Convention of U.S. Democrats Headed for Deadlock

LABOR MEN JOIN NEW CABINET IN SOUTH AFRICA

Party Representatives Voted Three to One in Favor of Plan

Nationalist Ministry Probably Will Include Colonel Cresswell and T. Boydell

Johannesburg, South Africa, June 30.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's)—A convention of Labor Party representatives held on Sunday in Johannesburg decided by a vote of fifty-one to seventeen, to accept appointments in the new Nationalist Cabinet of the Union of South Africa, which is being organized by the Nationalist leader, General Hertzog.

It is understood the Labor Party which co-operated with the Nationalists in overthrowing the Smuts Government, will be offered two portfolios. Colonel Cresswell, leader of the Union Labor Party, is said to be slated for the Ministry of Mines and Thomas Boydell for the Ministry of Labor.

PARTIES MARKING TIME; WAIT FOR ABSENTEE VOTES

Conservatives Postpone the Selection of Leader Pending Election Outcome

Government Stands Pat; Beer Looms up as Big Question in British Columbia

With all parties awaiting the outcome of the absentee vote, which will not be counted until July 12, British Columbia politics has slipped into a brief doldrum period. The Government, having discussed the whole situation fully, is resting on its oars now, content to await the counting of the absentee ballots, and Conservative leaders, who are attempting to choose a new leader, have decided that they might just as well postpone a decision until they know the final election verdict.

Until the absentee ballots are counted no arrangements for a meeting also will be held in abeyance. These are the three main items of business before the Government and each is an "open" item with the exception of the result that it is useless to consider them now.

Ss. Saguenay Ran Aground on Reef During Storm; Panic Prevented

The passengers, who comprised a party which had chartered the steamer for a special excursion from Montreal, were taken safely to shore in the ship's lifeboats, which were launched in rough water, whipped by the high wind. The boats were handled in an excellent manner, the pumps kept going and the ship controlled.

The big central building, where the great telescope is housed, is not believed to be in any danger, however, as it is in the centre of a wide cleared space.

Prorogation At Ottawa Next Week Is Planned

Ottawa, June 30.—(Canadian Press)—Prorogation is now in the offing and the exact date is full of speculation as to the exact date. The latter part of next week is now once more the favorite in the betting, the end of this week having pretty well dropped out of the possibilities, but there is no certainty one way or the other.

GERMANS AGREE TO MILITARY CONTROL

Accept Allies' Plan With Three Reservations; Delay of a Month

Berlin Government Denies There is War Movement in Republic

Paris, June 30.—Germany has replied to the Allied ambassadors' note accepting resumption of military control with three reservations. These are, first, a month's delay before such resumption in order to let public opinion calm down; second, work to begin with the inspection of factories, and third, that the proposed general investigation be limited to the five points mentioned in the ambassadors' note of March 5 and that the general inventory of Germany's armaments which the ambassadors suggested about precisely this limitation be carried out only at the latest possible moment.

Berlin, June 30.—Germany's reply to the Allied note on the resumption of military control of German armaments declares the German people repudiate even the mere idea of war. All shades of opinion, it says, are unanimous in repudiating secret armings as useless and dangerous.

The German Government, the note adds, has proceeded in a thorough manner for the disarmament of certain political organizations and there is no longer any question that they are armed to any serious extent.

Fifteen Watches And Alarm Clocks Taken by Thieves

New Westminster, June 30.—Burglars cleared fifteen watches out of the show window of D. Leith's jewelry store, 759 Columbia Street, some time Sunday night. Entrance was effected through the back of the shop. In addition to the watches, which were valued at approximately $350, a number of alarm clocks were taken from the store.

McADOO HOLDS LEAD IN U.S. DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION RACE TO OPPOSE COOLIDGE

Unable to Attract Two-thirds Vote of Convention in New York up to Time Ninth Ballot Taken; 444 Votes for Him and 278 for Governor Alfred Smith of New York.

Madison Square Garden, New York, June 30.—Plodding through nine ballots during its first session to-day, the Democratic National Convention found no candidate for the presidency of the United States and apparently did not prepare the ground for a break in the deadlock toward which it was heading. McAdoo, starting at 431 on the first ballot, climbed during the balloting to 444.6; while Smith, beginning at 240.5 on the first ballot, climbed steadily to 278.5 at the last of the session. John W. Davis, beginning with 31 votes rose to 64.

All the campaign managers for the various candidates declared they were satisfied with the situation, that the results did not indicate anything unfavorable to them and that the balloting had verified their estimates of what the figures would be. The nine ballots made some impression on the field of "favorite son" candidates, however, by accomplishing the total elimination of Governor Sweet of Colorado and Senator Ferris of Michigan.

Senator Kendrick of Wyoming who was not named for the floor, but was voted for from the floor also was eliminated.

Under the rules a vote of at least two-thirds of the convention is required for the nomination.

The convention started balloting at 10.41 o'clock this forenoon without any recurrence of the disorders of Saturday night over the Ku Klux Klan issue and reports that there was to be an attempt to reopen that subject melted to-day.

DR. F. TORRANCE DIED IN ONTARIO

Former Veterinary Director-General of Canada Succumbed in Guelph

Guelph, Ont., June 30.—Dr. Frederick Torrance, for many years Veterinary Director-General of Canada, died suddenly here on Sunday. With a number of friends he was taking part in Decoration Day ceremonies and was driving his own motor car in the parade with the Rotary Club, of which he was a member. Feeling momentary illness, he drew out of the parade and on reaching his home and stopping his car, expired immediately.

The widow, one son in Winnipeg and one daughter in Toronto survive him.

J. STEWART RESIGNS FROM C.N.R. BOARD

Winnipeg Man Finds Private Business Interests Take All His Time

Ottawa, June 30.—James Stewart, of Winnipeg, has resigned from the board of directors of the Canadian National Railways. It is understood his decision was due to the fact that his large private interests in the Maple Leaf Milling Company and other concerns, have made it impossible for him to give the attention to the work of the Canadian National that its importance warrants.

Sir Henry Thornton recommended in his annual statement that a small executive be appointed which might be within easy reach of the head office. It is known that the present plan, under which the directorate, which has to be called from all parts of Canada when required, has proved cumbersome.

Mounted Policeman Killed on Prairie

Regina, June 30.—Constable Howe of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was killed in a motor accident near Pelly, yesterday. Brief details of the accident indicate that Constable Howe was a passenger in a car driven by his brother-in-law, Staff-Sergeant John Jones. In turning a corner one of the front wheels came off. The car turned over twice and Howe was thrown underneath.

Head of Leading Photographic Manufacturing House in Victoria

What is to be the camera of the future? George Eastman, President of the Eastman Kodak Company, of Rochester, N.Y., the well known inventor of photographic equipment, and head of a number of companies associated with supplying the world with cheap cameras, showed The Times representative this morning a small camera of convenient size, in which he was recording motion pictures of people and scenes about Victoria. This camera, he stated, can be constructed for a cost of about $350, and does not require a tripod like the usual motion picture machine.

The head of the Eastman interests had not been in Vancouver for a number of years when he reached here with a party Saturday afternoon. He proceeded to Seattle to-morrow. Speaking in Victoria, he indicated that the problem would be to bring it down in cost something proportionate to the kodak camera, which he recalled was placed on the market at a cost of $25 each, and which by 1914 had come down to $2 for as good a picture as the original camera had given at twelve times the cost. That was the objective which his company was about to seek. The uses of a handy motion picture camera would in his judgment revolutionize photography, because for instance the pictures of children in action would be infinitely more valuable than the still pictures of to-day.

