DEDICATION

“He just walked into the crowd, and he didn't say a word, not a word, and everybody just left. Gosh.”

“Now we ask you, what could one rather small man who was unarmed do that two or more armed towers of campus legality could not do? Simple. He could break up a near riot that started when two campus policemen tried to break up a simple game of quad ball. He had the respect of the man . . .”

This statement from a Chronicle editorial exemplifies the esteem which is held by the student body for Dean Robert B. Cox. For fifteen years he has served as Dean of Undergraduate Men of Duke University. He is closer to the students than any other member of the administration, and is a personal friend to any who seek his help or advice. His main official duty is to serve as advisor to undergraduate men in all non-academic matters. This duty includes approving social functions, advising organizations, keeping activity records, giving personal counsel, and the unpopular task of handling disciplinary cases. On many occasions he is called out of bed at 3:00 in the morning to help a student in distress. He is often the only person to whom one may turn with a personal problem, and in many cases his advice has had a great effect on the later life of the man.

In addition to his other duties, Dean Cox is advisor to all pre-med and pre-dental students, and is often instrumental in placing these men in med or dental schools, since his own recommendation is highly respected by schools throughout the country.

As advisor to fraternities, Dean Cox has for many years stood for the fraternal system on the Duke Campus, even though at times this has placed him in disagreement with other members of the administration. He is, in fact, active in his own fraternity in that he is a Province Chief of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, and is advisor to the local chapter.

Originally from Bolivar, Tennessee, Dean Cox attended Peabody College where he received his A.M. degree in 1926. After teaching at East Tennessee State College for several years, he came to Duke as Dean in 1945, and has served in this capacity since that time. For this service we of the 1960 CHANTICLEER, on behalf of the Student Body, dedicate this book to the man who is truly our “Great White Father.”

September 11, 1959—"Potentially Best Freshmen to Face Academic Emphasis"—thus proclaimed the "Chronicle" as it kicked off another academic season—the oh-so-intelligent freshmen barged on campus and fell headlong into orientation chaos—tours, placement tests, mixers, dinks and bows, registration, class assemblies, FAC's, traditions, confusion, and upperclassmen—with the high rate of acceptance, 25 East Freshmen were delegated to the "Penthouse" of Faculty apartments while the men were miserably crowded—Thus, the class of 1963 begins "the Happy Years."

HONORARIES

Honoraries on the Duke campus recognize outstanding students, stimulate interest in various fields and furnish leadership training for future citizens. There are honors for service to the university, honors in athletics, military training programs, honors for all-round ability in scholastic and extracurricular fields, proficiency in specific subjects, and sixty honors for academic excellence.

Phi Eta Sigma on West and Ivy on East honor those students who achieve outstanding scholastic records during their Freshman year. The two Sophomore service honoraries are Beta Omega Sigma for the men and Sandals for the women.

Two widely known national honoraries are Phi Beta Kappa, primarily on the scholastic level, and Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, which recognizes excellence both on the academic and extracurricular levels.

In the Senior year, seven women and seven men are chosen for one of Duke's highest leadership distinctions. The women are selected for White Duchy and the men for Red Friars. Two other Senior honoraries for students having high standards of scholarship, leadership, character and service are Phi Kappa Delta for the women and Omicron Delta Kappa for the men.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Phi Beta Kappa, founded on December 5, 1776, at the College of William and Mary, is the oldest national honorary scholastic society. The emphasis of Phi Beta Kappa is on the liberal arts and sciences, and it properly leaves to other honorary societies the recognition of academic success in other fields. Candidates for membership are expected to be enrolled in courses demonstratively liberal in character. In addition, they must have a 3.25 overall average for six semesters while carrying a minimum of 90 hours.

WHO'S WHO

Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities is a directory designed to give national recognition to college seniors. These students have been of outstanding service to their schools through excellence in academic and extra curricular activities. Since election to Who's Who implies ability for future success, Who's Who maintains a student placement service which gives the members an opportunity to make important contacts in the business world. This year, fifty-two campus leaders from the senior class were chosen for membership.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

The purposes of Omicron Delta Kappa are to recognize those who have distinguished themselves in campus activities, to bring together the most representative men from all phases of college life, and to unite the faculty and students on a basis of mutual interest and understanding. This honorary was founded at Duke in 1926 as a senior men's honorary for those who excel in leadership, scholarship, character, and service to the University.

PHI KAPPA DELTA

Phi Kappa Delta, senior women's honorary, was first founded as a local honorary in 1944 by members of ODK together with student leaders of the Women's College who felt the need for a sister fraternity on the Women's Campus to parallel ODK. The purpose of the organization is to give recognition to women representatives of all campus activities who have shown outstanding achievement in scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

BETA OMEGA SIGMA

Beta Omega Sigma, the brother organization of Sandals, recognizes sophomore men who exhibited outstanding qualities of leadership and scholarship as freshmen. Organized to encourage student participation in campus activities and to promote the development of better leadership within the freshman class, this honorary fraternity works actively in support of the Traditions Program and Homecoming celebration. Other annual activities include a dance given during Freshman Week in cooperation with the Sandals, and the initiation of new members in the spring.

SANDALS

Rising sophomore women showing exceptional promise in leadership, scholarship and service are eligible for membership in Sandals. The purpose of Sandals is to raise money for scholarships and to serve the school. As an auxiliary to WSGA, Sandals plans and carries out Orientation Week, conducts tours of East Campus for prospective students, conducts elections, and takes roll in assemblies. In October, Sandals sponsored a dance with BOS to raise money for scholarships. Miss Virginia Brewer is the sponsor.

PHI ETA SIGMA

From left to right, row 1: R. Bostock, L. Hardt, J. O'Neill, R. Calendar, R. Hamel, M. Thrash; row 2: F. Walker, S. Braswell, M. E. Greene, D. Printz, J. Sawers, M. H. Greene, J. Cronquist; row 3: J. Kilby, R. Adams, W. Pierson, Dean Jones, F. Hanscom, J. Tinnell, L. Grigsby, R. Price, S. Levinson.

It is difficult to understand how members of Phi Eta Sigma can maintain the high averages necessary for membership while carrying out their very active program to stimulate and improve intellectual activity on campus. To become a member of this exclusive club, a student must achieve a 3.5 average for his first semester at Duke or an overall 3.5 for his entire freshman year. This task is difficult enough, but the amazing part is that most of the members continue to make these grades during their sophomore year while helping and encouraging other students. This year's program, under President Roy Bostock, was aimed at the freshmen, and it included sending letters to members of the incoming freshman class, tutoring freshmen in difficult subjects, and sponsoring a dinner for all members of the class of '63 who had a "B" average at mid-semester.

With Mrs. W. S. Persons as advisor, Ivy was first organized as a local scholastic honorary in 1937. This year Dr. W. M. Blackburn took over as advisor in the absence of Miss Maxine Westphal, Ivy sponsor since 1954. As a means of fulfilling its purpose to encourage and promote good scholarship among freshmen women, Ivy attempts to focus the attention of the student body on intellectual advancement. Tapping for membership those freshman women who have earned an average of 3.25 in either their first semester or entire freshman year, Ivy this year totaled 49 members.

In November, Ivy sponsored a dinner in honor of all freshman women maintaining a B average at mid-semester. Throughout the year Ivy members marshalled for numerous Women's College functions and donated books to the Women's College Library. New members are inducted twice a year as a part of a special awards assembly.

Tau Beta Pi is a national engineering honorary society for junior and senior undergraduate engineering students who have shown character and high academic standing. The Duke chapter was founded in 1948 to recognize those who have conferred honor upon the university by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character.

At Duke, students in the top twelve per cent of the junior class, and the top twenty per cent of the senior class are eligible for membership. In addition, three Honor Students are selected for membership in the first semester of their junior year. A tapping and initiation banquet are held each fall and spring.

Tau Beta Pi meets once a month. The organization sponsors annual lectures on the use of the slide rule for new engineers and other interested persons, and also presents an annual award to the outstanding freshman engineer.

ORDER OF ST. PATRICK

From left to right, row 1: J. Blyth, E. Hinely, C. Espy, E. Green, W. McDonald; row 2: S. Longdon, R. Dieffenbach, R. Garda, H. Haines, T. Cox, T. Gnuse.

When the Engineering Student Government decided in 1945 that campus interest and pride in the School of Engineering needed to be stimulated, the Order of Saint Patrick took its place on Duke campus. Since that time the society has worked toward recognition of men who have attained a high standard of character and leadership in engineering activities. It promotes good fellowship and understanding among its members, and stimulates interest and participation in engineering activities. Membership is open only to Junior and Senior engineering students and eligibility is based on a point system of scholarship and extra-curricular activities. The group served Duke through the joint sponsorship with Tau Beta Pi of slide rule lectures for new math and engineering students. The activities of the Order of Saint Patrick also included monthly dinner meetings and two pledge banquets.

TAU PSI OMEGA

Tau Psi Omega, the society honoring students from both East and West Campuses who have made outstanding records in French courses, took an active part in campus life for its twenty-second year. The group worked this year, as it has in the past, toward stimulating interest in the French language and also toward a better understanding of the people and culture of France.

Their primary project was the production of a major French play. They also furthered the aims of the organization through group conversation, lectures and movies in French. Regular meetings were held each week in the East Campus Union. In addition, the members of Tau Psi Omega had various parties, outings and dinner meetings in Chapel Hill. Those students with B averages in all French courses are eligible for membership.

VARSITY "D" CLUB

From left to right, row 1: F. Hurd, D. Litaker, T. Menaker, D. Lee, I. Brooks, T. Bazemore, C. Weisiger; row 2: D. Denne, T. Youngling, M. Morgan, A. Browning, M. McGee, D. Jones, R. McDonald, G. Dickinson, E. Elsey, R. Kalish, S. Kulvin, G. Johnson, D. Mackesy.

Outstanding participants from all areas of the Duke athletic program are organized into one group, the Varsity D Club, which honors varsity letter winners. In addition to recognizing outstanding sportsmen, Varsity D serves the athletic department and provides an opportunity for lettermen from all sports to get together, becoming better acquainted with each other and the coaches. Their first aim was furthered this year by the Blue-White football game in the fall and the similar basketball game in the spring. The second aspect of their purpose was accomplished by two banquets, and various meetings held throughout the year with guest speakers.

Shortly before the Christmas recess, the members of Varsity D selected the Duke representative for the Miss Dixie Classic contest. This contest is held during the Christmas holidays at the Dixie Classic Basketball tournament.

DELTA PHI RHO ALPHA

Delta Phi Rho Alpha is a local honorary athletic fraternity for junior and senior women. The two purposes of this organization are to encourage athletic participation on the Woman's Campus and to recognize those persons who have been outstanding in athletics.

Each year, rising juniors and seniors are tapped for the society during the Awards assembly. In order to acquire membership, the girls must have shown excellent skill in several sports and displayed good sportsmanship on the field, in the gym, and on the courts. Members try to encourage interest in sports and recreational activities on the Women's Campus, and promote participation in intramural events.

Annually, Delta Phi Rho Alpha presents a gold "D" key to the senior girl who has done the most to promote athletic participation and to encourage school spirit at Duke.

Alpha Kappa Psi, founded at New York University in 1904, is the oldest professional fraternity in existence. The fraternity endeavors "to further the individual welfare of its members, to foster scientific research in the fields of business, and to promote in institutions of college rank courses leading to degrees in business administration." To qualify for membership a student must major in Accounting, Economics or Business Administration, express a firm desire to become a member of Alpha Kappa Psi, and maintain a "C" average. This year's activities included research trips to several business firms, and various speakers from well-known businesses of the area. There was also a banquet honoring eight of the faculty of the School of Business Administration, with Edwin L. Jones, President of J. A. Jones Construction Co., as speaker. A scholarship key and a certificate are awarded to the senior business major with the highest three-year average.

The Arnold Air Society is a nationally organized honorary for AFROTC Cadets who plan to make their career in the Air Force. Membership includes Cadets from the Basic and Advanced Air Science Courses maintaining an overall "C" average and demonstrating outstanding military leadership.

The Arnold Air Society was founded in 1947 in honor of General H. H. "Hap" Arnold, Commanding General of the Army Air Forces during World War II. In 1950 the William A. Sally Squadron of the Arnold Air Society was founded at Duke. The mission of the organization is to encourage greater teamwork, technical knowledge, and cooperation among students enrolled in the AFROTC program.

Each year, cadets are sent to the National Conclave. This year's project of the William A. Sally Squadron was to aid the C.A.P. Squadron in Durham by giving lectures and drill instructions to the cadets in the Civil Air Patrol.

The three basic purposes of the Corsairs are to recognize the outstanding midshipman; to promote esprit de corps among the midshipmen; to increase interest in the Navy within the University. The group, founded two years ago by the midshipmen of the Duke NROTC to fulfill the need for an NROTC honor fraternity, was the first organization of its kind.

To be eligible for membership, a midshipman must display outstanding Naval aptitude. In addition, a "B" average in Naval Science and an overall "C" average must be maintained. Only juniors and seniors are considered for the honorary.

Meetings for the Corsairs are held monthly and programs of special interest are presented. Many feature Naval officers as speakers. In the future the Corsairs hope to strengthen their own bonds and eventually to expand into a national Naval honorary society.

Pi Tau Sigma, the national honorary fraternity for mechanical engineers, established a chapter at Duke, Pi Iota, May 13, 1944. Members are selected from the top thirty-five percent of the senior class and the top twenty-five percent of the junior class. They pledge to foster the high ideals of the engineering profession and to develop in mechanical engineering students the attributes necessary for effective leadership.

During the academic year, the chapter sponsored review lectures for the E.I.T. examination and presented an annual award to the senior mechanical engineer who presented the best paper, either in classwork or in professional society competition.

President Jon Blyth and Vice-President Bob Swanson held the top offices in Duke's Pi Tau Sigma Chapter. The Chapter held meetings twice a month and had two initiation banquets during the year.

Kappa Kappa Psi, the national honorary music fraternity, found a place at Duke in 1922, with the founding of Alpha Gamma Chapter. In 1945, this Chapter became inactive due to the war, but it became active again in the spring of 1958.

Qualification for membership requires one year of active membership in either the Concert Band or the Marching Band, with candidates showing active participation and superior musical ability.

The purpose of the fraternity is to recognize outstanding musicians and band members.

President Ed Mesta led the fraternity in many activities during the year, entertaining visiting bands after football games, helping to sponsor and to make arrangements for the High School Band Day, and ushering at concerts of the Concert Band. Coupled with these activities, the honorary fraternity also had a float in the Joe College Parade.

row 2: F. Bryant, W. Scott, J. Hale, S. So.

Sigma Pi Sigma is the national physics honorary fraternity. Duke's Beta Chapter is, as the name indicates, the second oldest in the United States. This organization was founded in order to bring about closer association between those students interested in physics and mathematics, to promote the study of physics and mathematics, to recognize superior students in these fields, and to encourage work in all scientific areas. To qualify for membership in Sigma Pi Sigma, a student must be in, or have completed his fourth semester of physics while maintaining an average of "B" or better. This year's group, under the direction of President Richard Pusser and Advisor Dr. Harold Lewis, held several meetings in the interest of the study of physics and mathematics.

PSI CHI DELTA

Membership in Psi Chi Delta, the local psychology honorary, is restricted to those psychology majors who have maintained a 2.8 overall average with a 3.0 in psychology. This honorary was founded on the Duke Campus in 1957, affiliating with National Psi Chi the following year.

The purpose of this organization is to honor achievement in psychology, to inform its members of vocational and professional opportunities in this field, and to inform students of current developments in psychological research.

This year's group, under the leadership of President Lou Ella Hicks, published a monthly newsletter for distribution among psychology majors, professors, and graduate students. In addition, programs were given to the group concerning graduate school, fellowships, and the senior honors program. Several doctors in the department spoke to the fraternity at various meetings during the year.

Sheats; row 4: T. Gnuse, R. McNeely, B. Burns, W. Chambers, J. Blyth, W. C. Overley, W. C. Scott.

The North Carolina Alpha chapter of Pi Mu Epsilon, national mathematics honorary society, was founded on the Duke campus in 1932. The goal of Pi Mu Epsilon is to stimulate interest and promote scholarship in mathematics. Applicants for membership must have obtained an overall "B" average and a "B" average in math through math 52, which is the second semester of calculus. This year two initiations were held after induction of new members. One initiation was held in the fall and the other in the spring. In November the senior math majors presented a paper on group theory; another one on Laplace transforms was presented in April.

Dennis Theriot was the Director of the fraternity. Other officers were Terry Carleton, vice director; Claudine Fields, secretary; Janice Turner, treasurer. Dr. F. G. Dressel is the sponsor.

ORGANIZATIONS

The girl in the Union bolts her food, frantically checking her watch . . . the student in class has been tense and pre-occupied for weeks . . . the boy on West lopes across the quad . . . what's the matter with these people?

Chances are they are all members of one or another of Duke's many organizations, and their symptoms are typical of all such members—rushing to a meeting, worried about a production, racing to meet a deadline—throughout the school year. Whether professional, musical, religious, dramatic or journalistic, there is an organization to fit the personality, goals, ambitions, and interests of every Duke student. No one has to be reminded of the value of such groups. Each was organized to—and does—fulfill a definite need and serve a decided purpose. Its members, working together in close cooperation in order to secure a common goal, gain in the satisfaction of knowing a worthwhile job well-done, while they establish warm relationships and lifelong friendships in the bargain. Each group contributes its share in enriching not only its specific members, but the whole University Community as well. Through their publications, presentations, open discussion meetings, or concerts, they serve to illuminate and broaden the scope and awareness of other individuals.

The following pages strive to recapture the spirit of each group as well as serve as a nostalgic reminder of its efforts and achievements during the 59-60 school year.

CROWELL QUADRANGLE CLOCK TOWER—WEST CAMPUS

MEN'S STUDENT GOVERN

Every male student entering Duke University becomes, upon payment of his university fees and association dues, a member of the Men's Student Government Association.

The purpose of this organization is to function as the supreme instrument of government in regulating the affairs of all male students on the Duke University campus. It strives to promote the best interests of Duke University while advancing the welfare of the individual students on the Duke campus at all times.

M.S.G.A. functions within the limits of its Constitution and within the powers granted the Association by the administrative authorities of Duke University. The organization of M.S.G.A. is divided into 3 main branches: executive, legislative, and judiciary. The executive branch is responsible for organizing all proposed legislation and, after the approval of the bills by the Senate, responsible for seeing that the approved statutes are carried out. The judicial power of the Association is vested in a Judicial Board and a Court of Appeals.

The Constitution of the M.S.G.A. places great emphasis on the office of the President, who is the official representative of the Association to the University Administration and the only one to whom they may look for immediate responsibility. The President's Cabinet, which includes the Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, Secretary of Education, Secretary of Student Life, and the N.S.A. Coordinator, meets to discuss the policy which the Student Government shall follow, and formulates plans for the future. Cabinet meetings are open to all students and a student may present his ideas at any Cabinet meeting.

The legislative powers of the M.S.G.A. are vested in a Student Senate consisting of two representatives from each of the four classes and the executive officers of the Association. The Senate discusses matters of campus-wide interest and has the power to regulate, supervise, charter, and determine the status of all men's student campus organizations.

The judicial branch is represented by the Judicial Board, composed of nine student Justices, one serving as Chief Justice. The Board handles all cases of misconduct involving students of Trinity College and the College of Engineering.

This year the Senate has acted more in the broad perspective of student government than it has in the past. It has studied problems of a national scope and has, on occasion, sent copies of resolutions to members of Congress in order to inform them of student opinion on the subject in question. The National and International Affairs Committee has also been created by the Senate to increase student awareness. The Education Committee made a study of the problems of pre-registration and worked in an attempt to alleviate the situation. The Student Life Committee worked with the Long Range Planning Committee in cooperation with the Education Committee and has drawn up a teacher course evaluation sheet. The N.S.A. initiated an Education Travel Incorporation which provided for inexpensive student tours in Europe.

WOMEN'S STUDENT GOV

MARY MADDRY
President

The Woman's Student Government Association of Duke University should and does mean more to each coed than just another monthly meeting to attend. In the first place every student of the Woman's College is a member of W.S.G.A., and the Executive Council which she helps to elect is dedicated to serving as a link between her and the administration. Secondly the overall aim of W.S.G.A. is to create an atmosphere at the college which complements the individual needs of students.

The need for such a governing body at Duke University was first realized in 1919, and it was created to organize the activities of women on campus. Later in 1924 the association's importance was fully recognized when the Woman's College was incorporated into the University. Since then the association has grown to cover such various committees and sub-committees as the House President's Board, the Freshman Advisory Council, Social Standards Committee, National Student Association, the Judicial Board, Coordinate Board, the Foreign Student Committee, the Student Forum Committee and the Campus Chest.

All members of the Executive Council are elected the year before they take office except for the freshman class representative. The executive officers along with the four class representatives, the committee chairmen, and the house presidents compose the Executive Council, but the general maintenance and support of Council programs must come from the student body. As a result, East campus coeds find plenty of opportunity to express their ideas and to see their plans put into action by serving on one of the various committees, besides attending the monthly Monday evening meetings. This is the only time when the entire student body of the Woman's College meets and is able to discuss together those problems which are pertinent to all.

1959-60 was an active year for East Campus through its W.S.G.A. The council sent representatives to the regional convention of the National Student Association, organized the Leadership Training Program, and continued its work on the Academic Parliamentary procedure discussion at leadership training session

Honor Code, which had been initiated the year before in courses above the 200-level in conjunction with M.S.G.A. and the Judicial Board. Mock trials were sponsored by the Judicial Board to acquaint the student body with the procedures followed in such cases. Constantly interested in self-improvement, W.S.G.A. also re-evaluated its plans and programs by means of a student-faculty committee.

Having replaced the Honor Code, the new Code of Campus Living covers the general regulations of the Woman's college and is contained in the Handbook published by the association and distributed to all freshmen in the fall. A handbook examination on this code is mandatory for all first-year students.

Working with M.S.G.A. in many phases of student government and activity has helped W.S.G.A. promote many worthwhile advancements. This year the joint planning of the associations produced the National Student Travel Agency, the purpose of which is to help advise and plan summer trips for interested members of the student body. Several summer tours were proposed for students interested in European travel.

Just being a governing body is not the sole function of W.S.G.A. and as can easily be seen, the members of the Executive Council with Mary Maddry as president have led the way to many advancements in creating and maintaining the individuality of the East Campus organization.

JUDICIAL

MEN

The Men's Judicial Board is the supreme judicial agency of M.S.G.A. As such it tries all cases involving breach of University Law as well as encouraging high personal standards and responsibility. It also serves as a final court of appeals for decisions made in other subsidiaries of M.S.G.A. Although all decisions are subject to administrative review, such action has rarely been taken in the past. Trials, held at weekly meetings, are closed to protect the student unless otherwise requested by the defendant.

The Board consists of nine members including its chairman. These members are chosen by the President of the Student Government and are approved by the Senate. They include six senior class students and three juniors. These juniors become members of the Board for the next year unless they are elected to other offices and are prevented by other commitments.

An extremely vital, although not widely publicized, group on East Campus is its Judicial Board. Its twelve members work closely together to reflect campus opinion, administer the Code of Campus Living and serve as a board of appeals in cases arising in the House Judicial Committees and the Traffic Court. In addition, they reappraise and recommend changes in regulations in order to meet the ever-changing needs and desires of the student body. The ten dorm representatives also preside over judicial proceedings in the House.

The chairmen and secretary are chosen in campus-wide elections, and each dormitory chooses one representative. Chief considerations in their elections are the qualities of leadership, the ability to command respect, the daring to stand for ideals, good judgment and the courage to use understanding with recognition that everyone is human, the ability to be objective, and dedication to the principles upon which the Woman's College is founded.

FRESHMEN ADV

The Men's Freshman Advisory Council is sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. Through unselfish service the Y.F.A.C. helps freshmen adapt to Duke community living, by advising them on all phases of college life. Their objectives include the planning and execution of Orientation Week activities, aiding the Dean of Freshmen, and stressing academics.

Luggage service, information booths, Chapel tours, and directional signs are a few of the aids designed to familiarize the freshman with Duke. The council promotes the freshmen's social life with Open House "mixers" and the Y Exchange picnic and dance. Other activities include "fitting the dinks," Freshman swim meet, Y Vesper Services, and publishing of a daily "Dink."

Individual attention to each advisee is continued throughout the first semester, with weekly meetings held to exchange ideas.

ORY COUNCILS

One of the first persons whom a freshman woman meets as she enters Duke is her Freshman Advisor. This girl, either a junior or senior, has been chosen in the spring on the basis of outstanding character, service, leadership, and scholarship. This year, under the chairmanship of Judy Heckroth, each of the fifty-one F. A. C.'s was given a group composed of six, seven, or eight girls who live in her dormitory. An

F. A. C.'s responsibility is to give individual attention to her freshmen, helping them make scholastic and social adjustments. Throughout the year the F. A. C.'s meet when necessary to discuss ways of improving their program so that it will be more beneficial to the freshmen. The Freshman Advisory Council also co-operates with other groups on campus in freshman programs.

Since 1953, the Engineer's Student Council has served as the organized voice of the Duke Engineering Students. It is composed of class presidents, professional society representatives, four elected officers, and two members at large.

This year, the E.S.C. organized and sponsored the Freshman open house during Orientation Week and the Engineer's Ball. It also supports the Engineer's Guidance Council, which aids the Freshman engineers in an advisory capacity, works on the Homecoming displays, and maintains the student lounge. Highlighting its annual activities was the presentation of the Engineer's Show, which is noted for its display of the student engineer's ability and ingenuity.

Representing a closely-knit portion of the undergraduate men (and four women) the Student Council attempts to provide a unified statement of student opinion to the University officials and the university as a whole. It was led in its achievements this year by President Chandler Cox.

Organized three years ago, the Engineer's Guidance Council was formed for the purpose of tutoring freshmen enrolled in the College of Engineering. The fifty-four members work independently every week with about four assigned orientees. The main purpose of the advisory group is to help the prospective engineers adjust to their required courses, and, at the same time, meet the demands of extra-curricular activities during their first semester of college life.

Tutoring sessions in physics are established prior to each hour exam. Instructors are also available for the other fundamental engineering courses—algebra, trigonometry, physics, geometry and mechanical drawing.

The council is an auxiliary of the Engineers Student Council and meets prior to the tutoring sessions in order to deal with current business. Mike Mattingly was chairman of the council this year.

