Choose a piano as you would a friend—slowly, carefully, wisely. It's a good plan to shop around. Visit all the piano stores in town. Look at their pianos and stores. Make a note of prices and qualities. If a dealer has a sliding scale of prices, beware of him. He doesn't mean to tote fair with you.—J. W. Jenkins Sons' Music Store, Kansas City.

Anyone can play a piano if he has a Pianola. There are never any dull moments in the summer home where there is a Pianola. That dreaded time, when out of door sports have to be abandoned through stress of weather, has lost its terrors for the far seeing hostess. The Pianola will entertain everybody, old or young, musician or layman.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Kops pianos remain a thing of rare ornamental beauty and constant joy. They require no weak praise of ours, they speak too eloquently themselves; and the highest virtuosos have contributed to their lasting fame sufficiently.—Kelly & May, West Superior.

Signal of Triumph! Touch Her Off "Uncle Sam!" Let "Old Glory" Wave! Bang! Bang! Bang! Blaze Away! Blaze Away!—Let the tones echo and re-echo o'er hill and dale, the grand tones of the grand pianos made by the celebrated makers, Ivers & Pond Piano Co., of Boston—admitted by all Bostonians to excel all others, not excepting any maker in New York or in all the world, for tone, action and durability. We sold several grands for Christmas, including one full concert grand piano. No wonder we feel like booming our cannon and giving three cheers for our flag! The time has gone by when the people thought that there must be any particular old name on the name board. Like the fast horses of former days, namely Flora Temple, Goldsmith Maid, Maud S., Rarus and others who have passed into oblivion. Too slow for new blood; been beaten out of sight! Come in and see our new stock of Ivers & Pond Grands and Uprights.—Ludlow, Barker & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Andrew Carnegie is helping people to happiness in his own way with books and pipe organs.

But how much better it is to feel independent—to be able to help yourself—to say, "My money bought this piano."—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Pianos that stand.—There are any number of pianos that look well and sound fairly well—at the start. You can buy cheap pianos that do that; but a piano should be made to last a lifetime. If it only "stays good" a few months it is dear at any price. Emerson pianos are of the kind that "stand." They are safe instruments to buy. They stand the wear and tear of every-day usage, and with ordinary care three generations of children may practice on one.—W. J. Dyer & Bro., St. Paul.

Wamelin's Pianos have been tested by years of use. Did you ever stop to think how easy it is to claim "finest grade," "highest standard," etc.? But when it comes to results—well, that's a different story. It is not our way to make exaggerated statements which we are not prepared to substantiate. We do claim that we represent a line of fine pianos that have satisfactorily stood the test of years of actual use and always given the most perfect satisfaction to purchasers.—The J. G. Wamelin & Sons Piano Co., Cleveland, O.

How many people buy more than one piano in a lifetime? Very few. It is a rare event. It requires time—it requires thought—it requires investigation. The Mason & Risch piano occupies a unique position. It has received greater praise than any other instrument anywhere. It has all the best features of other pianos. It has exclusive features of its own. It will wear longer than any other. It retains its original brilliancy of tone longer than any other. These are facts claiming your attention. They are worth investigating.—The Mason & Risch Piano Company, Montreal, Can.

Steger & Sons, unsurpassed for brilliancy of tone, elasticity of action and beauty of case.—Schmoller & Mueller, Omaha, Neb.

Kimball pianos and pipe organs are recognized by artists the world over as superb instruments; for sweetness of tone and durability they have been the standard of musicians for years. Their judgment should be yours.—W. B. Roberts, Kansas City, Mo.

"New England pianos."—They will please you. They contain all the requisites of a strictly first-class piano. The tone is full, clear and unrivaled. The touch is unsurpassed for flexibility and precision. The scales are scientifically correct, even and perfect. The case work is elegant and original in design and superb in finish. The durability is a delight for many years.—New England Piano Co., Boston, Mass.

A musical education for the children should start with the purchase of a good, sweet toned, substantial piano. It's nonsense to say that "any piano will do for the little ones." Train their young ears to appreciate the tonal beauties of an Estey or a Harvard, and you won't have to undo bad work in their later musical career.—E. J. Shafer & Co., Alliance, O.

The piano is usually the very finest piece in any home where it goes. It is the "piece de resistance." So the case is usually considered of some importance. In deference to this demand we have styles in accordance with all the established schools of art. But, after all, the artistic part of a piano is its tone. The main object of buying a piano at all is to secure good music, and the tone is the only attribute of a piano that is musical.—O. K. Houck Piano Company, Memphis, Tenn.

William Knabe began building pianos in Baltimore sixty-seven years ago. They were then the best pianos in the world. To-day William Knabe's grandsons occupy the same position accorded the Knabes three score and ten years ago. D'Albert, Von Bulow, Hamburg, Sauters, Esaye and others have repeatedly expressed their desire for this piano. The Knabe "Mignon" is the most perfect miniature grand piano in the world. See these pianos at—Ludwigs & Co.'s, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Tone and touch the two fundamentals in piano making, without which any piano is almost worthless. Our pianos embody these two essentials to a great extent, and besides they are reliable, durable and artistically finished. We never sell a piano that we do not know to be all that is claimed for it. We have been in business for twenty-five years and merit your confidence. Always glad to see you.—Kempf Bros., Utica, N. Y.

Piano purchasers, buy direct from the maker and save money. The Matchless Cunningham and Girard pianos' prices and terms are lower for the same grades than any other house in America. Reason simple—first hands.—Cunningham Piano Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

No matter how low a price you are charged here for a piano or organ, you can hold this store responsible for the very best satisfaction. These are specials, good for to-day and to-morrow only.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton.

Pianos.—Always better, year by year. We sell, in our little priced line, a better piano to-day than ever before at similar prices—better built, better tone, better finish. It's the life of our business to keep improving—keep growing.—N. J. Dyer & Bro., St. Paul, Minn.

The Chickering stands first among all pianos. It has always led; it looks as though it always will. Wherein does Chickering superiority lie? In strength of construction, breadth and beauty of tone, strength, yet delicacy of action, and splendid orchestral power. If it's the very best in pianos that you want, you must have a Chickering. See them—hear them—at our store.—M. H. Andrews, Bangor, Me.

If ever a better piano than the Steinway is made we will sell it. But until that time comes we will continue to guarantee the Steinway to be the best piano in all the world to-day. The Jenkins plan of selling saves money and makes buying easy for anybody. Come along with the crowd and buy where your money secures the most and you have some choice, as we sell seventeen different makes, 300 pianos to choose from.—J. W. Jenkins' Sons Music Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Our prices are reasonable, and the pianos we carry will meet your most hearty approval, because they are "right prices." All pianos in our store are marked in plain figures, one price to all and that the lowest to be found anywhere consistent with good musical and wearing qualities. Easy and pleasant to buy of us. We want your trade. We want to sell you your piano, organ or piano-player, and we are in a position to make you "right prices," and we certainly make it easy and pleasant to buy an instrument. We have a few decided bargains in second hand pianos and organs.—A. A. Kidder, Utica, N. Y.

The Everett "tone."—It is superb—powerful—clear—rich! You never hear its duplicate from any other piano; you never hear a poor tone from an Everett. It takes highest skill and long experience to produce pianos of the Everett standard; that is why the Everett stands so far above the average piano of to-day.—M. H. Andrews, Bangor, Me.

Music loving people will tell you they enjoy the Bradbury piano because it is a piano that stands. There are any number of pianos that are fairly good at the start, when everything is new—but a good piano, like the Bradbury, will last a lifetime. They are made for every day usage and they give the best of satisfaction. If you haven't tested it's splendid qualities we would be glad to have you come in at any time and do so.—The Hannah & Lay Merc. Co., Traverse City, Mich.

A square deal is always given the purchaser who buys a piano at our store. We represent our instruments just as they are, and our prices and terms are right. Our pianos, The Sohmer & Co., J. & C. Fischer, and Keller Bros., are well known to the musical public and do not require extravagant statements to boost them up, but only need to be seen and heard, to convince one of their superior merits. Prices from $250 to $500. Call, examine and compare. Our instruments will stand the test.—Geo. E. Snedeker & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Quality costs, but it pays. It pays not only in the wear of a piano, but the tone quality will uplift you and make you appreciate the best in music and in life. All of our different makes of pianos are of a quality to satisfy. Easiest of installment plans.—The Excelsior Co., Jersey City, N. J.

Pianos.—The outlook is encouraging—selling began almost before the stock was in shape, and interest is growing daily—purchasers seemed to know what to expect—their hopes are realized, that's certain—the sales show that. Sheet music free to every caller, and piano covers and stools at cost to get you to visit the department.—The Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

If you buy a piano buy it from a reliable house of established reputation for just dealing, and that is able to make every representation and guarantee good, and whose judgment is worth something to you in the selection of an instrument. There is one house in Tacoma of this character, where you will always get the best value for your money; also courteous treatment and perfect satisfaction ever afterwards. It is just as necessary after you buy a piano as before that you deal with the right house. During our great removal sale we are giving the lowest prices ever known. The musicians, public schools, colleges and seminaries buy here.—D. S. Johnston Co., Tacoma, Washington.

How do you buy a piano? Do you consider its ancestry—its family history? When in need of a physician or lawyer, the first thought is as to their ability; the charge for their services is at least a secondary consideration. Isn't that so? Buying a piano should be done in much the same spirit, looking to the services the piano is capable of rendering, for it may be the last you will buy during a life-time and you want it to remain a piano of merit for another generation at least. So select a Kranich & Bach, Kimball, Haines Bros., Marshall & Wendell, and be assured of satisfaction.—A. A. Kidder, Utica, N. Y.

Our pianos are sweet toned and are constructed to retain their tones. We want every prospective buyer to see our instruments before deciding what piano to buy. Our line consists of the most celebrated makes in the world. Our terms are easy and we take old instruments in exchange.—Buckingham & Moak, Utica, N. Y.

This disposition sale is a straightout proposition in piano selling which enables you to practice the very closest economy in the purchase of a piano or organ without sacrificing one iota of the beauty, style or excellence of quality of the instrument. Under ordinary circumstances the offerings of this great piano company are better than others. It should be so. We are manufacturers and deal direct with you. You readily see how we can afford to undersell others. Then, in a case like this, when we want to bring about especially quick sales we simply cut our own price on our own products.—The Cable Co., Mobile, Ala.

During the past week we have had a sale of square pianos; a remarkable sale; remarkable because of the high class instruments offered and of the low prices at which they were marked. When the sale commenced there were more than seventy pianos to select from. They have sold readily, and to-morrow will be the last opportunity to secure one of these pianos at genuine bargain prices. This offer holds good for Saturday only; should there be any left they will be remarked at regular prices Monday.—Sterling Piano Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you are a good musician, the Pianola piano is a splendid, responsive instrument of exceptional musical merit. If you have not technical facility at the piano, then the Pianola piano offers the unrivalled advantages of the Metrostyle Pianola—and by aid of the music rolls opens to you and to every member of your family the music of the world. The Pianola piano is the piano for everybody—the piano of the future, the piano of to-day. In the summer home it is invaluable. In the city house it is a constant source of pleasure and education.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

See the Capen piano. Hear the Capen piano.—Martin & Vernon Music Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Administrator's sale? Oh, no! We are alive yet! Factory sale? Not by a long shot! But a real clearing sale of new organs, regardless of wholesale prices!—Benedict's Music Store, Galesburg, Ill.

Piano economy means more than the mere price of an instrument. The principal consideration of real piano economy is quality allied to price. Construction and durability determine the quality that wears and give the real worth of the piano.—N. A. Hulbert, Scranton.

You want a piano made by a piano firm, a firm that manufactures nothing but pianos, with the one aim in view, and that to make their piano perfection. This is the aim and ambition of the Newcombe Piano Co., Toronto, and every piano sent from their factory, by their beautiful tone, artistic design and general perfection, bears testimony to the merits of a firm that devote all their time and attention to perfecting their pianos.—Hewer's Music Emporium, Woodstock, Ont.

The more closely one becomes associated with the exquisite Chickering tone the less can he be patient with the tone of any other make whatever. In the tone of this remarkable piano there is a body, a volume, a singing quality, and a sweetness that can be found in no other instrument.—Southern California Music Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

All pianos improve with use. The sounding board gets more elastic, resulting in a freer and more sympathetic tone. However, we never make a point of our pianos improving with use, their present tone needing no improvement.—H. F. Kent & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

The highest notes test the quality of a piano just as they do the human voice! If you will take the trouble to investigate, you will find that the highest notes of the Chase Bros., Hackley and Carlisle pianos are as clear as a bell—and may be sustained almost as long as the notes at the other end of the key-board. Chase-Hackley Piano Co., Richmond.

They run up against a big bunch of piano truth here. People are surprised when they come to our piano department. You ask why? Because they are told a lot of truth—truth about our pianos—truth about the pianos in other stores. We do not overstate the qualities of our pianos, neither do we discredit or run down those carried by other dealers. Our prices are so much less than other piano stores ask for the same qualities that there would be no object in running their instruments down. We can admit the full worth of the pianos carried by others and at the same time sell equal qualities for less money than other dealers must get because we have no "flying squadron" of expensive solicitors, we pay no commissions and we give no discounts.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Ten dollars, little as the sum is, will start your ownership of one of the most desirable pianos of the present day. For ten dollars we will deliver to you a beautiful Heller piano, backed by our guarantee. The balance of the cost of the piano may be paid in such small monthly sums as $6, if you wish it. We have made these unusually easy terms to enable every one to own a piano of distinctly high grade, to enable every home to have at command the influence of good music. The Heller piano is the best in its class. It has a sweet, sympathetic tone. It is such an instrument as the musician delights to use. It appeals as no other moderate priced piano does to the artistic nature. It is wonderfully durable, also, made with unusual care and skill and its case designs are as refined and perfect as the tone of the piano is admirable. We have sold hundreds of Heller pianos in Brooklyn and from the owners of almost every instrument have come either through letters or personally the most enthusiastic commendation.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

That the piano exerts a broad influence in the home there can be no doubt. The great Rubinstein once said that piano instruction should be made compulsory, if only to lighten the troubles and vexations of man and woman. Certainly there's nothing that brings more gladness and sunshine into the home than a good piano. A fortunate selection, then, becomes a matter of vital importance. Have you in view the purchase of a piano? If so, can you make a wiser choice than a Wissner would be? You want a piano with tone and action that will always invite and captivate—and never repel. A pupil will make much greater progress on a piano of this class. You want a piano that has a good standing with musicians and the musical public. You will always be proud of the name "Wissner." You want a piano constructed on scientific principles, with inflexible solidity, of the choicest material throughout, to withstand years of use and the trying conditions of our variable climate. The Wissner piano will meet these requirements fully.—Wissner, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The distinctive tone of the Vose piano has made it essentially the pianoforte of the home as well as of the artist. Over two thousand of these pianos are being used by music teachers and their pupils in Southern California.—Southern California Music Co., Los Angeles.

Nothing shows the splendid quality of Hazelton pianos better than the good quality of the piano people are willing to give up in order to have Hazelton pianos in their homes. We have quite a few of these taken-in-exchange pianos now—all of them have been repaired and regulated, and many of them cannot be told from new. Seeing is free, and buying is next thing to it.—Anderson & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Lauter piano is an instrument to satisfy every demand of the artistic player. It has a tone of exceptional beauty, of wonderful power and liquid purity. The modulation has been pronounced delightful; there is no "break" at any point of the key-board.—Lauter Co., Newark, N. J.

Wissner reputation, the best way we can explain it. For many years we have been investigating, experimenting, devoting a vast amount of time and expense to the discovery of certain principles or laws of acoustics which, in their practical application to the numerous composite parts which go to make a piano in its completeness, would produce the most musical and purest tone. The popularity of the Wissner pianos with many of the greatest artists and musicians of our times and the enthusiastic indorsement of the world's greatest critics on tone give ample proof of the success of our incessant labors. Our prices and terms are surprisingly reasonable for merit of the highest standard.—Wissner, Newark, N. J.

The pure musical tone of the "Hardman" touches the heights and depths of human feeling; unrivaled in sweetness and power—it will not change in a lifetime. The valuable and exclusive patents of the Hardman piano permit a solidity and accuracy of construction resulting in an absolutely reliable instrument—one in which the tone and action remain unchanged even when exposed to a piano's two greatest foes—dampness and sudden changes of temperature. Considering the quality and reputation of the Hardman piano, the prices are exceedingly moderate and the instruments are sold on the most reasonable payments, if desired—a given amount each month to suit the convenience of the purchaser. We ask no notes or the signing of agreement other than the simple purchase contract.—Hardman, Peck & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Weber small grand, measuring but five feet four inches in length, is the latest and most remarkable creation of the Weber house. This instrument has proved a revelation to musicians who had not supposed it would ever be possible to embody such beauty and volume of tone in so small a space. It has already been installed in many homes where heretofore only an upright could be accommodated, and admirers of the tonal qualities of the Weber Grand are invited to inspect this artistic and really wonderful instrument.—The Weber Piano Co., New York, N. Y.

Between the action of a grand and that of an upright piano there is an important difference. In the grand the action lies in a horizontal position and hammers rebound by their own weight. In the upright, mechanism must be used to do what gravity no longer can perform. That is why there is never the same power of repetition, the same elasticity and delicacy of touch in an upright as in a grand. The difficulty hitherto has been to make a grand piano small enough to go in the same space that an upright would take, and yet retain its full musical tone. Many tried and failed; then they said it couldn't be done. But it has been done. The house of Chickering, the house that has always been in the lead in every new development of the piano, has built an "Infant grand," which, when put in the corner of a room, takes up little more space than would be required for an ordinary upright. And yet it is full seven and one-third octaves, with a pure musical tone throughout the whole scale.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

"Can I have a couple of towels?" Landlady—"Are you going to stay all summer?" Tourist—"That depends. Have you a Hobart M. Cable piano in the parlor?" "No; but I am going to Ludlow Barker & Co.'s to buy one, for those who have bought them at this reliable music house, say they are equal to any in the world, and the prices are so reasonable." "Well, landlady, if you will buy the Hobart M. Cable piano I'll stay all summer; if we are ever to reach that sunny spot."—Ludlow Barker & Co., Hartford, Conn.

A certain variety of soil and climatic conditions produce an evenly grained and finely fibred spruce. It is from these districts we get the wood for the Mason and Risch sounding board. We carefully select the finest examples of this best of spruce with just the right texture and grain to give the greatest resilience. The sounding board is built up of narrow strips of spruce firmly glued together and firmly held by a series of ribs on the back. We spent a great deal of time investigating and experimenting before we brought our sounding board to its present state of perfection. The result is that beauty of tone for which the Mason and Risch piano is famous.—H. Leach, Montreal.

Ministers and church committees, what about your new organ? We have added a pipe organ agency to our extensive piano business; namely, the Austin Pipe Organ, which means to church music what the Steinway piano means to parlor music—perfect satisfaction. The mechanical accuracy with which this organ is constructed makes it superior to any other used in church services. Are you interested? Then let us send you full particulars. No trouble at all—it is our pleasure.—Geo. J. Birkel Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Mehlin Pianos are widely known as instruments of the highest artistic standard and are considered by expert judges to be one of the finest pianos made. They certainly are creating more favorable comment than any other, and justly so because of their superior merit.—Wm. Wander & Sons, Hartford.

You are to spend a lifetime with your piano if it's a good one. Choose it wisely and with caution. Look all around, visit all the stores and sales, inquire and investigate, buy the best piano you can for the money. Be sure you buy your piano of a dealer who intends to stay in business here. It's no uncommon thing to have people come into our store and inquire where Mr. So and So is, from whom they bought their piano; the instrument being out of order and unsatisfactory. But there's no remedy if you happen to buy from a dealer who is not substantial.—J. W. Jenkins' Sons Music Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Every day makes music more and more a necessity in American life. Like light and air and fire, it supplies a want that must be satisfied. Christmas only a few weeks off could hardly be Christmas without music, and while no instrument can take the place of the piano in the home, no piano can carry the wordless language into that home with the satisfaction that the Sterling does.—The Sterling Piano Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We, the largest, oldest and most responsible music house in the entire Northwest, say to you that we are offering to you piano inducements at our present special sale which will never again be duplicated in Salem. We say this unreservedly knowing the financial inability of any other Northwestern concern to duplicate our present proposition. This is our last special sale in Salem! We have brought a limited number of our leading makes here, and offer them to you for a short time only at wholesale figures, on easy terms. If you ever intend to give your home a piano, your chance is here. We have an object in doing this. That is our side of the affair. If you get a high grade piano for what your neighbor paid for a cheap one, that is your affair.—Allen & Gilbert, Ramaker Co., Salem, Ore.

The piano that you buy must appeal to your ear by its perfection of tone, to your eye by its beauty of casing, and to your practical sense by its reputation for durability. Over 60,000 satisfied users are proof positive that the Hardman possesses all of these requisites. Its marvelous tone and remarkable wearing qualities have earned for it the unique distinction of being "the piano that improves with use."—Hardman, Peck & Co., New York, N. Y.

Nowhere is it possible to find a collection of pianos of higher merit. From the best, moderately-priced piano to the best of the very highest class, not one of the various styles in our famous quartette can be excelled at the price—either from the viewpoint of tonal or exterior beauty. The Francis Bacon, a piano whose history goes back with just family pride to 1789, yet kept constantly in the forefront through improvements wrought by succeeding generations—each having made the piano a life study. Many folks who have known the Bacon only in the homes of friends or by repute have supposed that, like other famous pianos, its price was beyond the means of the average music lover. The Bacon piano is sold by dealers at $400 to $500; but we have one style in a rich, plain case, as fine as the others in a musical way, at $325—one of the great special attractions of this new piano store. The Steck, the Krell and the Royal—are the other pianos here, each at the head of its class—the former representing the highest attainment in piano construction, the others being of well-known excellence.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Many pianos have a bridge made of a single piece of wood, bent and shaped as needed. This looks well and performs its functions correctly at first, but later it checks, thus loosening the little pins holding the wires and giving the piano an ineradicable rattling sound. The O. H. Houck piano is a safe-guard from ruin from this source by having the bridge built up of many thicknesses of veneering which cannot crack or check.—O. K. Houck Piano Co., Memphis.

The critical buyer is the one we welcome, and if you are looking for a piano or organ, that embodies in the fullest degree all the essential points, honest value, superior workmanship and splendid musical attributes, our line should be considered.—Smythe & Benzinger, Binghamton, N. Y.

Vose Pianos have been giving the best of satisfaction. The Vose Pianos possess a beautiful, refined musical quality of tone which is found in the Vose Piano only. It is known as the "Vose tone." The durability of the Vose Piano is wonderful, exceeding that of any other make.—S. W. Raudenbush & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

It has a pure, sweet, individual tone, mellowed and refined by long years of perfecting. In delightful responsiveness, beauty and durability, it stands single and supreme.—Puntenney & Eustler, Columbus, Ohio.

Anyone who has had a Kershner piano in the house where there were many people, some of them nervous, others sick, or perhaps where there were children asleep, would not take $250 for that soft stop. It enables one to practice without disturbing anyone in the house. It is not the soft pedal (the Kershner has that, too), but a special stop just to the left of the keyboard.—O. K. Houck Piano Co., Memphis, Tenn.

You can buy other pianos for the price. But you cannot buy pianos as good. And, if this sum is about what you have decided to pay, you might as well get the best in the market for your money. This special lot of pianos is from a well-known maker. Rich and sweet in tone, durable in construction, high-class in finish. We know this piano so thoroughly, down to its smallest part, that we give it the broadest guarantee. Come and test it in any way you wish. You'll agree with us that it is the best piano at $250 to be found anywhere—really a good $300 value. Pay a small amount down, and $1.50 a week thereafter if you wish, with interest at the rate of four per cent. a year on unpaid balance. Few investments for the home give such a return of pleasure, such a refined, elevated influence. If some member of the family intends studying music next winter, this is an excellent opportunity to get a good instrument for less than usual.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

If you want a piano that will last, the Sterling satisfies. It has been manufactured for nearly forty years, and the Sterling factory is a model. There you will find the materials used in the construction of the Sterling piano selected for their artistic and lasting requirements, with the most skilled and intelligent artisans to mould and fashion them into the finished product.—Grinnell Bros., Saginaw, Mich.

Piano stores are not all alike. They differ as much as hotels or steamships or railways. Some are good, some indifferent, some positively bad. And there is always a best. In Kansas City and the Southwest the best piano store is the Jenkins store. Best in the pianos it sells. Best in its guarantees, best in all its dealings with you. Some piano stores pay commissions to people who bring them piano customers. If the commission is $25, that much is added to the price of the piano and the customers pay it, even though there is a pretence of having made the customers a special inside price. We pay no commissions. Our prices are so low we cannot afford it. We save that to the customers. You need no one to help you buy a piano in the Jenkins store. Your child could buy here as safely as you. We have sold pianos to children who came alone. We sell many on orders by wire or mail. Folks who know us know they can trust us. The confidence of the public is a great thing, and we are working to win and keep it. We save you $50 to $150 on a piano.—J. W. Jenkins' Sons Music Company, Kansas City, Mo.

The Schiller is not only better than any other Piano sold by us or anybody else at anything like the price, but it is as good in almost every particular as any Piano sold for $50 or $100 more. There is no better action, for instance, than that in the Schiller—the making is the best American invention can produce. The case designs are beautiful. See the Schiller once and you can judge for yourself.—E. B. Guild Music Co., Topeka, Kan.

Travel' many miles, find out whatever you can about pianos, and when you visit our piano department you will truly say our prices are ridiculously low. Remember we sell a piano at $195.00 for which regular dealers are asking $300.00 to $350.00. This piano is sold for about one-half of its real value. It has a remarkable, sweet, rich tone, beautiful mahogany case, extraordinary easy action, constructed by skilled mechanics, and you get a $350.00 instrument for $195.00.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City.

This Wanamaker piano business has grown to be the wonder of the trade world. Its methods and conduct have won the admiration of artists, music lovers and the general public alike. Success has been due first, to placing piano selling on a rational business basis, and making the buying of high class instruments easy to all. Second, never for one moment has the artistic element been sacrificed to the commercial. The commercialism applied has brought large savings in cost to the public, by having done away with costly selling methods—and yet, never in all their history were Chickering & Sons and Vose & Sons so free to turn their artistic genius to new achievements in piano betterment.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

The case, you must know, stands thus: Your family has been pressing and cajoling you for months and possibly years to get a piano. It has been pointed out again and again how desirable a piano would be as an acquisition in your home. The very conversation about the possibility of getting one has set a warmth of feeling around the dining table evenings that was good for itself alone. The expectation that a piano would be forthcoming lent a pleasant and agreeable tone to the conversation whenever the subject was brought up. You are quite satisfied, for you admit it, that the piano would mean much in the way of pleasure and quiet happiness for every member of the family. You know it would appeal to you just as strongly as to your wife or your oldest daughter and your youngest son.

All this is quite true, and our talk to-day is addressed to the gentleman at the head of the average home where there is not yet a piano. When brought to the crucial point lately of coming here to make a selection and thus end the problem for good and all, you have demurred on some flimsy excuse that would not stand the pressing and reiterated arguments of the different members of the family. Finding yourself beaten in the discussion, you have kept mum about the matter ever since.

Now this is all wrong. Your family needs a piano, and you need it as much as anybody—and you know it. Why should you insist longer in depriving your home of music when it could be had as easily as not? Why should you not either decide to come yourself and make a selection, or give your wife and daughters permission to do so? A piano bought here can be had on the most easy terms, and goes out strictly at our risk as regards quality.—Lauter Co., Jersey City, N. J.

It was in 1900 when the Palmer piano first became known. Since then nearly five thousand Palmer pianos are singing their own praises all over the land. There must be excellent reasons for the continued rise in popularity of the Palmer piano, and if we analyze the reasons it will be found that the Palmer pianos were built to satisfy the popular demand for a reliable piano at a moderate price. There is no point that was overlooked that could add to real piano value. The Palmer is built by piano men, and it is a piano that will endure and give the utmost satisfaction.—The Palmer Piano Co., Toronto, Can.

There is all the difference in the world between a piano cheap and a cheap piano. These are good pianos sold on a special occasion at a reduction and as far removed from cheap pianos—poor, shoddy trash gotten up to sell for “as good as” some reputable make—as a diamond is from paste. Demonstrating a piano is a pleasure in our broad sales-rooms. In moderate sized, sound-proof rooms we give one piano after another a thorough test, trying out both the bass and treble of each instrument until the intending purchaser finds the precise instrument which is his or her ideal. Some purchasers care to hear only certain makes; others wish to secure the best piano for $150, $200 or $300, as the case may be. In any case, our demonstration is thorough so that the purchaser is suited in every detail. No effort is too great for us in order that we may completely satisfy. For the purchase of a piano is a serious thing. A good piano lasts a lifetime and is the best of company all the while.—Lyon & Healy, Chicago, Ill.

The Erard is the most celebrated piano in the world. In Europe it stands for the highest type of piano development. It is to be found in nearly every house. The first Erard Piano was constructed in 1777, and since then has been absolutely without an equal anywhere. Wagner, Liszt, Mendelssohn, Gabilowitch, Rubinstein, Mark Hambourg, Harold Bauer, Mlle. Chaminade, Patti, Paderevski and others have praised the Erard in glowing terms.—Siegel, Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

The windows were open! And the tones of some wonderful Piano were heard! The playing was skillful, but what could the pianist accomplish unless he was inspired by the quality of tone he was producing by the aid of a perfect action! Enquiry was made regarding the maker. Some one among the fifty listening outside said that Ludlow Barker & Co. had placed one of those wonderful HOBART M. CABLE PIANOS in the home that week. The family have given Mr. Ludlow Barker a beautiful testimonial in praise of the Hobart M. Cable Piano. A magnificent stock in different styles has just been received and will be sold at reasonable prices. For further particulars go to—Ludlow Barker & Co., Hartford, Conn.

An Irishman once said: “If you can't be aisy, be as aisy as you can.” Good advice—If you can't buy a new piano, buy a second-hand one; if you can't do that, buy an organ; if you can't do that—why, Tony sells Jewsharps.—Tony Zender, Kenton, O.

Ask any one who knows our pianos and you will be told they are all we claim for them from the all round home piano to the most artistic, each equal to the best in its class. We will be glad to have you call and thoroughly examine our instruments, learn their merits, and get our prices and terms. You will find the pianos, with prices and terms, all right.—Geo. E. Snedeker & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Pianolas and pianola pianos are revolutionizing the method and standard of piano playing. And not only this, but they are furnishing the means whereby everybody can experience the pleasure of playing the piano without spending years of practice and a small fortune in money. Any kind of music at any time is possible if you own one of the above. We will be pleased to give demonstration and further information to all who will call at our warerooms at any time. Remember the pianola can only be had at L. B. Powell & Co.'s, Scranton, Pa.

Why not have a piano? Your family craves it, and possession is easy. The George J. Birkel Co. has accomplished wonders in broadening the possession and enjoyment of pianos in homes that a few years ago would have been appalled at the thought of undertaking such an investment. The Birkel Co. policy helped in two ways—it secured and guaranteed worthy pianos at unusually low prices. Then it inaugurated the method of easy payments, without increase in price. We handle the famous Steinway, Kranich & Bach, Estey, Emerson, and other high-grade instruments.—George J. Birkel Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

If you want a piano; want the best piano that $300 can buy, come in and see and hear the Heller, and we think you will be content to save the $74.50 for something else. But don't come too late. There were only a hundred pianos and they are going fast. We got the pianos at a bargain because the big Western house for whom they were made could not take them. The casing, called the Empire model, is the most beautiful the Heller people have ever turned out. The piano part—the action, it is called—is the same fine musical instrument we have sold for several years and that has given universal satisfaction. The makers believe in it enough to give a full year's guarantee with every instrument they sell. We believe in it enough to back up their guarantee with our own for ten years also.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

The Sterling piano is particularly a piano for the home, and through the home it has gained its great reputation. Its sweet singing tone and sympathetic touch express a volume of rich sound most pleasing in a room; its case, handsome and appropriate, always harmonizes with the decorative effects of the furnishings; its enduring qualities withstand hard usage and the rigor of a changeable climate.—The Sterling Piano Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The ultimate object of all music, in so far as a purely æsthetic vision can be endowed with an object at all, is its picturesque suggestiveness. Musical compositions are delightful not so much because of concrete harmony, or melody, as from the fact that all music, in the final analysis, is the throbbing of some soul. The tones that produce aural emotions are merely the sound-pictures of these heart-throbs, made realistic to our sense of hearing, just as the artist's brush makes realistic the form and color beauties of nature to our sense of vision. In home or concert hall, in surroundings modest or magnificent, the hand that sweeps the keyboard and with its magic touch conjures therefrom a vision of tonal beauty—paints a picture of something that the eye cannot see but yet that is—something going back to the days of romance and the simple life—some plaintive melody of a volkslied, or czarda, or medieval chant, or serenade, or love-song—something picturesque. These voices of the heart find their most perfect instrumental expression in the Mason & Risch piano.—Mason & Risch Piano Company, Limited, Toronto, Can.

We have in stock the largest number of pianos and organs carried by any firm in the South. We sell the Mason & Hamlin, Conover, Cable, Schubert, Kingsbury and Wellington pianos; the best and finest pianos made in the world to-day, bar none.—The Cable Co., Jacksonville, Fla.

Our guarantee guarantees in such a way that there can be no question about our responsibility in the matter. Every piano that we sell goes out of our ware-rooms under written warranty. But in addition we agree in every instance to exchange if not satisfactory, after extended use in your home. Our policy naturally must be to sell only satisfactory instruments. We will not let you have a piano unless we believe it will give you the greatest possible satisfaction. Our guarantee absolutely guarantees you in any event.—Lauter Co., Jersey City, N. J.

Parlor Maid—Marm, the cook has tipped the table over, with all the dishes on it. Didn't you hear the crash?

Mrs. Crochet—Oh, yes, I heard it; but I supposed it was Eunice playing something from Vogner.

Or "Wagner." She has been studying the "Leschetizky" method and I expect to hear that her playing will resemble most any "old noise," even the "falls of Niagara!"

One thing we are to be thankful for, we bought a magnificent Hobart M. Cable piano from Ludlow Barker & Co. and she can't "smash it" anyhow. These pianos have been tested by Barker & Co. about four years, and purchasers who are named "Legion" consider the Hobart M. Cable pianos equal to any in the United States. For what? Glad to answer the question. They possess richness of tone, a responsive action, superior workmanship, thoroughly seasoned stock. The best and choicest materials. A scale that has taken 18 years to perfect. So that equality of tone is carried out from the lowest note to the highest. In a word, it is a "Wonderful Piano!" Come to our ware-rooms and listen, listen, listen, and you will be convinced. P. S.—Those who have pianos and desire first class tuning will leave their order with Ludlow Barker & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Our reputation is our capital. We never speculate with it.—The Hallet & Davis Piano Co., Cleveland, O.

Let's talk pianos!—It's for your interest to get the very best instrument your money can buy. It's for our interest to sell you a piano that will satisfy you not only now, but through all your lifetime. Come in this week; we want to "talk pianos" with you, and show you some of the new and favorite styles in moderate-priced instruments.—M. H. Andrews, Bangor, Me.

It's a particularly good time to buy that piano. Good selling reasons make the best possible time for buying. In pianos that time is right now. There's broad choice to-day at strikingly reduced prices, but you'd best not risk being tardy if you appreciate a most decisive saving. New stock is crowding in—hence this remarkable offering.—W. J. Dyer & Bro., St. Paul, Minn.

A piano can be had most easily.—It is sometimes amusing to us to have people, despite the publicity we have given to our easy method of selling pianos, tell us that they had no idea that such a system was in force. And we are often told by purchasers that had they known previously of our easy payment system they would have taken advantage of it. Probably the fact is that everybody knows of this in a hazy kind of way, but they allow it to escape their attention and forget that our beneficent system is applicable to themselves, and is not merely a good thing in a general kind of way. The easy payment plan is meant for you. If there is no piano in your home, you should take advantage of it. You should secure a piano at once.—Lauter Co., Jersey City, N. J.

Piano thoughts.—Perhaps you have settled the matter of possessing a new piano this fall; and are thinking over the question of selection during these summer days. The matter of cost has less to do now than formerly. Our method makes it easy to buy the very best pianos without paying any excess price for the accommodation. So, unless your means are quite limited, it is well to look as high as the Chickering. Of course the Chickering costs more than most pianos; but it gives ever so much more—artistic satisfaction for a lifetime, perfect tone, strength, power, beauty, all that the real music-lover enjoys and demands. It means only a few more payments, at the most; and then you have the ultimate gratification of possessing a piano that has no shortcomings, no limitations, that leaves nothing beyond to be desired. To the true musician this is everything; for any lower price is no consolation for the sacrifice of perfect tone, action or power. Think of the Chickering—see it, hear it, and save yourself the possibility of future loss or discontent, which so often follows when the Chickering is not chosen.—John M. Gallup & Co., Hartford.

A piano that won't stay in tune is worse than no piano. Call and examine the special features that give the popular "Behr Bros." its peculiar supremacy in this feature.—Zender's Music Store, Fall River, Mass.

Success is a magnet that draws good things to it. Our very great selling of high-grade pianos, and the manner of our selling, known as "The Jenkins Plan," has given us the exclusive agency here of the best pianos in all the world.—J. W. Jenkins' Sons Music Company, Kansas City, Kan.

Our pianos have a reputation. And you'll not find a piano that we will not match, quality for quality, at a positive saving of $50.00 to $100.00. A remarkable statement, but we are prepared to back it up to-day—to-morrow—any time—for we regard each of our advertisements as an iron-clad contract with the public.—S. A. Hard, Newark, N. J.

From quality to price. Quality at the top; price rock bottom, and both combined in every instrument that leaves the store.—Snedeker & Co., Trenton.

The highest notes test the quality of a piano just as they do the human voice. If you will take the trouble to investigate you will find that the highest notes of a Behr piano are as clear as a bell and may be sustained almost as long as the notes at the other end of the key board.—Tony Zender, Kenton, O.

Our pianos stay in the homes where we place them. We never exaggerate or misstate facts. We don't need to tell anything but the truth about the pianos we sell. They're good, reliable pianos, the best quality of tone and workmanship that cash can buy, backed by our best judgment and long experience in the piano business. The cash buying means a good saving to you on price—one price to all—easy terms.—Barlow's Music Store, Trenton, N. J.

The Lester piano though not as old in years as many of its competitors, fills most securely the niche of top notch excellence at the much desired medium of price.—Walter Bonney, Utica, N. Y.

Inventory sale of fine pianos. Select your favorite and then come and secure it at a big discount from our inventory.—Grinnell Bros., Port Huron, Mich.

The best testimonial to our instruments is the satisfaction they give to our customers. We carry only the best grade for the least money.—Stone's Music House, Grand Rapids, Mich.

The difference. A man who would sell himself is a disgrace to his Maker. A piano possessing qualities that will sell itself is a credit to the maker. The Steger & Sons pianos, speaking so eloquently in their own musical language, sell themselves. The standard of excellence is never permitted to vary. No rule in our establishment is more rigidly adhered to. We simply make prices and terms, and these are as reasonable as consistent with the best workmanship, and the quality worthy the name of the house of Steger & Sons. The immense number of Steger & Sons pianos sold this year is evidence that they talk well.—Steger & Co., Chicago, Ill.

The dozen low-priced makers of pianos that we sell contain some very well known names. And every instrument, even where the cost is remarkably small, is guaranteed by us to possess a certain intrinsic merit. The designs shown among these low priced pianos are varied and numerous; some of them are hardly surpassed by pianos of the highest cost. While these pianos do not possess the reserve force necessary in an instrument to be subjected to the most severe test in a musical way (such pieces, for instance, as Schumann's Etudes Symphoniques), for all music as high as the fourth or fifth degree of difficulty they are certain to prove acceptable. We cordially invite every prospective purchaser to pay a visit of inspection to our salesrooms to compare the artistic, popular and low priced pianos. In the artistic pianos we offer a grade of excellence that can truthfully be said to be without a parallel. In the popular and low priced pianos, in addition to insuring every purchaser the utmost satisfaction, we are able to offer many decided advantages in the way of price.—Lyon & Healy, Chicago, Ill.

Piano buying is a confidence. Unless you have expert knowledge of piano manufacturing you must rely entirely upon the reputation of the firm from which you buy. Thus you can readily understand what you are guaranteed by the name.—B. Dreher's Sons Co., Cleveland, O.

If you wish an ideally beautiful instrument we think you will like the Lauter. This instrument of our own manufacture is superb in tone, and in construction is beyond criticism.—Lauter Co., Newark, N. J.

Pianos! Good ones! Chickering. The wonderful regard that the whole musical world has for the Chickering piano is the best proof of the excellence of the Chickering tone. This marvelous instrument is not only the oldest established American make, but it possesses a beauty of tone that is found in no other. There is a sweetness and purity in the tone of the Chickering that no one else has been able to duplicate; a never-ending fascination for the player that seems to increase as times goes on. No discerning musical person can fail to recognize the reason for the reverence and esteem in which this world-famous instrument is everywhere held. A Chickering costs a little more than the best ordinary piano. But by the expense of that additional little, you secure, beyond all question, the best and the most exquisite piano that the musical industries of the globe can show. In buying a Chickering you secure to yourself the best it is possible to purchase—you will own an instrument that is most truly a thing of beauty and a joy. Once you hear the wonderful Chickering tone you can't forget it.—Carl Hoffman Music Co., Kansas City, Mo.

The best is none too good when it comes to buying pianos.—O. Young, Grand Forks, N. D.

Every hour of every day in the year, between sunrise and sunset, an Emerson piano is made and sold in the United States. If it's an "Emerson" that's all you need to know about a piano. "Pay while you play."—Charles H. Loomis, New Haven, Conn.

Piano truth tersely told.—J. O. Lock's Piano House, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Let reason guide you. Every dealer tells you his piano is the best piano to buy. We say the same thing—why shouldn't we? But we say more and prove more than any other dealers in New England.—M. Steinert & Sons Co., Fall River, Mass.

Remember when selecting a piano that quality (whether good or poor) remains long after price is forgotten; therefore, be wise and select good quality. Our pianos, the J. & C. Fischer, Sohmer & Co., Behr Bros., Keller Bros., and Bach, excel in good qualities of tone, action and construction, and our prices, from $450 down to $225, are right, because the quality you pay for is in the instrument. Call at our store and examine our pianos. They will please you.—Geo. E. Snedeker & Co., Trenton, N. J.

An extraordinary sale of used pianos. An event of vital interest to all prospective purchasers. Fifteen square pianos to be given away free. Our salesrooms are literally jammed with used instruments that were taken in exchange during the past month for new Christmas pianos. To relieve their extremely congested condition so that we can provide room for shipments of new uprights from our factory now on the way here, we will sacrifice every used piano on our floors. Practically every good make in the country is represented in this lot, and every one is in good condition. If you are on the lookout for a bargain in the fullest sense of the word, you certainly will have no trouble finding one at this sale. A very small deposit will secure one for you, and arrangements for future payments will be made to suit your convenience. We have fifteen squares in our basement salesroom we would like to have removed at once, and those who are willing to pay the cost of cartage to their home can have them free of charge. We need the room and must have it at any cost.—Bradbury, Newark, N. J.

Have you heard? Listen! Should misfortune in the way of sickness overtake the wage-earner of the family, we will postpone the regular payments on presentation of the doctor's certificate. Should the sickness or accident prove fatal, we will give you a receipt in full of account, no matter how large or small the amount may be, provided you have fulfilled your part of our regular lease, and that the account was contracted six months prior to the sickness or accident. This offer to continue during the year 1907. Here is your chance to get a piano without fear of misfortune. Worry no more. Come in and talk it over with us and select your piano.—Bruce-Surles Piano Co., Springfield, Ill.

The soul of a piano lies in its tone. Almost any piano may look like a good piano, until the final test, tone, is applied to it. We sell pianos of complete construction—of perfect tone. Our prices are fair prices.—Miller Bros., Charlotte-town, P. E. I.

Walters pianos are built to last a lifetime by the Walters Piano Company, one of the most reputable piano builders in the world. Walters pianos are in reality masterpieces of piano construction—the tone is beautifully full, rich and resonant; the touch especially elastic and responsive; the mechanism perfect; the cases beautifully designed and the fittings in every way most artistic. Nothing but the best materials are used in any part of the Walters pianos, and they are guaranteed in every particular for a term of ten years, a fac-simile of this guarantee being inserted in gilt letters on the inside top lid of every piano. Walters pianos are fitted with renowned tone-lasting repeating actions, guaranteed for twenty-five years, which hold the tone deep, mellow and resonant longer than any other actions in the world. The hammers are sixteen pound, of heavy imported felt, made by the most celebrated makers in the world. The cases are highly finished in double veneer; the panels are beautifully carved in the new Empire style. Walters pianos are fitted with Boston fall-boards, continuous hinges and improved practice mufflers, and embody all the very latest improvements. It is absolutely necessary to see and hear the Walters piano to fully appreciate the superiority of the Walters pianos in this great Bloomingdale sale.—Bloomingdale's, New York City.

An excellent collection of slightly used and second hand pianos and players (other than pianolas) at about half price. Kimball, Knabe, Emerson, Pease, Little Jewel and other good makes included at from $125 up. Terms $5.00 a month up.—D. S. Johnson Co., Tacoma, Wash.

The day of the self-playing piano is here. The entire musical world is interested. Every home that contemplates buying a piano must think of the members of the family who cannot play by hand, as well as those, or the one, who can. The present season has marked the advent of self-playing pianos of the most artistic character, and the self-players are now being sought and welcomed by people of highest musical taste.—The Wanamaker Store, New York City.

At Longshore's music store can be found the oldest, most popular and well known makes of pianos that were ever put on the market. Pianos that have stood the test of years and whose very name is a guarantee of quality, of tone, finish, case and workmanship. The Prescott piano is one of these famous makes, founded in 1809 and as enduring as granite. These are found at Longshore's Music Store, Zanesville, Ohio.

Our pianos appeal to a refined and cultivated musical taste, in tone, action and cases. The names of J. & C. Fischer, Sohmer & Company, Behr Bros., Keller Bros., and Bach on our pianos guarantee the highest excellence. Our prices from $225 up appeal to the purse. You cannot buy more piano value anywhere, at our prices, than we give, and you'll often get less. Come to our store and see for yourself.—Geo. E. Snedeker & Co., Trenton, N. J.

The Laffargue piano of New York has won and maintained a high position in the musical world for beauty of tone and case and great durability. Like all men who make a large success, Mr. Laffargue puts his whole soul in his work and is exceedingly proud of the piano that bears his name. The instrument is made in a variety of styles and cases and can suit all sizes of rooms. The regular price is from $300 up. We are offering special prices and terms during our great removal sale. Instead of guaranteeing the Laffargue piano for a merely limited period we extend to you (and verify) the maker's warranty to make good at any time any flaw or structural defect. This is how we esteem the Laffargue piano. We represent twenty other makes of pianos and are offering the greatest bargains in all of them.—Taylor-Gardner Co., Tacoma, Wash.

True merit always wins. A few weeks ago I received a carload of Krell-French and Lagonda pianos. They are nearly all sold and another carload is in transit from the factory. Each instrument is thoroughly scientific in construction, and fully tested before delivery to purchaser. Let us show you our line before you buy. Five makes to select from. Prices right. Terms liberal. We tune, repair and move pianos.—W. E. Dean, Joliet, Ill.

We give the best of piano value in the Keller Bros.' pianos at our prices of $250 to $300. These instruments have a pure singing, sympathetic tone, an easy, responsive action, are in beautiful cases, are warranted for ten years and we will sell them on easy payments if desired. One will do himself an injustice if he buys elsewhere before giving the pianos a thorough examination at our store. Call and see them and our other makes of pianos at from $500.00 down to $225.00.—Geo. E. Snedeker & Co., Trenton.

Latest styles in pianos. The 1907 styles of pianos shown by us are far in advance of ordinary instruments. They mark wonderful progress both in point of tone and appearance. It is hardly possible to realize the strides taken in piano building without a critical examination of these most recent models. Those who play a piano will be given every opportunity to make comparisons, and those who do not play will have careful demonstrations made for them by our salesmen.—The J. T. Wamelinck & Sons Piano Co., Cleveland, O.

Sterling player-piano is an artistic sterling concert grand piano double in usefulness. The player, hidden within the case, takes the place of the human fingers of those who haven't acquired technique. This does not interfere in the slightest with the use of the piano for the accomplished musician. Terms so liberal any one can own a Sterling.—The Sterling Piano Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

You can form some idea of the standing and quality of our goods when we tell you that we do not keep the cheap stencil pianos on our floor. This kind of a piano is little better than no piano at all. Means dissatisfied customers. Means trouble, piano getting out of order, pianos getting out of tune. Poor economy. In the end you pay out enough in a few years to buy a good first class piano. Why not buy the good kind and avoid all trouble for years to come?—Hern & Co., Springfield, Ill.

The Winthrop piano has a most beautiful tone, clear, sweet and brilliant. The action is easy and elastic. The cases are very artistic—light or dark mahogany, light or flamed oak, plain or figured walnut or ebony. All double veneered. All the metal pieces, tuning pins, strings, etc., are guaranteed not to rust.—Lit Bros., Wilmington, Del.

Have you read about our piano insurance? Should misfortune in the way of sickness or an accident overtake the wage earner of the family we will postpone the regular payments on presentation of a doctor's certificate. Should the sickness or accident prove fatal we will give you a receipt in full of account, no matter how large or small the amount may be, provided you have fulfilled your part of our regular lease and that the account was contracted six months prior to the sickness or accident. This offer to continue during the year 1907. Call or write to us. Our pianos possess that beauty of tone, finish and integrity of construction which place them beyond ordinary instruments and make them a pleasure for all time. And you will be surprised to find how reasonable in price they are. Our liberal partial payment plan makes this price doubly reasonable and attractive.—Bruce-Surles Piano Co., Springfield, Ill.

The Stieff is the best piano made and acknowledged standard piano of the world. It is the greatest piano value for the price paid and consequently the cheapest piano relatively. Its market value after having been used depreciates less than that of any other make ever produced. The mere fact of the possession of a Stieff piano puts the seal of supreme approval upon the musical taste of its owner.—Chas. M. Stieff, Columbia, S. C.

The Heintzman & Co., piano excels in tone, as it does in touch, power and singing quality. Perfection in all parts has been the unswerving policy of the manufacturers throughout more than half a century. There is only one Heintzman & Co., piano. "Excels all others," says Albani.—J. J. H. McLean & Co., Ltd., Winnipeg, Can.

Quality—quality is the thing you must seek in piano buying. If you simply seek cheapness in a piano, you not only do not save, but you lose all. A piano is purchased to delight the family circle with music and to educate the ear. A thin, wiry toned instrument is bad in the beginning and constantly grows worse under usage. Buy the best at the start—buy the Starr, and piano satisfaction will be yours.—Jesse French Piano Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Honest goods hold trade. This is the reason why people of Mobile and vicinity come to our ware-rooms and send their friends here also for the purchase of a piano. Their experience has been that the piano purchased here was an honest one from start to finish—this is true of every instrument sold here—honest in construction, finish and permanency of tone. Delegates to the Grand Lodge, K. O. P., and lady visitors are cordially invited to inspect our show-rooms, music-rooms and very varied selections of high grade instruments during their visit to Mobile. We can show you an honest made piano for your home to-day.—E. E. Forbes Piano Company, Mobile, Ala.

Choose with care. We keep at the piano buying public strongly on the importance of knowing the merits of the J. & C. Fischer, Sohmer & Company, Behr Bros., Keller Bros. and Bach pianos before purchasing another make. These pianos never disappoint those who purchase them, as they prove in use to be the best the money we ask for them will buy. Prices from $500 down to $225. Come into our store and see our pianos. They will please you, and it will pay you.—Geo. E. Snedeker & Co., Trenton.

Pianos of New Year's. Nothing adds more to the attractiveness of home than music, and no more appropriate time to buy than this. Our stock is the largest, our instruments of the best grades, and our prices the lowest. Liberal terms to all. We urge you to call to-day.—The Munson Music Co., Zanesville, O.

Good or indifferent pianos, organs, etc., Low price is a good thing to look for. But low prices are not everything, and unless quality goes with them they are of no consequence at all. The place in which you buy often makes all the difference between good and indifferent pianos, organs and musical merchandise—without adding a penny on the cost to you. Our great pre-inventory sale of pianos, organs and musical wares are present instances of wonderfully low prices on thoroughly worthy instruments and goods. Nowhere in this section will you find a finer line of instruments and wares than we carry constantly in stock. Therefore, when you can buy at cut prices you should supply your wants. These cut prices will only prevail until we take our annual inventory.—Kramer's Music House, Allentown, Pa.

Musicians jump at our pianos—first, because the quality of the instrument is pleasing to the connoisseur; second, because the prices we ask are in line with honest merchandising. The names of these pianos are a guarantee of excellence: Everett and Harvard. If you can't pay the entire sum charged when you buy, we will arrange with you on an equitable installment basis.—L. S. Spear, Rome, N. Y.

Melville Clark pianos satisfy the finest musical critics, not alone when new. They are dependable and durable as well, and retain after many years' use the musical qualities that made them attractive when new. They improve with age. They become more valuable to you as time goes on. The best instrument is always economy.—The Simon Piano Co., Spokane.

When a new piano goes into a home it is for a lifetime, or, at least, the term of years the younger members thereof remain under the roof tree. Only a piano of the highest quality will wear throughout a generation; not only wear well, but yield a satisfactory musical return besides.—The Simon Piano Co., Spokane, Wash.

Private circumstances have compelled the owners of the California Piano House, Inc., of Stockton, to retire from business. Their entire stock of high-grade pianos was thrown on the market to be sold en bloc. They accepted our cash offer, which was way below the market. The first and second shipments are now in our ware-rooms. The very high character of the pianos to be offered and prices we will ask will create a great stir. Every instrument is brand new—as if it just came from the factory.—J. B. Brown Music Co., Los Angeles.

Nothing better in a piano can be had at any price than a Stieff. It is the equal of any upright piano made. It will prove a constant satisfaction to the most critical musician by the fact that the Rondo Musical Society, composed of Allentown's prominent musicians, has placed a Stieff piano in its rooms. We represent the Stieff pianos.—Schubert's Music House, Allentown, Pa.

A perfect combination—a musical nature, a Forbes piano. After a day of strenuous business cares and worries, when the strain on the nerves has been kept at the highest tension, what is more soothing, refreshing, and relaxing than to take a quiet hour at the piano, playing sweet music or improvising? The cares of life and business drop away one by one, and the whole system is rested and refreshed for another day's fight in the battle of life. The Autopiano is a boon to those who have no musical education, and can be played by any one. We have the most complete line of high grade pianos, autopianos and piano-players in the South. Low prices and easy terms to all.—E. E. Forbes Piano Co., Mobile.

Pianos for particular people. No matter how high your musical standard, it can be satisfied here. We do not claim the impossible—selling dollar gold pieces for fifty cents—but whatever your price—$200 up—you have a right to your money's worth. It is here. Old pianos taken in exchange at their full value. Pay as you like.—Barlow Music Store, Trenton, N. J.

The Lauter player-piano is here for your inspection. You have but to see it to conclude that you wish one for yourself. Think of it, every member of your family can play this remarkable instrument without having knowledge of music. With the aid of music-rolls and treadles this becomes an easy matter for everyone to learn.—Lauter Co., Newark, N. J.

Without a piano your home is incomplete. The piano has become an indispensable necessity for the home. There are a few pianos which, because they are best, are naturally selected by people of wealth. These best pianos are found in this community only in the Jenkins store. There is another group of pianos worthy and honest in every way, which are within the reach of all people of moderate means. These, too, are found in the Jenkins store. We guarantee every piano we sell, whether it cost you much or little, and we save you $50.00 to $150.00 on a piano.—J. W. Jenkins' Sons Music Co., Oklahoma City, O. T.

Look into our pianos—look them all over inside as well as out, then hear them played and you will understand why professional musicians and laymen alike speak so highly of their superior tone, "action" and fine finish. Our prices are fair and you may pay for a piano in very easy installments.—Harris Music Co., Logan, Utah.

Playable in two ways. Loeser, Heller and Reiman player-pianos. In appearance these instruments are simply handsome upright pianos. They will delight the trained musician. They can be played by the fingers in the ordinary way. But to the unskilled musician they also open the way to making piano music of the highest grade. They can be played at will by aid of the perforated music roll. This is the complete piano—the piano which is bringing to us hundreds of ordinary pianos of the highest grade in exchange and in part payment. For the player-piano makes musicians of every one. Would not one of these instruments be the very best Christmas gift you could possibly make? Could you do better than to bring the power to play the piano to every member of your family?—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

PICTURES

Pictures make particularly good wedding gifts; not only because they are always welcome additions to the furnishing of new homes, but also because they reflect in a peculiarly intimate way the taste and artistic perception of the giver. Brooklyn's chief collection of pictures for sale here and the prices are moderate always. But to-morrow, after extensive and careful preparation we shall have ready the most notable collection of water colors in the city at prices remarkable in littleness. There are at least 200 water colors that are especially suitable for wedding gifts. They represent the best work of both foreign and American painters. They are all artistically framed, many of them showing new ideas in the mounting that give them special individuality.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Yesterday's enthusiastic response showed the public appreciation of this opportunity to secure some of the best works of popular artists at the very handsome saving of a third on the usual cost. The opportunity comes because the importers are expecting the arrival of new supplies, and they wish to dispose of the present stock quickly. The subjects are varied enough to suit practically all tastes. The canvases are handsomely framed in gilt frames, with gold burnished ornaments, and cased in protection boxes; and now offered at these prices.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

There is a difference between pictures bought to sell at low prices and pictures made to sell at low prices. The former would be cheap at any price less than the regular price, while the former may be dear at any price. The pictures in the special sale were selected with care and judgment. We bought hundred lots of certain kinds, not too many of any one school or style, others in small quantities and the many lines formed into one show, making an immense and intensely fascinating exhibit. There are pictures that you will be pleased to have in your home, others that will make appropriate gifts. Pictures for favors, and you may obtain them without the least extravagance.—John G. Myers' Estate, Schenectady, N. Y.

One hundred and thirty-three framed oil paintings, the work of well known foreign and American artists, will occupy a considerable space in the Art Galleries to-morrow, and at prices ranging from $15 to $195 will present to discriminating art lovers a chance that, so far as we know, has not before been equaled. Seventy of these paintings were delayed in the Custom House so long that the importer considered them too late for his spring business and was willing to sell the entire group to us at a considerable loss. A number of the American pictures are by men with a national reputation, and, also through various circumstances, have come to us for far less than their worth.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

More little and big, cheap and expensive pictures than we've ever had before, twice over and a better grade. In the finer pictures especially you will find unusual things—things that are not often sold outside of exhibitions, done by men who live in the artistic atmosphere of Venice and Rome, and know very little else than color and line.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Picture specials. Those who like decorative surroundings in their homes will welcome the inducements which make this department justly popular. We have the goods to gladden and beautify any home—the prices are right, too.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Framed pictures, fifty cents. Half a dollar is mighty little to pay for such attractive pictures as these, as you'll admit when you see them.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Pictures are "poems without words," but they speak many volumes of pleasure in a home. Come, lighten your home with a picture or two from this magnificent collection.—Hahne & Co., Newark.

Water-color pictures to be good at all must be handled by a master hand—an artist that knows how. Here are some—there are twenty-three in all—that we offer at a special cut price just to make a quick sale and allure you into the most unique picture gallery in this city. Among those framed are some quite original designs—aside from their own merit they may give you a suggestion to frame some of your own pictures. We will make your visit a pleasant one, whether you wish to buy or not.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Pictures are hurrying out. Many a Rochester home will be enriched as a result of this picture selling. Have you profited? Wander through the picture store and basement aisle, every picture in sight has a goodly bit of price clipped off. It's heroic treatment, but familiar pictures can't lag behind here.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Framed pictures, and much depends on the framing. You can "kill" a really good work of art by placing an inappropriate frame about it. On the other hand, a frame in good taste adds much to any picture. We have selected ours with particular regard to the proper thing in artistic framing. If you need a few handsome little pictures—spots of color to brighten up the home—take our elevator to the fourth floor. Price—well, that's another thing in their favor—a little framed etching for $1.25, and some genuine hand-painted pastels, in gold frames, from $2.25. Over 200 subjects to select from.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

A good picture is a source of pleasure and satisfaction to its possessor, and we have some splendid ones at 25 per cent. off.—F. B. Wright & Co., Spokane, Wash.

Seems like folly to spend money advertising the splendid values we are offering in pictures during our "art sale," but maybe you haven't heard of it, so please drop in and be convinced.

Pictures that you'll never tire of seeing on your walls—priced a third to a half below exclusive picture dealers' prices.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Time is flying and you are getting older every day. Chances are you will never look any better than now, and it is a fine thing to have a picture made, not too hot or cold. There is a difference of opinion as to why our pictures always please better than others. The fact is, we know how to take you at your best. It isn't flattery, it's appreciation.—Larimer Art Shop, Marion, Ind.

Rogers' photos are a standard of excellence that only years of experience and toil could make possible. And the results are getting better all the time.—T. V. Rogers, Binghamton, N. Y.

There are a few of these beautiful pictures that have slight imperfections, but most of them are perfect and such an opportunity to secure pictures for the country or city home or for wedding presents does not occur very often. They are colored fac-similes, water-colors, etchings, carbons, photogravures, etc., in endless variety—gold and hardwood frames. They are taken right from our stock and reduced to sell quickly and make way for the newer.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We have studied the popular taste of the period—caught the spirit of the "new era" and collected a stock of specimens that proves pictures do not have to be old and rare to be pretty. Pictorial art has a noble mission to fulfill, but an advertisement is not the place in which to proclaim it. We, as merchants, have done our full duty when we make it possible for dwellers in the cottage beautiful to adorn their walls with pictures that gratify the mind and the eye and do not tax the purse heavily.—Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

The sale has justified our belief that such great values even at this season would be welcome. The homes of many Brooklyn people will be enriched with paintings which cost less than our prices could possibly be at any other season—less than they could be now, but for the remarkable chance which brought the group here.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Start thinking about Christmas photographs. It's none too early. The few days and weeks to Christmas will slip by all too quickly. You can remember more friends at a less cost, with photos, than in any other way. The man behind the camera is an important factor to consider in getting your work. A good picture of yourself or member of the family cannot fail to please. 'Twill be inexpensive, too. No troublesome posings. Snap them in a second.—Newing, Binghamton, N. Y.

Our showing of pictures is very attractive this season, as a glance at the windows will prove; it includes medallions, poster pictures in mission frames, beautiful water colors and black and white drawings and pastels.—The Fair, Ft. Worth, Texas.

Make your own souvenir photos. It's impossible to buy pictures that will appeal to you and your friends as will those of your own making. Take a camera with you when you go on your outing. The pleasure you'll derive from it will more than compensate the outlay. We have a superb stock of kodaks and Brownies, prices from $1 to $20. We also have everything you'll need in supplies. Photographic goods you buy here you can depend upon. All chemicals, developers, etc., are fresh and reliable. Let us fit you out.—Vowell's, Washington, Pa.

PLUMBING

A good rule to follow in deciding on where to place your order for plumbing work is the reliability of the plumber. The Paulin Stove and Furnace Co. are always reliable in estimates and in work. Good work always, and prices the lowest at which good work can be done.—The Paulin Stove & Furnace Co., Simcoe, Ont.

A shower of comfort in warm weather you can take any time you feel disposed when your bathroom is fitted up in modern style with a good shower apparatus, porcelain lined tub and good closet. Do away with antiquated old tub and wash bowl and let us put you in improved sanitary plumbing worthy of the times. If we do, it's done right.—J. C. Bixby & Son, Omaha, Neb.

A peep into an up-to-date bathroom is only less refreshing than the bath itself. During the summer you will the more look to the bath for bodily comfort. We will show samples, plans, photographs, etc., of the porcelain and other tubs we supply and give you estimates on our work in putting them in place—the whole guaranteed to be of the very best from a sanitary standpoint.—Frank P. Kelly, Binghamton, N. Y.

A model bathroom is a most essential feature of the model house, as it is a necessary comfort to any home. Better put money in perfecting the sanitary system, thereby insuring the health and comfort of your family, than spending it for fine furnishings.—Clark Reed, Davenport, Ia.

Plumbing as it should be done is the kind of plumbing we do—open, every joint tight, sanitary, latest style plumbing. Best of bath tubs, latest devices in water closets, sinks and everything you can think of in the plumbing line. Call us up on the 'phone, write us or see us, and we'll do the trick every time.—Blum & Eyster, York, Pa.

Do it now. Have that old-fashioned, unsanitary plumbing replaced by new and up-to-date open plumbing. It will repay you in the increase of health and the saving of doctor's bills. We do overhauling and refitting thoroughly. Let us give you an estimate on replacing all that old plumbing with up-to-date work that will keep out the sewer gas.—Thos. Oakes & Son, Hartford, Conn.

Good plumbing is being appreciated in Tacoma more than ever. The day of the cheap shoddy class of goods has passed and people have learned that plumbing fixtures of the latest approved pattern, as installed by first-class workmen, is the most economical and will have only the best. We have the finest display and greatest variety to choose from. Come in and let us quote you prices.—Ben Olson, Tacoma, Wash.

Putting in open plumbing in place of the old enclosed plumbing that hid the germs of disease is what we are called upon continually now to do. Winter is coming on when you will spend more time indoors. As a health precaution, let us put your plumbing in an up-to-date condition.—Brass Foundry & Heating Co., Peoria, Ill.

The running expenses of a house are largely added to by worn-out or poor plumbing, which is always out of repair. If you are annoyed in this way, let us overhaul it and put it in order for you, and you will find that the cost will be as nothing compared to what constant repairing amounts to. We will fit you up a bathroom or kitchen that will make your heart glad, without large expense.—John H. Johnson & Co., Saginaw, Mich.

Mutual satisfaction. The pleasure with which we receive your order will be equaled by the pleasure with which you receive your completed work. None of the old stories told about plumbers fit us, anyway. Our charges are not high; we don't "putter" over a job and we don't use poor material. As a plain, everyday business proposition, we find it best to do the best kind of work and do it as cheaply as possible.—Shields & Leadley, Lansing, Mich.

Do it now.—Have that old-fashioned, unsanitary plumbing replaced by new and up-to-date open plumbing. It will repay you in the increase of health and the saving of doctor's bills. We do overhauling and refitting thoroughly. Let us give you an estimate on replacing all that old plumbing with up-to-date work that will keep out sewer gas. We make a specialty of plumbing repair work; telephone us your orders; work will be first class and prices right.—Thos. Oakes & Sons, Hartford, Conn.

We would like to remind you that this is the proper time to have your heating apparatus put in good shape for next winter. We can attend to this work promptly at the present time. Call up 820 and we will do the rest. Best material and workmanship.—Libby & Blinn, Hartford, Conn.

If you have any plumbing, tinning or any kind of sheet metal work to do, let us give you a figure.—J. Batchelor & Sons, Utica, N. Y.

Let us figure on a modern system of sanitary plumbing. Whether you want to live in your house or sell it, up-to-date plumbing will be one of the most satisfactory investments. Bear in mind that our estimating entails no cost, our work no more cost than is right.—Lexington Plumbing Co., Lexington, Ky.

Taking a bath is more important than taking a meal with some people. Perhaps you are one of these and need the service of plumbers whose skill and experience in all matters appertaining to their line of work enable them to carry out instructions and produce satisfactory results. Sanitary plumbing has been made a study and we are successful with all jobs.—Hamp & Simas, Reno.

That leaky roof of yours will cause you no end of trouble if not attended to at once.—J. C. Cronan & Co., New Haven, Conn.

There are thousands of little things that keep cropping up in a poor job of plumbing which are the source of a great deal of annoyance and frequently hazard the lives of the occupants of the building. It may be the wrong kind of traps have been used or the back vents were not put in properly and sewer gas is continually leaking into the house. These kinds of jobs probably cost just as much as if they were done by a reliable firm like J. Lyon & Son, Hartford, Conn.

It does not pay to install cheap plumbing, because there is no one feature in the construction of a house that will be as unsatisfactory—both as to the fixtures and the workmanship. On the other hand, there is nothing which will appeal so strongly to the fastidious and careful housewife, and be so great a source of enjoyment, as modern high-grade plumbing.—J. Lyon & Sons, Hartford, Conn.

It's time to clean your furnaces and take down the pipes. The season has been so cool that you've needed a fire right along; but now the sooner it's attended to the better. It's been a long season, and a thorough cleaning is positively necessary to the good of the heater and preservation of the pipes. The soot remaining in the pipes over summer will rust them out. Then, if you have them cleaned now they'll be all ready early in the fall. We've a force of expert mechanics in our tin shop who've had years of experience in this kind of work. Our prices are right.—F. S. Katzenbach & Co., Trenton, N. J.

I feel one hundred per cent. better for this splendid bath—the expression so often heard where bath tubs are. How about your home—do you enjoy this invigorating, health-giving comfort? If not, it would give us great pleasure to talk the matter over with you.—E. P. Hirst, New Bedford, Mass.

Plumbing that pleases. Repair work that we do is the best advertisement we could have. It is so thorough and perfect that our customers feel more than satisfied and talk about us to their friends. We use only the best materials and hire only the most experienced workmen, consequently we are able to turn out work of a very high grade. Our practical plumbing knowledge enables us to suggest the best and quickest way to handle a job.—Waterman Davis & Curtiss, Sacramento, Cal.

Talk on plumbing. No other part of the construction of a house requires such skill and judgment as does the plumbing. The carpenter or tinner may do a botch job on the roof, but a little rain will discover the defect to you and demand repair. The painter may do you a poor job, yet it offends only the eye. But if the plumber does not do a perfect piece of work, or if the plumbing put in your house some years ago has become unsanitary by reason of defective material, you are entirely at the mercy of the destroyer. It gives you no sign to betray its infirmity. The defects may permit the entrance of sewer gas and you cannot tell what is sapping the life of your wife and children. If you have reason to suspect unsanitary conditions exist in your plumbing system you should have an examination of it at once. Our skilled service is yours for the asking. Slate and tin roofing, galvanized iron work.—Wm. H. Harris, Mansfield.

Plumbing. When you give the order to us for repair work or installation of a new system, you may rest secure in the certainty of a job well done. Best work and workmen. Heating. The warm days are fading away; cool nights are close at hand. Have you settled the heating matter? Time will be all too short. Act now. Just call us and we'll call on you.—Breen Brothers, Utica.

Modern householders are installing in their sleeping apartments and dressing chambers, dainty one-piece lavatories. If you do likewise you will be provided with the comforts of a modern home. We would like to help make your home as comfortable as possible by installing a beautiful Standard porcelain enameled lavatory. Let us tell you the cost; the price will agreeably surprise you.—Walton, The Plumber, Camden, N. J.

The development of our business can be traced directly to the high quality of the work. Heads and hands are used to achieve success. Competent workmen are employed on all plumbing and heating jobs and satisfaction is guaranteed. We use the highest grade materials consistent with price. All contracts are carried out according to both letter and spirit. No detail is slighted. Get our prices before placing your contract.—Shields & Leadley, Lansing, Mich.

Home comfort and good health depend upon sanitary plumbing. No matter what your surroundings or water supply may be we can install a system that will give you pleasure all your days. Let us tell you what it would cost for a hot water heater, a tank, bath tub, closet, lavatory, etc.—Wm. M. Harris, Mansfield, O.

We are in the field for job work. What have you on hand? An estimate will be cheerfully furnished and a personal call.—L. Farr & Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Our business is plumbing—improved plumbing. We sell and install Standard porcelain enameled plumbing fixtures, and the guaranteed excellence of these goods backed by our own reputation assures you only the best.—J. C. Cronan Co., New Haven, Conn.

No matter what your surroundings or water supply may be we can install a system that will give you pleasure all your days. Let us tell you what it would cost for a hot water heater, a tank, bath tub, closet, lavatory, etc. Natural gas fitting, tinning and roofing at right prices.—Wm. M. Harris, Mansfield.

Every lady's dressing chamber should be equipped with a dainty snow white, one-piece Standard porcelain enameled lavatory. Have you ever stopped to consider how delightfully convenient it would be to have hot and cold running water in your dressing chamber, sleeping apartment, or first floor toilet room? Its presence would afford you the highest degree of comfort. We will gladly quote you prices. Our plumbers are strictly competent mechanics, honest and reliable.—Horace R. Nash, So. Norwalk.

A dainty bathroom. Figure on your bath room fixtures with us. We can save you money. Our work is a credit to us and a source of satisfaction to our customers.—McKeough-Danquer Plumbing Co., Utica, N. Y.

Wait! As usual we will have the largest and finest assortment of portable gas lamps in the city. We will have a hundred or more different patterns to select from, and there will be no question about pleasing the most fastidious. We are receiving these goods daily and in the course of a week we expect to have our entire line on display. Do not purchase before inspecting our line. Watch our large show window. We also carry a full line of incandescent goods of every description.—Stradling Plumbing & Heating Co., Utica, N. Y.

Your plumber is responsible for the sanitary arrangements of your house, and the sanitary condition of your house is responsible in a measure for the health of your household. Protect your health, your peace of mind, by engaging the services of a plumber who knows how to give the best work and at a moderate cost.—Langdon & Sullivan, Hartford, Conn.

By the aid of sanitary plumbing there is no reason why your kitchen sink cannot be kept as immaculately clean as the dishes you eat from. All dangers of disease germs, vermin or foul odors are absolutely eradicated, because it can easily be cleaned and kept so. If you are building a new house or repairing an old one get into communication with us. We will give you the latest ideas, cost, etc.—Jas. W. Hellman, Los Angeles, Cal.

Plumbing and heating. Overflow meetings are not always joyful. When it's an overflow from the bath tub or a frozen pipe that causes the meeting of the household heads, telephone Hill & McCray, plumbers, and if the call is urgent we will send a man at once. Promptness, reliability and thoroughness are the points upon which we pride ourselves. If we attend to your plumbing it will be done right. Estimates cheerfully furnished on all new work.—Hill & McCray, Omaha, Neb.

Nothing has been reserved in our men's clothing department. Every article reduced in price, some of the suits and overcoats reduced forty per cent. Just think of it, suits for about half price. All of our clothing is well made, and everything the very newest cut, but we have always made it a rule to close out goods every season regardless of price and we don't propose to carry over one winter suit or overcoat.—The Red Front, Fresno, Cal.

What can it profit you to pay someone else one-third more for a perhaps one-third less good—that's the proposition up to you. "Fairy Tales" may please the kids all right, but when it comes to those who do the buying, it's the World's Finest Quality they want, and they want it at the world's lowest price.—*J. D. Money! why you'll be surprised how little it takes now, yes, fairly amazed at the extent of its purchasing power at "The Big Store." Fortunate for you, we bought our mammoth stocks at the discounts we did—as these prices are positively the very lowest ever asked for high-grade seasonable merchandise, making them bold examples of the greatest economy ever made possible by any concern. Read on, and on—don't skip a line or you may skip a dollar. Come!—A. C. Barley & Co., Marion, Ind.

One of the oldest branches of our business is that of Household and Decorative Linens. We were recognized leaders in this line fully a generation ago; and our leadership has steadily strengthened with each succeeding year. To-day there are probably less than half-a-dozen merchants in the world whose trade in Linens, wholesale and retail—equals ours; not one that has closer or more favorable relations with the chief sources of supply. And this means that our customers may always choose from the choicest patterns at lowest prices.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

When the economists shall have devised the ways and means to establish an equation between supply and demand such extraordinary events as this will have ceased to be a phase of our system of merchandising. Until then we propose to share the spoils that come our way with those upon whom we depend for the success of our business. The offer involves the sample garments of two manufacturers who devote their efforts to garments of the highest grade, together with a number of suits and coats from our regular stock. The price concessions are, without exception, extreme.—Saks & Co., New York.

For genuine and resistless values there is no place equal to our splendid consumers' department, the greatest salesroom of its kind in Ohio. Each one of our Saturday specials is the barometer that indicates the lowest register of price reduction. More fine values can be found among our price marks than any drug house in Ohio can show. It is necessary usually to hunt bargains, but you get them here merely for the trouble of watching our ads.—Columbus Pharmacal Co., Columbus, O.

Once more we hammer down prices on stoves and heaters of all kinds till there isn't the smallest vestige of doubt left as to the money-saving chances in each lot. Such decided price cuts herald the advent of brisk purchasing.—Seigel Cooper Co., New York.

The continual and rapid increase in our business gives us powerful advantages. It enables us to buy in large quantities direct from the manufacturers and consequently to place before you matchless values. The purchasing power of a dollar never before reached the height to which we have forced it. Up-to-date, reliable merchandise marked at unaqualed prices, together with our many money-saving opportunities, proclaim to the people of the Inland Empire this is the store that saves you money.—Femp & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

Fancy rents and fancy prices are invariably concomitants. Between our expenses and those of stores in the zone of dizzy rents there's a chasm-like difference—measured not by cents, but by dollars. And inasmuch as every merchant must necessarily exact a certain fixed profit it isn't visionary that high prices must support high rentals. For a better, more vivid example, note the prices quoted here.—Ludwig Baumann & Co., New York.

Sweeping price reductions. Every silk suit in the store is free to go at one-fourth from last week's prices—regardless of cost or value; from simple shirt waist suits to elaborate costumes—none reserved.—James Cooper, Los Angeles.

Six days in which to sell every piece of goods we won't count at stock-taking. Six short days of harvest for the thrifty. Prices on all lines of summer goods have been reduced far below actual cost to us. Stocks will move in a jiffy at these amazing prices. Just a hint of the wonderful bargains you'll find.—Seigel Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Profitless Prices Now Hold Full Sway—prices that will clear our warerooms of present stocks as a storm-wave sweeps the deck of an ocean steamer. The clearance is absolute. The goods must go. We're making room for new Fall designs so soon to arrive. It's a stupendous undertaking—a daring movement—a sale with values unparalleled in the history of St. Louis' merchandising.—Hartman Furniture Carpet Co., St. Louis, Mo.

A grand money-saving opportunity that shall live long in the memory of those who attend—a sweeping out of a vast quantity of odds and ends left from the spring season, through the medium of slaughtered prices. Twenty-five per cent. has been cut from former sale prices—prices then lower than any other concern, large or small, in all St. Louis. The flood gates are now swung open—now for an unparalleled outpouring of mighty bargains.—The Hub, St. Louis.

Faster and faster falls the lash of lower prices—deeper sinks the spur of cut prices into the sides of our stock of broken sizes, sending sales forward with a rush that means a banner July for us—banner bargains for you. This ad tells of five Wind-up Specials.—The Hub, St. Louis, Mo.

And other housefurnishings at a saving reduction in price that will appeal to every wise housekeeper. We meet all competition. Our goods are always reliable and when we say there are bargains here for those who will come after them it can be implicitly relied upon.—The Chas. R. Hart Co., Hartford, Conn.

This remarkable, twice yearly event is looked forward to by thousands of Women, Misses and Children from all over the state of Connecticut as an exceptional opportunity to buy the latest and choicest of Millinery at much less than one-half former prices.—R. Balterstein & Co., Hartford, Conn.

There are still no signs of abatement of public interest in this sale. Quite the contrary—we're even busier this week than last. Everybody who hears of this sale seems to be determined to share in the wonderful bargains. And rightly so, for the prices named at this sale are far less than wholesale. Thus, while this sale lasts our customers can buy ready-to-wear apparel of every description for man, woman and child at lower prices than the dealers.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

This combination of purity hand in hand with economy is what has made the grocery department of this store so popular. Enormous daily purchases in the best and most reliable food markets enable us to quote lowest prices.—The 14th St. Store, New York, N. Y.

If a man were to come into our store to-day expecting to find large varieties in style and fabrics to choose from he would likely be disappointed. This stock is very low, but to offset this fact we are making the prices very low. You'll have to hunt a bit maybe to find what you're looking for, but you may find just what you want at prices away below what you had been expecting to pay. Worth while to come and see, isn't it?—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City.

A comparison of our goods and prices with what are advertised elsewhere will convince you and bring you to this store as a regular customer. We have built up a booming business here in Peoria, by giving you good goods at reasonable prices, and allowing you to pay for them so much at a time that no hardships have been wrought. It would surprise you to know what a dollar a week or a dollar a month will buy.—Gately's, Peoria, Ill.

A final clearance, in itself, means extreme reductions, new prices we paid for the weaves. So this rich picking.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

We've resolved to wind up the month's upholstery business with a blaze of glory. Hence a salvo of price-fireworks that cannot fail to impress and interest the housekeeper who is bent on making her winter quarters, comfortable.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Some lines of goods have not moved fast enough, although the store has been thronged for two weeks. So we have gone through the stocks again, crowding down, forcing down, cutting down the prices regardless of previous markings. The result will be apparent throughout all stocks in the house when the store opens this morning for resumption of the sale.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Our buyers have been scouring the country for the past two months selecting the best productions of the best factories and securing for spot cash many special lines of goods at exceptionally low figures, which enables us to offer them to you during this sale at prices lower than their values warrant.—W. H. Hocke, Washington, D. C.

Another startling big price tumble. Style, quality and low price are the great considerations, and all are combined in the following items.—Rosenthal Dry Goods Co., Peoria, Ill.

Come, expecting low prices—"Curtin sells it for less." No difference what others offer you, Curtin will do better.—A. P. Curtin & Co., Great Falls, Mont.

If you are coming shopping Saturday, be sure and come to the "Blakely." Bring along your want list (even though the items are not mentioned below) and we will be glad to show you the goods and give you the prices. We know that you will get as good values, as good treatment, and better satisfaction by purchasing your goods here Saturday. Come and get our special prices.—The Blakely Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

The money to be saved by making your selection from the Sanger stocks at their present greatly reduced prices is no small matter and demands the prompt attention of all who would practice economy, and at the same time dress well.—Sanger Bros., Waco, Texas.

We subjoin a few items to indicate how smartly we have lowered prices for our sale. As there is but one of a kind on this list to be sold at the special price, whoever comes first will get the article.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

An Explosion of Prices!—The Bee Hive, 912-914 Main St., Kansas City.

At Melting Prices.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Extravagant Prices and Exorbitant Profits are Strangers Here.—Kahn & Back, Memphis, Tenn.

Prices Knifed Again.—Seidler & May, Hartford, Conn.

Sacrificing Prices.—Lasser's Store, Joliet, Ill.

There's Nothing Greedy About Our Prices—Just the opposite.—Horsfall & Rothschild, Hartford, Conn.

Words fail to express how good the values of the above offers, but a few moments' examination will quickly convince you how much under price they are and will, we think, persuade you to supply yourself liberally while you have such chances for money saving.—Brown-Thomson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

The importance of the coming week may be gauged by these representatives of the greatest price attractions ever offered at any time by any store, specimens of thousands from which you may pick their equal in appropriateness, price reductions and reliability. Overflowing shelves and counters respond to your every need. New specials every day. Let early morning shopping be your watchword.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

We are clearing the stocks regardless of cost—the rebuilding operations demand additional room—nothing is reserved—all up-to-date, desirable summer merchandise must be closed out immediately—a complete clearance is our aim—we carry nothing over and prices are cut right and left to accomplish a prompt and thorough reduction of our stocks.—H. Soloman & Co., Pittsburg.

Prices in every instance will be decidedly under value.—Journey & Burnham, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Prices cut in two in the middle—that means much or little, according to the store. If prices are first marked up and then bisected, you get but little saving—it's a shyster trick that many claimed-to-be reputable stores still keep "up their sleeves" for occasions. Gimbel half prices are exactly as represented—a bald statement of fact. Customers have proved it time and again; picked out a suit; waited; paid the half price—took the chance that their particular pattern or size would be sold before the half price came. But proved it.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia.

We guarantee the price of everything we sell to be as low as or lower than the same article or pattern can be bought anywhere else. If a day, a week, or a month later you find the same thing lower elsewhere, make a claim upon us and it will be allowed at once. What broader guarantee can be given? Under any circumstances the patron of Loeser's is protected by this guarantee, which covers every line of merchandise we sell.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

We want to say positively to those who have been waiting for our great summer clothing sale that the event begins to-day, when prices will be the lowest of the season.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

"What reason," you ask? the manufacturer of these suits is of the hopeful kind; he started out big, manufacturing "not wisely but too well," so when he at the end of the season found he had too big a stock on hand he was willing to part with it at a sacrifice. Our ready cash tempted him, and to-morrow you will see these swell suits on our second floor ready for your inspection. As they come to us, so they go to you, at a bargain.—A. S. Knowles Dry Goods Company, Montgomery, Ala.

Never was there such a phenomenal reduction of prices on fine furniture in the history of furniture sales in Columbus. Every article in our immense stock of furniture, carpets, rugs and curtains being marked way down. It will pay you to visit this sale.—Home Furnishing Co., Columbus, O.

The Jenkins one-price plan saves you patience, time and money. In the store of a sliding-price "get-all-you-can" dealer you lose time haggling and dickering and are never sure of the right price or fair treatment. In the Jenkins store a child can buy as cheaply and as safely as the most expert.—J.

W. Jenkins' Sons Music Co., Kansas City, Mo.

While our prices have been lower than the lowest, we have made a still deeper cut in the prices of everything in the house.—Stockton & Company, Salem.

These are prices that you never dreamed would be offered until the end of the season, and here the coats are, all new and ready for you to put on and wear at the littlest prices. The prices are new prices that begin to-day. We won't quote values to you. Come, rather, prepared to be impressed and greatly impressed.—Emery Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

We mark all goods in plain figures—for many years past we have been absolutely and positively a strictly one-price house. We can afford to take this position because our marked prices indicate better value than is ever found in so-called cut prices.—Ryrie Bros., Toronto, Can.

No half way or half hearted low price making in this memorable week's selling.—Cash Dry Goods Co., Bay City, Mich.

Ladies Listen!—Spring wholesale business was bad—cash talked big when we bought these things for you.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

It's the combination of dependable qualities and low prices.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Some interesting underpricings.—Bar-nard, Sumner & Putnam Co., Worcester.

Don't Waste Your Money.—It's a sin to throw hard-earned money away. And paying extravagant prices is just about the same thing as squandering cash. Never continue in doubt as to where your money will go farthest. Come to Friend.—Friend, Scranton, Pa.

Owing to the unusual concession in buying we are enabled to quote prices that astonish wholesalers, who know how cost has advanced. In fact, we could easily sell our entire stock in bulk at these prices, but we prefer to sell them in regular retail way—they'll go fast enough.—Hearn, New York.

We guarantee the price of everything we sell to be as low or lower than the same article or pattern can be bought anywhere else. If a day, a week or a month later you find the same thing lower elsewhere, make a claim upon us and it will be allowed at once. What broader guarantee can be given? Under any circumstances the patron of Loeser's is protected by this guarantee, which covers every line of merchandise we sell.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A price revision on summer suits.—Wm. Vogel & Son, New York.

The manufacturers are cleaning up stocks, and when goods and styles come up to our standard, we buy and give customers the benefit of our purchases.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton.

Prices on high class merchandise that tell of great value giving.—We present to-morrow the strongest list of values we have ever been able to offer—quotations that for lowness have never been equaled in this city. It is impossible to tell you how great the values really are which we are offering. Just look over some of the items in this advertisement and then remember that these are the very newest goods, the latest merchandise manufactured for this season's business; but owing to the trade and weather conditions, we are forced to sell good reliable merchandise at these special prices.—C. R. Hawley & Co., Bay City, Mich.

Just take another look at these prices. They are remarkably small when you consider that right now is the season when we sell most of these, and the season when by all standards of merchandising we should ask biggest prices. Compare these values with any you've seen lately. These goods are of a dependable quality—the kind we are safe in saying "Satisfaction or your money back" with every purchase.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

We need the room! We need the Money!—Next month our fall stock begins to arrive. Spring and fall goods don't mix. The spring and summer stocks must go. They must all be sold, no matter what the loss may be. Not a few articles marked down, but a store brimful of splendid goods, honestly reduced in price. Investigate these great savings. Come at once, now is the time to buy.—Lyon Clothing Co., Portland.

A real cut in prices.—Friend, Pittsburg, Pa.

Great money-saving prices.—Golden Rule, St. Paul, Minn.

Exceedingly close prices.—Burns-Barry Co., Memphis, Tenn.

At a price that should create a sensation.—Ehrich Bros., New York.

Our cash prices are matchless.—Fontaine & Anglim, Crookston, Minn.

Underwear prices well worth heeding.—Beadler & Sherburne Co., Rochester.

Prices that help your bank account.—Schoedinger, Fearn & Co., Columbus.

Prices on a sell-out basis that show determination.—Boggs & Buhl, Allegheny.

Prices which are not likely to be repeated in a lifetime.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Jacobs stands between the people and high prices."—Jacobs' Pharmacy of Montgomery, Montgomery, Ala.

Powerful price-lowering in clothing section. Prices that savor more of "giving" than "selling."—Clarke Brothers, Scranton, Pa.

Originally our prices on imported garments have been so much less than other stores ask, that this will be an opportunity to buy gowns at prices never before seen in Philadelphia.—Louis Stecher & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Our story is this—we want the public to carefully study the prices in this ad., and compare them with the many others, and you will find that we realize that in order to continue to do the large volume of business we had this fall we must put the knife into prices deep, especially since so many real and more fictitious sales appear in this city, the reductions are in earnest.—Goldstein Dept. Store, Youngstown, O.

The extremely low prices we are naming will put these high grade couches in your home with very small cost.—John Mullins & Sons, Jersey City, N. J.

Price wonders!—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Quick cash prices!—Perley T. Black & Co., Bangor, Me.

Good-bye prices!—Hunter & Hunter, Detroit, Mich.

Prices are abominably small!—Hale's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Prices almost beyond belief.—The Modern Pharmacy, Binghamton, N. Y.

Prices at figures that will draw crowds!—Solomon & Ruben, Pittsburg, Pa.

Bring your pocketbook to carry home the money you save in buying here. Dollars in merchandise for dimes in cash. We please the hard-to-please, that makes them our steady patrons.—Hannah & Lay Mer. Co., Traverse City.

Our prices are as low as, and in many instances much lower than similar qualities are quoted at in any of the low priced stores of the country.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

In many cases the reductions are made because the lots are small and must be closed out. Other lines are maker's samples and surplus stocks. As a rule the goods are all fresh and perfect, and no matter how low the price, each customer may be assured of receiving a worthy quality—an assurance which distinguishes this sale from all others in this class.—The Scott Dry Goods Co., Cleveland, O.

If you appreciate value you will have no fault to find with our prices.—Cochenthaler, Montreal, Can.

Savings of a degree and number to interest every lover of quality and economy will be afforded Denver citizens. Consider well all that this occasion reveals. Do not have to reprove yourself for neglected opportunity but bend to the oar.—The Lewis Store, Denver.

Five days of sensational cut prices. Forced to unload and thousands of articles slashed to the lowest notch because we must reduce stocks before inventory and we've made prices that will do it. From basement to roof—in every nook and corner there's bargains galore to stir you to the greatest kind of buying. Every price at the bottom—just compare—all other sales outdone. Price for price we undersell them all—for we make reductions that are real reductions. No half way price cuts at this sale—for we've started out to do the biggest week's business in our career, and if bargains ever brought crowds there'll be the greatest kind of a store crowding here every day this week.—L. H. Goldman, Denver, Col.

Now is the time. You who have been waiting for a general reduction of prices, here is your chance.—Patter-Whitehill Co., Muncie, Ind.

A great big cut in our children's department. You will save money by calling to-day, honest goods for little money.—Henry Klaholt, Springfield, Ill.

Here's an event that will gladden women's hearts, for it represents an exceptional opportunity to buy handsome separate skirts in both dress and walking styles at small cost—the quality of materials and tailoring being superior to any that these greatly reduced prices ever purchased before. There's a splendid variety of them at all prices quoted, but we would advise you to come early, for such value-giving as this is short-lived. Yesterday morning ushered in the event. Come to-day.—Sage, Allen & Co., Hartford, Conn.

It is customary—perhaps everywhere but at Macy's—to give discounts or inside prices to tailors and dressmakers, discriminating against the patron who buys only occasionally to supply her own needs. The system obviously has its faults, and it is still further weakened by the fact that our regular prices are usually lower than the "inside" prices met with elsewhere. That we supply large numbers of tailors and dressmakers—who get no discounts or commissions here—is evidence supporting our assertion.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

Prices are, after all, a second consideration to many. The great strength and remarkable growth of the Palais Royal's toilet department is due mainly to the entire absence of unreliable articles and the certainty one has of finding all of the world's best productions here. Incidentally prices average 33 per cent. less than drug store quotations.—The Palais Royal, Washington, D. C.

A backward season.—Cause of terrific reductions. Every department teems with a big stock which was bought with the expectation of a large and early spring trade, but the weather conditions retarded business to such an extent as has left us with more goods than we should have at this time. We expect to make to-morrow a big day in the history of this big store. To do it we have resorted to emphatic price reductions.—The Capitol, Columbus, O.

Prices all topsy-turvy on account of remodeling.—P. H. Bergman & Co., Peoria, Ill.

A great sale starts to-morrow in which the special prices on thousands of pieces and sets bear little relation to actual retail value. Large preparations have been made, and the entire field is comprehensively covered; the new and improved department is fairly overflowing with extra values. In connection with our many special purchases below usual prices, we offer numerous lots of desirable goods on hand at great reductions.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Investigation will develop the fact that the prices quoted herewith have been figured in every instance considerably less than 20 per cent.—Arkansas Carpet and Furniture Co., Little Rock, Ark.

We have gone through our stock and put the knife deep into the price of each item, which is bound to make quick selling.—Cartwright's, San Bernardino.

Our prices need no advertising. Everybody knows how low they are.—James Butler, New York.

The knife will go into the prices on our entire stock, nothing reserved. All goods will be sold at a great sacrifice, cost not considered.—John Leith, Bay City, Mich.

Friday our great 51st anniversary sale will have reached its climax in the suit and coat sections. Low prices have prevailed during the past two weeks, but these Friday prices are the lowest.—Pettis Dry Goods Store, Indianapolis.

One attraction treads on the heels of another in this section, so fast do they follow. This time it's the season's swellest autumn suits priced as you seldom see them priced at the season's ending. Our unequaled buying facilities, in conjunction with a fortunate trade circumstance, has made this remarkable offer possible.—The May Co., St. Louis, Mo.

We have them in all their manly and womanly beauty. Shoes, fine American shoes, for all occasions—street shoes, office shoes, dress shoes, and that name Browning on every pair is the stamp of genuine satisfaction and approval. When this store talks shoes the public listens—the proof of our words are found in the comfort, style, lasting service and finish of our shoes at the prices we charge when compared with the shoes and prices of any other house.—Browning's, Columbus, Ohio.

There's scarcely a woman comes into our store and examines our stock and prices that doesn't express her pleasure at having found a place where the really desirable grades of garments may be had at such low prices and that, too, without having to wade through heaps of inferior stuff to get what she wants.—Louis Stecher & Co., Philadelphia.

Cast your eye over these: There are good saving opportunities in every one.—Gifford & Co., New Bedford, Mass.

The price part, after the details of selection and decision are all over, you will find most gratifying.—York, Pa.

Come on. Come all. And buy as liberally as your purse will permit. Tonight's sale consists of.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

This present movement presents one of the finest collections of quadruple plated hollow-ware that we have ever offered under-price. The beauty of the designs, the seemingly unlimited variety and the completeness of the assortment of pieces, together with the remarkably low prices, make a store feature that housekeepers will appreciate the moment they see the display.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

For our 213th Bargain Friday we will offer the greatest values of the season. Never did our store better deserve the name, "The Home of Good Values," for splendid values are everywhere in merchandise of seasonable interest—assortments that far excel those elsewhere. Friday's prices on the newest of autumn and winter merchandise suggest genuine economy—the economy that pays where there is unquestioned quality. It has and will always be our greatest aim to have our customers feel that they can come to this store with perfect assurance of finding at all times the greatest variety of the most desirable merchandise in every section, and that for the same and better qualities our prices are always the lowest.—Roberts Bros., Portland, Ore.

We make an emphatic demonstration of the power of extraordinary bargain prices on merchandise that is in season, and which is necessary to every person and in every household. No value pretense, but the actual giving of good goods at prices lower than those quoted by any other house for the same grades.—The 14th Street Store, New York.

The store is ready as never before to supply your every need for the coming season. Assortments are broader and better. Styles have been more carefully chosen in obedience to fashion's mandates. Qualities have been critically selected for their dependability. Prices have been marked on a narrow margin—of profit—the lowest possible.—The Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis.

Here's why!—contracts for these goods were placed long ago—the low prices that prevailed then and the extra discounts on our immense spot-cash orders, places us in a position now, in the face of higher quotations on all these goods, to offer you bargains in bed necessities never before equaled this early in the season by any concern in Marion. A complete stock of unquestionable qualities from the most noted American manufacturers, priced at a substantial saving to you. A most excellent opportunity—don't miss it.—A. C. Barley & Co., Marion, Ind.

There is real economy in the way we mark these garments. Our prices are incomparably low, our stock is one of the largest and best in America—an advance showing quite unusual so early in the season.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

It seems a contradiction to good sense to say that we reduce prices right at the opening of the season, but nevertheless that is just what we are doing in this hustling young store. We are reducing the prices because we bought these garments at reduced prices and can afford to sell them for less than any regular buying store in this entire country.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City.

No matter how low the prices advertised by others, you may depend upon our prices being lower. Our reputation for underselling all others we sustain by as much price cutting as may be necessary. Very frequently our regular prices are lower than the special prices advertised by others. Notable instances of this continued underselling will be found by comparing Macy's prices with those quoted elsewhere.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

It is seldom, indeed, that such handsome specimens take on the moderate prices that accompany these. The careful selections made by our experts, coupled with most advantageous buying, are accountable for this rare assortment of Oriental rugs being so moderately priced.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

This apparel is what the Model carried over from last year that we want to close out. We have reduced the prices to less than what the garments cost Kemper & Paxton. We still have plenty of those skirt and suit bargains which were on sale the early part of this week. In addition we have thrown in a big line of children's cloaks that are especially low priced for rapid clearance. We want you to read this list from end to end, because you will find savings and values that have not been equaled before.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Topeka, Kan.

Prices are remarkably low, even for our January sale—this year we bought as never before—prices reached the lowest ebb. In looking over the garments you will be surprised at the thorough goodness of materials, trimmings and workmanship, considering the extreme lowness of the prices. This sale will demonstrate as never before, that time and money are mis-spent in buying materials and making the garments in the home. Remember—January sale prices are the lowest of the entire year.—Dayton's, Minneapolis, Minn.

Prices border on sensational! Fresh, crisp underwear at most attractive prices ever quoted. Exquisite undermuslins at about cost of materials.—J. M. High Co., Atlanta, Ga.

The stocks are all fresh and new, just opened for this sale, and they were bought at prices which enable us to offer them to you at very low figures, considering the excellent quality of the goods—Donaldson's, Minneapolis, Minn.

These prices leave you something for something else.—Golden Ball Dry Goods & Shoe House, Cohoes, N. Y.

Low price inducements, unless coupled with reliability and sterling worth, are of little interest to the prudent buyer, but standard grade articles priced on a bargain basis, such as we now quote, are extremely gratifying—immense assortments and the lowest prices, make this store "headquarters" for everything pertaining to winter merchandise.—The Williams & Rogers Co., Cleveland.

All the small lots and broken assortments have been gathered together for a grand final sweep-up. It is not a question of price or value now. We are going to move some thousands of articles out, and if one price won't do it a lower price will. The unprecedented success of the sale so far shows how great the bargains are. This Friday and Saturday will see still greater. Prices hold for both days. Women who would profit most will find it good policy to come here and stay all day—for many of the best values in the sale, being too small to advertise, are thrown out upon tables; these are changed almost hourly, only to be replaced by something different. Mail orders will be filled while lots hold out.—Ehrich Bros., New York, N. Y.

This week we have prepared a feast of low prices for our customers. The quality is the same high grade they know so well, but we have squeezed all the profits out of the prices and cut them down to cost. Here are a few of the specials for the next three days, which will delight all housekeepers who believe in saving money.—James Butler, New York.

On Monday our basement store again took front position as the storm center for underprice offerings in New York city. With added space and new determination that this should be the most striking example of what a great store could do in the way of daily bargain displays, the store was filled to overflowing all day long. Yesterday the enthusiasm was continued, and to-day an array of new offerings is presented that will attract thousands of the readers of to-day's news.—John Wanamaker, New York.

As for prices, did you ever hear of one too high in this store?—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

Great bargains in every department. Dollars have doubled purchasing powers here. It pays to trade at Day's.—Day Carpet & Furniture Co., Peoria, Ill.

An opportunity. The expansion sale has created the greatest furniture buying opportunity this store has ever offered. Everything in this large establishment has been priced at one-half the original price and some merchandise at even a lesser figure. It does not require all the cash to avail yourself of these opportunities, but a small payment down and a little each pay-day is all we ask and in case of sickness, accident, non-employment, or death we will extend your payments to suit your convenience without additional cost.—Terre Haute Furniture and Carpet Co., Terre Haute.

Sloppy weather brings a demand for rubbers. There is one place to get good ones cheap.—Cleator's, Reno, Nev.

"He who accuses, excuses himself. We have no apology to offer for our prices—our cloth dealers don't have to experience disaster for our benefit.—W. C. Loftus & Co., New York.

The life-giving principle of advertising is truthfulness; you wouldn't heed us if you didn't believe us. The trademark feature of our Friday advertising is price. Every article advertised for Friday selling is truthfully described. Every price is special and for one day only. You will not find a word of exaggeration in what we say. "Neither will you find a price that is not lower than the usual one."—Gilmore & O'Keeffe, Jersey City, N. J.

Do you realize that the average man of to-day lives with more comfort and convenience than the kings and princes of a century ago, surrounded as they were by their luxuries and servants? What has done it? Modern ways of making and selling. And he has been most successful and rewarded who points out the way. This store is moving fast. Every point, every new idea worth the having, is being focused on the store service. Can't you see it?—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

We make every day a holiday. It is May Day here every day of this merry month of May. The store is in gay attire—wearing its best frock and prettiest hat, as it were, all the time. The show of wearables, our grand display of gowns, the lace and ribbon displays, are always like a fair. Every time you come you see something in which you are interested. We are constantly gathering beautiful things. From all over the globe come the fabrics and fancy goods that make happy those who finally possess them—our patrons.—W. V. Snyder, Newark, N. J.

As against the many exaggerated claims of low prices with which our daily papers are filled, we offer our guarantee, the broadest given to the public by any house in the world: "We guarantee the price of everything we sell to be as low as or lower than the same article or pattern can be bought anywhere else. If in a day, a week or a month later you find the same thing lower elsewhere make a claim upon us and it will be allowed at once. What broader guarantee can be given? It covers every line of merchandise we sell, and under any circumstances the patron of Loeser's is protected." This guarantee renders it absolutely impossible for any house in Greater New York, under any circumstances or conditions, to sell the same goods or patterns for lower prices than we do, as we are sure to discover any change in price almost at once, and then our guarantee makes good. Every claim covered by our guarantee is allowed instantly, with thanks for the information we receive. We fully realize that there is only one sentiment in business—confidence. After that the entire structure is built upon prices and quality. Every purchase made of us carries with it an insurance policy against the possible loss of a single penny under any circumstances which can or may arise within thirty days. Is any further argument needed? Can there possibly be a safer store?—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We're knifing prices.—Our shop is not a storehouse—it's an exchange—changing clothing for cash. Embrace the opportunity to save money—by spending it—here.—Oehm's Acme Hall, Baltimore, Md.

The lowest of lowest prices.—This is the week when prices reach their very lowest level at this establishment, for it's practically the end of the winter selling season, and we make the most of the last opportunity to be rid of the season's remaining stock. Besides, it's just the week before we take inventory, and every department head does his best to have as little stock as possible. Thus, you see there's every reason for inducing you to buy now, even at the most unusual reductions. It's only for you to decide if you prefer to settle your bills in small amounts, for we'll gladly charge your purchases, and you may pay conveniently.—O'Neill's, Baltimore.

A skirt sale at such low prices that only a genuine clearance such as this store makes, that justifies the sacrificing of all profits. If like the majority of stores there was a lot of old plunder to work off (dear at any price), then there would not be anything remarkable in the cut of prices. But all are new and the original marks much lower than others. Thus you'll find it a good investment to buy now while there's choice of all.—Sam Moch, Pueblo, Colo.

When you buy what's best you need buy but seldom; when you buy what's cheap you are buying all the time.—Sander & Recker, Indianapolis, Ind.

All prices are marked in plain figures and the old tags remain to show you what the piece is actually worth. The red tag price is directly beneath to show you how remarkably you save. We invite you to share in these red tag bargains, for when you have seen the furniture we are talking about you will say it is the greatest opportunity you've known in a long time. Space prevents us quoting but a few of the offerings, but bear in mind that every piece in this great establishment carries a red tag with discounts.—The Grote-Rankin Co., Spokane, Wash.

At extraordinary price reductions. Not merely in isolated instances, not merely a few garments that have failed to find favor, but almost every tailored suit and semi-tailored costume which our label identifies is concerned. A most diversified series of the season's favored models, including long and short coat styles, Eton blouse, "Frocks and Frills," fitted and semi-fitted long coat and semi-tailored waist styles, fashioned of high grade voile, eolienne, Panama cloth, mohair, clay serge.

There's positively no excuse for the low prices mentioned below—we simply have the goods to sell and you may judge for yourself the fairness of our proposition. We always give a "square" deal for a "round" dollar.—M. F. Thompson, Binghamton, N. Y.

You will perhaps never get a better opportunity to buy that piece of fur you've had in mind than now, for during this clearance we have cut prices unmercifully and utterly regardless of cost in order to find new owners for these garments immediately.—Bloomington's, New York, N. Y.

The 14th Street Store's rule that before inventory all stock must be reduced to the minimum is so positive that every department manager is hurrying out merchandise at prices so low that losses of profits are mounting into the thousands of dollars. But it's prudent to be rid of what we have for what we can get, and invest the proceeds in new goods. This law of business creates these savings for you. You're entitled to them, and now's your time to gather them in. (Mail orders filled as long as lots last.)—The Fourteenth Street Store, New York, N. Y.

We want you here to-day—we want to show you all the new 1905 cotton creations—want to show you the best assortment ever brought here to Tacoma—want to prove to you that we quote the lowest prices.—The Peoples Store, Tacoma, Wash.

41c. sale for Saturday only. The purchasing powers of this trifling sum at our stores on Saturday is phenomenal.—McConnell & Co., Scranton, Pa.

We won't put price first. Price depends upon quality. Quality for quality, we guarantee that our prices are lower than what you pay elsewhere. What you get for your money is as important as what you pay. No matter how low the price, it's always value received at Moss Bros., Hartford, Conn.

You can find what you want at the smallest kind of little prices in this department to-day. The lots we mention are broken—ideal emptying-out lots—and the prices—well, we've seen that they're in conformity with the scale established all over this store at the outset of this sale.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Highest quality! Lowest price! Can they go together? This is a question naturally every one would ask, because to the average mind high prices would mean high quality. But is that right? No. Many stores get a reputation for high quality by charging high prices, because the idea of low prices brings the thought of mean quality. Now, Kline's is an ardent example of the fact that high quality and low prices can go together.—Kline Bros., Altoona, Pa.

Wednesday the day of days! House-keeper's economies in our crockery department. Everything you want at prices that cannot fail to please you.—E. S. Brown Co., Fall River, Mass.

We will not put price first, for price depends upon quality—but, quality for quality, we shall positively guarantee our prices to be lower than what you have been paying.—Rosenbaum Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Help us clean up our stock of its odds and ends by saving 50c. and $1 for yourselves. You can do it.—H. A. Nichols, Binghamton, N. Y.

What you get for your money is as important as the amount you pay, no matter how low the price no trash goes out of this store. It's always "value received."—C. F. Wing, New Bedford.

The knife has been used in every department. The greatest price-cutting sale ever known in Hamilton still going on at the John Campbell Co.'s Dry Goods Store, Hamilton, Conn.

A grasshopper whose husband earned good wages but never had anything to show for it, inquired of the ant how it was she was always comfortable, and her husband only earned half? "I manage," replied the ant; "for instance, I saved 20 per cent. on carpets last month and the same this month on furniture at P. J. Kelly & Co.'s special sales and on easy payments, too, and I forgot to mention a new stove." The moral stands out like a sore thumb. Call to-day.—P. J. Kelly & Co., New Haven, Conn.

Here's value with a vengeance. It's the boldest slash yet, something for competition to copy, if it can.—Gusky's, Pittsburg, Pa.

If there's anything you want to buy in second-hand furniture you can depend on finding it here and at the right price.—Will Ommert, Fall River, Mass.

More than we want in many lines of furniture tells the story of some mighty good bargains to be had here during the next week.—Davenport Furniture, Carpet Co., Davenport, Ia.

Our prices appeal strongly to the man or woman of an economical turn of mind.—H. B. Beard & Co., York, Pa.

All are sold with a guarantee to give satisfaction, at prices that are absolutely a saving to you on every pair.—Bernheimer, Kansas City, Mo.

Hot shot. From the booming bargain guns of this progressive store. High prices surrender and economical buyers will this week triumphantly fill their household wants at the lowest prices ever recorded. Marvelous values, matchless offerings, powerful drives are in abundance in every department. The "May" store is "the" store for economical buyers.—May & Co., Columbus.

Half-price is still the magnet. But every day sees the gaps in the sizes widen; the variety grows less. This is one of those sales you want to attend without delay. Buy, and you'll be glad you did. Delay and you'll regret it.—Saks & Company, Indianapolis, Ind.

Now is the time. You who have been waiting for a general reduction of prices, here's your chance.—Potter-Whitchill Co., Muncie, Ind.

A great big cut in our children's department. You will save money by calling to-day, honest goods for little money.—Henry Klaholt, Springfield, Ill.

Cast your eye over these: There are good saving opportunities in every one.—Gifford & Co., New Bedford, Mass.

The price part, after the details of selection and decision are all over, you will find most gratifying.—York, Pa.

Come one. Come all. And buy as liberally as your purse will permit. Tonight's sale consists of.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

Star distribution sale. What does it mean? It means the distribution of all kinds of dry goods at saving prices, it means the selling of the best kinds of dependable merchandise at cut rates. It means increasing the buying capacity of your purses. Come and do your shopping here and you will realize the true value of its meaning. We demonstrate this every day and on every purchase you make.—Jas. McLean & Sons, York, Pa.

Making room for spring goods arriving daily from all points of the compass is a problem that finds easiest solution in wholesale price-cutting of incomplete lines and designs that are overplentiful; therefore, a sweeping sale. Only a hint here.—Ludwig Bauman Bros., New York.

We'll let these prices talk.—M. Lowenthal, Los Angeles, Cal.

Koch's uptown prices make downtown shopping an extravagance.—Koch & Co., New York.

Prices which spell economy! They spell economy because the quality is staunch and true.—Moss Bros., Hartford, Conn.

The following prices are made extremely low to induce extensive purchases this week.—Blowenstein & Bros., Memphis, Tenn.

These prices hint at the savings to be found on Monday in every section of Broadway's big store.—The Berlin, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Davis cuts the price. Haven't got time to tell you why he cuts it, but here are some prices to show you how he cuts it.—The Davis Bargain Store, Knoxville, Tenn.

If we don't put up a value sign and drive a "price-nail" during this sale the surface will be too hard to penetrate with any pointed price tool. Theory is a mighty good thing, but a practical illustration is better.—Hartigan's, Schenectady, N. Y.

Remnants of "Quality" on which the prices have been chopped almost to pieces. You are not limited to quantity, nor grade, but can have your choice free from all restraint for a mere song. Here are some of the good things to choose from.—S. Kann Sons & Co., Baltimore.

Our bargains know no bounds! We are plunging ahead, captivating more and more people every week with our surpassing bargains. It's your privilege to choose freely from these values now! Better ones couldn't be—"as good" ones are hard to find—and if you do find as good they won't be as cheap as ours.—Scharps, Galesburg, Ill.

Successive busy days spur us on to greater efforts. Thursday will be no exception to this rule. We're going to continue to demonstrate our prowess as value givers, and this remarkable combination of values and prices should be a strong magnet in drawing you to Washington's brightest and busiest retail establishment.—S. Kann, Sons & Co., Washington, D. C.

There never was a store so full of saving chances. Never one so crowded with interest—diversified good things that will appeal to thousands. The spring stocks are wonderfully complete and in harmony with "The Leader's" ways, priced substantially under value. Study our store news for the coming week. You'll find it rich with timely suggestions and fruitful in economy.—The Leader, Minneapolis, Minn.

Pleasingly priced.—Geo. K. Kline, Johnstown, Pa.

A seasonable slash in prices.—Tull & Gibbs, Spokane, Wash.

Ridiculously marked down prices.—Simonton's, Rockland, Me.

Price so low that you will say "Satisfied."—The Goldstein Clothing Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

A summer shower. Come in and enjoy the rain of price drops—they're truly refreshing.—Foote & Shear Co., Altoona, Pa.

We quote a few prices, but if what you want isn't in print don't think it isn't at a special sale, for it would be impossible to quote the many great values being offered.—The Metropolitan Dry Goods Co., Saginaw, Mich.

Our low prices and excellent values will be particularly satisfactory to patrons.—Gross, Straus & Co., Worcester, Mass.

In the interest of your pocketbook don't wait any longer—take advantage of this greatest of half-price sales.—Graves, Cox & Co., Lexington, Ky.

There are two schools of merchandising. One takes pride in commanding high prices. The other, Macy's, strains its energies in the opposite direction. We feel much pleasure in giving big money's worth as you feel in receiving it.—Macy's New York.

A tempting list of rare bargains. Tomorrow's business is to be characterized with a snap and a vim. We have made the prices so attractive that they will tempt the most prudent to buy. The store is filled throughout with the brightest and best of spring merchandise.—S. Kann, Sons & Co., Washington, D. C.

This business is being builded for the long future—not for to-day only. It is our rule, our recognized purpose to so conduct every sale, every transaction that the custom of that patron will be even more strongly united to this institution. The momentary possible small profit is of very slight importance as compared with the good will and enthusiastic friendship of that patron for the long future. We cannot afford to do otherwise than you would fairly wish us to do. We cannot afford to sell a single item at a price higher than is quoted elsewhere. We can afford to, and do in innumerable instances every day sell goods at prices decidedly lower than similar qualities are sold for elsewhere.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago.

Again it will be demonstrated how we manipulate the prices and allow you opportunities for big savings.—Emery Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

A spring story. It's a tale of new goods, telling of tasty things to wear, of new fashions and correct styles, placed within easy price reach. * * * Spring prices are smaller here than anywhere else.—Gilmore & O'Keeffe, Jersey City.

Assortments and prices wonderfully attractive. Everything everybody wants, whether it be for a dressmaking campaign or a simple bit of home sewing. Besides, all the handy and useful things that the comprehensive word notions covers. The new items we print for tomorrow merely hint of the thousands of others.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

We don't believe there's a class of people anywhere who know a round dollar's worth so well as the Scranton public. And there's no class that appreciates real bargain merit so well as they. Our increasing business indicates this clearly. Bargains like these make the shrewd shoppers come here more than ever. We'll expect you.—Goldsmith's Bazaar, Scranton, Pa.

Matchless values for early April buyers.—Rothenberg & Co., New York.

Broadest guarantee in the world. We guarantee the price of everything we sell to be as low or lower than the same article or pattern can be bought anywhere else. If in a day, a week, or a month later you find the same thing lower elsewhere, make a claim upon us and it will be allowed at once. What broader guarantee can be given? It should make your shopping very safe, and especially as we deal only in the very best of everything.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We present for perusal to-day an array of interesting figures. Study them. When representing lower prices in commodities needed in the home, figures become fascinating. The articles to which they are appended are to be sold at reduced prices—away down prices in some instance—genuine reductions. It is our introductory sale to give the public an idea of the aggressive policy we propose to inaugurate, to convince buyers of our determination to sell dependable goods at the lowest possible price, to lead, to grow, because right prices mean the approval of the masses to which we cater.—Keith-O'Brien Co., Salt Lake City.

The name of Mandel is synonymous with the high standard of merchandise sold and an assurance that the prices are at all times the lowest possible to quote on qualities of equal merit.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Closing prices.—T. Lucey & Bros., Ottawa, Ill.

Strenuous price cutting.—Kauffman, Meyers & Co., Galveston, Tex.

Price reductions very tempting.—Thompson & Co., Nashville, Tenn.

An assemblage of the most amazing money-saving opportunities the shoppers of this city ever saw.—High's, Atlanta, Ga.