PRETTY WEDDING AT ESQUIMALT

On Saturday evening at 8 o'clock a very pretty wedding was celebrated at the bride's home, 733 Admiral's Road, when the Rev. B. Black united in marriage Myrtle, eldest daughter of Mr. Lorner McNutt and the late Mrs. Margaret B. McNutt, to Samuel Tongue, eldest son of Charles Tongue, of Staffordshire, England.

The bride looked charming in a white silk crepe-de-Chine dress, carrying a bouquet of pink and white carnations. She was attended by her father, Miss E. McNutt, eldest sister of the bride, acting as bridesmaid. The groom was supported by Luther McNutt, brother of the bride. The home was very beautifully decorated for the occasion with orange blossom and Canterbury bells, a large wedding bell hanging in the centre of the room, under which the ceremony was performed. The bride was the recipient of many very beautiful and useful presents. Mr. and Mrs. S. Teague will make their future home in Esquimalt.

Church Bill is Before Commons For Third Reading

Ottawa, June 30.—The Church Union Bill passed the committee stage in the House this afternoon and now stands for third reading.

TWO HUNDRED NAVY BOYS ENTERTAINED

Boys From Light Cruisers Entertained by Boys' Committee

After a pleasant morning spent at the Butchart Gardens and a drive over the Saanich peninsula, 200 naval boys, all under the age of eighteen, from the four light cruisers of the Special Service Squadron were entertained at a luncheon held in their honor at the Chamber of Commerce at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. Commander C. T. Beard, of the Esquimalt Naval Base, spoke in place of Commodore Walter Hesse, who had to return East last Wednesday. Mayor Hayward also gave a short address. Bob Webb and Harold Dignon put on a few stunts which were much appreciated, while community singing led by Robert Webb was taken up enthusiastically. Cliff Denham, the new manager of the Capitol Theatre, kindly threw the doors open to the navy boys this afternoon and, following the theatre, they will be given tea at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. A concert will be given later by local artists. The entertainment was arranged by the boys' entertainment committee of the citizens' entertainment committee under the supervision of J. McIntosh.

PROROGATION AT OTTAWA NEXT WEEK

A RECORD VOTE
At this stage it is reported amendments may be moved by opponents of the bill to put the members on record. The vote taken in committee was informal and there is no record of how the members voted. It is now generally taken for granted that the bill will leave the Commons in the form passed by the committee, and the Senate is reported to be unlikely to make changes in it.

TAX COLLECTIONS
The inquiry into the tax collecting departments before the Public Accounts Committee is to open tomorrow. With the end of the session so near it is not anticipated this investigation, which was ordered on motion by W. C. Good, Progressive Branch, will make very much progress, especially as it has been stated by the Government that the officers of the various tax offices are not permitted by law to give information on any particular cases.

C. N. R. BILLS
Three-quarters or more of the Canadian National Railway branch bills have already received the approval of the Senate Railway Committee. Three have been recommended for delay until next year and two more are still to come up. The two which remain to be considered this week are the Sunnybrae Line in Nova Scotia and the Kelowna branch in British Columbia. The first plank in the platform came after an appeal by Mr. Baker to consider the memory of Woodrow Wilson, and put in an anti-Wilsonian plank for the League of Nations.

Other party leaders argued that the majority plank proposed a more practical way to accomplish the object of getting the United States into the League, and the convention sustained them.

A CLOSE VOTE
The vote on the Klan was very close and its taking was surrounded with scenes of animosity and dispute such as have not been witnessed in years on the floor of a national convention.

When, after repeated challenges and charges of vote-buying, the delegates of the result was announced, it was 542 3-20 votes in favor of the plank as the committee recommended it, and 417 7-20 votes in favor of the minority plank, which would have singled out the Ku Klux Klan by name. Another roll-call on the adoption of the plank as a whole as submitted by the platform committee was ordered. After a further period of disorder Chairman Walsh adjourned the session without a roll call.

GREAT DISSENSION

The net result of Saturday's session was to create dissension within the ranks of the Democratic Party. The issue of a "front" of religious interests was well canvassed and discussed in many sections of the country during the coming campaign and furnish the party's political adversaries with a great deal of campaign material. The party leaders foresaw this result. They saw grave trouble ahead if the Ku Klux Klan issue was fought out at public sessions of the convention, and made desperate efforts to stave off the inevitable.

COULD NOT AGREE
The resolutions committee, which had charge of the framing of the platform, had been in session night and day since Tuesday in an effort to effect a compromise. The convention met Saturday morning, but the leaders after a brief session of routine business arranged an adjournment to the afternoon to give the platform committee a chance for a last-minute attempt to keep the party quarrel behind the locked doors of the committee room. But the anti-Klan faction within the committee would be satisfied with nothing less than the actual naming of the Klan and this the majority refused to accept.

Convention gossip attributed both fights to jockeying for position in the race for the nomination.

REPORTS DIFFER
The Klan issue was said to have been injected by opponents of W. G. McAdoo, who believed that if the plank naming the Klan could be put over it would definitely and finally eliminate McAdoo from the contest, his name having been associated with the hooded band. A report supposedly emanating from the "inner circles" of the convention declares that in the early stages of its discussion the committee unanimously decided not to mention the Klan by name, but to have the plank affirm belief in religious liberty and denounce all organized effort to persecute any man because of his race or religion. This is declared not only to have been satisfactory to the Jews and Catholics among the convention leaders, but to have been what they preferred. The unanimity of the committee on this was suddenly upset by a clique opposed to McAdoo, and, according to this report, this beer, taking the Province as a whole, was so large that a string of members believe that no beer bars should be opened anywhere.

CONFUSING LIQUOR LAWS
The absentee vote, however, may change the present situation a great deal by bringing Vancouver into the wet column. If Vancouver is wet then it is taken for granted that all places which voted for beer will get it. This will create a condition of considerable confusion, it is believed, as neighboring towns and cities will have different liquor laws. Victoria, in any case, will be without beer bars.

Conservative Party chieftains who were in conference here last week made little progress in the selection of a leader to succeed W. J. Bowser, and decided to leave the matter unsettled until after the counting of the absentee ballots. Conservative members intimated to-day, however, that Mr. Bowser is prepared to resign without protest if his party desires him to do so. Bowser, they declared, has not allowed his defeat in Vancouver to ruffle him and looks forward to private life after his long political career with a good deal of pleasure.

CANNOT FIND LEADER
The Conservatives are having a hard time, however, to find a leader who approaches Mr. Bowser in ability and experience. The party realizes that there is no one in-sight at present to take the old chieftain's place.

Hon. S. F. Tolmie would command practically unanimous support among elected Conservatives, but so far the Victoria member has given his friends here no sign that he wants to leave Federal politics, where he holds a position more lucrative than that of the British Columbia Premier. During the next two weeks vigorous efforts to persuade Dr. Tolmie to come West will be made by Provincial Conservative leaders.

McADOO HOLDS LEAD IN U.S. DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION CONTEST

THE PARTY PLATFORM
The Democratic platform does not single out the Ku Klux Klan by name and denounce it. It does not contain a Wilsonian plank on the League of Nations. The first plank in the platform came after a ten-hour session, in which some of the most disorderly scenes in convention history in this country were enacted.

Rejecting Newton Dr. Baker's substitute plank of the League of Nations for the platform, the convention, in the first round of its platform fight, voted to stand by its resolutions committee. The vote was 52 1/2 votes for adopting the Baker plank and overturning the resolutions committee, and 74 1/2 votes for adopting the majority report of the resolutions committee and adopting the plank it presented. There were two votes absent. The first plank in the platform came after an appeal by Mr. Baker to consider the memory of Woodrow Wilson, and put in an anti-Wilsonian plank for the League of Nations.

Other party leaders argued that the majority plank proposed a more practical way to accomplish the object of getting the United States into the League, and the convention sustained them.

A CLOSE VOTE
The vote on the Klan was very close and its taking was surrounded with scenes of animosity and dispute such as have not been witnessed in years on the floor of a national convention.

