SHIMOMURA, Tetsuo

The subject person had exerted himself especially for social welfare during the office in local agencies.

1. When he was the chief of Special Police Section, Chiba Prefecture in 1935, he intended the survival of Toyozumi Village, which was fully ruined as a result of Bolshevization. He consulted with the chief of police station, stationed policemen, interested persons, etc. of the village about the problem and it started then. Finally the village was designated as a economic rehabilitated village (the model case) by the Economic Division of the said Prefecture, and rivived itself as an excellent and modern village.
2. During his office of the chief of Police Division, Kagawa Prefecture in 1941, he made efforts in sanitation administration: the said Prefecture was a so-called virgin soil of tuberculosis because of good climate, the patient of tuberculosis, above all of younger generation, being very few.

Nevertheless, the precaution measures on the said disease were required after it was made clear that the persons, coming back from work at Osaka-Kobe districts, were the source of infection of tuberculosis. Then he took the precaution measures thereon, upon consultation with the Osaka University: all over the Prefecture, the B.C.G. injection was given to the inhabitants altogether - may be this is the first case in Japan.

SUSUKIDA, Yoshitomo

1. The subject person was in office of the Superintendent-General of the Metropolitan Police Board from April, 1943 to July, 1944, and in fact dealt with the cases concerning the Communist Party right wing telorists organization and religious orders as special police cases.
2. Meanwhile, on the occasion of investigation and control of these cases, he paid special attention thereto, nominated men of common sense as investigation official, and strictly warned them and to commit violation, indignity, etc. in any way.
3. Especially in the religious case, he accommodated the persons concerned within the limit of laws and got everything dealt with under the circumstances to satisfy them.
4. The subject person tried to make the Manchurian police a modern and cultural one while he was in office of the vice-chief of Public Safety Division, the vice-chief of the General Affairs Agency, etc. of Manchuria. In spite of the interference of military department, M.P. corps above all, into his activities in Manchuria where the military department was all mighty, he succeeded of civilian police.

B,

TOMITA, Kenji

1. With regard to the operation of special police, the subject person had constantly an idealistic and humanitarian standpoint and a creed of respect to human rights. At the conference of chiefs of special police section, he made a great impression on others, insisting on "self criticism" to the operation of special police and "self-examination" of policemen, and the said insistence penetrated into the nation-wide special police.

2. As the Secretary of the Konoe Cabinet, the subject person assisted the Prime Minister Konoe, doing his best to avoid the break-out of war, and devoted himself to prevention of war at the risk of his life.

When the resignation of the Konoe Cabinet was inevitable finally, there arose a great sensation about the declaration of objection of War, which was mentioned extraordinarily in the statement of Cabinet resignation and was written down by the subject person.

3. After the break-out of the war, he planned to strike down the Tojo Cabinet and to establish the Hiranuma Cabinet, and was in duty of communication of senior statesmen, such as Duke Konoe, etc., resisting to the pressure of M.P. corps.

Consequently, he was often called to the M.P. corps and was investigated or inquired for long time.

4. In short, the subject person devoted himself to the refreshment and correction of special police, paid attention to respect to human rights and obedience to laws and orders and rather made efforts in excluding the extreme of special police, during the special police service.

And that, he was one of the most sacrificiary after the break-out of the War.

TSUJIYAMA, Jihei

1. Of the whole career, the term of that relating to the police was very short:

The term of office of the subject person reaches to 20 years, but for the major part of it he was engaged in the affairs concerning the agriculture, forestry and economy and the total term of office relating to the police was only 5 years, and moreover, it was before the Greater East Asia War and he never took office relating to the special police proper during that term.

2. Was not concerned positively with the case :

During his term of office of the chief of the Police Division of Niigata Prefecture, the subject person was confronted with the so-called Japan Proletarian Party Case; however, when he started for his new post, the search of the case and other important stages had already been over; therefore, he simply conducted the formal procedures post factum under the direction of the Ministry proper and was not concerned positively with the whole case.

YAMANOUCHI, Keiki (Terumyoshi)

1. The subject person had no career as of an official of special police.

(1) The subject person was particularly opposed to the participation of the political parties and the service-men in administration. On the occasion of recommendation election held in April 1942, the subject person could not come up to the expectation of the Tojo Cabinet and again the subject person was opposed to the principle of the Tojo Cabinet concerning the reorganization of Patriotic Women's Society into National Defence Women's Society. Consequently, the said person was transferred in July the same year to Java, remotest part of the South.

(2) In Java, at the termination of the War the terrorists of Indonesia Swarmed themselves specially in the state of Sumarang the seat of appointment of the said person and attempted to plunder the arms and ammunitions of the Japanese Armies, so that the said person was obliged to pay a great sacrifice for observing to the last the Rangoon Terms of Capitulation. Such being the case, the Chief of the General Staff of General Mountbatten came there by plane in order to pay tribute to the subject person.

YAMAZAKI, Iwao

1. Personal history in connection with the Special Higher Police.

a. The subject individual held the post of Chief, Tokyo Metropolitan Police Board for ten months from December 1940 to October 1941. During this period,, he was concerned in the arrests in connection with the case involving Comintern (the so-called Sorge Case). And that was the reason why he was designated as falling under paragraph G of the purge memorandum as one related to the Special Higher Police.

b. However, the case mentioned above was purely a case of a spy ring, as stated in the publication by the United States Department of Army in February, 1939, and was not a case of thought control. (Such a report was carried by the Tokyo Shimbun on 11 February 1949.) It is therefore submitted, it should not be proper to consider him as "having dealt with the disposition of cases of crimes involving important thought trends", as listed in the standards of screening against persons suspected of falling under paragraph G, just because he was concerned in the Sorge Case.

At the time of depurge carried out in October last year, two persons who were connected with this case were depurged for the same reasoning.

c. Further, the case in question was discovered between the end of September and the beginning of October in 1941. And the subject individual quit his post at the time of the general resignation of Konoye cabinet, which took place on 16 October, 1941. For this reason, he was connected with the case for only a very brief period.

d. Throughout the time the subject individual held the post of Chief, Tokyo Metropolitan Police Board, he instructed his subordinates never to engage in brutal treatment of the suspects, etc. And it is recognized that there was no inhumane act performed under him during the time he held the position in question.

2. Other relevant facts in the Personal History.

a. The subject individual was a civil servant for approximately 25 years since 1919, out of which he was concerned, for 15 years, in the field of administration in social welfare, and he has contributed to the development of social legislation.

b. He was concerned in the police affairs at one time as Chief, Police Bureau of the Home Affairs Ministry for six months from January 1940 to July 1940, and at another time as Chief, Tokyo Metropolitan Police Board for ten months as stated above, altogether a matter of mere one year and four months.

c. The subject individual was the Vice-Minister of Home Affairs from February 1942 to April 1943. He was the Chief Naval Civil Administrator from January to July in 1944 (of which period he was posted in Celebes for five months). And he was reappointed as Vice-Minister of Home Affairs from July 1944 to April 1945.

d. The subject individual became Minister of Home Affairs in the Higashikuni cabinet in August, 1945, immediately following the termination of the war, and he put all of his efforts into the task of maintenance of public peace and order within the country. He resigned at the time of the general resignation of the cabinet in October the same year.

3. Throughout the career of the subject individual it is recognizable that there has been no instance of acts on his part which might be characterized as militaristic or ultra-nationalistic. It is worthy of note as indicative of his thought trend that after his retirement as Vice-Minister of Home Affairs in April 1945, he acted as an unofficial brain trust at the request of Minister of Navy Yonai in preparing business arrangement for surrender and in promoting the termination of the war.