At full prices, it's economy to buy Mathewson's. At present prices, it's the limit of economy.—Burke, FitzSimons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Broad and sweeping price-changes. No matter how attractive or how worthy, nothing has escaped the eye of the price-cutter.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago.

The store of big values and little prices.—J. V. Ritchey, Burlington, Ia.

Sleds are not the only things sliding down the hill. Prices are gliding, too.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

The wage worker's dollar often represents hours of arduous toil. When that dollar is spent it should command its fullest buying power. To give it that power is one of the vital principles of this business.—Haskell & Tripp, New Bedford, Mass.

A dollar saved is a dollar made. Let us save you enough dollars on your spring buying to enable you to get that something nice for the house that every housekeeper has been promising herself for so long, but thought she couldn't afford.—Reps, Jungk & Co., Davenport, Iowa.

A Saturday bargain symposium in The Under-Price Store. One definition of "symposium" is "a collection of brief essays on the same subject." The subject under discussion in the items given below is "economy!" and they show you in most alluring fashion how several sections of the store compass timely economies for you to-day.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Don't delay. Life is short at best. Why not enjoy it while you can, and what else is there that will bring you and your family so much pleasure as a nice piano. See what a little money will buy.—Orton Bros., Great Falls.

"Confidence and good will are our greatest assets!" The unfaltering desire to serve you better than any other house in America, the constant inclination to give you greater incentive to trade here than elsewhere has given our stores, Minneapolis and St. Paul combined, the greatest exclusive retail clothing business in America.—Palace Clothing House, Minneapolis, Minn.

Seventh anniversary sale an event of more than passing interest. The potency of unheard-of low prices, attached to merchandise of worthiest qualities will be tested this coming week. This anniversary sale will be the most aggressive trade movement we have ever launched. Our department managers, twenty alert, aggressive men and women, have united in the determination to make this sale the greatest event in the long line of successes that have marked the development of this store. Bold and fearless underpricing will prevail in every section.—The Broadway Department Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

There is no getting away from the fact that we are selling goods from one-fourth to one-third less than the other fellows, because we bought them that way in our big $29,000 purchase for $17,000.—Hirschman's, Salt Lake City.

A special study in economies for Monday. The strict definition of economies is the science of household affairs. Now, we take upon ourselves to broaden this meaning and apply it to personal wear and combine both in a special sale of much magnitude.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Special Saturday snaps, stupendous saving chances. Each succeeding Saturday has to eclipse the former in money saving opportunities—that's how it is these sales have become so popular. People know that everything we offer as a Saturday snap, is a genuine bona fide bargain, coupling dependable merchandise with very low prices. Saturday will be no exception to the rule, and a list of bargains is offered that will loosen the purse strings of the most thrifty buyers.—Hudson Bay Store, Vancouver, B. C.

Prices not much higher than the ready made. Give us a look and see if we can't save you dollars on your purchase.—Glackner's Clothing Store, Fall River.

The money-saving spot is at Chas. E. Stevenson & Co., Vancouver, B. C.

A pointer for you. Excellent value at small cost.—W. Froelich & Sons, York City, Pa.

A sale that smashes prices, but does not injure quality.—Wm. Stallcup, Alliance, Ohio.

Fresh, bright goods, straight from our new lines, in full pieces and in full selection, unchanged in any respect save that of price, but with their prices greatly changed.—The Edward Malley Co., New Haven, Conn.

There is money for you in following bits of news. The goods are up-to-date; are perfect in every way—nothing in the world is the matter with them except the price, and that's all in your favor. Never mind the way of the price cut. It takes too much space to tell it. Here are the facts to interest you.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis.

You owe your pocketbook the consideration of investigating the following exceptional bargains.—H. V. Monahan, Brooklyn, N. Y.

It's not so much what you pay as what you get for what you pay. The best for the money. You get what you pay for.—H. S. Chase & Co., Valley Junction, Iowa.

Prices that must give us indisputable leadership.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn.

Jaccard prices when once put upon goods are never changed to meet personal requests or to gain personal favor. Every article in our store has its legitimate value, and is worth just the same to one buyer who wants it as it is to another. Our one price system recognizes the claim of every customer to our consideration, and upon it you can base your confidence in the integrity of our goods and the values we place upon them.—Jaccard Jewelry Co., Kansas City.

The strong purchasing power of a dollar will surprise you if you observe these prices, and then come examine the quality of the goods we're giving.—Kemper & Paxton, Topeka, Kan.

Here they are. The greatest bargain offerings of the season. They go on sale to-morrow morning. All new and desirable spring and summer merchandise at decidedly cut prices.—Au Bon Marche, New Bedford, Mass.

Thirty-six pointed price arguments. That should convincingly appeal to all Monday shoppers. Each item quoted represents just the sort of merchandise most in demand now, and from a money-saving standpoint is of paramount importance to you. Don't overlook a single one.—The Beehive, Kansas City, Mo.

Prices touch every home. They mean so much to the man who works for wages, and the man whose business or profession forces economy. We have set the pace in low prices. They are everywhere discussed. When goods and prices are compared, shoppers realize the benefit low prices make possible.—Keith O'Brien Company, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Here are certain savings. For the economically inclined, this store opens up many broad avenues of substantial savings, and besides you're not restricted to narrow, out-of-date, hour sales. Our bargains are for all day or days. Just so long as they last. Read the below-mentioned price list and see the very good reasons why you should come here to-morrow.—Bejach, Memphis, Tenn.

Little price offers.—The Economy, South Bend, Ind.

Shortened prices.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Economy prices.—John N. Thomas & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

We make prices that stagger combines.—The Owl Drug Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Moderate prices that you'd never equal for lowness.—Graves, Cox & Co., Lexington, Ky.

Our prices are wondrously attractive.—Burke, FitzSimons, Hone & Co., Rochester.

Prices, because our orders from the makers were so large, are very low.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

There is such an economy in the prices as will appeal to all people of thrift.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Stocks whose goodness outshine the past and prices so low as to half repudiate the goodness.—Scroggie's, Montreal.

The low prices are bound to win the admiration and confidence of all conservative people.—The Economy, South Bend, Ind.

Price is always a strong attraction for customers. We know how to combine quality and price.—F. Lapointe, Montreal, Can.

Decoy prices. The absurdly low prices for dental work that are sometimes advertised are not real prices. They are decoys, and their object is to entice the unwary within the "shooting" range of the advertiser's suave arguments. Almost the first thing that you will be told about these less than fair prices is that they "are not for the kind of work that you want." The best work does not need to attract by such decoys—and fair charges do not need to hide behind them.—Dr. M. E. Spinks, Los Angeles, Cal.

Since giving a notice of a price reduction the response has surprised us. Hundreds of customers are alive to the fact that they can now buy overcoats, suits, pants, furnishings and fur goods at most popular prices.—Fralick & Co., Hamilton, Ont., Can.

Some of the largest factories in the country producing high-grade furniture wanted to dispose at once of all or portions of their stocks. Our offers to take at once their entire lots on hand, and to pay spot cash, enabled us to secure extraordinary price concessions from the usual wholesale prices, and we have marked every piece in the same proportion as we bought.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Keep track of our price-making.—Emery-Bird-Thayer & Co., Kansas City.

Price surprise.—A. Lisner, Washington.

Note the underprices.—Dils Brothers & Co., Parkersburg, W. Va.

Proper price inducements.—Emery-Bird-Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Another strenuous price-event.—Hackett, Carhart & Co., New York.

Dried-up prices.—Rosenthal & Newmark, Newberry, Mich.

Prices as low as we know how to make them.—Beal & Martin, St. Thomas, Ont.

You will notice that all prices quoted are even prices, no 23c. or 49c., etc., etc. The reason for that is that the qualities are so satisfying and so uncommonly good that every garment sells on its merits at a regular price. Besides, what's the use of buying a "cheap" garment, one or two cents lower than a really wearable and satisfactory one?—Strouss & Hirshberg, Youngstown, O.

The prices quoted at our great clearance sale are in many cases below actual wholesale cost. Spot cash tells the story.—Clarke Brothers, Scranton, Pa.

Selling to the consumer at wholesale prices is the thing that brings the people to this big store daily. Why not come here and buy at wholesale instead of buying elsewhere and at retail prices?

Compare these prices with the prices charged at other places. You will readily see that a dollar here will buy almost as much again as it will most places.—R. H. Williams, Kansas City, Mo.

The popular price limit.—Walker Brothers, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Delightful low prices.—Jas. Paton & Co., Charlottetown, P. E. I.

High-grade goods at lessened prices.—W. H. Keech Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

The prices won't interfere with your buying.—Novi-modi Costume Co., Montreal, Can.

It would be wise to buy for a long time to come at these prices.—The Fair, Chicago, Ill.

Ten dollars in every detail but the price card.—N. Snellenburg & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Prices here are figured with strictest regard to economy.—E. G. Brown, Bayonne, N. J.

Aristocratic clothing for plebeian prices.—MacCarthy-Evans Tailoring Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Compare our prices with others and you will find them always lowest.—Gately & Donovan, Saginaw, Mich.

Prices that eliminate most of the profit for us, but mean big saving chances for you.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

There is nothing ordinary about the offerings in this house unless it be prices. We prefer to sell a good article at a fair margin of profit and court the friendship and future business of the present buyer.—W. S. Aaron, Altoona.

Hurry-out prices.—Charles H. Bear, York, Pa.

Time for broken prices.—Heinrich's, Minneapolis, Minn.

Half price will buy any one.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Prices that mean big saving chances for you.—Hunter's, Memphis, Tenn.

The price is the most welcome part.—J. N. Adams & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Prices lowered to the last notch.—Giddings Bros., Colorado Springs, Colo.

Prices worthy of an immense business that's sure to come.—McNaughton's, Muncie, Ind.

Our prices are lower. We never sacrifice quality to quote a low price, but we make low prices.—Frank N. Simmons Co., Cincinnati, O.

What is that? Sounds as if something had dropped. Yes, something did drop—it was the price on a lot of our odd, light, summer suits and trousers.—Dou-thett & Graham, Youngstown, O.

A woman reads an advertisement in the newspapers about cheap linens. She goes to the store, and finds a table cloth marked $14, with a stroke through the figures, then $7 with another stroke, then $3.50 unstroked. She buys it for she cannot resist $14 for $3.50. When she gets home she finds a hole in the cloth and the linen not good. And growing suspicious she goes out to another store, and finds a much better cloth selling regularly at $4.50. No $14 with a stroke through it. No $7, simply $4.50, regular price. Moral—When you open your purse don't shut your eyes.—Connolly & Wallace, Scranton, Pa.

Prices much diluted.—F. M. Atwood, Chicago, Ill.

Prices fixed by economists.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

Small prices invite large sales.—Kaufmann, Pittsburg, Pa.

Prices that clinch the argument.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Our prices will be a pleasant surprise.—Gately & Donovan, Saginaw, Mich.

Lower prices have never been met with.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

Prices that cannot be equaled for lowness.—Blowenstein and Brothers, Memphis, Tenn.

The flashing of a string of sensational prices will not tempt a thoughtful clothing buyer. He wants value at a fair price.—N. Vinje & Co., Morris, Minn.

In this list there is not a regular price. Everything has been reduced to the sale level and that level is a Malley one, which does not count pennies when it is possible to cut dimes.—The Edw. Malley Co., New Haven, Conn.

To-day starts the third week of the boldest and most decisive price-reducing event to which you have ever been invited. Our desire is to show you how cheap we can sell you a good article, and how good an article we can sell cheap.—Reynolds, Troy, N. Y.

Prices the lowest that can possibly be quoted for furniture of standard quality and merit.—R. J. Horner & Co., New York.

Snappy specials. Magnetic values. You may match these prices, but not the values.—Geo. H. Plumer, Newburyport.

The price marks will prove no less a revelation than the beauty and comprehensiveness of the styles.—Rothschild & Co., Chicago, Ill.

"A penny saved is a penny earned," and the maxim becomes true in dollars when applied here.—Fred S. Tucker, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Sacrifice prices. We are determined that nothing shall be carried over to another season. This is your opportunity.—H. Rosenour & Sons, Frederic, Md.

Final reduction. Unusual low prices. But the usual end-of-the-season opportunities.—Nicholas & Morse, Haverill.

Every item quoted has experienced a double reduction, which will insure a speedy riddance of all our odd lots.—Inter-State Mercantile Co., Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Values that amaze. To-morrow this much talked of February sale swings enthusiastically into its second week of success. The prices quoted are revelations to the most experienced of buyers. Astonishing possibilities. Values that amaze.—People's Outfitting Co., Chicago.

It's your own fault if you do not take advantage of the special low prices which we are making on the most desirable merchandise for man, woman and boy. Our determination to make this clearing sale a successful one has met with the most substantial approval of the trading public. Now we are going to continue for one week longer these sweeping reductions in men's, ladies' and boys' clothing; therefore, we say to you "It's your own fault" if you don't profit by these continued low prices.—The Hub, Great Falls, Mont.

We have a good list of values for to-night's selling. These bargains should interest you if you're a cash buyer.—The Big Cash Store, St. Thomas, Ont.

Prices sent skyward.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

Sentimental price-tune.—Cohen's, Richmond, Va.

Unheard of prices.—Household Credit & Auction Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Prices that cannot be gainsaid.—The Scott D G. Co., Cleveland, O.

Prices to rouse your enthusiasm to a high pitch.—Modern Merchandise Co., Worcester, Mass.

Listen! Did you hear something drop? We did, but it was only prices.—Young & Schaffer, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Now comes the power on wreckage from every department.—Bay City Cash Store, Bay City, Mich.

Price figures, but quality is the real test of cheapness.—Fitche Goettinger Co., Dallas, Texas.

The thrifty buyer knows that Graham's is the money-saving spot, and these clean-up prices will make such active buying that all lines will go in a jiffy.—A. E. Graham & Co., Hillsboro, Tex.

"Who killed high prices?"—"I," said the shoddy-maker, "with my wool substitute—I killed high prices!" "Not so," said the cotton-spinner. "With my deftly woven threads in two per cent. of wool—I killed high prices!" "Hear me!" said the cheap clothing manufacturer, "I killed high prices. By cutting and pulling and pressing unshrunk cotton and shoddy fabrics into semblance of shapes, I killed high prices!" Then up spoke the people: "Wrong, wrong! All of you are wrong! By selling the best styles of clothing, cut and made by intelligent tailors, from pure wool fabrics—with the guarantee of rightness for every garment sold, or money back—Brill Brothers killed high prices!"—Brill Brothers, New York, N. Y.

Low price clearing sale. Wonderful opportunities to save does this store offer you. Will you be one of the fortunate ones to anticipate on these low prices?—Neidig & Miller, Frederic, Md.

It is now but a question of days before spring clothing crowds out winter garments, so we make unusual price reductions in order to help the winter goods to move.—Benner, Begg & Garvin, Grand Forks, N. D.

If you think these values good you will find many others here just as good or better. We never fail to match or better any "one day specials" elsewhere offered. We are alive; very much alive.—Hearn, New York, N. Y.

We prefer to close these lots out rather than carry them on our inventory list, and so for Saturday we say come and take your choice at these most extraordinary prices.—Au Bon Marche, New Bedford, Mass.

We have just instituted still another marvelous reduction that excels all other previous record-breaking efforts in this line. We have combined many of the gems of the highest grades of those suits and overcoats remaining from our wonderful green tag sale, and to-morrow they will go on sale at so low a figure that it will amaze the trade. Take advantage of this sale now, for we have reached the season's limit for low prices.—Richardson Clothing Co., Kansas City.

Reductions so drastic as these may well cause surprise among men who wear good clothes and those who are in the retail trade, because they are so much greater than would be expected, considering the quality and general desirability of the garments. But the 14th Street Store has counted stock and these lots have come to light. They've got to go at once, which accounts for these immense price-cuts. On some we have gone way below actual cost. On others exact cost has been marked. But no matter where you choose you will secure splendid bargains.—The Fourteenth Street Store, New York, N. Y.

Our anxiety to effect a clearance of the greater part or all of our stock that we may make room for the first arrivals of spring styles, expected shortly, has led us to make price concessions so remarkable that they will appeal to every man and young man in Milwaukee, if the quality of the clothing offered is taken into consideration. These price reductions are most important at this time, inasmuch as they include hundreds of suits and overcoats of medium weight that may be worn at any season of the year. The recent advance of 25 per cent. in the cost of manufactured woolen goods should prove another incentive to buy now when great values are so apparent.—Stumpf & Langhoff, Milwaukee, Wis.

Merchandise of style and quality—many kinds of good merchandise—at reduced prices. This means a great saving, and much interest, to you. The bare facts are sufficient; briefly, concisely told, just as they are. Shows that a genuinely important sale is not to be determined merely by words. Every item is correctly quoted from regular stock, and of course worth all that was formerly asked.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta.

Surprise prices.—Goldenberg's, Washington, D. C.

Our regular prices are decisively lowered.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Everything priced to meet the requirements of thrifty shoppers.—Whitehouse D. G. Co., Spokane, Wash.

We cut our own prices just to keep up our habit of cutting.—The Owl Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

No lower prices in Winnipeg. Our prices are always the lowest. We are never undersold, because no dealer can sell for so little profit as we and keep his store open. Close buying and our enormous purchases have accomplished this. You save money by it. The price of drugs at wholesale is largely regulated by the quantity. We buy in carload, hogshead, barrel and bale lots, where the small dealer cannot afford to buy more than a box, gallon or pound. The result is we can sell you at a price as low as the small dealer pays for his goods. We've cut out two profits—wholesaler's and retailer's—and given you the benefit. Our advantage lies in the enormous amount of business we do annually by this method, and in the quality of goods. Thus we have earned the confidence of the public. Don't fail to take advantage of the money saving sale which is going on at our four stores, closing Thursday night, July 18th.—Gordon Mitchell Drug Co., Winnipeg, Can.

A merry time we have planned, a happy time, bargain time, and timely time for all to supply needs in little necessities and wear things for months to come. We have peeled and pruned and pared the smallest prices in town into smaller ones. Oceans of notions have swelled our usual stocks into overflowing.—Nachman & Meertihf, Montgomery.

Plain prices. Every article in our store marked in plain figures. We have but one price; the lowest, which we make to every one.—Brent's, Los Angeles, Cal.

We will offer at specially low and attractive prices, every sort of dainty whitewear—whitewear made in the finest whitewear factories in Canada—whitewear that's cut to fit, whitewear that's sweet and clean—made under the most wholesome sanitary conditions—and at prices so low that no woman can afford to waste the time and trouble entailed in sewing at home.—Prowse Bros., Ltd., Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Judge our drug store by two tests—quality and value. The store that was first—and out of its own initiative—to bring prices down to a small profit and quick turnover basis, and at the same time maintaining the highest standard quality, can always be safely trusted with your orders.—T. Eaton & Co., Winnipeg.

Big slices have been cut off the original prices. In many instances they have been cut to half. Hundreds of women have taken advantage of these sweeping reductions. Consequently many numbers have been entirely sold out. Owing to the fact of an unusually good season almost every garment on sale is but a recent arrival. Therefore, the very last suit, skirt or waist is just as good, just as sightly and just as low-priced as the very first one selected in the first hour of this sale. All our garments are the latest style, cut and material, but profits are sacrificed to make a clean sweep of every article.—Louis Einstein & Co., Fresno, Cal.

Keep $2 of every $10. In our great sale this week—in annex—you can keep two dollars out of every ten you intend spending. Think what a big saving that is. Twenty cents of every dollar stays in your pocketbook or goes toward buying something else you need. The carpenters will be ready soon to start their work in cutting the big archway between our two stores, and we must make room for them. That's why we offer you 20 per cent. on all these beautiful goods. The Allen stock is known to be one of the most select ever brought to Columbia. All this stylish lot of goods is being sold out regardless of everything, simply to make room at a saving to you of 20 per cent. less than our low sacrifice prices. If the stock is left here while the work is going on it means complete ruin. Even the shelving will be torn down and remodeled. We can't afford that, so have decided to let you share in the benefit by you saving 20 cents from every dollar you want to spend. Linens that Allen sold as cheap for $1.25 we reduced to $1. You can buy them during this sale for 80 cents per yard. And so it goes throughout the entire stock.—The James L. Lapp Co., Columbia, S. C.

To-day we quote a few low-price suggestions that point a sure way to the proper place to do the bulk of your Saturday buying. The store is stocked with high-class merchandise for spring and summer, so, no matter what the weather proves to be, the hours spent in this store will be bright, cheery and full of plans for summer days.—The Edwards Store, Troy, N. Y.

A clean sweep to be made of everything in the holiday stock. Our before Christmas prices were lower than you ever knew them, but now they are discounted from 1-5 to 1-3—yes, even half price takes many of the pieces. Interested buyers are culling from our display tables. Be quick to get your share.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

Though cotton prices are soaring, values are good. In these days when cotton prices are soaring skyward it is a difficult matter to obtain undermuslins of the right kind at prices which would permit giving the values we desire and that you would expect in this great May sale. But it has been done and you will be delighted not only with the styles, but with the surprisingly good values to be seen when you come to-morrow.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

The prices were cut—cut—cut, till there was no room for doubt that every one would prove a magnet that would introduce the article advertised to some customer who had never used it before. The heads of departments grieved to see good goods offered at such low figures, but we blue-penciled the reductions they made and cut the prices still lower. Thousands of women await this announcement every week, to avail themselves of the economy opportunities presented. Every woman who scans this half-page of values will find the temptation to buy will be irresistible.—Woodard, Clarke & Co., Portland, Ore.

Price and quality. Purchases where price is more than quality are made at all times—the price paid for anything is not always in conformity with quality. At our store prices are always right and in conformity with quality of goods bought. Whatever you buy of us you will get full value—right price and right quality with every dollar spent in our store.—Reaves-Hamm Department Store, Montgomery, Ala.

Doctors tell us never to try sleeping on a full stomach. Good advice; but here's better: Sleep on a full pocket-book. Greatest sedative ever known. We'll help fill the pocketbooks with "change back" and furnish the sleep-easys at reduced prices Friday.—Olds, Wortman & King, Portland, Ore.

Yes, our prices are moving the goods rapidly, you are invited to respond promptly to these offers as they are genuine bargains. You must remember, however, that this entire stock is being disposed of at correspondingly low prices, bring your list of needs and we will save you large sums of money.—W. H. Rileys, Memphis, Tenn.

A week of continual surprises. Astonishingly low prices for its high quality, fine store—every department ready with its share. Any woman with an eye to economy may be gratified in almost every need. A feature of these last days is the great sale of remnants and odd lots.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Scores of shrewd shoppers are now taking advantage of the low prices we are now offering. The influx of our midsummer styles in linen and other tub suits and summer fabrics compels us to offer the balance of our spring stock of tailored suits and covert jackets at prices in most cases way below cost of making.—C. J. Gutgesell, St. Paul, Minn.

If these goods were not cheap, or just as we represented them to be, will you tell us why the people were so patient in waiting for their turn to be waited on?—Goldsmith's Bazar, Scranton, Pa.

The greatest store and the greatest business in Brooklyn have risen here on the foundation of public satisfaction with the best service, the best assortment and the lowest prices.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Because we've only a few of a kind of these coats and suits, in most cases only one or two, we are anxious to close them out quickly and so make this further cut in their already reduced prices. To realize what a great bargain chance this is you must remember that the present price of each suit and coat in this lot is a third to a half less than what it was earlier in the season and this additional reduction of one-quarter is from the present reduced prices.—Snellenburg's.

Here's just a few, picked out from our large stock. To-morrow we are slaughtering the prices in every department. Values will be given that will surprise you at the smallness of the price asked. This is, indeed, a golden opportunity and one that you should not miss. We guarantee every article we sell to be as represented and if you're not entirely satisfied we cheerfully refund your money.—Au Bon Marche, Montreal, Can.

Visit this store early Monday morning, it will doubly repay you, as almost every department of this entire store offers you wonderful special lines. Read this advertisement carefully, and after you have completed your list from this advertisement, look further before leaving the store, there are so many things to be had at a saving just now, the lots being too small to take special space for in the papers.—R. McKay & Co., Hamilton.

Rich prizes, in the form of high-grade and most desirable merchandise at very small prices, await the throngs that will come to-day and to-morrow for the myriad of good things at this after-inventory sale.—J. N. Adams & Co., Buffalo.

At the regular price this is the best ready-for-service clothing made—stylish, perfect in fit, made with punctillious attention to the minutest detail of tailoring. No need, therefore, to insist on the splendid bargain character of this offering at the reduced price.—Mandel Bros.

Prices are fully a third less than they should be.—The May Co., Cleveland, O.

We've gone through the stock again and virtually added everything to the Half Price Suit Tables. These include the finest grades of worsteds—making the assortment better and more complete than at any time during the sale. We are determined to clean up every suit in stock even to the last garment. All sizes from 33 to 46 in all the lots together—and wonderfully good picking for big men.—D. J. Kaufman, Washington, D. C.

More doubting Thomases wanted.—Do you remember how the wisecracs shook their heads when we discarded the obsolete charge-and-pay-when-you-can system of merchandizing and adopted the new way? Well, not a day passes but what one or more of these doubters is converted to the wisdom and economy of 20th century methods. Why? It's the only way. The advantages in buying and the elimination of "bad debts," collecting expenses, and such considerations from the profits—make our dollars and your dollars bigger—much bigger.—A. Bushnell & Co., Watertown.

Cash business has advantages for our customers and for us. It makes business economies that make our low prices possible.—Sabin Bros., Belvidere, Ill.

RAINCOATS

Until recently rubber-lined garments have been in disgrace with the majority of buyers. They were unreliable, in winter stiff enough to stand alone, in summer sticky, not to mention the objectionable odor. These new garments are made by an English maker who imports the fabric, of fine peau de cygne with lining of odorless rubber. This remains pliable winter and summer, and renders the coat especially valuable for automobilists.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

The new raincoats are here. It's too bad to call them raincoats, for keeping you dry is only one of many purposes for which they're intended and used. The new ones are made of fine cravenetted light weight cloths, that are both rain and dust proof. Several styles are shown in loose and fitted backs, all made with belts; nearly all are box-pleated; some show shirring; shades are grays, tans, olive, brown and black.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Men's raincoats. There isn't a bit of sentiment about these raincoats for men and you don't pay for any. You just buy all the style and comfort and service that can be crammed into a swell coat made of "Priestly Cravenette" by first class New York tailors. Now, if you are one of these fellows who see visions and dream and look for the style of a coat in the label inside of the collar, don't come here. If you are a judge of fashions and know something about quality, and don't mind saving five or ten dollars, here's your chance.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Raincoat overcoats. The weather man says "rain and cooler" for Thursday, and slight changes for Friday. He may be wrong, but that won't spoil this story. It will be cooler, and it will be wet—if not to-day or to-morrow, many other days, and many other to-morrows. While you're thinking of a fall overcoat, take a look at the smart new raincoats we have just received. Handsome, stylish, and light in weight as a top coat; but a safe protection when you get caught in the rain. The raincoat fits perfectly, looks smart and clean-cut; and is not overheating after the rain is over.—Wanamaker's, New York.

In the main floor store for men to-morrow you will find one of the best values of the whole season—a shipment from our best makers of 58 fine top coats and 38 raincoats that in other places would cost from $3 to $5 more than the $10 apiece for which they will be sold. The top coats are our distinguished Chesterfield model, knee length and especially graceful. Fabrics are excellent oxford and black coatings. Serge lining for the body of the coats and satin lined sleeves. 34 to 46 chest measure in regular and stout sizes. The raincoats are made long and full, with snug fitting collars, broad shoulders and gracefully draped back. The fabric is a fine oxford coating cravenetted. Shoulders and sleeves are trimmed with a fine Venetian cloth. Sizes 34 to 46 chest measure.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

One of our best manufacturers, finding himself heavily overstocked, came to us last week for assistance, and as a result we shall offer his entire stock of high-grade garments at the lowest prices ever quoted on goods of equal quality. The lot contains every imaginable rainproof fabric in all the most wanted styles and in a complete assortment of sizes and colors. This is not an offering of shopworn garments, but of new, fresh goods, in perfect condition. There's hardly a coat in the lot which would not sell readily for $15.00, but we prefer to give our customers the benefit of the best purchase we have ever made, and so make the price on all indiscriminately, $7.98.—R. H. White & Co., Boston, Mass.

Take along a raincoat.—When you go away on a vacation, or even for a picnic, it's a wise thing to take along a raincoat. You are likely to run into a shower any time that will damage your clothes.—The Utica Clothiers, Des Moines, Ia.

Blow high, blow low—the Raincoat holds its own. While by design it is a heavy-weather rig, it is equally an admirable mill-pond sailor—for sunshine, in other words, as well as for rain.—Wanamaker, New York City.

Postponing the purchase of a raincoat in anticipation of dry weather is depriving one's self of the needful.—Swift, New Bedford, Mass.

Showery? What of it? Get one of our raincoats made to last, and let it rain.—Wells & Morgan.

Men's raincoats. Not the hot, heavy, ill-fitting coats that you have been accustomed to have thrown at you. The goods we offer you are light, stylish and comfortable. They are like top coats that good dressers wear.—D. W. Downey, Brockville, Ont.

Women's raincoats and rainskirts. One naturally suggests the other. It is just as reasonable that a woman should have a rainproof skirt as that she should constantly have to wear a long coat in order to be protected from a shower. The rainskirt can be worn with any short jacket, and protects as thoroughly as a raincoat.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Just think of the comfort a cravenette overcoat gives in such wet, drizzly weather as we've had, and will have. Certainly you should own one. And when it does clear up, you're still attired in a right smart manner. All the little points of fine tailoring and style are insured.—Vogel Bros., New York, N. Y.

As exponents of the fine art of tailoring our top coats and cravenettes stand forth as rare examples. One cannot imagine overcoats to possess lines that are more correct or more graceful. Those essentials to a good overcoat—shapely shoulders, snug-fitting collars, smooth-setting fronts, perfect fit, are truly distinguishing and characteristic features of these new models in top coats and cravenettes. Prices range from $10.00 to $30.00.—I. I. Goldsmith & Sons, Binghamton, N. Y.

A raincoat is better than rheumatism and costs much less. Pneumonia comes cheap but goes high. A genuine cravenette raincoat on the back is worth two umbrellas in the hand. The cravenetting process don't make the fabric air tight—nor yet deluge proof; does make it non-absorbent of moisture and odorless—all without changing its appearance.—Geeley Clothing Co., Hartford, Conn.

A raincoat is just the thing when the nights begin to get a little cool and you feel the need of an outer garment. They are the best looking overcoats and yet they are so absolutely waterproof they keep you dry in the severest storm.—Scotch Woolen Co., Troy, N. Y.

One might as well be without an umbrella as a raincoat on a rainy day, but unlike the umbrella the raincoat gives splendid service, rain or shine, until the weather becomes cold enough for furs. Nowadays no woman is without one.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

The weather man says "rain and cooler" for to-morrow, and slight changes for the day after. He's a pretty good weather man, yet he may be wrong, but it won't spoil this story. It will be cooler and it will be wet—if not to-morrow or the day after, then other to-morrows and days after. While you're thinking of an overcoat, take a look at the smart new raincoats we have just received. Handsome, stylish and light in weight as a top coat, but a safe protection when you get caught in the rain. The raincoat fits perfectly, looks smart and cleancut, and is not overheating after the rain is over.—The Nebraska, Kansas City, Mo.

The past few days have demonstrated that a wrap of the above character is indispensable to a lady's wardrobe. No matter how many coats or jackets a lady may have, a rain or traveling coat is always useful, whether it is during the rainy season or the dry, dusty days of the summer. Especially if you intend going camping or traveling or driving you will need one of these useful garments. We have gone through our stock of these garments and taken out all odd coats that the sizes have been broken and made very liberal reductions.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Raincoats they are called, but they are as good for bright days as for dark ones. As different from the old, rattling, ill-smelling mackintoshes as an automobile from a wheelbarrow. The materials are all wool, rainproofed by a process that leaves the fabric soft and does not change its appearance. The styles we show are the newest—tailoring is the best—weaves and coloring the most fashionable.—Keely Co., Atlanta, Ga.

A raincoat is needed for the fall rains. Aside from sheltering one's self from the rain, these cool evenings make this same kind of coat very comfortable, and are quite the proper thing.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

A striking feature about these smart, graceful garments is the delicate shades of the materials. There are the beautiful olives—puzzle you to tell whether they are greens or greys, and those popular French greys, the dainty Oxfords and other colors of equal beauty, as browns, blue greys, etc. These coats are made three-quarter or full length, with or without capes, in military styles, lapel and collarless effects, with natty box plaits on back and shoulders, and trimmed with nobby little buttons, self-covered, oxidized or brass. A decidedly new feature on some is the shirring on sleeves and waist.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

For rain or shine, for shine and rain the Raynshyne. Once when it rained style and dressiness were thrown to the winds. The raincoat was a severely plain and unlovely thing. No wonder one didn't care to be seen after all. But now is the reign of the Raynshyne!

Pretty name, isn't it? But just the one that describes the Eaton make of the beautiful modern modish Cravenette coat. An exceedingly dressy and serviceable spring, summer, outing garment. Suitable for all weathers; and you'll not dread a sudden spring shower if you are wearing this dressy, useful and convenient garment, which is perfectly shower-proof, but has not any of the disagreeable qualities of rubber. It is dust-shedding as well as being impervious to rain.—The T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

The stuffed bird in the raincoat window is still on guard, but the raincoat hasn't leaked yet. You will enjoy a "Yates-made" raincoat as much as the swan, frog and goldfish. It keeps the water in for them; it will keep it out for you.—A. C. Yates & Co., Philadelphia.

Mackintoshes. Prepare now for the wet season—showers, etc. 'Tis human nature to neglect things not needed for immediate use. Don't let it happen in this case—the weather prophet can not predict economy to you.—Giddings Bros., Colorado Springs, Colo.

Think of the old-time black gossamer! Then look at these stunning raincoats! A Cinderella-like transformation! Scores of styles in the finest cravenetted materials; coverts in tans and grays, and the ultra-modish greens from the lighter willow to bronze; and any number of the herringbone, indefinite stripe and plaid and flecked mixtures in low-toned effects; so smart that it is no wonder that women wear them as "rain-or-shine" coats.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

It's really a pity to apply the term "raincoat" to the garment that now sells for rainy day wear, because bright weather by no means calls for a discontinuance of its use. An outing cloak for all sorts of weather more fitly describes the general utility of the garment.—W. A. Murray & Co., Toronto.

Only one out of some two hundred makers of raincoats that we interviewed found it possible to turn out these raincoats the way we wanted them at a price which would enable us to sell them for $8.75—many wanted as much for them wholesale as we're asking you now.—Bloomington's, New York, N. Y.

"Rain or Shine" coats. The most sensible coat a man can own. Made of English cravenette cloth, thoroughly waterproof. We make them without any lining and some half lined and some lined throughout. The only coat you need from now until next November. Four nice dark shades, and two light shades to select from, all sizes, $10 to $20.—Oak Hall, Hamilton, Ont.

These are the days when you start picnicking or riding with the sun gloriously shining and just reach the worst place when Old Sol deserts you and Jupiter Pluvius soaks you unawares and unprotected. That's why a rain coat is necessary.—Abraham & Straus.

The rapidity with which the six hundred raincoats were sold out last week started us trying to find more to meet the demands of people who were unable to share in the offering, because the raincoats were sold out before they got here. We discovered that the manufacturer had two hundred and twenty-five coats which were just coming from the hands of the tailors. These we have secured to sell at the same price, $12 each. All are fresh and new, just finished, in the very latest styles, and in a very wide variety. Those who were disappointed before will come promptly now, as this is the last that we shall receive, and they are likely to go as quickly as the previous lot.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Distinctive raincoats for men. Special at $15.00. You might treat a piece of cheesecloth to the process, fashion it into a coat and with perfect honesty term it a "cravenette." The mere process promises nothing beyond the proofing—it adds nothing to the character of the character of the cloth nor does it influence the tailoring. Our standard does. It insures fabrics of an exceptionally high grade, perfectly cravenetted and tailoring of the very highest order—tailoring which leaves the garment with every earmark of those made to order—distinctiveness, character and the little knacks which tend toward individuality. To send this great truth home we have elected to offer raincoats in the fifty-two inch box model, fashioned of worsteds in four new gray mixtures. Special at fifteen dollars—twenty would still be modest.—Saks & Company, New York.

We have a fresh lot of Cravenette raincoats, and we are sorry to say that the weather guessers believe that there will be ample chance to use raincoats through this month.—The Edw. Malley Co., New Haven, Conn.

REAL ESTATE

When giving us a description of your property for the purpose of placing it on our "for sale" list do not exaggerate. Nothing is so disgusting or detracts more from the sale, than when we send the purchaser several miles to look at the property and he finds it has been misrepresented by its owner. He thinks there is much more he don't see, so he don't buy.—Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

The addition is supplied with large trunk sewers, and arrangements have been made for luxuries and conveniences, such as gas, electric lights and the like. It is intended that the houses shall set on a terrace, overlooking the streets on Iuka and Indianola Avenues. Every possible effort will be made to preserve the trees in the addition. A great many lots have been sold and a number of fine houses will be erected upon them. This is strictly a residence district, with a restriction against double and business houses. Select your lot now and secure your location. This addition affords every possible chance for profitable investment, and there is no finer location in Central Ohio for a home.—Hammond & Hammond, Columbus, Ohio.

All sorts of wealth takes wings except real estate, and that's why we want you to invest your money in Mother Earth, because it can't depreciate. The investments we offer are desirable, and are in the line of increasing values.—Charles W. Gooding, Wilmington, Del.

Of course you know what an unstable thing a scheme to inflate real estate is. Therefore you turn to real land values and come to us. The property we now offer is certain to increase in value, and has every essential of a paying investment.—Bourke & Snyder, Crafton, Pa.

Every one should strive to own a home.—Hundreds of people possessing moderate means have easily reached the goal of owning a home. If you'll tell us about the size and kind of home you want and how you wish to arrange the payments we'll meet all your requirements with a genuine bargain. Selling homes to home-seekers is a big feature of our business. We are continually adding to our list of properties, so that we are always able to meet every demand.—H. R. Howerstein, Washington, D. C.

Christmas bargains.—Has it not been your wish for a long time to own a house of your own, to feel that you have a home that you can call HOME? Christmastide is the time when you can call up all your efforts and BUY one. Call and see us. We have what you want. Can't we compromise? Now is the time!—A. J. Baechle, Utica, N. Y.

Here are some notes on bargains in real estate that are worth noting. An opportunity for you to chase your dollars into good property and own a little piece of the earth. You may have it if you will take it, and the dollars you put in now will earn you a fair interest, while the property increases as the years go by.—Clarke & Fisher, Binghamton, N. Y.

When you buy a home—unless—the—title—is—right—you—just—part—with—your—money—and—then—get—out. If you buy of us there will be nothing to be sorry for. So—you—just—look—out.—Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

"Opportunity" irrigated land is selling at $250 per acre, and those who bought this spring will easily pay for their land with this crop. Some of them will do much better than that—they will have a surplus left over. This property is easily worth $500 and it will be hard to get any next summer at that price, because the owners can clear that much on one year's crop generally. You made a mistake when you failed to buy this spring. Don't make another mistake and miss the greatest chance you ever had to make money. Besides having the finest soil in the world and plenty of water for irrigation "Opportunity" has water for domestic use under good pressure, piped throughout the entire district, electric light for the homes, daily mail delivery and telephone connection with Spokane. Eighteen electric trains serve "Opportunity" daily.—Modern Irrigation & Land Co., Spokane.

The Leonard Grove property consisting of several choice lots on Murray street and one 66-ft. lot on Oak street is now placed on the market for the first time. For many years past this property has been sought but never before has been offered in parcels to suit purchasers. The most conveniently unimproved centrally located residential property on the market. We invite your inspection. Prices and terms on application.—Gaylord & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

We have desirable properties in all parts of the city. Will have two modern houses ready for occupancy about Christmas. They are up-to-date in every way. See them on Lydia street. Only ten minutes' walk from the Telegram office. What a nice present one of them would make to your wife or just married daughter or son!—H. W. Davis, Youngstown, O.

There is no better place to-day in which to invest your money than San Diego, and "The Coming Home Spot" will be Grand View. There are many reasons why you are sure to realize a profit on every lot purchased. In the first place, the eyes of the home-seeker will soon be turned to this spot. A great demand will be created for this property by the grading of Thirtieth Street, which is sure to come. Added to this the assurance of an electric car line, and up will go the price. We are selling choice lots to-day at $75.00 which we are certain will sell for double that price the moment the grading of Thirtieth Street actually begins. Make up your mind to-night and buy a lot to-morrow! You are welcome at Grand View.—J. Frank Cullen & Co., San Diego, Cal.

Invest surplus money in income real estate. We can show you bargains in business property, flat buildings and houses that will bring you a greater income than bonds or stocks, and there is no risk of losing your capital. Better than government bonds, because they produce a greater per centage of income. Real estate is the basis of all values. Wall Street juggling does not jeopardize your capital when it is invested in income houses and lots and farm lands. Let us show you what we have to offer.—Schwahn & Brater, Saginaw, Mich.

We have almost completed a full page descriptive list of May real estate offerings and shall be pleased to talk with any property owners who will trust us with the sale of their real estate. If property is worth what is asked for it, we can find the buyer. No commission is charged unless we make the sale. We will widely advertise all property listed and will send a description of all our May offerings to every home in the city. Come to see us before our new advertising lists are completed and distributed. Fire insurance, money to loan, bank stock and municipal bonds to sell.—C. S. Hoskinson, Zanesville, Ohio.

You buy real estate. There's more money in it than in any other investment. Real estate values here have just started—the Panama Canal when completed will triple the population of every city on the Gulf; the Warrior river locks and deep water will make Mobile the largest coal-ing port in the world; the entrance of the Frisco system makes Mobile one of the best railroad centers in the South. These are some good, solid reasons why property will increase in value; the reasons given by those who do not think it will increase are "just because it is too high now."—Hughes, Morrell & Lyons, Mobile, Ala.

Building lots at $100, $150, $175 and up; homes ready for occupancy at $1,000, $1,200, $1,400, $2,000 and up to $5,000 or $6,000; we sell on easy terms. Is there reason why you shouldn't own a home? Pay rent to yourself from this time on. We'll arrange matters so you can do so. Come in and see us about our offerings.—E. J. Lauder & Co., Grand Forks, N. D.

Money saved is money made. You can save exactly $1.70 on each one hundred dollars you have if you will buy a slice of the Bradley small farm sub-division, as it just misses the city tax grabber, and besides it's such a beautiful place to build a home, and is nice enough for a wealthy man or the average man. The farm is so divided that you can get anything you want from an acre to forty acres upon terms of seven equal annual payments. Most of this land is old blue grass sod and has a liberal frontage on the pike. The carfare is only 5 cents, and a thrifty family can raise so many nice things on a few acres of fertile land. In the language of a man who has lived on many pikes out of Lexington, the land is richer and the air sweeter on the Georgetown pike than any other. If the day is fine, please take a car out to this beautiful division and stroll through the pretty woodland. Each corner to each small tract has a red flag so you can see where you are without a guide. Take the Georgetown car and stop when you see the many red flags.—C. K. Oldham, Lexington, Ky.

A profit proposition. There is a chance in my office for every man who is now paying rent to pay the same amount towards a roof of his own. Two houses have just been placed in my hands, that I intended to offer to clients who take all my best bargains. Then I decided to advertise them in the hope some buyer wanting a home with a possibility of soon selling at a higher figure might see them.—N. B. Millard, Binghamton, N. Y.

We have several good tenants wanting to rent a farm. If you want a good man on your place let us know and we will send you one.—Southwick, Dunkirk.

Entirely different. If you are simply looking for a lot upon which to build a home, and are not particular about surroundings, outlook, neighbors, drainage, etc., you can find several thousand lots that will answer your purpose; but if you want something different, unusual, more desirable, pick one of the Berkshire Hill lots. To-day, discriminating people seek high ground. It is a delight to be able to look from your porch, or downstairs windows, over the tops of the houses that cluster in the valley, to the hills and to the sea. The altitude of the Berkshire Hills compares with the foothills of Hollywood, the high ground about Westlake Park and the orange groves of Monrovia and Sierra Madre. Not too high and not too low—just right. The class of people who are being attracted to the Berkshire Hills are those who love an exclusive neighborhood, those who delight in a home which is a little different from the 50,000 homes built on flat, low lots. In Berkshire Hills you can secure a lot which is two blocks from the street car, and up a 4 per cent. incline, easy to walk, and only twenty minutes' car ride from the center of the city. This tract was formerly one of the most fertile fruit ranches in the Eagle Rock valley, the trees are still there and are in good bearing condition. Berkshire Hills tract has every advantage that other tracts have, and many in addition. One-fourth of the lots are already sold. Prices will soon be advanced. Buy now while you can get a choice lot. People who are buying are home builders, and not speculators.—Berkshire Hills Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

For sale or exchange. Situate within a mile and a half of a thriving manufacturing city of Connecticut we offer a country gentleman's home consisting of a modern house of eleven rooms, with hot air heat, hot water and bath, six open fireplaces with imported mantles; three large barns and work shop, with running spring water in the house and barn and 80 acres of land, which has many natural advantages. An ideal place for either home or investment, as this property could be sub-divided and sold to advantage, or an ice pond of large proportions could be constructed upon the place with but very little expense, as a splendid trout stream of mountain spring water runs directly through the place. This property will be sold for about two-thirds the value of the buildings, if taken at once, or the owner will exchange for desirable city property in Hartford.—The J. M. Brady Realty Co., Hartford.

No slack in real estate here! It's a notion that we must have dull seasons in real estate—for instance, the hot summer or cold winter months. We believe it is so because we expect it to be and by our resulting lethargy we make it so. Not so in this office. Bargains every day, and we are delighted to show them every day (except Sunday) morning, noon or night. Fargo is a prosperous, growing city—famous for its jobbing industries, general business, bank clearing and fine homes. Here are fine opportunities for wise investments in good real estate. We would be pleased to have you visit our property, located in almost every part of the city. Trolleys run to or near every piece, and city conveniences are at hand. Our prices are very reasonable—cash or easy payments. This hot weather is the time to buy.—Wheelock & Wheelock, Fargo, N. D.

Just a little each month. That's all! and at the end of a few months you become the possessor of a piece of property on University Heights. It will increase in value while you are paying for it. There is "substantial satisfaction" in the expenditure of money on real estate, because you can't help realizing a profit upon the investment if you buy just a little ahead of the march of improvement. The best place to buy is University Heights, for either home building or speculative investment, because it is becoming more rapidly improved and is more desirable than any other residence section—each month sees more buildings put up and a corresponding increase in values. If you want to get the most for your money you must buy now before prices are again advanced.—Ralston Realty Co., San Diego, Cal.

Don't be a spendthrift. There'll probably come a time when you'll need the money and need it bad. Invest it in a home which may mean much to you. Better look over our list and start now to save. We have satisfied others. We can please you.—Southwick, Dunkirk.

Our real estate department is merely a headquarters for all people having property for sale to make it known. And all people wanting to buy can come and see what property is for sale in this part of the country. This method is practical, and free from fraud or deceit by any of the interested parties.—Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

Trying to catch a bird by putting salt on its tail amounts to as much as it would to go in a drug store to buy a house and lot. If it is a home you want consult one who has them for sale.—Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

The old story. You have heard many people say, "Had I bought real estate in Spokane three years ago it would have been a very profitable investment." The same thought will be expressed three years from now. Be one of the wise ones and invest now.—Chamberlain Real Estate and Improvement Co., Spokane.

When you want to sell your property there is no better way than to arrange with us, for both the buyer and seller are found here in large numbers. Therefore our opportunity to produce a purchaser is superior to many.—Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

Is your money earning 6 per cent? If not, you should put it in The Alabama Home Building and Loan Association. We issue Special Certificates which pay 6 per cent. per annum, paid semi-annually, and the amount paid in may be withdrawn at any time. Apply to—W. V. M. Robertson, Birmingham, Ala.

The man who would know the fullest measure of success must not become wedded to his old way of doing things. He should keep an open mind, and adapt what he reads in this column to his own "wants." Do first—what others do last—come here and select a home. You will find our list large and prices right.—Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

Real estate in Johnstown is a good investment. Do not buy elsewhere. Our many hundreds of patrons have profited by our advice. A satisfied customer always proves to be a permanent customer. To secure his satisfaction, the property we sell him is proof against criticism, by a competing agent, or otherwise. We can sell you real estate at prices and terms that cannot be equaled elsewhere.—Cauffiel Bros., Johnstown, Pa.

Trenton is a prosperous growing city—famous for its manufacturing industries and fine homes. Here are good opportunities for wise investment in real estate. We would be pleased to have you visit our property, located on Brunswick, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana Avenues and Olden and Spruce Streets—where we are selling very desirable building lots. Trolleys run through property and there are city conveniences—near the new shops of the Pennsylvania railroad, which afford steady employment. Our prices are very reasonable—cash or easy payments. Now is the time to buy. We also have factory sites for sale at consistently low prices.—The Enterprise Land Co., Trenton, N. J.

It's a notion that we must have dull seasons in real estate—for instance, the hot summer or cold winter months. I believe it is so largely because we expect it to be so and by our resulting lethargy we make it so. Not so in this office. Bargains every day, and delighted to show them any time (except Sunday) morning, noon or night.—Chas. E. Williamson, Omaha, Neb.

Stop renting. It seems almost a crime against a workingman's family to continue the dreadful expense—rent—when there is any way to avoid it. Why not investigate "Evelyn Houses," built at actual cost at rent rates—one installment down.—Geo. W. Brown, Portland, Ore.

Diamonds free? Well! not exactly so, but we can offer you some bargains on Grand Avenue property that are better than giving away diamonds. One is improved with 10-room house—the other is an elegant vacant corner.—Wm. R. Staats Co., Pasadena, Cal.

In the trend of the city's growth and greatest improvement—and in the city, not half way to somewhere, but with a new car line now being built, notice this now being built. Until the new car line is finished, take Maple Avenue car to Fifty-third Street—one short block to Main Street, where you will find our branch office on the tract.—The McCarthy Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

On the Long Beach line, the fastest and best equipped electric railway in America! Just beyond the city limits, at Seal Gardens station; only about 12 minutes' ride. Closer in by one or two miles than any other subdivision selling on our terms. Level land, most fertile soil; will grow every product. Artesian water in abundance for both domestic and irrigating purposes. Large lots, 135 to 190 feet deep to an alley; plenty of elbow room. Immediate possession; live on your lot while paying for it.—Conservative Realty Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

If you buy a home of us, depend upon it—you'll get good value for your money; a home that will meet all requirements, be convenient in every way, and as to price, we can meet them all.—Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

Attention, business men!—Do you want a home next summer where you can keep cool and comfortable?

Many have already bought and intend to build early in the spring.—Spokane-Washington Improvement Co., Spokane.

Don't pay rent and have nothing but a rich landlord to show for it.—The Loan and Savings Company, Hamilton, Ont.

If so, buy a lot or two on or near Manito Park, which comprises 95 acres of shady groves and cool, secluded places in which to rest up from a busy day.

A magnificently equipped free train will run direct to the town bearing the crowds of eager investors. There will be plenty of shelter in case of rain, and a bounteous lunch will be served free.—West Pittsburg Realty Co., Youngstown.

Pay rent to yourself. It seems very unreasonable to keep on paying rent and getting no further ahead when you might be paying for your home instead. You needn't pay all cash when you buy from us—so much like paying rent, and so much more satisfaction.—E. J. Lauder & Co., Grand Forks, N. D.

It does not matter what your "want" may be so long as it is on the list. If the thing wanted is on the list at the time, we can supply it at once; if not, it will be supplied as soon as it comes in.—E. F. Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

Apart from the earning capacity of these properties, they possess considerable speculative merit, and in some instances it is possible to resell them in the near future at a good advance over present prices. We would like to have an opportunity to demonstrate to those who are unfamiliar with the subject the ways of making money out of West Side Realty investments without taking the slightest risk.—Slawson & Hobbs, New York, N. Y.

Looking for a snap in real estate? A home? Well, you don't want to go to anyone but me. I've got it; can show you exactly what you want and at the right prices. I believe I can sell you house and ground for less than you can build the house for to-day.—W. B. Bancroft, Atlanta, Ga.

The man with real estate to sell should not hesitate in the least in regard to putting his proposition before the public at large. That is just what you are doing when you get it on our list. It is being demonstrated every day that entire satisfaction is the result from deals which take place in this manner.—Southwick's, Dunkirk, N. Y.

We don't charge you anything unless we sell, so don't be like the man who goes without his dinner to save money. For that is like trying to sell the property yourself to save the commissions.—Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

It is worth to you all it costs to have the title of your property looked up and made perfect. In our law department we are very thorough in searching titles. We may be the means of saving you much trouble and expense.—Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

A hint to the wise. This is to those who do not wish to buy real estate at market prices but who would buy at prices sufficiently below the market. "Faxon's Addition to Evergreen" will be, what we term, "ready for the market" by about May 1st, 1905, that is, it will be an absolutely up-to-date, finished subdivision. The granolith walks, curbs and gutters are there now, all lots are terraced and sodded; sewers and water are available. Every lot is high, is terraced and sodded and is 160 feet deep. Remember this property is right by the beautiful Overton Park, and the Grand Park Boulevard, which is now being graded, and every indication is that it will double in value before many months.—F. W. Faxon & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

To sell your house and lot you need our services. Finding prospective buyers being our business, and the fact we do not charge them anything makes it to their best interest to look over our list. If your property is listed with us their attention is called to it, and in this manner the purchaser is procured.—E. F. Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

Cheaper than rent!—Yes, cheaper than rent is our plan of building or buying a home for you. Besides, you can build just to suit yourself. If you own a lot, we require 20 per cent. down, and if we buy a lot and build for you we require 25 per cent. down. In either case, balance at the rate of $8 monthly for each thousand dollars we invest for you, and in a few years you own your house, and the landlord does not. Don't that beat paying rent? Come and talk.—Hatcher Brothers, Grand Forks, N. D.

"He that waits upon fortune is never sure of a dinner."—Franklin. Neither will he own a home. Make haste and buy a lot—only two more days' sale at Sylvan Hills. There was a time when the most valuable property on Chicago Street could be had by paying the taxes. We are told this almost every day by men who do not now own a foot of property. They let the opportunity pass. Others seized it and are rich to-day. If you are wise you will profit by their experience. We offer you a lot at almost nothing, with no taxes and no interest to pay. If you should die before you have completed payments your heirs will receive the property without further cost. If you build a house on the lot within six months, a discount of 10 per cent. will be made.—E. E. Antram, Joliet, Ill.

Ten dollars secures any lot, and that's really the hardest part. No hardship to pay $1 or $2 a week for the balance.—W. T. B. Roberts & Son, Philadelphia.

Own your home or pay rent?—We are not offering you land that will remain as deadwood on your hands for the next twenty years, but a home for yourself and family, which we will build at once.—The Halley Land and Improvement Company, New York.

Now is your opportunity, so act at once! A great financier once said he attributed his success to the fact that when others were thinking he decided, and when others had decided he had executed. If you have no money sense, follow the great financial geniuses who have invested in land adjoining that of the United States Realty Company. Take advantage of their good judgment. When they invested in land adjoining that of the United States Realty Company they used their money sense, which made them millionaires. The United States Realty Company offers you the following investment for your savings, which, no matter how small, will enable you to make an absolutely safe and profitable investment.—United States Realty Co., Washington, D. C.

Taking the first step is always the most important, whether it be the dearly beloved baby's graduating from the creeping class or a project involving millions. If the first step is well thought out and well taken those that follow will come easier, surer and safer. To the everyday man the investing of his earnings gotten together by hard work and economy, whether it be in a home or otherwise, is one of the most important steps of his life. He should look well into an offer before going ahead. Knowing that what we place before the public is one of the best propositions that has ever been made, we invite the keenest investigation. Buy lots at Arlington, the ideal home site.—Fuller Land and Imp. Co., Arlington, N. J.

Little by little the rent payer increases the landlord's wealth and adds nothing to his own. Why not reverse this? Be your own landlord. Buy what you want. We have property of every description at all prices. Can arrange terms of payment to suit you.—Elmendorf & Elmendorf, Spokane, Wash.

Don't be deceived into buying residence property in a location that is nothing more than a monument to misplaced investments. You don't want any man to turn over to you his unfortunate purchases when property can be secured that is sure to enhance in value.—Carpenter & Huggard Land Company, Crookston.

The last ten days our number of buyers have been rapidly on the increase and we are in need of more farm property to supply them with. If you will list your property here, we will send them to you.—Southwick, Dunkirk.

Why we sell lots so cheap.—We buy for spot cash; try to use good judgment in our purchases; have no lazy partners with whom to share our profits; every member of the firm (there being but one) is a worker, and there is no labor performed by any of his employes that he cannot and will not perform if necessary. Add to this the possession of capital and sixteen years' experience in the House Lot Business, and you have a combination that cannot be beaten in any line of effort. This gives you the whole inside of the business.—J. W. Wilbur Co., New Bedford, Mass.

We sell these lots, which are 50x100 feet, at $1 a week or $2.50 a month, if you prefer. If these terms do not suit you, come in and name them yourself. Come in and select yourself a nice lot under the cool, shady pines, within sight of the dashing, falling and mighty waters of Silver Creek. Breathe the cool and refreshing mountain air and drink from the placid stream. It will only cost you $1 a week or $2.50 a month. Buy a lot which borders on the stream, from which you can coax the wary trout from his rippling haunts.—Salem Abstract & Land Co., Salem, Ore.

Lots selling so fast in Manito Park during the last few days that we have not had time to count them. At the last count it had passed 190.

There are many reasons why people are buying these lots. It is a great success and will be built up with nice homes and then prices will go up. The thing to do is to get your choice now for $150 to $250, any kind of reasonable terms. Call for a map and descriptive pamphlet of this addition and post yourself thoroughly in regard to it.—Spokane-Washington Improvement Co., Spokane.

When you are thinking of buying a home, whether it be a house and lot or a farm, call and see what we have; it will do you no harm even though you do not find what you want. You will be better acquainted with what property is selling for.—E. F. Southwick, Dunkirk.

There is no fee charged unless the "want" is supplied, and then it is so small it is not considered an expense, but a money maker on legitimate lines.—E. F. Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

This department for the renting and management of property offers you absolutely the best service you can obtain. We're successful at renting houses and keeping them rented, for we have facilities for reaching people most likely to be interested in what we have to offer. We collect the rents and remit them to you promptly. You'll find your houses paying the limit of their earning capacity under our management.—Moore & Hill, Washington, D. C.

It's a selected list. Each property has been added to it because its value is more than its price. We've sought to get control of many of these houses because we recognized their values and the fact that they'd sell quickly. We offer them to-day with a full knowledge that a great part of them will be sold before the month is out; for any one who investigates with an idea of investing in a substantial home property will buy.—Stone & Fairfax, Washington, D. C.

We are having considerable inquiry for city and farm property, and possibly your property will suit some of our customers. Let us know what you have to sell in Saginaw and adjoining counties, either improved or unimproved city and farm property, and we can dispose of it for you. If you want to buy city or farm property, see us.—The Frank Lawrence Real Estate Exchange, Saginaw.

There are hundreds of families right here in Sacramento who are living in their own home and paying for it with the same money they would have to pay for rent. You could do the same thing with your rent money. Don't you think it is time for you to start in and get a home of your own? If you do, come in and see us. We'll help you.—Wright & Kimbrough, Sacramento, Cal.

No family surroundings are complete without a home, and there is no reason why you should not have one now. We have a few on our list to-day that the price has been reduced below what it cost to build the houses four years ago, and you know it cost much less to build them than now.—E. F. Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

You can buy a house and lot much cheaper than you can buy a lot and build, provided you use judgment in making a selection. The houses we are offering for sale were not built to sell. They are being sold because the parties want to make some change or are leaving the city.—Arthur D. Jones & Co., Spokane, Wash.

The general run of houses offered for sale are not new and thoroughly modern and most people prefer to buy a lot and build after their own ideas so as to have all the modern improvements combined with their own ideas. It is seldom that you find such a list of new and up-to-date places as the following. We know you cannot buy the lots and build such houses as these for the money we ask for them, and if you are really in search of a home in a choice location it will pay you to investigate these.—Curtis, Carmichael & Brand, Sacramento.

We have facilities for calling property to the attention of probable tenants that are unequaled. The department is in the charge of a man thoroughly versed in all questions pertaining to the management of real estate. We have numerous applications for houses of all sorts, for tenants look to this office, as buyers and sellers of property do, as the one most likely to meet their demands.—Moore & Hill, Washington, D. C.

While we have a large list of real property for sale, we have some purchasers that our property does not suit. If you wish to sell, come in and talk with us, for your property may please some of these parties wishing to buy.—E. F. Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

To make a fair deal it's necessary to make the same requisition that the bully old ocean makes upon the stomach of a "First Voyage," it makes him give it all up—keep nothing back; makes him tell all he knows about his property, and why people should buy it. These are the requisites of an honest transaction.—Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

It will be readily seen that by placing your wants on our list, they become concentrated with others to one center. We then classify them in their proper order and it is at this point we are able to bring the right parties and their wants together.—E. F. Southwick, Dunkirk.

A brief description, with prices, of some of the best places now in the market. Some splendid houses that speak for themselves when examined. Look them over with us at once.—Pearl & Dennett, Bangor, Me.

Columbia certainly do grow! Wonderful advance in prices of Main street property. The old Greenfield building again sold at a splendid price. That's the way it's going to be from now on—rapid and brilliant advances. Buy now. Don't wait and let the other fellow make it all. We have for sale several valuable pieces of Main street property. All rented. If interested, call us up or see us.—Walker, Ravenel & Co., Columbia.

Some people do not value their money until it is gone. It will cost you nothing to come in and talk with us before you have to part with it. Save during youth and buy a home of us on easy payments and have comfort in latter years. No one is above saving, and no beginning is too small.—Southwick, Dunkirk, N. Y.

Acre tracts. We are just placing on the market several hundred acres of the finest land to be found in Spokane county. This land lies about one and one-half miles from city limits on the new Spokane and Inland Empire Railroad. There are several beautiful sites for residences, and with the excellent service on the Inland system it is only about a twenty-minute ride to and from the city. The only ideal residence district for the business man. Can be in his office at 8 a. m. each morning and home again at 6 p. m. We can certainly suit you. Come in and see us.—J. J. Browne, Spokane, Wash.

High land, slightly, beautiful. Orange and lemon trees in profusion. A section where intelligent development has utterly changed the face of the country. A place where improvements are of a uniformly high character, where every property holder is protected—nothing like it, this wonderful La Cadena Park.—Cochran & Ridenbaugh, Owners, San Bernardino, Cal.

If you purchase speculative real estate and mining stocks promising returns in excess of a fair rate of interest, you are not safeguarding your surplus funds; you are simply departing from the sound and conservative limits of the investment field into the wide and uncertain scope of speculative propositions. If you purchase good bonds recommended by experienced investment bankers, you will not only protect your capital, but will also participate in the legitimate growth of sound investments.—Spencer, Trask & Co., Hartford, Conn.

We have for sale the house and lot of John S. Verner, located southwest corner of Senate and Barnwell Streets, Columbia, S. C. One block from car line. The house has eleven rooms, with two bath rooms, with modern conveniences, and lighted by electricity. It has high ceilings, broad halls and piazzas. Barn on premises. Mr. Verner desires to sell to reinvest in country property. This place is beautifully located and is in one of the most desirable neighborhoods in the city. Can be bought on easy terms. For further particulars apply.—Walker, Ravenel & Co., Columbia, S. C.

Have you seen those big lots on Ship-man's subdivision Hamstramck? If not, you better hurry, for they are going fast. We give you a lot 120-foot frontage for $500, 60-foot frontage or $250, including cement walks, water, shade trees and sewer; $5 down and $5 per month, and will build for you when $100 is paid in. These lots are in the growing section of the city and within walking distance of the many factories around Milwaukee Junction, making you one of the best investments of to-day. Come out and see for yourself. Take Chene Street car to railroad crossing, cross the track, and there is our big sign directing you to the property. Agents on the ground Sunday.—Underwood & Innis, Agents, Detroit.

If you propose buying fruit land in the Kootenay, why not buy the best? Robson is the cream of the Kootenay. Robson is one of the very few districts in the Kootenay where you have rail and steamer transportation, telephone and telegraph, post-office, with daily mail service, sawmill and brickyard. Plans are now under way for the erection of a church and school house. Have you seen our new Robson map, showing subdivision of 3,500 acres? Let us send you a copy of it with our illustrated booklet. They are free.—McDermid & McHardy, Nelson, B. C.

Terms easy. Every one can buy farm lands. Farm lands for sale in a splendid district in Manitoba, only ninety-five miles northwest of Winnipeg, ten miles from old settled district. Railroad nearly completed which is within from one-half to two miles from land. Good water and lots of wood. First class hay land, $4.50 up. First class arable land $8.00 to $10.00. Terms, one-fifth cash; balance nine years at six per cent. For full particulars address F. H. Hesson & Co., Winnipeg, Can.

If you want a home in Winnipeg or vicinity see us. We sell six different term contracts. Easy monthly payments and without any hardship. Why pay rent to a landlord when you can pay rent to yourself and lay the foundation toward independence and perhaps wealth? We buy the lot if you don't own one, or we will build on your lot to your own plans. Make application now for spring building. Call, write or 'phone us at once and learn our terms of contracts which are within the reach of every one.—Provincial Contracting Company, Limited, Winnipeg, Can.

We buy, sell or rent or exchange any kind of real estate. We make money for our clients. Titles guaranteed.—Hugh A. McKinnon, Winnipeg, Can.

REMNANTS

More business means more remnants. We like the business but don't like the remnants. At the moment, we have quite an accumulation of wool dress goods remnants. That means specially low prices to get rid of it. All lengths from 1½ to 6 yards are included. In fact, anything less than a full dress pattern is a remnant, yet there are little women. The collection includes the most desirable fabrics of the season, colors and black. Your choice at one-third off marked prices.—McCurdy & Norwell Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Remnants! Remnants!—Big selling has made lots of remnants—and we will add for Friday a lot of waist and suit lengths, all of which will be subject to a discount of 50 per cent.—Wasserman, Kaufman & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

“Give-ups” in colored dress materials for Half Prices.—“Give-ups” is a store term for different lengths of any stuff that has been sold down to where only a few yards remain in a piece. We have 1,000 of these lengths—some enough for walking skirt, others with enough for traveling dress or house dress—in such fabrics as multi-yarn suitings, novelty homespuns, fancy tweeds, plain and fancy mohairs, voiles and desirable weaves in plain colored suitings, and these will all be thrown on special tables Monday for half former prices.—Joseph Horne, Pittsburg, Pa.

Don't overlook this: The best selling goods become remnants. The goods must have merit, else the bolt wouldn't be cut into. Must be attractive and priced fairly. Now as soon as the bolt is all sold except a short end, we take the remnant, measure it and mark it at a reduced price. If there is enough in that piece it is just as good and worth as much to a woman as though she had selected and had it cut from the full bolt. She buys it much less than regular. It's a bargain. We've hundreds of these short ends—all the way from a half yard to ten. All plainly marked—under price.—O. M. Co., Portland, Ore.

To you, these remnants and small lots that constitute this sale are of as great value as if bought from a complete stock, with the difference that the price is but a fraction of the original one. To us, the remnants and small lots are hindrances in the way—taking up valuable space that's the real reason why we cannot consider cost nor profit. I there is anything you can use in this sale—and there surely is—come and have a share in the great money-saving event.—Sneltenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

An immense pile of remnants accumulated during the fast and furious selling of the bright month of May. Now the tracks must be cleared for a still greater business during June. Listen, ladies! This is the best lot of white remnants we ever offered.—M. Rich & Bros. Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Great sale of remnants.—Some half, some less. Two large tables are filled with remnants that have accumulated during our tremendous May business. They are all marked from a fourth to a half their regular value.—O. M. Co., Portland, Ore.

Odds and ends find no resting place on our shelves or counters; everything of this kind goes at a price. This week we're to clean up on all Odds and Ends throughout the entire store at July prices.—Prins, Marion, Ind.

One of the penalties of doing a very great business is that the frequent accumulation of oddments is inevitable, and of course that means that the broken lines must go quickly at any sacrifice.—Lee Hall, Marion, Ind.

They're as good to you as if cut from the full roll at the full price, but to us they are remnants and must go at remnant prices. Some rare, fine things among them. Best picking to those who come early.—C. H. Guinan Co., New Haven, Conn.

Here are rare bargains in remnants and odd lots—scores of emphatic reasons why you should come to-morrow to the economy headquarters of St. Louis.—B. Nugent & Bro. Dry Goods Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Had your share of the cotton dress-goods remnants? If not, better come to-day while the assortment is still good. Plenty of lengths at half price.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

What's the particular pattern of which you want only so much? Likely as not it's to be had in these remnants, and perhaps half to pay, or a fourth to be saved.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

In healthy growing stores odd lots and remnants accumulate very fast—in some stores faster than others—faster than they can be sold in the ordinary way. Such is our case, so we have decided to make Friday remnant day—a day of clearing out in which the first cost of this sort of merchandise is not considered—a day of profit to all who come and a day of loss for all who stay away.—Dayton's, Minneapolis, Minn.

Never had a better opportunity to buy your embroideries for such small expenditures as here and now. These are remnants left from our superlative stock, and will be found, even though left-overs, to be just as perfect as ever.—The 14th St. Store, New York, N. Y.

The great volume of business which has been done in our silk and dress goods departments during the season which is now nearing a close has left us with an accumulation of short lengths. These represent the choicest patterns and weaves we have had this season, also the best sellers, which accounts for there being but a remnant left. All lengths, from that suitable for a jacket for a toddling tot to a full-dress gown, may be found in the assortments—which include all styles, all colors and all qualities. For to-day only, one-half usual prices.—Olds, Worthman & King, Portland, Oregon.

To make it easy for you to help us clear out our silk remnants, we have tied each length up in a package, and marked on them the price for the piece. Pieces run 1 to 11 yards and include desirable silks for waists and skirts.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Remnant prices are halved. These short lengths must go before inventory. Lots of opportunities to choose waist or skirt lengths from the season's most popular fabrics at a good round saving.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Short lengths at one-half to one-third of regular prices.—We've grouped all the short lengths of black and colored dress goods into lots and you can buy them at one-half to one-third of the early season's prices.—Snellenburgs, Philadelphia, Pa.

Remnant linoleums, oilcloth and matings will be ready for your inspection to-morrow. It is no awkward squads either, except in varying lengths. If you want to cover two or three small rooms handsomely for a fragment of cost, here is a fine choice. Suppose you attend the parade?—in the morning, if possible.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Qualities and patterns to suit the most refined taste—prices to fit the slimmest pocketbook. New impetus will be given the Remnant Sale Monday by these new prices. If you've a yard of washable goods to buy, don't delay longer than to-morrow; make your selections from this immense assortment before your neighbor has the pattern you want. 'Twill pay you to buy for next season.—Schuneman & Evans, Saint Paul, Minn.

Every remnant in the stock, no matter whether the price has been $2.00 yard, or only 50c.—not a large lot, but there will be some good things for first comers.—The New Store, Minneapolis, Minn.

The annex manager says it's the biggest lot of remnants he has ever had; they're the best, too. There's hardly a material shown in this department of which you'll not find one or more remnants in the sale to-morrow. To mention them would be to catalogue the stock. Last week's phenomenal sales made a monster accumulation, which it has taken several days to measure and mark. They'll be on sale all day Saturday. You'll find plenty of lengths for waists, children's dresses and occasionally a dress length for yourself.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Five hundred remnants of wanted silks; wanted lengths; some containing enough for a waist and others of sufficient quantity for a skirt and some few suit patterns; in the lot are Cheney Bros.' foulards, and fancy suit silks; all the wanted colors are represented; first choosing will be best, so come early.—The Broadway Department Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

That $1.50 long cloth, $1, steadily melting away. Twelve yards in each piece, all thirty-six inches wide and going at the rate of less than nine cents a yard. Of course people are hurrying in from town and country to get it, for doesn't every woman want fine underclothes? You do, we know, so come, mail or 'phone your order, and while this lot lasts we'll see that it's filled.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The way scissors have been snipping off flannel the past few weeks means an accumulation of short lengths of the most desirable kinds. Here they are today at exactly half the original prices. In the lot are plain and printed French flannels, wash flannels in pretty designs, Eiderdowns—nearly every branch of the flannel family is represented. It's a yearly event eagerly awaited—women get such pretty flannels for blouses, petticoats and underclothes for so little.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

You may be sure the styles here are correct, also they would not be cut down to a single dress or waist length. Every new spring and summer wool material is here in some length or other; dress or skirt patterns, coat lengths, waist pieces, lengths suitable for children's frocks or for most any other purpose, and the range of colors and weights is broad enough to meet any possible need; every class from the thinnest, sheerest silk and wool crepes and challies to the heavier, more substantial English and Scotch tailor suitings, French broadcloths or kerseys. Black goods and white goods in all the new weaves; light, medium or heavy weights in every length. Popular colors of every line from the most delicate on down the line to black. Many a woman will choose her fall suit from this lot, and save enough on the purchase price to pay for the making.—N. B. Blackstone Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

They are too good to be called mere remnants. No silks off the piece could be more desirable, more fashionable, or more durable. The lengths are just what you need for waists, dresses and skirts. Practically our entire stock of 75c to 1.50 silks at less than half-price is the story of this wonderful clearing sale briefly told.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Burnham silk remnants very much under price.—The ends run from one to ten yards in length, and every popular weave in black and fancy silks is represented. Too many different kinds to quote prices.—Journey & Burnham, Brooklyn, N. Y.

All remnants from a half yard to twelve yards are measured and placed on special tables and counters. Each piece is marked in plain figures, so that you can practically "wait on" yourself. Retail prices and costs to us are not even considered. A price is put on each one that will sell it, and sell it quickly.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

We've no use for thousands of remnants—Have you? What a joy for the women folks here this week! A chance at the accumulated remnants of three months past, and three busy months, too. And you know how deeply we slash prices on such occasions. Take, for example, the reduction on black dress goods, where you get a third off! Everything else is cut down in about the same proportion—here and there we must face an even greater loss. But these are "Remnant Days," so we don't mind. We want to get rid of the odd lots and you want to own them—a happy state of affairs that will call crowds H. A. Meldrumward.—H. A. Meldrum Co., Buffalo.

We have gathered together all the silk remnants from our wholesale department, comprising salesmen's samples, the many small pieces that have accumulated and various other oddments, and shall place them on sale to-morrow in our retail department at a fraction of wholesale prices.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

First there's a round-up of thousands of Remnants of Embroidery, each piece ticketed with the number of yards it contains and its new price.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

About every sort of summer white goods that our stock contains is represented in this half-price sale of remnants, from plain India Linen to fine Embroidered Swiss Muslin.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Inventory urges clearance, and clearance makes remnants. We've "rummaged" through the entire stock for all the broken lots; all tossed and tumbled and soiled lots of the present season's stock. Past experience tells you how extravagantly deep we cut the prices on these goods manufactured for us by the best Paris house, besides many distinct novelties, especially designed for us, will be shown. The goods are all new, fresh, soft and predominating.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Every woman knows what a convenient way of saving money our remnant sale is. A great many men also have found it out. Those on the hunt for bargains will find much to interest them to-morrow. There's a splendid collection of remnants—short ends, small and odd lots, broken sizes and assortments, etc., and they are marked to sell quickly.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington.

Remnants bargains.—We have prepared a special table of remnants, where you will find remnants of all kinds of goods at about half of their former value. Waist and skirt lengths.—Israel's, San Bernardino, Cal.

Ransacked for remnants.—We've gone from the top to the bottom of the store—into every department—seeking every odd and end and broken lot—for a grand clearing up of the remnants of the present season's stock. This is the crucial sale. The prices are made by impulse without consideration of value. We don't promise size or assortment. But we do promise quality and the biggest kind of a bargain in everything that's offered.—Saks & Co., Washington, D. C.

RESTAURANTS

"I see Smith takes five minutes for lunch."

"Oh, yes! Smith has been out of active business for some little time, now."—Puck.

The oyster season.—Those who like oysters like also the way we cook them. Oysters require different treatment than any other food, and we give them just the attention that assures best taste. Our patrons like our service and our cooking. We believe you will like them, too.—Gem Restaurant, Great Falls, Mont.

A sunny smile cannot come when the stomach is out of order, but the stomach is never out of order when the meals are taken at our peerless restaurant, for the food is so perfectly cooked, and of such anti-dyspeptic kind that it restores and promotes health.—The McRae Cafe Co., Colorado Springs, Colo.

Permanent guests will find the Mammoth Hotel their ideal residence, restful and enjoyable. The cuisine is excellent, for the table is bountifully supplied with all the delicacies of the season. All the guest chambers, whether single or en suite, are of outside location, well lighted and well ventilated with improved sanitary plumbing, steam heat, electric lights, running water, hot and cold, and open grates for those cheerful little fires that so enliven a room and lend a home-like atmosphere. All the furnishings are new, and attentive service that pleases is within easy call.—The Manhattan Hotel, San Francisco, Cal.

A tempting breakfast can be served your guests without much trouble—if your meats are ordered from Brauer's, and your chef knows his business! Our meats are toothsome, delicious, tender and juicy! We sell especially to the hotels, clubs, cafes, restaurants, summer resort hotels, and ship to families in the country.—H. C. Brauer, Richmond, Va.

Well fed men are invariably of a happy disposition. Those who patronize us are well nourished.—Coleman's, Newark.

Folks all gone away? Come in and take breakfast, dinner, supper with us. We'll give you as delicious a meal as you want—serve it appetizingly—with no vexatious delay.—Fox & Adams, Bangor.

What to eat, when to eat, and where to eat are very important questions. The last is easily answered by all who have tried White's Restaurant and Cafe, and if you eat there your appetite will tell you when to do it. Then there are so many good things subject to your order that you can easily tell what to eat among so many teasers of the appetite.—Spokane, Wash., Restaurant.

Perfect service is only one of the many comforts upon which you can depend at Statler's. The best food, best of cooking and exceedingly reasonable prices are other advantages. Statler's is a first-class restaurant at the price of others not so good.—Statler's, Buffalo, N. Y.

Your wants supplied. If you enjoy good eating, or if you merely eat to insure health and strength, you'll get what you want here. Our menus are attractive. Our service is excellent. You get a good meal at a slight price and have the satisfaction of knowing what you eat is right.—The Viking Restaurant, Logansport, Ind.

Luncheons. If hunger begins to assert itself while you're down town, visit our cafe. Here you may have anything, from a dish of ice cream or the daintiest of dainty little luncheons, to the good, big, substantial meals. Every article of food is served in the most appetizing manner possible. In this clean, bright, cheerful room you may sit and eat the good things set before you, with a zest born of the tempting dishes, and with a satisfaction found only in our cafe. Fourth floor.—The Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Just like home. To lunch in our place is to lunch in peace and comfort—"just like home." Electric fans to keep you cool. We cater to the tastes of all. We have dainty little dishes, choice chops and steaks, cutlets, salads, etc., for those who want just a pick—and substantial but equally toothsome roast and broiled meats, entrees, fish, vegetables, for the hearty eaters. All of high quality, well cooked, and served in the best manner. Our buttermilk is simply delicious! Our frozen watermelon is sweet and juicy! Friday's special: Clam Chowder.—Ward's, Norfolk, Va.

Seasonable delicacies are found upon our bill of fare all the year around. And they are cooked to a turn and served daintily.—White's Spokane, Wash.

The up-in-the-sunshine restaurant on our 4th floor—perfect cuisine, varied menu and modest cost for a dainty meal, full and plenty.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Shoppers' lunches are a specialty with us—and greatly appreciated by the shopping public. You know yourself how a cup of hot coffee and a light lunch refreshes and satisfies you on these wintry days. We are always ready to serve these "shopper lunches" any time of day—have a first-class, fully-equipped restaurant. Best of food; quick, clean service; no high prices.—Fox & Adams, Bangor, Me.

Good service is one of our strong standbys in making a bid for popular favor for our restaurant. It goes without saying that the soups, meats, vegetables, ice creams, ices and other desserts must be the acme of perfection in their line, but we also use our best endeavors to treat you with courtesy, to serve you with deftness and dispatch. Our bill of fare will show our prices to be very, very reasonable. Wanted a few boarders at a reasonable rate.—Elite Restaurant, Waco, Tex.

Begin now and enjoy yourself by taking your noon lunch at Watson's. Our chef thoroughly understands the art of preparing a dainty lunch. It's only 40 cents and you can have your table reserved from day to day. Smoking and coffee rooms in connection.—Watson's, Winnipeg, Can.

Come in the cool of the morning. Lunch here if you wish, returning home refreshed and unfatigued.—Hearn's, New York City.

If you ever eat one meal here you will come back for the second one. If you are going to a picnic come here and let us prepare your lunch. Come any time, we are always glad to see you.—Cary's Restaurant, Kenton, Ohio.

The most enjoyable meal and most satisfactory, too, is served here. Ever try one? Those who haven't, miss much that is good. Home cooking is excellent, because we have experienced cooks trained in producing palate tickling dishes. Prices are popular.—White's Restaurant and Cafe, Spokane, Wash.

This great oyster parlor is a thermometer to the society and business talent of the city. There are seats for a thousand, and rooms and every convenience; electric fans, light as day, quick, gentlemanly service, and the best things to eat from the ocean, land and air, cooked and served without a fault. This is the proper place for ladies after the theater. They accept with gladness an invitation to dine at Levy's, Los Angeles, Cal.

All cooks look alike to a hungry man. But it's a different matter when the man isn't hungry and has to rely on the cook for his appetite. Our cooks bear no resemblance whatever to each other.—Levy's, Los Angeles, Cal.

There's a homelike feeling about our dining-room. The excellence of the food, cooking and service satisfies the most particular. Patrons are treated courteously and supplied with liberal quantities of choice and seasonable food. Popular prices.—White's Restaurant, Spokane, Wash.

Our big restaurant.—It is not only the shopper who finds our restaurant on the fifth floor so handy and convenient, but the business men of the neighborhood have quickly recognized its many advantages, its tempting cooking, its varied menu, its prompt service and moderate prices.—Hoyt, Kent & Sefton Co., Cleveland, O.

To lunch in our tea room is to lunch in peace and comfort, and with thorough enjoyment. Being on the fifth floor and thoroughly ventilated, it is naturally cooler than places of refreshment on a level with the street. And then, electric fans keep a cooling breeze constantly circulating.—Stewart & Co., Baltimore, Md.

When you are hungry and want something real good to eat, just come here—we have most everything you can think of on our lunch counter, day and night. Big electric fans to keep you cool. Our regular meals, also, are quite a treat.—Cary's, Kenton, O.

We cater to the tastes of all. Have dainty little dishes, choice chops and steaks, cutlets, salads, etc., for those who want just a pick, and substantial but equally toothsome roast and boiled meats, entrees, fish, vegetables, etc., for the hearty eaters. All are of high quality, well cooked and served in the best possible manner.—White's Restaurant and Cafe, Spokane, Wash.

What refreshment if the food is of fine quality, the cooking excellent and the service perfect.—White's Restaurant and Cafe, Spokane, Wash.

A fastidious place for fastidious people. Take your friends to Levy's for the little theatre supper.—Levy's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Lunch at the "Busy Bee" Restaurant any time you feel hungry. They serve everything that's good to eat. Their regular meals will make you wonder why you hadn't been there before.—"Busy Bee," Kenton, Ohio.

The Japanese tea room where luncheons are prepared in the best of American style and served in surroundings distinctively, daintily Japanese. The room is like a garden in Japan. Is not the prospect alluring? To anyone with a soul above the commonplace it most certainly is. Then there's the harp recital every day—to add to the pleasure of lunching. Private luncheons arranged for if you like. Prices moderate.—The Anderson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

It is a quaint and cosy place, and the food is excellent.—The Flemish Restaurant, New York, N. Y.

Have you ever breakfasted at the Criterion? Fruit—egg (cooked on the table so you can time it yourself)—bacon—roll—all delicate.—Criterion, New York.

Hard shell crabs that are not the first of this season—they're the first really meaty ones we've had so far. Enjoy picking a portion this evening in our cool dining rooms. A pair to the order.—Hildebrecht, Trenton, N. Y.

For tired shoppers, luncheon, luxury and little prices at the Woman's Noonday Club, a place quite different from any other in New York, with trifling cost as its most astonishing feature.—The Woman's Noonday Club, New York.

Restaurant is up near the clouds—on the eighth floor. Like the rest of the store—it is cool and inviting.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Yes, you really and thoroughly enjoy a meal at my house. Everything prepared is the very best, and the service is excellent.—It must necessarily follow that you relish every bite. With your wife or family join the many at the noonday meal in my private dining room upstairs. You'll like it, I'm sure.—Moran, Troy.

Lunch at Bullock's is enjoyable. Imagine a restaurant seven stories up in the pure, fresh air, with a superb view of Los Angeles stretching away in the distance. Imagine an appetizing menu with just the things you like best, prepared and served perfectly—and come to lunch at Bullock's to-day. Music from 11:30 to 1:30.—Bullock's, Los Angeles.

The small prices at Hildebrecht's are the subject of considerable favorable comment. As a matter of fact, there is no restaurant that we know of anywhere, which gives our class of service and charges so moderately for it. And yet we want to emphasize quality rather than low prices. We invite your confidence and a trial order, at least. Test our good cookery and dainty service. The rest we shall be glad to leave to you.—Hildebrecht Catering Co., Trenton, N. J.

No matter how much of a hurry you may be in, what you want is served so quickly at The Essex that you will be perfectly satisfied. And no matter how particular you may be, Essex things are so delicious and appetizing that you will be perfectly satisfied in that respect, too.—H. J. P. Hampton, Albany, N. Y.

The daintiness of the Hildebrecht service is one of the very superior features of our new dining room. It appeals to men as much as to women. It enhances one's enjoyment when dining, and it is positively not put into the bill. One secures a light lunch or a hearty meal for as little cost as is asked in cheap restaurants. Variety is superb, the cookery of the finest, and nappery spotlessly white at all times. We seek the patronage of those who prefer these features. Two "own baking" specials this week. Very superior products, made by experts from the finest ingredients secureable. 40c. old-fashioned pound cake, 35c. fresh rhubarb pie, 25c. Two of our very popular sellers.—Hildebrecht Catering Co., Trenton, N. J.

For June weddings we have unequaled facilities for taking entire charge of preparing and serving wedding feasts. Linen, china, silverware and repasts of which you may properly be proud, all furnished at moderate cost. Engage our services as far ahead as possible.—Chitberg's, Pueblo, Col.

The best Thanksgiving menu will be served by Al. Campbell, of course. We serve the best every day and we'll surely eclipse all others on this great national feast day. The best domestic and imported wines, liquors, cigars and beers are to be had at our bar, or served with your meal.—The Al. E. Campbell Catering Co., Birmingham, Alabama.

RIBBONS

Hot weather ribbons.—Fine variety. Fine ribbons. Less than usual to pay. Perhaps it is because people have learned to know that the biggest assortment of the ribbons they want is here and at the smallest price that brings so much of Brooklyn's ribbon business to this store.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Preferred ribbons.—It's a ribbon season, sure enough, but there are some kinds you want and some you don't. You'll be safest coming here—but if you choose to go somewhere else, you'd better take this list as a guide—it will keep you right as to styles, though you will not get equal ribbons at these prices.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

The new ribbons.—Miles of glistening ribbons for every use. Ribbons full of brilliance and beauty. All the hand-somest of 1902 weaves and colorings are on sale in profusion. Not only the freshness, color and weave recommend our ribbons, but the prices play an important part. They're so wonderfully reasonable that every woman will do her best to think up every possible ribbon need.—Austin Bros., Westfield, Mass.

Fresh ribbons.—Just as the water in the brook runs on with never a hint of stagnation, does this ribbon business go on, the swift selling carrying off the stocks at such a rate that there is never anything old or undesirable in the whole section.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Summer ribbons.—Ribbons and ribbons and ribbons, the scissors are kept busy all the time. But the price-shears here have done some of the most notable cutting we know of. To-morrow, for instance, here are some of the most wanted colors that at present are demanding full prices everywhere.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

To-morrow will be ribbon day.—The ribbon store will be a veritable rainbow show Saturday. Thousands of yards of the daintiest hued ribbon you ever saw will flutter away to adorn many a trim Sunday frock. This is your chance to freshen up that thin dress of yours and save a bit besides.—Dunn, Taft & Co., Columbus, O.

The ribbon flurry. We told you the story when we first offered them: How Paris got the idea that moire would be prettier than anything else; sent the word along to us. We went to the mills with the samples from Paris and had these ribbons (moires and satins) woven just like the samples, and because we did it when they were dull, we got them for ever so much less—a third less than usual. The ribbons are soft, lovely, satiny and rich, as good ribbon as you can buy anywhere for a third more even now.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Beautiful ribbons under price.—It isn't necessary to say much about them.

Ribbons that give a "telling touch" to the summer outfit.—Bimble Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

Twists in ribbons.—Choose your ribbon. Unlimited choice in our great ribbon store. A twist of the wrist and a few twirls of the fingers, and your ribbon appears in a sash, a corsage rosette or a hair rosette, as you may wish. No charge for the tying.

All these ribbon things are beautiful; some amusing. Two perky little ribbons on a hair rosette look like rabbit's ears; another bit of satin ribbon makes a perfect wonder of a rose; alleged sweet peas, crushed roses, knots and bows are produced at command. This is just an incident of our ribbon business.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Midsummer sale of ribbons.—This sale of ribbons affords our customers an opportunity for supplying their wants in summer ribbons at about half the usual price. The assortment is large and the qualities, styles and colorings the best we have offered this season.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

All Philadelphia knows by this time how quickly this store made use of the hints that came over from Paris before the birds had returned from the South. How we found the soft, brilliant ribbons were going to be needed by every woman who wore summer gowns. How we had thousands of yards made to our order and got them to sell for a third less than usual.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Ribbons in all their glory, but we don't forget quality; in fact our "motto" in ribbons is to give best qualities at the same price that other stores give less worthy. — Chamberlain-Johnson-DuBose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

A sale of ribbons remarkable for its diversity of values and low prices.—The Howe & Stetson Co., New Haven, Conn.

Ribbons—the kind that the Perlmutter shop dispenses can only be had here. Every speck pure silk, honest widths and qualities—and every desirable kind that's good.—Perlmutter's, Jersey City, N. J.

One can never have too many ribbons—in fact to lay in a goodly stock of these would be in the nature of an investment, for the prices are quite as low as strictly reliable ribbons ever reached. And the following prices tell only a portion of the story.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

We're in Ribbon trouble and to get out of it have reduced the prices for our clearing sale as follows:—B. Nugent & Bros. Dry Goods Co., St. Louis, Mo.

You can't talk of reductions in our ribbon stock such as we are making in terms of yards. We're clearing most of a mile of the prettiest kind of ribbon Monday—not at the rate of a mile a minute exactly, but still at these prices speedily enough to warrant early coming.—The Robert Simpson Co., Toronto, Ont.

A Bargain Whirl in Ribbons.—Metro-politan Dry Goods Co., Saginaw, Mich.

The most important ribbon event of the season. Do not miss it.—The Howe & Stetson Co., New Haven, Conn.

There's an extravagant variety of shades. It's a color show from which the buyer can reap the most practical benefits.—The Scott Dry Goods Company, Cleveland, O.

Those lovely summer ribbons. Helter-skelter, yard after yard—how they went tumbling out of the store yesterday!

Only some unusual conditions among ribbon-makers could send us the freshest and best ribbons to sell for so little right at the beginning of summer.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The ribbon sale continues. And such a sale. A woman comes in—then hurries home with an armful of ribbons—and tells her neighbor. Down comes her neighbor—and so the story of the sale spreads. The sales of the third day were heavier than those of the first day. The white ribbons are selling like hot cakes. Think of a sale of fine white ribbons when the demand for white ribbons is at its height.—The Howe & Stetson Co., New Haven, Conn.

Ribbon making is an art when such products result. The flowers, rich or delicate, are so marvelously reproduced that they look as if you could pluck them. From violets to magnolias. And the colorings and arrangements are superb.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

The new ribbons for spring are here. "Prettier and daintier than ever before," you'll say, when you see them.—H. A. Meldrum Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Satin liberty ribbons at special prices. An early shipment of Easter ribbons out to-day at attractive low prices.—Dils Bros. & Co., Parkersburg, W. Va.

The summer dress simply must be embellished with velvet ribbon, and the very best velvet ribbons to use are Giron Freres' G. F1.—Journey & Burnham, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our ribbon section is justly the mecca for all ribbon buyers who are at all critical, for the reputation of our ribbon section assures the purchaser absolute satisfaction.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Never such high-grade ribbons for so little as will be found in our third annual sale of ribbons. Ribbons are in greater requisition this season than ever—you see them everywhere—on everything—and such surpassingly pretty ribbons have never been produced. To meet this demand in the fullest sense, at a time you'll appreciate it most, we have bought liberally, and very closely, from the world's greatest ribbon centres, ribbons of every style, every width, every shade, for every purpose—and will place them on sale at a clean saving of half and near it.—Jordan Marsh Co., Boston, Mass.

Half prices—to-morrow and Saturday—but we rather think choice will be limited Saturday—for half prices will give ribbons swift wings.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Dolly Varden Ribbons 45c yard. Some of the prettiest ribbons you most ever saw, just received. The new Dolly Varden satin ribbons, all colorings.—Dils Bros. & Co., Parkersburg, W. Va.

Ribbons, liberty satin. The ribbon in demand to-day. On the end of the regular counter, just as you enter Temple Place. Special space devoted to this lot.—Shepard, Norwell Co., Boston.

Great ribbon sale to-morrow. Five-inch wide pure taffeta silk ribbon, very soft of finish. No need to hint to women the many uses to which this wide ribbon can be applied. You could give us pointers.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Our new spring goods are of such handsome designs, that we feel confident of your being pleased if you make your spring purchase of us.—The Ribbon Store, Cohoes, N. Y.

Ribbons? Right this way! Bangor ladies appreciate our ribbon department. The business here has gone ahead steadily and splendidly. We have all the wanted widths and shades of ribbon—but only in best grades, for we do not carry any other kind.—C. W. Coffin, Bangor.

Never since fashionable woman first created the never-ceasing demand for new and effective accessories to enhance her charms has ribbon played such a prominent role as now.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

We sell ribbons and ribbons, "miles of them." Well dressed women need many ribbons, and will find here a great variety. The name of The Ribbon Store is ours by right because of the quality, beauty and cheapness of our ribbons; our aim being to have one-time customers become all-the-time customers. Just now you will find use for satin taffetas, many shades and widths.—Morgan T. Lewis, Cohoes, N. Y.

Ribbons flying out. The new prices are their wings. Something like 3,600 yards at half and less than half of original prices—odds and ends of our regular stock and the manufacturers' rummage.—John Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

This has been by far the greatest half yearly clean-up we have ever held and there is not a house in city, town or hamlet of Los Angeles county that is not benefited by being the purchasers of some one or more of the lots of merchandise sold at prices practically one-half—in many cases less than the cost of production. It is now the last day of the great event. Naturally there are a number of other lines and odd lots—many of them that are not described in this ad, but even greater money saving opportunities than any previous efforts, for we must positively close out all such merchandise by Friday night. If necessary, lay aside your household duties, come down early Friday, shop all day if necessary, for you will find so many articles for immediate use as well as those which you can use for months to come at prices that will be long remembered.—Hamburgers, Los Angeles, Cal.

Magnificent and complete showing of all the pretty, new French and American ribbons, priced on a saving basis.—Boggs & Buhl, Pittsburg, Pa.

Ribbons for less than the cost to produce. If good fortune had not gone hand in hand with our New York buyer the other day we would not be in possession of 200 bolts of soft, clinging liberty satin ribbon, and you would not have the opportunity of getting it at such a radical saving. All colors, shades and tints are here for your choosing—at least one-fourth less than you can get them elsewhere.—Ed. Kiam, Houston.

We have strong reasons for believing that the pinnacle position in the retail ribbon world is occupied by the Eaton store. That statement should convince all of the advisability of selecting ribbons from our stock. We don't carry this colossal stock for the glory of it, our gigantic business and the ever-increasing demand insist upon it. Import orders have increased by thousands and thousands of dollars, and while foreign buyers have experienced great difficulty this year in procuring supplies under the advancing prices, our buyer, who returned from Switzerland last week, wears the smile of success.—The T. Eaton Co.

Ribbons that permit of the richest effects in the embellishment of the new costumes, dresses and hats—not the kind you will see wherever you go, but those exclusive new 1905 weaves embracing all the shades from the most delicate to the brilliant hues—sombre black and immaculate white—a variety that simply cannot be equaled. We can't tell you about all of them, but here are two that are going to be so charmingly correct in the evolution of the season that we're going to present them to-day. You will not only find many exclusive creations among our ribbons, but you will find them temptingly priced and of a quality that will wear perfectly—colors that blend or match with perfect harmony, lend dignity to and enhance the beauty of the costume.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

The new ribbons have just made their appearance and they are certain to please you. The choicest productions of the season are Dresden effects, etc. As fashion's demands call especially for the Persian and Oriental designs for the hair, hat and dress decorations we have an unusually large display to offer.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

A sale of white ribbons for anniversary day.—For commencement, too—makers are already put to it to get a large enough supply of good white ribbons for the demand. We are lucky to have a stock of the most wanted sorts—and Friday buyers will find them here for much under the customary prices.—Fredrick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ribbons—Very Low Prices.—Qualities and kinds very desirable for sashes, millinery, bows and neckwear.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Colored velvet ribbons half. Two lots, and there is no black in either. Kindly remember that. As to colors, about anything you like.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

The new shoe-tie ribbons.—Have you noticed how many of the new spring Oxford's are fastened with broad ribbons? oblivion seems to have swallowed the old-time shoe lace. The shoe-tie ribbons come in russet, in brown, in gray and white and black. They are all widths. They are different from other ribbons in that they are thicker, softer and stronger, yet do not crush easily.—Joseph Horne, Pittsburg, Pa.

Thirty-four miles of good, solid, beautiful, lustrous, all-silk, heavy, taffeta ribbon. In exquisite colorings and black. Every yard of it is washable. Hear how we made this magnificent capture: The manufacturer of these ribbons had had his agent call upon us time after time. He wanted our business, knowing the enormous amount of ribbons we sell. He wanted our business badly—but he could never make a price our ribbon buyer would pay. We had thousands of yards of ribbons in stock—we were independent. One day not long ago the salesman came again, making us the lowest price he had ever offered. We turned it down, telling him we were going to wire the manufacturer ourselves—going to make him the offer we had made the salesman. The concern telegraphed next day accepting the offer. The ribbons came this week. Now these 60,000 yards of exquisite all-silk washable taffeta ribbons will be on sale at 8:30 to-morrow morning at prices you haven't seen before.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City.

Great is the vogue of wide ribbon effects. For neckwear, for girdles, for sashes, or a myriad of other uses they are in the greatest favor with fashionable folk. We have prepared a special sale of ribbons for Friday, Saturday and Monday, that far excels any of our previous offerings in beauty, variety, style and value. There are crisp, lustrous taffetas, five or more inches wide, in cloth and millinery shades, very suitable for girdles; high finished electric taffetas, with a shimmer and finish impossible to describe; embroidered and warp printed novelties and a host of fancies, Dresdens, stripes and figured effects applicable to many varied uses. The accumulation of this immense variety would prove an interesting story. A tale of profits sacrificed, of losses incurred, of large deals consummated, of a thousand rejected patterns to one found suitable, but the net result is of the greatest interest, hence values up to $1.00 per yard, and nothing that sells regularly at less than 35c. per yard, Friday, Saturday and Monday, per yard, 25c.—The Crescent Store, Spokane.

Ribbon bows and novelties.—Ribbon bows and ribbons are to be worn more than ever in the feminine world this season. In the hair, at the back of the neck, courage bows, knotted sashes and for a multiplicity of purposes. We have anticipated this demand, and our experts have been cudgeling their brains for the past two or three months for new ideas. How well they have succeeded you can best see by coming here to-morrow.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Crowds buying ribbons. Every new Spring shade and fancy combination at amazingly low prices.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

One of the largest importers of ribbons in New York sent to us the other day and said: "One season's business is over and we have between 1,000 and 2,000 piles of the swellest plain factory ribbons left in our stock rooms. We import all our ribbons direct from the mills in France and the custom charges on getting them into this country is 50 per cent. If you'll pay us just what we had to pay out to the custom officials and take the entire lot you can have them at exactly what we had to pay the U. S. Government without any of the cost of manufacture." Did we take them? Well I guess! we grabbed the entire lot and we start Thursday morning the greatest ribbon sale ever started in Youngstown. 1,500 pieces of the finest blended shades, plain colors, French flowered fancies at about half the price it cost to make and import them.—The Enwer Store, Youngstown, Ohio.

The leading ribbon makers of the world have joined hands with us to make this May sale a most noteworthy event in the ribbon world. And right when our regular stocks are at their fullest and best comes a special purchase and sale at way below ordinary prices. Beautiful summer ribbons for every purpose are included in this sale.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

A bright new lot of silk ribbons go on sale Monday morning. In all the wanted shades and widths; prettier and brighter than any you've seen, and they're so moderately priced for this great sale. Nearly all of them are worth at least a half more, especially at this time, when every one is looking for ribbons.—The Copper City, Anaconda, Mont.

A sale of ribbons.—Most every one will come after ribbons at these prices.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

All shades of ribbons.—Seemingly endless the variety of glistening, shimmering ribbons to be seen at our ribbon counter. Every imaginable kind, suitable for every spring need in the trimming of underwear, children's dresses, women's waists, millinery, neckwear, etc. and in a profusion of beautiful colors that rival the production from nature's own color box.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

Miles and miles of beautiful new all pure silk ribbons.—Sherer's, Worcester.

New ribbons under price. What a pretty collection these new spring ribbons make. In all the fine lustrous colorings and patterns. It's a wonder how they can be sold at such small prices. That's a Loeser merchandising method.—Fredrick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Anthracite" Black Ribbon. A sale at astonishing prices. This ribbon was introduced by us only a little over a month ago and yet has become very widely appreciated as the best black ribbon for wear, luster and finest silk. The Anthracite is the blackest of blacks and without doubt the most reliable and satisfactory ribbon made to-day.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

A rainbow heap of new ribbons.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

We have reason to believe that we have the biggest, brightest and best ribbon department in the city. We are in touch with every ribbon producing place from Paterson to Paris. We know the ribbon markets up and down and crosswise, but we do not know of any better selection or any greater money saving values than you'll find right here Tuesday.—Spokane, Wash.

New Spring ribbons underpriced. All are pure silk, straight from the factories, lustrous, shimmering, soft, uncrushable; all the styles and colors marked for Spring fashions; at much less than regular prices.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

Black Ribbons.—Black ribbons are back into favor again—and with a rush. Look around you and see if the most smartly attired women—those who are the quickest to note fashion's changes—aren't now wearing large, black ribbon bows.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

At the round counter to-morrow an interesting collection of silk ribbons will be sold at under prices. Whatever you buy will save at least a few cents in every yard—and some of the grades are marked to sell at half regular value.—Burke, FitzSimons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

You Will Like These New Ribbons. Like them, of course—and own some of them, too, for in newness and beauty they are well nigh irresistible. Neck and hair ribbons, decidedly different from the ordinary; new arrivals, fairly priced.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Fine Black Ribbons at Very Little Prices.—Black ribbons have been a specialty with this ribbon store for years—and when a woman wants the best black ribbons this is the store she comes to. All the wanted kinds are here—all the best makes and finishes.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Advance Showing of Spring Ribbons.—First showing of Spring, 1908, ribbons. Fancy effects seem to predominate and many new ideas are shown; plaids are extremely popular, and there's a wide variety of very handsome shades in the plain colored sorts.—Gimbel Brothers, Milwaukee, Wis.

In selecting our Ribbon stock we have had a view particularly to the most approved fashion and the sensible fad for soft ribbons for summer. The prices quoted here are low for the superb quality. Bows, rosettes, ribbon flowers, neck pieces, etc., made up by expert bow-makers free of charge.—Edward Lang & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Fresh, bright, new ribbons. The unusual is happening. A fine big lot that came to us, well, no matter now. The bright particular fact is that here they are—in colors, combinations and widths that you want—at prices that make them twice as welcome. Tied while you wait into any shape bow you may suggest—we make no charge for such a trifle.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Here is a feast for folks who are ribbon hungry that is going to be long remembered. It is as tempting a display of pretty ribbons as we have ever made, with the added fascination of being lower priced than any similar qualities have ever sold at.—Fourquaran, Temple & Co., Richmond, Va.

By its magnitude and the economy which it represents this sale establishes itself as an event in the conduct of our ribbon department. Involved are thousands of yards of ribbons for every conceivable purpose—millinery, dress elaboration, sashes and decorating—in this season's newest colors.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

It is only a few days since we had a sale of ribbons that overshadowed every previous sale, especially in the matter of values. We'd no idea at the time that an even better opportunity would come so soon. Actually, we almost hesitate to tell about it, for fear you will think that two such occasions in quick succession are impossible. But the facts are unimpeachable and you shall have the benefit of them.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Satin taffeta, if you want a ribbon soft enough to tie into neck or hair bows.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia.

If you're not quite ready for the gown or the street costume yet awhile, you'll surely need a dainty bit o' lace or touch of ribbon to brighten up the light dresses that feel comfortable yet, though their newness has departed. We've special prices among these little accessories that help buy.—Olds, Wortman & King, Portland, Ore.

Ribbons of every hue. Just the right shades to enhance the beautiful complexion tints of blonde, brown and brunette. Broad, rich sash ribbons for the little girls, ribbons in narrower widths for the thousand and one uses as dress accessories demanded by their sisters, mothers and aunts. And all at such unquestionably low prices.—Belk Bros., Charlotte, N. C.

It's our main plan to keep the correct ribbons at the correct time. We have just secured another lot of those popular white, cream and ivory Duchesse satin ribbons which met with such great favor last Saturday. Eaton ribbons are the newest and best at all times.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

Ever hear of a loom end sale of ribbons? Know what it means? In short, it means the best ribbons ever woven at about half the regular prices. To be more exact, it means that after a run of ribbons has been made through the looms, and the pieces cut up in ten-yard lengths (which is the contents of all full bolts), whatever is left over is called a "loom end." The lengths vary from 4 to 9 yards and are generally sold by manufacturers at correspondingly short prices. We are on the good side of one of the largest mills in the country and have secured 150 pieces, or about 7,000 yards, all black, which will appear on our counters to-morrow. It will disappear pretty lively at these prices, so be governed accordingly.—The Z. L. White Co., Columbus, Ohio.

The Wanted Ribbons.—A third to half less than usual. There is a magnificent assortment—and coming just in advance of the spring season, when most every woman can find use for such pretty ribbons, it means that you can buy almost double the quantity you anticipated.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Ribbons Galore.—And we might add ribbons beautiful! Miss Yeackel has added to her own fame and to ours by her splendid maintenance of the supremacy of our ribbon department. We'll tell you more about it another time. Just now we simply bring to your mind the unusual opportunities for dainty women and tasteful shoppers to acquire treasures of ribbons for almost next to nothing.—J. N. Adams & Co., Buffalo.

Newest, Brightest Summer Ribbons.—Our great good fortune in securing more than 50,000 yards at fractional cost, during our recent eastern trip, places this store in position to command the ribbon business of the town. It is truly a magnificent collection from the best looms of the country.—P. A. Bergner & Co., Peoria, Ill.

Ribbons in almost every weave, pattern and color, comprehending a particularly strong line, in white, cream, light blue and pink.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Exquisite Paris ribbons of the choicest description—Dresden centers—with satin embroidered edges; also colored stripes and dots—plain or in combination with white—also Ombre effects—just the ribbons to set off dainty summer dresses, with belts, sashes, bodices; also make lovely hat bows. Not a great lot, so don't put off buying if you have a possible need.—Hearn, New York.

A Ribbon Riot Here Monday.—Sorry we can't mention more of the great ribbon values in store for you Monday, but these two should make you anxious, at least. That's enough.—The Bon Marché, Seattle, Wash.

Ready to-morrow for those who have their minds on Christmas—ready too, with the special prices that we worked months ago to have at this season.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Then Here's a Welcome Word of Ribbons.—Little pricing and high quality make a tandem so tempting that few women who have the need will resist.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Thousands of yards of desirable summer ribbons will be on sale here to-morrow at fascinatingly little prices. These few items to get you interested in coming.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Kansas.

Ribbons, Ribbons.—Some offerings of interest. If you have need of ribbons for any purpose whatsoever, such as for use in fancy work, dress trimmings, children's hair ribbons, neckwear, belts, etc., you will have opportunity to make selection from the following lots at a decided money saving.—Brown, Thomson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Women will certainly grow enthusiastic over the display in one of our Broadway windows of nearly every sort of ribbon that's wanted this year, for 18c a yard. There are dainty Dresdens on white grounds, with small or large figures and colored borders; plain ribbons in practically every shade but white; Roman stripes of rainbow hue, and others that you can put to immediate use for millinery, girdles, trimmings of various suits, and fancy work; 4 and 5 inches wide; they're good values, as every woman knows.—J. W. Robinson Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Our ribbon sale is a marvelous success. Extremely low prices in new lines. The great assortment purchased for this sale contains the handsomest patterns and the widest range of beautiful new shades and colors that have ever been offered at such little prices. All lines are complete, entirely free from odd lots, remnants or undesirable qualities, all silk ribbons, at less than manufacturers' cost.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Several strong reasons for not delaying your purchase of these. We have a stock, which in beauty and breadth, and low price can hardly be duplicated again this season, in face of the unprecedented scarcity of supply. Many exclusive patterns are included which you would prefer and which you can't get later. Better choose while the advantage invites selection. Dresden ribbons for sash and hair bows.—Lippincott & Co., Wilmington, Del.

Wanted ribbons; all reduced. A characteristic of the anniversary sale that you have probably noticed is this: The merchandise involved in it is the wanted and desirable kinds. Derelict stuff, antiques and curios of the past, riff-raff, trash, have not been offered, nor ever will be, at Levy's. Since this is true of all the sales, it is particularly and emphatically true of the ribbon sale starting to-day. A glance at the price bulletin below reveals the fact that these are the ribbons you want. Fashionable, first in demand, sorts you would buy at regular prices if they were not offered to-day at anniversary and reduced prices. The bargains were harder to get and to make than you might think. The same difficulty, rising prices, that we have encountered so often of late, was met again and surmounted. We are proud of them. They are genuine mercantile achievements. Savings throughout—real savings.—Levy Bros. Dry Goods Co., Houston, Texas.

Wide taffeta ribbons. Two patterns for Friday and Saturday, the last days of the July sale; there's an unusually attractive offer in wide taffeta ribbons, suitable for hair ribbons, sashes, girdles, millinery and a score of other uses. The other style is a superior taffeta weave, five inches wide, with the new and beautiful cannell edge, equal in luster and quality to the expensive French taffetas.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Record low prices on ribbons. We think we have reached the lowest record in ribbon selling this season in this splendid sale for to-morrow. But you are the best judge, and the goods are in the window for all to see, and compare with other ribbon sales. We expect to clear them all in one day. Taffeta, duchess and fancy ribbons from 4½ to 6 inches wide, in all the new shades; really worth up to 75 cents a yard.—Jas. A. Ogilvy & Sons, Montreal, Can.

Ribbons! You'll want plenty to take away with you, for ribbons are used everywhere—for belts, for hats, for sashes, for hair ribbons, for shoe laces, or underwear, for dress trimmings. And here's the place to get the good ribbons at the right prices. Beltings in all color combinations, both plaids and stripes. Plain color beltings and Moire beltings. Our standard grade all silk taffeta, in the full four-inch width, is elegant quality and here in just the wanted colors. 25 cents a yard. Dresdens and embroidered ribbons in the newest designs. The best quality satin ribbon in the wanted sash and belt widths.—W. H. Smith & Co., Wilmington, Del.

Fancy ribbons reduced one-third. Monday, and Monday only, we give you a free and unrestricted choice from our entire stock of fancy ribbons at one-third less than the regular prices, and the regular prices are by far the lowest in town. There are Dresdens, stripes, plaids, and somber effects in every new and wanted color. Every width is here. Strikingly beautiful color combinations wrought in exquisite patterns. Come choose from the choicest, cleanest, newest and best selected ribbon stock in Los Angeles.—Le Sage Bros. Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

All kinds of pretty ribbons. For the coming season many new designs and colorings are being shown. The old Dresden effects and the old time favorite the Roman stripe, is more sought after than ever. Velvet ribbons will be used a great deal for both dress trimmings and millinery purposes, in both light and dark shades. We are well supplied with all of these as well as colors. All widths for all purposes.—Stearns, Williamsport, Pa.

One of the big silk mills of Paterson, New Jersey, made these ribbons for a large wholesaler. Through a mistake in the order the colors and patterns were duplicated and as a result the original purchaser refused to accept them at the going price. Ribbon makers are sometimes as stiff necked as other people, and rather than give in to the wholesaler, this particular maker threw the ribbons on the market for even less than he could have gotten from the original purchaser. A large quantity came our way, our New York office securing several thousands of yards. These ribbons will go on sale Monday for the entire week.—Redlick's, Fresno, Cal.

The next best ribbon store in the state outside Chicago is a long ways from Peoria. This city has far the largest ribbon store, in point of both stocks and show space, of any neighboring city. Schipper & Block's. And to be the largest, with us, means to be the best. Size, of itself, would mean less to you, were it not that the gathering of such large stocks has direct influence in lessening prices. The ribbon business has grown to its present proportions by virtue of Schipper & Block being the most satisfactory store at which to buy ribbons. Because of styles. Because of quality. Because of price. Will you come and enjoy looking at the new ribbons? Welcome!—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Ribbon looms don't stop working on the dot. They go beyond the specified yards; and, behold, after a bit a manufacturer finds himself deluged with remnants. Most desirable remnants because they are fresh, and in the new textures. We've bought hundreds of these pretty loom ends, enough to overflow a big counter on the Grand Aisle.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Surprising ribbon values. Choice bargains in this sale. Thousands of yards of the prettiest, crispest, silkiest ribbons that we have been able to secure under price have been reserved for this anniversary sale. Buy now for holiday uses; such qualities, patterns and widths will not be obtainable at the price later. Ribbons are all higher now, and it will be well nigh impossible to duplicate these values for a long time to come. Many of the patterns shown could not be sold in a regular way for less than twice or thrice the sale price.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

A ribbon harvest. Though our ribbon stock has undergone a most severe strain the past few weeks, assortments are still complete. New stocks and styles arrive here daily to fill up the gaps caused by the greatest Christmas rush in our history.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

Holiday ribbons ready. All the wanted sorts for Christmas needs are here. Ribbons for decorating the Christmas windows and tables, for tying up dainty packages and for all sorts of fancy work. Extra fine quality satin effect taffeta ribbons in the correct colors for fancy work and decoration, all widths from 7-8 inch at 5 cents a yard up to the 4½ inches wide at 25 cents a yard.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

A ribbon display worth seeing. These Eaton stores have always been famed for the beauty and extensiveness of their ribbon displays—and not without reason, either. Our Winnipeg buyer has always been most careful to secure the top notch of quality for his department—pure silk ribbons, every thread. In our fancy ribbons patterns are mostly exclusive, special designs being drafted and the ribbons woven exclusively for this store. All Canada cannot offer a more desirable selection than this we present to-day.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Special sale of all-silk taffeta ribbon. We will place on sale Friday a large lot of all-silk taffeta ribbon, six inches wide, in a large assortment of the prettiest and most wanted colorings—suitable for hair bows and hat trimmings.—L. Bamberger & Co., Newark, N. J.

A tremendous purchase of thousands of yards of beautiful silk ribbons by our New York buyer for this store means marvelous ribbon bargains for you. They are all here, hundreds of bolts, and in all the new and much-wanted shades and colors. Just the ribbons you will want to wear with your dainty, summery gowns a little later in the season. The widths are Nos. 40, 60 and 80, and the regular values up to 50c. Two qualities in the lot—the soft, beautiful and crushable "Faille" silk and the ever popular taffeta silk ribbons—widths up to five inches and values up to 50c a yard.—Whitehouse D. G. Co., Spokane, Wash.

SALES—MISCELLANEOUS

1—Stocks are larger than they were last Monday. Thousands of newly finished pieces have been added.

2—Assortments are of the broadest and most satisfying description. Every size is here.

3—Prices are absolutely the lowest that can be asked for such superior qualities.

Now Comes the January Shirt Sale.—For men and boys—sweeps all past records aside. Dress shirts, colored shirts, unlaundered shirts, night shirts.

