia.

Kitchen cabinets. Do you want to enjoy a vacation from the kitchen drudgery, during these hot days? One of our kitchen cabinets will give you hours and even days of rest and vacation from work by its wonderful saving of steps, perfect utility, and by its economy of space. Once our kitchen cabinets are used they will never fail to be one of the indispensable articles of kitchen furniture. You can buy any one of our fine assortment on the easy terms of 50c per week.—C. R. Parish & Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Sentiment—Art—Durability Combined in the Beautiful Fibre of Solid Mahogany.—Solid mahogany—like a diamond, an oriental rug or rare old wine, it always holds its position as the most dignified of furniture.

In prices each piece is invariably less than you can duplicate it for elsewhere.—Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Now that summer is here, why not get something pretty for that nice parlor of yours.—H. G. Johnston, Marion, Ind.

For the restful nooks in and around summer homes—Cool, comfortable furniture.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Summer Furniture. If you're going to stay at home you will want your porch and lawn as comfortable as possible, for you will practically live out there all summer.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Sideboards and Buffets. Real worth in construction, beauty and elegance in design, attention to details in the fine points of cabinet work, finest finish—these are points of excellence which mark each and every board in our big exhibit.—The Household Fair, Kansas City, Mo.

And while we don't mean to slight the other woods in any way (the stock is brimful), we call attention to the great wealth of solid mahogany upon our furniture floor. Designs especially for holiday buying. A stock unapproached in numbers, or in exclusiveness of designs.

Years ago our grandmothers had chests of drawers—wide and low, made perfectly plain, and big enough to hold all the family linen.

Somebody thought they were too bulky and began making changes in them. They grew narrower and higher, a mirror was added—and chests of drawers turned into chiffoniers.

Perhaps no other piece of furniture made is so useful nowadays.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Enjoy your veranda and lawn this summer. For real comfort, ease and summer pleasure, rest and soothe yourself in one of the celebrated old Hickory Chairs. They are made entirely of hickory from original designs. Last a lifetime in sunshine or rain.—Jas. T. Bain, Woodstock, Ont.

Of the many styles of furniture especially adapted for summer use, none is more attractive than green cedar. It is made from Adirondack white cedar with the bark stripped off and stained to a dark, forest green. It suggests the "Mission" styles; with its heavy legs, good-sized seats and backs, with comfortable arms. It is built to last and give satisfactory use.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

The last week you can buy furniture at these prices. It behooves you to hurry a bit—and it will pay you to do so. No other such saving will be yours until August. We'd like to sell furniture for as little the year 'round, but makers won't make concessions only twice a year. A small deposit will hold any piece for you until you're ready for it. Don't delay, please.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

Here's a furniture offer for Monday that beats the world.—The Anderson Furniture Co., Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 14, 1893.

The way you look at our furniture sale, just launched, is what interests us. It may not be the largest furniture sale in Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia and America, but does it meet the public demand for good furniture at the prices the public wants to pay? That is the point, and we answer "Yes," and here are a few clinchers for to-morrow.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The liveliest furniture selling of the month. All sorts of furniture in a great half-price clean-up.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Furniture at half prices. Perhaps you need a new rocker, table or other piece of furniture to take the place of the one which some time since was pronounced too shabby for further duty, yet not replaced. Fill the vacancy and save half the regular price.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Flint's fine furniture. Spring patterns. All our new spring patterns will be on exhibition Monday next. The few old patterns which remain will be closed out at greatly reduced prices.—George C. Flint Co., New York.

Exposition samples. The furniture workers' best efforts were given to the making and finishing of the sample pieces to be displayed at the great furniture exposition at Grand Rapids, Mich., and Chicago, Ill., and now we have scooped in the cream of their best productions—over two thousand pieces.—Hartman Furniture and Carpet Co., Chicago, Ill.

Fine furniture. An incoming season never brought us so much splendid furniture as the present stock displays. We have been gradually raising our standard of quality ever since this store opened, until we can now truthfully say that the best things from the furniture world may be found here. We believe that buying trashy furniture is the most expensive investment one can make. So we try to sell honest furniture—furniture that will wear and hold together, at the lowest prices that such things can be sold for. That's your kind, and you will see as much of it in no other store as we are showing. Handsome styles, highest qualities and reasonable costs are the foundation on which this business is building. Suppose you look through our stock the next time you buy a chair, a lounge or a houseful of furniture. It will not take long, we might save you considerable money and you will surely be welcome.—Chase & West, Des Moines.

