PREFACE.

The earliest issue of the Official Register—or Register of Officials and Agents, as it was at first called—was published in 1816. This issue was prepared under the supervision of the Secretary of State, to whom the duty was assigned by a resolution of Congress approved April 27 of that year, and who continued to publish the Register biennially until 1861, when an act of Congress, approved March 2, transferred it to the Department of the Interior. The Secretary of the Interior supervised the issue for 1861 and each succeeding issue up to and including that of 1905. The law governing the publication of the Official Register, which had been amended from time to time, was again revised in 1895 and amended in 1902 and 1904.

In 1906 an act approved June 7 transferred the duty of publishing the Register to the Director of the Census. This issue is the second which has been prepared under the act of 1906.

The growth of the Register in size and number of names contained was approximately at the rate of 50 per cent in each decade for all issues previous to 1907. This is illustrated by the following table:

YEAR.	Number of volumes.	Total pages.	Approximate total names.	Total index (pages).	Total cost.	Printer

1907.....	2	1,504	306,141		25,656.62	Government Printing Office.

With the 1905 issue it was obvious that in both size and cost the limit under the old form of publication had been reached—that the form of presentation must of necessity be altered radically so as to secure a material reduction. This was effected, in 1907, by adopting the pattern of the ordinary directory and similar reference volumes designed to contain a great amount of information in comparatively small space, and by the omission of substitute letter carriers in the Postal Service and of temporary employees of all departments whose terms of service were less than six months. The same policy has been carried out in the present issue.

The first volume of the Register for 1909 is composed of five sections: 1. Legislative. 2. Executive—a detailed statement of officers or others receiving at least $2,000 per annum, followed by two tabular statements, one of which presents the number of persons in the Federal service at Washington by departments and bureaus, and the other summarizes employees by states from which appointed, showing the aggregate compensation. 3. Judicial. 4. Directory of all persons employed in the United States Government, except those in the Postal Service. 5. List of all vessels belonging to the United States. Two appendices present the pay tables employed for the officers of the Army and Navy and a digest of all the laws relating to the Official Register since 1816.

The second volume is devoted to the Postal Service. It is divided into six sections: 1. Directory of the employees of the Post-Office Department in Washington. These names appear also in the Directory presented in Volume I and are repeated in Volume II as a matter of convenience, in order that names of all employees of the Post-Office Department may be found in one volume. 2. Postal Service of the United States—a list of all the post-offices arranged alphabetically under states, with the names of the postmasters and other employees, if any. In this section, under each post-office, will be found grouped all persons employed at that office of whatever grade, with appropriate information. 3. Railway Mail Service. The employees in this service are arranged alphabetically. 4. Mail messenger service. 5. Mail contractors. 6. Special mail service.

The total number of names included in Volume I is 146,107; in Volume II, 223,958, of which 178,467 names are comprised in the Postal Service, 15,751 in the Railway Mail Service, 2,019 in the Special Mail Service, 7,650 are mail messengers, and 20,071 are mail contractors. The aggregate, therefore, of names presented in the Official Register for 1909 is 370,065.

Increasing difficulty is experienced, with every issue of the Register, in complying with the law which requires that the information contained in the Official Register shall be gathered on the 1st of July of each year in which a new Congress meets, and that the publication shall be issued on the 1st day of December. It is extremely difficult to obtain information as of July 1 for more than 370,000 persons scattered all over the United States, in Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the Philippine Islands in time to permit preparation of copy, printing, and binding within the five-month period allowed by law. In contending with these difficulties in the present compilation, the Director of the Census desires to acknowledge the friendly cooperation of the officials of the various departments. Wherever the clerical force available proved insufficient to prepare the information within reasonable time, clerks were detailed from the Bureau of the Census to executive departments and bureaus. This policy resulted in securing returns many weeks in advance of what otherwise would have been feasible, and made possible, for the first time, the publication of Volume II within the time fixed by law.

Director of the Census.