This is our annual sale, and when we say that it is better than any sale we have ever had, you know what we mean, for you know how greatly you have profited in the past. The sale opens tomorrow, but really started months ago when we commenced preparing for it. Manufacturers have made shirts for us in their least busy season, and from our own proportions and measurements, with the result that we offer shirts and night shirts at prices that really average less than cost, and all are the good makes which have made Loeser's the shirt centre of Brooklyn.—Frederick Loeser & Co., New York.

We are winding up the great fire sale as fast as it is possible to do it. Although deep cuts were made in prices on Thursday, when the doors were closed solely for that purpose, the reductions have not ceased, nor will they cease until everything bearing even a trace of smoke is cleared out. Goods are being reclassified by heads of departments whenever there is a leisure moment, and articles not moving speedily are marked at lower figures. This work goes on continuously, and each day sees great quantities of goods changed to lower priced apartments. Interest in the sale is thus maintained at a high pitch, and those who come every day will be able to lay in needed clothing for the family at trivial cost. Thrifty buyers will glean the annexed prices and pick up the snaps with avidity. It will pay all to come tomorrow and every other day until the sale is ended. And remember this: All new goods which are arriving (and there are stacks of them in every department), are marked at prices lower than would be possible under any circumstances other than which we are placed. We must make room for the contractors who are already at work on the repairs.—Bergerman Bros., Pueblo, Colo.

What this sale means? The man with limited means will find that his money will do far more than he expected. The mechanic will find that he can save a day's wages on an ordinary purchase. The mother, that her children can be clothed at an appreciative saving. It means that the large sum of money lost to the creditors of the Workingman's Friend store is finding its way into the pockets of the Redlick public through this sale. We have had time to go over the stock more carefully; we have discovered richer values—better than we thought the sale could produce. Then the lines of goods that have been heavily sold have been re-marked at lower prices to make a clean sweep. It is a fine chance for thrifty folks; it is a big thing for Redlick customers. Better this week than last.—Redlick's, Fresno.

We close the week here at Gamble-Desmond's with a trade sale—a trade sale means a co-operation of manufacturers and consumers to the betterment and advancement of trade generally. Now a great store like this has immeasurable power as an outlet or distributing factor, so such an event, despite the big price concession made by the manufacturer in the heart of the season, is of inestimable value, both to wholesaler and retailer as a quickener of market conditions all 'round. So this trade sale means more than you get from this price news—strong as it is—for every buyer in the store has been active and alive in doing his share toward rounding out a sale that means very real economies to you. Special tickets will stare you in the face everywhere Thursday and each shall stand for a bargain.—The Gamble-Desmond Co., New Haven, Conn.

These Saturday sales are a culmination of the pent up energy of a week—at the new store. Not that we are not wide awake to your interests every other day, but Saturday we try to make things move with greater vim and dash. What do we expect to do this Saturday? A glance of the eye will reveal the scores of bargains that await you. Could we bid more strongly for your business?—The New Store, Minneapolis, Minn.

It has been impossible for us to wait on all the people that have flocked to this sale during the last few days. Many had to leave without being waited on. We must ask you to bear with us, for we are doing our best, and such bargains are worth a little inconvenience to obtain. We cannot promise immediate delivery, but we will send your purchase home just as rapidly as possible. Get in early Monday and give us a chance to wait on you properly.—Lansburgh Furniture Co., Washington, D. C.

Three days more and the great bankrupt sale of the Nelson Dry Goods Company will be a thing of the past—a sale that will be long remembered and seldom, if ever, equaled in this section of the country—a sale that the thrifty buyers have shown their appreciation of by their liberal buying and constant praise of the Funk Bros.' method of selling as they bought—at a great sacrifice in price.—Funk Bros., Spokane, Wash.

Annual Mark-Down Sale.—We are grateful to the many hundreds of customers who have attended this sale and we are also under obligations to those who have waited until now to make their purchases. Since the day of the opening of this sale, our selling capacity has been tested to its very limit—we could not possibly have waited upon more people than we did. But we intend that those who come this week will have just as good opportunities. All of our stock has been re-arranged, the reserve stock, placed on sample and where there are only one or two of a number, or articles which will not be run again in the spring, again reduced in price. Anything selected may be paid for in very small weekly or monthly payments, as most convenient.—Julius Hines & Son, Baltimore.

Economy chances that overshadow even our unrivalled bargains of the past.—L. Hammel & Co., Mobile, Ala.

It's a big event—a helpful event—a triumph of modern retailing. The opportunities for saving are almost startling.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Splendidly ready in every imaginable way for another week of record-breaking business. There's never any cessation at the Siegel Cooper Store. Sales here are successions of achievements. And so, as the season progresses, keener, broader effort is made, with the result that the store is sure to be crowded from basement to roof with people who find it not only pleasurable but profitable to shop "where everybody shops." No matter what section of the store you visit you will find it crowded with exceptionally attractive values in superior merchandise. Everything desirable for every home or personal want. And everything priced in a way to win the highest degree of public approval. If we advertised all the specials we prepare for these sales we'd have to spread over more than half a dozen pages. The bigger, more important items get publicity, of course, but there are thousands of others things, just as much wanted in their way, that obtain no hint of newspaper space. You must visit the big store to obtain the fullest conception of that fact.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York.

Regardless of the fact of the weather being decidedly threatening and the street cars at a standstill, with ferryboats needed at many of the street crossings in town and mud a foot deep on many of the downtown streets, the Broadway was crowded at 8 o'clock Monday morning. Our alteration sale was the magnet that drew the people regardless of inclement weather. The sale continues all this week and special bargains will be announced from day to day. In addition to the attractions advertised will be lines innumerable of underpriced merchandise consigned to the aisle tables which will be given no newspaper publicity. Come early and come often. This week you can save and save handsomely by spending.—The Broadway Department Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

As this sale will be characterized as a period of unequalled value giving, so it will also be known as an exposition of fashion's most original, most effective and most charming ideas for the spring and summer. We feel confident that you cannot well afford to miss this occasion—this sale which will begin next Saturday morning.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

To begin with this is the most important sale of curtains and upholstery goods that Greater New York will witness. It is the starting of a series of annual sales that will hereafter be eagerly looked forward to.—The Fourteenth Street Store, New York, N. Y.

The buying has grown greater every day since the sale began, passed records have been surpassed, new records made and now we are going after still better records, for we are, owing to several delayed shipments which have recently arrived, going to extend the sale until the end of the coming week. This will be gratifying news to those who have been out of town and have just got back.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

A balance sale—a remainder sale—the remaining lots of our enormous stock of all wash weaves for winter wear. It's a balancing up, as well, and one wherein a half dollar of coin is about as heavy as the former dollar value of the goods.

If the store were careless, you might fear finding trash in such a jumble—but the Bergner store doesn't stand for trash. These after-inventory prices are the smallest of the entire year.—P. A. Bergner & Co., Peoria, Ill.

Napoleon once said to a man, "Come, I want to talk to you." He then asked the man a few questions, and we repeat some of them to you: "Have you any enthusiasm? What do you do with it?" Napoleon was a wonderful character. He made history and wrote it. All Europe was startled by him, for he was in his day the archangel of war. Man's success, and we might say destiny, is in the hands of women. True women are unarmed conquerors for good. They march into the homes, they reign there, and they triumph if they have enthusiasm, genius and tact. Be up and doing. Lend a hand to the interests of your own home. Never admit to any one that you do not attend the "Mill End" sale or read newspaper advertisements, for you virtually admit you are half dead and the other half dying. You should exchange glances with the business world. Show by your actions you are able to comprehend the worthy things of life. Be intensely in earnest and accomplish a duty. If you are an idler, if you are bored with big crowds, and you cannot without agony witness thousands of busybodies justly and honestly saving their money when buying these short ends, then do not come to the "Mill End" sale, for we always have a crowd.—McKelvey's, Youngstown, Ohio.

In the immediate past we have conducted several sales which involved shirts of the better grade. We find that each of our sales has left us with one or two hundred shirts. These we have gathered into one great whole and offer them at ninety-five cents.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

This extraordinary sale will start at the opening of the store to-morrow, Friday morning. There will be extra salesmen on duty, and the garments will be so arranged as to make selection easy. The men folks can slip in any time during the day and be sure of prompt attention. It will be absolutely the greatest money-saving clothing sale every held in Philadelphia. This summer clothing for men and boys speaks for itself. It was bought by us from Hirsh, Frank & Company, the oldest manufacturers of men's and boys' summer clothing in this country. They decided to retire from business and sought the tremendous outlet of this store to dispose of their stock on hand. Hirsh, Frank & Company had not only a reputation for style, workmanship and finish but they were famous for the reliability of all their goods, long, solid wear in every garment. We secured the stock on hand at a stupendous discount, less than fifty cents on the dollar. On exactly the same basis we place them before you.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

It's the largest and most important lace curtain sale that takes place in New York. For months we've been planning and working on this sale, and nothing has been left undone to make this the most intensely interesting lace curtain sale of the year. For months our experts have searched the markets of the world for the best and choicest products of the lace maker. France, Switzerland, Scotland, England, Germany and Italy have contributed to this collection, and the result is thousands of pairs of the most beautiful curtains that we have ever shown!—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

Four-hour sale Saturday. Four hours only—but we are determined that they shall be the four biggest and busiest hours yet known in American retailing. There could be no better evidence of this determination than is presented in the items printed below. Yet the movement is bigger, broader, so comprehensive in fact that anything like adequate publicity is impossible. The important fact is that the largest real money savings you have ever known will be obtainable here in this store on Saturday, July 8th, from 9 to 1 o'clock.—Ehrich Bros., New York, N. Y.

Important matting sale. A direct Oriental shipment of new China matting that was booked for arrival January 1st has just been received. On account of delay the importers have made us very considerable allowances, which enables us to sell this matting at remarkably low prices.—Boston Store, Milwaukee.

We'll guarantee that there's no woman in all Washington that can attend this great sale without becoming an enthusiastic buyer. Still the story is but half told—you must see the waists—the smart styles—the dainty, effective creations which all the world of style is buying and glad to get them at the regular prices.—Hecht's, Washington, D. C.

We planned months ahead for this surpassing event, keeping one member of the firm and an extra corps of house buyers in the Eastern market until a week ago, scouring every leading American manufacturing plant for its best productions and most remarkable values. That we are splendidly ready to turn the curtain aside to-day upon the grandest exhibit of American-made goods ever shown or attempted by any Western house, is demonstrated beyond question or doubt to any fair-minded sight-seer or patron. 'Tis a grand theme—this exploitation of our country's products—worthy of such a store as this. Pertinent points of timely interest will be brought out during the progress of this sale; illustrating in a homely but interesting way the wonderful progress our country has made and its standing at the head of all nations to-day in the industrial world. We note with pleasure that another local store has emulated our example, though in rather a forced, crude way, necessitated by the tardy tip given indirectly by this store at a late hour on Saturday. We trust, however, they may improve ere the week ends. A gladiator dislikes a matching of skill with a sick or untrained opponent. Several of the leading Eastern stores have held these expositions of American productions this season with splendid success, among them the great Wanamaker stores. The idea is grand; at least one week each year should be set apart by every American store for a special exploitation of domestic goods. We have selected the first week of an eminent American month for ours—the festal Thanksgiving period that opens the annual holiday season. We delight to act as pacemakers to others in this grand movement, firstly, because too much exploitation of American products cannot be given and secondly, because it's only another chance for this great store—that plans and does things first—to show its public how easy it is to lead all would-be rivals, both in magnitude of value giving and quality showing. Add these items to those printed yesterday.—Olds, Workman & King, Portland, Ore.

Our big public benefit sale keeps merrily on. And we continue to sell winter goods, and just when the genuine article of winter is asserting itself, at prices at which the raw material can't be produced. Yes, we lose money on every article we sell, but in the long run we come out ahead. We get rid of our winter goods and get the use of the money. And we do both with our sale, and our friends get what they want to wear now, or for next fall, for less than the same things can be bought for anywhere on earth.—Kaufman Clothing Co., Lexington, Ky.

The importance of this price-cutting crusade increases as it progresses. Its popularity grows from day to day—more and more women are interested—friends are sending friends to get a share of the unheard of bargains. And yet this is just what we expected—a greatly increased number of sales to make up for our smaller profits. For the practically minded woman, looking for good, substantial furniture and carpets, Hill's is certainly the best place.—H. E. Hill Co., Jersey City, N. J.

Thousands of dollars' worth of worthy merchandise must be moved out of harm's way. Come and help us, and by so doing, help yourself. The alterations being made in our store have upset and completely disarranged our entire interior. We're preparing to move several departments to the upper floors, but the chief says, "We've got to move the merchandise out of the front door by the cut-price route," and do it immediately; so we've made reckless reductions on all lines of seasonable and wanted goods. The Los Angeles public has always been very liberal in helping us out of tight places and we need your help now worse than ever before. Worthy merchandise is exposed to the ravages of brick dust, mortar, lime, paint and sawdust. We want you to help us out by getting this merchandise out of harm's way. The benefits will be mutual, for with every dollar's worth of merchandise which you relieve us of this week, you'll be able to pocket a pretty saving. Read carefully this list of bargains for Wednesday and come early and come often.—The Broadway Dept Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

The cold weather is still with us and is likely to be for some time yet, and you will no doubt require some warm underwear and hosiery, and as we have some fine numbers we wish to close at a price, it will pay you a large saving to supply your wants now—even if you have to lay them away for next season.—Boston Store, Mansfield, Ohio.

The most remarkable sale with its many astonishing opportunities. To date it has been met with a tremendously enthusiastic response. One reason is, because it consists of what one needs just now. Every price is actually sensational. You will readily realize this fact by noting the following items.—Sherman & McMillan, Bridgeport, N. J.

Come to-morrow and secure your winter supply of the brand-new, handsome fall goods on sale at prices 25 to 40 per cent. of what the same goods would cost in the other stores. And again we say don't delay, for to-morrow will see the best of the special sale goods sold. The season's newest creations are offered at less than half regular prices as evidenced by these items. There will be plenty of extra sales-people to wait on you promptly. Come as early as you can—first choice is always best.—Roberts Bros., Portland, Ore.

The first day was certainly a success, judged from the expressions of delight and the crowded store. People have come to know that we never disappoint—that all we say, we do. We are certain you never saw better values, nor prettier garments, and as to the new white goods in the domestic department—well, they are beyond our poor pen descriptions—we ask you to call.—The People's Store Co., Tacoma, Wash.

This hosiery and underwear sale saves half or close to half on absolutely new goods. The quantities assembled are tremendous. The qualities are superb. There is hosiery of the very newest designs. There is underwear of the most famous manufacture. It is an opportunity which at the very beginning of the warm season is little less than extraordinary.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fast and furious the onslaught on the many bona fide bargains we are offering continues.

All other competitive attempts pale into insignificance when compared with the tornado of wonderful money saving items found here. It is but fair to state that the way we bought this stock, at practically our own prices, makes our sale possible. If we bought these goods in the usual way, could we sell them to you at the present sacrifices? Of course we could not. You do not care who burdens the loss as long as you derive the benefit. Why pay more when you can buy Wolfson's honest merchandise at one-half of their prices? We will dress our windows this week. See the prices, every one a merchandise marvel for the lowness of price, positively incomparable. After this week this store closes at 6 p. m. sharp. Take advantage of this sale while you have the opportunity. We especially invite you to inspect our goods and prices, buy or not, at your pleasure.—J. Lenson & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Our sales of the past have won fame and friends for us by reason of liberal underselling of sterling qualities. This sale should surpass any previous event, because the stock is larger than any we've ever shown; because the clothing is better and more stylish than any that has gone before, and because we have reduced prices way below the lowest figures we've ever quoted. It's the greatest sale ever inaugurated in this city—an unparalleled sacrifice of quality clothing—and merits the quick attention of every man in town. The original price tags are on all garments; make your own selections according to this scale.—J. and W. Eiseman, Washington, D. C.

In this great store today is upwards of $2,000,000 worth of this season's best made merchandise, and throughout this mammoth stock are such chances to save money and yet get just exactly what is desired in quality and seasonableness that no careful spender within reach of this store can afford to ignore the appeal this great five days' event makes to the pecuniary interests of everybody. The scope of this sale of Manufacturers' Stocks is so broad as to include practically every conceivable want of man, woman or child, and on everything in this sale. Savings average a full half of what similar goods of the same grade are selling for everywhere else to-day.—Bloomington's, New York.

The recent sales held here, before the satisfactory settlement of our affairs, were immensely popular and successful. The results, however, lacked a few thousand dollars of the amount necessary to put us on our feet again. We got the required sum, of course, but we want to square ourselves quickly—pay it back in short order—start again without a handicap. So we begin Monday another series of cut price sales having the single object before us of raising money! Frankly, we will take very little account of cost in nearly every stock here—you may buy practically at your own price. Especially is this true of furniture, carpets, draperies, rugs, linoleums, oil-cloths, linens, cottons and other house goods. Our late sales as we said, were enthusiastically attended; but these will be greater still in point of economy for the people.—The Anderson Co., Buffalo.

There's something tonical about these sales. They are inspiring. People like to visit the Siegel-Cooper store because it is always bright and busy; never dull, never listless or other than thoroughly attractive. Immense stocks, everything you can require for hot weather.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

Not only purchases for immediate needs but extensive provisions for the future should be made from the greatly reduced lines to be offered beginning this morning in this important stock reducing sale.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago.

The goods that constitute this sale were made by the oldest and most reputable furniture manufacturers of this country, who allow nothing that isn't strictly up to their high standard of excellence to leave the factory. The stock gathered for this sale is large, the variety very extensive, yet a great many of the articles are the one-of-a-kind sort, hence early selection is advised. Included also are many high-class pieces from our regular stock, every one of which is an exceptional value, and has never before been offered at present price. Five large, quick elevators lead direct to the furniture stores on sixth and seventh floors, G street building.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

We speak honestly, we speak within bounds, when we emphasize this sale as the sale of all sales. In its economy it overtops any sale ever held under this roof. Every stock in the store is profit stripped, hundreds of items will never be exploited in print, but they are here together with scores of other items that will be so emphasized. It isn't profit, it is not cost in many instances, that causes this great merchandise movement. The one great object is to reduce the stock prior to taking the annual inventory. It's a great chance, it's your chance; and your proof of wisdom will lie in the taking advantage of it. We're going to crowd this store with satisfied buyers for seven days as it has never been crowded before, and we earnestly invite you to be one of them. You can make no mistake in buying at this great sale.—J. A. Hislop & Co., So. Norwalk.

The thoroughly honest business methods of this, Columbus' greatest and most popular clothing store, combined with the high character and superior qualities of The Union's garments, makes this sale the most important to you—a sale before which all others pale into insignificance—a sale overflowing with greater, better and most desirable money-saving opportunities. Thousands in and about Columbus have waited for this announcement, thousands will be here Thursday and each day thereafter during this great sale, to take advantage of these thoroughly honest and most liberal price reductions. If you only care to look we heartily invite you to come and do so, we want you to know the full meaning of "A Union cut price sale."—The Union, Columbus, Ohio.

We begin tomorrow a sale that is destined to eclipse, both in point of completeness of detail and absolute money saving, the most brilliant merchandising achievements of other seasons—a sale that will positively establish a new and greater record for outerwear selling and proclaim anew the supremacy of the great Bamberger store and the State's mightiest garment organization.—Bamberger's, Newark, N. J.

Reinforcements seems a strange word to apply to a sale, doesn't it? A reinforcement sale sounds mystifying. Yet every woman or man, who finds a shortage of hosiery, a break in the gloves, a let-down in the winter shoes, a fraying of neckwear—in short, anyone whose wardrobe needs reinforcements in the form of apparel will understand and appreciate it. Just at this time of year, the frayed edge of winter, one's wardrobe seems to develop frayed edges and this sale is to end the fray. Thus are its reinforcements of fine apparel at especially low prices certain to be welcome.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Our one-half price sale has been the wonder of the week. Our store has been crowded with eager shoppers, who pronounce the sale as being one of the best ever given in the city. It will continue all week. Great bargains for every day. Goods on sale are all new goods and latest styles. Suits, coats, cravenettes, linen skirts, walking skirts, silk suits, wash dresses, shirt waists and underwear, all at half price.—The Parisian, Spokane, Wash.

On Wednesday we advertised our determination to close out this stock immediately—having decided to retire from business. One announcement was sufficient to crowd the store all day Thursday (Wednesday we were closed)—and at the present rate of selling the business will be wound up in a week's time. To-day and to-morrow we're going to sell covert coats at one-fourth less for free and unrestricted choice of the entire stock—while some of the less desirable styles will go at a third to a half off regular prices.—James P. Cooper, Los Angeles, Cal.

Only two reduction sales a year is the Allison policy. Strict adherence to it has won the confidence of the people that each is bonafide. We're so satisfied that the public has faith in our sales that we make the most unostentatious announcements.—Allison's, Philadelphia.

Twice a year we search through our stocks, bring out all small lots, all the odd assortments of merchandise, and every group of seasonable goods in which the selection is in any way incomplete. Monday and throughout the entire week, you'll find prices on these stocks cut without thought as to actual cost or profit to us—half prices—third prices—quarter prices are the order of the day.—The Gilchrist Co., Boston.

Our great one dollar down sale. Starting to-morrow and continuing for just fifteen days we will suspend our regular rules of credit giving and sell any article in our store for one dollar down and one dollar per week—clothing, hats and shoes. We conduct these sales twice a year, and many people take advantage of them. Our stock is large and consists of all the latest. Now people, don't let your neighbors get in ahead of you on this sale, but come early Monday. Remember, it lasts but fifteen days and is open to all.—Gately & Donovan, Bay City, Mich.

The last green ticket sale of the present season. We wind up our half year's business immediately and take stock. Instructions have gone forth throughout the store to make prices for this green ticket sale the most enticing yet, to sell goods at "any price" and to be sure the prices were low enough to clean out every advertised line. You buy tomorrow for less than we ourselves can buy.—King's Palace, Washington, D. C.

There's an unusual fascination about this day. Small lots of broken lines of dependable merchandise are sold at small prices. The lots are not large—we will not promise how long they will last—it is safe to come as early as possible. There are just two more days of the sale of the Rose stock.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Topeka, Kans.

If there is one thing we take special pride in more than another it is our linens and muslin department and this annual sale of housekeeping linens and muslins. At this sale it has been our custom for many years to offer unapproachable values of the highest standard of quality in all the lines this department represents and at no time or place can values of such commendable character be purchased as at the prices quoted.—Barney's, Schenectady, N. Y.

Greatest in point of sales, and even more remarkable in excellence of values. Interest increases steadily, and each day shows a growth of trade that is little less than phenomenal. But the values are here—that is the secret of the success of this sale.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

If interested at all in the purchase of a suit or overcoat you must be interested in this sale. It brings the biggest opportunity of the season—of the entire six months in fact. We are paying a tremendous penalty for the riddance of the small lots. But there's no place in this progressive store for "remnants." And we regard as a "remnant" every lot of less than six garments. Throughout all the suits—plain black worsted and cheviot, and fancy cheviot and worsted—and all the overcoats—staples, belt coats, paddocks, surtouts and ulsters—there are hundreds of lots, of which two, three, four or five remain.—Saks & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Workmen are hammering and sawing in the building. Salesmen are striving to give all the attention possible to customers; and customers are surging through the store gathering up the bargains that are found on every floor. The opportunity to you comes because we must get out and our new building is nowhere near completed.—Los Angeles Furniture Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Our great sale is in full swing. The first week of our sale was a great success. The grand response we have already received proves that the public has faith in the honesty of our offers and that, at the prices named, we will soon clear out shelves of summer stock.—Esmay & Daggett, Utica, N. Y.

We are not at liberty to mention the name of the Boston concern who carried this stock, but they were noted for the high grade of their merchandise, their trade coming principally from the select families of Boston and vicinity. To be able now to choose from this fine assortment of high-class goods at the prices we quote, should be an attraction that even the most heedless will appreciate. The offering of this splendid purchase, together with the lots from our own stock which we have laid out for this great May clearance sale, will form a bargain opportunity that can never occur again.—R. H. White Co., Boston.

Six Startling Sales! Just walk into the north store. You will find these Six Splendid Specials all on the ground floor, north store. Each is an index to the great values offered in these busy departments. Surely you never saw such astonishing bargains offered in such fine goods. These sales begin on Wednesday morning and continue Thursday while these goods last. Better come early.—J. N. Adams & Co., Buffalo.

Twice a year we sell Beds and Bedding cheaper than any other house we know of—and only twice a year is it possible for us to engineer such a sale. Every year the movement grows. Every sale is bigger and as much better than previous ones as we can make it. Every facility at our command, the extraordinary resources and power of this big establishment, is brought into play in securing for you economies that other stores do not attempt to match.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

This sale has been a revelation to the economical buyers. The surprising values offered have elicited the praise of the most skeptical. Every article advertised is just as represented. Don't miss this opportunity to secure merchandise that you'll need for fall and winter at prices less than the cost to manufacture. Remember sale ends to-morrow.—Lee Hall, Marion, Ind.

The "round-up" days of the Van Sciver February sales fairly teem with some of the best bargains of the season. Stock-taking has practically ended and the price-cutting pen has gone deep into the figures on tags attached to some of the finest stock that the Van Sciver store holds. It is on pieces which will not be continued that this price-cutting has been the keenest. You will marvel when you see what choice articles we have marked at ridiculously low prices; but although our broad acres are arranged to accommodate the largest stock in the world, we must consider the room required for new stock now arriving, and regardless of the beauty and value of the reduced pieces, they must go and go quickly in order to make our store better, more advantageous to our great host of customers. This is a week that many look forward to—the week in which the stock-takers wind up their work. The public has long since learned that the end of February holds out the most tempting bargains—this year they're wonderful.—J. B. Van Sciver Co., Philadelphia.

We want to make the last day one of the best, not only in sales but in values; so we have marked down a large number of pieces to half original prices—a few at even less than half; and buyers who come early will secure some of the most remarkable values that have been shown in this truly remarkable special sale.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

To-day begins the biggest and most interesting sale this store has ever launched. The stock provided for this winter is by far the best made, the very best fitting, and best character and style clothing we have ever manufactured. But the time has come to close out this splendid stock, regardless of its worth.—W. H. Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

It has been said that "the public like to be humbugged," but, it's not so! If a store fools its customers once they are always suspicious afterwards! Our sales are so largely patronized because the people believe our representations, and we'll take good care they never have reason to do otherwise!—Perry & Co., "N. B. T.," Philadelphia, Pa.

Thousands of customers and merchants visited our Friday sale. All were unanimous in saying that our prices were the very lowest in the city. Our sale will be continued Monday, and our prices will be as low and in some departments lower. Come and see for yourself what we have to offer you.—O. Lemire & Co., Montreal, Can.

It is extremely hard to start a sale of underwear and hosiery at Loeser's which shall pass the precedents already established. All season the offerings here have set a pace which was never before equaled. Great sales have followed each other in rapid succession, each presenting more extraordinary opportunities than the last. The standard of value-giving has been raised beyond anything that Brooklyn ever knew. But the difficult has been accomplished; the precedents have been equaled and surpassed; the unequalled prestige and purchasing power of the Loeser Store have been turned to best account, and for Tuesday we announce the greatest underwear and hosiery sale ever held in Brooklyn.—Fred. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our story will be a short one. You simply want to know how cheap you can buy goods during a sale. One portion of the story is this: Upon going through the immense stocks of this big store, we find thousands and thousands of dollars' worth of goods we never knew we owned, and we don't want to own now. Having determined that every article, yard and piece of these goods shall leave this store before Saturday night next, we are here to tell you of all the money-making sales for you, you ever attended, you'll find this the greatest to get some of the greatest bargains ever offered the people.—Edward Wren Co., Springfield.

The big store is jammed from top to bottom! Everybody is smiling! It's a jolly crowd! Going from counter to counter taking advantage of the greatest bargains they ever saw! They're all happy!—Globe, St. Louis, Mo.

Great half-price sale, at which we give you the opportunity of buying of our best lines in all departments at exactly half our regular prices. These are not "jobs" bought for a cheap sale, but all articles of sterling value, selected with care from our magnificent stock of good merchandise and marked down in good faith from our regular prices.—Adam, Meldrum & Anderson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Not for an hour since this sale began have we allowed interest to lag. Whenever a lot sold down or entirely out it was replaced by another equally attractive, and that keeps the selections at top notch. Tables are consequently heaped with good and seasonable footwear for men, women and children.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

We are getting ready for the greatest autumn trade in our history; and now, while we are clearing our stocks, is your opportunity to secure our kind of merchandise at prices less than you would have to pay for ordinary grades. Come early and often—there's always something new to be seen.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Never before have we been able to make our buying and planning count for so much in a value-giving way. Space is so limited that we cannot give you a correct idea of the great scope of this sale here. You must come and see for yourself to fully realize its extent.—Hecht's, Washington, D. C.

We are holding this week one of the greatest sales ever attempted in Buffalo. Thousands of dollars worth of surplus stocks from the leading manufacturers of this country have been offered and sold by us at prices invariably less than half the cost of production.—Siegrist & Fraley, Buffalo, N. Y.

Our general reduction sale lasts but six days longer. The opportunity to buy the highest class of shoes from San Francisco's most exclusive shoe house will not soon recur. Every shoe is reduced; present purchases mean ample saving.—Sommer & Kaufman, San Francisco, Cal.

Summer apparel sale. Further startling reductions in all departments take place in the Bedell stores for the ensuing week. It is now a positive clearance of every spring and summer in the New York and Brooklyn establishments. These prices mean a finality. No such values can be expected a second time. The garments included are the most fashionable and exclusive of the celebrated Bedell productions.—Bedell, New York, N. Y.

Monday we give possession of one-half of our store. We will occupy the other half a few weeks longer, to enable us to close out the balance of our stock. Judging from the number who visited our store this week and took away rare bargains, we should say that buyers appreciate such an opportunity.—Campbell Curio Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

The great closing-out sale is your opportunity to save money on dependable goods. If we could go into your home and show you samples of our goods alongside of goods you are buying every day, we would shortly convince you that we were able to save you money. Besides, it looks reasonable. We bought this stock at 57 cents on the dollar. You have seen our very low price quotations in recent page and half-page ads. The goods are here for you to see; it's your loss if you don't purchase soon.—Funk Bros., Portland, Ore.

Our spring stock is now complete, and our big drapery store in the basement sales room is a very busy place these days. With house cleaning now at hand almost every home is in need of new draperies of some sort, and we have planned for your benefit a cut price sale that will interest every economical housewife. The big blue pencil has done its work well, and the values are the best and the prices the lowest any firm ever dared to put on up-to-date, seasonable merchandise. Come to this big sale. You will find the values even better than we tell them. Savings to an extent of at least 25 per cent., and in many cases even better. The following items will give you an idea how we undersell all others.—Martin's, Peoria.

Twenty years on the Avenue, three years in this great building—an enormous sale to commemorate it. It is twenty years now since some of you first saw the sign-post that served to guide you to this store—not into this beautiful building that now serves as a home for the Adams business, but in a little two-story affair that would hardly hold one department of this business of to-day. Great changes—many of them. And we've progressed with the age. No fanfare of trumpets, very few pyrotechnics; but we've progressed, nevertheless. And now for a great sale to commemorate it—a sale that will provide you with values never before approached by any store. These anniversary specials will be on sale all day Monday and Tuesday. They are in every sense at or below actual cost.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

Best chance of the season to buy such things as you need more now than at any other time of the year—an opportunity to save that comes only from this store. Our notion sales are famous for sterling quality of goods—we never offer anything that we would not sell at regular prices from day to day. This sale is a good example of a real notion sale. Look the list over and you will acknowledge that it is best of all.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Many months of preparation were necessary before this important event could be got ready. But it is ready now and rightly ready. It is the sale of all the year for money saving. And that, too, without the necessity of sacrificing your artistic desires to mere price economy.—Ehrich Bros., New York.

The Sales That Have Made Friday Famous.—Friday can no longer be thought unlucky by the people of Brooklyn. It has become a day of great values, eagerly appreciated by an expectant public. A day of great variety, every corner of this great store contributing its share to the selling treats.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We are now holding this tremendous reduction sale for the purpose of clearing out every odd garment now in stock. It makes no difference how late or practical the style may be—every odd suit, coat, skirt and waist has got to go. Right now is your opportunity to take advantage of some phenomenal bargains.—Livingston Bros., San Francisco, Cal.

Sanger's money saving sale. Begins to-morrow—it's the summer clearance time, stocks must now be reduced and our earnest efforts are seconded by the lowest price quotations we have ever made. Every stock is full of bargains in desirable, high class merchandise and the stocks are so complete that you will find it pleasurable to select from them. Buy your supplies for the summer months, merchandise is going up, take advantage of our summer reductions.—Sanger Bros., Waco, Texas.

The throng of buyers on Friday, at the beginning of this half-price sale, was one of the largest we ever saw; we have made many new friends. We sell the best Clothing made; and, of course, the best Clothing at half price is a great attraction. The sale continues this week.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

We are determined to make this sale pull as it never pulled before. Half the magnetism is in the prices—half in the quality. The story of its growth—its increased saving possibilities year after year is so plausible that it cannot be doubted, and when you come you will find the bargains everything that's claimed for them if not better.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

This sale is fairly at its zenith this morning. All the tremendous selling of last week has not lightened either values or variety. The outgoing furniture has simply made way for the tens of carloads that have come. Our floors are as full as we dare pack them, by reason of the fine offerings that are clamoring for the opportunity to be presented to you. Last week's sales records have again proven that public interest in these semi-annual furniture movements is rapidly growing. Sales have been larger and the purchasers have been more enthusiastic than ever before.—Wanamaker, New York.

We are going to make a clean sweep Saturday of everything in winter weight underwear and heavy weight walking and dress skirts. If you have a need in these lines come Saturday, it will pay you well.—Galpin's, Atlanta, Ga.

A cold wave is on the way. That makes this sensational discount sale all the more opportune. Buy clothing and underwear for present and future wear. You can't invest your money more profitably.—Eiseman Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

Yesterday's opening business of the year was the largest in our history. There is an excess of good things—first, the special January sales; second, the winter season general stock reduction sales; third, the special rebuilding sales, necessitated by the approaching demolition of our building at 111 to 115 Wabash avenue. These last named sales mean decided loss to us—but that we cheerfully accept as an inevitable feature of the situation. We cannot, however, insist too strongly on the splendid opportunities they afford to every one in Chicago to buy all kinds of housefurnishings at ridiculously low prices.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of seasonable merchandise, bought for its desirability and for as little as ready cash will buy, will be on sale. Smallness of profits, reliability of goods, popularity of prices, money back if you want it—these principles which we apply are the keynote to our success and make our sales so attractive.—Bernheimers', Kansas City, Mo.

This sale comes very near a month earlier than usual—owing to our great silk sales that have followed one after another, creating odd accumulations of silks that must be cleared out at once. This sale is without a doubt the most auspicious event of its kind we have inaugurated for some time. Of course the lots in some instances are small, so early choosing is advisable.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

An apology is due our thousands of kind patrons who thronged this floor yesterday, and who were obliged to wait at the doors for their turn to get in. We have doubled our force of employes for to-day and are in hopes to be able to more promptly wait on all.—Hummel, Indianapolis, Ind.

“Three-barreled,” this rummage sale. One barrel is loaded with the things we always close out of stock at this time in the summer, plain rummaging. Another is filled with things crowded out by the builders taking possession of the new section of the new building, to finish the interior by autumn. The third holds the merchandise that manufacturers are sending in to be sold at wholesale prices or less. It’s a lively and profitable July ahead, keep an eye on the store.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Our great mill-end sale has been sowing seed. In other words the great values, the absolutely unprecedented prices are becoming widely known—not only through the newspapers, but through the pleased customers who spread the news of the great values they have gotten. If you haven’t yet attended this great sale, you had better do so very soon as it only continues five days more. There are plenty of bargains for everybody.—C. R. Hawley & Co., Bay City, Mich.

The second week of the great Mill-Outlet Sale is proving a record breaker in every way. The special values have been instantly appreciated, and the way they are being gobbled up is a caution. Many medium and small sized lots have been secured in scouring the market the last few days, and these, with the choicest of earlier comers, are specially reduced for Thursday only, up till 6 p. m. Come early and get the pick.—The Furst Co., Jersey City, N. J.

The mill-end sale, now in full swing, is absolutely without equal. These 16,000 yards of spring woollens, snapped up by us at a fraction of their standard price, now tailored into clothing the like you would surely expect to cost twice as much. From the minute of its opening this sale was so wonderfully successful that to-day, more than ever, the house of Felix Kahn & Co. is recognized as the very best place in Chicago to buy clothing.—Felix Kahn & Co., Chicago.

No matter what purchases you may make during the sale, just depend upon it, you will save money. Every woman knows what the “Mill-End” sale means, it tells of the eagerness of manufacturers to unload and clean-up their stocks, to clear every floor and shelf of surplus goods in preparation for the winter months. To the average home it means economy in the strictest sense of the word, an opportunity to buy dependable merchandise at tremendously low prices.—Dives, Pomeroy & Stewart, Harrisburg, Pa.

We have for a long time realized that the majority of people prefer to have some one day in the week set aside for just such lines of goods as are necessary to furnish a house; therefore we have designated Thursday of each week as a special sale day of almost everything that pertains to housefurnishings. Our advertising in the past several weeks has been such as to warrant your liberal patronage, but to thoroughly impress you with the fact that we can and do make lower prices on Thursday than any other day, we offer the following subjoined list for your approval.—Mamburger’s, Los Angeles, Cal.

Monday will mark the beginning of our great October selling campaign, and we have no hesitancy in stating that we have never before been as confident of a generous response to our advertising as we are in this instance, and why we feel this way will be patent to everyone who visits our store. Never before have we been able to show the wealth of styles or such values as now have place upon our shelves and counters.—Israel’s, San Bernardino, Cal.

If you read this ad. and do not take advantage of this, the greatest sale of the kind ever attempted in Columbus at this season of the year, you will be missing a rare feast of bargains. A sale without a parallel! We are anxious to reduce our large stock of fine trimmed hats, cloaks, suits, skirts, waists, furs and wrappers before Christmas and if price counts we will indeed accomplish our purposes. Before you read the following prices we would like for you to understand that every article we sell at this sale has been reduced in price, and if you buy the same class of goods for the same money elsewhere—we will be satisfied to refund your money.—Max H. Rieser, Columbus, O.

It is not strange that the power that created the golden sparks we see at night in the heavens above can toss them at will hither and thither—nor is it strange that the hand that made the mill-ends can toss them where they will do the most good. For they are not used as a source of profit. This we have constantly announced from the first, for we do, invariably, sell them at mill-end cost. In contemplation of the pleasure in store for me while with you, spiced by the public crowd at the sale, I am impatiently working my way southward to Columbia and will arrive in time for the opening of your biggest mill-end sale.—The Jas. L. Tapp Co., Columbia, S. C.

February is looked upon by most merchants as a dull month. It will not be in this busy store. We cannot afford to let it get so. The continuation of this great sale well into the month will give you many a lesson in practical economy. We can say in all sincerity, never was a sale organized with more careful attention or carried out with greater approbation of the buying public. Saturday's assortment of bargains are equal to the best yet. Shop early.—James Shea, Hamilton, Can.

A great sale for housekeepers. Imported housewares at half price. This is the first sale of the kind of which we have ever known. It presents economy chances which are absolutely without precedent. If every housekeeper in Brooklyn could see exactly what is in the sale; instead of simply reading about it, we think that every housekeeper in Brooklyn would be here before nine o'clock to-morrow morning. This is the sample line and stock on hand from the foremost importer in America. The finest table and kitchen utilities that come to America are included in what is shown here. But there is no large quantity of any one thing, and for that reason we have bought the whole stock to sell for half price or less. For that reason, too, it will be wise to come early. Descriptions are difficult, because there are so many things to describe. Nickel wares, brass wares, copper wares, aluminum, wood, glass silver—everything imaginable makes up the stock. Everything is in perfect condition. Everything fills some special need and fills it well. Hundreds of individual and original utilities that will make admirable card prizes are included. Hotel, restaurant and boarding-house managers will find much to interest them. The goods are spread all through the various sections of the great Basement House-wares Stores. We list them as well as we can—but come early and see and share for yourself. It is a chance which may well never have a repetition.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

One of those remarkable sales that illustrate the immense resources of Brooklyn's great store. This is the time these things are most needed and here they are at prices that, quality for quality, cannot be equaled in other stores. It need hardly be said that every piece is worthy of this store, worthy of the name of Abraham and Straus, synonymous with perfect satisfaction.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Apart from the interest the above exhibitions have for you, the many special sales now in progress afford money-saving opportunities not to be overlooked. Such sales involve everyday necessities as well as luxuries—everything from trifles in the notion store to highest class model gowns and wraps. We invite you to stroll through this great Macy store—the largest store under one roof in the world.—Macy's, New York.

Tuesday morning we inaugurate an October sale of surpassing importance to the ladies of Toronto. A sale eclipsing any other of its kind this store has ever attempted or the ladies of Toronto ever shared.—Simpson, Toronto, Can.

August, the month of harvests, is invariably, with our customers, a month of bargain harvesting. Our invoicing is over. Our buyers are in the large furniture markets. When they return next month the new fall goods will begin to arrive. We will need all the room we have. So this month there will be heavy reductions all through the house.—The Household Fair, Kansas City, Mo.

The great May sale that opens here this week with the most surprising values of the season, will prove of inestimable importance to economy seekers everywhere. Nothing that brains and push and clever merchandising can accomplish will be omitted to make it a welcome bargain event to all.—R. H. White & Co., Boston, Mass.

A fitting climax to our other forceful May sales—a most attractive sale of finest summer garments for women and children. Ready cash did wonders in the market for finest merchandise. Our buyer, who has just been East, saw the opportunity and lost no time in closing a deal whereby the manufacturers turned over several lines of stylish seasonable garments at less than their cost to make.—Dayton's, Minneapolis, Minn.

The last week of our great annual May sale of men's suits in which profits have vanished into empty air—"like the baseless fabric of a dream." With nerves of polished steel we have flung back the floodgates of values and let loose the greatest bargains in men's up-to-the-hour apparel ever proffered the people in any previous mid-season sale here—elsewhere—anywhere. The volume of last week's sales wiped out the high-water mark of the biggest May week in this store's history—and we mean to make a new record in retail selling between now and next Saturday night when this great bargain event will be brought to a final close. Mail orders filled. Read on.—The May Co., Denver, Colo.

The annual May sale of French and domestic undermuslins at price concessions of about one-third. By every token do we count this our master-effort. It promises this: exceptionally well and generously fashioned garments of finely woven fabrics, in the authoritative post-season models, in the elaboration of good taste has been exercised.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

We do not advertise all the bargains in the store. The best bargains we have are in limited lots and we would be obliged to disappoint the crowds which advertising would bring. Look about the store—ask in each department for the extra specials! This is the full tide of the August clearance and our always low prices are decisively cut.—Adam, Meldrum & Anderson Co., Buffalo.

This morning at 9 o'clock we will open the doors on the 4th annual "rummage" sale. Ever since Christmas we have been preparing for this event by a careful inspection of every department in search of short lengths, odds and ends, broken assortments and all goods that haven't displayed the expected activity in "moving out."—The result is a veritable mountain of merchandise, in fact fully twice as much as was on display here last year, which means that this "rummage" will be the greatest opportunity for bargain seekers that Phoenix has ever known. Everything with a "rummage" ticket on must be sold before next Saturday, January 28, when the sale closes.—Price is a secondary consideration.—The stocks must be clean as a whistle, before the Spring goods arrive, and this is our method of unloading. Any woman in Phoenix or vicinity who fails to attend this feast of bargains will miss the chance of the year to buy real, high-class, seasonable dry goods at less than prices asked elsewhere for job lots and indifferently made trash. It's so easy to give figures and so difficult to show qualities in print that we can only say to every woman for miles around come and "rummage."—M. Goldwater & Bro., Phoenix, Ariz.

Once more has Mr. Lockhart demonstrated to the many bargain lovers of this valley that the mill ends such as he is renowned for supplying are cheaper and in better shape than any other store can secure at any price. His talks and speeches to-day were listened to by admiring thousands, and the bargains he offered were as easily taken. But the main secret of Mr. Lockhart's success lies in the fact that only a portion of the good things are offered on the first day. Hundreds, yes thousands of items, are reserved for the second, third and even the last day. If you've been to-day, come again to-morrow. If you have not attended the sale, do so—to-morrow. You'll be well repaid.—G. M. McKelvey & Co., Youngstown, Ohio.

It's the bargain event of April. A sale fraught with larger saving possibilities. It affords an opportunity of buying seasonable goods right at a time when they are in greatest demand. This is not a haphazard collection of a few articles, but it contains the very best numbers of guaranteed hosiery and underwear, with a saving on every item. An idea of the magnitude of these expositions is best obtained by a visit to the store. These sales are planned as business propositions. If we can go to the maker with big enough orders we get wholesale prices. With our five big California stores to buy for it is easy to see how the price advantage falls to us. All through the states of Georgia and Tennessee new hosiery and underwear mills are springing up. Instead of transporting cotton to the New England states new factories are started next door to the Southern cotton fields, where with home labor and cheap raw product, fine hosiery and underwear is being produced at a fraction of the old style method. These new factories want customers, but they want large ones. The name of Kutner-Goldstein Co., on account of its big business, is an open sesame among these new mills for low prices. The makers are anxious to sell to us; so anxious that we get wholesale prices. This is the reason for this big exposition. We own these goods cheaper than any store in the valley, and we're pricing them to you at just what stores about town are obliged to pay the wholesaler for goods of equal value.—Kutner-Goldstein Co., Fresno, Cal.

SALES

During a season abnormally dull we have been doing a business far beyond our expectations. Great price clipping for our Anniversary Sale is the magnet that has drawn this splendid trade. Those who have already purchased have secured values to be appreciated. Those who have yet to purchase will also secure a like saving whatever they may buy. Summer Furnishings and seasonable goods of all kinds are included in this sale, and the thrifty householder will find this an exceptional opportunity.—Vance-Fitz Gibbons Furniture Co., Joliet, Ill.

These particular arrivals could not come to us in a more needy time. This is anniversary week, so we want to make it the greatest event of bargain giving we ever held. If you've been here early in the week you know of the exceptionally good values we offer; if you have not, read these, then ask yourself if they don't invite a pressing call to these stores that carry high grade merchandise at low grade pricings.—Philadelphia Bargain Store, Trenton, N. J.

It is with a good deal of pride that we open this Ninth Anniversary sale. We are proud of the fact that Kansas City people have bestowed upon us their confidence to so great a degree that this Boys' Clothing Store has grown faster and faster each succeeding school term, until to-day it ranks, in matter of sales, among the highest of the stores west of Chicago.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City.

Greatest bargain spread ever in St. Louis starts to-morrow, 8 a. m., at the most remarkable store in the world. A sale in which we give away thousands of dollars in loss of profits. For many years our anniversary sale has unquestionably been the leading bargain event in this community. The mere announcement of the anniversary sale is enough to crowd the store, because we have proven that this is the sale of all sales for money-saving shoppers. We always give customers the best dollar's worth, but during our anniversary sale we do more. We spread a veritable bargain feast, in many cases reducing prices on some of the most staple and best selling merchandise to half.—Globe, St. Louis, Mo.

"No morning sun lasts all day." Life, at its best is but a short period of time. We must provide during its productive seasons for years of decline. Saving is necessary. Scroggie's Aftermath Sale offers to savers the best facilities, convenience of shopping, invariable courtesy, convenient location, a saving of 25 to 75 per cent. All new fresh goods, imported from the high-class manufacturing centers of the world.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

This Bargain Friday comes at an opportune time. We've just finished inventory, and our stock counting reveals thousands of dollars' worth of goods which we are anxious to dispose of regardless of cost or former selling price. There's not an article, however, that is not usable and highly desirable at this particular period. You can have these goods now at a mere fraction of what they would have cost you a week ago. We've held on long enough. Now it's your turn to take them at these Bargain Friday prices.—The 14th St. Store, New York, N. Y.

Another year has rolled around and again we celebrate the founding of this store with a big two-day sale that will overshadow in magnitude and value-giving any similar event known in the trade history of Greater Wheeling.

We want our out-of-town friends to know that all former efforts will be eclipsed—that we intend making this Anniversary Sale notable for the excellence of the merchandise included and the lowness of the prices which will prevail. In every one of the thirty odd departments of the store will be offerings such as you little dream of, ranging from 15 per cent. to 50 per cent. under normal quotations. Preparations for this great annual event have been under way for months and in view of present trade conditions our spot cash offers secured us immense quantities of new and fashionable Fall goods at price concessions that would have been impossible in any other way or at any other time. These goods are to be sold during our Sixty-first Anniversary Sale and our customers will profit by some of the most wonderful values ever offered by this or any other store.—Seth & Thomas, Wheeling, W. Va.

Semi-annual sale of wrappers and kimonas. Can you afford to make these comfortable garments at home with such prices and values as these? No; you can't. The making, the generous fullness of the garments and in fact everything you have a right to expect is shown in this semi-annual sale. Such excellent values so lowly priced are not always possible; but a lucky trade-find brought these just in time for you to save one-quarter to one-third on your purchases.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The public has made possible the steady growth of this business from its modest beginning in 1847 to its present size, and it is but fitting that the people should participate in a financial way in the celebration of its anniversary. We have planned these Anniversary Sales on a liberal scale and all are to share substantially in the savings which will be a marked feature of the event.

We hold our Sixty-first Anniversary Sale Monday and Tuesday, October 5th and 6th, comprising selling events of a character that mean much to those who find it necessary to be careful of their expenditures at this time. Naturally we can't quote prices in this circular, but we will say that all over the house, from basement to fifth floor, are bargains such as it will pay you well to come for, even if you live a long distance from Wheeling. The new Fall stocks are in and on display and the goods are to be sold at prices never before possible. So again we say to you: Come to Wheeling and help us celebrate our Sixty-first Anniversary—we will treat you right and you will save a lot of money.—Seth & Thomas, Wheeling.

It's our annual sale; always the greatest when it comes. This is the time. Once each year we plan to save you more than at any other time. We gather immense quantities for this very purpose. The list which follows ought to prove of universal interest because it means abundant economy.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

This is our third annual sale of petticoats. It has been prepared with more care and thought than any previous sale. Good petticoats can be bought here for less money than you have ever before had the privilege of buying them. Here are two specials for today's selling. There are many others that it will pay you to see.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Three thousand bright, crisp and new waists made especially to our order, form the nucleus of this annual sale. Words fail to utter in the exploitation of merit and genuine satisfaction that is ours in making this announcement, and we anticipate the pleasure that must accrue to our patrons in the buying, for the selling to-morrow will out-rival any similar attempt ever made by any retail establishment in Greater New York. Our arrangements were perfected when sleighing was an enjoyable feature in Prospect Park. Time, labor and money have been so closely allied that not a feature of good merchandising is missing, to the end that you may have the best and most seasonable apparel at ridiculous prices.—A. J. Namm, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We are holding our annual sale of new embroideries. It means that you can save at least a third on the values of anything you purchase. Anticipate your needs and benefit by our special offerings. Particularly special are the nainsook matched sets, cambric edges and insertions, beadings, Swiss edges and insertions, also 18-inch corset cover flounces that we are offering just now for 25c. a yard. Our show window will give you some idea of what you can get for that small price. Step inside and examine them. You'll buy; you can't help it.—Brown, Thomson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Final day of before inventory sales. Opportunity takes wings to itself when the advantages of these sales will have ceased to exist, which will be with the closing of the store on Tuesday evening. The attractions are manifold; the field—the entire store. Every stock has its quota of bargains, virtually a smash-up and let-down of the price bars on every class and lot of goods that we do not care to have on the listing sheets. The cuts have been applied to all winter merchandise. Goods that will be required for your comfort, pleasure and adornment every moment of the next three months, and longer. Your co-operation in helping us move the goods will prove profitable. We have made the rates very low for brisk selling of same.—John G. Myers Co., Albany, N. Y.

Bargain news is all good news—it travels fast. That's why this great twice-yearly event is growing greater each day. The people of New York and surrounding suburbs have never bought high-class merchandise at such remarkable bargain prices before, nor will they again this season have such a saving opportunity as this pre-inventory sale affords.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

The Pre-Inventory Sales now in progress throughout this store are significant for the range of merchandise covered, and for the remarkable value-giving made possible only by the unique purchasing power and price-making purchasing power of this institution.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Thorough dependability and absolute trustworthiness are never for a moment separate from the merchandise in this store—no matter how low the prices. And remember, in this Before-Inventory Sale, as at all times, when you get your purchase home, if it turns out to be different than you thought it was when you bought it, return it at once in salable condition along with duplicate check and get your money. Could anything be fairer than that?—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

The coming of the Easter tide will prove a signal for the smartest dressing of the season. Most every man will look his best on Easter Day and why not you? You will look your best if we are permitted to furnish your suit.—United Woolen Mills Co., Parkersburg, W. Va.

It is nearly time to write in the diary "Ready for Easter."—Schiffer & Block, Peoria, Ill.

To-morrow we open the greatest three weeks' Easter selling in our history. There is no getting around it, the choicest wearing apparel for women that the world produces is to be found here. There is no getting under it, our prices are actually lower than inferior styles and qualities are offered for as a rule, and much lower than the same class of goods can be found elsewhere. This is abundantly proven by the enormous business that we have created. The leading business of Chicago on women's wearing apparel did not come to us by accident. Those who saw the display here last week understand one great reason, and those who see the prices here this week will understand the other. Do you realize that our store is to-day almost double its size of one year ago? The same forces which have caused it to grow so rapidly in the past stand out more prominently to-day than ever before. The women are scarce who will select anything in wearing apparel to-day without first looking at Stevens.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago, Ill.

First Annual Easter Opening Spring Millinery and Tailored Garments. Two reception days—days of splendor, days of welcome.—John Anisfield Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Easter peeping in at the Gateway! With this thought in view we have made every description. Never has this store shown such a variety at the very threshold of a season and remarkable collection of values. No need to debate over the worth of things here. We skip no opportunity to give you the very best values.—S. J. Burt & Bros., Ogden.

Annual Fall opening sale of lace curtains and portieres. We have never in any previous sale shown as many styles or such values. Our regular prices on curtains and portieres are much below the prices in other stores, but for Friday and Saturday every curtain and portiere in stock goes at sweeping reductions from our regular prices.—Miller, Mower & Flynne, Spokane, Wash.

To-day's advertisement is of importance to every woman who is interested in new things for spring—or who wants to save on seasonable goods. Every department has special offerings, many of which don't even get a mention.—Coulter D. G. Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Formal spring opening. To-day and the two following days have been set aside as show days for the new fashions for spring. The event is looked forward to with not a little eagerness on the part of Tacoma fashionable women, for the style leaders are good enough to regard it as an authority. What's proper will be seen here in its fullness and in the best possible light. We take a good deal of pleasure in the preparing—for, after all, storekeeping isn't altogether sordid and mercenary. We forget business and we give up the store to sight-seers and sociability; and the opening days, next to Christmas, form the most enjoyable time of the whole year. The broadest invitation is here extended to everybody to see the sights.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

First fling of spring. Store rejuvenated. A thousand dollars' worth of paint, kalsomine and expert labor have worked the transformation. Everything is in trim for spring. Passes—the turning point of the winter trade. Every counter feels the pulsations of a new life. Don't you smell the flowers? Don't you hear the robins singing? Birds and blossoms will be here before your dressmaker sends home your new gown—even if you get the cloth to her right away. A spread of spring dress goods.—Campbell's, Pittsburg, Pa.

A storeful of spring prettiness—bright, fresh, dainty—the store will be a regular fashion sheet. The whole store throbs with eager anticipation of what's to be, almost bursting with the good news. The petals open wide on Thursday morning on a most notable cyclorama of fashion richness. Of course you'll be here, a visit each day will be time well spent. Here's a few hints of what's to be enjoyed.—McCurdy & Norwell Co., Rochester, N. Y.

We have enjoyed a wonderful success since opening our new store in Columbia, but our business has been so satisfactory that it has caused us to keep up our assortment until the season was far advanced. We have outlined our business plan to include the starting of each season with a brand new stock of goods. To accomplish this result quickly we will start our first half yearly clean up stock sale and shall make such ridiculously low prices as will clean up our stock in short order. Our stock is all new, bought for this season's trade, so we have no old goods to offer you. Everything is of best and newest and as our stock was marked at very low prices and one price only, the reductions are more marked than you ever saw in a sale before. The bargains are many and real. The sale will bring to you the most reliable of merchandise of careful, stylish selections; everything of the newest and the entire stock will really be offered at cost or less. You cannot afford to miss this chance. Come and see what a real sale looks like and note the prices. We can only show a portion of the bargains we offer in this advertisement. We will make good when you come to this sale. Assortment complete in each line, but those who come early will fare best.—Bailey-Copeland Co., Columbia, S. C.

With the end of Inventory comes the imperative need of making a complete clearance in all departments, but the necessity shows strongest in the Ready-to-wear section. "Too much stock for the season." We consider that our wisest course—to make the clearance quick and sure—is to give women bargains in goods that will appeal directly to their needs. The department is full to overflowing with just such goods, and the prices we are making on them represent opportunities for the saving of many dollars to purchasers.—O. M. Co., Portland, Oregon.

We tell you frankly: The merchandise offered in this clearance announcement to-day is priced at cost to us—in hundreds of instances at less than cost. From one standpoint a heavy loss is involved. But we do not count it loss. It's true we receive less than we paid. But this is our house-cleaning time. The worth of the goods to you in mid-season—not the cost to us—is the factor that determines the price. We're ready to take the loss if we can quickly clear every counter—every store-room of accumulated merchandise. We are determined to sell every piece of winter goods—we're determined that our stocks shall be absolutely clean and fresh with the new season—we're determined that if startlingly drastic reductions will accomplish our purpose all this merchandise will find new owners at once. Remember: You are buying at this sale—at retail—at prices actually lower than this great organization, with three enormous stores and a buying skill developed by years of experience, can buy at the mills in lots costing hundreds of thousands of dollars.—Wanamaker's.

A Gigantic Make-Room Sale at Martin's.—More room—every department is crying for more room. We are constantly shifting, rearranging the stocks that our marvelous increase of business demands. This big store is piled full of seasonable merchandise. To move the stocks quickly, we have inaugurated this gigantic make-room sale. Our patrons know what this means—the biggest sale of all. Come to Martin's Monday—come every day this week—as new bargains will be added daily. It is giving real genuine values that has made our store grow as no other in Peoria ever grew.—Martin, Peoria, Ill.

Come to the feast—we are cleaning house. Every department has been turned topsy-turvy, everything pertaining to winter must go. Our inventory is over and many lines of broken and odd lots have been put forward to be sacrificed. It is not often you have an opportunity like this. So come to Martin's Friday and Saturday. No matter how cold the days you can not afford to miss this great bargain feast. Read every line. Read every word. It means dollars to you.—Martin's, Peoria, Ill.

It's the yearly event—vastly bigger and vastly better than any we have yet held. Not in any sense a clearing sale but a great Advance Offering of the coming season's styles in standard, well-known makes. If you are likely to require Carpets or Rugs after the Fall house renovating, this is emphatically the occasion to secure them at a large saving.—Koch & Co., New York, N. Y.

The generosity that follows success. Every six months this store is cleared out—beginning with the basement, where housefurnishings, crockery, china, enameled ware, silverware and cut glass are; passing on to the Main floor with its dress goods, trimmings, hosiery, underwear, white goods, laces, linens, cottons, and a score of other stocks, to the second floor with its millinery, shoes, muslinwear, shirt waists, wash suits, corsets; thence to the third floor where carpets, rugs and draperies are displayed, winding up with the fourth floor furniture salesroom, we plan and carry out at the time of our half-yearly inventory, a great and general clearance, a radical price-cutting, a forcing out of seasonable goods (especially so this year)—a sale wherein cost and profit are secondary considerations, an opportunity now to generously recognize our appreciation of the public's help during the most gratifying successful year we have had since this business began. Come to it. Get your share. It starts to-day.—H. A. Meldrum Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Prior to showing 1905 spring stocks we'll "clear the decks" of all goods carried over from last spring, summer and fall, and most of those from this winter. If any one is skeptical as to our selling at less than cost (for a two weeks' period) we say, "Investigate." The only explanation we offer is this: Our policy is to convert "merchandise profits" into cash, rather than keep them as stock on tables. Since the goods we now offer for sale are principally "merchandise profits" for 1904, we make it emphatically to your interest to buy. The thousands that await this sale will find at this time greatest values in style, in quality, and in every other respect that have ever been offered.—The Palace Clothing House, Minneapolis, Minn.

Each succeeding day establishes more than ever the supreme importance of this sale. The thousands who have come and gone away satisfied have spread the news till now it seems that all Chicago knows that the most heroic price cutting ever attempted in this city has been done in this store.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

The semi-annual Mandel clearing sales, always awaited with keen interest, serve a double purpose. They sustain the principle, incorporated into this business from its very foundation, that "all stocks must be fresh each season;" and they demonstrate, as nothing else possibly could, the power of this organization for far-reaching economy. Through the present January clearance, all winter merchandise is offered at reductions ranging from one-fourth to one-half actual value. Active preparations for spring cause us to make these radical price concessions at the present time. Wise buyers will scan carefully the following notable instances of "clearing sales economy," and will take advantage of the golden buying opportunity thereby created.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago.

The one great clearance sale which all Chicago recognizes as the greatest value-giving event of the season, and to which the women of this city and suburbs turn out yearly. A genuine clearance sale that has no competitors, though many feeble imitations. A clean sweep of every dollar's worth of merchandise that is not desirable for the opening of the spring season. One of the strong features of this sale is the choiceness of the merchandise, correct shapes and styles. Every garment offered at this sale is desirable, and in many instances at a mere trifle of the actual cost.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Our after-Christmas clearance sale is in full swing. Absolute reductions and genuine bargains. There will be a lively skirmish for the next few days for the bargain hunters and the many ladies whose Christmas presents came in the form of cash, which will be spent now at a wonderful saving. Our store was fearfully attacked last week by shoppers, consequently we are burdened with a number of broken lots and single pieces throughout our entire store, all of which will be yours at one-fourth to one-half less than the regular value. The greatest savings, however, are to be found in our women's and misses' coats and suits.—Kaufman's, Trenton.

We are determined to rid the store of every dollar's worth of surplus stock, of every item of winter goods, of short lengths, odds and ends, broken lots and all such merchandise. If you are anxious to economize—to get the benefit of extraordinary underselling, you should come to this store at once. Winter has just begun in dead earnest; for three months, at least, you will need winter wearables badly. Then, how can you hesitate to hurry for such bargains as we are offering? Come to-morrow, come Saturday. We want you to secure the best of bargains, and advise coming early. Goods of high quality at enormous reduction in price while this sale lasts.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

Don't come expecting new, stylish, perfect goods. That is the kind we offer fifty-one and one-half weeks in the year, but this half week is devoted to cleaning up damaged goods, shopworn goods, articles that have passed out of style and remnants. Every article offered is of value. The question is: Can you use it to advantage? Every department will be represented in the offering. The prices will be graded according to the condition of the goods, and we can assure you that every price is much under the present value and only a small fraction of the original value of the article.—G. H. Wiltzie, Cortland, N. Y.

The wonderful popularity obtained by our great clearance sales was never so forcefully demonstrated as in this present sale, which opened yesterday morning. When we began these sales a few years ago the knowledge of their merit did not extend beyond a few hundred women, but each year they have learned more and more of their genuineness, until now they are attended by several hundreds of thousands of women during the two weeks' continuance of the sale. With most firms the clearing up of the season's merchandise is a problem. Here it has become an easy task in a sense—we make just one clean sweep. Everything that remains, that is not wanted when the spring season opens, all good, stylish merchandise, is reduced to a price that will sell each article at sight, and that is all there is to it.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago, Ill.

The big clearance sale is strong where clearance sales are generally weak—in the matter of shoes for children and small folks. Children's shoes are considered "staple" in the shoe business, and are seldom or never reduced unless on account of imperfections of style or quality. The shoes mentioned below are all nice new goods, in all sizes, and should prove interesting accordingly.—Lavenson's, Sacramento, Cal.

This store is now the scene of an extraordinary series of Special Clearance Sales, which in value-giving will astonish even the most economical of shoppers. The fall goods are all clamoring for admission, and in order to secure space all Summer merchandise must go. This August Clearance Sale is brimful of timely and seasonable merchandise at absolutely the lowest prices ever known.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Great Clearances foretell the greater Abraham & Straus. There is even more than the usual reason for the amazing underprice sales on the next two pages of this paper. Brooklyn's Greatest Store is passing through another important stage in its magnificent development and unprecedented growth. As fast as modern methods and modern machinery can work, we are striving to keep pace with the growth of an ever greater business. Fast as the architect and carpenter and mason plan and work and labor, business keeps treading on their heels. The rapidly rising mammoth structure in the rear of the present buildings, which will be directly connected, is an evidence of development far surpassing any retail business ever realized or dreamed of in Brooklyn. A public institution. Abraham & Straus has passed beyond the stage of a mere store. It is a Brooklyn institution, famous throughout the world, with well-recognized obligations and responsibilities to a highly appreciative people. Its prestige has been won upon the policy of giving lasting satisfaction. Other stores may have sold merchandise as cheaply. No other store ever sold the best merchandise at such moderate prices, day after day, week after week and month after month, year after year. Nothing spasmodic in value-giving nor in the growth it has brought. The ungenerous methods have attracted trade beyond precedent. Invariability, reliability and excellent quality of the goods have kept and phenomenally increased this trade. Clearance sales. Certain departments have again outgrown their selling space and must be increased in size or moved to larger quarters. We desire you to help move the goods. Clearance sales with prices remarkable even for Abraham & Straus result. Carefully read the pages that follow. It will pay you. We are making history in the shape of unprecedented business. Do not miss your share of the economies and advantages.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our annual red letter Clearance Sale is now going on. We have set the town a-talking again just as we have every year for the last twenty years—only more so. Every indication points to a phenomenal success. We have the goods. The prices are honestly reduced. We have the reputation that gives force to such sales. It won't be our fault if you don't come and get your share of the great bargains. Ten items is a small representation from the mass that we could give, but they show which way and how strong the saving wind is blowing.—Los Angeles Furniture Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

We doubt very much if the ladies of Wilmington have ever before been offered an opportunity that means so much to the pocketbook as the sale now going on at this store. One fact of special importance must be remembered—every hat, every suit, every coat, every piece of muslin underwear here was new this spring. When The Leader opened up after the fire it was as a new store that greeted its patrons out of the ruins and destruction of the old. The stocks were brand new. And now, having sold our building, and obligated ourselves to give possession June 1st, we are forced to sell these stocks at what we can get for them. The average cut in price gives them to you at about actual cost—in some cases really below cost. We want every friend and customer of The Leader to know about this sale—and to take advantage of it. Our millinery prices, always low, are more reasonable than ever. We employ our expert milliners as usual, and they are at your service. Hats trimmed to order free of charge. You'll not have to wait this season to get a good hat cheap. You'll never be able to buy good hats at such low prices as prevail here this month.—The Leader, Wilmington, Del.

The greatest anniversary sale ever inaugurated. Bargain surprises in every department—Hundreds of specials at half and less. The offerings will stand out with diamond-like brilliancy. The sale will dumbfound competition and astound even the most experienced retail buyers. It will be a stirring, energetic occasion, such as none but a young, forceful, growing concern could conduct. It would be like wasting money to miss such a magnificent opportunity. You might doubt the worthiness of the specials if they were offered anywhere except at Rothenberg's. They seem almost unbelievable. But even the story of this store's wonderful growth would sound fairy-like if there were not so many indisputable facts in evidence of it. For months we have been striving to make this event a distinct and masterful triumph over every past success. PROGRESS is the word emblazoned in the thoughts of every worker in the Rothenberg organization. We must advance—and continue to advance. We know we can accomplish nothing without your help. We cater to your desires. A business in its youthful, sturdy, growing days cannot afford to do otherwise. We follow such lines as will make the swiftest and greatest growth within the bounds of safety. Wonderful values here at all times—and the most astounding offerings on special occasions.—Rothenberg & Co., New York City.

A determined Clearing at pronounced savings involving the greater portion of our entire stock. The splendid styles, high quality of the materials and superior workmanship, together with the emphatic price reductions, should act as a strong incentive that will doubtless make the clearing absolute. The following four lots are representative of scores of other just as remarkable values.—Gimbel Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

Entire stock to be closed out on account of building to be torn down or remodeled. No reserve. Every article guaranteed as represented by auctioneer. Prize tickets to ladies given away daily. Sales 2.30 and 7.30 p. m. daily.—Wegner's, Spokane, Wash.

This Annual Clearance of carpets is an event so well known that we need do no more than print the price list. Everybody knows that the carpets out of our own stock are as fine as carpets can be. We make the clearance so as to have the spring stock entirely new—and so as to get rid of all part rolls remaining after the season's business. It is a good thing to bring room sizes with you.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

It is with a feeling of great pride that we point to the success of this Annual Clearance Sale. The guarantee of the Edward Wren Company is worth something. Our patrons know it, or they would not crowd this store when a special sale is announced. They know that a reduction sale in this store is bona fide. We semi-annually have these reduction sales, because we never carry over old stock. We wish each season to start with fresh goods. This is your opportunity, and we are glad to know that you see it in that way. The crowds in our store give assurance of your confidence in these sales. Edward Wren.—Wren's, Springfield, Ohio.

We are going to Clear Out all surplus stock and want your assistance in doing it. Our employers have turned everything into our hands and we are to "run the store as if we owned it." Come, therefore, expecting big values, for we are determined to reduce our stocks during this sale and are not concerned at all about profit-making. More special items on the counters.—Steiger, Dudgeon Co. Store, New Bedford, Mass.

Unexcelled clearance bargains. The big store offers the most phenomenal price concessions. The throng of shoppers who filled our store yesterday were astonished at the late styles of the goods and extreme lowness of price in the closing of all our winter goods. It is the policy of this store that every garment must be sold within ninety days from the time it was purchased. Any woman who appreciates a genuine bargain will hail with delight the fact that we offer, without reserve, the entire stock of our fall and winter suits and coats at the greatest clearance prices ever offered.—Kutner Goldstein Co., Fresno, Cal.

Last Two Weeks of Our Mid-Winter Sale.—If you are wise and have not already profited by the mid-winter sale, you will not allow the last two weeks to slip without taking advantage of the many bargain opportunities which it offers. The sale has been all that we planned for it, and more, and we want these last two weeks to be marked by even greater selling than the first two. There's no reason why they should not be, and we believe they will. If you value your dollars—and who does not?—you can save many of them by supplying your furniture needs now. Maybe you have planned to buy later on, when house-cleaning time comes around, and you ask yourself, what's the difference as long as you buy? Well, the difference is right here, and mark it well: You can buy cheaper now than later on. Everything in the store has been reduced for the mid-winter sale; some things 20 per cent., oftener 25 per cent., and some lines 50 per cent. You can buy now and we deliver the goods when you are ready for them—that's the difference.—E. L. Peacock Co., Wilmington, Del.

Our mid-winter sale is for the benefit of all. Our January and February sale commences next Wednesday alike for the city and mail order customers. Our city customers we shall, of course, expect to see in our store, and for the benefit of our mail order customers we are issuing a special sale catalogue. Within a week it should be in the hands of every one who ever bought goods from us by mail, and we want to impress on them the advantage of ordering early. Many of the goods were bought specially for this sale at very special prices, and when they are gone we cannot get any more at anything like the same money. We will, therefore, be compelled to cancel orders. To order early, therefore ensures the greatest possible choice, and we want all who do not get a copy of our catalogue in the course of a week to write to us.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

The great white sale—most marvelous values anywhere. It is a very easy thing to use adjectives, but a careless thing to do if they are not more than backed up by the goods. The goods must be a little better than description in order that disappointment may not wait upon realization in such an event as this. The very best advertisement of the Abraham & Straus white sale has been the comment of the purchasers, who show their pleasure and their admiration without stint, calling attention to the fact particularly that the materials are excellent in every piece; that the workmanship shows care, every stitch speaking of that care for detail—every piece in fact is made just as if it were to be sold for the regular price. Worthy of Brooklyn's principal store is this sale and series of sales.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our greatest January white sale. The greatest January white sale in the history of this store will begin to-morrow, Wednesday morning, at 8:30 o'clock. The sale will embrace undermuslins, waists, embroideries, laces, linens, muslins, crash, lace curtains, sheets and pillow cases. We placed our orders for all goods in this white sale away back in the summer before the advance in the prices of raw cotton and cotton materials. Had we bought them at the present market quotations the prices on these white goods would be a great deal higher. With the prices on manufactured cottons advancing every day you can readily see that this great January white sale means even more than it has for years to those who care to save. Now is the time to lay in a supply of undermuslins, linens, and so on, for you can never buy them at these prices again.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

A stirring white sale. Our great annual white sale has grown to be an important movement of merchandise, the coming of which is looked forward to by hundreds of people. The rapid growth of this department compels increased buying, which means advantages in quality and price not otherwise possible. The garments in this sale are even better piece for piece than we have ever been able to offer before. Prices very low. Make comparisons and see for yourself.—H. Leh & Co., Allentown, Pa.

The grandest of all white sales begins to-morrow. When the store opens to-morrow morning you want to be among the first to get in. You've never seen anywhere in the South such a wonderful array of white goods, muslin underwear, laces and embroideries. Thousands of yards of the most beautiful snowy white goods. With the advent of the new year we offer new goods, new patterns, 1907 styles in white goods and in most beautiful gingham. The collection in new white madras, white Persian lawns, mercerized mulls, piques, nainsook, dimities, batistes, India linens, etc. All on special sale to-morrow at prices you never dreamed of before.—The James L. Tapp Co., Columbia, S. C.

Lingerie sale meets with a most cordial reception. Never has Rochester made such a showing of lingerie as is now in evidence here on second floor. It is a gathering of dainty undergarments worthy in every way of the reception which is being accorded it. From the least expensive piece to the richest of French creations every number has something particular to recommend it. In material, in fashioning, in making, every detail has had the closest and most careful scrutiny. What you may select in haste we have chosen with the utmost care. In spite of conditions which seemed to make the matching of values of former years an impossibility, these garments, price for price, will court comparison with the best you remember at previous sales here. This is not a small achievement.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Next Wednesday morning. Then the planning, the preparations and the efforts of months of ceaseless activity will have found expression in our great white festival which commences action. In starting this affair we had one object in view, that to serve your interests to the best of our ability. We make no rash promises, yet we can safely assure you of values, variety, quantity and grades equal in every respect to the advantages of our last great sale, which in the face of the highest and more stringent cotton and flax markets in years, is a pretty stiff assertion to back up. However, we are prepared to make good our claims. We want to state our position fairly, without boasting, misrepresentation or bluster. It being the first occasion of the kind in our new building, we are anxious to have the sales prove most successful. We have goods for the white festival that discount anything you will find at the average January white sales in the ordinary stores. There will be cheap goods and expensive goods, and all cheap in the sense that applies to merchandise which is here. Shape your plans that you may visit the sales on opening day, Wednesday.—John G. Myers Co., Albany, N. Y.

After a season of brisk business, larger than it has ever been with us, our stock contains many odd pieces and remnants. Though as good as was the first piece sold, an odd piece is not worth as much to us. We want to keep our stock uniform and neat. Besides, we are preparing to visit the markets in quest of our new stocks for spring, and for these reasons we shall make some very significant reductions all along the line. During this January sale the cuts will be all the way from ten to twenty-five per cent. If you've had in mind the purchase of household utilities later on, it would be well to buy now and save some money. We invite you to look into our offerings this January. No matter how cheaply we sell the goods, your credit is good. Buy what you want from us, and we will arrange the payments to suit your own convenience. Our open charge account system is easy, dignified, confidential. We do not ask you to give notes or mortgages.—People's Outfitting Co., Kalamazoo, Mich.

Time proves the great merit of the January sale. There's only one test we know of to prove the merit of any big movement such as this—the test of time. The first week's selling in this big sale has proven the intrinsic worth of the splendid values that are presented. In the graniteware sale, in the whiteware sale, in the sale of staples and in every department of this great store are values such as make January buying wise economy, and which will yield the fullest measure of satisfaction both from the liberal character of the savings as well as the superlative quality of the merchandise. Assortments are now at their full flood.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

This week will prove to be one of the greatest midsummer clearing sales ever held in Memphis. As our buyer has been off to market now for three weeks, and already new goods are coming in, we will try to clean up our odds and ends of our spring stock. This week you can buy almost anything you want for $1.00 down and a little each week or month. It would take a whole newspaper to tell you about our bargains this week.—Rhodes-Hoverty Furniture Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Special reduction sale on canned vegetables. Now that the rush of Christmas purchasing is over, we'll start another of our famous special reduction sales on canned vegetables. The importance of this sale will be understood as our past specials have so strongly demonstrated. We include our entire line of vegetables, except a few brands of asparagus. The quality is the finest on the market, all absolutely pure and will meet every requirement of the pure food law. You should take advantage of this big sale.—The Lathrop Co., Hartford, Conn.

Thousands of dollars' worth of desirable summer goods which the manufacturers found at the end of the season was tying up just so much of their working capital and valuable room, that should be devoted to the producing and storing of stock for the fall trade, was obliged to be moved at some price. For the past month our buyers have been accosted at every turn by representatives of mills and factories throughout the country, who have been grasping every opportunity of turning these surplus lots into cash. Cost has been almost of secondary consideration, and the inducements they offered us were so overwhelmingly strong that we've relieved them of several of their surplus lots at prices which enable us to make the most sensational merchandising achievement in the history of Waterbury.—Grieve, Bisset & Holland, Waterbury, Conn.

Our midsummer sale starts to-day. It seems scarcely necessary to print more than the mere announcement, followed by very brief descriptions and prices, for the memory of our last midsummer sale surely lingers in the minds of many thousands of our customers as an event that proved to be exceedingly profitable to them. We may add, however, that plans promising vastly greater selling than in last July have been made for this midsummer sale. And enough of the special items are here given to start the throngs coming early this morning.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Now is the time to buy wash goods because we are selling them at low prices. These sheer, dainty fabrics will add much to the beauty and comfort of Topeka women in hot summer months. We have a complete stock now—prices are unusually low—we know about this, we are not merely talking. We started a wash goods sale Monday morning that will end to-morrow night. We are determined to sell more wash goods in these three days than we ever did in the same length of time.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Topeka, Kansas.

The sale of the season. The manufacturing season for shirtwaists is over; the summer selling season has reached the climax; the wearing season stretches away indefinitely. The end may not come till late in November. But we're not going to wait for the end of the season to hold our big sale. We're going to have it right now. While the retail selling wave is at the crest; right at the beginning of the hot summer days when shirtwaists, and lots of them, are genuine necessities; when the groups will be eagerly looked over for styles which suit the chooser's fancy; when sales will be quickly made; when every sale will make a lasting friend and customer; long before the usual time for end-of-the-season waist sales. That's the time we've chosen for our sensational waist selling. Saturday the ready-to-wear section will be given over, almost entirely, to the display and sale of waists. They will be piled high on every counter, case and table. Hundreds upon hundreds of them. Every style, quality and kind known to shirtwaistdom will be found. Every price quoted herein represents the regular selling price of waists which are in stock this morning. The reductions which you obtain are apparent at a glance. There's no telling how long these bargains will last. Forewarned is forearmed. Be early!—Crosby Bros., Topeka, Kan.

The July clearing sale is getting thousands ready to go away on their vacations at an unprecedented saving. Tomorrow the showing of outing requisites will be particularly attractive both in price and quality. Don't miss it. In addition to all the new lots of merchandise, the clearing bargains of Thursday and Friday will continue.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

To-morrow we begin our annual July clearance sale. It will be a great sale. It offers values that have never before been equaled in this city. Prices have been reduced to figures that will clean up the entire stock quick. Let us remind you to come early for the best selections. Remember the many conveniences of our liberal credit system are at your service. It applies to everything we sell, every price we name. It gives you the same low price as cash, with the advantages of easy part payments, in whatever time you need to pay. We gladly arrange the terms to suit your requirements.—I. Davis, Buffalo, N. Y.

For the next three days of June selling we offer the largest array of bargains ever offered by any house in Houston. Our is an immense line, possibly the greatest collection of novelty weaves ever assembled under any roof in Texas. As to our prices or values we will say this: We are endeavoring to and are building up the largest dress goods business in this part of the state, and in doing this we have left no room for the other fellow. We fear no competition. We offer for sale the very cream of the season's best productions—and no store anywhere can afford to sell them for less than they are priced in this sale. Come—and see—and realize what these savings mean to you.—Mistrot-Munn Co., Houston, Texas.

Alive and awake. Come into the store to-morrow morning and note the bustle. Something of interest must be going on to bring so many people here on a July morning. What is it? First it is the fact that this store is alive and wide awake. July isn't synonymous with drowsiness at Loeser's. Things happen even in what is called the "dull" season because they are made to happen. The July clearance sales are some of those things. All over the store you find them—first rate goods offered at second rate prices so that we and the makers may have clear decks before the new season. Along with the good values goes good service—and promptness, cheerfulness and energy make it up. The store is wide awake every minute of the business days—which are 8:30 to 5 o'clock now.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Important notice. Every day will have its wonderful offers in summer apparel and other summer needs. We have many agreeable surprises in store. Do not miss a single day's announcement if you would profit by the unusual economies made possible by the energy and resourcefulness of Brooklyn's greatest store. If you are out of town or going out of town, use the mail order. If you do not get our daily advertisements, let us know your address while away and we will see that you do. This is more than a store. It is a great institution for Brooklynites, and we desire its benefits to reach them wherever they may be. If you want anything not advertised, send for it anyway and you will get it at the lowest price charged anywhere.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Watch for our annual midsummer white sale. Be prepared to attend the greatest bargain giving white sale ever before launched. Thursday is the day it begins and we are prepared to give you the rarest of bargains on reasonable white good and garments of all kinds. Undermuslins, waists, embroideries, cotton fabrics, laces, woollen materials, hosiery, white canvas oxfords—in fact, most everything "white" representing odds and ends of the first of the season selling, regular stock which we do not wish to carry any longer and special purchases bought at price concessions by us and offered to you on the same terms. Be prepared to attend a great bargain sale of "white" goods.—The Palace Department Store, Spokane, Wash.

The sole object of the July clearing sale is to effect a quick and positive clearing of all odd lots, broken lines, odds and ends, broken sizes, sample lines and the entire remainder of seasonable summer merchandise left from the liveliest June sale in the history of this store. The prices are such as to accomplish this result with celerity. They are marked as you would expect them to be only in the month of August. In waiting till then, you would lose the month to which these goods are best adapted. There is every advantage in attending the first clearing of the season. Surplus stocks will be added from time to time throughout the month, so that to-morrow and every day you will find a variety of clean, new merchandise at clearing prices in every department. These stocks are unusually large and attractive, owing to the lateness of the season.—The Simpson-Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

The store that has always set the standard. In every art there is some one so much more skilled than others as to set the standard—just so in the business world. In every city there is a concern that sets the pace. Crook-Record Co. have been the recognized mercantile leaders of Paris for years. This prestige is being maintained and broadened every day. The very fact that this concern has been in business over forty years, and each year showing a sure and steady growth, is proof positive that the house is solid from the foundation; that it has the elements to "make good." All this is simply prefatory to the one idea we wish to get before you: Crook-Record Co. is the house for satisfactory and economical shopping. Try our July Clearance Sale for special values Monday. It will prove a revelation.—Crook-Record Co., Paris, Texas.

SHOES—GENERAL

Shoes for the Minute.—No speciousness about these Wanamaker shoe bargains. They're all that they seem—sometimes more; for we're naturally modest about describing the merits of the merchandise.

So with these shoe-groups we exploit to-day. Shoes for "the good old summer time"—not wintry sorts—shoes you need this minute, man or boy, woman or girl, for city streets, seashore, or country. And brand new, in styles, leathers, and prices.—Wanamaker's, New York.

An overwhelming array of shoes!—A. E. Dinet & Co., Joliet, Ill.

There are shoes made to sell; low prices that are really dear on any terms. The term Solid, as applied to shoes, means that only leather is used throughout. It means that counters used to stiffen the uppers at the heels, that inner soles and the heels are solid leather, and not paper or leather composition. The shoes we sell are all solid leather.—Walther's Dept. Store, Bay City, Mich.

Shoes that fit your feet and won't pinch your pocket at Meehan & Regan's, St. Thomas, Ontario.

We cater to the trade that appreciate advanced styles in footwear.—M. & S. Schulein, Spokane, Wash.

Makers make us certain concessions—to popularize their wares; it's their only means of advertising. We figure with other makers weeks ahead and grasp every worthy lot that comes along. So that with our regular stock and with the special lots we have an assemblage of high-grade footwear that's hard to beat.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

For men and women. Shoe standards at Wanamaker's present unusual requirements for the making of $5 shoes. Starting with the superb Wanamaker Reliable Shoes for women, at $3 a pair, and the Wanamaker Special $3.90 Shoes for men—the latter being the full equal of $5 shoes sold in other stores—it requires skill and knowledge of the highest order to produce shoes worth $5, in comparison. And this is what we have most fully succeeded in doing in the superb shoes which the Wanamaker Shoe Store presents at this price. The men and women wishing footwear of the most correct and dressy character will appreciate Wanamaker $5 shoes.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Shoes for business, for semi-dress, for full dress, in all the leathers, in a range of prices and styles greater than ever previously shown, the kinds that "keep shape" till worn out.—Byck Bros. & Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Friday you pay $6.00 for a pair of Shoes. Saturday they are advertised at $3.50. In various modifications of the figures this is a thing that is happening every day, and you never can tell when it is going to happen to you. Figure on it a minute: One of two things is certain: Either you paid too much on Friday or your neighbor pays too little on Saturday. Small comfort to you in either case. The chances, however, are overwhelmingly in favor of the fact that the $3.50 price is just about right—that is, it represents the intrinsic value of the shoes, with the profit clipped down to the lowest reasonable figure. Below cost? Not much! Stores practically never do that and don't confess it when they do, although they claim it sometimes when they don't. Therefore, you paid two profits: one profit on your own pair, another on the pair that your neighbor bought at cost or a little more. And that's the whole machinery of the average "bargain sale" when it's a real one. You get all the good points of a bargain, with none of the usual objections to the bargain sale. No "odd-lots" or "slightly-damaged" or "broken-sizes" clauses in the Regal offer.—Regal Shoe Co., New York, N. Y.

You'll strike a mighty array of Summer footwear, an almost endless variety of new creations in colonials, oxfords and shoes at prices that are unapproachable.—The Rochester Shoe Company, Rochester, N. Y.

Well-Dressed Feet.—Your happiness, health and appearance depend greatly on your shoes. Our shoes are made to fit the feet. If you wear shoes bought here your feet will be comfortable and attractive.—Raven & MacDonald, St. Thomas, Ont.

Warm shoes, like everything else this store sells, have to be right, or we don't give them house room.—Weil & Arnold, Youngstown, O.

Shoes That Don't Give You the Blues.—Our shoes are so much superior to other lines shown in the city as comfortable fitters and swagger lookers that the man wearing them has a pleasing attractiveness that makes every one he meets his friend. All the different style lasts that are in vogue as well as all the leathers.—J. Will Gray & Bro., Salt Lake City, Utah.

This is a general cleanup sale of numerous lines of Shoes for men, women and children, and among the various lots are some of the most remarkable values we have ever offered. It is a noteworthy fact that these are not "bargain" shoes, such as are seen in large quantities in the periodical shoe sales elsewhere, seemingly made for the purpose. A few of the shoes in this sale are samples and one lot was bought much below value; all the others are taken from our own regular stock and reduced. This means that every shoe offered is a safe shoe to buy, and fully guaranteed by us as good value at the original price. It also means that sizes are somewhat broken; but, as there are many different styles, almost every customer should be able to find a pair that fits—and that without much searching.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Most of our friends and patrons know what we mean when we say shoe day—but that everybody may be fully acquainted with its significance, let us repeat the story. Shoe Day comes every Friday of the year. It is a day set apart for special offerings of good shoes at extra low prices. These low prices were made primarily to relieve the crowded condition of the shoe store on Saturday, and the people have so appreciated what we do for them, that Friday has become almost as big a day in the selling of shoes as Saturday. Tomorrow we will offer, in addition to the special lots previously advertised for our February shoe sale, these extra specials.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

Selling new smart Shoes for what they cost us—and less than that, too, in most cases—isn't our regular business. But for our purpose—to wind up our prosperity sale in grand good style—we've chopped down a lot more prices. We must get these shelves of ours clear—our spring goods are shipped. A few looks around the store will show three or four pairs that are just what you need to finish out winter and start on spring. Come and pick them out. This season's stock—at such prices as these; and every one fitted as it should be.—Fischer's, Trenton, N. J.

Look to Your Shoes!—Are they what they seem to be? Were they built to please the eye only? Will they give the service expected of them? Are the soles oak-tanned leather or a miserable apology? Are the shoes the best your money will buy? We plan our shoes, lay out the specifications, often buy the leather, so that we can stand back of every pair. They are solid from beginning to end—not like the window shoes, built for looks only, that manufacturers work so hard to get up nowadays.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Come share the savings with the other shoppers who will be here. Seasonable shoes at the lowest prices. If this shoe department did not exist thousands of people would be compelled to pay a fourth more for their footwear. As long as we can give these kind of bargains we are sure to be Kansas City's biggest and best shoe store.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Most shoe stores work hard to see how little they can get into their shoes and how much out of the customer. We make new customers right along by reversing the process.—W. O. Stone & Co., Cleveland, O.

The Southern type of beauty is represented by grace, poise and daintiness. Shapely feet should not be rendered clumsy by ungainly, ill-fitting shoes. Your feet can appear to no better advantage than when encased in a pair of our elegant-fitting shoes.—Zellner's, Memphis, Tenn.

Perfect feet are not obtained by wearing ill-fitting shoes. A perfect-fitting shoe does a double duty; it is always comfortable and it wears longer. Such are the qualities of the Loyal shoe.—The Loyal Shoe Store, Worcester, Mass.

New Fall Styles for Men and Women.—The new effects this season are most all brought out in the shoemaking. There are no freakish shapes or extreme edges to distract one's attention from the real qualities of a shoe; in fact, it is the quality that determines the styles, as the new custom effects cannot be produced by unskilled workmen with cheap materials. The general tone and character of the new style is most pleasing and the shoes dress the feet more attractively than for several seasons.—Wm. Eastwood & Son Co., Rochester,

This will be a season for good shoe-making. There are no extreme or unusual effects, so that extra quality in workmanship and materials will be more in demand. The new effects are along custom lines and require the most careful workmanship and best materials to produce the desired result.—Wm. Eastwood & Son Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Whether you want them to stand in or walk in, to dance in or talk in, we have them.—Hirsch Bros., St. Thomas, Ont.

You never got a stale or out-of-date style of a shoe in this store, did you? We clean up in earnest each season and start with new, fresh goods the next.—Dinet, Nachbour & Co., Joliet, Ill.

Watson's shoes need no breaking in. They are comfortable from the moment you put them on. Yet they look well as long as you wear them. The reason is, they're made to fit.—Geo. Watson & Co., Newark, N. J.

If we were giving away gold $$$ and you didn't know it, what good would that do you? None. That's why we use this newspaper, to let you know we're on earth and doing a shoe and hosiery business that ought to catch you.—The Haas Shoe and Hosiery Co., Spencer, Ia.

Everybody's Shoes are Here.—Every kind of shoe for everybody—men, women, children and the babies; for every business, every dress and every sport and pastime use. Whether you walk or ride, fish or hunt; or whether you like to be dressed up and kept so, we have shoes for all these uses and all these purposes, and our prices are very cheap.—Carlton Shoe Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Up-to-date, nobby, the swellest shoes the manufacturer makes—that's a Staub shoe.—C. M. Staub Shoe Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

They keep your feet cool and comfortable. That's what our shoes, designed expressly for summer wear, do. They are perfection in footwear for warm weather. Very stylish, too, as well as neat fitting and durable.—Frank Power, Montreal, Can.

It's a strong ankle that knows no turning. Low shoes strengthen the ankles as well as cool them.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

They keep your feet cool and comfortable. That's what our shoes designed expressly for summer wear do. They're perfection in footgear for warm weather. Very stylish, too, as well as neat fitting and durable.—James Maynard, Victoria.

The Sample Shoe Store sells strong, sound, serviceable shoes. Satisfaction sure. Special styles, sewed soles. Six months sure.—Schonberger & Pribula, West Chester, Pa.

The shoe is mightier than the sword in making conquests. The idea is worth turning over. A pretty shoe incasing a shapely foot completes the costume and is an indication of taste and refinement.—Yunker Bros., Des Moines, Ia.

You will recognize the goodness of these shoes at a glance. The styles are good and the qualities excellent. There will be a rush for them, so we advise early buying.—A. Hamburger & Sons, Los Angeles, Cal.

My! How comfortable! The $3.50 Regent is the most comfortable shoe ever put on the foot of man. There are no "ifs," "ands" or "buts" about this proposition. Besides, it's the swell and swagger shoe of the summer of 1902.—M. & S. Schulein, Spokane, Wash.

You Are Your Foot's Guardian.—If it grumbles or aches it is your fault. You hold the purse strings and can remedy the evil. According as you clothe your feet they may be contented or rebellious, ugly or beautiful. In proportion as they are contented, you are comfortable. Patrician offers the satisfactory solution—a comfortable foot in a handsome boot.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta.

A sextet of shoe specials. Two for men, two for women and two for children, accordingly shoes for the family and so priced that you can get three pairs for the usual cost of two. And they're all good, honest, new, stylish shoes, such as we're proud to proffer and such as you'll take pride in wearing.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Let the Punishment Fit the Crime.—We committed the crime of having an overstock of winter-weight shoes. Now we are getting punished for it in having to let them go at prices that make us pretty tired. But we need the money—so out they go.—Beaman's, Knoxville, Tenn.

Hardest months of the year to come—slushy and slippery February and March. Good, strong shoes may save a lot in doctor's bills. There are savings on the shoes, too—that is why they get valuable newspaper space. Stylish, serviceable—up to all the year-round standard of this store.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

You need the shoes, we want the money.—Marx Bros., Galveston, Texas, March 14, 1903.

Shoes with ambition. They aspire to be worn. They want to keep company with your feet.—J. N. Adam & Co, Buffalo, N. Y.

A merry whirlwind of shoe blessings.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Shoes! The thoughtful prepare for the future. The storms of winter are more than due, and will soon surely be upon us. Come to our store and get your footwear at prices that competition will not meet. All styles and kinds for both men and women, and to satisfy all tastes and preferences—all of the best material and highest workmanship. If this cold snap catches you with your feet close to the ground, let us set you right before the M.D. gets a chance at you.—The Nebraska, Kansas City, Mo.

Shoes! Shoes! Shoes! Shoes reign supreme in this store now. Everywhere you turn is piles of shoes—shoe signs—shoe ads—shoe clerks and shoe buyers! More of the latter than anything else. We've sold more shoes than anything else. We've sold more shoes during the past five days than we ever dreamed of selling within that space of time. While some of the lines are sold out entirely, there yet remains hundreds and hundreds of pairs of shoes of all kinds and in all sizes. Every pair is marked to sell at or below cost. Not within the range of our memory were such ridiculously low prices quoted on shoes that were really made from leather and made right!—Livingston's, Youngstown, O.

Smart looking shoes go out with a whirr; been doing it for the past few days on the wings of low prices. A very much cut price sometimes gives shoes a black eye. But these? Not much. They're the season's swell styles, but whose company here is decidedly unpleasant in winter time.—Beadle & Sherburne Co., Rochester.

Matthews' low prices for shoes are remarkable the year round. The best shoes any day for less money than anywhere else is always a fact here. But the sale that begins to-morrow will bear out the statement of a saving of a dollar and a half and more. All are perfect, well fitting and warranted, same as regular stock.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

You can waste money on shoes as quickly as on anything—perhaps more so, for what looks like leather often proves "a horse of another color." For this very reason we're overly particular about our shoes. Above all else, sound and solid leather must enter into the making of every pair. Sightliness, comfort and a perfect fit are other characteristics of our shoes.—Moreland's, Muncie, Ind.

Comfortable Shoes for Men, Women and Children.—Comfortable from the first minute you put them on. No "breaking in," because they have been carefully designed, carefully cut and carefully put together. Shoes of such character need only be placed in the hands of competent salesmen and sales-ladies to insure a perfect fit—we have them here.—Lewis, Ruddy, Davies & Murphy, Scranton, Pa.

The Crowds Are Coming and the Shoes Are Going.—Shoe buyers are irresistibly drawn to one great centre—Crocker's January Clearing Sale—in which thousands of pairs of the finest shoes for men, women, boys and children are being closed out at less than cost. It's a case where you make money—and we lose. Nobody can resist buying when such prices as these buy the swellest footwear of the season.—Crocker's, Washington, D. C.—Jan. 18, 1903.

Another famous Wanamaker shoe sale. The New York public is pretty familiar with the full meaning of this announcement. It means that shoes are selling away below their values. It means that the special-priced shoes are good. It means that the shoes are seasonable sorts. All these things go together in a shoe movement at Wanamaker's. That's why our shoe store was busy as a beehive all day yesterday. New, stylish, well-made shoes for men, women and children, at most decisive savings. Here is word of some new groups to-day.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

A forced smile is better than no smile—perhaps. But the wearer of our shoes smiles from pure delight. Put on a pair yourself—they'll be a "sure cure for the blues." You'll be pleased with the "snappy" style and elegant finish. The fit and freedom of foot motion will give you genuine satisfaction. And the comfort and durability will keep you smiling all the season through. The purse fitting prices, too, fix on the face of the buyer a "smile that won't come off."—H. Johnson, Altoona, Pa.

Behind every fact lies a reason. When there is a multitude of shoes trying to be sold, and one shoe far surpasses all others in volume of sales, there is a reason for it.—Gimbel Brothers, Milwaukee, Wis.

On Deck Again.—After the good enjoyed we are ready to fit all people with shoes.—R. Mills, Vancouver, B. C.

Here to-morrow, sturdy, sensible shoes with good, stout soles, broad, comfortable toes—shoes for play or dress, which will keep your feet warm, dry and comfortable.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Markdown Shoe Sales.—The season is here when the papers are full of attractively displayed announcements of markdown shoe sales. Some special articles of merchandise may be legitimately marked down, but shoes are different, unless there is something the matter with them. Did it ever occur to you that the prices of cotton cloth, black silk or leather, sugar, flour, tea and coffee, or in other words, staple goods, were never greatly reduced at any season of the year? Why? Because they are never marked up. Sorosis shoes are staples. They are not marked $5 when trade is good and $3.50 when trade is bad. They are $3.50 all the year round, which is a fair and reasonable price at the start.—Sorosis Shops, Boston, Mass., Feb. 5, 1903.

Patent kid wears as well as calf skin, yet looks as good as patent leather, having all the gloss of the latter. "Ideal" patent kid practically revolutionized the shoe business. The leather does not crack through, and being lusted over kid is as soft as it is possible to make any light shoe. Because of certain trade conditions the entire stock on hand of the manufacturer was purchased by a well-known concern and offered to us at such prices that the sale was quickly consummated.—Seigel Cooper Co., New York.

One may easily determine the value of an article by studying the character of its patrons. That the Burt shoe is known to most women of culture and universally worn by the smart set is indicative of its excellence, but additional and most convincing proof of its high favor is being furnished by the rapidly increasing demand.—Edwin C. Burt, New York, N. Y.

The average man with the average "pair of new shoes" is a thoroughly unhappy object. Don't be an average man! Buy Milford shoes—made to make you happy! Made to fit your feet! Made to wear like iron. Step in and take a look at our "In It" last, a new one. Oxfords and bals.—The Milford Shoe Co., New Haven, Conn.

Three complete summer lines in line, all fresh goods, made for us this season, lace and button, widths for narrow, medium and broad feet, made of pebbled goatskin. An exceptional opportunity to fit out the children with vacation and school shoes at modest prices—"too good to last" holds good in this instance.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

With Pilgrim shoes there must be no suspicion of the commonplace in style, fit or wear. They must meet the critical judgment of well-informed men and on merit alone win approval. The Pilgrims of past seasons have proved their pre-eminence. And the Pilgrims of now are splendidly qualified to establish a new mark for goodness in medium-cost foot-wear.—Jordan Marsh Co., Boston.

Nine times out of ten your feet tire and ache because of ill-fitting shoes. Put your feet in a refreshing "ache-proof" pair of Crossetts. They relax the feet and relieve the mind.—Lewis A. Crossett, North Abington, Mass.

Shoe values destroyed.—Ben Spears, Memphis, Tenn.

Our waterproof shoes are not a luxury—they are as necessary for the feet as food is for the body.—Jackson's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Our great mid-winter clearance sale of shoes is attracting thousands of men and women who appreciate this extraordinary money-saving opportunity, our usual semi-annual offering of "season-end" lines will be augmented by sweeping cuts in early spring shipments of sample lines. The more pairs you buy the more money saved. All new goods. No old rubbish.—S. B. Pooock, St. Thomas, Ont.

Clearance Sale of high-grade shoes for men and women. Broken and discontinued lines of men's and women's shoes.—People's Outfitting Co., Chicago, Ill.

Our shoe sale is the talk of the town. The way we are slaughtering goods is a surprise to everybody. Hundreds took advantage to supply themselves ahead. Some people thought it a clean-up sale, where the old shop-worn before-the-storm goods would be unloaded on them, but we soon convinced them it is a clean-out sale. Nothing in our immense stock is reserved. Now's the time, before styles and sizes are broken.—Marz Bros., Galveston, Texas.

Stop! Look! Listen! There is danger of your paying too much for Shoes if you buy without seeing our good, strong Shoes for little money.—Cameron & Arbaugh, Lansing, Mich.

Did you get a pair of our slaughtered price shoes? You don't know a good thing unless you got in on this. Lots of people have taken advantage of the price reductions, but we can still show almost unbroken lines. Come with big expectations.—Herald Shoe Co., Denison.

Footwear for All in Newest Styles.—Tan and black leathers. Everything that is new, of course. The prevailing vogue is always mirrored in our shoe showing. The stock is made up mostly of the more conservative styles; but we have plenty of novelties for people who want them.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Shoes.—The Best Sorts and Prices Very Small.—Come to Symons' for shoes. You'll find just the right kind here, the styles that will accentuate the graceful lines of your foot; that will bring to you untold comfort; that will surely wear a longer time than most shoes do. You will save on these shoes, too, about a third in most cases, sometimes more, sometimes less.—Symons', Altoona, Pa.

Don't Blow in Five!—At least without seeing our new three-fifty line. We call 'em Byck's $3.50 Shoes. They're better than the rest. Any style, all leathers, vicis or wax calf.—Byck Bros. & Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Dressy shoes for men and women. We show a large line of spring and summer shoe styles for men, women and children. All the latest shapes and shades. Every pair of shoes we offer is a splendid value; there's nothing inferior in our stock.—R. C. Black, Atlanta, Ga.

No geographical favoritism is displayed in this shoe store. Equally ample provision is made for Greenland's icy mountains and India's coral strand—or, to be more exact, New York City and Palm Beach. Shoes for all sorts of prices, but only one kind of quality—reliable.—Wanamaker, New York.

For whatever purpose it is designed, the Coward shoe answers every requirement with exactness. It keeps feet sound and healthy; it eases the pains caused by wrong shapes; it provides a fit for every malformation; and makes a grateful friend of every wearer. It is the perfected product of half a century of shoe building.—James S. Coward, New York, N. Y.

Women, men, children—every member of the family will profit by this quick unloading of shoes. This is not a sale of tiny proportions, but a great clearing out of all the seasonable shoes in stock. They are shoes that are just the weight and quality for this time of year, but are worthless for June or July. Knowing this we cut prices to cost, and often to half of cost, so as to rid ourselves of them and get them on your feet, where they will do the most good.—The Fourteenth Street Store, New York, N. Y.

Corns usually begin in the lasting room of a shoe factory. Lasts cost money, so most shoe factories run short-lasted. The shoes are on in the morning and off at night. Consequently the leather retains all its original stretch and shrink, and corns result. "Slater" shoes are left on the lasts long enough to take all the stretch and shrink forever out of the leather. So, if a "Slater Shoe" fits when it is tried on it will fit till worn out, and retain its shape.—S. P. Pockock, St. Thomas, Ont.

Never take chances when you don't have to—there are occasions enough when you must, but don't multiply them. That is what is called a "glittering generality," but the sentiment is sound about particularities, too—notably about shoes. You take no chances when you buy shoes of us except the chance of getting more for your money than you'd naturally expect—and that won't keep you worrying o' nights.—Strange & Skinner, Binghamton, N. Y.

There is in these shoes the highest possible class of workmanship—as you will appreciate as soon as they are on your feet. There is positive art in the last, which is exclusive with us and possesses the best points of the faddish shoe; is thoroughly up-to-date in every line, fits the foot snugly—neither gaping at the side nor rubbing blisters on the heel, producing a combination of comfort and style equal to that put into any shoe, we do not care what the price. It's the culmination of years of study and we are proud of it.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Read the descriptions of these wet-weather shoes. You will find that they are stylish shoes, that they are appropriate for street wear at all times, but especially while the sidewalks and crossings are wet.—A. Hamburger & Sons, Los Angeles, Cal.

We sell what is good and we ask you to buy our shoes because they are good. It isn't price that sells our shoes, for shoes can be made to sell at any price. It's goodness, merit and worth and value that sells them.—James Boyd, Denison.

Wet-weather shoes for women, girls and boys. From a health standpoint it doesn't pay to wear improper shoes during a wet spell. This shoe sale includes every sort, quality and shape for women and children. This shoe sale is so different from the ordinary shoe sale that from looking at the stock without asking prices you will think it a regular completely-sized assortment. It is seldom that you find a complete shoe stock offered at a sale. The one reason for the great success of our present shoe effort is due to the fact that the assortment includes every style of shoe that can be wanted, and all grades from the finest that can be made, down to the common rough-and-ready sorts.

Too many shoes spoil the feet. That's because they have wrong shape—they cause corns, bunions, ingrowing nails and flat arch. And that's why we produce certain special shoes—to cure the ills caused by other makes. Feet bred in the Coward shoe are perfect in shape and free from all ailments.—James S. Coward, New York, N. Y.

The former buyer did it—simply a mistake in judgment. We bought the biggest stock of tans ever put under one roof in Alabama—anticipating the exceptional run of tans that was everywhere predicted. We have sold a world of tans—but not enough. Too many tans in the house to carry over—so they have to go. It's your chance—an excellent one. We'd rather have the money in the bank than the shoes in the house—so they're yours for little money—about cost to us. The people of Montgomery and vicinity never had the chance like this to buy tan shoes. You've seen all sorts of discount sales—reduction sales and what not—but you've never seen shoes sold like we are going to sell these tans. Think a minute. Take the Hanan "Nob" and the Nettleton "Stub" for instance. You couldn't buy either of these two tans in any store in the world for love nor money for less than $5 a pair. Yet—what are we doing? Offering you your choice for $3.95. You can figure out in a minute what a great saving this means. Then—every pair in the house—all the tans—go at correspondingly low prices.—Bullock Shoe Company, Montgomery.

Ten years ago we would have said "no," but to-day we say most emphatically "yes." We are showing exclusive styles of strictly high-grade shoes shown in the twin cities. Every pair made by shoemakers that are artists in their particular line. None but the highest priced, carefully selected leathers used—Hyle's (imported) chrome patent calfskin, keystone glazed kidskin and the best dull-finished leathers. Every good shoe idea known is used in their construction and we have the shoes and expert salesmen that can fit your feet.—Golden Rule, St. Paul, Minn.

Selling new smart shoes for what they cost us, and less than that, too, in most cases; isn't our regular business. But for the next few days—to wind up our prosperity sale in grand good style—we have chopped down a lot more prices. We must get these shelves of ours clear—our spring goods are shipped. A few looks 'round the store will show you three or four pairs that are just what you need to finish out winter and start on spring. Come and pick them out. There are lots left—all this season's stock at such prices as you'll find below—many items but all at little prices.—Strange & Skinner, Binghamton, N. Y.

If you are willing to save a third or more on your shoe needs in the near future—come to us. We have marked every pair of men's, women's and children's winter-weight shoes in our stock at fractional prices of what they ordinarily bring in order that we may clean out quickly our present stock and have room for the summer goods already on the way to us. Just consider these offerings.—Cox Shoe Co., Birmingham.

Lots of people have prospered this week at our expense—we've wrapped up shoes faster than ever before. But there were such a lot of splendid, stylish shoes, here, that there are plenty left. If you have any desires in the direction of prosperity in the shoe line, now's the time to satisfy them. What is the sense of neglecting such a chance to get shoes for the rest of the winter and early spring at way-down prices,—a chance that is right here now. Every pair of shoes will be perfectly fitted, of course. Here are shoe bargains for you—wherever you are.—Millard, Cohoes.

Vanity shoes are those that look well, wear badly, and feel worse. Regals are the only shoes, at $3.50, that look so well (because shaped after world-famous custom models), wear so well (because built on genuine oak leather soles) and feel so well (because made of valvic ventilating calfskin) * * * Brilliant as silk, and tough as wire—coolest, cleanest and most sanitary of all summer leathers.—Regal Shoe Store, New York.

Remarkable on account of the unusual values given. Remarkable for the great attendance each day. Altogether, the most remarkable shoe sale in Philadelphia's history. Beginning with something like 3,000 pairs, the number has dwindled down to a few hundred. As a last stroke—a master stroke in shoe reductions—the remaining sizes will be closed out at a price that places before you the greatest shoe values of the season. Every shoe bears the stamp of quality, of superiority—"Sorois," a model of modern shoe making. At the price we now offer them, the entire lot could be disposed of to a well-known department store. We prefer to have them go at retail, knowing that each sale will make a new advocate for Sorois.—Sorois Shoe Co., Philadelphia.

Many prudent and thrifty people believe that a dollar saved is a dollar earned—this store's resources are ever exerted and employed in buying for cash "real footwear bargains" wherever they may be found in American shoe centers. This fact, together with low rentals, enables us to undersell all others.—Gunhouse Shoe Co., Newark.

We especially wish to impress you with the fact that these shoes are all clean, fresh, good, first-class, staple styles; there's not an out-of-date or shop-worn pair in the lot; every pair will be sold with our absolute guarantee of satisfaction; you take no risk in buying these sale shoes, no more than you would in buying regular goods, for, if after getting them home you are not perfectly satisfied bring them back at once in salable condition with duplicate purchase check for cheerful refund or credit.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City.

Spring! Spring! Excuse us, we just wanted to say to you that our new spring shoes are here. Footwear for everybody. We have high and low cut spring shoes that your feet would be proud to wear. No such shoes ever before honored this town with their presence. Step in just for a look.—J. N. Zurlinden, Kenton, Ohio.

An unusually busy day is Saturday, but we are used to busy days and plenty of extra people on hand to care for your needs; expert shoe fitters and perfect arrangement of goods is what we offer in our great sale. Facts and figures backed by the goods demonstrate to the reasoning mind the truth or our statement.—Hirschman's, Salt Lake City.

We simply are asking for your shoe trade—asking for it, because we believe we deserve it. We want to be your shoers, and we certainly will be, if you will come in for a look.—Watkins, Harlan & Evans, Columbus, Tenn.

The world is full of shoes, good bad and indifferent. Most shoe men put the least money into their shoes and get the most money out of their customers. We reverse this rule. We put the most money into our shoes and get the least money out of our customers.—Cam-meyer, New York.

Sew up that hole in your pocket. Don't buy the cheapest shoes you can find! Bring us the boy and a dollar and a half and let us show you "how."—Weil & Arnold, Youngstown, Ohio.

You need shoes and want good ones.—Johnson & Wibbur, Colorado Springs.

The Shoe for You.—The shoe that fits your foot—that's the shoe for you. Come to our shop, put it on and if it fits you, wear it. You won't try on many before you find the right one; but we will make a Christmas gift of any amount of patience, and you may try as many as you wish. We're here to please you.—V. C. Roblin & Co., Charlotte, Mich.

On the level is the way our shoes are made all through. Good honest material and honest workmanship are in every pair. They have correct style. We can fit you perfectly and you will find comfort and satisfaction in the shoes you buy here. We sell honest shoes at honest prices. A splendid shoe, our special, at $3.00 pair.—Frank Power, Montreal.

Stock Up With Shoes.—Gustav Aidt's shoes have made a record for themselves. We haven't been called upon to say anything in their favor—they've literally "sold themselves"—so good were the qualities and so rarely low the prices. If you haven't taken advantage of the offer you'll miss about your last chance—unless you come this time.—S. Kann Sons & Co., Baltimore, Md.

It is quite possible for a shoe to pay its debts and at the same time be quite disagreeable from start to finish. The Burt boot, on the contrary, goes beyond the debt limit. It feels old when it is new and looks new when it is old.—Nichols & Damon, New Bedford, Mass.

Don't think because you've worn shoes all your life that you can judge the quality at first glance or even after critical inspection. It takes a Greek scholar to read Greek and a shoe scholar to read shoes. Our shoe scholar says these shoes are the best.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

A bargain in quality instead of a bargain in price is what you get every time you buy a pair of shoes at Thielbars.—Thielbar's, Peoria, Ill.

Slater shoes are the foundation of good feeling. More than that they are the leaders of shoe fashion and for wear, they're not equaled.—Alley & Co., Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Our shoe emporium. The busy place of the Twin Cities. Always on the alert to furnish our trade with the best values at a small cost.—The New Store, Minneapolis, Minn.

There's an endless procession of shoes coming into this store. And a steady outgoing tramp, tramp, almost equaling in numbers the incoming volume. But not quite—there are stragglers. A few of this style, more of another, quite a lot of a third, less of some others, delay going. These stragglers, amounting in all to—thousands of pairs, all bargains, sometimes two pairs for the price of one, or three for the price of two, must be cleared out.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Thousands of people wished yesterday that they had a pair of good, heavy, staunch shoes. Be ready for the next emergency! For men, there are warm shoes and dry shoes assembled in an exclusive shop just inside the Market and Thirteenth Street door, where they may be fitted privately and quickly.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Do not miss the opportunity to save money presented in our "closing out" shoe sale. You can secure a year's supply of footwear for a few dollars—and shoes keep well. It is good for your feet to change your shoes frequently. Here and now is your chance to secure good footwear at a liberal saving.—Wasserman, Kaufman & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

If your shoes don't fit, don't blame your feet. The fault's in your shoes, no matter what the clerk may say. We find it's easier to make Regal shoes fit the foot than make the foot fit the shoe—easier on you, easier in the end for us—because it wins your confidence. Some one of these is a made-to-order fit for you.—Regal Shoe Co., New York.

Shoes are always wearing out and one of the biggest drains on the average purse, so keep your eye on the shoe bargains we offer, and see how much plumper your pocketbook will be for it. To-day we have marked down several lots of shoes for men, women and children, and can suit any one in the family with a good, strong, durable, stylish shoe.—Shifflenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Sorosis represents all that is best in shoe making. Makers of Sorosis have for years concentrated every effort in producing the best possible shoe to sell for a certain price. A scientific study is made of the human foot in all its forms and lasts designed to meet every demand. There's a style for every need, a shape for every foot.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

These are the remnants of the season's business; broken lots and styles that we expect to discontinue. This sale will be to your advantage as well as ours; you save money by buying, we make money by closing out broken lots even at a loss, for it enables us to keep our stocks fresh and start next fall with all new styles. This sale will commence Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.—Ehrlich's, Columbia, S. C.

Stupendous clearance sale of winter shoes. The past three days and nights found us as busy as bees culling from our immense stock all odd lots of men's shoes, which will be placed on sale this morning at a very low price—in many instances at less than half. In marking these shoes cost was not considered. The reason for this enormous cut is plain. We need the room for spring stock, which soon begins pouring in upon us, therefore, all broken lots must go. Original prices plainly marked.—A. S. Knowles D. G. Co., Montgomery.

Good Shoes to Save Money On.—It would be poor economy to pay less for shoes that would soon wear out or lose their shape. But when you can secure shoes that will exhibit no such failings—shoes made of good leathers, and substantially put together, for anywhere from a half a dollar to a dollar and a half less than their regular price, it is certainly worth while to buy. That is the sort of real economies that we offer you to-day.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Ever have trouble with your feet? Coward shoe wearers never do. That's because the "Coward" fits perfectly. No pinching or pain for the grown-ups—no deformities for growing feet. The Coward shoe starts the foot right and keeps it so.—The Coward Store, New York.

Shoe prices surrender, and it's a shelf-emptying surrender, for they were entrenched behind the very best values.—Fisher's, Trenton, N. J.