Big crowds attending our sales of upholstered parlor furniture. It requires no magnifying glass to recognize the genuineness of the bargains, for bargains they are of a verity.—Stumph & Lyford, Washington, D. C.

Furniture facts, with a few remarks regarding the policy of our concern.—Carlile & Kerr, Columbus, Ohio.

Furniture prices split below the line of true clearance.—J. R. Libby Co., Portland, Me.

This third floor furniture store, with its twenty thousand square feet of floor space, has the reputation of selling furniture at closer prices than can be obtained anywhere else in Rochester. Very well. From these low prices of every day here we are going to give you for one week the chance to save from fifteen to fifty per cent. If we took every page of this newspaper to-day to tell our story it would still be incomplete. If you'll just get here to our third floor as soon as possible wares will tell their own story. On every piece of furniture that is reduced in price there's a big yellow ticket with this week's price on it. Things look mighty yellow up here, we can assure you. Now, just make your way here as soon as possible—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr, Rochester, N. Y.

One of the great secrets of good house-keeping is how to make the best showing and secure the greatest comfort for the money spent — furniture of enduring goodness, at moderate cost, is found here this week. Here is such variety—each piece is worthy and every piece that bears the sale tag is a great bargain.—J. N. Adams & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

No home is a home at all without a dining room of some kind, and our friends who live in "rooms" and take their meals in public or semi-public places are generally the ones most heartily ready to agree to that fact. Toronto, however, is a city of homes. Nearly every family has a dining room of its own. Our furniture sale news for to-morrow will have a very wide application, indeed. For we detail below the economical opportunities of this great furniture movement in dining room furniture exclusively to-day, and to-morrow will be the day to refurnish that most homelike of rooms.—Simpson, Toronto, Ont.

Easter will soon be here. With its glories of flowers and sunshine. Then the weddings will begin to boom. We are helping some of the couples to plan for the future now, and we are willing to extend our services to all who can avail themselves of our experience. Fitting up the home is our specialty. We can help you more than anybody in the world when it comes to that. Everything you need to make home happy. All the furniture, the carpets, the pictures. The lawn furniture, the piazza furniture. The cradle, the baby carriage, when the time for these indispensables comes along. Not too early to do a lot of planning now. So come.—Bruce, Filley & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Bed room simplicity and elegance. The simplicity and elegance in bed room furniture which is now universally sought finds complete expression in our choicely selected stock of bed room furniture.—Miles Pease Furniture Co., Los Angeles.

Morris chairs are cordial helps towards the rest one wishes to enjoy in the evenings after the day's work is done. Before an open fire, or beneath the soft light of lamps, with a good book—but picture the scene yourself! The Morris chairs all have ratchet backs and broad flat arms.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

One will find it a pleasure to roam through the various aisles of this great furniture store—the stock of which is like none other—possessing a tone, character and individuality all its own. Whether you have an entire house to fit out, or just a single piece to buy, it will pay you to come here, as nowhere else, do we believe, will be seen such excellent variety, such originality and beauty of designs and such goodness and quality at the price. Indeed, your furniture buying will be done most pleasingly and economically at the Simpson-Crawford Co. store.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

United Crafts furniture. Rarely beautiful, possessing a character distinctly its own. A word from its originators and makers: In providing comfort or convenience, assuring utility, and securing thorough construction, harmony of line and refinement of color, in every object that leaves our workshop, we feel that we fulfill our duty as artists and craftsmen; that we are working for a definite and high purpose: that is, the improvement of the public taste; that we are putting forth our personal effects to realize the meaning of an art developed by the people, for the people, as a reciprocal joy for the maker and the user.—C. C. Fuller & Co., Hartford, Conn.

You must buy now to secure the better furniture, to save a large amount of money, to be satisfied with your investment, to get the best living out of your income, to have a better furnished home than you had dared hope for, to have a snug little sum laid away that you had expected it would be necessary to spend.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Mahogany as a character study. The rich mellow quality of this beautiful hardwood finds perfect emphasis in our productions for the dining room. Character and personality, with a certain air of gentle breeding, are the influences that tend toward the perfect treatment of so important a room.—Grand Rapids Furniture Company, New York.