When, after repeated challenges and charges of vote-buying, the delegates of the result was announced, it was 542 3-20 votes in favor of the plank as the committee recommended it, and 417 7-20 votes in favor of the minority plank, which would have singled out the Ku Klux Klan by name.

Another roll-call on the adoption of the plank as a whole as submitted by the platform committee was ordered. After a further period of disorder Chairman Walsh adjourned the session without a roll call.

NAVAL PARADE IN VANCOUVER TO-DAY

1,300 Men of Hood, Repulse And Adelaide Seen by Thousands

Vancouver, June 30.—Thirteen hundred men from the British battle-cruisers Hood and Repulse and the Australian light cruiser Adelaide presented a fine display when, led by the band of the Hood, they paraded through downtown streets of this city to-day. Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Field and his staff took the salute at Dunsmuir and Burrard Streets. There were two companies of sailors from the Hood, two from the Repulse and one from the Adelaide and two companies of Royal Marines. Thousands of citizens lined the route of march.

CHILDREN'S PRISONER

After the parade had passed the corner of Dunsmuir and Burrard

TO GIVE FLAG TO SIR DAVID BRUCE

Toronto to Make Presentation to President of British Association

Leaders From Number of Countries to Attend Meeting in August

Toronto, Ont., June 30 (Canadian Press)—Although the British Association for the Advancement of Science is moving 3,000 miles from home in order to meet in Toronto August 6 to 13, the session here will be in every sense a typical meeting of the learned body which has exerted during the past hundred years such a profound influence on public thought in British Isles.

SILK FLAGS

The annual perambulations of the British Association are recorded on a set of silk banners presented, one each year, by the city visited. These are combined—the year and place of the meeting with the name of armorial office of the savant who fills the bearings of the time being.

FINE NEEDLEWORK

The committee in charge of the convention at the university has allotted the task of making the banner for 1924 to the women who are associated with it, and an inspection of its predecessors would indicate that the creators of the gift to Sir David Bruce will have to combine artistic talent and ability with the needle.

DISCOVERIES NOT SECRETS

That scientific discoveries are not secrets, jealously guarded by the countries in which they originate, is proved by the diversity of races and nationalities which will be represented at the meeting here.

DANGER KILLED

Calgary, June 30.—Ronnie Barton, twenty, well-known in London, England, and Liverpool as a step dancer, was instantly killed Saturday night when he fell down a cut bank at Battle River after giving a dancing performance. His mother resides in Liverpool, England. He came to Canada last year.

no hesitation in extending theories developed in other countries and applying them to the solution of their own problems.

CROW'S NEST PASS AGREEMENT

IT IS unfortunate that British Columbia appears to be in conflict with the three prairie provinces over the operation of the Crow's Nest Pass Agreement regarding freight rates.

Assuredly there is nobody in British Columbia who begrudges the benefits derived by the people of the three provinces immediately east of the Rockies from the Agreement, but the effect of the arrangement is to give manufacturers in Ontario and Quebec substantially lower rates on certain commodities shipped to the middle west than are given to similar commodities shipped there from this Province.

British Columbia wants these inequalities removed. If her manufacturers could obtain the same privileges their competitors east of the Great Lakes obtain under the Agreement this Province would not be in the position of opposing the enforcement of that contract.

The Crow's Nest Pass Agreement was negotiated in 1897 and was virtually a bargain between the Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway in connection with the subsidizing of the railway's project in the Crow's Nest Pass.

At that time British Columbia was scarcely a factor in interprovincial trade and the chief beneficiaries under the Agreement therefore were the grain growers of the prairies and the manufacturers east of the Great Lakes.

During the war it was necessary to suspend the Agreement to permit increases in freight rates. The suspension was to terminate last year, but the railroad companies opposed its re-enforcement and a compromise was effected under which the same reductions on grain and other farm products as were specified in the Agreement went into operation, the Agreement itself being suspended again until July this year.

During the period of suspension, however, British Columbia manufacturers were able to develop a growing business with the prairie provinces in certain commodities. If the agreement comes into force as it stands and British Columbia manufacturers do not receive the same concessions in freight rates as the Agreement gives to manufacturers in Ontario and Quebec shipping the same kind of commodities to the prairie provinces, that business will be wiped out.

It ought to be possible to incorporate the provisions of the Crow's Nest Pass Agreement in a readjustment of the whole freight rates structure which would effect beneficially not only three prairie provinces and Ontario but the whole of Canada.

SEEING CANADA

WHEN the Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Colonial Secretary in the British Government, pays an official visit to the Canadian Pavilion at Wembley on Thursday of this week he will be in charge of the High Commissioner and the Agents-General for the various Provinces.

Mr. Thomas is keenly interested in Canada and he still retains the favorable impression in respect of that part of the country which he was able to see on the occasion of his brief visit some years ago.

This is a very important excursion for the Colonial Secretary, not particularly from the point of view of his association, by virtue of his office, with the Empire as a whole, but more especially because he, as an important Labor Minister, will see and understand something of the standard of living in Canada as reflected in her creative capacity.

That section of Labor which is discouraging emigration to this country makes much of an erroneous contention that the beginning and end of every immigration proposal, even the most modest one, is a deep-dyed plot to convert the country into sweat shops.

Consequently the more the responsible leaders of Labor can see and understand Canada in her eminently capable role, so should the prejudice, which many ill-informed writers and speakers have unfortunately created in the minds of many who would soon become good Canadians if only they had their chance, diminish.

KEEP AWAY FROM IT

WHILE government control of the liquor traffic necessarily involves the government of any country where the system is in operation in the liquor business, its participation should be as indirect and remote as it is possible to make it.

DIVIDENDS WITH WINGS

ONCE more does the periodical distribution of dividends from the Premier mine remind the financial world that this British Columbia producer is more than ordinarily thriving.

The amount which the company will pay over to the fortunate ones this week is quoted as $400,000. It means also that when this payment has been made the dividends will have reached the enormous total of $5,800,000 since 1921.

As is well known, the greater part of these large earnings has been paid to foreign investors.

The Premier mine is one of several undertakings where capital originating outside the British Empire has been put to work in this Province.

It may be that Canadians themselves, and investors from Great Britain as well, will sooner or later take a leaf out of other people's books.

Our wealth merely awaits development. But there must be some outlay before rewards can be reaped. The Empire ought to cash in on its own property.

We have our own many examples of how difficult it is to take off what was put on "as a war measure."

Where is the leader? This is not a police inquiry; it is the question which a number of Conservatives are asking themselves these days.

What a strange world we live in! So much public utterance is made up of alarms about the time and place of the next war and how it will be fought.

The London Times is wondering whether the people of Canada will take the words to which Vice-Admiral Field has given expression on this coast as a hint to follow Australia's example and build a navy. Canada would have had several very convincing "arguments" on the high seas in 1914 if the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier's policy had not been thrown into the political melting pot by his opponents.

British Columbians have a more direct interest in H.M.S. Hood than the people in any other part of the Empire. Every stick of timber used in the scaffolding and general construction of the warship came from the forests of this Province.

In accordance with parliamentary procedure, where a member making charges against another member fails to substantiate them, Mr. E. G. Porter, Conservative member for West Hastings, has resigned his seat in the House of Commons.

AN EASTER SONG IN ITALY

From The Irish Statesman
The gentle sun of gentle Spring
Was over Venice in St. Mark's
'Twas Easter morning, all the lights
Were sparkling on the wall, the larks
Were sparkling in the air; the whites
And golds upon the bishop's gown
The little birds, washed up and down
The jewel in the bishop's ring
With all the candles from the shrine
Reflected in it, was a small
Cathedral for his Grace to fall
P'ph his knees within and call
In privacy upon the Lord—
To share with him the bread and wine,
To share with him the living Word.