SYMPOSIUM COMMITTEE

BOYD HIGHT
Chairman

For several years forces have been at work investigating the possibilities of a Symposium Committee. Last year a planning committee was formed which made concrete arrangements, and chose by invitation a group of people to make up the present committee. The result of their immediate efforts and of the long-range work was the symposium held last fall on October 6, 7, and 8. The topic was the "U.S.-Soviet Conflict" and the schedule included a short talk by one of the guest speakers plus open discussion at the afternoon sessions; the evening sessions presented a formal lecture followed by a question-answer period.

The Symposium Committee plays a unique role on campus and fulfills a definite need. It was designed for a dual purpose: to gather and serve as focus for information of social, cultural, or political significance; and to stimulate an interest in intellectual pursuit. The committee includes representatives from major organizations, the administrations of both campuses, the faculty, and members at large. The new committee was chosen shortly after the beginning of second semester and worked hard at weekly meetings to choose next year's topic, to locate possible speakers, and to arrange all details.

STUDENT UNION

DICK HANSEN, Chairman of the Board of Governors
MRS. LANIER PRATT, Student Union Program Director
W. J. GRIFFITH, Director of Student Activities

Although the Student Union has been in existence only five years at Duke, it has become a very important campus organization. Founded on a gift of over a quarter of a million dollars, the Student Union renovated the Administration Building and renamed it Flowers Building. The Union headquarters are in this building.

The purpose of the Student Union, according to their constitution, is ". . . to stimulate, promote, and develop the social, recreational, cultural, educational, and spiritual activities of Duke University." In order to fulfill this purpose, Flowers building holds a student lounge, card rooms, music room, information center, outside telephones, and a game room. There are also conference rooms and offices for various organizations, including all campus publications. The various Student Union Committees strive to provide Duke students with stimulating and educational experiences to supplement classroom learning. Senator John Kennedy was among the outstanding speakers sponsored by Student Union. In the entertainment field, the Student Union brought "Most Happy Fella" and "Dear Lier" to the campus.

Carol Corder, Dick Katz, and Byron Battle chat with Senator John Kennedy after his talk sponsored by the Student Union Educational Affairs Committee.

STUDENT COORDINATE BOARD

The Student Coordinate Board was organized as an auxiliary of W.S.G.A. and receives funds from this organization. It furnishes a focal point wherein students' opinions and suggestions of an academic and organizational nature are polled, investigated, and proposed.

The Board, which represents all classes, promotes many activities which have become annual events. These include conducting registration for East Campus, assisting with College Convocations, holding Coordinate Board dinners, and offering a secretarial course. W.S.G.A. delegates some projects performed by the Coordinate Board, and others arise within the board itself.

Sue Werner, who was chairman this year, led the Board to include additional activities this year. Some of these were writing pre-rush letters, and sending welcome letters to new faculty members.

THE STUDENT FORUM

The Student Forum, founded in 1934, was the first group on campus to sponsor events of cultural significance. Among its varied programs are included concerts, art exhibits, and the presentation of dance groups and musical programs. The Forum is particularly unique in that it endeavors to have receptions for each guest so that Duke students can meet and talk with the various artists.

Perhaps the highlight of the year's program was the presentation of "Carmen" by the Grass Roots Opera Company on February 8, 1960. The Forum was instrumental in carrying out the Symposium on The U.S.-Soviet Conflict in the fall of 1959. In the spring a four-day Architecture Show emphasized college architecture and initiated investigation of the possibilities for a fine arts building at Duke.

SOCIAL STANDARDS

As a special auxiliary to W.S.G.A., the Social Standards Committee was headed this year by Amburn Huskins as chairman and Jini Davis as calendar chairman. The committee was designed in 1927 to help maintain high ideals in East behavior and dress, and to organize an adequate social calendar for the school year. As the link between administrative standards and student opinion, Social Standards has initiated this year several revisions in accepted casual dress of Duke coeds.

The various activities sponsored by the committee this year included two Co-Ed Balls at which the CHANTICLEER Beauty Queen and the May Queen were crowned, the Twilight Hours concerts, and decoration of the Union at Christmas.

"Design for a Duchess," a booklet explaining Duke social ideals, was published by this Committee and distributed to the freshmen during the summer. The Committee also printed the annual Duke pictorial calendar in December.

The organization of Social Standards is composed of two representatives from each dormitory, a calendar chairman, three freshmen at large, and a chairman elected by the student body.

COURT OF APPEALS

The Court of Appeals is a division of the judicial board of the M.S.G.A. For five years, it has assisted the students of Duke University in appealing cases involving University traffic regulations, liabilities for damage to University property and delinquency in payment of M.S.G.A. fees. The majority of the cases involve violations of University traffic regulations in which the student feels that he has been unjustly accused. When the student receives a traffic ticket he may get an appeal form at the traffic office and attempt to appeal his case. A student may also obtain an appeal form when reported for property damage from the Housing Bureau or M.S.G.A.

The Court of Appeals meets on alternate Thursday nights at which time five judges give personal consideration to each case and try to reach a fair and immediate decision without the defendant appearing. The decisions are usually final. Because of its high and important position, the Court of Appeals is a vital part of student government.

TRADITIONS BOARD

The Traditions Board established at Duke in 1951 was headed this year by Charles Hartwig, Chairman. The Board is composed of representatives from many campus organizations. Included in its extensive orientation program for the freshmen are the teaching of Duke traditions, school songs, cheers, customs, and history; and the distribution of dinks. A Traditions Test is given to all freshmen early in the fall, and those who fail to score a passing grade on it are brought before the Traditions board which gives instruction, counsel, and punishment. During the first semester freshmen who fail to comply with the traditions of the University or regulations pertaining to the Traditions Program must go before the board. The three objectives of the Board are: to strengthen the traditions of Duke University, to acquaint the Freshmen with the history of Duke, and to encourage a strong feeling of unity and school spirit in each freshman class.

NSA

The National Student Association, a confederation of students from over 400 colleges and universities in the United States, is the representative voice of American student opinion both here and abroad. Run and controlled by college students, it seeks to cut across political, religious, racial, and social differences to further the ideal of a genuine world-wide community of students, based on common problems, commitments, and goals.

Participating schools profit from the valuable opportunity for exchange of ideas among student bodies, as well as from the chance to participate in the meetings and policy-making of such national projects and student oriented groups as World University Service, and the American Council on Education. Individual students gain in leadership through active participation in N.S.A. projects and functions. They are also eligible to receive scholarships under such programs as the International Student Relations Seminar and to enjoy low cost foreign travel, as was provided here by the N.S.A. Travel Bureau, open all year on both campuses. On November 6, 7, and 8, the two Duke branches of N.S.A. were co-sponsors for the fall conference of the Carolinas-Virginia region.

CAMPUS CHEST

Initiated several years ago to organize the many charity drives which were held on campus, the Campus Chests on East and West campuses (which includes Hanes House) hold similar but separate annual drives. Operated on the system of a United Fund, the Chests enable the student to contribute to various worthy funds with a single contribution. Each year after the contributions are solicited on both campuses, the total donations are divided among several approved charitable organizations which are chosen and reviewed annually by a special committee of the Campus Chest on West, and by a student vote conducted by W.S.G.A. on East. The charities are evaluated on the basis of personal interviews and the work done by the charity.

Among the organizations receiving contributions from East Campus this year were the Foreign Student Fund, the Alice M. Baldwin Scholarship, the American Friend's Service Committee, the Student Engineering Fund, the American Cancer Society, the World University Service, the Durham Needlework Guild, the North Carolina Society for Crippled Children, and the Y.W.C.A. Edgemont project.

The East Campus drive, headed by Barbara Buening and held in the fall, exceeded its goal set at $3,000. The West Campus drive, headed by John Bigger, approximated its goal of $3,500 during the ten day drive from March 7 to 17.

YMCA

The Young Men's Christian Association is one of the largest campus organizations, with approximately eighty-five percent of the men's student body on roll. Its purpose is to provide Christian service to the university and the Durham community. Reaching into all phases of campus work, the Y.M.C.A. is organized into various committees, providing every interested student an opportunity for positive action and service. On the community scenes, Y Men actively support both the Edgemont Center and Wright's refuge. On campus, Y activities vary from visitations to hospitalized students to the maintenance of a lost and found department. One of its more important activities is the Freshman Advisory Council program, orientating incoming students to university life. The Religious Activities Committee offers students opportunities for further religious development through such programs as the daily vesper services and ushering at Chapel Sunday services. Conferences held on local, regional, and national levels provides Y Men with an opportunity to meet students from different colleges and universities across the country. A special organization within the Y.M.C.A., the Freshman "Y", provides one of the few opportunities for freshmen men to take an active part in the planning and direction of a major campus organization.

YWCA

To facilitate carrying out a more effective program, the Y.W.C.A., with approximately ninety percent of East Campus and Hanes House women as members, works through committees and the individual dormitories. It has two major divisions, the Freshman Y and the "Big Y", each with its own cabinet, officers, and projects. Y activities began in August. "Y Not", a booklet compiled by last years freshman Y, was sent to freshmen. This was followed by a full schedule of events including weekly dorm devotions and discussions, and regular work at Edgemont, Butner State Mental Hospital, Duke Hospital, the Veteran's Hospital and Wright's Refuge. During Freshman Week the Y gave a luncheon and a picnic for transfer students, a freshman dance, and a Sunday night vesper service. A Chapel Meditation Service was held the last night of rush, four freshman forums with the Y.M.C.A. were held during October and a joint Y.M.C.A.-Y.W.C.A. banquet was attended by the visiting Russian students shortly before Thanksgiving. The Y also sponsored the annual Lost and Found sale, a between semester trip to the United Nations, "Milkless Meals" and "chow trains" to raise money for the foreign student fund, marriage seminars, and Parent-Daughter Weekend.

To provide the Duke student body with the important second-half of a complete education, as expressed in the familiar University motto "Eruditio Et Religio", are many denominational and interfaith groups. These provide inspirational services as well as challenging discussions, varied programs of interest within and without the faith, and the chance to relax in an atmosphere of companionship. Many of the groups give plays, readings, and other dramatic presentations of both religious and non-religious nature. Fall and spring outings are also held.

The denominational groups include the Baptist Student Union, the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, the Unitarian Fellowship, the Methodist Student Fellowship, the Lutheran Student Association, the Newman Club, the Society of Friends, the Westminster Fellowship, the Christian Science Organization, and the Episcopal Student Fellowship. These programs are co-ordinated and are enriched through the interaction of the committees of the Religious Council. Inter-denominational groups such as the Duke Christian Fellowship and the Church Vocations Fellowship also foster this spirit of co-operation and warm companionship.

Constructed structurally as the focal point of West Campus and Duke University life is the awe-inspiring Chapel. Every Sunday morning the Chapel is filled with worshippers from all parts of the University Community. The non-denominational services are conducted by the various members of the religious staff, including Chaplain to the University, Dean of the Chapel, members of the faculty in both the Divinity School and Undergraduate Religion Department and guest preachers. They are frequently assisted by students in the Divinity school, and the entire service is benefitted by the inspirational presentations of religious music by the chapel choir.

The Chaplain to the University and the University Religious Council are the ultimate directors of religious life at Duke. The Council includes presidents and advisors of all religious groups, student representatives elected from the various colleges, members of the Religious Life Staff, plus faculty and administration representatives.

The University Religious Council, under the supervision of the Chaplain to the University, is a group whose membership is comprised of students and faculty members who represent all schools, denominations, and other groups on campus. The Council as a whole works to promote a vital religious experience through a diverse and complete program of inter-denominational growth and service. In its various committees may be seen an excellent blending of effort on the part of the students, the faculty, and the administration to achieve high standards of religious life at Duke.

The outstanding service project of the Council is the operation and maintenance of the Edgemont Community Center in East Durham. Many of the members devote much time and energy to aid in this project. Also international projects are in effect, for example, at the Japan International Christian University, the Union Theological Seminary in Manila, and the foreign student scholarship program which brings Christian students to Duke from other countries.

Another phase of the Council's work is the bringing to the Duke campus of outstanding leaders in such fields as drama, theology, ethics, and others. The Council also has interests in interfaith and fellowship projects, and in sending representatives to religious conferences.

CHAPEL CHOIR

The sound of music is a wonderfully inspiring thing, and never more so than when heard on Sunday morning in the Duke Chapel. Providing this background for the devotional service are the members of the Chapel Choir, selected from the Men and Women's Glee Club. Since its beginning, with the opening of the Chapel in 1923, the Choir has attained a favorable recognition for its fine renderings of sacred music. Dr. Paul Young is responsible for instilling a deep sensitivity for the music, which is reflected in the Choir's performances.

Special presentations this year were held in December, for the now-annual performance of Handel's Messiah; and on May 8, when the Choir gave a Requiem by Brahms.

Members are: Alexander, Andrews, Ayers, Arichea, Ballowe, Ballow, Bandre, Banta, Beatty, Beemer, Benedict, Berube, Bishop, Bray, Brown, Broesche, Bunn, Butcher, Byrd, Byrnes, Carlton, Carson, Charles, Cheek, Cooper, Cronin, Cyrus, Davis, Day, Dixon, Drewry, Earle, Edwards, Ellett, Enz, Espenshade, Fell, Fields, Ford, Foster, Friday, Fuqua, Funderburk, Garlack, Garrett, Glass, Green, Hand, Hanks, Hansen, Head, Heidt, Heiser, Heitzner, Herbert, Holton, Hrubby, Huggin, James, Jarrett, H. CHANCEL SINGERS

The Chancel Singers, only two years in existence, is one of the newest members in an expanding vocal music program at Duke. Totaling about 55 members, it is the result of the combination of the men's Double Quartet and the women's Triple Trio. As such, it represents vocal performance at its highest level in the University. The Singers meet weekly for intense study and practice of the world's finest religious music. It accomplishes a three-fold aim of enriching the members' knowledge and appreciation of this music, increasing their ability to perform it with accuracy and sensitivity, and enhancing the Chapel's service of worship.

For individual services the Chancel Singers have performed a number of pieces. Their main occupation during the entire school year has been, however, the study of Bach's two very difficult pieces, "Jesu, Priceless Treasure," and "Christ Lay in Todesbanden."

MEN'S GLEE CLUB - MEN'S CHORUS

The Men's Glee Club of Duke University was organized in 1927 by J. Foster Barnes. It has gained national stature in the field of choral music, and is now under the direction of Professor Paul Young. In its history of thirty-three years at Duke, the choral group has toured throughout the country and achieved a notable measure of national success when they appeared on the Perry Como Show in 1958. Their northern tours were begun in 1920, but it was not until 1951 that their extensive southern tour was added to the regular schedule.

The Men's Glee Club contributes to the musical activities of Duke University as a whole by providing the highest quality of choral music for men's voices. The membership consists of approximately ninety voices which are determined by auditions held early in the fall. The president for the 1959-60 season was Will Redmond.

Meeting for rehearsal twice a week, the Glee Club provides many groups of trained singers for organizations on campus, in Durham, and in the surrounding areas.

Their season this year began in October with the presentation of their annual concert for Dad's Day. They then traveled on a tour of the Mid-west, which included a concert in Town Hall in New York City. Early in the second semester, they gave their annual Spring Concert and the 1959-60 season was concluded with a tour to New York during Spring holidays and their North Carolina Spring Tour.

Members of the Men's Chorus are: Alexander, Banta, Bell, Bellamy, Bethea, Broesche, Brown, Brown, Chappell, Coleman, Collins, Couchell, Cox, Cupps, Day, Dougherty, Duff, Duskin, Echols, Engle, Farr, Fielder, Flesher, Geron, Golden, Gumo, Hall, Halpern, Hand, Hankins, Hicks, Hollander, Huggin, Johnson, Jones, Jones, Ketcher, Klaupics, Knorr, Knorr, Lewis, Lindsey, Lindsey, Lowenthal, Martin, McCauley, McClesky, McKay, Montague, Nanty, Parson, Parsons, Prewitt, Rauch, Rogers, Smiley, Smith, Smith, Spranklin, Stith, Tyn-dall, Vincent, Waggoner, Waterman, West, Wheatley, White, Wood, Worsham, Worthington, Wright, Young.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB—WOMEN'S CHORUS

The Women's Glee Club and Women's Chorus represent the Woman's College and the School of Nursing vocally, both in the Duke community and the state. The Women's Chorus is for freshman women to prepare them for the Glee Club. In expanding Choral Activities this year, Women's Chorus provided the new woman chorister a fertile background of more individually oriented guidance in choral technique and musicianship under the direction of William Waters, Assistant Director of Choral Activities. Woman's Glee Club, under the direction of Professor Paul Young, provided an advanced field of experience for the trained and thus more self-confident singer. The Women's Chorus combined with the Men's Chorus to give two performances. The first was to provide background music for the Christmas pageant which was presented in the Chapel. The second performance was at a spring concert. The Women's Glee Club combined with the Men's to present a concert for Dad's Day in the fall. During the spring, the Glee Club took a tour around North Carolina and presented a concert for family weekend.

The prime purpose of the Glee Club, Chorus, and Choral Activities in general is to provide a permissive environment for personal and individual growth in emotional and spiritual awareness and maturity through the artistic medium of music.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

The Publications Board is charged with the direction and unification of the policies of the university publications ARCHIVE, CHANTICLEER, CHRONICLE, DUKENGINEER, PEER, and PLAYBILL. In its monthly meetings it hears reports from the editors and business managers of these organizations. In addition, the Board regulates the salaries the publication heads, and the commercial advertising within the publications themselves.

One of the Board's primary functions is that of electing students to fill the salaried positions. This is done in March and April, during which time candidates for these positions are interviewed and selected.

The voting body of the Board consists of four representatives from the faculty and administration, four elected members from each of Trinity and Woman's Colleges, and two from the College of Engineering. The non-voting members include the editors and business managers of the six publications.

ARCHIVE

The ARCHIVE, a student creative arts magazine, began in the 1880's at Trinity College, and has attained the distinction of being the oldest continuous literary publication in the South. It has expanded from the original newsletter to its present form, temporarily functioning as a feature magazine during World War II. Published four times a year, the ARCHIVE includes samples of original essays, fiction, poetry and art. Its objective is to stimulate intelligent student interest in the fine arts, and to promote good student writing. Potential writers are encouraged to establish close contact among themselves to enhance the free exchange of fresh ideas and approaches. The ARCHIVE is proud of the fact that over the years it has included in its publications works by many now-famous authors. Among its other activities, it is a co-sponsor of the annual Literary Arts Celebration in the spring.

"Deadline—will we ever make it?" This question is on the lips of everyone working in the CHANTICLEER office all during the year. One deadline after another is met with rush and confusion so that when May ends the Duke community receives a resumé of the year's events in THE CHANTICLEER.

Students from all classes work together to publish the book, on both the Business and Editorial staff as typist . . . as section editor . . . as captions editor . . . as photographer . . . scheduling pictures . . . just running around . . . but fun and hard work combine to achieve the final product. Through copy and pictures, the CHANTICLEER staff strives to give a complete view of the past year's events. Coverage of all campus groups, outstanding events of the year, students, and administration, is carried in the book.

The CHANTICLEER staff is divided into two staffs: Business and Editorial. The Editorial staff plans layouts, writes copy, takes pictures, and organizes the book. The Business staff is responsible for planning the overall budget and the financial aspects involved in planning the book . . . also the directory.

What is more indispensable than a college newspaper? How better to keep up in national and world affairs, university politics plus the intriguing "news" of the latest campus activities?

THE CHRONICLE, since 1904 has amply fulfilled these functions and for its excellent journalism and layout has copped honor after honor, with national recognition as one of the best college papers. It goes to press three times a week to provide the campus with the maximum coverage possible in its Monday, Wednesday and Friday editions. It offers, in addition to the editorials, a number of feature columns, as controversial and individual in their subject matter and their presentation as the persons writing them. Despite occasional difficulties, THE CHRONICLE continues to move forward to preserve its integrity and traditional freedom of expression.

Students from all classes are encouraged to utilize their journalistic skills on the paper. An introductory training session is conducted each fall by the coed editor, after which students may join the reporting staff, headed this year by Editor Marion Sapp, and assisted by a staff of eight section editors. For those so inclined, the Business staff, headed this year by Al Blackburn, handles finances and advertising.

Now in its sixth year of publication, THE PEER exists to provide the Duke University community with a magazine aimed primarily to entertain. Written, edited, and managed by a large student staff, the PEER achieves its purpose through feature stories, fiction, photographic essays, and cartoons. Peeresses, personality interviews, articles on things to do, and other reading fill the pages of the quarterly issues. This feature magazine provides an outlet for student photo journalists, cartoonists, and those interested in creative writing.

Being the only one of the four major publications on Duke Campus not subsidized by the University, the PEER is dependent on a wide sale of subscriptions for its necessary revenue. PEER sales are stimulated through effective advertising, newspaper stories, posters, personal contact between salesman and subscriber.

THE PEER

THE PLAYBILL, the youngest of the publications on the Duke Campus, has as its goal to provide the theater audiences at Duke with an artistic and informative program. The editor and the staff seek to make their magazine fit the mood of each performance by eye-catching, artistic treatment of the cover and by paying particular attention to the internal layout and the ad section which was done in a different manner in order to preserve the continuity of the program.

With an eye toward what the Duke Audience wants to know, the staff of the PLAYBILL edits its own critical program notes instead of pre-digested press comments and artistic biographies, thus adding a touch of individuality. THE PLAYBILL is assigned to serve many campus organizations and attractions, among them the Duke Players Performances, the Hoof 'n' Horn shows, the Men's Glee Club, and the IFC Handbook.

Thus, the PLAYBILL serves the University in a unique capacity based on a very definite campus need. Fourteen issues are published each year.

THE DUKENGINEER

Mention engineer, and immediately you conjure up a picture of men frantically manipulating "slip-sticks," drawing arrows of force in all directions, and figuring points of stress and strain. But there are approximately 30 of these students who have the time to exercise their literary talent also, and the result is the DUKENGINEER which appears four times during the school year. It is written, edited, and published entirely by Duke engineering students. From its inauspicious beginnings, first appearing in mimeographed form in 1940, when the engineers were housed in "The Shack" (how Southgate has changed!), the publication has grown along with the Engineering School. By 1943, it had procured national advertising, and now enjoys a steadily increasing number of readers among both engineers and laymen everywhere, as well as the students, faculty, and alumni here.

To realize the goal of stimulating interest in engineering activities and keeping abreast of current developments within the field, the magazine offers a variety of articles, including both popular presentations and technical discussions of engineering subjects, pictorial reviews, and news of alumni.

It especially encourages wide student participation in its publishing activities; in this way, many acquire skill in technical writing by publishing results of their independent research. Because of the quality of its writing and the scope and importance of its articles, it is scarcely surprising that the DUKENGINEER enjoys the reputation of being one of the nation's finer college engineering magazines.

ASME

Similar to other professional organizations on campus, the Duke chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers provides its members with the opportunity to meet with fellow students having the same interests. Its two-fold purpose is to keep abreast of latest technical and theoretical advancements in the field, and to stimulate enthusiasm in student projects and encourage participation in them.

To fulfill its aim, the group has a full program of activities. The monthly meetings introduce leading speakers who participate in discussion as well as lecture on their particular areas. Also included in this year's activities were a series of lectures presented by the Office of Ordnance Research under the joint sponsorship of the A.S.C.E. and A.I.E.E.

In December, the members made a one-day field trip to Lynchburg, Virginia, to tour two pipe and foundry companies. The annual student technical paper contest was held in March. April found members attending the regional A.S.M.E. Convention at the University of South Carolina in Columbia. Also in April, members made a field trip to Richmond, Virginia, where they toured the Reynolds Aluminum and the Dupont plants. The organization finished its year's activities with the annual banquet and installation of officers.

AIEE-IRE

The Duke University Student Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, an active campus organization since its formation in 1927, reorganized during 1959 as a joint student branch of A.I.E.E. and the Institute of Radio Engineers. In the new organization electrical engineers may join either A.I.E.E., the professional society of electrical engineering, or I.R.E., a technical society primarily concerned with electronics.

The year's activities of the Joint Student Branch began with a membership drive during Freshman Orientation Week. During the fall, the group had programs dealing with modular computer design and the use of transistors in digital computers. Also A.I.E.E.-I.R.E. co-sponsored a series of lectures from the Office of Ordnance Research. Topics of these lectures were "Policies and Procedures of OOR," "Some Design Problems in Ordnance," and Determination of Missile Trajectories." The spring activities centered around the annual Student Paper Competition held in Montgomery, Alabama. In accordance with one of the purposes of the organization, that of assisting in the professional development of the student, programs were presented concerning professional registration for engineers, job opportunities, and graduate school. The year's program was climaxed by a field trip and a banquet which is held annually in honor of the graduating seniors.

HOWARD HAINES
President

Harold C. Byrd, professor of Civil Engineering, founded the Duke Chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers in 1933. This society is organized to help the student prepare himself for entry into the profession of Civil Engineering by stimulating early professional interest. Monthly meetings accomplish this purpose by showing movies of special interest and presenting informative talks by practicing civil engineers.

By continuing his membership in the A.S.C.E., the professional engineer keeps abreast with new developments within his field and is able to easily meet and confer with the outstanding men of his profession.

Included in this year's extensive program of activities was a four day field trip in November to the Washington-Baltimore area. At this time the Society toured the Bethlehem Steel Plant, Glen L. Martin Aircraft Plant, and the David Taylor Model Basin, where the principles of civil engineering are put to the test of practical use. In the spring, hard work and a united effort were necessary to present the Annual Engineering Show.

On the lighter side, semi-regular banquets were held for the over fifty student members. The members played a highly contested football game with A.S.M.E., and rounded out the year with a picnic in the spring.

PRE-MED SOCIETY

According to records, the Duke Pre-Med Society dates from 1938. The society's main objective is to help the pre-medical student decide about a future in medicine and to advise him in preparing for this career through personal counseling and carefully planned programs. These programs were presented during weekly Thursday night meetings and included such outstanding speakers as Dr. Guy Odom, specialist in Neurosurgery, and Dr. Georgrade, who lectured on plastic surgery. At other meetings, films were shown or actual patients interviewed. Pre-med students were given an opportunity to watch operations at Duke Hospital. In November, the society put through a blood-typing and donor program for undergraduates, and in December members were selected for the Order of Hippocrates, a scholastic honorary.

