Young People

The Opportunity of the Hour Is Yours

If you are only prepared to grasp it. A business education is the key to the situation.

The Demand for Office Help in San Francisco has never been so great within the last ten years as now. Business men are constantly applying for our graduates for positions in their offices. During the last ninety days we have averaged per school day, 15 applicants for our graduates.

Reason—Our College has established a reputation for thoroughness that has inspired confidence among business men in the integrity of our work.

A Position Will Be Secured for You just as soon as you become proficient enough to pass our "Examinations for Positions." You will not get your recommendation unless you come up to the standard when you get it, it means something.

Come to the College—Business is done today at short range. We are right here on the ground where the business of the Coast is done, and keep in such close touch with business men that we secure positions for all our graduates; whereas it is only at rare intervals that country colleges can secure a position for a graduate.

Courses of Instruction—(a) Business Course, Bookkeeping, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Rapid Calculation, Business Arithmetic, Business Correspondence, Short-hand (Benji Pitman), Typewriting (touch method), English, Spelling, Punctuation, Machine Dictation, Reporting in City Courts, Composition, Penmanship, Mimeographing and Carbon Duplication, Letter Press Copying.

Civil Service Coaching—(b) General Information Courses, Current Events, Digest of Daily News, Biographical Studies of Successful Business Men, Weekly and Monthly Lectures, Debating on Business Subjects.

OFFICE HOURS—From 1 to 3 and 7 to 9 p. m.

Washington.—Another meeting of the Senate Committee on Committees, of which Perkins is a member, will be held to appportion places. It having been practically settled that Bard is to go on the Arid Lands Committee, there is a pretty struggle on between Perkins and Mitchell of Oregon for places on the Committee on Commerce, which is equivalent to the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the House.

Matters are complicated by the probable make-up of the House Committee. McLachlan is now almost sure of being appointed on the River and Harbor Committee. If he is, Perkins will be handicapped by the presence of Tongue of Oregon on the House Committee.

Neither California nor Oregon wishes to see the other get two members on the River and Harbor Committee.

Bard, in addition to the Arid Lands chairmanship, will probably get a minor chairmanship on the committee, clerks, etc. Perkins will retain the chairmanship of the Committee on Fisheries, and will remain on the Appropriations and Naval Affairs Committees, but will probably go off of the Education and Labor Committee. Representative Kahn goes up a notch in the Judiciary Committee, an important post, with added influence. Coombs is trying to get Barham's old committee, particularly Interstate Commerce. Loud will remain as chairman of the Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads. Metcalf fares best of all the California Congressmen, being placed on the Ways and Means Committee. Woods and Needham expect to be reappointed to their old committees. McLachlan, if appointed to the Rivers and Harbors Committee, will be in a position to further the interests of San Pedro harbor.

Jerome's New Line of Reform.

New York.—Justice Jerome struck out on a new line of reform one day last week. On his way to the Criminal Court building he boarded a cross-town horse car on Grand street. At the Bowery and Broome street the car stopped and the passengers were invited to "take the car ahead." The Justice did so, but he didn't forbear saying that Dr. Kleber thought Rose had injured herself by attending Mrs. Russell's party.

"Dr. Kleber doesn't know any more about it than I do," returned her mother. "He's always minding other folks' business, and so are you. I guess you'd better go upstairs at once, and see if Rose does, we wait some day."

Jenny obeyed, and as she entered her sister's chamber, Rose lifted her head languidly from her pillow, and pointing to a window, which had been opened that she might breathe more freely, said: "Just listen! don't you hear that horrid croaking?"

Jenny laughed aloud, for she knew Rose had heard "that horrid croaking" more than a hundred times in Chicopee, in Glenwood everything must necessarily assume a goblin form and sound. Seating herself upon the foot of the bed, she said: "Why, that's the frogs. I love to hear them croak. It makes me feel both sad and happy, just as the crickets do that sing under the hearth in our old home at Chicopee."

Jenny's whole heart was in the country and she could not so well sympathize with her nervous, sensitive sister, who shrank from country sights and country sounds. Accidentally spying some tall broom branches swinging in the evening breeze before the east window, she again spoke to Jenny, telling her to look and see if the tree leaned against the house, "for if it does," she said, "and creaks, I shall sleep a week to-night."

After assuring her that the tree was all right, Jenny added: "I love to hear the wind howl through these old trees, and were it not for you, I should wish it might blow so that I could lay awake and hear it."