Dr. Frank Crane On "The Shoemaker's Children"

WHY is it that, as a rule, lawyers make the worst jurors and seem ill-fitted to weigh evidence, when it is their business and specialty to handle evidence, and they ought to be the best judges of its value?

And the bystander always knows better what move to make than either of the two chess players?

And the head master of a boys' school sends his own boys to another institution?

And the horse trader drives a plug; and the proprietor of the high-class cigar importing house smokes stogies?

And the shoemaker's children go barefoot; and there may be many reasons, but one reason for this whole class of phenomena is

That Generations are safe and simple, while Particular Instances are complex and mysterious.

The Marquis de Tracy Arrives at Quebec

IT was on June 30, 1665 that two ships of France stood up past the point of the Island of Orleans and dropped anchor in the St. Charles Basin of Quebec.

With the Marquis, who had been appointed Lieutenant-General for His Majesty in North and South America, came a number of courtly young gentlemen of France, curious to see the new world of which they heard at home so much that was wonderful.

The regiment which accompanied the Marquis de Tracy was the Carignan-Sallieres, so named from the Prince de Carignan, who first raised it and from Colonel de Sallieres, who now commanded it.

The Marquis de Tracy's stay was barely a year and a half. Having frightened the Iroquois and pacified the troubled government of the colony, he returned to France, and De Courcelle, who had been present as subordinate under the Viceroy took over the whole administration as Governor.

THE BISHOP HILLS MEMORIAL HALL
To the Editor:—In to-day's issue of The Times in the letter-press under the excellent cut of the first unit of the new Christ Church Cathedral buildings, surely there is a mistake?

It there says, it was erected "in memory of those in the Cathedral Parish and elsewhere who gave their lives in the war of 1914-18," etc. The old-timers were told it was to be

CHASE AND SANBORN'S SEAL BRAND TEA COFFEE
SOLD IN 1/2 LB. AND 1 LB. CARTONS
SOLD IN 1/4-1-2 LB. TINS

erected primarily in memory of the first Bishop of British Columbia, our old and greatly valued friend, Bishop Hills. Now, you have made no mention of his name, and, in justice to the memory of one who did so much pioneer work for the Diocese, I scarcely think it either fair or dignified, that his name should simply be massed amongst those pioneers of church life and Christian doctrine, in the early days of the history of Victoria. The Memorial Hall should be called as originally intended "The Bishop Hills Memorial Hall" and his name suitably inscribed on the outside of the building. MARTHA J. ATKINS

The youth, said counsel, pleading guilty to the charge, had been brought up in the lap of luxury, but owing to a slightly extravagant nature had exceeded his income for the moment, and would be without funds until to-morrow, or possibly longer. Magistrate Jay remanded the defendant on his own recognizance.

Appearing on behalf of creditors the Royal Trust Company, D. W. P. ## MEMBERSHIP OF GROUP IS NARROWED; POLITICAL MURDERS ARE CONDEMNED

All-India Congress Committee Meeting Proves He is Still Leader

Allahabad, India, June 30 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—At the meeting here Saturday of the All-India Congress Committee, which controls the organization of the congress, to determine the position of the Swarajists or Indian Home Rulers, Mahatma Gandhi proved to be still the dominant force in the Indian Nationalist movement. He submitted a resolution laying down that membership in the committee should be confined to those actively engaged in promoting Indian home industries, by spinning at least half an hour daily and practicing the five-fold boycott, including the boycott of the provincial councils and new laws.

Repeated efforts to arrange a compromise regarding Gandhi's resolution failed, and the committee finally adopted Gandhi's motion by a vote of sixty-seven to thirty-seven, after a party of Home Rulers who opposed the motion had left the meeting.

A resolution moved by Gandhi regarding the murder of Mr. J. P. Englishman, on January 12, and consistent with the non-violent, non-cooperation movement was carried. The resolution added that violence retarded the progress of the home rule movement.

London, June 30.—King George received the premiers of the Canadian provinces at a garden party at Buckingham Palace. "You have taken a good man away from us in England," said the King.

Vancouver, was appointed as receiver and manager.

Cars driven by A. Lanchick, of this city, and C. E. Myhre, Seattle, came together on the Island Highway at Pagsons Bridge yesterday morning, when the latter's car overturned and swung to block the end of the bridge. No one was hurt.

RECEPTION GIVEN DEPARTING FRIEND

Many Acquaintances of Mrs. Abel Bid Her Farewell

Charming in every detail and attended by a large number of guests, the beautiful home of Mrs. David Spencer, Sr., was thrown open to the members and friends of the Methodist Women's Missionary Auxiliaries of the Victoria district, the occasion being a reception to bid farewell to Mrs. Abel, an honorary life member and district organizer for many years of the Victoria District Society, who is leaving shortly for Woodstock, Ont., her former home.

Mrs. Spencer, who looked most attractive in a gown of white satin with lace trimmings and amethyst necklace, was assisted in receiving by her daughters, Mrs. Grant and Miss A. J. Spencer, with a few of Vancouver, delighted the guests with several well rendered solos suitable for the occasion.

A message of the love and esteem of the auxiliaries was voiced by Mrs. W. J. Pendray, and a handsome leather bag filled with gold was presented to Mrs. Abel, with a few well chosen words by Mrs. Spencer, to which Mrs. Abel made a fitting and appreciative reply.

A dainty repast was served in the spacious dining-room, which was artistically decorated with masses of roses, with Mrs. Christie and Mrs. McKinnon, and the present Mrs. McComb, President of Metro-Women's Auxiliary, at the close announced a garden fete to be held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Pendray, Friday, July 1, to which all the ladies were cordially invited.

Sir H. Drayton Urges System Be Handled Over to Prairie Provinces

Suggests Federal Parliament Vote $2,000,000 to Start the Scheme

Ottawa, June 30.—Before the special committee considering the estimates of the Canadian National Railways and the Government Merchant Marine, Sir Henry Drayton, former Minister of Finance, to-day advised that the Hudson Bay Railway be handed over to the prairie provinces to become a law of the provinces $2,000,000 to go on with. He advised this on the express understanding that the prairie provinces assume all responsibility. They could have all the profits.

WORKMEN'S HOTEL

Is a Workmen's Hotel needed here? A query is now being sent out to the purpose of ascertaining if a vacant building suitable for adaptation to that purpose can be secured, from the large number of reverted improvements.

There was an effort of this character made some years ago, but it did not meet with much success, and was abandoned.

There is little doubt that the matter will be raised with the city authorities, to learn their opinion on the matter, and to ascertain whether suitable accommodation can be secured.

SEA SCOUTS ARE GUESTS ON DELHI

A warm welcome was given on board H.M.S. Delbi, flagship of the light cruiser squadron, now in Esquimaux Harbor, to the Navy League Sea Scouts, who were the guests of the Admiral yesterday from 10:30 o'clock to 5 o'clock. They were in charge of Chief Instructor Burton.

Rear-Admiral Brand inspected the boys and addressed them briefly. About seventy attended the function, which was greatly enjoyed by the youthful visitors.

CANADA MAKES BIG PART AT WEMBLEY

Dominion's Display Beyond Comparison With Others, Says Speaker

"Canada's pavilion at the the British Empire Exhibition is a practical demonstration to the world at large and the rest of the Empire in particular, that this Dominion can hold her own in the commercial field."

This was the conclusion which Mr. H. J. Hodges, of The Times editorial staff, reached after he had seen Canada's exhibit at the Great Fair in London, and in a brief address before the Kiwanis Club to-day he emphasized the reason for the exhibition in its widest application, with special reference to the profit which should accrue to this part of the Empire as a result of the part which it is taking.

