Special introductory prices will prevail during the exhibit—we've placed the prices where they're sure to popularize the styles—to result in a great distribution of this artistic furniture. If you desire to make home beautiful you should study the list.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago.

This chair is like a phonograph—it speaks for itself. You have only to look at its broad, deep seat to realize that it was built for tired evenings by the fire-side corner. No chair is successful that merely rests the back and legs. The arms and shoulders complain bitterly when they are fatigued, and the right sort of an arm chair can rest them. But it needs an extra high arm, which will lift the whole weight from the shoulder. You see the idea carried out in this design. The rockers here are extra broad, with an easy curve for a long rolling motion. Fumed oak with upholstery of Spanish leather.—Paine Furniture Co., Boston.

Davenport, couches, lounges—what a wealth of solid comfort here! Some are richly luxurious, others substantially plain; all new styles and all at a quarter off.—Hennessy's, Anaconda, Mont.

You will make no mistake, but make money, if you buy furniture here. We have a splendid assortment, every piece fresh from the factory, and we are offering these at prices that we are sure are in accordance with the purse of any one contemplating purchasing furniture.—The Rechlin Co., Bay City, Mich.

Ideal furniture for ideal summer days. The hints that follow may be helpful. It runs the whole gamut of summer furniture, bamboo, reed and rattan, wire-grass, "Old Hickory" and the like. In selecting we have made it a point to bring furniture ideal for summer yet useful the year round.—Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Some floor samples of brass bedsteads, dressers (or bureaus) and chiffoniers have been blue-penciled. Popularity has its penalty—odd lots and broken lines naturally accumulate most rapidly in the most popular furniture store in Chicago. An odd piece is as valuable to you—style and price suiting—as though picked from a hundred like it. These savings are worth while.—John A. Colby & Sons, Chicago, Ill.

Porch shades which exclude the sun but woo the breeze.—B. Lowenstein & Brothers, Memphis, Tenn.

Worth thinking of and thinking in—

A cozy, green, "openwork" armchair that the breeze can blow through.—J. Crawford Green & Son, Troy, N. Y.

First impressions are generally the most lasting. A nice, comfortable, inviting hall makes a guest feel doubly welcome. Surely this part of the home should not be overlooked. We can be of material assistance in helping you fix up your hall.—Burpee Furniture Co., Rockland, Me.

Hot summer days may seem an inopportune time to sell upholstered furniture. But we have done it every day this week. Sold lots of it. Just because we have cut the prices down from one-third to one-half of regular prices. Prudent buyers are anticipating next Winter's wants and buying right along.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

"Good furniture need not be expensive furniture." That's one of the lessons taught by this mid-summer furniture clearance sale of ours. Two surprises salute every visitor as she (or he) steps off the elevator on to the furniture floor.

First Surprise—The variety, beauty and amount of this furniture stock.

Second Surprise—The inexpensiveness of the really good pieces.—J. R. Libby Co., Bangor, Me.

The trouble with most special summer sales of furniture of recent years is that, instead of affording an opportunity to purchase really meritorious furniture for less than its value, they too often merely provide a means of paying everyday prices for qualities that a good store would hardly care to carry in regular stock; and that, doubtless, is the reason why such sales have lost so much of their old-time popularity.

While it is true that even the usual summer sales of furniture present some opportunities for real economy, the best time to buy furniture at a saving is when a high-class regular stock is to be cleared of its own odds and ends; and a clearance and reduction sale of that sort will begin here next Monday morning.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Charge your memory with the fact that it will pay you handsomely to buy your furniture here this spring.—Stickley-Brandt Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

If one could go back to the seventeenth century Flanders and visit the homes of the wealthy burgesses, he would find sombre oaken pieces, richly and boldly carved, picturesque and sturdy of form—just such furniture as you would expect the hardy old Flemings to make—just such furniture we make here to-day—ideal for country house hall, dining room or den.—Geo. C. Flint Co., New York.

Make the front porch comfortable.

Sunshine is good. Also quite hot. You've noticed it particularly in connection with the front porch. But one must have the sun. Only necessary to screen the direct ray. This is possible with the Vudor Porch Shade. Made of the best Linden wood, weatherproof dyes and strongest twine. Soft colors make them restful to the eye.—Giddings Bros., Colorado Springs, Col.

All former bargains out-bargained. The ideal summer furnishing—Charming White Enamel. An immense gathering from manufacturers anxious to clear their factories, and who have made immense reductions to do so—all of which we pass to you. It's our purpose to keep the interest in these great value-giving occasions at fever heat by offering the newest and most seasonable merchandise at 'way below the lowest prices elsewhere.—The Brooklyn Furniture Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fine and artistic furniture for elegantly appointed homes. Never was there an August sale that contained so much furniture of the very highest character and elegance—never before, in any store anywhere, were the appointments for artistic homes offered in such broad array at such positive concessions on prices already fair.

A chair or a sofa or table made of fibrous material does not mean that it is usable only on the porch or lawn. Many people use this class of goods in different rooms of their homes throughout the year. Many prefer them to any other kind.—Jos. Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

"Historic Old Hickory." Quaintly picturesque furniture, modeled after the favorite chairs of Andrew Jackson—and are sturdy and reliable as that famous statesman! To-day Old Hickory, the finest rustic furniture constructed, leads in popularity with those who appreciate its cosy comfort and its excellent workmanship and finish. Hickory, the strongest of our native woods, enters solely into its manufacture. Frameworks are all of the young hickory saplings, with the bark intact. Seats and backs are hand woven of the undergrowth of the hickory bark, and are consequently of superior strength. Odd, graceful shapes, delightfully original and truly rural, result from this combination, and the products admirably withstand wear and weather. Our assortment is the largest ever displayed, and includes all the best designs. Very attractive, low prices, and an endless variety of charming novelties. Send for illustrated catalogue of Old Hickory.—Ludwig Baumann & Company, New York.

Wire grass is really not grass at all, it is a clean, straight, tough, solid stem, without joints, some four feet long, growing in the great bog marshes of the northwest, with a mineral composition such that it is very pliable and retains this pliability indefinitely. It retains in the finished furniture the unique color of a beautiful green. The strength and durability of furniture made from this indestructible fiber in its natural state goes without saying, even when put to the hardest usage possible.—Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

A ramble over the third floor will reveal some fine examples of nearly every style of civilized furniture.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Every piece or suite is representative of the highest artistic effort of one or another of the master furniture-makers of America. The woods used are carefully selected specimens, beautifully matched and exquisitely finished. The hand-carving and the trimming are done with the most finished skill known to the craft. The collection would make an artistic exhibition anywhere; and to find such superb furniture under-price will be as gratifying to fine furnishers as it is extraordinary in the trade.—Wanamaker's, New York.

The call of the summer brings the thought of furniture for the country house or cottage. In the development of simple, well-made furniture, we have gathered some beautiful schemes for bedroom uses.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

In addition to the popular shapes offered last year, we have designed many absolutely novel pieces for our spring showing of hand-wrought willow furniture. This graceful and artistic ware lends itself admirably to the appropriate furnishing of the country home. In our collection may be found tete-a-tetes, chairs of new shapes, porch and library tables, and suggestions for bedroom and dining room sets—all made after our own special designs.—W. & J. Sloane, New York.

The hall is the index of the home. There's an old saying: "Always put the best foot forward." If one follows this rule—and most of us do—the hall should be furnished as well as one's means will allow. The visitor's first impression of the home is gained in the hallway. It's furnishment tells a story of penury or thrift; of good taste or carelessness. This brings us to another familiar saying which runs: "A place for everything and everything in its place." A hall rack is the only proper place on which to hang coats, hats and wraps.—W. H. Keech & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Still another mighty furniture sale.—A. M. Rothschild & Company, Chicago.

At a Glance.—The rare attractiveness of our furniture is seen at a glance! It has an air of substantial elegance that appeals to the eye at once. But closer inspection shows that splendid material—the excellent workmanship—the superior finish, all the good points that make us leaders in the trade!—Laffler's Furniture House, Norfolk, Va.

Adorn Your Dining Room.—The dining room should be the most attractive room in the house. It is here you entertain your guests the most. The social features of the dining room should be improved by furnishing this room in the most artistic fashion; this can only be done by purchasing good furniture and at the right price. That our red tag prices are the right prices needs no comment. Our patrons have found this out for themselves, and have patronized us even more liberally this August than ever before.—Stickley-Brandt Furniture Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

The dining room should be the best appointed room in the house. Everything that tends to brighten the mind aids both appetite and digestion. And in the dining room family and friends get together in more congenial spirit than anywhere else. Little wonder that all good housekeepers take such a pride in having the dining room furniture, as well as the chinaware and linens, of the most cheerful and appetizing character. Today dining room furniture is probably the strongest line in our August sale. The showing is superb. In fact, right now we have the best assorted stock of furniture for the dining room we have ever shown, although prices average a third below the real values. In addition to the goods purchased specially for this month, we have included many thousands of dollars' worth of our own regular stock. The goods are from the leading makers of the country, and every piece is correct in detail of style, construction and finish. Some very perfect examples of Colonial reproductions and Louis XV. styles are shown in mahogany. The best ideas of American designers are shown in both oak and mahogany. The line is particularly well assorted in weathered and Flemish oak finish. Here are lists of price facts—the furniture demands and deserves a look in order to properly express to you its beauty and general excellence.—Wanamaker's, New York.

More of Those Couch Bargains.—Almost every housewife can find room for another couch. Quite stylish to have one in a bedroom; decidedly convenient and furnishes beautifully. Here are chances to get them under priced—chances which come our way and your way but seldom, and which wouldn't be here now only that we find ourselves with entirely too many for this season of the year. Never had so many as we have now—nearly a hundred styles on view—and never before have we offered such money savers.—Farell's, Trenton, N. J.

Mission Furniture's Vogue.—It is assured! Not merely a mode of the moment, but a permanently pleasing and popular style. These strikingly effective models are simple in design, yet withal elegant because of their superior construction and faultless finish. Our assortment comprises all worthy novelties for both town and country house. Every charm that belongs to this sturdy, serviceable and very artistic furniture is exemplified in our enormous exhibit.—Ludwig Bauman & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Forehandedness Doubles the Money-earning Power.—Every home has some plans for fall furnishing. Perhaps it is only the purchase of a chair, a table, a pair or two of lace curtains, a rug; yet it may be that it is an entire new home that is to be outfitted with furniture, carpets, draperies and the like. The money-earner has been enthusiastic in bringing in the dollars, and the house-keeper has been gratified to see the savings accumulate, which shall make the fall purchases possible. There have been many wishes that the sum saved might be greater, of course.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

To-morrow inaugurates our great January clearance sale of furniture. Many of last year's designs will be discounted and closed out at cost. Hundreds of these pieces are as good in every respect as the new productions, and when placed in your room no one could tell whether they were of this or last year's patterns, and it would be but a small matter, anyway, as a good, well made piece of furniture is always in style. You can pick up bargains for every room in the home in this sale. Every article has artistic merit and value, and will last a lifetime, proving an excellent investment. A little money will secure for you bargains not obtainable elsewhere.—Revell & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Furniture that touches every home. A never equaled August sale. Many real 50 per cent. investments. There's hardly a woman in Brooklyn who doesn't know of the very large, economic advantages of say our annual muslin underwear sale, the reasons for it and the reasons why we do and can give the great price concessions. Think of those sales when you think of furniture—in many ways the same conditions govern our August sales—the price reductions are just as enormous—the range of variety to meet every need is just as extensive—the preparations have taken just as much time. The price concessions are so extensive that there is not an article you may need in furniture, from the simplest chair up to the most elaborate parlor suit, that you can't buy now at very much lower prices than during the regular season—in fact, in many cases, half price. Choose whatever you may fancy, every piece here has our guarantee—it is Loeser furniture. And every day will add something new, so that it matters not if you come here a dozen times, a change of scene will meet you.—Loeser's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Attractive values in bedroom furniture. An incomparable display of fine bedroom requisites, of superior style, excellent construction and flawless finish.—Ludwig Bauman & Co., New York.

It is during the dog days that the golfer, tennis player and wheelman most fully appreciate the welcome rest afforded by our delightful rustic and rattan chairs. Some have backs that can be made to take any angle desired; these provide royally for the creature comfort of man, and make him feel at peace with the whole world.—Cowperthwait Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

There are half a hundred things about the house, and about the persons of the family that—after the summer outing, and before renewing housekeeping and family life—need to be "done up." A lounge or couch or bed with a couple of springs broken, worn-off corners of upholstery, ranges and furnaces to be adjusted.—J. R. Libby Co., Portland, Me.

An opportunity that is offered but once or twice a year. There are some sample suits here that have been cut in price to make room for the regular goods. There is only one suit of a kind and the early shopper will have the largest choice.—Greene's, Jersey City.

In addition to the popular shades offered last year, we have designed many absolutely novel pieces for our spring showing of hand-wrought willow furniture. This graceful and artistic ware lends itself admirably to the appropriate furnishing of the country home.—W. & J. Sloane, New York.

The scope of this furniture sale runs from the cheapest good things to the solid mahogany sorts that respond only to the call of the long purse. The furniture stocks correspond with the stocks of the Gimbel store as a whole. Good, reliable furniture, desirable in style as well as in intrinsic worth for those who have to consider expenditure—and most of us do; most for the money and hence the money is best spent here. The intermediate grades, growing finer, each with a good reason for the increased price, until the finest sorts of furniture are shown, lacking nothing in conception in line or “period”—with the added advantage that these pieces are considerably less in price than if specially designed.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Of all descriptions and for every purpose. Our prices are greatly reduced on many pieces, which we desire to clean out in order to make room for our incoming stock. Our new stock of furniture is worthy of your attention. Great values and low prices are the attractions this season. Our carpets and rugs are sure to please, not only in value and style, but in prices. You do injustice to yourself if you fail to see what we have to offer, before buying elsewhere and remember, your credit is good at—Byrne & Palmer, Dayton, Ohio.

A lot of pretty little “mission style” tabourettes, built of selected oak, in the popular “weathered” finish. They are eighteen inches high, with thirteen-inch square tops. They’ll wear for years and stand lots of knocking about. Every one is put together with bolts and heavy screws. You can’t pull them apart.—Tull & Gibbs, Portland, Ore.

The assortment of furniture floors should appeal to practically everyone. We understand perfectly well that a furniture store must be pretty broad gauge to bear out this statement, but we think you will find this one does. Inexpensive furniture is not here to the exclusion of the costly; rich pieces do not bar out what the modest purse must accept.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Everybody knows Crawford Co. sell so many brass beds that they can buy them as cheaply or cheaper than any other store, and when we tell you positively that we are going to sell this desirable line of 200 samples and regular stock beds at regular cost price* or less, it goes further, we think, than if it came from any other house. We pay more for many of these beds than we ask you to pay. We pay as much for others. And they’re not old styles. On the other hand, there’s a diversity of new designs that insures a satisfactory selection to every purchaser. They’ve been used for show room samples, and now we sell them at less than cost.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

The question of summer furniture. And summer furniture means nothing more than your own notion of wicker goods for porch or lawn. Under the specific name of wicker we have every kind of furniture manufactured—reed, rattan and willow. Then again we have that very excellent furniture with a remarkable rustic cast, silver birch. Everything that is made of these woods—even to swinging davenport and settees.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Don’t you want a pretty new dresser? If you do now is the time to get it, for we have just received a lot of beauties. They are in the very latest fashions with up to date conveniences. They come in birdseye maple, mahogany, golden oak and quartered oak. Do you know that we can sell you a pretty, well made and serviceable dresser as low as $10!—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

“You know the story is a myth, don’t you? Had it been true I would have offered you cherry furniture at axe-hewn prices. But why bother with the past? The present concerns you and me, especially since I am telling you a true story. This golden oak dresser is built in the style of the period of Louis XV., and my price is $22.50—the value is $35.00. The large mirror is of genuine French bevel plate, and equal in size to the cheval glass; hand-carved ornaments throughout, serpentine front and two ample drawers with heavy brass trimmings. Come up to-morrow—I have several other bargains I want you to see.”—Harry H. Hurtz, Philadelphia.

Some habits are easily acquired and the habit of saving your pocketbook is a very fascinating one. The habit of going to this store will save you many a dollar. (Some people find it easier to earn money than to spend it judiciously.) The quality and style of our furniture are far beyond the degree indicated by our prices.—C. E. Rosenbury & Sons, Bay City, Mich.

Our splendid stock of furniture, covering four immense floors, ninety per cent. of which is included in this sale, is drawing to our store daily large numbers of appreciative cash buyers. Are you interested?—Keith's, Kansas City.

When the wedding bells are ringing, all the furniture clerks are singing. That's because there's a big demand for their services. We appeal to the newly married couples and to those who soon expect to be newly married couples, for the reason that they can come to us, and we will supply everything in the world they want to use in their new home. And we just wish to remind you all to-day that we are better prepared than we ever were before to fit you out. We have the largest and most superior stock of furniture, stoves, ranges, pictures, carpets, mattings, linoleums, etc., we ever owned and our terms are just as liberal as they ever were in the world. Come to-day and talk over what you want. We will give you an estimate that will delight and surprise you.—Bruce, Filley & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Buy the furniture now and, if you so desire, we will hold your selections and deliver later to suit your convenience. Money will not buy so much in the next five months as the present half-yearly opportunity offers. This sale takes in the luxurious as well as the essential pieces in dependable furniture. Ignore this "red tag" sale and you will pay from 20 to 50 per cent. more for your furniture after this sale is over.—Stickley-Brandt Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

The dining-room should be the best-appointed room in the house. Everything that tends to brighten the mind aids both appetite and digestion. And in the dining-room family and friends get together in more congenial spirit than anywhere else. Little wonder that all good housekeepers take such pride in having the dining-room furniture, as well as the china and linens, of the most cheerful and appetizing character. Just now dining-room furniture is probably the strongest line in our sale. The showing, just brought to completeness by important shipments, is superb. In fact, right now we have the best assorted stock of furniture for the dining-room we have ever shown, although prices average a third below the real values. The pieces are from the leading makers of the country, and are correct in style, construction and finish. Some very perfect examples of Colonial reproductions are shown in dark oak or mahogany.—Schipper & Block Furniture & Carpet Co., Peoria, Ill.

We wish to impress you with the fact that our furniture is not only handsome, but well put together, being made by skilled workmen and made to last. Our parlor, dining-room and bedroom suites are in the latest and most unique designs. Our prices are beyond competition.—J. G. Seeger & Sons, Buffalo.

Here you will find divans that are dainty in design, artistic in appearance and exceptionally comfortable. Totes that are large, roomy and yet beautiful in pattern.—Stickley-Brandt Furniture Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Christmas is near and very likely you will need to brush up a little; a side-board, a china closet, a table, or perhaps new chairs, a carpet or a rug, will lend added dignity to the dining-room. We have them in a multiplicity of designs, woods and finishes, and at prices you like to pay.—H. V. Monahan, New York.

It is advancing rapidly toward the tropical season now when some of your earnings will go for outdoor pastime and vacation's delights. But your need of furniture does not decrease. All the more reason, then, for a system of credit which will not in any wise interfere with your summer pleasures and will add to the comforts of home. You are beginning to realize that the effect of our credit plan is far reaching. It is a friend at all seasons of the year. Nothing can weaken its advantages or make them less desirable. If ever there was a sterling co-operative plan, ours is the one. You understand, do you not, that we have no arbitrary or fixed terms, and that they are arranged according to your income? You want our merchandise, we want your patronage, and this exchange is made to satisfy both, though we make it to satisfy you.—May & Co., Columbus.

Just because midsummer has come and you may need outdoor furniture, we have decided to give you a chance to buy it cheap. So cheap, indeed, that we doubt if we will have any really desirable pieces left at the end of the first two days. Usually we wait another month or so and have a clearing out sale on things like this. This year we are ahead of things a bit. As usual our customers benefit by our go-ahead-ness. Lots of you are going camping this summer—indeed, the season has just about begun. Better come and see these bargains before you go. A few dollars will do wonders towards adding a deal of comfort to your camp. And as for porch and lawn furniture, we have some great bargains to offer you. We have decided not to keep one piece over until next season. We'll cut prices liberally and you can do the rest.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

You need something that lets the air through to sit on in summer time and we are showing a splendid assortment of rattan, reed and prairie grass rockers, chairs and porch tables, as well as all kinds of lawn swings and benches. We can offer you some exceptionally big values in these goods; we should like you to see.—House & Herrmann, Washington, D. C.

This sale a year ago eclipsed any similar event ever held in the store. We have far better furniture to offer you this July—and the prices are decidedly lower. This is the whole story, so far as we are concerned, except to follow with the details. If you have any furniture needs whatsoever, this sale will offer inducements to you impossible at any other time.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

Our great August sale of furniture begins to-morrow! Our prime object in holding this sale is to make more friends for our already widely known furniture department. In addition to an army of old patrons—who fully appreciate the importance of this occasion—there will be hundreds of new customers in attendance whose trade is worth making strenuous efforts to secure, for we realize the value of the adage that "Once a customer always a customer." Last year we held an August sale of furniture which proved a revelation to hundreds of furniture buyers. It placed furniture of the highest standards into many homes at prices so low that they who bought were not only gratified but very much astonished. In this August sale we wish to exceed the sales of a year ago. Now the values are better. Now the varieties are greater. Now the furniture department is better known, and, if anything, is in better shape to cater to the needs of buyers. Every condition favors this occasion, which will prove the greatest sale of all.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

"Not How Cheap, but How Good" is the Back Log of this August Furniture Sale.

The quoted phrase at the top of the page to-day is from the pen of William Morris, whose picture we reproduce.

Morris was the leader of that band of lusty young Englishmen—Burne-Jones, Rossetti, Arthur Hughes, Madox Brown—who forty years ago began making war on the tawdry and cheap in household decorations. He succeeded better than he realized at the time of his death, for it is not putting it too broadly to say that half of the homes in England and America have been influenced by his work.

Along with his artistic sense, Morris had enough business wit to have ready a substitute for the gaudy furnishings he tore down.

In place of a cold marble-top table he offered a heavy, noble-looking oak, with simply a doily or two on the top. Instead of covering the floors completely he laid his carpets in strips, showing the beautiful hard wood at the sides. Taking down dozens of flashily framed pictures and chromos, he put up a few good pictures in dark wood frames. Throwing aside the marble-top mantelpieces, he replaced them with solid oak mantels and wide fireplaces.

Of course, everything was well made, substantial and useful, as well as beautiful. "Have nothing in your homes," he said, "that is not useful or that you do not believe to be ornamental."—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Straight to Schmelzer for your furniture, carpets and stoves is a step in the right direction, a step that assures you the choicest assortment, the lowest prices and easiest terms. During the past week hundreds of young folks have turned their steps towards Schmelzer's and hundreds more will be here this coming week to select their outfits and lay the foundation for a comfortable and happy home. Cash or credit. Just tell the man to charge it.—John Schmelzer, Saginaw, Mich.

Every piece of furniture in our house is new, as this is a new department this year. When you see the dainty designs in sewing tables, shaving stands, music racks, ladies' desks, Morris chairs, fancy rockers, easy chairs, luxurious chairs, davenport, dressing tables, mission chairs, desks and tables—you will understand why this department is so busy.—The H. H. Griggs Company, Cleveland.

Our unique position in the trade enables us to offer quite exceptional values in the higher grades of furniture. Take the Sideboard illustrated as a single instance. It was built at our factory here in Toronto, and is in every respect equal to the original from which it was copied. The wood is choice Tabasco Mahogany, and is highly polished, so as to bring out its beautiful color and exquisite grain to the best advantage.—The Rogers Furniture Co., Toronto, Can.

Substantial and solid, simple in construction, popular designs, superior workmanship and excellent finish are the characteristics of our line.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

This mid-season furniture sale breaks all past records, both for magnitude and genuine bargains. Ample reasons, too: The store was never as large as now. It's mid-summer. We're getting ready for fall. It's the time we go carefully over the stock and reduce in price, for quick selling, patterns that will not be duplicated—not odd pieces only but entire suites, and furnishings in general. Pieces that positively cannot be found in any other furniture store. The columns below show only a few of the many bargains in fine, exclusive furniture. We're glad of this, another chance to enrich your homes; to reward you for building this wonderful furniture store; to reward you for waiting for this, the greatest of Mid-Summer Furniture Sales.

Every piece bears the imprint of Simpson Crawford furniture merit. No maker will deny that it is hard to sell us furniture. No inferiority is tolerated. We demand perfection—and get it. No furniture is too good for us to sell, if rightly and honestly made. Our outlet is perennial and exhaustive.

But this August sale marks a new epoch.

It is not a sale such as is common to the trade at this season. It is not a combination of wood and veneer and glue fashioned into form—to impress the public with the cheapness of things and inflate the August business.

Instead, it is our regular sorts of furniture, at prices which are only possible in February and August, when we buy immense quantities at about the cost of material and making and save you the ordinary profits of business.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

An opportunity to get real mahogany furniture of the very best sort at prices usually paid for oak comes but seldom, and to be able to select from a very big assortment at such prices is rarer still.—Stumph & Lyford, Washington, D. C.

An impressive display of furniture novelties for the country house. Models which are the acme of art in designing and notable because of their striking individuality and effectiveness! With our usual progressiveness, we are first to introduce the Silver Glace Villa Furniture—made of Hungarian ash, in a lustrous gray finish. These exquisite models, while constructed in the simple outlines now so much favored, are enriched by inlay work in platinum, copper and ebony, deftly introduced. The upholstery is of fine suede leather in a rich shade of green. The general effect of this combination is singularly elegant and artistic.—Ludwig Bauman & Co., New York.

Goods that are new in every sense of the word—and alluring to an irresistible degree. If you have put off buying your white enamel pieces until now, consider yourself as fortunate, for when we tell you that the real value of these goods is one-third more than the advertised prices, you will be ready to come here this week and make a selection, as this is without question the last time this season you'll be able to choose these particularly attractive goods at such low prices.—Brooklyn Furniture Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Furniture of the uncommon sort forms the basis upon which we have created our productions of hand-made pieces. For the dining room this feature is worked to beautiful advantage in the long, low sideboards—the cabinets for china or glass with quaint latticed doors—with extension tables, chairs and buffets—all in keeping with the simple motif in mind. Mahogany in the solid wood is used only in this conception.—Grand Rapids Furniture Co., New York.

In selecting the new things for your home, there is a distinct advantage in having so large assortment to choose from. It affords you the opportunity of seeing all that is newest and best in the furniture world. We welcome visitors at all times, and take great pride in showing them through our store.—Red Star Supply Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. Banker, Mr. Laborer, Miss Finance, Mrs. Housewife: Our invitation is cordially extended to you. Come to the beautiful store—look over our carefully selected stock of high grade household necessities. We always take pleasure in showing people through our Home Beautiful. It is here you will find exactly the article you need to replace this piece of furniture, that parlor rug or the entire refurnishing of that new home you have just built or purchased.—The American, St. Paul, Minn.

This is a bold statement, but the furniture and prices back it. Your eyes, your experience and judgment you can depend upon. Go through the two floors of sample pieces here and then decide. We permit no one to undersell us. No matter how cleverly others may talk; no matter what others may claim—we undersell them all.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Judging by the great amount of business we are already doing, it would be very unwise for you to wait until the final rush before buying whatever you need for entertaining inauguration visitors. We have made big preparations for the event, and have anticipated all your wants. In order to induce you to buy early and give us a chance to wait on you properly, we are making special price cuts on all such things as you are most liable to want. Don't take unnecessary chances or pay more than you need—do your buying next week.—Jackson Bros., Washington, D. C.

During stock taking we found an almost endless number of odd chairs and rockers, and this week we intend to clear them out at about half the regular price, in some instances below. There is almost every kind of a chair or rocker represented—chairs for the office, chairs for the dining room, kitchen or hall, bedroom chairs and rockers, rockers with arms and without, rockers with shaped saddle seats, upholstered seats or cobler seats. The patterns are those that have been our best sellers during the past year. If there is any part of your house for which you need a chair or rocker, and you want to save half the purchase price of one, or get two chairs or rockers for the price of one, better come down and make your selection this week. Always remember that you can make your own terms on everything you buy from us, even if it is sold to you at sale prices.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane.

"An appearance of prosperity begets confidence." Are your office fittings a credit to your business? Money spent for high-class furnishings is a gilt-edged investment, not an extravagance. Office fittings of the most sumptuous character are here in lavish variety, and the plainer sorts as well. But no trash.—Davis, Smith & Nettleton, Tacoma, Wash.

There's always somebody wondering where they can get the best furniture values. These are just the people whom we like to have come "here." For "here" they will always find the very best furniture that the manufacturers in Grand Rapids can offer. From now on through the spring season we mean to demonstrate more forcibly than ever before that Fuller's is the place to see the largest assortment of good furniture and the fairest prices. We will surprise you.—C. C. Fuller & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Have you seen the pretty display of dainty parlor chairs, rockers and tables at this store? If you haven't you have missed something worth coming a long way to see. Most of them are in mahogany and the colonial styles prevail. We cordially invite you to come and see how beautiful you can make your parlor for a very modest sum.—C. W. Daniels, Pueblo, Col.

All the new good things of the country's leading and best furniture factories are here. Every piece of furniture in this great emporium is properly made and properly finished. Every piece of furniture comes up to the highest standard of excellence. Every piece is guaranteed to be from 10 per cent. to 25 per cent. lower than similar quality can be bought at elsewhere.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

A picture of home comfort follows the busy man through his day's work, cheering and encouraging. A happy home is man's dearest possession. Did you ever think how much good furniture adds to the joys of home life? It needn't be luxurious or expensive to be artistic and beautiful if one buys right. This is the right place to buy.—Rhodes-Haverty Furniture Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Is there a home so completely furnished and decorated as to need nothing? Is there a home maker indifferent to economy and elegance? Of course not! Then it follows that our reduction sale of furniture, carpets, china, and all kinds of housekeeping goods should command the attention of all home makers. You will have to supply your needs some day. Buy now at the reduction sale prices and pay a little at a time as the money comes to you.—The Weeks Furniture Co., Woonsocket, R. I.

When you come our way don't fail to look into our East window, if you are interested in pretty unique mission dining room furniture, and in our West window if you want something cheaper.—York Furniture Co., York, Pa.

Something almost for nothing in hassocks.—Keely's, Atlanta, Ga.

Good furniture at greatly reduced prices. Such opportunities are absolutely unmatched. No necessity for the housewife who takes pride in the adornment of her home to be without the best and to satisfy her wishes to her heart's desire.—Jordan, Moriarty & Co., New York.

When you move, equip your office with modern furniture, and the best facilities for conducting your business. Our prices must interest you.—Chas. E. Matthews, New York.

This furniture sale has something for you. If you aren't acquainted with Reynolds' furniture and carpet store, it's high time you became so—for your pocket's sake! And this applies with extra force during the coming week, when extraordinary price inducements are offered.—Reynolds', Troy, N. Y.

Satisfaction, from the home furnisher's standpoint, is not to be found in buying cheaply made, showy furniture, or by dealing with people who represent poorly made goods as the "best in the market." Three generations of Brooklynites have patronized the old house of Mason's, and know that "satisfaction that satisfies" has always been found in their goods.—Mason's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mere cheapness has never been the standard of this furniture store. Cheap it must be, however—meaning by that the best possible values at the various prices; the cheapness that spells economy—not the cheapness that means wastefulness. We know of no collection of furniture anywhere that is as broadly satisfying to people of good taste and good judgment as the great stocks we are showing.—John A. Colby & Sons, Chicago, Ill.

Furniture of elegance. Elegance, usefulness and durability have been most admirably combined in our furniture. There is a gracefulness in shape, a smoothness and brilliancy in polish, an artisticness in carving and a brightness in trimming that make every article exceptionally attractive. Every article of furniture you can possibly need you can find here in its most attractive form and priced at the same figures you have quoted elsewhere for it in its most ordinary form.—Duff & Repp Furniture Co., Kansas City, Kans.

Every day is an opening day here—opening new goods daily—opening the eyes of furniture and carpet buyers as to values. We have said it before—we say it again: Visit all the other house-furnishing establishments in town, but as you value money don't buy until you see our stock and get our prices.—Black & Barker, Pittsburg, Pa.

"To think of furniture is to think of Carty."—Carty's Furniture Store, Frederick, Md.

You are buying furniture nimbly—promptly. That's natural. No thrifty person can afford to be poky or dawdly while such values as we show are in sight. It's a sprightly, bustling sale that we've worked hard to round out. You've yielded appreciation bountifully. That's the crowd-winning combination.—Macy's, New York.

A good deacon went out West visiting, and while he was there another man of the same name died in the town where the deacon was stopping. On the deacon's return home he was much surprised to find his own obituary in the local papers. The obituary notices were very complimentary, but this seemed only to annoy the deacon, who said to his wife, "Consarn it! Only jest see that pesky reputation that I've got to live up to." Our furniture department has a high reputation to live up to, but it does not annoy us as the deacon was annoyed, and we shall maintain this reputation "in season and out of season." Watch out for our furniture bargains.—Houghton & Dutton, Boston, Mass.

'Tis the season to have and save. Pleasure and profit go hand in hand. Hundreds of bright, new, durable reed and rattan pieces, in the soft popular green, the attractive red or the handsome natural finish, are now offered at less than actual cost of production. It's the wind-up sale of the season and profit will not be considered in our effort to send these seasonable, comfortable pieces into usefulness. "He who hesitates"—will not hesitate to make a selection from this splendid assortment at such profitless prices.—Brooklyn Furniture Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

All the standard styles and new ideas, combined with our own exclusive designs. The most comprehensive display of fine furniture to be seen in any one establishment.—Horner's, New York.

Summer furniture from China. Long before Heywood and Wakefield, John Chinaman made furniture from reed and rattan. He taught us the art, but he couldn't find any of us bright enough to learn how to make a gong. And still we use Chinese reed furniture. If you read and act upon the following you'll more than ever be in debt to John Chinaman. Some hundreds of pieces of Chinese reed furniture, our own importation, go on sale to-day one-third off price. It was selling fast enough at our regular low prices. It would have cost you one-half more last week. Prices are only one-third the cost of American. Fools? No, only crowded; room needed. Interesting? Yes, to you.—Wanamaker, New York.

It is fully worth putting yourself out to come and make a selection of a dresser, chiffonier or commode to-morrow—the last day of our big sale. Never before have we made so deep a cut on such excellent styles of bedroom furniture—golden oak, birdseye maple and mahogany pieces—no matter what wood you admire, if price is the inducement, you will be able to make your selection to-morrow easily. Remember that your credit is good. Come and see the dressers and talk it over with us.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

No factory can make just enough furniture. There will be surplus lots of some things. We naturally get first choice. No factory can get just enough regular business to keep its force busy. Now, good men must be kept on solid time—so it saves some waste to take from us “stop-gap” orders for fifty or a hundred of this, that and the other, “at a price,” but to be made up when there’s nothing else to do: We give these orders. Our suppliers are the accepted leaders in the trade—west, north, south and at home. We’ve gone back to grandfather furniture in many cases—old fashioned solid mahogany. To buy such pieces is to put old wine into your cellar—it gets better and better. With hurriedly made furniture, painted and glossed by tub immersions, we’ve no patience. Its selling discredits us; its buying injures you. Go into many a house furnished a dozen years ago and you’ll be shocked at the furniture. Its cheap lustre is gone in spots; its legs wobble; its lines offend. The furniture was caught in a sort of a greased-pig race for cheapness. If expenditure is to be limited, all well. Buy plain pieces—they’ll look well twenty years hence; buy smooth surfaces—look athwart the piece. If its slick surface shows up-and-down tendency, it is mere cheap varnish work on unsmoothed wood—and that can’t last long or look well even at its best. It’s the gospel of good taste that should govern in furniture buying. No more to pay at first—and less frequent renewals.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia.

The very best furniture makers in the United States have sent carloads of furniture of every style and for every purpose for this sale. All the new furniture will be offered at wonderfully attractive prices, in many instances practically at cost. All the regular stocks on hand will be offered at strikingly reduced prices. Thus it will be seen we have adopted the most decisive method to induce numerous and quick sales. We are going to prove even more aggressively than ever before what a great and helpful furniture store we operate. We are showing everything new, furniture for every purpose, whether it be for parlor, dining-room, library, bedroom, sitting-room, hall, music room, den, kitchen, or any other purpose. Also specially selected varieties of furniture suitable for clubs, cafes, public institutions, vessels, theaters, restaurants and other requirements.—Siegel, Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

The great reputation “Karpen Upholstered Furniture” has obtained throughout the world is a sufficient guarantee of its high character of construction and design. Through a special arrangement with the “Karpen” factory we are enabled to offer this month a surprising number of bargains in guaranteed Sterling genuine leather furniture. The Sterling trade-mark protects you from a large amount of deception and fraud practiced in the manufacture and sale of upholstered furniture covered with inferior leather and imitations of leather.—Stickley-Brandt Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

A pretty sideboard will add greatly to the appearance of your dining room will make a rather plain dining room look very attractive. If you are thinking of buying, you will find our line very complete. What we have said before regarding our furniture we say again, it is perfectly reliable and just as we represent it. Our prices are as low as possible consistent with the high grade of goods.—Williams & Morgan, Utica.

Mission furniture imparts an air of simplicity to the library that the student and reader enjoy. It blends pleasantly with the many colored bindings of the books, and thus seems to be a part of the volumes themselves. This handsome weathered oak book-case has two doors, two separate compartments, adjustable shelves and broad top for bronzes or marbles. Other styles equally as handsome reduced in the same proportion.—Cowperthwait & Sons, New York, N. Y.

We place on sale this week our entire line of willow rockers, chairs, settees, etc., at reductions averaging 25 per cent. from the regular prices. For general use throughout the entire home, for the summer cottage, or for the porch, willow furniture has no equals. It is sensible, serviceable, and provides the maximum of comfort for the minimum of expense. Buy this week and save one-fourth.—McAllister, Mohler & Co., Columbus, Ohio.

When we advertise furniture we mean it. It is furniture in the true sense of the word. It is furniture that is well made, durable and lasting. It is not the kind that is thrown together or put together with inexperienced hands. Our furniture is made by skilled mechanics, and is the best that money can buy. The price to you is made easy by the small expenses and location of our store. Every piece of furniture we sell is guaranteed.—The Home Furnishing Co., Columbus, Ohio.

“Ye Olden Day Furniture”—Colonial furniture. On the main floor is a handsome display of Colonial furniture. We are first to show this kind of furniture on the Pacific Coast. The pieces are exact reproductions of those made over 100 years ago. Made of oak, Colonial wax finish.—John Breuner Co., Sacramento, Cal.

There's no place like home. The song that has thrilled the souls of so many millions was written years ago, but is nevertheless true to-day. All that goes to make home life comfortable can be found in our buildings. We take special pride in furnishing you with furniture, carpets and stoves that will make happiness assured, at prices that can be reached by all. Call and see the home makers' prices for to-morrow.—The Colonial Furniture Co., Cleveland, O.

The hall is the first glimpse of home to greet one's eye when one has been away, as it is the last on one's departure. The hall is a room which serves a transient use; yet it gives the first and last impression of the house. The hall should be emblematical of simplicity, dignity and good cheer. Experience has shown us the way to produce the effects of woodwork and draperies. We have in stock hall clocks, hall seats, coat trees and other pieces to do the rest.—J. Crawford Greene & Son, Troy, N. Y.

Furniture that touches every home. An incomparable display of the popular Mission Furniture, superior in style, flawless in construction, excellent in finish.—Brooklyn Furniture Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Whether you merely want an office chair, or wish to have estimates on furnishing the most elaborate suite in New York City, you'll find it to your advantage to consult our Office Furniture Store.—Wanamaker's, New York, N. Y.

Furniture for lawns and cottages. Artistic yet comfortable designs, equally serviceable at summer homes or for porch and lawn use in the city—made by the very best makers of summer furniture.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago.

In buying our dining-room chairs every effort has been made to select only those of the utmost strength, durability and beauty—patterns to harmonize with each and every table or other dining-room piece in our stock. Choice is an absolute assurance.—The Household Fair, Kansas City, Mo.

Faith in furniture. If you have faith in the firm, you can have firm faith in its furniture. If you have no faith in the firm, how can you have faith in its bargains? This store has furnished hundreds—nay thousands—of homes in Bay City on the equitable credit plan. Have you ever heard aught against its methods or its furniture?—The People's Furnishing Co., Bay City, Mich.

Great Scott will give you (while they last) large, massive sideboards worth $30 for $12.50. They are beautifully carved, by hand, large French plate glass and highly polished; more sideboards than any four houses ever handled in four years. These sideboards must be closed out, therefore you can now get at Great Scott's a sideboard at almost your own price.—Great Scott, Baltimore, Md.

The rest is easy if you have one of our couches.—Greenberg's, Houston, Tex.

Swell furniture, little prices. A combination that ought to bring every woman in the city to our store this week.—Longyears Furniture and Carpet Store, Lansing, Mich.

Porch rockers. You'll soon be using that porch more than the sitting-room. With the thermometer as it was last week, you'll be driven out. Why not make it comfortable?—Wilson, Trenton.

The quaint and beautiful arts and crafts, mission and old Dutch pieces are a perpetual delight to the lover of the artistic; furthermore, they are luxuriously comfortable.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

Everybody is sufficiently settled in their new home now or far enough along with the spring renovation to size up their furniture needs. So this column will make interesting reading for many a family.—Campbell, Pittsburg, Pa.

Twentieth Century brides realize that however little furniture they may want with which to start housekeeping, they “want that little long.” Our furniture has the old Colonial knack of lasting for generations, and, being so artistic, never goes out of fashion.—Cowperthwait Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Do you want a rocker? If so, we'll surely make a sale. There is hardly a thing made in rockers that we don't have. Just unpacked the newest designs in rattan, reed and cane chairs. This store is teeming with fact and suggestion for home furniture.—Cohn Bros., Spokane.

Office Furniture. A man sees as quick as a wink the economy in selling hundreds of things together under one roof, of having merchandise experts look after one line of goods, and financial experts manage the purely financial end of the business. This applies to office furniture as well as to everything else, and in the large stock at the north end of the fourth floor you will see the advantage and economy of it all—in the desks, the chairs, and the office fittings.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

They are made with or without marble tops as desired, the wood is perfectly seasoned and the joints are tight.

We have also a complete assortment of the best factory made tables, chairs and kitchen cabinets, so that the widest possible range for selection is to be found here.—The Tobey Furniture Co., Chicago, Ill.

This Rocker is large size. Shaped wood seat. Fancy banister back. Fancy turned front and back posts. Easy arms, shaped top slat. Made in Quartered Oak, Piano polish finish.—Sticklebrandt Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Sideboards that suggest cheer. The sideboard when laden with silver, sparkling with cutglass and inviting dainties, is the crowning touch to the dining room. The third floor furniture store prides itself on its showing of buffets and sideboards. There are designs with elaborate carving and plain, refined designs, and all economically priced for you—that's the point.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Buying furniture. There's often an element of uncertainty in the undertaking of buying furniture. This is the purchasing of something expected to last a lifetime. The designs should be such as endear themselves to you more and more year after year and the service of course should be lasting. That's one kind of furniture. You know the "other" kind. The only experience we have with this "other" kind is to have it brought to our repair shop occasionally. We don't sell it, though. Of good furniture—good in every way—we have a great storeful.—C. C. Fuller & Co., Hartford, Conn.

A step in the right direction is a good start, and while buying your furniture and carpets this spring don't fail to call on Buchanan's cash or credit.—Buchanan's, Kansas City, Mo.

Porch and cottage furniture. Bamboo is the chief building material in many countries, including our own Philippine Islands. Besides being very strong, bamboo wood is readily worked into artistic designs and it is a material that withstands all kinds of weather wondrously well. What's more it is inexpensive. These are the very qualities wanted in porch and summer cottage furniture. Depend upon us, then, to meet your requirements in this line.—Burke, Rochester, N. Y.

We are ready for all comers and in better shape than ever for catering to the wants of the buyers of this community in the matter of dining room furniture. Take it in the line of dining room chairs, of which we show many distinct styles, all of the latest styles.—Watkins Bros., Pueblo, Colo.

So much to say that we can say but little. In furniture, carpets, rugs, matings, linoleums, etc., we are prepared to fit up homes, cottages, boarding-houses, hotels. No order too small, none to large.—R. J. Kelly & Co., New York, N. Y.

Our one greatest ambition is to make our furniture department indispensable to the needs of all thrifty-minded people, who want to save money, but not at the sacrifice of quality.—The Boston Store, Winchester, Ind.

We made and maintain low prices. Whatever preference we enjoy with the public is because we stand firmly to our convictions; we claim the right to our own opinion as to the best way for us to keep store. We claim the right to buy as low as possible and sell at as low a margin as good sound business principles will admit of. Twenty years of successful business has proven we are correct in our principles and that our business foundation is sound. Another week of strenuous furniture selling.—Lach, Kansas City, Mo.

We have just unpacked a large shipment of fine odd pieces which in addition to the stock we previously had makes our present assortment the largest we ever possessed. You can pay as much or as little as you desire—$3.98 buys a fancy odd chair with velour seat, and $50.00 is the price of an exquisitely beautiful cabinet—but all are pretty and you'll have no trouble to be suited.—Brown Bros., Cleveland, O.

Horner's furniture, whether wanted for town or country homes, our stock affords best selection and best values.—R. J. Horner & Co., New York.

We specialize in fine office furniture and furnishings. We show the finest desks, chairs and cabinets and other office fittings including floor and wall coverings, partitions and decorations. We also have the cheapest that are dependable in workmanship and materials. "Flint Quality" in office fitting assures the same standard of excellence, and absence of excessive charge, as the sixty-four years of our business existence have demonstrated to be characteristic of our furniture for the home.—Geo. C. Flint Co., New York, N. Y.

Santa Claus will soon be making his rounds. In many cases house furnishings will prove most acceptable and useful as gifts. In preparation for a large demand the workmen in our upholstery department have been working night and day producing new and artistic designs for the holiday trade. We boast of a most beautiful stock of parlor furniture—new three and five piece suits upholstered in muslin all ready for your selection of coverings. The coverings are exquisite—among them a large number of imported fabrics.—A. V. Manning's Sons, Trenton, N. J.

Bed rooms are made beautiful only by beautiful furniture. There's a charm and luxury about a room furnished with our furniture. Decide now what you want before the holidays. Our prices are low—your credit is good.—Williams & Lawler, Trenton, N. J.

We have faithfully considered the furniture needs and offer a choice line of seasonable furniture that will bring brightness and comfort to the home. Everything here to fit the season. Never here before in larger, more attractive or better variety than now. For summer time comfort, at home or away, you'll find here much that will interest you and priced in the right and always satisfactory way. Come and be shown.—Helfrich, Bohner & Co., Allentown.

So many hours are spent at your desk that a well made, comfortable chair means a whole lot. As the right kind of a chair should last the best part of a lifetime, the first cost doesn't figure as it does on some articles. By that we mean, don't pay too much, but pay enough to get good workmanship and wood. Revolving, adjustable office chairs in golden oak finish from $4.75.—Robbins, Pratt & Robbins, Spokane.

There are exhibits at St. Louis no more vast and comprehensive than this show of dining-room furniture. Hundreds are traveling as many miles to see them. The Colonial furniture alone among the new dining-room pieces on the Gimbel furniture floor are worth coming a long distance to see. The simple, almost austere beauty of colonial art worked out in the dull mahogany-finish—and that finish defies imitation. Dozens of pieces of this sort. Absolute copies of precious old chairs in the possession of connoisseurs.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Our dining-room furniture department alone is as large as an ordinary store, and it contains just now the most elegant stock we have ever shown. The numerous grades and designs in golden oak, weathered oak and mahogany make it easy to get just what is wanted, and our prices, by comparison, will be found absolutely the lowest on any given grade.—McAllister, Mohler & Co., Columbus.

We can show you the newest ideas, the best reproductions of the old pieces, and the most popular furniture for the home that can be found in this city. This is a "furniture" store—all the name implies—and more. It is a place you will enjoy visiting because of the interesting and beautiful things that are displayed here.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City.

Farrell's quality has long been accepted by knowing furniture-buyers as the standard of merit. If an article is here, it's good. It wouldn't be here, were it otherwise. We can't make this point too clear. It's one of the foundation stones of this business. Sticking to honest furniture, and never running after the cheap goods so numerous now-a-days, has made this house one of known reliability, and that means much to any buyer.—Farrell's, Trenton, N. J.

The wheel of fashion has made one more complete revolution, and the furniture of the Colonies is now pre-eminently correct for the dining room.—George C. Flint Co., New York, N. Y.

A veritable exposition of everything of merit in the Furniture world, in all the fashionable designs and finishes, with unequalled choice in all lines, aptly describes our Fall display.—R. J. Horner & Co., New York, N. Y.

Furniture cast on "Mission" lines, and finished in weathered oak, is in great demand this season. The pieces are sightly, comfortable, and very attractive additions to the furnishing of the home.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

By this we mean it is the first time in the history of our establishment that we have inaugurated a regular "Summer Furniture Sale," and we intend making it a hummer. Below are only a few of the many bargains we are offering. This sale embraces every article in our store, from the smallest butter chip to a folding bed, and it is decidedly to your interest to call and inform yourself as to the remarkable purchases you are able to make by paying part down and the remainder weekly or monthly.—Cohn Bros., Spokane, Wash.

Here are three leaders of the famous Lentz extension table values. The Lentz extension tables are to-day becoming more extensively known and in use than any other table on the market. Simple facts have taught the best furniture buyers to recognize the Lentz tables, and buy and sell them wholly upon their merits—namely, quality, construction, finish and price—these are the important factors which you should look into before buying; all of which the Lentz comprises. These values will surely interest every person who wants a moderate priced table, and are good values at regular prices. We have better ones if desired and can please you both in styles and prices. Come in and look them over and see the advantages over others.—Standard Furniture House, Spokane.

When you buy of us it is made in our own factory, designed to your taste, material, finish and upholstery as per your instructions. We quote you a manufacturer's price, and deliver to your home or pack and ship free of charge to your out-of-town residence; and you may rest assured that you are getting the best at the lowest market price. Just at present we have a handsome assortment of davenport and suites, which will interest you, and an excellent showing of upholstery goods.—Chas. F. Doll, Buffalo, N. Y.

You know the sort when we say "Mission Style"—massive oak construction—Spanish leather cushioned—large—easy—lazy—luxuriously plain—that's the size of it. We are not supposed to have such swell doings "Over Here"—but we do—in fact—our "Mission" furniture—is equal to all you ever see "Over There" except in price—"Over Here" price is a whole lot less and this week's special sale makes it even less, than that. Suppose we do sell under cost—for a week—we can stand for it.—T. H. Wearne & Co., Denver, Colo.

For this summer sale, we have built some exceptionally interesting bedroom furniture in birch, maple, light oak and white enamel. The designs are early English, French, Colonial and modern, including several floral decorated pieces, and in combination with our showing of light drapery fabrics, afford unusual opportunity for selection, suggesting numerous possibilities for the expression of individuality in dainty and effective decorative schemes.—Geo. C. Flint Furniture Co., New York.

Summer furnishings. Just now you must provide for the hot weather which will soon be here. We have furniture, draperies and floor coverings suitable for just that kind of weather. You would not think of wearing the same clothing in summer as in winter. Well, the same thing applies to your house. You need not expect to be comfortable this summer unless you take up that heavy carpet and put down one of our nice, clean, cool mattings in its place. Get a few light, comfortable chairs and rockers and you can bid defiance to the heat. For your veranda we have many very low-priced rockers that are well made and comfortable, and we recommend that you order early to secure what you need.—Greene's, Newark.

The Chinese reclining arm-chair is a necessary adjunct to the Summer veranda. It has a frame of bamboo—the rest is an openwork cane. There are enclosed arms for storing away a book, magazine or fancy work, and a place for the tumbler of cool drink. The light weight of the pretty Chinese reed and cane furniture, done in colored enamels, and made in France, commends it very highly for piazza use. There is nothing which appeals so much to the Summer lounge as the tete-a-tete or double chair. It is in reed, and combines the pleasure of having one's companion near, while both read, rest or carry on a conversation. The dividing arm is broad enough for books, or holding the afternoon tea.—Wanamaker, New York.

Porch Furniture—Attractive—Good—Inexpensive.—We have an unusually fine showing of comfortable and durable rockers and chairs for porch use. Some are elaborate and handsome; some are quite simple, but right. It is of the latter kinds that we tell this word today. Frames are mostly of maple, in natural finish; but we show them in oak, finished in pale green and polished, or weathered oak in dull finish; seats and backs are mostly of closely-woven reed or of closely-woven cane. All the goods are of highest grade and finish.—Wanamaker, New York.

Hints About Furniture.—There are in almost every home several pieces of furniture that are so comfortable that in spite of their shabbiness you do not like to lose them. Perhaps they are heirlooms in the family, made of heavy mahogany, or with such prim sturdiness that they appear to defy newness or graceful lines. When you go away for the summer instead of sending your furniture to a storage warehouse, send it here—tell us what you wish done to it and we will reupholster it so that it will keep its old-fashioned lines, but take upon itself a new air of elegance. Then we'll keep it for you until you return in the fall. And all this will be done very much cheaper than at any other time, because in summer we have more time to devote to it.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Furniture that's honestly made, strongly constructed, the kind that lasts longest. In short, Furniture that is the best possible return for the money—and there's a goodly saving on every piece listed here. True, they are odd pieces, no more like them, but they are just as desirable.—Geo. B. Peck Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Suggestions for Summer.—If your bamboo furniture gets begrimed or dull looking, rub it with a brush dipped in warm water and salt. The salt prevents that yellow color. Wicker chairs and matting can be cleaned in the same way. Fruit stains begin to appear on knife blades these days—rub with a damp flannel dipped in salt and they'll disappear quickly. A house should be as pretty and comfortable looking in Summer as Winter—if not more attractive. Do not make it barren and cheerless looking by having no curtain at all. Replace the heavy lace curtains and portieres with the lightest and most transparent hangings you can find. In these days of large porches the well-fitted Summer home has the artistic modern Japanese mats strewn here and there. We have them in beautiful designs and very moderate. If your silver tarnishes quickly, wash it every week in warm suds with a tablespoonful of ammonia—it preserves the polish.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

We have the pleasure to announce some special opportunities in cool, restful, attractive reed and rattan furniture, each piece hand-made, either from designs of our own artists or those seen in the famous English watering places. Finished in any color to order without extra charge.—Geo. C. Flint Co., New York.

In the rich golden quartered oak, dainty bird's-eye maple, elegant genuine mahogany, and the beautiful curly birch. One of these dressers combines the convenience of a dressing-table and utility of a bureau. The fine and large mirrors are always a welcome feature. At the present writing you will see on our display floors more than twenty different designs in above woods and finishes, and every one of them are designed to give the greatest amount of convenience and beauty.—Stickley-Brandt Furniture Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Select what you will from any one of our seven great floors and you can safely feel that it is strictly reliable—that you have not been deceived in the matter of quality. This is very important, too, when there is on the market so much Furniture of a questionable character—Furniture made to look all right, but which will prove cheap and shoddy when put to the test of wear.—McAllister, Mohler & Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Our stock is a revelation to every one who looks through it. Every line for every room in the house is displayed in magnificent assortment—good, well-made, artistic furniture to suit every taste and purse.—M. Rich & Bros. Co., Atlanta.

Summer furniture that's cool, comfortable and durable—and yet low priced. Come in and select from the largest and best stock in this part of the country.—McAllister, Mohler & Co., Columbus.

Forced out—that is what one of the largest jobbers of iron and brass beds, springs, mattresses and pillows was forced to do—vacate his mammoth warehouse, because the railroad company wanted the ground for trackage purposes. It left him in bad shape, as this is the best time of the year for his business. He did not know what to do or which way to turn, owing to having an immense stock on hand. Finally appealing to us, we made a deal with him whereby we take the whole stock. While there are not many patterns of beds, there are any number of colors and combinations.—Smith & Farwell Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Furniture of the old fashioned hand-made kind finds beautiful expression in our showing of reproductions from the Colonial and early English. The dining room with its long, low sideboard—the china cabinet with quaint mullioned windows—slender-legged Chipendale chairs—all having that sense of atmosphere and refinement above the commonplace.—Grand Rapids Furniture Co., New York.

When we sell a brass bedstead costing as much as $150, we are met by the question of what furniture should accompany it. For a brass bedstead needs a special class of woodwork, designed to carry out the idea of tubular framing. You catch the idea when you look at the three-piece set here offered, which has been planned expressly for use with a brass bed. The upper part of each piece has the suggestion of tubular construction. We make this set in either white oak or Tabasco mahogany. It represents the best grade of cabinet work.—Paine Furniture Co., Boston.

That's a strong statement, but a selling argument is only as strong as its weakest phrase, and we want to make this bargain news so convincing that you, for your own welfare, will come here to-day and select the pieces that you've been putting off buying from time to time, waiting for the best values of the season. These are the best. Prices tell you that, and then here's the furniture to prove it. Furniture that combines the two requirements—stability and artistic designing—furniture that will in truth last a lifetime—a quality that will live up to every claim made for it.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York.

Famed for its excellence—for its artistic beauty—for its exclusiveness—for its absolute completeness in all lines—for its moderate cost. Advantages which cannot fail to interest all intending furniture buyers who desire the best in style and the best in value, whatever their requirements, whether suites or single pieces.—R. J. Horner & Co., New York, N. Y.

Our preparations for the holidays exceed anything we've ever attempted, and to secure the show room needed for this great display, we have reduced prices an average one-third on many lines, especially on larger pieces. This week's offerings present absolutely unmatchable values. Delivered at once or stored free for future delivery, upon payment of a small deposit.—Walker & Linde, Philadelphia, Pa.

The sturdy qualities and handsome appearance of our parlor furniture is well known as far away as shoppers come to Wilmington to buy. The advantages of buying here are many. You buy of the maker, pay but one profit, can choose your preferred style of frame, and can have them covered with goods of your own selection.—M. Megary & Son, Wilmington, Del.

Something to brighten the home—a Christmas thought easy to fulfil if you strike this furniture store. Attractions are boundless. Furniture in endless variety—from the simple little pieces to the most ornate. And no matter what price you pay, you'll get greatest value for your money.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

A good gift lives a long life. Give furniture—good furniture, whose every line proves its inheritance of the art, spirit and painstaking excellence of other centuries. We have an unusual collection of single pieces for gifts—small, inexpensive, but never trivial nor ordinary.—Hunt, Wilkinson & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

We are proud of our new stock of Furniture—the elegant, elaborate array of polished beauty that is filling our floors. It is the finest we ever have had. It is Furniture that will wear, furniture that will be a source of comfort, pride and joy to those who use it. It is built to be handed down from generation to generation through future years.—J. N. Adams, Buffalo, N. Y.

See us before buying anything for your home. We have the largest stock of furniture and furnishings in this section and our prices the lowest. So be fair with yourselves, make a business rule to see if you can't get a better piece of furniture here in style, quality and finish and at a better price than elsewhere.—A. J. Collins & Co., South Norwalk, Conn.

Buy furniture now and save a day's wages. This can be done if you will come prepared to buy one or two pieces of furniture. And what money is easier earned than that which you save in this way? You get furniture that lasts a lifetime and will be a joy for years. Ponder over such economy as this.—The 14th Street Store, New York, N. Y.

There is an end to everything and so must there be to this particularly good thing in full-sweep price reductions on every article in our Two Acre Furniture Department. Another six months must pass before every piece is reduced at the same time. Who ever will need furniture months hence will save money by buying this week.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Just twenty-one pieces of Willow Furniture left from our large summer stock. We want every inch of room for the great Furniture Sale that will shortly begin and have marked this little lot of Willow Furniture at just half regular prices.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

We've added another great shipment of the very best grade artistic, up-to-date furniture to be sold at the same extremely low prices that have been the ruling power of our sixth semi-annual sale. Wouldn't be one bit surprised if the third week would be greater than the first. Furniture we've already sold is commanding so much admiration that home furnishers who hadn't intended buying their furniture now are taking advantage of this sale. That's what you'll do if you come and see the furniture. Don't see how anybody can resist this remarkable saving.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Showers of new and up-to-date furnishings for the home.—The C. W. Daniels Co., Pueblo, Colo.

A furniture salesman went to his employer—a famous dealer in Boston—and said: "I have tried fifty different stories in an effort to sell that old sideboard, but it's no use, it won't go."

"Suppose you try the truth," suggested the governor, laconically.

Many people wear out shoe leather, time and patience, in chasing irregular, illegitimate, will-o'-the-wisp "bargains," which are rarely found where they are advertised.

To such we say, try regular goods at regular prices at the best of the regular stores.—Colby's.—John A. Colby & Sons, Chicago, Ill.

Specials in Furniture for Summer Homes.—Both in number of pieces and in the lowness of prices our displays appeal to those making purchases for city homes, porches and lawns, as well as for country houses. The arrivals just added make the present lines much the largest we have ever presented.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Furniture that Furnishes!—Our stock is composed of the most artistic and latest designs on the market. We make a specialty of fitting out rooms for newly married people.—Schmuck & Bevington, Wooster, Ohio.

Fine Maple Bedroom Furniture—Odd Pieces at Reduced Prices.—Every piece that you will want to furnish the guest-chamber of your summer cottage. But the principal point is that these are mostly odd pieces, though it will be very easy to match up a whole suit. Greatly reduced because they are odd pieces.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Furniture Department.—Have you seen the beautiful mahogany Colonial bedroom suit in our art room on the fourth floor? Never mind about buying it, but if you enjoy seeing a pure revival of noted Colonial pieces take the elevator and get acquainted with these handsome specimens. They are exact reproductions of the most fashionable type of bedroom furniture in old Colonial days. Three pieces; the highpost bedstead, a great and richly handsome dresser and full dressing size cheval mirror, elegantly mounted in mahogany. Sale price reduced to $200.00.—Crews-Beggs, Pueblo, Col.

Tobey hand-made Kitchen Tables are made with the same care that is put upon our elegant dining, library or parlor pieces.

Summer Furniture for Cottage, Porch and Lawn.—The features of this year's furniture for summer cottages are simplicity, ease and comfort. To meet the demand we have assembled the most attractive line of Summer Furniture we have ever shown, covering everything needed for the veranda, the living room, to the guest room, in Reed, Rattan, "Old Hickory," Adirondack Silver Birch, Prairie Grass, etc.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

To All Who Live in Houses.—When I say elegant furniture in most modern designs at the price of the ordinary sort I speak advisedly and sincerely. I have marked down a wide variety of the nicer grades in such pieces as rockers and arm chairs of oak, in all shades and finishes; also of solid mahogany and birch mahogany; some all wood, some with leather seats and backs, some of them Morris chairs—a tempting lot and you can pay part at a time.—Crews-Beggs, Pueblo, Col.

Porch furniture that is "right." To be "right" it must be comfortable, strong and easily kept clean, and last, but not least, as beautiful to look upon as its nature will permit. Ornamental furniture is out of place on the porch. Exceedingly inexpensive are the maple frame chairs and rockers, with seats and backs of woven reed. The little rockers and chairs without arms may be had for 75 cents, and all sizes are in stock up to the large rockers with broad arms at $3.00.—The Bowditch Furniture Co., New Haven, Conn.

A Sensational Sale of Fancy Furniture at a Third Off Price.—There are only three factories in the United States which turn out gold-leaf, Vernis-Martin and Rookwood furniture, and as they never over-produce it is really a-once-in-a-lifetime happening when such furniture as this is sold underprice.—Bloomingtondale's, New York.

Little Priced Furniture for the Dining and Bedrooms.—A fine chance for those who wish to add a chair or a dozen chairs to the furnishing of the Summer home—or complete the furnishing of the bedrooms.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Remember your home Christmas with a piece of good furniture—the kind of a gift that does not need renewing every year. If you do not know just what you want, come here—inspiration and suggestion spring from every corner, and of any article you may think of in furniture we will show you the largest and most varied line ever shown in this city. Early Christmas buying is the best, particularly in furniture when the assortment in every line is complete.—Stickley-Brandt Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

This morning we are ready to let go of all our summer furniture. There are hundreds of people who will be coming for a month yet to add summer pieces to their country homes. And there are hundreds more who will want from one to a half-dozen pieces of exactly this furniture to use even in their winter homes. But we have immediate demand for floor space, and the summer furniture must be evicted this month, even at the radical losses that are necessary to do the work in a hurry. For this reason this furniture will be sold only for immediate delivery.—Wanamaker, New York.

Where such an immense furniture business is transacted, we cannot allow our stock to be cluttered up with odds and ends—by which we mean furniture of which only one, two or three pieces of a kind remain. So, down go the prices to quickly close out these goods.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

These attractive pieces of furniture make pleasing presents for all women who do fancy work or sewing. They bring order out of chaos, and keep the "sewing things" where they can be quickly found. A work table is a piece of furniture that many women would not think of buying, for their own use; hence it makes the most desirable sort of a present. They are made in various fine designs with drawers of different size, some having compartments for the household mending, some have drop leaf at the end to give sewing space, and some are prettily inlaid with fancy marqueterie.—Wanamaker, New York.

A home is, after all, only a box of regular or irregular shape—a shell within which one lives and gathers his most valued possessions. The longer he lives in that home the more he becomes identified with it, and the greater influence does his environment exert upon his character. For these and many other reasons we should use care in selections for the home. At the same time complete your shopping list—and the Christmas work can be done in a week.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Nearly every home where this paper goes can use a couch. We are selling them at reduced prices. Clearing out our samples to make room for new spring goods.—C. R. Parish & Co., Columbus.

For uniqueness of design, artistic shaping and generous build they stand without a peer. The construction of each model is a work of art. They come in prettiest green, highly polished quartered oak and Antwerp oak or genuine mahogany.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

If you buy it at Aaron's you get it good. Odd pieces and suits for the parlor. Have you ever noticed the beauty of a parlor furnished with odd pieces? Very striking, don't you think? And you only need to buy one piece at a time. Add to it as circumstances warrant.—W. S. Aaron, Altoona, Pa.

Prairie Grass furniture is a perfect product. The peculiar adaptability of Prairie Grass furniture to any surrounding is so pronounced that no single scheme of furnishing—no single room in your home—can lay special claim to it over others on the ground of being most appropriate. On the porch or lawn it seems at once to reflect the vigor and wholesomeness of outdoor life. On our display floor we are showing nearly forty different pieces.—Stickley-Brandt Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Make your hot porch cool. The Vudor porch shade makes a perfectly delightful room of your porch. It completely excludes the sun but permits the enjoyment of refreshing breezes. Very simple in construction and mechanism, yet durable in the extreme. These goods are stained in soft oil colors, harmonizing with any style of architecture. Sizes four feet, six feet, eight feet, ten feet wide, with the prices $2.25, $3.00, $3.75, $5.50 respectively.—Jones' Carpet Store, Columbia, S. C.

Five dollars buys a handsome Morris chair. This chair frame is made of oak and has beautiful velour cushions. It's such a chair as should be in every working man's home. The best chair in which a tired person can take a real rest—and remember the price.—Scranton Carpet & Furniture Co., Scranton, Pa.

Let's get together. We've got about everything necessary to furnish a house from cellar to garret, and to be perfectly frank with you, we've got too much for this season of the year. Furniture takes up a lot of room. Every square foot of space costs money. To make room for fall goods, which will be tumbled in on us by the manufacturers in a few weeks, we have got to reduce our present stock. Naturally we can't give these goods away, but we do intend to reduce every article of furniture in our store from 20 to 30 per cent. during July. This is a bona-fide, honest proposition. Come and see for yourself. You can't afford to overlook this sale if later you intend to buy furniture, carpets, stoves, refrigerators, oilcloth, etc.—Landé Bros., Montreal, Can.

Here's the biggest bargain in a side-board that's been offered this season. It's a good one, well built of selected elm; the top is shaped and measures 46 by 18 inches; case has two top drawers with swell shaped fronts, one long linen drawer with carved front and two cupboards with carved doors; the back is handsomely carved, has a shaped over-shelf full length, and two side shelves and large bevel plate mirror, size 14 by 26. It's a great bargain.—Hudson's Bay Stores, Vancouver, B. C.

Home furnishers will find a visit through our big store a rarely interesting treat. We have here the most delightful of necessities for a modern home—furniture of every description, draperies, lace curtains, carpets, rugs, matings, etc., etc. We take pleasure in giving full information regarding the decoration of homes, parquetry floors, etc. Our corps of salesmen is always at your service whether or not you wish to purchase.—Comstock-Avery Furniture Co., Peoria.

Not so long ago a busy bachelor found himself with an absolutely empty apartment to furnish. By chance he met a friend who sent him here. He took luncheon in the restaurant on the second floor and then in the company of one of the skilled store people, who are here for just that purpose, he went from one branch of the store to another, choosing carpets, furniture, rugs, curtains, draperies, china, glassware—everything he needed. He spent the afternoon here, and a part of the next morning. In that time he bought, under this one roof, the furnishings of his apartment complete to the smallest detail. "I never realized before," he said, when his expedition was over, "what a modern store like this really means. But for my friend, who sent me here, I should probably have spent a month at odd times wandering through all sorts of stores and picking up something here and there, perhaps getting it in harmony with what I had already bought, perhaps not. Now, in less than a day's time, I have, with your help, been able to choose here the complete furnishings for my rooms. I know they are artistic. I know they are absolutely harmonious. I know I have the guarantee of a substantial house back of every single article. I should even be satisfied to pay a little more just for the comfort and convenience of it all." To most of us, perhaps, the great stores are too much an every day convenience to seem wonderful. Yet it is little short of wonderful that here, under a single roof, not only all the furnishings of a home, but all the clothing for every member of the family, may be bought. More than that, the whole world has been laid under tribute that not only should everything be here, but that everything should be of the best quality in every sense. Our bachelor friend might have discovered, too, what is known to all Brooklyn women, and, perhaps, to most Brooklyn men—that the merchandise here is not only the best that may be had anywhere, but the prices are always as low and very generally lower than the cost of merchandise as good outside this store. To convenience, to satisfaction, to good service, are added low prices to make the round of excellence complete. The world's broadest guarantee is your insurance policy in buying at Loeser's.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

To reach out for the best and want the best at the lowest prices that the best can be purchased for is not a bad trait. The possessor of that trait may be called a "bargain hunter," but that's only another name for "economical." There's "good hunting" in this store. Everything in this stock of furniture is a bargain when quality and prices is considered, but unlike the usual "bargain" it is not something old or out-of-date.—Martin Furniture & Carpet Co., Ottumwa, Ia.

An Innovation.—Five hundred sets of Slip Covers for five pieces of furniture, ready made and can be delivered at once; no measuring your furniture and charging you for estimating. All those charges saved and Slip Covers sold to you at 50 per cent. less than other stores. The Slip Covers are made of best French linen stripes, all colors, and consist of lounge cover, 2 armchairs and 2 small chairs, finished with best binding and workmanship guaranteed.—A. I. Namm, New York.

FURS

Mrs. Homer—John, if Mrs. Neighbors gets a new seal-skin sack this winter, I must have one also.

Homer—Well, don't worry about it, dear. Neighbors and I formed a protective union to-day, and neither of you is to have one.—Chicago News.

New shipments of coats, waists, skirts and furs add zest to our great sale of fashionable outer garments.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

If you have furs to get by all means buy them now!—Culp's, Alliance, O.

If you want something exclusive in style and absolutely perfect in fit, we invite you to come to-morrow and see our special values. We have pleased others—we can please you, too. Our suits for women have all those finishing touches that go so much toward making glad the heart of woman.—The Blakely Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

An unusually fine showing of all the most wanted furs!—Don't make the mistake of buying furs that will cause you regrets later on. Here are furs that have passed expert judgment and will stand comparison with the very best furs in the market. On furs, as well as on other merchandise here, our prices stand out boldly in their littleness.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Furs for the ladies are one of the winter season's attractive lines. Always useful, always attractive and appreciated. We've never sold as many pieces as we have so far this season. The sable fox and Isabella fox are most admired, and the fact that we have had to twice duplicate our original order shows the popularity of our qualities and prices.—Benson & Miller, Bangor, Me.

Those famous furs.—The low prices have even set some people doubting.

Well, the fact that the furs are here at all is proof enough of their good character. But the fact that they come to us from the greatest fur house in the world is still behind that—the house that never sends out the tiniest bit of neck fur unless it is perfect.

We are selling them as we bought them—far below the regular prices.—John Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Are we selling all the fur coats in town? Has fur coat selling stopped in other stores? We never sold so many jackets in our life as this season—an order for forty more has just gone in.

Everybody in town must know about them—everybody's coming for them just as though there were no end to them.

That's right. If anybody knows any way out of the fur maze it's the bell sheep.

We jump the fence of convention and buy in the summer.

We buy for the greatest store in Illinois—and so buy cheaper.

We are careful and studious furriers, but we are satisfied with a "dry goods" profit—but not with "dry goods" furs.

We pay rent just as long as the fur season lasts, and no longer.

We have salespeople who know furs, and what's what.

When the fur season ends they sell dresses and coats—do you suppose we'd let them go? Not much.

On the whole we've learned how to sell furs regularly for 25 per cent. or so less than others.

Where do you think you'll buy?

If you want the prettiest fur coat in town, now's the time to get one.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Since it has been our specialty from the very advent of the motor car, you may depend upon every garment which we fashion to embody those principles and knacks which promise a full measure of convenience and protection. The skirt of a Saks fur coat is almost a fourth greater in width than the average fur garment. The pockets are placed to be of service whether one assume a standing or a sitting position. The edge of every coat at the flaps has a button or two which prevents a gap when one is seated. Our collection of models and furs is most comprehensive.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Lowenthal's reliable furs are useful, stylish, comfortable. As a present, they are highly appreciated, last longer, give more general satisfaction than anything else for that purpose.—M. Lowenthal, Lexington, Ky.

It is a pleasure to sell furs this season. Our stock is unequaled in variety, and superb in style and quality; while the prices are so distinctly below the market that it is, as we have said, a real pleasure to serve our hosts of customers.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Jack Frost has been busy already giving us a taste of the wintry days and nights to come. So, there is more than ordinary interest in to-day's news from the fur store—news of a particularly distinguished gathering of the best and most stylish furs, and in every case a saving.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Fine furs.—The day that dawns clear, cold and crisp is the day to put on furs, not the day to have to go downtown and buy them. You will find our fur department on third floor prepared with such a gathering of high quality furs as has never been exhibited in any other store in the Northwest.—The Plymouth Clothing House, Minneapolis, Minn.

From now on till Christmas there'll be "something doing" at this store, and it will be greatly to your interest to make frequent visits here. The new holiday goods are coming in, and such a lot of interesting things. Something worthy for every one. Our whole force are working like beavers getting ready for our great annual display. But we'll have and we want everybody to know it.—Gately-Brennan, Cincinnati, O.

Good furs were never before priced like this.—An opportunity that deserves immediate attention. Prices asked during this sale are less than the actual cost of the raw skins. To miss these values is to miss great bargains.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

Clearance of all our furs and fur garments in this great sale.—We will not attempt to quote prices, because it would take half a page of newspaper, but suffice it to say that all the furs must go now, so be here early. The entire stock has been gone over thoroughly, and is now rearranged and remarked to the lowest possible prices. It is the largest and most complete stock in the Twin Cities to select from, indeed, too large for this time of the year, and for that reason they are marked at great money saving prices.—W. H. Elsinger & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Furs will soon be in demand, and although we will not hold our formal opening until later, we can now show many of the latest creations in fur neck pieces. You will not need to go to the city to find what will be worn. Just call in and let us show you. The American Furrier is always on our stand showing all the newest styles, both in neckwear, jackets, etc. See our elegant blouse coats, fur-lined coats, trimmed near seal, Russian pony, long driving coats, etc. Does it seem a little early? You will soon need them.—Baraboo Fur Store, Baraboo, Wis.

The time has come for us to clear away our winter stock to make room for the spring goods which are already arriving, and our stock of furs must be sold. We make it a rule never to carry stock from one season to another, and buyers who buy now can obtain rare bargains. Never mind about the cash. We trust you, and will allow you to pay for your purchase in small weekly or monthly payments if you desire, without any extra charge.—Raphael & Co., Hamilton, Can.

Handsome sets of fine ermine are included in the general reductions. Almost any lady can use these to advantage in addition to whatever furs she may have now.—Dineen's, Toronto, Can.

No need for anyone to be without beautiful furs when such fine ones are to be had for as little as the Loeser prices. They are fine—just as fine as can be bought anywhere. And yet there is no more than half price to pay.—Fred-erick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We bought an odd lot of skins from a New York fur importer and got them very cheap, and have made them up in very pretty shapes in scarfs and muffs. Every kind of fur is among this lot. Now is the time to buy your wants in furs at remarkable prices. These goods are not over a month old. Just finished from our shop here. Call and look 'em over and note prices. We must get rid of this lot, as our raw furs are taking up our time now.—Simon S. Marx, Springfield, Ohio.

It is now generally accepted that Eaton furs represent the highest standard of fur craftsmanship, and that Eaton prices have established a higher standard of value in this western country. But these jackets are not being sold at regular Eaton prices—good values as they then represented—but at clearing prices, think of that!—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

We hate to shout price, for most men seek quality first, but we have both quality and price to offer you on this handsome line of fur-lined overcoats that we propose to close out for the season. Try us once and we will convince you that both prices and quality are right.—Girardeau & Marshall, Columbia, S. C.

Lovely mink-trimmed Persian lamb jackets reduced. Third day's selling in the week of special fur values. No, the blue pencil has not been held back from these lovely mink-trimmed Persian lamb coats—the most popular fur garment of the season. The saving amounts to $30 and $40 a coat and, considering the high standard of excellence raised by the Eaton furriers, this offering is a most important one to prospective holiday purchasers.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

Fur jackets and fur neck-pieces. Extra special prices for Wednesday. Do not delay. If you contemplate the purchase of a fur garment of any description, nothing will be gained by waiting. The prices quoted herewith are very low. All our fur garments are made from good, healthy skins, and the workmanship and trimmings are strictly first-class in every particular. You are thus assured of getting the very best at the prices.—Donaldson's Glass Block, Minneapolis, Minn.

Persian Lamb coats: a splendid collection of exclusive designs. With a thoroughly organized corps of skilled furriers in our great fur workroom busily engaged in originating and reproducing styles of the highest order of excellence we are most satisfactorily meeting the demands of women who have ideas of their own they desire incorporated in designs or who seek this section as the authentic source of the latest styles of merit from every quarter. We mention but a few of the recent productions of our own furriers.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Those of you who are after fine furs and are waiting for some reason or other until after the holidays, can have their wish gratified by buying them now at our store. In view of the fact that the holidays are near at hand, and also on account of our immense stock, we have arranged for a gigantic sale this week by making sweeping reductions on every article. Remember now you have a chance to make your selection while the stock is big.—New England Furriers, Hartford, Conn.

A fur jacket makes an ideal Christmas gift. Fathers, husbands and brothers will welcome suggestions for Christmas giving to their daughters, wives and sisters. Fur jackets are rich and beautiful presents. Those who can afford such should make assurance doubly sure by dealing with the most reliable furrier, and also should be willing to spend enough to be certain of getting the very best and a jacket that will give years of perfect satisfaction.—W. T. Fairweather & Co., Toronto, Can.

The queen of fur garments—sealskin coats. Beautiful sealskin! Queen of furs! The fur that always holds fashion's allegiance steadfast. What other fur is so beautiful, so soft and luxurious, so rich in color? This store possesses unsurpassed facilities for making these superb garments—each a gem. Our own buyer personally selects the skin. There are few factories, in this or any other country better equipped for the making of fashionable furs. Each garment is perfection, both in workmanship, style and finish—and of matchless value. Look over our stock before buying.—Petkovits Fur Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Our fur department has been greatly enlarged this season. We employ more furriers, devote more space for salesroom, show a larger variety of skins and, withal, are prepared to execute orders in an entirely satisfactory way. We would suggest the desirability of having you give us your special orders for work as early as possible. Then you'll be ready when cold weather comes. We do fur repairing work of all kinds.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

We point with more than ordinary satisfaction to our fur exhibit. We have enlarged the department in order to give more prominence to the showing. All the approved ideas are represented in fur lined auto and touring coats.—Dayton's, Minneapolis, Minn.

An unrivaled display of the season's richest creations. Literally filled to overflowing are our showrooms—furs are fairly toppling over each other, and almost priceless possessions in rare and carefully selected furs and garments are here to please every patron and meet their requirements—from all the fur-bearing animals of the earth, we show the best furs—which are made in our own establishment and finished in the most fashionable and painstaking manner, under our personal supervision, from the best selected skins only. We are recognized throughout the Empire state as not only the largest dealers in furs, but from our four stores we distribute a greater quantity, at lower prices, than any half dozen fur houses combined. We have manufactured, especially for Christmas, some charming novelties in small furs very much out of the ordinary and will be pleased to have you come and see them as it is hard to describe their beauty.—Meng & Shafer, Rochester, N. Y.

In buying furs it is the poorest of poor economy to purchase an article because it is cheap. Some of our furs are low priced but we don't sell cheap furs—all are well made and reliable. Your seal, Persian lamb or otter garment will give you much greater satisfaction and comfort if you know the Albrecht label is on the lining.—E. Albrecht & Son, Minneapolis, Minn.

Ladies who are particular about the quality of material they want in furs are invited to visit our store and manufactory. We have had a quarter century experience in fur garment making and guarantee the material, workmanship and fit of our goods.—Schlampp & Reinecke, Minneapolis, Minn.

Last days of great fur sale. The greatest fur sale in our history will end Friday night. Hundreds of shrewd buyers have taken advantage of the great reductions, have you? And as each one told their friends of the remarkable money-saving opportunities here, the sale has grown by leaps and bounds. Still ample assortments to finish out the sale, however. Remember that every piece of fur in the store is sharply reduced during this sale (excepting Persian Lamb coats, already specially priced). Don't delay, delays mean money to you now. These instances that we cite are representative of many more as fine.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Fur repairs at summer rates. To keep our operators employed during the dull summer months we will make alterations and repairs on fur garments at unusually low prices. Careful estimates cheerfully furnished and satisfactory results guaranteed. Where extensive repairs or alterations are made, we will store the garments until needed in our model, cold, dry-air storage plant, including renovating by vacuum cleaning system, without further charge. Free delivery from and to any address in Greater New York.—Balch-Price & Co., Brooklyn.

Brilliant and authoritative display of the new furs. Visit the fur store tomorrow and you will find the new furs out on parade—the most complete and splendid showing of women's furs yet made in Brooklyn. There is style-beauty worth studying. The most successful ideas of the world's most famous furriers are a part of the display. The richness and beauty of the furs themselves—aside from the styles of the garment in which they are used—are sufficient to attract wide interest. And the prices are splendidly fair—as low as or lower than usual prices in other places for furs much less carefully selected. The Loeser pre-eminence in furs has never been more positively demonstrated than it is this season. Note the beauty of the workmanship with which these garments are fashioned. If you have leisure, make comparisons with the fine furs to be found in the most exclusive shops. This is a collection of which we feel that Brooklyn has cause to be proud—and back of every piece is the Loeser guarantee.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Back in the forties this store began selling furs. And it has kept bravely apace of the times in fur selling up to this hour. During this long period it has learned much that benefits you—our public—in fur buying, selling. And how we have prepared for this season's fur business. Prepared more liberally than ever, for two very good reasons—the rapidly growing general business of the store, and a half-doubled-up territory over the store space of a year ago.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Monday's clearance prices in women's beautiful furs. The Eaton fur factory has made its mark in the fashioning of stylish furs for both men's and women's wear—and it's a high one. Furs could not be better made. Styles couldn't be more authoritative, and a greater variety of exclusive style-creations would be hard to find even in Paris and London. Now that these women's beautiful furs are subjected to clearance prices in the first half of winter, it's an occasion that should interest every woman in the city.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

It never rains but it pours.—We believed the climax had been reached in fur value giving in the last few weeks by the phenomenal sales that have taken place here, wherein more furs were sold by us than ever before in our history—which means of course, another record business for Brooklyn. One of the leading furriers of Manhattan, however, attracted by the success of our recent sale, made us an offer of his stock at a starting price, for quick clearance and immediate cash. The offer was accepted. Every fashionable fur is represented in the sale—natural Russian sables, Hudson Bay sables, ermine, chinchilla, natural mink, blue and black lynx, Baum marten, Persian lamb, white fox, squirrel, etc., etc. The stock has been carefully selected and every piece is high grade—no fur is sold here at any price that has not passed a rigid test. The furs in this sale cannot be returned for credit, but may be exchanged for other furs.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hundreds of Brooklyn people are buying furs at half price. No finer stock of furs than these could be shown at full prices anywhere. In few other places are these stocks as fine in style, in quality of fur and in beauty of workmanship. The maker is famous all over the country for his superb products. But he is off for Europe now—to the skin markets of the world to make next season's purchases. And he was glad to close out the balance of his stock—even for half price—to take along the cash to pay for what he buys.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Do you know that the Abraham & Straus fur store is famous throughout the country as one of the safest, best and most notable on this continent? Do you know that people come from many miles around to see our first showing, to note styles and to buy with the sense of security born of experience? Do you know that we are the first to adopt the very latest scientific methods for caring for furs, regardless of cost? If you do not know these things you do not know the Abraham & Straus fur store. More care is necessary in the selection of furs than in Oriental rugs—and Oriental rugs and horses are said to be the hardest things in the world to buy—unless you have implicit confidence in the seller (not mere confidence in his honesty, for no merchant of any sense is so foolish as to be dishonest these days), but in his knowledge of the fur business. That is the confidence we have worked to deserve—and we have it as no other store hereabouts has. We are proud of the furs that leave this store as we are proud of our reputation. Every piece is an evidence of our experience as well as liberality in selling methods.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Moths in furs. You can allow beautiful furs to be ruined in a very short time by neglecting to store them carefully. Send them to us—we'll beat and clean and store them with a guarantee against moths, damp or fire. Now is the right time to have repairs done at summer rates. Special rates on lots valued at $1,000 or over. Telephone 1096.—The Blue Store, Winnipeg, Can.

Highest grade of fine furs made into the latest and most fashionable shapes are here now at prices which make purchasing an investment that will prove very profitable, for remember it is quality as well as price that makes the true bargain.—Wise, Smith & Co., Hartford.

The closer to inventory the richer the offerings. For example, our generous reductions on furs. Reflect that it means more to buy Mills' valuable furs under price than if they were less notable in quality and style. Each department proffers something more enticing in the way of savings than you found here yesterday—the general trend of reductions being indicated by the few we note here, to stimulate your interest. As “deeds are better things than words are”—we are coining energy into action, making a store full of such special prices on needed merchandise, as are rarely known at this season. Prove this by investigation Wednesday.—The Mills Dry Goods Co., Topeka, Kan.

Storage of furs should be attended to now, otherwise valuable furs may be seriously injured by moths before you are aware of their presence. We have every facility in our new building for the proper care and storage of furs, which we insure against all loss or injury. Upon request furs will be called for. Parties living out of town can safely send their furs to us by express. We suggest that customers having in mind the repairing or alteration of their furs have the work done during the spring and summer months, so that they may be ready when needed in the autumn.—C. C. Shayne & Co., New York City.

A mammoth fur sale, unique in its origin and sequel. The origin of this remarkable distribution of fine furs is bound up in a combination of circumstances that is as beneficial to our customers as to ourselves. We told you how Sol Ehrlich, the Persian Lamb King, of 56 East Thirteenth St., New York, and Shulang, Wiener & Co., 113 University Place, New York, sold us the greater part of their stocks, at prices that enable us to turn them over to you at about half their real value. The sequel to the narrative is the new highwater mark we shall establish in the selling of furs, and the countless number of new friends we are bound to make with such mighty values as we offer in this sale.—Blum Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Give furs—of reliable quality. Furs are delightfully opportune gifts—seasonable, fashionable, beautiful. Every woman loves furs. Don't you know one whose bright eyes would sparkle with pleasure at sight of a neckpiece, muff or set of rich sable, mink, ermine, chinchilla? The less expensive furs are beautiful, too. But go to the right store. Our splendid stocks afford opportunity for most discriminating selection—a variety probably not approached and values not equaled elsewhere.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Furs stored. We make a specialty of storing and insuring furs for the season, placing them in a fire-, moth- and burglar-proof vault. Special prices made on alterations and repairs.—Van Dyke Fur Company, Kansas City, Mo.

Fur jackets and blouses in styles that fashion-wise women like best. Contrary to reports of the scarcity of furs, we are showing the most complete stock of fur jackets and blouses ever assembled here. Ours is a stock that fashion-wise women may depend upon with full confidence. The garments are made from carefully selected skins—designed and cut on the latest lines—and lined throughout with guaranteed satins. The assortment is rich in its variety of both plain fur garments and those with collar, revers and cuffs of contrasting fur.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Rich furs for gifts. A magnificent holiday display of ties, muffs, scarfs, coats, and fur-lined garments. Never was a woman who didn't appreciate a gift of furs at Christmas. And here is a splendid assortment from which to make your selection. Furs that are of the highest quality—the most approved styles—furs that were selected by an expert. We go direct to the great fur centers of the world. Do away with all middlemen's charges—as a result, we are enabled to offer prices like these.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Furs, deep-toned, luxuriously rich and soft, will add to the charm of the happy faces of hundreds of fortunate folk after Santa Claus has come and gone. And, best of all, the comfort and becomingness of a scarf or coat or muff does not depend solely on the price that has been paid. There's no more greatly appreciated gift—few that are half as practical—and you'll find much of pleasure in choosing from this wonderful showing—or in just looking at them.—The Stone, Fisher Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Grand values in Christmas gift furs. Furs for gifts and this cold weather. Exceptional values that well merit your investigation. These combined with the dependable qualities of all Right House furs are the magnets that are drawing throngs to our fur section daily. Tomorrow and following days we make a special showing of many specially priced small fur pieces for Christmas presents. The savings are considerable.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Christmas furs—some rare values. There are striking price inducements for your immediate investigation of our splendidly large and complete assortment of reliable furs. Furs make very acceptable Christmas gifts—providing you buy them at a dependable store where quality and style can be relied on. The right house is famed for the excellence of its furs. These present timely savings.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Real furs for Christmas. We show a collection of real furs that we are proud of. There are lots of fur displays all about, but few collections of selected real furs. Here you will see a grand assortment of mink, fox, 'possum, sable and other higher class furs. The handsomest present you can give. Prices exceptionally low. The best fur values you can find South. Single pieces—neck pieces or muffs—or complete sets.—The James L. Tapp Co., Columbia.

Beautiful novelties, boas, stoles and scarfs for Christmas gifts. We have made unusual preparations for the Christmas season, providing in abundance the most desirable styles and colorings originated in Paris, Japan and England. These with the great number of styles of American manufacturers combine in by far the widest range of exclusive and desirable styles ever shown in Chicago.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago.

Fine furs renovated and restored. Furs stored with us are cleaned and renovated without extra charge, kept in a natural, arctic temperature and returned in better condition than when received. Our modern, cold, dry air storage plant is the only one in Greater New York equipped with vacuum cleaning system. Proper summer treatment of furs is very necessary to preserve their life and luster, and vacuum cleaning is one method that entirely frees the furs from every particle of dirt, dust, insects and moth eggs. Write or phone, and wagon will call for your furs to any address in greater New York.—Balch-Price & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We want to repair or remodel your furs or make you one to order or sell you a fine spring neckpiece at a great bargain. Try us for any kind of a glove—we have just what you want. Ladies' and gents' fine dress and street gloves, railroad gloves, work gloves—a specialty in auto gloves. Bring your fur coat and have it repaired now.—Baraboo Fur Store, Baraboo, Wis.

Fox is one of the most beautiful of fluffy furs, and we present several extraordinary values that will be impossible to duplicate later in the season.—Bedell, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Novelty fur pieces greatly reduced. Unusual price-inducements are presented in women's novelty furs to-morrow. The superb quality of Eaton furs, the rich skins, beautiful workmanship and lovely finish, add an even greater significance to the liberal price-reductions quoted. Money was never brought to a better market. Novelty styles distinctive and exclusive are largely represented.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Advance sale of furs.—It is with great enthusiasm we announce our advance sale of furs. A year ago it was but an experiment with us, having nothing but an extreme confidence in the goods we offered, and backing up our faith by the most liberal proposition ever made by a retailer. We reserved any fur piece or garment on payment of a small deposit, the balance to be paid when the fur was wanted or in small amounts, with the understanding that any money paid, as well as the deposit, would be refunded without question, if, for any reason whatever, it was preferred. Not one in a hundred took advantage of our offer—they were glad to have their furs when the wearing time came around, many having paid for them in small amounts, which they hardly missed. Dependability plays an important part in fur buying, as in many instances only the expert can tell the real from the imitation. We sell furs for what they are, and you are absolutely guarded against mistakes by a repetition of our very liberal policy of a year ago, of refunding not only money which has been paid on a fur, but the deposit as well.—The David Straus Co., Newark, N. J.

Although we disposed of an enormous quantity of furs during our January clearing sale, a number of very desirable sets and separate pieces still remain. With stock-taking time upon us it is imperative that these furs be converted into cash with the least possible delay, and we have consequently marked them at reductions that will insure speedy clearance. Everything in stock is included, and remember every piece carries the "Stinemetz" guarantee of absolutely reliable quality.—B. H. Stinemetz & Son Co., Washington, D. C.

Nothing is so warm and comfortable as fur when the weather is stinging cold. This last week people with fur coats have enjoyed and appreciated their snug warmth. Not always are they expensive, and we have a line of near seal coats at present within reach of the most modest pocketbook. The quality is very fine, the linings, fancy brocades or Skinner satin guaranteed to wear satisfactorily for two seasons. All sizes, two prices.—The D. M. Read Co., South Norwalk.

Every muff mentioned is in the new flat shape and as thoroughly made as a muff can be. In most kinds we've plenty, but in others we've only one or two—don't blame us if you come too late.—Bancroft, Springfield, Ohio.

Furs advancing in price. Fur bearing animals live in the wilderness of the world. As civilization moves its outposts these animals are exterminated. Natural conditions govern the fur market and every season sees an advance in price. No fur dealer can approximate the future price of furs. Every dealer knows that the price tendency is upward. Gordon furs for the season of 1905-6 are now ready. The prices are as low as is consistent with the prices at which the skins were bought months ago. By the time the fur wearing season has come around skins will have advanced materially in price and the manufactured article will advance in price accordingly. If you want the best fur or fur-lined coats, muffs or neckwear that money can buy anywhere, buy Gordon furs now. They will be kept subject to your orders for future delivery and you will have the advantage of making your selection from a complete stock at a great saving.—Gordon & Ferguson, St. Paul.

Do not forget that our assortment of furs is always complete, and that you cannot find elsewhere the choice of fine furs that we offer you. The quality of our furs is from 30 per cent. to 40 per cent. superior value to all the furs that they offer you in any other house. We go to the largest markets in the world and choose the cream of the furs at prices extremely low. It is all to your advantage to come and visit us.—Chas. Desjardins & Co., Montreal, Can.

Profit no longer the object, the paramount thought being to clear the shelves absolutely in anticipation of an entirely new stock next season. Everything marked way below cost, and marked in plain figures. Even if you know nothing of fur you will appreciate these extraordinary values.—Roberts, Springfield.

The reductions throughout our fur stock, exemplified in the following quotations, would be regarded as inducement enough at the very end of winter to buy for the following season—in mid-winter their importance is still more pronounced. The unimpeachable quality of the furs and the range of selection are other considerations enhancing the worth of these great reduction offerings.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

There is always a comforting sense of satisfaction and security in buying furs at Eaton's. Where so much has to be taken for granted—as is the case when you buy furs—it naturally suggests the advisability of making your purchase at a firm like this—for, far above profit, we value our reputation for making none but the highest class of fur garments.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

A fur purchase comes once in a lifetime to most folks, and that very fact makes quality the chief factor in buying—cheapness as you understand it can have no part or companionship with quality as we understand it—or as you demand it—therefore we emphasize quality—we guarantee it, whether you buy a jacket, a fur-lined garment, a scarf or a muff—and our styles are exclusive styles.—J. W. T. Fairweather & Co., Toronto, Can.

Have you any intention of getting a Persian Lamb Jacket? We offer you a unique choice. We can say that we have the cream of Persian lamb skins; we have no second-grade quality. You may select your own skins from the largest assortment of high-grade quality Persian lamb skins. Our Persian lamb skins are selected one year ahead, specially for us, at the largest markets in Russia by our own experienced buyer. We are the only house in America that has this advantage, and you may benefit by it if you come and buy your Persian lamb from us.—Chas. Dejardins & Cie, Montreal, Can.

Our entire stock of furs is offered at this reduction, and in this stock you will find all the latest effects representing every part of the world. We can buy furs cheaper than any other store because we buy them through our Paris office. We don't pay the importer his profit. You look at an article—you decide to take it—the price you pay will be but two-thirds of that which is on the ticket. Furs bought in this sale will be held until you are ready for them.—Gimbel Bros, Milwaukee, Wis.

We didn't wait for the whisper of the winter fashion world to develop into a lusty shout. 'Way back in May we informed one of our foreign houses to look out for a good lot of ermines, and when they sent word that they had found what we wanted we cabled the word "buy" just as soon as ever we could. Then we went to the best Parisian fur designers for the styles and had these ermines made up in the coming modes during the slack season.—Bloomingdale's, New York, N. Y.

Not a bit too early to talk furs. The news ones are here—big shipment—the result of a heavy contract made by our buyers last June to keep a Detroit fur house going during the dull season. The manufacturers were glad to contract for cost of furs and labor without any profit. We in turn are glad to offer the finished furs to you at a slight advance. Beautiful garments they make—and an almost endless variety of styles—from the small 24-inch scarf to the large, handsome eight-foot boa in various skins and hues.—O. M. Co., Portland, Ore.

With pride we announce that in this, the greatest of fur sections, we are showing the most comprehensive display of furs ever attempted. Nothing has been omitted; everything, from the cheapest dependable to the best obtainable, is represented, and the opportunities to save money are altogether unprecedented.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

The famous "Goosebone" weather prophet (who claims not to have missed the mark in the last sixty-five years), has given out the following prediction: "Fill your coal bins and do it quickly, for we are going to have a long, severe winter." Now, he might properly have added to the above—"Do not lose any time in stocking up with warm furs, coats and jackets—if you wish to be prepared when the first biting day arrives." Now, while stocks are fresh and new is certainly the best time to arm yourself for the coming winter.—Halpert & Jacobs, Binghamton.

Starting the fur season with remarkable values that will leave a lasting impression throughout the year. There is an intrinsic worth to every piece of fur we sell—a superior quality that insures lasting satisfaction—and when you consider that these unprecedented low prices are quoted on high grade furs you will appreciate this even more.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

The extremely effective designs being introduced in our display of the smaller furs are sure to give them a prominent place in the most admired toilettes. The varieties of furs and of styles are sufficient to afford everyone the best selection of the desired piece.—Marshall, Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

We are ready this morning to accept such concessions on fine fur wraps as would ordinarily be expected at the end of the season; but we wish to reduce our stock earlier than usual, and we give these remarkable advantages when the garments can be of almost full season's service to the purchasers.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

This entire stock of furs is made in this fall's latest styles, all having been manufactured during the month of October just past; in attractiveness, individuality and exclusiveness of fashion these furs reach the highest standard of excellence. In the character of the goods and the values, we are confident that we have surpassed all previous efforts in this line.—Wm. Barr Dry Goods Co., St. Louis, Mo.

There are numerous advantages to be derived from purchasing furs at this time, particularly because the prices are at their very lowest point. There is another point, and that is style exclusiveness—the ability to select from stocks that are in the very fullness of their beautiful entirety.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

One can hardly believe that these furs aren't the regular mink sets costing $250. They're the perfect counterpart of them as far as style and rich appearance are concerned, and no one but an expert on very studied examination would know the difference.—Bloomingtondale's, New York, N. Y.

The skins themselves are actually worth in to-day's market the prices we ask for these beautifully fashioned fur garments. The coats are entirely new, some of them fresh Paris models and many of them from our own famous workrooms, where the very highest standard of workmanship has been established beyond question. Many of the jackets have been completed within a week. It is a sale so far surpassing all others as to be in a class by itself. Owing to limited quantities we cannot send any of these garments on approval.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Furs are going up; skins have already advanced. But in spite of that fact we are clearing our fur stock at very unusual concessions.

Furs are going to be unusually good. With the long, graceful coats, round boas, and pillow muffs, will seem a very luxurious and necessary finish. But it's the quality that is going to count. Sables—the royal Russian sables—are always first, and after them, every fur that ever was worn will be good. Blended squirrel, sable-fox, chinchilla, mink and black marten; and new furs for special occasions, such as blended squirrel made into a sumptuous long coat, meant to wear in an automobile; and a cap to match.—Blum Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Never again are you likely to have an opportunity like this to purchase high-class furs at almost one-half their value. Our European broker, always on the lookout for rich furs, a short time ago secured a very fine lot of Royal Ermine and Baum Marten skins considerably under their real value. And whenever we secure any good things under price we give our patrons the benefit of it. These skins we have had made up on the premises into neck pieces and muffs in the new styles, and offer them at extraordinarily low prices.—Weinberg, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Excellence in the manufacturing of fur garments can be attained only by years of experience—to select the best pelts; to prepare them for the cutters and to make them into completed garments, requires a higher degree of skill than in any other manufacturing.—The Plymouth Clothing House, Minneapolis.

Now is the time to have your fine furs repaired or remodeled. To keep our expert furriers busy we are making great price concessions in our repair department. You can also save 30 per cent. by selecting your new furs now and having them laid aside until wanted.—Saks Fur Co., Washington, D. C.

These coats are made of fine selected Leipsic-dyed Persian lamb, in medium of large silky curl, in double breasted and reefer styles, in plain tailored effects or trimmed with mink, chinchilla or baum marten—with large new puff sleeves and latest style collar—also in blouse style. These garments are all lined with the best quality guaranteed silk or satin.—Bloomingtondale's, New York, N. Y.

The phenomenal success of this sale, a success unmatched in history, is due to the very high class of the fur garments offered, and the amazingly low prices. If you want fine furs this is your chance, but don't delay, for the stock is melting like snow before a summer's sun.—Ehrich Bros., New York, N. Y.

Magnificent furs—the best of their kinds—you save on furs as worth while the saving as on precious stones; furs of "first water"—not "off color" or "chips." There's no saving on cheap furs. Cheap furs, made up of tiny pieces, with fall-apart sewing and rub-off dye, are worthless.—S. L. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Leipsic dyed Persian lamb furs are the finest in the world and the only grade used by me. My patrons demand the best and good judgment recommends them for beauty and wearing qualities.—Chas. H. Mueller, Saginaw, Mich.

The simplest way to be sure that your furs and fine garments will be absolutely safe from moths or other damage during the summer, is to put them in our cold dry air storage plant.

It is located in an absolutely fire-proof building, the best in Brooklyn for the purpose. It is the best and most scientific system. The cost is insignificant.

Many of our patrons are leaving their furs now to be repaired or remodeled. The styles for next season are settled and our experts can do the work unhurriedly and carefully now, for very modest cost.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Cold storage for furs.—The simplest, safest and most economical way to be sure that your furs and fine garments are cared for during the summer months is to send them to our cold dry air storage plant. It is an absolutely fireproof building and devoted exclusively to the storage of furs and other garments. The same careful and trustworthy service that characterizes every branch of this business is assured here also. The cost is insignificant.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you know furs, you can tell at a glance what these coats are worth. If you don't, it's time to let some of our fur people, who do know, tell you about them.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

We have never before shown so varied a choice of superb fur garments. The extreme novelties in this season's styles afford a special opportunity to our skilled artists to produce fur apparel, unexcelled in high grade of workmanship, of a character well in accord with our long-established reputation.—F. Booss & Bro., New York.

It takes three skins to make an average size muff; and two to six skins for the prevailing style of neck pieces. Victorines and mantles in proportion. I make a specialty of Russian sables, import them undressed, duty free. They are dressed here better than by any other nation, and manufactured into articles for wear in my own workshop. I do not sell blended or darkened Russian or Hudson Bay sables, nor mink, for the reason that they do not give satisfaction. Ladies complain of a mottled, shabby appearance after being worn a short time. Any article so valuable as sable should be purchased in a good light on a clear day, from nine o'clock in the morning until three in the afternoon.—C. C. Shayne, New York, N. Y.

Every garment, every small piece of fur we sell, is certain to please, for everything about it is just as it should be, including the price.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

We don't play a game of tag with our customers on furs. One price to all and that the lowest. The only tag we play is double tag, and that is with competition. We touch them up a bit and keep them guessing. These prices will set them thinking.—James Paton & Co., Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Christmas furs for young girls.—Nothing will make a girl happier than to find a warm neck fur and a muff among her gifts. But you will not get the right kind in many places—most little furs seem to be babyish or else entirely grown up. We have kept at the makers until this year they are sending us pretty, girlish sets in time for Christmas.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Fondest dreams of rich apparel will be realized in these furs. Furs! The very term savors of winter. Are you prepared to meet the chilling winds? Do not let them catch you unawares. We'll garb you in the richest creations at prices that send competition to the four winds—qualities considered—"thirty-five years selling furs in Jersey City" is our guarantee.—Perlmutter's, Jersey City, N. J.

If it was ever questioned that this was Albany's most popular fur store, this season's constant activity and the superior showing of all classes of furs dispelled all doubt. Nor will it be doubted that we are giving the greatest values now.—The Boston Store, Albany.

The savings that are available in this sale are the result of our constant effort during the less busy months to economize in every way possible—in the purchase of skins as well as in manufacturing.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Persian lamb jackets, mink trimmed—even the stirring offerings here in the past month have never equaled this. Some beautiful mink skins have come to us much below their value, though, and joined with splendid Persian lamb skins they will make beautiful garments.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Furs.—Make your selection while the stock is still complete, for later on it may be impossible to duplicate many of the attractive pieces now on display. If you contemplate having any furs made to order, repaired or remodeled we can give the work at this time attention that is quite impossible when the season is at its height.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Our great annual sale of fine furs affords exceptional inducements for making early purchases. These inducements are not alone in the prevailing very low price schedule, but in the general excellence of the thoroughly complete lines. In addition, large numbers of particularly pleasing new and exclusive styles are being introduced.—Saks, New York.

September fur sale.—Nothing a woman wears is more difficult to buy. Furs admit of as much doctoring as the horse that David Harum bought. In order that you may choose safely, we have our furs chosen by an expert who gets the pick of the world's best skins.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Furs.—Perhaps you are interested to know that we are selling several little things for present use. They're mostly small effects in neckwear. There's a new four-in-hand idea, which is just the thing to keep the throat warm on a cool evening or a cold, rainy day. There are other little things of considerable similar nature for the neck, full of dash and style, all of them, and not one so bulky they couldn't be carried in a hand bag.—The Halle Bros. Co., Cleveland, O.

The September fur sale.—We can sell fur scarfs and coats cheaper this month than in the dead of winter—a fourth cheaper. We could throw the bargains into August just as well, but we await the home-comers.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

The approach of October is a signal to fur jacket wearers. We have, as usual, anticipated the varied needs, and the lines we have gathered combine to make our fur jacket display one of surpassing interest.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

The great September fur sale.—We announced on the first of the month that we would take orders for new garments or do repairing and remodeling during the month of September at much below the charges that will be made for the same work when the regular season opens and our workrooms are overcrowded. The result of this announcement has greatly exceeded our expectations, and yet the offer will hold good during the balance of the month, and we invite all those who are planning to buy garments out of stock, or the placing of orders for special order work, to examine our superb collection of furs and fur garments, which comprehends every desirable style of furs from the costly and luxurious Russian sables to the less expensive but extremely attractive furs used for coats and neckwear, and we know that if you will compare our stocks, the quality of workmanship and our prices with those shown elsewhere, we will be favored with your order.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

The increase of business in our fur department has obliged us to put in an up-to-date manufacturing plant, and those who so desire may make a selection of skins from our choice stock of pelts and have their garments made to order on the premises. Our designer has been in the employ of leading makers of fur wear in London and New York and all the help employed in our factory are experts in their various branches. We guarantee the best workmanship as well as the finest materials.—Flint & Kent, Buffalo, N. Y.

Initial show and sale of fur garments.—There is a system of economy that makes it possible to sell lawns in winter and blankets in summer. Time and again this store has demonstrated in an unmistakable manner the fact that our public are willing to purchase out of season if the savings offered make it worth while, for Seattle is the most prosperous city in the West and nobody needs to hesitate. These prices for furs of the highest quality save one-fourth, and if you recollect that fur bearing animals are getting scarcer every year you can readily believe that compared with the prices that will surely obtain in every retail store these quotations are a third below the actual value. No attempt is made to list the stock, or to give any "work and sale price." It will not be necessary. The garments themselves will bear out the foregoing.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

The furs of autumn, 1903, take on new and fascinating shapes, as unlike those of other years at catskin differs from Alaska seal. The treatment of skins is unique, and brings out the elegance that nature intended.—J. R. Libby, Portland, Me.

Quality is the main thing in furs. A mistake in buying at the wrong store will worry you all through the winter. We know furs better than we know the alphabet.

Experts judge the different furs and only the very best get a showing here. But to make you entirely safe, nothing is considered as finally sold until you are thoroughly satisfied.

Every garment has been made with a thorough knowledge of styles and needs for this season.—J. W. T. Fairweather & Co., Toronto, Can.

Winter furs.—We are sometimes at our wits' end to get clean bills of health and certificates of good character for furs—there's nothing a woman wears more difficult to buy.

But it saves you all trouble and worry to buy at the store that has thoroughly looked after these things before they go on sale, doesn't it?—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Superior showing of rich Russian sable. The habitat of the sable is Russia, a fact which accounts for the luxuriance and silky softness of its hair, frigid climates being conducive to the growth of fine furs. The very choicest of sable is obtained from Northern Russia and Kamchatka—those luxurious products so often tendered as gifts to royalty. Closely following the trend of fashion we foresaw the great craze for rich Russian sable this season and prepared to meet very extensive demands; the present remarkable influx of orders is evidence of our wisdom in so doing.—Man-del Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Facts about furs. If you have any thought of buying furs, the earlier the better in the matter of selection. The number of pelts each season is limited, and the choicest are being constantly culled out. We are in the fur business the year around. The distributing facilities of our great sale give us increased purchasing power. That means better variety—better prices. When you buy a fur garment we are as frank with you as if it were a yard of silk. If you have but a slight knowledge of skins, you can buy with perfect safety here. The store is back of every statement.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Furs—luxury and richness. Secretly or avowedly, women are always delighted when the time comes to don their furs. There's a suggestion of luxury and affluence about the rich, velvety gloss of the sealskin, the soft gray of the chinchilla or the quiet splendor of Astrakhan. And now a new rival comes upon the scene—gray squirrel, much favored by fashion. Have you yearnings for any of these winter luxuries of dress? The Wanamaker fur collection makes possession easy—for there's a fair profit—no fancy, extortionate gain—in the prices at which our furs are marked. And you may safely rely, not only on the furs themselves, as to wearing qualities, but on everything we tell you about them.—Wanamaker's, New York, N. Y.

this winter? Our plan makes it safe, economical and easy. We have thousands of handsome fur pieces and coats in stock, any of which we will reserve on payment of a small deposit—pay the balance in small amounts if you like, or when you want the fur. We return all you have paid, as well as your deposit, if you want it. Could anything be fairer? And, furthermore, we save you about a third on later prices.—The David Straus Co., Newark, N. J.

We have a great variety and assortment of these pretty fur articles so necessary in this present cold weather, and which give to the neck and to the chest the warmth indispensable to the health. These handsome furs represent the latest models in fashion and are made of Mink, Hudson Bay Sable, Stone Marten, Russian Sable, Western Sable, Alaska Sable, Russian Squirrel, Chinchilla, Foxes of all sorts, Lynx in all shades, etc., etc., etc. All those furs are the choicest, guaranteed full skins and of a superior grade and finish.—Chas. Desjardins & Co., Montreal, Can.

This great stock of fine fur wraps has been made so attractive from the customer's every viewpoint that no one can really afford to overlook the numerous unequalled advantages. The surpassing character and individuality of the styles will be readily discernible. Distinctive styles surpassing all our previous efforts.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

This store sets the pace in the selling of furs, not only in Boston, but throughout New England. Nowhere is there another such showing of the new and beautiful styles for winter. Nowhere is there opportunity to buy such fine furs for such small prices.—Shepard Norwell Co., Boston, Mass.

All the new fashions in furs are on parade—not only the exclusive foreign pieces, but our own modifications of them done in the richest furs. There never was a season when the variety for choice was so great—and we never had so many noteworthy values.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Furs from here carry with them a distinct importance. In every branch of the fur business we excel from our splendid display of up-to-date coats and neckwear, made in all the fine furs, to the perfectly designed and faultlessly fitting garments made to order. To insure an early delivery your order should be placed at once.—G. H. Lugsdin & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Our present exhibit is the most magnificent collection of rare furs we have ever displayed. The careful work of the Mandel fur experts is apparent in every detail, from selecting and buying the skins in the world's fur markets to the fashioning of the garments in our own factory. The styles are chosen from the most exquisite European models; and in every way the season's display will more than justify the high repute of the Mandel furs.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Half price sale of rich, staunch furs. Winter's only half over, and other winters will come. Furs need to be staunch, as well as ships—though not as rigidly, harshly so. Fur seams must not open, fur shapes must not change, fur evenness is imperative. All the furs offered in this sale are rich and staunch—and at exactly half the fair prices we asked for similar furs earlier in the season. It will be wise to buy now—one doesn't get furs for a single season. And then, few women who are really thrifty will care to miss a chance to double their money—next fall just such furs will cost twice as much.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

There is a decidedly spring-like atmosphere as this is written and we are almost tempted to say "spring is here." It may be taken for granted that, with the exception of a flurry now and then, winter is gone. Furs will be little needed shortly. This is the time the tiny but exceedingly busy moth bug improves each shining hour. It may be interesting to you to know that the finest, best equipped, most scientifically systematized cold storage plant in the country is situated right here on our premises. Improvements during the winter in the system of receiving and delivering, increased capacity, etc., place the Abraham & Straus plant far in the van. We would be pleased to show it to you. In the meantime a telephone or mail request will bring an expert to your house to relieve you of all trouble of packing, etc.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Furs for fashionable folks.—Not a single piece of any kind did we carry over from last season. No "moth ball" odor in this fur department of ours. Absolutely fresh, new, clean, stylish and beautiful pieces is the only sort that can gain admission here. The gathering, extensive as it is, has entailed much thought and worry and work. Every garment is made from the most carefully selected skins. No seconds are considered when we go out on the fur hunt. You should be just as particular when you go out to buy. It's hard sometimes to tell what kind of a pelt is back of the fur. You have to depend largely upon the veracity of the merchant. You'll hear the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth when we talk to you.—Z L. White & Co., Columbus, O.

Our large stock of seal and Persian coats and other fur wearing apparel was purchased before the importers' advance in price, and to make things interesting we cheerfully forfeit our share of the profit to early buyers of furs. Taking advantage, as we did, of the dull times with furriers to have a quantity made up, we can now give you an opportunity to reap the benefit of low prices and the very finest manufacture.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

In small furs mink is the favorite: Our assortments of mink are very large. Mink scarfs in the popular flat effects, with fur on both sides, enjoy extensive showing. Small neck pieces are being bought freely for early fall wear. We show fine assortments of our own exclusive make. In coats Persian lamb and broadtail are as popular as ever, though of course seal garments remain staple. For dressy fur garments seal has no superior.—Mandel Bros., Chicago.

Furs for women at prices that mark an epoch in value giving. The selling of furs is largely a matter of reliance. Very few people know the actual difference in furs or what the real worth is—with us every piece of fur is sold on its merits, with a guarantee and under its actual name—with us musk rat is musk rat and not "River Mink." Skunk is skunk and not "Alaska Sable," and so on until you really are at a loss to know just what sort of fur you are really wearing.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Completeness is one of the chief merits of our fur section. New ideas are always correctly expressed. The quality of skins and of workmanship are guaranteed by the section's standing and system.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Every piece of fur placed on sale in this section receives the careful, discriminating attention of experts from the selection of the skin to the finishing touches—accordingly absolute confidence can be placed in the quality of the furs, the desirability of the styles, the character of the workmanship, and in another point our always lowest prices.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Two fur items that are worth paying attention to. 1st—Have your old furs repaired and remodeled this month. The prices are lower than during the rush of fall and you have the advantage of having your furs ready to wear when the cold days of winter arrive. 2nd—By making your selection of new furs now you not only effect a considerable money saving but you are assured of more careful attention than you can hope to receive when the fur rush is on. You can safely order a seal skin or Persian lamb jacket now, save a little of the cost, as the styles and stock are complete.—Butterworth, Columbus, Ohio.

No such stock in quality and quantity has ever been offered the public at the very height of the season. This is a bona fide sale, brought about by the backward season. Our stock is the largest and most comprehensive in the city. Every piece offered is of our own manufacture and made on the premises by expert furriers. Our showrooms are the best equipped and best lighted of any in the city, and experienced fur salesmen are in attendance.—S. Lindau & Co., New York, N. Y.

We have a fine collection of fur caps and other warm headgear for young men and boys. They are just the sorts that men and boys will want to buy for themselves, and they suggest excellent Christmas gifts to those who wish to buy for them.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

How to buy a sealskin coat right—where and when. First—and most important of all: Be sure of the reliability of the concern you buy of. Sealskin coats at very low prices are either not Alaska skins (and no other grade has the wearing qualities) or they are made of the big, coarse, haired skins, which are nearly all hair and have but little fur next to the pelt to resist the wear and tear. Second—consider whether the concern is in a position to buy the skins direct at the London sales for cash, thus saving the middleman's profit and supplying you with fresh skins. Third—sealskin garments to be really fine should be made of the baby Alaskan seals (small pups, as they are called). The furrier should have at least two months in which to complete the article ordered and to allow the pelts to return to normal conditions after being stretched and blocked and handled generally. This is called "resting" in the trade and means much to the appearance and wear of the garment. The new models are all in. We will make to your measure, during July and August, sealskin coats of the very best Alaskan skin (small pups), Rice's London dye. Note—A canvas coat will first be made in each instance to show the design and for fitting purposes.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

It requires more than simply workmanship to produce a good fur garment. The experience required to properly select the skins is a matter of very slow growth, and unless one's experience has been very wide, it is well to rely upon a brand of established reputation and in any case this is the safest way.—Lanpher, Skinner & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

So thorough in scope and so high in character is our fur shop that it may in truth be termed a veritable exposition of the new season's furs and fur garments. There are scarfs and muffs in the new models and blouse and long coats of such rich furs as ermine, fox, mink, sable, chinchilla and the new yetta. Our designers are at your service if you prefer a garment made to your measure which will define your own ideas relative to form and character.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

A notable offering of furs.—We're quoting special early season prices on furs—prices that will prove a great incentive to saving buyers who have been taught to appreciate the sterling worth of the Mandel furs.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Our expert fur cutter and fitter has just arrived from the East, and we are prepared to make genuine Alaska seal, Persian lamb, astrakhan, squirrel, beaver, otter or electric seal jackets, capes, boas, scarfs or stoles. We buy all of our skins in Alaska direct from the trappers, thereby saving the commission man's profit, and consequently are in a position to quote lower prices on the manufactured garment than the Eastern markets.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

The reason we are doing such a heavy fur business this season is best explained by the high character of the merchandise and the reasonable prices.—Thompson's, Binghamton, N. Y.

This morning before 8 o'clock the balance of that huge purchase of fine furs will be down from the inspection rooms. Every piece as fresh as a June rose. Many hundreds will find new homes by to-night—and many are the hearts they will gladden.—Blum Bros., Philadelphia.

A great array of smart little neck furs. Graceful pelerines; chic jackets, luxurious coats; stunning automobile coats—the craze of the season. All the precious and semi-precious furs.—P. A. Bergner & Co., Peoria, Ill.

It has ever been the rule of this house not to allow anyone to undersell us, or dispute our supremacy as the leading fur house of Brooklyn. We gather up the best fur pelts in the open markets of the world, and make them upon our own premises; therefore we are in a position to sell as cheap as any house in America. Surely cheaper than any department store.—Weinberg, Brooklyn, N. Y.

This is dry cold air storage, and that means the best. And an expert will tell you that that word dry means a lot to valuable furs. The slightest moisture in the storage chamber is the cause of just so much harm to furs. We have put in the "indirect" system at no little expense, because we insist upon maintaining our supremacy by keeping up to the highest notch of perfection in every detail. Under this system the furs seem to actually take on a new luster in an atmosphere that is not only frigid, but devoid of frost or "fog."

Send everything you have for which the rapacious moth has a liking. You will be relieved of further worry, as the cost is not worth thinking about.

There are price advantages to you now, if your furs need renovating. The new models are here for fall. If furs are remodeled, there is no charge for storage—if simply repaired, the storage charge stands.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

There's a deal of satisfaction in knowing that your furs are in good hands while you are away—and there's still greater satisfaction in knowing that your furs are being repaired or remodeled at much less than the same work would cost in the busy season—this is an inducement to keep our full force busy during the dull season. Better drop a postal card or call 6100 Main and man will call, and after they have been delivered over to us, we assume full responsibility until they are returned to you in the fall. When furs are entirely remodeled, we store them free of charge during the summer—but if only slight alterations are made, the storage charge stands.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Splendid fur buying time. To buy Eaton furs at reduced figures is the height of good fortune at any time, but to so buy them during the first half of winter is to multiply the saving considerably. Of course the liberal extent of the savings are in no way affected by a depreciating of quality, as the splendid furs were made up in good faith by our own furriers to sell at the regular prices.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

Furs specially priced. Splendid fur-buying days, for these are splendid fur-wearing days—and the coldest weather is all ahead. And furs are an excellent investment for Christmas money. Best of all—these furs are all at special prices. Buy to-morrow, get thoroughly reliable, altogether desirable furs, and save much on their cost.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Furs speak of advancing winter. As noted in yesterday's papers, on one of the special sales counters, main floor, there is an assortment of fur neck pieces which includes almost everything in furs which we carry. These are all reduced in price, the saving to you averaging from 25 to 40 per cent. These facts and figures which we print are merely illustrative of a great many other pieces.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

GENERAL INTRODUCTIONS

Growth is the watchword of the Hecht stores. It has been the policy from the beginning to ever and always live up to the ideal of "greatest service to the greatest number." And it is in following out these lines that we to-morrow morning inaugurate the new department devoted to canned goods and fancy groceries. The special prices we have made for the opening day have never had a parallel. We wish to make everyone in Washington acquainted with this department, promising the saving of many dollars—and not only that, but placing before them another evidence of the liberality that has made this business so great—whether your purchases are made in this new department or in any other of the half hundred departments, you can say "charge it," and feel that your convenience will be consulted in paying.—Hecht's, Washington, D. C.

Autumn's newest novelties are here, many of them—more than at any other three Portland stores—and many more are coming in daily. Too early for formal openings! but none too soon to see myriads of the world's newest things spread out over four vast floors. The liberal early buying indicates that thousands not only prefer to choose from early offerings, but know well where come they must for the choicest of the season's novelties. We are splendidly ready for the early buyer who prefers to come in and "shop 'round" before the formalities of the grand openings next week. Europe and America—yes, and parts of Asia—have contributed their best products, and our facilities for buying and distributing vast quantities of worthy merchandise insure the patrons of this store the advantage of exclusiveness, as well as the benefit of low prices.—Olds, Wortman & King, Portland, Ore.

We do all the planning and scheming for you—we've solved all little problems that stand between you and the best for the least. That's why we can say to you, come and buy merchandise here of unquestionable merit as low as, if not lower than you can buy goods elsewhere where the guarantee of perfect satisfaction is lacking. We want you to feel at all times that no sale is considered consummated here until you are thoroughly satisfied.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

It will certainly be of great profit to you to study the buying advantages this advertisement offers, because we can safely say—and the items prove it—that at no store have been gathered such a wonderful array of bargains for your immediate wants.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

The best advertising we have is the kindly recommendation of our friends. One tells another and we witness every day the power of that influence. You never read an advertisement of poor clothing—strange, too, for there's more poor than good. Ours is as good as our best energies, ability, knowledge and experience can get.—Hall & Herrick, Springfield, Ill.

Keep in mind the facts that we do not admit to our stocks anything that we would not recommend. That our prices are the lowest that could possibly be quoted compatible with a standard of merchandise worthy of our guarantee. That if you buy merchandise here and find it unsatisfactory when you get home you may return it at once in salable condition along with duplicate check and receive your money back. Could anything be more fair than that?—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City.

We told you so! The rush to get ready for the hot weather commenced yesterday, and no mistake. We engaged all the extra help we could gather, and still the throng pressed in. Of course the character of the goods and small prices have something to do with the rush, but spring hung her banners in the sky and the response was instant. This is a glad world if you will only get in step. The lilacs in their dainty purple are out and the laughing dandelions say "Cheer up! Cheer up!" This is the merchandising mood of this store, and you will find it as profitable to trade here as it is pleasant.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn.

With the opening of the new spring season we wish to thank you for your remarkably generous patronage in the past, and to invite you to inspect our splendid new stock, whether you buy or not. We are glad to welcome you, and feel proud that through so many years you have each season taken our word on the value of our merchandise. Trust us once more. Our word is as good as our bond.—Edward Wren, Springfield, O.

Planning the home is an interesting as well as a responsible task. Your responsibility will be considerably lessened if you invite the great furniture, rug and carpet store of Matheis to take part in your deliberations. Our years of experience in fitting out thousands of homes makes our advice of considerable worth to those who are just beginning their married life. What may seem a great obstacle to you from the standpoint of expenditure may be easily removed by Matheis. Our credit system does away with financial worry, it has made possible the furnishing of thousands of homes. Try it.—W. E. Matheis Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Public service. Growing up here through the years and keeping steady pace with the wonderful development of Brooklyn this store has come to be a quasi-public institution. "To have what people want when they want it and at fair prices"—that might well be nailed up as a motto over the door. That principle is a part of the mental make-up of every member of the great organization here—or else the one who lacks it is in the wrong place and will soon gravitate somewhere else. "What the people want" is not alone new styles, but sound, reliable qualities; not alone offering of odd lots at special prices, but the certainty of finding the right size and style and color without any waiting. To make the store measure up to these requirements at all times—even when there is a market scarcity of the right sort of merchandise—is the end to which we devote ourselves.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

For the sake of your pocketbook be here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. During the middle of the week this store is more than ever the center of shopping interest. That's because we have made Wednesday, Thursday and Friday red-letter days for savers. For these days this week we have prepared a greater and better list of bargains than ever. The following separate lists of specials for each day hardly needs comment. They speak for themselves of values extraordinary. Just bear in mind in reading them that in no instance has cost to you been lessened at expense of quality.—M. S. Smith & Co., So. Norwalk, Conn.

We continue this week some of the exceptional offerings that created such a stir last week—big purchases from several leading New York houses, which are considerably augmented this week by other notably large and fine lots of tailored suits, skirts and coats, from some of the best designers and makers in this country. The unusual trade conditions this spring have resulted in large overstocks on the part of manufacturers. Taking advantage of these conditions we have, with our enormous outlet and ready cash, secured exceptional price concessions on the very latest style garments—garments of quality and elegance, which we are offering now at prices usually asked for much inferior grades. We mention just a few to show the trend of savings.—Lit Bros., Trenton, N. J.

Grasp this opportunity. You can't afford to neglect the money-saving opportunities we are able to offer each Friday and Saturday. The saving is not at the expense of quality or any other essential of high-class drug store goods. We are simply able to do business on a smaller margin than are most druggists. The magnitude of our business warrants it. Note the following bargains for this Friday and Saturday. Remember this is a chance you seldom get.—The Gordon-Mitchell Drug Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Character proclaims the man—and the store. As in a man, so in a store—worth depends upon character. Growth is the sign manual of health. The essence of commercial health is fair dealing. The principles upon which this store has been reared and nourished, which have given it its giant stature and sound constitution, are straightforward dealing, fairest prices, best goods, and a civil and obliging store service, backed by alert enterprise and intelligent direction and management.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

The promptness with which you have accepted the advertised values in my great sale is extremely gratifying and the firm conviction that in to-day's store news there are even more effective offerings pleases me immeasurably. Judge the store by the satisfaction it gives and the intrinsic worth of the values. To be truly helpful the values must be of a superior order of merit—they must impress you so strongly that closer relations will be established between this store and those that come to buy.—Herington, Los Angeles, Cal.

A great many visitors to Chicago make it an especial point to see this store, even if they are in the city but a day or two. They all declare it is among the most interesting "sights" to be seen in the city. Patrons having friends visiting them will find it pleasant for their guests to include a visit to the store as a part of their entertainment. Thousands of out-of-town people are thus shown through this store every month.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Are you original in your taste? Then you will find rich gratification in a selection of wedding presents from our suggestions, which specialize distinctiveness. Or are your ideas conventional? Equally, then, can we please you with that conservatism which comes from our loyalty to artistic truth and the laws of pure beauty. An endless demand at this time for wedding presents brings out our two-fold resourcefulness, and you may profit by it.—Davis & Freeman, Atlanta, Ga.

Furnish your home nicely on the club plan. You may just as well start in housekeeping in your new home in good style as to do it stingily. There is no need of half furnishing homes so long as you can become a member of the Hahne & Co. Household Clubs. Through this club plan you can buy furniture, carpets and draperies just as easily as you now arrange to buy pianos, sewing machines, phonographs, etc. The plan is simple and involves no embarrassing features whatever, and makes it extremely easy for people of ordinary income to buy good furnishings. Select what you wish from our splendid stocks, buy at our regular low prices and avoid the extravagances that many people have been guilty of in trading elsewhere heretofore in order to secure easy terms. Ask about the club plan. Any salesman on the third floor will give you particulars.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

The time of the year is now here when the moving van is in demand. And moving, in most cases, means a new carpet for one room, a new rug for another, or there is an additional room to be furnished up. Moving time also suggests "housecleaning" time; and the thrifty housewife finds many spots which need brightening up; many pieces which need replacing. Let us help you. The largest stock of housefurnishings in the city is here at your disposal; everything which goes to furnish a house is here in endless variety; whether your need is a kitchen chair or a range, a brass bed or a refrigerator, a parlor suit, or new lace curtains or shades, etc. The Standard can fill your needs in every line and in all qualities, for a little cash and a little-at-a-time.—Standard Furn. Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

For the fair girl graduate. We have made extensive plans for our young ladies who are to graduate, and, appreciating the importance of nice costumes, are showing complete assortments of appropriate materials, beautifully made gowns and dresses, dress accessories, shoes and slippers. If you will give us a few minutes of your valuable time we will be pleased to show you a pleasing array, bought especially to help you solve a difficult problem. These handsome gowns and dresses were made especially for us through instructions given our New York representative. They are in the very latest styles appropriate for commencement day exercises; the materials are fine and exactly right; beautifully and artistically trimmed; thirty-two different styles, in which the following descriptions are mere hints.—Louis Einstein & Co., Fresno, Cal.

Our line of furniture, carpets, etc., is by far the largest and most up-to-date in Northern Utah. We believe in quick sales and reasonable profit. We guarantee our prices to be the lowest in the city, and on account of our large business you will always find new goods at our store, no old stock, as our entire line is turned over several times during the year. Six carloads of furniture have arrived this spring, and we desire you to call and look over our goods when you are in the city, whether you buy or not.—Lundstrom Furniture and Carpet Co., Logan, Utah.

Spring fashions blooming in charming profusion at Eaton's. It only needed the first touch of that magic worker, Spring, to bring about a condition in this store for which we had made ample preparation to accommodate. Saturday every department devoted to Fashion and spring wearables was crowded. A tacit acknowledgment and recognition of the style leadership of this store, and which has been won on merit alone. Judging by past achievements in Fashion's domain, expectancy prophesied great things at the Eaton store this spring, and expectancy has not been disappointed. Today this store invites to a display of fashions as distinctive, as exclusive, as irresistibly charming and beautiful as can be seen anywhere. More lavish displays there may be, but none that have been selected with greater discrimination, or in more thorough attune with the tastes of a refined and cultured clientele than this.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

The busiest shopping time of the year is here. The world discovers its most imperative wants in October and November—particularly when the cold snap gets in the air. A great portion of the people of this community bring their wants to us. First, because of the fact that we are so centrally and conveniently located. Second, because our stocks are so complete, broad and satisfying—so exhaustive, and so fairly priced.—Barie's, Saginaw, Mich.

It is our good fortune to be in a position to offer carpets and rugs in certain lines at away below value. The proper styles and fall patterns, too. The goods will surprise you at the prices asked. The materials of which they are woven are worth more than we ask for the finished product.—Buff, Repp Furniture Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Two weeks ago we closed several fortunate deals whereby we came into possession of 200 rolls of wilton velvet, axminster and body brussels carpet. We could easily hold these goods till the fall season opens and sell them at their real value, $1.50 yd., but instead we offer them this week on the same basis as we bought them.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

The Proper Way.—Is to investigate before you make your purchases, that is the way we do and we want you to do the same. In this way you are sure to find the store that really gives value. All lurking around, awaiting the unwary.—Fuller & Cobb, Rockland, Maine.

Put a dollar at interest for a whole year, and it may earn six cents. Study the Hengerer ads and see how wonderful the power of your dollar increases in a single day. Nowhere will it buy as much in quantity and quality as at the Hengerer store. To-day we present seventy-two straight roads to economy—and "economy is wealth."—Wm. Hengerer Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Do not pay too much or too little. Do not spend too much time in bargain hunting. Do not be too anxious to buy something cheap, it may be dear in the end. Patronize reliable merchants. This advice costs nothing but is worth something if followed. Hundreds of people are living up to it by patronizing us. Join the throng and get into line for everything in and out of season in fruits.—J. B. Judson, New Haven, Conn.

With one large aisle full to overflowing with commodious stocks of the season's latest of these goods, surely makes it worthy of a visit from every woman who has a want in this line. The assortments are complete, the range of prices so wide that any allowance can be met, and every piece of material offered is of a dependable character.—Fowler, Dick & Walker, Binghamton, N. Y.

We are very carefully building on the sure foundation of complete satisfaction. In the beginning we tried to make this a necessary store to you and we know that we have succeeded.—We planned to make this a needed store to the wealthy—who sought for the most luxurious apparel—and succeeded. We planned to make this a needed store to those who must of necessity economize—and succeeded. We planned to give you a store which in all its varied stocks, would fill the entire wants of the entire people at all times—and succeeded. In short, we sought to give you the perfect store and we sincerely believe that in less than one short year we have builded so well that we have your entire confidence—and this is the thing we prize most.—The May Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Our fall business, largely exceeding any of corresponding past seasons, demonstrates that the best attractions are good values. That attention we pay to development of our business on a strictly dry goods basis is appreciated is proven by growth that demands addition of new buildings now rapidly approaching completion—68,000 square feet more space—all for dry goods.—Hearn, New York.

Attesting to the determination to reduce the different stocks to normal conditions here are advertised the season's most-wanted goods at prices the equal of which you have never before been offered. The season is a little backward, you know, but the bills for the goods now on the counters and shelves are arriving daily. The tardy change in the weather gives you the opportunity to enjoy the benefit of special prices, which, if the weather were cooler and the goods still more in demand, could not hold forth. The goods must go at practically no profit. 'Tis to your advantage to help move 'em.—Shanahan's, Portland, Ore.

The estimation of popular opinion has been the silent salesman of many branded commodities. Reputation, like Rome, cannot be built in a day; but unless maintained may be lost in an hour. Skill and experience, more than money, are the essentials. Merit is the long pole that reaches the persimmon. To acquire merit one must produce something better than the present best. That is the cardinal principle of our business.—The Globe Clothing Co., Atlanta, Ga.

It is to be a day of golden opportunities for those folk who look to save on summer merchandise. Summer is slipping away, and fall stocks will soon be clamoring for room. We don't propose to have any summery goods here, to get in the way of what's to come. So to-morrow we bring out little lots from every stock—all marked at prices decidedly tempting. You can choose from them up to the time store closes for the Saturday half holiday.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

Never has the basement store looked better. Never before has it been so excellently stocked. Everything that can be classified within its sphere of action is on sale, and at prices that meet with the public's heartiest approval. At all times of the year moderate prices rule throughout the Basement Store's Stocks, but during these September Sales we reduce prices and they touch the lowest possible level. Everything is of the best quality. The Basement Store never sells "seconds." If you have the slightest fault to find with anything you have simply to return it. Satisfaction is always promptly assured when you buy at the Siegel Cooper Store.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

Visiting merchants are invited to Gimbel's. Philadelphia is the greatest retailing city in America—by travelers quite generally conceded to be a better shopping city than Paris. Philadelphia has the largest retail business in America. Philadelphia has the Largest Retail Store in the whole world—Gimbel's. Over a million feet of floor space—actual flooring, not skylight openings. Philadelphia methods of retailing are the best in the world. Least red tape; most courteous treatment of customers; no toadying; straight man-to-man business. It is all worth while studying. We'll give any help you ask. Make the Gimbel Store your club room.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

In these days of exaggerated advertising and misrepresentation it will be interesting to know that there is at least one furniture and carpet house whose announcements are wholly sincere and not intended as "catchpenny" affairs, the only purposes of which is to drag people into the store to sell them "something else." Contrary to custom, we wish to sell the article we advertise, and we make the same offers in the public press that we do to customers in person. Our great desire is to operate this store on such genuinely frank principles that the people may learn to turn to it with confidence.—Spear & Co., New York, N. Y.

As the season progresses small lots accumulate. These we desire to dispose of at once. To further this desire we have taken thought of neither profit nor cost and placed extraordinarily low prices on these various items. Every department is involved. — Saks & Co., Washington, D. C.

We can't begin to tell you the many attractive features of this great offering, but if you will come in and see the suits themselves we know you will appreciate the true bargain import of this announcement.—The May Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

The space problem is always pressing in advance of a new season! Hence apart altogether from the natural desire to do as much business as possible, each and every department is only too willing at present to make big sacrifices in order to make more room. Hundreds of bargains are therefore displayed for end of the week shopping of which the following may be taken as examples.—The John Murphy Co., Montreal, Can.

This morning the doors to this great business opened up on a scene of matchless beauty and splendor, everything awhirl and astir. Here are two great events in one—our birthday and fair week. The fair alone is enough to make a store do its best; but we have a stronger inducement, it's our birthday. You may expect much and then be surprised at what we'll give you for your money. Come and see how pretty the store looks in its new birthday dress. Come and feast your eyes and purse on the opportunities we offer.—The New Store, Minneapolis, Minn.

Has this year proved to be a record-breaker? We have had many inquiries from all over the country as to how long the sale would last, so many of our customers are at lake and seashore. We are badly broken in many lines, as advertised Sunday and Monday, but if we are favored with out-of-town orders will fill same at sale prices and continue the sale, as below, for one day longer, Thursday only.—William Donaldson & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

We cannot say that we originated the idea of this low-priced furniture sale in mid-season that has meant so much to the workmen, factories and to you, but we have decidedly improved on it. Credit for making it the great event that it is in Brooklyn is due to us. The fact that we sell more than any other house hereabout at these sales is proof of value given. The fact that we have sold far more this year than we ever did before is proof of yearly improvement on our part.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

You will find our prices far lower than you expect to pay, and if you are thinking about furnishing a home you will be surprised to find out how far a few dollars will go at our store. We have arranged our credit system in such an easy and pleasing way no one can not afford to have a cosily furnished home. Young married folks will benefit by taking advantage of our liberal offer.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City, N. J.

"The main chance"—are you always alert and looking for it, seeking to avail of its benefits? In carpets, rugs, matings and floor coverings the main chance is here in a vast number of ways. The same money-saving methods employed in our furniture department are carried out in everything that we sell, hence the savings to carpet and rug buyers are large, generous and real. The stock appeals to refined tastes and the low prices appeal to the purse. Take our word for it; you'll be well repaid to see our offerings before you make a purchase.—Dirksen's, Springfield, Ill.

Side glimpses in a walk through the store. Nothing quite as elegant has been shown in this store as these elegant Paris waists in the show cases on the second floor. They are from Madame Le Roi. And the new pongee coats are well worth a second glance—the latest New York style creations. By all means see the latest arrivals in the suit section—cream serge suits from New York. Creams are very strong in New York at present. Already cloth manufacturers have had their present supplies of cloth exhausted by the popularity of the vogue in cream. There was a burst of color and beauty in the parasol section yesterday—the latest parasol novelties from Paris have arrived. That diamond sunburst in the jewelry case is a beauty. Set with 89 diamonds of fine quality and costs $470.00. A handsome wedding gift for some one.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Think of three things—quality, elegance and money savings — and how naturally the name of this helpful furniture house presents itself to your mind. Then, again, you think of the name when any other stores that sell furniture advertise it—that sets you wondering what our bargains must be. We're glad and proud that you look so to us and like the big store so well. We feel the responsibility in being the leaders in home furnishings and guard your interests jealously. You'll be surprised at the many new things that await your inspection and approval, but more so at the low prices.—Dirksen's, Springfield, Ill.

This big store is in a better position to supply you with desirable goods at the present time than ever before. We made a very complete clearance of our winter stock last spring and were consequently in a fine position to buy heavily of the beautiful new goods offered us for this season.—Wasserman, Kaufman & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

We are building our business steadily

—it grows from day to day. We are doing our work better to-day than ever before, and we expect to do it better still as we go along. Right now, we have reached a point where we feel we have accomplished something. It is our New "Concave" Shoulder. A shoulder that is shaped and modeled by hand with all the care of the master tailorman—a shoulder that is not stuffed out with spongy wadding to bulky exaggerated proportions, but which follows the symmetrical and graceful lines of the modern athlete's shoulder.—Wm. Vogel & Son, New York, N. Y.

The tide of popular patronage flows our way and the pleased enthusiasm of our patrons is the most far-reaching and most profitable of our advertisements. This fact is shown by the many new faces of purchasers that are daily seen in our stores, by the increased volume of our business, and the many kind words of praise and satisfaction we receive from those that have bought here.—Burns & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

This great shopping center is amply ready for preparing Kansas City men, women and children for the Fall Festivities, and also those who live without the city's gates but do their shopping here. Not prepared only with personal wear, but with furnishings to freshen and brighten Kansas City homes that will entertain thousands of visitors during the coming weeks. Eastern fashion centers have contributed an authoritative reflection of the season's correct modes in costumes, fabrics and accessories of toilet and wardrobe down to the minutest details. There is a comprehensive exhibit of dependable merchandise throughout which impressively demonstrates the resources of this establishment and illustrates its commanding position as a distributor of the worthiest merchandise. In anticipation of the throngs of visitors next week, we extend a cordial invitation to all to visit this store at that time.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City.

It is solely upon this basis that we invite public patronage. We give no premiums, no discounts or rebates to any one, but the greatest measure of value ever given in St. Louis is pledged to every patron of this store. We have expended our best efforts in making this a good place to buy clothing. We believe we have succeeded, we know we have. A large and loyal following bears eloquent testimony to this fact. Every aid to convenient and satisfactory trading is provided for you here.—The Model, St. Louis, Mo.

We ask you to make this grand Hamilton store, the largest and brightest in the city, with its immense space for the proper display of new goods, your buying headquarters this fall. We have made every preparation for the heaviest season's trade this immense business ever enjoyed. The best makers and designers of the world have contributed to the stock we have invitingly displayed upon our counters every day now.—John Campbell & Co., Hamilton, Can.

This big store is a composite of all that's good! You've noticed that where a store is good in one thing it falls far short of perfection in other respects. If its prices happen to be low, its stock, nine cases out of ten, is either poor, old or very limited. If its stock is fine and extensive, it usually asks high prices. If it isn't one thing it is the other, and the perfect store—the one combining features the modern store should have—is a rare exception. We may be over enthusiastic about this store in some things, but in claiming that our prices are lowest, our stock largest, our designs best, our quality superlative, we utter only the facts. If there is a perfect store this is certainly one.—Ludwig Bauman & Co., New York, N. Y.

For months we have been preparing for this event, gathering articles for young and old, for use and play, in our endeavor to secure goods for this occasion that would meet with your approval. The goods are all in—have been placed where they can be easily and comfortably seen and examined and now we await your coming. The store with its immense floor space and broad aisles will not be uncomfortable, no matter how many of our friends are here this evening. We want you to come and see the beautiful store. We want you to come and view the magnificent decorations. We want you to come and view the choice and exclusive gift things.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

Almost every one who responds to our ad is amazed at the magnitude of our stock, the newness and brightness of the goods as well as the low prices at which they are being sold.—Whalen Bros., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The stream of buyers who throng the Big Store continuously, demonstrate that you can't keep the people away from an establishment which handles the right kind of merchandise and offers its patrons at all times the best the markets afford at matchless prices. It is well worth your time to read every article mentioned in this ad, and we know every item will be welcome news to purse wise shoppers.—The Beall-Livingston Dry Goods Co., Columbus, Ohio.

So many people are prone to consider a store's advertising as a detailed announcement of everything that the store has planned as "special" for the day. If you consider the Bloomingdale advertising that way you are making a great mistake. Not one tithe of the happenings for any special day is ever printed in our store news, no matter how much space it may occupy—couldn't possibly be!—Bloomingdale's, New York, N. Y.

To the ladies of St. Paul: When in the Golden Rule, if you are not waited on promptly and pleasantly, tell one of the floorwalkers. If our goods do not correspond exactly with our ads, tell us so. If our delivery is not prompt, tell us. If everything is not satisfactory we want to know it. We will appreciate your telling us. We cannot see everything and we know you can aid us. The reason we ask you to tell us if anything is unsatisfactory is that we desire to remedy it. Telling some one else will not help you and it may hurt us. Telling us will enable us to help ourselves and thus help you. We cannot correct a shortcoming until we know of it. We will regard it as a personal favor if you aid us in bettering the Golden Rule by telling us of any shortcomings.—Golden Rule, St. Paul, Minn.

Our eastern connections insure us of being at all times in touch with the evolutions of whimsical "Dame Fashion"—thus the whisperings of the style center of France are quickly breathed into Texas. It seems worth while for us to take this occasion to express to the public our sincere thanks for the hearty support we as a business organization have received since taking hold in your midst. May your patronage always be governed by our merit.—A. F. Hardie, Waco, Texas.

A bargain flurry.—Guarantee, Muncie.

Bargains that mean business.—F. A. Plummer Co., Oshkosh, Wis.

Values that appeal irresistibly.—Dreunen & Co., Birmingham, Ala.

Seasonable wares at reasonable prices.—P. H. Vose & Co., Bangor, Me.

The rarest sort and rarest kind of bargains!—McWhirr's Emporium, Fall River, Mass.

A store that has your confidence doesn't ask you to compare things. It would be like asking you to prove that it tells the truth.—Schipper & Block, Peoria

Notwithstanding that they say a "bushel of mud comes with every diamond," we undertake to give genuine bargains in these days of exaggeration. If our goods are not exactly as represented you get your money back—that's the test!—Scroggie, Montreal, Can.

Macy's is the original department store. For forty-six years we have held leadership by selling the best qualities at the lowest prices. It is only since getting into our new building—the largest in the world devoted to retailing—that we've been able to do justice all around—to you, to ourselves, our merchandise and our methods.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

Impelled by a natural feeling of gratitude for the privilege of passing another milestone on our march towards the goal of well earned success and a desire to demonstrate, on this occasion, our long established record of supremacy in value giving, we have gathered together a mighty host of bargains from every floor and every department in this great store. It is only once in a year—during the celebration of our anniversary—that we feel like throwing away common business prudence and, swayed by enthusiasm, make a bonfire of an entire day's profits for the benefit of a large, faithful and ever increasing list of patrons.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Two Beautiful Window Displays.—Our windows to-day speak more eloquently of the magnificence of our furniture and draperies than a page of type talk could. The north window shows a dining room furnished as richly as a king could desire—massive pieces of mahogany, exquisitely carved—a thousand dollar set. The south window is fitted up as a living room, with the newest designs in fumed oak furniture, upholstered in Spanish leather. The elegant draperies and rugs, too, are from our own enormous stocks.—Los Angeles Furniture Company, Los Angeles, Cal.

We have had our general opening for fall. Now we want to have a Metropolitan Opening. We want to concentrate the attention of our city friends upon the display of high fashion we have brought to the store. When we say Canadian and Metropolitan Fashion, it virtually means Cosmopolitan Fashion, for we have brought the exact gowns, cloaks and hats from Paris, Vienna, London and New York without modification of any kind. Toronto is the metropolis of Canada. This store takes a pride in bringing the beauty of feminine dress in this city to a point perfectly on par with the great cities of Europe and the States.—Simpson, Toronto, Can.

Almost every nook and corner of this splendid spacious store bristles with bright new merchandise that active selling has reduced to a point where it becomes more profitable to clear at some price or other rather than hold. Counter space and fixture room feel the pressure of incoming goods too much to permit broken lots to lag superfluous—that's why so many splendid money-saving chances are in evidence for to-morrow.—W. A. Murray & Co., Toronto, Ont.

A prominent publisher once said that a book would need no preface if the title was sufficiently suggestive of its contents. The same may be applied to an advertisement. It requires no long drawn-out introduction if back of it there is merit certain and positive. Back of this announcement and behind all that emanate from John A. Roberts & Co.'s is just that kind of merit. The merchandise they tell of is new, wonderful and superlatively good.—John A. Roberts & Co., Utica, N. Y.

Handsome Waists of Lace and of Silk.—Get a glimpse of their clever effectiveness from the window displays. Then you'll want a closer acquaintance than a look through glass can give you. Aside from their general excellence there are little points and big points of superiority about these waists that will repay you for a close inspection. Niceties of finish that particular women appreciate. Exclusiveness of styles that dressy women delight in.—Fourquereau, Temple & Co., Richmond, Va.

Cool garments for summer wear! Woman or man, girl or boy. We've prepared for your comfort during the sizzling weather.—Menter, Rosenbloom & Co., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Hello! Are you going off for the Fourth? Got everything you need to give yourself a good send off? On these vacation days you are sure to want some of the hot weather bargains we offer this week.—J. W. Adams & Co., Buffalo.

Full steam ahead! This business moves ahead on the parallel lines of goodness and cheapness. It's the only combination that's at all effective against any and all competition.—R. J. Tooke, Montreal.

And the boy got stuck. 'Twas a pity. He had saved up and bought something at one of the stores who give away trading stamps—oh, of course, for nothing. The stamp stores went up—(didn't you see it in the papers?)—he got left. He said d—n the trading stamps; why didn't I heed the warning of the Phil. J. Walsh Estate and get my goods there? They are reliable.—Phil J. Walsh Estate, Philadelphia, Pa.

"Satisfaction guaranteed or money promptly refunded." That is the principle that has built this business and established this store in the confidence of the buying public. We satisfy our customers, no matter what the cost, nor how much the trouble. The matchless values which we are constantly offering, the efficient service that we place at your disposal, the liberal assortments that we lay before you, are all important factors in our success. Still, none is of such great importance as the fact that we guarantee you satisfaction, or failing in that, which is exceedingly rare, we refund your money without quibble or delay.—Rothenberg & Co., New York City.

Among the chief factors in the great success of this clothing business is our constant watchfulness, in season and out, for special values. There are frequent opportunities open to the progressive merchant to secure good under-priced lots for his customers—though few have as extensive relations with manufacturers as we have. Clothiers whose outlet is not large can't take advantage of such offers, and others fear to take extraordinary values in mid-season because they have goods of the same class in stock at regular prices. But we are out of that rut. Whatever good thing comes along, our customers benefit by it.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

New goods are arriving rapidly. Our store is nearing completion and we must get rid of every winter garment in the house. We have therefore not taken the cost into consideration but have marked every garment down to a ridiculously low figure. These are all goods from our high class stock and priced regardless of cost. This is an opportunity for a saving woman to get garments that she can have for immediate wear and the early part of spring for about half to two-thirds what she would have to pay ordinarily.—Israel's, San Bernardino, Cal.

Do people like to be humbugged? Some stores evidently think so—we don't. We might explode a lot of strong language in this ad. and, perhaps, attract more attention, like a small boy with a fire-cracker, and draw a larger crowd. We choose, however, to tell the simple truth in our own plain way, because we seek your confidence as well as your attention.—The Fashion Annex, Bangor, Me.

Dress news from an authoritative store. The interesting problem of correct dress is not solved by a bankful of money and a free-for-all market, else anybody with a checkbook could establish and maintain a store on the same high plane of excellence to which this store has risen—from a small beginning, to its present status of acknowledged dependability.—Younker Bros., Des Moines, Iowa.

But we believe we can do it. We are quite sure that by July 1st more merchandise will have gone out of this store than there ever did before at this time of the year. And you will likely begin to think so, too, when you learn how we have determined and planned to bring this about. The goods must be sold. The secret of how to do it—and it is an open secret—is to make the prices very low.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

This has been the best and busiest January of any on our records, though it's generally supposed to be a quiet month, but not so here; we are glad to say that in this store it was a very busy one; indeed, we made it so by offering to the dry goods buying public clean, new, seasonable, reliable, and up-to-date merchandise at such small prices that none could resist. We are going to make the month of February still a busier one, by making still greater reductions, further cutting of prices, more sacrificing of values and dependable goods that must be disposed of now; must get them out to make room for the new spring goods soon to arrive.—The Paris D. G. Co., Great Falls, Mont.

This month of February will usher in a lot of the new things for early spring wear, showing the latest and greatest successes of the leading designers of fashionable wearables. Among these new offerings will be spring clothing, negligee shirts, hosiery, gloves, underwear, pajamas, neckwear, etc. Also wearables for women and children. We have done well in the past on neckwear and our determination of course in planning for the coming spring season is to outdo all previous efforts. This is our ambition and we think you'll agree that we realize it fully when you see the showing of elegant wearables that this month will bring together here.—Horsfall & Rothschild, Hartford, Conn.

New spring merchandise of every kind—for every purpose—to suit all tastes—to fit all purses. The magnificent showing offered for inspection to-morrow represents every famous factory and every noted designer, both at home and abroad. It is a style exposition of surpassing excellence and authority and merits your most careful inspection.—Rothschild & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Newness, merit, economy are all in evidence in the fine collection of spring goods we are showing. It's a showing that is worth your fullest consideration, for it has been chosen with great care, and we believe it is the most attractive stock we have yet shown. Qualities are high, patterns are new, and prices admit of no competition.—Gately & Donovan, Saginaw, Mich.

Children's Day. No school. All day to play. What's the best thing to do? Children, the great rambling old store expects to see you! Saturday is your day here. There are goods from every country and every nation under the sun—curious things, beautiful things, rare things, and every corner is open for you to explore and enjoy.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia.

If you, the buying public, could but look inside of this great distributing center and see for yourself how much merchandise we must sell before July 1st, when the semi-annual inventory is taken, you would wonder how we were going to do it. You would likely say, impossible. If you were to peer behind the counters and on the shelves, and rummage through the warehouse, you would be all the more skeptical about our reducing the stocks down to where we want them by the first of July.

Known as We Are, as Leaders in Our Line of Business!—You need not hesitate one moment to come to us for your Home Wants. We have given ample proof that we are a Fixture in this community.—H. H. Lampe & Co., Altoona.

Especially Interesting Items in This Sale—Little things that are worth looking at. Scattered all through the store are countless little offerings some of them almost too small to mention—here today and gone to-morrow—and many of them representing extraordinary values. We mention just a few of these—mostly small lots that are likely to be exhausted in short order.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Everybody is familiar, we presume with the story of the wind that is considered naughty unless it blows somebody good. You are also aware, no doubt, of the disposition shown by winter this season to linger upon the doorsteps of spring and have been waiting with much impatience, possibly, for the benefit you felt you had a right to expect from the depression so illy blown over the country, that so materially affected the price of Dry Goods. That good comes to you this week through advantageous purchases made for our several departments at depressed prices, which quantities we were unable to dispose of in a regular way, hence the inauguration this week of a mid-summer sale that will eclipse in magnitude, quality and price-sacrifice anything ever known in Montgomery. As we are only able to mention a few of the leading items in each department, you must come and see the balance. Mail orders promptly filled. Out-of-town customers will please write for samples and prices.—A. S. Knowles Dry Goods Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Thoughts for To-day.—No. 1—Leave this store off your shopping list and something will keep saying to you: "I could have done better at Wanamaker's."—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

If the store-keeping policy of this great quasi-public enterprise were to be summed up in a matter of a dozen words, those dozen words would be "Our motto is not 'make a sale,' but make a customer."—Bloomington, New York.

Be Healthy, Wealthy and Wise.—Is there anything more desirable than health, wealth and wisdom? Nothing, you will say, I am sure. And one seems incomplete without the other. Take away any one and content and satisfaction go with it. Without HEALTH, which is first and most important, and upon which wealth and wisdom hinge, life is a miserable drag and one can accomplish very little. Without wealth one can not do half the good he would like to do. Without wisdom life is very unsatisfactory. Food has much bearing on all three, particularly health. If you eat pure, wholesome food, such as I sell, you will have good health, which will give you ambition and energy to accumulate wealth. Then will follow wisdom, for a sound body and a full purse will produce a clear mind. You can attain these three graces by buying your groceries at my store. I guarantee perfect satisfaction of all my goods and also a saving of 25 per cent. on every dollar spent here. Read the following prices for goods which will most assuredly make you Healthy, Wealthy and Wise.—S. B. Charters, Pittsburg, Pa.

Specials for Mrs. Monday Buyer.—Each item is a special value. Each price is a special price. They are features in Men's and Boys' wardrobery that the "better half" can be commissioned to buy for you. She'll know what positive bargains they are even better than you will.—Salts & Company, Indianapolis.

The Store That Has the Goods.—Take any of the departments in this advertisement. Each affords a greater selection than any other store can show. Many of the prices quoted are matchless, the results of our unequalled facilities for buying. Note the bargain prices, the extraordinary variety and the wide range of qualities. No trash, no junk, no trading stamps, only merchandise worthy of the name, in variety to suit all wants.—Adam, Meldrum & Anderson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Our sales need no particular introduction to the people of Schenectady nor no fine strung arguments to exploit their merits. Every person who has attended one of them well knows the nature and character of the offerings. They are the kind that are calculated to awaken the interest and enthusiasm and buying spirit of the most disinterested and unconcerned. They are the kind that bring savings to all those who partake of them. All sorts of goods are embraced, as every department in the store is represented.—The Fair, Schenectady, N. Y.

Invincible values.—The Palace Clothing House, Minneapolis, Minn.

Buy as many as you want; no restrictions at our sales.—MacDonnell's, Boston, Mass.

Over five acres of goods to capture your fancy—at prices bound to capture your trade.—Amos H. Van Horn, Newark, N. J.

Satisfying the Individual! That is the strength of the Model and the secret of its remarkable success.—The Model, Kansas City, Mo.

We do not skimp the quality so as to bring the price down, or to make a bigger profit. We believe that our customers prefer a good article, and we always see that they get it.—Stewart, Dawson & Co., Sydney, N. S. W.

Runs Like a Clock.—What does? Our delivery wagon. We call with goods at stated times and don't vary from the schedule. You receive orders on time. We use the best flour in our pies, cakes, etc.—R. Wild, Parkersburg.

Two Things That Have Made Spear Famous.—The first is honest value and superior quality of merchandise. People who buy from Spear are never disappointed in their purchases. The second thing is a liberality in giving credit that no other store ever possessed the courage or confidence to imitate. At Spear's credit is absolutely free to everybody.—Spear & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Can dor!—When the ad man started to write the store news, his instructions were to avoid all that is sensational—use no high-sounding adjectives—state the facts and don't brag. It's difficult, indeed, to refrain from bragging about our brilliant opening—the majestic appearance of the store—the splendid arrangements for the convenience of shoppers—the quick service and the many expressions of gratification and satisfaction so frequently heard. But the ad man must obey instructions—so simply says to those who have not as yet visited the new and greater A. Schradzki Co. to come prepared to see the most magnificently arranged store in all Peoria, stocked with mountains of choice, dependable, "new and fresh" clothing, hats and furnishings at the lowest prices obtainable anywhere.—A. Schradzki Co., Peoria, Ill.

There's a great deal of merchandise made just to sell. A great deal of this kind is sold. The store selling it thinks it is profiting by such sales. The reverse is true. The only kind of goods that it pays a store to handle is reliable merchandise. No store that hopes to forge into the first rank will ever realize its expectations until it ceases to handle "cheap" goods. A low price point is always commendable, providing it applies to a trust-worthy article, but to quote low prices at the expense of quality is as dangerous as playing with fire.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

It's a common practice in many stores to "cut" the price on some standard article, the object being to attract the people with the bait, then sell them other goods at a big profit.

It's all a part of the circus, like the flaring red and yellow billboards—the idea is to get you inside the tent. "What shall I do?" you ask; "shall I ignore the reductions and thus lose the chance of saving money?"

Of course not; take all the bargains you can get, but watch out for the sting in the other goods.

We don't reduce prices to use the reduction as a fish hook on our customers. Our goods are first marked at a small profit and reduced only when we can buy for less, when sizes are broken, when we are overstocked, or when we have some other sane, sensible reason.

We believe that quality is what counts, and next to that, low price.—Bergerman Bros., Pueblo, Col.

Mary had a little corn,

Her feet were white as snow,
And everywhere that Mary went,

The corn was sure to go.

It went with her to church one day,

Though not against the rule,
It made her make up such a face,

They thought she was a fool.

Next day she went to Robinson's

And had it taken out,

For Mary has a level head

And knows what she's about.

—Dr. Robinson, Haverhill, Mass.

To-day we present merchandise of divided interest. There are fine new garments for midsummer wear, side by side with some of the most remarkable bargains that we have presented in many a day. Here are some handsome new shirts that will please the man who is looking for something new and nice. And simultaneously we announce the reduction in price of all men's straw hats in our stock. But by far the largest interest of the week is for housekeepers. The sales of china, linens, summer furnishings and house comforts are of most exceptional character.—Wanamaker's, New York, N. Y.

WHY?

Just go to Brown's and buy,

Then you'll not question why
Other stores with him cannot vie,

Couldn't even if they'd try.

They live in a different sky.

Low prices is Brown's cry.

That's the reason their shoes do fly.

Louis Boot. Crescent Oxford, Lenox
Tie, Oh! my!

Just go down town, there you'll spy
Brown's, 309 Market, will catch your eye.

Buy here once, you'll continue till you die.

—Brown's Parkersburg, W. Va.

But enough of stale bread. See the new spring goods!—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Spring goods in bright array to-morrow.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.—Feb. 8, 1903.

The Leader has nothing to do with high prices, but it serves the extremes of trade in clinging to insignificant figures and riding the "high horse" of superior qualities. The best is indeed the cheapest at The Leader, for only the best is presented and everything is cheap.—The Leader, Minneapolis, Minn.

It's all wrong to judge the goods before you see them. Come and examine them first, and then make up your mind.—Scattergood & Son, Mansfield, O.

Your dollars are bigger this week than they'll be again for many a day. They look bigger to us and they'll buy more for you.—Ives, Ogden, Utah.

The store has almost boundless interest for those who care to save largely. The sales of white continues. There are stock clearances in many sections.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

A man may be fast asleep, but rather slow when awake. Any man, woman or child in this town is slow who does not see the economy there is in buying at Tisdale's and profit thereby.—Tisdale's, Memphis, Tenn.

Crossing the Alps of the year's business, naturally there are wounded soldiers—hurt merchandise of every description; odd pieces and ends; and stragglers that got behind in the winter procession. Please take them away out of our road—for next to nothing, considering their real worth.

If you have money to spend, prepare to spend it now!—M. Strasburger, Washington, D. C.

This store news is good news to those with little money to spare, and still better news to those with plenty of money to spend. We are pushing winter goods as hard as the power of low prices can drive them. If you read this carefully and then come and look you will understand the situation better than we can tell it.—Gilmore & O'Keefe, Jersey City.

Many and varied attractions. Each an unusual and unmistakable opportunity. First, what's left of our stock of winter things. Secondly, the surplus stocks of some of our best manufacturers. Added to this, some spring styles that have done their duty as samples, from which the best merchants in the country have placed their orders; and you have the source of to-morrow's attractions. When one says half price, it usually is sufficient inducement; but to-morrow, one-third of the original price is more often the rule than the exception.—The Hub, Baltimore, Md.—Feb. 8, 1903.

Take 'Em Away!—All winter goods sacrificed at half value and even less than half value. These goods would not be worth much to us if we had to carry them over to next season; styles change, they get shop worn, occupy valuable space for nearly a year, and, besides, the money we realize on them now we can re-invest in other seasonable merchandise, and turn this three or four times, giving us about four profits during the time that the winter goods would lie dormant on our shelves. We consider whatever we realize out of this stock now almost clear gain.—Stern's, St. Paul, Minn.

Good things to test us by.—Palmer's Viaduct Pharmacy, Atlanta, Ga.

The economy sign is out.—Chamberlin-Johnson-Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Going to take stock! It's the signal of a general markdown in prices, and the forerunner of the greatest money saving bargains ever offered in Boston.—Wolf's, Boston, Mass.

Last Chance Before Stock Taking!—Big and little lots tumble pell mell over each other for your attention. A mere handful is all we can mention here. You must get your ideas from them.—S. Kann, Sons & Co., Baltimore, Md.—Jan. 11, 1903.

Below Zero Things for Everybody.—Alaska atmosphere makes one hunt warm wear of every kind—warm head wear, warm body wear, the very best of cold weather wear here from medium grades to finest make.—Joseph Home Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Stock has ben taken; every single thing from basement to top floor has been counted.

Sharp eyes and prying fingers have brought to the light many articles that should have left the store before this. The men who buy for the store have made mistakes in judging your taste or the quantities you'd use—those mistakes come to the front now.

And so there is rummage.

Into the rummage every such thing will go. To it there'll be tacked a little price that'll send it flying.

Now for Rummage.—All the week the store has been getting ready for the business of the coming six months.

Will you come and rummage? It'll be great fun as well as full of profit.—The Howland Dry Goods Company, Bridgeport, Conn.—Jan. 30, 1903.

Before taking stock, which is generally between the 1st and the 10th of January, we have decided to wait two weeks and give the people of Baltimore and vicinity a chance to buy the best manufactured clothing at the lowest prices that were ever offered by any clothing manufacturer.—Max Weinberg & Co., Baltimore, Md.—Jan. 10, 1903.

Semi-Annual Clearance Still Continues! Why put off your buying until later when you have about decided what is needed to add to the beauty and comfort of your home. Make your selection now and let us store it for you until you are ready for it.—M. Megary & Son, Wilmington, Del.—Jan. 21, 1903.

The fountain runs day and night—all through the year—it ought to be the coolest water in town.

And a fountain on the outside of the door furnishes refreshment to passers-by.

Then there's the soda fountain—everything pure, fresh and clean.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Want You to Look at These.—We'd like to emphasize the good values that are spread before you, but all we might say would not do a whit as much as a glance at the goods themselves. Seldom you find such values, and when you do it's always at the "Big Dependable Store"—the store that taught you the real values.—Tacoma, Wash.

A man said he knew Wanamaker's was the best haberdashery and clothing place in town, but did not come here because of the crowds.

We explained to him how the men's sections are reached directly from the street, and that he need not pass through any crowded parts of the store.

Now he is one of our best customers.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Of course, you've heard the song, "Any Rags."

It's quite conducive of merriment and somewhat indicative of jags.

But we bring to your notice a theme more topical,

Being the question for warmth and a feeling more tropical.

Don't commence to grow gray, and imagine you are old,

Just because the house is chilly and you feel so awful cold.

But hustle around and chase down to Raymond Bros.;

You can easily find the way, just follow the others;

Try a ton of their solidified chunks of concentrated heat,

One trial will convince you they cannot be beat;

They will wait upon you to the best of their ability,

And get the goods around with their usual agility.

—Buy of Raymond Bros., South Norwalk, Conn.

Tuesday a day full of opportunities for the thrifty shopper at the "Daylight Store."—Dayton's Daylight Store, Minneapolis, Minn.

After Stock-Taking means much anywhere—but, most of all, here. Those choice, much-desired bits of merchandise are here, full and plenty. No lack of opportunity—no scarcity of styles—no dearth of values and varieties. Those mean, narrow methods have no place in our broad-scope plans. The "Great Broadway Stores" throw open their doors—a hearty welcome to come and share! The balance of "gain and loss" is in your grasp. Be sure and weigh well in your own behalf.—S. Kann, Sons & Co., Baltimore, Md.

"Can't tell me," said a skeptic the other day—"Can't tell me you folks are losing money." "Losing money? Why—bless you, we're losing lots of it—but it's a wise loss. You see, we like to keep stocks shipshape. We drag out all odd lots and small lines. We've made our profits on the hundreds and thousands that were sold. On the units and tens we lose. But we gain through righting the stock as we want it. See the point? It's as easy to see into as Columbus's egg puzzle, after it's explained. But the world in a sense is better off for skeptics. It's human nature to doubt."—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

It is a once-a-year event—held only because we are able to make an offering that in extent and lowpricedness cannot be equaled.

How are we able to hold such a sale—to give such values? It's easy enough—with the know-how. We buy entire remainders of factory stocks; we give makers orders that will use up fabrics they have on hand after their dull season begins; we buy goods underprice and have them made up.

It's all logical—you see—and to your benefit. And better than explanations, better than reasons, stronger than any argument, is the blunt, unalterable fact that you can get, during this sale, fine $1.00 shirts at 55c. In all sizes. A separate pair of cuffs with each shirt—two pairs with some.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Where you can go marketing with your eyes shut and know you're getting the best!—Wolferman's, Kansas City, Mo.

"A tree is known by its fruit." A merchant is known by the class of goods he sells. His reputation for quality, and fair prices, is a valuable asset.—Fred J. Kiesel & Co., Ogden, Utah.

Literally Immense—"Immense"—that's the word for it, and no other could apply to the values we give, the variety of goods for your selection and the efficient service at your command. The result is, crowds of shoppers for heaps of bargains every day. The earlier you shop the better will be the values you'll get. We make new bargains every day. Come at 8 a. m. if you can.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

On every floor and in every section you'll find the newest creations and the most novel ideas.—Rothschild & Company, Chicago, Ill.

The sale continues. Now for another rousing week. Buying enthusiasm is justified by the preponderance of the bargains given.—Hartman Furniture & Carpet Co., Chicago, Ill.

It is because we are our own competitors—crowding prices down even when there is no break in the market—that our prices are lower and values higher than most dealers.—Winfield & Miller, Winfield, Kan.

"Imitation is the Sincerest Flattery." Did you ever know an imitation that amounted to anything or an imitator who was not a weakling? The watchword of the superior business man is truth. To imitate and copy is only a sign of weakness and the very thing in a man or his business to be admired has a mist or eclipse over his face when he adopts the methods of others. This is the genuine, real, worthy—not a copy, not a shadow. "Well, I guess there are bargains here."—Goldsmith's Bazaar, Scranton, Pa.

The thought of the future influences every transaction made by this store. If this great business is to continue to grow and to extend into the long future, it is evident that the foundation must be made deep and firm in the confidence of the public. Every transaction is a stone in that foundation. Every satisfied customer adds to the feasibility of our high endeavor: To make this great store stand out conspicuously in the history of this and future generations as an institution whose influence for the elevation of commercial ideas is felt around the world in an ever widening development. Recognizing this, it is obvious that we would sanction no transaction which did not in every way make for the best interests of our customers. Should any transaction be found otherwise by any person at any time, it is far from our desire, and will be readily corrected if our attention is called to the matter.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago.

Bulletin of Bargains in the Great Overstock Sale.—Turn your eyes on the wonderful offerings in this big sale. Use your best judgment in deciding the question of buying. Compare our bargains with other bargains—the town is filled with the cries of bargains—and judge whether or not we are right in claiming the best bargains in really reliable clothing are at the Library Corner.—John F. Keane & Co., Bridgeport.

The Clean-Sweep Sale True to Its Name.—Were it not that there are some who never attended one of our clean-sweep sales we would rest content with the simple announcement: True to tradition; for no sale has ever come to mean more to the people than our semi-annual clean-sweep sales. We adopted this name years ago, because it literally and truly described our purpose. The name has been often imitated, but we think for singleness of purpose and honest intent, our clean-sweep sales stand alone. The reductions are unsparing and unlimited, for every department has been affected. The sale will do full justice to all that these past events have led you to expect, and more, for this has been our greatest Fall and Winter, and in consequence there is a stock of greater diversity, all of which is to be sold during this sale.—The Hub, Baltimore, Md.

If all your bones ache,
And you don't want to bake,
And you're feeling all down in the heels,
Just try some Quaker,
From Williams, the baker,
For one or two or three meals.

—Women's Exchange, Galesburg, Ill.

Our Watchwords: Better Qualities; Newest Styles; Cut Prices for Saturday. Extraordinary reductions, but just as true as preaching—reductions of true Harvey magnitude. Remnants, remnants, remnants. Still selling remnants in stacks. One lady bought 30 yesterday. There's plenty here for you. Yours, anxious to please, A. W. Harvey, Denison, Texas.

The Big Store's Bulletin. This is the people's trading center, because years of experience has taught that absolute confidence can be placed in every word uttered in advertising, that none but trustworthy goods are sold, and that a guarantee passes with every purchase made—make an exchange or get your money back without the slightest hesitation on our part. That is the unswerving policy of the house. Shoddy merchandise, used by many stores to deceive their trade, is not carried in stock and will never be sold at any price. Our customers can always rely upon everything bought at The Big Store, and rest assured that the multi-millionaire has no copyright upon the latest styles. We get them as quickly as anybody and reproduce them in popular priced apparel.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Advanced Ideas.—The extensiveness of the variety of styles and the exclusiveness of the ideas will immediately impress upon every one the fact that for choiceness this collection is second to none in America.—Chas. A. Steven & Bro., Chicago, Ill.

The difference between a legitimate bargain and the imitation is as radical as light and darkness, as vice and virtue. The one is a commercial benefaction; the other is the bane of commercial and sociological conditions.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Everything in every department scheduled to go absolutely regardless of value.—Cohn's, Salt Lake City, Utah.

"Off With the Old—On With the New!" Special announcement. The New York store is overflowing with advance spring styles. Not the addenda of former fashions—but distinctly, refreshing, new throughout.—The New York Store, Crookston, Minn.

Six Wonderful Basement Bargains. The quantities are limited so we advise an early call. These goods are for our customers' good and we shall decline to supply dealers—and reserve the right to limit quantity to customer.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Grand Sweep-Away Sale of the May-Stern Floor Stock in anticipation of spring. We have two short weeks in which to accomplish this purpose and prompt action, brisk, vigorous sales, and prices far below the ordinary are essential.—Spiegel's House Furnishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

What you see in the papers is only half of advertising, the other half is to back up the statements with the goods. Some stores stop half way. Of course we make money—our prices couldn't be so low if we didn't. It's the unsuccessful store that has to make its prices high.—Connolly & Wallace, Scranton.

We've seldom chronicled more noteworthy bargains than await shoppers here to-morrow. Several great purchases in which we enjoyed exceptional price concessions have arrived ahead of schedule time. Though we've a third less selling space we offer buying inducements that will break the best records of any February.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

Cold type cannot do justice to these extraordinary offerings the like of which has yet to appear.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We don't recollect a store offer which came nearer counting right out the money and putting it in your pocket than this.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Do You Love Miss Greenback?—Most people do, because "she's money" and she'll stick to you closer than glue if you're not careless or reckless with her. "Catch the drift?" Money is certainly a mighty nice thing to have, and the easiest way to make it is to save it. And in order to save it you must not overlook Peoria's greatest bargain givers, "that's us." A store that saves you fully 50 per cent. In other words, $10.00 will buy you as much at this store as $20.00 will elsewhere.—The Peoria Salvage Co., Peoria, Ill.

If you read you'll become enthusiastic about this week's not-but's; that's certain! Don't let a single item in the following list slip your attention. As a safeguard against missing any of the exceptional opportunities, cut out this bulletin and bring it with you when you come. Are they such good things that you should give them such careful attention? Yes, they are. They're not-but's! That means unusual! Greater than "bargain!" Every item in this ad presents an irresistible argument. It tells of a price-saving or an exceptional quality that's too good to let slip by unheeded!—May's, Pittsburg, Pa.

The difference in the purchasing power of dollars was never more forcefully set forth than in this store.—M. B. Emmons Co., Atlanta, Ga.

"A new broom sweeps clean" is an old adage, but "Old friends should never be forgotten" is another one, and having your trade is the way you should show you have not forgotten me. I will appreciate it if you will only come and see me.—H. M. Abbott, Atlanta, Ga.

Don't believe all you see or hear about bargain prices. See the goods for yourself, and don't take any one's word about their value. Some things are dear at any price. We believe our prices are the lowest that can be found anywhere for goods of the same quality. But don't believe it just because we say so. We may be prejudiced. We invite inspection and comparison, and will be satisfied with your decision.—Jos. Meyers & Sons, Salem, Ore.

We guarantee the price of everything we sell to be as low or lower than the same article can be bought anywhere else south of New York. If, in a day, or a week, or a month later, you find the same thing lower elsewhere, make a claim upon us, and it will be allowed at once. What fairer, fuller, broader guarantee can we give you? It should make your shopping very safe and secure, especially as we deal in the very best of anything and sell absolutely nothing that has not intrinsic worth.—The James L. Tapp Company, Columbia.

We are coming near to Christmas-time. The great day is scarcely ten weeks off. When it does come, and even long in advance, you will see here a wonderful Holiday Store, a palace of enchantment, filled with things that delight childhood days and perpetuate the traditions of a Christian people.—A. Meldrum Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Watch your $5 bill as it travels through the different departments Monday and note how small is the slice which each purchase clips off.—Evans, Munzer, Pickering & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

A thorough, complete and intensely interesting collection of all the newest conceptions at prices that teach a valuable lesson in economy and clearly illustrate the uselessness of higher prices that must be charged for the same goods in longer lengths.—Partridge & Blackwell, Detroit, Mich.

Values of a nature that, were they to emanate from any other source, would be considered sensational, but the Broadway has forced its way to the front and grown from a little one-room store to the gigantic institution of the present time by dispensing just such values as these. The articles you need most may be mentioned in this list, but no matter the nature of your wants you can judge all prices by these.—The Broadway Dept. Store, Los Angeles.

Read carefully—consider fairly; act promptly—profit largely; where grocery purity and low prices reign.—Ginter Grocery Co., Boston, Mass.

Watch your dollar as it travels through our different departments Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Monday and note how small is the slice each purchase chips off.—A. E. Graham & Co., Hillsboro, Tex.

If you've done up your summer frivolities and your summer toggery and are now ready to address yourself to matters of life and dress, here's everything that's new, to embellish your figure without impoverishing your pocketbooks.—The Utica Clothiers, Des Moines, Ia.

Little and often fill the purse. Well demonstrated to you by the special advantages, the money-saving opportunities, introduced by our special Friday bargain methods. We go from one department to another singling out the essential and needful items.—C. S. Hills & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Would you know the way to bargain land? Then follow the path of the pointed hand, where your promise to pay is as good as gold. And naught but the best in furniture is sold; where a choice of goods is readily made, terms convenient and easily paid. 'Tis a path where thousands wend their way, for every day is a bargain day!—Waldheim & Co., Cleveland, O.

The stamp of public approval has long since been placed upon our business and our methods by the good people of Alabama. The reason is not hard to find, for it is a matter of common notoriety that if you want the best for the least money in men's, women's or children's clothing that "The Saks Store" is the place to get it. And then almost every day we are offering something to our patrons for far less than equally good merchandise can be bought elsewhere, and in many instances, thanks to our fearless and gigantic purchases, for less than the cost of manufacturing the goods—and when we have a good thing, we always share it with our patrons.—Louis Saks, Birmingham, Ala.

Hard Buying That Makes Easy Selling.—Quality in merchandise is a tangible fact to those who know and those who really compare. The greatest encouragement we have in our merchandising methods is that Brooklyn buyers seek quality, and rather than attempt to carry comparison in the eye place goods side by side. It is the only safe way, for wherever unreasonably low prices are given by skimping quality the user of the merchandise must certainly be at a loss in the end. The quality of the Loeser merchandise has such a well-known high-standard of genuineness that emphasizing the fact is unnecessary, yet if you carry the truth in mind when reading to-morrow's offers you will more fully understand the value of opportunities that have rarely if ever been equaled in New York's business history.—Loeser's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The style pendulum of this store keeps correct fashion time all the year round, regulated by the whims of Dame Fashion and the change of season styles.—A. McNaughton Co., Muncie, Ind.

See the saving we make in contrast to what the downtown stores must pay for their clothing. They buy of a wholesale manufacturer who gets a big profit. Again, see the enormous rents the downtown stores pay, while our rents are comparatively nothing. See their small assortment and then look at our big stock of clothing; which is larger than the stock of the three biggest downtown stores put together.—N. Peters & Co., Syracuse, N. Y.

Do you go where you can get the purest and freshest goods? Do you go where you can get the best service, or do you just drop in any place, pay the price asked, and take what is handed you?—The Owl Drug Co., Los Angeles.

It's not mere boasting to say that we outfit a man to the best advantage: The merchandise backs us up in an unequaled copartnership.—Muse's, Atlanta.

Annual Midsummer Sale.—Down go the profit bars; wide open go the low-price flood gates—and tens of thousands of articles go speeding towards an expectant public—shorn of profits—priced below all precedent.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

The best for least money is assured when making your purchases here? Goods exchanged or money refunded for any reason whatever! A safe trading place indeed.—Alfred Edmondson, Morecombe, Eng.

There—and here. There's a store somewhere that has good merchandise, but it's the deadead, dullest, dreariest-looking place from the outside you ever saw. Not much better inside. "I feel as if they don't want me in there," said a woman who had been visiting in the city we have in mind. They don't. They want only people who come to buy and who know what they're after. No lookers; no visitors; no guests. How is it here? The door is open; the windows invite you. We're glad to see anyone; whether they come to buy or look—always. The store is more than a private business. It's a public institution. Supported by the people's patronage—of course; all the more reason then that it should be as free and open as the postoffice.—Schipper & Block, Peoria.

Marvelous merchandise moving. Each year finds every person engaged in thoughts of refurnishing either their wardrobe or the house. The day of this refurnishing is here. A million workers at loom and wheel, in factory or shop, are depending on your obedience to your desires. Your gratification of these desires adds to the prosperity of the nation and adds its power to the wheel of progress. The amount of merchandise moved by this store every year would be marvelous indeed were it not that people have grown accustomed to it. For let but a rising of the sun, let but a creation of the world happen twice, and it ceases to be marvelous, and yet a walk through the store showed ye scribe the many, many good things, never even mentioned to the public. Each year finds us better able to supply your needs than the preceding one. That is as it should be. When it ceases to be so, it will not be Milliken's.—J. W. Milliken, Traverse City, Mich.

The Policy of this House: Absolute Integrity — Satisfaction — Accommodation—with purpose of winning and holding the Confidence of every individual who enters its doors.—Under no possible circumstances will this house sanction any word or deed of any employe designed to mislead a purchaser.—Whenever mistakes happen—as happen they must—the house will consider it a privilege to correct them with promptitude and courtesy.—The spirit of Accommodation will rule, and in the treatment of patrons and visitors this spirit will be developed to the fullest possible extent.—H. G. Selfridge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Once there was a lovely young slip of a girl who told her most intimate friend that she had won her prospective husband at a golf game. "Is that so?" said her friend. "Why, I never knew that they gave booby prizes at a golf game."

A great many people interpret the meaning of things to suit themselves—so do some stores.

They publish advertisements, and when you answer them you find that the way you interpreted the meaning is altogether different than you thought it was.

Through their desire to get you to come to their stores they lose sight that you came for some definite purpose, for some special thing they promised you.

The article at the price is either all gone, or what's left you could buy at any time at practically your own price because no one wants it at any price.

Haven't you found it so?

The policy of this house does not sanction misrepresentation nor do we allow anything designed to mislead a single purchaser.

We want integrity in its broadest sense developed to its fullest possible limit.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York.

Nippy winds have made many a chilly hour and suggested the need of starting up the furnace or looking up warm comforts. Mornings and nights you have seen the lightly clad individual shiver slightly when the more careful ones wore wraps and cloaks. Summer is gone and while we may still have some warm days, thoughtful people are hurrying preparations for cool weather.—Globe Warehouse, Scranton, Pa.

The emergence of fall's favored fashions is rapidly progressing throughout the entire house. Some idea of the wonderful scope of the movements of our buying organization during the past several months in the leading producing centers of the world can be gathered from the vast quantities of merchandise now being opened. In almost every section the reception of these "new things for autumn" has resulted in a complete transformation.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

The Boston's rapid expansion. No store ever grew so fast—none deserved to—our policy insured rapid development—the verdict of the people is complimentary. The principles of the business are sound—they made the store—they sustain the store. Buyers are pretty shrewd judges of values. Our store philosophy is manifest in price arguments daily. Just now spring blooms riotously all through the establishment—a comparison of styles and prices will be mutually helpful. Will you compare? Start with what follows.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Breaths of spring. The first note of the robin red-breast is more delightful music than the whole chorus of the woods—when spring is fully here. Something of the same pleasure is in store for you to-morrow at Harned & Von Maur's, for—keeping pace with the spring-like weather—have come many of the new costumes and fabrics for spring. Blizzards may come, but they can't stop the steady onward march of Easter. Six weeks from now will see the fashionable world in all its glory of dress, and during the six weeks needles will fly and brains will busily work out the dresses, not only for spring, but for summer.—Harned & Von Maur, Peoria.

A store where honest values are ever wedded to truthful words. We want to merit your good will even if we didn't get any of your cash.—Cullen's, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Grand carnival of spring bargains. Soft spring weather has filled the streets with spring shoppers. Naturally they expect to go where their money brings the best and surest returns. A few reasons why they should come to our store.—Clark & Co., Peoria, Ill.

The only things our buyers missed are the things you would not have. Does a large stock attract you? We've got it. Do low prices please you? We have them. Do straightforward methods and guaranteed transactions interest you? Then, this is your store. Big game awaits the women who hunt here for bargains.—Cullen's, Ottumwa, Iowa.

News to make the pulse beat quicker. March has come in like a lamb, but the spring apparel has come and is coming to Loeser's like a storm. The new things at Loeser's are on the tip of everybody's tongue. Here are printed facts, free from fanciful exaggeration—goods and prices that speak for themselves and can't fail to create the most extended interest and real benefit.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The store's strong feature—"large assortments of the choicest"—has never been so clearly emphasized as in this section now.—Boggs & Buhl, Pittsburg.

"Off with the old—on with the new!" Not the addenda of former fashions—but distinctly refreshing, new throughout.—New York Store, A. Chabot, Prop., Crookstown, Minn.

No backward movement here! We are forever pushing ahead, always leading, always beating others' prices. The plans have been laid and already a good start made for the largest year's business in the history of the Big Economy Store.—Big Economy Store, W. B. Dunlap, Bowerston, Ohio.

The best and only way to please a woman is to give her a bargain. Something that she can show to her next door neighbor or bosom friend and say with delight, "See what a bargain I have got at so and so." Now we are going to delight many a woman on Monday.—James Shea, Hamilton, Canada.

Our stock is by far the largest, and daily arrivals make housefurnishing here a pleasant task rather than an expensive luxury. No purse too big, no purse too small, but what we please them, one and all.—Hall & Hawkins, Knoxville, Tenn.

The wide-awake store, the satisfactory store. Store betterments. We're constantly striving to better our store. Better stocks, better goods, better store arrangements, better service is our aim. Some betterments inaugurated for the coming season will add greatly to our store's attractiveness and helpfulness.—Culp's, Alliance, Ohio.

The perpetual grind will again resume. Enthusiasm will again be intense. And everything will be a hustle and bustle of business. Thousands will flock to the Goerke store, for we have planned a carnival of bargains so rich and rare in savings that no purchaser, with whom economy is of the least importance, can conscientiously stay away.—The Goerke Co., Newark, N. J.

It works like an endless chain as one satisfied customer after another spreads the news of the wonderful bargains to be found, the crowds increase until the great store has been taxed to its utmost, but with restless energy the management has met every demand made upon it and will continue to do so until the entire stock is disposed of.—C. A. Rennacker, Hartford, Conn.

Friday is special bargain day at White's; a day when the advantages of shopping here are emphasized by extraordinary attractions carefully selected with a view to giving you opportunities for economies that will bind you more closely than ever to Boston's most progressive store.—Boston, Mass.

The month of roses brings a little economy lesson.—If you pay too much for a good thing, you lose—something. If you pay only a little for trash, you lose everything for you have nothing either at the beginning or the end. You will find no trash here—so you can't buy it—even by accident, and now, at the threshold of summer—with stocks as never before—you will find here a price-interest that's irresistible in every one of our 31 departments.—The May Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Need we say that Monday will be a busy day? And that this will be a busy week?—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

A Galaxy of Costume Beauty rich and beautiful, but not high priced. Exclusiveness of style and exceptionally low prices make this store buying headquarters for all discriminating and saving shoppers.—The S. Carsley Co., Montreal.

It's an old saying, but true—if you're climbing you'll have assistance, but if you're on the downward grade you'll get help too. And every boost that a store gets there is some reason for it, and while the cause may be invisible it exists just the same, and eventually manifests itself as it has here.—Daniel Bros. Co., Atlanta, Ga.

"The Sign of Safety."—Because we are reliable—because every principle of business that insures the public's interest and safety is embodied in all the transactions at Rosenthal's, Knoxville, Tenn.

Spring Outfits for Sale Here Thursday.—For the home. For the head of the house. For the children. Values such as only a great store like the Glass Block can give to its patrons.—Donaldson's, Minneapolis, Minn.

Imitation Is Easy.—It is a simple trick to imitate nowadays, and often hard to tell the imitation. People used to go up to the policeman in a famous wax works show and ask him to direct them, before they found out he was wax. People have come to us and said, "I can get at So-and-So's the same thing you are selling here, and their price is less than yours." The other day a woman said that concerning some cut steel buttons. "I will go back to the other store," she said. "Their price is lower." After a while she came back to the trimming counter and bought the buttons. "I owe you an apology," she said to the salesperson. "The other buttons were imitation, and they don't even claim they were any thing else." A small matter, of course—but it illustrates a point.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hush! Hush! Hush! Here comes a married man, and you can bet something handsome that he will make a beeline for Scovill's. Why, you'd be surprised to know the number of newly married couples that have purchased all their household goods from Scovill's. But it's no wonder; the prices and terms are irresistible. Our plan is simple, straightforward and equitable. It is easy to demonstrate how we can undersell our competitors. The hundreds who have bought here have the proof—the goods. We ask you to make the same test and benefit the same way.—Scovill & Co., Springfield, Ill.