Shoes Underpriced.—Spring goods demand shelf room. Winter footwear, whose only fault is the space it occupies, is to go at less than the cost of leather.—Solomon's Pittsburg, Pa.

Better opportunity to purchase shoes made to sell at higher prices has never been offered in this section—a great many special purchases have been combined in the following lots. Every line represents a great saving—a price advantage that will be immediately apparent in the appearance and in the service of every pair of shoes the great bargain assortments include. There are great numbers of other bargains besides those here mentioned.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

To-day will be a memorable one in the shoe selling at our store. Every mother's son of those Whitaker-Brown shoes have been led to the slaughter, to clean them out, and make this day's sale a red letter one. The shoes, as you know, are up to snuff in shape and quality—and the way we will clean them out will be a caution. Whether you need shoes or not should not keep you from getting in on this sale—and early. Don't come bye and bye to buy. To-day is the last and only day for Whitaker-Brown shoes.—The Mammoth Shoe House, Los Angeles, Cal.

We can promise in the narrow widths to fit about every foot in a satisfying shape. But in the wider widths the sizes are much more broken. We suggest, however, to those needing shoes to let us try to fit them from this lot. We feel certain that all who need shoes now and those whose wants are far away will take advantage of these unusual shoe conditions.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

It is very conclusive evidence that shoes are being sold at prices that appeal to the public by the way the people purchase these bargains in lots of more than one pair. We have sold the average customer two and three and sometimes four pairs. Don't you be the one to miss this opportunity of getting extra good shoes at prices of inferior ones.—Becker's Shoe Store, Springfield.

To be sold regardless of former price, so as to get our stock reduced before spring. Remember, there are no damaged shoes left in our stock—they are all this season's styles—and the quotations here below are as truthful as Washington with his little hatchet.—Byck Bros. & Co., Louisville.

This sale, which in volume of value-giving, out-classing as it does all our previous sales, by the wide scope of magnetic inducements, is for the purpose of clearing our shelves. It's the clearing of all winter 1905 styles at prices in most instances almost at the actual cost of making. In no case is your saving any other than a decided one. To show promptitude (if in any possible need of shoes) in considering these offerings would mean that your economical intentions, often thought of, are only being put into actual practice when opportunity occurs.—J. Bacon & Sons, Louisville, Ky.

Because of slight imperfections, which necessitate our selling these W. L. Douglas shoes as "Factory Damaged," we are able to make a price of $1.50 for boys' sizes, and $1.89 and $2.39 for men's sizes. We control every pair that comes from the Douglas factories at Brockton, Massachusetts. Every new spring style in both high and low cut is represented; though they are mostly of patent Coltskin or of Russian Calf—the latter in tan. Shoe experts come in here, and are unable to detect the imperfections; but the Douglas principle necessitates that every pair with even the slightest blemish must come to us.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

As a rule it is a pretty good thing to follow the crowd. Just now the crowd is headed for bargains at the Eagle. And the crowd is right. The bargains in reasonable footwear is so far out of the ordinary that the economical buyer is not slow in taking advantage of the situation and is getting his shoes at prices that completely paralyze all possible competition. Here are the prices on some of the shoes that takes the breath of competition and tickles those in need of shoes.—Moreland, The Eagle Shoe Store, Muncie, Ind.

The finest production in footwear at the price. Unequaled in form, material and workmanship. Give them a trial and they will prove to you the truth of our assertion. As we guarantee the shoes, you run no risk in their purchase.—Cammeyer, New York.

The great let-go shoe sale. Every home has its house-cleaning days with results most pleasing. The next thirty days will be our stock cleaning days and we're going to clean our stock thoroughly. Shoes have got to go and prices the incentive.—Rochester Shoe Co., Galesburg, Ill.

Most complete and up-to-date shoe store in the state! We have struck the key note on footwear! This stock to-day is as near perfect as earthly things are made. We can suit any taste or fit any foot. This stock combines beauty of style, durability and comfort. Every shoe comes direct to us from the men who make them which insures the lowest prices. Every shoe is guaranteed to give satisfaction. They are the products of the most reliable manufacturers of the land and they stand behind any guarantee we give.—McAtee, Lyddam & Ray, Owensboro.

Prettiest spring shoes. The Guarantee wants to show you the "real styles" to-day.—The Guarantee, Muncie, Ind.

Shoes that fit the weather and your feet. That's the kind that receive our attention just now, strong and good.—Burger & Born, Kenton, Ohio.

The pretty parts of this shoe for women are too numerous to mention, and masterful shoemaking has made every part practical. The price is the economical part.—Nichols & Damon, New Bedford, Mass.

A mighty magnet attracting irresistibly. Undiminished interest attaches to every department of the great closing out shoe sale. Greater cuts than ever. Stylish goods at less than cost of manufacture.—Knox & Knox, Altoona, Pa.

The longer an ill-shaped shoe wears the worse you feel about it. You never tire of Regals, because Regals are right in the first place—and they stay right. Regal style stands unchallenged. It is the result of the taste and skill of the world's master designers, for every line and curve of their models is duplicated in Regals. Regal comfort is insured by Regal quarter sizes and by the careful hand-work that moulds each shoe over individual lasts for right and left. Regal oxfords are an absolute innovation in the shoe business. They are all built on specially designed oxford lasts—while other manufacturers' low shoes are built on the lasts made up for their high shoes. And it makes all the difference in the world. It makes your Regal oxfords fit snugly at heel and sides, and prevent every chance of the common oxford failing—chafing at the heel and gaping at the sides.—Regal Shoe Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

"Watch our windows." It will keep you posted on all the "new things in footwear."—Hesser & Co., Springfield.

Spring shoes at Heavenrich's. Beautiful and dainty, yet sensible, are the styles of footwear for this spring and summer. You will at least want to see them whether you are ready to buy or not.—Heavenrich, Saginaw, Mich.

The brightest, the snappiest spring shoes produced are here for your selection. We keep our fingers on the pulse of every dependable source of shoe supply in the country. We gather in the worthy styles as soon as produced, and back them up with a guarantee that means just what "sterling" means to silverware.—T. F. Hazen & Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

There is a way of being absolutely sure that the shoes you buy are worth at least as much as you pay for them. You may not be able to tell good leather from bad; you may not know the difference between a high grade shoe and an article of rougher make, and yet it is your own fault if you are imposed upon. You cannot be expected to detect those differences in material which make such a material difference, but you can at least take the precaution of making your purchases where misrepresentations are never for a moment tolerated.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton.

In order to produce the exact shape of any abnormal or deformed foot we take a plaster cast from the foot itself. This results in accurate fit at every point, no matter what the difficulty may be. A talk with our expert who has made this a study for a life time, will help you to solve your problem.—James S. Coward, New York, N. Y.

I'm easy. That's what Grover's shoes would say providing their togues could talk. Ease and grace tells (in part only) the story of Grover's shoes for tender feet.—Schneider Shoe Co., Bloomington, Ill.

Annual Shoe Sale. Biggest of all bargains. It's a sale at Fahey's. You know what that means. Shoes to fit everybody.—Fahey's, Bloomington, Ill.

Buy now if you want to save money. Thursday, Friday and Saturday shoes will almost walk out of the store on account of the extra reductions made on prices.—Johnson's, Altoona, Pa.

This store is always doing the unexpected. For instance, buying the famous Packard boot at a bargain price.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto.

Clear the shelves, that's the cry, clear the shoe shelves, that the why summer shoes must straightway fly—the fall is drawing nigh.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

No shoes but good shoes, no prices but cut prices.—Johnson & Wilbur, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Are you going away? If so, then you will want some Oxford ties. They are a necessity this time of year. For seashore, country or mountain. They are cool and comfortable. We have them for men and women, boys and girls.—Martin Shoe Co., Woonsocket.

Shoes that fit this weather and your feet—that's the kind that receive our attention just now. Strong and good shoes for the rigors of fall and winter, the kind that will keep your feet warm and dry. Rubbers, arctics and all such foot protection here at the lowest prices and in great style variety.—Edwin Aishberg, Hartford, Conn.

Faultless fitting footwear for fall.—Gusky's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Ill-fitting shoes cannot retain their shape and are very sure to distort the feet. . . . There is more than good leather in a good shoe.—Wm. Eastwood & Son Co., Rochester, N. Y.

There's one rule in this concern that will stand as long as the house stands: "When it's a question of a few cents more profit or a few cents worth more of good shoe—the shoe wins."—Schneider Shoe Company, Bloomington.

Everything in footwear, staples and novelties of the highest and medium grades for men, women and children will be found here in styles pleasing to the eye and conducive to comfort. There are many new things that are exclusive with us which must be seen to be appreciated. See display in show window.—R. C. Block, Atlanta, Ga.

It's a good story that will bear repetition. Our story of the great spring shoe sale will bear many repetitions, for it is a money-saving story, a story of reduced prices on $40,000 worth of good shoes. These prices only tell a little of the "story." Our windows tell part and the bargain tables tell the balance.—Hamilton & Baker, Los Angeles, Cal.

Feet duty. The adornment of the human form is one of the most serious problems of life. Every one should take pride in wearing fashionable and comfortable shoes. High quality insures long wear, good fitting, comfort, beauty of appearance, elation, and all this for low prices gives all buyers at our store a feeling of perfect satisfaction.—R. Mills, Vancouver, B. C.

Most complete and up-to-date shoe store in the State. We have struck the keynote on footwear.—McAtee, Lyddam & Ray, Owensboro, Ky.

If you aren't ready for low shoes yet, we've high shoes of calf, patent leather and enamel, made on the most approved lasts—some are waterproofed.—Rogers, Peet & Company, New York.

Shoes to fit every fancy! Shoes to fit every foot! Shoes to fit every purse! Are gathered together here in our shoe stock. They show what a determination will do to get together the best shoes from the best makers at the least possible cost.—Matthews Bros., Waco, Tex.

Stylish summer footwear. A pretty boot on a dainty foot gives a tinge of fashion to an elegant costume, that but few things can adequately convey. In the higher grades of footwear we don't believe that all local stores combined can show so great an assortment in as many new and stylish lasts.—Ham-burger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Just a little better in shape, a little finer in finish, a big difference in the quality of leather used and you have a word picture of our own brand of women's $3.00 shoes. We tell the manufacturer who makes them for us to put in every penny's worth of value he can for the price. He does it. It's for you to test them now and see if we're right and truthful.—Miller, Kenton, O.

Have you seen the swell styles in shoes which we are selling this week at cut prices, for men, women and children; also ladies' evening slippers. Large crowds have been attracted by the new styles included in this sale. A rare opportunity to secure a real bargain.—Rogers Shoe Co., Lexington, Ky.

Those who were among the first to attend it are returning again for more of the great bargains. Good, reliable, dependable footwear was never before sold at such ridiculously low prices, but in our effort to make this the greatest sale of its kind in the history of this city we have cut prices down to the cost of manufacture, some even lower. If you need footwear of any description you should not miss this great shoe sale. If you practice economy you should buy now for future needs, as the bargains being offered here in real high grade footwear may never again be equaled. Not a slightly reduced price on one or two items in stock but a deep cut on every pair of shoes, rubbers and slippers in our store. Don't fail to come.—Oppenheim & Levy, Saginaw, Mich.

The greatest shoe achievement of the year must be credited to the Fourteenth Street Store. It has accumulated 3,500 pairs of men's shoes, all celebrated for their excellent wearing and style qualities, and will sell them, beginning at 8.30 Saturday morning, at a price lower than was ever quoted before. There is no mistaking that this means the most remarkable shoe bargains for men ever advertised in this city, and how any man can miss them is beyond our comprehension.—The Fourteenth Street Store, New York City, N. Y.

Such as no other shoe house in this country ever has made or ever can make. Although thousands of pairs have already gone out, this great sale is still in full blast; and better and better values are offered as it progresses. Watch our ads and don't miss any of the bargains. You can come every day and find something new.—Boston Shoe Co., Louisville, Ky.

About every so often old Father Time comes in wearing pointed toe shoes. He's got 'em on now—going to wear 'em all next season—so some of the Milford shoes are a bit peaked at the toe, in anticipation. Plenty of broader toes, though, for the business' man and the comfort seeker.—The Milford Shoe Co., New Haven, Conn.

Everyday necessities decreed by fashion—good news from the model shoe department of Southern California. A stylishly shaped shoe gives a graceful appearance to a suit or costume. But comfort is as essential as style. Combine both desirable features and name a price lower than any competitor and you get the shoe business. The great sale of manufacturer's surplus stock shoes has been the feature of the shoe selling the past few weeks at this big store, and affords an excellent opportunity for you to get a season's supply of new and stylish footwear at really lower prices than other retail stores pay for them at wholesale.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Experience is the best teacher of shoe values, but we insure you against the possibility of dissatisfaction with our $3 special shoe. We guarantee confidently because we know how the shoe is made and what it is made of—we know what hundreds of its wearers say of it—that it is the best shoe for the money in America—and that is what it is.—Saks & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

It is with most people the same—they want their money to stretch over the most articles, they want the best possible values, they want the most for their money. And they are entitled to it—if they can get it. There is the proposition—if they can get it. Anderson is noted for the fine shoes he sells. A traveling man came into our store the other day. He lives in St. Louis.—It seems as though there must be plenty of shoes in St. Louis—but nevertheless he bought a pair of us, and said it was just the shoe he had been looking for all the season. He said that Anderson has the best stock he has seen.—W. A. Anderson & Co., Galesburg, Ill.

It's wisest in the beginning, and cheapest in the end, to provide yourself with shoes having good soles.—Dickey & Dehaas, Harvey, Ia.

It's quite a feat to make glad feet. Bring them here and you'll have ten happy toes and a pocketbook that never will squeal.—The Haas Shoe and Hosiery Co., Spencer, Ia.

A Beaten Path to Our Shoe Store. Emerson said: "If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, tho' he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door." So, too, in the stocking of our Shoe Store.

We have separated the good from the bad and picked the best from the good, for our stock and people who wear the shoes themselves, or buy them for others, have found it out.

The "beaten path" to our Shoe Store is ever widening.—Eiseman Bros., Atlanta, Ga.

A great fall in the price of shoes for Saturday's selling. Although the prices have dropped the qualities are not hurt, oh no. When you buy shoes here you can be sure of their endurance and of their style and quality, and when it comes to price, no other store can touch them. Here's a few samples of low prices.—Hudson Bay Stores, Vancouver.

Pay attention everybody—If any man or woman has any notion (and the necessary coin) of investing in a pair of good substantial dress shoes this week they are hereby advised that for such shoes the best—in fact the only store in town where you can save a dollar or so on every pair is Simons Shoes, Altoona, Pa.

Men's shoes, ladies' shoes. Hold! Read these facts—we want your business—you want our shoes. What is the secret of our success? We strive to give our customers honest value combined with snappy up-to-date styles.—Carl Reidesel, The Shoeman, Crookstown.

What's in a name? Well, it all depends on what the name is. If it's "Fry" on a shoe, it means as much as "Sterling" does on silver. It means the best. It means superior materials, high-class shoemaking, fine finish, correct shape, smart style—it means the best there is in footwear.—Fry Shoe Co., Omaha, Neb.

Manufacturer's high grade shoe sale. Fourth day of this tremendous merchandising triumph. Though you may not have present wants, do a little figuring ahead and secure a supply of footwear, not alone for yourself but for your entire family, for the shoes included in this sale are all new this season, are on best shape lasts, yet as they were purchased at such price concessions from the manufacturers our present retail prices are lower than we would pay for the same goods at wholesale in the regular way. There are thousands of pairs, scores of styles and the conditions of every pocketbook can be fully met.—Hamburger, Los Angeles, Cal.

Dressy people like our shoes.—J. C. Wynd & Co., Peoria, Ill.

All leathers for all weathers. The best shoe for the money.—Brown Shoe Co., Parkersburg, W. Va.

Shoes that make friends for us are the only kind we sell. We do not claim to be the only people selling good shoes, but we are the only store selling good shoes at such low prices.—B. B. Pyle & Co., Denison, Tex.

This event has startled New York. Never before have perfect shoes of such an exceptionally well-known make been sold at so low a price. It puts all other shoe events, here and everywhere, in the shade.—Adams' Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

Our new "XXX" Shoe is so correctly sized as to be trim fitting, but easy. The foot's delicate organization is never deformed wearing this shoe—toes, sides, instep have freedom and comfort.—Hackett, Carhart & Co., New York.

It is a shoe problem. To successfully combine three essentials—ease, elegance, economy. Our stock represents the modern solution of the problem. Ease is assured by careful lasting; elegance, by artistic modeling and workmanship, economy by a price that allows of the very best at a fair cost, and no more.—Morris & Anderson, Monmouth, Ill.

You need the shoes, we want the money.—Marx Bros., Galveston, Texas.

Shoes! Shoes! Shoes! We have them in every style you can imagine, to fit small as well as large feet. Made in all kinds of leathers, and the prices we have put on them is the smallest part about them.—Frank Rosenbaum, York, Pa.

You'll want summer shoes two months yet. Maybe you wear light shoes all year round. But we want to do the selling in a jiffy—a good part of it to-day. We've cut prices ruthlessly—you profit proportionately, if you wish another pair or two of these excellent shoes.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Gigantic sacrificing will go on this week at Dan Cohen's. Come early and have your selections of the greatest bargains ever offered in footwear. Our clearance sale of summer footwear has served to cut down our immense stock of shoes, oxfords and sandals, but has left us an abundance of odds and ends. These we are going to sacrifice, regardless of cost. They must go at any old price—bring whatever they will, we are going to clean up. Monday starts real house cleaning, so come with baskets for your grand bargains.—Dan Cohen, Springfield, Ohio.

We will not give you a shoe that will make it necessary to fit your feet to the shoes. Our many years of experience in fitting feet enables us to know at a glance the shape of last your foot requires.—Christenson's Shoe Store, Ogden, Utah.

The feet are more sensitive in hot weather than in cool. It is not so much the kind of shoes that you wear that makes them either comfortable or uncomfortable, but it is the way they fit. Shoe fitting to-day is a science and at Thielbar's you will find the science perfectly mastered.—Thielbar's, Peoria, Ill.

A shoe should always fit closely around the instep, so as to make it impossible for the foot to slip forward and crowd the toes. The ball of the foot and the toes should have plenty of room and the instep should be grasped as if by a gloved hand. Our shoes are anatomically correct, being constructed to the exact outline of the human foot.—Flavell & Swartz, Great Falls, Mont.

This has been a lively week in the Shoe Store, because of these extraordinary autumn offerings. Just when people had to buy shoes for the whole family we gave them a chance to secure liberal savings on the necessary purchases—little wonder that we have been as busy as bees every day.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

A great help during warm weather is a comfortable shoe—and we can give you the maximum of comfort and value in footwear at minimum of cost. Our line of shoes include the leading makes, many shapes, all widths and a variety of styles. Give you perfect fit in finest and medium grades at distinctly low prices. Every pair warranted as to material and workmanship.—McLean-Bunnell Shoe Company, Bloomington, Ill.

On the tree you'll be glad to find one or two pairs of the plainly better sort of shoes that we always have for sale. They are triumphs of the shoemaker's art.—Strange & Skinner, Binghamton.

Our customers await this sale, for they know when we advertise to give special prices we do just what we advertise. Our customers are the winners at our sales. We do this because we wish to clean up our stock and be able to show men fresh shoes each season. There is no possible chance of anything being left over in summer footwear, for we make the price low enough so that all can afford to buy. We are not selling old stock, but every pair made this season. You need shoes at all times. Think of the saving, and buy for yourself an extra pair. You can afford it at these prices. Three months of summer yet to come; plenty of time to wear out another pair.—Hesser & Co., Springfield.

Exceptional Values in Stylish Footwear.—It is not necessary for us to constantly reiterate that we have the largest shoe department in Southern California—but it is always a pleasure to us to tell you of the values we can give for your money, for we do secure some of the very best bargains to be found in the wholesale markets and at the saving effect can often sell shoes at retail at less than other stores pay for them at wholesale.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

A stupendous scoop in shoes.—C. C. C., Anaconda, Mont.

Shoe Saving.—The shoe man offers his regular Saturday bargain grist. It is interesting always—more so now than usual—to-morrow there is a strong factor urging him—you need not know it except prices have weakened by a quarter on certain lots.—The Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Boot Snaps.—For men, women, and children. Money-saving chances in footwear for early fall wear. Qualities this store guarantees to be safe and reliable; styles that will gain your favor at first sight. Prices take effect at eight o'clock on Saturday morning.—The T. Eaton Co., Ltd., Toronto, Can.

Do you ever realize how deceptive generalities are? How easy it is to write an ad that will give the impression that prices are away down when in reality they are away up? We always make it a point to tell you exactly the kind of shoes to expect, they are always seasonable, always serviceable, always good with a name and a reputation behind them.—J. S. Henderson, Parrsboro, N. S.

We've seen shoes that had a very smart appearance when first worn. But how about a few weeks later? Instep supports had wrinkled, linings were creased, and saturated with leather dye from perspiration. Now we wish to ask you a plain, simple question. Do you think our shoe business would continue to increase if we sold this kind? No. Then, as we have said before, "Why our shoes?" Because we utilize every effort and means we know of to secure the best shoes at the prevailing popular prices.—Samter Brothers, Scranton, Pa.

Shoes. "There have been doings" in our big shoe department the past couple of weeks. The arrival of our new Sorosis Shoes for women, with a wealth of exclusive style in every line, has been greeted by hosts of buyers. We have the latest fads and fancies in men's shoes, and we handle children's feet better than anyone else in Galesburg.—The Big Store, Galesburg, St. John's Co.

We stick ours to our last; you'd better stick to us.—Palmer Shoe Co., Bangor.

Let these items send your feet fleeing to this store to-morrow to be shod—remembering, always, that Olds, Wortman & King are purveyors of good shoes only.—Olds, Wortman & King, Portland, Ore.

You can't always find shelter from troubles, but if they are shoe troubles there is a haven of refuge for you. It's called the Fit-Easy shoe and it does not belie its name. Selection is easy—all styles. Wearing is easy—perfect fit. Price is easy—three-fifty.—Strange & Skinner, Binghamton, N. Y.

A pair of perfect feet. That's what comes from wearing properly fitted shoes, such as you get here. You don't have to have corns and bunions. Our salesmen can fit you with snug looking shoes that feel six weeks old.—Strange & Skinner, Binghamton, N. Y.

Each changing season finds an answering note in the Portia shoe. Dainty, beautiful, serviceable shoes for every purpose, every occasion and every foot. Whatever the season's wear—whether the heavy, mannish boot of midwinter or the exquisite ties of midsummer—all alike have the rare perfection of fit, style and finish. We know we can fit you—fit you exactly. Why destroy the harmony of a handsome toilette with ill-fitting, ill-looking shoes—shoes, maybe, that hurt your feet and are a year behind the times—when a pair of Portias will complete the picture.—M. F. Thompson, Binghamton.

No other footwear will defy dampness so effectively as our famous box calf "foot form" boots. Thoroughly well made of best quality box calf, fitted with full sheet cork sole and our famous inner sole. Dampness and even water can't penetrate to the foot.—Edmonston's, Washington, D. C.

The best you can get is not the highest priced. This fact will be made plain to you if you will drop in and have a "shoe-talk" with us.—Burns Shoe Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

Our store policy forbids—absolutely—the carrying over of a solitary pair of shoes from one season into another. The coming of fall must find bright, new footwear in every department, and in order to accomplish this end we offer you a choice of the noblest and most dependable shoes in Washington at exactly fifty cents on the dollar.—R. Berberick's, Washington, D. C.

We still continue to sell shoes at little profit. It is the one thing that keeps our shoe department busy. The wearers of shoes cannot help but recognize the fact that we are giving more wear for the money than anyone else in Portland. We are selling shoes on the principle of to-day, not of twenty years ago. Modern merchandising means modern profits—that's small profits and quick action.—Roberts Bros., Portland, Ore.

Here is the best shoe news that has been told since our spring distribution of the same grades of samples. Twice a year we get them—the finest sample lines from the best makers, at a great saving. The autumn samples will be placed on sale this morning.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

A notable achievement in mid-summer shoe selling—a great and altogether unusual bargain occasion in which all Newark will hasten to participate. Our unlimited capacity placed us in a position to absorb the entire surplus lines of three large makers—a tremendous quantity, aggregating over 15,000 pairs of women's, children's and men's shoes and oxfords and representing this season's newest and most desirable styles.—Bamberger's, Newark, N. J.

We've been extremely fortunate in purchasing shoes at prices enabling us to sell them far below their established values, but at no time have we succeeded so well as in this instance.—The 14th Street Store, New York.

Any shoes can be made to look as good as "Hahn's," because it's easy to cover up inferior leathers and workmanship with high polish and flashy style. However, good-wearing leather comes high and "Hahn's" shoes actually are best in wear and fit, simply because smaller dealers cannot afford to put in the same grade of materials that our enormous buying-power enables us to use.—Wm. Hahn & Co.'s, Washington.

We don't think you can get better footwear in this country at the same low price you would pay here. We don't buy poor shoes from the factory and therefore can't sell poor shoes. Some of our new fall and winter footwear is here now and ready for your inspection—come in any time—we are always glad to show our big values, no difference whether you want to buy or not.—Burger & Born, Kenton, Ohio.

Shoes for the Family.—Autumn has come and the cool weather is here. It's now time to change one's shoes. Our store is the place where the best, the newest and the latest boots and shoes are to be found, and at the least prices. The freshest designs, the up to the day and hour creations. Heavy and light walking shoes for men and women, shoes for the boys and girls—shoes for the entire family. Beauty, comfort, service and small cost all combined. For whatever purpose you may require boots or shoes we have them and at the very lowest prices.—D. E. Williams & Co., Youngstown, Ohio.

Shoes that make walking a pleasure; for there is a helping influence that makes a man feel like the winged foot Mercury when his feet are encased in the right sort of footwear.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you were a shoe man we'd ask you to come in just to see if you ever knew of a better Oxford selling at the price. We never have, and we're always on the watch to see what the other fellow does.—Bloomingtondale's, New York.

Hard to fit feet are easy for us to fit.—The Hub, Marion, Ind.

This'll be a harvest-week for all Shoe-Wearers who'll visit our stores. A crop of the swellest, best-fitting and longest-wearing new fall shoes you've ever seen, is the result of the seeds we sowed many months ago—and our prices will show that we've used our immense buying facilities to your best economical advantage.—Wm. Hahn & Co., Washington, D. C.

Any task is easy if you only know how to perform it. It's as easy for you to present an attractive foot as a homely one. All that's necessary is the Patrician shoe. We grant the statement may sound strong, but the proof is right in our store. Come in and try on a pair—buy or not, as you like,—so as to demonstrate our claims. For the mission of the Patrician is to supply deficiencies and to correct shortcomings; to make every foot appear to the best possible advantage, yet without the least sacrifice of ease, comfort or service.—R. Berberich's Sons, Washington, D. C.

In workmanship, in leathers, in style these shoes are as fine as can be made. They're the very perfection of shoemaking. Even the custom bootmaker who charges double and more can't put better materials into his production, for the best materials obtainable are used in these. He can't give you better workmanship, for the skill employed in turning out these shoes is of the highest order, and in the factory where they are made the facilities for doing good work are far greater than the custom bootmaker possesses.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

Twice a year, in January and July, we make a clean sweep of all shoes which are not to be carried over—all broken lines and discontinued numbers. This is done that our stocks may be absolutely clean at the beginning of the new season. At this time prices are made so low that an absolute clearance is assured. All the shoes offered are good, clean, fresh stock and up to date styles. The qualities are such as we always demand in Crescent merchandise. Read the story of the savings to be made.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

You will find the list below a particularly interesting one, showing the extraordinary savings now possible in this up-to-date shoe section, in which all footwear is guaranteed satisfactory. Our desire to make quick clearance of many lots now on hand brings you bargains that never had an equal.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia.

Oh! how my feet hurt me! is a common remark and one which you have made many a time. Do you know you can overcome this? Do you know your feet can be fitted with a shoe so perfect and suitable it will make work easy?—Glass Block Shoe Store, Marion.

From a manufacturer who makes many of our $3 shoes. He made these in dull times from materials equally as good as he puts in our $3 shoes, but without quite so much finish.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

More than ever these now famous shoes deserve a royal name. In their graceful contour and faultless finish they leave little to be desired; in the freshness of the late models they satisfy the demand for novelty; in the varied shapes and carefully graded range of sizes there is absolutely no excuse for a misfit.—L. S. Ayers & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Experience is the best teacher of shoe values, but we insure you against the possibility of dissatisfaction with our $3 special shoe. We guarantee confidently because we know how the shoe is made and what it is made of—we know what hundreds of its wearers say of it—that it is the best shoe for the money in America—and that is what it is.—Saks & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

During the past ten days we have sold thousands of pairs of shoes, oxfords and slippers, and every one who purchased seemed highly pleased with the values obtained. We sold lots of shoes, but not all; there are plenty more of the same kind at the following low prices. Better come early to-day, as there is always a first choice.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

When all of the resources and facilities of a large and well equipped factory are used in the production of one certain grade of shoe, it stands to reason that such a shoe must have distinctive merits beyond the possibilities of the usual run of shoes.—The Milford Shoe Co., Hartford, Conn.

Strong and durable, yet pliable, stylish, perfect fitting and comfortable. No more satisfactory shoe at any price. Get convinced that there is no use paying more, and save a dollar or two. The Hanover maker-to-wearer one-profit system accounts for the remarkable value at low price.—Hanover Shoe Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Our store is full of the choicest productions of the shoemaker's art. In every department and on every side fashion's latest fads in fine footwear await you.—Swope Shoe Co., St. Louis.

These Tan Shoes.—With the arrival of the warm weather, the whole country has become suffused with a yellow glow. It's Tan Shoes. It's becoming hard, too, to find a store with a full line of styles and sizes to choose from. No trouble here—we are well supplied; the styles are good, qualities can't be improved on.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Shoes for Mercury's Very Own Weather.—According to all accounts, Mercury's shoes were light and airy—had wings on 'em. Here are Shoes patterned after their mythological ancestors—for weather in which Mercury's very prominent. Try 'em, and see how light they are on your own feet.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Shoes for Summer Wear.—Exactly right footwear in summer means comfort to feet, body and mind to a great degree. Kaufmann shoes are made by the country's best manufacturers. Every good point that will meet the exigencies of summer wear has been studied and incorporated. After excellence comes—low price—here's abundant proof of the latter.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Shoes For All.—The advantage to those who avail themselves of the manifold opportunities of our Shoe Department are clear, decided and distinct—and worth while. A statement we can prove.—Went after the shoe business with an unswerving determination to do it better. Larger varieties—more attractive styles—and better values. We ask a critical test with these points in mind.—Biggs & Buhl, Allegheny, Pa.

The shoes are so made that they will not slip at the heel; whether laced or not, and with no seams to rip, bind or hurt the feet. They give better protection for every-day wear than any seam shoe made and while they cost a trifle more than the ordinary shoe, to those who appreciate value in comfort as well as service, they are the cheapest shoe to buy. There are many imitations now on the market. But if you want the best fitting, best wearing and most comfortable shoe ever placed on the market, see that this cut and the name of A. L. Richardson seamless are stamped on sole.—Western Shoe Co., Janesville, Wis.

We can save you a little money at least—maybe a good deal. We can give you shoes a little better than those made for regular selling. You can pay very low prices at Wanamaker's, but you can't get poor shoes, no matter how little you pay. You can get the best shoes that are made, and pay only a fair price for them.—Wanamaker, New York.

A Shoe Sale of Importance.—Choose from complete lines. Rarely it is that you are asked to come to a shoe sale that offers all sizes in most of the lines. This backward season sale is remarkable in features like this, and this shoe sale is the most important that has been held in a long time.—L. S. Plaut, Newark, N. J.

Have you ever worn our $5.00 custom-made boots? We are receiving very flattering reports about them right along. Their style, comfort and good wearing qualities please everyone who wears them.—Schuler Bros., New Bedford.

Black shoes in huge quantities at extremely little prices. This is a result of several New England manufacturers neglecting to count on the tremendous popularity of tan shoes, and so, being overstocked, they sought a market, and we were on hand to scoop them up. Such sensational price concessions marked this purchase that we are enabled to stir up a big commotion in the shoe business. Superiority of materials utilized in the manufacture, skill evidenced in the workmanship, and the high regard for new styles, with an unalterable determination to provide comfort as well, stand out in this great assortment of shoes as par excellence in every respect.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York.

Thousands of persons who have bought shoes at these July sales know what remarkable values they have secured. We have only to tell them that these wonderful offerings are repeated in this latest sale. Fine new summer and vacation shoes for everybody; unmatched and unmatchable bargains.—Cammeyer, New York.

What the pneumatic tire is to the bicycle the cushion sole is to footwear. This is the invention of Dr. Foster Banks, and consists of a cushion of live wool, specially prepared, so as to give the greatest amount of elasticity and resiliency. This makes it an ideal buffer to absorb all concussion, and makes walking easy, enjoyable, like stepping on velvet, and gives an elastic rebound for the beginning of each new step.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

Wild fire modestly expresses the rapidity with which those $3, $3.50 and $4 shoes, in sizes 31-2, 41-2 and 5 are being consumed. Ordinary house slippers would cost as much, and we offer shoes suitable for any occasion at, per pair, $1.48.—Hudson's, Cleveland, O.

Don't wait until Friday, or Saturday morning to buy the shoes you need for the rest of the summer. Come to-day, get the errand off your mind, and the shoes into your closet.—Wanamaker, New York.

Go-away Shoes.—Best thing about good shoes is that you buy them for a special occasion, and use them for a long time afterward. You can do that with these shoes and save money on the go-off. And you get style and comfort along with the economy and durability. Wise investment, isn't it?—Wanamaker, New York.

There are a good many weeks yet until Winter shoes are wanted, and you will probably get tired trying to make the old shoes do. There is little economy in the effort when such shoes as these can be bought for these little prices.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

If you have ever bought shoes at the "Famous" you know what our shoes are. You know that they are the right kind and that they are made to fit the feet.—Famous Shoe Store, San Bernardino.

A shoe that not only affords all ordinary protection, but that keeps the foot warm and dry on cold and stormy days. Trim in fit, easy in use and durable in wear, it embodies usefulness in a degree never equaled.—James S. Coward, New York.

A pair of Milford Tan Viscalized Storm Shoes will keep you at peace with the world in the wettest of the wet and the coldest of the cold weather that's coming; 12 and 14 inches in height. If you buy a pair you'll thank us for calling your attention to them.—Milford Shoe Co., Hartford, Conn.

Yesterday's snow brought out the defects in everybody's shoes. Today thousands of people have made up their minds to get new shoes that will keep out the snow and wet, as soon as they can arrange to go to the shoe store. There are a good many reasons why this trip should be made to Wanamaker's. First, because you are sure of getting better shoes than you will find in nine places out of ten. Second, because you will save an average of one dollar a pair on the price that will need to be paid anywhere else you may go.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Why add to the danger of walking city streets? Why risk wet feet when dry feet cost no more? No good reason, so long as we sell "Dry Foot" shoes and guarantee them. A stylish waterproof walking shoe.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York, N. Y.

This is "between seasons" for shoes. Let us take your measure and build your lasts while the last master has the time. Our low quarters hug the heel and do not slip. If you want foot comfort during the summer months, let us build you a pair of Alco shoes.—Atlanta Leather Company, Custom Shoe Builders, Atlanta, Ga.

We grant that you appreciate the absolute necessity of thoroughly waterproof footwear to defy the weather of the several months of cold, slushy, rainy weather ahead. At Rich's you find footwear especially made for such wear—shoes for men, women, boys and girls, which can be worn without rubbers without a fear of the feet becoming even damp. Such footwear, having the grace and individuality that Rich's has, isn't to be found elsewhere, and while it is quite easy enough to buy heavy shoes, you will find that they lack those points of fashion which careful dressers desire.—B. Rich's Sons, Washington, D. C.

Notes About Shoes.—A man's shoes, as well as a woman's, are a keynote to character, and often misleading as to position in life. A slovenly shoe mars a man or woman's appearance, no matter how well dressed otherwise he or she may be. It is like the rough material showing through the veneer to have dirty, wrinkled and shabby shoes showing beneath handsome clothes. Never try to wear a shoe that does not fit when you put it on—it will be out of shape long before it is halfway comfortable. Never let your shoes get hard and dry. Do not dry a wet shoe until you have rubbed it well with a flannel cloth and then with vaseline. Wash them once a week with a wet cloth and oil over night to keep in proper condition. If you cannot buy several pairs at once of our best shoes, watch our special announcements and you will find opportunities to buy excellent shoes for little—and you should have at least two pairs, as one should never be worn more than a day at a time. Let them rest out a day to get the wrinkles out—on a tree, if you have one.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

We've offered strong savings in thoroughly dependable shoes before, but we honestly do not believe we have yet offered such a value as this—we thoroughly realize that this is a strong statement, but we depend implicitly on your confidence in this store.—The May Co., St. Louis, Mo.

We have never failed to keep faith with the shoe buyers of Portland. We have never advertised a shoe unless we really had the shoes to sell. We have never advertised simply to get the people in the department, regardless of being able to fit the feet. We have every size and width, and can fit the most critical shoe purchaser. This Friday is no exception. We can fit any normal foot in any of our Friday's bargain shoes.—Roberts Bros., Portland.

Shoes You Ought to Buy.—Here are shoe offerings that will quickly inveigle you into buying. They are the kind that you frequently read about but seldom come in contact with. Every pair is worthful to the highest degree, stylish and serviceable. Every pair sold means the making of a new customer or the more firmly cementing the friendship of the old.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

A "full understanding" of what's best in material and manufacture enables us to offer in Lambert's shoes, at $3.95, more durability, style and comfort than has ever been obtainable in shoes retailed for less than six dollars. Our shoes require no "breaking in"—they fit properly, their lasts are made by the foremost shoe designers and the leathers are selected with great regard for fine appearance and durability. All shapes and leathers—six dollar values.—Lambert, New Haven, Conn.

Summer is the time for comfortable shoes, and this is the place for them. We specialize in summer footwear. We know how light it ought to be, and yet how durable and supporting, for long tramps and rocky climbs. We know how cool it ought to be, and yet how protective. We know how modish it should be, and how becoming. And we know how to combine these things in shoemaking.—John Wanamaker, New York.

The character in a Fischer shoe is not a happening. We know what it is to be before the shoe is made. We have it put there. It's put there to our order, in our way, and we won't have a shoe unless it is there, either. The difference between ours and a maker's ordinary stock shoes is the difference between lack of style and the finest expression of style. It counts in appearance, as well as in the wear and is in our shoes at all prices.—Fischer's, Trenton, N. J.

We say your shoes because we know we have the shoes that will please you in every detail. Our shoes are the product of the best shoe factories in the country. The most careful buyer will find perfect satisfaction in our splendid stock of new shoes.—Comfort Shoe Store, Lebanon, Pa.

With the shoe bargains that are slipping away at Woods'. The sale we are carrying on is a genuine price opportunity. We want to sell these shoes and close the business. Whether you really need a pair of shoes today or not, this is a time to buy a pair—you will need them soon. Then why not buy them now, shoes do not become stale—the pair you are wearing will last so much longer if you have another pair, and your feet will be far more comfortable with a change.—G. F. Woods, San Bernardino.

Crawford shoes. And still the new shoes come—this time the Crawfords, one of the many world's famous products for which we have the exclusive sale in Pueblo. Needless to say, we couldn't keep piling in the new unless the early arrivals marched out to make room. It's this constant quick-step march that keeps our great store in the lead with all the newest and choicest of the up-to-the-minute styles. The blucher and the button are the popular shoes of the season. We have them in all styles, all leathers and all prices.—Bergerman's, Pueblo, Col.

Inspection proof. Every single shoe that goes through the great "Queen Quality" factory must pass through the hands of no fewer than six different inspectors. A premium is paid for every imperfection detected. No shoe with any imperfection, however slight, is allowed to bear the "Queen Quality" stamp. It must be rejected and sold as damaged. Five expert shoemakers superintend the inspection squad and coach the foremen and workmen to keep every shoe up to the "Queen Quality" standard. As an extra precaution, before packing they get three more inspections—from the inspection squad, the foreman and the packer. Yet this is only indicative of the methods that make the sales of "Queen Quality" shoes much the largest in the world. Let us show you the new styles at $3, $3.50 and $4.—Specialty Shoe Co., New Bedford.

Do you need a pair of shoes? If you want a pair that combine style, elegance, individuality with the best leather and excellent workmanship, why not try ours? You will be satisfied with your selection.—Heavenrich Shoe Co., Saginaw, Mich.

Proof of what high and consistently sustained standards can accomplish is made evident in every one of the beautiful La France shoe creations shown at this store. In not one pair has endurance or any other desirable quality been sacrificed. The La France is as good as it looks. And you can always be sure that beneath its dependable upper is a firm and honest sole.—Simon Shoe Co., Mobile, Ala.

In "Dorothy Dodd" shoes there is not only a correct fit for every foot, but also the correct style for every taste and occasion. You instantly notice a great difference when you put on a pair of "Dorothy Dodds." And if you care for style with comfort you will appreciate the new "Dorothy Dodd" styles we now have ready. They mean to your foot, just what a title means—they confer distinction. We want you to see these new fashions. Make your choice now while assortments are complete.—Linehan Bros., Newark, O.

You can be sure that the beautiful, distinctive, made-to-order appearance of the La France shoe obtainable at this store is more than "skin deep." It's La France never-lowered standards which guarantee you the use of only the highest quality and skill in every inside as well as outside detail of the La France shoe.—The White Shoe Co., Waterbury, Conn.

The money spent to secure honest materials for Crossett shoes shows in actual service. Best leathers—finest trimmings—most careful cobbling. Here is strength combined with slipper-like ease and custom bootmaker's style.—Lewis A. Crossett, Atlanta, Ga.

What will make you a more comfortable low shoe for early spring use than a pair of our gun-metal oxfords? Soft, will not scuff up, can be polished bright or kept dull, and will keep your feet in good healthy condition.—Boldrick & Swan, Denison, Tex.

Ankles cold? Better have spats with your low shoes—black, Oxford and tans; $1, $1.25, $2.50—or high shoes. The "Pedestrian" is the walking shoe we copied after the best all round last of an exclusive bootmaker.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

Every line and graceful curve of the feminine foot have been accurately followed by the men who designed the lasts upon which the dainty "Parququette" shoe is moulded. The result is a decidedly comfortable shoe that fits from the first without "breaking-in." And not only has the "Parququette" comfort, but style, elegance, refinement and exclusiveness as well. In fact, almost every day some lady customer speaks out in praise of the smartness and grace embodied in the various models on exhibition in the shoe department. Then, as to wearing qualities, there is no other shoe at any price that will give longer or more satisfactory service. And this is a well-known fact, which has been demonstrated absolutely, during the one year since the "Parququette" shoe was first introduced to our customers. The "Parququette" is made in a great many styles in the various leathers which will be worn during the coming season.—Z. Paquet, Quebec, Can.

One of the most striking of the spring tendencies in footwear fashions is the revival of the short-vamp, old-time fashion, with modern improvements. The short vamp makes the shoe look better on the foot than off. Its value for making the foot appear small and dainty has long been recognized—especially by theatrical people it has earned the name "stage lasts." It is especially desirable for women possessing plump, high-arched, short-toed feet. The spring line of foot mould shoes includes this style in all leathers for men and women.—Siebert Bros., Springfield.

Better footwear. In these days of frenzied advertising any old style is represented as the latest out, up-to-date, etc., and so wise people are becoming more and more careful in selecting their shoe store. Our ever increasing trade shows that well-dressed people look to this store as the style and center and authority in all that pertains to footwear. The name "Meyers" on a shoe is a guarantee of quality, and Meyers' endorsement of a style is absolutely unquestioned.—Jas. Meyers & Sons, Salem.

We ordered our russets so early and ordered so many that many dealers were surprised at us. Later, when russets were in great demand and makers couldn't supply them, New York dealers offered us more than we paid if we would turn our orders over to them. The benefit of our foresight goes to keep Fischer service the superior one that it is. Note it in the russets.—Fischer's, Trenton, N. J.

A great Saturday sale of good shoes. Some of the best values yet offered, even better than the sales of the past few weeks, which have resulted in such enormous business for this department. Better see to your shoe buying now, before the extra Christmas expenses are upon you. See that yourself and your family are well shod and so prevent sickness and save doctors' bills. You will also save about one-third of the price if you buy now.—Kemp & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

Quality counts. It is the quality of footwear that makes it either low or high in price, and the quality of the footwear sold in this store is the standard quality for this part of the State. Our prices are the set prices of all shoe stores, but at the same prices we sell better quality. Just now we have an immense stock of spring and summer goods that will please your feet and that will be easy on your purse.—Thielbar's, Peoria, Ill.

Christmas in the shoe store. Have you made the acquaintance of the shoe store in new quarters? Very well if you have, for you will likely need its aid in carrying out some of your Christmas plans. If you do not know it in present surroundings, let us suggest an introduction through these sensible gift suggestions. Shoe store has everything in Christmas footwear for all ages from baby to grandfather.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

There is a Dorothy Dodd shoe made for every kind of service and for every foot—whether for wet weather or dry; for street wear or dress—it is possible to get a Dorothy Dodd shoe exactly suited to the need and exactly fitted to the foot. So great is the variety that it is equivalent to having your shoes custom made, only at $3.00 to $4.00 the pair, instead of three times that cost. We particularly request those not already familiar with the real advantages of wearing these superb shoes to inspect our new styles. Not the least obligation incurred by so doing.—Bray, The Shoe Man, Denison, Tex.

An amazing shoe sale. Sterling bargains for Saturday and Monday. Bargains in shoes that are simply wonderful. A tremendous event for money saving. The low prices are astonishing, surprising and striking. Consider, cogitate and reflect—then come quick—it means such a big saving of dollars that you cannot afford to miss it. Prices that tempt and values that you can appreciate. A sensational bargain in men's fine shoes.—Guest & Cox, Winnipeg, Can.

Wintry days bring the need of stouter shoes. But stouter shoes will not mean clumsy shoes nor less handsome shoes if you but buy Queen Quality. Don't make the mistake of thinking that all such shoes are alike and that any pair will do. You want the best, and the best will cost you no more than the commonplace if you see that they bear the stamp Queen Quality.—The Gamble Desmond Co., New Haven, Conn.

The Fischer display of footwear is exceptionally fine. Selling fast, too. Many have learned that shoes make as good gifts as anything else. The Fischer stock takes in the good sorts only, made after our own ideas, and there is here a great assortment for the youngest and the oldest, and every other member of the family—all with that shoe betterness which has made Fischer's headquarters for good goods.—Fischer's, Trenton, N. J.

Has been the most phenomenal ever held in the city, because the values have been the best and the assortment the largest. There are thousands of pairs yet from which to choose at this price; are made of the choicest leathers and come in lace or button styles; also fine dress Oxfords in all leathers and styles; then there are Corinne, Gibson and fancy strap slippers suitable for wear on any occasion.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

What Sterling is to silver, what Bessemer is to steel, the name Staub is to shoes. It is the identification mark of shoes of matchless quality and exclusive style. It stands as an assurance, to you, that every penny you spend for shoes at Staub's will be well spent. Staub's is a family shoe store, a homelike place where every member of the family can buy shoes in comfort—in confidence. It doesn't matter how little or how much you pay at Staub's, you always receive that honest value, that careful attention which always has and always will characterize the Staub store. Get a pair of Staub shoe trees—a sensible investment—they keep your shoes in proper shape.—$1.00.—C. M. Staub Shoe Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Shoes. Why it pays. Don't need a pair of shoes just now? Well, we've made prices so low that it will be worth your while seeing them. A pair of these laid aside for future use would mean a saving of about one-half regular prices, and in many lines more.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

SHOES—MEN'S SHOES

It's "Victor" Time. Time to buy a pair of these swell new fall models we are showing in this famous three-fifty shoe for men. The reason these shoes are better than the shoes ordinarily sold at this price is that we pay more for them. We do everything but make these shoes—select the leathers ourselves, and they are made as we dictate. The only way in which they differ from the ordinary five dollar shoe is in the price. They are always $3.50.—Lazarus, Columbus, O.

The longer an ill-shaped shoe wears the worse you feel about it. You never tire of Regals, because Regals are right in the first place—and they stay right. Regal style stands unchallenged. It is the result of the taste and skill of the world's master designers, for every line and curve of their models is duplicated in Regals. Regal comfort is insured by Regal quarter sizes and by the careful handwork that moulds each shoe over individual lasts for right and left.—Regal Store, New York, N. Y.

Our shoes for men hold the lead in quality and beauty of design. We have the tidiest, nattiest, most wearable line of shoes to be found. Any man can please himself in footwear here. Ease, elegance and perfection of fit are strong points in our favor. Shapely shoes, stunning styles for men, women and children. We invite inspection of our new spring goods. All the new leathers, all the new styles.—James Lawrence & Son, Hartford, Conn.

Shoes for dress, shoes for business and for all occasions, of correct and shapely styles of the best leathers, carefully made by the best makers. That's what we have for you, gentlemen, in footwear—if they were not just so, rest assured we wouldn't say so.—Knott & Awtry Co., Atlanta, Ga.

It is an undeniable fact that a man is better satisfied with a selection in shoes on which he has plenty of time to decide. Right now, just before the spring rush, is a good time for you to interview one of our clerks. They've got time and so have you, and between you there ought to be no trouble in picking out the shoe that pleases you most. Our experience in shoe buying is at your disposal. You will please us in making use of it at your earliest convenience.—Bullock Shoe Co., Montgomery, Ala.

300 men will get Oxford ties and shoes worth $2.75 and $3.00 for a small fraction of these prices. Those men who really are pleased to dress their feet stylishly and at the same time economically will be here tomorrow to get their share of these rare bargains. These prices are made possible through a reliable maker who took the loss rather than retain the goods.—The 14th St. Store, New York.

So that our models may be ever abreast with the hour, we have made it a practice to anticipate the advent of a new season by a clearance sale of our shoes for men. From our regular stock we have selected a series of high shoes and Oxfords of the finest patent coltskin and tan Russia Calf and Vici Kid in a diversified variety of models.—Saks & Co., New York.

Although $3.50 shoes are as plentiful as birds in the air, in unlikeness they are wonderful. Some are worth $3.50, some of them are worth just about $2.75. "Our Kind" are worth more than they cost. Any man can prove that to himself by using his eyes and by asking men who wear them.—Strange & Skinner, Binghamton, N. Y.

We are fitting all sorts of men's feet these days and we've been looking for yours ever since we opened our stock of men's spring and summer shoes.—Moreland's, Muncie, Ind.

Men in every walk of life, in all professions and trades, the gentleman of leisure and the workingman—all wear W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes because they're the best in the world.—W. L. Douglas, New York, N. Y.

The man who knows and admires good workmanship, honest leather and smartish styles in men's shoes likes this store.—Kennedy Shoe Store, Milwaukee.

Shoes for Men.—We are proud of our Shoe Department, and many men are learning that we give complete satisfaction in fitting shoes. We carry just two lines—"Walkover" and Hanan—either one of which we guarantee fully in every particular.—Graves, Cow & Co., Lexington, Ky.

A pretty good way to find out if a man has a good head is to look at his feet. If he wears Walkover's you may be sure that man has a good head, and an excellent understanding.—V. C. Robling & Co., Charlotte, Mich.

Are We In It?—Well, I should smile. We have been in it all the while, and every man that wears the Elite Shoe is in it, too. And while they are new it's worth your while to buy a pair and be in style.—The Sorosis Shoe Co., Hartford, Conn.

Men want very little said about the shoes they buy—they want to see them and judge for themselves. We leave the value of these shoes entirely to you, therefore, but simply call your attention to the general appearance, make and fit of these Oxfords we offer at $1.98 and inform you that at the last sale we sold an enormous quantity to discriminating men. They are of patent coltskin and black velour calf, with Goodyear welted soles—shapely last—well made for hard use, but handsome appearing shoes.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Florsheim Shoe, with Kushen Sole, will give immediate relief to men with tired, tender feet. It makes the hardest pavement as soft as the green earth. It rests the feet. For nervous people there never was a finer shoe constructed. Absolutely no jar on the nervous system when walking. Perfect ease, comfort.—Raven & MacDonald, St. Thomas, Ont.

The Nettleton shoe. Incomparably the most artistic and highest grade oxford for men on the market. They are the result of the best shoemaking thought obtainable, applied to the best mechanical process, and worked out in leathers as excellent as the world's tanneries afford. They fit when others fail. All the leathers in dress and business styles. We have them and if you don't get the best it is your fault.—J. W. Madden, Denison, Texas.

University oxfords for men. Here's the greatest line of men's low shoes at a low price that ever saw the light of day. For beauty and newness of styles, high grade leathers and careful, skillful workmanship and finish, these oxfords have no equals on the market. Black-and-tan leathers, many lasts and styles at one price. $3.50.—White & Davie, Pueblo, Colo.

Men's low shoes are reduced now! "Never put off till to-morrow what you can do to-day"—especially when to-morrow your size may be gone.—Stemmler Bros. Shoe Store, Memphis.

Attention, National Guardsmen!—Have you purchased your tan shoes to wear at camp? We are selling this popular shoe to your friends at a brisk rate—the smart military men tell us that tans are the proper shoe to wear with the tan puttee leggins. A shoe just right for active service.—The W. G. Simmons Corporation, Hartford.

Low shoes give your ankles a holiday every day. Perhaps russet's a bit cooler—it's easier to care for anyhow.—Rogers, Peet & Co., New York.

Solid Shoes for Shop Wear.—We pay more attention to the shape and fit of our men's working shoes than is usually accorded to footwear of this kind. We believe that the man who is obliged to be on his feet all day long is entitled to as much comfort as possible, and our working shoes are all designed with that idea.—Lavenson's, Sacramento, Cal.

Men's Summer Shoes.—The man who doesn't get his feet into a pair of low shoes, doesn't appreciate the full comfort of summer dress. If you would be well and comfortable in winter the old injunction is to keep your feet warm. It may just as well be added, if you would be cool and comfortable in summer keep your feet cool.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

A shoe Sermon Text: "Our $3.50 Shoes."

Firstly—You'll not be arrested, sir, for paying $5 or $6 for a pair of our shoes. You can keep right on doing so as long as you like—but try a pair of our "Bostonian" shoes that we sell for $3.50. Secondly—Every new style is here. Every good leather is here—every late toe-shape, every size. Our shoes will please you and keep you pleased. Lastly—If all the men in town knew as much about our shoes as we do, we would sell all the men in town their winter shoes.—Moreland's, Muncie, Ind.

As a business shoe—a shoe for everyday wear, gun metal calf offers many advantages. Neat in appearance, takes a splendid polish, comfortable, and should give excellent wear. We guarantee ours to. And it's safe to say we're showing the largest, most up-to-date and stylish oxfords for men in the city. Our "Special" line at $4 includes several gun metal calf oxfords; one in particular—a swell blucher cut, is destined to become the most popular shoe in town.—William Coe Bell Co., Hartford, Conn.

SHOES—WOMEN'S SHOES

If you have a pretty foot and ankle, wear a shoe that does them justice. If you haven't, wear a shoe that makes them look as if the pretty foot and ankle were yours. Regal shoes for women emphasize the pretty foot, add grace and shapeliness to any foot. Regal shoes fit all over, not in spots. They fit around the ankle as they fit around the foot, and fit both with the smoothness of a stocking and the firmness of a glove. The fit of the ankle is for something more than looks. That graceful "custom-made" curve at the back holds the shoe firmly but gently in place. No up-and-down slide—heel hurting and pace-impairing—to the Regal shoe.—Regal Shoe Co., New York.

Women purchasing Portia shoes know they are getting the latest style of footwear—that their taste cannot be questioned. They may live a thousand miles from New York but their shoes will be identical with those of the stylishly gowned women of Fifth Avenue. It fits the feet well, it looks well, and it wears well.—Lee Hall, Marion, Ind.

It is an entirely different construction from the ordinary shoe. It is fitted to the foot, not at the toe and heel, but around the instep. It gives free play to the ball of the foot, yet the foot cannot slip forward in the shoe, being firmly held at the waist or arch of the instep. In appearance it is most artistic. It has more than style—it has distinction. It is made of an extra grade of light strong leather, with great wearing qualities.—J. E. Boldrick, Denison, Texas.

All shiny leathers in lace, blucher or button, single or double sole, Cuban and military heel, all widths B to EE, and every size from 2½ to 8. You will want to join the throng and get your share of this correct footwear, for street or for dress. You'll find them right in style, and satisfactory fit and wearing qualities.—Jonas Long, Scranton, Pa.

Shoes, the dependable Kind. The best makes and the best styles for women at prices half and less than regular charges. This January sale of shoes, which starts Wednesday, offers absolutely the biggest bargains we have ever placed before you. Just when new shoes are most acceptable comes this remarkable offer. Most of the lots are small, so the wise buyer will be early.—Root's, Terre Haute, Ind.

The woman who puts her feet in a pair of shoes purchased here will have a reason to feel proud because they are particularly stylish and handsomely made. If you desire a graceful, easy, good-wearing shoe, at a moderate price, ask to see our $1.50 and $2 shoes.—Adam Dick Estate, Doylestown, Pa.

Foot beauty. It is the shoe that produces the beauty, not the foot. If a woman's shoes look well her feet will look well, but the handsome foot counts for nothing in an unshapely shoe. That's the advantage in buying your shoes here as you have a choice of so many styles, shapes and sizes that it is just like ordering your shoes custom made. You get shoes that look just right and hold their shape a long time.—Rich Bros., Saginaw, Mich.

A distinguishing beauty and individuality characterizes women's shoes when made of gun metal leather. Also more durable and stronger than any other dress leather. We have featured these this season, therefore we do not hesitate to assert our supremacy—in largeness of assortment and lowness of price.—H. A. Haas & Son, Allentown, Pa.

Women's summer footwear. Oxfords, ties and pumps are the styles in footwear a woman delights to wear. Why shouldn't she? There's no foot covering that looks so handsome or affords her so much comfort as her summer shoes. All styles of our low cut shoes and ties are correctly formed and they work in perfect harmony with the foot. There's no cramping of the toes, chafing at the heel or gaping at the side. Come see the season's best.—Heavy Lemon, Mansfield, Ohio.

A useful gift. Style is one of the most indefinable yet important of feminine attributes. Give a woman perfect beauty and that beauty can yet be exalted by the title of "stylish." When in addition to other virtues of "Dorothy Dodd" shoes women everywhere speak of their "smart style," we feel it expresses the utmost praise. But other features also have contributed to the truly wonderful success of "Dorothy Dodd" Shoes.—The Plymouth Clothing Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Those shapely new style oxfords which all the world of fashion has embraced with one accord—the dressiest sort of a shoe, particularly adapted to wear with outing dresses and shirt waist suits.—Simpson, Crawford & Co., New York.

Women's $3.00 shoes. It's easy enough to say, "We'll sell the best $3 woman's shoe made," but it is not so easy to back up the assertion. We are satisfied that we can prove to you that we have the best, and hundreds of women who are wearing our $3 shoes will verify the statement when we say that we sell the best $3 women's shoe made. The leather is all selected stock—the shoemaking perfect—the styles up to the moment and we carry a full line of sizes and widths, and can fit any foot.—Drexel Shoe Co., Omaha, Neb.

Shoes. The stock of women's high shoes must be diminished without delay now, so the oxfords may have all the store space they need. We've created two specials that should make busy selling for the balance of this week, as they are the best bargains ever offered in high grade footwear. Women's $3.50 shoes—in all good leathers, including patent colt and ideal kid—lace and button—to go now for $2.65. Women's $5 shoes—several leading lines.—Edmonson, Washington, D. C.

The only shoe that fits when all others fail is "Queen Quality." It fits because it is made in an infinite variety of original styles to suit all shapes of feet and all occasions. "Queen Quality" originates its own styles. If you want to be ahead on the fashions wear "Queen Quality." If you want twice as many chances in selection try "Queen Quality."—Armbuster's, Columbus, O.

Somebody simply ought to buy her a Millard "Gladiator" shoe. It's one sure thing that her feet will look a hundred per cent. better than any other child's on the whole block.—Millard, Troy.

The faultless fitting shoe for women. It fits the foot in every spot—designed for women of artistic taste, style, character and foot-comfort combined.—Holbrook's, Columbus, Ohio.

Satisfaction—fit—reputation—style—a transfusion of excellencies—each the better for the other—you find all of them in "Queen Quality" shoes. They "fit where others fail."—Bayer's, Binghamton, N. Y.

No knight or fair ladye should leave San Francisco without including Sorosis shoes in the wardrobe. It's reassuring to know that wherever one goes one can find great stores where Sorosis shoes may be obtained, mail may be forwarded, and Americans are always welcome. If for any reason new selections are desired, Sorosis shoes obtained in San Francisco may be exchanged in any of our large establishments in the Eastern or European cities. The Sorosis shoe parlor will remain open evenings for the reception of visiting Knights and their families. No goods will be sold and our guests will find this a very pleasant headquarters while waiting for the parade and other functions.—Sorosis Shoe Parlor, San Francisco, Cal.

The Sorosis patent kid, blucher cut, low shoe is one of the smartest spring walking models. It has the high Cuban heel and is cut very high over the instep in front and to the ankle at the back, which design is most pleasing in appearance and prevents slipping at the heel, occasionally an uncomfortable defect in low shoes.—James McCreery & Co., New York, N. Y.

Have you noticed the new features in the style of women's shoes for fall? The summer gave us a hint of it, but the fall styles are noticeable for the one new characteristic, viz., true feminine daintiness. Women can be just as comfortable in a dainty shoe as in a big clumsy one and we are showing some of the prettiest shoes ever manufactured.—Richard Storch, Memphis.

The handsomest styles from the leading factories await your critical inspection. The new drop narrowish toe effects, full extension edges, with pointed shanks, Cuban and French heels, turn or welt soles, in all the new and fashionable leathers. In fact, any style or kind you desire at the prices you want to pay, button or lace.—Byck Bros. & Co., Atlanta, Ga.

The superior excellence of this foot wear has been and is being proved time and time again. These shoes justify the highest praise we can give them. They fit, feel comfortable, are the best styles, look well, wear well and give to every woman who purchases a pair that satisfaction which accompanies money well expended.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dress boots and boots for walking; both kinds are included in this remarkably nice offering of women's fine American-made footwear. The styles are entirely new and the weights are suitable for fall wear.—W. A. Murray & Co., Toronto, Can.

Nothing can be finer than these beautiful bench-made shoes for women. They bear every earmark of the finest custom shoes, the only difference being that, instead of waiting for them, you can come in and be fitted immediately, and they are in reality custom made shoes, made for us by hand by the mature and skillful shoe-makers who are not very plentiful nowadays. There is no finer leather than is used in these shoes. And nobody has learned how to do any better work.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

An experiment. If you fasten to each foot a light stick of wood weighing one and one-half ounces, you will be surprised to find out how tired you will be at the end of the day. Three ounces is a trifling weight, but the total of your lifting amounts to tons before night. The effect becomes tiresome; the drag is continual; the final result is exhaustion. Now this explains the fatigue that so many women suffer without knowing its exact cause. They do not realize that on their feet they carry about all day a needless three ounces of leather. If you weigh a pair of "Dorothy Dodd" shoes you will find that they are three ounces lighter than any other $3 shoe for women. The better leather saves weight, saves fatigue and increases service.—Oviatt Shoe Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Our attitude toward all merchandise demands its disposition within the season for which it was designed. Certain lines require drastic measures to insure the immediate result. Shoes are among them. To effect an absolute clearance, we have subjected the standard, all-the-year-round prices of our high-grade shoes for women to extreme reductions. The series promises all sizes, though not in every style.—Saks & Co., New York.

Look in our window tomorrow—see the new styles of the exquisite "Dorothy Dodd" shoes. Observe the rich patent leathers for dress and semi-dress—the soft lustrous black kid for general wear, and the smooth, mellow tans of Russia calf. Note the smart Blucher effects—and the natty Gibson and Court ties with wide ribbon laces and bows. See these and tell us: Have you ever seen quite so tasteful an array of footwear—with style so smart—prices so moderate?—Dorothy Dodd Store, Boston.

Women's and children's shoes, comprising a varied collection of the best styles for present and summer wear.—B. Altman & Co., New York.

Do not fail to see these snaps in ladies' fine shoes because "seeing is believing."—The Crews-Beggs Dry Goods Co., Pueblo, Col.

Many a woman with real possibilities of "style," sacrifices those possibilities on the altar of a bargain counter when she buys cheap shoes.—Mack, Joliet.

In the good old summer time, when ladies wear short skirts for morning or country dress—and evening gowns are usually sheer and light—shoes are a most conspicuous part of the wardrobe.—Moreland's, Muncie, Ind.

A shoe event that should interest every woman in town. Don't confuse it with the average shoe sale of the present time. There's all the difference in the world.—The Johnson & Wilbur Co., Colorado Springs, Col.

The essence of newness in the spring and summer styles of shoes for women, misses and children have opened up. We have the very cream of the best Canadian and American designs and makes. Remember the watchword of this store—"Satisfaction or your money back."—R. Mills, Vancouver, B. C.

Seneca says of Hercules, "His mind is like his walk." So every woman expresses in her step the state of her mind in a certain degree. Freedom and confidence do not find expression in her walk if the shoe cramps or has lost its shapeliness. The shoe is considered one of the most important items of dress, as it plays a prominent part in supplying the finishing touches to one's personal appearance. Patrician shoes are designed and made with every thought for their wearers. The excellence of the material increases self-respect, the fit conduces to ease, and the style imparts confidence. We are showing the newest styles adapted for all occasions.—R. H. White Co., Boston, Mass.

When women gather there's bound to be talk of La France. There's reason for it. Some one of them is pretty sure to have on a pair of the swell shoes of that name. They are worth talking about, these La France. If you look in our window you'll know why. They sell for $3. You'll hardly believe it when you see the swell spring styles.—Fowler, Dick & Walker, Binghamton.

The pink of perfection in footwear has been fully attained in our Empress and King quality shoes.—Morris & Smith, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Shoes and Oxfords for women. Walking in Saks shoes never makes you conscious of their extreme style—it pays no tribute.—Saks & Company, New York.

Your spring shoes. . . . The shoes that Fashion says you must wear, are here in large variety and prettier than ever. High and low cut shoes, for dress, business and out-door work in patent colt, vici kid, velour, enamel leather, calf, etc. We have the shoes to fit and please every woman in town, regardless of what her shoe needs may be. You'll like our shoes, if you give us a trial.—Edward Reinberg, York, Pa.

Women's Shoes—Samples and a prominent maker's surplus stock. Every pair hand made, therefore soft and flexible, all sizes; widths from A to E. This is a sale that will crowd the shoe store constantly while the sale lasts. The lines above are the heart of the story. There's just this to say further: The leathers—dull and bright—are excellent; the shapes are fashionable.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Women's sample shoes, $1.95. Regularly $3.00 to $6.00. Call it mercantile supremacy; or an aggressive policy; or a desire to get more for our public than any other store does—the fact remains that you can get here for $1.95 shoes that you won't be able to match for less than $3.00 to $6.00. Every good leather, every good style, newest for spring and summer wear. It's wonderful.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Staunch winter shoes for women and girls. Dependable for warmth, comfort and good service—and all at about wholesale price.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Serviceable Shoes for any Service. Whether you need them for indoors or out, from the daintiest creation for the ball-room to the most durable boot for street wear. In every case their quality is of the very best in point of style, durability and finish. George A. Slater boots and shoes in all styles. American and Canadian rubber goods carried in stock.—Jas. Maynard, Victoria, B. C.

Many a woman can trace her irritability to ill-fitting shoes. It is hard to be cheerful and happy when all the time there is a drag and weight and pinch upon the feet. But there is one shoe for women that is different from all other shoes in this single matter of fit. It is not made like a box or receptacle into which the foot is thrust. It is rather made on the plan of a bandage which is wrapped around the muscles of the foot to strengthen and sustain them. That shoe is the "Dorothy Dodd." It is a shoe that strengthens the foot every day it is worn. It has made walking easier for thousands of women. It will do it for you. Will you let it? Boots $3 and $3.50. Oxfords $2.50 and $3.—Bullock Shoe Co., Montgomery, Ala.

We had to make plans for this large stock and wide variety of white footwear before it was generally recognized just how far-reaching fashion's decree would be. But now it is clearly seen that this will be a great white shoe season, and probably no other store is so well prepared. Women's, misses' and children's white shoes, oxfords and ribbon ties in very wide variety—linen, canvas, buckskin.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Pretty feet are sometimes clumsily clad. Often it happens that a foot is made prettier by selecting the right shoe. Our ladies shoes are skillfully modeled. They are made in shapes to fit all types of feet and to make any foot attractive. You may say, "My foot is too broad or too flat to look stylish in any shoe." Hundreds of our lady patrons once said the same thing, but we have fitted them and pleased them.—William Bahls & Sons, Danville, Ill.

Women's Oxfords.—Style and small prices are seldom to be found together in the oxfords that are in great demand for the coming season's wear. Yet each is a striking characteristic of the two groups of oxfords that come forward for mention to-day. This shoe store was never so splendidly ready—so full of underprice offerings.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Style and service. This season we have endeavored to select shoes of style and beauty. Yet we would impress upon our patrons the fact that the service end has not been overlooked. Shoes and oxfords that wear, and look well. These are the kind we are anxious to have you see.—Jay Thompson & Co., Bay City, Mich.

It's to be a white season beyond question. Shoes to match properly light, fluffy organdie and batiste gowns, also the more substantial tailored linen suits are bound to be necessary features of every woman's outfit. So Dame Fashion has sensibly ordained to the delight of womankind generally, as white footwear is not only cool and rational, but stunningly smart and fetching as well. And in our stock is just the style needed to associate with the new dress you have in mind.—Jordan Marsh Co., Boston, Mass.

A woman's character is indexed quite as clearly by her shoes as by her face. If she be mannish in taste, her heavy soled, low heeled boots proclaim the fact. If gently feminine the flexible soled shoe of dainty patent leather or soft mellow kid discloses it. Likewise with the frivolous and sedate, all are betrayed by their footwear. But fastidious women of all temperaments may always find among the wide range of "Queen Quality" shoes, styles exactly suited alike to their feet and their tastes.—Daniel's Shoe Store, Atlanta.

The Sorosis shoe establishment proffers patterns of shoes for women, and this extraordinarily varied output being all boxed on the scientifically made original eight Sorosis models, it stands clearly a fact—a very interesting fact indeed—that all women can be perfectly suited, at the Sorosis shops, in footwear for all occasions and for every kind of dress.—Sorosis Shoe Co., Chicago, Ill.

The most exclusive footwear for women at less than half value. The slight defects do not in the least impair the appearance or wearing quality of these shoes—they're hand sewed and Goodyear welted, more than 20 shapes and lasts, in black, button or lace styles, patent colt and kid, also vici kid. The exclusive retailers whose names appear on the soles ask $3.50 and $4.00 for them. Our Thursday price $1.70.—Hellman's, Chicago, Ill.

A teacher of Delsarte said the other day that she found the flexible soles of the "Dorothy Dodd" shoe a great comfort and source of ease hitherto unknown, while the supporting arch gives a buoyancy to the step that is especially pleasing, not only to the wearer but to the observer. "As a teacher of physical culture," she said, "I recognize in the 'Dorothy Dodd' a valuable aid to a light, easy, graceful gait—an accomplishment that should be cultivated by every woman." The season's styles of these faultless fitting shoes are here for your delectation. May we have the pleasure of showing them?—Geo. M. Tidwell & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Our women's and children's department is practically a separate shoe in itself. It takes a special knowledge to supply women's and children's footwear wants and so we placed this division on a separate floor in charge of salesmen who have made a particular study of this branch. Fit and comfort are thus assured while style and quality are factors which may be taken for granted in any footwear purchased at our establishment. We would mention as a fashion hint, that tan and colored leathers are particularly favored this season in both high and low-cut shoes.—Hanan-DeMuth Shoe Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

No matter what price you pay, you want the very best shoe that comes at that price. The Loeser $3.50 "Innovation" oxford has established a standard in women's summer footwear just a notch higher than any one else has been able to reach, and women who have once worn these shapely, well-fitting, splendidly wearing shoes will not be persuaded into paying the same price elsewhere for a shoe less satisfactory.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ladies' Stylish Footwear.—Nowhere on the Pacific Coast can you find such beauty of style, excellence of quality, and variety of shapes in fine footwear for women as shown at Hamburger's. The makes are all the best and as a graceful shoe gives tone to a handsome costume your footwear is as much a matter of attention as gloves. The three following lines are the acme of perfect shoe making.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

New fall shoes for women. Black kid-skin with welted and stitched soles, $2.20. Why do we emphasize "welted and stitched?" Because those are the best. The Goodyear process. In the other kind—the McKay sewn—the outer sole is fastened to the upper by stitching it through the insole from the inside, with threads steeped in hot wax. This invariably leaves a rough surface and jagged ends of threads sticking upward. When the shoe is new, a thin strip of leatherette is pasted over the work to hide its ugly appearance. But such flimsy makeshifts won't prevent the wax in the thread from "drawing" your feet, or cover the rough places when dampness loosens the paste. When the soles want repairing, the new ones can't be sewn on, but must be pegged or nailed, which of course, hurts your feet in more ways than one.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Tempting prices are spread lavishly throughout the department of women's shoes. Wednesday is to be ladies' day. We have especially prepared a tempting feast of values. We know full well that women as a rule are expert judges of shoes, and for that reason we offer extra inducements. Every purchaser will be satisfied in what they find.—A. Hamburger & Sons, Los Angeles, Cal.

A beautiful foot makes a woman attractive. Ladies know what a stylish, well-shod foot means. A swell shoe tones up the entire costume and stamps the wearer as being well dressed. We keep our fingers on the pulse of every dependable source of shoe supply in the country. We gather in the worthy styles as soon as produced, and back them up with a guarantee that means just what "sterling" means to silverware. In every instance the shoe styles here are chosen to the hour. We have just received the most elaborate assortment of ladies' slippers ever displayed in Atlanta. They will interest you whether you need them now or not, so come here and we will take pleasure in showing them.—Carlton Shoe Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Comfort with Elegance.—Hosts of women are undergoing untold misery in wearing shoes that do not fit. Evidently they've yet to learn that comfort is possible with elegance. Which is but another way of saying that their knowledge of the Patrician is inadequate. Now listen, please. The Patrician shoe is thoroughly comfortable. If it wasn't, it wouldn't be the Patrician shoe. But at the same time its attractiveness and general elegance are unsurpassed. One feature isn't allowed to detract from the other; in fact, each is made to contribute to the other. There is nothing about Patrician shoes that ought to be different. To comfort and elegance there are added the most popular and durable leathers, and workmanship which guarantees the service of the shoes. In brief, Patrician shoes represent the highest development in shoemaking.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta, Ga.

A pretty foot, however shapely, can easily be turned into a deformity by ill-fitting shoes. Therefore don't risk your comfort and ease, but buy shoes that are worthy of the name. You will find them in great variety at "Bayer's." Shoes that are built by skill and brains. Combining beauty of form, beauty of style, perfect durability and perfect comfort.—Bayer's, Binghamton, N. Y.

A hit—a palpable hit! The women are delighted with our shoes. Such a shoe for three dollars is a revelation. It fits the foot in every spot—it doesn't wrinkle nor does it pinch. It's just right, and besides it has all the lines of beauty that you would expect in a shoe designed for women by a woman of artistic taste and special skill.—The Brooks & Sanderson Shoe Co., Scranton.

It may seem a little early to talk felts, but as a matter of fact women's fur trimmed felt Juliets that we're offering for a dollar are coaxingly comfortable these cool nights and mornings. Colors red or black.—Crane Shoe Co., Spokane.

The most sensitive foot will find absolute comfort in the Nurses' Comfort shoe. This shoe for women is made of selected soft vici kid, has heavy, flexible, hand turned sole, and low, common sense heel. There's not a nail or seam to irritate.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

This windy weather brings into view a great many women's shoes. Some of them are neat, well-fitting, trim-looking shoes that give the wearer a well-dressed appearance that only a well-dressed foot can give. The Fry shoe will do that. It is perfect fitting, stylish looking and of fine quality, and any woman can have her feet comfortably as well as stylishly dressed if she will have them fitted with Fry shoes at $3.50 or $5.00.—Fry Shoe Co., Omaha, Neb.

Women's Anti-Bunion Shoes.—A shoe constructed particularly for enlarged joints and bunions—the shoe is made one size smaller at the instep and two sizes wider on the sole, at the ball of the foot. This gives a snug fit over the instep and at the same time allows the foot to rest on the sole, not the upper. The upper is of the same fine soft kid. The sole is specially prepared flexible sole leather—being welts, but flexible—in lace only. All sizes and widths.—Drexel Shoe Company, Omaha, Neb.

Leadership of the bargain hosts is given over to shoes this week, and a regular walk-over it will be, because the entire corps, from corporal up, is commanded by choice, well made, shapely, reliable, durable, stylish and never tiring members of the foot family. In order to clean up the stock of women's and misses' summer goods before our semi-annual stock-taking, July 1st, we have culled out everything in broken lots of strap slippers and will start them Monday at ridiculously low prices. These are from some of the best makers in the land—new, perfect, and desirable.—A. S. Knowles Dry Goods Co., Montgomery.

A word to careful women about Shoe Economy. Buying shoes for a family is no small matter of expense, particularly if there are healthy boys and girls who have a chance to romp around. Buying good shoes underpriced means a large saving by the time you get around the family.—Lippincott & Co., Wilmington, Del.

Women's stylish low shoes. A superb showing of the choicest styles, best selected leathers and combinations.—The May Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Great shoe specials. If you know the value of our famous women's Liberty shoe, you will not hesitate in buying a pair of "little Liberty shoes." The "little Liberties" are counterparts of the famous Liberty shoes as far as splendid merit goes. For girls—"little Liberty" shoes are made of fine soft dongola kid leather, with spring heels.—Rothenberg & Co., New York.

Forty styles here for women to pick what they want—$1.50 to $6.50. We're catering to critical people. Want shoe business and expect to have to deserve it, before we can get it. If we deserve your preference, that will be for some reason that's important to you. You can't tell whether we do or not unless you come and see the shoes.—Boggs & Buhl, Allegheny, Pa.

Nine women out of ten, if they stop to think a moment, will recall that the worst thing about their shoes is that after being worn a week, the shank (or curved arch of the sole) has flattened out completely, and doesn't support the foot. All the style and curve of the shoe has disappeared. The shoe looks shapeless and "dowdy." The fact is, the whole construction of the shoe was wrong. A shoe should be made with an arch that will remain an arch, and support the waist of the foot—a point that is especially weak.—Oviatt Shoe Co., Kansas City, Kan.

It took us some time to convince the more particular women of this city that we carry the highest styles—the most advanced novelties—in the best makes of this country's leading manufacturers—and that our prices are—quality for quality—much more moderate than such shoes are usually sold for in any other city from Boston to San Francisco. But this branch of our business is now universally acknowledged to be the home of elegance and style in women's footwear and the more particular are our patrons the better we like it—and the better pleased are they.—The May, Denver, Colo.

Whether you want them to stand in, or walk in, to dance in or talk in, we have them. The ladies' boots this spring are dainty triumphs of the shoemaker's art; fine, airy, exquisite. Handsomer shoes never left a factory.—Lee Reinsberg, York, Pa.

A week's shopping will only bring you back to the very point where we'll start you, namely—if you want the best shoes made for women, you will find them in Weil & Arnold's $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50 shoes. These shoes are made expressly for us and you'll find more good points in them than you expect.—Weil & Arnold, Youngstown, O.

Your Fall Shoes.—Your principal trouble will be in deciding which to take of the many styles in which we can please you. To the ladies we make the suggestion that they ask to see our new "Bachelor Maid" shoes in three styles at $3 per pair. They combine style, elegance, durability and comfort, and these are important shoe essentials.—Lazarus, Columbus, Ohio.

Stop at 342 River street. That's Small's—no need of going further for a good, stylish $2.00 shoe for women. Men of brains made Small's $2.00 shoes and you get the results—good quality, excellent workmanship and top-notch style. The best part of it is the price, $2.00. It's a "Small price" and it fits the purse. You'll never know how good they are till you try a pair.—Small, The Big Shoeman, Troy, N. Y.

Every woman of culture and good taste recognizes the necessity of dressy footwear; and the same time desiring shoes that are comfortable and durable. This triumvirate of essentials is encompassed in "The Ebell" shoes, which are the acme of perfection in shoemaking. These popular shoes are sold exclusively by Hamburger. They are made in every popular leather and there are 30 different lasts from which to make selections—a shape for every foot—styles for street, parlor, outing or the dance.—The Hamburger Store, Los Angeles.

Of what use is a hat that does not fit your head? Of what use are corsets that do not fit, dresses that do not fit, or gloves that do not fit. Now take shoes. The one absolutely necessary thing about shoes is that they shall fit. Unless they fit, walking is a fatigue. Pleasure vanishes. You feel "slouchy"; you walk clumsily—not with an elastic step, but dragging the feet along because they are tired. You acquire corns, which are an endless source of pain and trouble. And all because you bought shoes that were perhaps loudly advertised and smart in appearance, yet made with little regard to fit. The one shoe for women that is properly constructed for a scientific fit is the "Queen Quality." Try them if you want to make walking one of your greatest joys.—Crow & Whitmarsh, Cleveland, O.

Every woman will find the size desired in vici kid, button or lace; also patent leathers in lace style, as illustrated. Materials and workmanship represented will win approval, while the most discerning will accept the really desirable styles with satisfaction.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York City.

Queen Quality Shoes for Women, $3.00.—Having regard solely for the three great essentials of fit, style and thorough workmanship, no better shoe can be produced for the popular price of $3.00. There are many shoes on the market today, sailing along on the full tide of popularity, commanding the price of $4.00, that are not even so good as Queen Quality shoes. The price of $3.00 is maintained because the Boston factory in which these shoes are made is not only the largest shoe factory in the world making women's fine shoes, but it is probably the most advanced and progressive in its methods, having a brigade of expert shoemakers which turns out thousands of pairs of shoes in a single day, each pair perfect.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Just Six Business Days—Then Stock Taking Begins. Don't say that doesn't concern you—it concerns every woman in town who makes her dollars do double duty. It means six days of the most strenuous price reductions ever seen in this city! It means every bit of summer merchandise in the house marked at prices that will speedily clear the shelves for our heavy purchases of fall goods.—C. Cohen, San Bernardino, Cal.

Do you require another pair of oxfords to finish out the season? Most women do, and that's why this great clearing sale has made our shoe department the most active in New York this week. It's impossible for you to find this exceptionally high quality stylish footwear elsewhere at a price anywhere near as low, and so the majority of smart dressers are turning to this sale for their oxfords.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

We would like to show you our line of shoes and slippers for ladies. No better shapes to be found anywhere. The leathers are the best possible, and you can depend on the shoes wearing the full limit. They not only look nice, but feel good. The prices are very low now.—The Blakely Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

We'll tell you at the beginning that they are regularly $3.00 oxfords, but as clearance is the issue throughout the entire store, we have brought the price down to $1.75. We cannot say too much about these oxfords—they have light hand-turned soles, patent leather tips, or kid tips, if your preference is in that direction.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg.

The possibilities of this sale cannot be appreciated unless you visit our second floor shoe section and see for yourself the wonderful values offered. The Patrician shoes and Oxfords enjoy a reputation that is national as representing the highest type of shoe building, and to our knowledge shoes and Oxfords bearing the Patrician imprint have never before been sold at a discount, but during this sale we will offer choice of all the Patrician Oxfords at a discount of 20 per cent and four lines of Patrician high boots at the same saving. The other shoes and Oxfords included in this sale are the representative products of the leading makers of women's footwear in this country.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Right at the very height of the season, when summer shoes are most wanted, and with our shelves filled with the most desirable and best made shoes anywhere, we are compelled to sell them at any price as the workmen are upon us. For tomorrow we offer you unrestricted choice of as fine a lot of women's summer Oxfords as you've seen, at a price that is less than cost to manufacture.—Bernstein's Co., Jersey City.

Popular three-strap creation, very daintily made, of genuine French calf, patent leather, turn sole; 500 pairs in sizes 2 1-2 to 7, fashionable Louis XV. heels, lined with black kid, bound with fine French silk cord. Cool, comfortable and critically correct for summer wear, footwear made for exacting dressers of Chicago. The Chicago merchant grew impatient and canceled his order because of the manufacturer's delay, who was simply overwhelmed with orders, and the latter reluctantly accepted less than half for them. Come to-day by all means, and you'll be one of the smart dressers to wear this ultra-fashionable low shoe.—Simpson Crawford Co.

Here are two lines of Shoes, both made for outdoor sports, for women, and by one of the best concerns in the business.—Wanamaker, New York.

No shoe could possibly be more desirable to give tone and distinction to your fall suit than the famous Burt Shoes for women. Burt shoes will hold their shape, give excellent service, and we can furnish them in any style and in any leather.—Columbus Dry Goods Co., Columbus, Ohio.

When we say $2.50 and $3.00 shoes at $1.98, that is exactly what they are, and you will know when you see them. They are made of the fine soft vici kid that is glove fitting and easy on the foot—also calfskin that is good and strong for country wear, with heavy welted soles. The vici have turned and welted soles, kid and patent leather tips. The sale also includes Outing Oxfords, made of tan and black canvas, with rubber soles and leather trimming.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

It's a moving shoe story—one that will move women to buy who have little thought of new shoes, because the prices are at a notch surprising even to such old shoe campaigners as ourselves.—The 14th St. Store, New York.

Our walking, talking, enthusiastic advertisers are the women to whom we have sold slippers and Oxfords. Such tasteful elegance appeals to their artistic sense, and, quite excusably, to their vanity. Modestly priced as we offer them, it is difficult for a woman not to be suited from our stock. Just a few hints as to what to expect.—Crane Shoe Co., Spokane, Wash.

This is as good Shoe news for women as we can recollect having to tell at any time. The shoes are the daintiest and most attractive styles of the season. They are beautifully made—squarely up to the best $3 and $3.50 standards. They should give double satisfaction on account of the little pricing.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Our new Cushion Shoes, of which we sold a large number of pairs since we got the agency, are giving entire satisfaction. We therefore call the attention of our numerous lady customers who require a good, easy and comfortable shoe to the arrival of these unequalled goods. The best of satisfaction guaranteed.—R. Gluns, Windsor.

In offering "Foot Form" boots to the women of Washington we have the satisfaction of knowing that we are offering the finest footwear that skilled shoemakers can produce. The new styles for fall are ready. Each style is calculated to gratify some particular fancy, and each style is based on a last that is anatomically correct. That's why "Foot Forms" fit so perfectly—so comfortably.—Edmonston's, Washington, D. C.

Where the annoyance from bunions is to be offset or natural weakness in the arch of the foot is to be remedied, women will find in these two models a freedom and ease not possible in other shoes. These have been designed wholly for comfort, yet without sacrificing any graceful lines expected in common-sense wear. They are worthy of particular mention because so few stores carry anything like a complete line of them and in many stores they are not to be found at all.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

Because they are invested with infinite style and grace, because their absolutely true proportions insure comfort, do we count the Saks shoe for women the highest expression of the shoe worker's craft.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Next to the magnificent plant of the Queen Quality shoe makers, their most valued asset is the reputation it has taken them years to achieve—that of making the best woman's shoe in the world at a popular price. They can't afford to make a poor shoe. They can not afford to use any but the best leathers—to slight a detail that will add to foot comfort.—L. S. Ayers & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Emerson shoes for women are designed by the men who create new fashions, and after quality of stock, their greatest concern is the modeling upon graceful, elegant, and up-to-the-hour lines shoes that will maintain and add to their reputation as builders of the most refined and worthy of their kind.—Emerson, New York, N. Y.

House slippers. It's quite likely that slippers are included in your list of holiday gifts. If so, come direct to us, you'll be saved needless worry, and we're confident of pleasing you, because we've just bought a nice lot of slippers for the holiday trade, so that our stock is larger and better than ever before. Prices too, are very favorable.—Scroggie's, Montreal, Can.

"Comfy" slippers in bag to match, $1.50. Really "comfy"—for they are made of soft, fine felt, with padded lambs' wool soles. And dainty enough to wear with a Paris negligee, with their little pointed toes and pert ribbon rosettes. Blue and pink slippers, in a moire bag to match—for Christmas giving, at $1.50.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Christmas slippers and other lines of winter footwear in the shoe section tomorrow. Choose for gift-giving now. We have marked a number of our choicest and most desirable holiday gifts at extremely low prices as an incentive to early buying.—Stanley Mills & Co., Hamilton, Can.

SHOES—WOMEN'S LOW SHOES

Regal Oxfords do not chafe or bulge! They are made over special Oxford lasts; other Oxfords are made over lasts that were designed and used for ordinary high-cut shoes. A separate factory equipment of special Oxford lasts has been an unknown thing in the shoe business, yet that is exactly what we have provided this season. Try on one of the new spring Oxfords. Walk around the store and see how it clasps the heel, snugs in at the side of the ankle and fits up closely under the instep. You will easily find your exact fit among the 280 quarter sizes of the style you select. Your regal Oxfords will be as stylish as they are comfortable, too. The high-receding, sloping toe will be one plain evidence of newness of design.—Regal Shoe Co., New York, N. Y.

Now Listen!—Good people, we are going to have an Oxford sale. We now commence a great closing out sale of all our Oxfords and Colonial ties. You can wear them for two months yet, but our time to sell them is now. Men's, women's, boys' and girls' Oxfords and ties will be sold at prices so low that it will be cruelty to your feet not to buy them.—Moreland's, Muncie, Ind.

Footwear for Summer.—Comfortable footwear for the warm summer days at prices that will pay you to come straight here for them.—Hugh D. Seeds, Altoona.

A long delayed shipment of low shoes has arrived, but we accepted it only at a great concession in price. That is how we can sell $3 Vici Kid Oxfords with hand-turned soles, Louis XV. heels and patent leather tips for $1.98. They are perfect shoes in every way—just as stylish and comfortable as one could wish for.—Beadle & Sherburne Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Melting prices on tan oxfords. The summer's hottest days have come and all prices on summer footwear have suffered a paralytic stroke.—Young & Nisley, Springfield, Ohio.

A pleasant look on every woman's face as she walks out of our store with a pair of our russet calf oxfords for $2.50, that formerly sold for $3 and $4. You'll have to see them to appreciate a good bargain.—Fitzgerald, Waterbury, Conn.

Cool footwear is most welcome now—days, and that's Oxfords—Oxfords for summer comfort and fashion.—Beadle & Sherburne Co., Rochester, N. Y.

The man or woman who has never worn oxford ties in summer time have surely shut out of their lives a sunny joy.—Lee-Reinberg, York, Pa.

Are you sure you have the pumps and oxfords proper for all the occasions of the summer outing?—Steigerwalt, Philadelphia, Pa.

Oxford tie shoes. In all assorted widths and in the best variety of leathers.—Morgan's Shoe Store, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Pumps, or low cut oxfords, are the proper shoes for women's wear this year. The great objection to pumps has been that they would slip off the heel. Very embarrassing. We have an entirely new style, cut so that they can't slip. We guarantee that they will stay where they belong. If they don't, bring them back. In two styles, patent leather and dull kid, the popular leathers for street wear.—Fitzgerald, Waterbury, Conn.

Distinctive spring and summer lasts. The to-order boot-maker will find his cleverness taxed and every phase of his craft called into requisition to fashion an oxford with the distinctive lines, the graceful arch and the perfect proportions that identify ours at five dollars. It is the only ready-for-service oxford of which we know that has everything in common with those made to order.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Serviceable shoes for any service. Whether you need them for indoors or out, from the daintiest creation for the ball room to the most durable boot for street wear. In every case their quality is of the best in point of style, durability and finish.—Jas. Maynard, Altoona, Pa.

Oxfords! Oxfords! Oxfords!!! Everybody wants them and we are prepared to supply the great demand in the very best shapes, best fitting and best values you'll find anywhere in black and tan.—Daniel's Shoe Store, Atlanta.

Of course, it's Oxfords now. Wouldn't be surprised if before long women wore Oxfords most of the year. Something in their freedom that's making style follow inclination instead of vice versa.—Parker, Bridget & Co., Washington.

"Hobo" and "Cadet." Two new toes in tans. Second shipment of tan oxfords this season—that tells of popularity. Both are nobby lasts in tan Russia. At $3.50.—Eiseman & Weil, Atlanta, Ga.

Woman wants comfort this hot weather and our line of oxfords are the coolest and most comfortable shoes for summer wear. We have twenty different styles in popular leathers, and can guarantee a perfect fit and the most comfort and shoe ease imaginable. The woman who never wore a pair of these shoes doesn't know what comfort is. Just step in and try a pair.—Elias Winter & Co., Logansport.

Some Oxfords for Narrow Feet.—The wide feet have over-balanced the narrower ones as we figured it, so that in several lines of oxfords all the wider ones are gone and these narrow widths remain. We don't keep shoes around here very long after sizes have become broken, and we are not going to this time. Narrow feet must turn this way to-day, for we give them such a bargain in oxfords as to be long remembered.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Think of It.—A pair of Walk-over Oxfords for $3.00—an opportunity that doesn't knock at your door every month, nor every year. Come and select from eight styles, in all the leathers—help reduce our summer stock and, too, get the best shoe value you ever put your feet into for $3.00.—Knott & Awtry Shoe Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Rousing July bargains in hot weather oxfords and shoes.—Knoblauch's, Minneapolis, Minn.

A messenger of peace and comfort during the Summer months is the new Oxford ties that we will send home to you. No tortured feet when they are encased in these cool and easy walking shoes or boots.—James Maynard, Victoria, B. C.

If your feet ache or are tired, no shoe is so comfortable in Summer as the Oxford. Indeed, some ladies wear them the year around, but at this season of the year they are enjoyed most. They are light, cool, and ours have a chic and style that tones with the Summer dresses.—Jas. A. Adams, Saginaw, Mich.

Women's and misses' oxfords, pumps and ties of white canvas are the signal successes in this summer's footwear. There are reasons. Plenty of give to them; woven closely to allow the admittance of air, not tight as a result of tanning as in patent leather; all welted and turned soles, which means comfort; they look cool and are cool; the prices are low enough to enable every Mrs., Miss and infant to wear a pair of these delightful summer oxfords.—N. A. Haas & Son, Allentown, Pa.

"Be alike all over." Don't put a handsome white dress on, and an ugly black shoe. (All black shoes look ugly with a white dress.) White canvas shoes. We think our line is the prettiest, best shaped, and finest fitting in Dorp, your opinion is what we are after. White heels, big eyelets, ribbon laces, Blucher cuts, Gibson cuts; you'll like them, or you're "one of a thousand."—Brignall, Schenectady, N. Y.

There are special shoes made for young ladies and young men at college, and we make a specialty of them. The same can be said of the special footwear here for sports—for golfing, for riding, for shooting, and the special boots for surveying and for use by those young men sent out by forestry department. This is a store of novelties—the only store which shows them at all, hence you may look to us for anything you want out of the ordinary. For instance nurses' noiseless shoes with leather soles covered with elk-skin, shoes for gymnastic exercises, shoes which tend to correct the temporary deformities of children's feet and limbs.—B. Rich's Sons, Washington, D. C.

Now for real hot days. They're coming sure as shootin' and you can't get away from them. If you're not prepared for 'em you'll lose out. You girls might just as well wear a smile as to go around with a long face, suggestive of hot burning feet. We've got a proposition for you folks and it ought to appeal to you very forcibly. We have a line of ventilated canvas shoes and oxfords priced from $1.25 to $1.98—the coolest shoe on earth. We suggest to you women who suffer with your feet during the hot weather to come down to our store, put your feet into a pair of these shoes, and if you don't go out looking happier, we miss our guess. Shoers to all mankind.—W. A. Anderson & Co., Galesburg, Ill.

Under Canvas.—The camper in the mountains, the yachtsman on the bay, the summer girl on the beach, are all under canvas these days. Canvas is the fabric of the moment. Are you fair to your feet? We have the tidiest, nattiest, most wearable line of canvas shoes you have had an opportunity of looking at.—Miller's, Kenton, O.

For house and veranda wear you should wear the new barefoot sandals, and we can safely say that our showing is the most complete one in the city. You will find here footwear for sports of all sorts—shoes made especially for riding, golfing, yachting, tennis, etc. For wear at the seashore we show canvas and linen footwear in many styles. This sort of footwear is preferable to leather, as the salt air and ocean sands are disastrous to leather.—B. Rich's Sons, Washington.

Are you going away this summer? To the mountains—the country—the seashore—it don't make much difference where you are going. You will certainly need some outing shoes. We have ladies' shoes in tan leather, in canvas and linen, and, in fact, every style of shoe and for outing purposes. Every lady going away this season will want a pair. High and low cut—not expensive—very swell indeed.—Livingston's, Lexington, Ky.

Outing shoes. Now that it is vacation time, many of our boys and girls will spend the summer at the beach or in the country, and it necessitates comfortable yet stout shoes. The ladies also who delight in outdoor recreation will find outing shoes very desirable.—The Hamburger Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

Everybody is wearing white canvas oxfords, and everybody is selling them. But you may look the world over and not duplicate this great value for tomorrow morning. And we've a thousand pairs, just about enough for tomorrow morning.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

For the shore or mountain, you will find nothing so conducive to comfort as Patrician shoes. For golf, tennis, cycling, yachting or tramping, our line of summer oxfords is especially suitable. They add to the pleasure of an outing.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

All the outing shoes Fashion smiles on; some so new she's just beginning to see them!—Steigerwalt, Philadelphia, Pa.

It's easy enough to describe an ordinary shoe, but no words can quite do justice to the charms of these smart $2.50 Oxford styles for ladies. As famous as we are for shoes, we've never had a better assortment or greater values—better styles, better leathers and better made shoes are not to be found for $2.50. You'll say so, too, when you see them.—Knott & Awtry Shoe Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Tan oxfords for women. This season tan leathers have returned to universal popularity, and the Wanamaker stocks are abundantly provided with every handsome sort that has been brought out; and never before were styles quite so handsome and varied.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Dainty oxfords. Mannish styles in ladies' oxfords are no longer the correct thing. Women's tastes have swung back to a love of daintiness. One's foot is to be clothed as carefully as one's hand, and the high arch, full instep foot looks its prettiest in oxfords. But oxfords must fit, that's the charm. Yet two-thirds of the oxfords sold do not fit. We perfect the fit of all; and therein lies the success of this shoe store at oxford selling.—Vorhes, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Women's low cut shoes always give polish and grace to a summer costume. There's nothing that will add so much good tone to woman's appearance as to see a neat, trim, stylish oxford peeping from under her new short cut gown. Oxfords, ribbon ties, sandals, slippers, etc. We have a size and width for every foot that comes to us for a shoe.—Scheurman, Bay City, Mich.

"I'll wear them on the outing trips and save my $5.00 shoes for at home," said a woman yesterday, who picked out a soft, pliable kid-skin low shoe, of a $2.50 quality, from among the big lot of women's Oxfords that we are selling at $1.40. She might have had the same thing in reliable patent leather, with a medium full round toe, slightly extended and stitched soles and military heels, a shoe that was made to sell at $3.00.—The A. E. Pitts Shoe House, Columbus.

Finer in appearance and more dignified in style than last year's Oxfords. The more we look at the new styles as they are unpacked, the more pleased we are with them. These "innovations" are made exclusively for us, after our own plans, and they are in unmatchable value for the money. They are identical with Oxfords that sell at almost double their price. Among the latest styles are these: White castor Gibson ties with broad ribbon bows, no tips, welted soles, very flexible. Patent leather Gibson ties, on a very smart last, Cuban heels, with wide ribbon bow. White canvas Gibson ties, light flexible welt sole, neat and narrow toe. White calf pumps, broad "necktie" bow, light soles, low flat heels. Brown castor Gibson ties, three eyelets, wide ribbon bow, flexible welted sole, Cuban heels.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Here's an extract from a letter just received from a fashionable resort:

"Send a pair of Tan Oxfords, size 4½ B, at once. Everybody is wearing them here, and I feel quite out of it without a pair."

This will be your experience unless you go prepared. Tans are just as smart and comfortable for stay-at-homes.—The W. G. Simmons Corporation, Hartford, Conn.

So far as it will benefit the service of the shoe and your comfort, our three-fifty Oxfords are sewn by hand. For the snap and the life and the character of the lasts we have a confession to make—they are replicas of standard five-dollar shoes. The new series of spring models include four styles of tan Russia calf, three of corona patent colt, one of vici kid, one of gun metal calf and two of wax calf, in lace and blucher models, with Cuban or conservative heels, extreme pointed, London or broad, straight toes and extension or close trimmed soles. We believe it to be the best three-fifty Oxford in all the world.—Saks & Company, New York, N. Y.

Fashion has set the seal of approval on the Linen Oxford and this season at shore, in the mountains and country the cool, dainty shoe of linen will be the footwear of smart people. Never was a shoe designed for hot weather wear that so filled all demands for comfort and attractiveness.—The W. G. Simmons Corporation, Hartford, Conn.

Women's Oxfords.—Has the backward weather kept you from buying your low shoes? If so, you have benefited by the delay. These Oxfords are made of excellent materials, coupled with good workmanship, and will give the desired service.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Beauty, daintiness, adaptability and ease of fit were never better exemplified than in the ideal results attained in our new spring Oxfords. A varied, elaborate and extensive gathering of styles that could only be possible in the colossal shoe parlors of Frazin & Oppenheim, New York, N. Y.

The unexampled skill of the "Frazin shoe" craftsmen shows to admirable and fullest advantage in the present showing of "Frazin's" Oxfords. 160 distinct and original style conceptions in women's Oxfords alone. Combinations of vici kid and patent leathers—plain leathers and some remarkably pretty combinations in rare color tints. All foot-conforming lasts in every width and heel, including the Castilian Spanish

In our more than thirty years of shoe-selling we've never done so large a business in a spring season as we're doing this year. And this will be the banner week. Everything has been planned to help the week's selling—orders have been rushed so that stockings are now magnificently complete—a fine exposition of latest styles fills one of the big show-windows—and many splendid, popular, new lines of women's low cuts are offered at prices so attractive that crowds will respond to the announcement of the offerings.—Keeley Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Women's $3 spring oxfords, $1.85. Skeptical? Come and examine the Oxfords for yourself. See how fine and close grained the leather is—that means wear. Note how perfectly the Oxfords have been fashioned, how neat and trim in style, how perfect in every detail of finishing. Hard to match them, even for $3.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Stylish Shoes for Summer Days.—We're splendidly ready to furnish the Summer girl's footwear. Our superb stock of low cut shoes embraces all the styles that are correct and the qualities that are desirable.—Keeley Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Low shoes are the vogue. And never was there presented a greater or more charming variety than our assortment of "Just Wright" oxfords now affords. Practically every style, shape and leather that your exacting taste could demand is here, and at a moderate price—$4 the pair. We want you to see these fashionable shoes. You incur not the slightest obligation in so doing. Gunmetal, tan vici and patent—all styles.—Bullock Shoe Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Shoes don't make the woman any more than clothes make the man. But well fitting, stylish shoes give any woman an appearance of well bred, up-to-date prosperity which helps a great deal in life's journey. Our shoes and oxfords have a distinctive look of refinement and taste that make them worth more than other shoes, although we don't charge it.—McCallum Bros. & Runyon, Binghamton.

Slippers on the list? They are on every list. And there is no better place to choose them than at Loeser's. Here will be found a style to suit every taste, and low prices make them the best slipper values obtainable.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

SHOES—CHILDREN'S SHOES

Got some romping, healthy real children at your house? With big appetites and wonderful power of "kicking out" shoes? They're the youngsters we want. They can prove to you that our children's shoes are made of "stuff that wears." You'll notice the difference between our prices and the other man's.—Small, Troy, N. Y.

Why tie the children's feet up in hot, stuffy shoes and keep them cross and irritable when you can put their feet into our Children's Oxford Ties and render them happy and comfortable? By so doing you also increase their health and strength. Our children's shoes are the best in the world, and our prices are the least.—Cammeyer, New York.

Sale boys,' girls,' and children's shoes. To-morrow is truly bargain day in our shoe department. Purchases for the youngsters should be made with regard to the months of school wear to come, and then vacation, for the saving chances on good dependable shoes is most remarkable to-morrow.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Little folks' parlor. An attractive, home-like place where mothers meet and receive special attention in proper fitting of children's shoes.—Brandt, St. Thomas.

Footwear that pleases the children, at prices that please the parents.—Knott & Awtry Shoe Co., Atlanta, Ga.

School Shoes.—As school opens soon, you'll need new shoes all round. We know we can save you money in boys' and girls' shoes, for we make a specialty of them. Get every pair made to order for us, so as to be sure of their goodness. If ever they need good shoes, it's in the fall—winter coming on—weather liable to change any moment. Keep their feet dry and warm—it's cheaper than paying doctor's bills. Our shoes all have good soles, nothing but the best of leather used in their making. The uppers are cut from good stout leather and the lasts are made so as to give a growing foot comfort.—Jas. A. Adams, Saginaw, Mich.

We show a line of children's shoes built to fit the child's foot and let it grow as Nature intended. The toes are roomy, but so artistically are they fashioned that this adds to instead of detracts from their beauty; a shoe that fits out-wears one that does not. Such shoes cost but little more than the other kind at first and much less in the end.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Thought, skill and experience combined with superior materials and workmanship have made these shoes the leaders among all children's footwear. We take the same extreme care in their construction as we do with our famous lines for older people. They are not thrown together like most shoes for children are. And for these magnificent True-Form Shoes we charge less than other dealers do for the ordinary kinds.—Cammeyer, New York, N. Y.

Friday and Saturday will be the last days that you will have an opportunity to secure a pair of these elegant shoes for your boys. They were made by one of the best makers of boys' shoes and bought by us at a clean up price and you are securing the benefit therefrom.—Kemp & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

School Shoes.—If you buy school shoes now you will have the advantage of this sale of a quantity of new fall shoes that came to us at a saving. We want your trade for children's shoes. We sell shoes of solid leather and correct shape only—which means less shoes to buy and less future foot trouble for the children.—Dayton's Daylight Store, Minneapolis, Minn.

The Right Sort of Shoes for Children.—Comfort is the first thought—the comfort that comes with perfect shaping of the shoe to fit growing feet without marring them. Then good style and durability and last—but by no means least—the little prices that make this Loeser Shoe Store boom ahead in business every day.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

"These be cold days in the land," and the boys and girls should be well shod. Above all—those children that go out in the cold on the way to school each day. A child will play at recess—so see to it that the shoes are warm and without holes. And we specialize on children's shoes. They are our strong point. We lead in shoes for juveniles. Remember: One of the hardest things in the shoe business is to make children's shoes that will wear. We guarantee the shoes we sell—we know they will wear.—Bullock Shoe Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Children's Shoes for Vacation Time.—Shoes have got to be mighty good to stand the test of children at vacation time. Poor leathers and bad workmanship will soon show up. Here you'll find Oxfords and Slippers that will stand the test of the healthiest boy or girl—strongly and well made of the best leathers.—Knott & Awtry Shoe Co., Atlanta, Ga.

For Infants, Misses and Boys.—White Canvas Oxfords, Shoes and Slippers. Made with the same care, the high grade workmanship and finish that are not usual in Canvas Shoes—the care that goes into our finest shoes—98c to $2.65, according to style and sizes. Also White Rubbers to wear over them—storm shapes—for infants and misses.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Surely Good Shoes for Girls and Boys.—More than low prices, style and good quality make your reasons for coming here for children's shoes. The shapes are right and we fit them properly. Young feet get the attention that will benefit them in years to come.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Children's Slippers.—Fathers and mothers are wearing low shoes because they are so cool and comfortable in warm weather. Why not the children? We're selling two strap turned sole, spring heel slippers, in both red and black kid.—Nelson's, Spokane, Wash.

White Shoes and Other Shoes for Little People.—Whether it is that anniversary is near or because Miss Fashion has been looking after children's shoes lately, there is a great demand for all sorts of white shoes, oxfords, etc. Naturally, we are right on time for the call with a fine assortment—Gibson ties, oxfords, Roman sandals and just shoes in white at small prices; for misses and children, in high grades, welted and turn soles—98c. to $2.65.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Here's a great opportunity for you to save on footwear for the children. Broken lots and odd sizes that we had rather sacrifice in price now than carry over for another season. They are indeed excellent values.—Knott & Awtry Shoe Co., Atlanta, Ga.

You should select your footwear from the handsome line we are showing. We feel confident that our shoes for children will satisfy the most particular buyer. Busy little feet need good shoes. All of our shoes are of the most recent make and styles and have many attractions. Mothers say they never saw such long-wearing shoes, and the prices are less than such good shoes are worth.—Pain's, Windsor, Ont.

Our stock of footwear for children is more extensive this season than ever before, and it is in keeping with the needs of the little ones. Thoroughly hygienic, not crowding the growing feet, but allowing them to develop as nature intended. Just such shoes as busy little feet should have—shoes to romp and run in, and they are made just as carefully as women's shoes.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

The children's shoe question is easily solved here. We have undoubtedly the best variety of children's shoes, oxfords, slippers and hosiery to be found anywhere, as shoeing the youngsters is one of our specialties, and our competent, painstaking salespeople are at your service, and do fit their tender feet properly.—Family Shoe Store, Washington.

"There is nothing new under the sun," not even the wearing of Sandals—that is so popular with the little tots this summer. The ancients demonstrated the great comfort of Sandals for warm weather centuries ago. They give the little one all the comfort of going bare-foot without hurting the feet.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

We are putting a special price on these for the week, and expect to sell hundreds of pairs, so we advise mothers to bring the children early.—P. T. Halahan, Philadelphia, Pa.

Loeser children's shoes, once worn, always worn. There's surely a reason for our mighty big children's shoe business. It's not difficult to find that reason, either. Our shoes sell on their own merits. They are made by workmen who make only children's footwear; the materials, from the leather to the sewing thread and buttons, are of the best quality, lasts are the newest and most approved for comfort giving; serviceability is another prominent feature and, lastly, they are the lowest priced shoes made for children.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Baby Shoes.—Is there a baby in your home? Is it the sweetest, dearest, little creature in the world? And do you want the daintiest, prettiest little shoes that it is possible to buy? Of course you do. So we say come here for them. The handsomest, cutest little baby shoes to be had anywhere are here. Every shape and style. So we say come in and we will suit you with baby shoes.—J. W. Rodgers Shoe Co., Bloomington.

Boys and girls love to slash around in the slush of a January thaw, and if their clothing is of proper sort and their shoes keep the feet dry the slush can't do much harm. Washington would never have crossed the Delaware and made the Hessians fly if he and his soldiers had been afraid of an American winter.

Unusual Shoes for Children. It will pay to be interested. We have a special shoe for children and infants so much out of the ordinary that we are confident an acquaintance is the only thing necessary to make it universally used. It is the shoe recommended by the leading children's physicians. It is made on a broad toed straight last, carrying a broad sole without much extension and a specially wide insole—any child fitted with these shoes will positively have nothing to correct in its feet in after years.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Boys' and Girls' Shoes. Good reliable shoes for school or dress. If every mother in Spokane knew how good and low priced are the shoes for children which we have, we should still have to say something about them every little while out of pure enthusiasm, and to let the newcomers to Spokane know that the best is always the cheapest; and we have the best for your money. Shoe department on main floor, rear of left hand aisle.—The Colonial, Spokane.

Mothers, here is a "Shoe Item" worth your time to investigate.—Read.—William H. Elliott Co., Detroit, Mich.

Our twins—low prices and reliable quality—have brought us the largest children's trade in the city.—J. P. Schellwbacher, Peoria, Ill.

Our stock of children's summer footwear for this season represents all the high grade novelties—of course—Fischer's low prices attached. You naturally expect that. Bring the little folks here and let us show you how we can fit them with good shoes at little cost.—Fischer's, Trenton, N. J.

Children's Smart Shoes.—Put your boy and girl in oxfords this summer—they will appreciate the comfort of low shoes, and fashion prescribes their wear. You may choose readily from this fine stock of children's footwear, with assuredness of the longest wearing leathers as well as the smartest styles. Prices are exceedingly small, also.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Children's Summer Shoes.—Wise mothers are buying strong, rather heavy and moderately priced shoes and Oxfords for late spring and warm summer—shoes that will stand the hard knocks of vacation time. Just such shoes as these we tell of to-day. Prices are small, too.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The best shoes for children. We study children's wants as closely as those of grown folks. Wearing quality and comfort are the essential features of our shoes for children, for a child's shoe should feel easy and fit well in addition to being durable. Buy your children's shoes here and they will satisfy in all details.

Is it the sweetest, dearest, little treasure in the world? Of course it is! And do you want the daintiest, prettiest little shoes for this baby that it is possible to buy? Of course you do! We say, come here for them. We have received a new line which comprises every shape and style. We are as proud of our baby shoes as you are of your baby. So we say, come in and we will fit you with baby shoes exactly.—Drew & McDonald, Great Falls, Mont.

This shoe is constructed to comfortably fit the baby's foot. More care should be given to the little one's feet. They must not be cramped or distorted. The Hawkins' Anatomical Shoe allows the little foot to grow naturally. Insist on having this shoe.—The Hawkins Shoe Co., New Haven, Conn.

Baby's feet should be allowed to grow naturally, not cramped into any shoe the dealer chooses to give you. Hawkins' Infants' Anatomical Shoe firmly supports the delicate anatomy of the foot, but does not cramp or pinch it. They cost no more than others.—The Hawkins Shoe Co., New Haven, Conn.

Distinctive shoes, but above all comfortable—the shape and fit of a shoe are the first consideration for growing feet. The perfection of lasts has been our foremost purpose. The leathers are our own selections—sound hides properly tanned, and yet we have held prices down.—A. E. Pitts, Columbus, Ohio.

A Boy's Feet.—The boy's feet are a very prominent part of his anatomy. They are always in evidence. For this very reason he should wear good shoes. Some parents and some shoe dealers appear to think that most any kind of a shoe is good enough for the boy. Not so here. We can shoe the boy well and substantial without placing him in plow shoes.—Morse & Herrick,inghamton, N. Y.

The way we fit boys and girls appeals to sensible parents. Your child can come here and be as properly fitted without you as with you. We have a scientific principle upon which we proceed, which gives the boy or girl an ideal, comfortable fit in any shoe you want to buy. Our grades upon which we pride ourselves run from $1.50 to $2.50. We have a few sizes for even less than this, but we pin our faith to those at the prices named above. They're made the Fischer way, according to ideas which experience and observation have shown to be best. And that, in part, tells why Fischer shoes for boys and girls are above the ordinary. Let us prove it to you.—Fischer's, Trenton, N. J.

Boys' full stock calf lace shoes, with double back stays; wear proof linings; all seams silk sewed; full, broad toe and heavy rock oak soles; one of the best boys' shoe items we ever offered.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Have you ever given our boys' shoes a trial? If you have, the question is settled. If you have not, bring the boy here and we'll settle it for you. Boys' shoes from $1.50 to $3.00 made from calf, kid and varnished leathers. Durable soles, stout seams, comfortable and good looking—not clumsy, yet made to stand hard usage.—S. Bassett & Sons, Lexington, Ky.

Does your boy wear shoes?—If he does and is as lively as the average boy, it costs you many a dollar to keep his little toes covered up. Did you ever think that changing shoemakers might cut down the expense? Many a mother has found by experience that our boys' shoes will wear longer than some others—and so that, for the price—$1.50—we give the best shoe in Omaha—a real leather shoe. There is a great difference in shoes—these are all leather. We fit them with care and always try to please.—Drezel Shoe Co., Omaha, Neb.

Young men and boys who want the right sort of shoes must come to us for them. Our shoes give them a manly appearance and a dash unknown in other makes. We guarantee to satisfy any preferences a young man may have respecting his footwear.—Cammeyer, New York.

There's a way to get ahead of the boys that start in about this time of the year and tear away shoe leather like paper. Don't buy the cheaper kind that rip apart and wear away soon, saying, "O, well, he's so hard on shoes anyway." Get him the best kind made—tough, heavy-sewed shoes that hang together until there's not much left. That's sound advice, and you'll profit if you take it. We have them in the most dressy of shoes, too, where style and strength meet admirably. Let us do the shoeing of your boys hereafter, let's see whether we can't reduce your shoe bills.—Dires, Pomeroy & Stewart, Reading, Pa.

New shoes for boys, made to please the boy as well as his parents. Not a suggestion of "girls' shoes" about them.—Wm. Eastwood & Son., Rochester.

Big boys are the most critical buyers. They will have nothing to do with "boys'" shoes, nor with "oldish" styles—not much! We get them coming here, by having just what they want—radical, top-notch styles.—Byck Bros. & Co., Atlanta, Ga.

