Charles Edward Russell, at a loyalty conference at Minneapolis, declared: "Riga was captured by United States Senator La Follette, Gronna and Stone. The Kaiser should give full credit to these men. They and the People's Council and men like the Mayor of Chicago are doing more to prolong the war and to slaughter American soldiers than all the soldiers of the Kaiser."

Let Old Glory Wave

There's hardly a community of any size in California, especially at this time, that does not boast a town flag-pole and a town flag.

Carmel once had these things. We should have them now. A number of patriotic citizens have asked the Pine Cone to start the thing going.

Therefore the Pine Cone announces that subscriptions to a "Flag-Pole Fund" will be received and acknowledged, beginning to-day.

Every man, woman and child should contribute. About $50 is needed—quickly.

ARTS AND CRAFTS NOTES

The Carmel Summer School of Art, under the auspices of the Arts and Crafts Club, closed its fourth season on September 1, leaving upon the walls of the studio a very creditable exhibition of student work, which remained open to the public each afternoon of the succeeding week. The exhibition closed last Saturday with the reception tendered to the soldierettes from Anilomar, after their round of the private studios of Carmel.

Use of Arts and Crafts Hall has been given free of charge for all Red Cross affairs given there, this being done at considerable inconvenience and added expense during the daily sessions of the classes in painting which met in the same room.

The last payment has been made on the lot directly east of the club building. Equipment has been bought and arrangements are proceeding for the purchase of a number of chairs.

On the first Sunday in July and the second in August the club was at home to its friends and to the strangers within our gates, to promote mutual acquaintance and pleasure.

A few War Emergency Stamps, obtained from the National Art Club, are giving much satisfaction to the members of the club, who purchased them mainly to increase the fund in aid of artists and their families impoverished by the war. It is not generally known that the club receives many such appeals and responds according to its abilities; keeps tab on legislative activities, studies reforms, and gives especial consideration to all movements for the amelioration of conditions affecting women and children. Bird and animal life and the conservation of natural resources receives frequent attention. The club makes its influence felt from time to time by letters, petitions, and subscriptions.

In pursuance of this phase of its activities, the club has affiliated with the State Enforcement and Protective League, which seeks to diminish vice temptations, thus preserving the strength of our military forces in time of war and the safety of the home in peace times.

The frequent hops at the hall are justly popular with the dancing set.

The literary section is expected to resume the work of the reading circles as the evenings lengthen with the approach of Autumn.

A New Verse

Sing these lines to the air of "America":

God save our glorious men,
Send them safe home again,
God save our men,
Keep them victorious,
Patient and chivalrous,
They are so dear to us,
God save our men.

El Nido Tea Room, at the Highlands, is closed for this season. The Inn, however, remains open the year round.

To the Road of Perfume

In a STETSON made suit watch yourself gleaming,
In a ship from afar, to the land drawing nigh;
Laden with STETSON dress men, brave to meet
danger,

Stalwart of form, fair of skin, and blue of eye.

Shimmering waters, awary of tossing,
Hopeful of rest, ripple on to the shore;
Dimpling with light as they waver and quiver,
Echoing faintly the ocean's wild roar.

Locked in the arms of the tremulous waters,
Dress in a STETSON suit of beauty abloom;
STETSON can dress you for winter or summer,
And make you feel as in a world of perfume.

The Land I Live In

Rev. Robert Freeman, whose arrival in France was noted in last week's Pine Cone, is the author of the verses printed below. Here we have the poem not with a message, but with many messages:

I love the land I live in,
Happy land of heart's desire,
Far-off land of prophet vision
Dimly limned in sunset fire,
Land of ancient song and story
Chanted low to lute and lyre—
Oh, I love it, and I have it for mine own.

I love the land I live in,
Where the Padres trod of old,
Soldiers battled for its booty,
Miners scrabbled for its gold,
Sailors damned it for its dangers—
Oh, the wierdest tales are told
Of this land I love to look on as mine own.

I love the land I live in,
Where the mountains hail the sea,
Where the desert bounds the orchard,
And the future's yet to be;
Where the sons of every nation
Say in divers tongues, "I'm free,
And I love this land I live in as mine own."

For the milkman is a Belgian,
The baker he is French,
The butcher he is German
And the cook a colored wench,
The gardener came from Sweden,
There's a peddler from Japan,
The preacher is a Scotsman,
And the judge an Irishman.

