MEMORIAL SERVICE TO BE HELD FOR ENGLISH SOLDIERS FALLEN IN BATTLE POT-POURBL PARAGRAPHS, POL-ITICS, PLATITUDES AND PROHIBITION

attend the memorial service for the time in our own beloved country British soldiers and sailors fallen in the cause of British civilization an-conditions of life clustering around nounced for Sunday afternoon, December 27th, commencing at three o'clock, at the Trinity auditorium in a portion of the world is destitute of that sentiment and plunged in awful British born of the San Fernando valley will make it a point to be on land and those who reside in this locality would do well to attend in a body, leaving Glendale by special car. Those who expect to attend will please let Rev. John Henry Troy know, as he expects to conduct the party. The exact time of leaving will be announced later. The following eloquent letter by the able secretary of the British relief fund speaks for itself:

Rev. J. H. The secretary of the secretary of the British relief fund speaks for itself:

of the British relief fund speaks for itself:

Rev. J. H. Troy: Christmastide is upon us, drawing closer the ties that birth. That land today is full of glory and of tears; glory in the valour of her sons, tears for those that return no more from the fields of honor. It is fitting that we, too, who share the glory of noble deeds, should gather together to do honor to the noble dead.

Strict party men of all parties are very much worked at the future outlook for party work, under the operations of the direct primary law, which gives a standing in primary work to independents and non-parties are to primary law, which gives a standing in primary is ans, same as to party represented by a name. "Let the heathen rage," the direct primary is here to stay. It is crude, needs amending, but it will be amended by its friends.

The British relief fund committee, through whom you have given and over six millions of American citizens are still giving most signal proof of petitioned for the passage of the proloyal and generous affection, believing that those who have so well responded to the needs of their counsure at the hands of congress. The sponded to the needs of their countrymen alive would also wish to show fitting honor to their countrymen dead in the service of their race, have made arrangements for a mehatic manual country and the service of their race, have made arrangements for a mehatic manual country and the service of their race, have made arrangements for a mehatic manual country and the service of their race, have made arrangements for a mehatic manual country and service and service are serviced as a serviced as a service are serviced as a serviced as a serviced as a serviced as a service are serviced as a servi have made arrangements for a memorial service for the British soldiers and sailors fallen in battle. The service will be held at Trinity auditorium on Sunday, December 27th, and will commence at 3 o'clock p.m.

No man or woman of British birth but will gather to lay upon the nameless graves of all those valorous ones the tribute of a glowing thought. The time is short, however, and the means of giving publicity to the matter are limited. To you, therefore, who are in a position to help us, we appeal to do all in your power to bring the holding of this memorial service to the notice of all those who would wish to attend it. Anticipating your good efforts, we have appointed you a member of the committee we rely to bring to the memorial service and attendance worthy of the occasion. You in turn may rely upon the cooperation of the members of this committee, anyone of whom will be glad at any time to further in any possible way the efforts you make in this behalf.

A COLLECTION OF SUITABLE CHRISTMAS SELECTIONS WHICH WILL SERVE AS SAUCE AFTER THE CHRISTMAS TURKEY

THE CHRISTMAS TIME

(NOTE-This song of Mr. Parker's is being set to music by a Glendale composer.)

To the listening shepherds on Bethlehem's plain, Angelic choristers took up the strain, Singing "Hozanna" that glad Christmas morn When our Redeemer and Savior was born. Wise men, to worship Him, came from afar, Guided by yonder glittering star; Angels and mortals in songs sublime Welcomed the Savior that Christmas time.

Christians of Christendom, catch the refrain; Resound every forest and hilltop and plain; Angels above, and redeemed of earth, sing Praises unending to Jesus our King; Sing of the great love that brought Him to earth—His life of devotion and wonderful birth; Oh, if there's aught in a theme sublime, It clusters around the Christmas time.

Angels, be silent; let children sing; Christ is to them both Savior and King. His gentle hand was laid on each head—His loving voice so tenderly said: "Suffer the children to come unto Me, For of such the Kingdom of Heaven shall be." Oh, what a wealth of love sublime He brings to the children at Christmas time!

Let nursery, parlor and hall ring out
With the merry laugh and the happy shout
Of joyous childhood in Christian homes,
Where Christmas, with gifts and plenty, comes;
But do not forget, in your gladsome glee,
The homes of sorrow and poverty.
On this glad day do an act sublime—
Make some poor child happy this Christmas time.

-SAMUEL PARKER.