Tell us what you want and we will send it to you. "The boy on horseback is our free delivery."—Hanna, Dennison, Texas.

Hemmed in on all sides by unexpected spring shipments! Regular stocks must go, regardless of former price conditions, cost or actual value!—Joyce's, Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 22, 1902.

Friday and Saturday you'll meet "Snaps" everywhere if you come direct to this store. Easy to give bargains now. They come naturally. Our sale has been an immense success. Now we find a few more lines that must move to make way for spring goods. The prices will be low enough Friday and Saturday to move them quick.—The C. H. James Co., Spokane, Wash.

On every floor and in every section you'll find the newest creations and the most novel ideas.—Rothschild & Co., Chicago, Ill., Feb. 28, 1903.

Every item enumerated below should prove interesting to those who appreciate a true bargain and at the same time require furnishings of a dependable character. It isn't necessary to go into lengthy explanations as to the whys and wherefores of these exceptional values. Those who are alert to such offerings will discern economies of a most decided nature.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark.

We did it! Did what? The largest business last year in the history of our store. Some will wonder why. Well, first we had the stock; second, we cut the prices; third, we offered the most liberal terms. The prices are no higher this year—in fact, lower. Better come in this week. Yes, it is good. Why, your credit, of course.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

The crowds poured in on us this morning and the goods poured out.

If you were not here, you missed much, but we're ready for everybody.

The stocks are so full and new that all can get what is needed.

The prices are lower than such goods have ever sold for in Jersey City before.—Baum Bros., Jersey City, N. J.

Indications of approaching spring. January, 1904, has passed into history, and we present to-day the first fruits of February. Hoping to please and interest you by actions which shall be better than words.—Barnard, Sumner & Putman Co., Worcester, Mass.

Has sprung into bloom in the spacious east aisle of the main floor—greater than in years past, richer in novelty—more distinguished by evident virtues of styles and exclusiveness. You can hardly have a clear understanding of fashion's present trend without seeing the exhibit; you will surely have cause for congratulation if you make a point of securing some one of the pretty materials for your very own before serious inroads are made upon the now perfect assortments.—L. S. Ayres & Company, Marion, Ind.

Warm weather ahead. Warm weather things through the store. Is your choice made yet?—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

We invite criticism. We expect it—but haven't been getting it. Our disappointment is of course mingled with satisfaction—because it argues that the Loftus way—everything right or no pay—is "catching on."—W. C. Loftus & Co., New York.

The fifty offerings sale continues to-day. This is the greatest economy movement that has been known in New York retailing this year. Thirty-four brand new offerings are added to-day to take the place of those exhausted yesterday. Sixteen of yesterday's larger groups are continued because there was ample supply for two days' selling. Two-thirds of the offerings to-day compose a remarkable collection presenting absolutely new interest.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

"Not enough" and "too much" are the clogs of business. It pays us to pay you to take them away. That's the Rummage Sale.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Energy, Truth and Capacity are the principles responsible for the wonderful growth of this store. They will also promote its future growth.—The Ontario, Grand Forks, N. D.

The summer is yet before you, but the profit time is past for us, and the harvest is here for you to avail yourself of this opportunity and reap your share of the golden grain.—Lautz, Mansfield, O.

This is how the removal sale will close: We are doing a little moving right now, but by the first of the month the moving will be on in earnest. As each piece is put on the wagon the red removal sale reduction tag will come off. You will see the advantage of coming in at once. You will see that it means actual money saved to do your buying while the goods are still in the old store.—L. Schoenfeld & Sons, Tacoma, Wash.

So you say that we spring upon you our new spring goods? Well, isn't it a most satisfactory spring? And with us new goods never fail. Summer and winter, spring and autumn, this spring never goes dry. You might almost consider it an artesian well instead of a spring, the flow is so abundant and continuous.—Wanamaker, New York.

Wherever you go for the summer write to the store when you need something and it will be promptly sent.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

We are talking to you for our goods until they can talk to you for themselves, which will be just as soon as you call and examine them. But they will talk for themselves even more emphatically after you have begun to wear them; it is then that their self-praise will be the most forcible.—Wanamaker, New York.

This has been a very busy store since the first opening day—so busy that some may have been served in too hurried a manner. It has been our constant endeavor to care for the rush of business which has come to us and we can now safely promise perfect service in a perfect store.—H. G. Stone, Syracuse, N. Y.

Divorce proceedings instituted by Sam Berry & Co. against their big $40,000 stock. Berry pays the cost of action, the freight and alimony for a complete separation by July 15th. The Court decrees that a divorce be granted, and the Public is to have the privilege of buying all goods at less than cost. The cause of action is desertion. The stock refuses to be taken to Spokane. They part company in Leadville.—Sam Berry & Co., Leadville, Colo.

While other stores resemble some deserted cemetery with monuments of high prices looming up before their idle employes, who seem to act as sextons to watch over the remains of dead trade and toll the funeral knell to exorbitant profits, we are on the jump and busy as bees waiting upon big crowds who have come to the biggest and most aggressive establishment in the South, at the sound of the bugle spreading forth among the people news of the biggest bargain sale ever heard of this side of Mason and Dixon's line. When we shout bargains they are in sight, both within our windows and piled high and fast upon our counters and shelves precisely as represented. Truthful advertising, linked with genuine bargains, draw the people. This has been proven by the big crowds that daily flock to the Green Ticket Trade Sale of Mill and Factory Ends. Monday is going to be the biggest day of the sale. We have made up our mind. That is enough said. We never disappoint. Our great success is partly due to that fact. Be on time for our sales. Keep your eye open for the big furniture sale.—Goldsmith's, Memphis, Tenn.

Perfect storekeeping is our aim. In every act we try to approach the standard of perfection in storekeeping. While no house can hope to reach this goal at a single bound, we make it our daily endeavor to progress toward this ideal, which we have set as a standard. We believe that quality and a liberal policy are the substructure of perfect storekeeping, and that low price is but the superstructure, because low prices have little or no significance if quality is lacking; and a liberal policy that insures an exchange of merchandise or your money back if you are dissatisfied lends an air of freedom and independence in shopping that rob it of objectionable features. Our liberal policy has done more toward making shopping a pleasure than any mercantile innovation ever inaugurated, because we live up to it by making it the first law of this house—to satisfy every patron.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

"In time of peace prepare for war." These cold nights and mornings are hinting that the days of the iceman are numbered. Jack Frost will soon hold sway and Old King Boreas will soon be roaring down the highways and byways. Unannounced they will come and those who are not ready to receive them may rue their tardiness many times over.—The Economy, Goshen, Ind.

The whole United States is busy with preparations for the nation's coming great holiday—Thanksgiving—and we are helping in the good work by providing the needed things at prices that will prove no barrier to the most economical. In the matter of dress, home furnishings and especially table decoration, we give you widest and best choice without piling on an exorbitant profit.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

The variety of our appropriate holiday novelties here is astonishing.—Cohen's D. G. Store, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Disappointed! Should have been in our building ten days ago. Overloaded with stock. Help us out.—Bailey's, Cleveland, O.

We want you to frequent our store on your shopping tours; come in, look around and get suggestions for Christmas. If you find any old, antiquated stock in our store, we will give it to you.—C. A. Beghtol's, Ogden, Utah.

Thoroughness.—If everybody did his or her part of the world's work, what an easy time we all would have. Did you ever think of it? Yet the day's work is before us all, simple and easy to do for the most part. And in the doing we train for higher things, as the athlete must steadily practice before he can win the race.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Bits of Art from Japan.—If you appreciate the delicacy and refinement of Oriental art, you will be fascinated by this showing of Japanese curios of real artistic value. There are carved ivories, for instance, that show the most exquisite workmanship and detail in a marvellously little space. Worthy specimens for the curio cabinet, at a quarter to a third less than their real values—$2.65 to $86.50; instead of $3.50 to $130.—Wanamakers, New York.

Santa Claus Comes Again.—We are busy making arrangements for Santa Claus's tenth trip to Peoria, and Schipper & Block's. Only a few weeks more and he will be here.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

"Take time by the forelock," and let us have your orders for Christmas sweets now. We don't fill the orders, but arrange and classify them so as to avoid any mishap at the last moment.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Company, Rochester.

Shots That Hit.—If you came home some night and found the day's mail had brought you three wedding invitations, and later, turning the leaves of your favorite paper, you saw our ad., "Bargains in Wedding Presents," it would surely interest you—and that would be an advertising shot that hit. That's our plan of doing business. Special sales on just the goods you want and just when you want them.—Unger Bros., Newark, N. J.

Christmas Preparations Here Mean Preparations Extraordinary.—The powerful and resourceful mercantile organization which raised this great new store did not stop there. Stimulated by success already won, it is bent on new achievements in purveying to the shopping public. Just now its wide-reaching resources are providing quality and price advantages for Christmas shoppers, and shoppers in general, which cannot be duplicated, we believe, in Chicago. We issue general merchandise bonds—like glove certificates, but applicable to anything in the store. We specially pack holiday gifts and, when desired, hold for future delivery.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

A Great Christmas Store.—No question about it, this is a great Christmas store. From front to rear, from fourth floor to basement, the one idea exists—Christmas. No half-hearted attempt, no slighting; everything is enthusiasm, every one is enthusiastic. Ever see such a toy department before? Ever see such a basement before? Ever see such a pretty sight as our main floor? We think not.

Ever see such bright, pretty goods? Not a "left over" among them, not a last year's piece in the whole building. The very finest, the very freshest and the very best, and a store service second to none in the country. Now is the time to do your Christmas shopping.—Stanley, Mills & Co., Hamilton, Ont.

Once there was an old rag peddler driving along a country road. A row of heterogeneous bells tied to a strap and stretched across the top of the wagon was making a terrible din as the wagon bumped along over the ruts.

An old philosopher stopped him and said: "My good man, why this fearful noise? You know there is not a house within miles of here."

"I really don't know," replied the peddler. "Never gave it a thought, so I jest let them ring."

Then the philosopher mused: "It's very peculiar. The world is full of people who go through life making a great noise without any result—doing things day in and day out, not knowing why they do them or having any definite motive for making a great noise."

Some stores, like the peddler, make a terrible din without any result—herald this and that as a bargain with great eclat and tom-tom accompaniments and then blame it to hard times because they are not overrun with patronage.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York.

No matter when your vacation is coming, you'll need things that we have. Don't put off buying till our stocks and your time and money are short.—Wollock's, New York, N. Y.

Ever stop to think when the thermometer is climbing how much cooler this store is than the street, or the seashore, either, on many days? With its broad aisles, great floor area and perfect system of ventilation, it bids defiance to Old Sol, with his legion of scorching rays. Cold air is being continually pumped into the store and, as a matter of fact, the temperature is always many degrees cooler than the street.

There is everything here conducive to your comfort during the summer months.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Making things hum! That's the sort of business we like—brisk sales, quick returns and constant activity. There's an enthusiasm about it. We cut the rich manufacturers' profit down when we get to them with a big order in one hand and cash in the other.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Canada.

We believe it pays to sacrifice profits now rather than carry goods over. It's the policy that keeps us always first with the new season's goods. No old stock; no back numbers; our stock is always new, clean and fresh. During this sale we will offer bargains that are bargains.—Davenport Tailoring Co., Davenport, Iowa.

Take our invitation often—walk in and around.—P. H. Vose Co., Bangor.

The success of Good Merchandising.—Our stock of clothing and furnishings was never so free from undesirable goods as now. Just as soon as we discover a slow selling line, just as fast as we make odds and ends and broken lines, we cut the price way down, and put them on the bargain table to be sold at bargain prices. That's the reason why our stock is always so clean and fresh, and especially this spring.—Benoit, Bangor, Me.

We will make this the greatest money-saving sale on record. It shall surpass all our former efforts in bargain giving. Don't miss this grand bargain opportunity. It's the chance you seldom get. Get something for almost nothing.—Reps, Jungk & Co., Davenport, Iowa.

Better act quickly before someone else does. Our bargain window is getting to be quite an attraction. Large gatherings of people every morning watch the One Dollar reduction and pick up what bargains there are. Some one will get left if they delay too long on deciding on that.—People's Furniture Co., Crookstown, Minn.

Four reasons why this store is becoming more and more conspicuous as Bloomington's shopping center, and why our sales are increasing daily. The public's absolute certainty of the goodness of every line of merchandise; the almost unlimited assortments and always very complete selections; the time-tried satisfaction resulting from every individual transaction; the public's entire confidence that our prices are positively the lowest.—A. Livingston & Sons, Bloomington, Ill.

Spring is here and so are we. With a store full of goods for this season; better goods than ever before, and low prices, we will give you good value for your money. Money back if goods prove unsatisfactory.—Szold & Son, Peoria.

Some after-opening thoughts. Charming weather, rooms veritable summertime bowers, and prettier hats and gowns, we think you'll agree with us, you have never seen. Opening days certainly supplied delightful entertainment. Garnishings are gone now, but the hats and gowns are here—that is those you didn't take away. Plans were made for your demands however.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Time and experience shows us more and more exclusively that the way to people's favor is to do their pocket books good. Good goods do that as well as lower prices. This is above all a good goods store.—The Coulton & Davis Co., Alliance, Ohio.

McConnell's Monday bargains lead, because the values offered are the best, the choice offered is the greatest, the styles offered are the newest, the truth is told about them. The whirl of spring trade runs merrily along. Every day in the week finds us busy in every department.—McConnell & Co., Scranton, Pa.

From every side come urgent demands upon the advertiser to tell the story of new things. Merchandise managers are bubbling over with enthusiasm about their splendid stocks. A dictionary of superlatives is needed, and never better deserved than now. The enthusiasm is contagious. It is in the air. The store is dressed to please you. The window displays were never more charming. But there is more definite delight among the new goods—the new styles, new patterns, new colorings, new everything.—The Trust Co., Jersey City, N. J.

Read our Friday store news and believe it as you would a letter from home.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

Garbade, Eiband & Co. offer for today some extraordinary good values of attractive merchandise. You can't do just as well elsewhere—come see!—Garbade, Eiband & Co., Galveston, Texas.

You can't keep a good store down! Just as "ability will assert itself," so, too, reliability and trustworthiness in a store will make themselves known and felt. The Ottumwa Store, Forges to the front.—S. C. Cullen & Co., Ottumwa.

We'll come right to the point in this fifth semi-annual challenge sale of ours by announcing ten very remarkable specials to be held at 15-minute and 30-minute periods on Monday. We intend to stimulate your interest in this 4-weeks' sale to a high point; so we offer you a series of superb bargains as a starter. Below are ten very seasonable commodities picked from the cream of our tremendous spring stock. They are yours at startling prices during the periods named. Be on time!—The O. T. Johnson Co., Galesburg, Ill.

Everyone is invited. Beauty runs riot in the new garments and materials provided for spring wear.—Saginaw Dry Goods and Carpet Co., Saginaw, Mich.

Beautiful store decorations. 'Tis but a step from the bustle and hurry of State Street into the midst of spring. Everything suggests spring in this store; the entire main aisle from State to Dearborn Streets reveals a spectacle of marvelous beauty. At close intervals are lifesize statues of the Goddess of Spring, holding sprays of lilies, embedded in which are electric lights, garlands and streamers of flowers, suggestive of this time of the year, and thousands of strands of wild smilax, apple blossoms and overhanging branches are draped from the ceiling and columns. Color reigns supreme—the bright colors of spring—and the store puts on a gala aspect appropriate to this season. A sight worth coming miles to see.—The Fair, Chicago, Ill.

What makes a sale? Not advertising. Not empty claims to greatness. Not space. Not mere bulk of merchandise. But: The right goods. The right styles. The right prices.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

The scope, character and conduct of this business should impress you with the fact that our guarantee guarantees.—Benner, Begg & Garvin, Grand Forks.

When the Owl says "Special" you can depend on it that something special is doing and that it will be worth your while to be there.—Owl Drug Store, Kansas City, Mo.

You can depend on these goods being exactly as we describe them. When Weisser's says it, it's so, and Weisser's never disappoint.—Weisser, Low & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

We say to you personally that we firmly believe that no one else can or will sell you such honest quality for the same money. When a house like Freed's makes such a statement, it should set you thinking—as you know it's fact.—Freed Furniture & Carpet Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

When wisdom goes a-shopping for dry goods now-a-days you'll see the name of "White's" at the top of her memorandum list. She seeks the offerings of these stores because she so well knows that they are dependable. Every day is increasing the number of purchasers who have realized that the John White & Co. offering of dry goods is rich in sterling worth and money savings.—John White & Co., Woodstock, Ont.

It's the unusual that attracts. Great value is the magnet that draws. Worth makes bargains. They're here. Mediocre methods and merchandise must take a back seat when we announce anything unusual at this store. There will be busy days here because we offer some unusually attractive prices. Friday and Saturday will be bargain days in every sense of the word—they will be days replete with bargain surprises.—Ed. Kiam, Houston, Texas.

Ben. Franklin said: "A penny saved is a penny earned." Now we are offering every one in Peoria a chance to earn money by saving money. We want to help you to make your home cosy and comfortable by replacing that piece of worn-out furniture, or that old carpet or those faded draperies, and we help you to cut down the expense of the change so small that you'll hardly feel it.—Comstock-Avery Furniture Co., Peoria, Ill.

In the basement. The place for slender purses—good, worthy merchandise—not fine, but honest—at little prices.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia.

Our goods are way up in quality, way down in price. We give you honest values, courteous attention and prompt service, and have "something new" every day in the week.—H. S. Chase & Co., Des Moines, Iowa.

Talk is cheap. But newspaper space costs money. Not many words, but every one straight to the point. Absolute facts backed by a positive guarantee—money back if you are not satisfied. Prices that will bring you north on Main street to Royce's Big Store to-morrow.—Royce Dry Goods Company, Kansas City, Mo.

Nothing second-rate. Day after day, week in and week out, we talk goods and prices until people are apt to take the store for granted, and accept for a fact that we have whatever they happen to need. We insist that everything here shall be exactly as represented, and when we say that, we lift the business above the commonplace.—Scroggie, Montreal.

What you get for your money is as important as the amount you pay. A low price without quality does not constitute a bargain. This is a quality store, the merchandise that we sell must be good or it don't get in here, that's all. This is why we can and do guarantee perfect satisfaction to our customers. It is a policy that has succeeded, too, and has made ours the largest business of its kind in this vicinity.—Chandler & Co., Bangor, Me.

In the keen desire to do better by you than other houses dare to, we've cut prices down to the "point of least resistance" to flow the goods out and bring you in. And you mustn't lag in the race for these good things or you'll find yourself unable to grasp the offered advantages; for the bell rings each hour in and out with sharp strokes of warning; and its tones mean that prices fly back to regular with the first beat of the gong. You'll make money coming here and buying such bargains as these all the day long.—The Furst Co., Jersey City.

This store is a perpetual exposition of the newest and best merchandise from every part of the world. Exact information is what we give you, as exact as the time table of a railroad.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

All in a nut shell. This store, in connection with eight other stores, having such enormous buying and selling facilities enables us to be known as "The store that saves you money."—Household Outfitting Co., Scranton, Pa.

Investigate our new ideas, easy terms, liberal treatment, large assortments in every department, and the general matters of modern, up-to-date live merchandising, and you will find that we have left our would-be competitors so far behind that they cannot be seen in the race for public favor.—Krieger & Co., South Norwalk, Conn.

"Things are not always what they seem," wrote some sage. Here is another: "Things are not always what they are represented." Experience has taught us that it is business policy to be fair and square in all dealings. To be reliable is an enviable reputation. This store makes good every claim we make. We are striving to obtain a reputation for fair and honest dealings. We make no misrepresentations, at least it is never our intention to do so, and if you are dissatisfied we make good every claim.—Charles S. Sleppy, Parkersburg, W. Va.

All the goods offered in this sale are fresh, new and up-to-date, and everything is going at an extraordinary bargain. We are bringing forward for rapid clearance our highest grade and most seasonable merchandise. We have been left with an unusually heavy stock, and we will shatter all bargain records in clearing them away in haste. Prices cut far below the profit line.—L. J. Brandeis & Sons, Omaha, Neb.

Last week is this week! Rather, this week is the last week of our great 25 per cent. discount sale. There's real worth in our offering. Does money-saving interest you? If it does, investigate. Here are honest goods, full of value, with even an honest profit frozen out of them.—Scharps, Galesburg, Ill.

You will remember we guarantee complete satisfaction on everything we sell you, or your money will be refunded.—Hallenstein Furniture and Carpet Co., Joliet, Ill.

Enterprise, energy, economy, coupled with advanced ideas—conscientious in details and studying your every comfort—make quick selling here.—Reynold, Troy, N. Y.

Watch our advertisements—they are dependable. We only use the superlative when it can be used advisedly. When we say "Best" it's a fact; not a phrase.—Stickley Brandt Co., Binghamton.

That firm has the best claims to commercial supremacy that is always first in the field with new merchandise, best qualities, lowest prices, and above all—honorable store methods.—The Hamburger Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

The voice of the people. It has spoken, and in unmistakable tones, that the "Big Store" is pre-eminently the people's great shopping center, where every want of the person and the home can be filled.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York.

Right now in the heart of the season, when fashions are at their prettiest is when this store is at its best. There is a certainty that what we sell is correct and what you buy will please.—Campbell Bros., Woodstock, Ont.

You cannot become an expert on furniture, but you can deal with a house that sells on honor as we do and feel assured that what you buy is the kind you want, and that the price is as low as shrewd buying and careful business judgment can devise. Visitors always welcome!—The Greenwald Furniture Company, Salt Lake City, Utah.

The foundation of good store keeping is to have the right thing at the right price, at the right time. If you will drop into our store we will satisfy you that this is the way we are keeping store, and if you don't get served quicker, better and at lower prices than elsewhere, we won't ask you to come again.—The Central Store Co., Youngstown, Ohio.

A garden of economy. Every item, every line below, shows a possibility of economy, and this store is a whole garden of such possibilities. So gather the seeds. Read the list.—The Robert Simpson Company, Toronto, Ont.

Life, snap, push, energy, are all characteristics of this store. We have no use for a dead and alive sort of a business. We believe nothing succeeds like success. We're after more business and we're getting it. We want you to visit this store; make yourself at home. You are just as welcome whether you look or buy.—J. B. Hill & Co. St. Thomas.

It would be a difficult task to adequately describe the great possibilities for advantageous buying that await you in this store to-day. Every item, even to the smallest detail that goes to make our stock complete and our store-service perfect, has received the most careful attention. Nothing useful has been omitted, nothing superfluous has been included. The newest and best spring goods are here in the widest varieties, at the lowest prices possible.—Bergerman Bros., Pueblo, Colo.

Every day this store wins new friends—discriminating buyers who have been taught by sheer force of values and qualities, that it is to their interest to trade here. The good things in this store are not spasmodic; on the contrary you will find them here every day in the year. We would count that day lost on which we could not show some improvement—an advancement that will help us serve you better than any other store on the coast. We run this store to suit you—that's why you are privileged to bring back anything which home judgment tells you you do not want, whether the mistake is ours or yours. That's the spirit of this store.—John Breuner Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Every item on this page spells E-C-O-N-O-M-Y in blazing letters. Today begins the new business year of the Hengerer Co., and we show our appreciation of your splendid support by presenting a page of items that for absolute worth stand unrivalled. Weigh this fact well. Here is no undesirable merchandise, the accumulation of seasons past, rejected by the purchasing public. Every item is fresh, clean and bright, a large share bought under the most favorable circumstances for this very sale. Keep this fact ever before you—that every reduction is a genuine reduction. There is no juggling with values here. As you read it here you'll find it at the Hengerer store when you come to buy. Our regular prices are low—none undersell us. Judge then as you read every item below, what a money-saving opportunity we are presenting. Ready Wednesday morning at 8.30. Gold or green stamps as you prefer, with every

The buying power of money is at its height just now. Dollars are doing double and triple duty—yes, even more. In our determination to make immediate clearance of many lots of winter goods now on hand we are cutting prices down to the lowest notch. In addition there are many sales now in progress including furniture, refrigerators, domestics, silks, etc. If you have any regard for economy you will make it a point to see for yourself the splendid values to be had throughout this big establishment.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

The Mannheimer guarantee. Every purchase can be made with perfect confidence that every article will be sold as low or lower than the same article or pattern can be had in any other St. Paul store on the day of sale. Quality for quality, we guarantee you in every case our prices to be the lowest.—Mannheimer Bros., St. Paul, Minn.

"Crisp as new money." The writer mingling in the thick of the throng, in order to overhear and record the comments of disinterested visitors to the sale of muslin underwear was struck with the spontaneous metaphor "Crisp as new money." Uttered by an appreciative woman as she surveyed the wide-stretching heaps of garments. She hit it off accurately and epigrammatically.—Gilchrist Company, Boston, Mass.

A Money-saving celebration of the Glorious Fourth of July.—There will be a daily explosion of prices in all departments, and profits will be rent asunder. A razzling, dazzling pyrotechnic display of values will be in constant action. Your attention is called to a fragmentary portion of the good things we have. We can save you money to blow on the 4th.—Strouse Bros., Evansville.

Coming sale for the "Fourth."—Our celebration of the "Fourth" is a celebration of low prices. It's unique. For celebrations go up in the air. Ours come down. On Saturday you may see what it all means—a booming sale—popping prices—all that you may the more thoroughly enjoy the noisiest day of the year and the only holiday in summer.—The Edw. Malley Co., New Haven, Conn.

For practical Christmas presents this collection would be well worth while at regular prices. At the astonishing prices we name, they are prizes that should not be missed. We believe them to be the greatest values ever offered to such a time.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

"Best sight of the whole city!" "Wouldn't have missed it for anything." Such are the expressions we hear daily on the lips of visitors. Such it is our constant endeavor to make Wanamaker's. The store is superb in its decorations—a scenic thing of beauty; but it is infinitely more to visitors and home-folks who make educative visits to familiarize themselves with new fashions, new fabrics, and other new wear-things and home-things for the season that reigns with the dawn of to-morrow.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Listen! The style and character of garments here are equal to any on the street. In fact, ladies are frank enough and kind enough to tell us that they have shopped every store and our prices for equally as good garments are from $3.00 to $10.00 less. Suppose you put this statement to the test.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you are pleased, tell others; if not, tell us. My object is to make my store an ideal one. The comfort and convenience of my patrons is my constant thought, and any suggestion tending to further this view will be heartily welcomed.—S. M. Jackson, New York.

Another day of sterling attractions. Splendid savings on needful things arranged with but one end in view, and that to create wants by absolute price attractiveness. Peruse this advertisement carefully, for in every item lurks a story of money-saving that you can ill afford to miss.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Take an old man's advice and do your buying as early as possible. The morning is the best time. We have so many customers in the afternoon that it is sometimes impossible to give them all the attention we would like. The saving power of the dollar is the drawing card. We are often told that our goods are marked lower than others. We know it but we want you to know it too.—N. G. Valiquette, Montreal, Can.

Joyce's great Monday sale to be one of the supreme buying-chances of the times! Assortments are superb! Values unmatched! For weeks back the splendid spring stocks have been pouring in on all sides—from all quarters of the globe! The great suit and skirt section affords by long odds the grandest values of the season! The millinery department is a hall of fashion, a bower of beauty. But stop and gladden your eyes with the artistic creations that have been gathered together under the head of "ladies' furnishings." Did you ever before see so much beauty, so much elegance, so great a variety of both in any one department? Then pass on to our shoe section. Learn therefrom the mandates of Dame Fashion on fine footwear. Press on from aisle to aisle, from counter to counter, apply the sure test of comparison, then ask yourself whether offerings were ever more superb, whether values were ever greater.—Joyce's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Just three days remaining to obtain the bargains of the season. Hundreds of dollars that might have been expended in extravagant advertising, music, souvenirs and decorations will be allowed the purchasers of this week. We believe a pleased and satisfied customer to be the best advertisement of our store. Scores of such are obtained this week. We want to interest you!—Whiffle, Rochester, N. Y.

Saturday a day of specials. Thousands of our regular customers know that whenever we use the term "special" that there's something doing—and there is. This time it's an entire day devoted to special items that is backed up by a price power that means a saving of dollars and cents in addition to our standard of underselling prices, and the group of specials gathered from the various departments are the common, everyday needs that appeal to the saving interests of every economical buyer. Your money back if dissatisfied is a promise that goes with every purchase here. But you won't want it, for every article of merchandise that passes from our hands is stamped with true merit, and the purchase price is what has placed "The Palace" far in advance of all others in the bargain ranks. It's simply our way of buying. But about the specials. That's the "it" of it now.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

We are always thinking and planning to make this the most interesting spot for ladies to meet their friends and pick up bargains in reliable up-to-date dry goods.—James Shea, Hamilton, Can.

We make a specialty of showing the new styles first—and you have heard that from your neighbors—and if you doubt it, satisfy yourself by calling.—C. W. Daniels, Pueblo, Colo.

We allow no house to undersell us or make easier terms. Prices marked in plain figures. Money's worth or money back. Thirty-five thousand open accounts on our books speak for the fair treatment of our customers.—T. Kelly, New York.

Goods well bought are easily sold. Such we buy and such we sell.—Fairley Bros. & Fairley, Colorado Springs, Colo.

The buying public has never been duped into accepting a spurious value here. If you see an article advertised in our Daily Store News, rest assured that we appreciate the expense of newspaper space too highly to allow any but the worthiest offerings to appear. Here are to-morrow's trade-getting items—with profits leaning interestingly your way.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

We started this sale with thousands of pieces of the best furniture ever displayed. We have sold constantly and fast from it since without making any appreciable impression on the assortment. To-day the variety seems as large as when we commenced, of course, we know it is not, but it seems to be. A customer will be exacting indeed who fails of finding what he wants here.—Duff & Repp Furniture Co., Kansas City, Mo.

A word about fall goods.—A complete transformation has been wrought. The summer things of yesterday have given place to the merchandise that hints of turning leaves and hazy atmosphere; and, although the autumn harvest even at this early date is strikingly comprehensive, it is to our notion of things still incomplete. The finished showing is but a matter of days, however, for every hour unfolds something interestingly new. In a word, we are ready if you are.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Glance through our ad—your glance will change to a searching look.—Szold & Son, Peoria, Ill.

There are numberless other values not advertised that are just as strong.—The Fair, Chicago, Ill.

Everything is in fine fettle. We're ready—yes, splendidly ready—with one of the grandest expositions of bright new autumn merchandise it has ever been our pleasure to announce, and we extend you an invitation to attend our third annual fall opening in the new store. You will find us prepared to fit you out from top-toe with the most beautiful creations of the master minds of the world of fashion. European ingenuity and American skill have combined to make this an event that will long be remembered by Newark folk, and the lessons in economy which we shall teach here during the coming week will be both pleasing and convincing. You'll come—of course, you'll come—and marvel at the immensity of the display made possible by our far-reaching influence on both sides of the Atlantic, and not the least important feature of this great occasion is our invariable policy of selling on a margin of profit so close to cost as to prove positively that Newark shopping is profitable.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Owing to circumstances over which we have no control—the weather—our remnant sale will be continued Wednesday.—Hirschmann Bros., Binghamton.

Small wonder that in the face of the steady advance of incoming fall merchandise, prices on summer goods yet remaining should totter and fall.—The New Store, Minneapolis, Minn.

The fairy who presides over low prices planned that this Red Tag Sale should outdo all previous Red Tag Sales, and that is just what it is doing.—Stern & Bernheim, Altoona, Ga.

We are “cleaning house” and there are many pieces to move; we would rather move them to your house than to some other part of the store; hence low prices as a result.—The York Furniture Co., York, Pa.

How do we undersell? Buying in wholesale quantities and paying spot cash. Money talks, and if you understand its language, you will do well to heed when it speaks in such positive tones of economy.—Babcock, Hinds & Underwood, Binghamton, N. Y.

A growing store, and why? We intend that this store shall always be one of the sights of Williamsport—the best store for the supplying of personal or household needs. Sensational? No, strong—a helpful store. We hear it every day that Bush & Bull prices are the lowest prices. This is natural. If a store had not made itself necessary, there would be no room for it. You make stores grow.—The Bush & Bull Co., Williamsport, Pa.

Another aggressive Monday.—Do you know where we get that word “aggressive”? Of course, you don't. It came to us this way:

One day this week a gentleman, strolling through the store, said to one of our people: “You folks are the most aggressive storekeepers in this big city. I pick up a paper and the first thing I notice is one of your great pages. You should see my wife go through the page. It would interest you. The way you have of bringing people to your store is what I call aggressiveness.”—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

The difference between a legitimate bargain and the imitation is as radical as the difference between vice and virtue.—Douthett & Graham, Youngstown, O.

Any store can put big stories into the papers, but no firm can show you the styles nor save you the money we can. Don't take our word for it. Compare our goods and prices with those elsewhere, then be your own judge.—Shannon's, Columbus, Ohio.

Use Jacob's stock as a measure stick. Using our stock as a measure stick with which to measure any other stock in the country and you'll find two things—they will fall short in variety and completeness and in prices article by article.—Jacob's Pharmacy, Atlanta, Ga.

It's our intention that every customer shall receive full value for every dollar spent under this roof for furniture, carpets and housefurnishings. We value the enduring appreciation of those who transact business with us. We sell good reliable goods at just and honest prices. An examination of our stock will readily prove this.—French & Bassett, Duluth.

Get divorced.—We know a man will stand a lot from his wife before divorcing her, and he often stands a lot of bad treatment from his favorite store before divorcing himself. There is a regular Dakota divorce business going on here. We are winning many old time, staunch customers from other stores. We make the change easy. We give more value, more courtesy, more change.—Frank N. Simmons Co., Cincinnati, O.

Character in Commerce.—The worth of a store, as of a man, depends on character. The growth of the "S. & M." store proclaims its character. Growth is the sign-manual of health. Only the healthy seed and the well-nourished shoot produce the strong plant.

The essence of commercial health is fair dealing. Commercial growth is nourished only by intelligent management and enterprise. Years of commercial health—honest dealing in the best goods at the fairest prices—have given the "S. & M." store its sound constitution; its giant stature has been attained by alert enterprise and intelligent direction.—Schlesinger & Meyer, Chicago, Ill.

With us every day is market day. We don't set aside certain days to give bargains. Every day you will find our prices decidedly lower than any other store in the city. This may be pretty strong argument but we stand ready to back every assertion we make, be it ever so strong. A comparison of quality and price is the only way to convince yourself.—Cramer & Rogers, Trenton.

Upheld by quality.—The May Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Values that overtop them all.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Great strenuous September sale.—Euwer's, Youngstown, Ohio.

Of interest to men of an economical turn.—Dunn, Taft & Co., Columbus, O.

Attention-compelling values.—The Broadway Department Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

The money-wise will need no second bidding to avail themselves of the many extraordinary values this Friday's weeding-out process brings.—Goldenberg's, Washington, D. C.

This store's reputation has been built upon the goodness and cheapness of the merchandise it sells. It's the honest policy of this establishment that attracts people here—and induces them to come back.—Rosenbaum Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

August attractions in the under-price store.—There's no August apathy about the happenings in the Under-price Store. The stream of midsummer merchandise flows through it in a broad, deep tide. You can't help being swept along by the current, in the direction of economy and satisfaction.—Wanamaker's, New York.

That's the word that charms; exclusive.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

We can give you just as much satisfaction as our old customers have been getting these many years.—Combs Lumber Company, Lexington, Ky.

Quality never loses its charm. A well made garment is a constant source of pleasure—a poorly made one, one of constant regret.—Jas. Boyd, Denison.

The biggest bargain opportunity ever heard of.—Wm. Doerflinger's, La Crosse.

Spicy bargains.—Jacoby Bros., Los Angeles, Cal.

Euwer, he holds the goods. All carpets during this sale will be laid away and held until you are ready for them, by paying one-fourth down.—The Euwer Store, Youngstown, Ohio.

Every offering we make is as genuine and straightforward as if it was an affidavit for a court of justice. If you buy of us once you'll be so pleased with your purchase that you'll buy here always.—Dewend-Kuschmann Furniture Co., Moline, Ill.

A short story. A gentleman and wife stopped in front of our show windows the other day. Weren't coming in, at first. "Looks high-priced," the man said. Finally decided to venture in. The rest is soon told. Bought liberally—went out delighted. Have you visited this store yet?—H. E. Scholle & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Appetizing bargains.—Crawford's, St. Louis, Mo.

Red hot sale.—The Hocker-King Dry Goods Co., Denison, Texas.

A rousing sale.—Cohn's, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Sparkling seasonable specials.—Good-fellow's, Minneapolis, Minn.

Bargains gems of the most brilliant hue.—The Busy Corner, Washington.

Our stock is like a river—always moving.—J. Waterman's, Bangor, Me.

"Keep cool" wearables in profusion.—Steiger's, Westfield, Mass.

Crisp news for to-day, but scintillant with seasonable economies.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

A winning combination, the sterling qualities of all goods offered here and the stirring prices that go with them.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

If low prices attract you—if a large variety pleases you—if an assurance of reliability appeals to you, then your own self-interest should prompt you to turn to Tonkin's for every clothing or furnishing need.—Tonkin's, Butte, Mont.

Echoes from the three matchless clearance sales.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles.

"Quality the maximum, price the minimum."—Titche Goettinger Co., Dallas.

True economy is not so much in paying the smallest price, but in paying the smallest price and getting the best merchandise.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Why is our great store continually crowded? As the needle follows the magnet, so does the public follow the greatest values. We never lose sight of that fact—hence we offer values that tower—simply tower—above competition.—Adams & Co., New York.

For go-aways and stay-at-homes.—There are lots of big and little things that the average man and woman doesn't think of when going on a journey or preparing for a holiday that would minister greatly to their comfort if they did happen to think of them in time. We play the role of suggestors, and here are a few suggestions for July.—J. N. Adams & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Prices, for they have drawn the crowds and packed the store. Pluck it requires to put the knife into values so that not a vestige of the profit remains. Principle to chalk the line and hew close to it, let the chips fall where they may. Imitators will spring up, pirates may attack us, but the public recognizes the legitimacy of our sale, and shows its approval by its generous patronage.—Boucher, Butte, Mont.

Doing the greatest summer business in our history—and doing it with the least noise and fuss and trouble. That's a well nigh perfect system at work. Delays are annoying at any time, unbearable in summer. So we have learned to hurry orders—to rush those that come by phone or mail out by the earliest delivery, to give the quickest service to those who come to the store. But we have learned to hurry carefully—to give the quickest service and at the same time not to forget that Loeser service must be the best service. Whatever you need in clothes or home furnishings to make you comfortable is here. And all through the store great under price sales present economies that are remarkable.—Fred-erick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

In addition to sharing our bargain-driving with you, we guarantee every suit you buy, regardless of its price. You simply can't lose. That's the way we want to be, and we're always here to stand back of any statement we make in our advertising.—14th Street Store, New York.

In all our dealings we consider to-morrow; we consider our reputation; we consider your future patronage; therefore, we sell garments only on what you and we can depend.—Wells & Coverly, Cohoes, N. Y.

How we've prepared for to-morrow. Not only for Children's Day needs, but for all other needs you may have for personal use and in housekeeping needs; well, every department in the store will vie with its neighbor to-morrow for a share of your attention. And how splendidly ready every department is, never was there a time when we were better equipped to meet your every need. The more exacting you are regarding prices, qualities and varieties the better pleased you will be with to-morrow's store doings here. Among the many things you'll find when you come will be these.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton.

To-morrow we start the last week of this, our greatest of Before Inventory Stock Reducing Sales. Values as we have given have been unknown heretofore. It has been our whole desire to reduce our stocks to the lowest point before stock taking time, August 1st, and have priced merchandise accordingly. The final effort will produce values that are even greater than those we have been giving, only a few of which find space below.—The David Straus Co., Newark.

Marvelous merchandising.—The Simon Clothing Co., Des Moines, Ia.

Tickle us with an order, we'll tickle you with the result.—Clark Engraving Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Dissolution sale is attracting swarms of buyers!—The Family Shoe Store, Washington, D. C.

Every department offers its quota of bargains. Every aisle holds its full share of under-pricings.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Never have bargain prices included such a wide range of assortments and best qualities as in these mid-summer clearance sales now at their height.—Hayden Bros., Omaha, Neb.

A sale absolutely without peer or parallel from almost every standpoint—variety, beauty, richness of qualities and lowness of prices.—Case, Gravelle & Ervin Co., Anaconda, Mont.

If you are fishing for bargains be sure that your hook is cast in the right place. Let us "drop a line" about some money saving opportunities that await you.—Dunn, Taft & Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Autumn goods are nothing more than hot-weather goods, for mysterious Nature has seen fit to throw some of her mellowness away into months that we used to consider months for some of her freakishness. Most of the goods that will be offered in the next fifteen days are of a character that permits them to be used into November. That is a good long spell.—Jos. Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Changing conditions, changing the prices, changing everything. Recapitalizing — rebuilding — rearranging — restocking and reorganizing with a price power and prestige on the world's markets surpassed by no house on the continent. It presages a new order of things—a change of momentous importance to the smart shoppers of Chicago—as evidenced by this page of phenomenal prices.—Schiesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

Our own regular stocks furnish many of the sale specials—but not all of them. One requires only a glance at the busy store these days to realize that we are aiding a great many manufacturers to dispose of their surplus lines. Take a stroll through the store, price the offerings, inspect the qualities, ask questions, make comparisons freely—and you will understand some of the reasons why Macy's is such a lively shopping place. One other reason—it is a centrally-located store—cool, modern, affording every shopping convenience.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

Carefully selected beach necessities.—Every camper or cottager who goes to the beach has use for scores of things, either for comfort or personal adornment, that are not required in town. The pleasure attendant upon making your preparations is likely to cause you to forget some of the things you will need most—so make this entire page your shopping list—and to-day the one in which to make your purchases. Whether you are going to spend a day, week or month at the seashore, some articles will be required. You need a vacation, take it now.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

This great mid-summer sale is a great time for bargains. Crowds! All through the store there are throngs of people as this is written, eager to get their share of the unparalleled offering we told of in yesterday's paper. August a "dull" month? Not a bit of it, when there are such chances to economize as this first week in August brings. Hundreds of the offerings are here in such large quantities that to-morrow's choosing will be almost as fine as to-day. But we cannot give many details for fear of disappointing you. There are great savings now for those who come promptly. It is a rousing, old-fashioned, value giving sale.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Final summer sale.—The invading army of fall stock is approaching. We cannot let it meet the depleted ranks of the retiring summer forces. It would be bad generalship. This store stands for everything that is progressive; and modern merchandising does not countenance keeping goods over the season. This final summer sale marks the end. The goods are yours. The prices are too small to be in the reckoning.—Goodfellow's Minneapolis, Minn.

These are busy days for Santa Claus. He has to be everywhere at once, peeping around corners to see who are the good girls and boys; trying to find out what everybody wants, so that he can make everybody happy on Christmas morning. Then he has to come to Wanamaker's and get everything ready to fill the thousands of stockings on Christmas morning. But Santa Claus and every one else find Wanamaker's wonderfully helpful in getting things for Christmas. Here are the broadest, choicest stocks of holiday goods to be found in Greater New York, a safe, convenient, comfortable store, efficient and courteous salespeople.—Wanamaker's, New York.

When you buy what's best, you need buy but seldom. When you buy what's "cheap," you're buying all the time.—M. R. Emmons Company, Atlanta, Ga.

A Miss-Fit and a Miss-Hit.—Miss the fit you miss the hit—miss the Miss. Hit the fit, you're fit for a hit—make a hit with the Miss. We make the fit.—Bliss, Swain & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

We believe it pays to sacrifice profits now rather than carry goods over. It's the policy that keeps us always first with the new season's goods. No old stock; no back numbers; our stock is always new, clean and fresh. During this sale we will offer bargains that are bargains.—Davenport Tailoring Co., Davenport, Iowa.

No matter when your vacation is coming, you'll need things that we have. Don't put off buying till our stocks and your time and money are short.—Waddock's, New York, N. Y.

Ever stop to think when the thermometer is climbing how much cooler this store is than the street, or the seashore, either, on many days? With its broad aisles, great floor area and perfect system of ventilation, it bids defiance to Old Sol, with his legion of scorching rays. Cold air is being continually pumped into the store and, as a matter of fact, the temperature is always many degrees cooler than the street.

There is everything here conducive to your comfort during the summer months.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Thoroughness.—If everybody did his or her part of the world's work, what an easy time we all would have. Did you ever think of it? Yet the day's work is before us all, simple and easy to do for the most part. And in the doing we train for higher things, as the athlete must steadily practice before he can win the race.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

There lives in this sturdy little metropolis a fine old gentleman who has such a fine sense of honor that he would rather continue in his present line of work at a modest salary than to go where he could earn several times his present income because he feels that he can do more good here. "Yes," he said to a friend one day, "I could make several thousand more a year if I'd go to C—, but I won't for I couldn't do the work conscientiously. I'd be nothing more than a hireling, and in a few years I'd be forgotten, and in all probability, despised for having used my talents for purely mercenary motives." This is the type of man we like to know, and, although some persist in saying, "Every man is for himself now-a-days," let us bear in mind that such examples are becoming more numerous and that we are steadily marching to a higher plane. Let us hope that the time is not far distant when every business will be carried on with the same integrity, and when all advertisements will ring with sincerity.—Goldthwait & Sons Co., Marion, Ind.

Every day some novelty or change appears that appeals to your taste, your need or your love of information. This fact makes our advertising valuable news. You can ill afford to ignore it.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

This has been the best and busiest January of any on our records, though it's generally supposed to be a quiet month, but not so here; we are glad to say that in this store it was a very busy one; indeed, we made it so by offering to the dry goods buying public clean, new, seasonable, reliable and up-to-date merchandise at such small prices that none could resist. We are going to make the month of February still a busier one, by making still greater reductions, further cutting of prices, more sacrificing of values on dependable goods that must be disposed of now; must get them out to make room for the new spring goods soon to arrive.—The Paris D. G. Store, Great Falls, Mont.

At last we've finished counting up our gains and losses for the year of 1904. It's been a great deal more work than ever before, because we have done so much more business. We have made a profit—one that's fair to you, as well as to ourselves, for that's the way our business is conducted. As for the volume of business transacted—that's tremendously greater than in any previous year in our history. What an immense amount of satisfaction it is to be able to say that. It's proof positive that you have the utmost confidence in our methods of shop-keeping. In direct proportion to the increase in our business is the vast collection of odd lots remaining from the past season's selling. And it's these that we want to particularly speak of to-day. Following our well known policy of selling in each season all the goods purchased for that season, we have taken all such lots, and lowered their prices to but a fraction of their real worth, well knowing that the values now offered you can not fail to accomplish our object, namely the complete preparation of our stocks for the coming spring goods. These values need no further comment.—P. A. Bergner & Co., Peoria, Ill.

Everyone of the many visitors in the city this week is urgently invited to accept "The Denver's" hospitality. It is not necessary to make purchases. Those who come for sightseeing and to make the acquaintance of this big, bright "Everybody's Store" are as cordially welcome as the others who come to buy. Use our accommodation desk, where you may receive checks for any burdensome bundles, wraps or hand baggage you care to leave. Consult railway time table, city directory, buy stamps or money orders, send telegrams, rest, wait for friends, read, write letters or watch the throngs from the ladies' balcony. All of this at your leisure and your pleasure and please do not feel that you intrude.—The Denver Dry Goods Co., Denver.

Read them again, please: Exclusiveness, novelty, variety, quality. Exclusiveness is a hackneyed term. We mean rather uncommonness, out-of-the-way-ness. We keep things that are "different," that can't be found in every little men's shop in the street. We search among the New York importers twice a year for them. Practically every good furnishing in this country is offered us; and we plan many things ourselves. The linen mesh underwear that hardens every man that wears it; the two-for-quarter collars (linen both sides); the splendid coat shirts that even men who haven't got rheumatism can appreciate; the famous $1 dress shirt; the neckwear; the gloves, the socks, the suspenders, the pajamas—all stand for the purpose of the store; to enable Peoria men to dress distinctively, individually, different from every man they meet. There is room for such a store or we would never have grown so large. Growth in our case is not simply expanse—keeping thousands of the same thing; but growth in novelty and variety, the paradox of growing large, yet exclusive.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Just merchandise—else this week's great throngs of customers would not have been able to move about comfortably. Just merchandise—yet in every section of the store there is something that everybody is especially anxious to see; for the new things are pouring in. Just merchandise—though embracing so much of novelty; revealing so many new ideas; illustrating so diversely the outcroppings of genius; embodying so fully the beauties of the world's work, that all is resolved into an educational institution. Whatever is to be learned of modes and fabrics, of colors, of design, of art and utility—in short of correct things for personal or home use—is best learned here. To show the freshest and best the world produces, to show it with most careful regard for the enjoyment and convenience of our visitors, to sell it at the lowest possible prices and serve promptly and intelligently—this sums up our method and purpose of storekeeping. As for the store-home itself—comfort above everything. If need be, architectural beauty is sacrificed to this. Our growth has been great, the increase steadily cumulative—simply through the right buying and selling of good merchandise.—Olds, Wortman & King, Portland, Ore.

If you belong to the "do care" class you can ill afford to miss coming here, for in each and every instance the word economy bobs up on such goods that are given preference at this season of the year. We solicit your Friday patronage and will have it if you are inclined to invest when the profits to be derived therefrom are so noticeably large.—J. Bacon & Sons, Louisville, Ky.

Never saw such crowds in all our career! Everybody buying—buying to their heart's content. Everybody realizes the fact that to stay away means to pass the greatest midwinter clothes-buying chance you ever had, and perhaps you ever will have. If you don't grasp this opportunity quickly, some one else will take what should be yours, and the saving goes into the other fellow's pocket—the other woman's purse.—N. Y. Store, Phoenix, Ariz.

Sooner or later one learns the lesson of true economy, that it pays best to patronize the store that insists upon its standard being maintained in the smallest as well as the most important articles it carries. To this fact is largely due the tremendous growth of this business. Our buying system has sifted this problem and found the road to success at the bottom. You buy on the system from us to your own profit and have recognized the fact that you are practicing economy in so doing. Besides the high standard of merchandise at the lowest prices, you will find in this store the unwavering desire to treat you better than any other house. A cheerful spirit of willingness to show our goods will meet you at every turn.—R. McKay & Co., Hamilton, Can.

Facetious, though possibly unfounded, was the paradox recently perpetrated by a stump-speaker concerning a candidate for a high office: "That man," said he, "has an immense personal following, especially where he is not well known." And the same can be said of many a merchant who is indebted to mail orders for most of his trade. Isn't it worthy of note that our trade is largest amongst the people right here in Pueblo and especially amongst those who have known us longest.—Moch Bros., Pueblo, Colo.

A few years ago in winter time we spent the days hibernating in the quiet farmhouse, with dreary vistas of snow stretching to the horizon's veil, every way the vision traveled. Uneventful, yet full of small sweet joys were those days in that other world—that far distant life, because it is another world, another life. The other day we were on a train, glancing from the windows we saw the sun shining across the frosty shimmer of wintry snow. We saw the little quiet farmhouse with the blue shaft of smoke coming from the chimney. We saw the millions of beautiful colored ice-crystals on the window shedding forth resplendent pictures that would put to envy the most precious diamond, and we knew it was excessively cold. Strange it seemed, that this brilliant sunshine can be thus pouring its beautiful rays into a scene of such frigid, frozen landscape, and that the same sun will in next August cast his rays, no more plentiful perhaps, into the same landscape, which will then be sweltering torrid stretches, abounding in almost tropical vegetation. And here we are to-day at our desk in the heart of a great city, listening (when we listen) to the roar, the clang of street car bells, the rumble of countless wagons on paved streets, the cries of newsboys, the shriek of distant locomotive whistles, and within the store that constant restless rumble which is made by a thousand noises broken into bits and thrown into the ceaseless flood that roars and rumbles through the active hours throughout the days and weeks of this store's life. There are the noises of the pneumatic cash carriers, the constant never-ceasing passenger elevators with their peculiar reverberations indicating the swift approach or swift departure into the depths of the deep shafts. There are the calls of the inspectors and the salespeople, the tramp of thousands of feet where crowding shoppers are active. Then there is the army of store workers. Their work must have constant attention and co-operation. Ah! what a busy world this is when compared with the quiet, even existence on the farms these dreary wintry days!—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City.

We are well rewarded. The spring-tide business is greater, greater than expected. That's encouraging. Thanks! We have other rich reward. The store has been made attractive with many things to please the eye and gratify the mind. The appreciative response has been enthusiastic. Say all we can of the stocks, you must still take a great deal for granted—words won't tell the story. Proof of the pudding. A store may claim almost anything if it has conscience little enough or enthusiasm large enough. But the final test—the proof of the pudding—is growth. A store's growth is measured by the public support it gets and public support is based on a store's good service every time—on its usefulness in the community. Bigness is not always growth. Some stores have thought so and put up immense buildings and filled them with goods. The aisles still echo with emptiness. Those stores have not proved themselves by service and so they do not grow. The wonderfully increased business that has come to this store in the past year is specially satisfactory because it shows that we are working on right lines. It proves that steady insistence on the best goods, on the smashing of shams, on good, careful, accurate service, on the lowest prices—that that sort of thing tells. Great plans are afoot for the new year—are already beginning to show from day to day. We mean to make still better in the future a service which has always been the best in Brooklyn.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The fine art of masterful merchandising lies in attaining a lower price without sacrifice of excellence. That has been the watchword of this great business. And so it follows we need no expediency to emphasize that truth. Comparisons sustain the claim that we are never undersold.—The H. S. Fall Co., Simcoe.

If we were willing to carry over any goods in any department from one season to the next, then mingle them with the new goods and sell the whole stock as perfectly fresh, perhaps we would not care to call your attention so repeatedly to the fact that all our goods are the latest from the hands of the manufacturers. There is nothing kept over here—everything is sold at one price or another—this fact makes end-of-season opportunities for those who are willing to wait, but most important of all, those who buy in season may confidently rely upon buying the newest, the latest, the best. The new spring attractions may be seen in every department of the store, they permeate every nook and corner. Herewith we'll tell you the story of some of them.—The Scott Dry Goods Co., Cleveland, O.

Important sayings in little things.—Just a matter of a penny here and a nickel there—but the aggregate saving is worth talking about. And the best of it is, it is safe saving. The goods are not cheapened nor their qualities cut. It is only the price that is affected.—The Edward Malley Co., New Haven.

The big midsummer sale extends into the month of August. Selling out of summer goods becomes more vitally necessary as the fall season appears on the horizon and nearer at hand. Prices are lowered to a still lower point and reductions will continue in force till every dollar's worth of warm weather merchandise is gone.—Symons, Butte.

Save money.—The first rung of "fortune's ladder" consists of hard work; all the other rungs of systematic saving. Presuming you are on the first rung, we suggest that if you are not already trading here to commence to-morrow. Our money-saving prices will help you to climb fortune's ladder faster than any other merchant's prices in Kansas City.—M. Quinn, Kansas City, Mo.

We are getting ready for a great autumn business; and, as a result of these preparations, our customers are securing values that are almost unprecedented—our removals, rearrangements and betterments are bringing a host of good things to the front daily. We have no old merchandise to unload on the public. We turn stocks over so rapidly that nothing ever grows stale in The Big Store. If conditions were reversed and you were running this store instead of us, what changes would you make in our business methods?

If you've traded here, you'll be able to answer this question. If you haven't—why haven't you?—Leopold-Morse Company, Boston, Mass.

That merriest morning of the year, when members of the family come together with gifts in their hands is drawing near. We have now entered the Christmas month, and time is flying like a sleigh over the sparkling snow. Promote your own comfort by calling at the Lambert store this very day.—Lambert Brothers, New York, N. Y.

The splendid savings offered during this sale are a great attraction of themselves. They represent just that much money in your pocket, for if you could purchase designs as pretty as ours elsewhere you would find them decidedly higher in price. You can prove these facts if you take the trouble to compare.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg.

Low prices here don't mean cheap goods. Not a bit of it. We use the term "low prices" in the comparative sense only. Some goods are too cheap for us to handle, others too dear—in neither case do you receive proper returns for money expended. You can shop here with the full assurance that you are getting one hundred cents' worth of value for every dollar spent.—Gasky's, Pittsburg, Pa.

To relieve congestion in our stocks we're selling without profit—even at a loss. Inconsistent, you may be inclined to say, but then many's the act of the progressive merchant that seems not compatible with the laws of trade, but is, just the same. As desperate diseases require desperate remedies, so do conditions contrary to the welfare of a mercantile organization require forceful and stirring action. Stock congestion is not good. It's a case of too much being as bad as not enough. To relieve this congestion, we're selling goods without profit, and in many instances at a loss. We consider it wise money losing, for it relieves us of an uncomfortable position, at the same time giving to you the season's best merchandise at a marked saving.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg.

Dependables. That's a coined word—not in the dictionary. Yet its meaning is plain enough when applied to the Loeser store. This store is dependable—the Loeser name on an article of merchandise means that we have done all that is humanly possible to insure its high character, its appropriateness for the use for which it is intended, its reliability. If it fails after all—and where human hands and brains are concerned there is bound to be occasional falling short of the end desired—we count it a privilege to make it right, promptly and without question.—Fredrick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Nothing reserved. Everything goes. Clean, new goods for less than you could buy second-hand stuff at auction. Out of town dealers can reap a golden harvest by attending this sale, though we prefer that your regular customers should get the benefit of the amazing bargains offered.—Thomas & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

After you've "popped the question" see Friend! At Friend's great special sale of 2, 3 and 4-room complete outfits, you can make every dollar do almost double duty. Good, dependable furniture was never before known to sell for such little money. If we did not positively have to make room for spring exhibits these prices would never have been named.—Friend, Pittsburg, Pa.

With Easter in the distance, spring stocks are rapidly filing in. This big store is gradually shedding its winter attire, and is assuming a spring aspect. Shipments of new goods are coming in daily.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Nobody ever coaxes another to buy here—people who know "The Denver" best go about looking—simply looking and enjoying the sights, knowing that nobody will bother them—they ask questions and are courteously answered, just as if no business were going on—and yet this is a busy store. This freedom—the absence of restraint—the easy, at home feeling, is just the thing we constantly invite on the part of our visitors. We are determined that this shall be to the people more than a store.—The Denver Dry Goods Co., Denver, Col.

To economical housewives, hotel and boarding house managers! Follow the lead of thousands of others—get all your food supplies at Scheuer's, New Jersey's leading food market. Buying in carload lots, from the country's foremost packers, growers and producers, gives us rock bottom rates—we let all our customers share in the savings by asking lowest cash prices on everything we sell! In a word—qualities of the best, prices the lowest and shipments when they're promised are guaranteed to all who give us trade! If that's what "interests" you, phone, write or wire your order if you can't conveniently call—we'll take good care of you!—Scheuer & Sons, Newark, N. J.

Our policy.—Past, present and future: To sell goods of faultless quality cheaper than any other house. Midsummer sales now in progress throughout the store furnish abundant proofs of underselling. We invite the most rigid comparisons.—Macy's, New York.

The importance of the coming week may be gauged by these representatives of the greatest price attractions ever offered at any time by any store, specimens of thousands from which you may pick their equal in appropriateness, price reduction and reliability. We take no heed of value advantages as you'll find assembled to-morrow.—Goldenberg's, Washington, D. C.

A woman once asked her husband, "If I should die, would you ever marry again?" He hesitated in answering, and she continued: "If you did, you would never get another wife to look after you as I have." "No," replied the husband, "not if I could help it." A great many people do many things because they cannot help it. But we maintain that there's no excuse for doing a great many things simply because it "can't be helped." For instance, we could never see any advantage in buying merchandise that lacks quality. In the end it's bound to prove unsatisfactory. If we cannot sell merchandise that we can guarantee to give satisfaction, we will not sell it at all, because we want your good will whether you buy here or not—whether you are another store's regular patron or ours. We know if we sold you merchandise with the quality requisite lacking you'd not trust us ever afterward. The tremendous buying power of this great organization permits of our selling merchandise that possesses quality in the superlative degree at prices lower than you'll pay for admittedly lower grades at the minor stores. That's why we make and keep so many patrons—why our aisles are always comfortably filled with busy shoppers—why this business has grown to be the largest on the Pacific Coast.—Olds, Wortman & King, Portland, Ore.

Again we have asserted and ratified our right to life, liberty and the pursuit of bargains. Those of us who have come safely out of the deadly perils of the Fourth—far more widespread than a hundred years ago—are to-day willing to take advantage of every opportunity to make up for the cost of holiday pleasures. Wanamaker's starts right in, this morning, to make this a month of extraordinary offerings—clearing up stocks for the season; taking advantage of manufacturers' necessities; creating store events that will compel public attention, whenever the signs of lethargy appear. It is going to be a month when your personal interest demands that you watch Wanamaker's.—Wanamaker, New York.

Can you guess what this common-looking, lifeless bit of paper and printer's ink would say if it could talk? I think they'd congratulate each other that their mission had proved a success; because the first two of four essentials of a good advertisement are that they "get seen" and "get read." But the last two, "get believed" and "get the reader—you—to do something" are even more essential to accomplish the mission of this talk.—W. H. Probst, Middletown, Pa.

Six live buyers in four of America's liveliest manufacturing centers are furnishing the fuel that will keep red hot all our July movements. To-day we are again busy and we have many new lots to interest you with. Know you'll like the way we spring up new things on you from day to day. To-day again we are sailing fast.—F. E. Mistrot, Galveston, Texas.

Good morning to you! An immigrant who had never seen a mule, landed in this country and beheld a farmer leading one. "What's that?" asked the immigrant. "A mule," quoth the farmer. "How do you raise them?" "Hatch them from pumpkins."

The immigrant, stealing a pumpkin from a nearby field, took it into the woods and sat on it for weeks, hoping for a fine large mule. Week after week went by and no mule. At last, in disgust, he hurled the pumpkin down a hill, rolling and bumping down until it struck a stump and smashed to smithereens, and from behind the stump dashed a frightened rabbit. "Come back here, come back here," yelled the immigrant, "I'm your father!" It is well not to count your chickens or many other things before they are hatched. When we do know what will turn out as we calculate, we are lucky. From a gold mine to a peanut, there is always a possibility of bitter disappointment for someone. That is why the advertisements of a great store are vitally important. If its customers find what they expect from its advertisements, they are pleased and their patronage never wavers. That is why we make ours tell the truth.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Flash your order to us by wireless telegraph. If no station in your vicinity take the first car coming to "The Busy Store." Conductor knows where there are doings going on. Hurry up—don't delay.—Stewart Bros., Columbus, Ohio.

Our methods of doing business: Quote the very lowest prices. Quality the best, in consistence with price. Easy paying terms, to suit everyone. Things we always aim to do: Treat everyone courteously, make all purchases satisfactory. Make permanent customers from every sale.—People's Furniture Store, Des Moines, Ia.

Our individuality. Without decrying what other stores do not do, we ask the public to judge us as to ourselves alone. We may make some mistakes, but we are always willing to rectify them—for it is a fundamental principle of our business to deal frankly, truthfully and honestly with all.—The Hamburger Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

If you have more than one purchase to make, ask the first salesperson for a transfer book. She will enter your name and address on it, and on the sales slip of the article you buy. Each time you make a subsequent purchase, it will not be necessary to give your name again or any directions. The salesperson will simply tear off one of the numbered pasters in the transfer book and put it on your package. So you go through the store—no paying or waiting for change, no packages to carry, none of the little annoyances that sometimes make shopping tedious. When you are through buying, any aisle man will direct you to the desk where the whole bill may be settled at once, and you may either have all your purchases to carry with you or have them sent through our delivery. If you have a charge account, or the goods are to be sent C. O. D., it is not even necessary to do that. Any aisle man or salesperson will take your transfer book and see that it gets to the right person. The transfer is a convenience for you and for us, too. It enables us to collect all your packages together and deliver them in one lot—the very first delivery after we get your transfer book back. It enables you to save all the time usually spent in repeating your name and address and in waiting for change. It is a bit of the store service that should be more universally used.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Bring those colors back to the line," roared the captain in one of the great battles of the Civil War to the dauntless color bearer, who had gone far ahead of his company. "What's the matter with bringing the line up to the colors?" was the retort. This store long ago was too small for the business going on. Good old friends said, "Spike your guns, hold your ground and take things easy." "No," was the reply, "there is too much to do that's worth doing. You can't bottle up the sense and enthusiasm of the men and women who lead this business." And now the building is being brought up to the business. Last year the same lazy advice came again. "Let the business halt—temporarily while rebuilding—you can regain it all afterwards." Remembering that color bearer again, we said: "There is something in this business that won't let it stand still." "It is going on, and on, and on; we must keep pace with it by providing quarters somehow," and with all the condensing and shifting about during the past year the business still forged ahead month after month, the June just closing being far ahead of other years.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Presto, the transformation is complete, summer has gone, autumn has come. More packed than ever, this store presents an autumn dress with things suitable to the season. The first of February has come and gone, with a complete change in the management of this business, and yet nothing suggestive of fireworks. We were told it would be a mistake to do things quietly, that what Montreal needed was a thorough awakening, and that everything depended on the way we started out. Perhaps so, but if we do things different from that it'll be to do things better; and before the year gets very far advanced we shall give substantial evidence of what we can do. Instead of waiting for changes and improvements we start right in doing business with practically the same goods and people. Because of our determination to open up the spring's business with an entirely new stock, our particular attention is just now being given to the immediate disposal of such goods as are at present in the building. No matter what their apparent value may be they are being priced for an immediate sale.—The John Murphy Co., Ltd., Montreal, Can.

Quality is the fundamental principle in good storekeeping as in farming.

It costs no more, in the transportation, handling, warehousing, insurance, number of people employed, display and advertising, for good qualities than for poor.

Dealing may safely be closer in good quality stuffs; quantities may safely be larger; satisfaction and good-will will assuredly be greater.

Quality is our watchword!—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

A little talk on quality.—There are a great many places where you can buy goods at extremely low prices, but experience, except in rare exceptions, teaches us that the goods are worth no more than the low prices paid for them.

Sometimes we wonder when reading in others' advertisements glowing descriptions of articles that they are selling, but when these goods are compared with our line of the same articles ninety-nine cases in a hundred we don't wonder long. Ours has the quality—theirs has not.

Price is only one of the things to be considered, for if you fail to get the quality you simply throw away good money, no matter how small the amount may be. Therefore, our policy is, and always has been, to sell the Right Quality at the Right Price, and you find invariably that a lower price than ours means also a corresponding lower quality. It is the combination of prices and quality in which this store is strong.—Chamberlin-Johnson-Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Test it as you will, you'll find my work will please you.—W. F. Kabley, Fall River, Mass.

There's no use disputing about tastes—especially if they are my tastes.—The Shopper's Philosophy. Take these chances while they last.—Edw. Malley Co., New Haven, Conn.

Keep your eye peeled for my Spring sale. It will be a stunner this year. My buyers have made most opportune purchases and the goods are now being marked for exhibition and for sale.—J. Michaels, Brooklyn, N. Y.

In the full swing of the season! A dazzling array of what's fine and seasonable is here—four great floorsful of them. To enumerate would be tiresome—but here are some bright hints—interestingly given.—S. Kann, Sons & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Some large events are credited to February. There is Washington's Birthday, which comes on the 22nd. The Father of his Country came into the world toward the end of this supposedly uneventful month. Abraham Lincoln, called by many the "Savior of His Country" arrived in this troublous world on February 9th. The joyous Saint Valentine's many acts of kindness and goodness are celebrated on the 14th of February. This will no doubt be more generally observed by missives of love and mischief than any of the others just mentioned.

Perhaps more curious interest centers on one day in February than in all the others combined. We refer to "Ground Hog Day." Tradition has it that if the ground hog sees his shadow on the 2d of February, he will crawl into his hole for six long and wintry weeks, to emerge only when the seductive sunshine of smiling March begs him to again come forth. It is claimed that if he does not see his shadow, bewitching springtime will be quickly ushered in with sunny days, singing birds, prattling brooks and green meadows.

We watched closely. Mr. Ground Hog did see his shadow. Six weeks more of winter weather.

No matter what predictions may grow out of this day, the robust fact remains that at this store of ours much good natured and aggressive activity is to be found. More than twenty departments are finding it to their interest to move. Improvements almost too numerous to mention are being consummated and put into execution. Strange as it may appear, our store at Topeka is moving again and adding some good improvements. It has caught the spirit of this 20th Century store, and is as busy as it can be,

"doing things." In the high and enthusiastic purpose of making this store your best store—we are holding some of our famous cash merchandising sales. We commend to you the daily news of these events, which will be found particularly valuable to you, we are sure. This page is an instance of the valuable news of this store's doings. You are invited to read it, but in order to profit by it you must of necessity come to the store and see these things of which we tell you. If you see, you are sure to buy. If you buy, you are sure to save money.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City.

A sweeping torrent of bargains in high-class merchandise this week at the Bay City "Cash Dry Goods Store." One week sale of valuable wreckage from the mammoth stock of Strong, Lee & Co., of Detroit.—Bay City "Cash" Dry Goods Co., Bay City, Mich.

A peep into spring's fashion book. Fashions for spring are bobbing up here and there throughout Worcester's greatest store. What Dame Fashion considers "correct" in suits, jackets, waists, skirts, millinery, etc., etc., for spring is here for you to view.—Denholm & McKay Co., Worcester, Mass.

New goods are coming by every freight. The furniture factories—the carpet and crockery concerns—the muslin mills—the wall paper plants—the bicycle builders—all are pushing forward to us the newest of their wares—to make this store's spring display the most lavish in the history of our business.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

Schoenfeld's, Altoona's greatest clothiers. What attracts the throng of enthusiastic purchasers to Schoenfeld's Store? You have heard the question often? The answer is obvious and very simple: Confidence in our statements. Confidence in our merchandise. Confidence in our progressive methods that have revolutionized many ancient notions in Altoona.—Schoenfeld's, Altoona, Pa.

Cause—our Methods; Effect—Our Success. The remarkable growth of our business to its present enormous extent has been but the natural result of an old principle, that we have systematically and continuously observed—the principle of fairness. When a buyer purchases of this house a bill of furniture, a rug or a tapestry, he not only gets articles of the latest styles and of the best make, but he also gets more value for his money than he can get elsewhere for the same amount.—Duff & Repp Furniture Co., Kansas City.

Sometimes when we are dictating these words which you are reading and read from time to time in these side talks of ours, we sincerely regret our inability to tell the whole truth about many things relating to this business of retail merchandising. The best and the richest stories—true stories—cannot always be told by us, and for that we are profoundly sorry. Because of the fact that it would get into personalities not intentionally, but by natural result, we are forced to choke down the desire to speak out and tell the whole truth. We refer to the matter of prices that are asked and obtained for merchandise in this town. The supreme egotism and indifference some stores exhibit in the matter of getting high prices for merchandise is past and beyond our ability to fathom. This store we are running may occasionally have an article marked higher than it should be. If such a thing happens it is a rare accidental chance. The whole tendency, purpose, determination of this store is to keep the prices on all the merchandise it sells down to the lowest possible margin consistent with making a little net profit itself.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Five things in which we excel: Courteous treatment of our friends (and every person who enters our store is our friend). Our large stock embracing thousands and thousands of dollars in every department. Our immense assortment, ranging from the cheapest that is good for anything, up to as good as people will buy. Liberal terms. We have established a reputation for kind and considerate care of all those who favor us with their book accounts. We lead in low prices. Where else can you buy table tumblers for one cent, or iron beds for $1.89? Yet these are no greater bargains than any other article in our store. We want your trade. We want you to go into partnership with us. And the minute you buy anything of us you are our partner, and entitled to your share of the profits. The more you buy the less will be the price to you. If we sell $250,000.00 this year, we can give you lower prices next year. If you help us to sell $350,000.00 next year, we can do better still by you the year after; and we will. It's up to you.—Crawford & Crawford, Albany, N. Y.

An eminent New York surgeon was called suddenly by a charitable organization to attend a poor man in the extreme of sickness. His ministrations were watched anxiously and with small favor by the man's wife. As he finished and turned to go he remarked pleasantly to her, "Well, I think he will pull through now." "Oh, my, ain't that too bad?" she said. "Why do you say that, you heartless, unnatural woman?" he wrathfully demanded. "Well, you see," was the answer, "when they called you I sold all his clothes." Nothing is so hard as to satisfy other people when we do not know just what they want. When we know exactly what is wanted or what is not wanted, it is our fault if we fail. The eternal problem of a great store is the dissatisfied customer. It is not slow deliveries, high prices, nor small quantities. It is the customer who goes away when she sees something she doesn't like and never returns. Many an honest and striving storeman has groaned, "If customers would only kick."—J. N. Adams & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Early Winter's Charming Fashions.—Winter is here—the calendar declares it—the thermometer emphasizes it. The exposition of distinctive styles in all lines now prepared here is particularly timely. Not only is this so, but the necessities of the fast approaching holiday season have compelled material concessions in the way of prices. A few suggestions may not come amiss. Every section carries something that will meet your preference.—Edward Writing to Santa Claus.—Santa Claus will be here in a few days. He wants to get letters from good little boys and girls.

Will you write to him? He's a jolly, good, big hearted fellow that you seldom see, but he loves you, and won't you write to him? Tell him what you want.

There'll be a letter box in the centre of the store, and the little boy and girl who writes the best letter will get a nice present. And those who write second and third best will get presents, too.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

A page of bargains never equaled. Something for everybody. Everything for a little. Every department marshals an incomparable opportunity. Facts that speak with greater force than words or elongated statements. Facts that effect the interest of every man, woman and child within the circle of this store's influence. These offers are supported by an army of other opportunities behind them. They are after all only the sesame that opens the door to treasures of merchandise impossible to enumerate. Loeser rarely uses the word bargains, because it has been abused. We use it now advisedly, and it carries with it the full force of its original meaning.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Get the Philadelphia Grocery Company habit. A most profitable habit to get into; satisfactory alike to those who buy and those who eat the things bought. Said a customer, recently: "I don't see how it is that you can undersell my own grocer in the same goods and give me whole bookfuls of stamps besides. I've tried to think that your qualities aren't as good, but comparisons show that they are so, and sometimes better. How is it?" Well, to tell the truth, we can't exactly explain through the newspapers; other grocers would learn the "how," too. But put it down as a fact that knowing how, when and where to buy, and being content with small profits, have a great deal to do with it. But whatever the reason, the fact remains that you can't deal here without wondering how we do it. You can't buy here without saving. You can't be a customer without liking our way of doing business, more and more every week you know us. And you'll deal here if you've much pocketbook-interest at heart. Read to-day's announcement for snaps.—Philadelphia Grocery Co., Trenton, N. J.

This store is going to belong to the youngsters during one glorious, joyful week. There isn't one word of mere "advertising talk" on this page that will not interest you—not one. Too many remarkable things to talk about—things that will please and interest every child in this town and every mother, too. This store of ours is going to change its character. For one full week it's going to be the finest kind of a children's store—it's going to be filled with interesting, enjoyable things to keep the children happy—to keep them quiet and contented while their mothers have a chance to see what changes have been made at every case and counter where children's goods are sold. The magic worker has been hard at work—reaching here and there and everywhere for the price tags—marking them lightly—unpacking great cases of hosiery, waists and little dresses, and underwear and all the other things that school children need. Here is a combination of great variety and unusually pleasant prices that will interest parents—and will fill the store—that will mass the buyers in front of the counters and make the salesforce work as they never worked before in all their lives. Weeks ago we planned this affair—for things can't be brought about just by sitting still and wishing). We said: "We'll turn our store into the finest kind of a place for children to come—we'll add decorations and other things that will amuse them—and then we will show their mothers that in all the United States there is no more satisfactory store in which to buy the clothing and infants' wear and the other supplies that children always stand in need of. And we have done it—and this is our hearty invitation to children to come with their fathers and mothers and see all the surprising and pleasant things that have been gathered to amuse them—and it is our announcement to parents that never have we offered such bargains in infants' and children's supplies, as will be found here during the next six days. Just so that you may realize what Children's Week will do to help you save money, we print some words that tell of chances to save money. But the store is fairly bulging with good things of the kind—we can't begin to tell of them. Come and see how we operate a store for children.—Lippincott & Co., Wilmington, Del.

Good—or indifferent. Low price is a good thing to look for. Low prices may be found more in summer than at any other season. But low prices are not everything, and unless quality goes with them they are of no consequence at all. The place in which you buy often makes all the difference between goods and indifferent merchandise—without adding a penny on the cost to you. July is bringing here a wide variety of under-price offerings as distinguished for worthy quality as they are for price concessions.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

GIRLS' COATS AND DRESSES

Outdoors for little folks. Yes, dress them and let them out, but dress them against the nips and chills of a sullen passing remnant of winter. Keep their feet from dampness, their little bodies warm.—A. D. Matthew's Sons, Brooklyn.

This is headquarters for children's apparel. There isn't a feature of correct dress missing. All the dainty conceptions find prominence and our prices are ever consistent with the policy that has made this house famous.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Frocks for little folks. They are simple, but dainty, as children like them best; inexpensive and easily laundered, as mothers like them best; and, above all, the prices aren't big enough to be annoying. Surely the little girls shouldn't be forgotten this week, when they may be so nicely dressed for such little prices.—The Waschauer Store, Madison, Ill.

Something new and something to be saved on the price—that's the daily record of this store for girls nowadays. And to-morrow comes forward a considerable group of the brightest and prettiest one-piece white lawn dresses that we ever had for as little asked.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

The Fall Girl.—She is a fascinating proposition, the approaching fall girl. In raiment of latest cut and weave, long coat and flowing train with buttons conspicuous and glittering, she trips from the perspective into the presence of an admiring public. The exclusive styles in fall suits are eagerly scanned—and the magnificent assortment which we show is the most stylish, the most perfect fitting the public has ever seen, for the season's fashions are the acme of the designers' art, the leading creations of foreign and domestic style-origin centres being represented in our new exhibit.—Keith O'Brien Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

Take a peep into one of the famous playgrounds—the Champs Elysees, in Paris; Hyde Park, in London, or the Thiergarten, in Berlin. There, on a clear sunshiny day, you will find hosts of beautifully clad children playing together and rolling their hoops. Ask who they are and some one will tell you that almost every child there is a foreigner —and you will see for yourself that the little American girls are the most beautifully dressed of all. In France, especially, hardly a thought is given to a girl's clothes from her babyhood days up to the time she makes her debut—after that time she may have the loveliest gowns Paris can make. How different it is in America! The very years that France neglects are the ones that we are most careful about. Planning constantly something new and pretty and simple for our girls, both large and small. To-morrow you will find all the pretty things for summer here—dainty little dresses, or shirt waists; wraps or jackets; walking or dress skirts; suits—everything.—Schipper & Block, Peoria.

A magnificent array of offerings in which every prudent mother should interest herself without delay. With vacation time but a few days off and summer junkets planning, this event should prove to be of more than ordinary interest. In fact, it has never been our pleasure to offer such a splendid collection of girls' outerwear for so little money.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark.

Bring the girls to the popular third floor to-day. And we will show you the most magnificent collection of high-class wearables suitable for every age up to 18 years that it has ever been your good fortune to have offered for your inspection.—Emery Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Tiny garments for dainty aristocracy. There's a wealth of garment beauty for the little ones, to be found just now on this third-floor. Youngsters up to 5 or 6 years old are togged out from head to foot here—togger, too, that is the height of perfection as to style and manufacture.—Z. L. White & Co., Columbus, O.

Summer Dresses for Children. Styles that are just as dainty in effect and serviceable in material as one could wish them to be. Values that assure an unparalleled saving for you.—F. Auerbach, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Girls' Wash Dresses. We've been too busy selling wash dresses for girls to say much about them. They're well worth talking about, though, so here goes.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Little Girls' White Dresses. Not more than sixty left, and little girls may wear them all through the winter for party or dancing school frocks.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Your girl can be fitted out to best advantage here. Our cloak and suit buyers have made a careful study of the wants and needs of growing girls, and the coats and dresses we're now showing demonstrate how well they've succeeded in their undertaking.—Kaufmann, Pittsburg, Pa.

Little girls' white dresses go to-day. If we had time to press the wrinkles out of each little gown with a hot iron, prices would not be treated like this.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Just dainty little washable frocks—that's all—but cutting the price of them in half makes them cost you less money than the actual materials, let alone the worry of making, or explaining to a seamstress. — Chamberlin-Johnson-Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Little frocks—in charming styles for every-day needs. These are Gingham and Percales in novelty checks and stripes—also attractive plain shades. All made with the dash of best style and finish—most of them individually trimmed. Our department excels in these dresses at $2.50 each.—The Scott Dry Goods Co., Cleveland, O.

Beautiful dresses of white for little Miss Dainty.—Miller & Bailey, Marion.

Half-price sale of little girls' dresses. A regular gala day for the little girls—a store news item welcome to mothers who are worried with the problem of dresses for the little folks these hot days.

Children's coats and dresses. Our stocks were never larger and more complete, embracing the choicest novelties of Europe, supplemented by the unrivaled products of our own workrooms. In addition to the advantage of a selection from our immense and varied assortment, it is a satisfaction to know that every article bearing our name guarantees the correctness of style and superiority of workmanship.—Best & Co., Jersey City, N. J.

Reduced prices on girls' wash dresses. What is so dainty for the miss from eight to fourteen summers as a white gown? Mother can make something very pretty, of course, or hire it made, but this will prove just as great a task or just as much an expense in July as in April. This is where the ready-to-wear system steps in to help you. We have these dainty wash dresses at very different cost from two or three months ago. Girls' wash dresses, 8 to 14 years sizes, made of white lawn, waist styles, trimmed with lace and embroidery, square neck with three-quarter sleeves, or high neck with long sleeves. Some of the skirts are trimmed with wide tucks, other styles are trimmed with lace insertion and ruffle.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

To the mother that has a girl between the ages of 4 and 14 years this sale of children's white dresses will surely be of great interest, especially so if she desires to save money. These suits are made of white linen and they come in the ever stylish Peter Pan, Buster Brown and Peter Thompson styles. They are suits that we have been selling right along at $2.50, $3.50, up to $5. They are somewhat soiled from handling. A little work will make them as good as new. Then think how much you have saved.—Rosenthal's, Peoria, Ill.

Children's gingham dresses. There's no dress more appropriate for children's summer wear, than the gingham. For morning wear the plainer ones are plenty good enough, while the prettier ones do well for more dressy times. At these prices, one can afford to have a good supply on hand, and can hardly afford to bother with making any at home.—Yard's, Trenton, N. J.

A store for girls. A store that's brimful of new spring attire for girls of all ages, from the particular young lady to the tiny tot just able to walk. And the prices are even more interesting than the goods themselves.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Children's day at the Voorhees garment show. We extend a special invitation to the children today—children are as much interested now-a-days in styles as their mothers, and this is as much a children's store as for adults.—H. M. Voorhees & Bros., Trenton, N. J.

Owing to the phenomenal success of last Saturday's selling of girls' and misses' coats we duplicate the splendid values that were on sale. Many of the lots were entirely closed out last week and re-orders placed so that for this Saturday stocks are as fresh and complete as before. Make your selection from these faultless styles made of fine materials. The descriptions and prices quoted below will show what great values we are offering. The garments tell their own story.—Pettis Dry Goods Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Misses' and girls' white dresses, new and handsome models. The Whitney white dresses are all made of the finest Persian lawn, organdie or Swiss. The waists and sleeves handsomely trimmed. All buttonholes are carefully made and with lace and embroidery. Skirts neatly tucked or trimmed with insertion. clean, pure white pearl buttons used. For girls 6 to 16 years.—Whitney & Co., Albany, N. Y.

Fresh anniversary frocks for girls, and special values. The immense variety of dainty styles is the first impression you will get as you step from the elevators on the second floor tomorrow. And as you examine the frocks, note the fine materials, the careful making, the generous proportions, the excellent laces and trimmings, you will wonder how we can sell such dresses for so much less than they can be matched in average stores. It isn't wizardry. It is determination and "know how."—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Coats for college girls. The girl going away to school will want one of these. First, because it's stylish, then because it's particularly comfortable and not unduly expensive. Three-quarter lengths predominate. Some of them are semi-fitted; materials are stripes, plain colors and mixed effects. Large buttons, braids and velvets are used for trimmings. Sizes for girls of 14 to 20.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Clearance prices now on girls' summer dresses. Take the full regular stocks as a matter of course—the surety that you will find here a great variety of fresh and charming styles, good workmanship and unfailing low prices. To-day's word is of several groups of smart summer dresses that are sharply reduced for our own or the maker's clearance. A snap for prudent mothers.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sale on lower sales floors of misses' and children's Gretchens. While our regular stock was large enough for all practical purposes, quite sufficient to see us to the end of the season, we could not resist the chance when it was offered us to buy these coats. The Gretchens represent the wind-up of the season's business of a great manufacturer. The garments were fashioned from the ends or short lengths of materials left from immense rolls. We secured them at a remarkable price, and pass them along to you as remarkable values. There are fifteen styles in the variety. Quantity involved is two hundred. The sizes are 5 to 16 years. The materials include all fancy materials and solid colors, all lined with red flannel.—John G. Myers Co., Albany, N. Y.

Good service, fine style and value in fall dress for girls. Whether the need is for a smart and sensible school frock or a jaunty and dressy fall suit, you will find these new stocks show very broad assortment. You will find also that by special arrangement with the makers we have secured better finish and tailor work than can usually be had for the prices. Just a hint for to-morrow's special outfitting time.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

New charm and value in girls dresses and suits. The points we have especially striven for is to combine girlishness with beauty and newness of style. Two groups to-day are fair evidences of how excellently we succeeded.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Stylish apparel for children. At the beginning of the season we announced especial attention would be given our children's department this year, and we again wish to reiterate that statement. Never before was this one section so thoroughly prepared for a big demand as it is right now. Child's coats, sizes 4 to 14, made of mixture cloaking light and dark gray effects, reverse front, collarless effect, formed by broadcloth and braid, wide straps down the back, forming imitation hood; sleeves trimmed to match.—Dancer-Brogan & Co., Lansing.

The girls' section replete with fall styles. Mothers with girls to clothe will appreciate the magnificent showing of coats, tailored suits, wool dresses, novelty dresses, skirt, etc., that we have assembled with particular regard to the want of youngsters between the ages of six and eighteen. The styles are adapted to the ages for which they are intended, and are not merely copies of the styles that grown-ups wear. They typify girlish style in its best sense.—John Taylor D. G. Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Children's ready-to-wear wash dresses. We are showing a large variety of pretty styles in wash dresses for children from 2 to 14 years. Plain and fancy gingham, as well as many other styles of desirable wash materials. Take a look at our window display—some great values are offered, and at the present high price of gingham, etc., you can save the entire price of making. Pretty little dresses as low as 25c. each, other good values in sizes up to 14 years at 50c, 65c, 75c, 89c and 98c. This is an interesting lot of goods.—Huffman & Co., Ottumwa, Ia.

GIRL GRADUATES

Remember the graduate with something lasting.—Some of our rare jewelry.—Julius C. Walk & Son, Indianapolis.

Forebodings of the eventful graduation time. Brains the first requisite—then these, for the girl graduate.—Bernstein's, Pueblo, Colo.

Commencement of the end of school days naturally brings thoughts of presents for graduates. No such place like the jeweler's for real, precious and enduring gifts.—Heintz, Lexington, Ky.

In selecting commencement gifts why not commemorate this event—one of the most notable in your child's life—by choosing a diamond? Even a small one, coming as it does on that occasion, carries with it a great deal of sentiment, and the recipient will cherish and remember it a lifetime.—J. S. Lewis Co., Ogden, Utah.

A glance through our store offers many suggestions to parents, and friends, for the remembrances so appropriate at commencement time. Our watches, rings and brooches should interest those very near to the young graduates; their other good friends will also find many acceptable articles in our stock.—J. S. Lewis & Co., Ogden, Utah.

For the fair girl graduate. Just a few more weeks of school and then commencement day, the most important event in the school life of the girl graduate, will be here. With it comes the need of a graduating gown and all the requisites that are essential to this grand event. We bring to your attention to-day, a list that contains many things that will be needed by every girl who

Batiste and net robes for graduating dresses or lovely evening gowns. They came in with the New Year, full of the lovely freshness of spring. We lifted the covers of their boxes a full three months ahead of time, so that graduates could select their dresses, and women their gowns for coming social events. These robes were made in France and Switzerland. The skirts are almost ready to put on, and there are trimmings and ample material for the waists. Very easy, indeed, to put together for any woman with a little skill.—The J. L. Hudson Co., Detroit.

Things for the girl graduate. Commencement day—off with the old life and on with the new. We've everything for girl graduates except diplomas. The gown comes first, of course. You'll find a handsome line of white dresses specially adapted to "graceful girlish figures." All desirable materials—very pretty and very cheap. These you find in suit department. Or, if you prefer to buy the fabrics and see to the make of the gown yourself, we can supply you with just the fabric you want at the price you want to pay. Then the accessories—the lesser part of the outfit, the finishing touches, but very important—fans, ribbons, gloves, shoes, hosiery, belts and perhaps a hat. You will find plenty of choice here. All very bright and cheerful as befits the occasion. Things to do honor to the last day of school. Let us show you these.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

"What's the difference between a gown and a creation?"

"I can't give you the exact figures, but it's a small fortune."—Chicago Post.

GLASSWARE

She—"Why does the bridegroom always seem to enjoy his wedding breakfast so much?"

He—"I suppose because it is too early for his wife to begin throwing plates."—Yonkers Statesman.

After all what make a table look brighter and more inviting than a sprinkling of crystal glassware? We have been unpacking a beautiful line of these goods this week and they are now shown at the Glassware Department.—Kay-W-Kay, York, Pa.

Adorn your table and sideboard with this handsome yet economical press-cut glassware. It's beautiful. Wash in hot water and polish carefully—sparkles like cut glass.—The 14th St. Store, New York, N. Y.

A Fourth of July Boom in Tumblers.—Monday morning we began a sale of these seasonable goods which is scattering them in true cannon-cracker style.—Brinsmaid & Co., Des Moines, Ia.

Colonial glass, French china. A perfect reproduction of the beautiful designs of our early colonial days.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

No other article of glassware is in such immense and universal demand as Table Tumblers and so it is perhaps natural that prices seldom vary. A cut of even two cents a dozen on the wholesale price is enough signal to set every dealer in the country to loading up to his full-est capacity.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The sale of glassware has begun with unprecedented success. Little wonder; consider the prices. This stock is the surplus of the best crystal maker in the country and probably the best factory in the whole Glass Association. By agreement we are not allowed to mention name. This glassware is all thin blown crystal.—Gimbel Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

While this popular glassware is extensively used on account of its durability as a substitute for finer glassware in summer it is used by others at all times simply because of its inherent beauty and quaint design.—Dulin & Martin Co., Washington, D. C.

A Tumble in Tumblers from 35c. to 24c. a Dozen.—Two thousand dozen pressed glass water tumblers, with imitation cut glass fluted bottom. News that will be appreciated by the prudent housewives. It means a saving that is considerable—when broken tumblers may be replaced at such little cost.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Do you drink? Well, it does not make any difference what you wish to use in them. We have a full line of tumblers, wine and whiskey glasses.—The Savings Bank Store, Grand Forks.

This will be the last chance to secure one of these beautiful sets, as we took all the factory had and this is the last lot. The pattern so careful an imitation of cut glass that only an expert can tell the difference. The glass is clear and sparkling. The set consists of one decanter with hand-polished stopper, and six wine glasses to match, with full-sized glass tray.—The Fourteenth Street Store, New York, N. Y.

Carlsbad gold engraved glass. Five hundred samples—about half. Probably the best gold engraved glass in the world comes from Carlsbad. Blanks of purest crystal are delicately engraved with intricate designs of flowers and foliage, and the engravings are backed up with pure gold leaf. The effect is very rich. From one of the chief makers of this glass we have about five hundred sample pieces, scarcely any two alike. And prices are about half the regular.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Correct glassware for summer serving. We have goods for every requirement, from the inexpensive, plain patterns to those richly etched and cut. Our colonial designs are very popular for use in summer entertaining and, while moderate in price, have a dignified richness which is very pleasing. We show appropriate styles for serving lemonade, ginger ale, iced tea and other cool summer beverages. Besides, we have the latest patterns in dishes for grape fruit, fruit salads, sundaes, sherbets, parfait ice cream and ices. If in need of granite ware we carry a complete line in laven blue finish.—H. Watson & Co., Saginaw.

GLOVES

A Boxer.—She—"What size gloves do you wear?"
He (unthinkingly)—"Five ounces."—Topeka State Journal.

Mrs. Smart—"I see those new driving gloves of yours are marked 'Cupid.' What a ridiculous name for gloves!"
Mr. Smart—"Oh, I don't know. S'pose it means that they're undressed kid."—Topeka State Journal.

$1 gloves in everything but price—and that is only 59c. If type could say what a look at these gloves will tell you, you'd come helter-skelter to purchase here to-morrow—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg.

Kid Gloves.—Fashionable women demand gloves that fit correctly. They're the finishing touch that distinguishes a smartly dressed woman. It has been our aim to make this an ideal glove store. From the best makers we've selected those that have given satisfaction, and as for style—we show the newest modes first. All our guaranteed gloves are carefully fitted to the hand.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Best Dollar Gloves.—Real kidskin in the first place; carefully selected, soft, but firm skins. Style and cut, and a nice attention to detail of finish, that usually marks the much higher-priced glove.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Gloves for Women.—Stylish, well-made gloves, in the various colorings that the season has brought forth, ready to give the finishing touch to the costume, at prices that are reasonable, indeed—isn't that an attractive combination?—Harned & Von Maur, Peoria.

Modish kid gloves for dress and street—a brand favorably known to the women of Chicago—brand new gloves in the original boxes—popular new tints, including black and white. A new pair for any that show flaws or imperfections after reasonable wear—95c.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

Kid Gloves.—New falls importation in and on sale—Dent, Reynier, Mazzoni, Crispi and other celebrated makers are represented. We call your special attention to the very best shopping glove, Dent's Knock Around, made of real cape and Saddler sewn, dipped natural tan dye—for real comfort and hard, everyday wear this glove has no equal.—The New Store, Minneapolis, Minn.

Warm Gloves.—Think of talking about warm gloves in September! And yet many a person has wanted them during the last few days. Why not be comfortable? We have just received a complete line of golf and Cashmere gloves. Men, women and children can all be supplied from it. We think likely, however, that a large part of your interest will be centered Thursday about an offering in ladies' Cashmere gloves.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Store, Minneapolis, Minn.

Women's spring gloves that don't cost much. Glace and suede gloves, in all the desirable spring shades. Gloves that will add a touch of smartness and style to the new tailored gown at a trifling outlay.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

You'll swoop if you've got an eagle eye. Eighteen hundred pairs of gloves. Two-thirds of them were $1.85 to $2. Balance at $1.25 sort. Tans, spring weight grays and a quantity of imported black gloves. All sizes, 95 cents.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

Women's new spring kid gloves. Every correct shade, every novel embroidery—a kid glove showing of surpassing excellence and one in which your every wish may be quickly and satisfactorily gratified.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark.

Gloves and Mittens.—Our stock is large and our price very low. We can please you in whatever line of work you may be engaged.—C. E. Wilson, Joilet.

It is always a pleasant surprise, when one buys a glove because of its smartness and perfect fit to find it also has remarkable wearing qualities. The double woven finger tips of "Elsmere" silk gloves, which make the fit so much smoother than the old bulky, sewn-in kind, are guaranteed to outwear the rest of the glove. A new pair if they do not.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Women's Royale Gloves, $1.50.—For $1.50 you will find no better glove anywhere else—we are sure of that—and few gloves that are so good. The Royale is made to our order of fine French kid-skins. It comes in colors, black and white—two and three-clasp or three pearl buttons. We are selling a great many just now to go with new winter suits and gowns.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Glove Prices That Fit Any Purse.—And gloves that fit nicely. There is a decided decrease in the prices, because some are a trifle soiled, but all are excellent values.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Gloves Going at About Half.—It is getting rather late for several kinds of gloves we have. As this store cannot afford to carry this season's styles into the next—prices are made to prevent even a possibility.—Edward Lang & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

If it's gloves you want, you'll find the kind you want here, for we have every kind, from the canvas gloves at 10c. up to the fine fur gloves at $6. The woolen knit gloves, the dressed kids, lined or unlined, the mochas, lined or unlined, all in excellent variety, and no end to the assortment of working gloves. And all are marked our regular way. Lower than the same qualities elsewhere. That's why so many people always wear Gardner gloves.—J. P. Gardner, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Good-bye to the Gloves.—Our glove section has long been considered one of the very foundation stones of our immense business—only gloves that were correct and reliable—words of big meaning from a glove viewpoint—could ever be found here. Gloves of the self-same kind—the entire section—are now going rapidly at these very low prices. Many kinds you have known well, such as "Perrins," "Centemeri," "Sovereign" and "Royale," all are included at the low closing out prices. These few prices on kid gloves will help to impress you with the need to hurry.—Harned & Von Maur, Peoria, Ill.

A gloved hand depends for much of its beauty and style on the glove adorning it. Everybody knows there are gloves and gloves—some that are mere rippers and shape-losers, others that are a glove of beauty, a joy for ever so long. Our clearance sale presents some remarkable glove opportunities, and Miss Taylor enjoys the daily spectacle of happy crowds at the glove counters.—J. N. Adams & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Light in weight, cool and perfect fitting are these fine fabric gloves. They should be included in every woman's wardrobe. From a stock that is most broad and varied a few styles are cited as examples of the standard qualities and satisfactory prices that can be obtained here.—Jordan Marsh Co., Boston.

If you do much driving you should have a pair of these new driving gloves which are made to stand hard wear. Several styles here to chose from, some with cuffs and some without in all the popular shades. We strive at all times to have the best and most complete glove stock in town but this present assortment of gloves, and in particular driving gloves, is by far the best collection we have ever shown. One thing you may be sure of—if your gloves come from here they will prove entirely satisfactory. It's worth something to be safe when you buy gloves. Don't you think so?—M. Goldwater & Bros., Phoenix, Ariz.

Universally, our dollar gloves for women are accepted as the standard of their class. The finest leathers, perfect fit and infinite grace of form have established it. Those which this offer concerns are our standard dollar gloves—about two thousand pairs of them, without fault or flaw—at seventy-nine cents.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

At no point does our glove store falter toward perfection. It is complete; it is comprehensive; it is exclusive. Not just a few styles that are best, but every one mirroring the highest stype of correctness. With this sort of a glove store, we bid your favor.—Simpson, Crawford, New York.

Daintiness of shape, prettiness of color are distinctive characteristics of our matchless glove stock. But what would elegance be without perfection of fit? Somewhat like a harp with missing strings—imperfect in its power to please the ear. These gloves please the hand—they are faultless—and that is saying much.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Saxony wool and the patience and skill of the Saxony knitters warrant the good service and proper proportions for these imported gloves. They are for the greater part seamless and full fashioned in white, gray, black, oxford and fancy weaves.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

White Gloves were never so thoroughly welcomed as this season. We've a bargain in them for about eight hundred women.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Perhaps it is not generally known amongst those who lament the present tanned and freckled condition of their hands, that the constant and persistent wearing of kid gloves will bleach and beautify them sooner than anything else. But then they complain that this system is too expensive—which is true ordinarily—but owing to an advantageous deal—through which we became the owners of 50 dozen highest grade tan, brown, castor and white snap button kid gloves at about half price, we are enabled to offer full dollar grades this week at 69c.—The Fair, Montgomery.

What our 50c, 75c and $1.00 silk gloves do. Keep the hands delightfully cool. Save them from uncomfortable sunburns and freckles. Fit as snugly and well as a kid glove. Wear about as well—double finger tips. Laundered easily as linen handkerchiefs—the white gloves.—Connolly & Wallace, Scranton.

A glove not only gives a finishing touch to a costume, but is extremely serviceable during warm weather to protect from tan and sunburn. A woman never has too many gloves, and, as they are constantly getting soiled, why not supply yourself with at least half a dozen pairs during this big clean-up sale of ours? You can make your pin money go a long ways in this direction.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Those Mitts of Real Lace.—People seem to appreciate the bringing over of such fine and exquisite things. Many women saw them yesterday—and one bought three of the most beautiful pair.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

The new gloves for summer wear are just in, and we really believe the best lot of kid gloves for a dollar we have ever had. The "Marvel" has always been a marvel in glove making, but it out-marvels itself this summer.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Every day contributes to the fame of our store in women's high-class wearables. If it is a Scott creation there is no doubt as to its fashionableness, quality or finish. If it's here, it's right, and you can find the smart things as nowhere else.—The Scott Dry Goods Co., Cleveland, O.

Women's $1 Chamois Gloves at Fifty Cents.—That's the best glove news that could be told in July. Chamois gloves are wanted by every woman, for every summer occasion. They're most serviceable in the country, dampness at the seashore does not affect them, and they're smart and proper always.—Wanamaker's, New York.

These are cool silk gloves of fine quality and perfect in fit and workmanship. Every detail of the finishing is beautifully done. But the special feature which distinguishes them from all other silk gloves is that they have double woven finger tips, which insures the double wear and yet does not make the finger ends bulky as is the case with the ordinary silk gloves, which have an extra piece sewed in. A guarantee ticket with every pair of "Elsmere" gloves—a guarantee which will be redeemed with a new pair of gloves in case the finger tips wear out before the rest of the glove goes.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Elbow length silk gloves and mitts at about half. These are now very popular and much in demand, especially the new lace effects, as they are so practical for summer wear—they are so cool and dressy and comfortable.—Gimbell Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

Every lady finds it necessary to protect hands and arms from sunburn and tan and there can be nothing cooler or prettier than fabric gloves for summer wear.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Gloves for warm days. For all women who think gloves of kid too heavy for summer wear, or like to keep a pair of the coolest possible gloves in reserve for hundred-degree weather, here's a wide range for choosing.—Lewis D. G. Co., Butte, Mont.

Summer driving gloves. Here is new comfort for men and women. Driving gloves with the palms and every part that touches the reins made of leather. All the rest of the gloves of silk net. Dent's make and called the "Tropical." They are the coolest gloves for driving that have yet been devised.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Constant inspection from the time the skin is in the raw pelt until it is fashioned into a dainty covering, fit to add grace, beauty and shapeliness to the hand of a queen, is the price we pay for the glove perfection seen in our glove section. First the raw skins are inspected and specially selected from a particular quality that are celebrated for fineness of grain, durability and great elasticity. None other will do in the making of Eaton gloves.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto.

The cool fabric gloves are coming into their own now—such weather as this week has brought has kept the counters busy with women eager to share their comfort and coolness.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

GLOVES

Reynier hand-sewed French kid gloves are recognized by the world's glove experts as representing the highest type of glove making. Women who have had opportunity to make comparisons concede their superiority in style, fit and desirability.—Carson Pirie Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

You'll likely find just the gloves you want to wear with your fall gowns, for the new colors and styles for fall are here. The qualities and brands are all of the best—have been tried and tested by years of experience. The following gloves are much asked for.—Kemp & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

We can't tell the name of the maker owing to the conditions of the sale—but you won't have any trouble in guessing, once you see the gloves. Then you'll understand why we jumped at the chance to get these four thousand pair under price; and then, too, we know all about these gloves, for we sell the maker's products the whole year 'round. Every pair is seasonable and the top notch of fashion—outseam or pique sewed.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Sargent Glove—made upon honor and sold upon merit—a glove that is heat and waterproof and made without rivets. Seams are all on outside and the glove fits perfectly.—J. L. Hudson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The new styles are in unquestionably the richest and swellest novelties ever displayed in Washington. All our gloves are imported, thus you are always assured of the latest effects of the Parks glove world.—Louvre Glove Co., Washington, D. C.

One of the foreign glove makers stands above his fellows because of the absolutely perfect fit of the gloves which he fashions—gloves for the service of the exacting and discerning. The gloves which are presented here are not out of his hands more than a fortnight. They are of real kid, one thousand, two hundred pairs all told, in the new and desirable shades of tan, mode, gray and brown.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

This fall's importation, just arrived. Women's Biarritz or Sack Gloves, suitable for walking, shopping, traveling, driving and general outdoor wear. This is to be a very popular glove for fall and winter, and owing to the fact that we purchased them at a concession we shall offer this first shipment at a price which will doubtless sell them all in a day.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

The Best Kid Gloves for Women Ever Sold at 59c.—That's not alone our statement, but the verdict of the hundreds of women who've already bought them this season. At no other store in town, we are positive, can you get such gloves for 59c.—they were made by one of the best French glovemakers, of the most carefully selected glace kid. The backs are nicely embroidered, and you may select from all the leading fall shades, as well as black and white.—Bloomingtondale's, New York, N. Y.

The coolest hands are those which are protected from dust and sun by these splendid $1 "Elsmere" silk gloves, 69 cents. They are much the finest gloves to be had for anything like the price. Made for us, with double woven finger tips instead of the reinforced finger tips, which are liable to make gloves bulky. Each pair is fully guaranteed, too—a new pair if the tips wear out before the body of the glove. We have them in white, black and modes.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Kid Gloves.—Nothing in the way of apparel is more satisfactory to a woman than a shapely, nice-fitting glove, whether it has the glace finish, or the soft suede, and nothing is more annoying than just when she thinks she has capped the climax of a fetching toilet by drawing on the exactly right shade of glove to have it rip or tear. It is our especial care in buying gloves to avoid the possibility of such experiences.—Hysinger & Rosenthal, Peoria, Ill.

Gloves need to be beautifully fresh and spotless for wear with dainty summer costumes, and this year when gloves are to be so greatly worn the wise woman is going to have a generous supply on hand in the particular shades to match her frocks. The charming old-time fashion of elbow sleeves which has brought long gloves into full favor once more, has been so universally adopted that already the supply of long gloves in some stores is completely exhausted and hurried orders are being sent in for more. The Loeser glove store looked ahead and is prepared to meet the demand with a complete stock of exclusive gloves in all desired lengths and shades.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Gloves especially made for brides, bridesmaids and bridegrooms and ushers. Made by Perrin; their quality, exquisite finish and appearance can only be appreciated by actually seeing them. We invite your inspection.—Perrin, New York, N. Y.

Have you read about this newest and coolest of summer gloves? We're ready to vouch for everything said in its favor and there's a guarantee ticket in every pair to bind the bargain. When you see them, it will not take you long to decide that the Amsterdam is the glove you want. Of course you want to make a selection where the showing is largest.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Yes—even in France, the land of Gloves, with no customs duty to pay—you could not find such an array of values as the Loeser Glove Store has to present. It is easy enough to make sure that you can get the best Gloves here; for every woman is by experience a good judge of Gloves—and the difference is so marked we will be glad to have you compare.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you want lowest prices you get them here. Every reason favors your getting gloved at Loeser's.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women's gloves and lace mitts. A fresh supply of the lisle thread mesh gloves, so cool and well-fitting, is here to-day at half price. Then there's a fine group of silk lace mitts, in short and elbow lengths, at prices that don't begin to express their real values.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Wertheimer's Celebrated Carlton Glove embodies the acme of perfection and elegance in the genuine imported French article. The stock is of such high grade that its select quality is apparent not only to connoisseurs, but to any one, however slightly acquainted with the requirements of these high class goods. It is made with overseam, Paris point stitching, two elegant patent clasps and comes in all desirable colors, including the most delicate, fashionable shades.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

The best of glove news is this, for Fall Glove wants are near enough to demand attention; the woman who heeds this call will be the better off for a pair or two of the newest and best 75c kind much underprice. The glove is here in shades and styles right for evening wear, street and traveling.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Seasonable and Reasonable these gloves for women and the prices. One clasp German kid at the unusually little price, for a new glove of this quality, of 49 cents. Pure silk gloves, in the champagne shades and black, 29 cents. Lace lisle, doubly woven finger tips, 20 and 24 inches long, in white and black, gloves that usually sell at 63 cents and 75 cents, 29 cents. Regina silk gloves, queen of all summer gloves, acme of quality, double tips that wear, but are not clumsy and bulky; three qualities, colors white, black, modes, slates and the new browns, 50, 75 and 98 cents.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The new Reynier Gloves have arrived and are presented in full assortments to-day. This distinguished manufacturer tells us that it is one of the finest lines that he has ever turned out. There are no better gloves in the world than the Reynier in Kid and Suede. They are shown in all the correct Autumn shades.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Those who wear Perrin gloves call them cheap, because they wear better and last longer than any other kind. They have the perfect form that gives hands that distinguished look and perfect comfort.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Our splendid preparations are sure to make this October Kid Glove Sale by far the most successful, not only in our sales, but in the satisfaction afforded every customer in every pair. The magnitude of the great assortments is in itself an advantage deserving of greatest consideration. All the favored styles are included in an exceedingly wide range of the season's newest and best shades.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago.

Cool Fabric Gloves Make Cool Hands.—If you should watch the busy Glove counters for ten minutes any time these days, you would know without question that well made fabric gloves are to be worn this season as never before.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A fortunate glove purchase right at the height of the fabric glove season makes this remarkable offering possible. You certainly want to secure a season's supply, for you know a thoroughly reliable fabric glove possessing all the required style attributes at 35c., is indeed unusual.—Simpson, Crawford & Co., New York.

The question of satisfaction in the gloves you buy, depends on something more than the price. The fact that you pay enough to get a good glove is not always a guarantee that you are getting it. It's our special aim and study to get the best gloves offered by the manufacturers whether they are foreign or American made.—Saginaw Dry Goods & Carpet Co., Saginaw.

New shopping gloves for fall. One is the well-known Dent glove, which we bring from England. It is a stout, substantially constructed glove, cut much like a man's glove. Its durability makes it much liked for shopping, driving and motoring.—The Crescent, Spokane.

This Summer Glove Sale Creates a Price Precedent. Cotton and Lace Lisle at Very Little Prices.—No matter how warm the weather, a woman does not look well or feel comfortable without Gloves. Here are pretty Summer Gloves of excellent quality that are being sold so cheap that several pairs may be purchased where one usually is. A most interesting event. All in black, white or gray.

Seasonable and Reasonable these gloves for women and the prices. One clasp German kid at the unusually little price, for a new glove of this quality, of 49 cents. Pure silk gloves, in the champagne shades and black, 29 cents. Lace lisle, doubly woven finger tips, 20 and 24 inches long, in white and black, gloves that usually sell at 63 cents and 75 cents, 29 cents. Regina silk gloves, queen of all summer gloves, acme of quality, double tips that wear, but are not clumsy and bulky; three qualities, colors white, black, modes, slates and the new browns, 50c, 75 and 98 cents.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The "Mountfort" dollar glove is not a stock glove; it is made up across the water, especially for us, from selected skins of fine texture, quality and uniform thickness. It is a beautifully fitting glove and gives splendid wear. Our recent importation includes many of the new brown shades as well as a general assortment of fashionable colors.—The Star Store, New Bedford.

The quality of the gloves in this sale is absolutely above fault. The colors are the most wanted—including black, tan, mode, pearl, English red, gray, brown, white and black; sizes from 5 1-2 to 7 1-2 in all colors—and up to 8 in black and dark tans. All two clasp style. Every pair is perfect and will be guaranteed. This is undeniably the greatest of recent glove offers.—Ehrich Bros., New York, N. Y.

All the prices are considerably less than regular. No wonder hundreds are choosing our gloves for gifts in preference to others. They are those smart styles and new shades—the finest skins you ever saw—and don't cost as much. Main floor.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Experience has taught us that most of the glove makers incline toward specialization. They centre their cleverness and talent upon which they depend for their reputation. To the series of Patricia gloves, each of the famous glove makers has contributed the specific glove with which he sues for recognition—the glove which is a little better than the best the market affords.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

The figures representing the increase of business so far this month over the same period of last year are as large as the entire sales of many a glove store of considerable size. This does not mean that our standard of excellence was ever anything but the highest, but that we have doubled the space, show more kinds of gloves than ever before, and have many sorts that are scarce or "missing" at other stores—notably these: Fur gloves; squirrel-lined gloves; buck gauntlets; oil tan gauntlets; lined flannel and wool; silk; some styles in kid and cape gloves; Fownes' children's gloves, lined or unlined.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Trefousse—the best gloves for women that skill can make. Made of the best parts of the finest and most carefully selected French kidskins; fresh, soft, and dainty, just lately received from their French maker. Beautifully made, in the smartest, newest styles known to glovemaking. With nothing finer, choicer, more elegant in a woman's dress glove to be had at any price.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Our gloves come direct to us from one of the best glove makers in all France and you will find them here now and always in full assortment of sizes, in full range of the most beautiful colorings and every pair of the same grade.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Derby pique gloves are sewed by skilled pique sewers, under the accurate eye of expert examiners. The Derby glove fits to perfection and the wearing qualities are unsurpassed. No more serviceable glove made. Every pair guaranteed and fitted.—Kemp & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

Are you wearing Ringwood gloves. "The proof of the pudding lies in the eating of it," and the way that women buy Ringwood gloves, year after year, is proof positive that they are not only dressy, but very comfortable. This season we are selling more of them than ever. Good reason, too. Quality and value couldn't well be better.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

A secret about "Elsmere" silk gloves. We thought women liked them because of the smartness and the fit and the low price, but we find there's another advantage that women haven't talked much about—it leaked out the other day. "You know," said the woman to her friend, "they make one's hand look so small." The reason is, the cut and the fit; and sometimes in the finish, too. And the double-woven finger tips, so different from the bulky sewn-in kind, have a good deal to do with it. We guarantee the finger tips to outwear the rest of the glove. All shades, white and black.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

In our kid glove section. The latest colorings and styles just received from the celebrated Trefousse factories of Chaumont, France, and other well-known makes in glace and suede gloves, for receptions, parties, weddings, street and outing wear. Every skin has been carefully selected. Sewing, coloring and finishings absolutely perfect. Every little detail has been given with special instructions that the opening of our kid gloves department will be correct.—New Fowler Dry Goods Company, Kansas City, Mo.

Mousquetaires lead again in women's gloves for fall. And as has been the case ever since the great demand for mousquetaires started several seasons ago, this store will be headquarters for the best qualities at the most reasonable prices. See the quality of these new gloves we have just opened and you will know the reason the Loeser glove store has such general preference. These gloves are the best product of the foremost glovemaking in France. They are absolute perfection in quality of leather, delicacy of color, fit and finish.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Buy your long gloves here. The scarcity of long gloves has been overcome at last. We are pleased to announce to those who have been disappointed by being unable to secure certain shades that we can supply the 16-button silk gloves in the following shades: Black, white, red, champagne, tan, mode, blue, navy, reseda, pink, gray and brown. They are all double tipped fingers.—Jodoin & Davies, Spokane.

As a glove store we acknowledge no superior. Every woman in Trenton who would consider wearing gloves of the highest silk and French kid qualities should see our stock before buying. If you want gloves, no matter what the price, upon which fashion and the severe glove critic have stamped their approval, you make no mistake in buying here, where quality and quantity can be found to suit the purse of every individual need. In silk gloves our line is one of the best and most complete in New Jersey, and especially so at this season, when all wanted kinds are here, two-clasp lisle thread. In kid gloves we stand side by side with some of the very best metropolitan stores for quality—and our vast quantity makes selections very easy and satisfactory.—Kaufman's Trenton, N. J.

Gloves for warm weather. For the summer time there's nothing more comfortable than a thin fabric glove for street wear, we take special precautions that our stock of these gloves contain only the best qualities, but we also take precautions that they shall not cost you any more than possible, and for that reason we buy them months ahead of time. Below you will find the results of our early buying.—Lippincott & Co., Wilmington, Del.

To-morrow at 8:30 we will place on sale 750 pairs of women's high grade silk as well as lisle gloves. The silks are in black and white, while the lises are only in white and gray. This is undoubtedly one of the biggest glove bargains we have ever offered, and it's a well known fact that our glove values are second to none. These gloves, in fit, finish and style, are up to the minute. The cheapest glove in the collection would be a bargain at $1.50, the majority are worth considerably more.—The Goerke Co., Newark, N. J.

This sale is an event of great consequence to women who wear long gloves—kid or lisle. They're scarce—but they'll be scarcer in a short time. We have a plentiful supply now; although we have many more on order you cannot always be sure when they'll arrive. We get them from Paris. A few words about the prices—you won't see such low ones again this season.—Gimbel Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

Good gloves. Those two words hardly describe them. They are good in every conceivable way, and especially they are good because the prices we are asking for them are so small. Many stores are asking more, because there is a great scarcity, but at this store the usual low prices will prevail until the manufacturer compels us to make a change. There seldom is a scarcity of gloves here—our buyer takes care of that—orders them months ahead—and that fact also has something to do with the little prices.—Lippincott & Co., Wilmington.

New 16-button silk gloves. Women who admire elaborately embroidered, yet dainty silk gloves will find them in this collection. There are also elegant plain silk gloves. Such tones as tans, browns and pongees are represented, as well as whites and blacks.—Emery, Bird & Thayer, Kansas City, Mo.

Hand in hand with style and elegance goes economy when you buy gloves at this store. Strong, neat, stylish gloves, in the most desirable styles for all occasions. We have always exercised the greatest care in buying our gloves, and have on hand always a large and varied stock. With these and the other lines of men's things, we are every ready to cater to the smartest dressers. Get the habit—go to White & Manahan, Winnipeg, Can.

Women's Amsterdam or Kayser silk gloves are the two-clasp style and are in black, white and all wanted shades, finished with three rows embroidery stitching on back to match.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Just a few suggestions from the glove department. There will still be several weeks of cold weather, and for that time we offer warm gloves. In better gloves for dress occasions, we have some superb showings.—Wren's, Springfield.

These are the Kayser knit gloves with silk linings. This sale comprises only a limited quantity that will be sold out in a jiffy and included are black and white gloves, also a few grays and browns, full line of sizes, splendid values.—Field, Schlick & Co., St. Paul.

It is a very unusual thing to sell standard quality gloves at less than regular prices, but on account of congested freight conditions we have just received our stock of short kid gloves, which were ordered delivered in February, together with the stock ordered delivered at the present time. This makes our assortment larger than necessary and in order to remedy this, high grade gloves will be sold at reduced prices. Every pair is fully guaranteed.—Rhodes Bros., Tacoma, Wash.

We are the only direct importers of kid and fabric gloves on the Pacific Coast; we pay no middleman's profits, consequently are able to sell many of the most wanted lines at what other stores have to pay wholesale; another advantage that benefits our patrons is that some time ago we made arrangements to take the entire output of certain lines from one of the largest and most reputable makers of high-grade gloves, thus constantly having in stock a complete assortment of all the most wanted styles; our prices are invariably at least a fourth less than you have to pay at any other store; the following are specially priced for Saturday.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Gloves for spring, black, tans, browns, etc., the finest gloves from the famous houses of Perrins and Fownes. Selected abroad by our own buyers and imported direct in bond to Brandeis.—Brandeis, Omaha, Neb.

Every sign post points to a season of remarkable glove selling for this store. We'll not be surprised at anything, not even if our most sanguine expectations are surpassed. The prognostications are made on quality and values. Never such glove values—and we say it advisedly—as we are offering this season. As illustrations a fine French kid glove at $1.00. That's a value that will give you trouble to equal. And our popular Majestic gloves are still selling at the same old price, though our Toronto store has been compelled to advance theirs. No, this glove scarcity is a wolf story. We were so fortunate as to place orders a year ahead of time. And wasn't that lucky?—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Black or white. Fine quality tricot silk. Double tipped fingers. Gloves that you may depend upon at a price that you'll be happy to pay. Five hundred pairs to go on sale to-morrow on center tables in our glove section.—L. Bamberger & Co., Newark, N. J.

Values out of all proportion to the splendid quality of these handsome gloves—fine French kid and best French make—gloves that will meet the requirements of the most fastidious women. Half a dozen pairs are not too many for your glove box—not at these prices.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Because these kid gloves are odd lots we do not care to bother with them at inventory time. To clear them out at once we've reduced the price from $1.00 a pair to only 69c. a pair. They come in a fine quality of Italian glace kid in black, white, mode, tan and brown, and nearly all sizes are to be found. The lot is not large, so don't put off coming.—Sturtevant's, Zanesville, Ohio.

Pre-eminently the glove store of Schenectady. No matter what the demand you will find our stock ready to meet it. At present we are particularly fortunate in securing some lines considerably under value.—H. S. Barney Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Are unequalled for elegance, style and perfect fit. The kid is the finest obtainable. Look for the trademark. Sold everywhere by high class dealers.—Perrin Gloves, Winnipeg, Can.

What has made this glove store what it is to-day—New Jersey's foremost one—can be accounted for by just such gloves as follow. Remember, the prices are no higher than those of the kinds of gloves which even the merchant has but little confidence in when he sells them to you, doesn't warrant them, perhaps wouldn't fit them under any conditions. Every glove sold here at $1.00 and upward is warranted. Every pair will be fitted if you ask.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Our gloves are cut from the finest grenoble skins. Style, workmanship and finish the best that can be produced. Plenty of all sizes here in long kid gloves, both dressed and undressed kid. Finest quality of 16-button, elbow length, glace kid gloves, in black, white, tan or brown, now selling in Los Angeles and everywhere at $4.00 a pair. Are here $3.75 a pair. All gloves carefully fitted.—C. Cohn, San Bernardino, Cal.

We have just received our direct importation of kid gloves, consisting of the most correct lengths, colors and kinds in the best grades that are produced. Gloves for every occasion, from the 2-clasp glace kid at $1.00, to the 20-button length suede and glace gloves. 8- and 12-button lengths glace and suede are very popular. As every pair of gloves is guaranteed our glove department is a safe place to do your buying.—Kennard & Co., Wilmington, Del.

An extra pair or two of white kid gloves for the chap that is going out much this season is not a luxury—they are a necessity. These are value-tempting enough to warrant many buying half a dozen pair.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

As good an offering as could well be made, both on account of the scarcity of really fine Mousquetaire gloves and because of the increasing demand.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Yesterday's express brought us complete assortment of all sizes and all the shades of tans and browns in both twelve and sixteen-button kid gloves. This is the real swagger glove for street wear this spring. The sixteen-button length is $3.75 a pair, the twelve-button length is $3.25 a pair. All gloves carefully fitted.—C. Cohn, San Bernardino, Cal.

An eight o'clock special in kid gloves. Finest French kid gloves 65c. pair, instead of $1.00, $1.15, $1.50 and $2.00. Less to pay for those gloves you have entered on your gift list than you had expected, for which thank the too previous arrival of a large shipment of these same kinds—finest French makes. A splendid assortment in suede and glace kid, in a complete range of colors.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Kid gloves have never been so indispensable for the completion of street and evening costumes. And with this noted preference in the winter fashions, there is a scarcity of skins which make kid gloves all the more highly prized as gifts. Such has been the abnormal demand that it is a very evident fact that many manufacturers have been unable to maintain their customary standard of quality in their productions. This condition has been avoided in our lines. They are being supplied by manufacturers who anticipated this scarcity. Accordingly the same standard of perfection is maintained throughout all our assortments. This is especially true in the matchless Alexandre-made gloves from our own factory. To men especially we emphasize the advantages our lines afford in qualities, assortments and prices.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago.

Extra excellence in women's kid gloves. Brooklyn women who want the very finest kid gloves that France has learned to make ask for either the "Narcisse" glove at $1.85, or the "Zara" glove at $1.50. They are made exclusively for the Loeser store by Trefousse et Cie of Chaumont, France—a concern that has held the lead in glove making for fifty years. They are the finest real kid and the finest in every way that Trefousse can make. The colorings are exquisite.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Gift gloves are acceptable for Christmas. Of course a gift of gloves will be just as popular this season as ever it was, and our glove counters will be the popular place to buy them. Finest French kid gloves and lowest prices that good gloves can be sold at, why shouldn't it be? Each pair put up in a fancy Christmas box if you ask for it.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Men's Cross gloves. The famous London gloves which fit best and wear best and which every man who has tried them prefers above all others. They can be bought in Brooklyn only at the Loeser store. These gloves are hand sewn with spear point backs and with one button, which never pulls off. English and biscuit tans and black and white.—Fredrick, Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Men's gloves for Christmas gifts. Just inside the Fulton Street entrance to the East Building is the best store for men's gloves in this city. Boys' gloves are also sold here. Care is taken to keep the assortment complete in all the makes that men prefer. A pair or two of gloves is a present any man would appreciate.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Men's gloves are shown in fashionable styles from both American and foreign makers of sterling reputation. The variety of styles for street, driving and motor wear is very extensive. Prices are in all instances very reasonable. Dent's English made dress and walking gloves are shown in tan, brown, gray and white. Updegraff's American made dress gloves are now shown in one of the Riverside windows.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

The long-glove, finger points here. There's a dearth of long gloves everywhere. There's even a great famine in short gloves: It has been a glove season beyond the most lavish expectations of the makers. This store will take care of you. We have made arrangements to supply this long glove demand. The new glove section offers you gloves without a flaw in the full lengths at $2.50 and $3.00. In the short lengths at $1.00 and $1.50. No hard skins that will crack with the first few wearings. Instead they're every single one perfect—guaranteed so by us. All colors to match your gowns.—T. W. Marse & Co., Taylor, Tex.

Yard's famous glove gifts. We sell an enormous quantity of gloves. There must be more than the holiday spirit to account for it. We think quality accounts for much, and in no department in the Yard stores does quality exert a more salutary influence than in the glove section. Every glove in it has been chosen because we have proved it actually the best at its price—and that's why a glove gift bought at Yard's is so enthusiastically welcomed by its receiver.—Yard's, Trenton, N. J.

Glove talk! That's what this is; you're interested, surely. Sunburned hands are growing white again. Evidences of a summer in the free open air are gradually fading out, and additional clothing is the necessary transition. It's just here warm handwear comes in. To combine hand-comfort and style a man should wear a superior glove, something easily selected from our vast supply, of which the following is but an inkling.—Manchester-Robertson-Allison, St. John.

The kind of gloves that are hard to get. Not everywhere—in fact in a very few stores anywhere—can you find gloves like these. Gloves in black and white—best styles and qualities—gloves of truly high degree—and they look it. Not an easy thing to buy good gloves, because there are too many of the other kinds. But we have more faith in these gloves than we have in our friends. We know they wear and last. Several pairs will not be too many after you see them, and the prices couldn't be lower.—Lippincott & Co., Wilmington, Del.

Golf and cashmere gloves at 25c. for women and children; values 35c to 75c. This great annual sale of golf and cashmere gloves is one of the features of the anniversary sale. Each year the markets are searched that the offering may be more meritorious than in previous years. The present collection consists of an almost limitless variety of styles and colorings. Every pair new, fresh and shown now for the first time. There are all wool gloves in plain colors, plaids, stripes and other fancy effects; also a variety of sorts knit from mercerized yarns for those who prefer them, choice 25c.—The Crescent, Spokane.

Don't worry at all because you don't know exactly the size of glove that fits the person to whom you wish to send a pair. We expect to be just as busy the day after Christmas exchanging sizes as we are the day before selling these most satisfactory holiday remembrances. And we'll do it happily, too. The color scale of the year runs riot among these satin-surfaced creations of imported kid. They're faithful, tasteful friends who choose gloves. The Trefousse, the Beatrice, the Centemeri and the Lady Estelle.—The Stone, Fisher Co., Tacoma.

Gloves for Christmas. For Christmas gifts that you must send some distance kid gloves are very suitable. They are easy to send, too, and make pretty and useful gifts. We have all sizes and shades both in the long and short gloves. Prices to suit all.—Jodoin & Davies, Spokane, Wash.

The reputation of Benner, Begg & Garvin gloves has been thoroughly established. We have an expert fitter in charge of this department. Buying gloves at the store is sure satisfaction for all concerned.—Benner, Begg & Garvin, Grand Forks, N. D.

The biting sting of winter is in the crisp December air, and men's hands must be kept warm. We believe that the largest and best collection of gloves in the State is at Schipper & Block's—yes, really!—Schipper & Block, Peoria.

This semi-annual sale of French kid gloves is an important price event, as every woman knows who has purchased gloves at the reduced prices which can be secured during these semi-annual sales. Trefousse et Cie practically control the output of high-grade skins for glove manufacturing in a large part of France, so when a season of scarcity comes they are not affected in the same degree as the smaller manufacturer.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

For men—mitts and gloves it's a pleasure to wear and an economy to buy. Warm, comfortable and couldn't wish better values, that sums up Tuesday's offerings in men's mitts in a nutshell.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

A pair of McKay's gloves is the height of good taste. We have those good quality, snug-fitting gloves that please the particular ladies. You will like the celebrated Reynier brand in black, white, brown and tan; 8, 12 and 16-button lengths.—G. D. McKay & Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Extra. Long French kid gloves worth $2.75 and $3.25, Thursday morning, $1.98. Women will just revel in this dainty snack of bargain news, for long gloves, you know, are long gloves this season. With coats and shirtwaists being worn with shortened sleeves—long gloves will be even scarcer than they were last summer.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

New gloves galore. From every point of view—style, quality, splendid completeness and price—our glove store presents a most pleasing front. We are extremely fortunate in still being able to announce a most varied and complete showing of long gloves, notwithstanding a daily increasing market scarcity. See our Main street window display.—Crews-Beggs Co., Pueblo, Col.

According to Dame Fashion, long gloves will enjoy a greater popularity than ever this coming spring. In the Loeser glove store you will find a complete assortment of the best Mousquetaire gloves made; the product of the best glove makers of France. They are here in all sizes.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Reorganization Glove Clearance.—A sale that will sweep from our stock every odd pair, all broken lines, all samples, and all mended gloves at prices far below original cost.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

Women's Gloves, 55c.—And a Story Back of Them.—A factory secured a lot of skins—some kid, others fine young lambskin—for a certain purpose, but they turned out to be too small. They are just right for gloves, however, and we got the entire lot at much below their worth and had them made into fall styles.—Wanamaker's, New York.

There are at all times attractions of some kind in this department. Special sales and arrivals of new goods are of daily occurrence. We call special attention to our sale of women's fine imported golf gloves. They are of either pure wool or mercerized finish, in plain and fancy colors. Most of them with long closed wrists; a few with clasps.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Kid Gloves.—Nothing in the way of apparel is more satisfactory to a woman than a shapely, nice-fitting glove, whether it has the glace finish, or the soft suede, and nothing is more annoying than just when she thinks she has capped the climax of fetching toilet by drawing on the exactly right shade of glove to have it rip or tear. It is our especial pains in buying gloves to avoid these experiences. We spare no pains to secure the very best makes of the very best makers.—Olds, Wortman & King, Portland, Ore.

Clearance Kid and Fabric Gloves.—Every lady appreciates the necessity of wearing gloves to protect from action of wind and sun; and like most other articles of woman's wear, the vast majority of women know as much about the values as the merchant. In listing the numerous lines of gloves below you will be able to figure out just how much of your pin-money you can appropriate in order to fill your glove box.—A. Hamburger & Sons, Los Angeles, Cal.

Golf glove weather. When snow is flying and the mercury hovering near the zero point, it's time you slipped on a pair of golf gloves.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Company, Rochester, N. Y.

We don't know where you can find a more complete line of gloves than we carry. We have gloves made by the best makers at home and across the seas. Driving gloves, street gloves, dress gloves, gloves and mittens for the business man—a combination of style and comfort.—Fred M. Nye, Ogden, Utah.

Suede Lisle and Silk Gloves for Warm Weather.—Women may be gloved and still be comfortable in these days of lisle and silk gloves. So thin and light that they are not a bit in the way, but they keep one's hands free from dust.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Children's Gloves.—Youngsters up to twelve years, we mean by "children." But mothers needn't bother about the size—our salespeople are used to fitting children's hands, and know just what to pick out when a little tot comes up to the counter. Cape gloves for hard wear; lined gloves for warmth; mittens for school.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Seasonable Gloves at Sharp Reductions.—Saturday we begin our annual sale of winter gloves. An event teeming with interest. Goods that you need, at a time when your needs are most apparent. Our glove stock is now at its best, every line is complete, every popular style and color is represented—there's not a size or a finger length missing. This sale affords opportunities for replenishing your supply of gloves at a handsome saving. Prices are so low that the thrifty and far-seeing buyers will secure several pairs. We have a corps of efficient glove women who will fit you carefully, no matter the price of the glove you purchase they will be fitted to your entire satisfaction; almost every staple line of gloves in our stock has been reduced for this event.—The Broadway Department Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

The Centinerie kid gloves set a standard of excellence in softness and pliability of the skin, superior workmanship and skill in cutting. If you once put on a pair you are never satisfied with other makes.—People's Store Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Could we tempt you with fine kid gloves at half price? We are closing out some odd lines of Perrin's and Tre-fousse kid gloves at half former prices. Not all sizes left, to be sure, but call and look over the lines. We may have just your size and wanted shade, and if so you save half the price.—Crews-Beggs, Pueblo, Col.

Women's Kid Gloves.—The civilized world is full of glove trash. Degenerate Italian, French, German and Belgian gloves are constantly seeking a market, and through sham cheapness finding it. The retail buyer is responsible for the currency of this glove rubbish. Good gloves may now be secured cheaply. We have divorced low price from poor gloves by uniting cheapness and uniformity with honest quality. All our gloves are regular in shape, making, color. — Chamberlin-Johnson-Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Cool Lisle Gloves.—Since we brought them out the other day, the corner of the glove store where the lisle gloves are sold has been one of the busiest spots. Reason—such fine lisle gloves were never before sold for such small prices.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

It is practical palmistry that graces women's sensitive palms and dexter digits with silk gloves—50c. to $1.00.—Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Our "Lauretta" and "Carmen" two-clasp glace kid gloves, respectively $1.00 and $1.25 per pair, have special merits that must commend them to discriminating women. They are made for us exclusively, from skins carefully selected—made in the best possible manner by skilled labor, fashioned by the best French artists in glove making, produced in the leading and fashionable colorings for this season, and absolutely the best glove values to be had at these prices. Every pair we fit and guarantee the wear of. If you have not tried either, let us fit you to a pair and be convinced of their superiority.—C. S. Hills & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Gloves to 'start the fall, 65c. When you take off fabric gloves, this is the kind to put on—the best we know of for 65c. It is not commonly known that there is as great a difference in quality among lambskins as among the finer and more delicate kidskins. Spongy skins that lose their shape when first worn never get into this store. Stretch these—they are elastic and yielding, yet spring back into shape again at a touch. All the good fall colors are ready—tan, mode, beaver, gray, black, all-white and white with black stitching. Overseams with two clasps.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

GO-CARTS

It is fitting that the old war-cry of the Administration, "The full dinner pail," should have to give way to the Rooseveltian slogan, "The full perambulator."—Springfield Republican.

Clerkley—Isn't this earlier than your usual time for going home?

Barkley—Yes, but my wife said if I came out by the 3:45 she'd meet me with the carriage.

"I didn't know you kept a horse and carriage."

"Er—er—it's a baby and carriage."

Baby will bump the rough spots in life soon enough. Ease the little toddler's way with a buggy—think of the convenience to yourself.—Kelly & May, West Superior, Wis.

These are the days that baby would enjoy a carriage ride—these are the days mother does not feel like carrying it—both mother and child will be happy in the possession of one of our handsome carriages or go-carts.—Freimuth's, Duluth, Minn.

Of course you know that baby buggies are entirely out-of-date. Go-carts are the only practical baby vehicle now in use. Their durability is due to the fact that the back can be lowered or raised according to the whim or need of the baby. The foot can also be raised or lowered independent of the back. This makes it possible to utilize the go-cart as a cradle or a chair.—Barker Bros., Los Angeles, Cal.

It's a trying time for babies—this month and next—and if you want yours to be healthy, don't neglect the daily ride in a go-cart or carriage. If you haven't bought yet, don't put it off any longer, but just come here and get it.—Brown Bros., Cleveland, O.

For Airing the Baby.—The best conveyance is a Go-Cart. This opinion is, of course, based upon the utility, durability and attractiveness of OUR Go-Carts. They are light to push and easy to manipulate. No wrench is necessary for the wheels.—The Chamberlin Furniture Co., New Haven, Conn.

Baby's health, is, or should be, a source of much consideration! Lay early the foundation of a life free from physical ailments by giving your child every possible opportunity to take advantage of health-giving elements. Fresh air and sunshine are absolutely essential to baby's welfare, and are the two best and most inexpensive doctors to be had. Let us show you our carts for the little folk.—Alfred Edmondson, Morecombe, England.

A pleasure for baby and comfort for you. This city is full of mothers that are tied at home because they are not strong enough to carry baby and the common style of go-carts can't be taken on the cars. No picnics or outings that would do both mother and child a world of good. The Interurban go-cart can be folded up as shown in the picture and carried under the arm.—Miller & Darley, Marion Ind.

"Prince Baby" has an added newness to his go-cart this season; it is collapsible. This differs from the folding style. The collapsible go-cart is full size, and so constructed that with a push here, a lift there and a twist in another place, the running gear closes in on itself beneath the body of the vehicle—and when collapsed the go-carts take up but little more space than a sitting room chair; quite an important feature when space is limited, and a big improvement over the old room-taking build. These go-carts are made by Heywood, and all come upholstered; all the springs are elliptical, making a very "elastic" vehicle—thus neutralizing jolts sideways as well as forward and backward. Another excellent point about these Heywood go-carts is that the pusher goes to the gear giving what is termed "ground" control of the vehicle—a more sure control by the one propelling than if the pusher were attached to the body of the cart.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Go-Carts and Baby Carriages.—It is hardly fair to the little ones to keep 'em housed when you can send them out in charge of a nurse or one of the other children in a comfortable go-cart or carriage which we price to you cheaply. The expense is but nominal and the benefit to the child great.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

We enjoy talking to the woman who is interested in bargains. These high grade go-carts and carriages come under that heading. Equipped with all the latest improvements known, such as steel running gear, auto wheels, rubber hub caps; has deeply tufted and detachable upholstery of finest French velour in beautiful color combinations, and fine lace cover. Having bought a tremendous number, and not wanting to carry them over, we offer them to you at a great saving. They are smart, of endless variety, and very serviceable. They seem to be in a class by themselves—a particularly noticeable feature being that the less expensive kinds possess the same style, finish and artistic workmanship of the more expensive ones. You can buy them with the positive assurance that they are reliable throughout, no matter what price you pay for them.—B. G. Carpenter, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

A special drive on go-carts for this week. Baby's health is, or should be, a source of much consideration. Lay early the foundation of a life free from physical ailments by giving your child every possible opportunity to take advantage of health-giving elements. Fresh air and sunshine are absolutely essential to baby's welfare, and are the two best and most inexpensive doctors to be had. Let us show you our carts for the little folk.—Cohn Bros., Spokane, Wash.

Nothing is better during bright summer days than long jaunts in the great outdoors. Little feet soon tire, though. And here is where one of these go-carts is needed. Light and easily handled, yet strong and durable, they meet every requirement perfectly.—A. Brown & Son, Schenectady, N. Y.

Our line of go-carts from $6.50 to $30 are just the proper article to give baby an airing. Plenty of fresh air will make your baby healthy and good natured.—Frank Pryor, Pueblo, Colo.

When the President comes. When President Roosevelt comes to Joliet he will be proud to see what Joliet can show in the way of big families. Joliet leads in this State. You'll want a nice baby carriage or go-cart in which to take the baby out to see the president. The best place to buy them is of G. L. Vance, Joliet, Ill.

Mid-Summer clearance time finds us overstocked with Folding Go-Carts. Radical reductions placing them in easy reach of all, makes them all the more desirable. There's sufficient time left this summer and fall in which to use them to best of advantage.—The 14th St. Store, New York.

We have most positively determined not to carry over a single cart. We realize that they will not be in fashion when snow is on the ground, and our storage room is scarce.—The Georke Co., Newark, N. J.

Buy a Heywood cart for baby. You won't be satisfied with an ugly, awkward go-cart for the baby. The little one deserves the very best that's to be had—in other words a Heywood cart.—Rhodes, Haverty Furniture Co., Atlanta, Ga.

They're real bargains. Marked down a lot of our best go-carts and baby carriages, need the room. Several styles in our window with prices plainly marked. Glad to show you, others inside. It's a real opportunity to save money. Better investigate.—J. Crawford Green & Son, Troy, N. Y.

Another lot of those small reclining go-carts just received. They are very handy carts and have proven very popular this season. They fold up, have adjustable back and front, heavy tires, bicycle wheels and patent foot brake. They are roomy, substantial, comfortable and cost but very little to buy.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

We are showing a complete line of up-to-date go-carts and baby carriages. These goods come from the foremost makers of the country and have all the new and desirable features. They are certainly beauties and should be inspected by all intending purchasers. You will find the prices and quality right.—Simpson's, Elmira, N. Y.

Beautiful weather to give baby an outing. This special in go-carts will help you to secure a good one reasonably.—Chapman & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

You won't be satisfied with an ugly, awkward go-cart for the baby. The little one deserves the very best that's to be had—in other words, a Heywood cart.—Rhodes-Haverty Furniture Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Don't Carry, but Wheel Your Baby.—If you have hesitated because of the attendant expense of a suitable cab, just apply common reasoning to what you should get for your money—and if you are satisfied that you are getting more than your money's worth—do a little judicious investigating in one of these perambulators, and feel satisfied that you are not asked to pay exorbitant prices for the comfort you derive from wheeling your baby; and realize that it enables you to either take baby out with you or send it out in charge of some competent person.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

If baby had its own way it would be out in the fresh air and sunlight almost every hour of the day in one of these comfortable go-carts enjoying those helpful gifts of nature that put color in the cheeks and lustre in the eye.—W. S. Aaron, Altoona, Pa.

Baby Carriages and Go-Carts.—Easy choosing from our line of forty odd beauties. Here you'll find the prettiest parasols in New Bedford—quite different from the carriage man's stock, for our business brings us in touch with the lace workers, and we buy this part of the carriages—also at first hands.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

All the new vehicles for little folks to ride in are now here and ready for the outings which this bright spring weather invites.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

The fact that we sell a goodly share of the go-carts sold in Binghamton speaks for itself. It shows that we have the most complete line, the best and strongest makes and the very best values. Our carts are made of the very best reed, are adjustable and folding, have cushion rubber tires, ball-bearing wheels, anti-friction wheel fasteners, patent brake and dozens of other good features. They are light, easy running and very substantial. We show fully 100 different styles, at all prices from $2.50.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

The Alwin Folding Go-Cart.—That folds as flat as a Sunday newspaper and is not very many times more heavy—yet so strong it can be subjected to almost any treatment. It is not a complicated machine that can be used as a table, a lawn seat, hammock or a lawn mower—it is a simply constructed, perfect little go-cart, made of finest steel tubing, rubber tired wheels, leather cloth cushioned seat and beautifully nicked and enameled metal parts. It is strong enough to bear the weight of a grown person, yet within a few seconds it is collapsed and folded into so small a package that it may be stowed away in the tiniest cupboard or pushed under the bed. If you are boarding, traveling, visiting or living in a small apartment—even one room—this is the go-cart for you—at $9.98.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

These Go-Carts are highest grade manufacture—from such fellows as Heywood Bros. and Wakefield, Block, Dann and Monumental. All made of fine reed, handsomely finished; fitted with the newest auto running gear; green enameled wheels with rubber tires and rubber hub caps; reclining back and adjustable dasher. Some have China handles.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

The season is here when baby will be on the street more than in the house: that is why we are so well prepared with baby carriages and go-carts; we have them at all prices, but at whatever price they are marked you are assured they are less than elsewhere.—Whalen Brothers, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Folding Go-Carts.—What a marvel of lightness and compactness is this folding go-cart! When you go to the park, lake or country, the go-cart is easily carried on the car or train and your little tot can enjoy her equipage.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

To make room for Xmas we want to sell all our go-carts this week. We have them from the simple fold-up kind to the most elaborate Block make—made like a $2,500.00 auto. See our fold-up cart for $3.98. It's the most sensible vehicle ever invented for ma, pa and the baby. See how little priced the other kinds are.—A. D. Matthews' Sons.

Give your heir the air in one of our go-carts with light running and noiseless gears (wheels being fitted with rubber tires) and soft "springy" springs.

"Our" go-carts make baby's afternoon out one of continued pleasure, both to baby and mother. Call in and see our new styles.—John Newson, Charlotte-town, P. E. I.

Another great opportunity for you to economize. We have purchased the entire surplus stock of a prominent factory at a great price sacrifice. You've never before had so great a chance to buy high-grade go-carts at such a low price. We have an immense variety all new 1905 patterns with all the latest improvements. If you have any idea of buying a go-cart we are quite sure you cannot afford to miss this sale.—Denhard Co., Louisville, Ky.

We have just received a shipment of Go-Carts, which are longer and roomier than other kinds. The automobile gear is as light and easy running as a bicycle.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Baby's go-cart to-morrow should be one of the compactly folding carts that you can shut up like a camp chair and take on train or trolley. Relieves you of the fatigue of carrying baby and is not cumbersome in itself.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

The "Heywood" Go-Carts are rightly named the "Go-Carts of Quality" and the leaders in styles and new improvements — elliptical springs, automatic clamp, patent wheel fasteners, metal handles with wood grips and cushion tires.—Sticklely-Brandt Furniture Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

We picture here a few of our easy running Wakefield Go-Carts, both the folding and reclining styles. The bodies are made from selected hand woven rattan, finished in shellac, and the gears are of steel, enameled a brewster green. All wheels are striped and rubber tired. The reclining styles are fitted with A1 grade of cushions and parasols, which may be had in any color desired. The reclining adjustment operates both back and dash from one point and is one of the exclusive features of the line.—The Grote-Rankin Co., Spokane, Wash.

We only quote two styles as a criterion of price reductions for the entire line of celebrated Gendron carriages and go-carts, which is equal to the best makes in the country.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Fine weather for the new baby. There's health in every breath of fresh air. Give the baby a chance to be healthy. To help you do this and so you may have a new go-cart for the holiday we are giving a straight 10 per cent. off every carriage and go-cart in the store.—A. M. Souter & Co., Hamilton, Ont.

English perambulators, reduced prices. Handsomest and best made. They come from Simmons, of London—only 18 of them, and we will not order duplicates at these prices. The reductions are made as a pre-inventory offer—the maker's prices are the same as ever—the loss in this instance is ours—the gain yours. $36.48, $37.98, $44.98 and $40.48.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The baby should have frequent airings these summer days, and if the mother has a go-cart it will be no trouble at all to give him a daily spin.—Gable & Co., Altoona, Pa.

Baby ought to be provided with a nice and comfortable go-cart for its daily outings. While the little one enjoys the benefits of sunlight and fresh air, mamma or nurse derives benefit from the exercise outdoors.—W. S. Aaron, Altoona, Pa.

Better values in baby carriages and go-carts. We always lead in this line with larger and better assortments, lower prices and easier credit terms. Forty styles of go-carts and carriages to choose from—every one new, with or without leather hoods and lace parasols. Special values in the new English perambulators with leather tops.—The Household, New Bedford, Mass.

The new baby coaches. Just arrived in time to go out to the little tots any nice mild day when sunshine will bring the roses in baby's cheeks. We never showed so many pretty styles nor priced them at such little figures.—Kaufman's, Trenton, N. J.

In winter weather prepare for spring. The new go-carts and baby carriages are here. A fine line and one that will command your admiration.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

Baby carriages. Too previous? Not a bit of it. There are many bright, sunshiny days at this time of the year, and to get the youngsters out in the clear fresh air is too important a matter to bother about the date.—Flinn & Barker, Fall River, Mass.

Give the baby a sun bath. All mothers know that there is nothing to compare with sun and light and good fresh air to bring the roses to the little cheeks of their toddling sons and daughters. Our baby carriages are built to off-set the stuffiness and lack of ventilation so common in the cheaper grades, and what we want to sell you will be found to be the cheapest in the end. Built for honest service at an honest price. Every mother takes an honest pride in her little ones. She wants her baby to have just as pretty and comfortable a carriage as anybody's baby.—Morey Furniture Co., Bangor, Me.

It shows that we have the most complete line, the best and strongest makes and the very best values. Our carts are made of the very best reed, are adjustable and folding, have cushion rubber tires, ball-bearing wheels, anti-friction wheel fasteners, patent brake and dozens of other good features. They are light, easy running and very substantial. We show fully 100 different styles, at all prices, from $2.50.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

More new go-carts are here. Beauties, every one. With restful reclining backs, easy springs—and parasols so carefully lined as to be proof to the glare of the summer sun. There's real merit as well as beauty in our baby vehicles—and we are sure you'll buy when you get the prices.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

Have you a little baby in your home? Then by all means take him out in the air every fine day. There haven't been so many good ones lately that you can afford to miss any of them! We've got such a pretty line of carts that you should have no trouble in getting suited. Made with the bicycle tubing gear and good, thick rubber tires, and made in a manner that is sure to appeal to the person who is looking for style as well as stability. Our carts are made by manufacturers with years of experience; manufacturers who have profited by their past mistakes and who now offer you go-carts and carriages that are practically perfect. These carts come in every conceivable style, but to-day we call your attention to the Alwin folding cart, the original one of its kind. There are many copies of this cart, but none of them have quite caught the point of construction that singles the Alwin cart out of a crowd. Very light weight, nickel trimmed and will fold so that it can be put in a suit case for traveling. They are even made with a folding leather hood like the larger carts.—Lippincott & Co., Wilmington, Del.

Come and see the difference in go-carts. When you come to look over the immense line of go-carts and baby carriages, you'll be able to see the real perfection in manufacturing, and it's all in the "making" and materials whether you get your money's worth or not. We'll show you the best go-carts built—we'll show you every modern device for durability and comfort, and the prices are sure to be within the reach of all.—Hurley-Tobin Co., Trenton, N. J.

Go-carts and carriages in all the latest models, from the little folders to the stylish English perambulators. All strongly constructed with enameled running gear; light and durable. Some with heavy roll sides. They are the handsomest carts we have ever shown, but sooner than carry them into another season we have made these radical reductions.

Come and see the new figures.—Edw. H. Brennan, Wilmington, Del.

We have now ready for your inspection our 1907 line of English perambulators, folding and reclining go-carts with all the latest patented attachments, and the newest fads and prettiest designs from all the high-class builders of baby vehicles, such as Heywood, Wakefield, Whitney and Block, and our prices are the lowest. All have rubber tires.—The Golden Rule, St. Paul, Minn.

Sixty-five bright new patterns for your selection, all the best makes, including the block. Come in, look them over. We have a style that will suit you. Folding go-carts, $2.50 up. Regular go-carts, $6.00.—Meharg's, Wilmington, Del.

There is no time like the present to get a go-cart for the little one. The weather is fine, and he will just crow with delight at the prospect. His cheeks will grow ruddy and the fond mother will be delighted. Our line is very complete and makes possible an entirely satisfactory selection. All important improvements are found on our go-carts, such as the folding and reclining devices, parasol attachment and brake. The reed work is carefully selected to avoid imperfections; the frames are made of thoroughly seasoned hardwood; the tires are made of best rubber, and the cushions and parasols are of best quality. Make your selections while the line is at its best.—Goble, Pratt & Robbins, Spokane, Wash.

Baby carriages and go-carts, low-priced. All kinds and all prices to choose from—a new consignment, a wider range, has just arrived. English, Canadian and American styles—the newest designs—some fold up into little more than half full size. They range from plain but comfortable folder with hardwood seat, fancy feed back and rubber tires, to the luxurious style with adjustable drop front, reclining back, rubber tires and foot brake. Beautifully upholstered, with silk or lace all-over parasol. Better values can't be found—nor as good.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

Baby's trip around the block. Baby's best outing days come with the month of May and a trip around the block in a Doyle carriage, perambulator or go-cart brings very real returns in health and good nature. Our new spring lines of juvenile wheeled goods are the handsomest you ever saw, and a look at them will do both you and the baby a world of good—so also will our fairest of prices and terms.—M. Doyle's Sons, Troy, N.Y.

GROCERIES

*To-day no credit comes to you
For being noble, wise or great;
The advertisers say it's due Entirely to the foods you ate.*

—Washington Star.

Silver Moon Coffee will help to make your breakfast one of the pleasantest memories of the day. All who drink this coffee can not fail to appreciate it on account of its flavor and delightful aroma.—Oliver Finne Co., Little Rock.

Peeled Peaches. Handsome, bright, soft, mellow peaches, free from skin. They looked so good we couldn't resist buying all we could lay our hands upon. After we tried 'em, we were glad we secured them. Buy all you can use, they'll be gone in a jiffy.—McCaffrey, Philadelphia, Pa.

Our famous Mocha and Java Blend. More of our customers drinking it than any other one kind. Roasted fresh every day and blended by a man who knows how to blend coffee. Makes a rich, fragrant, strengthening coffee with a most delicious flavor.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles.

Coffee Knowledge. If we didn't know just how to roast coffee to a nicety we wouldn't have a coffee roaster. If we didn't know how to blend coffee perfectly we would hire someone who did. And if we didn't know that Alley's Fancy, roasted fresh daily, is the best coffee in New Bedford, we wouldn't tell you so.—A. G. Alley, New Bedford.

Cider Vinegar. The real thing. Clear as crystal, with a clean, clear-cut flavor that adds a zest to appetite. One of the most necessary of ingredients in the perfect mince pie. Not always to be had for the asking, but we make it a point to constantly carry it in stock. Send in your jug to-day before you forget it.—O. C. Elwell, Portland, Me.

Malt Wheat Biscuit. This is something entirely new. The most healthful and perhaps the most palatable health biscuit you've ever tasted. Had a couple of samples sent us, gave one to a lady to try. Reply was, that they were fine. They're ready to eat, just as they are. Call and try them—testing is the best way to judge.—Gedney's, East Orange.

Libby's Chicken Loaf.—A very desirable article, indeed, for luncheon or picnic supplies. Fresh, dainty and deliciously flavored chicken, finely minced and delightfully spiced. Put up in convenient sized key-opening cans. Turn the key and an appetizing lunch is ready in an instant.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia.

A man is what he feeds on. The better his food the better is the man who eats it. A man who wishes to be healthy will buy his foods where he knows he will get them pure and high grade, and our reputation for reliability in this line is unquestioned. Our canned goods are the best made; our cereals and foods are from the choicest kernels, and our fancy and staple goods are without a peer.—J. S. Carver & Sons, Ogden, Utah.

Potato chips, sliced thin, fried just right, and served while they are fresh and crisp, make a most appetizing addition to any meal. Our potato chips fulfill every requirement. We get them fresh from the frying pan; order only enough for immediate use; and so can guarantee their crispness and fine flavor. If you will only try our toothsome chips, you won't wonder why we sell so many of them week after week.—Jas. H. Snow & Co., Bangor, Me.

Good Mocha and Java Coffee.—Some grocers will mix any kind of coffee together and call it "Mocha and Java." Our policy is different. We buy the finest Mocha coffee we can get and we buy the finest Java. We roast it ourselves, skillfully, not over done so that all the goodness is cooked out of it, but just right. Then comes the blending, and upon the skill of the blending depends the final goodness of the coffee. Our Mocha and Java is blended by men who have had years of experience at it and blend it to your taste exactly. For this pure Mocha and Java coffee, roasted and blended and cared for with all this skill, we ask only 40c. the pound. How many times do you pay more than this for a coffee not half so good?—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Soups All Prepared.—With a can of our good soups in the house, all ready to serve with heating, you'll be prepared for most every emergency. If company happens in, if you want something good to eat in a hurry or at any time when you want a delicious, appetizing soup, it's ready for you if you have one or two of these cans of prepared soups on your shelf. There's every variety and the soup could not be finer.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Golden German Salad.—Not a salad dressing. It's a combination of vegetables and rich spices. A condiment that is especially pleasing to the palate, and very appetizing.—Gedney's, West Orange, N. J.

It's not hard to keep the family in good humor if you have good, wholesome things to eat. You can select a delightful lot of good things here. They are the nicest and best specialties of the season. The quality makes them a pleasure—our price makes them an economy.—O. W. Johnson & Bros., Galesburg, Ill.

Claret and Raspberry Shrubs.—Either of these charming fruit juices combined with ice water makes a beverage at once refreshing and stimulating, without any deleterious after effects. Being made from the true fruit and by reliable and trustworthy manufacturers, you can rest assured of their purity and wholesomeness.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia, Pa.

"When the Frost Is On the Pumpkin."—Shorter days and longer nights now. Soon a nipping frost and the leaves will glow with crimson and gold. Then appetite, sharpened by the crisp, invigorating morning air, will plead for biscuits and smoking pancakes deluged in maple syrup.—Austin, Nichols & Co., New York.

An appetite for good things to eat is born in one. If that appetite is not properly cared for nothing will "taste right." With us you can find the best the grocery market affords.—Comrie, Kenton, O.

Do you enjoy your meals during the hot weather? There is no reason why you should not. Eat good fresh groceries and you will be all right—the kind we sell, for instance. Not a stale article finds its way into our store. Nothing is sold over our counters that is not just right in every respect.—M. F. Delahant, Albany, N. Y.

Our fall stock of pure, fresh foods were never so varied and complete as they are at this season. Every day large shipments are being received of the new supplies—canned goods of all the choicest kinds, bottled delicacies, fresh new cereals and farinaceous foods, fruits and vegetables—everything that is most wholesome and nutritious. The quality is kept up to the high water mark and, as usual, we cut our retail prices down to the very smallest fraction of profit over actual cost. No grocery house in the world buys closer than we do and none can sell the same goods for so small a price. That is why all our customers, make a saving on every purchase, and every housekeeper who wants the best for the least money trades at one of our stores.—James Butler, New York, N. Y.

Cheap coffee is a poor investment. What is the use of drinking coffee unless you can do so with pleasure? Cheap coffees have that heavy muddy taste that will spoil any meal no matter how elaborate it would be. The difference between good coffee and cheap coffee is so great that we can't see how some people can buy some of the preparations masked as coffee.—Lehman & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Welcome Home Again.—Now that you're back from your vacations, from the seashore and the mountains, opening your houses for fall and winter, we take this early opportunity of again reminding our old customers and everybody else of the completeness of our store service and the price advantages to be gained by trading here. We can supply your table with the choicest of everything—groceries, meats, vegetables, bakery goods, fruit and fancy delicacies of all kinds, without any fancy prices. To those who are about to stock up their pantry, this list will prove a money saver.—Alley's, New Bedford, Mass.

Sweet pickles, sour pickles, chow-chow and onions—too many of 'em here and they're not selling as fast as we'd like.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Table grapes.—Red Emperors and Cornichons—sweet, juicy, highly flavored and delicious. Grown in the Santa Cruz mountains; hand assorted and repacked. Like most nice things, they are only found here. Order some—you'll be delighted.—Ludwig & Matthews, Los Angeles, Cal.

New buckwheat honey.—The first lot of buckwheat honey we've received this season, and it's very fancy, the finest quality we have had in years. That rich, dark, fine flavored, pure buckwheat honey that so many are fond of; fact is, many prefer the flavor to the white clover.—Gedney's, East Orange, N. J.

The most fastidious epicure will here find everything suited to his taste, while the economical housewife will find every known brand of staple food at the lowest possible prices consistent with high quality. In fact, this grocery store of ours will more than hold up the well known high standard of the Simpson, Crawford Co.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York.

Making Salads.—You can't make a good salad with poor Olive Oil. That's sure. And you can't be sure of getting good Olive Oil unless you buy at a store where only that kind is sold. Our Olive Oil is strictly pure, every drop. It is "first press"—the richest and best-flavored to be had—and works into the most delicious salad dressing you ever tasted.—J. H. Snow & Co., Bangor, Me.

Sardines—All Kinds.—That means all good kinds. And then there are all sizes and all prices, so that we can fill any order for Sardines you may send us. The genuine French Sardines and the Domestic, and we have some California Sardines as fine as any we get from any place else. Sardines are delightful, cool food for summer, especially fine when you get such high quality as we carry. Plain Sardines, Sardines packed in truffles, vegetables, tomato sauce and mustard, and the splendid boneless sardines.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Your boy or girl buys at any of our grocery stores with every assurance that they will receive the same fair and courteous attention that would be accorded to yourself. No expert knowledge is required when dealing with us. Our prices are always the lowest. Quality governs the price and price the quality. The dime or the dollar of a child will go as far and bring you as much value as the same amount in the hands of the wisest food expert. This absolute certainty of getting what you pay for (and saving money on every purchase) is one of the foundation stones on which James Butler has reared the largest, most popular and most satisfactory retail grocery business in the wide world.—James Butler, New York, N. Y.

Our lines of canned vegetables, jams, jellies and preserves are the finest put up in tins and glass in this country and Europe. We sell them in dozen lots at wholesale prices. You will find it eminently to your advantage to buy your fancy groceries from us in quantities.—The Lathrop Company, Hartford.

And said the "Golden Gate": "Not everyone cares for high-grade coffee; some prefer the cheap, rank kinds. Some dealers prefer to handle bulk goods instead of coffee packed in aroma tight tins. I'm uniform in quality; I was aged in my native country; I'm smooth drinking—rich—aromatic; I'm full weight (honest). With all this in my favor I cannot fail to please. I'm 'sold on merit,' merit will win!"—J. A. Folger & Co., San Francisco, Cal.

Tea is a very healthful drink if properly made—and good tea. And it isn't necessary to pay an awful price for it. Some of the most particular tea drinkers declare that Montauk has a smooth, delicate, soothing, sweet, aromatic, just-strong-enough flavor that no other teas have and we sell it in great quantities at the regular price, which is much lower than the same quality can be purchased anywhere else. Other teas may be more expensive but we do not know of any better flavored. Carefully selected leaves, perfect blending, great care in packing cleanly, net weight pound boxes have made them the most favored teas in Brooklyn. No mail, telephone or hurry box orders filled. Teas sold tomorrow will be delivered during the week.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

The Japanese are the most persistent consumers of tea in the world. They drink it at all hours, in all circumstances and in great quantities. And they are, moreover, less afflicted with "nerves" than any other people on earth. Better still, tea drinking entirely destroys and annuls all craving for alcohol; a tea drinker is never a drunkard. Drink tea yourself, and give it to your children ad libitum. But always get the best. We carry pretty well every known variety of tea, and sell it very close to cost.—Torraine, New Bedford, Mass.

We want to see the people who are careful about the quality of their groceries. Whatever business we may build up we expect for it to stand upon merit. In buying we select only pure, wholesome goods, and if they are not just as we represent them to you, we will cheerfully take them back. On that basis we invite your trade.—A. L. Young, Baraboo, Wis.

A Little Talk About Butter. In buying butter there are just two things which have weight with the consumer—price and quality. Poor butter is expensive at any price. For a good article everybody is willing to pay a fair price. Our prices are not simply reasonable, they are extremely low. Our qualities are not merely fair, they are absolutely the best.—Cobb, Bates & Yerxa, Taunton, Mass.

Good coffee isn't accidental! You must make it from well cared for, well fed coffee beans that have been properly cleaned and knowingly roasted. For you can't make good coffee from improperly nourished, dirty and improperly roasted coffee beans. We secure our coffee from the best coffee plantations of the world. It is "upland" coffee, slowly grown in the clear, cool, pure air of the mountains. So that the coffee bean extracts to the full its rich fragrance and aromatic flavor from the bounteous soil. Seal Brand coffee is rich in the two brain nourishing and body building principals that make good coffee—Caffeine and Caffeone. And because it is well grown, well roasted coffee, there is no trace of any injurious ingredient usually found in poorly nurtured, improperly roasted cheap coffee. There is absolutely no injurious Caffeic. For Seal Brand coffee is certified coffee! It has behind it our guarantee for quality. It will make you a rich, nectar-like, health-giving beverage. It is all good coffee.—Chase & Sanborn, Boston, Mass.

Putting Up Pickles? Don't put them up in vinegar that you "guess" is good; use guaranteed good vinegar—the kind we sell. We've just gotten in a supply of extra choice pickling vinegar, both the pure cider and white wine varieties. It's ideal for pickling purposes, and will insure best results every time. We'd advise that you send us your jug early before this special "make" is all gone. Best of pickling spices are also an important part of our stock nowadays. State your needs.—James H. Snow & Co., Bangor.

People are impressed by the unusual—the best. And the public looks to this great grocery store for the good service we've promised—and are giving. Orders come from far-away Florida and from the good housekeepers at home.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

You or your neighbor may trade with us. If it's you, we have endeavored to please you at all times, both in quality and price; if your neighbor, ask them about our goods and service. We claim to have the best service of delivery in the city; the most alert, thorough and fastest clerks and butchers in the business. We give our customers the benefit of a wide experience in what we deem best for their interest. Give us some of your orders and we will prove to you that your trade is appreciated here.—J. P. Cronin, Binghamton, N. Y.

It's simply wonderful the way our grocery business has been increasing in volume during the past year. There can be only one logical reason for the liberal increase of your patronage and that reason is the well known purity and cleanliness and wholesomeness of all food stuffs bought from our grocery department. If you are a customer the usual Saturday and Monday offers will be eagerly taken advantage of, if you are not a customer read these items offered. Sample them and if you do not find them better bargains than you ever bought elsewhere don't buy your groceries from us.—McKelvey's, Youngstown, O.

Wise, the grocer who harkens to Experience. Experience has taught us something about cheese. We had a good trade on domestic cheese when we sold only the Kessler brand. A combination of circumstances led us to put in cheese made elsewhere—and it didn't take our customers long to manifest their disapproval of the change. So we've made another change—back to Kessler. This is a delicious full cream cheese—and it is always the same. If you have used it—enough said. If you have not, take our word for it, you won't like any other cheese as well.—S. F. Arnold & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Our constant aim is to make this grocery a better one, a more desirable source of supply, an efficient aid to thrifty housewives. We aim at perfection in all details—in quality, price and service. If not already a customer, we solicit an opportunity to please you.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

If you would have fine groceries and save money be sure to get our October Grocery Catalogue. It is an index to all the best the world affords in eatables at the littlest possible prices. In spite of the fact that for these delicious and wholesome edibles the prices are the lowest, we are prouder of the quality than of the economy afforded.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

This is undoubtedly the most eagerly awaited sale that is held in New York City. Besides its incomparable saving advantages, you have absolute assurance of the very highest quality, strictly pure foods. It's an event occurring twelve times a year, coming at the beginning of each month—just the time when you can consistently lay by a supply of table and household necessities.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Good Groceries.—It's the precaution we take against impure foods that makes housekeepers feel safe in buying here. Back of that are the lowest prices found anywhere.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Pure, unadulterated foods, edibles and drinkables that are chosen by the most skilled experts are what's always expected of Bloomingdales'. That our customers are never disappointed in the quality is proven by the vast business this model grocery store of ours does.—Bloomingdales, New York, N. Y.

The coffee of your fathers was good coffee. It was grown carefully, sorted wisely, roasted perfectly, sold pure, made strong, and served steaming hot. Doctors never thought of telling patients to use it "only once a day." And the men and women of three generations ago were not less sturdy because they enjoyed of it as much as they could drink as often as they wished. Then it was that the Gillies coffees won the good name that has endured. Gradually many of the old-line houses have ceased to exist or have found new owners with different policies. The Gillies House has gone on unchanged, familiar to the descendants of old New Yorkers, but naturally not so well known to the welcome thousands who each year come to make their homes in and near the Greater City.—Gillies Coffee Company, New York, N. Y.

A trip to-day to these busy stores will convince you that we are selling groceries as fast as an army of trained clerks can wait on the crowds that throng these stores daily. We are selling many carloads of all sorts of eatables each and every day in the week, and are buying so cheap that we can sell at prices so much below the prevailing prices around town that the housewife can afford to come from any suburb of the city to buy even a single article, the difference in price being great.—R. H. Williams Grocer Co., Kansas City.

It's a long time now since we have had one of our old time special grocery sales, and the announcement of this first one of the new year will be glad news to the food providers of home, hotel, or boarding house. At all times our prices on groceries are lower than elsewhere. For that reason sale offerings here have a particularly strong drawing power by the extra cut rates. All the goods offered are fresh, reliable, and just what you will be glad to lay in a goodly supply of.—Brown, Thomson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

The food you eat is the first step toward perfect health and increased vitality, provided it is absolutely pure and wholesome. And quality and purity are the most potent factors of all goods sold at Prager's. None but the very best are here but at prices that are astonishingly low.—Prager's, San Francisco, Cal.

The clear, crisp weather of the coldest week of this unusually severe winter has sharpened the appetites of young and old and makes the children want to eat all there is in sight. We will smooth the maternal pathway, so far as we may, by offering a very tempting array of good things to eat and drink at exceptionally low prices. This week is the housekeeper's golden opportunity to stock her pantry with the best of pure food necessities at a cost far below what is usually charged.—James Butler, New York, N. Y.

Goldberg-Bowen have devoted 50 years to the scientific study of groceries. They have sifted the kernels from the chaff and only the kernels remain. The result of this training is their successful position as purveyors of food stuffs. Their groceries are healthful, pure and unadulterated. Their groceries build up the body and help the mind to do its work. Their groceries make food a pleasure worth while, not solely a necessity to sustain life.—Goldbery, Bowen & Co., San Francisco, Cal.

Thoughtful housekeepers of an economical turn, will bear this in mind and embrace the suggestion when made—it's one entirely out of the ordinary and one that you cannot resist—just you watch—in the meantime whatever your pantry may need can be had here best at the least cost. Just think of next Friday.—Longshore Grocery Co., Birmingham, Ala.

Worthy groceries—low prices. That single line explains the phenomenal success of our great food market.—Boston Store, Chicago, Ill.

If you like something good to eat and want to buy it at the right price, we believe here is the place to get it. Our goods are always fresh.—Rosenthal Dry Goods Company, Peoria, Ill.

Now for Christmas! This food supply market is shaping itself for the biggest Christmas trade in its history. Food buyers will find it the ideal place to get their Christmas supplies and save money on everything they will buy. Tons and tons of good things for Christmas. See us for your Christmas wants.—Bresnahan Grocery Company, Woonsocket.

Coffee That Suits.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

True economy in groceries is in the buying of such high-grade goods as the following, at these low prices.—Kaufman, Pittsburg, Pa.

It'll be wise to stock up heavily with groceries to-morrow. Don't let your table supplies run short on a stormy day, when you can't go or send out. Take advantage of these money-saving Anniversary Sale prices to lay in a good supply.—The Fair, Chicago.

Groceries at Wholesale Prices.—This is the largest, finest and cleanest grocery store in Pennsylvania. All our goods are bought direct in carload lots from the largest producers and manufacturers, paid for in spot cash and sold at the closest possible margin of profit. Compare these prices with what you are now paying. Every article is guaranteed first class in every respect. Profit-sharing coupons given with each and every purchase.—Clarke Brothers, Scranton, Pa.

Just as easy and convenient to buy groceries here after leaving the city as it is while in it. We make a specialty of packing and shipping supplies of all kinds for country homes, yachting, camping parties and the like.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

It's the unexpected that's seen in our aggregation of food specialties. A jollier collection of surprises cannot well be imagined than our cans and jars and boxes of tempting delicacies which would whet an epicure's jaded appetite. Mere words and glances cannot describe what appeals directly and exclusively to the taste. The banquet is ready, don't stay away from the feast.—O. E. Baldwin, Muncie, Ind.

Try our fresh fruit, also canned goods. They are as fresh as an eastern breeze and have a flavor that would please the gods of old.—M. W. Hansen & Co., Grand Forks, N. D.

Bungaloe Tea, 35c. Usual price, 65c —the only store in town authorized by the Ceylon Planters to sell this tea at 35c. Grown in iron soil—nervousness left out—and the extreme of tea-blenders' art in its place.—Mitchell, Fletcher & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Why our teas have gained a reputation: Because we put our heart and soul in the tea business and look after it with a zealous care. We're particular that each tea is blended just so, because, now that we have you suited it would be poor policy to allow the quality to depart from its usual high standard.—Lehman & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Difference of opinion regarding the place to buy groceries will not occur if you buy here. It is a common saying that you get better goods for less money

World's greatest grocery. Frequent-ed every day by increasing crowds of delighted purchasers who know that here are to be found the choicest products of sea and land—fresh, wholesome and low-priced.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

Good groceries. Just as easy and convenient to buy groceries here after leaving the city as it is while in it. We make a specialty of packing and shipping supplies of all kinds for country homes, yachting, camping parties and the like. Orders once filled will be promptly duplicated upon request. This plan is a particular feature of our grocery department. Orders are filed and filled at stated intervals, according to your instructions.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

This grocery opportunity unquestionably your greatest! Dwell on what it means to you that this is the busiest grocery hereabouts! Best values to be had anywhere is the potent factor that is bringing us larger crowds than you'd find in most any two other grocery stores combined. This immense trade makes necessary enormous stocks. Buying enormous stocks gives us great price concessions, which places us in position to quote and give you lower prices than any other store. Besides, you get fresher goods.—New York Grocery Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Take up the paper and read over the advertisements carefully—you may find a coffee cheaper than Pon Honor, but you will not find a single one that can give you a good cup of coffee for as low a price.—Wm. T. Reynolds & Co., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

There are so many different kinds of butter on the market it is hard to tell just what you are getting unless you buy the best. The Antlers Creamery Butter. This is not a 25c butter sold at 20c to introduce it, neither is it a cheap ranch butter worth 17½c and sold for 24c to fool the people. But it is the best separator creamery butter and will please all who buy it at 25c.—F. B. Ross, Colorado Springs, Colo.

A chapter about cheese. We make a specialty of fine butter and cheese.—Croffut's Market, Binghamton, N. Y.

Cold snaps are not the only kind you can get these days. Come and see us and we can give you ginger snaps and any other kinds of snaps.—The Spot Cash, Joliet, Ill.

Grocery facts. When you come right down to grocery facts, it is price and quality that tell the tale. We don't know of a store anywhere that meets the two requirements more faithfully than the "West End." We are certain no store in the city offers superior goods. We invite comparison of quality and price with groceries offered elsewhere. Buy your groceries at the "West End" and save twenty to twenty-five per cent.—West End Grocery Co., Victoria, B. C.

Red Rose Tea is composed of what are known in the trade as "high-grown" Ceylon and Indian teas. These teas are grown at high altitudes on the mountain slopes, where the tea bushes grow more slowly and are more carefully cultivated than in the valleys, where the climate is warm and humid. High-grown tea is not only a finer quality, but contains much more tea juice or extract than valley-grown tea.—T. H. Estabrooks, St. John, N. B.

Purity, freshness and absolute cleanliness are factors that add their attractiveness to the low prices that you will find in the pure food grocery.—Siegel Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

The crowning features of our royal stock of groceries is first—high quality. Second—completeness. Third—the perfect condition of the goods, and, fourth—the moderate prices at which we sell. Cheap food may be popular with those who do not know that it is cheap because it lacks nourishing elements and that twice the quantity must be purchased to get results equal to those given by our groceries. Everything in this stock is fairly priced.—The Star Grocery Company, Logan City, Utah.

World's greatest pure food show opens Monday. It will positively be an event without parallel. There will be 46 demonstrations daily by experts. An elaborate musical programme will be rendered daily. All the food producing centers of the world will practically be represented. Extraordinarily low prices will be quoted daily. In no other store is such an exhibition possible. The Siegel Cooper Company is the originator in New York of the Pure Food Exposition, and that the idea should find ready imitators is not strange. You are invited to attend our pure food show.—Siegel Cooper Company, New York.

You like good things to eat, don't you? Here they are, at prices at which you can afford to buy them.—Moore Bros., Galveston, Texas.

Sale of Groceries. This model store of ours is by all odds the most perfect, beautiful and attractive in the world. Nowhere is there another like it. A broad statement and a true one. First of all, it is sanitarily perfect. Everything in it, everything about it, is clean, wholesome, reliable. Its stocks represent most fully the best things to eat from every quarter of the globe.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

We study your wants relating to provisions. Our tastefully displayed stock of Good Things to Eat are invariably of qualities above criticism and are sold at prices below what you would expect.—Fred Wolferman, Kansas City, Kan.

The secret of success is to take advantage of every opportunity. We give you the nicest, freshest, groceries, canned fruits and vegetables at prices that will swell your savings account.—Todd's Bee Hive Grocery, Kenton, O.

A school teacher lately put the question: "What is the highest form of animal life?" "The giraffe," responded a bright member of the class. In one sense of the word the boy was right, for he had not been inoculated with the Darwinian theory. Now, had this same teacher put the question: "What is the highest grade of butterine known, and where is it sold in Altoona?" she would receive a chorus of answers something like this: "Moxley's Special; at the Green Front Market; twenty-two cents per pound; better than butter; it's pure," etc. It has been wisely spoken, that "children and fools always speak the truth." We wouldn't for the world have you class us with the fools, but we do insist that you take the children's answers on Moxley's high grade butterine for the truth.—Green Front Market, H. C. Leslie, Manager, Fall River, Mass.

Groceries, fruits, vegetables and fish. A large up-to-date stock of the finest and freshest goods the market affords.—H. A. Smith, Reno, Nevada.

You cannot buy better butter anywhere at any price than Colonial Creamery butter, made of sweet cream from grain-fed cows.—Hoyt's Colonial Creamery, New Haven, Conn.

Try our ceramery butter—if you'd escape all the disappointment that follows in the wake of the poor sort. Our creamery is the most satisfactory butter we ever handled, and that's saying a good deal, as we've always striven to give our patrons the choicest of everything. You'll find it of the right color, sweet, toothsome and salted just to suit nine out of ten people. It's the same every day in the week; good all the time.—O. C. Elwell, Portland, Me.

Butter! Butter! Butter that's butter. Butter at prices better than the other fellow's butter. Get your good butter at Howard Bros., Denison, Texas.

What everybody says must be so. They say—that Wagner's Bread is the best; Warner's Cheese is the best; Baker's Chocolate is the best; Ohio Maple Syrup is the best. We buy the above lines of goods direct from the producers and we will give you the short prices on Thursday.—Donsereaux's, Lansing, Mich.

This model food store helps you to better things to eat, and no more to pay. The natural instinct of folk is for good things to eat. This Model Food Store teaches a lesson to the economical housewife. It shows her how edibles are rightly kept to maintain perfect sanitation and health properties. It brings to her larder the best things to eat—at no added cost. On a good many things all this betterness brings her a saving. The best teacher is over the path of experience—a walk through this sixth floor will prove a more convincing argument than words from us.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

More delicious than the fresh vegetables you have to put up with now—in comes the first consignment of new canned goods that's been announced this season. And the prices—they're so much lower than you usually pay for the highest grade that there's an additional relish to every preserved article you select from our complete gathering. Plucked when rounded out in luscious ripeness and preserved under the best sanitary conditions these vegetables are even more palatable than any procured fresh in the height of the season. Their delicious flavor was preserved with them and a purchase here to-day will bring it right to your table.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Fard dates are those handsome, black fellows, with firm flesh, small pits and delicious flavor. For filling they haven't an equal. Chopped and mixed with the morning cereal they are an innovation. Or chopped and mixed with chopped English walnuts and served on a leaf of lettuce, with French dressing—they are divine.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia, Pa.

SNAPPY SNAPS.—The morning or evening meal is much improved with these little ginger snaps. They are put up in one pound boxes of about forty to the pound for 10c.—Russell, Binghamton.

BIG SLASH IN BUTTER PRICES.—Reduced prices on only the choicest grades of butter possible to obtain. Deliciously fresh-made, direct from the creameries to your homes, which saves you money and guarantees high quality.—Ginter Grocery Co., Boston, Mass.

DUFF'S REFINED NEW ORLEANS MOLASSES.—Ever try that? Do, if you want a treat. It's the genuine, old-fashioned, Simon-pure stuff and will give the finest satisfaction. We will sell a limited quantity at this special price.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Cool comfort is hard to obtain at any price these hot days. It is not so with pure teas and coffees, as by going to the Oriental you will always find a large and fresh stock of teas, coffees, spices, baking powders and extracts, at most reasonable prices. Quality and strength of all our goods fully guaranteed. We wish a trial order from you and we are satisfied that once a customer always a customer.—Oriental Tea Co., Peoria, Ill.

BUTTER.—We think it's quite a treat to our customers to give them ten stamps with a pound of butter.

Saratoga potato chips. Fresh and crisp. Fine, sweet-flavored chips, too, for they're cooked in pure lard. Salted just enough to make them tasty.—Gedney's, West Orange, N. J.

EVAPORATED APRICOTS.—Beauties—handsome, bright, meaty fruit, with a delightful flavor. Added to the morning cereal they make a combination dish at once healthful, tasty and charming.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia.

Every recognized variety of imported and domestic cheese on the market is here; kinds to suit all tastes—the mild, medium and very strong. You will find that our cheese department is a complete little store in itself and a very attractive place to buy your cheese.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

A picnic for the children is assured if the comestibles are purchased here. If there's any high grade canned meat or fish we have not on hand, we'd like to know—anything short of that we don't care to keep. A whole lot of things to please grown-ups, as well.—J. S. Carver & Sons, Ogden, Utah.

Our butter is a treat, too, because we know that no better butter can be bought, stamps or no stamps. We just buy the finest butter that the creameries in Elgin, Illinois, can make, and offer it to you while it's fresh and sweet. We have two shipments a week, and the size of our butter consignment is enormous. The butter is of even quality—always the same—never rancid, and always sold at the lowest possible price.—L. Lehman & Co., Trenton, N. J.

SALTED BANQUET WAFERS.—These thin, crisp wafers are of dainty shape and texture, and made especially appetizing by the small quantity of salt which has been sprinkled on the surface.—Ackers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Spices for pickling. We carry the purest and best spices, and you know that the best is always the cheapest, and we believe that it is a waste to use anything else for such purposes. We buy what we know to be of the highest quality. They are a little higher in price, but are the best.—Oliver-Finnie Co., Little Rock, Ark.

Tea for icing. When you want to have iced tea, you must choose your tea. Some teas are all right for icing, but others would be bitter. When you order tea just mention that you want to use it iced as well as hot and we'll tell you just the tea to get. Jevne's is a pure tea store, so you'll never get any but pure tea here. If you want a comforting cup of delicious, refreshing tea—"You're safe at Jevne's."—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Tea! Tea! Tea! I can think of nothing more refreshing, at this time of the year, than a cup of tea, deliciously fresh, with the bloom of spring still on its tender young leaves, which, although only plucked from the bushes in June, I am now able to place on your tea table in Trenton, so rapid is the means of transit nowadays. In making this season's blend I have used only the choicest growths procurable, and I do not hesitate to say that a finer tea has never been offered in Trenton at 37c. per pound.—Frank White, Trenton, N. J.

CAKES AND CRACKERS.—As you know we make a specialty of having fresh cakes and crackers always on hand. Our assortment is varied, from the rich chocolate to the plain and popular butter thin.—Oliver Finnie Co., Little Rock.

A FAMILY LIST THAT BESPEAKS ECONOMY.—Yes, and the right kind—the best and truest kind—of economy. When you buy groceries here, no matter what you pay, you can rest assured that you have received the best—the best that money can buy. That's the only kind The World's Greatest Grocery Store sells.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

Astræa shredded cocoanut is made from the very choicest grade of cocoanuts grown, and by machinery. The nuts are hulled, cleaned and shredded into beautiful, long, lace-like threads, and the juice or milk of the cocoanut mixed through it. If put in a comparatively cool place it will keep sweet and moist for months.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia.

Our cracker counter is an interesting place. The large variety of crackers and wafers we carry would astonish most anybody. For hot weather what is so nice as a box of dainty, delicious wafers? Some kind of a cracker should be on the table at every meal, should be in every lunch box and picnic basket. And the very kinds you should have are here.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

PICKLING VINEGAR.—What is more necessary for success in making pickles than that your vinegar should be of the purest and best? We have the purest and best, and the kind especially adapted for this purpose.—Oliver Finnie Co., Little Rock.

LA CRESCENTA OLIVE OIL.—We talk mostly about this brand of Olive Oil because we know for a surety just how pure and fine it is. Made here in California of the finest olives, so near home we can watch it at every step, and know when the bottle is finally filled that it contains nothing but pure olive oil.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

The exceptional prices we quote in the following list of excellent standard quality groceries, wines and liquors will hold good for to-morrow and Tuesday. Take advantage of the rare money-savings.—Bloomington Bros., New York.

Our pure food show. A magnificent, instructive exhibition of modern pure foods and their correct preparation and uses—combined with a stupendous cut price sale of table supplies, surpassing in scope any similar event ever attempted. A multitude of interesting special attractions Monday.—Rothschild and Company, Chicago, Ill.

Two ways of looking at the grocery buying problem. The wrong way—keep on paying high prices and at the end of the week be away behind as usual. The right way—Note our cut prices on high quality groceries, come to the store and see the goods, break away from high prices, leave your order with us, and the end of the week will find you with money in your pocket for other needs.—M. Quinn, Kansas City, Mo.

Vim Tea makes cream out of skimmed milk.

"There is a something about Vim Tea that is to be found in no other tea." So said a St. John lady to a grocer the other day. She did not know exactly what, or how to describe the difference, only there was a "something" Vim Tea had that other teas lacked. That something was a little more quality.—Baird & Peters, St. John, N. B.

Pure groceries. Such values as these are what have made this grocery department the best place in which to buy pure foods in Kansas City. Not per cent of profit, but volume of business, is the governing principle in the conduct of this department. This means that we buy pure foods at the lowest possible price and sell them at the lowest possible figures our volume of business will permit.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City.

Do you market in the Bloomingdale Grocery? Hasn't it yet enlisted you among the thousands of its regular day-in and day-out customers? What better sermon on economy can we preach than by quoting items like those below, unless it is by serving you once or twice with these good things to show you how safe and sure saving money in this great spotlessly-clean and ever fresh-looking grocery store is?—Bloomingdales, New York, N. Y.

One hundred sale persons—polite, attentive and experienced—are required to meet the wants of the thousands who are attending the great Harvest Festival to purchase a season's supply of groceries—the only time of the year when these high qualities are sold at the remarkably low prices listed below. Even then it keeps them hustling, for they are particular to see that no customer is kept waiting. The easiest way in the world to save money and at the same time insure the best on your table is to attend this great event.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Our cracknels are going out fast. The usual price is 25c per pound. Our price as long as they last, 12c. They are all right, fresh, crisp goods. Delicious eating. Just right for a picnic.—Brunson's, Kenton, O.

It's in the kitchen where the true advantage of the Lehman stores becomes apparent. When your groceries run low and you are about to replenish, it sets you a thinking where you can buy the cheapest and best. There's only one store that keeps ringing in your ears, and that is Lehman's, Trenton, N. J.

The Cooking Lectures Are No Small Part of This Great Exposition of Model Foods. Do you know that there are forty-three different ways of preparing eggs? That certain kinds of sugar absolutely spoil some puddings? That there is a certain knack in mixing "dough" for bread and pastry and the like? These Food Lectures, in connection with the Food Exposition, are designed to make it all plain to you. Besides, dainty dishes are prepared at every lecture, and served to you free.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

A department in which you can give your order at leisure, in a beautiful and spacious Order Room. It is a department that is complete, bright, up-to-date, in which good service is given, in which cleanliness and order are observed, and in which low prices are always quoted. The best brands are carried, and everything that is sold is guaranteed to be of the purest.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

The first requisite with us is quality, purity, freshness. We cater for those who insist on a high standard of living. The best fed are the healthiest and happiest—notably so when the element of extra expense is entirely eliminated. This important feature has always been a cardinal principle with us. Our customers live better for less money than those who buy elsewhere.—James Butler, New York.

We've gone to the trouble of comparing these prices with those of other high class grocery stores and find that they are absolutely the lowest for strictly pure foods—a great deal lower than any others, in fact.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

It's the purpose of the Arnold Grocery to lighten the labors of the housekeeper, on whom rests the responsibility of providing three or more times a day food to tempt the appetites of the rest of the family. How much help we are to her, the daily growth of this business reveals.—S. F. Arnold & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

If you go on a picnic, you'll want these supplies at these special prices, because no matter what you buy at the 14th Street Store, its purity and wholesomeness are guaranteed. Nothing is offered for sale that has not withstood the most rigid test to determine its reliability.—The 14th Street Store, New York.

The housekeeper will see in an instant where she can save much money on the buying of her provisions to-morrow, for this list is brimful of the sharpest kind of safe economics.—Bloomingdale, New York, N. Y.

Hello 407. We are in need of some groceries to-day and we have learned from experience that we get just what we want from you, and that we pay less than some of our neighbors pay at other stores. Then we know you have the union card, so here's the order.—J. H. Dunn, Denison, Texas.

Let these few items suggest others needed to supply your larder; and also consider them as invitation to share the economies the Grocery Store offers in good things to eat.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Why not give your trade to us this month and be one of our big list of satisfied customers? We claim to be able to give you better service, better goods, on a smaller margin of profit than any store in town. Try us and be convinced.—Shreeves Grocery Co., Denison, Texas.

Oil, gas, coal or steam heaters cannot dispel the dullness of mind and chill of the cool October mornings like one cup of steaming-hot, strong golden coffee, made, if you please—and want the best—of our own combination.—N. A. Moore Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Food for the children's lunches is assured if the comestibles are purchased here. If there's any high grade canned meat or fish we have not on hand, we'd like to know—anything short of that we don't care to keep. A whole lot of things to please grown-ups, as well. Staple and fancy groceries always in stock, without question. Our stock of fruits is the best. Always nice and fresh.—J. S. Carver & Sons, Ogden, Utah.

If there is any one article of food which appeals to us all, rich and poor alike, it is pure, sweet butter. Such is the butter that we are offering, not for profit, during this sale, strange as that may appear, but solely to convince you that quality such as ours is hard to find. We receive our supplies direct from the leading creameries of this country, and after its arrival in New York every pound passes the most rigid examination of our butter experts. The price we quote speaks for itself. A trial will explain what we mean when we speak of our "Butter Quality."—James Butler, New York.