I love the land I live in,
Where the ranges he in snow
While the golden fruit is hanging
And the roses bloom below;
Where the rich man has his palace,
And the poor his bungalow,
And every boasts the land he lives on as his own.

Oh, I love the land I live in,
Where the past is all behind,
Where sons of men begin again
With health and daring mind;
And the chiefest of her virtues
is her love of being kind—
Blessed land of my adoption, she's mine own.

WEEKLY GREETING

The humble man, who thinks little of his independence, is the man who is strong in it and he who is not solicitous of respect will commonly meet with as much as he has occasion for.

Your War, and Why

German spies are not necessarily the most dangerous enemies of the United States.

They may blow up a bridge or factory here and there. They may send valuable information to Berlin. But the harm they can do—all of them together—isn't to be compared with the harm done by some American citizens who would poison the public mind in the interest of the Prussian kaiser.

Some of this poisoning is shrewdly done. That is necessary. Openly lending aid and comfort to the enemy isn't safe. In wartime that's treason.

All the same it helps the kaiser's cause in this country—for it makes naturally patriotic American citizens lukewarm to the cause of us and our allies. And that's its real purpose.

This isn't England's war. It isn't France's war. We are fighting just as much to defend liberty in America as we are to defend liberty anywhere else on earth from the aggression of Prussianism. So it's our war—YOUR war.

And French, British, Belgian, Italian, Russian, Serbian and other soldiers were fighting OUR war before the kaiser's outrages on American rights pushed us into it.

It isn't a war for dollars. It's a war for human liberty, a war to save for men, women and children HERE IN OUR OWN AMERICA the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

It isn't Wilson's war. It isn't a capitalistic or a labor war. It's OUR WAR, YOUR WAR, every right-thinking American's war. And YOUR liberty and the liberty of YOUR children will not be safe until this war is won and kaiserism is licked for all time to come.

Every so-called peace meeting is that much aid to the common enemy.

Our Weekly Recipe

HOME MADE MAIZE BREAD

One quart of flour, one pound of fine maize meal or maize flour, three-quarters of a pint of tepid water, one gill of skimmed milk, three-quarters of an ounce of yeast, one teaspoonful of salt, one tea-spoonful of moist sugar. Mix the two flours, cover with paper, and put into a fairly slack oven for about an hour. Put into a basin with the salt, and make a well in the center; cream the yeast and sugar, and stir in gradually the milk and water, previously warmed a little; pour into the center of the flour, mix a little flour from the sides, and work into a smooth paste. Cover with a cloth and allow to stand in a warm place for about 20 minutes; when it has well risen, which will be seen when the surface is covered with bubbles, work in the rest of the flour with the hand, and knead well for 10 minutes; put it again into a warm place and allow it to stand for an hour and a half. Take up the dough, put it on a floured board, shape into loaves or place into floured tins, cut or prick the surface, and bake, one hour and a half to two hours, according to the size of the loaf.

Echoes From the Firing Line

Another letter by the writer of the one herewith published will appear in an early issue of the Pine Cone.

Paris, June 9, 1917.

I am hoping to see you and yours in Europe when the war ends, if by that time there is anything left of Europe. The way they abuse and destroy it is so frightful and we are so shaken by it that it wouldn't in the least surprise me if some day we blew into a thousand atoms and flew about the universe like so many stars. I only hope in that event that I do not land on a German piece, for if so, the only thing to do would be to jump off again.

We are all well, as well as can be expected after three years of un-interrupted war. I often wonder that we and others are able to endure it, but we must, that is all, constantly hoping that a better world will finally be the result. We have still fourteen refugees in our house. The family V, who have been with us the longest, lost their oldest son a few weeks ago, an unusually clever days in the April defensive. I had to tell his mother and his young wife and it was no easy message to deliver, and terribly hard for them to receive.