When it grew darker and the stars began to come out, Jenny was told "to close the shutters."

"Now, Rose," said she, "you are making half of this, for you know as well as I that grandma's house hasn't got any shutters."

"Oh! mercy, no more it hasn't. What shall I do?" said Rose, half crying with vexation. "That curtain mustn't stuff as worse than nothing, and everybody'll be looking in to see me."

"They'll have to climb to the top of the trees," said Jenny. "For the ground descends in every direction, and the road, too, is so far away. Besides that, who is there that wants to see you?"

Rose didn't know. She was sure there was somebody, and when Mrs. Howland came up with one of the nicest little suppers on a small tea tray, how she was shocked to find the window covered with her best blankets, which had been packed away in the closet adjoining.

"How was it closed somebody would look in and see her," said Jenny, as she read her grandmother's astonishment in her face.

"Look in and see her!" repeated Mrs. Howland. "I've undressed without curtains these forty years, and I'll be bound nobody ever peeped at me. Put some, she added, "set up and see if you can't get a mouthful or so. Here's some broiled chicken, a slice of toast, some currant jelly that I made myself, and the swimmest cup of black tea you ever see. It'll cushion bear up an egg."

CHAPTER XIX.
The morning train bound for Albany stood in the depot, waiting the signal to start, and just before the final "all aboard" was sounded a handsome equipage drove slowly up, and from it alighted Mr. Lincoln, bearing in his arms his daughter, whose head rested wearily upon his shoulder. Accompanying him were his wife, Jenny and a gray-haired man, his family physician. Together they entered the house, and instantly there was a hasty turning of heads, a shaking of curls and low whispers, as each noticed and commented upon the unusual presence of Rose, who in her father's arms she sat, wholly exhausted with the effort she had made.

The sight of her, so young, so fair and apparently so low, lushed all selfish feelings, and a gay bridal party who had been waiting in the ladies' saloon immediately came forward, offering it to Mr. Lincoln, who readily accepted it, and laying Rose upon the long settee, he made her as comfortable as possible with the numerous pillows and cushions he had brought with him. As the croaking engine moved slowly out of Boston Rose asked that the window might be raised, and, leaning upon her elbow, she looked out upon her native city, which she was leaving forever.

Toward midnight of the next day they reached Glenwood, and Rose, more fatigued than she was willing to acknowledge, now that she was so determined to see her father, and as she recalled her mother leading the way, the father carried his child to the chamber prepared for her with so much care.

"It's worse than I thought 'twas," said Mrs. Howland, returning to the parlor below, where her daughter had thrown herself with a sigh upon the chintz-covered lounge. "It's a deal worse than I or been exposed some way?"

"Not in the least," returned Mrs. Lincoln, twirling the golden stopper of her smelling bottle. "The foundation of her sickness was laid at Mount Holyoke, and the wife she ought to be indicted for manslaughter."

Jenny's clear, truthful eyes turned toward her mother, who frowned darkly, and continued: "She was as well as any one until she went there, and I consider it my duty to warn all parents against sending their daughters to a place where, neither health, manners nor anything else is attended to except religion and household work."

Jenny had not quite got over her childish habit of occasionally setting her mouth right on some points, and she could not forbear saying that Dr. Kleber thought Rose had injured herself by attending Mrs. Russell's party.

"Dr. Kleber doesn't know any more about it than I do," returned her mother. "He's always minding other folks' business, and so are you. I guess you'd better go upstairs at once, and see if Rose does, we wait some day."

said Mrs. Campbell, starting up from her pillow. "But no; it cannot be. Your mother is lying in Chicopee, and Ella, my sister, died in England."

Every particle of color had left Mary's face, and her eyes, now black as midnight, stared wildly at Mrs. Campbell. The sad story, which her mother had once told her, came back to her mind, bringing with it the thought which had so agitated her companion.

"Yes," she continued, without noticing what Mrs. Campbell had said, "my mother was Ella Temple, and she had two sisters, one her own, and the other a half-sister—Sarah Fletcher and Jane Temple—both of whom came to America many years ago."

"Tell me more—tell me all you know," whispered Mrs. Campbell, grasping Mary's hand; "and how you know about that I thought she was dead—my sister."

Upon this point Mary could throw no light, but of all that she had heard from her mother she told, and then Mrs. Campbell, pointing to her writing desk, said: "Bring it to me. I must read that letter again."