My boy knocks spots out of shoe leather—How about yours? If he's a real boy I want him to wear Small's shoes and show you that you get the worth of your money every time—Small's boys' shoes are made for wear, style "like dad's" and prices just right.—Small, The Big Shoeman, Troy, N. Y.

Almost everlasting shoes for boys are the kind we sell at $1.50, good to look at and better to wear. It's always hard to furnish shoes for any length of time, but we guarantee these shoes perfect in every way and far superior to any other shoe sold at anything like the price. A companion shoe for girls at same price of $1.50.—D. E. Williams & Co., Youngstown, O.

A good shoe for a "real boy" has to be about the best balance of good leather and good shoemaking that can be averaged in any line of shoes at a given price. Our experience has developed that the three prices at which the best results can be obtained in the different grade of boys' shoes is at $1.50, $2 and $3 (referring to shoes for every day hard service).—Wm. Eastwood & Son Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Next time "Johnny Comes Marching Home" with shoes all worn out, don't scold him, it isn't his fault. If you'd buy him the "Dayton" shoes you wouldn't be bothered every two months. They're next to cast iron to stand abuse and hard knocks.—Miller's, Kenton, O.

A sturdy shoe for sturdy boys. Something that will wear. That's the kind your rough and tumble boy requires. He's a strong, playful chap. He should have a good, serviceable shoe.—Watt's Shoe Store, Woodstock, Ont.

Boys are born without shoes, but with a genius for wearing them out. Many parents will agree with this theory, but many others have found out that our shoes will stand a boy's hard usage and then come up smiling.—B. B. Pyle & Co., Denison, Tex.

You can buy that boy a handsome $1.00 nickel "Yankee" watch at Millard's for just 49 cents, providing you buy at the same time a pair of those tremendously long wearing $3.00 "Derby" shoes that "boydom" recognizes as the only proper thing in Troy—Millard's, Troy, N. Y.

Bless the boys—but we do like to shoe them. It's a real pleasure to see how they take to our "Everlasting" shoes. Boydom recognizes the fact that "Everlastings" are boys' shoes—not girls'.—Millard, Troy, N. Y.

A hard thing to find is a shoe that will withstand the wear and tear of a harum scarum boy. We have what we believe to be the most durable shoe for boys on the market, at a price to suit. We have heavy and light weight boys' shoes, made of the most durable leather, and with solid leather soles.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

School shoes will soon be wanted. We are getting in big shipments of them every day, and will be able to show you the best selection in town. You know that our shoes and prices are right. Come and see us.—Philadelphia Shoe Store, Fresno, Cal.

Keep the children's feet cool and comfortable—it goes a long way toward making them happy and contented in hot weather.—Wanamaker, New York.

Winter shoes for the children. Good heavy shoes are the kind boys and girls need now. Winter, the season of rough, cold weather, is surely here. Come and select from an assortment of shoes for the children that are stylish, well made and will keep their feet warm and dry.—Knott & Awtry, Atlanta, Ga.

Cold weather will soon be here. Your boys and girls will need good, warm shoes. That's what we furnish—the best—where there is a good beginning the battle is half won. We put your children on a good footing at the start. Send the boys and girls to our store.—Carl Riedesel, Crookston, Minn.

Shoes for boys and girls.—Shoes that have withstood the brunt of vacation wear and tear will hardly be presentable for school, where youngsters are ambitious to appear at their best. In the shoe store are shoes for boys and girls—sturdy, strongly built shoes with plenty of style and comfort in them. Prices are as attractive as the shoes.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

Some one has said that "there is nothing new under the sun." We think we may dispute this statement, and with good reason—for these shoes certainly show new grace of outline, have a new record for long wear and have made hundreds of new friends for themselves among the little folk.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

You get full value for every penny you spend for children's shoes at this store. If there were better shoes made than ours we'd have them. There isn't. That's why we urge you to give ours a test. A test will prove our assertions true.—Stemmler Bros., Memphis, Tenn.

Shoe the children at Staub's. One thing certain—any shoes you buy for your children at Staub's will give absolute satisfaction. Whether you want strong, sturdy school shoes that will withstand the romping and jumping of child life or the finest quality stylish dress shoes—Staub's is the safest and most economical place to buy them. Fit the children to-day with Staub shoes—that will protect their feet this damp weather. We invite you to call and get one of our beautiful art calendars for 1907.—C. M. Staub Shoe Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Vacation Shoes for Growing Feet—Especially for the children. Sliding on the asphalt—perhaps your children don't slide on the asphalt. You are to be congratulated, but watch out! There comes a grocer's wagon with four boys' hands on the tailboard, sliding along with shouts of joy—and the girls slide, too. Now what sort of shoes will stand that?—A. D. Matthews & Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Before you read items let us emphasize this fact—no inferior shoes are to be found here at any price—all are of solid leather—while to insure more value than usual for the prices certain extra points were insisted upon in making, so that:—Leather runs up under toe caps—counters are of solid leather, while smooth inner linings prevent any burning or discomfort. Every pair offered in this sale is new, fresh, right from the maker—no odds and ends, no manufacturer's mistakes—no squeezing or injuring the growing foot, but style, service and comfort for children, and economy and satisfaction to parents.—Hearn, New York, N. Y.

SILKS

*Belinda's been a-shopping;
She's looked at silks galore,
And hats and hose and velvet
Enough to stock a store.*

*Belinda's been a-shopping;
She says she's almost dead.
She bought, and had delivered,
Two spools of cotton thread.*

*She's asked the price of bronzes,
And point lace collarettes;
She's looked at Persian prayer rugs
And tortoise shell lorgnettes.*

—Washington Post.

Great values in silks. Never more desirable than now. We know positively that we are selling more silks, at lower prices, than any other store in New York. All you need do is to make comparison of qualities and prices—and you'll become convinced of the absolute truth of this statement. The items below exceed in value-giving any we have ever made. This means more for your money than any other store can possibly provide.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

Extra special—thirty-nine pieces, the fad of the season (and the most sensible one known for many a day)—Rajah silk—full 27 inches wide, makes a swell auto coat, a particularly stylish suit, does not catch or hold the dust, and “wears like iron;” in browns, blues, greens, mode, champagne, natural, reseda, tan, cream, white and black; in plain and illuminated effects, and is selling to-day all over the country from $1 to $1.25 a yard. This lot goes Tuesday (see window) at 65c.—Evans-Johnson-Sloane Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

We probably sell double the quantity of silks of any other Boston house. The reason for this is obvious. It also explains why we are obliged to have an almost weekly house cleaning of remnants and short lengths. The best and fastest selling goods reach the remnant stage first and the opportunity to secure short pieces at half-price and less is therefore the more important. Friday we shall offer remnants of goods that sold at from 59c. to $1.50 a yard off the piece, for 15c. a yard and upwards, and we never before placed on sale so tempting an array of bargains.—R. H. White & Co., Boston, Mass.

Radium is the most durable of all silk of modern looming. It has that expensive softness and luster and cry—it has a strength of fibre that no other silk at any price possesses. Radium won't split, tear, or stretch. There's a guarantee that says it won't. Any time Radium silk acts contrary to this guarantee the price you paid will be exchanged for the goods you bought. It is this combination of invincible silk virtues without a “silk weakness” that makes Radium essentially your silk for all dress occasions. More remarkable than all the foregoing facts is the littleness of price—Radium silk costs just half as much as it ought to.—Louis Einstein & Co., Fresno, Cal.

Eighty-five cent silks at 58c. That's a combination to make them fly out as fast as scissors can cut them. All the patterns are good, but two especially are worth mentioning—a small check in a rich, lustrous blue-and-green changeable effect with a delicate vine-like tracery woven over it, a lovely broche effect really, but so delicate and dainty that it seems like an embroidery. The other is white with hair-line black checks with the same delicate little vine woven through it. They will make stunning frocks. But so will the others. And such prices—58c. and 68c. a yard.—tom House.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia.

A Sale of the Newest and Best Silks.—We have never been in so good a position to offer you unlimited money savings on silks of latest style and best quality.

Black taffeta silk, brilliant jet black, fine rustling finish.

Foulard silks, full 24 inches wide, in all the pretty dots, small and medium figured designs.

Satin foulard silks in the newest designs and all the latest shades of blue, brown, grey, etc.

Fancy taffetas for shirt waist suits, the latest figured and jacquard effects.

Colored peau de soie in reseda, pink and blue.—C. R. Hawley & Co., Bay City, Mich.

Imported means more than the endorsement of beauty. It means that the pongees are woven on a handloom; it means that they are all-silk and it gives you license to wash them as readily as you would a handkerchief. Fresh case-fuls have just reached us from the Custom House.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia.

To-morrow we open a sale that will give the most astonishing values that you have known this year in silks and in cotton and silk mixtures. This purchase consists of nearly 40,000 yards, and the goods are all of this year's production, up to the minute in style and beauty. Unsurpassed value for the smallest known prices. Not a yard in the entire collection that is not going to be retailed Monday for one-half or nearly half the price that the goods were made to sell for. The reason for the half price is because of a slight imperfection in the weave of the goods. Very slight, so you would probably never notice it, if your attention was not drawn to the matter. The sale begins at 8:30, when the store opens. Extra salespeople and extra space will be devoted to the selling. If the shoppers of Brooklyn are as wise as they usually are, there will be little of the goods left when the day is done.—Chapman & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Some Silk News. You have come to know that while we speak enthusiastically on silk matters it is always conservatively. And how could we refer to silks than with enthusiasm! Year after year this silk store has been growing more and more into your favor and continually spreading out and demanding on its merits more notice from you. Often we have promised much in our announcement but have we ever failed?—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Silks Without Argument — Under Price. Spread out that every eye may see their peerless beauty, that every hand may feel the thrill of their unmistakable worth. We believe these prices are lower than anywhere.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

New Silks for a New Purpose. Shirt waists and skirts to match, made from sheer, dainty colored silks, have captivated Dame Fashion, and if you want to be particularly smart in your attire this spring and summer you must have at least two of these shirt waist suits. We have them in so many different colors we cannot count them. You ought to make your selection now before the decidedly exclusive patterns are sold.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

The low prices on these fashionable, very much fancied silks and satins are really brought about by a desire to close out all our printed Foulards, Pongees and Liberty Satins. The assortment of designs is excellent, including the popular polka spots. The colors are all the most favored.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We realized full well that the average woman's summer silk needs have been well nigh met by this time. To attempt the distribution of 50,000 yards now is to create a demand purely upon the basis of most attractive prices. The manufacturers led us to want this great quantity by quoting a price we did not feel like resisting. For like reasons we have little fear that New York's silk-loving women will permit this opportunity to go unchallenged.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

Red Letter prices on our silk offerings mean manufacturers' prices—due to our taking the entire surplus stock from one of the best mills in this country. Twice a year they close out the whole of their overproduction, and we have for several seasons had first call. Here are a few of the special values, all perfect, reliable silks and priced phenomenally low for the red letter sale.—Ehrich Bros., New York, N. Y.

And this in spite of the fact that this silk is the most popular of the day for the very lightest summer frocks, waists and children's dresses. Rather than give you a bargain at the end of the season, we'll let you have your pick of these now. The quality is exceptionally sheer, yet wear-resisting to a great degree.—Bloomington's, New York, N. Y.

The truly regal excellence of this magnificent silk has been laid before the public some time ago, and while our sales are continually and rapidly increasing, we deem it advisable to renew our claim that Queen Quality silk is really better than anything else in the market, barring none. We guarantee to make good any claim reported within a reasonable time from date of purchase, the manufacturer standing behind us when we say "Warranted to wear."—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

A great silk sale. Come Monday and come with great expectations to the greatest and best silk sale we've ever known. . . . We're willing to let the success of this sale be determined by your verdict after making the statement that we have prepared an event that will be bigger and better than ever before.—Harris-Emery Co., Des Moines.

A new silk creation. There's a dream of an exquisite gown or waist in just a glimpse of these crepe milinas at silk counters. Grace in every fold of their crinkled surface, and their shades present the perfection of colors.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

"They speak more and more about printed goods for the next dressgoods season—printed silks an organdie and tulle season, with prints in fine detached flowers. There is a faureur about tulle veilings, violettes fantasie, in all colors; they show assortments up to 25 varied shades."—A late Paris letter. We knew it long ago. So did the makers and designers—and every kind of little sprig and blossom has been coaxed into bloom for an early spring in the factory hothouses. The new embroidered Swisses are showing like crocuses—in colors we never had before. Irish dimities have come in brand new patterns. New linens from abroad are here—yes, it's going to be a great linen season again. Cottons wouldn't care if to-morrow were the first of April.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

55,000 yards of black silks under price. Imported and American: Brooklyn's greatest silk occasion. You can make some splendid investments here to-morrow. You can make one dollar do pretty nearly the work of two. You can get splendid, staple, guaranteed black silks in immense variety for prices almost without precedent in littleness.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Silk Sale is an enormous success. This information is important to you simply because it tells the public measurement of the desirability of the silks and the exceptional values offered. Coming as it does right on the heels of continuous advances on the price of silks, this sale is one of the most decisive economy movements in dress fabrics likely to occur this Spring. The excellence of the silks, and the very broad variety double the attractiveness of these very remarkable values.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Pongees—The pongee pulse is strong—stronger in Paris, London and New York than anywhere else. Hundreds of women have pongees in mind—planning a dress, a coat, or a hat that's to be made of the popular fabric.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

Twelfth Annual Silk Sale commences Monday. The "Koch" silks are famous—the "Koch" silk sales command response from the five boroughs—and beyond. We believe that no other silk sale anywhere is so eagerly watched for—no other brings so many people. Every new weave is here—every new color is here—and it is the annual occasion when we are determined to offer values that are unapproached and unapproachable.—H. C. F. Koch & Co., New York.

For years the Star Store's silk sale has been looked forward to as the greatest silk event of the season. Women have waited for it before planning their spring and summer dresses and of all our silk sales there have been no disappointments and no dissatisfaction. Without further explanation we will simply state that this year our buyers have been unusually fortunate in securing silks for this sale. The leading silk manufacturers have contributed many pieces for this special event at special prices—in many cases below cost to manufacture. The prices on the following lots will show plainly what excellent values are to be found at this sale. Remember this is one day's sale and Monday is the day. Come early.—The Star Store, New Bedford.

Promptly at 9 o'clock Friday morning we will inaugurate the most remarkable sale of silks ever held in Oklahoma City. The really wonderful values are unmatched elsewhere, and of most interest to our customers is the fact that all are new and fresh. Many short pieces, waist and skirt lengths, are offered at most attractive bargain prices. Not a lady in Oklahoma City can afford to miss this sale. Just a few of the good things are listed below. Not a piece of silk in the store is exempt—the entire department will be included in this sale.—Sidney L. Brock Dry Goods Co., Oklahoma, O. T.

Every season develops a fabric that holds first place by reason of special character and distinction of style. But no previous season ever brought forward a new fabric which aroused more instant enthusiasm than the new figured Rajah silks. The soft, cool pongee in rough-threaded Rajah weave is smartened and individualized by plaids and stripes.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

From the mills of the well-known Cheney Bros. Exclusive styles only to be found here in the following beautiful shades; reseda, brown, tan, navy, goblin, rose; in dots, stripe and figure. The choicest patterns of the season. Prices 75c., $1.00 and $1.25 per yard.—Gerretson Silk Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

To-morrow we will put on sale thousands of remnants in silks, dress goods, wash goods, laces and embroideries, linens, draperies, etc., at figures never before heard of for such seasonable and desirable goods. These remnants have accumulated in the past three weeks during The Great Mill Agents Syndicate sale and as the number is entirely too large we must get rid of some at once, hence have not only marked them at low remnant prices but at about one-quarter of their actual value and in many instances less.—Nachman & Meertief, Montgomery, Ala.

It will be a treat to visit the silk department, for the exhibit includes a range and variety that few stores show—in fact, there's not a weave or fabric that Dame Fashion says will be in demand that you'll not find well and fully represented. Best of all, very special souvenir pricings will obtain for the three opening days.—Hecht's Greater Stores, Washington, D. C.

This is one of the brightest and pleasantest spots in Albany's best store—its silk section. As far as spring and summer silks are concerned, we are prepared now to meet your every wish better than we will be next July. The new 1907 silks are in profusion that confuses one in deciding which is best and prettiest. We want you to view this newness. Many of the weaves were imported exclusively for the John G. Myers Company. There is nothing ordinary whatever about the goods excepting the prices, and these, quality considered, are fairest in every instance. And we have plenty of the silks at low prices. The foulards are in wonderful assortment of new effects. This old favorite silk shows improvements in finish and design that one would hardly believe possible. The assortment of patterns is simply exhaustive. There are many novel and striking combinations in dots, specks in fact, to the spots as large as a silver dollar.—J. G. Myers Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Most beautiful silks. How far away we are from the days of stiff heavy silks—when a silk dress to be fashionable, had to creak and groan at every move, and stand out from the figure most rigidly. The woman of to-day demands that her silks be soft, pliable, clinging—and fall in rich, graceful folds. It's a happy tendency and has resulted in our gathering together from home and abroad the most wonderful assortment of wonderfully woven and rarely tinted silks that has ever been displayed in Kansas City. You will have a new gown for the P. O. P. ball—we know that you will not find so wide a range for your selection as right here.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Don't you need a silk? In view of the absolute, imperative necessity of silk for this summer's coats, dresses, shirt-waist suits and gowns the answer to the above question is not far to seek. Of course you need silks, and reduced prices do not make them any the less desirable. 2,500 yards desirable dress silks, in French Louisine, French Paillette, French Messaline and French Satin de Chene, every new shade represented in each make, also white, ivory, cream and black, uncrushable makes, beautiful soft finished dress silks, extra heavy weight, firmly woven, recommended by us to give every satisfaction. Fancy silks—A miscellaneous collection of high-class fancy silks, suitable for dresses, shirtwaist suits, jumper suits, waists, etc., extra nice qualities, good variety to choose from, in prices up to $1.25.—Simpson, Toronto, Can.

New silks. Our silk department, the great outlet for all the newest and handsomest silk designs, colors and weaves. Large broken plaid effects, checked and barred designs, the new large black checks and a complete line of black silks, priced at the same low figures.—E. B. Riley, Wilmington, Del.

An excellent quality silk with soft lustrous finish; is a beautiful black, will not split or cut, purest of dye, strictly all silk and will retain its luster; is very durable and twenty-three inches wide; only 500 yards in the lot.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Of course some ladies like to buy their spring suit ready-made. But there are many others who cling to the idea that it is preferable to buy the cloth and have a suit made. Now if this is your idea, we want to sell you the goods. We have silks so fine, so exquisitely woven that fairy fingers might have held the shuttle which wove the beautiful fabrics. Certainly no fairy garments could be more beautiful than the dainty colorings of some of these silks. We have filmy silk voiles, a bewildering array of mousselines, foulards that would make a silk worm wonder how such lovely material could come from its repulsive body; chiffon-like weaves which are as light as a summer cloud; more practical silks and the heavy suitings for street suits. A glance through this department will satisfy you.—Wren's, Springfield, O.

A great showing of strictly new silks. Beautiful check silks, 36-inch widths, handsome quality, in the popular shades of tan and navy, $1.50 quality, our special price $1.25 the yard. New Roman stripe taffetas, the new fad, in the most wanted shades, 65c the yard. Special new silk voiles, specially new, nothing like it shown before, beautiful spring shades, 27-inch width, price 50c the yard. Handsome black voiles, 46-inch width, $1.25 values, special today $1.00 the yard. Handsome colored voiles, most wanted shades, special values, $1.00 the yard.—J. L. Mimaugh & Co., Columbia, S. C.

Every table in this department will be filled with special features to greet tomorrow's crowds. For this event we have not simply arranged to put forth our richest materials, but have adopted as our plan to display our greatest values. Your dollar will buy more silk in this department tomorrow than on any day in sight.—A. S. Knowles Dry Goods Co., Montgomery, Ala.

We would not have the biggest silk store in New Jersey if we did not sell the most silks, and we would not sell the most silks if we did not sell the most dependable silks, and sell them at moderate prices.—Hahne's, Newark.

It will interest you to see the silk display of new foulards in the silk store Monday. Foulard silk will be popular the coming season. You can get an excellent idea of all the newest patterns in these old time silks that will be worn for spring and summer costumes. All the newest spot effects are shown in blue and brown. Also a few new figured effects. Make it a point to see them.—Weinstock, Lubin & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Such dependable silk values for Tuesday will surely fill this department with eager buyers. You can replenish your wardrobe with a charming silk dress at little cost.—Scroggie's, Montreal.

In the silk store you can now find all the new colorings for spring in taffeta silks. If you are making a new costume or want linings for a new suit bring in samples of your materials and we will match them for you. You can get an excellent idea of the new spring shades by visiting the silk store.—Weinstock, Lubin & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Just think of buying handsome new colored taffeta silks at what they actually cost to make them. This will be a leader that no one can gainsay—There is every imaginable color—the regular selling price of these should be 75c and 85c per yard. This sale 59c.—The People's Store, Tacoma, Wash.

Fifty cent Crepe de Paris, 29 cents. Silk and cotton, yard wide. Again we have enough of this lovely fabric to advertise. And again the news will stir enthusiasm. A fine crepe de chine weave, silk one way and cotton the other. It has a luster almost as bright as pure silk and it has the strength of cotton. Very beautiful, indeed, for evening frocks.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Christmas silk sale. To those wishing to make a Christmas gift of a silk dress, skirt or waist, we will place on sale all our guaranteed black silks and fancy silk waist patterns, including the new Scotch plaids and moires. Space not permitting details, we herewith give you a few prices and widths for consideration.—Dancer, Brogan & Co., Lansing, Mich.

Gift silks for Christmas. These are excellent silks for waists and children's dresses. Neat striped and check designs in soft, delicate colorings of blue and white, green and white, brown and white, pink and white, lavender and white, etc. Good wearful qualities. This economic silk opportunity comes to you today at the very time of year when it is more than a usual satisfaction to save.—The Crews-Begg Co., Pueblo, Colo.

Rich black taffeta silks, yard wide and guaranteed. Plain facts and good reading. We might say the silks are worth more, and with truth, for we could back up the claim with facts, but leave it to your good judgment to discover the desirability of the silks at the prices quoted. The silks are the good old reliable kinds, made by a firm who temporarily suspended operations on these goods owing to the almost prohibitive price on raw silks, and inability to furnish the same reliable grade for which it was noted, at a price that would yield a fair profit. The silks are adaptive to suits, skirts, waists, linings, coats, every use to which a silk is put. They are guaranteed by us, and the maker warrants them.—John G. Myers Co., Albany, N. Y.

Silks! Silks! Silks!—Have you bought your silk suit? We have all the good things in silks. The demand for silks for entire suits has never been equaled, and we have been fortunate in securing the right styles.—R. P. Herndon & Co., Springfield, Ill.

Some of the beautiful summer silks are here, in time for people who are preparing for their southern trip or for those who are planning and working ahead on next summer's gowns. If for nothing else, they're worth coming to see for the advance styles and fashions they suggest.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

This weave has been approved as the fashionable dress silk for the coming season by the leading model makers of Paris. It will appeal to lovers of the beautiful in dress, not alone for the softness and richness of the weave, but for its original and artistic designs and color combinations. Our display is an assortment of choice designs and colorings.—Gimbel Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

The style wave of pongee silk coats is coming. There's magic in the words pongee silk coats this spring to stir up feminine interest. New York is all a furore over the style, and we don't mind prophesying that once the full strength of the style wave strikes Winnepeg our present stock of these handsome coats will be inadequate to supply the demand. Our present stock is made up of handsome model coats, selected from leading New York ladies' tailors. Beautifully appliqued and, for such lovely coats, exceedingly moderately priced.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnepeg, Can.

At our active silk department facilities and conveniences for selling are provided that are not found elsewhere. Our section devoted to showing evening silks is a feature that isn't duplicated in the city, and furnishes a very comprehensive and satisfactory method of displaying and matching evening silks.—Dayton's, Minneapolis, Minn.

Superb Display of Novelty Silks. New Effects.—Months of careful planning find their culmination in the finest display of fancy novelty silks we have ever brought together. All the new and scarce shades are shown—golden and cinnamon brown, onion skin, tans, castors, gun metal shades, Bavarian, Delft and cornflower blue.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

Silks that are fashionable, low-priced and good. Every department store sells fashionable silks and low-priced silks, but not always good silks. Many stores are all eyes for modishness and price. This store has another eye open for goodness—and a mighty sharp eye it is. No silk enters our store that isn't good. Modishness and price-lowness aren't enough—we demand more than that. Silks coming in this store must not only be right in fashion and rightly priced but “right good”—thoroughly, entirely, unquestionably good! In choosing silks here—you only choose good silks—silks that wear well, look well and satisfy. Our showings are wide and comprehensive, embracing every new weave in black and colors and all the various fancy and wash silks a decided silk season has brought forth.—Knight Dry Goods Co., Denison, Tex.

An important group of silks. Silks are in the minds of nine women out of ten, who are busy on their spring and summer wardrobe. Our whole silk section gains its prestige by reason of the silks we have secured for it, and these fine offerings that are presented here are of wide interest accordingly. These are mere illustrations that will be pleasing to hundreds of women this week. Including elegant silks for dresses, the best silks for waists and shirt waist suits, and splendid lining silks, all at prices that will offer a large saving without the least sacrifice of desirability.—Louis Einstein & Co., Fresno, Cal.

No woman who has ever bought silks at one of our half-price sales will need a second invitation to help herself to the splendid values we shall offer today. And though we always have variety and quantity in plenty, today's assortment will better even our previous records, for there are more silks, longer pieces, in more fashionable weaves and shades, than we've ever had to sell at half prices before, simply because brisk buying has left an unusual number of odd pieces and lengths in its wake. You'll find plain black silks, plain white silks, plain colors in every good shade; foulards, taffetas, louisines, messalines, Peau de Cygne—but what's the use of enumerating them all—every good weave is here; there are plaids, stripes, checks, polka dots, neat figures, Jacquard designs, etc., in plenty, and lengths sufficient for linings, separate waists, skirts, and in many instances whole gowns. Every piece at half marked price—which is its every-day retail figure—not some fictitious valuation.—Coulbert Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

More astonishing values from our popular silk department—a department that has tripled its business of last year! One great reason for the increase—the world's best silks in large variety at absolutely the lowest prices ever known.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia.

Where or how we obtained these new, beautiful silks that we are able to offer them to you at such bargain prices, of course does not interest you. All you want is the goods, and we promise you we will give them to you in generous quantities. We will display on special bargain counters miles and miles of yards of new silks at such sensationally low prices (quality considered) that wonderful selling will certainly follow from opening hour here tomorrow.—E. W. Edwards & Son, Troy, N. Y.

Important mid-summer sale of new silks. We are not always able to offer in the middle of the season, new bright silks at prices that are below the present cost of manufacturing. These are not old and shopworn silks, but are all new, stylish, fresh, and this season's latest silks just sent out to us by our New York buyer, bought by him at far less than the regular prices. We are offering these silks at lower prices than they cost to produce. The lots are not large, and if you are interested and want a pretty dress skirt or waist, come early, as the early buyers get the choicest and best selections. Sale starts at 8:30 o'clock.—Weinstock, Lubin Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Silks for fall. French taffeta plaids in lovely color effects, some with cross stripes in Dresden patterns. Clan plaids, too, in all the favorite color combinations—all to be made up in smart tailored effects, with little buttons, strappings and French neck bows as shown in advance waists from best makers. Prices start at 89c a yard and run up to $1.50.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Very newest silks and dress goods. You'll find them always at this store. "Dame Fashion" herself must have conspired with the silk and dress goods sections when this exquisite collection was assembled. All that is new, all that is rich, and all that you yourself could wish for in high-grade dress materials may be found here now. And the very vastness of it is responsible for the generous prices you will find at Yonkers, Des Moines, Iowa.

Some new and beautiful silks. If new goods make a new store this busy silk section is new. It is filled with the rarest and most beautiful plain, plaid, striped and fancy silks produced by both European and American weavers this season.—The Harris-Emery Co., Des Moines, Ia.

There will be lively silk selling for two days more at this store. The reason? Because we are going to sell silks for prices so low that every woman who sees them will realize that not to buy is to lose money. Our shelves and counters are uncomfortably crowded—perhaps we expected a bit too much when we bought our stocks—yet you'll find every yard is modish, in wanted weaves and colorings—worth far more anywhere, at any time, than the prices at which they are marked. The offer partakes of the sensational—as you'll agree when you come, and examine, and buy—for you'll buy! of that we're sure. Below we hint of the price reductions—but you'll have to come to this department in order to realize how much of opportunity and economy this store holds for you, just now.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghanton, N. Y.

Marvelous silk offer. 75c shantung pongee for 49c. So low a price for this elegant shantung pongee silk has never been mentioned in Newark before. It is the genuine article and made entirely of wild silk "Tussah," and contains no schappe, spun, dyed, or cotton substances. We guarantee that it can be boiled and still retain its individuality; in fact, washing improves this fabric. It is desirable for shirt waist suits, hoods, wraps, pajamas and automobile garments. See window display.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

What store can show a larger stock? What store can show a more varied assortment of beautiful silks in quality of patterns? There is not a store in Central Ohio that can approach this magnificent display of the most stylish silks of every kind. Staple silks, novelties, evening silks, fancy silks, every yard is stamped with the best quality values and the most approved fashion.—The Bowland, Morehouse & Martens Co., Columbus, Ohio.

A silk talk that will cause a rustle.—Z. L. White & Co., Columbus, Ohio.

A Rare Sale of Popular Silks.—Here's another Loeser characteristic offer of silks that will be sure to attract the very widest attention and extend matchless economies to those fortunate enough to avail themselves of the opportunity.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We have received a wonderful collection of new silks, suitable for every occasion. We guarantee the silks we sell. And in no store in the south can you find a more complete, a more comprehensive collection of silks.—The James L. Tapp Co., Columbia, S. C.

Lustrous, Beauteous Silks.—To see is to desire to possess—and you may for the smallest prices for which these goods have gone within all our recollection in storekeeping. If this sounds a bit strained, better look at the silks themselves and prove it to your satisfaction.—S. Kahn, Sons & Co., Baltimore.

New silks are here in prodigal assortment. It might be almost as well to stop with this announcement, for imperfect indeed must be the picture that we would attempt to paint of new arrivals. Never have these silk counters borne such evidence of the genius of the Frenchman, the cleverness of the Yankee. Perhaps makers have done better than ever, perhaps we have. We'll just draw aside the curtain a bit to give you a glimpse of the beauty. Many times more revealed than shown.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

Opening Sale for Fall Silks.—For whatever purpose you may desire silks, we are satisfied than nowhere else can you find such an elaborate display in color and texture as we are showing for this great event. While the prices are low, they are not inferior in quality and the one reason we can afford to make low prices is that we give no discounts to anyone, therefore save our customers from 10 to 15 per cent over what the same quality sells for elsewhere.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Silks.—No cheerier place in all the store to go a-Maying than where the silks are gathered. Pleasure and profit are there for almost every woman. The stock of them surpasses all former or competing collections, and we take the South into the comparison. That's a great big statement. Not a whit too big.—Chamberlain-Johnson-Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Some Splendid Silk Propositions for Monday.—Isn't it reasonable to suppose that our greatly augmented silk business comes about by having larger assortments, by quoting lower prices, by having better silks for those lowest prices than anywhere in Greater Pittsburg? Yes, we think it does. Here are some silk underprices that will make next Monday a close second to the tremendous silk business of last Monday.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

This is Silk Headquarters.—This is what the latest reports have to say of the silk situation of the present: "Fancy silks, in the neat, small designs, are selling freely." Patterns suitable for the silk shirt waist suit are referred to—foulards, taffetas and Louisines are the most wanted kinds, with foulards receiving first call. Crepe de Chine, plain and changeable taffetas and the new soft finish mousselines are very much used. We did not write the article for the Dry Goods Journal telling of these conditions, but the silk situation here is accurately described. To put it in a nutshell, we would say, "All silks are selling freely."—People's Store Co., Tacoma, Wash.

The newest expressions for the summer shirt waist suit are veritable dreams of richness and splendor. Prices range from $.75 to $1.25. Special attention is now directed to the real new gray effects—clever afterthoughts adopted from those ideas that have already proved popular. There are styles in dot, hair-line, pin-head check, checks with figures, etc.—a decidedly beautiful and entrancing collection in new tones of light and dark gray.—Gerretson Silk Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

This anniversary week presents more than twenty-five thousand yards of the season's most desirable silks, at less than you can buy the same qualities at any other store. All new silks—from the most reliable makers; absolutely perfect in weave and guaranteed for wear.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

Every yard is of absolutely dependable quality—goods bought from the leading silk manufacturers of America, from the world-known looms of Europe and the Orient. We want you to see this splendid display. We feel sure you will be interested. Not only will the beauty of the goods attract you, but the marvelously low prices at which they are marked.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Our silks this season are more beautiful than ever. Every piece is a picture in itself. All the latest styles—just arrived from all the foreign and domestic markets.—Golden Rule, Saint Paul, Minn.

This will be a great season for foulard silks. Many beautiful new designs have been conceived, and the patterns and colors are such as will make up handsomely for shirt waist suits. The silver grays and various shades of green will be highly popular colors. The advance arrivals now on display represent the choicest foulards that will be shown this year.—Ville de Paris, Los Angeles, Cal.

Lyons silks have the greatest reputation of any silk in the world. Every woman knows that and will go out of her way to secure them. This is the first time to our knowledge that they have ever been offered at a saving anything like the tremendous reduction that is making this sale the talk of the town. Not only among smart dressers but among the other stores that have not found a way to meet this wonderful selling event. It is a revelation to everybody. The price barely represents the actual cost to manufacture, and they are the richest effects. Checks and small figures and picturesque floral designs vie for the favor of multitudes of discriminating women, who, it seems, simply can't get enough of these wonderful values.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

We bought all the silks a prominent importer had—3,350 yards, mind you—and regardless of the extreme scarcity of desirable novelty silks, we bought these away under price. Why, there isn't a piece in the lot that is not worth nearly double the price asked. Novelty, originality and beauty crop out of every inch of these goods. You see elegance as interesting as a painting. The delicacy and richness of the many effects is exhilarating to inspect, being select. Nothing intrusive or alarming to good taste in the entire collection. Actual values up to $1.00 a yard. On sale today, yard 59c.—Whitehouse Dry Goods Co., Spokane.

A lucky strike indeed was this purchase of 1200 yards of the most popular silks worn today—a silk that lends itself most beautifully to the making of soft, clinging summer gowns and smart waists.—Bloomington, New York.

Foulard silks have long been a favorite among women. The "wearing test" has proven their durability. They are a sensible, usable, wanted silk. And foulard silks, unlike many kinds of merchandise, do not stand still. The return of every spring and summer brings more desirable patterns to our counters. The soft, delicate shades represented in these new foulards are in pleasing combinations for new spring costumes and shirt waist suits. They are in small, neat designs—mostly stripes and dots. The advantage of buying here is that our patterns are exclusive and can be found in no other store in Kansas City. If you like to see beautiful silks, come and view these.—Emery, Bird, Thayer, Kansas City.

You simply can't afford to miss an inspection of this showing when you begin to plan your spring gowns and waists. There is absolutely nothing new and correct in the way of spring silk that does not find its place in our display. Here are the favorite taffetas in plain and changeable, and the exquisite Swiss and French stripe and new chine effects; embroidered pongees in soft, dark colorings; fashionable rajahs and burlinghams; satin mousselines; warp printed crepe de chine, and all the other spring silks. An exposition of everything that is new and pretty and proper.—Bonesbo-Shaidnagle Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Summer silks, all of them, some washable, all desirable, and each with a tale to unfold of economy in price that is as pointed as it is profitable. Referred especially to those women who want cool, pretty Summer waists, shirt waist suits and dresses at less than they'd usually have to pay.—Wanamaker, New York.

Nowhere else in Newark will you see the patterns shown here—and we had first choice of the product of the world's best maker. These and swell novelty silks reflect spring styles that will please and benefit any woman to see. New in design, fresh in colorings, these silks are a revelation to women who keep in touch with fashion's latest decrees.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

This will prove one of the most popular silk sales we have ever conducted. Everybody knows that foulard silks were never before sold at such a price. And every woman wants foulard silks for waists and shirt waist suits. They come in the newest colorings for summer, including blue, green, brown and black backgrounds with the daintiest small dot effects—the newest thing for spring and summer. Measure 19 inches wide. Over 3,000 yards, so that everybody will have a splendid opportunity to secure some of them.—Hales, Los Angeles.

The approaching spring shows evidences, even now, that this is to be the greatest season ever known for silks. With the tidal wave, black silks will come in for their share of favoritism. The new two or three-piece suit, of a beautiful soft finish glossy black taffeta, or a stunning gown of a silk soft to the touch are certainly charming conceits for spring wardrobes. Messalines, Peau de Cygnes, Crepe de Angelus and Silencieux are the choicest of these soft materials.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Most women know the great popularity of bright taffeta silks for shirt waist suits. The taffetas shown for the coming season are of a softer weave and finish, which besides adding to their beauty, imparts to them much better wearing qualities. In this special sale we offer brilliant colorings in the newest colors, including the new shades of cardinal, garnet, cream, oyster, white, champagne, mode, golden brown, tan, reseda green, pink, sky blue, blue, pearl gray, royal, navy and dark navy blue, old rose, porcelain, blue, brown and turquoise blue.—Weinstock, Lubin & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Here are some of the irresistible offerings in handsome shimmering silks. In these items the purchasing power of your money is greatly magnified—sometimes two-fold. You are fortunate, indeed, if you can use them to advantage.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

This purchase represents silks which are entirely new this season. The styles and colors are only those that are in great demand for present and early Fall wear for the new shirt waist suits. They come in a variety of neat Jacquard and Faconne effects; also checks and hair-line stripes.—O'Neill's, New York.

"Moneybak" Black Silks.—The finest, most satisfactory and fashionable fabric for women who wear black. Made of selected raw silk, "Moneybak" will neither cut nor fade, and for durability, appearance and finish is unequalled. The trade mark "Moneybak" woven in white on the patented detachable selvage insures absolute security against loss from cutting or fading.—Dalrymple's, Salem, Ore.

Fresh from French looms and manufacturing comes a shipment of the newest of new silks in beautiful new designs and colorings, in faint, delicate tones as well as the strong, sturdy ones. You'll surely want to see them today.—'Tis none too early to be making up the new wardrobe for spring. They are pompadour silks in the new colorings, chamellon stripes and chamellon checks and new colored imported Shantungs. Among these new comers is a The "rajah silks" are in all respects a counterpart of true native Asiatic hand-loom fabrics, and at the same time they have elements of durability and usefulness which are so exquisite. They are adapted for street and house gowns, evening costumes and blouses.

The "Burlington" and "Le Jungle" are two more silks to which we would call your especial attention for tailored silk dresses and shirt waist suits. Then there are the Clifton bond taffeta and suitings in a handsome variety of colorings and styles.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

The 1909 shower-proof foulards. Nothing the silk store offers is more attractively springlike or more thoroughly practical for all-season wear than these pretty shower-proof foulard silks. Every yard sterling silk in character. Every yard proof against a summer shower, and colorings this year richer and softer than ever before. New patterns show smart variations of the popular stripe effects; chevron stripes, wavy lines, even cluster dots dashed on in stripe suggestion. Colors are new brown tones, green, rose and many shades of Copenhagen and navy blue, as well as black.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"These very silks I meant to put on the looms for Fall," said a manufacturer yesterday, "but here you are selling them for next to nothing!" All the better for you—if you buy now while the prices are half, instead of waiting till later.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Our great silk sale starts tomorrow! simple announcement is sufficient to crowd our store and effect the rapid sale of almost every piece of silk in the house. Our patrons have been kind and generous the past year and we feel the obligation keenly, and at this sale we have determined to show our appreciation by some unprecedented bargains. Preparations have been made through extra counter space and additional salesmen which will, we trust, lessen the crush that usually attends those sales.—Goldsmith's, Memphis.

Rough shantung silks in self-colored stripes. A lot of rough shantung silks closed out from an Eastern house away below regular has just been received and will be immediately turned over to customers with our little dry goods profit added to the low cost price. They are 27 inches wide, have a round thread, slightly rough weave, with a neat hair-line stripe of self color—one of this season's most popular and desirable semi-rough silks. Just the proper weight for three-piece suits, long coats, separate skirts and jumper suits. The lot comes in the new shades of rose, gray, Alice blue and brown. Choose from the lot to-day, instead of at $1.50 at 89c.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City.

Refreshingly new spring silks. A distinctly new note is sounded in spring novelty silks—a note that will be hailed with welcome by women who are becoming tired of the sorts of silk that have been worn for the past two or three years. Tuscan silks, these newcomers are named; the advance arrivals are indicative of their beauty; black and white block plaids with blue or green over-checks; even stripes of black and white; blocks of black over small checks of light blue, with tiny Jacquard figures; champagne shades with Oriental figures in blue, green, red and heliotrope; all 24 inches wide, shown in exclusive patterns, and buyable for $1.25 a yard.—Coulter Dry Goods Company, Los Angeles, Cal.

The soft richness of the new silks gives them an elegance that more than makes amends for fashion's dictum for plain silks. They are here in glorious profusion of supple weaves and lustrous colorings; in single and double widths. The satin florentine, satin roi, Elysee satin, satin majeste, satin meteore, crepe cashmere, satin royal, satin directoire, as well as plain messalines, satin duchesse, peau de cygnes, crepe de cygnes—shown in complete ranges, in street and evening colors.—John Wanamaker, N. Y.

New Colored Silks.—Many of our spring colored silks have arrived, and in point of variety and beauty they excel any previous showing. From week to week we shall refer to a few sorts in particular, but it should be remembered that they form but a very small part of our superb collection that awaits your inspection.—Hutzler Bros., Baltimore, Md.

On Monday the store will show glints of the first spring styles in silks. All the information that the two hemispheres are pouring in on us, all the knowledge which our close relations with the silk manufacturers of the country have enabled us to obtain, shall be yours for the asking. But, after all, words are mere symbols of thought often falling far short in their power to express physical things. The silks themselves are the eloquent, convincing spokesmen, and it is to them we ask you to turn for the really correct and expressive ideas which we are confident will give you much pleasure.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Our silk department has advertised itself. If it's to be had, and its silk, we have it.—The James L. Tapp Company, Columbia, S. C.

The first thing to say about them is: Never have we had silks so rich and beautiful, yet at the same time so practical, as those France, Switzerland and Italy have sent us this fall. They are not merely silks to look at and admire in a glass case, but silks to put on and wear and delight in because of their usefulness. The utmost simplicity is often the greatest art. Plain silks as these seem, they have a charm that holds you until you have discovered in them a wonderful variety of weave, a diamond brilliancy of finish, an unusual softness and grace of texture, a fascinating depth and richness of color.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Silks away down in price. That's the special word from the silk counter for Wednesday morning's selling. We have made the value so good that it will only last a few hours' selling at most—maybe two, maybe three. A splendid selection, including such popular silks as shepherd's plaids and fancy stripes, in taffeta and Louisine weaves. They'll make up with beautiful effect into waists, dresses and also separate skirts.—T. Eaton & Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Bordered silks. The Egyptian and original bordure foulards are one of the attractive features of the Easter show of silks. They're very new in style and pattern—exceedingly desirable for the tunic frocks that will be so fashionable; and we're assured that no other Cleveland store will have them. The body colors are handsome tones of Java brown and nattier blue.—Taylor's, Cleveland, Ohio.

Silks.—A pod the size of a peanut, the silk worm and the mulberry leaf, the raw material through the loom at the mill to the finished product, into the hands of the dressmaker to the stylish, rich costume for milady's wear is an evolution wonderful. By the aid of modern machinery besides the up-to-date methods of merchandising such as this store employs, these beautiful silk fabrics are within the reach of all.—McNaughton's, Muncie, Ind.

Those knowing little Japs, clever at so many things, have given us an ideal summer silk, cool as a zephyr, almost as light as that proverbial feather, fresh and dainty as the first spring snow-drop—yes, all that and washable. Now, isn't that an irresistible recommendation of excellence. And Tussore silk is an occidental substitute for the oriental pongee, looks like shantung and is used like it.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

"If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon or make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door." We make better silk sales than all the others, and the path will be crowded to the door of this sale. We are not writing books, preaching sermons or building mouse traps. But we are making the best silk sale and presenting the best silk bargains ever shown in this city, and the path will be well beaten and crowded to the door of this sale.—The Euwer Store, Youngstown, O.

The great sale of summer silks is near the end! It has wrought a revolution in the silk trade. Previous prices have disappeared from view. Without the slightest deterioration in quality we have placed before you all kinds of silk at absolutely the lowest prices known. For the final days of the sale there is still a magnificent assortment. Thousands upon thousands of yards. For the climax we have prepared values such as these.—Lit Brothers, Philadelphia.

We are fortunate to secure a line of high-grade advance fall styles, redingote, bolero, postilion in taffeta and peau de soie silk suits and are offering them this week at prices which will interest you. They are the newest and latest shades. We offer the general public every inducement to make this their great shopping store. We have the goods, we have the prices all right; we give trading stamps which are redeemed in beautiful and useful articles. We have good light and air, pleasant clerks. We sell only for one price. We deliver goods to any part of the city.—Haines, Washington, D. C.

We had our own pick of the patterns, from a manufacturer's surplus stock—took only what we wanted, and what we know you'll want—yet we got the very liberal concession that enables us to sell these attractive and seasonable silks at this low price.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Sensation after Sensation in That Silk Store.—When we advertise silk bargains you are never disappointed. While our regular prices on silks must necessarily always be as low or lower than other stores, we are ever aiming to secure lots no matter how large to sell so much below the usual prices that we can confidently announce them as great bargains.—Ehrich Bros, New York.

Sensational silk selling must follow when seasonable silks, every yard warranted perfect, can be bought at such low figures as these—of course these are not all the bargains, just four picked at random to illustrate the trend of the reductions.—Boston Store, Chicago, Ill.

Raw silk is costing so much more than last year that manufacturers have stopped half their looms and are going to clean up the stocks on hand, and then make sharp advances in prices if they fail to break the raw silk combination. So you know what's likely to happen. But it hasn't happened yet. So come promptly if you want some of these.—Campbell, Pittsburg, Pa.

One dollar and 75c silks at 59c a yard; but only for Tuesday's selling. Prices are beyond comparison elsewhere—which is invariably the case. And don't think they are "job lots" gotten up for sale purposes. They are a select assortment of the most wanted kinds, in weave, color and quality. Taken from our regular stock—to double the Tuesday business.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

An enormous sale of black silks, 10,000 yards offered at from one-fourth to one-third less than usual. This sale should establish beyond all question our pre-eminent position in silk retailing. It will attract enthusiastic throngs of buyers, but that is not enough. We mean it to make an indelible impression. We mean that when you come here and see these unrivaled values that you shall feel convinced that this is New York's leading silk store as judged from an economy viewpoint. Such splendid qualities at prices like these are certain to create an immense stir.—Rothberg & Co., New York.

Half Prices for Silks.—Rather clever news this, and we suppose you will be at the silk counter early Monday morning to get your share.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

So full of new silks that the doors won't shut are all the cupboards and corners of the store. We can't give away secrets, and don't want to say too much before the full formal display begins—but you will see some things if you come that will give you new hints.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

A breath of Spring, and wisp of sunshine and rainbow tints, feebly express the bounteous beauty shown at our silk counter.—The Scott Dry Goods Co., Cleveland, O.

Stirring news of splendid silks. It is easy enough to choose. There isn't a yard in the sale that starts tomorrow but what is desirable, fresh and fine. And yet, from makers with a surplus, or for other reasons, we have been able to buy such silks as later will bring full prices everywhere—and the prices tomorrow will be like this: $1.50 black satin crepes de chine, 98c.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

More wanted silks—more extraordinary pricing. No wonder the lots of silk that we expected would hold out all last week were gone before Thursday, for we never saw women more eager than were those thousands who came in here in answer to our silk announcements. By law of precedent, this week is bound to be another record breaker, for these silk values are just as sensational—and better, lots are much larger in most cases, so that the choosing will be practically unlimited.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

The silk section is beginning to feel the approach of spring. New things are coming in every day, and the showing this week is an authoritative forecast of the season's favorite styles.—Keely's, Atlanta, Ga.

New Silks Arriving Daily.—We might almost say "arriving hourly." Every woman likes to see them as fast as they come. The earlier you look at them the better. Dressmaking plans will work more smoothly, whether you start on them now or a little later.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis.

It is almost without rhyme or reason that we are selling these silks for so little. Any one of them might go into our regular stock at regular prices and would sell out inside of a month. But we've reduced the lot with the determination to wind it up in a week.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Spring Novelties in Foulard Silks.—Never such a handsome showing of the great Foulard family, and this includes superb new effects in satin brocades, satin twills, peau de gants and Liberty satins. Never such a business in January as we have had this year—but it could hardly have been otherwise with such an array of beautiful novelties at undervalue prices.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Silks and Velvets Again to the Fore.—So many, many young women came to buy today that all previous selling records in the silk store have been broken. We count ourselves able, therefore, to make a second announcement for tomorrow, which will enable those women to share who could not get here today. The residue will go quickly, however, so you must be prompt if you desire to obtain your portion.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The First Great Silk Sale of "Nineteen-Nought-Nine."—Many lots, many kinds in each lot, and every kind absolutely and altogether new. Such are the sensational purchases made recently in a hurried trip to Eastern markets. Next to the unheard-of cheapness, the point of importance is the newness of these silks. In many instances nothing like them has ever been shown here. Most of them are spring 1909 styles, and nearly all of them are exclusive with us. 1908 was the greatest silk selling year in the store's history, and in this sale we have put forth every effort to start 1909 aright. Each lot or item is worthy of a grand individual sale. What shall you say, then, to a half dozen or so, all equally strong and attractive? Read every item—we never printed better silk news than this.—Field, Schlick & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

A good time to buy your holiday silks. Never in the history of our store have we made such interesting prices on silks as at present. You cannot afford to buy elsewhere until you see these values.—Lantz, Mansfield.

Silk and Velvet Remnants.—The girl who can make her own stocks, or who has planned fancy work for Christmas, has a feast of pretty things awaiting her. We have thousands of pieces of silks and velvets of every description, in lengths varying from 1-4 to 11-2 yards.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago.

To see these beautiful silks in their rich colorings and attractive new patterns—silks that most women buy eagerly nowadays, and offered so much below their real value, one should be prepared to supply their silk needs for a good while to come.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Monday is silk day. You will long remember it. Eighteen thousand yards of silk in one vast sale—each yard spic-span new—just out of its original case—sparkling with lustre, scintillating with the subdued beauty of new color combinations, holding the eye entranced with the dainty charm that is lent by new stripes and dots and figures, and immediately conquering all beholders.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

The Parisian couturiers say "silks." The American dressmakers also say "silks!" Which means that it will be a silk season, par excellence. And the wizard looms have woven silks more exquisite in texture and coloring than ever before—such shades as you see in rare gems or beautiful flowers; and the mouselline finish makes them so soft and supple that they are shirred and plaited and ruched almost like chiffon.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

It's a few of the best efforts of the silk weavers of Japan, France and Switzerland that we present tomorrow, though we would not have you judge their beauty and qualities by these prices. It's our excellent connections in the world of silk and our unsurpassed buying facilities that enable us to price these beautiful fabrics at so little. Elsewhere you would have to search the high-priced silks to find their equal.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

A silk sensation!—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

A stir in silks. The silk store is all a-bustle today, with the coming of fresh supplies of the pretty summer silks you're always so keen about. Silks for dozens of present uses, bright and new, of excellent, most trustworthy qualities, and each offering welcome because of unusual economies in price.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

"Nevertear" silks. All the store sections which have to do with the wardrobe are hastening to get in their first word on fall subjects. We have already had something to say concerning some of the new fancy silks and now an important bit of news of black silks. We want to introduce a newcomer which bears its character right in its name and on its face—the "Nevertear" black taffeta silk. There is one of the finest makers in the country back of the name and reputation of this silk. We feel as though we could afford to put our name back of it, too. "Nevertear" is quite different from the ordinary taffeta silk as we find it today. It is almost lusterless—and has a much softer finish—reminds us of the old "American" silk, which some of you will remember.—"Nevertear" will make good its name—the maker's word for that. It is intended for dresses, petticoats, waists and linings. Its dull surface particularly recommends it for mourning wear.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr, Rochester.

These beautiful new fabrics, just from the looms of Europe and America, from which all the best favored ideas come, will be especially admired for the richness of the designs and the new colorings. Every piece has been especially brought forward for this opening exhibit, and is exclusive to this section. New foulards in stripes, rings, ovals, nail-heads, diamonds, cannelle, plaids, floral effects and dots on grounds of gobelin, reseda, new browns, heliotrope, navy, cardinal, black and white—24 inches wide—yard, 75c and $1.00. Imported shantungs in new hand-drawn work—original designs by Japanese artists—very practical and an exceptional value at this price—yard $1.50. New spring styles in hand-printed designs, 27 inches, yard $1.75.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Fashionable silks at favorable prices.—Globe Warehouse, Scranton, Pa.

The advent of real summery weather makes every woman who hasn't one wish for a fashionable foulard. These silks are dressy in appearance, delightfully cool and virtually dust proof. Every woman who dresses well knows their many virtues.—Hennessy's, Butte, Mont.

No words that type can frame can speak with sufficient eloquence and force of the unmatched values to be found in this assemblage of Simpson, Crawford Co.'s silks, which are recognized as the standard of excellence.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York.

There are several hundred thousand yards of fine, new, perfect popular silks just received from the importer. They are silks that will be worn during the summer, fall and winter. There are evening silks, street silks, black silks, colored silks, fancy silks, plain silks, printed silks, in almost limitless variety.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Summer silk news.—The first whisperings of fashions for fall are heard in the silk store. Before dog days are over—and they are not uncomfortable this season—the avocations and plans of many compel them to give thought to the wardrobe for fall and winter.

We are always mindful of this, and the various store sections which have a part in your dressmaking plant make preparations accordingly.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

The silk for your fall gown will cost you an average of thirty cents a yard less than its value if you supply your needs from this rich assortment of autumn silks at specially favorable prices.—Wanamaker, New York.

SMOKING JACKETS AND HOUSE COATS

Our special lines of Christmas smoking jackets and bath robes are now on display. Make your selections without delay and have the privilege of selecting from a complete new stock. Few things a man will appreciate more than one of these garments for a Christmas present. Do not wait until the big rush is on to do your buying in this line.—Titche Goettinger Co., Dallas, Tex.

We have about 100 too many smoking jackets and housecoats in size 36—in order to reduce the quantity in this one size we offer the coats at half price—all are fresh, new goods—put in for the holiday trade—double faced golf cloths, velvet and matelasse—former prices from $20 down to $5—Choice Tuesday, just half price, or $10 down to $2.50.—The Plymouth Clothing House, Minneapolis, Minn.

Men's House Coats at Half.—When a man is in the habit of slipping into a comfortable house coat or smoking jacket, as soon as he gets home at night, seasons make no difference to him. They do to us. We like to be rid of all our house coats, except a very few, by the early spring. So on all those that are booked for a hasty departure, we set half prices, and it's great good luck for the man who needs one of these most cozy, comfortable lounging coats.—The Wanamaker Store.

Step into a house coat for a comfortable evening at home. Throw off your business coat, and you'll wonder at the way your business cares vanish with it. Then slip on one of these cosy, comfortable and dressy Benjamin house coats, and you'll begin to regret having been without it all this time.—C. D. Vail & Co.

A clearance sale of house coats and dressing gowns. Sold more of these handsome house coats than we did last Christmas season—by a whole lot. To keep a good selection up to the last day of Christmas shopping we placed heavy orders, even though it would be necessary to price-sacrifice a few after Christmas. Now the sacrifice.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Smoking Jackets. The sensible, practical Christmas gift for a man, whether he smokes or not. Lowman has held the record for selling smoking jackets in all previous holiday seasons. This year we're going to break the record. Better jackets to offer you—better values to offer. A cleaner, choicer lot of jackets than have ever been in this store before. And we bought them right. We got these high-class jackets at about the same rate department stores pay for trash. To make an interesting sale we have included the bath robes and dressing gowns, divided the entire stock into three lots and put them on special sale Monday morning as follows.—Lowman & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Smoking Jackets. Fine assortment of attractive holiday smoking jackets, cut new style length and long lapels, fine quality broadcloth, tricot, eiderdown and fancy cassimere fabrics in blues, grays, tans, greens and plum shades, trimmed with fancy plaid and striped linings, also cuffs, collars and pockets trimmed with same fancy linings. $2.45 to $15.—Koch Bros., Allentown, Pa.

Bright colors in smoking jackets. Some stunning patterns that you will like. Come in and look these novelties over before the choicest ones are chosen.—King's, Philadelphia.

Makes you want to stay at home. Get into one of these house coats at the close of a hard day—you'll vow home keeping hearts are happiest.—Weed's, Buffalo, N. Y.

No use loafing around the house nights in your shirt sleeves when you can get a comfortable, stylish house coat at these low prices. We thought of your interests when the opportunity to make a good purchase was offered—now come here and pick out your coat. A multitude of styles—nearly every size.—Lamson's, Toledo.

Nothing induces a man to stay to home nights more than home comforts. Buy for your husband a comfortable house coat or smoking jacket—have it handy every night—you'll break up the longing for an evening with the boys or at the club. Some very pretty coats and jackets just in. Prices cover a broad range and sizes are suitable for any man.—Boston Store, Chicago, Ill.

SOAP

Fairy soap makes white hands and faces. No other toilet and bath soap has the cleansing qualities, the handy shape, and the lasting purity of Fairy Soap. It is pure white and remains so as long as it lasts. The price is but 5 cents—each cake wrapped and packed in a separate carton.—The N. K. Fairbanks Co., Chicago, Ill.

For more than a hundred years Pears has remained ahead of a thousand others.—Selected.

The odor left by a highly-scented toilet soap is not agreeable to most people of refined tastes. A delicate perfume may be used after an Ivory Soap bath with much more pleasing effect. Ivory Soap is so pure that it leaves only a sensation of perfect cleanliness.—Selected.

The morning bath starts the day right, makes the skin glow with health, gives that comfortable feeling of perfect cleanliness, if you use Woodbury's Facial Soap. Scientifically adapted to promote and preserve delicacy of the complexion. Stimulates the pores, tones up relaxed muscles, puts the skin in pink of condition, smooth, firm, clear.—Selected.

Don't break your back rubbing clothes when you can avoid it so easily by using Easy Task Soap. A pure white article made of only the best material. It requires no rubbing or boiling. Your clothes will last longer too.—The Hewitt Bros. Soap Co., Dayton, Ohio.

For infant or adult there is no soap as good as Ricksecker's soap for the skin and complexion. Being absolutely pure and free from all injurious substances, there can be no harm from its use. Doctors throughout America use and indorse this famous soap. Price 25c a cake, or 65c per box of three cakes.—Off & Vaughn Drug Co., Los Angeles.

Sleep cannot be imitated except in appearance, neither can Ivory Soap. There are other white soaps that look like Ivory soap, this is a penalty which it pays for its great success. But do not be deceived, there is only one Ivory, the others are imitations that fall far short of its perfections.—Selected.

Lifebuoy Soap is more than soap, yet it costs no more, for while it cleanses thoroughly it also disinfects—purifies—at the same time. As electricity gives light as well as power, so Lifebuoy Soap cleanses as well as destroys the unseen germs of disease. Ordinary soaps merely cleanse but do not safeguard health by destroying the germs of disease as Lifebuoy does. Buy a cake from your dealer, use it all up, and if it does not do all we say, he will refund purchase money promptly.—Lifebuoy Soap ad.

The sweetest thing on earth is the face of a little child. Its skin is exquisitely delicate, like the bloom of a ripe peach. Imagine washing a peach with colored and perfumed soap! Next to pure water, Ivory soap is the purest and most innocent thing for a child's skin. No chemicals! No free alkali! Just a soft, snow-white puff of down, which vanishes instantly when water is applied.—Proctor & Gamble Co.

Are there blemishes on your skin? Pimples, rash, clogged pores, black heads or freckles? They can be removed permanently. Craddock's Medicated Blue Soap heals and keeps smooth and soft the most sensitive skin. In fact, it is the only soap that is sold under a positive guarantee to cure any and all skin diseases. Craddock's is "the soap that soothes."—Selected.

The daintiest soap made is Hand Sapolio for toilet and bath. Other soaps chemically dissolve the dirt—Hand Sapolio removes it. It contains no animal fats, but is made from the most healthful of the vegetable oils. It opens the pores, liberates their activities, but works no chemical change in those delicate juices that go to make up the charm and bloom of a perfect complexion. Test it yourself. The fame of Sapolio has reached far and wide. Everywhere in millions of homes there is a regard for it which can not be shaken. Sapolio has done much for your home, but now for yourself—have you ever tried Hand Sapolio, for toilet and bath? It is related to Sapolio only because it is made by the same company, but it is delicate, smooth, dainty, soothing, and healing to the most tender skin. It pleases everyone.—Selected.

SODA

The soda water we serve is sure to please those who appreciate quality.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Leave your thirst at our fountain. "The parting will be sweet."—Wanamaker's, New York.

The soda water we serve touches the thirsty spot and satisfies the fastidious ones.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Delicious foaming soda flavored with pure fruit syrups and served with cream. Can anything be cooler or more cooling?—Macy's, New York.

Refresh yourself during the summer days at our soda fountain. The most delicious drinks with pure fruit flavors. Just try our fountain once.—Wanamaker's, New York.

The difference in soda drinks.—Two persons may mix the same materials and get a greatly different result. Then, too, the deliciousness of a drink depends much on the quality of the ingredients. Our fountain is in charge of an experienced dispenser—a man who thoroughly understands the serving of mixtures and who keeps instant tab on the new things as they are introduced; and in line with the policy of our whole store none but the absolutely pure materials are served from our fountain.—Wanamaker's, New York.

She smiles with delight, and so do all our patrons when ice cream is served that is calculated to tickle even the most fastidious taste, made from the very purest and choicest of cream and fruit flavors, containing nothing in the smallest degree unhealthful. It is both delicious and wholesome.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Cooling lays for thirsty days.—Caldwell Sweet, Bangor, Me.

There are other reasons besides location to account for the crowds at Dean's fountain—try the soda!—Dean's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Chocolate ice-cream soda made and served exactly right.—Chocolate is the hardest to make and make right. It requires so much care and attention. Then good chocolate is expensive and a great many "skimp" on the quantity used. Try our chocolate—it's delicious.—Andrew R. Cunningham, Detroit, Mich.

Hot, isn't it? Soda water and ice cream are the most desired articles now-a-days. The following ads, selected from old newspapers, are a little modified and herewith given for the benefit of those who are looking for suggestions when writing ads for the hot and thirsty.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Always remember at Wiley's it's pure, that's sure. Our fountain is marked by its daintiness and cleanliness—everything looked after as carefully and kept as clean as though we had to do all the drinking ourselves. Our soda water and ice cream are the kind that's sure to please you—we are confident of that, for no purer or better can be made.—Wiley's, Atlanta, Ga.

Ginger ale outclasses lemonade, and there is not the trouble of making it. We have the genuine Belfast. Just hot enough to be interesting.—T. E. Burns Company, Knoxville, Tenn.

Strawberry ice cream. The choicest selected strawberries and bananas make these two flavors of our ice cream especially fine. Our pineapple, vanilla, chocolate and others are the best of their kind.—Hazelwood Co., Spokane, Wash.

It touches the spot just right, and the effect produced stays with the drinker. Don't flood the stomach with ice water and other stuff that brings discomfort first and dyspepsia afterwards. What's more delicious than our foaming soda, flavored with pure fruit syrups and served with cream? Can anything be cooler or more cooling? Drinking it has delighted crowds and hurt no one.—Wyman's, Bangor, Me.

Wiley's is a delightful place to visit these warm days. And why so? A large, bright and well-ventilated room, cool as can be—music by Atlanta's best orchestra—and the purest and best possible iced drinks, ice cream and ices served. Could you want for a better Summer attraction? Before and after a tour of shopping in the mornings and afternoons, or a car ride after tea, are the times to think of us and the many attractions that await you.—Wiley's, Atlanta, Ga.

Drink Dean's delicious ice cream and soda. It's satisfying, it's cooling.—Dean's Drug Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

Leave your thirst at Dean's fountain. "The parting will be sweet."—Dean's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Barton's maple mist and sweet cherry 5c. ice cream soda are considered the finest drinks in the city. We use only the pure fruit juice. When warm and thirsty come and see us.—Will M. Barton, Mansfield, Ohio.

Pomona ice.—A fruit punch that has body and a delicious New Flavor that's produced by the blending of choice ripe fruits. We make it and it is served at our fountain (5c.) every day. A cool, refreshing summer drink without an equal.—Schlotterbeck & Foss Co., Portland, Me.

Ice cream soda.—There's but one good kind and you'll find that at Malstrom's. It is our earnest endeavor to "Get Next" to just what you want, not too sweet, just enough soda water "to make it right" and only the best ice cream. Best fruit flavors and all the new "kinks" in serving make this the best soda fountain in the North.—Malstrom Bros., Tacoma, Wash.

The Drinks We Serve are just as good on cool days as hot. We've drinks for all appetites and all people. Our Soda is as pure and delicious as it's possible to make. Our Ginger Ale is a world beater—has that satisfying taste that makes it so popular. Our Policy of Low Prices pleases the public, and that's what we are here for.—Loranger & Culver, Saginaw, Mich.

Dean's soda is sure to please those who appreciate quality.—Dean's Drug Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

A delicious summer drink that is healthful for the children, as well as adults, is our sparkling root beer, lemon soda, and sarsaparilla. For mixing drinks for papa and his friends there is nothing so delicious as our snappy ginger ale and our fine carbonated waters. No one should be without these comforts during the Summer months.—Spokane Bottling Works, Spokane, Wash.

Hall's soda touches the thirsty spot and satisfies the fastidious ones.—Geo. E. Hall & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Good Soda.—Syrups made from the fruit, plenty of ice, "velvet" ice cream, clean glasses and spoons and an obliging clerk, all go together to make a glass of good soda.—Andrew Cunningham, Detroit, Mich.

A glass of soda smoothes things out and ends a lovers' quarrel, makes mamma and the children happy and braces up papa for his business duties. There is nothing so refreshing or so bracing on a warm day as a glass of our ice cream soda, flavored with pure fruit juices or our orange phosphate. Try it.—Smith & Good, Lexington, Ky.

When you drink Sun's soda you drink the best, the freshest, the cleanest soda made. We know how to mix soda drinks in the proper style—know just what to put into them to reach perfection. If it's an egg chocolate you order, you'll drink the best egg chocolate that can be made. If it's an ice cream soda, ditto. In fact, it doesn't matter what you order, it will be the best. Now, suppose you try us once—a fountain in every store.—The Sun Drug Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

"Mr. Smith, how do you make such delicious ice cream?" A frequent question asked of us. Do you know how delicious it is? Drop in and let us serve it to you. Everything is neat and clean and of the best. We make over 100 different drinks with and without ice cream and they are all right.—Smith's Pharmacy, Janesville, Wis.

"Never tasted anything nearly so good" is the verdict of all who have tried our choice fruit flavor soda. It's so delicious as to almost force an expression of delight from a sphinx. Prepared from purest and finest ingredients, it is always of uniform high quality. Try a glass of this unrivaled ice cream soda. 'Twill make you feel there's something worth living for.—Hemlick, Mansfield, O.

The Difference in Soda Drinks.—Two persons may mix the same materials and get a greatly different result. Then, too, the deliciousness of a drink depends much on the quality of the ingredients. Our fountain is in charge of an experienced dispenser—a man who thoroughly understands the serving of mixtures and who keeps instant tab on the new things as they are introduced; and in line with the policy of our whole store none but the absolutely pure materials are served from our fountain.—Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co., Colorado Springs, Colo.

The soda that's right. It's said to be the best in town—this soda of mine—but that's just because it's made right, flavored right and served right. There's a lot in knowing how to do things right, even in the soda water business.—Turner's Drug Stores, Altoona, Pa.

Cool, sparkling soda, served in cool, thin, sparkling glasses by an expert mixologist, makes Wynkoop's ideal soda peer of all. We've many new drinks this year.—Wynkoop-Vaughn Co., Tacoma, Wash.

To drink a dream try our soda water. It is all that money, experience, skill and cranky ideas as to purity and cleanliness can make it. Sparkling water, rightly charged—pure fruit syrups—plenty of ice—glasses of ample size—these are a few of the features that account for its excellence. Try our perfect and daintily served soda once and you'll need no second urging.—Sawyer's Pharmacy, Schenectady, N. Y.

Our ice cream soda and sundaes are so good that they are helping us to sell more soda water than we ever sold before. Let our soda fountain help make this hot weather pleasanter.—Pedley, Mitchell & Egbers, Cannon City.

We are especially prepared to furnish bottled soda in any quantity to picnic and excursion parties, and the best for the money—always.—Solomon's, Pensacola, Fla.

It touches the spot just right, and the effect produced stays with the drinker. Don't flood the stomach with ice water and other stuff that only brings discomfort first and dyspepsia afterwards. What's more delicious than our foaming soda, flavored with pure fruit syrups and served with cream? Can anything be cooler or more cooling? Drinking it has delighted crowds and hurt no one.—Macy's, New York.

Dean's soda touches the thirsty spot and satisfies the fastidious ones.—Dean's, Los Angeles, Cal.

For a pure and delicious sherbet or punch try one of Wiley's, made from the purest cream and choice ripe fruit juices.—Atlanta, Ga.

Delicious soda waters aren't a happening. It takes pure fruit juices, the best of ingredients, utmost cleanliness and expert knowledge to produce them.—Charles Stuckert, Trenton, N. J.

We are often asked why it is that our soda and fountain drinks taste so much better than those they get at other places. It is because the water is perfectly carbonated by our electric generator producing that clear, sparkling water, with its snap and sparkle, that goes right to the thirsty spot. It is because our fountain is so constructed that it produces the coldest soda water that can be drawn. It is because our fountain is the sanitary kind, and every glass of soda drawn from it means health and happiness.—Pedley, Mitchell & Egbers, Cannon City, Colo.

A lover's retreat is our soda fountain. For those who love a cool and refreshing soda, flavored with the real taste of the garden, just sweet enough, our fountain suits. There must be something about our fountain that brings people back for more. You will come back, too, when you taste our flavors.—Owl Drug Store, San Bernardino, Cal.

Of course you want the best soda. Ever try Kingston's? If you have, you know it's the best. If you haven't—well you know you are missing it. It's cold, sparkling, luscious with rich creamy cream—and tastes just right. We mix it as you want it.—Kingston, Denison, Texas.

Our ice cream soda is one of the most popular drinks to be had in town. It brings people from everywhere; it's so delicious and cool.—Geo. E. Savage, Portland, Me.

Soda Water at Will—With a "Sparklets" Bottle.—How often have you wanted carbonic water, to add the necessary life to your cooling drink, and found the club soda or syphon exhausted? With a "sparklet" outfit no such accident can happen; for you can always have your soda water plant at your elbow. There's a magic in the little capsules, that is easily invoked to make a cooling and refreshing drink. An attractive new feature is the club soda set of six bottles, charging case, and box of "sparklets" capsules, so that a sufficient supply of carbonated water can be prepared and set away to keep cool, until needed.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Ing's ideal soda is soda lightful.—The Ing & Allen Drug Co., Sacramento.

Dean's soda tickles the palate and quenches thirst.—Dean's Drug Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

Dean's delicious foaming soda flavored with pure fruit syrups and served with ice cream. Can anything be cooler or more cooling?—Dean's, Los Angeles.

The choice is not limited to half a dozen flavors. There's more than twice that number from which to select the flavoring for your soda water. All are rich fruit syrups and perfectly delicious. The soda water is pure and wholesome, and everything around the fountain and counter is clean and inviting.—Patten Pharmacy, Grand Forks.

Try our delicious soda water and you will get the coolest and most delicious drink right in front of our fountain. We have the purest and best syrups and flavors, and we know exactly how to draw a glass of soda that will hit your thirsty spot every time.—Peoria Candy Kitchen, Peoria, Ill.

It's Drinking Time.—Don't wait until you are thirsty. Thirst isn't necessary for the enjoyment of our soda. Extra good soda is good any time. There's satisfaction in its deliciousness. Our soda isn't the ordinary soda—it isn't made from ordinary materials. It's the kind of soda that requires the best grade of fountain supplies, abundance of ice, skill and conscience in the making. It's the kind that affords little profit and makes friends.—Dr. E. D. Morrison & Co., Valley Junction, Ia.

To Reach That Thirsty Spot.—Makes no difference how big your thirst is, a soda drawn from our fountain is sure to quench it. Our ice cream soda has every element of superiority—that's the secret of its popularity.—Loranger & Culver, Saginaw, Mich.

Our best soda fountain is sizzling and fizzing and bubbling with the most delicious drink. None but the best quality of materials is used, and folks tell us that we know how to make delicious soda drinks.—A. G. Reynolds & Co., Co., Denison, Tex.

Satisfying Soda. Our soda is made just right, tastes just right and the drinking is followed by that satisfied feeling. Any drink worth drinking we serve, serve several to be found here only. Bring in your thirst and call for the antidote you found most satisfactory.—J. G. Jamieson, Charlotte-town, P. E. I.

A bargain in every glass. Some soda water is good and some not so good. Ours is too good to sell for 5 cents; but as we cannot afford to sell a poor glass of soda any more than we can a poor drug, we will give you a bargain in every glass.—Jay Smith & Son, Saginaw, Mich.

The vast army of soda water drinkers is growing as the days grow warmer. Refreshing and exhilarating, it's the most popular summer beverage for all classes of people. Those who visit this fountain are of one opinion—"the soda that wets the dry spot."—Turner's Drug Stores, Altoona, Pa.

Chocolate ice cream soda is the hardest flavor to make right, it requires so much care and attention. Besides, good chocolate is expensive; but that makes no difference here. Our chocolate is perfect in quality and generous in quantity. Try it—it's delicious.—Clark's Ice Cream Parlor, Lockport, Ill.

Say, girls, the laugh has been on you so many times about your complexions being bought in a drug store at two bits a box—Here's a secret—You can buy it for five cents a glass at our soda fountain—and it's the kind that won't come off. You may tell that healthful tint in the cheeks of a majority of smiling faces about our fountain, any day, for our soda tattoos a rosy, healthful hue that sapolio couldn't budge—there's health in every drop—mental nourishment, too—for it drives away dull care and instills a cheerful disposition.—The Ing & Allen Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Soda Water Philosophy. Facts worth remembering. Some people don't believe in soda water. They say it's too sweet—injures the stomach, etc. That's nonsense! True, there's a great deal of poor stuff sold under this name—chemical syrups, half carbonated water—but when you drink what we serve, you do your palate, your stomach and your digestion a genuinely good turn. In the tropics fruits of all kinds are the principal diet—a wise Providence so provides it. When the sun brings out the perspiration here, we give you the pure fruit juices without the pith and fibre, which are the indigestible parts. And the sparkle—who will say it isn't better than the exhilaration of alcohol? And the refreshing coolness—who will claim it is not more invigorating than the effects of beer or wine? The drinking habit won't harm you if it gets its supply from our fountain. Come—and bring the lady with you!—Adrian Paradis, Brooklyn, N. Y.

There is nothing on earth that will cool you as quickly as a glass of pure, sparkling, delicious soda. And when prepared with the purest of fruit juices and choicest of cream, like ours, it is as nectar for the soul. We serve ice cream soda that can't be excelled. Cooling, refreshing, reviving, wholesome, palatable, delightful. You must try it.—Mykranitz Pharmacy, Columbus, Ohio.

Oh, But It's Good.—That's what they all say about our soda. When something really delicious, refreshing and satisfying is desired, drop in here and try our ice cream soda. It's the very acme of Summer pleasure.—Gray & Worcester, Detroit, Mich.

Our soda fountain is now at your service for the summer season. A fine place to stop and enjoy a delicious, refreshing drink—pure and wholesome.—The Diamond Drug Store, Kansas City.

A few swallows of Mykrantz's delicious, cold and sparkling soda water on a sultry day will open your eyes to the difference in a high grade, pure fruit juice flavoring and that made by artificial processes. Mykrantz's choice soda water is a boon to the thirsty on a hot day like this.—Mykrantz, Columbus.

Something sparkling, exhilarating, refreshing comes from our soda fountain on every turn of the valve. You will soon learn how delicious each one of the many drinks we prepare is. And you will soon learn that our soda is as pure and wholesome as perfect materials and great care can make it.—Dudley's Drug Store, Silver Springs, N. Y.

There is nothing on earth that will cool you as quickly as a glass of pure, sparkling, delicious soda, and when prepared with the purest of fruit juices and choicest of cream, like ours, it is a nectar to the soul. The ice cream soda we serve cannot be excelled. It is cooling, refreshing, reviving, wholesome, palatable and delightful. You must try it at Lilley's Ice Cream Parlors and Candy Factory, Victoria, B. C.

Sliced Peaches and Crushed Raspberries.—What a vision of deliciousness arise as you think of them in connection with a cooling draught! How tempting the thought! Well, they're more than tempting when served with our ice cream soda. All this would be wasted on old customers. They know there's no drink like these two beverages of ours. They're around our fountain every day. It's the stranger that we hope to attract.—Schlotterbeck & Foss Co., Portland, Me.

An elevated taste is displayed by those who drink our soda water. They have learned to discriminate between the good, bad and indifferent and have chosen the good as their favorite beverage. Our soda fountain can supply an almost endless supply of flavors, and from those and the pure soda water are concocted delightful, refreshing, wholesome and invigorating drinks.—A. L. Ziegler, Drugist, York, Pa.

Hall's is a delightful place to visit these warm days. And why so? A large, bright and well ventilated room, cool as can be—music by electric piano, and the purest and best possible iced drinks, ice cream and ices served. Could you want for a better summer attraction? Before and after a tour of shopping in the mornings and afternoons, or a car ride after tea, are the times to think of us and the many attractions that await you.—Geo. E. Hall & Co, Binghamton, N. Y.

Meet me at Watson's fountain. That's what you should say to your friends if you want to please them. We have an expert operator in charge at each of our stores. Our soda is pure, delicious, refreshing and everything that good soda should be.—Watson's, Winnipeg, Can.

Delicious soda daintily served. Everybody likes our soda water with its sparkling freshness, its refreshing ice-coldness and its thorough purity and wholesomeness. We go to endless pains to make each drink suit the particular taste of each individual customer. We serve it just as you like it.—People's Pharmacy, Denison, Texas.

Ice cream soda.—There's but one good kind and you'll find that at our fountain. It is our earnest endeavor to "Get Next" to just what you want, not too sweet, just enough soda water to "make it right" and only the best of ice cream. Best fruit flavors and all the new "kinks" in serving make this the best soda fountain.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia.

Our soda fountain is the chilliest, coldest, frostiest proposition in town.—Loranger & Culver, Saginaw, Mich.

Our ice cream soda is one of the most popular drinks to be had in town. It brings people from everywhere, it's so delicious and cold.—Macy's, New York.

An elevated taste is displayed by those who drink our soda water. They have learned to discriminate between the good, bad and indifferent and have chosen the good as their favorite beverage. "Never tasted anything nearly so good" is the verdict of all who have tried our choice fruit flavor soda. It's so delicious as to almost force an expression of delight from a sphinx. Prepared from purest and finest ingredients, it is always of uniform high quality. Try a glass of this unrivaled ice cream soda. 'Twill make you feel there's something worth living for.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Our ice cream parlor is a delightful place to visit these warm days. And why so? A large, bright and well ventilated room, cool as can be—and the purest and best possible iced drinks, ice cream and ices served. Could you want anything better in these scorching hot days?—Macy's, New York.

Pomona Ice.—A fruit punch that has body and a delicious new flavor that's produced by the blending of choice ripe fruits. We make it and it is served at our fountain (5c) every day. A cool, refreshing summer drink without an equal.—Macy's, New York.

Real ice cream soda. That's the kind we serve. Although in this enlightened age it is possible to make a pretty good imitation of ice cream without using cream of sugar, we are still old-fashioned and use the real ingredients. That's why you get such delicious ice cream soda here. We spare no expense in making our ice cream soda. Not only is the ice cream pure and good but the syrups are made from real luscious fruits. If it were possible to make better we would do so. Our cleanly service helps to make soda drinking more delightful.—Reynolds Drug Co., Denison, Texas.

Soda. The darkest face will brighten after a glass of our delicious soda. The tired and thirsty man or woman will find it both satisfying and refreshing. A glass of sparkling soda drawn from our fountain will make you think it indeed the fountain of youth. It will banish the lassitude due to the heat, comfort the parched throat and tickle the palate as no other drink can. Have one with us.—Exchange Drug Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Soda Fountains. Several rare bargains in our warerooms for quick delivery. Easy terms of payment. A postal will bring our representative.—Robert M. Green & Sons, Philadelphia.

Golden Orangeade. Cooling, refreshing, healthful. A soda beverage that makes a long thirst scamper. If you drink Golden Orangeade you will wish you had a neck as long as a giraffe's. It is the drink for these sizzling July days. Long drink, 5c.—Towne, Seccombe & Allison, San Bernardino, Cal.

When thirsty quench your thirst at our soda fountain. The coolest, most refreshing drinks are to be obtained there. The best ice cream soda in the city, made from pure fruit flavors. Root beer, vichy and all kinds of mineral waters served ice cold, for hot

A sip for the fair generally includes a glass of delicious soda water. We have it in all flavors as well as all other "soft drinks," such as sarsaparilla, ginger ale, root beer, etc. It is all pure and guaranteed. There is a delightful feeling of comfort that follows a drink of this matchless soda. Make a trial of it in the near future. Then you will wonder how you have managed to do without it so long.—Owl Drug Store, San Bernardino, Cal.

Pure food chocolate with our sundaes. The chocolate we use to make our syrups for the fountain is "Bensdorp's," the most expensive, the purest made. Imported for high grade use, it is one of the few that conforms to the Pure Food Law. Try a soda with this chocolate.—Central Drug Co., San Bernardino, Cal.

The Fountain. Refresh yourself during these hot days at the Marble Fountain. The most delicious drinks with pure fruit flavors. Lemonade, coca-cola, but our specialty is ice cream soda. In the tea room we serve ice cream in all sorts of unique ways.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Maple mist and sweet cherry five-cent ice cream soda are considered the finest drinks in the city. We use only the pure fruit juice. When warm and thirsty come and see us.—Macy's, New York.

STATIONERY

Forty per cent. discount sale on some society stationery. "French dimity" is one of the most popular and best selling papers in our society stationery at 25c per pound. It is "standard"—the stock never varies. The manufacturers, in some unaccountable way, made for us last month a quantity that was a little light in weight—just enough to forbid its sale as regular stock. The quality is perfect, but instead of 76 sheets to the pound it is sufficiently light to average 98. This warrants you in anticipating your stationery wants for a long time.—The Burrows Brothers Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Visiting cards, monogram dies engraving. We take pleasure in announcing that we are now in a position to fill all orders for engraved plate work and die embossing with promptness and dispatch. Samples now ready for your inspection.—H. S. Crocker Co., Sacramento, Cal.

"The Drug Store on the Corner." How do your letters look? Are they dainty epistles, written on paper that will appeal to people of good taste? Strangers often judge correspondents by the kind of stationery they use. Don't be judged wrongly by using poor, out-of-style papers when only a slight outlay will provide you with a box of stationery that is strictly correct. Anything from our new spring styles will be right, and there's a wide variety from which to select at prices from 25c to $1.00 a box.—Central Drug Company, San Bernardino, Cal.

Wedding stationery. This store is rightly known as headquarters for the finer grades of wedding announcements, invitations, "at home" and visiting cards. We carry the highest class stock made—our workmanship is perfect—service quick and prices exceedingly moderate. Ask to see specimens of the newest styles.—Field, Schlick & Co., St. Paul.

Another marvelous stationery offer. Again we are in the lead—this time it's Knickerbocker Vellum, a hand plait laid correspondence paper at a popular price. We will, as usual, give our patrons the very newest thing in paper at the very lowest possible prices, and in addition this paper will be sold exclusively at the Mannheimer store. You have no doubt been reading about this style of paper for some little time, and we now have it so that it can be sold at a very low price. This rich looking paper comes in white only—is perfect to write upon, as the pen glides over the surface so easily. It has a beautiful texture, comes in four of the most wanted sizes, and artistic cuts in envelopes—Bijou (note), Louvre, Cambridge, Gladstone and Empress, and is truly the gem of all writing papers. Don't forget when you're down town to ask to see this excellent paper. You should have it on your writing table, as it is ideal.—Mannheimer Bros., St. Paul.

Correct wedding stationery for June brides. If you're undecided just what kind of stationery or lettering you want, a suggestion from us will no doubt prove of value, for we are always in close touch with the latest ideas in form, wording, lettering, etc. This season's samples are now ready and show the newest style lettering—shaded old English, French text, script, etc.—and our stationery section possesses every possible facility for the execution of invitations, announcements, commencements, programmes, at home, calling cards, etc., in a manner that is both highly artistic and faultlessly correct, and always at the lowest prices.—Mannheimer Bros., St. Paul, Minn.

Engraving and stationery. Thousands of people recognize our superior workmanship in the engraving business by continually re-ordering from their card plates which are left with us. We have just received an enormous shipment of visiting cards which will be used in filling holiday orders. Our stock of high grade writing paper is most complete, comprising Whiting's French Organdie and Cheviot and Hulburt's Highland Linen—three of the finest papers made. The newest shades and the latest cut envelopes are shown.—M. A. Hagen, Fargo, N. D.

Note paper and stationery. Stationery of the finest quality usually commands a fairly high price, but here's a special offer for the big sale which will surely be accorded a most enthusiastic reception by all of particular taste in the note paper line.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Calendars and cards, Xmas cards, post cards, calendars and booklets in endless variety; both Raphael Tucks' and International Art Co.'s complete lines. Anything you may want in calendars and cards, from the simple, dainty ones at 1 cent each to a Christy or Fisher calendar at $2.50 and $3.00.—The Fair, Fort Worth, Tex.

Fine stationery isn't necessarily expensive. Many of our most attractive styles sell for less than you have paid for inferior and imperfect papers. We sell stationery of absolute correctness in detail—of elegance and individuality. Ford Smith & Little Co., Los Angeles.

Unmounted photo and post-card books. Not the stiff cover style; these are bound in soft velvety leather and decorated with burnt work designs—Indian heads, and so on. Uncommon and low-priced.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

A letter delivers two messages. One is contained in the written words; the other in the paper. One expresses the writer's thoughts; the other, the writer's taste. The message that Eaton's Highland linen carries is one of refinement. The next best thing to knowing what is correct in a writing paper is to know a dealer who knows. We know, and we have the papers in Eaton's line. Let us show them to you.—The Central Drug Co., San Bernardino, Cal.

Stationery.—It is not often that you have such a stationery offering as this one: Plain white and light blue linen, good quality, finely finished, nicely boxed, two quires of paper and four dozen envelopes in each box for only 39 cents. Don't forget to take advantage of this opportunity when up town to-morrow. These values cannot be duplicated in Paris; a box of elegant stationery.—Cook-Record Co., Paris.

There is nothing that counts for so much in a letter as your own good "gray matter" but—don't neglect the stationery you write on. Common, bad, cheap paper takes the "snap" out of the best letter—good paper makes a good letter better still. Our stationery is up-to-date and of the very best quality at the right prices. The stationery you buy here will make your letters more attractive.—Hanna, Denison, Tex.

Boxes of writing paper. Ideal gift boxes of fine writing paper offered now for a very low price, because the artistic box tops represent a surplus, and the maker made a special price concession to close them out. The box tops are all imported and most are hand colored. The paper is in the correct square sheet with a fabric surface. There are 24 sheets and 24 envelopes in each box. A box of this paper, die stamped, would make an especially pleasing holiday or birthday gift. Not over six boxes to a purchaser. None sent c. o. d.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Christmas engraving. Order now. Loeser engraved stationery or visiting cards represent gifts of acknowledged worth and value, because everybody in Brooklyn knows about Loeser engraving. Many stores are making extravagant holiday offers of low prices in engraving. That means extra helpers—temporarily called in to finish up the work in time. No temporary, unskilled or inexperienced laborer is permitted in the Loeser engraving plant—at Christmas time or at any time. For those who order now there is opportunity to get fifty visiting cards and plate engraved in script for as little as 98 cents.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Appropriate Stationery. No matter what the importance of the letter you write may be, use the best paper. Select the finish that appeals to you most and use it always—let it become a part of your individuality. We carry in stock a complete line of mourning and assorted stationery, ranging in price from 25 cents per pound up. Get our samples and prices of engraved visiting cards, wedding invitations, etc., before ordering elsewhere.—LeBron Jewelry Co., Montgomery.

Xmas stationery. A showing of stationery in Xmas boxes, more complete than ever before. Beautiful boxes in holly and other appropriate designs, fancy boxes with ribbon tied stationery; many with sealing wax and compartment for seal, and the boxes are designed to be useful for handkerchief and glove boxes. Paper is the best quality and in white and colors. Box stationery for the children, too. Xmas boxes, 25c. to $3.98.—The Fair, Ft. Worth, Tex.

Attractively boxed papers. At stationery store in its new quarters on main floor, will be found many helpful suggestions for the gift seeker. Let us drop a hint along one particular line—correspondence papers in attractive boxes. We would state, however, that in no case is the quality of paper sacrificed because of its receptacle.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

Write on our stationery. We can supply you with high grade stationery in all the newest and most correct styles, at very modest prices. Alpine Flax linen is especially good value at 25c per pound.—Exchange Drug Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Gorham's fine stationery. We have a superb showing of Gorham's fine stationery, engraving and monogram stamping, which as is well known cannot be excelled in quality, style or workmanship. We will receive orders for this high class work, which will receive the same care and attention as the work turned out by the Gorham Company in New York.—Wineburgh & Sons, Utica.

Boxes of stationery at ruinous prices, to close out the finest and largest stock in the south. We have all grades of paper, so all can be suited in this remarkable clearance sale.—L. Hammel Dry Goods Co., Mobile, Ala.

Post card albums, 3 cents to $9. A Christmas gift suggestion that will fill a special need. This has long been headquarters for illustrated postal cards and for post card albums and the stock gathered for this Christmas season is the broadest and best we ever had. The finest of both foreign and American making are included.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

See these gift boxes—writing paper. Nothing nearly equal to these have ever been seen anywhere at the same prices. They were made to our order in enormous lots by one of the oldest and best stationers in the country. Writing paper is fine—fashionable fabric finish. Boxes are well made and covered with newest and most beautiful imported of fancy papers.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

The proper stationery at the right price. We buy our stationery in very large quantities, and you'd be surprised to know how much we sell. We are familiar with the wants and needs of the people and we feel sure we have what you want. If you can't come down to make your selections, phone us, and we'll send you several different kinds so that you may take your choice.—Hanna, the Careful Druggist, Denison.

Writing Paper, 14c. lb.—One of the finest lots of writing paper we have ever sold in pound packages is this Batiste Bond—a fine, light weight, fabric finish paper—similar to our Victoria lawn, but lighter—and it is especially liked by those who write good long letters, the kind we all like to get.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

New Stationery.—Some of the very newest things in writing papers that must surely interest people particular in their correspondence. All of the latest weights, shapes and textures in the new Danish blue and swallow gray shades. We make a specialty of giving unusual things in tablet paper with envelopes to match.—Kingston, Dallas.

We have succeeded in getting another large quantity of Eaton Hurlburt's fine quality Writing Papers, with which we hope to duplicate the sale success of a week ago. While the values are as good as of the recent sale, the lots are smaller and there is more occasion for hurrying if you would share them.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

Whiting's fine stationery—the kind that has fashion's approval and will suit milady to a "T." Whiting's cloth finish—none better made; thank this maker for the great bargain, one of the rarest that has ever come from so famous a factory; lay up a supply for yourself; buy several boxes for gifts that you look forward to making—you save half by being forehanded.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

An army of tablets—10,000 strong! The maker's store room was overloaded, so he sold them to us at a price that means quick distribution—good for business, school or home use.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Letter writing is what you make it—for better or worse! If you write on cheap flimsy paper you are no welcome correspondent. If you use a substantial and stylish writing paper—one that is easy to write upon and always correct, you create a good impression and please your correspondent. Letters written on bad paper are seldom saved—they convey none of your personality. A good up-to-date paper is just as essential as the composition of a letter. All Eaton's, Crane & Pike's fine writing papers can be entirely depended upon—the sizes, the styles, the prices and the manufacture are strictly correct. Come in and see them. If not satisfied—your money back.—William P. Beers, So. Norwalk, Conn.

Correct social stationery. Crane's linen lawn is a fabric paper which is comparatively modern and infinitely popular, but Crane's fine writing papers in some one of their many forms have always been the most popular as they have always been the best writing papers of their time. Crane's linen lawn is obtainable at Cady & Olmstead Jewelry Co., Kansas City, Mo.

You'll find everything you need in the shape of fittings for your desk, at home or downtown, and Office Supplies in general, in this Commercial Stationery Store. Goods are of the best quality; and prices are consistently low.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Right things in writing. Your acquaintances always notice the stationery they are addressed upon. We have what is demanded by fashion's decree—it is proper and right.—Pattons' Book Store, Salem, Ore.

Take stationery with you.—Your friends will be interested in hearing from you during your vacation. The descriptions you give of your pleasures will be pleasing to them, but you know how hard it is to get stationery at inland villages or shore resorts. Take a supply with you. The following lines are what you need and are priced much below regular.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Every box of this paper is in keeping with Fashion's strictest requirements—and there's no other time or place in America when or where you could buy this correspondence paper at the price we quote.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York.

Enough paper for a half million letters.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Good business stationery is essential in every business. The letter often procures a customer because a good impression is made on the person who receives it. Your stationery will be correct if you get it here.—Rogers' Book Store.

As beautiful as a bride should have, is the wedding invitation that comes from Clarke's engraving department.—E. H. Clarke & Bros., Memphis, Tenn.

Did you ever? A fountain pen that needs only blowing to fill it, blowing to clean it, and you don't have to blow to sell it. See the blow pen at Orem's, Terre Haute, Ind.

Fine papers. They must be fine when you see them bearing Crane's stamp and watermark. But when it comes to giving bargains we're no respecter of makers. Even the best see their goods on Eaton bargain tables.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto.

"Polite" paper—the new summer tints in fine stationery—just received by us and now on display. If you're looking for the really correct thing in writing paper, you'll find in this latest line of ours "just the proper caper."—Dillingham's, Bangor, Me.

We will give away half our stock of stationery this week. How? For every box or quire you buy we will give you another box or quire. You Write Letters? Then you might as well get some paper at this special summer sale.—The Beard Art Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Good opportunity to purchase stationery. All stationery bought Saturday night will be initialed free of charge.—Columbus Dry Goods Co., Columbus, O.

To-day we make another announcement, the result of months of preparation and the most notable offering of stationery which we believe has been made this season.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A third less than you'd pay in the exclusive stationery stores, and the collection includes just such refined styles as are in demand among women who note the trend of fashion.—The Annex, Seattle, Wash.

Whiting Paper Co.'s finest 25c. quire writing, 4c; envelopes to match, 25 for 4c. Gray white vellum, cream linen, white and blue bond, sea shell linen and golf bond, azure Irish linen, white laid antique in Lakewood and Victoria sizes, worth 25c. a quire. This little price for the finest correspondence paper manufactured is almost unbelievable, and this announcement will bring thousands to buy.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

To those who write there is nothing gives so much pleasure, so much satisfaction as a fountain pen that suits your hand. The bookkeeper, especially, would find one to relieve him of the tedium of writing, removing the constant dipping, and writing smoothly and easily all the time.—Eyrich & Co., Jackson, Miss.

Stationery.—In this department we excel—nothing but the best, at the lowest possible price—that's our motto.—Donaldson's Minneapolis, Minn.

Elite writing paper and envelopes. Something new, dainty and attractive! Our customers are delighted with it. So are we.—Robertson Drug Co., Lexington, Ky.

There's pleasure in school work if the pupil is properly equipped with the kind of supplies that make the work interesting. This is headquarters for everything that converts the rough road of school life in an avenue of pleasure.—H. W. McCartney, Altoona, Pa.

Here is something correct in note paper—"Winthrop's Note," a very fine kid finished writing paper of the finest quality. It is an example of the good things always cropping to the surface in our stationery store.—Jacob's Pharmacy, Atlanta, Ga.

Hemstitched Writing Paper Less Than Half Price.—On May 17 last we advertised for the first time in Brooklyn the batiste hemstitched writing paper—paper outlined with the dainty embossing in almost perfect imitation of hemstitching. Since that time we have sold thousands of quires—it has steadily grown in popularity.

Men write more letters during summer than any other season of the year—meaning, of course, personal notes. Loved ones scatter to the various resorts, and the time between week's-end visits is shortened by frequent letters. Men of exacting taste in matters of social intercourse use Hoskin's masculine bond—a new bond paper; white as snow, firm as parchment, a surface easy to any pen.—Hoskin's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Our department of stationery offers the people of El Paso a service that is not approached in this city, or is it excelled elsewhere. Correct forms of embossed and engraved stationery is a specialty with us. Copper plate and steel engraving is carefully executed at prices that entirely favor you.—A. H. Richards, El Paso, Tex.

Fancy Stationery.—Such as we are offering this week at special prices, certainly is creating an ovation among bargain hunters. Twenty-five cents will procure a box that is fully worth double the price. Beautiful shades, ruled throughout. A few days yet remain to take advantage of this price.—Patton, Salem, Ore.

Writing paper for Vacation, 49c.—Supply yourself with a cabinet of this elegant paper. It contains 100 sheets and 80 envelopes to match of that rough yet smooth "French Batiste" paper so popular just now. White and blue—it comes in the smart square sheet style.—Wanamaker, New York.

Get the summer stationery here. You will need a good supply to take with you on your vacation trip. The folks at home will want to hear from you, and you will want to hear from the folks often, so both of you will need stationery and lots of it. You'll find a goodly assortment here and all popularly priced.—The Crews Beggs Co., Pueblo.

Professional stationery for physicians requires a delicacy of application in regard to the use of proper types and paper, and whether it be an order for recipe blanks, cards, envelopes, note-heads or anything you may need, we can supply your wants in correct style at low cost, and quickly, too.—Brooklyn Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.

By the recent change and enlargement of our Book Department we have the room to display a stock of writing materials large enough to offer the widest range of selection. We have secured and offer at a low price a number of writing papers which will prove economical to the one going away as well as to those left behind.—Crews Beggs Co. Pueblo, Colo.

Hemstitched Notes—A Favorite Writing Paper.—Another shipment of this dainty and popular writing paper is here. The quality and finish are fine and the hemstitching around the edge of each sheet is the most artistic that has ever been produced on writing paper. The tints are Quaker gray, celestial blue and white.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Some Pound Papers.—Buying writing paper by the pound is the economical way. In the interests of economy we offer some extra good papers by the pound. Either with plate finish, real Irish linen or fabric finish, as you choose. Nine or more good kinds of paper at 32c. a pound. Four kinds at 20 cents a pound. All these have envelopes to match. Enquire for these pound papers when next you're needing stationery.—Hanford & Horton, Middletown, N. Y.

The Great Sale—Vancouver has had all sorts of sales—red letter sales and blue letter sales, white wear sales and footwear sales, auction sales and other sales—but never before a real genuine stationery sale, in which profits and even costs were not considered. When a thing is to be done, it is worth doing well, worth doing thoroughly, and on this basis the sale will be conducted. The stock is in the best of condition, full in every line—large purchases of standard staples have been made. We wish to emphasize the fact that the stock now offered you at prices hitherto unheard of is one that is characterized by quality.—Thomson Stationery Co., Vancouver, B. C.

Stationery news that is interesting. Correspondence papers at about half their regular value is an opportunity that should not be overlooked.—Mannheimer Bros., St. Paul, Minn.

Pineapple linen writing paper. This wonderful paper goes on sale Monday. The word pineapple linen will bring crowds to our stationery section, as those who know this excellent paper will surely lay in their year's supply. It's the most used paper ever made, as it has the texture of fine lawn and is most pleasant to write upon. If you have not used this splendid paper try it now at this special price and you'll have no other. We have the exclusive sale of this fine paper for the Northwest and have it in nine new artistic sizes and the very newest cuts in envelopes.—Mannheimer Bros., St. Paul, Minn.

Stationery.—Are you going away? You will need some of this stationery for your correspondence.—Stewart & Co., Baltimore, Md.

When the postman comes does not a letter bring with it added pleasure when it comes upon neat paper, incased in an envelope which bears its message with an air of the sender's personality? Our new lines are unusually distinctive and individual. No stationery store can set before you a better showing at as low prices. Few can display as complete at any price.—Jacob's Pharmacy, Atlanta, Ga.

Holiday Stationery. August—the month of vacation—a month smiling with adventures, pleasures, etc.—then is there need to write your friends of your experiences. No need to take that large writing portfolio, it will only be in your way. Better get a small, durable box of paper and envelopes. We have them from 15c to 75c per box, or can give you 5-quire packages for 25c. Then we have all the latest designs—Khaki, Wedgewood, military notes, etc. They're a date ahead of up-to-date.—The Ford Stationery Co., Winnipeg, Can.

You Write Letters—Well, here is an opportunity for you. We have a small lot of excellent stationery in boxes that are a little soiled after the holiday rush. Paper just as good as new. Regular prices 50c to 65c. Will be closed out quickly at 15c the box.—N. E. Ryan, South Norwalk, Conn.

Writing Paper and Valentines.—The directing genius of a "woman's column" said a few days ago that young women didn't—or shouldn't—send valentines. Granted that they don't often send the conventional kind, on that day many a dainty note with a wished for message finds its way from many a maiden to many a man—so it's quite as essential that we tell of writing paper as well as valentines.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

The "Portland High School Paper" we sell is the very best sort for compositions and for all school use. We've sold tons of it, and we are still selling large quantities of it to all the schools in town. If you don't know about our school paper send for a sample sheet.—Owen Moore & Co., Portland, Me.

Writing papers.—This year's correspondence papers all have "that fabric finish" but none so successfully as the "Two-tone Linen." These papers have the three essentials—good taste, attractive appearance and a perfect writing surface. A variety of proper tints and shapes. If it's the correct thing in stationery we have it.—Sanborn, Vail & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

About school supplies. It would be just as easy for us as for others to say "regular 8c pencil tablets for 5c," but there are no 8c pencil tablets in the market; the biggest are made to sell for 5c, and we have the biggest one in town by 50 leaves, for 5c. The standard sizes of writing tablets are also quoted as "regular 8c tablets for 5c," but as a matter of fact, 5c is the regular price. We are selling the handsomest and thickest ink tablets in town for 5c. School children should be told of these deceptions by their parents so that they will not be misled. If parents shop with the little folks the buying will be done here.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

What makes a man more miserable than a pen that does not suit his hand? Many writers keep several pens to suit their temper—like a change now and then. You can keep on trying our fountain pens until suited exactly, else we return your $2.50. A good pen is the cheapest purchase and the most serviceable friend you ever made. Let us show you.—Eyrich & Co., Jackson, Miss.

Other things being equal, don't you think it wise to buy your school books and supplies at a new store where everything is sure to be bright, fresh and clean?—Foltz & Hardy, Pueblo, Col.

There is style in writing paper, as in everything else and nothing is more characteristic of the user. Our "Bond Paper" is the finest made in the world—a sweeping statement but true. It gives an individuality possessed by no other paper. If you do not wish a quire at 25c, you can buy less.—Eyrich & Co., Jackson, Miss.

THANKSGIVING

We've moved the domestic section. Splendid bargains Monday to popularize the new location. The domestic section was forced to vacate to make room for our tremendous stock of dolls and toys. It is now located in the north section of the same floor, adjoining the draperies and rugs. We want you to become familiar with the new location. The best way we know of is to give you bargains that we know you can't help coming after. We print a partial list for Monday, but there are plenty of others not given newspaper publicity.—The Broadway Dept. Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

We are thankful for your patronage. You'll be thankful for these chances to save. We are extremely thankful for a phenomenal year's business, and fully realize that the magnificent volume of trade which has passed through our doors during the last twelve months has been made possible only by the continued good will of the people of Southern California. Though we have strained every nerve, and used every honorable means at our command to build this business up, its growth has resulted wholly and solely from the generous support of the good people of this favored community. What we have achieved in the past has but prompted us to attempt greater things. We are striving not only for a bigger store, but a better store, more conveniences for employes and customers, and better facilities for handling the constantly increasing volume of traffic which naturally centers at the heart of Los Angeles—the corner of Fourth and Broadway. As evidence of continued effort we herewith publish a list of some of the strongest bargains which we've ever offered to the trading public of this community; bargains which you'll be thankful to get and which we are sure will provide us with a crowd for which we will be thankful. Read carefully each item and come, expecting all these and hundreds more. The bargain list will be changed daily. Watch our windows and watch our newspaper ads.—The Broadway Dept. Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

We have a very good reason to be thankful. The cordial welcome extended to this store by the people of Allentown and contiguous territory, and the constantly increasing patronage that we have received ever since, have given us ample cause to be thankful. We are receiving the most substantial sort of encouragement in return for our efforts to serve the people with the best that money can buy at the smallest margin of profit, and we are constantly striving to improve our service, ever zealous in the best interests of our patrons; constantly alert for their welfare, and realizing that the more satisfied customers we turn out of our store each day the greater will be our ultimate success as a business venture. Therefore we are going to celebrate our thankfulness in a way that will be best appreciated by frugal housekeepers—by offering some special bargains that have never been approached in this city before. Below are some of them; not room to make mention of them all, but you will find the store full of them. And no matter how much we cut off the price the same easy-payment privileges hold good throughout our vast establishment.—Prince Furn. Co., Allentown, Pa.

Thanksgiving this week; then for Christmas in real earnest. We are ready for both. The special Thanksgiving sales of linens, china, cut glass, etc., chronicled on this page, will appeal forcefully to the wise housekeeper. This store has never in all its successful past, been so thoroughly equipped for an enormous Christmas business as it is right now. Months of careful planning and assiduous work in the world's leading markets by our expert buyers have resulted in an assemblage under this roof of a marvelous aggregation of merchandise, useful and ornamental, that is particularly appropriate for Christmas gifts. Commence your Christmas shopping now, unless you enjoy being in the great throngs inevitable during the few days prior to Christmas. You will find the J. M. High Co. store your very best helper. Our facilities for serving you at the store and for delivering your purchases promptly are remarkably efficient. Remember, "The Basement" is Santa Claus' headquarters.—J. M. High, Atlanta, Ga.

TOYS

Pomeroy's Toy Store. Anything in the toy line from a whistle to a rocking horse. We have just received some German pigs, real squealers, too. All kinds of animals for the small children.—A. H. Pomeroy, Hartford, Conn.

Christmas Doll at Hale's.—First scene on the Christmas stage. Old Santa Claus has been good to Hale's this year. He has everything ready so early, and now lifts the curtain. Anyhow, the program is so long we must start if we get through in time.—Hale's, San Francisco, Cal.

Our doll party is open. There's a big window full of dolls; there's a big display in the toy section in the basement—everything big except the prices and those we make very much less than usual as the figures below tell you. It's a splendid chance to get the Christmas dolly. There's an assortment of thirty-five different numbers—Kestner dolls—the best made in all Germany—at special prices.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Toys and games. What fun for the youngsters! Dolls in silks and satins, mechanical railways, hook and ladder trucks, crokinole boards, parchesi, balky mules and a thousand other entertaining things to brighten time and amuse busy little minds. The toy department is just as interesting to mothers and fathers as to the youngsters. To the elders it recalls the days of childhood. To the youngsters it is a place of continual delight.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

Toyland is ready for the little ones; ready for the grown-ups as well; ready with an opening sale of toys that will bring gladness to thousands and thousands of children. Folk who take time by the forelock will have a most complete assortment of every kind of toy to select from; will escape the hurry and confusion the final buying days will bring.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago.

Both the toys and dolls are in classes by themselves. They are vastly superior to any displayed elsewhere. They represent the very newest thoughts—among the mechanical effects in the imported toys are many remarkable inventions that will furnish delightful amusement for parents as well as for youngsters.

The dolls in construction are the best procurable. They have the prettiest faces, the brightest eyes, the glossiest hair—in short, they are irresistible.—Journey & Burnham, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Christmas toy store in the great basement is ready with thousands of wonderful things to charm the children. It's like Wonderland down there. On one counter are animals that almost live and breathe—automobiles that go like the wind—fire trucks that make ready in a jiffy—mysterious looking magic lanterns. On another counter the full rigged men-of-war, with internal works and guns like the real. On still another counter the railroad trains with tracks to run them on—automatic toys and goodness knows what else besides. We wish the little ones could fill the place to overflowing tomorrow and enjoy every second of the time.—The Anderson Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

There are no "don'ts" in Toyland except two: Don't get too tired and don't go home without seeing everything. Every kind of doll that a little girl could wish is here, and if you tease hard enough perhaps Santa Claus will bring you one of those $5 ones.—Gimbel's, Milwaukee, Wis.

Such a host of dolls—hundreds of them—elegant, handsome German dolls, direct from the fatherland—can't speak a word of English. But oh! they're beautiful, even the little ones, and the big dolls, large as a two-year-old baby; they're simply magnificent.—Robert J. Leight & Co., Brockville, Ont.

A city of dolls—a city whose inhabitants run into the thousands and comprise all classes, from the stately and haughty queen to the poor little rag baby. Was there ever such a doll display? Once you seen it you'll answer with us—no. Cold type can't do it justice. Be sure to bring the little girls—they'll jump for joy.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Our game and toys department is a permanent part of the business. Not simply for the holiday season and then side-tracked for the rest of the year, but a live feature first, last and all the time.—Pardee-Ellenberger Co., New Haven, Conn.

Dolls Ready on the First Floor Today.—We are rapidly getting ready for Santa Claus, and today we open our doll booth on the first floor, and Miss Dolly and all her sisters make their initial bow to the children of Schenectady. Such a splendid doll show—couldn't begin to display them properly in our basement—so all the little Miss Dressed-up Dollies, as well as those waiting for their Christmas dresses, are now in their permanent booth on the first floor. It's a regular doll party, and all the little girls are welcome to come to our store to see the gay assemblage and pick some brown or blue-eyed beauty to dream about.—H. S. Barney & Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

The wonderful toy store is in its full holiday trim now, and it is best to come in early while things are at their very freshest. We have noticed that a great many mothers have brought their little folks in for an hour's happy time among the toys and carefully noted which things most struck the youngsters' fancy.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Doll Day.—Baby Blanche, the sweetest of all Philadelphia doll babies, is holding a reception today on the main aisle. Her curly head is as yellow as gold, her big blue eyes will shut sleepily if you rock her in your arms, and she's a wise little body—knows that, though Christmas seems a long way off now, there won't be more than time enough to comfortably make her little dresses and wraps.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

Opening the Holiday Doll Show.—Early? To be sure it is, but hundreds, yes, thousands of dolls must be dressed before Christmas comes, and to make a doll's trousseau nice and fine takes time. So we have hurried the foreign makers—the best doll makers in the world—and now the full stock is ready. Dollydom opens wide its welcome to all the little mothers in Brooklyn and starts the season by presenting the best and biggest doll in America for 97c.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Boy dolls, girl dolls. Dolls that open and shut their eyes. Jointed dolls. Indestructible dolls. Big flaxen haired dolls. Dolls that stand alone. Dolls that will sit down. Cunning dolls, dolls that look almost as if they would walk.—Ruggles & Ellison, New Bedford

Toyland. The toy stock. Do you know that even Chicago, with its two and a half millions of people, doesn't hold the assortment—the stock—the price—that our famous "toyland" can show. We supply all Milwaukee to all intents and purposes and why? Because the young folks have their hearts here, because parents are better able to satisfy their demands at the least expense; but, of course, the stock will diminish in numbers, and if we packed salespeople thick as herrings in a box the time is near when crowds compel them to give you hurried service. Moral: Buy now, and secure suitable toys while they are here.—Gimbel Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

See our toyland. You will find it on the first floor, and it's filled with everything that will help the little tots make merry for Christmas, the greatest annual event in the life of children. Dolls, mechanical toys, musical instruments, tiny trunks, toy beds, washing outfits, pianos and other things too numerous to mention—just bring the children down and let them see all these lovely, interesting and amusing domestic and imported devices specially conceived and made for their pleasure. There are doggies, sheep, ponies and buggies, automobiles, cannons, soldiers, tea sets, paint boxes, work boxes and hundreds and hundreds of other tiny, tasteful toys which we want you to see—and you would better come down right away, as they are going in a hurry.—A. S. Knowles Dry Goods Co., Montgomery.

The doll family want homes. These prices will secure them. A good many of the doll family are becoming anxious to be in a cosy home for Christmas. They would be lonesome to remain here on the cold shelves, and there's many a little mother anxious to have them.—The Broadway Department Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

Drastic reductions in toys at the toyland capital. The space devoted to toys on the third floor must be empty as a barn in as short a time as possible. We carry no toy stock over, hence these extreme measures. Prices simply cut in two. Profit by our loss. It's hardly necessary to do much praise-singing about this section. Everybody who visited it knows our assortment to be the most unique and complete in the city. Notwithstanding the tremendous business, we can render the satisfaction this store is noted for, because the stock is here—an assortment that surprises and electrifies. Toys that are new to the world of fun. New kinds and old kinds, in one great big toy home on the third floor, and all to be sold out regardless of cost.—Scroggie's, Montreal.

TRADING STAMPS

Are you a collector of purple stamps? If not, you are missing a good thing—an opportunity to get something which is really valuable and absolutely free of cost.—Holbrook Hunt Co., Rome.

The plan of giving trading stamps is equivalent to allowing you a discount on every cash purchase you make. Blue trading stamps cost you absolutely nothing, and they can be redeemed for handsome, useful articles.—Rothenberg & Co., New York.

If all the world were Trading Stamps,
And all the sea was ink,
Unless we lived on promises,

What should we eat and drink?

No trading stamps here, but value always. Yesterday, today, tomorrow.—Hearn, New York.

When the trading stamp concerns called on us and told us that we never need reduce our prices on merchandise if we gave away stamps we refused to have anything to do with them, and sent them away one after the other. The green, also the blue; pretty soon there'll be pink and yellow ones in the market. A big merchant in New York told us that the trading stamp people never give an article away that costs less than $2. Just think of that for an inducement to save 1,000 stamps—under ordinary circumstances that means $100 worth of purchasing.—Perlmutter's, Jersey City, N. J.

It's a fact! We are giving double green International Trading Stamps in every department. The premiums given by this company which will be on exhibition at our store today are exceptionally good and of more value than others we have seen, and as this question is of vital importance to every one saving stamps, we would earnestly invite you to call and examine their value. This company as a guarantee of its good faith to redeem all stamps issued has placed $10,000 with the Sovereign Bank.—Au Bon Marche, Montreal, Can.

Double "S. & H." green trading stamps tomorrow (Friday) until noon. Two "S. & H." green trading stamps with each ten-cent purchase until noon—after 12 o'clock, one "S. & H." green trading stamp with every ten cents you spend. In order that you may fill your stamp books quickly, we make this special stamp exchange offer: Bring us your tobacco certificates, tags, coupons, cigar bands, soap wrappers, coffee package signatures, and we will exchange them for their equivalent in "S. & H." green trading stamps. A complete list of the exchangeable coupons and wrappers will be furnished at the Exchange Trading Stamp Booth, on the Main Arcade, First Floor, near the Seventeenth Street end. The "S. & H." green trading stamps are finally redeemable in the most beautiful premiums.—Lit Bros., Camden, N. J.

Premium Tickets.—Never lose sight of the fact that Premium Tickets can be had at this store with everything. Get them with your millinery, dress goods, ready-to-wear skirts, blouses, parasols, wrappers, rain coats, jackets, children's dresses, prints, muslins, underwear, hosiery, ladies' fancy ties, belts, corsets, men's sweaters, shirts and drawers, overalls, shirtings, gingham, carpets, matings, oilcloths, lace curtains, table covers, bed quilts, sheets, pillow slips, shams, etc.—The John Campbell Company, Hamilton, Ont.

Already this store is bright and attractive with the arrival of spring merchandise. The markets of the world are fast pouring into this great establishment goods for the coming spring. We have been fortunate enough to make some special purchases along these lines, and are giving you the benefit of the price savings that have come to us through our big outlet and ready cash. Then, too, there are marvelous price savings to be had in the clearance sales going on throughout the entire store. Winter goods must go, even though prices are cut below manufacturers' cost. To these unparalleled price savings are added the giving of Sperry & Hutchinson green trading stamps with all purchases—I with each 10 cents you spend. Don't fail to visit the premium room and see the beautiful premiums for which these stamps are redeemable.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Leghorn Buffcochin, a hen,
Took a stamp to a rooster named Ben;

He said: "Henrietty

I think that you'll get a
Rebuff if you do that again."