WIRE PROTEST OVER DECREASE IN WAGES

Take Action in Co-operation With Other Western Organizations

It was decided at an executive meeting of the Victoria branch of the Dominion Postal Clerks' Association, in conference with the provincial vice-president, D. McCulloch, to send a wire to Hon. Charles Stewart, acting Postmaster-General, and Premier Mackenzie King, and Hon. Arthur Meighen, protesting against the reduction in wages and stating that, although they had not gone on strike, they were supporting their Eastern associates.

The wire read as follows: "The fact that Western postal workers have not joined the strike does not mean that the West is satisfied. Greatest dissatisfaction is growing in the West. The Victoria branch feels that Eastern associates have been forced into strike by the vacillation of government regarding our just demands. I am instructed by the branch to insist that no postal employee be paid less remuneration this year than last year, and that all striking employees be reinstated. Efficiency of service seriously affected by attitude of Government."

"J. WHITE, Secretary."

"Victoria Branch D.P.C.A."

This wire was sent in co-operation with all the other branches of Western Canada.

W. E. Ditchburn is Called to Ottawa on Departmental Business

Indian Commissioner W. E. Ditchburn has been called to Ottawa to confer with the Superintendent General and his assistant, Dr. D. C. Scott, on matters of importance in connection with the Department.

It is probable that neither the Minister nor Dr. Scott, who both came to the Coast last Summer, will journey west after the House rises, at any rate Mr. Ditchburn expects to discuss the Indian land title question and other important issues while in Ottawa.

He will leave to-morrow, and expects to be away from Victoria for three weeks.

ABANDONED HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING SUBJECT OF SUIT

Hearing Continues in Watkins vs. Oak Bay Board

The trial of Watkins vs. the Oak Bay Board of School Trustees continued before Mr. Justice Gregory this morning, after a lengthy chamber session. Plaintiff, C. Elwood Watkins, sues the municipality for recovery of $5,600 for professional services rendered in connection with the plans and specifications of the now abandoned high school building project. The high school was talked of by the Oak Bay Board for some months last year, but later vetoed by the council in the absence of a by-law to the people.

The architect presented his account and payment was refused after some delay. The action is in the nature of a test case in which the liability of the 1923 School Board for the sum named in the claim is at stake. The amount of the claim was included by the 1924 board in its estimates at the first of this year, but later struck out at the request of the council. The hearing proceeds with H. A. Maclean, K.C., for plaintiff and A. D. Macfarlane for defendants.

Up with the Flag of Health

Sixty years old — four years older than Dominion Day itself — and up at sun-rise to hoist the flag. The lovable old gentleman's spirits are infectious, and every day more and more Canadians are getting to know the wonderful Kruschen feeling and gathering 'round Grandpa's banner of good health.

How do you feel these hot days? Are you tired, listless and used-up? Just consider! Working indoors all day, you get little fresh air and hardly any exercise. This affects some people very vitally, and probably you are one of them. The liver and kidneys slow up and impurities creep into the blood.

soon follow. Your work becomes a burden.

Get that Kruschen feeling! "The blues" will travel faster than the wind — anywhere, away from you. Take your daily dimself of Kruschen Salts in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea. You can't taste them if you take them this way, but they will do you a world of good. They tone up the liver and kidneys, so that these organs perform their functions as nature intended; actively, thoroughly, they cleanse the blood of all impurities. Fresh, clear blood circulates all over your body, bringing new life to every fibre of your system. Your mind is keener, you feel more active, your work feels like play. You finish the day fresh as a paint.

That is what Kruschen Salts will do for you at less than half a cent a day. A 75c bottle lasts three months.

By MILDRED BARBOUR

The sound of Barry's familiar voice greeting Harriet cheerily was almost more than she could bear. For the first time tears came, noiseless, unchecked, rolling despairingly down her fresh young cheeks.

"You're looking awfully fit," Barry, handsome, lithe, with an athlete's strength and vigor flung himself into a chair by the fire. "You mustn't miss the wedding. Natalie's heart would break."

"I shall be there—if my sedan chair is in order," Harriet promised stoutly, and the heart of the unseen listener contracted at the chiding remembrance that there would be no wedding.

"By the way, you just missed Natalie," Harriet went on evenly. "She came in for tea. Prospective brides are hard to keep up with, aren't they, Barry, old boy?"

He agreed. To ears that loved him, his cheerfulness was patiently forced. He sighed, and rising went to stand by the fireplace, looking down absently at the flames.

"Something is troubling you," Harriet hazarded quietly.

He gave her his quick, charming smile.

"I am about to assume grave responsibilities, Harriet. You wouldn't want me to be flippant?"

But his eyes were not smiling and they moved around the room restlessly.

"Hugh about anywhere?" he asked with a carelessness that failed to deceive either of his hearers.

Both Harriet and Natalie knew, then, why he had come. Hugh was off in the night, and Barry was a runaway. He had fled from the city, and Barry was fearful.

"Hugh left word this morning that he was dining at the club to-night and wouldn't be back until late," said Harriet.

"Of course—I'll look him up there. Telling business matters," Barry lied smoothly.

Natalie knew better than Harriet that Barry had already made an exhaustive search of Hugh's usual haunts before coming to his home. Such a necessity was arising with alarming frequency of late. How long the real estate of affairs could be kept from Harriet, and most of all from Hugh's mother, was troubling Barry sorely. He had shared Natalie to some extent with Natalie.

"I'll be off now and catch Hugh before he dines. Hope I didn't alarm you."

He stood smiling down at her, handsome, charming, determinedly gay.

Harriet said irreverently: "I hope you'll always be very happy, Barry." He lifted her fingers to his lips.

"Thank you, sister-in-law of mine. Won't you hope, too, that I may always make Natalie happy?"

Harriet's pain-shadowed eyes studied him.

"For a man, you're splendidly unselfish, Barry."

He grinned.

"I'm a lovely lady, you're uncommonly cynical, Harriet."

She ignored the badinage.

"You give a tremendous lot of yourself to people, don't you? No one else in distress ever has to call in vain. You worship Mother Sheldon, don't you?"

The light that Natalie loved shone in his fine eyes.

"If she asked me to live in the desert in a tent, I should do it gladly. Why not? She's given her life to Hugh and me. Perhaps you can't realize just how I feel about mother. You see, she adored dad and when he died she almost went crazy. I tried to take his place as nearly as possible. I have always believed that Hugh was her favorite, but Hugh, of course, had you, and the baby was coming."

Harriet interrupted him with a faint gesture. Her smile was very sad.

"Let's be frank, Barry, and admit, you and I however loyal we may be, that Hugh proved a broken reed."

"I won't admit it," he declared flatly. "Hugh's having a bit of a belated fling, that's all, Harriet. You mustn't let it worry you. He'll come around all right."

"If I should die," said Harriet deliberately, "he would come around all right. He could marry again and have what he needs, a woman who can share his pleasures, be a real companion."

Barry raised a protesting hand.

"Cut that out! I'm ashamed of you! You're getting morbid. Wait until Natalie and I are married. We'll gather Hugh back into the fold and make a jolly foursome. You'll see!"

Harriet seemed not to hear him.

"Barry," she said with strange irrelevance, "if you were married to someone, you didn't really love, and there were reasons why you should remain playing the game?"

He looked at her sharply, but he did not flinch. She wondered if the shot went home, or whether he thought she was alluding to herself and Hugh.

"If it were best for the happiness of everyone concerned," he answered slowly, "I could go on pretending and never let my wife suspect. She should have my loyalty and respect, if I couldn't give her my love."

"But it might be dangerous. There are other lures, other flames, you know."

"Ah, but I should never lift my eyes to the flame. The wise man fortifies himself against his limitations."

His quick smile dismissed the subject deftly.

"Forget this rubbish, Harriet. I'm off to find Hugh. Good night."

