The following Eulogy on the death of Wm. Wild, was delivered before the Yolo County Teachers' Institute, on Friday evening, October 24th, 1862, by H. A. Pierce:

FELLOW TEACHERS:—I shall trespass but a few moments upon your attention in my notice of our deceased friend; but shall content myself with noticing, in a brief manner, his life and death.

There are lives that, wreathed in unassuming modesty, and marked by so many excellencies and traits of goodness, seem, as we contemplate them, to be made up of those jewels gathered amid the retreats of the trendings that lead to the celestial paradise and bowers of another world. Like those starry isles that gem the arch of night, they seem too pure, too refined to linger amid the turmoils of life, and are transplanted to bloom in climes of heavenly geniality. God, in His everlasting seed-time, has scattered his jewels of true nobility broadcast over his earth-fields, and although the blossoms and fruit may be obscured by the tares of selfishness, the brambles of deceit and the thorns and thistles of dissimulation and hypocrisy, yet when the great harvest is made, then shall be separated the true from the false; and away up above rolling planets, flaming suns, and all those golden orbs that "dance the gay cotillion of the skies," shall shine those heart jewels that He has given us.

We pay the humble tribute of respect to-night to one who has left his monuments standing in the courts and isles of the heart's ample store-house, and ornamenting every nook and niche in memory's varied pathway. The flowers of his planting will be blooming in many life-gardens when years shall spread their verdure thickly o'er his humble grave. He was not one of those who scattered roses on his way, so that those who followed after should gather naught but withered leaves—but he planted the seed in the soil of the heart's richest affections, so that flowers shall bloom, and buds shall blossom when the spring time of youth is past, and the summer of manhood, and the autumn of age have turned sear and withered the leaves of life.

I hear the muffled tramp of years
Come stealing up the slope of Time;
They bear a train of smiles and tears,
Of burning hopes, and dreams sublime,
But future years may never find
A treasure from their passing hours,
Like those that come on sleepless wing,
From Memory's golden plain of flowers.

William Wild was born near Whaley Bridge, England, about the year 1835, and consequently was about twenty-seven years of age at the time of his decease. His early life was passed in the mercantile business, and until his immigration to America, his education was much neglected; consisting mostly of what he could pick up in his business hours, which were but few that could be appropriated from a London variety store.

Unlike the most of his countrymen, however, he became quite conversant with American institutions, and at the age of twenty he sought a home in a foreign land. He was thoroughly American in all his feelings and sentiments. Although reared amid the surroundings of aristocracy and caste, he seemed to grasp with greater avidity the blessings of a Republican Government. A single remark of his will exemplify his character in this respect. When the unfortunate dissonances that now distract our once happy and prosperous land, and fill her halls with mourning, had culminated in open war, he remarked thus: "Is it not strange and lamentable, that Americans should be so forgetful of the blessings to which by their birth they are heir, and at one fell swoop should strive to erect, on the ruins of Freedom, the loathsome shackles of Aristocracy, and perhaps anarchy?" Again he says: "I had read and heard of the beauties of American freedom, but I longed to taste and know the sweets of being a free man, untrammelled by the fetters that birth and hereditary superiority gives over merit, when obscured by poverty."

Upon his arrival in the United States, he sought employment in the West, and immediately began a course of study and improvement, and to the noble system of education in Wisconsin we are indebted for one teacher that has done much toward the elevation of the profession in this county. It is eminently fit and proper that we should meet to call up again to view, the virtues of one, to whom we have been wont to look as a friend and counsellor. He, whose hand has penned the records of our gatherings with so much fidelity, and whose clear perception and candid judgment, often guided our deliberations, now lies cold and silent beneath yon cak, that stands as an appropriate emblem of his sterling character. Yes, our friend and exemplar has gone forever from our midst, his career of usefulness, at least in this earth-life is ended, yet we, by studying his noble example, may still make his virtues bring forth their legitimate fruits. I would wish that each of your lives may be as blameless, as highly decorated with good deeds and great exertions in the field of improvements, and when your course shall be run, your labors ended, your armor thrown aside to rust, or be worn by others, your path of progression lost amid the mists of age, or the brambles of sorrow or care, and the weight of years shall make you weary of life, may your death be as triumphant, your exit as glorious, and your path to the Spirit land as thickly studded with flowers as was his.