"It is a deceit." From the Detroit Free Press, quoting Vice President George H. Barbour before the Detroit Committee on Ordinance: "People grow wise in a year," said Mr. Barbour. "The merchants of Detroit do not want these trading stamp grafts forced upon them. They are asking for relief from such conditions. That is why the board of commerce has taken up this agitation. It is not to the interest of the people of Detroit to allow this trading stamp business to go on. It is a deceit, nothing else. People who think they are getting something for nothing are deceived. If you pay 12 cents for an article worth but 10 cents and get a two-mill stamp in exchange, what do you gain?" No trading stamp prices here.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

When Johnnie and Arabel Spratt
Were told they could furnish a flat

With stampies, they said

With a shake of the head:

"We're onto the buncombe of that."

—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Beginning Monday, we will give 5 stamps instead of one on every ten-cents purchased from eight o'clock in the morning until twelve o'clock noon. During the afternoon we shall give double stamps all next week. Five stamps with every ten cents purchased—25 stamps with every 50 cents purchased—250 stamps with every $5.00 purchased—500 stamps with every $10 purchased, and a full book of stamps if your purchase amounts to $20.—The Fashion, Bangor, Me.

Note to our stamp collectors: The Green stamp, as given by this store, will always be worth a little more than any other color. In the premium store, the finest line of goods is ready for your inspection. Drop in and see the display the next time you are down town. If you prefer $3.50 in merchandise, exchange your stamp book at the stamp store for an order on Freese's. This order is received as $3.50 in cash.—Freese's, Bangor, Me.

No trading stamps here, but value always, yesterday, today, tomorrow. Being in receipt of letters from trading stamps companies urging advantages and endeavoring to show how we can sell and make much more by using stamps, we would only reply: "Why scheme when business is entirely satisfactory?"—Hearn, New York.

Facts regarding green discount stamps. Ten million people from the Atlantic to the Pacific are using them, and know what they are, and from actual experience will testify not only to the advantages of trading where they are given, but also to the benefits derived from collecting and redeeming them.—Kemp & Herbert, Spokane, Wash.

The dog will come when he is called,

The cat will walk away;

The trading stamp on folks has palled—

It's doomed and's had its day.

—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Our two stores will continue to give the Sperry & Hutchinson green trading stamps regardless of what people say; of what other stores do. We've got by far the best stamp, and naturally wish to retain the advantage. But not because it is necessary. This business is not prospering on that account. We use them for the purpose they were originally intended—to induce erstwhile credit customers to pay cash. For cash selling and buying has its advantages for both buyer and seller.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

We give "S. & H." green trading stamps free with every purchase. This system has been added as one of the additional attractive features of this business. It was inaugurated after careful investigation, and has resulted in a general approval by all our patrons. Through your collection you are enabled to add beautiful and valuable premiums to your household—premiums that cost you absolutely nothing—goods for which you would otherwise have to pay cash. Here they cost you nothing. They are given in addition to the very low prices that always prevail in this store.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

The little green sticker is the only sticker that sticks. Stick to it. It's the one grand method that earns interest on the money you spend. (This is another Bennett expression, Mister. Don't use it without quoting the author.) Alterations throughout the store made necessary by our growing business, will bring out gigantic bunches of bargains every day this week. Our cut prices on good goods and green trading stamps with all purchases in all departments all the time is the stuff that blazes the way for the crowds. Come.—Bennett's, Omaha, Neb.

No trading stamps. When trading stamps come in, fair prices go out, and people are waking up to this fact. These prices for Wednesday are possible only because we don't give stamps.—Ruggles & Ellison, New Bedford, Mass.

TRUNKS, SUIT CASES AND BAGS

Considering that our featherweight trunk is from thirty to forty pounds lighter than the ordinary article, is there any reason why you shouldn't buy it and save excess baggage money? The featherweight is the strongest trunk made and the prices are not high.—Whitney-Burroughs Co., Los Angeles.

The time has gone by when a journey was an event in the family life. Now almost everyone travels more or less. It may be a trip of a few days or it may extend over a year. In either case a good trunk is necessary, one that will withstand the rough handling to which it will be subjected. We have selected from our stock all one-of-a-kind trunks and suit cases and shall place them on sale tomorrow, Thursday, at a saving of at least a third on the regular prices. An opportunity is thus afforded to purchase a staunch, thoroughly constructed and strictly high-class trunk or suit case for the price usually asked for the ordinary sort.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.

No doubt you are making preparations for your trip to the World's Fair, seashore or lake to spend your summer vacation. We are going to help pay the expense of your trip. Commencing this morning we are going to give you a special discount of 20 per cent on all trunks, valises, telescopes and suit cases.—The IXL Clothing Co., Spokane.

This has been a fine year for the man who gets off over Sunday. Decoration Day came Monday; so will Fourth of July and Labor Day. Get out of the city, if it's only a couple of days at a time. Pack up a suit case or a small bag and follow your family or take your wife—she needs it just as much as you do—to the seashore or mountains. Finest tonic in the world is change of air, scene, food—to get away from the daily grind.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Everybody is going away for the summer, for a vacation, or at least over Sunday. It's a great satisfaction to have the right bag or suit case, to just fit the outfit that you wish to carry. We have a most complete and carefully-selected stock; and can give you exactly what you want, in shape, size and style; and all the fairest price.

Light and medium weight suit cases, in various colors of linen, cowhide, pigskin, and in alligator, horn-back alligator and walrus. Sizes 10 to 28 inches in length. Prices, from a linen suit case at $1.25, to one of horn-back alligator at $25.

These Are the Trunks to Travel With. They are Unmatched for Reliability, Convenience, Attractiveness and Economy.—At this writing it looks as if there might be a few of the remarkably priced russet and rawhide bound trunks that sold so rapidly this morning left for tomorrow. But every trunk in our stock is a bargain in every way, and a visit is well worth while. The special trunks advertised yesterday are strongly built and well worth much more money. There are three styles, two regular travelers and one steamer—some are russet, others rawhide bound.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ladies' skirts trunk of extra quality, full riveted and cloth lined, divided top tray and two extra trays with tops, made to stand extra hardship. Our special canvas-covered trunk, stave top, extra reinforced corners, two cowhide leather straps, top tray and extra dress tray—at bargain price. Suit cases—the best selection at the lowest prices. Leather-covered suit cases, in imitation lizard, made on steel frame, strong handle and catches. Extra quality cowhide cases, best case ever sold at this bargain price; all parts strongly riveted, roll handles, brass lock and catch, canvas lined with shirt fold in lid.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

About Your Trunk.—As the time for vacation and summer trips approaches, we cannot too earnestly impress upon you that anything needful in trunks or bags is best bought here. The range of choice is large, and the prices lowest reliable goods can be sold at.—Cooley Bros., Westfield, Mass.

If you are about to go on your vacation and last year's trunk shows how unkindly the baggageman used it, this offering should strike you as particularly appropriate. These trunks are large enough to hold your wardrobe, and then you can pack a lot of satisfaction in them.—Mendel & Freedman, New Haven, Conn.

The price is so low and the bags of such good quality that no woman need go without a new one—either a Peggy Bag or a Carriage Bag. This is another big lot of bags that we purchased at very special prices—the two prevailing styles so much sought after. White bags are in demand just now. We have them in this lot. Also black, tan, gray and brown. The bags are all nicely made and finished. Some have fittings inside. A large collection to choose from.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City.

If you are contemplating a trip to the World's Fair or a vacation trip, don't fail to call and see us for the latest models in trunks, suit cases and grips. We carry the most complete leather line in the city. Inexpensive and high-class is our motto.—Thos. F. Moores, Kansas City.

Travelers' requisites—trunks, suit cases and leather bags. The scope of prices, and varieties makes our immense third floor trunk section the great supply center for travelers' necessities. Everyone may find satisfactory selections in the extensive lines, and in the present prices there is a broad suggestion of economy to those who contemplate a summer trip abroad, or elsewhere. Our stock comprises all that is new and novel in trunks, and you will find our prices at least 20 per cent lower than like qualities are offered for anywhere else in the city.—B. Lowenstein & Bros., Memphis, Tenn.

Summer travelers will find this store the most satisfactory place in the city to provide themselves with trunks, bags, suit cases and other similar necessities for a journey. Every trunk in stock is modern in arrangement and substantial in construction.—Younker Bros., Des Moines, Ia.

The sea-town excursions call for a little thought about a grip or a trunk, or that other capacious convenience, the telescope. Anything excursionists need, either for a long trip or the short trip. Trunks here that would probably trouble some people to find enough belongings to fill—great big fellows of enormous storage capacity; others just right for a change or so—and the short tripper doesn't need more than that.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Traveling Bags for Pleasure or Business.—When one stops to consider how often among strangers he is sized up by appearance of his traveling bag there need be no argument about the importance of getting the correct thing. We are giving a good deal of expert attention to the matter. We are finely equipped with some eighty entirely different varieties of stylish traveling bags for all vacation and business purposes.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester.

A trunk tournament, in which pigmy prices play a most important part—and we add with emphasis that he who hesitates loses a good trunk. It doesn't matter whether you need a trunk just now—come and see them anyway—you can afford two trunks at these prices. All of these trunks are heavy canvas covered, strong hardwood slats on all—some sole leather bound, some iron bound, some have two leather straps, heavy brass locks, some linen lined, some two trays with hat box compartment, two bottoms, one of which is sheet iron, and not one in the lot but will defy the fiercest baggage smasher that ever flung, kicked or jumped on an unoffending trunk. Some of these trunks are great, handsome, swell affairs, that the white ribbons flutter from so beautifully as the carriage rolls away. These prices speak volumes when you compare them with the trunk.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Going on your vacation? Going to take a trip soon? If so, you need a trunk; in fact, you need a trunk anyway, whether you are stationary or traveling. And when you buy a trunk you want one that is strong, serviceable, trim and reliable, such as you will get here. We can supply you with the right trunk, the right dress suit case and the right traveling bag, at a price that meets and vanquishes competition. Try us and see.—Frey Brothers, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

A fable of the man who went out to buy a trunk. Once there was a man who went out looking for a cheap trunk. He found a "cheap trunk," got a "bargain," in fact. It was real swell and showy and looked as nice as any trunk should. He thought he was born under a lucky star. But the sides pulled apart, the straps parted where the buckles came, the top cracked and finally broke, just when it was needed most, and in less than three months the man was looking for a trunk again. This time he went to Bruce's because he had had experience and now he wanted no experiments with "just as goods." He wanted a trunk that was right. He found Bruce's prices on really good trunks were less than he had thought. N. B.—He is using that Bruce trunk yet.—W. S. Bruce & Co., Memphis.

The right place to buy trunks is where you know they are reliable—most anybody can pick out a stylish, handsome looking trunk—but you have to take the merchant's word for its reliability—that's why it pays to trade at a safe store and that's why the bulk of the trunk business comes here.—Kaufman's, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Vacation trips. Should you need a trunk of any sort—a hand bag or suit case in any grade—let us show you the best values in new style goods, honestly made.—Coe's, Portland, Me.

Need a trunk? Buy it now—and here. Why? Because of a most enticing state of trunk price affairs. We saved in the buying of these trunks, and now give you the opportunity to do likewise.—G. F. Alston Co., Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Do you know we will keep in repair for one year any trunk bought of us? We always have some special bargains in trunks, bags and suit cases. Ask for them.—J. W. Edmonds' Sons, Lansing.

The short trip, the week end visit and for a hundred and one other uses have been devised the light weight suit cases and traveling bags. Many of them are made with locks and can thus be expressed, and all are made to look well. The best of it is, however, that they weigh just nothing at all—that is, if the rattan and the bamboo cases be chosen, and the favor with which they have been received seems to warrant the prediction that this is to be a rattan year and that these especial cases have come to stay forever. The Japanese selected straw suit case, having a frame of wood, is covered with fine tea matting. It has leather corners and binding, a leather handle that is smart looking and is fitted with a lock and key. Its price ranges from $2.34 to $3.45, according to the length. There are bamboo suit cases also that are leather protected and lined with a Japanese paper used in many trunks. These cases cost $1.98, $2.39 and $2.69, according to the size. Woven rattan telescopes having leather straps and leather corners and handle are the lightest of all the light weight bags. Their prices are $1.83 and $2.20 each. Other telescopes are named Matsuki bags. These also have the leather corners and handles and the lining of Japanese paper. Their prices are $1.89, $2.89 and $3.89 each. Bamboo suit cases and telescopes having no straps of their own, but made to be used with shawl straps, are among the cheapest possible traveling bags. And they are so durable and so easy to carry that they are really a delight to know of and to possess. These range in price from 57c. to $1.19 each. Bathing suit cases have been developed of the attractive rattan and of bamboo. These are waterproof and some are fitted with lock and key. The best ones cost $2.30, while the really cheap ones range from 19c. to 57c. each.—Abraham & Straus, N. Y.

How about a suit case?—one never comes amiss—most folks make short trips at one time or another. Or a good, roomy English-frame bag?—the kind that seems to grow deeper as you open them. Stylish, too. Here's hand baggage at handy savings.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Even the lowest priced kinds are not only safe, but sightly; have a look of substantial goodness, and they're just as good as they look, too. And the higher priced ones reach a point of perfection that you would expect to find in a trunk costing you a quarter to a half more.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

If the old trunk has lost its stiffness and strength, don't use it. Far better to buy a new one than to lose or ruin one's best gown—not counting the disappointment. And don't carry a shabby suit case in the belief that everybody who sees it will think you're well-traveled.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Good economy in trunks, goes without saying that good, strong trunks are the only sort to buy—no matter what price you have to pay. But we have made a special study of trunk manufacture for years and good trunks in the big basement store are decidedly inexpensive. They are good looking, as well as good, too—that counts for something with most people.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

As the time approaches for summer trips, trunks and traveling bags must be given consideration. Where to get the best at the lowest price is a matter of vital importance. The new shopping center is the place. We have in stock ready for immediate delivery the best trunks offered by the five leading manufacturers of America. Our goods are superior to any offered elsewhere. Under no consideration will we offer you a trunk that will not withstand the hard usage it is sure to meet with. In traveling bags we have an almost endless variety and the prices we have them marked are the very lowest at which goods of this quality can be sold.—Titche-Goettinger Co., Dallas, Tex.

If you are going away for the summer and need a trunk, the spirit of economy should prompt you to see our line before buying, and once you pay us a visit, the goods and prices (introductory prices—purposely low) will certainly induce you to buy.—Gray & Dudley Hardware Co., Nashville, Tenn.

Trunks for all purposes—from the best manufacturers here and abroad. The kind that will travel and travel and show their good merits by traveling again. In few words, we have a most complete collection of the most worthy trunks for the least money.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Every one plans to pack up and take to the country, the mountains or seashore, for a few days at least. This trunk and bag store provides whatever you need to carry the luggage—trunks, suit cases, telescopes, bags—substantially made and economically priced.—Sibley, & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Plans for summer travel are maturing thick and fast nowadays, and summer trips mean sturdy trunks, hand-bags, etc. Hence—to-day's offering of new, well-constructed, in great variety of sizes and styles—possess more than ordinary interest to intending travelers.—J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

We have been so busy with our suit sale that we have neglected to tell you about our trunks and bags. This department is situated in the back half of our south Main street store and is the best lighted and most convenient as well as the largest department of this kind in this city. We carry every good kind of trunk or bag that is correct style and our "rightly-made" kind are the kind that you should buy; they will stand the hard service that they are sure to receive. The last of this week we shall have a demonstrator here to show the ladies the good points of our "hold all" trunks and how to pack them to the best advantage.—J. B. Mullings & Son, Waterbury, Conn.

We have a store full of goods that must be sold while the warm weather lasts. Never before could you get such bargains in traveling goods. Good strong, well made trunks for the price you have to pay for pine boxes elsewhere.—Mackay & Flacy, Kansas City.

'Tis travel time—and the trunks are here to go.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A little Jaunt? Extra grip or suit case needed? Ready! Readier than ever! French-sewed leather suit cases; tan; linen lined; best lock; good workmanship throughout. $5. Should be $7.50.—Schipper & Block, Peoria.

"Peggy from Paris" Hand bags.—It's barely two months since the "Peggy from Paris" put in its appearance, yet we're selling more of this style of hand bag than any other—it's undoubtedly destined to be the bag of the season.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg, Pa.

World's Fair specials for the needy traveler. A full car of trunks just received puts us in a position to supply your wants at prices no other firm will or can meet. Commencing Monday and continuing three days, we will place on sale this entire line. Protect yourself by comparing qualities and prices.—People's Store Co., Tacoma, Wash.

The first thing for the tourist is the decision to go somewhere. The next, the trunk or suit case, and then things to put in them.—S. Kann, Sons & Co., Washington, D. C.

The right place to buy trunks is where you know they are reliable—with a guarantee back of every one.—You can see that they are stylish and handsome; you can see that they are inexpensive. But you have to take the merchant's word for the reliability—a poor trunk may look just like a good one. That's why it pays to buy in a safe store. That's why the bulk of Brooklyn's trunk business comes here.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dress suit cases and traveling bags are very much in evidence these days. They'll be more numerous as the vacation season approaches. We have a splendid line of each, embracing all the newest ideas in the way of leathers, conveniences, shapes, etc. We can also please you with prices.—Loring, Short & Harmon, Portland, Me.

We have opened a trunk department for the reason that we have had so many calls for them. People wanted to buy trunks at prices that would satisfy them. Our reputation for selling trustworthy goods only at one low price to everybody has been applied to this department, and from now on we shall serve you with trunks at prices that will please you in every respect. Should you want any kind of specially made trunk we shall be pleased to make one to order for you at the very smallest kind of profit to ourselves. By opening this department we have not added one cent more expense in selling them, so we can sell them to you at the smallest margin of profit.—The One Price Clothing Co., Altoona, Pa.

Going away this summer? If so, come down and make a selection from our complete stock.—Alfred Cornish, Omaha.

When you a-traveling go, and every one seems to be planning trips for this summer, you will in all likelihood require a trunk of one kind or another. We have them, and we want you to see them—whether you wish to spend four dollars or forty dollars for a trunk we have them—and if the price is an object you will be delighted to find how good a trunk you may secure for a small price.—Wasserman, Kaufman & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Suit cases and traveling bags. Every desirable style, size and almost all leathers will be found in our unequaled lines of traveling bags and suit cases—we invite comparison of the values.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

There's just as much style, or lack of it, about hand-bags as there is about clothes. And a traveler who carries a stylish bag is contributing considerably to his personal appearance.—Wanamaker's, New York.

We are showing a line of trunks on our third floor that is unequaled in the city. For to-day we are offering regular $14, $14.50 and $15 trunks for $11.95. They are made of good basswood; heavy duck canvas covered; protected by elm-wood slats and heavy brass corner bumpers; fiber bound, with straps all around; lined with good linen; single and double trays; brass lock, bolt and catches; steel sheet iron bottom; sizes 32 to 38.—Bullock's, Los Angeles, Cal.

If you are looking for a suit case or in fact anything in the leather goods line, don't miss coming here to-morrow, for we've prepared to offer some most exceptional values in the best sorts—Bloomingdale's, New York.

If you are getting ready for a Summer trip, don't forget that one of the most complete collections of Suit Cases and Hand Bags will be found in our basement. Here is every practical and convenient sort of bag that the summer traveler needs. All are the best construction, and priced to save you money.—Wanamaker, New York.

We've been on the lookout for a lot of fine trunks to sell at a low price for some time. A maker who anticipated a great rush of business because of the World's Fair made more than he could possibly dispose of, so we gathered in his "extras," and have a trunk bargain worth talking about.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

Here are the dress-suit cases and traveling bags that men and women who are going away for Christmas will want for their own use. They are likewise exactly the most suitable sorts for those who wish to give them as holiday presents.—Wanamaker, New York.

Trunks and suit cases for the "Back East" Excursions. You are fully conversant with the advertised dates and rates by all the roads for the "Back East" Excursions in the next few days. These excursions make business for us in the sale of carrying cases for personal effects. Do not put off until the last day making your purchase of a new trunk, grip or suit case, but be sure to make it Monday.—Hamburger, Los Angeles, Cal.

A large line just received for the vacation business. Your old one may be broken or look shabby.—Mitchell, Cassel & Baker, Lexington, Ky.

A trunk? Yes, sir. What kind will you have, metal or canvas? We have all styles and sizes. All the new improvements in the locks and trimmings—most any prices.—Cluckers, Trenton, O.

You can trust these trunks and bags. Is there anything more exasperating than a trunk that won't stay shut and needs to be roped or strapped up to keep it from falling apart? You'll never get such a trunk here.—The Edw. Malley Co., New Haven, Conn.

Had we space we could enumerate scores of extraordinary values in leather goods to be found throughout this section these days. As it is, these splendid items will have to represent all. Better come in and see what were offering if you've a need in this line.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

Last year we thought and said we had the best case that could be made for the price—but we have found even more improvements for this year's "Lethersol." Best selected cowhide leather—sewing carefully done with heavy linen thread—frame steel, lining of Irish linen; shirt pocket inside, well made; inside are four brass buckle straps; has the flat lying handle, that will not break; solid brass lock and either straps or brass catches; rich russet leather or dark brown shade, with neat creasing on all sides—22 inch.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The prices we quote on all sorts of leather goods in this annual sale are less than what you'd have to pay were you to go direct to the makers and buy wholesale in large quantities.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

In every detail of leather and workmanship the finest bags we ever had to sell for such a price. They are made of brown cowhide leather that is not only smart in looks, but that wears like iron. They are leather lined, with sewed in frames and two inside pockets. High cut shape, with extra wide bottoms and good brass locks and clasps.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Trusty Trunks to Travel are Here. all sizes and for every purpose. Each has some special merit in the way of convenience, but all are built strongly, canvas covered, iron bound, hardwood slats, double bottom, brass lock, etc.—A. D. Matthews & Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We are striving to reduce our stock of trunks and dress suit cases before taking our semi-annual inventory. In the two following lines we have a little excess that we are determined to reduce, and will do it by severely cutting the prices. This is a bona-fide chance for whoever is looking for a bargain.—Hahne & Co., Newark, N. J.

A Barnum wardrobe trunk will be just what you need on that summer outing trip. They are models of convenience—so constructed that everything in them is always in perfect condition and accessible instantly. You don't have to struggle with tills and compartments every time you want anything. We are sole agents for this well known trunk.—Standard Trunk Co., Detroit.

Loeser cowhide club bags. They come in sizes to hold everything needed, from a fresh blouse and night garments for the flying trip to a goodly supply of wearables for the week-end visit. All in deep club shape, extra wide at the bottom, and made of best russet cowhide leather with hand-welted seams, leather lining, strong handle and brass lock and catches. We sell hundreds, for no smarter, more convenient or better made club bags have been shown this year.—F. Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A new handbag, like English mail pouches. The new handbags made in the style of the English mail pouches, are the nobbiest and newest things for the summer girl and such pretty new things these are that they are worth becoming enthusiastic over, even in the warmest of summer days. One is made of pigskin in the natural tanned color and lined with red saffan. Even the separate coin purse fitted in the inside pocket is the same even as to lining. The strap handles of this bag are prettily arranged on gilt slide-like pieces that allow a free swinging motion, thus adding to the usefulness of the bag. This style costs $5, while a larger bag, made of black seal leather, having the same lining and appointments and arranged in the same way, costs $6.45.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Special—russet leather suit cases. Are you going away? In the trunk department we are offering an excellent russet leather suit case, 24 inches long, reinforced corners, brass fittings and lock. An excellent case for the price. Matting straw suit cases. Vacation is coming and you many need one of these light, easily packed, easily handled suit cases. So much more convenient for a woman than the old style heavy leather case. These are very light and well reinforced with leather corners. Come in sizes 20, 22, 24 and 26 inches.—Weinstock, Lubin & Co., Sacramento, Cal.

All the slightly marred or soiled trunks and bags are marked to sell at about half-price to insure their disposal before stock-taking. All are very finest makes and unusual values.—Gimbel Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

Canvas covered trunk. Is extra well built and will stand all the hard knocks of long travel; covered with heavy waterproof canvas and has all brass trimmings with extra strong ball corner bumpers; brass valance clamps, knee bands and hagney bolts, excelsior lock and is linen lined, fitted with divided tray and covered hat box, and has extra dress tray lined with linen, two solid leather straps and is one of the most dependable trunks made.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

Collapsible shirtwaist boxes. Something new. No woman will be without one if she is going to the country for a couple of weeks or for all summer. Of course, we are the first to show them, and we will have them exclusively until they are copied. They are so constructed that several could easily be carried in the trunk, as they fold very flat—but when opened up they will hold a dozen or more shirt waists. They are covered with pretty cretonne in any color or design desired.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Trunks that hold their own in the mad rush of transportation—hold their contents intact as well—are worth almost any price. Lots of such here, but at figures that won't flatten your pocket-book. Full sized trunks, steamer trunks, shirt trunks, suit cases and bags in abundant and pleasing variety.—W. H. Thompson, Lexington, Ky.

UMBRELLAS

Umbrella Wisdom.—An umbrella in the hand, on a rainy day, is worth two in the rack. Moral: Don't get caught napping, or dripping when such good umbrellas cost so little. Both kinds—men's and women's.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Fine Umbrella News for Women.—Umbrellas that will go out rapidly, because the values are exceptional. The materials for the coverings are good and the handles are here in pleasing variety. The prices enable you to get two umbrellas for the cost of one ordinary.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dependable umbrellas at about a third of their worth. Think of it! 995 in all, a manufacturer's entire factory accumulation of slightly imperfect goods. By imperfect, we mean a streaked gore or probably a misweave here and there. Mind you, the actual usefulness is absolutely unimpaired, and those who are lucky enough to get one or two may count themselves fortunate indeed. English Gloria, Britannia cloth and American taffeta coverings. Paragon frame and steel rods. Natural wood and fancy handles. Sizes for men, women and children. Regular $1.00 goods, for 40c.—L. Bamberger & Co., Newark.

Just about a month ago we offered a similar lot, creating thereby the greatest umbrella buying furore of the season. Another large and finer lot all ready for you Friday. These umbrellas are not perfect, but the damages are so infinitesimal that many stores would never mention the fact. Made of good quality English gloria, mercerized carola and Britannia cloth—26 inch size for women and 28 inch size for men. Good strong paragon frames and steel rods.—Bamberger's, Newark, N. J.

Our great umbrella sale a seven day's wonder. A sale without parallel in the history of umbrella selling. The last special umbrella sale we had some time ago has not been forgotten by our customers, but this sale will utterly eclipse it in many ways. The quantities, qualities and prices will cause you to stop, look, ponder and buy, and it will be our delight, in this season of copious showers, to supply you with protection at much below the usual cost. When any of these lots are sold out they cannot be duplicated, so would it not be well to come early? Note the record-breaking prices.—Goldsmith's Bazaar, Scranton, Pa.

The umbrella chief wanted a little excitement—that's why these finishing touches are put on the prices of all these Parasols and Sun Umbrellas. We've been selling more Parasols this summer than for several seasons past and now we're going to close the rest of our stock of them out with a rush.—Wanamaker, New York.

The largest and best known maker in America sends us this big sale of Women's All-Silk Umbrellas. We took his entire factory line at a price which enables us to offer positively the greatest value of the season. The silks alone in many instances are worth one-half.—Bamberger's, Newark, N. J.

Umbrellas Priced Low.—The umbrellas are worth one cent less now than when we bought them—it's only to get our stock shipshape that that we make these big price cuts.—Kauffmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

The "Hurt" Umbrellas.—The wise man looks ahead. Even if you have no need for an umbrella, with snow on the ground, you will have in March and April—and this opportunity won't knock at your door again—this season.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

It's up to you to protect yourself from the rain by always having on hand one of our umbrellas.—John C. Lowe, Cleveland, O.

Umbrellas have been overworked this season. If yours shows signs of nervous prostration there are silk ones here this morning for $2.75—of a quality that you seldom see for less than $3.75 or $5.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

"My kingdom for a horse," quoth Richard after the battle. Some people are just as keen in a rain storm to get an umbrella.

A chance to-day for men and women.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

You can't trust the weather man. He is liable to ring in a shower on you at any minute, at least it's best to be prepared with umbrellas, and more especially the school children.—Eug. Vatel, Muncie, Ind.

An ideal holiday present. Umbrellas for men and women, made of silk and linen taffeta, which wears better than all-silk. Have case and tassel, steel rod, close roll, and are shown in an elegant assortment of sterling silver, long pearl, horn silver trimmed, natural wood and a hundred other styles of handles.—Rothenberg & Co., New York.

Any morning now you are liable to wake up to find two or three days' rain-storm started. So don't be caught shy of an umbrella when only such little prices as these stand between you and a sturdy, good-looking one.—Bloomington, New York, N. Y.

They wouldn't if they knew the "ins and outs" of this great mercantile enterprise—how closely we keep in touch with every manufacturer, little or big, in the world. Just this is responsible for our being able to offer such excellent umbrellas for such a ridiculous little price. These are of good strong twilled gloria, made on steel frames with steel rods. They come in 26 and 28 inch sizes for men and women—with a large assortment of handles for selection.—Bloomington, New York City.

When the elements have played havoc with the covering of your Umbrella and left it with a broken rib perhaps, and other little casualties, then, if you still have an affection for the handle, it will be well to bring it to this Umbrella hospital and let us make it like new. The cost will be small, in proportion to the price of the material used.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Perhaps you haven't thought much about them the past week. All the more reason why you'll probably have to, soon. Therefore, be warned—and armed, in time.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Our April sale of umbrellas is now on, and will continue till Saturday night. An opportunity to obtain umbrellas for business, dress or children's school use from 25 to 50 per cent less than any price ever quoted in Rochester in a regular way. The benefit to us comes in the shape of a largely reduced stock, making room for new purchases which will soon arrive. It also serves to make more people acquainted with Rochester's best umbrella and leather goods store. At the opening of the sale we had over twice as many umbrellas in sight as were ever shown in a Rochester store at one time.—Henry Likly & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

A sale of Umbrellas. Umbrella Days.—About 500 fine umbrellas for ladies, misses and men. We know it is cold, but April is a rainy month, and it may rain the same day. Anyway, you can prepare for the wet weather and get a good umbrella at a very small cost.—I. N. Martin, Peoria, Ill.

A royal showing is kept constantly in stock, to which the latest novelties are added as fast as they appear in the market. Practically all the good ones are here. Our magnificent collection is admired by every one who sees it. There are rich handles of exquisite designs in gold and silver with long pearl post, gun metal inlaid with silver, carved ivory, horn overlaid with silver and gold, ebony, etched wood, etc.—Frear's, Troy, N. Y.

A number of fine silk umbrellas are shown (in styles for men and women), with unusually effective handles of rock crystals, garnets, carved ivory, gun metal, and gold and sterling silver in art nouveau designs; also Martin's London umbrellas in a variety of styles, walking sticks, riding whips and crops.—B. Altman & Co., New York, N. Y.

Next to a cheerful temper, this weather, one's best friend is an umbrella. Here's a chance to get a $1.25 umbrella, and a good one at that, for 75c. Just the sort you want for knockabout use at the beach. They have best paragon frames with steel rod, covered with a thoroughly rainproof, fast color, mercerized taffeta. Smart and snappy, in a snug case, with cord and tassel.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Silk umbrellas that are real silk and not sham; others that are part silk and part linen. That adds to the wear. A great many of these umbrellas will be sold very much less than the actual cost of the handles. Right on the eve of the umbrella weather. Now is the time to prepare yourself, for this is an unparalleled umbrella buying opportunity.—W. H. Sample & Sons, Albany.

A Thousand Umbrellas Priced Half.—Now-a-days folk want umbrellas that they can afford to lose, break, or keep if they can; and there's umbrella proud folk, too, who won't carry any umbrella but a good one, and we have those, the real fine kinds, you know, and within this thousand is included all, from the very ordinary kinds to the extraordinary kinds.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Don't be caught unawares. At these abnormally low prices you can well afford to keep an umbrella at each end of the line. Two umbrellas for the usual price of one and a half.—Bernstein's, Pueblo, Colo.

When the fall rains begin you'll want an umbrella, and chances are there will not then be such a favorable opportunity to secure a fine one at so small price. The moral—buy now.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

How important are the sparkling glints in dress—such as beautiful ribbons, perfect-fitting gloves, stylish neckwear, dainty laces, chic veilings, pretty, serviceable kerchiefs—and umbrellas to protect them all from wet.—Olds, Wortman & King, Portland, Ore.

For the Next Rainy Day.—Here's a sale of silk Umbrellas that will cause men and women to provide shelter for themselves against the next "spell of weather." The umbrellas are all of a fine quality of silk, with well-made frames and handsome handles; and are most temptingly priced.—Wanamaker's, New York.

The week just past witnessed the greatest umbrella business in our career. The remarkable sale and demonstration drew tremendous crowds daily. Now we shall hold a genuine clean sweep sale of the lot—and in order to make Monday a memorable bargain event, we intend to offer the very best umbrella values ever witnessed in Atlanta. You cannot afford to let this chance slip. Here are umbrellas in a magnificent handle assortment. Many of these handles are worth more than the price of the umbrella.—J. M. High Co., Atlanta.

A sale of umbrellas. April showers develop a scarcity of umbrellas; and the scarcity often begins early in March. Of course you can run in and get an umbrella when you get caught without it; but you can save a dollar or two by buying to-day, and prevent getting wet at the same time. We have some good luck to share with you.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

An important sale of umbrellas for women. You need not hesitate to carry anyone of them no matter where you go.—Haskell & Tripp, New Bedford.

Every umbrella we sell is intended to be an incontrovertible reason why the purchaser should come back, after it is worn out, for another. First, because of enduring service—as with shoes so with umbrellas. Some folks are harder on umbrellas than others. But most folks can "size up" the service a good umbrella gives them, and we plan to give the best average period of service to everyone who gets an umbrella here.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Nothing more fortunate could happen in the way of a sale, that's sure. And these umbrellas are offered at next-to-nothing prices, for the handles on many of them are worth more than we're asking for the whole umbrella.—Bloomington, New York, N. Y.

Autumn rain-storms will treat both alike, according to precedent. According to our precedent, here are some noteworthy umbrella offerings, that seem to have some fitness just now.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Kinds you can afford to lose, but you won't wish to—they're too good and pretty. The poorest one in the assortment is worth two dollars. Built with paragon frames, covered with piece dyed taffeta silk, liste warp, close rolling. Outside cases match the covering. Sturdy natural wood handles. Just six hundred and fifty of them.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York City.

Umbrella Sale a Great Success.—These umbrellas are trade marked, "Born in Baltimore. Raised everywhere." Venture to say when this great sale is over, they'll be raised everywhere over Grant County. Undoubtedly the greatest bargains.—A. C. Bailey & Co., Marion.

What's the matter with umbrellas? All over the country umbrella sales have taken a drop. What is to be done? Simply this—prices have to be cut to such a low mark that umbrellas will be such bargains you cannot resist buying.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

Umbrellas! Half a thousand of them. We sincerely trust you'll not need one when you read this appeal. But if you do—if you must have an umbrella, you'll not find another such a collection to select from in a hundred miles. School umbrellas, shopping umbrellas, umbrellas for marketing, umbrellas for use and umbrellas for show.—J. R. Libby Co., Portland Me.

In purchasing umbrellas the same care should be taken, if you would buy the best, as you would take in the selection of a diamond. Go to experts who know their business. We have gathered the best from two continents and far away Japan, and can give you better value than any other store.—Memphis Umbrella Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Extremes are apt to touch—either you'll need an umbrella or a parasol. Here are some notable offerings of umbrellas you'll be glad to own at their specially low prices; and our showing of fine parasols is delightful in its variety of charming styles.—Wanamaker, New York.

We will whet your bargain appetite with this umbrella special.—S. Kann, Sons & Co., Washington, D. C.

In this lot there are gloria covered umbrellas for 1,000 men and women. The regular price of these umbrellas everywhere is $1.00. There are 28-inch umbrellas for men and 26-inch umbrellas for women. All are made with paragon frames and have steel rods, which makes a combination for strength that cannot be excelled.—The 14th Street Store, New York, N. Y.

Colored Silk Umbrellas.—The new spring stock of colored silk umbrellas is very, very large and varied—these dainty shower-proof utensils coming midway between the parasol and black umbrella, and proving more popular and practical every season. More practical, because the taffeta and other silks grow more enduring, and retain their dye better.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Open one of these umbrellas and you will have good luck for a long time. Men's and Women's Fine Gloria Silk Umbrellas at 95c, but are positively worth $1.49. Natural wood, horn and nickel plated handles. Sizes 26 and 28. Paragon frame, steel rods. Will stand the heaviest downpour.—Philadelphia Bargain Store, Trenton, N. J.

Not much to pay for an umbrella that looks well and will keep off the rain—this is a little lot we secured under value.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Umbrella Prices Down While Umbrellas Go up. A happy conjunction of circumstances that enables you to buy umbrellas, at the time when they are most wanted, at less than half price.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Umbrella gone? It's time for the new ones anyway, to match the new gowns and shirt waists.—Meldrum, Scott & Co., Scranton, Pa.

Rainsticks. Not half what we intend to show—but many clever things, worthy of mention—every umbrella is carefully selected, mounted correctly and in keeping with the value of the cover. We show an exceptional line beginning at one dollar.—The Halle Bros. Co., Cleveland, O.

Children's umbrellas. There's nothing a child likes much better than to carry an umbrella, especially if it's his very own. He needs one, too, for school use just as much as father does for his business. These umbrellas are of cotton, good but inexpensive and well made, else they'd not be cheap at any price. For school use children prefer handles that have a ring or loop, something that will allow hanging to a hook. There are many of these in the lot and some with round marble or metal ends.—Miller & Paine, Omaha, Neb.

The season of showers. Not safe to start out during this weather without your umbrella. No reason either why you should. Our umbrella sales, starting to-morrow, will supply you for about half price.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg.

The frequency of drenching showers and the consequent danger of a wetting make the umbrella a necessary companion these days, and the need of having it where you can reach it quickly becomes urgent. There's a big umbrella department in this store all ready to supply a protracted demand, fully equipped for any call that may be made on it.—Owen Moore & Co., Portland, Me.

You may need an umbrella any day now. The showers are here, and we are ready to supply you with the best that money can buy. We fear no scrutiny or comparison. See our umbrellas. Best in town.—D. W. Downey, Brockville.

Umbrellas that keep off the rain. You want a good umbrella at this season of the year, and we have them with Paragon frames and steel rods, natural wood and horn handles, at about half price for to-morrow's sale.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Don't get wet for $3.00—There's no economy in running the chances in this climate to save a little money. Five minutes' exposure to a spring shower may send you to the doctor, and your hat to the rummage sale. During this week we are selling umbrellas for one dollar less than they are worth. Here's true economy for you. Hurry before it rains.—Meldrum, Scott & Co., Scranton, Pa.

One-fourth off on all umbrellas. The umbrella people were late in getting our big orders filled, and consequently we have on hand to-day more umbrellas than we care to carry. Here's your chance to spend the Christmas Gift money to advantage—one-fourth off regular prices.—The Star Store, New Bedford, Mass.

Umbrellas and canes—Christmas novelties. Our Christmas collection of umbrellas and canes embraces the most attractive lines of novelties that we have as yet presented. Many of them decidedly exclusive.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

The best umbrellas that $1.50 ever bought. The kinds that have been $2.25 and $2.50. Some kinds were even higher. Warranted Sicilian taffeta coverings, fast woven tape edges that prevent splitting, add to the wear of the covering two-fold. Best paragon frames, warranted tempered steel staffs, half a hundred style handles, trimmed natural wood, combination gold and mother-of-pearl, and silver and mother-of-pearl handles. Women's, men's and children's. All with slip covers to match. Of course, lower priced and higher priced umbrellas in plenty.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Richest line ever, holiday umbrellas. Our many excellent lines of umbrellas, in the past, never equaled this. Ample in the size of stock and in the variety of designs, it includes the best of the best manufacturers. Holiday buyers now have a complete line to select from and all the advantages of early choosing are at their command.—Sisson Bros., Binghamton, N. Y.

Splendid line of umbrellas. If your friend recently borrowed an umbrella they'll appreciate one that they can keep. Our assortment is immense and includes the finest quality silk coverings and fitted with the richest designs in handles, including high grade novelties in pearl, gun metal, gold and silver trimmed and many artistic effects in wood—$5.00 to $12.50 each.—Friedman's, Grand Rapids.

Never has a man or woman complained of having too many umbrellas, so you are safe in giving an umbrella and safe in choosing it from our stock. Nowhere can you find so large an assortment. We engrave single initials on all umbrellas at $2.00 or over free.—H. S. Barney Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Umbrellas half price. Two hundred and ten went on sale this morning. That's too many to sell in one day, even if it is raining. The sale continues on Saturday, while they last. The second day's choosing is good, for they all sell at half price.—The Crescent, Spokane.

Have you a broken rib in your umbrella? If so bring it to me, and I will set the fracture and will guarantee an instantaneous healing. No physician can do as much for you.—Magly's, Kenton, Ohio.

Special values in ladies' fancy umbrellas. Ladies' umbrellas, with fine surah and silk-and-wool covers, may be had here at great saving in price. Through the most extensive purchases in the history of the store we have secured greater price concessions than ever before and can guarantee the best value; money back if we can't prove our claims to your entire satisfaction.—Z. Paquet, Quebec, Can.

The most attractive line of good umbrellas for ladies or gentlemen, with beautiful handles, to make them suitable for handsome gifts. We have the low-priced kind, as low as is consistent with good quality, then the handsome ones. Ladies' umbrellas, with natural wood, gold and silver and pearl handles; $1.95 to $15.00.—The Fair, Ft. Worth, Tex.

An umbrella is a present useful and very attractive. A good umbrella will prove satisfactory after months of wear and we sell the good kind—umbrellas that are guaranteed in every way. In ladies' umbrellas we have splendid values—at $3.50, $5 and $7.50—handles mounted in sterling silver. At the same prices we have men's umbrellas with fine horn—natural woods—or gun metal—sterling mounted. You save from $1 to $2.50 on any one of these umbrellas. Artistic monogram engraved without extra charge.—Gamossi Glove Co., Denver, Col.

Umbrellas for women and men. If you want an umbrella for yourself or for some one else, here is the place to come. We direct attention to several hundred new ones to-day that are a little finer than any we have seen at the prices. Among them are the new leather covered handle with mountings, gold, silver and pearl combinations, horn, metal and most every variety of wood in straight and hook style.—Gold-thait & Sons Co., Marion, Ind.

Stunning umbrellas that roll up like a walking stick; with the nicest kind of handles; umbrellas for men, women and children, and if you can think of a better gift than an umbrella, if your friend hasn't got one, or a more useful one, well, we want especially to-day to talk about our umbrellas at 98c., $1.50, $1.98 and $2.50. Hundreds and hundreds of higher-priced ones of course. Silk umbrellas at from $3.50 to $12.—The Gamble Desmond Co., New Haven, Conn.

Colored silk umbrellas of excellent quality and strongly made for general use; colors to match most any costume, in wine, green, navy, brown, plum; some are in plain, others with fancy borders; natural wood handles, tassel and case to match the umbrella.—Kemp & Hebert, Spokane, Wash.

UPHOLSTERING

January Upholstering.—January and February are two of the best months during the year to have your upholstering attended to ; we will not have to keep you waiting as we have been compelled to during some of the busier months, and can give it the best possible attention. Let us estimate, work guaranteed satisfactory and up-to-date.—Levy Bros., Danbury, Conn.

New furniture from old! Reupholstering and recovering done honestly and at an economical price! Have you any old furniture in reduced circumstances? Family heirlooms that are a bit too shabby for use? Our upholsterers have skilled knowledge and wide experience as restorers. Every case is successfully treated. Our upholstery store is full of new ideas for coverings—silk damasks, tapestries, gobelin tapestries, silk velours, veronas, brocades, wide wale corduroys, plain and fancy velours and genuine leather in new shades. On request we will send to your home an expert who has goods and prices at his tongue's end. A postal card will bring him to your door.—Stickley-Brandt Furniture Co., Binghamton.

The upholstery store.—The closer relationship we manage to establish between your home and our upholstery store the greater satisfaction there'll be on both sides. The upholsterer makes the home. Cold, uninviting, unharmonious, indeed, would be the work of architect, builder and furniture maker if the upholstery artist didn't step in and with magic touch give warmth and harmony—life as it were—to the whole. Will you not consult us on these matters so important? We have the wherewithal to do and the brains to do it. What's the need? Perhaps walls are to be covered, windows recurtained, new hangings purchased? We shall take pleasure in planning with you. You can undoubtedly give us ideas, very likely we can make a happy suggestion.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

The upholstery store is radiant with new attractions. Beautiful things from here and abroad to lend fresh grace and additional charm and comfort to your homes. And, what is more, the savings in every instance are unusually liberal.

We are constantly searching the markets for what is best and most practical. Being buyers on an enormous scale, it naturally follows that we can sell at prices indisputably lower than those asked elsewhere. For to-day we announce a special sale of lace curtains, tapestry portieres and couch covers. These, however, are only a few of the specials for to-day. People back from summer sojourns, and now engaged in getting their homes ready for fall and winter, will not hesitate to avail themselves of an opportunity so strictly advantageous.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

We begin to-morrow our annual Fall sale of Curtains and Upholsterings, and start it off with some of the biggest bargains ever offered in this line of merchandise. There are bargains galore in lace curtains, and there are very attractive specials in a whole lot of other things. While many of the lots mentioned here will probably be exhausted by Tuesday night, others—equally good—will take their places throughout the month.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York, N. Y.

It's going to be hot again. Here are things you'll need. There are a lot of things in the upholstery section that go a great way toward making life bearable—even pleasant—in hot weather. The best of it is, they don't cost much. And no matter what the price may be, they are cheaper than you can get equal grades anywhere.—Hochschild, Kohn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Summer upholstery.—If you put up a bit of light Summer drapery for the breeze to blow through, you add coolness as well as prettiness to the room. If people will only put their houses as well as themselves in Summer dress they will be a deal more comfortable. It is inexpensive if you go to the right store and buy the right things.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Nothing adds so much to the furnishing of a house as the wall decorations. They give a finish to the house. Give it a homelike look that can be obtained in no other way. We make a specialty of this work.—Lewis W. Lee, Peoria, Ill.

VACATION

Summer Man.—Jack—How are you going to spend the summer?

Tom—I'm going to spend it traveling from one seaside place to another, until I find a girl worth a million or two who wants to be loved and married for herself alone.—Tit-Bits.

Our variety of lazy day suits is complete.—Oak Hall, Boston, Mass.

A bunch of pretty girls were discussing the details of their vacation trip, and they nearly all complained of "nothing fit to wear." Oh, that's easy to remedy, says one of the sweetest of the bunch. Let's all go to the Union Clothing Co., and we all can be fitted to a T.—Union Clothing Co., Cohoes, N. Y.

Vacation togs—we have them. How is that boy fixed for the three months' vacation—now at hand? Has he the kind of clothes it takes to hold a boy?—Fuller & Scane, Bedford, Ia.

You can save enough money at Spear's to defray the expenses of a vacation at the seashore. Don't worry about your vacation money. You can go to the seashore or elsewhere and have money to spare if you select your housefurnishings at Spear's—a dollar or two will do.—Spear's, Pittsburg, Pa.

As you hail with delight this happy and romantic season of picnics and outings, so we want you to meet our preparations for your enjoyment of these events. By glancing over the reminders herewith presented you'll see we are giving the best attention to the apparel and adjuncts required.—Burke, Fitz-Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Before going on your vacation step into our new bag section on the main floor and inspect the many new things we have to make the trip comfortable.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

Good-bye! You will soon be off by boat or rail. More than half the comfort of your summer outing depends upon your outfit. Here are the comforting kinds of underwear and overwear; thoroughly reliable in material and workmanship.—Oak Hall, Boston, Mass.

Already preparations are being made for the summer vacation, which include the shoes to be worn while at the seaside, the mountains or elsewhere. If you are going to the mountains you will especially need stout shoes with heavy soles. If you are going to the seaside you will need dainty Oxfords and white footwear to be properly clad. Wherever you are going keep in mind that you can find here a correct footwear.—B. Rich's Sons, Washington, D. C.

"Taking to the woods" on a camping trip will be doubly enjoyable if you're provided with a supply of those fine jersey and other sweaters we're showing in our window—whites, stripes, blues and blacks—from $1.50 up. Taking to the water will prove a perfect delight if you're rigged out with one of those handsome bathing suits we show alongside the sweaters at $1 up. Your vacation will be a pleasant memory for years if you'll let us help you to get ready for it.—R. J. Hurd & Co., Spokane.

Our preparations incident to the coming traveling season were made with strict adherence to the demands of discriminating travelers and tourists.—B. Lowenstein & Bros., Memphis, Tenn.

Hat trunk. There is nothing a lady requires more in traveling than one of these light hat trunks. They hold five hats and contain a tray for small articles. Also most suitable for keeping your hats in at home.—Julian Solo Leather Goods Co., Toronto, Can.

Jamestown suit cases and trunks. Get prepared now to take in the great exposition. We can supply you with the right kind of traveling necessities—kinds that the baggage smasher can't hurt. We carry an unusually fine line of dress suit cases in qualities to suit all purses. Many in imitation leather; made extra strong and durable, with all the latest devices for convenience and safety. In the better grades of solid sole leather the most critical buyer can be satisfied. Trunks built to stand the racket, with all the latest devices for convenience and safety. Stop in to-day and see them.—Cramer & Rogers, Trenton, N. J.

VALENTINES

*To make the home seem cheerful
And keep the husband sweet,
Go plant a window garden
Beside his evening seat;
Have boxes neatly painted
And keep the edges trim;
And then if he will not be good
Throw flower pots at him.*

—Chicago News.

To my valentine :

Surely 'tis time for wooing

When St. Valentine is here

And my heart to you is turning

In the love-time of the year.

—Sanborn, Vail & Co., Los Angeles.

Valentines. We're ready for St. Valentine with a great collection of about every thing used in the way of pictorial effects, except the gross and vulgar. There are valentines of celluloid and satin beautifully hand-painted; there are valentines of crepe paper in all the gorgeous coloration of the rainbow. Grottesquely comic subjects, sentimental subjects, and subjects that will grace any nook in the house.—Jos. Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Thousands upon thousands of valentines. Cupid never did as well as this year in producing those quaint, unique, artistic and cunning conceits which are called valentines. And as Valentine Day is almost here, there is no time to be lost in making your selections. You may as well come here—where you have all the new ideas to choose from. And there's another reason why you should come here. "Economy is a virtue"—even in love affairs.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

Cupid's court in session in our stationery store. St. Valentine is holding court in our stationery and engraving department and is being attended by myriads of cupids who are preparing their bows and quivers for that great day, when they go forth in the disguise of a dainty valentine and shoot their arrows at the fondest hearts. Never has our line been more beautiful, including as it does an exquisite collection of hand-painted love tokens.—Columbus Dry Goods Co., Columbus, O.

Here is the place to buy valentines. No doubt about it. Remember our display last year? We have doubled it this year.—Foltz & Hardy, Colorado Springs, Col.

Tender thoughts prettily expressed in poetry and prose on hearts, flowers, Cupids, fans, in dainty billetsdoux and a hundred other charmingly captivating ways. And there are other hundreds to satisfy the spirit of fun and raillery. One cent to $2.25.—Stewart & Co., Baltimore, Md.

February 14.—It's coming, and since you will buy a valentine, more likely several of them, why not make the selection at once from the fresh, full stock. Scores of novelties never shown till now, and at prices so you needn't be extravagant.—Crews Beggs, Pueblo.

We bought the best of three or four makes of valentines. We place them on display Monday. They range in price from 1c., 2c., 5c., 10c., 15c., 25c. up to $2 each. These are regular valentines, yet they are just a little out of the ordinary because they are the newest styles.—The Foltz-Hardy Store, Pueblo.

Some of the cutest ones you ever saw. Those new comics, which you likely never saw before. Then some of those pretty, fluffy affairs that make one's heart go pit-a-pat and carries we older heads back to our first valentine. The prices are just as Broadway prices always are—the lowest in town.—Broadway Department Store, Los Angeles.

Dainty bits of cardboard transformed by clever hands and heads into beautiful greetings—all the new filigree and lace effects; the prettiest decorations and cutest designs, and not half what you'd expect to pay. We old people, who remember paying 50c. to 75c. for valentines not half so pretty as these at 25c have another excuse for wishing to be giving again.—Friemisth's, Duluth, Minn.

VALUES

"This offer of your heart and hand is very sudden," said the summer girl, "but I will take it."

"Ah!" gasped the swell dry goods clerk, badly rattled. "Will you take it with you or shall I send it home?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Sharp merchandising methods have made possible the splendid values of this sale—price advantages which are attracting thousands of customers—many thousands more than in previous similar events. Orders scarcely covering the cost of the materials are placed in the makers' dull season—every possible opportunity to secure special purchases is eagerly sought out—the enormous quantities of our orders placed in the regular channels bring us price concessions enjoyed by no other store.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Many of our best values are not mentioned in our newspaper advertising. These are small assortments—perhaps enough for less than a day's selling. They are always placarded with white cards—our regular "not advertised" cards. Look for them.—Macy's, New York, N. Y.

It is not economy to jump at every "catch-penny" offering that is made. Take a certain value and compare the prices as found at different stores upon it, and buy where you can get it for the least. We can save you money for we buy as jobbers, and save the middleman's profit. We save it for you. We clip it off of the regular retailer's price, and simply give it to you.—Jos. Szold & Son, Peoria, Ill.

To supply every want to the best advantage, do your buying at Rothschild's. A little indulgence in careful, critical comparisons will establish the fact that the best values in thoroughly dependable merchandise are here. To-day we submit a page of bargain news that it would be sheerest extravagance for the economically inclined person to disregard.—Rothschild & Co., Chicago, Ill.

The order to clear stocks is being rapidly enforced. Every department is responding with an array of values that wise women and men find most attractive. The program of great values arranged for to-morrow's business hours is quite the best yet. Involved are the high-grade goods for which this store is justly famed—new, fresh and perfectly correct, from every view-point—but, as it is our invariable rule to clear each season's stock by the end of the season, value and cost are lost sight of and the most sweeping reductions are made. The amended announcement tells of great money-saving opportunities for men. Our name—Journey & Burnham—is sufficient guarantee.—Journey & Burnham, Brooklyn, N. Y.

There is positively no excuse for the low prices mentioned below—we simply have the goods to sell and you may judge for yourself the fairness of our proposition. We always give a "square" deal for a "round" dollar.—Cartwright's, San Bernardino, Cal.

Every bit of merchandise belonging to the winter season must be cleared ere the demand for spring goods becomes active and sustained. "The new must borrow nothing from the old." The wearing season doesn't parallel the selling season, hence the advisability—the wisdom of profiting in the chances recorded in the extra value items that fill this page daily.—W. H. Scroggie, Montreal, Can.

The week past was very unfavorable to selling. Business got a jolt by the conditions which caused so many of you to wisely stay at home. Now, such a business can't be well left alone; we must try and make up the lost days. This week the most unusual sort of values are offered. We are content to sell at prices sufficiently reduced to run up and multiply the sales; to your benefit the savings are very great.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta, Ga.

An opportunity. The expansion sale has created the greatest furniture buying opportunity this store has ever offered. Everything in this large establishment has been priced at one-half the original value and some merchandise at even a lesser figure.—Cleator's Reno.

The unqualified excellence of our garments and hats is too well known to need discussion or further comment. The values alone are here given emphasis and that emphasis indicates how great are the advantages offered the buying public.—The Lewis Store, Denver, Col.

Values will reach the lowest limit in order to move a few thousand dollars more stock. No excitement, no side show, no snake charmers, but irresistible, eloquent, appealing prices. Prices that no house will dare claim to match, and you are always protected in your purchases here. After you get home, if you find you are dissatisfied, come back and exchange or get your money back. Goods gladly exchanged. If you get a pair of mismatched shoes or a pair of gloves both for the same hand it is a pleasure for us to right the wrong. Business building to be staple, must come up to the standard of our motto, "Fair Play." Perhaps we may want to remain in Denison, and we are building for the future.—The Baily Dry Goods Co., Denison, Texas.

The facts and figures herein given illustrate the wonderful values we are offering on strictly dependable, seasonable merchandise goods that you're sure to want right now, the newest of the new, designed for warm weather wear, prices proving that we're doing a little better by you than the other fellow, improving all the time, the cumulative force of experience. Come in, and see if you don't think so, too. Specials on sale, not for an hour, not for a day, but for two entire days, Friday and Saturday, giving you plenty of time for thoughtful selection.—Lazarus Bros., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Values that are far superior to any we have ever offered. Several broken lots and small lines of new this season's goods left over from our great holiday selling have been grouped for special Friday and Saturday selling at less than our regular below others prices. This gives you a chance to buy the most stylish and satisfactory clothes that can be made, at close to half what you'd ordinarily have to pay for them anywhere else—enough said. Come here to-morrow as early as you can and make your selection. Most appreciated bargains for those economically inclined.—Koch Bros., Allentown, Pa.

Values varied and exceptional, command the attention of the wise. It is an immutable law with us that a suit or overcoat designed for a season's service, must find service that season, be the penalty what it may. That is the reason we are cleaning the store of all overcoats and suits.—Sanders & Barrows Clothing Co., New Bedford, Mass.

The store bountiful. At this writing the entire store is so thronged and customers generally are so intent on buying specials, etc., that but little time is given to see the array of new fall and winter goods which great ships have just landed here direct from Europe and the Orient. It is this direct touch with the creators of goods that we emphasize. Not only are these wares manufactured expressly for our public, but all unnecessary cost of handling the goods is cut off and you get them at simply the advance of our small profit—our actual cost and customs. See the lovely silk skirts from Paris. The dainty, delicate tea gowns from Paris. The heroic figures in bronze. The new curios from Japan. The rugs and carpetings from abroad. And so we run on with a lengthening list.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

When you mark goods in plain figures there's no argument. When you are buying an article in any store it's safe to say that you have more confidence in the firm with whom you are trading if the goods are marked in plain figures, than you would have if they were marked in characters. In the first instance, you know that you are buying the article as cheap as it can be bought—but not so the other way, because if you happen to look easy to the salesperson the price may go up. You can't tell, and, in fact, would not know if the price was raised—now, would you? Our one-price system has been one of the biggest factors of our success. We mark everything in plain figures. We believe in treating everybody alike and showing no preference whatsoever. One price to all and that the lowest, then there can be no argument. A child can buy at this store as cheap as a man. Think it over and then call and see for yourself.—The People's Store, Omaha, Neb.

A delightful summer store, sparkling with the brightest, crispest, freshest summer merchandise that it is possible to assemble. It appeals to every element of the vast shopping public. We are making unusual efforts to keep all seasonable goods thoroughly assorted throughout the summer. We shall offer, as we are doing in the advertisement below, special values constantly, from now on, but this will not interfere with the most complete assortment possible in every regular line of summer goods.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington.

Last day witnesses an improvement in the values given in many departments. The Ladies' Coat Section is particularly aggressive—half price has been the incentive to buy a coat since the month commenced, but less than half price will buy many of the coats to-morrow. With other departments in the same frame of mind you will doubtless appreciate the benefit of finishing the month with a visit on shopping bent to "The Store of Satisfaction."—W. H. Scroggie, Victoria St., Montreal, Can.

Remember, we sell just what we advertise and a dollar saved is a dollar made and this sale is truly the talk of the town, for the values we give are better and greater than we can tell you here, for you must see the goods we are selling at this great sale for that will tell you its own story. This sale cannot last long for the prices we have put on the goods are doing the work and you are truly making money when you buy here. Don't wait until the best things are gone; come and see the bargains we are offering. The wise man buys when the opportunity comes; now be wise.—Munger & Long, Camden, N. J.

Presenting absolutely the best values ever offered in the northwest. For months we've been planning and working to make it the most intensely interesting sale ever held. The prudent housewife, the boarding house keeper and the hotel and restaurant man will all be here to participate in this mighty money-making event.—R. Weil, Spokane, Wash.

Incomparable values. A sale which brings the choicest dress trimmings, largely of exclusive designs, to your sewing table at such generous reduced prices so early in the season that it is calculated to arouse enthusiasm. Fashion prescribes the use of trimmings to a greater extent than ever this year. At this sale you can get the finest silk applique in black and colors, plain and fancy braids in white and colors, spangle trimmings in silver, gold, steel and combination, jet spangles, jet all-overs, fancy all-overs, fine cut jets, fancy beltings, elastic beltings, Richelieu plaitings in colors and soutache braids, all at reduced prices.—Sage-Allen & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Now while assortments are full and styles defined we offer special values, all much below regular prices. Comparison of styles, qualities and prices with those elsewhere is sure to result in our favor. Therefore, we say, don't buy before you see what can be obtained here, and don't buy here until you have satisfied yourself that values are unquestionably the best.—Boston Cloak Store, Trenton, N. J.

You can't match these Saturday values in the coat and suit section. Prove us, that's a good way; look about and compare the freshness of style (that's first), then the beauty of the workmanship and the worthiness of materials embodied in our suits and coats; compare ours with these same qualities of other stores. You can't know until you make these comparisons how head and shoulders above all others are these Saturday values of ours.—The Gamble-Desmond Co., New Haven, Conn.

No such values have ever been offered to clothing buyers of Troy and vicinity. Our loss is your gain. Our determination not to carry over a single spring or summer garment has struck the popular chord. The people of Troy appreciate the real thing in a sale, and we fully appreciate the people of Troy for their hearty support and liberal response to our advertising. We are positively giving the people the greatest bargains they have ever had, and will continue to do so till every spring and summer garment is disposed of.—Casper Cohn, Troy, N. Y.

With one bound this store has sprung into public favor. Its progressiveness is appreciated by every caller. The indomitable ambition to undersell, which has made the great Hartman chain of stores so successful in other cities, is bound and determined to make this store a permanent leader among the house-furnishing concerns of Minneapolis and vicinity. We're forging to the front. We're giving the public such values as were positively unobtainable in this section before we came. We can undersell them all and we're certainly doing it now. Come and revel in the bargains.—Hartman Furniture and Carpet Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

It so happened that the mill in England that made these wools was in the throes of stocktaking when our buyer was there. It was a good time to make an offer and clear the mill. He did, and here they are. The reduction to us was generous—same to you. Make your selections early.—The T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

Some very wonderful values in beautiful imported costumes are to be had at this sale. For instance, $25 buys a $47 costume, and $39 buys one worth $89. But these are merely samples.—Wise, Smith & Co., Hartford, Conn.

VEHICLES

Buy a new rig this spring—don't cost as much as you expect if you come here. Come down any time and we'll show you through our repository.—Kenton Carriage Co., Kenton, O.

Ride on rubber. That's the "easy" way. Now pick your rig while we have a full line of the swellest new effects on display. If you're going to buy a carriage, get a surely good one. That's the only kind we sell—and we warrant we can give you more carriage elegance, comfort and real worth for your money than you can get anywhere else. No heavy prices to pay, if you buy of us.—W. F. Whiton & Co., Bangor, Me.

In the springtime you think of riding or driving. Then you ask where to get your outfit and get the best. Ask those who know and they will tell you that Broyles, McClelland & Lackey Co. carry the best line of buggies, surreys, road wagons, etc., and manufacture the best harness to be found anywhere. Come and see before you make your purchase, then you will be of the same opinion. Maybe you think the horse doesn't know when his collar fits and when it doesn't. "Horse sense" enables him to tell the difference at a single "try on." Make sure you have the right sort by buying horse collars and every other kind of horse equipment of us.—Broyles, McClelland & Lackey Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

A carriage body of correct style and shape on running gear that is strong, easy and durable—that's the sum and substance of a good vehicle. And such are numerous here.—Howard Miller, Mansfield, O.

It is lost on some men to say that the body has oval edge-irons, concave seat risers, ash sills and poplar panels, screwed, glued, plugged and mitred at the corners, and has full length steel rocker plates. They are necessary details of a really good vehicle, however, and prove their presence by wear.—W. S. Bruce & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

The pleasure, to say nothing of the pride of owning a carriage of your own, is a dream which is realized in its fullest extent only when we have supplied the carriage. The selection of a buggy is an important undertaking. A good buggy costs too much money to be purchased indifferently. A poor buggy costs too little money to be bought at all.—W. H. Rowerdink, Rochester.

Need a carriage?—You can get one here much below the regular price! Simply because we need more room in our establishment. The driving season is well under way, and you ought to have the best possible vehicle in order to get full enjoyment out of the season!—W. C. Smith, Richmond, Va.

A long drive can be taken in comfort when you are seated in one of the light and easy runabouts that you will find in our large assortment of high-class vehicles. The increasing popularity of these vehicles for road use is shown in the many that we are selling and the reasonable prices we are asking.—E. W. Davis Carriage Co., Colorado Springs.

There's just as much difference in carriages as there is in horses, more, perhaps, and besides carriages get out of style quicker than horses. If you own a good horse don't be satisfied with any old carriage.—Kirby & Hicks, New Bedford, Mass.

You hate to say "Whoa" when you are riding in one of our rigs, behind one of our smart-stepping teams. We can furnish high steppers, safe teams for the ladies to drive, or a pair of reliables that will take you safely over the worst imaginable roads.—R. M. Carter & Co., Crowley, N. Y.

There are days when carriage buying fills the minds of those who realize that better opportunities await early comers. Our repository offers anything you may want in a vehicle.—Smith, Watkins & Co., Lexington, Ky.

A horrible accident may be averted by getting your carriages from the White Hickory Wagon Mfg. Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Rarely has there been such an ideal summer for driving—cool enough to make even the street inviting—and rarely have we ever shown so many handsome summer vehicles—victorias, phaetons, surreys, station wagons, spiders, traps, runabouts, buggies—rich, restful, graceful, with every item carefully thought out and faithfully executed. Prices run along from very modest figures to where your fancy calls halt—vehicles ready to deliver or ready to trim and paint to your order.—Studebaker, New York.

Buggyology. A new science whose chief center is now in Columbus, Ohio. Briefly, buggyology may be called the science of buggies, or more exactly the science which will enable the prospective purchaser of a buggy to learn just how much of value there is underneath the glossy finish. It is a difficult study, for there are so many would-be professors who find it profitable to mislead earnest students. Buggies consist of wood, iron, steel, leather, cloth, carpet, rubber, paint and varnish. There is great chance for variation in quality in each of these lines. The spokes may be sawed oak instead of split hickory, and cross-grained spokes are common and have cost many lives. Iron may be used instead of steel, etc., etc. The paint and varnish, when skilfully applied, may be like charity—cover a multitude of sins of omission and commission in construction. Of course, experience may be the best teacher, but most people object to paying the high salary this teacher demands. There is one sure way of learning all the points of buggy construction. Buy a Columbus Buggy Co.'s vehicle. It is the best made, best in wood, best in steel, best in leather, best in trimmings, and best in workmanship. There are no sins to cover up.—W. S. Bruce & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

The race is on! The staying qualities of the carriage or harness that is made upon honor, that is made as good as it can be, that is sold as low as it can be, wins every time. That is why our business in these lines increases so rapidly, and why we carry the high-grade vehicles and harness that we do.—W. C. Landon Co., Rutland, Vt.

Ride in our rigs and you'll agree with us that they are the easiest riding rigs made. We expect to sell more rigs this season than we ever sold before. The good people are finding out where they can get the best rigs for the least money.—Kenton Carriage Co., Kenton, Ohio.

Seasonable carriages, built to wear. Examples of our own hand-wrought runabouts in several smart styles now on our floors. Business wagons, grocers, milkmen, laundrymen, carpenters, bakers, butchers, florists and others.—Chas. H. Childs & Co., Utica, N. Y.

We have the largest and most varied assortment of fine carriages on exhibition, finished completely and ready for immediate use, to be seen in the United States or anywhere else in one building. Our stock embraces every recent style that fashion and utility have created, for town and country, park, road and horse show. If some beautiful or appropriate carriage has won your admiration and you are in search of one like it you may be sure of finding your ideal here.—Van Tassell & Kearney, New York.

No use in buying a new rig unless you buy a good one. If you come here you'll get a rig that will suit you in every way.—Kenton Carriage Co., Kenton, O.

Don't take our word for it; but convince yourself by careful comparison where you can get the best vehicle for your money.—Parrott Carriage Mfg. Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

A smart outfit is possible at comparatively small cost—if the person who buys is careful of the selection. The discerning come to us because they like the style of our well-made vehicles! The best material, artistic judgment and expert workmanship combine to give our products their excellence.—Ainslee Carriage Co., Richmond, Va.

An afternoon drive is as pleasant a way of spending the time as one could find. We should like to satisfy your carriage wants. We are particular to sell only stylish and durable carriages.—Graham-Cope Commercial Co., Redlands, Cal.

Windproof winter carriages. Of course, you know that winter air is good for the little people, provided they are kept out of a draft. We have a choice line of hood carts in which the tops tip further forward than is usually the case, and the space between the lower edge of the hood and the carriage rim is protected by a special curtain. Such vehicles are shown in reed and wooden bodies. In warm weather the hood may be closed up, buggy-top fashion. They are commonsense vehicles throughout.—C. F. Wing, New Bedford, Mass.

Right Running Rigs—that's our aim. Every carriage or wagon we turn out is tested our way and the requirements are not easy to meet; come and inspect this year's models of good rigs for service and style.—Morton, Denver, Col.

Like the old one hoss shay our carriages are built to last. Our "old hickory" buggies are made from the bottom up of the best seasoned wood and there's full quality and fine workmanship in every detail. Call here when you want a carriage bargain.—Smith's, Rochester, N. Y.

Take a ride in a carriage built by Hinds. You'll say you never enjoyed a ride more. We make our rigs right—right for comfort, right for wear, right for price.—Hind's, Syracuse, N. Y.

VEILING

Pick a Dainty Veil.—For your face and another for your hat ; it should match the color exactly. And if you want the widest assortment of styles for choice, showing the hundreds of new things that the season has produced, and at the same time are not adverse to paying the smallest price—just try the Loeser Veiling Store.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Chiffon Veiling. An Unusual Offer.—The chiffon veil is the shibboleth of the American woman, and the veiling commands a ready sale at full prices. None the less, we offer to-day a moderate quantity of Chiffon Veiling we have sold until now at 45c. a yard. It represents an importer's clearance and its price to-day is 25c. a yard.—Wanamaker's, New York.

New Veilings.—Hundreds of more styles to choose from, in various meshes and shades, the new violets and lavenders predominating. Goes without saying—prices are all right.—A. S. Knowles Dry Goods Co., Montgomery, Ala.

The Latest in Veils.—There's such a constant succession of new conceits in veils, all different, that one often wonders how there can be a new idea left in the brains of the designers.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Specials in Stylish Veilings.—Get ready for the March winds ! And there will be no better opportunity than while we are selling these two choice lots at a good deal less than value.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Veils—the New Things.—In our veiling section we are showing the largest and best variety of veils and veilings we know of.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Veilings are here in widest variety of the prettiest and most becoming kinds. No matter what your tastes may be, or whatever color combinations you want to match, you can best and most economically be satisfied here.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Everybody is wearing them and in the color to match the costume—and the fad increases in favor. Yet the same unusual prices reign here as if nobody wanted Veils—as if they were the veritable drug on the market. These are ready to wear, of net and chiffon, in black and white and colors, suitable for the seashore, mountains, street, driving, automobiling or yachting ; some are plain, some hemstitched, some with dotted borders and others dotted all over ; small, medium and large dots of chenille, velvet and embroidery.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Veils are even more fancied than ever. If you really wish to do as others do these days you must wear one, whether walking, driving, automobiling, rowing, yachting, golfing or picnicking. And there never were such bargains as these—maybe that is why the veil counter never did such business as it is doing these hot days.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Just as an instance of the special values as well as the special attractiveness you can find in the veiling store. They are 1 1-2 yards long and made of chiffon, fancy nets with chenille dots either in borders or sprinkled over the whole width ; mourning veils with ribbon and crepe borders ; fancy net veils in white with black, lavender, brown, white, navy, tan and myrtle.—Fred Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

No other cotton material this season can compare with these printed veilings for smartness and daintiness. Soft, sheer and cool as bastiste, they have a crisp, mohair-like finish that makes them particularly desirable for shirt-waist dresses. They come in fine checks, printed in delicate colors on a white ground, overshot with crossbars and dots in woven effect. Especially smart are the black and white checked patterns, which can scarcely be distinguished from fine wool veiling. Another shipment ready here to-morrow at 10c.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Veilings for Saturday. It is generally conceded that a veil is one of the most becoming of all feminine accessories ; but it must be carefully chosen, or some of its attractiveness is lost. There's no better or more convenient place to choose a veil than at Scroggie's. The stock is so large and varied, and novelties are so constantly being added, that the most fastidious and ultra fashionable woman is sure to find something suitable. These are recent additions to our stock.—W. H. Scroggie, Montreal, Can.

WALL PAPER

If it's wall paper in all the very latest and most attractive designs that you desire, come here. Our very large and complete assortment and moderate pricing will surely interest you. Our stocks of ready mixed paints and artist materials are complete.—Jones & Gurley, Utica, N. Y.

We want to make this Wall Paper Department bigger and better than ever, but it must do a business that will warrant giving it more space. Already it is the largest wall paper store in Kansas City—the largest because the prices we make bring more people here than to any other store.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

In strength of beauty, style, variety and lowness of price our this season's showing of wall papers surpasses the finest at any previous exhibit.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

Critics say we've a knack for picking out pretty wall papers. Won't you call and allow us to prove it?—A. B. Griswold, Bay City, Mich.

Come and see the "side issue" of wall paper at the M. C. Sterling Drug Store. The largest stock to select from in the country, comprising over 1,500 different styles, including tapestry, stripes, broken stripes, crown effects and paneling, floral ceilings, moirs and tints. Prices to suit all.—M. C. Sterling Drug Store, Carrollton, O.

The large use of old colonial furniture in modern house furnishing has led to a demand for a reproduction of some of the beautiful old wall papers that adorned the walls of famous colonial residences built early in the last century. Some of the best and most adaptable are the "Shepherdess" pattern from the walls of the old Livingston manor at Catskill-on-Hudson; the "Rose and Anemone" from the Wadsworth homestead in the Genesee valley, and many more.—The Thompson Shop, New Haven, Conn.

Wall papers. It is not a question of covering the wall, but of decorating, with us. The paper must really furnish, must make a decided improvement, or we will not sell it. For doing this we have several exclusive lines of imported and domestic papers, as well as all kinds of fabrics.—Sisson Bros.-Welden Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

What room needs papering? Is there a room in your house that looks dirty in spite of your efforts at cleanliness? Ten to one the paper is soiled. There's nothing that will freshen up everything in the room so well as a nice bright paper. We have a variety suitable for each room in the home and our prices are right.—A. B. Tack's, Harrisburg, Pa.

For the decoration of the den, the library, the dining room, the hall or parlor, the nursery or the sleeping room, no more satisfactory wall paper than the new line we are showing can be found. Our aim has been to give you papers that will be inclusive in range of styles, full of novel effects and yet free from any taint of eccentricity. They have been secured with unusual care and many of the newest designs we have exclusive control.—C. H. Guinan Company, New Haven, Conn.

Wall paper news. The way you crowded us last week was astonishing—you evidently like the prices and assortment—underselling the town is working out its natural and legitimate results.—The Boston, Milwaukee, Wis.

It takes five years to learn the A B C of the wall paper. Ten years more the college end of it, and five years more for the practical end. By this time you begin to learn a few things about the wall paper business. We not only save the public money by buying their wall paper here, and give by far the largest assortment to be found in the Dominion, and one of the largest in America, but, by our 25 years' experience, we protect against the many imperfections which come out in wall papers by new and inexperienced manufacturés and dealers. In every way we aim to make it pay the public to buy here.—The G. A. Holland & Son Co., Montreal, Can.

Wall paper. You must live with your pictures, books, furniture and wall paper, therefore have them to please you, particularly the wall paper, for it occupies more space in your range of walls than anything else.—Scroggie, Montreal, Can.

Wall papers for the fall house cleaning, for any kind of room, office, or apartment in all grades and colors, and at any price desired.—E. M. & M. Walsh, New Haven, Conn.

Prosperity in the atmosphere. Montreal is feeling it; Canada is expanding with it; the banks are extending with it; the railways are burdened with it; the manufacturers are overtaxed, and our wall paper department strained under it as never before.—G. A. Holland & Sons Co., Montreal, Can.

Wall papers, window shades and linoleums. Do you need any? Watch the walls of your rooms and your windows. Don't let them get dirty and scratched up. If you think it over you'll realize that nothing makes your house look untidy quicker than dirty, scratched wall paper or torn window shades. There is a very simple and very inexpensive remedy for this untidiness, and that is to come into a special sale we are having in these articles to-morrow, and let us show you just what you want at just what you want to pay for it. You'll always find big bargains at Euwer's, and you'll always find exclusive things at popular prices not shown by any other store in this city. Here are some of the exclusive ideas and some special bargains.—The Euwer Store, Youngstown, Ohio.

Wall paper takes a drop in prices. We're having a genuine reduction sale here—and every pattern offered is out of the new fall stock—no remnants.—The Bonner-Preston Co., Hartford.

We want to cover your walls with the finest wall paper you ever saw. Good deal to say, but we can do it. Prove it by you if you look through our stock. And then think of our prices for wall dressings! A look through our stock would be a pleasant surprise.—The Como Co., Great Falls, Mont.

Wall paper and carpets. To the finest line of wall papers and fabrics ever shown in this city we have added an equally select line of carpets in all grades. Our object is to enable our patrons to secure floor coverings that will be in harmony with the wall decorations. We invite your inspection.—A. D. Van Sciver, Binghamton, N. Y.

Margerum quality does not mean high-priced work. It's not so much in the paper used in wall papering of a room that makes a job a fine one. A great deal depends upon the "How." Margerum's "How" has made itself the standard in Trenton, and it shows up beautifully in low-priced contracts. See our cheapest papers.—Margerum, Trenton, N. J.

The butterfly of fashion is not more up-to-date in dress than the walls of your rooms will be if you make your selection from our new and beautiful offerings in paper hangings. Latest designs. Daintiest tints. Elegant variety of wall papers and borders. They're durable as well as handsome. Nothing cheap but the price. Rare bargains.—The Como Co., Great Falls, Mont.

These are busy days for the wall paper man and they will continue to get busier; we would therefore urge you to visit this department as soon as possible. All new patterns in good quality papers.—Williams & McAnulty, Scranton, Pa.

A quotation from Emerson: "If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mousetrap than his neighbor, tho' he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door." If Emerson had only taken a walk through our wall paper department we would be inclined to think he would have added the words, "If anybody could give such an exhibition of the world's art in wall papers, though we had our display on the mountain top, the Dominion would find us out." And you would think so, too, if you could compare our collection and prices to anything that might be seen in Canada, or, we might say, even the United States.—The G. A. Holland & Son Co., Montreal, Can.

Decorations for the parlor bed room, library, hall, dining room, or any part of the house can be chosen from our two toned effects in olive greens, old rose, rich beds, etc. Our pretty floral patterns will make your rooms bowers of beauty during the entertaining season. Our superb wall papers are so low priced and our prices for expert workmanship so reasonable that you can afford to beautify your rooms.—The Phillips Decorating Co., Columbus, O.

A woman of fine taste came to the new Wall Paper Store Monday—wanted a child's room "done up" prettily, but inexpensively. She began by asking the price of rolls of paper—wrong end foremost. We tried to learn her ideas and asked her bluntly how much we could spend on the job. Then we worked out a scheme that was a revelation to her. We are raising paper hanging to the level of an art. Not more costly than it should be; not more costly than it has been—but so different. The best wall paper makers are looking on and backing our business with many controlled novelties. We've plenty of paper that costs more per yard than silk.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

If you want prompt attention given to papering your house, store or room, we have the handsomest and most up-to-date line of wall paper ever shown in Memphis, and our prices will save you money. Our business has been phenomenal, and those who wish prompt attention to their immediate needs should get in their orders at once.—Williams & Canfield, Memphis, Tenn.

Develop your already excellent taste by papering a room from our stock.—Herman H. Hathaway, New Bedford.

Wall papers. If ever there was a time when wall papers were sold cheap it is now. It is our time to lose.—C. H. Guinan Co., Port Huron, Mich.

It's not too early for you to figure on your spring wall paper. Get in on the ground floor and see what we have to offer you. We have the swellest creations in wall paperdom.—W. E. See & Co., Bay City, Mich.

Do you think your own folks are nicest? Doubtless they are. Are you anxious to have them think your own home is the nicest? Wall paper's what you want, and no place is quite so good to get it as here.—J. D. Margerum, Trenton, N. J.

Beautiful designs in wall paper are sometimes hard to get, but there are such things, nevertheless. We don't want to seem boastful, but we are proud of our stock. We have the trade and we worked hard to get it. We didn't take what was thrown to us. That is one reason why we thrive.—E. E. Gorham, South Norwalk, Conn.

Do you want wall paper? * * * Our immense stock of wall paper is at your disposal.—H. P. Moss, Parkersburg, W. Va.

20,000 rooms could be decorated with the wall papers which have been arriving the last few days.—G. A. Holland & Son Co., Montreal, Can.

Beauty on a wall. There's nothing that enters your rooms that does so much to make or mar the beauty of their general effect as wall paper.—Moore & McLeod, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Every man in our force of wall paperers, decorators and painters is not only experienced and reliable, but is capable of doing a better class of work than the average man of his trade. This is so because our patrons demand the highest order of interior decoration. All the work we engage to do is done under our personal supervision. We lose sight of none of the details—and the results are invariably satisfactory. Start your "doing over" work early this year.—Neal, Goff & Inglis Co., Hartford, Conn.

Select your wall papers now. Choosing is at its very best just now. Stocks are complete and assortments unbroken. Business has opened up so briskly in the wall paper store that any long delays in making selections renders choice less extended even with such immense quantities as we carry. For this reason we urge you to get in as soon as you can and give us a look before deciding on the wall paper you will need this spring.—Stone & Thomas, Wheeling, W. Va.

A wider variety of exclusive designs cannot be found, rich in novelties and unusual coverings, both practical and decorative. Every period of art is represented and every quality from the white blank to the most luxurious wall hangings. If you are one of the few who have tried us do so now and you will find everything to your liking, qualities, styles and prices.—Chas. R. Hart & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Lost in admiration of the beauty of modern wall papers that are produced at so little cost you will be when you see the array of rich and artistic effects that are combined in the new patterns and colors of our wall papers. Those who would have their homes beautified should cover their walls with our handsome wall paper.—Phillips Decorating Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Fin-de-Siecle Wall Paper.—The new notions in wall paper that have never before been shown in Memphis are now awaiting your inspection. We will give you prompt attention and best of service in papering your house.—Williams & Canfield, Memphis, Tenn.

The harmony of many a room is broken by unfit wall paper. You've only to say so and we'll send competent artists to make suggestions. Our stock comprises as rich papers as you'll care to buy; as little priced as you can afford to buy. Samples sent to any address. In asking, say what room or rooms you wish to treat and about what cost paper you have in mind.—Wm. H. Post, Hartford, Conn.

Several leading manufacturers have recently said that no house in New England carries a larger or more choice stock of the world's output of wall papers than we do. We are prepared to meet all demands no matter how small or how large. You are sure to be pleased here. You are sure to find what you want at the lowest prices.—The Chas. R. Hart Co., Hartford, Conn.

Our books of spring wall papers are now made up and the styles, shades and colorings were never better, and the colorings never blended in more perfect harmony. You are cordially invited to call and look at them, whether you intend papering or not. Remember that you avoid all the trouble of securing paper hangers, and thereby avoiding annoying delays by doing it early. Come in and select the paper and we will do the rest—furnish the paper hangers and the paper. We want your patronage this spring, and you're absolutely guaranteed first class work and material.—Koch & Fisher, Mansfield, O.

Among the special features we present this season are fine two-tone duplex papers in greens, reds, yellows and blue, to be used for living rooms, libraries and parlors; an artistic line of dainty French chambries for the boudoir; the handsomest creations for drawing room and parlor are the pressed relief papers in light shades and Louis XIV design. For the dining room we recommend a rich forestry tapestried paper for the upper third, with a plain or striped lower in close harmony. For hall and dining room, dados, rich leathers and linowall, the new relief decoration, are much in vogue. To those interested we extend a cordial invitation to call and inspect our special and exclusive papers, and we will be pleased to advance ideas concerning modern decoration and the newest treatment of the house beautiful.—F. B. Wright & Co., Spokane, Wash.

Wall paper choice has proved disappointing because made under unfavorable conditions. We offer you the advantage of the improved arrangements introduced in our new store. One of our popular innovations is a separate room for showing papers under artificial light, obviating the danger of a daylight selection proving unsatisfactory under night light. Our salesmen will study your wall paper problem with a thoroughness and intelligence only to be found in expert specialists. We invite particular attention to our stock of novelties, especially designed for country houses. They are as exclusive as they are appropriate. Just as we have a style to suit every taste, we have a price to suit every pocketbook.—Henry Bosch Co., New York, N. Y.

How can the Consumers sell such splendid wall paper, all the latest styles, for so little? This is the query of many a woman who has seen the beautiful designs and colorings we have been selling for the past few days. The answer is simple; our buyer remained later than usual in the New York market and was unusually successful.—Consumers Wall Paper Co., Windsor, Ont.

Simplicity is the keynote of modern decoration. Where design is used it is kept in restraint and always subordinated to the color scheme. Many of the new season's wall papers bear out this fact. When in doubt as to what you want, or how to plan your interiors consult—Merrells, Cross & Beardsley, New Haven, Conn.

We are after all the business we can get. We're wise enough to know that nothing short of the best wall papers and fair prices will bring it. We don't have any but absolutely correct styles. Let our salesmen have a quiet talk with you and suggest the wall paper treatment best adapted to the room you wish to paper.—C. H. Guinan Co., New Haven, Conn.

English wall papers. "The most beautiful paper I have ever seen" is the verdict rendered by everyone who has seen our line this spring. It is new and novel in every sense. Mail orders solicited.—The White Wall Paper Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Just remember this: It isn't how much materials cost, but how they are combined, that "makes or mars" the decorative effect in a house. Let me talk over with you the decorating of your home. Let me think it over a few days, and then let me show you a definite plan. You'll find it worth your while.—Charles P. Thompson, New Haven.

A house full of summer flowers is beautiful, but there are rooms so tastefully furnished, with walls so well papered that flowers are at their very best, and summer guests receive an impression of beauty that remains with them longer than any other. We have made many such rooms this season, and it is not too late to make more.—B. Cowell, Peoria, Ill.

The bed chamber with a stripe mitred top and bottom with card rail or picture moulding make an appropriate treatment, or a crown hanging while a little more expensive is more up-to-date idea.—Clifford Greenman, Wilmington.

Our new selection of wall paper for this season has been an exceptionally fine one, especially so in the line of florals and satin stripes; prices range from 12 1-2 to 40 cents per piece with many in between prices. Den, parlor, hall and dining rooms can be tastefully treated in an inexpensive manner.—S. Smith, Troy.

We are just in receipt of another large invoice of new wall papers which completes our stock so that it is second to none. We carry not only the attractive yet inexpensive qualities, but have one of the most extensive lines in medium priced and high-grade wall papers on the Coast, in fact, our line comprises a great many patterns which are handled by no other firms outside the exclusive wall paper dealers in the East. In order to fully appreciate the excellent offerings we have in this line, it is necessary to see the paper yourself, and as the house-cleaning season is now at its height, we simply ask that you come in and allow us to show you the new designs—they speak for themselves.—John Breuner Co., Sacramento, Cal.

A newly papered room is a cheerful sight to the eye. We have fine paper that you don't tire of and the colors are rich.—Star Wall Paper Co., Ottumwa, Ia.

There is no better or more economical time for the purchasing of wall paper than now! We never permit the stock in this department to run down. No matter how busy the season (and this season has been the busiest in our business history) we see to it that the stock is full and complete at all times. This department knows no dull season, for during the so-called dull season we are continually offering irresistible price inducements.—The Fair Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

These are show days for the new styles in Wall Papers, and if you would be authority in house decorating, drop in and see us. A visit does not necessarily mean a purchase. There are several distinct novelties in our autumn stock—both in design and treatment—that will call forth enthusiasm from even our most exacting customers.—C. H. Guinan Co., New Haven, Conn.

There is a distinctive difference in the final cost of wall-papering or painting when properly carried out. The main point in painting is good paint; in wall paper, workmanship and also quality—Harrison Town & Country Paint is good paint; we know it. It has stood the test of time. We are sole agents and urge you to use it. Thousands have and are pleased, why not you? If it's wall paper we ask only a trial. We know the value of a friend in business and how to get them.—Baillie's, San Bernardino.

No antiquated wall papers in our line; we "keep the stock rolling;" are careful not to load up on any one pattern, so always have a fresh and up-to-date desirable line to show. Let us supply you—and save you good money.—John Breuner Co., Sacramento, Cal.

Perhaps it's a bedroom you're going to have papered—the hall or parlor. It will make no difference which it is, we have paper to suit all rooms at prices that will suit all purses. Wall papers were never so handsome as they are this season. Will you come in and let us show you the new notions?—Williams & Canfield, Memphis, Tenn.

To the finest line of wall papers and fabrics ever shown in this city we have added an equally select line of carpets in all grades. Our object is to enable our patrons to secure floor coverings that will be in harmony with the wall decorations. We invite your inspection.—A. D. Van Sciver, Binghamton, N. Y.

The chief thing to remember about this store is, that artistic, absolutely correct wall papers can be had for as much or as little as one pleases. Depend on our salesmen's help—state your preferences and price limitation. That's all. These are opening days—all welcome.—C. H. Guinan Co., New Haven.

Wall Papers.—A great stock. It is all new. Every roll is of this season's manufacture, the very latest in pattern and quality, and this store remodelling compels a quick movement of stock. We make prices to suit the occasion.—Globe Department Store, Youngstown, Ohio.

Up-to-date people want up-to-date designs in wall paper, as in everything else fashioned to please the eye. Manufacturers recognize this, we recognize it, and, as a consequence, have to show the latest productions of wide awake and imaginative artists whose minds are on decorative effects for your walls and ceilings.—The Como Co., Great Falls.

A word or two 'twixt me and you may determine your purchase of decorative effects in lately designed wall papers. First of all, novelty is our aim; but art and pleasing effects are not sacrificed to newness—we endeavor to combine all that should enter into the effort to beautify the home interiorly. Come in and see us before you decorate your home.—Hjerpe & Munson Co., Galesburg, Ill.

Our Wall Paper Store is splendidly stocked with the choicest new wall-coverings from the best foreign and domestic manufacturers. We can either sell you wall paper by the roll or take up the matter of the entire decorating of your home, doing the paper-hanging, painting and fresco work for you.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Big Reductions on Wall Paper.—Where such a great volume of business is transacted periodical stock adjustments are necessary to keep the stocks shipshape. That's how it comes that we're reducing prices on many wall papers right in the busiest part of the season.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

'Midst pleasures and palaces,
Though we may roam;
Be it ever so humble,
There's no place like home.

At least so the song says, and true enough it is if happiness and contentment reign supreme, with the addition of cleanliness to make it sweet. Williamson's can help you to make your homes sweet and tidy. Which, then, is it to be? Cleanliness or dirt? Beauty or ugliness? You can make your homes sweet with our new papers, both for ceilings and walls.—Cheapside, Peterhead, Scotland.

Second to none. This is pre-eminently and emphatically the best place to get wall papers, if you're at all particular what you get. Such enthusiasm as surrounds this business is not found anywhere else in Hartford. Beyond the fact of new styles and attractive patterns there's no occasion to say much. The stock speaks for itself. More to see and more worth seeing than anywhere else within your reach.—The Wm. H. Post Carpet Co., Hartford, Conn.

Our eye is well trained in the study of wall papers. As far as assortment is concerned we buy on an unlimited scale from the foremost wall paper manufacturers in the world. Buying in such large quantities (carload lots) is favorable to us and to you, in the matter of price. Foreign and domestic makes.—The Chas. R. Hart Co., Hartford, Conn.

We want to impress upon the people of New Haven that we aim to serve all classes equally well, from the fastidious buyer who is willing to pay $5.00 or twice that for a roll of wall paper that just suits, to the equally tasteful and fastidious buyer who properly insists that his or her modest wall paper at 25 cents shall be just as correct and exclusive as any.—C. H. Guinan Co., New Haven, Conn.

You think a room complete until a careful survey shows something lacking. Pretty and artistic wall paper proves the missing link between incompleteness and completeness. See the new and beautiful patterns we are showing. Our prices are no higher than the ordinary kind, either.—The Wilson Co., Memphis.

No risk is taken in buying our wall paper. Every roll is guaranteed. An artistic wall paper adds cheer to any room. We have the newest shades, designs and colors, the prices will surprise you after seeing the quality.—J. D. Margerum, Trenton, N. J.

We are selling the latest creations in wall paper at from 2 cents a roll and upwards. There is no question but what you can find exactly what you want in our assortment.—W. E. Lee & Co., Bay City, Mich.

Wall Papers.—Have you thought of papering your town or country residence? If so, now is a good time to have it done, and this is the store that can serve you best with plentiful assortments—attractive patterns—economical prices. If you will call with the measurements, etc., and select the paper that pleases you, we will submit an estimate for the cost of the job, and will guarantee to have the same done promptly and to your entire satisfaction, or, if you wish to employ the workman yourself, we will give you the low estimate on the cost of the necessary amount of paper.—Fowler, Dick & Walker, Birmingham, N. Y.

This Wall Paper Department Driven at Top Speed.—Such selling of wall paper we never saw, and such reasons for buying you never saw. Our wall paper sale seems to have set the whole city to papering. We are abundantly able to cope with this paperhanging epidemic. An active sales force and a stock to meet any emergency—variety and the right price to satisfy everybody.—The Globe Store, Youngstown, Ohio.

While the folks are away this summer is such a splendid time to fix up. We have the handsomest line of wall paper ever brought to this city and will be glad to have you call and look it over.—V. L. Baulard & Co., Galveston, Tex.

Easy to pick the proper wall paper designs from our splendid stock. There isn't a more attractive stock of new and artistic wall papers in these parts.—L. H. Decker, S. Norwalk, Conn.

At a glance you can see the difference. Our designs are more unique—show a true artistic sense. Your taste in wall paper can be satisfied here when it cannot elsewhere.

We are now displaying a line of new goods, not excelled anywhere for new designs, new patterns, new color effects. Come and look them over and let us give you an estimate.—C. F. Brower & Co., Lexington, Ky.

Choice Wall Papers.—Small lots will accumulate in a busy store like this, and from time to time it's splendid policy to clear them out. Keep the stock perfect and advertise it as well. We "cleared house"—picked here and there such specials as we thought would prove big leaders, and this week you may buy wall papers that are really choice, at prices that you usually give for the ordinary sorts.—C. H. Guinan Company, New Haven, Conn.

We dare not let our stocks accumulate, so each July we relentlessly clear out our wall paper of all odd rolls, part rolls and slow lots. We cut prices so low that the clearance is quickly over; and we make friends by the bargains we give.—C. H. Guinan Co., New Haven.

Wall papers. Exclusive, artistic goods. That's the whole story in a few words—wall papers that are different to what you buy anywhere else.—John Kay, Son & Co., Limited, Toronto, Can.

Simplicity is the keynote of this year's decoration schemes. All designs are kept strictly subordinate to the color scheme. We have just the proper paper to carry out such ideas and as usual our prices are light.—T. B. Waldron, Denison, Texas.

It will pay you to call and look this wall paper over. A dollar saved is a dollar earned. Two weeks remain before the wall paper rush is on in earnest. Why not do comfortable shopping now?—Crews-Beggs, Pueblo, Colo.

Come in and look over our beautiful stock of the season's offerings. Pretty patterns, exquisite designs.—Webb's Art Emporium, Columbia, S. C.

If it's wall paper in all the very latest and most attractive designs that you desire, come here. Our very large and complete assortment and moderate pricing will surely interest you. Our stocks of ready mixed paints and artist materials are complete.—Jones & Gurley, Utica, N. Y.

We want to make this Wall Paper Department bigger and better than ever, but it must do a business that will warrant giving it more space. Already it is the largest wall paper store in Kansas City—the largest because the prices we make bring more people here than to any other store.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

In strength of beauty, style, variety and lowness of prices this season's showing of wall papers surpasses the finest at any previous exhibit.—The Boston Store, Binghamton, N. Y.

Nothing adds so much to the furnishing of a house as the wall decorations. They give a finish to the house. Give it a homelike look that can be obtained in no other way. We make a specialty of this work.—Lewis W. Lee, Peoria, Ill.

Notice our window this week for the new styles in bedroom papers with cretonne draperies to match. John M. Kimble. The place to get the prettiest wall papers. We sell Jap-a-lac, Liquid Veneer and Alabastine.—Springfield, Ill.

In this case it means design and colors artistic to the highest degree—yet well within the bounds of reason as to price. There's one house noted for artistic paper at popular prices. That's Ritter's.—The Charles Ritter Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

We have bought double the amount of wall paper for the season's business in order to get a right price. We are going to sell it to you at a lower figure than ever before offered. We expect another car load in a very few days. You will not have to send East for good paper cheap. A surprise will meet you in prices. Look before you leap.—The Success, San Bernardino, Cal.

Our wall paper department for this season comprises a world of new ideas in paper hangings. All the latest effects in combination decorations, cut out borders and panels, artistic designs and striking beauty of colorings—things you cannot find at any other store, as they are all novelties that are exclusive to us. You will find here a showing of beautiful wall decorations, that will make choosing easy. Let us submit samples and estimates for your wall decorations, and you will get up-to-the-minute styles at the price of old fashioned stock and ideas.—The Nova Scotia Furnishing Co., Ltd., Halifax, N. S.

Our paper hangers and wall decorators are specialists. Like the times of the ancient Pharaohs, the present age loves and admires beauty and elegance. It is a test of our civilization. The art of wall decoration has been made a careful study at the art wall paper department in the Quality store. We have an aggregation of the most celebrated and famous new patterns and styles in papers of modern usage in the best homes on the Continent. Ask our wall paper manager to estimate on your work. We supply the best new styles in paper, and guarantee absolute satisfaction in the work. Try us to-day. It is time to commence.—Hudson Bay Co., Winnipeg, Can.

We have decorators and finishers who have been tested. Owing to the volume of our business, we are enabled to keep our workmen year in and year out, securing for us all competent men. All men of merit; try them in your home. You will appreciate the difference.—E. C. Babcock, Bay City, Mich.

Properly selected wall papers will add more than all else to the harmonious furnishing of a home—be it a mansion or cottage ever so humble. Make your selections from Alfred Peat's "Prize" wall papers for 1907. Everything in wall paper from the cheapest that's good to the best that's made. Any style, any quality, at any price to suit any pocket-book. Samples shown and estimates cheerfully furnished without obligation to pay.—Marchant Bros., Quebec, Can.

The best is none too good for our patrons, and to this end we exercised the greatest care in the selection of a class of papers that will stand the test of expert examination and continued use by our most fastidious customers. The sale of our fine art wall papers is increasing with remarkable rapidity. These latest specimens of the new spring shades in wall decorations are second to none in artistic designs and coloring, and come from one of the largest wall paper manufacturers in the world. You will find here a line of decorations to suit the most fastidious taste in wall papers, and a host of other things. Just try them.—C. H. Guinan Co., New Haven, Conn.

Handsome wall papers for the homes of tasteful people. New and of high quality. The sort of paper that the eye does not weary of—that sets off pictures and hangings. Damasks, silks, stripes, tapestries, denims, floral designs and gilt patterns, suitable for parlors, halls, dining-rooms, reception-rooms, libraries, dens, billiard rooms and bedrooms.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

Alfred Peats' wall paper. Few people realize that wall paper will change the whole aspect of a room. Soft tone—airy—effects will make a small room seem larger, and the big, bare looking apartment may be reduced to cozy dimensions by the use of wall paper of confining prospective. You can give your home a cheerful tone—you can lend it warmth and grace—by the color on your walls. You can introduce a refined atmosphere into it by an exquisite shade or blending of shades. The paper on your wall is the most important influence in the house. It is a mistake to neglect it, to allow it to look dingy. Why should it be commonplace when exquisite designs and colorings may be had just as cheaply—with careful selection? Our spring assortments will be a revelation to you of what beautiful effects may be had in wall paper—for very little expense. Let our salesmen work out your color problems. They are well equipped for doing so, and the service costs you nothing.—Chicago's Exclusive Wall Paper Shop, Chicago.

Call and see our unequaled display of wall paper. The new wall papers are here in a greater variety of designs and color effects than ever before. Let a room be hanged with wall paper of right tints and colors and rightly harmonized with whatever the room contains, and the effect will be artistic—no matter how little the paper costs. We've studied to have our papers right, and our judgment has been so often commended by satisfied patrons that we believe they are right.—Austin & Woodruff, Inc., Waterbury, Conn.

I save you money on wall paper. Even if you have already made up your mind to send away for wall papers, before sending the order see what I can do for you. Certainly no finer stock than mine can be found to select from. It represents the pick of the handsomest designs out this year. Heavy buying and resultant discounts enable me to name prices as low or lower than any mail-order house on papers of equal quality. I trim the papers free and allow full prices for excess rolls. Then express is quite an item—I save you that. I have papers at 3c, 5c, 7c and 8c per double roll. Come in and see them, compare them with what the other dealers and mail-order houses charge you 7c, 8c, 10c and 12 1-2c for, you will see that they are equally as good and the finish and design more pleasing. The reason I can sell cheaper than the mail-order houses is because I haven't the enormous rent, office help and advertising expense, and I can sell cheaper than the ordinary retailer and paperhanger, who either sells from samples or a small stock, because I buy in jobbing quantities and save from 20 to 30 per cent., enabling me to sell for about what they have to pay for it. I am to-day selling papers of better quality, coloring and design for 8c and 10c per roll than I could sell a few years ago at 12 1-2c and 15c. We all know that no goods are cheaper than they were; in fact, everything is higher priced. It simply illustrates what it means to be on the wall-paper jobbing list.—P. Corey Taylor, Mt. Pleasant, Chicago or Mt. Pleasant. Why buy your wall paper in Chicago when you can get it cheaper in Mt. Pleasant? We carry a large and well assorted stock of wall paper which you can see with your own eyes and select from in person. Bring in your samples from Sears, Roebuck & Co., or Montgomery, Ward & Co., and compare them with our prices and samples. We want to show you that you can save money, time and worry about your wall paper. If you buy your paper in Chicago you must pay the freight. You must trim the paper yourself. You must choose from a few samples. You cannot return unused paper and receive credit for it.—The Normal Drug and Book Store, Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

New papers and expert decorating. The Quality Store's exclusive wall papers go hand in hand with the most artistic decoration. You can see at a glance the superior tone of our new novelties. They will strike you as being the richest and the most luxurious colorings ever prepared for decoration. Just now we have many leaders that we would like to show you in the prettiest shades imaginable, and our decorators are noted for the touch and finish they impart in applying these most beautiful papers to any style of wall. Every part of your room is considered—size, color scheme—the prominent features, the furniture, carpets, the harmony as a whole, all have the place in our designer's selection of papers, and these are subject to your approval in every case. The papers selected—our workmen attend to every part of the work of hanging, in fact we guarantee the most satisfactory decoration in every respect. Samples and estimates supplied for any room you may have. Phone us or call, and our estimator will give you a figure at once, and show you the new styles and designs in decoration.—Hudson's Bay Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Our stock of wall decorations is now complete with the newest designs in every conceivable color to match the woodwork and draperies of every room. Our aim is to give you the best quality for the price, and before you decide on your spring decorations it will pay you to see our large and varied selection.—Hoffman Wall Paper Store, Wooster.

Artistic wall papers.—Now don't be frightened by the word artistic—it doesn't necessarily mean expensiveness. In this case it means designs and colors artistic to the highest degree—yet well within the bounds of reason as to price.

There's one house noted for artistic paper at popular prices—that's Ritter's.—The Charles Ritter Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

See our new line of wall paper. It is right up to the times in every respect—artistic, novel in design and color, and worthy of consideration. We have got everything you can think of, from inexpensive blanks up to the highest class of decorative novelties—and they are remarkable throughout for design and coloring. Mansfield's only concern giving almost factory prices.—The Charles Ritter Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

Is the aim of the decorator who understands his business. When we sell wall paper we put our knowledge of artistic harmony of color and of the effects of the side lights and reflections at your service, aiming to produce a result that shall permanently please.—Marchant Bros., Quebec, Can.

Before you decide upon the color or design of paper you will use on the walls, come and look at our new designs. We are always pleased to show them whether you intend to buy or not. Then the prices here are known to be the lowest for equal quality. We are showing several new lines in blue with gilt floral patterns at 12c. per single roll. Nine-inch borders to match at the same price as the paper.—Z. Paquet's, Quebec, Can.

It is now possible to get any effect you wish with wall paper. It has been but a few years since the price of fine wall paper was so much that only a few people cared to go to the expense necessary to get the selection desired. The reason why? Machinery had not been made to manufacture the finer grades, and those made by hand were necessarily more expensive. To-day it is entirely different. The finest designs are run off at a high rate of speed and the fine old pieces of hand work (which will live forever) are copied and made better than the originals themselves and at greatly reduced prices. It is wonderful what can be done to-day in wall paper at small cost. Before you refurnish your walls we will be glad to have the opportunity to go into the matter with you. Our experts are at your service.—Brazille & Partridge, St. Paul.

Remainder of the best selected stock in this city—made by the two largest wall paper mills in North America—the designs of these mills are always from six months to a year ahead of the crowd—every design at our price stands as a value without serious rivalry.—Moore & McLeod, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

You can probably have that papering and interior painting done just as well now as later, can't you? You can, at least so far as we are concerned; in fact we would prefer doing the job now than later, when the rush season begins. Spring stock of wall paper is in and shows a great variety of stylish patterns, reasonably priced.—H. W. McCartney, Altoona, Pa.

Buy wall papers for spring now at stock-taking prices. Buy wall paper while we are in the humor to give big values—and that's now. Next spring, when wall papers will be needed, it's likely we'll not be so generous. Won't have stocktaking ahead then prodding us to get stocks down.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

In plain black and white we are stating just what this sale can be made to save you if you buy your spring wall paper now. The selection of color and patterns is comprehensive enough to meet every requirement—including gilt, tapestry and embossed papers.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Wall papers priced to clear, 8 cents a roll. Discriminating selection could not desire more artistic mural decorations than these handsome wall papers. In between-seasons finds us with these 2,000 rolls for quick clearance. This very special price should do it.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Wall papers. It makes all the difference in the world to a room if you have selected the right kind of wall paper—and it makes all the difference in the world to people who have to live in it. Bright, cheery, graceful designs add much to a bright and cheerful life. Select wall paper from our immense stock. We have a great variety.—E. C. Peck, San Bernardino, Cal.

What is home without pretty wall paper, clean and washable painted or oil-finished wood work? Why have such grimy looking floors and wood work, when just a few dollars will put them in proper condition? How? Employ some one who makes a specialty of such work. Do not let any one experiment on your floors at your expense. It's just the same with paper hanging, fine wood staining and kalsomining. Our long experience in these lines enables us to guarantee our work. Be sure and stop in at No. 3 Eighth street, south. Phone 388-L. Keep your eye on us.—J. C. Durkee & Co., Fargo, N. D.

Biggest bargains in high-grade wall paper ever offered the careful buyers of the city and vicinity. We want to avoid "moving day," which will soon be on us, and have inaugurated our Cash Removal Sale. Come and see how far a little money will go in buying from this swell selection of new spring wall papers in which quality and style reign supreme, but prices are reduced to cost and less than cost. Come to-morrow. Come early.—Hughes Bros., Terre Haute, Ind.

Almost anything you want in the wall paper line you will find in stock in our store, and at prices a half cheaper than if you send away for it. Buying in wholesale quantities from the best houses in the country enables us to supply your wants at lowest prices. You do not have to pay express charges on a room or two of paper, and you have a selection from a dozen of the best manufacturers in the country.—Hoffman's Wall Paper Store, Wooster, O.

For the latest and best in wall papers for parlor, dining room, den or kitchen, and the latest in picture frames made to order and a full line of paints and oils, all at moderate prices, go to—G. Fred Lochner, Utica, N. Y.

Matchless fall wall papers! We are showing a stock that for excellence, beauty and variety can not be excelled. Every choice in wall and ceiling decorations at very reasonable prices. We meet the requirements of all. Call and look them over.—Jones & Gurley, Utica.

We sell more wall paper than any other store in Kansas City; that's why we can "marry" a mill, and get wall paper that no other store can get. Jones Dry Goods Company Special is our new wall paper—so new that as yet only two color combinations have come in—made to our special order in immense quantities. That is how it comes to have Jones Dry Goods Company stamped on the margin. We are hurrying to put it into this fall opening for you to buy, for we know you will like it. A customer who had been shopping for wall paper said to us yesterday: "Why, that paper looks just like the imported ones I've seen at several places marked 25c. a roll." She was almost shocked when we told her we were selling it at 5c a roll. Come and see it.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Hundreds come here for ideas and are welcome. You see we are always on the lookout for new things and new ideas in the treatment of wall papers. Just now the store is brimful of new ideas in the treatment of wall papers; be well repaid for the time spent here.—C. H. Guinan Co., New Haven, Conn.

WASH FABRICS

Popular wash fabrics.—Exquisitely summery and dainty.—Newman & Levinson, San Francisco, Cal.

Carloads on carloads of snowy white cambric and muslin, beautifully or sturdily made, according to the use it is intended for.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

Canadian homespuns are ideal summer fabrics, light and airy, yet dressy, because so distinctive and nobby looking.—Jeckell Bros., Youngstown, Ohio.

Cotton fabrics.—“Your washable fabrics are so different from those generally shown,” is what we’ve been told often during the past few weeks. We pride ourselves on this. The kinds we have are different from the commoner kinds; ours are the “hard-to-get” kinds; it took time and patient searching to bring them here. The way they are selling shows that our public appreciates our efforts.—Lewis Dry Goods Co., Butte, Mont.

Wash goods. A few vagrant cold days may slip in now and then—but summer’s warmth will get well settled before the month’s end. That’s why the crowd are thickening around counters heaped with sheaves of cool, dainty cottons.—R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

Seasonable Wash Fabrics. Because these prices are in every instance under what the same goods sell for regularly, there is no better time than now to prepare for your summer dress needs. You’ll be surprised, too, at the charming variety in readiness for you Monday morning.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn.

A tempting array of fabrics that will appeal to all buyers.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

A cotton clean-up. We grow rather inhospitable toward summer goods if they show a tendency to outstay their welcome. So these various cotton dress goods shall not “make us twice glad,” if low—in many cases absurdly low—prices have aught to do with it.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Little prices on wash goods. Cotton fabrics have mastered seasons, can no longer be said to belong merely to summer. Pretty wash dresses are worn in winter as well as summer on many occasions. This is true from the standpoint of the wearer, but not from the view point of the wide awake tradesman. With August he is anxious to clean up all the fabrics which spring welcomed.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Actually worn to shreds is the woeful story this month. Particularly if the fair owner has been away for a month or six weeks. These airy, dainty, cool cotton goods remnants do make such delightfully comfortable frocks that everybody needs one, two or three to finish the season with.—Meldrum, Scott & Co., Scranton, Pa.

Dainty dress goods.—Bright and fresh as a summer morn are the new wash dress fabrics which are coming in daily to replenish the stock. Dainty and crisp are the weaves to be seen, the colorings being the most charming of the season’s newest tints.—Geo. K. Kline, Johnstown, Pa.

Summery white fabrics at below freezing prices. These every day useful kinds of white cotton fabrics are aristocrats in looks, quality, touch—for that reason they recommend themselves to everybody—the prices put them within the reach of every pocketbook.—Loeser's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We can’t think of a year when the new inexpensive cottons made such an impression on us. They are always pretty and fresh when they first come, and always seem full of promise, and hint at flowers and sunshine; but this year there is a gentle beauty and sort of new dignity in the designs.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Tempting wash stuffs.—With a wonderfully good assortment of the loom wizards’ cleverest conceptions on hand, wash goods counters invite you to come and choose at about half of the first of the season’s cost. Surely the proposition will inspire the desire for at least one more perfectly lovely summer gown.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Humbling the cotton aristocrats.—They’re proud and haughty when they first come to us from abroad—these charming cotton fabrics. And well they may be—there’s only a dress pattern or two of a given color, and designs are distinctive.—Saks, New York.

In this generous offering of printed cottons at an almost unbelievably little price, we have set a new high-water mark to our this-season's merchandising achievements.—Wanamaker's, New York.

But those that are left must come down in the world. Behold them to-day in reduced circumstances—or rather at reduced prices.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Autumn draws near and already there is a brisk demand in some departments for medium weight goods—just a little heavier than the flimsy summer things that have been in vogue for the past few months. Of course we'll have warm weather yet and lots of it—but we'll have cool days and chilly nights quite frequently from now right on till fall, and that's why people who live carefully are anxious to protect themselves against these sudden changes that come as a thief in the night and often work havoc with the strongest constitutions.—Globe Warehouse, Scranton, Pa.

Don't fail to inspect this exposition of the new 1905 wash fabrics. You can almost see the stunning costumes for which they're designed, and they appear as exclusive creations not to be found elsewhere. Dame Fashion says it will be a season of cottons.

All the desirable summer cottons at little prices—a charming display. There is a host of the best materials here—brought together from the world's marts—and all bow homage to the Brooklyn woman. The prices are unprecedented; and for new materials that's a good deal to say—come and see for yourself.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

New spring cottons. Wonder of wonders—it is going to be a cotton summer, they tell us in Paris, for every French woman. For years France has been the garden spot of lovely cottons—but she has sent them all off to other people. Go to England in summer, to the Henley races and you might see all the well-dressed English women, even members of the royal family, in pretty cotton gowns. Go to Newport, where cottons ruled triumphant—back in France, where most of these lovely stuffs were made, the fewest were being worn. But at last Paris has realized their beauty and is going to wear them herself, showing favor to the finest and most delicate, you may be sure, and trimming them with all sorts of lovely laces. So the rest of the world, or all that copies Paris, will likely wear cottons harder than ever. Not everything is here yet —but where else in the city can you see as many different new kinds together as these in two departments.—Connolly & Wallace, Scranton, Pa.

Do you know that this store has not a little to say in choosing the patterns which the Englishmen weave? We do. The American patterns are often very attractive, but they cannot make such fine mercerized cottons as the English. In fact, the mercerizing process is an English process, invented and controlled in England. Well, often an American pattern strikes us as fresh and bright, and we send it to our English manufacturer. He puts it on a loom and sends us the first thousand yards or so—thus we get it at the English price (minus duty and royalty as on American goods), and the fabric is practically exclusive to this store.—Simpson, Toronto.

New prints, new chambrays, new gingham. The best assortment we have ever shown now ready for you. You will find them on the front counter just inside the door.—Shanley Bros., Charlotteville, Pr. Ed. Is.

Spring has come to stay at the store. The better grades of wash goods are all in and ready for your looking. From day to day the display increases as fast as we can unpack and check the goods off. Come in and look around—you're always welcome.—McConnell & Co., Scranton, Pa.

Newcomers in wash stuffs. Like the flowers in a garden, these wash stuffs don't all blossom out in unison. Freshness and newness is added almost daily.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

It would be hard indeed to mention a popular washable fabric that is not represented in this collection of remnants, or a color or a design. Lengths run from three to fifteen yards and all of them are this spring's output. The two hottest months of the year are before us and these three things will be mighty welcome. Upward of a thousand here to-morrow at just half price.—N. B. Blackstone & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Scattered over these counters in the rush of the day can be seen myriads of dainty designs such as pretty blossoms, polka dots, rings, stripes and figures strewn at intervals on white and light ground wash goods. They're printed in black and colors so fast as to defy the ordinary laundress. These cotton fabrics offer unlimited possibilities in the way of cool attire in exchange for very small cost.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Wash goods specials. The dawn of another season approaches, and with it the demands for lighter materials. "Take time by the forelock." Do some of the necessary purchasing now, to take advantage of the fascinating prices of this sale.—Boston Store, Milwaukee.