Sound digestion following the feast of turkey waits on every family whose groceries and table supplies are furnished by a James Butler store. Our foods are pure—the best that can be had in every line—and they are fresh, for our immense volume of business causes a constant stream of goods to be continually passing through our stores from the producer to the customer. Nothing can become stale that we handle. What is delivered to us one day is usually sold the next. That is why the same brand of groceries often tastes better when bought from us. Then the prices are always lower.—James Butler, New York.

Best service—that's the idea—best goods, best attention, fairest prices, careful delivery. There will always be imperfections—and we want you to report any you know. There's no telling how good we can get this store if the public keep on helping by telling us of our faults.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Good butter on the table is always a certainty if you buy your butter at the "Standard Stores." "Not how cheap, but how good," is our butter rule.—Standard Grocery Co., Peoria, Ill.

Peaches Worth Eating.—We have some sliced peaches in cans that are so delicious that they fairly melt in your mouth.—Public Market, New Bedford.

"All's Well That Ends Well."—A cup of good coffee at the end of the dinner quiets any misgivings of indigestion, obliterates all suggestions of ill humor. Any of Chase & Sanborn's high grade coffees always receive a hearty welcome at the end of any and every meal—a promoter of good humor, an indispensable aid to good health.

It costs more in price than ordinary coffee, because it is so much better, yet it is the most economical of all coffee because of its absolute purity and great strength. It will go so much further, make so many more cups to the pound.—Fuller & Douglas, Salem, Ore.

For the balance of this week we hold another one of our famous Cut-Price Grocery Sales. We invite every housewife within trading distance of our store to attend. Come even though you do not buy. We're only too pleased to have you visit this great modern, sanitarily appointed Grocery of ours. If you do buy, however, you're sure to save money, as the following example items prove.—Wise, Smith & Co., Hartford, Conn.

This is the finest Rice grown anywhere on this terrestrial globe. Large pearly grains that are delightful to the eye and pleasing to the palate. Any doctor will recommend boiled rice for a hot weather diet. There are many toothsome dishes that may be made with this healthful cereal. And it's nutritious, too.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The leading grocery is located at 801 Main St. Here you get big bargains in high-class groceries and extra special stamp premiums.—The Banner Grocery, Peoria, Ill.

Food for the Gods! Of the ancients and the mortals of modern time, our delicious, pure and wholesome bread, cakes, pies and pastry rival the best ever made. All this may not sound modest, but it has the virtue of being true.—Alex. Mergell, Dennison, Tex.

The Flours that Make the Best Baked Bread. Every pound of flour that goes out of our store is fully guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction. Otherwise your money back or flour exchanged. We believe in the flour we sell—so do our customers.—Cobb, Bates & Yerxa, Taunton, Mass.

We have the Beckwith's Peas that cannot be excelled anywhere at the price, because they are really twelve-cent peas. Some folks will go to different grocers and get disappointed when they buy a ten-cent can of peas. Quite likely because the quality they sell you at ten cents can't compare with ours.—L. Lehman & Co., Trenton, N. J.

This is the time of the year when the grocery store can help you most. Let's see if we can relieve you of half the responsibility of that picnic or excursion. You will get the proper foods, if you come here, and they won't cost much, either, and you are almost sure to get something that the other folks have not heard about as yet, and their surprise and delight will be worth the time you spent in shopping for them.—Charles E. Seymour, South Norwalk.

This department stands second to none in the United States, either in point of stock or prices. Everything imaginable for the table will be found here—always of best quality, strictly dependable in every way. The enormous outlet, together with ready cash, makes us particularly desirable customers, and brings us special concessions. Big savings thus to be had are shared with our patrons, who will find it money in their pocket to deal here.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia.

The ever-increasing and well-deserved patronage of our big grocery is mainly due to the fact that we at all times sell standard quality pure groceries at lower prices than any other store in the city. Then again, the spic and span cleanliness for which this grocery of ours is noted wins many friends. Thus day by day the volume of business increases, and the mere announcement of a special grocery sale at our store is welcomed by hundreds of thrifty housewives—for it means even more money saving than usual.—Wise, Smith & Co., Hartford.

The third and last week of the greatest food show in this country. Already the success of this show has exceeded all expectations, and we attribute the cause to the fact that our customers know that the goods we offer are not only reliable, but priced at figures that mean economy in purchasing. Every article we have has merit. We eliminate all others from our stocks, so that what you buy will assuredly give perfect satisfaction. We guarantee to do so, or your money back.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

Nothing brings out so clearly the advantages to the people of our unique profit-sharing method of retailing than the steady growth and expansion of our business in public favor. The neighborhoods immediately realize these benefits, and every branch flourishes from the day it opens. The old-established branches also continue to grow and prosper. Customers continually tell their friends, and the trade of every store increases, almost day by day. Every retail store draws on the largest retail stock of groceries in the world, insuring variety, purity and freshness. Our low prices are too well known to talk about. One trial means a customer satisfied with the quality.—James Butler, New York.

If you are interested in reducing your living expenses you should come to Ginter's grocery store and learn our plan of selling groceries and meats at wholesale prices to consumers.—Ginter Grocery Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Even with the precarious market that covers the foods in our mammoth fourth floor grocery, our prices do not fluctuate to the extent that purchasers are confused. Always the lowest prices for choice, wholesome goods prevail, and customers multiply because of the stability of our prices.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

You get the finest groceries here and pay the smallest prices. You can also get at all times whatever is wanted in the line of staple and fancy groceries. We carry all the recognized brands of "Table Luxuries," both domestic and imported.—G. G. Cornwell & Son, Washington, D. C.

If you pay cash why should you pay more for your eatables than we sell them at? Buy where you can buy the most and best for the money. Here is a list for to-morrow that we know to be at least 10 per cent. lower than the same quality of goods can be bought for at any other store in Kansas City.—M. Quinn, Kansas City, Mo.

There's much to study in conducting a successful grocery. Not only must the stock be kept that everybody wants, but also those things that not everybody is familiar with. You will have no trouble in varying your "menu" if you buy here regularly.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Groceries for the holidays that are pure and unadulterated. We handle nothing but the best. Our goods are fresh and first class, and our prices are as low as good groceries are sold for.—F. A. Har-tenstein, Youngstown, O.

To-morrow's grocery list points out the way to a quick solution of that ever-recurring problem of what to eat, where to buy and what to pay.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Best Table Syrup. Rich, golden color, good body and fine flavor. Just fine on buckwheat cakes, pancakes or for general table use.—Geo. M. Dunlap, Philadelphia, Pa.

There's a good deal in the cooking of a meal, but there's more still in the buying of the groceries. If you want on your table the best food products that are produced in the world, buy of a store you know carries only good products—buy of Jevne. There's all the difference in the world in the taste and flavor of a good product and a poor one. Buy Jevne groceries and enjoy the finest, richest flavor.—H. Jevne Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

What do you eat? You will have to come here to get it right. Come Saturday or Monday. The wonderful price-saving you'll reap will be all the argument necessary to bring you back when you want pure, fresh groceries again.—New York Grocery Store, Pittsburg.

Unmatchable prices in groceries. Exceptionally low prices on dependable qualities of table foods. We carry only the purest articles, but establish prices—lower than the same qualities can be sold for elsewhere.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

A noteworthy offering of fine groceries. An offering such as this means much to the thrifty housewife.—O'Neill's, New York.

Don't expend all your patriotism in "bang and smoke" on Labor Day. Save a little for the dinner. Get one of Acker's Patriotic Cakes. You should have one for the picnic too.—Acker & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

It's what you eat that gives you the energy necessary to meet the daily grind. Phone or send us your orders for groceries. Always the best.—S. W. Hall & Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

Test by Taste.—This is the sure way of detecting the good from the other kind of tea. Maybe you are hard to please. You will have no fault to find with "Fruits and Flowers" tea.—F. J. Keisel, Ogden, Utah.

Grocery orders may be given at your leisure in the Japanese Tea Room, on the fifth floor. It is a charming little Oriental nook—cool, quiet—presided over by Jap-garbed folk, who are there to minister to your immediate wants with dainty refreshments. At your call are the order clerks, to take such orders as faultless quality and matchlessly low prices encourage you to give.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York, N. Y.

Convincing values in fine groceries. Our customers appreciate the splendid values we are offering in highest class groceries and pure food products. They know they get pure, fresh goods at prices which enable them to save money. Get our canned meats for picnics or outings, you'll find them delicious.—W. D. Beers, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

A trite saying: "Tempt the appetite and satisfy it as well." You can do it when you eat delicacies bought of us. The chill of winter brings keen appetite with it. We are prepared for the winter appetite with as choice a collection of seasonable groceries as was ever shown in Hartford.—Hills & Co., Hartford.

To those whose custom it is to lay in a supply of groceries the first of the month, and who have not been buying here, we would suggest that it will cost them nothing to get our prices and examine qualities sold here—a chance to compare our goods and prices with others is all we ask—in fact it's all we need.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

It is a little early yet for nice sweet corn, but we have a little lot of it to-day that is very nice indeed. We shall sell it for 40c. a dozen.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Canned sliced peaches.—One pound cans of delicious California peaches, packed in an exquisite heavy syrup. One of the necessaries for that picnic basket.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia, Pa.

This grocery comes about as near meeting every gastronomic want as it is possible for any one store to provide. Fine select groceries of all kinds, the freshest of country produce, fruits and nuts of all kinds, the best of every variety of canned delicacies—nothing lacking for your table or your culinary preparations. You save money by buying here.—J. A. Schneider, Montgomery, Ala.

The "new style grocery" is progressive and reliable. We have all the new things, but we make sure of value and purity before we make a purchase or write a price tag.—The Schoch & Shafer Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

McCaffrey's full cream sharp cheese has that rich mellowness that compels one to smack his lips and reach for more. It is the cheese par excellence for all occasions. If you are a lover of good, old, rich, creamy, sharp cheese, get some of this by all means.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Not only the very groceries you need at this time, but at surprisingly low prices as compared with other stores—and the quality is, of course, superb.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Huntley & Palmer's imported English crackers are so fine and choice that they make the best things made in Berlin and Nurnberg look and taste like the traditional thirty cents. They are simply inimitable. America has tried to imitate them—but here is one of the places where American ingenuity fails. We have these unrivaled goods in half-pound airtight packages, fresh and free from dust or contact with any extraneous thing. They have never seen the light since sealed at the factory, and will not till you open them.—W. W. Walker Co., Hartford, Conn.

Our delicacy department makes cooking at home seem almost useless when you realize the resources of our delicacy department. So easy to get up the daintiest kind of a meal with almost no trouble if you buy some of Jevne's delicacies. Everything well cooked, and fresh and clean and delicious. Meats, fish, cheese, chipped beef, pickles, olives and hosts of other good things all ready to serve. If there's a lunch to be put up for a day's trip, the very thing is to buy what you want of Jevne.—Jevne's, Los Angeles, Cal.

When quality counts. In these hot summer days the appetite is prey to whims and fancies. The thought of food not properly cared for is even worse than food imperfectly cooked. Do you want that everlasting satisfaction of knowing that your meats, fruits and vegetables are the best in the land—selected by experts—kept under sanitary conditions and delivered to you free from the least dust, dirt and taint? Of course you do. Then buy at Courtney's. The sanitary refrigerators used throughout this establishment keep meat, fruit and vegetables in a state of perfect sanitary refrigeration.—Courtney & Co., Omaha, Neb.

Creamery butter. Our "Prairie" brand of creamery butter is proving very popular. It is pleasing a lot of people that know good butter when they see it. Freshly churned, a beautiful color and a flavor that just touches the right spot. Try it next time you want butter; it will please you.—Gibson, Gage Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Delicatessen.—This is the department that gives you an appetite. There's so many tempting, ready-to-eat foods displayed that whenever you are at a loss what to have for a meal, just visit these counters. Everything is clean and tidy, and the prices are certainly lower than those of the stores who make delicatessen their only support. If it's cheese you want, we have American or store cheese, imported Swiss cheese, Edam cheese from Holland, Pineapple cheese, or the genuine Limburger. What's your favorite? There's a varied assortment, so make your choice.—L. Lehman & Co., Trenton, N. J.

We are not jugglers. Our goods are not deceptive in quality. The grocer who sells unreliable foods just for the sake of making a few cents more, is not a safe man to trade with. Unreliable things can't come into this store. We know enough about these things to know when they are pure and when they are not. It isn't wholly a question of price with us. We get the best that money will buy, and then sell it with just a fair percentage of profit added. Finest fruit in town.—E. E. Nichols, New Haven.

Dependable eatables. All must be good, fresh and pure or the meal will be a disappointment. You can always depend on having them just as they should be if you buy at Greenough's. Largest stock, freshest and best selections always here—so different.—Greenough's, Spokane, Wash.

Evaporated milk. For the unexpected guest, after the theater or Sunday night supper, you will find a can of Caravan Evaporated Milk so handy, for it can be used the same as fresh cream and milk. Caravan Evaporated Milk has all the nutritive properties of fresh cream, for Caravan Evaporated Milk is entirely pure, full-cream cow's milk, sterilized, evaporated and cleansed; free from all germs, bacteria and foreign preservatives. Two cans for 25c.—M. W. Hansen & Co., Grand Forks, N. D.

Malted milk. It is pure, rich milk with the extract of selected malted grains in powder form. Instantly prepared by stirring in water. More beneficial and delicious than tea, coffee or cocoa. Very digestible and nutritious as a lunch. The best food for invalids, dyspeptics and those run down. Nothing finer can be found as a beverage for mountain picnics.—Owl Drug Store, San Bernardino.

When it begins to come along toward spring the appetite craves the form of food which is represented in our stock of fine evaporated fruits. The rich juices with their iron and other medicinal properties have been safely sealed up by nature, aided by scientific process, and are ready for instant use. Apricots, prunes, peaches, pears and the whole family of native and California fruits will be found here in the very best qualities at low prices. Send us your order by 'phone if you can't come to the store.—New Sugar Grocery Co., Lebanon, Pa.

Does your milk sour? If so try our perfectly Pasteurized milk. It is delivered right to your door on ice. If your baby is sick and the other milk does not agree with it try ours. If you need a stimulant take a glass of our milk, it is the nearest to a balanced ration of any food or beverage on the market to-day and will refresh you more than anything you can take. A card or telephone call will bring our representative with a sample bottle. I guarantee its purity. Always yours to please.—A. O. Mitchell, Waterbury, Conn.

Turn over a new leaf. Turn to purity and wholesomeness. Turn away from chance and possible contamination. Turn to Beech Glen Farms' milk. You're always sure—because it's pure. Start the New Year right.—Cleveland, Ohio.

A mere taste of the royal feast of good things that you will find in our grocery store. Add this resolution to your other 1907 resolves: Buy your groceries where you can save and where the stock must be best in quality; where you can find all wantable things for table use—at the big store.—Jonas Long's Sons, Scranton, Pa.

No let up. Now that it's colder is no reason why a dairy should let up on precautionary measures for purity. Beech Glen farms' milk receives the same conscientious care the year 'round. It's always a clean, pure milk. Cuyahoga Central 2598. Bell East 1862.—The Lander-Phillips Dairy Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Your grocery money goes farthest here. Everybody can see that our expense account is less than the expense account of the merchant in the high-rent district. If we give you the benefit of this expense difference, will it not show in the price of your groceries each week? We give you this benefit and that's why at our reduced prices, we sell you a better line of groceries and provisions than you can buy elsewhere for the same money. And this is one reason why grocery money goes farthest here. Think it over seriously, and you'll buy clothing here.—Jos. Szold & Son, Peoria, Ill.

Hours of delivery. All orders received up to 9 a. m. are delivered in the morning of same day as ordered. All orders received after 9 a. m. and up to 3:30 p. m. are delivered in the afternoon of same day as ordered. To eliminate all possibility of error and disappointment, and wherever possible and convenient for patrons, we suggest early ordering of goods. The entire aim of our delivery system is centered on giving patrons a highly satisfactory service in every instance. Whenever our method fails in any particular, depend upon us to promptly, pleasantly, and, if possible, to effectually right every flaw.—The Crews-Beggs Co., Pueblo, Colo.

Combining quality with low price. You have probably been impressed, when reading our advertisements, with the fact that our prices are at all times unusually low, and to-day we want to add to the impression of low prices another—quality. You know price is not all there is to the game of buying—it's the real value you get for your money that counts. Every article offered for sale at The Palace is a good article, worth a hundred cents for each dollar of its price. In no other way could we stand at the back of every purchase with our unconditional guarantee of "satisfaction, or your money back." We invite the most careful comparisons of prices and quality, knowing that you can do better at The Palace than anywhere else. Let us show you.—The Palace, Spokane.

This great grocery store of ours has won its tremendous trade by reason of the merits of the food stuffs it sells, but, not content with offering quality and purity alone, the prices are made lower than you are asked in the average grocery store, and on special occasions, such as to-morrow, these low prices are cut still deeper, making it advantageous to home keepers and boarding house and hotel keepers to anticipate their present and future needs.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

One of the most particular as well as important articles for the table is butter. At the present time the Pure Food Law does not allow coloring put in butter. Our butter is free from coloring, being sweet, and made from pure cream, coming to us from one of the finest as well as most sanitary creameries in the Connecticut Valley.—Johnson & Bro., New Haven, Conn.

The tea rooms are gaining. Maybe it's the novelty of the thing, but just the same the business being done in these tea rooms is increasing daily by big margins. People are coming here for their noonday lunches. The service is now fully up to the standard—prompt and accurate. It's a pretty satisfactory habit to form—this eating lunch in Field-Schlick's new tea rooms.—Field-Schlick & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Lenten season is here, and finds us with a large supply of dry and canned fish. Our boneless codfish, put up at the new Souris fish drier, is excellent. Also the Acadia and Halifax brands of pure boneless codfish, in two and three pound boxes, are delicious, clean and tempting. Our stock of canned salmon, clams, sardines, etc., are the best obtainable. Call or telephone.—McKenna's Grocery, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

"Confidence." The foundation stone of this store. Webster defines confidence as firm trust or belief; self-reliance; firmness; boldness; security; full reliance. And that's just about what this business is founded upon. Without the full confidence of the people the man nowadays will find he's working under the greatest handicap and sooner or later must give up and admit defeat. As regards this store, the management made "Confidence" their motto, and that they enjoy the results from day to day is thoroughly demonstrated by the splendidly growing trade being worked up. Without confidence, all is lost, and it's only a matter of time; with confidence a business is on as solid a foundation as the sturdy Rock of Gibraltar.—Dancer-Brogan & Co., Lansing Mich.

The psychological moment to buy canned goods is now. Never were such canned goods seen, never such rich, red, ripe, luscious tomatoes, such sweet, tender corn, such delicately flavored peas, such delicious pears, pineapples, strawberries and all the fruits and vegetables taken just at the moment nature had ripened them, and canned just at the psychological moment when nature had given them their most delicate, richest, luscious flavor—right from the field or orchard into the cans, and thus to you. And they were canned scientifically, under the most rigid sanitary regulations—so that they are not only as delicious, but as wholesome as if you had plucked them and cooked them yourself.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Send or telephone in your daily or semi-weekly grocery orders. We fill them according to your say-so, and don't try to palm off something just as good on you. We are always at pains to recommend new articles or to give you our opinion as to the relative merits of goods, but once you tell us what you want it is up to us to give it to you without any argument. Prompt delivery is one of the strong points of the model grocery store.—New Shugar Grocery Co., Lebanon, Pa.

The reason we are always about the busiest grocery store in Altoona is because our prices on goods we can guarantee, are the lowest. Then too, you get prompt service and courteous treatment. When you buy here you can feel confident you are getting the best goods and we meet any and all competition.—H. E. Swigert, Altoona, Pa.

This butter does not bear fake endorsement of the medical State journals, but every pound is in a carton without extra expense to the retailer.—Wm. T. Greenly, Terre Haute, Ind.

The biggest and best vegetables are raised from our seeds, and they keep best through the winter. The seed potatoes we sell always give the best crops. Did you notice what good results our White Rose potatoes gave in the crop? Just notice how good these potatoes are keeping.—C. Meyer, San Bernardino, Cal.

Outing suggestions. "Variety is the spice of life." The delight in fishing comes from the uncertainty—you're always certain of getting things just right at Greenough's. The variety the greatest, freshest and best in these parts. Take a stroll through our big grocery and see the many tasty, appetizing good things we have prepared for your table or that outing party—a veritable palace of pure foods. Items of interest displayed on every counter and in every corner of our big store.—Greenough's, Spokane.

Fancy table raisins specials. The "Sweet Briar" are the choicest table raisins. We import them direct, especially for our Christmas trade. They're packed in handsome and convenient 2 1-2 lb. and 5 lb. boxes. Have you seen them?—Finley Acker Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Sparkling sale that beams with satisfying groceries. Last week we convinced thousands that Simpson Crawford's Food Market surpasses all others in quality, price and service. Your every whim is gratified here. There is no limit to our efforts to please. Our facilities for serving out-of-town customers are unsurpassed. Send us a trial order. Our food catalogue, "Good Eating," mailed on request.—Simpson Crawford Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Milton's Big Butter Store. Creamery butter sale. Fresh churned, extra creamery, 25c. The biggest butter bargain St. Paul has had for a long time. Strictly fine, fresh churned creamery butter, right from our own churns to your home, at less than the wholesale price. Don't pass this by as an ordinary advertisement. If you knew how fresh and good this butter is you would not look further for butter. Headquarters is the place to buy your butter and save the storekeeper's profit of 4c to 5c per pound. Telephone for a small jar. Prompt delivery.—Milton Dairy Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Xmas dinner dainties at independent prices. In your hurry to do your Christmas shopping, don't neglect the Christmas dinner; our grocery department is well stocked with the goodies that you'll want for your great annual feast, and in every case, by independent buying, we are enabled to save you materially.—The Broadway Department Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

Good things to eat. Fresh stock of cranberries just received. All kinds of good eating apples. Concord grapes, fine. All other vegetables in season. Prompt delivery is our motto.—Knaur-Brown Grocery Co., Denison, Texas.

A few cents a pound saved on this, a few more on that, is the way that economical housekeepers can serve the best interests of their table and their pocket-book by shopping in the Eaton grocery. And isn't it astonishing how quickly the savings mount up?—T. Eaton & Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Old homestead canned goods. Perfectly sound fruits and vegetables put up at Picton, Ontario, with strict regard for scrupulous cleanliness in every stage of the process. The exclusion of everything of an unsound nature results in remarkable preservation of the natural flavor.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Pitted red cherries in their own juice. That's what makes these fancy York State red cherries so fancy. It really makes them the best flavored and finest goods of the kind put up in tins. Don't cost much—25c can, $2.75 a dozen. Whole red raspberries. They are hard to put up at all, but these are put up just right. These York Staters are very successful putting up whole red raspberries. With all their quality they are just as reasonable as the cherries—25c can, $2.75 a dozen.—W. W. Walker Co., Hartford.

You and yours are cordially invited to come to see us. You will be welcome whether you wish to buy or not. We are not expecting to sell every one this payday, we just want to get acquainted with you. We can show you where you can lose several days during the month and have as much money as if you had put in full time. How can we do it? Because we are selling groceries you're wanting at prices you're tickled to pay.—Tucker-Jonz, Denison, Texas.

Our grocery sale is constantly increasing, as the prices and quality of our goods cannot be met by our competitors. Be sure and look our price list over and leave your order with us and we will give it our prompt attention.—Waterbury Market Co., Waterbury, Conn.

Ontario cheese. That good kind, you know; the kind that has made Ontario famous; the kind that everybody likes, with that rich, full flavor that helps to sharpen up your appetite. And, listen! We have installed a patent automatic cutter and you can have just the sized piece you want. No crumbs or dry chunks; every cut fresh as a daisy. Would like you to try our cheese, it is sure to please, and the price is no higher than you have been paying for ordinary cheese. Our introduction price for a few days is 18c per pound.—Gibson, Gage Co., Winnipeg, Can.

How to get pure milk. No need to "wonder, sit and ponder, sit and think" as to how to be absolutely certain of the purity of your milk supply. Use guaranteed milk, from a responsible dairy—the production and handling of which is open to your inspection.—Beech Glen Farms Milk, Cleveland, Ohio.

Not often advertised; that is, by us. We refer to cheese, butter and eggs. They sell pretty lively without publicity. They are bought by people who place freshness and quality before price. The price is small enough, these excellences considered, but it might seem large to small-price hunters. Hence the price is given when the goods are called for. Our object in touching this subject is to inform customers where prime cheese and butter and eggs are sold.—Boston Grocery, New Haven, Conn.

Only one best store in town at which to obtain your supplies of groceries, and that's at our store. Don't accuse us of boasting. We are only repeating what hundreds of satisfied patrons have said and are saying about us. Beside excellence, we also lay claim to promptness and carefulness in the filling of all orders. No extra charge for all these good points. It's just our way, that's all.—The Dunning Grocery Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Price cuts in groceries. Every little helps in home economies, particularly in regard to groceries and such like things of everyday consumption. Worth-while savings soon accumulate from a price advantage of a few cents here and there.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Pure milk. Every ounce of milk sold by us comes from clean dairies and is clarified to insure absolute purity. Every utensil used is sterilized with boiling water and live steam. Every bottle and can is sterilized before using. We heartily support and will aid in the agitation for universal inspection of milk. We make every effort to obtain a pure milk supply at the farms, and not satisfied with that clarify the milk in such a manner that the injurious germs which are inevitable in the natural milk are destroyed. It costs money to do this, but we are confident that no diseases can ever be brought into your family by our clarified milk. Ask any person who has been investigating the local milk conditions about the test of our clarified milk. Though we are doing our part, we know that universal inspection by efficient officers will help us by increasing the use of pure milk. The sanitary conditions of the New Haven dairy are as perfect as brains and money can make them. We invited inspection and cordially ask every person interested in pure milk to come and inspect this modern plant. Twenty-six pint tickets for $1.—New Haven Dairy Co., New Haven, Conn.

The fear of a grocery bill has driven many a man down the hill. It doesn't drive the Lehman customer very far. There's nothing to fear here, people. If you have the fear, come to Lehman's. If living has got out of all reason, try the most reasonable thing—Lehman's splendid cash system. Grandest layout of meat, fish, groceries and fresh vegetables that you have seen in many months. Freshness! Goodness! Beauty! Cheapness! Greatest grocery combination on earth. All in line at Lehman's Department Food Stores this Friday and Saturday.—Lehman's Dept. Store, Trenton.

Milk editorial. The Lander-Phillips Dairy Co. does not depend for support on any fad, but only on the intelligence of the public. We bottle all our milk—it's the proper way, because every bottle is absolutely sterile when filled. You can come and see our advanced methods. To get pure milk order Beech Glen Farms Milk.—The Lander-Phillips Dairy Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Interesting Grocery Items.—This is the time of year when the grocery store can help you most. Let's see if we can't relieve you of half the responsibility of that picnic or excursion. You'll get the proper foods, if you come here—and they won't cost much, either, and you are almost sure to get something that the other folks haven't heard about as yet, and their surprise and delight will be worth the time you spent in shopping for them. Get a grocery catalogue when you are in doubt—or better still, come to the store.

Good health and ready money are two of the best friends in the world. Our regular customers are largely blessed with both, for we supply them with wholesome food at low prices. The quality of the food insures their health, and our profit-sharing method of selling to them direct from the producer enables them to save money on all they purchase. The money they save also helps their health, for it brings contentment, and digestion. Every one of our 130 retail grocery branches, in selling pure foods at such moderate prices, is also radiating health and ready money all around. That explains the ever-growing popularity of our stores and why it is that the sensible, home-loving, thrifty housekeepers deal with us by the scores of thousands.

In planning this grocery department we have given first thought to the quality of the goods; nothing but the best finds or ever will find a place in our stock. Our next thought has been to see for how little we could sell the very best. Our prices and pleased customers (they grow in number daily) are ample proof of our unqualified success. It will be well worth your time to visit this department. It is beautiful and convenient in its arrangement, and offers you the choicest food stuffs from the world's best markets at savings not possible anywhere else.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

The clean, fresh and pure kind that will make your meals delicious and give the housewife an easy task in preparing it, because she knows it will be good. Prompt delivery is our hobby.—Geo. F. Bitzer, Columbus, Ohio.

Canned sliced peaches.—One pound cans of delicious California peaches, packed in an exquisite heavy syrup. One of the necessities for that picnic basket.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia.

Salt, cheap as it is, needs watching. Why buy damp or soggy, hard or lumpy, coarse grained mixtures when the pure, dry, fine grained, free running article can be had at so cheap a price?—James Butler, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Picnic goodies must be fresh and dainty to be toothsome and delicious. We make a specialty of luscious picnic eatables—all the good substantial standbys and the greatest abundance of dainty "side lines" that you'll find in town.—J. H. Snow & Co., Bangor, Me.

Fancy crackers—biscuits.—There is always something new in this line—somebody making a new kind of cracker or biscuit all the time. Whatever is new, and is good, you'll find at Jevne's. Our cracker department is nothing small, you'd be surprised to know how many different kinds of crackers we carry. Some small delicious crackers that simply melt in your mouth. Good fresh soda crackers, too, and all the fancy kinds. Go to Jevne's for any kind of a cracker you want.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Groceries for your cottage at the shore.—No need for paying the high prices usually asked at summer grocery stores. Our big grocery, with its crisp, ever-changing stock of fresh goods and its modest department store prices is at your service. Send in your order by mail and if $5 worth of goods are ordered, we'll deliver them free at your station.—Wise, Smith & Co., Hartford, Conn.

For the Thanksgiving dinner, special efforts will be made to supply all the dainties suitable to the occasion. Here are a few hints.—Carsley's, Montreal.

Purest olive oil.—Every cook agrees that the purest olive oil is the best. The question is, which is the purest. We carry one brand—the "La Crescenta"—which we can vouch for as being absolutely pure. It is put up under our own supervision, so we know what goes into the bottles.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles.

If you have been a stranger to the flavor given by using Tone's spices, get acquainted. There is nothing but spice—no woody (perhaps poisonous) adulteration—just purity—just spice. The package keeps the flavor always the same as the day we ground the spice.—Tone Bros., Des Moines, Ia.

Picnic supplies must be fresh and seasonable to be appreciated on your outing. We make a specialty of picnic eatables—all the good substantial standbys and the greatest abundance of dainty "side lines" that you'll find in town. Send your order: we'll fill it most temptingly.—Dunning Grocery Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Does your butter suit you? Has it got a moldy, back number, aged sort of a smell that takes away your appetite for the other things on the table? Our Riverside creamery butter will give an added zest to everything else on the table. It will create an appetite, not take it away. You'll have a hard time finding anything at our store that you won't like. We have to be extra careful, of course. We wouldn't expect success if we bought things in a hit or miss fashion. It's because we're careful in our grocery buying that you won't have to be careful with yours—just order your dinner from us—it will be all right. Our word for it—also our money.—Whalen & Taylor, Battle Creek, Mich.

Spanish sweet peppers with fried eggs are delicious. Cut the peppers in slices or round pieces and put in a frying pan in melted butter or good olive oil, and a little onion, if preferred. When the butter or oil is lukewarm, drop the pieces of peppers into the frying pan along with well-beaten eggs, frying until the eggs become more or less hard, according to the taste.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Home bakery and steam table. These two departments are a blessing to the ladies. They save you time, labor and worry. The finest pastry, bread etc., at our home bakery counter. Hot meats, side dishes, etc., ready to serve at our steam table. Mail orders. Just because you do not live in Denver is not a good reason for not buying from us and saving money. Write for a catalogue.—The John Thompson Grocery Co., Denver, Colo.

All our foods and groceries are fresh from the farm, the creamery or the garden, the packing-house, cannery or factory. The shortest cut from the producer to your table is through a James Butler store. It is also the cleanest, cheapest, most economical route—no rehandling or repacking. Better quality, fresher goods are not to be had. Then the price—if that concerns you—is always lower, for the simple reason that no other merchant buys so largely or so closely; nor can he afford to sell on the scant margin that is profit enough on our immense daily volume of sales. Thrift is the highway to prosperity and happiness, and every one of the James Butler groceries is an entrance to this pleasant road. Here are a few prices for the next three days that will interest every housekeeper who would rather save the pennies than squander the dollars.—James Butler, Jersey City, N. J.

Salted Jordan almonds, genuine Jordan almonds, salted specially for us by a lady who uses in salting our extra fancy creamery butter. Ours you'll always find crisp.—Gedney's, East Orange.

That's certainly good coffee. Couldn't be otherwise if bought of Carvers. We have several grades, as a matter of course—some cheaper than others; but each one is the best any honest dealer can afford to sell for the money.—J. S. Carver & Sons, Ogden, Utah.

The best preserves and jellies. We have many kinds and varieties of fruit preserves, with a wide range of prices. The lowest priced are good—the highest priced the very best anywhere. Many are put up by women in their homes, with all the care and pride that a woman will take in her special work. Dainty for desserts or a fillop to appetite, they are admirable and economical.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Come here for your groceries. Our prices average fully one-fourth less than you would pay elsewhere for goods of same quality. Bring in a sample order and prove what we say.—Gt. A. & P. Tea Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

There are just as many different kinds of coffee as there are different kinds of people. Some good, some bad, some indifferent good, and some indifferent bad. Coffees are same way. We have great patience and skill in selecting coffee, for we have a coffee trade that is the best in Connecticut. The people we cater to demand the finest coffee in the country, and we realize that it is up to us to provide it.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

The ordinary grocery store is often disappointing. Not so here. We always have something in our choice stock to tickle the palate of those whose appetites need forcing a little. To-morrow we have an unusually good lot of fruit, green vegetables, home-baked goods, staple and fancy groceries. Pay us a visit. 'Twill be mutually helpful.—Cornell's, Binghamton, N. Y.

The prime object of this pure food show, inaugurated to-morrow morning, and which will be the grandest, largest and most complete ever held in the West, is to make a proper exposition of all nutritious and wholesome foods. The demonstration and preparation of them will be done by experts, so that all will be able to witness practical and interesting tests. Many valuable ideas will be collected by those who attend and are interested in the scientific and beneficial use of foods according to health laws. Our entire fourth floor has been turned into a veritable fair, with its clusters of booths, its carnival dress and its buzz of busy workers. In connection with this grand pure-food show every department of our store will conduct special sales. New stocks are arriving daily, so that unusually fine bargains may be secured. Special attractions will be announced daily. Watch the papers. During this show special prices will prevail on groceries and liquors.—Prager's, San Francisco, Cal.

Now is the time you are purchasing your supply of groceries for February. Just look over these prices and if you are asked more at your trust groceries give us a trial order. No matter what you may be told by the fellow looking for his big profit, our goods are strictly reliable and of the best quality; higher prices and smooth talk will not make their goods of any better quality than ours.—The Bartlett Merc. Co., Leadville.

The value of groceries depends on how good they are. If you buy a poor grade of groceries that you are unable to use, it doesn't comfort you very much to know that you got them cheap. If you buy your groceries from us you will have the standing assurance that everything is the purest and the best that can be obtained. You will enjoy knowing, too, that the price you are paying for them is as low as can be found anywhere—often lower. This hot weather makes the preparation of a heavy dinner quite a task. Telephone us, and we will make a few suggestions that will help you out. Our Herkimer County York State cheese is the best that can be obtained any place. Better try it the next time you want cheese.—Whalen & Taylor, Battle Creek, Mich.

These dainty, fresh, crisp graham crackers are unequaled as an every day article of food—ideal for lunch at picnics and parties. And the price—a supply for the summer may be had to-day at a good saving.—Evans Bros., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Sour Jumbo Pickles.—Big fellows, just as crisp as it is possible to have them and with a flavor that is all their own. You'll be sorry if you don't have some of these with you on your trip to the woods.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia, Pa.

El Verde Grape Juice.—Put a few bottles in your ice chest—keep some there all the time. Then when you want a refreshing drink, when you want something to serve a guest, pour out a glass of this delicious, cool, grape juice—how you will relish it, El Verde grape juice is the best summer beverage you could possibly have; it is something different from what is generally served and it is absolutely pure.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles.

A continuous feast of pure, fresh foods and delicacies is being set before our customers at prices so low that the daily task of supplying the household with necessaries is changed for them into a perennial pleasure. Witness our specials for this week—potatoes by the basket at carload rates; the finest flour below present cost of milling (wheat is so high); hams and bacon at prices almost discouraging to the pigs; rice and prunes cheaper than you could raise them; and so it goes through our whole stock. Thrifty women are not slow to take advantage of these money-saving offers, and our stores are thronged more and more as appetites sharpen with the approach of winter.—James Butler, New York, N. Y.

Some grocers have to bait their customers with sugar to keep them in a good humor—just like a fellow does his sweetheart. The best bait that we have ever found was the best goods at a reasonable price; the best assortment to be found and courteous treatment. If you are a good liver you cannot make a mistake by giving us your business.—Tony Hill Jonz, Denison, Texas.

A sale of dainty appetizing edibles, just suited for the Lenten season. The prices are low, the quality the best in each instance. This is what makes the bargain-saving so rare.—The Bronson and Platt Co., New Haven, Conn.

Something good to eat! Follow the crowd to Puss and Tad's new, up-to-date grocery. Staple and imported goods received every day. We are here to stay, and will do our best to please you in quality, price and prompt delivery.—Hannah & Holstead, Waco, Texas.

Huntley & Palmer crackers. The famous cracker makers of London—but their fame is not confined to London, it spreads over the world. The daintiest crackers and wafers made come from the Huntley & Palmer factory.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Pfeiffer's. When you want the best groceries leave your order at Pfeiffer's grocery.—Pfeiffer's, Kenton, Ohio.

It pays to buy good coffee. In our 28c J. & M. you get a coffee that combines strength and flavor. You can use less and get better satisfaction than with cheaper goods.—S. S. Adams, New Haven, Conn.

Did you taste that coffee at the lawn fete last night? Honor bright! Now wasn't it just excellent for 20c? Isn't it just as good as you have bought at 25c or more? New lot of that Santo and Rio Blend coffee in yesterday. It's so good for 15c. One pound is worth two pounds of package coffee. It's absolutely pure. Makes a rich delicious cup.—Brunson's, Kenton, O.

Baked beans in cans are handy at this time of the year. Open the can and they're ready and it's most likely every one in the family is partial to beans. We're sure they'll like these because they are extra delicious—plain or in tomato sauce.—Lehman & Co., Trenton, N. J.

We have welcome news for housekeepers in our prices of canned vegetables this week. All former figures are broken. Quality considered, the prices offered today have never been approached, far less equaled. Where other prices approach ours, the quality will be found so disappointingly inferior that comparison is out of the question. We buy and sell in such immense quantities that no other retailer can hope to compete with us. Ten thousand cases, or twenty carloads, furnish no more than about a day's supply when we make a drive on special prices, as we do now. We purchase by trainloads—often the entire output of the high grades—and not by the car. Buying so largely, we control the price, making sure of the quality, and far outstrip all competition. We offer customers for this week values that are peerless. Better be on hand early and get your share of the bargains.—James Butler, New York, N. Y.

We received yesterday a ton or more of extra fancy Oregon prunes. They are big, fat, fine flavor. We bought them to sell and they are going to be moved this week.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Eatable attractions are the features at our store to-day. The flag of high grade quality at low prices waves over our stock and we can please every buyer who wants to be economical.—D. R. Kendall, Pueblo, Colo.

Were we to tell you of all the wonderful values obtainable when marketing in our grocery store, it would take a page of type talk—we therefore have culled the following specials as typical of the hosts of others waiting your picking.—Bloomingdale Bros., New York.

Wanted—A woman, who after using our goods will not say that they far surpass anything she has ever used at far higher prices.—Mills Tea and Butter Co., Springfield, Mass.

Rich, juicy, sweet oranges. A carload just received by us. Remember, we can make low prices because we buy the quantity.—H. S. Chase & Co., Des Moines, Iowa.

Guava Jelly. A most charming and delicious jelly, made from a fruit grown in Cuba—the Guava. Its flavor is hard to describe—here's the flavor of the orange, the quince and the pomegranate combined—can you imagine anything more exquisite?—J. A. McCaffrey & Sons, Philadelphia, Pa.

Tea and coffee. A customer said yesterday: "You're harping a good deal on tea and coffee."

We know it.

What's the use of leaving good things alone. By no means are they the only good things in the store. Everything here is good. But somehow people kind o' judge a store by its tea and coffee.

We are willing you should.

Ask your neighbor. She knows about our tea and coffee and our other good things.—The N. A. Moore Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Wouldn't you prefer to have your morning cup filled with rich, fragrant, delicious coffee than with a flavorless, tasteless, weak beverage? Why don't you? In our coffee department there's nothing but the pure, good coffee berry sold. We have Mocha and Java coffee at 40c the pound that makes a most delicious cup of coffee—and you pay that price many places for a coffee that is worthless. Ours is so skillfully blended, always fresh roasted—and it's pure.—H. Jenne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Canned corn, Indian brand. This corn certainly makes us friends. It is a small, tender, sweet Maine corn, natural in color and as near perfect as corn can grow.—A. L. Knauer, Denison, Texas.

Your Sunday dinner will be the better for a little shopping in our grocery department. Coffee that is best. One sip and then your verdict—if it isn't better than any you've been buying for the same price, no matter where, send it back.—Fontaine & Angliner, Crookston.

The biggest sale of its kind, covering the freshest, most wholesome, most "toothsome" canned fruits, game, fish and vegetables Newarkers ever tasted—the country's leading canneries gathered, selected and packed them, so we know they're best! Close, cash buying in car-load lots, at just the right time, gave us low prices no organization anywhere could get! And now we're turning over to you the entire stock, without a single reservation, at prices no store can beat, no matter what their claim! Remember every brand's put up under the packer's label—every can is guaranteed as advertised, or your money back.—S. Scheuer & Sons, Newark, N. J.

A full house of choice, fancy groceries—the fresh kind. Poor groceries are dear at any price. Our store is clean. Our goods are pure. Our prices the lowest for the best, as we handle no other.—Anderson Bros., Spokane, Wash.

Every coffee drinker should read this. We want to bring before the public more prominently the delicious blends of coffee to be had here. We employ an interesting means to do this. Read our offer and take advantage of it.—The Fair, Chicago, Ill.

Dunlap's India and Ceylon Tea.—We are gaining ground very fast in the popularity of this tea; for lovers of tea with a heavy body it is unsurpassed. Comes in lead foil packages, thereby retaining all the flavors as grown in the gardens of Ceylon.—Geo. M. Dunlap, Atlantic City, N. J.

Don't pay fancy prices for rancid butter. You can find none better, at the present season, than our Mifflin County roll. The price, 18c per pound. Our sales reached 1,000 pounds last week, a saving to our patrons, in the aggregate, of $112.00. Did you get some of the change we handed out?—Green Front Market, Altoona, Pa.

A reward for good hard work, honest dealing, a clean and well kept grocery and meat market is an increase of business and more customers. We think we have earned that reward, as the growth of our business shows it. We can always take care of one more. Try us and see for yourself.—J. P. Cronin, Binghamton.

Enjoy life while you live, for you'll be a long time dead. Man wants but little here below—except when it comes to the matter of eating, and then he wants plenty of it and of the very best quality, too. Every wife knows that our groceries fill the bill in every particular and that they are fresh, pure and wholesome.—W. P. Hickman, Crowley, La.

"This Gillies coffee seems to go further. The weight is full, the coffee rich, and even if it cost more per pound than I paid elsewhere (which it doesn't), it would still cost less per cup. As to body and flavor, I have never tasted a more delicious coffee."—Gillies Coffee Co., New York, N. Y.

If there is any business that needs quality injected in large quantities it is the grocery business.—Lem Wright, Grocer, Knoxville, Ia.

Don't use a white starch on black goods. Durkee's Mourning Starch, at 10 and 15 cents, is the thing.—T. E. Burns Company, Knoxville, Tenn.

Good tea is an aid to the digestion. Its fragrant aroma excites the flow of the digestive fluids. It softens food so that the gastric juices act readily upon it. Its warmth brings blood to the stomach. It promotes the assimilation of nutrition by the blood. It supplies food for the nerves and body. Its principal constituent is theine—a tonic that reinvigorates and freshens mind and physique. Good tea is an actual health benefit for women and children and men. Chase & Sanborn's Package Teas are good teas. They are the selected growth of the best tea estates of the world. They are made from tender, delicate top leaves and shoots of "hill-grown" tea.—Chase & Sanborn, Boston, Mass.

This week there is again "something doing" in the "best butter line." All spring we have been fighting the creamery and dairy force of the country for lower prices. The combine is powerful and stubborn, but we broke through their defenses a few days ago, when we smashed the price to 27 cents a pound. The ten carloads we offered at this figure melted away like snow in July before the eager demands of our customers. But other purchases have arrived—this time the "Cream" of the Western product, fresh and fragrant as the first breath of spring, although the quantity is not half what we expected. These shipments are now being distributed to every store. We won't stop to reckon the cost, but will gladden the hearts of all our customers and of every housekeeper within reach of one of our stores by keeping the price at 27 cents a pound. We are content to lose our profit if we can break up the "high-price" combination. So call around this week. Better butter is not to be had in any market.—James Butler, Jersey City, N. J.

Tea experts have to look and taste a number of times before they're satisfied. We think, however, that you'll be well satisfied with one taste of our teas.—J. R. Terall & Co., Raleigh, N. C.

A cup of Mocha and Java blended in the right combination and of choicest picking, makes an aroma richer than all the perfumes of Arabia, and a beverage that for flavor, body and deliciousness is unexcelled. Our coffees are unadulterated and of the choicest quality, and our teas are a dream of luxury for the palate.—J. S. Carver & Sons, Ogden.

Our sale of pure foods is well worth your thoughtful attention—mince meat, of course, the pure kind; relishes, condiments, flour, sugar, coffee, teas, spices—all the staples and all the luxuries you can think of—many you may not call to mind. Our goods, our service, our prices are right in line with those of the best groceries in the land.—Bergen Center Market, Jersey City, N. J.

Our butter, eggs and produce suggest the rolling meadows, the country farm and the fertile fields. These things come from farmers who know how to raise them to perfection. Like all other things in this excellent stock of groceries, they are fit for the best tables, and will be appreciated by those who know what good food is.—The Star Grocery Co., Logan.

Butter Oration.—Tell everybody about this butter, because it's worth telling about. If you are lucky enough to buy it, you know what it is. You know it's pure and sweet and wholesome. You know it is made by people who know how to make good butter. If you don't know about this butter, just take our word for it, it is the best butter in India to-day.—S. M. Dairy Co., Bijapur, India.

Preserved rose leaves in the model grocery store. Is that not the personification of delicacy in foods? We lead with this item merely to call attention to the fact that while we sell hams, bacon, flour, canned corned beef and the like staple, ordinary kinds of foods, they are not sold in the ordinary way, nor are they ordinary hams, bacon, etc., and that at the same time there is not a delicacy in the world we've heard of that cannot also be purchased here at particularly moderate prices and handled in particularly dainty style. It's a dainty as well as comprehensive, appetizing and low priced store. Preserved rose leaves, a novel dainty from Turkey, good addition to the afternoon tea, 24c a tin.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Be careful of what you eat.—Particularly in the summer—as poor and impure foods in the warm season very quickly result in a siege of sickness. The safest plan is to have "The Big Store," Pittsburg's great pure food mart, supply all your grocery wants. You can order by 'phone just as well as in person—and we'll always assure you of the highest satisfaction—and, too, guarantee to save you considerably. The appended list is ready proof.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg.

We cordially invite our friends to call and inspect our line of new and up-to-date groceries. Courteous treatment and prompt delivery will make you a steady customer. Our prices are as low as first-class goods can be sold for. Visit our store and we are sure you will come again.—Bliss Grocery, Wooster, Ohio.

Is it not sensible to buy your eatables from a clean store? Many people deal here because this store is absolutely clean. This is an excellent reason—But there are others! Many buy here because we save them money. The following partial list for to-day's selling will save you money. If not already a customer, call to-day and look our grocery department over.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Highest honors at St. Louis exposition. Old-time dairy methods produced a butter that was sometimes good—more often not. No uniform product was possible. Twentieth century creamery science gives the consumer the perfect butter. Gold medal creamery butter is the finest butter made—no better butter is possible. The cream is pasteurized that it may hold no harmful germ, and every care taken, from start to finish, that the butter may be uniform in quality and always best. Indeed, it is so good an air-tight and odor-proof package is used to protect it, so as to bring all the goodness from the creamery to you. 500,000 people in Connecticut are now eating Gold Medal butter. Are you one of them?—Dillon & Douglass, New Haven.

Groceries for the quality-cupboard at sharp savings.—Our strict scrutiny of quality prevents any other than best getting into our grocery and wine stocks at any time, so when special prices are quoted they mean more to the careful buyer than "ordinary bargains."—Bloomington, New York.

Butter! Butter! Butter that's better. Butter at prices better than the other fellow's butter. Get your good butter at Howard Bros., Denison, Texas.

A chapter about cheese. We make a specialty of fine butter and cheese.—Crofut's Market, Binghamton, N. Y.

Fancy groceries.—Many of our customers do not seem to know that we carry groceries as well as meats. We wish to emphasize the fact that our stock of strictly high-grade groceries includes everything the fastidious housekeeper could desire. Teas and coffees, pickles and relishes, fancy crackers, canned goods, etc., and each is the best of its kind.—Washington Market, Scranton, Pa.

Our coffees are all rich, full flavored and aromatic. Pure blend represents a standard of excellence. The women of St. Ann's parish, Brooklyn, who served this famous Russian Samovar Tea, praise its high quality. The only botanically blended tea in America, sold in the interest of the consumer only in the original sealed packages from 60c up to $4.00 per pound, in 1-4, 1-2 and 1 lb. packages; you will never know the real luxury of a cup of tea until you have used Russian Samovar tea. As to economy, it is sufficient to mention that one ounce of this tea produces 20 cups.—Chapman & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Quality counts. Yes, quality counts, every time. This is amply demonstrated in the rapidly increasing sales of our Capital Brand butter—the best butter ever made. We take especial care to keep our creamery clean. Come in and inspect it any day. We use only the best cream from high-grade dairy cows—ask our dairymen, we'll furnish you their names. We use only modern machinery, kept scrupulously free from impurities—you can see it, any time. Our workmen are experienced—our price is right. Can these reasons account for our butter's popularity? We think so.—Capital City Creamery, Salem, Ore.

Tempting grocery offers. Some of the specials that make this the most interesting grocery store in the city. All the world contributes to it, sending to us the most famous, most likable edibles of each country—at prices that permit every one to enjoy the delicacies that only the few used to enjoy.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Butter fresh from the best dairies. Pure and sweet, the product of some of the best managed dairies in the country. You'll be interested in the low prices as well as in the goodness of the butter. Phone us an order, try it, and you will order more.—Alex. Cooper, Winnipeg.

Good butter. Our Rose brand of dairy butter is day after day and week after week being placed on the table of an ever-increasing number of homes in the city. We do not claim for this butter that it is the best thing in butter that ever happened, but we do claim that it is without doubt (in this season of high butter prices) the best butter value in the city for the price. Our Prairie brand of creamery is put up in one of the best creameries in the East, shipped to us in 56-pound boxes, and in our own clean, bright, marble-countered, up-to-date butter room, it is cut into pound bricks, nicely wrapped in parchment paper and is ready for your table. Try our butter. We think it will please you, and we know it will save a little money for you.—Gibson-Gage Co., Winnipeg, Can.

GROCERIES—FLOUR

Sylph flour in plenty now ready.—In our announcement the other day concerning the supply of Sylph flour we promised a plentiful supply in a few days. That promise has now been fulfilled. Five carloads have arrived and more is on the way. Our plans comprise orders for the delivery of two carloads a day until further orders. From the rate at which the sale of this superb flour is increasing we do not expect even to reduce these orders, but rather to make still heavier demands on the mills.

We owe the public an apology for allowing ourselves to run out of Sylph flour, since we made such exhaustive tests before advertising this flour that we knew it to be the very best. We should therefore have anticipated the demand. However, we are proud of the record that Sylph flour is making and will not allow ourselves to run short in the supply again. We repeat what we have so often said, "Sylph flour is the best, without qualification."—Day & Bailey Grocer Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Gluten goodness. The truly nourishing part of flour is the gluten and phosphates. These are often lost, or impaired in the process of milling, but they are preserved in the highest efficiency in Angelus flour which we mill, by a special process of our own, from the best hard spring wheat. That is what makes Angelus flour so rich, and enables it to yield the purest, whitest, most fragrant and wholesome bread and biscuit ever eaten by mortal. If you have not yet tried this flour there is a great treat in store for you.—Thompson Milling Co., Lockport, N. Y.

A substantial foundation upon which to build a good, healthful body and a vigorous mind is in using discretion as to the bread your family consumes. This is the main article of food and for that reason should be of the best quality. To get that best quality all that is necessary is to insist upon your grocer sending you Elect Flour.—B. B. Busby Co., Memphis, Tenn.

About a year ago we thought we were doing well to sell one hundred barrels of Henkel's flour each month, but since the ladies have learned what excellent light bread and delicious pastry can be made with Henkel's, we are selling over

Boyer's "Silver King" Flour at four dollars a barrel.—This most excellent flour is the housewife's pride. We get all kinds of compliments about it. This special price is for strike times and may help out where "economy is the law."—Boyer's, Scranton, Pa.

How can we emphasize sufficiently the goodness of Henkel's, so that you will order a sack, next time in preference to any other. Henkel's flour is so good for bread, biscuits and pastry, that many housewives will use nothing else after trying Henkel's.—Newell & Truesdell, Binghamton, N. Y.

Sylph flour makes biscuits better than the best king on earth is entitled to, and pastry that would melt the heart of the most critical queen.—Day & Bailey Grocer Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Best flour on earth is our best flour. There is none made anywhere that is superior to it in any respect. It makes the finest, flakiest, whitest bread; the lightest biscuits, the most brittle and appetizing pie crust; the most superb cake. Try it and you will be convinced.—The Globe, Peoria, Ill.

It is bound to strike you that there is better flour than that you have been using when once you see the results obtained by your neighbor who bakes with the Royal Gem brand—less flour, more and better bread indicate the cause of your dissatisfaction. Why not follow her wise example and use Royal Gem flour?—Perkins Grain and Milling Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Dickson's Best Patent Snow White flour is wholly unlike any other flour ever milled. It's better, unquestionably better. No other brand imparts to the bread a taste so appetizing; no other makes lighter or more wholesome bread. Dickson Mill and Grain Co., Scranton.

There's a best in everything and the best of bread is that made from Olympic flour. We don't claim Olympic is best without having good grounds to make our claims on. No other miller gives the close expert attention to the details of flour manufacture that we do. Our machines are new and modern and use only the best Washington wheat.—Portland Flouring Mills, Spokane, Wash.

Spring wheat flour makes wholesome, nutritious bread. Winter wheat flour makes light, white, delicious bread. Neither makes perfect bread, but Beaver flour, a blend of Manitoba spring wheat, and Ontario fall wheat in the right proportions of each, makes perfect bread—whitest, most inviting and nutritious. Beaver flour will make your baking successful.—T. H. Taylor Co., Charlottetown, Can.

A perfectly "balanced" flour is one which contains the greatest amount of nutriment in its most easily digestible form. No single variety of wheat will produce "well balanced" flour. It requires the careful selection of different kinds. The makers of Royal Household flour have more than a hundred elevators scattered throughout the greatest wheat growing country in the world, which enables them to secure the very pick of the wheat that will yield perfectly balanced flour. The kind of flour that produces the best, the largest and strongest loaf. The loaf which contains the greatest amount of bone, muscle and brain-making protein and the lowest percentage of waste. Royal Household makes bread which reduces the labor of digestion—and gives greatest nutrition for least stomach effort. It's the "balance" in flour that makes bread easier to digest and gives it many other qualities which are usually attributed to other causes.—Ogilvie's, Quebec, Can.

It is very strange "to say the least" how the people appreciate a good thing. If you want to know where you can find a good thing in the way of a bargain, just simply follow the crowd to the Plymouth Public Market next Saturday and see for yourself. On Wednesday of next week we shall have one of the greatest bargains in flour that Plymouth ever saw. For that day only we shall sell one of the nicest flours on the market for 69 cents per bag. Come early and get the whirlwind before it is too late.—Plymouth Public Market, Plymouth, Mass.

It isn't "knack" that makes the bread and rolls good, it's good flour, such as "Ceres" Flour. You can always count on turning out the lightest, sweetest, purest bread and rolls and the most delicious cake and pastry when you use "Ceres" flour. It is the real quality flour—the flour that is recognized as best by all competent judges. Try "Ceres" the next time you bake. Your grocer will supply you with "Ceres" flour. Refuse substitutes.—Wm. M. Galt & Co., Washington, D. C.

The house of quality. The Delmonico invites every housekeeper in Savannah—regardless of where she usually trades—to take advantage of its enormous line of delicacies. You are sure of quality when you buy here—there is no element of chance—but an unquestioned certainty. Many food products cannot be judged until they reach the table, hence it is desirable that you be certain of the quality of things making your feasts. That certainty is yours when your foods come from Savannah's pure food store. Our service is replete with all pleasure-giving features. Our prices are just as low as goods of the same quality can be sold. It's real economy to use pure foods—it's folly not to use them when they cost no more.—Delmonico Co., Savannah, Ga.

Royal Household flour. Your protection comes from us. We make it, know its goodness and guarantee it to both you and the grocer. It is always sold under our name and trademark, so you cannot go wrong. Ask your grocer for Royal Household flour. It's the key to better living.—Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Ltd., Montreal, Can.

The Levy Grocery Co. undersell all others. Just received new and complete line jellies, preserves, etc., in glass jars. Fresh comb honey, one pound squares. Best goods at bottom prices.—El Paso.

Our grocery sales are always on the increase; each month has been better than the last. If you are not already dealing with us you do not know how well we can please you in quality and satisfy you in quantity. We look after the buying end so well that when we send out orders we are sure we can please. Prompt delivery.—The Carrow Cash Market, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Germ and weevil proof graham flour, pancake flour, entire wheat flour, rye flour, self-raising pancake flour, white corn flour. Prepared by the celebrated Everett process. We do not hesitate to recommend these flours to make the most delicious bread and cakes and to be superior to all others, every package contains a little book of recipes. You get a profit dividend certificate with every purchase.—McKinney & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Every one's favorite. There's no flour that has such a strong hold in the homes of Washington as Olympic flour. Its splendid bread-making qualities have won for it this position of trust.—Portland Flouring Mills Co., Spokane, Wash.

GROCERIES—VEGETABLES

Canned vegetables.—The freshest of everything, carefully prepared to retain the flavor that nature gave it.—Mitchell, Fletcher & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

New vegetables, too. Plentiful and fine, if you buy right. We're extra particular about the vegetables we buy; some farmers think we're cranky, and some dealers do, too. Anyway, it's a crankiness which gives our customers better goods than they'd get if we weren't particular in our buying, so you'll probably not worry over that. These in now—new potatoes, cabbage, egg plants, tomatoes, lettuce, and whatever else makes its appearance in the market. Luscious strawberries, fine pineapples and rhubarb. All at lowest possible prices.—Philadelphia Grocery Co., Trenton.

Fresh vegetables are gone now. This is the season for canned goods. For the best try ours.—Tappan & Co., Atlanta.

Our canned peas are equal to those direct from the garden, and all you have to do to find that out to your own satisfaction is to try them. We will sell for a few days our highest grade canned goods at wholesale prices.—The Lothrop Co., Hartford, Conn.

"The pick of the garden." That is what you will likely say when you try some of our just unpacked fresh canned vegetables. We have just received a carload fresh from the factory. They are the nearest approach to the just-from-the-garden vegetables that art and skill can produce.—W. N. Burgess, Colorado Springs, Col.

Several thousand cases of high-grade vegetables, fruit, fish, etc., at a very great saving. The prices are even lower than those we quoted last year for the annual sale, and the emporium's absolute guarantee for purity and perfection of pack is behind every can. It is advisable to lay in a supply of canned goods for months to come, as it is highly improbable that these prices will be duplicated again this year.—The Emporium, San Francisco, Cal.

We've built a reputation by selling only fine, fresh fruits and vegetables. We maintain our reputation by scouring the country for the best products that are grown with which to fill our customers' orders.—Althouse Fruit Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Fresh vegetables daily from South Texas. The winter has been so warm they are extra fine. You had better eat a little green stuff, so you can shed off in the spring.—Tony Hill Jonz, Denison.

Fresh Roasting Ears are rare at this season, but we have them as fresh as when pulled from the stalk. You will like this corn much better than the ordinary canned corn, as it is on the cob and has all the flavor of freshness of sweet corn.—W. N. Burgess, Colorado Springs, Colo.

These are the best of the canned goods. Tomatoes. There are a great many brands of canned tomatoes—some good—some indescribably poor—some in well-filled cans—some very thin and watery. To get the best quality means careful market-searching. That's what we have done. We have secured a limited quantity of extra fancy, red, ripe tomatoes, put up as nearly whole as possible—some of them may be used for stuffed tomatoes—and every can well filled. We recommend these tomatoes to you at 15c. can, $1.65 a dozen. Buy your winter's supply of them, and you will not regret it.—W. W. Walker Co., Hartford, Conn.

For this special market day at Lehman's we've prepared some very special offerings. They ought to equal last week's in desirability, and last week's made a record for themselves. We did an enormous business, especially in vegetables. At our prices we had no competition, nor could we have any. Come on Tuesday and get more bargains. Keep in mind our suggestion that you send us word of the things you'd like us to make specialties of during our special market days. We shall only be too glad to do what our customers want; that's what we're here for, and we know no better way of finding out than by asking. We've already had quite a number of answers to our first suggestion; we shall be delighted to have others. Address suggestions to Lehman's talker.—L. Lehman & Co., Trenton, N. J.

People come to our store for fresh vegetables because we usually have a variety to select from. Spinach, mushrooms, egg plant, cucumbers, Boston lettuce, tomatoes, parsley, watercress, celery, also sweet potatoes.—D. L. Bradt's, Rome, N. Y.

GROCERIES—FRUITS

We think our strawberries are generally the best in the city. At least, our customers say so. This week we receive them fresh every day from the berry fields. Let us have your order, for we know our stock will more than please you.—John E. Angle, Mansfield.

Have you been disgusted? Have the strawberries been mussy, the oranges punky, the bananas snippy or the grapefruit footbally? Try ours once. They are the other kind. Notice to invalids—new hothouse grapes are here from England.—J. B. Judson, New Haven, Conn.

Poor Season.—Two college students were once traveling through the New York fruit region, just as pears were ripe. One evening they stopped at a farmhouse where there were luscious and inviting pears. At the supper table their host asked them, "Will you have pahr or apples?" One of the students was very precise, also polite. He would not say "pahr" and he could not hurt his host's feelings, so he took apples. The other one took "pahr." We don't care whether you call them pahr or pears—we've got a lot of fine ones for canning—New York Duchess pears, big and sweet and delicious. $1.25 a bushel gets them.—The Globe, Peoria, Ill.

Oranges. If these oranges had not been extra good, and if we had not been possessed of a big lot of them, we should not have made such a halloo about 'em. If you haven't secured any you want to move lively, or you'll not get the chance. They're going!—W. W. Walker Co., Hartford, Conn.

No one thinks of upholding Mother Eve in her action on the apple question, but if it was an Oregon Spitzenburg the temptation was certainly very great. This fruit is the perfection of apple production. It is packed in boxes like oranges and costs more than the best of the latter; is not sold by the bushel or quart. We have been out of them for a few days but will have them regularly now as we have a supply of them in cold storage.—J. B. Judson, New Haven.

The berry season is at its height, the berries in their prime and the price low. We are well stocked with the choicest.—Knaur, Denison, Texas.

Buying is the important thing in the fruit business, and our patrons have learned to depend upon us to supply them regularly with good fruit. Just depend upon it all the time, that you will find something nice to start the breakfast each day at this store.—J. B. Judson, New Haven, Conn.

Half the fruit you buy isn't good fruit. It is either over ripe or not ripe enough. All our fruit is in perfect condition and fit for immediate use. It has been gathered at the right moment and properly protected from contact with anything injurious. Being constantly fresh, it is of most delicious flavor.—The Star Grocery Co., Logan, Utah.

Dried apples, the old-fashioned sundried kind. They are good ones, too.—Cobb, Bates & Yerxa, Taunton, Mass.

Much of the pleasure of the Sunday dinner depends on the quality of the fruits and vegetables. Our assortment is always the largest and selections the best.—Fontaine & Anglin, Crookston.

Where fruit abounds! In Fredericton you will find this store the headquarters for all kinds of fruits. From the sunny South we are receiving shipments of fruit almost daily; the best of the season of every variety. We make it a point to handle the best of quality. That's the reason we have built up such a trade, not only in fruit but all our other lines. We are following the market closely and our prices are right at all times. When you want fruit remember this store.—E. G. Hoben, Fredericton, N. B.

How about peaches? Better put up some. All canned goods are quoted much higher than for years. All orders given us up to Thursday morning will be filled at 90 cents per bushel for the finest grade of Elbertas. If you want cheaper ones we have them. We do this 'cause we are selling peaches you're wanting at prices you're tickled to pay.—Tucker-Jonz, Denison, Tex.

Golden Gate canned fruits. This brand of California canned fruits is well known for its exceedingly high quality. The fruit that is put into the can is perfect fruit, and it is put up in a very heavy syrup, making a quality of canned fruit that is absolutely unapproachable. Let us show you the goods and give you our price by the dozen or case.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

HANDKERCHIEFS

Tough Youth—"Say, I want to buy some handkerchiefs for a young lady."
Clerk—"Plain?"

Tough Youth—"Naw, she ain't plain; an' I kin lick the man that says she is."—Philadelphia Record.

Handkerchiefs flutter. It's sale time—the usual summer event—and prices are down a half and a third.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

To-day the usual summer event in handkerchiefs—first listen to this incident: A New York importer offered us only a few days ago a big lot of handkerchiefs—several thousand dozen—at a "very special price—only to you; less than cost even"—he was overloaded and wanted to retrench. "Why, my dear man" we answered, "we are going to sell at retail in Philadelphia Monday handkerchiefs at much lower prices than you ask us to pay wholesale." How can we do it? By going direct to the manufacturers abroad, and establishing such relations with them as are mutually beneficial.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Handkerchiefs for Christmas.—If you want handkerchiefs for yourself or for gifts, here's the opportunity—both the saving and the delight are yours.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

There are so many pretty novelties in handkerchiefs that they are especially desirable for gift purposes. The handsome patterns and fine qualities appeal to every woman, and the ready-to-use handkerchiefs as sold in retail stores nowadays are nearly equal to those made by hand, and the utility is just as good. We do our own importing of handkerchiefs, and we are convinced that in no local store can you find the same grades of handkerchief unless they are priced from 10 to 25 per cent. higher. Let us suggest that you make your Christmas purchases now, for the lines are all complete, and you will not appreciate them so much when they have all been picked over.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

We have never had as many handkerchiefs in stock as we have at the present time; nor so pretty; nor so good values. Whether you desire the real lace trimmed beauties or the ordinary sort, we have them in infinite variety.—Wasserman, Kaufman & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Sale of Irish Linen Handkerchiefs.—A New York importer sent special representatives to Ireland to canvass among the peasantry for these handsome linen handkerchiefs. After supplying the trade, he had a large surplus left and preferred to take a loss to carrying them in stock. You get them for less than ordinary cost abroad.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

Women's handkerchiefs, Monday 9c. each, 3 for 25c. if you care to take them that way. These handkerchiefs are of sheer linen, laundered, ready for use. They were imported to sell specially for 18c. each. On Monday you can buy them for just half this price. Remember there are but 4,200 of them, and they will not last long at the price. We have divided them into two lots.—Joseph Horne, Pittsburg, Pa.

25c.-50c. Handkerchiefs, 12 1-2c.—You will hunt pretty hard to find the little hurts in the making of these dainty handkerchiefs—and yet they must be there or they would never have been sold to us for half or a quarter of their worth. All for women—Swiss and embroidered linen with hemstitched and scalloped edges. All were made for this season and there are many very pretty patterns.—Fredrick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A Clearance of Fine Linen Handkerchiefs at 12 1-2c. Each.—This is a most important announcement to every man or woman who can scrape up a reason for buying handkerchiefs. It concerns about two hundred and fifty dozen of men's and women's fine linen handkerchiefs, fresh from our reserve stock, in their original boxes, and meant to sell at 35c., 50c. and 75c. each. To-day at 12 1-2c. each.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

We have secured from an importer a line of ladies' handkerchiefs that he is dropping from his stock because he cannot duplicate them in foreign markets at prices which would allow him even a small profit. In this lot are 1,535 dozen ladies' extra sheer cambric handkerchiefs, all linen, fresh and clear laundered, finished with narrow hemstitched hem. The price for this sale will be 60 cents a dozen.—Keely Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Handkerchiefs at a Shilling.—There is a constant determination at our handkerchief department to outdo the best former accomplishments. Here are a few results of the most recent efforts.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Handkerchiefs, 5c. to 25c., regularly 10c. to 69c. Both for men and women. Our handkerchief selling last week caused quite a stir. Quantities were exceptionally large—so large, in fact, that we are able to again offer to-morrow a lot of these fine handkerchiefs at half and less than the regular prices.—Fredrick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Within the week we have received through our Paris branch a large shipment of the daintiest handkerchiefs it has ever been our good fortune to own. Beyond question, there is no similar collection shown in any other department store in America.—Macy's, New York.

Handkerchiefs bought here will satisfy because we know how to supply just what you want and at just the right prices.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sample handkerchief bargains. The semi-annual distribution of our agents' sample handkerchiefs begins with the stroke of eight o'clock this morning.—Sibley Lindsay & Ceur Co., Rochester.

We are now showing in our lace department many delicate little novelties in neckwear and handkerchiefs, made of real laces, all appropriate for holiday gifts. The assortment this season is enormous and the prices much more moderate, putting them within the reach of many who have hitherto been debarred so great a pleasure.—Ehrich Bros., New York.

You cannot buy your holiday handkerchiefs too early. You're going to buy them here—that is, if you carefully consider our high qualities at the low prices we ask, and really want the best values. So come early—come to-day. Our handkerchief department is four times as large as usual and is already crowded all the time. So it's no more than fair to you that we urge your making an immediate selection.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Another of those great offers of handkerchiefs at a price so low that you won't believe they are linen till you see them—but seeing is believing. The lot is made up of women's handkerchiefs in sheer and medium weight linen, with 1-4-inch hems, and men's full size, pure linen handkerchiefs.—The Fair, Chicago, Ill.

Fine Handkerchiefs for Little More than a Song.—Such dainty, exquisite and charming kinds of handkerchiefs were never before offered in Peoria for prices so paltry. All kinds are embraced, as silk, linen, lawn, mull, Swiss, etc. You will at least want a dozen at the closing-out prices.—Harner & Van Maur Peoria.

Underpriced Handkerchiefs.—One man said: "Give me a dollar's worth of those all linen at 10c. each; my wife says they'll be all right if they come from here." A woman telephoned: "Send me a dozen of the 14 cent ones; I've had them before and found them just as you said." And so we might multiply expressions of confidence and liberal buying that have made the handkerchief sale a great success.—Ruggles & Ellison, New Bedford, Mass.

Hurt handkerchiefs. Because they are mussed or have a dropped stitch—some insignificant hurt in every case—we can sell about 6,000 women's handkerchiefs to-morrow for 5c. to 25c.—worth 10c. to 75c.—Fredrick Loeser & Co., New York.

Nothing is cheap to the person who can't use it—but everyone can use handkerchiefs like these—and at these prices buying for the future needs is the wisest economy.—Fredrick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our handkerchiefs, whether the price be big or little, are always all linen—the only stock of this nature in the city. Another feature that we pride ourselves upon is the variety we show—we depend on this a great deal. Women like to carry something unlike what their friends have. Every kind of linen handkerchief, from the plainest to the richest—as low as 5 cents and as high as $20.00.—The Scott D. G. Co., Cleveland, O.

Our Christmas assortment of handkerchiefs is now ready, and in connection with this event, offer handkerchief buying opportunities that are bound to make this store, as heretofore, Christmas headquarters for fine handkerchiefs.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Nearly a million handkerchiefs are here; enough to complete the million will be in to-day or to-morrow. More handkerchiefs are sold for Christmas gifts than of any other one item. Just now, the selection is at its best, and shopping is easier. The handkerchief store has spread to neighboring sections and we're primed for good service.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Paris is sending us some novel and stylish handkerchiefs of fine linen in the natural color, with a band of black, white, pink, lavender or blue woven in them about half an inch above the hem. They are very pretty when worked with an initial to match the bands.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Slightly soiled handkerchiefs for half price and less. All from our regular stock. Handkerchiefs that were soiled by the handling they got in the great holiday business. There is a wide variety in the lot and there are many unusual values for both men and women.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Women's embroidered handkerchiefs. One of the best handkerchief sales we ever held—there are dozens and dozens beautifully embroidered by hand. Indeed, we get these handkerchiefs as a clearance from the importer who found he could not get any more to sell even for the regular prices. They are pure linen, all pretty patterns, many with scalloped edges and some combining dainty machine embroidery with the hand embroidery.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

An excellent assortment of women's handkerchiefs of fine sheer linen and cambric; many with dainty embroidered edges, others with fine Val. lace and insertion, also plain lawn with narrow hem or drawn borders; others with initial or medallions; some slightly soiled from display, on sale "as is."—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Linen handkerchiefs at half and less are going fast. Altogether there were eleven thousand handkerchiefs in the lot—"seconds" from one of the best handkerchief makers in Belfast. Not a single handkerchief in the lot worth less than 25 cents, and many worth as high as 50 cents each. But because of insignificant hurts such as a thick thread, because the maker could not sell them as "firsts," they come to us and are marked at the low record price.—F. Loeser Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Handkerchiefs. A necessity at this season especially. And as usual, just when you need an article the most, this always helpful store comes forward with some especially good numbers at remarkably little prices. A few odd initial handkerchiefs, all linen, for women, the regular 25 cent values; special 10 cents. Women's and children's handkerchiefs, the new plaids, just what are in demand the most.—Lippincott & Co., Wilmington, Del.

Handkerchiefs. Lots of them. Here you can get dainty handkerchiefs for 5 cents and on up to $5. And taking the materials and work into consideration, the $5 ones are as reasonably priced as those we sell for a few cents. You'll see lots of handkerchiefs here, ranging from 10 cents to 75 cents that will make you wonder how any one could put so much work on them even if the prices were twice as much. We have a way of getting the best as well as the prettiest handkerchiefs for a good deal less than the general run of stores, and as a consequence we give you more varieties, finer qualities and daintier designs than any other Marion store at equal prices.—Goldthwait & Sons Co., Marion, Ind.

Handkerchiefs in the basement. It is a very sizable store in basement which supplies the less expensive handkerchiefs. It has a big variety of qualities and kinds—handkerchiefs which almost everyone wants a few or many of at the Christmas season. Sure of splendid handkerchief values here always.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

Christmas handkerchiefs for little. Dainty lawn and cambric 'kerchiefs with fancy lace edges and corners, hem-stitched and embroidered edges, tucked edges and corners, etc. Really the gathering comprises most surprising value. Holiday buyers will choose by the dozens, that's a certainty. Never before has a nickel purchased such attractive handkerchiefs at Crews-Beggs. Be on hand promptly to-morrow morning. None laid aside or sold until hour of sale.—The Crews-Beggs Co., Pueblo.

By far the greatest and most attractive stock of handkerchiefs in Philadelphia is in this store. We are the largest distributors in this city, and only three other houses in America are in the same class with us. In our retail stock alone are more than three thousand different styles—and some of these styles we buy in lots of 20,000 dozens. About three-quarters of our handkerchiefs come from abroad—Ireland, France, Switzerland, Japan; the remainder are made in America.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Men's Irish linen handkerchiefs, 9c. If your name begins with D, N, K or T, here is an opportunity to get some genuine Irish linen handkerchiefs at a reduced price. We have quite a number of these handkerchiefs that have been mussed in handling and on which we have reduced the price. The initial is daintily embroidered, and as there are only four different initials, we are selling them three for 25c.—Lippincott & Co., Wilmington, Del.

Especially do we wish to direct your attention to the assortment of plain, all linen handkerchiefs for men and women. These handkerchiefs are of our own importation, were purchased before heavy advances in linen prices, and are consequently of extra value.—John Taylor Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Handkerchiefs are prime favorites as Christmas gifts. Wren's store is always headquarters for them. Our line was never larger, and we ask you to inspect it. For our holiday trade we have made the following special prices.—Wren's, Springfield, Ohio.

Third day of the special handkerchief display. Could a vote be taken on which is the most popular Christmas gift, it's more than likely that the winning vote would be for handkerchiefs. And this store has all the pretty kinds which make the gift popular—fine linens, dainty lawns, lace-trimmed gems. Assortments couldn't be better, and prices, considering quality, are the lowest.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Who said handkerchiefs made good gifts? You'll say they'll make the most delightful of gifts before you see a hundredth part of this extraordinary collection. Some are almost as filmy as a spider's web—others are edged with fairylike lace. Handkerchiefs of silk and handkerchiefs that are woven of the snowiest and firmest of linens. They'll not let you pass them by.—The Stone, Fisher Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Handkerchiefs and neckwear. A whole host of gift suggestions in this department, and never we think has the stock approached its present completeness. Dainty, effective scarfs, exquisite collars, beautiful handkerchiefs and all priced so moderately that selecting is a real pleasure.—Thomas C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Embroidered handkerchiefs. A really excellent line of embroidered handkerchiefs, made of an extra fine quality of Swiss lawn, with scalloped or hemstitched border. The quality of the embroidery is high class and the variety of designs is very large. Price only, each, 25c.—The Palace Dept. Store, Spokane, Wash.

Dainty Swiss handkerchiefs underpriced one-quarter. A special price concession accorded our buyer by one of the large St. Gall, Switzerland, manufacturers lays these handsome, daintily embroidered Swiss handkerchiefs on our counters at about 25 per cent. below their usual cost. This is by way of an opening wedge to gain our trade favor, it being a first order given to this concern.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

A clearance sale of handkerchiefs. All former handkerchief selling records have been broken—more rumpled and soiled handkerchiefs than ever before are here to be quickly distributed—thousands that have been used in decorating, thousands of salesmen's samples recently returned from "the road." Soiled handkerchiefs reduced one-third to one-half, sample handkerchiefs less than wholesale prices.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Lawn and Swiss embroidered handkerchiefs, 12 1-2c. We don't mind telling that there'll be handkerchiefs selling on our own counters before long, same as these, for 18c. and 35c.—these are the travelers' samples they were ordered from, which we secured, and at very interesting price-concessions. — The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

When we use handkerchiefs for window and store trims we expect to sell them at a sacrifice, and as these handkerchiefs have served their purpose we're satisfied to let them go for just what they'll bring in a quick sale. You've seen the handkerchiefs—you know what they are, so we do not need to tell you more about them.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

An important collection, but of pure linen only and made expressly for us. This rare and beautiful assortment of hand embroidered handkerchiefs has taken months of time and travel to collect. Every handkerchief want has been thought of, and every purse considered. Whether you need the plain and serviceable kind or the finest sheerest hand-embroidered that money can buy, you will be interested in this offering.—Wm. S. Kinsey & Co., New York, N. Y.

Women's hand-embroidered initial handkerchiefs, all pure linen, unlaundered, embroidered in pretty bowknot and fleur de lis designs. This is the first shipment of our direct importation, and the goods are very fine and sheer and dainty.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

Colored Dress Linens.—Our handkerchief factory in Belfast, Ireland, serves a double purpose—gives us matchless values in 'kerchiefs and turns our way at most opportune times other linen fabrics.—Macy's, New York.

HARDWARE

Topsy turvy sale of tinware. Our house furnishing goods buyer has just received a solid carload of high grade tinware; there's almost every wantable kitchen utensil represented in the lot; these goods were purchased far below the market price and go on sale at figures that seem almost ridiculous; you can judge all our prices on tinware by the following.—Zenith, Duluth, Minn.

A can-opener is a little thing among the household furnishings, but a poor one makes trouble and cuts fingers at a time when the housekeeper is particularly anxious for everything to go smoothly. The Tip-top can opener is for either round or square cans, is the finest of steel and every one is guaranteed. The Star is for round cans and is adjustable for all sizes of cans. The Handy is for all kinds of cans and does the work with the greatest ease.—Zenith, Duluth.

Mop handles. Strong and durable. The kind you can fit a scrub brush in and use as easily as you do the mop. Scrubbing done with a mop handle lessens the strain on both back and knees.—Zenith, Duluth, Minn.

Dirty knives are cleansed in a quick, easy manner by Brown's knife cleaner, stains are removed and a beautiful polish given to the blades—a polish without scratches or marks—neither is the cleaner or knives worn in the cleaning. Brown's cleaner has the usual two rubber rollers, with this difference—it is fitted with a shoulder guard that prevents shoulder of knives wearing rollers hollow, and an emery trough that supplies top roller with powder. You will acknowledge its superiority over others, now you see the difference—price temptingly low.—Zenith, Duluth, Minn.

The only reliable rain-maker is a good garden hose with spray nozzle, that will carry a good stream of water to any distance around your lawn or garden, and keep it always fresh and green. We have the best line of hose, reels, lawn mowers and garden tools and implements generally.—Avery & Co., Portland, Ore.

Nothing but fun keeping the grass down when the great American lawn mower is used. Admitted by experienced mechanics who have examined them to be genuine and scientifically constructed, ball bearing mowers. Besides the ease in running and clean, velvet cut, the knives are so arranged that they sharpen themselves in running. It's a pleasure to show these mowers, and the price is right.—B. G. Carpenter & Co., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

There is real satisfaction in having good tools, and when good tools can be bought at the very low prices at which we sell them, it is folly to go elsewhere and pay higher prices. We stand behind our tools with an iron-clad guarantee and protect you against any loss from poor ones.—Zettler Hardware Co., Columbus, Ohio.

The separator question is one of particularly live interest to the progressive farmer. We have demonstrated to others and will demonstrate to you the efficiency and superiority of the Sharples. Drop us a card. The machine will be loaned free of cost for the purpose of a trial, and there will be no obligation whatever to buy or keep it, if it is not satisfactory in every particular, or fails to prove its superiority in every essential detail over any competing machine. All we ask is a guarantee for its prompt return in case it is not as represented.—D. M. Barlass, Janesville, Wis.

Tools will break sometimes in spite of you, no matter how much of a hurry you are in to get a certain piece of work done. It always happens that way. Nothing like knowing just where to buy new ones quick, at a low price, too. Our stock is very complete.—Roe & Conover, Newark, N. J.

Building operations in Peoria are more active this year than ever known before. All kinds of building material and tools are therefore in strong demand. It is always best to buy the best that can be secured, and this store always keeps that kind, both tools and material. If there is anything in those lines you are looking for, come here and we are sure we can satisfy you—every particular. No trouble to show the goods.—Charles Johnson Hardware Co., Peoria, Ill.

More expansion. Our expanding business requires more and better facilities for rapidly handling our large stock of hardware.—W. B. Miller & Son, Springfield, Ill.

"Do All Mop."—Try it, and you will find it a home necessity—with it floors are washed quicker—with less trouble—easier than is possible in the old way—

"Do All" comprises a stout galvanized bucket with patent funnel wringer and a mop.—Alfred Edmondson, Morecambe.

The harvest sale advances with the measured music of hammers and saws.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

"Farming on business principles means the saving of the whole crop by the use of durable, up-to-date implements."—Johnson & McClay, Bondurant, Iowa.

Does your mower tear or cut? There's a difference in lawn mowers—after the first few weeks. Some rip and tear the grass, others cut it off sharp and clean, so that it will grow evenly. Townsends Essex and Spider lawn mowers cut the grass, but don't tear it; the blades are self-sharpening, and these mowers run very easily and noiselessly. If you'll call, we'll tell you all about the different lawn mowers we carry in stock. We can surely please you—and satisfy your pocketbook.—Babcock, Hinds & Underwood, Binghamton, N. Y.

Flooded is our store with all the useful products which are so needful at this time of the year, both inside and outside of your home. Why not let us sell them to you? Our lines are the largest and best in the city and prices the lowest.—H. Sandmeyer & Co., Peoria, Ill.

Grass grows almost over night now. Keeping the lawn velvety and beautiful is more play than work if you have the right kind of lawn mower. We can supply you with a lawn mower that will run easily and lightly, will keep your lawn like a carpet, will last you longer and give you better service, and will cost you less than any lawn mower of equal grade in Brooklyn. "The Brooklyn," a new, strictly up-to-date machine, made by a factory that has the reputation of producing the best mowers on the market. They are easy running, self sharpening and equal to most makes that cost about double.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Carpenters' Tools.—For an important branch of hardware. We can supply any number of full kits of the best tools manufactured on this side of the Atlantic. Many tools are necessary articles in every family, as occasions to use them are of almost daily occurrence. The superior quality of our tools is universally recognized. Carpenters and joiners are unanimous in praising them. All our hardware is spoken of in a similar strain.

We make a point of carrying nothing but the best goods in every line, and we're standing on our metal.—Avery & Co., Portland, Ore.

For fine, substantial, well finished hardware of any description, we are sure our stock will stand your inspection. We carry the largest stock on P. E. I., and our assortment is the greatest. The reason we do the largest business is that we quote lower prices than our competitors. Our goods are all paid for.—Dodd & Rogers, Charlottetown.

One man we know is so tickled with the Holdfast screw driver that he keeps one on his desk and shows it to all his friends. We are showing in the basement just why it tickles him.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

You don't buy hardware with the same frequency that you buy groceries, and if you buy the wrong kind you have bought a trouble that lasts a long time.

The essential thing about buying hardware then is to know that it is good. That brings you here, for the least skillful buyer can come here and be sure that what is bought is good because—we make it good.—Babcock, Hinds & Underwood, Binghamton, N. Y.

Lawn mowers, Pennsylvania's "keen cutters." Now is your time to make your lawn look neat and tidy. Lawn mowers from $2.50 up.—Hunter & Strehlow, Peoria, Ill.

Comprehensive Stock.—Nowhere in Burlington can you get anything in the hardware line cheaper or better than we can supply you. All our goods are the work of the leading manufacturers, and the prices have subjected to a test of comparison which shows that our claims in the foregoing are fully warranted.—MacMillan's Hardware, Burlington, Ia.

Garden Tools.—What are your needs this spring? It is well to be equipped with the best and handiest garden tools; makes work a recreation. We want you to see our assortment of these goods. Everything you will require and the most complete and up-to-date stock to choose from. Don't forget that we are headquarters.—McLennan, McFeely & Co., Ltd., Vancouver, B. C.

Many a boy would rather have a few carpenters' tools for Christmas than anything else that you could buy.—Phillips Cooke Hardware Company, Pueblo, Col.

Your lawn needs attention. You can spare yourself a lot of hard work if you have the right kind of mower.—Ingraham & Davey, St. Thomas, Ont.

Door and Window Screens.—The fly is now having his inning. Are your screens up? Better get them at the House Furnishing Store at once while there's an assortment of all sizes.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

An extra good quality of sprinkling hose. Nothing is more refreshing these hot days than to give the front yard, porch or pavement a good wetting late in the afternoon. It makes the grass, plants and flowers live and thrive, and cools the atmosphere all around.—Gray & Dudley Hardware Co., Nashville.

Feather Dusters.—Do you know that we keep them? Well, we do, and if you have never had one, after once having one, you will wonder how you got along without. So helpful in dusting pictures, brackets, bric-a-brac, and things out of ordinary reach, so much easier than climbing up.—Oliver Finnie Co., Little Rock, Ark.

Keep the Lawn Green.—A good sprinkling and good hose and rather frequent going over with a lawn mower is the best prescription we know for a smooth, even, perfectly kept lawn.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

The grass is growing rapidly—and about the first thing it needs to make it thrifty is a mowing. While the blades are tender is when the mower is most needed. What we are getting at is to tell you about the mower that we show and the other grass tools. Mowers from 12 inches to 18 inches. This is the size of the cutters in width. Our mowers must give satisfaction or they are returnable. Pruning shears, 15c. These are splendid little articles for keeping shrubberies and rose bushes in shape. Grass shears for trimming about fences and walks, 19c., and one easily worth a "dime" more for 25c.—Kay W. Kay, York, Pa.

Things for House and Lawn.—All the necessary implements for making little or big gardens and lawns grow well will be found in our big basement—and also everything that conduces to comfort in the summer home—all moderately priced.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Don't swallow any more typhoid germs while the highest-grade water filters in the land can be had for $3.50. Don't kick any more about poor lights while double wire support gas mantles can be had for 15c.—"The" Racket Store, Denison, Tex.

Women work hard enough anyhow. It's right to save them all we possibly can. Very few men would wash by hand week after week if a good washing machine could be had that would do it without extra exertion. Some of the hardest work on the farm is stooping over a wash board, and the women nearly always do it. We have good machines of different styles, every one of which are guaranteed to do the work well or your money refunded.—Hardwicke-Etter Hardware Co., Sherman, Tex.

Is the lawn mower getting dull? Hate to put out a dollar or two to have it sharpened again—don't blame you. Why not sharpen it yourself? 25 cents buys a practical sharpener—one that will last a whole season or more. A simple tool, but strong and durable. Has four cutting sides. Cannot get out of order. Any one can use it. Ask to see it.—The Tracy Robinson & Williams Co., Hartford, Conn.

When you buy a lawn mower buy one that will last a lifetime; that will keep in order with decent care; that has a tempered cutter bar blade and is therefore a self-sharpening machine; that has a rigid frame that will never get "limber," a strong double cutter bar that will not bend, a double ball ratchet that will neither get out of order nor wear out in a lifetime. The Elwood "Standard Lawn Mower" is the one we are talking about.—Bement's Retail Store, Lansing, Mich.

The application of ball-bearings to door hinges has proven an unqualified success. The Stanley ball-bearing butts have the balls so attached that they cannot fall out when the butts are separated, as is the case with other butts. They give unlimited resistance to wear, and absolutely prevent the door sagging or hanging out of plumb as is the case with ordinary hinges. They are noiseless in operation require no oiling and are as superior to ordinary butts in wearing and easy running qualities as the ball-bearing bicycle is to the old style axle.—The Stanley Works, New Britain.

Lawn mowers. It's high time the mower was brought into service and the lawn trimmed up and made presentable. If you are to own a new mower, the house furnishing store would have a word with you.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Garden Tools. Buy the kind we sell and you'll not regret it. We have made a most careful selection and are sure we can give you the best satisfaction in price and service. We handle all kinds.—Chas. Johnson, Peoria, Ill.

Gentle spring has come. She is here, bag and baggage, in which is a fine assortment of garden tools, which we are selling at lowest prices.—Rising & Thorne, Newark, N. J.

If you want a refrigerator, a lawn mower, a gas range or hot plate, a kerosene and gasoline stove, go where the largest stocks are carried, where you will have the greatest variety to select from, and where you will get best prices.—McManamy & Rodman, Binghamton.

Before long you will be cutting grass and you will want to do it as easily as possible. The best way is to use one of the Phoenix ball bearing lawn mowers. They reduce the work to a minimum. Built of the best steel and iron, with steel ball bearings, high multiple gear and perfect adjustment; they run easily and noiselessly. There's no work about using one. If you want cheaper ones we have those also; well made and durable. They will give good service.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

Shovels, rakes, forks, hoes, spades. You must raise the earth before you can raise a crop of anything, and here's the tools to do the raising. Big stock, low prices.—Ingram & Davey, St. Thomas.

If there's hose to buy, or garden tools, or a bicycle, or any of the "spring tonics" that can be found in a first-class modern hardware store, come and give us a call.—The Morrell Hardware Co., Pueblo, Colo.

The most successful lawn mower on the market is the one that will do the best work, run the lightest, adapt itself to the greatest variety of grass and cutting, and the one which is most durable. We claim that the Caldwell Mower embodies all the above to a greater degree than any other mower on the market. We guarantee the "Cadet" to be the best lawn mower on the market for the price. Although it is not as cheap as some machines which are called lawn mowers, we warrant it to do better work and last longer. It has brass brushings, and the same ratchet and adjustment that are used on all high grade mowers now made. The gears are fine cut, thus assuring a quiet running mower. It is not made for competition, but to cut grass, and we guarantee it to do this work and to give full satisfaction to the purchaser.—McManamy & Rodman, Binghamton.

A well kept lawn gives the home a neat and thrifty appearance, and the timely use of the lawn mower has all to do with the neat appearance of the lawn. There is no excuse for having the grass grow to an unsightly height when you can buy the Downing Lawn Mower for $2.50.—Callahan & Douglas, Binghamton, N. Y.

Russians Lost Another Shipovitch They Needed.—Don't you lose a dollarovitch you need. Buy all your hardwareovostok that is up to high standard of quality and down at the bottom in price. May be you need some Hose-ayama for sprinkling your gardenovitch and lawnasaki. Our J. M. K. & Co. brand will outwear any other sold at 15c a foot. Common hose-ayama, 10c and 12 1-2c.—J. M. Killin & Co., Pueblo.

Going to Make Things Look Slick Around the House This Spring?—If so, don't borrow tools from your neighbor. Our prices on garden tools, hoes, spades, lawn rakes, turf cutters, pruning shears, sprinkling hose, reels and lawn mowers admit of your owning a complete equipment of your own. Come here and select them to-day.—Cohwell Hardware Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

There is no greater blessing than good water. It is a source of health and vigor; bad water is a prolific source of disease. We have the absolute essentials of goodness in all of our filters.—The Rookery, Jackson, Miss.

"Auto-spray." A self-operating or automatic sprayer. Galvanized steel and solid brass or copper used with 4-ply rubber hose—nothing to rust or corrode. Eight to ten strokes of plunger in air chamber will compress enough air to make a continuous spray for ten minutes. This means that the sprayer can be charged in fifteen seconds, when it will work uninterruptedly long enough to spray a quarter-acre of potatoes. For spraying tall trees, we furnish brass extension piping in 24-inch lengths, each fitted with coupling.—Caldwell & Jones, Hartford, Conn.

Yes, sir; we have watering cans. All kinds, all sizes, all prices. We have them of tin and galvanized iron. Small sizes for children, large ones for the gardener. Remember! Every can we offer you is made for service—not a toy.—The Tracy, Robinson & Williams Co.

Natural Stone Filters.—You have read, haven't you, what Health Physician Green and Dr. Bissell say about our city water, and about the need of filtration. A municipal filtration plant such as they suggest is all right, but the safe way is to have your own filter. If you don't care to invest much money in one, the kind to buy is one of our Natural Stone Filters. You are absolutely safe as for drinking water if you use one.—Wallbridge's, Buffalo, N. Y.

A perfect mop wringer. Operate it with your foot, don't have to soil the hands. A boon to housekeepers. Not only a great convenience, but 'twill pay for itself in a very short time.—Woodruff's, Knoxville, Tenn.

A model bathroom is a most essential feature of the model house, as it is a necessary comfort to any home. We carry a full line of bathroom supplies, such as shower baths, towel racks, soap holders, etc., at the lowest possible price. When building get our estimate on plumbing.—Jas. W. Hellman, Los Angeles, Cal.

Monday's economy budget in household hardware. It's becoming second nature for housekeepers to watch Saturday's papers for Monday's offerings in the household hardware on the third floor. Almost sure to be something needed, as well as a saving consideration to make shopping worth while.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Lawn mowers direct from an independent factory. Hence the prices must be right. Many sizes and styles to select from. Handsomely finished in different colors. Sizes of cuts 12-inch to 19-inch. Grass catchers, lawn rakes, garden hose, rakes, spades and all the latest tools for the garden and lawn. All our mowers have four and five blades, which is a big advantage over a three and four blade mower. We have handled the same line of mowers for several years and they have proven to be the best mowers we ever handled.—Geo. M. Cooley Co., San Bernardino, Cal.

Savory roasters. To roast the turkey in one of these roasters means a turkey that is tender and juicy and browned to perfection. They keep all the steam condensed and constantly dripping on the meat—don't get dry and scorch, neither do they need much attention. We have them in two different sizes at $1.25 and $1.90.—L. L. Stearns & Sons, Williamsport, Pa.

In building, the importance of buying good hardware is many times overlooked. The locks, hinges, sash locks, door hinges, etc., are a very small part of a building, but will repay many times for the cost and trouble of proper selection. Cheap goods are a continual source of trouble and worry. We are prepared to furnish good building hardware at prices you will find entirely satisfactory, and will be glad to furnish estimates at cost, etc.—W. B. Miller & Son, Springfield, Ill.

A long-felt desire satisfied. For this year's trade we have succeeded in buying direct from independent factories a carload of refrigerators and a carload of Dain mowers and Dain rakes and stackers, also lawn mowers. This means a straight saving to the consumer of 15 to 25 per cent., because we are not tied hands and feet by the trusts. The goods will all be on our floor in time for the season, and it will pay to see them before buying.—Pioneer Hardware Folks, San Bernardino, Cal.

Royal gifts in royal copper. Our new shipment of Royal copper thoroughly lives up to its name,—for they are Royal gifts indeed. No matter what may be the tastes of your friends, or their desires or needs along elegant lines, you are sure to find something here to surprise and delight them. Come early and make your selection before the choicest pieces are sold. They represent the best work of the Wuerttemberg Plate Co., manufactured under the direct supervision of the German government. We are their Atlanta agents, and offer you their choicest products.—Elkin-Watson Drug Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Serviceable, easy running lawn mowers. Rather no lawn mower at all than one that works poorly, and is forever out of order. The Loeser stock of lawn mowers is comprised of four standard makes, namely, the "Brooklyn," the "New England," the "Easy Run" and the "Loeser." They are high grade in every respect and at their prices are the best lawn mowers obtainable. They are easily operated, run smoothly and cut evenly. We recommend them to everyone.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

"Philadelphia" lawn mowers are easy to operate. They are perfection in lawn mowers. If you have been having trouble with a poor mower, you will appreciate the "Phil." We have all sizes. Prices from $2.75 up, according to size. We will be pleased to show them to you. F. S. Katzenbach & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Your cooking made easy by using the Glenwood range. The Glenwood is the most economical on the fuel, perfect baker and cooker; in fact, has all the improvements to be found in a first-class range. It will pay you to see our line of over twenty different styles.—James W. Hellman, Los Angeles, Cal.

Aluminum cooking utensils are light in weight, bright as silver, and absolutely pure and wholesome. They have no enamel or plating to wear off, the finish is the natural finish of the metal. They retain heat longer than any other vessels and are absolutely the best.—G. W. Barnett Hardware Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Builder's hardware in our west window. On February 4th we will place the names on the different designs and in this space give a short history and description of them. Read the description and then inspect the goods, for we are sure that you will be interested, and should you ever want to build a home it will assist you very much in selecting the hardware. We will be pleased to answer any questions you want to ask.—Hall-Leeper Hardware Co., Denison.

We have determined to make a radical reduction in our stock of stoves and heaters, and have cut all prices so deeply that they are bound to move quickly. Our assortment is very large, and includes all sizes and styles for coal, oil and gas. Only good qualities are represented, and even at the reduced prices we shall be glad to arrange easy terms of credit to suit your income.—Peter Grogan, Washington, D. C.

It is largely the purpose of showing how easy it is to make bread with a Universal bread maker, and how much time it saves, that we are going to have a good bread contest on March 27th-28th, at which time we will give away $25.00 cash in nine prizes. Any woman may enter her bread in this contest, the only requirement being that bread so entered shall be made with a Universal bread maker. So if you haven't a Universal already, we advise you to get one now, and make an effort for a prize. Even the most inexperienced girl can make good bread with a Universal. And we sell them on approval—freely returning your money if you are not satisfied in every way. Cost, according to size.—Barrett Hardware Co., Joliet, Ill.

Keen as a razor. All the time. It isn't necessary to send the New Department mowers to a repair shop to have them sharpened. While in use they are positively self-sharpening by keeping the cutting edges in close contact. We guarantee these mowers the lightest running and most durable made. Have you seen the easy-tempting grass catcher? It's the handiest mower attachment made. See us for garden hose and lawn sprinklers.—Bush & Handwerk, Joliet.

Take pride in your lawn. Keep the grass closely cropped. A lawn that is neat and clean improves the appearance of the whole house and neighborhood. Now show your civic pride by using a "Keen Kutter" ball-bearing lawn mower which is the easiest to run. Made of the best materials, its blades retain their edge longer than the ordinary kind. Let us show you one to-day.—Dollarhide & Harris, Denison, Tex.

The hardware is but a small item in the whole cost of a building, even if the difference in cost between good locks and poor ones is so little that you would not consider it a saving to use the poor kind if the matter were brought to your attention. This is where we come in. We carry by far the largest stock of locks and builders' hardware in this section and are prepared to name interesting prices for the hardware complete for any style building, from the humble cottage to the largest office building.—G. W. Barnett Hardware Co., Montgomery, Ala.

We have just unloaded a large carload of above goods bought before the advance. Will sell same at special prices. Wholesale and retail.—R. Chestnut & Sons, Frederickton, N. B.

The chafing-dishless household doesn't know the pleasures it has missed until the first chafing-dish comes along. So, perhaps, a chafing-dish may prove to be the very best gift-thing for somebody you know. The sorts we have to offer are quite different from the average—entirely better. The metal is of the best; the nickered finish is put on to stay; the lamps are improved. We sell these dishes with a guarantee of absolute satisfaction.—Herz, Terre Haute, Ind.

What better gift for any woman than a chafing-dish or five o'clock tea stand? Either is sure of appreciation. Chafing-dishes and five o'clock tea stands, in brass and nickel. The chafing-dishes have new self-regulating and extinguishing asbestos lamps for alcohol or "kaholio," and range in price from $3.25 to $7.95.—The Fair, Ft. Worth, Tex.

Why use the clumsy wood stove in the cottage or summer kitchen. We have a complete line of gasoline stoves priced below value. They cook and bake perfectly and do not heat up the room, the expense of operation is less than with any other fuel.—Winegar's, Grand Rapids.

About one-third your coal bill is estimated as waste unless you sift your ashes.

This is no longer a dirty task. "The Hustler" you simply pour your ashes in at one end, turn the crank and the good coal drops into the pail hung on the other side.

The Hustler costs more than the common sifters, but being so well made it will give full value and last for years.

Figure about a third of your coal bills wasted unless you appreciate the value of a Hustler.—Babcock, Hinds, Underwood, Binghamton, N. Y.

HARDWARE—CUTLERY

Two weeks ago we thought we were holding the greatest cutlery sale that we would ever hold, when we bought and placed on sale over 20,000 pairs of shears. Now to-day, we add to the shears over 1,500 pocket knives; over 3,500 razors; over 1,000 pairs of scissors, all sizes, from small manicuring scissors up to six inches, and hundreds of razor strops and hones. Every piece of cutlery in this sale is perfect, and the best quality that can be made. We've told you how we got the 20,500 pairs of shears. This is how we got the balance of the cutlery that goes in this sale to-day. A jobber of cutlery quit the jobbing business and went into manufacturing only shears. The pocket knives, the razors, the small scissors, the razor strops and hones, comprise the jobbing stock he had when he quit the jobbing business. Not one piece of the entire lot saw the light of day since being put in their original packages, until opened for this sale last night.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

These carvers are found to be very acceptable as individual or breakfast carvers. They are made of a very fine grade of steel, with a 5-inch blade, nicely finished ebony handle and silver ferrules.—Callahan & Douglas, Binghamton.

Twenty-five cents for good scissors is not much when you get a pair that will cut well and last much longer than you would expect. Until we tried them we bought only in small lots, as we thought them too nice looking to be good, but they have proven so satisfactory, such good cutters, we call your attention to them, knowing that they will give you good service.—Eyrich & Co., Jackson.

A complete line of all kinds of scissors. This is the season of sewing with the thrifty housewife.—Seitz's, Ottawa.

We'd like to put an edge on for you—a keen, cutting edge on whatever cutlery you possess that needs sharpening. Our grinder is an expert; our machines are of the most modern and approved type; our work is of the kind that makes people say: "There, that's something like it!" Hadn't we better call for that dull lawn mower of yours?—Palmer Shoe Repairing Co., Bangor, Me.

No end to the assortment our cutlery department offers you. Everything that has an edge can be found here in all sizes and shapes and at prices suited to any man's pocketbook.—Strong, Bush & Handwerk, Joliet, Ill.

Yankee safety razors are famous for their easy, luxurious shaving qualities, and are so simple that any man, no matter how inexperienced, can shave himself with perfect safety. Made of highly tempered steel, hollow ground. Every one fully guaranteed; all ready for a quick, clean shave.—Bloomington's, New York, N. Y.

CUTLERY RIGHTNESS.—No better table cutlery for company house use than ours with ivoride handles—which are so fixed to best hand-forged steel blades that cannot come off—has smart appearance—keeps a good cutting edge, and costs little.—Alfred Edmondson, Morecambe.

For the Man Who Shaves.—If a man is critical about anything, it's his razor. The most exacting will find our line of razors exceptionally complete in variety and faultless in quality—razors with years of service in them, reliable in every way.—J. Wiss & Sons, New York.

KNIFE FANCIES.—It may be possible that Santa Claus didn't bring you a knife, and maybe you are just as glad. Most men like to pick their own knives, and no two pick alike.—No handle but a pearl one for some—nothing but buckhorn for another—some want a whole tool chest—some want two blades—some like big blades—some little—and so it goes. We know how knife tastes differ, and that's why we offer such a wide assortment.—The Barrett Hardware Co., Joliet, Ill.

The big cutlery sale continues. Ever since we announced the big cutlery sale which is now in progress at the big store, this department has been crowded with throngs of eager buyers. Have you seen what we're offering? If not, better do so to-day. The sale consists of a lot of drummers' samples—scissors, shears and pocket knives. We secured them at a very low price, therefore will offer them to you in the same manner.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Scissors Under Half.—Without any question these two sizes of scissors which are ready for Friday's selling are the best value we ever had at the prices.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

HARDWARE—FREEZERS

The Peerless ice cream freezers are noted for the rapidity with which they produce well frozen cream. Three and one-half minutes is the standard time allowed for making cream in this freezer—a short enough period surely. One of the greatest satisfactions of the home cream, however, is its purity and cleanliness as well as the very smooth effect that is so delightful. The Peerless freezer has proven its right to the claim of the maker that it will produce more smoothly frozen cream in quicker time than any other freezer known.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Do You Eat Ice Cream? Why Not Make It Yourself? It's as Easy as Making Lemonade.—Of course you are thinking of the old dasher and the eternal grind when you say the cream is not worth the work involved. But when you say this you show that you do not know the Twentieth Century freezer which does all the work while you can sit by and read a novel or think how you will serve it to your guests. And the quality of the cream lies entirely with you. If you will just step in some day and see the demonstration of this wonderful machine in the basement you will realize that this Freezer is an exception to the general rule in all things—it does not require hard work to secure the best results.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Of course, you couldn't use a great quantity of ice in three minutes—so that's one feature. The mechanism of the "Peerless" assures light work—and that's a good hot-day argument. And home-made ice-cream is always made as good and pure as home folks know how—that's final.—Macy's, New York.

On a Sunday afternoon or during the evening what is more enjoyable than to make ice cream? You will say that is all right, provided it don't take too long to freeze the cream. Our line of freezers are of all sizes and with any of them you can freeze ice cream in five minutes.—Geo. M. Cooley Co., San Bernardino.

Will you be up-to-date? 19th Century methods to-day have not one chance in a hundred. We make Ice Cream that is up-to-date. One order and you will be on our list for all time.—F. E. Kruse, Binghamton, N. Y.

Cool off. When this quivering July air is ablaze with sizzling heat and your parched and blistered tongue cleaves to the roof of your mouth, powerless to rebuke the idiot who wants to know if it is "hot enough for you," isn't the sensation of some cool, refreshing, delicious liquid trickling slowly down your dusty, thirsty throat just about the most delightful thing imaginable? You're right it is, and the sooner you invest a little money in one of our fine water coolers or quick ice cream freezers, the sooner you will be enjoying a good many cooling and refreshing spells this hot weather. Our freezers make cream while others are getting ready.—Babcock, Hinds & Underwood, Binghamton, N. Y.

Ice Cream for Desert.—Of course, it will be the best part of dinner for months to come. No need to get heated up at it, either. The XXth Century Freezer requires no grinding; and it makes the best and smoothest cream that can be made. And for all kinds of delicious fruit ices and frozen puddings, no other freezer can approach it at all. It freezes them without mussing them up a bit—and that's the way they look so fascinating. When you see frozen delicacies served, that you don't see how the hostess had made, just take it for granted that she has a XXth Century Freezer and that you can have the same fine deserts when you get one, too.—Wanamaker's, New York.

For her summer dainties ice cream, ices, sherbets, frozen custards, etc., we stand ready to supply freezers of standard manufacture and in several sizes—capacity of from one quart up to gallons. If you're short on the freezer line it will pay you to see our complete and satisfactory stock.—Avery & Co., Portland, Ore.

From baby up all like ice cream. It's a treat to most people—a Sunday dish. Have it every day in the week if you like, and twice on Sundays if you use a Peerless Iceland Freezer. (One motion.) It is easy to keep clean. Cream can make no lodgment on dasher. Scrapers are not attached to arms by iron clamps which allow cream to soak in between wood and iron and become putrid and sour. Dasher is thoroughly cleaned simply by scalding.—Richardson & Grant, Ogden, Utah.

HARDWARE

KITCHEN UTENSILS

Opening of the Food Chopper Season.—We don't know why we sell more food choppers at this time of the year than any other, but we do. There is no time during the entire year that a Gem chopper in the kitchen is not seasonable. Takes the place of the old-fashioned chopping bowl and knife, does better work, without any noise. Big display of food choppers in our north window and you are invited to come in and see how the Gem chops fruits, vegetables and most anything except wood. May we have the pleasure of seeing you?—Barrett Hardware Co., Joliet, Ill.

A food chopper that cuts meats, suets and vegetables without grinding or tearing them has a place in every kitchen—especially when that machine is not likely to wear out and is easily cleaned. We offer you such a machine—it clamps to table or dresser, is coated with pure tin, right for helping with Xmas preparations and also for using up cold meats. The price is scarcely worth consideration, it's so little—5s. 9d.—Alfred Edmondson's, Morecambe, Eng.

Mudge Canning Process.—The best method of putting up fruit—try it on cherries. No cooking, no chemicals, no addition to the fruit except sugar and water; the air is driven out, the fruit sterilized. When opened the color flavor and shape of the fruit are as nature made them.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

Doubtless you think you are getting the best enameled ware at bargain when, in reality, you are paying high prices for seconds. Compare our line with the cheap class.—Anderson Hardware Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Meat Protectors.—Flies are very pesky things during the next two months—unless your eatables are placed beyond their reach—much food will be spoiled—our meat safes are capital conveniences in which to store provisions—perforated ends and front allow a free air passage yet all is safe that's placed behind their doors.—Alfred Edmondson, Morecambe.

Fruit Jars.—Fruit jars have such a habit of getting broken that the supply needs replenishing each year. How about yours? There are plenty here when you need them at these prices.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

Hash enough for ten persons chopped in three minutes by the "Universal" food chopper, the best kitchen utensil ever invented.—Landers, Frary & Clark, New Britain, Conn.

For a cozy little supper on one of your evenings at home or after the theater this handy little chafing dish will be found indispensable in the preparation of dainty and appetizing dishes.—Barber & Ross, Washington, D. C.

Sale of specials for "the Good Old Summer Time." We have planned this sale as a sort of first-aid to the battered and broken, after the May move, also a general refurnishing sale for kitchens, with special price inducements for a man to plant his own garden and shave his own lawn.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Seconds" in housekeeping fabrics sometimes afford as good service as first qualities, and with no danger. But second grade kitchen utensils ARE dangerous and unsanitary. A French physician says that many cases of appendicitis are traceable to the chips of coating from inferior granite ware. Don't go experimenting when reliable first quality wares can be had for so little money.—Macy's, New York.

No, they are not seconds. There's not a doubtful piece among the thousands. You will have no sooner entered this basement housekeeping wares store of ours to-morrow than you will be impressed with the importance of the sale—prices, qualities and quantities all combine to make up a sale such as will delight the most exacting buyers of kitchen wares and kindred kinds.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Many are called, but few are chosen. That's the way with enameled ware. Lots of them are called good enamel ware, but there are only a few that will stand hard usage.—The Stambaugh-Thompson Company, Youngstown, O.

Dozens of good and worthy kitchenware values for bargain Saturday's selling. The following, and many other articles in kitchenware, are marshalled for special selling to-morrow. All marked very much less than regular. Every article in the list is all right in quality and some very low in price.—The Fair Store,inghamton, N. Y.

Take, for instance, granite ware. All stores are not so careful as we are. A tiny chip off, or a slight blemish here, and the article does not go out to any customer, because right at that flaw rust begins to work and the article is worthless. Little points all through the stock we look after. The flimsy, trashy housefurnishings find no room here.—Hightower & Graves, Atlanta, Ga.

“Polly, put the kettle on!” And if it’s aluminum it won’t burn, it won’t be affected by acids, it won’t absorb acid tastes or odors, it won’t absorb grease, it can be quickly and thoroughly cleaned—and it’s a whole lot lighter. Aluminum cooking utensils will surely displace tin, steel, iron and copper utensils—and if you would be up-to-date and economical you’ll find it worth while to step into our store and see the many different patterns, and learn the low prices.—Babcock, Hinds & Underwood, Binghantown, N. Y.

The sale of graniteware. Long service, good looks and extraordinary values are the reasons why we give for women to stock their kitchens with Monarch graniteware. After this sale you’ll have to wait six months for another opportunity as good.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

It isn’t necessary to fill the fire-pot of a Household range way up to the covers. Keep it half full—you’ll get a better baking heat, you won’t warp the range top and you’ll burn just about half as much coal. Your kitchen needn’t be suffocatingly hot at any time if you run the fire of a Household range right.—Langley, Waterbury, Conn.

Roasting Pans. We have always sold our share of roasting pans, but since we began to sell our sanitary self-basting roaster, our sales have increased so that during the past four months we have sold as many roasters as we did during the past two years of all kinds of roasting pans. The people know a good thing when they try it. Try one of our roasters, and if you don’t like it send it back. They are guaranteed for ten years. Price just as low as the common kind.—H. Harroun & Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

Our broadest and best sale of household utilities. Great savings in price. Back from vacation—house to be opened—what a lot of fixing up everybody needs to do for fall. Good time to start the great September sale of household needs. Pretty much all Brooklyn depends regularly on this great basement store for such things—seems superfluous to say again that everything here is of the highest character or it wouldn’t be here. The good housekeeper doesn’t like to fool with things that may or may not be satisfactory—so she comes to Abraham & Straus’ and gets the best for the least the best costs anywhere. But in these great sales we plan to do better than usual pricing—a good deal better. Manufacturers who want our all-season business make big price concessions on goods we buy for this sale. We cut off profits, too. Result is an immense stock of the best household utilities—fourth to half off. Brooklyn knows all about the sale—Brooklyn women wait for it. Enough to say we never before had such a big sale or such small prices. Here are details—some of them. Can’t begin to give all to-day.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A treat for housekeepers! A feast for the economical! A sale of enameled ware that will cast a ray of sunshine in every kitchen. Don’t trust yourself to use any but perfect enameled goods. Don’t risk the dangers that lurk in lightly coated and imperfect pieces. All the pots, pans and kettles in this sale are strictly first grade and double coated—absolutely free from any poisonous substance.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

Aluminum ware. Come and see our line of cast aluminum ware, most complete in the valley, moderate in price and the best cooking utensils manufactured. You can put our aluminum tea kettle on a gas stove for six months without a bit of water in it—we will guarantee that it will not crack. Come in and look over the line.—George J. Frank, Bay City.

The Illinois pure aluminum ware for health and cleanliness, economy and wear. Will not scorch or burn—will not rust or corrode—will not crack or scale like the enamel ware. It is therefore an ideal cooking utensil, one which is far superior to ordinary kinds. In appearance aluminum ware resembles silver, but unlike silver it will never tarnish and is easily kept clean. This ware weighs but one-quarter that of silver or enamel ware, and being light is convenient to handle, is strong and will outlast any ware on the market. It is practically unaffected by the strongest acids and is positively the only utensil for cooking purposes that is absolutely pure and is in no way affected by any substance used in culinary operation, and is as pure as china or glass, the difference being it will not break.—George M. Cooley Co., San Bernardino.

No ware like German cooking ware. See our window and prices. Buy one piece and you will buy more.—F. Crouse & Son, Mansfield, O.

Don't fail when in our housefurnishing department to see that wonderful Universal bread mixer demonstration—see how easy bread can be made—try a sample of the bread which our demonstrator will serve you with, which is made fresh every morning, and thus form your own opinion as to the merit of the machine.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York.

To stand the bangs and wear of the kitchen there is nothing so good as copper. Most of the copper kitchen and table articles in "Burke's" basement are made from a single sheet of copper, which makes them better than the best of former days, and are finished with burnished nickle plate and silver lining to give them the elegance of appearance of most costly silverware.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

A large 10-qt. dishpan, made from one piece of best steel, enameled inside and out with three coats of sanitary enamel, baked to a high finish, in blue and white effect. These are not factory seconds, but strictly first-class goods.—Spiegel's, Chicago, Ill.

Cullender-Satisfaction.—Our pure enameled cullenders are the best cullenders produced—pot ones break—tin ones rush and discolor—our enameled ones do neither—they are absolutely clean and perfectly safe to use—also the most durable—in fact there is no wear out to them. A satisfactory price littleness, too.—Alfred Edmondson, Morecambe.

New beginners as well as old established housekeepers should not fail to see our display of kitchenware. We carry the largest up-to-date line of these goods in the city, and are continually adding something new, that will save Bread Raiser and Mixer, which mixes you money and labor, such as our Patent your bread in three minutes' time, making the hardest part of bread making easy, and it is only one of the many labor savers we have.—F. Crouse & Son, Mansfield, O.

A New Dish Washer.—We are always trying to help the women—anything that makes their work easier or quicker done we buy, but not before we have thoroughly tested and proved its merits—one thing at a time. Now that the three-minute bread mixer has proved so successful, we want all the women who have seen that to see this Darlington dish washer, because we believe you will like that, too. This is a little round brush fastened to a rubber tube, and one end of the tube slips over the hot water faucet, allowing the water to run right through the brush. You hold the brush by the handle and wash all your dishes, kettles and pans without putting your hands into the water. It is very simple, clean, and puts the dishrag out of business. Only $1.25.—Babcock, Hinds & Underwood, Binghamton, N. Y.

Poor light in the kitchen is a great strain on the eyes if you must work with its aid—it is cheaper and far more comfortable to work by a good light—which can be had for 2s. 6d., whereas a poor light might cost you the most priceless blessing—eyesight. The "Welsbach" burner complete at half-a-crown makes our poor gas usable.—Alfred Edmondson's Morecambe, Eng.

Good light is necessary these dark nights if you would read with pleasure—study with comfort—or work with satisfaction. Poor light is a severe strain upon strongest eyes and sooner or later—sooner if anything—spells—ruined sight! Cheap light is promised all who burn our lamps—for they give the maximum of light at the minimum of cost! See our line for kitchen use.—Alfred Edmondson, Morecambe, Eng.

HARDWARE—REFRIGERATORS

*O for a lodge in a garden of cucumbers,
O for an iceberg or two at control;
O for the use of a Santos Dumonter
To carry me straight to the frigid north pole.*

Our dry air refrigerators are so dry that any match after remaining in the refrigerator with ice in it for three days (or perhaps more) will strike and light as readily as if just out of the match box. We are demonstrating that here now, with both matches and salt, the salt remaining as dry and fine as ever. It shows that the circulation of air in our refrigerators is so perfect that it counteracts the dampness from the ice. They're the sort of refrigerators that keep food fresh. The consumption of ice is very small, too. We have to replenish the refrigerator but twice a week.—W. B. Moses & Sons, Washington, D. C.

Our refrigerators are cleanable, pure, cold and dry. They can be kept cleaner, colder and dryer than any other kind. You can take them all apart and get at every corner and crevice. Lined with zinc or real porcelain, food kept in them is pure.—Kinney & Levan, Cleveland, O.

If you need a new refrigerator this is the place to come for it. We have a new line of the best refrigerators we know of. They're ice savers and food savers. They not only keep things cold—they keep things pure and wholesome.—Morey Furniture Co., Bangor, Me.

Do you drink water enough? Lots of people would drink more if it was made inviting. This is assured by the use of our Glass Water Cooler with inside ice chamber and aluminum trimmings. Here you have a water cooler that cools the water without the ice touching it, that defies corroding, and that is so inviting to the eye and appetite that the foaming stein simply sinks into "innocuous desuetude." Suppose you see it—we mean our Glass Water Cooler.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Certain properties you demand in a good refrigerator:

That it keeps the food entrusted to its care sweet and fresh.

That by proper ventilation it prevents one sort of food from absorbing the taste and smell of another.

That it is economical in the use of ice.

That it is hygienic—easy to clean and to keep clean.

The "Odorless" is all of these things. It is well constructed; boxes are made of oak, zinc-lined; ice-chamber is lined with galvanized iron; shelves are of woven wire, allowing free air circulation.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

The best known refrigerators with a good reputation are the McCray, the Bohn Syphon and the Peerless; every one constructed on strictly scientific refrigeration principles—of the best materials. Probably a little higher in price than ordinary ice boxes—but the difference in price will be more than offset by the excellent service—the saving on ice and the assurance that your edibles are being kept properly. "Won't you let us explain?"—The Mitchell Co., Cleveland, O.

Cursing the cooler won't keep your meat fresh and your milk from souring. The only thing to do is to exchange your old ice box for a modern refrigerator so arranged as to save the meat, butter and cream and save the ice at the same time. This is the time to think about it. This is the store for you to come and see about it.—J. R. Allen, Crookston, Minn.

Keep cool! Extremes touch—June cold is succeeded by July heat. Hope you're prepared for it—but we surmise that maybe you have put off buying the various cooling apparatus you need about the city or country house. Fortunately enough, we're ready to supply you on the jump—without bother or delay, with ice cream freezers, ice water tanks, refrigerators, ice tools, and everything else to set at naught the attacks of the mercury.—Wanamaker's, New York, N. Y.

"In the good old summer time." You will be happy if you have one of these refrigerators. They are well and strongly made of hardwood and finished in golden oak. An examination will surely tempt you to buy. A full line from $3.50 to $65.—Shellas & Chestnutt, Brooklyn.

Stone coolers for ice water. Water keeps fresh longest in stone. There is nothing to rust, corrode, decay, mold or get musty. Once they are thoroughly cold very little ice is required. Another economy is that no repairs or painting are ever needed. The first cost is all and they last forever. All sizes, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 gallons. You can afford to have one or more, as required, in preference to a refrigerator compartment, because of our low selling prices. We charge the least because we buy larger quantities and secure extra discounts. For serving iced beverages we have a large variety of fancy figured white lined stone pitchers.—Schrage Bros., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Ice melts altogether too rapidly in the hot summer weather. It is most necessary to be careful now when you are selecting your refrigerator. All our refrigerators are perfectly insulated with mineral wool. All our refrigerators are improved, up-to-the-minute makes.—Renaud, King & Patterson, Montreal, Can.

Cursing the cooler won't keep your meat fresh and your milk from souring. The only thing to do is to exchange your old ice box for a modern refrigerator, so arranged as to save the meat, butter and cream, and save the ice at the same time. This is the time to think about it. This is the store for you to come and see about it.—J. R. Allen, Crookston.

Alaska refrigerators save the ice, Pennsylvania Lawn Mowers cut the grass and are practically everlasting. Arctic Ice Cream Freezers make good ice cream and do it quickly.—T. Rosenberg, Houston, Texas.

Some cold facts for warm weather consideration. Subject: Refrigerators and ice chests. The kind: Gurney.—W. S. Aaron, Altoona, Pa.

Do you need a new refrigerator? Don't fail to investigate the "Alaska." The Alaska refrigerator is made from carefully chosen materials. It is most scientific in its construction. There is always a circulation of cold, dry air maintained in an Alaska. It is because of this reason that you can keep salt or matches in an Alaska and they will remain perfectly dry. Alaska refrigerators consume the minimum quantity of ice—and are, therefore, very economical to operate. There is never a "musty" smell about Alaska refrigerators. The air is always sweet and clean—because of the constant circulation above mentioned. Alaska refrigerators represent the best investment you can make—get an Alaska. Notwithstanding the great merit of this refrigerator, the cost is no more than you would have to pay for inferior makes. Let us show you our line.—Cass & Smurr Stove Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

The interest aroused by this series of sales is unprecedented. Encouraged by it, we are continuing the sales and drawing upon the stocks of practically every department in the store. Only seasonable merchandise is involved—this week many lines peculiarly desirable for the vacation period.—Macy's, New York.

Truly it may be said that to improve each day and each week in methods and system is our motto, and to this end were these great and helpful Friday sales of ours inaugurated. Their first announcement to the public, ten years ago, had the proper ring, they filled a want, they sustained the principle of intelligent foresightedness and public benefit, and the standard we raised then of supplying the people with their needs, more efficiently, at money saving prices, has never swerved. Nor will it. Just as full of life, vigor and enthusiasm as at the beginning—we fittingly celebrate this Friday the anniversary of these great and helpful events by offering the greatest aggregation of bargains ever known.—Jonas Long's Sons, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The better the refrigerator the less the ice bill. Refrigerators built in a cheap, inferior manner consume much ice, owing to their poor insulation. These cheaply constructed boxes gather moisture in the seams and cracks, swell up, separate at the joints, and are soon worthless. These cracks are also very unsanitary, they collect dirt and harbor the bacteria that starts fermentation and decomposition of the food. Our tile-lined refrigerators are as near refrigerator perfection as can be made. They are absolutely sanitary and last a lifetime—in fact, two or three lifetimes. Prices, $24.00 to $65.00. Our zinc-lined refrigerators are cheap only in price. They have seven walls of non-conducting materials, a dry air circulation which preserves food, and will last a long time if properly cared for.—The Stambaugh-Thompson Co., Youngstown.

Health, comfort and economy. It is absolutely essential to your health that you have a refrigerator that can easily be kept clean and fresh. It is only a refrigerator with a perfect circulation of "dry air" that is never damp and ill-smelling. We ask that you investigate the methods used in the "Baldwin-Dry-Air" to accomplish this result. They are giving satisfaction in hundreds of homes.—J. M. Burrall & Co., Waterbury.

Alaska refrigerators. The only refrigerator built on scientific principles. Requires but little ice and keeps your vegetables fresh and sweet. A perfect fresh air circulation which saves nearly half the ice bill.—Augustus M. Crook & Son, Trenton, N. J.

Perhaps you've never given the refrigerator question much thought—you've always regarded most refrigerators the same as all others—and the price alone influences the sale. Bohn Syphon refrigerators are built on a unique principle. The air is forced into the food chamber, passes entirely through it, and is then syphoned out. All odors are thus drawn out of the refrigerator. The refrigerating principle is scientific, has been thoroughly tested, and insures preservation of food and freedom from taint of the different articles stored therein. Bohn Syphon refrigerators are used by all the largest trunk line railroads in America—a proof of their great superiority. We're exclusive agents, and will gladly explain their features.—Babcock, Hinds & Underwood, Binghamton, N. Y.

It has come to be a necessity to have ice, and being a necessity it is advisable to know the best way to keep it. Belding refrigerators keep ice for these reasons: Hard wood throughout, mineral wool insulation, enamel and glass lined, dry air circulation.—Roberts Hardware Co., Utica, N. Y.

The Brown store refrigerator will speak for itself in the ice it saves before you have had it very long. Besides this, the convenient shelves and compartments give you an opportunity to keep everything in apple-pie order. Especially made for easy cleaning, perfect circulation of pure, dry air, will keep everything fresh and sweet in the hottest weather.—A. Brown & Son Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Refrigerators. Our refrigerators will keep anything you put in them, whether it be ice or food. They are very easily cleaned and are sanitary in every particular. It does not pay to buy a cheaply made refrigerator. In the first place it consumes more ice, and besides it is apt to corrode and poison the food. A good one costs but a trifle more. Inspect ours.—Kingsley, Utica, N. Y.

If your refrigerator leaks, does not keep ice well or gives forth a musty odor, it is because you did not get your money's worth the last time you bought a refrigerator. Care in construction, heed to scientific principles in regard to air current and drainage make the Baldwin refrigerators excel others. Many of them we sell to friends of former customers. See the point?—Phelps, Lewis & Bennett Co., Wilkes Barre, Pa.

This splendid line has been famous for many years and at the recent World's Fair fully justified its right to fame. In open competition with all other best known makes of refrigerators, the Alaskas used only two-thirds as much ice as their closest competitor. That's the test of refrigerator value. All makes are very much alike in capacity to hold food and ice, but in their capacity of saving ice while preserving food there's a vast difference, as the above test shows. The dearest refrigerator you can buy is the one that uses most ice; and the cheapest is the one that uses least ice. For ice is money. Therefore Alaska refrigerators are the kind to buy.—J. M. Kellin & Co., Pueblo, Colo.

A warm weather necessity is a practical refrigerator. True, it's for the kitchen, rather than for the parlor or drawing room, but it adds a whole lot more to real comfort than (say) a piano, and costs less. To get the real sort get a White Mountain, a practical refrigerator in saving ice, and keeping vegetables sound and sweet.—Chamberlin Furniture Co., New Haven, Conn.

If there is any one thing about a refrigerator more than any other that will commend it to the good housekeeper it is the fact that it is readily cleanable. In the Baldwin Dry-Air there are no inaccessible corners or pockets. Shelves, flue strips and drip pipe are removable so that the interior may be stripped to the walls in a moment's time. This is, however, but one of the many good things about the Baldwin. Let us show them to you.—Olds & Whipple, Hartford, Conn.

"It's so homelike" to go to your refrigerator on a hot day and get a cool drink or a bite to eat when you are sure everything about the box is sanitary and clean. We show this year over seventy different sizes and styles, from a plain box to the Opal, representing the highest development in the science of refrigeration.—James W. Hellman, Los Angeles, Cal.

We'll not brag about the merits of the Monitor refrigerator. You'll do that after you buy. All that we wish to state is that if you are seeking for a refrigerator that is economical in the use of ice, easily cleaned, sanitary, and reasonable in price you'll buy the Monitor.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

North Star Refrigerators, the only genuine cork-filled refrigerators made. The granulated cork filling produces a dry, cold atmosphere that preserves the food perfectly. It is the only method that met with the thorough approval and stood the tests at the fairs all over the world, and has received the highest commendation in each instance.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Opal refrigerators are made for those who insist upon cleanliness and purity of their food. Perishable provisions in an Opal Refrigerator are in cold storage where "purity is paramount." Exhaustive texts have proven the superiority of Opal lining, as the best and most sanitary material for this purpose. It positively will not absorb odors or moisture, and will not stain. Opal Refrigerators are an ornament to any home.—They're easily and perfectly cleaned—and always free from injurious odors.—Babcock, Hinds & Underwood, Binghamton, N. Y.

Satisfactory Refrigerators.—In supplying the necessities for the summer home, none deserves more careful consideration than the refrigerator. It is an article that may cause a great amount of annoyance and dissatisfaction, if not selected with careful judgment. Nearly every refrigerator has some good points to recommend it; but there are also the objectionable ones to be taken into consideration. The idea is to get the one that has the most good points and the least objectionable ones. Our policy demands that we offer the best for your purchase, and our selections were made only after a thorough and satisfactory test. The "Wisconsin" is, we believe, the most satisfactory refrigerator made. We have handled it for six years, and have yet to find its superior.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

This handy lift cover "Atlas" refrigerator at $10 is a better bargain than any other $14.75 refrigerator at $10 because it is so constructed that a small cake of ice will last days, and on the hottest day it's as cold as winter. That's because of the charcoal packing, which keeps the hot air out as effectively as it keeps the cold air in. That's why it's an ice saver.—Simpson-Crawford Co.

Another Carload of Mackinaws!—This will be welcome news to scores of people who have been waiting the announcement. Our demonstration of just what the Mackinaw Refrigerator will do for a home has led to an unusually enormous sale. It is simply perfect. We could print a hundred testimonials—letters written us as to the high regard in which it is held by purchasers. But the best testimony is to call and see the Mackinaw in operation—the ice chamber at work—the cost is no higher than for ordinary Refrigerators.—A. D. Matthews & Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Alaska refrigerators save the ice. Pennsylvania lawn movers cut the grass and are practically everlasting. Arctic ice cream freezers make good ice cream, do it quickly—sell at a low price.—Bering Cortes Hardware Co., Houston.

All of our refrigerators are made of solid oak—a seasoned wood of a secret preparation that is immune from the ordinary dampness that rots the frames of the best makes of refrigerators. Then comes an interlining of charcoal, a non-conductor of heat, that keeps the cold air in and the hot air out. Then a lining of the very best sheet galvanized iron, that will not rust in a thousand years. The air circulation is scientific, the ice is never wasted, and the food is always kept sweet and pure, without being contaminated with the odors of the stronger smelling vegetables.—Brand & Smith, Trenton, N. J.

It is the king of refrigerator kinds. You can remove every piece of the interior fixtures as quickly as we describe this. Roomy air chambers, walls packed with mineral wool and charcoal felt. Cases, high-finish and polished. Slightly enough, these refrigerators, to go in the most sumptuously appointed dining-room, if you would. Price, $13.75.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

"Glacier" refrigerators save ice. Walls that are absolute non-conductors and a total exclusion of heat by airtight doors—that is what you get with "The Glacier." Those two things mean that your ice will last nearly twice as long as in the ordinary refrigerator. "Glaciers" are good to look at—built well and handsomely finished—they look well anywhere. We have them with zinc and porcelain linings. Come, see them.—Tull & Gibbs, Portland, Ore.

No doubt we stand on common ground when it comes to refrigerators. You want one that will not leak, warp, taint the food nor waste ice. You are willing to pay a fair price for it. We want to sell only the refrigerators that are in accord with these specifications.—A. McArthur Co., Boston, Mass.

Before you buy a refrigerator take a good look at it. Notice if it can be taken all apart to be cleaned, and to let the fresh air get into the corners, and see if it has movable flues and air tight locks; but if that's too much bother, just look for the name; if it reads "Leonard cleanable refrigerator," buy it, it's all right, in fact it's the only one that does have all these good points. A perpetual circulation of dry cold air keeps the food from becoming moist or musty. Mineral wool, filled walls, metal ice racks and genuine bronze metal trimmings. All Leonard refrigerators are finished in golden oak. They are the best without a question. They are scientific, and we give you more real value for the money you pay than can be obtained elsewhere. An inspection of the Leonard will thoroughly convince on this point.—Callahan & Douglas, Binghamton, N. Y.

Automatic refrigerators have perfect insulation by the best materials known, such as mineral wool and charcoal paper, combined so as to obtain the full value of the non-conducting properties. They have eight walls to protect the ice and preserve a low temperature. The air space is based on nature's laws. All parts of the refrigerator are insulated. They have more shelf space than any other refrigerator made, and are the most economical to be had.—Peterson's, Minneapolis, Minn.

Controlled heat and controlled cold for comfortable and safe summer house-keeping. That's the idea. Sometimes foods will taint to the point of "ripeness" without breeding ptomaines, but any taint or fermentation is conducive to illness. An ice box will keep ice and make some cold air—but a refrigerator is better, because it lets the forces of Nature keep the air on the "go"—and the motion dries it. Foods are crisper if kept in a refrigerator.—Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

A freezer to make two flavors at one time has been long wanted. In families some prefer one flavor, others another; some prefer ice cream, others a water ice or sherbet, so some had to be dissatisfied no matter what was made in the old style freezer. In the American Twin freezer the can is divided in two parts by a vertical partition. The dasher carries two sets of scrapers, one set fitting in one side of can and the other set in opposite side. The can cannot be turned as in old style freezers, because of the partition. It is therefore swung to and fro by a rocking motion of the crank. This is a more comfortable and much easier movement. It is very much less tiresome than turning a crank. One can sit back in a chair with freezer alongside and rock the crank to and fro without discomfort or undue exertion and even read at same time. Although two flavors are frozen at once and with less exertion, no more time is required than in old style freezers. The pails are of cedar, the best wood known to resist water, with electric welded wire hoops, which are guaranteed not to break or fall off; cans are of heavy tinplate with drawn steel bottoms that are guaranteed not to fall out or break and do not leak, the strongest and most durable freezer can made; the automatic twin scrapers by their positive action insure perfect scraping of frozen particles from side of can. All inside parts are heavily coated with pure block tin, and outside parts all thoroughly galvanized.—Ludwig Bauman & Co., New York.

Mackinaw refrigerators and others. The famous Mackinaw! That name means "the best that's made." Hardwood, golden oak finish, heavy zinc lined, all parts removable for cleaning; walls are filled with charcoal; brass locks and hinges. See the food test, constantly on view in the basement—the onion and butter side by side, salt, pie and matches, all dry as buttercrackers. See the wheel being turned by the dry, cold air—if that doesn't convince, nothing will.—A. D. Matthews Sons, Brooklyn.

Health, comfort and economy. It is absolutely essential to your health that you have a refrigerator that can easily be kept clean and fresh. It is only a refrigerator with a perfect circulation of dry air that is never damp and ill-smelling, and we recommend that you investigate thoroughly before you purchase your refrigerator this season. We give our guarantee with every refrigerator we sell.—Greene's, Newark, N. J.

In lining, insulation drainage and appearance this refrigerator has no superiors, and in the following very important particular it has no equals. Between the food compartments and the ice chamber is a system of syphons (a patented feature) which produces a ventilation and a circulation of cold dry air not even approached in any other make. An inspection will convince you.—McAllister, Mohler & Co., Columbus, Ohio.

They refrigerate perfectly, using but little ice, and are dainty and hygienic as a china dish.—Simmons Hardware Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Warmer days are bound to come, and even with snow on the ground in the middle of April, we're going to commence talking about our immense line of refrigerators. Don't shiver, please. We know you are not ready for ice yet, but there's no reason why you shouldn't select a refrigerator now, while our line is complete, and have it delivered when you want it. The world's best makes are here. The White Mountain and the Peerless.—Household Furnishing Co., New Bedford, Mass.

We are again as for the past 12 years sole agents for St. Paul for the celebrated Gurney Cold Wave Refrigerator. It has stood the time. If you have not one ask your neighbors about it. Made of the very best material, lift-out ice compartment, heavy packing best mineral wool, walls of zinc, soldered perfectly air- and water-tight. Prices from $6.95 to $35.00.—Wallbloom Furniture & Carpet Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Quality is what counts, especially in a refrigerator. It's simply a waste of good money to buy a poorly made ice box. A careful investigation will convince any one that our refrigerators are made to save ice as well as look like a good piece of furniture.—Greene's, Newark, N. J.

Prices cut on refrigerators and ice boxes. We are overstocked on these articles and so have reduced the prices on them from 10 per cent. to 25 per cent. until we can get our line in shape. This reduction is temporary and will hold good only until we can reduce our stock to proper size. We have told you before of the sanitary and ice keeping qualities of these refrigerators. They are as perfect as refrigerators can be made in this respect. We particularly recommend our spruce-lined boxes to those who want a good refrigerator but do not care to invest much money in it.

With our guarantee of "satisfaction or money refunded," together with the low prices now prevailing we do not see how the economical housekeeper can afford to let this opportunity pass. The goods go on sale Monday.—C. F. Brower & Co., Lexington, Ky.

Notice if it can be taken all apart to be cleaned, and to let the fresh air get into the corners, and see if it has movable flues and air-tight locks; but if that's too much bother, just look for the name; if it reads Leonard Cleanable Refrigerator buy it, it's all right—in fact it's the only one that does have all these good points. A perpetual circulation of dry cold air keeps the food from becoming moist or musty. Mineral wool filled walls, metal ice racks, and genuine bronze metal trimmings. All Leonard Refrigerators are finished in golden oak. They are the best without a question. They are scientific, and we give you more real value for the money you pay, than can be obtained elsewhere. An inspection of the Leonard will thoroughly convince on this point.—Callahan & Douglas, Binghamton, N. Y.

The Stone White refrigerators, "The chest with the chill in it." Ever sit on stone steps in the winter? Cold, aren't they? Ever sit on them in the summer? Pretty comfortably cool then, are they not? That is the nature of stone, it contains cold indefinitely. Consequently economy, cold-retaining, indestructible, solidity, beautiful in appearance and cleanliness, durability, service and convenience. The cases of these refrigerators are made of selected hard wood, beautifully finished and mounted with substantial, handsome hardware, nickel plated.—F. Ozanne, Memphis.

Profits are not without honor. What say you to a profitable purchase of a "Wisconsin Peerless" refrigerator? A high grade box for economy and durability—a winner. The ice box season is still on and we are quoting prices that will surely result in lively sales.—C. E. Tyler, Rome, N. Y.

Important features necessary to a perfect refrigerator—Cleanliness, free circulation, economy in the use of ice, condensation and dry air, low average temperature, freedom from condensation on inner walls, and long life. Our refrigerators can carry one hundred pounds of ice longer and can show a lower degree of temperature in the shortest time.—Standard House Furnishing Co., Tacoma, Wash.

For 15 years we have been telling you how good these refrigerators are, and the reasons why, from the standpoint of economy—and the satisfaction they give, that you should buy them. They are the best and most scientifically constructed Refrigerators on the market.—Callahan & Douglas, Binghamton.

"Leader" refrigerators are made on the right principle. Well insulated. No heavy packing to settle. No swearing. No odor. Not the kind you have to clean every day to keep sweet. Do not buy before seeing our line. Made in zinc and white metal. We buy in large quantities and land them at less than car rates. We give you the benefit.—Reed & Wyman, San Diego, Cal.

Old, overworked refrigerator has seen its best days. Come to us and get one that will keep things cool, fresh and wholesome.—C. C. Fuller Co., Hartford.

The difference between our refrigerators and the other kinds is, they keep things colder with less ice.—The Stambaugh-Thompson Co., Youngstown, O.

Whew! but it's cold inside of one of Gross's white enamel refrigerators. The dry air syphon and a dozen other features make this the best of all ice boxes. Drop in and we'll show you how it works.—Ph. Gross Hdw. Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

The following letter was received today from one of Mr. Deist's customers. The epistle speaks for itself:
My Dear Mr. Deist:

I received one of your sixteen dollar ice boxes yesterday and must say it is the finest box I have ever used. I always kept my butter and provisions in the well, but, thank goodness, I will not be obliged to do so any longer. My cat accidentally got into the box the other evening and the next morning it was frozen to death. I think your ice box is lovely. The only thing that I am afraid of is that my husband may get into the box some night, and if he meets the same fate as my cat it will kill me. Please let me know if you have any ice boxes that don't get so cold. I have a friend that wants to buy one, and she is so chilly I want her to get a warmer box. I will send in the balance of the money in a few days.

With best wishes, I am,
Yours truly,
MRS. SLACK.

A good refrigerator is one that consumes little ice, is nicely finished and scientifically constructed—that's the kind we sell.—York Furniture Co., York.

A cheap refrigerator will consume ice enough in a little while to cost you over and over again the first price of a good one. A good refrigerator is an economy. We can save you money in both ways.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Year after year the White Mountain refrigerator, "the chest with the chill in it," increases in popularity, because succeeding years prove that the merits we have claimed for it are founded on fact. We have said it was thoroughly cleanable, it was sanitary, that the system of refrigeration was effective because it was scientific, that it was an ice-saver, that it was substantially built. Thousands of users right here in town are using the White Mountain and thankful for it.—Mellen & Hewes, Hartford.

We show the Mackinaw filled with onions, milk, butter, pie, bread, etc., and a ten cent piece of ice. The onion, the most contaminating influence known (you cannot peel one without crying), does not make any impression upon the milk or other food, because the cold dry air circulation in the Mackinaw carries all odors out of the food chamber. Come in and test it. We expose the entire construction to view.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Cold as ice! Clean as snow! Ice land refrigerators.—Marion Furniture Co., Marion, Ind.

"Signs of the time." Refrigerators are occupying the center of the stage. The weather man seems to be with us this year on the refrigerators.—Marion Furniture Co., Marion, Ind.

Compact, sanitary and easy ice savers.—The T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

Timely furniture. Suddenly the day may dawn (may be a succession of days) when you simply can't get on without a good refrigerator. Let's put one in now, and save you regrets.—The Chamberlain Furniture & Mantle Co., New Haven, Conn.

Hold up. Pickering's. Last year we sold 1,500 refrigerators and more than half of them were disposed of before June 15. This year—well, say, have you noticed any particular good refrigerator weather hereabouts so far this season? That is, a day hot enough to make anybody want to buy one. The story is this—we bought 2,000 refrigerators and ice boxes for this season, and they're piled in our warehouse. They are summer goods and must be sold quick—prices cut to almost cost.—Pickering, Pittsburg, Pa.

The best means of obtaining perfect food preservation is through dry cold air circulation inside the provision compartments. The most effective, nearest perfect insulation to compel dry air is a filling of granulated cork. The North Star is the only box so equipped. The ice used cools the air and the cork filling keeps it dry.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ask the ice man about the number of Lapland Refrigerators along his route. Lot of 'em and all giving satisfaction. Worth the money.—J. C. McManus & Sons, Hartford, Conn.

The syphon principle of ventilation, found exclusively in this refrigerator, makes it absolutely and without question the best refrigerator ever manufactured. In all respects it is the ideal refrigerator, but the striking and distinguishing feature is the system of syphons leading from the food compartments into the ice chamber. These syphons draw the moisture and odors into the ice chamber, where they are condensed and passed off through the drain, leaving the food compartments perfectly dry and odorless. The Bohn Syphon is economical, preserves food best and longest, is easily cleaned with moist cloth, has thick walls of double insulation, has been adopted by all great railroads. Sizes and prices to suit all. Try one, and if you don't say it's the best refrigerator you ever saw, your money is ready for you.—McAllister, Mohler & Co., Columbus, O.

Coldest, cleanest and most convenient. More cold with less ice is what we claim.—Shawmut Furniture Co., Boston, Mass.

A good way to keep cool during the summer is to invest a small amount in a Leonard Cleanable Refrigerator. They are the coldest proposition you ever saw.—Hauffmann, Myers & Co., Galveston.

Have you an onion handy? Cut it up and put it in your refrigerator with the milk, butter and other food—if it's a Mackinaw. Don't do it—if it isn't a Mackinaw. Come and see the butter and onion test here to-morrow.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Greenland refrigerators. In this style "Greenland" the ice is put in from above. Provision chamber below is white enamel lined, with two adjustable white enamel shelves. Like all other "Greenland" refrigerators, this box is amply insulated to economize in ice consumption. The ventilating system insures dry, cold air circulation and sanitary conditions at all times. Trap and drain quickly removed for cleaning. Thoroughly well made of seasoned lumber, with good trimmings and fittings. This box will give long and satisfactory service. Buy it here to-morrow and have our guarantee as your protection.—Canfield Hardware Co., Los Angeles.

The Alaska refrigerator and its remarkable ability to produce dry, cold air, now being demonstrated in our show window. Scientific refrigeration has at last been solved in the Alaska refrigerator, where the circulation falls into the ice chamber directly upon the ice, then passes entirely around the ice and falls into the provision chamber in the form of pure, cold, dry air, thus preserving such enemies as onions and butter on the same shelf.—Kaufman's, Trenton, N. J.

Every home should have one. They are the most economical, the most sanitary and the best refrigerators on the market. The handsome appearance, the ease with which they can be cleaned (every part is removable), the removable ice compartments, construction of the walls, the free circulation of the dry air make them the best. This summer you'll need a good refrigerator, one that saves ice, is easily cleaned and adds to the appearance of your kitchen. The Gurney will give you perfect satisfaction.—McGowan Bros., Spokane, Wash.

Herrick refrigerators. Construction.—The best throughout. Made of good kiln dried oak. All nicely paneled. No pressed panels or cheap ornaments. From one-third to one-half more storage space than the usual refrigerator of same outside dimensions. Sufficient ice capacity for best results and no unnecessary wastage. Every square inch of storage space is easily accessible. Overlapping doors practically airtight. Interior nicely finished. Exterior filled, rubbed and varnished with a fine grade of coach varnish. Fine finish. Insulation.—All walls and doors of our refrigerators heavily packed with mineral wool (one of the best insulators), and also heavy sheets of insulating paper. Highly efficient in economy of ice. Our insulation is double that generally used and is very superior.—Globe, Pratt & Robbins, Spokane, Wash.

When you get your ice bill it is not our fault if it brings that dark brown look, because had you bought an Automatic Refrigerator you would only smile. The economy of the Automatic is a wonder to all.—Scott-Strevell Hardware Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

The Bohn Syphon refrigerator is much dryer and 10 degrees colder than any other. The thermometer and wet tea towel tell the story. The syphons pass the air through the ice chamber oftener and don't let it stay with the ice long enough to absorb moisture. That's why the Bohn is colder and dryer than any other. That's why milk will keep longer in a Bohn. But you must see the Bohn to appreciate its beauty. Finest cabinet construction and finish, opalite or enamel-lined. Will you not let us show you this refrigerator—this "life preserver" to-day? We are exclusive agents for Kansas City.—Bunting-Stone Hardware Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Make your home as comfortable as you can—that's a good hot-weather rule. In the kitchen a good refrigerator to preserve the food and a gas range or hot-plate that burns only while cooking. Have light, cool rockers throughout the house and on the porch, and bright, clean straw matting on the floors. The cost is much smaller than you probably think, and the easy way of paying here helps all to have these conveniences—real necessities.—W. H. Keech Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Ice chests and refrigerators. A certain scientific construction in the kind we have that furnish a uniform, cold, dry-air circulation, preserving the food and saving the ice. There are many points of merit we would like to point out if you'll just ask us to show you.—Gately & Hurley Co., Camden, N. J.

Ice chests and refrigerators. Special attention is called to our line of refrigerators and ice chests, because we feel that it is due everybody to get every penny's worth of value out of their investment along this line. Most of them look alike outside, but they don't do the work. A certain scientific construction in the kind we have that furnish a uniform, cold, dry-air circulation, preserving the food and saving the ice. There are many points of merit we would like to point out, if you will ask us to show you.—Hurley-Tobin Co., Trenton, N. J.

A long-felt desire satisfied. For this year's trade we have succeeded in buying direct from independent factories a carload of refrigerators and a carload of Dain mowers and Dain rakes and stackers, also lawn mowers. This means a straight saving to the consumer of 15 to 25 per cent., because we are not tied hands and feet by the trusts. The goods will all be on our floor in time for the season, and it will pay to see them before buying.—Geo. M. Cooley Co., San Bernardino, Cal.

Preserve your health by preserving your food. Our white enamel lined boxes are mineral wool filled, and have removable, cleanable ice chambers.—Wm. H. Monk, Jr., Mobile, Ala.

The real merit in modern refrigerators and ice chests lies as much in saving the ice as in preserving the food. All our big stock, at any price you pay, have every latest device for covering both important points of saving—in fact, a saving in price besides.—Gately & Hurley Co., Camden, N. J.

Cold dry air, sanitary refrigerators for the home, store or hotel. Every part of the "Wisconsin Peerless" is perfectly sanitary, from the ice rack to the system for carrying off the ice water. The filling is of our own mineral wool, which practical test shows to be better than any other material on the market. We have these refrigerators in all sizes and styles, including white enamel lined and galvanized steel lined. Don't fail to see them and get our prices.—Popp & Wolf, Saginaw, Mich.

The time is soon here when you will be looking for a refrigerator and when purchasing one why not get the best one that will give entire satisfaction. A refrigerator in which food may be kept without spoiling and without one tainting the other. We have the agency for the cold storage refrigerators and we stand ready to prove to anyone that their equal is not to be had for the price we ask for them.—P. H. Thompson, Lebanon, Pa.

HARDWARE—SCREENS

The pesky fly is with us once again and once he gets inside he'll stay. Meet him with a good door or window screen, keep him out. Window screens of Vermont birch and maple, oil finished, natural color of wood, covered with best quality green wire cloth, all sizes, 15c. to 45c. Screen doors of selected kiln dried pine, covered with the best standard painted wire cloth, complete with spring hinges, screws, knobs, hooks and eyes, all sizes, 75c. to $1.75.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Fly time is coming! It's our duty to prepare you for coming events. We don't want you to be uncomfortable when fly time comes—and we've noticed several flies already this spring—they'll be here in droves in a few weeks! Be prepared before they arrive—have the screen doors and windows in place before the pests swarm through your home! We have our assortment of window screens and screen doors now ready for your inspection. Have a wide variety of sizes—sure to meet your requirements.—Babcock, Hinds & Underwood, Binghamton.

We have about twenty screen doors more or less damaged—mostly less—in handling; some scratched; some wire bulged a little, but the principal damage is to the price.—Simmons Hardware Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Are Your Screens Up?—It's high time the screens were up if you would keep the house free from flies and other insect pests. If you are to have new ones, come to the house-furnishing store. We can screen your doors and windows economically.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Screens on the piazza have a two-fold use—they keep off sun or wind, and give an often welcome privacy. Lots of time yet in which to enjoy your piazza—and here's a chance to get screens at a saving.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Screen Out the Flies by putting in screens that really protect you from flies and all other summer pests. That is the only sort of screens we sell—made to fit your windows and doors snugly, do not warp, crack nor wear at the edges of the wire netting, nor leave cracks for insects to crawl through—that's the sort you want and the only kind that is worth buying. Solid comfort will be yours inside our screens and they are worth twice what the fall-to-pieces kind cost.—Babcock, Hinds & Underwood, Binghamton, N. Y.

Our assurance of quality stands behind every purchase made here. We do not misrepresent things. We do not sell second qualities for first qualities. Every purchase made here must be satisfactory; we'll gladly correct any that are not. We call special attention to our screen doors, screen wire, window frames, etc. The doors are strong, well made, have mortised joints and are neatly finished. All sizes.—Dollarhide & Harris, Denison, Tex.

An up-to-date way of keeping out the flies. The Ideal window screen offers a most up-to-date way of keeping insects and flies out of your house. Works on rollers from the top and bottom of the frame, with the sash. Handy when you want it. All woodwork made to harmonize with the finish of the room. We will measure your window and erect your screen. Price $3.00 per window. A postal will bring our representative to your door.—Ideal Window Screen Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

And those screens not up yet? Perhaps you need new screen doors and windows and the fact that the flies are only now putting in their appearance has caused you to delay in the matter of selection. It will be to your interest to come to this store and see the line of screen doors and windows which are being shown. The price is so much lower than what you would have to pay for those made by the carpenters that you can't afford to parley. We want to show you these screens to-day.—Keating's, Ottumwa, Ia.

Wheeler adjustable window screens. Wheeler screens are so simple in adjustment that a woman or child can easily put them in place or remove—from the inside of the room. No ladder or tools are required. And when in place, they give the same good service as the best of made to measure screens. The materials of which they are constructed being of high quality, long life and durability are assured. Just come in and see them, and let us show you how little it will cost to fit your whole home.—Barrett Hardware Co., Joliet, Ill.

A cool veranda on a hot day is indeed a luxury, and the person who can retire to one, and there enjoy a book or do some fascinating fancy work is fortunate. You'll find that any veranda can be made comfortable if the boiling rays of the sun can be excluded. A split bamboo screen will do it and at the same time admit any stirring breeze. These screens come in long rolls; you can see them in our window.—H. M. Bullard, Co., New Haven, Conn.

Window and door screens. It is only a short time until the flies will be here again. The sooner you get ready for them the fewer you will have. We have just received our spring shipment of window and door screens. They are ready for your inspection. The prices are low enough to please anybody. We also have a fine display of lawn mowers at our store. See them and get prices.—Hardware Store, Zanesville, Ohio.

Here's one kind of window screen that keeps out the flies that are out, lets out those that are in. They are the "Fly Exit" screens. Then we have for sale a large variety of other window screens and screen doors, that are well made, efficient and fairly priced. And this is the time to be thinking of these helps to a comfortable Summer.—Wanamaker, New York.

Almost every day sees a group of new arrivals among the dainty Summer dresses—Loeser's has never been more supremely helpful along this line than this season.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

This season we have used every possible means to buy the best and latest and in large lots in order to have a large variety of the different garments to show, and to be able to offer them at a very low price. Every article has that perfection to it that has built up our trade in the ladies' and misses' department to such an extent that our store has got to be classed as a store of fashion.—Gately & Donovan Co., Bay City, Mich.

If you need a suit or coat for every day wear, or if you are planning to be a conspicuous figure in the great style show at Washington Park on Derby Day, you cannot afford to miss this great June clearing sale, for we have made the most pronounced and radical price reductions in all grades of women's clothing.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Be Comfortable—Use Porch Screens.—Nothing makes a house look finer in Summer than handsome porch screens—try Vudor, if you want the best—or bamboo, if the old style is good enough for you. Either costs little enough when you think of the comfort and general effect. They break the rays of the sun and yet let in all the breeze. A sensible man has them all around his porch.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Things that Promote Comfort.—Summer household goods such as screens, refrigerators, ice cream freezers, gas stoves, water filters, etc., etc. If you wish to promote your comfort in warm weather you must have such things—they are necessities. "The Big Store" supplies them as none other can. And the necessary tools for the garden, too—whether the demand is just for a few implements or a complete outfit of the finest sort.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

The mosquitoes' cheerful chirp becomes a lullaby when the moon shines high, when your bed is curtained round with our Mosquito Canopy. This canopy is a bed attachment with coil spring at front of posts, is adapted for any and all kinds of wood, iron, brass and folding beds. The entire canopy consists of only one frame, made up of only four pieces of wire, with well made and neatly fitting net.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Don't delay another day before placing your order for screen doors and windows. The flies are coming and will soon take possession of your home unless you have the doors and windows protected. We have a tremendous line of screens and can fit any size door or window.—C. W. Hawkes, Binghamton.

An effective screen, allowing free circulation of air, easy of operation. Great durability, made from linden wood, fibres securely woven with the best of scrim twine, fitted with metal pulleys, and a heavy maitric cord for raising. Made in a variety of colors and are weather proof. Screens a porch from the outside, without interfering with the view of those within.—A. J. Collins & Co., South Norwich, Conn.

Carefully made walnut stained frame and fitted with firm close mesh wire cloth. Adjustable screens, with frame made to telescope so that almost any window can be fitted. It is not necessary to have screens made to order in every case.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

There isn't a mosquito or a fly small enough to crawl through the tiny mesh of these extension screens and they last twice as long as the ordinary kind because they're more strongly made.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

HARDWARE—STOVES

A match for kindling! That's all the kindling required for the gas range. Don't have to carry in coal, carry out ashes, and the kitchen is not a roasting box in which to cook the meals. Gas is the ideal fuel for cooking. Delivered right into your range and under the vessels in which food is cooking. It solves the servant problem by cutting out about half the work. Ranges installed for $12.50 and $13.50. Gas $1.50 a thousand for fuel and lights.—Pensacola Gas Company, 24 and 27 E. Garden Street. 'Phone 148.

If comfort is to be considered there will be no long discussion on the question of installing a gas range. Not only does it prevent the "roasting" heat of a kitchen with a coal or wood range, but food cooked on a gas range has been proven to shrink less than when cooked otherwise. Then, too, when carefully used, gas is somewhat cheaper than wood or coal. Ranges installed on our mains for $8.00, $12.50, $13.50 and $24.00. 'Phone for our representative to call and talk the matter over with you.—Pensacola Gas Company, 24 and 27 E. Garden Street. 'Phone 148.

Cooking with gas is better, is cheaper, if economically used, and is certainly cleaner than any other method. All the dust, soot, ashes and labor are taken away from the coal at the gas plant and a clean fuel of intense heat delivered to you through pipes into your range. Range installed on gas main for $8.00, $13.50, $14.00 and $24. Gas, $1.50 a thousand.—Pensacola Gas Company, 24 and 27 E. Garden Street. 'Phone 148.

Clean homes and clean hands are but the natural result of cooking with gas. Those who cook with gas are also free from the fret, worry and disappointment incident to a poor fire when a quick meal is wanted. Gas ranges installed ready for use along our mains for $8.00, to $24.00. Gas, $1.50 a thousand.—Pensacola Gas Company, 24 and 27 E. Garden Street. 'Phone 148.

If the man who smokes three five cent cigars per day and allows his wife to cook the meals on a coal or wood range will stop in our office and see the wonderful possibilities of the gas range and how easy it is to "make the fire" and do the cooking, we believe he will either quit smoking or buy his wife a gas range. Yet, so far as increased expense goes he need not quit smoking, for, when properly used, it is cheaper than wood or coal. Ranges $8.00 to $24.00.—Pensacola Gas Company, 24 and 27 E. Garden Street. 'Phone 148.

Favorite gas ranges are made with scrupulous care, of selected material, by the best class of mechanics, in the most complete plant of its kind in the world. They are durable and operate properly, and are made in a large variety of styles and sizes, and this is why we sell them as our leading line of gas ranges. There are many cheap, poorly made ranges on the market, but the difference in the price between a good gas range and a cheap one the same size and style is not over two or three dollars, which it does not pay to save in buying a range, as a cheap, poorly made range is not desirable at any price, and many of them will not operate satisfactorily. For sale only by J. J. Fitzgerald, Lexington, Ky.

New method gas ranges for natural gas. Will reduce your gas bills 25 per cent. Will not rust or burn out; will bake the same on all parts of the oven bottom; will broil or toast evenly without burning; will not have any explosions.—McElhone & Moloney, Lexington.

"Pressure all the time." The difference in gas. There is a great difference. The thing that counts most with the consumer is the quality. Hundreds are ready to attest the superiority of home gas. You never know the pleasure of cooking with gas till you have once used good, pure, well-made gas. Home gas is purified thoroughly—by an expensive process—before it enters our mains. It reaches your house in a condition to give a maximum of heat for the quantity used. There is economy in using home gas, for it gives better results.—Home Gas and Lighting Co., San Bernardino.

The ranges we sell are built to give adequate heat from the gas consumed—and are not wasteful. You can be wasteful or extravagant in their use, but sensible people won't be. Advantage over coal, coke or wood: Better confined heat (less heating of the room and house) immediate readiness of the fire—no hours of "coming up." And immediate ending of the expense and heat when the cooking is done.—Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

The only perfect toaster for use on gas, gasoline or oil stoves. Toasts four slices of bread in two minutes from the time toaster is put on the stove. The toast absorbs none of the taste or flavor from the flame. Browns evenly from edge to edge. The slices are soft and palatable and possess that rich, nut-like flavor not obtainable by any other toaster. No matter what kind of stove you have, you can use the Vulcan Toaster. Every one guaranteed. Money back if not satisfactory.—O'Neill's Hardware Store, Fargo, N. D.

The day of the coal stove and its companions, the ash sifter and ash barrel, has passed. Up-to-date housekeepers now use the gas range and the gas water heater exclusively. No wood to chop, no coal to carry, no ashes to take up, to carry out, to sift, leaving a trail of dirt and dust from the stove across the kitchen all the way to the ash pit; everything in the kitchen covered, your dress covered, your hair full of it. No fire to coax and coddle. Gas is a guarantee of the right kind of a fire instantly for any purpose whatever.—Montgomery Light and Water Power Co., Montgomery, Ala.

The proper use of a gas range is being demonstrated in the basement store. We are not teaching cooking, or anything of that sort, but simply showing how the best results can be obtained from gas. And we want to show you the good points of the Wolff Cookers and Ranges. The neatness, rapidity, and effectiveness will be so apparent as to quickly impress both the good housewife and the student of economy. If you are accustomed to gas range cooking you will be pleased with the very exceptional good features of the Wolff Ranges.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Another Carload for Tacoma. Facts speak again. Friday a hurry-order was dispatched for another big carload of gas ranges. Shows which way the wind is blowing, doesn't it? Tacoma's turning her head, she's getting away from the old style furnace and welcoming the no work, no heat, we-shovel-the-coal gas range. Cooking by gas will take a whole lot of the heat and misery out of July and August, you'll find it almost a blessing the year round. You can cook anything from an egg to a turkey on a gas range, you can make it work fast or slow, like an engineer with his throttle you turn the lever and this simple little kitchen machine does the most of the rest.—Gas Co., by the Totem pole, Tacoma, Wash.

Gas cooking stoves—"Cort's" highest grade, $9 stoves reduced to $6.67. Just 100 of them, the kind that have ovens as large as any range. Handsome nickeling and neat modeling make this stove particularly attractive as well as efficient; but the two great features of the Cort stoves are the effective cooking and gas economy. There are separate broiling and baking burners, three boiling burners on the top, one extra large and quick acting. Every part is removable for cleaning, and this price is exceedingly unusual.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

You will be surprised and pleased to see how easily and economically it can be operated. You can have a cool kitchen until you need a hot fire. You can have a hot fire immediately and a cool kitchen again in a few minutes after turning off the gas. You can have a quick fire, a slow fire and a moderate fire.—Galveston Gas Company, Galveston, Texas.

Don't fire a cannon to kill a fly. And yet that is just what firing up a coal range amounts to in summer. Argue it from any point you please; "tear language to tatters" in the argument, and when you compare cooking with a range with cooking with a gas stove it amounts to this: The gas stove—a match—a twist of the thumb, in 30 seconds you have the fire, as much or little as you want. When you have had enough heat shut it off instantly. Expense about half. The coal range—rake out the grate, skin your knuckles, get mad, ashes flying about, dirt; put in paper, wood, coal, light it; maybe it will, maybe it won't catch on, smoke, too much or not enough heat; heat the rooms up and wait until the fire dies. Expense double.—A. D. Matthews, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Blue Flame Oil Stoves.—Cooking at its best is disagreeably hot during the summer months, but you can reduce the discomfort to a minimum by using a "Brooklyn" Blue-Flame wickless oil stove. It has no wick, gives a powerful blue gas flame, and is simple and safe in operation. Its strongest bid for your favor is the slight expense it entails while giving you all the comfort and convenience of a gas range.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

The woman who has a gas range. She is the woman who has the best of it in cooking, for she cooks quickly, cooks coolly, cooks cleanly, cooks easily. A gas range is cheap to buy, it is cheap in fuel and it is cheap in its great saving of work and worry.—Consumers' Gas Co., Reading, Pa.

It isn't woman's work, this digging into the recesses of a dirty coal or wood stove, carrying in coal or wood and carrying back again as much ashes—in fact, it isn't anybody's work. No one who is within piping distance of gas has any excuse for having a coal or wood stove in action during this hot weather. The gas stove is clean and safe. They are useful as well as ornamental.—Denison Light Co., Denison, Tex.

Keeping Cool.—If one had nothing to do but avoid the discomforts of the heated season, summer would be one long delight. But women must work in kitchens if we are to have anything to eat, and a kitchen isn't at all cool or comfortable unless the cooking is done on a gas range. That's the key to kitchen comfort—the gas range. Gas is the fuel for cooking. Coal and wood make dirt and drudgery, oil is dangerous, but gas is the perfect fuel. It saves the housewife hundreds of steps and a world of hard work. Get a gas range.—Saginaw City Gas Co., Saginaw, Mich.

The new insurance gasoline stove is as safe as a common cook stove. Accident is impossible. Valves may be left open, no gasoline can escape, no danger if operated by children or inexperienced persons.—F. Mayer & Bro. Co., Peoria.

For a quick breakfast in the morning when you're in a hurry, the Sterling Puritan blue-flame oil stove will be found invaluable. Turn on the valve and you have a hot fire immediately—no delay—no kindling to split—no waiting for the fire to get started. The Blue Flame does not heat up the house—it cooks the food without cooking the cook. The ideal summer cook stove.—Barber & Ross, Washington, D. C.

Be good to your wife. Remember she puts in much of her life cooking your meals. Make it as easy as possible, you owe her this. Buy her a Quick Meal Gasoline Stove. Your meals will taste better, she will keep cool, have a better temper and live longer.—The Blymyer Bros. Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

When you are in a hurry there is nothing like a good gas stove. A slow-going stove is exasperating. The gas stove gives you a full measure of cooking heat in an instant. A twist of the wrist turns off the gas, heat, expense and all.—Geo. L. Oill, St. Thomas, Ont.

Little Helper.—Early breakfasts are easily prepared—also afternoon teas—without a fire—if you have a Gas Griller, a kettle of water can be boiled on the top and underneath a chop or steak grilled, a little bacon frizzled or toast made—handy things to buy and use are gas grillers at our price.—Alfred Edmondson, Morecambe, Eng.

No more danger in using a Barler oil heater than a coal stove. At the cost of one cent an hour it will heat a 20-foot room, and for emergencies it is invaluable. For bedrooms, bathrooms, any where, you may have comfort in five minutes after the Barler is lighted.—P. J. Kelly & Co., New Haven, Conn.

Cooking is a pleasure when you cook with a gas stove. We have a few left, and now is the time to put one in while the weather is hot, and avoid the heat and dirt of a coal and wood stove this summer. Call at our office and let us show you our line of gas stoves, or 'phone us, and we will call around and tell you about them.—Denison Light and Power Co., Denison, Tex.

Your cook will smile. A gas range like the "Chicago Jewel" takes all the drudgery out of kitchen work, making cooking a pleasure. Have you seen the new design? It is made throughout of steel, and is entirely "free from frills." Just a plain, substantial stove, "built for business." The chances are it's exactly what you're looking for. See it in operation at our showrooms.—McDonald & Wilson, Toronto, Ont.

Why overheat your house these hot summer days by cooking with a sweltering coal stove? Use the "Monarch" gasoline range. It supplies sufficient heat for cooking, but no waste warmth to raise the temperature. It is safe, easy to operate and durable.—Crane & Lockwood, Binghamton, N. Y.

Gas ranges are being sold and connected in great numbers, but we are equal to the demand, and are able to supply all comers with a first-class gas range, which we install ready for use, free cost to you upon payment of $13.00 cash or on installment plan of $2.00 down and $1.00 per month for twelve months. The only way to have a clean, up-to-date kitchen is to do your cooking, baking, etc., on a gas range, which occasions no dirt or hauling of fuel or ashes. The kitchen work is done so quickly and so economically that those who have gas ranges would not part with them and go back to the methods of olden times. The hot weather has only about commenced, as you are aware the months of July, August and September are the hottest in the year, so put off ordering a gas range no longer, but call at our sales rooms and make a selection and have a comfortable summer.—Utica Gas and Electric Co., Utica, N. Y.

Keep cool. Breakfast in fifteen minutes if there's a gas range in your kitchen—just strike a match and the fire is ready to use—without waiting or "coaxing"—and no coal to lug—no ashes to sift. A gas range assures a clean, cool kitchen—an economical, readily regulated fire and a wonderful saving of labor, fuel and time. Only a match needed. A gas range is a time saver.—New Bedford Gas Co., New Bedford, Mass.

More economical than gas. The Insurance gasoline stoves, as the name implies, are an absolute protection against any danger by accident, as the gasoline is at once shut off, should the burner be blown out or carelessly left open. No smoke or smell, and burns the least gasoline of any stove made.—O'Neill's, Fargo, N. D.

Did it ever occur to you how nice and pleasant it is to cook on a gas range? No wood or coal to bring in; no ashes to take out; no fires to build; absolutely no danger, and it does not cost any more to operate. We have just received a carload of gas stoves, all sizes and styles, and now is the time for you to put in your order and avoid the rush. Call at our office and see them, or 'phone us, and we will send our solicitor to see you.—Denison Light and Power Co., Denison, Texas.

The proper use of a gas range is being demonstrated in the basement store. We are not teaching cooking, or anything of that sort, but simply showing how the best results can be obtained from gas. And we want to show you the good points of the Wolff Cookers and ranges. The neatness, rapidity, and effectiveness will be so apparent as to quickly impress both the good housewife and the student of economy. If you are accustomed to gas range cooking you will be pleased with the very exceptional good features of the Wolff Ranges.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Supper ready in 20 minutes with a gas range. No dirt, dust or smoke. No coal to carry in. No dirt and ashes to carry out. When you purchase a Reliable gas range you are getting the best in the market—that is why we handle them. Then, again, we make no charge for connections.—Tacoma Gas Light Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Time for out of doors. The housewife appreciates the pleasure of having more time for out of doors, especially at this season of the year. There's a way of saving time from household duties, yet having them completed in comfort.

That's the gas range way. By using a gas range for cooking you avoid the dust and muss of handling kindling, ashes and fuel, and there's much time saved in having the gas range always ready. Fuel is delivered right to the gas range, where it's ready day and night by just lighting a match and turning a valve. Such a convenience, if a friend comes to lunch or hot water is needed at night. Get your gas range now and make your efforts count. Doesn't it mean much to you to be able to attend to social duties and have time for out of doors? It's easily accomplished if you have a gas range.—Gas Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Saves walls and floors. Are you building? If so, how the piping in your house is planned means much to you. How have you provided for properly placing the gas piping for cooking and heating? The kitchen plan should show a gas range and a gas water heater, and provide places for them. Should be located most conveniently with reference to the table and sink. The Library plan—provide a gas grate for chilly evenings. Useful in spring and fall when not cold enough for furnace fires. Putting in piping for gas now avoids tearing up walls and floors and saves rebuilding after the house is finished. Any building worth putting up right is worth piping for gas. Estimates furnished by any plumber or gas fitter.—St. Paul Gas Light Company, St. Paul, Minn.

Cabinet Glenwood combination coal and gas range. Snug, plain and handsome. The most complete cooking range made. No fussy ornamentation or filigree, just the natural black iron finish. Every part at hand from in front. Every essential refined and improved upon. Kitchen doors do not interfere in setting this range, for either end, as well as the back, may be placed equally against the wall.—C. T. Harris & Son, Plymouth, Mass.

No more chilly breakfasts when an oil or gas heater is used. In a very few minutes they will warm an ordinary sized room, making it thoroughly comfortable and cheerful. Made in several patterns and sizes, of the best materials, and so simple in construction that a child can use them.—James W. Hellman, Los Angeles, Cal.

Cook with gas and save money, time and patience. No worries of any kind with a gas range, for there's no wood to bring in, no ashes to dump or no kindling to chop. A gas range is nice to have and easy to pay for.—Fresno Gas Company, Fresno, Cal.

Hundreds are gas consumers who would be burning coal to-day if the modern gas range had not simplified matters. Now they have clean homes and clean hands; and their lives are free from fretting and the disappointment incidental to a poor fire when dinner is wanted quickly. With these advantages there is one more—good, clean and reliable gas. The Home Gas Company's gas is admitted to be perfect and always the same "pressure all the time."—Home Gas and Lighting Company, San Bernardino, Cal.

Gas does the work. It simplifies and shortens the kitchen work—you don't have to bother about preparing any fire when you have gas for fuel or ashes and dirt to clean up when you're through with it. Light it or turn it out is all there is to it.—Sacramento Electric, Gas and Ry. Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Gas! Gas! Gas! That is the word that spells success, comfort and economy, when used for cooking and lighting. Two dollars per month soon pays for a gas range and gas-lighting appliances, and no up-to-date home can afford to be without either. Save health and eyesight by placing your order right away.—Gas Company, Ottumwa, Ia.

The cleanest, handiest, cheapest fuel. Don't be a slave to your old kitchen stove when you can be a master of a gas range. Cooking with gas is the modern way of living—it saves money, time, worry and work. Get a gas range. Come in and let's talk it over.—Fresno Gas Company, Fresno, Cal.

Absolute Christmas bargains. Walk this city over from end to end and you can't find a more practical, sensible and comfort-giving present than one of these. The stand lamps mean a comfort to a family of eyes; heaters mean comfort to another houseful of people, because they can be carried to every room in the house.—Gas Co., Tacoma, Wash.

The staff of life. Many women have stopped baking their own bread because of the difficulties of baking fine, rich, brown loaves. With a Fortune elevated oven gas range home-made bread is easily possible. The housewife has absolute control of the blue flame, and there is no more danger of a soggy, underdone loaf than one burnt to a crisp. The Fortune's oven makes baking a pleasure. The Fortune has been imitated, but never equaled.—J. W. Keller, Newark, Ohio.

Buy Sterling ranges for economy and durability. Sterling ranges are the greatest coal savers of any range on the market. The Sterling is so strong and so well made that the repair bill is almost nothing.—R. A. McWhur Co., Fall River, Mass.

Call and see the malleable steel range in operation at our store. We show you how to bake "just such biscuits as mother used to make" with only one-half the fuel now being used. Three-minute biscuit and delicious coffee served every day free.—Sturmer Bros., Port Huron, Mich.

The air in an ordinary oven is stagnant. It becomes saturated with the odors of the different dishes cooking—the strongest odor impregnates all. That is why you sometimes get pie with a flavor of onions and roast beef with taste of fish. The air in the oven of the Imperial Oxford Range is constantly changing. Fresh air is drawn in from outside the range by our patent oven flue, super-heated and forced into the top of the oven. It circulates throughout the oven, keeping every corner at a steady, even temperature. The air is then drawn off through the oven ventilators, carrying with it the fumes of the cooking dishes. The Imperial Oxford Range cooks your food with pure, fresh, dry heat. Would you like to see this range? Call at your dealers. If he can't show you the Imperial Oxford, write to us and we'll send you full particulars and tell you where you can see it.—The Gurney Foundry Co., Toronto.

What the old cook said when she was discharged, "Well, Miss Sally, I don't mind dis gittin' fired, but I does hate to leave dat lovely Sterling range."—Crane & Lockwood, Binghamton, N. Y.

If you've been on the fence, let this weather and these prices help you down—$6.95 for the famous Eclipse airtight wood heaters.—I. Gevurty & Sons, Portland, Ore.

A stove that is always ready! A stove that makes no smoke, smell or ashes! A safe stove! An economical stove! A clean stove! A stove that requires no skill to operate it! A stove which has revolutionized "cooking," and has transformed the drudgery of the kitchen work into a pleasant pastime.—McAycal Hardware Company, Crowley, La.

The small house-heater—the Quebec. One of the don't-want-much-attention kind. The heavy fire-brick lining makes it a great economizer. Fill it up with fuel of any description, and it's good for twenty-four hours or more of constant heat-giving without replenishing.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

More money can be saved this year by putting in a Kelsey furnace than by any other way. Will heat your house better, without gas or dust.—Geo. H. Stibbs, Hartford, Conn.

Range Seekers. Here's Barstow's latest model. The Crystal Bay State. In construction, appearance efficiency, it is positively a "top notcher." Don't fail to see it.—The Mellen & Hewes Co., Hartford, Conn.

Don't you want to begin the new year with a new Magee range? It would be a particularly delightful change, if it happens that you are now using an old range, or a range that, for one reason or another, does not give satisfaction. The happiness or unhappiness of many a household can be traced to the kitchen. In the kitchen it is found that the trouble was with the range. If you buy a Magee range there will be no range troubles. It is a perfect range. Economical of coal and prodigal of heat. Will bake more bread on one hod of coal than any other range built. And it is not overpriced. It is a range proposition that you will find full of interest for you.—Bruce, Filley & Co., Hartford.

Stoves, ranges and heaters. We again call your attention to the most important part of your home, the kitchen. We sell the best stove, range and heater that can be procured. We guarantee them to give you perfect satisfaction as cookers and heaters. You must be satisfied or we will refund your money. You may buy a stove or range from us and make a deposit to show good faith on your part and we will give you a written agreement that after we set our stove or range up in your kitchen, we will any time within thirty days after trying the stove refund your money and remove our stove without any cost to you. You can have the best range in the house for $4.00 down and $4.00 per month, and on stoves from $2.00 to $3.00 down and $3.00 per month, or you can pay the balance at the expiration of thirty or sixty days and get a discount.—A. G. Rhodes & Son, Mobile, Ala.

The St. Clair radiant hot blast heater. For burning an inferior grade of coal, to obtain the very best heating results, economically, we want to call your attention to this practically built St. Clair heater. The fire pot is very heavy, and ribbed; this feature makes it durable and lasting. This adds to the life of your stove. The feed door is so arranged to admit the fuel without spilling any coal on the floor, and dampers are so arranged that all smoke or gas is taken off without filling your room with smoke when the fuel is being fed to the fire. These features alone recommend the radiant, but many others will be shown to prospective purchasers. See the radiant; it will heat your home at a light running expense.—The Grote-Rankin Company, Spokane, Wash.

There was a young woman who started to bake. Her range wouldn't work though a well-known make. She said "to-day I must hasten away, And get me a range that will bake every day." And she went to—Crane & Lockwood, Binghamton, N. Y.

You need a stove in the house. Grates are very cheery looking and architects rave over them and all that and all and all that. But when it gets down to the cold matter of dollars and cents it takes a whole coal mine to keep the average Memphis house even half way warm. Is genial warmth such an intangible blessing that every member of the family wouldn't be sure to appreciate it? Now the radiant home air blast heaters will heat the whole house as warm as toast and do it with far less coal than you now use in two or three rooms. It is the best heater there is short of the expensive hot water heating plant, which costs ten times as much. Why not come in and look at them, you'll decide that it is the best family gift you could make.—Orgill Brothers & Company, Memphis.

To get that appetizing, brown appearance and outside crispiness on roasts of lamb, beef, etc.—to keep their goodness in them—they must be basted. In the old style stove this necessitated reaching into the hot oven and moving the hot, heavy pan and holding it in the front of the oven while it was basted. A tedious performance with unsatisfactory results. The draw-out over rack of the Imperial Oxford Range makes basting a simple and successful operation.—The Gurney Foundry Co., Windsor, Ont.

On merit, and merit only do we make claims for the Regal Stuart. We ask a careful comparison with other ranges before buying. The owner of an R. S. range with reasonable care will have a safe and practically permanent investment. After once using you will fall in love with the Regal Stuart.—J. Lyon & Sons, Hartford, Conn.

Quality counts in ranges—and that is why New Kineo stoves have been held in greatest popularity all these years. New Kineo ranges are always to be depended upon to do the right thing at the right time.—Noyes & Nutter Mfg. Co., Bangor, Me.

The Buck's Hot Blast is built on scientific principles—it does not permit the 38 per cent. of gas and smoke in soft coal to escape up the chimney, but burns it up—turns it into fuel. That is why it is the most wonderful heater in the world. How can it help but be popular when it actually pays for itself in the fuel saving.—Crews-Beggs, Pueblo, Colo.

Fuel economy is an important feature in a range. Almost as important as good cooking facilities. Every housewife wants to do good cooking, but she doesn't want it to cost her too much in fuel. The good cooking qualities of the Imperial Oxford range are enhanced by its great fuel economy. The big scuttle of coal of other style ranges is replaced in Imperial Oxford homes by a smaller scuttle less often used.—The Gurney-Massey Co., Montreal, Can.

There was a young woman who started to bake,
Her range wouldn't work though a well-known make.
She said, "to-day I must hasten away,
And get me a range that will bake every day."

She purchased a Household, it worked like a charm,
And no baking days now fill her with alarm.
If you wish a new range to replace the old,
"Your Credit is Good" for the famous Household.
—Household Furnishing Co., New Bedford, Mass.

If the house is cold, remember that we've reduced prices on all parlor stoves and that "your credit is good" for the best stove here.—The Household Furnishing Co., New Bedford, Mass.

The Glenwood Home Grand range with asbestos lined oven and two oven shelves bakes three rows of food evenly at once. The asbestos lining keeps the oven at an absolutely even heat throughout, and with two oven shelves will finish the baking in one-third the time with less fuel. It triples baking capacity.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

Congress has opened! Many important questions will now be settled. We wish to settle an important question for you, and advise you not to put off buying as a boy does tooth pulling, until compelled by suffering to make a move. As the temperature goes down, prices go up. Let us sell you your stove now.—C. C. Griffen, Altoona, Pa.

Say Household Furnace to the carpenter who is building your house. Next winter, when the north winds come whistling around your new house, you'll thank us for telling you about the Household Furnace. The good-size wrought iron fire-pot, brick-lined, the Horseshoe Radiator, and the Patent Indirect Draft revertible Flue, all combine to make this the most efficient furnace built.—Ask S. C. Lowe about it. New Bedford, Mass.

Household ranges are "built to bake." Look at the large, honest ovens that will bake sixteen pies at once.—Household Furnishing Co., New Bedford, Mass.

The "Kitchen Queen" Steel Range, the pride of all Indiana, is made of true, strong, cold rolled steel plate, gauged in the thickness to the strain it must stand, which forms the walls or sides, the joints of which are absolutely air tight. The end walls and those around the firebox and reservoir are double thick, with an interlining of asbestos board—not paper or any substitute. These three thicknesses: steel, asbestos, steel, are fastened tight together, not only insuring great durability, but economy of fuel and quick heating. Every "Kitchen Queen" Steel Range warranted to bake, cook and heat.—People's Outfitting Co., Indianapolis.

There is a downright satisfaction, say nothing of warmth and comfort—in having a furnace that will burn any kind of fuel with economy and success, and keep one's house at a warm, even temperature at all times, that cannot be reckoned in dollars and cents.—Round Oak Furnace Co., Lansing, Mich.

The bane of common ranges is their uncertainty. Can't tell what they will do under given conditions, they are freaky, eccentric, tricky—sometimes they burn fiercely, at others you can get no heat—never can rely upon them. Why not have a non-worry, easily-managed, smooth-working range like the "Pandora" when it costs no more than the other kinds? You can set the "Pandora" to do a certain work and it does it—you can do anything else meanwhile. Take the air, don't be a slave to your range or your work.—McClary's, Montreal, Can.

Glenwood Ranges.—Wonders in economy, requiring the minimum supply of fuel.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

No use delaying! Don't let the next cold snap catch you unprepared. The rush in our stove department will grow as the winter approaches. The sooner you get a Glenwood the quicker will comfort come.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

Most stoves have improper draft and are also extravagant with coal. The grate uses oceans of air and oceans of coal both, and incidentally most of the heat is spent in reducing the outside temperature, via the chimney. The Radiant air blast heater is built on the real scientific basis with pockets all around the fire bowl so as to bring the draft to the fire on all sides and over the fire as well as under the fire. This burns up all the gas, soot, dirt and even the clinkers, and will keep your whole house warm with the coal you are spending on two rooms. Not expensive either.—Orgill Bros., Memphis, Tenn.

We carry Buck's Heaters in all styles, for wood or coal, and at all prices. The greatest feature of a Buck's Heater is its fuel-saving qualities. Fifty-eight years of heater construction and careful study of details has been applied to make them the most perfect heater sold. We have thousands of customers who are ready to praise the superiority of a Buck's Heater. If interested, come in and look them over. They are the handsomest heaters in the market.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

No modern kitchen is complete without a "Souvenir" range. The "Souvenir" is a well and durable made stove—an excellent baker and water heater—while for ease of management and economy of fuel it is absolutely without an equal.—McDonald & Willson, Toronto, Can.

Say nothing of warmth and comfort in having a heater that will burn any kind of fuel with economy and success, and keep one's house at a warm and even temperature at all times that cannot be reckoned in dollars and cents. The St. Clair Air Tight and Hot Blast heaters have the reputation of being just such heaters.—Watkins Bros., Pueblo, Colo.

It's the pride of all Indiana, is made of true, strong, cold-rolled steel plate, gauged in the thickness to the strain it must stand, which forms the walls or sides, the joints of which are absolutely airtight. The end walls and those around the firebox and reservoir are double thick with an interlining of asbestos board—not paper or any substitute. Every "Kitchen Queen" steel range warranted to bake, cook and heat.—People's Outfitting Co., Indianapolis.

You know this is the time of year to be thinking about how you are going to heat the rooms. What stoves you need and where you are going to buy them; what you are going to pay. We have during this Removal Sale a money saving sale. If you want a Stove, Range, Heater or Baseburner, we will save you 25 per cent.—Emahizer & Spielman, Topeka, Kan.

A stove-top hot—all over—a steady, even heat—are things appreciated by every housewife. The difficulty with the ordinary stove is that the fuel is fed under the lids—making two separate pyramids of fire—and an unevenly heated stove-top. Buck's stoves have extra large pouch feeds—allowing an even distribution of fuel—the entire length of the fire-box. The pouch feed also serves as a broiling door. Reasons—both of them—why you should own a Buck's stove. But there are many more good reasons. Let us tell you of them—and about our terms and prices—to-day.—A. G. Rhodes & Son, Mobile, Ala.

A Monarch Range is the best investment an economical woman can make. You can have a hot fire in five minutes with this range. Simply pull out the handle of the duplex draft and your fire burns up briskly and hotly. Around every opening and all through the range are malleable iron frames riveted tight and solid to the range body, opening up and causing air leaks.—McGowan Bros., Spokane, Wash.

Watch the window display. To-day we will place on sale a delayed car of granite iron several months in transit, but luckily bought before the advance, which means 25 per cent. of a saving to us, and to you the savings in many instances are one-half the price we would have to charge you had we to buy at the stiff advance placed on granite iron. For rapid selling we have placed them on tables as follows.—Rhodes Bros., Tacoma, Wash.

The Early Breakfast Steel Range is positively the best low price range in Spokane. It is not cheaply made, we simply make it a leader and sell it cheap. The materials that enter into its construction are the best and are carefully selected. The iron is all new pure pig iron of the best quality. The oven is large and the bottom so braced that it will not warp. The fire box is sufficiently large and yet not so large that it is not economical with fuel. The dampers and drafts are arranged in a scientific manner and will give best possible results. Price $35.—Globe, Pratt & Robins, Spokane, Wash.

Garland Stoves are perfect and even bakers—durable and fuel savers! Garland's need no schemes to sell them! They sell on their reputation. What gave them their reputation? Their merits—which have stood the test of time half a century. They cost no more than cheaper makes.—Harrison, Schulze & Co., Waco, Texas.

New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove saves fuel expense and lessens the work. Produces a strong working flame instantly. Flame always under immediate control. Gives quick results without overheating the kitchen. Made in three sizes. Every stove warranted. If not at your dealer's, write our nearest agency for descriptive circular.—Standard Oil Co., Joliet, Ill.

We are the home of the "Star Estate" range, one of the highest class ranges on the market. Carries a strong guarantee; gives perfect satisfaction. Should you want a cheaper range try our "Western," a fine, medium priced range. Or if you must have a still cheaper one, our "Leader" is without doubt the best cheap range sold to-day; made in three sizes, any one of which will give honest service.—Standard Furniture House, Spokane, Wash.

The stove that keeps you warm. The Manitoba Air Tight Heater is one of the best wood stoves on the market to-day—certainly the best value ever offered at the price. 26 gauge, cold rolled, planished steel bodies, heavy double seamed top and bottom, corrugated sheet steel lining above fire belt, nickel urn and nickel plated crew draft at bottom, heavy cast legs.—Hudson Bay Co., Winnipeg, Can.