Let us look in a moment upon that death scene, and see if our hearts will not be made better by its contemplation. A young man, to whom life was sweet, and to whom the future was presented in colors of glowing beauty, was suddenly stricken down; calmly he beholds the grim Angel approaching and bidding him to come; he gives some hasty directions concerning his affairs, and prepares to cross the raging gulf. He complies, as far as lies in his power, with the requirements of Him who burst the bars of death, and fettered the angel guards, and as the curtain of life was falling over that glazing eye, but just rising in the glory-land, he faintly said—"Tell my friends I died a christian;" and methinks that, as his pure spirit was wafted home, that I can yet hear the reverberations, as those words are caught up and echoed and re-echoed, by those redeemed spirits that cluster around the throne of God. O what a death was that. Look at it, ye Atheists, Skeptics, Infidels, and tell me where is your boasted sophistry that you would place beside that one cheering hope that lighted up that passage to the tomb with the torch of Immortality? What gleam of sunshine in all the broad range of speculation in the field of Infidelity and Skepticism, will you place beside the smile of the Savior, as it shone above that death-couch, and said to the billows encircling the young marine, "peace, be still"—where, amid the whole boundless ocean of despair that is flung around the poor commiserated Atheist, (for I do commiserate such an one) will you find one such scene, lighted, as it were, by the effulgence that emanates from the throne on high?

He lived among us as a citizen and teacher, and by his manly bearing, and strict moral deportment, won the love and admiration of all; but in one short hour he was stricken down in his career of honor and usefulness—when health and vigor nerved every limb, and the mind was buoyant with expectation and high resolves. The dread angel that walks as the satellite of Time was calling him away and far in a stranger land, far from the friends of his youth, he laid him down to obey the summons.

No tender mother's form bent above that death-couch, to fold that loved boy to her heart, and strew the path of death with the jewels of her holy love. No father, sister or brother was there to wipe the dew of death from that young brow, and cheer him in that one dark hour, when clouds and storms rase dark before him, and to throw the sunshine of their affection—although mingled with sorrow unutterable—around and about him, to lighten up those darkened steeps; but away among strangers, he died almost alone. Alone, did I say? No, he was not alone; for I believe that the angels of God were there, and thronged in myriads that dying couch, and made the high arches of Heaven ring with their glad shouts, as they welcomed home the spirit redeemed. Although shut out from those dear ones of family ties, his exit was one of peace and triumph—he heard and recognized his master's voice.

We mourn him deeply, although our association had extended for only three short years, and his loss was felt and mourned, not only by those engaged in the same profession, but by the whole community; and if he could thus bind strangers to him, what must be the pangs that shall thrill the bosoms of those who had loved and cherished him in childhood, when they learn of his untimely end? Go with me, in imagination, and visit that hearthstone beside which he used to play. Look

Away, far away, in Briton's green Isle,
A grey-headed sire now mourns for his son;
But the burden of sadness gives way for a while,
When he thinks of the merit his dear child hath won.

That heart's warm and true, wept over his bier,
As they scattered the clouds on his once manly breast,
That the eye of the stranger shed many a tear,
As they laid him away to sleep with the best.

And now, lowly knelt, at the shrine of devotion,
He is breathing a prayer to the Great Ear above,
And he smiles, as he thinks that his boy o'er the ocean
Was borne to his grave with honor and love.

And, I doubt not, that when that bowed and sorrowing father shall learn of the tribute of respect paid to the memory of his wandering boy, his heart will glow with gratitude, and half the pangs of his bereavement will be lifted, and he will look forward to the time when his earthly pilgrimage, already lengthened, shall end, and he shall grasp the hand of that glorified son—far more glorified from the improvement his earth-life, in the land of strangers, had given him—and in that "house of many mansions," father and son will meet, never more to part, but to roam the vast bowers of everlasting bliss, while eternity is marked only by rolling years.

That mother, who so oft had pillowed his head upon her soft bosom, and had hoped that those last years of senility and caducity would be cheered and supported by his presence, will feel as though the last link binding her to earth, was broken, and that she can now fold the mantle of dissolution around her without regret. With us he will live only in the memory of his virtues and good deeds; but that memory will be fraught with ten thousand hallowed reminiscences.

The Teachers' lives are but a succession of notes, struck upon chords that vibrate in eternity. "Their mission is high and holy, and in after years their fame will fill the earth, in proportion as it sounds not far off in their own time," and those who have labored long in the field of progression, and have fallen, as did our lamented friend, at the post of honor and duty, shall live when the revolving firmament shall be swept to eternity's grave.