They're so full of loveliness that when we begin to talk about them it makes us feel a good deal like the school girl who in a burst of enthusiasm tries to tell of all the pretty things she has seen in one breath. The designs are so neat, the colorings so dainty and the fine, silken threads are interwoven in such a myriad of fanciful ways that one can hardly help believing that they are full of real life. To most of you it will seem as if someone must have said: "I'm going over the whole world in search of the prettiest textiles, and from these I will select the most beautiful and give them to the Goldthait store. This is what has virtually been done. From importers, foreign and American weavers, who vie with one another for supremacy our buying corps selected a little of this and a little of that, thereby procuring the best in each assortment. And, mark you, we had an eye on the cost side; this will be plainly apparent when the beauty and fineness of these fabrics are compared with the low prices. We feel quite sure that you will admire them as much as we do, and we want you to see them, whether you buy or not.—Goldthait & Sons Co., Marion, Ind.

Newness is everywhere in evidence throughout the "Ville," and particularly so in the wash goods department, where we are showing the very latest weaves and choicest patterns brought out this season. New arrivals daily. You will be well repaid for the time spent inspecting this display of new stuffs.—Ville de Paris, Los Angeles, Cal.

This is one of the before-unheard of things we're doing to-morrow—the most beautiful of the season's cotton is staple as staple can be—no one else would dream of selling this particular quality under 25c. Remember, it's the imported, that's so hard to tell from silk that you try to hear the "cry." Both sides alike, no up or down to it, and the colors are right, too: black-and-white, light blue-and-white, red-and-white, green-and-white, lavender-and-white, navy-and-white, tan-and-white, brown and-white.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia.

Beautiful wash materials in the height of this season's style, but the progressive policy of this store demands that the season's goods must be sold in season, hence these quick selling prices, the public the gainer—Lazarus Bros., Wilkes Barre, Pa.

Wash Fabrics of Every Kind.—Good values in wash fabrics. Our wash goods department is the busiest place in St. Louis. High qualities of goods and low prices have made it so. We offer special inducements to make this week the banner one of the season.—Barr's, St. Louis, Mo.

The most beautiful of the Swisses are those that have caught in their snowy surface the exquisite brocaded effect of silks—rich and lovely, yet in the sheer, crisp, white stuff it has a light, delicate effect as summery as June. Plenty of other patterns, embroidered flowers, tiny leaves, trailing vines, conventional designs and the ever-popular dot, ranging from tiny pin-dots to those of wafer size.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Did you ever see such a fascinating showing of French printed tulle? This window is simply a peep at the beauty of our assortment in the dress goods store. The charming antique Empire colorings cannot be had in any other store in America, unless purchased at retail from us. The quantity is so limited that they are bound to be one of the season's most exclusive fabrics.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

And such an array, why it's like a peep into a land of flowers. Everything is so bright and cheerful one almost imagines nature's flower beds were transplanted in the beautiful sheer fabrics, so realistic do they seem. Of course, you always expect the early things here first—it's so nice to select while the lines are full, and of all the attractive, dressy materials.—The Elder & Johnston Co., Dayton, Ohio.

We say the prettiest, for surely there never were any prettier wash fabrics than we are showing. French organdies, dimities, batistes, lawns and checked nainsooks crowd each other for room, and when you consider that the prices are so very little the goods become doubly tempting.—Louis Einstein & Co., Fresno, Cal.

Now we see the new early Autumn materials gradually taking the place of their predecessors (the Summer fabrics), and daily the show grows. Those which will find greatest favor in the new season are here in broad variety. Following the policy that has ever been extant in this store, we take the initiative.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Pretty spring styles in newest wash goods—dainty styles you'll thoroughly appreciate; many exclusive ideas in the fashionable effects for spring and summer of 1909. The best markets have contributed to this magnificent stock and we confidently assure you that never have assortments been so complete. It's our wish to please you that prompted this generous showing and to make this store more fully recognized as the safe and economical buying place prompts the reasonable prices which prevail here.—Mistrot's, Waco, Texas.

Each season shows a decided advance in the wash garments, an improvement in styles and quality. Now the coat suit has come to be full favorite—the Redingote, Eton, frock and frill, etc., as well as many other pretty forms are shown with smart style. The suits have not received all the attention here, for there are many charming dresses of summer stuffs.—The Bowland, Morehouse & Martens Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Imported wash goods galore. Right now is the time to buy the thin summer dresses. For we all know that summer comes with a jump—hot weather has no preliminaries. Many of the same women who vowed last year they wouldn't be caught again, are now unprepared. Let us suggest that you make your selections now—there are two very good reasons: First—assortments to-day are better than they possibly can be later and the prices are no higher. Second—here the gowns made up during this cool weather are all ready to slip on when the summer season breaks in. Here are hundreds of beautiful styles—whatever you can imagine you will easily find.—Field, Schlick & Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Loveliest Summer Wash Goods. As the proverbial stitch in time saves nine, so does first choice from the season's opening display of goods secure the best there is and avert disappointment. This first business day of February we make a surpassing display of Wash Goods for the waist and shirt waist suits of next June. There is no end to the variety of pretty things gathered here—and now shown for the first time. Some are from far away centers of industry in Europe—others are from leading designers and manufacturers on this side of the sea—all are delightful to behold. Here are a few of the many different lines—each in from six to twenty or more different colorings and patterns.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Several new cases of spring fabrics were unpacked yesterday and will be ready for your choosing to-day. Coming as it does right in the heart of the buying season, this sale is unusually interesting. Best of all, the goods are fresh and new and just such as you would pay full regular prices for were it not for this unparalleled opportunity.—Special features for to-day.—Sche-man & Evans, St. Paul, Minn.

Fabric beauty blooms in unrivaled splendor here. The foremost 1909 fancies receive their first showing to-day. The artists that created these designs have plucked nature in all of her inimitable beauty, faithfully reproduced each bud, flower and fern, so that in looking at the new wash goods, you'd be tempted to believe that you could help yourself from bountiful nature's fairest creations. No season that has gone before ever brought out such a large and handsome gathering of dainty wash goods—Scotland and France contributing so many new ideas that it fairly makes one wonder at the creative power of the loom workers of the Old World.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

The summer dress fabrics grow in beauty, yet diminish in price. Like some great garden the dress fabric store seems each day to blossom with new wear for the summer and the counters were never more attractive than they are just now with the great showing of dainty, delicate, flower besprinkled, prettily tinted effects in all the most desired fabrics—and every day some surprising price precipitation takes place.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

The surpassing beauty of these displays—and there is no doubt that they are the most interesting of all that we have ever offered at this season—is due to the effectiveness of the new designs and colors and to the great numbers that are being shown. Many of the handsomest patterns have been exclusively designed for this section—practically all of them are exclusive.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Swisses. A lot of stylish embroidered Swisses—scarce wanted shades with various colored dots, a quality that sells regular for 30 cents; you shall have it while this lot lasts for 18 cents a yard.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

One of this week's sensations will be fine Irish dimities at 12 1-2 cents. Same quality, made in same town, on same looms, by the same manufacturer, as are elsewhere called "22 cent grade."—Hearn, New York.

Irish dress linen, 12 1-2 cents. Natural color and pure linen—you can tell that the minute you feel it and smell it. You may hunt Philadelphia over, and you won't find anything stronger, cooler or better-looking for outing dresses at this price.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia.

Pleasure visits. Women who like to see what is newest and best are respectfully asked to let that be a sufficient reason for an early visit to the Grande Maison de Blanc, even though all thought of linen buying be deferred to another time.—Grande Maison de Blanc, New York.

White dress and wash fabrics. Good time now to put in some of these dainty white stuffs for early summer dresses. There's a surprising richness in the designs that women will take to immediately.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A drop in the price of three pretty tub fabrics. Another opportune chance to lay in an advance supply at a big saving. We purchased these at reduced price and have decided to sell them accordingly.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark.

The new wash goods. This huge stock includes all that is newest and best from the leading makers of Europe and America, and offers money-saving chances only possible through our method of buying and selling.—Harned & Von Maur, Peoria, Ill.

Regardless of the fact that we have done a stupendous business in the wash goods section, the assortment is still fresh and varied. Every item in this announcement is an exceptionally splendid value.—Tiddings Bros., Colorado Springs, Colo.

There is nothing to interfere with selling such cool, attractive and serviceable Summer fabrics at full prices, except that they were secured by a personal visit by our wash goods buyer to an Eastern manufacturer, who was through business in these weaves for this season, and cared little for what came out of these surplus lines. They reached us only yesterday, have never been exposed for sale at retail before, and are delightfully refreshing in their immaculate cleanliness.—Blowenstein Brothers, Memphis, Tenn.

Dimities, percales, printed lace work lawns, sateens, and other well known, well liked mid-summer materials. This getting ready for stock taking brings about results most advantageous to you. Anybody with a business notion knows that a modern merchant wants his stock at the time of inventory, at the lowest low water mark, wants to be able to begin on his half year with clean departments, departments to do and to dare to buy anything that comes along, hence these half yearly stock taking sales mean much to you, our public.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Foulard Pongees.—Wonderful fabrics that look so much like silk that you must scrutinize closely to see that they are not—far prettier patterns than any shown in silk.—Hearn, New York.

White goods. A display unequaled and unmatched in Ohio's Capital City. The styles embrace all the newest creations of the fabric world, to which is added the exclusive originality that characterizes the Dunn-Taft displays in all lines of seasonable and fashionable merchandise.—Dunn, Taft & Co., Columbus, O.

Elaborate wash dress stuffs made in America. While it is not denied that over in Switzerland and in France and in Germany they execute some fascinating printing in cottons, yet at the same time we have better American made goods on our counters.—Saks, New York.

That woman who sat down at 4 o'clock one afternoon and cut and finished her dress by 7 the same evening, has been rejoicing ever since in its breeziness. She blooms like a rose in it, too. In these days, it's not so much the trimming of the dress as it is the artistic design of the stuff which counts. And whether you pay 12½c. or ten times that much, it's impossible to get finer printing, or more durable colors than seen in these.—John Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

We have gathered a comprehensive and characteristic stock, representing the highest type of perfection in weaving, and art in designing. White, of course, heads this vast procession of summerness—and it is fitting that it should. The season will be dotted like snowflakes. Close upon the heels of white will be the solid shades, on many of which are printed, or woven into the fabric, exquisite patterns of rich and everlasting beauty. It is the greatest showing Simpson Crawford Co. ever made; it is the finest exhibit New York ever saw—and there is economy to the buyer in choosing here.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

Our white goods. A splendid showing of the popular fabrics for shirt waists—and at the lowest figures ever quoted for such very desirable material. If you can match these values—we won't ask you for your patronage. If prices cannot get it, none can.—Mahler Bros., New York City.

Rainbow of wash fabrics. A masterful assembly of lovely textiles. Whole main aisle, of course, for this Spring Sale. Enthusiasm over this superb and wonderfully complete exposition will naturally be intense. Such a tremendously important event coming to the eager attention of hundreds of thousands of people at the very dawn of Spring must needs rank as an occasion of supreme importance and interest. European and American fabrics.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York.

Unusual underpricing on fine white Spring fabrics. It is to be a white season—Paris says so. And the way the choice fabrics we imported for Spring are flying out is indication that America is following the lead. Stirring news, therefore, this, of the most wanted white fabrics at prices far below the ordinary.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Wash fabrics. There's a dash of freshness in these lovely wash fabrics that is hard to describe in limited space. Our present stock is an exceptionally beautiful stock. Some of the textures are so charmingly woven that they resemble silks—some are colored as daintily as the clouds of a May sunset, while others are veritable gems of the weaver's art. All are handsome.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

"Recent weather conditions" invite allusion to something in the rain-water line, but the "umbrella department" having neglected to come to the front with their "copy," opportunity is seized to say something additional about wash dress goods, of which we are showing very large and complete assortments representative of all the leading mills, from the lowest qualities up to the very fine goods.—Hearn, New York.

Like "the orchards of May and the gardens of June"—it is the only fitting comparison one can think of in speaking of the exquisite beauty of our cotton fabrics for 1908. Their loveliness lifts you out of the barren commonplaceness of business, for a moment, to the heights of fancy. Shrewd business genius robs an apple orchard in full bloom of its beauty and by art adapts it to his uses, sets grinding mills agoing and out come myriads of these charming fabrics—this is one of the marvels of modern business. Remember Beau Brummel's recipe for elegance in dress—no perfume—but plenty of clean things, washed and dried in country air and sunshine. Any woman can have loads of wash waists and dresses if she buys wisely here tomorrow.—The Anderson Co., Buffalo.

White goods waist patterns. With what the textile artist of a few years ago would have considered a magic touch, the manufacturer of to-day finishes his fabrics with a silken sheen which is most deceptive—turns cotton thread to silk, practically.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

New wash fabrics. The daintiest stuffs that ever gave charming settings to the summer girl. We secured access to the most exclusive styles when they first left the looms. The cream of the richest beauty-weaves are shown in rare variety. Glance through the Grand Cotton Circle. Arcs of values are continuous.—Macy & Co., New York City.

Printed Irish dimities at 12½ cents. Just half price for genuine Irish dimities selected for our own regular stocks, and imported the present season. That's news that will stir up the interest of women who love dainty and serviceable frocks—even after the Fourth. There are over a hundred beautiful designs to choose from—floral patterns in sprays, clusters and stripes, on white grounds; white figures and figured stripes, on navy blue and black grounds; colored and black figures on white grounds; colored polka-dots and ring dots on white, and many other effects favored this season.—Wanamaker, New York.

Opening sale of stylish wool wastings. —The popularity of shirt waists increases with each recurring season and it is simply a shifting from light filmy textiles to those of heavy weight. The new fall wastings are exceptionally handsome in pattern and colorings and there are many novel weaves shown for the first time this year. We wish to direct your attention to three superior values which we are satisfied cannot be found elsewhere in Los Angeles.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

The story of the wash fabrics must be developing to the satisfaction of the readers, if the records of sales are any criterion. We've been selling yard upon yard of the beautiful dainty stuffs to new comers, whose names we anticipate enrolling upon the list of permanent patrons, as well as to life-long business friends of the establishment.—The S. Caisley Co., Montreal, Can.

A welcome and a welcome again then, to this carnival of the spring and summer time. We figure these as greeting days and assure you that it will be a mutual pleasure to have you just come to look.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

A rainbow in midocean. That's the beauty of these wash fabrics. Truly fascinating—so soft, clinging—such price temptations. We'll not ask you what kind of wash goods you need, for every kind made by mankind is here. But that's not what we most want to say. A fig for mere quantity! There's something impressive, of course; in the mere vastness of this showing, but it's the weaves—the fanciful combinations—the contrasts, the harmonies, the blendings—bewildering array. Then, such prices! Why be contented with something ordinary? The same price you pay anywhere, however low it may be, is sufficient here.—Hales, Los Angeles, Cal.

Wash fabrics seek introduction. To-day, the store turns from winter with its cold and storm towards spring. Whatever may be conditions outside, the broad main aisle of the granite building store is bright with springtime splendor. Store arrangement has been transformed between closing time and the opening hour. Here to greet you at the very doorway and escort you all the way through Division Street walls, is one of the most extensive exhibits of beautiful wash fabrics which ever welcomed you here on a "coming-out" day. And to say this, we promise you about all there is in cotton materials. The witchery of clever foreign weavers vie for favor with loom gems for which we are proud to give artistic Yankee genius credit. Certainly wonders have been wrought in the designing and weaving of cotton stuffs in the last half dozen years and the end seems not yet.

Washable cotton dress goods. Everything is in readiness to make the day one of the most interesting of spring shopping days. Most all the English novelty stuffs are here for shirt waists and shirt waist suits and they are well worth coming to see. Delicate French organdies and batistes are here side by side with sturdy Scotch ginghams; bright little Irish dimities and fine linen lawn nudge elbows with the American ginghams and swisses—every new design that has been dreamed of anywhere for the coming spring is crowding and pushing to get in and show its face among these fine things.—Kaufman's, Trenton.

Spring and Summer wash fabrics. Merchandising revolutionizes the seasons. While we are still wrapped in furs the daintiest wash fabrics are shown on the counters. To-morrow we inaugurate the season by a display of the handsomest creations of French, Scotch, English and home manufactures in cotton, silk, linen and wash fabrics.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark.

Honestly, you have never seen such a fine collection of wash goods at 7½c a yard in all the days you have lived in Trenton as is here to-day. These summer stuffs represent remainders of the best line of 25c and 19c wash materials seen in this section of New Jersey. About eleven different kinds of qualities, but each one this season's most favorite kind. You have the choice of plain or colored lawns, batistes, ginghams, dimities, etc. Lengths that can be used to good advantage.—Phila. Bargain Stores, Trenton, N. J.

The shop. Compliments being daily received on our handsome showing of French cretonnes. An adverse criticism yet to be heard from any who have inspected those dainty patterns of French cretonnes which we have in widths varying from thirty to fifty inches offered at prices ranging from 40 cents to $2.50 a yard, being washable and of fast colorings. Would be pleased to have you see them.—Lapalmé, Hoffman Co., Waterbury, Conn.

Good fabrics for "tub" dresses. The price cutter has just visited the wash goods section. His object was to make selling lively and hurry away these wanted fabrics. Takes very little money to possess fresh, cool summer dresses if you buy materials now.—Emery Bird & Thayer Co., Kansas City.

In this great wash goods sale you'll find a large quantity of white goods priced much lower than usual—those dainty sheer fabrics that are always seasonable. For to-morrow we've thrown in hundreds of very desirable weaves, and by comparison you'll find the prices the very lowest ever quoted on equal qualities. It will pay you to fill all your near future needs during this sale.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

A wealth of cotton dress goods under-price. Here is a paradoxical case. Just when the Puget Sound summer has begun we pile the bargain tables high with the wash goods that women are seeking, and take a good third off the price. Method in this madness, to be sure—these are odd pieces from various lines that have sold freely, and of course we can afford to let them go for less; and, seriously, they'll do us more good now than they would in August. Three lots that deserve all the attention they'll get.—Stone, Fisher & Lane, Tacoma, Wash.

Linen Madras, 18c. "But I got some like this and paid 40c a yard for it!" a woman said yesterday. Yes, it has sold for 40c and 50c. a yard all along until now—when we start our summer housecleaning. Half linen and half cotton—will wear until you are tired of it.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

We cannot impress upon you too strongly the magnificent values we are offering in the most stylish materials for your dainty summer waists and skirts. New, fresh, glistening white silks, airy and soft, that will launder perfectly, for your waists; and the choicest weaves from the whole world of white cream wool goods for your summer skirts. A masterly showing that is the acme of perfection and completeness awaits you here. See our show window—but don't be satisfied with a glance. Come inside and examine the lovely qualities and take advantage of our special prices. These are the goods you will need most for your summer sojourn at the seaside or mountain resort.—M. Rich & Bros. Co., Atlanta, Ga.

1909 Wash Goods.—If we merely tell you that the showing of wash goods is the largest and loveliest we ever had, it would be sufficient to cause women familiar with Pittsburg stores to come here in a hurry. Our leadership in wash fabrics is too undisputed to require elaboration here. Come to-morrow expecting to see dainty stuffs of exquisite beauty. You'll see hundreds of thousands of yards.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

A Wash Goods Feast To-morrow.—The zero weather cannot chill the enthusiasm of our splendid spring show of wash goods. They arrive in companies and battalions daily, the very choicest the mills have to offer.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A Rush for the Delicate Cotton Wash Stuff. Great wash goods opportunity—fifty pieces imported lawns and Swisses, English manufacture, daintily printed patterns, fast colors, an importing agent's sample line. Regular value, 25 cents; at 15 cents yard.—The Anderson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Refreshingly New Wash Fabrics.—Dame Fashion says tans, linens and champagnes, and of course you'll find them in profusion at Cohn's. It's a delight to see a stock like ours—complete with distinctly fresh fabrics and entirely new patterns of the familiar weaves. These are merely ink and paper descriptions. See our south window display.—C. Cohn, San Bernardino, Cal.

Wash Dress Goods—A Tempting Trio.—Three attractive offerings, each of which hints of possibilities for making the most charming of warm-weather waists and dresses, at a saving of half, or very near it.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Twelve and a Half Cent Sale of Wash Fabrics.—Spring weather is here, but it comes too late to benefit the manufacturer of these wash fabrics. He became frightened and sacrificed his profits to find a quick buyer. You save what he lost.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg.

Summer Wash Fabrics.—Fashion's favored fabrics are assembled for to-morrow's early buyers to the accompaniment of lowered prices. In all of the offerings below you may be sure of quality and correct style—hence every bargain is a real bargain, worth buying.—Goldenberg's, Washington.

The story of spring wash goods grows longer and longer. We have given you chapter after chapter of it—and yet the narrative is not half told. Every day unfolds another page of newness in the volume of exquisite textures that is already more extensive and more satisfying than any other spring has ever furnished. Some of the most attractive weaves that have yet reached us are now on display—they are rich values in unusually artistic cotton goods that have just landed with our wash goods man, who has been searching New York for the best and the most beautiful.—Fourquarean, Temple & Co., Richmond, Va.

That exceedingly popular fabric, sheer and beautiful for cool summer dresses—a remarkable diversity of patterns that insures you three or four distinctive costumes with no resemblance whatever. As dainty as ever after washing, and no material is more easily cleansed. Handsome printing on white and colored grounds—dots of all sizes and colors—neat figures, scroll and floral effects; also plain shades of light blue, pink, navy and black—the sensation of the season at 8 cents.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

Wash Fabrics.—All those dainty weaves which the smart, dressy dressers are choosing for their Summer gowns are here at special prices to-morrow.—The Williams Rodgers Co., Cleveland.

New and beautiful wash dress fabrics at one-third to one-half less than usual at the Big Store. You could not find better values if you were to search every store in the country.—The Edward Wren Co., Springfield, Ohio.

New Wash Goods, Nub Voiles—A complete range of colors in nub voiles has just arrived. You know what a popular fabric these nub voiles are already—these are new and contain some of the most fetching effects in cotton washable goods for suits and waists; yard, 25c. Novelty linen suitings. These are spic, span new, too; nobby effects there are in mottled groundwork, with self-colored dots; also contrasting colored dots—nothing more desirable for a washable suit.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

A bewildering variety of patterns in these woven ginghams that are being used so extensively for children's wash dresses. They come in very pretty stripes and checks; the colors are absolutely fast. The assortment is the best in this borough and the price is unapproached anywhere.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The matter of cool, simple dresses grows more important as the season advances. Nothing is in steadier favor than linens in many colors, notably the fresh light greens and blues, and various weights. One suit of very fine soft linen is carried out in tan and white, as well as blue and green; it is made with pleats in waist and skirt and costs $10.75.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

White Goods in the Sale.—The long counter is crowded. The shelves behind the counter are crowded, and as we open piece after piece of the beautiful white fabrics we are charmed by entirely new designs and the refreshing aspect of the whole showing. Prices are very low.—Schipper & Block, Peoria.

Attractive American Wash Goods Less Priced.—Look into this basement department to-morrow and see our line of American wash goods. Would you have thought there was so much of variety in cotton fabrics? Serviceable galateas for children's dressess and women's separate skirts, dainty cotton voiles for the dressy Summer gown, desirable percales for the morning dress and dainty suiting tissues for afternoon. All at the most inexpensive of prices.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Wash Fabrics.—Our stock of wash goods is at its best. We've about every sort of washable fabric you're likely to ask for, and if you have in mind some sort that isn't included in the list, come to the store. It's more than likely that you'll find what you want here. As to price, it's a well-known fact that our cash system offers better advantages than can possibly be found elsewhere. We invite comparison, both in quality and prices.—People's Store Co., Tacoma, Wash.

A Spring crop of cottons. We picked them with pains from the fairest French fields. Harvest time for you.—Chamberlain-Johnson-Du Bose Co., Atlanta.

New Wash Goods.—May blossoms of daintiness float on the current within your easy reach. Time for cool things—for ginghams, batistes, lawns, organdies. Mountain mornings, seaside seasons, call for more dresses to meet more demands. Here are gray hues for evenings, fresh tints for mornings, dark shades for shadowy days. The woman of taste can winnow tasteful materials. Thread and needle will do all the rest. Woven cotton never was cheaper, never more charming, never took lovelier forms. Like its own fields in Summer—gay-tinted, beautiful. Wondrous whiteness o'erstrewn with bright bloom. Zephyr ginghams—as light almost as the breeze they were named for. Queenly organdies where roses and posies run riot. French sateens, waves of darkish colorings with lifting soft-seeming shades of lighter tints—shiningly, silkily, smooth.—Chamberlain-Johnson-Du Bose Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Pretty Wash Fabrics for Shirtwaist Gowns.—Our showing is without an equal in Central Illinois. The Summer girl's wardrobe has every opportunity to be more attractive than ever this year, for never before were washable fabrics so stunningly beautiful. The many people who prefer linens and voiles on account of their superior laundering qualities will be delighted over the immense range of charming weaves and color combinations that they may choose from. The linen or voile gown will be par excellence the Summer girl's morning dress—at home or on her vacation trip. The simplest styles will have no trimming except clusters of tiny buttons. Where more elaborate designs are wanted, heavy laces and embroideries of all sorts are used, both on waist and skirt.—P. A. Bergner & Co., Peoria, Ill.

We have ready to-day forty-two thousand yards of staple chambray gingham that sell regularly at 12½ cents, to offer at 8 cents a yard. This quantity represents the mill's surplus for the season, and was counted so small that the makers were willing to offer this very radical concession, to close them out quickly. These chambray gingham go through a special laundering process after the goods are woven, and before they are finished, in order to remove all the excess coloring. This makes the colors unusually fast and positive. They will remain bright and clear much longer than the chambrays of other manufacturers. More than half the lot is in the most wanted blue shades, light, medium and dark. The other colors are tan, light gray and champagne.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Lowest prices on wash fabrics. It's an incongruity, you'll admit, to reduce prices on the choicest and most desirable wash fabrics, just when the warm weather begins which in itself should give impetus and almost ceaseless activity for a long period to the selling of wash weaves. However, that's what we've done. We might unfold a long tale as to the why and wherefore, but it would not interest you near as much as the bare facts of quality, desirability and economy, a triumvirate that is indeed commanding in merchandizing, and which self-interest cannot ignore.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

Fine linens, bedspreads and comforts. In the category of useful gifts for the housewife, linens and bedding must be accorded a prominent place. These values should help.—Hearn, New York.

A million dollars' worth of wash dress goods—representing surplus stocks of various manufacturers—were sold last week by the H. B. Claffin Company in this city. Buyers from every large store in the United States and Canada were present, and never in a single day were so many yards sold. We got our share of this splendid stock—buying lots that we knew would prove attractive in this city. To-morrow we shall place them on sale. They are great values at every price, but the cream of the lot was this purchase of printed lawns: Twenty-three thousand yards. Only samples were shown at the sale; the stock came to us direct from the mill; all new and fresh and clean—this season's manufacture. A great variety of splendid patterns; white grounds, with printed figures, stripes and floral effects. Worth double what you shall pay for them.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

It's a drastic measure, this unmerciful slashing of prices on summer goods, but with fall goods already clamoring for admission into our store, we realize that room is needed and the only way it can be acquired is by underprices on all summer merchandise.—Barney's, Schenectady, N. Y.

Faultless summer wash fabrics. Another showing of those thin, sheer, soft fabrics—the kind that Dame Fashion says “will be right.” From our faultless display you can gain an idea as to what will be strictly proper for new summer wash gowns.—Kaufman's, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Some of these new spring fabrics are as delicately woven and colored as silks; some are light as ether, yet they possess strength and durability. We doubt if there is another such stock as we are showing this side of New York and possibly not there, as great effort has been put forth to collect the handsomest stuffs of the best looms of the world.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

A host of brilliant styles in spring and summer merchandise—designers and dyers never wrought lovelier effects. Scores and scores of fabrics with the delicate grace and elegant beauty that appeal to women of refined taste, and every offering is made doubly attractive by the reasonableness of prices.—Kelley, Stiger & Co., Omaha, Nebraska.

White stuffs for spring. Exquisite new Oxfords, madras cloth, chevots, etc., all with mercerized finish. A woman who knows said the other day, “I've been selling white goods for the last eighteen years, but I never saw anything like these.” Paris sends the cream of the collection, of course, but some wonderfully pretty white things have just come from Manchester, England. Cream white, this year, instead of ivory white—and what woman won't say it's more becoming?—Connolly & Wallace, Scranton, Pa.

All departments are overflowing with rich new goods. Wash goods department is full of handsome formations. You will have to see these goods to know their beauty. This is only a small part of the new goods we have gathered for you.—Spring, Holzwarth & Co., Alliance, O.

Wash Goods. A personal inspection only can convey the breadth of buying possibilities presented.—Boston Store, Milwaukee, Wis.

Pretty new wash fabrics. Our main floor, near rotunda, is resplendent with bewitching and fascinating variety of becoming new wash fabrics, in all the variety of spring loveliness—there's an almost illimitable assortment for selection and the prices are conspicuously low.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York City.

Bookfold zephyr gingham—a beautiful line of new patterns in dark styles that make such excellent, serviceable women's undershirts. See them in one of our Main street windows and you will want them. It takes only a glance to see that they're the kind you generally pay 10c. for. When you come in we'll sell them to you at yard 6½c.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

What could be more handsome, more stylish, more correct? Yet it is the coolest suit that a woman could put on. The fabric, a cotton Panama, is as cool and dainty as a white lawn and as strong as cotton duck—will stand any service it is put to; and will go into the tub and come back good as new. It has the finish and character of a white linen, though lighter and cooler.—The Wana-maker Store, New York, N. Y.

Keep cool and quiet. Good rule to follow this weather; keep cheerful is another good rule. Of course, it's a busy season, getting ready to go away, but if it's merchandise, you will find every necessary article here, at its best and the lowest price, so just make out your memorandum of needs and we will fill your order and do all the work and take care of the worry. We repeat that if you see goods advertised elsewhere in this paper you'd like, which we sell, our prices are apt to be less, but quality equal, no higher.—A. D. Matthew's Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

An eight o'clock special in wash goods. This twenty below zero weather doesn't seem to affect the buying of wash goods to any appreciable extent. Trade journals tell us that cotton is being worn more and more the year around. Guess it must be so, or is it the splendid values of our wash goods that stimulate the selling?—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

New spring wash goods. Rushing in like a spoiled baby unshowered comes the new spring wash goods. It seems so early, right in the dead of winter, to begin selling spring goods, but it is not a bit. Prudent shoppers buy now because they get the choice of the prettiest patterns, many of which are never duplicated. The showing is really beautiful and comprises sheer silk and cotton goods, voiles, gingham and sheer batistes.—The Chas. Monson Co., New Haven, Conn.

We speculated on wash goods! Won't You save! It was Jay Gould who said the man who could see five minutes ahead of the world was a rich man. It's so with everything. The real estate man who gets rich is the man who finds which way the city is going and gets in the way of it. The merchant who wins must be the merchant who is in the right side of the market. Now "cottons" must be spelled with an "s," for it is now as big a speculative commodity in Wall Street as coppers, or wheat or railroad 4's. We figured the cotton market six months ago. Bought future deliveries by the ton. We stood to make a great deal of money, or lose it. We made it. To-day we can sell our wash goods cheaper than they can be bought at wholesale and still make our regular percentage of profit. If other dealers are similarly situated why do their prices show the market advances? We are giving customers the benefit of our timely purchases—"foresight" some would call it, others would say "lucky." So far as you are concerned "bargains" is the word that sums up the situation.—Pardridge & Blackwell, Detroit, Mich.

Shirt waist flannels occupy much attention.

It is now declared that flannel shirt waists are to be more popular than ever during the season just ahead. We leave it to your taste alone as to what style yours shall be. Everything you can possibly wish for in the line of French shirt waist flannels is spread temptingly on our counters. And by way of illustrating the surpassing attractiveness of our prices we submit these two offers.—Bure's, Rochester, N. Y.

An exposition of the new dress fabric styles which exceeds our best previous efforts will be ready to-morrow morning. It presents the pick of the foreign and domestic fabrics in widest showing of the best colors, many of which are to be had here exclusively. It is a showing worth a special trip to the store to see. Moderate prices prevail. We give some hint of them here.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

A very popular material, made of the finest wool. It is very firm, moderately heavy and has a finish that gives it the appearance of a higher priced Panama. A seasonable fabric that cannot be matched anywhere at the price.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

WEDDING PRESENTS AND TROUSSEAUX

Prussian Brass.—A new ware made up in very artistic designs, would make a splendid wedding gift.—R. Ashby, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Have you thought about a Chafing Dish as a Wedding Present? It has a hundred dainty uses especially suited to the housekeeping needs of new beginners.—Hofman's, Columbus, O.

A tip to the June bride—practice economy; it is the road to wealth. Begin to economize now! We'll help you. Let us fit up your new home. $1 down, $1 per week.—St. Louis House Furnishing Co., St. Louis, Mo.

The two important advantages obtained in buying wedding gifts at our show rooms—are lower prices and assortments far greater than you can hope to find elsewhere.—Pairpoint, New Bedford, Mass.

To the brides of to-day. The first step to success with your cooking will be to insist on having a gas range. Don't start in with a gasoline stove, it's dangerous; or a steel range that will keep you in the kitchen all day; but do your work on a gas range.—Gas Company, Saginaw, Mich.

A bride cherishes her wedding gifts more than any presents she receives during her life. They are displayed for the admiration of her closest friends. Let us show you some gift objects that will be a credit to you and a lasting source of satisfaction to the recipient.—R. Ashby, Colorado Springs, Colo.

June weddings—China showers. If in doubt what gift to give the June bride, a visit to our china and bric-a-brac departments will suggest many appropriate ideas. They're just beaming over with beautiful new French and Haviland China and finest assortment of bric-a-brac.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg.

Solid silver for June brides. The sterling metal which time has most strongly approved for wedding gifts. Nothing more permanent; nothing more heartily valued and taken care of during all of the life of which the wedding day is the beginning; nothing more valued to be handed down to succeeding generations.—Wanamaker's, Phila.

June Wedding Gifts. Is a rose less precious because it is a gift? Is sterling silver less precious because we introduce the buyer to fine articles that the maker had to sell for about their bullion worth? That's all.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

June brides. Easy to get married, but hard to get the furniture. A most worthy and esteemed friend of ours said this jokingly; but like many of his sayings, there's quite a grain of truth in it. To-day we briefly enumerate items essential to home furnishing, quoting prices showing how far a little money will go if you purchase your outfit here.—Kellar & Bullard, New Haven, Ct.

Here is news for the bride. The subject of what to wear is an all important one. Of course, you want your gown becoming. The goods must be suitable, must be in style and choice centers most on the thin filmy stuffs of sheer open weave, as they make up more daintily, in more pleasing effect, than the heavier kinds. White is the thing, fashion approves it.—Brown, Thomson & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Important to Those Who Have Wedding Invitations.—This extraordinary saving occasion affords the ideal opportunity for those who will present wedding gifts, as we have included in this sale an unusually bright diversity of appropriate articles so much cherished by young married people. For the same amount you'd spend elsewhere you may select a present of nearly twice the value, or if you have decided on presenting a gift of a certain valuation, you may as well save nearly half.—Simpson-Crawford Co., New York.

Attractive Wedding Presents.—Our stocks abound with innumerable new pieces in crockery and furniture suitable for wedding gifts. All the newest and best novelties now on sale. Include our store in your shopping tour.—McNamara & Harding, Binghamton, N. Y.

June is a great month for weddings, and June brides, and bridegrooms too, should see our matchless outfit offers at either the Pittsburg or Allegheny store.—Thomas & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

How lace ever came to be the most important part of a bridal dress it is hard to say; but no bride who looks for luck in marriage, or hopes for increased fortune while in that state, goes to the altar without at least a touch of it. And because Duchess, and Duchess point—that exquisite lace that has made Brussels the most wonderful lace centre in the world—is the finest and most delicate—it is the lace that the world considers most fitting for a bride.—Blum Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Bridal trousseaux whose delicate handiwork, sheer fabrics and filmy laces lend a distinctive daintiness to each garment, are characteristic of the exquisite underdressing of the Parisiennes, to whom this important adjunct of correct costuming has become a veritable art.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington.

This store solves every problem of brides' and bridesmaids' outfitting, except individual choice. So that the power of intelligent selection may arrive at its object in the most satisfactory manner, we present more than a hundred distinct styles and weaves of silks, from dainty, filmy creations in lace effects, to heavy, rich, stately satins, embracing style thoughts and fabric schemes for gowns from the world's most authentic sources.—Blowenstein Bros., Memphis, Tenn.

June brides always find a wedding present most acceptable when it comes from Byrd's.—C. L. Byrd & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Cut glass for June weddings. Nothing is more appropriate and stylish than cut glass for wedding gifts.—Morley Brothers, Saginaw, Mich.

Wedding presents should be selected for their utility and beauty. The present displays the donor's taste.—Harrington & Nounen-Macher, Columbus, O.

About the particular wedding you are interested in let us suggest that one of the very best gifts is in the line of sterling silver.—C. L. Byrd & Co., Memphis.

June inducements to begin housekeeping offered by Shannons' June is the month of weddings and the month we commence to cut down our stock in preparation for fall purchases.—Shannon, Columbus, O.

Our steadily increasing sales at this time of the year are evidence that furniture as a wedding gift, combining as it does, sentiment with practicability, is rapidly coming into favor.—Sander & Recker Furniture Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

"The month of brides." We invite the brides of 1909 as well as of previous years to inspect our beautiful collection of Oriental and American rugs, as well as other beautiful furnishings for floors and windows.—The H. H. Griggs Company, Cleveland, O.

All the creations of the foremost producers of footwear are here in slippers and other footwear which the bride will need on her wedding tour. If she be going abroad the correct footwear is here for wear while aboard the steamship.—B. Rich's Sons, Washington, D. C.

The June bride's outfit. An unusual collection of bridal garments and home furnishings that can be secured here in endless profusion. It is well to select these early. Quite often the exclusive designs come in limited quantities. Here are a few suggestions as to designs and prices.—James Shea, Hamilton, Ont.

Delicate and correct silks for June brides. A glance tells you how finely we are prepared to meet requirements for June weddings. Whatever is correct for dresses for brides, bridesmaids and guests you can find at "Burke's" silk department. No thought "for better or for worse" need be entertained in any selection made.—Burke, Fitz Simons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

The wedding hour draws near; the song of love's young dream resounds in sweetest melody from rose-covered altars to echo again in pealing wedding bells and greet the happy bride of June. Her face beams with happy anticipation of the lovely gifts her wedding day will bring. We have devoted special care to wedding gifts this season and have the very things brides love most.—Mulford, Memphis, Tenn.

June is the month of marriages, and preparations for weddings are of the utmost importance. The bride must have a trousseau, and her attendants will require appropriate raiment for the beautiful ceremony. Such careful consideration has been given to this subject, and so extensive has been the provision of wedding goods in this establishment that here a complete bridal outfit may be readily secured; also the requirements of bridesmaids and little maidens of honor; and furthermore, most beautiful and acceptable wedding gifts.—Woodward & Lothrop, Washington.

Lamps. Cut Glass. Art Wares. If there is a wedding gift to be bought or a birthday gift; if the summer home needs a new lamp or two; if own loveliness—then you will count this news important.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

WHITE GOODS

The great White Sale is now showing up a very large number of odd lots. Scores of lines are closed out, all but the last few bundles—sometimes the last few pieces. We're watching the stocks closely, for it is a relief to the stock-keepers to get the vast aggregation simplified, so that there are less varieties to watch.—Wanamaker, New York.

White Sale Activity and some of the Reasons. There hasn't been a moment, since the beginning of the White Sale, when the splendid sweep of white, in the Rotunda Balcony, hasn't been a centre of attraction. Women who have compared muslin undergarments offered in this Sale with those exploited elsewhere in a more or less half-hearted manner, will understand the reasons for this continued success. To-day's varied offerings of Nightgowns, Drawers and Petticoats—and in the third week of the Sale—exemplify these reasons. Note the full ample dimensions of the garments—we don't resort to the usual course of skimping on materials to make low prices. Embroideries and laces are in fresh, new, beautiful patterns; the muslins, cambries and nainsooks are soft and fine; the workmanship is careful and tasteful. Competent judges would assign a value of one-third more to each piece. And just look at the assortment.—Simpson, Crawford Co., New York.

White Goods.—The looms never turned out prettier or finer white goods than this year's styles. We have the different sorts in fine assortment—hardly anything you can have a preference for is missing. Just now several lots are here at much lower than usual prices because of a lucky purchase from a wholesaler who was re-adjusting stock.—Fowler, Dick & Walker, Binghamton, N. Y.

The new white goods shed their wrappings to-day, and go on sale at once. But you want to look before you buy—yes, you want to look without buying. Come along just the same. Such exquisite materials as these deserve admiration. As an exhibit of wonderful skill in spinning, weaving, bleaching and finishing, this showing of white goods is certainly remarkable. And the prices—your grandmothers would have had to pay shillings per yard for what you now buy for pennies, and then they could not obtain the beauty of weave and design that's in these dainty materials. Open house at the white goods counter. You may come only to look, but we believe you will buy—some of the values are too tempting to resist.—McKelvey's, Youngstown, Ohio.

Persian lawns. No white fabric ever devised gives more certain satisfaction than the fine, sheer, sweet Persian lawns. They are crisp and fresh, launder perfectly as you know, and worked up after this season's styles make one of the prettiest creations that can be imagined.—C. H. Edge, Lexington, Ky.

The Swiss muslins have always been the aristocrats of summer-gown stuffs. They are cool, dainty and artistic, as well as the most serviceable of all fabrics.—Wanamaker, New York.

A startling and sensational sale of white goods. A transaction in white goods that will arouse and intensify a midsummer trade as it was never aroused before. A daring deal, by which we secured 12 cases of fine desirable white goods for a figure so low it will be almost impossible to duplicate.—Hochschild, Kahn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

After such selling as the white goods section has seen this season, little wonder that there are great heaps of remnants, for the volume of business such a department does is to be determined by its accumulations of short lengths. Always the most wanted goods, too—Persian lawns, India linon, batistes, organdies, French lawns, Swiss mull and a plenty of fancy white goods in shirt-waist lengths. The prices are designed to make their clearance quick and complete.—Macy's, New York.

We will place on sale Monday and until sold an enormous purchase of fine white goods at prices that will surely mark an epoch in the history of white goods retailing. We are New England's leading distributors of fine white goods and we mean to make this a record week in the department. This is no job lot or mill ends, but all fresh, clean, up-to-date, desirable merchandise. The quantities are large enough to supply everybody, dealers included. If you want anything in the way of fine white goods you cannot afford to miss this great money saving sale.—Shepard Norwell Co., Boston, Mass.

White fabrics for waists and dresses have steadily been growing in popularity each season. We are quite certain that we are right in our prediction that the stride ahead this year will be prodigious. Anyway, we are so firmly convinced of this that our purchases have been decidedly heavier than ever before. We are just as positive, too—because we know—that our prices are lower than manufacturers are asking for many of the identical goods to-day.—High's, Atlanta, Ga.

Here right in the middle of the winter with two feet of snow on the ground and the thermometer generally below the zero mark we shall hold a white goods sale that for variety of materials, beauty of patterns, and quality of stock has never been equaled in Bay City. It's going to be a white goods season again sure. Already the white goods stock is fast elbowing out the other lines and we have allotted three times the usual shelf and counter space to accommodate and comfortably show this very much enlarged department. The firmly woven but light weight materials easily take the lead, and they come in the prettiest patterns imaginable and will be most suitable for the cool summer dresses you will need later on.—Romer, Lowell & Co., Bay City, Mich.

A splendid showing of fine and gauzy textures so desirable for summer waists and dresses, including Swisses, mulls, organdies and lawns.—Carson, Pirie Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

It's a "white season" in dress. White dresses and white suits are being brought into service as quickly as deft fingers can construct them. White hats and white shoes to complete the costume are in great demand. Also the approach of graduating time lends further interest to the white fabrics—gloves—shoes—hose. The extensive preparations which the store has made to supply all these dainty white things is shown in the following.—The Marston Store, San Diego, Cal.

White stuffs lead, you know! That we have the most complete and diversified assortment of white goods for Spring is proven by the onrush of trade already cared for in the dress goods section. The assortment beggars description, so you must use your eyes on the collection itself rather than on any descriptive paragraph.—Bloomingtondale's.

"White as the driven snow," are these new waistings, all cotton; but Jack Frost will never pierce them; for they're as thick as leather and as warm as wool —fleece back and fancy faced, 75c. and $1.00 yard.—T. D. Bendure, Springfield.

Thin white stuffs for dinner gowns and party frocks. We've already told how a "white winter" is promised by the fashion makers, and how the key-note was struck at the Flower Fete in Vienna, where automobiles, harness, horses, gowns, flowers—everything was snowy white.

The new white stuffs are fascinating enough to win over every woman to wearing them this winter.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

A large and varied assortment of dainty white fabrics in all the most desirable materials, consisting of India Linens, Persian Lawns, Organdies, Swisses, Mercerized Poptins, etc. It is high time to have the materials for your summer gown in the dressmaker's hands, and this sale offers the opportunity to procure the goods at a saving which should be taken advantage of.—Donaldson's, Minneapolis, Minn.

Never such a May white sale as this in Peoria. Not until this morning could we learn the definite result of the first day. All white sale records were shattered—a new high-water mark set for this timely May movement. To-day's selling has also been extremely large—warmer weather sending still more thousands to profit by the matchless savings in muslinwear. But, let's peep into the linens again. These are fine, distinguished flaxen weaves, worth your admiration and your trust. And lowered in price.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

A purchase of two cases of pretty white Batiste, which makes cool and charming summer dresses. It is valued at 15c. and 18c. a yard—and every woman will welcome a chance to buy it so much below regular cost.—Goldenberg's, Washington, D. C.

Children's day sale of white goods. You mothers of little girls, who are preparing even now for that day of days, the second Sunday in June, should be genuinely interested in our doings in white dress goods for this special occasion. And for gowns for yourself, too, you should be interested in this white sale. White, white—fashion notes tell it, foreign advices say it; from every authenticated center comes the advice—it is to be the greatest white goods season for years. Yes, not even excepting last summer, which you remember so well was such a white summer for women's and children's dress.—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

WOMEN'S READY-TO-WEAR

The linen coats, linen suits, shirt waist suits and shirt waists we will sell at the tremendous cut prices are the products of the foremost manufacturers of the country. They are modeled in keeping with fashion's latest dictates and embrace all the most desirable materials for summer wear. There are fully three months of warm weather ahead of us when these garments will be the ne plus ultra of comfort and style. Think what such a buying opportunity as we offer means. Each offering is a star attraction. We've put the prices lower than you've ever known them so early in the season and we are giving the handsomest ready-to-wear in this city. The buying here to-morrow will be spirited from the moment the sale opens. If you want handsome wash suits, etc., be sure to come.—M. Rich & Bros. Co., Atlanta.

Good News for Buyers of Women's Clothing.—We want to make up for the dull days that marked the opening of this season's selling—days when winter persistently refused to give way to spring and made the selling of spring and summer clothing almost an impossibility. The result of the unseasonable weather is apparent to-day in every stock of women's clothing, for there is more on hand than ordinarily at this season of the year. Our own stock is going to be reduced materially at once, for we have gone into price cutting with great energy—so that whether you want the very highest grade of suits, coats, wraps or costumes, or the less expensive but stylish made garments, you can buy them now at a considerable saving from early season prices.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Detroit, Mich.

Another peerless sale of stylish, well made garments for women! We never before offered such matchless opportunities in seasonable garments. If we have never offered them you can rest assured they have never been offered anywhere. Study the stylish materials, the perfect workmanship, the chic and daintiness of these garments. Then note the wonderfully low prices. You will readily see why this store does such a gigantic garment business. The strictest attention given to the altering and fitting of all our ready-made garments.—Israel's, San Bernardino, Cal.

It is needless to tell you that this store is the centre of buying for women in suits, skirts, jackets and coats. Ask any fashionable woman of our town where the best suits are to be found in Tacoma, and she will tell you, without hesitation, at Morris Gross Company's. In other words, the well-dressed women are recommending us—unthinkingly, perhaps, but just the same without question—as the best place to buy a serviceable, stylish suit for fall or winter.—Morris Gross Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Stroll through the suit and skirt department. Note the new fall styles. The department is fairly sparkling with pretty new designs. The display is the most complete and quite the best we've ever shown. Styles are absolutely correct in every detail. Rich, long skirted coat suits are in abundance. These are most favored of the new fall modes. Every woman of taste will be attracted and fascinated by this exclusive display.—The Palace, Spokane, Wash.

Foolish women who delayed all summer and come rushing into fur stores now to get repairs done, find that "after Xmas" is the earliest date. You ladies who are now holding back on buying what you want in a cloak, suit or furs are about as foolish, for now is when you want the goods and now is when you can get your choice and get just what you want. We don't gainsay the fact that late buyers get goods cheaper; but why shouldn't they? They lose half the season's wear and take what others have left. It's "up to you" which you want to do; we know that this is a season when you won't gain in price by delays, and surely you will lose in quality.—Ransom & Horton, St. Paul, Minn.

"So-and-So built that house"—and the minute you hear the name you know it is well built. "Wanamaker's built that suit" carries the same confidence in the clothing world to-day.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Some very clever things in summer suits and costumes.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bro., Chicago, Ill.

Clearing out some odd lots of waists, suits, skirts and bathing costumes that remain, and hurrying their departure by lopping off the larger part of their original price.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

This is just the time when every woman who attends this sale can better afford to have another silk shirt waist suit or two or three more silk waists than at any other time of the season, because the prices are 1-3 the earlier low prices.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

Most excellent opportunities for fashionable dressers and bargain seekers. The balance of our shirtwaist suits and shirt waists, cloth, suits silk waists and suits of china and habutai have been put on sale at bargain prices, as we wish to make room for fall purchases, which will soon arrive.—L. Rosenbaum & Sons, Elmira, N. Y.

Wrappers, Dressing Sacques, Petticoats, etc.—When heat and humidity conspire to make our lives miserable, there's nothing like thin, cool, negligee wear for solid comfort. You want to see ours before buying—you want to note the pretty ways they're made, the reliable materials, the dainty colorings, and the wonderfully moderate prices.—Austin Bros., Westfield, Mass.

Shoulder shawls for cool evenings. Cool summer evenings at seashore and lake make a protection for head and shoulders quite essential. We have provided dainty scarfs and shawls for your needs. Will you put one in the trunk?—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Keep cool, wear cool, light weight clothing to help. That's where we can help you. We're helping thousands now, perhaps we're helping you—if not, why not? Suppose you see right now what we can do for you in the way of cool dresses, cool undergarments, cool shirt waists, cool shoes, cool gloves, and so on. The cost this season is surprisingly small and our stocks are wonderfully large. The season's latest and best is here.—The Howe & Stetson Stores, New Haven, Conn.

In these lots offered you will find garments that were good values at their original prices and at these special prices they should prove doubly tempting. They are all the new winter styles and materials, made in a very particular manner, for that is the only kind permitted in this department.—The Bowland, Morehouse & Martens Co., Columbus, O.

In truth the most attractive winter garment proposition of the season has, by a rare and unheard of purchase, come to us. Four hundred and seventy-three garments, spick and span, direct from the sample rooms of one of the most prominent manufacturers in New York, will be placed on sale to-morrow, and if the records of former sales indicate anything at all they surely point to phenomenal selling in coat and suit department, for in honest comparison past values, however great they might have been, fade into insignificance when placed beside these garments.—Ehrlich Bros., New York, N. Y.

Delay and disappointment are usually the lot of the woman who trusts to her modiste for her fall suit or coat. Likely as not the style effect will not have the appearance she expected. Often the materials do not make up as prettily as she thought, and nine times out of ten the garment is not delivered in time, which is most vexatious. All these annoyances are obviated in our cloak and suit section. Here the variety of choice covers the whole of the season's style effects, and you can tell immediately which suits you best. Don't have to take the materials on trust—they are already made up. And we can insure so perfect a fit that it could hardly be hoped for, from other than the most exclusive modiste.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

If you want to see the best things that we have prepared for the occasion, come to our exhibit of wraps, coats, costumes for day and evening wear. The elegance and refinement of what you will see is only one of its happy features—the wonderful comprehensiveness of our show will strike you at once. It will seem as if our experts had read your very thoughts and prepared especially for you.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Summer suits, coats and wraps in fine array. Full lines of correct styles, in the choicest fabrics and colorings, indicate how carefully we have prepared for the summer months which are almost upon us. Thoroughness is visible everywhere—the sort of thoroughness that has kept this store at the front with the brightest and newest fashions and easiest prices. Each garment attests our thoroughness—shaping, making and tailoring being faultless.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Every Silk Shirt Waist or Tailored Suit for women, that has been priced up to $50 in our stocks, bears to-day one of the attractive new prices named below.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Come in and make selections now while the range of styles is at a maximum and the prices are the lowest.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

To see them is to enthuse over them. There's a distinction to them that appeals at once to critical eyes. Try them on and the satisfaction is increased. Then the price—sure to suit as well as the garments.—J. E. Sage, Hartford.

All the new fashion-touches are seen in the showing—the large sleeves, in a variety of phases, the vest coats, the pretty, practical walking skirts, and a splendid assortment of materials. And among the widely varying models, and styles of trimming, there's not a single one that is not in the best of quiet, good taste.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

That grand stretch of space on the eighth street side of the second floor is a veritable summer fashion show. It is a brilliantly beautiful display of all that is smart, stylish, rich, elegant, wearable and serviceable in feminine apparel. The prices will surely delight you, especially when you note the splendid styles, the choice workmanship, the fine material. The values are simply wonderful.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

To-day we announce one of the best pieces of news that the New York women have read this season. We have just purchased from one of the foremost manufacturers of the country a collection of about five hundred silk dresses and silk shirt-waist suits. This concern is the only American firm whose product has been sold in London and Paris. Their business is through for the season, and their designers are starting abroad for ideas for Fall. For this reason we have secured their entire stock-on-hand at an average reduction of about a half of regular values. The styles of the dresses represent the best ideas brought out this season, both here and abroad. The materials include plain taffeta silks, fancy striped and checked silk foulards, the popular Rajah silks, and a few cool and dainty checked silks. The similarity of the dresses to many that we now have in stock has compelled our adding a great many from our own stock, making the assortment still greater. The most conservative estimate of the values of the dresses ranges from $20 to $25, a few are worth still more. To-day they are priced at $14.50 each. Certainly a most startling price at which we offer fine, new beautiful suits from the foremost American manufacturer, with the season still at its height. Special selling space on the second floor.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Seen the new separate dress and walking skirts? Everything points to long, straight lines; the new models are snug at the top, the fullness flaring out below the knees. Stunning effects of soft clinging voile and crepe de chine over taffeta, swell peau de soie and long taffetas. "Swing clear" lengths in skirts for walking and shopping—cheviots, Panamas, tweeds and sturdy mixtures.—Halpert & Jacobs, Binghamton, N. Y.

Sensational prices on women's winter garments. Advance showing of modish spring suits and costumes.—Goldenberg Bros., Baltimore, Md.

When a lady comes to the real purchasing of a garment there must be more in its favor than the mere matter of price. The price must be right—that's important; but in the estimation of the discriminating no price is alluring if the proper style and artistic effect is lacking.—The Crews-Beggs Dry Goods Co., Pueblo, Colo.

A helpful place for time-pressed people. You can just run in here at any time and pick up something desirable in the waist, suit or skirt line. When you come to packing the trunk for that summer outing if anything has been overlooked, stop here on your transfer as you go to the train, and see how quickly your wants can be supplied. There can be no doubt as to this store's supremacy when it comes to a question of ready-to-pick-up-and-put on garments—and the prices are O. K. too.—Z. L. White, Columbus, O.

Skirts and waists of the heavier materials will now be "thrown into the discard," and supplanted by cool, fresh, summery light weight—duck and pique skirts, lawn or silk waists—all of which may be found in abundance here and pleasingly priced as well.—McHenry's, Cleveland, Ohio.

Dainty and elegant garments, made in the newest styles, of fine materials and beautifully trimmed, are what you see in every section.—H. O'Neill & Co.

The woman of taste, the woman who practices economy, and the woman who appreciates correct styles and is a devotee of fashion, readily recognizes in the large and select assortment of fashionable apparel that we show opportunities to buy that are most pleasing from every point of view. The stock just now is at its best and the varied tastes are readily satisfied.—The Fair, Chicago.

A perfectly gowned woman is a delight to the eye, and the garments of our store are especially designed with a view to producing pleasing effects.—Rosenthal Dry Goods Co., Peoria, Ill.

A manufacturer who has had years of experience and success in making shirt waists decided to fit skirts to his most stunning styles; this he did, and sold quantities of them. Now for the closing out of his odd suits.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York.

True elegance, individuality of styles and perfection of workmanship marks every garment in our collection. It embraces exclusive novelties from the far-famed foreign designers and a magnificent collection of America's faithful copies. Remember, no passe styles or damaged stock—every garment we offer is correct in style and reliable, no matter how low the price.—The Beall-Livingston Dry Goods Co., Columbus, Ohio.

A shawl is really a necessity these cool summer evenings—and we've marked prices so low that every one can afford one. We have undoubtedly the largest and handsomest assortment, and when you see how pretty and low priced they are, you'll be glad you came.—Rosenbaum Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Models of the new fall styles and weights, but it isn't just because they are new fall styles we are so proud of them.

It's their own beauty, and their own worth.—Hale's, Sacramento, Cal.

The McKnew quality policy is reflected in every garment that McKnew shows. The highest ideals of dress refinement are realized in the fall Suits, Coats, Skirts and Waists exhibited at McKnew's this season. The trinity of dress perfection—quality—exclusiveness and conservatism—are portrayed in the finest ready-to-wear for women ever shown in Washington.—McKnew's, Washington.

The styles, first of all, bespeak that desired exclusiveness, a rich plainness given by mannish effect. Long coats, and shorter ones for shorter figures, but the real long ones set the style. Then we have the blouse jacket and tourist effect coats. Suits with those charming little vests, just a bit of contrasting color peeping from under the coat, giving the proper air to the plainness of the materials, so popular this season.—The Bowland, Morehouse & Martens Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Of all the beautiful costumes which the autumn days will call forth there will be none better in style, workmanship and fit than those from the Novi-Modi wardrobes. Remember the saving in time, too. No waiting or wearisome fittings. Try the costume on once and we send it home finished the same day. If there is anything wrong with the costume your tailor sends you, you must keep it. Novi-Modi will return your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied.—Novi-Modi, Montreal, Can.

Down Go the Prices on Women's Smartest Tailored Wear.—We have been helping the makers to straighten stocks and the last few weeks has presented a series of such extraordinary values in women's tailored wear as have not been matched in Brooklyn within memory. Now, in addition to new groups from some of the best makers in Manhattan, we make sharply lowered prices on some of the fine wear in our own stocks, simply that the light weight hot weather wear may have the room it deserves.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We have never carried such a large stock—we were never so ready with all that is beautiful and wanted in the Women's Garment Section. The savings we are in a position to offer you are such that every economical woman owes it to herself to take advantage of them. Here are garments of quality—of style—perfect in fit—an enormous stock to choose from and prices lower than ever before.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

The autumn suits, coats and skirts. Fashion's latest tendencies are all correctly reflected in this superb gathering of fall frocks. This offering is calculated to attract your attention and demonstrate the superiority of this collection. You'll seek in vain to duplicate these values in these modes.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

Every customer who comes to us for a tailor-made suit or pedestrian skirt or jacket is so delighted at the splendid results we give that they are loud in our praise, and send their friends to us. We guarantee the fit.—Lippincott & Co., Wilmington, Del.

We have instituted a most important clearance sale of tailored suits and dresses for women at extraordinary price reductions. Not merely in isolated instances, not merely a few garments that have failed to find favor, but almost every tailored suit and semi-tailored costume which our label identifies is concerned. A most diversified series of the season's favored models, including long and short coat styles, eton blouse, "frocks and frills," fitted and semi-fitted long coat and semi-tailored waist styles, fashioned of high grade voile, eolienne, Panama cloth, mohair, clay serge, homespun and fancy checks and semi-tailored costumes of taffeta, pongee and rajah silks.—Saks & Co., New York.

There's an uncommonness to the styles being shown by us that is highly pleasing to all who see them—a certain distinguishing character that appeals at once to the tastes of ladies who appreciate styles that are out of the ordinary. The most fanciful effects that one could imagine concerning fine clothes are realized here.—J. E. Sage, Hartford, Conn.

The most powerful arguments ever brought forward in favor of ready-to-wear garments for women are found in the correct styles, beautiful fabrics, good tailoring that characterize the garments in this store. The most critical can find no fault with them—they are the product of men tailors. Through our well-organized corps of fitters the garments are guaranteed perfect fitting as well as it is possible for any tailor to make them to your order.—Lit Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

July is the great go-away month of the year, and also the month that makes those at home really give serious thought to summer dress. How to be stylishly and becomingly garbed and at the same time comfortably cool that's the uppermost thought, whether at home or out of town. Some folks worry about it, but what's the good? Worry and hot weather don't agree. Besides, worry makes wrinkles and gray hair. Come to Gimbel's, all these summer problems in dress have been worked out to a correct solution. For you, it's just choosing, making preference and purse agree, knowing the while that styles are newest and assured, and that you are choosing from Philadelphia's chief assortments of women's waists, suits and summer frocks.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Women's ready-to-wear. Here's the department closest to the affections of every woman—and with the full knowledge that it is to play an important part in the opening every effort has been put forth to collect for the inspection of the women of Washington the season's choicest and daintiest productions—all and everything that fashion approves and popularity demands. The foreign creations vie with the best of the home productions; all meritorious; all the very acme of style and exquisite to the point of elegance.—Hecht's, Washington.

Our immense floor of tailored garments for ladies and misses is a veritable realm of correct spring styles. The new suits, skirts, waists and coats are so distinctive and beautiful this season that every fancy will be favorably responded to here in that admirable manner for which we are so famously known.—Isaac Benesch & Sons, Baltimore, Md.

There is only one reason for making these price reductions on women's waists, suits, skirts and coats. It is late in the season; later for us possibly than for our customers, as there is still plenty of weather to come when the goods may be worn very comfortably. The styles are strictly in accord with the latest fashions. The entire stock has been gone over and prices reduced so low that a clearance must be effected.—The Fair, Chicago.

Lots of things you may need to make you comfortable during your vacation. If you spend the days in the mountains, at the seashore, at a picnic or attend the base ball games, you will find it all the more enjoyable if you prepare for it. Do you need a cool dress, a wash skirt, a new waist or any of those summer necessities that help to make the hot days bearable? You will find what you want here in abundance, marked at special July noise making prices.—James McLean & Sons, York, Pa.

A man who knows told us yesterday we had the finest cloak and suit store in the State. That's all right as far as it goes, but we're after something else—and that's to be the most popular. That's what we're after, and that's what we're going to be. But to do it we must have your help—if you give it, we'll deserve it. Commence now and help us grow.—Robbins & Vetter, Buffalo, N. Y.

Every creation is a work of art, delineating in dainty manner the most approved styles of the day—all made from these soft, sheer materials with a liberal use of lace trimming—and those sheer, cool effects, so dressy and neat—not humdrum styles which no one would want at any price, but waists that bear the earmarks of exclusiveness and clever origination.—Hecht's, Washington, D. C.

Big deluge of ladies' garments. Heavy rain is over, now comes the flood of merchandise. You have heard people say it rained cats and dogs; this sale will be like raining dollars for those who take advantage of our misfortune in having twenty thousand dollars too much stock—cash must be realized.—Pearce's, Minneapolis, Minn.

Lovely shirt waists and shirt waist suits. Look the stock through—you'll not find a garment that hasn't a charming air of distinctive style to it. Not ordinary style, remember—but that chic air, that fascinating dash that the best makes—and only the best makers—can produce in their garments.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

Spring suits and cloaks for women. If distinctiveness and exclusiveness count for anything, then the Saks coat for women is far above the average.—Saks & Company, New York.

This week will be a gala week in our suit and cloak department for the new spring styles will be displayed in all their beauty and variety.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

For a comprehensive and representative exhibit of the new spring apparel, ours is second to none. From the unassuming walking skirt to the sumptuous costume for evening service, there is nothing lacking. Not alone the master efforts of the foreign couturieres, but exquisite copies and adaptations from them are with us in no mean numbers. The following are the creative efforts of our own designers. For originality, design and good taste evinced in the elaboration, they rival many of the imported models. The prices warrant a saving of almost one-third of their actual worth.—Saks & Company, New York.

A broad showing of very elegant tailored suits, skirts, coats and waists for women. Smart creations, best workmanship and refinement of style are the important features of the garments here.—Kaufman's, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Leading specialty cloak, suit, skirt and waist house in the city. Teller & Co. are daily adding the newest Paris, London and Vienna ideas to their already unequalled display of costumes, tailored and semi-tailored gowns, waists, skirts, etc.—Teller & Co., New York.

A masterful exhibition of correct outerwear—a fashion grouping without a peer, and appealing to the discriminating taste of every woman—garments representing the very acme of excellence and fashion, yet strikingly devoid of gaudiness—all creations of America's foremost fashioners whose reputation for careful work is worldwide.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

The tailored garment parlors on the first and third floors present a complete demonstration of fashion's choicest and most approved spring styles in profusion and perfection, but priced economically.—John Anisfield Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Fancy waists and skirts in the new silks, crepe de chene and similar fabrics. Tailored suits, jackets, and skirts of exceptional workmanship, cut and finish. An exhibit characterized by elegance, exclusiveness and economy.—Mahler Bros., New York.

Blossoming before the spring! If the orange groves of the sunny South are calling you, or if new, beautiful, exclusive, not-to-be-duplicated summery dress fabrics interest you on their own account—attend! These are the first choice from the markets of the world. The fairest of the fair—specially chosen for us from among the newest, most attractive patterns made by the leading designers of Switzerland, Great Britain, France and America. They are limited to us—any will never be duplicated even here. Vaster quantities, larger assortment of exquisite stuffs are coming, of course. But this superb earliest collection, this first choice of the world's best, will not be found again.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

The new Spring tailored costumes, suits, jackets, waists, skirts, etc., make their formal bow to-morrow. It will be an occasion ripe with attractions, for every conceivable style—from both foreign and home fashion centers—will be fully represented. The woman of wealth as well as the woman of more moderate means will surely find interest in this most effective display. It bristles with variety.—H. Batterman, Brooklyn.

Bargains galore in women's coats, suits and skirts. A line that we do not care to invoice, so will place them on sale to-morrow at prices that ought to hurry them out. All are of the very latest styles in ready-to-wear garments for winter.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, Mo.

The short wrap has gone. To be correct, the coat must be 40 inches or more in length—must reach well over the hips; half way or all the way to the knee is better. The leg-o'-mutton sleeve is to remain next spring—but modified a little, like the sleeves in these coats that go on sale to-day. Excepting tourists' coats of covert cloth, all wraps must be tight-fitting or semi-fitting in back. Even the staple little covert jacket is out of fashion if 20 or 22 inches long. It must be at least 27 inches long. "Who are you?" asks someone! "Who dares to speak for Fashion and outline her conjurings?" Listen: Season after season we have given Philadelphia the authoritative word of styles. On the 5th of last September we foretold the leg-o'-mutton sleeve—were ridiculed by slower stores, and yet we saw them quickly have their styles adjusted to our standard. No other American store stays so close to Paris. That's the secret.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

The garments we offer are brand new; womanly clothes designed by women—garments of ample, comfortable cut and ladylike make-up. Many of the garments are truly dainty; some again are rigidly plain—intended for you to put on the edging of lace or embroidery. More are of common sense, every-day prettiness. The muslins and cambrics are new—white and durable; not yellowed or tender from age.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

If the tailors could devise better or more attractive fashions we should have them—in other words, fashion's favorites are all here—none missing. Every new material that is worthy, every new style, every popular conception of the tailor artist has been procured and is here now for inspection and purchase if the garment and the price strikes your fancy.—Crow & Whitmarsh, Cleveland, Ohio.

Sales are bounding ahead of all previous records and comment is unanimous that Kaufmann's now more than ever set the pace in women's fashions.—Kaufmann, Pittsburg, Pa.

It requires constant watchfulness to keep in touch with the best styles and kinds, but our long experience in this direction makes the task easy. Knowledge of textures, dyes, linings and threads does not come by chance. What we have learned in years we will give to you with every suit or jacket we sell. When we tell you goods and styles are right you have our practical experience back of our assertion, and behind that is our guarantee.—Joel Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

One need not necessarily pay heavily to keep up in the race of fashion, neither need one pay dearly to secure first class quality. Much worry and money can be saved by coming to our great women's outer garment store when in quest of a stylish coat or gown, for certain you are of never going away disappointed.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg.

Convincing facts.—Being manufacturers of ladies' garments for many years certainly gives us an advantage over other retailers, and in order to prove this fact and induce the ladies of this vicinity to inspect our stock of coats, suits, silk waists and furs, we shall offer the most extraordinary bargains ever shown in New Haven.—The Model.

To-morrow this crowning sale of all periods of the year commences. Strenuous efforts are in force to clear all suits, all skirts, all coats, all capes and all waists immediately. Extensive lines of fashionable spring garments are arriving, and the selling of winter stock is absolutely imperative. The amazing reductions below indicate the overshadowing values and phenomenal savings we shall offer during this greatest occasion for buying garments of foremost fashions and faultless tailoring.—Nathan Gutman & Co., Baltimore, Md.

We have ready to-day the most comprehensive collection of women's dresses and wraps that we have ever brought together, previous to March 15th, in the past. We have been working very hard for months past in preparing for this early presentation. Early as the showing is made, nothing was done until we were absolutely certain that styles were correct, according to the best ideas of designers at home and abroad. The showing will be equally interesting to women who are anxious to secure an early change from their winter wardrobe, and to those who are simply planning for the new season, and are anxious to get an advanced view of coming styles.—Wanamaker, New York.

We are usually well prepared in our collection of tailored wear for women. There is not only the finest gathering at perhaps the smallest prices we have ever had to present, but the handsomest collection that has ever been shown in the borough. The spring designers have never had more scope for artistic work of an attractive character than now, as the revival of the becoming styles of years ago lends itself to very graceful adaptation.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

It's a dry-goods truism, that the faster the selling, the more quickly the "short lots" accumulate. So, among our coats for women, there are, in the aggregate, many handsome, new garments, in but a few of a style, that owe their very paucity of numbers to their desirability. This leads to our establishing to-day, several new price-groups, that offer all sorts of fine new winter coat bargains. They include the most remarkable opportunities to be had in our stocks thus far this season.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

We are determined to make a clean sweep of all this season's garments. Rather than send them to the store room to wait for another season, we have whittled prices down to the thinnest shaving. It means you can save from a fourth to a half on fashionable suits, coats, skirts, fur coats and scarfs and waists. Styles are the favorites of the season.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co.

In purity of fabric, in beauty of patterns and special decoration, in wide range of quality and prices, the new things are calculated to make more converts to our system of linen dealing. Exclusive linen dealing insures distinction. Exclusive linen dealing insures economy.—Grand Maison de Blanc.

Suits, skirts and coats. Particular raiment for particular women. Very nobby garments in this lot for Monday. All bear the Simpson Crawford Co. marks of superb tailoring and superior style. And of course the prices are right, else they would not be advertised.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

All of February and blustering March are still ahead—you have plenty of time to make use of good winter wears this season. We still have many winter things to sell. We need every inch of space for the incoming goods. Consequently, you can buy dependable winter wears at a fraction of former prices.—Halpert & Jacobs, Binghamton, N. Y.

New, newer, newest! Exquisite spring wearing apparel for women keeps crowding into this suit room. Each new arrival, it would seem, is more charming than the last. They are the newest and smartest productions of New York's best tailors and modistes and point the way to this suit room for the latest styles in the fashionable world.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City, Mo.

The first break of dawn in spring tailored fashions for women. Long coats, very long ones, come in suits that seem to have stepped from the needle of the finest custom tailors. From these, preference jumps to the waist-length blouse jackets, girdled into trim sloping waists. Pleats, and shirring at the shoulders to broaden and slope it. Pleats and fullness at the waist. Very full backs on many of the little jackets.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Here is where money can be saved, not by nickels and dimes, but by five, ten and twenty-dollar pieces at a time. Without going into details at this time, we will say that in every grade of ladies' tailored suits, walking skirts and dress skirts; misses' suits, jackets, coats and rain coats there will be found astonishing reductions, some of them approaching the half-price mark. The stock is altogether too large for this time of the year and nothing shall stand in the way of our speedily and materially reducing it. Don't buy a garment till you have seen and priced these we are offering. No obligation to buy simply because you look.—H. C. Capwell Co., Berkeley, Cal.

Rich garments of heavy black cloth, cut in three quarter length and trimmed with narrow braid, little cloth shoulder straps and small silk buttons. The backs are pleated and the lining throughout of a very fine quality black satin. The sleeves are large and finished with a fancy cuff. These are perhaps the most expensive garments in the lot.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

The maker starts on summer garments—we and you get his samples of cloth and velvet suits and coats at nominal prices. It's an opportunity that will begin this morning and probably end before the store closes at 5:30 p. m. Take an elevator to third floor—and wisely be among the early after breakfast visitors.—The Palais Royal, Washington, D. C.

Here's one of the banner bargains, and yet cold type cannot tell half of the good news—you must see the suits—the smart style effect—the exclusive cut—the tout ensemble of each creation to fully appreciate this sale. Don't think there are over a hundred at the price. Correct ideas in the new eton coat and blouse suits—in plain chevots and fancy panamas.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

We are showing the nobbiest suits, covert coats and waists of all descriptions, suitable for any occasion, evening dress, afternoons and mornings, in very latest colorings and designs. We invite inspection where courteous treatment will be tendered to our visitors.—Percy Wolff, Dayton, Ohio.

The first special display of beautiful summer gowns, shirt waists and coats will begin to-morrow. "Smart" is one adjective to describe them; "beautiful" is another, and "low priced" is pre-eminently the word that means most. We have offered beautiful summer materials for many successive seasons, but this house has never put similar garments on its racks at these prices. The most careful and skillful purchasing is responsible for these really unusual values. Don't misunderstand one point—the only cheap thing about these garments is their price.—The Daniels & Fisher Stores Co., Denver, Colo.

Interesting offers in ladies' cloaks, suits, waists, etc., each quotation means a "special value," and "special value" here means a lower price than you can elsewhere find equally good qualities.—Hearn, New York.

An impressive array of garments for women. Notwithstanding the thousands of women who provide their spring and summer garments earlier, May is the greatest month for these purchases. And so we provide lavishly for the tremendous business that comes with the month of flowers. The ripest style ideas are now ready. The unfavored effects are gone. Selection is no longer doubtful. Prices have already reached a lower level all along the line; and there are many special values of extraordinary interest. Wanamaker's stocks are simply unmatched in both beauty and scope; and nowhere else can Wanamaker values be approached.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

How to keep cool and yet look well dressed is a problem that any woman can solve who looks over the Quigley shirt waists, shirt waist suits and their skirts. Diaphanous as moonbeams, yet perfect in taste—they combine comfort and dressiness in a way that you seldom see in ready-to-wear garments.—Quigley, New Haven, Conn.

A rare chance for the careful shopper—a chance to get quality and style, distinction and value at a saving of almost half. There's only one reason strong enough to force such cuts in the prices—we must make room for summer merchandise.—Carson, Pirie Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Women's new spring apparel. Undeniably the greatest variety ever assembled under one roof. Stylish to the last degree, beautiful beyond compare, and priced low enough to sustain our claim:—"The lowest priced store in New York for fine goods."—Ehrich Bros., New York.

Dress for seaside and mountain wear. A selection of white linen gowns and wraps, illustrating the most effective of the season's new designs, and including a number of embroidered garments. Coat suits of heavy linen, plain and embroidered, are shown in redingote, Eton and bolero effects, and dresses and three piece suits of sheer linen, in hand-embroidered styles and with trimmings of English embroidery and lace. Linen paletots, empire and box coats, and for wear with garments of this kind, trimmed hats in various styles. Gloves of kid and silk; and parasols of plain and embroidered white linen, and of colored silk with handles in shades to match.—B. Altman & Co., New York.

Our proud position in the field of women's outer garments is recognized as far east, west, north and south as people come to Los Angeles to buy. This pinnacle of success has been attained through the merit of our merchandise. The spring display which fills this large department is a showing which is a revelation in ready-to-wear apparel. Each individual offering is of special importance to some one—perhaps to you. Every qualification of perfect attire is met here; styles are exclusive, quality highest and the prices unusually low—considering the character of the merchandise.—Coultert Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

It's getting toward the end of the suit and coat selling season but not the end of the wearing season. If you have put off your buying, here are some interesting price reductions.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Those exclusive things that herald the approach of a new season which are always so appreciated by careful dressers, will be found here this week in numbers. Particularly in our ladies' garment department are we more than ever before prepared to supply the wants of the more fastidious dressers—those who demand styles "just a little different." Every express from New York is bringing us the very newest and best productions, not of that city alone, but of Paris as well.—C. Cohn, San Bernardino, Cal.

Sale of tailored suits and jackets. To-day affords an opportunity to secure exceptional bargains in jackets and tailored suits. The values are real and decisive, and the prices are so greatly reduced that the event cannot fail to gain attention from discriminating purchasers.—C. H. Jones Co., Spokane.

Here's the Answer to Your Question. —Just how many women are asking "What shall I wear this spring?" "Where will I get the best values?" The answer is found in this store. Don't believe this statement till you've proved it. Come to the store and ask your questions. We're satisfied that the answers this store will give you will be satisfactory. Important news for suit buyers, one-quarter off ladies' suits.—C. H. Jones Co., Spokane, Wash.

Half price is the fate of the tailored suits to-morrow. Also skirts, raincoats and jackets. No matter how proud and handsome and stylish they may be, they must pay the penalty Monday for happening to be still in stock at this time of the year. There's not a great many of them, but the entire group suffers the severe half-price reduction to-morrow.—The Anderson Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Jackets and Suits at Lowest Prices.—Perhaps it is not for us to say so, but we rather think that we have at present about the nearest to perfect stock of best styles in spring jackets in the city. Indeed, this description might well apply to all the outer garments we are showing. There are few of a style and we know Brooklyn women appreciate exclusiveness. We are particular that our garments shall be right, not only in price, which after all is not the main consideration, but in tailoring, material, fit, etc. All these essentials obtained, then price is important and we take care that our prices are the smallest anywhere.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Some Pronounced Values in Women's Spring Outerwear.—We are ready with admittedly the greatest and most tastefully chosen early spring showing of women's and misses' outerwear in Newark. No pains have been spared in collecting the most exclusive styles. In fact, our whole energy has been concentrated in the grouping of this important display.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Attractive Sale of Women's Waists and Suits.—Not for years has there been a spring season that has brought so many fashionable garments to the fore at the actual cost of the material. We show an astonishing object lesson in proof of this to-morrow.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Tailored Suits and Skirts—Marvelous Values.—A rare opportunity to obtain the new spring styles in tailor made suits and skirts. So good are they and little priced that they will be gathered up like sheaves of wheat before the reaper—the earliest comers have best choosing.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Women's Coats and Suits—the Sales—Last words of the important event and annual clearing sale of cloaks is rapidly nearing its end. Cold weather, yet unbroken, may extend it as makers come to us with half price things, but to-day and for many days to come, lots here are sufficiently large to make the most interesting and economical sort of trading, and the prices are reduced in many instances to “way below cost of the maker.”—Gimbel Brothers, Milwaukee.

We're introducing women's spring suits and clearing out all of the winter coats now. Women in quest of new spring garments will find the coat and suit section teeming with beautiful styles, both plain and elaborate in detail. Women in quest of an end-of-the season bargain in winter garments will find handsome coats priced as low as a sixth of their cost.—Siegel-Cooper Co., Chicago, Ill.

First showing of women's suits, skirts and waists for 1909 at Besten & Langen's. Every woman in Indianapolis will be interested in this early display of the latest modes. We urge our patrons to come and see the new things whether ready to purchase or not.—Besten & Langen, Indianapolis, Ind.

Dame Fashion has sent us her best new ideas. They've come—those new suits, skirts, jackets and waists.

Not merely “new.” Any store can buy new things, but we mean a different kind of newness. Here are the same lovely fashions you will find displayed in the best suit houses of New York. There can be nothing more exclusive than these garments. Our own representatives selected them personally in the East. But you can easily pay more. Our usual reasonable prices will prevail this season. There's such a host of pretty things! Rich dress suits, severely plain, and suits that reflect gay Paris; swell walking costumes of Scotch weaves with the smart new belt effect. And so on and so on. So few alike. So many altogether.—B. B. Henshey, Los Angeles, Cal.

Bright and beautiful—bristling with style—splendidly made with becoming neatness, our fashionable creations in tailored garments are being enthusiastically welcomed by thousands of appreciative women. Right now's the time to make your selections. You have the widest choice in styles and fabrics, and it's easier to be fitted while sizes are plentiful. Besides, you'll have the pleasure of wearing your clothes longer while they are stylish and fully get their worth.—Anisfield's, Cleveland, O.

Have you shared the benefit of this $50,000 purchase of ladies' coats and suits? Proud women wear these suits and coats. They're the very cream of the season's styles—the newest product of the cleverest maker in the land. All the popular styles are here. The most exclusive woman's tailor could not provide handsomer fashions.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Clearance of Suits and Coats.—There is no time to lose. The spring garments demand space at once. Prices have been cut to an extremely low point to effect a most decisive and rapid clearance of every garment made for this season's wear.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

The Center for Feminine Fashions.—Our entire second floor is one magnificent bazaar of the modes of the hour. The exquisite summer attire is here in charming array. Nothing more practical or seasonable can be imagined than the superb line of silk shirt waist suits, which form an important part of this brilliant assembly.—Solomon's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Winter cloaks and suits are going, and going fast. Our low prices tell the reason. We are determined to close out our entire stock quickly! These prices should do the work. You cannot afford to pass us by if you have not made your purchases in these lines.—Lanz.

Costumes for the fashionable wardrobe. Come in a critical mood; you'll depart in a satisfied frame of mind. There isn't a weak link in the chain of values, nor a discordant note in the gamut of style.—S. Carsley Co., Montreal, Can.

Women's fashionable "Wooltex" suits and coats—half price. You know what the materials are; you know what the styles are, and the published prices heretofore being so very much under the ordinary, it's hardly worth while looking further—don't you think? Half price for women's fashionable winter suits and coats. Second floor.—H. A. Meldrum Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

News Notes of Women's Garments.—Woolen waists for March weather. White shirtwaists for milder days, silk petticoats for the spring costume—all have a story to tell to-day that holds interest for every woman.—The Wana-maker Store, New York.

First Fall Fashions.—The eyes of womankind are now looking toward fall—of course, that means fashionwards. The Halpert School of Style is showing the correct style expressions for the new season. Suits for early fall wear is the theme to-day. We won't attempt to describe the garments at this time—but please consider this our general and hearty invitation for you to come in and view the new modes. You are very welcome. The style changes are radical and pleasing—you'll admire the Halpert display—and you're just as welcome to look as to buy at Halpert's.—Halpert & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Coats and Suits.—Sale has been tremendous, but what we want done is not near all done yet.

A rich, rare gathering of the season's most stylish gems—masterpieces from the world's most famous artists are here for your inspection. To-morrow you will see for the first time this season the "strictly correct" interpretations of the season's smartest conceptions.—Bummerfield's, Memphis, Tenn.

Will give money-saving women the best opportunity of the season to-morrow. The odd lots and every winter garment will go, if price will sell them. The suits that are worth as much to you now as they ever were are not worth as much to us, because we want the room for the new spring goods. It's the same way with the other garments. You can save liberally by purchasing here to-morrow. We want to say a final good-bye to the odd lots to-morrow—hence these low prices.—Quigley's, Hartford, Conn.

Beautiful are the new fall styles in our women's ready-to-wear garments. Indeed, during all our years as specialists in women's fine wearing apparel we have never presented a larger—more comprehensive assortment. Styles are so varied—materials, effects so charming that it's a simple matter to find garments particularly suited for every individual taste. Prices, too, are unusually attractive.—Gusky's, Pittsburg.

The smart fall frocks; new outer garments just as chic and modish as artistic designers and expert tailors can turn them out. All of these modes were inspired in Paris, but some were executed here. As of yore, depend upon finding at this store all the late mandates of modistes and tailors renowned for their clear conception of the proper modes.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

Everything is here—why wait? All the best fall and winter styles—all the new fabrics—all the new colors await you here now. Every garment possesses admirable made-to-order features and distinctive style points, instantly recognized by smart dressers. But, best of all, our prices for their lowness are hardly in keeping with the high quality of the garments.—Vance's Cloak House, Columbus, O.

A late and entirely practical creation of Parisian conception, which produces the new stylish blouse straight front and low bust which fashion demands. Nothing else can produce such a stylish blouse effect in waists or dresses. It is indispensable for women of light figure.—Woodward & Lathrop, Washington, D. C.

'Tis let go time for women's winter clothing. Many coats for a third off and less. Women's tailored suits for near half.—McNaughton's, Muncie, Ind.

Thousands of garments to be sold—short and long coats, walking suits, dress skirts and walking skirts, rain coats and evening garments.

Prices must move them all.—Boggs & Buhl, Pittsburg, Pa.

A great bargain in materials and the maker's willingness to make up the lot profitless to keep his force intact between seasons, coupled with the fact that we've marked the garments practically without regard to profit on our part, bring about this, the most important sale of shirt waist suits so far this season.—Bloomingtondale's, New York.

The heavy selling of the past four weeks has quite naturally broken a number of our choicest lines of spring outer-garments, and to-morrow we will name greatly reduced prices to sell every one of the remaining garments. With Easter but a few weeks away, this opportunity to secure one of the season's best styles, at a great reduction, stands unequaled in St. Louis mercantile history, and we expect the biggest day of the season to-morrow.—The May Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Notwithstanding the thousands of women who provide their spring and summer garments earlier, June is the greatest month for these purchases. And so we provide lavishly for the tremendous business that comes with the month of flowers. The ripest style ideas are now ready. The unfavored effects are gone. Selection is no longer doubtful. Prices have already reached a lower level all along the line; and there are many special values of extraordinary interest. Wanamaker stocks are simply unmatched in both beauty and scope; and nowhere else can Wanamaker values be approached. Here is a brief resume of the various groups.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

A Tempting List of Rare Bargains.—The jobbers who placed orders with the manufacturers for these garments "bumped" into a cold, backward season—they found they were "stuck" as were most of the retailers who bought early. It was not the fault of the garments, but the fault of the weather. You can't sell furs in summer or ice cream freezers in winter, neither can you sell summer waists and suits during cold, raw days. Within the last week or ten days we traded our cash for several jobbers' overstocks for about the actual cost of manufacturing. Wholesalers were willing to cut on their profit and lose the profit the manufacturers made, to swing their overstocks into cash. When whole-salers can't sell stuff, then we step in. We buy quick and sell quick—no filling up stocks early for a backward season to tie up—none of that for this store. A flying charge upon leading wholesalers resulted in cash captures totally impossible earlier in the season when other stores were buying.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

It is a rigid rule of this store to close out at the end of each week all the odd garments and discontinued lines left after the week's selling. The styles, colors and materials of these suits are desirable in every way, and while all sizes cannot be had in every style, still every size from 32 to 44 can be had in some style. You will find every price here just as represented, and the opportunity to secure a new suit at less than usual wholesale price should prove a powerful inducement to you.—Barr, St. Louis, Mo.

Beautiful creations of the foremost New York men tailors for women's garments, showing the possibilities of the clever hand of the tailor—the eye of the artist, the inspiration of the graceful designs which are so popular this season. New cutaway suits, Eton suits, corset fitting jacket suits, silk jumper suits, and the 26 inch jaunty Prince Chap suits, exquisitely tailored, lined throughout with silk and satin trimmed plain or fancy with fine silk braids, pretty sleeves, with or without cuffs; skirts plaited in many new ways, made of the newest spring weaves, checks, stripes, broadcloths, voiles and chiffon Panamas in the stylish leather brown, gray, cardinal red, blue and black. At popular prices.—The People's Credit Clothing Co., Zanesville, Ohio.

The credit store has taken particular interest in designing its women's garments this season. The suits, the coats, the skirts, the waists—all will be found in good style, but not of the extreme order. The materials, for instance, have been selected as much for service as for looks, so that they combine the qualities every economical woman needs to look for.—Askin & Marine, Binghamton.

The original number is cut down to considerably less than half. Yet the assortment remains good in every line but two. One is gone altogether. The other has some sizes missing. Whatever you select will not cost more than half price. Many of them go at only a third of the original marking. Come quickly. By to-morrow night some lots will be gone and sizes broken in others.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

To those who realize how seldom such an opportunity to economize as this occurs. An important feature is that these are all new, stylish garments from the country's best manufacturers. No woman who has need of outer garments can afford to risk missing a line of the news that follows—each item tells an impressive story of genuine timely bargains that will be welcomed by the thrifty reader. Besides the following you will find scores of other equally good values here to-morrow.—McKelvey's, Youngstown, O.

There is nothing that could be desired for mourning millinery but what can be found on our counters. A full line of veils and veilings.—I. Chase, Waterbury.

Our full stock not yet in, but a goodly line of fashion's leading designs of tailoring—mostly in the long coat effects that are to be the rage this season. Just in time for wear at the Fair, too. It's a little too chilly for even your warmest summer clothing. Why not come in and try on a suit or two to-day.—Nevius Bros. Co., Trenton, N. J.

The women's hats are made of felt hoods in turban shapes, and are stylishly trimmed with quills and velvet knots; the children's are in Colonial shapes, trimmed with silk braids and pompons; are all good colors and not a hat in the lot but that has sold during the season at $3.00.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles.

For this special surprise Friday we have taken a new lot of smart suit hats; are of French pressed felts and made up in many pretty shapes and styles; nicely trimmed with wings, coque feathers, ribbons and drapes of silk; are all good desirable styles.—Hamburger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

To-morrow and Saturday bring you more values of the extraordinary sort; because we have the finest quality women's apparel that is shown in this city, it doesn't follow that we overlook the lower priced kinds. To the contrary, we have a complete range of the best styles in all grades that are worthy, and for this reason the "Voorhees" Store is acknowledged headquarters for dependable attire for womenkind. Always the newest things—the largest assortments to select from—and values greater at the prices you pay here than the same prices will bring you elsewhere.—H. M. Voorhees & Bro., Trenton, N. J.

The showing of new garments for fall, on our second floor, promises to bring out hundreds of eager buyers to-morrow. The new coats and suits will come in for many favors—and the special values in tailor made suits, reductions that touch one-half of former prices, will create a great buying furor.—Pomeroy & Stewart, Harrisburg, Pa.

The eyes of women are now centered on spring and summer apparel. Our school of style is showing the very latest ideas of the best and foremost designs of Paris, London and New York. Not a day passes but what our already grand display is augmented by the arrival of new designs and novelties in every department. We won't attempt to describe all our bargains at this time—but please consider this our general and hearty invitation for you to come in and view our new goods. You are very welcome. You'll admire the fine display; the styles will please you—the fabrics will please you—and the prices you will find exceptionally interesting.—Au Bon Marche, Montreal, Can.

That great suit sale. Every past record completely eclipsed—dozens of the handsomest and most fashionable productions of the foremost makers and designers at a price that is in every instance far and away below value. Suits in the showing that were never intended to retail for less than double, and from that up to almost three times the price put upon them, during a sale that is without a precedent in the suit-selling history of Peoria. This sale completely upsets every competitive argument and demonstrates more forcibly than ever before that when it comes to genuine, big value giving, Rosenthal's distances all rivalry. Don't defer purchasing—come to-morrow, while assortments still offer boundless opportunities for satisfactory selection. A great many of exclusive style suits that were made expressly for us and that cannot be duplicated outside of this store. There are silk suits in shirt waist, jumper, princess and suspender effects; then there are pretty woollens made in Eton, pony, blouse, semi-fitting and the extremely popular, very new jacket styles; in plain colors, plaids, checks, stripes and in an immense variety of beautiful novelty designs. Prices range $15, $18, $20, $25.—S. Jefferson, Peoria, Ill.

Newest of the new—freshest of the fresh in style—latest autumn samples, right from the road; best of all, from our factory—which means absolutely correct models, superior material and finish. Take these suits to-day at an average of fully one-third below actual worth.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

WOMEN'S READY-TO-WEAR COATS

We have ready this morning another fine offering of spic-span-new coats, from one of our best manufacturers. This model is on the most stylish and graceful lines that the season has brought out. The material is excellent black kersey cloth; the coats are 42 inches long; handsomely tailor-made; with fly front; semi-fitting back, which is belted, and attractively finished with inverted plait; velvet collar; full sleeves, with cuffs; lined throughout with satin. It is the greatest money's worth in a coat that we have offered this season.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good, and sure enough the winds of winter that blew on into spring, while bringing vexation and loss to makers and storekeepers, helped bring these very good values to you. The maker of many of the covert coats, for instance, took the chance, made up the coats and was ready for spring days. Kept waiting too long, however, and yet the longer he waited the more it seemed logical that a day or two would bring temperatures befitting his coats. Then the financial strain proved too much—and the coats came to us at a plump third less than he thought to get. And you pay the same ratio less, in addition to which we have further reduced the prices on our own hook. Most of the items, however, stand for our regular things which we are dismissing because a new deal is soon to come. Figures give the present prices and original valuation—not so very long ago—in our own stock. The contrast is instructive and profitable; and some of the best chances of the season are here.—Schipper & Block, Peoria.

Paris and Berlin costumers never created a garment that supplied the fall and winter needs of the Canadian women better than when they designed the Inverness Coat. It's a solidly practical garment, that is as useful and comforting in wind and weather as it is attractive and becoming on sunshiny days.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Can.

As the spring season advances the popularity of the new style covert jacket becomes more pronounced. They are shown in the various lengths, but the extra long Redingote style is exceedingly fashionable. It approaches the one extreme, while the short, natty jacket approaches the other extreme. Tan covert jackets, 24 and 26 inch lengths, good quality material trimmed with stitched velvet to form a neat collarless effect, fancy velvet cuffs, lined with satin, strictly tailor-made, very stylish and attractive. Call and inspect the assortment.—M. F. Thompson, Binghanton, N. Y.

Coat Prices Suffer.—Although real wintry weather has only just begun, down go the prices of women's and misses' coats. We're not selling below cost. We simply make you a present of the profits that should rightfully belong to us—and they'll make a welcome addition to your Christmas purse.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Stylish Black Coats for Women. Styles for women who are in mourning. Styles for women who like black for business. Styles for women who like nothing better than the elegant black coat. The materials are chevot, broadcloth and silk. They are plainly but elegantly tailored. Special sizes for the short waisted woman.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Another shipment of these fashionable coats received late yesterday afternoon, explains why we can again give you an opportunity of sharing in this marvelous coat bargain. Excellently tailored covert coats in the snappy collarless effect—straps down back and front—the new leg-o'-mutton sleeves—narrow cuffs—made of splendid all-wool covert cloth in the correct tan shade—soft satin lining.—The Famous, St. Louis Mo.

We expected our $25 coat sale to be a success, because we knew it contained that first great element of success—merit. The value was there, and we knew Chicago women would quickly recognize it—which they did, even beyond the limit of our expectations. In fact, the success of this sale has been of such magnitude that through sheer force of circumstance we feel compelled to continue it for another week.—Man-del Bros., Chicago, Ill.

As you glance over the items that are offered in women's coats for to-day, you can't help but be impressed with the almost ridiculous price reductions. So deep are the "cuts" you naturally ask, what is wrong with the coats?—not one single thing. Every new style feature of this season is represented, the coats are all made and finished up-to-date, and they fit perfectly. But our time for selling such coats is very short—although there are two full months of service in them. This will explain the seeming reckless way the reductions have been made for to-day.—Rike's, Dayton, Ohio.

These coats are spic-span-new, just from the hands of the manufacturer, and placed on sale for the first time this morning at this remarkably low price—$13.50 each.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

This news of women's coats is both climatic and climacteric. It is weather wise—no offering could be apter for winter days—and the prices have now been shoved down to the bottom limit. There shall be no further reductions on these garments, as the figures that follow will undoubtedly carry them out of the store.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

If a diamond of faultless worth were offered to you at a lessened price you would buy if you could and you would not regret the bargain. That's the story that best fits these bargains in tourist coats. Smart tailor-made suits for women and misses. Garments that combine smartness of style, cleverness of design and small expense. That's a rare combination, but you'll find plenty of evidence of it here. Will you come, see and judge?—Halpert & Jacobs, Binghamton, N. Y.

Entire stock of this season's stylish coats reduced. This season's stock of handsome imported coats for women and children will be offered to-morrow at great price reductions. The sale offers the opportunity of the best selection from the largest and most satisfying assortment we've ever shown. Every coat in the house is involved, including all the latest and best styles the season has brought forward. Many are marked to nearly half price in order to effect a quick and absolute clearance.—Thomas C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Women's fur lined coats and near seal jackets. Greatest values offered this year. Do not put off another day buying your fur jacket or coat, especially with such an opportunity as this is.

It is not accident or mere chance that brings these remarkable bargains we have been offering this season. It is the fact that we do such a splendid business that every maker is glad to contribute to our values when the chance offers just to be represented in this store. Only absolutely reliable furs are permitted to appear here, and so only the most reliable makers are attracted.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women's tweed tourist coats. Our selling of these popular coats this season has been a most surprising success. Impossible to keep a full line of sizes long. There is a reason, of course. Our factories supply us with an extensive variety of distinctive and exclusive styles—so different from the commonplace. Then, for such stylish coats, Eaton prices are lowest consistent with the high grade materials and workmanship. Another shipment of twenty new styles to select from to-morrow.—T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

These $6.50 to $15.00 smart tourist coats at $5.00. Never such selling as we have had in these stylish coats this season. Our greatest difficulty has been to keep a complete range of sizes and styles on the racks. The almost continuous arrival of new styles from our factories has kept selections replenished—but odd coats were bound to accumulate. Among these handsome coats many of our most popular styles are represented.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

Heavy reductions on fawn coats. Splendid models in dressy fawn coats, imported from Europe. They are ideal garments for driving or to wear at the races. Made of fine ladies' cloth and broadcloth, in light fawn shades, trimmed with silk braid and embroidery effects; chic, charming models that look exceedingly smart. They come within the scope of this all-embracing June sale, and prices have been heavily reduced for to-morrow.—Jas. A. Ogilvy & Sons, Montreal, Can.

Jackets for once in a while.—Every day now we have calls for coats and jackets "to wear just once in a while, in this season of cool mornings and evenings." The want is particularly felt by those customers who are starting for watering places and mountain resorts. By buying at "Burke's" it is quite unnecessary to pay very much for the desired garments. Many different varieties—sizes for women and children—and qualities that wear splendidly.—Burke, Fitzsimons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

A clever designer has conjured up a smart conceit in coats—and it is quite “the rage” in Greater Gotham. The graceful length of line and curve gives an artistic charm to these modish long coats, and is one secret of their popularity. Another is their extreme practicability. Still another is the moderate prices we are asking for them.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

Distinctive house coats and dressing gowns. Our various lines of these handsome house garments have been lately reinforced to meet the demands of holiday shopping. Styles both simple and elaborate with a refinement and distinctiveness that will at once commend them to men of particular tastes in dress. Acceptable Christmas gifts—very.—The T. Eaton Co., Ltd., Winnipeg, Can.

Jackets for Fall Wear.—If you do not mind the fact that they are this spring's jackets you can save considerable money. There is but little difference, if any, between them and the newest autumn styles; but there's a difference in price. We've marked them all at less than cost, and at the figures quoted Monday you certainly should have one.—The Fair, Chicago, Ill.

We have just received a number of handsome coats in winter weights, which we will sell at prices that will prove a pleasant surprise. They are all made of good qualities in the newest styles, and only the best workmanship goes into them.—Lit Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Women's motor coats. All the pleasure of motoring is lost if you are worried about the damage being done to your clothing. Why not prepare yourself ahead of time and get a coat that no matter whether a cloud of dust or a shower of rain strikes you, you are protected, and at the same time you are stylishly dressed, and at a moderate cost. Full length, double breasted coat of rubberized mohair, in gray, buttons high at the neck, with a dust collar, have patch pockets and are perforated under the arms also. Full length coats of rubberized cloth of gold, in pearl and fawn colors. Double breasted box front, loose ripple back, dust collar and patch pockets.—Lippincott & Co., Wilmington, Del.

Absolute clearing of womens' and misses' coats. At no other time of the entire year can high-grade winter coats be bought at such great price reductions as we are now offering on all broken lines of high-class coats for women and misses. There can be nothing but loss to us in such sharp reductions as these, but these sales are a necessary adjunct to good storekeeping.—The MacDougall & Southwick Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Remarkable price concessions on 200 handsome new suits. The anniversary sale gives no more emphatic demonstration of the merchandising strength of this store's organization than is furnished by this sale of fashionable new tailored suits. Of the two hundred offered about a hundred and fifty are show-room samples from two of the best houses in New York. The other fifty are selected styles taken from regular stock to further increase the value of the offering. The styles include practically all the most popular fashionable effects. The newest Directoire coat, the latest French blouse, the poneyette, the Prince Chap and the Eton blouse. The materials are velours, velvets, broadcloths, cheviots, unfinished worsteds and fancy men's wear, worsteds in plain shades, fancy effects and plaids in both bright and subdued tones. A slight charge will be made for alterations.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Covert Cloth Coats.—They have followed the fashion that has run away with the suits and come out in very long tailored models, strapped and stitched most beautifully, with seams where seams were never before. The right shades and the right lengths in tan are here.—The Bon Ton, Altoona.

Women's Rain-coats. What you want to keep you dry if you are sailing on a rough day with the waves splashing over the gunwale. What you need to get the best of fogs and mists down on the beach or the pier. What you want to take automobiling in case of sudden showers.—Wanamakers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Ladies' winter coats at fabulous price reductions to close out. Disregarding cost, forgetful of their intrinsic value, closing our eyes to their elegance and high desirability, we shall absolutely sell these garments to-morrow at the prices advertised—grander and greater bargains were never offered.—Siegel & Cooper, Chicago, Ill.

“The store on the corner” does things—often without telling it—but here's a few things we'll tell about; Silk jackets. We like to tell interesting things, and nothing is so interesting as news that saves money. Every woman, who wants a black silk jacket, should know this news, it's worth while coming to examine such values.—The Williams & Rodgers Co., Cleveland, O.

Sweeping price reductions on women's imported winter coats. To-morrow begins an unusual selling event—one of the greatest in our history—a great price reduction sale of handsome imported winter coats for women. Hundreds go on sale for the first time at sweeping reductions. With the four coldest months of winter ahead of you this great timely money saving sale event presents an opportunity of economizing to a marked degree. Such drastic price cutting coming just at need time will bring throngs of eager buyers, and the sale well merits it. Only an immense business like The Right House can attempt such radical reductions so early in the season. We want you to investigate these exceptional offerings, knowing full well that you will declare it the greatest and best coat sale you ever heard of. The price cutting runs like this.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Can you use a cloak if the price is right? Of course, our line is badly broken, but we are anxious to close out every cloak in stock. If you will need a cloak this winter or next, it will pay you to see our line and get our prices.—Lucey & Bros., Ottawa, Ill.

The Best Display of Women's Coats.—The general comment made on our display of women's spring coats is that in every way it eclipses any showing ever made in this department. The variety is so great and the range of prices so comprehensive that we can satisfy any taste or any purse, and besides in this section and the women's suit section we are offering some special values that cannot possibly be duplicated elsewhere at our very low prices.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sale of Ladies' Jackets.—Honestly, the linings and trimmings on these jackets would cost more than we offer the ready-to-wear garments at this week.—The Waschauer Store, Madison, Ill.

Women's Coats for Half.—We don't expect to have any of them left at all by to-night with this weather and your interest in this sort of coats. They'll go like hot cakes! There are various styles, perhaps twenty-five, and all different. Kersey, venetian, cheviot and broadcloth and a few longer coats of Oxford gray mixed. Some that we carried over from last winter, which accounts for the prices.—Partridge & Richardson, Philadelphia, Pa.

Coats Must Move.—A fact well known is that we never carry cloaks from one season to the other. If one price does not move them down it goes still lower —but go they must. All cloaks priced with the object of disposing of them quickly.—Geo. L. Fordyce & Co., Youngstown, Ohio.

Do you need a coat? If you've a need of a winter coat you can fill your want here just now at a big saving. The semi-annual clearing sale which is in progress here now offers splendid values for a very small outlay.—O. M. Co., Portland, Ore.

Here is absolutely the most magnificent selection of ladies' winter coats we have yet had the opportunity to offer. Our Salon contains the choicest efforts that the Sartorial artists of Europe could evolve, fascinating in their exclusive and graceful elegance. These garments, manufactured from the highest quality materials and finished with characteristically exquisite care, are offered at prices unapproachable for economy.—The S. Carsley Co., Montreal, Can.

Cloak Department.—In the midst of winter we are making prices on cloaks that would be considered sensational in the month of March, when retail stocks are being closed out.—The Bee Hive, Kansas City, Mo.

This is what is commonly (and appropriately) called a "mannish" season. Every mode in women's apparel—every weave and material—is patterned after the fabrics and style used in framing men's clothes. It is not only a "mannish" season, but sort of a distinctive season. Coats, for instance, they are extra full, fit loosely; the materials are rough, coarse weaves. But there is style to these garments; they are different, they become any figure.—Askin & Marine, Binghamton, N. Y.

Your money never commanded so much in the way of coats, the reason is not hard to find. We're after the coat trade. Show styles and varieties enough to please any fancy. Everything that's new is here at prices that will not impoverish your purse.—Wolf's, Boston.

The Short Covert and Black Coats are in demand every minute that the store is open these days. The first thing in the morning, and the last thing at night, the racks that hold them are busy centers of the store. They are coats of day-in-and-day-out service, and they are made in such smart styles this fall that every woman seems to be in a hurry to secure one.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Ladies' covert cloth jackets. All the rage this season and one of the dressiest styles that ever came at fashion's behest.—Kline Bros., Altoona, Pa.

WOMEN'S READY-TO-WEAR SUITS

Women's suits of novelty cottons, $10. The jackets are little coatees—loose, cool and comfortable, and open enough to show the thin blouses which should be worn underneath them.

Early Fall Walking Suits. Light enough for now; heavy enough for wear right up to snow time. The long, sweeping lines in the coat are copied from exclusive Parisian models, not yet seen in America outside our own designing rooms.—Quigley's, New Haven.

A glimpse of the coming season's styles. New fall walking suits for $15.—Last week our coat and suit section was the center of interest for Chicago women who wanted to gain their first impression of the coming styles, and this week we are quoting the smartest of the new modes at prices actually lower than you would expect to pay in December.

Reason for this is our way of planning ahead. We kept in touch with Paris, saw months ago what the correct styles were going to be, secured an advance production of the approved suiting goods, and had them made up at a special price by a first class maker.

Women who appreciate exclusiveness will be delighted at this early offering, for first garments frequently possess charming style features not duplicated later.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

The new fall tailor made suits. It may be a little early to talk tailor made suits, but, then, you'll certainly want to know what Dame Fashion has decided upon for fall wear.

This whimsical goddess was rather reluctant to choose this year, and almost every designer in America and continental Europe sought to court her favor by some special creation.

That's one reason why there will be a half-dozen styles this year; but to be smartly dressed and strictly in accordance with fashion's decree, you must wear a tailor made suit with a long, tight-fitting coat.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Now that you have made all your friends happy, let your judgment make a gift to your appearance and to your purse. The list below tells how. For never were such stylish, handsome, beautifully made, faultlessly tailored suits sold at prices more decidedly in your favor.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Fifty dozen tailor-made, figured, pique shirt waist suits like the picture, at $2.98 a suit. The first real hot day you will be glad of a suit like this to put on.—S. Kane Sons & Co., Washington, D. C.

The fall suits for ladies are strikingly handsome this year, no previous season ever offering such delightful variety of smart styles. Our splendid new stock is so large and so varied that dozens of becoming modes can be found for every style of figure.—J. L. Brandeis & Sons, Omaha, Neb.

New York's finest showing of women's tailored suits. Last year in May we did such tremendous selling in women's costumes and wraps that we thought we had set a mark that would be hard to equal again, for the weather and so many things favored that particular month. But splendid as the record was, the first half of the present month has eclipsed the same period last year. But ordinary merchandising could not accomplish this result. We have been working with manufacturers, planning new models for dresses, bringing out new styles, showing the possibilities of fabrics that were not realized by others and securing prices that are unmatched for lowness anywhere else. It has not been a mere dragging of the market for bargain lots, for these splendid values have been on newly designed and newly tailored garments, fresh from the best manufacturers in the country. This unusual effort and extraordinary accomplishment has been appreciated by New York women. That is why the results have been so handsome. To-day, instead of winding up many of the spring stocks, we are presenting beautiful new models in women's tailored suits that are especially designed for summer wear. They have all the smart, stylish character of women's tailored dresses, and are made of cool, light-weight and light-colored homespuns that exactly suit the warmer season. The suits are made up in three models, entirely new in designs.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Of the more than two hundred different styles for women, there aren't a dozen styles in which there are more than four suits alike! That means variety, and on top of that safety—you'll not run into your suit at parties!—Blum Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

$45 tailored suits, $25. They include rich fancy and mannish mixtures in light, dark and medium effects. Also a few chevots and homespuns. They are made in the newest styles—have just been finished, in fact. Coats, the newest, popular 36-inch length, with semi-fitted fly front and back, lapped seams, full coat sleeve with shirred top, detachable white pique collar and cuffs and lining of specially good taffeta silk. Skirt, 13 gored with slot seam front gore, inverted plait back, lapped seams, falling in full side plaits. Inside seams are bound and the whole suit strictly tailored.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Suits, models of finished elegance for spring and summer. This will be remembered as one of the most forceful offerings of spring suits of the season of 1909—combining three most stylish creations of the season at a single price, not exceeding half what the exclusive modiste would risk. Their elegance will appeal strongly to you.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

To be in the social swim a lady must have a Martin tailored suit. They need not be expensive. We'll tailor them, give them that exclusive style and swing desired by good dressers, at about one-half less than other first class tailors. We are prepared to offer you a genuine surprise, both in quality and style. Call and see for yourself.—Martin Bros., Columbus, O.

Suits and jackets are best bought when bought here.—It is easily seen that all the women of Newark don't buy their suits and jackets here. Observe the fit of many of the garments you see on Broad street almost every day. And note the appearance of the goods after they have been worn only a short while. Yet it is easy to get good fitting garments these days. We have little difficulty fitting our patrons—and we have the most particular people in town to serve. Trouble is with most stores, they sacrifice perfection of fit a short while. Yet it is easy to get just as much as we ask without paying as much for their goods. They count us foolish for paying for good tailoring and for trustworthy materials. But knowing folks are not to be hoodwinked. They know we sell high grade stuff at moderate cost.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

To suit every fancy—suits particular women will want to wear now. Moderately priced.—The People's Store Co., Tacoma, Wash.

From now on until snow flies a woman can wear a stylish tailor-made suit, with no added wrap but perchance a fur collar, with perfect comfort. Foreign and domestic makers alike have done their best in providing rich variety in styles as well as fabrics.—The Plymouth Clothing House, Minneapolis, Minn.

Elaborate showings of the new autumn modes.—More charming effects have never been attained in tailor-made suits. The graceful lines, the many new materials and the marked tendency for even better workmanship give assurance of higher standards of values. Fashion demands the most careful consideration of every little detail in the making of tailored garments this season. These minor details, though seemingly small in themselves, are often the secret of the perfect fitting garment. In the A. L. & S. suit you may rest assured that particular attention has been given to every one—as near perfection as the best tailors can produce.—A. Livingston & Sons, Bloomington, Ill.

Women who dress the best don't wait until the needs of the season become urgent. It's too late then to get the preferred range of styles. Those who buy their fall suits now have the right perspective—just far enough away from autumn to escape hurried choosing—near enough to pick the leading ideas.—Perlmutter's, Jersey City, N. J.

There is a great deal of character to this fall's fashions in ladies' suits. Newer fabrics and more novel designs than have been shown in former seasons. Originality in cut and tailoring is more apparent.—Case, Gravelle & Ervin Co., Anaconda, Mont.

New walking suits for women.—The Gimbel fashions—Exclusive—The new fashions are unfolding quickly—the tweeds, the chevots and stuffs of this sort, soberly mixed in black, brown or blue, are exactly like men's suiting. There are hundreds of the most fashionable things ready. They are well cut, not the saggy sort—just such suits as you want for traveling, for shopping, for walking and even golfing. There has never been such a variety of styles shown so early—hundreds of them, each different. They are meeting with the right sort of reception—hundreds sold daily.—Gimbel Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

Most of the suits are fresh from our workrooms—made from silks bought for this season's wear, and in many cases not serviceable for fall. We could hold the materials for next year—but who knows just what the styles will be? So we are satisfied to get about cost of the materials, and we're sure you'll be satisfied to get a stylish dress at one-half or one-third regular price.—Blum Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

We have taken all our broken lines of suits and marked them at a price to close them out speedily. There are all sizes in some styles, and all styles in some sizes—coat, jacket or blouse suits, with dress or walking skirts. There are all kinds of good cloth—zibelines, cheviots, serges, Scotch mixtures, with all kinds of trimmings. You can't fail to find something to suit you at $15.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

Such a cute, impudent air about these suits, there is a certain air of impudence that always pleases. We have the cleverest tailored suits for you at $12.50, which just beam with that pert, catchy style—call it impudence if you choose. Made to fit and to be admired. They lend a graceful charm to a woman's figure.—Hales, Los Angeles, Cal.

Elegance in Women's Fall Suits.—Daily arrivals are making our women's section, on the second floor, more and more attractive. The styles are so varied and there are so many new materials and effects that the finding of a style to suit each individual taste is surprisingly simple.—The Plymouth Clothing House, Minneapolis, Minn.

The fall suits and skirts are rapidly arriving.—Boston Store, Mansfield, O.

We cite a few reasons why you should select your new fall and winter suit from our stock: First, because our "tailor-made" fit so perfectly; second, because the styles are exactly what fashion decrees; third, because the tailoring is so faultless; fourth, because there's such an entrancing variety; fifth, because each garment possesses a style that makes it conspicuous for elegance; and last, but not least, because we can do best for you from a money saving standpoint.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Possibly there are not over a hundred and fifty of these stylish long coat cheviot suits, but they are such a handsome, worthy hundred and fifty that we would like the most appreciative hundred and fifty women to get them. They are good fortune to anyone—tailored in a first-class manner, and beautifully finished. 42-inch loose coat, pleated down centre back and double-breasted, with half belt across back. Surplice collar of velvet, trimmed with silk braid; full gathered top sleeve with turn cuff and lined throughout with guaranteed satin; shapely pleated walking skirts, double stitched down seams.—Snellenburg, Philadelphia, Pa.

Five hundred new suits at wholesale prices. The woman who happens to read this advertisement, and needs a summer suit, should consider herself fortunate, especially if she has the money to take an opportunity on the wing. This morning we placed on sale 500 spring suits of exceptional value. The prices are $10, $12 and $15. We bought them of the Eastern manufacturer, who for a number of years has sent us his surplus stock. We got them at a low price—we consider the goods almost equal to our own product, and we sell them alongside our own make and include our usual ironclad guarantee. Not one of these suits should be here by Saturday night. Come early and enjoy selecting your suit from the large assortment.—Wm. Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Charming Styles in Tailored Suits.—The best efforts of skilled, competent tailors are being constantly employed to attain the greatest possible perfection in our clothing for women. Every garment may be rightly termed "hand made," and largely the work of one man. This assures an individuality which is usually confined to made-to-order suits.—B. Lowenstein & Bros., Memphis.

Stylish Suits for Women.—Two important groups—tailor-made and pedestrian suits. Popular favor seesaws between the two. Whether your preference is for the walking suit, with its practical, but good-looking skirt—longer than last season's—or for the generally appropriate tailor-made suit, the Wanamaker fall stock offers you almost infinite room for selection. From the splendid gathering now here, we pick three of each for further description. And the very low prices indicate the trend throughout the stock.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Fancy flake novelty—whether you choose the blue, brown or gray—is so pretty you simply can't help calling these suits of the material dashing. The jacket is the new model box effect, double-breasted and half belt across back; flat velvet collar and cuffs stitched and braid trimmed; taffeta lined. The nine-gore skirt is kilted and, of course, walking length.—Snellenburg's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The more we urge you to come and see the creations in tailor-made suits the more enthusiastic we become. The styles are so varied and there are so many new materials and effects that the finding of a style particularly suited for every individual style figure is a very simple matter. It is no wonder that the fashionable dressers of to-day are depending more and more upon the leading styles stores for their clever things in preference to the individual designer. It stands to reason that the opportunity of selecting from the cleverest ideas brought out by several hundred celebrated designers is better than accepting the styles offered from one. Besides, in buying a fine costume you must not overlook the advantages of being able to try on any number of effects. It enables you to select the one most becoming to you, which is often very different from what you originally thought you would like, and just think of the difference in the cost. Just take the suits we sell for $25 or $30—do you think that a tailor can produce them for the same price? You will pay at least half as much again and if the tailor has a reputation, double and treble the amount.—The Parisian Cloak Co., Columbus, O.