How you can save in fuel every year $10. Have the great revolving fire-pot which is made in two pieces—that is to allow the air to pass into the fire between the two pieces instead of all coming in at the bottom. Hot fire where you want it, at the outside edge instead of the middle, where you get little radiation from it; and then the lower piece revolves, just put the crank on, give it a turn, and the fire-pot is as clean as a whistle. No poking, no fussing, no muss, no dust—it's the most durable fire-pot ever placed in a stove, and will save you a ton of coal every year you use it. "Garlands" are the only heaters which have revolving fire-pots. Prices of "Garlands" are $40.00 to $65.00.—C. A. Reinhart, Grand Forks, N. D.

Your kitchen will never be complete until you have a Stamford Range. Stop wasting fuel and time with an unsatisfactory range. Buy a Stamford and you will have a range which possesses not only beauty and strength, but embodies, as well, the constructive skill that makes for the greatest utility at least fuel expense. Stamford ranges are made in the oldest stove foundry in America and constructed throughout of the best materials obtainable and in the most approved manner. There is a Stamford model to suit your kitchen. Made in large sizes and small; some of plain and simple design—others highly ornamental. Buy a Stamford and get the best.—Horace R. Nash, South Norwalk, Conn.

This duplex grate will burn any kind of fuel. The first cost of a Buck's stove is but a small part of the original cost—the stove is so long-lived that it eats up many times its original price in fuel. A very small saving of fuel each day, means a tremendous saving during the lifetime of the stove—a saving of many times the original cost. This duplex grate saves fuel—for it admits oxygen to the burning fuel in such quantities that all its heat-giving power is exhausted and used. And further—this grate may be changed—in an instant—so as to burn either wood or coal, and it may be easily removed for cleaning or repairs, and without disturbing the water back. The fuel-saving quality of Buck's stoves should alone be a sufficient reason why you should own one. But there are other reasons. Let us tell you of them—to-day.—A. G. Rhodes & Son, Mobile.

St. Clair Ranges. The popular Reliance. The St. Clair Reliance is our medium-priced steel range and we are showing a complete line, from the small size, with a 14-inch oven, up to a range with a 20-inch oven and reservoir. Fuel saving, durability and attractive appearance make the Reliance one that will fill each housekeeper's stove wants. Let us show you the Reliance and its points of merit. We sell them on the easiest terms and guarantee satisfaction.—The Crote-Rankin Co., Spokane, Wash.

Get a new gas range for Christmas. And by all means a New Process Visible. No chance for explosion. In lighting the oven burner on the New Process Visible, it is necessary to open the oven door. This insures absolute safety, as no gas can accumulate in the oven before lighting. After the burner is lighted and the door closed, the burner can be plainly seen in operation through the mica opening and easily regulated without the necessity of opening the door and allowing the heat to be wasted.—A. F. Wheeler, Lexington, Ky.

HOSIERY

"No close confining work for me,
No cooping up from day to day,
When I have taken my degree,"
I confidently said to Mae.

Alas! unconsciously my gaze
On two trim ankles chanced to lurk;
With saucy smile the maid remarked,
"You seem to fancy open work."

—Cornell Widow.

Echoes from our annual sale and the August clearing up give you the Loeser quality of stockings and underwear at lower prices than the makers' cost.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Specials in Seasonable Hosiery.—But few things in the wardrobe wear out so rapidly as hose and you never knew a child who could not keep its mother busy darning stockings all the time. It isn't how much you pay for hosiery, it's how good they are. These values are good and the prices are low.—A. Hamburger & Sons, Los Angeles, Cal.

Good Sorts of Hosiery.—The following items contain explicit information about being well hosed at the smallest possible expense—next to having the hosiery given to you. There's news for men, women and children—and the socks and stockings mentioned are just the sorts you'll need for weeks to come. And you won't find equally low prices for such excellent qualities anywhere else.—Wanamaker's, New York.

We couldn't suggest anything in the way of hosiery cooler than these drop-stitch stockings with the open work all the way around and running down to the toe.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

It has been such a busy year with us in fancy hosiery that we have hundreds of pairs of this and that size from this and that line—so many different ones that we never could bother to keep them separated in their shelves. The easiest way is to close them out at no matter what price. In most cases they are the prettiest hosiery we have had. You know it's the prettiest lines that first become broken. So we shall conduct a sale of fancy hosiery the like of which hasn't been heard of in Los Angeles.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles.

Summer Sale of Hosiery.—Was the hot weather waiting for this sale? Certainly no offering we ever made was more timely; for here are exactly the garments vital to hot weather comfort, offered at quite positive—some at almost sensational—reductions, just at the moment when hot weather is ready to pounce upon us in earnest.—Wanamaker's, New York.

The hosiery styles for autumn have been settled, and the Oxford gray novelties have been enthusiastically accepted by well-dressed men.—The W. G. Simmons Corporation, Hartford, Conn.

Children's Day in the Hosiery Sale.—Every mother knows what active children are when it comes to stocking-darning time. Now, this sale has made it entirely unnecessary for women to strain their eyes or waste their time and patience darning children's stockings. Stockings are cheaper than the value of a mother's time. Fill the children's stocking drawers at the hosiery sale Saturday and devote your darning time to a pleasant book and a quiet rest. Don't forget your own requirements, either. The hosiery sale provides hosts of hosiery for everybody, though it's the children's we itemize today.—The Robert Simpson Co., Toronto, Ont.

Women's Lisle Hosiery at 19c. Go east, west, north or south, madam, and you won't find an equally good hosiery value. You know the value of fine brilliant lisle thread hosiery. Well, these are made in lace work effects, too, all the more desirable for that, eh?—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

A hosiery harvest. That's to say—for you the harvesting, for us the winnowing. We've been sorting over our stock of men's and women's hosiery—ejecting small lots. Then some shipments arrived late—these join the gathering. A mighty interesting gathering, too—all attractive summer styles of hosiery, at an average of half price.—Wanamaker's, New York.

School hose. Regular fence climbers!—Newman's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Children's Hosiery.—As the mother sits patiently and darns the stockings of her young family she wonders if there is any stocking made that a school girl or boy can't wear out. It is true that some stockings are superior, but no active school child can show you the difference. Be philosophical and don't buy expensive hosiery for the juvenile element. These values are just right.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

School Stockings That Will Wear.—One of the hardest trials of the mother who takes pride in her romping boy's appearance, is keeping his stockings from getting "holey." We can't prevent the rough and tumble of school life, but we can provide the boys and girls with hose that are thoroughly dependable and are as durable as yarn can be made, reinforced, too, where there is most wear.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

We at last have something that everybody wants. A stocking with a linen knee that will wear not wear out. They are for both boys and girls.—Jas. E. Walker & Co., Frederick, Md.

A sale of spring and summer hosiery and underwear. This is an offering of excellent garments for both men and women, in exactly the weights that are wanted at this time.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Everything to make little feet glad in the way of pretty stockings.—The Waschauer Store, Madison, Ill.

Savings on Hosiery.—Whether you wish the serviceable cotton hose or most elaborate silk ones, we have them, and are offering them at such a great reduction that the saving will warrant your buying for future use, if not for present needs.—C. H. Janes Co., Spokane, Wash.

Several thousand pairs of rattling good 50 cent hose.

Mostly darkish patterns.

All sizes.

Twenty-five cents a pair.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

Serviceable Hosiery.—Our stock is all carefully selected for superior quality and serviceableness, for artistic patterns and permanent coloring. We carry an assortment that enables us to supply every need, from the boys' strong bicycle hose or the smallest infant's socks to the finest silk lace patterns.—J. W. Robinson Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Men will rush for this splendid hosiery, close to half price. Heretofore it was impossible to secure this splendid hosiery in Canada. It could only be bought in England. A Canadian manufacturer installed the necessary machines to knit them, and to introduce them, offered us the first knitting at close to half price. It was like giving them away.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Got a boy at your house? One of those romping, noisy, healthy, real boys—with a vigorous appetite and a wonderful power of getting through his clothes? We've a line of stockings he can't wear out.—Moore & McLeod, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

This hosiery question is a most important one, especially with the mothers. How often you hear, "My boys are so hard on their stockings." Well, now, look here—We've been thinking about you and are putting into stock this week the greatest line of hose for boys we have ever shown.—J. B. Hill & Co., St. Thomas, Ont.

In stylish sox we have any style you want.—American Clothing Co., Kenton.

Here's an instance where by spending money you make it—every pair of these socks or stockings—kinds for the whole family—is much under the lowest market price.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Hosiery in Satisfying Assortment.—An inkling of some of the season's daintiest hosiery may be gained by a glimpse into one of the Main St. windows. It's but a drop in the bucket, however, to the lavish assortment that hosiery counters show. There you will find everything that clever makers can fashion from cotton and lisle in black and white, white and black, and fancies in almost endless variety.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Ladies who like niceness in hosiery will do well to read—and buy. A black cotton hose, guaranteed stainless, extra finish, spliced heel and toe, 12 1-2c. a pair.—McConnell & Co., Scranton, Pa.

Great sale sample hosiery continues. Women!—are you getting your share of these wonderful values?—The Big Store, Marion, Ind.

Men's hosiery and underwear. In quality, assortment and exceptional values for money expended—we easily lead! This is no idle dream; but cold, hard facts of which you can easily convince yourself by an early visit to our store. Be your own judge. Without further argument we submit the following specials for your consideration now; feeling more than assured of your subsequent purchase.—Robbin & Padden, Utica, N. Y.

Stevens' Special Hosiery.—Bewildering assortment; moderate prices. Learn to know the Stevens special brand of hosiery; you will profit by the acquaintance.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Bait for Boys.—Several hundred dozen more of the good long stockings that we occasionally sell under price. Fast black; seamless. Sizes, 6 to 10; 2 pairs for 25 cents.—Rogers, Peet & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Boys' Stockings.—When boys' stockings cost as little as these, what's the use of darning? They really encourage laziness, but then this is lazy weather.—W. C. Cameron, Victoria, B. C.

Are you in need of good stockings? Numerous trade circumstances place these excellent values within your reach—make the most of them.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Our packing Room Looked Like a Wholesale Hosiery House.—This past week our spring stock of 1,000 dozen Topsy Hose arrived, and it makes a tremendous showing. In this stock there's everything worth showing, buying or selling. It is as complete a line as any Eastern concern ever carries. We surely can suit you if any one can.—Harry Johnson & Co., Pueblo, Col.

Hosiery Novelties.—It's in evidence in the hosiery department just the same as it is in every other department of our store—the new novelties and original creations are always shown here, long before you see them elsewhere. We have to show you to-day many designs in French, English and German makes that are quite different to any you've seen heretofore.—Daniel Bros. Co., Atlanta.

Put a pair of These Stockings Through Your Finger Ring. Easy enough to do it—they are the cobwebbiest sorts you ever saw, and they are very much the present rage, too.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Here's Hosiery of Special Merit At Prices Specially Low. Women would do well to buy their summer supply of hos-

New Hosiery in the Very Newest Colors. Those who are going to buy new hosiery to-morrow will likely wish to peep at these new hose in the latest shades of tan, in lisle and cotton. Some are plain, others embroidered in assorted colors. Many beautiful all-over lace hose and hose with lace ankles.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

A blue stocking—and an aristocrat. Some years ago a friend of the store while traveling abroad found in a little German shop stockings that proved to be the best he had ever worn. They were of specially fine lisle thread and dyed a good navy blue. They kept their shape perfectly. They were fast color. They were the coolest hosiery and the best wearing hosiery he ever tried. He told us about them and the result is that they have been for some years a feature of the Loeser Store for men. You cannot buy them anywhere else in this country. Very many of Brooklyn's best dressed men wear them almost exclusively. They are especially attractive in summer, when a navy blue, which is the only color, makes a particularly pretty contrast to tan shoes.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Best Stock Tan Hosiery in the City—We know—because we have taken pains to find out—that in all the city there isn't another stock of tan hosiery for women that equals in variety and attractiveness the one we have ready now.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Experienced people say nothing like it has ever been seen here before during the last thirty-seven years of merchandising in Atlanta. The quantity is colossal—the variety is immense—the values are irresistible and the prices the lowest ever offered. Our hosiery, knit underwear and men's furnishing departments, with counters extending a distance of one hundred and eighty feet, were thronged all day yesterday with people buying earnestly and assuredly. No crowd too great to handle, but with happy, satisfied countenances, selecting with pleasure and the aid of plenty of competent salespeople, a host of people secured the greatest bargains ever put before them. It's not ended. The quantity is too large to exhaust in one or two days' selling. The values are just as fine, the variety is just as choice for to-morrow's business. We expect an even greater crowd to-morrow and will have more salespeople ready to serve.—M. Rich & Bros. Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Dependable stockings of more than usual goodness at the prices. You may as well have what's best and most correct—particularly when such exceptional values as the following are to be had.—Kaufman, Colorado Springs, Colo.

The popularity of the low shoe this season gives greater prominence than ever to the hosiery. Our lisle thread hose with neat hand-embroidered effects in colored silk are the most desirable combination of service and attractiveness. Brown shades to match our tan shoes, the new Dresden and Cadet blues for complimentary contrast with tan, the grays for patent leather, besides the standard blacks and whites. We also have some very choice offerings in silk and combination silk with lisle thread. Right up in the front of the store where you can be served at a moment notice.—Alliance Footwear Co., Rochester, N. Y.

One year ago we celebrated our fourth year in hosiery with a grand sale that surpassed any similar sale that ever took place in this city. We now celebrate the close of the fifth year with a sale that surpasses that of last year. There are thousands of dozens of hosiery at such sacrifice prices as to shake the stocking trade of this town. Every pair a positive bargain; new, seasonable goods; direct importation.—Cammeyer, New York, N. Y.

Pure silk hose, in light blue, pink and black; plain and dropstitch styles; also a lot of black lisle hose, elaborately embroidered and appliqued—broken size assortments, only one and two pairs of a kind—at vast reductions this week. They are this season's accumulations. We are going to dispose of them at about half the original prices.—Titcher-Goettinger Co., Dallas, Tex.

Hosiery that has come from over the sea. Much of our hosiery is shipped us from abroad. And the latest importation has just reached this store. The cases have been opened, the wrappings removed and the modish and most excellent of the fresh season's hosiery is massed on our counters—to please particularly critical customers. Cold type is an unsatisfactory medium through which to give much idea of what we have to show you. Ten minutes spent in our hosiery department will tell you more.—The Reid & Hughes Dry Goods Co., Waterbury, Conn.

These stockings will be purchased by the dozen pairs if women realize what extraordinary value they are. Just think of being able to buy two pairs of excellent stockings for the ordinary price of one! They're in sheer lisle thread, with dainty lace insteps and allover lace effects—20 different styles for selection—in black and smart tan shades; also plain gauze lisle thread stockings, the coolest summer stocking made—in tan and black. All sizes. Take your pick at 12 1-2c. pair.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

Another phenomenal hosiery and underwear sale. Stockings, and half hose for men, women and children at prices so ridiculously low that it is impossible to appreciate how fine the goods are until they are seen. They are samples and consequently the maker's best in each line, but as samples they are not in boxes or packed fancily, but absolutely perfect in themselves.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Somebody said the other day—"I always go to so-and-so's for stockings. They have such good ones there at three pairs for a dollar." Naturally curious, we made comparisons with our own three-for-a-dollar sort, and the result was all in our favor. This is just by way of example. Whatever you pay for stockings here, whether it be 12 1-2c or $8 a pair, you may be sure of getting the best value you can obtain anywhere for the outlay.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Within this price range you may expect to find to-morrow such hosiery as rarely comes within this price limit. Lisle, Maco cottons and Egyptian yarns. Fast dye blacks, ribbed or plain; some lace lisle threads for women are among them.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

They come to us from two of the most prominent importers in the trade, at a price that enables us to offer the very finest hosiery ever brought to this country—intended for this spring's trade—at prices that no thrifty woman can afford to ignore. This is an extremely rare opportunity to buy your season's supply for very little money.—Ehrich, New York, N. Y.

This great annual money-saving hosiery function sounds the keynote of substantial economy. A host of people look and wait for it that they may supply their needs for a whole year. This year we are a few days earlier with this sale, but the extra advantages we give will make it all the more acceptable.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Fay stockings—a great thing for the children. No garters, no tearing of stockings but a good protection against the cold.—New York Store, Crookston.

Hosiery at Almost Half Price.—Very attractive Hosiery at still more attractive prices—that is the only way these lots can be properly characterized.—Straubridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Women's Lisle Hose, a Variety of Patterns, 25c. a Pair.—To-morrow we place on sale a variety of women's lisle hose at 25c. a pair. These usually sell at 35c. and are good value at that price. Choice is from black lace lisle all-overs, black lisle with lace ankles, black lisle lace ribbed, or plain black lisle.—Joseph Horne & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Lost, Our Black Cat.—When he saw our heavy ribbed with double thread and fast colored with deep head tops cotton stockings at 15c., all sizes, he left in disgust. He said it almost made him mew. As we have only 600 pairs that we will sell, he promised to come back. Finder will be rewarded with a pair of double knees, double toes and double heels, extra long length, Black Cat Stockings, worth 45c. To-day's customers will have a choice of other makes at 10c., 15c. and 20c. But the Black Cat brand at 25c., 35c. and 45c., is best.—Jas. Paton & Co., Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Low shoes mean for most men higher priced hose than with high shoes—one's socks are so much more in evidence. It's a lucky chance that brings higher priced hose to a lower price level just at the beginning of low shoe time. Several hundred dozens of samples of imported fancy hose, from probably the biggest importers of high grade hose—so far as we know, all are 75 cents and $1 qualities. Of a distinction in pattern and coloring rarely found in less expensive grades. 50 cents a pair.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

Hosiery seconds never masquerade here as first quality. While in many cases you would never detect these trifling defects in knitting, we are frank to tell you that they are there. These ladies' hose are seconds and hence are very cheap.—Sibly, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Now for Tons of Socks and Stockings. Annual hosiery event without an equal. The same reasons which have always made our great white goods sales of such unparalleled success enter largely into the plan of this great sale. The merchandise itself is the best that the world's markets afford. The prices less than the cost of making. And as our purchase prices are the lowest known, our selling prices are all the more remarkable because we have sacrificed profit. You will find this the largest display of the kind ever made in retail merchandising—the very newest things for Spring and Summer wear, the catchy colors, as well as the more subdued shades and ever serviceable blacks. These prices cannot be duplicated after this sale—cotton is going up—as you know the opportunity is now—and includes men, women and children.—Fredrick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Notable values in new spring hosiery. Import orders for these splendid spring stockings were placed far enough in advance for us to positively assure a saving of from 25 to 40 per cent. Duplicate orders will necessarily have to be filled at current prices; therefore, it certainly behooves you to supply your spring and summer needs while such exceptional price opportunities exist.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

A child's stocking which can be guaranteed for wear, is a sure thing that at once attracts the attention of mothers who have trouble keeping the children in stockings.—C. W. Hoyt & Co., Galesburg, Ill.

The well dressed woman of to-day is just as particular in the selection of her hosiery as any other portion of her apparel, for you'll find no greater mark of refined good taste than proper hosiery. Dainty stockings enhance the appearance of a neat pair of shoes, and it is to those who appreciate a fine quality, superior finish and a dainty style that our Gordon Dye' hosiery appeals.—Bon Marche, Asheville, N. C.

To give the best of value is always our ambition. Value shows up really in children's stockings, for there is no article of wear that must bear rougher usage. At first we could not get just the right sort of child's stockings, but for the last two years we have been carrying one line exclusively, and they are giving satisfaction to every one. In dye they are stainless, fine and heavy rib—10c and 13c a pair.—Kline Bros., Altoona, Pa.

A guaranteed hose for 25c. Surely a much needed stocking since most stockings sold at 25c and even more, fail to give the satisfaction they ought. Since putting in the stockings we have greatly increased our hosiery business, and so many ladies ask for it having been told about it by their friends.—C. W. Hoyt & Co., Galesburg, Ill.

Warm Hosiery for Cold Days.—To use a trade term, we're a little "long" on several lines of hosiery—and to quickly reduce stocks we've reduced the prices.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Men's fancy hose. Many new and beautiful designs. Just the thing for your new Oxfords. If it's the quiet patterns you like they are here.—A. Bellak, York, Pa.

Hosiery for women to wear now. The stockings are new arrivals, in the popular plain black; carefully made, well proportioned and very moderately priced.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Honest hosiery. That is the keynote to our success in this department. They'll wear; they'll wash. They will give you every satisfaction that a good stocking can give, and they will not cost you any more than the trashy kind.—Rosenthal Dry Goods Co., Peoria, Ill.

Bring to your mind every kind of high-grade hosiery you know of and you cover a description of these 1,350 pairs of hosiery which have been used as samples by a leading importer. In the assortment can be found plain lisle, open work lace lisle and cobweb lisle hosiery, all with garter top, double heel, toe and sole; some are fancy embroidered. The colors are tan, black, white, champagne and a good sprinkling of fancy shades. None are worth less than 50c, some as much as $1.00, choice 29 cents.—The David-Straus Co., Newark, N. J.

We have made quite a study of the hosiery question, and we firmly believe that Verge's hosiery excels all others. Particularly is this true in regard to our Fay hose. One pair of these hose will outwear a number of pairs of any other kind, and then, as they fasten directly to the waist no hose supporters are needed, another big saving; and again, they protect the upper limbs on account of the length.—Verge's, Great Falls.

You will be well repaid for the time you may spend in a critical examination and thorough comparison of our hosiery with others. The new novelties—late ideas for evening wear—are here. In the showing you will see many patterns others are exhibiting as "exclusive designs." Get their "exclusive" pattern in mind—come here and buy it for about half or a third less.—The New Store, Minneapolis, Minn.

A soft, durable hosiery, made especially for tender feet—every pair is made from the finest combed Egyptian maco yarn, with a natural sole. Being in its natural state, is free from acids, chemicals and dyes and positively does not burn the feet—these stockings are durable and very elastic, full 28 inches long—made in Chemnitz, Germany, the home of fine hosiery—fast black, dyed by Hermsdorf, double soles, heels and toes, in two qualities.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Hosiery—a bigger, better, brighter stock than ever before. Styles, qualities and prices that tempt buyers to take them away by armsful. Eyes and hands trained to the work selected every pair. Nondescript sorts were omitted, kinds made for costermongers' carts were passed—products of inferior yarns merely pressed into shape instead of being woven full-fashioned could not get into the company of our high-class, thorough, perfect goods.—Chamberlin-Johnson-Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Hosiery of the finest character, so perfect in workmanship and high in quality that we stand back of every pair, will to-morrow make one of the most remarkable offerings we have had to announce yet. All of the stockings are new. They come from the best makers of Chemnitz. They are perfection in weave and the very latest in styles. They make a hosiery sale of a new class—a sale that offers stockings which are seldom to be bought under price.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

You'll do well if you snap up this chance to lay in a good stock of hosiery for this fall and winter. This hosiery is of just the very weight that you want, and the styles and colorings throughout this great assortment give the widest possible range for selection.—Bloomingdale's, New York, N. Y.

A few years ago an American went into a little German shop and bought some stockings. There seemed to be nothing unusual about them at that time, but he found them to be far and away the best stockings he had ever worn.

They were made of a peculiarly fine lisle thread and dyed a good navy blue. They did not lose their shape, as stockings ordinarily do. They fitted as perfectly after many handlings as at the beginning. They were absolutely fast color and the coolest hosiery he had ever worn. So satisfactory were they that after some investigation the American learned the maker of these stockings, and as a result they have been for a long time one of the specialties of the Loeser Store for Men.

Many Brooklyn men have tried them, generally because of some one's personal recommendation. Hardly any one will wear anything else, once they are known. The navy blue, which is the only color, is a particularly pretty contrast to the tan oxfords which are in such high favor this season.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Many a woman looks forward to the February hosiery sale as an escape from the tediousness of the darning basket. And really it is not worth the time, energy and the eyesight to darn great holes, rents and worn places when hosiery is so cheap. Let us advise you to fill the stocking drawers while such prices as these for Monday are at your service.—Simpson, Toronto, Can.

Novelties of the highest order, just in time for the warm weather. Serviceable, cool, thin as tissue, made in all the desirable shades and weaves. Assortments are complete, and this is an opportunity to procure high-grade hosiery at much below the actual cost, which particular women will appreciate.—H. O'Neill & Co., New York.

Tan Hosiery—The Newest Styles.—We have a superb assortment, though many dealers complain of a scarcity. But, then, we foresaw the popularity of tan, and made our selections early. So there is no scarcity here.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Ready with Everwear hosiery. We are now ready again to sell you the Everwear hosiery having just received a large shipment. We will also announce the arrival of ladies' Everwear hosiery when they are here. They are sold under the same guarantee as men's. Realizing that when Everwear hosiery became known as the best wearing hosiery made—that when it became known that they would positively wear for six months, or new ones would be given in exchange free, we hastened to secure the exclusive agency for San Bernardino, and they cannot be bought in any other store than at The Hub.—The Hub, San Bernardino, Cal.

Astonishing bargain chances. No rest for the progressive—'tis a week of matchless values—we're up and doing. We're noted for good underwear and hosiery direct from the mills.—Biller's, Davenport, Iowa.

Hosiery. Do you want shapely, well-made hosiery that will not lose its style after its first introduction to soap and water? Of course, you desire to get it for as little money as possible; that's human nature. Here are some tempting offerings.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

The first business day of March presents spring styles of women's hosiery. Right at the beginning of the season, these remarkable values crop to the surface. Styles that mirror the fashion of months to come; qualities that stand for all that is thoroughly good and desirable.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York City.

This is one of those rare hosiery offers which materialize so advantageously to the purchaser.—Kaufmann, Pittsburg.

You ought to have pretty hosiery in summer, especially if you wear low shoes. We have some very beautiful designs in embroidered and lace stockings, which, though very thin and cool in fabric are so splendidly made, and of such fine quality that they simply wear excellently. They are uncommonly good values and worthy in every way of the careful consideration of economical women.—N. E. Ryan & Co., South Norwalk, Conn.

Our hosiery pricing always creates unusual comment. If you will visit this department this week you will be no less surprised than on many former occasions. Another big deal consummated.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago.

The importer's entire surplus stock of the very finest and sheerest cobweb weight imported lisle thread will certainly make this the liveliest hosiery sale New York has experienced this Summer or any other. Every correct shade of tan is included—the kind that are so popular and will be, right up to cool weather. The patterns are the most stunning you've seen—all new. They're full length, lace lisle hose and the famous Hermsdorf dye puts the finishing touch to their desirability.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

You'll find here the most exclusive showing of imported hosiery south of New York. The most important fact which we wish to establish in the minds of the ladies of Washington is that all our hosiery is imported—the newest French novelties are always to be seen in our immense assortment.—Louvre Glove Co., Washington, D. C.

The annual winter hosiery sale opens to-morrow. Never in full complement of our previous hosiery sales have we been able to show you so great an assortment at discount prices. We have sampled the output of the best factories in all of manufacturing Europe. We think you will be satisfied beyond the slightest question with the result. Quality considered, prices have never been so delightfully insignificant. We are not going to tell you the whole story to-day. We are simply offering three specimen values, which we want you to understand as fairly and squarely representative of half a hundred others.—Simpson, Toronto, Can.

Hosiery bargains. The strongest argument we might present in favor of the excellence of the hosiery specials is that the articles occupy the center sales counter, north side, the space allotted exclusively to the exploiting of offers better than the ordinarily good.—John T. Myres, Albany, N. Y.

Included in this assortment are gauze lisle and silk lisle, hand-embroidered and pure thread silk hose; the gauze are plain black, tan, light pink and navy blue; also opera length hose in pale pink; balbriggan in out sizes; silk lisle in black, with hand-embroidered insteps with garter tops, lace lisle hose in black, tan, light pink, light and dark blue, brown, champagne and the new shades of brown; black lisle with white soles or all white feet; gauze lisle with hand-embroidered insteps in lavender, green, blue and white; pure thread silk hose in black with embroidered insteps in assorted patterns; are positively fast colors; high spliced heels and toes and extra double soles.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Wonderful values in Topsy hosiery. Martin's for good hosiery! You hear this every day. For years we have made a specialty of Topsy hosiery. We carry a complete line at all times, but just now we show the largest stock in our history. Our buyers saw the advance and placed orders accordingly. You can buy good hose at less than old prices. No matter where you see hose we can show the same or better quality at a less price. Investigate. Recently we overheard this conversation: "How do you manage to have your darning done so quickly? It takes me half a day to get my darning done." The lady answered: "It is easily explained. I buy all our hosiery at Martin's. Topsy hose do not require so much darning." Moral—do likewise.—Martin's, Peoria, Ill.

Large savings on makers' sample hosiery. Judging from the remarks made by the women who bought hosiery in this sale it is the most popular hosiery sale we've ever had. The true merits of these bargains are properly understood by those who bought them, we are positive of this from the mere fact that this hosiery are samples from the country's greatest makers, and if we do say it ourselves, samples are just a wee bit better than the goods they represent. This has always been the case with everything. We know and we tell you, to properly arouse your saving spirit tomorrow.—Gimbel's, Milwaukee, Wis.

Children's hose that will stand children's wear. To keep the youngsters in hose—that's a problem for mothers to solve. But it's not so hard after all. Of course, children will kick holes into their stockings eventually, no matter what kind they are, but Eaton hosiery puts off the evil day as long as possible. We have had our children's hosiery woven specially for this store by the best Canadian and European mills, and our stipulations call for the best work that can be done.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Women's fine black hosiery, made of extra strong maco cotton; guaranteed fast black; has double heel and toe; extra long and very elastic hemmed garter top.—Redlick's, Fresno, Cal.

The vogue for white stockings with low patent leather footwear started last season. It will reach the pinnacle of popularity this year. After all, there's a dainty old-time quaintness about the style that makes it charming. White hosiery, of course, with white footwear, for everybody. And never was even this hosiery store so splendidly prepared to meet the demand.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Silk hosiery sale—second day. If you couldn't come to-day, do so to-morrow. Assortments will still be good. Values are the best and assortment most varied that you have ever been offered in a sale devoted solely to high class silk hosiery. Details are repeated below for reference.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

We have at last received another shipment of Everwear hose. This famous Everwear hosiery is sold under a positive guarantee to wear for six months without developing the slightest hole, rip or tear. They cost us more than the ordinary kind. They are soft and silky; the dye is absolutely fast; they do not rot, fade or shrink, or harden. Everwear is sold only in boxes of six pairs.—The Hub, San Bernardino, Cal.

Clearing manufacturer's samples hosiery and underwear. Hosiery and knit underwear from the best makers; the most carefully constructed samples, made to stand the closest inspection of critical judges, and notwithstanding the fact of having been exhibited to many buyers, far and near, they are even better than the regulation run of regularly boxed at the mill goods. Your chance to buy 1,200 pairs men's, women's and children's samples pairs hose, one-third off. 960 knit undergarments for women, factory sample lots, one-third to one-half off.—The Williams & Rodgers Co., Cleveland, O.

Buster Brown Stockings. Buster Brown has been such a good friend to the boys and girls in so many ways it is only fitting that an extra good stocking should be christened "Buster Brown." Fine and wide ribbed, good, strong, heavy stockings that will stand wear and rough usage. They are well reinforced and fast black; have shaped ankles. They are usually sold at two shillings, but value standards of this store make them 19c a pair; six pairs for $1.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

This is the well-known Burson hose. It is made with high spliced heel and toe, and is absolutely seamless. Guaranteed perfectly fast black.—Rosenthal Dry Goods Co., Peoria, Ill.

The name Onyx—with all that the word implies, in regards stockings—has made this the biggest and most popular hosiery department in town. Onyx stockings fit and wear and possess more style than any others and cost no more.—N. B. Blackstone Co., Los Angeles.

Women's hosiery, all the broken lines and odd lots of lisle, in several weights of plain black, white and nearly all shades.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Just for to-morrow, so read on. Women's and young ladies' 25c lace open-work hosiery a pair 14c. Nothing that we could mention would be more welcome than these desirable warm weather stockings. With the return of low shoes in high favor, lace stockings are most popular now and, of course, will be for at least five months to come. It is only through buying way back last year that we are able to price these splendid stockings at the irresistible figures named. The dyes are true and fadeless, the designs varied and numerous. While the qualities are an elegant lisle thread finish, every pair is properly shaped, correctly sized and made as perfectly as any of the much higher priced hosiery. The colors are pink, light blue, white, and black and brown. In sizes to fit any woman or miss. We advise the buying of a few pairs of each, as later they will surely cost more. Please don't overlook the fact that only to-morrow may these be had at 14c.—Phila. Bargain Store, Trenton, N. J.

Of the great purchase sale of hosiery. Ladies' 35c and 40c hose 23c a pair, or 3 pair for 65c. The great purchase sale of ladies' hosiery has commenced with a rush. Such a hosiery chance as this occurs but once in a decade. This lot comprised hundreds of pairs of fine English cashmere hose, ribbed and plain, mostly black, but a few tan in the lot, absolutely fast dye, seamless, spliced heels and toes, all perfect in every particular, the overstock of a large manufacturer secured by our buyer for cash. According to our invariable custom, we give you benefit of the exceptionally low price at which these goods were secured. The real values range from 35c to 40c a pair. Great purchase sale price, per pair, 23c.—Z. Paquet, Quebec, Can.

Hosiery, like every other article in the list of commodities, has advanced in first hands; fortunately our order was placed as far back as last September for hose to be delivered March 1st. Plain cotton, lisle and lace effects in fast black at 25c., 39c., 50c., 75c. Silk hose, in black and colors, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50. Children's mercerized hose, white and colors, 25c. Nowhere can be found a better equipped hosiery department.—Kennard & Co., Wilmington, Del.

Women's fancy colored hosiery. To be right up-to-date you must wear hosiery and shoes to match or harmonize with your gown. Silk hosiery is out of the question for daily wear, but we have a full new line of beautiful fine lisle hosiery in every shade imaginable, in plain silk lisle and in lace boot effects, French gray, pink, copenhagen blue, champagne, flame red, lavender, marine blue, white, Nile green and all the leather shades. The scarcity of hosiery in the russet shades makes it of interest to know that we have a full line of them. A line of fancy black hose with white extracted coin spots and other conventional designs are among the latest novelties. Look at our full window display. Nova colors. With reference to the fancy colored hosiery it is important to know you can match a white canvas shoe to almost any of the above named shades by using the Nova colors, which can be found in the shoe department. They come in lavender, pink, blue and other desirable shades. Women's fancy embroidered hose 25 cents. Good plain black hose at this price is a rather scarce article, not to speak of the embroidery. These are in Hermsdorf fast black embroidered in small neat designs of different colors and patterns. A particularly good substitute for the frailer lisle hose, for ordinary wear with the half-shoe. Very serviceable; spliced heel and toe.—Weinstock, Lubin & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Sale of hosiery for men, women and children. Our hosiery department has been steadily increasing in size and sales. This may not especially interest you, but the reason for it certainly does:—selling at a closer margin of profit, and giving a better value than most stores has caused this steady increase. To attract a still wider acquaintance to the goodness of our hosiery, we will hold a sale for the balance of the week, during which we will reduce our already low prices.—David Strauss Co., Newark.

“Silklike” hosiery. Looks like silk. Wears better. A new product introduced by the Loeser store and sold here exclusively. The finest, silkiest hosiery to be bought for the price—and with the additional merit that the silky appearance is permanent. The genuine has the stamp “Silklike” on the toe. Look for it.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Sample sale of stockings. All-silk, silk-lisle, lisle and cotton stockings for women—the complete sample line from Lord and Taylor of New York. This will be one of our famous 25c. sample sales of high-grade stockings, and it will be one of the best we ever held. While the quantity is not so large as in some previous styles, the quality and values are far superior to any heretofore offered. Many of the samples are the well known Onyx brand—some are Hermsdorf dyed. There are full assortments of all styles—plain, fancy and pretty embroidered effects. We particularly advise you to be on hand at the opening hour, for the stockings will be sold out in a few hours. Silk stockings will be limited to two pairs to a customer—telephone orders will not be filled—no stockings will be sent on approval or C. O. D. Mail orders cannot be filled. The sale will be held in the Wabash aisle. Extra sales-people have been provided. Let nothing keep you away—52c for $2.00 stockings!—Field, Schlick & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Silklike hosiery. Looks like silk—wears better. In appearance and even in “feel” this hosiery is so nearly like that you might easily mistake it for silk. But it is of lisle and cotton of very fine grades and with a peculiarly high luster. It is made expressly for us and sold only through the Loeser store. It holds its luster and will give unusual wear.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Probably no other line of merchandise has advanced more steadily than hosiery, and assuredly in no other line is there such a scarcity. Sales of this character, however, at the Bamberger store are planned months and months ahead, and no matter how high the current prices may be we are always ready with a most attractive collection of offerings. The following specials for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday are brilliant specimens of our ability to underbuy and undersell.—Bamberger, Newark, N. J.

Silk embroidery stockings direct from Germany. Excellent quality black lisle stockings, with dainty little rosebuds and tiny roses embroidered over the surface. Also delicate openwork effects. There are many, many styles; we mention but a few: Lace clocks, embroidery and openwork; lace clocks, with embroidery panel between; alternate openwork and embroidery panels.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Imported novelties in half hose. Neat, attractive, effective, without being loud, are the designs and colors in the lisle half hose from France, for men. There are very dainty geometrical designs, with the faintest touch of contrasting or harmonizing color, drop stitch effects, dainty clocks—many of the styles being exclusive here in Brooklyn. We know of no assortment so comprehensive, so satisfactory in every way to the man who would be well dressed. Price for quality exceedingly moderate, $1.25 a pair. The German half hose just received have very clever reproductions of the more expensive sox, the coloring being perfect, effective particularly in the natty white and black, gray and white checks that are so dressy for low shoes. It is rather difficult to distinguish these sox from the higher priced varieties, the difference being in the material itself, though there is little difference in wearing quality. Price, 48 cents.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We have advertised our hosiery department but little. We felt that the splendid hosiery we sell and the very low prices at which we sell it would do the advertising, and it has; for we number among our hosiery customers a host of appreciative patrons. They have learned that they can save from 5c. to 50c. a pair on their hose at the Sorosis store. So can you.—Sorosis Shoe Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Hosiery for the holidays. For over six months we have been making careful preparations for the finest display of Christmas hosiery possible to obtain. It is therefore with the greatest confidence that we invite your inspection of our splendidly selected stock, and call your particular attention to the following Monday specials.—Mannheimer Bros., St. Paul, Minn.

HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS

Willie Binks—Say, pa, when are we goin' to move out to Bubblehurst?

Mr. Binks—Just as soon as the house is finished, son.

"Ain't there goin' to be any family in it but us?"

"No."

"Then there won't be anybody upstairs playing 'Alamo and 'Hiawatha,' will there?"

"I should say not!"

"Aw! Honest?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

To Newly Married Folks:

It is to those who have shuffled off their mortal coil of single blessedness that we address ourselves to-day. It is to their sense of the economical, to their appreciation of the elegant and good things in housefurnishings that we wish to appeal. We know that we are in a position to help you materially on the economical side, and a casual glimpse into our great store, filled to its utmost capacity with good equipment for your new home, will convince you that we possess the elegant and substantial things. Young man, if you've just been married, or are just about to be, come in and look around a bit. Bring the girl with you, for it's a ten to one shot that she's got a better idea of what's wanted in the newly made nest than you have—and, anyway, what's to be bought. Bring her in, we say, and let some of our salespeople go through the building and show you how cheaply a house can be furnished throughout from this store.—Mahaffey, Canton, O.

Housefurnishing and china bargains. This isn't a clearing movement. It isn't a reduction of old stock. It is a sale of new — desirable — reliable — housefurnishings and china. It is more than a mere sale. It is an event. This merchandising occasion is one of the most important, if not the most important in the month of February. Its wonderful success is due to the matchless opportunities which it brings to careful buyers.—Rothenberg & Co., New York.

Our fiftieth half-yearly stupendous housefurnishings, china and glass movement begins Monday morning. Just twenty-five years ago, when the H. Batterman Store was developing into a lusty youngster, we conceived the idea of a housefurnishings and china sale on a mammoth scale. Every February and September since then this store has startled Brooklynites with its mighty price attractions in household needs and kindred lines. From all over Brooklyn come feeble attempts to follow us. We are flattered by the imitations. Prodigious stocks of everything scheduled here give assurance that, no matter what your demands, we are prepared to fill them. No danger that after half an hour's selling, "No-more-at-that-price" will be hurled at you. Therein we have no imitators, nor have we in our prices—two important facts that make this a sale without an equal.—Batterman's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We are the only complete housefurnishers in the Southern Tier, carry everything that you can wish for, to fit your home from cellar to attic. Everything here, no matter how cheaply sold, is of a worthy quality, is up-to-date in style, is handsomely finished and splendidly constructed. Among the many lines carried here can be found complete assortments of.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

A Happy Thought.—Home is what you make it. In every happy home the two rooms most used and most appreciated are the dining room and the bedroom. There most of our time is spent in social comfort and rest. It is in the furnishing of these rooms that we make special inducements that cannot fail to meet with the utmost favor. We have placed on sale, specially priced, a dining room and bed room outfit, and in order to show them to advantage and give you an idea how they will look in your own home we have fitted up certain parts of our own store to represent a dining and bed room. You will find this new idea of ours a good one, as one glance will suffice to convince you of the beauty of these suits, the quality always being guaranteed by us.—Koch & Henke, Cleveland, Ohio.

Our sale in the housefurnishing store which starts Monday morning spells "Saving" in its broadest sense.—The Gamble Desmond Co., New Haven, Conn.

The March Housewares Sale.—Hundreds of articles to help along the daily bits of routine work about the house—upstairs, downstairs, in my lady's chamber—and to make light of that domestic revolution known as "Spring housecleaning." All good, and all at prices you'll have trouble to equal for lowness.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Some Needed Housefurnishings.—Just a little random list, to catch the eye of the housekeeper who's aware of certain shortcomings in her town or country house. And it's merely an inkling of the splendidly complete and low-priced stock that you'll find in our basement. In fact there are sharp savings to be made on these, as well as many other articles.—Wanamaker, New York.

Found! Found!! Found!!! The place to buy. Have you seen the display of new matting and new go-carts? Have you seen the odd carpets at the odd prices we are offering? Have you seen our line of dressers and bedroom suits? Anything from a lamp chimney to dinnerware, including kitchen utensils, can be seen in our household department.—Taylor & Manahan, Jersey City.

In the economy of household management time is an important factor. The old carpet sweeper that takes three times as long to do the work that a new one would do it in—a direct loss of time plus effort. The old sauce pans that will "do" after plastering up a pin-hole or two—a direct loss of time. And so you might run through a list of superannuated household articles that should be replaced. The cost isn't great when you buy at—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Woman makes the home. "It is a woman, and only a woman—a woman all by herself, if she likes, and without any man to help her—who can turn a house into a home."

True, but there's no store in the land that can be of such help to her as Van Sciver's when it comes to furnishing it.—J. B. Van Sciver Co., Philadelphia.

Christmas cooking.—Christmas cooking is near at hand; fruit cakes to be baked, many little special dishes to be prepared. A visit to our store will relieve you of much worry and trouble. A good mechanic can not do good work without good tools; neither can the housewife prepare tempting dishes without the proper vessels. We have just received a very large shipment of our famous Purity cooking vessels, and we invite you to call and inspect them.—Hightower & Graves, Atlanta, Ga.

Handy household helps. There is a constant wear and tear on household hardware—when you get a fresh supply of some things you are out of others. Every home is needing some kind of hardware all the time and we have all these things in best qualities and lowest prices.—Babcock, Hinds & Underwood, Binghamton, N. Y.

It's no fault of ours if flowers don't have the prettiest of jardinières to display them. A jardinière maker, caught in financial straits, thought one dollar in the hand was worth almost two tied up in pottery. We secured the jardinières so as to pass them along at a generous third below actual worth. Will you share the benefit? One style is a footed jardinière with side ears—an attractive shape in a variety of blended colorings.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Handsome is as handsome does.—An old and trite saying this, but how well it applies to home furnishings that are bargains in price, beautiful in style, full of grace and elegance and the kind that lasts a lifetime; this description applies to Lampe & Co.'s stock.

If the flies do get into your house, catch them. It's easy with the Out of Sight Fly Strings. Just hang one up and it will do the rest much better than fly paper, as it is not in the way of every one, and one string will catch more flies than a whole barrel of fly paper.—The Churchill-Hemenway Co., Galesburg, Ill.

Heretofore when furnishing a house along correct lines—whether the appointments of a cottage or a residence more pretentious, or the decoration of a palatial abode—there has been no house to which the anxious housewife could turn for expert assistance. That day has passed. We now cover this field. In this department are employed men who have had long training in their specialty. Their experience enables them to secure desired results without those annoying experiments so productive of dissatisfaction and needless expense.—Keith-O'Brien Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

House cleaning operations are now about to begin. You may need a step-ladder, tubs, mops, brushes, paints, etc. We carry a full line of the best makes and invite you to investigate and secure prices.—Chas. Johnson, Peoria, Ill.

There is a stupendous assortment here for seekers of the beautiful in carpets and furniture, and every day we are receiving from the manufacturers, new and pleasing ideas.—H. H. Lampe & Co.

We call it "Young Housekeepers" Sale, but of course, elderly housekeepers are eligible also. People just beginning keeping house can make a dollar accomplish great things.—J. R. Libby Co., Portland, Me.

Gigantic spring sale of housefurnishings and china. Values bound to make rousing selling. The greatest money-saving opportunities ever known in the basement stores. No mail orders. Think of the unmatched opportunities that our past sales have brought to you—then think how much it means to you to be able to do still better in the sale that begins to-morrow morning. This will unquestionably be the most aggressive, broadest and best event of its kind ever inaugurated.—Rothenberg & Co., New York.

The abodes where families seek repose, peace and affectionate companionship should be enriched as far as means will allow, with whatever is calculated to develop pure taste, cultivate the intellect and ennoble the heart. Sight is an avenue to the soul and the sight of comely walls, embellished ceilings, pictures, tapestries, graceful draperies, handsome upholstery, shapely furniture and attractive ornaments has a refining influence on the spirit.—Geo. B. Peck, Kansas City, Mo.

In the housefurnishing department. What 3 cents will buy: Good kitchen knife, pretty match box, 5-cent screw driver, good lamp burner, 5-cent chopping knife, large bread pans, salt and pepper shaker, bottle machine oil, small varnish brush, clothesline pulley, decorated pickle dish, large decorated plates. What 2 cents will buy: 3 picture molding hooks, 5-cent tack pullers, very good can opener, 5-cent tea strainer, family size nail box, nail brush, 5-cent kind; bradawl, worth 5 cents; mouse trap, 5-cent shoe dauber, machine oil can, ladies' tack hammer, 6 screw eyes.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City.

Spring is here and if your home is not as cosy and comfortable as it should be we invite you to complete its furnishings here.—C. R. Parish & Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Everything for the house. A helping hand at your service. Maybe you need some furniture or possibly you want a stove or knives and forks, a dinner set, some carpets, draperies and the like.

Well, if you want any furnishings for the house you can get it here. We can furnish your house from cellar to garret; and from parlor to kitchen. And if you haven't the ready cash, this is where we come in, and lend you a helping hand, for, in connection with our strictly cash business we have established a deferred payment plan through which you can purchase "Everything for the house" at strictly cash prices and pay us back as your circumstances permit, the privilege costing a simple banking rate of interest, namely 6 per cent. Our deferred payment plan is the most liberal and fair proposition ever inaugurated—come in and let us explain it to you. You are welcome, whether you buy or not.—John Breuner Co., Sacramento.

It's just fun to launder lace curtains if you use one of our curtain stretchers. This handy article can be instantly set up and adjusted to any length and width, to fit any size drapery. The pins are of brass, so that they will not rust, several pairs of curtains can be dried at the same time and will come out looking as spic and span as when new. When the curtains are all done up the stretcher can be taken down in thirty seconds and then occupies a space only 6 inches wide and 6 feet long. The price of a stretcher is only 98 cents and this amount will be saved in doing up one pair of curtains.—Chandler & Co., Bangor, Me.

Mrs. Good Housekeeper, here is news—splendid news. To-morrow will be a field day of fine values all through the great basement store of household utilities. The high grade helps to good housekeeping, which have made the fame of this store at the low prices they cost ordinarily, will be here to-morrow for prices in many cases the lowest ever anywhere.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The first housekeepers' sale. An early show and special selling of house needs at a saving of one-third. Not a woman who "keeps house," as the phrase is, but will be intensely interested in this novel and carefully planned sale. Whether it is a mansion or cottage—a luxurious suite of apartments or a cosy little flat—here is a sale offering the very things to make that home more beautiful and more comfortable, at prices that mean a very great saving. We have had it in mind for six months—this stupendous early movement of fall furnishings, and our buyers have planned and selected for it with rare skill and success.—Wasson's, Indianapolis, Ind.

One hundred and fifty bargains in one hundred and fifty wanted things for house and garden. Two of our biggest windows are dressed with a showing that catches the attention of eight out of every ten people who pass—men as well as women. It isn't every window display that interests men and very few of them interest both men and women as this does. The showing isn't especially pretty but it is eminently practical. It is composed of about one hundred and fifty articles from the housefurnishing department that we find to be most in demand to-day. They range from a garden trowel to a gas stove and from an ice cream freezer to a refrigerator.—The Edw. Malley Co., New Haven.

The big sale of house cleaning necessities on in earnest. Everything you need from one department, and at a price saving that makes it doubly worth your while! Neighbors who like to spread about a good thing are telling their friends about the remarkable opportunity at May's. Not a thing you can think of is missing. Just what you want to be had for less money than something almost like it were you to go elsewhere. You can't figure more than one side to the house cleaning necessities question to save your life; it's either waste a whole lot of time running about to many different stores, and mostly making unsatisfactory purchases, or coming to May's and completing your list from the one immense stock and reaping the attractive price-saving on every article you buy.—May's, Pittsburg.

Judge us by deeds, and we will prove to your satisfaction that we are deserving of the high place we hold in the hearts of the public of this community. We cater to your wants in a conscientious and intelligent manner. It is satisfying. Come to us if you have household needs.—A. P. Curtin & Co., Great Falls, Mont.

Sale of summer household needs.—News from Newark's greatest basement that will carry tidings of economy to a thousand shrewd shoppers. A wonderful June sale in which the youngest and most inexperienced housekeeper will immediately recognize an opportunity of unusual importance. Read the appended items carefully, good housekeeping generalship demands it.—Bamberger's, Newark, N. J.

Any store with money can get a conglomerate stock of house furnishings that are first of all cheap—without regard to the real intrinsic worth. That's a question of money only. But it's another proposition to get good, dependable house needfuls, that people come for week after week, because they have proved not only the reliability of the goods, but the fairness of the prices. Is it any wonder that the business of this store keeps growing?—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

All the comforts of home :
 "When the summer comes, and the sun grows hot,
 We pack up our boxes, away we trot;
 And away we trot to the sands of gold
 That border the sea that never grows old."

Had the poet continued he would doubtless have pointed out the necessity of comfortably equipping the summer stopping place. Bare walls and plain floors do not add pleasure to the summer sojourn. It's easy to give a wall fresh charm by gracing it with a colorful picture, or to decorate a floor by overspreading it with a pretty rug. An easy chair for the lawn or porch is not only picturesque, but a positive necessity. Matting, too, is an essential no dweller out of town desiring comfort can disregard. And so The Siegel-Cooper Store, with its great, abundantly stocked departments (stores within a store), invites you to the most lavish displays of good, seasonable and desirable merchandise in the city.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

Just home furnishings. The best and sold as you like to pay. And that's the story in a nutshell.—C. C. Fuller & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Cooking with coal in the summer months. Oil solves the problem; It's quicker, cooler, just as efficient, and not at all expensive.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

The on-coming of spring leads every shrewd housewife to thinking of something she needs to help beautify or add to the comfort of her home.—People's Furniture Store, Des Moines, Iowa.

House cleaning time is here. Carpets are to be lifted, wall papers cleaned—every nook and corner of the house is to be overhauled and rid of the winter's accumulation of smoke and dirt. Everything needed by the cleaner can be found in our big basement and almost invariably at lower prices than elsewhere.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Little lots at very little prices. A campaign of clearance inaugurated to rid the departments of all the short lengths and discontinued patterns of linoleums and oilcloths.—W. B. Moses & Son, Washington, D. C.

If you get married this spring, you simply can't afford to do any house-furnishing without first seeing us. How much does it cost to furnish a house? That's the question, and our answer is: "Very little, if you know where to buy and how to buy." Certainly we will say buy here. We'll teach you how, and it will be a lesson in economy.—Flint & Barker, Fall River, Mass.

Everything for the laundry. Did you ever think of the multitude of things required in the well-ordered laundry? The list may surprise you. The variety is impressive. Such completeness in respect to the laundry is a convincing augury of our large preparations for the home throughout. The Macy house furnishing goods department anticipates every domestic need.—The R. H. Macy Co., New York, N. Y.

The best way to keep house best is to have plenty of these needfuls. Good workmen usually have good tools. Here are a few of the thousands of good housekeeping and cleaning tools which our buyer picked for this closing March sale when in New York a week ago.—Shipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Moving time! Hundreds of families are changing their homes about now, and there's a tremendous trade for some one in all sorts of house-furnishings. Is there any reason why we shouldn't do as well as anyone in these things? We buy for cash and sell on the closest possible margin of profit. We intend to treat you so much better than anyone else you'll want to spend all your money here.—Scroggie, Montreal, Can.

Housekeepers' Day to-day. The furniture, the draperies, the kitchen usefals, present a strong array of values for this sale—then, there's the wall paper, the chinaware and many other departments that have housekeeping needs, but space will not permit their mention. These items give a fair idea of the hundreds of like values to be found here at intensely interesting prices. Read.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Strikes settled. Servant troubles and the coal strike question avoided by using our chafing dishes.

Let Biddu go off without saying adieu!

What else need the housewife wish
Than an omelet and an oyster stew

In a Sterneau chafing dish?

—The Morris Hardware Co., Youngs-town, Ohio.

Whatever you need to make the summer housekeeping easier, bring it here and if it is helpable we can help it. Tomorrow a budget of especially good news

—some sterling refrigerators and gas ranges reduced; some remarkable values in window screens and garden tools and ice cream freezers.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you would see acres of every-day round-the-house needs at prices that seem impossible, visit our store these days while the greatest household utilities sale ever held is under way. This is a sale wherein the merest tyro of a housekeeper can appreciate the unprecedented proportion of saving, as everything is familiar, everything is the best and every price is sharply cut down from figures already the lowest in town.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Eviction figures on all our warm weather furnishings. The broken lines of summer suggestions for country cosiness and seaside service to be closed out without regard to cost, savings such as you seldom see on just what you need now.—The C. E. Osgood Co., Boston.

This sale brings together an almost unlimited collection of the best and most practical housekeeping helps that are manufactured—no trash, no impractical things, none of the cheapish goods that careful housekeepers wouldn't have at any price—but worthy, desirable, high grade goods, at very decisive reductions, as shown in the prices quoted below.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Needed things for home comfort.—We can make the city home almost as comfortable for the summer as seashore or mountains—and without straining the purse. This information will be welcomed by the army of stay-at-homes, and there will be large demand for all these comfort-making things.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

The thrifty housewife of Philadelphia has learned that she can save considerable money by buying her kitchen utensils and other housekeepings needs here. She has also learned that whatever she buys here can be depended on to give satisfactory service.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Spring purchasing of household goods. When you're ready, come to headquarters. To sum the whole story up into a nutshell, "we have the sort of goods you want at the prices you feel like paying."—Chas. R. Hart & Co., Hartford, Conn.

What do you need to transform your home from warmth necessities for winter to the cool accessories for summer? Whatever your house need may be, this store can supply it.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Cheap things are seldom good, but good things are often cheap. This applies to our entire line, and accounts for our increasing sales in enameled ware, also tinware.—J. A. Walker, York.

Housecleaning made easy. Our greatest endeavors to make cleaning the house a congenial task were never better rewarded than by the very special bargains you'll find below. Garden implements are also at shadows of former prices to-morrow.—Gimbel's, Milwaukee.

Designs for every room in all their ancestral pride, but at lowest prices.—Cowperthwaite Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Spring sale of housefurnishings. The special needs that spring brings to every housekeeper make up the offerings of this sale. You may depend on their reliability or they wouldn't be here at all. And the low prices speak for themselves. We plan a big, helpful, money-saving sale of this kind for every spring and thousands of housekeepers wait for it and turn it to advantage. The sale now in progress is the broadest in scope and the best in values that we have ever known.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Will furnish your home. We have the largest and most complete furniture and carpet stock in the city. The average person about to begin housekeeping knows but little about furniture or carpet values, and much of the purchasing must be done on faith in the firm you are doing business with. Fliegelman has a reputation of twenty-two years of clean business record. That should mean something to you.—Fliegelman, Camden.

We are going to make extensive improvements, including a new modern front. The more of the stock now in our two acres of floor space we can dispose of before we begin to tear up and remodel, the better it will be for us, the better it will be for the furniture, and in order to induce those who are in the market for what we sell to buy here and now, we offer 20 per cent. reduction on any article or piece in the house.—Geo. F. Bisch, Springfield, Ill.

Housefurnishings are at present the absorbing topic. The attractive specials presented below are made so because our lines are the largest and finest ever shown in the city. Our spacious and well lighted floors enable you to make selections to the best advantage. We are offering great bargains in all kinds of housefurnishings. These extra special prices should induce everyone interested in these goods to come and inspect our store.—Ideal House Furnishings, Ltd., Winnipeg, Can.

Now, the summer home demands attention. People who have shore homes are moving to them. People who have not, are arranging their city homes for the summer time. We can be helpful to all.—The Edw. Malley Co., New Haven.

Here's a store that can be of great assistance to you, now that you're planning for spring and warm weather. Not only helpful to you in showing such an immense assortment of the newest and best home furnishings to be had anywhere—not only in giving you the benefit of the special prices heavy buying for several stores makes possible—but giving you the privilege of selecting all you may need with a most convenient way of payments. All you have to do is to become a charge customer, and then, if it's not convenient to pay the bill in thirty days—or sixty days—we'll arrange the terms to suit you. Hundreds of families in and about Trenton can tell you of our satisfactory business methods, but it'll suit us even better if you'll come and get a personal demonstration of it.—Hurley-Tobin Co., Trenton, N. J.

We made a special purchase for this great sale—a quantity purchase, which means that we got big reductions from regular prices. To-day we give you the full benefit of our vast buying power. In every case comparison will show you others' prices are what we say the goods are worth, but they are 'way above this sale's figures. Come to-day and buy your supplies for this spring and summer—they won't be priced so low again.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City.

It is the first housefurnishings sale we have held this year—and needless to say, we're going to start the year right. Prices on housefurnishings dropped when we came to Twelfth and Main Streets, years ago; we've forced them lower and lower every year since we've been here, and we're going to stay in the lead during 1907.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

A sale so remarkably good that wise housekeepers will lay in a stock for at least a year ahead—the best sale of the kind we ever announced. Every towel in the sale is of linen, and there are both huck and damask weaves. Plain hems and hemstitched ends. Plain white and colored borders.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

ICE

The ice question in summer is: Will I be served promptly and regularly? The answer is to be found in placing a standing order with The Griffin Ice Co. We make it a point to satisfy our customers in every way—promptness and regularity of delivery. A postal brings our wagon to your door.—The Griffin Transfer Co., Omaha, Neb.

Purity is the feature most important to the consumer of ice. Other ice is just as cold, perhaps just as clean, and perhaps just as cheap, but it may not be just as pure. The ice you should use should be as good as the water you drink. Therefore, Lake Whitney ice is the ice to use. The New Haven Ice Co. uses exclusively natural ice from Lake Whitney, and caters especially to household trade. Send postcard or telephone and agent will call.—New Haven Ice Co., New Haven, Conn.

A hot wave in July is just about as certain to arrive as Thanksgiving Day to be proclaimed as the last Thursday in November. Heat melts ice—people, too. But ice melting means cooling off the people. You can get it here in chunks—chunks as big as you like; blocks, if you want 'em; but be sure to order in advance, though we're quick at delivering.—The Mountain Ice & Coal Co., Pueblo, Colo.

On top again. Jack Frost ice. No more high prices. Nature makes better ice than you can manufacture. It will keep your box cooler and dryer. Pure ice can only be made from pure water. Our reservoir dams are located at Ice-dale, Pa., at the head of the Brandywine. It is supplied by springs within a radius of three miles. Positively no pollution above it. Our ice is clean, bright, hard, pure and more durable than any other. We have the largest organization in the city, consequently can assure you a better service. We have purchased the property of Rhoades & Healy, at 14th and Scott Streets, and have established an office and delivery station for the benefit of our west side trade.—Consumer's Ice & Coal Co., Wilmington, Del.

Ice. Don't put it off, phone us today for regular delivery of ice. It's so much pleasanter and more healthful to have the vegetables, milk, butter and table delicacies kept cool and sweet with ice—than the other way. Secure a coupon book now.—John G. Freimann, Albany, N. Y.

Time has come when you need ice. We are all ready and equipped every way to give you prompt and efficient service. Our ice comes from Congamond Lakes—no purer or better ice in the State. Moderate prices, honest weights. Write or 'phone and wagon will call.—Elm City Ice Co., New Haven, Conn.

Order ice tickets by telephone. We have arranged to deliver ice tickets, commencing April 1st, by special messenger. Our drivers will no longer be supplied with tickets. Orders sent by card or by telephone to our office will bring tickets promptly. Please note that ice tickets are sold for spot cash.—Palmetto Ice Co., Columbia, S. C.

The ice question in summer is: "Will I be served promptly and regularly?" The answer is to be found in placing a standing order with The Mountain Ice and Coal Co. We make it a point to satisfy our customers in every way—purity of ice, full weight, promptness and regularity of delivery. A postal or phone Main 34 brings our wagon to your door.—The Mountain Ice and Coal Co., Pueblo, Colo.

Of all the articles purchased for summer use, ice is one of the most important. Pure ice means perfect health. Diamond ice is pure, clean, wholesome and firm. No danger from germs, and it will cool a larger cubic area than any other. Twenty-nine Diamond wagons mean prompt and satisfactory service. Telephone us.—Diamond Ice Co., Washington, D. C.

Talking about ice, you ought to know that we supply it in any quantity. Our ice is the kind you needn't be afraid to make ice water with, as it is made from distilled water. It's pure as the driven snow. Let us know how much you want and when, and we will send it promptly.—Davis & Robinson, Jacksonville, Fla.

ICE CREAM

"Ah!" he said to her, over their ice cream, "it is very sweet, but not so sweet as you."

"It is soft," she returned promptly, "but not so soft as you."

"And it is cold," he concluded, "but not so cold as you."
—Philadelphia Press.

A couple of spoonfuls of our ice cream will convince you that it is a product of exceptional excellence. It is at once absolutely pure and of choicest flavor—delicious. Made from rich, wholesome cream and finest fresh fruit, and contains not an atom that is in the smallest degree deleterious. Quality never varies. 'Twill tickle the most fastidious palate. —The Columbus Ice Cream Co., Columbus, O.

Keep cool in warm weather.—Isn't it delightful to sit in comfort and partake of our delicious ice cream on a hot or sultry day? So soothing; so refreshing! We use nothing but the purest of cream and choicest of fruit flavors. Adhering strictly to this has attracted to us a discriminating patronage.

Strawberry and chocolate ice cream. We are serving strawberry and chocolate ice cream which we believe cannot be equaled anywhere, at least at the price we charge. Our strawberry is flavored with the very best native berries, carefully picked over and crushed by ourselves, the flavor they impart to our ice cream is delicate and delicious. 10 cents. Our chocolate is absolutely distinct from any chocolate ice cream made anywhere to-day. It is full, rich, perfect in flavor and is acknowledged by lovers of this flavor to be the best they ever tasted, from the Atlantic to the Pacific. 10 cents.—The Two Cooper Drug Stores, Plymouth, Mass.

Sundaes are delicious confections. Fruit syrup or ice cream. Probably you know them well. Who invented them is uncertain, but you can get the best at our fountain. If you have never tried one, you owe yourself a treat, and we envy you the new pleasure in store for you.—Towne, Secombe & Allison, San Bernardino, Cal.

Ice cream. Take a barrel home to the children. Pure ice cream is good for the children. It is refreshing, nourishing and healthful. They will enjoy it, too. Balduff's little barrels of ice cream are filled with three flavors of ice cream. Made from pure, sweet cream received direct every morning from Balduff's private dairy station. It is highly flavored with pure flavors and packed in the little barrels so that they will keep hard for a long time on a hot day.—Balduff, Omaha, Neb.

Ice cream. There's such a difference in ice cream that anyone who has tasted Watson's always insists on getting it. That is why we are so careful to have all our ice cream right up to standard. Ask for Watson's. Your dealer should have it. Brick ice cream sold at all our stores.—Watson's, Winnipeg, Can.

Strawberry college ice as served at our fountain is most delicious. Fresh, ripe strawberries crushed and served with our "Cooper quality" ice cream make a combination both tempting and satisfying in the extreme. Everything served at our fountain is of the highest quality, prepared in the most painstaking manner, and guaranteed to please the palate or no money.—The Cooper Drug Co., Plymouth, Mass.

A good dessert diminishes the disappointment of a hurriedly prepared menu—it increases the enjoyment of the most elaborate dinner. Our ice cream makes a delicious dessert. It is pure, wholesome, and we take pride in maintaining quality unsurpassed in frozen dainties. Easy to get. Convenient to serve.—The Palm, Spokane, Wash.

We stand for purity of food standards, and give our hearty indorsement to all "pure food laws." Aside from richness of taste and delicacy of flavor, we desire to impress upon our customers the purity, wholesomeness, digestibility and healthfulness of our products. We know they are pure. Every ingredient is tested for its purity and nourishing quality. You just try one order and there will be no room for argument. Special prices for charitable purposes.—Pure Food Ice Cream Mfg. Co., Jacksonville, Fla.

Strawberries and ice cream for dessert is the ideal palate tickler for a summer or spring dinner. We will serve it to you at our ice cream parlors or send you ice cream in any flavor or in any quantity desired, and delivered at your door.—Ragsdale & Everhart, Sherman.

You simply can't think of anything more appetizing and delicious than a plate of our ice cream or water ice—unless it's two plates. And your initial spoonful will call loudly for more. Others have said it—you will say it when you have tasted and tested Ragsdale & Everhart's cream. Glad to have your opinion first time you're this way. Order by mail or 'phone. Try a sample at the People's Pharmacy.—Ragsdale & Everhart, Sherman, Texas.

Brick ice cream for sale at our stores. Our ice cream will be found up to our regular high standard of excellence, and this at a time when many find it impossible to obtain cream, speaks volumes. We have made arrangements whereby we can obtain plenty of cream all summer.—Watson's, Winnipeg, Can.

My ice cream is absolutely pure. Ice cream—good ice cream—is recommended by physicians the world over as a food, which, for the purpose of keeping the stomach toned up and the nerves in shape, cannot be duplicated. Any taste suited.—F. E. Kruse, Binghamton, N. Y.

Superior quality of ice cream is soon appreciated, as shown by the increased demand for our ice cream in the short time we have been catering to the family trade. When you wish to serve pure, smooth ice cream call Main 500.—The Palm, Spokane, Wash.

Four degrees below zero inside a package of Busy Bee Perfect Ice Cream. The coldness of the cream is only a small part of its goodness that comes only from pure, rich cream and the juice of ripe selected fruits.—The Busy Bee, Columbus, O.

Fruited ice cream. Pure, rich ice cream, our own make, with crushed fruit dressing. The most delicious and satisfying combination. Try this dish at our fountain.—Towne, Secombe & Allison, San Bernardino, Cal.

Thank you kindly for the fine trade you gave us on the ever glorious Fourth. And although terribly tired out, we desire to say to you, that the place where all the good ice cream consumed yesterday, came from, is still open and hopes for a continuance of your favors.—Hall & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

There are as many grades of ice cream sold in Columbus as there are makers. Most dealers make more than one grade, but it has been the policy of the Busy Bee to make but one grade, and that the very best. We use nothing but rich cream, pure sugar and flavor. No milk, cornstarch or gelatine in Busy Bee creams, and no chance of a mistake in getting second quality cream.

People once had an idea that ice cream was for summer only. It's different now; and if you want something new, make some Nutro-Crisp ice cream. It has a peachy flavor, and at the same time reminds you of Nesselrode pudding. Now we know you'll try it.—T. E. Burns Company, Knoxville, Tenn.

Special Sunday Dinner Desserts.—Our Neapolitan ice creams are made special to your order. The choice of flavors for your special blending may include any three creams and an ice. Some of the favorite creams are peach, bisque, nougat, pistachio, caramel, chocolate, strawberry and vanilla. The favorite ices are lemon, orange, pineapple, strawberry and tutti-frutti. Each brick of Neapolitan is wrapped in waxed paper, placed in a cardboard box and packed in a special freezer that requires no contact with the salty ice or water when serving the cream. Six good sized slices can be cut from a quart brick. Neapolitan creams are 50c per quart, $1.75 per gallon. Plain bulk creams are 40c per quart, $1.25 per gallon.—The Busy Bee, Columbus, O.

Ice cream.—With complete satisfaction in every spoonful—that's the only kind we make. It has that smooth, rich taste of pure Jersey cream; the flavor is the best vanilla bean and choice crushed fruits.—The Columbus Ice Cream Co., Columbus, O.

Keep cool in warm weather.—Isn't it delightful to sit in comfort and partake of our delicious ice cream on a hot or sultry day? So soothing; so refreshing! We use nothing but the purest of cream and choicest of fruit flavors. Adhering strictly to this has attracted to us a discriminating patronage.—Franklin's, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Your Sunday Dessert.—What shall it be and where shall it come from? Wiley's, if you'd like a dessert that would be in keeping with your good dinner.—Wiley's, Atlanta, Ga.

You can't fool all the people all the time. They know that the ice cream that comes from my place is the best and that neighbors and friends all enjoy it.—Fred Kruse, Binghamton, N. Y.

There is nothing so cooling and refreshing as a dish of Busy Bee perfect ice cream. It is made with pure, rich cream, flavored with the finest vanilla and juice of ripe, choice fruits. For your picnic or an afternoon at the park, take a brick of our Neapolitan.—The Busy Bee, Columbus, O.

With complete satisfaction in every spoonful—that's the only kind of ice cream we make. It has that smooth, rich taste of pure Jersey cream; the flavor is the best vanilla bean and choice crushed fruits.

A drop of flavor is a small thing, but it makes a great difference in the taste of ice cream or ices. That's why our ice cream is in such demand, because every quart of it is made under our supervision and we know how. Then you are sure of its purity as nothing but rich Jersey cream, flavored with pure fruit juices or vanilla bean is ever used in the making. Can't we send you a trial order? 500 different flavors and combinations. Special designs and emblems for every occasion.

Picture of happiness that is produced by ordering our ice cream. We deliver any flavor in any form to any part of the city. Nothing more healthful for the children than our pure, smooth ice cream. We would be pleased to receive your order for dinner to-day.—The Palm, Spokane, Wash.

Let your next dessert be one of our frozen dainties.—For the reception, the swell dinner and for all occasions that require a dessert, your selection could not be better. It will be in keeping with your elegant menu. Our ice cream and ices are simply delicious—in fact, the best that can be produced from the purest cream and finest ripe fruit juices.

Ice cream lusciousness for the Sunday dinner is assured by ordering a quart of Busy Bee peach ice cream; the most delicious combination of peaches and cream. Ripe, choice peaches are frozen with thick, fine flavored Jersey cream, and the result is a dessert that for flavor and creamy richness is unrivaled.—The Busy Bee, Columbus, O.

Freel's O. K. ice cream. I have started a wagon which will visit all portions of the city, supplying best grade of ice cream ordered by 'phone or direct from wagon. Other goods—bread, pies, cakes—will also be delivered by this wagon when ordered by 'phone, but the wagon will carry ice cream only unless ordered specially.—O. K. Freel, Alliance, O.

There's a difference in ice cream as in everything else. The cream we are placing before the public is beyond question absolutely pure. It's made under the personal supervision of an expert, with as much thought and care as though made right in the home. This is worth a great deal to people who like to be sure about what they are getting.—T. S. Lawrence, Norfolk, Va.

Crushed strawberry ice cream made with the fresh fruit. There is nothing so altogether fine and exquisite in flavor as crushed strawberry ice cream.—The Busy Bee, Columbus, O.

Treat yourself and your family to some of our delicious ice cream. It's purity and richness surpass that made by any other house. Every process of the making is done in absolutely clean vessels and all the high quality of the fine ingredients we use are retained.—Spokane Bakery and Confectionery Co., Spokane, Wash.

Now try our ice cream! It cools and invigorates. You can eat all you want of it without fear, because it's pure and good. And it's rich, too—you never ate richer. Many, many flavors—the popular ones—ready to serve at your bidding—at our cool rooms or at your own house.—Fox & Adams, Bangor, Me.

Strawberry ice cream. The choicest selected strawberries and bananas make these two flavors of our cream especially fine. Our pineapple, vanilla, chocolate and others are the best of their kind.

Ice cream weather! And that means that we do not intend that our output will suffer this year by contrast, any more than formerly. French Delmonico a specialty. Maple frappe is something new and delicious. It is original with us, and if your lawn party or reception doesn't have it on the menu card, you have deprived your guests of a toothsome bite.—Hall & Co., Binghamton.

That superb ice cream. The one everybody praised last year, but better this season, if possible, than ever before. Made from rich, pure cream, flavored with real fruit flavors. We make it ourselves and we do not believe ice cream could be more wholesome and delicious. Try it at the fountain. Served plain or with our sparkling ice cream sodas.—Sawyer's Pharmacy, Schenectady.

"How do you always make it so good?"—Scores of people have asked us that about our ice cream. The secret of it all lies in using very purest of cream, flavoring, etc., in freezing it thoroughly and in serving it daintily. Whenever you want ice cream—at home or down town—we'll serve you promptly.—Fox & Adams, Bangor, Me.

A very agreeable surprise is in store for anyone who has not yet tasted our ice cream. No one can help but be delighted with this pure cream, true-fruit-flavored ice cream. We deliver ice cream anywhere exactly on time as ordered and in any quantity.—Towne, Secombe & Allison, San Bernardino, Cal.

You never get tired of our delightful ice cream, made from purest ingredients; It's always of a uniformly high quality. Absolutely pure, wholesome and delicious. All flavors of selected fruit juices—cooling, refreshing, soothing. Try it once, and—well, no more need be said. If you want something fine in ice cream, order from us next time. 40c quart delivered.—Hoefler Ice Cream Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The ice cream we make is rich, smooth and wholesome. Pure country cream and natural fruit flavoring. Long experience in the art of cream making, a desire to establish an enduring business by giving you the best that can be produced. This explains why K. & E. ice cream is becoming so popular and gives such universal satisfaction.—Kleeman & Enos, Spokane, Wash.

Ice cream to be healthful, must be pure. Pure ice cream must be made from pure cream, pure flavor and the best grade of sugar. Nothing else is required when the above is used. Avoid imitations made from milk, cornstarch, sea moss and various coloring matter. Hygeia is purity of the highest standard. Ask for it. Served at all leading fountains. Made by Tacoma Hygeia Milk Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Pure, sanitary is every product we put out. Our ice cream is the finest manufactured in the city. Unexcelled for table use, socials and parties. Prompt deliveries at any time and place. We deliver the richest and most sanitary milk and cream in the valley, with daily deliveries.—A. Doyle & Co., Saginaw, Mich.

Much obliged for the big response to our Saturday special. We will try it and keep making them better and better all the time. When you have that little lawn party you have been thinking about, don't forget that it will be hardly complete without our ice cream.—Hall & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Hildebrecht's ice cream is smooth, but not of the smoothness which tells of artificial endeavor. It's rich, with the richness of pasteurized cream from a registered Jersey dairy, and ideal making. It's pure—absolutely. It tells, with the first spoonful you taste, of the efforts we put forth to make it the synonym of unexcelled and unapproached goodness. Have you tried it?—Hildebrecht Catering Co., Trenton, N. J.

What is more delicious as a dessert at home or picnic than our deliciously pure ice cream? Orders, whether they be large or small receive our prompt and careful attention, assuring perfect satisfaction in every instance. Don't forget that we are also prepared to fill all orders for the richest cream and sweet milk.—Erie County Milk Association, Erie, Pa.

If your children love ice cream why not order the ice cream that is made of thick, rich cream and is absolutely pure?

There is no more refreshing, nutritious and palatable summer food than pure ice cream. Children thrive on it, fever patients find it a splendid diet, doctors recommend it, and we make it out of pure, rich cream, the best of sugar, the finest of vanilla and the juice of ripe, selected fruits. It's a pity to have anything so good as ice cream made with half milk, gelatine or cornstarch.—The Busy Bee, Columbus, O.

She smiles with delight and so do all the patrons at Lilly's Ice Cream Parlors, where ice cream is served that is calculated to tickle even the most fastidious taste, made from the very purest and choicest of cream and fruit flavors, containing nothing in the smallest degree unhealthful. It is both delicious and wholesome.—Lilly's Victoria, B. C.

A drop of flavor is a small thing, but it makes a great difference in the taste of ice cream or ices. That's why our ice cream is in such demand, because every quart of it is made under our supervision and we know how. Then you are sure of its purity as nothing but rich Jersey cream, flavored with pure fruit juices or vanilla bean is ever used in the making. Can't we send you a trial order? 500 different flavors and combinations. Special designs and emblems for every occasion.—The Columbus Ice Cream Co., Columbus, O.

INFANTS' WEAR

Promptly Adopted.—"You want me to suggest a name for your baby, do you?"

"Yes, for both of them."

"What! Twins!"

"Yes."

"Gee!"

"Good idea! I'll name the other one Whiz."—Chicago Tribune.

Little folks' dresses You'll save many carfares by getting to the children's store to-day. The news in particular concerns dresses, and they are decidedly underpriced.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

Little folks' spring wear.—The days are getting brighter for little ones to commence to live out of doors and we are prepared as never before to dress them for any and every occasion and at a cost so small that they may as well wear pretty things as plain.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Juvenile attire. Announce the opening display of their spring and summer stock of apparel for little ladies and gentlemen, the variety, exclusiveness and quality of which cannot be equaled in any shop.—M. Bloch, New York City.

Infants' wear. Special exhibit of hand made goods—the finest and most elaborate ever shown in this country, the choicest products of Europe and America—in a largeness of assortment and range of prices unequaled by any other establishment in the world.—Best & Co., New York City.

If to-morrow turns out to be a hot day you will wish you had one of these cool little piazza frocks.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Stockings for baby.—Hosiery counters have just the daintiest, prettiest hosiery for dimpled tiny feet.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Vacation dresses.—Girls going to the beach? Have plenty of wash dresses for them. Costs little to buy them already to put on, at Magnin's. Dresses for girls of all sizes.—I. Magnin & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Each week brings forth new ideas and new styles, for the little ones and particular mothers are truly captured with the taste and daintiness combined in the many articles of apparel for the chil-

The new infants' wear department occupies a greater portion of the space formerly devoted to the upholstery section. A study of this department—the general arrangement, fixtures and amount of space devoted to the exclusive selling of infants' apparel—will tell you how well the little monarchs of the home are going to be looked after at the Howe & Stetson stores. There was a time when "style" received very little attention from the makers of infants' wear. Anything seemed to go as long as it was warm and comfortable. Things are different now, and mothers are fully as particular about the style and general appearance of baby's dress as their own. The prettiest and best things in infants' wear are shown in the garments that form the stock of this department. Dainty dresses, coats that are serviceable and pretty, and scores of different ideas in neat caps and bonnets, as well as the hundred other things that baby needs, will be found in this new baby-land of ours.—Howe & Stetson, New Haven.

From the Infants' Department comes news of pretty wear.—Just because he or she is the prettiest babe ever born is no reason why this dainty wear should not be necessary, for his or her beauty must be adorned sometimes, and we have prepared appropriate parlors for displaying the apparel properly. It is worth while just seeing the fascinating assortments.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

There's nothing like comfortable clothing for the tiny ones. Here we show you a complete line, a fresh new stock of knitted, flannel and muslin wear for them. Everything for the youngster who wears flannel, especially. Our prices are below the average, the character of the merchandise above.—The Mellon Store, Oklahoma, O. T.

More and more mothers are learning to depend upon this store for their infants' wear needs. We keep a full supply constantly on hand and we save the mother all the worry and bother of the making as well as a good deal of the cost.—Redlick's, Fresno, Cal.

An unparalleled array of infants' imported model bonnets, coats and dresses; garments of fairy-like delicacy of design and workmanship, embodying the most superlative creations of the best work rooms, both at home and abroad.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

We are enlarging our line of infants' shoes constantly so that it embraces all the best shoes made for infants. And we are confident that we offer unexcelled values.—C. M. Staub Shoe Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Keep baby cool.—Dress it in attire suitable to the weather and avoid prickly heat and other warm weather baby ills. The daintiest and cutest styles of summer apparel can be obtained here at trifling cost.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg.

We are now showing our new lines of children's bonnets. They are the handsomest and most dressy little creations that can be found, in the richest materials, trimmed in dainty laces, ribbon, chiffon and furs, with silk embroidery.—Olds, Wortman & King, Portland, Ore.

In no other store is our stock of infants' requirements duplicated. Every need of the baby is supplied here, from wearing apparel to toilet accessories. Grades from the inexpensive articles of simple service to the most elaborate productions embodying rich material and fine handiwork. Well-made, attractive and serviceable.—Best & Co., New York.

Infants' outfitting. Our popular priced articles are better known to the general public than our fine and dainty hand-made goods. These we have in greater profusion than any other establishment. Layettes, hand-made dresses, fine coats and all the delicate and beautiful accessories to an infant's outfit can also be found in a plentitude unknown elsewhere. No one carries finer and more elaborate goods, and our range of prices is so varied as to include grades as reasonable in price as is consistent with true economy. Your attention is called to our exhibit of fine hand-made articles for infants' wear.—Best & Co., New York.

New things for little tots.—All the new attire for the little tots is ready at the infants' store. Everything is fresh and tipped with a touch of daintiness.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

Frocks for baby boys.—Wash dresses, of course—Gingham and pique. Mostly Russian suits. Some are made with trousers, some without—and lots of mothers get these for baby girls.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Baby store bargains.—A wide and various gathering of pretty dresses and other wear for very little people—dainty as such dresses need be, lower priced than such garments are elsewhere.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

For the little people.—There never were more truly charming materials. Just a sight of them gives one a sewing fever. It's like fancy work, or play, making up the lovely things that are attainable by the mother who appreciates the possibilities of exquisitely dainty weaves, designs and colorings.—Geo. B. Peck Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Every warm day brings a throng of mothers here to choose a pretty Hale poke bonnet for the little folks. You better not wait longer, for there won't be a one left if the present rush keeps up. Come in pink and light blue, made of nice pique with lawn ruffles and dots. Quite surprising how such a pretty little bonnet can be sold for 25c.—Hale's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Comfort and daintiness were particularly looked to in selecting things for baby. And still the prices have been kept so low as to keep us on the jump to wait on customers.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

Infants' department in the west aisle will be a spot of lively interest for mothers to-morrow. Don't imagine these new lines are not stylish, becoming and entirely worthy because they are low priced.—Burke, FitzSimons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

You cannot imagine the dainty little styles and variety of pretty footwear that we have grouped together for babies. It makes no difference what color or leather you wish, or whether baby's foot is thin or chubby, we can fit them; weak or delicate ankles are properly taken care of. Soft soles or moccasins in all the pretty shades of colors.—Byck Bros & Co., Atlanta, Ga.

You know as well as we, that a daily airing is a mighty fine thing for baby's health. So these robes for the baby's carriage should interest you.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Here are little sleeping suits for tots (with feet), so that they can't get cold if they kick the clothes off.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

Our lilliputian corner is stocked with every staple and novelty for baby and children up to five years of age. Every garment is made of good material and even the cheapest grades are selected with much care and taste.—A. Hamburger & Sons, Los Angeles, Cal.

Now that the older children are off at school the very little people must come in for their share of fall fixing. Ready in the baby store! Here is wide assortment of dainty, serviceable dress, and such little prices that mothers wonder how we can do it. Couldn't if we didn't do so much.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Some of the daintiest little garments for infants' outer wear you ever saw—charming little coats that make us want the baby right here to try them on; darling little garments in the delicate shades that the baby must have; a great big supply of them at prices that are littler than the little wraps.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

The utmost comfort of the white bearskin coats for little children will appeal to appreciative mothers, for the sight of a wee, rosy face above the snowy fur would be irresistible. There are white shaggy hats, too, which accord perfectly with such a coat, and they are simply trimmed with ribbon with plump rosettes attached to the long ties to keep the tiny ears warm. These white coats are shown in several varieties, the very shaggy ones, which would give the small tot the appearance of a furry bear, and those of softer texture with a silky finish, which would be equally smart and becoming.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

Hawkins' infants' anatomical shoe supports the delicate anatomy of baby's foot allowing it to grow as nature intended. Made in the prettiest shapes and styles and of the best material. Costs no more than others.—The Hawkins Shoe Co., South Norwalk, Conn.

Each season we bring over from France some of the very daintiest baby garments adding them to our stock of the finest wear that is made on this side of the water. The peasant women who seem to be born with a love of the artistic and skill in needle work, make them in their homes, and it is because of the comparatively small cost of having them done in this way that we can get them to sell for such reasonable prices. The dresses are mostly the loose fitting styles, that, of course, being best for the growing baby. They are made of the finest, sheer nainsook. Some are plain little slips; others have frills and fluffs and lace or hand-made English embroidery. These wee dresses must be seen to be appreciated. The prices are specially low for such articles.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Clothe the baby rightly and you foster a proper pride in its welfare. That the best baby wear in town is sold here is a truth that is accepted by hundreds of careful mothers in Brooklyn—and that the prices are smaller than elsewhere is also incontestable.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

For wee babies.—No other Southern California store shows such a varied collection of rich and dainty garments for the wee ones. The entire list of clothing wants is covered.—J. Maguire & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Replenish baby's summer outfit here, to-morrow, at little cost. The most economical mother will not hesitate to buy baby a new dress when she sees how good and little priced these are to-morrow.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Brooklyn mothers come here with absolute confidence, knowing that the material is right, the making perfect and the prices very, very small indeed.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Baby caps. Quaint, cunning baby caps, made of silk—copied direct from the French. Tucked, shirred, hand embroidered, trimmed with lace. From baby sizes up to 3 years. Such fine, beautiful caps are not to be found in the city for the money. 50c to $1.75.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Hundreds of dainty little garments were sold yesterday as mothers were quick to appreciate the fine qualities at the little sale prices. The selection today is complete, no trouble to choose from this charming collection.—Geo. B. Peck, Kansas City, Mo.

A baby's soliloquy: Why is this thing around my neck so stiff and hard—feels like lots of pin-pricks? Why must I look like a barrel—with all these ruffles on my frock? Why does mother slap my fingers when I put them through those holes big people call embroidery? Why do they expect me to be sweet-tempered when they put ugly thick things on me some days? Here are frocks to suit a baby—soft, fine nainsook and lawn. Little yokes of fine tucks, embroidery and lace—with no holes for baby fingers; little frill at neck and sleeves; cute dresses for dear babies. A third under regular prices because the maker wanted to keep his factory busy.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

We realize that there is no one more important in the home life than "the Baby." We believe the home of his or her dresses should be as attractive as it is convenient, with the best assortment possible and at the little prices. We believe that store is here.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Pretty little dresses for pretty little babies at pretty little prices.—The Edw. Malley Co., New Haven, Conn.

For the Very Little Folk. We are splendidly equipped in the way of providing the daintiest and prettiest of garments for babies—a question that lies very near the mother's heart.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Get the Baby Out Doors into the fresh air—but not until you have all the proper fixings. If you have just taken off the knitted booties remember that at 25c we are selling the softest little kid shoes—the regular 35c kind; there are baby blues and a soft, delicate pink that are particularly pretty; black and white.—N. Snellenburg & Co., Philadelphia.

In That Babies' Corner. Some very special values that will appeal to every economical mother—you'll find in this popular corner everything for the baby's comfort at the very littlest prices.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City.

Baby caps. Here is the ad man's hardest job to-day—telling about these beautiful Baby Caps so much underprice. Enough to say the whole vocabulary with a meaning bordering on pretty, "dainty," "artistic," "lovely," "cute," etc., would not be too strong to apply in describing the caps which comprise these assortments made up for a special sale tomorrow.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta, Ga.

When one speaks of gifts or clothes for the baby you quite naturally think of that Babies' Corner at Emery, Bird, Thayer's—the one place in Kansas City where you can obtain for the baby anything from "bootie to bonnet"—not only in apparel, but many smart and clever novelties that cannot be found elsewhere.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City.

So tremendous has been the increase in the business of this Baby Wear Store that the reconstruction of a short time ago, giving additional room, has added hardly enough to display the immense variety of dresses, coats, bonnets, etc.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

An occasional out-door promenade is as necessary now as in July—nor shall baby be less modishly dressed than mother. Therefore, these timely suggestions from this best baby-outfitting store.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

The preparation of layettes for babies nowadays involves so much labor and such an expenditure of time that women are rapidly realizing the wisdom of buying infants' outfits already made, as they are far daintier in stitching and finish than the home-sewed articles.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

Jack Frost isn't cruel—he's a dispenser of the best health- tonic known—all you have to do, to keep baby well, is to provide comfortable clothing. But the baby deserves more than comfort, so all these things are pretty—and some are far under price.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia.

With cooler weather comes the necessity for heavier clothing. New things in Infants' and Little Children's Wear are arriving daily. Dainty, practical goods, made right here in America, and rich and beautiful creations brought from Paris.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

White bear skin is one of the many novelties, and really nothing could be prettier for winter wear, as it gives the child the appearance of being warmly and richly clad, and at a small outlay.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Baby Coats and Bonnets.—A clearance at close prices. Here's a chance to get a coat for baby to wear at the seashore, and pay less than half the original price for it. And there are dainty little bonnets for his lordship also. It's a great economy event for Brooklyn mothers.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

For Baby, these days we have the coolest and prettiest Dresses, and all sorts of Gowns and Waists for children, at extremely little prices. This list will prove interesting to mothers.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Baby's soft little body needs tender care—needs the best there is to cover it. We have everything that the little one needs.—Roth Bros., West Superior.

French baby-clothes.—The baby store is brimful of them—sticking out of the drawers, bobbing up and down on the racks, and smiling at you from glass cases—the sweetest, daintiest baby-clothes in the world.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

The baby's outfittings.—Just a hint from the Baby Store of the smart wear that we have for Brooklyn's little people. A hint of the small prices that bring Brooklyn's economical mothers here always.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Baby needs.—Dean looks out for the needs of the newcomers. Puff boxes, powder puffs, teething rings, combs and brushes, fine soaps, soft wash rags, and everything else and at much lower prices than other stores.—Dean's, Los Angeles.

Infants' outfits as white as snow. This annual sale of infants' wear is a fixed bargain feature, which saving parents recognize as a time when prices are much lower than the garments could be made for at home. The sheerest of dainty linens and lawns, nainsooks, and muslins for foundation fabrics, trimmed with the daintiest of ribbons and the filmiest of laces, hemstitching and embroideries. There are so many charming innovations you'll be captivated by them.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Everything for baby—that describes the offerings in our infants' department; and a daintier collection of baby things could not well be imagined.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Children's wear prices in your favor.—Whatever the smaller girl needs—the small boy, too—by way of attire for summer is here in such assortment as nowhere else. Further, it's good. Still further, it's remarkably low in price.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore.

Special sale of children's dresses.—In the lilliputian department, on the second floor, where small humanity is completely clothed, we offer a special sale of children's dresses. Each garment is dainty and well made. This sale offers the choice of various qualities and styles; every one pleasing.—Jacoby Bros., Los Angeles, Cal.

It's coming Fall and all mothers will be wanting new things for the little small folks to wear. Few mothers can make garments so dainty and pretty. No mother can make at so little expense the things that babies must have to wear.—Boston Store, Schenectady, N. Y.

The maker, after much coaxing, agreed to give us 35 dozen of those fresh little frocks, straight from his regular stock, so that we can sell them for about a third less than usual. Won't busy mothers jump at them, though?—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Here are his new fall clothes—that is, the Coats, and Caps, and Bonnets that he'll need when October breezes have a nip in them—possibly even sooner. Every mother will admit that these new things are as charming as they're spick and span. And she can pay practically whatever she likes—price-ranges are amply broad: At 50c to $3 each.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Baby Goods.—Mothers, have you been to our store to see the many things we have to make your baby well dressed and comfortable? No mother wants to skimp her baby's outfit. But every wise mother is economical, and when the pretty, stylish baby outfitings are to be had at such appealing prices as we are offering this week she is quick to take advantage.

Each garment is finished with that care that makes glad the heart of every mother. From the plain little slips to the fancy, lace trimmed dresses, you will find the best of workmanship.—The Blakely Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

Baby's Runabout Dresses and Hats.—The finest bargains to-morrow for the baby. Little Chambray Frocks and Lawn Hats, or hats to match dresses. Indeed baby may be quite as stylish as mother—with her one color dress scheme.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Here are wondrous reductions for this baby goods sale, and we want you to take advantage of it.—The Lace House, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Baby shoe values that tell their own eloquent story of economy. There are low shoes and high shoes. Some prefer low cut, others high cut shoes, so we give you both. There are dozens of styles of heels and shapes and every kind of leather you can imagine.—The 14th Street Store, New York.

Our First January Sale of Undermuslins for Infants' Wear. It is the most commandingly important sale of its kind ever held in Greater New York—embracing goods of the highest character, flawless merchandise—at prices that have absolutely never been equalled for lowness.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York—Jan. 4, 1903.

A merry Christmas! And the wish is backed by a store-ful of beauty gathered to make your getting-ready easy. Gift thoughts at every turn. Such a medley of Christmas goods as to call out countless letters to Santa Claus from the little-folk visitors—giving hints in plenty to the older heads. Unbounded pleasure is expressed by young and old alike with reference to the Christmas emblems that pervade the store. From the poetic flight of the angels to the four-and-twenty blackbirds in the pie the festal influence is universally felt and enjoyed.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

INSURANCE

"No," said the beautiful widow, "I couldn't sleep for weeks after my husband died."

"How pitiful," put in her sympathetic friend.

"You see, I had mislaid his insurance policy, and for a while I was really afraid I'd never be able to find it."—Chicago Record.

Cash counts, particularly just after you have burned out. If you are insured here you will get a fair adjustment and prompt payment.—Dow & Pinkham, Portland, Me.

After the fire the safe and its contents may be found uninjured. But if there is no fire insurance carried the saving of the safe may be of no importance. Let your forethought be better than your hindsight. Insure at once, and avoid all chance.—Mitchell & Shrewsbury, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If a man needs life insurance he cannot afford to delay putting the contract in force. Statistics show that the average man has eight chances of dying to one that his building will burn, and no prudent merchant will delay even for a day protecting his building and merchandise against fire.—F. L. Westover, Bay City, Mich.

If you get sick or accidentally disabled and cannot work, will you have any money for yourself or family? If you cannot work won't you get behind with your bills? For your own protection it will be a good investment to take an Accident or Health Policy in the Pacific Mutual.—Pacific Mutual Life Ins. Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

How long is a jiffy? A little longer than it takes you to read this, but no longer than it takes us to deliver any order intrusted to our care. Not only do we pride ourselves on the quality of our insurance, but also on the promptness and care with which orders are filled.—John P. Slade & Son, Fall River, Mass.

Saved every life.—It is fortunate to be able to save life in case of fire; but what if it had been different? Who would have looked after your dependents? How about the loss of your property even if your life is saved. Don't you realize the inestimable value of insurance with this office?—J. C. Rudd Son & Co., Owensboro, Ky.

Don't delay nor wait till your property is on fire before insuring. "It might have been" are sad words for the man who sees his all reduced to ashes without knowing where to turn for relief. Remember that your friend in need is an insurance policy. We are ready to write you one at any time. Only good companies represented.—Jas. A. Davidson, Parkersburg, W. Va.

It's the same old story with so many. They do not think seriously of fire insurance until the property is destroyed. Then there is nothing to insure. Why not take time by the forelock? Rates are not reduced by procrastinating. Today is the day for securing a policy. Tomorrow may bring a fire.—Mitchell & Shrewsbury, Parkersburg, W. Va.

A good New Year resolution is without value unless carried into effect. Neither is an insurance policy of value without it is carried by a company of the highest standing. Only experienced and reliable agents can represent the best companies. That is why you should have us transact your insurance business.—Sage, Burgett & Co., Mobile, Ala.

Fire has no effect on a man's business if he carries sufficient insurance to cover all loss. And it's a good thing to be able to say when the flames are eating up your property that it's covered by insurance.—J. Henry Brown, Woodstock.

Many causes may be responsible for the burning of your building, but you alone are responsible if you lose in case of fire. We provide insurance that protects you from loss. The cause is not the question—the protection is what you want.—S. A. Allen & Son, Westfield.

The fire alarm gong or the dark cloud in the sky need have no terrors for you if we carry your insurance. The manner in which these disasters are increasing has demonstrated the fact that insurance is the only protection you can get against them. Don't wait until tomorrow. Do it now. Call us up and we will call and see you.—Wallace & Corry, Springfield, Ohio.

Did it ever occur to you that there must be a reason why so many people recommend our health and accident policies? It's this way.

We pay all claims promptly and without any fuss. Call at our office and get list of 53 claims that we have settled since January 1.—Lovier & White, Rome.

It's easier to pay a small premium than to suffer a heavy loss by fire. Insure to-day with Hickman & Johnson, Knoxville, Tenn.

Look out for the horses when the fire bell rings. Look up your insurance before it rings again. Come and get one of our household inventories and insure with Lansing Insurance Agency, Lansing, Mich.

Your wife? Is she provided for in case you meet with misfortune? This is a serious matter. Take it up to-day and make application for a policy in the Prudential Insurance Co. of America.—Trenton, N. J.

Let us take your risk? If your home or household effects are not insured you are taking a risk that may mean the possible loss of years of striving and saving. It may have been your good fortune never to have had a fire—but who can tell when one will occur? 'Tis better to be safe than sorry—better to have the protection of a high grade company than to take your own risk. If you cannot attend to this at once, drop us a postal or call phone 3326 and a representative will call. Do not delay—act now.—Chas. Wilson & Co., New Haven.

Woodruff & Son have facilities not surpassed by any other agency in Lexington for writing all classes of fire insurance—and, remember, there is not a company in our office that is not as good for any contract they may make as any bank in the city is for a dollar bill. We will have no other kind. We solicit your patronage and assure you of fair treatment and prompt settlement in event of loss.—Lexington, Ky.

If a man entrusts the sums that he is able to save out of his yearly income in trained and experienced hands, he has no occasion for anxiety. If his investments take the form of insurance, while his immediate income is deferred, he has the satisfaction of knowing that those dependent on him will reap the benefit of his care. If he selects an endowment policy, he simply waits until the term has expired, when he will reap the full advantages of his savings. The sums requisite for quarterly or semi-annual payments are so small that they are hardly missed yet their aggregate importance, when accumulated for a long term of years, is extremely great. The habit of thus putting aside at regular periods the sums essential for the payment of a policy becomes a second nature as time goes on.—C. Walker Hills, Rockland, Me.

Is your property, household goods or stock of merchandise insured? A policy of insurance covering loss by fire saves a man much humiliation and embarrassment in case of fire. The cost is trifling compared to the benefits to be derived. Let me figure with you. You will be surprised when you know how little it costs.—R. M. Morton, Windsor, Ont.

Fire insurance. The methods of the various companies in settling their losses appear to us of the first importance to buyers of insurance policies. Insurance is preeminently a business founded upon good faith, and a policy to be worth anything must be good under any and all circumstances. An insurance company which meets its obligations under ordinary conditions, but which in the face of extraordinary losses endeavors in every way to evade its just obligations, is not the company which the thoughtful and conservative business man will choose to indemnify him against loss. We represent only companies that pay their losses under all circumstances.—G. A. DeLong & Co., Lexington, Ky.

Insurance solicitors—Your living expenses have increased greatly, but the Armstrong law has decreased your income. Our contract and proposition enable you to more than double your previous high contract income mark. We give you an opportunity to earn more than a bare living. You get paid for the production, large or small. Investigate. The truth will convince you what others are doing you can do. Insuring public—A Southern insurance company, officered by Southern men and backed by Southern money, offers you the most attractive protection proposition to be found. Policies are liberal and fair, safe, sound and conservative, guaranteeing attractive investment features, and protection for wife and children in case of the death of the insured. None better to be had. Give our agents a hearing; they will interest you.—The Southern States Life Insurance Co., Montgomery.

JEWELRY

"Of course," she said, when the time came to leave the seashore and she was haunted by the fear that he might claim her acquaintance in the city; "of course, this was only a sham engagement. Shall I return your ring?"

"Quite unnecessary," he replied gallantly. "I keep sham rings for sham engagements."

And as she had worn it for three whole weeks and had exhibited it proudly, under the impression that it was a genuine diamond, his revenge was complete.—Chicago Post.

Thousands of pieces of summer jewelry at unexpectedly low prices. Glittering trinkets by the thousand deck out the main aisle to-day. There's a glint of gold, the sparkle of precious stones—rainbow-like in colorings and the sheen of silver. And the rich yellow-browns of the tortoise-shell as a contrast. Thousands of dollars' worth—if it were only real! But it isn't—simply the effective, pleasing, specious jewelry that so many people want in summer—jewelry that can be worn with impunity anywhere—decorative, useful, yet not a subject for heart-break if you chance to lose it. Hundreds of charming designs are here—hat-pins, scarf-pins, brooches, cuff-links, chains—trinkets that will make a brave showing in the outing costume.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Two Years of Modern Jewelry Selling. Nearly two years ago we threw off the chains that bound us to the jobber in jewelry. We believed our people would be quick to recognize the difference between retail and wholesale prices, and that we could sell enough to warrant us to buy in wholesale quantities. Two years ago this was only a belief; now it is a vigorous reality.—Brodnax, Memphis.

Prices of jewelry were never more reasonable than they are to-day, if you get to the right place and consider the quality of the goods you are buying. If you wish high grade, artistic jewelry in charming new designs, we shall be pleased to show you our assortment. No better values in watches, diamonds, and precious stones can be obtained at our prices than we are offering. All novelties in summer jewelry at low prices.—LeBron Jewelry Co., Montgomery, Ala.

The wedding gift store. We welcome you here at all times, and invite you to bring your visiting friends. The wedding gift store is a unique one in many respects. We are showing a multitude of articles that are especially attractive for wedding gifts, and we wish you to consider yourself always welcome here. For diamonds and silver we are always worth seeing first.—LeBron Jewelry Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Real art in electroliers. If you have an eye for the æsthetic, you'll take pleasure in looking over our new collection of bronze electroliers. We want you to see these goods—and there isn't a doubt but that you will find something that will particularly appeal to you. The line has been received since Christmas and contains a lot of designs of electroliers that most stores won't be showing for several months to come.—LeBron Jewelry Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Snake bracelets. A Paris fad. Less than half price. There is something exceedingly fascinating about the snake in bracelets, two, three and four strands in gold plate or gun metal finish—perfect reproductions of a cobra; some with imitation emerald studded head. The bracelet fits lightly but firmly on the arm. The price is so small as to be decidedly deceiving as to the character of these attractive bracelets.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Combs and barrettes. Hair ornaments are so much in vogue that they will be among the most popular Christmas gifts this season. And in preparation for the demand we have assembled in the jewelry store much the largest and finest showing that we ever had. The back and side combs with gold trimmings are in particularly broad assortment. Solid gold mountings in plain, bead and fancy designs on imitation shell.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

It's the only thing you buy to wear that doesn't wear out.—W. R. Jackson, St. Thomas, Ont.

Holiday times are approaching rapidly. It's a good idea to buy your gifts early. We make this suggestion because next month will be a busy month for you and you will no doubt appreciate our suggestion to buy now while you have the time. Jewelry, silverware and cut glass.—A. F. Williams, the Jeweler, Trenton, N. J.

In the toe-tip of the stocking something from these cases should go. A ring, a bracelet, a brooch, a pin, a set of studs or buttons, what you like, so long as it snuggles down where it will be discovered last, as the best of all the gifts should be. Not that they'll cost you too much, either—we've learned where and when to buy them to our, and your, greatest advantage.—The Stone, Fisher Co., Tacoma, Wash.

We are asking your opinion on a lot of newly arrived jewelry. Will it be favorable? We think so, and this is why we think so: Because we've been careful to choose nothing but the very newest and brightest ideas. We went all over to get them and we're certain that you'll agree that they are particularly attractive. Some of the lines are exclusive. They are here for you to look at—that's your privilege. They are here for you to buy—that's your option. You are welcome if you only look.—P. Girard, East Grand Forks, Minn.

Christmas jewelry. Come in and look over this new store. All the goods are new and clean and many are entirely original in ideas. You are invited to inspect the stock now when the store is prettiest and at its best. Don't feel that you have to buy if you come in. Just come in and spend a few minutes and you won't feel that it is wasted.—N. W. Cowles, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Diamonds, jewelry, watches and silverware. A magnificent array of all that is rich, beautiful and artistic in gold and silver jewelry, in handsomely cased watches, artistic tableware and all the season's novelties in art jewelry from Paris, London and Vienna. The diamond cutter, the jeweler and the silversmith, have certainly sent out this season, the most exquisite articles, specially designed for rich gifts. Our great holiday display on the first floor, just as you enter the store at Eighth and Market Streets, fairly sparkles and glints with beauty and brilliancy—the most beautiful creations of artisans in gold and silver. It is a marvelously captivating assembly of dainty, elegant and artistic scarf pins, brooches, rings, watches, fobs, silver pieces for the table, etc. A considerable portion of the display is given up to the latest novelties in personal jewelry from London, Vienna and Paris. These dainty and striking conceits were imported direct. Now just a word about the diamonds. You can rely upon the stones, and the mountings are the most artistic. We bought diamonds long before the recent advance, and our patrons are given every advantage of our early purchases.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Every jewel loving woman should visit our handsome store and revel in the glorious display of jewelry, precious stones and sterling and silver-plated ware—watches, cut glass, etc., etc. It is a veritable fairyland. You can depend on anything we show you being the very best quality and always at the lowest prices.—B. M. Henschel & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Here's a jewelry stock to be proud of. We are proud of it. We want you to know how well worth being proud of it is. So to tempt you to know it better, we make these special prices.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

New ideas in jewelry. New Spring goods are arriving. If you are needing anything in stylish, up-to-date jewelry we invite you to call. We do not sell paste and tinsel at 15c. or 25c. a grab, but on the contrary handle nothing but honest jewelry at honest prices.—The Cornwell Jewelry Co., Pueblo, Colo.

Ask to see it; you don't have to buy.—Brown, Hartford, Conn.

Such little prices now as this close-out sale makes for fine jewelry will coax the prettiest things from the show cases into your possession. In such a big store the jewelry section may not cover much space, but there's thousands of dollars' worth here, and ordinary prices seem high by comparison with those now asked. The faddish jewelry, the modish kinds, the sorts of sterling value.—Harned & VonMaur, Peoria, Ill.

Sale of Jewelry of Equal Interest to Men and Women.—A great big good lot of useful jewelry at very, very small prices. Not a piece in the lot but is worth a third more; some is worth two or three times the price. Nearly every bit is from the makers of the guaranteed King collar buttons, and is sold under the maker's (and our) warranty of service and satisfaction.—Howland's, Bridgeport, Conn.

If it is good jewelry at moderate prices that you want, come to this store—the home of honest jewelry.—E. C. Bates, Alliance, O.

The prices verily are jewels. Counter after counter, case after case, lend their beauty to a store of loveliness to-morrow—a display of surpassing brilliancy.—J. & P. Adams, Buffalo, N. Y.

Betrothal Rings.—One could not wish to see a finer assortment of engagement rings than we are now showing. In our assortment we show the diamond in combination with the ruby, emerald, sapphire, opal, turquoise, etc.—W. C. Forbes, St. Thomas, Ont.

So dear to every artistic and refined heart is our collection of jewelry. Silverware, diamonds and all that represents the best efforts of skilled artisans in qualities that stand second to none. They are first in excellence and the prices are invariably low.—Ike Loeb, Montgomery.

The sign of the treaty of love. When a treaty of love has been made, there is one sign needed to make the betrothal—namely, an engagement ring. Since the soft, balmy months of Summer and early Fall are proverbially the ones when more people become “engaged” than any others in the calendar, we deem it opportune to call attention to our fine stock of engagement rings. This stock has recently received many new recruits from the East—rings of the latest and newest styles in settings—and presents as fine a range of choice as the most enthusiastic lover need wish for.—Barr's Jewelry Store, Salem, Ore.

To Please a Man—a seal ring, or if he belongs to a fraternal order, one bearing the proper emblem.—J. F. Carr, Kenton, O.

Now autumn comes with clustered grapes a-swing

On drooping vines; the summer waxeth old.

But we just meant to say: A cluster ring

Of diamonds and opals set in gold, All richly chased, of Lechenger's design,

Would please your wife and make her dear eyes shine.

—Lechenger's, Houston, Tex.

Christmas Goods.—You may think it's a little early to begin to talk holiday goods. But here it is October. Already our store has a holiday appearance. Nearly every day we receive some holiday goods, and already a great many sales have been made. Almost every day we lay aside something for someone. Come in and see us.—Garrettson's Jewelry Store, Kenton, O.

Buying jewelry and gems is a matter of confidence! Most people cannot accurately determine for themselves the value of precious stones and gold and silver things. Therefore, it is important to know the store you buy from.

C. Lumsden & Son are as anxious to satisfy you as you are yourself—they can't afford to do otherwise!—C. Lumsden & Son, Richmond, Va.

Our graduation gifts will please her immensely. Nor is it to be wondered at that she gazes with rapture on a gem so rare. See it, fellows, at Kelley's jewelry store. Showing exquisite graduation, wedding and birthday gifts there—something altogether out of the ordinary.—Kelley the Jeweler, Atlanta, Ga.

In selecting commencement gifts why not commemorate this event—one of the most notable in your child's life—by choosing a diamond? Even a small one, coming as it does on that occasion, carries with it a great deal of sentiment, and the recipient will cherish and remember it a lifetime. There are all kinds of pretty pieces of diamond jewelry for girls—pins, brooches, rings and things that appeal to the feminine heart.—Feagan's, Joliet, Ill.

For Men Only.—The most important part of a man's dress are the little fixings as his tie-clips for holding his tie in position; his collar stud, his front stud, his scarfpin, his key chain, etc. If these are what they should be he is called a well-dressed man. We are properly equipped to place every man who wants to be in this enviable position.—Stewart Dawson & Co., Brisbane.

Jewelry novelties and belts.—They are not absolutely necessary to your happiness, nor do they improve your worldly wealth; but then they conform to certain social usages of polite society, and you might as well be in oblivion as to go against the decrees of good breeding. Satisfying yourself on this point, look at the economical values enumerated.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

A wonderful offering in solid gold jewelry. Sale of manufacturers' stocks specials. Here are values extraordinary in handsome, thoroughly reliable solid gold jewelry—Bloomingdale's reputation's back of every piece offered and the bargains are unmatched.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

Every woman loves handsome jewelry. Every woman likes to feel that her jewelry is solid and perfect—that she has just what she paid for. Every woman likes to save money too. Consequently every woman ought to patronize us—it means safety, satisfaction and economy.—Robt. P. Krep, Joliet, Ill.

For Her, the Wedding Ring.—That magic little band that is playing its important part in these days of roses and rosebuds. Of course, when you place it on her pretty finger, you wish to know that it is all that it should be and no base metal enters into its making. As in everything else, there are many grades, and quality should be your first consideration. The stamp does not always mean as it reads, and you should be sure the Ring is made seamless, so that solder or base metal is eliminated. When we say our Rings are 14k or 18k, it means that they are guaranteed to assay just exactly 14k or 18k and are seamless.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Just from Paris—the Jewelry you see in the shops of the Rue de la Paix. Great cases here gather every article for feminine adornment. Wherever it turns, the eye is delighted by some design of strikingly artistic originality and beautiful color-effect—the exquisite tintings of the metals subtly blended with the glowing hues of the stones with which they are set.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Have you not, somewhere in the house, unused pieces of jewelry, out of fashion and possibly out of repair? Do not let them lie in dark boxes any longer. Bring them to us and let us show you how they can be remodeled, modernized and beautified. A few touches of our artists' skill will do wonders with them. We will supply original designs or we will follow out your own ideas.—Lambert Bros., New York, N. Y.

No jewelry makes a showing that is prettier, or in better taste, than these inexpensive Waist Sets, Bar Pins and Cuff Pins set with rhinestones and imitation pearls on sterling silver mountings. Designs are new and artistic, and just the simple jewelry a woman wants to wear with a summer frock.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

First glimpse now of some of the styles that won't be shown generally until fall. And the first thought on seeing them is of wonder that such exquisite jewelry can be sold for such trifling prices.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Oddities in fobs, pins. The shirt waist man is looking for the very thing we are displaying. If you want to be on time with the "summer girl" this is your chance.—Sterner's, Allentown, Pa.

Pretty nearly everybody nowadays, wears plated jewelry at one time or another—it has lived down the stigma that formerly attached to wearing imitation.

It comes in such irresistible pretty styles, and is anything but "cheap" in looks. The workmanship is high class, the appearance very effective and the service a long ways better than the price.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Graceful and unusual jewelry—distinctive and original goldsmithing. We take a great deal of pride in having our stock of jewelry represent all that is not only newest and best, but that also is different from the common run. Exclusive and distinctive designing forms a large part of our business and those desiring jewelry that has these qualities will find wide range for satisfactory selection here. Special order work. Correct engraving.—Clark & Engle, Wilkes-Barre.

Women will browse with delight among this attractive collection of the pretty sorts of Jewelry best adapted for summer wearing.—Wanamaker, New York.

We think that you will find our Jewelry very interesting and we know that you will be pleased with your purchase made at our store. "Take our invitation often—walk in and look around."—P. H. Stevens, Hartford, Conn.

Uniform excellence and reliability, exclusiveness and refinement, latest designs, variety of choice, price advantages. These facts, together with unique store methods, make this the jewelry store of satisfaction and economy.—J. Wiss & Sons, Newark, N. J.

Burglarized! Window Snashed, Jewelry Stolen! What Is to be Done? We simply stand the loss and keep right on sacrificing goods. How? 1-3 off on watches, 1-3 off on jewelry.—Guthman's, Youngstown, Ohio.

Imported jewelry at half price.—These are the strikingly pretty combinations of imitation jewels and gold-plated mountings that they know so well how to make across the ocean. Jewelry that sparkle and please, though frankly a make-believe. New half prices rule today on a number of most attractive odd pieces, such as brooches and belt clasps, that must go before our fall importations arrive. You'll find the choosing most alluring.—Wanamaker's, New York.

The Tray of Hearts displayed in our show window would fill your hand nicely. It's a green silk plush tray filled with gold friendship hearts of different sizes, some plain, others set with a pearl, garnet, turquoise or diamond.—Chas. E. Rose, Telluride, Colo.

"Everything that is best in diamonds and jewelry."—Mercereau & Connell, Scranton, Pa.

You will find the genuine here—a clear, pure stone, in any setting you may desire. We can save you money, and yet give you the best that money can buy.—Chas. E. Davis, Great Falls, Mont.

Jewelry excellence in a nutshell is what you'll find at our store. Beautiful gems of art in both gold and silver and precious stones of every kind and description. Buy your presents now and have them laid aside for you by paying slight deposits.—Geo. E. Wheelhouse Co., Utica, N. Y.

Peeresses ablaze with sparkling gems scintillated at the king's coronation and made a showing of jewelled splendor such as has seldom been seen. You can see a display of jewels in brooches, rings, stick pins, chains, etc., such as you see nowhere in Grand Forks but at Kent's. Everything for wedding and birthday gifts, engagement rings, etc.—Frank V. Kent & Co., Grand Forks, N. D.

Engagement rings.—A lady seldom wishes to have her engagement ring altered. It is important, therefore, that it be of a high quality and of a lasting style—one that is fashionable now and sure to be fashionable. The half-loop is always correct, and whether of diamonds alone or diamonds set with rubies, pearls, emeralds or sapphires, the effect is equally as good. From our stock a selection is not difficult.—Cosly, Asheville, N. C.

In the jewelry trade there are all kinds of rings and all kinds of prices. Some of them are worth buying and some are not, and on others the prices are "out of sight." The rings which we offer for to-morrow are all good enough to buy and wear too, and the prices are such that almost anyone can afford to pay them. If you wish them for gifts, we will lay aside your purchase if you ask us.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

A wedding ring should fit the finger. If it is too large it is a sign of shallowness of purpose. If too tight it suggests that the union pinches somehow. A perfect fitting ring is symbolic of a perfect harmonious union. Start out right by getting your wedding ring from us. We keep the proper kind and proper sizes, and engrave any inscription you may want, free of charge.—Switzer & Grubert, Staunton, Va.

Full many a gem of purest ray serene may at our large establishment be seen. If you wish jewels that would gladden the heart of an empress, this is the place for you, O flower of American womanhood! We cater to the trade of uncrowned queens.—A. Low, Chicago, Ill.

The "———" collar button, 50c., will save many a cuss-word.—Gans & Klein, Helena, Mont.

Our watch is the accurate to a second time-piece.—Dueber-Hampden Watch Works, Canton, Ohio.

Little luxuries priced as low as if they were necessities. Every article just as good as if the best jeweler's name was on the box, but how much lower in price! —Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

Graduation gifts! You know it is time for the purchasing of these pleasant souvenirs of Graduation Day. We have learned from experience just what the young people like best in the way of gifts, and we have prepared ourselves to supply parents and guardians with beautiful and suggestive articles that have a permanency of interest.—C. H. Case & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Signet rings. There's a constant demand for new, odd and out-of-the-common ring designs. Our display of signet rings meets this demand, fully; we have a first-rate variety of the latest designs—extremely novel, many of them, yet artistic and in perfect taste. Safe to say that no matter what style of signet ring you want, or how much you are ready to spend for one, you can make a satisfactory selection here.—P. H. Stevens, Hartford, Conn.

After all, have you noticed that the trifles of dress are its tell-tales. The Horse Show rig will hardly be complete without its jeweled collar or necklace. Get the leading color of your get-up, then match it in the stone of one of these jeweled collars. They brace the limp lingerie collars beautifully.—Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

In purchasing a diamond, a watch, or a set of silverware, it is necessary to know the exact facts about any one of them. We encourage inquisitiveness in our customers, and delight in telling them the plain truth about all our goods. That, with courteous treatment, have won solid, lasting friends for us. And we propose to keep it up.—Robert P. Kiep, Joliet, Ill.

Creations for the bride. A jewelry store is the natural place to seek gifts of lasting value! There are many things here that are beautiful, useful and that will hold their worth almost indefinitely. Numberless articles in jewelry, etc., that will give much pleasure to the bride.—J. T. Allen & Co., Richmond, Va.

Engagement Rings and Wedding Rings. And now when the swallows homeward fly there is a kind of fluttering around Brown's, by the big clock, and some wedding rings are being carried away. Look out! the robins are going to build.—Hartford, Conn.

A Ring That Satisfies. No purchase of a lifetime requires the care that should be shown in buying the engagement ring. We have made a study in this line, and have chosen a stock which will enable you to have the best sets, the prettiest settings and the most reliable plain rings.—W. C. Forbes, St. Thomas, Ont., Can.

You have certainly heard of the phrase,—"As good as gold and sure as diamonds." That is the saying of centuries expressing as nearly as possible unchanging value. When, therefore, just as the holiday season approaches, we offer diamonds set in brooches, cuff links, lockets, scarf pins, etc., just the very thing for presents to man or woman, at prices one-fourth to one-third less than their worth, we think there is justification in calling it a wonderful sale.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

At Lambert's a $100 ring sells for $100. We don't say our price is away below the real value of the article, but because we manufacture so largely and because our customers pay only one profit, Lambert jewelry is lower-priced than that of other reliable houses. When we add that we unreservedly guarantee every article we sell, and that we have enjoyed public confidence for almost thirty years, you will understand why our record in trade is a history of success. We are in a modest locality, where rents are not exorbitant—another element of economy by which our patrons benefit.—Lambert Bros., New York.

Various manufacturing jewelers contribute to-day's good buying—largely surplus lots; and in some cases, part of the stocks that the makers thought to hold as reserve for the follow-on orders for holiday business. But they figured, doubtless, that cash in hand was worth several uncertain orders in the future. There will be nothing newer in styles shown later, during the holidays.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

We have punctuated the spent season with several special sales of bar pins. They were successful—remarkably so. It gave us courage to organize a sale which involves more pins than any three other shops combined afford—serviceable, well wrought pins of sterling silver, heavily plated with 14 karat gold and set with brilliant stones.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

A jewelry store is the best place in the world to get suggestions for wedding or birthday presents. The stock is so varied, and the prices are so varied, that every kind of taste and every kind of pocket-book is sure to be suited. We have many inexpensive, but dainty little novelties here, which will make excellent gifts. This is a jewelry store where you can get just what you are looking for. Our stock never runs down. Our superb array of jewelry and watches makes selection easy.—W. F. Sellers & Co., Altoona, Pa.

Gold-Plated Summer Jewelry Much Under Price.—One would think the regular prices of these artistic pieces were quite temptings enough. The patterns copied from the best designs of high-priced jewelry; and the summer girl and man who wish to be care-free about the loss of these things when traveling or on holiday excursions are very glad to select from such a pretty collection. But we have cut the prices away down from their regular littleness; and to-day's offerings are particularly tempting.—Wanamaker, New York.

Rings, Rings, Rings. Engagement rings, Wedding rings. Baby rings, Birthday rings. Signet rings. Rings of every description. An elegant stock to select from, and such low prices you can not help to buy when you see our rings.—A. Graves Co., Memphis, Tenn.

In these degenerate days, there is nothing in which one can be more easily fooled than in jewelry. And so the wise jewelry buyer takes care to go to a reliable house like Wilson's, London, E. C.

Babies' rings should be of so good a quality as not to tarnish and cause blood poisoning, and yet not so expensive that their loss would be felt. The line of rings we carry fills the bill. See them.—The Whitehouse Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

Everything you need in jewelry awaits your inspection at the Lambert store. There is a myriad of gifts for graduations, birthdays, engagements, weddings, and for bon voyage souvenirs. The most beautiful article is far less costly than you would imagine, for we are manufacturers and importers, never dealing with middlemen. We can always serve you well—never better than in the month of roses, gifts and good wishes. Reliable jewelry lasts forever. So buy of Lambert's the old Reliable.—Lambert Bros., New York, N. Y.

Dainty and graceful—as you would expect in styles born in Paris. The Pendant necklaces are a charming fashion-fancy. Thin, almost thread-like gold-filled or silver chains hung with lovely little pendants of gems, imitation or semi-precious. Other chains have a festoon effect of gem-set links—extremely graceful adornment for Mademoiselle's neck—and essentially Parisian! The color combinations of the gems of various hues are strikingly artistic.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Always count on the latest fads being shown here first. Just as soon as word reached us from our representative in fashion centers, we ordered the very latest conceits for immediate display. Certainly they are fascinating little effects—and as fresh as a rose. The effects are as dainty as can be in French gray, dull or polished gun metal, Roman and rose gold finishes—some are jeweled very cleverly and neatly, one might even say elegantly—others take on a tinge of color, like the peacock feather designs. Most of the Chatelaines have a sash pin of effective design from which drop five chains, having such delicately fashioned need articles as a pencil, memo tablet, bonbon box, mirror, coin holder, purse or stamp case.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

With our enviable reputation for selling the best and most trustworthy watches always, specials like these we offer for to-morrow mean much to folks who know us. They mean that you can purchase an absolutely correct time-piece (with our guarantee back of it) at a most appreciable saving.—Bloomingtondale's, New York, N. Y.

The new arrivals of Jewelry from Paris present a brilliant exhibition. These decorative pieces are wonderful in their artistic effects; though the jewels are imitations, the designs are artistic as though real diamonds and pearls were to be mounted.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

As jobbers of Rings, buying direct of the makers, we naturally have assortments that cannot be found in a strictly retail jewelry store. You have the advantage here of pleasing your individual fancy. And, then, the saving in cost! A record is kept of every ring sale and your money is waiting for you if there is any dissatisfaction.—Hofman's, Columbus, Ohio.

It has been the fashion for fair woman to decorate herself with gold and silver chains. It is still the fashion, to judge by what one sees in New York and Paris.

We have many pretty conceits in fancy link and jeweled slide as well as the simpler patterns.—Montgomery Bros., Los Angeles, Cal.

There is such a thing as sentiment in business, wise proverb makers to the contrary notwithstanding. The sentimental side of our business is represented by the Lambert seamless solid gold wedding rings. The sale of wedding rings increases at our store continually. The little blind Cupid is always busy, and his followers have learned that Lambert wedding rings are as good as they can be made. Our reputation began growing years ago, by reason of the excellence of these rings, and they have never fallen below the original standard. They are made in our own factory, and, like everything else we sell, are guaranteed. They come in all styles, sizes, widths and shapes.—Lambert Bros., New York.

It's another manufacturer's sample lot of buttons bought at a price concession that virtually gives them to us as a reward for our large season's business. They'll create a positive sensation, for they are worth up to $8—not one pair worth less than $5—guaranteed solid gold—many are set with genuine rose diamonds and other precious stones. Monday, while they last, at $1.50 and $2.90.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

We differ from the exclusive jeweler only in the matter of selling. We gather in the same markets, of the same manufacturers—travel together up to the selling point, and there we part. His must be long profits to cover short seasons, ours the usual Macy profits, a slender margin based upon cash transactions—no more on luxuries than we get from necessities.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

Bewildering surprises on every hand. One scarcely knows which way to turn first in this wonderful jewelry store. There are so many beautiful and appropriate things in gold, silver, various other metals, precious stones and countless novelties, that the mind is quickly stimulated, and purses fly open readily. If you are in doubt as to what to buy, a walk through the jewelry store will quickly set your mind at ease.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

We sell jewelry, good jewelry, too; the kind you can wear with pride. Jewelry for birthdays, weddings and other gifts can be found here in rich assortment. The prices are wonderfully less than you would naturally imagine for such excellent values.—Geo. E. Wheelhouse Co., Utica, N. Y.

No exclusive jeweler, no matter how great his reputation, can have finer diamonds, more artistic jewelry or better watches. No exclusive jeweler can compete in price and none can more thoroughly safeguard you as to quality, for we take back without question anything with which you can find fault.—Hecht Bros., New York, N. Y.

Our plan has won the hearts of jewelry lovers in this town. To-day we will invite callers' attention to our new way of displaying diamonds and gold jewelry. Under soft, clear light, with nothing to confuse the eye, the trays of treasure are sure to bring expressions of delight. We offer distinct advantages in prices.—Mermod, Jaccard & King Jewelry Co., New York, N. Y.

Who wore the first finger ring? Prometheus, "the father of jewelry," is credited with having made the first ring. When he was cut loose by Hercules from the chains that had held him to Mount Caucasus, he made a ring out of one of the links of his fetters and in the bevel fixed a portion of the rock. The marriage ring is of very ancient origin. It was used as a seal, by which orders were signed (Gen. XXXVIII; Esther II, 10-12), and the delivery of the ring was a sign that the giver endowed the person who received it with all the power he himself possessed (Gen. XII, 42). The woman who had the ring could issue commands as her husband and was in every respect his representative.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Here's a splendid chance for any one with a birthday or anniversary gift to present. Nothing more appropriate or acceptable than one of these handsome, newest style bracelets.—Bloomingdales, New York.

Inexpensive jewelry. How about one of our new "lingerie" necklaces to give a touch of color to your white lingerie blouse? One of our new dainty "stock supporters?" A pretty festoon or pendant necklace for the girl you know is going to graduate? Or—but come yourself and browse among the spring jewelry—let that persuade you.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

The handsomest dollar hat pin that has been shown in Hartford for many a day is here. No question about its being the most attractive value of its kind we've ever offered. If you have need of a new hat pin, step in and see this dollar special of ours—you'll buy one, we warrant.—P. H. Stevens, Hartford, Conn.

We keep everlastingly at it and therefore tell you again that we have a new line of waist sets, back and side combs, watches, high grade railroad movements, diamonds and diamond jewelry in all latest designs. We do high grade watch and jewelry repairing. Carefully test and fit your eyes with accurately ground lenses and any style spectacle or eyeglasses.—F. J. Mund, Leadville, Colo.

Most women like to possess pretty rings. We have provided for the demands of fashion and display as fine an assortment of rings as was ever shown in Binghamton. If your mind is made up on any particular style of ring—which we don't happen to have—we can easily make it up for you.—John M. Freear, Binghamton, N. Y.

Beauty in brooches.—A stock that is representative of good taste and rare elegance. The most notable feature is the entire absence of the heavy and clumsy effects seen in so many stocks, and instead, daintiness of style that shows careful selection from the best manufacturing jewelers.—Louis P. Cronan, Kewanee, Ill.

The mountings of the rings, brooches, pins, &c., in our store are all made in our own factory on the premises. Such articles as we do not manufacture we buy for cash in great quantities direct from the makers. Middlemen never figure in any of our transactions, and that is why, although we yield to nobody in the excellence nor the artistic quality of our goods, our prices are always reasonable.—Lambert Bros., New York, N. Y.

"The jewelry you find here is so different from that in other stores—everything is fresh and stylish." We hear this comment almost daily now that the flood-tide of holiday shopping has begun to rise. Our stock shines with the latest ideas demanded by refined taste, because we have a large factory and a staff of designers on the same premises with our salesrooms. We are original in other directions—in our diamond department, for example. Prices of diamonds are fixed in Europe and all importers are treated alike. Our great advantage—and yours—is that a member of our firm chooses the stones in Amsterdam and imports them direct. We sell diamonds lower than others can because we pay no importer's or jobber's profits.—Lambert Bros., New York, N. Y.

A thousand gold brooches bought at fractional prices. Latest styles, of course, for they are just out of the factory. No other reliable jewelry house ever did or ever will offer you a like value in brooches.—Castelberg's, Washington, D. C.

A written guarantee with every purchase as to weight of stones and fineness of gold. A pearl necklace at $40,000.00. If you want to see one of the most exquisite pieces of jewelry ever made, come in and look at a pearly necklace which we offer Monday at $40,000.00. (Goods bought before Thursday will be charged in the December account if desired.) This wonderful necklace is composed of an incredible number of very lustrous pearls—all of very finest quality—in the matching of which many years were occupied. Considering its exquisite beauty and the even matching of the pearls, our price of $40,000.00 is a bargain price. A diamond necklace at $30,000.00. Another magnificent jewel to be seen here is a diamond necklace composed of fancy shaped diamonds cut by one of the most famous diamond cutters in all Europe. Every stone is blue white. This necklace is one of the finest pieces ever shown in New York. The price of $30,000.00 is low for this piece.—Ehrich Bros., New York, N. Y.

We have never shown anything daintier, richer or more effective than the new designs of personal jewelry which we have gathered for this fall. An especially pleasing selection of a brooch, stick pin or waist set can be made from a line of exquisitely enameled four leaf clovers and autumn leaves, set with diamonds or pearls. A pleasure to show you, even if just looking for the future.—Nilson-Crawford Co., Denison.

Summer Jewelry.—New, neat, pretty trinkets that give a dainty touch to the Summer attire.—Stewart & Co., Baltimore, Md.

The bride's pleasure is certain if the gifts of the wedding are selected from a stock of high quality. Here are some beautiful pieces of the best makes of silverware. Full quality, perfectly made—not a bit of cost put on them, but that shows perfectly. You can see the quality in everything we sell.—R. Wiss & Sons, Newark, N. J.

There is not a plated, washed or filled ring in our stock. If others charge less for their rings, it's because ours are better.—Worell, the jeweler, Louisiana, Mo.

Brown's Scarf Pins. Brown has a tray of scarf pins in his showcase that are remarkable for beauty and good taste. There are hardly any two alike; they are unique in style; yet there is not a single freak, or cheap design among them. Some of the cleverest pins ever exhibited in this city are in this tray.—Brown, Hartford, Conn.

Buying jewelry and gems is a matter of confidence. Most people cannot accurately determine for themselves the value of precious stones and gold and silver things. Therefore it is important to know the store you buy from. Bartlett is as anxious to satisfy you as you are yourself. He can't afford to do otherwise.—F. A. Bartlett, Lockport.

Visitors to Europe are cordially invited to visit the establishments of Tiffany & Co. at Avenue de l'Opera, 36 bis, Paris, and 221 and 221A Regent Street, W., London, where objects of interest can be viewed with the same freedom as in a museum.—Tiffany & Co., New York.

There is no stock in the house from which you can select pleasing gifts for weddings, birthdays or anniversaries with more ease and pleasure than the jewelry store. Here are gifts for the mere tot—mugs, rings, pins—to the most aged. Appropriate gifts, showy gifts, gifts of intrinsic merit. And they need not be costly.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark.

To-morrow we offer other specials in solid gold and diamond jewelry. The prettiest novelties and the newest conceits are displayed in our jewelry store. Everything has been skillfully selected; you're safe buying here. The prices are from 25 per cent. to 50 per cent. below those usually asked.—Bloomingdale Bros., New York.

Good, straightforward, honest gold and silver jewelry and things for folk with limited means yet not satisfied with anything but the best.—Geo. F. Brodnax, Memphis, Tenn.

New spring jewelry. A sparkling array of the new spring sterling silver novelties. We are now showing all the latest styles and prevailing fads. The new designs are in fancy stunts for the smart spring girl, including the Florodora heads, dragons, pug dog heads, art nouvea, etc. They are all the rage.—Hope Bros., Knoxville, Tenn.

Escaping jewelry store stagnation after the holidays is what we mean to do. We manage to do this by lopping off prices on our goods until the profits are represented by a large round O. This year we propose to make things unusually lively and have cut prices until in many instances hardly more than the assay value of the material is left. If you have any birthdays you must remember during the next few months, we suggest that you can obtain a gift from us now which will cost you much more after this sale is over.—Johnson Jewelry Co., Logan City, Utah.

The band that binds hearts together seems to be in great demand just at this season of the year. Your ring is here, just what you want, backed up by our full guarantee. Our big stock has just been strengthened by a wide variety of all that is latest and best.—J. F. Carr, Kenton, Ohio.

The added charm to a woman's toilet is exquisite jewelry. The gems or articles need not be excessively costly; if the gems are well cut and well set and the articles perfectly made, they will greatly add to the charms of the wearer. Ernsting's is the store which carries a most magnificent stock of all that is desirable in jewelry—diamonds, kunsite, tourmalines and other gems at remarkably low prices.—C. W. Ernsting, San Diego, Cal.

We make a specialty of exclusiveness in every line we undertake as is shown by our displays. When you want "something different" come to us.—Hansel, Sloan & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

In keeping with the grand onward sweep of this time-honored establishment, we have now the pleasure of announcing our new department of diamond jewelry. A new department and a new departure. Selling the costliest of diamond jewelry on the same basis of small profit as characterizes all the Ehrich merchandise—removing diamonds from the category of luxury or extravagance and putting them into the more satisfying form of an investment. In inaugurating this great move our purpose was to erect a department which would be at least equal to any of the best ones in the store, and be also the equal of any exclusive jewelry store in New York. That means a large variety of diamond jewelry of the highest class, together with original and exclusive novelties in settings; and gold jewelry which, apart from the precious stones, is no less sought after by persons of the most refined tastes. This should not be looked upon as a mere department; it is more than that—it is truly a jewelry store, with ourselves as manufacturers.—Ehrich Bros., New York, N. Y.

A present that gives pleasure not merely for a few days but for long months and years is the ideal Christmas gift. That is why jewelry made by master workmen and sold at moderate prices is fast growing in favor. Designs full of the beauty of art are found in glistening profusion at the Lambert store. Choosing is no longer a task, but a pleasure.—Lambert's, New York, N. Y.

We are still determined in our effort to close out all the jewelry remaining from the past season, before attempting to properly show and display the new jewelry, which has been rapidly arriving during the past few weeks. If these prices are not sufficiently low to stimulate curiosity, come down and examine the goods, and see how much lower they are than usual.—McKelvey's, Youngstown, Ohio.

Wedding Rings.—Tiffany wedding rings are the proper kind, and should be of finest quality. We have in stock every size or shape, or make them to order, if you so desire. Our reputation assures you of the best. We invite you to call.—E. J. Scheer & Co., Rochester.

Imported Rhinestone Jewelry Actually at Half Price—Very many of the prettiest designs are exclusive. The settings are sterling silver or gold plated. It is really surprising how such particularly pretty pieces could be made for such prices.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you intend to get a ring in the near future it will pay you to invest now. Yes, buy for Christmas.—H. Fellman, Woonsocket, R. I.

It's a fitting custom that of giving baby a silver souvenir spoon, illustrating in some way the year you wish to be remembered. We sell a great many for that purpose, as well as for remembrances to friends at home. We charge nothing for engraving the date.—Stewart Dawson & Co., Melbourne, Aus.

Look all over town, then come to us and be convinced that our line of rings surpasses all others. We want the young men to see the nice engagement rings in our trays. For those whose purse permits, the diamond is always the thing. See those solitaire diamonds in Tiffany ring mountings at $38—sure to please. The opal, no longer unlucky, but now the most popular stone, is much in evidence in our stock. Handsome opal and diamond engagement rings $10 to $25. Possibly the day of days approaches and it's a plain gold band you need; we sell only the seamless solid gold wedding rings, the only sort to buy—all shapes and sizes—$3 to $8.—E. D. Vosbury, Atlanta, Ga.

Novelties in jewelry and belts. Dainty little articles which appeal to every woman and which are an indispensable part of a woman's dress fixings.—The Hamburger Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

When you think of jewelry think of Lyon, Lexington, Ky.

The Reliable Store. Frankly, now, wouldn't you rather have a wedding or a birthday present from Stewart Dawson's than almost any other place in Sydney? Why? Because this is a reliable store. Because for thirty-one years we have made a specialty of one class of goods—the reliable. As to prices, is it not reasonable that we, as specialists in reliable goods should be able to buy quality and sell quality lower than shops that merely dabble in quality for the sake of effect? Our stock has been carefully gone into, and we can say that the assortments were never larger and time was never more propitious for a satisfactory buying. Orders by post have careful attention, and catalogues and particulars are gladly furnished inquiries.—Dawson & Co., Sydney, Aus.

Jewelry. Little luxuries priced as low as if they were necessities. Every article of the same fine quality as if the best jeweler's name was on the box, but at much lower prices.—Geo. B. Peck Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

An up-to-date jewelry store is the best place in the world to get suggestions for presents. The stock and the prices are so varied that every taste and every pocket is likely to be suited. We have many inexpensive but dainty little novelties here which will make excellent gifts. This is the place where you can get just what you are looking for. Our stock never gets low.—Stewart Dawson & Co., Melbourne, Aus.

The latest fashionable engagement ring. Very fine. Brilliant enough to cut any heart.—L. W. Sweet & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Pins and pins. While waiting in a New York store one day last week, an observing man noticed and counted the small pins worn by a smartly dressed woman who was standing at one of the counters. There were fifteen pins in all—four on the front of the waist, four on the cuffs, three on the neck band and four on the belt. Fifteen is maybe a large number for every-day wear, but still—pins are being worn this season more in number than ever before. Our stock shows the newest ideas—in pins for the belt, the collar, the cuffs and the waist. There are pins of gold and pins of silver; pins round, pins oval and bar pins. Prices range from 30c. up to $8 each. Come in and see the line.—C. E. Gifford & Co., Fall River, Mass.

Art and poetry have always had some of their highest forms of expression in jewelry and the precious stones. The creations of the twentieth century prove this time honored rule in an almost absolute perfection of design and workmanship.—Arthur M. Field Co., Asheville, N. C.

We always sold jewelry—in fairly intelligent fashion and always with guarantee that we stood ready to make good; but one can't give gifts "subject to guarantee." A gift must be right of its class—its bulk cost isn't the standard of judging. So we changed our tactics, and we installed experts—known country-wide—at every corner of the business. In a couple of years our store has won a splendid clientele who know that the Gimbel jewelry store stands for these things: Vast assortment gathered here and abroad. Trustworthy goods; subject to every test—Exclusive things—as particularly fine stones and ornate mountings. Inexpensive jewelry—gold, if we say so; and many Paris oddities that generally are not gold. We have a clientele who know, that, better than a guarantee to be made good, the jewelry we sell is good—is givable.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

It pays best to offer our customers the best style, finish and quality of jewelry of all kinds. Our new spring stocks are well selected and represent the latest designs and most artistic styles for the fastidious purchasers as well as the popular styles for all. We call your attention to our new showing of diamond rings, gold and gold filled watches, wedding rings, signet rings and a complete line of novelties in gold, silver and cut glass. Don't fail to see our display.—LeBron Jewelry Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Gold rings. It is worth while in buying a gold ring to know that you are getting one that is absolutely dependable. W. L. & Co. solid gold shell rings, which we have sold for years, are fully warranted for five years. If in any way one proves unsatisfactory we will give you a new ring for it. Rings for babies, children, women and men. Some set with opals, garnets, amethysts, sapphires, emeralds, turquoise, pearls and rhinestones; both imitation and genuine settings. There are also signet rings, chased rings and plain rings. Now on sale on Grand Aisle Table at these prices.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

You will notice at a glance that our stock is above the ordinary, commonplace jewelry found in most stores. In other words the Williams' jewelry is the kind that up-to-date people demand. Our prices are right.—A. F. Williams, Trenton, N. J.

Weddings. Antiques for wedding gifts. To many young people an antique would be more acceptable than anything new as a gift. For several years we have been accumulating what is now quite an interesting collection of useful and ornamental pieces. We have them in metal, wood and porcelain. We invite your examination. Take elevator to second floor.—Waneless & Co., Toronto, Can.

Between now and June the blushing bride and sweet girl graduate will command the greatest attention. The perplexing problem of what to give finds an easy solution at the Hartdegen store, where worthy qualities in diamonds, jewelry, silverware, cut glass and art goods are assured, where the assortment is satisfying and where prices are pleasing. Our under-price table is a permanent feature and provides many worthy and suitable gift things at a snug saving. Many people are paying close attention to the under-price table. It's in the rear.—Hartdegen, Newark, N. J.

Lucky Swastika jewelry. Notice how many people are wearing the Swastika—that curious cross-eyed symbol. It's a "sign of welfare," an emblem of good luck, as old—well some say it's the oldest symbol in the world. Get a Swastika. Brooches, charms, cuff links, belt pins, scarf pins, waist sets.—Oberlin Bros., Fresno, Cal.

Mourning jewelry. If you are interested in mourning or jet jewelry we invite you to call and see our summer stock which has just been received. It is unsurpassed in point of variety and value at the prices asked. We suggest, belt buckles, back combs, bead necklaces, bracelets, new design barrettes. Ask to see our new mourning stationery and visiting cards. Mail orders properly and promptly filled.—LeBron Jewelry Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Dingwall jewelry. We have the distinction of being the only jewelry house in the West having a fully equipped jewelry factory and employing a complete staff of stone setters, ring makers, jewelers, engravers and repairers, each of these being a separate branch. It is in this factory that "Dingwall" diamonds are mounted. "Dingwall" jewelry made, engraving and repairing done. We would deem it a pleasure to show those interested in the art of jewelry making through our workshops.—D. R. Dingwall, Ltd., Winnipeg, Can.

Store full of wedding gifts. Have you ever thought that almost every article we sell is suitable for a wedding gift? Not only that but every article you buy from us has an artistic value far beyond the actual cost, and far preferable to some article of utility only. It is a matter of pride with us that a gift is frequently more highly prized because it came from our establishment. A lady patron described our store as "The Wedding-Gift Store," and we have always been pleased with her title for us.—LeBron Jewelry Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Many men make a hobby of their shaving outfits. To such persons we offer the most complete line of razors, strops, hones, etc., ever shown in this city. We have a fine stock of American, English, German and Swedish razors. All the leading styles of safety razors, in cases, of all kinds of combinations. Shaving brushes from 20c up to $1.50 each. Razor strops and hones in twenty-five or thirty styles, in prices from 25c to $2.00 each.—W. B. Miller & Son, Springfield, Ill.

The Seventh Street Store is showing a particularly attractive line of new goods this spring, and we are especially proud of a recent purchase of hat pins, waist sets, etc. There is no finer assortment or more reasonably priced goods in this or any other city. The difference between Market street rents and Seventh street rents is easily apparent in the price mark of every article.—W. L. Roberts, Wilmington, Del.

Bead bags specially priced. Our Mr. Belt-and-Bag man brought these from a town away over in Germany where they have been making bead-work for years and years—they have a statue erected to the women whose skill helped to make the art famous there. Because we brought them across the seas ourselves, we can offer them to-morrow far below value.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

A grand collection of beautiful gifts. Quality is the great leverage in every honest comparison, and we always get the credit of being the lowest price house in our line. The prices are irresistible, in fact they spell economy in its truest form. Call and see for yourself at—Gainor's Jewelry Store, Troy, N. Y.

Our superb array of jewelry and watches makes buying easy. Everything is in perfect taste, and everything may be fully relied upon. We sell you nothing we don't know all about, and we tell you all we know about the goods we sell you. Prices reasonable.—H. G. Shupp, Wilkesbarre, Pa.

January diamond sale. If you contemplate the purchase of a diamond or fine diamond jewelry in necklaces, pins, pendants, rings, studs, scarf pins, etc., we will be pleased to have you call and look over our large stock and get our discount prices. On account of our location and small expense we can make prices that no other house can. Call and be convinced.—H. F. Legg & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Cause and effect have to be carefully explored, sifted and analyzed in all matters of importance. When you want to buy diamonds, watches and silverware there is some cause for the want. Something you are cognizant of has the effect of your acting on such knowledge and buying of us. Our fine stock is a cause and our low prices are the effect that gives us your patronage.—M. J. Kennedy, Schenectady, N. Y.

Customers of our jewelry store are protected against extravagant prices by our early purchases of gems and precious stones before the last important advance in cost. Unless you have inspected the new diamond jewelry now being shown here, and made comparisons with diamonds of equal quality, you will not be able to appreciate what this protection in price fully means. Feel free any time to ask us to show you the unmounted gems shown only upon request in the little diamond room.—The John Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Exquisite designs in jewelry. Gift seekers will find in our stock an assortment equal to any in the large cities. It's necessary for us to carry a large stock to meet the demands of our customers. If you desire jewelry that's different, something besides commonplace designs, come here. A deposit reserves anything you may select.—A. F. Williams, The Jeweler, Trenton, N. J.

Rings. Great Christmas stock. Now and always rings are the gifts which women like perhaps best of all. Of course there is a great stock here, for babies, girls and boys and men and women. This little list can no more than hint at the variety. Your own good judgment when you see the rings will show you what are the values. Signet rings are especially popular this year, and if they are to be engraved, they should be bought now.—Frederick Loesser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The increased demand for Knerr engagement and wedding rings—and the reason. Everyone wants to be absolutely sure of their store when purchasing these articles. It's different from ordinary jewelry. Bought for a lifetime, they must and should be right. The "J. H. K." trademark goes into every wedding ring we sell—it's pure gold—you buy by weight, and we suggest that you notice particularly their finish—everything is the best that high-class, skilled workmanship can develop. Solitaire diamonds the same way—we're just as particular about the ring's finish as we are of the stone's purity and beauty—and then comes the price—this is given to our customers at the smallest margin of profit. People know this and they tell others.—J. Harry Knerr, Camden.

Rings are the most commonly sold pieces of jewelry, yet contrary to thought it is seldom that any two like rings are found—that is outside of this store. This gives you an insight into the greatness and size of the stock with which this store is provided. A ring for every finger is our claim and we honestly believe that we could sell a ring to every one in this town without selling duplicates. Ring this fact and remember it. They are all gold rings and range up from 50c.—John C. Pierik & Co., Springfield, Ill.

Hat pins. An assortment that challenges the showing of New England's largest jewelry marts. Gathered here for your selection. Gold filled; exceptional quality, $1.00 to $2.50, Easter hats must have pins—as an Easter gift, what better suggestion?—The Philip H. Stevens Co., Hartford, Conn.

Gifts for Easter have become popular and the custom is growing. These little gifts need not of necessity be large or expensive, as there are so many other gifts to be made during the year. It is, nevertheless, decidedly graceful and appropriate to remember one's friends on this, one of the most joyous festivals of the year. If flowers are appropriate, why not a handsome vase to put them in? We have some very dainty and beautiful vases in cut glass, Bohemian ware, Austrian ware and white and gold in every variety and shape. They are not expensive and we will be pleased to show them to you.—C. H. Case & Co., Hartford, Conn.

We are now showing a variety of the styles now fashionable. They are in solid gold, and there are many different patterns of the close and the open curb—in both Dickens and Albert chains.—Johnston Bros., Montreal, Can.

Wedding rings and presents. The quality is absolutely the finest and guaranteed; initial stamped on the inside of each ring.—E. J. Hyde Jewelry Co., Spokane, Wash.

JEWELRY—CLOCKS

A clock that runs more than a year without winding. It is a clever German idea, this clock that with a single winding will run for four hundred days. One needs to be careful that it is properly set up to begin with, but after that the clock will do its duty steadily without further attention. It is under a glass case, so that the very interesting mechanism may be open to view; and almost every one who sees it wants to own one.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Do You Need a Clock?—One would make a "timely" present for your wife. We believe we have the finest line you have ever looked at.—Millard F. Davis, Wilmington, Del.

Clock Prices Cut in Half.—We have gone through our stock of wood clocks in our first floor showroom and chipped a big piece off the price of each. We have carefully overhauled them and repolished the cases, so that every one will be a satisfactory purchase. We have no space in our cases to show them—that is the only reason we have for cutting the prices in two, and they should quickly find new homes to regulate.—Stewart, Dawson & Co., Sydney, N. S. W.

The clocks in a house are very potent in making the first impression when one enters. Think of this when you go calling again, and notice the clocks in the houses you enter. You will be surprised how much they tell of the character of their owners. We want you to get interested in clocks. They are very attractive and interesting in many ways, both useful and ornamental. We are clock wise and can tell you as well as show you all about them.—L. B. Moore, Denison, Tex.

We don't know whether all clocks are right as to time, but we do know that this is the right time for clocks and that our clocks keep time with regularity and accuracy. We have our own importation of Swiss made clocks.—Eagle Drug Co., San Diego, Cal.

Wouldn't a cuckoo clock make a pretty and useful gift for a June bride? Odd and unique out of the ordinary; and they are splendid timekeepers, too.—Feagans, Joliet, Ill.

These chilly mornings when it is almost impossible to arouse yourself from slumber's tight embrace, you should enjoy the comfort of being awake on time by using one of our alarm clocks.—Albert Pfeifer, Little Rock, Ark.

While a hall clock is a luxury which anyone can do without, yet we do not know of any investment in furniture that will bring more satisfaction than the purchase of a clock of this kind. It is very ornamental, contributing as much or more to the furnishing of a hall as any article that could be put into it. It has a guaranteed time keeper that will last a hundred years, while every part is as well made as though it cost five times as much. Our price is $40.00.—The Vincent-Barstow Co., Cleveland, O.

Grandfather clocks. Old-fashioned clocks are the fad. Modern homes are incomplete without grandfather clocks. The oldest of our readers will remember the massive timepieces that marked the fleeting moments of childhood. Such clocks are now sought for as a necessary piece of furniture in fashionable residences. We have secured from various manufacturers the finest specimens of grandfather clocks that are to be had. They include various styles and finishes. Some of them are open to the floor; the lower parts of others are utilized for books or bric-a-brac. The works in nearly all of our clocks are of the celebrated Seth Thomas make or of the best imported makes. The frames are substantial and lasting. The movements are calculated to be the same and to wear indefinitely. These clocks are finished in mahogany, golden oak, flemish oak, weathered oak, etc. Some are built to hang on the wall; others are designed to stand upon the floor. The illustration shows one of the many styles we have secured.—Barker Bros., Los Angeles, Cal.

Always on time wins respect. It has gained a reputation for our watches and clocks that we feel proud of. While we consider the movement the most important part of a watch or clock, beauty, too, should be considered. Our selection of time pieces are marvels of artistic skill in design and finish. They must be seen to be appreciated. If in need of an alarm clock get one of our Tattoo alarms $1.50. The best intermittent alarm made.—Jos. J. Consedine, Lebanon, Pa.

JEWELRY—DIAMONDS, PEARLS

Oriental pearls. A large and beautiful collection of pearls has just been received from our eastern buyer. Pearl jewelry is fashionable for brides and bridesmaids' gifts. We suggest: Ring No. 2038.—Five fine pearls at $40.00 as a suitable gift of the groom to the bride. Special wedding jewelry made to order.—D. R. Dingwell, Ltd., Winnipeg, Can.

Buy a flawless diamond of the first water and you have an investment whose value can never depreciate through time or circumstances. You are perfectly safe if you buy diamonds here. We sell only perfect gems—noted for their depth and brilliancy.—J. Abramson, Los Angeles, Cal.

Of all jewels the most sought after and most highly prized is the diamond. Our resplendent stock of jewelry contains an enticing array of this gem of gems, but the less costly pearls, opals, garnets and amethysts have not been slighted. Fine stones in the finest of settings are in our cases for your admiration and choosing. Beautiful pieces of every description in plain gold and silver. We make a specialty of fine time pieces for pocket or shelf. Elegant designs in all sorts of solid silverware, plated ware also.—LeBron Jewelry Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Diamonds are still advancing in value. These long summer days are good ones for buying diamonds. You have the best possible light in which to judge and compare them and plenty of time to do so. We have a very large stock of them on hand, most of them bought far below the present market prices. We have in some of the newest, most up-to-date mountings, and think we can prove to any one interested that now is the time to buy.—L. B. Moore, Denison.

Diamonds. There is nothing more attractive in society than beautiful gems. Nothing points out your position in the world more than the wearing of diamonds. If you are anxious to get in the best set, why just come in and choose your own setting, we have diamond brooches, rings, pins, diamond set watch cases, etc., at prices that place them within your reach.—A. G. Carter, Winnipeg, Can.

To gain knowledge requires time, added to patience. You gain knowledge about diamonds and high-class watches by coming here and seeing what we imported in papers of loose diamonds, and how very high-class our fine white gems are, and how reasonable a proposition we can give you to secure one. Everything bought from us is sold with a strong guarantee.—Hess & Slager, Jacksonville, Fla.

No other gem can compare with the diamond in beauty and luster. Aside from its money value, it adds prestige and refinement to the owner. We handle a complete assortment of set and unset, clear-cut stones of the first water. No imitation or ordinary stones here. Our prices will meet with your approval.—J. Abramson, Los Angeles, Cal.

Diamond jewelry. Rarely beautiful pieces—rings, pendants, brooches, etc., in many combinations. Diamonds with opals, sapphires, pearls, and emeralds. Many of our costliest pieces are set in platinum, instead of gold; this adds to the price, but the former metal is more lasting. Our stock of solitaires is unusually attractive just now. Several settings to choose from. We also make settings to your order. You are earnestly requested to come in and look this line over.—M. A. Hagen, Fargo, N. D.

Every diamond you buy at our establishment strengthens our reputation for selling the highest grade diamonds at the lowest minimum of profit. Each selection made, even though you close your eyes while selecting, will be a flawless diamond. Every unmounted gem in our stock has not only been critically examined with a high power jeweler's microscope, but has been doubly inspected by two experts. Therefore our customers are in every way protected and our reputation for selling guaranteed perfect blue white and extra white diamonds only is constantly enhanced.—Brock & Feagans, Los Angeles, Cal.

Smooth sailing after once establishing yourself as to the proper place to buy diamonds, the finest imported. We find that satisfied customers are sending their friends to our stores and we are making customers all over Florida. Only the finest diamonds, quality the best, prices the lowest. Ninety dollars in cash given for a diamond you pay us one hundred for.—Hess & Slager, Jacksonville, Fla.

Give a diamond. It has what every present should have, sentiment and intrinsic value. Never grows old; more valuable as the years pass. If it is bought here you are sure of a fine stone at the lowest prices to be found anywhere. That's the Mitchell reputation. Every stone backed by our guarantee.—Mitchell's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Diamonds. We believe that we can convince any unprejudiced person that it is worth their while to purchase their diamonds here. The mounting of diamonds is an important matter, and we not only have a large selection, but we mount the stones in any way desired; thus your ring or pin may have an individual character, which the ordinary mountings lack. Our prices are lower than are to be found elsewhere in diamonds of fine quality.—R. J. Riley Co., Jacksonville, Fla.

Good diamonds. Even after every one has had his say about diamonds, the quality of our gems still remains unsurpassed. For purity, brilliancy and reasonableness of price we cannot be outdistanced. Personal selection from the best sources, small expense and no duty account for our splendid values. Try us for diamonds.—Wanless & Co., Toronto, Can.

We call the attention of diamond purchasers to be particular to quality rather than price. Confidence is the most essential part in buying diamonds. No one can undersell us, provided quality and quantity being equal to that guaranteed by us. Call and see before making your purchases.—E. O. Zadek Jewelry Co., Mobile, Ala.

Diamonds retain their popularity among polite people. In our collection we have some that are absolutely "gems," and we invite your inspection. It is really a treat to look over our unset stones and when you are shopping, call and examine them.—Bonnet, Columbus.

A mere glance at a good diamond is ample to indicate its quality. This can be in truth applied to any one of the stones you may chance to examine in our large collection, all laying equal claim to your admiring exclamation: "Isn't it a gem!" Our prices are the lowest at which fine stones can be sold for.—G. F. Hutcheson, Charlottetown, Can.

A form of diamond security. Diamonds come from the cutters in melange lots, that is the diamonds differ materially in quality and accuracy of cutting. The dealer must know how to classify the diamonds, or some of his customers will pay too much for some grades.

Many dealers lack the skill to grade properly, others do not care. We guarantee the grading of our diamonds, and in order to do this each lot is subjected to two inspections, one by the head of our diamond department, the other by Mr. Brodnax. It is practically impossible that any error should get by both. This is but one of many ways in which we safeguard the interests of buyers.—Geo. T. Brodnax, Memphis, Tenn.

Particularly at this time of the year we have for the inspection of buyers and visitors, one of the most extensive stocks of choice diamond and precious stone jewelry in America, artistically mounted after original designs belonging exclusively to this house. Persons who have no thought of purchasing, but are interested in precious stones, and the art of their appropriate setting and treatment, are as welcome visitors as those who come with purchases in view.—Henry Birks & Sons, Montreal, Can.

When we give you our word regarding a diamond, you can positively rely on it. As experts of lifelong experience and as extensive dealers in these gems, we are in every way equipped to give perfect satisfaction in quality, style and cost.—Hansel, Sloan & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Don't be fooled by jewelers who try to sell you genuine diamonds at high prices, with the argument that they are a good investment and that you can always realize within a small percentage of their cost. How many have tried this experiment only to discover, when they were compelled to part with their jewels for cash, that $20.00 was all they could realize on a diamond that cost $100.00. If you want to invest your money, buy government bonds or something equally as good. If you want diamond jewelry for ornament, buy Lucios gems, they have all the luster, color, fire and brilliancy of the genuine old-mine gems. They will stand every test of the genuine, and will preserve their brilliancy forever. We guarantee them to do so.—Lucios, Toronto, Can.

Diamond Purity.—In the selection of a diamond, size is only one of many considerations. Purity of color and freedom from flaws are very important elements, as also are shape and style of cutting. The most important feature, we think, in buying diamonds, is the source you procure them from. We buy direct from the cutters in Amsterdam. This enables us to give our customers the choicest of gems without having to pay the fancy prices.—R. A. Dickson & Co., Montreal, Can.

Pearls as spherical as miniature billiard balls. A pearl unevenly shaped—however choice otherwise—cannot be admitted into the “select company” of Diamond Hall’s ring trays. Ryrie Bros.’ pearls are perfect in color, shape and luster. When combined with diamonds, each gem adds to the other’s beauty.—Ryrie Bros., Toronto, Ont.

Read what an authority says—People cannot understand why diamonds do not come down in price. Unless some new diamond fields are discovered they will never come down, and I think that proportionately they will go as much higher in the next ten years as they have in the last ten years. The reason is this: Ten years ago it took less than one-third of the effort to produce diamonds that it does to-day. In other words the strata of blue ground in the Kimberley Fields that were then worked were so prolific that diamonds were found practically on the top of the earth. After the very prolific strata were worked out and it was necessary to go down a little deeper into the earth diamonds were not quite so plentiful, and to-day it takes at least three times the effort to produce the same amount of stones it did ten years ago. Pearls are also going up in value at a rapid rate.—Stewart Dawson & Co., Sydney.

Diamond loveliness is a uniquely brilliant and valuable form of beauty, but one from which impurities detract immensely. We look sharp for quality and insist on purity when selecting our gems. A large and choice stock of diamonds now on hand.—John M. Frear, Binghamton, N. Y.

There are no bargains to be had to-day in any grade of diamonds—why, simply because their value is advancing, not decreasing. Of course, there are grades and qualities in diamonds—you can buy diamonds at different prices per karat—but, high or low, price is always based on quality and color. Selling as we do but one grade of diamonds, the very best, you will find that our prices are fair and honest—lower than we can ever expect to replace the same goods in our stock—lower, we assure you—quality considered—than you can buy elsewhere. We invite the most critical expert criticism—as to our prices and the high grade quality of our diamonds. The strongest written guarantee goes with every diamond we sell.—Montgomery Bros., Los Angeles, Cal.

Anticipating this rise in the cost, we bought largely of diamonds early this year in Amsterdam and London, securing them at the old figures, and consequently there will be no change in prices here this season. Only the highest grades and only perfect stones.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Diamonds of every size and mounted in every style, correctly cut—to suit every purse. Variety in everything but quality. Jaccard’s diamonds are ideal graduation gifts. However, there is but one price to everybody for every article at Jaccard’s, Kansas City, Mo.

Among the recent purchase of diamonds on display at the De Wolfe store are several stones that are as rare gems as the old Liberty Bell is a rare relic.—The DeWolfe Store, New Bedford.

In buying a diamond, the first thing to decide is, do you want a cheap stone (that is a diamond that is imperfect or bad color), or do you want a first quality stone? A stone that you can show with pride and know that you have the best. If you want the cheap kind I have not got it; if you want the best then see me. I have handled this kind for many years in Marion, and will guarantee that I can sell you this class of diamonds as low as any firm in the State. I give back your money less ten per cent. any time within a year.—Phil Diels, Marion, Ind.

Bringing over our own diamonds unmounted lets us start with the lowest possible cost; selling them without extravagant profits (which is always the rule of this house) keeps down the final cost to below the average. The mountings are the latest and are done by the most expert workmen. The variety in rings, pins, brooches, necklets, etc., is now large.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

It is possible that you have wanted to buy a diamond ring for yourself for a long time, and you’ve put it off just because the ring you wanted entailed too big an outlay. If that is so, or if for any other reason you are interested in diamond rings just now, we urge you to come in and examine our collection.—Bloomington, New York, N. Y.

Americans are the greatest diamond purchasers in the world. They insist upon quality. Naturally, therefore, their love for the precious gem leads them to closely study the stone, until to-day they hold the prestige as the world’s greatest diamond connoisseurs. Their invariable decision in according first place to a Birk’s diamond is an assurance of the utmost importance to Canadian diamond purchasers.—Henry Birks & Sons, Montreal, Can.

Diamonds of unquestionable quality, mounted in the newest settings, constitute a special feature of our large stock of fine jewelry.—Berry & Whitmore Co., Washington, D. C.

We do not intend to lose money in closing out our stock. Although we may lose a little before we get through, our plan is to sell the goods for just what they cost us, without any attempt to make profit or loss, so that when our doors close for the last time we can say, "We are even." Have you noticed the way diamonds are going?—Lissner & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Diamond experts send their friends who want to buy diamonds to us. They know that good stones cannot be bought anywhere in America as advantageously as here. We are satisfied with moderate profits and are not compelled to tack on an extravagant percentage to pay big rents and store expenses.—Mitchell's, Philadelphia, Pa.

It is conceded by our ablest financiers that there is no better or safer investment for money than in diamonds. In the past eight years diamonds have increased in value more than eighty per cent., and the movement is ever upward. Experts claim the present year will see an advance of twenty per cent. No other investment that takes on no shadow of risk offers such inducements. In comparison with deposits in savings banks, the advantage is many fold, for not only is the return much greater, but the property remaining in your own possession, renders the security absolute, and convertible into cash at a moment's notice.—The Rushmer Jewelry Co., Pueblo.

Your husband's dividends are to be paid this week, and he'll be looking for an investment, likely. Now, why not suggest the purchase of diamonds? They increase in value at the rate of 10 per cent. a year, have done so for ten years and will do it for another ten years. We are prepared to demonstrate the fact to him or to you. Incidentally you will doubtless get the benefit of the wearing of them. Just now we are selling our last year's purchases still at last year's prices. Why not drop in and see? Our private diamond room insures quiet and privacy.—C. L. Byrd & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

When you buy a diamond you must be sure and get it from a dealer you can rely on. When you buy a diamond you must have quality first, price second. When you buy a diamond at Howell Bros. you are sure the quality and price are both right.—Howell Bros., Windsor.

A pure white diamond when bought at the right price is one of the safest investments for your money you can find. We have nothing but first class stones. We buy cheaper than the ordinary dealer and are enabled to offer you far better values than is possible elsewhere. Think it over.—O'Maley, Denison, Texas.

Buying gems is a matter of confidence. Most people cannot accurately determine for themselves the value of precious stones. It is important to know the store you buy from—what their guarantee means. To-day some suggestions of diamonds and pearls.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Our Diamond Jewelry is always full of interest, and beautifully illustrative of what Diamond supremacy means. The high qualities, exceptional designs and reasonable prices, as well as our vast assortment, have contributed much in making this store so attractive to lovers of fine Diamond Jewelry.—B. & H. B. Kent, Toronto, Can.

Buy a diamond with your savings. It will beat real estate. Diamonds have advanced 65 per cent. in the last two years, and are still going up. We have some inside information about diamonds, as well as a very large stock of the real thing. Come and let us show and tell you all about it.—L. B. Moore, Denison, Texas.

Our expert diamond setter has had 20 years' experience in mounting stones. This experience has been gained in the best shops of the country. You may believe that a man doing that kind of work and doing it for this period has gained deftness and skill that few workmen can have. Further, he has all the latest improved diamond setting tools to work with. All diamonds need resetting at intervals, and new work, of course, must be rightly done. Those who require diamond setting will understand, we think, the necessity of bringing such work to us.—Brodnax, Memphis, Tenn.

One often hears that certain colored precious stones are in vogue, and that in consequence of the demand, and also of the limited supply, the price is rapidly advanced. That is especially true of the emerald and ruby. But that advance affects very few people. The average buyer, here or elsewhere, of precious stones, prefers a diamond to any and all others. We certainly sell fifty diamonds to one colored stone. Diamonds have advanced, and are still on the rise, but it does not seem to affect the demand.—Hight & Fairfield Co., Butte.

Securing our diamonds at first hands in the diamond markets of Europe, coming personally in contact with the leaders of the De Beers syndicate, we naturally know pretty exactly the condition of the diamond business and can give expert advice if you care to have it. For this reason we said publicly a week or so ago: Put your Christmas money in diamonds, because they are a wise investment; buy diamonds at this store because of our inside knowledge of the coming advances in cost we laid in a supply of diamonds not yet charged with recent advances. This expert opinion we now repeat. It is backed up by the diamond experts of the world, who predict a steady rise in the cost of diamonds for some years to come—simply because the supply is constantly falling short of the demand.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia.

The diamond is a gem; a gem diamond is an extraordinarily fine one.

To attain this degree of perfection the diamond must not only be of pure quality, but perfectly cut.

We sell only "gem diamonds." No matter what price you pay us for a stone, be it big or little, the quality must be of the same high grade.

The difference in the size of the stones alone makes the difference in price.—Henry Birks & Sons, Montreal, Can.

Diamonds don't cost as much as many persons think. Nearly everyone can afford to wear a diamond because they are really good investments when purchased by the "Jaccard Way." Stop at The Diamond Shop and see how little money it takes to buy a diamond.—Jaccard Jewelry Co., Kansas City, Mo.

It's a "gem of purest ray serene" if you have been thoughtful enough to purchase it at Shaw's.—M. W. Shaw, Galveston, Tex.

Brodnax Diamond Plans. Any demand diamond bought of us will be bought back at any time within a year at full purchase price less 10 per cent. You can buy and wear a good sized diamond for a year and then return it, if desired; the pleasure and benefit of wearing it for the year costing you but a few cents a week. We have a cumulative purchase plan, whereby any one can invest his savings in a diamond, get as large a one as he wishes and have a diamond to wear from the first day. Call or write for our diamond book.—Geo. T. Brodnax, Memphis, Tenn.

The glory of diamonds.—The glory of the diamond never pales, its iridescent fire never dies, its lovely radiance is perpetual. We have been selling diamonds for nearly fifty years. We know diamond values, and through the facilities our long experience has made we are able to undersell any other house in the State. Comparison proves this. Here is one of the largest collections of diamonds and other precious stones in the country, both in the loose gems and in the latest art designs of settings. Every diamond thoroughly guaranteed pure in color and perfect in cutting—with a price-saving of fully 25 per cent.—F. Rolshoven & Co., Detroit, Mich.

Bright and sparkling gems are always a pleasure to look at. Nothing adds to one's dress so much as a fine diamond, ruby, emerald or precious stone of any kind.—Sommer & Pierik, Springfield, Ill.

Diamond rings for autumn.—Engagements are as acceptable to the fair sex then as at any other time. Cupid has all seasons for his own. That is why we keep always in stock a nice selection of engagement rings. If you are interested, come and see what we can do for you.—P. H. Lochicotte & Co., Columbia, S. C.

Though there's a five per cent advance on the rough stones, you won't have to pay any more for diamonds at Bloomingdale's than before this rise, as we bought in large quantities early in the year, thus getting the old figures—and according to our established policy, selling exactly as we buy, we are giving our patrons the full benefit of our foresightedness.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

All you hear to the effect that prices of diamonds are going up and will stay up is perfectly true. If we did business in the ordinary way we could offer few inducements to diamond buyers. As it is, we purchased gems in Amsterdam long before the recent advances in price, and imported them direct, so that you pay no middlemen's profits in our store. That is why we offer diamonds at prices below those quoted by other reliable jewelry houses. Every purchase is a good investment.—Lambert Bros., New York, N. Y.

You run no chances of getting anything but the best quality diamonds here. We have but one quality, and there's no better mined. We welcome comparison.—Ellis, Hamilton, Ont.

Diamond rings for the betrothed—engagements are as acceptable for the fair sex now as at any other time. Cupid has all seasons for his own! That is why we keep always in stock a nice selection of engagement rings.

If you are interested come and see what we can do for you.—J. T. Allen & Co., Richmond, Va.

A mere glance at a good diamond is ample as indicating its quality. This can be in truth applied to any one of the stones which you may chance to examine out of our immense collection, every solitary stone not falling one iota short of deserving the appellation—"a gem." And equally emphatic will even those of moderate cost prove.—B. & H. B. Kent, Toronto, Can.

Rich, rare gems on credit terms Progress is a sign of success. We've installed on an elaborate, princely scale the rarest collection of genuine jewelry ever offered outside of a specialty house. No man or woman can afford not to wear the costliest gems on the basis we sell. No bank on earth offers you as much as Hecht's part-payment privileges in diamond buying. Your purchases never lessen in value—diamonds especially will steadily improve with each succeeding year. One of the best authorities in the history of Maiden Lane is our jewelry buyer and expert. We sell nothing that we can't guarantee.—Hecht's, New York.

Are you in love? If you are you may need an engagement ring later on. Better get one now. You'll save $11 if you do. Nothing could give any woman's heart more pleasure than a genuine diamond ring. And a genuine diamond is the only kind of engagement ring you should bestow upon her, you know. This is the greatest diamond bargain you have ever been offered.—Isaacs, Pittsburg, Pa.

Better diamond values.—Diamond supremacy means much to our patrons and likewise considerable to us. It not only enables the selling of better grades at minimum prices, but gives us control of a large and growing business.—B. & H. Kent, Toronto, Can.

September Sapphires.—The engagement ring will be more acceptable if it bears the name of "Birks."—Henry Birks & Sons, Montreal, Can.

Come! See how they sparkle!—De Mora Diamond Palace, St. Paul, Minn.

Every diamond good. Throughout the entire part of any single jeweled design taken from our stock you will find but the one high quality prevails. It is this universal regard for diamond purity that has helped to build the enviable reputation we enjoy to-day in the selling of diamonds.—B. & H. B. Kent, Toronto, Can.

Diamonds, as you all know, have soared in price until they are now well nigh prohibitive. We have a very extensive line of these sparklers, all perfect gems, which were bought right, and our price is right, but during this sale, this money-raising clearance sale, we shall offer our diamond stock at fully as low prices as we can buy them at the importers.—The De Wolf Store, New Bedford.

Bridal gems.—There is a brilliancy which attracts the eye for a moment—both in people and in gems. There is brilliant quantity, which has also depth and genuine worth! Our diamonds, suitable for bridal gifts, or for your personal use, possess the brilliancy which attracts and intrinsic worth of unvarying value. A good investment—a pleasing gift.—J. T. Allen & Co., Jewelers, Richmond.

Great sale of exquisite diamond jewelry. This special sale offers the greatest chances ever known for extraordinary value getting in fine diamond jewelry. Prices are 40 per cent. below market values, and this in spite of the continued advance in the cost of precious stones. Only room here for a few quotations, as the stock includes brooches, pendants, earrings, scarfpins, locket, rings—in fact, everything conceivable in diamond jewelry.—Bloomingtondale's, New York.

Three pearls. The pleasure of owning a beautiful ring is scarcely greater than the pleasure of giving one. We have three pearls in a 14k. hoop ring; they are perfectly round and of that exquisite luster which gives a pearl its value. The price is $40.—O. B. Knight & Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Diamonds and diamonds. Like many other things, diamonds are good, bad and indifferent. Everyone wants a good diamond and wishes to be positive that he has a good one. Our stock of diamonds represents the best. We have stood for and maintained quality for sixty-seven years in Toronto, and we stand for it to-day. A Wanless diamond has character, and that is what you want. Close buying on our part, personal selection and the fact that diamonds enter Canada free of duty—these, with our assurance of good quality, should be strong arguments why you ought to consult us for diamonds.—Wanless & Co., Toronto.

The bride who receives a check as a gift will naturally seek to invest it to the best advantage. We suggest diamonds—because they never decrease in value, but on the other hand pay far larger interest than the greater majority of investments. "Ryrie" diamonds are carefully selected from the cutters in Amsterdam, and are admitted into Canada duty free. And then we are the largest importers of gems in Canada, which means a distinct saving to you.—Ryrie Bros., Toronto, Can.

JEWELRY—REPAIRING

An engineer on a locomotive oils his engine a number of times every day, and the engine rests half of every day. Your watch runs days and night, continuously, but when did you have it oiled? Are the delicate pivots grinding away on dry jewels, to their destruction? Are watches so cheap that you can afford to have yours lose all its good time keeping virtues by neglect? Bring your watch to me, before the injury goes further. There may be excuse for its poor performance of late. I will examine it, and congratulate you if it needs no attention; and if it does, you shall pay for no more than is necessary to restore it to perfect health.—DeWolf, New Bedford, Mass.

Don't you go to a competent physician, in whom you have confidence, when you have an ailment and expect relief? Isn't it just as essential, in a smaller way, to know who is the best jeweler, the most competent watch-physician? We give especial care to our repair department—remount diamonds and other precious stones with skillful exactness. All our repair work is at lowest possible cost consistent with excellent workmanship.—R. Ashby, Colorado Springs, Col.

Jewelry repairing is an important branch of our business—we give careful, painstaking attention to it. We give especial attention to repairing fine watches—the kind that need extra careful adjustment. We try to have our work give satisfaction—such as will win your confidence if you leave your repairing with us. We want you to be satisfied first, last, and all the time.—Lumsden, Richmond, Va.

Genuine jewelry can be purchased here cheaper than elsewhere. This implies everything that good taste and good buying can possibly suggest. Suppose your watch is out of order. Just let's look at it. It certainly will be in better shape when returned; and if it isn't you know our reputation for making good.—Jud S. Newing, Binghamton, N. Y.

Refurnishing sale of silver-plated wares. Housekeepers who are going over the supplies for summer cottages will be glad of the opportunity to secure these artistic wares so much below their original cost. Many careful people do not take their solid silver to the country, and there is little reason for doing so, when plated wares are so handsome, and their cost so small as now. The variety of pieces and designs is quite large. The prices are a quarter to a third below the real values of the wares. When your silverware needs repairing our facilities are at your service.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Expert watch and jewelry repairing.—If your watch or clock needs doctoring up, bring it to the Silverware and Jewelry Store, and we will put it in fine running order. If it's the clock, we'll send for it, repair and return it without inconvenience to you. We do fine jewelry repairing as well and do it right here in the store. When you bring us a fine stone to be reset, you run no risk of its being sent outside to be mounted. It doesn't leave our hands—a point to be remembered.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

See that your jewelry is in good repair. It's a good time to look over that necklace or brooch. There may be a jewel that needs tightening. Perhaps you would like that diamond reset—you'll want it displayed attractively at the Governor's Ball. We make a specialty of reconstructing and cleaning jewelry, diamonds, etc. We'll not over-charge you, either.—Philip H. Stevens, Jeweler, Hartford, Conn.

JEWELRY—SILVERWARE

Mr. Gadd—"The Poormans celebrated their silver wedding last night."

Mrs. Gadd—"Oh! no; I saw all the presents."

Mr. Gadd—"What do you mean?"

Mrs. Gadd—"It seems to have been a silver-plated wedding."—Philadelphia Press.

Still selling silverware. Indeed we're selling silverware. More of it going out this month than ever went out during the same period before. The silverware will stand the test of time and wear, because it is the best quality plate made. The maker says so, and we back it up with our "money back guarantee."—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

All eyes will be on silver now! The usual yearly sale begins to-morrow. Prices a half to a fourth less than value. Engraving done free by an expert. It is silver week, and a most important sale, and silver is streaming through the main aisle. It is good silver—every piece. Our guarantee is back of it just as surely as though you were going to pay full prices. About every useful article in silver is to be had—for the table and boudoir. All the new finishes are included; the patterns are simple, dignified and chaste.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Remarkable savings in choice silverware. The beauty and character of the silverware which opens up the sale here to-morrow are its own eloquence. There is but one way in which to explain these astonishingly low prices, and that is, our ability to control surplus stocks direct from the manufacturers. The sum of silverware sold here from season to season runs way up in the thousands, and manufacturers recognize our ability as a door wide open for their wares, and in the distribution of stock favors we always get our share.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Economy sale of silverware. A sale that gives you beauty of design with utility, and at prices so low as to almost question quality. But the quality is here for expert criticism. A sale that marks our ability to stand first in the ranks of worthy silver.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Handsome table silver is the delight of the hospitable housekeeper when she sees it decorating her hospitable table, or ornamenting her buffet and lending a tone to her dining-room. Our stock of silver is artistic, produced by the most talented designers, with every piece a gem of the silversmith's art.—Arthur M. Field Co., Asheville, N. C.

The silverware sale. Our Cross aisle is brilliant with the beautiful wares marked at little prices to-day. And it is not a tawdry glitter.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Going-away time suggests nice plated ware. Most women couldn't sleep nights in a summer cottage in the country, on the mountains, or by the sea, with their fine silverware (largely wedding gifts, with all their train of recollections), in the house. Solve the problem by getting a supply of 1847 Rogers Bros.' A1 silverware. Nor is this as "cheap" as it is inexpensive. As a matter of fact, the 1847 goods are of the heirloom kind. You will find them after a lifetime of ordinary care worthy of being mentioned in your will and handed down to your children.—C. L. Byrd & Co., Memphis.

Let the wedding gift be enduring, as it carries your heartiest wishes for home joys. It need not be expensive to be serviceable and in good taste. You will derive much pleasure from a visit to our silver room. Our display of china, cut glass and sterling silver is beautiful. We can offer many helpful suggestions.—The Webb C. Ball Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

This department has been very much enlarged and improved—the entire northeast corner of the first floor has been fitted with huge glass cases and filled with the best of silverware. The prices are so very much less than at the exclusive stores that one is apt to be suspicious. Needless—you see the name of the famous maker on each piece and you have his guarantee and that of the Palais Royal. The wear has to prove satisfactory—we and the makers are responsible for five years.—The Palais Royal, Washington, D. C.

Silverware, in extent, splendor and quality, the most worthy showing that could be wished for. To see our present assortment is to see everything there is produced in fine silverware.—Hansel, Sloan & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Best substitute for sterling silver tableware is the quadruple silverplated ware of the better grade—the only kind we sell. Manufacturers are realizing now that a good design costs no more to make than a poor one, and the patterns this year in plated ware closely approach those in sterling silver.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

“Think naught a trifle, though it small appear.”—Young’s “Night Thoughts.” Nothing that proceeds from its workshops is thought a trifle by the Goram Co., silversmiths. As much thought is given to the design, as much care to the finish of a teaspoon as of a thousand-dollar vase. The quality of the silver is precisely the same and to both the trademark gives the same guarantee of excellence.—Gorham Co., Omaha, Neb.

Beautify your home at small cost. Did you ever stop to think how much better and more cheerful your table would look if it had one or two little things on it?—useful things we mean. It is surprising the brightening effect a dainty dinner table has on one and how much more cheerful every one is. When you have a few minutes to spare sit down and think the matter over, then come and see what we can do for you—for very little money, too. It you can’t spare the time we send catalogues. Inquiries we cheerfully answer and execute orders by post promptly and particularly.—Stewart Dawson & Co.

That the best is the cheapest when buying silver-plated spoons and forks goes without saying. They are used probably four times a day every day, and if not A1 quality they quickly show signs of wear. The length of time silver plate will wear depends entirely on the way you clean it. If you use some polishing powders you can soon wear the plating off. If you clean our A1 spoons and forks with fine whiting and water, and polish with a clean chamois leather, we can safely say the plating is good for twenty years’ family use. At the end of that time you can get them replated to be as good as new.—Stewart Dawson & Co., Sydney, N. S. W.

When you buy silverware and quality goods are of interest to you, we wish to call your attention to our large and varied stock. Appreciating the fact that most people want the best we have put in a variety of “Wallace Bros.” and “Rogers Bros.” manufacture. Both names stand for finest quality and we guarantee every bit we sell. The lines we carry include: tea and coffee sets, bon bons, fruit dishes, cake baskets, fern pots, spoon trays, bread trays, and a complete line of knives and forks and spoons. For hotels and boarding houses we have a special line of knives, forks and spoons made to resist hard usage. Special prices on these lines.—Ashdown’s, Winnipeg, Can.

Wedding silverware. This is the depot for serviceable, sensible wedding gifts. No trashy or foolishly ornate tawdry stuff, but strong, durable, long wearing quadruple silverware, in designs to please the most refined. And it comes put up in such beautiful packages. The sets are packed in satin lined boxes—a place for each piece. Then again silverware is a three-times-a-day reminder of the donor. We have not space to numerate the suitable articles. Suffice it to say that we have everything in silver from a set of nut picks up to large candelabra. Rogers’ Brand Anchor brand silverware.—J. E. Griffith, Hartford, Conn.

Our superb silverware exhibit. You should see our display of silverware—both sterling and plated. It’s superb. All the latest—all the best designs of America’s foremost silversmiths are gathered here in one complete, glittering display. And new goods are arriving every day. We are careful to see that everything we select is distinctly out of the ordinary, and never of the “bargain sale” sort. And for this known quality you pay a price that is only just and reasonable.—J. Wiss & Sons, Newark.

Richly designed toilet silver. This store possesses rare opportunities for the gathering of unique and distinctive designs in toilet silver. Not alone does our assortment depend upon those designs wrought in our own workshops, rich and worthy though they be, but through our facilities in the world’s markets, do we secure designs that are different from those seen in the ordinary run of trade. We invite your attention to our display. Specially noteworthy are: The hand engraved design, the Pompadour design, the Portland Bead design.—Henry Birks & Sons, Limited, Winnipeg, Can.

Silverware—finest quadruple plate. It’s not like buying a pig in a poke buying silverware at this Eaton store—there’s one absolutely safe guarantee extended to every purchaser. Every piece of plated ware sold here is the finest quality of quadruple plate. With this assurance given, Eaton prices need little argument.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

The Lancaster. A spoon and fork design that carries an artistic combination of the rose and bead patterns is found in our Lancaster silver plated ware. On account of the extra heavy plating of pure silver that each piece possesses, the finish is equal to that of sterling silver, while the life of each piece is guaranteed to be one of long service. "From Birks'" assures quality.—Henry Birks & Sons, Ltd., Winnipeg, Can.

June wedding suggestions. As a wedding gift we could not mention a more suitable line than our English cabinets of fish and fruit knives and forks. These goods are a most reliable quality, made by the famous firm of George Butler & Co., Sheffield. On Tuesday we offer our entire stock at greatly reduced prices. Remember the quality is the best and they are put up in elegant style, boxed in pretty English leather gift cases.—Hudson Bay Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Sterling silver. This department of our business is exceptionally strong. We have the best line of sterling silver tea sets in Canada, and our stock of spoons and forks is a wonder to those who know its size. The quality of our silver is absolutely the finest; the finish is all that can be desired and our prices satisfactory to close buyers. What more could be desired? We hope to see you.—Wanless & Co., Toronto, Can.

Selecting wedding gifts is a poser for many puzzled people. Pardon the suggestion that our judgment and experience may be of some aid. Presents of silver, cut glass, art goods and china are always in order. Styles and prices right.—Eugene V. Haynes Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Wedding silver. There is nothing more appropriate for a wedding gift than a piece of sterling silver. It always remains an enduring and pleasant reminder of the friend who gave it. The assemblage of beautiful objects in sterling ware has been gathered with greater thought and research than ever before. To-day I am showing a varied and artistic assortment in spoons, forks, ladles, berry spoons, olive spoons, pickle forks, bon bon baskets, salad sets, cold meat forks, cake knives, etc. A beautiful and complete line of cut glass in latest style cuttings also awaits your approval.—B. D. Loring, Watchmaker and Jeweler, Plymouth, Mass.

Bridal gifts. Whether you are father, mother, or simply a friend of some prospective May or June bride it matters not, you will find it convenient and satisfactory making your purchase with us. We can show you an assortment comprising the most expensive gifts of solid silver in handsome cases, to be handsomely marked, as well as the simplest cut glass dish at moderate expense. Our line of bridal gifts is varied and we cater to the discriminating tastes. Gifts suitable for ushers or bridesmaids are also to be found in new and varied designs in scarf pins, brooch pins, etc.—C. H. Chase & Co., Hartford, Conn.

We show a splendid array of sterling silver in the many various articles so essential for wedding presents. Designs are richer and more beautiful than we have ever before displayed, while prices are extremely reasonable. We will appreciate the favor of a call from you.—King & Metzger, Lexington, Ky.

Special sale. This has proven to be a good time to sell silverware. Our prices prove it to be a good time to buy silverware. One week of unprecedented silverware offerings. Come while the sale is on and we have the goods.—Geo. K. Muuro, Grand Forks, N. D.

We have made the most of it. All we ask is that you inspect our showing. We boldly announce that for clever, original and exclusive ideas, as well as extensiveness in variety, there is not another collection in America to be compared with what we can show you to-morrow.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Sterling Silver, the Gift Ideal.—In selecting a bridal gift you will find nothing more pleasing, nothing more lasting than a piece of our beautiful sterling silverware. We handle all the newest and best patterns made by the leading silversmiths of America.—Lochman Bros., Springfield, Ill.

Now in Progress.—Our Great Annual Sale of Sterling Silverware.—Every one who has taken advantage of the opportunities offered in our previous silverware sales will appreciate the significance of this announcement.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Quadruple-Plated Silverware.—Every piece quadruple plated on pure white metal; exquisite in design and faultless in workmanship, and offered at about half what the exclusive jeweler would charge you.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

A Clearance of Silverware.—Before stock taking we find we have more than we need of certain of the staple lines of silverware. So to-morrow prices drop about half to help us straighten out. And we shall have to sell silver not a whit better than this at the full prices later—that's the odd part of it.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

For the Summer Home.—Kayserzinn, the new ware. It's beautiful, dainty, most artistic, very reasonable. Made in Germany of a mixture of pure silver and alloy of tin. Looks like solid silver, wears better.—Gray & Dudley Hdw. Co., Nashville, Tenn.

It's a common thing now to find silver sales in many stores and at many times, but it is uncommon to find such a collection of silver-plated tableware as we are showing to-day in the Arcade.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Give the bride sterling silver that is individually distinctive—right in weight and quality. The best goods from the best makers are kept here (or rather, sold here, for we don't keep things long)—and with quality is combined style and service.—Lumsden, Richmond, Va.

Useful wedding gifts are most pleasing to the recipients, especially when they possess those lasting qualities; in Sterling Silver this is a marked feature which is worthy of thought. Our stock is a revelation on suggestions, and, combined with the many new ideas prevailing, you can make your choice with great ease.—A. Ashby, Windsor, Ont.

We desire to call your attention to our magnificent display of silver, particularly appropriate for wedding gifts. This store has a reputation for its exclusiveness in wares, and much so in Sterling Silver. The collection of serving pieces is most exquisite.—Charles Mayer & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

To-day winds up the September Silver sale; but it presents one more day's opportunity to pick up very handsome articles for presents, or for one's own use at very much below the regular prices.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

The sterling silver now ready is in such a variety as you will perhaps scarcely credit, until you see with your own eyes. For many years our silver store has been in alliance with the best silverware manufacturers in the country, and we have an array of patterns that will delight those who are wanting thoroughly artistic gifts of intrinsic value for wedding and other presents. No firm in America can compete with our prices.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

We have in stock a line of Silverware of very good quality that we can sell for very low prices. It is good enough for use at your Sea-shore Cottage, and will last for years. It is not the heaviest ware in the world, and it is not the lightest by any means. If you wish to equip your cottage, we can think of nothing that will give better satisfaction.—Legate Manufacturing Co., Hartford.