Mary obeyed, and taking out a much-obliterated letter, Mrs. Campbell asked her to read it aloud. It was as follows:

"Daughter Jane—I now take this opportunity of informing you that I've lost your sister Ella, and have now no child, saving yourself, who, if you behave well, will be my only heir. Sometimes I wish you were here, for it's a lonesome living alone, but I suppose you're better off where you are. Do you know anything of that girl Sarah? Her cross-grained mother has never written me a word since she left England. If I live three years longer I shall come to America, and until that time, adieu. Your father, HENRY TEMPLE."

"How short and cold!" was Mary's first exclamation, for her impressions of her grandfather were not very agreeable. "It is like all his letters," answered Mrs. Campbell. "But it was cruel to make me think Ella was dead, for how else could I suppose he had lost her?"

Then, as the conviction came over her that Mary was indeed the child of her own sister, she wound her arms about her neck, and kissing her lips, murmured, "My child—Mary! Oh, had I known this sooner, you should not have been so cruelly deserted, and little Allie should never have died in the almshouse. But you'll never leave me now, for all that I have is yours—yours and Ella's."

The thought of Ella touched a new chord, and Mrs. Campbell's tears were rendered less bitter by the knowledge that she had cared for, and been a mother to, one of her sister's orphan children.

"I know now, why, from the first, I felt so drawn toward Ella, and why her clear, large eyes are so much like my own lost darling's, and even you, Mary—"

Here Mrs. Campbell paused, for proud as she now was of Mary, there had been a time when the haughty lady turned away from the sober, homely little child, who begged so piteously "to go with Ella" where there was room and to spare. All this came up in sad review before Mrs. Campbell, and as she recalled the incidents of her sister's death, and thought of the noble little Frank, who often went hungry and cold that his mother and sisters might be warm and fed, she felt that her heart would burst with its weight of sorrow.

Delegations from Cuba are visiting Washington to urge their requests for free trade with this country in regard to several agricultural products which the Dingley rates are now protecting for our benefit.

The United States is not concerned with the individual prosperity of her people beyond that of securing financial stability and protecting them from the cheap labor of other countries.

So long as Cuba is not an annex of the United States it is not entitled to the benefits which are intended to increase and uphold the various industries of this country and no law should be enacted whereby these intentions should be disturbed.

Sonoma County Board of Trade is working in conjunction with the Southern Pacific company in making known the wonderful resources of the Golden State, and we are receiving our portion of the benefits from the advertising of that company.

Murderer of Amadeo Cavalli Gave Himself up and Told Strange Story

Ubaldo Palanda, a Swiss block maker, who had been working on the Norris ranch at the head of the Rincon valley went into the Sheriff's office Monday morning and gave himself up stating he had killed a fellow workman, Amadeo Cavalli, also a Swissman. Palanda was placed in prison and Coroner Pierce was notified of the murder. Palanda and Cavalli had a quarrel in their cabin Sunday night and according to Palanda's story, Cavalli knocked him down. Both had been drinking heavily. Palanda arose and assaulted his adversary, knocking him backward against the cooking stove. Cavalli's head hit the stove and death resulted almost immediately.

At the Coroner's inquest it was shown that a club and some sharp instrument had been used as the victim had two cuts in the back of his head. Dr. Neal testified, at the inquest, that a portion of the victims skull was gone. Tuesday afternoon Sheriff Grace visited the cabin and made a search for the further evidence against the accused man and found a hatchet stained with blood and in addition picked up three small pieces of the skull. The position of the body when found and the location of the blood stains on the floor and walls all point to the fact that the hatchet was the first weapon with which the assault was made.

In the course of a few weeks, coal from the mine on the Bridget Mott ranch, on Sonoma mountain, will be ready for placing on the market. The 300-foot tramway, from the tunnel to the coal bunkers, has been completed. The first ton of coal taken from the mine will be presented to the shoe factory in Petaluma.

Surprised Her Husband.

"I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription two years ago," writes Mrs. Alfred Clark, of Hitean, Monroe Co., Iowa, "and the result was a fine baby girl of eleven or twelve pounds. I am about to become a mother again, and I have been troubled with morning sickness and vomiting. I could walk any best day, but two days ago I began taking your Favorite Prescription twice a day, a teaspoonful at a time, and I am pleased to say that I have not had a vomiting spell for two mornings, and I had not been free from these for four months, and I can eat a hearty breakfast with the rest of the family. My husband is surprised at the change in me. It would be a blessing if more poor broken-down women knew of the Favorite Prescription. It would save them hours of misery. I could write more about my suffering, but I don't need to now for all my aches and pains are gone."