We leave our friend now to his rest in Woodland Cemetery, beneath the oaks that stand as guardians over his slumbers; and, although the sods are not yet green upon his grave, his memory is green within our hearts—embalmed in our affections—and his virtues will be treasured by all who knew him.

Although we cannot call him back—
Cannot reverse death's doom—
We can cultivate his virtues,
As we weep above his tomb.

SUT LOVEGOOD AND THE DOG.—When I was a boy, and my legs no longer than John Westworth's, Dad fetched home a darned, worthless, mangy, flea bitten, gray, old fox houn, good for nothin but to swaller up what order lined the bowels of us brats. Well, I naturally tuck a distaste to him, and hed a sort of hank-er arter hurtin his feelins and discom-fortin ov him, every time Dad's back was turned. This sorter kept a big skeer al-lers afore his eyes, and an arful yell ready to pour out, the fast moshun he seed me make. So he larnt to swaller things as he run, and allers kept his laigs well under hisself, for he never knowed how soon he must want to use em in tot-in his infernal carcass beyon the reach of a flyin rock. He knowed the whiz of a rock in moshun well, and he never stop-ped to see who flung it, but just let his head fly open tu gin a howl room tu cum, and sot his laigs agwine the way his nose happened to be pintin. He'd shy around every rock he seed in the road, for he looked upon it as a calamity tu cum arter him sum day. Georgy, that runnin am the greatest invenshun on yearth, when used keerfully. What'd I bin by this ef I hadn't relyed on these ere laigs? D'ye see em? Don't they mind you of a pair of compusses made tu divide a mile inter quarters? They'll do.

Well, one day I tuck a pig's bladder, ni on tu the size ov a duck's aig, and filled it with powder and corked it up with a piece of spunk, rolled it up in a thin skulp ov meat, sot the spunk afire, and flung it out; he swallowed it a jerk, and sot into a gitten away for doin it. I hern a nois like bustin sunthin and his tail lit the top ov my hat. His hed wer way down the hill, and had tuck a deth holt ont'er a root. His forelegs wer fifty feet up the road a makin runnin moshuns, and his hind ones a straddil ov the fence. Es tu the dog hisself, as a dog, I never seed agin. Well, Dad, durn his onsanctified soul, flung five or six hundred onder my shurt with the dried skin of a bull's tail, and gin me the remainder the next day with a waggin whip what he borrowed from a feller while he wur watterin his hosses; the wagoner got sorry fur me, and hollered tu me tu turn my beggin and squallin inter frustrate runnin, which I emejutly did, and the last lick missed me about ten feet.

"Ah, Michael, you know everything, tell me once for all what they mean by community?"

"Why, it's very simple; I will state a case. You have fifty francs; Paul and I have nothing. You must divide between us two. Paul takes twenty-five francs and I take twenty-five francs."

"But, according to this, I have nothing left."

"Exactly so; and then you join the community."

GIRLS sometimes put their lips out poutingly because they are angry, and sometimes because their lips are disposed to meet yours half-way.

If a man, with a scolding wife, advises you to marry, watch him, he is an enemy to your happiness.

Presence of Mind.

1. If a man faints, place him flat on his back and let him alone.

2. If any poison is swallowed, drink instantly half a glass of cold water, with a heaping tea-spoonful each of common salt and ground mustard stirred into it; this vomits as soon as it reaches the stomach; but for fear some of the poison may still remain, swallow the whites of one or two raw eggs, or drink a cup of strong coffee, these two being antidotes for a greater number of poisons than any dozen articles known, with the advantage of their being always at hand; if not, a half-pint of sweet oil, or 'drippings,' or melted butter or lard are good substitutes especially if they vomit quickly.

3. The best thing to stop the bleeding of a moderate cut instantly is to cover it profusely with cobweb or flour and salt, half and half.

4. If the blood comes from a wound by jets or spirts, be spy, or the man will be dead in a few minutes, as an artery is severed; tie a handkerchief loosely around near the part between the wound and the heart; put a stick between the handkerchief and the skin, twist it around until the blood ceases to flow, and keep it there until the doctor comes; if in a position where the handkerchief cannot be used, press the thumb on a spot near the wound, between the wound and the heart; increase the pressure for an instant, until the physician arrives, so as to glue up the wound by the coagulation or hardening of the cooling blood.