Those unfamiliar with our stock of sterling silver for wedding gifts will find the cream of such silversmiths as Gorham and Whiting.—S. Nordlinger, Los Angeles, Cal.

In the downstairs salesroom, beginning to-day, continuing Saturday, and all of next week, the sale and display of silver will furnish much profit and pleasure to hundreds and thousands of astute shoppers. The affair will reward early visitors, and it will pay late comers. We have been preparing for the sale quietly and effectively, made successful purchases of fine goods from leading silver concerns, brands of wares that rarely figure in special sales, now at reductions because of buying outright all reserve stock at special discounts, besides we have picked over our regular lines, and slashed rates to conform with the new additions. There will be several displays of articles, some of which are too great in variety for special mention, and all bearing prices that will afford great opportunities for safe investments. Four offers,—and only suggestive of others.—John G. Myers Estate, Schenectady.

Silver-plated knives, spoons, forks, tableware. Every variety of artistic ware, in the heavy silver-plate that means long service, is in the sale. Handsome patterns in all the good styles of finish—bright, frosted, butler, etc. This sale is second to none of the past either for patterns or prices. The housekeepers who depend upon this opportunity will not be disappointed in styles, qualities or money-economy.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Don't shop around for sterling silver shirtwaist sets—I can supply you. Besides, you'll have the satisfaction of making your own selection from an assortment of the latest designs.—Chas. E. Rose, Telluride, Col.

Some Special Plated Silverware.—We have in stock a line of silverware of very good quality that we can sell for very low prices. It is good enough for use at your sea shore cottage, and will last for years. It is not the heaviest ware in the world, and it is not the lightest by any means. If you wish to equip your cottage, we can think of nothing that will give better satisfaction. Spoons, knives, forks, and a few special pieces are included. Just drop in and we will show you this ware, which we believe you will find very desirable.—Legate Manufacturing Co., Hartford, Conn.

A lady who had not a single piece of plated ware in her home, after making a large purchase from us, declared that it was the most beautiful in design she ever saw, and said she did not know that plated silver could be so lovely.—The Legate Manufacturing Co., Hartford.

There's no such thing as being limited or handicapped in your choice of a wedding present from this collection of silver. Designs are new and charming in variety. * * * The price range offers something for every purse—and every price is fair for what it buys.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Our silver-plated ware is of high grade and artistic design. Prices are as low as you pay for cheaper grades elsewhere.—Henry Kohn & Sons, Hartford, Conn.

Amid the beautiful surroundings of purple decorations, this sale is moving merrily along; but we can't tell how long it will present its present completeness—for the silver is melting fast. How could it be otherwise? The finest qualities in sterling silver and best quadruple plated ware are selling at prices that are one-half to one-quarter less than usual. There are many most desirable exclusive designs, well worth double the price, that are sure to be snapped up during the early days of this sale. To be sure of them shop on Monday.—The T. Eaton Co., Ltd., Toronto, Can.

The bride, looking over her wedding presents, always feels pleased when she gets a piece of sterling silver, for she knows it is only a short time until all her cut glass and china get broken, and pictures fade out, while sterling silver is a "thing of beauty and a joy forever." We have now the largest and most select line of silver goods ever shown in the city.—Harvey Fritz, Oil City, Pa.

Like our patrons, we are satisfied with nothing but the best. Superiority of quality in the metal itself, and designing that shows the highest achievements of the silversmith's craft. If you have use for such home furnishings, come to us for new ideas.—Hansel, Sloan Co., Hartford, Conn.

Some things will not stand looking into. Probe below the surface—only a little probing needed sometimes—and you learn how much is veneer and how little is genuine. The satisfaction in buying silver-plate bearing the brand of this factory is that it will stand lots of looking into. It is genuine quadruple silver-plate—every piece guaranteed—silver-plate that does give long wear.—Standard Silver Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

Handsome table silver is the delight of the housekeeper when she sees it decorating her hospitable table or ornamenting her buffet and lending a tone to her dining room. Our stock is artistic, produced by the most talented designers, and are gems of the silversmith's art. We will be pleased to show you the latest productions.—Chapman & Armstrong, Galesburg, Ill.

A show of silver. No jewelry or silver store in N. Z. has ever made a display of silver surpassing that now being made in our establishment. In our show windows and in our cases is now to be seen the most handsome and artistic pieces in silver and high-grade plated ware that has ever been shown before. Silver has for more than a century been in favor for wedding gifts. A plain teaspoon satisfied in the days of our great grandmother, but now that silver is more plentiful, and our prices bring it within the reach of all, the demand is for more elaborate pieces.—Stewart Dawson & Co., Wellingford, N. Z.

Autumn sale of high-class silver-plated wares. Again we have prepared a great economy movement in beautiful silverware. Our buyer made a between-seasons tour of the great factories, and secured hundreds of beautiful table pieces in patterns that were not in sufficiently large quantities to be run in the manufacturers' Fall catalogues. None but high-class goods has been considered. Every piece is perfect in every way. The saving is based entirely on the fact that new designs have displaced these particular patterns—for the manufacturer must be ever changing his shapes, though the purchaser uses the silverware for twenty years, perhaps—and design is not a matter of as much moment, as are real beauty and high quality. We guarantee the quality of every piece in this gathering; and the beauty of the pieces will speak, more loudly than words, to the eyes that see them. The sale offers splendid opportunity for reinforcing your own supplies of tablewares; or to select wedding or holiday gifts of most gratifying sort, at unusually low prices.—Wanamakers, New York.

Silverware that does not wear out are the incomparable productions of the Simeon L. & George H. Rogers Company, the silverware that leads all other plated ware in quality and durability. We sell this beautiful ware here in Hartford at factory prices. No house in America can approach them. No silverware manufactured in America is so good.—The Legate Manufacturing Co., Hartford, Conn.

Replenishing the Silverware.—Rogers silver and quadruple plate at half to two-thirds the usual prices will just about hit people right when returning from their summer holidays. The table always needs looking after, and silver is one of the most important points.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

While we aim to vary our stock and include in it the more modern silver styles of England, France and America, yet we maintain in the manufacturing of Birks' silver a generous loyalty to designs of the early silversmiths of our forefathers, thus giving our display an individuality rarely seen even in London itself.—Henry Birks & Sons, Montreal, Can.

Solid Silver Knives, Forks and Spoons.—During the past year silver bullion has steadily advanced in price, and to-day silver bars are worth 15 per cent. more than two years ago. This means but one thing—an advance in the price of sterling silver table wares. We anticipated this increase and have doubled our holiday purchases. Our stock of desirable patterns in spoons, forks, knives and all table silver is larger and more complete than ever. We will continue selling at the old price.—Montgomery Bros., Los Angeles, Cal.

Next to gold, silver is the most sought after metal. Many people call it the most beautiful metal in the world. A recent fortunate purchase brought to us an enormous quantity of Roger Brothers' 1847 Silverware. No need to tell you this is a standard brand among plated silverware. Nearly everyone is familiar with it. The "wearing test" has proven its value. We are going to sell Roger Brothers' 1847 Silverware for the littlest prices ever known here to-day for high-grade knives, forks and spoons. Run your eye over these items.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Silver and glass—June brides. Of all wedding gifts these constitute the great majority. They make their appeal—direct, personal, intimate, as no other wares excepting costly jewels, and attract the attention of the gift-giver in preference to all other wares. Our stock of sterling silver and cut-glass is a veritable museum of all that is choice and select—sympathetic interpretations of the beautiful—in form and artistic merit.—Sander's, Schenectady, N. Y.

Silver Serving Pieces.—The rich pieces of sterling silver that add so much to the elegance of the table appointments. Some of the new designs are extremely artistic; for instance, the "Bourgeois," a combined floral and figure design of great beauty, and suggested by one of this great French painter's works. Another similar pattern shows a figure and a fleur-de-lis. These patterns are in the well-liked French gray. Then there is an antithesis in the shape of a simple colonial pattern in bright finish—the "Standish." All of these designs include full sets of serving pieces; in two of them the small table silver is also obtainable.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Solid Silver.—We are showing superb new things in our silver room this fall. Attractive, moderate cost pieces for gift-giving and heavy, substantial wares for family silver. Designs are the prettiest we have ever shown—rich, heavy cast boraers—refined, practical shapes—perfect gems of the silversmithy.—W. W. Wattles & Sons, Pittsburg, Pa.

Teapot.—Heavy white metal, neatly engraved, well silver plated, an admirable article at a price that scarcely pays for the silver that covers the pot.—Alfred Edmondson, Morecambe, Eng.

Remember the October Brides.—A wealth of happy thoughts in sterling silver and silver plated ware here to suggest for the October weddings.—Wm. Rogers Mfg. Co., Hartford, Conn.

Silverware that's good for years of service. Dependable silverware, graceful in its patterns. Staunch in its wearing qualities, is what we of "The Silver Store" put before you—always at lowest prices.—J. Wiss & Sons, Newark.

Silver and Cut Glass.—One of nature's most beautiful works—silver—we have combined with one of man's finest productions—cut glass—in many artistic pieces for dining table and boudoir, than which nothing can be in better taste for a fine wedding gift.—Henry Birks & Sons, Toronto, Ont.

A really dependable stock of silverware, something that bears the stamp of worth and can be relied upon to do years of service. The assortment is large, and the patterns the latest. We handle the genuine Rogers goods in solid silver and plated ware. Showing the new things from this maker. They are very handsome. Cost a little more than other kinds, but then you will have something that will last generations. They are made for wear as well as for show. Not show alone.—W. E. Finch, Delhi, N. Y.

Six 5 o'clock teaspoons and sugar tongs, new shape and new value; you would guess double until you hear the price, 2-9 worth say 5-6.—Alfred Edmondson, Morecambe, Eng.

JEWELRY—WATCHES

"So you bought your husband a stop watch?"

"Yes," answered young Mrs. Turkins.

"How did it work?"

"Perfectly lovely," was the answer. "Charley took it to the races with him, and he says that every horse he was interested in stopped before it got into the home stretch."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A little talk about watches is timely, because at this season of the year so many of them are bought as graduation presents. No gift to a bright student could be more useful. When you buy a watch your only safeguard is in the character of the house from whom you buy. The mere appearance of a watch is no guide, since thinly plated cases may be made to shine like solid gold, and may later be marked "14 karat." Nor is the name on a watch a protection to the buyer. Waltham designates the make of a movement, not its quality, for a Waltham movement may come anywhere from $3.00 to $50.00. Our watch department is the product of almost thirty years of work and study. Experience has taught the public to believe in us, to understand that the Lambert guarantee is more than a formality. Every watch we offer for sale, even the most inexpensive, is the best of its kind, and has been examined by experts with keen eyes for faults. Imperfect watches are returned to the factory at once.—Lambert Bros., New York, N. Y.

In watches we probably do more business than any other store in the country, and are exclusive distributors of the famous Jules Monard watches of Geneva, which through merit have secured the name of "Jules Monard watches of precision." Jules Monard himself personally adjusts and examines every watch before it leaves his factory. Of American watches we have the Waltham and Elgin movements in a variety of cases.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Watch Store.—All kinds, all qualities, all prices, and each watch the best of its kind, whatever the kind. I mend watches, too—mend them in the right way. I know how.—Fletcher M. Noe, Indianapolis, Ind.

How much is your time worth? If you are a busy man, you count every minute worth money. You must depend upon your watch to do so many things in a certain allotted time. You'll miss your engagements if you haven't a good watch. You'll miss trains and experience vexations and costly delays if your watch cannot be depended upon. We are selling a watch for $23 that will help you to make money, if time is money.—Isaac's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Waltham and Elgin watches, America's best watch productions. In ladies' and gentlemen's sizes. Open face and hunting cases. Accurate time-pieces.—C. H. Case & Company, Hartford, Conn.

It pays to buy the best watch that you can afford. At our prices any one can afford a pretty good one. We have no watches at any price that we can't warrant to keep good time.—E. Gundlach & Co., Hartford, Conn.

This Expansion Idea is not only in some countries and individuals, but is an actual necessity in high grade watches. The watch balance wheel has an arm through the centre, the rim being cut on opposite sides, allowing it to expand by heat, and contract by cold, without increasing or diminishing the size of the balance wheel. Beside, our high grade watches are adjusted to heat, cold and position. See us about expansion in watches.—Chas. E. Rose, Telluride, Col.

Watch Assurance.—It's assuring to know that the seller of watches has faith in his timekeepers. This is how we show our faith in the watches we sell—if a single one proves less trustworthy than we promise we'll take it back willingly.—Davis Bros., Toronto, Ont.

The Pulse of a Watch.—If your watch is running irregularly—doesn't beat 60 to the minute—bring it to our store. No feature of our business is receiving more attention just now than our watch repairs.—J. F. Carr, Kenton, O.

A watch abused will not last forever. You will either need a new one or need the old one repaired. We will look after the repairs, if they are necessary, or sell you a new and excellent timekeeper, if you prefer.—J. T. Allen & Co., Richmond, Va.

Do you hold a position of responsibility and trust? You have no moral right to trifle with time. Carry a Dueber-Hampden watch, and have the satisfying feeling that you are always accurate to the second.—Dueber-Hampden Watch Works, Canton, Ohio.

"How is your watch?" Does it keep good time? If it doesn't just bring it here and we'll repair it for you and repair it right.—Gilmore's Jewelry Store, Kenton, Ohio.

"Timely" bargains for "watchful" buyers.—The Millinery World, Los Angeles, Cal.

If it's a Waltham, you're on time. All around the globe "Walthams" will find a wearer.—W. W. Wellner, Charlotte-town, P. E. I.

What a friend—steadfast and true—is a really good watch! A watch that you can depend upon is a real treasure. That kind we keep.—Roch's, Chicago.

Many men prefer the 16 size watch, as it takes up but little space in the pocket—is light as compared to the 18 size, and is a strong, serviceable watch.—Chas. E. Rose, Telluride, Col.

What's the Use of carrying a watch if it doesn't keep time? If your watch is of any account our experts can make it keep time. We sell watches of all standard makes and guarantee them.—Park's, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Watch Reliability.—You will be punctual in your engagements if timed by a watch bought here. We sell standard makes for less than others. You run no risk, for makers guarantee them to us and we to you.—Geneva Watch and Optical Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

No wonder the possessor of a good watch or clock is careful into whose hands he leaves it for repairs when it fails to do its work properly. Many a good watch is left in bad hands and is spoiled by incompetent or careless repairing. Does your watch or clock need repairing? Is time an important factor to you? Don't run the risk of having your timepiece ruined. Bring it to us.—Challoner & Mitchell, Victor, B. C.

Always on time wins respect for a woman. It has gained a reputation for our watches and clocks that we feel proud of. While we consider the movement the most important part of a watch or clock, beauty, too, should be considered. Our selection of time pieces are marvels of artistic skill in design and finish. They must be seen to be appreciated.—C. H. Hartman, New York.

Outing watches. The attractiveness of these handsome belt watches must be seen to be appreciated, and be worn during the summer outing to realize the convenience and necessity of wearing one. You are never late to dinner and never fail to keep an appointment or catch or meet a train on time. They will always be in demand. We have a superb assortment of watches, pins, chains and locketts for your inspection.—Conner's, Burlington, Ia.

$5 watch. It has been a long time since I said anything about our $5 watch. Why? Because it talks for itself. It's just a nice, genteel, good time-keeping watch, and lots of people pay $25 for something inferior.

A Group of Beauties.—The showing of ladies' watches is more than usually interesting. We have added a large number of new designs and new styles to our already large assortment. Where there is so much beauty and merit a choice may be difficult, but prices will help to a selection. Ladies' watches from $9 to $75. Good value at all figures.—A. Mierow, Tacoma, Wash.

What you see when you look at watches in our store isn't all there is. Reliability and long service are in every watch we sell, whether it costs $4 or $100.—Cushing's Jewelry Store, Rockland, Mass.

Buying a Watch.—You'll find it an easy matter to buy a watch at "Trorey's."

Because in the first place we have the watches—all kinds of them.

In the second place we assist you in your selection.

Then again, you can depend upon what we say about a watch.

Of course, if you are a stranger here and do not know us or our methods, very well, you'll perhaps want more than our word for it.

Then here's our written guarantee.

It is just possible that after you've lived in Vancouver for a while and have made some inquiries about "Trorey's," you'll not care whether that guarantee is lost or what becomes of it—ten chances to one you'll burn it up.

You know we'll "make good," as "John Henry" would say.—Trorey, Vancouver, B. C.

Accuracy cannot be obtained from poor watches. To prevent annoyance and disappointment provide yourself with a watch or a clock that can be depended on. George Jordan sells the best American makes and guarantees each one to perform properly.—Geo. Jordan, San Bernardino, Cal.

Our watch selling methods. When you buy a watch of us, you know exactly what you are getting. We enjoy going with you into the details of its making and material, pointing out its elements of strength—or weakness, as the case may be—of showing you why certain parts should be scrupulously examined and perfectly adapted to meet certain wear conditions, and all that sort of thing. In other words you get the benefit of our expert technical knowledge and of our persistently honest methods. Watches of every desirable style.—Maier & Berkele, Atlanta, Ga.

Watch your time by carrying a time-piece that we can recommend.—Schacht & Riordan, Spokane, Wash.

Don't run. Get a good watch to run for you, and be sure of your minutes. An accurate reliable time-keeper can be bought now for a very little money.—The Hoffman Supply Co., Columbus, O.

A Good Watch for a Little Price.—Not a pocket clock. Suitable for the boy at school or the man who must be on time at his work.—C. L. Ruth, Montgomery, Ala.

The accuracy with which our watches are made and the resulting close time keeping makes them the most desirable watches to be had. Our prices are based on competitive conditions in our own large cities as well as the East and we know they are right. In short if you want a timekeeper and value received, see us.—Warner's, Fresno, Cal.

Men's watch special. A fine selection of excellent timekeepers is displayed at the jewelry counter, in a most comprehensive variety of movements and moderate prices. For the January sale we make a special value offer.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnepeg, Can.

The watch? There are no secrets in watch buying—no deception in real value, judged from the standard of reliability. Kirby watches answer the watch question satisfactorily, give you actual value for every dollar expended. Every watch desire can be satisfied—every style from the smallest chatelaine to the popular sizes in both men's and women's watches.—Kirby & Son, New Haven.

A striking value for to-morrow. A beautiful gift for anniversary, confirmation or graduation and a very dainty little timepiece for grown folk to take away to use during the summer vacation or traveling, when the valuable watches might better be left at home. These are all delicately yet durably enameled, and have dainty fleur-de-lis pin to match. The case has gold-filled trimmings and is fitted with a jeweled Swiss movement. It is enclosed in a neat velvet case, all ready for presentation. The colors are ruby, sapphire, emerald and turquoise. None C. O. D.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Americans should buy American watches, made by American tools and machines, by American skill and labor and at American wages. When a dealer tells you that a Swiss watch is better, it is because there is more in it for him.—Waltham Watch Co., New York City.

We offer you the best watches. Our stock is made up of the most reliable timepieces to be had. Our guarantee of these watches is given with every confidence. The various styles of cases shown express the best and latest ideas of the foremost makers of such goods.—Berry & Whitmore Co., Washington.

A man will oil a wheelbarrow because it squeaks, and at the same time allow his watch to go untouched, because it noiselessly performs its daily duties, even at the cost of its existence. Let us overhaul and oil your watch. Our prices are moderate, our workmen capable.—Thos. J. Porte, Winnipeg, Can.

Brown makes a specialty of railroad watches. He uses a special movement containing 21 jewels, one that runs with wonderful accuracy, and is built to stand the wear and tear, smash and slam of the railroad business.—Brown, Hartford, Conn.

Were you late?

Was your watch to blame?

If it was, bring it here and let us put it into shape.

If you haven't a watch, let us sell you one that you can rely on. All sizes, all prices, all kinds.—C. H. Tilton, Rochester, N. Y.

The man with a well-regulated brain makes a success of life. To regulate your actions properly you want one of our well-regulated watches.—A. B. White, Pictou, N. S.

Stop watches for the coming races—large assortment, all prices. We make a specialty of repairing these delicate movements.—Bancroft Bros. & Co., Columbus, O.

Your watch has needs just as much as you have. You need cleaning and fixing up once in a while, and so does your watch. About once a year the proposition of cleaning and oiling that watch comes up. It's then that you want to think of me. The treatment accorded a watch is just the same whether it is the best or the poorest make—that is, the best attention is given it. Wade is an expert at handling watches. Let him try to fix up your timepiece.—Wade, the Watchman (you can watch me through the window), Galesburg, Ill.

Watches.—A Sale. Was a time when we deemed it right enough and proper to write our watch advertisements with the distinct object in view of overcoming the prejudices entertained by some people against buying such things outside the portals of exclusive jewelry stores. The time has passed for all such arguments and appeals. Macy's system of merchandising, Macy's method of retailing, may be largely responsible for the educational processes that have been working as regularly and surely as the forces of nature. People now know the store that serves them best when they buy dry goods, furniture, carpets, clothing and groceries can also serve them best when they buy diamonds, paintings, bric-a-brac—and watches. The watch sale that begins here to-day is an important trade event.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

That laggard, lazy watch. Bring us in that laggard, lazy watch of yours that is always provokingly behind time. It may be only the most trivial of matters that causes it to be so erratic, or there may be something seriously wrong with it. In either case, the defect will be correctly diagnosed and correctly treated if brought here.—Barr's Jewelry Store, Salem, Ore.

"I guess I am a little slow." How often one hears the above remark when the time of day is inquired for. What's the use of having that kind of time. Something you can't depend on? How is your watch running? A little slow? A little fast? Is it out of repair? If so bring it to us and have it fixed right.—Gilmore's, Kenton, O.

For the Boy.—There is no sense in buying the boy a cheap watch. There is no economy in the lack of quality. We could sell watches for 8-6 and make money—but lose friends. Give him a good watch, and he will take a pride in its possession—it will early teach him the value of punctuality. You can't expect punctuality if you give him a poor, useless watch. These are hints.—Stewart Dawson & Co., Sydney, N. S. W.

Watch out? Bring it in. We'll right it. People who sing "Just Behind the Times" didn't get their timepiece here. Perhaps you're hesitating because you didn't; don't do it; come in and you can go out on time.—Grandmason, Kenton.

For a thoroughly reliable, accurate timekeeper you can't beat these watches, they're guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction. They're in handsome solid silver and gold-filled hunting or open face cases, fitted with the best standard American movements. Watches you'd readily pay ten dollars for, special to-morrow, $3.64.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

Watches. We have on display a large, varied assortment of 14 karat gold watches. Many set with precious and semi-precious stones, such as diamonds, sapphires, rubies, emeralds, pearls, aquamarines, peridot, kunziter, tourmalines, turquoise and Chinese jade. Our prices will be found very reasonable.—S. Nordlinger & Sons, Los Angeles, Cal.

The pleasure to own a good watch and the satisfaction of patronizing home enterprise are both felt in selecting a Ball watch. They are built to meet the exacting requirements of modern business—and they do meet them.—The Webb C. Ball Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

More of those new, thin model watches that created such a furore last Saturday. Last week we only had 100, and they were sold before 12 o'clock, and we had to take orders from a sample. Won't get caught that way again. Men who have bought these watches are sending their friends here every day. Without doubt they are the best watch values ever offered, and the name Waltham is a guarantee that they are a good timekeeper, and what's more, they are fine looking watches.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

100 more of those gold filled watches for men, women and children. Same kind that sold so well last week, and this may be the last chance you will have to secure them at this price, because it was difficult to get this lot.—The 14th St. Store, New York, N. Y.

The watch is an invaluable little instrument. It records the many minutes and hours wisely and foolishly spent. We have a fine collection of genuine gold and silver ladies' watches, and the prices of them will speak for themselves.—A. Microw, Tacoma, Wash.

A sale of watches. Does "rummaging" in watches strike you as odd? It probably does because you haven't yet gotten clear of the haze and mystery that used to hedge about the jewelry business. But get rid of that notion. Let's get down to facts, and the fact is that we look on watches and jewelry simply as merchandise—high class, it is true—but subject to the same general up-to-date methods we use with other merchandise. We've had some watch cases and movements too long. Time they had new owners, and as they didn't sell at first prices, we've reduced prices so they'll move. That's all. No mystery about that, is there? Our guarantee with every watch we sell.—Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

It is generally conceded that we have the largest stock and the handsomest assortment of watches to be found anywhere in town.—W. F. Sellers & Co., Altoona, Pa.

How's your watch running? Is it always fast or slow? Never quite on time? Perhaps the watch is capable of very accurate running, but it is not in perfect order. You know the tiny mechanism of a watch absolutely demands that each of the dozens of little parts, springs, wheels, jewels, etc., be just right, or good timing is out of the question. Watch repairing always has been a hobby of ours, to do the best work possible.—J. C. Sharer, Alliance, O.

A good watch is a faithful friend and it's the sort of friend every business man and business woman needs. We can sell you a timepiece that will prove itself a truly dependable companion. We've been selling watches for years and we know just what it takes to make them deserve that adjective—dependable. We should be very glad to have a talk with you on the subject and to show you our great stock—incomparably the finest in the South.—Maier & Berkele, Atlanta.

Watches.—People who want good, reliable watches will find in my stock the products of the best European and American factories. When you buy a watch from me you have absolute assurance that it will serve you satisfactory. My guarantee covers all points, and I want it understood that it is a guarantee that means something.—F. M. Powers, Youngstown, Ohio.

We pride ourselves on the completeness of the "Feagans" watch line. Movements from the greatest makers known the world over for accuracy and reliability.—Geo. E. Feagans, Joliet, Ill.

In this era of women in business, every business woman and girl should own a watch—and for that matter, a watch is a gift sure to be prized by anybody. To-day's word is of better than good values in watches of approved good "movements," hedged about by the makers' guarantee, backed by ours. Do you need a reliable watch, or know some one who does.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia.

Marcel Watches are the best you can buy. They are made especially for us—the result of long experiment in endeavor to get a thoroughly high-grade Watch for less than the usual price. We stand back of the "Marcel" Watches in every respect—and they cost about a third less than other Watches as good.—Frederick Loesser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

In a Hurry?—Well, yesterday we sold a very particular man a fine watch and chain in eleven minutes. Could do some better with the watches we are selling at our clearance sale price. It takes but little time to decide which you want when you see them.—Chas. E. Rose, Telluride, Col.

Honest Watch Work.—The science of watch repairing is only comprehended by the man who understands how to make a watch. The man who can successfully solder a ring may spoil a splendid watch in less time than it takes to tell it. The great success we have attained in watch repairing comes because we employ only the most skillful watch makers.—Geneva Watch and Optical Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Buy a Watch.—Buy as good a case as you can afford, but first get a movement which will be accurate. All watches recommended and sold by the George H. Ford Company are the best timekeepers made in the world.—New Haven, Conn.

Time is precious, and so is a reliable timepiece. Watches and clocks purchased at Parker's are always accurate timekeepers and require the least repairs with ordinary careful usage. They can always be depended on.—Parker's, La Crosse, Wis.

The mainspring is not the only thing that gets out of order in a watch. There are wheels, pivots, jewels and lots of other parts that need looking after. But no matter what the trouble be, I can find it and make it right, and would like to prove this on yours.—A. Jette, Lancaster, Pa.

Watches are like oysters—you should not judge the inside by the shell. As well try to tell the kind of tobacco a man chews by looking at the box he carries it in.—J. H. Lehson, Butte, Mont.

KIMONAS AND WRAPPERS

An unusual under price offering of dainty wrappers and gowns. Light, sheer and graceful garments that every woman especially appreciates—the development of the ordinary wrapper into a garment of true beauty. And yet to-morrow brings a chance to choose from a great stock of this dainty wear. For prices much less than the worth of the gowns.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

You can worry and work and spend your time making a wrapper like this 69-cent one we are placing on sale Thursday. How much will it cost you without your time? Probably $1.50—and even then you wouldn't impart so much style to it, unless you are peculiarly adept with needle and scissors. Then why make your own wrappers? we say. These await you on the second floor to-morrow.—Rhodes Brothers, Tacoma.

About the coolest house wrappers. Are you aware that your choice of house wrappers largely determines the extent of your summer comfort? We have had a lot made up of lightest lawns, with trimmings that are very pretty and perhaps a little different from any you would think of. And the comfortable garments are all ready for you to wear as quick as you pick out the ones you like best.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Here are wrappers of pleasantly cool, thin materials—percale and white and colored lawn—daintily made, in a number of pretty styles, and now bearing decidedly lower prices than those with which they began the season. And that's not long ago—for the four groups told of here have only been on our shelves for a very little while. Now they must go—and many a woman will be delighted to buy such attractive garments as these for summer negligee, at such modest prices.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The manufacturer of these garments tells us that we have tipped his scale, taken the most of them of any store to whom he sells kimonas, and he sells from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Made of nice quality lawns, fast colored, neat figures, and hair lines. Trimmed with bands of white lawn.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Greatest news of wrappers any store ever had. Thousands—each wrapper a beauty and a bargain. It is the season when wise women like to have a good supply of these loose and cool house garments on hand. Just as easy to have them pretty as ugly, if you go to the right store. Just as easy to have them pretty and save a good bit on the price as well, if you take advantage of this sale.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Women's kimonas. An important sale of women's kimonas to-day. The assortments include kimonas in either long or short lengths in pink, blue and tan colors. The designs are oriental and floral. All are daintily trimmed with bands, embroidery or lace. For to-day the regular prices are reduced one-third.—Rhodes Bros., Tacoma, Wash.

Wrappers of our own make. That is the reason we are able to give such splendid values. Values that cannot be equaled any place in Canada outside of the Eaton stores. The materials used are bought direct from the manufacturers and carefully selected by our own buyers. The workmanship is superior and as already stated the values are exceptional—easily 30 per cent. lower priced than wrappers bought in the ordinary way, where jobbers' profits have to be added to the manufacturers'. Knowing the kind of material from which they are made and the class of workmanship which is put into them we can interestingly guarantee them.—The T. Eaton Co., Ltd., Winnipeg, Can.

KNIT UNDERWEAR

Women's Knit Underwear.—Such daintiness and charm as must at once appeal to refined womanhood are characteristic of this broad and brilliant showing of knit underwear. There is another feature of attractiveness, also—prices are exceedingly little. Here are hints.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Women's Vests and Corset Covers.—Look at the trimmed kinds to-day—those lace-like, cool-looking, dainty things that women love. You'll go far before you see anything like the Wanamaker variety, and farther before you find anything like the same quality for the money.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

Let us spread for your examination a few of these dainty garments which we prize. First, feel the muslin. Could a woman ask more? Next, hold the garments up and glance at the fetching design. Of course the trimmings delight you. Now—the needlework. You could toil many a tedious hour without more perfect seams or neater stitches. And yet some folks who haven't tried Hale's undermuslins can wonder why women seem so proud of them. Even the plainest of them that cost but the least little price somehow seem nicer. The safest way is to not let one penny be coaxed away from you till you have been to Hale's.—Hale's, Los Angeles, Cal.

White Wear at Wonder Prices.—A replenishing sale of quality. Not a garment in this great offering that isn't worthy the consideration of the most discriminating taste. This isn't a rhapsody of words, it's a statement of facts. Fine muslin, ample folds, cut for style, finished as daintily as a bride would choose if made to her order.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A Combination Corset Cover and Shirt Waist Extender.—It's a curiously made thing, simple withal, a full underbody that acts as a corset cover and shirt waist extender, made of a wiry, white lawn, made very full of ruffles. It's the most complete garment of its kind you could imagine. It will help the set of that shirt waist wonderfully, and at the same time it's a cool, comfortable corset cover.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton.

How would you like to lay by in your sewing closet a snug lot of wash goods so that all winter long you could spend dull moments in making pretty garments? It's not short of amazing, the big, big lot of goods you may have for a little money. Our profit has been made. What remains shall serve as a brilliant advertisement for Hale's. It's not the money, it's the talk we want. Every time you show your purchase to a friend it advertises Hale's. You can't help buying when you see the goods. You can't help telling your friends about it. The whole city will talk, and think, and praise the Hale method of merchandising.—Hale's, Los Angeles, Cal.

The climax reached in this sale of ladies' muslin underwear.—Our great muslin underwear department will fairly buzz with selling excitement to-morrow, for we put on sale underwear bargains that will make manufacturers and retailers look aghast. Feminine interest will be aroused, for this sale will be without doubt the greatest ever devised. Remember this fact and be guided accordingly. All the underwear we display to-morrow is bright, fresh and strictly first class. Made by the best maker in New England and sold to us for about half of the wholesale prices, to clean up the factory's stock. Don't miss this golden bargain opportunity.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Undermuslin talk is all in vain if it isn't true—wish you'd all look and compare—and price isn't the only thing to compare—the garments are good—not good at the price. When you have seen how good they are, it's pleasant to quote the little prices.—The Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Night Gowns Mostly Half-price.—Almost a dozen different and attractive styles of nightgowns are included in this offering, all reduced in most radical fashion; most of them by exactly one-half. It's a chance for women who like dainty—even luxurious—garments to satisfy their desires at small cost.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Middleweight underwear at lightweight prices.—T. A. & L. F. Newman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Great piles of snowy white, hot weather underclothes ready this morning—if you are as eager for them as we think, the piles will melt away in no time.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Here are bushels of cool underwear—in a peck of trouble. Sixty-five cents for $1.50 qualities, etc.—F. M. Atwood, Chicago, Ill.

Clean-up Sale of Undermuslins.—Rapid selling has depleted every line in our entire stock and it has been necessary to group a number of values in order to get a full line of sizes at a price. But summer stock must be closed out, as it is not our custom to show any old lines with new crisp goods. Barring the fact that some garments may be slightly soiled or mussed from handling or window display, their usefulness is not in the least invalidated.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Don't forget that right underwear is the first element in keeping cool. Not thin underwear simply, but garments rightly cut and shaped—if they don't fit you will be in agony no matter how thin the material is.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Porous underwear for sizzle weather.—When such lightweight garments can be bought for so little, do not injure your feelings with heavy, burdensome sorts. No underwear can be too porous for summer; the weather is ripe now for the lightest.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

Sale of muslin underwear, and the prices so reasonable.—Eastman Bros. & Bancroft, Portland, Me.

Most women are ready to harken to reason, when it comes in this attractive form; dainty garments, prettily trimmed. The material would cost you as much as the ready-to-wear, well made underwear. Listen to reason; save time, save strength and save pennies.—Eastman Bros. & Bancroft, Portland, Me.

The warm weather approaching will soon necessitate lighter weight underwear. Are you properly supplied? If not, read every one of these items. The exceptionally fine quality of our garments, coupled with their unusually low prices, offers you values that will be impossible to duplicate.—Giddings Bros., Colorado Springs, Col.

Pajamas for women. Ladies are taking kindly to pajamas as sleeping garments. It's not merely sentiment or novelty which is leading to such general adoption, but the real comfort which they afford. Their fad period has passed.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Petticoats and waists. Some newcomers. The petticoats are of black sateen—stylish, sightly and serviceable. And the variety of new effects is most attractive. The waists are of brilliantine, spangled with little silver dots, on various well-liked colors. Precisely the waists one wants to wear on cooler days between now and fall.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Opportune sale of underwear.—Great drifts of snowy whiteness, made to please the most exacting as to fabric, fit and finish. You'll like these garments for their Frenchness of fluffiness and for the delicacy of detail. Nothing skimpy about them anywhere, in spite of their surprisingly low prices.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Crisp new undermuslins of snowy whiteness.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Seasonable underwear.—How can you expect to keep cool if your underwear is heavy and irritating? We suggest some light, gauzy undergarments that will bring comfort to men and women at trifling cost.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Knit underwear for women and children.—The kind of underwear that fits; that particular women want to wear. No cheap shoddy kinds not worth carrying home, but soft, fine, warm underwear that feels comfortable.—T. Maginn & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

A superb showing of dainty white goods.—These lovely, cool, crisp night-dresses are the thing for the hot months. Some exceedingly pretty new designs are here, constructed for beauty and comfort.—Robt. Wright & Co., Brockville, Ont.

Breeze sifting underwear. We have underwear so comfortable that it's cooler to wear it than to go without.—Trenton Clothing Co., Trenton, N. J.

We are just as careful when a man buys underwear here to see that he's correctly fitted as if we were making him a shirt. That's one reason why we do such a tremendous underwear business.—Daniel Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

To-day, men's underwear in just the correct weights for spring and summer, and at just the right prices to suit you.—Bernheimer's, Kansas City, Mo.

The warm weather approaching will soon necessitate lighter weight underwear. Are you properly supplied? If not, read every one of these items. The exceptionally fine quality of our garments, coupled with their unusually low prices, offers you values that will be impossible to duplicate.—Giddings Bros., Colorado Springs, Colo.

The old folks always said: "Stick to your flannels 'till they stick to you." Good advice too, but it's just as well to be prepared for a change. We have on hand a few odd lots of medium weight union suits and vests to close cheaply.—E. C. Nichols Dry Goods Co., Bangor, Me.

Underwear for women and children. Light weight and medium weight. Just what you want is now ready and waiting for you, a carefully selected line and underpriced.—James McLean & Sons, York, Pa.

Judgment and mother wit make it self-evident that it pays to buy undergarments ready made, for one either buys plain pieces for the worth of the material alone, or elaborate pieces that no one at home could make for the price. This is the sort of underwear that makes home sewing extravagant. The garments are the kind that a careful woman could make herself, yet she could never make them for as little as these will cost.—Kaufman, Trenton, N. J.

You don't want to neglect purchasing your winter supply of knit underwear longer, for the change in temperature is very apt to cause you to contract colds which a little judgment now in displacing the thinner underwear of summer will prevent. We absolutely know that we offer the very best values in knit underwear for your money to be found on the entire Pacific Coast.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Knit underwear for men. Many men, many minds—perhaps you've had trouble in finding just the right kind of underwear for you. We have all the good new as well as all the good old sorts. We mention some at 35c, 50c, 75c and $1.00, and wish to say that we have taken particular care that every garment shall be better in every way than you will be able to find anywhere else for the price.—Hysinger & Rosenthal, Peoria.

Men's underwear at half price. The chillness of the night air will make this little piece of store news doubly interesting. We have a small lot of men's heavy weight underwear to sell for half price. Durable quality—and a grade that can be worn by men who cannot wear finest wool. The garments are finished inside with silk fleece—making them the softest and most comfortable imaginable.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Weight in underwear is not the only warmth-giving quality—comfortable fit means more than uncomfortable weight. Here's underwear that will save your coal bills, and, besides, prices are at least one-third under the market.—Fredrick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women's snug underwear.—Comfortable and nice. So many women make the mistake of buying underwear that seems cheap and then regret it all winter long. If it's low price that you wish you can suit your purse at Hale's, and you'll never be dissatisfied. We could mention a hundred items, but simply these for to-day.—Hale's, Los Angeles.

Flannelette night gowns.—Nights are getting chilly—yet not cold enough to part with the sheets. Have you thought of the flannelette gown? They're just the thing for early fall. Under the clever management of our buyer we are able to place before you an assortment larger than ever before and not excelled by any.—Harned & Von Maur, Peoria, Ill.

Pajamas for women.—They're steadily growing in popularity, as women learn by experience their real worth, and are certainly the ideal sleeping garments for winter, as every pajama-wearing man can testify.—Here, for women, in a variety of attractive new patterns and materials.—Wanamaker's, New York.

The muslin underwear sale goes merrily along.—Goldsmith's Bazaar, Scranton, Pa.

Our annual exposition of white opens to-day on the spacious third floor. This magnificent gathering of muslin underwear is anticipated with pleasure by every shopper within the zone of this store's influence, and is one of the proudest features of broad gauge merchandising at Younker's. The distinguished character of white garments made for this wonderful display—makes them pre-eminent in the favor of discriminating women. We shall again demonstrate that this store leads in this class of goods, and that nowhere can such beautiful white garments be purchased at so low a price. Make it a point to be present at the opening to-day.—Younker Bros., Des Moines, Iowa.

Women's undergarments at the white fair. Daintiness, refinement, ample proportion, good materials, neat sewing—all the merits of home-made garments—these are the charms first recognized in the counterfuls of garments that have turned this into a store of white.

Every garment made in a sanitary, airy factory, by skillful, cleanly workers. Every seam in these garments is felled—every possible care has been taken to have them to your perfect satisfaction.—Moore & McLeod, Charlottetown.

The 20th century girl wears McKelvey muslin undergarments. Annual exhibition and sale. It is not vainglorious boasting upon our part when we assert that the utmost care has been bestowed upon the making of every garment we shall offer for sale, no matter what the price. Not a skimp will be found in the shaping of a single one, nor a flaw in fabric or finish. Only the prettiest and best trimmings have been used and the garments, without exception, are substantial, dainty and durable—like those made at home, only more so, since our experts are continually in touch with the very newest ideas far in advance of the season and able, consequently, to give wide variety to their work.—McKelvey, Youngstown, O.

Muslin underwear specials. This sale offers such a host of close trading possibilities that it should call to our counters every woman in this city. Our garments are bright, new and well-made—each is a grade model for the wear and satisfaction it insures.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Underskirts. No longer does the dainty white petticoat hold undisputed sway. Its use is reserved for dress and evening wear. For general wear, for warmth, petticoats more appropriate to the season, wool flannel petticoats at $1.65 and $2.50.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Undermuslins. Especially low-priced—It's puzzling women to know how we can sell them—Muslin underwear at prices that would scarcely pay for materials were they to attempt to make the garments. Sold as much yesterday as any ordinary store sells in a week. This is perhaps the greatest recommendation the goods can be given.—The Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

The great and constantly increasing demand among New York women for the Simpson-Crawford Co. muslin underwear is sufficient proof to an unprejudiced individual of the merit of our goods. This fact, however, only spurs us on to stronger efforts to hold our proud position as the premier muslin underwear store in America. This leadership also enables us to place before you such attractive offerings as are here given.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

Cold weather is almost here, and though winter underwear is hardly suitable, these lighter fabrics—sort of betwixt and between as it were—you'll find are very comfortable when worn under the light summer overclothes.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Silk petticoats. The rustle of the silk petticoat has a wonderful fascination for womenkind, and now at this rare price most women can indulge their fancies in this line.—Bloomingtondale's, New York.

A dainty white petticoat, whether it be silk or cotton, is just as important to complete the graduating toilet as the dress itself. We make a special showing to-day of a number of handsome new styles in white taffeta silk petticoats. Made with accordion plaited flounces, trimmed with ruffles, tucks and ruchings.—Geo. B. Peck Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Call in and inspect our line of underwear. We will show you the ideal underwear for summer. Our Balbriggan underwear will stand more laundry and abuse from the laundry than any other kind, and summer underwear is in the laundry as much as anywhere else.—Clucker's Clothing Store, Kenton, O.

Do you wear pajamas? To the man who does not wear pajamas we want to say that they are very comfortable and cool and are really the proper sleeping garments for men. Traveling people all over the world consider their wardrobe incomplete without a few suits of pajamas.—Jonas Selaner, San Bernardino.

A sale for men.—Here is most important news to all men who don't possess all the summer underwear they need to make them entirely comfortable. And it will also tempt many a man into laying by an extra supply of handsome, comfortable garments against future needs. For the prices are enormously attractive.—Wanamaker's, New York, N. Y.

Chilly days! Hints of coming cold weather! Prepare for the change! The underwear is splendidly ready. Our clever assortments and low prices will help you make satisfactory selection.—Lewis' Store, Anaconda, Mont.

Many a man is hot and irritable because his underwear is uncomfortable and yet he doesn't realize it. Loeser makes a specialty of fit—the abnormally stout or thin—the long or short arms or legs get a comfortable fitting here—and without extra cost either. Here is some variety for all—both the big or the little purse.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Proper underwear for spring.—You will need the kind we tell of here before long. Why not choose now, before the hurry days set in? We've a wonderfully comprehensive choice ready at prices that will make present buying an object.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Dainty underwear. An October offering of fluffy whiteness from a great stock of fine muslins, well made up.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn.

Summer underwear. He who buys here buys the best the market affords. That's true if he pays $1.00 a suit. That's true if he pays $10.00 a suit. Nothing inferior, but all that's superior.—The Ware-Pratt Co., Worcester.

Every man's store has balbriggan underwear at fifty cents—'cause it's a popular price—and you'll find that every store has a different quality to offer, made in a different way, and if dissected quite a difference in workmanship will be found. We dwell on the merits of our fifty cent underwear, because we know that it's the best undergarment for the price sold in Atlanta to-day—and in sizes to fit any man that walks.—Daniel Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

Like an inexhaustible treasure house, the great January sale of muslin underwear continues to pour out wanted garments at the lowest prices for women and children. The extra specials for to-day's selling will be in the children's underwear. Keep in mind the fact that these January sale prices will not be in force after this month. A hint to buy all your children's underwear now.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City.

We will start the sale promptly at 9 o'clock this morning with just exactly 2978 undergarments. It will be the biggest muslin underwear event Fresno has ever known; a sale that will outdo any and all sales ever held by this or any other store in the city. We gathered these dainty undermuslins from several of New York's best makers. They are new, fresh, dainty, clean; carefully made garments; manufactured under the most favorable sanitary conditions. We frankly tell you that you can't buy the materials alone, unmade, for anywhere near the price we are offering you these carefully constructed garments for all ready to put on and wear. Come and see them; examine the materials, the sewing, the fine embroideries and laces they are trimmed in; open up each garment and see how full and wide and shapely they are. You will then say too they are the biggest underwear bargain ever offered in Fresno.—The Wonder Cloak and Suit House, Fresno, Cal.

Men's and women's underwear.—Spring stocks ready, and we have found ways of bettering them, too, wherever possible. For instance, we believe you won't find the equal anywhere of this French balbriggan underwear for men at 50c.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women's lisle thread underwear at 25c.—The underwear stock offers the widest range of selection. A point on which we wish to lay special stress is the thorough reliability of all the goods, and the fact that no matter how low the price of a garment may be, it will surely give good wear.—Mandel Bros., Chicago.

Women's underwear.—Knit underwear, thinnest and gauziest, the year's newest and finest sorts, as well as the standard, staple styles; vests, pants and union suits; well made and perfectly fitting. Modest prices for these.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Summer isn't here yet.—No use to rush right into your lightest underwear just because the indications are for warmer weather. There is a medium between "winter" underwear and "summer" underwear that ought to be considered. From now until the middle of May one should wear "spring" underwear, and this is what we have to show you.—Strauss & Hirshberg's, Youngstown.

Underwear for women and children.—A change of seasons forces you to a change of underclothing, and those who know the invariable superiority of our assortments will not think of going elsewhere.

Heavy and light weight cotton, wool or silk vests and pants and union suits. An assortment that would be a credit to any metropolitan store. Prices to suit any purse.—A. S. Knowles Dry Goods Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Our underwear is beyond betterment.—The White House, Spokane, Wash.

These sales offer various useful styles that we do not carry all the time. There is economy in getting a share of these. Some you can put additional trimming on. Gimbel underwear is best liked in Milwaukee because our styles are neatest and our garments are all made as women would have them—not stingy and skimped. Sales are passing all former May records, showing that more and more women lean on the Gimbel store.—Gimbel Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

Your underwear.—Make a shift now, sir! It's time to change. We have medium weights, just suitable for this cool fall weather.

Some men prefer it to the heavier kinds, even for winter wear. You can't afford to take chances on your health—look to your underwear. Don't wait for a cold, make a shift now.—Fred M. Nye, Ogden, Utah.

Underwears come and underwears go, but "Jaeger" goes on forever. Why this pre-eminence? Because "Jaeger" feels better, protects better, and wears better than any other underwear made. special weights for spring.—Dr. Jaeger's Co., New York, N. Y.

Warm, sensible underwear prevents many ills to which women fall heir. Direct special attention to this timely news. It concerns underwear our expert bought in New York at special price concessions. Main part of the story is told in the reduced markings.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

What underwear? Warmth isn't wholly a question of weight. You should be warm, but what is right for one isn't for another. The material that suits one doesn't please another; and occupation and work, and indoor and outdoor life are also to be considered. There's health as well as comfort in right underwear—perhaps more than in anything else a person puts on. All the weights—from almost the thickness of carpet to gauze; all the materials that are good, silk, wool, cotton, linen and mixtures; correct shaping—underwear that will fit; and a price range from the finest to the least cost.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

The home of good underwear.—It's our business to supply as good underwear for less money, or better underwear for the same money. Pick any style, quality or make and let us prove the statement.—Northway & Anderson, St. Thomas, Ont.

Real warm underwear is needed to protect your health. If you loose your vigor and sap your vitality you stop your income and increase your expenses. A small outlay will prevent all that. We will point out the merits of the good grades if you'll kindly come to this department.—Hahne & Co., Jersey City.

Wear this knit underwear and be comfortable. Not too heavy, not too light—underwear specially for the first cool days; high neck and long sleeves, well knit and perfectly proportioned; a better quality and better finish than can usually be had at these prices.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Ladies' fall underwear.—The decided change from summer to fall necessitates putting on heavier undergarments, and while our annual fall opening is reserved for later, the two following lines are taken from values which have just been received, and are very meritorious bargains in themselves.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Fall and winter underwear.—Just one or two more nights like last night and we'll all be hunting up last winter underwear—or buying a new lot. If it's buying a fresh lot, that's where we figure prominently. When it comes to materials and weights we have no end of variety. Men's, women's or children's—no matter what you want, we have it at a price to suit.—Wright's, Ogden.

For cool nights and sudden changes our line of new fall underwear is just the thing. We are offering this season the most desirable qualities at lower prices than ever before—the best fitting, most comfortable, durable and satisfactory.—The Hannan Store, Montreal.

Winter underwear for men and women. There is no uncertainty, no disappointment in any of our lines of underwear for men and women. Every piece of it is as good as can be made, the products of the best makers and sold at reasonable prices.—The A. Chapman Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Gentlemen, how are you fixed for winter underwear? It will soon be time to put on heavier underwear. It isn't good policy to wait until you are chilled before buying heavier underwear—cold days are sure to follow. We have confidence in our ability to please you. Our prices are right.—The Hub, San Bernardino, Cal.

There can't be good health unless the pores of the skin are free to throw off the waste tissues of the body. This freedom of the pores is assured to all wearers of Jaeger underwear. That is why physicians everywhere recommend it.—Dr. Jaeger's Co., New York.

Loeser values in underwear and hosiery have a place apart in the esteem of Brooklyn people. They have not been matched outside this store. There has seldom even been an effort to equal them. A business vast in magnitude and immense in prestige has been built up here. Now a cool May has set the underwear makers to unloading stocks, and several remarkable lots of hosiery have been bought in the past few days. The result is that to-morrow will present values which even here make a new record in some instances, and in almost every instance reach the best we have ever done.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

The only things that can stand up against a sudden fall in temperature. After all arguments are heard there is nothing to beat the Pure Natural Wool as a healthy garment for the body.—Allan's, Montreal, Can.

This underwear has a combination of recommendations peculiarly its own—the seams are beautifully finished, buttons are securely fastened, proportions are so exact that there is neither pulling nor drawing, and there is every desirable shape, weight and material.—Shepard Norwell Co., Boston, Mass.

“Oneita” combination undergarments for women bear a national—a world-wide reputation. Their worth needs no laudation by us. But the opportunity to buy Oneita garments at half price and less comes but once a year, and, as usual, we save you the most on them.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

The medical profession has indorsed this underwear for various reasons. For the woman or man of nervous temperament it is best because it is made on marvelous machines that weave it in the form of the body without rough seams of any kind—thus there is no irritation under the arms or in any sensitive part; it is as soft after a dozen washings as when put on—and just as elastic, giving to every movement. It is made of the finest Australian baby lamb and contains not one thread of cotton.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The experience of ten years has demonstrated beyond a doubt that this is the best underwear for men, women and children during the winter season. It gives vigor to the skin, comfort to the body and keeps you comparatively free from colds. In every way it is a vast improvement over the older style underclothing of wool, silk or cotton.—James McCutcheon & Co., New York.

These are the treacherous days—one hour warm, the other cold; but you can throw off all ills by keeping your skin warm, and only buy your underwear where you can depend on what they tell you. We are offering a splendid line of the celebrated “Forrest Mills” garments, which are known all over the country for their excellent qualities and beautiful finish.—Perlmutter's, Jersey City.

The “Arnold” knit goods have long proved their superiority for summer wear. The fabric absorbs perspiration, protecting the wearer from colds, clamminess or discomfort and the garments are so well made as to prove a constant satisfaction. For children, they're ideal, and mothers best look after their offspring's welfare when they buy “Arnold Knit Goods” for the little folks' wearing.—Yards, Trenton, N. J.

Jaeger summer underwear is a synonym for coolness with comfort. Clad in this light and porous fabric, you can pursue the even tenor of your way, assured of an even temperature for your body.—Eisenbach & Co., Brooklyn.

A vast collection—hundreds and hundreds of beautiful garments in materials, cut and trimmings suitable to the coming warm weather. The kind of muslin underwear we carry is too well known to need lengthy comment. Full sizes, generous use of material, well made, tastefully trimmed, are the chief characteristics. The prices we quote you are low prices. The merchandise is good. We do not sacrifice quality in order to quote you a low price.—Warren M. Crosby & Co., Topeka, Kan.

For old-fashioned comfort nothing can hold a candle to good reliable underwear. Inventory revelations have put our underwear prices on to toboggan slide.—F. M. Atwood, Chicago, Ill.

What a magnificent display of only worthy garments it is and what economy there is to be enjoyed in present purchasing—We need not take your time to tell you the “Whys and Wherefores” at the sale, for this store's reputation as undermuslin leaders has long since been established. No one thinks of questioning qualities or criticising cuts in lingerie that bears White's label. No matter how little they pay for it. These are garments that are correctly cut from well chosen materials, and carefully made by well-paid expert labor.—White's, Columbus, O.

A grand galaxy of muslin undergarments. Little prices sparkle their attractions. Here are the fine fabrics at figures you will gladly pay. Little priced luxury—elegant economy—perfect in fit, fashion and fabric.—Rosenthal Dry Goods Co., Peoria, Ill.

Attention is called to the following items in women's summer undergarments, made of thin muslins, soft cambrics and fine nainsooks, and which are excellent values at the prices. They are not the thrown-together, overtrimmed sort, but slightly, well made and tastefully trimmed—just such garments as you would make at home if time and patience permitted. The neat, practical sorts for summer wear.—Woodward & Lathrop, Washington, D. C.

For a great many years we have been compelling manufacturers to make underwear for us in better manner than they do for their regular trade. You will find the garments are better fitting, better made and better finished than those to be found elsewhere, and there are quite decisive economies in the prices.—Wanamaker, New York.

Time to change underwear. These warm days suggest thinner underwear, and we are showing the best lines in town.—The Hulz, San Bernardino.

Right spring underwear for women, men and children. Be ready with the spring underwear; the time for it is near—near enough to set forehanded people buying. Our stocks are full of good values.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Muslin underwear.—Saturday's freight brought us the greatest single consignment of muslin underwear this house has ever received—so much that at this writing we can only tell you of its newness, its daintiness and its cheapness—enough to give you a chance, if you wish it, to be the first to enjoy the splendid opportunities that such an excellent and extensive assortment holds.—Fourquarean, Temple & Co., Richmond.

Muslin underwear.—Tempting prices for such quality. Everything so bright, fresh and attractive about these garments. They are liberally cut and beautifully made, and the materials are of the good kind, despite the little prices.—Bailey's, Cleveland, Ohio.

Cotton underwear.—We are showing every good kind of cotton ribbed underwear for women and children—light, medium and heavy weights.—The Copper City, Anaconda, Mont.

Summer underwear.—You've experienced this spring weather business many times before, perhaps, and remember how "Old Sol" usually gets in his good licks before you hardly have time to realize that winter has actually disappeared. Summer underwear, according to our prognostication, will be very much in demand shortly and knowing ones will hie themselves to "a store for men" to supply the demand. Everything in underwear from cotton to silk, 50c to $8.00 a garment.—Daniel Bros. Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Glastenbury underwear is made of best pure Australian wool, and does not scratch; the process through which the wool is put makes shrinking impossible, so that each garment is guaranteed non-shrinkable. It assures protection against colds, rheumatism and changeable weather. If perfect satisfaction is not given through continuous wear of this underwear, money will be refunded.—The 14th Street Store, New York, N. Y.

To buy a suit of wool underwear that fits perfectly and know that it will continue to fit perfectly, no matter how often or how carelessly it is washed—that is the proposition for men to consider. We guarantee the unshrinkable feature—a new suit if one should ever shrink.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Beautiful imported French lingerie. The acme of elegance and refinement in dainty undergarments for women. We have never before had hand-made underwear so fine and dainty to sell for such small prices.—Geo. B. Peck, Kansas City, Mo.

Exhibit of Paris-made underclothes. To-day the little French room is ready to tell you all the secrets that Paris has been packing over to us for the last three weeks. All the new lingerie and trousseaux for this spring and summer are here. It is news that should interest Easter brides especially. What in Paris you could only see by going under 150 roofs, is here all under one roof—more than that, in the quiet, quaint little corner called the French room.—The Wanmaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Now the spring white sale. A storeful of tremendous values. Undermuslins, corsets, petticoats, waists and splendid wear for misses and children, breaking all records in savings worth while. Hundreds of thousands of new, fresh, fine muslin underclothes will be ready tomorrow—the annual spring white sale begins. They are good garments, in material, in workmanship, in style. They have been made for us in the past months in cleanly, well lighted factories, by girls and women who are well paid for their work. They are as excellent garments as you would make for yourself—as well shaped, as daintily trimmed. They are—and this is the difference between Abraham & Straus' white sales and other sales.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our annual April sale of muslin underwear and corsets. Tomorrow begins another of those matchless sales of women's muslin underwear—a department of the Ehrich store which has doubled, trebled and quadrupled its business by sheer force of the high character of its offerings, coupled with the lowest prices in New York. Great as have been previous sales, we expect this to far outclass them all. Hints of the values.—Ehrich Bros., New York.

Sneezing yet? Well, you will be shortly, if you are not now. Remedy? Our men's medium weight underwear, of course. It isn't safe to risk thin underwear these days—too many sudden changes in the weather.—J. F. Gregory & Son, Portland, Me.

Snow-white muslin underwear demands recognition. Beautiful needlework makes the demand imperative. And prices, too, they play a most important part and must appeal to you with singular force.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

French hand-made lingerie. For daintiness and exclusiveness of elaboration and effect, our models of imported lingerie are as representative as any to be found in the States.—Saks & Company, New York, N. Y.

Dainty new undermuslins. Every piece made right—you would be proud to claim these garments as products of the home workshop. All the new ideas are here.—G. C. Meisel, Port Huron, Mich.

Another great week for the petticoat sale. Such petticoat selling as we have hardly ever known, even the week before Easter, came last week. But such values as they were! And now, inspired by the enthusiasm of the white sale come forward more thousands of beautiful and serviceable skirts at prices which will hurry them to usefulness. The new spring petticoat is a necessity. To get such fine ones at such small prices is good luck. Will you share?—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We start at fifty cents with imported and domestic Balbriggan shirts and drawers fashioned of fine soft Egyptian yarn. Be his proportions what they may, no man is without the pale—the fifty cents series include all sizes. One dollar shirts and drawers of fine lisle thread in white or blue include the most famous brands of which the market boasts—some shops have the courage to ask a dollar and a quarter for them. Athletic shirts, short drawers and linen mesh or silk undergarments we present in a goodly variety at very modest prices.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

The immense purchases we make in underwear secures us concessions in prices that we give you the benefit of by offering you the very best garments to be had at a less cost than you would expect to pay for similar qualities. Your best interests should tell you to lay in your fall and winter supplies now.—Pettis Dry Goods Co., Indianapolis.

Cooler weather enforces the demand for heavier underwear, and those who know the invariable superiority of our assortments will not think of going elsewhere. Heaviest and finest silk garments, cotton or woolen vests, pants and union suits at prices enough less than those ordinarily asked to create a degree of wonder as to where our profit comes in.—Bamberger's, Newark, N. J.

Child's underwear.—Don't put off changing the little one's underwear from the light to the medium weight. Why not make your purchases to-morrow and profit by these special offers?—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Are you prepared for a cold snap? It is time to think about your coming underwear needs, and it is possible by purchasing here now to accomplish money saving of a kind that cannot be promised later on. The finest of silk garments and cotton or woolen vests, pants and union suits in assortments that guarantee a satisfying selection.—Bamberger's, Newark, N. J.

The nearest thing to a man's heart is his undershirt; it's necessary then that it should be of a quality to be depended upon. The Big Store's reputation for carrying dependable underwear grows year by year.—Hudson Bay Stores, Vancouver, B. C.

Notwithstanding the upward tendency in the price of cotton, some time ago we secured a case of this underwear at a price that would be impossible had we waited until now to buy it. Fine quality, serviceable vests and pants, made of clean carded white cotton; perfectly shaped and finished; in short—a notable, early offering of knit underwear that cannot be duplicated any place at the price.—H. M. Voorhess & Bro., Trenton.

This we count our master-effort—the most important sale of its character which we have yet conducted. It concerns what is, perhaps, the most comprehensive collection of undergarments to be found the whole town over—garments of an exceptionally high character, fashioned of the better grade of fabrics. Fine laces and exquisite embroideries subscribe their richness to the garments which are exceptionally generous in proportions. In their elaboration the power of good taste was exercised—good taste as the discerning understand it. The series of new and distinctive models demonstrate the ingenuity of the cleverest designers of two continents.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

To-morrow we open the first shipment of the celebrated Harvard underwear for women; all new fall and winter weights. The following are two very worthy styles in fine white cotton, best imported Egyptian maco yarn, soft and very elastic, with hand crochet, silk trimmed neck and fronts in vests, pants and equestrian tights; two weights; ribbed cotton, unlined, or heavy ribbed cotton, fleece lined, all styles.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

KNIT UNDERWEAR

Underclothes made as well as underclothes can be made in bright, clean, sanitary factories—women's muslin, nainsook and cambric undergarments, made generous in proportions, carefully cut, well sewed and every garment effectively fashioned and trimmed in the newest ways, are offered in the 1905 white sale.—Bloomington's, New York.

Most physicians recommend wool underwear, but on the other hand wool against the skin is an irritation that causes many of us to risk future health for present comfort. The problem is a hard one. But the Piqua underwear people claim to have solved it. They make union suits which are three-quarters wool and one-quarter cotton, and, what is the peculiar and attractive feature of the underwear, nearly all the cotton is thrown on the inside. One enjoys the comfort of the finest cotton against the body, with the far greater protection and warmth of wool. Isn't that luxury?—L. S. Ayres & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Just a little thoughtfulness will bring you to this sale. The weather demands that you wear heavier underwear to avoid bad colds and diphtheria. Besides you can make money by buying now and dodge a possible bill from the doctor. We speak in the truest kind of word when we say this sale has never been surpassed in saving chances.—Sheehan, Dail & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Hundreds of fresh garments brought to the tables every morning, and still the buying continues with a rush. We don't wonder women are enthusiastic. Loeser standard in undermuslins is pretty well known, but such values as these, such soft, fine materials, such perfection of cut, such careful workmanship and finish and at the same time such little prices, these make a new record even for this store.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

This is no idle boast—it is a statement of fact that should interest every man, woman and child. Chemists have examined it and pronounced it the best. Physicians have tried it and declare it the most healthful. It is excellent for athletes or men and women of outdoor sporting tendency, because it so quickly absorbs and dissipates perspiration, the mesh permitting free circulation of air to the skin. It is grateful to women and children because of its soft, non-irritating and cool feeling. We carefully tried and investigated all makes and produced this improvement on them all.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"If there were any such thing as one best underwear—we'd have it. But what's best for Jack may irritate John—we have many bests."—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York City.

Weather indications point to the immediate need for plenty of warm underwear, both for comfort and health. We are ready to supply a great many men with a great variety of warm underwear at many price grades—cost does not stand in the way of comfort.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

We've just hurried in a line of underwear that you'll thank us for—the very thing to wear these coolish days.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Our fall shipment ready for the first call. A broader and more comprehensive stock than ever before; every possible want has been carefully looked after; every good value we could find is here.—Stanley Mills & Co., Hamilton, Can.

That exacting standard of ours guards the character of every garment that finds a place with us—it makes it possible for us to stand back of every shirt or drawer which our imprint identifies, be it one of the balbriggan at fifty cents or one of silk at fifteen dollars.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Admittedly a most meritorious underwear sale. Values that mean big savings.—Fit is the main essential—and to show how they conform to the form, we have them displayed on forms, and the goods we sell are identical with the goods we show. Material counts for much, as only the best is good enough—at least that's the theory we work on, when we select the fabrics for these garments. Workmanship and finish are, however, the prime essentials—without proper sewing the garments are worthless. What's the use of buying things that will rip and tear the moment you try them on. Think of the time consumed in going over the sewing by hand.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women's summer underwear flying out now.—Crowds around the counters all to-day and yesterday. It is such weather as this as puts the store on its mettle. Assortments are immense. Nothing you can possibly want is missing. Every garment is so well made and carefully shaped that you will get comfort out of it as well as long wear. And the prices are very little indeed.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Summer underwear.—Right at the beginning of the heated term come very extraordinary bargains in staple and lightweight underwear.—Adam, Meldrum & Anderson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Avoid underwear that isn't just right.—Don't overburden yourself with unsuitable underwear from mere inertia. It may require a little experimenting to get the kind that suits you best—but it's worth doing, with the mercury soaring skyward. Every good kind of summer underwear, for men, women and children, is found here, without fuss or bother.—John Wanamaker, New York City.

Manufacturers' samples of muslin underwear.—Several hundred garments, not any two alike, including nightgowns, skirts, drawers, corset covers and chemises, the samples carried on the road by the traveling men of our wholesale department will be placed on sale to-day at less than the cost of production. Almost every quality manufactured is represented in this sale, and it is by far the greatest sale of muslin underwear ever held in the basement section.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Reliable in styles, qualities, sizes and prices. Remember that we carry the largest assortment of all styles and sizes of women's, children's and infants' underwear of every reliable make, in light weight Merion, Egyptian cotton, lisle thread and silk at incomparably low prices.—Gross, Strauss & Co., Worcester, Mass.

You won't have the slightest difficulty in finding in this collection the exact sorts of summer undergarments, stockings and socks you want. There's a pleasant combination of wide variety, favorable prices and reliable quality that makes it quite worth your while to fill your needs at Wanamaker's.—Wanamaker, New York.

"I dread putting on wool when cold weather arrives." This is a common statement of wool wearers. He dreads the cold because he catches cold easily. Wear the Dr. Deimel Linen Mesh Underwear and you will have nothing to dread. You can wear it the year round with absolute comfort.—The Deimel Linen Mesh Store, Toronto, Can.

We have devoted an entire window to the display of this particular underwear, simply because we believe it to be the best value for the money we have ever seen. It's derby ribbed cotton, correctly cut, sure to fit properly, will stand the roughest sort of washing, and guaranteed to give satisfactory wear.—Wentworth Clothing Co., Spokane.

Putting away the "laundry" sometimes exposes painful shortcomings in one's stock of underwear, stockings or socks—particularly at this stage of the season.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

This underwear means even temper and a cool body. Extra fine grade combed Egyptian yarn—long or short sleeves. Drawers made with double gusset and well finished. Pearl buttons and suspender tapes.—Bamberger's, Newark.

You have never seen the time that you could not use to advantage good hosiery and underwear. That's why this particular sale was arranged. We were able to pick up a number of lots at a saving, and plan that short selling to-morrow will do away with practically all of this merchandise.—The 14th Street Store, New York.

We have been selling high grade underwear and hosiery for men, women and children for the smallest prices of the year—and the business has gone ahead by leaps and bounds. Have you bought your share? These are some of the good things yet to be had in wide assortment.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Silk underwear. Among the many beautiful dainty kinds of silk underwear the artistic mind has conceived there is none quite so dainty and attractive as the magnificent array of Italian silk lingerie displayed in one of our windows. They appeal immediately to the genteel trade.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago, Ill.

There's one section of the store that the men folks will find extremely interesting to-morrow. You'll find scores of them in it from early until late Saturday night. It's the department where men's wool underwear is being sold at and below cost price. We have knifed the goods to the core, which the following quotations will show. Our space is limited and we must make room for our immense purchase of spring and summer goods soon to arrive.—J. R. Lane Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

This sale affords you an opportunity to buy men's undergarments that sell in a regular way for 75c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 for 50c. There are only a few of each style, including men's silk and lisle shirts and drawers, Jersey ribbed lisle shirts and drawers; union suits; fancy silk striped lisle shirts and drawers; balbriggans; light weight merino; light weight batiste; solid color balbriggans, and various kinds of wool underwear. Garments are perfect in every particular, and are style you will be wanting in the near future. It is well to provide for those needs; the saving is extraordinary.—Stie, Baer & Fuller Dry Goods Co., St. Louis, Mo.

KNIT UNDERWEAR

LACES

Special lace attractions.—We do not hesitate to say that—quality, variety and prices considered—there are few, if any, lace departments this side of Chicago that compare favorably with ours—a strong, broad claim, but we stand ready to convince you.—Kemp & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

We are justly proud of this display. The styles are beautiful and enriching—not so bizarre and eccentric as those of last season. Daintiness, refinement, is the keynote. Indeed, the story of the new laces is of absorbing interest, and the price side of the story is most interesting, too.—Kaufmann, Pittsburg.

Whirl of laces and embroideries. Whir-r-r. You've seen the wind eddying in a snowbank? That's what we expect to have about our lace counters Monday, a flurry in white. Why? Look at the news—half price. Clearance sale, you know. Out they go Monday with a whir-r-r—The Robert Simpson Co., Toronto, Ont.

Wafted from out among the snow capped mountains of Switzerland and from sunny France are the exquisite novelties now so elegantly displayed in one of our windows. They've come at fashion's bidding for autumn. Women of Rochester, are you going to let them in? Did you ever see anything more chaste or lovely? Never was there a day when this store so proudly displayed its laces as now. Surely our never tiring energy has been rewarded.—Beadle & Sherburne Co., Rochester, N. Y.

What woman does not revel in the possession of real hand made laces? A sale like this, which offers an opportunity to possess these coveted beauties for an unusually small amount of money, is one not to be overlooked. They are made of pure linen and wear and launder splendidly. This fact alone would class them among the wanted kinds. Then the artistic eye will feast on these dainty designs. Busy fingers will adorn the underwear with these laces that will make the plainest underwear perfectly exquisite.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City.

Laces are in greater demand now than for years back. We are displaying a great many novelties in all the varied makes, selected with care and discrimination, priced as interestingly as the qualities and patterns.—The Scott Dry Goods Company, Cleveland, O.

There's always a refreshing breath of newness about this lace store, which you appreciate.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

A remarkable offering of fine fashionable laces. Just at the moment—right in the middle of February, with all the spring and summer dresses being planned—what could be more attractive to thousands of women than this rarest of offerings of beautiful stylish laces at average half prices?—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

The new laces. Miles of the new laces are here in innumerable styles and patterns. Everything that's correct, everything that fashion sanctions, from the prettiest novelties to the styles that border on the staple. We've never invited you to select from quite so large, so comprehensive and so beautiful a lace stock as our present one. It holds high interest for every woman who would know what is newest in the lace world—and who desires to choose from a stock whose attributes are lavish quantity, great variety, character, worth and the fairest of prices.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg.

Laces! Laces!—We shall place on sale this week the largest line of fashionable laces at lower prices than have ever before been offered. Net top Oriental, net top Venise, net top point de gaze and Lierre laces, in all widths of edgings with insertions, or bands to match in white, cream and Arabian shades.—Gross, Strauss & Co., Worcester, Mass.

For my lady's eyes. Over a thousand pieces of Point de Paris and Valenciennes, the daintiest lace creations ever conceived. Those who know a 20-cent lace, know the extent of this bargain.—McConnell & Co., Scranton, Pa.

Beautiful summer laces at such little prices that there will undoubtedly be a tremendously lively demand for them. Included in this highly opportune sale are insertions and bandings in great assortments. It is a positive fact that at no time before have such attractive laces been offered at these prices.—Bloomington, New York.

Of course, you know how much in demand these laces are now for trimming those smart summer dresses, because they launder as nicely as the dresses themselves—they are wash laces and insertions—broken sets of fine French insertions—broken sets of fine French round mesh Vals., English Vals., and Clunys—odd widths Normandy and Point de Paris laces—white Cluny bands and laces—vast assortment for less than you ever saw them priced before.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

Greatest stock of laces ever shown in Pittsburg is now assembled at "The Big Store"—a gathering that embraces every new effect—as light as a cobweb or as heavy as the lace looms produce.

A superb collection; masterful in every detail, and of absorbing interest to everyone. To introduce a stock that is complete and replete we shall offer more than twenty thousand yards at less than half price to-morrow. The lots include all-overs, insertings, Venise laces, appliques, galloons, etc.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

This lot contains the trial strips of some of the leading manufacturers of Plauen and St. Gall, indicating the prevailing styles for the coming fall season. They are perfect in every particular, and the styles are entirely different from anything shown heretofore. We should have had this lot four weeks ago, but they were delayed in transit, so as the season is pretty well advanced we will put them on sale at remarkably low prices. If you do not need them now buy them for future use, as they were all made for the fall business. We mention just a few specials. Venise laces, appliques and insertions in white, champagne color and ecru.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Scarce hand-made antique laces. There is to be a craze for hand-made antique lace this spring. It's vogue has already begun. And it's scarce.—The Gamble-Desmond Co., New Haven.

Special showing and sale of antique, Cluny, net Venise, and Russian lace waists. Unusual interest surrounds this showing and sale, because of the superb styles and the unparalleled pricings. The values afford lovers of the beautiful and artistic in exclusive waists the supreme buying chance of the early season.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

Airy, fairy laces half price. If we could tell the beauty of this display of cobwebby filminess, these counterparts of the dew-bespangled creation of the insect which spins its silken threads at night to glisten in the glory of the May morning, it would make our lovely laces no more real. Come and see them. Here are some special reasons for coming.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn.

Sample lace sale continues to offer the best values of the season at 25c. Another day's selling like Monday's and we'll not have enough of these laces to continue the greatest sale of the season. Expected to have enough for all week, but the values have proven so good that smart dressers, dressmakers and milliners will not wait. They're all imported laces, purchased direct from Plauen by our Paris house. To-day's selection is complete and we repeat the original offering, probably for the last time, so do not fail to take advantage.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

These laces won't tarry here at these prices. Expressions of amazement were heard in united chorus from hundreds about our lace counters to-day. One woman was heard to whisper delightedly to a friend: "I just know they never intended to put these laces in the 10c assortment. They are worth 25c, I'm sure." And you'll have good cause to be enthusiastic over the values we have arranged for to-morrow.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

The most popular of laces—Yours at half usual prices.—We just purchased a lot of about five thousand yards of Lierre, Oriental, Repousse and net top Venise laces at a figure that was temptingly low, indeed, allowing us to quote these exceptional prices for to-morrow.—Bloomington's, New York.

Customers tell us we give the best lace service in the city. That is a compliment, but that we do so isn't an accident. Our prices are so nearly at the cost of production that thinking women often ask, "How much do the foreign workers get for labor?" That is sympathetic, but we have to continue securing enormous stocks to sell at these same low prices every week.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The legions of new laces are full of absorbing interest.—The fullest gathering we have ever assembled is crowding the lace section with newness and beauty. A showing of such endless variety that but one word—completeness—seems adequate to express it. The woman who seeks novelty finds a field of rich certainty here, while she who looks for elegance or daintiness sees their presence in hundreds of ultra patterns.—Fourquarean, Temple & Co., Richmond, Va.

Another notable sale of new laces and embroideries.—Thousands of yards of the newest and most desirable laces and embroideries, directly imported and offered at prices never quoted before.—Rothschild, Chicago, Ill.

A word to the wise often results in their obtaining first choice from displays of fresh, new goods. Early attention will give you preference from the entire new array of Point Venice and Irish Crochet Lace Cape Collars—and these adornments are going to be much in vogue. Cream, ecru and tan shades—in many patterns showing leaf, wheel and other designs, $1 to $4.98.—Burke's, Rochester, N. Y.

More new laces. Who can describe the spider's web? Who can picture these new laces which come here on Saturday to greet you this week? Never have we shown so much lace richness. No store in the world has a better or finer collection of laces than we carry—no store in the world—a broad assertion, but the laces are here to prove it. What will you say to these new robes?—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

To-morrow in the lace department is to be a bazaar day because of the unrivaled display of the most dainty, bright, fresh, new laces. Suitable for dresses, nightgowns, corset covers, chemises etc., and are the kind that give that charming air to all women's wear. Just the laces to make dainty femininity only the more winsome.—The 14th Street Store, New York, N. Y.

One of those periodical opportunities that are made possible by trade conditions brings this offering of pretty laces at a little more than half their regular prices. It is sure that you've never had a chance before to get such laces as these for so little. New and fresh laces—both the prettiest and the most practical sorts—in all the different widths that you'll want for trimmings. See the big counter display of galloons in serpentine and medallion effects and the handsome patterns in wide bands, up to five inches wide.—Boston Store, Birmingham, N. Y.

It is a show as well as a sale; a display of real laces which in breadth and variety and beauty has never been matched hereabout. There are hundreds of pieces fine enough to go in anyone's cabinet. There are real lace robes that have taken years to make. Yet rare and beautiful as these laces are, they may be bought for a fraction of their worth.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Latest novelties in lovely laces.—Our foreign offices are constantly on the lookout for novelties in laces and are instructed to forward the choicest and most exclusive things to us. That is why we lead in laces—why we show the latest things in advance of other houses and why we are able to sell at prices cheaper than they can be bought at wholesale in this market.—Adam, Mel-drum & Anderson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Lace news that is good.—Pleasure and profit go hand in hand in this lace. Here is a lot of the most pleasing laces and robes we ever had to tell about, and the prices are very, very much less than their real worth.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Navy blue and brown laces.—To trim the gown with laces exactly the same shade is one of the modes of the day—the idea came to us from Paris, of course. Since necessity is the mother of invention, it did not take the manufacturers long to comply with Fashion's mandate—the laces are here, just received them, ready for your inspection to-morrow.—Joseph Horne, Pittsburg, Pa.

This season, even more than ever before, our efforts to show the handsomest and most expensive stock of beautiful laces and lace robes have been crowned with gratifying success. On all sides we hear nothing but exclamations of delight and praise from those who come here to view our displays.—Bloomingdale's, New York, N. Y.

Every woman appreciates and loves beautiful needlework. It is a heritage from our grandmothers who spent so much of their time over the samples and embroideries that some of us treasure now as heirlooms. But in this more complex age one buys the beautiful needlework of German and French and Irish folk instead of making it. And the finer sort are expensive.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

An immense assortment of robes, reduced to a price that will sell them quick. Various styles of white net robes, some with single flounces, others with three flounces—some hand made Renaissance robes; also a few black span-gled effects.—Ehrich Bros., New York.

The plainer fabrics are pretty much all being made up with ribbons, laces, trimmings and other adornments; the early importations from Paris struck this keynote and American women responded readily to the suggestion. As a result we are on the threshold of a season of laces, ribbons and robes.—Boston Dry Goods Store, Los Angeles.

An opportune lace offering—opportune in the truest sense of the word. With the various summer gowns in preparation and all the other summery items that need the addition of lace to give them the grace and daintiness which is so desired of all things in the modish woman's heart, this item should prove of intense interest. The price-concession comes through an importer's determination to make a quick clearance of what he termed the last of a broken lot.—J. W. Robinson Co., Los Angeles.

French and German Val. laces, 19c to $2.75 values—5c to 69c a dozen yards. News even better than that which made such a stir last week—for the laces are finer, if anything, and the quantity is even larger. Everybody wants the French and German Valenciennes now—yards and yards of them are used for trimming summer frocks, waists and underwear. Prices are regularly pretty high and the stocks to be had are getting smaller. These are the little lots—mainly broken sets, that the importer was ready to close out at a fraction of their cost to him. All are exquisite in design and all are perfect. In many cases the laces and insertions to match.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Twenty-five thousand yards of laces were placed on sale Monday and more than half were disposed of in three days, due partly to the large orders of dress-makers and milliners. They cannot buy at wholesale at such low prices, much less at other stores. We give you this information believing that if you knew the saving was so extraordinary you would want to come at once and pick out a summer collection before the showing is depleted. At present the selection is complete, though not half so large as Monday.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

Get your laces here. It means big saving! An avalanche of marvelous lace values. There's to be lace on everything this season—the time is ripe—demand unprecedented. We have laces for ornament, laces for trimming, laces for entire robes. Buyers are improving these bright chances. We are very busy—the season only just begun and better than ever.—Newman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Splendid collection of laces at half price. Saving a dollar is a little matter—but when we say we can help every woman in Rochester to save money the movement becomes a very important matter. A recent transaction enables us to sell laces at prices that are half less than regular prices. Great lot of pretty kinds that are wanted for beautifying summer dresses. All fresh and new.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

The store is famous for its laces and should be. No other retail store in all America has the facilities for gathering laces in every foreign hamlet where fine work is done that we have through our connections. And so not only is the Loeser collection of laces the finest hereabouts, but the prices are always the lowest.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

A lace picnic. Something new perhaps—but still possible.—To-day we place on sale the over stock of one of New York City's big lace importers. This lace man frankly told us that he had too many laces—wanted cash for them—was overstocked. We listened to him—heard his tale of woe—his price also—and finally we bought a big lot of his laces—cheap. We are going to sell 'em in like fashion—and we feel certain that these laces and the prices attached will be productive of a lace picnic—the word picnic being used here in the large and general idea of “an enjoyable occasion—almost too good to be true.”—Crow & Whitmarsh, Cleveland, O.

Hand made Cluny laces and insertions.—The unprecedented popularity of these beautiful laces is indicated in their great demand among the leading Parisian coutouriers, who are employing them so extensively and so effectively in the designing of model garments. Our present displays include a very attractive representation of medallions and other effects in the finer qualities—all priced comparatively low.—Marshall Field Co., Chicago, Ill.

Special lace attractions.—We do not hesitate to say that—quality, variety and price considered—there are few, if any, lace departments this side of New York that compare favorably with ours—a strong, broad claim, but we stand ready to convince you.—Kent's, Cleveland, O.

An exposition of the new season laces, that you ought to see. Not a great big pile of doubtful patterns, just a splendid and most comprehensible assortment of the most desirable kinds. You find complete sets here.—Pickering's, Minneapolis, Minn.

Lace trade winners. Never has a new season been opened with such rare values. And such a great diversity of fascinating patterns as there is—no reason why every woman cannot impart individuality to her costume.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Our great displays of fine laces are now ready for the Christmas season. The range of qualities covers the rarest as well as the less expensive pieces, forming the largest and most complete line in this country. The present scarcity of real laces and the attendant high prices were anticipated in our immense early purchases. As a consequence, each of the following articles is priced lower than the same qualities have ever before been marked.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Twenty-five cents for $1 laces sounds out of the question, doesn't it? Well, it's a fact, in this phenomenal sale of manufacturers' trial lengths and sample strips direct from Plauen. We've received another great selection, better than any we've previously announced. You'll see every kind of fashionable laces right out in the bargain section—many creations you won't see elsewhere till autumn.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

From makers with surplus lots of pretty summer laces and out of our own stock as well, come these specially interesting groups for Tuesday's selling. Fine as the lace news has been here in the past few weeks, there has been perhaps no such variety of wanted laces for as little prices.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

One of the big ocean greyhounds brought us this lot—a direct importation—of dainty Swiss insertions, in styles that are now greatly in demand for white dresses and fancy white waists. The widths range from one-quarter inches. Patterns are the daintiest we have seen in many seasons.—Geo. B. Peck, Kansas City, Mo.

It is always possible to get laces to sell under the usual prices, if you don't care what sort of laces you get. But to get the laces most in favor; to get such laces, for instance, as the prettiest of German and French Valenciennes, and sell them for less than half price, is a different proposition. It is a sale of summer laces of the most wanted sorts which we announce to-day; a sale which could hardly occur outside the Loeser store.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Great sale of sample laces. These are a brand new lot for which we've been negotiating. We finally got them at our price, which means the best lace bargains ever offered in Chicago.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

Attend the opening of new laces. For wash fabrics and muslin underwear. A display that will interest every woman. The demand for laces will be enormous the coming season, and now is the time to make your purchases. Many pretty wash fabrics will be used that need the trimming laces.—Eastman Bros. & Bancroft, Portland, Me.

Rare lace occasion.—Signalizing the latest enlargement of that model lace section by values that can have no competitive counterpart.—The May Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Laces.—A spontaneous offering. Quite suggestive. Summer sewing yet to do? Then this is your opportunity. We have taken many styles you like and marked them at prices you'll be glad to pay.—Hale's, Sacramento, Cal.

Val. lace is to summer dresses what perfume is to June roses—and the greater your ambition to be the sweetest flower in society, the more lace you must put on your summer dress. You can well afford to put on all you can possibly carry at a price like this.—The Fair, Montgomery, Ala.

The new laces and women's neckwear. Parading themselves again to-day, proud as peacocks. With the novelties are the finest of the new Irish laces for fall, made in convents and by Irish peasants during long winter months. Lovely deep collars, flouncings, allover, edgings and insertions. While the designs always have, and always will, hinge on the tiny three-leaf shamrock, yet nobody ever tires of them.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Opening exhibition of laces, showing new laces, new embroideries, new trimmings. A beautiful and distinguished assemblage of novelties will be shown.—The New York Store, Crookston, Minn.

One of the best values we have ever given, and all women say that there is no place like The Home Store to buy embroideries and laces. In this lot are really beautiful patterns of all the new styles, designs for every conceivable purpose. Swiss, cambric and nainsook insertings, beadings and edges. Don't miss this item; there's a flood of opportunities for you.—The Bowland, Morehouse & Martens Co., Columbus, Ohio.

This is to be a great season for laces. All kinds will be used, the narrow valenciennes, the Oriental and the heavy Venice laces. In expectation of a big demand we bought about twice as many laces as we usually do. Among these are a great many lots which we are offering away under price.—J. G. Hislop & Co., South Norwalk, Conn.

Sale of laces 3c. An opportunity, a bargain opportunity, the result of the fact that this stock must be cleared for stock taking. We say these are bargains and you will say the same thing when you see the display. A special lot of cotton torchion laces, varying from one half to one and a half inches in width, in a bevy of assorted patterns. Broken sets—no insertions to match. The sale will begin promptly at 8 a.m. to-day.—Montgomery Fair, Montgomery, Ala.

New laces in a great sale. An immense stock of new and pretty laces will be ready to-morrow for prices which in many cases seem beyond the bounds of possibility. $6 galloons for 98c a yard and $7 galloons at $1.49 a yard are fair instances of the chances in the sale—and some of these laces are the identical styles which have been marked at the full prices in our stock and now have to be marked down in harmony with the other laces in the sale. There are at least 2,000 patterns altogether, and the qualities are as fine as were ever offered anywhere at full prices. Altogether we believe the sale is the greatest we ever held in May—a sale which will stir interest wherever the news of it is known.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Less than half for beautiful laces. Wide laces at that—an extraordinary sale that every woman will appreciate. The offerings comprise beautiful venise and Irish crochet allovers in white and cream—they are 18 and 20 inches wide and are shown in the prettiest designs imported this season. For waists, yokes and trimmings they are exceedingly appropriate—come early to-morrow.—Field, Schlick & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

A wonderful sale of lace and insertions. The best values offered this year. Unusual indeed have been the values offered in the lace store and immense has been the business in consequence, yet in this showing we have gathered together the greatest values by far of the year in Venise laces and insertions, oriental insertions in white, butter and ecru shades. In the lot will be found baby Irish, filet, handsome point gauze effects and many other effective designs—in many instances the prices are about half usually charged.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

65c German and domestic Valenciennes edgings and insertions, a piece of 12 yards for 45c. An interesting item of this time—when shirt waists and dresses and such are being made up for the summer, that will be incomplete without Valenciennes lace of some kind. Edgings and insertions in twenty-seven different designs (nearly all in sets), various widths and fine meshes. See window display of these.—Phila. Bargain Store, Trenton.

Wonderful, indeed, are the beautiful effects produced by modern lace makers. The combinations of net embroidery, artistic colorings and dainty needlework are far more handsome than it is possible to describe in mere words. The part that laces and trimmings play in the creation of a beautiful gown is a most important one. It is essential that the newest and most suitable design be chosen to harmonize with the material and style selected. The most careful attention is paid to the selection of our laces and trimmings. Our prestige in these lines is the result of years of care that only the highest qualities and most correct styles shall find a showing here.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Meuser Bros., New York, importers of laces and embroideries, recently threw on the market the entire stock of a St. Gall manufacturer. The sale was remarkable for the amount of stock involved, and the prices so low as to immediately create a sensation among buyers from all sections. In spite of the fact that our stocks were already complete, we wired our New York representative to secure us a share of this unusual offering. He snapped up 25,000 yards of the choicest values, and in consequence it is our pleasure to invite our customers to a veritable feast of bargains—without exception the keenest, most tempting values ever offered in this department.—Donelan's, Ottumwa, Ia.

Laces for handkerchiefs. Handkerchiefs make dainty gifts. If you give one made by your own hands it will be appreciated all the more. We want to direct your particular attention to a lot of laces appropriate for handkerchief making that is now displayed on our lace counters. In many instances the edges and insertions match, while in other cases there are separate edges to be used with lace footing or beading.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City.

Laces and embroideries. Every day we hear the expressions of approval of the goods shown in this department; this from patrons who overlooked the fact that we carried full assortments of laces and embroideries. Come for these specials to-day and get acquainted.—Sullivan's, Springfield, O.

Laces for all spring and summer; never before has Omaha shown such an enormous variety of these much wanted laces.—The Bennett Co., Omaha, Neb.

This is indeed a timely offering in high-grade laces. The prices are worth investigating. Every piece bears the hall mark of all that stands for cultivation and refinement of taste.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

Fine Laces—Thousands of Yards at Half Actual Values.—A great pre-inventory clearance, which will prove one of the most remarkable value-giving events in the history of this section, has been planned for this week—beginning this morning. Real values have been almost totally disregarded in our desire to close out enormous quantities of odd lots and remnant lines. Beautiful designs in straight bands and irregular galloons will be included in all widths in white, cream and ecru. Practically our entire stock is represented—especially the more desirable designs and qualities.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

In looking for the most correct trimmings and laces for your new Easter gown, do not overlook our assortment, claimed by many the best and most moderately priced in the city. All the latest styles are here and most of them exclusive.—The G. W. Robinson Co., Hamilton, Can.

A greater showing, a greater variety, a greater season than ever is starting for embroideries, white goods and laces. Come and see our line even if you are not ready to buy just yet. We'll take great pleasure in showing you these pretty goods.—W. H. Smith & Co., Wilmington, Del.

These have made the house of Gayfer & Co. renowned. We have a tremendous stock of dainty and beautiful pieces and we carry exclusive designs. Valenciennes, Mechlins, Cluny, torchons, motifs, and allovers in laces, and an immense and swell stock of nainsook, Hamburg and Swiss embroideries, allovers and motifs. While you are in the city be sure to inspect these and you will undoubtedly agree with us in pronouncing them the most exquisite merchandise you ever saw.—Gayfer's, Mobile.

We have made unusual plans this week to hold the most important sale of laces and embroideries. We will devote the entire center aisle of our big store to this purpose. We have sold during the past month more laces and embroideries than all other stores in the city combined. We do not say this in a boastful way, but simply to emphasize the fact that buying and selling as we do—thousands upon thousands upon thousands of yards—our facilities are so great that we are enabled to give you newer styles, better qualities, lower prices and greater assortment than can be found in any store in the South.—Hammel's, Mobile, Ala.

One by one, boxes of new things have been coming from abroad, until to-day there is an accumulation fit to set before the Queen. More hand-made Irish lace than can be seen in Madison Square Garden at the Exposition now going on! Chief among this is the Baby Irish, and next comes the novelty Irish lace, made in France and Austria—but made by hand. In addition to these, an extensive collection of machine-made laces from St. Gall, Switzerland, and imitation Valenciennes of every width. Among the blouse patterns see the French hand-embroidered designs on net and the finest handkerchief linen. We can show you how they are to be made up, having studied the models closely in Paris. Embroidered laces and lace embroideries of every sort are on display. New all-overs, bands and galloons among the embroideries and delicate things, with a touch of gold and silver, to be used on evening gowns.—The John Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Every well-informed woman knows the possibilities of the lace robe. The artistic work is done up by expert foreign needleworkers. Each robe contains ample quantity of material, the skirts being finished all but the band; and the materials for the waists allow them to be made up according to individual taste and requirements. For this reason an offering of this sort has no drawbacks. While these lace robes were imported last year, they offer the same possibilities to the clever woman or dressmaker as so much fine lace would present. They are not designed by any arbitrary style, but can be made up to conform to the very latest pattern; and the purchaser can still benefit by the reductions that are the most stirring we ever presented on fine dress materials such as these. The superb possibilities of the robes will be best appreciated when they are seen.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Val. laces half-price to-day. More than two hundred pieces of fine German and French valenciennes edges and insertions will be sold to-day at exactly half-price. They consist of a lot of broken pieces, odd lines and slightly soiled and rumpled ends. Laundry will fix all that easily enough, however. At regular prices they range from 5c to 40c. a yard. Choose to-day from 2½c. to 20c. yard.—N. B. Blackstone Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

LAUNDRY

"What is the matter with Fido?"

"Oh, isn't it horrible? I gave him to the laundress to wash, and she starched him."—Stray Stories.

Have you seen any carpets that have been cleaned by us? If not, call on your neighbors and see theirs, and we know you will be delighted, as we clean them as you never had them cleaned before. Compressed air is the only way.—Lewis Laundry Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

The good old way. Are you away from home? If so, let us do your laundry, as mother would do it. We sew on buttons, mend rents. "The good old way" preserves the clothes, saves you worry and money. A trial package will convince you that our way is best.—The Model Laundry, Omaha, Neb.

Gaining wisdom. We do not profess to know it all. We are gaining wisdom right along in the laundry business, notwithstanding the fact that we have been doing so for many years. There is always something new for progressive people to learn. And we claim to be progressive. We want progressive people to come to us with their laundry work. This is a matter of common interest that needs no elucidation. Bring us your work and we'll guarantee you perfect satisfaction.—Robertson's Laundry, Saginaw, Mich.

Good dress needs good laundering. A bulged-out or wrinkled shirt front, or a badly-ironed shirt band can spoil a man's appearance about as completely as anything else we know of. Men who have Blakely laundering have almost forgotten these annoyances—it's been so long since they experienced them. And they date their satisfaction from the week in which they tried the Blakeley Laundry, Trenton, N. J.

The tips of wing collars laundered here are shaped properly, the same as when new. Trial will prove it.—The Union Laundry Co., Trenton, N. J.

Why collars crack. You'll often find, among your new laundered collars, some that are scratched or blistered on the seam. That is, unless we do your laundry work. It's not a necessary evil, either. The explanation is simple. The seam of a double-fold or wing point collar should be evenly dampened before folding. Otherwise it blisters or cracks.

We have a machine to dampen those seams. It must dampen them evenly, for it does it with mechanical precision. And the girl that operates it knows her business. You'll get no cracked collars back from us.—The Home Steam Laundry, Waterbury, Conn.

Two men made a bet as to the efficiency of their respective laundries. One got a "cold deal"—a ruined shirt, frayed collars and cuffs. The other one was wise enough to deal with us. He's got the money. Do you want a broader hint? Well, we'll go further. If our laundry work doesn't suit you, don't pay us one cent.—Gasner's Union Laundry, Schenectady, N. Y.

Patronize the City Steam Laundry and my valet department, because our motto is perfectly-dressed linen and perfectly-kept clothes. Our laundry is equipped with the most modern laundering facilities. We realize that the best is the cheapest, and our work speaks for itself and is pronounced superior to other laundry work. Give us a trial order, and you will be convinced. Telephone or send post-card and a wagon will call for goods.—City Steam Laundry, Hamilton.

Do you know that we will mend your shirts, darn your socks, and patch your underwear without charge? We produce the best washing and ironing in the world.—Cream City Laundry, Milwaukee.

Do you have blue Monday at your home? We have an antidote; send your washing to the Salem steam laundry and have it done at our new household list prices. If you have not received a list get one, all machine work ironed ready for use, all starch work ready to iron. This is not only the best, most satisfactory, but the cheapest for dependable work; a trial will convince.—The Salem Steam Laundry, Salem, Ore.

Delighted first, last and all the time are the patrons of the Troy laundry. Clean work, time, skill and patience work out the salvation of your linen and other washables if they go through our deft hands. Yet, strange to say, our price list is as modest as most.—Troy Laundry, Binghamton, N. Y.

The money you spend on your laundry is out of your cash drawer, not out of your pocket, and if spent at the Toilet Laundry, it will get best results.—Montréal, Can.

Gratification and satisfaction is always shown on the face of the man whose linen is laundered at Mooney's. No saw edges, torn button holes or streaked linen leaves our laundry. Everything is laundered to the demands of the most fastidious in ladies' shirt waists or men's linen or colored shirts, collars or cuffs.—Mooney Bros.' Laundry, Joliet, Ill.

Leaders for wash day. Our wash day requisites are all of superior quality. The latest improvements in a washing machine or wringer count for a great deal. Why not have the newest models when they cost no more than the others? The work of the laundry has been greatly lessened by modern invention. You should see our spring showing in laundry needs.—Hudson's Bay Company, Winnipeg, Can.

We all live to die, but do not all dye to live. "Winter," that word means a good deal in the line of heavy clothing. We can clean or dye and renovate your heavy coats or suits, and put them in first class order. We have the best of velvet collars and trimmings. All kinds of altering and repairing a specialty. Baby robes and children's furs cleaned equal to new. Opera cloaks, gowns, kid gloves and slippers cleaned satisfactorily.—Artistic Parisian Dye Works, Schenectady, N. Y.

Why not have the best? It costs no more. When you buy anything you want the best you can get for the money. This applies to laundry work as well as anything else, and if you follow this rule you will see that your bundle comes to us. You will find your linen will last longer and look better. Our wing point and lay down collars are so laundered that they don't break or blister. They also fit the neck which insures comfort to the wearer. Our colored shirts retain their original color because they are washed in clear soft water supplied by our own water purifier and softener.—Iowa Steam Laundry & Dye Works, Ottumwa, Ia.

A full dress occasion makes superior laundry work absolutely essential—that shirt front with the swallow-tail must be spick and span. If you have the least care for your appearance you will make no miss by putting your linen into our careful hands. Par excellence laundry work here.—The Gasner Laundry, Schenectady, N. Y.

Your tie slips easily into place without any jerking or pulling and without spoiling the set of the collar if we do your laundering. We make this possible by ironing the inside of the collar smooth, and by giving the collar just the correct shape so the tie won't stick or bind. All important work done by hand.—New Method Laundry, Winnipeg, Can.

It's a poor way to have your washing done. There's no washerwoman in Saginaw that can give your linen the polish and elegant appearance that we can. We take great pains with your laundry and it won't come home with buttons off, sleeves ripped and shirt fronts torn. We make elaborate claims because our laundry work warrants them. Some people are satisfied with inferior laundry work because they have never seen any really perfect laundering. We'll call anywhere.—Robertson's Laundry, Saginaw, Mich.

We study your interest ahead of our own. It's not philanthropy either. It's simply sound business policy to please you with meritorious service. Considering the moderate charge we make, our laundry is about the most economical shop in town. If we cannot win your approbation we might as well quit the business. But we can win it after you have received a sample of our work and do a little judging. We use not only soft, but pure water.—Newark Steam Laundry, Newark, N. J.

Dresses and walking costumes soon begin to get travel-stained and dirt-spotted. They cannot be thrown aside on that account—they cost too much money. The better plan is to let us undertake their complete renovation and we will guarantee to make them look like new—for several cleanings, anyhow. And when they cannot be cleaned any more successfully, we will dye them for you in any required shade, so that they will still look as if new garments.—The Modern Laundry & Dye Works Co., Ltd., Winnipeg, Can.

Blistered linen is in nine cases out of ten caused by worn out machines and old methods. We have eliminated all worry on that score by installing new machines for the linen, getting the proper degree of moisture before ironing as a result. The decidedly objectionable blister never appears on shirts, collars and cuffs laundered by us. If you would have your linen laundered "just right" see that your next bundle comes to us. We think we can give you just what you want.—Iowa Steam Laundry & Dye Works, Ottumwa, Ia.

Rough dry. Our way gives the clothes a most thorough washing. They are returned correctly starched and the flat pieces nicely ironed. The price is such that no housewife through a sense of economy should be compelled to do the wash at home. Our new mangle irons table linens with a finish that brings out the pattern of the goods, and this adds much to the appearance of the table. If you have never had your table linen ironed on this machine you cannot appreciate the work until you do.—Iowa Steam Laundry and Dye Works, Ottumwa, Iowa.

The mystery of success. Those intangible somethings called fate, luck, etc., to which is often ascribed the success or failure of the launderer has no place in a modern laundry. Certain supplies and methods applied with a reasonable amount of judgment will as surely repeat success time after time as certain others will repeat failures. In our plant every step is taken with knowledge and reason so that the results are the cause of no surprise. A thoughtful consideration of these facts and results produced are all we ask.—Iowa Steam Laundry and Dye Works, Ottumwa, Ia.

Your duds—our suds and our facilities for cleansing the former in the latter, combined with thorough rinsing, correct finish, and with brains used through every process, make Blakely laundering not only the standard by which other laundering might be judged, but that by which it is judged. It's wise to stick to that which is standard. We call for bundles.—Blakely Laundry, Trenton.

The time to test our work is now while the social season is on and full dress is the proper thing. Full dress shirts, collars and cuffs must be snowy white and ironed nicely or the effect is spoiled. The only difference between your linen as we launder it and new is the price. Why not test our work to-morrow? We are at your service.—The Grand Forks Steam Laundry Co., Grand Forks, N. D.

Do you have blue Monday at your home? We have an antidote; send your washing to the Salem Steam Laundry and have it done at our new household list prices. If you have not received a list, get one. All machine work ironed ready for use, all starch work ready to iron. This is not only the best, most satisfactory, but the cheapest for dependable work; a trial will convince.—The Salem Steam Laundry, Salem, Ore.

It is not only done, but it is well done. Manager Leach talks: If you are not a patron of this laundry, become one. We repair your garments for you without any extra charge. Your clothes will last longer and look better if we launder them for you. The Bixon finish excels—for it means a little better laundry work. Phone 666. Our wagons go everywhere. Express companies will bring us your out-of-town work.—The Dixon Laundry Co., Fargo, N. D.

We are in the swim and making rapid strokes to win public favor more and more. We are not drifting with the tide, but rather against the stream of opposition. We can keep our heads above water without fear of being swamped or sinking, because we always carry the life preserver of "honesty" to support us in the ebb and flow of trade.—Witter's Laundry, Saginaw, Mich.

Shiny, gloss finish is not proper or stylish finish for gentlemen's collars and cuffs. Furthermore, gloss finish is injurious to linen. Wear always natural linen finish. This finish can be had at Star Laundry, Columbia, S. C.

Do you have blue Monday at your home? We have an antidote; send your family washing to the Pond Lily Laundry and have it done for five cents per pound. Table linen and bed linen ironed—wearing apparel washed and starched ready to iron. This is not only the best, most satisfactory method, but the cheapest for dependable work.—Pond Lily Laundry Co., New Haven, Conn.

Would you know our laundry is already so great and still growing greater? Only the finest of fine washing and ironing is allowed to pass our doors. We use the best soap, the best starch, the best labor.—Cream City Laundry, Milwaukee, Wis.

The beginning and the end of our effort is to produce good washing and ironing. We know the secret and we use it. Good soap, good starch, good labor—these never fail.—Cream City Laundry, Milwaukee, Wis.

No more sloppy wash days for Columbus housewives. At the Capital City Laundry all flat pieces, such as table cloths, napkins, towels, etc., are washed and ironed, wearing apparel is washed, starched and sent home ready to be ironed; all the housewife has to do is to dampen and iron wearing apparel as she needs it—and the price is but 5 cents a pound.—Capital City Laundry, Columbus, O.

Do you want good work? Send us a trial bundle and we will show you what excellent work we can do.—Fall River Laundry Co., Fall River, Mass.

The wicked stand in slippery places, but the wise man patronizes the Ogden Steam Laundry, Ogden, Utah.

Satisfactory laundering is only made possible by employing a well-trained force of expert workpeople, using up-to-date appliances and following methods whose correctness has been proven. It's this sort of laundering which we not only promise, but can give to our customers, and do give it.—Blakely Laundry, Trenton, N. J.

Spring cleaning is near at hand. Send your curtains, bed clothes, etc., to us and have them cleaned. Any article that should be dry cleaned will be taken care of by our French dry cleaning process. You may want your last year's spring suit cleaned, to wear until you get your new one made. Let us dry clean it. We will make it look as good as new. Family washing done at reasonable prices. Our wagons go everywhere.—Muskingum Laundry, Zanesville, Ohio.

Built and equipped at a cost of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000.00). In all the world no laundry like this. Have we an agency in your town? If not, we need a good man to handle our work in every town in the State. Write us for particulars. Only steam and electricity used in producing "a gentleman's finish." Send us a trial package.—Lloyd Laundry & Shirt Mfg. Co., Charleston, S. C.

Lace curtains cleaned. Do not fold your curtains up and put them away without first having had them cleaned. Drop us a card. We will call for them and clean them for you at small cost, guaranteeing satisfactory work, and we will then return them to you or store them throughout the summer and deliver them in the fall when you say so. The cost of this service runs from 50c a pair up.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Don't worry about your washing. This is the time when every housewife is busily engaged in cleaning house. She doesn't want to waste her valuable time trying to wash clothes in the yellow, muddy river water. Send your clothes to us. They will be returned pure, clean and white. We have the newest and most improved machinery known. Positively no tearing.—Muskingum Laundry, Zanesville, Ohio.

If the color doesn't suit, let us dye it some other color. If it is a garment of good quality it will dye perfect. The finer the goods the better the work. Don't forget that. Gents' hats dyed, blocked and trimmed. Don't throw away your hats, let us make new ones of them.—Iowa Steam Laundry and Dye Works, Ottumwa, Ia.

A collar's life and a shirt's existence depends greatly on who launders them. Some laundries will use up a collar or shirt in two or three visits—others again are not so rapacious; but by proper treatment they can be laundered from 25 to 30 times before their fabric succumbs to the ravages of time and wear. The Gasner laundry will save you money in this respect. Family washing, 6c lb.—Gasner's Union Laundry, Schenectady, N. Y.

For shirts that are white and duds that are clean, this laundry of ours is peculiar. A trial bundle ought to show what others learned so long ago, that Blakely work is sweet and clean, and none so good was ever seen. Try it for proof.—Blakely Laundry, Trenton.

A kicker is an unknown quantity here. Dissatisfied patrons of indifferent laundries stop kicking—cease from troubling—when they commence sending or bringing bundles to us for cleaning, starching and ironing. What we don't do to washable clothing isn't worth doing. We'll get your commendations when we wash a week or two for you.—Troy Laundry, Binghamton, N. Y.

The best is none too good for you, especially so when the cost is no more than you have to pay for inferior work. Your next batch of soiled linen send to Mason's. We know that linen laundered by us will be done better and more satisfactory than by any one else. But don't take our word. Ask any of our customers.—Mason's Steam Laundry, Sacramento, Cal.

As in a Looking Glass.—The man who believes in "good form" finds himself depicated—duplicated, as it were—when he sees his reflection in the mirror. Aside from clothing, his linen is important. We launder them—everything else requiring washing, of course. We want your patronage; you will want our services when you know us. Let's get acquainted. Special rates on family washings.—Bluff City Laundry, Omaha, Neb.

Good Laundry Work Tells Its Own Story.—We have a reputation for turning out high-grade work. Our customers praise our work because we do it well. We do the best. Remember, if you leave your order with us you are sure of prompt service and satisfaction. One trial will convince you that our laundry ought to be your laundry.—Mason's Steam Laundry, Sacramento, Cal.

A sore point it is with some laundries to remind them of the superiority of our work, but we claim and reiterate that we do the best class of work in the laundry line of any establishment in Oregon, and our patrons will bear us out in our statement. If you bring or send your laundry work here you will be our patron always.—Salem Steam Laundry, Salem, Oregon.

A good front is very essential—an index of refinement—the beauty of our work is required by up-to-date people. We use wheat starch, which permeates every fiber of the linen. If the linen is not clean, it is very perceptible. Our up-to-date machinery dampens, folds and shapes all styles of collars and cuffs. We preserve the life of the linen. Fine work on table and bed linen. Special rates to hotels and lodging houses. Make the change to-morrow. Satisfaction attached to every bundle.—Los Angeles Laundry Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Surely our methods are not miracles. They're just so far above the average that you can't help but see the difference. Send us a trial order. Our finish is town talk.—Lackawanna Laundry, Scranton.

Cascade means lots of water. We do work for a great many people who don't care to do their own washing during the warm months, and when it gets warmer they like the arrangement so well they continue and there you are. Try us.—Cascade Laundry, Great Falls, Mont.

The wise ones know when they are on to a good thing; that is why our customers stand by us. They have given our work a fair trial and we have proven our ability to do the best and most careful laundry work in town. Let us prove it to you. A postal will do the business.—Monarch, The Soft Water Laundry and Dye Works, Pueblo, Colo.

We wash for the family. There are three methods of doing family washings—do it yourself, hire a wash woman or send it out. The latter way is the only correct way—if you send it to the right place. For only five cents a pound we do family washings, rough dry, starching all pieces to be starched and ironing the bed and table linen, towels and handkerchiefs. Satisfaction guaranteed.—Westcott's Laundry, Utica, N. Y.

We aim to be the best in all of our laundering, and it's a notion of ours that the laundry with such an aim will get nearer to perfection than those who are content to do the well-enough sort of work. Try us with a few bundles, and see how superior our laundering really is.—Blakely Laundry, Trenton, N. J.

A rich man who has been our patron for many years was asked if any special reason caused him to be such a steadfast customer. He replied: "I have made my money by sticking to good things when I found them." Enough said.—Cream City Laundry, Milwaukee, Wis.

Muddy water will not make clothes clean, but water we use is not muddy. At home where you have no means of filtering the water, you can't get the clothes white and clean. Then, too, what's the use of freezing yourself this cold weather when we can do your washing so cheaply. Our wagons will call and get your clothes, then deliver them to you.—Muskingum Laundry, Zanesville, Ohio.

The more critical a man is the better he's likely to like it. The pains we take with his linen adds much to his dressiness, and he can rely upon every bundle of laundry coming back to him in perfect condition. Try us with dress shirts. We're especially strong there.—Blakely Laundry, Trenton, N. J.

Yes, if you're pushed for time we'll turn your laundry out in quick time and right. No laundry in the city has better facilities for turning out rush work. Let us have the work in the morning, you can wear it at night, if necessary.—Parkersburg Steam Laundry, Parkersburg, W. Va.

In fashionable attire your laundry is the most conspicuous feature of your apparel. Therefore requires more attention than other articles of wear. We'll do it up for you in a style that'll give you comfort and pleasure.—Star Laundry, Lansing, Mich.

Dress shirt laundering ought to be just about right. A bulged-out shirt-front is a nuisance, and a limp one intolerable. We have special machines for dress shirt finishing. They press the fronts, instead of ironing them; make them stiff as a board, absolutely straight, perfect-fitting and ideal for dress wear.—Blakely Laundry, Trenton, N. J.

Three months or one year, which? Would you prefer to have your linen wear out in three months or last one year, which? We believe you would prefer the full year, wouldn't you? Well, the machinery, methods and skilled labor we employ make the average shirt last one year. This laundry gives you the best work and reduces your linen bill. Could you ask more? Our wagons call everywhere.—The Union Laundry Co., Trenton, N. J.

All the waters of Niagara couldn't make your laundry as clean as our home-method laundering, though they'd probably tear your collars, cuffs, wash waist coats, etc., to pieces, as some second-grade laundries do. One thing accounts for the destruction of many pieces of clothing—the use of acids. That's barred in this establishment. We call for and deliver goods, have a 'phone and price our work fairly.—Fred N. Smith, Propr., Lansing, Mich.

The linen we launder is not crushed in ironing, but is carefully ironed by very carefully padded machinery. There is a certain stiffness about our work that appeals to everyone. While the work is stiff, it has a pliability that makes it conform perfectly to the wearer. So carefully do we watch the details that we're sure we can please you. May we send to-day for a trial package. Our wagons call everywhere.—The Union Laundry Co., Trenton, N. J.

For a happy new year start in right away to have your laundry work done at Gasner's. With our capable efforts in your behalf your linen will look clean, will be clean, and you will be comfortable in the knowledge that your shirts, collars, cuffs and all the rest do you credit. Send us your first bundle for the new year.—Gasner's Union Laundry, Schenectady, N. Y.

A first-rate polish isn't all you get when we do your laundry work. You get the very best work we can do—careful work that makes the linen snowy white, but does not wear it. You get prompt, polite service. You get any special favors as to the work you may ask for, you get everything a good laundry should furnish.—Troy Steam Laundry, Galesburg, Ill.

Men and women who admire quality in laundry should investigate the superiority of our work. It is noticeable in all classes of laundering, but particularly on full dress shirts, fine shirt waists and other garments that require skill and care to produce the best results. Send us your bundle this week and we will show you what it is possible to accomplish by high-class laundering. 'Phone 2890 and our wagon will call.—Mrs. Speth's Domestic Laundry, Kansas City.

The property of a gentleman receives our best attention and is laundered in that perfect manner for which The Troy Laundry has become famous. Cuffs, collars and of course, shirts are treated to just the right quantity of water, soap, starch and iron. Negligee shirts are not made stiff and starched goods soft. Exactly right is the verdict on our work.—The Troy Laundry, Ogden, Utah.

Sickel's New Method Laundry. Strictly high class work. Why not patronize the best.—Sickel's, Burlington, Iowa.

Good laundering doesn't happen. It's the result of steady, determined effort along correct lines. You get it when you send us your bundles.—Troy Laundry Company, Reno, Nev.

We do mending and sew on buttons free. Notice the finish, color, style, fit and length of time your linen wears. You will find that in these points and many others we always lead. Let us show you this week.—National Laundry, Great Falls, Mont.

Up to us to do all work entrusted to us promptly and to the "Queen's taste." The War Eagle Laundry is many steps in advance of that of others. The home laundress has not the time or experience to equal our work and the ordinary washerwoman has not the means or the ambition.—War Eagle Laundry, Knoxville, Tenn.

Some Whys. Why does the public look to the Ogden Steam Laundry for the best work? Why is it that the Ogden Steam Laundry has two-thirds of the laundry work? Why should all the people ask for the Ogden Steam Laundry? Why is it that out of three-fifths of the laundry work done by the Ogden Steam Laundry they are still increasing? All because the work is done right and promptly. Try us.—Ogden Steam Laundry, Ogden, Utah.

We give our personal attention to all our trade and assure you if any one can give satisfaction, we do. Send down, or phone us and give us a trial. 'Tis all we ask.—The Home Laundry, Paducah, Ky.

The rough dry way is still as popular as ever. It is so convenient our customers have decided it is just as good a proposition in good weather as it was during the winter. We have proved we can do the family wash better and cheaper than it can be done at home.—Iowa Steam Laundry & Dye Works, Ottumwa.

What Santa Claus says about our laundry work is the opinion of one who has years and experience to back him; therefore it goes, and you will find as he has, that we keep our promises, treat our customers right and clean and do up their linen in a style irreproachable for neatness and finish.—City Star Laundry, Harrisburg, Pa.

Goodness gracious! It's surprising to see the difference there is between our laundry work and the old fashioned kind. Let us prove to you that our laundry's ways are winning ways.—Crystal Laundry, Spokane, Wash.

Save yourself all the bother of carrying your laundry bundle to us by leaving your address here. Our wagons collect and deliver promptly. Cleanly laundered linen, without a moment's thought on your part is the service we offer. Don't forget to 'phone us your address.—Grand Forks Steam Laundry Co., Grand Forks, N. D.

New Year's is past, but resolutions are still in order and no better resolution can be made by you than to send your apparel here regularly for dry cleaning, dyeing or pressing. The looks of your garments will be pleasing to you when they are returned.—The Grand Forks Steam Laundry Co., Grand Forks, N. D.

White shirt waists and shirts laundered here are certainly and properly handled and returned to you looking like new. Phone us.—The Union Laundry Co., Trenton, N. J.

Who does your laundry? Does it always come back on time? Is every piece white and nice? Is it ever without spot or blemish—is it just as splendid as you could ask for? There are never any disappointments at The Capitol City Laundry, Columbus, O.

Your shirt looks well only when it has been laundered properly. The best fitting shirt, if laundered improperly, will not fit right on you. We launder your shirts to fit. We take good care of them, too, and leave the button-holes as good as we find them.—J. W. Brown, Binghamton, N. Y.

The coming man will always receive attention because he will always see to it that his clothing and linen are irreproachable. Try our facilities for laundering shirts, collars, cuffs, handkerchiefs, underwear, etc., etc., and you will thank us for bringing the name of our laundry to your notice. A postal will bring further particulars.—Bluff City Laundry, Omaha.

You can escape from trouble by taking your linen and colored shirts, fancy vests, duck or linen trousers to a first-class laundry, where satisfaction is guaranteed. We launder your shirts, collars, cuffs and also ladies' shirt waists, in a manner that defies competition by any other laundry in Lansing. Try our work on your summer garments, and it will save you from saying cuss words.—Star Laundry, Lansing, Mich.

You will look and feel better if you have your laundry work done by the Model Steam Laundry, Grand Forks.

Results count! The reason our department for doing table and bed linen is kept so busy is because we do it right and that is what you want.—Grand Laundry Co., Paterson, N. J.

We can put new "neckbands" on your shirts if you wish, and can give you a nice gloss or domestic finish, as you may direct.—J. W. Brown, Binghamton, N. Y.

Marked down. Here is a bargain in the laundry business that women cannot afford to ignore. Just in the same ratio as the price has gone down the quality of the works of Parsons laundry has gone up.—Parsons, New Bedford, Mass.

When you want relief from washday cares bear this in mind: We'll do the family wash cheaper and better than you can have it done at home.—Neptune Laundry, Philadelphia, Pa.

They say our work is perfection, or as near it as one can get in this world. Whether the article is a gentleman's shirt or just his collars and cuffs, our laundering is always the best possible.—Ogden Steam Laundry, Ogden, Utah.

Collars and cuffs are very important articles of man's attire. To look well they must be laundered well and to be laundered well they must pass through our hands. The Elliott Laundry is successful with all classes of goods, but we consider our work on shirts, collars and cuffs simply perfect.—Elliott's Steam Laundry, Grand Forks, N. D.

Just pause and consider before sending your washing elsewhere if it won't be to your advantage to bring or send it here, or have us call for it, as we will gladly do.—Kentucky Steam Laundry, Lexington, Ky.

A light vest makes a pleasant contrast with a dark suit of clothes. But the wash vests require frequent laundering. We want all the men to know how much care and attention we also give to this work. The vests are starched just enough to hold their shape, and we do not fade the material.—Trazee's Laundry, Washington, D. C.

Properly done up. That's the way laundry is returned from the Capital City. It doesn't cost any more to get work done at an establishment which is complete in every detail with the finest and most modern machinery that money can buy than at the other kind. Ever think of the difference this makes in the wear of your linen?—Capital City Laundry, Columbus, O.

We're careful with colored goods.—There are some cheap colored goods whose colors you can't keep fast, no matter how you try—they weren't intended to keep fast.

But if there's the least chance to hold a color through its laundering, depend upon the Blakely for holding it.

Send us your colored shirts and skirts for a trial.—Blakely Laundry, Trenton.

Immaculate linen is the mark of the gentleman. We do your linen as it should be. Try us and see.—Modern Laundry, Buffalo, N. Y.

The well-known reliability of our work insures a woman against the vexations of careless, improper laundering or the use of washing materials that injure or destroy the fabrics.—Frazer's Laundry, Washington, D. C.

The man who cares about appearances is the man we cater to. We lead at the careful laundering of summer wear—when we make a mistake, which is not often, we make amends. We'll call anywhere.—Neptune Laundry, Philadelphia, Pa.

Hot and heavy. The atmosphere is now, and mid-summer is upon us, so it behooves you to take your linen to a laundry that will do it up in such a manner that you can depend upon its retaining its stiffness and freshness as long as possible. We will delight your heart with the collars, cuffs, shirt fronts and colored shirts that we launder for you here.—Gruwald Bros.' Laundry, Bay City, Mich.

Flannel mouth describes the facial expression of many people on beholding their flannels returned from the laundry. Possibly you have experienced or seen the cause. Harsh flannels, discolored or shrunken and a look of general debility.—The Star Laundry, Colorado Springs, Col.

Collars that have edges like teeth on a saw are laundered elsewhere. A perfectly smooth collar comes from the only.—Loeb's Laundry, Memphis, Tenn.

We're just as thankful for a small package as a large one. Each will receive the same thorough and careful attention. If we get the former, it may in time grow to the latter, by the satisfaction you will derive in wearing our laundered work.—Troy Laundry, Alliance, O.

Collar feel easy? It does if it's laundered right. We polish the edges of collars we launder so they will not scratch or irritate the neck, and with our careful methods, our work satisfies lots of particular people. We think it will please you. Why don't you try it?—New Bedford Laundry, New Bedford, Mass.

"Delighted" is what our patrons say. We claim the finest grade of shirt, collar and cuff work in this section, and at the same time we greatly appreciate suggestions or criticism in regard to our laundry work, and trust all will feel free at any time to offer comments favorable or otherwise. We aim to send out work that will be perfectly satisfactory in every way, and invite co-operation of our customers with a view of keeping it up to the highest standard. If not already a customer, send us your next bundle and have it laundered domestic.—New Bedford Laundry, New Bedford.

Send us your black goods. Few laundries handle this class of work. It requires long experience with starching to do it right. We use a specially prepared starch; some laundries use Gum Arabic, but it's not nearly so good. Others use ordinary starch, but that leaves white streaks on black garments. Send your black summer skirts, mourning goods and black shirt waists to us. We'll guarantee first class work and a stiffness that will please you immensely.—Troy Laundry, Phoenix, Arizona.

What it cost to get rid of blue Monday, dirty clothes, homes full of steam and bad odor, soap, starch, water, heat, worry, extra meals for help. Only four cents per pound and delivered in a neat clean bag. Shirts, collars and cuffs, ladies' waists and lace curtains charged at list price. Give us a trial and see what a difference it makes.—Imperial Laundry Co., New Haven, Conn.

We give special attention to all articles of feminine wear, and those of delicate fabric and elaborate trimming are handled with such skill that when cleaned by us, they often look better than new and the correctness of the work gives a very beautiful finish.—Doolittle & Smith, Binghamton, N. Y.

Linen is like saving on anything else—it makes the saver happy. Our way of saving on your linen is not to destroy it as some laundries do. We please particular people. They are our best customers. Here is food for thought and the pocketbook.—Parkersburg Steam Laundry, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If you wear collars laundered by us—we use wheat starch which produces a leathery toughness.—Cleaver's Laundry Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Don't let your laundryman tell you that goods cannot be made white as when new. Your goods should not have that yellow color, but should be beautiful and clean.—Gardner, Stone & Co., Troy, N. Y.

Any laundry can launder a collar; any man can build a house; but to do either as it should be done you must have the proper equipment and the "know how." We have both. The collars that we launder fit just as the maker intended and all "turn-down" collars are carefully dampened before shaping, which prolongs their life many months. May we have a trial package from you?—The Home Laundry, Windsor, Ont.

The vexations of a man's collar are augmented in hot weather. It's bad enough to have to wear a starched collar anyway, and it's still worse to wear one that has too much starch in it or not enough to make it serviceable and comfortable. Our collars are laundered just right for hot weather.—Frazee's Laundry, Washington, D. C.

Large and small bundles receive equal attention from us. Good machinery, skilled labor and our soft water gives you what you ask for.—Monarch Laundry, Pueblo, Colo.

We give due attention to all the little details.—The Excelsior Laundry, Los Angeles, Cal.

The laundry you can always depend on, the one prepared to turn out your work on time in the face of unusual difficulties or accidents to machinery, is the one to tie to. You can depend on us.—The Lone Star Laundry, Denison.

Those who desire to have their linen properly laundried without tearing off buttons and making saw edges on collars and cuffs should leave it with Isaac Cameron, Carrollton, Ohio.

"He proclaimed
"In accents proud the linen on his shoulders
"Fit for kings."—Hopkins.

Fit—do you know that much of the fit of a shirt depends upon proper ironing? A well-shaped shirt may be ruined by careless ironing and stretched beyond recognition. For several years we have been studying just this problem. Our "light pressure" work gives life to the shirt and comfort to the wearer.—Steel's Laundry, Jersey City, N. J.

You don't find saw edges on collars and cuffs received from this laundry. The latest, up-to-date devices are used in smoothing the collar-edges. That's why those who wear our linen always have such a pleasant expression. Let our wagon call.—The Quality Laundry, Utica, N. Y.

If collars could talk how they would shriek when the life is crushed out of them by high-pressure machinery. Troy work is ironed with the correct domestic finish, which is done by low pressure machinery, prolonging the life of the linen many months.—Troy Laundry, Columbus, O.

Well, what do you think of that? Shirts from a laundry not torn all to pieces, not bespattered with iron rust or too much blueing? Just enough starch to keep them stiff, not too much for comfort in wearing. Where is this laundry that turns out such good work? —The Star Laundry, Lansing, Mich.

When Thanksgiving comes, among other things for which to be thankful, don't forget the Ogden Steam Laundry which keeps your linen clean and makes you presentable among your fellow men. Send your soiled linen to us to be laundered and be thankful the year round.—Ogden Steam Laundry, Ogden, Utah.

It's the starching that makes shirts from the Model laundry stand hot weather, damp weather, any kind of weather so well. The shirts we do up keep their shape and polish the longest. We do any kind of laundry work well. Just try our work and find out how really good it is.—The Model Laundry, Grand Forks, N. D.

The difference between a poor laundry and a good laundry is that one is careful and the other is not. In every lot of laundry work, there is a certain amount of care and bother. If you go to a poor laundry, the care and bother are yours. A good laundry takes this off your mind. Nothing is too much trouble for us, if it pleases our customers.—J. W. Brown, Binghamton.

Every piece of work shows skill and workmanship. Never was there a laundry that turned out finer work than we do. Try us. Those who get their laundry done by us sing our praises on every occasion.—The Model Steam Laundry, Grand Forks, N. C.

It's a matter of vital importance to all who regard clean linen as one of life's necessities to know that the Crescent Laundry is regarded by all good dressers as the one place on earth where laundry work is done to their supreme satisfaction. We have the skill, the experience and the will to do our work right, and will guarantee satisfaction.—G. E. Gillette, Fairfield, Me.

The Ladies' Department here is conducted on the same lines which has brought success to the other departments. The Troy Laundry gives special attention to all articles of feminine wear, and those of delicate fabric and elaborate trimming are handled with such skill that they even look better than new and the correctness of the work gives a very beautiful finish.—Doolittle & Smith, Binghamton, N. Y.

It's Everywhere—at the theatre, fancy dress balls, receptions, parties and all social occasions. In fact, you can't go anywhere without seeing our beautiful domestic finish. If you have never tried it, send us a trial package.—New Bedford Laundry, New Bedford, Mass.

Above All Wear Clean Linen.—Not merely linen that looks clean, but is clean! There's a difference! Let us do the washing and it will be clean. Your garments cannot come in contact with an objectionable class of work, because our business is confined to the better class of trade. Charges no higher on this account, either.—Burlington Steam Laundry, Burlington, Iowa.

The Finish Is Linen Beauty.—Our dull domestic finish is the one proper finish. All careful dressers demand a dull finish—it conforms to the tastes of refined society. Another point about it is the little wear required to get this finish—it saves your linen. Of course, if you want gloss we will give it to you.—Charlotte Steam Laundry, Charlotte.

The best criterion of our work is the work itself, as our best advertisement is the praise of those who patronize us. We know we can do the best laundry work. If you want your linen laundered better than you ever had it done go to the old reliable Troy Steam Laundry Springfield, Mo.

You can escape trouble by taking your shirts, collars and cuffs—in fact, your entire wash—to our laundry. Modern machinery, modern methods. There are rarely any disappointments at the Ogden Steam Laundry, Ogden, Utah.

The crowning triumph of our laundry work is whiteness where it is called for. Colored goods we cleanse thoroughly without causing color to run in the least. We do high grade work and our fine finish excels all other methods. Collars and cuffs are ironed smooth so the skin of the wearer is not irritated.—Troy Laundry, Binghamton, N. Y.

The long and short of it is that what we don't know about the proper way to launder linen and other washable wearables is scarcely worth knowing. We are ever on the lookout for improvements in appliances and methods, and can turn out as good work as anybody—turn it out, too, on the basis of a very modest price list. Yours for the asking.—Clarkson's Laundry, Peoria, Ill.

For the sake of contrast compare one of the shirts done up at our laundry with those you have been getting from other laundries, and it will be as plain as black and white that our superior methods are the triumph of fine laundry work in its exquisite color and finish. Ring us up and our wagon will call.—Mason's Laundry, Sacramento.

Send us your white vests and we'll do them up as only an up-to-date launderer can. A trial will convince you of the superiority of our work. We launder the most delicate fabrics in A1 style, and return the goods without slightest injury.—Star Laundry, Lansing, Mich.

Just as good means taking chances. You take no chances when you send your laundry work to us. You'll get it washed, blued, starched and ironed right; and if it's shirts and collars they'll fit right when you wear them. Isn't it worth something to know you will get your linen back satisfactorily?—New Bedford Steam Laundry, New Bedford.

Send us your linen. Your other attire cannot compensate for poorly laundered linen. It doesn't need to—send your linen to the Troy Laundry and it will come back clean, white and faultlessly finished. There's no uncertainty about it—Troy's work is right.—Troy Laundry, Columbus, O.

If you laundered your linen yourself you could not handle it more carefully than we do. Pure soap and water wash it. Pure starch stiffens it. Fine machinery and skilled labor iron it perfectly. We know our work is the best. We guarantee it to be the best. Try it, if you do not also think it is the best, don't pay for it.—Modern Laundry, Buffalo, N. Y.

Few laundries take the people into their confidence as we do. We want everyone in this vicinity to know just how we launder clothes. We have no secret methods that we're ashamed of. Our plant is always open for your inspection. We want you to come and see just how we do our work. We claim that we launder linen with less wear than it can be done at home.—Elite Laundry, Colorado Springs, Colo.

A warm baby isn't always a comfortable one, any more than a man is in warm weather with his cuffs and collars wilting, when they are not properly laundered. When your shirts, collars and cuffs are laundered here you can sally forth under a broiling July sun happy in the knowledge that your linen will not "tucker out" before the day is over. Try a sample of our Summer laundering.—Witters' Laundry, Saginaw.

Don't wait for cold weather before having your blankets washed; now is your time.

Special care and attention given to lace curtains.—Model Laundry, Galveston, Tex.

How to keep cool on wash day.—The easiest way out of wash-day cares, with its heat and steam, is to send all the family wash to the Palace Laundry.—The Palace Laundry, Washington, D. C.

"Faint heart never won fair lady," but clean linen goes far toward making an excellent impression—and a good start is half the race. Wanting clean, speckless, perfectly laundered linen, patronize this laundry and secure its aid in success in love and business.—Witters' Laundry, Saginaw, Mich.

Under a Strong Glass the linen we launder will show no speck to mar—only the result of care, skill and experience in washing, starching, ironing. We claim to know the business of cleaning washable wearing apparel and add willingness and conscientiousness to our knowledge. Try our laundry methods.—Witters' Laundry, Saginaw, Mich.

Drop us a postal card and we will call for your laundry whenever and wherever you appoint—deliver it too, when cleansed and ready to put on again. As to the cleansing and other operations totalled as "laundering," there remains no question as to our ability and willingness to do good work.—Kentucky Steam Laundry, Lexington, Ky.

No More Trouble with Turn-Over Collars—for those who patronize the Capital City laundry work. We employ a special method of ironing turn-over collars now that rounds the edge of the turn, both on the outside and underneath.—Capital City Laundry, Columbus.

It's a pleasing sight to any one with an eye for beauty—beautifully laundered shirts, collars and cuffs, especially the white styles now affected. That's exactly what Mr. Anyone can feast his eyes upon if the aforesaid shirts, collars, cuffs, etc., passed through our painstaking hands.—Clarkson's, Peoria, Ill.

Critical inspection is what we court, because we do not fear that you will have any fault to find with laundry work if placed in our care. Our long experience in the business and our knowledge of what the people expect of a laundry enable us to do work that is satisfying. A trial order will convince you of the truthfulness of this advertisement.—American Steam Laundry, Freehold.

A systematic laundry.—Our system for taking care of laundry details is a product of seventeen years' experience. It insures promptness and makes exchanges and shortages next to impossible. If you've met with these laundry annoyances you'll all the more appreciate the Excelsior's service.—Excelsior Laundry, Los Angeles, Cal.

Surprise and pleasure are invariably expressed by those who patronize the Star laundry. Whether they dress for style or comfort, or both, the high quality of our work leaves nothing to be desired in the perfect cleanliness and superb finish given to all linen entrusted in our care.—Star Laundry, Lansing.

Your shirt looks well only when it has been laundered properly. The best fitting shirt, if laundered improperly will not set right on you. We bear this in mind when we are washing your linen, and launder your shirt so that it will fit. We take good care of your shirt, too, and leave the buttonholes as good as we find them. We want to hear from you if you have been going to a laundry that has failed to satisfy you.—Eugene Stewart, Battle Creek, Mich.

A man slips up on it every time that he takes his laundry work outside of the Salem Steam Laundry to be done up. He finds "that tired feeling" stealing over him when he notes the difference in the exquisite color and beautiful finish, saying nothing of the good condition in which your linens are returned by Salem Steam Laundry, Salem, Ore.

It's the starching that makes shirts from the Cascade Laundry stand hot weather, damp weather, and all kinds of weather so well. The shirts we do up keep their shape and polish the longest. We do all kinds of laundry work well. Just try our work and find out how really good it is.—Cascade Steam Laundry, Tacoma, Wash.

But little laundry.—Don't think that because you do not have a large bundle every week, we do not want your work. Just let us know and we will get your bundle, no matter how small. It will be properly laundered too.—Denison Steam Laundry, Denison, Tex.

Young man, just a word with you on the laundry question. You would not be as fastidious as you should be if you were not particular about the finish and cleanliness of your laundry. A bit of attention to this important question will help very much in making the dressy effect you care for.—Artesian Laundry Co., Waco, Tex.

A lesson in laundry work we give to our help, and teach them the necessity of care in the laundering of fine linen, that goes a great way in preserving the fabrics sent here for renovation. Anything coming from the Star Laundry will always be found in perfect condition and beautified in both color and finish.—Star Laundry, Lansing, Mich.

Our hot weather laundry work stands the wear and perspiration better than any other. Try it.—The Model Laundry, Richmond, Va.

Your linen may last a month, or it may last a year. It depends upon where it is laundered. We are laundering some shirts to-day that we have laundered for two years, and they are still good. We do not guarantee all shirts to last two years, but we do guarantee to make them last longer than any other laundry in the West.—Elite Laundry, Colorado Springs.

The iron is hot and we are waiting to get out your linen with all possible dispatch. You may trust us with your hurry-up work. We have special facilities for tending to your rush work, and we will pay just as much attention to it as though we had all the time in the world. We do none but good laundry work. We regard your sending your linen here in the nature of a trust imposed upon us, and we take as much care with your clothing as if it were our own, and more.—Eugene Stewart, Battle Creek.

A little better is enough better to make a change worth while, and our work is at least a little better than the second best, and much better than the ordinary. No trouble; just do up your bundle and telephone.—Excelsior Laundry, Los Angeles, Cal.

It's the starching that makes shirts from the Model laundry stand hot weather, damp weather, any kind of weather so well. The shirts we do up keep their shape and polish the longest. We do all kinds of laundry work well. Just try our work and find out how really good it is.—The Model Laundry, Grand Forks, N. D.

Summer style and comfort as well is very largely dependent on good laundry work, the kind done at the Bluffs City Laundry. All work here is well done. Collars and cuffs are laundered so you can wear them with some comfort; rough edges of old collars are ironed down smooth.—Bluff City Laundry, Omaha.

Almost impossible to find anyone who is not pleased with the work of War Eagle Laundry, Knoxville, Tenn.

A man's linen must be well laundered this sweltering weather. It stands the heat better! It gives him greater comfort—it helps in his satisfaction.

Want your work?—Just let us know and we will get your bundle—no matter how small—it will be properly laundered, too.—Kenton Steam Laundry, Kenton.

Summer is hard on linen and it is hard on us, too, for that matter. What with dust-stains, perspiration, etc., laundering has its trials. We do the work, though—and do it to perfection. Send us your shirts, collars and cuffs, and we'll do them up in a most superior manner. You'll find our charges right, also. Give you first-class work and satisfactory service at lowest rates.—Witters' Laundry, Saginaw, Mich.

Never call a man good looking until you have seen him with linen laundered by the Asheville Steam Laundry. It gives him style and elegance which others cannot attain. Besides he will always be in good humor if his linen is laundered comfortably.—Asheville Steam Laundry, Asheville, N. C.

When clean linen is needed send the bundle to us. Let us take out the dirty spots and make it clean and attractive for you. You'll like its finish and beauty when the bundle comes here. No doubt of finish, no doubt of cleanness, no doubt of economy. Clean linen for all occasions.—Ogden Steam Laundry, Ogden, Utah.

What do you notice first about a man's dress attire? Isn't it the linen? Important—Yes, very. A man's dress linen is the most important thing about his whole make-up for the social arena. Why be content with anything but the best.—Frazee's Laundry, Washington.

When you are sick in body from over-taxing of physical or mental strength, you go to the best physician for relief. When you are sick at heart, over inferior washing and ironing, you go to The Star Laundry, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Running up a big bill for your laundry work is not necessary to insure proper care if your washing is entrusted to us. We take pains with the smallest orders, and our prices are moderate.—The Crystal Laundry Spokane, Wash.

Why a woman will worry and fret over wash day is a mystery to all who have tried the Palace Laundry plan of "washing by the pound." We will actually do the work cheaper and better than it can be done at home.—Palace Laundry, Washington, D. C.

Wilt thou collars? Not if Cleaver launders us. He uses wheat starch, which permeates every fiber of the linen, avoiding wrinkles and giving a uniform finish. When you get tired of that blue or yellow tinge, try the domestic finish.—Cleaver's Laundry, Los Angeles, Cal.

Wash day enjoyment. Some women like the music of the washboard—others don't. Some women like the slop and steam of wash day—others don't. Some women like the imperfect work done in the home laundry—others don't. We enjoy our work—because you like the work we do!—The Model Laundry, Richmond, Va.

Incompetence is not one of the failings of those in our employ, therefore we never have to make excuses for bad work. When linen leaves our hands it is cleansed properly and finished perfectly and delivered promptly. If you still cling to out-of-date methods reform and try the Star Laundry, Lansing, Mich.

Don't be afraid to send your pretty colored shirts and shirtwaists to us. If they will stand the clear, cold water, they will stand our method of washing. We make a specialty of laundering colored goods. We will return them to you as fresh and bright as new, no matter how delicate the color may be. If you have never tried us, do it this week. We guarantee to please you.—Troy Laundry, Peoria, Ill.

We could save in wages and save in many other ways each week, but we prefer to give our customers the very best work regardless of cost. Good soap is expensive, but we use the very best. Skilled labor is expensive, but we employ the best. Some laundries are not so careful. We believe you would prefer the careful work. May we send a wagon for a trial package? We guarantee it to please you.—The Union Laundry Co., Trenton, N. J.

One hundred and five yesterday in the shade. One hundred and twenty-five tomorrow in your kitchen. You will cook, swelter, and be cooked, if you undertake to do your own laundry, with muddy, hard water in a steaming kitchen over a scorching stove. It's poor economy; nobody can stand it. Life is too short to waste it over a washtub on days like these. Call Main 259 and tell your troubles—not to a policeman, but to—The Maine Laundry Co., Pueblo, Col.

Any laundry can launder a collar; any man can build a house; but to do either as it should be done you must have the proper equipment and the "know how." We have both. The collars that we launder fit just as the maker intended and all "turn-down" collars are carefully dampened before shaping, which prolongs their life many months. May we have a trial package from you?—The Union Laundry Co., Trenton, N. J.

Our popularity is demonstrated by the great number of bundles we handle each day. Each garment receives the careful attention of experienced and competent workmen. Your work is solicited.—Denison Steam Laundry, Denison, Texas.

Be joyful always by the knowledge that your shirt front, collars and cuffs are things of beauty, by having them done up here. No cheap gloss illumines your shirt bosom, but a real distingue color and finish that you can display with pride and satisfaction. Your linen looks equal to new when laundered by our perfect methods.—Kentucky Steam Laundry, Lexington, Ky.

"The girl from up there" says there isn't a collar, cuff or shirt-front laundered anywhere in the country that can compare with our laundry work. The color and finish are superb, and they always give genuine satisfaction to our patrons. Ladies' shirtwaists are also laundered in a manner that makes them look like new, and the color is preserved longer than by having them done by any other method.—Star Laundry, Lansing.

Slightly disabled. A man with badly laundered linen always feels as though he owed an explanation and an apology to all mankind. Our customers never feel that way. We have every modern device that is necessary to do the very best work, and our employes are the most skillful money can hire. Let us attend to your laundry and your linen will never be in an apologetic condition.—Lone Star Laundry, Denison, Texas.

The luxury of linen laundered shirts is yours at small cost if you patronize the Cascade Laundry, for there nothing is turned out in any other way but the right one. Our facilities for thoroughly cleansing and properly ironing shirts, collars and cuffs for gentlemen are unexceptionable, while ladies cannot fail to be pleased with the skill we display in doing up the most delicately trimmed underwear, shirts, etc.—Cascade Steam Laundry, Tacoma, Wash.

It's all in the laundry.—When your linen isn't just right it is noticeable. There's something lacking that can't be made up by the finest outer garments. Send us your laundry this week and we'll show you the difference between correct Troy domestic finish and the ordinary. We have made this a study and equipped our plant to produce the best results. That we excel in high class laundry work is recognized by the best dressers in Columbus.—Troy Laundry, Columbus, Ohio.

We'll wash for you. When we get through with your clothes, they will look pure and white and will not be injured in the least as we use no chemicals. Our price for family washing is very low: five cents a pound, rough dry, starching all pieces to be starched and ironing the bed and table linen, handkerchiefs and towels. Try us.—Westcott's Laundry, Utica, N. Y.

What kind of laundry pleases you? The good kind of course. Easy to answer that question. When you send your soiled linen out, you want it returned perfectly cleansed, faultlessly ironed and free from rents. If you entrust your laundry work to us, it will receive first that sort of treatment. Our way of treating garments, no matter how delicate the texture, pleases particular people.—Union Laundry Company, Albany, N. Y.

We have opened up a new laundry with all the latest improved machinery and can guarantee first class work. A trial will convince you that you can get as good work done here as any place in Western Ontario. Shirts, collars and cuffs turned out to suit the most fastidious. Gloss or dull finish, as required. On Tuesday afternoons we will be pleased to show any visitors through our establishment. We make a specialty of family washing. All work called for and delivered promptly.—Hogan & Hartt, Windsor, Ont.

Each morning when you dress, think about the Home Laundry. Ask yourself if your linen work is as it should be. A man who wears fine clothes cannot afford to wear "fairly good" laundry work. If you find your collars are poorly turned, if you find they have saw edges, if you find them specked, remember that these faults have been overcome at the Home and that only high-grade work is allowed to leave the laundry. Every day brings new customers who are more than pleased with the work. May we call for a trial package from you?—The Home Laundry, Windsor, Ont.

Light on the subject of laundering is what our patrons get. Many who had thought their laundry had reached the standard of excellence have had an agreeable surprise after getting a bundle done at "The Sanitary Laundry."—The Maine Laundry, Pueblo, Colo.

Here's a bosom friend.—It's a pleasure, isn't it, when opening your bundle from the laundry, to find how white and neat your shirts and collars are? No saw edges; no tears; no holes anywhere. Well, we give you that pleasure, every time. Our work is perfection.—Star Laundry, Lansing, Mich.

While the clothes are in the wash the time can be passed in imagining how well the work will be done and how fine they will look when finished. And the highest flights of the imagination will not reach the height of perfection attained by The Troy Laundry. Our work is flawless because done by skilled hands under watchful eyes and expert supervision.—The Troy Laundry, Ogden.

Hard usage is what shirts get at many laundries. We pride ourselves in the care and attention each garment entrusted to us receives. That's why they wear so well when laundered here.—Denison Steam Laundry, Denison, Tex.

We work for a great many people who don't care to do their own washing during the cold months, and when it gets warmer they like the arrangement so well they continue, and there you are.—Union Laundry, Mansfield, O.

A pleasing bundle delivered on time. That is the reputation we have in laundry work. We put the best labor on your clothes—and insure the best product to our customers! Plenty of time to do it right—but when we promise you your bundle, it will be there on time.—The Model Laundry, Kenton, O.

It's the starching that makes shirts from the Model laundry stand hot weather, damp weather, any kind of weather so well. The shirts we do up keep their shape and polish the longest. We do all kinds of laundry work well. Just try our work and find out how really good it is.—The Model Laundry, Grand Forks, N. D.

We can give you a shirt tale that will please you when we tell you of the artistic manner in which we launder your linen or colored shirts, vests, collars, cuffs. Linen laundered by us keeps clean longer, keeps stiff longer and looks like new longer than when laundered by any less perfect method than ours—and we can add, keeps from wear and tear longer when done at Witters' Laundry, Saginaw, Mich.

A little better laundry work is enough better to make a change worth while and Troy work is at least a little better than the second best and much better than the ordinary.—Troy Laundry, Columbus, Ohio.

Who does your laundry? Does it always come back on time, and is it always done up to your entire satisfaction? If not, just send it to Mason's laundry. We do, without any doubt, the best work in town, prompt in calling and prompt in delivering. Your laundry is something we pay strict attention to. Just try us.—Mason's Steam Laundry, Sacramento, Cal.

Let us launder for you. The careful and painstaking way in which the work will be done will more than please you.—The McCuffey Laundry Co., Columbus.

On your back you never had a shirt better laundered than the one we returned to you last week. Didn't send us any? Well, that's not our fault—your misfortune. Try us this week and see the difference. We call for and deliver goods, of course, and we do 'em up right, as you'll find after we tackle the first installment, which we hereby request.—Star Laundry, Lansing, Mich.

Not a rival in sight anywhere when the linen that has been done up at the Cascade laundry is put in contrast with that laundered anywhere in Montana. The beauty of our laundry work makes us justly proud, and we feel like crowing every time we see the difference in our superb color and finish on the shirts, collars and cuffs done up by our methods with the linen worn by anyone in Great Falls.—Cascade Laundry, Great Falls.

The habit of sending your Laundry work to us regularly is one which once contracted you'll never break away from. It's not a case of good laundry work one week, and poor the next, with us. It's cleanly washed and carefully ironed Linen 52 weeks in each year that you can depend upon, when we do your work.—Parkersburg Steam Laundry, Parkersburg, W. Va.

A sore point it is with some laundries to remind them of the superiority of our work, but we claim and reiterate that we do the best class of work in the laundry line of any establishment in the State, and our patrons will bear us out in our statement. If you bring or send your laundry work here you will be our patron always.—Mason's Steam Laundry, Sacramento, Cal.

Antiseptic Laundering. This may seem an odd term, but it means much to you. You ought to know that where you send your laundry work absolute cleanliness and care in handling goods is strictly observed. By our special process and system your safety is assured. Goods handled here are thoroughly cleansed, splendidly finished and delivered to you in prime condition. Try us and see the difference.—Cascade Laundry, Sacramento, Cal.

There's a style and finish about our laundry work pleasing alike to the taste and purse of the most carping critic. Taste because our work is perfect in finish and cleanliness and purse because the satisfaction is secured without destruction of fabric after short use. A post card or phone call puts our service into your use.—Witters' Laundry, Saginaw, Mich.

It's a lucky thing 'tis said, to see the new moon over your right shoulder. It's a lucky thing, too, for the men of this city that they have a laundry that they can depend upon to launder their linen in an artistic and satisfactory manner always—and receive it in first-class condition, faultless color and finish.—The American Laundry, New Bedford, Mass.

Shirt waist insurance. The best way to insure long life for the pretty shirt waists, which are the pride of a woman's heart, is to send them to our laundry for cleansing.—Frazee's Laundry, Washington, D. C.

Another fine point about our laundry work is, that every shirt is laundered to fit, just as the maker intended. No stretching out of shape. We have starching and ironing machinery especially designed for our Troy domestic finish, the proper finish for shirts, collars and cuffs, and one that lasts well, even in hot weather. A trial bundle will be appreciated.—Troy Laundry, Columbus.

Our laundry ways are winning ways—winning friends and customers, too! You'll "fall into line" with the others when you see with your own eyes what fine work we do—on shirts, collars and cuffs, for example. Try us on yours.—White Star Laundry, Bangor, Me.

Soft as velvet, yet with all the "look clean" and "stay clean" qualities of the starched shirt—that's the way our expert workers launder summer shirts.—Elliott's Steam Laundry, Grand Forks.

Hot time. Too hot to think of trying to do your washing. Let us do it, and take all the disagreeableness off your hands. Then you can keep your home cool and comfortable. The pleasure thus secured is worth more to you than three or four times the cost of having the work done outside. We do it cheaply, well, and so that you will surely like it.—Louisville Towel Supply Co.

When calling on your swell friends you need to have every part of your attire correct. There's nothing more noticeable than your linen. If you patronize our laundry, your linen will always be correct and you can depend on it. We call for and deliver promptly.—Bluff City Laundry, Council Bluffs, Ia.

Our guest for the time being is what we consider your laundry work, and we treat it as such. We receive it with courteous appreciation. It receives the most careful attention while with us and we return it promptly and in good condition. Just send it here and see for yourself.—Crookston Steam Laundry, Crookston, Minn.

Try us with your negligee shirts or any article of summer wear. We will show you why we have the reputation of doing the best laundry work in Washington.—Frazer's Laundry, Washington, D. C.

Well dressed men are rarely seen with glossy linen. They prefer the dull effect of the domestic finish, as it is not only a mark of good taste, but it saves the linen. We have made the domestic finish a study, and the results we have obtained are the best evidences of our success.—Mrs. Spaeth's Domestic Laundry, Kansas City, Mo.

You can't feel comfortable without good laundering.

Trying to make a customer comfortable is our aim.

The careful laundering of fine summer wear is our leading specialty.

No extra charge for the extra trouble we take.—Neptune Laundry, Philadelphia, Pa.

Sanitary Methods. We wish to call your attention to our sanitary methods. Patrons of this laundry may rest assured that everything is done in this line possible. This important fact cannot well be overestimated. We use nothing but the finest filtered water, and our process thoroughly eradicates all disease germs.—Gardner, Stone & Co., Troy, N. Y.

We launder everything from a handkerchief to a circus tent, but we make a specialty of collars, cuffs and shirts. Our shirt bosoms are elastic and warranted not to crack. In collars and cuffs we give you whatever finish you desire, but if your linen is of good quality and in good repair ask for our Velvet Elastic Domestic Finish, now the rage in all leading American cities, and be faultlessly dressed.—Parisian Laundry Co., Hamilton, Ont.

Four Cents a Pound for Family Wash. We are equipped with the most modern and up-to-date machinery and methods, and are qualified to do the work not only cheaper, but much better, than any one else in the business. The economy of having this laundry do your work is fully established by an inquiry of those for whom we are doing work. We can convince you on a single trial order. Telephone us and our wagon will serve you promptly.—Louisville Towel Supply Co., Louisville, Ky.

Your Laundry will please you if it is done at the Iowa Steam Laundry.—Iowa Steam Laundry, Ottumwa, Ia.

We do mending and sew on buttons free. Notice the finish, color, style, fit and length of time your linen wears. You will find that in these points and many others we always lead. Let us show you this week.—National Laundry, Great Falls, Mont.

A fastidious man pays as much attention to the laundering of his linen as to the buying of it. That's why he patronizes the Salem Steam Laundry. This is the only place to send good linen. It wears longer and looks better when we do the work. You can prove this for yourself.—Salem Steam Laundry, Salem.

Our laundry service is a great co-operative plan worked on to perfection, where all are treated upon common level. The servant question is settled, as far as the laundering work of your home is concerned. You have absolutely nothing to do but pack your laundry and give instructions as to how it is to be done. We'll do the rest and return it just as directed. Ask us to call and talk it over.—Morey-LaRue Laundry Co., Newark, N. J.

Laundering which wins. That's the Blakely sort. It's built us up from almost no business at all to the largest laundry hereabouts, and one of the most up-to-date in this country. Brains, the "know how," and keep-at-itiveness are responsible for the result which good dressers prefer. You don't know just how good your linen can be made to appear until you've sent us a bundle. Or shall we call for it?—Blakely Laundry, Trenton, N. J.

Shirts that are torn and frayed by careless handling would last much longer if sent to us to launder. We have made a long study of laundry work and give results that defy competition.—Crown Laundry, Co., Montreal, Can.

Who does your laundry? Does it always come back on time? Is every piece white and nice? Is it ever without spot or blemish—is it just as splendid as you could ask for? There are never any disappointments at The Capital City Laundry.—Capital City Laundry, Columbus, Ohio.

The superiority of our laundry work is seen in every piece we launder. Our entire process is so superior to other methods that the finish, the color and the length of life of every article laundered by us attest this fact.—Riverside Steam Laundry, Janesville, Wis.

We have the laundry business right at our finger tips, the result of experience and painstaking work and study. We know that a piece of linen laundered by us will be done better and more satisfactory than by anyone else. But don't take our word—ask any of our customers.—Greenwald's Laundry, Bay City.

The work is clean and white as a baby's innocence and tinted exquisitely as the dawning light. Common sense materials make gentle washing—a mild process for dainty linen.—Janesville Steam Laundry Co., Janesville, Wis.

The only hot air about our establishment is in our drying machine. None of it gets into our advertisements.—Blakely Laundry, Trenton, N. J.

We keep abreast of laundry improvements. Every facility which is devised for the betterment of the work we install in our laundry. We are constantly adding new devices, improved methods, doing even the littlest things which will help toward the advancement of the business. It's only by constant study and watchfulness that anything or any business can improve itself, and the utmost scrutiny along all lines is exercised in the conduct of the Blakely laundry. Do you wonder that we lead?—Blakely Laundry, Trenton, N. J.

Our popularity is demonstrated by the great number of bundles we handle each day. Each garment receives the careful attention of experienced and competent workmen.—Denison Steam Laundry, Denison, Tex.

Bestowing care on all goods, fine and course, sent here for laundering—in the washing, ironing, folding, wrapping and delivering—in fact, everything that would in any way tend to improve our work and make it more than satisfactory, is the plan followed at The Troy Laundry, Binghamton, N. Y.

Good laundering—the kind we do—is a science. It has taken us many years to learn what we know about it. Send us your laundry and judge for yourself.—Cascade Laundry, Sacramento, Cal.

Good laundry work tells its own story. We have a reputation for turning out high grade work. Our customers praise our work because we do it well. We do the best. Remember, if you leave your order with us you are sure of prompt service and satisfaction. One trial will convince you that our laundry ought to be your laundry.—New Bedford Laundry, New Bedford.

The beau ideal of fine laundry work is the linen that is laundered at the Cascade Laundry. It is the acme of beauty in color and fine domestic finish and looks as good as new when it is sent home to you. We will not be rivaled by anyone in this line, and keep in the lead in every new and improved method.—The Cascade Steam Laundry, Great Falls, Mont.

Is there anything more pleasing than excellent laundry work? The smartest dressers in town are giving us their work. We want your laundry bundle.—Nonpareil Laundry, New Haven, Conn.

If the tale of a shirt could be told in these few lines, and the operations through which it goes be explained, and every thoughtful man could and would read it, we'd not have half enough room in this big laundry, nor half enough machines, to handle the business. Send us a dress shirt, for a trial, and let that tell its own tale.—Davis Laundry, Rochester, N. Y.

Attractive laundry work has a charm of its own aside from a pleasing personality. That it why work done by our laundry has so many admirers. The simple reason is that we "know how" to do the work properly, and furthermore we do it. We take the trouble to do it right. Lots of people know how to do a thing, but they haven't pride enough to do it properly. We are not that kind.—Wilter's Laundry, Saginaw, Mich.

Best possible laundering can only be gotten where best possible facilities abound for producing it. No laundry can do best work unless fitted for it. And mighty few laundries are thus fitted. We don't want to brag, but fairness to our plant compels us to say that no laundry on earth is better fitted for producing perfect work than ours. The proof's in the laundering.—Am. Palace Laundry, Buffalo, N. Y.

A trial convinces. Those who have tried our laundry work say it is without equal in this vicinity. We have studied the weak points of other laundries and made them our strongest points. We use a special soap for colored goods that does not fade them. We use a special soap for white goods that does not rot them. In every department our work is guaranteed perfect? May we have a trial from you? Phone us.—Salem Laundry Co., Salem, Ore.

Vestless comfort. Let us do your summer shirts on our Press Machine and you will not be forced to wear a vest these hot, sultry days. In fact, you will look better without one. This method of ironing gives a beautiful surface to the linen and the bosom stands out so as to give a cool, natty appearance. The neckband stands up and fits the neck, and with one of our summer laundered collars adjusted, Old Sol's best efforts will cause you no discomfort. A white wagon only can deliver this work.—Iowa Steam Laundry Co., Ottumwa, Iowa.

LEATHER GOODS

Strap handle envelope bags made of walrus grain leather in smart, dull colors with gilt snap buttons and moire lining. There are three roomy compartments beside the riveted inside frame and the finish throughout is high grade. Under the flap are two pockets which hold a tiny mirror and a convenient tablet and pencil for one's shopping list. No envelope bag sold this season has had more snap and style at such a little price.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Neat knick-knacks in leather. Wonderful values for quick riddance. There is nothing the matter with these goods, except that they have been in stock longer than we allow any goods to remain here. If you are thinking of making some neat little birthday present, or you just happen to need one of these handsome little specials, or, indeed, if you are wise enough to think of the presents that you can provide by buying at this sale and laying away—this will be an opportunity that you cannot help appreciate.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

An exposition of fashions in wrist and automobile bags. Fashion extends her dominion even to leather goods—telling her devotees what they shall carry as well as what they shall wear. Our window is a revelation of her latest dicta regarding wrist bags and automobile bags, and will also familiarize you with many other useful and ornamental objects which help to make up the largest stock of small leather goods with which we have ever ushered in a season.—Henry Likly & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

A particularly smart, dressy bag of black or brown alligator grain leather, ten inches long, with strap handle, buttoned flap, three roomy pockets and a good sized inside purse. The interesting feature is a dainty little watch face peeping from its round opening, which, upon closer inspection, proves to be not a watch at all, but a vanity outfit, with mirror and tiny powder puff compactly tucked away in the watch case.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A manufacturer got tired keeping these pocketbooks—good as they are—in his stock. He accepted our offer—a very low one—for the lot; and we offer the splendid resultant bargain to-day, to women who prefer the handy pocketbook to the various kinds of bags now so much used.—Wanamaker, New York.

A Remarkable Round-Up of Women's Fine Leather Bags.—Some of this large collection of women's bags came from a manufacturer of fine goods, some from our own stock. All are priced in a way that bears no relation either to value or former prices. The woman who wants a handsome bag will find it difficult to avoid discovering the precise style she wants, among the dozens of kinds represented.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

None over two-thirds of the old price and numbers at half price. Aristocratic, beautiful leather bags at the price of the more commonplace sorts. Odds of our own and thirty pieces left from a prominent maker's sample line. You can count on their being extra fine; grips in walrus, cowhide, English frame and Oxford shapes.—Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Do you ride horseback? We are showing an unusually varied assortment of Whitman and English riding saddles for ladies astride and gentlemen. These saddles are made of the finest pig-leather, best style and finish that have ever been brought to this market. There is such a thing as fitting a saddle to a horse, just as you fit a hat to a man. If a saddle is easy on the horse and the rider and has the style, finish and lastingness, then it is a perfect saddle.—Alfred Cornish, Omaha, Neb.

Our innovation trunks and wardrobe requisites are well known. But the trouser hanger is our newest pet, and is the only thing for trousers over which the best tailors ever became enthusiastic. When a swell tailor in New York or London approves with enthusiasm anything for hanging trousers, the article has passed the crucial test.—Innovation Trunk Co., New York.

Pretty leather bags. Our stock of stylish, high grade and medium priced leather bags is larger and better than ever before. All styles and materials are represented, and in order to reduce our immense stock of leather bags we make the following price reductions.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Parisian handbags—below value. Novelty bags—bead trimmed. Dainty little things just large enough to hold a purse, card case and handkerchief. A purchase on which our buyer got a special price concession to your very good advantage.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

We want to close out our entire line of leather bags, so we have divided the whole stock into two lots, at greatly reduced prices. If you are in need of a bag you would be foolish if you did not give us an opportunity to show you what we are offering. Below we merely quote prices; no room for description.—The Wonder Dept. Store, Spokane, Wash.

Stuck in the mud. It's hard to get out of the mud, isn't it? Well, if you put your money into a poor harness, you'll feel as if you were always "stuck in the mud." In buying a harness, it pays to be sure what you are getting. Perfect workmanship and perfect material make a combination which cannot help but please every one.—C. F. Cushing, New Bedford, Mass.

Fitting harness. Could anyone know better than Studebaker what kind of harness should go with a carriage? There has been such a great field in New York for a real harness store that we've put one in. It is a store where you can get any kind of good harness; get advice about the right kind of harness to go with any vehicle, and get it fitted to your horse so he will be comfortable and at his very best to do his best.—Studebaker Bros. Co., New York.

Crush belts of the popular suede, and other pretty styles of leather belts for summer gowns, at prices representing about half values; including some straightout reductions. — Wanamaker's, New York.

A practical fad. The use of wrist bags by women. They're a great convenience, and, as we show them here, are very ornamental.—Jud S. Newing, Binghamton, N. Y.

Very attractive styles and splendid values. You'll find in this new showing very many styles that are exclusive with Rike's. You'll really be surprised—as we are—how little money will buy a rich looking bag. Here are leather bags in the best leathers, walrus and seal, some containing purses alone, others containing purse, card case and smelling salts bottle, some have the braided handles, some the strap, and some have the Vienna handle, which is the latest in stiff handles.—Rike's, Dayton, Ohio.

Loeser leadership in leather goods is unquestioned—has long been so. The finest foreign products are here—dozens and dozens of exclusive styles that in beauty of coloring, in originality of design and in exquisite finish show their aristocracy. But American workers in leather are doing wonders, too, and many of the most expensive pieces have been reproduced so perfectly that they can hardly be told apart—yet the prices are perhaps only a third of the imported goods.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

New wits always trying and striving for fresh ideas to catch the popular fancy have wrought prettier than ever. The leathers have taken on a softer, mellow, daintier finish; shapes show in various original forms—artistic, practical handles help out the novelty touches, fittings and linings lend themselves to the deft grace of the designers. Our bag stock is cosmopolitan—a convocation from Paris, Vienna, Berlin, London, Nuremberg, Darmstadt, New York, Philadelphia. — Chamberlin - Johnson-DuBose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

The Sun Never Sets on the Stallman dresser trunk—made in Columbus, it is bought and used in every quarter of the civilized world. Such a record could not be achieved without merit. The merits of this wonderful Dresser Trunk are recognized and appreciated at home and abroad. Your home is not complete without one.—Stallman Trunk Factory, Columbus, Ohio.

Suit Cases All of Genuine Leather. To careless folks, suit cases are merely pieces of leather stretched over a frame. Perhaps we are over careful, but in buying them we always look on the inside, that we may know how long the Suit Case will last when subjected to the rough usage of travel. Perhaps that's why this department is so popular. Suit cases are all made on the same style, some better than others, however. In this one you will find exceptionally good value. It is made of buffed cowhide, on a steel frame with heavy sole leather corners, brass lock and clamps. It is a good suit case. From the outside it looks well and on the inside shows good construction.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Traveling bags! More than one hundred different kinds of the finest "grips" or traveling bags made are carried in this leather goods section—genuine seal, walrus, sea bear, alligator and cowhide leather articles in black, tan and brown. Surely the most critical traveler will have no trouble to find "just the thing" in such a line.—The Harris-Emery Company, Des Moines, Iowa.

Everything that a tourist or traveller has any use for is included in this sale of samples of leather goods. Also the greatest collection of shopping bags ever shown in one sale; a sale that comes once each year, when we take over the entire sample lines of two of the biggest makers and importers.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

Her air of distinction is the envy of all women. Wears English leather goods, fashioned with American taste. Her belts, buckles, handbag, stock, fob, parasol and gloves have the full prestige of fashionable European approval. Your monogram buckle all ready with latest Paris shape crushable kid or suede belt—in all the fashionable Parisian colors and stripes.—Mark Cross Co., New York.

Artistic Leather Chain Purses. At last Dame Fashion has devised a purse that not only has plenty of style—but is sensible as well. With this chain purse—you no longer run the risk of leaving your purse when you go shopping.—Feagan's, Joliet, Ill.

Dainty new wrist bags for the purse, the handkerchief, the smelling salts—the dozen other knick-knacks that a woman would carry in her pocket, if she had one. In leathers, in mountings, in shapes, the present collection of wrist bags offers many new, attractive styles that women will like.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Talk—Talk—Talk—goodness, you'd throw up your hands if we tried to mention half the pretty things here in leather. Among these you're sure to find something that's just what you've been waiting for.—Hale's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Leather goods for men. If you want first pick from the finest stock of leather goods ever shown in this vicinity, you will come promptly—for the exclusive pieces that cannot be duplicated inside of a month or so are always the ones to go first. You will be surprised at the little prices as well as the variety, too.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Loeser leadership in leather goods has been demonstrated many times. Now once more it is marked by a sale vast in magnitude and remarkable in low pricing. A full stock is concerned, ranging from the daintiest of purses to the handsomest of suit cases. Styles are the newest and the best that can be found anywhere to-day at full prices. The quality of the leather used and the character of the workmanship are in every case reliable.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Another lot of these good looking genuine walrus traveling bags, which the maker has let us have to sell at the little price. Everybody will be glad of the chance. The bags are in the deep oxford club shape, extra wide at the bottom and are lined with leather, with inside pockets. Splendid workmanship inside and out, a strong handle and handsome nickel trimmings complete a traveling bag that cannot be matched in good looks, good service and convenience in greater New York at the price.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Alligator bags! Some of the most luxurious horn-back alligator bags and novelties we've ever seen are being shown just now in the east aisle here. The line includes everything from the horn-back alligator purses and strap-back chatelaines to large grips, ink wells, etc. They're too new and novel to be described. Come and see them, if you are a beauty lover. Everything in the line ready made to our order and you'll not see such effective novelties anywhere else.—The Harris-Emery Company, Des Moines, Iowa.

Leather novelties, imported and domestic makes. A display of dainty card cases, pocketbooks, vanity bags, handbags and a multitude of other leatherings that will interest every woman. Many of the pieces are individual, and there is but one of a kind. All of these were made expressly for us, and the entire representation makes a display that is quite without equal anywhere in this borough. Among the new things to be seen is an envelope purse, in highly polished calf and dull beaver, lined with fine enameled leather; the inside is a trifle wider than usual and fitted with an inside purse of morocco. The colors are green, Havana, olive, gray leather, tan leather, tan, red and black.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The woman who is thinking of buying a purse or handbag should make an early visit to this store to-day. We place on sale 100 high grade leather finger belt and hand purses and bags at a mere fraction of their real worth. It's a drummer's sample line selected to represent the stock of a prominent manufacturer and which we procured at a very little price. There are 100 in the lot and no two are alike—100 of the handsomest and best purses and bags you've ever had the opportunity to buy, and never at these prices. We can't impress upon you too strongly the advisability of an early inspection of these exclusive leather novelties to-day.—L. Einstein & Co., Fresno, Cal.

Practical, serviceable, handsome articles that are part and parcel of every man's daily life. Things he has recourse to often—that bespeak his position as does a dress-suit case in traveling.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Leather traveling cases at one-third to one-half less than regular prices. About as handy a combination of necessary toilet articles as could be imagined. Some are more elaborately fitted than others. They are fitted with comb, hair brush, tooth brush, tooth brush case, soap case. The more elaborate ones have in addition nail scissors, nail files, tooth powder case, etc. Rosewood, maple and ebony finish. The cases are of fine grained black leather. They have been reduced one-third to one-half.—Weinstock, Lubin Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Christmas leather goods and belts. All the newest novelties and latest approved styles in fine leather goods will be found in this great Christmas collection. We import them direct ourselves and are thus enabled to sell them at much less than other stores not so favored with buying power. Christmas gifts may be quickly and advantageously selected from these.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton.

Bags of every description to please all kinds of people will be found here at any time you care to call. The greatest care has been shown in the selection of leathers and the dressing of them. All bags are constructed along approved and tested lines, and are made especially for particular people.—Standard Trunk Co., Detroit, Mich.

Leather bags 1-4 off. Stock-righting is necessary. Before inventory out go all our best leather bags, all shapes, all sizes, all leathers, all colors—at 25 per cent. below regular marked prices. No left-overs are here, every bag is new this season; hasn't been in the house over six weeks; included are several fine opera bags and gold mesh purses. Values between $7.50 and $20—one-fourth less for any you desire.—Coulter Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

If we could use the whole front of the store we could make a display of bags, trunks and suit cases that would amaze even those who are familiar with the Hudson stock. We buy these things in tremendous quantities, and that we secure an unusually low price is proven by the fact that other stores are asking almost 20 per cent. more for the same identical brands. They come in a great variety of styles, and the prices range from the lowest a reliable trunk, suit case or bag can be sold up to the costliest kind of leathers.—The J. L. Hudson Co., Detroit, Mich.

Just what you need. One, two or three suit cases are handy things to have about the house and all will be needed sometime. We sell a good suit case as low as $3.50, a most excellent one, sole leather, linen lined, swing handle, polished brass trimmings, smooth easy working lock for $5.50. Big stock of trunks and bags.—Hunter Trunk and Bag Co. Hartford, Conn.

Grand display of leather goods. Our assortment is very large and variety and style unequalled in Trenton. Never was better goods shown for the money asked and careful buyers can find the goodness and reliability that they expect, whether they invest in the genuine leathers or the less expensive kind.—Kaufman's, Trenton, N. J.

Have you been thinking of a new suit case? $7.50 suit case values for $5. Examine them point by point and see; the fine cowhide leather with reinforced sole leather corners and stitched edge; the light, strong steel frame, the snappy finish inside and out, the fine quality linen lining and shirt flap, the handsome brass lock and stout handle. Some have outside straps, specially convenient for carrying umbrellas; some have brass snap catches to match the lock. Sizes 22, 24 and 26 inch.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Gift articles of leather. Immense showing and great values. So broad a stock that you will find it not only along the Thoroughfare in splendid display, but also in a special space in the basement store. So fine a stock that you will note especially the unusually perfect workmanship and the quality of the leathers and the daintiness of every point of trimming and finishing. So low priced a stock that we believe even leather articles of indifferent quality cannot be matched for as little. We have given some details worth reading. But better still is a survey of the stocks themselves.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hundreds of puzzled folk are to stop before the counters where we show all that is new from the shops of the leather workers. Few are to pass on without opening their purses, for here are pocketbooks, handbags, card cases, more enticing things than we could describe in an hour. With something among them all to suit the purpose and the sum you wish to spend.—The Stone, Fisher Co., Tacoma, Wash.

LINEN

The January sale of linens continues merrily. Quality and unrivaled values are the keynotes that will make this sale the greatest linen event in our history. Housekeepers and hotelkeepers should investigate the great savings we've made possible. Laying in a full year's supply now at our prices will be a splendid investment. Linens have gone up and are going still higher, but our orders were placed before prices advanced. Come to-morrow and examine the qualities, then read the price ticket's saving story.—Thomas C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

More news from the house furnishing linens. More news from the white sale. Better do your buying at the earliest—many lots of goods secured for the white sale can't be duplicated for nowhere near the prices paid, not again this season, and we doubt if it can be done any time in the near future. Suppose you come for these to-morrow—it will pay.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

January sale of good linens. The advance in the price of linens has not affected our annual sale, because provisions were made for this sale long ago by keen foresight on the part of our organization. All housekeeping and hotel linens and bedspreads—extensive stocks—are greatly reduced from regular prices, making this a rare opportunity for purchasing. Our fine Scotch and Irish satin damask pattern tablecloths are prominent features of this important event.—Crow & Whitmarsh, Cleveland.

Wonderful offerings of sterling character. The enormous quantities of linens that went out of the store last week in no wise spoiled the assortments we spread before you again this morning. The supplies for this white sale were gathered to last through a month of swift selling. And we've a good sized fortune running well into five figures invested in linens that will be brought down fresh every day from the stock rooms. Come and see the linens—then you'll realize better what these low prices mean.—The J. L. Hudson Co., Detroit, Mich.

Good linens reduced. Re-pricing in the linen department is most effectively done—as these specials prove. Dependable qualities, all these linens—the accumulated odd lots from our busy holiday season. Not possible to tell you of all the items—a few will suffice.—The Mills Dry Goods Co., Topeka, Kan.

Gifts for the housekeeper's Christmas. Fancy linens. An unusually large stock of fancy linens has been gathered for the holiday season. Beautiful qualities, dainty patterns and perfect workmanship in each and every piece. Many lots were secured in special purchases and represent exceptional value-giving. A most satisfactory selection may be made here for the the housekeeper.—Stanley, Mills & Co., Ltd., Hamilton, Can.

Holiday linens—nicely boxed. No housekeeper ever had too many linens; and here there is nothing that a woman will prize more. You rarely ever heard of a bride exchanging presents of linen. We have prepared more liberally than ever for the great holiday demand for these goods. There are some extra good values among them, too, notwithstanding the increased price of the raw materials. See the handsome circular designs for round tables; they are very attractive. We are in a position to give you values never before heard of. We have been preparing for this great holiday sale for months, and manufacturers have not disappointed us. Our stock is filled to overflowing with new and choice bargains.—Wren's, Springfield, Ohio.

Embroidered linens. These are mentioned for the benefit of the woman who finds another piece or two of fancy linen necessary to complete the dress of the Thanksgiving table. Finished pieces are shown in the most exquisite hand embroidery on fine linen from Austria, Japan or Ireland. Each done in the peculiar style characteristic of its nationality. Many exquisite drawnwork pieces are also shown from Japan.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Irish linens, in our annual February sale (two floors up). Ireland, with its peculiar facilities for bleaching, has given to the world linens which can hardly be surpassed for durability and soft, silky appearance. We are carrying in all sizes a large number of the "Old Bleach" sheetings and towels, which are entirely dependent upon the old fashioned method of grass bleaching—and this, under the rare atmosphere of Ireland, is conducive to the very best results.—The Scott Dry Goods Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

The most successful sale of linens we have ever had, mostly all of the great values that were given in last week's sale will be offered again this week and many more specials will be included; we haven't space to mention them here, but the three following items will serve as examples of the splendid values.—Geo. B. Peck, Kansas City, Mo.

Until the last winter article is closed out this half-price clearance will continue. Many of the garments concerned are eminently suitable for spring—especially the staple styles in black, which are proper all the year round. This is an exceptional opportunity to supply both present and future needs—the average saving in all departments is one-half.—Philipsborn, Washington, D. C.

Go to the linen department of any store and you can safely stop there and form your opinion of the whole establishment. We can safely permit you to judge this store by its linens. Since the oldest housekeeper hereabouts can remember, this store has been noted for its linens. If ever you find a hint of cotton in linen bought here, you would make us firm friends of yours by reporting same and returning goods. This has been the watchword of this store as long ago as this store had its beginning, and never has there been a time when linen buying could be better done here than right now.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

In order to introduce our linen department which has just been added since moving into new quarters, we will on Monday morning, September 18th, have a linen opening, on which day we quote some specially low prices which will be of great interest to smart housekeepers. Look these over.—A. G. Douglass Co., Columbia, S. C.

Linens That Are Linens.—Table linens, shirtwaist linens, dress linens. Absolute security and satisfaction are yours when buying linens here, because there is never the disappointment that comes when cotton baseness is revealed at the laundering time. The linens we sell improve in the washing.—C. Cohn, San Bernardino, Cal.

When beautiful linen in fine and popular weave can be had for 15 1-2c. under regular selling price, it's time to hustle for it. So women thought yesterday—and how pleased they were with it. If yesterday's rate of selling keeps up to-day late comers are sure to be disappointed. Yes, it's a trifle heavier than batiste weight and is thirty inches wide.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Tons upon tons of fine and serviceable linens; thousands of ready-made sheets and pillow cases; great stacks of bedspreads; case after case of muslins and sheetings, besides the great quantity of fancy linens, will again characterize our linen and muslin sale to-morrow. We have had a week of marvelous selling and we shall commence our second week of selling with still greater attractions than ever.—H. S. Barney Co., Schemectady, N. Y.

Never Too Many Linens. Almost the first thing a woman asks for when inspecting a new house is: Where is the linen closet?

And the larger it is the better she likes the house.

You might as well give in to it, Mr. Husband—let your wife buy all the linens she wants, for they are a good investment.

One of the famous old linen merchants said only recently to our linen manager: "My boy, I am glad that your house took the stand it did for all linen, and that you are sticking to it; it is the only honest thing to do."—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

Household Linens. Just now there's a particularly good chance to get long tablecloths, for festive occasions, at prices considerably lower than usual. Perhaps this is true more particularly of the better qualities than of the ordinary sorts; but in the average family the long cloth is used upon occasions when the housewife wants her table to look its best, and not so frequently but what most people can afford a good one.—The William Taylor Son & Co., Cleveland, O.

Every housekeeper knows her own trouble in securing towelings, spreads and all those linen accessories to home comfort in the right quality and at the proper price. This is the niche where our department fits to perfection.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Dependable linens at cut prices, too. Linens, like diamonds, have to be bought on faith unless you are an expert. The good appearance often comes out in the wash. At Loeser's you get the facts—linens that will wash and wear just as represented.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A Wonderful Showing of Linens.—More women are daily adopting the rules set a long time ago by some farsighted wise ones that when the best linens are needed the Linen Store is the place to get them. Prove it for yourself to-morrow.—Clark & Stevens, Baltimore, Md.

Linens that the fire came near but didn't touch—just near enough for Freund, Friese & Co. to call them "damaged." But where the "damage" is, neither you nor we can tell. Perhaps its in the prices! Sure, that's where it is! Just see how the prices are shattered.—H. A. Meldrum Company, Buffalo.

Fine Dress Linens from Irish Looms.—There's lustre and life in these linens—real flax from Irish looms, honest textures, staunch and sturdy weights—yet the price of cotton will buy any of them. The newspapers are telling of a tremendous advance in the price of linen—no need of our arguing early buying.—Fourquarean, Temple & Co., Richmond.

No need to tell you how fashionable linen is. Women are wearing embroidered linen hats, carrying linen parasols. As for the dress—the coat, skirt, blouse, the whole costume is linen. What women do want to know is, where they can get best kinds for lowest prices. Here. Undoubtedly.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

As far as these Linen bargains are concerned, there can't be too much of a good thing! For we intend to have everybody, as far as possible, share in these fine offerings; and you certainly won't quarrel with us if we make it possible for you to get your share to-day; if you have put it off until now.—Wanamaker, New York.

Surprising annual output of linens. Prices and qualities reaching beyond comparison. The Linen store joins hands with this great annual white goods event and presents offers that no careful housekeeper can afford to overlook. The offers are all the more notable, too, when one considers the present firmness of the linen market. These linens are of greater interest and value to the public than any previously offered. Preparations have been going on for months. And to-morrow the greatest assemblage of practical things from the best foreign and domestic makers is offered at price concessions unequaled.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We announce this linen sale with the assurance that the stock is well nigh perfect as regards assortments and values. Beginning in a modest way years ago, these sales have each year become more widely known and more widely patronized. This January sale of trustworthy linens is an event of the utmost significance in domestic economy.—Mills' Store News, Topeka, Kan.

The display of fine linens is more beautiful than even we believed. It is impossible to grasp the full significance of such a vast collection of exquisite linens by seeing the items one or two at a time. The full realization comes only when a broad presentation, such as we have arranged this week, groups the various classes of work into one large, continuous picture, which compels admiration from all who see it.—Wanamaker's, New York.

If you housekeepers could look into the future linen and cotton markets you would buy supplies of these "domestics" for a year ahead; if you realized the qualities as storekeepers do, you would know these goods are great values—big quality for little cost—no matter what market changes may come. The cotton market is "up" to a mighty high notch—no doubt of that; yet we are selling standard grades at less than former prices, and at lower prices than it would now cost to replace these goods direct from the looms.—P. A. Bergman & Co., Peoria, Ill.

There has been a remarkable demand for these dainty, white dress linens, and we count ourselves fortunate in having procured such a large quantity at a price concession. They are light and medium weights, soft finished, 36 inches wide; ideal for shirt waists and entire suits. Sold by others at 50 cents a yard; our price, 29 cents.—Macys, New York.

Our linens will please you because every item is exceptionally good and thoroughly honest, and because our immense selling of linens enables us to name the most acceptable prices. When these prices are again cut, as in the items named below, every barrier to rapid buying has been removed.—The Boston Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

A Housekeepers' Sale of Linens and Bedspreads for the Week.—The pride of a housewife is her "linen closet"—a term that includes bedspreads, blankets and sheets, besides linens. This linen closet has a direct bearing on home comfort and on her ability as a manager. Shrewd women plan to renew these necessities when the prices are lowest. Prices are always lowest here, but this week we've moved them down a few notches, so there's no question about the advantage you gain.—Freimuth's, Duluth, Minn.

The kind you want at the time you need them most. Profits are cut out and even heavy losses sustained by this far-famed store for linens during this annual sale, so that all can share in our distribution of truly good linens at ridiculously low cost.—Newman, Brooklyn.

Is your table linen "rich," "smooth," "heavy?" The best dining table, the daintiest meal, may be quite ruined by an unsightly tablecloth. Why shouldn't every family use only nice linen—they can afford it. Never think good pure linen is beyond your means. Hear this. "Hale's" has been within your means many years. Our word is yours that we can keep your table covered with the snowiest, neatest linen for less money than you pay chasing butterfly bargains. "Hale" linen never costs more, it usually costs less.—Hale's, Los Angeles.

An overstocked importer of fine wash fabrics asked us to fix a price at which we would take his entire surplus stock, which was unusually large for this late in the season, owing to the protracted cold weather. To our surprise he accepted our very low offer, and to-day you can't begin sharing with us the advantages we secured by this purchase. The quantity is the largest and the prices the lowest at which we have ever offered equal values, and we expect the selling to be brisk from the start and continue active till every yard has been sold.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

"Quality" is the main thing in linens, and every yard and piece advertised here is of a high quality standard. Our close connection with the leading linen centers of the world brings prices on pure linens down to those usually quoted on cotton mixtures. Big bargains here for hotel keepers and restaurant proprietors as well as for housewives.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Is the key to your linen drawer or closet the guard of a proud store of fine linens?—if you are a careful housekeeper, it probably is. If you are an economical buyer you will seize every opportunity to add good linens to it. If you are a particular buyer you'll take this linen stock as your standard of calculation—if you do this faithfully we have no fear of the results. And you need have no fear of a stock that combines safety with price reductions—for that's true economy. Our linen chief is bubbling with enthusiasm over the values for this three weeks' sale, commencing to-morrow. — Chamberlain-Johnson-Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

For the best part of a year we've been getting ready for this sale. Our representatives across the water have studied every phase of the linen market, and at opportune moments have taken advantage of favorable turns and procured for us some of the finest linens ever imported, at such advantageous terms that we are enabled to offer them at prices far below usual sale figures. Back of every yard offered stands the broadest guarantee known. Even though your linen closets are overflowing, it will pay to buy a new supply, for this is one chance in a thousand to secure the highest class fabrics at a mere nothing.—The Furst Co., Jersey City, N. J.

Our great linen organization here and abroad has been preparing for this sale for the past year—creating new patterns, placing large orders with manufacturers under the most advantageous terms, and assembling a stock which leaves nothing of merit to be desired—nothing required in any of the divisions of the stock which is not abundantly represented by great assortments of the best that have been produced.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Linens, Table and Household.—Every housekeeper knows good linens when she sees them; every woman delights in a beautiful, glossy supply of it for her table, and rejoices in a bountiful store for the household. Our linen bargains this week afford excellent opportunity to secure extra good values at greatly reduced prices.

Linens are staple goods that must be selected with care from standard manufacturers in order to insure satisfaction to our customers in the matter of finish and wear. We carry the famous Richardson weaves, which is sufficient guarantee of worth, and all those people who have anything to do with furnishing a house will be glad to know it is on these linens we have made the following reductions this week.—Olds, Wortman & King.

Housekeeping Linens.—The necessity of a copious and well-assorted supply of household linen to make good housekeeping possible is too obvious to require extended comment. The source of supply is another matter. We've made our store the best source we know—we've demonstrated that fact sufficiently often for most people to know it. We sell the sturdy, sincere linens, that, like good friends, prove their staying qualities by the test of time and wear.—Hysinger & Rosenthal, Peoria, Ill.

You can replenish your linen closet now with better linens at a less expense than any other time of year.—J. Lecour & Sons, Kankakee, Ill.

Substantial attractions at the linen counter. When we get hold of a good bargain in linens we are delighted to pass it over to our customers.—Imperial Dry Goods Co., Altoona, Pa.

For the summer home, cottage or camp, inexpensive linens and bedding are as serviceable as your finest, while if damaged or lost, the cost is of no great moment. The linen store offers these suggestions—many of them are superb values.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

It may seem strange, but nevertheless these linens were woven and bleached in Ireland and then sent 10,000 miles away to Japan for the drawn work. Even in Ireland, where labor is cheap, the work costs more than in Japan. These linens are all hemstitched and along the hemstitching is a row of very finest open work, then comes a row of narrow open work, and after that, a row of finest open wheel work. They are of such superior quality and so finely drawn that the bargains must be apparent.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

Ask those who buy their linens here, and nine times out of ten they will tell you what we have been telling you for the last two or three years—namely, that better linens than Goldthwait's are not to be had at the prices. Our linen business is conducted along lines different from the general policy that is followed by about nine-tenths of the stores throughout the country. We don't know of another store in this part of Indiana that buys linens direct from the European weavers, as we do. We have seen some very nice linens from other stores but when compared with ours they cost too much. We have also seen a great many flimsy, starch-filled linens which are hardly fit to be classed as linens, and the prices are, even when termed "special," generally exorbitant. We don't claim or even attempt to intimate that we are more philanthropic than any one else—but we do claim, and without fear of intelligent contradiction, that we give better linens for the same and less than you can buy them for in this or any other city throughout this section. No, we don't exclude Indianapolis—not for a minute, for we know, and we have been told by those who have bought linens in both cities that our linens are superior in both quality and beauty to any that they had seen at equal prices. Other stores may not make any more on their linens than we do—the selling prices may be compatible with the costs—but quality is what counts, and it stands to reason that through our buying direct from the foreign weaver we get higher qualities for less than nine-tenths of the stores have to pay the wholesalers and jobbers for inferior grades. But low prices and excellence of qualities are not all that we give—now that we have moved the linen department to the main floor we carry as many linens as all the other stores in Marion together, and the designs are the newest and prettiest that have been brought out, thus affording you the widest variety as well as the fullest measure of value.—Goldthwait's & Sons Co., Marion, Ind.

Linings of a suitable texture to match the cloth, of a suitable shade to blend with the color, and of a suitable weight to give the right set to the dress are to be found in most complete assortment at the lining department.—Sisson Brothers-Welden Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Beautiful linen lends, perhaps, as much charm as any other one thing to the Thanksgiving table—with the possible exception of the turkey itself. And to this important event in Brooklyn's chief linen store there will be wide attention.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Fortunate is the housekeeper who has not yet left the city, or who can come in for a day's shopping. For she has the unwonted satisfaction, in these days of high-priced linens, of buying the finest, purest qualities of all-flax linens, for every sort of housekeeping purposes, at concessions even from the steadfastly low Wanamaker linen prices.—Wanamaker, New York.

This is a splendid pure linen fabric for shirt waists and shirt waist suits. It is in a sheer, fine weave, and a full yard wide, which makes the price even lower than it already seems. The manufacturer got in a hurry, or this opportunity would not be yours.—Wanamaker, New York.

These linens are our own importation and include some of the most exquisite pieces that ever came from France. Their luster is like satin and their fineness will appeal to every woman who loves beautiful table linens.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Household linens, most alluringly priced. There isn't a housekeeper who hasn't some need of linens for the household. There isn't a housekeeper who cannot find in the subjoined list some of the very linens for which she is looking and at much less than the prices she would naturally expect to pay for them. Lower, in fact, than the customary fair Wanamaker prices.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Artistic pieces of pure linen that delight the vision; and render worthy service, besides.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Here's a chance to replenish the Linen closet in the country home and pay very little for so doing. In fact in every instance the selling price here is less than the cost of importation. So good are these values that we cannot fill mail or telephone orders, and only a limited quantity will be sold to each customer.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Is the key to your linen closet the open sesame to a store of linen you're proud of? If you are a thrifty housekeeper, it probably is. And, also if you're thrifty, you will seize every opportunity to add good linens to it—particularly when you can do so safely and economically. This white sale of linens tenders you a chance you should not lose to make your key the guardian of a veritable treasure-house of linens.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Linen shower for housewives. An occasion where they may "shower" themselves at savings so great that the linens will seem like gifts. This is just one of the periodical sales in the linen store, one of the extra pushes that increase business momentum.—Goodfellow's, Minneapolis, Minn.