"I received both of your letters," writes Mrs. Eva Vedder, of Onedia, Lenawee Co., Mich., "and would say I do not know what my trouble was, unless it was a displacement of some organ in the abdomen. I was so weak I did not have strength enough to stand on my feet long at a time, neither could I sit up very long. There was a sore spot on the left side of my abdomen which pained me very much when I walked. I lost my appetite, had a severe pain in the pit of my stomach which was worse when lying down. I continued with your Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery, taking the two kinds alternately, and when I had the two bottles half strong as anybody could ask to be. My husband says 'Dr. Pierce's medicines have been worth one hundred dollars to us.' We cannot say enough for the good I have received from your medicines. 'I thank you for your kind and quick replies to my letters.'"

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free of charge. All correspondence strictly private and secretly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE TRANSPORT SHERIDAN.

Narrow Escapes and Exciting Adventures.

The army transport Sheridan, which arrived from Manila a few days ago, had many exciting adventures. She was twice struck by typhoons in the China sea, and narrowly escaped going to the bottom. The trip from Manila was delayed by the storms for many days. The vessel seemed to be in the center of the storm's fury, and the experience was terrible in the extreme. When the weather abated, the Sheridan attempted to make some headway, but it was discovered that the machinery had been disabled by the lashing of the vessel by the storm. For several days she drifted with the currents, and narrowly missed going ashore on the coast of Japan. On Oct. 10, the vessel managed to reach Nagasaki, where she was compelled to go into the drydock for repairs. The transport Warren was sent out from Manila to take the passengers of the Sheridan to their destination, but the Warren went aground soon after, and could not be floated. The passengers were then transferred to the Hancock, and this vessel in turn ran onto a reef in the inland sea. The vessel remained on the reef for 25 hours, when she was floated. After being repaired, the Sheridan left Nagasaki and, without further incident, reached Frisco in 17 days 5 hours.

Saw Death Near.

"It often made my heartache," writes L. C. Overstreet, of Elgin, Tenn., "to hear my wife cough until it seemed her weak and sore lungs would collapse. Good doctors said she was so far gone with Consumption that no medicine or earthly help could save her; but a friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery, and persistent use of this excellent medicine saved her life." It's absolutely guaranteed for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and all Throat and Lung diseases. 50c. and $1.00 at Dr. R. G. Shoults' Drug Store. Trial bottles free.

BURNING FUEL OIL.

Gradually Driving Wood and Coal Out the Market.

The use of crude petroleum as fuel for all kinds of heating purposes—in the factory, in the home, and on the railroad—is now extensively taking the place of wood and coal. The permits granted, in San Francisco, by the Board of Supervisors, from May 22nd, 1899, to Nov. 18, 1901, to large factories, sawmills, ship-builders, hospitals, hotels, &c., using oil fuel runs through a list from A to W—if not to Z, the most important of which number considerably over a hundred firms using oil for steam, cooking and heating purposes.

The court has been asked to decree it necessary to utilize the land.

Citrus Fair Association Getting Ready for Work.

The orange trees in the groves that dot the pretty little city of Cloverdale are loaded down with what is being rapidly transformed into golden fruit, says the Press Democrat. The perfume of orange blossoms fills the air and in its breath is the prediction of a successful citrus fair when it rolls around in February.

The crop of oranges is a large one and visitors are not slow in noticing this fact. The residents of the Orange City smile as they think of the coming harvest and the fair and already thinking caps have been donned, for it is purposed to have some entirely novel features for the coming fair. There will be plenty of oranges to carry out some elaborate schemes. The grove of the Cloverdale Orange Company is bearing a great crop, the largest known.

On Monday night the annual meeting of the Cloverdale Citrus Fair Association was held in the pavilion. The reports were presented and the board of directors was elected for the ensuing year. Incidentally plans for the coming fair were discussed.

A Woman's Awful Peril.

"There is only one chance to save your life, and that is through an operation," were the startling words heard by Mrs. I. B. Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis., from her doctor after he had vainly tried to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jaundice. Gall stones had formed, and she constantly grew worse. Then she began to use Electric Bitters, which wholly cured her. It's a wonderful Stomach, Liver and Kidney remedy. Cures Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite. Try it. Only 50c. Guaranteed. For sale by Dr. R. ## The Change of Life

Is the most important period in a woman's existence. Owing to modern methods of living, not one woman in a thousand approaches this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms.