Another of our refugees, Madam L. who lives with us with her fourteen year old son, Aine, lost her husband in the beginning of the war. He left his home the 3rd of August to secure horses for the army. That a letter or a card, or any communication was the last they heard of him, not cation whatsoever, as to what had happened to him. They lived near the front and when the Germans later came to their little town Madame had to flee with her boy. They suffered much and after many privations came to us where they will remain until the war is over. We immediately put ourselves in communication with all the various bureaus established for discovering the lost ones, as we thought possibly he might be a prisoner in Germany. Much hope we did not have, we surmised that most likely he met the on coming German army and had been killed. Then what do you think? About a month ago, our telephone suddenly rang and when my husband answered a lady from a bureau advised us that they had had news from Monsieur L. and that they were forwarding a post card from Switzerland that had information about him. It came, and it said that he was in his home town, in good health and needing nothing. We went upstairs immediately to tell his wife and met her on the stairs. We told her as carefully as we could and she smiled quite simply and said very slowly and softly "that is nice"—nothing more; but later in the day she came over to us and then she was much excited and explained how it had taken her several hours to grasp the idea, that he really lived.

Another of our refugees, Madame I has three children, two girls and a boy of 6, who is the youngest. Her husband has been a prisoner in Germany for 18 months, working in the coal mines. The other day she received a letter from a cousin in Switzerland, who also had been a prisoner, saying that her husband would most likely soon be set free with the next exchange of prisoners and that therefore she could hope to see him in France in a couple of

"I am glad your city trustees are going to do something in the way of street improvements," remarked Gustav Laumeister, who, with his wife, motored down from Palo Alto for the week-end.

The evil effects of tobacco and strong drink was set forth by M. P. Welcher in an address to the school children last Thursday afternoon.

D. A. Leonard and family of Dos Palos, Merced county, are occupying their cottage here. They recently returned from a camping trip.

The next holiday is Discovery Day, October 12. It falls on a Friday. We shall have another crowd of week-enders.

Mr. Phil Brown of Visalia is here to spend a few days with his wife and daughter, who are occupying the Gordon cottage. Some time the Browns may build a summer home here.

The Samuels house, known as "White Cedars," on Ninth avenue, has been sold. Mr. and Mrs. Alyn Lorraine, who are now occupying the place, are the new owners.

Miss Etta Tilton will spend a month or more at Mrs. A. V. Cotton's place in the hills. She left early this week.

Points-of-interest direction signs, plain, neat, and properly placed, are up. They were made and erected under the direction of Street Commissioner Mrs. E. J. de Sabla.

Mrs. C. H. Waterman and her daughters, who have spent ten weeks here, will return to their Palo Alto home in a day two. Their many new friends here wish them to summer here next year.

months. She was beside herself with joy and immediately went to church to offer two candles to her patron saint. From these stories you can see the constant emotions we go through.

Paris, July 8-'17.

We saw the American soldiers in Paris on the 4th of July. We had a splendid place on the rue de Rivoli, on the balcony of the Louvre museum. A friend invited us with all our co-workers in our war relief work. We were on the first floor and could see there very plainly, even the expression on their faces. There was great enthusiasm. To us it was most awfully pathetic. So few of them will come back. They were fine, manly-looking, clean American boys and looked so serious and determined. It was good to think that here they had come from America to fight for Europe. How very strange it all is.

If you read it in the Pine Cone you may safely repeat it.

The Carmel city trustees have been invited to attend the annual meeting of the League of California Municipalities, which convenes at Santa Rosa on October 24—and they may go.

Miss K. W. Newhall, marine painter, well known in Carmel, died at her home in Berkeley last Friday.

City Clerk J. E. Nichols went to Salinas on Tuesday on official business. He has many acquaintances at the Court-house.

E. S. Rust, in the oil business at Santa Maria, Santa Barbara county, has rented the Jackson cottage, and has located his family here, perhaps for a year.

La Playa News Notes

Enthusiastic parties to Palo Colorado have been the rule all this week, lunches being taken. Many returned with the golden sage honey or the Sterritt brand.

Mrs. Walter Cook entertained at dinner Mr. and Mrs. Willard, Mr. and Mrs. John Gølen Howard, Mr. Field, and Miss Stone.

Our brides, with husbands commissioned, enlisted and drafted, are here for every minute of joyous outing, until called to speed their loved ones to "somewhere in France."

Mrs. Florence Wehe is again at La Playa, where she hopes to regain her health. Mrs. B. W. Stone has returned to San Francisco, and leaves for Klamath Falls immediately.

It was impossible to accommodate week end parties. Up to 1 a. m. we were informing motor folks that there was a Highlands Inn down the Coast, doubtful if they would even get a peep in there.