This year saw several innovations. The Cadeuceus, a monthly pamphlet, announced meetings and presented points of interest to pre-meds. For the first time since its organization in 1942, the Advisory Council extended scholastic aid to freshmen throughout both semesters. During second semester, the society adopted a new constitution.

INDEPENDENT

WILLIAM ALEXANDER
President

The Independent Dormitory Council, headed this year by Bill Alexander, was organized in 1956 to maintain an efficient and representative system of student government for all independent men and to co-ordinate their social functions. The Council operates as a part of M.S.G.A. in the same capacity as IFC and the Freshman House Councils and has assumed the responsibility for suggesting desired improvements in Few dormitory.

Although primarily a governing body, the Council has sponsored several social functions this year. Included were open houses after every home football game, an active intramural program and monthly discussions on campus affairs. IDC by-laws were thoroughly revised this year to provide for a representative from each floor of the three independent dormitories as members of the Council. Another concrete accomplishment was that of providing study rooms and refurnishing two small lounges. IDC has also made dormitory fees compulsory, contributed to Student Symposium and appointed a representative to it.

Generally IDC has been active this year in dealing with the disciplinary problems within its jurisdiction and making every effort to pass legislation to protect the interests of all independent residents.

TOWN MEN'S CLUB

The Town Men's Club is a social organization, providing students who live in Durham with a place to get together for relaxation, companionship, and entertainment. The University maintains a lounge in Flowers Building, where the men may find a place to study or relax between classes.

Meetings of the thirty-five member group are held every two weeks, largely to discuss social programs and other projects. The room was redecorated recently, and during the school year the Club raised money for some additional furnishings. The members participate actively in intramurals and in many other campus activities. The social calendar for the year included cabin parties, banquets, dances, cookouts, and a beach party.

Alpha Phi Omega is a national service fraternity first organized on the Duke campus in 1955. Since that year the group has been a very active one, continually striving to promote its original aim of service. Headed by Allyn Norton, this fraternity furthers leadership and fellowship among its members and provides service for the students, faculty, community and nation. It is the only pure service organization at Duke.

This year the fraternity sponsored a highly successful Foreign Graduate Student Orientation, backed a rummage sale, and aided the Civil Defense program. The members, approximately fifteen in number, also had the opportunity to acquire experience at an old age home and to work with under-privileged children. As a part of the year's activities, the brothers of Alpha Phi Omega participated as ushers at concerts and at Duke football and basketball games. In working for the advancement of its program, the group held meetings each Wednesday night.

DEBATE COUNCIL

Developing their speaking, thinking, and argumentative powers on controversial issues, the members of the Duke University Debate Council meet weekly to increase and sharpen their abilities. Students from all classes are eligible to take part and "work their way up" through participation in these weekly sessions, as well as in the great number of college debates throughout the country in which the club is invited to participate.

Under the presidency of John Koskinen, the council completed an active year which included debates centered around the issue: Resolved: That Congress should have the power to revise decisions of the Supreme Court.

Highlights were a fall tournament at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, to which the Council sent four members; and a between-semester trip to the University of Miami, where the two-man team earned second place.

BENCH AND BAR

The Bench and Bar, a society which has been active for many years on the Duke campus, was organized and sponsored for several years by Dr. John Bradway who recently retired from the law school. Although the society maintains a flexible schedule to better serve its members, meetings are usually held every two weeks. The programs presented during these meetings are designed to give undergraduate students more insight into law and the legal profession. These programs help the student decide whether or not to enter law and also help in determining which phase to enter.

This year the society's fifty members heard talks by law professors and practicing lawyers, and panel discussions with law students. They also saw pre-legal movies, participated in open debates of simple legal questions, witnessed mock trials, and made a visit to a court in session.

Bruce Kloppman, the president, presided over the meetings. He was assisted by vice-president John Sharp; Secretary, Tom Senf; and Treasurer, Leo Smith.

DUKE SYMPHONY

The Symphony Orchestra, again under the able direction of Alan Bone, this season continued its fine record of artistic performance. Essentially an amateur group, it is composed of both Duke students and faculty members, but includes a few professional players.

The annual fall concert, the first of the season, was met with much enthusiasm. In March, in spite of the effect of the snow, the Orchestra gave a delightful "Pops Concert" for the visiting Angier B. Duke finalists. Thus, the Symphony Orchestra continued to serve the Duke community with a high level of cultural and artistic achievement.

ALAN H BONE

CONCERT BAND

The Concert Band this year continued its program of providing music for the Duke community. Composed of students and people from the Durham area, this band gave many concerts, beginning in the fall and continuing until May. During the spring the band took a tour and performed in various parts of North Carolina.

The Band was begun in 1923 under the direction of G. E. Leftwich. By 1929, the membership had increased from twenty to seventy, its present size. It has become a very important organization on the campus for providing entertainment and means to utilize and develop musical talent.

PAUL BRIAN

Members are: Barbara Binning, Ellen Cooper, Jon Crocker, J. T. ORCHESTRA

Charging onto the field from under a poof of smoke to enliven half-times is the Duke University Marching Band—or, familiarly, the DUMB. Strutting at an apparently gravity-defying angle, and at break-neck speed, the DUMB is about the most energetic group on campus—and certainly one of the liveliest of its kind in the nation.

Under the direction of Dr. Paul Bryan and Ed Mesta, the band practiced hard to achieve such results, often meeting three times a week for long drill and rehearsal. Much of its effectiveness was in its imaginative and witty presentations, and often unusual formations. For instance, who could forget “Big Brother” in their show on 1984? And the hilarious take-off on television shows. They also gave a glimpse of their “traveling manners” when they reproduced their trip to Pittsburgh—that wasn’t a gigantic beer can down on the field, was it?

Several of the members have organized to form the Pep Board, which was effective this year in pep rallies and home basketball games. They also transported their spirit to Atlanta for the Tech game, and played a big part in the suspense and excitement at Charlotte.

DUKE AMBASSADORS

The Duke Ambassadors, as the name implies, try to spread good will and good jazz music wherever they go. Fifteen musicians comprise the organization, which began in 1932. This year they capped their 27th year at Duke by performing during Orientation Week, the Medical School dances, and playing for dances at U.N.C., Virginia, and South Carolina. Two highlights on their agenda for the year were their performances at Wilmington's Azalea Festival and Duke's Homecoming Dance.

This is only a small part of their extensive traveling. The Ambassadors have played in Iceland, the Azores, Bermuda, and the Panama Canal Zone, as well as many places throughout North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia.

Founded by Lanny Burke, the Ambassadors follow the traditions established by Duke alumni Johnny Long and Les Brown. They are freshly stocked with original arrangements presented to the band by Mr. Brown.

The main objective of the organization, besides that of presenting good music, is to give outstanding Duke jazz musicians an opportunity to develop their talents. Their ability to produce jazz of high quality has been recognized in such publications as METRONOME and DOWN BEAT.

HOOF 'n' HORN

Hoof 'n' Horn, marking its twenty-fourth year on Duke campus with this spring's production of And If Elected, prides itself in being the oldest original musical comedy organization in the South. Membership in Hoof 'n' Horn entails working actively in any phase of the production of one show. An eight member executive council, elected by the entire club at a combined banquet and business meeting in the spring, supervises the affairs of the club during the year. This includes selection of script, director, producer, and production staff. The special feature of each Hoof 'n' Horn show is that the script, songs, dances, sets, costumes, and all other phases of the production are handled exclusively by students. Besides the annual show during Joe College weekend, the club also participates in the Homecoming Show and many other musical activities.

This year's show, And If Elected, written by Hank Johnson, directed by Gary Tunmore, and produced by George Clover, takes place at the 1960 Republican convention and involves both the candidacy of Senator B. Bertram Bellows for the presidential nomination, and the intrigues of convention delegate, Joe Osgoode, big-time gangster, Mickey Mario, and his moll, Delores Deluscious. Topped by one of the best musical scores in many years, And If Elected, scored a big success.

Hoof 'n' Horn was led this year by President Warner Scott and Vice-President Mary Ann Berry.

PLAYERS

Members of the technical staff are: Lola Powers, Jeff Derecki, Mal Nathanson, Gary Tunmore, Judy Shreve.

Lola Powers as Cecily Cardew and Earl McCarrol as Algie Moncriel in a scene from "The Importance of Being Earnest."

Duke Players, serving the Duke community with culture and the finest in theater entertainment for over twenty-seven years, is a rather loosely-knit organization, as such groups go. Nevertheless, Players does have a President, Gary Tunmore, and does call occasional meetings during which the plays for the next season are decided upon. The season began on October 30 and 31, with the presentation of "Macbeth," an audacious but very successful undertaking. "The Importance of Being Earnest," a delightful Oscar Wilde comedy and the next major presentation, was given from December 9-12. Arthur Miller's Pulitzer Prize winning play, "Death of a Salesman," was presented in Page Auditorium in three performances on March 18 and 19. The pathetically tragic story of Willy Loman gave the Players a smash hit and won both campus and statewide acclaim.

In their spare time, Duke Players also presented student-directed one-act plays and two readings in Branson Hall. The readings this year were Sartre's "The Flies" and Dylan Thomas' "Under the Milkwood." The organization was asked to produce something light for commencement in June. The play chosen for this was Moss Hart's "Light Up the Sky."

Duke Players' membership is attained and maintained by working fifty hours during the season. Anyone completing any number of hours on one production is given an apprentice standing. A member in good standing may be exalted to a position on the Executive Council, and, for outstanding work, may be chosen for membership in Theta Alpha Phi, the National Dramatics Honorary Fraternity of which Duke Players has long been a chapter.

The group very definitely fulfills the campus need for fine dramatic entertainment. Each production, whether a public presentation in Page or a more modest reading in Branson, represents the efforts of all members, on-stage and off, to provide a thoughtful, well-executed performance. Members gain in the practical experience earned through working with the set design, lighting, costumes, props, and, of course, acting. They achieve a greater understanding of, and insight into the works that they produce.

Final struggle between Macbeth and MacDuff portrayed by Carl McCarrol and Joe Sturdevant.

With a record-breaking number of new memberships being subscribed to in September, the Shoe 'N' Slipper Club of 1959-1960, under the leadership of Ramon Fouse, initiated a social year that will not soon be forgotten by the Dukes and Duchesses.

The Fall Concert featured the famous orchestra of Larry Elgart, who that night played a mellow dance to a full house. The deluge of rain which persisted throughout the weekend failed to dampen the gaieties and, on Saturday night, the versatile band of Maynard Ferguson played for the formal dance, interjecting several numbers which had previously highlighted his performance at the Newport Jazz Festival.

What better way to incite the anticipation of the Tenth Anniversary of "Joe College" weekend (and the name remains the same!) than to be able to announce that there would be no classes on Joe College Saturday? In harmony with the anniversary celebration the theme for the weekend was the "Fabulous Fifties," and fabulous they were.

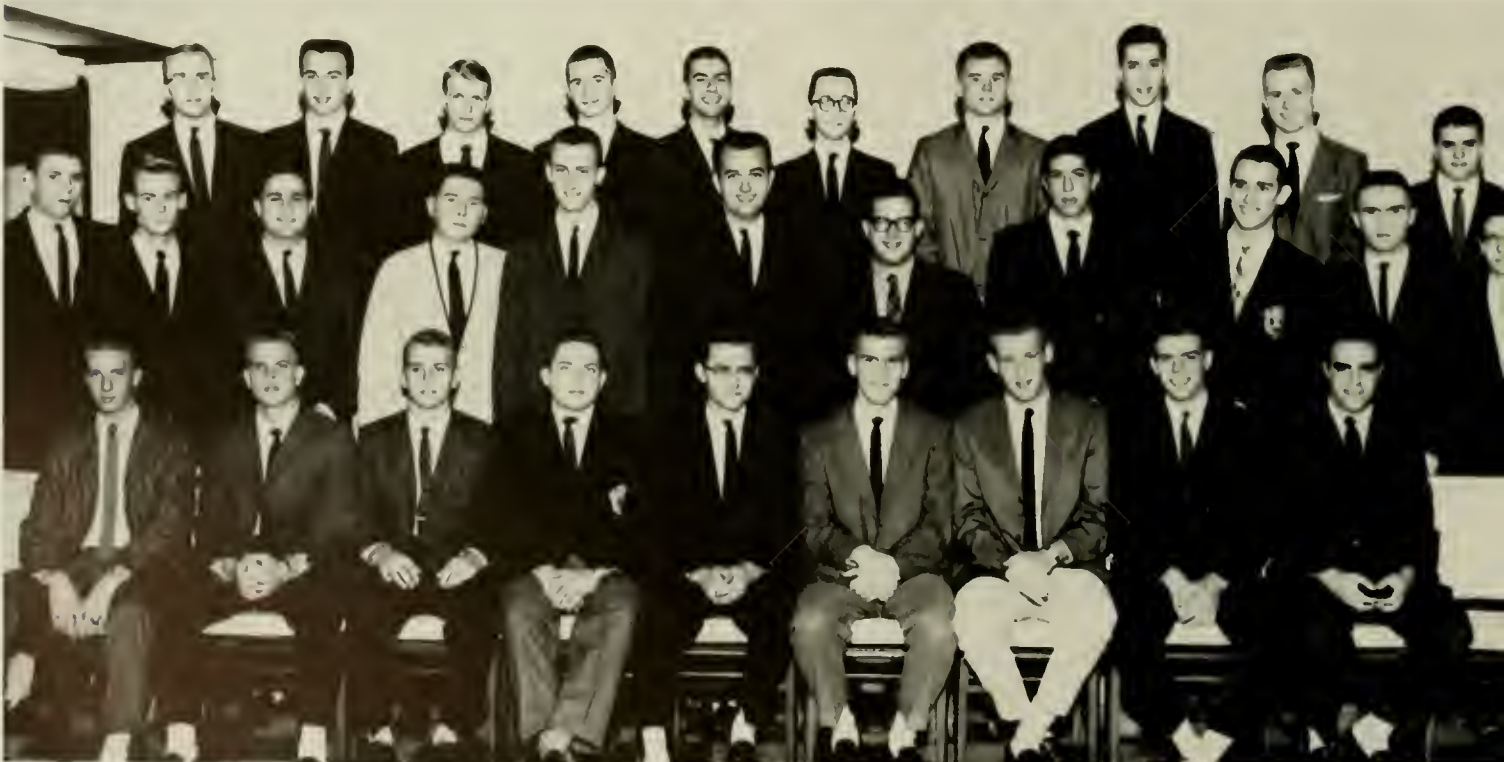

Friday night's informal dance was played by Ralph Flannagan. Saturday morning—after the fabulous float parade—the campus moved to the main quad. What was there? What is always there on Joe College Saturday? The lawn concert . . . always the apex of excitement . . . always jam-packed . . . always a little "wet" even though the sun never fails to shine brilliantly . . . the lawn concert and Buddy Morrow's "Night Train Band" were really "in." And as a special salute to all the members and the anniversary weekend, the Shoe 'N' Slipper Club, for the first time, presented, in addition to the big name bands, the number one jazz vocal group in the nation—the fantastic Hi Lo's. The Saturday night dance featuring Buddy Morrow brought a close to another successful Shoe 'N' Slipper year.

RADIO COUNCIL

DR. WEATHERBY
Faculty Advisor

The Radio Council is the final governing body of the Duke Broadcasting System, and works in an advisory capacity with it. Created contemporaneously with the station itself in 1948, the Council was established as a guide to the ultimate aims of WDBS, functioning through the joint efforts of students, faculty, and administration. It is composed of student representatives from both East and West campus and Hanes House, three faculty advisors, the Dean of Women, the Dean of Men, and the five station managers, whom it elects.

The Council formulates general policy as well as deciding specific issues such as approval of the budget and unusual expenditures. Perhaps of its most important functions is that of electing the Station, Engineering, Production, Sales, and Business Managers. The responsibility of the managers involves the immediate problems and policies of the station. Their election takes place in March, the new managers assuming responsibility with the advice of the outgoing group.

The Radio Council and the personnel of WDBS met in May to climax a full and successful year at the annual banquet. Awards for outstanding talent and service during the past year were presented at that time.

Whether it's Beethoven or basketball, WDBS offers a distinguished and varied program during its 18½ hours of daily operation, keyed to the interests and tastes of the listening University Community. During the past 11 years, WDBS has been recognized as one of the finest college stations in the nation. And no wonder! From its system of auditioning and announcer training to the program layout, the station is managed like a "pro." Interspersed with up-to-the-minute news reports and other items of interest, its regular feature programs range the spectrum of musical mood and rhythm. They show the effort of careful planning, and are especially timely; for instance, Sunday afternoons from 2:00 to 5:00, fine classical music was broadcast, while in the wee hours certain uninhibited gentlemen was heard nonchalantly ad-libbing between record requests. During exams, there was an uninterrupted program of quiet "study" music.

The station provides on the spot coverage of all Duke basketball and most baseball games. Other features of interest were the Radiothon, a drive in which WDBS assisted the Campus Chest Drive by playing requests in return for contributions to the Campus Chest, and a Record Hop on the East Campus tennis courts for Freshmen during Orientation Week. It also held an Open House during Orientation Week. A non-broadcasting activity is the annual banquet, held in the late spring.

Working throughout the year with other groups, the Pep Board strove to promote a high degree of spirit, enthusiasm, and good sportsmanship on Duke campus. Its success in achieving this goal benefited the entire University. Through the combined efforts of representatives from both campuses in encouraging wholesome athletics, a bond of student loyalty and fair play was created.

Activities of the Pep Board were at their peak during the football season, beginning first with the pep rally held during Orientation week. Particularly important games were advertised with special devices like the "Wreck Tech" tags. Another special event was the car parade headed by a fire engine which provided transportation from East to West for the rally before the Clemson game. Throughout the season, posters, floaters, dormitory announcements, the Pep Band, and pre-game stunts were used by the Pep Board to promote student enthusiasm and boost team morale. In addition, the board sent victory telegrams to the team before out-of-town games. It sponsored the traditional Blue Devil and the Prophet, who was introduced last year.

During the remainder of the year, Pep Board's main concern was to stimulate an active interest on campus in all sports throughout the personal contact of dormitory and fraternity representatives. Plans were made for cheering sections for home basketball games.

Other duties included sponsoring the election of the cheerleaders and selecting the Blue Devil and the Prophet, all of whom serve as ex-officio members. These and all other activities of the Pep Board were successfully carried out through detailed pre-planning and careful committee work.

AFROTC

The purpose of the Air Force R.O.T.C. program is to prepare students through a plan of instruction at civilian educational institutions to help fulfill the officer needs of the United States Air Force both in the regular and reserve components. The program at Duke consists of two years of basic and two years of advanced training.

Organized in 1949, the Duke University A.F.R.O.T.C. is today a select, compact unit of 175 cadets producing officers for the Air Force.

The 1959-60 school year brought new activities for the cadets. Aside from participation in the normal run of extra-curricular activities within the corps, including the MARS amateur radio station, an extensive photography lab, the drill and rifle teams and the corps newspaper, Contact, the cadets have been able to take part in field trips to several Air Force bases, and have also enjoyed the highlight of their social events—the Military Ball.

NAVAL ROTC

The basic purpose of the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps is perhaps best taken from John Paul Jones, founder of the Naval tradition, who said that "it is by no means enough that an officer of the Navy should be a capable mariner. He must be that, of course, but also a great deal more. He should be, as well, a gentleman of liberal education, refined manner, punctilious courtesy, and the nicest sense of personal honor."

To fulfill this purpose, the U. S. Navy maintains a capable staff of officers and enlisted personnel at Duke, led by Captain C. C. Ainsworth, Professor of Naval Science. In addition to courses generally covering every phase of Naval activity, the unit sponsors many extra-curricular activities among which are a drill team; a rifle team; a newsletter, the DOLPHIN; an honorary, the Corsairs; and for the Marines, the Semper Fidelis Club.

At the present time there are two programs offered by the N.R.O.T.C., Contract and Regular. Contract students volunteer for the program and are obligated for two years active duty after being commissioned as Ensigns, U.S.N.R. The Regular students are selected by the Navy on the basis of written and physical exams and personal interviews. They receive full tuition and fees, including books and $50 per month salary. In return, these students are obligated for four years active duty as Regular Navy Officers. Both Regular and Contract students may be eligible for the Marine Option Program and receive commissions in the U.S. Marine Corps.

SEMPER FIDELIS

Semper Fidelis was established by Marine students at the University of North Carolina and Duke in 1952 and chartered under the University of North Carolina. Beta Chapter at Duke is one of more than 50 chapters at universities and colleges in the United States. It is made up of officers, reserves, former Marines and students who plan a future career in the Marine Corps. Its purpose is to help prepare college students for commissions in the Marine Corps and to promote the interests and ideals of the Marine Corps among the students and faculty in the University community.

Led by Commander Walt Boomer and Faculty Advisor Major D. D. Ezell, the group has participated in many activities. Besides the traditional Marine Birthday Ball, a Christmas party, stag picnics and other informal get-togethers were held. The group took a field trip to the Marine Base at Paris Island, South Carolina. There was also a guest lecture by Colonel O. R. Simpson, Chief of Staff of the Marine Corps School.

FRATERNITIES

A sorority—as well as a fraternity—symbolizes congenial friends that go on throughout life . . . a stepping stone, a trying ground for associations . . . learning to give and take. It is based on two main premises: Friendship and shared idealism.

In aspiration to the highest, noblest, purest ideals of womanhood and manhood the spirit of the fraternity system lifts its goals to the attaining of qualities of excellent service, sacrifice, loyalty, devotion, courage, helpfulness, cooperation, and integrity. By striving for the development of leadership, citizenship, mental and intellectual maturity, strong character is molded. The structure of every fraternity and sorority stands firmly grounded on a foundation of spiritual values. And the dynamic force of every chapter finds its sources in bonds of brotherhood, of friendship through shared moments of laughter, of common goals. Through promotion and development of mutually beneficial relationships between the fraternity and the University, appreciation for the benevolence of the University is fostered.

At the height of this level of the ideal of fraternity living are couched the experiences which lend embodiment to fraternal goals; the mutual awe of a little Edgemont girl and a fraternity man Santa at a Christmas party, the precious and protected friendship of a big sister for her little pledge sister, the chapter as a miniature world in which to learn the ways of community living—all of these make vital, lasting contributions to the development of the men and women encircled in the bonds of their respective Greek chapters.

Beta Epsilon Chapter

How different it all was—rushing in that bare room in Carr. Alpha Chi did have fun trying to make a class-room seem not a class-room, yet the added problems of such a rush knit closer unity. President Sally and Rush Chairman Faye were the hub of that revolving wheel of rush, which rolled in a lively pledge class of twenty girls.

The enthusiastic pledges gave actives a Halloween party—spooks and food included. Other AXO events of the year were the pledge banquet at Carolina Inn, an all-night party in the gym, several Union banquets (including a Christmas Party with gifts exchanged), a Thanksgiving celebration, the Christmas party at the Cerebral Palsy Hospital with the Sigma Nu's followed by a pizza 'n' coke supper, plus the weekly visits with the teen-age CP patients. The new year saw Peanut Pal day in February, and the long-awaited pledge dance at the Sir Walter—white dresses, red carnations, and a banquet.

Campus-wide, Alpha Chi—second sorority scholastically—was also busy: with six FAC's Mary, Barbara, Annette, Sandy, Pat and Ginny; Judi-Rep Leah, Transfer Adviser Livvi, Pegasus Prexy Carol, SU Recreation Co-Chairman Mary John, and Margaret—representative to University Religious Council. Honors went to Kathy (Sandals), Margaret (Phi Beta Kappa), and Eila and Mary Ann (Ivy).

Spring brought the annual senior banquet and its nostalgia. Many pins and rings, two had been serenaded—and Connie visited us. Then Joe College and the float were behind, summer at hand, and another successful year rolled to a close for Alpha Chi.

In September Durham greeted us humidly, but we Omicron Pi's forgot weather in our happiness to be together once again and to begin the 1959-60 college year.

October and the colorful leaves brought us rush and twenty wonderful pledges. 119 Carr has never been more noise-filled and happy that it was Saturday evening, October 3, when sister greeted future sister.

Fall fled quickly by, filled with activities—the pledge banquet . . . Saturday afternoons spent entertaining and being entertained by the children at CP . . . Babs in the Homecoming Court . . . the finals of the Fraternity-Sorority . . . our Friday the 13th cabin party . . . and the Garden Club.

Blowing cold wind to the Southland, December and the Mardi Gras came to Duke, presenting Annie Lewis and Peaches in the CHANTICLEER Court. Then Christmas approached, with parties galore.

The cheery child 1960 advised us to study for those exams, promised reward, and then . . .

February, and still the north wind did blow, while we gaily danced and formally presented our pledges at the Elks Club . . . A memorable evening, followed by a delicious breakfast.

Spring, in her fresh green, finally arrived, tempting us to join in the outdoor fun. Laughing, we built our Joe College float . . . and enjoyed the sunny Saturday afternoons . . . the senior banquet . . . and then the beach.

June, and the black robes of graduation for our seniors, greeted us all too soon. Thoughts of the coming fall quietly crept in, as we bid each other good-summer, agreeing that it had been a "good-un" for the Omicron chapter of Alpha Delta Pi.

Alpha Epsilon Chapter

The AEPHI's added six terrific pledges to their ranks at the close of another whirlwind rush this fall. Spirits were high as the "Columns" were once again honored by the award of the Pan-Hellenic scholarship cup, and another active year began.

A full social calendar included punch parties with the Sammies from State and Pi Lambs of UNC, informal get-togethers with Duke graduate students, and frequent hen-parties in the chapter room. The annual big-and-little-sister dinner at the Ivy Room was followed by the Alpha Epsilon Phi Pledge Dance and another hilarious slumber party highlighted by a new treat, the pledge skit.

AEPHI's were proud of their enthusiastic pledges who included a social service project and special party for the actives in their busy schedule. In addition, their own Shiela Sapero was selected for the CHANTICLEER beauty court after reigning as queen of Dink-Bow Day.

In spite of exams, meetings, and just plain studying, AEPHI's remained active in numerous campus affairs with Cookie Anspach an FAC, Mal Nathanson a delegate to NSA, and Lola Powers appearing in several Duke Players productions.

Fun-packed hours of float-building for the Joe College Parade, a delicious brunch during Parents' Weekend, initiation of new officers, and a farewell party for the seniors ended the Spring semester and another successful year of AEPHI sisterhood.