When Natalie came from her hiding place, Harriet was lying back on her cushions, one hand shielding her eyes, as though the light hurt her. With a compassionate kiss on the forehead, Natalie went softly out and up to the rose suite.

She knew that hers would not be the only heart which kept a vigil in the quiet house that night.

NATALIE ACCEPTS THE CHALLENGE

The gray dawn straggled through the rose taffeta curtains of the room where Natalie kept her vigil. She had not closed her eyes during the long silent night. Tossing on lace and silken pillows whose softness might have been transformed to a hairshirt for all the rest they gave her tortured spirit, she went wearily, again and again, over the situation in which she found herself.

When the dawn, cheerless, but welcome after the nightmare night—the dawn, before her wedding day—came at last, she sat up in the luxurious, rose-draped bed, and tossing the disheveled hair from her weary eyes, faced the East.

"Lil," a young priestess intoning a vow, she spoke aloud:

"I'm going through with it! God help me, I'm going through with it!"

And then, for the first time during the whole hideous night, her control broke and she sank back in the pillows and began to weep, noiselessly, but with long shudders that shook her slender body.

She had come to her decision by long stages of careful thought during the night, but she had tried faithfully to keep Harriet's counsel before her eyes. Again and again she had shuddered away from the bare possibility of going through with the wedding. Again and again she had told herself that she couldn't, that no woman with pride could even dream of such a thing.

But at length, she had routed all the inactive impulses of pride, wounded vanity, fear of scandal and marshalled carefully before her a logical array of vital facts.

She knew then that she would marry Barry Sheldon, whether he loved her or not. She loved him; they were comrades, pals, the best of friends. To call off the wedding bells and again to be asked to share a scandal that would be hideous to all of them, and not better the situation for anyone.

If Jeannette Amory were free to marry Barry, if she were not so obviously cheap, Natalie knew she would proudly offer Barry his freedom and send him to her. But he couldn't marry—Mrs. Amory, even though he loved her, and if he could marry her, Natalie knew that it would be the most terrible thing that could happen to him. She loved Barry enough to want to save him from such a fate. She loved Mrs. Sheldon enough to be willing to sacrifice herself to prevent her humiliation and sorrow at such an alliance of her son's.

There was no denying the cheapness of Jeannette Amory and her methods. Her insatiable desire for masculine admiration had long since overcome any scruples she may have once possessed. She had forgotten how to play the game. Secure in the blind devotion of a rich, indulgent husband, further protected by two young children for whom she prided herself lavishly, she pursued her pleasures recklessly, craftily disarming criticism by posing to the men whose attention she desired, as the lonely, unhappy, young wife of a stuffy, middle-aged business man. Her youth, her right to love, she declared had been sacrificed to her family's desire for a wealthy alliance. She was a martyr, too slight, too frail, too pathetic to bear this unfair burden which life had thrust upon her.

Her woman acquaintances—she had no friends—smiled understandingly at her subterfuges, but they did not underrate her power. She was no mean adversary, the more dangerous because she belonged to no accepted type of siren. She was only fairly pretty, painfully thin, shrewd but not clever. Her power lay in her ability to play a crooked game and make it seem above-board.

Natalie, secure in her radiant young beauty, scornful of artifice or pretense, declared war upon Jeannette. Hugh was her ally, and she grew brighter outside the rose-curtained windows and the first flaming fingers of the rising sun were thrust above the horizon.

She had been caught napping. It was true, but she refused to admit that it was too late to enter the arena and win. She had trusted too much in her beauty, her long companionship with Barry, her faith in his unerring judgment.

Men were queer, illogical creatures sometimes, she reflected. It was difficult to gauge the force of their passions. Men loved out of caste, whereas women, the women of her world, rarely did. Perhaps, once married to Barry, she might learn what strange attraction had drawn him to Mrs. Amory.

She knew, as well as she knew her own soul that Barry was not, and could never be, the lover of a married woman.

Deliberately she climbed out of bed and studied her reflection in the dressing table mirror. She was beautiful. Youth does not become haggard in one sleepless night.

"You can do it!" she told her image sternly. "You've got to do it. You have made other men love you without even trying. Edge isn't so cruel that it will let you fall with the only one who counts. It isn't solely your own happiness you'll be fighting for. It's Barry's and his mother's too. The stakes are—crucially high—but they're worth it. And you've got to win. Your very life depends on it."

Nanaimo Soccer Team Opposing Navy To-morrow

Canadian Champs Sending Down Fine Team; Great Game Expected

Two More Soccer Games This Week For Sailors; Victoria Won on Saturday

One of the big sporting attractions for to-morrow will be the football game at the Royal Athletic Park between the best eleven from the Light Cruiser Squadron and the Nanaimo holders of the Connaught Cup...

Two other soccer games have been arranged for the afternoon of the 30th. On Wednesday evening at 6.30 o'clock the sailors will play the Native Sons at the Royal Athletic Park...

A well-placed shot by Tom Watt after a long run down the field just before time decided Saturday's football game between the All-Stars of Victoria and the Navy in favor of the former by 3-2.

The teams each scored once in the first half. Walsh driving in the first one for the Navy while Clarkson tied it up before the whistle for half time. In the second half Tom Watt bundled in a good shot, followed by another goal by Walsh for the Navy, which came Watt's second goal, which decided the issue.

Saanich Thistles Won Match From Sailors

On Saturday afternoon at the Canton grounds the Saanich Thistles, junior football champions of the city, stacked up against a team picked from the light cruiser squadron, and won by a six to nil score.

In the first half the Thistles found the net three times—Connorton, Irvings and Burns accounting for the goals. The superior combination work of the champions seemed to puzzle the sailors.

In the second half the winners found the net for three more goals, Burns securing two of them, while Connorton was responsible for the other.

The teams were as follows: Light Cruiser Squadron—Goal, Holden, Delhi; full backs, Cubitt of the Dragon and Fleming of the Delhi; half backs, Grubb of the Danae, Burns of the Danae and Strong of the Delhi; Goodman, Hill and Spall of the Danae and Leigh of the Danae.

Thistles—Goal, Harper; backs, Main and Essler; half backs, Miller, Crowe and Shanker; forwards, Connorton, Minnie, Burns, Irvings and Ewing.

Referee, N. Mallett of H.M.S. Delhi.

Garrison Defeated by Westminster 6-1 in Listless But Clean Game

New Westminster, June 30.—Faultless lacrosse was that over which Thuro Storme presided as referee when the Victoria Garrison and Royal City senior amateurs met at Queen's Park on Saturday afternoon.

In fact Storme did not send a man to the fence, though it appeared at the end of the third period as if the whistle was all that saved the Victoria captain. The Royals won 6-1. If the game was faultless so far as deportment is concerned, it was far from that from a lacrosse angle.

BARBARA LA MARR PLAYS LEAD IN CAPITOL PRODUCTION WITH COLORFUL SCENES OF PARIS FETE

"The White Moth," First National Picture Offering This Week Is Parisian Sensation; Conway Tearle Takes Dramatic Role

The Bal des Artistes, Paris's most brilliant annual frolic of artists, actors, and other celebrities from the Paris Latin Quarter, has been brought to the screen by Maurice Tourneur in what is described as one of the most ambitious and colorful scenes ever devised for a motion picture.

Six hundred people, garbed in the picturesque and grotesque costumes of the revel, are used by Tourneur for this sequence in "The White Moth," the First National picture, starring Barbara La Marr and Conway Tearle, and coming to the Capitol Theatre this week. The guests in their bizarre costumes ride into the ball-rooms on the backs of stuffed animals—horses, cows, camels, sheep, donkeys, goats and pigs.

All the stuffed animals in Hollywood, it is said, were rounded up for the scene. The spectacular setting erected for the scene is an exact reproduction of the ballroom of the Tuileries Palace in Paris. Tourneur's art department having made a careful copy of an old etching that the director supplied from his collection.

