11. BAKER, J. A. The graduated farm land transfer stamp tax. Jour. Land & Pub. Util. Econ. 16: 21-29. Feb. 1940. 282.8 J82
The writer recommends that the Revenue Act of 1926, as amended and extended in 1928, 1932, 1934, 1935 and 1939, which provides for a stamp tax on conveyances, be revised in such a way that it will "form an effective check on speculative activity in the land market." The proposed revision "involves a change in the method of calculating the rate and the amount of the tax as applied to agricultural land transfers."

Contains sections on alien land laws and ownership transfers during and after evacuation.

It is noted that in the three States of California, Washington, and Oregon "the Asiatic alien's title to land is defeasible only by the State and is good against all individuals ... The laws are not retroactive, and titles acquired and vested prior to adoption of a particular prohibition are not affected."

379. SCHAPER, E. Der verkehr mit landwirtschaftlichen grundstücren. Odal 5: 1009-1018. June 1937. 281.8 Od1
A law which went into effect on February 1, 1937 specifies under what conditions land may be sold or transferred from one owner to another. Such transfer is subject to the order that the German land may not be used for speculation purposes or as a means of acquiring unearned income. In the future land can only be obtained by those who will cultivate it themselves.

Notes that according to the provisions of the Austrian civil code when an owner sells his land to several persons the one who first requests the court to have it entered acquires ownership. But the Hungarian courts ruled that "the previous contractual title confirmed by possession prevailed over ownership as shown by the land-register entry which the second purchaser had acquired."