The year 1959-60 was the biggest yet for Beta Nu chapter of Alpha Phi. From the first rush meeting in September to the last goodbye at the beach party, Alpha Phis grew closer through social, scholastic, cultural and service projects.

The end of rush was, as usual, a very exciting time and the inspiration for many get-togethers between the actives and the new pledges. The big sisters treated their little sisters to dinner at the Rat, and there was also the formal pledge banquet in the Old Trinity Room. One of the best parties of the year was the cabin party at Aycock's cabin which the sisters gave for their dates. The dinner-dance in honor of the pledges was, of course, the social highlight of the year.

In place of having the annual scholarship banquet for the top half of the sorority, this money was presented to the Cardiac foundation, Alpha Phi's national philanthropy. In addition to this donation the chapter collected money for Cardiac Aid at the Duke-Carolina basketball game on February 27.

The year drew to a close all too fast, especially for the Alpha Phi seniors. We bid farewell to our sisters at the traditional Silver Party for the seniors and the informal trips to the University Grill during exams.

After Exams the Alpha Phis got rested and tanned to go home for the summer, looking forward to the Summer Newsletter, and getting together again in the fall.

Despite their disappointment at losing "the suite" in Mordecai House, Duke Delta Gamma returned to campus full of plans for a successful year. Their highest hopes were realized with the pledging of a marvelous group of freshmen who were welcomed with the Pizza Party. Big-sister little-sister get-togethers began shortly thereafter with a "sundae party" with authentic ice cream parlor decorations.

Winter was officially ushered in with an ice skating party for the entire chapter followed by a pre-Christmas party for the sisters and their dates.

The pledge social service project at McPherson Hospital in Durham was such a success that the actives decided to lend a hand.

Mrs. Robert W. Preston, Delta Gamma National President, was the special guest of the chapter which honored her at a luncheon in the Old Trinity Room.

Second semester began with a bang as our pledges were initiated at an alumna's house followed by a gala party with the traditional "anchor cake." The new initiates were honored at a dinner dance at the Carolina Inn in Chapel Hill.

Springtime brought new activities for the chapter including the annual retreat, our Founder's Day banquet, and Joe College float building. The Senior Banquet highlighted by the reading of the prophecy and will of the departing seniors, and the never to be forgotten "sun 'n' fun" week end at Myrtle Beach after exams completed the social calendar for the year.

Beta Rho Chapter

With the kite flying high, Thetas returned to the campus to begin another successful year under Kathy Knoch's capable leadership. With rush and the wonderful guidance and enthusiasm of Marge, Royce, and "Eloise," Theta gained a pledge class of which we are very proud. With October and November came a party with the Pi Phi's, the Fraternity-Sorority Sing, and enjoyable occasions with fraternities at Edgemont and Wright's Refuge. The coming of the holiday season brought the annual Christmas party with the Theta's original poetry. Soon after the new year came our slumber party, Kite Day, and the Golden Triad; and with initiation, proud new Thetas at last wore the Kite. A weekend retreat, a second wonderful cabin party, work on the Joe College float, and the Theta beach weekend rounded out the social activities for the year.

Not all play, however, Theta is especially proud of her Phi Beta Kappas, Muffy and Sally; Sandy's receiving the Gold "D" for the highest scholastic average in the freshman class, her FAC's, Judi-Reps, and class officers.

More outstanding Thetas this year were Kathy and Janet, members of the Homecoming Court; Barbara, a member of the CHANTICLEER Beauty Queen's Court; Lynne, Barbara, and Ann, Standouts in the Peer; and Cris who took the honors as Pika Dream Girl. Finally special congratulations to Ann and Anne for jobs well done as freshman representative to WSGA and president of the Junior Pan-Hel.

A year of good fun, hard work, and close friendship made 1959-60 especially rewarding for the sisters of the Kite—Kappa Alpha Theta.

Kappa Delta began the year with a laugh when President Wanda West and Rush Chairman Janet Neill took over. Acquiring dirty knees, we got twenty of the sharpest girls on campus. All first semester we were delighted with Caretaker Kelly Sr.'s reports on "those girls" led by President Kelly Jr. through myriads of misadventures. Still 100 percent made their averages, passed their pledge tests, and became renowned on West through parties and persuasive bake sales.

Meanwhile the actives weren't dormant. Sarah and Gwen were house presidents; Bettie, Betsy, and Jane, Judi Reys; Billie, Jeanne, and Terry, FAC's; Emily a Rush Advisor; Judy H. treasurer of Pan-Hel; Lois a cheerleader; Kay and Judy C., Sandals. The brainy ones were Sarah and Jeanne, Phi Beta Kappa; Rhonnie, Ivy; Sarah and Bettie, Who's Who; Bettie, White Duchy. Also, Harriet Beaver was "Miss Concord," Becky Strother, "Miss Wake County," and Martha Drummond, Pi Kapp "Rose."

With Christmas came a KD gathering as Santa Byrd arrived through the window to surprise us with gifts ranging from beer-can necklaces to bridge manuals. We also joined the Pika's in a party at the VA hospital, and the Pi Kapps for an orphans' party.

After West's rush, we plunged into plans for initiation. The whirl of White Rose Week was culminated with the pledge dance at Scandia Village in Raleigh—and initiation. With twenty new sisters, we look forward to another year of fun and work, feeling that this year has been one of the very best.

Delta Beta Chapter

Reporting to headquarters in 116 Carr Building, the Delta Beta Kappa's began the year with high hopes. Kaki, as chief keeper of the keys, guided us enthusiastically through the 59-60 school year.

Rush went smoothly and resulted in a wonderful pledge class, thanks to Steph and Jean. Minus a breathing spell we headed for the Fraternity-Sorority Sing. Under the care of talented Julie G., our medly "One Nation" won us a second place in the finals.

The holiday season found social chairman, Ann McNam busily arranging our calender—first a cabin party with the Beta's, then a Thanksgiving get-together with the ATO's for the Edgemont children, and finally a Christmas party for the children from Wrights Refuge with the Sigma Chi's. Spaghetti dinner at Nan's given by the Durham alums and a caroling excursion to retirement homes of Durham supplemented the social calendar.

February was for the pledges with inspiration week highlighted by initiation and the Golden Triad. March and April brought spring fever, termpapers, Joe College, floats, and Danner's (Florida home for KKG vacationers).

After elections were held and honors given out, KKG was well represented. The heads of Judi Board, Handbook, and Coordinate Board were Sue, M.B. and Sue respectively. Three F.A.C.'s, three Rush and Transfer Advisers, Two White Duchy, three Who's Who, and Five Sandals, are some of the statistics. But more important was the enthusiastic attitude which prevailed.

Having said good-bye to the seniors at Myrtle Beach, all parted with high hopes for a new year as successful as the last.

Who knows where fall went? It got lost in things like rush in the "dear old chapter room" in Carr (Result. beaucoup de neat-type pledges for the rose and white). The excitement and chatter of the Pizza Party for our new pledges, the really elite Big-Little Sister Banquet in the Old Trinity Room. We celebrated our twenty-fifth anniversary on Duke campus with silver ribbons; and who can forget the Kiddie Party when we entered our second childhood (whoever outgrew the first?)?

Somewhere in there, too, were the practices for the Fraternity-Sorority Sing, all sorts of busy doings with "our" Scout Troop—for service the Phi Mu way, more fun than do-gooding—plus the Thanksgiving baskets which we sponsored along with other sororities on campus. And thanks to Jan's hard work, for our beautiful Carnation Ball, that memorable night at the Carolina Inn to honor those sparkling-eyed pledges.

Spring flew by—continuing the S. and W. tradition for gourmets in the group, we went Far Eastern at our Persian Party where Marty told us about her year in Pakistan. On Founder's Day Judy blew out 108 candles and we initiated our pledges, new officers were elected. Training programs, Judy's concert, Joe College week-end, and suddenly the year was over. And while we bid our departing seniors good-bye, we looked forward to the mad scramble again next year.

Beta Chapter

"We are Pi Phis all; there are some of us short and some tall—" We began the year early helping with Freshman week—There was Judy H. chairman of the FAC's directing Boots A. and Libby G.—Judy D. co-chairman of the S. U. Board of Governors—A Sandal Nancy H.—Co-editor of the Chronicle, Mary R.—President of the Junior class Kit Yonkers—House President Sue S.—and Judi Rep Lisa C. Then rush began and Pi Phi arrow's gleam really did pierce the heart of our twenty-one favorite rushees. Now the "Poo Foo" year 59-60 began to move—the pledge banquet "ring ching ching"—the Pan-Hel trophy for the most scholastic improvement.—Freshman Class officers—Homecoming, with Judy H. and Myrna P. in the court and the reunion buffet for alums—the sing—"New York, New York" and the open-house with the Thetas afterwards—a beans and steak dinner for dunces and scholars—the mystic D.P. day—a riotous secret buddy week—the cabin party with the Zeta's—Christmas Open-Houses with the Beta's and SAE's, caroling with the Phi Delt's and then the Lambda Chis at the VA Hospital—Judy D., Mary R., and Judy H. nominated to Who's Who—Initiation—the Triad—Spring flings—Yes, the joy we've had in knowing each other will last our whole life through, and the knowledge that "What e'er betide you, there's Pi Phi beside you," will make us always "Remember the shining arrow bright," and the experiences together for which it stands so "wipe the tear baby dear from your eye—you'll soon be back we know—Cheerio, ring ching, bonsoir old thing, boom de dee a, bye bye!"

Sigma Kappa swung out in 1959-60 with parties, activities, and many new experiences which kept us all busy. Returning to the prospects of rush in Carr Building, we immediately began preparation with a rush retreat. All the work paid off with a wonderful group of pledges and Pat leading the way.

The social season was highlighted in the Fall by a Halloween Party given by the pledges for the actives, pizza parties, the Big and Little Sister Banquet, and the Christmas party. The Pledge Dance led into a Spring full with picnics, openhouses, parties, and the annual slumber-party. Joe College brought forth our efforts to duplicate last year's float parade trophy—with the result of many hours of fun with chicken-wire and florist paper. The Sigmas also busied themselves with their philanthropy work and money-raising projects.

Carol as Vice-President of Pan-Hellenic, Boobeye-Kay and Flora with the choir, Dawn with the orchestra, and Gail with the Student Union all worked hard for various Duke organizations. We were sorry to lose Sandy at Christmas, but Jinx made a forceful songleader.

The biggest thrill this year was the installation of our new chapter in Raleigh at State College. It was fun to have little sisters at another college—even if it meant mostly a correspondence friendship. Long will the Sigmas remember this year—Sue's pantomime on "Rush Chairman, 1959"—Betsy's "bug"—trips to Raleigh—Julie's projects—and trips to the third floor of Science Building.

The pledges give a Thanksgiving party

Phi Chapter

Eager expectation brought the Zetas rushing back to Duke in September to complete preparations for rush. Each sister had many ideas and plans, and working together we carried out a most successful rushing season. As soon as we welcomed our new pledges with a round of dorm parties and general "get-togethers," we were back to work preparing for the Sorority-Fraternity Sing.

After two months of hard work the Zetas were more than ready for some fun. We joined with the Pi Beta Phi's for an evening at Turners with dates. Much fun was had by all!

The holidays brought more rewarding joys as socializing gave way to social work and our annual Thanksgiving and Christmas families.

January saw the Zetas buckle down to the books in order that February might find us busy with preparations for our annual dinner-dance in honor of the pledges.

The remainder of the spring found the Zetas busy with Joe College, fraternity weekends, and the Senior Banquet—climaxing another glorious year with a house party at Myrtle Beach.

In spite of our busy schedule, we are very proud of our sisters who found time for many campus activities such as our house-presidents, freshman advisors, rush advisors, student union members, beauty queens, and such honoraries as "Who's Who."

With September came the return of the traveling Taus. Gone were some of the old, but new activities and legends were soon to arise.

The fall semester was a big one for ATO with ever-present cabin parties and football weekends. Traditional Eno beer parties and "Mother's" trains were spiced by a get-together with the Carolina Kappas. The Army Moonrocket was the hit, if not the winner of the Homecoming competition. The famous ATO Christmas party tradition was carried on with our Al Capone party, which starred Peter "Ma Barker" Buckley.

The fall semester also saw the revival of ATO football fortunes and an impromptu Ohio State train by way of Bailey's and Ironton. A further highlight was the freshman onslaught on our now-crippled hedge.

Personalities and personages abounded in "Old House C." Puck Hartwig sported a red flower and "Admiral" Drummond, the Admiral's daughter. "Max" Sharpe saved the legions of ATO's from the Judicial Board. "Skipper" and "Punk" came back with the freshmen. "Turtle" Paulson was busy switching pin-ups. "Elk" Owens became more elklike, and "Ole Bissy" Watson gained fame with ATO Sweetheart Amburn and his guitar. W. M. "Wedge" Wileman and "Burton" ran the house with an iron hand.

Second semester saw the Taus plow through rush and move on in quick succession to the Sweetheart Ball, Joe College, and Wrightsville Beach. Graduation found the brotherhood reminiscing on a most satisfactory year.

Gamma Rho Chapter

Gamma Rho returned from the summer well-rested and rarin' to go, looking forward to another fine year . . . and a fine year it was under the leadership of Jim Faris.

Beta began the social year during freshman week with nightly cook-outs on the patio and then swung into full swing as rock, cabin, and section parties prevailed throughout the year. At the social helm was "Gregory Gross" who carried through his theme of "the best parties in the worst places" in organizing such memorable occasions as the parties with the KA's, Shoe 'n Slipper, Joe College, beach weekend, and the third annual Wannamaker Ball.

The law firm of Faris, Tynes, and Gleason combined its efforts to defend the fraternity against the I.F.C., but to no avail, as the council limited our pledge class to fourteen. But in spite of the penalty, Joe and "Maverick" brought back the cream of the freshman crop.

In the romance department, Beta pins were proudly displayed on East Campus and throughout the country, as the brothers scoffed the leap year tradition in grand style.

Gamma Rho was well represented in the field of extra-curriculars, with brothers holding influential positions in the Chronicle, CHANTICLEER, W.D.B.S., Shoe 'n' Slipper, and the I.F.C., and with other brothers competing on the swimming, wrestling, lacrosse, soccer, golf, and tennis teams.

Summing up Beta's year, one can only say that all was "bwookay!"

Delta Sigs at Duke have enjoyed a feeling of unparalleled security and a rebirth of driving accomplishment in the 1959-1960 school year, beginning with a successful round of social functions which included many cabin and section parties. The first big event of the fall was the addition of several sophomores to our brotherhood; next, Homecoming was marked by the building of a castle of boxes—our dream home; and finally, our success in winning the "Ugliest Man on Campus" contest brought our fraternity into the campus limelight.

Athletically, several brothers participating in track and cross-country distinguished themselves by winning top places in the ACC meet in the fall. In intramurals the Delta Sigs struggled to maintain a standing in both football and basketball as well as tennis. The brothers showed a constant interest in their IFC standing and encouraged their participants with warm enthusiasms.

Various brothers' campus activities have proven the diversity of our fraternity and our interest in campus life. Sports car rallies, Hoof 'n' Horn, the Chronicle, and Y and Student Union committees, as well as other campus organizations, consisted in part of industrious Delta Sigs.

Spring Rush with all its excitement was successful, showing a record number of pledges and a renewed spirit of fresh interest. A banquet at the Charcoal Pit and our traditional pledge formal—The Black and White—were festive occasions honoring our new brothers. The year ended successfully with our annual beach weekend and Sailor's Bail.

Delta Kappa Chapter

1959-1960 was another great year for the Delts with our football team placing second in the school, and our dances and cabin parties nowhere equaled. Annual fall and winter social events such as our "Roaring Twenties" party and the more sedate Christmas Dance made the social season an intoxicating success. Returning from the crucial exam period, all were anxious to put forth the supreme effort during rush which was once again rewarded with as fine a pledge class as may be seen anywhere. Spring came, and the "Belated New Year's Party," which is now an institution in our chapter, came with it, as did our Queen Dance and our new and beautiful Delt Queen. The inevitable beach week-end at Myrtle Beach brought reminders of Brother Odom's motor-oil suntan lotion. Our thanks go to the TV Managers who saw that Teenage Bandstand did not interfere with Huckleberry Hound, and therefore, internal strife was handily avoided. Brothers Doak and Bernhardt set a new record, watching the "late-flick" for somewhere between sixty-eight and seventy consecutive nights. Our homecoming display, a giant Buddha, drew many onlookers, and several visitors were startled as the Buddha actually spoke—the voice somewhat like that of Jim Vincent, our shotputting brother. Without bothering to mention the many positions the Delt's held in every type of extra-curricular activity, the brothers of Delta Tau Delta, under the leadership of President Ed Greene, could easily say they had enjoyed another "better than ever" year.

KA again distinguished itself on campus as it exhibited libations to Bacchus in many ways. All in all, this year proved to be the best in a long time. KA's academic standing reached an all-time high in the history of Alpha Phi chapter. To the "old timers" this year seemed reminiscent of the old days.

Our "Saturday heroes" are not without mention in the person of All-America Mike McGee who this year received the Outland Award for the most outstanding interior lineman in the United States. We also saw that a majority of the first "eleven" were brothers of Kappa Alpha.

This year also meant the birth of the new Durham Holiday Inn. With this came a hoard of "Debs" as guests of the KA's. Our thanks and best wishes go to the new proprietor. In Chapel Hill, the "Tams" entertained a joint party between the Betas and the KA's.

Rush brought an outstanding pledge class that will never forget the "keg" at the KA House at Carolina on the night of "big fire."

This year the KA's traveled a little further for Old South—Richmond played host to the North Carolina chapters in fine style.

Spring brought the usual number of sun worshippers and a turbulent migration to Lauderdale.

A great class leaves but the new one remains to maintain KA traditions and instill new ones in the hearts of Massa Robert's boys.

Eta Prime Chapter

The brothers of Kappa Sigma were not back at school long before they were following the Blue Devils down to South Carolina for the season opener. With cabin parties, open houses and the Saturday afternoon football games, Kappa Sigma enjoyed a successful fall semester. A highlight of the social season was the Kappa Sigma "Black and White" weekend. Patricia Anne Hart was crowned Kappa Sigma Dream Girl at the formal dance honoring the Dream Girl candidates. Throughout the year, Kappa Sigma was host to children from the Edgemont Community Center at several functions.

Sports activity was a byword of Kappa Sigma during the year with participation in varsity football, basketball, baseball, lacrosse, wrestling and golf, in addition to a very successful year in intramural sports competition.

The year was marked by several outstanding events including getting off social probation after many semesters, and redecorating our chapter room and card room, the afternoon gym rat games, the occasional "hall ball," the third floor Monte Carlo, and the exultation as our basketball team headed for the top.

April brought the return to the roof for the sun worshippers, the nights at Pitch and Putt, the beach weekends, the treks across the Eno, and the lazy afternoons at Tykey's. The Joe College capers, the float, the annual Kappa Sigma Conclave, spring sports and parties were features of a great spring semester.

With June and finals, with the graduation of many brothers, and with great expectations, Kappa Sigma ended another successful year.

With the arrival of early fall, the Lambda Chi's returned to campus from summer hangouts which extended to Austria, Cuba and Bermuda. Football weekends and the antics of Blue Devil Lee soon provided the brothers with weekend entertainment.

For the second consecutive year the fraternity captured first place in the Fraternity-Sorority Sing, employing the theme, "Americans Abroad." The Russian "Song of Youth" echoed around campus for several weeks, and a Victory Hop with the Tri-Delts celebrated our win.

Lambda Chi was well-represented in various campus activities such as the Chronicle and Hoof 'n Horn. Those who excelled were initiated into Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Beta Kappa, and Tau Beta Pi.

"Swinging" cabin parties by Bass helped make the fall semester a social success. Outstanding among these was a Go to H— party. Toward the end of the semester, the Theta's joined the fraternity at Edgemont Community Center and socialized afterward at the section. The Pi Phi's also carolled with us at the VA hospital.

Second semester brought rush, and the fraternity pledged another group of fine men.

The brothers managed to study a little in their spare time first semester with the result that the fraternity made the biggest scholastic improvement on campus.

Highlighting the spring social calendar were the Foo Foo Island party, the Zombie Jamboree, the Luau Island party with roast pig and, of course, the beach weekend.

In retrospect, the Lambda Chis experienced another year of good fun, fellowship, and achievement.

A summer was past; we had returned to the "City of Exciting Stores and Proper Shoppers," and almost before you could raise an umbrella we had re-embarked on the Good Ship Phi.

As the first semester got under way, Jerry Jibilian took the helm, and Steve Vermillion guided our various social activities using the Doug Clark Combo. Campus leaders were legion: Snoopy Reese and Walz led the YMCA in the paths of righteousness; McDonald, McCutchen, and Adams headed their respective classes; Hurt and Labone captained athletic teams. The biggest news, however, was the brace of trophies we received from General Headquarters—one for being the best all-around Phi Delt chapter and the other for outstanding scholarship improvement.

The spring semester brought more new developments: Dave Gerdel took over as President . . . rush brought another outstanding pledge class into the fold . . . Block planned our social destinies . . . Bostock recruited a transfer . . . a new TV set . . . Brooks and Burr couldn't sell their chair, so decided to stay for another semester . . . B. J. and Fannie became a steady twosome . . . Pabst developed throat trouble . . . Redfox won his wings . . . McCannon found a new home . . . Holt's disciples deserted him . . . Homer Sheffield led cheers.

With parties, beach weekends, Joe College, the Spring Formal, exams, diplomas, goodbyes, and memories, this voyage drew to a successful close. With the finest available crew members replacing the graduates, we look forward to greater heights in the years to come.

It is almost impossible in this short space to brag about all the swinging parties thrown by Phi Psi since last year, mainly because nobody has enough energy to write about them. With the return of the monsoon season in September came the return of the brethren. After surviving the imposing sight of the Gothic Towers shining in the night sky, the brothers plunged into the usual round of cabin parties and dances.

Our sadistic social chairman planned a spring social calender which would stagger J. C. (Julius Caesar) and his crew. The People's Party gave way to the Oden Orgy, and the formal dance was incorporated into a beach weekend at Wrightsville; cabin and gate parties and various other forms of recreation rounded out the year.

A few of the brothers also tried to study, and our representation in honoraries lent support to this contention, although we weren't able to get the studying brothers out of their rooms long enough to find out who is in Phi Beta. The fraternity is well represented in Hoof 'n' Horn, the Chronicle, band and glee club, and various service organizations. The BMOG department has given much talent to MSGA and other political organizations.

Intramurals, float-building, and varsity sports served to exhaust those brothers who managed to survive the social calendar. All in all, another good year, with hopes of more to come.

Much aware of the futility of endeavoring to chronicle within this scanty space the rich recollections of a memorable Phi Kap year, and hardly needing the written word to stimulate reminiscences of Shady Grove and the horde of tone-deaf aborigines howling out the sounds, of the Cwusher cwashing the intramural line, of the Russians and zdravitsi and hero medals and Murk's summit sessions with Kagor's vodka, of Bloody Mary in the Sing, of Ketner heading ODK and Montezuma Hoyle top man at Quantico, of Harkey and Hillard learning to read, of limbo and hockey in the chapter room and Percy floating back every weekend, of Andrews and his offers from the Christian Science Monitor, of Beat Pete's wry pontifications and the Bear and Judge figurin' it out, of Swingin' Buddy King, delight of the Coed Ball, of the leadership school at Christmas, of Black and Gold at the Country Inn with Dee Crary queen, of Cecil finally pledging after shaking up ADPi, of the Phi Betes and inquisitor Hight and Hansen with red flowers, of McCaughan and his ceaseless affirmations of the fraternity's indigence, of the winter Olympics on Funnybook's nose, of Bose and Johnny M. hauling in trophies, of B-ball with the Lambda and the beach in the spring, of Dan Brown smiling through an exam the morning after he was married (he aced it!), and above all, of Turner's unfaltering leadership, the brothers of Phi Kappa Sigma therefore donate this space to charity.

The "untouchables" of Pi Kappa Alpha zoomed back to Dear Ole Duke in fine "Spirits." The first week of school heard grunts from Fuzzy's Bar-Bell Club as he tried to whip B. W. and Kaufman in shape for the beach. President Bill Carswell found another use for his gavel when the Monk got rowdy and started swinging from the chandelier. The Savage watched over the religious affairs of the fraternity, offering a weekly sermon on the evils of alcohol. Hardymon, last of the big-time mechanics, kept the motor squad of PiKa running. Suggs headed the requiem services for the Pooch. Mr. Fouse (of Shoe 'n Slipper fame) gave a rock to our dream girl, Carolyn Criswell, and even Larry Williams finally walked into a snowstorm. Haag and Bourn helped the maid to keep the dust off the bridge tables, while Jack Peacock occasionally used our Steinway. Dangerous Don McRae got Deacon Aycock (of CHANTICLEER fame) to let us use his cabin for an ill-fated party. We didn't have much rain after that—it was even dry for Snow Ball. So we offered sacrifices to the Great White Rain God and prayed for a break in the drought.

As the 1959-60 school year drew to a close, Pi Kappa Alpha looked back on a year filled with hard work and hard play, on a year filled with much laughter and even some tears. It was a year of unforgettable friendships. And come June, the seniors stepped outside the wicket doors for the last time.

For the Pi Kappa Phi Brotherhood, Fall Semester '59 cracked itself open with a rash of pinnings, a round of section parties, and a rush of scholastic fervor. As the semester unfolded, a memorable Shoe 'n' Slipper slipped into obscurity before Homecoming . . . "Atomize Army" and a spirited effort in the Interfraternity Sing. The high point of our social schedule came with the crowning of Martha Drummond at the November Rose Ball in Raleigh. The Football Season came and went with patio Hamburger-Frys, Bill III's "five minute" sport-specials, and the Intramural team being edged out in the finals. Winter precluded the "Eno River Symposiums" as the brothers sought repose in "Huckleberry Hound," "Maverick," and at the bridge-table. The Twelfth Month finale included the Christmas Orphan's Party, a Caroling Party, E. V.'s Heart-break Club, and the traditional Cabin Party. And then exams and a chapter average in the upper fourth of campus fraternities.

"Rush" in the snow paced off the new semester, featuring a "Johnny Dion" enthusiasm and a pledge class unprecedented in potential. The annual Beaux-Arts Costume Ball, Open-Houses on Sundays, and all-day-Cabin Parties spiced the warm season. The Lauderdale Spring exodus, Joe College and its serenades, the rededication of Wannamaker "Beach," and finally, Myrtle itself were highlights to remember. Lastly, initiation . . . new brothers; commencement . . . the loss of the old, and the end of a never-to-be-forgotten year.