These are but a few of the attractions we have planned for to-morrow. This Linen Department will have more than its quota of low prices to tempt shoppers.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Linens for Summer Homes.—We direct attention to a very extensive assortment of Housekeeping Linens, etc., in the serviceable, medium-priced qualities suitable for use at the seashore, country or mountains.—Woodward & Lathrop, Washington, D. C.

For the use which is continuous there is nothing like flax. Every experienced housekeeper knows this. Most, in this community, know that our linens are all flax. Twenty-seven years have taught this fact.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

A great many of our daintiest linens were handled so often during the past busy weeks, that they are no longer quite fresh. Hurried holiday shoppers can't be as careful as they would otherwise be. Hence this large accumulation of rumpled and soiled household and decorative linens, to be disposed of quickly. Besides, approaching inventory compels a clearance of all odd lots at once. The lots are small, the variety very extensive.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Bargains in slightly hurt spreads. These are what are known as "good seconds" of high grade, satin finished and marseilles spreads, all hemmed. The hurts are ever so trifling. In some cases a tiny patch imperfectly woven, in others a slight discoloration, mill blemish. These so-called imperfections, though almost imperceptible, lessen the value of the spreads in the view of the manufacturer, and he gives them to us for less than cost of manufacturing.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

Fresh from a several months' tour of the great linen factories of Ireland, France, Germany and Belgium, our representative explained Saturday how he gathers these white sale lots to sell for so little. "It is hard," he said, "because our regular stock is bought at under-the-market prices, and if you compare it with other stocks at any time of the year you will find, as a rule, our linens cheaper. So the problem isn't to beat the other fellow in value, but to beat ourselves."—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

Every experienced housewife is tempted by a bargain in linens, for the stapleness of linen values makes real bargains the exception rather than the rule. A few days ago our buyer, through a special purchase, secured many very remarkable values in housekeeping and hotel linens, and we in turn want to share our good fortune with our patrons. The economic advantages are much greater than usual. Every one should be interested in this sale, especially the hotel and boarding house keepers, who are large users of these necessities. As an example to show the remarkable savings. Just think of buying napkins, worth $1.25 a dozen, for 69c. You can see at a glance the money you can save. These napkins are white mercerized, wear well and will win us friends by the score. Again, take pillow cases, selling at 12 1-2c. elsewhere, offered during this sale at 7c. These two items are given just to show how great the bargains are. Others equally great.—Chapman & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women who appreciate the really beautiful in art linens will certainly find much to interest and delight them in our fine large new stock. Every one of these beautiful pieces of art are our own exclusive importations—not bought from a wholesaler's stock, but made from our own personal orders. Every piece of these rare and cleverly executed linens are guaranteed handwork, and purchased as they are direct from the makers, we quote you rock bottom prices.—Kaufman's, Trenton, N. J.

This morning at 9 o'clock you will find these linen pieces on display and sale in our art department, at rear of domestic aisle on main floor. Every piece in the lot is of fine, even round thread linen, with hemstitched border and beautiful hand-drawn openwork pattern effects in corners, etc. The tea cloths, 36 to 54 inches, the shams, 32 inches, the scarfs, 18x45 and 18x54 inches, the centerpieces, 12 to 36 inches. Not a piece worth less than $1.00 and from that up to $2.50, all at a uniform price to-day while they last, 48c. the piece.—Chas. P. Nathan Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Sheer linens and lawns, the one with hand embroidery, the other with lacy insertions, tucks and embroidery. Designers have evolved beauty thoughts with unfettered luxuriance in line and effect in these dainty new waists.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Of particular interest is a line of Irish hand-embroidered linens that we had made especially for us. It consists of doilies ranging from 3 1-2-inch tumbler doilies to plate doilies 15 inches in diameter, and center pieces from 18 inches to 30 inches in diameter—as well as oval and square centers and scarfs. All of them are scalloped and beautifully embroidered in the prettiest designs and many of them have doilies and center pieces to match.—The Wm. Taylor Son & Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

News of New Linens. Linens You Can Trust.—When you find an item you can trust you have gone a long way towards being satisfied. To satisfy folks in linens has long been a success with us. People believe in our linens because long acquaintance with these particular makes has proved every excellence and made certain all that we claim for them. To-day—aside from their absolute purity, perfect bleaching and great durability—we point to the fact that the proverbial beauty of designs in former gatherings is wholly eclipsed by the present exquisite showing. Take, for example, these pieces, on display, for your polished table; made of finest pure linen, with hand-made Dutch torchon; made to shape—no seams—and inserted in squares and circles. Who that loves a pretty table could keep down a feeling of admiration on beholding them?—Fourqurean, Temple & Co., Richmond.

Have a look at the pretty table covers we are sending out on approval. Their appearance will charm you straightway, and the low price for goodness given is the most attractive thing in bargain prices you've ever met with. These tapestry table covers are made to give years of gratifying wear, and they're just the sort of brightly colored table cover you want. In fact, so certain are we that this is so, we'll send you one to examine—to try if it suits your room and taste. If it doesn't, return it and we will refund you any money sent, and also pay carriage both ways.—Catesby & Sons, London, Eng.

A sale of fine linens. To be able to bring about such pronounced economies as these is an achievement of which any store might feel proud—for linens are "staple goods"—as staple as the groceryman's sugar.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Washington.

Linens like these add much to the beauty of the dinner table. New supplies have just come to us, from one of the best of Scotch makers. They are two grades of table linen that might be called examples of the survival of the fittest.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Damask Linens for the Table.—Plenty of variety in patterns in the fine flax, which gives long wear, yet modest prices prevail for such beautiful lines of napery—the combination which means dainty table dressing without entailing much expense.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Table Linens—Less Than They Would Cost Us Now.—When you buy a table cloth or a dozen napkins for less money than it would cost us now buying by the hundreds of dozens, it seems a chance worth turning to advantage, doesn't it?—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Little bill to pay the laundryman—and there you have a new table cloth as perfect as ever was for less than half its value.—The Robert Simpson Co., Toronto, Ont.

Key to Linen Economy. When a woman buys Mathewson's double damask table cloths she does something to long remember with extreme satisfaction. It's not in the range of possibility to get qualities that wear better—for Mathewson's are pure, fine, heavy, dew bleached linen through and through. The patterns, too, are well calculated to appeal forcibly to fastidious tastes.—Burke, FitzSimmons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Reliable Napkins Costing Less Than Usual.—Quality in linen is absolute. If table linens, of good quality, cost less than usual, so much the better for the housewife that needs them. That's the case with these half-dozen sorts of All-linen Napkins.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Clearing the table linens. Pattern cloths and damask remnants, mussed and soiled during the January sales, priced for speedy clearance.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

Table Linens. Everything thread pure linen in these napkins and piece linens, superior qualities in both lines, which enhance the bargain value.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto.

Exceptional values in table linens. Every good housekeeper prides herself on the perfectness of her napery supply, for the most elaborate china or choice tableware looks comparatively tame if the table linen is frayed or poor. Thanksgiving and other festal seasons are approaching, so be forehanded and purchase a supply of choice linens now and have them made up. Look where you will, comparison will prove that the following items are better qualities at lower prices than it is possible to find elsewhere in Los Angeles.—Hamburgers, Los Angeles, Cal.

Linens Make a Stir.—And shouldn't they do so, when such fine and beautiful table furnishings may be had for so much less than even the low prices which are usual at Loeser's?—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The linen table cloth, with the border all the way round, is vastly more artistic and finished in its effect than the cloth cut off the piece. Of course, it is usually more expensive, too. But not to-day! And that's the reason that tasteful housekeepers, with linen needs, should visit Wanamaker's to-day.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Table linen, napkins, towels.—Some of the most serviceable linens that we have are in the news this morning—truly economical because of their service qualities; pleasing until worn out because of good looks and good wear.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

This is an attractive collection of Irish hand-embroidered table pieces and bureau scarfs. The snow white linen is of a fine and serviceable quality and the embroidery is exclusively done by hand.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Linens at Little Prices.—The rapidity with which these table linens have disappeared when they have been placed on the counter tells of appreciation. At the new prices below they cannot be matched. A word to the wise is sufficient.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Linens won't linger at these little prices. When the good housewife sees the prices on this lot of fine table linens, she will certainly attend to the replenishment of her linen closet.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Something very new is shown in machine-embroidered doilies and center-pieces. They are triple stitched, scalloped edge pieces, ranging from 4 to 27 inches in diameter and in price from — — — Sisson Bros.-Welden Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Famous for their soft, mellow finish, with no starch or other foreign ingredients. We import vast quantities of these Austrian linens, and now a large accumulation of "remainders" is repriced for quick clearance. A host of pretty patterns.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Linens Specials. The buyer's opportunity—one more cut in table linens for Friday and Saturday.—J. Mickleborough, Ltd., St. Thomas' Best Store, St. Thomas, Ont.

A bit of news concerning table linens that will sharpen up your appetite.—Z. L. White & Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Superior excellence in linens. The linen mills of Ireland and Scotland make no better quality of pure linen than they have sent us. Big consignments have just come in direct from the leading manufacturers of Belfast, Dunfermline and Perth. Fine table linens. The rare qualities represented in our table linens is perhaps the first thought that strikes one on seeing our new lines. They are magnificent. The purest linen fabric known—a beautiful close weave with most attractive finish.—Hudson Bay Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Remnants of damask. One counter of pure linen table damask in remnants, some slightly soiled but that is easily helped. You will find in this lot many choice patterns and if you can find the lengths to fit your table you are lucky as the prices are just about half what you pay in a regular way for linens. Don't miss this opportunity of buying table linens.—Jas. L. Tapp Co., Columbia, S. C.

Reduced linens. After all, it's the linens that are at the bottom of the beauty of your china, your silver, your glassware; and the linens it is which make the food appetizing and the table attractive. To-day we're quoting you reductions from old low prices on a number of our choicest grades.—Coulter Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Good linens. Better buy them here and now. Why? One quick glance at these snowy mounds of table cloths, napkins, towels, etc.—then another glance at the price tags—and the question's answered. To specially price the best linens while their cost is soaring is just the kind of surprise which this store delights to offer—and which has helped to build its popularity. We bought well, long ago when the market was much lower, and it's our pleasure to share the benefits of our foresight with our customers. Whether you need linens now or not, buy liberally for you'll surely pay more before you pay less.—The Boston Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

Commencing this morning at 8:30 o'clock sale of linen table damask and napkins. This is the first special sale of housekeeping linens we have arranged for since the opening of our new domestic department on main floor. Our lines in pure flax, both bleached and unbleached, represent the highest grades of both German and Irish manufacture. They were purchased direct, chosen with an experienced care, and as an introduction to these lines we have picked out from our regular stock six values in linen table damask and four values in damask napkins, and marked them to within a fraction of the import cost, and the sale prices in the quotations below will undoubtedly be interesting alike to the housewife, the hotelkeeper and the restaurateur.—Chas. P. Nathan Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Linen damask table cloths. Two-dollar cloths, every thread linen. Just such a cloth as every ambitious housekeeper would like to see spread on her table—woven from the finest quality of Irish linen. These cloths have a rich satiny finish and are grass bleached snowy white. Handsome designs and bordered all around. Size $2 \times 2\frac{1}{2}$ yards.—The T. Eaton Co., Ltd., Winnipeg, Can.

Unmatchable offers in table linen. Everyone knows that we have the best and largest linen store in Brooklyn, with by far the largest and best assortment of every sort of linen product, but the remarkable difference between our prices and those of other stores for equal quality cannot be fully appreciated without comparison. Brooklyn women know that our prices are always the lowest for any and all merchandise, but if you have time it will pay you to try to match these linens anywhere in Greater New York. The items below are merely a special line for to-morrow.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sturdy new linens selling, this week, at even less than former low prices. Thirty new patterns at $1.00. In spite of the rapidly rising market prices and the great scarcity of desirable goods, we have been able to secure a most representative showing and will be able to offer this new merchandise at the old prices. We heartily solicit your inspection during our spring sale this week.—Reed's, Mansfield, Ohio.

Luxury without extravagance. Rich, fine table linen, superb designs, unparalleled for artistic elegance in the history of damask weaving. A word to the wise is sufficient. Thrifty housekeepers will do well to take advantage of this great money-saving sale. Extra salesmen to insure prompt attention to all.—Shepard Norwell Co., Boston, Mass.

Every woman in Harrisburg who is a judge of good table linen knows what a sale of Bleachers' Damages means. The most unbounded enthusiasm has marked every sale of the kind that we have ever had. But important as all preceding sales of Bleachers' Damages have been, we feel safe in saying that we have never before prepared on so liberal a scale as now. We should like to have every woman in Harrisburg come to the store to-morrow to see the immense assortment of linen patterns, and to share in the unusual price-concessions. Every yard of linens in the sale of Bleachers' Damages was imported direct from Thornliebank, Scotland, where the world's best linens are made. Some of the best values will be found among the pattern cloths that are very slightly hurt—a little tear in taking the cloths from the calendar barred the patterns from passing a perfect inspection. And best of it all is that you can see each little tear at a glance—a black thread is sewed right over the injured place. Just remember the patterns are the most beautiful obtainable and the quality in each case, is of the very best.—Dives, Pomeroy & Stewart, Harrisburg, Pa.

Fine Irish table linen. Tablecloths, napkins, table doilies or anything to decorate the festive board, will make a useful Christmas gift for the housewife. Liberal price reductions for Monday. Don't miss these.—The Broadway Department Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

Fine imported all linen towels direct from the looms—not a single thread of cotton in any of them, all our regular numbers, and many new ones are represented, hemmed, fringed, damasks, hucks, hemstitched, figured towels.—Dayton's, Minneapolis, Minn.

Linens—one of the richest of Christmas gifts. Ask a housewife to show you some of her choicest treasures and nine times out of ten she will show you linens, perhaps a cloth, or maybe a collection of daintily worked doilies and centerpieces, or possibly a scarf given to her years ago. Linens, like good books, grow more fascinating with age, and one generally delights in adding to her store—that is, if they are good linens, pure through and through, such as you will get at this store. We are rather proud of our linen stock, not only because it is the finest in this section, but because we have in it some of the best linens that are sent from abroad. Our prices are the very lowest consistent with quality. Crumb cloths, the finest of French, Scotch, Irish and German full bleached, satin and plain finish damask, 36 and 45 inches square, hemstitched and open-work, 75c. to $5.—Goldthwait & Sons Co., Marion, Ind.

Brocade table damasks. Attention is invited to another shipment of these beautiful goods just received containing a number of entirely new designs. We have no hesitation in pronouncing these brocade damasks in many respects the most interesting and attractive table linens we have ever seen. The cognomen "Brocade" has been applied to them because the patterns stand out from the plain background with such wonderful distinctness and sharpness. The designs are so altogether unusual and of such artistic excellence as to stamp them the work of a master artist. Besides the goods are finished with a luster of the brilliancy of silk, which repeated laundering does not diminish. They may be had in a variety of qualities, ranging from medium to fine, as the following prices indicate.—Jas. McCutcheon, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Beautiful fine quality tablecloths. We have some seventy seconds in beautiful quality tablecloths that we intend to clear out to-morrow with a rush. By seconds we mean cloths with slight blemishes, perhaps only a thread dropped, something at any rate that can be easily repaired. Every one of the cloths is of superior quality and perfectly grass bleached. The designs are particularly handsome with borders all round. There is a range of sizes.—The T. Eaton Co., Ltd., Winnipeg, Can.

Fine Irish linen tablecloths, special $1.98. It would have been so easy to have marked the price tickets at $2.50 and then given overflowing good value too. But then these cloths were one of those fortunate trade incidents—which our buyers are always on the lookout for when abroad, and so frequently run across—and in these it's always our policy to share our good fortune with our patrons, even to the last penny.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Table linens are Christmas gifts that the housekeeping friend always appreciates. These are gifts that combine thoughtfulness, utility, and beauty. They need not be expensive, either, to be genuinely good, if you select from the Kaufman store. Notice, for instance, these splendid all-linen values.—Kaufman's, Trenton, N. J.

The mechanism of our great linen buying organization has been at work for months—the looms of Ireland, Scotland, Germany, Belgium and France have contributed their choicest products of great trade deals that have been consummated—quantities have been absorbed that would overwhelm an ordinary store and we are now ready with that which is in every particular the greatest linen movement ever conducted by the Bamberger store, which is equivalent to saying that this is the most gigantic sale ever attempted locally.—Bamberger's, Newark.

Sale of bath and face towels. No outfit of camper or cottager going to the beach is complete without a good supply of towels. Not the cheap flimsy kind that will stand for but one using, but those which can be used over and over again and at the end of the season, unless they have had very hard wear, are still in good condition.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

The aristocracy of towels. Most well-informed housekeepers are familiar with the real Italian linen towels, which have been the pride of well-to-do housekeepers who possess them. They are made of grass-bleached huckaback, hand-stitched, or with deep hand-tied fringe; some with drawn-work and a few with colored borders. The prices range from small face cloths at 75c and $1.25, up to the very large towels with elaborate fringe, at $6 each.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Greatest towel values ever. This sounds like brag, but see the towels; the kind of towels! Such a lot of them! They're piled up like slab wood along a snake fence. Their ability to dry things is so apparent that the sight of them creates thirst. This is no exaggeration. These towels are not the kind that leave a fringe hanging to one's features or that slump in the hand like a drowned biscuit.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

LOANS

Our Money is yours if you need it. We loan money to anyone. We can make a loan in an hour's time. We loan any amount from $5 up. We loan money for one month to one year. We loan on furniture, pianos, horses and wagons, fixtures or any chattel security without removal. We loan money to pay bills of any kind. We take up loans from other companies and advance more money at cheaper rates and easier terms. We give you the full amount asked for. We take out nothing in advance. We extend the time in case of sickness or misfortune. You can pay weekly, monthly or quarterly. You can pay in full at any time and be charged only for the time you have it. All business is strictly confidential. No inquiries made among your neighbors. No one will know you borrowed the money. Call and investigate. It will pay you.—Marion Loan Co., Marion, Ind.

Have you several accounts outstanding which require nearly all of your weekly income to meet the payments? Have you ever thought how much better it would be if you only owed at one place? Have you made plans for your business and find that you are short $50 or $100? We often supply the last few dollars which turns the tide for energetic men and starts them on the road to success. In whatever circumstances you may be, and find that you need money, call and see us. Do not stay away because you owe another loan firm or furniture store, but call and learn our methods. Our plans are modern, our time is long, our terms are easy. Your furniture, piano, fixtures, horses or vehicles will be good security for a loan of any amount from $5.00 to $100.—Marion Loan Co., Marion, Ind.

We make loans on real estate, build homes and extend venter's lien notes on annual, semi-annual, quarterly or monthly payments. No delay. Can close loan the day you apply.—Texas Savings Loan Ass'n., Waco, Texas.

Money to loan on real estate, notes, salaries, furniture, pianos, organs, diamonds, jewelry, horses, wagons, farm implements, guns, typewriters, warehouse receipts, bicycles, rents, legacies, incomes, accounts, coal leases. Payments may be made in instalments, and the charges reduced in proportion. If you cannot call, drop us a line or 'phone us, and we will have our agent call on you. All business strictly confidential.—Tierney Brothers, Bay City, Mich.

If you are putting money in the bank, you look for the safest institution. Why not use the same care when you deposit your valuables for a loan? We have a building and safes made for that purpose. All business confidential. Money loaned on watches, diamonds, jewelry, all personal property, etc.—S. Goodstein & Son, New York.

Want to Use Some Money?—We will accommodate you with the cash on the spot if you let us hold your watch, diamond or jewelry as security. Considering the accommodation, our charge is trifling.—City Loan Co., Hartford, Conn.

Loaning money—is one department in our business. We make them quickly and you can make whole or partial payments. If you want the money, see us.—Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

Ask your friends where is the best place to make a loan on a diamond or a watch, in a good, safe, reliable place. We assure you that he will tell you to go to the Boston Loan Co., Hartford.

We are positively making loans at less charges than any others in this business, so that you will save money by seeing us before obtaining a loan. Why not investigate for yourself before borrowing? We will be pleased to give you full particulars free of cost.—Delaware Loan Co., Wilmington, Del.

If you have not money enough and need an immediate loan, you can get what you want from us quickly and without publicity and at the lowest rates of interest. If you owe a little bill which will fall due before you can spare the money to pay it, come to us and borrow. If you hold, and have been holding for some time, a good permanent position that in itself will be satisfactory evidence of integrity.—Marion Loan Co., Marion, Ind.

Scrip and Sermon.—You can get them both from us if you need them. A broker has much valuable experience of this world besides lending money. We charge a little for the money. Nothing for the Sermon.—The Boston Loan Co., Hartford, Conn.

Money for your vacation trip. If the lack of ready cash is your only obstacle in taking a vacation, better come and let us tell you how to simplify such a matter. We all need a vacation at least once a year, and if you haven't had yours it's a plain duty to yourself to make arrangements for one without delay. Borrow the money from us—the rest and change will benefit you tenfold, compared with the small cost of the loan. We arrange these loans quickly, through strictly private and legitimate methods, and upon the most liberal terms and lowest rates ever offered. Your furniture, piano, horses, wagons or other personal property will be security for the loan, but are not removed or disturbed in any way. For the quickest service, fairest treatment and the most liberal plans, you'll have to come to us.—Fidelity Loan Co., Springfield, Ill.

We do not remove the goods from your house. You have the use of both goods and money. You can get the money at any time during the month and we will make the payments fall due on your pay-days. You do not pay anything in advance. You know when you get the loan just how much it is going to cost you. You can get the money within a few hours after you make application. If you have a number of small debts that bother you every month why not get a small loan from us and pay them off and have only one place to pay? Your credit once established with us is the same as having a bank account. A call will convince you that we have the quickest, most convenient and cheapest plan for loaning money in Blair County. No publicity.—American Loan Co., Altoona.

Money to loan on your own personal note and on household furniture. We have a plan which makes it very easy for you to get immediate use of any amount from five dollars to $100. No bother. No trouble. No Red Tape methods here. With this easiest of all plans, no one is needed to stand as security for you. And we give positive assurance that there will be no publicity. Our idea is to trust you and give you the greatest amount of accommodation in the easiest possible way without any annoying features of any kind. Special rebate plan. One great advantage of getting your loan from this company is this: If you find that you can pay off the loan before it is due you may do so. And you will have to pay only for the actual time you keep the money. This privilege means a great saving to you. Pay in little installments. If your income is small, you will find the longer time we give you very desirable.—Household Loan Co., Reading, Pa.

Suppose fifty or sixty dollars would pay off all the little accounts you owe. Wouldn't it be well to obtain that amount of money, settle all these bills, and have just one small payment to meet? Of course we are here to loan our money, but our best argument is that it is worth what you pay for the use of it. By arranging for a loan on your household goods, piano, team, farm implements or warehouse receipts, you furnish the security yourself, and are not under obligations to anyone. All transactions strictly confidential and private. $1.44 is the weekly payment on a $60 loan for fifty weeks, and other amounts in proportion. We also have a monthly and quarterly payment plan. We make loans in all towns and any part of the country within a radius of forty miles of Peoria. If you wish to get some money fill out this blank and mail it to us and our representative will call and see you.—Peoria Loan Co., Peoria, Ill.

Don't let the sun go down and leave you unacquainted with our plan of making loans, if you have need for money to tide you over. Promptness in supplying money, privacy of transaction and modest fees are features of our plan well for you to know. Loans made on furniture, fixtures, pianos, horses, wagons, cattle, etc., without their removal, on the day you apply, possibly within an hour. Full amount of the loan applied for in cash. No charges of any kind taken out in advance.—Fidelity Loan Co., Peoria, Ill.

When you weigh the advantages of our plan of loaning money upon your personal property without their removal you'll understand how it's to your advantage to save your friendships and borrow here. Any amount, large or small, lowest possible charges, fairest special plan of repayment, shortest notice and full amount of the loan applied for in cash among the advantages. Loans made on furniture, fixtures, pianos, horses, wagons, cattle, etc.—Fidelity Loan Co., Peoria, Ill.

Now you can avail yourself of this advantage immediately because only the lowest rates are charged, which enables you to not only help yourself conveniently, as well as confidentially, but you can repay us in easy installments to suit your income—either weekly or monthly. Come in and see us anyway, it costs you nothing. Information free. We'll send to you if you wish. Call, write or phone.—Joliet Loan Company, Joliet, Ill.

LUMBER

Taking advantage of a good opportunity is what every one should do when it presents itself, especially in such an important matter as building lumber, as a saving on what you buy for that new home will amount to quite a sum when you compare our prices for high-grade building lumber with those of any other house.—Bradley, Miller & Co., Bay City.

Going to Build?—The lumber yard to deal with is the one that gives you good, clear, well-seasoned lumber at the lowest prices.—Henry J. Adams, Youngstown.

It's never too late to mend up your houses, barns and fences. There is no use in having an old-fashioned and inconvenient house when you can modernize it at a reasonable cost by buying your building lumber from us.—M. C. Reynolds Lumber Co., Birmingham, Ala.

Waiting until "by and by" to get a home is merely another way of saying you never intend to. Right now is the time to enjoy the good things of life. Other people do it. Why not you? Right now is the time to make up your mind to build. And as soon as you make up your mind to build you should make up your mind to build right. When you get that far we're safe for your contract. We put up a house as it ought to be put up. Use the material that ought to be used—the best—and do our work skillfully. For all this we charge a very reasonable price. Don't you think you ought to consult with us about your proposed new building?—Combs Lumber Co., Lexington, Ky.

Lumber news. The lumber business is one where constant watchfulness and care is needed to secure the best results. We are always careful to protect our customers by selling them only the best in the particular grade purchased.—Williamson & Sons, Lexington, Ky.

You can't get away from it, good lumber pays. The cheap sort is all right for a time, the fairly priced lasts long, as real worth always does. We prefer to, and do deal, in one sort of lumber only—the kind we're not ashamed to own a year after we sell it. All shapes and sizes of hard and soft woods for building and other purposes.—Lexington Lumber Co., Lexington, Ky.

The builder who has contracts under way naturally does not want delays and disappointment to interfere with his work. His source of lumber supply should be a sure one that he can place absolute trust in. It is a point of pride with the Lexington Lumber & Manufacturing Company to always keep its promises, and owing to the large stock of lumber suitable for all purposes, they have little difficulty in filling orders.—Lexington Lumber & Manufacturing Company, Lexington, Ky.

Lumber supplies should be ordered early in the autumn, so that deliveries can be made before winter sets in, as there is nothing like having the stuff right on the ground when you want it. At our yards you can take your pick of the best quality of hard woods, pine, spruce, hemlock, etc., for all purposes of building. Shingles, lath, moulding, etc., for interior finish.—Lexington Lumber Co., Lexington, Ky.

Dressed or undressed lumber of any kind for any purpose easily had here. Surfaced one side or four, tongued, grooved, "plain as a pikestaff"—any way that's an honest way you like it. Prompt delivery, correct pricing and fair dealing help to sell our admittedly first-class lumber.—Austin Simkins, Schenectady.

The condition of the house is of more interest to the woman who lives in it than anybody else. It is she who cares most if it looks shabby or needs repairing. It costs very little to make an old house look better. Perhaps it only needs a new coat of paint. But if there is any decaying woodwork it can be quickly and cheaply attended to. We are ready with anything you may need in the lumber line—siding, sheathing, boarding, casing, molding, shingles or flooring in any quantity desired.—Combs Lumber Company, Lexington, Ky.

Up and down lumber handling will go except as to price. We have only one—though that may vary from day to day—the one that covers us a small margin of profit over what we pay the mills. Will you keep that in mind? Ask us if you would know more.—Lexington Lumber and Manufacturing Co., Inc., Lexington, Ky.

Good posts make good fences. We have plenty of good ones.—Chuning & Poynter, Bigelow, Mo.

MAIL ORDER DEPARTMENT

Shopping by mail.—You are just as safe in shopping with us by mail as if you were buying in person. All orders are promptly and intelligently attended to. Our mail order department is thoroughly equipped and our facilities for the executing of out-of-town orders cannot be surpassed. We invite patronage through this department.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Mail orders intelligently and properly filled by a corps of trained shoppers who look after customers interests in purchasing; as much so in fact as if you did your shopping in person.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

If you fly away before buying all your fixings that make the comfort of vacation, remember we can do business by mail; the express begins where the mail leaves off; everything we carry can be carried to you.—Eiseman & Weil, Atlanta, Ga.

Whenever you want things, and cannot visit our store, write; all the advantages of selecting from new, fashionable, dependable merchandise are as fully yours when ordering by mail as if you came in person, there is never any risk about what you buy at this store. Be friendly, tell us what you want, if to substitute or not, and if you send too much money, we will return your change. We are in business to do you good if you will let us. Popular goods at popular prices, selling on close margins, and one price to all makes this a safe place to trade, either by mail or in person.—H. W. Clarke & Co., Simcoe, Ont.

A letter came from Galveston, Texas, the other day. The writer said, "I bought a piano from you a couple of years ago and it has given such special satisfaction to us that I want you to pick out for me a couple of the Oriental rugs which I see you are advertising. I think a store which treated me so well once, may be trusted to do it again." The store's mail order service reaches from Canada to Texas, from Maine to California; but especially for Brooklyn people who become out-of-towners in the summer it is well organized.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mail orders.—We don't care how far you live from the city; we can supply you with any merchandise if you will send us your order by mail, and remember, "What others advertise, we sell for less."—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

We have the largest mail order department, with the quickest service, in the South. All orders leave us the same day they are received, and if you need goods quickly and want what you order, send your orders to us. They will receive our prompt attention.—Murray Drug Co., Columbia, S. C.

Mail orders.—Now that the new goods are fast coming in upon us and you will probably be more or less interested in the new things, we want you to send for samples of materials for fall and winter garments. Our mail order department is well equipped to attend to your wants in a hurry. No delays. Send us your next order. We guarantee satisfaction.—Titche-Goettinger Co., Dallas.

Goods sold by mail at prices which save to the consumer the cost of traveling expenses. Money back for anything not entirely satisfactory.—Robert Duncan & Co., Hamilton, Ont.

Mail orders quickly executed. If you cannot attend this sale in person, mail your order for the articles wanted. Just as much care and attention will be given your orders as if you were right on the spot.—The Boston Store, Aurora, Ill.

Don't travel in the heat to buy what you need, if the mail can carry it to you. It's handier, and simpler, and cheaper. You see, we make it such a deep point of honor to have you suited, and to buy for you just as we would for ourselves, personally. That's our strong point—the main reason why we have been so successful in our mail order business.—Dives, Pomeroy & Stewart, Pottstown, Pa.

Our mail order department is thoroughly organized for the safe and quick transaction of business. Your requests for information, samples or merchandise receive intelligent attention with the least possible delay. As an interest of this store it is a development. Started in a small way, it has gradually grown in volume and been perfected in efficiency until the service it renders is as good as we know how to make it. System, punctuality and fair prices are its salient features.—Chamberlin-Johnson-Dubose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Those who are away.—You can keep in touch with this serviceable outfitting store by mail and express. Wherever you are and whatever you need in our lines, write us about it. We'll give it careful and prompt attention.—Horsfall & Rothschild, Hartford, Conn.

No matter in what part of the South you live you can send an order here and get it back properly filled sooner than it would have had time to reach any of the stores in the East or West. You run no risk in shopping with us, for we guarantee satisfaction. If we substitute we do it at our own risk, subject to your approval. If anything goes wrong you can get your money back just as easily as if you asked for it in person. We would be glad to send desired samples free for the asking. No matter what it is you want for personal wear, write us and it will come back in the first mail. Or perhaps you want something for home, for use or ornament. That's here, too,—write. This mail order department is probably the best conducted mail order department in the South. Of course this should be so, for we do probably double—yes, triple—the mail order business of any other local store. It is quite natural that out-of-town shoppers should prefer this store, because we have a larger stock and a more diversified one, and it matters very little what they want, it is very likely to be here. So they send us their orders, because the entire order can be filled and sent in one package. If you live away from Birmingham we would like to serve you, if you shop by mail.—Loveman, Joseph & Loeb, Birmingham, Ala.

Mail orders.—We make a specialty of mail orders. Fill all orders same day received. Try us.—Springston & Faber Co., Peoria, Ill.

Mail order department. Orders continue to pour in.—No part of the Dominion too remote for this mail order department to serve. We promise a prompt and careful attention to all commands—whether for samples or a liberal size order.—Scroggie's, Montreal.

You can shop through the mails as easily as in person.—Garbadi, Ebaud & Co., Galveston, Texas.

Where do you live? City or country? Matters not where, nearby or far. Orders—either mail or 'phone—executed with promptness and dispatch.—Crosby Bros., Topeka, Kan.

Mail orders for these goods will receive the same attention as if they were customers at the counter.—J. Mickleborough, St. Thomas, Ont.

A card dropped in your nearest mail box to-night means prompt delivery of any class of goods we sell. No necessity of taking if the goods are not satisfactory. All orders put in the hands of our city mail order staff will buy any open orders probably a little better than yourself.—T. H. Pratt Co., Hamilton.

In the country yesterday we remembered that lots of our friends can't often visit our stores. To such we are always glad to send samples of clothing—have a special mail order department for their service. Fall samples ready now. Can't sample furnishings, hats or shoes, but sell them by mail just the same.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

Mail orders are a special feature of our business—thoroughly experienced shoppers take proper care of your wants. All goods returnable if not satisfactory.—The Scott Dry Goods Co., Cleveland.

We have the largest mail order department, with the quickest service in the South. All orders leave the same day they are received, and if you need goods quickly and want what you order, send your orders to us. They will receive our prompt attention.—Murray Drug Co., Columbia, S. C.

Do you know that you can do your shopping just as well by mail, thereby saving yourself much time and annoyance? Send us your orders by mail, the manager of this department gives his personal attention to all mail orders, which is a guarantee that your wants will be carefully attended to.—Chapman & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The mail has taken thousands of Eaton catalogs to out-of-town customers. Has yours come? Altogether our new fall and winter catalog is the best we have ever issued, embracing a most desirable selection of this store's merchandise. It gives to our mail order customers equal shopping advantages with city people, a choice that couldn't well be bettered, and the full advantage of Eaton prices. It's time you had received yours—a post card will bring it if it has not yet arrived.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

We can satisfactorily fill your order by mail for anything you see advertised here to-day. Give specific description and be sure to remit the amount designated. We prepay express charges on cash mail orders amounting to $5 or more. The same attention given your order by mail as if you came to the store.—John L. Cobbs & Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Buying furs by mail. To shop successfully by mail one must have confidence in the firm with which one does business. Our reputation for smart styles and good value in furs is known all over Canada, and it is our claim that our customers are served as well by mail as if they came in person to our fur show rooms. "We make everything we sell and guarantee everything we make."—Fairweather's, Toronto, Can.

Out-of-town order by mail. Ordering by mail. Thousands upon thousands of Atlantians sojourning during the summer in all parts of the country, take advantage of the economies and the always dependable qualities of Jacobs' merchandise by shopping by mail. Do not fail to get a catalogue and to have Atlanta papers sent to you so that you can keep in touch with our offers, in this way you will not only get what you want exactly fresh and in good condition but have the Jacobs' price advantage which is enough and more to pay postage or express.—Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta.

Anniversary bargains by mail. We wish out-of-town people to distinctly understand that the mail order department is splendidly ready to supply the bargains of the anniversary sale. Buying through the mails is just as satisfactory as buying in person. Besides if you find your purchase is not satisfactory it may be exchanged or your money will be returned.—Levy Bros.' Dry Goods Co., Houston, Texas.

To our out-of-town friends and customers. Send for a copy of our large mail order catalogue in which we illustrate and describe our complete line of up-to-date, high-grade serviceable merchandise for men, women and children at prices that are extremely low. Our mail order service and values are excellent. That is why we have the largest mail order business in the West.—Weinstock, Lubin & Co., Sacramento.

The mails make us all neighbors. You can shop as safely and satisfactorily at this store by letter as if you were here in person.—Coulter Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Our mail order department is a great convenience, bringing the advantages of our big store direct to you, if within reach of Uncle Sam's mails. No matter where you are, in country, at the mountains, or shore, a line from you to us plainly stating your wants will bring you quick response. Try us when next in need.—Brown, Thomson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

We direct special attention to those of our patrons who have left town for the summer, to our facilities for executing out-of-town orders. Our mail order department is thoroughly organized for this purpose and whether it may be an order for goods or merely a request for samples and prices, we will consider it a pleasure to have you take advantage of this department.—The Scott D. G. Co., Cleveland, O.

Your orders by mail receive the same prompt and careful attention as though you were here shopping in person. Any requests for samples or prices filled on the day of receipt. Remember, we are no further away than the nearest letter box. Favor us with a trial.—The Whitehouse D. G. Co., Spokane, Wash.

We ask that you give our catalogue a careful study. It has been arranged especially for you, and we want you to feel as free and confident in trading with us through it as though you came here in person. You will receive the same fair and satisfactory treatment—we promise. Your order, no matter how small, will receive the same careful and prompt attention. There are hundreds of our catalogue-holders throughout the State who have found that their trading with us by mail has proven highly profitable and thoroughly satisfactory. We expect to hear from you soon.—Standard Furniture Co., Seattle, Wash.

Our mail order department is splendidly equipped and affords persons in all parts of the world unexcelled opportunities for purchasing superior merchandise of every description at exceptionally low prices.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York.

The man with desire and taste to dress well, who lives where he can't get good clothes made, is a pitiful victim of circumstances—but the man who lives where proper tailoring can't be had without the expenditure of an exorbitant number of hard earned dollars is doubly unlucky.

It is to help these two unfortunates that our mail order department has been established. It's a mail order department in a new sense. Not the old go-as-you-please, haphazard sort where out-of-town orders receive but scant attention—it's a big arm of our business and every order received is treated with the same individual care that marks the treatment of our city orders.

Ever order a suit or overcoat by mail? Our way is best. Try it and see if it isn't.—English Woolen Mills Co., Detroit, Mich.

In regard to mail orders, never be afraid to ask questions. Our mail order department is at your service and inquiries regarding prices, qualities and styles will be answered promptly. Make your letters clear; don't think because you understand just what you want that we do, too. Don't be afraid to write long letters; we will take time to read them and do everything possible to accommodate you.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

We shop as carefully for you by mail as if you came to the store in person and made your purchases.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York.

Your mail orders from the mountain or seashore have our prompt attention. What you write for to-day you receive to-morrow.—Excelsior Laundry, Los Angeles, Cal.

Whether you come yourself or send your boy or order by mail, you'll get the same price, same careful treatment, same money back, if not satisfied.—Jackson's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Shop by mail—it saves time, saves money, secures satisfaction. Just get a mail order catalogue and a grocery catalogue and, if you are not already shopping by mail, your one regret will be that you have not done so. We have so improved the service and are extending it in so many ways that we are very proud of it and enjoy talking about it. Just try it. We have our agents in nearly every Long Island town. You will find it a convenience to deal through them. The few points our agents do not reach are covered by Long Island express, and we prepay express or freight charges. We prepay express or freight charges on all purchases to all points of the Middle and Eastern States, and on purchases amounting to $10.00 to all points in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, District of Columbia.—Abraham & Straus Brooklyn, N. Y.

Some one told us the other day they understood we did not fill mail orders for groceries because of the low prices we sell them at. Wrong impression! We always fill mail orders—promptly and carefully—despite the fact that our prices on almost everything are lower than in any other store—where profits help to pay delivery expenses. Money must accompany every order.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

Mail orders receive our personal attention. We make it a point to satisfy our trade. Entrust us with your mail orders and we'll please you with our service and with our prices.—Tartt Bros., Galveston, Texas.

Going away? Whether you're going to the mountains or the beach, let us attend to your dry goods wants this summer. Send us your mail orders and we will guarantee as prompt and careful attention as though you were here shopping in person. A postal will bring samples of anything you may desire. Cut this out and paste it in your trunk as a reminder.—C. Cohn, San Bernardino.

Ordering by mail. Thousands upon thousands of Brooklynites, sojourning during the summer in all parts of the country, take advantage of the economies, and the always dependable qualities of Abraham & Straus merchandise by shopping by mail. Do not fail to get a grocery catalogue and to have a Brooklyn paper sent to you so that you can keep in touch with our offers. Payment of goods may be made in advance by post office money order, express money order, bank draft (which can be had at all banks), checks, payable to Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn. If postage stamps or money order is sent, it is better to register the letter. We prepay express, railroad or mail charges on all purchases to points within 100 miles of Greater New York. Also on $5.00 and over to all points in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and from May until September inclusive we prepay on all purchases to these points. On shipments amounting to $10.00 or over we prepay express, freight or mail charges to all points in Maryland, Tennessee, Wisconsin, Virginia, Kentucky, Michigan, West Virginia, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, District of Columbia. We reserve the privilege of shipping either by freight, express or mail.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Has it come yet? Our January sale catalogue should be in the homes of every one of our mail order customers by this time. If it has not arrived, let us know about it and you'll have a copy of it just as quick as the mail can bring it. There is no time to lose. Orders are coming in from all quarters of this western country, and large as have been our preparations, there is a limit to the supply in the face of the splendid value that our January sale catalogue tells about. The only safe way is to order early—we can't guarantee our present splendid service to late mail order shoppers—but will do our best.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

MEAT

How Women Love Each Other.—"Where yer goin', Maggie?"

"Goin' ter de butcher fer five cents' wort' uv liver."

"Gee, yer goin' ter have company fer dinner, ain't yer?"

—Leslie's Weekly.

Mrs. Crimsonback—"Dinner's ready, John."

Mr. Crimsonback—"Wait till I change my overalls."

Mrs. Crimsonback—"Never mind taking them off, John; you've got a duck to carve."—Buffalo News.

Just ask us over the telephone what you ought to have for dinner and we'll suggest something that you may want. We have everything that's good that can be found on the market. It's clean and pure, too.—Shindley & Shafer, Ottumwa, Ia.

From beginning to finish the flavor of our meats is excellent. All is the flesh of young stock and possesses that juiciness, tenderness and delicious taste which is entirely absent in meat from older animals.—Lightner & Schindler, Ashland, Wis.

Fresh meats are always to be found in this market. We take particular care in the handling of our meats. We have nothing but the best the market affords. We have some of the best families in the city to cater to and we hold them by giving good meats, courteous treatment and prompt delivery. Give us a trial and be convinced.—Gray the Butcher, St. Thomas, Ont.

In the spring the appetite needs zest. The palate is apt to crave things especially toothsome. At this season of the year properly dressed meats attain their finest flavor. The prudent housekeeper knows this, and knows also that we sell the choicest cuts. Handle only prime stock. Our spring lamb, mutton, beef, veal and pork are known for their superior quality. Promptness and reliability do the rest for us as trade attracting magnets.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks, N. D.

Butchers, poultrymen and fish dealers. It is claimed by the following butchers, poultrymen and fish dealers that the quality and freshness of the meats and poultry offered for sale are the best that it is possible to obtain and that the prices are certainly as low as can be quoted on first-class goods. The character and volume of the trade at Center Market is a good indication that these claims are well founded on fact.—The Center Market, Newark, N. J.

A tough proposition in meat. Severe measures have to be taken with the cuts that come from some shops—but never from ours. We handle only prime stock, and our steaks, chops, etc., are always as tender and juicy as they can be. Quality guaranteed. Prices low, too, despite trust combinations.—Bay City Market, Tacoma, Wash.

Dove brand is your protection and guarantee of purity and quality in hams. The raw product used is the best obtainable, selected from the choicest of corn-fed porkers, and pickled in the finest brine the science of curing has ever produced. It is cleansed in hot water, allowed to drip thoroughly and hung over hickory wood fires for sixty hours while the smoke whirls up through the hams and imparts that rich, nutty flavor which penetrates to the bone.—John C. Roth Packing Co., Cincinnati, O.

It is a well known fact, by everyone, that meats of all kinds are high, but one fact should be kept in mind, and that is, that you can buy here all the choicest meats that the State of Oregon can produce, and as cheap as you can buy poorer meats elsewhere.—E. C. Cross, Salem, Oregon.

The flood in Kansas City completely submerged all of the big meat houses in that town and likewise there is a shortage of meat. As soon as things become scarce the prices soon soar upward, but it would be unbecoming for us during this great sale of groceries to raise the price of meats. So we'll pocket our own loss and leave our meat prices the same as last week.—L. Lehman & Co., Trenton, N. J.

MEAT

Browsing on rich pasture lands, and drinking from pure and limpid brooks, is the manner in which the cattle are raised that find their way to our market in prime beef and veal. Our meats are worthy of the table of the most fastidious epicure, and are cut up with skill and care to your order.—Bales' Meat Market, Kenton, O.

Have a good beef stew Thursday. For Thursday only we'll sell you first quality beef for stew at 6 cents per pound.—Alley's, New Bedford, Mass.

Good meat is not hard for you to get. No matter how much trouble it is for us to get it, you have only to come here, and good, fresh, tender meat is the kind you will get every day.—Alto Meat Market, Kenton, O.

Well dressed beef and mutton of the finest quality and flavor is always at your disposal at this market. Don't think that because we give you high grade meat that our prices are high. They will satisfy the most economical housewife. Order a nice roast of beef for Sunday.—Mohr & Yoerk, Sacramento.

The finest cattle that are raised in rich pasture lands, watered by limpid brooks and in the prime condition, is what we pick our succulent and tender beef, lamb, mutton and veal from. We are expert judges of meat on the hoof, and cut and prepare a roast, fillet, steak, or chop for cooking like artists.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks, N. D.

A good roast is a great deal easier to get here than a poor one, because we always have the good ones and never have the other kind. Have all kinds of good meats.—Harry Leffler, Kenton.

Can please the most fastidious here. We handle the finest meats the market affords. Sell no inferior grades. You get quality and quantity every time you buy of us. We give the best for the money.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks.

Prime roast beef.—When your roast beef is nice and tender your dinner is all right. If tough, stringy and tasteless it is enough to make a person very cross and ugly. Come here and get the right kind and we know you will come again.—Preston Market, Hartford.

A critical eye, a fastidious taste and a good judge of good food never has fault to find with our meats. Our cuts are generous and fair, and are always made to suit the desires of our customers.—Scoll & Co., Orange, N. J.

Choice cuts are what most people want, and they always get them at the Bay City's Meat Market. It is no trouble for us, because we always have the stock. The very finest selected beef, lamb, mutton, veal, pork and poultry, and our prices won't hinder you from buying.—Bay City Market, Tacoma.

A good breakfast.—One that will make you smile with delight can easily be had if you buy your meats at Bales' Meat Market, Kenton, O.

Popularity is the keynote of business success. There are various ways of gaining it. This market has gained it by handling nothing but the best grades of all kinds of meats and poultry. Catering to a class of people that depends on the best that the market affords we strive to always please them. Honest goods and honest prices has gained the title of the popular market. Try us with a trial order.—Preston's Market, Hartford.

Good meats can always be gotten here. All you need to do is to leave your order and our new wagon will deliver it promptly. You'll never have to complain about your meat not being good if you buy it here.—Bales', Kenton.

Choice cuts are what will make your guests remember your table with delightful smiles! A critical eye, a fastidious taste, and a good judge of good food never has fault to find with our meats. Our cuts are generous and fair.—H. C. Brauer, Richmond, Va.

Don't be afraid of receiving meats cut from old animals when you come here. Tender meats of tender age are the only kind admitted to our store. The source of supply is carefully considered, and we buy only from packers who have earned a high reputation for the quality of the goods they send out. You will find our prices low enough to please.—Thos. H. Cray, St. Thomas, Ont.

Dainty chops cannot be cut out of poor lamb. We cut nothing but the finest produced. The finest and heaviest beef to be had. A complete line to be found in a first-class market. Our customers bear us out in the statement.—Preston Market, Hartford, Conn.

New Year's greeting to all our friends and patrons. Thanking all our customers for their past patronage and hoping for a continuance of the same, we shall strive to uphold the reputation of this market by keeping only the best. Prime beef, lamb, veal, pork and poultry from the best farms. We handle our goods in the most modern way in cleanliness and surroundings. Try us and we will be most happy to have you for our customer.—Preston's Market, Hartford.

A happy family—your family should be that always, when they can have placed on their table such delicious and prime meats, poultry and game as they always secure at this market. Nothing but the tenderest, juiciest and primest beef, mutton or lamb is sold here, and we cut and trim it to suit the queen's taste. Our spring lamb is specially fine just now. Deliciously tender.—Bay City Market, Tacoma, Wash.

A smile maker is a nice big porterhouse steak cut from our prime tender beef. No town in America has a larger proportion of good cooks than Sacramento, and we're helping them to win praise by keeping them posted on the best cuts of meats. Now, for Sunday's dinner we would suggest a nice shoulder of spring lamb, fixed for dressing, baking and your table.—Mohr & Yoerk, Sacramento, Cal.

A good steak or perhaps a nice roast is what you want for dinner, one that is rich, juicy and tender, with plenty of flavor. We can supply you with this kind of beef, and the price is very low considering the quality.—The Laing Packing and Provision Co., Ltd., Montreal, Can.

See for yourself what you're getting in the meat line—the kind, the cutting, the weight. The more you see, the better we will like it, because the better you will be satisfied. Well enough to leave it to a servant most times, but see for yourself once in a while. We have on hand every good thing in the meat line.—Bay City Market, Tacoma, Wash.

Pretty cuts and pretty pictures don't do a man much good if he's hungry—unless the pretty cuts are well selected cuts of choice beef, lamb, mutton or ham. That's what we supply—good meats, properly cut, boned and trimmed, and we would like to supply your larder. Our prices, as well as our meats, will suit you.—Bay City Market, Bay City.

A tough proposition in meat. Severe measures have to be taken with the cuts that come from some shops—but never from ours. We handle only prime stock, and our steaks, chops, etc., are always as tender and juicy as they can be. Quality guaranteed. Full weight likewise. Prices low, too, despite trust combinations. Fresh oysters and fish received daily.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks, N. D.

Choice cuts of meat are to be found here, of the quality and in the condition desired, by epicures. Tender meats arrive here daily, and no other kind is ever permitted to enter our store. We take pride in cutting meats to please customers. You are not compelled to take what you do not want. Should you ever buy of us meat that is not as represented, bring it back and we will return your money.—Cray, St. Thomas.

Your turkey eaten? Then it's a good time for some of our Arlington little sausages, 15c lb.—S. S. Adams, New Haven, Conn.

There is a difference in chops, as well as roast rib, veal, etc. We handle only selected lamb for our chops. The tough, stringy is good enough for some people, but not for our customers. You can always depend on our chops, as well as our beef, veal, pork, turkeys, chickens, ducks, etc. We cater to the most exacting in the selection of good meat. We would like you for our customers.—Preston's Market, Hartford, Conn.

There's no kick coming from any one who buys meat here. We buy the best stock of all kinds, we cut it up to the best advantage, and we deliver all orders promptly and punctually anywhere in the city. May we serve you? Juicy, tender steaks are our pride.—Meng & Garvik, Crookston, Minn.

"Tom, Tom, the piper's son, stole a pig and away he run." Tom probably yielded to an uncontrollable desire for a taste of fine pork. For lovers of choice pork products we have a toothsome and tempting array at all times, that includes delicious young roasters, fine chops and loins, fresh hams and finely flavored sausages, besides spare ribs.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks, N. D.

These are picnic days. Prepare the luncheon here. We've a complete assortment of potted meats—ham, chicken, turkey, tongue, beef, olives, plain or stuffed with celery or sweet peppers; sweet and sour pickles, sardines smoked or in oil; MacLaren's imperial cheese, 10, 15 and 20 cents, Royal Roquefort cheese, 18 cents a jar.—S. F. Arnold & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

It certainly sharpens the appetite to place a delicious, juicy roast before you and it just as certainly destroys it to have a tough, unsavory piece of meat come onto the table. You perhaps have experienced something of this kind. Wouldn't it be advisable to purchase your roasts from us and avoid the unpleasant disappointment, for, as we never have any poor meat in our market, we cannot send our patrons any. Beef, lamb or pork—we have it and it's choice. You can depend upon it every time.—Newton & Burnett, Hartford, Conn.

Now it's hot again. This is the kind of weather that makes the quality and care at this market count tremendously. Nobody can stand ordinary and stale beef this weather. It makes life a grind and not worth living. You will find our chickens and fowls good, clear to the bone. Look at the bone and the joints, and you will see how nice they are. Then look at the kind you see on the table at places where they make it a business to feed people. You will note the difference. It's in favor of our kind.—Newton & Burnett, Hartford, Conn.

Keep cool. Don't fret. It's bad for the digestion. It's no use worrying about your meats during the hot weather as long as we are in business. You are certain always to find fresh, sweet meat no matter how hot the weather may get. The price, of course, will be satisfactory. Make your summer arrangements with us.—Preston Market, Hartford, Conn.

The finest beef, veal, lamb, chickens and fowls that grow are to be found here. Fresh native vegetables are coming in now and are here in abundance at Burns' Hill Market, Hartford, Conn.

Our string of meats comprises everything that is in season. The pork is cut from the choicest corn-fed hogs. Our beef, veal, lamb and mutton are cut from young stock.—Kashmann's Market, Hartford, Conn.

Roast beef is good when you get a joint here, so is roast mutton or roast pork or roast veal. It matters not which you decide upon, you will have a nice enjoyable roast. Let us fix you one for Sunday?—Farrington's Market, Salem.

Heavy prime beef is always to be found at this market. We cut nothing else. Positively no cheap trash with its cheap trash prices. Our customers demand the best and we carefully cater to their wishes. We have everything that a first class market carries and handle the goods in a clean manner.—Preston's Market, Hartford, Conn.

A fine leg of juicy lamb or mutton makes a nutritious and appetizing dinner when it is cut from our prime meats. If you prefer a prime rib roast of beef, or choice breast of veal, we will cut and trim it ready for your table in an expert manner. Our steaks, chops and roasts are unexcelled for tender succulence.—City Fish Market, Waco, Texas.

Don't ask for ham; ask for Miller & Hart's Ham. Their Berkshire Brand hams and breakfast bacon are cured and smoked in the good, old fashioned way, and they have a "smack" not found in meats cured by modern methods.—T. E. Burns Company, Knoxville, Tenn.

A tempting veal cutlet—one of the "make-your-mouth-water" kind—is an easy possibility if your meat orders are placed with us. Everything is kept clean and cool in this shop, and our grade of meats is second to none, as a trial order will convince you.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks, N. D.

A herd of cattle that is prized for its prime and healthy condition is the only one we choose from for our choice stock of meats. When you get a cut from our juicy and tender meats for roasting, broiling or frying, you will get one that will linger in your memory like the pleasure that you experienced when you wore your first pair of boots.—Bales', Kenton, O.

We have just added to our line these dainty little Picnic Hams. They are mild, sugar-cured, lean and tasty. To preserve their freshness and appetizing qualities they are carefully wrapped and sewn in canvas bags.—James Butler, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Meat that you can eat.—The meats that we buy for our customers are of the very best quality that can be bought and it will sell on its own merits at the prices we ask. Our meats need no praise from us. But we want the public to call at our market and satisfy themselves that what we say is true. If you desire something unusually fine for dinner try this market.—Lynch's Market, Bangor, Me.

Lamb chops.—Consider the difference in lamb. Here you will find the dainty kind. We do not handle the tough, stringy kind. You can get them at the other markets. We handle the best beef, veal, lamb and poultry that money can buy. We cannot handle the poor kind. Our customers want the best and they know they always are sure of getting it at the Preston Market, Hartford.

Our daily arrival of beef, veal, mutton, lamb, pork, chickens, etc., makes fresh meat and poultry a certainty here. When you have given us a trial order you will probably continue to deal with us as long as you continue in the city.—Kashmann's Market, Hartford, Conn.

It depends on you. If you want the best meat, the largest variety, the best conditions, it all depends on yourself. We have the meat. We don't often have any other kind but the best. Buy of us and we'll endeavor to give you satisfaction every time.—A. Anderson, Crookston, Minn.

Little Jefferson Virginia Cured Hams. These are the daintiest little hams ever hung in a smoke house. They are cut from little razor-back pigs, and have the long shank. When a man gets a taste of one of these little Jefferson Virginia Hams, he has a new experience of taste that delights him for months. And he never gets over the liking for the treat. Just buy one of these hams and see how glad you'll be you read this advertisement.—Kashmann's Market, Hartford, Conn.

Buying all of our meats on the hoof, paying spot cash for it, and dressing it at our new, up-to-date slaughter house, where it is handled in the most cleanly manner possible, and properly chilled immediately after killing, puts us in a position to serve you with the very best meats obtainable in the West.—A. E. Weatherby, Ogden, Utah.

We're making a noise, and it seems like everyone in South Norwalk has heard it. It doesn't take people long to find out where to get good meats. Couldn't get any other kind here, because we don't deal in it. The beef, veal, mutton, pork and lamb we sell is above criticism. Give us an opportunity to prove our statement.—Public Market, South Norwalk, Conn.

Ready cooked, ready to eat. Two pounds of extra choice roast beef will equal double that quantity of uncooked meat. Made into hash, meat balls or a meat pie, makes it especially useful and needful to have in one's pantry in an emergency, or when a hurried meal must be prepared.—Oliver Finnie Co., Little Rock, Ark.

Do you want a nice ham? We have just received a fine lot of Supreme brand hams. Sweet and tender, the quality that makes friends. U. S. government inspected. Shall we send you one?—Dan Tracy & Co., Denison, Tex.

Boiled ham makes a delightful summer luncheon dish, especially if the ham is bought from one of our stores.—Laing's, Montreal, Can.

A tough proposition in meat.—Severe measures have to be taken with the cuts that come from some shops—but never from ours. We handle only prime stock, and our steaks, chops, etc., are always as tender and juicy as they can be. Quality guaranteed. Full weight, likewise. Prices low, too, despite trust combinations.—Bay City Market, Tacoma.

Just the cuts you want and cut in the right way. That's what you want in meats—that's what you get at Woessner's Market. Every order received is filled with an accuracy and carefulness that our customers appreciate. We receive none but the best meats—we send out only the very best. We sell the choicest meats of all kinds you can buy in Crafton.—J. A. Woessner, Crafton, Pa.

Fancy meats are the rule here. Your favorite cut, tender, juicy, with a delicious flavor, is to be had at a moment's notice, and the price is always the lowest. Crisp vegetables and ripe fruit—fresh from the first hands, go to make this store much sought after by those who are particular to have the choicest of every thing the markets afford.—Mercier Meat Market, Portland.

Has the heat destroyed your appetite so that your stomach rebels at the thought of food? Then just try one of our juicy roasts, steaks, cooked to a turn, or a couple of Spring lamb chops, or a Spring broiler, or nice fried fish, and your mouth will begin to water as your appetite returns at sight of a tempting morsel.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks.

A tempting breakfast is to be had without much trouble if your meats are bought at Bales' Meat Market and the cook knows her business. You may be sure the steaks, chops, cutlets, roasts, legs of lamb, mutton or anything in the meat line—our supply will be found to be tender, juicy, high grade in every way, except as to price, which is always very reasonable.—Bales' Meat Market, Kenton, O.

Who's your marketman? Does he satisfy you? Do you get the best meats, fish, poultry, vegetables? In these days of food adulteration and "preservation" you cannot be too sure what you are eating. This high-class city market buys the best. Somebody buys the stale, "preserved" stuff. The way to be sure that you don't get any of it is to make this your market. We want trade that demands the best. We have no use for any other kind of goods.—Newton & Burnett, Hartford, Conn.

Our motto is quality. Give us your trade for next month and be convinced that we can give you the best meats at the lowest prices, and the biggest variety to pick from that it is possible to get.

Order for your breakfast—Sliced ham, mutton chops, juicy steak, veal cutlet or pork chops.

For dinner—Fine beef roast, leg of mutton, or nice stew of any kind.

For supper—Cold corned beef, ham, bologna or boiled ham.—Crippen & Lazenby, Waco, Texas.

Do you value clean and wholesome food for your table? The merchants doing business in Center Market invite the attention and consideration of the public to this great municipal institution. Sanitary regulations are rigidly enforced. Cleanliness is positively demanded. The character and quality of the goods offered for sale are under strict market inspection, and the prices asked by the merchants are claimed to be as low, or lower, than any individual dealers, who are forced to pay high rents on the main business streets. On the basis of cleanliness, quality and economy, the following merchants at Center Market lay claim to the public patronage. Make it a habit to visit the market twice a week.—Center Market, Newark, N. J.

Choice and cheap meats.—I will sell the best meats that the State of Oregon can produce, as low as any of my competitors, and, for the present, will quote you the following prices, and at the same time invite you to call and inspect our meats, and get our prices on meats in quantities.—E. C. Cross, Salem, Ore.

Critical inspection.—We are careful to carry only the best and cleanest meats, both smoked and fresh, and invite your inspection at all times. Should a purchase be unsatisfactory for any reason, tell us about it and we will cheerfully make it right. We have the 'phone and will deliver your purchase if you wish. Only U. S. government inspected meat sold by us.—Frye & Bruhn, Tacoma.

Vienna sausage. Dainty little whole sausages in bouillon. Lovers of sausage will find them a treat for they're far superior to most canned sausages. Place the can, without opening, in boiling water for twenty minutes, then open and serve.—Gedney's, East Orange, N. J.

No string to it. That means a fine, thick, tender, red and juicy steak we will cut for you any day you call on us, write us, telephone us or send us your order in any way. We furnish all sorts of meats "to the Queen's taste"—your cook will do the rest and be glad in the doing—for how they do cook!—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks, N. D.

Deerfoot pork products. How good the Deerfoot pork products taste such crisp mornings. They have that particular superior flavor that only Deerfoot goods have and makes them the ever-popular and uniform breakfast as well as dinner delicacy. They suit where others do not.—Hills & Company, Hartford, Conn.

A full supply of fresh meats will always greet your eyes if you look through our establishment and ice boxes. We know your wants and know how to meet them with meats of all desirable kinds—beef, mutton, lamb, ham; poultry and sausage, too. You will lose nothing, gain much by ordering meats here.—Bay City Market, Bay City, Mich.

Picnic parties find our stock of canned meats a good thing to select from. The assortment is so large and the qualities so good that it's economy to use these goods. It saves the work and expense of preparation and packing. You'd probably be surprised at the great variety of meats we carry in tin. Ask us for a list of them.—Dan Tracy, Denison.

An up-to-date chef knows the value of good, juicy beef and mutton, when preparing the many choice morsels, entrees and tid-bits that the experienced epicure knows how to appreciate, and he knows he can get the primest meats to be found in Dakota from this market at all times at reasonable prices.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks, N. D.

It makes your mouth water as you slice off a succulent piece of the tender roast beef procurable at our establishment. Of course much depends on the cook—don't blame it all on the butcher—but we'll take chances on that, for we know all our meats are A1 cuts.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks, N. D.

Charging on the enemy is no part of our business. What we aim to do, and do do, is to supply fresh and smoked meats—that is, beef, mutton, lamb, ham, bacon and the like—which will be acceptable to the most discriminating lover of a sirloin or a rasher of bacon. Our many customers prove that we hit the mark.—Bay City Market, Tacoma.

From start to finish the flavor of our meats is excellent. All is the flesh of young stock and possesses that juiciness, tenderness, and delicious taste which is entirely absent in meat from older animals. Orders will be appreciated and filled promptly. Beef, veal, lamb, mutton, at the lowest prices consistent with the highest quality.—Lightner & Schindler, Ashland, Wis.

Ready for you when you need anything in the line of fresh or salt meat—beef, lamb, mutton, pork, ham or bacon. We know what we are buying; therefore what we are selling—know how to cut it up, too, and we would like to have more of your trade. You'll benefit by it, as well as we.—Bay City Market, Bay City, Mich.

If you think you must economize in your meats do not make the mistake of buying poor quality. Get the best if it does cost more—better eat less of it.—W. F. Shaper's, Saginaw, Mich.

The meat question.—If you think you must economize in your meats, do not make the mistake of buying poor quality. Get the best if it does cost more—better eat less of it. We sell the highest grade Chicago dressed beef, the finest cured hams, and everything in the meat line. Just now we offer some especially fine cold boiled ham. It is splendid for lunches.—W. F. Shaffer's, Saginaw.

We've never heard anyone yet find fault with our bologna. How could they? Its freshness and the high quality of all the ingredients used are what make in the end such perfectly delicious bologna. Our bologna is just as cheap as the common bologna—just as easy to get.—Mohr & Yoerk, Sacramento.

You want some meat for Sunday, but you don't know just what to get. We could show you some of the nicest meat you have seen in a long while if you would just call at our store to-morrow morning.

Meat looks much more inviting when everything around it is neat and clean; and then, when the meat is put up in good shape, you can thoroughly enjoy good meat.

Andy Hansen is an artist in handling meat. None know how better. Give him a trial on your Sunday meat.—Eckert & Walker, Topeka, Kan.

"Plenty of meat on the family table saves doctors' bills," is the old saying. At Dickerson's you get a nutritious quality of meat that both satisfies hunger and gives strength and health. Beef, lamb, pork, ham, bacon, sausage, poultry, game. Everything in the meat line. Our meat store occupies a brand new building. New furniture, new fixtures, sanitary marble-top counters, spacious, scientifically ventilated and cabinet-finished meat coolers; a clean, neat, wholesome place; choice goods. Our motto: Lowest possible cash prices, but always good meat.—Dickerson, Scranton, Pa.

We are with the people in their battle to free themselves from the beef trust of Pheonix. Our increasing trade convinces us that our efforts are appreciated and also proves our contention that we are not losing by supplying the very best meats at a reasonable price.—The Eureka Market, Pheonix, Ariz.

Are you very hungry?—Wouldn't a nice piece of roast beef, rich, tender and juicy, taste good?

Isn't it hard to get that kind—not at all, if you come here. It's hard to get the other kind here—very hard.—Mohr & Yoerk, Sacramento, Cal.

A rib roast from Steller's always commands the highest appreciation from the best of judges, because it is the very best beef the market affords. The same thing is equally true of our lamb, mutton and veal, always best, tender and delicious, of the highest quality. Quality high, prices lowest.—Steller, Ottumwa, Ia.

Meat—a rare roast. We give you rare meats always. You cook them to suit yourself. They give you strength. Cut from selected stock, trimmed after the most approved fashion, and sold to you to give you an enjoyable meal. It's a good roast if we furnish it.—Booth's, Anaconda, Mont.

Tender, juicy meats. Meats with a dainty flavor that spurs the appetite on to a well-rounded feast. This meat department of ours is famous for the choiceness of its meat and pork products, its fine fowl and chickens. If you appreciate something out-of-the-ordinary in a roast or chop, send us your order.—O. C. Elwell, Portland, Me.

Something to tickle the palate of the most fastidious can be found at any time in our prime beef, mutton, lamb, veal, poultry or choice delicacies in oysters and shell fish. We keep nothing but the best that can be secured, and our patrons can always depend upon receiving only prime steaks, roasts or chops, good treatment and prompt service.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks, N. D.

Just the cuts you want, and cut in the right way. That's what you want in meats—that's what you get at Woessner's Market. Every order received is filled with an accuracy and carefulness that our customers appreciate. We receive none but the best meats—we send out only the very best. We sell the choicest meats of all kinds you can buy in Crafton.—J. A. Woessner, Crafton, Pa.

Fine flavor.—From start to finish the flavor of our meats is excellent. All is the flesh of young stock—and possesses the juiciness, tenderness, and delicious taste which is entirely absent in meat from older animals. We supply especially large boarding houses, hotels, cafes, restaurants, summer resort hotels and ship to families in the country. Do we supply you? If we do, there is no doubt about the praise from your guests.—H. C. Brauer, Richmond, Va.

How much, please? Want a choice cut of prime roast beef or tender, juicy lamb? Maybe it's pork you want, or a nice, delicious steak? Ham, sausage, bacon or chops may be your preference. Whatever it is, we have, and at quick-march prices!—Isaac Whiffen's Sons, Utica, N. Y.

The kind of meat we sell is the kind you've often wanted, yet have never been able to secure. It suits the particular person with regard to appearance, quality and taste, and the economical person as to price. We will call for your order and deliver it, taking the same care in the selection of your meat as if you were present; or you may call at our market, where we have displayed choice cuts, with price cards plainly marked to assist you in your selection. Roast Beef.—When you inquire about a market you always ask—"What kind of roast beef do they sell?" Roast beef seems to be the criterion of a market, and 'tis here the Public Market excels. We cut high grade beef, the red, juicy kind, that almost melts in your mouth. When you want something extra good in the roast beef line, try us. Then you'll know where to buy it. Roast Pork is economical meat to buy. You can have it served hot. When cold it can be sliced and it makes a good dish. Take the remains of a few potatoes, cut up an onion, and there's as good a soup as ever you put into your mouth. Our roast pork is especially good and we have made the price low. We can also supply you with nice pork chops and fine pork sausages. Game and Fowl.—We make an extra effort to have an extensive line of choice game and fowl on hand all the time. It is selected for plumpness and good eating qualities, and includes venison, rabbits, home dressed chickens, geese, ducks and turkeys in season. Whenever you are inclined that way, remember our location.—Whitman Public Market, Whitman.

Canned meat.—Have you inspected our stock? It is tempting to one to do so. There are so many varieties, making it possible to change one's bill of fare for many days without sameness. They are very economical, which is quite an item when fresh meats of all kinds are such an expense.—Oliver-Finnie Company, Little Rock, Ark.

Mr. Hotel-man! If you stop to consider the excellence of the meats you get from us—you will readily see why so many cafes, restaurants, hotels, etc., order from here. We are very careful in the selection of our stock. We serve especially the clubs, hotels, restaurants, etc., of Richmond, and ship to the summer resorts and families in the country.—H. C. Brauer, Richmond, Va.

We can please the most fastidious here. We handle the finest meats the market affords. Sell no inferior grades. You get quality and quantity every time you buy of us. We give the best for the money.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks.

Our trump card is fine, fat, juicy roasts of beef, with grain fine as silk, and tender as a suckling pig. It is fit for a king, as well as our superb steaks, chops, poultry, pork and fish. We choose nothing but prime stock for our patrons, and cut it and send it home in ship shape, prepared to put right into the oven.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks.

We carry the best meats obtainable. We never sacrifice quality to make a low price. We use the utmost care in selecting our meats and see that they are properly kept for the short time they remain in our store. Our prices are not high. We don't try to give as little as possible for the money, but just as much as possible. A trial order will convince you that what we advertise is true.—Gray, St. Thomas, Ont.

"The fatted calf" is in fine condition these days, and you can have veal that would delight the veriest gourmand or bon vivant if your steps trend this way. Fact is, we cater to meat wants at all times of the year, only the special story of to-day is, as above, about veal.—Bay City Market, Tacoma, Wash.

If there is any business that should have "cleanliness" for its motto, that business is a meat market's. There is a satisfaction in buying your meats from a place that has a spic and span appearance at all times. We put cleanliness before everything except the quality of our meats. Try the "clean meat market" once, we are sure we will please you.—A. E. Weatherby, Salt Lake City.

Something to cut up for lunch and serve cold during the warm weather can be had here in the shape of roast beef or boiled ham. We serve a great number of people in this town with meats. If you are not one of them you are missing something.—B. Stigert, Flushing, N. Y.

Tasteful corned beef at 5, 8 and 10 cents the pound—sugar cured in our own market, of fine-grained, firm beef. We advertise for your first order—our quality and price will bring you again. Our eggs are newly laid and our creamery butter is worthy of second consideration. Send your voice on orders to us.—Acme Market, Binghamton, N. Y.

There's no use crying over spilled milk nor worrying because your roast or steak was tough, dry and tasteless, because it was procured from a market less able to cater to the demands of a first-class trade than this one. Do better next time and order your roasts, steaks, chops, tender and juicy beef and mutton where you will find it fit for a king.—Wellington, Howes & Co., Newton, Mass.

To some people all meat looks alike. Others know the difference between choice and ordinary grades as well as we do; we have a great many customers of this class. We want the ones who don't know, too. Those who are good judges know we sell only the highest grade meats to be had. It therefore follows that the most inexperienced buyer is sure to get perfect satisfaction at this market.—The New Meat Market, Camden, N. J.

After thirty years the policy of the leading high-class market of this city remains the same—we buy and sell only the very best quality meats, poultry, eggs, fish, vegetables. We cater to those who know the best when they get it, and demand it from us every day in the year. We are happy to state that there never was more appreciation of such service than at the present time.—Newton & Burnett, Hartford, Conn.

Old and well experienced buyers are not deluded by promises. They insist on judging for themselves in their meat buying. That is one reason why we like keen buyers to come here. The kind of meats sold in this market doesn't require extolling. It tells its own tale of quality better than any number of high flown words. Are you a judge? Then come to Sperry & Barnes, Hartford.

Dainties for the dainty. For the convalescent or the "light eater," there's nothing so appetizing or nourishing as lamb chops, fresh, sweet and so cut and trimmed as to attract the eye as well as please the palate. We flatter ourselves that we can serve you with lamb chops fit to make a feast for the most capricious appetite. Try us with one order.—J. W. Dodge, South Norwalk, Conn.

Fine flavor.—From start to finish the flavor of our meats is excellent. All is the flesh of young stock—and possesses the juiciness, tenderness, and delicious taste which is entirely absent in meat from older animals. We supply especially large boarding houses, hotels, cafes, restaurants, summer resort hotels, and ship to families in the country. Do we supply you? If we do, there is no doubt about the praise from your guests!—H. C. Brauer, Richmond.

Boiled dinners—that old New England dish would be served in many a home if its occupants could be assured that the beef and vegetables would be all right. We can guarantee that.—O. C. Elwell, Portland, Me.

If your appetite is poor, eat meat. To tempt your appetite and nourish the system our choice meats are not excelled by anything. The weak and the strong, the small and the hearty eater alike enjoy them.—Lynch's, Bangor, Me.

From start to finish the flavor of our meat is excellent. All is the flesh of young stock and possesses the juiciness, tenderness and delicious taste which is absent in meat from older animals.—Lightner & Schindler, Ashland, Wis.

Pretty as a picture, almost too nice looking to carve, but the splendid qualities of our steaks are not all in their good looks; flavor and taste surpass their alluring appearance, and we defy anyone to say that there are tenderer, more juicy or more toothsome steaks to be had than those we sell.—Bay City Market, Tacoma.

The art of carving is one that everyone that cuts up a piece of meat doesn't understand. But our meats are tender, and we prepare them for the table in such a good, convenient manner for the knife that any amateur can dissect them. Our beef, lamb, mutton, pork, veal and poultry are chosen by us to please our patrons, and they know a good thing when they see it.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks, N. D.

A smile maker is a nice big porterhouse steak cut from our prime tender beef. No town in America has a larger proportion of good cooks than Kenton and we're helping them to win praises by keeping them posted on the best cuts of meats. Now for Sunday dinner we would suggest a nice shoulder of spring lamb, fixed for dressing, baking and your table.—Bales', Kenton, Ohio.

Hams—Floral Brand; only the cream of the finest selections of little corn-fed pig hams under the Floral Brand.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

Fancy meats for dainty lunches. The social lunch is never complete without some dainty tid-bit in the fancy meat line.—James H. Snow & Co., Bangor, Me.

Just the cuts you want and cut in just the right way. That's what you want in meats—that's what you get at our market. Every order received is filled with an accuracy and a carefulness that our customers appreciate. We receive none but the best meats—we send out only the very best.—M. Matthes, Wilmington, Del.

There is just as much difference between a "Dove" and an ordinary ham as there is between beef and calf liver. The "Dove" ham is cut from young tender pigs, sweet and mild cured, hickory smoked in the old-fashioned smoke house, and is the finest product money will buy. Of course, they cost a little more, but who cares for a matter of fifteen or twenty cents on a ham, when every mouthful is a delight. This last lot range in weight from eleven to thirteen pounds. We do not cut them, but sell entire.—John E. Angle, Mansfield.

We have a treat for our customers this week. Just received direct from Chicago, a large shipment of native beef, killed and dressed for export. This kind of beef is positively the best, the pick of the market, and sells for such high prices that even the most select markets seldom, if ever, handle it. But this is the kind that we sell at less prices than others are asking for the common sort.—Chapman & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Holding it up.—The meat trust may hold up the price of meats, but we hold up the quality. We won't buy what is not first-class. We insist on the best, because our customers must have full value. Whatever you may want we'll supply to you and it shall be all that could be desired in the way of quality.—Frye & Bruhn, Tacoma, Wash.

A nice cut of steak for dinner is what every man wants, and you can get just the kind you want here.—Dubber, St. Thomas, Ont.

Corn fed pork.—There's all the difference in the world in meats, as in people. Our aim is to buy and serve the very finest grade of hams, breakfast bacon, pork tenderloins, sausages—in short, all pork products—to be had anywhere, and that we succeed in our endeavors is proven by the patronage of those who know. We solicit your orders.—M. Matthes, Wilmington, Del.

If you thoroughly enjoy a dainty chop, a deliciously tender and juicy steak or roast this is the meat market to come to for them. We make a specialty of fancy meats and send them out in neat shape, all ready for the roaster or broiler.—O. C. Elwell, Portland, Me.

After the best meat in town, are you? Here's the place to stop—not where you will find not as good, perhaps. Every judge of good steaks, roasts, soup and stewing meat, beef, mutton, lamb, pork, ham and poultry will indorse the statement. Bales' meats are all right.—Bales' Meat Market, Kenton, O.

We expect to have the greatest lamb sale of the year to-morrow. We have 500 selected legs of choice lamb—and we'll sell them at the ridiculously low price of 12 1-2 cents a pound. Five hundred will not go far at the public market, so come early if you would make sure of your bargain.—Public Market, Hartford, Conn.

Hello! Is this Nobes'? Well, that roast you sent me yesterday was perfect, and I want you to send me my usual order of home-made sausages, the same as last week. They are fine. For Sunday pick me out one of those tender spring chickens. I don't know where else I can do so well. Good-bye.

She was telephoning to W. R. Nobes, South Lockport, Ill.

This is a season of picnics, outings and camping parties. The main consideration in each of these is something to eat, something in compact form, easily carried, and all prepared for the "spread." We make a specialty of picnic supplies. Fill your basket with the following for a day's outing at Congamond, Hampton Ponds, or any other pleasant place: Ham loaf, beef loaf, fancy salmon, Metrose pate, corned beef, lunch tongue, sliced smoked beef, sardines, canned chicken, turkey, etc.—W. P. Crane, Westfield, Mass.

Delicious roast beef is the most substantial dinner, but an awful disappointing one when you get the tough, stringy kind that is sold on the bargain counter. We do not handle that kind. The best beef coming to the city is none too good for our customers. We try to get it at all times, regardless of the high cost. Our customers demand it, and it is always to be found at the Preston Market, Hartford, Conn.

Fresh meats, the quality of which is high grade and never varies to suit the price. We would rather lose a cent or two any time than to lower the C. & R. quality. Not a store in this city is meeting our price with the same grade of meats. Each week our business increases and each week you get the same quality. These prices good for three days.—Cramer & Rogers, Trenton, N. J.

Home-dressed meats are awarded the palm in the minds—stomachs, too—of many. We point with pride to our line of meats of all desirable kinds. There's something in our selection of stock, something in our storing and handling, much in our cutting that pleases particular people. Are you particular?—Bay City Market, Bay City, Mich.

Fine roasting chickens. To-morrow we will receive a limited number of those fine roasting chickens. Before brought to the market they are confined in stalls for three weeks, well fattened, then carefully dressed and brought to us. The very finest roasting chickens in the market, young, tender and delicious. As the supply will not be large, those wishing a fine roasting chicken for Sunday dinner should telephone their orders as early as possible.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal.

Our fine poultry is trust proof and strike proof. We raise and fat them ourselves, and put up the best that grows. Cut out beef, etc., at the present prohibitive prices and give us your order for a pair of our fancy broilers. Same old prices at Burns' Hill Market, Hartford, Conn.

When your roast of beef is nice and tender your dinner is all right. A good roast is a great deal easier to get here than a poor one, because we handle the finest meats the market affords.—Mohr & Yoerk, Sacramento, Cal.

Our meat market is stocked with the choicest line of meat. If you want a good steak, a prime rib roast of beef or anything else in the meat line you can get it here. Our fowls and chickens are all home dressed.—J. P. Cronin, Binghamton, N. Y.

The happiest hours of our lives are not the sweetest, if the butcher does not have the best meat for the table. We handle nothing but the best in our line.—Preston's Market, Hartford, Conn.

Meats.—Once again we have fresh pork on sale. We'll see that our pork is so much better than every one else's, that you'll never care to buy from anyone but us.—The Busy Bee, Columbus, Ohio.

What will it be—chops or a roast?—L. Lehman & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Nice meaty spare ribs from young, corn-fed hogs. Just about as nice as anything you ever ate.—Landjaeger, Sacramento, Cal.

Any beef, any lamb,
Any pork to-day?
At the same low prices
You always have to pay at the New Bedford Public Market, New Bedford, Mass.

Smoked and salted meat. Makes no difference what kind you want—our stock is not lacking in one single variety. The very choicest, finest meat, the best in the market.—H. Jevne, Los Angeles.

Meats and poultry as you like them. If the meat is not tender, if the fowl is not tasty, the dinner is spoiled—every housewife knows how annoying that is. But there is no danger, not if our meat section receives your orders. Count on finest quality in Eaton meats and poultry and lowest prices—you'll not be disappointed.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

The hams and bacon under our Priscilla brand are careful selections of the finest sugar-cured young pig meat, and they should not be confounded with ordinary goods sold at or near our price. Every piece of our smoked meats is guaranteed to be perfection.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A royal feast awaits anyone who purchases a steak from the Bay City's market. Tender, juicy and delicious in flavor is the porterhouse or sirloin cut from our high-grade beef. We cater to the connoisseur, and the more fastidious and critical the palate the more we delight in tickling it. Our steaks, chops, prime roasts make dishes fit for a king.—Bay City Market, Tacoma.

It makes your mouth water as you slice off a succulent piece of the tender roast beef procurable at our establishment. Of course much depends on the cook—don't blame it all on the butcher—but we'll take chances on that, for we know all our meats are A1 cuts.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks, N. D.

Good things to eat.—We have very fine turkey, chickens, spring lambs, roast beef, veal, pork, mutton; in fact, everything in the line of meats that can be expected to be found in a first-class market. We keep no cheap trash or odds and ends of the wholesale markets. Our goods can always be depended on. Try us and be convinced.—Preston Market, Hartford, Conn.

Breakfast bacon and hams.—A thin slice of our Silver Moon breakfast bacon browned to a turn, what can be more appetizing and tempting to the lagging appetite? Have you tried it? If not, do so. Also our delicious Dove Brand hams cannot be surpassed in quality. Their popularity increases every day, and once having used them you will not be satisfied with any other.—Oliver Finne Co., Little Rock, Ark.

Broiled chicken for breakfast is an appetizing and dainty dish, as well as our delicious spring lamb chops, or a juicy and tender broiled beefsteak from our high grade cuts of beef or lamb. Our roasting chickens are fine. You can't procure a more toothsome meal in the line of meats and poultry in Rome than you can get at all times from A. Rees & Sons, Rome, N. Y.

The meats that we buy for our customers are of the very best quality that can be bought, and will sell on their own merits at the prices we ask. Our meats need no praise from us. But we want the public to call at our market and satisfy themselves that what we say is true. If you desire something unusually fine for dinner, try this market.—Lynch's Market, Bangor, Me.

Dainty chops cannot be cut out of poor lamb. We cut nothing but the finest produced. The finest and heaviest beef to be had. A complete line to be found in a first-class market. Our customers bear us out in the statement.—Preston Market, Hartford, Conn.

If you do not know any good reason why you shouldn't buy the best meats, poultry and vegetables, I would like to become your marketman. I sell the best and give prompt and courteous service. And I am always glad to add to my list of choice patrons.—John Flynn, Hartford, Conn.

Enormous crowds constantly in front of our meat counter are sufficient evidence of the kind of meats we keep. A satisfied customer is the best advertisement we can get. We aim to please everybody, whether you buy little or in large amounts.—Spokane Table Supply Co., Spokane, Waha.

Our market is neat and clean. From the time the cattle are purchased until they are resold to the consumer, cleanliness is a law with us. Everything is kept strictly clean, and you appreciate it. Tender, thoroughly good meat in an immaculate neat market makes an attractive inducement for your trade.—Mohr & Yoerk's, Sacramento, Cal.

There's all the difference in the world in meats, as in people. Our aim is to buy and serve the very finest grade of hams, breakfast bacon, pork, tenderloins, sausages, sucking pigs for roasting—in short, all pork products—to be had anywhere, and that we succeed in our endeavors is proven by the patronage of those who know. We solicit your orders.—A. Rees & Sons, Rome, N. Y.

Bon vivants of old would be in clover if they could have only sampled some of Schaub's prime, juicy meats. Those fortunate enough to live in South Norwalk will do well just to try one of the choice juicy porterhouse, sirloin or round steaks which Schaub has in his refrigerator, and spring lamb also. Yum! Yum!—Schaub's Market, South Norwalk, Conn.

Libby's Vienna sausage is just one of the nicest articles for a quick lunch you could possibly have. Throw can into the ice cooler for 10 or 15 minutes, open can and cut the sausage lengthwise into strips, place between a couple of Medlar's banquet wafers and let 'er go, Gallagher. Gee whiz! but it makes a tasty sandwich.—McCaffrey's, Philadelphia, Pa.

That's what they all say. The proof of the pudding is in the eating. Proof that our meats are the best and groceries the cheapest is the way our trade is increasing.—G. B. Marlatt & Co., Peoria, Ill.

Meats and poultry. Our fancy and heavy beef is kept in perfect condition by our unrivaled system of counter refrigeration. It is the only really perfect system that we have seen, and you will find our meats this mid-summer weather just as delightful as at mid-winter. That is success for our meat department. No question about that. But we buy the best that the country raises. And that's another powerful feature of meat selling success. In addition we sell them all at low prices. How do we do it? Well, it doesn't matter. We have a peculiar idea of what constitutes a legitimate profit. That's all.—W. W. Walker Co., Hartford, Conn.

Good healthy meat is the only kind that we allow to come into our store. It's a little hard to find but we get it just the same, and sell it as low and far less than the little fellows around the city are asking you for any kind of meat, the wholesalers are a mind to let them have. You'll find you save and live better if you live from our store. Watch us and let the habit of coming here grow on you.—Schenectady Public Market, Schenectady, N. Y.

A little choice Beef is better than many cheap pieces. In fact, there is not a spot in the whole economy of living where quality counts for so much. If you like the best goods and good service, come to us.—Newton & Burnett, Hartford, Conn.

Our great Meat Market is in a class all by itself. The immense output of this Department is wonderful, but the reasons are apparent. We sell the pick of the Market—such Meat as only a very few of the most select Markets handle—at lowest prices.—Chapman & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Economy is wealth, and if you wish to be economical, then be sure you make a right start by making your Saturday purchases of the Waterbury Market Co. Read carefully price list.—Waterbury Market Co., Waterbury, Conn.

In the pasture, brook, or browsing on sweet herbs and meadow grass, the cattle chosen by us have fattened during the summer. We choose nothing but the finest, the fattest and primest cattle from farm or ranch for our market. We are good judges of meat on the hoof or quartered, and only the choicest beef, mutton, lamb, veal and poultry finds room in our market.—Stewart Bros., Grand Forks, N. D.

Delicious Roast Beef is the most substantial dinner, but an awful disappointing one when you get the tough stringy kind that is sold on the bargain counter. We do not handle that kind. The best beef coming to the city is none too good for our customers. We try to get it at all times, regardless of the high cost.—Preston Market, Hartford, Conn.

Steaks and Chops, tender and juicy. A nice assortment to select from, nothing but the very best to be obtained here. Stop in on your way home. If you cannot come, telephone, you get what you ask for just the same. Our ambition is to please.—John Flynn, Hartford.

Our meats win because they deserve to win. You can't buy better meats anywhere, no matter what price you pay. Finer meats don't come to Trenton—don't grow, in fact. Our own expert meat buyer does the selecting and he stubbornly refuses to buy anything but the very highest grade at any time. Of course, we look after the price and see that it's low enough to win trade. We positively undersell other meat-sellers handling the same high grade and are constantly winning customers, who have learned that high prices don't always mean better goods.—Philadelphia Grocery Co., Trenton, N. J.

We are after your Sunday's dinner order, with a list of "good things to eat," choice meats of every description, meats that our salesmen take a pride in showing to a customer, meat that sells itself on sight and that gives satisfaction at the dinner table; fancy vegetables and dainty tit bits that help to put the "finishing touch" to a well gotten up dinner or lunch.—Gibson, Gage Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Meat satisfaction needs no long search when you are informed of this meat market. There is pleasure in eating, wholesomeness and health in every pound of beef, mutton, lamb or veal that comes from here. Tenderness and juiciness without even saying it—much less putting it in print.—De Lee & Ryan, Troy.

Facts about meats. It is a fact that the meats which we sell are far superior to those commonly sold from market; the reason of this is that quality is our first consideration when making our selections. Another reason is that we do not leave it to the discretion of those from whom we buy to deliver what they see fit—we personally inspect every piece of meat which enters our doors, consequently we can guarantee every piece which we sell. The meat question is an important one in every home, and we believe that we can convince you that it is to your advantage to patronize our markets, if you will give us a fair trial.—The Harrington-Thomas Co., Rome.

The butcher has no string on the people who pay spot cash for their meats. They buy their meats where they get the best value for their dollars. We cater to cash buyers, and to attract trade must keep up-to-date in quality, variety, price and service. We are leaving no stone unturned to please the people, and a glance at our shops on Saturday with the steady stream of meat buyers will convince you that the throngs of people around our counters know that their dollars are returning them big meat value. We want your meat orders and will treat you right. Give us a trial.—Gibson, Gage Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Seasonable meats. Too hot for boiling or roasting meats. Keep your house and your temper cool by getting some of our nice steaks or chops that don't take long to cook for dinner. And for lunch some of our ready cooked ham or tongue, thinly sliced, with tomatoes or cucumbers. Our cooked meats are tasty, prepared with the greatest of care and will give you every satisfaction. Call us up for your hot weather meat orders.—Gibson, Gage Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Royal roasts cost money, but you get it back in health and good cheer. And when you buy your fine meats on our premises you save a bagful at the end of every month. Juicy roasts and steaks, tender lamb, freshest pork, veal (above suspicion), not to quote our fragrant hams and bacon. Dainty spring broilers and roasting chickens of native quality. Also all the vegetables of the season.—Preston's Market, Hartford, Conn.

It all depends on what kind of a steak it is whether it carves easily or not. A well cured steak bought at this market is juicy, tender and full of nutriment. Try one of our sirloin or porterhouse steaks and you will always want their duplicates. For the best meats of all kinds, courteous treatment and prompt delivery try this market that is always on top.—Preston's Market, Hartford.

This is not the kind that mother used to make, but the kind that father used to make. We are following in father's footsteps and keeping up the good work of making sausage meat the way it should be made with the best of pork trimmings. We have sold much of this delicious meat and hope to sell more. It is a product we know to be fine and pure because we make it ourselves and season it to please the palate.—Newton & Burnett, Hartford, Conn.

Ice cold—that's the condition all our fresh meats are in, especially in hot weather. We're very particular with our monstrous ice house (the largest in the city), keeping it pure and clean at a temperature of 40 degrees. Do you know what that means to our customers? It means that they always get meat that hasn't had the least chance to spoil—that it is just as perfect and sweet in summer as in winter. Bear that fact in mind when you go meat buying.—Mohr & Yoerk, Sacramento, Cal.

Use caution in the buying and selecting of your meat. Be not deceived by false and alluring advertisements. No one is giving gold dollars for 50 cents. Cheap meats are always dear in the end. Come to this, the market that gives you your value. Our meats have nutriment and goodness that means strength and health to you and your family. Many times saves doctors' bills. Use caution and buy meats in a first-class market.—Preston's, Market, Hartford, Conn.

Our hamburg steak is making an enviable reputation for itself. The demand is increasing every day. No pains spared to make it right. It's good, it's tasty, it's finely chopped, and you can depend upon getting sixteen ounces of satisfaction to every pound of it. We want all our patrons to try our hamburger.—Gibson, Gage Co., Winnipeg.

We are selling quality meats, the finest we can get and our prices are always most reasonable. Our meats are properly iced before selling; we use only selected stock; we operate our own cold storage system. Our meat department is free from dust, dirt, flies and odors—it's all a good meat shop should be—and it should be your shop.—Redlick's, Fresno, Cal.

Our week end sale of choice meats and poultry at the prices we are quoting has turned the dulllest season of the year into a lively business period. Come with the crowd on Saturday. We have plenty of the very best of meats and poultry for everybody. Come in and see what a splendid supply of meats and poultry will greet your eyes. Our shops are all filled with the very best.—Gibson, Gage Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Your expectations for a delicious dinner will be fully realized if you buy a roast of our extra fine veal—young, tender and toothsome. Also a full line of fresh fish and oysters. Call 324 and place your order at once.—Fulton Meat Market, Spokane, Wash.

Don't hesitate when in need of prime beef, lamb, veal or pork, but come to this, the market that always deals in nothing but the best. No reason to be in doubt. We always have the goods. Nothing finer to be had in the line of turkeys, Philadelphia chickens, capons, Long Island ducks, broilers, and in fact everything to be found in a first-class market. Other people have found it out, why not you? A trial order will satisfy the most exacting.—Preston's Market, Hartford, Conn.

Fresh meats are always to be had in this, the up-to-date market. We eliminate all the poorly fed and poorly bred cattle and sell nothing but what we know to be prime meats of all kinds. We have the best home raised poultry to be found. Raised by poultry men that know the best and knowing we are always in the market for the best they make way for this market. We are serving our customers with those goods and would like your patronage.—Preston's Market, Hartford, Conn.

Bulk oysters. Delicious, stewed, fried, scalloped, or any way you may wish to fix them. They are large, fine plump ones—fresh every day. Take a quart home with you to-night. We also have a fine line of fresh and salted meats, poultry, etc. All orders promptly delivered.—Fulton Meat Market, Spokane.

You do not have to be a judge of meats to get a choice roast or delicious steak here. We take the greatest pains in buying our meats, and you are assured the best. Send your little girl or boy—telephone your wants—and you will get as good a piece of meat as if you came yourself.—Central Meat Market, San Bernardino, Cal.

Come in and see what a splendid supply of meat of every kind will greet your eyes. You'll lose nothing, but gain much by coming here for your meats. Our aim is to supply the best meat obtainable at the lowest possible price, and judging by our ever-increasing patronage, we are succeeding fairly well.—Mohr & Yoerk's, Sacramento, Cal.

We wish to be well acquainted with you and to secure your patronage when it comes to supplying you with meats. Our store is a well kept one, our stock fresh, and the steaks, chops and provisions we sell are the best that the market can furnish. Our patrons are well satisfied with what we offer them daily, and we see no reason why we can not satisfy you also. Try our home-made bologna and frankfurters. Poultry a specialty.—W. T. Binks, Rome, N. Y.

Excelsior sausage meat. Remember that delightful sausage meat we made for you last winter? We have begun to make it again, and you can have it this morning, just when it will taste best. It is the kind that father used to make long, long ago. You never had any quite so good, did you? Of course we have the Arlington and Deerfoot sausage, too.—Newton & Burnett, Hartford, Conn.

Again we say, come and buy prime sirloin steaks at 12½c. pound—which is several cents a pound less than the steaks are actually worth. They are cut from corn fed cattle, and they are tender, juicy and very much to your liking in every way.—The Hartford Market Co., Hartford, Conn.

Meats, juicy, young and tender are what you want, undoubtedly; you cannot, maybe, get them at every market, but you can here. The savory roast for dinner you will find in our refrigerator, as well as the choicest steaks and chops for breakfast. The most fastidious customer will be pleased with our meats and the most economical with our prices.—Acme Cash Market, Binghamton, N. Y.

"As you like it." Meats and poultry as you like them. If the meat is not tender, if the fowl is not tasty, the dinner is spoiled. Every housewife knows how annoying this is. But there is no danger if our market receives your orders. Count on finest quality in Klingstein meats and poultry and lowest prices—you'll not be disappointed.—Klingstein's, Pueblo, Col.

Are you tired of fresh meat? Yes. Well, here is a pleasant change. Pickled pork shoulders, weighing from nine to fifteen pounds, mild cured, tasty and economical. Just the thing to have around the house for cold lunches, etc. And the prices we are quoting will scatter them all over the city. This is certainly a snap you can ill afford to let slip by you; the regular price is 11c per pound, but while four hundred of these beautiful shoulders last the price is 9c.—Gibson-Gage Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Which one would you rather have? A stringy, tough piece of meat you don't relish, or a tender, juicy piece that you enjoy to the last morsel? The latter, of course. That's one reason why you should buy your meat here. There's another one also. You'll find it out when you compare your old meat bills with those you pay us. Will we deliver a small order? Sure!—Fred Edwards, Fort William, Ont., Can.

A good, big roast will be none too large if you get it here. Our meats are so sweet, tender and juicy that people can eat a lot more of them than of ordinary meats. Make next Sunday's dinner an extra fine one by having the meat part come from here. If the rest of it is as choice as the meat your dinner will be a feast for the gods. Oysters and new sauerkraut.—New Fulton Meat Market, Owensboro, Ky.

It sheds a radiance of happiness around the dining table—a joint of our excellent beef! It is supplied from healthy, well-fed cattle and has a delicious flavor peculiar to itself. The same with our mutton, lamb, veal, pork and poultry of all kinds. We have a reputation for selling the best hams and bacon in town, and our prices are such as please all customers. Our fresh veal loaf to-morrow.—A. Rees' Sons, Rome.

Sirloin roasts and steaks at a big reduction in price. We quote you the kind of meat you want at the time you need it the most. People don't want boiling beef or soup bones for Sunday's dinner. The best is none too good for that occasion. You can make Sunday's dinner a pleasure by choosing your meats at our shops. The loins of beef we are cutting for Friday and Saturday's sale are all first quality beef; the only difference some loins are heavier and thicker than others, and are priced accordingly. We cut to suit the small buyer as well as the big one.—Gibson, Gage Co., Winnipeg, Canada.

You'll listen in vain for complaints about our meats. On the contrary, you'll hear much about them. We handle only the choicest grades of government inspected meats on the market. That means sweet, tender, juicy, healthy meats, which even the toothless could not find fault with. And look at these let live prices.—Langley Grocer Co., Pueblo, Colo.

Best yet—A better ham than Our Taste may be produced some day—nothing seems impossible—but it hasn't been thus far—that's a certainty.—Hall, Luhrs & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

MEN'S FURNISHINGS

The snap-it-on tie.—You need fret and fume no longer because of the difficulty in tying your four-in-hand. An ingenious cravat maker has come to the rescue. He calls his tie the "Snap-it-on"—a single snap adjusts it.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

For the Fourth, to be dressed in the most proper form, and to be comfortable as well, a man must wear a striped flannel suit, a negligee shirt, the new Samoset collar, and a Batwing or Imperial tie. We have a special showing to-day of these requisites for to-morrow's gala day.—Frank Bros., San Antonio, Tex.

Pajamas for men. The new linen-weft. This will interest the man who wears pajamas and should excite the curiosity of the man who doesn't. They are made of a beautiful quality of half linen and cotton, natural color, thoroughly shrunken before making up and made by the "best" maker of Pajamas in America, and that means absolute correctness in every detail; military style, opening to one side of the front and fastened by a new loop to pretty pearl buttons on edge of opening. These garments you will find as cool as any can be for the hot nights coming.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The present season brings out many beautiful new effects in neckwear. The silks most noticeable are the soft crepe effects, in many different weaves, and in the soft pastel colorings. Others are the scarfs made of the heavy matelasse silks, also in the soft color-tones. The scarfs in matelasse effects of silk-and-linen, in rich delicate shades, are priced at $1.50 for the squares, and $1 for the four-in-hands. Scarf of French crepes, in pastel shades, exclusive patterns, in four-in-hand style, at $1.50. Four-in-hand crepe scarfs, from one of the most particular American manufacturers, in a variety of plain colorings, at $1 each. There is a remarkable collection of four-in-hand scarfs, in the new weaves and colorings, at 50c. each.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

All the cravats sold by Samuel Budd are made in his own work-rooms; the styles are original and the silks used in their manufacture are woven expressly in exceptional qualities under the supervision of his agents. The patterns are the work of expert designers. In addition to the large stock of cravats ready made, the firm offers a large variety of silks in the piece—limited in lengths—from which cravats may be made to order without extra charge.—Budd, New York, N. Y.

If you missed the leather belt opportunity we gave you last week, here is another equally good. Probably in some of the belts a little better. Our men's furnishings department is certainly full of extraordinary attractions to those men who have a taste for elegance in dress but yet who do not care to pay extravagant prices. We have here a large and varied assortment of men's furnishings—shirts, collars, cuffs, neckwear, underwear, etc., at prices which mean decided savings. The goods and garments are selected by an expert and are the best for the money that can be had anywhere.—Lit Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Too many belts for this time in the season. That much to your advantage, for the prices are a fourth to a half lower than they have been. The colors are black, gray, tan and brown, in a variety of stylish leathers and buckles. Plenty of styles in every size, too.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

It's the details of a man's apparel that gives tone and character to his make up.—Matthews Bros., Waco, Texas.

I do not want to go out of business. I do not want to appoint a receiver if I can help it. I do want to turn my stock quickly into money. Hence this great sale of men's furnishings.—D. E. Brackett, Lansing, Mich.

Guid mornin'! 'Wee MacGregor, maun, hoo are ye? Is't no' jist a rael fine spreng mornin'? Ay, maun, I'm weel, thank ye, hoo are ye yersel? O, brawley, but I'm needin' a new hat, an some new claes, so I'm jist gaun doon tae Allan's th' nicht, tae get a complete new ootfet; he has iverytheng tae fit a' sizes an' a' ages. * * * an' iverything is rael cheap considering the guid qualities; an' mair than that, I tell ye, an' ye can tak' my word for't, gin ye iver get onytheng there that's no a' richt, jist tak' it back and he'll mak' it guid tae yer ain satisfaction.—Allan, Montreal, Can.

A night for men folk. There's times you know in the dry goods store when values run very much in channels; to-night it will be women's and men's furnishings especially, and a market feature will be the.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Talk about big values! We've just caused something to "drop" in the Bangor collar market that ought to set every masculine wearer of linen to running our way. We have just completed a deal whereby we are to handle at least 36,000 4-ply genuine linen collars annually. These are of precisely the same high quality and correct shapes that you have always paid 15 cents for heretofore, but by guaranteeing to dispose of such a great quantity every year we are enabled to sell them at 10 cents each, a collar price that is a clean third below any former Bangor figures!—Miller & Webster Clothing Co., Bangor, Me.

A big snap in suspenders. Samples—of course—you guessed that the minute you saw the price. Yes, and samples from a high-class maker. We have the suspenders here on the original cards, just as they are displayed in the factory. Another thing—they are not the regular length; 32 inches long—although that's the size for the average man and for youths. There are all kinds, colors and finish—high-class describes them best. If you can wear 32-inch suspenders you are a winner.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Suspenders here in abundance. Perfect gems every pair. Superb mountings on perfect quality of silk webbing.—Rothschild's, Kansas City, Mo.

The neckwear cases are the point at which almost everyone stops, whether he means to buy anything or not. Tomorrow they will be in special trim with first showing of some beautiful English Squares and the 2½ inch French four-in-hands of the beautiful and durable Keiser baratheia weave. In quality of silk and in beauty of design, they are as fine as anything we have heretofore seen.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Tie this to the front of your principles. Link it to your memory. Brace it to your understanding that you should collar and study the variety kept at Cheapside.—James Williamson, Peterhead, Scotland.

He is thinking now of his fall tie. Let his thoughts direct his footsteps hitherward and he will find the latest shapes and patterns in fall neckwear. The manufacturers in this line of men's dress aids seem to have outdone themselves this season and the seeker for quiet effects—as well as the searcher for something more gorgeous—will find his every requirement met here.—J. Cohn, Crowley, La.

No matter what a man's size or his taste may be, we can please him in shirts.—White & Davis, Pueblo, Colo.

Men's Furnishings Cheap and Good!—If you are particular about your dress needs, we invite you to examine our stock of men's furnishings to-day and this coming week. There are dress needs for men with little purses and with big purses—but no matter what prices you pay, you know that you are getting the very biggest value for your money.—The Hutcheson Co., Victoria.

Just offer to sell a cotton collar maker a quantity of linen cloth, equal to triangle collars, at the same price as he is paying for his cotton cloth, and see how much and how quickly he will take it. You could not keep him supplied. If your collar is not stamped "linen" in indelible ink, according to law, it is cotton.—Vanzandt, Jacobs & Co., Troy.

A famous writer once said: "Luxury consists in having a pair of suspenders for every pair of pants." Here is a good chance to get luxury below the market rate—at half price. 50c quality fine lisle with leather ends, light but strong—25c pair.—A. C. Yates & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

The spirit that prompts us to send resident representatives to the capitals of Europe to watch for the new fashions in Women's Wear prompts uncommon measures for securing new fashions for the men—ideas from abroad, as well as the best from American designers. We are now showing autumn fancies in neckwear, duplicating the fabrics and patterns shown by exclusive haberdashers.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

All the cravats sold by Samuel Budd are made in his own workrooms, the styles are original and the silks used in their manufacture are woven expressly in exceptional qualities under the supervision of his agents; the patterns are the work of expert designers. Whether the silk is for the cravat of moderate price, suitable for morning or business wear, or the heavy, brilliant, rich product of the "atelier"—the work of weeks of careful and patient weaving, a creation for the chic afternoon cravat—the pattern is always strictly limited, that "commonness" by repetition may not be possible.—Budd, New York.

Made of newest webbings, in striking combinations, plain colors and fancy designs that come from one of our best year-round manufacturers. All are made in careful manner, and nicely finished. Each pair is in a neat holiday box. You may select either narrow or wide webbing.—Wanamaker, New York.

The great half hose sensation of a year ago is doubtless fresh in the minds of hundreds of people, so when we tell you that this purchase is superior in every way and that the values are infinitely better, the wisdom of immediate buying becomes strikingly apparent.—Bamberger's, Newark, N. J.

"A Mid-Summer Night's Dream" will never know the disturbing influence of discomfort, provided you invite sleep in one of the garments presented here. They are full fashioned, well tailored night shirts and pajamas of thin Summer fabrics.—Saks & Co., New York.

New shapes in black neckties. These shapes include the newest things going. In black silks of splendid grade—peau de soie, baratheia, moire, satin and many neat brocade effects. People who haven't seen or heard of these new shapes are hereby informed that they are among the most appropriate to be had.—Burke, Fitz-Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester.

A gentleman's haberdashery. It's the natty little "fixings" that lend grace and elegance to the summer man's apparel, nobby shirts, ties, pretty hosiery, with possibly just a glimpse of dainty underwear. To look and feel "summery" is an easy matter for the man who trades here.—Matthews Bros., Waco, Texas.

Your dress shirt should be exactly right. Our star shirts fit perfectly, are durable and give satisfaction. Our stock of furnishings is complete in neckwear, underwear, gloves and anything that the up-to-date man needs for business or dress wear. Suits made to order.—J. H. Eleazer, Columbia, S. C.

Waterproof rubber gloves. Sure grip. For motoring, something new. Just from England—and shown first here—are these rubber gloves that motorists will appreciate because they have a grip—also of rubber—which makes grasp of the steering wheel certain. People who have driven a motor car in the rain know the danger of the hands slipping on the steering wheel. These gloves make the grip absolutely sure, a fact every motorist will appreciate. They are of roomy shape and fleece lined. Note.—We make a specialty of gloves for motorists. Full stocks of the best sorts—and moderate prices.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fill up the collar boxes. A special feature in each January event is a sale of linen collars—it's a yearly institution. Many men wait for it to stock up with collars for six months to come. This year our preparations include large purchases from European and American collar makers, representing their season's overmakes—and their best kinds.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Do you know that we have the finest and newest and the best collection of nobby haberdashery in this city? Have you seen the new neckwear, the new shirts, the swell mufflers? We just want to show you the kind that most men like. The kind that proved so popular around Christmas time. Most of Winnipeg's swell dressers are our customers and we want to make you one of them. If you need anything nobby and dressy for New Year's—get the habit—go to White & Manahan, Winnipeg, Can.

In the name of sense, that good common sense of which all of us have a share, how can you continue to buy the ordinary, factory-made, department-store neckwear, when at Hyndman's you can get high-grade hand-shaped, artistic cravats at little more than the price charged for the ordinary kind? Be exclusive. See our new arrival.—Hyndman & Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Advance spring shipment now on sale, showing the new colors and shapes as they'll be worn this spring. Attractive new shades of pearl, tan, Nubian brown, Vichy, thrush and alum; black in all styles, too, in the Kember hat.—Kemp & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

Bath and lounging robes for men and boys. Men's and boys' bath and lounging robes are becoming greater gift favorites with women each Yuletide season. This year we are offering a splendid selection of styles, both simple and elaborate. The high merit of the workmanship and the splendid worth of the materials are features that are quickly appreciated by discerning women. Splendid values too.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

A tailoring combination. We take the measure, Kahn Tailoring Company makes them—the cleverest clothes on man that possess true character. Could there be a better combination? All the latest weaves, patterns and cuts are also combined to insure correctness. $15 and upwards. Better to-day.—J. H. Eleazer, Columbia, S. C.

New line of men's suitings. Nothing I can say about my new line of spring goods is half as convincing as what the line says for itself. I can show the best selections of what is prevailing fashion in weaves and colors for this season.—Block, Sacramento, Cal.

These fine materials were chosen with great care, for weight, firmness, best patterns and good laundering. A light weight madras is most desirable for summer shirts and pajamas. In light weight yet very firm and strong weave.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

House coats and bath robes. The collection of house coats and bath robes shown here is not matched by any other store in Jersey. Long ago we built a great reputation for coats and robes, and we have steadily maintained it. This season we present most comprehensive assortments, with many novelties not seen elsewhere. Prices, as you would expect, are very moderate.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Men's goods. Holiday lines at special prices. We have made our holiday selections with the greatest care. We have bought furnishings of a class and character that will appeal to the man who likes neat, tasteful, yet stylish fixings. To-morrow's special offerings will be attractive indeed to gift buyers. Following are a few of the many specially priced lines. Shop as early as you can.—Stanley Mills & Co., Hamilton, Can.

This store is well termed headquarters for men's furnishings—for the vast stocks and great assortments we provide meet every want, and this great men's furnishing section furnishes a broad and attractive field for the gift buyer.—Louis Saks, Birmingham, Ala.

Gifts of neckwear and suspenders. There is no questioning the wisdom of making gifts of this practical character, but be careful to select them in accordance with the tastes of the recipient. That's a simple matter in these splendid assortments.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

The requirements of the young men can be met here better than most stores. We have studied the young men and have bought the swellest lines of fancy vests you could wish to see. Fancy cloth vests, in the very newest colors. Strictly correct and dressy. Price, $3.00.—White & Managan, Winnipeg, Can.

The monotonous are first in favor. At fifty cents we have two and a quarter inch French seam four-in-hands in lavender, purple, green, brown, reseda and red. If they do not appeal to your taste, there is a mighty big variety of colors and patterns that will—and you may be certain of this. It is as good a scarf as you will find anywhere at fifty cents. For the fastidious we have four-in-hands of fine crepe de chine silk in the monotone colors, together with black, at one dollar.—Saks & Co., New York.

Most men realize what a discord a tie can inflict when good taste does not influence its selection. That is why our department appeals to most men; good taste is its boast. Then again, we maintain such a comprehensive variety of dress requisites that it is but a matter of choice rather than decision, when an article is needed. As new as the season, we have shirts, ties, hosiery, cuffs, undergarments, pajamas, and every kindred thing that is essential to man's comfort and well being just as exclusive in design as you may want them. The prices are reasonable, very.—James Boyd, Denison, Texas.

Fifty Cents for One Dollar English Squares.—The newest idea in men's neckwear for spring of 1904 is exemplified in these $1 English squares and 2-inch four-in-hands at 50 cents, and we've 3,000 for particular men—of rich silks, beautiful designs and hues. You'll agree it's the best bargain in New York.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

They're Smart.—White or fancy vests are always smart. Tasty dressers are buying lots of them. The vest and the scarf are the only features of a man's attire that might be termed ornamental. They serve to brighten up a man's appearance and break the monotony of his usual sombre attire. We are showing our new spring lines of white and fancy vests, and the patterns are exceedingly handsome. We have styles and grades to suit any fancy.—A. Schradzki Co., Peoria, Ill.

The Proper Furnishings for Men.—When it comes to furnishings, men are no less critical than women. We've carefully studied the male taste in everything contained in our men's furnishing department. That's why so many men leave the question of selection entirely to us.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mufflers and Shields.—We want to talk to you about mufflers. Perhaps you've heard men say that it is unwise to wrap up the neck in cold weather. Well, take our word for it, all wise men wrap up in cold weather and unwrap in warm weather. A muffler is a very sensible thing to wear. It protects against bad colds and severe illness.—F. J. Charbonneau Co., Worcester, Mass.

Biggest Suspender Sale on Record.—Not only the biggest, but the best as well. A suspender sale is in itself something of a novelty—especially one like this, embracing the world's best makes. No wonder the men bought them by the half dozen pairs yesterday.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Face about and march yourself right down to The Peoria Salvage Co., where you will find as magnificent an assortment of neckwear, suspenders, mufflers, handkerchiefs, gloves and everything in the line of clothing and gents' furnishings as you'll see in any store in town. The only difference is in the price. We save you just about one-half. Now then, if that's any inducement, "Come and see us."—The Peoria Salvage Co., Peoria, Ill.

Going for a trip? It doesn't matter what you may need in wearing apparel, either for comfort or dress, you will find here a well assorted stock to select from. Some very handsome things in fancy vests, the kind that wash. The new shapes in collars and cuffs. Late things in neckwear.—Jas. Boyd, Demison, Tex., Feb. 8, 1902.

From Top to Toe.—Hats that will keep one cool headed and socks that will give one the hot foot. Hose—20 dozen socks that will have to take to the street; heavy weights (waited too long), 16 cents the pair, worth a quarter.

Reduce the already reduced prices.—Joseph Little's lots of many things, between hats and socks, have had the prices nipped by the frost; fancy shirts, the dollar kind, at 48c. (Sizes, 15 1-2 to 17) only a few. Silk fleeced underwear at 69c., worth a dollar. Fifty cent neckwear, 39c., three for a dollar.—Frank M. Low & Co., Portland, Me.

Men's Furnishings.—Compare the attractive men's wear displayed in our show window with those of equal price in exclusive men's stores. We think you'll give the vote (and the trade) to us because of the splendid styles and low prices.—M. Rich & Bros.' Co., Atlanta, Ga.

The Summer Man's Attire—Blue Serge Suit, Straw Yacht Hat, Negligee Madras Shirt, Tan Russia Oxfords.—Don't buy a flimsy, slazy serge; don't buy purple-toned serge. Let the Serge suit be strong, dark blue—or black. The quality that won't fade, rub shiny or crock. A three-button, double-breasted sack coat is one of our best models. The collar is not extremely narrow; the lapels are gracefully large with a long roll; the bottom sets close over hips with little flare, giving a slender effect below the waist. The single-breasted serge suits have their devotees—we've the finest styles in town.—Eiseman Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

To civilize a man you must begin on his dress. Dress puts men on an equal footing. The footing is often mighty slippery without Smith & Co. togs. They smoothe the way to success in business, and give you a standing among your associates that will be highly gratifying. New hats, new clothes, new furnishings are being unloaded daily, putting our stock in better shape than ever to take care of your spring wants. That's why "If you have them from us, they're right."—Joe Smith & Co., Council Bluffs.

Men's Furnishings.—Something new coming in every day. Do us the favor to be in doubt, but also investigate. We'll probably take you to the shirt section first, and then, the new scarfs that will go handsomely with the shirts. Even the fancy hosiery has a refreshing newness. You'll catch glimpses everywhere of new things. Underwear in two pieces or union suits, in fact you will find everything wanted in men's furnishings. Every effort has been given to make our collection of merchandise the best to be had in Muncie, an important characteristic is the moderate prices.—The Globe, Muncie, Ind.

Rochester men needn't sacrifice style in order to take advantage of a bargain offer of neckties. The foulard silk neckties to be had here to-day at 25c apiece have not been three weeks out of the makers' hands. In pattern and general effect they have looks that commonly cost double. For summer wear—especially with negligee shirts—there is nothing more desirable. Choice of a dozen different shapes in the season's best colorings, both light and dark and including plenty of navy blues and browns.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Something new coming in daily. Not in our newspaper imagination, but in the store. Do us the favor to be in doubt, but also investigate. We'll probably take you to the shirt section and point out some new effects that you will straightway want. And then, the new scarfs—that harmonize musically with these very shirts. Even the fancy hosiery has a refreshing newness. You'll catch glimpses everywhere of new things. If Silverwood's wasn't a different kind of men's store, we'd not be so willing to ask you to be critical.—F. B. Silverwood, Los Angeles, Cal.

Interesting to men—new neckwear and collars—gay trappings that are traps for masculine attention; so tempting in their newness that discretion falters before desire. And a bewildering succession of events—new scarfs, new shirts, new collars. Such are the restless conditions in our men's furnishing store—no wonder that men are fascinated by its charms. Yet with entire safety to their taste, their self-respect, their pocket-book—it is a progressive store that is conservative in having only what is good.—Wanamaker's, New York.

The new for men's necks, autumn ties worth seeing. Here are loops that men will gladly put their necks into—the first of the correct neckwear for this autumn. The story has a "French four-in-hand" as the hero—a tie that is wider than has been used, sure to be most popular—it ties a beautiful knot, and has a distinguished appearance.—Loeser's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The entire stock of one of the largest makers of fancy vests in the world. Positively the largest and handsomest line ever shown at such a sensational reduction. This remarkable sale brings these elegant garments to you at less than the actual worth of the material.—Siegel Cooper & Co., Chicago.

Scarfs which have our label to identify them, fashioned of the finest imported and domestic twills, foulards, satins, grenadines and mercerized wash fabrics in every conceivable design and color, not excepting the new shade of lavender, practically our entire stock divided into two classes, and offered at one-half and less than one-half the former prices.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Garters for Men.—A pair of these nice sox supporters will keep your hose from slipping down round the ankles, you'll feel more comfortable, more dressed.—Robert Wright & Co., Ontario, Can.

We're prepared for the largest course of men Saturday that ever came to our men's furnishing section. Virtually the entire section and one large bargain square will be given up to the selling of these negligee shirts. While the price is unusually low, the excellent patterns will undoubtedly appeal to you most.—Simpson, Crawford & Co., New York.

You have probably seen the crinky crepe we obtained from Japan. You know how well it wears and how it keeps its neat appearance and holds any lines in which it may be made up without being stiff. It is fine enough for promenade wear and strong enough to play golf or go fishing in. That's what these Shirts have been made of by us and they are finer than we anticipated. The cuffs are made soft, with the double pearl buttons, giving the link effect. The neck bands have beaded edges, making them perfectly smooth. There are colors to suit any taste, from the most conservative to the most extreme, plain or fancy stripes, at $1.44.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

You will go into many a haberdasher's shop and pay a half-dollar for scarfs not as good or as well made as these. The silks are excellent, the patterns are neat and desirable. The scarfs are in the favored four-in-hand style, nicely made, and they are all spic-span-new.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Men's collars at 50c. a half dozen. Those who know of the strike of the starchers and teamsters in Troy will realize why the manufacturer of these collars would be glad to buy them back from us at the price we offer them to you. It looks as though there would be a famine very shortly in shirts, collars and cuffs. Fortunately we secured our white sale stocks before the trouble began; but yesterday broke the selling records, and, as no more can be secured; this remarkable bargain may end with the day. All the new styles for summer wear are included.—John Wanamaker, New York.

We find we have too much neckwear and here is where you can get the benefit of our overstock. One-third to one-half off is the order of the day at Machin's—only high grade goods, you know—neckwear that cannot be duplicated in the city—the largest, most varied styles and materials and the product of only the best makers.—Machin Shirt Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Summer underwear for men. Summer undergarments for men are offered in complete selections, which include garments in silk, lisle thread, balbriggan and natural wool; and of silk, linen and cotton meshes. Also men's hosiery of the best qualities.—B. Altman & Co., New York.

You will find lots of collar advertisements in the newspapers and magazines. You will recognize them by their lack of argument on the linen question and reason why cotton collars are equal to linen ones. They tell you how they are made, but fear to tell you about the material they are made of. What is the value of a well made article if the material of which it is made, is poor.—Van Zandt, Jacobs & Co., Troy, N. Y.

And We know, as we want You to know, that the Loeser Furnishings for men is absolutely in a class by itself.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Traveling among the clothiers and haberdashers, one sees waistcoats and waistcoats and waistcoats. Some are fair to look upon, some are passable, and many are weirdly ugly. We have recognized the possibilities of the waistcoat as an embellishment to the quiet tones of men's dress, and have gathered a superb collection of tasteful, beautiful styles which is winning golden opinions from the most critical.—Jacob Reed's Sons, Philadelphia, Pa.

Being the largest sellers we have the advantage of first pick from the best makers. Styles change in almost a day and there are new ideas shown as fast as they can be produced. Count on fresh scarfs no matter when you come. Staple plain colors and neat effects in the very latest values. Novelty always in bounds of good taste.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Don't stand in the shadow of doubt. If you want the new things in men's and boys' shirts come to us and have a look at our line of spring goods and you will no longer hesitate.—The Mullaly-Reilly Co., Youngstown, Ohio.

All that's new and correct in collar-doman shown in our front window.—Wageman, Cleveland, O.

Cost gets little consideration when conditions call for a clearance. Several little lots of 75c to $2 neckwear stand in the way of a "clean" inventory sheet, so out they go at fifty cents each. Bows, jabot effects and tailor stock. Some slightly soiled and mussed by the handling received at Christmas time, but most of them are in perfect condition and well worth their full regular prices.—Coulter Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles.

A well dressed man can't have too many light waistcoats. At the present price of $2.50 they are distinctly not an extravagance.—Geo. Watson & Co., Newark, N. J.

A man don't need to be underwear hungry, to buy the garment that's displayed in our window to-day.

It's one of those things you seldom run across in passing—and if you'll take the little time necessary to investigate, you'll doubtless feel well paid for your trouble.

It isn't a high priced garment—and doesn't need to be, to be good—but the service, the comfort and sightliness contained in this little bunch of fabric is amazing.—Daniel Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

There ought to be some satisfaction in seeing the largest collection of negligee shirts in the country before you pick out your patterns.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

Many men, many skins—perhaps you've never worn just the right sort of underwear for you. We've all the good new as well as the good old sorts.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

Hot Weather Pajamas.—And the man who once commences wearing pajamas (if the right kind) in place of the old-fashioned night shirt will be happy.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Economical Outfitting For Men.—It requires good judgment to economize wisely—and it's altogether too easy to buy things that are merely low-priced, and then regret it.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Initial Ties.—The latest nicety in a derby four-in-hand is a black silk scarf with initial letter in gold on the top end. The designer had a thought of the discarded vest.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr, Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Light-weight Underwear.—The kind you should wear this weather—delightfully cool underwear.—Barnaby & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

When days are warm and evenings cold—underwear of medium weight. Every good sort here.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

Cool clothing, breezy shirts, thin underwear, straw hats, and everything that will add to your appearance and comfort—all at prices so reasonable that you will have plenty of money left to burn.—Julius Cosel & Co., Youngstown.

That pretty tie you saw on the other man is here.—Spring Lane Furnishing Store, Boston, Mass.

Men's wants worthily filled.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Smart Neck Dressings.—We'd like to have a telephone attached to the ear of every man in town.—Fred M. Nye, Ogden, Utah.

Men's Furnishings.—Many a man will discover that in coming away in a hurry he forgot some most important item in his wardrobe, so these timely offers of proper furnishings for men at lower prices are sure to win attention. The prices are lowered simply because we're after the men for business.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

MEN'S HATS

It's a "Zephyr."—The Freeman Church Co., Hartford, Conn.

These are both Christy London made hats, and as a matter of fact the correctest of all swell styles. We offer a little light felt speeding hat at $1 and $1.50.

Men's derbies and soft hats for autumn—and a bargain. Unprecedented—true enough. But the hat store has come to be such a great favorite with Brooklyn men by doing unprecedented things. A large transaction with a prominent maker is concerned.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The new fall hats—You can't "run your face" under a shabby hat—it's too great a handicap—but it's easy running under our kind of hats. "A price for every purse," and a hat "for every face." No need to wear an unbecoming one if you buy the Utica hats.—The Utica Clothiers, Des Moines, Ia.

Your fall hat should be correct as to style, shape, weight and price. That's what it will be if you purchase it from us. We are showing the very latest colors—pearls, browns, steels, blacks, in fact any color to suit your fancy, in soft, stiff and crush styles. We have them at all prices.—Lazarus, Columbus.

Hats for horsemen. Included in our stock of fall hats are a number of styles that might be called perhaps "Horsey." By that we mean stylish, snappy—a sort of up-and-coming air to them that is decidedly out of the ordinary. One is the creased-crown white driving hat—sells for $3—another a light brown, specially swell style that sells for $3.50.

Men's soft hats. Inter-season hats. Soft, of course. Straw hats are retired—or should be by all men having respect for their heads. Derbys? Yes, possibly, but they are in the plus ultra about November first. Soft hats for the period. Stetson's—the great Stetson's—they are like a royal crown of hat excellence. And then, too, the newest shades of color and the latest forms.—Wanamaker's, New York.

"Correct hats for all heads." Thinking about buying a straw hat? Come in here and do your thinking. * * * We can meet your figure and match your face so as to give you style, comfort and satisfaction. * * *—Stitch, Sacramento, Cal.

Don't stop to ask why this store's hat stock is popular. Come see it for yourself. "Seeing is believing." Remarkable prices and remarkable variety of up-to-date shades doing a wonderful work.—Eisner & Phillips, Pittsburg, Pa.

It's a poor buy when you pay for the name. Buy quality instead. The spring derby has so many shapes that it's hard to make a selection. It's a case of fit your face as well as your head. Brims quite wide with a light rounded curl. Pay for quality without a label.—C. A. Weed & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

We know that, quality considered, the hats cannot be duplicated elsewhere, and we wish it understood that we charge no exorbitant prices for the exclusiveness in style.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles.

Suppose you try one on. Put one of the new $2 Derbys on your head and look at yourself in the glass. If the shape suits you, the quality can't fail to. It's the kind that usually sells for $2.50 and $3.00.—A. Schradzki Co., Peoria, Ill.

We put hats on men's heads to make them look handsomer. Come and let us try our skill on you. No man looks just right without a becoming hat. No matter how stylish the clothing he wears, to top it out he must have a hat that's up-to-date.—Benoit Clothing Co., Bangor.

Your Headwear Should Be Correct.—If you haven't been getting the right kind of hats let us show you what is right in quality, price and style. We show the largest variety in the city.—John Lutz, Springfield, Ill.

Happy heads are those that wear our hats. The style, quality, fit and get-up of our headgear is enough to make any man happy. We also save you 50c to $1.50 on each of the three grades we manufacture, and besides all this, do not forget "you cannot lose," as we guarantee every grade we make. Nothing but hats, straight from our factory to your head.—William Coe Bill Co., Hartford, Conn.

Two of the Smartest Soft Hats of the Season.—These hats have been enthusiastically received by young men, from the very first day that we brought them out. The shapes were made especially for us, and belong to our Imperial line, sold at the popular price of $3 each.—The Plymouth Clothing House, Minneapolis.

Newest Styles Men's Hats.—The location of this department makes it an ideal place for men to buy their hats; and to the convenience of location is the additional advantage of a large assortment of the very latest styles, with a shape among them that will fit every face.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Spring beauties of surpassing grace and form gives but a faint description of the attractive qualities of our soft and stiff hats. Neither trouble nor expense has been saved in the production of these goods, as you will cheerfully acknowledge upon examination.—Harvey, Sacramento, Cal.

Hats for Men.—Well dressed men are careful about their headgear. The shape and appearance of the hat a man wears makes lots of difference in his looks. In this store we aim to fit you to a hat which suits you in every particular.—Graves, Cox & Co., Lexington.

Our new spring hats, English and American, are now on exhibition. The "Wilkinson" and "Henry Carter" hats have no superior. We have been agents for these hats for seven years, and we are yet to hear from the first customer who is dissatisfied with their wearing qualities.—D. A. Bruce, Charlotteiown.

When the largest maker of felt hats on five continents turns out samples for his autumn styles you may be sure that there will be plenty of variety in shape and color and trimming; variety enough to suit all sorts of men, young, middle-aged and old. Shapes for the country, the town, shapes for men of pronounced taste or for those of conservative ideas.

And you may be sure also that the hats are fine.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Men's stylish headwear. That serviceable kind, that keep their shape and always look well, yet priced so low that they are cheap.—F. P. Koch, Columbus.

Men's spring hats. Newest innovations in styles and shapes. Rather early to show spring hats?—Not a bit! You want to be booked on the prevailing styles—don't you? Of course you do, and we have them to show you in a swell assortment of both soft and stiff hats. We're making hats to order also. Did you know it?—Wald & Sinnott, Utica, N. Y.

We "hat" men and do it so well that we're increasing our following of appreciative patrons every day. And no wonder, when hats like the famous "Stetson's" head the list at $3.50 to $5.00 with the John Lutz Special close behind at $3.00; also grades for men who do not care to pay more than $2.00 for a hat, and yet get value received.—John Lutz, Springfield, Ill.

We Hat Men and do it so well that we're increasing our following of appreciative men every day. And no wonder, when hats like the famous "Stetson's" head the list, with the "Imperial" and "Wanamaker Special" grades close behind—grades for men who don't care to pay more than $1, or $2, for a hat, and yet get value received.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Man and his Hat.

How often they disagree! Here comes a round face, fat man, with a small derby; here is a tall, slender man with a thin face, and he is wearing a big cowboy hat!

They don't go to the right store to buy hats—not enough variety; can't find a hat to suit them, and rather than hunt around, take anything. You're bound to find the right hat here, because the variety is here—and fashion says: Wear the style that looks well.—J. C. Mercer, Saginaw, Mich.

We fit your hat to suit your face and shoulders as well as your head. This is not done at hardware stores.—Burg E. Zeis, Topeka, Kans.

The new Alpines are very attractive. No exaggerated brims or crowns in the fall styles. Colors will be somewhat worn—new shades of browns and grays are seen, some finished with dark-colored bands, others with bands to match the hats. However, it is probable that black will hold its own in point of popularity. Our assortment of hats is very extensive—$2 up.—C. A. Weed & Co., Buffalo.

Between straw hat and derby time why not try a soft hat? Each year more men are learning the good points of owning two hats.

Soft hats here in the correct fall blocks—all the colors.—Krag, Dunlap Agency, Columbus, O.

Our autumn derby at first sight will impress you as the most stylish and taking hat offered, and the more you look at it the better you will like it. Like all hats sold by us, it has a charm that is irresistible.—Harvey, Sacramento, Cal.

The Stitch Special Crusher Hat!—Did you ever know of any hat that gained such a run in this town before?

We introduced them less than a month ago and now you see them everywhere.

They look and are so neat and comfortable and make a nice change to wear with your heavy hat.—Stitch, Sacramento, Cal.

It's time you had a Spring hat!—Young's Hats, New York.

Everything new is here to-day, on special display. It's show day for men's millinery.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

We have just received another lot of men's derbys from a Danbury manufacturer. They are various shapes, including high or low crowns, and flat or heavy brims which are so popular just now.—The 14th St. Store, New York, N. Y.

We have on hand every good style of headgear; good hats with tips and good hats without tips. Our tip is, suit your face and your purse.—D. H. Eames Co., Worcester, Mass.

A new assortment of the "Gage" hats just in to-day, none nobbler made at any price.—The Minneapolis Clothing Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

It is a trifle early to show the new blocks perhaps. Most hatters will keep them back until they get a month more of business out of Winter styles. We prefer to give you the opportunity to get a Spring block now, if you want a new hat. Stetson is the leader of style in men's hats, and doesn't need to wait on others. Styles are fixed when Stetson hats appear.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York.

When you buy Hats you'll find a big jump in the price when it comes to certain makes. They're no better than others, but they charge more to the dealer for the name. We have hats equally as good at a big saving in price. You might as well put the save to your credit in the bank as give it to the manufacturer. We have them in stiff, soft or crush from 50c. to $3.00 in all the latest styles.—Geo. A. Gilbert, Frederick, Md.

"If man wears it we have it." It's the hat that tops off a man's dress. An ill fitting hat spoils the appearance of every man, no matter how much he expends for his other dress. Our hats possess style, character and wearing qualities. We are experts at hat fitting, and you can be assured of having just the right hat if you wear one of our $2 hats.—T. J. Degnan & Co., Worcester.

Deference from inferiors is invariably given to the well dressed man, if his manners comport with his attire, and the crown of the latter is a nobby, well fitting hat. We "top you off" here in most approved fashion, for we have hats for business, hats for evening wear, hats for use on your outings of any sort. Prices? Drop in—we'll tell you with pleasure.—Harvey, Sacramento, Cal.

At the head of the spring hat procession. Not even the swellest hatters get ahead of us, but the swellest wearers can get a hat of us for $3 that equals in style and service those they've been paying $5 for.—F. M. Atwood, Chicago.

Men's Autumn Hats.—A broad showing of conservative styles. It must be admitted that the shapes for fall wear in men's hats are unusually handsome; symmetrical in shape, free from extremes.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Fool a man once and that settles it. Cheap hats never built up a man's business. We sell the kind of hats that enables us to say to-day we sell more hats at retail than any other store in Worcester. We sell more $2 hats than or any other price. We long ago interested ourselves in the matter of selling the best $2 hat that is made. And we've got it. It's here. If you've been paying higher prices elsewhere for yours, come and see our $2 grade in both soft and stiff hats. It's the swellest hat you ever saw for the money. Be convinced. Come in.—F. J. Charbonneau Co., Worcester, Mass.

Headwear that is seasonable. Headwear that is stylish. Headwear that is well selected from the best makers. * * * Such is what you will find in our popular hat department.—A. Trester Sons Co., Sheboygan Falls, Wis.

The hat men do it so well that we're increasing our following of appreciative men every day.—F. W. Wentworth, New York.

New spring hats for men. Most men are more particular about their hats than about any other article of their wearing apparel, and it's well that they should be, for ofttimes the character of a man is judged by the appearance of the hat he wears.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Any one can tell a hat. To furnish you with one that conforms to your face, figure and general style of dress, however, requires intelligence, experience, and judgment. Our salesmen, being of this class, are worthy of your entire confidence. — Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

A Hat salesman here doesn't have to tell you that that style is becoming unless it truly is. We instruct every one to exercise every care and attention in seeing that each customer is "hatted" becomingly, if it takes a hundred try-ons in Derbies and Fedoras.—Youngs, New York, N. Y.

From the adolescent to the septuagenarian, every man who comes into this Hat Store can find the hat that is most particularly suited to him, in shape, color, style and price. We have prepared our Autumn display with the utmost care, and with reference to the most varied tastes.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

After you take off your straw hat, the Derby or Alpine will probably look queer to you, and will certainly look queer to others if you are not fitted and suited properly. It is because we not only fit, but satisfy every man who comes here, not only showing him everything that strikes his fancy, but giving expert opinion as to what will appear best on him, that we have to-day the largest clientele in Brooklyn. We'll fit you, suit you and satisfy you.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

They come from the best manufacturer of soft hats in the country—without his name, of course—and have been used in placing his Fall goods. All new and perfect, in all sorts of the latest shapes and shades. Some new recruits this morning make selection very satisfactory.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

We have ready to-day an entirely new style in Derby Hats, particularly designed for conservative New York men. While the block is an entirely new one, it is made in all the different dimensions for men of various figures.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

We are showing a specially attractive line of Men's New Fall Derbys and Soft Felt Hats. All the popular shapes now in demand are here, and the blocks and colorings include all fashions from the conservative to the extreme. The materials, workmanship and finish are absolutely the best.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

Our assortment of hats is the largest in Washington—65 styles. Not only do we carry a full line of the more conservative blockings, but also an unusual variety of novelties which are in perfect keeping with good taste. We have a line of hats for the moderate sum of $2, which for style and service cannot be equaled. Included are the various shades of browns which have sprung into popularity this season.—Saks & Company, Washington, D. C.

Absolutely correct for fall and winter—Derbys, soft Hats and silk. They are for critical men who buy a Hat, not because it costs the most, but is in best style, best material and best finish. We have a line of Derbys for men like that which are the finest we have had for years—medium, conservative blocks in the main—some very smart for young, dressy men.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

If your friend who bought a Young's hat in February doesn't still think he chose the right hat for lasting good looks we'll abandon that line of argument. Ask him. It's the test of time that tells.—Young's, New York, N. Y.

If you have a toothache you would naturally go to a dentist, not to a blacksmith. When you want a hat why not go to people that devote their whole time and energy to the manufacture and selling of nothing but hats? Our prices are $1.50, $2.50 and $3.50. Nothing better made for two, three, or five dollars.—William Coe Bill Co., Hartford, Conn.

The new Stetson soft hat. This is one of the smartest of the new models produced by the world's best hatmaker. It is a ripe product of the best style-ideas of the season after the fullest study of all that has been produced.—Graves, Cox & Co., Lexington, Ky.

Felt hats, stiff and soft. A man may be ever so well dressed but if he wears a cheap, faded hat, he fails to look well dressed. We are at present prepared to put on the finishing touch and give you that genteel and well-groomed look. A good hat costs very little more than the other kind. We are sole agents for some of the best American and English makes. Every purchaser can have his hat ventilated and his name placed in the hat with no extra charge.—J. O. Trotter, Woodstock, Ont.

New Derby and Panama Hats.—It may seem strange to put out Panamas at this time of year, but so many people who are going to Florida have come in for them that we make this early show.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 8, 1902.

Temperatures of water invite a plunge. If Neptune's costume isn't complete we can make it so in a twinkling. Perhaps the bathing cap has been overlooked. It's one of the very essential things if the swim is to be fully enjoyed.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

For business wear you need a soft hat or a derby. We have them in many sizes, latest styles and of the sort that doesn't get shabby in a long, long while. For social functions, of course, the high silk hat comes into play. Have that, too—all at reasonable prices.—Harvey, Sacramento, Cal.

The wise man will bring his head for a hat where it can save his pocketbook. The proper shape is also most important. We're sure we can sell you hat satisfaction. A lot of new ones in, including the latest military shapes.—Robt. I. Cohn, Galveston, Tex.

Defying the dullness of Summer! Our hat stock is better than ever. The tourist, the stay-at-home, the crank—all share in the enterprise at Shaw's, the Hatter, Montreal, Can.

Tourists' hats and caps for Summer outings at the seashore, the country, or the mountains; for trips a-wheel, yachting, canoeing, driving, or automobiling; for outdoor comfort at home or abroad.—Coe's, Portland, Me.

Our hat man wants to inform you that the new Fall hats are now in and ready for your critical inspection. Come in and take a peep. All shapes and colors. Brown will be correct this Fall, while blacks will be worn as usual.—The Model, Peoria, Ill.

Just enough that's new in our Fall derby styles to satisfy the man with the critical eye.

Just a little here has been added, just a little there taken away.

Conservative shapes—the sort the well dressed man of taste affects. Just the shape for you.—Otto Oetting, Pittsburg.

The advance styles of our spring derbies make their bow to the public to-day. The minute you see them you will recognize their superior points of excellence.—Wolf's, Boston, Mass.

New spring hats. Our "top notch" derbies for spring, 1909. A derby which has a proud record of many seasons, and stands to-day unexcelled. It is ready in the new Youman shapes, the "Philadelphia" Special and the "Criterion"—three leading fashions. Our "Top Notch" is made by the most skilled hatters in Philadelphia—a recognized center for finest headwear.—Solomon's, Pittsburg, Pa.

These $1.95 hats are somewhat unique in one respect. They are well made of fine felt and are good for dress by men who pay particular attention to their clothes; and they are good hats for business wear, as their low price makes them easily affordable when you require a new one.—S. N. Wood & Co., San Francisco, Cal.

The hats that Stetson makes. The Feather-weight Flexible Derby—the lightest, most comfortable derby hat on the market. Adjusts itself as readily to the shape of the head, as a soft hat—you don't need to have it blocked to fit you. Stetson makes it in a variety of the new fall blocks—full of style, comfort and with all the fine points for which the Stetson hats are famous.—Wanamaker's, New York.

While not claiming to do the most of the hat business in Los Angeles, we are assured that we have the trade of many of our most stylish dressers, inasmuch as we never lose a chance to secure for our public the very newest shapes and best of materials, for which we ask lower prices than any competitor. The new fall goods are coming in and the two following lines will best illustrate the values you may expect.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

The buds are all ready to burst. Another hot day, and thousands of derbies will go to the attic or the ash-can. Then the city will be abloom with cool straw hats. How about yours? The Wanamaker showing will be comprehensive, of course. We are not confined to the productions of any one maker. We have the fullest pick of all best sorts. Brims are narrower this season. Popularity will be divided between splits and sennits, with soft Mackinaws and Panamas coming to the fore again. Shapes and proportions to fit every man's head and figure; and prices to fit every man's idea of expenditure.—John Wanamaker, New York.

It is understood that a hat which sets the fashion must include every block, color and style that correctly dressed men wear. Young's light weights and light colors in derbies and soft hats cover the field for 1905, and they cost just enough to insure their being right.—Young, New York, N. Y.

These are this season's spic-span-new hats, just received from one of our best manufacturers, and offered at a saving of 50c to $1, right at the beginning of the hot weather, and Sennit braids are more popular than ever this season. It is simply another opportunity we have secured to popularize the Wanamaker hat store. The hats are well made, in the very smartest styles, beautifully finished. Crowns and brims in all the proportions favored this season. Styles and sizes for men of all figures. Regular $2 to $2.50 quality.—John Wanamaker, New York.

The man who comes back time and time again is the customer we are looking for. About the only way to make customers of this sort is by selling the right kind of hats and furnishings.—F. Georger & Son, Buffalo, N. Y.

There must be a cause. It hasn't occurred to every one, perhaps, that we actually hat more heads than any other house in the Southern States. We cannot allow our streak of vanity to have us believe either, that it's personal magnetism—nor the prominent location of our shop—or attractive interior. True, that all these things when taken as a whole, go to swell the grand total; but facts are facts, and we know, as a great many others know, that the secret of our success has been the linking of variety and style with quality and price—displaying a greater variety, embracing more style, and better quality at a lesser price than can be had elsewhere.—Daniel Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

"Rain, rain go away,
Come again some other day."

You'll want a new hat soon as the weather is clear. It's here for you.—E. S. Levy & Co., Galveston, Tex.

Smart cheerful shapes in men's spring hats are now crowding this section. Look to us for exclusiveness and for liberal choice; we don't confine you to limited variety. Here are hats for the young men, hats for the older men, hats for all men, hats for every service, hats that are well in London and New York.—S. A. McDonald, Charlottetown.

If you've lost your hat, don't lose your head. We can supply all the hats you want, but good heads are scarce.—I. & A. Friedlich, Des Moines, Iowa.

This line of talk is for you. If you would be in line with the best dressers you must be topped with one of our line.—Meng & Shafer, Rochester, N. Y.

Our special hats are more popular than ever. We are having a greater sale on them each successive season all because we give you value beyond comparison.—John Lutz, Springfield, Ill.

No matter how fashionable and well fitted your other attire is, if your hat is not modern and becoming there is something missing in completeness.—Halverson Bros., Whitewater, Wis.

Don't wear that old hat when you know where you can get a new spring Block of the best grade for $3.00. Better make up your mind to come here and let us re-hat you.—Guess & McNab, Youngstown, O.

The sort of hat that will look well on you is in our stock. The sort of price you want to pay is here, too. $5 worth of style in every hat.—Wallach, New York.

Spring hats. If we've missed a stylish shape we don't know it. We invite you to come and see them, whether you want to buy or not.—Bliss, Swain & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Men are vain! Yes, men are vain; they like a new hat just as much as their wives and daughters; and last summer paid $10, $20, and $30 for their Panamas. But the new derbys and soft hats aren't so expensive.—Canada & Robertson, New Haven, Conn.

If you are up against the spring hat problem, come to us, we have done all the worrying for you. And we've got 5,000 new hats for you to choose one from. Our hats fit, our hats wear, our hats hold color, our hats keep their shape.—Prowse Bros., Charlottetown.

For good hats it is as necessary for you to have a reliable hatter as it is to have a good hair cutter. Hair cuts all cost the same—so do hats. It's just a matter of good taste, workmanship, style. With hats, also quality. We are specialists in the hat line, and we guarantee you that what you buy here is "all right every way."—The W. & D. Dineen Co., Toronto, Can.

The fall hat crop is ripe—come and pick. Derbys are higher in the crown, and black is O. K. again. Our new soft hat, "Itisit," in a smoky shade and black, will be a favorite.—McFarlin Clothing Co., Rochester, N. Y.

First Glimpse of the New Fall Hats.—The cool nights make welcome the news that our exclusive styles in fall hats are here. You're going to like the new fall styles, too, although they represent quite a radical departure. The stiff hats will be worn almost exclusively in black. The soft hats come in several light shades as well as in black. Let us dress your head this season and we will see that you wear a becoming —Eisfeld Clothing Co., Burlington, Ia.

Do you know that no other part of your wearing apparel is so critically conspicuous as your hat? Well dressed men of good taste never fail to detect at a glance anything wrong in your headwear. For this reason always buy the same of a reliable house. A house that knows what is right and has a reputation which it cannot afford to lose by giving you what is wrong or antiquated.—Fowenstein & Wertheimer, Frederick, Md.

We would be contented to find our straw hat stock about one-half as big as we find it, and we are willing to pay generously to find that contentment. The greater part of the hats are of fine split straw, well punctuated by fine and coarse sennit, milan and mackinaw hats.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Yesterday we showed the new styles for fall which Knox has sent out all over the country. His derbys, silk hats and soft felts are ready, and each is full of the grace and line which has made Knox the authority on fine hats for men. We told about the soft and beautiful depth and richness of the fur felt which he uses in his derbys; of the exquisite trimmings, and of the fame of his label; how men everywhere delight in the certain knowledge that when they have a Knox hat on they are absolutely correct in style.—Wanamaker's, New York.

These celebrated hats have more real merit in value, greater popularity and more variety of correct shapes and colors than any hat manufactured.—Kemp & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

Why can't you get a swell hat for the spring and summer season? You can if you call at our store. We have been exceptionally careful this year to get the very latest effects in fall hats.—Miss Mattie Griffiths, Sherodsville, Ohio.

The correct hats for men. If there were better hats than ours we would have them, but there are no better. That's why we have the largest and most popular hat department in town.—The Crewes Beggs Dry Goods Co., Pueblo, Colo.

And note that these hats are all fresh and new, from our reserve stock, in complete size-lines and ranges of dimensions—not soiled or dingy hats that have lain around on the shelves since the beginning of the season.—Wanamaker, New York.

That's the secret of our success (other merchants please don't listen—having all shapes, so that every man can get a hat to suit him.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Proper Hat.—We know it's here because all the good sorts are, and you have only to pick the one that suits you best.—Robert I. Cohen, Galveston, Tex.

Lots of young fellows (and old ones, too,) are coming in for one of the new smart, swagger soft hats we are showing. Can't tell you about them—you must see them on the head to appreciate all the style there is in them. The prices range from $1.50 to $5. Come in and let us show you.—Clark & Loving, Denison, Tex.

Do you ever have occasion to wear an opera hat? If yes, here is an opportunity that you should not miss. We have just received an elegant line of imported French silk opera hats—just as well as you ever saw. We imported them ourselves. Nobody else has them.

The price is $5. This is an opportunity indeed, if you want one. They are all right, and "all right" at our store means perfection of style and high grade.—F. J. Charbonneau Company, Worcester, Mass.

The "Mundy," the new soft hat which we show to-day, has been pronounced by critics to be the smartest-looking soft hat ever designed for young men. You can depend on it that every manufacturer in the country will be copying it in a week or so. At present it is to be found only at Wanamaker's in New York and Philadelphia. It is distinctly a summer hat for outing wear, made of the lightest-weight felt, even weighing less than most straw hats.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

The maker rounded up some more soft hat "bodies" around the factory, and blocked 'em up on new Fall shapes and sent them along to join the splendid sample line of his Men's $3.50 and $5.00 Autumn styles that we're selling for $2 each.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

The authoritative styles—new and exclusive blocks, every hat pure, all fur felt, fast color and wear guaranteed, silk trimmed. Hats to suit everybody. A fair display of them is in the window, but to appreciate their style and becomingness you should come in and try them on.—Streng's, Columbus, Ohio.

If you are tired of your sun-burned straw, you can find quite a range of the first Fall styles here to-morrow. Derbies and soft felt Hats in the correct shapes and colors that show the tendencies of the Autumn.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

It is a sale which bristles with importance. Why? Because of the extraordinary number of hats and their exceptionally high character. The braid is almost as fine and even as thread, hand woven with a regularity rare in Panama hats. The models are for the most part dignified "planter" blocks punctured by rakish negligee styles.—Saks & Company, New York.

Of all the soft hats which are retiring stiff derbies these days the shape which has caught on best is the one we transplanted from the college towns. A free and easy hat—wide slouch brim; crown dented as you please.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

Some hats are becoming to all faces. All hats are becoming to some faces, but all hats are not becoming to all faces. Bring your faces in here where they will get a fair show.—The J. L. Hudson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

They have our die mark in every one of them—a proof positive of their worth. They were made for us, for our regular stock, but they were sixty days late in arriving. The maker's fault—and he pays for it with a substantial concession in the price—a concession we turn over to you. They are all derbys—blocked on the season's best selling shapes. Guaranteed as strongly as we can guarantee any hat because they are worthy of it.—Saks & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Remember that July and August are fatal months for many straw hats that make a brave showing in June. Let yours carry a life insurance policy in the shape of a "Young" label. $2.00 and upward—the very best that money can buy.—Young's, New York.

Feather-weight hats which are specifically for the young fellows who have been accustomed to part with three dollars for their straws. The benefit of hand finishing marks every hat—as the high lustre and perfect braid attest.—Saks & Co., New York.

It's a wise head that comes here for its straw hat. No man who puts himself in our hands can go out with an unbecoming hat. We have thousands of straw hats ready. The right size, shape and braid for every man, and salesmen who can lay their hands on the proper hat for you.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

The man without a soft pearl gray hat in summer lacks one of the essentials of a complete wardrobe—the standby for many occasions where a straw hat cannot be used with comfort, or in strict keeping with correct dress.—Coe's, Portland, Me.

Men must be telling their neighbors what good straw hats we have here; or else everybody remembers what great hats he bought last year.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Summer Hat.—Every wanted sort in summer hats is here in force—greater assortments and better values than we've ever before shown, and the freshest, brightest, snappiest styles ever produced.—The Utica Clothiers, Des Moines.

Mutual congratulations always pass between wearers of our hat styles. This summer they are better than ever before. Exclusive in shape, replete with character and individual excellence, they afford the wearer a bearing and appearance eminently distingue.—Harvey, the Hatter, Sacramento, Cal.

We invite you to see the recognized hats for spring 1905. The style is in line with the shapes heretofore introduced by this celebrated maker, conservative, yet elegant. The very simplicity, yet becomingness, is again shown in the Knox spring hat—but why dissemble? We want you to try one on and get convinced.—Capitol Clothing Store, Montgomery, Ala.

The character of the hat is said to make or mar a man's costume. Designers have provided a variety of new fall blocks, sufficient to please every individual taste, and harmonize becomingly with every cast of features.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

A label in a hat amounts to nothing—and then again it does. In hat buying, as in everything else, know your store. Almost no hatter is a hat-maker. He is simply a seller, getting his goods made for him; perchance, suggesting a shape—and putting in his label. If the hatter becomes the vogue, his label will enable him to get an extra dollar or two for a hat. But if he remains simply a plodding hat seller, his label is so little good that he scarcely bothers with it. It took the big general stores to get real value-giving into the hat business. Our label in many hats—our guarantee, so to speak.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia.

"I want a flexible Stetson derby." That is what the men say when they come into our hat store. They wore these comfortable hats last season, and nothing but the Stetson will satisfy them, of course. The heavy, rigid derby of the past has been condemned because it is uncomfortable, making an ugly, red mark around a man's head, eventually killing the hair, and making a man bald.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

It is essential that a hat should be absolutely correct in style and that it should look new a long time after it is new. It is a bigger mistake to pay too little than to pay too much, for, below a fair price, styles are questionable and long wear impossible. But why make either mistake? Any hat sold you at any of the Young's stores will be right all 'round.—Young, New York, N. Y.

All of them spick-and-span, clean and new from our reserve stock. Size lines are full and there is plenty of variety in dimensions. Makes it rather needless to wear a weather-beaten straw the rest of the summer, when a new one—with a saving of up to $2.50—costs but $1.50.—Wanamaker, New York.

Every derby and soft hat in this lot—no matter how conservative or ultra—is stamped with individuality and distinctiveness.—Wanamaker, New York.

There will be a man under every one of these hats before many days are gone. When the news becomes widespread that prices are frequently less than half what they should be, our sales force will have all they can do.—The May Co., Cleveland.

His high ideals have made Stetson famous. He expresses them in his hats. Nothing short of the finest five dollar hat that his fellows made satisfied him for the standard of his three-fifty derby. The most favored of his models is the flexible, conforming derby which is as light as a soft hat. It will adjust itself to any manner of head. In black or brown, $3.50.—Saks & Co., New York.

We can't get nearest to everybody even with seven stores, but we "get next" to everybody with a popular hat at a right price, and the little time it takes to reach a Young's Hat Store is time well spent. There's one not far away.—Young, New York, N. Y.

Stetson hats. Three fifty. Stetson's flexible conforming is the lightest derby in all the world and the most comfortable. It wears as well as any five dollar hat of which we know. Stetson's soft hats made him famous. His new college model, of which he has given us exclusive control, will help you to understand why. Models for general service, outing or driving in pearl, nutria, brown or tan.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Sale of men's derbies: "seconds." Manufacturers' imperfections, so slight that one out of a dozen men would hardly be able to detect them. With the makers they count as "seconds," however, and are laid aside to be sold at a fraction of their value. The first shipment from four of the leading manufacturers represents one hundred dozen. On sale to-morrow in our hat department.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Take your choice. If you like a derby, it's here for you; if you prefer a soft head covering, that's here, too. No choice, however, as to quality—both of equally high grade. In hats in this city we claim pre-eminence—a claim based on fact and common report. For men's hats visit us.—Harvey, Sacramento, Cal.

Men, you all need new hats. That being the case you better see about getting a new one right away. Our stock is made of the newest and nobbiest shapes for all.—Worth, St. Thomas, Ont.

Everything that's smart coming in for fall wear. All the new blocks are here. Fall hats in boxes piled head high. Stiff hats in black and brown shades. Soft hats in black, pearl, brown and brown mixtures.—Eiseman Bros., Atlanta Ga.

A few fall shapes from the finest hat department in the city. Man is not made for the hat, the hat is made for the man. Therefore we believe that in having all shapes and kinds we meet the requirements of all men.—Beal & Martin, St. Thomas, Ont.

The finishing touch to the habiliment of a well-dressed man is his hat. That, above all things, must be modern, modish and becoming—and here's just the line to pick from. The new hats for early spring, 1903, have just come—a splendid showing of them including the latest and most attractive shapes. We give you hat quality in fullest measure, yet always at a moderate price.—Lyford & Woodward, Leading Hatters, Bangor.

What's new in fall hats? Come in and see. The new blocks are in and await your coming. As a hint—we will just remark—get a hat with fairly broad brim and medium height crown. There are both stiff and soft hats and not a fancy price on a single hat we sell. We know the best makers in the country and we tie to them. Drop in and take a look at the new fall shapes. Try on a few of the different styles. Perhaps we can save you something on your new hat. You can tell by looking. We'll surely sell you a becoming shape. Notice our hat display this week.—Lothrop, Farnham & Co., Rochester, N. H.

A dollar on the price of a hat is about a cent a day for the season. Isn't it worth a cent to start out every morning with a hat that looks "as new as ever?" Both fabric and workmanship guarantee the lasting good looks in a Young's hat.—Young, New York, N. Y.

Don't chase around for a hat when we are offering the best headgear obtainable for money at inside prices. Many a good dresser in Sacramento couldn't be satisfied with anything not bought from us.—Harvey, Sacramento, Cal.

All men of all ages cheerfully testify to the solid worth of our hats, as they excel in every point of style and finish. Our spring hats are now on sale, and if you want a hat to be proud of, get it at Lavelly & Saunders', Springfield, Mass.

The man and his hat. A Frenchman once said that if a man's hat is right, the rest of his wardrobe doesn't much matter. Of course, that's exaggeration, but the fact remains that the wrong hat can mar an otherwise faultless appearance. Get the hat you look best in—that's the most sensible style. Easy to do that here—we have them in the latest styles.—U. S. Clothing Co., Denison.

All the good blocks are ready now—conservative shapes that are becoming to most every man. Apparently there won't be anything very extreme in the autumn styles. But the hats are of splendid quality—jet black and fast black and a felt that will wear until you are tired of it. Light weight, too—unusually so.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

What do you usually wear, a stiff hat? All right, the new spring styles are all here bowing for recognition, everything that fashion has declared right and proper is here for your choosing, and one that will please your fancy and make your face look handsome. Maybe you prefer a soft hat? Well, we have just as large and varied assortment in these—all styles and shades—crush hats at crumpled prices and the same favorable conditions prevail in our store.—Bond's, Columbus, Ohio.

We've been talking so much, and so often about these cut price suits and pants and shirts that we've quite overlooked our hat department. And yet we've been doing the biggest kind of a hat business right along. That's what comes of having a good reputation. We've many new shapes in hats—every new lot that comes in has some new little kink or twist put in.—J. P. Gardner, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Brown is the elected color. The edict demands it of most every shade. We have just twenty-five different styles of hats, both soft and stiff, in all manner of browns. Also black, if you prefer it. They include the identical blocks sponsored by the charge-for-the-label hatters, and a few exclusive ones. We ask three dollars for the hat—nothing for the label. Yet it identifies as much style and material quality as any of them.—Saks & Co., New York.

All of this season's novelties are included in this remarkable offering, no matter how high class or exclusive. Every stylish shape in headwear for boys and children of every age—middies in fine or rough braids, trimmed, white or navy; sailors with wide brims; fine milan or rough braid, long back streamers, trimmed, white, navy and red.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

Don't stop to ask why this store's hat stock is popular. Come and see for yourself.—Gness & McNab, Youngstown, O.

You derive the full benefit of our expert knowledge of materials, make and finish in that hardest of all articles to buy—a hat.—C. L. Bender & Co., Muncie.

Genuine Knox hats for men—$2.98.

And you know what "Knox" means in hatdom—the top notch of good style. These are hats that have been selling right along as high as $7.50. About enough left to make lively selling for a couple of days. A good chance to get an extra hat for the vacation days ahead.—Canada & Robertson, New Haven, Conn.

The climax is capped in the bargain line by our special offering of hats and caps, which we present this week. New stylish soft and stiff hats, that in material and finish equal those of the most exclusive and high priced manufacturers, can be had here at prices which ought to clear out the stock in a hurry.—Buck's Hat Store, Springfield, Ill.

They stand alone, because our hats are without a peer. Actually they are matchless for their style and durability, as in model, shape, color and fabric they represent the latest vogue.—Harvey, Sacramento, Cal.

Sale attractions in the hat corner. Best protection you can have against Jack Frost taking any liberty with your ears these cold nights is one of these caps. And the price—a mere nothing.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Hat leaders! Just in! The proper hats for 1909. Our stock shows them. Stiff hats. Soft hats. Handsomest, nicest headpieces you'll find to wear this season. Easy, small-cash prices.—Hellenbrand & Co., Bangor, Me.

Do you ride behind a fast horse, in an automobile, on the water, on the train, in the country, any place and everywhere? The outing crusher is the proper headgear for the occasion.—Raphael's, San Francisco, Cal.

You are known by the style of your hat. "The style is the man," Emerson said. The hat is the secret of the looks. The hat oft proclaims the man. Do you want a new hat? Go to Kelleher's.—P. J. Kelleher, Indianapolis, Ind.

Hats to suit all faces and all purses.—The Surprise Store, Pittsburg Pa.

Do you know what "Shaw's" means? It means hat satisfaction. It means hats that bring the wear back. They come as near perfection as hats may come.—Shaw, the Hatter, Montreal, P. Q.

Now—you come here to us and say "I want a derby"—and we will place on your head a hat that you'll think was made for you. That's the way with these derbies—they're swell business and they just naturally make the man that wears one look all the more aristocratic.—J. Levystein, Montgomery, Ala.

What kind of a hat do you want, Mr. Man? Don't know? Of course not. You want to be shown what the best makers have brought out.—John Wanamaker, New York.

A giant among pygmies in style and exclusive shapes—our derbys are infinitely superior in finish and durability to any other hat offered at the same price.—Dewenter & Co., Bloomington, Ill.

Midwinter, the derby season. There's no hat comes in for quite as many occasions as the derby; you can't well afford to be without one. Men's and young men's shapes in the flat set and curl brims, crowns 5 1-4, 5 1-2 and 5 3-4 inches high, brims in proportion. Made by Crofut and Knapp, Columbia, S. C.

The latest block for men's hats almost approaches the high hat in height, although, of course, it is a derby. It has a very high crown and many of them will be worn this coming season. They have quite a distinguished appearance and are sure to be popular. We are now showing all the other latest styles in male headwear for spring and summer, and these include a new shape of Fedora that will please all wearers of soft hats.—T. W. Bibighaus, Lebanon, Pa.

Young men are always anxious to be well dressed, yet are often obliged to get along on a limited income. The smallness of the income will not prevent either young or old men from getting the most stylish hats of the season if they buy at our store. All the newest shapes and shades of the swell soft hats at attractive prices.—Pyne, Hatter, Harrisburg, Pa.

Dress right for summer. You will be fixed out with a Washington suit and a Stetson hat. They look right and stay right.—Rudolph Anker, San Bernardino.

A Hat Store defines the department of men's headgear at Eiseman Bros'. Every type of soft and stiff hat that the style monarchs of hatdom have decreed as exclusively correct are represented in the display. You can't go wrong on choice at this hat shop. Pictures can't adequately portray their style or graceful fashioning. The best blocks from the best makers is the whole story in a nutshell.—Eiseman Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

Fashionable hats for men. Easy to choose a becoming hat here, for we provide an assortment of all the fashionable shades and shapes in both soft and stiff hats that's unequaled anywhere. You'll find every renowned maker represented. English and American. Costs nothing to come in and see them.—Brown, Winnipeg, Can.

The critical look directed to the Stetson hat always becomes an admiring glance—and the wearing assures confidence in the style—and comfort. We have the Stetson soft and derby hats in all the latest styles.—The Hottel Co., Hatters and Haberdashers, Trenton.

A fair comparison solicited. It isn't fair to us nor just to our hats, to compare their price—$2.00—with the same price asked for other hats. Don't compare the prices only—compare the prices and the hats, and you will find you have saved something worth while by buying your hat here. What you get is more important than what you give. In our hats you get all your money pays for.—The Buckeye Hatters, Springfield, Ohio.

"The store of the stylish hat." When you're ready to buy your new hat—assert yourself to the extent of getting a "Brown" hat. Our supremacy in men's fashionable hats is an acknowledged fact among men of discriminating taste and hat judgment. There's satisfaction in wearing a hat with our name in it and you don't have to pay for it either—you just pay for the hat quality. Will you yet your new hat to-day?—Brown, Winnipeg, Can.

Soft hats. There's plenty of cause for rejoicing for the man who has set his mind upon wearing a soft hat this spring. Every opportunity in the world is given for making a pleased selection in color, width of brim, height of crown or price you wish to pay. Just step in our hat department and you'll have an idea of what's what in soft hat style.—Louis & Gus Straus, Lexington, Ky.

One of the new ones for spring. Only weighs two ounces. May be telescoped or given any individual shaping. Goes well with soft shirt and sack suit—just the hat to appeal to modern business man. Bluish pearl, coconut, hazel, white—the latter an especial favorite this season. $3.00 and $4.00. Two guarantees—the maker's and ours.—The Silverwood Stores, Los Angeles, Cal.

These names make an impression; the goods sustain it; here you see the product of two of the best hat makers in the world. Quality is a certainty. Choosing is a pleasure; we show the variety of styles. For novelties in young men's hats, see our line, $3.00 to $5.00.—John Lutz, Springfield, Mass.

We are never behind with hat styles. If you are a stiff hat man or a soft hat man, you will find the hat here to fit your face as well as your head.—Lothrop, Farnham & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

This is the shape that we hat fellows call the Staple. It's a shape that's good for you or me or for almost any of our friends. It's a shape that you can hang away in the closet during the week, and wear it Sundays and a few other days and do it for five years and still you will have a hat that's good style. Let's swap hats.—Dan A. Donahue, Schenectady, N. Y.

Hats for business, hats for pleasure, hats for every kind of an occasion at prices lower than you pay elsewhere—lower because we make them lower so as to have them serve as leaders to get you acquainted with our stores.—S. N. Wood & Co., San Francisco, Cal.

When it comes to Hats there is not a line in the city that can equal ours. We have all the popular shapes. You will find our prices much less than those asked by the fashionable hatters for the same grade of goods.—Babbitt & Co., Albany, N. Y.

A superb collection of new summer straws. It will be gratifying to the man who wants a straw hat correct in style and moderate in price to know that there is one store in the city that is offering just such hats, and that is this one. Our showing for this season is without doubt one that is up to the standard in every particular. We warrant you will find them every one the best that your money can possibly buy.—The Buckeye Hatters, Springfield, Ohio.

Fashion says: A fancy hat band on the hat; men welcome it. It gives them a chance to show a cheerful bit of color in their dress. Dashing color effects for college chaps and young men, neat gray effects for conservative men. Choose your hat band as you would your tie, to please your fancy, suit your complexion or go with your clothes. Styles change in hat bands as in everything else. Better find out what they are.—Dineen's, Toronto, Can.

Our summer clearing of hats. Marching out orders have been given to summer hats—the sort you'll delight to possess—and at prices that are most easy. While the window tells part of the tale, we'll supply you with particulars after you've entered the store. Straw hats, felt hats, fine Panamas, etc., are sharply reduced.—Brown, Winnipeg, Can.

Panama straw hats. The most durable as well as the most comfortable hat ever made for man. It's the ideal hot-day stylish hat. Easily cleaned and re-shaped, making them the economical hat to buy. "The Store of the Stylish Hat."—Brown, Winnipeg, Can.

The popularity of our Buckeye hats was proven by our large business the past week that was the largest of any previous week in our history. We now have placed in our stock a few of the advanced styles for spring that will interest you.—The Buckeye Hatters, Springfield.

The new winter soft hat for gentlemen is not only shapely, graceful and well made, but it is built to weather all kinds of weather. You are just as much at home in a blizzard with it as if you were at a picnic. These hats are going to have a great vogue this winter because they are comfortable and neat. Prices rule low.—T. W. Bibighaus, Lebanon, Pa.

The Guyer hat is always correctly blocked according to the latest approved fashion; it's made of excellent quality materials, insuring satisfactory wear, and itself conforming, that is, it is so constructed that it at once conforms to the shape of any head without breaking in, making it the most comfortable and easy-fitting hat made. It's a hat equal to any other in style and quality which sells for a dollar more than a Guyer.—Schenectady Clo. Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Rakish, youthful college headwear for young and youthful dressers, who appreciate the striking difference 'twixt our smooth head covers and the usual sorts, $1.50 to $3.50. Yale caps in new checks and plaids, 50c. to $1.50.—Jones, Morgan & Company, Inc., Waterbury, Conn.

Now come out in a straw hat. The weather says wear 'em. Fashion as well as comfort and good sense says wear 'em. And you'll want to obey when you see our 1904 straws—handsomer than all previous styles, better, too, yet no higher in price. We have real Panamas and mighty clever imitations; hats for every size of men's heads; hats that conform readily to all the bumps. Hundreds to choose from, none high-priced.—Lyford & Woodford, Bangor, Me.

If you are a tall, slim man—try on a short, fat man's straw hat. Funny? Yes; but it shows how important is the width of brim and height of crown in a straw. Short, tall, stout, slim—every man finds his width of brim and height of crown here. Narrow bands or broad. We fit the pocketbook, too.—Wallach's, New York.

There's one Young straw hat in particular that is so light you'd imagine it would float in the air. Made by hand to be cool, made as stylish and durable as Young "know-how" can accomplish.—Young, New York.

A straw hat is the thing now—gives lots of ventilation—saves the hair—keeps the head cool—gives greatest comfort—any price.—Craig, Brockville, Ont.

Now for straws. The straw rush is on and the new shapes are so distinctively different this season that you can't escape detection, if you wear last year's styles.—Jonas & Seldner, San Bernardino, Cal.

$5 for a real Panama. The genuine South American straw, pretty much in its natural state—not bleached with chemicals or "doctored" to make it look better than it really is. Good enough to sell regularly for $10.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Summer's come. Cheerful news, isn't it? It should have come before, though, says the hat man. It's come at last, however, and we'll cap the climatic climax with a Panama. Away they go! we'll make hay while the sun shines—make hay by clearing the straws.—The Robert Simpson Co., Toronto, Ont.

As the thermometer soars, our straw hats are in demand. Light and cool, they give that protection from the sun's rays that is so essential, and they are stylish as well as comfortable.—Sanborn & Co., Cohoes, N. Y.

No man need want better hats than we have, either for felt or straw, quality or perfection of fit. They are all made especially for us, of the best selected materials.—Shaw's, Montreal, Can.

A cool head wears a straw hat. A wise head buys his cooling straw from our ample supply of entirely new hat stock.—Coe's, Portland, Me.

Keep your head cool with one of our straw hats. Styles, a plenty here for your choosing—you're sure to find the straw and the shape that is best suited for you, for we have them all.—M. R. Emmons Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Genuine Panamas for Men.—For any head—old or young, round or square, long or short, big or little—even bald ones. Sold a man one the other day. He's been pestering us ever since, telling us how comfortable it is. Great Scott! we know it. Tell your neighbor. Tell all New Haven.—Canada & Robertson, New Haven, Conn.

Straw Hats.—If you come to us for your straw hat you can get just what you want. You don't need to take something you don't want, for we have everything desirable the hat market affords. Our Panama hats are the best for the price. We don't charge fancy prices—we sell only good ones.—Hartzell's, Youngstown.

The dressy straw hats this season are the Sennit braid in the sailor shape. Quite becoming to every man—and every man should see them. See them here where you have a choice of different widths of brims and heights of crowns; they are in the wide brim and low crown shapes.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Now come out in a straw hat. The weather says wear 'em! Fashion as well as comfort and good sense says wear 'em. And you'll want to obey when you see our 1902 straws—handsomer than all previous styles, better, too, yet no higher in price. We have real Panamas and mighty clever imitations; hats for every size of men's heads; hats that conform readily to all the "bumps." Hundreds to choose from, none high-priced.—Lynchford & Woodward, Bangor, Me.

The other day a gentleman and his wife were lunching at a high-class restaurant, and the gentleman was very much chagrined at the indifferent service he received, especially as he had always been liberal with his "tips," and on complaining to the head waiter, was staggered to learn that the waiter (being a new man) did not recognize him, but had judged the gentleman by his straw hat. It happened to be a hat with one of those "Two Dollar" trademarks inside. Now, there is nothing wrong about wearing a $2.00 straw hat with even a $60.00 suit of clothes, but there's no need of advertising the price of your straw hat. We put "Hope" labels on clothing, shirts, collars, and neckwear, but not on straw hats. When you go into a restaurant or hotel, travelling or visiting, you don't take off your clothes, your shirt, your shoes or your underwear, but you do take off your straw hat.—Hope Co., New York, N. Y.

Most complete assortment of all the correct styles and better hats for the prices than ever were sold anywhere—outside of this store. Sailors of fine split or sennit braids are in greatest demand—six different proportions in each grade; individual styles, too, are found here, including everything wanted in full crowns, flat crowns, naturals, alpine or telescope shapes, Mackinaw, Milan or Porto Rican palm.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Coolness Through a Straw.—The men who were short on Straw Hats are now being forced to cover. And it's best to get the needed supply of coolness and cool looks at the present market. We let every straw-hatless man in on the ground floor, to-day, on this "inside information." $2.50 Straw Hats at $2.—Wanamaker's, New York.

We opened the Knox straws last Thursday, and the met with instantaneous success. You will see them on the heads of the best dressed men in town. If it's a Knox, it matters not if you are in Buffalo or in San Francisco—they are ever popular and are sold and worn all over the world. You take no chances with Knox hats—step in and try one on.—L. H. Baker & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

That they are the true Panamas we are certain, since every hat came to us direct from the native weavers, without the help of the usual "party of the third part." The hats are tightly and regularly woven, perfect in their every phase. They came to us in the rough. We have had them blocked much like the new felt hats in alpine, telescope, planter and rakish models, with narrow or broad bands, imported leathers and oiled silk protectors.—Saks & Co., New York.

The cool weather has been discouraging to the man who had his new straw hat ready, but he can't be held back any longer. Derby hats are too heavy to wear with the new summer suits, and straw hat time is here. We have a splendid stock from all best manufacturers, presenting such an assortment as you will find nowhere else. All shapes, styles and varieties of straw, in proportion to suit men of all figures.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

We do not have room in our stock for the inferior kinds—besides, it doesn't pay to sell any but the best and at consistent prices, too. We are satisfied with a small profit and we want you to be satisfied with your hat. It's along this line that we bid for your hat business. There are lots of straw hats sold that look well enough when you first put them on, but that's all you can say for them. The kinds we sell will stay with you and be a source of genuine satisfaction. The latest fads for young men as well as the correct, conservative shapes are here.—Samter Bros., Scranton, Pa.

Panamas are imported much like oriental rugs—in bales. Fifty of them may include, say, a dozen "muy finos" panamas, as the natives term them. They are as rare as pearls in oysters, and relatively as costly. We have collected some three dozen of these Monte Christi hats. They are woven as evenly and finely as a fabric, light in weight and resilient. The hats are in the rough—just as they left the weavers' hands. We will block them in any model which you may elect, insert them in imported leather or oiled silk band and wide or narrow silk ribbon, and ask but twenty-two fifty, instead of forty to fifty dollars—the regular prices.—Saks & Company, New York, N. Y.

There's comfort these days under a straw hat; style, too, in the new shapes. The popular straight brim hat, in various depths and widths of brim, and the new dip front, new roll, light weight Manila hats; various new dent crowns.—Kemp & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

You may not know how complete our straw hat stock really is. The stock may not be the biggest in town, nor have we room there for a great big stock, but for that reason we've a better stock; a more carefully selected variety. Our hat experts know what hats the dressy men want, and they took especial pains to buy from the country's best makers, only those shapes which were the newest, the daintest, the best—the cream of the best makes. And they're here ready for your choosing.—Frederick W. Donnelly, Trenton, N. J.

The enormous number of Panamas which we were compelled to import to make this price possible would appall the average hatter—Panamas which are infinitely above the grade that usually finds its way to this market. Cleverness and patience never were better demonstrated than in the regular and even weave of the hats which this offer involves. For the mature men, dignified models; the daring young men, raking, negligee shapes.—Saks & Co., New York.

The outing panama hat.—These hats are a novelty and have their first showing hereabouts with us. It is a Panama hat, made in contrasting colors of tans and browns, and some of them in purple and tan. It is the fashionable outing hat of the South American gentleman. They are worth seeing and worth wearing. There is a snappy, negligee appearance about them that you will appreciate. They are worth seeing if only to examine the splendid work the natives of Ecuador can do with the braid from which Panamas are made. It is the only showing of its kind that we know of.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Wear a panama hat.—The real Panama, made into shapes proper for this summer, are here to be sold; the prices will do it.—Rothschild & Sons, Kansas City, Mo.

The hat of the hour that grows more popular every day, is the cool, comfortable, light and stylish Panama, of which we have the finest quality, or the just as serviceable Porto Rico.—Peerless Clothing Co., Spokane, Wash.

What a lot of men have shed their derby hats! And, generally speaking, the new roof raised over their heads isn't the hard, stiff, winterish derby, but the soft, easy Panama or straw. Sensible, isn't it? Join them at Show's, the Hatter, Montreal, Can.

Importations for us are being made right along. We learned some time ago where to get the best of the Panamas, and it's only a tribute we expect when men say to us that we have bettered every collection they've seen. Men are likely to shop around for Panamas. When a man pays the price of a genuine Panama he wants to make the best possible investment. When he buys here he is satisfied.—Parker, Bridget & Co., Washington, D. C.

Never before has it been possible to secure in Pueblo a genuine Panama at such a low figure. We were especially fortunate in securing the agency for this hat from a large Eastern house and we are willing to share our gain with our patrons. It is absolutely impossible to get this hat elsewhere for less than ten dollars and if you expect to be "in the swim" this summer, if you want style, comfort and service in headwear—better get in line now. We bought only 10 dozen of these Panamas and they will not last long at this price.—New York Clothing House, Pueblo, Colo.

Two points about this full showing of straw hats that the careful man will notice. First—That the hats are distinguished by smart style and unusually perfect material and workmanship. Second—That the prices, especially in the better grades, are 50 cents to a dollar under the prices asked for the same hats by exclusive hatters. There are dozens of styles from which to choose. The sailor with high crown and very narrow brim is the "smart" hat of the season—the hat most young men will wear. But there is variety enough in the new styles to suit every taste—sennits, splits, Milans, mackinaws and fancy straws; some as soft and light as a feather, designed especially for men who want comfort with good style. The extreme of fashion is here. The more conservative hats are here as well. No better straw hats can be found anywhere. No hats as good can be found outside this store for as little prices, we believe.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We have sold hundreds of these handsome Panama hats this season, and a new shipment is here to-day, and they look even better than those that came before.

They are $10 value, by comparison with Panama hats you will find in other stores. The hats are perfect in every way, exceptionally fine in weave, correctly blocked and nicely trimmed. Only one hundred hats in the present collection.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Straws half now. The last of the straw hats to go at half price—every one must be sold, and surely such nice, fresh straws should sell soon at half.—Craig, Brockville, Ont.

Straws! Styles are different this season. Besides the Panama, the yacht shape in high crown and narrow brim is the thing for young men. Soft Milan or Mackinaw straw with turnup brim for the middle aged man.—Savard Bros., Troy, N. Y.

We are clearing the deck of straw hats now when people have use for straw hats. Weeks of real summer ahead and all Young's straws a third off in price.—Young, New York, N. Y.

With very little ado we've done a phenomenal straw hat business this season. As the hats stand now almost all of the different lines lack a full complement of sizes. The penalty for this condition is a broad reaching price reduction which involves all of the straw hats that were priced up to now at $4, $3 and $2.—Wm. Vogel & Son, New York, N. Y.

It's the men who don't wear straw hats that usually suffer from heat prostration. Doesn't cost much now to avoid one, for every $2 and $2.50 split and sennit straw hat in our regular stock is reduced this morning to 90c. Might as well have a good hat for your money; commoner ones cost as much or more elsewhere.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Straw hats for 1904. They are Here, Gentlemen.—Right from fashion's factories—the best assortment of new straw hats in the city. A word to you about how the styles will run this year. The split straw seems to have the lead, though the sennit looks like a likely second. Of course, the fact that London has tipped "Panama" makes that a favorite with many. But to-day the talk is all about the split braid. It will be a winner. Here in all sizes, and at prices that are right—$1.50, $1.90, $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sennit sailor straw hats—$1 for pick of our $1.50 to $2.50 qualities—thanks to a cool summer.—F. M. Atwood, Chicago, Ill.

The straw rush is on here and we invite you to come in and select your hat from the biggest and best assortment in Columbus.—Bryer Bros. & Co., Columbus, O.

People desiring the strongest individuality should place upon their heads the style straw hats that become them. From among 100 styles the selection is easy. The select straws in their make-up adds distinction.—Fred W. Donnelly, Trenton, N. J.

Fine browsing in our summer hat pasture. Lots of daisies among our new straw hats.—F. M. Atwood, Chicago.

The ambition of the straw hat manufacturer is to make his hat as strong as a house and as light as a cobweb. Big strides have been made in both directions this season. Brims have been strengthened by the insertion of a thin binding around the edges, and notwithstanding that brims are wider than usual, hats are even lighter.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

This blowing hot and cold on the part of the weather can't last much longer. Might as well pick out your straw hat now while there are plenty of all sorts to choose from.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

That straw hat season is here, and the new shapes are so distinctively different from 1902 that the man who wears last season's hat can't hope to escape detection.—Sanders & Barrows, New Bedford, Mass.

It's not the drowning man that will catch at these cool straws, but the man who wants cool comfort, correct styles and money-saving prices. Yacht shapes, soft roll shapes in Split, Sennet, Mackinaw and Milan braids at 50c. to $3.—Trenton Clothing Co., Trenton N. J.

Which will you have? A straw hat of quality that keeps its freshness and style to the end of the summer, a hat so nicely proportioned as to brim and crown that you are sure of a becoming shape; or a hat with no reputation to sustain, made to sell at a price, which looks used up in three weeks and never seems to suit your individual appearance? The Knox hat has long been known as the best straw hat made—in style, of course, but also in material and durability. More than this we can show you every variety of straw—split, sennit, bamboo, Milan and Mackinaw.—James Boyd, Denison, Texas.

It's getting warm again. This time you'll need a straw hat. For four months you'll want the coolest thing on your head you can get. We have cool straw hats at prices that will not hurt a lean pocketbook.—Clark & Loving, Denison, Texas.

As to straw hats—a man from Baltimore writes: "I must ask you to send me one of your narrow brim straw hats (like cut in your catalogue), because I can't get one anywhere in Baltimore."—Young, New York.

A cool head is a clear head. The weather is a gentle, though firm, reminder that it's time to be thinking about a straw hat.—Bliss, Swain & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Old Sol is right with us, but straw hats are with us also.—Trenton Clothing Co., Trenton, N. J.

Need a straw hat? Ours are the best that are light on the purse.—Stern & Bendheim, Altoona, Pa.

Aren't you hot enough for a Sphinx straw? They're as cool as a perpetual highball.—The Sphinx, New York.

Straw hats. We are selling hundreds of them and getting more fresh stock in every day. No shoddy goods here either, that are dear to you at any old price. We give you a dollar's worth of hat for every dollar you pay—and you couldn't pay less for as good a hat anywhere in Montgomery.—I. Levystein, Montgomery, Ala.

Your credit is good with us at all times, and we will gladly add any purchase you may care to make in gents' furnishings to the household account without asking for any payment down, or increased weekly payments. Your attention is called to a few special prices on straw and stiff hats, also to the special values that we are offering on high grade neckwear.—Household Furn. Co., New Bedford, Mass.

The best is the cheapest, especially at Christmas-tide. Imitation and inferiority in a present is an insult to the recipient, a lowering of manhood in the giver, and the dealer is a party to the crime.—H. B. Gavitt Co., Westerly, R. I.

Still good picking among the special hats at the special prices. But you are getting near the "danger line." Sizes are beginning to run out. A day or two's more selling and the variety of shapes offered for your selection will be narrowed down.—Saks & Co., Washington, D. C.

MEN'S SHIRTS

"Gee whiz!" exclaimed the man, "all the buttons are off this shirt."

"Well," replied his lazy wife, "it's a negligee shirt, isn't it?"

"Of course."

"Well, it wouldn't be nearly so negligee if it had the buttons on."—Philadelphia Press.

Such shirts upon which the better class of shops base their claim to exclusiveness, and not without reason, for in fabric, fashioning and finish these garments are of the highest grade.—Saks & Co., New York.

Shirts of every conceivable pattern and all sizes. Shirts that will wear as long, wash as well and appear as fine as if you bought them at exclusive stores and paid twice as much as we ask for these. In every respect these shirts possess qualities that recommend them to careful buyers—to men who have good taste and appreciate getting double worth of their money.—The 14th Street Store, New York.

These are not shirts manufactured for sale purposes, but are made under our direction for regular selling, with every detail that makes shirt perfection carefully woven into their manufacture. There'll be choice picking from the several lots of shirts on display, and in every case you are assured nearly double your money's worth.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Not a more convenient place in the city to buy your Shirts—just inside the Eighth and Market Street door, and we have never seen better values than we are now offering; all new and fresh, and the styles are correct—the product of the best makers only.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Men who want to piece out this summer's supply of fine shirts, or stock up for another season, will be here promptly, for these are excellent investments. The majority of them are made of imported madras and plain and fancy striped cheviots; cuffs attached or detached; sizes 14 to 17.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

Fine crepe shirts made to order. We are showing a beautiful collection of soft, cool Scotch crepe shirtings, that will be pleasing to particular men. The patterns are exclusive with us, and the variety shown is unequaled in the city. Wanamaker Custom Shirtmaking is of the very highest order. The shirts we produce are not only superb in style, but the fit, comfort and finish of the shirts are above criticism. All sorts of materials—hundreds of patterns, of course,—but we want you particularly to see the new crepes.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

The balance of that great lot of handsome "Griffon" negligee shirts which have been the talked-about bargain among men for some days past will go on sale to-morrow at the clearance price of 59c each.—Bloomingtondale's, New York.

Men's New Shirts.—Complete new fall assortments from four of the best manufacturers in America, making a very elaborate showing of stylish shirts, with stiff or soft bosoms. Some are neatly plaited, others are plain; detached link cuffs. The materials are woven madras, pique chambray and oxfords, in light and dark shades of gray, blue, oxblood and tan, in the most stylish possible patterns, in perfectly fast colors.—Kemp & Hebert, Spokane, Wash.

Saturday starts here a big sale of men's madras and negligee shirts. A great money saving sale of negligee shirts because these shirts were all the desirable quality, in the newest styles, and there is no reason on earth for them being less than regular prices, excepting for the fact that we bought them at less than regular wholesale prices. By selling them at the usual per cent of profit we give you the benefit of what we save.—Loveman, Joseph & Loeb, Birmingham, Ala.

Fourteen hundred shirts from previous sales, some probably mused, but that matters little when the shirts are negligee and easily washed at home. There is a good variety of patterns; but it's well to be early and take your pick.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The First of the Stiff Bosom Shirts $1.—Presently the tenure of the negligee shirts will be usurped by the stiff bosomed variety, and already the new shirts are coming in. An attractive group is here to-day—beautifully made, over our own accurate patterns, of white percale, with designs that are quiet to the point of being reticent—stripes, pin-dots and small figures in black and colors.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

We have finished experimenting with all kinds and makes, and adopted these two because they are not only up to right style and quality, but will fit any shape man that comes for them. Both are made on different plans, cut on different lines. No other shirts take a collar so well at the neck or fit so comfortably through the body.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

At Price Reductions of One-Third to One-Half.—Perhaps you know the manner of shirts our stock affords. Then all you need know is that those offered here are from our regular stock, some twelve hundred in number, embracing the season's most favored fabrics and designs.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

We have a line of Negligee Shirts that is second to none in the city, and many of the patterns can be found at no other store; we have also a large variety of the popular Shirt Waists.—Babbitt & Co., Albany, N. Y.

We're justly proud of this collection of Negligee Shirts. The manufacturer held them back—let all his less attractive patterns go first, hoping to realize more on these.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Are you particular about your negligee shirts? It's right to be—and especially when there is more than one place to buy. We want you to see this assortment of dollar shirts, for they are just a little bit better values than you'll find elsewhere—better fabrics, better patterns, better made.—M. R. Emmons & Co., Atlanta, Ga.

A nobby shirt adds to a man's appearance. We have the largest and most complete line of stylish novelties for this season that is carried in this section of Ohio. The kind that gives you a neat and dressy appearance.—American Clothing Co., Kenton, O.

Summer Shirts that men like. Men, as a general thing, are good shoppers when it comes to buying clothes for themselves. They know what they want, and where to get it; and they are quick to spot "good values." That's why we are gratified at the practical approbation that men show for our shirts—they buy 'em, liberally, enthusiastically, and come back for more when they need them.

Scant wonder, too, with such an array to choose from, for instance, as this showing of Summer Shirts—Negligee Shirts. We have gathered them from those makers, at home and abroad, whom we know to be expert, reliable, careful. We contribute splendid shirts from our own custom shirt factory—made in custom style.

The range of patterns and colorings bespeaks the excellent judgment of our shirt man—Scotch madras, linens, percales, silk, some in plain white, others in quiet or pronounced patterns, according to your taste. Bosoms are plain or plaited, cuffs are detached or attached—in fact, you have to be a mighty hard man to please, to have any trouble finding precisely the shirts you want.—Wanamaker's, New York.

It is good luck, of course. But it comes our way because with a big regular outlet for shirts, makers like to turn their "plums" this way as a hint why they should get regular business. This maker had the fine white fabrics for about 2,800 shirts left and made them up for us after our specifications, which are a bit better than the usual. Spick-span new and spotlessly white shirts with plain, soft bosoms. All at half price or near it.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

To-measure shirts for men 4 for $11.00, value $3.50 to $4.00 each. To found the biggest shirt business in this town is our bent. To incline you our way, we have elected to offer a shirt as good as the best at one-third less than the standard price. And the hazard is ours—if the shirts do not fit perfectly you may inflict the full penalty. Negligee or plaited bosom, coat or open front models of the finest madras, cheviot or percale in imported or domestic weaves in some two hundred distinctive patterns. Cuffs attached or detached. A fortnight after we get your measure you will get the shirts—not an excuse.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Men's shirts, $2 and $1.50 grades, 95c. We can't help becoming enthusiastic about this very remarkable offering of fine colored shirts. Former shirt sales have offered splendid good shirts at 95c., but never in Pueblo were shirts as good and beautiful as these sold at such a low figure.—White & Davis, Pueblo, Col.