5. If your clothing takes fire, slide the hands down the dress, keeping them as close to the body as possible, at the same time sinking to the floor by bending the knees; this has a smothering effect on the flames; if not extinguished, or a great headway is gotten, roll over and over, or better, envelope yourself in a carpet, bed-cloth, or any garment you can get hold of, always preferring woolen.

6. If any man asks you to go his security, say, 'No,' and run; otherwise you may be enslaved for life, or your wife and children may spend a weary existence, in want, sickness and beggary.

7. If you find yourself in possession of a counterfeit note or coin, throw it into the fire on the instant; otherwise, you may be tempted to pass it, and may pass it, to feel mean therefor as long as you live; then it may fall into some man's hands as mean as yourself, with a new perpetration of iniquity, the loss to fall eventually on some poor struggling widow, whose 'all' it may be.

8. Never laugh at the mishaps of any fellow mortal.

9. The very instant you perceive yourself in a passion, shut your mouth; this is among the best precepts outside of inspiration.

10. The man who always exacts the last cent is always a mean man; there is no 'evacuant' in all the 'Materia Medica' efficient enough to 'purge' him of his debasement; he is beyond druggery.

11. Never affect to be 'plain' or 'blunt'; these are synonyms of brutality and boorishness; such persons are constantly inflicting wounds which neither time nor medicine can ever heal.

12. Never be witty at another's expense; true generosity never dwelt in such a hear; it only wants the opportunity to become a cheat or a rogue.

13. If the body is tired, rest; if the brain is tired, sleep.

14. If the bowels are loose, lie down in a warm bed, remain there, and eat nothing until you are well.

15. If an action of the bowels does not occur at the usual hour, eat not an atom until they do act, at least for thirty-six hours; meanwhile drink largely of cold water or hot teas, and exercise in the open air to the extent of a gentle perspiration, and keep this up till things are righted; this one suggestion, if practiced, would save myriads of lives every year, both in the city and country.

16. The three best medicines in the world are warmth, abstinence and repose. Hull's Journal of Health.

A LITTLE girl of ours had been trying to learn the alphabet and succeeded very well in remembering A, I, S, (the 'crooked letter') and O. Soon after having recited her lesson she came running to her papa with her book containing the alphabet, and pointing to Q, said, "See, papa, O has got a tail!"

"POOR Mr. N——" said a country dame of a recent deceased neighbor, who was overthrift, "he always saved his salt and lost his pork."

"Yes, and now the salt has lost its savor," replied a friend.

AN exchange paper speaks of the sins of the administration. After a general view of the case, we conclude the greatest sins are sins of commission.

The circulation of the blood is not suspended, though it moves in vein.

"Too much of a good thing," as the cat said when she fell into the milk-pail.

Declaration of Homestead.
Persons wishing to procure a correct legal form for making out a Declaration of Homestead, as required by the Act of the last Legislature, with the acknowledgement attached thereto, will find printed blanks, on application to the KNIGHT'S LANDING NEWS OFFICE. By filling out these blanks themselves, parties will be subject to no other expense than the fees for acknowledgement and record.

WOODLAND.—Since the County Seat was located at this point, there has been a very marked improvement in the appearance of the town; business of all kinds has centered there, and buildings are going up as if by magic. Messrs. Freeman & Barber—the pioneer merchants of the town—are doing a thriving business, and the neighboring farmers can obtain at their establishment everything from a needle to a steam engine. By next week the new Steam Flouring Mill will be in operation; and there is also a good Livery Stable, some half dozen stores, two Hotels, a couple of Blacksmith shops, one Wagon shop, one Drug Store, and other places of business which complete a thriving inland town. Everything has an appearance of permanence, such as is uncommon to California towns—many of the buildings being of brick, and substantially built. In the center the town towers up above all surrounding objects, the majestic Hesperian College, a monument to the enterprise and christian progress of the surrounding district. The bridge on Cache creek which connects Woodland with Knight's Landing, and also water navigation to Sacramento and San Francisco, will be completed in a few days; making the distance from here less than eight miles. When the bridge is completed, and good roads opened to and from it on both sides of the creek, a new avenue of trade will be opened which will tend materially in making Woodland the permanent county seat of Yolo county.