In 1959-60 SAE again experienced a banner year and all that sort of trivial trash. This was the year that we watched Murray's magic offense roll over hapless opponents . . . Following the leadership of president Tom Hutchinson first semester, and Lynn Copeland second semester, the Sigs have ended another successful year.

Socially starting the year off early, one could find Sigs cooking out in front of the section on Saturday afternoons. On Saturday evenings we enjoyed cabin parties and dances with the music provided by excellent combos. Later in the year the whole chapter honored our Sweetheart, Miss Paula Straw, with a banquet at Harvey's. In the spring we ended our social season with the annual Sweetheart Ball, where Miss Faye Glasgow was crowned Sweetheart for 1960-61.

Athletically, after winning the championship the last three years and retiring the High Point Trophy, the Sigs are now seeking to win their second trophy, thereby acquiring twins. In football, the "A" team ended in a two way tie for the "C" championship with the SAE's. In division three, the Big "B" team captured second place with only one forfeit to mar their record. In basketball, the Sigs had two league championships.

Sigma Chi's are enrolled in many difficult courses from Engineering to Pre-med. However, many find time to participate in extra-curricular activities. We have brothers in football, soccer, rifle, baseball, debate, and track teams; others in Student Union, Freshman Advisory Council, Pep Board, IFC, and many other student activities. We feel that brothers being in these activities are a valuable contribution to the fraternity.

Scholastically the Chapter worked toward retaining the National Fraternity improvement trophy which was won by us last year.

"Unbelievable . . . able . . . able." This word was heard time and again by Sigma Nu as one event of the year superceded another.

By tradition the brothers held off the judges while the finishing touches were placed on the Homecoming display that was to win first prize. We had a great intramural football season, judged not by the scores of the games, but by the "evaluation," at the Blue Light afterwards. The Junior Class held its championship in football and was rewarded with "refreshments" by the losing classes. Margaret Smith was crowned Queen of the White Rose Formal, our annual Christmas dance. The "Blue Goose Transcontinental Service" was organized by Daisy, Pebo, John, and Cal. Their specialty was "Durham to Los Angeles and back in five days."

Then the new semester started and brought with it a fine pledge class. Next came the news that left most of us in a state of shock; "Sigma Nu, No. 1 scholastic average on campus." Unbelievable . . . able . . . able. Just as unbelievable was Zoubek and his "Land Lubber" buddies chartering the . . . and sailing to the Bahamas spring vacation. It's a shame they can't remember more about the trip. There were many congratulations and best wishes as John and Jay, two of the married brothers, made it known that there were some "Little Sigma Nu's" on the way.

The Beach weekend at Myrtle Beach put the cap on 1959-1960. Was it a great year? It was unbelievable . . . able . . . able.

North Carolina Gamma Chapter

The brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon returned in September to begin their fifty-first year on the Duke campus. Dick Page, returning from his summer cruise with strange tales of the sea, took the reins as president—hopes were high for the new year.

We can look back over the year and recall the football games, the cabin parties, evenings spent in the Rathskeller, Shoe 'n' Slipper weekend, and the strange quietness of the dorms on Sunday afternoon. The hour and final exams, which we don't talk about much for fear of realizing their importance, have not been forgotten.

Rush came in February and the heart of Sigma Phi Epsilon expanded. Growth is a sign of potential strength; and as pledges are the only apparent source of growth, new men started the path to brotherhood in "the fraternity with a heart." Long to be remembered by pledges and actives were the social events of the spring and the Sig Ep ball, Joe College Weekend, and the festivities of Charlie's Day.

June ends nothing as far as the brotherhood is concerned. The words "see you around the quad" follow the graduating seniors as they leave. Many we'll never see again, but none of them will be forgotten by those left behind.

We learn from the past, for already older and wiser heads are bending over next year's plans.

During Tau Epsilon Phi's Golden Anniversary year, our chapter has lived up to the goals and ideals of our fraternity. TEP at Duke continued to rank high in scholastics. While we regard scholastic excellence of prime importance, it is by no means the only area of TEP proficiency.

This year we have continued in expanding our social program. The climax to the fall semester's social whirl was a gala Golden Anniversary Dinner-Dance at the Country Inn. Many national officers of the fraternity were guests for the affair. Winter saw the brothers participating in many cabin and section parties. The snows of Spring Semester did not seem to dampen the spirit of the fraternity, as the social functions continued. There was an excellent opportunity to follow the Blue Devil basketball team around the country in pursuit of championship trophies. The plans for the beach weekend and the increased activity on the golf course let it be known to all that Spring was here, despite ten inches of snow.

The TEP's participated in a great number of extra-curricular activities encompassing all areas of campus life. Top posts were held in dramatic, publication, engineering, and religious activities, to mention but a few of the areas of active interest. Interest was also demonstrated in campus politics, in holding class offices, and in party positions. This has been a wonderful year for Tau Epsilon Phi.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

The Interfraternity Council, composed of men from the nineteen fraternities on campus, is a student governing body for the fraternities. Its purpose is to promote an awareness of the serious responsibilities which are part of fraternity life. The Interfraternity-Sorority Sing began this year's activities and was followed by rush, which was extended to two weeks. Greek Week was well organized with a banquet, track meet, and carnival. The Interfraternity Council as a governing body exercised legislative, executive, and judicial powers and served as a coordinating body for the fraternities.

Faced with a grueling schedule, including rugged intersectional competition such as Georgia Tech, Ohio State, Pittsburgh, and Army, the Blue Devils were able to salvage four victories and lost three heartbreakers in the ten game 1959 campaign.

The Blue Devils first showed a spark of great potential in the season's second game when they stormed to two fourth period touchdowns to take a 13-7 lead over Ohio State. But the ill-fated Dukes had to settle for a 14-13 loss as the Buckeyes rolled to another score in the final minutes of the game. Again Duke rose to greatness when the tremendous line play of Mike McGee paced the team to a 10-7 upset over Georgia Tech. McGee was awarded AP Lineman of the Week honors for the performance. And then the Devils stole honors from Wake Forest's feared aerial offense by putting on their own aerial show which netted three TD passes including 50 and 55 yard heaves.

In addition to his Lineman of the Week honors and the Outland Award, McGee was also named to Look's All-America team and was selected as Player of the Year in the ACC. The ACC Sports Writers Association named McGee and sophomore halfback Joel Arrington to the All-ACC 1st team, and Dwight Bumgarner and Jim Gardner were named on the 2nd team.

DUKE vs. SOUTH CAROLINA

South Carolina used a crushing ground game, a staunch defense, and a flashy 55-yard scoring play to take a 12-7 win from the Blue Devils in the season opener at Columbia.

The Gamecocks took the lead late in the opening stanza after blocking Dean Wright's attempted quick kick on the Duke 10-yard stripe. Halfback Ken Norton raced around end for the final 7 yards.

Duke evened the score on the first play of the second period when Don Altman tossed to Claude Moorman on a 58-yard scoring play. Art Browning kicked the extra to put the Devils ahead 7-6. Twice in the remaining minutes of the first half the Duke forward wall rose to strike down the Gamecocks inside the Duke 5-yard line.

In the final stanza after a Duke drive stalled on the USC 8, the Gamecocks moved to the 45 in 11 plays. Then Norton swept his left end on a reverse, picked up blocking, and streaked down the sidelines for the winning score.

Leading ground gainer for the Devils was Dan Lee who picked up 31 of Duke's 82 yards rushing. The Devils added 72 via the air lanes while South Carolina rolled to 249 yards rushing and 13 yards passing.

Tee Moorman (85) throttles a Carolina sweep play with a bear-hug tackle near the sidelines.

George Harris (18) makes a key block as Bunny Bell (25) skirts right end for yardage in the final period.

DUKE vs. OHIO STATE

A 22-yard scoring aerial with less than two minutes remaining enabled Ohio State to edge the Blue Devils 14-13 before 82,834 fans in Columbus.

The only score of the first half came after the opening kickoff when Ohio State drove 58 yards in 8 plays.

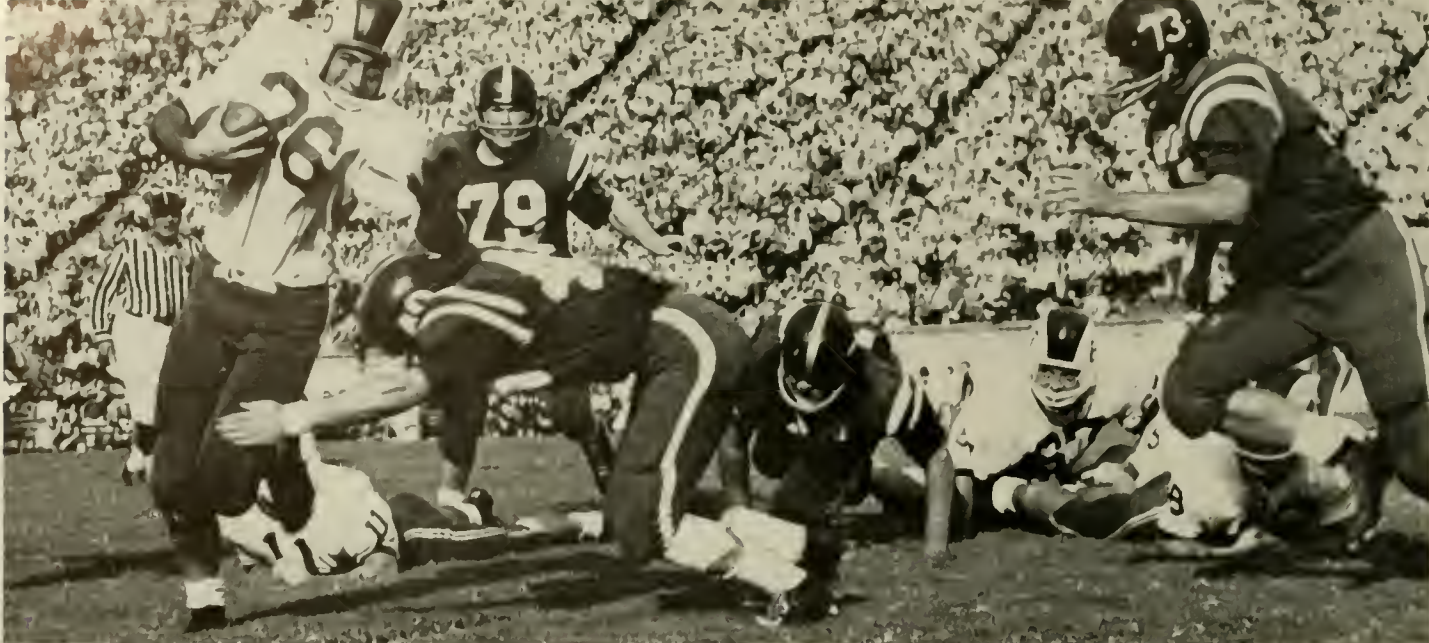

Sophomore Jack Wilson led the Devils back into contention in the second half picking up 56 yards in a 73-yard TD drive. Wilson cracked over from the 3 for the six-pointer to cut the Buckeye lead to 7-6.

Midway in the final period Art Browning's field goal attempt from the 17 was blocked, but Bob Fetsko recovered for the Devils on the Buckeye 10-yard line. Three plays later Jerry McGee smashed over from the one and Browning added the PAT to put Duke ahead 13-7.

Then the Buckeyes came back all the way in the air with the final strike coming from 22 yards out. The PAT attempt split the uprights to give Ohio State the 14-13 edge.

Jack Wilson (41) breaks loose for 26 yards to start Duke's first touchdown drive.

Joel Arrington (26) fights for a small chunk of his 101 total yards against the Rice Owls. Grounded Blue Devils are Jerry McGee (11) and Ron Bostian (67).

DUKE VS. RICE

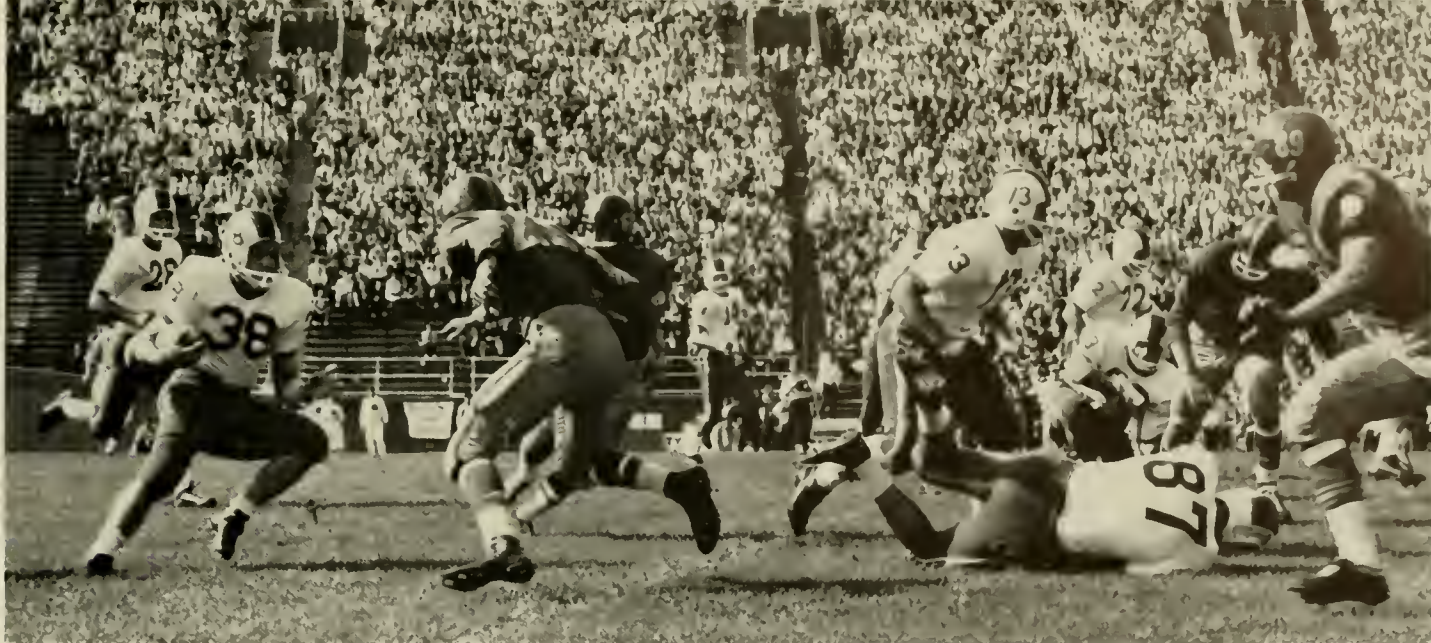

Alert defensive play and the flashy running of Joel Arrington led Duke to a 24-7 win over Rice in Duke Stadium.

Two Rice fumbles picked off by the Blue Devils deep in the Owl's territory set up Duke's two first half TD's. Dan Lee scooped up the first bobble on the 15-yard line and three plays later he scampered into the end zone from the 11. Jack Bush booted his first of three consecutive PAT's. A few plays later Jim Gardner fell on another loose ball on the Owl's 29. Arrington made the tally from the two.

After Rice came back in the second half to make the score 14-7, Bunny Bell climaxed a 66-yard drive with a scoring plunge from the one. Late in the game, Bush added the final 3 points with a field goal from the one.

Owl end Charles Pollard (85) dives for teammate Alvin Hartman's (25) fumble as Jerry McGee (11), Art Browning (63), Dan Lee (48), Jim Gardner (75), Mike McGee (68), and Dwight Bumgarner (84) cover the play for the Dukes.

Fullback Bob Crummie (38) employs some fancy footwork in an effort to elude two Pitt pursuers. Blue Devils in the play are Joel Arrington (26), Don Altman (14), Dave Bosson (73), Jim Swofford (72), Mike McGee (68), and Bob Spada (87).

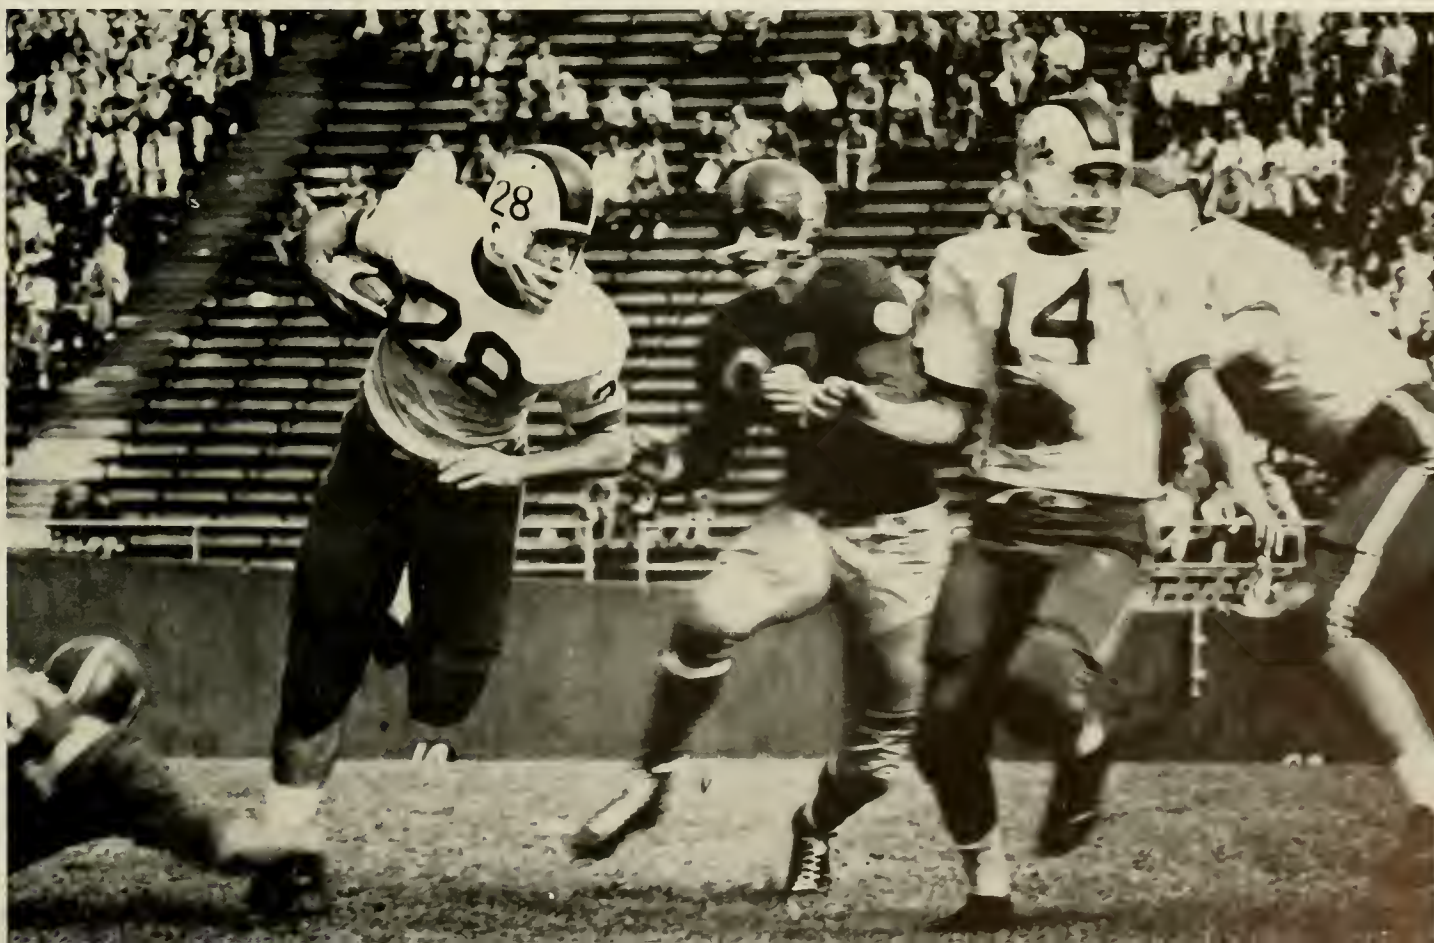

The Pitt Panthers completely throttled Duke's offense as they took an easy 12-0 win in Pitt Stadium. Duke was held to 5 first downs, 50 yards rushing, and 53 yards passing by the rugged Pitt defense.

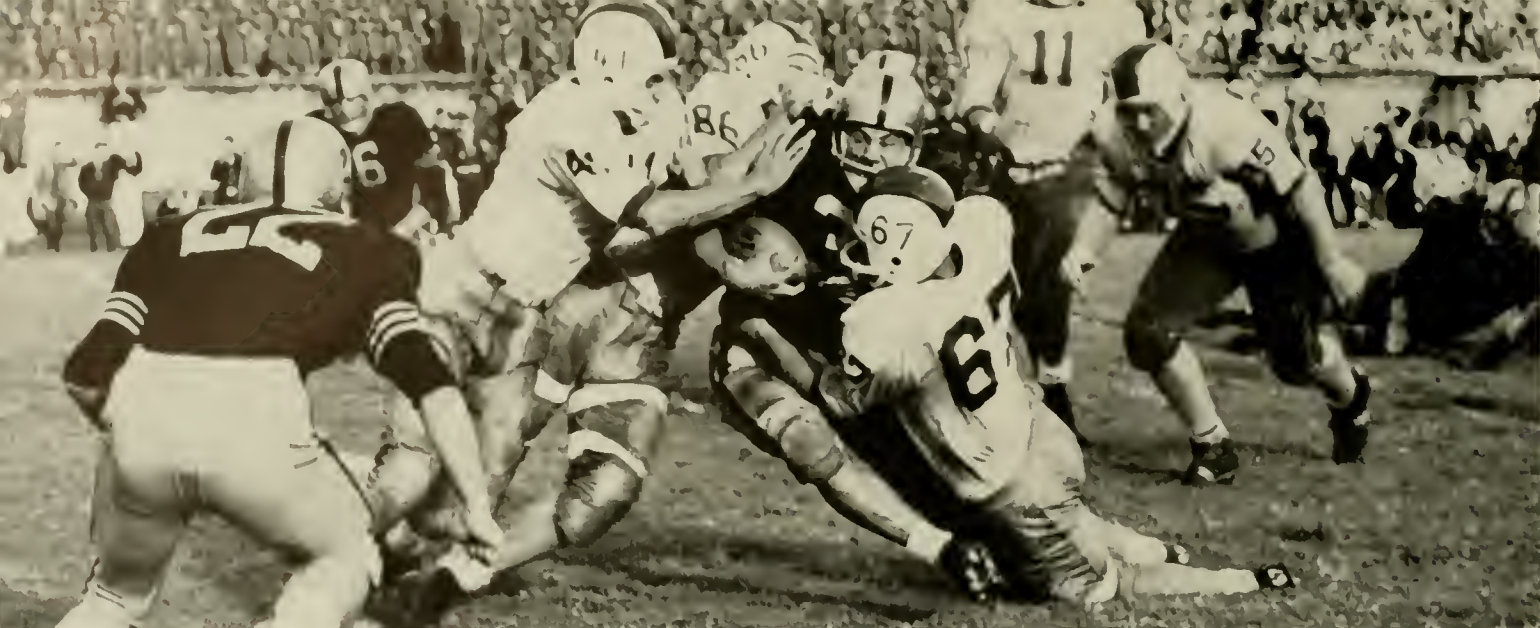

Following the opening kickoff Pitt rolled 65 yards in ten plays to take an early lead. The Blue Devils had three big breaks in the second period—Joel Arrington recovered a fumble on the Pitt 24, Dan Gelbert blocked a punt on the Panthers' 46, and Jack Wilson intercepted a pass on the Pitt 46—but they were unable to move toward payday.

The final score came early in the last period when Ivan Tonic rifled a 56-yard TD strike to Mike Ditka. The Devils then made a final effort through the air with Don Altman hitting Dwight Bumgarner twice, but they could get no closer than the Panthers' 27.

DUKE VS. PITTSBURGH

Dean Wright (28) shakes an ankle hold as Don Altman (14) leads the charge downfield.

Jack Wilson (41), Bob Fetsko (86), and Ron Bostian drive Army fullback to the ground while Jerry McGee (11) and Jim Gardner (75) pursue.

DUKE vs. ARMY

Army quarterback Joe Caldwell filled the air with 203 yards worth of passes to lead the Cadets to a 21-6 win over the Blue Devils at Duke Stadium.

Army threatened to make a rout of the Devils' homecoming when they marched 66 yards to a score the first time they got possession of the ball. Three first half drives moved Duke as close as the Army 30, 33, and 34, but each time the Cadet defenders staved off further penetration to protect their 7-0 lead.

In the third period the Cadets, again spearheaded by Caldwell's pitching arm, drove 52 yards to another score, to take a 14-0 lead. But Duke came right back, with Jack Wilson and Bob Crummie leading the way, to move 64 yards in 11 plays. Crummie cracked across from the two for the six-pointer. On a try for a two-point extra, Dean Wright was stopped on the one after hauling in a Don Altman aerial.

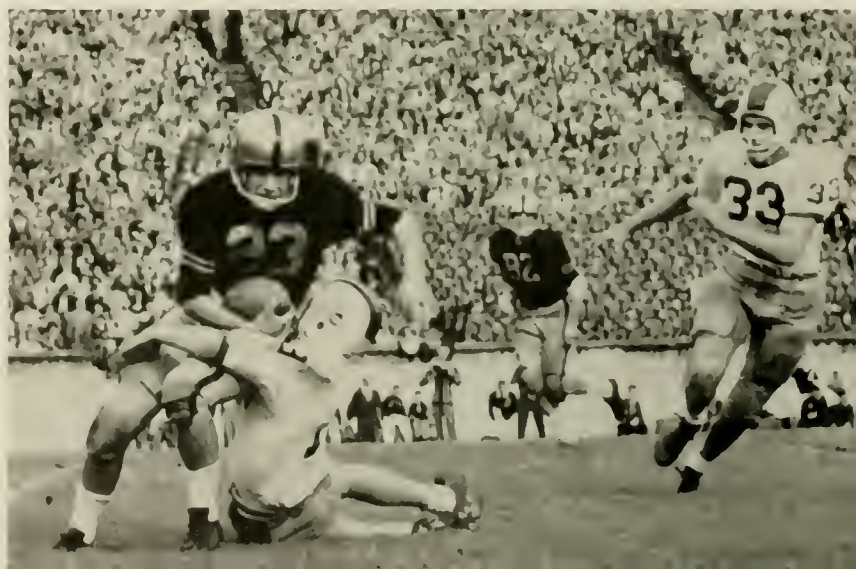

With time running out the Devils went to the air in desperation. George Harris fired to Dwight Bungarner, but the ball was shaken loose on a jarring tackle and a Cadet defender latched onto the ball and raced to the Duke 10. On the third play the Cadets cracked across for the final tally and added their third consecutive conversion.

