

OFFICE, 83 CHARTRES ST.

THE DAILY BEE.

By Telegraph.

FRIDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 21.

The Northern Mail failed yesterday from beyond Montgomery. The mail due the day previous comes through.

THE RECOGNITION OF INDIA.

The rebellion in India having assumed the proportions of a general insurrection, the English papers begin to appear the last news, and to do so in a manner that gives them a certain quality. The London Times frankly admits that the revolted provinces will have to be reconquered at present, except that it is not clear what the result will be.

The truth, or dodge around it, however does or does not humiliate may be easily known in the papers of British management and imbecility during the campaign in the Crimea, and none is more prompt and ready to expose it than the Graphic, pointing out the want of energy and the pusillanimity of affairs in India. Hear!

Bengal is a mere noose. A hundred thousand men are lost to us, and greater numbers are daily added. The body of born and bred soldiers, by the fall of which we have lost the command of many other territories and warlike tribes, and which dimmed in a few days the dark clouds of revolution, have had long pointed with exultation at the English in their native England in the list of its conquests.

It was ever true that the natives were the best of subjects, and that the first strength in India, then our empire would in due time be ours. But now they will shortly give us credit for rebels and a stronger hold upon us.

That is why we have to recognize India. Half of it, for we have to recognize India.

England, armed, prepared, and fortified, subdues the world, and gives us a field for greater than that which offered itself to a century ago. The sword of the swordsmen of the world is the sword of the British.

Even so, we must be told, will not India be won over to us, and greater still will be our strength in India, then our empire would in due time be ours.

But we must not only win over India.

We must not only win over India, but we must also win over ourselves. We must not only win over India, but we must also win over ourselves.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.

India is a country that has never been conquered by the English.