Profit for furniture buyers. If we can direct the thought of the household dining-roomward to-day, we shall accomplish what we wish, and make you happy. Our furniture people wish to close out immediately several numbers of dining-room pieces where there remains but a single sideboard, table, buffet or set of chairs of a pattern. These take up room on salesfloors which is demanded for other purposes at once. They are not old or undesirable styles. On the contrary, the fact that there's but a piece or two of a pattern remaining, speaks for their worth. Facts and figures given below tell briefly what the saving may be by giving immediate attention to new furnishings for the dining room.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Washstand Handiness.—Some rooms used as sleeping rooms are full when the bed is up—not even allowing room for an ordinary washstand. There is where the handiness of these washstands comes in, for they take up scarcely any room—going into any out-of-the-way corner, but still answering all their requirements. Japanned in art colors, wrought iron frame, enameled basin, jug and soap dish, handily priced.—Alfred Edmondson, Morecambe, Eng.

Furniture—Weathered Oak.—There is distinctive tone to weathered oak furniture that makes a piece or two of it desirable in every house—and this season the patterns are finer than ever. We are telling about some exceptional values in weathered oak to-day—and some couches and bureaus that should go in a hurry. But the whole furniture store is full of the new things—Brooklyn never had such a showing of fine pieces.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Furnishing the Summer Home.—Now that the warm weather is here, the country home is the pre-eminent thought of the moment. We have everything you need for refurnishing your house—city, country or seashore — from parlor to kitchen, completely, comfortably, tastefully, reasonably.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

Furniture for Summer Comfort.—It's a glaring shortcoming to lack an ample supply of comfortable, appropriate summer furniture—for the living-room, parlor, piazza and lawn. Inspiration is easily to be derived from this showing of the most appealing pieces for summer use—chairs, settees, rockers, the extreme of comfort, but simple; in a great variety of types, but all moderately priced.—J. N. Adams & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

There is many a piece of furniture kept because of association's sake, but not used because worn out. Why not make it usable? We have the very best facilities for re-upholstering furniture—not expensive, either. Costs less to have it fixed over in the summer. Can do it while you are away—keep it for you until autumn and return it to you spick and span with only a moderate charge for the work done and no storage charges.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Bachelors' Necessities.—The comfort seeking bachelor need but come here to realize his idea of correct furnishings for a den or his apartments. Our line of weathered oak novelties offers a broad field to choose from, and many things that perhaps you had not thought of. Smoking tables, bookcase and smoking companions, easy chairs, big comfortable rockers for stout men, couches, card tables, etc., all are here in an enviable variety, and at prices that are surprisingly low.—Hudson's Bay Stores, Vancouver, B. C., Can.

From our own workshops come what we believe to be the best reproductions of Colonial, Sheraton, Chippendale and Hepplewhite furniture. In all but age and sentiment they equal the originals. Large facilities and direct distribution enable us to make them at moderate cost.—Schmitt Brothers, New York.

Colonial Furniture at Large Reductions in the February Furniture Sale. There is more than faddishness in the popularity of Colonial Furniture. It is artistic in the highest sense. Pure Colonial Furniture is noble in its simplicity, in the grace of its lines, in the strength of its beauty. Colonial Furniture of the best sort is a considerable factor in this February sale. A room in the front of the fourth floor is devoted to it entirely. Other Colonial pieces are scattered through the general stock. And it is fine furniture—splendidly made as well as beautiful.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

It being mid-winter the demands for personal needs are light. It's just the time to fill in the gaps that you have noted in the furnishing of your home. Every sort of furniture for every room in the home is included in this sale. To the young wife or any thrifty housekeeper who is saving to add comfort and beauty to their home this sale will enable them to buy at prices she can afford the furniture she wants which at regular prices and times, perhaps, could not be secured without extravagance.—Stickley-Brandt Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