RACES.—The quarter race on Saturday last, at Cacheville, between Mr. Adams' Black Colt and Mr. White's Emigrant Dick, for $1,000 a side, attracted a large crowd of sportsmen and spectators. The betting was lively, and each party backed their favorite liberally. The horses got an even start at about 2 P. M., and ran through the quarter stretch, and come out so near even that the judges declared it a draw race, and both racers and betters had to draw their stakes, the parties we presume feeling that they had each lost time and talent by the operation, made another—impromptu—race to be run the next day, for $500 a side, between Mr. Adams' Stallion, and Mr. Russell's William Monroe; distance, 350 yards, which resulted in Russell's—the William Monroe—horse, winning easily by forty feet. There is to be another race run between the same parties on to-day (Saturday) between Mr. Adams' horse, White Nose, and Mr. Russell's mare, Weasel, for $1,000 a side. Much sport is anticipated.

NEW PUBLICATION.—We are in receipt of the last number of the California Law Journal, a weekly literary review, published in San Francisco, by Wm. H. R. Wood. The work is a valuable addition to our California literature, and is indispensable to every lawyer and business man. We trust the enterprise will receive the liberal support it evidently deserves.

NEW GOODS.—J. & J. W. Baldwin have just received a large and extensive addition to their stock of goods, which were carefully selected by Mr. B. at San Francisco. Everything needed by farmers can be procured there as cheap as at any retail establishment in the State.

DRUG STORE.—Dr. F. Morse, late of Vernon, Sutter county, is now permanently located at this place, and opened a Drug Store, which will be found a benefit to our citizens.

FAVORS.—J. W. Sullivan of San Francisco, the pioneer News Agent, has our thanks for full files of Atlantic papers; also the Illustrated London News and Harper's Pictorial.

HESPERIAN.—The Hesperian for this month has come to hand, and contains as usual, patterns and general reading matter. We would advise all families to subscribe for it.

In our next number we shall publish the full proceedings of the Teachers' Institute, held at Woodland on the 23d, 24th and 25th ultimo.

Capture of an Insane Man.

Joseph Hatch, the insane man, who it will be remembered jumped overboard from the steamer Antelope on her upward trip from San Francisco about two months ago, and wandered in the Tules for several days and nights, until found by his relations and induced to return to his home, has since that time showed increased symptoms of insanity; his mania was that there was a number of men who sought his life, which he was determined to defend to the last extremity. Under this delusion he had fortified himself in his room; surrounding the walls on the inside with sacks of flour, piled one on the other, except the door, which he had loop-holed for to shoot through. Here, armed with a revolver, two pitch forks and a number of infernal machines, ingeniously invented by himself, with fuse attached, and made of tin and lead and filled with powder, old iron, nails, &c., he awaited the attack of his supposed enemies. It became evident to his friends that his insanity was on the increase, and on Tuesday last they procured an order from the County Judge for his arrest. Deputy Sheriff Rahm proceeded with a posse on Thursday night to take him; but he being fully on the alert, and the party small, it was deemed prudent to postpone until Friday morning, at which time the Sheriff, with eight determined men, proceeded to the capture. The insane man met them as though his life depended on the issue. He shot three times at his captors without effect, and then threw one of his bomb shells among them, which exploded under his own dog, making a report like a cannon, and sending poor Rover endways. While this was going on in front, a party were making an opening to his fortification from behind, which effected, they rushed on him from behind and secured him. On searching his person they found he had prepared himself by covering over his breast with the blade of a spade, a large piece of sheet-iron and about one hundred newspapers beneath, making a perfect ball-proof coating, besides on his person was several bars of iron with which to defend himself to the last. Deputy Sheriff Rahm proceeded to Woodland with his charge in irons, where he will undergo an examination preparatory to going to Stockton.

FINE STOCK.—Among the sights on view in our Stock-stables, we have had the pleasure of looking at Young Gray Eagle, owned by J. M. Garoutte, Esq., of Cache Creek, an animal of which our stock-raisers may well be proud. Young Gray Eagle is one of the best Bulwer colts in the State, and shows more of the points of old Gray Eagle than any horse of that stock in the country; in other words, he has the size and form, with the pure undefiled blood which makes the race-horse and roadster.

COLLECTOR OF YOLO.—George D. Fiske of Woodland, has been appointed by the Federal Collector, Malby, of the Fifth Collection District, as Deputy Collector of Yolo county. Yolo constitutes the Seventh Division of the Fifth District.—Union.

The selection of Mr. Fiske is a very good one, as he is a competent business man, and his appointment will give general satisfaction.