A Feel in the Christmas Air-By James Whitcomb Riley

They's a kind o' feel in the air to me
When the Chris'mas times sets in
That's about as much of a mystery
As ever I've run ag'in.
Fer instunce, now, whilse I gain in weight
And gineral health, I swear
They'se a goneness somers I can't quite state—
A kind o' feel in the air.

They's a feel in the Chris'mas air goes right
To the spot where a man lives at!
It gives a feller a appetite—
They ain't no doubt about that!
And yit they's somepin—I don't know what
That follers me here and there
And ha'nts and worries and spares me not—
A kind o' feel in the air.

They's a feel, as I say, in the air that's jest
As blamed-on sad as sweet.
In the same ra-sho as I feel the best
And am the spryest on my feet.
They's allus a kind o' sort of a ache
That I can't locate nowhere,
But when it comes with Chris'mas and no mistake—
A kind o' feel in the air.

Is it the racket the children raise?
Why, no!—God bless 'em, no!
Is it the eyes and the cheeks ablaze,
Like my own wuz long ago?
Is it the bleat o' the whistle and beat
O' the little toy drug and blare
O' the horn? No, no! It is jest the sweet—
The sad-sweet feel in the air.

The Scotchman's Christmas Lament (From the L. A. Tribune Chapel's "Good Samaritan")

I canna think braw winter's here When leaves are on the tree, And when ye speak o' Christmas cheer I think ye're jokin' me.

On Christmas days the bonnie braes O' Scotland are aglow; The little kirk, the bending birk, Are whitened a' wi' snow.

Old Santy crosses frozen burns Where simmer's floods ha' poured; He drives a sleigh and brace o' deer And nay a towsie Ford.

The gifts he brings are a' the same Exceptin' native marks, For here it's ties and undershirts— There snoods and cuttysarks.

Sure California's sweet an' fine, Wi' roses a' in bloom, But Scotland's Christmas be for mine Wi' snow upon the broom

So when ye speak o' Christmas cheer, And leaves upon the tree, Ye get my Highland nanny goat— I think ye're jokin' me.

Here's Hopin'-By Baker

Pears lak de worl' is sayin' in sunshine en in song: "I feels it in my jints dat good times comin' 'long!" Deys blooms dat beats de summer on every Christmas tree, En de Hallelujah feelin' is a creepin' over me!

So here's a hopin' hearty that my Christmas wish comes true, And the Hallelujah feelin' will come creepin' over you. And may your times be good ones and your grin be plain to see And the bloom that beats the summer be on your Xmas tree.

CONDITIONS IN BRITAIN

LONDON DAILY PAPER GIVES US FIRST-HAND REPORTS OF SITUATION

A copy of the London Morning Post of November 27, for which we are indebted to Judge Wholmes, is of more than passing interest and gives much valuable information in regard to the war situation. Of espe-cial interest is an address made by Lord Kitchener to the House of Lords on the military situation, in which he reviewed events for the month past. During the course of his address, Lord Kitchener said:

"The French army has shown the greatest tenacity and endurance and have displayed the highest fighting qualities in thus defending their posi-tions against any advance of the Germans. (Cheers). For, although they have made notable advances at various points, they have never yielded up a yard of their country since I last addressed your lordships. On our left the gallant Belgian army held the line from Dixmude to the sea, and fought with their well known pluck, throwing back vigorous and incessant attacks on their positions. Their fine resistance was supported with energy by the co-operation of our fleet, which effectively shelled the German positions within range of our guns. (Cheers.) Through various points, they have never yieldof our guns. (Cheers.) Through the whole of the period I am now reviewing, the Belgian army has been constantly led in the field by their king, who, although hard pressed, has never yet left Belgian territory, and does not intend to do a special Christian and does not intend to do a special Christian and does not intend to do a special Christian and does not intend to do a special Christian and does not intend to do a special Christian and does not intend to do a special Christian and does not intend to do a special Christian and does not intend to do a special Christian and does not intend to do a special Christian and does not intend to do a special Christian and does not intend to do a special christian and does not intend to do a special christian and does not intend to do a special christian and does not intend to do a special christian and does not intend to do a special christian and does not intend to do a special christian and does not intend to do a special christian and do a spec and does not intend to do so. (Cheers.) Sir John French's successful resistance to the German advance was maintained notwithstanding German supports being pushed up in large numbers. At this time up in large numbers. At this time no less than eleven corps were attacking his position. At this critical period the eighth division was despatched to join our forces in the field, and the valuable co-operation of General Foch's armies on our left materially strengthened the British position. On the eleventh of Novem-ber a supreme effort was made by the Germans, the Prussian guard being ordered to force its way through our lines at all costs and to carry them by sheer weight of numbers. But this desperate attempt failed, as had failed its predecessors. (Cheers.)
General Joffre having sent up strong reinforcements, a considerable portion of the British trenches in front of Ypres was taken over by them, and the British front being thus appreciably shortened our troops, which for over fourteen days and nights had never left the trenches and never never left the trenches and never brought gifts which will be sent to allowed the enemy to sustain a footthe Children's hospital in Los Aning in them, have been enabled to geles and there was an excellent proenjoy a partial but most certainly gram. WHEN BROADWAY WAS A TRAIL