A Story of Comfort.—The greatest geniuses of the furniture world have turned their attention and skill to producing high art summer furniture. No other southern house ever attempts what we do in summer stuff, and we have never shown so truly an artistic array as this. The designs suggest at once comfort and repose, combined with durability and beauty of line; pleasing to look at, luxurious to recline in.—Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Tables and Stands. Don't forget the big furniture store on the third floor here, when you are searching for things to give. Something in the way of a table or stand may fill the gap—a jardiniere stand, a tabourette, a foot rest, a card or sewing table. Are we right?—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Newness Predominates. Newness permeates the very air of this big furniture store. We breathe newness and talk newness from morning till night. Yet newness and oldness are in a sense synonymous. Some of our newest styles were designed away back in the Colonial days or in the Napoleonic times. Lovers of fine furniture have approved the old-fashioned sorts that were graceful, comfortable and artistic. No modern home is complete without furniture of old Mission, Washingtonian and Mayflower periods. Thus it is that furniture designers of the present day take their ideas from the designers of many generations ago. Of course all our furniture does not reflect olden fashions. Many of the pieces are distinct 20th century creations which combine all the art in outline and dexterity of carving that can be conjured into them. A short summary of some of our latest arrivals will convey to you a hint of what our modern stock contains.—Barker's, Los Angeles.

Chiffoniers and dressers at sharp price reductions that will place them in homes of the thrifty in a hurry. And it's the necessity of a quick dispersal of our altogether-too-large stock that prompts this unexampled "price whitening." If you are willing to assist us in reducing its proportions we will reward you handsomely—which is abundantly proven in these few items.—J. Scott Inglis & Co., Scranton, Penn.

Rest! Rest! Rest!

In an easy Morris Chair.

And I would that my tongue could utter,
A tribute to rest so rare.

For rest and comfort there is nothing to compare with a good Morris chair. We carry the best in this as in other lines.—Frank Pryor, Pueblo, Cal.

Summer Furniture for cottage, porch and lawn. For the cottage nothing equals White Enamel Furniture; its pure whiteness and plain lines suggest freshness and coolness. For the porch, library and lawn we have the largest and most attractive line of summer furniture we have ever shown, and it comprises rockers, settees, chairs, couches, tables, etc., in reed, rattan, old hickory, Adirondack silver birch and prairie grass. We also show an extensive assortment of lawn swings.—Washington D. C.

Attractive Furniture for the Dining Room.—Our line of dining room furniture is exceptionally strong. We make it a point to have it so. Those late arrivals cannot fail to please you. The designs are entirely new, and for out and out values they have no equal. New buffets, new china closets, new chairs; in fact, everything new that pertains to the dining room, in both the weathered and golden finishes.—The Grote Rankin Co., Spokane, Wash.

Is marriage a failure? Not much! At least you wouldn't think so if you saw the number of couples that come to Spear for their furniture and carpets—Spear's room outfits are the talk of the town.—Spear & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

The hardest question for you to solve is, "Where am I going to get my furniture?" There is just this about it: You will trade where you can better yourself by so doing. Our store is thrown open to you. The goods are for you to select. Not one store in Denison can make better deals with you than ours. Our terms are bound to be most satisfactory, and even if you don't buy, you can come in and talk it over. We will do our best to please you and explain our good points. We cordially invite strangers within our doors. You are welcome here and every courtesy is yours.—L. O. A. Brown, Denison, Tex.

Rattan for Ease.—That is one feature about rattan furniture that makes it so popular—it is comfortable. This is due to the pliable nature of the rattan—woven by hand, it has a certain amount of "give." It's decidedly artistic, too—graceful and pleasing to look at. And it lasts a long time. We have many styles to choose from—you can see a number in our window.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

It's time for reflection! What's needed in furniture? Whether right away or next week, or next month, or month after, you're invited to come in here and look around—learn more of what's here.—Cassaday, Alliance, O.

The city apartment or the suburban home may be fitted with reed, rattan and other appropriate summer furniture at quite small expense. In our show rooms may now be seen pleasing examples of dainty, cool and thoroughly comfortable and restful groupings of summer furniture and decorations suitable for use in town, seashore, country or mountains.—George C. Flint Co., New York.

