New user helper

As someone who helps new editors learn, I want to find non-minor, damaging edits to articles by good-faith new users, so that I can engage via constructive review (and improve retention).

Acceptance Criteria

- I can identify edits matching all five parameters (articles, not minor, new user, damaging, good faith).
- Doing so is easy and accomplished without having to hunt and correlate hard to read symbols.
- I experience only a small number of false positives, which would erode my faith in the system.

Vandal fighter

As a vandalism fighter who understands the special needs of new users, I want to quickly and easily find the most damaging edits by vandals while avoiding good-faith newbs, so that I can do my job without causing harm. Once I've addressed the most high-priority edits, I will turn to less obvious candidates.

Acceptance Criteria

- I can rapidly identify criteria that match all three parameters (new user, damaging, good faith).
- Doing so is easy and accomplished without a lot of hunting and correlating of hard to read symbols.
- I want to be able to address the most egregious and obvious damage quickly, with very few false positives. After that, I'll work my way through less obvious candidates, and have more tolerance of false positives.

Welcomer

As a member of the welcoming committee, find new users who have made constructive contributions so I can thank them.

Acceptance Criteria

- I can identify edits matching all three parameters (new user, damaging, good faith).
- Doing so is easy and accomplished without having to hunt and correlate hard to read symbols.
- I experience only a small number of false positives, which would erode my faith in the system.

How to support repeated use?

Bookmarking. Users can keep the URL with a set of filters to get to a specific filtered view

Links from elsewhere. Other pages such as the Teahouse can include a link to a specific filtered view of interest to newcomers

Supporting autocompletion.

Users can quickly add filters by typing part of their name.