FOOT RACE.—The foot race between Selaya and Carr, announced for last Sunday, drew over 2,000 persons. At tap of drum Carr started and ran over the distance, Selaya refusing to go. The $1,000 was awarded to Carr. The Mexicans and Spaniards, who had heavy bets on Selaya, are greatly excited, believing that he was bought off. It is thought an attempt will be made to assassinate Selaya, as some of his backers had threatened to kill him if he failed.

AN UPSET.—An accident happened on Tuesday morning last to a barge loaded with hay, which had just arrived at the levee from Knight's Landing. The barge was loaded to its utmost capacity. For the purpose of discharging the cargo, a plank was run to the bank, and a man climbed up on the hay to remove the upper tier of bales. The barge, being top heavy, began to roll, and giving a lurch she tossed overboard twenty-five or thirty bales of the fodder, which was not made a bit more marketable by the immersion.—Bee.

THE steamer Oregon, of the new line to Mexico, is advertised to sail from Folsom street wharf for Mexico on the morning of the 15th inst. She will touch at Cape St. Lucas and La Paz in Lower California, Mazatlan in Sinaloa, and Guaymas in Sonora. Henceforth she will make monthly trips to and fro.

BY OVERLAND TELEGRAPH.

The following dispatches are from the Sacramento Union of Nov. 4th:

NEW YORK, Nov. 3rd.—Two British and rebel steamers called the Minha and Scotia have been captured. The vessels and cargoes are valued at a million dollars.

It was reported at Port Royal that the rebel ram was coming down the river from Savannah.

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—The brig Baron De Castine has arrived, and reports that on Oct. 29th, she was captured by the pirate Alabama, and liberated on giving a bond for $6,000, payable to the President of the Confederate States, 30 days after a peace shall be declared.

Among other vessels captured by the Alabama was the ship Tonawanda, from Philadelphia to Liverpool, and released on giving a bond for $80,000.

The Captain of one of the vessels captured was informed by several officers of the Alabama that their next destination was New York, as they meant to throw a few shells into that city. He represents the Alabama as very formidable.

The ship Lafayette, having a British Consular certificate as protection, had also been captured and burned by her.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The Herald's dispatch says the rebels have been driven from Philomont, Loudon county, but have a large force between there and Snicker's Gap.

A Purcellville dispatch, dated Nov. 1st, says:

There is a large rebel force in the Shenandoah Valley just beyond the Gap. Cannonading has been heard in that direction. It was supposed that Bayard's and Stuart's cavalry were engaged, as Stuart passed through the Gap the day previous with several thousand cavalry and four pieces of artillery, encamped at Union, and yesterday passed down the valley.

A Washington special dispatch to the Herald, dated Nov. 3d, says:

A scouting party in the direction of Dumfries, Va., is reported to have met a body of rebel cavalry seven miles this side of that place, and was compelled to return. They, however, obtained information that rebel reinforcements were constantly arriving at Warrenton.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Nov. 3.—The propeller Bay State, with six passengers and a crew of 16 men, which left here for Ogdensburg last night, was lost in a terrific gale during the night. The beach for some distance is strewn with portions of the cargo and wreck. It is feared that all on board were lost. The vessel and cargo were valued at $40,000.

As far as heard from, six schooners have been driven ashore in this vicinity.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—The Washington Star says:

"Last night the advance of the Army of the Potomac, under Buraside and Porter, doubtless bivouacked upon the line of the Alexandria and Winchester turnpike, from Upperville three miles in front of Ashby's Gap, down to Middleburg, a distance of ten miles. Their cavalry must have halted for the night very near if not on the line of the Manassas Gap railroad, somewhere between Front Royal and Thoroughfare Gap."

Sigel's force, which took up its line of march early yesterday, must have advanced upon the same railroad to Thoroughfare Gap ere nightfall, if not beyond that point, while another division of the army in front of Washington, under Sickles, at the same time, was doubtless advancing in the rear of Sigel, and at night encamped within supporting distance of him. Such we judge, from our knowledge of the county, roads, etc., to necessarily have been the movements of the army east of the Blue Ridge, yesterday.

The march of Gen. Sickles' division yesterday from before Alexandria almost to the extreme front reflects great credit upon it. Up to half past two we have not been able to learn that the enemy had appeared in front of Sigel's command in any force. We would have known the fact had they ventured an attack on our forces in that quarter this morning. We think it clear that Lee's flank has been turned.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Rear-Admiral Dupont, in communicating to the Department the circumstances attending the capture of the British steamers Scotia, Angela and Auehita, and the destruction of the Minho, says the crew of the Scotia were in a state of intoxication and were put in irons. The Angela was almost out of coal. This is the same vessel which attempted to enter Charleston in September. Being headed off she succeeded in making her escape through darkness.