Mrs. Jennie Noble

These hot flashes, nervous trouble, those hot flashes are just so many calls from nature for help. The nerves are crying out for assistance. The cry should be heeded in time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying period of her life.

It builds up the weakened nervous system, and enables a woman to pass that grand change triumphantly. "I was a very sick woman, caused by Change of Life. I suffered with hot flashes, and fainting spells. I was afraid to go on the street, my head and back troubled me so. I was entirely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Jennie Noble, 5010 Keyser St., Germantown, Pa.

Sitting Room Drama.

"Who comes there?" called little Willie, the sentry, in threatening tones as he brought his deadly wooden gun into shooting position.

"A friend!" answered little Tommie from behind the rocking chair.

"Advance and give the countersign," hissed the sentry, "or I'll shoot your head off!"

An ominous silence followed this terrible threat. Then Tommie said plaintively: "I've forgot it."

"You can't remember nuthin'," exclaimed Willie in disgust, throwing down his gun. "Cum over here an' I'll whisper it to you ag'in!"—Ohio State Journal.

St. Jacob's Oil for Chest Colds, Bronchitis, Croup and Pleurisy. An outward application for bronchial difficulties is many times far more effective than syrups, cough mixtures, cod liver oil, etc., simply because it penetrates through to the direct cause, which is, as a rule, an accumulation of matter or growth tightly adhered to the bronchial tubes.

St. Jacob's Oil, possessing as it does those wonderful penetrating powers, enables it to loosen these adhesions and to induce free expectoration. Cases have been known where expectorations have been examined after St. Jacob's Oil has been applied, and the exact formation was clearly shown where the adhesions had been removed or pulled off the bronchial tubes. All irritation of the delicate mucous membrane of the bronchae is quickly removed by the healing and soothing properties of St. Jacob's Oil. In cases of croup and whooping cough in children St. Jacob's Oil will be found superior to any other remedy.

St. Jacob's Oil is for sale throughout the world. It is clean to use—not at all greasy or oily as its name might imply. For rheumatism, gout, sciatica, neuralgia, cramp, pleurisy, lumbago, sore throat, bronchitis, soreness, stiffness, bruises, toothache, headache, backache, feetache, pains in the chest, pains in the back, pains in the shoulders, pains in the limbs, and all bodily aches and pains it has no equal. It acts like magic. Safe, sure and never failing.

INGENIOUS INSTRUMENT FOR MAKING SOIL EXPERIMENTS.

The division of soils of the United States Department of Agriculture has just described a new instrument now in use for investigating the properties of soils. This is one of the advantages of the method, since it has been shown that the moisture contents of a seemingly uniform soil may vary as much as 4 per cent within an area of one square rod. Consequently in order to obtain a consistent record of the change in water it is necessary to deal with the same sample of soil, which can only be done by this electrical method.

The scale of the instrument is arranged on a declinal plan, so that the various soil properties can be determined directly upon the scale of the instrument.

It was observed by Prof. Whitney that soil areas of the Connecticut Valley were practically identical as regards texture and water content with certain areas in Florida upon which the finest cigar wrappers are being raised from Sumatra seed. Experiments were accordingly made on one of the Connecticut areas, using the same seed and methods of cultivation and curing employed in Florida, with the most satisfactory results.

Should the more extensive experiments now in progress support the earlier work, as there is every reason to expect, the result will be to increase greatly the area adapted to the growth of the finest quality of cigar wrappers known, and there will be raised in this country tobacco now imported to the amount of $8,000,000 annually.

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON AND FAMILY.

In drudgery and want. As the property of the Maiden family he probably had more comfort in the "nigger quarters" than in the parsonage to which his mother took him in West Virginia. There as a mere child he worked in the salt furnaces and then in the mines. While working in the mines and furnaces the child had a chance to get a few months of schooling every year, but he secured employment with a New England woman and had an opportunity to attend night school, and then at odd times "between jobs" he worked and studied until 1871, when he started for Hampton School, of which he had heard much. Washburn, who worked which the woman for whom he worked paid him for his services his savings were small, and when he reached Richmond on his way to Hampton he had to go to work to get enough money to make himself presentable at the institution. But he became the star pupil of the place, and was graduated with honors, although he worked his way through. After spending a little while in his old home and teaching school he returned to Hampton as a teacher, and then started the institution at Tuskegee, Ala., which will always be a notable monument to his energy and his helpful work in the interest of his race.