Imported shirts that distinguish their wearers. A good many more men than the public realizes buy their shirts in Paris. Season after season more of these men are coming to Wanamaker's. And men familiar with what Paris shows, best appreciate the Wanamaker importations. Just yesterday one of these men was passing the store and saw a windowful of imported shirts. He came inside and was amazed to see what a variety of imported shirts was shown—a better assortment than can be found in any one place abroad, because the best products from the various sources are assembled here. The result was, he picked out half a dozen and promised to buy his shirts here in the future instead of in Paris. The Wanamaker shirt business is increasing rapidly every season, as men realize the unusual character of our stocks. Of course, the assortment of imported shirts is finer this year than it has ever been before, and it is now at its best.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Following the splendid offerings of the past two weeks, we shall have ready and on sale to-morrow, Friday morning, another remarkable collection of men's negligee shirts at $1 each, representing qualities that sell everywhere else at $1.50 to $2. Then every shirt is spic-span-new, fresh, clean and handsomely laundered. The variety includes everything from a plain white cheviot, or a plaited front white madras, to some handsome dark-colored shirts worth two dollars, and looking as effective as many four-dollar custom-made shirts. Some of the shirts have cuffs attached, others have separate cuffs.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Exclusive shirts ready-for-service at two fifty. Cut and tailored by the same craftsmen to whom we entrust our to-measure shirts, we have designed a new series of ready-for-service shirts which have everything in common with those made-to-order—except the price. The fabrics—pure linen, madras and mat cheviot—are all imported and exclusive—Whytlaw, Holmes & Allen, and other foreign weavers sponsor them. Plain, plaited or stiff bosom models in coat styles with cuffs attached and open front and back, with cuffs detached. With a good many of the shirts there is an extra pair of unlaundered cuffs which your seamstress may attach when the first pair are beyond further service.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Negligee Shirts.—When it comes to buying shirts, most men are decidedly particular about the patterns. That is all well and good, and bothers us not in the least, for we are prepared to please the most fastidious.—Bergerman Bros., Pueblo, Col.

"Shirtology."—Spring time invariably enthuses designers who create the patterns for negligee shirts. It's the only season of the year that gives a man a real good opportunity to display his taste and originality in his make-up which naturally creates an eagerness, to say nothing of the rivalry to outdo—or outdress.—Daniel Bros. Co., Atlanta.

Negligee shirts at $1. This word is about a very smart group of men's madras shirts, woven in a particularly handsome crepe effect. The colors include plain, tan and two shades of blue. The shirts are beautifully made, and the peculiar weave of the material gives them a character quite unusual in shirts at this price. Of course, the fabrics will retain their color as long as the shirts hold together, and no fabric is more serviceable. They are made over our own pattern, full size, good-fitting and all have detachable cuffs. Sizes 14 to 17. They are matched by nothing less than the best $1.50 shirts elsewhere. $1 each.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Men's summer shirts to order. Correct sleeve lengths and perfect comfort about the neck and shoulders are points which make it worth while for the hard-to-fit man to have his shirts made to order.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D.C.

If you're good at guessing—it's more than apt to dawn on your mind that these are pretty good things for nobby dressers—and when you've scrutinized the materials thoroughly and given your imaginary facilities sufficient time to act—you'll likely decide to try a couple any way. They're dead swell—you have our word for that and the pleasure derived from actual experience with the shirt will no doubt be very gratifying. They are made of Pongee Silk, with a generous mixture of linen to insure their wearing qualities.—Daniel Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

A fine collection of smart, new, fresh, finely laundered plain negligee shirts, with detached cuffs. All made of excellent woven madras; some in white grounds with colored stripes; others in stylish dark effects—but not an undesirable style, pattern or coloring in the entire offering.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Men's shirts to measure. If you want solid comfort drop in to-day for a few minutes and let us take your measure for some spring and summer shirts. You ought never to know that you are wearing a shirt. If it is continually brought to your attention by the neck-band being too tight or the shoulders too narrow, or some other detail, it is poorly made. We have been studying the business for a score of years, not exactly the store, but the man who has charge of our shirtmaking. We know how to do it right.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia.

This is just the time you want a full quota of shirts and these are the stylish kind that meet the favor of the most critical dressers.—The John Gerber Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Shirts Marked Down.—Spring furnishings are arriving daily and demanding room. In order to remove quickly our remaining winter stock we have made radical price cuts.—Leopold Morse & Co., Boston, Mass.

Our showing of Men's shirts, neckwear, hosiery, gloves, underwear, night robes, etc., comprise about every new style on the market. We show values and styles that no other house will show you and you are absolutely sure of getting the very latest and best.—Halverson Bros., Whitewater, Wis.

The annual sale of men's negligee shirts at the special price is now in progress and every man can be fitted, for all sleeve lengths and neck measurements are included, and all this season's most desirable patterns in percales and madras have been secured for this sale.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Men's negligee shirts 25c. The patterns are good, so are the colors—striped effects, blue ground with white, black or red stripes—and the material is a well woven madras that wears and wears. Find your size and you find a prize.—N. Snellenburg & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Negligee shirts. It's the shank of the season, but we start it off with a sale that's a starter. It's our luck—yours, too.—Kaufman Clothing Co., Lexington.

A dollar bill may well feel proud when it comes here to buy a shirt.—Robt. I. Cohen, Galveston, Tex.

All the rank and file of the shirt world bow down to the Manhattan, the King of Shirts. Unrivalled showing for spring 1903.—Lambert, New Haven, Conn.

It pleases us to have people come in and ask for another of those dollar white shirts; shows that the last one was a good one.—T. B. Cuthbertson & Co., Vancouver, B. C.

Colored Shirts.—They're sweller than ever this season. Colors fairly run riot, and as for patterns—they are just simply splendid.

Fall Styles in Men's Shirts.—New patterns coming in every day. There's already a good assortment. Come look them over.—Mullen & Bluett Clothing Company, Los Angeles, Cal.

Don't neglect to lay in plenty of soft shirts—for traveling and vacation wear they are certainly IT.—The J. L. Hudson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Shirts it's a comfort to wear. If there is anything more uncomfortable than an ill-fitting shirt we would like to know about it. Some shirts are more like straight-jackets than wearing apparel. But here are shirts that fit right snugly around the collar, easily over the shoulders, with plenty of room in the bodies. It's a comfort to wear them.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Men's department special. $1 for men's high grade negligee shirts. Commencing this morning we will place on sale an extra special lot of men's high grade negligee shirts, all made of fine madras cloths, in a large selection of this season's newest and most desirable styles—novelty dark effects as well as white grounds with neat figures and stripes—all made coat style and attached cuffs.—The Golden Rule Store, St. Paul.

To show something a little newer, a little different, a little better than others show at the same price, is our hobby in this department. It's a hobby that's popular with men, too—our shirt sales prove it. We're always alert—watching for the unusual—and the snappy patterns we show to-morrow—for the first time—are the kind that influence men to buy whether the demand be immediate or not. We'll show you the swellest black and white square effects in fine quality madras and the nattiest collarless flannel negligees with turn-back cuffs that have been shown here this season. Hundreds of other handsome and stylish patterns in coat styles with attached or detached cuffs.—Sturtevant's, Zanesville.

Men's working shirts made of the best material for hard, every-day wear—English twilled Oxford. Stout, serviceable shirts, with good roomy bodies. Dark blue, brown and gray shades. Double-stitched seams and double yoke, with attached collar. Sizes, 14, 18. Eaton price, 50c.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

We're long on shirts, so we've cut the price short.—London Clothing Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Grand bounce for negligees! If you get onto our shirt bargains—the shirts are likely to get onto you.—F. M. Atwood, Chicago, Ill.

To-day we will give Tacoma men a bargain such as seldom appears at this, the very beginning of the spring season. Think of it, men! over 100 dozen brand new shirts that have not seen the light of day to go on sale at such a ridiculous price. Don't mistake the term negligee—negligee doesn't mean negligent dress. These shirts are good form for any business day the year round—that's why the sale goes on now. Hundreds of fresh, attractive shirts for hosts of men who want spring and summer shirts now. Some have laundered collars and cuffs; others have two separate collars, and most all can be worn with white collars and cuffs. We won't say what their worth is to you, but we do say that they are the biggest shirt bargain you ever saw at 39c. each.—Rhodes Bros., Tacoma, Wash.

We have just opened a big line of soft front shirts in all the newest designs and patterns consisting of fancy plaids, fancy stripes, plain blues, tans, etc. Anything in the shirt line you want we have it.—J. H. Fleming, Frederickton, N. B.

Another shirt sale—75c negligee shirts, 39c. One of the famous shirt-making concerns of the country had a surplus of fine white striped blue madras of the quality put into their dollar shirts. They sold it to another firm of shirt makers for a fraction of its worth. This second firm made it up into shirts for us—following the specifications for proportion and style which we laid down—and the shirts to-morrow will make one of the best offers of this or any season. The material is an excellent woven madras in medium blue with narrow, medium and wide white stripes. The shirts are made with separate cuffs to match. Sizes 14 to 17.—Frederick Looser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A three-day demonstration of spring styles in shirts. We have made special preparation for a three-day demonstration of spring styles in men's shirts that will prove of special interest to dressy men, as in it will be illustrated all the styles, materials, patterns and colorings, the latest effects worn in such fashion-setting centers in men's wearables as London and New York.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Men's negligee shirts, made of printed or woven madras, all light grounds, neat designs in stripes, figures and checks, chiefly black and blues correctly made with faced sleeves and every improvement. They are both attached and detached cuffs. The scarcity of cotton goods and an advance price in material, as yet, has not driven us to advance prices, as we anticipated our wants. These shirts are selling fast at $1.00 and $1.50.—John Lutz, Springfield.

Our shop devoted to furnishings for men is counted a powerful factor in the craft. To establish it we have sought opportunities and at times created them. This is an important instance. After his season was done, the manufacturer who provides the shirts of the highest character which our stock affords, and perhaps he is the best in the craft, found himself with about a thousand short lengths of fabrics woven in this country and abroad. They were of little use to him. We got together—the spoils came to us at extreme price concessions. Governed by our standard to insure full and true proportions, we have had his organization fashion the fabrics into his regular one-fifty, two-dollar and two-fifty shirts, all of which are offered at $1.10.—Saks & Co., New York.

Some 2,400 fancy negligee and stiff bosom shirts, with cuffs attached and detached. Most of them are coat style and all are this season's make. Not an old shirt in the lot.—Brokaw Bros., Brooklyn, New York.

Cluett shirts fit perfectly—wear longest—look best for every type and style of man. The perfect shirt for every occasion. Ask for Cluett shirts. Look for the Cluett label.—Cluett, Peabody & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Men's negligee shirts, made of printed madras, all light grounds, with neat designs in stripes, figures and checks, chiefly black and blues—correctly made with faced sleeves and every improvement. There are both attached and detached cuffs, and a good variety in each size.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

White bosom shirts every man has—how many have comfort in them? Here is a shirt ready to wear, cut with custom shirt care by perhaps the greatest shirtmakers in this country. That means a smooth-setting bosom, a neckband that does not drag down, sleeves so set in that they don't bind under or over your arm. And at every price there are sleeves lengths from 30 to 34 inches, in every size shirt. Made in all the accepted styles.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

They come to us from a maker whose name is a synonym for shirt quality. If we could use it in a public announcement there would be no need of further details. The why and how. He made the shirts up of short lengths of materials that accumulated during the progress of spring business. There was a wide variety, yet too few of each variety to attempt selling in the regular way. He "lumped" them and gave them to us at a sacrifice, expecting a quick distribution that would least affect his regular patrons. There are pleated and plain negligee shirts, custom finished, with hand-made button holes, and all are hand ironed. They are made with attached and detached cuffs. There is every size in the lot, of course, but not every size in every pattern. There are fifteen hundred of them, and not one will prove disappointing.—A. T. Lewis & Son Dry Goods Co., Denver, Col.

Men's fast black, fine quality sateen shirts, double stitched all round; gathered yoke to give plenty of room; correctly sized collars. The 65c kind, Friday at 49c.—The Fifth Street Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

Here's news of a bargain that some folks would exploit with great flourish of trumpets. We refer to a special purchase of negligee shirts that we can pass along at 50c each. They are made of blue madras with 1-4 to 1 inch white stripes and have separate cuffs. Appraisal of value we'll leave to you.—McCurdy & Norwell Co., Rochester.

Our policy is, never carry shirts from one season to another, so in order to make a clean sweep of our winter stock we are naming prices that will make this the biggest shirt event of the year. Besides the fact of our having the finest and largest selection of Manhattan shirts in Central Ohio, we are able to say that the greatest part of the stock consists of soft-bosom shirts suitable for wear the year around.—The Capitol, Columbus, Ohio.

A man's attire is the same thing to his character as the index is to the book. Men of sterling character wear the "Emery" shirt, a shirt of sterling qualities. These shirts are of the better grade for all manner of men, whether your taste be grave or gay. The "Emery" reflects credit upon the wearer, the retailer and the maker. A new lot just in of stiff and soft bosoms.—The Bailey, Copeland Co., Columbia, S. C.

In the final days of the most successful shirt sale we ever conducted—just when broken assortments require bolstering—here comes to us a surplus stock of celebrated negligee shirts. There are 3,200 shirts in the stock—enough to round out in full form the most popular-priced lines the sale afforded. Included are both pleated bosom and plain negligee shirts, made of madras, with cuffs attached or detached. They are well made, perfect fitting—all hand laundered.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York, N. Y.

A fine, big collection of smart, new, fresh, finely laundered plain negligee shirts, with detached cuffs. All made of excellent woven madras; some in white grounds with colored stripes; others in stylish dark effects—but not an undesirable style, pattern or coloring in the entire offering. The size range is complete; the variety is most satisfying. The quantity of $1.50 shirts is much greater than of those worth a dollar. It is an unusually fine opportunity for men who are ready to lay in a supply of summer shirts. 75c each.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

A chat with men.—Especially friendly with men to-day. How many of you had a negligee shirt left over from last season? You didn't throw it away did you? You put it on and thought it just about as good style as any you say in the shop windows around town. We have some left-overs—first-class soft front shirts, which we might masquerade as all new patterns, but we are not going to.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

More tan shirts at half a dollar.—Scarce as hen's teeth—popular as ping-pong! To-day plenty, at this little price. In three widths of clearly printed white stripes on a rich tan ground; nicely made, in full sizes; with separate cuffs. They have all the effectiveness of dollar or dollar-and-a-half shirts, though the price is only fifty cents each.—Wanamaker's, New York.

We're waving shirts at you this week. We want to attract your attention—want to show you what a splendid line of negligees and shirt waists we are putting out at 20 per cent. and more of price.—The Hub, Bangor, Me.

Men's negligee shirts, 50c.—Well made, neat, cool looking summer shirts of madras and percale. Some were specially made for us, to sell at this price; some are the dollar shirts of other stores; and some are our own special dollar shirts. Some have separate cuffs, others have cuffs attached. All are very exceptional shirts to buy at half a dollar.—Wanamaker's, New York.

We know that you have never seen a prettier lot of patterns than these. They are the brightest conceptions of the most celebrated designers. They come in solid colors, stripes, figures, plain whites, etc. They're the masterpieces of the best shirtmakers—makers with a reputation. Prices range from $1.25 and $1.50 to $2.00 and $2.50. See large special window display.—Wentworth Clothing Co., Spokane, Wash.

This is a grand opportunity for every man who needs new negligee shirts. They are the biggest shirt values of the season. The why and wherefore is that they came to us far below the regular figure—the loss is not ours. The patterns are neat, up-to-date effects.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis.

Shirts for men to be cool in.—These are the days when a man can well afford to be a bit extravagant in the matter of shirts. To feel cool, and to look comfortable. The shirt comes into unusual prominence, during the season when a man takes liberties with his vest. The diplomatic man wears shirts so refined and handsome that they preclude apologies. Good taste does not necessitate extravagance. But the better it is, the more it urges it. Here are abundant kinds of shirts for the man of good taste who is a conservative spender. Here is equal provision for men whose purse-strings are looser.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Nicety in negligees. It's a rather trite headline, and you've seen it in our ads before, but you who have followed it up by the test of trying and know how good the shirts are it stands for, will pardon its often recurrence.—Daniel Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

Shirts that fit. What solace there is in those three words to the man that has been made wretched day after day by a shirt that has pulled at his neck, pinched his arm and refused to hold a collar in position. These negligee shirts are properly made and they'll fit properly.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore.

"She sang the song of the shirt." Singing the song of these new shirts has nothing "dolorous" about it. The neatness and daintiness of the designs and colorings will delight every well dressed man, and not a few women who are interested in the good appearance of father, brother—or somebody else.—Moore & McLeod, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

These shirts are many degrees removed from the quality of usual sale shirts, being regular goods, bought in the regular way, from shirtmakers who are known to fame for the superiority of the product. The only reason why we don't uphold the price is because we've inaugurated a general house-cleaning on our shirt department.—Wm. Vogel & Son, New York.

This is certainly a most exceptional sale of men's fine shirts. The plaited shirts are of an excellent quality cheviot, percale, made with four plaits on each side, piped with white. They are shown in the season's newest colors—plain tan and plain blue. The shirts with plain bosoms have separate cuffs, and are made of woven madras, corded madras, cheviot finish percale and Tuxedo printed madras. They are in neat stripes and figured effects, on light grounds and medium dark, with new jacquard self-figured designs.—Bloomingtondale's, New York.

We are proud of our collection of summer shirts, and we are satisfied that we can please every man who desires handsome and comfortable shirts, no matter what his taste or requirements may be. We have assembled the shirts from the reliable manufacturers both here and abroad. We have only the products of the manufacturers—shirts that we know to be correctly and carefully made and handsomely finished. Our own custom shirt factory contributes many handsome varieties.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Almost half price—and if we should go to every good store in the country we would find in none of them a finer, smarter or better shirt for a dollar than those we shall have here to-morrow for 59c apiece. You will know the trademark as soon as you see it in each shirt—and you will know that for years it has distinguished the best grades of dollar shirts to be had.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

'Twould be a hard matter for a man to picture in his mind anything real nice in negligees and fail to find his ideal here.—Daniel Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

McFadden shirts have a reputation. A reputation for wear, color and style. If you examine them, you will discover why.—McFadden, Youngstown, O.

Better than the offerings of last week that made such a stir, for a number of higher priced shirts have been added.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Among the shirts shown here are a great many that will be just your idea of what is right. The variety of styles is so great that there's not a man living that we cannot please.—J. F. Gregory & Son, Rockland, Me.

MERCHANT-TAILORING

Everbroke—"I want to pay you something on account."

Tailor (rubbing his hands)—"Ah, I'm glad to see you."

Everbroke—"Yes, I want to pay you a compliment on account of your artistic way of dunning. Sh—not a word—you deserve it. Good morning."—Kansas City Journal.

To measure and to fit! That is the way we make clothing. Everything is done according to the most approved method—every garment made under a perfect system.

But measurements, methods and systems would be useless, if the material from which we produce our made-to-order suits were not of the very finest quality to be obtained for the money.—George Stewart, Melita, Man.

Deceptive methods don't pay.

It's what makes a tailor's business keep slipping back.

Here you get what you order. Get it when you want it. Straight fact.

The work on our garments that you can't see is done just as good as the work you do see. They're examples of tailoring skill and genuine value through and through.

Try us on trousers.—Brauer & Krohn, Los Angeles, Cal.

The clothes we make meet all the requirements of the most fastidious dressers, as well as those who demand the greatest service for their money. We make the clothes to fit the man and do not try to make the man fit the clothes. The best tailoring talent to be found spends its efforts in our shop. Our line of fabrics contains all that fashion decrees. Our prices are as low as goodness grants and as high as the best quality and workmanship require.—A. B. Smith Co., San Francisco, Cal.

Years of experience in the designing and making of apparel for men qualifies us to produce absolutely the best results. New fall and winter goods in lambs' wool, Leamingtons, vicunas, imperials, Carr's meltons, etc.—F. Schefers, Binghamton, N. Y.

We have hundreds upon hundreds of customers that are sounding our praise, in appreciation of us, and in kindness to their friends. We are ready, willing and anxious to serve you equally as well. We have an immense stock of suitings, overcoatings and trouserings, and our tailoring organization is complete. Join the band.—Morris Tailoring Co., Lexington, Ky.

It takes expert tailoring and cutting to mold suits to fit young men as they want to be fitted nowadays. There must be lots of snappy style and the fit must be perfection. All this our tailors have accomplished in our young men's suits, overcoats, pants and ladies' skirts and coats for the fall and winter of 1903 and 1904. Yours for suits to fit—or no sale.—The Royal Tailors, Bloomington, Ill.

The art of dressing well is really a science. It needs study and thought—much more of it than the average man can afford time for. And right here is where we make ourselves especially useful. You need only to select the cloth, we will attend to the rest.—King, Alliance, O.

Quality, style, fit, finish, price. These are the five points which distinguish "our" clothing—that is why our customers never have to apologize for their appearance; they invariably enjoy that satisfying feeling of being well and properly attired.—T. Kelley, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Trouser arguments. Not padded, either. Nothing but plain unvarnished truth. The trousers you take away from here will fit you, if they were made for you. That's just as sure as the world is round. If they didn't you wouldn't be taking them away. They'll be made from the most stylish trouserings of the day, in the best style of the day, if you so desire. We make them according to your dictation, from your choice of fabric.—Brauer & Krohn, Los Angeles, Cal.

Our homespuns are ideal summer suits—they are made durable, light in weight, loosely woven and cool. The colors are pleasing—natural grays, browns and heather mixtures.—Wolfs, Boston, Mass.

If in doubt, play homespun. It's the winner this summer. Some in plain shades burred and knobbed with touches of color every little while; some in plaids and overplaids, and many are stripes and broken stripes.—Golden, Detroit, Mich.

Fashions in fall fabrics crowd the counters of our tailoring department. Distinctiveness marks the stock. Many imported patterns among them.

Good dressers who aim for exclusiveness are invited to inspect our selection of fall suitings and trouserings before a single pattern is missing. Fastidious folks seldom wait until the matter of choice is narrowed down to remnants.—Swift, New Bedford, Mass.

The Arnheim unbreakable front and shoulder feature cost us a "barrel of money" to perfect, but it's worth it in prestige to this great tailoring business. We'll build a suit with this shape-keeping device, give you a broad selection of fabrics—charge but $20.—Arnheim, New York, N. Y.

We have taken out of our merchant tailoring stock a collection of fancy cheviot suitings, sufficient for the making of sixty-three sack suits, which we propose cleaning out of stock in a hurry, because they are odd lengths and will exactly meet the wishes of a great many men who will appreciate the economy at this time.—The Wanamaker Store, New York, N. Y.

Rivard, "the great tailor," is dead. Mr. Rivard was known as the best tailor in Philadelphia—a few of his customers were ex-President Cleveland, President Roosevelt and Admiral Dewey, so you can see he carried nothing but the finest cloths, composed of imported worsteds, chevots, homespuns, serges, diagonals and dress worsteds, and worsted and cheviot trouserings. His executrix sold his stock to us at a price which enables us to sell them to you at half price. All of his old customers will do well to see us on this sale, as we will make these garments up in the best styles and use nothing but the finest trimmings and guarantee you a perfect fit.—Moran Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Young man look around! Be observing and you will discover that three-quarters of the well-dressed men in town are wearing clothes made by Boone, Fall River, Mass.

Our stock of spring suitings is now complete. You should order your spring suit early to insure its being ready when the first warm weather comes. Every good dresser in Columbia should remember that we do strictly home tailoring. We cut, trim and make every garment in our own shop. We are, therefore, prepared to give you the very best work and a sure fit, and the goods are of the highest quality to be gotten for the money. Our prices are as low as is consistent with high class material and good workmanship. The clothes are fitted on you, and you don't have to take any chances on a misfit. Our guarantee covers the fit, the materials and the workmanship.—F. G. Mertins Co., Columbia, S. C.

The two Eisner stores are now ready with their spring suitings. Of course you wouldn't think of buying a winter suit at this late day. Here are all the cleverest spring novelties. These we will make up to your order with our customary care and skill, at prices ranging from $20.00 upwards.—Eisner & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Poorly made clothing is dear at any price. Well made, correctly fitting, properly trimmed garments with an air of distinction peculiarly their own at our price is strict economy.—Kissane, Mansfield, O.

The price of serge has been increasing rapidly and is likely to be still higher. We saw this coming sometime ago and gave our orders to the European houses for sufficient goods to meet our demands for a year. We can therefore guarantee the same quality goods at the same price which has made this our special. The cloth is made by the finest manufacturers in the world—absolutely fast dye, and will wear until you are tired of it.—Semi-ready Tailoring, Montreal, Can.

'Twill all be over Tuesday evening, then the beneficiaries of our sacrifices will have a long time to rejoice in the goodness of their bargains, and those who have failed of the sale's advantages will forever regret the opportunities lost. Join the procession to-day and to-morrow, and get your overcoat, or your suit, or your hat, or your bath robe, or your housecoat, or clothes for the boy; you'll make money if you do, and lose money if you don't.—J. Schradzki, Peoria, Ill.

Many a man finds himself better dressed and dressed more to his liking as a result of this sale for substantially reduced prices have tempted him to make a trial of the Parker-Bridget sort of clothing.—Parker, Bridget & Co., Washington, D. C.

Right now is the time when people are buying extra pants, and you know the reason, it's because it's too late to buy a winter suit and too early for a spring suit, and a man's coat looks fair while his pants are about on a new era. We believe in true advertising and offer bargains at the right time, when the purchaser will appreciate the benefit he derives in time when needed.—Julius Frankel & Co., Peoria, Ill.

We've been thinking about you. We want to clothe you this season and if you will give us the contract we'll do it reasonably and we'll do it well—better, we believe, than it can be done elsewhere. Our store is fairly booming with good things. Come and see what we have; suits, top coats, trousers and tog-gery galore. All as fresh as a May morning and at prices you'll be willing to pay. You can't do better, and you might do worse.—Spira & Pincus, Mobile, Ala.

We haven't received any clothing for this sale that was manufactured for this event. We haven't marked up any garments to a higher figure in order to sell them at half. Bear in mind that we are not offering everything at half, but that only suits and overcoats of which we've two or three of a kind are going at the 50 per cent. rate. All children's suits and overcoats are included in the sale.—The Washington Market Clothing Co., Trenton, N. J.

A summer suit should have body enough to be shapely and still be cool. That's the Arnheim way of making $20 clothes to your special measure. Our new "unbreakable" coat front and shoulder means shape-right and stay-right garments. Special sale of blue, black and gray serges, also striped flannels—choice at $20.00. Style book and samples for the asking.—Arnheim, New York.

If you want a fashionable new summer suit from fabrics the most exclusive tailors are showing, here's the place. Full discussion may be had with us regarding any or all points connected with our summer tailoring. We shall try to advise you intelligently and we are always determined to satisfy you, don't matter what pains we'll have to take. We would be glad to show you our fabrics and styles whether you wish to purchase or not. You would be pleased to see them.—Vincent French, Windsor, Ont.

Every February and every August we hold a clearance sale. We do it to keep our tailors always employed. We prefer to drop prices on our entire stock rather than drop one of the talented staff of tailors we have so carefully gathered together. But we'd drop both before we would let the quality of Brauer-Krohn tailoring drop a particle. So know one above all things that the cut in prices doesn't mean a cut in the quality of the tailoring—nor a cut in the quality of the fabric—nor a cut in the quality of the linings.—Brauer & Krohn, Los Angeles, Cal.

All we have to offer is the tailoring and most satisfactory price. We want to get in touch with you, we believe it will be to our mutual advantage, and we promise our best effort to serve you well. A good way to get acquainted is to call at our store and see what we have to offer you. When selecting a suit there is often some one besides yourself to be considered. Ben Franklin said: "Eat to suit yourself, but dress to suit others." We're running this store to interest the whole family.—Spira & Pincus, Mobile.

There's one thing sure! Every piece of material in my stock is new. Facilities better than ever. Stock more select. Variety greater. Spring styles for 1903 now ready.—C. W. Deibel, Youngstown, O.

"The Duke of Marlborough was the greatest man in Europe," said the king to Beau Brummel. "Perhaps so, sire, but his trousers were always six weeks out of style," replied the arbiter of fashion.

The point is that many a man does himself an injustice by not looking the part nature intended him to play. Clothes do not make the man, but it's a fact that the world judges you a great deal by your personal appearance. A carefully dressed man makes a better impression than a carelessly dressed one. It costs no more to dress well than to dress poorly. We make a business of dressing people properly at a minimum of cost. To the best material we add brains. The result is correct dress at small cost. Our cutters are the best in the business and our material the best staple products of domestic and foreign looms. Come in and let us talk to you about a fall suit.—Harmon & Lyons, Crowley, La.

A high degree of tailoring is acknowledged by all our customers in our suits. We carry the best stock of gray and blue serges, worsteds and other fabrics in Western Ontario and employ only the best workmen. Everything is guaranteed here—cloth, perfect fit and workmanship. Men who appreciate cool, comfortable, well-made garments will find our turn-out most alluring and they will not be startled at the prices—which are always reasonable for first-class work.—Vincent French, Windsor, Ont.

You don't give "two whoops of Halifax" why or how we can sell a suit for $18 made to order, with all the style and neatness of good tailoring that, according to ordinary ready-made clothing value, is worth every cent of $22. All you want to know is: "Do we?" We do!—Michaels, York, Pa.

Just finished a great sale in the tailoring department and here comes another. Better fabrics, of course; a whole season's accumulations of short lengths of fine fancy worsteds, cheviots and casimeres, such as were used in suits we sold at $30.00 and $35.00. Some of them single suit lengths—enough for but one suit; others sufficient for two or three suits. Nearly forty patterns in all ready for the early comers' choice. Suits will be made and finished in standard manner—as they would be if you were paying full regular prices. Coats single or double breasted, lined with alpaca. In annual sales of this character early choice of the assortment of patterns is most pleasing.—Macy's, New York.

Why be a ready-made man when we can build a suit to your measure for the same price? The fact that we make suits at popular prices does not detract from our workmanship and style of fitting. We keep in pace with the styles just the same as high priced tailors.—Plymouth Rock, Memphis, Tenn.

Our overcoats and suits talk as eloquently, although without life, as the most gifted salesmen could speak for them. They appeal with telling effect to economical men who want to wear fine custom made clothes at almost "ready made" prices. The beauty of the fabrics, the excellence of the workmanship and the richness of the trimmings, all bear silent testimony of the superlative excellence that wins favor with well dressed men every time.—J. Schradzki, Peoria, Ill.

I have something to say to you that will interest you. Do you know that I am making the swellest garments for gentlemen ever turned out by an Indianapolis tailor? Have you noticed them on the street? They have a different hang and style from the ordinary. Come and see me for your fall suit or overcoat. I want to make them for you and can please you.—Frank Davey, Indianapolis.

It takes expert tailoring and cutting to mold suits to fit young men as they want to be fitted nowadays. There must be lots of snappy style, and the fit must be perfection. All this our tailors have accomplished in our young men's suits this season.—Meigs & Co., New Haven.

When you want to build a house you employ an architect. You prefer to build your own house according to your own ideas. It's the same with clothing. Buying ready-mades is like buying a house not built to suit your particular needs. We are clothing "architects," and if you want a suit to fit you we'll build it and guarantee satisfaction.—Adam Steip, Jersey City, N. J.

Our custom-made clothing for men is the result of years of experience in making clothing for men, to which is added your personal equation. So that you get the sort of clothing that has satisfied hundreds of men, as to materials, cut and style; and you have the assurance that our sum total of experience has been brought to bear on making this particular suit for you.—Graves, Cox & Co., Lexington, Ky.

Not considering the two months yet to wear wash suits—at half price, don't you think it would be a good investment to buy the boys' 1904 supply now? Fabrics and the making couldn't be improved upon—and styles will be about the same.

Sailor and Russian blouses, made of blue and pink chambray, white duck and white pique, blue and tan linen and striped galatea, plain and trimmed, to select from. Buy now and save like this.—M. R. Emmons Co., Atlanta, Ga.

You want a tailor-made suit?
Think a bit.

Suppose we take a piece of cloth—see for yourself that it's a fine woolen—suppose we design this to your special order, give it that air of style you can't help appreciating. Suppose we fit you with better effect than any tailor ever did before; suppose we do this and charge you exactly what the goods cost at wholesale plus exactly what it costs for the making.

Suppose such a suit nets you $22.50 and your friends inventory the value at $35.00—is that worth hurrying for?—F. B. Silverwood, Los Angeles, Cal.

There are a good many new ideas connected with high class clothes construction this season, and we utilize them all in our work. Whatever helps to improve the appearance of a suit or an overcoat, that means we employ, to the benefit of our patrons and our own satisfaction—the satisfaction of knowing that we excel in every detail.—L. Bernheimer, Spokane, Wash.

Nothing better in high-grade, artistic tailoring than the tailoring work done by Mertz's experts. Every garment is an epitome of quality and style—every garment shows the limit of thorough workmanship and artistic finish. You're absolutely certain of getting the best and most satisfactory tailoring when you place an order with Mertz, because Mertz guarantees satisfaction to every customer.—Mertz & Mertz Co., Washington.

A faultless fit assured if you step in here. I make suits, pants, coats for men and young men. I have some mighty fine samples of light summer suitings. They can be made up in any of the late styles and made to fit you and to please you. I do repairing and pressing, too. Step in.—Peter Pickton, Fargo, N. D.

Hard work does the business. That's the secret of our success in tailoring—no sweat-shop work in ours. Our cutting and fitting follow the best of modern methods, the fabrics are of fine quality, and skilled artisans make them up stylishly and well. Garments of our making hold their shape indefinitely.—Napoleon J. Roy, Tailor, San Diego.

The vital part of "fit-reform" tailoring is what you don't see. It's the part you don't see that make the part you do see worth seeing. The fine hair cloth and shrunken canvas—the patient molding of shoulders, collars and lapels by hand—don't show in the finished garments. But they tell in the wear and fit of "fit-reform" clothes. Tweeds, homespuns, serges and flannels.—Fit-Reform, Toronto, Can.

Bernheimer suits are entirely different from any other made-to-measure suits. They're better. A suit made by Bernheimer for $20 is better than you can get made anywhere else for $30. That's because we give you the benefit of what we save by buying in large lots direct from the mills. And because we put more style, and fit, and better workmanship in our suits than others put in theirs.—L. Bernheimer, Spokane, Wash.

Our custom tailoring meets the wishes of several hundred careful and well-dressed men. They come back to us season after season, because their clothes look right and feel right. If you will let us take your measure now—to-morrow—you will thank us a little later for this reminder when the warm and pleasant days come and your suit is ready. We have a remarkable collection of woolens of all kinds to select from.—F. W. Brandt, Binghamton.

Our custom tailoring organization meets the wishes of hundreds of men particular about the fit and character of their clothing, but who do not wish to be extravagant in the prices they pay for good work. Wanamaker tailoring is done by expert craftsmen. Every detail of measurements, cutting, fitting and finishing of the clothing is done with care and skill. Every season we give splendid satisfaction to an ever increasing number of men, who are particularly gratified with the low prices charged. For the making of men's double-breasted frock coats and waistcoats we are now showing a very fine quality of black thibet, which we make to your measurement, lined with Skinner's pure dye silk, for $35. Fit and satisfaction guaranteed, of course. We are also making stylish English cutaway suits to order, from a variety of attractive materials, at $27 to $42. We have a very fine collection of neat gray striped worsted trousers, which we make to order, at $6.50 to $15.—John Wanamaker, New York.

No better fabrics ever met a tailor's shears than the elegant and exclusive suitings we have selected for the fall and winter seasons.—Fletcher's, Kenton.

What makes your tailor worry? Say Smith & Ennis to a tailor and watch his face redden. You might as well throw $10 or $15 into the ocean as to pay a tailor's profit when no tailor can fit you or please you better than Smith & Ennis' famous New York clothing. You would not find well dressed men who could well afford to pay any kind of a big price wearing Smith & Ennis clothing if it wasn't that Smith & Ennis clothing is nobbier, smarter and more exclusive than any tailor's productions.—Smith & Ennis, Los Angeles, Cal.

Our custom tailoring is in a class by itself. It took us some time to get our tailoring store up to the present standard, but our past hopes have been realized and to-day we have a tailoring store without a peer. Many of Brooklyn's most particular men have already ordered their autumn and winter clothing—the best work takes time. It's not too early to think of the future. But a word to those who have never tried the Loeser tailoring. Let us make you a suit, if you are not satisfied with the workmanship or material you do not have to pay for it. Get acquainted with our tailoring store and it will be an agreeable acquaintance not soon forgotten.—Loeser's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Right clever tailormen have we in our shops—as clever as ever threaded a needle. Their time and talent are spent in tailoring to-measure suits of the very highest grade. So far as they are concerned, the season is at an end. Rather than have it be the parting of the ways, we present this special offer.—Saks & Co., New York.

Building smart, high class suits at a reasonable price—showing the choicest fabrics—the right treatment of every patron—you're invited to make an inspection.—J. D. Smith, Columbus, O.

Tailors to the masses.—The United Woolen Mills Co., Parkersburg, W. Va.

You are not required to pay a big price for having your suit of clothes made to order. For $15 we will make you a handsome, true fitting suit of clothes. We are prepared to do high-class tailoring, and that's the only kind we do.—The Pittsburg Tailoring Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

A fool and his money are soon parted. That's how the makers of cheap, ready-made clothing manage to exist. If you are sensible, you know that clothing made to order is cheapest in the end. No tailor in this town—or anywhere else—makes better clothing than we turn out. Don't be a fool. Come to us and be well-dressed.—Adam Steip, Jersey City.

What gives a suit its chief attraction? Style, isn't it? Will the same style that looks well on the stout man look equally well on the slender fellow? Not much. Ready-made suits are cut in the same style, and vary simply in proportion. Every Silverwood suit is studied out, and built according to the proportions, the figure and the general characteristics of each individual. And there's no "hold-up" about the price.—F. B. Silverwood, Los Angeles, Cal.

Spring suitings are ready! May we have the pleasure of showing you our new spring fashion plates and our swagger new spring suitings? There's no obligation to buy—we simply want you to get acquainted with the smartest and prettiest line of English, Scotch and American woolens ever shown in Washington. Many are leaving their orders now—for, after all, it's only a matter of a few weeks when you'll want that spring suit to wear.—George E. Hebbard, Washington, D. C.

It's a hard come-down when a man begins to find his ready-made suit isn't what he expected—isn't a tailor's fit—isn't a tailor's cloth—isn't a tailor's style. If good tailoring were costly, there'd be an excuse for taking a suit from some clothier's counter. But who can pass by these clever materials, so well tailored up that they keep a man well dressed months after the "ready-made" has been passed over to charity.—F. B. Silverwood, Los Angeles, Cal.

Fall fabrics are now ready for the inspection of all who from taste and inclination desire that perfection of style and quality of gentlemanly refinement in the make of their autumn clothes. To the elegance imparted by a superb line of fabrics we add the skill of the master tailor, resulting in the production of garments of surpassing beauty in cut, fit and finish.—Yontz & Ebright, Columbus, O.

Come in and look over the stock. It is not necessary to leave an order. No one will ask you to do so, but the goods will exert a very strong pressure. This is a very well selected stock of very handsome goods of reasonable weights and stylish designs. Under the skillful hands of our expert tailors these goods are made up into perfect fitting, dressy and high class suits or overcoats.—Burwick, Worcester, Mass.

Bully! Best thing ever happened. Advertised 42 of our own make suits last week right here in this same spot, and we sold them all on Monday and Tuesday. Who says Denver people don't know a good thing when they see it? Kept our tailors busy for the past week making up another batch for stock. Same suits we make to order for $20, $25, $30 and $35. Better get acquainted and save five, ten or fifteen dollars.—Schradsky, Denison, Col.

If you took 500 tailor shops and emptied all their woolens into one building, you wouldn't find a greater choice than we will give you. Our stock is larger than many wholesale houses carry, but the limited number of yards in each pattern make it possible for us to produce garments just as distinctive and exclusive as the highest charging "restrictive" tailors. $20 buys a suit with a $40 pedigree. Samples and fashion plates upon request.—Arnheim, New York, N. Y.

Our trouser-tailors put their whole hearts into the one thing for which their special ability is best fitted—the making of trousers. They are engaged by us just because of their expertness in that direction, a fact which explains the superiority of Morse-made trousers in every detail.—Leopold Morse & Co., Boston, Mass.

If you want the properest clothes, you'll make "here" your choosing place. We show a hundred patterns and weaves where other tailors show you one. In short, you choose from the largest variety of clothes ever found under any one roof. $20 will buy a suit tailored to your measure and styled to the minute—$40 would be nearer its worth. Let us mail you samples and style book.—Arnheim, New York, N. Y.

If we hadn't especially prepared for the heavy invasion customary with us our stock would suggest the jam pantry after an official visit of the "young hopeful."—Brokaw Bros., New York City.

"Take my advice, old man! If you want to look dressed 'up to the handle'—not over-dressed, mind you—see that John McLeod & Co. does your tailoring." Sage advice to the man of business or society whose appearance is of any moment to him. We can but repeat: For good garments, fashionably cut and made, see John McLeod & Co., Charlotte-town, P. E. I.

Need trousers? Perhaps you don't need a whole suit—coat and vest very good but the trousers show wear—you could use an extra pair. Lots of men just that way. I can remedy that for you as I have done for so many others. Come and see my new trouserings. Let me show you something stylish at a moderate cost.—Connor, Goshen, Ind.

Wabby legs are the only kind we don't fit. We could fit them but we don't want to. If you want us to fix you up with a pair of handsome legs bring them in when they are steady.—Grand Pants Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Quick delivery when you need it—and no sacrifice of fit or style. After all, the fit is the thing, and that we guarantee. Dissatisfied? Then no pay; that is the Loftus way—every day.—Loftus & Co., New York.

Our custom tailoring organization deserves your attention to-day, if you have in mind the buying of a new Prince Albert coat and waistcoat. In the first place we guarantee a perfect fit and thorough satisfaction with your garment. We will give you such work as you would pay a very much higher price for to any other tailor who will do equal work.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Yes, we certainly astonished the men-folks with our unparalleled offer of a nobby, up-to-date two-piece outing suit. When we saw that these suits were in such demand we looked around for others. We were lucky! Came across a well-known maker who gave us his entire sample line at less than the cost of material. Better suits for the money have never been offered.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

In a big clothing stock like ours, doing such a large business, men's suits will get resolved into their separate parts. We'll sell the coat and vest, mayhap, and keep the trousers; or the trousers run away and leave the coats. Hence, every so often we have a roundup of all these waifs and strays, and clear them out at a low price. Such an event occurs to-day, and the luck's yours, if you find the size and style you want.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

No matter what you may want in the way of stylish clothing for men or young men count on finding it here at half regular price.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

We guarantee every garment we make to fit perfectly. We show a great variety of exclusive patterns. We make all our garments in our own shop. We give you one, two or three try-ons to insure a perfect fit. No man too hard for us to fit. We have expert designers and expert tailors, and the only difference between a suit or overcoat made by us and the high-priced tailors is the price.—English Woolen Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Years of experience in the designing and making of apparel for men qualifies us to produce absolutely the best results.—J. Schefer, Binghamton, N. Y.

We make hundreds of dress suits every season, and our cutters and tailors are familiar with the different tasks of producing the kind of dress garments that satisfy. All orders are subject to our guarantee of good workmanship and exact fit. If our tailoring should fail to toe the mark of excellence we set for it, we'd rather make new garments than allow you to take the clothes and be dissatisfied with any detail of their making.—Kalin Bros., Indianapolis, Ind.

When we deliver your garment to you we feel satisfied that it's correct in every detail. If it were not it wouldn't be yours for we would not allow you to take it. Oftentimes a customer thinks a garment is right when it's not. Other times he thinks it's wrong when it's right. Our staff of employes have strict orders to satisfy themselves as well as the customers that their garment is perfect. By carrying out these methods we continue to do business with the same patrons season after season. Right now is the time to order your spring and summer suit or top-coat, and we should be the ones to make it. Any style or pattern goods you desire made to order as you want it for fifteen dollars.—The American Tailors, Columbus, O.

Suits to measure. Quality and low prices. These are the two essential principles which are making our custom department so successful. Materials all wool. Patterns most exclusive. Fit guaranteed.—Henry Esders, New York, N. Y.

The best everywhere soon gets to the top. Our certainty of this gives added diligence and care to every garment we make. And when the best keeps up to its possibilities it stays there.—S. M. Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Hard work does the business. That's the secret of our success in tailoring—no sweat-shop work in ours. Our cutting and fitting follow the best of modern methods, the fabrics are of fine quality, and skilled artisans make them up stylishly and well. Garments of our making hold their shape indefinitely.—Napoleon J. Roy, San Diego, Cal.

A good suit is know by the shape it keeps. Arnheim clothes stay right outside, because they're properly "stayed" inside. They're hand made and well made. The price is $20. The cloth—the making—the fit and the fashioning won't differ from usual $40 clothes of other good merchant tailors. Send us word and we'll send you samples.—Arnheim, New York.

There's individuality about clothes made by The American Tailors. The reason is that our competent cutters exercise care in cutting each garment, remembering the particulars of the customer. There's pleasure in wearing a well tailored garment because there's comfort in it. That's why a made-to-measure garment stands out so distinctively by the side of a ready-made one which has been cut to a regular size and all men have some individual peculiarity of form. In this tailor shop you can select any of over 500 distinct patterns and have it made in a suit or top-coat, the exact way you want it for fifteen dollars.—The American Tailors, Columbus, O.

It's one of the sights of New York—this Arnheim Tailory. Six full double floors devoted exclusively to the making of clothes to individual orders. You can see every step of the making, from the marking out of the cloth to the final touch of the pressing iron. You can see how we transform $40.00 worth of good tailoring—good style and good cloths—into $20 suits. A front and shoulder that always keeps its graceful and swagger shape, is the "Arnheim Unbreakable." Samples are yours for the asking.—Arnheim, New York.

Trousers made to order for $7.00 and upwards. A well-fashioned pair of trousers is one of the difficult things to obtain outside the good tailor's. "Brandt's Custom Trousers" are smartly built—have that comfortable feeling, clever air and right hang to them because they are made by specialists.—F. W. Brandt, Binghamton, N. Y.

One thing you get at Wanamaker's which assures you of a perfect-fitting suit, that is, the "try-on" after the suit is basted together, so that we can go over it carefully and get it to fit you in the most faultless manner; then after the suit is entirely finished, we try it on again and have it thoroughly inspected, and if there is anything that can be made better we make further alterations. You are perfectly suited with the suit and its fit before it is sent home.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

This is one of the few tailor shops where the artist drafts every individual pattern. It takes longer and it costs more, but it produces perfectly fitting garments. If you are not entirely pleased with the set and cut of the suit or top-coat, don't take it.—Arnheim, New York.

You won't hear of a better tailoring offer this season. The line of home-spuns is well worth specializing. All the effects are exclusive with Mertz. Needless to say the tailoring work will be the best that experts can do. Fit and satisfaction guaranteed.—Mertz & Mertz Co., Washington, D. C.

The greatest kicker on earth is supposed to be the mule, but we know some men that could give that animal points. They bought "ready-to-wear" clothes and learned afterward that our prices for apparel made to measure was not one cent higher.—Bolles, The Tailor, Bloomington, Ill.

A spring suit, overcoat or Prince Albert coat and vest to your measure for $11.99. A 12-day offer. Get your order in early, for we shall sell thousands at this sale—and you will want yours in time for Easter. Hundreds of elegant woollens have been selected for this great event, and the "particular" man will find dozens of patterns to his taste among them. Eleven dollars and ninety-nine cents is a mighty small price for a stylishly cut and properly finished man's spring suit, but we can compass it. Remember, if your purchase doesn't please you when finished you can have your money back.—Ehrich Bros., New York.

Our two establishments are busy these days making suits for the best dressed men in Los Angeles. Our cutters understand the art of building suits that not only fit, but more than that—Eisner suits have a certain style and snap, characteristic of the best Eastern tailoring.—Eisner & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Lend me your ear. You can pay $50 for a $40 suit of clothes if you want to, but you can't get a better fit or better workmanship, go where you may. Be alive to your own interest and leave your measure for that new spring suit or overcoat with Bloomet, Bloomington.

We have gathered the newest things in patterns and materials, and will make them up in the latest style. As to fit and finish, we guarantee our work, though the prices may seem low.—Henry Esders, New York, N. Y.

It is quite easy to get a ready-made suit that looks well at first, but fine tailor-made on the inside, to your special form, is what counts in the long run. Perfect tailoring means honest work all the way through, whether it is in sight or not.—Scotch Woolen Mills Co., Scranton, Pa.

Good tailoring is not enough. If a tailor can't give you your clothes when you want them, where's the good of his tailoring? Promptness requires system. Our system gives you the kind of clothes you want promptly at the time you want them.—Miner & Jacobs, Lexington, Ky.

Is there anything like a crisp, cool spring morning to whip the color to one's cheek and set one's pulses tingling? Is there anything like the consciousness of wearing well-cut clothes to lend a poise to shoulders and a tilt to the chin? My spring suits are attuned to the season—soft grays, winsome blues, sprightly plaids, indeterminate checks as grave as you wish, as gay as you like. But grave or gay be the pattern, style crowns each suit as sunshine crowns a spring morning.—Vincent, New York.

Well dressed men.—The best dressed men in Lexington say that the fit and finish of our custom made clothes is superb. This season's fabrics are thoroughly up to our standard, and we are ready to take your order. We know that every bit of material that goes into these clothes is the best, and the prices are consistent with the grade of work and satisfactory service.—Graves, Cox & Co., Lexington, Ky.

The Wanamaker tailoring organization very happily combines good style, high-class workmanship and popular prices. Every day we are pleasing men who are particular in their requirements for well-fitting clothes. We are showing fabrics as handsome as the market affords. Fit and satisfaction are guaranteed; and yet prices seem to be only a small advance over the cost of ready-made clothing. And that is our policy, just the additional cost of the special service rendered. No fancy charge because the man requires individual attention. This spring we have the handsomest showing of fancy cheviots and worsteds that we have ever presented. We make double or single breasted sack suits for business wear of fancy cheviot or worsted, at $25.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Custom tailoring for the average man. Price and pretension go hand in hand, in the matter of tailoring. The exclusive tailor makes you pay for his "swellness," his location, his name, as well as for his good materials, style and tailoring. In paying our prices, you pay simply for what you put on your back—cloth, all-wool, in the latest, best patterns, correct fit, attained by careful cutting; style, put into your clothes by the best tailors we can get. And you can gauge the saving to your pocket by these prices on suits that you'll be proud to wear.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

If we have never made clothes for you, now is a good time to begin. Any one can buy canvas, oil, paint and make a picture, but what kind of a picture will it be unless the right man paints it? Any one can buy cloth, thread, buttons and make a coat, but what kind of a coat will it be unless the right man makes it. We employ only the best of tailoring artists in the making of our garments—that's the reason we make the best clothes obtainable for the price. We have every reason to be exceedingly proud of our offerings in spring woolens—the line stands as a testimony to the expertness of our buyers. These we make up with all the style, dash and wearing qualities of garments that cost twice the money.—Scotch Woolen Mills Co., Youngstown, O.

The "Arnheim unbreakable" front and shoulder wasn't perfected in a day—we have known the urgent need of it ever since light weight cloths were used. We will make a critically correct two-piece suit to order from serges, cheviots, flannels or any other summer fabric, for $17.—Arnheim, New York, N. Y.

Patience is a necessary ingredient of tailoring genius when it is exercised in the creation of tropical worsted garments. That is why so few tailors offer suits of this fabric. They realize that a little tailoring knowledge is a dangerous thing; that it requires a master craftsman to design a suit which weighs about nine ounces the yard so that it will exhibit all the ear marks of a garment made to order. Our variety of tropical worsted suits is without a gap.—Saks & Co., New York.

Hot weather is making things hum in the tailoring department. Cool summer suits, fitted to fit right, styled right, priced right.—F. B. Silverwood, Los Angeles, Cal.

There is so much satisfaction in a Scotch Woolen Company tailored suit or overcoat. You feel well dressed. You feel safe. You know that the Scotch Woolen Co.'s guarantee is behind their clothes just the same as the government guarantees its bonds. We take a pride in making clothes that satisfy not only yourself but satisfy your friends. If your friends jolly you about your clothes, come in and get acquainted with us; we have goods that will not only please your eye, but you can afford to buy them.—Scotch Woolen Co.

Things aren't always what they seem. Many a suit that cost enough to be gold lined looks like a cloudy morning after a month's wear.

We're not much on making promises, but we do say this about our tailoring, that if it isn't satisfactory, if it doesn't fit, if it isn't fully up to your highest expectations—don't take it. It's ours.—F. B. Silverwood, Los Angeles, Cal.

Well cut clothes give personality to the wearer. Don't sink your individuality in ill-cut garments which cost as much as the best, when I can make you a suit which suits you, at a price to suit you, cut in the latest style, and fitting well.—John Henderson, Christchurch.

Trousers to order. Men's trousers are always a vital part of their wardrobe. An extra pair is always desirable. A new pair also acts as a powerful tonic in building up the run down, tired appearance of an old suit.—Nicoll, Tailor, Des Moines, Ia.

Sack coats are growing a bit this winter. Much more length to 'em. Chunkier, square cornered lapels, too. You can have a suit or overcoat made up in the new way with $40 worth of art in the tailoring, from that special line of blacks and blues, plain, fancy and overplaid worsted chevots for $20.—Arnheim, New York, N. Y.

The least that I claim for them is that they fit—a suit without fit is like soup without salt, flat to the taste. They have style, too. I can't describe it because it is made up of elements that baffle the pen but are caught by the eye.—Vincent, New York, N. Y.

Fortunate merchant tailor who averages to fit his customers as well as we fit ours.—George Kelly, Philadelphia.

To-measure apparel for men. The cleverest tailoring talent to be found anywhere spends its efforts in this city. Nor is there a dearth of it. But the average man finds eighty or a hundred dollars for a suit or coat just beyond his purse limit. He is left to the mediocre tailor, whose creative bump is sadly deficient. His efforts find expression in garments that are inferior to those which we provide ready-for-service. Yet he has the effrontery to ask from forty to fifty dollars for them. Here and there you will find a tailor who asks but a modest price for apparel which is almost as good as the best. The organization of our merchant tailoring shop is on that basis. It is devoted to that class of apparel in which the most critical men find their ideas and tastes expressed. The craftsmen know every little trick and knack which tends towards individualizing apparel for men, whether it be in cutting, or fashioning. May we demonstrate it to you? It will cost you from thirty-five to fifty-five dollars. You will never regret the experiment.—Saks & Company, New York.

Trousers 99 cents a leg to order. The time limit on these trouserings will expire in a few days. The end is in sight. This sale gets shorter as the days grow longer. A little while and this snap escapes you. Good clothes do more than dress a man; they make life easier and pleasanter.—Scotch Woolen Mills Co., Scranton, Pa.

Under our new system of measurement tailoring becomes a luxury indeed. No need to come back after you've placed the order. When the suit is finished it is sent home and will fit without the necessity of trying on or alteration—not that we won't be pleased to try on if you can spare the time.—Arnheim, New York, N. Y.

"Do we turn out our own suits? Yes, sir, custom made on the premises. And when the man who buys one turns out in it, he turns out in appearance a very different man from what he was before, because the clothes fit him, sir, fit him to a dot, and make him look so 'highly respectable,' sir. Just let us take your measure, and when you wear the suit a smile of appreciation and satisfaction will turn out on your wife's face."—Kahn Tailoring Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Evening apparel for men. Every fastidious man instantly observes in the grace of outline and beauty of finish of our evening garments the skill of the master designer. Evening dress calls not only for the highest skill in conception of style, but the greatest possible care in finish. In presenting our garments we do so knowing that the most critical man is bound to become enthused—as all are in perfect taste.—The B. & M., Peoria, Ill.

With a touch of the exquisite in every line. An indefinable grace and beauty so characteristic of the May millinery. In the French section we will display perfect dreams in dress hats, in black, white and blue, with ostrich and flower trimming.—The May Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Our immense and vast interests in the millinery world give us exceptionable advantages in the buying of the choicest merchandise. Being wholesalers as well as retailers, we not alone get first choice of the newest and best ideas, but we get them for less than many concerns pay. We also get control of more styles than anyone else, thereby having more exclusive patterns to show. With our facilities and advantages, it is an easy task for you to buy your millinery here.—R. Ballerstein & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Seashore and mountain hats.—Their very simplicity and daintiness make them all the harder to picture to you—fairest way is to see them in brilliant display through the main floor millinery store to-morrow. There is a spice of novelty and smartness in every single hat, the crispness which shows them the cleverest work of the most original designers.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Stylish millinery for misses.—In the whole range of millinery there are no prettier conceptions than those designed for the school girl and the miss just entering upon womanhood. The bright colors of the trimming, and the large roll brims are exceptionally pleasing in youthful headwear; and Hamburger's is the only store to see them in greatest variety.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

A magnificent assemblage of unusually beautiful trimmed hats, American and imported models, and the creations of our own workroom. The collection, as a whole shows a distinctive beauty and originality that will not fail to delight the most discriminating feminine taste. And many other items that go to make up the sum total of my lady's apparel are on exhibition, sharing with the millinery magnificence in the bold bid for the admiration you are certain to accord them all.—C. Franke & Sons, Baltimore, Md.

A new line of these pretty duck hats will greet you when you come to our millinery department to-morrow, hats that are so popular for this season of the year. You will find nearly every shape known to millinery world. Some are trimmed with velvet band and bow and edged with velvet of the same color; also trimmed with ornaments.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

A glimpse of the new fall millinery.—Walking Hats and smart Turbans—came Friday; more are being unpacked as this is being written, but too late to get into the columns of the Sunday paper. Yet by Monday there's sure to be a stunning show ready, and the women who delight to be first will enjoy this exhibition. We count it no small part of the pleasure of store keeping to be able to invite the city's hundreds of visitors to view this first show of beautiful hats for fall.—Stone, Fischer & Lane, Tacoma.

Nobby felts for fall.—The discord between the calendar and the weather bring a wonderful demand for autumn street hats. The decidedly correct styles are flat and saucer shape felts and are shown in white, castor, gray, red, new coronation, blue, green, etc. The trimmings used are white or colored drapes, pompons and parrots. From the great variety of handsome styles now shown in our millinery section, the most fastidious customers have no trouble in being perfectly pleased. The prices are as pleasing as the styles and gradually range for all purses.—Mandelbaum's, Des Moines, Ia.

Had the weather been clear yesterday we believe the Green Millinery Salon would have been clear, too. It isn't every day a woman can pick up such artistic summer hats for a third less than usual.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Just for the present and early fall wear. They are made of shirred Jap Silk and trimmed with cluster of wings—very light and serviceable. This is the greatest trimmed hat bargain of the season, and they are sure to be snapped up quickly, so we advise you to be on hand early.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

Here to-day, gone to-morrow—that will probably be the story of these stylish Trimmed Hats. Pity we haven't room to tell about all the other good things! But come and see them to-morrow.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

It isn't necessarily costly to own a smart, up-to-date autumn hat. Thursday's offerings give a maximum of style and value at a minimum of cost. Don't miss them if you wish an inexpensive hat.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Our trimmed hats this year have been a most pronounced success. They are the biggest values ever offered. The facts are we have never used so much care, thought and energy in the trimmed hat business, and the result is an aggregation of hats such as has never before been seen in a millinery house.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

New felt hats.—Pretty—yes, more than that. These new felt hats have an air of graceful becomingness that is missing in so much headwear.—Hockchild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Fall fashions in millinery.—Months of intelligent and careful planning brings the world's millinery products to our store ready for your choosing. Our preparation days are nearly ended—yours are just beginning. Women who are getting ready for their fall millinery will find the Wonder very interesting from now on as the new and authoritative styles are shown here first. The showing of street and walking hats, dress shapes, imported pattern hats, domestic models and the novelties in trimmings are so abundant, so bright, so varied, so interesting, so complete in fact that there is little else to be desired. The store is brimful of the latest in millinery and women who are planning for their new fall hats need not hesitate to make a selection at once, because there is nothing better yet to come. The beauty in buying here is two-fold: You can get whatever you want and the price is considerably less than that asked by the high-priced milliners who charge fully one-half more for the name.—The Wonder Millinery, San Francisco, Cal.

These first few days of fall have put you to thinking of new headwear and our opening this week, whereat we show many of the pretty European styles, as well as all the best from American fashion centers, is a realistic lesson as to just what people are wearing and what will look best on you. We don't expect every person who comes in to view this opening to buy, nor will we importune you to do so; but we are satisfied that when you see the pretty hats displayed here you will concede that their equals are not to be found elsewhere in Los Angeles. In the magnificent assortment the hats for school misses and young ladies are especially catchy and novel.—Hamburgers, Los Angeles, Cal.

Walking Hats. Scarcely believable, until you see the hats, how much variety, style and beauty there is in this collection of trimmed walking hats, from our own workrooms. It seems as though the list of possible combinations had been exhausted—there are so many charming effects. Shapes are flat, turban, sailor; the hats themselves are of the fluffy shirred silk, velvet or felt; the trimmings are wings, quills, ornaments, velvet ribbons, flowers. And the chief marvel of all is their very modest prices.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

Walking hats for women and girls.—Really, they are lessons in effective simplicity. They show, in most enticing fashion, what may be done with a felt hat, in the prevailing broad, flat shape, a pompon, and a quill, a wing, and ribbon or silk. Of course, they are evolved to be appropriate for their intended use—to wear with the smart walking suits of to-day. The majority of them were trimmed in our own work-shop, and you'll agree that they are well done.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Millinery.—The prism of fashion has scattered rays of inspiration into every nook and corner of our millinery parlors—nobbly headgear for ladies, children and infants—superb styles for walking or dress wear—every day new arrivals keep coming, which fact keeps this millinery store an unusually interesting place these late September days. Before buying a new hat, it's to your interest to look here.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Toques and Tam O'Shanters for little people. The toques are just the kind of headgear the children like to pull snugly down over their ears when it's cold and the snow flies. Some of them are of warm knitted wool, others in gay Roman stripes are of silk, warmly lined with jersey cloth. And the Tam O'Shanters, too, how jaunty, bright and good-looking they are. You can get the toques into the Christmas stocking—the Tam O'Shanters will have to be pinned on the outside!—Wanamaker's, New York.

Millinery for the South. New hats ready to wear. A lot of new hats, bewitchingly trimmed and ready to be worn by the traveler who intends going South—they are advance styles for this season.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Beautifully trimmed hats so low in price that what you can get them for is actually less than you will pay a good milliner for the making alone. The best money's worth you ever got, undoubtedly.—Wolff & Marx, San Antonio, Tex.

New Fall Hats.—Ready-to-wear hats, the prettiest lot we have seen. Plain felt, a bird or feather here, a plain hat daintily draped in chiffon; colors run riot. Simplicity will be the watchword in fall hats—simple, yet graceful and charming.—The Bon Ton, Altoona, Pa.

The New Hats for Autumn Wear.—The advance styles are here and ready for your viewing. They're stylish, nobby, swell. Untrimmed, trimmed and tailored effects. Hand made and draped hats. Suit and outing hats. The new hats for early fall wear are being displayed, showing the new materials and the fashions that are going to be worn through September and October. Chic and smart ideas in all the up-to-date styles.—R. Ballerstein & Co., Hartford.

Millinery.—When everybody is imbued with the holiday gift buying spirit, it takes heroic measures to incline women's thoughts toward millinery. We prove ourselves equal to the task by reducing prices.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Trimmed Hat Saving.—The saving is not on the hat or any part of it, for we have lavished material, beauty and style on its construction to make it look like double or treble its value. That is where the famous Hahne bargain richness comes in.—Hahne & Co., Jersey City, N. J.

The lowest pre-holiday prices we've ever quoted on worthy millinery now confronts you. Can you resist? The hats are the finest of the season—the best we've had. And because we overestimated the business you have an opportunity to select from such lots as these.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Much Talked Of Millinery.—You hear of these $4.95 trimmed hats everywhere, and they form pretty substantial subjects for feminine conversation. A special display has been arranged for Saturday—250 new and charming effects are ready, fresh from the hands of Newark's foremost milliners.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

We are justly proud of our millinery department. It has been very satisfactory to our patrons. So it has been doubly satisfactory to us. Just now we are going to have a large supply of beautiful street and dress hats. If you have not secured a winter hat, now is the opportunity of the season. Here are just a few items. There are a lot more hats than we can speak of. You'll not find anything the matter with these hats.—Szold's, Peoria, Ill.

Millinery Mention.—That's all it needs now, as it has demonstrated distinct ability to grasp the new conditions imposed upon it. Produce millinery of a high class, and sell it on an ordinary basis. Greater variety and scope at medium prices. New and dressy styles in flower toques and lace hats. Excellent trimmed toques and sailors to wear with tailor gowns and blouses. Our order department is extremely busy, so it would be advisable to come early in the week and place orders for what you want made.—Boggs & Buhl, Allegheny, Pa.

Decidedly Novel Ideas in Millinery.—The millinery department presents a wealth of styles and new materials in the Summer hats. The display to-morrow contains many exclusive novelties not to be found elsewhere in pretty trimmed and ready-to-wear hats that are distinctive, chic and effective. Prices throughout the department surprisingly low.—Solomon's, Pittsburg, Pa.

A May Millinery Show.—Three hundred hats go on display to-morrow morning that nobody but the milliners and the writer have had the pleasure of seeing. And scarcely a hat that you saw here last week will be shown unless you specially ask for it. It is newness with a vengeance, but it is the best sort of newness—that born of experience. Styles are set; then they must run the gauntlet of public opinion—you slash at them as they pass in review. We stand and study. The May styles are the safe styles, and they will be at their best to-morrow. Many of these three hundred new hats bear the price tag, "$3.50," or "$5."—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Hats for $1.98, $2.50 and $3.—These are small prices, indeed, you think, but it is enough to get a genuine Schipper & Block trimmed hat with. Most of them are made right here in our own workrooms, where the trimmers who work on these popular hats copy them from some very much higher priced model. The materials are less expensive, of course, and there is no charge for originality. With them we will show to-morrow some very new trimmed hats from New York—all at these same prices—these latter ones are also very pretty.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

"Automobile" Hats.—While the new effects which we have called "Automobile Hats" are styles well adapted for wear in your automobile, they are really the most stunning dress hats introduced this season. While they resemble the sailor hat of old, the brim, the crown and the style of trimming make them entirely different from any effects ever shown. We show very large assortments of the following "Automobile Hats," and we feel certain they will meet with the approval of all good dressers.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

Millinery.—Many new notions in the millinery department—many new knocks off old prices. Hundreds of hats. Fancy fixed, or to be fixed at your fancy. Paris patterns, simple styles, and all betwixt and between. Sailor hats with a salt-seeming savor. Lingerie hats graced with lace—models of the art, visions of elegance. Every millinery whimsey in straw, with minglings of flowers and foliage.—Chamberlain-Johnson-DuBose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Chip is the chipperest of the women's straw hats—bedight with ribbon, laces and flowers.—Chamberlain-Johnson-DuBose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

The Most Exquisite French Hats.—Prices cut in two. There is no class distinction in the inevitable rule which reigns here—the rule which says the new must make room for the newer. Yet there is decided distinction in this sale. The Parisian models as well as our own exquisite conceptions in the millinery salon have played their part—so far as we are concerned. We must speed the parting and welcome the coming. Therefore, even these creations of beauty must follow the usual order, and to-morrow prices will be cut in two.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Most of the American milliners are still sleeping their winter sleep. Only Paris, always wide awake, has been plotting and planning to make spring a most beautiful season. For a month we have been receiving constant bulletins of progress from our Paris office—and more important still, all the new shapes have come in straw, lace and horse-hair. Today we can show with authority what women will be wearing two months from now. For stiff hats the little Marquise, pinched up into three or four-corner shapes, is to be all the rage. This is the hat that was brought out by Georgette about three years ago and has now developed into almost a craze. But for elaborate occasions the hat may be as large as you please, which will probably be very large, indeed. Hand-embroidered linen hats in colors to match the new suits are distinctly new. Colored laces, dyed to tone with any gown, promise to be very fashionable. You have only to bring us a sample of the shade you wish. The new automobile hat is on view—mostly a becoming chiffon veil. Flower hats and large, drooping horse-hair hats are among the novelties.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia.

Everybody seems to want a new Hat now. Our designers, trimmers and makers are doing their best to get orders out on time. We had to disappoint quite a number of people last week, but intend to make prompt deliveries this week. Better leave your order early in the week and be sure of your Hat for Sunday. Not a day passes but what something new is shown in millinery.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

Dainty, summery hats have blossomed out in the millinery store, ready for the hundreds who are planning trips southward. Loveliest of all are the hats of maline, all in clusters of tiny tucks, shirred, and looking like cloud, or foam; their misty, ethereal beauty further emphasized by the trimming of rich velvet blooms in faint, delicate colors. A new thought is the use of lace-like Tuscan braid with maline—giving the effect of delicate embroidery over the filmy stuff. A black-and-white beauty is of fine black lace, white maline and marabou. But almost every hat has some beauty-touch all its own. The showing is well worth seeing. Though you may not be going south, you may want a dainty new hat for evening wear.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Newness in Trimmed Millinery.—That's the charm of the Kaufmann millinery—newness. No two days is the stock alike. Our large corps of trimmers is kept busy as bees turning out freshly-new creations—and so you see there's nothing stereotyped in our styles and operations.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Whatever your millinery wants may be you can fill them here at a great money saving. The styles of our hats are the newest and our display equals any that we have ever made.—Coffin & Young, Binghamton, N. Y.

Might call them Garden Party Hats.—they are festive enough for such occasions, though quite simple. Made of white or black mull, on wire frames, and trimmed with the same material. Light, airy, not perishable, and essentially summery. Ideal shade hats for women and girls.—Wanamaker, New York.

The time to buy millinery.—Prices are down so low—a quarter, a third and a half less than usual—on many of our finest hats, that many women are seizing the opportunity to put another bandbox on the closet shelf.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

We have maintained a very satisfying assortment of street hats for the demand that has been continuous. Now we are parting with them as quickly as we may, for very small prices. With the cost so insignificant, many women will find good use for them.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

A very special feature of our millinery showing for this week will be the beautiful new creations we have made up to sell at $10.00 and $15.00. Whenever we lay special stress upon hats to be offered at any particular price you have learned to expect extraordinary values.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago, Ill.

A great number of handsome hats to be closed out. No two hats alike. Trimmed in artistic and individual styles, newest shapes and materials, trimmings of ostrich feathers, wings and flowers. Novel effects, possessing an air of distinction. More than 200 hats at prices worth investigation.—The Fair, Chicago.

Popular Priced Stylish Millinery.—The majority of women do not feel that it is necessary to have excessively high-priced hats for ordinary street uses and every-day wear. However, they want something neat and tasty and we are satisfied that the particular lines advertised below will meet any and all requirements as to price, quality and style.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Creations of beauty.—Philadelphia women's ideas reflected in every hat—quiet, yet rich in material. Nothing tawdy is allowed on a "Snellenburg" hat; that's the secret of the little elegancies that make you mistake one of these five-dollar hats for a ten or twelve dollar conceit.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia.

Women's Hats, 25c.—We had a hat clearance sale last week that was such a success that we have decided to hold another and clear out our entire surplus stock. We are including without reserve all our hats that are now $1.75 to $3—any number of pretty styles to choose from. These hats, regardless of their former price, are all to be put on sale at the incredibly low price of 25c. We have decided that we would rather sell two hats at $1 each than one hat for $2. Accordingly our newly arrived, ready-to-wear hats are to be marked at $1.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

The latest little tricornes are out today—soft felt wired and caught up into shape by gardenias or camellia roses. A good many other new stiff hats for tailored suits are also ready, in odd shapes with a feather or a big rose or some fascinating combination of color to take away their stiffness. We have tried to plan just the hats that a snap of cold weather will make necessary—the first fall hats.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia.

This show is an occasion that demands the attendance of every lover of artistic millinery, as the display includes every desirable hat designed for the fall and winter seasons—either at home or abroad. Some original models—some New York copies, and beauties from our own workrooms.—Kings Palace, Washington, D. C.

New and Stylish Millinery.—Not alone correct in style, but absolutely the very best materials used, and are unexcelled in workmanship.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

We don't brag, but we ought to, about such a millinery stock as we show. It's hard to find a better, in point of variety, greatness of stock or in style, and then we boast and can prove it that we have the most "competent trimmer" in the city or State. No dissatisfaction when she trims your hat. Try her and see.—Harry Johnson & Co., Pueblo, Colo.

Won't you see this millinery before deciding what to wear? You'll be captivated by these trimmed hats. Their equal in beauty and style has not appeared in Chicago this season. We've looked about and we know. There's a chic splendor in their construction. They combine all the fashion's best touches. They're made of the materials now in demand. You will want one—maybe two.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

New Millinery.—Our line of spring hats is acknowledged by all who see it to be the best showing of made hats for the prices to be seen in town.—Puritan Clothing Co., Bangor, Me.

Millinery of surpassing elegance, of delightful freshness, of aristocratic exclusiveness, of swagger, stunning style, in immense variety, and what is also important—at moderate prices.—Brown's, Fall River, Mass.

A Number of Specials To-Morrow in Untrimmed Millinery.—Wish to incorporate your own ideas in your new spring hat and at the same time keep down its cost? Then avail yourself of these special offers and let us get up a hat for you.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Ready-to-Wear Hats, Smart Creations.—If you wish to find a hat to suit your special style, to harmonize with your costume, to come within the price-limit you have set, you can hardly fail to find it in the bewildering number of styles offered you at Gimbel's.—Gimbel Brothers, Milwaukee, Wis.

Street and Dress Hats.—There is an individuality about our millinery. We make our own frames and shapes, from the wire up. Our designs are exclusive, and no two are alike. All the newest ideas are seen in our hats. Our stock is full in its assortments, and we believe there is nothing in the millinery line that we cannot make.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Bright New Millinery Beauty Brought From the East.—Our buyer made a quick trip East and secured some rare bargains in lovely new millinery. Also some splendid bright, fresh styles that you haven't seen here before. We will have these items on display and sale to-morrow. Below are the pictures—descriptions as good as we can draw them in type.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Great Millinery Selling.—We've just gone through a week of unprecedented millinery selling, yet our collection of fashionable millinery is so large that the assortment is still complete. To-morrow we inaugurate another week of wonderful selling by offering a series of sales that are bound to attract all economical buyers who recognize the Palace superior millinery styles.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Distinction in Millinery.—That's the strong specialty of this millinery department. When you leave your order here it is filled with your own particular needs and tastes in view. The hat we make for you will suit you better than any one else—it will have all the style—all the finish—all the nameless touches that make a hat charming—and it will have individuality, as well. And the price is no more than for ordinary millinery.—Moore & McLeod, Charlotte-town.

Sale of Tailored Suit Hats.—In moderate priced hats we are showing an unrivaled collection of smart hats, individual in style and made of excellent materials. Some of these hats are close copies of French models, some are original ideas furnished by our own clever workers.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Correct Millinery.—Special News.—Millinery will be priced surprisingly low for Tuesday's selling. The backward weather of last week makes it necessary for us to hurry the sale of some of our trimmed hats. Look where you will, you'll not be able to duplicate the values we are offering. Added to that fact is the assurance of securing here styles that are wholly correct.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

A single dollar works wonders in the millinery store. A constant stream of people have been buying dollar hats, yet the lots are still big enough to warrant our issuing a second invitation.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

It isn't the price that makes the style in a hat. Put the Loeser hat side by side with the lovely Paris hats and you will choose one as quickly as the other—yet the imported hats are of necessity the most expensive.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Spring millinery, the first echoes of Paris, are sufficiently distinctive and strong to indicate what you shall wear later. The hats that have come are for service for those who are going to Florida, California or Atlantic City. There's a large number of them, besides our millinery force is already active on the production of the latest millinery ideas.—Gimbel Brothers, Milwaukee, Wis.

New Straw Millinery.—Ready to wear hats for the Southland. The finest showing we ever had is here. Fresh and crisp, from designers and makers who manufacture only the best grade of hats. We are satisfied to let this show stand as representative of the high quality maintained in this main floor millinery store. Some of the braids are Cuba, Cuba and silk, satin braid and plaid, Piquot Jap and many others. The shapes that are most wanted—Continental, flatiron, sailor and boat shapes. Simply trimmed with ribbons, feather breasts, pompons, plain and pin dot silks combined with steel and gilt ornaments.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

An Early Opening of Spring Millinery.—Yes! Even we are earlier than ever to show the new styles—already we have here 600 new and beautiful hats in styles and colorings for all occasions. First let us mention the pattern hats. Here is displayed the very highest of millinery art. Then the flower hats, all so handsome that fragrance alone could add to their fascinating charm. And then comes the evening hats—graceful and becoming styles in real exquisite pale tints. And last but not least the ever popular chiffon hat; these are shown in many styles in all black and all white. This early display is now ready for your inspection, and we would be pleased to have you call.—Bernheimer's, Kansas City, Mo.

New Spring Hats, $2.—Advance styles in untrimmed hats of chiffon, plain and moired silk, in a variety of shapes. A great many women are already deeply interested in what will be worn for spring—the millinery workrooms are fairly busy.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Our spring hats attract attention. The last couple of days were very short, from a working point of view, hardly enough time to show all the pretty hats, was the way one bright saleslady said it. Come to-day and you will see new things added to this hat exhibition, they seem to sell as fast as we make them up; no wonder, there was never a more clever line of spring hats sold in this city.—Jonas Long's Sons, Scranton, Pa.

Every department of this great store is brimming over every day with new merchandise of every description. After months of careful preparations we are in daily receipt of the new fashionable wearing apparel, such as we can guarantee will be in vogue for spring and summer, 1905. But we are not unmindful of our customers' interests. Nor are we unmindful of the fact that the two great bargain days of this valley must be kept, must be taken care of, even during the busy time of the spring showings. The items quoted to-day in almost every instance represent special purchases on our part at correspondingly low prices.—McKelvey's, Youngstown, Ohio.

As a fitting climax to our most successful spring opening we will sell a special line of new hats at a considerable less than their actual value. These are new lines, prepared for this occasion, and represent some of the most exquisite creations that have been brought out this season. To induce prompt purchasing on your part the prices named will be good for to-morrow only. Handsome dress hats, in the newest shapes and prettiest color combinations. Special prices to-morrow.—The Crescent Store, Spokane, Wash.

A rare chance to buy the children new and stylish hats and bonnets at nominal cost. A splendid assortment of all the new spring styles and shapes for Easter.—Goodman's, Milwaukee, Wis.

Aside from the many high class imported model hats which we are showing, we have an unusually attractive collection of clever styles at prices that strike a popular chord, ranging from $15.00 down to $4.98. Every one of these hats has a style, individuality, characteristic of very highest priced models, and the materials employed in their construction are the very best. If you desire to secure the fullest measure of value for the amount you spend for a trimmed hat, come to Grand-Leader.—Stia, Baer & Fuller, St. Louis, Mo.

Almost given away! Never in millinery history have fine goods been sold at the prices we are offering them. Patterns at about half price.—Strauss Bros. & Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Commotion among fine millinery. Over one hundred and fifty hats are going for a song. French hats, plume hats, all kinds of turbans, sailors, bonnets. Prices for the most part are cut clean in two—some are a third less than usual, and some are only a quarter less.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

A little more than a century ago there was printed in a French newspaper a society note of which this is a translation: A great sensation was caused at the opera one night by the arrival of a lady dressed as follows: Her gown was "a stifled sigh" trimmed with "superfluous regrets," with a bow at the waist of "perfect innocence," ribbons of "marked attention," and shoes of "the queen's hair," embroidered in diamonds, with the "venz-y-voir" (come and see) in emeralds. Her hair was curled in "sustained sentiments," a cap of "assured conquest," trimmed with waving feathers and ribbons of "sunken eye," a "cat" or palatine of swans'-down on her shoulders of a color called "newly-arrived people" (parvenus), a "Medicis" arranged "as befitting," a "despair" in opals, and a muff of "momentary agitation." From this enchanting age of Louis XVI and from the period of a few years before the fashions of to-day, especially in millinery, take their inspiration. To-day, again, the idol of Paris, now in the person of the beautiful Cecile Sorel, of the Comedie Francaise, supplies the model of what has become supreme in millinery style. Again are seen hats which deserve the imaginative description of the old French writer—"marked attention," "assured conquest," and "despair," are their attributes. And we could quote a score of still more enthusiastic Twentieth Century expressions, heard yesterday, which tell how great the admiration of our millinery has been.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Now for Millinery! Needs are never ending—and it is a very old fogey store that simply does things by seasons. Milliners used to work not over half the year. Now, at Schipper & Block's, employment is continuous, and the best workers from many points are attracted here. Our designers have turned out lots of chic new toques and black velvet hats—ready to-morrow. $3 to $10.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

It is almost giving away millinery at these clearance prices. This sale will insure a clean sweep of the stock in the millinery section. You'll read of values up to $2.25 at 25c. Nothing in stock is priced at more than half its regular value. Most are priced at much less than a fifth. Millinery doesn't have much prestige with us just now. That's why the markings are so exceedingly low. The qualities are choice.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Pretty spring hats at $2.50. Keen eyes have searched out every $5.00 and $6.00 hat that shows the last sign of handling, and down goes the price to-morrow to $2.50. Clever fingers have taken various little lots of untrimmed shapes and made them pretty with flowers, ribbons, wings, etc. These are marked $2.50. This is news to bring hundreds of women, for it isn't often that such extreme values are to be had so early in the season.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Women's ready-to-wear hats. Ready-to-wear hats never had so much individuality as they have this season. Of course, we judge them at their best—by this collection of ours. There is a certain air of distinction, a jauntiness, a general impression of good style that will please you. Newest styles. Newest colors. Many light summery effects. $1.75 to $10 each. And almost-trimmed hats that require but a touch to complete them, at $2 to $6 each.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Popular price millinery that bears the stamp of fashion's approval. Women who appreciate the truly modish will find in this present bewitching assembly of unique conceptions a refinement and exclusiveness which appeals most strongly to the educated taste. Not only is an artistic standard kept up, but the prices are also kept down—we have devoted special attention to provide a variety of acceptable models at most moderate prices. Here are reproductions of imported dress hats which have all the value of the original, both in fineness of materials and individuality of style. It is in this way the representation of our millinery department has been brought up to its present perfection, and our display fully maintains this prestige.—N. Meyer, Columbus, Ohio.

Beautifully becoming summer hats in greatest variety. The handsome millinery parlors on the second floor in honor of this auspicious event will be attractive with charming creations that will be of utmost interest to every woman who delights in artistic millinery.—Siegel, Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

Untrimmed hats for women are offered in the newest designs; also a complete line of floral trimmings, wings and ostrich feathers. Trimmed hats for women intended for outing or similar service are, in addition, shown; and trimmed hats for misses and girls, in practical and dress styles.—B. Altman & Co., New York.

There's nothing lacking to round out the perfect fullness of our splendid millinery assortments.—The Lace House Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

New trimmed hats in charming summer styles. Many new and exclusive designs in trimmed hats have just been added to our very large and superb collection, among them a very pretty line that should bring us more money than we charge for it, namely $7.75.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

This "Style Store" has afforded numerous sensations this spring in the way of little prices on millinery, vying with the most beautiful and expensive products of the city's exclusive millinery shops. We are keeping up the most sensational selling of fine millinery. Savings that are of the greatest moment, because style and beauty and intrinsic value are the highest. To-morrow's values are among the best of the season, its bargain offering perhaps the greatest, as it embraces a clean-up of the smartest $3.00 hats for $1.49. It's a sort of May store-cleaning. We've grouped all broken lots, including most charming hats in tailored and suit styles, embracing all the popular shapes and colors.—Olds, Wortman King, Portland.

We broke all previous records in the millinery department yesterday for one day's selling. Every indication is that we will have a still bigger day Monday. Our present stock of trimmed hats must be cleared out in short order to make room for the big shipments of mid-summer styles now on the way. The great reductions cited below for this sale apply to all hats in stock except the tailor-made styles. Regardless of the large number of hats that left the department yesterday, the remaining assortment for Monday's selling permits of rare choosing. Hundreds of pretty styles are here to select from. The following prices, which will be in force to-morrow are the lowest ever quoted on fine millinery at this season of the year.—Titche-Goettinger Co., Dallas, Tex.

Our trimmed millinery this year has been planned on a greater and grander scale than ever. We have purchased hundreds of models from Paris and New York, which we have reproduced exactly and marked at our low prices. We have been more than fortunate in our sales this season. The people have been most enthusiastic; our sales have been greater than ever before. We say, without fear of contradiction, that this store does the greatest trimmed hat business in the world. The reason for this is not only in the low prices, but in the beauty, becomingness and richness of the hats we sell. We want you to come in and see them and compare them with those you will find elsewhere—we want you to compare our hats at $4.98 with those you will find in other stores at $10.00, $12.00 and $15.00. We feel confident the comparison will be in our favor.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Summer opening of pretty millinery. Take your first glimpse of the most charming summer millinery you ever saw—beauty that will draw exclamations of ecstasy and which will more than meet the expectations aroused by the exquisite showing made at our spring opening. We again show daring departures from set methods without sacrificing elegance, style or good taste. We will again surprise you with distinctive originality; we will again surprise you with modes weeks ahead of what will be generally shown—in fact we will hold our undisputed leadership by a characteristic showing. The new styles embody features varying from the staid lines of past seasons. Plateaux, or "flats," are bent and twisted into innumerable beautiful shapes; small hats, with low crowns and narrow brims; bountifully trimmed with flowers or feathers, vie with their larger sisters on the more stagy order, which are bedecked with beautiful ostrich plumes. White and the soft shades regulate the color line—tuscan, pink, light blue, old rose, lilac and other delicate tints.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Our spring headwear is on the tongues of Bangor women who speak in glowing terms of their beauty and elegance.—R. M. Lewsen & Co., Bangor, Me.

We may as well admit a considerable tossing of bouquets—at ourselves—on account of our millinery department and its accomplished mistress.—The Crews Beggs Dry Goods Co., Pueblo, Colo.

We believe in fitting hats to heads and faces, not in fitting heads to hats, so we are careful always to have a remarkably large variety of styles and shapes.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

Our millinery is now at its prettiest. Our pride centres in these beautiful hats produced in our own workrooms. They represent fashion, beauty and novelty as you'll hardly find anywhere else.—Perlmutter, Jersey City.

Attractive millinery at greatly reduced prices. Monday will be moving day for a number of broken lots of fine ladies' and misses' hats, the best values offered this season, and they are going to move, for prices are cut so low they simply can't stay.—A. I. Namm, Brooklyn.

Get your spring hat now. Don't wait until the last moment. Don't wait until all the bright conceptions and clever copies are gone. Buy now and buy at "The New Idea in Millinery," where one dollar will go as far as two invested elsewhere.—The New Idea In Millinery, Columbus, Ohio.

How could you help loving our millinery? Rich and tasty colorings, correct ideas, dependable qualities, all put together into fashion's latest moulds by only master hands. Don't be afraid to price them because they look so nice; they're about one-half the price they look.—The Perlmutter Store, Jersey City, N. J.

First of the midsummer millinery. Nearly a hundred and twenty-five full-blown summer hats make their debut this morning in the Golden Salon. Inexpensive hats—$6 and $8—but wonderfully pretty, full of snap and style, and well put together. Since they are the hats to go with fluffy summer gowns, of course they are large and light and airy. Not much trimming, but all the colors carefully blended, and every bow and flower tucked away in exactly the right place.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

There can be no better hats than the best. Our hats are undoubtedly the best. You know it. Everyone knows it. There are hats among them for the dressiest, tastiest or the most stylish women of the land and there are other hats which exactly suit the women of quiet taste. Still, there are other hats for the dainty miss who is just as particular as the lady of exquisite taste. Then there are hats for children of all ages so childlike, so pretty and becoming that there is no excuse for them ever wearing anything else.—Rosenbaum, Pittsburg, Pa.

Ready-to-wear millinery. Modish ideas in "first hats" from French hat fashioners, so closely copied in these early spring patterns that an adept would falter in determining the difference. The collection includes the daintiest creations in chiffons, fancy braids and many other high class materials suitable for street wear—a choice of a number of the prettiest patterns all very specially priced in this advance season sale.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Debutantes of the millinery world for 1909. Handsome array of imported Parisian hats for the comely faces and stately figures of American women. The splendor of our millinery openings has never been paralleled by any commercial house on the coast. Millinery purchased at Hamburger's, whether made by our own skilled artisans or purchased abroad in the fashion center of Europe—Paris, have that distinct style and elegance which makes them inimitable. It is our duty to be conversant with what is to be worn in headwear this season and the following little chat may not be uninteresting to you. The foremost designers of the world have striven for more becomingness and general picturesque effects than ever before.—Hamburger, Los Angeles, Cal.

Trimmed hats, untrimmed hats, tailor-made hats and children's hats, as well as a profusion of flowers, fruits, foliage, laces and ribbons for the new season, are now first shown. The styles are those generally accepted as fashionable, but carry with them that refinement of tone and exclusiveness of character which have each season caused our millinery to be more and more sought after by careful dressers.—Charles H. Bear, York.

Our semi-annual millinery displays are just regarded as fashion events of the first importance, presenting an authoritative standard of style and indicating our manifest leadership in the millinery realm—Sheppard, Norwell Co., Boston, Mass.

Have you seen our new millinery? Come to-day and see the best display you've ever seen in Galveston, and you will find the prices away less than elsewhere.—Tarbade, Eiband & Co., Galveston, Texas.

A millinery exposition—the importance of which, as a local fashion-portraying occasion, has long since ceased to be questioned. This season's showing of imported headwear is one of surpassing beauty—here a delightfully fashioned conceit of the finest straw—there a charmingly wrought affair of dainty chiffon with a bit of exquisite lace daintily arranged—every one the creation of some noted Parisian master. The display from our own workroom is exceptionally tasteful; nowhere is there a gathering more complete—all the skill and genius of Newark's foremost makers has combined to render this a display of fashionable elegance.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

The new millinery styles are exceedingly becoming. Piquant—that's the striking feature of the new hats. Becoming—charmingly so. The theme is the Shepherdess hat immortalized by the paintings of Watteau. Shepherdess hats and their variations; and Tricorne hats, and turbans.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Spring millinery opening. Three reception days—days of splendor, days of welcome. A complete display of millinery fashions, consisting of the finest examples of Paris pattern hats, coupled with the wonderfully clever conceptions of our own corps of expert designers, making in all a display that for modish designs, richness of materials and low prices has never been equaled in Chicago.—Hillman, Chicago, Ill.

A preliminary showing of ready-to-wear hats. This is the opening chord of the spring millinery song—the first pale flush that heralds the coming of Easter morning. It concerns chiefly some new ideas in ready-to-wear outing hats which are pretty enough and plentiful enough to justify our giving them a little opening all to themselves in advance of our formal millinery view. We intend to show you this spring that New Haven can walk arm-in-arm with New York in matters of fashion. We shall show you millinery that need no Fifth Avenue or Rue de la Paix labels to make them authoritative.—Edw. Malley Co., New Haven, Conn.

The flowers at Macy's! A real embarrassment of blossoms. The variety is so brilliant that choosing becomes a matter of no little difficulty.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

To-morrow a great sale and exposition of artistic millinery. Our millinery is the millinery of Paris—of London—and of the elite of the new world. Its praises have been sung by women for lo! these many years, but no such showing have we ever made before. The very choicest trimmed and untrimmed hats produced in the world are here.—Hunter, Memphis, Tenn.

Spring millinery. The display of spring fashions is at the height of splendor. The introductory showing last week was praised by hundreds of folks, and the scores of new styles now added lend twofold attractiveness. The spring trimmed hats we're showing are the swell styles—exquisite in design and original in conception.—Isaac Beulsch & Sons, Baltimore, Md.

A reduced price group of 'tween seasons' millinery.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Millinery Sacrifice.—We do astonishing things sometimes. This is an occasion when we upset all precedents. All the trimmed hats up to $5 that were reduced to a dollar, 50 cents to-day.—Boggs & Buhl, Allegheny, Pa.

Five dollar trimmed hats, $3.85. Clever conceptions from our own workrooms, made of chiffon and imitation hair, chiffon and fancy braids, artistically combined with ribbons, quills, wings, flowers, gold cords and fancy materials. The shapes are taken from the latest French ideas and the finish is thorough in every way.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Exquisiteness enthroned." The Lissner white lace hats. One of the most fascinating showings ever prepared for fastidious women. The laces are from the foremost workers in lace, while the designs and trimming represent the inimitable skill of Lissner's own trimmers. You'll admire the window and store exhibit—it's uncommonly original and effective. Priced moderately—$1.50 to $4.75.—J. Lissner & Sons, Newark.

More about early spring hats. The millinery store is full of sunshine—the early spring hats are ready in endless numbers, although they don't stay long enough to get thoroughly acquainted with the gladsome surroundings. Of all millinery shows in the history of our store, this one easily takes precedence.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Hats at nominal prices.—For the sake of a speedy clearance of winter millinery we now quote prices which represent but a small part of the first value. The opportunity this gives to obtain handsome hats at nominal figures should not be overlooked.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Millinery news.—Gold trimmings for both hats and dresses will certainly be used from now on. In hats, we have a beautiful line of new spring shapes, most of them of chiffon with gold braid and gold cord and tassel combinations. They are very beautiful. Those going south, as well as those staying at home, will be delighted with these new shapes.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

Trimmed hats sacrificed.—A new hat in midwinter makes a welcome change in a woman's toilette, and at the Boston Store's Saturday prices she can't afford to do without it.—The Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Prices down on winter hats.—Three solid months of wearing time ahead for you, but with us an immediate clearing is imperative, for even now the spring millinery is peeping out here and there.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

A multitude of millinery marvels. The climax of refined taste. Individuality striking and varied. Exquisite harmonies to be found nowhere else.—A. D. Matthews' Store, Brooklyn, N. Y.

New millinery.—About this time every year we show the things suitable for those going to Florida or other warm climates. Some of these are our own models. This season the effects are smaller, coming in a variety of new braids and exquisite in colorings. Our Phipps and Atchison's models are just as unique as usual. To the admirers of these goods this is saying much.—Halle Bros., Cleveland, O.

Despite the fact that the mercury is hovering dangerously about the zero mark, this unique and wholly unprecedented sale of spring millinery continues to interest thousands. Hats suitable for present evening wear as well as for persons who are about to seek the balmy atmosphere of the south or the Mediterranean, at special prices, the direct result of recent important purchases.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

The first violet hats—the sensation of the east—the most striking fancy of the millinery world. A confidential tip! Your spring wardrobe will not be complete without one. So saith the fashion maker. The daintiest, the prettiest, and the most becoming hats, made of violets and foliage, that we have ever seen. Just arrived direct from the east by express. They will be on display in our millinery department to-morrow for the first time. You should not fail to see them. If you see them we feel you will want one. The nobby little turban, the quaint Charlotte Corday, and the large picture hat, are all in great demand. Some have the violet brims and foliage crowns, while others are a solid bank of violets. As a special introduction we are going to offer these beautiful violet creations to you at $5 and up.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Time's up for all winter hats. They have no more right to a place in this store. We haven't a great lot of them to offer, for demand for Bergner millinery keeps nearly up to the supply. But there are some stunning hats left, and (here's where the exciting part comes in), they are all reduced to half. You'll go out of the store with half the money you expected to spend left in your purse.—P. A. Bergner & Co., Peoria, Ill.

Early blossoms in spring millinery.—Charming blossoms in the shape of new styles in women's trimmed hats unfold day after day in the millinery show-rooms. And they're plucked by appreciative admirers, as soon as they appear.—The Wanamaker Store, New York, N. Y.

Royal millinery. Degree by degree the radiant creations of our work rooms come into being, each more beautiful than its elder sisters; all full of those exquisite touches and deft twists that bend French attractions into the right shape for American faces.—The Furst Co., Jersey City, N. J.

Stylish millinery. That little indescribable something in the hat or trimming, which imparts loveliness, is present in every piece of millinery work we are showing. Take the French hats, for example—they are exquisite creations, perfect in form and color, and our own pattern hats, bonnets and toques, have a grace peculiarly fascinating which pleads so passionately that the admirer is in doubt as to whether she is viewing Paris or Baltimore handiwork.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Dress hats from Paris, finished in America. The frames were designed by the best known creator of millinery shapes in Paris and arrived in America two weeks ago. We took the frames to our best maker and he has covered them with the finest materials—chiffons, silk straws and hair braids—and so to-morrow we have the very latest word from Paris in millinery—smart, beautiful and entirely exclusive. We can't describe—better see them to-morrow.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our millinery opening, for the special showing of Paris and London styles and for really meritorious creations from our own workrooms for spring and early summer wear, begins to-morrow, Monday, and will be continued Tuesday and Wednesday. Our extraordinary success last season aroused us to a high pitch of enthusiasm, and in preparing for this season's display we planned a long stride ahead in the showing of taste, form and color.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Bargain snap.—Ladies' white felt hats 79c. The white felt hat is a popular favorite at present, and no up-to-date dresser would think of doing without it. The cost need not be a barrier, for we have up-to-date styles priced within easy reach of any purse.—The T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Ont.

Millinery for early fall.—Straw goods are now giving place to felt headwear, and the new styles are so bewitching and becoming; and prices accommodate themselves so easily to the economic purse that most any woman can gratify her taste along these lines if she will only make her purchases at Hamburger's.—A. Hamburger & Sons, Los Angeles, Cal.

Summer millinery.—Have you seen them—those swagger, new felt hats? They have more dash and go and style to them than anything shown for several seasons past. They are here in a score of different shapes—made with just the right turn to give their wearers a chic air that is obtained in no other way. Some have light brims and dark crowns—others seem even whiter than snow and are made doubly smart by the placing of a pert looking bird in just the right place at just the proper angle. See them.—Harris Emery Co., Des Moines, Ia.

Stunning new felt hats.—There's a style, a rakishness, a smartness about our felt hats that you do not find elsewhere. There was never a larger or handsomer collection here so early in the season. Every new idea is here—and every idea here is new. Black and all the new shades. Either plain or trimmed in outing or dress hats. Ask to see the new "Pancake" and "Dolly Varden" styles—two of the new shapes. They're pretty and very becoming. We're known to be the lowest-priced house for hats—come Saturday and see how generously we uphold our reputation.—Rosenbaum Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Advance millinery hints.—Some of the most charming hats for the fall season are modeled on the turban shape. Smart close-fitting hats are also popular and becoming to fresh beauty. Extreme effects are in the background, the early season's productions all having a practical turn. Much velvet ribbon is being used as trimmings, and the bright gay shades of wings and feathers are sharply contrasted with the pretty soft, dull felts of the hats themselves. Never before have birds' breasts and wings been so conspicuous. They are seen in every possible shape and color and in combination with almost any material. Some lovely and striking hats are made from them without any other material except a buckle holding a knot of ribbon.—Sanger's, Dallas, Texas.

First showing of early fall millinery.—Leading styles in dress and ready-to-wear shapes. First in the field always, and we fear no competition in the daintiness of style, excellence of materials and lowness of prices; we are absolutely assured that there is not a new fall hat of merit as affected by eastern fashion leaders which is not in our stock. The goods have just been received and are displayed Saturday for the first time. There is an elegance about Hamburger millinery that cannot be found elsewhere. This is not our regular fall opening, but only an advance showing of the most popular grades of street millinery, among which the white hairy or plain felts and beavers take precedence.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Phenomenal millinery pricing.—The Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Early fall millinery.—Good-bye to summer hats; but you're not ready for your winter dress hat, of course. You want something for between seasons—new and fresh in its character; and not expensive. We have quite a collection of exactly such between-season hats.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Ready-to-wear hats.—Women and young misses may share.

They are scratched felt and rough cloth hats, trim and simple effects, just right for now and just right to go with the new tailored wear. They are so much in demand that makers can't keep up. So it is rare fortune—unprecedented, we think—to have such hats just at the season's commencement for so much under their worth.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Trimmed millinery.—A humorous iconoclast could get lots of fun out of our millinery salon. The bonnets and hats are beautiful, as all milliners and women of taste already know. But the incongruity of the things assembled! Roosters' heads as hat trimmings! Who'd have thought it? But here they are in variety. If not too particular, you might select your favorite breed of rooster.—Wanamaker's, New York.

New walking hats.—The finest of foreign, and the best that American skill and genius can conjure. Walking hats. In strength of beauty in style and line, the hats surpass the finest at any previous exhibit. Yes, we've done "ourselves proud" in the showing. The hats are stylish. Hairy felts, with scarf and quill so skillfully adjusted and color so introduced that there's vim and dash in every one. Hats ready to slip on the head now. From the exhibit one catches more than suggestion of coming styles. The hats reflect the latest whim of fashion at home and abroad. White has grown stronger—all-white and white with a dash of black or green, in unusual striking ways. There is a noticeable appearance of red; oxfords, too, the grays, of which one never tires. There is no set line or curve. An artistic carelessness of device which, in effect, is charmingly smart.—The Under-Price Store, Peoria, Ill.

Every woman, wherever mourning is worn, knows Mangin Maurice as the queen of artists in black. It is she who can most perfectly take away its deadness and dullness, work out light, graceful effects, and yet keep it always dignified and quiet. In these new mourning hats she has followed the fashion now prevalent in Paris and small sized tricorne, turbans and face hats. Even women who do not wear black will want to see them as a revelation of the latest styles.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Have you seen the crowds? Not since last June, when we cleared our great shipments of spring millinery, have we had any such enthusiasm and big business in the millinery department. The sale broke the record on Saturday, and if values count for anything it will continue breaking records to the end.—Simpson's, Toronto, Can.

Straw hats of every pedigree, every braid, every shape and all qualities.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

Millinery store's great clearance. Out they go—the chic, the dashing, the fashionable head wearables.—Symons, Butte.

Beach sun bonnets. While it is all very proper to show tan as the result of an outing, it is decidedly inconvenient to be so badly sunburned as to cause skin to peel. One of the best protections for the face is a large yet cool sunbonnet.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

All the fine hats in delicate colors for women to wear with lawn, organdie or foulard dresses. All the stiff hats to go with shirt waists and tailor-made suits. All the children's hats with wide, soft brims trimmed with ribbons and flowers. In a word, any woman or child who wants a really fine hat can get it now for about half price.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

New felt hats, they're new as can be—these felt hats for women's summer wear and are by far the most stylish creations shown this year. There is a greatly varied assortment of them now on display in the millinery room—some all white and very plain while others have crown and brim of contrasting colors with a smart bird or quill for trimming. One of the most striking is dark in color with the exception of a chalk white band. But away with words. It is useless to attempt descriptions. One must see them to understand and appreciate their unusual style. In the millinery rooms, second floor.—Harris Emery Co., Des Moines, Ia.

We have in the showroom the prettiest, newest, swellest, and the largest assort-

The latest and newest fancies from fashion land. This morning there will be shown a collection of the daintiest novelties in millinery that the season has produced.—F. W. Sessions, Utica, N. Y.

Her royal highness, "The Summer Girl," will find plenty to see at our summer millinery opening which ends to-morrow. We advise coming, there are so many new ideas shown in summer headwear.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

Either simple or elaborate. My hats are chic and jaunty. The woman who would be well dressed must look to it that her hats are correct.—S. Stahl, Albany, N. Y.

A woman had a particular husband—who didn't say what he thought—he just tilted his nose—until she began to bring home her hats from Davies. Then his quiet smile said more than words could express—you see she had found a milliner who "caught her idea," who had the faculty of putting the idea into effects which were not a jumble of impossibilities—but a dream of harmony in style and originality—most becoming—Davies, Omaha, Neb.

If we could meet you face to face, every woman in Altoona, and tell you just why you should buy your hat here; explain every detail of the construction and material and post you on the latest ideas and newest creations that's to be had in up-to-the-minute millinery, we feel sure that you would be convinced that we are able to suit the most fastidious. In attempting to explain the marvels of beauty that go to make up our hats, cold type is inadequate to convey to your mind the beauty, the richness, the charm.—The Bon Ton, Altoona.

More new millinery. Limited in price, but not in style and beauty.—Bear's Department Store, York, Pa.

Tastily trimmed hats that conform to every whim of fashion. The cleverest ideas of the Parisian milliners and faithful reproductions made in our own workrooms—and at very low prices that are quite surprising.—Boston Store, Chicago.

New millinery comes right along.—All the records we ever made in the millinery rooms have been left far in the rear this season—seems as though everybody in Brooklyn has decided that Loeser's show the prettiest and best hats—and for the least prices.—Fred-erick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Artistic millinery, like fine paintings, derives its chief value from beauty in conception and deftness in execution. The measure of a millinery store's popularity is its reputation for making or selecting hats which have smartness of style—a certain indefinable dash about them. That is what makes the name of Lang a talisman.—Edward Lang & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Don't bother with the milliner. Don't let the milliner bother you. It's waste of time and money to go to the milliner for hats these days. We have hundreds of the most stylish trimmed hats, ready to put on. Bring your hat troubles to us and go away without them. Try on our hats until you get one that suits and you'll be suited to the time the style changes.—New York Specialty Co., Portland, Me.

Bargains in trimmed hats. We can apply the term "bargains" to them because they have a style and beauty that speak of the work of talented designers, while the prices are as low as you would ordinarily have to pay for a very commonplace, plain and not very attractive hat. It's really wonderful to see how many touches of real Paris style our milliners have succeeded in imparting to these inexpensive lines.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

We are getting ready for our spring millinery, but there are a number of trimmed hats in stock that we wish to close out. There will be at least six to eight weeks that they can be worn, and at the price we've marked them, they are a decided bargain. Regardless of what they cost us originally, we have marked all of the trimmed hats.—Lippincott & Co., Wilmington, Del.

Summer millinery at less than half price.—The prettiest conceits of the season in both dress styles and shirtwaist hats. It seems as though the list of possible combinations had been exhausted—there are so many charming effects—and only one-half the regular price to pay.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Lovely summer hats for half prices—women's and children's.—The trimmed hats for women and girls that we are going to sell to-morrow and Friday for half prices are lovely in their varied trimmings, and the untrimmed hats that we will sell you for half prices on same days are to be made lovely by your deft fingers. We're taking many hats from their cases and marking them down to the half line, and we doubt if ever a more sumptuous assortment was set before women from which to choose something exceedingly pretty—and little to pay for that prettiness.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Summer loveliness.—Hats ethereally beautiful for the sweet girl graduate. White lace, white tulle, white chiffons, white flowers, white plumes. A gala display of new styles Monday in magnificent creations of flower and feather trimmed designs, worth up to $25.00.—Goldsmith's, Memphis, Tenn.

Ready-to-wear hats.—Because the midsummer millinery is making such insistent demand for more room—and really deserves it—we are constrained to hurry out the handsome simply trimmed hats that remain, even if they must suffer the indignity of a reduction in price. So to-morrow—$4.25 to $9.75 hats will be $2.25 to $5.50.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

First, is a collection of about twenty spic-span-new white chip sailor hats that have just come from our workrooms. They are smartly trimmed with flowers, foliage and ribbon; and there are no two alike.—Wanamaker, New York.

That's rather a snappy clearance item for to-morrow. Prettily trimmed hats in all shapes are walking out of our millinery department daily and with good reason—nothing could hold them back when such vigorous reductions are mentioned.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg.

We're organizing our millinery department, and are going to make a clean sweep of the entire stock. To-morrow we start on the trimmed hats. Sales of the other lines will follow in quick succession. Not a hat reserved. This includes the balance of the French models and all our own high class creations. Many exquisite color combinations of the very richest ribbons and trimmings. Here you'll find a chick shepherdess in beautiful combination of braid and felt; also the smart butterfly hat or a saucy sailor. Then there is the big brimmed French shape and lots of other charming and becoming styles, suitable for matron and maid. And such a wilderness of beauty in the tricorues and colonials. But come see. Words can not do them justice. Just glance at the mammoth window display.—The Wonder Dept. Store, Spokane, Wash.

Double millinery values to-morrow. Prices have been newly reduced, and it will not be long until the stock is entirely cleared of all short lots. We don't propose to start the fall season with a large lot of summer millinery on hand, that's why prices average less than half.—Barr's, St. Louis, Mo.

The new French sailor made of milan braid that the lucky designer conceived so late in the season shows that the dull season was due more to the lack of tasteful originality than anything else.—Boggs & Buhl, Allegheny, Pittsburg.

Millinery always suggests the idea of daintiness and perishableness. Dust and dirt make lots of havoc in these goods, so we are reducing the stock at a great rate.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

The millinery room is offering money-saving inducements to those who have summer hats to provide. A general cleaning-up brings such enticing offerings as these.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

One wears a colonial or tricorne thrown back a bit; to another the medium turban is more becoming—these turbans, by the way, are a little elongated, but not pointed. Possibly a straight-brim sailor is the thing, or a sailor with a slight roll to the brim; some faces are fittingly framed in a modified Charlotte Corday hat—those with flat top and drooping rows of ruffles. The new china blue—on a delft shade—is shown; and black, violet, pink, brown, red and green. Hats for all occasions and to wear with any kind of dress $5.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia.

The most distinguished company of beautiful new millinery that has yet been shown—the exquisite hats that will be appropriated for reception wear. The very newest of the ideas from Paris are in evidence in the showing—exclusive winter hats, any one of which might have come from the greatest milliners of France.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

For three weeks our best designers and milliners have been working on the superb and artistic collection of trimmed hats which we place on exhibition to-day. We have had our look-out office in Paris busy during recent weeks watching the new things as they appeared over there and keeping us informed of every new idea discovered. This information has been applied by our milliners. In addition to the superb productions of their own designing, they have put into concrete form all of the best ideas that came from abroad.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

There is no limit to the ideas our milliners can evolve, and their past achievements in the trimming of beautiful hats is a guarantee of the excellence of any work they may perform this season.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark.

Millinery is as beautiful as fingers filled with magic can make it—our millinery we mean, of course.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

And for you who would rather design your own hat according to your own color scheme, we will trim a hat for you exactly as you want it and at the price you want to pay, no more.—The Gamble Desmond Co., New Haven, Conn.

Our spring millinery opening. This announcement will place every woman in the city of Des Moines on the qui vive, for the millinery styles this year are prettier and more becoming than ever, and we feel assured that the curtain will rise at this foremost millinery store on a field of beauty never excelled in the history of fashionable millinery events in this city.—Younker Bros., Des Moines, Iowa.

Where will you find the store that is so advanced in its millinery styles as this? The waning summer has not brought our millinery department to a stop. We are ready with advance showings that will give you the correct ideas of fall styles.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

The new season's supreme event—a grand exposition of millinery styles for 1909 from the most authentic sources. Every famous workshop both at home and abroad contributes to this surpassing display, and there are many creations of absolute novelty which can be seen nowhere but in our millinery section. In artistic completeness this showing has never been equaled, and upon no previous occasion here or elsewhere have the practical and economic received such careful attention.—Rothchild & Co., Chicago, Ill.

A man ordains the millinery fashion of the world—Emile Liez, of Paris. And he isn't a milliner. He makes the hat frames—and no modiste is self-sufficient enough to get along without conference with M. Liez. He says he bases the vogue for spring on a renaissance of Louis XV. styles. There will be some variety but Louis hats will rule—and they resemble continental shapes. Hats turned up at the sides will be good, and close-fitting sailor hats with ribbon rosettes under brim that pretty nearly hide the hair at side-back. The Polo hat is good now—a cap without visor, with quill, wing or pompon on left side. Roses, ribbons and foliage are the trimmings. We give this late (or early) word from Paris to guide you in selecting millinery for the Florida trip. Such hats will keep in style.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Art, genius and skill will ever seek to embellish and beautify woman, and as long as pride in personal appearance is felt, so long will dainty, chic, entrancing headwear be forthcoming. The present season's styles are striking examples of artistic skill; and no mere collection of adjectives can adequately describe them.—The New Store, Minneapolis.

We are showing in the millinery department an unusual collection of trimmed millinery at uncommonly low prices. The assortment comprises the season's best styles, including hats that sold formerly at $4.50 to $7.50. Beautiful creations in smart turbans, colonial shapes and large rolling effects. The hats we offer in this sale consist of the best values offered this season. For low prices on up-to-date millinery visit the second floor, where you will find a choice selection of stylish headwear at—Weinstock, Lubin & Co., Sacramento.

Our trimmers are busy creating some very pretty hats for in between season wear and present use. The styles are new, the trimmings are new. The fact is that there is lots of wear in these hats and at the price we have placed on them they certainly are just what you want.—R. Ballerstein & Co., Newark.

In addition to our elaborate display of high-class millinery we have arranged for to-morrow a very special offering of charmingly jaunty, smart, strictly hand-tailored French sailors, with kid leather and gilt button trimmings. The hats are made over wire frames and smooth felt. The color range embraces navy, brown, red, black and green.—Olds, Worthman & King, Portland, Ore.

Brilliant is the attribute, for never have you seen such beautiful styles nor such rich colorings. Graceful is the attribute of form in the millinery by reason of the curves and rolling flares or the picture hats, the small turbans and the sailor hats. Paris has done her best. The models from our own artist milliners deserve attention.—Pettis Dry Goods Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

There is always an exquisite stylishness and elegance about Eaton millinery that makes it irresistible from a feminine standpoint, and it has an individuality about it that amounts to exclusiveness.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

Ready-to-wear hats at a dollar! This is an extraordinary offering. Three hundred pretty, stylish, trimmed walking hats for women, ordered weeks ago, have just come in—and we don't want 'em. They are made to sell at $2 and $2.25, and are easily worth these prices.

But, to get them out of the way quickly, we mark them below cost—$1 each. And they will no doubt find ready takers. For every woman wants one of these smart, practical hats for summer wear. In white and fancy mixed straws, and a variety of shapes. Simple but effective trimmings of ribbon, quills and the like. The trimmed hat opportunity of the months!—Wanamaker, New York.

The large picture hats are pre-eminent for evening as well as daytime wear. Yet so varied are the shapes that each individual taste is amply met. Crowns are high and brims are wide, to go with full skirts and larger sleeves. The hat seen most in Paris at present has a medium high, stiff crown, elongated from back to front and slightly sunken at the top.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

In considering where to buy your trimmed hats we would have you remember that our skilled milliners are constantly copying the newest imported styles and are reproducing them in the most delicate colors and materials, thus duplicating expensive hats at much lower prices.—Rothschild & Co., Chicago, Ill.

If you have seen these hats you know that they embody all that is most clever, most fascinating and becoming in the season's styles as sent from France or modified by our own inimitable artists. You know that there is that indescribable touch of genius in every kink in the straw that marks the distinctive hat. Yet there is but one rule for all our wear—welcome the coming, speed the parting. These aristocratic creations have played their part and must make way for others. Therefore, down go the prices again with the approach of mid-summer. It is an opportunity that occurs but once a year—and only here. Originally these hats sold for $18.00 and $35.00, and now, while they last, at $5.00 and $10.00.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Individuality and exclusiveness are the characteristics of our millinery displays at all times—characteristics that entitle them to be called creations. Only the selected best, culled from the multitude of new ideas each season brings forth, are shown here.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Simplicity, style and beauty are the three predominating features that are conspicuous in every millinery creation represented in our splendid display. An important feature is the moderate prices which prevail throughout the department.—Lippincott & Co., Wilmington, Del.

Picturesque indeed is the new millinery with its tall crowns, broad brims, its nodding plumes and sweeping aigrettes, its extravagance of color. Never before has Dame Fashion illuminated her creations with such brilliant dashes of color, such original blending of shades, such unconventional combinations.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

All the best materials known to the best hat makers have been used in the construction of these hats, and the economical end has been looked after so well that the selling price of them has been kept down to a minimum.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Lightest, coolest millinery is what everybody wants now. And we will take just a minute of your time to tell you of some freshly arrived sailor and shirt-waist hats of Loeser standard that are very little priced as well.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

The interesting feature of this sale is that each hat bears the stamp of late fashioning. Hence the styles will remain distinctly refreshing and original throughout this season.—The Scott Dry Goods Co., Cleveland, O.

Early Fall Millinery.—Ready-to-wear hats that will bridge you over to the time when you want the fall hat is the cry now. Something inexpensive, yet in taste, is the sought-for thing.—Dayton Dry Goods Company, Muncie, Ind.

While there is plenty of time yet to get some good wear out of a hat, the close of the selling season is near at hand. In fact, we are making prices in this department as though the selling period were already closed.—Smith & Higgins, Atlanta, Ga.

Mid-season Millinery.—Black chiffon always comes to the rescue when straw hats are beginning to look dusty and dull. You can put it on now and wear it until felts and velvets begin to put out their heads. A new lot of black chiffon hats for $5 and $6 is here this morning—the stuff laid in soft folds over wire frames and trimmed with ribbon, a wing, a quill or flowers. The trimming, like the hats, is all black.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

We purchased from Wabash Avenue's most prominent millinery house about 1,000 women's ready-to-wear hats at an immense saving. They're made of all the new and fancy straw braids in every stylish large and small shape. Neatly trimmed with velvet, ribbon, buckles and wings. They're the hats other stores are showing for 75c to $1.50. Extra special for Saturday, your choice of the entire lot, 25c.—The Boston Store, Chicago, Ill.

From a New York maker—probably the best known in America for the style and beauty of his untrimmed hats—we have purchased the entire remaining spring stock, including horse hair, fine French chip, and Tagal or hemp—three of the fashionable materials which Paris is pushing to the front. These we have trimmed in our own workrooms, with the finest materials. Prices are half what they would usually cost. About 125 are ready to see this morning. We shall fill up the gaps as these go out. Women who need new hats at the last minute for this week, or for a holiday jaunt, will be quickly and well provided for.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Each year we endeavor to make a special of this trimmed hat. Our aim is to produce a hat that is up-to-the-minute in style, material, trimming and workmanship—something better than can be bought elsewhere. It is with no little pride that we ask your attention this year to our trimmed hats.—King's Palace, Washington, D. C.

A magnificent showing of the latest and most beautiful effects in fall millinery, a display that for richness and variety is unequaled in this city. Scores of styles are here for your choosing—the products of Paris, New York and our own expert staff of workers. Our force of trimmers has been enlarged this season, so that in every way our service will be better than the past.—Stanly Mills & Co., Hamilton, Can.

American milliners have attained a high standard of millinery art, but it is from gay Paris, where the fashions originate that we must go for the highest touches of the millinery art. Any lady who buys a French pattern here buys an exclusive style, and the assortment to select from more than double any preceding season. The G. & M. ability to excel was never so forcefully demonstrated as will be afforded by this display.—Goldstein & Migel, Waco.

Crowded to the doors. We set the low-price ball rolling and its welcome rumbling will echo now, and the season through. If you want to buy right, if you want to be treated right, if you want to save money, make our store your trading house for millinery.—Nusbaum & Livingston, Albany, N. Y.

Our early blossoms in new spring millinery. Charming blossoms in the shape of new styles in women's hats unfold day after day in the millinery show-rooms. And they're plucked, by appreciative admirers, as soon as they appear. There's a group of fascinating hats in white and black here to-day that may be gone to-morrow. Another case holds a brilliant cluster of red ones—who knows for how long? But brains are fertile, and fingers are nimble in our work-rooms; and the woman who comes to-morrow to seek her spring hat will find some to choose from that are radically different from but equally enchanting as those on view yesterday.—Harned & Von Maur, Peoria, Ill.

Children's hats. A wealth of bewitching creations for the little folks—a variety that makes choosing a delight—an assortment without parallel in the whole Southwest. Dress hats, untrimmed hats, street hats, school hats, floppy hats, beach hats, clever in shape and treatment, no matter how cheap in price.—Marvel, Los Angeles, Cal.

Pretty, cool and inexpensive summer and Fourth of July hats for the little folks; they are in three styles and various colors of mull and straw combined.—Wasserman, Kaufman & Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

The new ready-to-wear hats for women, and children, too.—For golfing, mountains and seaside, the most unique and becoming shapes that have been shown this season and, besides being pretty, are practical—some of them linen, some of duck, others of felt—kinds for women, big and little girls, as well as children.—Frederick Loeser, Brooklyn.

Daintiness idealized.—The millinery parlors on the second floor are all a-blossom with the fairest, most radiant of summer hats. Charming combinations of every conceivable description.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York.

Simplicity, style and beauty are the three predominating features that are conspicuous in every millinery creation represented in the splendid display. Every style is picturesque but sensible—nothing gaudy or faddish about them. Furthermore, it is a splendid demonstration of the store's policy to offer millinery which is in every way superior, at very moderate prices.—The Furst Company, Jersey City, N. J.

Reception days in the millinery salons.—It is the absence of anything harsh and discordant, the lack of anything flashy or garish, that impresses one first on meeting these beautiful new hats. As a woman put it yesterday: "I feel almost awed—as if I were drinking in the wonderful colors in a great masterpiece, or the soft, exquisite shades in an old, old tapestry." Yet not everything is in the coloring. There is much in the lines, and a great charm in the simplicity of trimming.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

New millinery that is fascinating.—One thing can be said of both the millinery from Paris and the millinery from our own work-rooms, and that is, no woman can find a garish piece. Our best endeavors are always used to give dignity to millinery, and we are frank enough to admit that dignity is not always associated with creations from Paris. Every woman who delights in fashion looks to Paris modistes for millinery inspirations, and French people, like many others, are at times daring. Unless the daring sort of millinery goes too far it is not tabooed in our millinery rooms. There is a difference between daring and garish.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Never before such millinery prices. The millinery section won't be bothered with any left overs. Reductions are the most substantial in our history, taking a decisive loss on every trimmed hat in stock—a loss that's ridding tables of their artistic creations and paving the way for future action.—Siegel Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

The children's new hats are in every way as picturesque and beautiful as those for women. Some of the effects are quite daring, in the twisting of the frames, but there is nothing that can be called eccentric, when you see how becoming the hats are when worn.—Mrs. Edith Tolle, El Dorado, Kan.

Showing of new fall millinery.—Our showing of new millinery for present or early fall wear brings froth the admiration of every woman that has visited the display. The styles are so varied and the assortment so complete—there is no disappointment in selecting just the style you want.—The May Co., Cleveland, O.

First crop of fall hats.—The early fall hats have a style that's all their own; most of them are intended to be draped with the long, loose, chiffon veils, and even the simplest affair takes on an added grace under the veils, so that the economy is very real—an inexpensive hat with a good piece of chiffon is quite as effective as the most expensive affair you could buy.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

The new autumn millinery modes.—New arrivals have just been received of smart styles in the finely tailored first hats of autumn. They illustrate fashion's trend in millinery suitable for street and general wear at moderate prices.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago.

Black hats.—The vogue just now.—The demand now is for black millinery. At this season, when so many people are away for their vacation, the black hat is most sensible for traveling and outdoor wear. For those who have come home and want something new to wear for the early fall, the black hats find favor. We have anticipated fashion in this respect and have prepared beautiful chenille and maline combinations interwoven in dainty manner, chiffon pleated hats, with velvet shirrings and accordion pleated hats with shirrings of chiffon. In addition to these are the plain felt hats in practical shapes, which only need a bird, wing, or flower to complete them for wear.—Solomon's, Pittsburg.

In no other quarter of the store is there any greater activity than among the milliners. Returning buyers have brought inspiration in the shape of smart street hats for early fall wear; and, what's better, renewed that intimacy with the Parisian fashions for which the store's millinery business has always been conspicuous. The question of "What's going to be worn?" is a long one to answer, yet these hints will be of service.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

Felts, shaggy mohairs. But how pretty the Zibelines are! (Most as popular for hats this season as dresses. You know absolutely "the" thing will be to match the dress with the hat.) How many there are! Most every color, most every shape. We cannot imagine the bee that has been more busy than our millinery leaders preparing for this fall's season and busy with results, too. Going from market to market, studying, having hats made just as they wanted for California women with regard to style first. And then planning quantities for six stores. Getting a price lower than most stores could think of. Then they have rushed them to us by express, and we have had our home workers at it putting on the finishing touches. My! the last week has been a busy one, and tomorrow we open our walking hats and "ready-to-wears" to the women of Sacramento.—Hale's, Sacramento, Cal.

The millinery designers have excelled themselves this year, producing some of the most beautiful creations that have ever been exhibited. Our showing of the new styles is so complete that you will certainly find a hat to your liking.—Barr's, St. Louis, Mo.

This season's best ideas are embodied in these splendid hats all ready to put on. Modeled after the choice patterns from Paris, but priced in accordance with The Fourteenth Street Store plan of low prices.—The Fourteenth Street Store, New York, N. Y.

Here's a lot of hats made by hand on wire frames, that were made to sell at a great deal more than our price. They are of velvet, tucked, puffed and shirred; or of braid and velvet. Shapes are up-to-the-day turbans and tricorne, and the effect is obtained by the manipulation of the materials by the skilled fingers of the milliners who fashioned them. Very little trimming is required—an ostrich plume or coque breast or similar touch is all that's needed to finish them.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

A fascinating display of advance millinery modes for Southern tourists, with which we have combined an early showing of exquisite evening effects and new styles in suit hats for traveling and street wear, will be made this morning for the first time in our French millinery section. This effort far surpasses any of our previous displays in point of numbers and artistic merit, while the prices leave no doubt as to the economy of early selection.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Charm in our millinery. Since the millinery exhibition days began our trimmed hat section has been filled with eager buyers. We are splendidly equipped to meet your millinery wants, showing an endless variety of choicest millinery at just the prices you want to pay.—Rothschild, Chicago, Ill.

Clearance of winter millinery.—Every dollar's worth must find other owners straightway—nothing reserved. Spring lines are peering out here and there from beneath old winter's wing, reminding us that the reign of cold weather millinery is about over, as far as we are concerned. Two long months of wearing time ahead for you, which certainly intensifies the importance of this great final clearing.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

In no other section of the store is it more essential to have goods new, fresh and correct to the minutest detail, and perfectly in accord with the season. All this season's modes must, therefore, be disposed of without fail.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

A millinery beauty show. A surpassing exhibit of the new spring millinery. The Paris hats and our own matchless creations. Another millinery epoch is at hand—another period of the world's art creations is exemplified in its many phases in the headwear creations that are to dominate fashion's world for the coming season. Little did Watteau, the master painter, one hundred years ago dream he put on his canvases the inspiration for the milliner's art of another generation. Of course, a Paris master knew the possibilities and appreciated the beauty of the sweeps and folds and draped effects of the Watteau hats. And so we have the graceful Watteau or Shepherdess hat as the motif and model of the millinery creations of to-day.—Hecht's, Washington, D. C.

Women's tailored hats. America leads the world in tailored hats, just as she does in tailored suits. Paris, with all her cunning, cannot turn out hats so simple, so little trimmed and so severe.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Misses' and children's hats. Our showing of hats for girls and misses is very complete—a fascinating expose of the newest and prettiest of the spring styles. Our milliners have caught the knack of making graceful hats that set off children's faces to perfection.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

The beautiful display of new styles at our millinery opening last week was an earnest of what our millinery stock will be this season. There is no high standard of style excellence that is beyond the reach of the artistic minds that think out these clever ideas for your pleasure. We are constantly changing and bringing forth new styles as the season advances. Women wonder how we can crowd so much style and beauty into these hats. They're characterized by a charming effectiveness.—Harned & Von Maur, Peoria, Ill.

In the millinery store you will find the most fascinating show of the year. Paris and America have combined in an artistic effort, never equaled before. The quivering genius of the greatest Paris makers of hats seems to pulse through the entire collection. One has snatched from the rainbow a fuchsia pink, and set it in a mass of gray. Another has wreathed with black forget-me-nots a simple white lace hat. A third has taken an odd shape, and plastered to it a single flower. But whether the hat is made of one or many colors, there is one universal charm—symmetry, and decision of shape.—Schiffer & Block, Peoria, Ill.

To-day's harvest of summer millinery from our own workrooms displays the new and charming hats made of Broderie Anglaise, which in simple English means handsomest designs of openwork all-over embroidery. Nothing could be more cool, fresh and dainty than these charming white hats with their crisp decorations of leaves and flowers. Women who admire things thoroughly new and beautiful will want to see them, of course. Paris is just now going wild over the same thing. Prompt word from our Paris office inspired the present collection.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

As you view the flower-trimmed hats you'll be fascinated with the striking simplicity and dignified charm of the beautiful "Waterlily" hat. Built on the popular mushroom style, rolled up from face and drooping at back. A bank of small water lilies over crown, maiden hair fern spreading out to side and overlapping loops of brown velvet ribbon falling just over back in the old shepherdess fashion. French folds of tulle on bandeau, while loops of brown velvet fall gracefully on the hair. This is only one of the beautiful showings of dress hats in Milan straw, fine chips, leghorns in white, black, natural and champagne.—The T. Eaton Co., Toronto.

The new ready-to-wear felt hats. They are nearly all in French felt and camel's-hair—soft, round, upturning sailors, chiefly; though toques, turbans and flares are numerous, too. Many are in the latest crush-back sailor style, becoming to most women. Great panne velvet sailors, severely trimmed, are very striking.

The development of fashion is a constantly progressive evolution beautyward. It seems trite to say now as we have perhaps always said before, that the present season's styles are more charming, more artistic, more beautiful than ever before.—Mrs. Edith Tolle, El Dorado.

July millinery.—Charming display of trimmed hats for the ladies, fetching hats for the summer girl, cool hats for the children. The very essence of summer is breathed forth in these delightful productions of good makers and our workshop. The prevailing ideas, shapes and materials find expression in them in the most finished and artistic manner.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Midsummer months must-move millinery sale.—The Euwer Store, Youngstown, O.

Every hat that it's proper to wear this season is included in the sale; not a meager gathering of hats that nobody wants, but bright, fresh, stylish headwear that will appeal most to women of fashion. And the assortment is so large that at this writing it doesn't seem as though anybody could possibly be disappointed.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

New felt hats for summer.—You must have one, or not be up-to-the-minute in your attire. Further, you'll want one—these summer felt hats are charming. There's much to be said about them—we'd rather you'd see the hats. It might be well, though, to read the description.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore.

The best outing hat for women is made of felt. Felt will stand the whims of weather better than straw—it doesn't lose its shape in the damp; then it's warmer, and if you are going away to the mountains or the seashore that is the very thing you want.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

We keep in touch with the fashion centers and put a touch of style into your hats that will please you.—Morehead Millinery Co., Great Falls, Mont.

A speedy clearance of these beautiful hats will be made at once—hats with the blush of newness upon them reduced to half price and less.—Blum Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Midsummer millinery.—The other day we told in the papers how well black chiffon hats stopped up the gap between summer and fall.

Many women who had not thought of them before came to see, and if we had not received new lots every day or so, we should not have had enough. There are still plenty—$5 and $6.

But we find that women are using chiffon for best and making rough straws or felts do the hard work of every day. That brings sailors and "cowboy" hats to the front.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Every hat here shown is "fall, 1908." The very cheapest number is good style. We have no out of date patterns. There is not a trashy hat in our line—every flower, ribbon and feather is on to stay. Compare the values we offer with those shown you by others, and you will see that we deserve your business in this line. Here you can save from one-third to one-half your millinery bill.—The Felton-Long Co., Spokane, Wash.

With the well dressed French woman the veil is not a mere strip of chiffon or net drawn across the face or the hat just because fashion so decrees, but it is an important element of her costume—of actual use, with a special part to play. The veil is "beauty's" best friend, and its purpose is pre-eminently that of keeping the hair in order and keeping the coiffure perfect in its relation to the hat.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Five new hats for college girls.—An innovation from the millinery salon—five crisp, new autumn styles, designed particularly for the young women who care to begin their college term with the very earliest bit of Paris fashion for their hats. The millinery chief has just arrived from abroad, her brain full of the inspiration of the new styles. These five styles are the result of her study and the product of the deft fingers of the experts who make the most beautiful and expensive hats we sell. Yet because this is an innovation, because we have planned these hats especially for the young women of Brooklyn—the college women—the hats will be here to-morrow for $4.95 apiece, an unprecedented price.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Here's a sale the like of which Tacoma has never yet seen. Milliners went away last week to New York looking for fall fashions. Before they went we got explicit instructions to close out all the trimmed hats at some price. So, being given carte blanche, we will offer the whole collection, with possibly a dozen exceptions—at $2.50 each, hats worth up to $20.00.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

French milliners create, but they cannot control; and their original creations that set the fashion pace are hurried here to be duplicated exactly from a fourth to a half the Paris price.—Macy's, New York.

We have taken practically all of our trimmed hats and cut their prices in half in order to effect a complete clearance. The entire assortment will be ready at the new prices to-morrow morning. If you want to get a dress hat, a second best or a hat to wear on trips out of town, come to-morrow, and make your selection while the assortment is at its best.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Eaton milliners are true millinery artists. To study, to design and evolve charming millinery styles and modes and to combine with artistic effect lovely millinery materials and handsome color schemes into exquisite millinery creations to suit the tastes and millinery requirements of Toronto women is their profession.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

Always offering a larger stock, a greater variety and better values than can be had elsewhere, our offer of trimming hats free of charge carries with it a special significance—the getting of a stylishly trimmed and most desirable hat at a minimum cost—you paying only for the actual cost of the hat and trimmings and we give you, absolutely without any additional charge, the services of an expert corps of trimmers whose work stands second to none in this city.—Lit Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Exclusive models from Paris, London and New York, as well as the less expensive but very desirable domestic adaptations, are offered in pleasing assortments.—H. G. Selfridge & Co., Chicago.

To-morrow's special display will be of much interest to women who want to know exactly what effects in millinery Paris approves to-day, and the quality of the offerings, no less than the low prices, will doubtless prove a revelation to many customers.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Spring millinery.—The charms of our millinery parlor—on the second floor—are the hats—new hats that mirror the latest spring ideas. Turbans and walking shapes preponderate. The trimmings are just over from Paris—dainties and lovelier than ever. This collection of early models can't fail to interest every woman. They are real gems of art—and the prices are pitched on the popular policy. We invite you to look at them thoroughly. If you choose one, you'll save money. If you merely look—you'll learn several things about the grace and economy of spring fashions that it may be well to know.—Macy & Co., New York City.

Our milliners have been hard at work getting out crisp, new styles, so that everybody who comes for a fresh hat will find something a bit different from the ordinary. We are showing a variety of mid-summer hats in chip, fancy braids, chiffon and lace. Black, white and cream. The newest shapes with broad crowns, plain or fancy brim, as well as the baby hats with full ruffled brim.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Altogether, in color and grace of style, the most admirable ready-to-wear hats that ever came with the autumn.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Big clearance sale of millinery.—Bargains in all lines.—Ellet & Hicks, Alliance, O.

Captivating millinery styles. There's so much to be said regarding this superb showing of spring and summer millinery that we hardly know just where to begin or end. There's such a wealth of style as to seem almost limitless in variety—styles that have fashion's highest endorsement—millinery that will appeal irresistibly to all. The world-famous French artists and the scarcely less renowned New York designers are represented in this collection by their most fetching, stunning creations. These have been reproduced or modified in our own work rooms in materials of beautiful quality and come to you now at the popular prices possible for all to pay. Brilliant in beauty and rivaling in fashion the imported headwear are the designs originating with our own expert trimmers—hats of extreme becomingness and rich elegance.—Stone & Thomas, Wheeling, W. Va.

Millinery greatly reduced. Sharp reductions rule all along the line including our whole stock of handsome dress hats, a smart assortment of tailor suit hats. The newest effects in untrimmed hats and a world of beautiful trimmings. We are adding new hats daily to our collection. These are representative of the newest style ideas and are models of low pricing.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton.

A most novel decorative scheme. You who come to the millinery opening Tuesday or later this week, will step off the elevators into a section of sunny Italy—the land of sunshine, songs and grapes. Our decorators have turned the entire department into a most exquisite and novel grape arbor. You will remember how beautiful this part of the store was last year with its airy trimmings, exquisite hats and singing birds. It is to be much more effectively decorated this season. Women, and men, too, for that matter, will come and see and admire and marvel. It has been arranged especially for you and other Harris-Emery patrons. Do not wait until the first blush of newness and that charm which novelness always lends have been dimmed by time. Come Tuesday and see everything at its best. We will expect you. The opening is to continue throughout the week. Again, "Welcome!"—The Harris-Emery Co., Des Moines, Iowa.

Lack of sunshine brings down millinery prices. There have been so few pleasant days that many have not felt the desire to wear dressy hats. As a result, though business has been good, we haven't sold near as many hats as we would like to, and to make things go, especially hats, both trimmed and untrimmed, we are going to sell a lot at prices that bear no resemblance to their worth.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

A very special collection of swell millinery for mid-summer and early fall wear in black horse hair braid, those large sailor shapes trimmed in chiffon, plumes and wings, burnt leghorns and milans trimmed with flowers and ribbons; they are the prettiest hats we have had this summer; regular $15 and $17.50 values.—Jacoby Bros., Los Angeles, Cal.

New creations in summer millinery. The beautiful new shades that greet you the moment you enter our millinery section will amply repay you for visiting our store, for counter, stand and shelf is literally filled with new, handsome creations. Most captivating styles, lovely to behold. Our stock of summer designs is now replete with the very latest conceits, and each day sees something new added to our magnificent stock, but the choicest of the styles are naturally always picked up first. The fact is, we would advise everybody who contemplates purchasing a new summer hat to see our exhibit at once. We do not ask you to buy, we simply wish you to see our beautiful assortment to get the smartest ideas of the season.—Hudson's Bay Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Mink-trimmed hats $6.50. In no branch of millinery do our milliners demonstrate their unquestioned supremacy more than in these charming mink-trimmed hats. Some of them might almost be considered summer creations, but for that rich brown, furry piece of mink, giving the unmistakable winter touch. Each bewitching model exclusive in its style distinctiveness.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

We show the most complete assortment of ladies', misses' and children's trimmed hats in Salem. We have six milliners trimming every day and still we are sold up to the handle. Busy is no name for this department, but it is no wonder when you consider the small prices we ask for beautiful trimmed hats now on sale.—McEvoy Bros., Salem.

Further reductions in millinery. As Christmas draws near, the prices in millinery go lower. This is the rule in most stores. We have taken the bull by the horns and have done more from the start. The prices have always been low. The prices now are at the very lowest possible point. And the hats are ever of that high-class, exclusive style which has made Tapp's millinery department known far and wide. This department has out-classed all previous efforts by showing some of the swellest hats we have ever shown. Magnificent evening hats. New ready-to-wear hats and stunning street hats. The very hat you need for any occasion. We know we can please you now with the hat that best becomes you. Original most moderate prices greatly reduced. Buy your Christmas hat Monday early.—The James L. Tapp Co., Columbia, S. C.

The newer hats. One thing that makes Tapp's millinery department distinctive, different from others, is the fact that we show new hats as the styles become known. Newer styles are displayed today in comparison with yesterday, this week with last week. Something new, attractive and pleasing every day. Some of the handsomest evening hats ever seen south will be displayed Monday for the first time. Magnificent productions, perfectly modeled from the latest hats of Fifth avenue and Paris.—The James L. Tapp Co., Columbia, S. C.

Our milliners, on Saturday morning, are adding to the charming showing of millinery elegance displayed in our show cases, by a bewitching array of demi-season millinery portraying most welcome style innovations that are both distinctive and original.—T. Eaton & Co., Winnipeg.

A timely purchase of over 500 street and dress hats bought of one of the foremost eastern manufacturers at about one-half their actual value, passed on to you at like prices. Snappy, up-to-date styles in blocks and trimmings. Prices that are usual at the end of the season. Divided into three lots as follows.—The Leader Millinery Emporium, Los Angeles, Cal.

Hats for the horse show and the great sale of hats and trimmings. Those who have anticipated attending the annual horse show at Madison Square Garden will find here a collection of elaborate dress hats that will lend to their costumes character and individuality. Many new designs have recently been evolved by our experts, and the collection of real stunning effects is now very generous indeed. Choice being so wide, practically every taste can be satisfied from hats in stock, and when those we exhibit do not please we can quickly make something to your order along the same lines or in other designs to suit your fancy.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Millinery art is receiving its highest interpretation in the many charming models that grace our show cases these days—tributes to the rare skill of our milliners. A further addition of many charming hats is being added to-morrow and the elegance of the new style features are pre-eminently noticeable.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Correct styles in smart millinery. Refined elegance is the strong feature of this season's millinery, and our present display certainly surpasses all our previous efforts in this department. Never has there been a more lavish use of everything that is dainty and pretty in the creation of beautiful hats for all occasions. Don't make the mistake of not visiting our store.—Risch & McCoy, Mansfield, Ohio.

The show of tailored hats here awakens an enthusiasm that is catching? Have you attended our spring millinery opening? Avoiding even the suggestion of exaggeration in presenting the claims for our millinery display, there isn't a hat out of the hundreds but bears about it the atmosphere of spring.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Opening of Easter millinery to-morrow. Presentation of the most important style event of the spring. This is our cordial invitation to you to come, to study the new hats and to enjoy their beauty. Loeser millinery openings hold a peculiar place in the esteem of Brooklyn women. They are authoritative. They are comprehensive. They present such an exhibit of Paris millinery as could not be seen even in a day spent in the Paris shops—for close relationships with the style-wizards of Paris during many years give to us the privileges of the inner circle denied to the casual Paris visitor. These Paris hats are the most beautiful and the most wearable that the great French milliners have produced for spring. Side by side with them you will find the modifications and translations of the Paris ideas done by our own designers—and which are Paris hats and which Loeser hats only the hat tip inside will tell. It is a season of beauty—new beauty. Women are to look younger, for the hats have brims that droop becomingly over the face and the high bandeau is practically a thing of the past. Toques and turbans are to be seen, of course, but most women will choose the more youthful loveliness of the rim hats. Picture hats make another new note of the season—hats with broad brim, sweeping gracefully upward and with the added richness of ostrich plumes. Ostrich plumes and ostrich aigrettes are much used and for the very smartest hats new effects in fancy feathers. Flowers of course—the wonderful Parisian flowers that hold the mirror up to nature. In colors Paris is talking blues—blues that range from the lightest to the darkest tones of peacock. Also smoke gray and a beautiful apricot and of course the black and white that are always good.

These are points you will note as you see the show to-morrow—these and the one great fact that each hat, small or large, is a complete, artistic whole with beauty and becomingness as the reason for its being.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Exquisitely trimmed mink tea hats—very special. One of the most important value offerings we have made in mink-trimmed millinery this season. Each charming model reflecting the latest style-touches as well as many original conceits, exclusively the creations of our own millinery artists. At this price thirty-five of these beauties shouldn't last an hour.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

Such charming millinery and so economically priced. The deft fingers of our best milliners have worked their greatest skill on them. Exquisite models. Distinctive. Exclusive. The rare beauty of their style treatment will bear comparison with the best that metropolitan cities have to offer at double and treble to-morrow's special prices.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

A word of comfort. We have a letter from a distant customer who "can't understand how staid, settled women can wear the automobile hats" we've talked about. It will comfort her and others to know that, while almost every hat is trimmed "to face the wind without ruffling," there has not been in any recent season so wide a variety in millinery, and every face can be most becomingly framed. What if you don't motor, dear knows you've had a time when driving or walking on blustery days. Think of the blessing of a hat that will stay on and whose feathers and fol-de-rols won't ruffle up. The fashion writers from all the newspapers were charmed with the new fashions and with Gimbel's commanding showing of them. The opening, in all its elegance of floral decoration, continues. But it has resolved itself into a competition. Gimbel hats vie with the French—and the majority vote would surely be in favor of our own productions. So much fairer in price, too.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

The glitter of the empire; the gold and green of Napoleon's own apparel; the dash of the directoire; the grace and beauty of the Louis—but what cares woman for the analysis of historic styles, once she passes the portal and feels the art-spell of those autumn hats in our millinery salon? She sees that they are more beautiful than ever before—that's enough.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

More new hats to show you to-day. No small measure of the notable success in our millinery store is directly attributed to our policy of frequent on-coming of new goods. That Pueblo women fully appreciate our continuous effort to offer the new ideas as fast as they appear is evidenced by a most gratifying increase in our business. The top-notch designers of America are weekly contributors to our style show. Prominently are such renowned style originators as "Gage" and "Walkeen," whose creations possess the most exclusive and distinct of style features.—The Crews-Beggs Co., Pueblo, Col.

"Satisfying in every respect," is the unanimous criticism of our clients regarding our paramount collection of imported and American millinery. Velvet, silk and French felt models vie so successfully with their trimmings of Waterfall or long French plumes, the oval crowns and perfectly graduated brims forming an ensemble of refined taste which marks them as perfection in head-gear; the ingenious style touches lent by gold and silver flowers, or maybe an addition of trickaline and gold braid, all go to vouchsafe that master skill in a choice of millinery for which the name of Latham is synonymous. You are cordially invited to look over our line.—Latham, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Eaton style in summer millinery. "Style," says a noted fashion journal, "is an elastic word and covers many ideas more or less remote from the last word from Paris, and takes various form of expression according to localities and personalities." Exactly. That's the Eaton view of millinery style. Miss Winnipeg is interested in how Madam Paris' new summer bonnet is being made. But no matter how ravishingly pretty it may be, Miss Winnipeg has enough individuality of her own to prefer styles that are exclusive, original, and suitable to her own requirements and peculiar type of beauty—and it's the mission of the Eaton millinery artists to see that she gets them.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

Anticipating the great demand for exclusive horse show millinery, we imported an unusually vast collection of charming creations. Our sales have been really phenomenal, but owing to the immensity of the importations, some of the best and prettiest models remain.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Every lover of beauty and artistic style should visit this department, for we truly have a magnificent collection. Our hats are beautiful in themselves—artistic in tone, rich in harmonious colorings, but put them on the head and they leap into even greater beauty. Our milliners have dreamed beautiful dreams and wrought the beauty in velvets and beavers, in birds, roses, grapes and a bewilderment of feathers. Each hat is an artistic whole and its beauty is indescribable. All the rich colorings, so suitable for the fall are being shown, but black will predominate—black alone and black in a combination of colors; grapes are largely used, and it seems as though they were never so beautifully used. But, as for description—come and see.—Warren Allen Co., Columbia, S. C.

Southland millinery: first glimpse. The curtain of summertime lifted far enough to show these pretty hats for those who are planning a trip to the summer land of Florida. It is the most important and authoritative showing of early spring millinery styles that even this store ever made so early. These new Southland hats are expressions of the best Paris ideas for the coming season. There are hats of straw, of fancy straw braids and of the raffia straw which will be specially popular. Trimmings are of roses, wings and paradise feathers. Grace and lightness of effect are the striking characteristics of the new styles. Every Brooklyn woman will want to see the collection now ready in the millinery rooms. Sharp reductions on winter millinery. Special "plums" for those who come will be a number of winter hats which have been greatly reduced in price—so emphatically reduced that wise women will feel it an economy to secure such hats at the little cost—for freshening up now and to start out with next fall before the new hat is selected. A thought that wise women keep in mind during the after-holiday reductions.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

In mourning the hat is the keynote. Have it smart, correct, distinctive, and the whole costume is right at once. A whole case full of fresh, pretty spring styles expressed in mourning materials is ready for the trying between-season days.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A tremendous end of the season sale of neat and stylish street hats in the popular small turban effects of felts and velvets. Hundreds of them here; every one an accepted favorite of fashion for this winter. They are neatly trimmed with quills, flowers and fancy novelties and values up to $4.00; your choice tomorrow, 49c.—Whitehouse Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

MONEY BACK

Money is cheerfully refunded or goods exchanged. We are always ready to do anything within reason, and oftentimes more.—Whitehouse Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

You have no doubt heard of the money back store: that's ours. Your money back without an argument when purchases are not satisfactory.—Noyer Clothing Co., Portland, Ore.

Your money back.—Every one must feel safe here. If for any reason whatever you are dissatisfied with a purchase, bring it back and get your money. Every sales-person is authorized to observe the letter and spirit of this rule in the most liberal manner—no disagreeable explanation is required. But of course you would not ask us to take back a hat or piece of silk after its particular season is over—after the article has gone out of style; or if the article is damaged.—The Under-Price Store, Peoria, Ill.

Don't worry—money back if not satisfied.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Money back if anything goes wrong.—The Goldstein Clothing Co., Binghamton.

Clothing that makes our guarantee of "money back" unnecessary.—Bloomingtondale Bros., New York.

We would take anything back and refund the money if it proved unsatisfactory, but we never have to.—Longyear's, Lansing, Mich.

It's easy to understand why we want you to bring back anything that doesn't give absolute satisfaction.—Rogers, Peet & Company, New York.

A dollar here buys one hundred cents worth of quality (and in many cases more). If you are not convinced of it after your purchase, the money back privilege is always yours at Crews-Beggs, or an exchange if you prefer it. We can afford to lose the sale easier than have you stay away. We want you to feel that every dollar spent here is safely invested.—Crews-Beggs, Pueblo, Col.

Money back if you say so.—The W. J. Woods Co., Worcester, Mass.

No risk is taken in ordering in the latter manner. For, unless you are wholly pleased, we will buy the goods back without question.—Brodnax, Memphis, Tenn.

There is a world of good cheer, hearty good will and unquestioned confidence that rings out when we say satisfaction or your money back.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Satisfaction or your money back is our motto.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

Satisfaction in every instance or your money back.—Whitehouse Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

We give you the option of returning any article purchased from us, either for exchange, or for the refund of your purchase money.—Alfred Edmondson, Morecambe, Eng.

Money is the best thing going, but it is better coming.—Puck.

Your money's worth or your money back.—The Model, Peoria, Ill.

Satisfaction or no sale, and money refunded as cheerfully as it is taken. Every purchase must be satisfactory to the customer as to quality and price. If the goods are not as represented, or for any good reason are not satisfactory, we are at your command to exchange or refund the purchase price.—The Boston Store, Winchester, Ind.

From the very first the MacGregor caught the town. The very day we brought out this overcoat, early in the winter, every clothing store began to receive calls for it. But the only genuine MacGregors were at Wanamaker's. This fact soon got round. Our sales on this particular overcoat were tremendous. Now the rush is over and one of our manufacturers is clearing up, getting ready for spring. The hundred odd MacGregors left we have taken over to sell to-day at $16.50, although they are the $22.50 and $25 grades. Every one is fifty-two inches long with enough goods in it to wrap well around you and keep you warm; and the fabric is the rough Scotch stuff that has an "air" to it and rarely shows soil. Money back if not suited.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

We guarantee satisfaction on all merchandise orders from out-of-town patrons. Test the facilities of this department and let us demonstrate to you its efficiency. Prompt shipments.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis.

MUSLIN UNDERWEAR

Combining the advantages of our own manufacturing facilities with a cash system of distribution brings the cost of faultless garments down to a truly "matchlessly low" basis. Even the most particular home sewer can produce no better muslin wear, and certainly none of equal merit for so little money.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

What words can we use to explain the snowy beauty of fine nainsooks and muslins made up, as you would make them yourself, with serviceable embroideries and laces that will last till the muslin, too, is worn out.—Blum Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Unusual undermuslin news. We print a list of prices and descriptions and they read pretty much as other lists. It is the quality of the undermuslins that can't be put into print that sets this sale above other sales; that distinguishes Loeser underwear from other underwear. Brooklyn women know pretty well what Loeser quality is. There will be no disappointment. It is one of the best spring sales we ever announced.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our own factory, strictly modern in every detail, produces the bulk of the stocks in this underwear store—snowy, generously fashioned, splendidly made garments, certain to please the most exacting woman. Apart from the fact that these Macy-made garments establish our standard of quality, they serve as standards of economy for the thousands of women who depend upon this store. This is a timely occasion for comparisons. Make them in your own interests.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

Women's muslin underwear. All of these goods are just from the factories, not gas eaten. Their freshness is evident. Examine critically. You will find no soiled creases, no dinginess. There is a crispness and delicacy about the trimmings that all women with dainty tastes admire. The shapes, sizes and workmanship are excellent in every respect. The one unchallenged fact we wish you to fully comprehend is that our prices are invariably less than elsewhere. A look at the goods will convince you.—Paris Cloak & Suit Co., Marion, Ind.

The muslin underwear sales were held in June until numerous slight heat strokes, happening to customers and workers in the thronged sections, made it seem sensible to push the opening into the pleasant days of May. Will you buy now—saving a fourth to a third—shopping in comfort, or wait till June, pay full prices and swelter? Thousands of women know the answer—and the sale is developing intense interest. The business gets larger day by day.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Most helpful, because most practical—practical in the kinds of underclothes, practical in prices. Most women want most of their underclothes for hard every-day wear, every-week laundering. They want to pay about what it would cost to make them at home. This kind of practical underclothes you will find in this sale in unequaled variety, as carefully and neatly made as if you did the work yourself. How have we done it?—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Every garment of flawless muslin, cambric or nainsook; stitching as exacting as the most particular woman demands, as shapely as the highest skill in the land can pattern, trimmed with pretty edgings, insertion, laces and ribbons.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

The present assortments of domestic underwear are extremely varied and attractive, presenting an extended range for the selection of complete outfits of garments for spring and summer. Fine gowns and chemises, including combination chemises, and styles especially designed for wear with evening costumes, are shown in delicate fabrics, elaborately trimmed with new and effective combinations of lace and embroidery. Garments of extra sizes are included in the selections. Bridal sets and trousseaux are designed and made to order in the establishment.—B. Altman & Co., New York.

In its organization we were determined to conduct our sale so that every day in the month would find it as great in scope as it was initially. To this end we present an entirely new series of garments in altogether distinctive post-season models, richly elaborated with fine laces and embroideries, at one-third less than the standard prices.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Hundreds of others may select a supply to-day, for our stock is larger than ever before, and if you didn't buy your summer underwear Monday you may do so to-day with the assurance that values are equally attractive.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

The garments are snowy white and superbly finished. The designing and general make up of these muslins is all that the most critical taste could possibly demand.—J. M. High Co., Atlanta, Ga.

The time has come to pass when nine women out of ten pay as much attention to their underclothing as they do to their outerwear. In selecting our stock for this—our greatest white goods sale—we kept this thought before us. We made the smallest mite possible procure for us garments that are made of a quality more than commensurate with the prices we ask you for them. We bought from manufacturers who have attained the height of perfection in the cut and finish of their goods—in fact, we did all we possibly could to gather here just the kinds and styles of dainty white undermuslins women want, and, as a closing argument, we want to emphasize the bigness of the savings to be made by the woman who buys her undermuslins at this store.—Bernheimer's, Kansas City.

This is not a sale of cheap underwear, but good underwear cheap. We have worried with scores of manufacturers to get the muslins, cambrics and nainsooks goods; the sizes made full; the sewing neat and nicely finished, and the trimmings correct and tasteful. But after all, the worry was only in the planning, for all manufacturers know that everything that comes to Barney's must be right, or the goods can find no room in our stocks.—Barney's, Schenectady, N. Y.

These gowns are doubly interesting because of their exceeding fineness and beauty and the remarkably little price. You can search the town over for their equals and search in vain. To miss them will be most unfortunate.—The May Co., St. Louis, Mo.

During our long business experience we have become pretty thoroughly acquainted with the whole world of manufacturing industry. Of the many concerns engaged in making muslin underwear, there are eight that we have reason to believe are far and away ahead of all others in designing and making dainty garments of white. These eight, each vieing with one another to secure the bulk of our business, seem to have outdone all past achievements in making the present assortments of beautiful muslin underwear. Our customers are concededly competent judges, and we have the word of many of them that the new styles now on sale are by long odds the most delightful ever seen.—Burke, Fitz-Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester.

The sale of muslin underwear is just a week old, but a very lusty youngster, one that grew stronger each day. Sold more garments last week than during the first week of any previous sale. In every instance the combination of high quality and low price is irresistibly attractive. Everyone of the garments in this great sale is made with the utmost care by expert needlewomen and in places free from conditions not wholly hygienic. The sale this week will be even more attractive than last, owing to the fact that thousands of new garments which arrived as late as yesterday will be added. Every garment is cut with the utmost precision, full and generous. The trimming has been accomplished with a degree of nicety which cannot fail to meet the unqualified approval of all women of taste.—Bloomingtondale's, New York, N. Y.

Our aim at this great sale of muslin underwear was made to surpass all previous attempts ever made at any sale of muslin underwear. The tale we have to tell you about the dainty "queen" undermuslins, the way they are made and the wonderful values we are offering at this sale is too long to tell—space forbids. But a visit to our store will convince you.—The Stanley Co., Baraboo, Wis.

These muslin garments are sold us by the receiver of a manufacturer at 40 and 50 per cent. under wholesale prices, and we are giving you the full benefit of the saving that we were so fortunate in making.—The 14th St. Store, New York.

Odds and ends. Broken lots of slightly mussed night gowns of cambric; some have low neck and short sleeves; trimmed with embroidery or lace. Others have Empire neck of lace or embroidery, finished with ribbon.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Just the finest kinds we get. Gowns, corset covers, petticoats and drawers. Made of finest muslins, cambrics, and nainsooks. Made by one of America's foremost white underwear manufacturers. Several hundred pieces in the lot, but very few of a kind. Trimmed tastefully with torchon and Valenciennes laces, embroideries and tucks. The more exacting you are, the more you will appreciate the underwear you will get here to-morrow at stock-clear-up prices.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Had a chance to make an extraordinary purchase of a big manufacturer's stock of beautiful muslins, cambric and nainsook underwear for women. Usually we won't touch such merchandise at this time of the year. But we knew that we could sell it at half its real value, that you would be glad of an opportunity to save half on these beautiful garments, and that it's such tempting, attractive, truly feminine underwear that you would appreciate it.—The 14th St. Store, New York, N. Y.

To-morrow will be a great stock-clearing day in the muslin underwear. This week's special sale has been a big success. As we write, the department is fairly crowded. Best values and best assortment—is it any wonder the business grows?—Blum Bros., Philadelphia.

This underwear sale is particularly rich in the sheer, dainty, well shaped garments that are most wanted for summer wear. And, like all the garments which we gathered for this noteworthy event.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Perfectly safe to buy, too—no woman need be afraid of careless work, or skimmed patterns. Materials aren't as fine as in the higher-priced sorts—naturally; and laces aren't as expensive. But all's good of its sort—and especially good at its price, else it couldn't come in. And all garments are fresh and new.—Wanamaker, New York.

Call your pains a pleasure and your time as of no value, still the undermuslins you would make would cost you more than you pay here. And could you be more satisfied with the precision of the making, the pretty conceits, the graceful outlines and the quality of the materials and trimmings?—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Mountains of snowy white underclothes have melted away under the enthusiasm of the thousands of eager shoppers that have thronged the Bloomingdale undermuslins store since the very first minute of this great 1908 white sale. Mountains of new garments to take the places of those that left last week are being heaped high to be ready for all who come this week.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

When you inspect our showing of undermuslins we warn you to notice the superior workmanship, the high character of the fabric—how soft, sheer and firm they are—how white and dainty—and, above all, the impressive exclusiveness. We say to you frankly that such underwear did not come to us by chance or through ordinary channels—not by any means—it's the result of planning, demanding and insisting. We wanted something better than the ordinary run of undermuslins, and to prove we have it we want your judgment.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Although the inclemency of the weather and the miserable condition of the sidewalks kept many people away from the first day of the lingerie opening, still we had quite a crowd here, and many were the exclamations of delight from the ladies who came to inspect the new spring undermuslins. We did not fully appreciate how choice this collection of lingerie is until it was placed on exhibition, but can only say that you may come expecting to find here by far the most complete line of spring underwear in Phoenix and all new up-to-date styles. Several thousand garments from France are here which must be seen to be fully appreciated. Come to the opening to-day. If you appreciate well-made, handsomely-trimmed garments, made of materials that you will not be ashamed to wear, we can please you with this new underwear, which we can assure you is remarkably low-priced, as low-priced in fact as you can purchase the same qualities in any large city.—M. Goldwater & Bros., Phoenix, Ariz.

Scarcely seems possible that this sale is so near over, but mercy, there are still lots and lots that must be pushed out, and as the time grows shorter, the prices are cut still lower. Now in the muslin underwear, on sale Friday morning, go ladies' corset covers, some with two and three rows of val, insertion, neck and armholes trimmed, sizes 34 to 44. These are bargains at 49c, but Friday take them for 23c apiece. Besides, women's good muslin drawers with 5-inch hemstitched ruffle go for 19c a pair.—Elder & Johnston, Dayton, Ohio.

During the unprecedented business of the big white sale, much of our undermuslin stock became crumpled from display and handling. Not enough to amount to anything, but just enough to have them laid aside for decisive price cutting. The garments are brand new and perfect in every way; in fact, haven't been in the store over a fortnight, simply crumpled from handling. So we're going to close them out at remarkably low prices.—Wise, Smith & Co., Hartford.

What exacting women think of our muslin underwear bargains is best told by the vast crowds we've had during the pre-inventory sale, and the same extraordinary values await you here to-morrow.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York.

In your consideration of these unmatched values, please remember that quality has not been sacrificed in any degree to fit the marvelously low prices named. Every garment in our stock is thoroughly worthy and will bear the test of wear.—Ehrich Bros., New York.

Women now need much muslin underwear—the warm weather makes urgent demands on their supply. This sale is bringing the women's undermuslins of artistic design, staunch make and reliable materials at prices way below normal.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

The woman who requires extra sizes in underwear knows the satisfaction of buying at Gimbel's—this muslin underwear store is under the charge of women. They know not alone materials and manner of making, but also how the garments should be fashioned to meet the varying requirements of figure and season. Moreover they know your preferences—have studied them for years; adopting suggestions, modifying patterns, bettering always.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

New summer stocks of the celebrated "home made" brand of undermuslins—for which we are sole Los Angeles agents—have just arrived, and are given display space in show windows as well as on our sales counters. We are particularly proud of these "home made" undermuslins, because they launder beautifully, are both particularly serviceable and noticeably dainty, unlike certain lines made solely for show and not for service. Every garment is made on lock-stitch machines and by the very highest class of skilled labor—not sweatshop goods. Materials used in their construction are muslin, cambric and nainsook; lace and embroidery, hemstitching, ruffles, tucks and similar trimmings.—Coulter Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles.

Elaborate preparations extending over many months—the placing of orders for tremendous quantities—the making of same under hygienic conditions which insure absolute purity; the stipulations that every garment must be generously proportioned, the close examination of sewing and shaping, the choice of daintiest trimmings; last, but not least, the unparalleled concessions which orders of such magnitude command, all combined to make these garments superior, and this the greatest money-saving sale of the season.—Gerber, Memphis, Tenn.

Home made muslin underwear. Dainty, sheer and attractively trimmed. The absence of cheap decorations supplied by a neatness of fit and the perfection of material and workmanship. We know of no line of muslin garments that compare with the home made brand. A full line of gowns, skirts, drawers, corset from. These fine garments all reduced covers, chemise and bridal sets to select in price for this June sale.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

The same broad principle upon which we have conducted so many previous muslin underwear movements will be strictly adhered to in the great sale which we inaugurate Monday. Quality ever has been and will continue to be our first consideration, and we desire to emphasize the fact that the merchandise involved in this big May event was not made for special selling, but liberally fashioned and carefully finished in a sweet, clean factory where sunlight shines and things are orderly. Cheaply made and skimped garments are an abomination, and, notwithstanding the following sensational values, have no place in this sale.—L. Bamberger & Co., Newark, N. J.

In domestic undermuslins are shown peerless assortments of garments—cut generously—of the finest and firmest materials—made under strictly sanitary conditions—warranted to wear well and launder well. Extra sizes have been most liberally provided. In French lingerie we have been unprecedentedly successful in procuring the finest assemblage of creations that the deft fingers of French needlewomen ever produced—garments unsurpassed for delicacy and precision of needlework, and as examples of exquisite embroidery with filmy laces.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

The brilliant opening of this sale is the best evidence of its worth. Thousands upon thousands of the whitest, finest, daintiest, fluffiest undermuslins that America's best makers can produce form a display so beautiful that it is almost bewildering. Nearly half of an entire floor is given up to this scene of snowy sumptuousness that fails not to win expressions of pleasure and surprise from every visitor. And the values are no less pleasing than the merchandise.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

White sale wind-falls in muslin underwear. Here are plums for the thrifty. Fine white garments, that were simply unmatched anywhere else at their sale prices, are now collected together, for a final clean-up of the little lots; and many of the prices get another drop as decisive as though they had been quite ordinary before.—Wanamaker, New York.

Unrivaled values. The week's unparalleled business has demonstrated again that it pays to spend a little more time in selecting; to use a little extra care that sizes shall be right, that the materials and trimmings shall be fine and that every bit of sewing shall be done as you would do it at home. It is these attentions to details and the character of the undermuslins that put the Loeser white sale in a class alone. New supplies of everything will make the sale ready afresh to-morrow.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Consider more than the price when buying these garments. There's cleanliness, sewing and trimmings that must be thought of. You can take our word for it that our muslin underwear was made in clean, sunny, sanitary factories. Then if you closely examine it, you'll find the stitches even, the seams straight, and the entire garment made in a careful, painstaking manner equal to the home-made sort. You couldn't buy the materials for making some of these garments at the price we ask.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Annual midsummer sale of muslin underwear. This sale will in all ways eclipse anything that has ever been attempted before, and will be conducted on a scale that will embrace in magnitude and importance the whole public, and yet touch every wish and taste and need of you individually. Every garment, from the highest priced to the very simplest, has been superintended and traced with the utmost care in its making; not a skimp in the shaping, not a shortcoming in fabric or finish; the best and neatest trimmings, substantial, dainty, tasteful, durable, just like home made, only better, because our experts are in touch with the newest betterments in advance of the season, study daintiness, and are able to give you a very great variety.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

In our own factory we manufacture large quantities of muslin undergarments, choosing the best materials procurable and having the garments made up as well as experienced folks know how—full fashioned and perfectly finished. We operate this factory because it guarantees faultless garments and materially lessens the cost of producing them. That this manufacturing facility, combined with our cash system, enables us to sell at matchlessly low prices, we refer you to this list.—Macy's, New York.

Very busy yesterday morning selling undermuslins: The reason is simple and sufficient. The advertising was a straightforward statement of facts, the goods were here, the qualities exactly as stated, and so little were the prices that the selling was very spirited.—Ruggles & Ellison, Utica, N. Y.

Undermuslins underprice. A sale of dependable muslin things, the product of a clean, well-ventilated factory, away from smoke and the city's impurities. A factory where the glad sunlight creeps through the wide windows and merrily kisses the cheeks of the happy workers. These undermuslins are generously fashioned, too—they're built on the fit-well plan. No skimped garments in our muslin wear store; everything is just right. Here's a sale at mightily skimped prices, though.—L. A. Plaut & Co., Newark.

Our January sale of lingerie. This is our initial effort and a mighty one. We have exhausted all our cleverness, all our business acumen, all our resources, in this sale. We offer it as a criterion; judge us by it. Its fundamental principles is extreme high quality and good taste evident in the garments and their elaboration. They were made to our order under personal supervision. Nothing is skimpy or indifferently made. Every garment is clean and fresh, full and generously proportioned; every stitch is true, every button firm; the laces and embroideries with which they are trimmed are exquisite. The garments are identical in quality with those you will find here the year round; the only difference is in the prices; they average one-fourth less than usual.—Saks & Company, New York.

Not ordinary sale goods but beautiful, fresh, new garments at the lowest sale prices. For over four months our buyers have been preparing for this sale, selecting embroideries and laces, estimating on muslins and cambrics, taking advantage of every fluctuation in cotton piece goods, and, with the co-operation of the best manufacturers, have been remarkably successful, thus enabling us to promise an extraordinary event in underwear. Every garment will be new—all of the best workmanship and will consist of not only individual gowns, skirts, chemises, drawers and corset covers, but also 400 splendid and attractive three, four and five piece sets, trimmed with laces and embroideries at less than the selling price of the materials used. One of the strongest features of the sale will be that of fine hand-made French lingerie in sets and individual pieces at a great saving.—The D. Samuels Lace House Co., San Francisco, Cal.

New and dainty undermuslins very reasonably priced. Clever, artistic constructions of soft, sheer white stuffs, just here from their New England birth-place and shown in almost bewildering variety. Delightful, shapely garments builded on most graceful lines; decorated with charming crisp embroideries and filmy, foamy laces. Perfect undermuslins, the very quintessence of snowy white, loveliness; absolutely certain to bring joy to their future possessors, sure to delight even those that only see them. Modest priced undermuslins, every garment within the reach of all. Every garment best value obtainable.—Symonds, Anaconda, Montana.

The result of many months of active planning, during which many unusual opportunities have occurred to give us values of a surprising nature. Our muslin underwear has always been noted for its remarkable finish. Careful making with full and unskimped cutting marks every garment. This year qualities are even better and prices are as low or lower, even though cottons are higher.

Our special offerings are unmatched. They include the plain and neat styles—in quality equal to any ever offered in New York at double our prices. Examine the texture, the cut, the making and the finish of our low and medium priced undermuslins. Compare them with those offered elsewhere; you will quickly see the difference.—Ehrich Bros., New York.

Sales of white end this month; then you'll pay more for identical things. Fair warning. If you've bought all the cotton underwear, linens, muslins, embroideries and other white goods—or shirts and collars—that will be needed for months to come, you're safe. If you haven't, there's this one week in which you can save largely—afterwards you will pay regular fair prices. It's reasonable. We have asked a great deal less all the month than the merchandise included in the sales was worth. We wanted to bring people to the store, and to prove that with us saying and doing are synonyms. The people came—and found the proof. Just this one more week, remember, of the very low prices.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

One hundred Thousand Dollars' Worth of New, Fresh Muslin Underwear.—The price of spot cotton last December was nine cents a pound; to-day it is selling at nearly fourteen cents. Notwithstanding that fact we offer the products of the best staple at lower prices now than twelve months ago. No use going into details. The challenge of prophecy, the power of prescience, the masterly dominance of vast buying and the matchless command secured through tremendous distributing capacity combined to create the values that mark our annual muslin underwear sale.—Macy's, New York.

A sale of muslin underwear commences here to-morrow, and we start it off with a list of bargain offerings of extraordinary character.—Au Bon Marche, New Bedford, Mass.

A rousing big sale of tasty muslin underwear. About a year ago we announced the "very best muslin underwear sale Newark has known"—and we carried out our program to the letter, giving the people an immense collection of fine, tasty undermuslins at lower prices than had ever been quoted for equal grades of garments. It was such a bouncing big sale, such a pleasing event to our patrons, that we feel called upon to repeat the performance this year. To this end we have gathered a great stock of dependable undermuslins which we will sell underprice. No job lots! No seconds! No out-of-date stuff! Every piece fresh and strictly perfect. So many people complain of the undermuslins offered in most sales that we wish to assure you that the goods offered in this sale rise above the commonplace. They have not been made for "sale" purposes. They are the regular product of the best manufacturers, carefully made, in generous sizes, and trimmed with good laces and embroideries. The only thing special about them is the price. We are sure our patrons will appreciate these splendid, faultless garments at W. V. Snyder & Co.'s, Newark, N. J.

Well made, superior quality Undermuslins were closed out last week from a prominent maker at surprisingly small prices—and are being distributed among our customers under the same favorable conditions. These are garments that rarely creep into sales—and are, therefore, doubly desirable in the eyes of all particular women.—Goldenberg's, Washington, D. C.

The newest knit underwear combination suits seem to threaten to supplant altogether the old style of underwear. Each season the demand grows greater and for this fall and winter we have prepared an unusually large selection. Each suit is positively guaranteed to give you satisfaction and to be fine value at its price. Here are a dozen of the leading styles we are showing for women's wear.—The Palace Dept. Store, Spokane, Wash.

The record-breaking success which our May sale of muslin underwear is achieving proves that the women of Philadelphia fully appreciate the better than usual quality garments that we have provided for this occasion. Notwithstanding the fact that our prices are admittedly the lowest in the city, we could never have commanded such an enormous business as we have done since the sale started, had not the garments been of the most satisfactory sort. Even the cheapest measures up to the careful woman's standard of good making, shapeliness, fullness of size and wearability.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

In that charm of possessing extensively such luxurious underclothes, not often fully gratified because of the expense, one occasion, at least, has made possible the opportunity which so many women would enjoy, by reducing prices well within general reach. One gets the daintiest hand-made, hand-embroidered underwear—at mere ordinary cost. The prices strike dismay to thoughts of extravagance, once compared with the garments in value and character. Their surpassing beauty and daintiness are peculiarly expressive of French origin, representing, as they do the latest style thoughts of the world's best designers and needle-workers. The materials are each of the finest quality; the embroidery-work, new, effective and more or less elaborate in design. Every stitch of the embroidery, and the sewing, as well, was done in France, by hand. For such garments, most extensive and pleasing in variety of styles, especially selected for now, the present great reductions from the usual low prices are quoted. There are well-arranged displays, and magnificent assortments to choose them from.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Bullock's undermuslins are daintiest. They have an "indescribable something" one notices at first glance, that puts them in a higher class—something that proves on examination to be—better materials, better workmanship, more tasty trimmings. Note the stitching, its perfect regularity.—Bullock's, Los Angeles.

Combination suits for women. Getting underwear at this store is most satisfactory. After you have looked over styles and qualities here, you know pretty well that you have seen about everything which is desirable. As to values, ask anyone who has been in the habit of getting underwear here for any length of time. Our supplies are made by the mills according to special specifications. Every detail of fashioning and finish is minutely noted.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Men's shirts and underwear. Have you seen our dollar shirts for men? They are marvels of excellence. Well made, of superior quality, fast-colored cambrics, perfect fitting and neat, dressy, exclusive patterns, attached or detached cuffs, all sizes. They are the very best values we've ever offered at $1 each and are making hosts of friends each day. Get yours to-morrow.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

The best in underwear and hosiery. Our underwear and hosiery section is demonstrating every day the superiority of The Right House values. Orders were placed months ago with the leading manufacturers, who confine their products in many cases to us for Hamilton. This insures you lowness of price. Better lay in your supply now.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

"Pescot" unshrinkable underwear. Third season for these popular undergarments. Made in Scotland of pure Australian lamb's wool, by the famous old established house of Peter Scott & Co. and made unshrinkable by a secret process. It is as near ideal as any underwear manufactured up to this time.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

It is gratifying to a woman of taste to be able to select the muslin underwear she needs from such an extensive collection as this, and to be sure that every garment is attractive in style, liberal in proportion, well put together and fairly priced. Whether low or high priced, the story's the same throughout the stock, as these suggestions indicate.—Wanamaker, New York.

The underwear store. We carry one of the most complete lines of fine underwear for men, women and children to be found in this section of Illinois. Computing our underwear sales on the basis of the population of our city, we find we supply just about half of Peoria with its underwear. We guarantee every garment we sell to be exactly as represented. If you do not buy underwear at Szold's you do not make your underwear money go as far as you might.—Jos. Szold & Son, Peoria, Ill.

For commencement. Exquisite effects in muslin matched sets of underwear received to-day. Dainty embroideries and laces. These are marked both by sets and separate pieces—so you may select as few or many as you desire, thereby regulating the price to suit yourself.—Fuller-Cobb Co., Rockland, Me.

We are going to let you in on a trade secret! Every muslin underwear manufacturer in the country has been reluctantly compelled to raise his prices this season. Cottons are dearer, laces are dearer, embroideries are dearer, labor is dearer. And as no firm is in business for its health, there was no other alternative for the makers of muslin underwear than to raise prices all around. We placed our orders before the bigger advances went into effect, consequently we bought at the same old prices. You can now buy here to the same advantage. That's the secret! Here are some bargains picked at random from our huge stocks to show you how the entire assortments run. Buy to-morrow.—Blum Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Finest of French hand-embroidered underclothes. Our enormous buying power, namely the Philadelphia and Milwaukee stores, is benefited most unusually by our Parisian headquarters. We don't pay the second man's profits—we are direct importers. You've never seen such beautiful creations in hand-embroidered underwear before. Every piece was personally selected by an agent employed by us who has a reputation for fine taste, so now you see why it is that ours is the most elaborate, refined and low-priced collection in the whole northwest.—Gimbel Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

Opportunity is still presented here to buy pretty and well made undermuslins—undermuslins that are up to the Loeser high standard of excellence—and to buy them at wonderfully low prices.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

This shipment of beautiful new undermuslins arrived yesterday. Should have been here for the January sale opening the second of this month. You've heard about freight conditions—too much business, not enough cars. Well, anyway, here we are with one of the prettiest, daintiest lots of the season to offer you. These garments are made in the Middle West in bright, clean, sewing rooms, made of the best material and trimming, modeled from the French designs and manufactured by the best underwear makers to be found.—The Crews-Beggs Co., Pueblo, Col.

Come to-morrow if you have not already made your purchases for the entire spring season. You'll have no other opportunity so good to secure the nicest undermuslins to be found anywhere at so much less than their real value. All advertised prices will continue in force until closing time on Wednesday. Most of the price list is repeated below for your benefit.—The Crescent, Spokane.

Surprising values in the January whitewear sale. Of course, it's generally known that this store shows the broadest assortments of muslin underwear in western Canada. New and dainty styles. Artistic, elaborate, lovely needlework. But few have been prepared for the surprising values that are being placed on the counters this January, in many lines better than we have ever given before. Illustrating the liberal character of these values, we quote the following trio of price-savings for Tuesday.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

The white underwear sale at Simpson's. "Positively," said a lady to one of the salesgirls the other day, "I don't see how it's done. I've been pricing materials for my daughter's trousseau, and I cannot get anything near as good at the prices I can buy beautiful garments like these already completed." The lady's surprise was perfectly natural. Here's another point equally striking: You can buy finished whitewear in this sale at less money than you paid a seamstress to make them if you got the materials absolutely free! And daintiness goes with every Simpson garment.—Simpson, Toronto, Can.

A sale of muslin underwear. Fine new garments at a saving of 25 to 33 per cent. This is not a sale of odds and ends, but carefully selected goods, on which we will waive profits to bring before a greater number of people the goodness and vastness of our underwear stock. Notwithstanding the low prices, every piece is carefully and neatly made under sanitary conditions and cut on full generous patterns. Choose as you will from the following, you can make no mistake. A saving is represented in every one of them.—David Straus & Co., Newark, N. J.

Sale of muslin underclothes continues throughout the month. New things and lower prices are the chief features of this sale. Even though the prices of cotton goods were raised 10 per cent., our prices are still lower than the prices of other stores.—Gimbel's, Milwaukee, Wis.

Low prices in this muslin underwear store mean an extra value put into the goods, whether in making, material, or else good buying. It isn't good sense to skimp the goods to make the low price. It's not the Gimbel way—it wouldn't harmonize with the store's protective rule of "Money back if you want it." Low prices at Gimbel's are sale prices.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

They served the maker's purpose as samples, but are none the worse for it—they're worth every bit as much to you as their duplicates in our regular stock, for which we must charge a third to a half more. Strictly high grade garments, mind you—not the made-up-for-sale-purposes kind. All from the maker whose goods have made this underwear store famous throughout the southwest.—J. W. Robinson Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

A 98c. sale of muslin underwear commenced to-day and as our stock is enormous in this priced goods, the sale will undoubtedly last for several days. You will be surprised at the wonderful values shown here. It is useless to wear your eyes and hands out making underwear when you can get such garments for this price. You cannot buy the materials that are in these garments for the price asked. In the line you will find beautiful gowns, skirts, drawers, corset covers and chemise in values from $1.25 to $2.50 each. Several large counters filled with them—98c. a garment.—Lantz's, Mansfield, Ohio.

One-third to one-half usual cost. 1,000 pieces of women's cotton and lisle underwear will go on sale to-morrow at a price that should make the selling spirited indeed, for equal values are rarely, if ever, heard of. In this lot are vests, pants and corset covers in many styles; some plain; some fancy trimmed.—Hahne's, Newark, N. J.

Spring muslins. We are sure of our ability to please in styles, in quality and prices of muslins. Our new stock for spring is a gathering of novelty and charm and beauty that, once viewed, will ever satisfy the most exacting taste. We chose only from the best lines, many we control exclusively, and in the ordinary, as the fine grades, there is a newness in patterns and color combinations not to be resisted.—Myer's, Troy, N. Y.

Values such as we are offering in this January sale of undermuslins have never been equaled in Atlanta. All through these superb heaps of exquisite underwear you will find a rigid standard of goodness that explains the rapid selling. This is not made-to-sell-cheap underwear. It is the best productions of the best American makers. The low prices are made possible through enormous and timely contracts and by reducing our own usual profit.—J. M. High Co., Atlanta.

Corset covers—beautiful needlework. From one woman to another these lovely creations in art needlework would be greatly appreciated and most appropriate Christmas gifts. The exquisite elaboration of beautiful faces and fine needlework is sure to excite greater interest than ever among women.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Muslin Underwear of the Yard sorts isn't met with in every store selling underwear. There are cheaper grades with more profit in the selling, but little pleasure in the wearing. We cater to those whose preference is for garments of good material, generous in cut, dainty in the trim, and just high enough in price to allow the makers to keep from skimping.—Yard's, Trenton, N. J.

June brides are profiting by this May sale of undermuslins. You have never seen nicer muslin underwear—never seen any in more generous sizes, more carefully stitched, more tastefully trimmed, nor with handsomer laces and embroideries than these we offer in our May sale. The variety is immense and includes generous stocks of the French hand-made undergarments which are finding so much favor with the more particular people. We are sure you will be delighted with this exposition of beautiful style and you will be pleased to pay the low price we are quoting in this May sale.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

"Cloche." The new Paris made lingerie. Every week a new shipment of exquisite lingerie arrives from Paris the inimitable. Just now for instance we are showing the new "Cloche" drawers, beautifully embroidered and some elaborated with lace insertions—some with lace underruffle. They range in price as follows.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Lightweight underwear. We are offering some extra good values in lightweight underwear at 50c. the garment. Shirts are made both with short and long sleeves, drawers are made both in stout and regular sizes. Union suits are the most comfortable garment for summer wear. We are showing some specials, values at $1.00 and $1.50 the suit.—A. R. Isham, Waterbury, Conn.

Compare our undermuslins with the best anywhere and see how conclusively better ours are. It is not our intention to reflect upon other merchants' stocks of underwear, because at the advance in cotton the marvel is that there is so much good underwear at such remarkably low prices. But in the fullness of material, the careful cut and fit, the pretty, dainty embroidery, etc., herein is where ours excels, and we want you to see it. Ten minutes of comparison is worth a page of type description.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hand-made French lingerie in boxes for Christmas giving. The French room is fairly humming with Christmas suggestions. Every steamer brings dainty bits of luxury, and Loeser prices are surprisingly less than you'd imagine for such beauty garments.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Weather's just right for spring underwear. We have several different kinds of medium weight spring underwear, in all wool, part wool, or all cotton, just the kind to fill in the gap between winter and summer weather. Some of them with half sleeves, too, at popular prices—50c. $2.00 a garment.—A. W. Lee, Trenton, N. J.

The best in underwear and hosiery. Our underwear and hosiery sections are demonstrating every day the superiority of "The Busy Store's" values. Orders were placed months ago with the leading manufacturers, whose products are known to be of high quality. We are confident that our prices will appeal to you as very reasonable.—Crow & Whitmarsh, Cleveland, Ohio.

Stirring values in muslin underwear. This underwear must not be confounded with the cheap truck generally shown at sales. All our garments are manufactured in clean, sanitary workrooms, of good quality material, cut generously full and are carefully made and finished.—Journey & Burnham, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We want our muslin garments to go in every home in Binghamton before sale closes. Such an assortment and such values come to you but once a year. Come while assortment is at its best and take all the time necessary for selections.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

Avalanche of white annual midwinter sale of muslin undergarments at the lowest prices ever named, in spite of the price of cotton being higher than ever known before.

This sale has become such an unusually important and looked forward to periodic event that it needs no argument from us at this time to prove the wisdom of or the reason for its existence. The idea of the sale is just as old as its introduction by us years ago, but the sale itself, its immediate results, benefits, merchandising, innovations and management are just as new as if the idea had its conception to-day. There were never so many reasons to commend it; never so many characteristics to individualize it—never so many advantages to extend the most practical economies.

Notwithstanding the enormous increase in the price of cotton we offer prices and quality concessions that have never been equaled any previous year in our history.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Annual Muslin Underwear Sale Begins To-morrow.—The above announcement is all that is required to fill our store with customers. The great purchasing public eagerly watch for this annual event at Abraham & Straus', and the cumulative response from year to year, growing with each successive announcement, evidences the widespread inter-response the sale evokes, which has resulted in giving us by far the largest business in this branch in Brooklyn, and, we believe, the largest in volume in the United States. The basic and underlying reason of this phenomenal success is easily explained.

However low the price, the high standard of quality is never sacrificed.

We need not expatiate in detail about the fabrics. Those who have favored us in the past are familiar with the superiority of our merchandise and will substantiate our claim of supremacy. But from newcomers to Brooklyn we solicit an examination, which, we are satisfied, will result in augmenting the clientele who now pronounce this department "par excellence" the best in the Greater City.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Winter Sale of White Goods!—Just the simple announcement in the headline is enough for women who know the store, and the white goods sales of past winters.

But the city grows and each year the store widens its circle; makes new friends. So a foreword is not out of place.

This sale is of regular goods at irregular prices. Those prices are due to two things—buying in great quantities; buying at a time when makers will concede low prices for sound business reasons.

Great heaps of snowy undermuslin, pile after pile of white shirts, yards and yards of cotton, choice bolts of linen, bundle after bundle of pillow cases and sheets. But come in person and see—and be profited.—Howland Dry Goods Company, Bridgeport, Conn.

Great Sale of Muslin Underwear.—Thousands of dozens bought of manufacturers pressed for money! Sold us for cash at way under cost. So the manufacturers' loss is your gain, as we shall sell way under cost!—Wm. S. Butler & Co., Boston, Mass.

Only Great All-White Undermuslin Sale in New Jersey.—We display half an acre of Paris models and makes. United States models and makes and right-here-in-Newark makes—for the best American muslinwear is manufactured in the home city of our store. Immaculate whiteness that is natural and not produced by lime wash that rots the materials. We offer an immense choice in garments that ought to be sold for more money than we charge for them, but as Newark's actual leaders in everything pertaining to style and fashion, we must sacrifice profits in introducing coming season's most desirable furnishings.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

The 1904 Sale of White—Typical of the Wanamaker Store.—Underclothes for women, girls and children—even Paris lingerie at no more than the cost of domestic garments. Short and long dresses for baby. Trade-mark corsets that rarely break in price. Handkerchiefs, housekeeping linens, white goods and white bedspreads. Men's shirts, night shirts, collars and pajamas. All at the low prices of last year, and our usual high standard maintained—this in the face of a 60 per cent. rise in cotton and a great advance in linen. Surely this is typical of the store whose only aim is to sell reliable merchandise, and nothing else, at the lowest possible cost to the customers. Our whole power, reputation and honor is back of the sale.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Annual Sale of Muslin Underwear.—Always an occasion of pronounced money saving, this huge sale is broader in its economies and greater in magnitude this year than ever before. As every one knows, these sweeping events are not shallow attempts at trade inducement, but masterful efforts based upon huge and judicious cash purchases of cotton goods at prices which our enormous outlet alone permits of. We point with pardonable pride to the superb stocks involved in this sale and call particular attention to the facts.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

A Colossal White Sale Begins Here To-morrow.—Artistic Garments in White.—Thousands of pieces. Tasteful, refined, beautiful. Linens, Embroideries, Handkerchiefs, Men's Shirts, White Fabrics, Bed Spreads, Sheets, Pillow Cases, etc. The economies of this great annual Sale are remarkable, as every discriminating woman knows at a glance—but the sale would be merely commonplace if cheapness were its only merit. Our sale of White has grown to be such an important factor in Buffalo's shopping because it is promoted on the policy that Buffalo women of discriminating taste are not willing to sacrifice one iota of daintiness, of newness, of neatness, that intangible quality of niceness—in order to save a few pennies or a few dimes in the cost of their lingerie. Economy we must provide, and do provide most decisively—not at the sacrifice of the very things that give value, but right with the garments that possess in the highest degree the virtues and values that women most appreciate. For months we have been preparing this great merchandise movement, and to-morrow you will see these departments filled with freshness and enthusiasm.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Descriptions read much alike. Test the White Sale Garments by their quality—and their prices.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our Annual White Sale Begins Next Monday, comprising, among other things, women's muslin undergarments for very much less than usual. All sorts of good linens at under prices.—Joseph Horne Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Muslin Underwear Sale.—That annual event so eagerly awaited by thousands of discriminating women opens here to-morrow with the best assortments and most temptingly low prices of years.

Come and see the beauty show in white—those immaculate shirt waist suits—creations that are noteworthy for their style, elegance and simple beauty—handsome, sheer fashionable fluffy frocks of fine lace and lawn—not one in the lot that you can look at without admiring.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

Women's undermuslins. New, crisp and dainty underwear—effective styles—highest qualities—and all marked at such low prices as must keep the tide of trade flowing our way, and add to our reputation as the greatest value givers in America.—Ehrich Bros., New York.

Daintiness, refinement, ample lengths, generous widths, neat sewing, everything that proclaims the home-made garment without the drudgery of home work, these are some of the charms that are first recognized in the great piles of garments that have turned this into a store of white.—J. W. Milken, Traverse City.

These waists are not moving out fast enough to suit us, and they're charming things, too, but we won't waste time sentimentalizing, just put a price on them that will make them go. It's one of the cases where we "pay the piper."—The Anderson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Corset covers in great variety and great values, too. In the present sale of muslin underwear there are more than two hundred styles of corset covers alone. When you consider that each represents the utmost value that it is possible to give at the price—better by far than has ever been given before—you'll understand why this sale is making a new record, and not only in corset covers, but all along the line the variety is enormous, the qualities high and the prices lower than they've ever been for equally good garments. Just an inkling of the corset covers.—Partridge & Richardson, Philadelphia, Pa.

Annual May sale of undermuslins and kindred garments. A timely offering of dainty goods at one-third under value. Mere prettiness isn't all a woman wants in undergarments. She wants shapeliness, quality and good workmanship, too. When all these points of merit are combined in garments at wonderfully little prices, the ideal point is attained. The garments comprising this May sale—timed to meet going-away needs—are really the very best ever assembled to participate in an under-price sale. We have spent weeks in accumulating the assortments, gathering from here and there, until the aggregate assumed the enormous proportions required to adequately meet the demands of our patrons. All are new, fresh, crisp goods and every one is not only correct in cut, generous, perfectly shaped and finely finished, but each was made in light, well ventilated, hygienic workrooms, by expert needlewomen.—Journey & Burnham, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dainty muslin underwear. Hundreds of choice pieces of underwear at the lowest prices such garments ever knew. Daintiness, refinement, ample proportions, good materials, neat sewing—all the merits of home-made garments—these are the charms first recognized in this gathering of under muslins. You see the garments and marvel at the little prices.—Kaufman, Trenton, N. J.