Silver gray birdseye maple furniture. The most charming of the new finishes is in this bedroom suit in selected birdseye maple, tinted a French gray, in satin finish. Fashioned on quaint Mission styles, with simple straight but effective outlines; cabinet work and detail faultless. Large fancy shaped mirrors of heavy French plate. The ideal suit for a dainty bedroom; specials for this week only.—Ludwig, Bauman & Co., New York.

We say that the most handsomely assorted variety ever seen in this vicinity, at any time, is here displayed, beckoning you to an inspection. It's a true tale of economy—the best returns for the money spent—and that's what the careful holder of the family purse most desires. Thorough care used in the construction of each detail, hand rubbed, polish finish, heavy double bevel plate mirrors.—Brooklyn Furniture Company, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Smart parlor suit chance, but it's for two days only. No one who wants a well made, pretty and up-to-date three or five piece parlor suit will stand on the order of their coming for one of these. They are made of good new materials, and their finish and workmanship are of the best character. The bargain is so apparent that we do not deem it necessary to dwell long upon the matter. The sale is limited to two days—Monday and Tuesday.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Golden opportunities among golden furniture—Tables, chairs, divans, tete-a-tetes, cabinets—not a suggestion of dross about them. The airy shapes that furniture dreams are made of. Light as to legs, lovely as to outlines, dainty as to designs.—Chamberlain-Johnson Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Marriage and Morris Chairs.—Two prime items. If every home had at least one Morris Chair there would be less talk of the failure of marriage. Nothing makes a man long for home more than a comfortable chair like these—and they are at very small cost.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Furniture for Porch and Lawn.—At last a touch of weather when living out of doors is a pleasure. Comfortable porch furniture makes the balmy air doubly enjoyable. After the long, tedious winter people are delighted to sit on the porch, on the lawn and in the garden. We are ready, fifth floor, west, with all sorts of furniture for out of doors at the lowest of prices.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Something Interesting in Furniture.—There's never a dearth of great furniture values at "The Big Store." You see, we establish our own precedent for value-giving and trade-bringing; we set a lively pace—and naturally must always keep up to it. Thus, you'll always find big doings in our big furniture department which occupies almost the entire fifth floor of this great establishment. To-morrow's coterie of specials will readily be acclaimed as exceptional by all those who see them.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Actual markdown prices on furniture that cut profit.—Hahne & Co., Newark.

One often wishes to pick up an odd bedroom piece—to fill a need or match a broken set. We always have pieces to meet this want—odd bureaux, chiffoniers, dressing tables, washstands, mirrors, et cetera.—J. Crawford Green & Son, Troy, N. Y.

The foolish men are the ones that are not wise. The men who buy a bedroom or parlor suite without first getting our prices are not wise. Watch our windows closely. They'll prove to you that now is the time to buy, even if you don't want the furniture until later. We will store it until wanted, without charge.—The York Furniture Company, York, Pa.

Our purchase of spring goods largest in the State. We contracted for the entire output of several manufactories. You know the benefit derived from such purchase. Buying trainloads of furniture, why shouldn't we buy cheap? Why can't we sell cheap? See the hundreds and hundreds of samples to select from. There is not a house in all this land that can show a more complete line of home furnishings.—Tenth & Penn, Pittsburg.

Rest your weary head upon one of these chair head cushions.—G. L. White & Co., Columbus, Ohio.

In the window you may see a fine display of ideal mattresses, "The Ostermoor." That they are even better than they look, may be proven by pointed questions. Please catechise us.—The Chamberlain Furniture and Mantel Co., New Haven, Conn.

Thrifty housekeepers who deal here have long since learned that no other store compares with Lampe's offerings in furniture and carpets. Always the newest and most reliable merchandise offered at the lowest possible prices.—H. H. Lampe & Co., Altoona, Pa.

Our assortment and display of furniture and home furnishings is so wide that we can hardly fail to please any taste, and we can please many tastes not otherwise pleased because of the distinctive character of our goods. We could keep on telling you forever about our stores, our facilities for serving you and our desire to merit the honor of your patronage. But after all the surest, speediest and safest way is to put us to the test by coming to the store in person.—The Messersmith Stores, Buffalo.