The college was started in 1881 in a shanty. The idea of a higher school for blacks in that part of the country caused amusement. But to-day the Tuskegee College has 46 buildings on its 2,300 acres of land, and 1,200 pupils, representing 27 States, are being taught in the institution. A new hospital is building, a Carnegie library is under way and a new dormitory, the gift of John D. Rockefeller, will soon become a part of the institution. The students receive instruction not only in the ordinary school branches, but in 28 industries, each pupil selecting the one for which he is best fitted or toward which he has the greatest inclination.

"I formed a resolution," Washington says in one of his writings, "that I would try to build up a school that would be of so much service to the country that the President of the United States would one day come to see it. This was a bold resolution, and for a number of years I kept it hidden in my own thoughts, not daring to share it with anyone." This dream was realized, and the visit of President McKinley and his Cabinet to the school in

EGG-BOUND FOWLS.

Inability to lay on account of unusual size of egg.

Symptoms.—May be known by the hen coming off her nest, and moping about in evident distress with wings on the ground; sometimes she remains on the nest.

Treatment.—A large dose of castor oil will generally give relief in a few hours. Failing in this, a free injection of olive oil in the oviduct may be used, care being taken not to break the egg; if no syringe is at hand, the oil may be passed up with a feather.

TEACHERS' TROUBLES

A TRYING OCCUPATION FOR WOMEN WITH DELICATE NERVES.

The Hard Work Entailed by the Charge of a School Room Often Causes the Health to Break Down.

From The Tribune, Minneapolis, Minn.

Teaching school is an occupation which has many attractions for cultured women, but it also has many drawbacks and often affects their health seriously. Especially is this so in the case of women with delicate nervous systems and those with a tendency to pulmonary troubles. Miss Mary K. Powers, of Ellsworth, Wis., is a teacher whose health was broken down by the hard work which the charge of a large school entails. She says:

"During the winter of 1898, while teaching school, I became subject to nervousness, which grew worse until my whole system was run down. My back ached and at times I was so dizzy that I could hardly stand. My limbs were swollen and always tired, so that I felt no more rested in the morning than when I went to bed. I was also troubled with a cough and the food I ate did not strengthen me. This condition, accompanied by palpitation of the heart, kept up for several months until in March, when I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in a Juneau, Wisconsin, newspaper.

I began taking the pills and in about a week I noticed a change for the better. I felt so encouraged by this improvement that I kept on taking them until I had used three boxes, and was entirely cured. I always keep Pink Pills by me and I take them occasionally when I feel the need of a tonic.

"I believe firmly in the good done by Pink Pills for Pale People and have advised many of my friends to 'use them.'"

All the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves are contained in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after-effects of grip, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, and all forms of weakness. At all druggists, or direct from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 1 Schenectady, N. Y., fifty cents per box; six boxes two dollars and a half.

Fair Painter.—"I hope you don't mind my sketching in your fields." Farmer—"Indeed, no, missie. You keep the birds away better than any skinner I know."

KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.

Or Your Hair Will Fall Out Till You Become Bald.

Modern science has discovered that dandruff is caused by a germ that lives on the scalp in scales, as it burrows down to the roots of the hair, where it destroys the hair's vitality, causing falling hair, and, ultimately, baldness. After Prof. Unna, of Hamburg, Germany, discovered the dandruff germ, all efforts to find a remedy failed until the great laboratory discovery was made which resulted in Newbro's Hairdandruff. It alone of all other hair preparations kills the dandruff germ. Without dandruff, hair grows luxuriantly. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect."

It's a wonder some women know their own minds. They change them so often.

Ingenious Answer.

"Excuse me," he said to the applicant for the typewriter's position, "but I would like to know your age?"

The young woman looked astonished.

"May I ask what that has to do with my fitness for the place?" she inquired.

"Nothing," he promptly answered. "You see, it's my wife that wants to know."

"In that case," said the applicant, who was pretty as well as young, "tell her I am 47."

And the smile that followed this ingenious statement brought out four delightful dimples.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Why She Was Married.

It is queer how ironical is the hold of convention and conventional considerations. They have a tighter grip and a wider influence than law, reason, sentiment or ethics itself. A woman whose marriage may be termed mediumly successful admitted candidly not long ago that at the very last moment never, never would she have married her husband had it not been for the thought of all the conventional considerations involved.