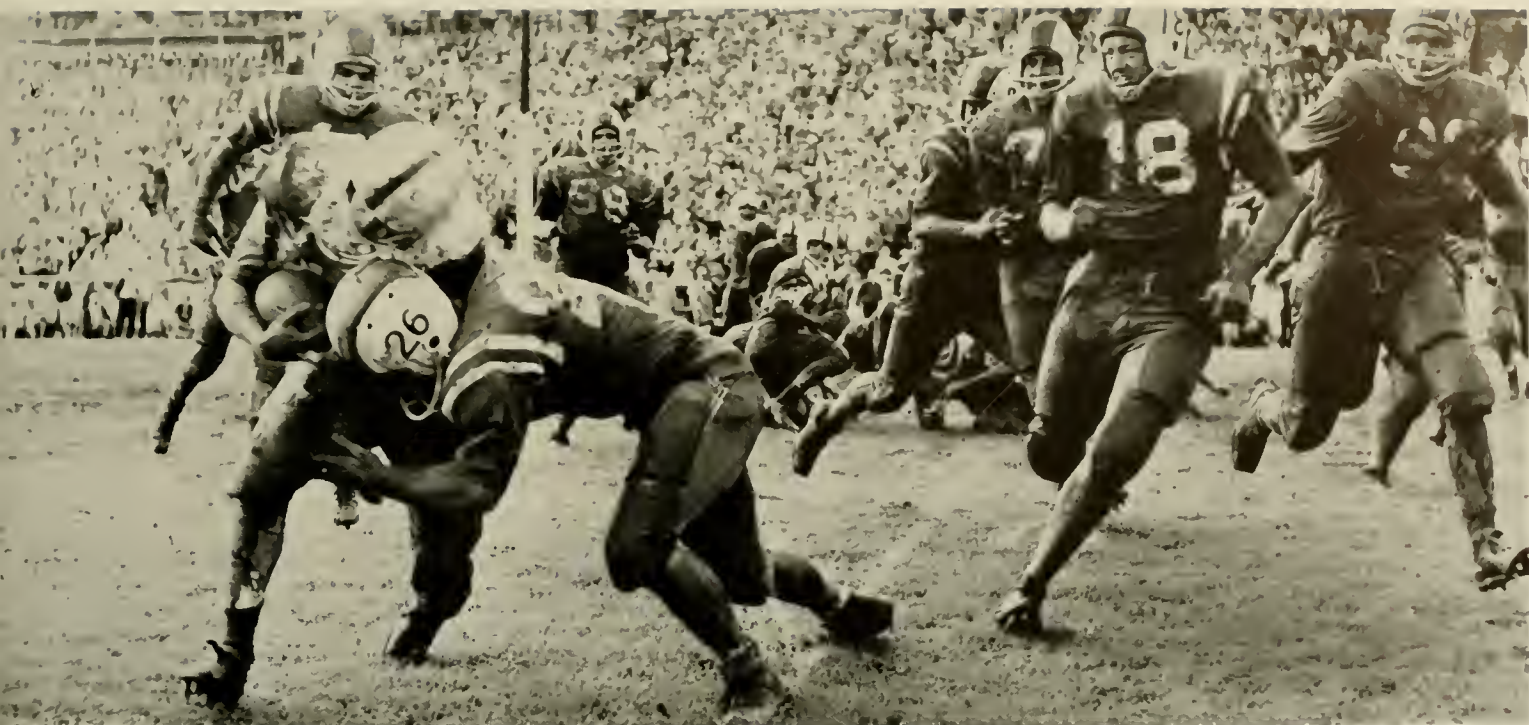

Duke rolled to 164 yards rushing with Crummie and Wilson accounting for 56 and 53 respectively. But this was not enough to offset Caldwell's 15 pass completions and All-American end Bill Carpenter's 9 receptions for the West Pointers.

Mike McGee hauls down Army's Glen Adams

John Tinnell (33) rushes in to help as George Harris (18) hangs on to West Point halfback Tom Culver.

Joel Arrington (26) makes a smashing tackle in a sea of mud at Riddick Stadium. Closing in on the play are Mike McGee (68), George Harris (18), and Art Browning (63).

DUKE vs. N. C. STATE

A spectacular second period exhibition by Jack Wilson and the accurate toe of Art Browning sparked Duke to a muddy 17-15 victory over N. C. State at Raleigh.

The Wolfpack broke into the scoring column first with a 55-yard drive in the opening stanza. The final two yards came on a quarterback sneak and the conversion made it 7-0.

In the second period the running of George Harris paced the Blue Devils on a 73-yard march. Wilson skirted the left side for the final 10 yards. Browning added the extra. Only a few plays later Wilson snatched a Wolfpack pass and raced 60 yards down the right sideline to put the Devils ahead. Browning's PAT made the score 17-7.

State closed the gap to 17-15 in the final quarter with a 39-yard, 13-play drive and a pass completion for the two-pointer. Then in a thrilling finish the Wolfpack drove 45 yards in the final 45 seconds only to miss a field goal attempt from the Duke 26.

The umbrellas are back up as Steve Kusmus (83), Bunny Bell (25), and George Harris (18), rush in to aid Jerry McGee (11) in making the tackle.

DUKE VS. TECH

An 83-yard touchdown sprint by Joel Arrington, the magic toe of Art Browning, and earth-shaking defensive play by the Duke line led by All-American Mike McGee enabled Duke to take a startling 10-7 win over highly-favored Georgia Tech in Atlanta.

Arrington's burst came in the opening quarter on the first play after Duke had taken a punt on their own 17. Arrington crashed over right guard, outstepped the Tech secondary, and streaked down the sideline to paydirt.

Tech's only score came on a 25-yard sweep following a fumble recovery on the Duke 25 early in the second half.

Browning kicked his game winning field goal with about 7 minutes to play. Booted from the 28, it was the longest field goal in Duke history.

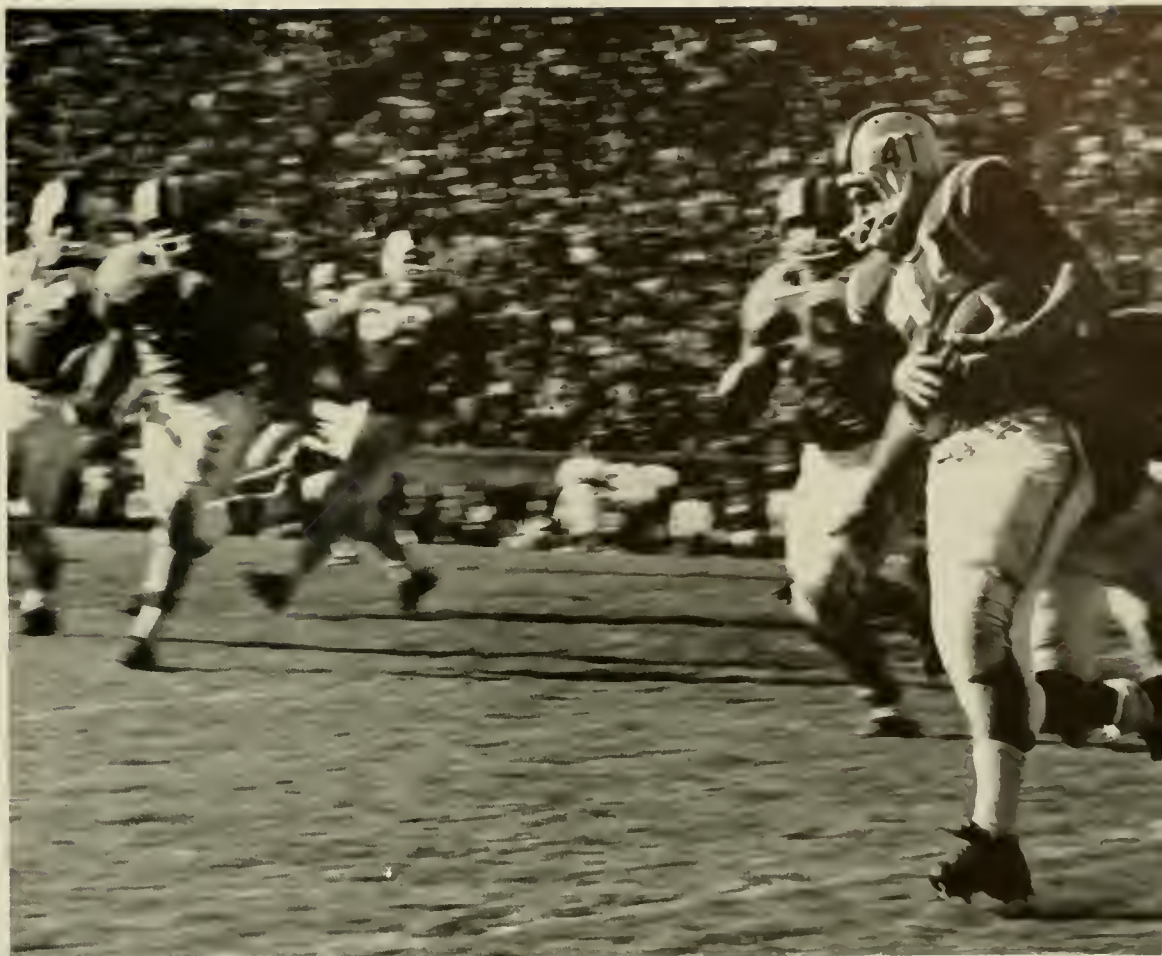

All-Conference halfback Joel Arrington shakes the last Tech defender as he streaks 83 yards for a TD in the first quarter.

Art Browning's game winning 18-yard field goal soars toward the goalposts as the scoreboard shows the score knotted 7-7. Holding out the Yellowjackets are Jack Wilson (41), Joe Wuchina (66), Bob Fetsko (86), Jerry McGee (11), Dave Bosson (73), Dave Unser (82), and Joel Arrington (26).

Jack Wilson swings around the left end for yardage against the Tigers.

George Harris struggles to shake Clemson tackler.

DUKE vs. CLEMSON

Clemson turned back Duke drives at the 9 and 11 yard lines in the final minutes of play to take a 6-0 win from the Devils.

The lone TD of the game came on a 30-yard pass play executed with less than 30 seconds left to play in the first half. In the first quarter the Tigers had driven to the Duke 5, but the Blue Devils would yield no more. Then in the third period Clemson drove to a first down on the Duke 3, but four smashes into the stubborn Blue Devil forward wall netted only 2 yards.

The Devils first scoring threat came in the final period when the Devils moved from their own 10 to the Clemson 11. Shortly after Clemson had stopped the drive, Bunny Bell recovered a Tiger fumble on the 26. But after Dean Wright smashed to the 15, the Devils were unable to move.

DUKE vs. WAKE FOREST

Two long aerial strikes by George Harris enabled Duke to down Wake Forest 27-15 before 25,000 Dad's Day spectators at Duke Stadium.

Duke struck first in the high scoring contest when Jack Wilson hauled in a 55-yard TD toss from Harris in the first period. Wake Forest came right back with an 82-yard drive climaxed by a 12-yard scoring pass by Norman Snead to make the score 7-6 at the end of the period.

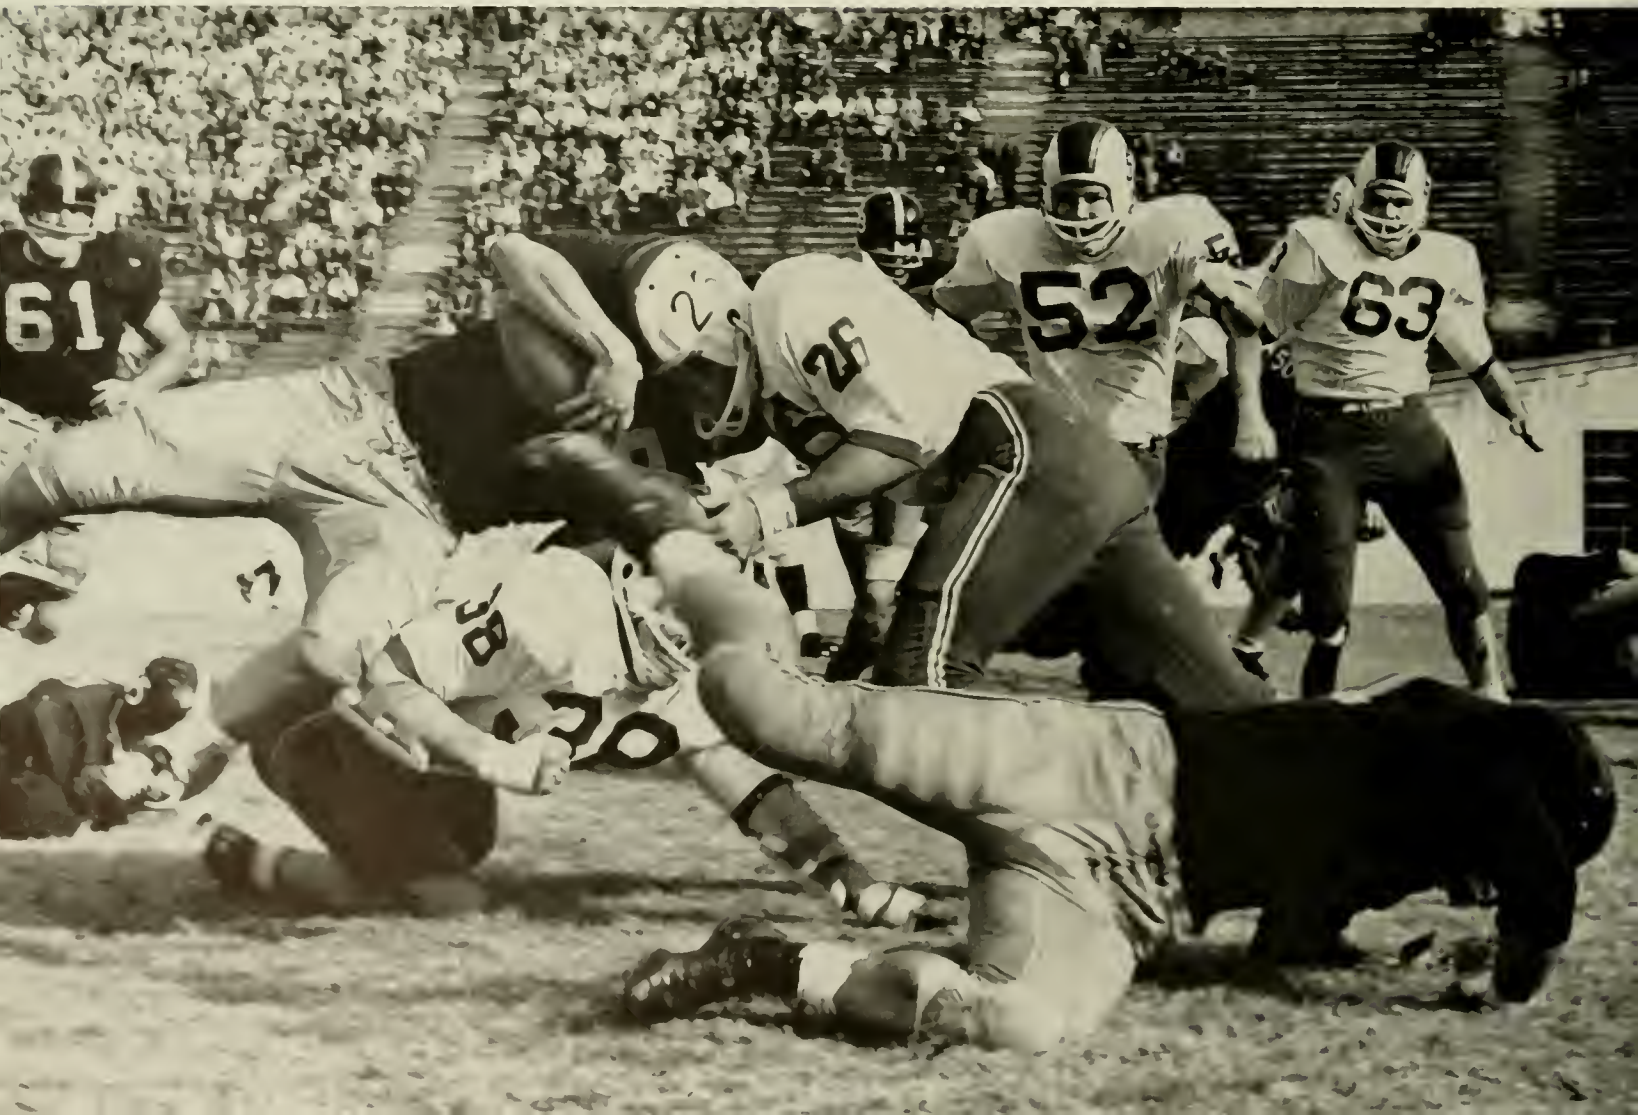

In the second quarter Dan Lee's 40-yard burst set the stage for a 5-yard TD smash by Joel Arrington. Then with only 2 seconds left in the half, Harris hit Bunny Bell with a 50-yard aerial for another six-pointer, and Art Browning added his third PAT to make the score 21-7.

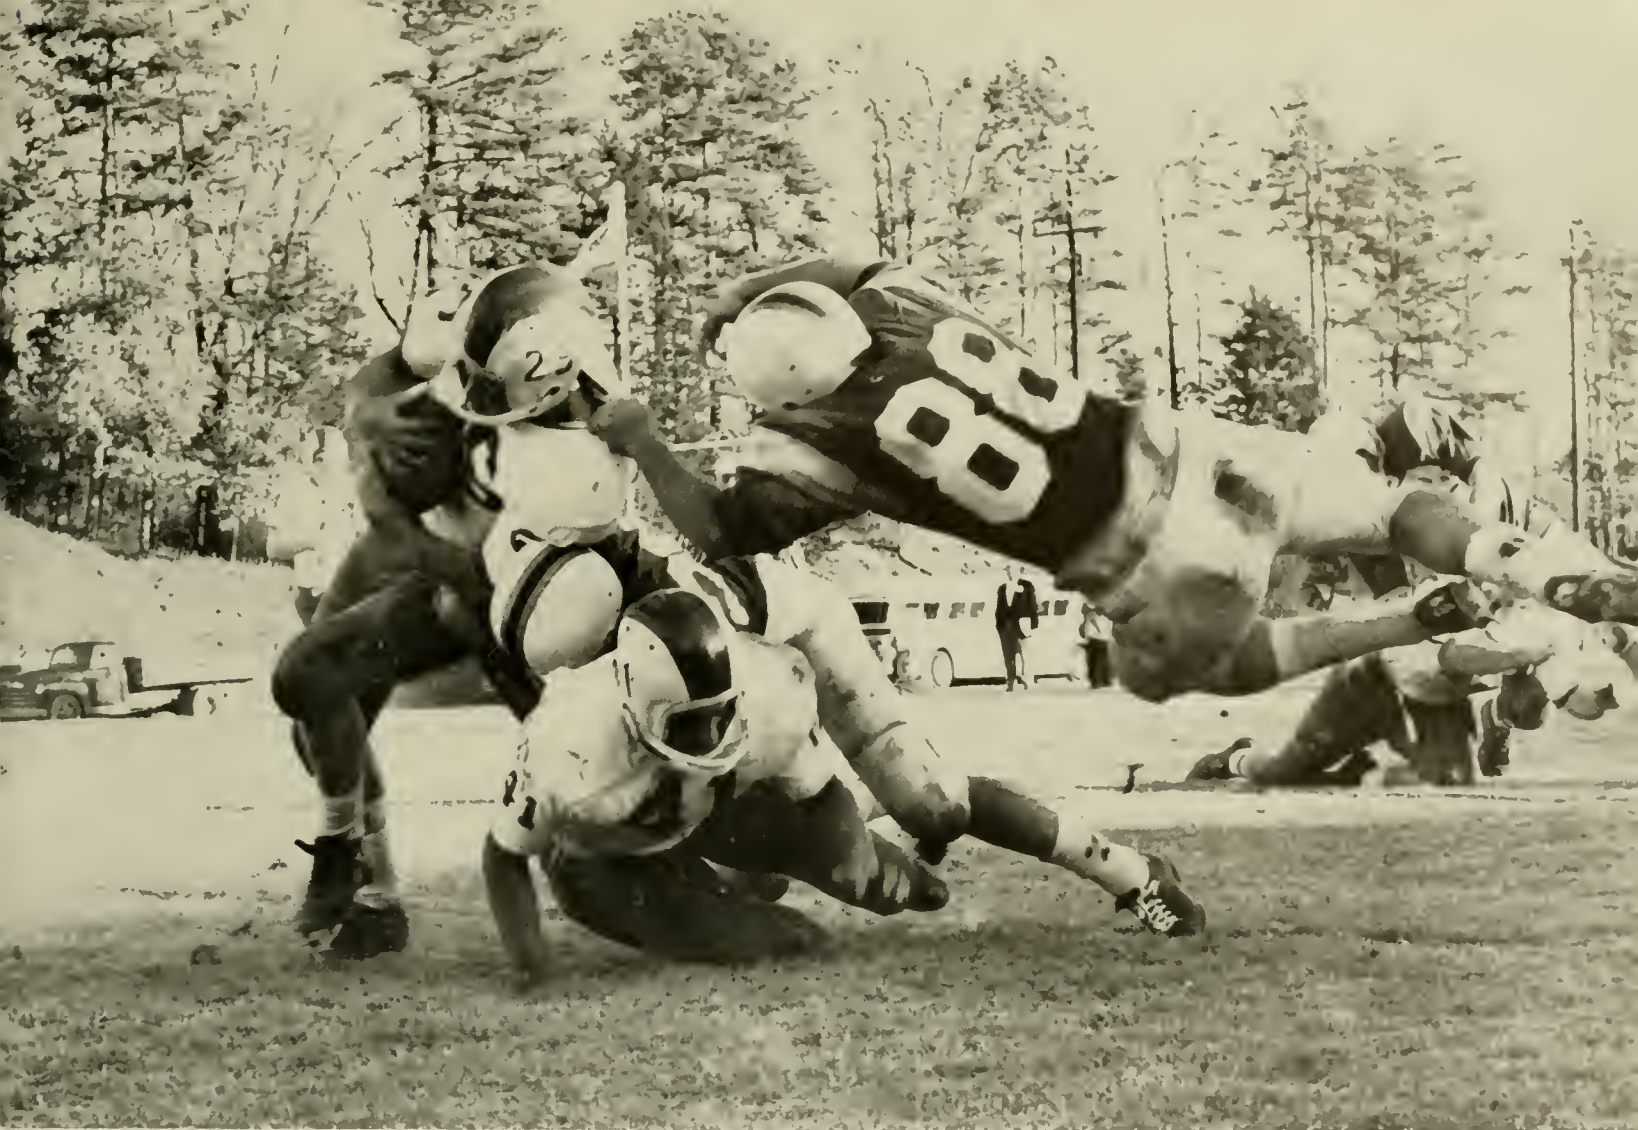

After a 22-yard field goal by the Deacons, the Blue Devils began moving again, scoring on a 13-yard running pass play from Wilson to Arrington. Four completions by Snead netted another score for Wake Forest, the final pass coming from 11 yards out.

Jack Wilson drives for a vital first down on the Wake 5-yard stripe after taking a pass from Don Altman on a fourth down fake field goal play.

Bob Crummie (38) and Joel Arrington (26) stop Wake half-back as Jan Kneib (52) and Art Browning (63) rush in.

Carolina end John Schroeder makes a one-hand snag on Bunny Bell (25) as Jack Wilson (41) tries to keep the Tar Heels out.

All-American guard Mike McGee storms through the Carolina line to partially block a Ray Farris punt.