The Bal des Artistes, in this magnificent setting, provides one of the most striking scenes in the photoplay. The action was photographed by eight cameras from eight different angles, all the lights from two stages being used to illuminate the set.

There are many novelties in the way of costumes and with each of the 600 revellers in a different garb, the Bal des Artistes, as screened, resembles a fete of all nations.

The costumes were designed by Clare West, designer for the motion pictures and creator of fashions for thousands of girls by means of the gowns she devises for popular film folk.

Each costume worn by Barbara La Marr is white, so that her appearance on the silver sheet as the dancing sensation of Paris is at all times suggestive of The White Moth.

A magnificent Venetian gown, with hat and veil to match, and a burlesque frock worn by Miss La Marr, are said to be particularly striking.

While the Bal des Artistes is in progress much of the most important dramatic action in "The White Moth" takes place between Barbara La Marr as the heroine, Conway Tearle as Robert Vantine, and Ben Lyon as his brother, Douglas, millionaires, on a visit to Paris.

The Bal des Artistes is one of two unusually spectacular settings staged by Maurice Tourneur for "The White Moth." The other is the complete interior of a Parisian theatre, in which the audience as well as the stage is included in the scene. Six hundred people were employed for the theatre scene.

"The White Moth" is a screen version of Izola Forrester's story of the same name. Albert Shelby LeVino having prepared the continuity. M. C. Levee is the producer and it was personally directed by Mr. Tourneur, who ranks it as his finest directorial achievement to date.

The cast, in addition to the featured players, Barbara La Marr and Conway Tearle, Charles de Roche, Ben Lyon, Edna Murphy, Josie Sedgwick, Kathleen Kirkham and William Orlamond.

Shirley Mason Has Role of Society Bud
Tired of High Life

Fox Production, "The New Teacher," New Show at Playhouse

Shirley Mason's latest picture, "The New Teacher," opened at the Playhouse Theatre to-day. In this splendid William Fox production the star adds another laurel to her crown on the screen.

Miss Mason enacts the role of a wealthy New York girl who tires of the social grind. She is bored with her mode of living and yearns to do something for her fellow beings in the poorer districts of the great city. Her opportunity comes when her mother tells her that the family fortune has been dissipated, and she takes a position as a teacher in the slums.

Her sweetheart discovers her plans, and in order to watch over her becomes a policeman. In the end he induces her to marry him, but not until she enlists his interest in her work.

The opening scenes of the picture show Miss Mason, standing on a rooftop, looking over New York City, and later in a crowded East Side street. Alas Forrest, Earl Metcalfe and young Pat Moore, who support the star, do fine work. The picture furnishes an excellent entertainment.

Mystery Drama is Now at Columbia In "Does It Pay?"

Hope Hampton Is Vampire In Costumed Play With Notable Cast

The initial showing of the William Fox offering, "Does It Pay?" is now running at the Columbia Theatre. It has a cast featuring Hope Hampton, supported by a number of players of known ability. It is a society drama dealing with a phase of life that engrosses in its depiction as directed by Charles Moran.

Hope Hampton is seen in the role of a "vamp." She isn't the coquettish ingenue, who is sought after by the hero in this picture, she's a keen minded girl, who, with her mother's advice wins into the home of the Westons with the purpose to win John Weston for herself regardless that it means severing his home ties in order to marry her, she enters the home as companion to Mrs. Weston. Miss Hampton enacts this role with power.

Robert T. Haines as John Weston, gives a fine performance. His change in thoughts and outlook upon life is noticeably portrayed. He achieves that remarkable height of arousing sympathy in the minds of his audience, even when they know he is doing wrong.

Others in the cast include Florence Short, Walter Petri, Peggy Shaw, Charles Wellesley, Mary Thurman, Claude Brooke, Pierre Gondron, Roland Bottomley, Marie Shotwell and Bunny Grauer.

The story has an ending that is totally unexpected, putting it in a class of a mystery drama.

Music Lovers' Night at Capitol

To-night the Capitol Theatre will present, for the first time, a music lovers' night, the orchestra being under the direction of A. Prescott. This is in line with the new policy which will start on Monday, whereby the Royal Theatre will be closed except for road attractions, concerts and meetings. The programme of music to be presented in conjunction with the First National feature, "The White Moth," will contain numbers that will appeal to all music-lovers. Some of the numbers to be rendered during the evening are as follows:

- Overture—Il Guarany..... Gomez
- Waltz—Sphinx..... Poppy
- Chanson—De Pierrot..... Drigo
- Cantata—The Blue Bird..... B. Godard
- Valse—Bluettes..... Drigo
- Popular—There's Yes in Your Eyes..... Perito
- Popular—Somewhere in the World..... Nat Ayer

In addition to this the management are pleased to announce that they have secured Miss E. McEwan, the popular New York soprano. This is not Miss McEwan's first visit to this city as she had an engagement two years ago at the Royal, where she created one of the best impressions that any singer has ever made in this city. To round out this super-musical programme A. V. Thomas, the popular Capitol Theatre organist, will be heard in solo numbers.

"THE WHITE SISTER" IS STORY OF ITALIAN BRIDE WHO FINDS NOVEL WAY OUT OF DILEMMA

Lillian Gish Leads Cast In Great Film From Marion Crawford Novel and Filmed in Italy and Northern Africa

"The White Sister," Lillian Gish starring, will have its premiere at the Dominion Theatre this week.

"The White Sister," which is a production released by Metro, has been acclaimed one of the most significant films. The story was taken from the famous novel by F. Marion Crawford and screened in Italy and northern Africa.

Rome, Naples, Sorrento, Tivoli, and even Mt. Vesuvius were some of the local scenes used, and the result, according to critics is beautiful. Besides Miss Gish to interpret the story, the cast includes Ronald Colman, a newcomer to the screen who has scored a success; J. Barney Sherry, a motion picture pioneer; Gall Kane, heroine of many Broadway successes, and a thousand others drawn from the ranks of European players.

"The White Sister" tells the story of Angela Chiaromonte, daughter of an Italian prince, who is made penniless because of an intrigue by her older sister. The only thing left to sustain her is her love for Captain Giovanni Severi, of the Italian army. For a time she is happy, but he is called to Africa on a military expedition, and Angela is left to take up the life of a governess. Then she receives word he has been killed by the Arabs. Stunned by the blow, Angela is driven frantic, and in order to find some peace of mind and a definite place in life, she takes the vows as a nun.

Shortly after this Giovanni, who has merely been held prisoner by Arabs, escapes and returns to Rome. How Sister Angela solves the problem of choosing between her earthly love and her vows supplies the dramatic situation that leads up to the climax.

"The White Sister" has been called the artistic triumph of the present film season. Miss Gish has never appeared to better advantage, and her restrained conception of the difficult role of Sister Angela stands at the top of her many famous characterizations. Those who recall her in "The Birth of a Nation," "Way Down East," "Hearts of the World," and "Orphans of the Storm," will find it promised, be delighted still further by her versatility in this latest effort.

The picture was directed by Henry King, who achieved distinction as the director of Richard Barlow's "The Sign of the Cross," and other notable works. "The White Sister" is a Metro release made by inspiration pictures of which Charles H. Duell Jr. is president.

A Pair of Sixes Hincks' Vehicle at Playhouse Theatre

This week's bill at the Playhouse is to contain none other than the famous farce comedy, "A Pair of Sixes," which has had such a tremendous run due to its wonderful comedy and pep. This play justly ranks amongst the first of America's productions of this type, and it is a safe bet that it will lose nothing in the hands of Reginald Hincks Company. A stage quarrel is always humorous, and in "A Pair of Sixes," the quarrel between the partners starts within a minute of the parting of the curtains, continues with very few breaks all during the play, and is only settled at the very last moment and it contains some of the funniest dialogue ever heard, so that a good time can be depended on.