"On the way to our wedding," said the woman, "we had the most awful kind of a row that made me vow inwardly never, never to marry him. Then at the thought of the ceremony to come off at a friend's house, the breakfast that, thanks to her, was prepared and the invited guests, and how they would all talk at any change of plan. I grit my teeth and went through it. But it was the thought of the conventional alone that kept me up. No other possible pressure could have induced me to marry him after such a row as we had on our way to the wedding."—New York Sun.

A Night Light.

Some people make it a point never to retire without a light burning in the house. A bit of information worth knowing is that a small evening light may be obtained from a small piece of candle all night if fine powdered salt is piled around the candle until the black part of the wick is reached.

Work For It.

Nothing that is of real worth can be achieved without courageous working. Man owes his growth chiefly to that active striving of the will, that encounter with difficulty, which we call effort; and it is astonishing to find how often results apparently impracticable are thus made possible.

Piao Cune cannot be too highly spoken of as a cathartic. J. W. Barker, 322 Third Ave., N., Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6, 1900.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

FLOWER AND TREE.

A good tree well planted will usually grow whether the work is done in the spring or fall.

A white pine will measure twenty-five feet at twenty years and gain twenty-five feet more in the next ten years.

The smallest tree in the world is the Greenland birch. Its height is less than three inches, yet it covers a radius of two or three feet.

In dealing with your plants be prompt. If one needs attention, see that it gets it at once. This is the only way to have success in plant growing.

Experts assert upon investigation that the fir trees of western Washington grow from 150 to 300 feet high and are from five to thirty-five feet in diameter and are stronger than oak of the Atlantic coast.

If you want your palms to thrive in an ordinary sitting room, sponge the leaves once a week with lukewarm water to which a little milk has been added. Then stand the plant for two hours in lukewarm water deep enough to completely cover the pot. This is the proper way to water palms.

Unawares.

"Oh, my!" she exclaimed impatiently. "We'll be sure to miss the first act."

"We've been waiting a good many minutes for that mother of mine."

"Hours, I should say," he replied rather tartly.

"Ours?" she cried joyfully. "Oh, George, this is so sudden!"—Philadelphia Press.

BAD BLOOD, BAD COMPLEXION.

The skin is the seat of an almost endless variety of diseases. They are known by various names, but are all due to the same cause, acid and other poisons in the blood that irritate and interfere with the proper action of the skin.

To have a smooth, soft skin, free from all eruptions, the blood must be kept pure and healthy. The many preparations of arsenic and potash and the large number of face powders and lotions generally used in this class of diseases cover up for a short time, but cannot remove permanently the ugly blotches and the red, disagreeing pimples.

Eternal vigilance is the price of a beautiful complexion when such remedies are relied on.

Mr. H. T. Shobe, 274 Lincoln Avenue, St. Louis, Mo., says: "My daughter was afflicted for years with a disgusting eruption on her face, which resisted all treatment. She was taken to two celebrated health springs, but received no benefit. Many medicines were prescribed, but without result, until we decided to try S. S. S., and by the time the first bottle was finished the eruption began to disappear. A dozen bottles cured her completely and left her skin perfectly smooth. She is now seventeen years old, and a sign of the embarrassing disease has never returned."

S. S. S. is a positive, unflinching cure for the worst forms of skin troubles. It is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and the only one guaranteed purely vegetable.

Bad blood makes bad complexions. S. S. S. purifies and invigorates the old and makes new, rich blood that not only beautifies the body and keeps the skin active and healthy and in proper condition to perform its part towards carrying off the impurities from the body. If you have Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Salt Rheum, Psoriasis, or your skin is rough and pimply, send for our book on Blood and Skin Diseases and write our physicians about your case. ## DEATH begins in the bowels. It's the unclean places that breed infectious epidemics, and it's the unclean body—unclean inside—that "catches" the disease. A person whose stomach and bowels are kept clean and whose liver is lively, and blood pure, is safe against yellow fever, or any other of the dreadful diseases that desolate our beautiful land. Some of the cleanest people outside are filthiest inside, and they are the ones who not only "catch" the infections, but endanger the lives of all their friends and relatives. There's only one certain way of keeping clean inside so as to prevent disease and that is to take CASCARETS. Perfect disinfectant and bowel strengtheners. All diseases are