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—It is reported that Gen. Banks will have eight regiments of infantry, three batteries of artillery, and one regiment of cavalry, as part of his proposed Texan expedition.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The Herald has a special dispatch dated Wheatland, Va., Nov. 2d, which says:

Gen. McClellan reconnoitered the enemy from the front, this afternoon. Gen. Pleasanton's cavalry, supported by a brigade of Doubleday's division, drove the rebels from their position, they contesting the ground with considerable spirit. Jackson and Longstreet are just beyond Snicker's gap with a large force. The troops are in excellent condition and eager for battle.

HARPER'S FERRY, Nov. 2.—No enemy opposed our advance until it reached Snickersville, when they retreated to the western side. As our column reached the crest of the hill a body of rebel cavalry, one battery, and two brigades of infantry emerged from the woods in the direction of Winchester, but they retreated when fire was opened on them. It is evident they intended to dispute the possession of Snicker's Gap, but were about an hour behind time. The impression seems to be general that there will be a battle to-morrow.

BLOOMFIELD, Va., Nov. 3—7 P. M.—The advance of the Army of the Potomac up the Valley, on the east side of the Blue Ridge, is being pushed forward with all dispatch. Gen. Pleasanton occupied Upperville this afternoon after a spirited engagement of four hours. We had several wounded but none killed. Three rebels were killed. Upperville is four miles from Ashby's Gap, which the rebels will endeavor to hold. Our troops now hold all the gaps up to Ashby's, with every prospect of having that to-morrow. The army is now in better condition than ever before, with the exception of the want of more cavalry. The want of that is greatly felt.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—To day the President receives no visitors, being at work on the Message.

Four rebel mail carriers were arrested yesterday while attempting to cross into Virginia. They had a large mail, destined for Alabama, Virginia and other rebel States, besides late Northern papers.

FAIRFAX, Va., Nov. 4.—Information from the front says, our cavalry, under Gen. Stahl drove the enemy out of Thoroughfare Gap, and Gen. Schurz's division took possession of it. No enemy remained in sight at dusk last evening. The other divisions of Sigel's force, under Stahl and Von Steinwehr, were well up the railroad, within supporting distance of Schurz. Our cavalry also hold Beckland's Mills, where recently the rebels had a pretty strong force. Bayard's cavalry holds Aldie and the country between that point and Sigel's advance. The rebel force at Catlett's Station and Warrenton had not been changed up to yesterday morning. Union people who have just come in, report 5,000 rebel infantry and 2,000 cavalry, with some artillery, at the latter place.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The prize steamer Angela, which was captured while attempting to run the blockade of Charles ton has arrived. She was loaded with arms and ammunition.

CAIRO, Nov. 4.—Prisoners just returned to Memphis from Little Rock, Ark., report but 500 rebel troops there, the main body having gone to reinforce other points.

South and east of Memphis, guerrillas are becoming very troublesome. They stop their victims and demand their money and personal effects. If any remonstrance is made, the persons are shot. Three citizens of Point Pleasant, Mo., were thus murdered a few days since.

St. Louis, Nov. 4.—Additional details have been received of the recent rout of Burbridge's rebel force at Bolling's Mill, Southeastern Mo. Several rebel officers were captured. Our loss was trivial. The rebels were chased from Pittman's Ferry to within five miles of Pocahontas. The killed, wounded and captured of the enemy number 236.

The prisoners say their orders were to make a forced march to Springfield and fall on the rear of Schofield's army, and then attack Springfield and cut off the supplies.

Col. Lazear, in command of the Federal troops, afterwards attacked the enemy's position, drove them across the river, and followed several miles, making important captures. The enemy lost 20 killed, 40 horses and 80 stand of arms.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5th.—Full returns from this city show a total majority for Seymour, Democrat, for Governor, of over 31,000. The Tribune concedes his election.

In New Jersey the Democrats carry the lower House of the Legislature, and probably the Senate. They will have from ten to twelve majority on joint ballot, which secures the election of a United States Senator in place of J. R. Thompson, Democrat, deceased. They have also elected their Governor by 6,000 to 8,000 majority. Rogers, Perry and Steele, all Democrats, are certainly elected Congressmen.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 5.—Toel Parker, Democrat, candidate for Governor, is undoubtedly elected by 10,000 majority, a Democratic gain of 19,000 over the last Governor's vote. The delegation to Congress stands one Republican to four Democrats.