"Worth" is defined as that quality or combination of qualities that makes one deserving of esteem, trust and honor. Now, "worth" in furniture is no more to be juggled with than a man's character. Some dealers have an eye more to the profit account than to the quality of their goods. A little patching here and varnish there, and then representing the article as "just as good," is a common practice very much to be decried. Boutell Brothers' furniture has a standard. It is in every sense of the word worthy. We have only good furniture—furniture made in the good old fashioned way and our prices are no higher than are asked for inferior goods, and everything is brand new.—Boutell Brothers, Minneapolis, Minn.

Chairs with Colonial airs. Faithful reproductions in contour wood and finish. Bringing the very atmosphere of the Colonial home into houses of to-day. Lovers of Colonial furniture will find a rich assortment at Cowperthwait & Sons', at pleasing prices. They are of polished mahogany, intensified with crotch mahogany embellishments in the parts that form the back. The old-time rush seats contrast strikingly with the rich wood.—Cowperthwait & Sons, New York.

We present this season what is conceded to be the most noteworthy array of summer furniture ever collected by one organization. In variety it is equal to the best display ever made at any of the great trade expositions of furniture. In quantity a new record is established. The principal lines included are Adirondack silver birch, reed, rush, bamboo, fancy cane and oak. All the favorite staple designs are shown, and, in addition, scores of exclusive designs made up in our own factories. Incidentally, our factory facilities enable us to execute special orders in various woods—promptly and at moderate prices. Whether you are in the market for a single piece of porch furniture or a complete outfitting for the out-of-town house, these unmatched assortments must appeal to you.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York, N. Y.

Furniture of the prairie. The broad wastes of the West have their uses in contributing to the comfort of man. This smart furniture of prairie grass, cool and sturdy, adds an indescribable charm to the summer home. For room or veranda it takes the place of preference.—Cowperthwait & Sons, New York.

Fall is nearing rapidly, and soon the great store will be throbbing with the return of pilgrims from all parts of the country, and even now the new goods are crowding our space. If anything, therefore, the opportunities in the Great Furniture Sale are greater as its end draws near. Thousands of homes have been made brighter, handsomer and more comfortable by the economies afforded, and it is the usual thing to have customers say they were drawn here by the wonderful purchases made by friends. There are plenty more bargains, but the sale will last but a few more days.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Don't you want a pretty dresser? If you do, now is the time to get it, for we have just received a lot of beauties. They are in the latest fashions, with up-to-date conveniences.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

One of the great furniture specialists, whose art is devoted entirely to the creation of leather upholstered furniture, sold us $50,000 worth of as fine furniture as was ever placed on sale in Chicago at a reduction from regular wholesale prices of fully one-third. Every patron needs one or more pieces of this magnificent furniture, and at the prices now asked no one need refrain from buying the best.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

Simple, chaste, dignified patterns, rather than showy "stylish" pieces. We make no attempt to give you "a whole lot for your money"—so much flashy plush or satin, or so much vulgar carving. But we take your dollars and turn them into substantial, plain, simple, yet beautiful furniture that will never grate on one's nerves or become a horrible nightmare to the unfortunate people who have to live with it.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

We have ready what is conceded to be the most noteworthy array of summer furniture ever brought together. It embraces, unequaled varieties in Adirondack silver birch, reed, rush, bamboo and oak—many of the pieces made in our own factories. It is an exhibit of commanding importance—to the lover of artistic furniture because it is quite unlike any other furniture display on record; and to the home furnisher—the buyer—because the economies it presents are positively unmatched.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York, N. Y.

Typical of Our Dining Room Furniture.—Here's a dining room suit that's typical of the balance of our dining room furniture—honest furniture. This suit is highly polished quarter sawed, golden oak. The same design worked out in each piece. The massive column legs of the table, the roll columns, and pilasters on the sideboard and china cabinet. Massive in proportions, yet not of the "hatchet and glue pot" order, but a refined design carried out on ample proportions.—Carmichael Furniture Co., Atlanta, Ga.

It would seem entirely unnecessary to include in this sale the pretty parlor pieces displayed in our Green Room. But there are many suits and odd pieces that must be replaced. This room contains only the best of its kind. Every piece is made by factories noted for dependable, guaranteed work. A visit here will prove interesting and profitable.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City.