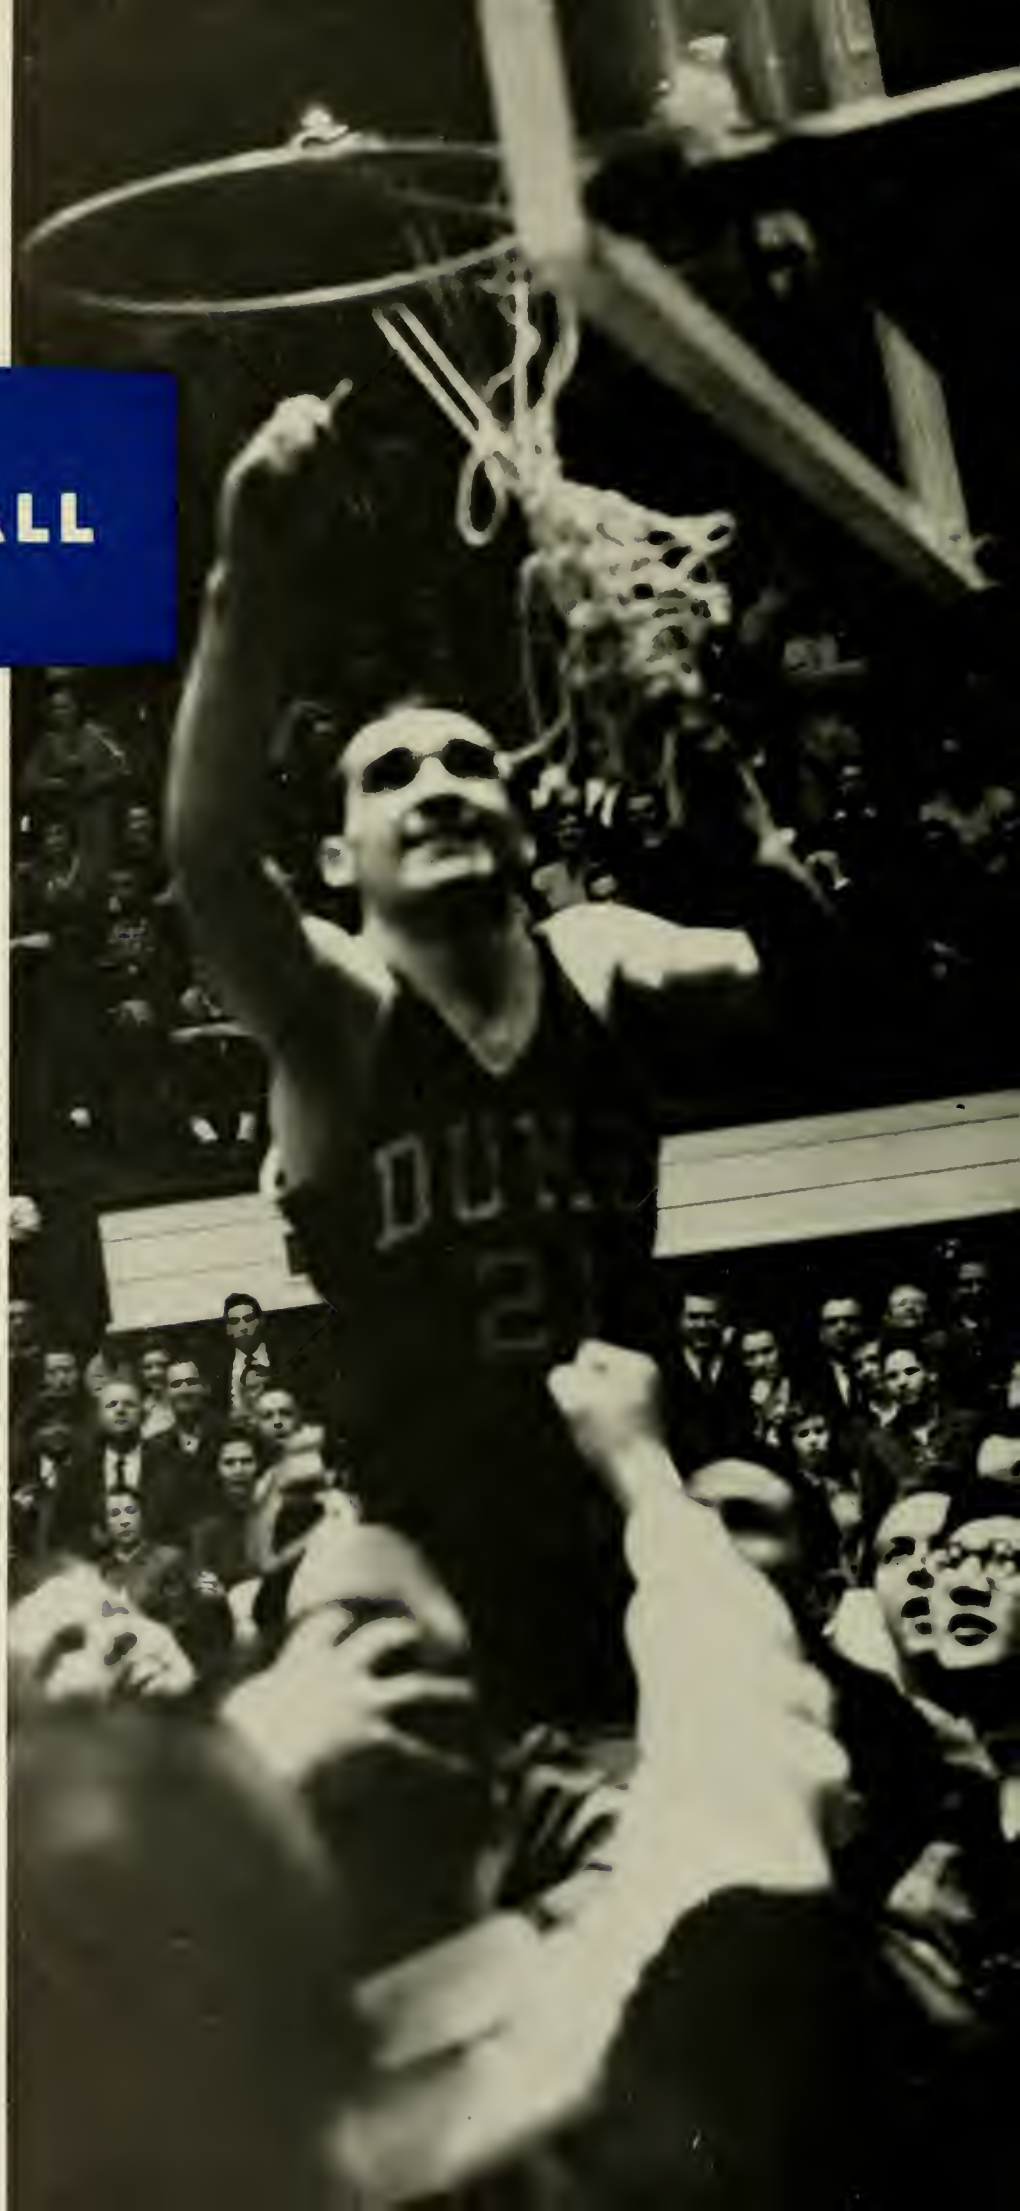

DUKE VS. CAROLINA

The University of North Carolina rolled to two touchdowns in each of the first three periods and added another in the fourth quarter to trounce the Blue Devils 50-0 in Duke Stadium.

The first time Carolina got the ball they moved 56 yards to a score in 13 plays. Then they recovered Bunny Bell's fumble on the Duke 22, and four plays later Don Klochak hit paydirt. The next time the Tarheels got possession it took only 12 plays to cover the 69 yards to the goal. Later in the second period, Carolina picked up another fumble on the Duke 35, and four plays netted another score.

To open the second half Don Klochak raced 93 yards with the kickoff for another TD. An intercepted pass and a 32-yard scamper added two more TD's to finish the scoring. Finally, late in the game George Harris passed the Devils down to the Carolina one, but another fumble ended that drive.

BASKETBALL

Duke's cagers bounced back from a 12-10 season to cop five consecutive tournament victories to take the ACC Tournament crown and two NCAA Tournament victories.

The Blue Devils gave a warning of things to come during the Christmas vacation when they breezed past Alabama and Navy to win the Birmingham Classic. Five "Iron-Dukes" went the route during the tourney: Carroll Youngkin, Doug Kistler, Johnny Frye, Howard Hurt, and Jack Mullen. Then the Duke five knocked off nationally ranked Utah in the opening round of the Dixie Classic before they ran out of steam.

After Fred Kast and John Cantwell took over starting posts during the latter part of the regular season, Coach Vic Bubus returned to his "Birmingham Five" for the ACC Tourney. Bouncing back from their 25 point loss to North Carolina the previous week, the Devils opened the tourney with an impressive 82-69 win over South Carolina. Kistler, a terror in the pivot during the last third of the season, dumped in 26 points. Youngkin took over the following night and rang up 30 points and 17 rebounds as Duke avenged its three previous losses to the Carolina Tar Heels by taking a 71-69 thriller.

The next evening the Blue Devils toppled Wake Forest 63-59 to bring Duke its first ACC title since 1946. Kistler was again the big gun as he fired in 22 points, and Howard Hurt added another 14.

After taking the ACC crown and a ranking among the top twenty teams in the nation in the AP and UP final polls, the Blue Devils moved into NCAA Tournament competition against favored Princeton, champions of the Ivy League. Duke stripped the nets for a 57.4 per cent accuracy from the floor to trounce the Tigers 84-60. Kistler hit an amazing 8 of 11 from the floor, had 20 points in the first half, and totaled 26 for the evening to pace the Devil's offense.

At the NCAA Regional Tournament in Charlotte the torrid Blue Devils continued their winning ways by staving off a desperate comeback attempt to edge St. Joseph's 58-56. Youngkin dumped in 22 and Hurt 15. But the Duke squad could get no further than the regional finals as the NYU Violets took the wind from the sails of the high-flying Devils with a 74-59 thrashing. NYU jumped to a commanding lead early in the contest, and the game Duke quintet was unable to recover.

The Blue Devils thus ended its first season under the tutorage of Vic Bubus with a 17-11 record, the ACC championship, the Birmingham Classic championship, and a spot in the finals of the NCAA Regional Tournament—and the entire starting unit will be returning for the 1960-1961 campaign.

BASEBALL

The 1960 Blue Devil baseball team was bolstered by seven returning lettermen. Beginning the season, the club played six games, beating Rollins College two out of three, and splitting two games with Florida Southern College. The Dukes took their ACC opener from North Carolina State, 4-1.

The pitching was very strong, led by Don Altman. Ron Kalish and Butch Williams also saw a lot of mound action. The catching was exceptionally strong, with mask and mitt chores handled by Art Browning and Dixon Owens. First base was ably covered by Dean McCracken, Lynn Fader and Gary Miller provided a good keystone combination. Fader patrolled at short, while Miller handled second base. At third was captain Butch Allie, while the inexperienced outfield was covered by Rex McKinley in left, "Moon" Mullen in center, and Dave Challenger in right.

Offense and pitching, along with catching were the team's strong points, while an inexperienced outfield and a sporadic defense were the Dukes' main weakness, judging from an early season standpoint.

The team was coached by "Ace" Parker and Jim Bly.

TRACK

The 1958-1959 track team went undefeated for the third time in four years. Bolstered by such stars as Linden, who amassed more points than any other man in Duke track history, the thinclads went on to finish second in the Penn Relays, win the distance medley relay in the Florida Relays, and break several records each time they went out.

The indoor season was very successful for the 1959-1960 season. Duke finished third in the ACC, with Cary Weisiger doubling as the mile and half-mile champion. Weisiger was also the National AAU Champion at 100 yards, and finished fourth in the Wannamaker Mile. Tom Bazemore won the Blue-Gray 880, and the two mile relay team of Jones, Nourse, Bazemore, and Weisiger won at the Baltimore Meet.

The outdoor season began for the thinclads at the Florida Relays. The distance medley relay team of Menaker, Bazemore, Nourse, and Weisiger set a record, while the sprint medley team finished second. In a triangular meet against Florida and Georgia Tech, the Dukes finished second. Weisiger again emerged a double winner, and Nourse won the two-mile event. The thinclads then came home and registered easy wins over South Carolina and Wake Forest.

Once again, the Dukes were exceptionally strong in the distance events, with Weisiger, Nourse, Bazemore, and Menaker leading the way. Stevenson in the high-jump, Yancey in the pole vault, Preston in the discus and shot put, and Kurtz in the javelin offered needed support.

Highlights of the season were the Penn Relays in which the distance medley relay team figured as a strong contender, along with the Olympic Team possibilities of Dave Sime, Cary Weisiger, and Tom Bazemore.

LACROSSE

The 1960 Duke lacrosse team beat Brown and lost to Colgate and Harvard. The remainder of the schedule included The University of Massachusetts, Washington and Lee, Virginia, Navy, Maryland, and the traditional game with the Great Grads.

Coach Person's stickmen were relatively inexperienced, but were bolstered by several promising sophomores. The team was led by the excellent and consistent play of Frey, Griffith, Holmes, Jacobus, Littaker, and Paulson and ably backed up by Bennett, Kulvin, and Monfried who alternated in the goal.

SOCCER

The 1959 edition of the Duke soccer team won two and lost seven. The Dukes beat Pfeiffer and N. C. State, while losing to Navy, Roanoke, Washington and Lee, Davidson, Virginia, Maryland, and North Carolina. The poor showing was due mainly to inexperience.

In spite of the won and lost record, Duke had two excellent performers in Hobie Hyde, the leading scorer, and Dick Stacey, the captain. In addition, excellent goal-tending was given by Bill Croll and Coles Hough.

Stacey and Hyde were chosen on the All-South team.

CROSS COUNTRY

The 1959 "Iron Dukes" won the ACC Championship for the second straight year. Losing only to Maryland and Navy in dual meet competition, Duke bested The Citadel, North Carolina, Clemson, Virginia, North Carolina State, and Wake Forest, in addition to winning the North Carolina State Championship and the ACC Championship.

A well-balanced team, the "Dukes" were sparked by Jerry Nourse and co-captain Cary Weisiger, who received tremendous support from co-captain Tom Bazemore, Fred Hurd, and Bob Honeycutt.

A salute to the 1959 champions—"The Iron Dukes".

WRESTLING

The Duke grappler's showed fine improvement in their performance this year under Coach Carman Falcon and Assistant Coach "Rock" Skinner. The Duke Wrestlers finished the season with the record of 4-5, losing to Navy, Washington & Lee, Maryland, and to The Citadel and U.V.A. by the slim margin of two points, but they defeated Davidson, N.C. State, Wake Forest, and U.N.C.

Captain Ken LaBone has done an outstanding job for the team, placing second in the ACC Conference meet along with Paul Bengel, Tom Paul, and Karl Schettler.

The fine performance of the freshman team and the loss of only two varsity man, Ken LaBone and Bill Scott, brings the 1960-61 team a promising outlook.

SWIMMING

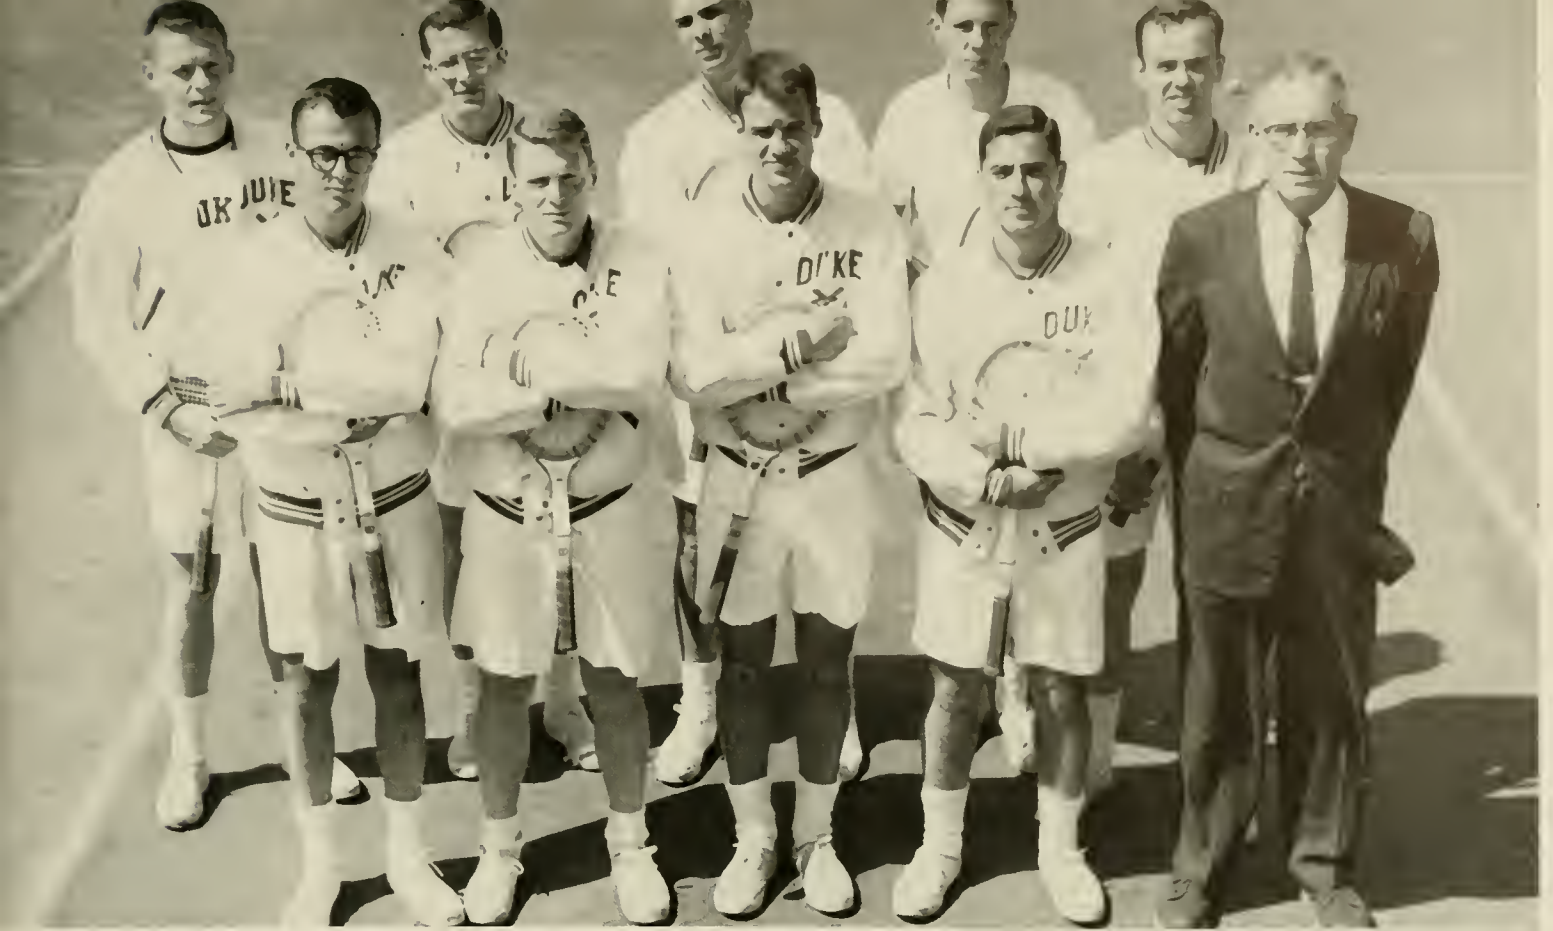

The Duke Devilfish completed the 1959-1960 season winning five, losing five, and placing second in the unofficial team standings of the ACC Championships. Duke lost to North Carolina State, North Carolina, Army, Navy, and Maryland, while besting South Carolina, Clemson, Wake Forest, Virginia, and Georgia Tech. They also participated in the Eastern Intercollegiate Championships at Harvard, and the N.C.A.A. Championships at S.M.U.

Special mention must be made of Steve Smith, who was undefeated in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle for the season. Other outstanding performers were Captain Ed Elsey, Bob Breen, Doug Gill, Tony Brush, Bill Weber, and Don Schumacher, who copped the ACC Championship in the 100 and 200 yard breaststroke.

GOLF

Coach "Dumpy" Hagler's 1959 golf team showed their excellent ability by copping the Atlantic Coast Conference Championship, and leaving an 11-3 seasonal record. This team saw great performances such as the setting of a new conference record in the ACC meet by Bob Lindinger, Ted McKenzie, Dick Siderowf, and Bob Zimmerman. Dick Siderowf, last year's captain, took a second place in the conference meet and tied the conference record for a single low round; while this year's captain, Bob Zimmerman, made the quarter finals in the NCAA tournament.

The members of the 1960 team are Bob Zimmerman, captain and sole senior, John Birmingham, Allan Breed, Jack Doser, Bob Lindinger, Ted McKenzie, Dick Dion, and John Sronce. The team looks forward to a successful season for 1960.

MEN'S INTRA

The Men's Intramural program offers the male student a chance to develop physically as well as mentally. The sense of keen competition and sportsmanship develops the individual's character and the physical exercise, his body. Through this program the student is able to get away from the academic grind.

The intramural program offers a great variety of activities including badminton, softball, basketball, football, golf, handball, horseshoes, ping-pong, swimming, tennis, and volleyball. With the wide variety of events, everyone is given a chance to participate, whether independent, fraternity, or freshman. Many individual trophies are awarded each year in addition to the championship trophies for which the fraternities compete.

Sharing the first place slot in football were Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Sigma Chi. The All-Intramural Football Team consisted of William O'Connor, John Mize, Lynn Fader, William Miller, Poo Rochelle, Jack Scot, Jerry Burnette, Tom Shepard, and Pete Kaufman.

The basketball championship was again won this year by the Kappa Alpha "A" team, which defeated the "Snowbirds" in the finals. Members of the All-Intramural Basketball team were: Poo Rochelle, Lynn Fader, Walt Rappold, Charlie Raksnis, and Dwight Bumgarner, Ed Payne, and Sam Tipton, who tied for fifth place.

WOMAN'S RECREATION ASSOCIATION

The Woman's Recreation Association, whose membership is made up of the entire student body of the Woman's College and the School of Nursing, is organized to offer varied recreational opportunities for each coed. Cooperating with the Woman's Physical Education Department the group, under the leadership this year of Pat Hansen, sponsors the intramural program on East Campus and is responsible for the Co-Rec Open Houses held on many Friday nights in the gym with equipment for all indoor sports and the swimming pool available for use. It also arranges for the sports day and picnic for freshmen during Orientation Week. This year a Co-Rec Carnival in March was a special project. Special interest groups under the auspices of W.R.A. are Pegasus, Nereidian, Terpsichorean, and Tennis Club which offer special chances for enjoyment of horseback riding, synchronized swimming, modern dance, and tennis.

The executive council, which is responsible for carrying out most W.R.A. activities, is made up of several groups. Officers are elected from the combined student bodies of East Campus and Hanes House. In addition there is a freshman representative. Each sport has a chairman who is also a part of the executive council. This governing group had many meetings, picnics, and retreats to plan and discuss the program of W.R.A.

WOMEN'S INT

The woman's physical education department at Duke offers a widely varied program of intramural sports. All women are encouraged to participate in both individual and team competitions. To further interest, a point system has been devised to keep track of participation. Awards are given according to the accumulation of points.

The fall semester opens with both singles and doubles tournaments in tennis and badminton, followed by a table tennis tournament. Later individuals may participate in an archery tournament and telegraphic meets or a second tennis competition.

Dorm spirit runs high in the various house competitions. With much encouragement from dorm-mates, teams scramble for a basketball, return a vol-

This cup is presented annually during the spring awards assembly to the house with the best record in intramural competition.

The friendly rivalry with which sororities compete makes their tournaments very exciting. Interest and team spirit are high in the volleyball, basketball, and bowling competition held for the sororities.

The wide range of sports makes it possible for every Duchess to find one that interests her. By being active as a participant or spectator each coed may share the fun of this well-planned recreation program.

TERPSICHOREAN

Brought together by a common interest in modern dance, members of Terpsichorean find pleasure in working together on skills and creating original dances. This year they cooperated with the Duke Players and the Department of Aesthetics, Art and Music in the presentation of the Yule Fest, a Christmas program of dance, reading and song given in Branson. In addition to this and various other programs which they presented to various groups on Campus, Terpsichorean members conducted a dance demonstration at an Arts Festival at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina and another at the School of Design in Greensboro. The most outstanding project of the group was a show planned and produced entirely by students and presented to the public in the Spring.

Membership in Terpsichorean is attained after trying out at one of the two tryouts which are held each year. At the meetings, which are held every week, members work on techniques and skills and work together to create new dances for any future programs.

NEREIDIAN

The Nereidian Club is composed of girls from East Campus and Hanes House who enjoy and exhibit ability in synchronized swimming. Their main activity of the year is presenting an annual water show. "Alice in Wonderland" was the show which was presented this year in early March. Adapting Louis Carroll's novel, Alice became a Nereid who wandered through her Wonderland while other Nereids assumed the roles of fanciful characters such as Tweedle Dee and Tweedle Dum, the March Hare, the Cards, the flowers of Wonderland, and others whom Alice encountered during her adventures. The colorful costumes and decorations of the giant size characters combined with the sometimes graceful, sometimes comic swimming made the show an outstanding performance.

During the year the girls meet weekly to swim together and work on water stunts. Forty-five girls composed the club this year after tryouts were held in the fall. The club is an auxiliary of the Women's Recreational Association and receives operating funds from the association. Working closely with the club is the sponsor, Ruth Eddy of the Women's Physical Education Department.

PAGASUS

Horseback riding provides a common ground of interest and enjoyment for members of Pegasus. An auxiliary of the Womans' Recreation Association, Pegasus selects members for their excellence in equestrian skills. Tryouts, which are held in the fall and again in the spring, are open to any East campus or Hanes House students.

The club's program this year included weekly rides at the stables of Betty Sue Brunson as well as trips to shows and auctions held in the Durham area. The highlight of Pegasus' activities, however, was the Duke University Horseshow which the club sponsored for the general public.

ACADEMICS

Duke University has become the center of our social and business world for a period of at least four years of our lives. How this community, dedicated to the principles of learning and personal growth, handles the problems which arise in the course of our stay here, is a vital factor to each one of us. The administration of Duke University from President Edens through the Board of Trustees, the Administrative and Department Heads, and the professors to the Class Officers is dedicated to solving these problems and planning for future improvements beneficial to high academic requirements and student life. In such an atmosphere of carefully regulated and efficient government, we as students are taught the values of organization which will benefit us in the larger communities in which we will later become citizens. Therefore, working for our immediate and future benefits, the administration of Duke University is more than an impersonal unit. It is our guiding hand.

WEST CAMPUS LIBRARY

Dr. Hollis Edens

The

Serving as President of Duke University since 1949, Dr. A. Hollis Edens has had much success in raising the academic standards of the university and in improving the relations between students and the administration. Besides this, his primary job, Dr. Edens has seen over twenty million dollars worth of buildings rising on campus and the annual addition of more faculty members and university employees. With the appointment of a Long Range Planning Committee and the designation of such goals as the expansion of the medical school, a library addition, a fine arts building, and expanded capacities for the Woman's College gymnasium, a Developments Office headed by a director of developments will be established in the near future. Describing this new position as a high administrative office, Dr. Edens termed the appointment as "one of the most important . . . we will make in the next few years, . . . will supervise the fund-raising and direct the development program."

The never-ending duties of President Edens are varied. He must listen patiently to problems of the faculty; receive pointed suggestions from the alumni and parents of students; counsel students; attend board meetings; examine the school policies; and search diligently for ways to better the university. He must appear at all University functions, acting as host to visitors, friend to instructors and graduates, and father to students. Being president of a university isn't easy, but Dr. Edens, through his devotion to Duke, has endeared himself to the university community and to all those who know him.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

NORMAN A. COCKE
Chairman of the Board of Trustees

Under the leadership of Chairman Norman A. Cocks, the Board of Trustees constitutes the legislative branch of the university's government. Each of the thirty-six policy-making members of the board, elected by the North Carolina Methodist Church conferences and by the Alumni Association, holds his position for six years.

The monetary appropriations voted by the Board receive the most publicity. However, the group's activities are not restricted merely to the financial organization of Duke. It confirms appointments to the faculty, legislates the rules, regulation, and by-laws of the university; elects the president of the university; issues diplomas; and confers marks of honor and recognition.