MILWAUKIE, Wis., Nov. 5.—The Democrats yesterday elected two Congressmen; the Republicans three. One district is yet to hear from. John F. Potter is defeated.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 5.—The returns from 125 towns give John A. Andrew, Republican candidate for Governor, 64,450; Gen. Devens, "People's Union" candidate, 48,380. Andrew's majority in the State will be about 20,000. The Senate will stand 34 Republicans to 6 People's Union men. The House stands 179 Republicans to 34 People's Union men. Only 27 towns are yet to be heard from.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 5.—The Congressional delegation elected yesterday stands eight Democrats to 5 Republicans. One member is to be elected by the State at large, and the result is in doubt.

LEAVENWORTH, Kansas, Nov. 5th.—Scattering returns from this State indicate the election of the Republican ticket. Wilder, Republican, for Congress, is probably elected.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 5.—The radical emancipation ticket in this county is undoubtedly elected. Frank Blair's friends claim his election, but the radicals think soldiers' vote will elect Samuel Knox. In the Second district Henry T. Blow, radical Republican, is undoubtedly elected. The returns from the interior are meager, but the emancipation ticket is probably elected.

THE
Knights Landing News.

A WASHINGTON correspondent of the Providence Press thus humorously describes the manufacture of news in the federal city:

News from the front is very slow in coming in, and the inevitable consequences is a fight of huge canards, every afternoon, about the time when quid nunces, having dined, begin to drop in at Willard's and enquire one of another, "Have you anything new?" To which interrogatory the customary answer is, "No I ain't, have you?" To this quid nunc No. 1 replies, "Well, I heard—I don't know how true it is—'tis merely a rumor, I hope—I reckon there's nothing in it—its rough if it should be confirmed—but the story is generally doubted—such stories are generally exaggerated, you know—the Government is trying to suppress it—I heard this morning from a clerk in 1st Comptroller's office that a messenger who had just come from the Pay Department, and who told him that a Paymaster had just come up from Fredericksburg, who had seen there a soldier who conversed with an intelligent contraband who had lately escaped from the rebels, and the intelligent contraband says that he was well acquainted with Stonewall Jackson's servant Jim, and that Jim had told him (the intelligent contraband) that he (Stonewall Jackson) had told him (Jim) that he (Stonewall Jackson) was going to get between Gens. Pope and Butler, with a force of 250,000 men, and surround them both, and then march on Washington, by way of Block Island!" "O Lord!" says quid nunc No. 2, "that's bad news indeed. Why don't the President declare a policy?" And then, with reflective countenances, they both repair to an inner apartment, and pump up something through a straw.

"Mr. Squigsby, what business are you engaged in?"
"Me, I deal in stock."
"What kind of stock?"
"Why, laughing stock."

PEOPLE with one leg in the grave are often very long in putting the other in. They seem like some birds, to repose best on one leg.

If a school girl asks you to jump the rope, don't parley and equivocate—be right up and down about it.

A MAN with a scolding wife, when inquired of respecting his occupation, said he kept a hot-house.

"You look as though you were beside yourself," said a wag to a top standing by a donkey.

WHEN a novel writer becomes excited, what should he do? Compose himself of course.

THE undersigned has several Thousand Acres of Land to Lease or Rent to parties wishing to cultivate. The land is of the richest and most fertile in the Sacramento Valley, and produces the finest crops of wheat, barley and oats in Yolo county. The land is all under good board fence, and it will be let in quantities to suit.

All improvements put on the land by cultivators or renters, will be taken at their appraised valuation at the expiration of the term of the lease.

The land will be rented at a cash rent of $3 00 per acre per annum, or one-fourth of the crop, at the option of the renter, with the reserved privilege of buying at an agreed price.

Parties wishing to make division fences, the lumber will be furnished free for the purpose.

When parties Rent the land, the pasturage is reserved after the crops are secured.

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS original color. It prevents the hair from falling off. It cures baldness and removes all dandruff from the head. It allays all irritation of the scalp. It cools and refreshes the head, and imparts to the hair a healthy, lively appearance.

P. S.—The properties which remove dandruff and scruff from the head, allay irritation and free the scalp from humors, render this article invaluable as a lotion in all cutaneous affections, such as Itch, Rash, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Ringworms, bites and stings of insects, shingles, and all eruptions of the skin, especially that caused by Poison Oak.