The designs are handsome, and from the aristocratic mahogany down to the popular and staple oak you will find exactly what you want in our assortment of new Hall Furniture, and all at the fairest prices.—A. Brown & Son Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

On Thursday we will sell at hitherto unheard of prices the magnificent collection of "Craftsman" mission furniture now in Vantine's new store on Fifth avenue. It is an event ranking in importance with the most celebrated of our great sales. The name of Vantine is synonymous with the highest excellence in art furnishings. Only a few weeks ago the Vantine firm decided to open a store on Fifth avenue to be devoted to the sale of mission furniture, and characteristically purchased only the best assortment of the newest types. Almost immediately, however, it was conceived that such a departure was not in line with the well known exclusive principle of the Vantine business, and it was decided to abandon the adventure at once. Just as naturally they turned toward Abraham & Straus for quick distribution of the entire stock at great sacrifice. Their offer was immediately accepted. On Wednesday next we will announce in detail the sale of this great collection of Craftsman Mission furniture at prices actually less than those of the maker himself to the trade. The high artistic character of the furniture, its peculiar adaptability to summer use, the splendidly complete assortment and marvelous prices combine to make this a most extraordinary occasion.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The first shipment of our $20,000 purchase from the manufacturers, who were overloaded with spring stock and needed cash badly. We had the outlet for this quantity and purchased the entire lot at sixty cents on the dollar. The first three cars to arrive were bedroom furniture, consisting of suites, odd dressers, chiffoniers, wash stands and toilet tables, finished in golden oak, mahogany, birdseye maple and natural birch. Never have we made such a fortunate purchase, and every dollar's worth of the entire purchase will arrive during the month of May. This week it is bedroom furniture. Next week it will be dining room furniture. Everything for the dining room can be purchased at 60c. on the dollar, and every piece offered is of the latest spring style and finish. This will be the greatest money saving sale for furniture buyers ever offered in Columbus, and coming at a time when you are just ready to buy, usually this opportunity comes at a time when you are not in the market. But now is the time. We must sell this entire purchase during the month of May. If you will watch our advertisements, every shipment will be announced and there is not an article of furniture needed for your home that you cannot find in this sale.—V. Loewer, Columbus, Ohio.

The backward summer time leaves quite a stock of Old Hickory with us. The best furniture ever known for piazza, lawn, golf clubs, etc., etc. To get it wet makes it all the stronger. Made from the hickory just as it comes from the woods.—Household Furnishing Co., New Bedford, Mass.

Office Furniture. It is always our aim to offer the best of any article produced and the office pieces are absolutely perfect. Especially designed for busy men, carefully made and put together by the most experienced craftsmen, they will last for years.—The D. M. Read Co., Bridgeport, Conn.

This is where some of the most amazing savings are demonstrated in the great February furniture sale—because the difference between actual value and selling price is so great. Think of saving $38 on a handsome mahogany finish tap-stry suite that never sold for less than $148 regularly! Think of buying a Louis XV parlor cabinet for $49.00! And, mark you, our regular selling prices are lower than those of any other house hereabouts for like quality of ware.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Better and better are the values we are giving. Our painstaking efforts in selecting and buying have been repaid with the greatest array of genuine bargain offerings that this department has ever been able to bring to your attention. Strictly high-class furniture—furniture for every part of the house in new and beautiful designs, of most thorough workmanship and best quality—can be had now for very considerably less than you'd pay at other times. You should not miss a visit to this big furniture section.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Considering the quality of the furniture we sell you can't get better bargains anywhere. The special prices offered now ought to appeal to you. Remember buying furniture is different from most other things. You buy seldom, but you want it to last and be serviceable as long as it lasts.—Lion Furniture Co., Columbia, S. C.

People who know and appreciate truly good furniture are taking advantage of our deep cut prices and supplying themselves with the special articles they have needed or for which they have been longing. Not only are we selling all ordinary lines of furniture but our imported furniture de luxe is being sold at about the cost of importation.—M. Rich & Bro. Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Furniture can be bought for less money now than at any other time of year, and on easiest terms of credit. We are making a clean sweep of parlor, bedroom and dining room furniture at a great discount in order to make room for spring lines.—Peter Grogan, Washington, D. C.