The Christmas feature at the Majestic theater on Broadway near Brand is that wonderful film drama of old New York—"When Broadway Was a Trail." The synopsis of the quaint old story, which has its setting in the Dutch colony at New Amsterdam (New York), is as fol-

Peter Minuet is the governor of

Manhattan, which is later to become New Amsterdam. The characters in the picture are drawn from the Dutch world of New Amsterdam and the Puritan stronghold of Danvers, which is today Salem, Mass. Into that Puriis today Salem, Mass. Into that Puri-tan community Governor Minuet sends his son Henry to buy grain, since the crops of the Dutch have been spoiled. While on that mission Henry sees and is attracted by Pris-cilla Elliott, who is sought in mar-riage by Salvation Hibbens, for whom she has not the slightest inclination as he is too closely tied to his mother's apron string. Because Henry is ill, he is brought to Priscilla's home and there he recuperates, but not without many disturbing incidents and accusations from the townsfolk, who finally accuse Priscilla of being a witch. They carry their accusation so far, under the leadership of Salvation Hibbens' revengeful mother, that Priscilla and Henry are put into prison, awaiting trial. Meanwhile Governor Minuet waits in vain for his son to return. He finally sends a messenger to Danvers and his envoy is informed that the governor's son is in prison for breaking the laws of the colony. When the mayor learns who the prisoner is, he orders him brought to his office, but the warden finds that both Priscilla and Henry have escaped from Jail. Be-cause of the escape, the mayor in-forms the Dutch that he refuses to sell them grain under any circum-stances, and when the governor stances, and when the governor learns this, he orders the picture of his son turned to the wall as though he were dead. Meanwhile the lovers make their escape and get to the sea, only to find themselves hemmed in by the ocean. The soldiers who are following them wound Henry, while Priscilla is gathering berries for the evening meal. Henry manages to write a note to her on birch bark telling her to return to his home, while he goes back to prison, but the Puritans heal his wounds and send him home. On his way home hunger overtakes him and while out looking for food he comes upon Priscilla, who has left his home because she had no place there since Henry's mother has chose a Dutch girl as his wife-to-be. But Henry is not satisfied to carry out his mother's plans when he has been told the facts by Pris-cilla, so building a shelter for themselves, they forget New Amsterdam and Danvers.

In addition to the five-reel feature, "Col. Heeza Liar in the Jungle," a side-splitting comedy, will be also

"AN ODYSSEY OF THE NORTH"
AT THE PALACE GRAND

The offering for tonight and to-morrow night, Thursday and Friday, will be that great Jack London story, "An Odyssey of the North," in which Hobart Bosworth does the greatest characterization of his long career, as a photoplayer, that of Naass, the Eskimo. A great deal has been said and written of this remarkable film version of this earlier story of Jack London, which is an epic of love, hatred and vengeance, with the avenger on the trail of those whom he would destroy.

The scene of the story is set amid the snows of Alaska during the time of the famous gold strikes, and it is a tale that does not lose in the telling. It is both powerful and artistic, with photography which is exceptionally clear and deep. The new interiors which are used in the drama show an attention to detail which characterizes the entire production.

Bosworth is an Alaskan native, whose wife is stolen by the captain of a whaler, following a spectacular potlatch in which a number of mag-nificent native fur robes are worn. He is drinking at the time, otherwise the bearded mariner would not have made away so easily with his prey. Once the ill-gotten woman is his, the captain treats her "white." In fact, much better than most white men in Alaska have treated their squaws. The Indian husband, however, is ever on their trail, seeking vengeance. He visits many cities and wild spots in Alaska and Siberia and in doing so gives opportunity for some fine films. After a chase half around the world, Naass, the Indian husband, meets the fleeing pair on the snowy wastes of Alaska. In their quest for gold, Naass leads them further and fur-ther into the strange mountains. In the end he leads his intended victims to a quartz mine, so rich that free gold can be picked out with a pick-But the gold will not buy food, on the long "mush" back to civilization Naass achieves his ven-

Everyone should take advantage of the opportunity to see this splendid picture, which is as interesting in photoplay as the story was in book form.
