A rash wager has ruined many a man financially, but this wager ruined a man physically. He was proud of his strength and wagered that he could lift a ship's anchor. He won the wager, but the strain was too great for him and he broke down in health from that day. There's many a man or woman who undertakes too great a task for the strength they possess. They won't give up, so they break down. The woman drudges in the house, the man toils in the store. They don't break down by one tremendous strain, but by a steady over-draft on their strength. People who are run-down in health, deficient in vitality, worn-out or worked out, will find new life and strength in the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and so enables nourishment of the body. It purifies and enriches the blood, and builds up the body with sound muscle and solid flesh. "When I commenced your medicine my health was completely broken down," writes Mrs. Minnie Lampman, of Porcupine, Wis. my nerves were so bad I was almost in hysterics. I was treated by two doctors, but all to no avail, for I was no better. I felt dreadfully discouraged, but thought I would try once more to find relief. I began to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription.' My Country, 'Tis of Thee. My country, 'tis of thee, Sweet land of liberty, Of thee I sing; Land where my fathers died, Land of the pilgrims' pride, From every mountain side Let freedom ring.

My native country, thee, Land of the noble free, Thy name I love; I love thy rocks and rills, Thy woods and templed hills; My heart with rapture thrills Like that above.

Let music swell the breeze, And ring from all the trees Sweet freedom's song; Let mortal tongues awake; Let all that breathe partake; Let rocks their silence break, The sound prolong.

Our fathers' God, to Thee, Author of liberty, To Thee we sing; Long may our land be bright With Freedom's holy light; Protect us by Thy might, Great God, our King. -Rev. S. F. Smith.

It is related that the Dowager Empress of Russia once saw on her husband's table a document regarding a political prisoner. On the margin Alexander III. had written: "Pardon impossible; to be sent to Siberia." The Czarina took up the pen, and, striking out the semicolon after "impossible," put it before the word. Then the indorsement read: Pardon; impossible to be sent to Siberia." The Czar let it stand.

Travelers have noted that in the Bismarck archipelago cats without tails are very numerous. The explanation as given in the World Today is curious. The natives of the islands have a superstitious belief that remnants of food falling into the hands of an enemy enable him to cast a spell over the eaters of the meal at which the remnants were left. Now, the natives value their cats less as pets than as a convenient source of fresh meat. It follows that thefts of cats are frequent, or rather were frequent until some genius evolved the happy scheme of cutting off their tails and storing them away in a safe place, "For," said he, "if a thief should steal my cat and eat it, an incantation muttered over its residue will make the miscreant so sick that he will be sorry he ever tasted stolen cat's flesh." It was an idea worthy of the great chancellor himself, and the humble, brown Bismarckian, in pursuing the blood and iron policy which it entailed, was, like him, serenely indifferent to bloodshed, pain and caterwaul-

Tree and Plant Leaves.

The general arrangement of the leaves on limbs and stalks of trees and space to prevent one leaf from interfering with another. And not only are leaves so arranged as to exist independently of each other, but in a general way they have taken upon themselves the forms best adapted to secure the maximum of sunlight as it is showered upon them in different latitudes. At the equator, where the sun's rays are vertical, we find large flat leaves like various species of the cactus. Farther north, where sunlight strikes at an angle, small leaves and pine "needles" are found. Then again note the peculiarity of the Australian gum tree. Instead of exposing their broad faces to the sun the edges only are so turned. Were it otherwise the sun would rob them of all their moisture, it being a well known fact that the gum tree grows in the driest region on earth.

The Bald Dr. Smith. While Dr. Theobald Smith was a lecturer on bacteriology in the medical department of the Columbian university a boy came to him with a message from a relative who was visiting in Washington. When the boy saw the doctor he put the note back in his pocket, saying, "It's another Dr. Smith the

"Let me see the name on the envelope," said the doctor curiously. "That is my name. The note is for me."

"But I was told," replied the boy, "to give it to the bald Dr. Smith." "Oh, you got turned around a little on the name, that's all," replied the doctor, reaching for the note.

And it took considerable argument to convince the boy he was the right man.

Every one of us casts a shadow. There hangs about us a sort of penumbra-a strange indefinable something which we call personal influence—which has its effect on every other life on which it falls. It goes with us wherever we go. It is not something we can have when we want to have it and then lay aside at will, as we lay aside a garment. It is something that always pours out from our life, like light from a lamp, like heat from a flame, like per-
