of State and City Paper, PRINTED BY J. BAYON. Y MORNING, NOVEMBER 28, 1925

In the heate of business at a heur, and the absence of the editor, it was published that the the trade to the East and West Indice was the died with the Delant States. The state three Singagers with the Sant Indice has been opened to this country has not with the West if it were, it would show highly beneficial for the British colonies in the Mart of Missico, as well : rebuily as for some of the desilers states. But we cannot expect the reciprocity dynamicals he full extent from the deceme-like conduct of the British government. The minespely of the British scade with Pertugal will shortly have resease well- not the trade with the latter country be associately to our merchants?

807 These gentlemen who are sincerely demons of promoting the literature of New Orleans, are respectfully requested to most this afternoon at 5 o'clock, at the elements of Mr Maybin—for the purpose of establishing a lyeous unfidebating society. It is expected that many influential persons will attend; and that a literary society will bestly and officiently be formed.

that she will have a numerous audience.

Cuddy the flute player has made his debut on our beards in a manner flattering to himself, and gratifying to the audience. His execution of Bayourheen dheelish' was brilliant and figurative in the extreme; altho in many passages, he was exchaningly sweet, simple and melancholy in his intonations and associations of sound. But he gave himself properly more liberty in Louissana and the commercial facilities of New Orleans, real states in shee comparatively much chapter than in any of the Athantic states or cities. Property is indeed ally rising in value on account of the many strices in internal improvements, but still it is not so done by half as in the seatorn states.

This should be an indecement to capitalise to purchase while they many works is progress if an about New Orleans, so as to promote its behalf and the facilities of trade and travel—there appear no cities where landed or trade and travel—there appear and cities where landed to those who now make purchases. We were told of a lot purchased in taboury Franklin in March last for less than 300 dollars, which sold a month since for nearly 10 times as much. This should attries the artention of appeculators—and each would find it really their interests to purchase real estate in the lower parts of the city rather than elsewhere; for the profits they would make by purchaseing cheap and stocks or any articles of commerce, has a fictitious or accidental value; bence we find the owners of real estate in the upper part of the city returnsoingly sed-aver to enhance that value by works of improvements—anch has causis roads and wharves and bence also we find that about.

It is true that property like mosey and stocks or any articles of commerce, has a fictitious or accidental value; bence we find the owners of real estate in the upper part of the city returnsoingly sed-aver to enhance that value by works of improvements—anch has causis roads and wharves and bence also we find that about 1.64th of the Carrolton ceasts produced lately at public sate nearly double what the whole ease to fave years since. This is all right and fair: yet it is the result of fortunate speculations.

F. S. I transmit you also a petition from Jacques Breton, who formerly belonged to the city guard. But as I am well aware that he has not rendered any services since September last, and as it is of the atmost importance that the guard should be complete in that season of the year, I thought proper to appoint another in his place. I will add that as he hay rendered mo service to tipe eseporation, he is not entitled to any pay. But if the council awards hispsome mosally assistance, I think it would be a charitable act. I transmit you also a judgment rendered against the approximon.

Travellers in this country, however they may think the blossings qualified or counterbehanced, are unanimous in their opinions regarding the physical comforts enjoyed by the mass of the people. The difficient of prosperity excites frequently astonishment as well as admiration. This is the land for the poor, however little attraction it may have for the refined and cultivated, is the sentiment of many Europeana, whose judgment on the second point is entitled to little weight, either from their apportunities when here; or the qualifications they bring with them.

To realize completely the dagree of liberry Americans enjoy, and as its consequence, the incitty of attaining and retaining prospents, we agest contrast our condition with that of other countwise. Tell a European peasant that an American day-laborer the himself is free to ago whither he chooses without a permit or passport; that he is free to purchase any portion and quantity of the land on which he works; that he is free to apprive to any official station in the land, and the Europeans would be struck with wonder: he could exercely credit what he hears. The American, on his part, accustomed to this freedom from his crafte, has difficulty in believing that whole sations are deprived by law of the liberty of speech and action to an extent which virtually makes them bondmen.—Beltimere American.