A big purchase of two hundred women's suits offered about half regular prices, special sale for Monday only. The assortment consists of cheviots, broadcloths, voiles and mixtures. These suits are made of the finest materials and trimmings—some only one of a kind—a few others in regular sizes.—H. O'Neill & Co., New York.

There may be some details of fall and winter fashions open to doubt, but here are two models that are absolutely correct in every detail—suits that have fashion's seal of approval. Exclusive creations with swagger touches of newness.—Geo. B. Peck Dry Goods Co., Kansas City.

The walking suit's the thing.—No doubt about it—first place among the street dresses for women's autumn wear belongs to the new walking suits. Every other type, including the moderately priced tailor-made suit, falls to the rear. And these walking suits are new, in almost every particular. Jackets are nominally in blouse, Eton and Norfolk effects, but the details have changed. Strappings on skirts and jackets are used liberally. Skirts flare more than ever, and show many different effects of kilting, plaiting, gores and yokes. As to materials—there's a distinctly mannish tinge about them. Rough novelty effects are very popular.—John Wanamaker's, New York.

Elegance and style find delightful expression in our women's new suits. Marvelous and impressive is the creative genius of the French designers. Every year they send us strikingly new and original styles that seem to be the very acme of perfection, and to leave no room for improvement. Yet this season their work is immeasurably ahead of last year. While they are constantly evolving something that is distinctively new and different from what you have seen before, they never lose sight of that exquisite harmony and beauty that appeals most strongly even to the casual observer. The new French walking suits we show to-morrow are marvels of beauty, yet comfort and durability are present in their most pleasing form. We will also exhibit to-morrow a number magnificent coats and carriage wraps in styles that are certain to command the admiration of all who love the truly beautiful and artistic. Remember, too. The Connell suits are exclusive in style, no two alike, thus avoiding that mediocre monotony which is so distasteful to lovers of the artistic in dress.—The Connell Store, Butte, Mont.

Just received—advance fall styles in strictly man-tailored long-coat walking suits. Made of Scotch mixture man's cloth—coat lined with satin. By a special arrangement with one of the leading manufacturers in the country, who wants to keep his factory running through the dull summer months, we are able to quote the very low price of $25. Later on these same suits will bring $35. For traveling wear these are just the right thing.—M. Philipsmorn & Co., Washington, D. C.

Women who dress the best don't wait until the needs of the season become urgent. It's too late then to get the preferred range of styles. Those who buy their fall suits now have the right perspective—just far enough away from autumn to escape hurried choosing—near enough to pick the leading ideas.—Schlesinger & Meyer, Chicago, Ill.

Rarely exclusive in rich design and best quality materials. Fine exclusive suits.—Graham, Tacoma, Wash.

Charming, striking, stunning. Call them what we will, we can't begin to describe the dash and beauty of our new spring suits. But the price will please you most—absolutely the very lowest.—Rosenbaum Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

A wonderful sale of women's suits! A sale such as you would expect at the end of the season rather than at the beginning—values which must surprise you—all due to a manufacturer's desire to unload his reserve stock and samples.—Ehrich Bros., New York, N. Y.

Their first clearance sale of women's and misses' tailored suits. This is a most important sale because the assortment is complete, the styles of the latest cut, the colors desirable, the materials of standard quality, the linings of fine grade—and made by the best man-tailors.—Hackett, Carhart & Co., New York.

You have but to glance at our Suit Department to realize that never before has such an elaborate assortment of new stylish suits been offered for your selection. Every day brings new styles for you to choose from. Every suit that goes out from here is a living advertisement of the popularity of this section.—Dinet, Nachbaur & Co., Joliet, Ill.

The London redingote suits, with coat that almost tips the skirt hem; the pad-dock, more severe but long and fine; and the loose half-fitted tourist suits—this summary, in a word, sounds preference among the best styles and best dressers. Even short figures that steered clear of anything but a waist-length coat have taken to knee-length suits. Little wonder, for the effect is good. Makers have sent in hosts of new things. The stocks have not been so thoroughly complete this year as they are this morning.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Women's walking suits, made of a very fine grade of cheviot in black, blue, and brown. The coats are 27 inches long in double-breasted collarless effect, with fitted back and smartly trimmed with velvet and braid in various designs. It is lined with a heavy grade of black satin. The skirts are nine and eleven gore, wide flaring, high kilted and panel effects, inverted plait back. Our Monday price $11.98. You will find this equal to any $16.00 suit.—The Fourteenth Street Store, New York, N. Y.

Faultless fitting tailored suits. The low pricing of tasty and refined garments. A special feature in this department.—Eug. Vatet, Muncie, Ind.

Here in the tailored suit section is a collection of suits not only enormous in extent, but well hinged together by an ingenious gradation of style and price. It comprehends the modest and the luxurious, the suit of utility and the suit of beauty—and every grade between the two extremes.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

If you appreciate quality and style you can not afford to make your autumn selection until you have seen the Parisian's new fall suits. We have them in the most advanced ideas, and can fit any woman with a garment that will most become her figure. Our prices will satisfy the most economical buyers.—Parisian Cloak and Suit House, Spokane.

Five hundred distinct styles in Ladies' Tailored Suits, in the newest light and medium weight weaves, trimmed in exceedingly smart and becoming fashions.—Bry's, Memphis, Tenn.

The styles of these practical fall and winter suits are making them more universally popular every day. They are so designed as to be adaptable to street and house wear. The several numbers which have just been added are in response to the increasing demand.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

The natural color of tweed is brown and tan—but since the stuff made such a bound into favor and all colors were wanted, little notes of green, gray, olive, red and blue have been introduced, until tweed can be had in almost any color desired. Two especially good tweed suits for women, that we are selling for $16.50 and $18, come in the gray and brown mixtures.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Special selling of suits at clearing out prices. If you see the goods you can hardly credit the prices. You can own any of these fine tailor-made garments if you're only half ready to snatch opportunities. We do not want to carry them over. We would rather have you carry them away. These prices will see the last of them for us.—Goldsmith's, Scranton, Pa.

Interesting prices on women's new spring suits. Winsome spring styles now have full sway on the women's floor—everywhere you see the sparkle of freshness—and each day brings its complement to the already very extensive display.—Kaufmann's, Pittsburg, Pa.

Women's tailored wear. Great news. Such a brilliant gathering of tailored wear for women as Brooklyn has never seen before—but never before were the tailored suits so elegant, so near, in effect, to dresses. And for to-morrow two groups of beautiful suits actually less in price than they can be made for to-day. It is an occasion of more than ordinary interest to every woman who is planning the purchase of a new Spring suit.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The policy of our suit department has always been to carry absolutely nothing over from one season to another. Prices have been reduced to effect this end. In pursuance of this method we begin a clearing to-morrow, with the finest lot of suits ever offered at the price.—Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.

Great Price Advantages in Women's Tailored Suits.—In effecting these styles, fashion has not only employed all of the season's modish fabrics, but has made some very striking departures in the lines of the garments.—B. Lowenstein Brothers, Memphis, Tenn.

At the end of every season we say we don't carry goods over from season to season, and as nearly as we can keep this rule. So, every colored suit in the house has been slashingly reduced. It is your time for wearing them; and it is our time to reduce the price—though it has been done earlier than usual (to make more room for Christmas). Every suit in the various lots has been made in fashionable, late styles. Some of them are lined throughout with silk; most of them have only the jacket silk lined.—Schipper & Block, Peoria, Ill.

The new suits arrived Saturday. We know a good many people have been waiting for these same suits, so we take this means of announcing their arrival. They are from the foremost New York makers of ladies' tailored suits, and represent the choicest ideas of the season.—Saginaw Dry Goods & Carpet Co., Saginaw, Mich.

Suits Bought by Us for Half Price Are Selling That Way Now.—There's a wonderful choice in this assortment of suits. Only three prices, but each price is as low as such suits ever sold for this early in the season. We bought 350 women's spring suits from the very best makers in this country. We paid just half regular wholesale price for them. We have them marked just half regular retail price. We sold many of them on Saturday, Monday and to-day. We should sell more to-morrow, because those who bought will be sending their friends here.—Jones Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, Mo.

The New Silk and Voile Tailored Suits.—The new ideas we are now displaying in these practical, handsome silk suits have already attained a popularity which promises to carry them throughout the summer season. Since their first introduction here our facilities have been taxed to their utmost to supply the heavy demand.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Chic and clever suits for women at a fraction of their former prices. Tremendous selling for the past few days has left a great big hole in this department. Our 25 per cent. discount sale of last week took the town by storm. The public came, saw and was conquered. Couldn't resist the temptation, don't you know! As one lovely young matron, while selecting a suit, said: "I really have all the suits and dresses I want, but it would be a pity to let such a bargain go by." There are still quite a few handsome ready-to-wears to be seen on the second floor. These, too, must go to the very last one. Do you remember what we said in our "heart-to-heart talk" of last Sunday's ad.? Let's repeat: "We are determined to close out the entire stock, as it is not in harmony with our principle to carry anything over from one season to another." Our heart and mind are set on it.—A. S. Knowles Dry Goods Co., Montgomery, Ala.

Suits! What a sale of women's suits we are having upon the second floor! The very latest styles. "Different" from those you would expect, in a sale at this time of the year. Suits we had to telegraph for to fill the gap made by the greatest call for suits we've ever had. Every one new. Not one that's been in the store over a week. Women appreciated the opportunity to-day; we want others to appreciate it to-morrow. It's not a sale of old styles, but of brand new suits. We can't impress that fact too strongly.—Hale's, Sacramento.

Stunning new modes in spring suits. Women's and misses' suits—Stevens' exclusive ideas our new and exclusive models for spring in women's and misses' tailored suits and costumes will be on exhibit to-morrow. The best American designers will be represented with their finest creations, embodying the very latest and newest of the best foreign ideas. Very noticeable will be the decided changes from the prevailing styles of previous seasons, and the many original and pleasing style innovations that have come to take their place. Every effort has evidently been with the determination to bring about a decided change and the result has been pleasing—that's enough.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Women's New Fifteen Dollar Suits at $8.75.—Here is rare good Saturday news for sixty women who want a smart new suit for early spring wear, at an unusually little price.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

The Woman's Store. High-class spring novelties in blouse suits, double-breasted reefer suits, fly-front reefer suits—in such fashionable and fetching fabrics as etamine-cheviots, etamines, broadcloths, Venetians, cheviots and ladies' cloth. These beautiful costumes are entirely new—radically different from the styles that have gone before—and just a bit more charming—more becoming—and more attractive than anything yet devised by Dame Fashion for feminine wear.—Wm. H. McKnew, Washington.

A Great Sale of Sample Suits at One-half, One-third and One-quarter Off.—Sample lines of women's suits from the largest and finest New York makers; styles those that are all the rage now—the prettiest developments this spring. Pretty blouses, trim Etons, smart short coats, tailored jacket suits. Materials used are novelty cloths, tweed mixtures, voiles, Panama cloths, cheviots and broadcloths. The skirts are the newest full flowing effects, in instep and dress lengths; every suit is lined with silk or satin, handsomely trimmed and well made. Being sample suits, there are only one, two or three of a kind, which assures you of exclusiveness. We alter these and fit them to you free of charge, and guarantee an absolute fit. Every suit has that "made to order" look which only the finest men tailors can produce. You must realize that this is the best news you have read for a long time.—Boston Store, Milwaukee.

Sample linen walking suits. Here's real good fortune for fifty women who wear size thirty-six. So great is the demand for linen suits that the manufacturers can scarcely turn them out fast enough. And these samples from our own factory, judging by the number of orders taken for duplicates, are among this season's most fetching styles.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Ladies' suits have been coming in very fast the last few days, and we've been looking them over to see what ones to advertise first. After about fifteen minutes we gave up the search. We simply don't know where to begin, nor where we should stop. Certain features are common, such as the long-skirted coats and the new belts, but to describe the suits in detail would be an endless task. What surprises you most is the great variety of styles, all showing that they belong to this season and no other. The mannish styles, as to cloth and make, are more pronounced than usual, and there is a free use of stitching on most of the suits, but aside from these special features there is very little in common. The Minneapolis Clothing Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

If the suit fits—sizes 34 to 40 in the lot—put it on, and pay $25 instead of $30 to $50.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

Even if you get a new spring suit, you'll likely want a handy little jacket for use with separate skirts, not only during the cool weather of spring, but throughout the summer. If you don't get a new suit you'll need the jacket all the more. We have a nice line of styles to choose from that will give a bigger amount of satisfaction for the price than you'll find in most stores.—Nevis Bros. Co., Trenton, N. J.

We respectfully request the honor of your commercial and artistic judgment upon the beautiful sample suits offered to-morrow at half price. We truly believe the garments are not to be approached anywhere in artistic excellence, beautiful styling, genuine exclusiveness or superiority of quality. Our constant relations with the best creative talent of the world's fashion centers enable us to secure first choice of their sample garments and at great price reductions. On this account we are able to offer them to you Tuesday at just one-half the regular price. This line of new spring suits are each and every one rare types of artistic elegance; are the season's latest and best productions; are made of the newest and best fabrics and are shown in every approved style—only one of a style, but many styles. Slight charges will be made for alterations. To-morrow we offer.—Whitehouse Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

Most women know, but every woman who will investigate, can satisfy herself that nowhere else—the larger cities of the state not excepted—can ladies' ready-to-wear apparel be bought so advantageously as here at the Big Store. The assortments to be found in this great department are as broad and satisfying as the most exacting could demand; the styles shown are the most ultra and exclusive; the workmanship shows the best skill of the tailor craft; the materials are the finest that can be put into garments of the price. Because of these advantages, and because women find here always values better than other stores offer at equal prices, our garment business has grown to immense proportions. These splendid offerings should interest you if you are outfitting for spring.—Sturtevant's, Zanesville, O.

The price of woollens in the open market to-day makes these $17 suits worth $20 and $22. Woollens have steadily ascended in price. But we, unlike most clothiers, contracted for thousands of yards of woollens at the old price. Therefore these suits are only $17, whereas others must ask $20 and $22.—Wm. Vogel & Son, New York, N. Y.

This is a golden opportunity for the woman who hasn't yet bought her spring suit—for at no time has the selection been finer—at no time have the values been so great—elegant suits in voiles, panamas and serges in the stunning cutaway, Prince Chap, pony and eton models, in plain blacks, blues, browns and light shades and the latest novelties in plaids, checks and mixtures—jackets handsomely lined with silk and beautifully tailored, newest plaited skirts.—The J. L. Hudson Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Here's another striking example of Martin's underbuying and underselling abilities. This elegant black taffeta jumper suit is not shown by any one else under $12. The jumper is made with very full front, edged at top with quilled ribbon and lace. Skirt has two box pleats down front and cluster of pleats on each side. A very special value at $8.98.—Martin's, Peoria, Ill.

The cleverest ideas of American and foreign designers are to be found in our great exhibit of stunning spring suits. Individuality and exclusiveness are paramount. Never has there been offered such suits at a price so low. Popular 26-inch Prince Chap coat suits, natty pony coats and fancy dress eton styles; materials are of English panamas in all shades and newest mixtures, stripes and checks. Skirts in the newest full plaited styles, and dainty shirt waists in styles and designs too numerous to mention.—The Wonder, Spokane.

Fortunate purchase of silk jumper suits, also demi-costumes. Just at the time when the call for dainty shirt waist suits is becoming urgent, a maker whose garments are sought after by the leading retailers of the country asked us to figure on a large surplus left on his hands as a result of the tardy spring. The price at which purchase was finally negotiated was below the actual expense of the making. There's not a suit in the entire collection that we would care to omit. They go on sale Friday and Saturday.—J. Sparling & Co., Detroit.

Linen suits for graduation. The lady students of our leading universities have adopted the plain white linen skirts and sheer linen shirt waists for their graduation garb. This has met with such good success and public approval that many other educational institutions have followed the suggestion. If Fresno students intend to adopt this nobby style we have for the occasion imported a complete line of white linens from the very sheerest linen batiste to the heavier embroidery linen at remarkably low prices, together with a large stock of white linen suits made up in the styles used by the university girls, also shirt waists. We name a few. Call and inspect them all.—Louis Einstein & Co., Fresno, Cal.

Ladies' and misses' suits and jackets. An inspection of our stock will convince you of the worth and value of our goods. And by our easy payment plan all can wear the best clothing while paying for it. We urge strongly a visit to our ladies' department. In ladies' and misses' suits we are showing all new and up-to-date goods, including the popular Eton suit—natty pony coat suits and all others—a full line of natty spring jackets.—Lewis, Troy, N. Y.

These beautiful spring suits come in chiffon Panama in the popular light and dark shades; also in exquisite new pin stripes, dainty checks, and fancy mixtures, portraying grace and beauty in every line; also in voiles. Among the many delightful styles are the new cutaway coat suits, the popular Etons, the natty Romeo, and the tailored, tight-fitting short coat styles. All have the new circular flare or plaited skirts, which give such a stylish, graceful air to the wearer.—Warren M. Crosby & Co., Topeka, Kan.

Decidedly the most superb values offered in Detroit this season. These beautiful suits are made of fine broadcloths in all the new fall shades, and also in imported plaids, checks and manish mixtures. The coats are the newest models—tight-fitting, semi-fitting or Eton blouses—handsome, richly braided, splendidly made suits, richly lined with silk or satin.—Newcomb-Endicott Co., Detroit, Mich.

You will pronounce this the most extensive and varied showing of clever suits you ever had an opportunity to select from at this popular price. You can find just the style, shade and material that becomes your particular style. The collection is large, and there is not one model that does not depict the season's newest and most correct styles. And there is such an array of stylish fabrics.—Gimbel's, Milwaukee, Wis.

A stunning line of all wool man-tailored street suits, built on the most up-to-date lines for the first up-to-date women, in the new cutaway and Poneyette shades of tan, gray and blue, all silk lined and never before sold for less than $25, are now offered to prompt buyers for $22.50.—Reed's Store, Mansfield, Ohio.

Yard sticks will be busy at English and Scotch tweed suitings. Next spring they'll be making up spring suits out of these selfsame kinds of suitings, and glad to get them at full prices. These mannish effects always do look so stylish and dressy for spring wear.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Of course one reasonably expects the later arrivals to have more character than styles which were shown earlier in the season, but so far as we're concerned we didn't look for the elaborateness which is a conspicuous feature of New York's more recent productions of women's tailor-made suits. We have a handsome showing of these new suits, styles which are far removed from the spectacular, indeed there's no unseemly display or parade of extremes in any of them. The styles, while markedly smart, reflect that indefinable something, a stateliness which is at once suggestive of good taste.—W. A. Murray & Co., Toronto, Can.

The Newest Tailored Suits.—A long coat and a short skirt—and there you are! It seems to be the only style that early fall suits are taking to. We have enough on hand, in new materials, for you to see what you like. They are all very tailorish—the coats are straight and severe, with a suggestion of a man's Prince Albert about them. They have pockets with flaps on the hips, and sometimes an extra watch pocket on the left side. Some have straps following the seams—but most are merely stitched.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Suits made of fine broadcloth and chevot, jaunty Eton and blouse style, exquisitely tailored and designed, all the popular fall colors and black. These suits at price advertised will precipitate the most wonderful selling ever known since the inauguration of this department. Come early Tuesday morning and inspect the two bargains advertised above, the most sensational ever known in this section.—J. M. High Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Not the sort of Suits that you can put on now and wear every day this summer; but the kind for traveling, for cool days in the mountains or at the sea shore. And so thoroughly up-to-date in style that the great amount of additional wear you will get out of them in the autumn—when you couldn't buy them at prices like these—will repay their cost over and over again.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

“What charming sailor suits for women at $3.75.” That was the comment made by a discerning woman who attended the sale of the first edition of these natty sailor suits a week ago. That others held similar opinions was evidenced by the way they sold. They went with amazing rapidity, and when the store closed scarcely one of the original lot of suits was left. A second edition was obtained. These suits go on sale to-morrow.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

Careful dressers cannot afford to pass this great assortment of tailor-made suits, made of the finest fabrics, the best of trimmings, the highest order of tailoring, the most perfect fitting garments it is possible to construct. We can't begin to tell the story of the various styles, which include all that's correct, bright, fashionable and well made.—Hills, McLean & Haskins.

The long-coat suits of light colored and light weighted homespuns, are one of the greatest furcres of the season. The style was carried from New York to Paris, and taken up most enthusiastically by the admiring Frenchmen. But the models come back to us with the smart addition of linen or pique collars and cuffs. We had the prettiest Paris models faithfully copied by our best American manufacturers; and the suits are ready to-day, in smart gray homespuns, plain and in mixtures.

Bought several thousand of these suits because we liked the style and could save nearly half in the price. But if the style and quality hadn't suited we'd have passed them by. We illustrate one of them. Isn't it a marvel for $2.95? Made of fine union linen in full shirt waist style. Notice the white band of embroidery down front of waist. Skirt, too, with its panel front gore of embroidery. All around stylish suits that were made to sell for nearly double, $2.95.—The Fair, Chicago, Ill.

Unquestionably one of the most important offerings of the spring season. In fact, a most representative collection of beautiful tailored suits. The woman who admires correct dress will particularly fancy this gathering of new models.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York.

The new spring suit styles. There are many, and we want you to come and see them. The correct ideas. That feeling of uncertainty is not here—our styles are correct. We are showing more new styles now than were ever shown before so early. Beautiful creations direct from the makers—who set the styles and fashions. There are many styles to choose from. Made up in the new browns, rich changeable silks, the new French checks, in a host of pretty effects. Styles are absolutely correct. Our showing offers many excellent suits.—Hale's, Sacramento, Cal.

The makers have displayed their best efforts and outstripped all previous endeavors in their zeal to produce the finest collection of tailored suits ever presented to the Brooklyn public. You may best judge of the success of their efforts. We cannot praise them too much. Not one of the minutest details has been overlooked in the construction of these suits. The sleeves set in perfectly, all seams finished in the smoothest manner—the closest inspection elicits entire satisfaction and admiration.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A final cleanup of twenty tailor-made suits of various kinds, in Eton, blouse, corset and jacket styles, made of plain cloths, fancy mixtures and serges. All the jackets have silk linings. The skirts are for the most part plain kilted effects. Nearly all are models of fall styles, but are the last of lines that will not be reordered. If you need a good serviceable knockabout suit you'll find no opportunity like this again this season. One or two of the suits were priced $22.50 originally—not one is worth less than $12.50. All sizes in the lot; mostly colors, but a few are black.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

One great point about the Quigley suits is that they get away from that commonplace "sameness" that makes many tailored suits look like a lot of uniforms.—Quigley, New Haven, Conn.

Women's midsummer suits of voile and mohairs.—For the women who do not care for tub dresses we have made ample provisions. Walking suits of lightest weight mohairs and airiest of voiles. Solid colors and new check effects.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

Women's dressy tailor-made suits much lowered in price. Many of the handsomest tailor gowns in this offering are original models; the smartest beauties that set the fashion for others to follow. Never but one of a kind is ever brought along, so no fear need you have of seeing a duplicate in this neck of the woods. But beside these, some lesser lights, which appeal to those wanting extremes. Altogether a well varied assembly from which any woman may choose advantageously.—Walker Brothers Dry Goods Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

Every conceivable style that the designer's art originates—and Fashion approves—finds representation in our superb stock of women's spring suits. Values incomparable—in the strictly severe styles—the exquisitely embellished novelties—almost limitless. Inspection invited.—Mahler Bros., New York City.

Every one was made by a tailor. Examine the well-made jackets; turn the skirts inside out and see how splendidly every one is finished and staved and tailored! The time has come when every wool suit in the store must pick up its skirts and run. We've made the path smooth for them by cutting down the prices until they just can't go any lower. Staple suits, novelty suits—every fine, light Summer-weight woolen suit joins in the rush regardless of the fact that they are the prettiest models and best colors shown in Peoria this season.—P. A. Bergner & Co., Peoria, Ill.

These Items Are Stunning! Women's Tailored Wear—More Good News.—Isn't it astonishing how wonderful the values are in this Tailored Wear Store. It was only a few days ago that a Manhattan woman attended a sale and stated this store was "the only thing she envied Brooklyn women." Before she went home she found many other reasons for envy—but here again are the most beautiful summer suits that can be bought today, and yet just half price to pay for them.—Abraham & Strauss, Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you appreciate quality and style in a tailored garment you cannot afford to make your autumn selection until you have seen our new fall suits. We have them in the most advanced ideas. They are the kind you just have to slip on and you're dressed up for a shopping tour, a carriage drive or an informal call.—Cartwright's, San Bernardino, Cal.

Correct suit styles for the spring season. Those women who desire their apparel to be distinctive and original, correct in style, tailoring and fit, should see our exhibit. Every garment portrays that vital element of style characteristic of the best custom tailoring, having been made in strict accordance with specifications furnished by us.—Blowenstein & Bros., Baltimore, Md.

WOMEN'S READY-TO-WEAR DRESSES

One of the most interesting facts regarding these imported dresses is that it actually saves money for women who wear this sort of dress. We can sell Paris dresses in our store for less than you as an individual could buy them in Paris. We can sell a Paris dress for less than you can have any dressmaker in America duplicate it for! These are two astounding facts that need to be most clearly understood. The only question for you to settle is whether we have the exact dress you want. And that you can settle for yourself the instant you clap eyes on them. We have brought over an unusual number this year—more, we know, than any other Philadelphia store. And it has been said a dozen times that there was not one dress in the more than two hundred we imported, that the most conservative woman in this city would hesitate to wear.—Blum Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Spring dress cottons for 1909. Best and broadest display. Charming in their loveliness. Fascinating in their beauty. Bewildering in their vast and varied color tones. Not the bold, startling effects, but the quiet, pretty patterns which are attractive in their simplicity. Manufacturers have simply gone their limit in producing these airy, fairy like dress cottons for the coming season. They are here in wonderful variety. We welcome all women to the showing. And for those who would enjoy selecting a new dress or two, who would delight in having first choice at the exclusive, we print news of some of the remarkable values.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Yesterday morning we had eight hundred of these extraordinary dresses at this remarkable price. Our buyer had not returned and we did not know that another case was still to come, which brought us two hundred and fifty more of the dresses yesterday afternoon. The aisles of our costume store yesterday were the busiest thoroughfares to be found in the city. Notwithstanding the best organization to serve the public promptly, our space was far too small for the requirements of the day's occasion. Of course, there were hundreds of women who were unable to come yesterday, or were afraid of the promise of inclement weather. They will be glad to know that several hundred of these dresses are here to-day to select from. They are the most remarkable offerings in new silk dresses ever known to the retail trade. All of the dresses have been made up within the last few days, and there is very wide variety of styles to meet practically every taste. Plenty this morning, but remember you must be prompt now. $9.50 each, and every dress worth more than double.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Elegant Fall Shirt Waist Suits.—Saturday morning we will place on sale the nobbiest array of new Fall shirt waist suits shown anywhere. When you want a swell suit with character, at a small price, come here, for we guarantee to save you half.—The Boston Store, Joliet, Ill.

Fall Walking Suits.—Women who appreciate exclusiveness will be delighted at this first showing—for first garments frequently possess charming style features that don't appear later. The men's style of suits are closely followed, even to the cut of the garments.—The Fair, Muncie, Ind.

Spic-span-new silk shirt waist suits, correct in every detail of style for the new season. Made in a number of beautiful shades of both plain and changeable taffetas, of an excellent quality. The suits are thoroughly made, nicely tailored, and will please every woman of good taste who wants a smart suit for early spring wear. The colorings include black, blue, green and brown in the plain taffetas, and jasper, blue, brown, green and red in the changeable shades.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

A remarkable clearance of women's dressing gowns. $4, $5 and $6.50 styles, Monday $2.50. One table is piled high with these comfortable garments, and we have laid special plans for their quick clearance Monday. It just happens most timely to many to turn that Christmas gift that was forgotten into a New Year's present of one of these handsome gowns. Some of our handsomest dressing gowns are included in this offering.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

More interested in setting on prices that will quickly clear them. The contraction of department quarters, coupled to the fact that these are the styles of this summer season, influences a more generous rate of reduction than would otherwise prevail. Is The Store of Satisfaction's buyer better informed of the trend of fashion or is this only another instance where we make better preparations to supply a season's demand? Certain it is that in no other of shirt waist suits, either in volume or variety.—W. H. Scroggie & Co., Montreal, Can.

Handsome white costumes suitable for graduation and evening functions, white shirt waist suits for general warm weather wear. Every garment is finely made, and you are assured of perfection of fit and finish. Your taste can be satisfied as to style and price from our generous assortment.—Hills, McLean & Haskins, Binghamton, N. Y.

What a sensation!—chambray or percale in polka dots, stripes, plain colors. Be sure and ask the saleswoman to show you that startling black-and-white plaid—it is surprisingly pretty. The big sailor collar is of pique, or of goods trimmed with pique; cuffs and shield of pique, the shield with embroidered emblem. Full skirt and deep hem. There isn't a dressmaker in the city who would cut and fit and finish the dress for 65c.—not counting the material and the findings and the trimmings. A great chance to get three for almost the very-day cost of one.—N. Snellenburg & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

All are distinctly the summer tailor dresses and very excellent choosing is here. Many are imported models, the style-setters that others follow. The making alone on any one of these is worth the price now asked.—Walker Bros., Salt Lake City, Utah.

Shirtwaist dresses, $3—and when you see them you will say the waist or skirt is worth that much. The greater part all white—fresh, spotless, snowy white. Every one cool and sheer and dainty. A thousand in all—surely nobody need be hot and uncomfortable this summer.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

A clean-up sale of women's taffeta silk shirt waist dresses. They are exactly as illustrated, and every woman of taste will concede their daintiness. Made of fine quality changeable taffeta, in blue, green, brown and black. Full blouse waist. Flounce skirt with cording on waist and flounce. Taffeta silk shirt waist dresses that are suitable for street wear or travel.—Siegel Cooper Co., New York, N. Y.

The Fall Dresses, Gimbels' Own Styles.—The gowns that are here now are the first models that the best makers of America have turned out, and turned out at our express command. Most of them, unless you buy of the cheaper sort, are not shown elsewhere. They are correct as to fabrics and as to shades.—Gimbel Brothers, Milwaukee, Wis.

Whoever first adapted the man's negligee shirt for woman's Summer wear, deserves a niche in the hall of fame. And whoever evolved the shirt-waist suit should have the seat adjoining.—John Wanamaker, New York.

We are doing a phenomenal business this week in these wool shirt waist suits. It doesn't take more than a glance to convince any one of their wonderful cheapness. They are all the best and most desirable styles to choose from.—Israel's, San Bernardino, Cal.

Silk Shirt Waist Suits for as little as $10.00. Sit down and count the cost of the materials and making, not to speak of time and trouble. Then consider whether it is not better to come here first thing this morning for one of these Suits.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

It's not remarkable, when the mercury is philandering with the fifties, and turned-up coat collar and hot tea are de rigueur, that there should be slacker selling of shirt waist suits—those eminently summery dresses—than when the thermometer trips lightly in the nineties. We want to hasten matters a little, and, at the new prices we've put on these jaunty suits, you'll find it conservative and profitable to discount now the real advent of summer weather.—The Under-Price Store, Raine, Ill.

Four exceptional offerings of shirt-waist suits.—The interest of every woman, to whom summer comfort is a matter of concern, will be attracted by this remarkable group of offerings to-day. For these are the garments that make hot days delightful indoors and out. The styles are the most attractive, and the prices speak eloquently for themselves.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Shirt waist suits in delightful abundance. These dainty, airy dresses breathe coolness wherever they go. With a rising thermometer the demand—earlier than expected—for shirt waist suits has leaped up with a bound. As usual, we are prepared, and as never before.—Batterman, Brooklyn.

Four exceptional offerings of shirt-waist suits.—The interest of every woman, to whom summer comfort is a matter of concern, will be attracted by this remarkable group of offerings today. For these are the garments that make hot days delightful indoors and out. The styles are the most attractive, and the prices speak eloquently for themselves.—Wanamaker's, New York.

To-morrow we shall offer seventy-five brand new silk shirtwaist suits at prices from a third to a half less than their actual worth. It's a line our Eastern buyer secured from the famous "Monogram" Suit and Waist Co., at a very-much-below-regular price, and as usual we are going to share our good fortune with the Los Angeles public. For proof of the genuineness of these values we would refer you to our regular stock where you may see duplicates of these very suits, which were bought under normal conditions but a few weeks ago, and priced from $25 to $35 each. Aside from the question of price these suits possess merits of style, of newness and exceptional workmanship that will appeal to women who know. And as we are special agents here for the Monogram suits, there is no likelihood of the style becoming common.—N. B. Blackstone & Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

They are not the ordinary suits that shrink and pull out of shape when washed. In fact, they are brighter and daintier than ever after cleansing, for the materials are qualities that maintain the Simpson-Crawford Co.'s standard—high-grade cheviots, percales, ginghams, madras and lawns. Every one is made in a superb manner and there are twenty charming styles embracing the daintiest patterns you ever saw.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

Shirt waist dresses you'd pay $2.00 for, at $1.00. It is a wonder! Now just when you are looking for bargains in shirt waist dresses we announce a value beyond all expectation, 1,000 brand new shirt waist dresses, stylish, desirable from every point of view. Dresses that answer every seashore, mountain, country and town summer purpose and save you a snug sum besides. Though the quantity is large, do not delay, complete run of sizes may not last long, dresses we could ask $2.00 for, and give you good value, going at an even $1.00.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, N. J.

Charming summer dresses at half price, and very much less. Here is one of the finest pieces of news that women have read this season. It seems almost too good to be true—but it is true, or you know that it wouldn't be printed here.

The manufacturer had about a hundred and seventy-five dresses, and he wanted to quit. He didn't care what they had cost him to make. He had made his season's profit; and any price he got for them was so much more gain. That's the whole story—old and commonplace enough.—Wanamaker, New York.

The Shirt Waist Sale adds materially to the feminine wardrobe. It is so practical, and such an all-round and useful dress to have: appropriate for the promenade and for an outing. Just now, too, the Shirt Waist Suit is in the height of favor—another reason for having one this summer. We briefly describe a few numbers in white that are as charming bits of feminine wear as one could wish to see.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

A price surprise in women's dressing gowns. The opportunity to buy these comfortable dressing gowns at so much less than their actual worth is due to our decision to discontinue this special line for the rest of the season. No more than two hundred at the outside figure.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg.

In one of our show windows to-day we display specimens from a group of beautiful dainty white dresses that we shall place on sale to-morrow at just about half real value. They are all new styles and just right for July and August wear at garden parties, afternoon and evening receptions, summer theatre, etc., airy, fluffy, bewildering, pretty and graceful. Materials are fine, soft, sheer, mercerized, mousseline, de soie with embroidered silk dots, plain nets and china silk. All are made with full blouse waists, but scarcely two are alike. Some are trimmed with dainty valenciennes lace edge and insertion, others with beading and ribbon. All are elaborately shirred, tucked, plaited and ruffled. Some have full bertha of lace. Deep shirred girdles of white, light blue or pink silk. Skirts have white silk drops and are elaborately shirred, ruffled and trimmed to match waists.—Keely Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Your summer comfort lies with things that will go in the wash and come out fresh and clean. The styles we speak of to-day are just the kind you can always keep fresh, and they are under-priced just when most wanted.—The Scott, D. G. Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Yes, 'tis hot and still a-heating. Now, why not do the most sensible thing you could do by coming down here and getting into one of our delightfully cool shirt waist suits.—The Bon Ton, Altoona, Pa.

Here's what Paris prophesied two weeks ago—and what has come true today: "At the risk of repeating myself, I mention that a dressmaker said that lots of white embroidery-linen dresses will be the thing for next season, with two kinds of laces, Valenciennes and French imitation of Irish; or linen skirts with glace silk jackets like enclosed samples, or lace jackets to match. Lingerie dresses will be very good." A wideawake American designer, who has had one eye on Paris and her styles and the other on Philadelphia, waiting for the Southern exodus to begin, sends us sixty-seven dainty little frocks for this morning. They will show you the revival of the new "old regime styles" in their Directoire jackets; and show, too, the swing of the pendulum back to short little blouses and loose jackets that are charming in the summer materials.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

These fifteen hundred smart new shirt waist suits came to us through one of those advantageous deals which has brought many an exceptional value Bloomingdale-ward, and has particularly gained for our suit store the famous reputation it has for just such bargains.—Bloomingdale, New York.

High-Grade Shirt Waist Suits of silk, fashionable in material, trimming, design—up-to-date in every way, strictly this season's styles. Suits which will give more than a summer's service; for, while they are appropriate for the cooler days that will certainly come, whether at seashore, mountains or in the city, they can be worn far into the autumn. Not many of a kind, but a variety of styles.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

The shirt waist suit of lawn or linen is the acme of comfort and daintiness for hot weather wear. It rides the top wave of popularity and deservedly so. The suit section stands ready to fit you to your satisfaction with one of these trim creations: Shirt waist suits of white lawn with black polka dots; waist and skirt finished with box plaits with hemstitching in center of plaits, fancy stock collar and cuffs, very desirable and nobby suits.—Minneapolis Dry Goods Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Silk Shirtwaist Suits at Newly Little Prices.—There's a snap and dash about these lovely silk dresses that will instantly command the attention of all discriminating women. And such a variety. The whole list of summer silks is represented.—Kaufman's, Pittsburg.

Carefully dressed women will appreciate this offering of high class Silk Shirt Waist Suits of rich plain and changeable colorings and the newest stripes and checks in French taffeta. These are beautiful styles—such as have been selling for double the prices they now bear.—Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City.

These are the choicest and prettiest of the popular priced summer dresses. All were carefully selected from our regular stock, and they are in absolutely perfect condition. Now, right at the height of their wearing time, they are offered to you at these liberal concessions.—Wanamaker, New York.

I came, I saw, I conquered—quoth the great Julius Caesar, to whose name July does honor. Similarly, our Shirt Waist Suits have but to appear and be seen to conquer. And they do it by uniting such irresistible prices and styles as these.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

We are very proud of the continuous admiration which is being shown for the smart dresses that we are presenting this fall. It is true that we have made greater efforts than ever before.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Now what will those of you who still need a shirt-waist or two for this season's wearing say to us, when we tell you of these three groups, taken from our own stock, full of the latest style-touches, and marked at new, much lowered prices?—Wanamaker, New York.

Cool shirt waist suits.—Women who want something light, cool and summery will buy here both for the low price and the comfort of having a summer suit that will be cool and pleasant to wear.—Emery, Bird & Thayer, Kansas City, Mo.

Many a woman has blessed the clever chap that evolved the shirt waist suit. Rightly, too, for he discovered a shortcoming in women's outfit, and satisfied it. Dreams of summery dresses.—A. D. Matthews' Sons, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Summer dresses of linen, crashes, pongees, taffetas, foulards, point d'esprits and nets. All beautifully and smartly trimmed with dainty laces, insertions, inlayings of embroidery and appliques, many with fine tucking and plaitings.—Bloomingdale's, New York.

An exquisite group of foreign dresses. Simultaneously with the arrival of our costume chief from abroad we present to-day a remarkably handsome group of dresses which he brings, to show the first foreign ideas for Spring gowns. Every gown sparkles with originality and artistic beauty. We are sure you'll enjoy viewing them.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

These charming creations are of the newest and daintiest get-up. They represent the simple lines and surplus stocks of leading manufacturers of high-class, about-the-house wear for women, and as such are naturally in styles all the rage now. The entire selection has been featured at such low prices for Wednesday that there ought to be unusual selling in this section.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

Beautiful Silk Shirtwaist Suits.—In all of our experience we never saw anything like them for such a price and Brooklyn women know the offers this store has made during the spring in this wear. Now did you ever hear of a gracefully made taffeta silk dress—a stylish, attractive, up-to-date suit for less than $10? To-morrow the price will actually be $6.95.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A Sale of Those Very Fashionable Silk Shirt-Waist Suits.—That'll prove of great importance to women who want to be correctly and economically attired—silk suits are to reign supreme this summer; they'll be all the "go" for "Expo." as well as street wear. You can own a pretty serviceable one at a substantial saving if you come Monday and share in these three unusual silk suit values that we've prepared.—Famous, St. Louis, Mo.

Hot-Weather Dresses for Women.—"Oh, to be a woman!" sighs mere man when the hot days come. There never was a season when there were so many kinds of cool, airy dresses, all ready-made for women to choose from. They are shown here in abundance. Then the prices are so little that the finished dress costs little more than the necessary materials.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Summer is surely here. Our conscientious effort to excel has governed the selection and the presentation of women's summer suits. There will be a special exhibit Monday of women's dresses for mid-summer wear. The lingerie princess models are elaborate to a great degree, and there are many new notes of decoration in the treatment of lace adornments, hand-embroidery, interwoven lines of lace and medallions of filet lace and embroidery, designed in many distinctly different models, faultlessly finished and elegantly tailored. The tailored linens are dashing and stylish, and include all late innovations in box, semi-fitting, pony coat and three-piece models. Under ordinary weather conditions these would be rightly valued at 25 per cent more than prices that prevail now. Our offerings Monday are noteworthy, by reason of the great diversity of models and fabrics, and radical price concessions.—Saks.

Women's shirtwaist dresses. Some three hundred and fifty of the prettiest little summer dresses you ever saw at this price are to go out in double-quick time to-day. These are made of very fine lawn and flowered batistes, elaborately trimmed with embroidery, tucks and Val. laces. Skirts are gracefully hanging models, trimmed to match.—Wise, Smith & Co., Hartford, Conn.

Women's pretty house dresses. Good style garments that have an air of grace and beauty—without too abundant trimming—just right for the hot summer days. These dresses are combination garments of dressing sacque and skirt, made of dark color percales; and are made without linings and are cool and comfortable; cut right—sewed right—finished right. In every respect as good as you'd make them—minus the hours of sewing and fussing.—Whitehouse Dry Goods Co., Spokane, Wash.

Pretty wash dresses. A good sized lot in a splendid assortment of styles. Both white and colored. Just the sort of dresses you want for every-day wear and afternoons at home. Materials are chambrays trimmed in various ways, some with all-over embroidery, others with little fancy pearl buttons. The skirts are all pleated. With these are also shown some very handsome white lawn dresses trimmed with insertions.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

To those who contemplate purchasing summer wash dresses, the splendid showing of Peoria's big specialty store should be of more than passing interest. There are tub clothes of all descriptions, comprising shirt-waists, princess and lingerie dresses in boundless variety; dainty summer suits in percale, lawn, mull, chambray, linen, duck, organdy and point de esprit; a hundred different diversities of attractive trimming schemes in lace and embroidery; refreshing summer dresses that can be bought as low as $2.98.—Rosenihal, Peoria, Ill.

WOMEN'S READY-TO-WEAR SKIRTS

Black voile skirts surprise at $10. Two extra values for you Saturday—either style $10—excellent material in both. See the one with fan pleats front and back—box and side pleated hip panels trimmed with tiny taffeta straps—at foot a one-inch and two narrower taffeta folds, around skirt between the pleats turning upward to follow the outline of front panel. Then the very new 25-pleated skirt of twine voile—with three narrow, stitched folds all around at foot. Notice how deep the pleats are and how accurately laid. These skirts fit beautifully.—Mills Dry Goods Co., Topeka, Kan.

Spring and summer separate skirts for June brides and others. It is, indeed, a pleasure to shop in a store where such assortments can be found as we show you at this time. They are positively one of the largest and best in Trenton. It includes every wanted material—all the latest and most fashionable patterns. They're in Altman and Julian voiles, taffetas, chiffons, Panamas, worsted Panamas, checks, mohairs and fancy mixtures. The tailoring of these beautiful skirts is such as to make them real in appearance and fit gracefully any figure. They show the masterful tailoring in their many graceful lines.—Kaufman's, Trenton.

Skirts.—In dress skirts, voiles are the favored materials this season. Our big assortment, however, embraces many other materials from which a splendid choice can be made. See our special leader, made of fine voile in the newest and most attractive style.—The Wm. Barie Dry Goods Co., Saginaw, Mich.

These are brand new, swell 1909 skirts. Every garment a smart spring model—strictly man-tailored. This is the best bargain sale of skirts ever offered over our signature, and should bring you bright and early to-morrow, rain or shine. Stylish, up-to-date skirts, made of splendid all-wool Panama, in black, navy and brown. Also a few skirts in fashionable spring suitings, block checks, broken plaids, etc. Actual $5.98, $6.50 to $7.50 values offered in Monday's sale, as long as they last.—J. M. High Company., Atlanta, Ga.

A splendid collection of distinctive skirts awaits you today. Perhaps 'twould be of interest to know that we put the same care into the selection of our separate skirts that we give to our finest suits or coats, perhaps a little more, for separate skirts that are really worthy are not easy to find. These skirts fill all our requirements—which are your requirements—perfectly. There is cloth quality in them—fabrics of high grade that hold their shape and looks through long service. There is style quality—the up-to-date ideas of the best makers are embodied in these skirts. Every skirt this spring is plaited—but in these models this is varied in scores of most attractive ways. Then the quality of workmanship—the cut—the fit—the finish—is up to the best of custom work. The prices you will find most satisfactory. We want you to see our extensive line of these garments for summer wear, which is now ready for your selection.—The Fair, Ft. Worth, Texas.

Stylish tailor-made skirts to your measure at $5.00. It is no easy thing to get variety, good style and a good fit in a skirt for $5.00. But we have convinced thousands of women that we do this—and more. At this price we will make to your order a stylish skirt for business, a dressy skirt for walking, or a serviceable skirt for knock-about wear. Elegantly tailored, daintily finished and a perfect, graceful fit guaranteed. This price includes choice from among a splendid collection of mohair Sicilians, brilliantines, broadcloths, storm serges, nun's veilings, eoliennes, panamas, chevions, granites, cashmeres, henriettas and fancy suitings. Beginning to-day this most liberal offer holds good until Wednesday, May 29th.—Gilchrist Co., Boston, Mass.

Ready Tomorrow—Tub Skirts for Women.—Yes, ready in full assortment. Every fabric that is intended for tub skirts is represented (that is, every fabric that will stand wear) and all the new ideas in weaves and tints. The models are exclusive and embrace many new ideas in the use of tucks and pleats, side pleats, and single or double box pleats.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Great values in stunning skirts. Our assortments of handsome, stylish skirts is the largest and most comprehensive we've ever shown. The most critical dresser will find complete satisfaction here. Right House separate skirts are manufactured by ourselves from very superior imported cloths. The styles are copies of high class New York and Paris models and are exclusive with this store. Every skirt is a model of grace and distinctiveness, giving the wearer that undefinable well dressed air so hard to obtain, with the good tailoring and extra qualities of materials make these special bargains.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

Very pretty wash skirts. Useful as well as pretty, an excellent skirt for daily use around the home. It's made of English duck, firm and heavy, full width, 7 gored, deep hem, the charm of the garment lies in the gracefulness of the fit. The skirt hangs as nicely as the expensive kind; colors navy, black, French blue or in polka dot. You can't buy the material and trimming in one of these skirts at our selling price.—Redlick's, Fresno, Cal.

Everything indicates that these black taffeta skirts are to be the favorites. In fact these are garments that most every woman likes to wear if she knows she can get the good wearing quality of taffeta. We have just that quality—the kind that will wear well—made up in a big assortment of beautiful plaited models in silk. Now is the time to buy, while you have the selection. Prices from $8.95 to $20.—Espenhain, Milwaukee, Wis.

Stylish skirts. Fashion's favorite skirts are to be found here. Finest collection in the city of ladies' tailored walking skirts in all the newest checks and stripes; light and dark colors. New and exclusive styles. All sizes, and all moderately priced.—G. D. McKay & Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Sale downstairs of women's skirts. 125 of the skirts are in a sale that should prove very interesting to that number of women. The skirts were purchased at special discounts, and having been acquired in that manner, we share the advantage. The sale is a timely affair, coming as it does when every woman finds great use for an extra skirt or two to see her through the winter in comfort and with satisfaction. Opportunities like these do not linger, so we advise being prompt.—John G. Myers Co., Albany, N. Y.

More new skirts to choose from—the most complete line ever shown in this city, embracing everything that's new and good. Materials are mixtures, Panamas, worsteds, voiles and silk in a great variety of colors and sizes.—Jos. Meyers & Sons, Salem, Ore.

We have just received another shipment of this beautiful fall and winter novelty and they are now on sale. These skirts are made instep length, hang evenly and gracefully all around, require no carrying and we make this very important statement—we guarantee them to hold their shape. They are made of fine cashmere in shades of black, navy blue, royal blue, brown, tan, and champagne.—The Beall-Livingston Dry Goods Co., Columbus, O.

Annual sale of separate dress skirts. Of course you'll want a separate skirt to piece out the season—most women do—and you'll certainly not find a better place to secure one than here). It's our business to anticipate your wants, and in doing so we combine the art of supplying your needs at a great saving—that's why we sell so many skirts—(why you prefer to trade here). That last remark we did not exactly mean in a literal sense, because low prices are not the sole incentive in buying ready-to-wear garments (what you want is the style—distinctive elegance). If we were forced to take our choice we'd pay more attention to exclusiveness than to low prices, but we've the experience that enables us to combine the two.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

The maker took all his left-over pieces of summer materials and had them made up into these Walking Skirts, which we got for very much less than regular. They are made of strictly all wool Canadian Homespun Crash, seven gores, each one kilted, flaring out from the knee, handsomely tailored throughout. Each one of the seams is carefully bound inside, and there is every evidence apparent at first sight of the thoroughness of tailoring put into every garment in the lot. No dip or sagging in the back—thoroughly draped to swing evenly all around.—Goldenberg's, Washington, D. C.

A woman cannot but delight in wearing one of our man tailored, made to order skirts. There's a clever air and a hang to them that you don't find in the ready made, and there are an originality and a cleverness of construction that cause them to meet with the instant approval of every woman who sees them. And then, there are the prices.—Bergerman Bros., Pueblo, Colo.

Just the time of the year when run-about skirts are in great demand, and to stop and tell you of how this great purchase was made in order to sell these beautiful, high-priced garments, at such low prices, would take up two pages. Be on hand Saturday, and take advantage of the greatest skirt sale ever inaugurated. Look at the prices. Every garment given as advertised. Money refunded on any garment not wanted.—Given's Cloak House, Peoria, Ill.

New skirt Prices.—Everyone is predicting that we'll have a warm fall. We won't say anything about that. If we have the usual fall, there's sufficient warm weather in sight so that you should be intensely interested in these duck and other summer skirts that we forget all about the value of to-day.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester.

Women's walking skirts, made from piece-ends of the finer cloths in our own factory, and worth $5.00, $6.00, $7.00 (a few worth as much as $10.00), will be sold at $2.75 each to-day. We believe they average somewhat finer than the lot sold last week, when hundreds of customers thronged this department. For this sale we have nearly six hundred skirts; of voiles, Panama cloth, mohairs, and mixed fabrics, in two handsome styles—one a kilt model, the other with a neat yoke effect, plaits on gores flaring from knee; perfect-fitting and well tailored throughout. Will you be in time?—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Smart wash skirts at big savings in price. Duck, pique, crash and linen skirts. Every skirt is well made—even the least expensive—in what careful sewing, expert cutting and fitting will do. All at small prices. Removal clearance sale prices.—The Wonder Department Store, Spokane, Wash.

You may be going after chestnuts, or to gather autumn leaves that are painted so prettily now. What a cumbersome thing the long skirt—and all the more so when you stop to consider the prices of these walking styles.—McCurdy & Norvell Co., Rochester.

A handsome collection of high grade skirts made of finest pan chevots, novelties and dark mixed effects, man-tailored throughout, and represent the highest grade of tailoring, in the kilt effects; same trimmed with match designs in stitched straps and small buttons.—Gately & Donovan, Saginaw.

What woman ever had too many good, serviceable, stylish skirts? None. That's why the strong savings offered during this special sale interests every woman.—Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

$4 walking skirts, $2.95. The ideal walking skirt for winter wear—splendid Lymansville chevot that rain and snow cannot harm. Perfect fitting and neat as good tailoring can make them. Black, blue and brown.—Snellenburg, Philadelphia, Pa.

The excellence of value in our latest styles stands out as prominently as their wonderful shapeliness; so it is easy to see why we hold undisputed leadership in the walking skirt world.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia.

Women's skirts for outing, walking and dress.—It is delightful to wear a skirt in which you can be comfortable and have a good time without being haunted by the fear that you are going to soil it to a worse degree than a washing can repair. Just that comfortable kind are the stylishly cut and well made.—Hysinger & Rosenthal, Peoria.

New walking skirts.—For some reason or other the skirts that women have worn have been called walking skirts, when in reality they were golf or rainy-day skirts—turned up at the bottom and stitched several times around. The new skirts are as far away from that as can be imagined. They escape the ground when you walk, but they are of fine cloths—novelties, broadcloths, Venetian, chevots—the stuffs we used to make into the finest dress skirts, and the styles are like dress skirts except that there are no trains. There are a good many English and Scotch stuffs—worsted, tweeds, home-spuns—used in these.—The Under Price Store, Peoria.

Stock-taking discloses the fact that we have entirely too many skirts—and, we realize, to sell them quickly demands heroic measures in prices. We have cut without regard to former cost or value and will offer Thursday morning our entire stock of winter skirts at but a fraction of their former prices. Be early, as these are positively the best values ever offered.—John C. Lewis Co., Louisville, Ky.

Monday will be a great skirt day in our cloak department, second floor. For weeks we have been planning to offer our many patrons an exceptional opportunity to buy new skirts. Advance spring samples of new styles at practically what the cloak would cost you in the regular way. The three lines specified below are only in limited quantities and are exceptional values. Early shopping will bring its reward.—Simpson, Toronto, Can.

Cool Cotton Skirts.—This is the time when you must have such dress skirts as these. Heavy cloth garments have no place but in the wardrobe these days. Here are some special prices on new wash skirts that make it easy to dress comfortably.—The Crescent, Spokane.

A dainty dressing sacque and separate skirt, an excellent quality lawn, in light and dark colors, with neat designs. The sacque has large sailor collar, fitted back, full front, with fancy border hemming. Full skirt, with deep flounce.—Bloomingtondale's, New York.

Sensible summer skirts.—Here you will find just what you are looking for in the way of a skirt for all occasions—for the street, for dress, or for outdoor sports or tramping. They are in all the popular kinds and rightly priced.—Geo. K. Kline, Johnstown, Pa.

We have just received by express a remarkably lucky purchase of women's skirts by our eastern buyer. Nearly one hundred walking skirts in all; over fifty different styles; about twenty different materials. The skirts are all spic-span new spring styles—every garment an authoritative spring model. The materials are broadcloths, herringbone cheviots, fancy mixtures, clay worsteds and fine tailorings; colors, navy blue, brown, black and mixtures.—J. M. High Co., Atlanta, Ga.

This purchase of a manufacturer's entire output of high-class dress and walking skirts is bound to create widespread interest. You will find in the assortment skirts made of the best cloth and silk and we're going to offer them to you at prices below their real worth. A few of the leading values.—S. Kann, Sons & Co., Washington, D. C.

The skirts are plain—enough weight in the material to make them hang well.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

We'll give you six dollars for four fifty to-morrow in the shape of stylish walking skirts.—Z. L. White Co., Columbus, O.

No one can wear a short skirt all the time—but no one can wear a long skirt all the time, either. You can get the two to-day for about the price of one because we are clearing up odds and ends.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The new large sleeves, the gracefully rolling collar, the smartly fashioned girdle effects, and the full shirred and circular skirts are the features which will cause greatest comment in the new styles to be seen in our opening display. The materials especially favored are coverts, chiffon, taffeta, pongee, linen and lace. The illustrations show but a few of the many handsome models.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Separate skirts. Only fifty of these. A little special lot our buyer picked up at a bargain. Materials include voiles, panamas, serges and wool batistes in black, navy and white, also some fine models of excellent imported worsteds in checks and stripes. Pleated effects predominate, of course. Some are finished with folds of taffeta or straps of self material. There is a broad assortment of styles and a complete range of sizes and lengths for those who come early. Not a style in the lot worth less than $12.05, if priced in the regular way and from that up to $22.50.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Fine dress skirts. You can buy lots of skirts at $4.95, but you won't get the style, quality and workmanship in any skirt for less than $7.50 to $8. Here is positively the best value in dress skirts you can get in the city. Black Panama with double box pleats down front, back and side; the panels between pleats are trimmed with narrow tucks and folds of same material.—Martin's, Peoria, Ill.

White skirts. Our white automobile cloth skirts are the talk of all Trenton. The features about our skirts: They are wider than the average skirt you buy elsewhere; they are four yards around the bottom. Customers say they fit better and the workmanship is superior, and they have 3 1-2 inch hems in each skirt. We show five styles in all waist measures and lengths from 36 to 45. The best skirt ever sold in this city at the price.—Miller-Schwartz Co., Trenton, N. J.

Really costs very little to keep dainty and cool, if you go to the right store for your ready-to-wear suits. Be convinced by looking at these pretty White Shirt Waist Suits, any one of which will make you look as fresh as a rose with the dew still sparkling on it.—Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, Pa.

Women's summer costumes at very reasonable prices. What a fine collection we show of the newest summer styles in women's shirt waist suits. A stock entirely new, crisp and beautiful. The range of styles is varied and complete, with most of the ideas exclusively ours; it's a relief certainly to know that you won't meet a hundred other people wearing a suit exactly like your own. The materials include muslins, linens, organdies, zephyrs, etc., all easy washing and good wearing.—Hudson's Bay Stores, Vancouver, B. C.

WOMEN'S READY-TO-WEAR WAISTS

This assemblage expresses entirely original ideas of designers of note and unusual ability, and we believe the collection will prove the most interesting we have yet shown. There are tailored waists of unusual merit—also lingerie waists that will appeal to those whose requirements are for more fanciful creations. There are waists at every price from the modest to the necessary cost of waists made entirely by hand. We invite your inspection.—Julius Garfinkle & Co., Washington, D. C.

This season's prettiest models, becomingly trimmed with embroideries, laces, tucks, etc.—some have allover fronts, collars and cuffs daintily trimmed with narrow edgings—open back or front. These splendid waists are made in good lawns, fashioned in keeping this spring's correct style ideas—waists that are cut liberally full and wide and excellently sewed—the products of America's cleverest waist makers.—J. M. High, Atlanta, Ga.

Elegant waists at half. An opportunity! A splendid opportunity! This sale of rich new waists includes our superb collection of evening models—the Clover brand. Dainty laces, nets and chiffons, unmatched examples of French elegance. No use to attempt description. See them as they really are. At the theater, in the ballroom, at the reception, that's where they should be, and we're selling them at so near half price. When you see them, if you're a judge, you'll recognize their worth. Other lines are reduced.—The Mellon Store, Oklahoma, O. T.

"Never saw such a pretty line in my life," was the expression of many who saw the line Saturday, and the prices so reasonable for such styles and qualities. We can only leave these on display for a few more days, as we will need the room they occupy for our new millinery goods, so avail yourself of the opportunity and take a peep at them while they are on display. You will be tempted to buy if the see them.—Lantz, Mansfield, Ohio.

In accord with shirt waist day we shall clothe our suit department in the daintiest combinations of laces, nets, embroideries, silks and lingerie. Never have we seen real beauty more profuse, and never have we had so good an opportunity to impress you with the superiority of our lines. Every waist is a work of art from the hands of the smartest designers, and there is a charming originality about them all which gives a distinctive air.—A. S. Knowles Dry Goods Co., Montgomery.

Three new styles in white waists. Just received, three dainty new styles. One with pattern embroidered front in neat spray design with eyelet work—tucked in clusters to yoke depth. A style with heavy embroidery in floral design, and vertical rows of German Valenciennes insertion. Another with novelty yoke of embroidery and lace—wide front effect of embroidery combined with lace insertion. All short-sleeved styles.—The Mills Co., Topeka.

Black silk waists are and will be bigger favorites than ever this season, and we have prepared our stock to meet the demand. You will find a full range of sizes to select from in all these. Black taffeta waists—lace trimmed, short sleeves—$5.50 to $12.00. Black taffeta tailored waists—long sleeves, $5.50 to $15.00 Black Radium silk waists, elaborately trimmed with lace insertion and medallions, $9.00 to $15.00. Black net over silk waists, $12.50.—Dege & Milner, Tacoma, Wash.

Chic and dainty blouses. New and attractive designs in ladies' fine lawn and muslin blouses. All beautifully made and trimmed—fine embroideries, laces, etc. The newest and latest styles and most bewitching creations are to be found in this magnificent display of blouses. All reasonably priced. A full range of sizes, from 95c to $7.50.—G. K. McKay & Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Lingerie waists of rare beauty and fascinating elegance. The dainty elegance of these lovely waists is sure to queen it once more in fashion's realm this summer. New styles, beautiful beyond description, novelty creations from both New York and Paris. The display they make in our waist parlors is most fascinating.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

A new line of exquisite allover lace waists in the most attractive designs of the season; made over white China silk, some with hand-made lace medallions; lovely waists for evening wear; worth up to $8.50.—Bass', Atlanta, Ga.

There is an informal exhibition in the ready-to-wear department of the styles in lawn waists which will be most favored this spring. And to-day there is the charm of first choice. Long sleeves or short sleeves, lace and embroidery combinations, tiny tucks, wide pleats, heavy or filmy lace trimmings, or plain tailored styles. They're all here, at prices beginning with 75c.—C. Cohn, San Bernardino, Cal.

Over a thousand stylish waists in a variety of ten models make one of the best mid-week offers of the season. Two very striking models are shown for the first time; one of dotted Swiss, another of fine lawn. Some have the entire front of solid embroidery; others with collar and cuffs of insertion finished with black velvet ribbon. Other models of Persian lawn and soft batiste trimmed with lace and embroidery, and some with entire front and back tucked. There are open back and open front styles; long or short sleeves.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Beautiful waists moderately priced. The advantages for selection from our extensive lines have long since established this section as first in the city. The daintiness and attractiveness of these waists are suggestive of holiday gift making. From the viewpoint of even the most critically inclined the following offers will be found to be of exceptional worth.—Thos. C. Watkins, Hamilton, Can.

The lace and net waists are in several models, open back and elbow sleeves. Some of the net waists have a Renaissance lace collar; others are of imitation Cluny lace with pretty insertions. The silk waists are of messaline in black and colors; also of black taffeta in dainty effects and china silk in white and black.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We show a complete line of new spring styles in lawn, linen, lace and silk. Our new showing of handsome lingerie and linen waists are the most attractive waists we have ever shown; they are simply swell, so to speak.—J. L. Mimnaugh & Co., Columbia, S. C.

Here's a chance to get your summer waists at a big discount. These are from last summer and are soiled, but a little soap and water will make them look like new. All good styles, made of best quality of lawns and trimmed with embroideries and laces.—Montgomery Fair, Montgomery, Ala.

Frisly enough and soft and fine and beruffled enough to have pleased even the famous lady of fashion herself. The material is softest batiste or handkerchief linen, with the fullness supplied by tiny pin tucks. At neck and cuffs and down the front are dainty plaited frills, lace edged. Fastening in front and other details made to correspond with Beau Brummel linen.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn.

Net and lingerie waists in a large variety of styles, beautifully trimmed, in a profusion of laces and medallions, all with new trimmed cuff sleeve. These waists suitable for evening and party wear.—Newman's, Springfield, Ill.

Beautiful white lawn waists in the very effective 1907 styles, underpriced. They are selling fast and there's every reason why they should. Keen judges of good values readily recognize the low prices. In this instance it's a wise buyer who makes an early selection.—Montgomery Fair, Montgomery, Ala.

Another shirtwaist proposition which should appeal. There is another attractive shirtwaist proposition at special counters to-day, something quite different in the waist line from any of the offerings of the season. Women's athletic waists, fine percales in pink and white, blue and white, and black and white checks with polkadots, and light-weight corded madras cloths in black and white effects. These waists are made with wide plait on the shoulder, pocket, turnback cuffs, French back, and separate white linen collar.—Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Women's white lawn waists. 1907 spring styles underpriced. These waists are selling fast. There is every reason why they should. New creations for the spring of 1907 at one-third off is attracting the attention of keen judges of value, hence the necessity to make your selection early.—W. M. Whitney & Co., Albany, N. Y.

The maker of the well-known and justly popular Derby Waists accepted our offer to clear his factory of all of the summer waists on hand. He was glad to dispose of them so he could attend strictly to the production of fall stuff—and we were glad to get them, as you will be when you get them for half the usual cost.—W. V. Snyder & Co., Newark, N. J.

The finest is worth $100—and some woman who is looking for an unusual black waist made of embroidered lace will be glad to pay that much for it. At the other end of the line is a ten dollar French blouse, embroidered and put together entirely by hand. In no previous season have we had an imported waist of this sort to sell for so little. The handful of new things is just a taste of what is coming later.—The John Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

Peter Pan waists. These cool comfortable summer garments are offered in pretty near any material you could suggest, lawns, madras, gingham, and a whole host of mercerized materials. Plain whites or in colors, also a lot of pretty white ones in light blue and pink trimmings. Plenty of polka dot effects, for which there seems to be an insatiable demand.—The Crescent.

These lovely silk waists price-sacrificed. The expected arrival of several new lines of silk waists makes it expedient to effect speedy clearance of these lovely waists. It's a fortunate occurrence for many, as it entails on our part a price sacrifice of $1.00.—The T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Can.

Immense sale waists. Great variety shirt waists, wrappers, sacques, kimonos and sweaters. News extraordinary—opportunities to save money that should stir every economical woman. So varied an assortment, such desirable, attractive styles and materials at prices so greatly below regular value have not been offered here before. Many are "while they last" groups which we know will go like the wind, so we warn you to come early.—L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark.

The continued popularity of our exclusive and beautiful plaid silk waists was the incentive for the special sale we have prepared for Monday. The silks used in these waists—and they are beautiful silks—are patterns exclusive with us and which cannot be duplicated. There are no more of them to be had. We have made these charming silks into the prettiest and most effective styles of the season, in our own factory, famous for the very high standard of its productions. The colorings of the plaid combinations are exceptionally beautiful—large designs, Rob Roy and miniature plaid being represented, and each waist trimmed to best express some color scheme throughout. Black and white club checks are also very stunning. Sale prices, $12.50 and $15.00.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bro., Chicago, Ill.

If you want a plain waist for everyday wear, or a very pretty waist of silk or wool, here's a bargain opportunity that's going to bring a crowd to the second floor Friday whether it rains or shines. 250 waists all told. They are soiled—that's the straight-from-the-shoulder fact. We've marked them half-price and they are worth ever so much more. Come waist buying to the second floor to-day. You'll be sorry if you don't.—The Broadway Dept. Store, Los Angeles, Cal.

Shirtwaist suit values. The splendid shirtwaist suit values to be found in our garment department are almost irresistible, and it's high time to buy one when such opportunities are presented. Here are serviceable, beautiful and charming garments that bear every mark of the approved styles, and that are unsurpassed in workmanship and materials.—Louis Einstein & Co., Fresno, Cal.

The waists could not possibly be made for our selling prices—as a matter of fact those prices would not pay for the lace and embroidery used in the waists. The waists are perfect in fit and finish. The eyelet embroidery, the silk embroidery, the allover embroidered fronts are all admirably executed. There are styles with yokes of lace inserting, trimming of embroidered medallions and lace inserting. All button back. Some have half, others three-quarter sleeves. The cuffs and collars are tucked and have lace edge. All sizes. This is a competition-defying sale, and we are inclined to think that retailers who are offering bargains will sit up, blink and marvel at our daring.—Bloomingtondale's, New York City.

We've made a plunge in high-grade waists this season—secured a large assortment of the very most elaborate and exclusive waists the market affords. The stock is now complete and ready for buyers who want the finest and best for evening wear. These are waists that no ordinary dressmaker could make at any price—the finest materials—the daintiest styles—the highest grade waists shown anywhere in this city. To start the sale on these waists we offer four lines at the following cut prices. These are bona fide reductions and will be in effect this week only. Misrepresentation never goes over the name of Machin. You can buy these waists this week, knowing that you are actually saving just what we represent. It pays to walk a block or two out of the way to buy at Machin's.—Machin Shirt Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Beautiful silk waists that are actually bringing $10 in any good store in the land are now being sold here for $6.50. This is another of the great object lessons that we have been showering on the people of Tacoma during this sale.—The People's Store, Tacoma, Wash.

The latest novelties in Japanese silk waists, open back, short sleeves, lace and embroidery trimmed, special prices.—John H. Taylor, San Bernardino, Cal.

One of the particular advantages of buying one or several of these waists at $4.98 is the remarkable saving to your pocket. The economy is patent when you see and handle the waists. Another is, the garments are extremely popular already, and the favor will increase as the season grows. Another is, the waists are very dressy and stylish. We might cite several more points, but these will do.—John G. Myers Co., Albany, N. Y.

Handsome lingreie waists of fine Batiste and Persian lawn with all-over embroidery; truly exquisite creations; made in the daintiest styles with trimming of German Valenciennes lace and beautiful embroidery, designed and beautified with cluster tucks and with collars and sleeves charmingly trimmed with lace—models that are sure to win the favor of all who see them—new things, exclusive things and best of all in every wanted size.—Hahne, Newark.

An unusually beautiful collection of new and charming styles in women's waists makes this section especially attractive just now. There are pretty models suited to the demands of all the occasions when the dainty separate waist is worn. We mention three specials.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Thursday morning we will place on sale several dozen colored waists. For the most part they are samples, there being no two alike; a small proportion are from regular stock and will be found in correct styles for camping and outing wear. The assortment contains all styles, both short and long sleeves. Some button in the back and others button in front. Both light and dark shades. The sale will be conducted around the bargain counter on the second floor.—The Crescent, Spokane.

A great sale of waists. The prices in the details that stand for what these waists are worth represent our own former prices—the reductions were made from them. To say that the bargains are remarkable, and that the reductions are the largest we ever saw, is stating sensational facts in a very un-sensational manner. They are all this, and more—they are values that cannot be matched in a day's journey of Houston. Summer styles, and some are mussed, and some are not. However, the guilty and not guilty suffer, both alike, clean ones and smudged ones—thrown into the hopper, emerging well done, thoroughly browned bargains. They are waists that fall under the classification of "lingerie"—cool as morning breezes—of lawns, and what isn't lawn is lace and embroidery. And how pretty they all are—and how cheap! Do not make the mistake of consigning them to the limbo of soiled and dirty waists—not one more than smudged—most of them are clear as can be—and not one is hurt beyond the redemption of soap and water.—Levy Bros. Dry Goods Co., Houston, Texas.

Styles galore. Don't look for trimming touches on the best styles. The toniest makers have given no further beauty than that of shape and tailoring in the cloth and flannels. Silk waists are fussed a little with a pretty tie or piping or some trifle that looks careful and finished. But fanciful trimmings and the like—their absence is the hall-mark of right on the best waists.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

A number of new and stylish models have been introduced this season. The flannels are more beautiful than ever, closely copying in design the beautiful silk and cotton fabrics. Some of the lines are extremely lightweight and firm in weave. In fact the assortment throughout is much more attractive than ever before.—James McCutcheon & Co., New York, N. Y.

When one of the leading makers of women's shirt waists offered us his "over-lines" at a ridiculously little price, you may be sure we didn't give him a chance to change his mind. These twenty different styles of fresh, new summer waists represent those that manufacturers make up for their regular trade—they're perfect in every respect and the very sorts that, if we bought them earlier, we should have to ask $5 or even more. White lawns and batistes are the materials—fine grades of both; trimmings are clever arrangements of tiny group tuckings to form yokes; insertions of alternating lace and embroidery in the fronts and sleeves; attached stock collars of lace or of embroidered material; short sleeves, as befits summer styles, and open backs to allow of prettier trimmings to the fronts.—Coulbert Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Einstein's shirt waists have a reputation for their unequaled style and beauty. But these latest additions to our assortment are the smartest creations yet. We could sell them for much more, but owing to the cool weather, waists are not moving as fast as they should, hence these waists of a quality seldom offered at this price. The fronts are of allover embroidery, and yokes and front panels are of fine two-thread lace; they're made with three-quarter or long sleeves and open front and back. To appreciate these high class and stylish waists you must see them.—L. Einstein & Co., Fresno, Cal.

To-day's white waist specials. Several grades of delightfully cool, tastefully made, white waists will be offered for special sale to-day. The object is to rapidly decrease a heavy stock. We want especially to direct your very particular attention to a group of waists with all-over embroidery fronts, also some lace and medallion trimmed combinations as well as waists with Irish embroidery and lace that will be specially priced.—Emery, Bird & Thayer, Kansas City, Mo.

An exceptional strong value. Waists made of fine sheer materials, in about 20 pretty and effective styles. Some have beautiful all-over embroidery fronts in both blind and open designs. Others with tailored tucks, as well as many different styles, trimmed with embroideries, laces, pleats, etc., with tucked, laced edged or embroidered cuffs, lace edged collars, truthfully the strongest waist value we have offered this season.—The Wonder Cloak & Suit House, Fresno, Cal.

These values will certainly bring the shoppers down in great numbers, there's this collection for to-day's quick selling. White lawn waists made in a great variety of pretty styles, some trimmed with laces and embroideries, others in tucked effects. There are values in this lot worth up to $3.50, but owing to the fact that they are slightly soiled from handling (one washing will easily remedy this) the lot will be sacrificed.—Montgomery Fair, Montgomery, Ala.

Its purpose is two-fold. First, that you may have an incentive to excite your interest in the new models with which we are constantly supplementing our already extensive collection of waists, and so that you may be conscious of the extremely modest prices which prevail at all times. Our collection affords exquisite waists for evening service and waists of French and Saxony flannels in plaids, stripes and colors, trimmed with silk or leather.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Perhaps this shirt waist sale of ours is the biggest thing which has ever punctuated the regular conduct of our department. Not only did we satisfy a demand for more than eleven thousand high grade waists, but the accumulated force of our offer compelled us to augment the sale with a further collection, which embraces a new series of high grade waists in long and short sleeve, open back and open front styles.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Japanese silk waists the most serviceable for hot weather. If you think how they wash and how seldom they have to be washed—for they seem to have the knack of dodging dirt—you will agree with us that they are the most satisfying, most thoroughly nice, of all the sheer white or black waists worn this summer.—Jewett & Knapp, Lansing, Mich.

Not a waist in this lot you ever saw before, neither have you seen any just like them, for none like them have been shown in town. They came from one of New York's best makers, at a liberal reduction from original values to close out the stock. The making is above reproach, the cutting perfect, the styles perfectly exquisite.—The Crescent, Spokane, Wash.

Grand shirt waists at $1.00.—Strongest values we've ever had. New waists—none over 30 days in the house. Snappy styles—at first glance you'll feel a relief from "that everlasting sameness." Chambrays, percales, lawns, linens, etc., in white and the daintiest colorings.—The Unique, Los Angeles.

Shirt waists of high degree—lowest prices yet quoted. The smartest of all the summer waists—the more expensive materials—the more artistic models—the waists prized by dressy women—the waists which feature the fashion and show their value in every line of contour, in decoration and making.—Schlesinger & Mayer, Chicago, Ill.

One point we wish to emphasize is this: In mentioning former prices, not only have we avoided exaggerations, but it is a fact that there are a few waists in each lot that formerly sold for more than the valuation given. Knowing that these would undoubtedly sell first, we have refrained from mentioning them for fear of disappointing our patrons who may come too late to secure them. Third floor, State street.—Mandel Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Once again we demonstrate our ability to save you considerable money on your garment purchases. As we have explained before, buying huge quantities as we do enables us to get first option on just such good things as this lot of waists. The manufacturer knew that quantity, no matter how large, is no drawback for us so long as the price is right, so he made us a proposition of a trifle less than the actual wholesale cost to clean up his entire made-up stock and samples. It was a great chance for us and for you, because we are going to turn every bit of saving over to our patrons, just as we did at the skirt sale last week. That's our way—good dependable merchandise at half price, even if it is "right at the start of the season"—and you can come to this sale with the fullest confidence that you will find just such unusual values as we advertise. This lot of waists will be divided into three prices.—Schuneman & Evans, St. Paul, Minn.

Waist Sale continues to-day. Selling records are being broken day by day in the big waist section. To-day's bargains will include some new lots, at under-the-market prices, that have just arrived. The prices at which these waists will sell should interest you, for they are about one-third the real value.—Emery, Bird, Thayer Co., Kansas City.

Having wide open access to the world's markets, buying the materials with the experience obtainable only by years, buying it in quantities sufficiently large to appeal to the bigger business instincts of the largest manufacturers, it's no wonder values are exceptionally good. And there is an evidence of fine workmanship and a perfect fitting quality about an Eaton-made waist that is quite the equal of a waist made to measure, while, in many instances, they possess a style of elegance that cannot be duplicated.—T. Eaton Co., Toronto, Ont.

A brilliant array of shirt waist values. Our women's lingerie waists; combinations of sheer cotton and linen fabrics, with airy lace and embroidery embellishments, possess all of the imported Parisian garments. The conceptions in artistic needlework are really wonderful and the tailoring is as perfect as skilled craftsmen can produce. Values range from $5.75 to $15 each, but those that have lost their crisp freshness from stock handling are especially reduced for this sale.—B. Lowenstein & Bros., Memphis, Tenn.

Startling surprises in shirt waists.—A bombshell in the shirt waist section! Our fall goods are piling in on us so rapidly that we must have room regardless of the cost of making it. That accounts for this phenomenal Friday offer. Your free and unrestricted choice of any white waist in the house, without reserve, including all of those magnificent waists with dainty embroidery, insertion and lace trimmed effects in the daintiest of materials.—Yonker Bros., Des Moines, Ia.

Echoes of shirt waist clearing sale.—The thousands of waists with which we began this great all week sale have proven a revelation to women, not only in value giving but in the possibilities which the makers have incorporated into the style; for human ingenuity has seldom ever designed shirt waists which were prettier in effect than those shown for this season. While there are a few weeks yet in which you can comfortably wear sheer waists; from a merchandise standpoint our shelves must be filled with fall goods and the summer garments must go regardless of profits sacrificed. The four following items represent a regrouping of values and contain some very meritorious bargains.—A. H. Hamburger & Sons, Los Angeles.

Enter the new silk waists—with a flourish of trumpets, too, for they're the first of the new styles to appear on the scene. Hence they're sure of an eager welcome from hundreds of waiting women. Worth waiting for—never have the styles been so attractive. The assortment of waists at $5, for example, is broader and better than any we've ever shown at the price. There are some notably pretty waists of shot silk in this group. Then, as they go up in price, the vista broadens. French models have been copied lavishly, and their influence is noticeable in the charming styles. Some of the waists are tailored; box plaits are much in evidence, and there are many most attractive effects in hemstitching. $37.50 buys the highest priced waist in the collection—other prices are scattered thickly from $5 up.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Good taste in a garment can't be described, but it can be felt, nevertheless, by everyone who sees it. These silk waists have that indefinable something about them which makes them alluring to every woman who sees them. They are made as they should be and at a fraction of real worth, because made from a lot of silks.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Splendid news of shirt waists.—Variety, daintiness, economy—these are the things that make the Abraham & Straus stock of waists most notable hereabouts. Choose one waist or a dozen, and be sure of getting the smartest, freshest style, the best materials and most careful making. If you bought the goods and did the work yourself it would cost you more than the price here now.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

It isn't often that you have a chance at the very cream of waistdom so much under price right at the beginning of a great season. The circumstances are peculiar; explanation hardly necessary as long as you can get the waists. All the latest fads and fancies, including Gibson and Christy effects. The materials are white lawns, organdies and pure Irish linens in white, mercerized zephyrs in colored stripes, plain colors in mercerized chambrays, exquisite new linen effects, novelties in black and white, beautiful embroidered goods and many other styles. You'll certainly buy two or three instead of one when you see how cheap they are.—Coulter Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Wash shirt waists—finest products of sartorial art. A myriad of women can be fitted and not at a burdensome tax on the pocketbook. Give up all ideas of having wash waists made—that is if time spent in pleasure would be taken, to sit down and make the garments. We are certain you could not make them prettier, better or cheaper. It's midsummer and our waist department must get its shelves depleted. We are not looking for profits—just want to get rid of summer goods now.—Ham-burger's, Los Angeles, Cal.

The fall shirt waists.—There is a smartness about the shirt waists for women, this fall, that has never been seen before. The tailoring does it. Of course the materials are different—heavier; but the tailoring demanded them. And so we see vestings, cheviot, linen canvas, brilliantine, madras, raw silk, basket-weave chevions, etamine, velvets and French flannels; and they are cut with the bold lines of a tailored jacket. The box-plaiting, the strapping and stitching, the buttons, all show the tailored effects that are so original and effective.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Dainty, well made, correctly shaped waists are the only sort worth buying, no matter how little the prices. You want to be sure that when you get your waists home they will fit and have the style that is becoming. It is on waists of this character, waists that are as fine in every detail as can be found anywhere at full prices, that to-morrow offers savings of a third to half.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Your waist is here. And a very handsome one, too—what we tell about are those ordained as the popular and stylish waists for this season. We have assembled those which give the most perfect expression to the new Parisian waist modes. Hundreds of waists to select from—a most diversified gathering. Dainty lawn waists, cool batistes—sheer shimmery waists of China silk and the smartly popular ones of allover lace. By a diligent and careful survey of the waist market—by a thoughtful consideration of style and values—before placing our order—we can now offer you values which you will find impossible to duplicate at any other store.—Wolfson Bros., Jersey City, N. J.

Our waists were never so grand. Originally stunning effect and individuality in the broadest sense is the only answer.

This season's line is the most elaborate that we have ever shown. It includes everything from the most exquisite creations designed for the most important social functions down to the smart styles designed specially for tailored suits for immediate wear.—Besters & Langers, Indianapolis, Ind.

To term yesterday's waist sale a pronounced success would give the reader no idea of the eagerness of the buyers or the rapidity of the selling of the special waists at 25c, 39c, and 59c. It was just another demonstration of what good values will do. Scores of new things are on the tables to-day. The weather demands the use of more white waists than usual. Buy your summer supply now while you can secure them at prices that prevail in our waist department.—Weinstock, Lubin Co., Sacramento, Cal.

White shirt waists, reduced. Time they had new owners—that is why all our dainty serviceable $5.00 white waists are $2.98. There is wide variety of them for choice.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

You may search Manhattan Island from end to end and you won't find anything so good. We do not hesitate to guarantee these garments, because we know they will give you splendid satisfaction. The styles are correct, they are well made and the materials are firm but sheer.—The 14th Street Store, New York.

A few fall shirtwaists.—An early autumn has brought them out a little sooner than usual—women who are planning their fall clothes can glean hints of the new styles from them. A few are of the heavy fancy cotton materials that are seen in men's vests—some colored, some white. These are a good sort to stop the gap between thin summer waists and winter ones.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

The new fall waists have been enthusiastically admired.—These beautifully tailored waists came at the most appropriate time, and women of taste seized upon them quickly, for the cool days that this week brought. The fabrics are not heavy, not too warm—cheviot, pique, canvas weaves—the first step away from the real things. Then the artistic styles and the smart tailoring make them fascinating to women anxious for something new.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Hundreds of royal shirt waists at 99c instead of $1.50 and $2.00. You've only to stop a minute on the first floor, junction Broad and State street stores or on the second floor Broad street store, and ask to see the 99c. waists to-morrow to understand that you have presented yourself the best buying opportunity of the season in fine white shirt waists. Plaited, tucked, shirred, and some trimmed with embroideries and laces. All of the very newest cut and finish—S. P. Dunham & Co., Trenton, N. J.

Somewhat like getting strawberries in August, to have a wide assortment of white-waists to choose from to-day. These have just come in from the manufacturers, and show the newest ideas that have been brought out since the season began. And there's a bargain in every one of these prices, as you'll admit when you see the waists.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Made of very sheer white lawn in two new models. One has entire front of fine embroidery and fancy tucks; tucked back and sleeves; fancy separate stock; a half dozen styles of embroidery to choose from. The other model is in yoke effect; back and front of fancy open-work; tucked blouse; pleated back; fancy stock and cuffs.—Adams Dry Goods Co., New York.

The charm of the new fall waists lies in their grace of line, their rich beauty of coloring rather than in elaborate trimmings. Gay little plaid bands flash a dozen subdued colors at you. A touch of embroidery in pretty, delicate colors gives an exclusive note of richness.

Bands and pipings in contrasting colors brighten the plain waists. A mere hint of soft leather is a novel touch on others. And these trimmings are put on in graceful, curving lines about the shoulders; materials are laid in long pleats—every little waist is full of a pleasing beauty of line; is a quiet but rich feast of color.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

A dollar has always been a popular price for a shirt waist, and as a special attraction for Saturday we have arranged a big lot of dainty, pretty white waists to sell at this price. Very few of them could be bought regularly for less than $1.50, although here and there you'll find a waist that is marked $1.25. They come in white lawn, trimmed with pleats, fine tucks, embroidery, lace insertion, etc. It's by far the biggest lot of nice waists ever offered at such a price.—Jacoby Bros., Los Angeles, Cal.

The best sources of all the world have been extensively drawn upon for the completion of these wonderfully attractive new lines. Heavy orders placed with noted Parisian designers have brought out the most effective and the daintiest novelties in sheer materials that we have ever displayed. Many entirely new features are introduced in all the styles—from the plainest to the most elaborate, and the best of them have been exclusively confined to this store. A lowness in the prices adds material interest to this event.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

No use delaying longer. Crowds are packing the counters every minute, the bargains are so big. All $2 and $2.50 ones at 88c—we bought them at a song and so can you—over 300 designs, in fully 50 effective and catchy styles—made of brilliantine, French flannels, voiles, oxfords, mercerized novelties, etc.—tucked, plaited and fancy trimmed, and all colors and black—all waists made to sell at $2 and $2.50, and you'll find these identical waists in up-the-street stores at those prices—but pick 'em out here.—L. H. Guldman, Denver, Colo.

Machin's sale of shirt waists, belts and neckwear! At half price is the all absorbing theme on Spring street. We are making a record in this sale; people know the sterling worth of our tailor-made shirt waists made by hand in our own work rooms, and Machin's trade mark gives distinction not found in other garments.—Machin Shirt Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

By the new sleeves (which have a tendency toward fulness at the shoulders) may you know our collection of waists to be direct copies and adaptations of the exclusive imported models. All manner of laces lend their richness to the waists, which are of chiffon, taffeta, messaline and louisine silks, in the shades which fashion's edict demands for the new season.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Daintiest shirt waists must go.—Right at the beginning of summer's hottest month you can profit by striking reductions on some of the most beautiful shirt waist creations in white that have been seen here this season.—Sibley, Lindsay, & Curr Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Made to sell at $2. Priced at $1. That in a nutshell is the Thursday news of waists. But we can't resist adding a word or two to tell you how very dainty the waists really are. They're made of good quality white lawn. Included are waists in yoke effects. Surplice style. Also plain wide plaited effects, Buttoned front or back. It's the second shipment of that great purchase at 50c on the dollar. Don't want to hurry you, but it's only fair to say that there'll be a tremendous demand for these waists at $1. Plenty for all, of course, but first choice is always best.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Shirt waists for $1.00 that have been selling all the season at $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00. Isn't that interesting? Here are the waists—two thousand of them; lawn, linen, batiste and swiss, in styles the newest and varied enough to please all tastes. It is a special collection of new waists from our regular stock; we are proud of them at the usual prices. The opportunity which a sale like this brings for an increased business is the only reason why waists as stylish and handsome as these are presented now for one dollar. Every waist is an exquisite example of design and needlework. The sheerest, daintiest materials, absolutely correct and put together with special care. Fresh from the cases they came in; not soiled, or in the least bit rumpled. You might call them lingerie waists, if you think of the word as meaning with an air of grace and distinction more pleasing than you have thought of it before. Newest patterned embroideries, laces, groups of small tucks and pleatings compose the most unusual and elaborate sort of beauty-work. Even those of handkerchief linen—sheer, cool—with no trimmings except pleats and stitching, have about them a refined appearance that is "different." The styles are numerous, and perfect in every detail.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Misses' shirt waists of fancy colored madras, lawns, zephyrs, percales, tissue and linen; also pretty white lawn (lace effect), dimity and pique, a variety of styles, some made with stiff collar and cuffs, others made with soft stocks and cuffs to match, sizes 26 to 34 bust, not exchangeable, 25 cents.—Chapman & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Correct Styles at Cut Prices.—We have chosen the daintiest, coolest and most stylish waists, and they are here—a big army of them. In many cases more than half the usual prices have been lopped off.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The First new Shirtwaists for Fall.

Just a sprinkling—for women going away to the mountains or the seashore.

Some of madras, heavier, of course, than the summer stuff, some of wash flannel, and some of woolen crash, which we are told will be very much worn during the coming season.

The newest and best styles of course.—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Aren't you tired reading of all the clearing sales going on all over the country—all those merchants that "don't know" trying to dispose of styles that didn't sell all season? Why, no matter how cheap they are, they're dear. Our summer stocks have disappeared long ago and in their place now are bright, clean, fresh cotton waists of all kinds. Cotton waists are going to be the smart thing for late summer and early fall. We know, and "If we show it, it's right.—Perlmutter's, Jersey City, N. J.

"Behold me,
I am the shirt waist,
The universal slip
That woman wears
And revels in.
The fickle Goddess Fashion
Flits
To parts unknown
When I appear,
For I have come to stay.
I, the Shirt Waist;
I, the one fixed fashion
Of the fair."

—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, Pa.

They're a wonderful collection—thousands of waists, all told, and not an undesirable style among them—not a waist that you can't put on and wear with a sense of being fashionably dressed.—Schlesinger & Meyer, Chicago, Ill.

You'll appreciate the unusual nature of a reduction on fall goods at this season. It's something out of the ordinary. Could not quite realize it ourselves at first, but we really secured this fine lot of fall waists at a discount that enables us to offer them at a third off.

The new waists will sell right along with the marked down summer goods. It's a situation like that described by California travelers. Ripe fruit and blossoms on the same tree. Summer goods are the ripe fruit; the fall styles the blossoms.—Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Did ever a western concern make so remarkable an offering to its clients? Did ever a woman within the reach of this advertisement read such really sensational bodice news? $4.00 to $7.50 derby waists $2.25. Fifty styles if there's one; charming waists of finest white lawns with gorgeous fronts and sleeves of delicate Valenciennes insertions and knife tucks; superb waists of pure linen, decorated with the rich and handsome Mexican drawn work; delightful waists of elegant white India linens with complete fronts of expensive applique laces set in floral designs; simply exquisite waists of imported white longcloths with trimmings of elegant Cluny lace insertions. The surplus stock of the well and favorably known manufacturers of these well and favorably known bodices, who were clearing the decks for a fall business, and who could not resist a ridiculously small offer of the Symons buyer when that offer furnished the opportunity of disposing of such a quantity as three hundred dozen bodices.—Symon's, Anaconda, Mont.

Advance showing of new autumn waists.—When you see these new waists you'll go into ecstasies over them—they are so decidedly clever and so radically new. That's because we had something to say about the making—had our exclusive ideas carried out.—Snellenberg's, Phila., Pa.

Clearing the white shirt waists.—Prices begin at 50c. and creep by easy stages up to three and a half dollars—but the worth is fully a third more in every instance. Stock readjustment necessitates their removal from here; even though you'll wear them 'til snow flies.—McCurdy & Norwell Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Fifty dozen fresh, clean garments just from the factory—not samples. We are agents here for these "Monogram" waists, otherwise we would never have known of this bargain lot, and they are bargains in the truest sense of the word, every last one of the fifty dozen. In the lot is every new style you have seen or heard of, every mode of trimming and decoration that has won favor.—N. B. Blackstone Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Two thousand silk waists radically underprice. This offering presents practically every handsome style brought out this season. The original prices of the waists ranged from $4.50 to $13.50 each. All the different varieties of silk weaves in the various colorings are included, and there can scarcely be a wish in the matter of style that this enormous collection does not supply.—John Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

Tables piled with dainty waists in the best offer of the season. Prices are wonderfully little—but there is more than low prices to stir women's interest in the day's news. These waists are in every instance as fine as can be had for regular prices—as careful in workmanship, as smart in styles. They were bought under their worth—in many instances close to actual cost.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

This is the most delightful collection of shirt waists we have shown this season. New, first time any of the waists have ever been on sale before; they are only a day and a night from the cases they were delivered to us in. What exquisite examples of design and needlework they are. No word will approach the airy, distinctive beauty of them. Made of finest batiste claire, as soft almost as Japanese silk. A solid yoke of handsome embroidery, dainty lace and a profusion of small tucks. The entire front of each waist seems almost entirely of such beauty-work, indescribably new and effective in design.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta, Ga.

No summer wardrobe is complete without one or more dainty Shirt Waists of sheer China silk. And for the woman who feels that need to-morrow brings opportunity to select from a specially attractive group and pay a dollar or even two dollars less than the Waists are worth.—Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

In this land of cool nights, wool waists have all seasons for their own. Probably not a dozen evenings in the whole year when a wool waist is uncomfortably warm. Though we show tremendous varieties all the year 'round there will be no time between now and next fall when exclusive novelties in the rich weaves will be so plentiful as they are to-day.—J. W. Robinson Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Our buyer secured last week in New York sixty dozen handsome waists, bought from one of the best manufacturers, at less than cost of production. These waists are modeled according to Fashion's latest decrees, and embrace a host of fine materials and styles. We've put the prices lower than the Atlanta trade has ever known them upon such truly sterling goods, and the selling will be great from the moment the sale opens to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock. It's the greatest buying opportunity of the season and should decide you to buy your entire summer supply instead of the customary one or two.—M. Rich & Bros. Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Irresistibly Low-Priced Summer Waists.—The new prices, established to-day on these pretty, light summer waists of silk and linen, will prove hard for economical women to resist. The lots are large, and contain a great number of attractive styles and colorings in this season's designs.

It's a rare chance to get smart tailored waists or dressy ones, before starting off for the summer, at next to nothing.

Because you have bought our lawn waists almost faster than we could keep them in stock, our buyer made a special trip to New York this week to lay in a new and large supply for the warm days that are coming. She was fortunate enough to find one of the manufacturers who had so many more waists than he wanted that he offered them to her way under price. You'll wonder why he did it when you see the waists, for they are the very prettiest we have had this whole season. Tailor-made, trim and dainty, in the latest of cut and most of them trimmed with the hem-stitched tucks and bands so popular this season.—D. McCarthy & Sons, Syracuse.

A charming display—the most bewitching styles we have ever exhibited. Come and see them—included you will find a most bewildering assortment of white Jap silk waists—and waists of white lawn, linen, organdie, swiss and batiste—at most reasonable prices.—Livingston Bros., San Francisco, Cal.

That these stylish waists are reduced to broken lots is, aside from the price-cut, sufficient inducement to you to buy, for it proves their popularity. French and washable Scotch flannels in tailor effects, pleated and button trimmed, light and dark, plain and fancy colors; some mohairs in black and white shepherd checks; the season's favorite weaves and designs. To clean them out we say two dollars for choice to-day and tomorrow.—Coulter Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

The heavier waists for fall wear are shown in fine variety. One group of particular interest to-day is composed of waists made of cotton vestings and fancy chevots in various neat effects.—Wanamaker, New York, N. Y.

This is the openwork season on shirt-waists—Boston Globe.

A shirtwaist to put on right away? Cool? As pretty as if it were home-made?—and as inexpensive? These?—Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, Pa.

Shirt waists have an assured position, there's no getting around the fact that shirt waists in one form or another appeal to every woman. Well, then, it's common sense to have a good supply. Suit your shirt waist to the occasion.—Eastman Bros. & Bancroft, Portland.

We are the shirt-waist people. There's reason for it. Our stock embraces all the popular styles, and the prices are irresistible as the dainty waists. If extent, variety and genuine style are the points that you want in shirt waists, then you'll surely look over our showing.—Austin, Westfield, Mass.

The greatest bargains in new shirt waists this famous shirt-waist store ever had. They fit. That's a good way toward coolness to begin with. They are made of strong but dainty materials in the fresh styles of the new season. They are refined and tasteful waists that not only look cool, but are cool. They are as fine waists as may be found anywhere in very much greater variety of styles than may be found anywhere, and never before did such good waists cost so little.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn.

Shirt waists. July and sharp, nippy breezy weather. Of course, it has interfered with the plans of the shirt waist manufacturers. Late products that were expected to meet the brisk demand usually following the first sustained warm period remained lagging for the lack of buyers. The nervous holders are now letting go. That means broken prices.—Macy's, New York.

Prettiest waists anywhere—we're told. How they are flying out! Hurry-up orders to makers are bringing in more to fill the gaps. Most of the hand-embroidery was done by French peasants; embroidered medallions, fine veining, beading, tiny buttons—everything to stamp them French except that little tag "Made in France"—and the price. Ask to see this group of aristocratic beauties.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Waists of velvet and velveteen.—The new velvet and velveteen waists are here, in a great variety of rich styles. Some show Persian designs, others are in invisible stripes, and there is a large and attractive group of black and dark blue waists with metallic effects in pin-dots or small figures. They are all waists that will appeal to women for their dressiness and serviceability—and this is to be a great year for velvets.—Wanamaker's, New York.

Splendid news of shirt waists.—Variety, daintiness, economy—these are the things that make the Abraham & Straus stock of shirt waists most notable hereabouts. Choose one waist or a dozen, and be sure of getting the smartest, freshest style, the best materials and most careful making. If you bought the goods and did the work yourself it would cost you more than the prices here now.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

It isn't often that you have a chance at the very cream of waistdom so much under price right at the beginning of a great season. The circumstances are peculiar; explanation hardly necessary as long as you can get the waists. All the latest fads and fancies, including Gibson and Christy effects. The materials are white lawns, organdies and pure Irish linens in white, mercerized zephyrs in colored stripes, plain colors in mercerized chambrays, exquisite new linen effects, novelties in black and white, beautiful embroidered goods and many other styles. You'll certainly buy two or three instead of one when you see how cheap they are.—Coulter Dry Goods Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

Makers dispose of surplus stock at this time of season. We've bought fresh, clean waists from makers of note—not odds and ends, but styles that are complete in many instances from 32 to 44: a few run even larger. So here are spic span new waists, fresh from their boxes, at wonderfully low prices for garments so clever in design, artistic in workmanship and made of such good quality materials. It's really the height of the season for shirtwaist wearing. So the opportunity is splendid for you and for us; especially so in view of the fact that this is the greatest showing of specially priced waists in the history of this business.—John Taylor Co., Kansas City, Mo.

News that will be welcomed by many women who are apt enough to appreciate a timely special.

For to-morrow we offer Women's Beautiful Oriental Lace Waists, made precisely as illustrated, of all-over Oriental Lace over Japanese Silk, new French yoke; handkerchief effect; embellished with heavy lace medallions and two rows of repousse lace insertion, edged with fine lace, full sleeves, handsome lace cuffs and attached collar.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

Every waist in this sale is a handsome one; you can not find or make a poor selection. Some are of dainty lace insertion, stock same as waists, others have fancy stitch embroidery, stock same as waists. Add a brilliancy and effectiveness to your summer appearance by a purchase at this sale.—W. D. Scott, Waterbury, Conn.

Beautiful white lawn waists. In women's waists, there is no questioning the fact that white has the call for favor. And among the summer weaves—the sheer, immaculate, dainty lawns take precedence over all others. It's really refreshing to one to look over our beautiful showing. From every standpoint, greatness of quantity, diversity of display, richness of styles, quality for price, it stands without a peer. We present a quartet of items which are representative of the stock.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

Waists—Every*day from now on increases the beauty of the showing in this department. The display is already greater than ever before so early, and we are reasonably sure of having everything you want now. One of the noticeable tendencies in waists is the extreme breadth of the shoulders; such devices as tabs being used at the shoulders extending over the sleeve, to increase the broad effect. The materials are various and the colorings indescribable—some of the new shades being exceedingly beautiful.—The Halle Bros. Co., Cleveland, O.

Ladies' fascinating waists. The elaborate, extremely decorative yet dignified modes as well as the simplest, plainest styles in spring and summer waists are now being displayed in varieties so large that none should be disappointed in making a selection.—Blowenstein & Bros., Memphis, Tenn.

Several thousand beautiful crepe de chine silk and lace waists of the very latest ideas will be one of the strong features of our holiday sale. It includes many lines of new spring styles, knowing that our customers would greatly appreciate having the advanced modes to select from, giving them the choicest fads for next season.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago, Ill.

Cotton Waist for Hot Weather Wear.—If you haven't as many cotton waists as you need for the entire summer, don't put the matter off longer. Come to the store to-morrow and take advantage of the complete assortment and unbroken size ranges.—Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

An important sale of shirt waists of silk and wash fabrics dainty elaborated with tucks and embroidery to a degree consistent with good taste. The models, of which they are clever adaptations, were imported. The fabrics are of the highest grace. The prices do not in any sense suggest the infinite care exercised in the fashioning and finish of these garments.—Saks & Company, New York.

All Sorts of New Fall Waists.—Vestings, mohair, flannel, wool bedford, voile, albatross, cashmere, wool crash—almost anything you can want in the way of a good, serviceable material you will find made up into these new Fall waists, which have arrived now in full force and in all their prettiness. The designers of all these waists knew just the right trimming touches to give each material to make an artistic, harmonious whole. But their prettiness doesn't make them unfit for the workaday world.—The Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia.

Flannel Waist Bargains! If our waist department isn't crowded to-morrow 'twill not be for lack of irresistible prices. We've determined to effect a decisive clearance, and our determination is strikingly apparent in the following brief hints.—Haskell & Tripp, New Bedford, Mass.

Washable waists and plenty of them—one way of being comfortable in warm weather. We are pleasing more women with our waists now than ever—white mostly, but in a surprising variety. These are broken assortments and prices accordingly.—Flint & Kent, Buffalo.

The new waist styles. The chic new things. The most exquisite collection of stunning creations ever shown in America. Silk and lace waists, the advanced ideas, showing the correct fads for the coming season.—Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Chicago, Ill.

A whole windowful—and lots more besides—of handsome, stylish, serviceable new shirt waists.—The Spokane Cloak and Suit House, Spokane, Wash.

If your supply of white shirt waists isn't already safely stored away in bureau drawers, ready to don with the first warm days, you'd better provide it soon. And here's a fine, fresh field for choice.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

White shirt waists. Above all others the favorite waists for summer wear. Nothing can ever look so cool or be so cool as sheer white waists.—Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn, N. Y.

It's your chance to get some of the finest and cleanliest-made shirtwaists in the country for about half price. Your neighbor probably bought a dozen, how many will you need for your summer visit?—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

Extraordinary sale of shirt waists. Values are unprecedented. Assortment is superb. One of the supreme buying chances of the year.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

There is a charming profusion of sheer, filmy and fluffy conceptions for evening and street wear, and an immense variety of the simpler and more practical waists.—Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

All winter waists get their dismissal now. Snapping bargains for this Monday.—The Anderson Company, Buffalo.

A bargain sale of women's shirtwaist suits, waists and coats. Far surpassing all previous events in size, variety and extensiveness. An epoch-making sale of genuine bargains of vital interest to every woman in Peoria.—Rosenthal Dry Goods Co., Peoria, Ill.

Every one of the thousand or more beautifully made shirtwaist suits included in this extraordinary offering was made to sell at somewhere between the higher prices named above. The manufacturer is easily the best in the business and if he had not made us a remarkable price-concession on his large surplus, such news as to-day's would be quite impossible. The dresses are in the pick of the season's prettiest styles, are fresh and crisply laundered. The range of materials is as wide as qualities are high.—John Wanamaker, New York.

Selling starts promptly at 9 A. M. Dainty pretty shirtwaist suits, so cool, comfortable and nice for summer wear, and best of all at a very special price. They are very prettily made of sheer firm lawn, white ground with parallel stripes of black or blue; skirts have wide panel front, graduating from 6 inches at the top to 16 inches at the bottom, finished at each side with three wide tucks, four extra panels also edged with tucks, three wide folds between every other panel, waists are cut full and trimmed with sixteen tucks in different widths; tucked cuffs and tailored collars with four-in-hand ties of same material.—H. Graff & Co., Fresno, Cal.

WOMEN'S READY-TO-WEAR COSTUMES AND WRAPS

Exhibition Paris Model Gowns. The style event of the season. Heretofore the larger cities—Paris, London, Berlin, New York, Chicago, etc., have held the key to Dame Fashion's newest and most skillful creations, and women of known ability, exquisite taste and sound judgment, have been compelled to travel long distances to secure the privilege of being favored with a sight of her latest models and choicest conceptions. Ever watchful of our patrons' interests, we have spared neither effort nor money in securing the entire importation of twelve Paris model gowns, brought over and exhibited by the National Dressmakers' Association at their recent convention in Chicago, and which has been written up by the press all over the country and made you desirous of seeing. These, together with about thirty prize-winning American gowns from the Chicago exhibition, will be shown in space adjoining the dressmaking and ladies' tailoring department (fifth floor).—Pettis Dry Goods Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

French and German wraps must pay a duty of 44c. a pound, if wholly or part wool and a general duty of 60 per cent. besides. Now, then, it cost a plenty to make the foreign wrap through slower work, and with the duty and ocean freight and something for our trouble, you can easily see how the prices run high. It's asking too much for women to be satisfied as yet with being confined to American designing, but good sense suggests their using American-made garments. These copies are not stolen—that was the old way of getting an occasional good design. Now we buy with the right to copy—and it's just as honorable to so absorb French styles as to absorb the French language at school. In a word—stylish winter coats at $8.90 to $69—copied from models costing $25 to $169.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Somebody who likes pretty things can not fail to be delighted on Christmas when she opens the box and takes from its tissue paper wrappers one of these broadcloth wraps which combine so much of fashion, beauty and becomingness with so much of use. Every one has the stamp of ultra-modishness—such wraps as Paris approves. It is an exceptional opportunity that enables you to buy such altogether desirable wraps at these prices—and the opera season is just going to begin!—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

Originality finds expression in the conception of an idea, cleverness in its application. Our collection of exclusive garments for formal service demonstrates this most forcibly. It includes costumes and demi-toilettes for evening, theatre, reception and house wear, and coats of rich laces or cloths for the opera and kindred formal functions in imported models and adaptations of them. To invest them with that subtle something termed style the master designers have spent the full power of their genius.—Saks & Co., New York.

Underprices on lace robes.—An article that combines fashion, style and character in an economical form. In overhauling our stock we find that we have still a goodly assortment and have re-marked the entire stock which means an opportunity that thrifty women will be quick to approve.—The Scott Dry Goods Co.

Paris dress robes. A special sale of elegant new French creations. An announcement which will occasion surprise when the beauty of the robes and the flawless character of the workmanship is considered.—Siegel-Cooper Co., New York.

And now to serve you with the choicest and best of the season's productions. Ladies' costumes that have what every smartly dressed woman covets, perfect style and striking individuality.—Metropolitan Dry Goods Co., Saginaw, Mich.

Imported lace robes at half prices! Things of rare beauty—Real lace—Hand-made. Your eyes have already been delighted with the beauty of these foreign robes—they are the sumptuous things which fascinated all women during our first spring show days. No season ever conjured such witchery for gowns—indeed, though, succeeding seasons seem but to emphasize progress beautyward. Mayhap, next, we'll have more enchanting robes, but let the things of to-morrow care for themselves. These are for now.—Walker Bros. Dry Goods Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

Every cape is beautifully tailored—all the smartness that can possibly be crowded into a cape—in 27, 30, 36 and 42 inch lengths.—Bedell, New York.

A collection of exquisite gowns in a most diversified variety of styles, materials and delicate evening shades, including exclusive creations of rich silks and laces in foreign models, designed for dinner and formal evening service.—Saks & Co., New York, N. Y.

Exhibition of exquisite robes. This is a day of marvels in designing and weaving; and these new robes, just in, join hands with the movement at its best. Never were delicate laces and nets stronger and more serviceable; nor fabrics like linen, Madras, Shantung and Voile finer, softer and more radiantly beautiful; while designs and needlework are the most superb examples of artistic genius that have yet been produced.—Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Evening and carriage wraps. A showing that rivals that of the most exclusive New York stores. It will do you good to just see these superb wraps. And they're as varied as they are swell. Finest foreign broadcloths and fancy French ribbed materials. In all the new autumn shades.—Mostly silk lined throughout.—Boston Store, Milwaukee.

The very culmination of garment beauty and refinement! Exquisite evening gowns! Handsome imported evening wraps! Superb evening waists! Evening capes and pelerines! Bewitching street coats and costumes from Paris! Reception gowns that defy description! The very cream of the season's choicest styles! The cleverest conceptions of the world's cleverest designers—now offered at half our former low prices! Descriptions do not describe—we'll not attempt them, but simply quote a few specimen reductions, leaving you to come and see for yourselves the wonderful beauty and excellence of the garments!—Nugent, St. Louis, Mo.

Every one a masterpiece calculated and planned to grace the most fashionable social function known to the smart set—every robe a handsome and striking expression of the lace maker's art—never so many robes—never so many individual styles—never such low prices—three irresistible buying incentives that stand without a parallel in the annals of fine lace robe selling.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York, N. Y.

It seems folly on our part to sell these handsome furlined wraps at these reduced prices. To duplicate them, will cost us much more than these did. Fur linings have advanced. It would pay us to hold them over till next winter, but that's contrary to our business policy, so they're to be sold Monday. These handsome wraps were never more popular than now, and they promise to be even more so next winter. This word to the wise should be sufficient.—The T. Eaton Co., Ltd., Toronto, Can.

The ultra-fashionable garment is unquestionably the one of silk, over which is a lace robe; it gives to the simplest gown a charm and refining grace not otherwise attainable. We own three hundred and fifty this morning—the prettiest that ever came over the seas; bought from several of the largest importers in order to make the grouping complete. They go on sale.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York City.

The robes that make this sale the one supreme buying time in New York are the very finest expressions of the foreign robe maker's art. It is a well known fact that we are called up to supply more ball, reception and evening costumes than any other store in America.—Simpson Crawford Co., New York.

The smartest of Spring wraps from Paris, Berlin, New York. From every important center of wrap designing and making, processions of the newest, most distinctive Spring styles converge on Wanamaker's.—The Wanamaker Store, New York.

Vast lots of new, stylish wraps have been made for us while you were busy with the Christmas shopping—made by the regular tailoring organizations that keep this great store's stocks a-going; made with two thoughts in view—to find work to keep together their working staff and to find outlet for great lots of materials otherwise left to lock up their capital. The savings amount to five to ten dollars on a garment—judged by the earlier full values—and in making and designing they conform to our good standard. The styles are not exact copies of the earlier, but are the season's development—and as made now the coats will be stylish—right for spring.—Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, Pa.

A "novelty" season the tailors call it, and shake their heads in despair when we say: "No suits like those going to other Philadelphia stores, and no two exactly alike, if you want to make for Wanamaker's." But it is just this strictness that has brought us such a wonderful variety of charming and out-of-the-ordinary costumes.—Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

HOW ABOUT A WINTER-WEIGHT SUIT?

All during the month of December we experienced a heavy business on suits and overcoats—while other stores were selling mainly furnishings and holiday goods. Especially noticeable was the demand for young men's clothes—by young fellows of discriminating tastes and critical judgment. The reason is obvious; distinctiveness of design, exclusiveness of fabric, and the faculty of always retaining their shape under the most exacting conditions, have won our garments a most envied position in the favor of these same young men.

MEN'S CLOTHING AND FURNISHINGS

Warm, Dry Underwear is just as essential to health as it is to comfort. Of course, you ought to wear woolen underwear now, but what may be comfort to one, is a torture to the other. For "the other," we have an underwear that is just as warm and dry as wool, and DON'T ITCH—Linen Mesh, Dermophile and Fleece-lined.

If you're sensitive to the itch of wool, you should see this line.

DRESS SHIRTS

Fancy percale dress shirts. All stiff bosoms and two pairs of cuffs with every shirt—different styles. About the neatest patterns, considering the whole lot, that we ever saw. Not a real loud pattern in the lot. Open front and back. The shirts are strictly a high-grade brand, made up with the greatest of care from excellent qualities of percale, up to date in style and in patterns, the kind that fit comfortable around the collar, with neckbands on which the collar will set tight and without squeaking like a set of new harness. Nothing skimpy about the sleeves or the body of the shirt.

THERE'S A KNACK OF CUTTING A FANCY WAISTCOAT

that most makers have yet to learn. It isn't an easy matter to overcome the wrinkling, go-away nature of the soft fancy fabrics. Our designer does it most cleverly; it is a matter of method in both cut and tailoring. That's why our waistcoats fit so snug, and serve their purpose so admirably.

YOU WILL SAY IT'S EXCELLENT!

I can think of nothing more refreshing, at this time of the year, than a cup of tea, deliciously fresh, with the bloom of spring still on its tender young leaves, which, although only plucked from the bushes in June, I am now able to place on your tea table in —, so rapid is the means of transit nowadays. In making this season's blend I have used only the choicest growths procurable, and I do not hesitate to say that a finer tea has never been offered in — at 37c. per pound.

DIAMOND PURITY

In the selection of a diamond, size is only one of many considerations. Purity of color and freedom from flaws are very important elements, as also are shape and style of cutting. The most important feature, we think, in buying diamonds, is the source you procure them from. We buy direct from the cutters in Amsterdam. This enables us to give our customers the choicest of gems without having to pay the fancy prices.

NEW VISIBLE BIFOCAL LENSES

for "far" and "near" vision. This bifocal, known as the " — Optical Co.'s Invisible Bifocal," is ground by a special process by which the segments are practically invisible, their presence not being noticeable to the casual observer. To the wearer they allow the eyes to range up and down without annoyance so successfully that many who have been unable to wear other forms of bifocals can use them with pleasure. They can be made as thin as desired, and remember they have no large cemented surface to blur or fog.

DO YOUR GLASSES SLIP OFF?

Cold weather causes shrinkage of skin, loose fitting, tilting and slipping off of eyeglasses with ordinary nosepieces. This is positively avoided by using — nosepieces on your glasses. Their spring adjusts itself to any shrinkage. They give exclusive style to the eyeglasses and cost no more than the others.

MAY BE RESPONSIBLE

if your child's eyes are not made right.

How sad it is to see a child with cross eye or squint. Yet, parents, you ought to know that in 8 out of 10 cases of cross-eye the defect is caused by an error of refraction, the proper correction of which in nearly every case will straighten the eyes. You've tried glasses, and it didn't work? Well, notice we said "the proper correction." But don't think it will be an easy matter if not attended to early.

STOP AND THINK ABOUT THEM

They often pain you a little. You simply give them a rest, and you are relieved. But they ought not to pain you with ordinary use. There is something wrong. Let me test them. I make no charge for that. And if you need glasses, or if it comes from some other cause, I will tell you.

This shows wording and illustrations, but does not suggest manner of display.

A HARD HEADACHE

is often the result of straining the eyes. The only way to prevent the headaches is to remove the cause. Have the eyes fitted with glasses that will prevent eye-strain. Our fitting will enable you to read and work with ease to your eyes. The examination of the eyes is free of charge.

DANGER

No. 366

DANGER

There's danger in delay, especially in sight troubles.

If your eyes water or smart when reading, remember that is nature's warning of danger. She never warns falsely.

There's no reason to neglect the warning. Inspection is free here and the prices of glasses are within the reach of the smallest purse.

This shows wording and illustrations, but does not suggest manner of display.

THERE'S DANGER IN DELAY

Attend to your eyes at once. Three forms of eye trouble are commonly met with, any one of which may have existed from birth. Nature does not always make perfect eyes. We have near-sightedness, far-sightedness, and astigmatism, which is a form of irregular sight. All of these defects require attention. If a child has any of these ocular defects and is expected to do close work of any kind, he must have his eyes carefully examined and wear such glasses as will correct the refraction of his eyes. As well expect a child born with one leg shorter than the other to walk without limping as to ask one born with imperfect vision to do accurate eye-work without suffering the consequences. Consultation free.

DRESSY SHOES THAT WEAR

In workmanship, in leathers, in style, these shoes are as fine as can be made. They're the very perfection of shoemaking. Even the custom bootmaker who charges double and more can't put better materials into his productions, for the best materials obtainable are used in these. He can't give you better workmanship, for the skill employed in turning out these shoes is of the highest order, and in the factory where they are made the facilities for doing good work are far greater than the custom bootmaker possesses.

DON'T BE A "STRUT"

Yet, attractiveness of personal appearance is certainly very desirable and in a large measure necessary for success in life. Good dressy clothes improves a man's personal appearance materially. Fashionable tailoring is the kind we do, and we always satisfy as to style, fit, and price. We have an established reputation for high class work, yet our prices are very moderate. The poor man receives just as much attention as the rich man.