Meeting only twice a year, the Board elects an Executive Committee to carry out business in the interim between meetings. The Executive Committee, composed of seven members, two of whom—President Edens and Mr. Cocks — are ex-officio, meets once a month.

The far-sighted guidance of the Board has been responsible for the progress of Duke University.

GENERAL ADMINISTRATION

The administrative branch of Duke University is composed of a group of very capable men working for the best interests of the university. They strive to solve its complex problems and to create better understanding between students and administration. Selecting a new class of freshmen for each fall, raising funds for new buildings, scheduling and changing courses, telling people just what Duke is doing—all these are a part of their job.

The administration, through insight and careful planning, keeps the university steadily progressing, maintaining its rank as one of America's foremost institutions.

Vice President of the University in the Division of Public Relations is Charles E. Jordan, a graduate of Trinity College, who obtained his LL.D. from Eton College.

Herbert J. Herring, Dean of Trinity College and Vice President in the Division of Student Life, obtained his degrees from Duke and Columbia Universities. He also holds an honorary LL.D. from Juniata College.

The new Dean of the University is Marcus E. Hobbs, who obtained all three of his degrees from Duke.

GENERAL ADMINISTRATION

To fulfill the request of James B. Duke, founder of Duke University, the administration of Duke was established to assert that "great care and discrimination be exercised in admitting as students only those whose previous records show character, determination, and application evincing a wholesome and real ambition in life."

A new class is formed each year of undergraduate men possessing these required qualities. Of this year's freshmen class, it is estimated that approximately sixty percent of the 762 enrollment will graduate in June, 1963. To a great extent, the success of that sixty percent rests with the men who will direct their progress—the deans of Trinity College.

WOMAN'S

ROBERTA FLORENCE BRINKLEY, Ph.D., LL.D.
Dean of the Woman's College

MARY GRACE WILSON, A.M.
Dean of Undergraduate Women

The Deans of the Woman's College reflect this excerpt from the motto of Duke University: ". . . a fundamental faith in the union of knowledge and religion, the advancement of learning, the defense of scholarship, the love of freedom and truth, a spirit of tolerance, and a rendering of the greatest service to the individual, the state, the nation, and the church."

Miss Roberta Florence Brinkley, Dean of the Woman's College, graduated from Agnes Scott College. She received her M.A. and Ph.D. from George Peabody College for Teachers, and Yale University. Her greatest interest is Seventeenth Century English Literature. As Dean of Undergraduate Instruction, Miss Ellen Huckabee advises freshman and sophomore women and serves as special advisor to the Freshman Advisory Council. She received her B.A. and M.A. from Duke. Miss Mariana Jenkins, Associate Dean of Undergraduate Instruction, received her A.B. and Ph.D. from Bryan Mawr and her M.A. at Radcliffe. She is advisor to Juniors and Seniors. Miss Mary Grace Wilson, who is Dean of Undergraduate Women, studied at Winthrop College and did graduate work at Columbia. She advises the students in non-academic affairs. Mrs. Frances Whitaker, Assistant Dean of Undergraduate Women, also has a B.A. from Winthrop and an M.A. from Columbia. Mrs. W. S. Persons, Director of Admissions, was awarded both her A.B. and M.A. at Duke.

The high standards of the Woman's College, under the able guidance of the administration, is exemplified by the number of applicants and the final enrollment of the class of 1963. From the seventeen hundred thirty-two applicants for admission to the class of '63, three hundred and fifty were enrolled. Approximately one-third of the members of this class hold scholarships which are awarded on the basis of a combination of merit and need, or in some cases, merit alone.

GRADUATE AND PROFESSIONAL SCHOOLS

The six graduate and professional schools now incorporated in the curriculum of Duke University offer many opportunities of good equipment and excellent teachers.

Duke's Graduate School of Arts and Sciences comprises twenty-two departments which basically cover the major courses of study found at the University. Because of its scope, there are more graduate students enrolled in this section than in any other.

Both the Master of Forestry and the Doctor of Forestry degrees are offered by the School of Forestry, the smallest of the graduate schools. Various greenhouses, a special School of Forestry Library, and the Arboretum are available to graduate students in this field.

Offered by the School of Law are the degrees of LL.B., LL.M., and, the highest degree, the Doctor of Judicial Science. The courses are comprehensive and cover most every field of law desired by the student. The school also includes a Legal Aid Clinic.

Composed largely of undergraduate nurses, the School of Nursing offers to graduates a B.S. and a M.S. in Nursing. On-the-job experience is gained through work in the Duke Hospital, the Durham Health Department, and the North Carolina Cerebral Palsy Hospital.

Located in the Duke Hospital, the School of Medicine offers a B.S. in Medicine, a B.S. in Medical Technology and the degree of Doctor of Medicine. Fields such as surgery, pediatrics, psychiatry and internal medicine are currently the most popular.

Rated among the top ten in the nation, the Divinity School has faculty members educated in all the Protestant faiths. The degrees of Bachelor of Divinity and Master of Religious Education are offered to those who successfully meet the requirements of study.

ALUMNI DEPARTMENT

CHARLES DUKES
Director of Alumni Affairs

The alumni at Duke University were first organized in 1858 and since that time have been a vital and integral part of the growth and development of Duke. As the University has grown so has the general alumni association. Now it is composed of an alumni organization for every school and college and reaches into over one hundred communities where there are local alumni associations. This year the alumni program at Duke included an exchange between Duke and Southwestern. Duke furnished one of its distinguished faculty members to participate in Southwestern's continuing program of alumni education, and the developing of programs among the graduate and professional school alumni. The emphasis is on alumni responsibility for the future of education.

"Old Grads" return to campus for Homecoming and enjoy bar-b-que at the Alumni Banquet.

LIBRARIES

The Libraries of Duke University combine the quantity of available materials with the quality of careful selection. Including not only the general volumes on both campuses but also a rare book collection and specialized collections of the Medical, Divinity, Engineering, Biology-Forestry, Chemistry, and Mathematics-Physics departments, the University Library ranks third among college libraries, in the nation. Combining the 1,343,768 catalogued volumes and the 2,749,236 manuscripts and maps with microfilms, recordings, and musical scores, the student is offered information in all major fields.

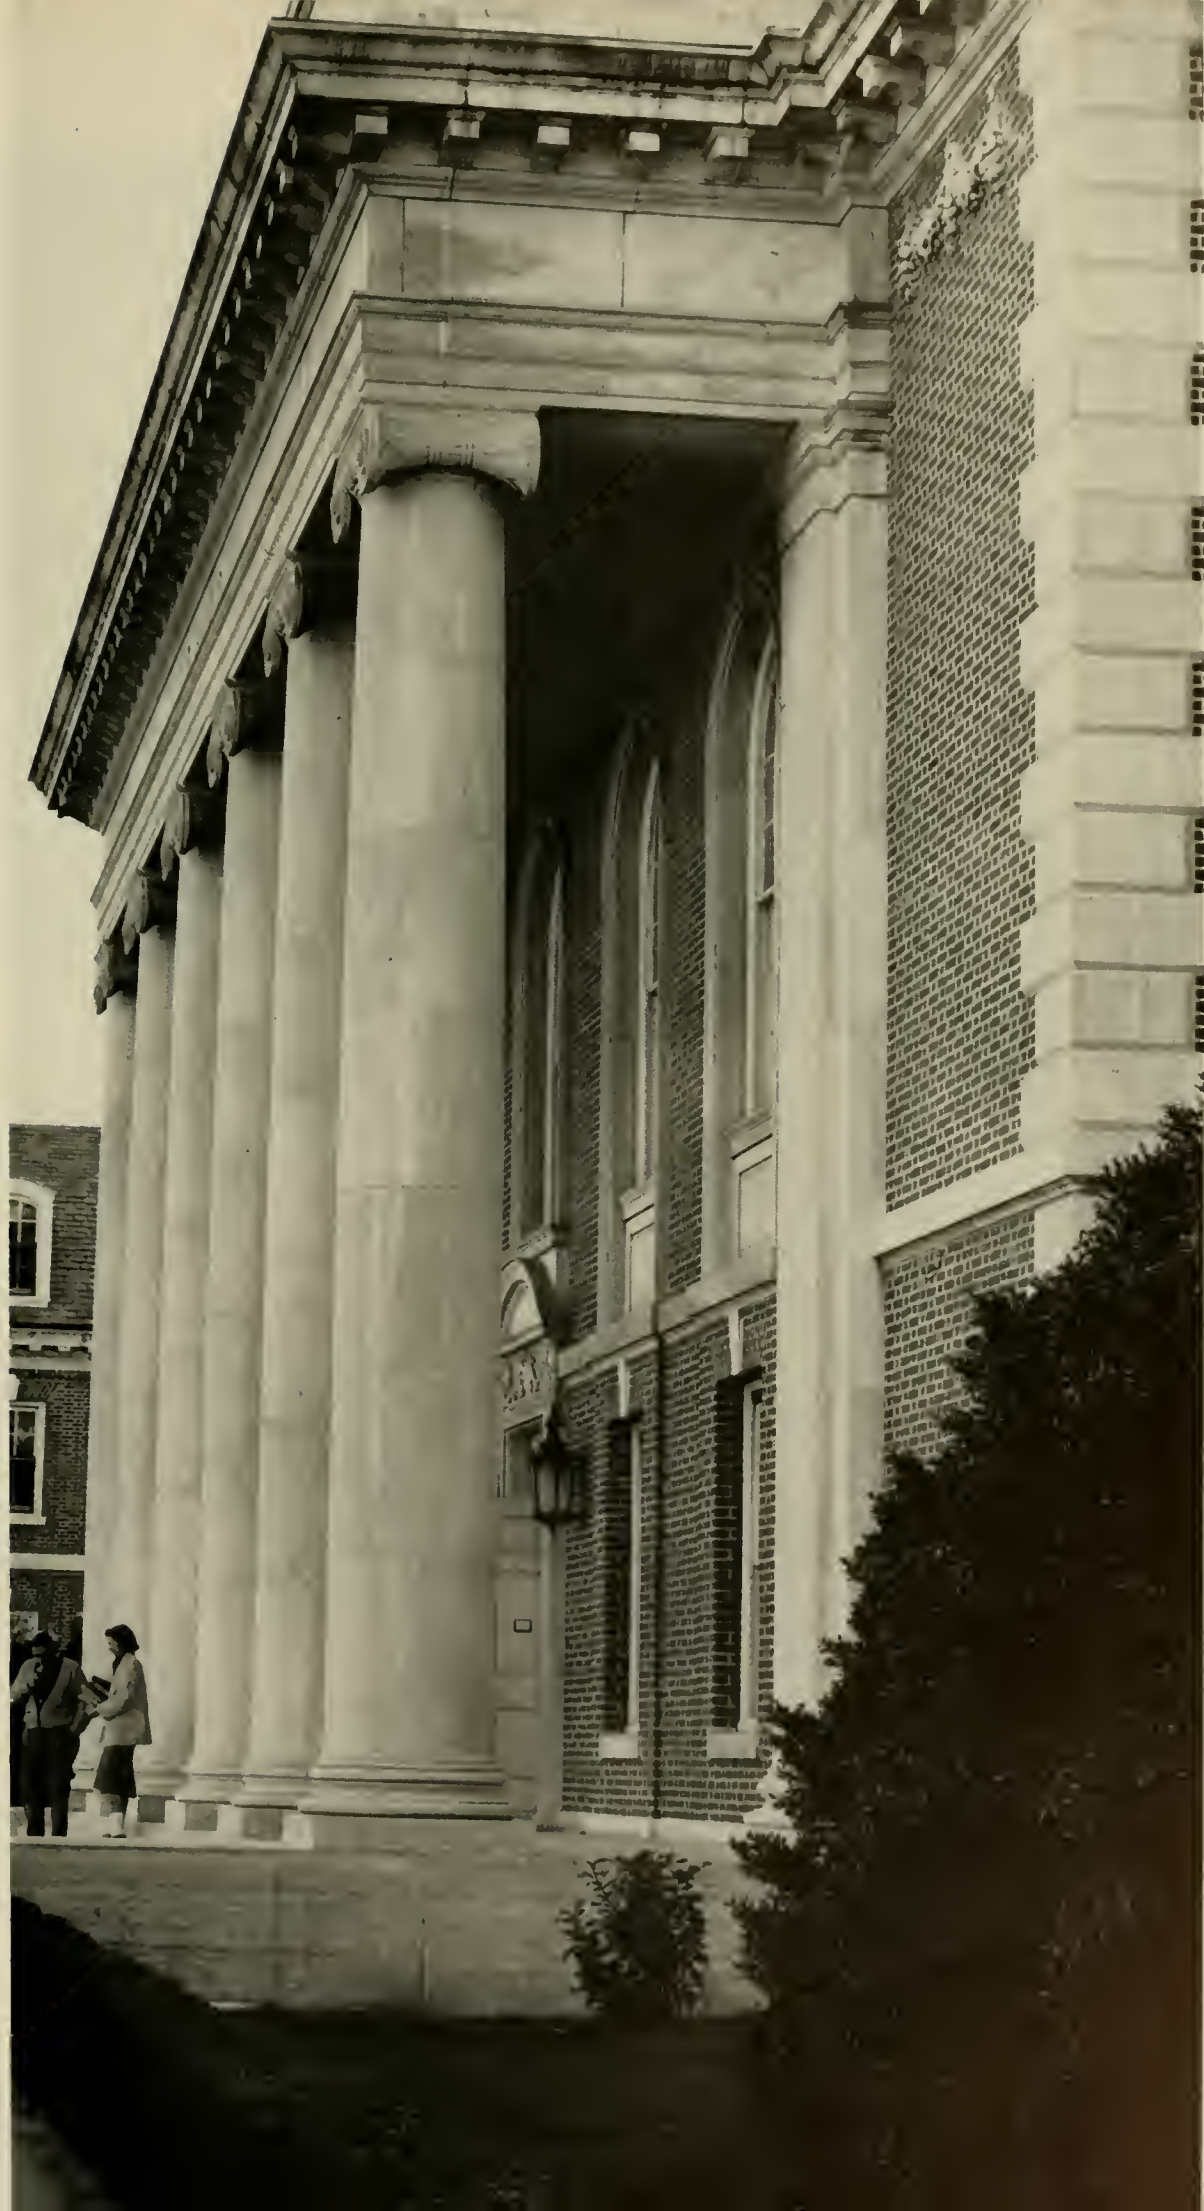

Responsible for the organization of the eighty-nine member library staff, Dr. Benjamin Powell, of Columbia and Chicago Universities, also serves as president of the American Library Association.

EAST CAMPUS LIBRARY

CLASS OF 1960

Senior Class Officers of Trinity College are: Dick Katz, Carl Hickey, Reuben Rainey, Fred Ruben, and Mack Holmes.

Engineering Senior Class Officers are Wayne Fox and Randy McDonald.

In keeping with the traditions of Duke University, the Class of 1960 began the school year with the Flag Raising Ceremony. Another senior class activity was the hard work that went into the Homecoming Celebration which included the Saturday night Dance, an alumni picnic, displays, and the coronation of Carol Corder as Homecoming Queen.

The seniors also participated in Founder's Day and the East Campus Class Night in the spring.

As in the past, campaigns were carried on to raise money for the class gift. The year included banquets in January and March, and ended with the receiving of the class yearbook.

With Seminars helping to prepare them for future occupations, the seniors left school days behind to enter a new phase of their lives.

Senior Class Officers of Woman's College are Mary Lee Wright, Sharon Gerkin, Carol Dyer, Claire Atkins, and Marian Sapp.

Students and faculty members meet and talk informally at coffee hours.

SENIORS

Junior Class Officers of Trinity College are Jack Wilson, Kent Bishop, T. Moorman, and Lee Sybert.

BILL MONTGOMERY, President
MIKE MACE, Secretary-Treasurer

The activities of the junior class were directed toward drawing the class members together for their final two years.

The representative council on East again functioned to accomplish class business without involving mass meetings. The class banquet for women was a welcome opportunity for the girls to gather together as a group. Entertainment was provided by members of the class.

Spring brought the mysterious tapping of honoraries at the annual Class Night. On this night the class took its new place of being seniors. They presented a song, composed especially for this occasion.

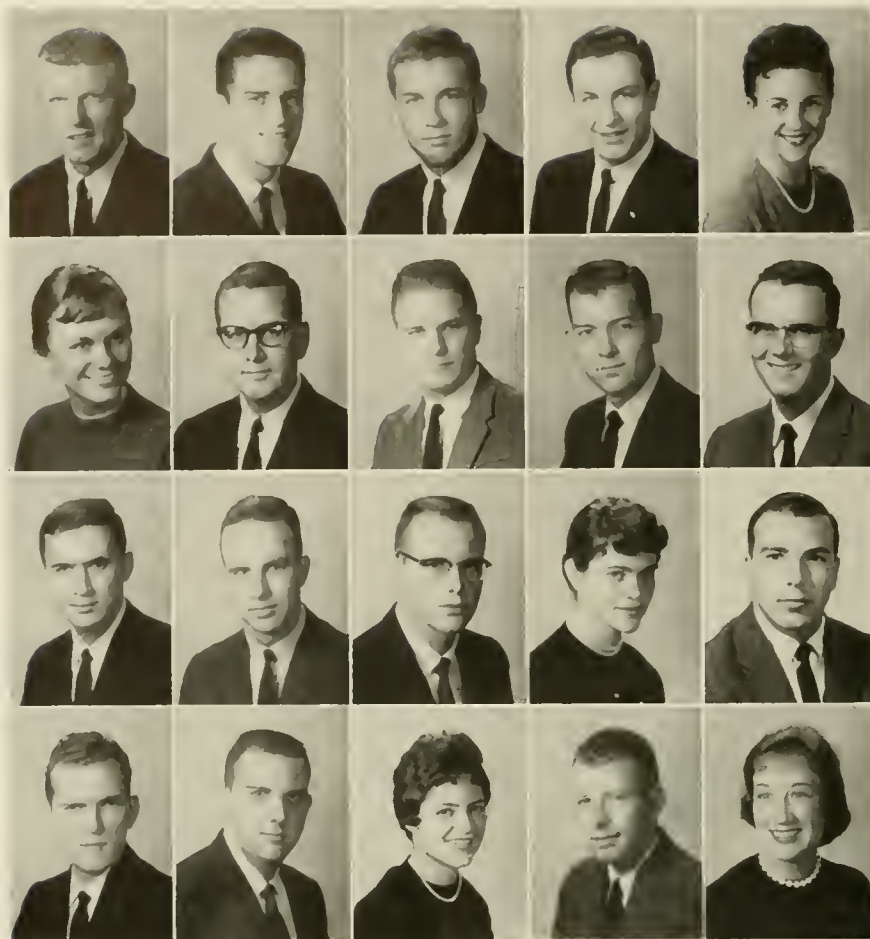

The men's and women's junior classes worked on a project to collect funds for their treasuries. These funds are accumulated over four years so that the class may present a gift to the University upon graduation.

Junior Class Officers of Women's College are Carolyn Combs, Sarah Core, Annie Lewis Johnston, and Kit Yonkers.

Engineering Sophomore Class Officers are C. Rose, Secretary-Treasurer, and W. McCutcheon, President.

The sophomore class at Duke sponsored a Dink-Bow Day on East's Hanes Field. Traditions observed earlier were forgotten as West and East frosh could sit on the Chapel steps. The Duke Ambassadors greatly added to that afternoon's success.

With the presentation of a class gift in mind, the class sponsored a sale of eider and doughnuts after house closing, in East Campus dormitories. A three day session in the fall, and another in the spring, helped balance up that budget item.

1959-60 was really a successful year for the sophomore class. And they look forward to the coming years with the realization that they will be important ones at Duke.

Sophomore Class Officers of Trinity College are: Dave Nee, Clay Pruitt. Not Pictured: Rex Adams and Jerrv Pieh.

CLASS OF 1963

Freshman Class Officers of Trinity College are W. Demaine, Treasurer; R. Kissam, Secretary; S. Spigener, President and D. Day, Vice-President.

Freshman Engineering Class Officers are Rick Linger and Sid Nurkin.

After a hectic Orientation Week of registration, mixers, and getting settled in general, the Freshmen began their college life by electing class officers. They enthusiastically took part in the activities planned for them such as Dink-Bow Day and the Freshman Y Dance.

Late in September Sorority Rush descended on East Campus with its whirlwind of parties. And in February the Greek push moved to West with chow-trains, stag parties, and big Saturday night date parties. Rush week climaxed with the shake-ups receiving official bids.

In the freshmen assemblies, the students heard talks from professors and guests which were a great help in making the decision of major subjects and in helping them become more familiar with the University. Projects for money-making were discussed and carried out during the year.

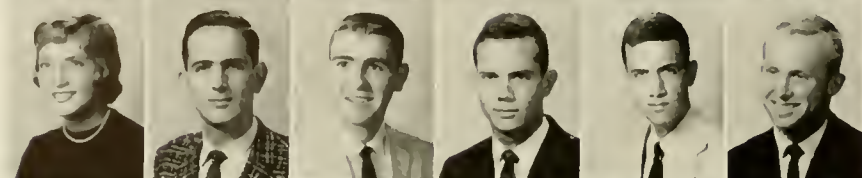

Freshman Class Officers of Woman's College are Joan Jarden, Betsy Miller, Debby Gallup, and Diana Graham.

NURSES EXECUTIVE BOARD

PEGGY BORSCHERDT
President

Composed of the President, Vice-President, Corresponding Secretary, Recording Secretary and Treasurer of the Student Government Association, the Chairman of the Honor Council, the President of the Freshman class and the chairmen of the Standing Committees, one of the primary tasks of The Executive Board is to govern all regulations controlling student life. The Executive Council also works towards developing each individual's sense of responsibility, and with the Faculty's help, maintains the ideals of the school and the nursing profession.

As the core of S.G.A., the Executive Council is representative of all phases of a nursing student's life, and helps to guide the student body in its responsibility of self-government. Meeting twice a month, or more often if necessary, the Executive Council goes over any problems in to the constitution, rules, or any other hindrance to coordinated and satisfactory self-government, drawing up a draft and suggestions for improvement. These are then presented at a S.G.A. meeting, for discussion and vote.

JOHNNY JOYNER
Chairman

The establishment of the Judicial Board has facilitated orderly conduct and fulfillment of the social regulations set forth by the Nurses Student Government Association. Besides being in charge of affairs concerning the welfare of the students, this board must try the students for any infraction of the rules and must enforce these rules in a way best suited to each situation.

Judicial Board regulations were set up for the benefit of the students and, therefore, it is the students' duty to see that they are carried out. The students are placed on their honor to report all offenses.

The Judicial Board Committee has proved to be very successful. In the future it will continue to be an integral part of each student's life as a member of the Duke University School of Nursing.

NURSES SOCIAL STANDARD COMMITTEE

NANCY MILLER
Chairman

The Social Standards Committee has as its purpose the maintenance and elevation of social and moral ethics of student behavior in regard to school and fellow students. It attempts to aid the student in establishing desirable conduct helping to form her individual concepts of professional ethics.

The Committee is composed of two members elected from each class and a chairman, who is a senior and elected by the student body. The chairman is also a member of the Executive Council of the Nurses' Student Government Association and of The Judicial Board.

There are regular monthly meetings, and additional ones whenever necessary, to evaluate social problems within the school and attempt to solve these problems. Social Standards is assisted by Judicial Board and Honor Council in seeing that its standards are valued and upheld.

In conjunction with East Campus Social Standards, this committee sells the Duke Calendar, and promotes interest in University social activities.

NURSES FRESHMEN ADVISORY COUNCIL

JANETTE DILL
Chairman

The members of the Freshmen Advisory Council and the Orientation Committee of Hanes House work toward a common goal of helping the freshmen become familiar and at ease with the many phases of life as a Duke undergraduate. Each F.A.C. corresponds with six freshmen during the summer, answering questions about college life in general, giving advice as to what are the necessary items of clothing for a student, and being a friend. When the freshman arrives at the start of orientation week, her F.A.C. is there to welcome her and to help her move into her new room. During the following week, the F.A.C.'s conduct tours of the campus and hospital, and acquaint the freshman with the rules and regulations of the Duke University School of Nursing. Once a week, after classes have started, the F.A.C. holds a meeting to go over, in detail, the most important rules, and to help straighten out any difficulties which may occur during the first weeks of college life. The F.A.C.'s job ends after the freshman takes the S.G.A. quiz which is given to the entire student body each year.

NURSES HONOR COUNCIL

KATHY ENGEL
President

Through the active participation of all student nurses, the Honor System seeks to maintain honorable conduct in all phases of student life and professional status. Each nurse is bound to report others or herself if she feels that there has been a breach in the Honor Code. In this instance, the case is brought before the Honor Council, a body composed of students elected to this position. After careful consideration the Council reaches a decision which is considered final. Along with these responsibilities, the honor system offers to the student many privileges, such as freedom of time and place in taking many exams.

Each year the Freshman Advisory Council orientates the new student nurses to the Honor Code and all its duties and privileges. When the freshmen are aware of the Honor System, each joins by signing an Honor Pledge in a Student Government Association ceremony. It is the hope that life under the Honor System will instill in each student a concept of integrity and loyalty which will serve her in professional and social life.

NURSES LIFE

Hanes nursing students attend many classes in the hospital in addition to those on both East and West campus

NURSES LIFE

President Peggy Borchardt watches Kathy Mason "cap" her little sister, Louise Nigh.

The freshman year of a nursing student, as is the case for any other new college student, is a year of adjustment and orientation towards her profession and major. The first year's work is centered primarily around a liberal arts education, but it also contains a nursing course of elementary interpersonal relationships. After the freshman year, the student gets the opportunity to put her newly acquired knowledge to practical use when she goes on the ward, after capping, as a sophomore. During her second year of training, the student nurse learns many of the nursing principles and techniques she will use throughout her career. The summer between the sophomore and junior year marks the start of a student's service time, which continues through her senior year. During this time a student works on Pediatrics, Maternity, Medical and Surgical Wards; she also works in the O.R., in obstetrics, and on the psychiatric ward. The time passes quickly, each week bringing new experiences in interpersonal relationships, handling new situations, and dealing with new problems. With graduation, the nurse passes from the status of student to that of registered nurse; there lies before her the nursing career and life she has sought the last four years with its moments of sorrow and pain, which are quickly blotted out by the happiness and renewed faith in life coming from a patient's departure from the hospital with a new baby or restored health.