In no other store in the city can you find better assortments or better furniture. In no other store can you buy as good furniture for as little money. Hundreds proved this to their own satisfaction by shopping around Monday and yesterday before coming here to buy. Hundreds came here first, looked elsewhere and then came back here again to buy. We know you can't do as well anywhere else and you only have to make a comparison yourself, to know it too.—Schelenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

One thing in passing about summer furniture—from the very nature of its use it's bound to get wet or damp some-times. Now the wiregrass—dampness or a flood of water can't hurt it—it's grass in its natural state. And "Old Hickory"—made of natural hickory sapplings—tough as steel, with no glue to come apart. Keep these things in mind in buying porch furniture.—Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBois Co., Atlanta, Ga.

An easy couch, an easy price.—Watkins Bros., Pueblo, Col.

Ladies' desks, perfect little beauties which any woman of culture and refinement might feel proud to possess, but a third comes off the price of each.—Hennessy's, Anaconda, Mont.

There's every kind and style represented, from the plain and severe Old Dutch to the graceful and artistic Louis XIV., and nearly all are decorated with "green reduced price tags," presenting a novel, yet attractive appearance, as you glance up and down long rows of furniture elegance.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Adirondack silver birch. Our greatest individual line is made up of this silver birch—cut in the great North Woods and fashioned in our own Adirondack factory. The finish is the natural silvery sheen of birch sapplings. The designs are sturdy, decidedly rustic—yet extremely comfortable withal. That this birch furniture withstands exposure in any climate under almost any conditions makes it all the more desirable.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York, N. Y.

Under the cloak of simplicity a great deal of so-called "simple furniture" hides its crude bareness—its extremes of taste wherein character finds no expression. We urge simplicity—but in a measure that imparts individuality, character and restfulness to a degree. In furniture for the living room and bedroom these principles find beautiful development.—Grand Rapids Furniture Co., New York, N. Y.

A large space thickly covered with so many kinds of summer furniture that you wonder what they're all for. But each piece has its place, and each is the best of its kind. Reed furniture enameled in various colors, or stained, or in natural color with shellac finish. Grass furniture, grass matting covered furniture, silver gray maple furniture, fumed finished oak—all these for bungalow and indoor summer use. (Prices and descriptions another day.)—Wanamaker, Philadelphia.

The book nook must be well furnished, and nothing adds more to its appearance than a handsome and well made book-case. Book lovers are discriminating people; they are, moreover, possessed of good taste. They appreciate fine book-cases as well as fine books.—Stickley-Brandt Furniture Co., Birminghamton.

The store is replete with suggestions for summer home furnishings. Its equipment is complete in the fullest sense of the word. Furniture in every degree, from the pretty, inexpensive sorts for cottage and porch to the luxurious effects for the mansion, including mission and arts and Crafts furniture so picturesquely ornamental. Oriental rugs and drapes for the porch ruffled Swiss curtains, draperies, window shades, awnings, screens, china and glassware, linens, and in fact every possible requisite to make the summer house perfect, pretty and comfortable have been gathered with lavish hand. All degrees of quality, from good to very best, and all priced most moderately.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

Real Summer Comfort. Though the genuine summer weather is somewhat belated it is apt to "hit" us almost any day now. And we can help you to make it bearable with every kind of an easy chair, rocker, settee, etc., for the porch or lawn, refrigerators that will keep things cool for the least expense, cottage chamber furniture, gas stoves and ranges, and oil stoves that will serve you well and economically.—C. C. Fuller & Co., Hartford, Conn.

We show about one hundred and fifty designs of chairs, which broadly grouped under one general name, may be designated comfort chairs. There are many heights, widths and depths. Some are upholstered in leather, velour, brocade, and various art fabrics, others have artistically shaped wood seats, arms and backs, and still others are made of reed and rattan, designed in desirable and ease-affording shapes. The mahogany and oak chairs may be had in either dull or highly polished finish, to conform with the room in which they are to be used. Reed and rattan chairs are shown in both enameled and plain shellacked finish, enameled chairs will be colored to special order in accordance with the specification of patrons, without extra charge.—Geo. C. Flint Co., New York.

If you're an admirer of dignified Colonial and mission furniture you'll certainly see the exhibit we announce for this week. We've strengthened our already large stock in these lines until it's certainly the most extensive in Chicago.