The store's best and biggest undermuslin offering begins Monday. Past successes have opened up to us broader fields of endeavor. We have gathered more kinds and more of a kind than ever—stocks that would have swamped us when we began the race for your favor are multiplied eight and ten fold in the collection you'll see here now—thousands and thousands of fresh new undergarments of muslin, cambric and nainsook—as plain as you please, as dainty as you desire, or as elaborately ruffled ribbon and lace embellished as good taste allows—and low priced as some of the garments are, they do not drop below the store's standard of goodness and everything is from factories in which rigid rules of sanitation are enforced.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Need any whitewear for little girls? Didn't know you could get white cambric underwear for children? Why we have lots of it, every size, just as dainty and desirable as you could wish, and prices so reasonable that you don't need to bother making it at home.—Robert Wright & Co., Brockville, Ont.

Long white petticoats. Peterson's Magazine of 1863 told the gentlewoman who followed fashions this: "The new petticoats are to be very wide around at foot, but shaped at top to make them more agreeable to wear." Peterson's might have said it for 1903. On nearly all the long skirts in the White Sale there are deep flounces, to make plenty of fullness around the feet—sometimes formed of wide hemstitched tucks, sometimes edged with embroidery or trimmed with lace. All extra fullness around the waist has been done away with by goring the petticoats until they fit almost like dress skirts.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Every link in this white sale chain is well rounded and perfect. Fullness, strength, completeness, are seen everywhere. The nightgowns, the petticoats, make splendid displays. There is the same exhaustive completeness in the beautiful stocks of corset covers, drawers and chemises. All the garments are made in full sizes; sewing is neatly and substantially done; trimmings are neat and refined—some quite simple, others as elaborate as could be desired. Every piece has been made in a clean, wholesome, healthful factory. But nowhere will you find garments of such excellence and beauty, that can be compared with these, as to price.—Wanamaker, New York.

One of our windows shows some of the beautiful Sample Undermuslins which go on sale this morning. This is perhaps the finest collection of Undermuslins we have ever secured. There are over 1,000 garments and in the whole lot no two alike.—Hale's, Los Angeles.

Women are apt to appreciate good taste in the making of Muslin Underwear; particularly when they can buy garments of fine materials, trimmed with dainty embroideries and laces in pretty designs, put together carefully and neatly, at moderate prices.—Wanamaker, New York.

Excellent Offers in Desirable Muslin-wear.—Everybody knows the definition of the word desirable. But do all dealers strictly adhere to its meaning? Skimped garments, poor muslins, bad style—this trinity obtains in the muslin underwear stocks of many stores. Of course, they are the exact antonym of desirable. In every particular "The Big Store's" undermuslins are eminently good. They are the very essence of worthfulness, and are so invitingly priced, especially during the June sales, as to impel possession by all knowing and shrewd women.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

A truly magnificent collection of snowy loveliness.—Wolf, Jersey City, N. J.

Every garment offered at this sale is first in quality and style, for women's, misses' and children's wear. The bride's lingerie is delightfully pretty, and in full trousseau is the most charming ever presented by a Newark store. We likewise direct attention to this important sale because it indicates the advance showing of the new, sweet, clean and beautiful muslin underwear for 1908. Every garment is a model of excellence and as superbly made as it is possible for art minds and deft hands to produce. Every woman in the city, county and state has the best chance of a year to secure splendid bargains in every line of muslin underwear.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

La Grecque tailor made underwear. Probably the finest and most beautiful underwear of any shown in this city is La Grecque. These high-class garments are made in both single and combination styles, and of the finest, sheerest French cambric and nainsook, exquisitely trimmed with ruffles, insertions and in-laid medallions of rich laces. Every seam in La Grecque underwear is sewed flat, making it easily launderable and unstretchable. There's graduated sizes of each garment, so that each wearer can get just the garment to fit her individual figure. In a word La Grecque is practical, durable and economical and appeals to every woman of taste.—H. M. Voorhees & Bro., Trenton, N. J.

Perfect fit and finish are demanded in undermuslins, and first of all do women desire dainty materials and fluffy laces for the making, such as French nainsook, Persian lawn and yards of bow-knot and dot laces. With this in mind we're taking the initiative in presenting the prettiest ideas possible that Paris and Germany can offer in a new cut and shaping, known as the Circular Cut.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

Our January sale of muslin wear is completely ready and begins with this morning. Again comes this great annual event, upon which we have bestowed our very best efforts. Many elements contribute to the importance of the occasion, and nothing is lacking to make it the most successful of any of our muslin underwear sales. Assortments are the largest we've ever provided, and embrace none but sanitary-made garments, representing the latest and best accomplishments of most reliable makers. Good materials, ample sizes, correct shapes, pretty and exclusive trimmings and perfect needlecraft are features of all the garments offered, and notwithstanding the advance on the cost of cotton fabrics, laces and embroideries you will find the same excellent qualities throughout and prices as low as on any previous occasion of this kind.—H. M. Voorhees & Bro., Trenton.

The sale keeps the White Wear store bustling with business, even though it is past the middle of July. For women know that they will find what they want; that the garments will be well made as well as dainty; that the prices average a third less than usual. So it is no wonder we sell so much.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

To-day we have a large accumulation of splendid garments—most of which are fresh and clean—which are marked away down from even the low prices of the Sale. Hundreds of women are just waiting for this opportunity, and there should be lively selling on the Rotunda Balcony to-day. Certainly there have been no such offerings as these made since our January clean-up, at least.—Wanamaker, New York.

A feast for the Gods! Your opportunity is now—be on hand Tuesday. Months ago we planned this great white carnival and we've bought white goods—yes, loads of 'em—enough to clothe every woman in Kansas City, and if you are sharp you will look here before making selections. The qualities are the best, the prices rock bottom, the assortment the largest and grandest ever put before the people heretofore.—The Bee Hive, Kansas City, Mo.

Montreal's lowest priced whitewear store. Though cottons cost more, we can give you this year values that surpass those of our last annual sale. It shows the result of long and careful planning, combined with determination to line up to our reputation of superiority of value-giving.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

Our undermuslins are fascinating in their sheer daintiness and beauty.—Fowler, Dick & Walker, Binghamton.

The Loeser undermuslin sale unrivaled in volume and values. Never has a sale been more successful than this one. There are more garments and finer garments than were ever gathered for such a sale. And because of the increase of the cost of production all along the line it has been more than ever difficult to gather them. But we have cut down profits, and our chief suppliers have made great sacrifices, and orders placed months ago have been filled. Don't miss the opportunities. Here are some of the good things.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Muslin underwear. Made in clean, sanitary, uncrowded workrooms, flooded with daylight and pure air. Made by happy, healthy, well paid women of long experience and inimitable skill, who give as much attention to cleanliness as those for whom these garments are intended. Grass bleached on the green hills nature provided for this industry, where dust is never known—where pure air and powerful sunrays put life and wear-resisting quality into every thread. Can you imagine such qualities at the prices quoted here?—Henry Siegel Co., Boston.

Loeser undermuslins maintain the high standard of quality, even though the prices are so very low. In good materials, in fullness of shape, in width of shoulders and sleeves, in details of stitching and finish, they best show their superiority. It is thoroughness that tells—and it tells most noticeably in Loeser undermuslin this season.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Always were that, we hear, exactly, and that makes them doubly so now. We have taken a great deal of care and pride in the kind of undergarments that are distributed by this department. Some stores are satisfied to offer garments at low prices only, garments that have been skimmed in cutting, etc. Not so here, they must be up to our high standard whether they are to be sold at a regular price or less than regular as they are now.—The Bowland, Morehouse & Martens Co., Columbus, Ohio.

At this time we have a very large mail order department. Any orders through the mail have the most careful attention.—The Palace Dry Goods House, Reno.

Saving opportunities in women's and children's muslin underwear. When we announced that we would sell bright new garments ready-to-wear for what one would pay for material alone at prevailing prices, we expected a generous response, but nothing like the record sales of last week. We can hardly believe that we have sold so much at this early date. But they're gone. Early buying is the best advice we can give in the following.—W. M. Whitney & Co., Albany.

Nearly 10,000 garments in the January white sale. This is the second chapter of the sale of white. Straight on from now until the end of the month, chapter after chapter will be added, every day almost there will be something well worthy your attention. But this muslin underwear is one of the key-notes of the sale. It is the storm center of the white sale for January. It is bound to prove the success of successes of the many sales we have conducted of muslin underwear in January. This underwear was made many months ago when materials from which it is made could be bought for a good deal less than they can to-day. You don't need to take this statement for it, you posted folk, you know how much more you are paying for white goods than you did six months ago. Hence these garments should be, from a price standpoint, remarkable values, and the important feature is that of making. No underwear receives more careful attention, every detail of it, than the kinds we ask you here to see in this sale, which comes from one of the best equipped underwear factories in America. Taken from a standpoint of value, these have an average worth a quarter to a third more than you will pay.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

This year we have one of the greatest bargain assortments ever offered in our basement white section during a January sale. Looking through our great stocks we find in matching up, hundreds of yards of muslin left over for this sale. This great stock is now ready for your choosing, comprising muslin underwear of the best kinds at low prices—patterns and workmanship excellent—strongest underwear values that ever existed in this store.—Koch Bros., Allentown, Pa.

For our white sale we secured several hundred dozen of the daintiest white waist patterns and right now you can make a big saving on new spring style waists. A beautiful lawn waist (just like cut above), front is handsome all-over embroidery, short sleeves, button back.—Espenhain, Milwaukee, Wis.

NECKWEAR FOR WOMEN

15c. the price. 600 new stock collars that should be 25c. and 35c. We wouldn't be surprised if every one went before night. All the samples of a maker's Spring Styles. No two alike. Think of that, and not one of them shown before to-morrow morning. All piled out on the counters where you can get at them easily and quickly. There won't be any waiting.—Hale's, Sacramento, Cal.

Sale of women's sample lace stoles and collars. It's extraordinary in the fullest sense of the word, too, and at that the story is only half told. This sale is so unusual, the variety is so large and the values so great that before Monday is half over it will be the talk of New York. Come early and you have our personal guarantee that you will be privileged to choose from the handsomest gathering of rich and exclusive laces ever shown in New York, at prices that will prove a bargain revelation.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

Pretty, dainty neckwear at interesting prices.—The May Company, Cleveland.

Silk Stocks, 10c. Each.—We don't see that it is necessary to give you a rigmale about the quality of the silk and the different colors and all that sort of thing. Simply 25c. stocks for 10c. each.—Joseph Horne Company, Pittsburg.

The Daintiest of Neckwear for Women, Arriving.—What's new? Come to Loeser's and see. You won't find a barrelful of any one thing—one doesn't buy neckwear like potatoes. But the variety in tremendous—crisp, fresh, new daintiness, and just enough of each one to give you practically exclusiveness in ownership.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

These are exceptionally pretty bits of Summer Neckwear for women, at a price so low that it is quite economical to wear each collar as long as it's fresh, and then to throw it away.—Wanamaker, New York.

Dainty Neckwear.—You'd scarcely believe what a splendid collection of dainty neck fixings we have gathered together for this special sale to-morrow.—The John Gerber Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Every one assures us that we are doing the neckwear business of Chicago. Several late deliveries have been added and will now go at reduced prices.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago.

Exquisite sample lace neckwear. Half price and less. Made in that city of feminine dreams, St. Gall, Switzerland. Three different Swiss houses are responsible for them. Lovely is a word that expresses what the average woman will feel about them, but lovely is a word that is used all too often on less exquisite work. Three weeks from now you will be looking in vain for just such an opportunity. Why not come and see these to-morrow?—The Robert Simpson Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

In fancy neckwear we are exhibiting some of the most charming things you have ever seen in stocks, stoles and lace collars; but greatest interest just now centers around the elegant boas and sets of black chiffon, gauze and ribbons.—Keely's, Atlanta, Ga.

Evening Neck Pieces.—Women come oftener and linger longer over the beautiful neckwear as the social season advances. One is sure to see exclusive things in this store. Unless you come to-day you will miss seeing many beautiful pieces, though our assortment at all seasons of the year is the most complete to be found in the city.—Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney, St. Louis, Mo.

Laundry Stock Collars.—Little new ideas for the winter shirtwaist are the pretty laundry stock collars in white, which are trimmed with pink, black or blue, while another line worthy of mention is the pretty wear-silk stock made with folds of velvet. These come in white formations trimmed in green, cadet blue, pink, black, light blue, stitched neatly in contrasting shades of silk thread.—Keith-O'Brien Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

New Neck Things for Fall.—Women never had so many different kinds of neck things to choose from as are presented in this collection now. You should see what we've got for you—latest and prettiest styles that were ever shown.—Gimbel Brothers, Milwaukee, Wis.

New Neckwear and Lace Collars.—First showing to-morrow of advance fall styles in lace collars, in the new stole and cape effects; also the latest Bulgarian stocks.—George B. Peck Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Neckwear Novelties.—What a wonderful difference a dainty bit of neck dress does make in one's appearance. You can't be well dressed without it. If beauty be gauged by price, you'll be surprised at the variety we show at 25c. and 50c.—Bergner's, Peoria, Ill.

Be sure not to miss anything among the new neckwear—ruffs, lace capes, stocks or collars. Look for the new little stole collar Paris is wearing on gowns and collarless blouse coats—made on canvas and embroidered and applied with the daintiest, softest colors.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

A bright, new, glistening creation in women's summer ties arrived at the Neckwear counter the other day. Will hold a reception to-day. It's a long, narrow four-in-hand made of crepe de chine. Don't try to imagine its pretty daintiness; come see it.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

New neckwear for women. More and more dainty and ornate than ever—if such is possible—are the new creations for the feminine throat.—Styles are almost exhaustless, but these particularly merit mention.—Sibley, Lindsay, Curr & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Exquisite New Neckwear.—It is almost impossible to mention the new numbers, so quickly do they follow one upon the other, and just as quickly are they sold. The styles become prettier and prettier as the season advances, and you will marvel, when you see our neckwear, how such lovely conceits can be sold at such low prices.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

A Sale of Women's Neckwear.—This department has become headquarters for women's neckwear, not alone because of the great variety of strictly correct styles always in regular stock, but because we have always some excellent lots to offer far under regular prices.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

The summer girl will soon be here, but our summer neckwear and gloves are here now.—A. R. Kerr & Co., Hamilton.

The women's neckwear department teems with the latest creations in neck dressing. Many pretty things may be seen to-morrow.—Kemp & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

Dainty neckwear. Fascinating little bits of daintiness—how can we describe them? In exquisite variety, too—and customers haven't been a bit backward in telling us that our selection is not only by far the largest—but our prices are decidedly the lowest hereabouts. Be sure to investigate what follows.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

A Sale of Women's Neckwear. These are some of the season's newest fancies, though many of them are to go at half price and less. Women like what is dainty; so they will like this neckwear.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

New Spring Neckwear. An immense express shipment of ladies' neckwear was received by us yesterday. The great variety of styles includes everything which is most handsome and up-to-date.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Inexpensive Bishop Stocks. The demand for fussy, fluffy neck fixings, this spring, is very small—women are asking for the simple, almost severe neckwear which is not barred out of the washtub and so may always be kept fresh and clean.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia.

Fashion strives each year to excel its performances of the past. How many difficulties it must overcome may be surmised when you see the lovely neckwear we have brought here for you to admire and buy. A gentle turn or fold here and there contributes to the beauty of the throat, and yet, you can hardly tell why.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

On ladies' neckwear counters to-day there's the sample line of one of New York's first makers * * * Everyone is a gem—daintiest creations of chiffon, silk, velvet, lace, embroidery and other materials—most of them hand-made. They are fresh and clean—only sign of their having been samples is the maker's ticket and the price. This neckwear is to go to you at exactly the usual cost to us.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

A grand array of handsome new neck-toggery in a charming variety of new styles for spring wear is here for your choosing. Swell new stocks in an exquisite showing of washable materials.—Bergner's, Peoria, Ill.

Women's new spring neckwear. Such a profusion of designs, and they're all so extremely smart and pretty that you'll find choosing difficult; for you'll want one of each style.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

It's a pleasure to tell of these bargains in ladies' neckwear. It is an assortment of choice dainty styles, seasonable and suitable for spring and summer wear, made of exquisite materials, and by one of those fortunate trade deals that frequently are put in our way, we purchased them at just about half their worth.—Brown, Thompson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Women's Neckwear for a Quarter.—Assortments of these stylish summer neck-pieces for women are replenished again to-day for a busy week-end selling. There's wide choice as to materials and designs; and all are practical and washable as well as pretty. It's getting near the end of the manufacturers' season when ends of materials must be used up; so that many of these styles, if sold a bit earlier, would bring 50 cents on account of the cost of their materials and making.—Wanamaker, New York.

Neck ruchings usually are made up in hundreds of yards of a pattern; then boxed in six or twelve-yard lengths. The remaining short ends run in lengths from one to five yards.

We have about 2,000 yards to-day of these "short ends," which are, however, more than long enough for the purpose intended—in just the patterns that we are selling in quantities every day. They are mostly white, with a sprinkling of black-and-white and colors.—Wanamaker, New York.

An enlargement of our women's neckwear department gives us much better facilities for the display and sale of our splendid lines of lace and embroidery Dutch collars, yokes, collar and cuff sets and sleeves, ruffs and stoles.—Macy's, New York.

Women's Summer Neckwear—Prices Unapproachable.—And as usual we are doing the business of the city in this line, for nowhere can such dainty effects be had for these prices. It is very easy to say that, perhaps, but the amount sold every day even this hot weather tells its own story of satisfaction to us and to you.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

If the finishing touch of the costume at the throat is distinctive, dainty and in perfect taste, it frequently makes the difference between a very ordinary and a very smart appearance. Loeser Neckwear is distinctive as well as little priced. But even for very ordinary Neckwear these prices can hardly be equaled.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Never such neckwear at the price. This lot of 1,000 new Easter four-in-hands will be the quickest selling furnishing of the year. They have an undeniable 50c look. In fact they are made on the French-fold pattern, of beautiful new silks. All are 2 1-2 inches wide. Heliotrope, reseda, Alice, pearl, blue, brown, green, scarlet, white and black plain checked striped or figured. They'll wear till you tire of them.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Beginning this morning—one of the greatest sales of Women's Summer Neckwear ever held in Chicago. The bargain opportunities will be twofold. Thousands of high-class novelties—all in the most effective summer styles—came to us from one of the best designers at an enormous reduction from their real worth. All the odd lots, broken sizes and slightly soiled lines have been taken from our own great assortment of exclusive, beautiful styles. The clearance must be immediate and thorough, and consequently we have made the lowest prices which we ever placed on equally desirable lines.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

The fashions for the spring and summer tend to washable fabrics for use with lingerie waists. Laundered collars, mull ties, ascots and small ties and bows are all popular. Many styles at 25c. to $1.50. Full showing of imported collar and cuff sets, chemisettes and yokes.—Kennard & Co., Wilmington, Del.

If "genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains," you'll find it very decidedly evident in our women's neckwear department.—P. A. Bergner & Co., Peoria, Ill.

Neckwear elegance. Such great assortments for Christmas have never been shown here before. Colorings and liberal shapes are extremely tempting. Among the new shapes added this week to our large and extensive line is the new French folded four-in-hand, the London ascot and perfect dress tie with tabs, in blacks and whites. Sold exclusively here, 50 cents to $2.50.—Koch Bros., Allentown.

Novelties in wash neckwear. Novelty and practical usefulness go hand in hand with this pretty neckwear—and that's the kind that's needed in summer time. They'll wash like a rag and are as pretty as can be. A hint as to variety: They are being worn this season with a true lover's bow of silk. Very pretty effect.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Every sale of women's neckwear on the program for the month of January has proven a great success. We have met the trade with the goods and with the prices. A lot of mock sales and would-be special prices have been turned down by the posted buyers that visit special sales. With the confidence you have shown in our advertisements and the liberal patronage you have given us, we feel that our sales have met with your approval and we hope for a continuation of same.—The Donsereaux Dry Goods Co., Lansing, Mich.

NOTIONS

Oceans of notions.—Campbell's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Some of the Mickles that Go to Make a Muckle.—Notions, in other words—the little things for the workbag or sewing basket. Trifles you're needing every day, costing little in themselves, but running into money in the aggregate.

Here's your chance to make small individual savings on notions of irreproachable quality—but they're the little savings that, when multiplied, count.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

The January sale of notions over and over as big as a year ago, best of the bigness is—it means smaller prices.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

There's many a novelty in the small wares department! perhaps more than you think. There's many a saving too, as witness these prices.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

No doubt you have noticed our notion department—the long, low, beautiful show cases, all mahogany—filled with every conceivable novelty, from the most valuable the markets of the world present to the least expensive, dependable article manufactured. Leather goods, chatelaines, opera bags, shopping bags, tortoise shells, hair ornaments, combs, high art novelties in belt pints, buckles, white stone novelties, real gun metal buckles, hat pins; pearl, gold and fancy shirt waists sets, neck chains—and fans—fans in assortments—stylish fans—fans that will fairly thrill you; elaborate lines, domestic, Parisian and other imported fans of ingenious patterns. Hundreds of exclusive patterns in novelties and necessities.—Keith O'Brien Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

Buttons! Buttons! Buttons of all values, from the plebian, at 2 1-2c. per dozen, from the banks of the Mississippi to the aristocrat from France, Germany or Australia—all sizes from the pin-head to the size of the half dollar piece.—The Mills Co., Topeka, Kansas.

Only a pearl button, but a hundred thousand of them, and the finest, cleanest, heaviest fresh water pearl we have ever seen; put up, two dozen on a card.—Goldsmith's Bazar, Scranton, Pa.

Little things, to be sure—notions and every-day needs—but with savings attached so large that no careful woman can afford to miss them.—Bloomington's, New York.

The Macey hook and eye in glass tubes. The best ever. No thread under the bill. Two sewings in front where the strain is greatest. Cannot accidentally unhook, has the humped spring. Does not allow the garment to gap. Absolutely rust proof. Just what you have been looking for. Buyable only at this store.—C. Cohn, San Bernardino, Cal.

The January notion sale. Depend on everything being of the highest grade—all other kinds are barred from the Loeser stocks. Depend on finding immense varieties of everything in the sale. Prices are much under regular. Never was there a better time for dressmakers and home sewers to stock up.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A great sale of notions and dressmakers' supplies. The low prices speak for themselves. Even in this store such prices have seldom been equalled. And quite as important is the additional fact that now in this sale, just as at other times, every notion is of the high grade characteristic of this store.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Pyrography outfits cut nearly half. During the journey to this store of our latest shipment of burnt wood work materials a bottle of stain was broken. Thirteen boxes containing outfits suffered—but only the boxes. Some to the extent of merely a small spot, others to a big stain, the contents escaping without injury. Still, that's sufficient to stop their sale at regular prices. Couldn't ask for a better chance than this to buy an outfit.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

The black cat and his kingdom. The king of the black cats is here, or his picture is, anyway, on a great big Hallowe'en Jack-in-the-corner pie, and there are a merry crew of his followers on every side—big cats and little cats, in every posture a black cat ever took and some a black cat never took. There are witches, witches' caps and brooms, great bobbing pumpkins with brilliant gleaming eyes, queer vegetarians (or rather vegetable men) and funny fellows from all over the world. Prices range from a few cents to several dollars for these Hallowe'en favors in the basement.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Daintily tasteful things for women of exacting judgment in matters of correct attire. Side combs and back combs, plain shell or amber, and many with mountings of best German brilliants. The correct in shape and finish is here for you now, and the prices are about one-third less than the same goods sell in larger cities.—Moore & McLeod, Charlotte-town, P. E. I., Can.

Specials in fancy goods for Christmas gifts. We have provided a large assortment of beautiful holly designs of paper napkins, crepe paper, wrapping paper, seals and address tags; these with our Christmas balls, bells, wreaths and decorations of all kinds should make this section a great center of interest to holiday shoppers.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Manicure goods. These are pets of ours and we have a large stock of them. You'll find them vastly better than the average.—Brown & Turner, Portland.

Little notions—little prices. It is not idle talk to say that our notion department is unusually full of practical little articles—everyday wants—at prices much below value.—The Crews Beggs Dry Goods Co., Pueblo, Colo.

Macy's May notion sale. Walk through the notion department—if you take vigorous strides you may circle it in 126 steps—equivalent to 378 feet if on a straight stretch. Every inch of available space is crowded with the thousand and one things included under the broad general term "notions." It is not necessary for us to say a word about qualities. Our record of nearly half a century of retailing speaks for us in that respect. And the same is equally true of prices.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

This thread-and-needle sale—needles and pins, needles and pins—with your spring sewing your trouble begins. It's really absurd how much one can be bothered, when the sewing campaign's on, with such apparently insignificant trifles as notions. A great many people think it's not worth while to discriminate between the good and bad, until the mischief's been done. Meanwhile, a lot of poor trash has gotten into circulation. All the notions displayed here—and what a display!—come to us with a certificate of good character. We wouldn't admit any other kind. And yet, prices are 'way down. Here are a few salient examples—compare them with what you usually pay, even for second-rate stuff.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

To-morrow we inaugurate a great notion sale. Springtime sewing suggests notions—we suggest that you take advantage of this sale if you want to effect a big saving.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Notions and dressmakers' findings. Springtime sewing suggests notions—we suggest that you take advantage of this sale if you want to effect a big saving.—The May Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

Notions at wholesale prices. Just at the time when dressmakers must order extensively, we offer the greatest notion values of the season.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Great crowds bought notions yesterday in spite of the bad weather. If anybody had asked yesterday "Who's buying notions?" we would have promptly answered, "Everybody!" Notwithstanding the chill winds and wintry showers, people swarmed into the main aisle and the regular notions store as if it were the sunniest and finest of spring days. But what wonder?—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

Notions and dressmakers supplies. The small things that every thrifty housewife needs, the dressmaking essentials, all are here, at prices strangely low. The articles that compose this sale are regular goods like those you buy every day in the year at our notion counters. The difference is in prices only. There are no inferior grades, no skimming in lengths, no reduction in package quantities.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

In good time comes this stirring sale of reliable notions and dressmakers' supplies. Every dressmaker, every woman who has home sewing to do, requires a liberal supply of exactly these little needfuls before the Spring sewing starts. All are things that everybody must buy anyhow, and shrewd and thrifty women will be glad enough to buy what they need in this Spring sale. Every item represents a good, worthy article, depend on that. It would be the worst possible economy to save a little money and spoil a nice dress. Wanamaker's will never tempt you to that. Everything in this sale is good, and worthy of the best work of the most careful dressmaker. Remember this when you note the very small prices.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Notions—We cannot get along without 'em, so let's buy them as cheaply as possible, if they are good—and these are very good. Come as early as you can Tuesday if you want a wide choice of everything.—Dayton's Daylight Store, Minneapolis, Minn.

Notions start an underprice sale. "Many a mickle makes a muckle." A spool of cotton or a package of pins will show as well as furs or diamonds this Loeser principle—to have the best grades always and always at the lowest prices. And now comes the annual spring occasion, the February sale of notions and dressmakers' supplies. It is interesting to every one—to women who do home sewing, to dressmakers who buy large quantities. It presents an immense variety of sewing room needs at prices which are remarkable for their littleness.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

When Ma Manages the Notions.—Here's a heap of notions. The very best sort of notions, too! They cost so very little, but how they do save the dollars when ma manages.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Do you remember the black sewing silk we sold at this sale last year for 25c. for a box of twelve spools? You will remember it if you were fortunate enough to secure any, for it was all right. Well, this year we have more of the same sort, and the price is the same. This is best quality silk and is worth 50c. a box. As we do not carry it regularly this will be your only chance to get it.—Sage-Allen & Co., Hartford.

Notions in the scale. Weigh them, and you'll find yourself wanting—more. If every spool of thread lacked a few yards; if every paper of pins were a little short; if everything were so cheap that it had to be poor; this Notion Sale would not be such an event to dressmakers and women who sew at home.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia.

Notions for Little.—Fill up the Notion basket now with the good little things that are here for very much less than regular prices instead of waiting until you are away off in the country and a spool of Darning Cotton isn't within reach.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you've a notion of notions, why here is a list you'll like.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Objects in motion catch the eye quicker than those that remain stationary; that's why the outgoing of desirable goods from this store is positively dazzling.—The New Store, Minneapolis, Minn.

Take a notion and buy your notions now. There's going to be a sale of these much-needed things and substantial savings are to be made on every item. And such notions! Not the cheap, trashy kinds so often found in sales of this character, but good, honest notions—the bring-you-back-agin kind, for which the Kaufman store has always been noted.—Kaufman's, Trenton, N. J.

Vacation sale of notions. A saving on everything. Save a penny on a 5c. spool of silk, a hundred dollars on a $1,500 automobile—you've done a great deal better, proportionately, on the silk. If everybody would remember the old Scotch "monie a mickle mak's a muckle," the store wouldn't hold all who would come for these excellent notions, priced under the usual for this sale. But many a thrifty woman will buy a year's supply ahead—and save enough for several trolley rides on hot evenings.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

A little of everything at less prices than usual because you know these are the days of mid-summer clearance and we put things on the notion counter to move them rapidly.—The 14th St. Store, New York.

Nominal prices for notions.—A large line of sewing accessories—the little things that mount up in the aggregate, but which every woman has to have—at prices that are merely nominal.—McKelvey's, Youngstown, O.

Notions.—This department contains more articles—more of the little things required in every household, more of the better class—the reliable grades of notions and dress findings than one usually sees in a single store. We are first particular to have the article good, then we put upon it the lowest possible price.—Denver Dry Goods Co., Denver, Colo.

A most important sale of notions.—Important, even though these are little things costing but a few cents apiece at full prices. Important because it offers the very best of these little things for a small fraction of their worth. Doubly important because the sale comes just when everybody's sewing room is at its busiest and everybody's head is full of dressmaking plans. Abraham & Straus' Notion Sales have come to be famous for value giving. Isn't it enough when we say that these are the biggest notion bargains we ever had?—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Yesterday's notion selling here crossed the high water mark for the first day. As we write now, the second day bids fair to be equally good or better. Every day should grow better with such values as these. Are you providing as you should provide for the months to come in everything needed for the toilet, sewing room, and for many other needs about the house and for traveling?—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Matchless notion sale.—Little things for little money—the things that appear but trifles when in profusion, but as valuable as jewels when needed and not at hand. A sale of mammoth proportions—presenting en masse the thousands of little things in every day use in sewing room, the nursery, the boudoir. Their utility makes them a necessity; their cheapness places them outside the pale of luxuries. Every shrewd, economical woman will replenish her work basket, pin trays and other receptacles for women's appurtenances so indescribable to a man. We have been weeks in planning this sale and getting together its concomitant parts in quantities to supply the demands such a sale is bound to create. Monday morning will crowd our aisle with busy shoppers for these merchandising plums so much underpriced.—The Hamburger Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

More notions. Just when everybody needs them we have assembled a great stock of the very best notions and dress-makers' supplies that can be bought and pushed the prices down as low as they have ever been here—lower than they have ever been outside this store. We cannot fill mail or telephone orders or send these little things C. O. D. Mark the things you want, cut out the list and bring it with you to-morrow.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Spring sale of notions. Every sewing machine is running at high speed these days, for there are dresses and waists to be made, and spring is here to stay. At such a time this notion sale will appeal strongly to hundreds of women. A handful of supplies for the workbasket can be bought for a few pennies—enough to last for months can be had for a dollar. And besides the needs for sewing there are supplies for the dressing table and the bath, and all at mites of prices.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

Our new spring line of shell goods, including side combs, back combs, pompadour combs, hair pins, hair retainers, etc., has just arrived and if your stock needs replenishing now would be a good time for you to make selections before some of the more popular styles have been picked out. If you like the kind that won't split or pull your hair, this is the place to get them.—M. Goldwater & Bros., Phoenix, Ariz.

Fans and frames. A representative Loeser showing. The white and silver window on the Fulton street side is worth a special trip down town this week, because of the beauty of the new fans and frames therein, and because the showing is particularly indicative of Loeser service in the exclusive and high-class novelties for which this store is noted.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A notable list of notion prices. The kind of notions that you know and have used. The kind of notions we don't hesitate to put a Gamble-Desmond guarantee on. So don't hesitate over any of them because they're lower than this kind of notions have ever been quoted at before.—The Gamble-Desmond Co., New Haven.

Fancy hose supporters. Why not select a pair of hose supporters? They will make most dainty and acceptable Christmas gifts. Notion store's display is a most elaborate one. Fancy side hose supporters in shirred ribbon and fancy frilled elastic, 45 cents to $2 a pair. The shirred hose supporters are made up with plain and fancy ribbons, brocaded silks, and chiffons.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Beautiful examples of little things in notions. The first sight to-morrow in the way of a preliminary opening. Like first-nighters at the play the critics always come out on the first showing of the season's line of novelties. It is their province to criticise and point out defects and suggest improvements; it is our duty to follow their suggestions. Nothing is more appreciated in this department than comments, and we do not long for everything commendatory.—Joseph Howe Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Exhibit of Paris small wares assembled for this sale. The present movement is the outgrowth of our semi-annual sales of notions. For years we have been working with the Paris manufacturers to secure their co-operation along such lines as have made our notion sales so successful. We have now fully accomplished it and obtained the greatest and finest collection of imported little notions ever shown at domestic prices. This shipment usually arrives about Feb. 15. This year we are fortunate in getting it in now. These exquisite small things are marked at prices as correspondingly low as our domestic goods. We call your attention particularly to the exclusive Parisian fans of ingenious patterns.—The Edw. Malley Co., New Haven, Conn.

Some sensible suggestions.—Not sensible suggestions just because we make them, but because they suggest really useful things for Christmas gifts.—Danbury Hardware Co., Danbury, Ct.

OPTICAL GOODS

"That drug clerk is a chump. I kept winking my eye for a 'stick' in the soda."

"Did he give it to you?"

"No. He said there must be something the matter with my eyes and directed me to the optical department."—Chicago News.

They are skeleton frames, with the best quality lenses, and each purchaser will be as carefully fitted as if the regular price were charged. This price doesn't cover the actual cost of the gold. We offer this remarkable chance as an advertisement for our Optical Department. As soon as it becomes generally known that we have a Prominent Physician and Oculist in this department we will not have enough room to accommodate the demand. Remember, you get the same professional attention here as you would in the eye hospital, and we charge only for the glasses.—Ehrich Bros., New York, N. Y.

The patent offset Zylite guards, fitted to the curvature of the nose, that do not slip or pinch in hot weather or cold. Clear, flawless, imported periscopic crystal lenses; these things make up the perfect eyeglass. You ask: "Can my eyes be tested and properly fitted with glasses at a Department Store?" Elsewhere—we don't know. Here—Yes! Why? Because we employ for this purpose practical opticians with years of experience.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

Tired eyes, headaches, etc., are often permanently cured by the use of good eyeglasses or spectacles. Suppose "Specs" do make you look a little older. What matter? Better save your sight while you can. Our eyes are open to discover defects in yours, if you will give us the opportunity.—Skeoch, Scranton, Pa.

Guard your eyesight by having your eyes examined at the first sign of weakness. Some persons incur the grave risk of losing their sight by neglecting nature's warnings, simply because they are afraid of the expense. By coming to me the expense is reduced to the minimum consistent with the best work. My oculists and eye surgeons will examine your eyes and give you the most trustworthy advice about charge. If glasses are needed I will furnish the right kind

Many children are allowed to wink and blink through the hours of study with a book six or eight inches from their eyes. Greater demands are now made upon the eyes of children than formerly. Every child should have their eyes examined and the eyes should have relief and help to do their work.—Geo. D. Kendall, Pueblo, Colo.

Eyes right? You will get more enjoyment out of your summer if they are. You will get more enjoyment out of your life if they are. Eye trouble shows itself in various disagreeable ways. Often headaches that won't yield to ordinary treatment are due to eye strain. A part of this store's good service is devoted to keeping Brooklyn eyes right. It is a service conducted on the highest plane of excellence. A graduate optician who has been here for years is at your command always. Your eyes will be subjected to a careful and complete examination without charge. If they are all right and simply tired, we will tell you so. If they need corrective glasses we will tell you so, and if you wish it, will make glasses properly and for less expense than reliable glasses usually cost. If you need treatment by an oculist, we will tell you so—we do not give such treatment, but there are a number of well known men in Brooklyn who do. Be sure your eyes are right. It is a duty you owe to yourself.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

It's a changed world to old folks, folks whose time-dimmed eyes are made young again through the magic of right-fitting glasses; and this pleasure and comfort costs so little measured by its value, there should be none who may say "they can't see as they used to."—J. P. Ernst, Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Does the sun hurt your eyes? Generally it means a defect of vision. A call at our optical department will satisfy you on this point.—Feagon's, Joliet.

"Kryptok" invisible bifocal glasses combine both reading and distance glasses in a single frame with a smooth, unbroken surface—without crack or line—thus doing away with the lines of division and other objectionable features that are confusing to the sight in the old style bifocal glasses. They are an article that will suit particular people who appreciate superior workmanship.—Julius R. Watts & Co., Atlanta, Ga.

A little care now may prevent them from wearing glasses all their lives. It costs nothing to have the eyes tested. It may cost a great deal if they are not tested. Bring the little ones in, and thus help them in their struggles for an education.—King & Metzger, Lexington.

Many persons are prejudiced against the wearing of glasses and sometimes positively decline to use them even when they are imperatively needed. They may be sensible persons and display good judgment in other matters, but in this one respect they act most foolishly and without any reason. A contest with age is hopeless, and it is the part of wisdom to yield gracefully to the first summons to surrender.—Mulford, Memphis, Tenn.

It's an act of folly to wear glasses where there is no necessity for them; but if you have any trouble whatever with your eyes, it is also an act of folly not to have a specialist examine them. If you are in doubt, consult Farmer, the Optician, and you will not regret it.—Fred D. Farmer, Saginaw, Mich.

Accidents will happen. Glasses do break. If you have any trouble with your glasses, we will repair them and make them new. We do all repairs promptly at very reasonable prices. We make it a specialty of filling oculists' prescriptions. Come to us for any eyesight troubles.—Nicole's Jewelry Store, Fall River, Mass.

While you're looking, do not overlook the fact that we fit eyes and grind lenses and make frames to order. Glasses improperly fitted are worse than no glasses at all. We fit them properly—we guarantee we carry full line of optical goods at right prices.—C. C. Miller, Massillon.

Women's work's so trying on the eyes. If there is any strain felt when sewing or reading, you should have us test your eyes for a pair of spectacles or eye glasses to assist the vision. Our work is acknowledged to be the best, our prices the most reasonable. Try us on your next pair of glasses.—Adolf Frese, Los Angeles, Cal.

Trust us with your eyes.—This is an absolutely safe place to bring your eyes when they are not seeing satisfactorily. We have taken a four years' course in optics—as much time as any dentist spends in studying dentistry or as a lawyer spends in studying law—and with ten years of experience added to our knowledge, makes satisfactory glass fitting a certainty here. But we charge you nothing for our knowledge. When you buy glasses here you get what we know to be perfectly suited to your eyes, and you pay only for the glasses.—Ricker & Son, Emporia, Kans.

Good to look at, better to look through. Our eyeglasses are not only made to fit the sight perfectly, but are made to improve the appearance as well.—Frank V. Kent & Co., Grand Forks, N. D.

Eyes! Eyes! Why do you neglect them so? If you have frequent headache, if you do not see as good as you once did, if your eyes tire easily you should come and have them examined, it will cost you nothing and I'll tell you whether or not they need glasses.—C. B. Garrettson, Kenton, Ohio.

It saves you money and time when you come to us to get treatment for your eyes. We're exceedingly careful in examining and prescribing. Our glasses will relieve that aching sensation in your optical nerves. A few dollars spent with us will permanently cure your trouble.—C. J. Duncan, Massillon, O.

Headache stops. Do your eyes pain you? Is your vision blurred? Do tears flow too freely? Is distant vision dim? Do your eyes feel as tired in the morning, after a good night's rest, as they do in the evening? Remember all these troubles and many more can be entirely done away with. Let us examine your eyes and fit you with the proper correction in lenses. And you will see for yourself how much more pleasure there is in this life for you.—H. M. Smith, Fairfax, Mo.

Don't wear the yoke of ill-fitting glasses another day. You can't afford to dilly-dally with your sight. Better let us examine your eyes and restore your lost power of vision. We can fit you with glasses warranted to give you the best results attainable.—Frank V. Kent & Co., Grand Forks, N. D.

The hardest strain upon eyes is when looking at objects near by. Reading and sewing becomes tiresome at once to weak eyes. If you will wear glasses when your eyes first complain, it will only be necessary to wear them at work. If you let them go too long you will have to wear them always.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

How about your eyes? Does the bright sun make you blink and squint? Are you troubled with occasional headaches? Do you sometimes see little black specks when looking into the distance? Do your eyes run water when you face the wind? If so, there's something wrong. Maybe you need glasses and maybe you don't. If you consult our optician it won't cost you a cent to find out where the trouble lies.—The B'way Department Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

An eye point.—If you want perfect vision—you should have your eyes examined often. A slight correction promptly attended to, may insure you perfect eyes to the end of your life! We will measure your eyes—overcome the defects—and insure you most satisfactory vision.—The S. Galeski Optical Company, Richmond, Va.

Our Guarantee—"A dollar is worth 100 cents; would you pay more?" We do not pretend to say what others should charge for their glasses, but we do say and guarantee you a perfect-fitting pair of the celebrated Gladimere Lenses for $1.85. Ask any reputable optician for the name of his best lenses. He will answer "Gladimere." We also give you with these lenses a pair of solid gold-filled frames absolutely free, with a written guarantee for five years.—Guarantee Optical Co., Memphis, Tenn.

They're the smartest and most becoming style worn to-day—very light in weight, yet strong and durable—fitted with silex crystal periscopic lenses.—Bloomingtondale's, New York.

Our method of examination is the result of practical scientific experience. We have all the very latest appliances for examining the eye. Our Dr. Truth can tell you positively just what your trouble is, and advise you accordingly. By using our Ophthalmoscope and Retinoscope he can determine at once the requirements necessary to give you a perfect-fitting pair of glasses.—Guarantee Optical Co., Memphis, Tenn.

As soon as it becomes generally known that we have a prominent physician and oculist in this department we will not have enough room to accommodate the demand. Remember, you get the same professional attention here as you would in an eye hospital, and we charge only for the glasses.—Ehrich Bros., New York.

Most people, you included, perhaps, are extremely negligent in the care of their eyes, and very culpably so in regard to their children's eyes. The public generally has no idea of the number and variety of present-day eye defects and often resort to glasses selected at random which are entirely unsuited to the conditions of the eye. Many glasses selected in this way which "seem to suit exactly" at first, prove most injurious and often result in permanent injury. Come and talk over your eye trouble with us.—W. S. Harrington & Co., Trenton.

We sell glasses on their merits—if their merits will not sell them they are dear at any old price. Don't cheat your eyes and think you are saving money. Like a thief at night poorly ground and poorly fitted glasses steal away your eyesight.—Tripp Bradley Optical Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Every pair is scientifically made, rimless style, fitted with silex crystal pure white periscopic lenses, gold springs and non-tilting nose rests which prevent slipping.—Bloomingtondale's, New York.

Under the supervision of a licensed optician, who will examine your eyes and prescribe for you free of charge, we execute your oculist's prescription for at least one-third less than the charges made elsewhere for similar services.—Macy's, New York.

You do or you don't need eyeglasses or spectacles, but do you know whether you do or you don't? It's likely you don't unless you have had your eyes examined by an oculist or optician, because they may have unsuspected defects. Why not know for certain, when the knowledge will cost you nothing and may save you unnecessary suffering?—Fred D. Farmer, Saginaw.

Don't send the little one off to school handicapped with poor eyesight. Clear sight means quick thought, and the ability to think quickly brings success. Parents who realize this responsibility for the future success of their children will not delay in having this very important question decided. If glasses are not needed we'll be glad to tell you so; if they are, you, as a parent, will be glad to know, and have us fit them. We charge nothing for examination. Is there any reason for further delay?—J. Wiss & Sons, Newark, N. J.

Of course all eyeglasses should be helpful—but are they? No, indeed. Unless the glasses are accurately fitted and are of the exact strength needed to correct the defect, they will be far from helpful—they will be absolutely hurtful. To get the right glasses you must go to an optician of proved ability—one who has by study and practical experience acquired the knowledge necessary for this important work.—L. Alexander, Brooklyn, N. Y.

When the evenings are cold and the wind whistles around the house, there is nothing much to do but read, or play games. All of which taxes the eyes. Winter will be a long time here and you will use your eyes every evening. Therefore, see that they are perfect, and if they are not, we will fit them so that they will be. And at reasonable cost.—H. F. Kent & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

When you find your little camera no longer big enough, bring it to our photo supply house and we will allow you a good, fair price for it in exchange for a larger one. If you cannot afford to own a camera you can always rent one of us for little outings, picnics, boat rides, circuses, first babies, etc., ad libitum. The thought of cameras suggests that other camera, the eye. Just as we daily test cameras to see if the lenses focus correctly, so do we daily test eyes, and we can point to innumerable pairs of eyes that have been made perfect by our glasses.—H. F. Kent & Co., Binghamton.

A pair of good eyes may grow constantly stronger and keener in hard and continuous work, and retain their vigor as long, if not longer, than any other organ of the body. But when one discerns a hint of dimness, a tired feeling, and ache in the eyeballs, or repeating headaches, then glasses may be of great service in preventing serious trouble. Only be sure you begin with the right glass. It is my business to furnish you that.—F. M. Jenkins, New Bedford.

At the first sign of trouble with your vision you should consult our graduate optician. He is an expert of eighteen years' experience and he will tell you exactly without asking a question, what that trouble is and what you should do to overcome the difficulty. Consultation free.—Hofman's, Springfield, Ohio.

Don't neglect your eyes. You owe it to yourself to at least have them examined periodically. Clear sight is necessary to your health and success. Our expert tests your vision without charge or fees of any kind. When glasses are required he will supply them to suit your own particular needs. All work guaranteed.—J. Wiss & Sons, Newark, N. J.

Dangerous folly. It is folly to let an incompetent experiment with your eyes in an endeavor to fit them with glasses; it is not only folly, but it is dangerous and expensive. To fully grasp and thoroughly understand the intricate mechanism of the eye requires years of patient study and practical experience. You commit no folly when you come to me for glasses. My specially ground lenses are not an expensive and dangerous experiment; they are an accurate, scientific certainty.—Dr. Kletzky, Pueblo, Colo.

When we make eyeglasses for you that do not suit you need not keep them. If any part of the fittings break we replace the broken part without charge. We guarantee all this in writing when you order your eyeglasses. All the "risk" of success is ours—all the relief is yours.—L. B. Hibborn, Newark, N. J.

The eye is the mirror of the soul! Its care should be one of the prime cares of every man and woman. Your eyes will give you trouble sometimes—everyone does. Don't delay. Come and see us.—Jud S. Newing, Binghamton, N. Y.

If you want to get the best optical goods at the most reasonable prices, come to us. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. No charge for examination. Skillful lady optician always in attendance. Remember the name and place.—S. B. Dembo, Binghamton, N. Y.

He sees best who sees the consequences. Do you realize the serious consequences of continued eye strain? Priceless beyond all other possessions is the eye-sight, and it deserves your highest consideration. Don't trifle with your eyes! Examination free. Perfect fitting guaranteed.—Jud S. Newing, Binghamton, N. Y.

What's wrong? Your eyes? Why? Probably you need glasses. Call in and let us examine your eyes. They may be the cause of your headaches.—Soggs, Binghamton, N. Y.

See All Over the World—or read ordinary print with ease if you have glasses which are accurately fitted. Our optical department can supply, at very low prices, eyeglasses and spectacles in all cases where there are no complications. If a prescription is necessary, the cost of making the glasses will be slightly more. Examination by a graduate optician free.—W. C. Forbes, St. Thomas, Ont.

A correctly built eye should not tire easily. For the eye is but a camera permanently focussed for everything from say twenty feet to infinity. Every visible thing, from about twenty feet on, sends rays which enter the eye easily, and without effort on your part, form its own inverted image on the back of the eye. If from inheritance, disease, blows, etc., the eye is not quite round the image is slightly distorted. Then how do you see well at all? By forcing the image into shape by straining that delicate inner lens, the crystalline. Are you willing to?—H. F. Kent & Co., Binghamton.

Wiss Optical Work is accurate—we do not fit glasses by guessing and the use of big words. We can prove to you, in plain language, the absolute necessity for any lens we prescribe and guarantee satisfactory results. Examinations without a cent of cost.—J. Wiss & Sons, Newark, N. J.

An optometrist is an optician who has thoroughly mastered the science of diagnosing eye conditions and making lenses to meet exactly any individual need. Diamond Hall's optometrist has made special study also of artistic adaptation of glasses to facial features. Engage his services and put your eyes at ease.—Ryrie Bros., Toronto, Can.

Cold weather causes shrinkage of skin, loose fitting, tilting and slipping off of eye-glasses with ordinary nose-pieces. This is positively avoided by using Fox Lasso nose-pieces on your glasses. Their spring adjusts itself to any shrinkage. They give exclusive style to the eye-glasses and cost no more than the others.—Geo. R. Fox, Buffalo, N. Y.

We are often asked why so many people wear glasses. Statistics prove that fully 75 per cent. of all functional nervous diseases are due to eye strain, and can be corrected by properly fitted glasses.—The King Optical Co., Spokane, Wash.

Don't be blind to your own interest; to that interest which promises health and good eyesight, by wearing cheap glasses, unsuited to the defects of your eye, when you can get the best, and a thorough examination at a reasonable price.—W. J. Davis, D. O., Woonsocket.

It's the condition of the eyes not the age of the person which determines whether glasses are needed or not. Thousands of children wear glasses, because they need them. Thousands of other people don't wear them, because they don't need them. Weak eyes should be assisted—made strong. Glasses will do it if they are the right kind.—W. R. Jackson, St. Thomas, Ont.

Wearing glasses constantly in after-life may be avoided if the child's eyes have early attention. If it cannot see the characters upon the board easily, or holds its book too close or too far away, or is drowsy and listless and has headache, it needs glasses that will check the trouble. Our optician's work and prices will suit you. Eyes tested free.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

The most careful tests are necessary to determine the exact nature of your eye needs—separate scientific examination. If you'll drop in I will examine your eyes, and a lens to fit each eye will, if necessary, be made for you.—F. M. Jenkins, New Bedford, Mass.

Beauty isn't always discounted by a pair of nose-glasses. Very often it is enhanced. One always looks more intellectual when wearing glasses. Don't wear glasses if you don't need them, simply because they are becoming; but don't go without them for any reason if you do need them. Vanity must not trifle with wisdom.—H. B. Wood, New Haven, Conn.

Good to look at but better to look through. Our eyeglasses are not only made to fit the sight perfectly, but are made to improve the appearance as well. They are cut from the finest French crystal and Brazilian pebbles to remedy all defects of vision, and are perfectly adjusted. Don't neglect your sight, but have it attended to at once.—Frank V. Kent & Co., Grand Forks, N. D.

There should be a fellow feeling between the spectacles and the eyes. It is more important to have your glasses fit your vision than to have your clothes fit your form.—From "Eye Lore."

There is no duty that you more imperatively owe to your children than that of having their eyes regularly examined by a careful and competent optician.—R. C. Reynolds, St. Louis, Mo.

Glasses cure headaches. When headaches are due to eye-strain they can be cured by the use of proper fitting glasses. An oculist only should be consulted, as he alone can determine whether the headaches are really due to eye-strain, as they may be due to some disease of the eye, or even to some general disease. In the latter case it is treatment and not glasses that is needed.—Dr. E. S. Heisg, Houston, Tex.

We all use our eyes for near work, more or less, such as reading, writing, sewing, etc., and the eyes must be in perfect condition to do their work well and not cause trouble. Perhaps you have been using your eyes for near work several hours a day for some years without any trouble. Suddenly there is a blur or waving to the object, or the head aches at times, or dizziness, which will disappear by closing the eyes, and there are many other symptoms which lead us to think come from straining the eyes. If you would like to know whether your eyes are all right or not, I can tell you, in a few minutes, if you will step into No. 64 Pleasant street, opposite City Hall.—F. M. Jenkins, New Bedford, Mass.

The terrible diseases of the eye that come from prolonged neglect and abuse the optician cannot cure. These are the field of the eye-surgeon. But the organ's minor troubles—these are the optician's domain. And it is the minor troubles that, neglected, unchecked, become major troubles. It is a small matter—one of life's minor details—to have one's sight regularly tested. But what suffering it may save! It is the little things of life that eventually count, for weal or woe.—From the booklet, "Eye Lore," a Treatise on ye Care and Preservation of ye "Windows of ye Soule."

The verses on this and the preceding page are from a thirty-two page illustrated booklet called "Eye-lore," which is published by William Borsodi, 99 Nassau street, New York. The booklet is an example of what is known as syndicate advertising. It contains arguments that can be used by any optician, and is furnished with the name, address and advertisement of the buyer. It is enclosed in a three-color cover. The booklet was written by the editor of this paper.

The time to see about your eyes is right now, before they have been permanently injured by continued straining, neglect or faulty glasses. Glasses that are right not only preserve the sight, but relieve headache, eye-ache and any of the numerous effects of defective vision or eye-strain. We are pleased to state that our sight-testing is free—that glasses are guaranteed to be satisfactory.—Pettis Dry Goods Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Your eyes are your bread-winners—take care of them. If you would think what it means to be deprived of your eyesight—how utterly helpless you would be if you couldn't see things—you would not abuse your eyes in the least, but would take the greatest care of them. The moment you feel that anything is wrong—if your sight is blurred, if you feel dizzy, or if your eyes tire easily—you shouldn't lose a moment in having them examined. By being prompt in attending to your eyes at the first signs of trouble you will be able to have the defect speedily and permanently corrected.—F. B. Alexander, Newark, N. J.

About the looks of glasses. A great many people don't stop to think of how a pair of ill-fitting glasses mar the looks of a person. Now if you have to be a glass wearer, don't wear a slouchy looking pair. People can't help but notice how awkward and ungainly they look.

The best face you ever saw can be entirely changed, so to speak, by such glasses as we are talking about. On the other hand, if they are worn of the rimless kind, proportioned in every way to suit the features, they will not in any way detract from the looks of the wearer.—J. C. Sharer, Alliance, Ohio.

A pleased expression. The eyes must be fitted perfectly to insure the pleased expression which denotes physical comfort. Our optician is an expert in the selection of proper glasses to overcome all defects of the eyesight.—E. O. Zadek Jewelry Co., Mobile, Ala.

How often have you heard this very remark: "Why, I remember when it was a rare thing to see a young or middle aged person wearing glasses." The spectacle habit cannot be ascribed entirely to defective vision, a loss of optical power, but is due rather to the better knowledge that people have of the importance of affording the eyes every help in performing their very important work, for the demands and exactions laid upon these delicate and sensitive organs keep increasing continually. There are many people who do not know that they need glasses until they have almost ruined their eyes.—John G. Meyer's Estate, Albany, N. Y.

In a great many instances eyeglasses are worn which have never been properly fitted to the wearer. My optician is an expert in securing a perfect adjustment, which means that the glasses are comfortable and improve the sight.—T. C. Tanke, Buffalo, N. Y.

Owls have been called wise, since one, a long time ago, discovered that he needed glasses and immediately put them on. You who are working your eyes blind should emulate the owl—put a pair of glasses between your eye weakness and the world. Don't let it go any farther.—Adolf Freese, Los Angeles.

Getting around optical difficulties is easy when knowledge makes the way clear and the instruments are at hand with which to achieve satisfaction. We mend your eyes if they have any defect. Glasses are needed if your eyes are weak. When the eyes fail they fail rapidly and spectacles like reinforcements to a retreating army are an immediate necessity.—Cox's, Denver, Col.

When the letters blur it's nature's warning that something is wrong with the eyes. Good eyes mean a living to most of us—and can't be neglected. An examination will show whether they are actually diseased or merely tired out.—Van Wert's, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Shakespeare and the Bible don't escape criticism. Many a man is a critic because he likes to be contrary. You can go contrary to the wishes of your friends and neighbors, and sometimes get the best of them; but attempt to go contrary to the dictates of Nature, and you always get the worst of it. There is no use to "kick" about wearing glasses. If Nature says spectacles, why, spectacles it must be.—W. J. Davis, D. O., Woonsocket, R. I.

Few people realize the value of their eyes. The benefit of perfectly fitted glasses cannot be overestimated. We have made a thorough study of this subject and are prepared to fit glasses scientifically. Come to us with your eye troubles. All diseases of the eye correctly diagnosed without the use of drops. We make no charge for examinations.—W. F. Sellers & Co., Altoona.

Glasses for all ages.—Our circle of clients includes people of all ages from children to octogenarians, and the beauty of it is that we please them all. Whatever your oculist may prescribe for you—whatever you will permit us to select for you—will be found to be satisfactory in every respect. Put us to the test—you'll not be sorry.—Frank V. Kent & Co., Grand Forks, N. D.

Here are strong reasons why you should come to me when you need eye-glasses: Because my famous $1.00 eye-glasses have no equal for the money throughout the breadth of this land. They are not the kind of dollar glasses sold elsewhere. They are worth many times a dollar. Because my experience of thirty years in fitting eyes with proper glasses enables me to determine with absolute certainty just the kind you need. Because by coming to me you will get the best service and the very best glasses for the least money. Because my stores and my factories contain every new and improved appliance for testing eyes and grinding lenses. Because I maintain a staff of oculists and eye surgeons the equal of any in the city. Because they will examine your eyes and give you the best possible advice free of charge.—L. Alexander, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Eyes examined free. By this we mean a careful, scientific test.—O'Gorman Co., Providence, R. I.

Eyes trouble you now? What will they be worth ten years from now unless you care for them at once? Do you fully realize the danger of neglect? But neglect is not all. There is also the danger of mistreatment. There is no mistreatment more serious than wrong glasses. Wrong glasses are glasses not suited to your eyes, glasses fitted after a pretence at examination, glasses chosen from a trayful by trying on one pair after another, glasses bought over a bargain counter and fitted by a dealer, not by an optical specialist. If you want your glasses absolutely correct and are unwilling to have your eyes tampered with, better bring your eye troubles to me and make sure.—M. H. Harris, New York.

The right kind of eye-glasses are the only kind worth having. Right eye glasses mean improved sight and benefited eyes. Wrong glasses mean injured eyes followed by blindness. Thousands have been benefited by my skill and accuracy, but no one ever got a wrong pair of glasses from me. I know the danger of improper glasses. I know how precious eyesight is, and I am therefore so careful that incorrect glasses are an impossibility here. You can come to me with absolute confidence. And with all this assurance of accuracy it will cost you less to get your glasses from me than from any other first-class optician. No one charges so little as I.—L. Alexander, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Defects of the eye and eye strain may be remedied by the use of lenses which must be accurately fitted. Hardly less important than the lenses are the fitting and proper adjustment of spectacles and eye-glasses to the nose. Lenses which have been prescribed with the greatest skill and accuracy are often so worn as to fail entirely of their purpose. Indeed their false adjustment may produce the very opposite results and thus prove harmful to the eyes. Bring your eye troubles to us.—Taylor, Hartford, Conn.

All styles and kinds of frames for eye-glasses and spectacles—that is, all styles of the good kind—we handle no other. Nose pieces to suit every nose; frames to suit every purse; made to order, if need be; made to fit in any event. Of course the lenses we supply are on a par with the frames. Every eye aid here.—The G. W. Jewelry Co., Peoria, Ill.

Defective eyesight may have its humorous sides, but it may also cause mistakes or more serious accidents. Many cases of impairment of the vision can be readily cured by glasses properly adjusted. If you have any difficulty with your eyes do not delay or trifle with them. A consultation with Kent will put you right.—Frank V. Kent & Co., Grand Forks, N. D.

The great army of glass wearers in this community have mostly been fitted at our place. The reason is on account of our exact work. No person is ever advised by us to use glasses unless they are necessary. But when we do, our fitting is absolute. If you suffer from headache, or poor vision, we would be pleased to have you call and we will gladly tell you without charge the true condition of your eyes.—J. C. Sharer, Alliance, O.

Good vision assured with every pair of glasses we fit. Comfort glasses, contentment glasses, perfect fitting glasses. We will sell you a perfect fitting pair of glasses that will make you feel contented and be a comfort at work of any kind. Why not know for certain whether you need glasses or not when the knowledge will cost you nothing and may save you from unnecessary suffering from headaches, nervousness, etc.—Herman Hiss & Co., Bay City, Mich.

A correct eye and the skillful hand will always work in harmony if the impaired eyesight is properly treated. Use glasses furnished by Nihart, the Optician, if your eyes show indications of giving out, and you will preserve your sight.—Chas. L. Nihart, Muncie, Ind.

A hard headache is often the result of straining the eyes. The only way to prevent the headaches is to remove the cause. Have the eyes fitted with glasses that will prevent eye-strain. Our fitting will enable you to read and work with ease to your eyes. The examination of the eyes is free of charge.—Pope Optical Co., Worcester, Mass.

Stop and think about your eyes. They often pain you a little. You simply give them a rest, and you are relieved. But they ought not to pain you with ordinary use. There is something wrong. Let me test them. I make no charge for that. And if you need glasses, or if it comes from some other cause, I will tell you.—F. M. Jenkins, New Bedford.

Every one needs glasses, especially when he gets on the shady side of 40 years, but he should be sure he gets the right kind. Those that suit his eyes exactly; neither too weak nor too strong. Get them at Nihart's, and you'll be sure to have them right.—Chas. L. Nihart, Muncie, Ind.

Eyesight is of such great value that one ought to take more than ordinary precaution to guard against trouble. If you have a suspicion that there is any trouble with your eyes, you should have them examined at once. Ours is the foremost, largest and best-equipped optical establishment in Joliet. We won't charge you one penny to tell you exactly the condition of your eyes.—Geo. E. Feagans, Joliet, Ill.

Eye ease.—A pair of properly fitted glasses will give you a world of comfort that you will scarcely realize with defective vision. The best advice we can give you is to have us fit your eyes with glasses that are guaranteed to conform to their defects. But above all, don't get a pair of cheap glasses that "will do for now." They will bother you constantly and may injure your eyes permanently.—Ricker & Son, Emporia.

It saves you money and time when you come to us to get treatment for your eyes. We're exceedingly careful in examining and prescribing. Our glasses will relieve that aching sensation in your optical nerves. A few dollars spent with us will permanently cure your trouble.—C. J. Duncan, Massilon, Ohio.

When you see a nice-fitting, neat pair of glasses on a happy, smiling face, it came from here. When you see an old, twisted, crooked pair on a wrinkled, twisted, sour face, it didn't.—Dr. Arthur N. Baker, Logansport, Ind.

Satisfactory sight.—When you come here to have your eyes fitted with glasses you are protected by a double guarantee. Our guarantee, that the glasses must give satisfaction or your money returned. Second, the guarantee which comes from the work we have already done. We have fitted satisfactorily every pair of glasses that have ever gone out of here. That is a guarantee that we can and will do the same for your eyes.—Ricker & Son, Emporia, Kan.

They are skeleton frames, with the best quality lenses, and each purchaser will be as carefully fitted as if the regular price were charged. This price doesn't cover the actual cost of the gold. We offer this remarkable chance as an advertisement for our optical department. As soon as it becomes generally known that we have prominent physicians and oculists in this department we will not have enough room to accommodate the demand. Remember, you get the same professional attention here as you would in an eye hospital, and we charge only for the glasses. Department is in charge of an optical expert of established reputation.—Ehrich Bros., New York, N. Y.

Wrong spectacles are worse sometimes than none. If in doubt about your present glasses or eyes, we will examine your eyes thoroughly and advise you honestly.—Campbell & Girard, Worcester, Mass.

Spectacles look large to you if you have never worn them. You put off getting them just as long as possible. Very often people injure their eyes by putting it off too long. Very frequently if you commence wearing glasses just as soon as you ought to use them you will only have to wear them a few months. They will correct your eyes. Save your eyes by protecting them. They are more important than your hands. Why not treat them as well? For the best glasses, see Keppler, Jewelry Co., Anaconda, Mont.

He Frowned.—“Full well the busy whisper, circling round, conveyed the dismal tidings that he frowned.” Goldsmith’s “Pedagogue” was a man of moods, and his pupils understood them. He frowned probably because his eyes were defective; it was an indication that he needed glasses, but in those days they were not to be had scientifically adjusted for such defect. You live in a different age, and we scientifically adjust glasses to correct any correctable eye defect.—T. J. Howe & Co., Louisville, Ky.

Eye-glass construction. The highest achievement in eyeglass construction is represented in our new model eyeglasses. Comfort, quality, durability, appearance and reasonable price leave nothing to be desired.—C. J. Monson, Jr. & Co., New Haven, Conn.

Eyeglasses. No fancy prices for optical goods at this store. No risk either, for we guarantee satisfaction or money refunded.—T. Eaton, Toronto, Can.

It is quite a trick to fit glasses to the eyes. Only the trained optician, with accurate, scientific instruments, can do it properly. The appointments of our testing room are modern and complete. Experience, skill and a thorough knowledge of the optical business enables us to fill the requirements of our customers with the utmost satisfaction.—Frank C. Hart, Tacoma, Wash.

Glasses That Fit.—We succeed because our glasses give perfect sight. The frame sets comfortably, each eye looking through the centre of the lens, the whole becoming to the wearer.—The E. H. Jackson Company, Simcoe, Ont.

Is it worth while to suffer from eye ache, headache or poor vision when relief is so near and can be had at such small cost? We make a thorough examination of the eyes without cost, and if glasses are needed furnish them at the lowest possible price. Perfect fitting guaranteed.—O. B. Jackson, South Norwalk, Conn.

Children’s Eyes should be well looked after, by taking care of the eyes when young. It means good sight when the child grows up. Nothing so disqualifies a person for life’s work as to have poor eyesight. It is your absolute duty to pay attention to the child when it complains. No one is more careful in fitting glasses for the young folks than are we. Our idea is to fit them so that their eyes will be so improved in a year or two, that they can leave off wearing them entirely.—J. C. Sharer, Alliance, O.

Comfort in reading can only be obtained by using glasses correctly fitted by one who knows how to do it; no guess work will do. Hundreds of Galvestonians can testify to what I have done for them in the way of fitting glasses.—Daniel Robinson, Galveston, Tex.

Only eye strain. Only eye strain indeed, but it is responsible for more headaches, nervousness and general discomfort than you give it credit for. If your eyes give you the slightest trouble, is it not the best policy to find out the cause?—O. B. Jackson, South Norwalk.

The pleasure of traveling is largely a matter of seeing—seeing scenery. A good field glass increases your seeing power a dozen times over and doubles your pleasure of traveling thereby. We can tell you a great deal about field glasses, for they are directly in the line of optical goods.—John L. Moore & Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

Bring eye troubles here, and get rid of them. That is—if glasses can cure them. We can’t make a new eye; neither will we attempt it, but we can help anyone that glasses can help. No stairs to climb.—R. B. Swift, Portland, Me.

How sad it is to see a child with cross eye or squint. Yet, parents, you ought to know that in 8 out of 10 cases of cross-eye the defect is caused by an error of refraction, the proper correction of which in nearly every case will straighten the eyes. You’ve tried glasses, and it didn’t work? Well, notice we said “the proper correction.” But don’t think it will be an easy matter if not attended to early.—Dr. E. Monson, Phoenix.

The exceedingly small cost of wearing eyeglasses of absolute correctness should permit of no compromise with those of uncertain merit.—Ryrie Bros., Toronto.

The rigid spring eye glasses. For quiet people who wear spectacles. For active people who golf, bowl, run, jump. For all people who have never yet found securely fitting eye glasses.—H. A. Knaber, Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you cannot see as well as you should, see O. B. Jackson, the Optician, Norwalk, Conn.

When your eyes are comfortable in reading you are to be congratulated; when they are not comfortable you should consult our optician, who will, if necessary, fit you with the proper glasses.—Dantzler & Dorenfield, Corsicana.

Blinking, squinting, are caused by weakness or strain. We can relieve these conditions—perhaps cure them. Consult our specialist.—Bastian Bros., Rochester, N. Y.

Eye strain does not mean impaired or poor vision. In the act of seeing we expend a certain amount of nervous energy of which we are totally unconscious when our eyes are in normal condition. If we experience a sensation of discomfort, especially in observing closely a small object, there is eye strain present, there is an overtax on your eye muscles—they rebel, eyes water, feel sandy, headaches. You can easily stop it with glasses.—L. A. Ott, Mansfield, Ohio.

Clear sight glasses. People who wear our glasses have comfort and good sight. Our glasses, too, look well. They have a refined appearance. To be able to see well is, perhaps, more desirable than anything else. This is just the point at which we are strong. We can supply glasses through which you can read with great distinctness. Eye testing with us is free.—Wanless & Co., Toronto, Can.

Take two pair of glasses to the country. You won't have to waste a day or more then in discomfort while new ones are being ground. If you are wise, you will have one pair mounted spectacles fashion—better for tennis, surf bathing, sailing—windy weather generally. If your glasses were made here—and you break them, send us a postal, phone or telegraph. We will have new ones ready in the shortest possible time and forward them to you. Wherever the glasses were made, if the broken bits are sent to us we will fill the prescription and the work will be done quickly and at less cost than glasses of the same character would cost you elsewhere.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Just splendid." We doubt whether there is any one little thing on earth that will afford an elderly person so much pleasure as to find a glass that will give them good vision after their eyes once begin to fail; something that will "make them see like they used to." Let us but once get a pair of our "so-easy nose rest" glasses on any one and we invite them

"try" others to their heart's content—such comparisons only brings out the superiority of our glasses and the excellence of our work. Examination free.—McHenry & Stevens, Zanesville, O.

Where eye troubles begin. Most eye troubles begin in childhood. A little abuse, a little strain early in life, means much more after maturity. The slightest symptom should be looked into. School children should have every advantage. Usually if glasses are prescribed in time, actual disease is prevented, and they can be discarded as the child grows older. Remember, we are here to stay, so if glasses are not right, they can be made so. Examination free.—Rushmer's, Pueblo, Col.

The first pair of glasses you wear should not be selected at haphazard, but should be devised by an experienced oculist after thorough examination of your eyes. And they should be right in the beginning and so prevent future impairment of your vision. A consultation with "Farmer," the optician, will place you on the right track. We have no agents on the road.—Fred D. Farmer, Saginaw, Mich.

When the letters run together when you read. That is one of the best evidences that you need glasses. This effort will surely result in loss of nerve energy if not permanent eye injury. You may stop this if you will by getting glasses that properly correct the defect. Remember we sell the Toric "Bisight," the only perfect one-piece lens for both distance and near. No matter what the age. It is to your interest to see us without delay.—J. M. Crawford & Co., Fresno, Cal.

Eyes wear out. Artificial light does your eyes no good. Most people are obliged to derive their mental sustenance with the help of either gas or electricity. Either works harm in the long run. A good pair of glasses is a sure preventative, and sometimes a cure. I have had a great deal of experience in treating eye troubles of all kinds.—Jud S. Newing, Binghamton, N. Y.

Saved by glasses. Depressed in spirits, head splitting, nerves unstrung, body weak, appetite absent, how likely are suicidal thoughts! Then, here's the oculist, the optician. Glasses save the day, mayhaps life. If your physical ills are due to eye trouble, have us examine your eyes free of cost and fix you with glasses to set the human machine working aright again.—Bauer Bros., Zanesville, Ohio.

Looking forward. Looking forward the year 1907 promises much for the progress and growth of the optical business. We think that no branch of science has made such strides as has optics within the past five years and more. We are adding machinery to our already splendid equipment that was hardly thought of even a year ago. Our ambition is to keep this store and its service squarely abreast of the newest and best in optical progress. Even now no better service is rendered on the Pacific coast, and, having very desirable Eastern connections, we shall continually strive for a higher and higher standard of optical excellence. We invite your patronage for 1907 with the assurance that you will be highly pleased with results.—J. M. Crawford & Co., Opticians, Fresno.

Any eye strain? We will make a thorough examination of your eyes; if you do not need glasses, or if those you have are all right, we will tell you so. If you do need them, we will tell you what it will cost to make them in the style you desire. You will be under no obligations to get them, nor even asked to purchase. If you conclude to get them, of course we will be glad to furnish them and you will be sure of getting the correct thing. This is the foundation of our reputation.—Sun Optical Mfg. Co., Inc., Trenton, N. J.

Do you have trouble with your eyeglasses, staying on or pinching your nose and making sore places? If so, you should try either the So Easy or Shur-on mounting. These glasses are made on a new principle, and hold without any unnecessary pressure, are comfortable and neat in appearance. We have them in all sizes and can fit almost every nose comfortably with them. Consult our opticians.—Millard F. Davis, Wilmington, Del.

"Look before you leap" into the uncertainty of inexperienced eye examination—otherwise your landing may be distressing if not disastrous. We engage to tell you nothing but the truth, though it may hurt you for a moment. A little pain now is better than a lot later on. We are experts in fitting eyes with appropriate glasses or spectacles at almost eye healing prices.—Bauer Bros., Zanesville, Ohio.

Eye-glasses are intended to remedy defects in vision. Any glass that fails to do this is harmful and should not be worn. Not if we can help it will we allow a purchaser of eyeglasses to retain them unless they render helpful service. You are to be the sole judge.

Satisfaction to you or your money back upon request. Skilled optical service and our fair prices make this possible. Such advantages we offer to patrons of our optical store.—Weinstock, Lubin & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Save your eyes. We have an expert optician who will examine your eyes free of charge and fit you with glasses if you require them—try us and avoid many headaches—the result of poorly fitted glasses.—Boston Store, Milwaukee.

Eye strain does not mean impaired or poor vision. In the act of seeing we expend a certain amount of nervous energy, of which we are totally unconscious when our eyes are in normal condition. If we experience a sensation of discomfort, especially in observing closely a small object, there is eye strain present, there is an overtax on your eye muscles—they rebel—eyes water—feel sandy—headaches. You can easily stop it—with glasses. Consult our Mr. Segall. He'll be glad to talk it over with you and you incur no obligation whatever in doing so.—El Paso Optical Co., El Paso.

Do you read easily? Ever have to move the book—or your head—a bit to make the print come just right? Or seek a stronger light? No need to worry—hundreds of just such cases come to us every week. Either your eyes are tired; they need simple rest glasses for a while for close work; or may be the vision is changing a bit, as it does about once in seven years with most people. The Loeser optical store has held an established position for many years. An experienced optician will examine your eyes free of charge. If you need the services of an oculist you will be told so. If simple glasses will help you they can be prepared here at less price than work of such character would cost you outside of Loeser service.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A pair of glasses. Don't "go it blind," don't think the world's come to an end, don't even swear, if you lose or break your eyeglasses or spectacles—simply come here and get a new pair. Won't cost as much as you think. Eyes examined free. Oculists' prescriptions filled. Everything optical at Geo. J. Chapman Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Weak eyes. Our expert optician, Mr. E. J. P. Massicotte, makes a specialty of supplying glasses to those whose eyes are only weak. He will tell you many interesting things about the care of your eyes, and save you from having to wear glasses all the time. Consultation free.—Z. Paquet's, Quebec, Can.

Three forms of eye trouble are commonly met with, any one of which may have existed from birth. Nature does not always make perfect eyes. We have near-sightedness, far-sightedness and astigmatism, which is a form of irregular sight. All of these defects require attention. If a child has any of these ocular defects and is expected to do close work of any kind, he must have his eyes carefully examined and wear such glasses as will correct the refraction of his eyes. As well expect a child born with one leg shorter than the other to walk without limping as to ask one born with imperfect vision to do accurate eye-work without suffering the consequences. Consultation free.—Earl W. Gooding, Refraction Specialist, Plymouth, Mass.

New invisible bifocal for "far" and "near" vision. This bifocal, known as the "California Optical Co.'s Invisible Bifocal," is ground by a special process by which the segments are practically invisible, their presence not being noticeable to the casual observer. To the wearer they allow the eyes to range up and down without annoyance so successfully that many who have been unable to wear other forms of bifocals can use them with pleasure. They can be made as thin as desired, and remember they have no large cemented surface to blur or fog.—Warner's, Fresno, Cal.

Then buy an automatic eyeglass holder and save your glasses. You always know where your glasses are. Made in gold, gold filled, silver, gun metal and enamel. All styles and prices.—F. N. Taylor, Hartford, Conn.

Do you wear Bifocals? If you do let us show you the new "Texas." It is absolutely the only correctly ground Bifocal on the market doing away with all prismatic effects which are so pronounced in other lenses of this make, besides being invisible. When made up in "Toric" lenses, they are a thing of beauty and style. Not only that, but "Texas" guarantees "Comfort." Come in and let us explain the manufacture of this glass. It will take only a few minutes and may be a benefit to you.—Texas Optical Co., Houston, Texas.

Wisdom suggests the propriety of caring for your eyes before they become permanently defective. Before you have to spend time, money and sacrifice comfort in undergoing eye treatment or perhaps an operation. In nothing is the old adage of "a stitch in time" more truly suggestive than in caring for your eyes. We can fit you perfectly with glasses. We can make them in our own shop in Fresno. They will have our personal impression from the prescription to your eyes. Make us your opticians. We'll make good.—J. M. Crawford & Co., Fresno, Cal.

Accurately fitted lenses are a boon to imperfect eyes, but mark the word accurately. If the examination is not methodical, if it is not scientific, if it is not exhaustive, there can be no accuracy in the prescription, and the chances are that a seeming benefit may result in a permanent injury.—David Kletzky, O. D., Pueblo, Col.

Looking out on the world through the medium of our perfectly fitted glasses you'll see it in a new light. Our success in filling the demands of the most exacting wearers of glasses is due to our use of the finest of lens and the utmost skill with the best scientific apparatus for testing the eyes and fitting glasses.—King & Metzger, Lexington, Ky.

The confidence placed in this house is well deserved. It is California's largest and best equipped optical house. Six stores and six factories are constantly engaged in caring for the optical needs of the public, and doing so conscientiously and well. Our latest and greatest eye-help is the Kryptok. This great glass gives clear reading and distant vision in one. It does away with two pairs. It has no lines across or pieces patched on and is perfect for this climate.—Chinn Berett Optical Co., Fresno, Cal.

Let us show you the Toric lens. It gives a much larger field of vision and is clearer than the ordinary lens. We like to have you examine our new styles of eyeglasses.—E. B. Meyrowitz, St. Paul, Minn.

Have opened offices, No. 29 N. Second St., and will be pleased to see all people suffering from eye troubles. Our Harrisburg office is in charge of Dr. Stevenson, who is a well-known Philadelphia oculist. No charge for examinations. Special clinic will be held Saturday morning for school children. Note—Dr. Stevenson was formerly associated with the late Drs. Keyser and Ernest Goodman, of the Wills Eye Hospital, Philadelphia.—The Philadelphia Optical Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

Your eyes are as valuable an asset as you have. Think what you would do without them. Yet how much care do they get from you? Watch the eyes. If they ache after steady use for some time; if you have headaches that you can't explain—go to a good optician and have your eyes examined.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Gold front eyeglasses. They are skeleton frames with the best quality lenses. This price doesn't cover the actual cost of the gold. The clips are the new kind which cannot slip and do not disfigure the nose. We offer this chance as an advertisement for our optical establishment. We want all eyeglass wearers to become acquainted with the New Haven Optical Co. This offer of $3 glasses for $1 includes the service of our eyesight specialists. They give each eye separately the most thorough examination, using only the latest and finest instruments. Absolute satisfaction guaranteed.—New Haven Optical Co., New Haven, Conn.

If you are thinking of buying new glasses or having your old ones repaired bear in mind these few valuable suggestions: We use only the best lenses, the best material. We make all our special lenses on the premises. We employ only skilled labor. We dispense high-grade goods at a low price. Try us.—The Harvey & Lewis Co., Opticians, New Haven, Conn.

Are you thinking? Or do you know that we have fitted hundreds with our compound astigmatic glasses and cured them entirely of their headaches? This bit of information may be of great value to you should you be a sufferer from like cause. Where astigmatism exists you will also find headache; they go hand in hand. A barrel of drugs will not remove the cause. There is but one remedy and that is glasses properly fitted. This is our specialty. We have done for others—we can also do for you.—L. A. Ott, Mansfield, Ohio.

Your eyes are not alike. May or may not be a true statement, but it's a hundred to one it is. Only way to find out is to call on expert opticians like us and have your eyes examined. That's free. Then if you need glasses you can buy them. If you don't you'll be told so. In any event you'll be treated fairly.—Bauer Bros, Zanesville, Ohio.

When eyes twitch it's a sure indication of eye-strain. The twitching is produced by sudden releases of strained and contracting muscles. My specially ground lenses remove the strain, restore the vision and free the eye from this annoying condition. For twelve years I have successfully performed this work in Pueblo, and my skill is vouched for by our leading professional and business men.—David Kletzky, Pueblo, Colo.

Do you have a regular optician? One who is acquainted with your eyes and your peculiar eye trouble, to whom you feel at liberty to go for any little adjustment of your glasses or advice, and who will take a real personal interest in your eye welfare because you are his patient? Or do you drop into any store to be served now by some employee and again by some other?—J. M. Crawford & Co., Fresno, Cal.

The success of our house is due to our adoption of the modern system of fitting eyes. This system assures to you the expert service of conscientious opticians with clean records and our great guarantee behind them. It assures good glasses. For many years you have had this service from us. It is your protection against the incompetence of those who come into optical existence to-day only to be out of business tomorrow.—Chinn Beretta Optical Co., Fresno, Cal.

If you are one of those unfortunate people dependent upon your glasses, you ought to have an extra pair. In case of accident you would be seriously incapacitated while waiting for the necessary repairs or the making of new glasses.—J. M. Crawford & Co., Fresno, Cal.

"Substitution is as old as trade itself. We accept substitutes because we don't like to bother about getting what we ask for."—Mertz's Magazine. But we must bother when the safety of our eyesight is at stake. We must resolutely refuse substitutes.—Chinn Beretta Optical Co., Fresno, Cal.

Do your eyes trouble you? If so, have you had them examined? We make no charge for examination and guarantee to correct defective sight or no charge. A fully equipped optical department in charge of a graduate optician.—Dodge & Whitney, Lansing, Mich.

"He who runs may read"—with our new Bi-Kontorik lenses. The invisibility of the bi-focal is the characteristic and unique feature of those wonderful lenses. The line of division between the distant and near sight is so difficult of detection as to be practically invisible alike to wearer and observer. It is true they cost more than lenses of the ordinary kind—because of the expert skill and labor required in grinding them—but they are less expensive than any other style of invisible bi-focals and infinitely more satisfactory. We prescribe, grind and fit our own glasses to correct all defects of vision however complicated. The responsibility is ours, the comfort and satisfaction yours. Remember Kontorik and Bi-Kontorik lenses can be had only from A. Martin, Inc., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Eye glass comfort. Our new model Stazon mounting are the acme of comfort and ease. They have excellent clinging qualities, and are the neatest and most inconspicuous mounting we know of. Better try one of these mounts.—G. F. Hutcheson, Charlotte-town, P. E. I.

Glasses will relieve headache. In nine cases out of ten headache comes from the eyes. In all such cases properly fitted glasses will at once relieve the strain and prevent headache. If you suffer from headache have your eyes examined. I guarantee correct glasses in all cases where needed.—M. L. Poux, Leading Optician, Spokane, Wash.

The eyes cannot be cared for too well. If your eyes grow strained and tired you need glasses or a change of glasses. We make a specialty of testing eyes and fitting the proper lenses. We carry a full line of optical goods of the very finest quality.—Royal Optical Co., Winnipeg.

When you have tried, spent your money, failed to get glasses to suit you and are discouraged about your eyes, and continue to suffer with headaches, call and see me. You I want to see. I use no medicine in the eyes and fit your eyes scientifically to glasses. No risk run in getting glasses of me. Prices reasonable. Examinations free. Office hours, every afternoon and evening.—Dr. H. Thomas, Lebanon, Pa.

High grade opera glasses. They make favored Xmas gifts. We use extreme care in selecting opera glasses—choosing only the smarter styles in the late finishes. But at the same time we fully realize the importance of perfect lenses. All of the glasses sold here are warranted true optically. We carry a comprehensive array of the leading makes as well as those made especially for us. Prices range upward from $5.00.—M. A. Hagen, Fargo, N. D.

Selling glasses. When a man sells glasses as an article of merchandise, he does not, or should not, claim to rectify difficult and complicated cases of defective vision. To accomplish that requires especial knowledge and especial skill. Selling glasses is one kind of business; the accurate fitting of lenses is altogether a different matter.—David Kletzky, O. D., Pueblo, Col.

Look up and cheer up. Even if your eyesight is bad, we can remedy the defect with proper glasses. Everything is in the lens. It makes no difference whether the frame be made of gold or brass—neither will help your eyesight. It is not the looks of things so much as the way you look that is of interest to you. Let us adjust the proper glasses to your eyes, and you will find you have perfect vision at a small cost. Call at once. Reduced prices for holiday trade. Will gladly change glasses bought for presents within sixty days.—S. B. Dembo, Binghamton, N. Y.

The improved appearance made by wearing glasses is easily appreciated, while the increase in comfort to the wearer is very great. Remember, that the writing of prescriptions is our special work; we also grind and fit our own lenses. Our twenty years' successful practice has abundantly proved that this work can be better done without dividing the responsibility between oculist and optician. Our work embraces that of both.—A. Martin, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Did you ever consider that the fitting and adjustment of eyeglasses is an exact science. Correct work requires painstaking effort and a scientific knowledge of the eye attained only through years of study and practical experience. Our examining optician is fully capable of suiting the most difficult cases. We guarantee satisfactory results, or money refunded.—El Paso Optical Co., El Paso, Tex.

Valuable eye-aids. Would you see clearly—get good glasses. Would you see easily—get good glasses. Would you preserve your eyesight—get good glasses. Get Chinn-Beretta glasses—made in the firm's own factories—made from the finest materials—made with the greatest care—valuable eye-aids.—Chinn-Beretta Optical Company, Fresno, Cal.

Our optician says that it is astonishing the great number of children who possess eyes incapable of school work. Education is based principally on the use of the eyes—if these be deficient then the chief basis of learning is hampered. Don't allow these defects to go uncorrected—it may prove serious. Our optician's advice may be fully relied upon.—Ryrie Bros., Toronto, Can.

OUR ADS

Business Manager—"And now what's the trouble?"

Irate Patron—"When I gave your man my advertisement yesterday I explicitly stipulated that it was to be run in the same column with the story of the woman suspected of murder. Instead of that it was printed right next to the report of a Sunday school convention."—Baltimore American.

Two pages of store news. Two pages on which we invite judgment. We urge you to compare every price and every quality with the best bargains to be secured elsewhere. We're content to leave it to your judgment to decide that the big store continues to be, as it always has been, the place where you can always get the same goods for less money or better goods for the same money. We are sure the offerings of this sale cannot be equaled elsewhere. Sure that this climax of bargain giving will surpass every effort of the past. We're confident every reader will be impressed with these absolutely unequaled bargain offerings.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Instead of screaming advertisements of bargains we want to focus attention more on the store service. We're selling any number of good things below cost, but people seem to find it out without much being said. The mere statement of summer things clearing at reduced prices is evidently enough. At any rate we're busy, and have been right along. In spite of the heat salespeople keep enthusiastic. Closing at 5:30 every day is one encouragement. Closing at noon Saturday is another. The fact of selling all goods in their season is responsible for quick buying chances all over the store.—The John Murphy Co., Ltd., Montreal.

To-day's store news tells largely the story of comfort for summer days. The sudden spurt of the mercury last week found many unprepared for hot weather. The call came quick and strong, but with our splendid stocks we were able to meet every demand in a most satisfactory way. Not only are we ready with all the articles that will add to your comfort this summer, but our store itself is a most pleasant place for shopping. The wide aisles and high ceilings, the perfect system of ventilation, the easily reached resting rooms, the well arranged departments, the excellent store service, all point to Hengerer's as the ideal store

Word-of-mouth advertising. We print the news of the store daily just as the Eagle daily prints the news of Brooklyn and the world. There are many thousands of people who read the Loeser pages carefully, too; often more carefully than they do the ordinary news pages of the paper. This sort of advertising pays a store when it sticks to the truth and when the news is worth telling. But word-of-mouth advertising is the sort that pays the best. For instance, the man of the family is persuaded to come in and buy a suit of the new kind of clothing of which we have been talking lately. If he is pleased, he talks about it—tells his friends just as he would of a horse or dog or automobile that is "all right." That's to our profit, of course. This word-of-mouth advertising is the hardest kind to get. It can't be bought. It must be earned—deserved. We are trying to deserve it in every branch of our business. We are trying to serve Brooklyn people so well that they can't help saying to friends and family: "Go to Loeser's, if you want this or that. It is the best place." The store has earned such advertising in many lines—is getting it all over Brooklyn and beyond. This season it has deserved it as never before, for this reason it is a better store than ever before. And for the future—well, we shall try to make the service even better than it is now and await the outcome without worrying.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

We advertise the truth and do what we say we do!—The Day Carpet and Furniture Company, Peoria, Ill.

Modesty is a virtue. We dislike to appear egotistical, but cannot refrain from stating frankly that what we advertise we fulfill. Evidence of that is demonstrated by the active appearance of our store at all times.—Daytons, Minneapolis, Minn.

Advertising is a mighty force in these days—and a force for good, because in the long run only a good store or a good commodity can endure the light of publicity; and, being good, the attraction of a large and growing colony of users—a clientele, if you please—enables the owners to make the desired thing or commodity better and better. The world has never been served so well as to-day. Money has never before had such buying power in securing necessities, comforts and luxuries. Advertising has been the equal partner of invention in making this true.—McCord-Stewart Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Advertising by this firm is reliable advertising and consequently when our first announcement of this sale was made the people fairly held their breath. The oldest residents had never seen or heard of such a matchless outpouring of values, such a host of incomparable bargains—to say “all properly smashed” is putting it mildly, indeed, for there is not a single article sold during this sale that does not represent an actual cash loss.—Fanger's, Bay City.

Unless the merchandise has merit, advertising is useless. The quality of our clothes sustains our advertising. Sterling values and moderate prices tell the story of our success, which is measured by the steady growth of our business from year to year. When a man buys a suit here, he becomes our friend and he, in turn, tells his friends where he bought it. This is good advertising, but only merit can develop it. Our clothes are “made right at the right price,” and bear our labels. Thus we grow. Better come here and take a look. We'll not urge you to buy—the garments will do that.—Norton & Sons, Wilkes-Barre.

The good people of our town know that if humor and brilliancy were sought for in Crews-Beggs store news, such search would prove chilly and disappointing. The fact is, there is only one excuse for “rushing into print” at all, and that is to tell the public facts about our store “doings” and about the new things that came, the special pricings and other items that some portion of the community is sure to be interested in. Facts—just plain, pointed facts. That being so, we never write “bargain” or “special” unless the fact is back of our representation.—Crews & Beggs, Pueblo.

You may come in all confidence for the things we tell about in this store bulletin. We shall never intentionally lead any patron a “wild goose chase” in taking us at our word and coming to the store for the article advertised, only to find conditions and values wilfully or carelessly misrepresented.—Crews & Beggs, Pueblo, Col.

All the news not told in one advertisement.—Our advertising columns do not tell the whole story of the wonderful advantages afforded by making your purchases here. It would take too much room to do that. Our business is furnishing homes, complete or in part, and from the top to the bottom of this store, on every floor, in every department, every business day in the year, there are other bargains that you might deem as good or better than those advertised. The items selected from time to time are those which in our judgment will interest you, either from the point of novelty, quality or economy.—The Weeks Furniture Co., Woonsocket, R. I.

We are not content to run in ruts, but must better things each year. In more than one respect this 1908 white sale is a step ahead. You'll find the evidence all through the page.—Field, Schlick & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

The large selling space at our disposal on the second floor enables us to make an advantageous display and give you ample opportunity to make suitable selections without being jostled and crowded. Numerous extra salespeople have been engaged so that all can be waited upon.—Keeley's, Atlanta, Ga.

“Campbell's” advertising.—The best advertisers are our customers. They are satisfied and tell others. Consequence, more new friends and new customers.—Campbell's Clothing Corner, Montreal.

Catchy advertisements often bring temporary results, but permanent success is achieved only in the pursuance of honest business methods, by living up to the words and letters of our advertisements, giving honest values and the best of service to our clientele. Every article mentioned below exactly as represented, every price a money-saver.—The New Store, Tacoma, Wash.

Filled with Promises.—Our advertising space is filled with promises. Not a promise among them but we are prepared to fulfill. Promises concerning the qualities, the styles, the prices of fresh autumn and winter goods. Promises that you should carefully read and then as carefully prove. 'Tis the constant proving of these advertised promises by our public that is steadily adding to this store's patronage; that is steadily pushing this business into a larger usefulness.—Romer, Lorel & Co., Bay City, Mich.

While the price of some of the items mentioned may be so low as to seem hardly possible, yet you may depend on finding every one just as advertised, and you'll not be disappointed when you come for them. We do not bring you down on a "wild goose chase," tell you a half hour after the sale has begun that we're "all sold out," expecting you to buy something else.—Ducker's Corner, Joliet.

This announcement tells such an economy story to-day as has rarely been matched. Good fortune has come our way, some by chance, much more because we went after it in a masterful, compelling way. Other news was made by a radical clean-up work in our own stocks. In all it is a presentation of special offerings that should fill this store with eager buyers all day long.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

If you see it in our ad. you know we have it.—The Fair, Muncie, Ind.

Integrity in merchandise—integrity in our announcements—in our employees and when we fall short of this desire we invite your sincere and unreserved criticism, by which we hope to reach our ideals of perfect store keeping.—To be continued.—Simpson, Crawford & Co., New York.

If you see it in Scroggie's ad. you know the values are worth while coming for—even as early at 8 o'clock in the morning.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

A page of the most remarkable spring-time store news ever chronicled in a Southern newspaper.—Hunter, Memphis.

We think you will find our advertisements very interesting to read, and we know you will be pleased with your purchases made at our store.—W. M. Laubach & Son, Easton, Pa.

You must call to see our value. See our window display show of clothing, ten big windows to admire.—Walther Dept. Store, Bay City, Mich.

If we could only talk personally to every woman who reads this advertisement—and tell her what we think of the good things we have for her here—every special would be gone 15 minutes after opening to-morrow morning. Whatever you do, get close to white sale and don't miss the clean-up in the suit department.—Evans Johnson Sloane Co., Minneapolis.

Good-by to 1906—an open hand of welcome to 1907. Monday we turn over our last announcement of store news with the satisfaction of a task well done. The achievements of the past year have been greater than our most sanguine expectations would have led us to anticipate. But we have a higher aim in our merchandising than per cent. of increase—the past year has established a confidence in our daily announcements, a dependence in our honesty of purpose, that is more gratifying to us and valued above dollars and cents. Many years ago we learned our lesson, that it was good store keeping to advertise truthfully, to take our money to the home markets, to buy for cash and to sell for cash, and to keep only the finest grades of merchandise, and in obedience to the natural law of the survival of the fittest the Eaton stores have grown, and grown, and grown—and we expect to justify still greater progress for the year of 1907.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Our advertisements tell the news of pretty china at reduced prices. Elegant assortments of fine china are reduced for Tuesday's and Wednesday's sale. The selections include a great number of very handsome and artistically worked pieces that are offered at very low prices. Do not miss these attractive collections Tuesday. To give you an idea of what they are like we list three items of the lot. The many others are just as good—come and see.—Hudson Bay Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Write us for anything you want that is not advertised. We pay express on all cash mail orders amounting to $3.00. Advertisements will be changed from day to day.—Montgomery Fair, Montgomery, Ala.

Two small boys' blouses for the price of one. When mothers can buy their small boys two cambric shirtwaists or blouses for the price of one they will no longer complain that it's an expensive business to make them "look clean," even in the summer-time. Well, this is just about what we are offering mothers who shop here on Wednesday. Here are the particulars: 30 dozen boys' rined cambric shirtwaists, white ground, with blue and red stripes and black and red polka dots, made with detachable stand-up turn-down collar and laundered cuffs, soft bodies, tapes at waist, sizes 11 1-2 to 14; regular price 75c. June sale price, 39c. See our ads.—Rob't Simpson Company, Toronto, Can.

We give careful attention to out-of-town patrons. Merchandise shipped same day as ordered and you are assured of complete satisfaction.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

“OUR STORE”

Cows and shirts. Does service count? If there were two cows pastured in the same meadow, each giving milk of the same purity and richness, one cared for and milked by a farmer's wife, who was clean about herself, and particular about the cleanliness of her buckets, strainers and milk cans—the other cow receiving no care, and being milked by a slovenly maid, using carelessly rinsed buckets and cans—which cow's milk would you want to buy? If there were two stores, each selling the same white shirts at exactly the same price, one being sure that you got a comfortable fit, and the proper sleeve length, then having the shirts carefully wrapped up in a card-board protector, to save the bosoms, and sending them home in immaculate condition; the other store giving you right collar-size but body too small, and sleeves too short, wrapping the shirts in paper only, sending them home with collar bands crushed and bosoms dented—which store's shirts would you want to buy? If other things were simply equal, you know that Wanamaker service would be worth a reasonable premium, because of the care and intelligence with which the public is served and merchandise delivered. But things are not simply equal. Wanamaker merchandise is distinctly better than that of other stores. Wanamaker dollar white shirts are not matched elsewhere for less than $1.50; and they are the criterion for a hundred other comparisons. At Wanamaker's you get more intelligently selected dry goods, more carefully made apparel, better value in addition to service which, at every point, is the most skilled and intelligent known to modern store keeping.—John Wanamaker, New York.

The phenomenal success of The Hub in establishing in 18 years the largest men's and boys' outfitting store in the world, plainly shows we possess the confidence of the people, and is directly attributable to the iron-clad principle of always furnishing the very best quality of goods at lower prices than prevail elsewhere. The prices we quote herewith represent special values in honor of this occasion.—The Hub, Chicago, Ill.

This week a world of new economy opportunities open up for you at Mitchell's, the low price store in the district of low rents and expenses. You'll be interested in the reasons for our remarkable June underselling. Nobody has any advantage of us in buying. Unlimited cash gives us an entree into every market of the world where style and merit exist. The several stores that share with us the advantage of selling only for cash calmly make allowance for mammoth rents and mammoth top salaries when marking these goods. But this new, well-conducted cash store in the low rent district has both the will and the ability and the spirit of expediency to save the public money when we mark our goods in the marking room—save money for the great army of people of moderate means who demand dependable merchandise of latest make and fashion. This advertisement is a great commentary on buying goods in Kansas City. Read and think over how easy it is to get here and save money.—Mitchell Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Every big store nowadays must, in order to treat every one alike, stick to the rules which they adopt and to make exceptions of a few would be to break a principle that may eventually lead to the ruination of a business. “Be sure you're right then go ahead,” is what some knowing philosopher once said, and it's by far the best advice that any one can give you. Lehman & Company are right in about everything they do—they give the right quality at the right price—they give you the right sort of service, and anything unsatisfactory is always made right.—L. Lehman & Co., Trenton.

Your store. We call this your store for the reason that you are at liberty to come and go as you please, whether for sightseeing, rest, recreation or shopping. It is not only a mercantile establishment to make money, but to offer you every convenience in the way of little luxuries that will come to you free of charge and with no cost whatever. Wherever it has been possible we have installed such conveniences as will help you in your shopping and make more satisfaction to you on every purchase.—Emery, Bird Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Stock at this store has the best chance in the world to be always stylish and seasonable—it comes and goes so fast under the pressure of our big and busy trade.—Ingram & Bird, Sacramento, Cal.

“OUR STORE”

A hot day—a cool store. Most people thought yesterday pretty warm. In the tea room, on the second floor, we had to keep all the twenty-two southern windows closed at the bottom—the breeze came up so strong from the ocean that it blew the napkins and bills of fare, even the spoons, from the tables. Not only is Brooklyn's coolest restaurant here, but this is Brooklyn's coolest store, the coolest place to be found, except chin deep in the ocean. Wide aisles, lofty air spaces, a perfect ventilating system and hundreds of whizzing electric fans make it comfortable to shop, no matter how high the mercury goes out of doors. Throughout the store now you will find noteworthy offerings of summer goods, which not only mean comfort and coolness, but which mean very definite economies to those who share them.—Fredrick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The great tables of this ample, bright and cheery part of our store will be covered with the white vestments, and prompt, courteous saleswomen will serve you. The sale will be numbered among the most important of this store's history and you should be the gainer in no uncertain sense.—The Lewis Store, Denver, Col.

Come to the store often, look over the different departments, ask questions about the goods, and then when you cannot come it will be easier to order by telephone. We have much to interest these days.—Chandler & Rudd Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

And we don't believe there is a place in town where your wants in this line can be so satisfactorily filled as at this store—the tremendous stocks and wide range of prices make the choosing easy.—Fowler, Dick & Walker, Binghamton.

One feature about this store—you can take plenty of time here. Life is too strenuous, anyway. Especially this weather. And when ladies come to pick out clothes for the boys we want them to take it as easy as possible. We have chairs, and tables to be seated at, and we can provide a refreshing glass of water, and you will get waited on just as well as though you rushed into a perspiration. Then there are bargains everywhere in the children's department to make things more interesting.—Gemmill, Burnham & Co., Hartford, Conn.

The children are always welcome in this store.—Now that the school vacations are here we desire to emphasize the cordial welcome which always awaits the children who visit this great, interesting, beautiful store. Parents are invited to bring the little ones when they come on their shopping tours, or merely for the pleasure and delight the beautiful displays will give the children. There are a thousand things here that will interest them, and instruct them as well. That the children regard it as a rare treat to visit this store is evidenced from the many delightful surprises they find on every hand. The points of interest which are so much appreciated by older people are frequently of still greater pleasure to the children.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

The alteration discount sale. "Bother me? Not at all," said a patron in response to the query whether the noise of saw and hammer was found disturbing. "I'd be content to shop the year 'round under similar conditions so long as I could save money at an equal rate." Working now to reduce stocks. Good store keeping demands that a new season's goods must find no old season's to compete against when they arrive. Then, too, we thought we were generous in our space allotments to the builders, who are busily engaged giving the finishing touches to the interior of The Store of Satisfaction. They don't. As it is a condition that every facility must be afforded them to complete the work by a specified time, contractions and re-arrangements of departments become imperative at each concession. You can't squeeze $1,000.00 worth of goods into space adequate for $500.00. You can cut stocks into half by adopting quick selling methods—by pricing every line anew. And this we are doing. No half measures prevail—the proposition of each department chief is to figure out what scale of prices will most quickly get stocks to accord with space at his command, and to price his wares accordingly. What they are doing in this direction is being recorded in our advertising from day to day.—W. H. Scroggie, Montreal.

Swayzee's Market is an institution of which the citizen's of Marion and Grant Counties are proud; it is one of Marion's "big stores." Our continued and constant growth for the past several years must be an indication that our business methods have been along the lines of fairness to everybody. "We want your trade."—Swayzee's Market, Marion, Ind.

The plentiful daylight of "The Daylight Store" is largely responsible for our greatly increased business. It makes you see the clothes—and if you see them you will surely buy them—they're irresistible.—Reeds, Philadelphia, Pa.

Quality and price is the keynote of this display—that honest, dependable quality that carries with it the assurance of lasting satisfaction. Our selections are made with great care. We look below the varnish and the veneer; we search for weakness and defects, and discard every article that we believe would in any way prove unworthy, when placed to the test of actual use. It is our constant effort to place good furniture and carpets before you at the lowest possible prices consistent with the qualities offered.—The Red Star Supply Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Grocery buyers who want the best for the lowest possible price should not fail to visit this big wholesale and retail store to-morrow. In addition to sharing our profits with you, we guarantee every article we sell, regardless of its price. You simply can't lose. That's the way we do business, and we're always here to stand back of any statement we make in our advertisements.—M. Quinn, Kansas City, Mo.

The most progressive store, or the store for most progressive men—read it either way, it's true. The wonderfully increased sales indicate with certainty that hundreds more men are finding out the truth of it every week. Will you test it to-morrow or Saturday? No matter how particular you are; no matter what your attitude toward ready-made—you'll be thoroughly satisfied.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

This store thinks for the comfort and welfare of its customers. Through its purchasing powers it gives opportunities for all to save money on the latest and most wanted goods. We sell on a close margin; we show large assortments of the best goods; we give our customers a good delivery service, with every possible comfort and convenience; we cheerfully refund money for goods that are not satisfactory. We have exchange desks located on all floors of the store at which exchanges are made without controversy. Besides all this, as an added inducement, we give free of all charge "S. & H." green trading stamps—stamps that stand for all that is good and that bring you the most beautiful premiums absolutely free of all cost.—Lit Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

One of the noteworthy points of our store is its solid reliability. People who come here in response to our printed announcements find the advantages we offer. Our high qualities, our low prices, our splendid assortments, our many conveniences—are facts, not theories. Because of the prevalence of "facts" in our establishment our customers come to us in constantly increasing numbers, and our firm adherence to facts is the best guarantee that could be offered for our merchandise.—Columbus Dry Goods Co., Columbus, O.

This big store is crowded with extra good values in everything that beautifies your home. We court the closest comparison as to prices and quality with any Western store and can truthfully say that nowhere in southern Colorado will you match our stock in magnitude and beauty. We furnish homes complete on easy payments, all price marks are in plain figures. Ask your neighbors about us. Satisfied customers are our best advertisement.—The C. W. Daniels Home Furnishing Co., Pueblo,

The wealth of beautiful goods that pours daily into this store, fresh from the mills, is amazing. Everything the newest, fresh as the verdant Spring—it fairly makes one poetical to look over this vast array. Carpets of every weave, curtains of every kind, rugs from every country on the globe, altogether make up a collection of stock never before equaled in Columbus. Mind you, all this shown in a new store, all clean and fresh from the painters and decorators. This is truly an ideal place to visit. Come to-morrow and see the beautiful new goods and take a look at the novelty curtain department.—The Kraus, Butler & Benham Co., Columbus, O.

"When it comes from Luger's" the name alone signifies that it is right. The style is different from the ordinary, and it is distinguishable by the fact that a certain individuality of style and composition is connected with all articles of merchandise in the store. We are selling more because we are selling cheaper, and we are selling cheaper because we are selling more. Just remember that and study this over, and you will realize how easy it is for us to even give you better quality by utilizing the methods we employ.—Luger Furniture Co., Fargo, N. D.

The store is full of special entertainment at this season, entertainment which the goods themselves provide. They were never before so lovely, so full of novelty, so interesting, whether you have a thought of purchase or not. For spring dress the new fabrics make varied and beautiful decorative effects and the suits and wraps and millinery give vivid and dignified portrayal of the styles for wear now and in the summer.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"OUR STORE"

It does not pay to be wedded to any one firm. There is too much progressiveness in these days of great happenings. The business infant of to-day is the business giant of to-morrow. Adaptability, keen foresight, lowest prices and unusual business acumen, figuratively speaking, quickly make business mountains out of mole hills.—Red Star Supply Company, Memphis, Tenn.

The enlargement of our store room was but an incident to the enlarging of our stocks—for, after all, it's the goods that make the store—it's the goods that people want to see and buy—not the room. And verily, this store has the goods, especially in shoes. The size and well-assorted variety of the shoe stock from which you may select here has no counterpart in Colorado and very few in the entire United States. This isn't boast—it's fact.—White & Davis, Pueblo, Col.

We close our store at the earliest possible moment this morning. While you are reading "The Courant" and approving our hot cross buns, perhaps you will be interested to discuss with us the grocery problem for three minutes. We've been serving you a long time, and we're trying to serve you better and better as time goes. That's one of the benefits of experience to those whose ambition to serve you well is a serious matter. We believe that the winter just closed has seen a conspicuous advance in the quality of almost all lines of provisions we sell. We have won many compliments for the quality of the Cook oranges, for the superior specimens of grape fruit that we constantly have supplied you, and our vegetable department exhibits have been characterized as "wonderful" almost every day during the season. Our bakery department is producing the most superior home-like bread, rolls, doughnuts, crullers, cream cakes, layer cakes, eclairs, and all that sort of thing, and the quantity of these goods consumed by the people of this city is more than considerable. It is a recognition of the fact that we set the word quality before everything else in our bakery department and that it is the dominating idea of the department, as it is in the other branches of our business. We make candy. We make our best mixture coffee. Probably more than one-half of those who will read this talk use it.

They know its quality. The other half will like it just as well if they try it. Besides aiming high in the matter of quality, we also make it a point in the policy of this store to render it possible for the man who wishes to economize to trade here. And we do it. We are not high-priced. We handle only goods that are good. We never lower our standard by placing in stock goods that can be sold "a bushel for a quarter." But we do carry numberless of the standard quality goods that can be sold reasonably enough for anybody in the city of Hartford. We shall advertise these goods from time to time, and give you practical demonstrations of how easy it is to economize at this great high-class grocery.—Newton, Robertson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

We believe that stores like this one owe something to the public beyond the mere gathering and selling of merchandise. In the old days the shopper had to have a good bit of Yankee shrewdness, had to know whether things were good or clever shams—or else she paid the penalty of buying trash. We believe that the big store of to-day has no business selling poor goods, no matter whether the buyer has discerning judgment or not. We believe it is the duty of a store to make sure its goods are worthy before they reach its counters. We have carried this principle to the extreme, perhaps. Few stores are as careful that "wool" shall mean all wool; that toilet and remedial preparations shall answer every chemical test of excellence and purity, that clothing shall be made as well inside where it doesn't show, as it is outside where it does show. These things are carried to the extreme here. Makers still tell us that we are foolishly careful; that our care is useless; that the public doesn't appreciate the difference between the best and the "almost as good"; that we might just as well take the little extra profit that comes from selling the second grade. But we know that our care is appreciated. We know that people everywhere have learned that buying here is safe; that they can depend on whatever comes from the Loeser Store; that the Loeser standard means something.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Portland's bargain center. Every metropolis has its bargain center—the Mecca toward which the votaries of thrift and economy set their faces when on shopping bent. While other establishments may claim the honor of being this city's bargain center, it's a well-established fact in the minds of the local public that to this store that distinction is unquestionably due. We herewith append a list of specials which will add fresh luster to our fame of being the givers of best values in this city.—Roberts Bros., Portland, Ore.

June, the fairest of months, is here. June is summer's girlhood, said the poet. It is beauty's season and all the world looks to new clothes. New things must be bought for summer time and vacations; there are some new styles in hats and dresses. Every year's new summer fashions seem more beautiful. Never have we shown such entrancing things as this year.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

What does "best" mean to you when stores are talked of? Best service, is it not? Best usefulness in filling your individual needs? It is along the lines of public service that this store strives to be best. We have made the building pleasant in looks. We have spent much time in working out its most convenient arrangement. We have put the best people to be had at the head of each branch of the business, and keep them up on tip toe, that every minute of every day you may depend on the best they can do. That is the keynote of the store's effort. Nothing less than the best in every line will "do." We shouldn't deserve to have and to hold the chief favor of Brooklyn people otherwise. We are holding it; we mean to.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A safe store to pin faith to is this. In many ways the best store because it is most reliable. It gives the best service day in and day out and year in and year out. It shows the new things earliest and very often exclusively. It shows the greatest varieties always, hunting carefully through two continents to bring the choicest and most useful here. Its prices are the lowest possible for reliable goods and it protects its patrons with a broad guarantee printed daily. It is the most liberal store in the country and means it absolutely in saying that every transaction here must carry with it your permanent satisfaction before we consider it complete. Such a store as this is surely a useful feature of the community. How wide the confidence and approval it has won is evidenced by such growth as has probably never come to any other store in the country.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"The store that saves you money." Drop in to-morrow and look over the pieces advertised. They are well worth looking at even if you don't want to buy. You'll not find such values in any other store in the Northwest. A great price-saving sale in every department.—Wallblom's, St. Paul, Minn.

The Palais Royal is the department store where personal needs and souvenirs of Washington may always be found, reliable in quality and moderate in price. Central location—G and Eleventh streets—nearest to hotels and public buildings.—The Palais Royal, Washington, D. C.

Enthusiasm sometimes runs away with accuracy. The other day a Manhattan Store rather boastfully announced itself as the largest buyer and seller at retail of high grade brass bedsteads in America. Now it is pretty generally known that that is a distinction which belongs to Brooklyn—and to the Loeser Store. There are here to-day no less than 87 distinct designs of brass bedsteads—118 styles, if the different sizes are counted. They make an important feature of the February furniture sale and value-for-price they will hold their own against any offering in the country. But, after all, the question of size of purchases is perhaps of least moment. Quality and price are what count. The February furniture sale has made a record far beyond our greatest previous business, not because we bought the immense stocks which are spread over the third, fourth and fifth floors, but because the furniture itself—each individual, particular piece of it—is well made, artistic and the best value for the money that can be found anywhere. Quality and price—those with good service—have made this store the most useful in the community and, we believe, they will keep it so.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The greatest store and the greatest business in Brooklyn have arisen here on the foundation of public satisfaction with the best service, the best assortments and lowest prices. We never have permitted and never will permit anyone to undersell us or successfully to dispute our supremacy in any branch of our business.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The store is cool.

Figures sometimes talk. We've said that the store was cooler than your own home during these hot days. This is to show you why.

There's a big 72-inch air fan set in the rear wall, running at a speed of 238 revolutions a minute. This supplies 19,400 cubic feet of fresh air a minute. Then the whirling fans in the aisles revolve 360 times a minute, and have four blades—the usual fan does not revolve more than a hundred times a minute, and has only two blades.

Come in and enjoy some of it.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

"OUR STORE"

In every stock, on every floor, all through this big building of ours the annual July sale is in full swing. It is always the most comprehensive movement of the year. This time it is more sweeping, more advantageous, than ever, because a bigger business required bigger stocks and leaves more broken lots. Visit any department, you can't help finding what you seek at a big and welcome saving.—Ehrich Bros., New York, N. Y.

The greatest store and the greatest business in Brooklyn have arisen here on the foundation of public satisfaction with the best service, the best assortments and the lowest prices.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Try the cheapest and the most reliable store in the north end for your dry goods, and if anything turns out wrong, kindly let us know, we will be pleased to make it right. Satisfaction guaranteed or money returned.—Gareaus, Montreal, Can.

Summer advantages of our stores: No heat in buildings, dynamos and engines being in power house outside our stores. Electric cooling fans on all floors. Perfect ventilation, good light, courteous attention. Resting, reading and writing room for the convenience of customers. Restaurants—best of viands at moderate prices, with special refreshment features during the warm season. Complete merchandise assortments throughout the summer. Above and other features insure customers' comfort, convenience and good service during summer season.—James Hearn, New York, N. Y.

On the third floor of the Siegel Cooper store you will find a most interesting little Art Store. It is so delightfully Japanese, so redolent of the spirit of the Orient, that one fairly revels in its gorgeous-hued attractions. Here one sees in all the bizarre beauty exhibitions of Japanese earthenware and pottery, antimony ware, curiously designed metal ware, tinkling chimes, tinselled crepe, snakes, geisha fans, lanterns and other things that seem to whisper of the home of the alluring cherry blossom and little brown men and women. Such an assortment of lanterns is unrivaled in New York. We supply a great many seaside and rural homes with these bright-colored lanterns, for the prices we ask are much lower than those asked by any other store.—Siegel Cooper, New York.

In winding up his payments on a piano bought here, a man writes: "In thus completing these payments and closing out the account, I feel as though I owe you a vote of thanks, for while I have never missed one payment, as agreed, still I feel that perhaps I would never have had the piano had I not been lured into buying it by an advertisement which caught my eye and the very generous offer of your firm in the easy monthly payment plan. The piano, I consider A1 and it has given very good satisfaction in the time I have had it, covering a period of three years. I am glad to say that it is mine now." A letter that illustrates, as well as anything else can, the very foundation on which the Loeser store keeping is based—the foundation of good service. If this man had been lured into the store by a lying advertisement and then lured into buying a piano by a lying salesman only to find out in the end that the piano was high priced and a poor instrument, what would his present attitude toward this store have been?—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

This breeze swept store is one of the really cool spots, as every one who visits it will acknowledge. The basement is actually sought by hundreds daily, just because it is so delightfully cool. If you are a bit curious to know just how much cooler it is as a shopping point, test it. We run the electric fans, of course, but electric fans don't cool the atmosphere, they simply agitate it. Ventilation is what this store gets, ventilation through windows, back, front and sides. Our third floor particularly is positively delightful, that's where the carpets, furniture, hammocks, sporting goods, music and pictures are. It's breeze swept, and so is the dining-room. Ah! there it is you can enjoy yourself. Dainty, well cooked food, wholesome, cooling beverages, all at popular prices. If it's handier to shop by mail or telephone, do so. Our trained corps of shoppers will do the work for you carefully and promptly.—A. D. Matthews', Brooklyn, N. Y.

A place for everything, and this is the place for everything in house-furnishings. The pieces mentioned in this advertisement will demonstrate to every prospective buyer of furniture, house-furnishings or a piano that the French & Bassett store is the foremost store of its kind in the Northwest. Every article in this great store is a convincing argument in our favor. Whatever you need—if for cottage or for mansion—you will find the articles here in greater variety, of a superior quality, and at a much lower price than at other stores. Let the French & Bassett store furnish your home.—French & Bassett, Duluth.

"OUR STORE"

The public's favorite shopping place is the Siegel Cooper store. Great numbers of people visit it because it is one of the principal places of interest in the metropolis. Great numbers buy at the store daily because the merchandise is always seasonable, always reliable, and because the prices are never other than reasonable. The service is prompt and trustworthy. Every hot weather shopping comfort is provided. This being a season of clearance sales, many choice bargains are offered. Disposal sales are in progress all over the store. Those who visit the Siegel Cooper store Tuesday will find fresh and pleasant evidence of the store's wonderful popularity.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York.

To keep cool, come to the Loeser store. Yesterday morning was a test and the thousands who thronged the store buying thin things so fast that all our store people were on the jump to serve them promptly found the air fresh and cool and pleasant. Scientific ventilation and cooling of the air which is driven through the store as well as the whirling of hundreds of electric fans, made the store as comfortable as the porch of a hotel that was "swept by ocean breezes." Store service—such service as is given by the Loeser store—is to-day more than the simple offering of merchandise for sale. The great and successful store is a public utility, planning always to add to the comfort of its patrons, working always to make their relations with the business distinguished for broad-minded liberality and such personal service-giving as cannot fail of appreciation.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Truly this mammoth store with its magnificent array of home furnishings ought this spring to be the mecca of all bridal couples who want to furnish their new home in approved style and at a small expense. You don't want to waste any money; we want to assure you that your every penny will get value in return here. You do want to save money if you can, and you can here, now, more than ever before. Carload buying for two stores means a great saving to us in freight and extra discounts which in turn means a saving of at least 15 per cent. to our customers. Remember that when you get ready for your outfit.—North Star House, St. Paul.

The ideal store, successful business is not built up by selling unworthy merchandise. Good foundations take time to lay. This store has been years studying the principles of permanent success.

The result is great business development. Thoughts of winter are fading away and new spring goods are crowding in.—J. B. Hill & Co., St. Thomas, Ont.

The people who trade here come with the perfect confidence and certainty that every piece of furniture they buy will prove all that we say of it. If we are foolish enough to destroy that confidence, even in a single case, by selling anything unworthy, we would be striking a blow at the very foundations of the business—foundations laid years ago. Quite aside from any question of principle, self-interest and policy demand that we keep faith with every customer. To-day we would call your attention to the splendid line of buffets we are showing on our main floor—no better quality can be produced than we offer you, and the prices speak for themselves.—Davis, Smith & Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Hot? Not at The Big Store—whirling fans through the aisles and an 80-horse power fan in the rear wall blowing fresh air every second.

A peculiar, home-like atmosphere pervades this entire store. Perhaps one of the most distinguishing characteristics of this great store is the very apparent lack of unnecessary noise, commotion and distraction with which this enormous daily business is conducted. In the busiest sections, during special sales, wherever and whenever unusually large numbers of purchasers are attracted, there is noticeable that prompt, courteous attention—that composure on the part of salespeople whose every thought is directed toward ascertaining exactly what the customer wishes, and then supplying that need in the most orderly, most expeditious, and the most satisfactory manner. It is this peculiar characteristic of "trading comfort" which in a very great measure disseminates that home-like feeling throughout this entire store.

During the warm summer months this store is more than ever a delightful place to visit on downtown shopping tours. A perfect system of ventilation keeps every floor comfortably cool. Beautiful displays of mid-summer and outing merchandise are attractively arranged on almost every floor. Furthermore, we especially desire that during these warm days the public avail themselves of the accommodations provided for them in our spacious reading, writing and rest rooms on the third floor.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

"OUR STORE"

The Sanger store service is as good as we can make it and is being improved daily. Extra precaution will be taken during this summer clearance sale, that you get served well—the store is so large—the bargains and special values so many, that you must take time, ask for a transfer at first counter, and then shop leisurely, count up your savings afterwards, and it is only then you will appreciate what this sale really means to you—to us it means cleaning out summer stocks regardless of profits. A fifteen days' sale in which profit is lost sight of entirely.—Sanger Bros., Waco.

Music from three o'clock until closing time. If you have a desire to hear any music that we have for sale, make it known. Ask for our catalogue of sheet music.—Kay-W-Kay, York, Pa.

Hot weather shopping is always comfortable at Wanamaker's. The swirl of the breezy fans greets you as you enter the door. Aisles are broad; the Rotunda gives perfect ventilation to all floors. Service is prompt and polite. Rest places give pleasant relief whenever desired. Again and again we hear its patrons say that our restaurant is the coolest and most delightful place for luncheon to be found anywhere in the shopping district.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Better values to be had in this store than in any other! This for several reasons! Our clothes, to begin with, are better than others! Better fit, and more "snap" to them! We are selling almost everything now at reduced prices! Genuine reductions! No marking of fictitious values to make the reductions appear larger! Our sole object is to clear out our fall and winter stock!—Perry & Co., "N. B. T.," Philadelphia.

June is the month of roses, of weddings and of wonderful values in the Loeser store. Final summer preparations are being made everywhere. A little extra value is specially welcome to most people. And the store is full of extra values.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ours is a store for everybody—a great institution. It is permeated with an atmosphere of style—a characteristic which not only covers the more elaborate merchandise—or garment—but reaches even to the most inexpensive lines we sell. Indeed, it is an atmosphere of style-correctness in everything in which style is concerned; and style of necessity is linked to quality. There is another feature equally important as style and quality—right prices.—Keith-O'Brien Company, Salt Lake City, Utah.

"The store is a cool one." We have eight large electric fans going all the time, and the store is as comfortable as the lakeside. A little visit here is very restful after the glare and oppressive heat of the streets.—Brodnaar, Memphis.

Our store is considered by the best dressers as authority on good clothes, hats and furnishings. Take the trouble to find out that we are right about it, both in selling the very best clothes at the lowest price and in talking about them.—Freundlich, Mansfield, Ohio.

Cool atmosphere, a comfortable rest room, where you may read or write to your heart's content, a palatial restaurant, way up on the roof, where there's music, polite attention, refreshing viands and confections, and plenty of light and air. These are a few of the warm weather features of America's finest retail store, that have gained for it the name of New York's popular place of recreation during the summer months. Above all, tower the wonderful bargains assembled at about half the regular prices as a result of the advantage taken of a backward season, that has compelled manufacturers to make unprecedented sacrifice of the highest class of warm weather merchandise. Our saving on recent purchases amount to thousands of dollars, and that's what we're saving the people of New York in the sales in progress to-day, to-morrow and until every dollar's worth of merchandise is in the hands of an appreciative shopping public.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

This store, closely identified, as it has been with the evolution of Wilkes-Barre from a comparative village to the metropolis of the great anthracite coal region, the city and the store have advanced hand in hand, and in every event of progress which has transpired this store has most notably made its impress upon the welfare of the people. We merely reflect public opinion in this statement, for it has repeatedly been said that "The greatest single force in bringing the mercantile development of the city to its present high standard has been due to the inspirations born in this store."—Jonas Long's Sons, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

No other store in the State thinks it necessary to carry so many kinds and so large a variety of different sizes.—C. W. Hawkes, Binghamton, N. Y.

Honesty and quality are the governing principles of this store—that's why our advertisements pay.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

Doing little things well a characteristic of this store. In recognition of the truism that a little transaction which may seem small to the merchant is often of great importance to the purchaser, our great systems of buying, selling, delivery, exchange and adjusting, are organized to care for the smallest transactions, in the same satisfactory manner as for the large ones. In merchandise there are many hundreds of little articles for which only occasional calls are made, but when they are wanted it is to fill a need which nothing else can properly do. It is our constant effort to supply these trifles when desired—it accords with our idea of completeness of stock. This same regard for detail is exemplified in the thousand and one ways which go to make up satisfactory ideal merchandising. Likewise in selecting and pricing merchandise, each article is purchased with a knowledge of what similar things there are in the market, and each price is made as low as or lower than the same or like qualities elsewhere.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

A safe store to pin faith to. Not the only safe store—but the best; because it is most liberal of any store in the country; because it is pleasantest and most convenient in arrangement; because its goods are invariably of high grade and dependable; because its prices are invariably low and generally lowest. Such a store is a public utility; as reliable when you want to buy a piano or a jewel costing thousands as when you need a paper of pins or a smoothing iron. It has won the confidence of all Brooklyn people. Its good service is bringing many Manhattan people across the bridge to shop.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We never have permitted and never will permit anyone to undersell us or successfully to dispute our supremacy in any branch of our business.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

For men in a hurry on a hot day it is best to go into the coolest store, where there is promptest service and most styles to select from.

And that store is Loeser's.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

This store as a unit is doing day by day the work that is before it; doing all of it well! doing much of it best. It is not easily measured satisfaction to be most useful in daily service to a community of more than a million and a quarter people. It is a satisfaction worth striving for; well worth the earnest, individual effort of each of the thousands of us here who contribute to the large result; who make the store what it is.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

The entire store radiates the inspiration of jocund spring. Yes, it is an intensely interesting store. Not a commonplace center of commerce, but a fine store answering promptly, helpfully and satisfactorily to the wants of the multitude. Eye the calendar. Harken to the voice of expediency. Spring trips hitherward gleefully. Soon buds will burst forth and flowers whisper to wandering breeze. All of which prompts the question: Are you preparing for the warm days that are hurrying along?—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Summer advantages of our stores: No heat in buildings, dynamos and engines being in power house outside our stores. Electric cooling fans on all floors. Perfect ventilation, good light, courteous attention. Resting, reading and writing rooms for convenience of customers. Restaurants—best of viands at moderate prices, with special refreshment features during the warm season. Complete merchandise assortments throughout the summer. Above and other features insure customers' comfort, convenience and good service during summer season.—James Hearn, New York.

No other store on the fair soil of Michigan can point to record after record of cheap selling equal to the Bay City "Cash" Store. It's the old, always reliable, do-as-they-say store. We are justly proud of the distinctive mark of selling as we advertise. One of the most popular and dependable advantages of this store is the satisfaction of always getting reliable goods, distinctive and fashionable, at under market prices. It's at this point that the "Cash" buying organization of this store asserts its power.—Bay City "Cash" Dry Goods Co., Bay City, Mich.

This store is your store! Its policy is dictated and directed by your demands. It will grow and become great only by pleasing you. Your every dollar weighs a full one hundred cents of value at all times. This season finds us better equipped to serve your every fancy than ever before. Naturally! We're a half year older and more experienced—we know your needs "exacter." How well we have chosen for you and how moderately we've priced is a tale that tells itself in our merchandise.—The Greenwald Furniture Company, Salt Lake City, Utah.

"OUR STORE"

This store is never idle! While one surprise is engaging your attention we are planning something new. Business either goes forward or backward. There is no such thing as standing still, and we provide against all contingencies by constantly forging ahead. You need to remember that many goods in the store just now are at prices far below value, and therefore limited in quantity. Where lots are big enough to go 'round we say so. But many of the best bargain chances don't get into the papers for the reason that we haven't enough of the goods to advertise.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

This store grows because we are continually giving unusual qualities for the prices; because the assortments here are largest in town in the lines we carry; because our customers know our prices for the qualities are right and no time is wasted "beating down the price;" because people read our ads. and believe them. This fact is easily proven by the crowds after each special announcement; because we are doing everything in our power to improve this store—to make it the most popular shopping place; because anyone is welcome to visit these departments, see the new goods and stay as long as they wish. No one is allowed to urge you to buy; because our customers show their purchases to their friends which makes new customers for us.—Freese's, Bangor, Me.

We are proud of our store for reasons, a few of which are as follows: Its perfect light, its cleanliness, its conveniences, the intelligence of the employes, their gentlemanly and ladylike appearance and manners, its prompt service, and above all, its absolute fairness in dealing with the public. Our motto, to "right what's wrong," has been an important factor in our progress and success.—Dayton's Day Light Store, Dayton, Ohio.

This grand store endeavors to merit your daily patronage. We measure the worth of our merchandise by the standard of quality, and desire to maintain and merit your patronage solely because of the recognized superiority of our goods and service. It's impossible for the element of risk to enter into your purchases here, as there is a guarantee back of everything we sell that protects you—a standard of quality to maintain that insures lasting satisfaction and promotes your entire confidence in this store.—R. McKay & Co., Hamilton, Ont.

Keeping you in suspense. It is certainly gratifying to know of the almost universal interest which is being mani-festated in the opening of this 5th Street Store. It argues well for its immediate and abundant success. Even before the opening, our telephones are busy with inquiries as to when we are going to open and for information relative to this opening. News of some of the wonderfully good bargains has leaked out, probably through the uncontrollable enthusiasm of some of the employees who have seen the merchandise in the unpacking and marking. You know it's hard to keep a good thing to yourself; however, we ask your indulgence for a few days, at which time, wide publicity as to the doings on opening will be given.—The 5th Street Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

The store accommodating. "It is a pleasure to buy in a store where everything and everybody is so accommodating," said the local representative of one of the greatest institutions in this country. Perfect accommodation means: Perfect store service—That comprises willing and obliging, attentive and helpful attendants. Store patriotism is the spirit that underlies this splendid store service. Each employee realizes that he or she is part of the greatest mercantile establishment of a great community. We realize that the more perfect each individual part, the more perfect the whole machine, and we strive for perfection. This is the first Brooklyn store to secure a social secretary whose sole duty it is to care for the wants and needs of the employees, and to make their work as congenial as possible. Everything that can be done to add to their comfort is done. That is why we started the movement to open at 8:30—why we close in summer at 5 p. m. You can help, if you will, by shopping early. Perfect accommodation means more—but of that we will speak again.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Ideal House Furnishers, Ltd., is the largest and best equipped house furnishing establishment in Canada. Centrally located on the corner of Portage Avenue and Hargrave Street, in a handsome seven-story building of steel and glass, constructed especially for our needs. We have more extensive floor space, permitting more satisfactory display, under better lighted conditions, than any other house furnishing store in the country. Every article of house furnishings necessary for the home, office or studio, will be found here in a wider variety of designs and style, and at a lower price than any other store in Winnipeg, with no extra charge for liberal credit. No need to worry about the cash, your credit is good.—Winnipeg, Can.

OYSTERS

The autobiography of an oyster.—I am born without jaws or teeth; but I've got fine muscles, liver and a heart. In each year of my life I produce 1,200,000 eggs; each of my children is 1-120th of an inch in length; so, 2,000,000 little ones can be crowded into a space of one cubic inch.

I am ready for the table in from one to five years after birth. You will never find me in cold parts of the world. I dislike cold. In Ceylon I sometimes grow to a foot in length. One of me there makes a stew, when I am half a foot broad. I am not of much account in England, unless I am imported there from America. It makes me very sad to think of fetching up in the Strand—I, who was discussed by Tiberius and Julius. I have been the cause of much bloodshed. Men fight fierce battles for me all along the American coast, the Italian, and the coasts of Kent and Essex.

If you eat me raw you are not at all likely to regret it, for I am in a raw state very nutritious and easily digested. As a fry I am inclined to be uninteresting and heavy. So few know how to fry me. I am about the only animate thing that can be eaten with impunity in a raw state. Parasites cannot exist in me as they can in chops and steaks and fruits. I am a pretty good friend to man. And to woman. Look at the pearls I've given her. Thackeray has compared me in a raw state to a new baby. Yet I never kept him awake nights.

I'm not half bad in a stew; but as a roast in the shell all the poetry in me comes out. Then I sizzle with emotion, in butter, red pepper and a little sauce. The clam is like the driver of a hansom cab then—not in it with me. The clam! That commonplace fellow! I avoid him as much as possible. I am not a snob, nor yet a cad, but I really must not be expected to fraternize with the clam, nor can I discuss him. The line must be drawn. He's not in the Four Hundred. Well, I am.—Blue Pointe.—Wm. F. Libbey, New York.

In the first rank the oyster finds its place. It's appreciated alike by the untutored savage and the cultured bon vivant, for the simple reason that it's delicious, nourishing, strengthening—and we furnish it in its best estate—fresh, tender, juicy; to be eaten raw, fried, stewed, broiled, roasted, or any way you prefer it. Remember that our demand is such that we have no left over stock, and every day's supply is just from the shell, where it was alive.—American Fish Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Mill pond oysters. The aristocrats of oysterdom need no introduction to oyster lovers. They're medium in size—plump—and have a flavor that places them in a class by themselves.—Hildebrecht's, Trenton, N. J.

The oyster season opens with September. The oysters we use are of fine flavor and good size. We serve them in many ways. A busy bee Baltimore broil on toast is a favorite.—The Busy Bee, Columbus, Ohio.

Deep sea oysters shipped to us daily in sealed packages. No other dealer in this city has an oyster trade as large as ours and we attribute this growth in our oyster business to the quality of the oysters we sell. Always during the oyster season you will find here the varieties common to this part of the world and if we supply you, you will have no complaint to make on the quality.—Heagerty's, Binghamton, N. Y.

Not everybody knows the difference between the oysters fresh from the oyster beds and those which have laid around a cold storage house several days, or weeks, before being shipped. If you are an oyster connoisseur and want only the freshest and most luscious bivalves send your order here—then you can make your own comparisons.—Price Fish Co., Rochester, N. Y.

We lead in sea food and our leader is Oysters. You could not get better oysters in Baltimore than we serve right here in the heart of Chicago. Our oyster shipments come direct from the coast daily by express and the bivalves are packed in special packages iced for the trip. Two days after our oysters are removed from the bottom of the sea you can enjoy them in your home—that's just the right length of time, we are told, to make the oyster perfectly edible.—Morton's, Chicago, Ill.

Oysters! Oysters! Season's open today. We're all ready with fresh-from-the-coast oysters of the finest quality. Never saw oysters better at the opening of the season than this year. You'll say so too if you send your order here.—Fulton Market, Pittsburg.

PAINT

Old Uncle Ben wanted to have his portrait painted. "Surely that is a very large sum," he said when the artist named the price.

The artist protested and assured him that, as portraits went, that was very little to ask. Uncle Ben hesitated. "Well," he said at length, "how much will it be if I furnish the paint?"—Lippincott's.

Mr. Farmer, brighten up your wagon, tools and buggies. Sherwin-Williams wagon and implement paint for wagons and tools. Sherwin-Williams Buggy Paint for buggies. Things well painted show prosperity. You are prosperous. Use paint. Get it from us. All kinds. Glass, too.—The Lawrence Paint Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Surprising how quickly you can change the entire appearance of furniture by the use of the Adelite preparations. Brush it over with Adelite paint and varnish remover—let it stand four minutes, and you can wipe off the old finish with a cloth, clean to the wood. Then apply Adelite one coat finish—just once over with a brush completes the job—gives the dull beautiful finish of oak, rosewood, mahogany—whatever wood you choose. Easy to do, perfectly simple—results are sure to please you. Adelite remover costs 45c a can; Adelite finish, 60c pint. Brushes from 10c up. See samples at the store.—P. H. Matthews' Paint House, Los Angeles, Cal.

Beauty is only skin deep, but it isn't only the thickness of the skin that makes it. It's the kind of paint and the way it's put on that makes the Sherwin-Williams aluminum paint the leader of all others. S-W. aluminum paint can be used on either wood or metal surfaces. Has no offensive odor. Withstands extreme heat or cold. Does not discolor. Very durable. Paint man claims he wouldn't sell the S-W. aluminum paint if it wasn't the most satisfactory to use.—Lawrence Paint Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Poor paint is no better than no paint and costs almost as much as good paint. "Collier" pure white lead is the paint that best combines reasonable cost with highest qualities.—Collier's, Denison,

Paint for houses, barns, floors, cupboards, shelves, furniture, bath tubs, buggies, farm tools, etc. A special paint for each purpose, not one slap-dash mixture for all. Not low priced, but highest grade at fair, honest prices. You know our reputation. We say these are the best paints we know of. You'll say so too after you have used them.—Peck's, Spokane, Wash.

A Stain That's Not a Blemish on either your reputation or your house is a bit of wood stain we can supply—which you can apply—for the sides of your staircases—carpet in the middle you know. It's remarkable how cheaply you can improve the appearance of your staircase and halls by buying paints, stains and varnishes here.—The Como Co., Great Falls.

Do it up brown. This is a good time to stain the floors. In the summer the rooms are cooler without carpets. Stain the floors any color to harmonize with the woodwork and put down rugs.

The line of wood stains here is complete. There's a great variety of colors. Each is complete in itself, requiring no varnish.—J. H. Lambs, Grand Forks.

Paint man said paint was bad. Bought torch—painter's torch—from us to burn off. Don't have to burn off Sherwin-Williams paint. Never peels, blisters or chalks. Always reliable.—The Lawrence Paint Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Porch comfort in this climate is as essential as house comfort. Make your porch look inviting by repainting the chairs and seats. We recommend carriage paint for porch furniture. It is inexpensive, easily applied and gives that glossy finish so desirable in outside furniture. Comes in eight colors, besides black and white. Half pint, 40c; pint, 60c; quart, $1.00. Brush to apply it, 25c up.—P. H. Matthews, Los Angeles, Cal.

Lots of compliments yesterday on the appearance of our new wagon, just out. Have you seen it? Let us advise with you what it advertises—paints—for all kinds of good painting.—The Lawrence Paint Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Fix that "scratchy" bath tub. It's an extremely easy matter to make it comfortable. You can do it yourself at a cost of next to nothing. Just give it a coat of Harrison's bath tub enamel. Made just for the purpose. Resists the action of hot water; gives a tub a smooth, durable surface, eliminating all the scratchy spots. A pint is enough to cover a tub thoroughly.—P. H. Matthews Paint House, Los Angeles, Cal.

It's mere child's play to apply our paints and make your house look slick, span, new and clean, and there is nothing as clean as new paint.—Hjerpe & Munson Co., Galesburg, Ill.

Makes home cheerful. Ladies, improve the complexion of your houses, inside and out. It's remarkable what a single coat of house beautifier will do in brightening up the house itself, the occupants thereof, as well. So in offering you a choice of many colors and shades of A1 paints, we're trying to better your house, make more cheerful your household.—A. B. Dure Co., Mobile, Ala.

Paint man quotes: "Little drops of water, little grains of sand, make the mighty ocean, make the mighty land." Have you ever seen unusual paint in bottom of pail? It's good money wasted. Every drop of Sherwin-Williams paint can be used. It counts too. Helps keep pocketbooks fat.—The Lawrence Paint Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

A man who knows about paints—will select our paints every time. They are high-grade in quality—but moderate in price. They will wear and preserve the surface on which they are put—will hold their color and won't peel or crack. They are easy to put on with a smooth finish. Mixed for outdoor or indoor use.—Tanner Paint and Oil Co., Richmond, Va.

Insure your porch against decay by using paint that protects. Paint is cheaper than lumber and repairing bills and a heap quicker. Two coats of paint a year will make a porch and steps last ten years longer. Paint that is walked on, scrubbed and cleaned and exposed to the weather must be good paint.—The Stambaugh-Thompson Co., Youngstown.

Pure prepared paint is a perfect paint and is unsurpassed for durability in this climate. Properly used it will retain its finish and wear better than lead and oil mixed by hand. We guarantee Pure Prepared paint to be composed of pure white lead, pure oxide of zinc and pure linseed oil, and coloring pigments and contains no adulterant. Give it a trial on your next work.—Barrett-Hicks Co., Fresno.

Hot weather is good time to paint. Everything is dry and buildings properly painted now will last for many years. It would seem like a vacation to us to make that old weather beaten house look like a new one. That is what paint is for, and that is what we are here for; to make the homes of Fresno more attractive, both exterior and interior, better to live in, better to keep, better to sell or rent; in fact a little of our wall paper and paint will always bring results.—Patterson-Dick Co., Fresno, Cal.

Is beautiful, durable and inexpensive. Let us tell you how to make your home attractive, inside and out without a big pocketbook. Ask for color cards, booklets, facts and prices.—Lowe Bros., Joliet, Ill.

Paint it. Step off and take a look at your home. Doesn't it need painting? This is the time to have it done and there's no better paint to use than Crescent paint. It stands the climate, looks best and wears longest.—Esler's Paint Store, Denison, Tex.

Our B. P. S. carriage, buggy, and wagon paints are made with the same care, of same materials as the house and other paints, which means the use of the best material to be had, prepared by experts in the business. The carriage and buggy paints are easily applied, have a fine, hard, and durable finish, will look well, wear well, and give you entire satisfaction.—W. B. Miller & Son, Springfield, Ill.

A few reasons why Diamond wall finish is better than any other finish on the market. Any number of coats can be applied over each other and will not crack or scale, thus avoiding the expense of washing the walls. Diamond wall finish can be applied on wood, brick, canvas or papered walls and ceilings. Won't harden in the pail. Mixed for use to-day, can be used to-morrow or next week, an important item regarding expense. Free from poisonous matter and has strong disinfecting qualities, thoroughly sanitary in every respect. Sold only by J. B. Donovan & Co., Baraboo, Wis.

Good results is what everybody is striving for, no matter in what channel of activity it may be. If you are after satisfactory results from the use of paints, success will crown your efforts if you insist on getting the Imperial ready mixed paints, for which we are the exclusive selling agents in this city.—Tuttle Paint & Glass Co., El Paso.

PARASOLS AND UMBRELLAS

"Whenever I get an umbrella," said the prudent citizen,
 "I put my name on it."
 "So do I," answered the man without a conscience.
 "The person who used to own it isn't likely to identify it."
 —San Francisco Wasp.

Parasols in rich variety.—It's to be hoped Old Sol will be more lavish with his sunshine in the future. When you are not under an umbrella, you should be carrying a parasol. You find nowhere a richer variety of styles or better values than right here.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Summer parasols in pretty dark shades.—Pure silk coaching parasols, some of the most attractive conceits shown this season. Nothing more effective for setting off a costume and to give that requisite brilliancy so essential to seashore toilettes. In distinctive colors, all of the darker shades, to match the summer's prettiest dress fabrics.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

Parasols under price.—The urgent need-time for parasols is here. The "Fourth of July" is only a week away. If your sun protector is not yet bought, you're lucky enough, if your eye catches this word of parasol news. We bring out on the main aisle to-day a half-dozen superb groups, including the choicest parasols of the season; and every lot shows sharp price-cutting that will be gratifying to those who get here to share these servicable beauty-things at such small outlay.—Wanamakers, New York.

A parasol panic.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Parasols for sunshiny days.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

Stunning novelty parasols.—Protection from the sun's warm rays must be had, of course. We offer it and at a reasonable expense in the stunning display we make of beautiful high class parasols.—Powers, Minneapolis, Minn.

Parasols—sun umbrellas.—Parasols are the daintiest—every woman must have the right one as the climax of her summer dress. But sun umbrellas are most practical—perfect protection, rain or shine.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Handsome new parasols.—Our summer parasols are here—and such beauty—such richness and elegance—they are a treat for the eye. By far the most beautiful line ever shown in Duluth. Don't fail to see them—they are sure to please you. Prices very low.—Freimuth's, Duluth, Minn.

Prettiest of parasols.—From the two hundred or more styles of pretty parasols in this sunshade corner, something which particularly pleases your fancy should be found. And purse as well as fancy may be satisfied, for there's every sort of price as well as every sort of parasol.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

The remainder of a large special purchase and about two hundred fresh samples, so many dainty, summery color effects that you are pretty sure to find the style you want, at a saving of close to half.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

All silk parasols. The newest colorings in tucked, hemstitched, pongee and plain effects; also white and black, with plain colored and dresden borders, handles of natural wood, also enamel handles to match silk, $1.95, $2.50, $2.95, value $3.00 to $4.00.—Lord & Taylor, New York, N. Y.

A window display helps us tell this parasol story.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Here's a special Saturday sale of handsome new parasols, in which are all the daintiest and most bewitching sorts, as well as the plainer and more staid varieties—with prices interestingly low in every instance.—Bloomington Bros., New York.

This season we have an exceptionally large line of nobby parasols. They comprise the very swellest effects in nobby coachings or the graceful ruffled sun shades. A correct parasol is the finishing touch to a summer toilet. We have them to harmonize with gowns of all kinds.—A. Livingston & Sons, Bloomington, Ill.

The cool weather has affected the sale of parasols to such a degree that the makers found themselves with a great overstock on hand. We have bought this lot at remarkable price concessions, and to-morrow they will be sold at hitherto unheard of little prices.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Take a peek at our parasols. The sun has again condescended to show a beaming face and instead of rain umbrellas it's sun umbrellas that are needed. You are bound to be interested in parasols—our parasols. There are the dainty, dressy ones, regular heart-breakers, and the sensible neat sun umbrellas, each and every one desirable in quality, and the price just as reasonable as it can be made.—Eastman Bros. & Bancroft, Portland, Me.

A sample line of the prettiest parasols you ever saw. Samples—you know what that means. A leading manufacturer of fancy parasols sold us his entire house line of samples. So they are clean and perfect. No two alike—you will be sure not to get one just like your neighbor. Do you like to be exclusive? The sample line consists of coaching, fancy chiffon and parasols in the pompadour effect, in white and colors. These samples will be sold here to-day at about one-half their real value. These prices will range from $1 to $10, and every parasol will be a big bargain.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City.

Also a large display of street and carriage parasols of foreign and domestic manufacture, showing new and exclusive materials and handles.—Stern Bros., New York.

Beach parasols.—A good substitute for shade trees if you wish to lie on the beach and enjoy the sun, yet at the same time be able to read and take a nap.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

The parasols have been dwindling in quantity about as fast as they have dwindled in price. Now both are down to hard-pan—but though lots are small, they are attractively varied.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Clearance reductions in sunshades.—Large numbers of customers—those who appreciate the real merit of these genuine bargain offerings—are availing themselves of the opportunities offered in these reduced prices.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Parasols almost half-price.—With style assortment amply complete, the purchasing power of your money almost doubled and the hope of sunshine ahead, every woman without a parasol should give heed to these reductions.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

My lady's Derby day costume would be incomplete without a handsome parasol, and likely enough she will be very glad of its protection, too. We set the designers to work months ago to produce new and exclusive effects in sunshades for the great out-door style show.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

Sample line of Empress sun or rain parasols. A scant hundred in all; covered with pure silk taffeta, levantine, peau de soie and pongee—plain and fancy; handles of agate, sterling silver capped and gun metal.—Macy's, New York.

The parasols that fashion says you must carry are here in a large variety of styles and colors. If you want one to match a gown you can get it here—if we cannot please you in our ready made stock we will make you one to order.—Regal Umbrella Store, York, Pa.

The warm summer days bring about the necessity of owning a sun shade of some sort. Over in sunny Africa, it appears that bamboo trees are used for that purpose—you see the maidens don't have to do moving around, so a stationary bamboo tree does the work. Now, here in torrid Youngstown, the ladies haven't any bamboo trees for sun protection and if they had, they couldn't use them because everybody here is on the go. Right here is where we come in.—Strouss & Hirshberg's, Youngstown, O.

On an aisle counter to-day are grouped a lot of parasols at the uniform price of $1 each; regularly worth from $1.50 to $2.75. A mixed lot—can't describe in detail, because too few of a kind.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

In this sandwich sort of weather, one can hardly tell whether a parasol or umbrella is necessary. When in doubt, have both—it's an easy matter, while these fine groups at reduced prices last.—Wanamaker's, New York, N. Y.

Nearly all colors—no lack of color-effects and styles. A mixed lot—can't describe in detail because too few of a kind. But one is pretty sure to find a match for most any costume, or else a parasol that will "go well" with any.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

If you haven't bought your summer parasol yet, you're in great luck to have this splendid chance. Everybody is buying parasols this year. There have been seasons when fashion ignored them. Now she demands them.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

There's no gainsaying the touch of smartness that a parasol lends to a pretty frock, and this running about in summer sun without a hat, though it is delightfully cool, isn't the best thing for unprotected complexions.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Some people are complaining of dullness, but we certainly cannot complain of it in the parasol or umbrella line. They seem to be running a race to see which sells the faster—perhaps it's the little prices as well as the extremely attractive styles we show this year.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Something so delightful about these summer parasols. They remind one of Muskoka and summer-time romances. Certainly it is a cold plunge into actual fact when we say they are reduced to clear out at 89 cents. True, however, alack-a-day—85 of them.—The Robert Simpson Co., Toronto, Ont.

Out come the fresh, new parasols.—New absolutely—we did not carry over a single parasol from last season. And wonderfully dainty they are—made especially for us, so that all of them show some special and generally exclusive prettiness.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We've put down prices on Parasols and Umbrellas which makes it much less costly for you to put up one or the other, according to the weather. Several groups of attractive parasols, in this season's styles, from our own stock, have been sharply reduced; and two advantageous offerings of umbrellas also command interest.—Wanamaker, New York.

And this is but one instance of the sharp price-cuts which will be found throughout our entire stock of parasols now. Season's getting late for us, so we must hurry the stragglers out.—Wanamaker, New York.

A parasol sale for to-morrow, the best of years. Perhaps at no previous time in this store's day has there been such a parasol sale here, not only here, but elsewhere hereabouts. We never remember of such a one. These sun shades are spick and span, every one of them. They're in the newest of shapes, colors and materials. Plain covers, novelty covers, all linen covers and duck covers. Plain silks and plain silks with deep Persian borders; well, there's all sorts that are right sorts. Handles made to match the colors of the covers, or novelty bamboo handles; but come for parasols to-morrow, and you will meet with the surprise of your lifetime, we think.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Hunter's green parasols are extremely hard to get. The makers have more orders for them than they can possibly fill before the season reaches its close. One that is an Abraham & Straus special is of plain taffeta without any ornamentation whatever except the ruff of the silk upon the natural wood handle and the tips upon the ribs. Its price is $3.98 and it is here at the time when it is most wanted and when it is best liked, and every woman of fashion "wants what she wants when she wants it"—especially is this true of summer goods and styles.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Now, better values than ever in parasols. While our offerings in parasols during the last two weeks have been nothing, if not exceptional—resulting in the largest selling of parasols this store has ever experienced—the near approach of stock-taking makes it incumbent that for the next few days we give even better values. These extensive purchases must be cleared before inventory day comes around.—The T. Eaton Co., Ltd., Winnipeg, Can.

Another splendid opportunity is here offered for those who did not supply their needs earlier in the season. We have 25 high grade parasols left and have decided to close them out to-morrow at a ridiculously low price. You will find both silk and linen parasols in this lot, some are plain, some hand embroidered, some with plaid border, others with scalloped edges. Your choice of the assortment while they last.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

A rain or shine umbrella is the thing for an all-day jaunt. It looks smart if the sun is out and proves very useful if a pour comes down. At the commencement of the outing trip season we are always specially ready to meet the demands for these useful, good looking umbrella companions. All of taffeta silk in black, brown, navy, garnet—some in other colors, and prices, $1.98, $2.98, $3.98 and up.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sunshades in exquisite styles. New sunshades in an almost bewildering assortment of pretty colorings. The effects obtained by the perfection of beauty in the new shadings are extremely elegant. They are exquisitely blended in the most tasteful styles—simple but artistic—unequaled beauty. The colorings, too, are decided—the contrasts emphatic—perfect taste in absolutely correct style.—Hudson's Bay Co., Winnipeg, Can.

PERFUMES

Rare Perfumes and Toilet Preparations.—The delicate fragrance of our fine Perfumes is due to exactness in the compounding—the following odors have established themselves each in a class by itself. The values are exceptional.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Perfumes of Worth.—A good perfume is not necessarily an odor that may please when smelled from the original bottle. It must be one in which the elements are so blended that the odor will maintain all its fresh and original qualities when in use. Such odors are not easy to find. We have to exercise care in choosing them, and we think this care has provided an assortment of odors which you go far to match.—J. G. Jamieson, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

“Esprit de Louvre” perfume—a charming new French perfume never before offered in this country. It is distilled from choice flowers and is not unlike cologne, but of much greater strength. Put up in 4-ounce sprinkler top bottles to sell for $1. Introductory price, 79 cents.—Macy's, New York.

Perfume is a luxury, and when you buy a luxury you want your money's worth. If you buy a perfume that is weak and doesn't exude the essence of the real flower, you are making a poor bargain. An exquisite perfume doesn't cost but a little more than these cheap productions, and the added satisfaction is tenfold. Cirkler has the largest and best line of perfumes in the city.—Chas. H. Cirkler, Minneapolis, Minn.

Perfume. This exquisite perfume brings the delightful fragrance of the orange groves all the way across the continent. This perfume is made of real orange-blossoms, and is exquisitely dainty and lasting in its qualities.—Wanamaker, New York.

Perfumes. We have your favorite perfume. We make this statement because we have practically every choice perfume that is used in this part of the country. We take pride in the lines we handle, and the way we handle them. Prices as low as the quality will allow. We should like to have you make our store your regular shopping place for perfumes.—E. G. Fowler, Druggist, Montgomery, Ala.

The perfume that delights. In spite of the fact that we carry a splendid stock of perfumes—both foreign and domestic makes—our Green Carnation seems to possess qualities that make it the most popular of all. Its odor is true to nature, pleasing to everybody, and is both delicate and lasting. We bought a quantity of it, and although it is equal to any imported Green Carnation we're going to make a special of it at only 50c. an ounce.—Kingston, Denison, Texas.

Choice perfumes. We have a large stock of all the best, and most popular odors of the leading French, English and American perfumers. These are the delicate, lasting perfumes such as people of good taste and breeding desire. We have perfumes of all prices, either in bulk, to sell by the ounce, or in artistic bottles and cases. If you wish cheap, inferior perfumes, you must get them at some other store; but if you would have the choicest and most popular odors, get them at The Moderna Pharmacy, Binghamton, N. Y.

Taste in perfumes inevitably proves a woman to be refined and of good breeding, or to be just the opposite. Good taste demands a delightful but delicate and dainty perfume, pervading but subtle, attracting but elusive. A faint fragrance that bewitches the senses, but does not glut and nauseate them. Our new perfume is exquisite, refined and in perfect taste.—Geo. S. Layerer, Bay City, Mich.

New perfumes that delight. No store in the city carries such a complete stock of perfumes as the Owl drug store, in both foreign and domestic perfumes we believe we excel. In our large stock you will find many new and delicate odors. In selecting perfumes be sure and try this store. All prices.—Owl Drug Store, San Bernardino, Cal.

Dainty perfumes for dainty women. The most exacting person can be suited from our immense stock of choice perfumes. We have the very kind you most prefer. It necessitates our carrying a very large stock to be able to please all buyers, but we seldom see a customer walk out with anything but their favorite perfume. Come down and test us.—People's Pharmacy, Denison, Tex.

PETTICOATS

There is no in-between profit on most of these silk petticoats. We look after the making ourselves—that's why we can give you heavy quality silk petticoats at $4.95 instead of $8.00. And they are made well, too. Some have the fluffy accordion-pleated flounce, while others have the graceful, flaring sectional flounce. This $4.95 petticoat comes in colors as well as the good old standby—black.—Snellenburg, Philadelphia, Pa.

Washable petticoats. They are made of percales, gingham and seersuckers, and are in pretty patterns in stripes and checks as well as plain colors. Light and comfortable. They are extra well made, have deep flounces made pretty with ruffles and tucks. Every woman should have one or two of them to slip on at times when the better petticoat should be saved—they cost so little and can be laundered as often as you wish.—The J. L. Hudson Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

The well-groomed, careful woman dresser of to-day is a most particular and fastidious underwear buyer. This is one of the main reasons of the Verge unprecedented growth. Verge underwear is made for the most particular woman. Our petticoats are all made by skirt specialists. They fit exactly around the waist and hips. The "hang" is also correct. Verge skirts don't hitch up on one side and drag the ground on the other, but hang perfectly all around.—Verge's, Great Falls, Mont.

A petticoat sale which will prove of interest to those economically inclined. Most remarkable value ever offered in guaranteed black silk chiffon taffeta petticoats, with 18-inch silk flounce and silk dust ruffle; flounce has tailor-stitched bands, which causes the skirt to hang more gracefully and gives the top skirt a better fit. These black silk petticoats were bought to sell at $6.50, but being overstocked we reduce them for Wednesday and Thursday only, at $5.00.—Simons, Atlanta, Ga.

Silk petticoats, new stripes and plaids. Aside from offering the best possible varieties of carefully chosen styles—our plans to interest holiday purchasers have centered in offering a number of very remarkable values—three of which are mentioned.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

This silk petticoat will be placed on sale Wednesday for the first time. Specially made in our factory—a pattern that will please every woman. We know what you are looking for in petticoat goodness, and we know that you will find this skirt all that you desire at a material reduction in price.—The T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

A great purchase of guaranteed taffeta silk petticoats, to be sold at astonishing prices. Here is the best story that has come from our second floor in many a day. Silks have jumped in cost like everything else, and everyone owning quantities of the filmy stuff is holding on for the higher price, making it increasingly difficult for manufacturers to secure material and making the transaction we have just completed all the more extraordinary. Think of it! Here are something over seven hundred fine silk petticoats made of taffeta of the handsomest kinds, each one with the maker's guarantee sewed in, insuring you a new skirt if the one you buy should split or crack within three months—all made in the most perfect of this season's styles in a variety of colors and designs larger than is usually found in the stocks of the bigger stores—and all bought at a price that makes it possible for us to sell them to you for little more than half what you would have to pay ordinarily. So good is the bargain we made that a big metropolitan buyer begged the maker for a share of the petticoats so that he could make a noise, but we held fast to our fortunate find like a prospector who has found a nugget of gold.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

The petticoat can make or unmake the gown, unless it fits properly. No tailor or dressmaker can give you the fit you desire. The adjustable waist on the "Elite" insures the best imaginable fit. The daintiness of finish of the "Elite" gives a feeling of "smartness" even when your gown is old.

The fashionable figure, like a good complexion, can best be made from the inside. Don't depend for the style of your clothes upon the outer layer, as "Elite" petticoats lay the first foundation. You will be delighted with the glovelike fit at the waist and hips of the "Elite" and the beautiful flare at the bottom.—Verges, Great Falls, Mont.

PHOTOGRAPHY

"Do you think Marie's latest photograph does her justice?"

"Yes; but it's a case of justice tempered with mercy."—Indianapolis Sun.

Babies! Soon they will be big boys and girls, and their baby faces will be only a memory. Bring the babies and we'll catch their smiles.—Moore, Simcoe, Ont.

Our photographs have life to them. They are almost speaking likenesses, yet have all the softness and richness of a painting. Our cameras are not manipulated by mere mechanical photographers, but by artists who can give tone and light and beauty to the reproduction.—A. L. Merrill, Woonsocket, R. I.

Special for the Children.—Bring the little ones during the morning hours—any time before noon—and have them sit for a photograph. We'll designate the morning hours as children's hours and give you this inducement: $3.50 and $4.00 Cabinets, $3.00 per dozen. Parents will kindly remember this, bring the little ones during the morning and get the benefit of the reduced price.—Kottman's Studio, Altoona, Pa.

How About Your Photograph?—Naturally at this season people are looking well. Many are taking advantage of these conditions—and it is a pleasure for the photographer that he is now able to put forth his best effort. Do not delay until the very hot weather—but call at your earliest convenience, and select the style you wish.—Davis Gallery, Richmond, Va.

Rogers the Baby Catcher is now catching baby pictures at the Cobb Studio.—T. V. Rogers, Binghamton, N. Y.

Children Look Their Sweetest in photographs that are produced under the experienced and artistic handling of this studio. We have earned a reputation second to none in the United States in the making of baby pictures and family groups.—The Smith-Curry Studio, Rochester, N. Y.

Have the baby photographed. We'd like to take the picture of the baby. Sittings till you are pleased.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

It's curious that so few photographers bring out all the good points in a subject. A little study of each individual soon shows us whether a profile or full face picture would be best. This ascertained, we pose the subject so that all good points are enhanced and others modified.—Tooke's Studio, Westfield.

Individuality is the key note to a perfect portrait. Bringing out the real personality, the fine points in character, the little traits that make us what we are. Toned down by the natural spirit of an artist into perfect accord. Not a thing of paper and pasteboard with a ready-made look. If you want a photo of your real self, of what your friends see to love and admire, call on Barnett, leading photographer.—Barnett, Crowley, La.

Pictures of babies especially require patience and knowledge of the art of photography in detail on the part of the man who does the picture making.

I've been "catching" babies in their cutest poses for years and some of the best baby photos in the country are products of my studio. I take old folks and medium grown-ups too.—Rogers, Binghamton, N. Y.

The know how of artistic photography! Just enough light here—not too much there, putting the shadows where they will bring out the proper lines, posing the subject, so that character and personality will stand out prominently—years of experience and study have enabled us to do this—and that is responsible for the superior quality of our work.—The Babbitt Studio, Washington.

Have you had baby's photo taken? It's an art to take baby's photograph as it should be taken. To catch his roguish little smile, his pretty little dimple. Such photographs become prized remembrances of babyhood's days in years to come. Our photographer has had over twenty years' experience in photographing children. Children always look their best when he takes them. No troublesome posings. Snap them in a second.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

PIANOS

In this humble cot there was a grand piano.

"Fortunate home!" quoth I, for I deem music a great blessing.

"Yes; we had to eat breakfast food three times a day for nine years to get the right coupons; but we got 'em!" exclaimed the father, glowing.

Man does not live by bread alone; sometimes it kills him.
—Puck.

No piano can be considered entirely satisfactory which permits only a limited range of musical enjoyment. Yet any piano constructed for hand-playing alone is extremely limited in its scope so far as the vast majority of people are concerned. To be entitled to be considered "complete" a piano nowadays must combine both of the accepted methods of playing: by hand and by the Pianola. The only piano which unites in a single instrument both of these methods is the Pianola piano.—The Aeolian Co., New York, N. Y.

The rich, round, full and sympathetic tone places the Weber piano in the list of those instruments which are so eagerly sought after by musicians who demand the highest standard of excellence in the piano they use.—The B. Dreber's Sons Co., Cleveland, O.

The Chase & Baker is the king of all piano players, because you can play more beautifully on it than on any other. You are invited to hear it play on the Germain. The only piano that positively improves with age.—The Germain Piano Co., Saginaw, Mich.

This fine pianist has 88 deft fingers. The Apollo concert grand piano player can play with wonderful effect on the piano the massive musical works of the great composers. There is nothing that can compare to it in the musical instrument line.—Melville Clark Piano Co., Chicago, Ill.

Moving time is here, and if your piano is not in good shape, action needs regulating, strings want renewing, etc., drop a postal to the Wissner Piano warerooms and we will bring it to our factory repair department and return it to your new home as good as new for very little expense.—Wissner Building, Jersey City.

Tact is better than talent.—Use it in selecting a piano. A touch on the responsive Emerson tells an attractive story of delight to follow in its use. No "half-way" work in building it. Sympathetic care exercised at every step—the result, a piano to be proud of.—W. J. Dyer & Bro., St. Paul, Minn.

Put sense with your $$$ when you make your piano purchase; then you'll buy wisely and economically. We offer you the cream of all the world's pianos—15 different makes, and many styles of each make. You'll like their tone, their action, their beauty—and their price, which in every case is below factory figures.—M. H. Andrews, Bangor, Me.

Dead pianos.—There are hundreds of dead pianos in Toronto. Their voices are dumb. The music that once rejoiced the ears is heard no more. The hand that touched the keys is laid away or some domestic change has removed it from the family circle. There the piano still stands—dead furniture. The Chase & Baker piano player brings them to life. It is the greatest modern invention, which plays the piano with greater precision than a professional performer and with expression. It can be played by a child or grown person, who may know nothing of music technically. The Chase & Baker piano player is even used by accomplished musicians to show the exact interpretation of different passages. It is a perfect piano player.—The Nordheimer Piano and Music Co., Toronto.

An artistic piano is vastly different from the ordinary kind. It is true that in general appearance pianos are similar, but in details there will be found varying qualities from the "tin pan" variety up to the piano that has that satisfying quality that even the musically uneducated detect at once. That beautiful singing quality of tone and evenly balanced scale proclaim the artistic piano.—The Starr Piano Co., Youngstown, Ohio.

Piano economy doesn't lie so much in simply paying the smallest price as it does in paying the smallest price and getting the very best for your money. That's where we help you economize. Here are 15 different makes of pianos—the highest standards of the world—and we guarantee you'll find absolute piano satisfaction in any one of them. All prices below factory figures.—M. H. Andrews, Bangor, Me.

We firmly believe that we are better able to sell you a piano for your home than any other dealer. Our belief is based upon the fact that we carry only pianos of known worth. The kind that have been tried right here, at home, and elsewhere, and not found wanting in tone, construction or finish.—Carl Hoffman, Kansas City, Mo.

When you buy that piano you've been talking about the style of wood and general exterior should be such as to please you exactly. The tone should be rich, pure and musical to a degree. The mechanical make-up of the interior should be such as to insure years of honest service. The price should be suited to your means. The terms (if you require time) should be capable of being easily and comfortably handled. In all of the above respects we are in a position to serve you to your entire and lasting satisfaction.—Martin & Martin, Rochester, N. Y.

September piano buying.—Right in the heart of it now. It took a few days to spread the news. The result could not but increase our August business, as well as solve the problem of furnishing the home with a piano. Prudent people are taking advantage of our several easy payment plans, especially at this time on account of the extraordinary values offered. There is no exaggeration of values. The economy is all it seems to be. No guesswork, but plain, up-to-date business proposition. It's the chronometer against the old sand glass. Every day last week brought a handsome increase over the business of the corresponding days of 1907, and now the early buyers are helping in the advertising. Closer figures on pianos and more liberal terms were never offered. Is the tremendous selling explained?—Philip Werlein, New Orleans, La.

New England pianos.—Our factory and our sales are the largest in the world. Our pianos are unrivalled. The tones are full, clear and sweet. The touch is unsurpassed. The scales are scientifically correct. The case work is elegant in design and beautiful in finish.

The durability is wonderful.—New England Piano Co., Boston, Mass.

Pianos at a sacrifice.—Real savings in piano value are not rare when applied to individual makes. We have constantly offered some particular makes at a large saving since opening our piano warehouses, but the savings now offered on several lines of new pianos and remade, used pianos present opportunities rare indeed. Instead of a single make and one or two styles to choose from, you now have several makes and not less than fifteen case designs, and every one of them desirable.—Loeser's, Brooklyn.

Emerson piano quality.—Quality in a piano is absolutely essential, for a poor quality piano is not a piano at all. It may be a "furniture piano" if you will, but it is not a musical one—and what is the good of a piano if it is not musical?

The Emerson piano seems to grow better every day. The makers of this instrument have lately surpassed themselves. The pianos that are now coming to us are simply magnificent. The touch, the tone, and the finish are better than ever before. The more difficult you are to please, the better we shall like it, for you cannot but be pleased with these instruments, yet with all their goodness they are sold for a fair price on easy terms.—B. Fink & Son, Kenton, O.

If there were any better pianos made we would have them.—O. Young's, Grand Forks, N. D.

Light is breaking on the Kansas City piano situation, and we hail it with gracious feelings of welcome.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Don't measure the cost of a piano altogether by the price you pay. The permanent satisfaction it will give, the quality of tone it possesses and will possess after years of use, and the amount of repairs that it will then need, are important points.—A. Brunton, Jersey City, N. J.

Steck piano. For forty-six years the "Old Reliable." To those about to purchase a piano this brief statement is pregnant with meaning. It makes good the claim of the Steck piano to superior tone quality and unparalleled durability.—Steck Piano Co., New York.

Remarkable for depth and quality of tone. Possessing an action whose delicate repetitions and surety of touch are a delightful revelation of mechanical skill and expert workmanship.—E. L. Catlin, 709 Chapel St., New Haven.

The only store where the celebrated Sohmer pianos are sold is located at corner Broadway and Mason Street.—S. A. Mondschein Piano Co., Milwaukee.

A piano store worthy of the name. The character and quality of the instruments that make up the stock here are such as immediately inspire confidence in the mind of the prospective purchaser. The peerless Knabe heads the list, followed by such renowned makes as Gabler, Packard, Bush & Gerts, Schubert, Price & Teeple, Laffargue, Hobart M. Cable, Victor, Davenport & Treacy. Every one of these pianos was selected for its absolute merit not only in tone quality but its entire construction, and we have so much that's good to say in regard to each that we will appreciate an opportunity to talk to you, either by seeing you in our warerooms or by mailing our catalogue. Our prices are the lowest possible, and every instrument is tagged with the lowest net price marked thereon. It is certainly a great satisfaction to a customer to know that no "haggling" over price is necessary to reach the rock bottom.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

An excellent way to purchase a piano is first to rent it. You can then be sure of a piano that suits you perfectly. We pride ourselves upon the quality, size and variety of our rent stock; it is a revelation to those who have rented old, worn-out pianos.—Pease Piano Co., New York.

When this sale is over, no more so good pianos for so little money are likely for a long time—it necessarily takes a good while to gather a collection of instruments and put them in the condition in which we are willing to offer them to our customers.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

The year 1905 finds the Pease piano at the very height of its musical and artistic supremacy. The new styles are now on exhibition, among which particular attention is called to the new style "4," in Ionic design. The Pease scale contains more covered bass strings than any other piano, and these strings run well into the middle register, thus insuring a tone of great depth and power.—Pease Piano Co., Newark, N. J.

The real piano problem is not to find a cheap piano but to find a thoroughly good piano at a low price. It is no trouble to find a cheap piano, there are cheap pianos without number. Some few of them are sold for what they really are, a poor substitute for a proper piano, but most of them are sold as "wonderful bargains." Yet anything further removed from a genuine bargain than a typical cheap piano it would be difficult to imagine. To meet the real need of the public, the demand for a thoroughly good piano at a low price, we have instituted certain great economies in selling. These economies have nothing to do with the making of the piano. Not a piece of wood, or metal, or leather, or ivory is cheapened. But on the contrary through increased output the opportunity for a constant betterment is presented.—Lyon & Healy, Chicago, Ill.

We have put forth an instrument with which we can say to the musical world: Here is the Lauter, which is offered on its merits as without exception the best piano now manufactured. The tone is of phenomenal beauty, of great carrying power, and exquisite modulation. Considering their unusual goodness, Lauter pianos are not expensive. The prices are extremely low in comparison with the cost of pianos of decidedly inferior quality.—Lauter Co., Jersey City, N. J.

We have been established in this State since 1854. Our reputation for fair and square dealing is known all over the Pacific coast. An instrument placed in your home on trial for three years; at the expiration of that time if you are not satisfied with it, we will exchange it, allowing you all you have paid for the instrument, to apply on purchase of any piano you may select, and we carry about fifteen different makes. Not one cent added to the principal if you buy on time.—Kohler & Chase, Sacramento, Cal.

When you sit down to the Simplex a second or two serves to wind the mechanism which keeps the rolls passing over the tracker board, so you can give all your time and thought and all the marvelous capacity for expression contained in the wind chest, to the one task of interpretation by varying tempo, rhythm or accent. When through playing the roll re-winds itself automatically. In other words, you do not have to pedal to either turn or re-wind the roll—the pedals are left entirely free for musical expression.—Sedgwick & Coosey, Hartford, Conn.

"That singing tone" so noticeable in the violincello is one of the distinguishing features of the Pease Pianos; on that account it is the ideal piano for the vocalist; the reason for this is the convex form in which the sounding boards of the Pease pianos are built; it gives a life to the tone that does not wear out.—Pease Piano Co., New York.

New England pianos.—They contain all the requisites of strictly first-class pianos. The tone is unrivaled. The touch is unsurpassed. The scales are scientifically correct. The case work is elegant. The finish is beautiful. The durability will delight for many years.—New England Piano Co., Boston, Mass.

The Cecilian, the perfected piano player, simple in construction. Easy to pump. Capable of expressing the most soul-inspiring classic music as well as the simplest rag-time melodies.—Geo. J. Birkel Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Fond memory brings the light of other days around you when you hear the sweet strains of music from a Hallet & Davis piano, and to hear one is to want one. Let us show you what the expenditure of very little money will do for your home.—Cleveland, O.

The Steinway piano.—If ever a better piano than the Steinway is made we will sell it. But until that time comes we will continue to guarantee the Steinway to be the best piano in all the world today. The Jenkins' plan of selling saves money and makes buying easy for anybody. Come along with the crowd and buy where you get treated the best.—J. W. Jenkins' Sons Music Co., Kansas City, Mo.

To-morrow will bring to fifty homes the little-price opportunity of the year to possess a good piano. The season and conditions join hands to make piano buying easy to-morrow. A large number of used pianos, taken in exchange, have accumulated; then we wish to sell those that we have rented during the past season; and now comes a superb collection of Chickering pianos that have just been remade, as to interiors, in the Chickering factory. Making in all an aggregation of fifty-one used pianos and a number of Angelus Piano players, and a few organs. We are inundated with under-price instruments; and the relief movement planned for to-morrow brings the best economy-time of the year to homes that are willing to sacrifice a modicum of sentiment for a maximum of saving. Such an array of Chickering Pianos so sharply under their original values is one of the rarest opportunities that discriminating economists could hope for. Here are pianos par excellence; the supreme product of musical genius, and piano-making skill—pianos that deserve and command the highest prices that pianos bring; now obtainable, in previously used and refinished cases, at thirty to a hundred and seventy-five dollars below the value of similar models in new cases. Such an offering is rare, decisive, commanding—unheard of outside of Wanamaker's; and conditions make the June sale momentous to thrifty homes where a piano is desired.—Wanamaker's, New York.

We sell first-class pianos at smaller prices than the sole dealers. If you have a piano already, but feel that you would like to put it in part payment for one of our instruments, we will certainly allow you all it is worth. Every piano in our wareroom has a settled price and from that price we do not deviate. When you tell us you want us to take your old piano in part payment, we do not put up the price of the new instrument to cover what we pay for your old one. We sell pianos on easy terms. Come here and learn about those easy terms. They will suit you. Our pianos comprise eminent makes that had a high reputation for thorough goodness of tone and construction before we featured them in our store. They are the Kranich & Bach, Hazelton, Ruckstuhl, Lindeman, Leins and Princeton.—Hahne & Co., Newark.

The pianos in this sale are of high character. Our guarantee, as broad as we can make it, is back of every one. We know they are the best instruments, very much the best instruments that may be bought anywhere for as little prices. We know that every one of them will give satisfaction. We know that to-morrow and the days to come will bring the best chances to buy pianos that have ever been offered in Brooklyn.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

The simplest and easiest to operate of all piano playing machines. Its sympathetic qualities of action are such that it lends itself to the mood of the performer; thus while the Sterling piano player does away with drudgery of years in vain efforts to master the piano, its possibilities, delicacy, sensitiveness, range, ease of operation and variety of effects are unlimited, and it responds exactly to the interpretation of the performer's individuality. We want you to come in and see this wonderful piano player work.—M. Sonnonberg Piano Co., New Haven, Conn.

The dignity of the home calls for a piano. If the piano corner in your house is still unfilled let us show you how well, how cheaply and upon what favorable terms we can fill it.—Mackie Piano & Music Co., Rochester, N. Y.

A suggestion for the prospective piano buyer: It can't harm you to call at 543 Broadway before you buy. It may benefit you.—Boardman & Gray, Albany.

Our warerooms are always a pleasant place to visit. We have here a stock of pianos that is beyond a doubt the largest in this country. We have not only our own magnificent Lauter pianos, but four or five other noted makes as well. We invite visitors whether they have any intention of buying or not. We are always glad to show our stock, and explain prices and easy terms on the many different styles.—Lauter Co., Newark.

To make a statement as a fact presupposes the existence of a certain condition absolutely beyond the pale of denial. There are some facts in connection with the Wissner pianos which ought to be valuable to intending purchasers. One fact is the splendid reputation these instruments have with musicians and pianists of prominence, this magnificent record of artistic successes extending over many years. They have unvaryingly maintained their reputation for the highest merit during a period of the greatest competition for artistic recognition ever known to the trade. There is a reason for this. Every phase of advanced technique and interpretation has been carefully studied in connection with the artistic development of these instruments.—The Wissner Piano Co., New York.

That's what a customer told us who came in last week and bought a Vose piano. He didn't know about pianos, and naturally inquired among friends about where was the best place to buy a piano. They all said "Go to Jenkins." They said rightly, because where the majority buy is bound to be the best place. Our store is the best place because we sell the best makes of pianos and we quote the lowest prices, grade for grade, and we sign the guarantee with the factory, making a double guarantee on each piano we sell.—J. W. Jenkins' Sons Music Co., Kansas City, Mo.

It is a fact that many pianos have but one merit—beautifully finished cases. And perhaps there is no time in the year when the purchaser of a piano needs to use so much care in buying an instrument, just because outward show is made to take the place of inward reliability. The artistic Sterling designs are the world over recognized as first, but the Sterling's beauty is the far finer charm of a wonderful expression of tone which has made it acknowledged as the standard of musical excellence.—The Sterling Piano Co., Brooklyn.

The finest in the world! How's that for a distinction? Do you wonder that we keep telling about the tone, worth and beauty of our product? Can you blame us for feeling elated over the artistic Stieff piano. Merit wins. No merit, no medal. The competition was keen in every instance—the world's best was in the race.—Stieff, Norfolk, Va.

Owing to the special price at which these pianos are offered, we are obliged to omit the maker's name from the announcement; but when you come you will recognize it as one widely and favorably known. They would be fairly priced at $300.00, and are sold for as much as $325.00 by some dealers, but we bought a number under unusual conditions, at a large saving, and assure you that they are a very remarkable value at $225.00. Handsomely cased, in hardwood, mahogany or walnut, double-veneered, ornaments all hand-carved, full swinging music desks, grand full-board, continuous nickle hinges on fall-board and top, best ivory keys. Original scale of excellent tone quality, 7 1-3 octaves, three unisons throughout, overstrung bass, three pedals, including sustaining bass. Action very light and elastic.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

The question of buying a piano is one that requires due deliberation. There are vital points at stake. What tone do you like? What kind of a case? How much to pay? Then what make to buy? Look well before purchasing. Cheap pianos are dear at any price. Then there are pianos that have good reputations in days gone by, and are being sold to-day on that reputation. They have lost character and that is essential in every piano. For forty-five years D. S. Andrus & Co. have been selling pianos in this vicinity. They have handled very many of the pianos on the market, and now they are prepared to give the patrons their choice of twenty-five different makes, which embrace the best in their line for the money.—D. S. Andrus & Co., Elmira, N. Y.

Tone and touch, the two fundamentals in piano making, without which any piano is almost worthless. Our pianos embody these two essentials to a great extent, and besides they are reliable, durable and artistically finished. We never sell a piano that we do not know to be all that is claimed for it. We have been in business for twenty-five years and merit your confidence. Always glad to see you. Open evenings.—Kempf Bros., Utica, N. Y.

Our Prices are never Sharp.

Our Pianos are never Flat.

And our Terms are turned in the key of Liberality, when you buy a Piano at Gibbons Piano Company, Worcester.

The Weber Tone.—Rich, round, full and sympathetic, places the Weber Piano in the list of those instruments which are so eagerly sought after by musicians who demand the highest standard of excellence in the Piano they use.—The B. Dreker's Sons Co., Cleveland, O.

Steinway pianos. The wonderful Steinway is possessed of a tone that refines and enriches the voice of every associated instrument—it is a creative tone, with all the elements of music self-contained. It is this exclusive quality that has made the Steinway piano essential to every great artistic triumph of the concert stage; to the work of every careful teacher; to the pleasure of every thoughtful amateur.—Geo. J. Birkel Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

A piano means much for the family. There is a wonderfully unanimous testimony to the desirability of having a piano. We do not know any person who regrets having purchased a piano; we know that everybody's opinion that is worth having is favorable to the instrument. A home is brightened and improved by music, and is made a better place in which to live. From the oldest to the youngest, all are cheered and elevated by this ever-popular influence. Why should you be without a piano? Lauter Co., Newark, N. J.

A piano of thorough goodness, at a popular price and on the easiest terms. That the Wanamaker piano store has accomplished wonders in the evolution of the piano business, the whole musical trade admits. The taking over of the selling in New York and Philadelphia, first of the Chickering, and, more recently, the Mason & Hamlin pianos, was the utmost proof of prestige in the piano trade. But another great work has been accomplished—still more vital to the thousands of people who do not wish to invest the amount necessary to buy a piano of the highest class. That is the providing of a thoroughly worthy piano at a very low price. In the pianos of superlative quality we knew what we wanted. But to secure the best possible pianos at a moderate price required two years of searching and testing, and prospecting with the manufacturers. We secured pianos of merit beyond controversy—superior in every point of comparison, tone, construction, action and finish—far and away the best and most artistic pianos ever produced.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Piano purchasers, buy direct from the maker and save money. The Matchless Cunningham and Girard pianos' prices and terms are lower for the same grade than any other house in America. Reason simple—first hands.—Cunningham Piano Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Piano buyers have two ways of looking at a bargain—price and quality. Some think only of price, but the wise buyer considers above all else quality. This we can furnish you for much less money than usually asked for inferior goods.—The John Hoyt Piano Co., Davenport, Ia.

Fine Pianos at Reduced Prices. A Notable Sale Marks the Piano Store's Anniversary.—A very great piano business has grown up here in two years. It started modestly, without hurrah—but its principles were right. It has been managed on the same simple, straightforward plan that marks every feature of the Loeser business. It has offered to the people of Brooklyn a choice of pianos in several grades, each the very best in its class, each at one fixed price, and that the lowest for which pianos of equal merit are anywhere sold. As fast as people found these facts out, such a business was bound to grow. This is the piano store's anniversary, and we mark it with an offering of a number of pianos which have been taken in exchange for other makes or still finer instruments.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"What piano shall I buy?" How to solve what appears to many to be a difficult problem. Piano purchasing isn't such a vexatious matter if you go about it in the right way. We long ago made it clear to an immense and enthusiastic clientele that we could sell high-grade pianos at moderate prices without experiencing the least embarrassment in the matter of obtaining public attention.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

The heavenly choirs will doubtless delight us when our opportunity comes, but until then there's nothing more in tune with the choir invisible than our pianos. They satisfy in every way, beautiful in case, construction and tone, easy in action, and not too expensive.—The Keating Music House, Crookston.

The long winter evenings will soon be here and you may as well have the advantage and pleasure of a Piano in your home. You can get it now as well as waiting until Christmas. Don't keep thinking you can't afford it. You will never have one thinking that way. Call at our store and hear the opportunities extended you by the "Germain" one-price and Easy Payment System.—Germain Piano Co., Saginaw, Mich.

No matter how low a price you are charged here for a piano or organ, you can hold this store responsible for the very best satisfaction. These are specials, good for to-day and to-morrow only.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton.

The world's most eminent musicians, by whom they are extensively used, assert that the Wissner Pianos have given to the world new ideas of tone-production—new theories as to what really constitutes durability in a Piano. The record of the Wissner House, during the past quarter century, during which period it has supplied the Brooklyn public with high-class Pianos, is unparalleled in the history of the industry. And its phenomenal success is the result of one great underlying principle—a determined policy to make the best Piano that ability, experience and capital would render possible.—Wissner, Brooklyn, N. Y.

In order to make room for the new models which are daily arriving we have decided to close out several of Kranich & Bach pianos now on hand at substantial reductions from regular prices. With the exception of perhaps a slight scratch or rubbed case, scarcely noticeable in most instances, these pianos are absolutely perfect and are fully guaranteed. The opportunity to secure one of these magnificent instruments at so much below the usual cost is bound to make a stir among music-loving folks. It is the chance of a life-time.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Matchless Cunningham we guarantee for fifteen years. That beautiful tone quality which has given this instrument its supremacy in the musical world is a permanent possession. It is not veneered on, but it is in the very fiber of every bit of well-seasoned material used. We give our pianos time to mature.—The Cunningham Piano Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

It won't cost you much to put a beautiful Emerson piano in your home. The high character of Emerson pianos is known in every musical community. Before the public since 1849 they have demonstrated genuine musical worth and durability; a combination of value to the careful buyer seldom equaled. The moderate price at which we sell this standard instrument and the very favorable terms make it possible for us to furnish an Emerson even where one's means are somewhat limited.—Sedgwick & Casey, Hartford, Conn.

The scale of the Lauter piano is almost ideal. This fine scale gives a delightful modulation that we do not think has ever been attained in any other instrument. The tone is exquisite, for it is delicate and powerful and rich and ringing in remarkable degree.—Lauter Co., Newark.

And no price is low enough to tempt one to buy a piano of shallow tone, and poor action—that will humiliate you in the opinion of your musical friends.

We were a couple of years searching for a piano, at this moderate price, that should be worthy at every point. But we have yet to find a customer dissatisfied with a purchase of a J. C. Campbell Piano. It stands head and shoulders above all other pianos sold for $200 or less.—Wanamaker, New York.

If you have five or six hundred dollars to spend, of course there is no question what to do. You will buy a splendid Knabe Piano. But if the appropriation is only $200, then what? That's an important question, for hundreds and hundreds more people can afford $200 for a piano than can afford $500. Suppose you can buy a $275 piano for your $200!

It is just that supposition which we have turned into fact in the Reiman Piano. It took two years of hard work with makers to do it. But now the Reiman piano is in a class by itself—is the best piano in the world for $200.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

When you decide to buy a Piano you investigate the subject for a day or two, or perhaps a week, and then you buy. But we have been studying for a lifetime how to get the very best piano in the world for just the price you wish to pay. Now don't you think that experience of ours is worth something to you? And, besides, our investigating has developed the Jenkins plan which gives you the lowest price at the start without haggling and dickering.—J. W. Jenkins Sons Music Co., Kansas City, Mo.

It took almost two years to do it, but we did it, and the way people have been talking about the Oscar Reiman Piano since we introduced it shows that we have done something worth while. We know now that if everybody who had just about $200 to spend for a Piano could compare the Reiman with all the other Pianos offered for anywhere near that price, not one of the other pianos would be sold. We haven't enough Reiman Pianos to supply everybody; but we have enough to supply you and it is about the last chance, too, to take advantage of the special terms.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Very few pianos actually wear out. It is generally the giving away of one part ahead of the others that renders a piano useless. That's why one-half of the business done to-day is in exchanges. If you buy a Pease piano you can rest assured that every detail of manufacture is carefully looked after and that there will be no premature breaking of any part. It's our boast that the tone in the Pease piano does not wear out.—Pease Piano Co., New York, N. Y.

The eternal cry for cheap pianos has been of late years, and a class of manufacturers, trusting in the ignorance of the public, have entered the market with instruments that are worthless, and they are sold right here in our city at exorbitant prices. Such instruments are a fraud and deception. There is no value to them whatever.—Smythe & Benzinger, Binghamton, N. Y.

So active has been the demand for our own make of pianos—Blasius, Albrecht and Regent—that our bargain basement is overstocked with the pianos of other makers, which we have accepted in part payment. These are put into good condition, and offered at much less than actual value. Here are a few of them that ought to be snapped up quickly.—Blasius & Sons, Philadelphia.

You will be interested in seeing the Lauter Piano in course of construction in our factory. We invite you to visit us, and we will escort you through the factory, that you may see for yourself how carefully, how scientifically the instrument is put together; that you may understand how conscientiously the work on this Lauter Piano is carried out.—Lauter Co., Newark, N. J.

Nordheimer pianos excel in touch, tone, volume and finish. These are the four leading features of a piano, and every one has been brought to the highest point of perfection in the Nordheimer. In this piano you get the results of more than 60 years' experience.—Nordheimers (Ltd.), Windsor, Ont.

"Pease" a Piano With a Name.—All other things being equal, the piano with a good name and reputation is worth $50 more than the other. The Pease name stands for fixed value and known worth and a guarantee that insures your piano from any defect. And remember that we charge nothing extra for the Pease name.—Pease Piano Co., New York, N. Y.

Several Sterling Pianos, used by artists on musical occasions. Use, instead of harming, has improved their tone quality and action. But our policy never permits us to represent a piano as new that has been used in the slightest degree. We offer them at this time of year at what we call inventory reductions prior to our stock taking on July 1st. Our advertising never savors of exaggeration; it is sterling news, and this offer means a very unusual opportunity to get an excellent instrument at a genuine saving.

Also several second-hand Sterling Pianos which have been taken in exchange for more modern designs. All have been thoroughly reconstructed and are so good that they will give fifteen to twenty years of the best musical satisfaction.—Sterling Piano Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Pianos! Pianos! Are you going to postpone much longer giving your children the advantages of a musical education? If you expect your children to be hewers of wood and drawers of water all their lives, then you don't need a piano. If you refuse to buy for your little ones a piano, they can't help it; they are helpless and must depend upon your judgment. If your wife pleads for a piano and the children cry for one, don't think they are extravagant and foolish. A piano is now a necessity. Much money is a good thing to have, but because you haven't it is no excuse for not providing your home with a piano. Five dollars per month buys one of us.—Ultey-Ultey, Buffalo, N. Y.

To-morrow we shall inaugurate the piano sensation of the year—a sale of strictly new instruments from the best piano makers of this country at less than factory prices. An occasion that ought to bring every prospective piano buyer in Milwaukee to our corner piano store this week.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.