Prize Giving At St. George's

The eighteenth annual prize-giving was held on the lawns of St. George's School Friday afternoon and was attended by the usual gathering of parents, friends and "old girls." The Right Rev. Bishop Schofield presented the prizes and afterwards spoke a few inspiring words to the girls. He took as the keynote of his remarks, the school colors, pointing out that the red and white of St. George's has been much in evidence during the past week. This, he urged the girls to remember, was not built primarily for war, but for service and a fitting text for the magnificent work of our navy could be found in the words of St. Paul: "Overcome evil with good." In closing he made a sympathetic reference to the late Mr. Suttie, saying how much he was missed in the school. His never-failing patience and courtesy were much appreciated by all his pupils.

The Form Mistress read their reports in turn, and Mrs. Suttie made reference to the sub-division of the school which had taken place last summer. The Juniors are now under Miss Gulland at Crosby School, leaving only the High School department and the upper and lower entrance forms. The arrangement has proved a success and both Seniors and Juniors have benefited by the change. The Head Girl, Isabel Hedley, then called for three cheers and a tiger for the Bishop. These were followed by cheers for Mrs. Suttie, staff and the girls who were leaving. After the National Anthem was sung, the visitors repaired to the upper lawn where tea was served.

IN FIELD AND WOODLAND NATURE NOTES BY ROBERT CONNELL

THE ARBUTUS

The Arbutus is a source of just pride to the inhabitants of the Pacific Coast and not least to Victorians its beautiful clean red trunk, brilliant green foliage, and masses, first of white flowers and then of scarlet berries, make it an object of beauty and interest. It is therefore a matter of comfort that so far from being in danger of extinction it is spreading rapidly in many districts. There are large areas of it in the Saanich Peninsula and in the Metchosin district. Especially is its vigor noticeable on the way to William Head where in spite of a fire a year or two ago it still continues to thrive. Many were of course killed but there are still some scorched trees that persist in living and apparently flourishing beside a host of untouched young trees. Archibald Menzies first sent specimens of this tree to Great Britain in 1827 and it is named after him in the botanical Arbutus Menziesii. The Californian name Madroño, with a ya sound to the o, is the Spanish name for its European relative, the Arbutus of the west of Ireland and the Mediterranean. It is a unique tree of this coast as the Garry Oak is of our central part. I am often asked whether this oak is a native or imported tree. Of course the answer is that it is a genuine native—judging by the fine specimens of English oaks found in some of our private grounds, our climate is just as suitable to this species of tree as is that of California where several wild kinds abound.

AN INTERESTING SPECULATION

Such peculiarities as these in our western flora has suggested that the present coastal line represents a greatly narrowed boundary, and that at one time our land surface west of the Coast Range extended far beyond its present limits. Since then not only have the processes of erosion been at work but large fractures have made a division between us and the sunken portion of the continent. It is due to this that we have a limited and peculiar flora, so it is suggested. Once these plants, such as the Garry Oak and Arbutus, flourished over a wide area; now they survive on a mere fringe of coast. The theory is interesting and not improbable. Nothing short of a considerable accumulation of indisputable facts, however, would remove it from the category of "pious opinions."

TRAVELING CRABS

When at the seashore we notice the shells of univalves moving quickly along the bottom of a quiet pool and on picking one of them up we discover a clawed animal within, a little patience will be rewarded by the extrusion of the claw, the larger one of a pair, used to close the entrance, and by the consequent discovery that the occupant is a crab. Unlike other crabs, however, and after the example of a certain old woman with more children than she could very well manage, this species lives not in a shoe, but in a shell, the empty and unfurnished house of a deceased gastropod. Beginning when he is still young with a tiny cottage, he moves with the necessity of growth from one tenement to another, and so tender and unprotected is his body behind the horny claws that he must needs "fill" quickly or one of the many carnivorous foes of the sea will get him. From a recent scientific journal I noticed that marked specimens of Pagurus, the hermit-crab, have been found to have traveled from the Red Sea to the Mediterranean at Port Said. All the crabs are travelers, but apparently the more orthodox kind chiefly confine themselves to trips from shallow to deep water, where-

SUMATRA PRODUCES FOOD PRODUCTS

Valuable Export Trade, Says Contractor Here From Padang

It is not often there is a visitor in Victoria from Sumatra, but in Charles Gross, Contractor of Public Works of the Government of the East Indies of Padang, the chief town on the West Coast, who was at the Strathcona Hotel for two days, was a business man who has spent many years in the Dutch East Indies, and is now on his way home to the Netherlands, by way of the United States.

Mr. Gross spoke of the improved conditions in the staple exports, coffee, rubber, cinnamon, copra, coccoloba and rice, and said that conditions were showing considerable improvement in spite of the general depression in trade in southern Asia. The two chief classes of coffee grown in the island, which is nearly half the size of British Columbia, are the Arabica and the robusta, the former selling for nearly twice that of the other. Two or three gold mines are operating, and an extensive colliery production is carried on. The country provides some timber, which is largely used in building construction. Mr. Gross stated that the old trouble with the Achense in the north of the island was practically over, and that the whole island now was under established Dutch authority. The bulk of the development has hitherto been in the Coast districts, as the interior is yet little known. There are large lakes in the interior of volcanic origin, and rivers with large drainage basins flowing from the mountains westerly. Padang is the wettest city on the Coast, the West Coast of Sumatra, like the west coasts in New Zealand, Chili, Norway and other countries, having heavy rainfall at the time of the monsoons.

PRIZES AWARDED AT BRENTWOOD COLLEGE

Progress of School Remarkable Upon Successful Future Anticipated

Students, parents and friends assembled at Brentwood College on Saturday for the first annual Speech Day, and the prizes for the year's work were awarded to successful students for their progress and high standing in studies. The members of the Board of Governors were present. P. C. Curtis, chairman of the governing board, referred with pleasure to the success which had attended on the school since its inception a year ago, and said that this was largely due to the hearty co-operation of H. P. Hope, headmaster.

The term closed with a roster of seventy-five boys, and although fifteen of these were leaving for higher scholastic honors in the universities and colleges of the land, it was expected that the reopening of the institution would see well over 100 boys enrolled.

The system under which the school was operated, both in relation to discipline, study, sport and various other matters, was excellent, and proof of its practicality was noted in the high average of successful students. Professor L. F. Robertson, of the University of British Columbia, before presenting the prizes, spoke briefly upon the past and future of the Brentwood College, saying that he expected to see it one of the most flourishing schools in the Province. It was destined to have a long and successful history, he asserted.

SLENDER SAPLING SAVES FIVE IN PLUNGING CAR

Plunged Over Bank When Edge Gave Way

Five Occupants Have Miraculous Escape

Somersaulting twice when the edge of the bank gave way a car owned by Jack Allen, Beach Drive, with five passengers, was stopped in its perilous course by a slender willow sapling on the heights of the Malahat Road yesterday at 7 p.m.

The hood of the car and the intervention of the sapling averted what appeared to be certain death for the occupants. The plunging car came to rest with its wheels in the air, after having twice turned completely over.

Escaping injury in a truly miraculous way its five occupants were drawn from underneath. With the exception of minor bruises and scratches all had escaped unhurt. Three women and one man, as well as its owner, were in the car when it took the plunge. The accident happened in an unexpected manner, just as the Allen car was passing a stalled motor on the road. Dr. E. H. Griffiths and party, finding engine trouble, had drawn up to one side of the road at this point. The Allen car was feeling its way past the other vehicle when the car slipped in the loose gravel at the edge and the car rolled slowly past the perpendicular and commenced its plunge.
